CURRENT LAW

A COMPLETE ENCYCLOPÆDIA
OF NEW LAW

VOLUME V.

ABATEMENT TO INDICTMENT

GEORGE FOSTER LONGSDORF, EDITOR
WALTER A. SHUMAKER, ASSOCIATE

ST. PAUL, MINN.
KEEFE-DAVIDSON COMPANY
1906.

TOPICAL INDEX.

Use the index in your latest number. Ignore all previous indexes in volumes and numbers. The latest index cites by volume and page to the latest treatment of any subject.

You do not have to study classification. This index contains the name of every subject you are familiar with and not merely the titles of our articles.

The page citation at the beginning of each article directs to the particular subdivision wanted. There you find its latest treatment and also a volume and page citation to the same points in earlier volumes.

Black figures refer to volumes; light figures to pages.

This index is revised and reprinted every month. Remember to start with the latest index and you cannot go astray or miss anything.

A.

C.

D.

F.

G.

H.

I.

M.

N.

O.

P.

S.

T.

CURRENT LAW.

(Copyright, 1905, by Keefe-Davidson Company.)

VOLUME V. SEPTEMBER, 1905. NUMBER 1.

ABANDONMENT, see latest topical index.

ABATEMENT AND REVIVAL.

The scope of this topic excludes criminal prosecutions,[1] bills of revivor,[2] revival of judgments[3] or of statute-barred causes of action,[4] and the abatement of various writs for defects therein.[5]

§ 1. Causes for abatement.[5a]—The pendency of another action between the same parties,[6] for the same cause,[7] and where a complete remedy can be secured in one action,[8] is ground for abatement. But the action first commenced is not

1. Indictment and Prosecution, 4 C. L. 1.
2. Equity, 3 C. L. 1210.
3. Judgments, 4 C. L. 287.
4. Limitation of Actions, 4 C. L. 445.
5. See Attachment, 3 C. L. 353, and like titles.

5a. See 3 C. L. 1.

6. The parties to suits for the same cause of action, in different states, must be the same to cause a stay. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Milling & Export Co., 135 F. 144. A plaintiff cannot be stayed in the prosecution of his action pending a decision of another action to which he is not a party or privy. Sammons v. Parkhurst, 46 Misc. 128, 93 N. Y. S. 1063. A plea by one of two defendants, of former suit pending, cannot be sustained to a bill to restrain a nuisance and for damages, where the former suit is by part only of complainants and is for an injunction only, without claim of damages. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 658.

7. An injunction suit against trespass is no impediment or bar to subsequent expropriation proceedings or the exercise of rights of property acquired thereunder. Xavier Realty v. Louisiana R. & Nav. Co. [La.] 38 So. 427. The fact that a criminal action for a violation of the prohibitory liquor law is pending is no good reason for postponing the hearihg of a civil action to perpetually enjoin the maintenance of a nuisance under the same law. Cowdery v. State [Kan.] 80 P. 953. The service of summons and complaint by an infant plaintiff, by his father as next friend, to which defendant's demurrer that plaintiff could sue only through a guardian ad litem, defendant having taken no proceedings to compel the filing of pleadings or to dismiss, (Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4972) does not bar a subsequent action for the same cause by a guardian ad litem. Harris v. Fidalgo Mill. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 289. The owner of land after having brought an action of trespass for damages for the construction and operation of a railroad to a certain date, may subsequently bring another for the continuance, from the date of the former action, of the unlawful acts and for the additional injury of interference with his drainage, since the date of the first suit. Becker v. Lebanon & M. St. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 367. A subcontractor may prosecute a petition for a mechanic's lien simultaneously with an action at law against the contractor, in which a part of the contract price still in the hands of the owner for the satisfaction of the lien is attached. Hunt v. Darling [R. I.] 59 A. 398. The right of a receiver of an insolvent national bank, under the national bank act, to administer the affairs of such bank, does not preclude depositors from maintaining a suit against the directors for negligently permitting its officers to loan the bank's assets in violation of such act. Boyd v. Schneider [C. C. A.] 131 F. 223. An action to determine the validity of a paving contract and to enjoin further proceedings thereunder is not barred by the pendency of a suit against the city in the United States circuit court, to recover pay for part of the contract performed before its abandonment by mutual consent. Patterson v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1064. A second action on a note, in another jurisdiction, to recover a deficiency, is not barred by a suit to foreclose a mortgage securing the note, in which the property was sold and the proceeds applied on the note, but no formal deficiency has yet been rendered. Foreclosure in Montana and second suit in Utah. Franklin v. Conrad-Stanford Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 737. A suit for separate maintenance and custody of children, brought by abated by an action commenced later, between the same parties, in relation to the same subject, in the same or any other court.[9] The identity of the two actions must be made to appear, and is to be determined by an inspection of the records.[10] It will not be inferred that the former action was based on testimony similar to that of the second one, but the evidence must be presented.[11]

If discontinued or otherwise terminated, the suit is no longer pending, and is no further impediment to the maintenance of a second action for the same cause.[12] But, although voluntarily withdrawn, a former suit will prevent the commencement of another suit for the same cause, unless the accrued costs have been paid.[13]

The pendency of a suit in equity is not ground of defense to an action at law. Since the jurisdiction of equity is limited to cases where the law does not afford a complete and adequate remedy, two causes, one at law and one in equity, are ex necessitate, so dissimilar that the pendency of one cannot be pleaded in abatement of the other.[14] But a judge may refuse to proceed with a chancery case, while an action at law between the same parties, involving the same subject-matter, is pending on writ of error;[15] and where a bill is pending in equity to regulate the crossing of a highway over a railroad, a party defendant therein cannot file a petition to regulate the crossing.[16]

The pendency of a suit in a state court is not a bar to one on the same cause of action in a Federal court,[17] and it is immaterial that a counterclaim is set up in the state court, it not appearing that the same defense is not available in the Federal court.[18] But where one of the courts has secured possession or dominion of specific property, the suit in the co-ordinate jurisdiction should be stayed until the wife, in which the husband filed a cross complaint, praying for a divorce, does not preclude him from bringing an independent suit for divorce, after his cross complaint has been stricken out, with leave to answer or take such other action as he might deem advisable. Cupples v. Cuppies [Colo.] 80 P. 1039. A plea in abatement of former suit pending, in an action for breach of contract by failure to promptly deliver telegram, is properly overruled where the two causes of action are based on the failure to deliver different telegrams. Test is would proof of one sustain other. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Crumpton [Ala.] 36 So. 517.

8. Becker v. Lebanon & M. St. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 367.

9. Flint v. Powell, 18 Colo. App. 425, 72 P. 60.

10. Becker v. Lebanon & M. St. R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 367.

11. Conner v. Pozo [La.] 38 So. 454.

12. Discontinuance by consent. Lowndes v. Fishburne [S. C.] 48 S. E. 264. Dismissed on motion of defendants and stricken from the docket. Grubbs v. Ferguson, 136 N. C. 60, 48 S. E. 551.

13. Unless plaintiff files an affidavit of inability to do so, from proverty, and he cannot by an offer of payment, or by payment to the officers of the court, defeat defendant's right to insist on his plea. Wright v. Jett, 120 Ga. 995, 48 S. E. 345. Compare Costs, 3 C. L. 940; Stay of Proceedings, 4 C. L. 1549.

14. Risher v. Wheeling Roofing & Cornice Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1016.

15. Schmid v. Benzie Circuit Judge [Mich.] 101 N. W. 620.

16. Under Act June 7, 1901 (P. L. 531). In re Mifflinville Bridge, 209 Pa. 587, 58 A. 1072.

17. Boatmen's Bank of St. Louis v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650; German Sav. & L. Soc. v. Tull [C. C. A.] 136 F. 1; Franklin v. Conrad-Stanford Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 737. Suit in Federal court not barred by two suits in state courts for similar relief, all the suits being in personam and there being no conflict over property in custodia legis. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. Quinby [C. C. A.] 137 F. 882. A suit pending in a state court to set aside a mortgage on a vessel does not bar the assignee of the mortgage from proving the same against the fund in the admiralty court arising from the sale of the vessel for seamen's wages. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963. Proceedings for the removal of a member of a city fire department for failure to pay a bill of a creditor, as required by the ordinances and fire regulations of the city, during the pendency of bankruptcy proceedings involving the same indebtedness, were enjoined until the expiration of twelve months from the termination of the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Hicks, 133 F. 739. And where, after distress by a landlord, the tenant is adjudicated a bankrupt, the distress proceedings are stayed and the landlord required to submit his rights to the bankruptcy court. In re Lines, 133 F. 803. Jurisdiction of state courts over actions brought by the trustee of a bankrupt, to recover the value of property transferred as a preference, under the Federal bankrupt act. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

See extensive note 3 C. L. 3, n. 21, and see, also, note 47 C. C. A. 205.

18. Burk v. McCaffrey, 136 F. 696.

the proceedings in the court first obtaining jurisdiction are concluded, or ample time therefor has elapsed.[19]

If the subject-matter of the controversy has ceased to exist,[20] as by the bar of the statute of limitations[21] or otherwise, the suit will be dismissed.[22] A suit pending to set aside the judgment on which an action is brought is good cause for the postponement of the latter action.[23]

Death of a party[24] before judgment abates the action,[25] unless saved by statutory provisions.[26] If one of several joint defendants in an action at law dies, his death works a severance of parties defendant and an abatement as to the deceased defendant, and (unless plaintiff dismisses as to all but the administrator), the suit will proceed against the living defendants only;[27] or the plaintiff could maintain one action against the executors and another against the survivors;[28] but in equity proceedings, this technical common-law difficulty is avoided by separate decrees, in which, if it becomes necessary, the liability of the executors for costs can be adjusted in the same manner as if they had been sued in a separate action.[29] Generally, if the cause of action survives, the action is not abated by death,[30] nor in Tennessee by death, marriage, or other disability;[31] nor in Wisconsin by the occurrence of any event.[32] Proceedings in bankruptcy do not abate by the death of the alleged bankrupt after petition is filed and before adjudication;[33] nor does an action by a city on tax bills, against one who has conveyed her real estate in a mere dry or naked trust, and the trustee abate by the death of the trustee and a failure to revive against his successor.[34] But a cause of action for personal injuries abates at the death of the injured person, and merges in the cause of action for the death, which is then the only available remedy.[35] An order against a party deceased is not void but voidable, where at the time of entry the fact of the death did not appear of record.[36]

Where, after rendition of judgment against partners, one of them dies, an 19. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Morris [C. C. A.] 132 F. 945.

20. See 3 C. L. 7.

21. Where the appointment of an administrator is not completed until after an action for wrongful death has been brought, and two years have elapsed since the accident occurred, the action cannot be maintained and the cause is abated. Archdeacon v. Cincinnati Gas & Elec. Co., 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 45.

22. Action of common council in withdrawing issues from further controversy. Diefenderfer v. State [Wyo.] 80 P. 667. Suit depending on status of plaintiff as stockholder abates if in fact he ceases to have such status. State v. New Orleans Maritime & M. Exch., 112 La. 868, 36 So. 760.

23. Avocato v. Dell' Ara [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 444.

24. See 3 C. L. 7.

25. An action to enforce a lien on real estate for amounts accruing through the purchase of lands at tax sales (the conveyance being invalid and ineffectual to pass title), and subsequent payment of taxes to protect interests, abates on the death of plaintiff. Cooper v. Murphy [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 664. An action by the state to declare a nuisance and abate the keeping of a place for the sale of liquors, is abated by the death of defendant. Action under Rev. Codes 1899, § 7605. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58. On the death of the wife, who was joined with her husband as party defendant, because of inchoate dower and homestead interest, in an action to reform a mortgage, the action abates as to her. Thornton v. Scheussler, 140 Ala. 281, 37 So. 237.

26. Proceedings in rem against a steamship for damages for personal injury survive under the statutes of Pennsylvania. The City of Belfast, 135 F. 208. The Illinois abatement statute provides that the death of a sole complainant shall not abate the suit. Prouty v. Moss, 111 Ill. App. 536, citing Keefe v. Crawford, 92 Ill. App. 588.

27. Marcy v. Whallon, 115 Ill. App. 435.

28. Von Arnim v. American Tube Works [Mass.] 74 N. E. 680, citing Cowley v. Patch, 120 Mass. 137.

29. Von Arnim v. American Tube Works [Mass.] 74 N. E. 680.

30. Baldwin v. Rice, 44 Misc. 64, 89 N. Y. S. 738. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5234. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 272. Rich Grove Tp., Pulaski County v. Emmett [Ind.] 72 N. E. 543.

31. Shannon's Code, §§ 4568, 4569, 4575. Posey v. Posey [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 1.

32. Rev. St. 1898, § 2800. Fleming v. Ellison [Wis.] 102 N. W. 398.

33. In re Spalding, 134 F. 507.

34. City of Louisville v. Anderson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 573.

35. See Code, §§ 1490, 1491, 1498, 1499, 1500. Bolick v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 689.

36. Prouty v. Moss, 111 Ill. App. 536.

appeal may be prosecuted against the surviving partner;[37] but the personal representative of the deceased partner is a necessary party appellant.[38] In Indiana, on the death of any party to a judgment before appeal, an appeal may be taken by and notice served upon the persons in whose favor and against whom the action might have been revived, if death had occurred before judgment,[39] but only when the cause of action survives.[40]

Disability of a party, happening during the pendency of an action, is not ground for abatement, but the court should take necessary steps to protect the rights of such party.[41] An action brought by a female for damages for personal injuries is not abated by her marriage pending such action.[42]

The dissolution of a corporation,[43] or its consolidation with another,[44] does not abate an action brought by or against it, but an action may abate for the failure of a foreign corporation to comply with statutory conditions precedent to maintaining actions in the courts of a state.[45]

A misjoinder is ground for abatement.[46]

Jurisdiction.[47]—Lack of jurisdiction is ground for abatement,[48] the judgment on a plea to the jurisdiction being either that the writ abate or respondeat ouster. Under the statute of Texas, providing for bringing an action against two or more railroad companies operating in the state in case of damage to property shipped over their lines,[49] a plea to the jurisdiction, alleging that no part of the damage occurred on the line on which the court was situated, and that the allegations of the petition in that respect were false and fraudulent, for the purpose of conferring jurisdiction on the trial court, is a valid plea.[50] It is not ground for abatement that an action was brought against a corporation in a county where it had no office or agent, when a co-defendant is properly suable in such county.[51] Under the Wisconsin statute, giving the circuit court jurisdiction of actions against executors, when the county court cannot afford a remedy as adequate or efficient,[52] the determination by the circuit court that, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, it has jurisdiction, will not be disturbed unless clearly erroneous.[53]

37. Robertson v. Ford [Ind.] 74 N. E. 1.

38. Under § 2463, Burns' Ann. St. 1901. Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638.

39. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 648. Rich Grove Tp., Pulaski County v. Emmett [Ind.] 72 N. E. 543; Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638.

40. Cooper v. Murphy [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 664.

41. Code Civ. Proc. § 45. Simmons v. Kelsey [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1. See, also, Posey v. Posey [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 1; Fleming v. Ellison [Wis.] 102 N. W. 398.

42. Stevens v. Friedman [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 132.

43. In Michigan, after the annullment of its charter, a corporation continues in existence three years for the prosecution or defense of suits. Comp. Laws, § 8, ch. 230, p. 2627. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430. See 3 C. L. 8.

44. Where the petitioning corporation pending condemnation proceedings is consolidated with another, the consolidated corporation succeeds to all the rights, titles and estates of the petitioner, and can prosecute an appeal in its own name from the award of damages. Union Traction Co. v. Basey [Ind.] 73 N. E. 263.

45. Sec. 3, p. 235, ch. 125, Laws of 1901. Vickers v. Buck Stove & Range Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 160.

46. Code Civ. Proc. § 484, subd. 9 does not justify the joinder of a cause of action for unlawfully taking and converting a team and buggy and for an assault and battery committed on plaintiff while endeavoring to regain possession. Campbell v. Hallihan, 92 N. Y. S. 413. See 3 C. L. 8.

47. See 3 C. L. 8.

48. Birch v. King [N. J. Law] 59 A. 11; Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909; State Bank v. Thweatt, 111 Ill. App. 599. A pledgee of stock cannot on account of diverse citizenship sue the corporation in a Federal court for the appointment of a receiver, where the pledgor and corporation are citizens of the same state. Gorman-Wright Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 134 F. 363.

49. Act May 20, 1899 (Laws 1899, p. 214, c. 125). San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302.

50. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302.

51. Action for injury from the negligence of a servant which may be brought against master and servant jointly in the county where either resides and service had upon the other in the county where he resides. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 314. Indiana Nitroglycerin & Torpedo Co. v. Lippincott Glass Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 183.

52. Rev. St. 1898, § 3845, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 7, c. 5. Lindemann v. Rusk [Wis.] 104 N. W. 119.

§ 2. Raising objection; waiver.[54]—The want of necessary parties must be pleaded in abatement;[55] and also extension of time of payment, when it was by a transaction extraneous of the instrument in suit.[56] In Wyoming, an answer seems to be considered the appropriate medium for presenting issuable facts either in abatement or bar of the action;[57] misjoinder of parties or causes of action cannot be raised by demurrer in Iowa, but by motion;[58] and in South Carolina an oral demurrer at the trial will not raise the objection that the action does not survive.[59] Variance between the claim stated in an affidavit for an attachment and the demand set up in the declaration need not be pleaded in abatement, and a plea in abatement in such a case will be treated as a motion to quash the attachment.[60] Where all the facts relied upon by defendant, to show that no jurisdiction was obtained by the process, appear on the record, his remedy is to move for dismissal and not by plea in abatement.[61] Under a statutory provision requiring an abatement of any summons issued in an action for trespass on lands outside of the county, where only one of the counts in a declaration contravenes the statute, a plea in abatement will be limited to quashing the summons as to such count only; and the plaintiff can amend by striking out such count.[62]

An objection that a proceeding is prematurely brought is waived by counsel of respondent appearing and asking that his client's rights be adjudicated;[63] and so is the objection that a claim against decedent's estate was not presented by the proper person, by joining issue and going to trial without raising it.[64] Misjoinder is waived by the defendant, if complaint be not seasonably made in the manner prescribed.[65] And matter in abatement is waived by a hearing of the case on its merits before an auditor, without objection, and not being brought to the attention of the court until the close of the evidence at the trial.[66] But the question of the jurisdiction of the court over the subject-matter[67] and of the person[68] may be raised at any time, and the objection of jurisdiction of the person, when once raised, is not waived by going to trial on the merits afterward;[69] and want of jurisdiction of the subject-matter cannot be waived by defendant, by filing a plea in bar.[70] The plea in abatement must be promptly filed,[71] and comply with the statutes and rules and the rules of good pleading as to form and requisites.[72] New and distinct grounds for abatement cannot be set up by amend-

53. Lindemann v. Rusk [Wis.] 104 N. W. 119.

54. See 3 C. L. 8; also Pleading, 4 C. L. 980.

55. Donovan v. Twist, 93 N. Y. S. 990.

56. The American Home Circle v. Schumm, 111 Ill. App. 316.

57. A pleading regarded as an answer, though called a plea in abatement by the pleader. Tutty v. Ryan [Wyo.] 78 P. 657.

58. Code, §§ 3547, 3548, 3561. Citizens' State Bank v. Jess [Iowa] 103 N. W. 471.

59. Subd. 6, § 165, Code 1902. Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675.

60. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833.

61. Hilton v. Consumers' Can Co. [Va.] 48 S. E. 899.

62. Code 1896, § 4205. Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268.

63. State v. Weston [Mont.] 78 P. 487.

64. In re Morgan's Estate [Or.] 78 P. 1029.

65. Code, §§ 2649, 2654. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

66. Chamberlayne v. Mazro [Mass.] 74 N. E. 674.

67. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

68, 69. State Bank v. Thweatt, 111 Ill. App. 599.

70. Karthaus v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 140 Ala. 433, 37 So. 268.

71. Being essentially a dilatory plea it must be filed at the first term. Civ. Code 1895, § 5058. Quillian v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801. Rule 17 requires pleas in abatement to be filed five days before the cause stands for trial. Collier v. Grey, 105 Ill. App. 485.

72. A plea in abatement may be stricken off on motion if not supported by depositions taken in conformity to the rules of the court. Scott v. Stockholders' Oil Co., 135 F. 892. A plea in abatement, in an action at law, of a former suit pending, which does not aver whether such former suit is pending at law or in equity, is bad for uncertainty. Risher v. Wheeling Roofing & Cornice Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1016. A plea in abatement to the jurisdiction of the court in an action ex contractu, which is framed on the theory of an action in tort, is demurrable. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Hubbard [Ala.] 38 So. 750. The ment at the trial term, unless the plaintiff has so amended his pleadings as, for the first time, to make available the new matters of defense.[73] After a plea has been heard on its merits and the action dismissed, it is too late for plaintiff, on a motion to vacate the judgment and reinstate the case, to raise objections to the plea, which he might have raised at the hearing.[74] A cause erroneously dismissed for lack of jurisdiction in a county court was reinstated upon the discovery that the legislature, by special act, had increased such jurisdiction.[75] An officer's return to a writ cannot be falsified by a plea in abatement.[76] In Illinois a plea in abatement is not a proper plea in a proceeding for partition.[77]

§ 3. Survivability of causes of action.[78]—In Iowa all causes of action survive the death of the person entitled thereto.[79] So, also, in Indiana, save certain enumerated ones, not including an action for breach of duty by an attorney to his client.[80] Actions ex contractu, as a general proposition, survive, but this is due rather to the substance of the action than its form.[81] A divorced wife who is entitled to recover against her divorced husband for the maintenance of children, whose custody has been awarded to her, can maintain such claim against his estate after his death,[82] and where an action could have been maintained against a trustee for an accounting as to personalty in his possession, the remedy survives against his personal representatives.[83] But a cause of action to have defendant declared a lunatic does not survive the death of defendant;[84] nor a cause of action by the state to declare a nuisance and abate the keeping of a place for the sale of liquors.[85]

Personal actions[86] in tort do not survive at common law against the personal representatives of the tort feasor;[87] but this rule does not apply when the action has been prosecuted to final judgment in favor of the injured party, as then it becomes a debt owing by the injuring party to the party injured.[88] And where the right to bring an action for a conversion vested in a person before his death, it passed to his administrator.[89] A cause of action for personal injuries does not survive in case of the death of the injured person, but merges in the cause of action for the death, which is then the only available remedy,[90] and which survives to the administrator of the party in whose favor it accrues.[91] plea of garnishment in an action on a note should show its payment to the rightful holder, or a prior adjudication of his right. Brown v. Fisher [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 632. A plea to the jurisdiction must contain a proper averment of facts, accurately and logically stated, excluding every intendment of jurisdiction. Willard v. Zehr [Ill.] 74 N. E. 107.

73. Quillian v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801.

74. Wright v. Jett, 120 Ga. 995, 48 S. E. 345.

75. County court of Goliad county; Laws of 1895, p. 57, c. 45; 10 Gammel's Laws, 787. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCampbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1158.

76. McDaniels v. De Groot [Vt.] 59 A. 166.

77. Sec. 21, ch. 1, 1 S. & C. Statutes, 258. Monroe v. Millizen, 113 Ill. App. 157.

78. See 3 C. L. 10.

79. Code, § 3443. An administrator appointed in Iowa may prosecute for an injury resulting in death to a resident allen, although the sole heir of deceased is a nonresident alien. Romano v. Capital City Brick & Pipe Co., 125 Iowa, 591, 101 N. W. 437.

80. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 283-285. Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638.

81. Hedekin v. Gillespie, 33 Ind. App. 650, 72 N. E. 143. An action by depositors of an insolvent national bank for breach of the implied contract to see that the bank's assets were used in the manner prescribed by law is an action on contract and survives against representatives of deceased directors. Boyd v. Schneider [C. C. A.] 131 F. 223. A suit by a minority stockholder against an officer of a corporation for misappropriation of funds does not abate on his death, but survives against his representatives. Von Arnim v. American Tube Works [Mass.] 74 N. E. 680.

82. Lukowski v. Lukowski, 108 Mo. App. 204, 83 S. W. 274.

83. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

84. Posey v. Posey [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 1.

85. Under Rev. Codes 1899, § 7605. State v. McMaster [N. D.] 99 N. W. 58.

86. See 3 C. L. 10.

87. Hedekin v. Gillespie, 33 Ind. App. 650, 72 N. E. 143. False representations. Rule not changed by Mills' Ann. St. Colo. § 4810. Stratton's Independence v. Dines, 126 F. 968.

88. City of Anniston v. Hurt, 140 Ala. 394, 37 So. 220.

89. Hagar v. Norton [Mass.] 73 N. E. 1073.

90. See Code, §§ 1490, 1491, 1498, 1499, 1500.

Real actions,[92] such as for injuries and trespasses to land,[93] a claim of damages for the obstruction of a right of way,[94] and the right to redeem from a deed absolute in form, but intended as a mortgage,[95] survive. But where the action is primarily to recover for injury to the person, and the injury to the property is merely an incident, the same does not survive.[96]

§ 4. Revival and continuation.[97]—The motion for revivor in behalf of representatives of a deceased party must be made within the time limited by statute,[98] which is not a mere limitation but a condition of the very right to revive that must be strictly complied with.[99] In Arkansas the statutory provisions for the revival of actions in the name of the representatives, on the death of a party pending action,[1] apply as well to causes pending in the supreme court on appeal, as to those in the trial court; and the object of the statute is to fix a time within which it must be revived or abate.[2] Under the California statute providing that, in case of any transfer of interest other than by death or disability of a party, the action or proceeding may be continued in the name of the original party, a mortgage foreclosure may be continued in the name of the original plaintiff for the benefit of one who purchases his claim during the pendency of the proceedings.[3] In Alabama, under statutory provisions requiring that the action must be revived on motion, such motion may be oral and without notice.[4] Under the statutory provisions of Missouri, where plaintiff dies pending an appeal from a justice and defendant does not appear, the action cannot be revived on the mere suggestion of plaintiff's death, without an order for scire facias served on defendant.[5] An action cannot be revived where the suit was for personal injuries and the intestate died during the pendency of the suit;[6] and a claim presented by petition within the jurisdictional period, under the Indian depredation act, by an attorney in ignorance of the death of the party, is not a cause pending and cannot be made the basis of revivor in the name of the administrator after the expiration of the jurisdictional period.[7] Where a mortgage is sought to be fore-

Bolick v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 689; Gallagher v. River Furnace & Dock Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 661.

91. Rev. St. 1899, § 2864. Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 186 Mo. 430, 85 S. W. 346; Romano v. Capital City Brick & Pipe Co., 125 Iowa, 591, 101 N. W. 437.

92. See 3 C. L. 10.

93. In South Carolina to and against representatives of deceased persons. Section 2859, Code of Laws of 1902. Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675. And against the heirs of defendant, in case of his death pending the action. Under Act 1892 (21 St. at Large, p. 18), but did not prior to this act. Sims v. Davis [S. C.] 49 S. E. 872.

94. Survives the death of the person causing the obstruction. Randall v. Brayton [R. I.] 58 A. 734.

95. On the ground that the defendant has property in his hands as distinguished from a liability to respond in damages; but it survives to grantor's heir and not to the administrator. Clark v. Seagraves, 186 Mass. 430, 71 N. E. 813.

96. Hedekin v. Gillespie, 33 Ind. App. 650, 72 N. E. 143.

97. Sec 3 C. L. 10. As to bills of revivor or bills in the nature of bills of revivor, see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 848-886, 962-968.

98. McDonald v. Nashville [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 317. Motion held too late. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Robinson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 613. In Rhode Island, an order to revive an action against the representatives of a defendant must be had within a year after the appointment and qualification of the administrator, unless by consent of the representatives. First Nat. Bank v. Hazie [R. I.] 61 A. 171. In New York, under the statutes providing for the continuance of special proceedings by the representative, in case of the death of the sole party, the report of a referee, stating the account of an assignee for the benefit of his creditors, cannot be filed after the assignee's death, before his personal representative is made a party. Code of Civil Procedure, §§ 755, 757. In re Venable, 93 N. Y. S. 1074.

99. Steinbach v. Murphy [Kan.] 78 P. 823.

1. Kirby's Dig. §§ 6298-6300, 6314, 6315. Anglin v. Cravens [Ark.] 88 S. W. 833.

2. One year, unless by consent. Kirby's Dig. §§ 6314, 6315. Anglin v. Cravens [Ark.] 88 S. W. 833.

3. Anglo-Californian Bank v. Field [Cal.] 80 P. 1080.

4. Code 1896, § 38. Mardis v. Sims, 140 Ala. 388, 37 So. 243.

5. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 756, 758, 761. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodson [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 105.

6. Gallagher v. River Furnace & Dock Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 661.

7. Act March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. at L. 851, § 2). Gallegos v. Navajos, 39 Ct. Cl. 86.

closed as against a subsequent grantee, it may be done without a revivor of the action as against the deceased maker of the mortgage and notes, he not being a necessary party.[8] Where, pending appeal from a justice's judgment, the successful plaintiff dies and the case is improperly revived, the defendant may limit his appearance in the circuit court for the purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction and may move to set aside the revivor.[9]

Substitution of parties.[10]—In case of the death of a party, if the cause of action survives, the court may, on motion, allow the continuation of the action against the representative or successor.[11] In case of the death of one of several joint defendants, the administrator cannot be brought in and joined with the other defendants, because, in case plaintiff recovers he would be entitled to different judgments against the administrator and the other defendants.[12] A suit in equity in the name of the committee of an insane person may be revived, upon his death, in the name of his administrator, on motion, without notice or scire facias.[13] After sale, but before confirmation thereof, in an action for foreclosure of a mortgage, in case of the death of defendant, revivor of the action may be had against the heirs.[14] A board whose members' terms of office expire at different times and appointments are made accordingly is a continuous body, and expiration of the term of one member and the appointment of a successor after the granting of a mandamus to compel certain action does not abate the proceedings, but relator may take proper steps to bring in the successor.[15] But a cause of action to have defendant declared a lunatic and to have a guardian appointed for him and his property will not be revived against his administrator after his death.[16] Where, by act of congress, a new district was created and pending actions transferred thereto, an action in which the sole plaintiff had died, being so transferred, was revived in the new district by the administrator.[17] Where, pending a suit to redeem land from a sale on foreclosure, one of the defendants dies, the suit should be revived against his heirs;[18] and also upon the death of one defendant partner, a revival should be had against his representatives, where essential to a complete determination of the issues.[19] A writ of error in a personal action can be brought only by the personal representatives of the deceased, though in real actions an heir at law who shows that he is injured by an erroneous judgment against his ancestor may do so.[20] After motion made to revive an action in the name of defendant's administrator, an appearance by the administrator and filing an answer, alleging that he is such administrator and that the cause has been revived in his name, operate as a waiver of summons and a formal order of revivor.[21]

8. Boatmen's Bank v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 79 P. 125.

9. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodson [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 105.

10. See 3 C. L. 11.

11. New York Code Civ. Proc. § 757. McGrath v. Weiller, 90 N. Y. S. 490. In Wisconsin, in case of death or disability, within one year, or thereafter on a supplemental complaint. Rev. St. 1898, § 2803. Fleming v. Ellison [Wis.] 102 N. W. 398. In South Carolina, an action against an ancestor for trespass was continued against the heir, under statutory provisions for such survival. Act 1892 (21 St. at Large, p. 18). Sims v. Davis [S. C.] 49 S. E. 872. And in Indiana. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 272. Rich Grove Tp., Pulaski County v. Emmett [Ind.] 72 N. E. 543; Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638. But the court has no jurisdiction to revive the action against a foreign executor, where none of the assets were within the state and no ancillary letters had been issued there. McGrath v. Weiller, 90 N. Y. S. 420.

12. Marcy v. Whallon, 115 Ill. App. 435.

13. Straight v. Ice [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 837.

14. Civ. Code Prac. § 507. Montz v. Schwabacher, 26 Ky. L. R. 1214, 83 S. W. 569.

15. People v. Coleman, 99 App. Div. 88, 91 N. Y. S. 432.

16. Posey v. Posey [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 1.

17. Baldwin v. Rice, 44 Misc. 64, 89 N. Y. S. 738.

18. State Fair Ass'n v. Terry [Ark.] 85 S. W. 87.

19. Hausling v. Rheinfrank, 93 N. Y. S. 121.

20. Smith v. Stilwell [Ariz.] 80 P. 333.

21. Cleveland v. Cazort [Ark.] 83 S. W. 316.

ABBREVIATIONS, see latest topical index.

ABDUCTION.

Criminal intent is essential, and this intent must be gathered from the facts in evidence,[22] and when a taking with such intent is accomplished, the offense is complete. That defendant soon returned prosecutrix to her home does not palliate the crime.[23] In a prosecution for abduction, evidence of bigamy on the part of the abductor is inadmissible.[24] A memorandum of the birth of prosecutrix made at the time of her birth is admissible to prove her age.[25] In New York the question whether the person having legal charge of the abducted female consented thereto is one of fact for the jury.[26]

ABETTING CRIME; ABIDE THE EVENT; ABODE, see latest topical index.

ABORTION.

Placing a pregnant woman on an operating table, in a position to be operated on, coupled with evidence of the intent to produce an abortion, is sufficient to constitute an attempt to commit abortion.[27] In order that one may be guilty of administering or prescribing drugs, it is not necessary that he be present at the time they were delivered or taken.[28] In Colorado, malice is not an essential element of the crime,[29] and an indictment for causing the death of the woman need not negative the justifications for producing a miscarriage.[30] That the female consented to the abortion[31] or that she conspired with the police officials and lured defendant to make the attempt[32] does not constitute a defense.

As used in statutes relative to abortion, the word "child" is generally held to mean an unborn child so far developed as to be quick.[33] An intent to destroy such a child may exist without absolute knowledge that such child is "quick,"[34] and if defendant's purpose is to destroy the foetus, and in so doing he kills a

22, 23. State v. Neasby [Mo.] 87 S. W. 468.

24. People v. Cerami, 91 N. Y. S. 1027.

25. So held where parents were unable to write and memorandum was made by neighbors at parents' request. State v. Neasly [Mo.] 87 S. W. 468.

26. Prosecution under Pen. Code, § 282, subd. 1. People v. Cerami, 91 N. Y. S. 1027.

27. Pen. Code, §§ 34, 294, construed. People v. Conrad, 92 N. Y. S. 606.

28. Burris v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 723. Instruction held properly refused. Id.

NOTE. The abortionist as an accessory before the fact. The doctrine has been asserted that when the woman consents to, or solicits, an abortion, the one procuring or attempting to procure it, thereby causing her death, is merely an accessory before the fact, especially when he is not present when the act is performed; and that being an accessory before the fact, he cannot be prosecuted until after the conviction of the principal, and since this is impossible because of her death, he is entitled to immunity. See Rex v. Russell, 1 Moody, C. C. 356; Reg. v. Fretwell, 9 Cox, C. C. 152, Leigh & C. C. C. 161, 31 L. J. Mag. Cas. (N. S.) 145, 8 Jur. (N. S.) 466, 6 L. T. (N. S.) 333, 10 Week. Rep. 545. It is to be observed, however, that in each of the above cases the woman herself did the deed, and the accused merely procured the means, and in the latter case he only procured the means under compulsion, so that it could not be said that he used them or caused them to be used. It is now however settled that the abortionist cannot escape liability as an accessory before the fact. Reg. v. Gaylor, 7 Cox, C. C. 253, Dears. & B. C. C. 288, 40 Eng. L. & Eq. 556. See, also, Reg. v. Wilson, Dears. & B. C. C. 127, 26 L. J. Mag. Cas. (N. S.) 18, 2 Jur. (N. S.) 1146, 5 Week. Rep. 70, 7 Cox, C. C. 190.—From note to State v. Power [Wash.] 63 L. R. A. 902, 909.

29. Under Mills' Ann. St. Rev. Supp. § 1209, providing that any one maliciously administering any destructive substance causing death, etc., and who shall use any instrument with the intention to procure a miscarriage shall be imprisoned, etc., the word "maliciously" is not applicable to the offense of abortion. Johnson v. People [Colo.] 80 P. 133. Under such statute an indictment setting forth the offense in the language of the statute is sufficient without charging malice. Id.

30. Mills' Ann. St. Rev. Supp. § 1209, construed. Johnson v. People [Colo.] 80 P. 133.

31. Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187, 48 S. E. 950.

32. People v. Conrad, 92 N. Y. S. 606.

33. Pen. Code 1895, § 81, construed. Sullivan v. State, 121 Ga. 183, 48 S. E. 949; Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187, 48 S. E. 950.

34, 35. Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187, 48 S. E. 950.

child which is "quick," the criminal intent will extend to the consequences of his act.[35] Under a statute making it a crime for any person to aid a pregnant woman in procuring an abortion or to aid any person so intending to procure an abortion, the word "person" as last used means some person other than the pregnant woman.[36]

Evidence.[37]—Testimony tending to show illicit relations between the co-defendant and the female, or proof of conspiracy to destroy the result of such relations, is admissible to show the motive of the crime.[38] Prior unsuccessful attempts to bring about the abortion may be shown.[39] To show knowledge of the fact of pregnancy, and that the child was quick, it is proper to show that the woman told defendant of her pregnancy and that the child had moved.[40] Testimony of the physician who treated the victim just prior to her death as to his opinion of her ailment, derived exclusively from her narration of the cause and history of her complaint, is incompetent.[41] Where the operation results in the death of the woman, testimony of her husband as to a conversation he had with his wife on her return from the visit to defendant during which the operation was performed is admissible.[42] There being evidence that defendant had given prosecutrix instructions how to use the medicine, the testimony of those who carried it to her is admissible to show that defendant procured the medicine and asked them to so carry it.[43] It is competent, upon cross-examination, to ask an approver if he expects to escape punishment because of his taking the witness stand.[44]

Instructions.—The law declaring the offense to be murder, it is not error for the court to refuse to instruct as to the law of manslaughter.[45]

ABSCONDING DEBTORS, see latest topical index.

ABSENTEES.[46]

Statutory proceedings to administer absentees' property after death is presumed from long absence, but irrespective of actual death, do not lack due process of law[47] if the period fixed as raising such presumption be reasonable[48] and the notice likewise,[49] and adequate remedy for the revocation of the proceedings, and assurance of the refunding to the absentee of what may have been distributed, is provided.[50] While numerous attempts to administer absentees' estates under the general law of decedents have proved abortive, it was because the ordinary administration depends for jurisdiction on the actual fact of death and because such administration is not due process of law for such a purpose.[51] The state has un-

36. State v. Parm [Del.] 60 A. 977. An indictment charging defendants with having counseled a pregnant woman who was intending to procure her own miscarriage, held bad. Laws Del. vol. 17, p. 523, c. 226, § 2, construed. Id.

37. See 3 C. L. 13.

38. Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187, 48 S. E. 950.

39. Sullivan v. State, 121 Ga. 183, 48 S. E. 949. See 3 C. L. 13. n. 46-48.

40. Sullivan v. State, 121 Ga. 183, 48 S. E. 949.

41. Stevens v. People [Ill.] 74 N. E. 786.

42. Johnson v. People [Colo.] 80 P. 133.

43. Burris v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 723.

44. Stevens v. People [Ill.] 74 Ill. 786.

45. Mills' Ann. St. Rev. Supp. 1209, considered. Johnson v. People [Colo.] 80 P. 133.

46. See 3 C. L. 13.

47. Cunnius v. Reading School Dist., 25 S. Ct. 721, 49 Law. Ed. ——; afg. 206 Pa. 469, 56 A. 16, 98 Am. St. Rep. 790.

48. Seven years and upwards is reasonable. Pa. Laws 1885, p. 155, upheld. Cunnius v. Reading School Dist., 25 S. Ct. 721, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

49. Notice by publication for two weeks requiring absentee or one for him to show proof within twelve weeks that he is alive, held sufficient. Cunnius v. Reading School Dist., 25 S. Ct. 721, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

50. Pa. Laws 1885, p. 155, are adequate in this regard. They authorize revocation at any time on proof that absentee is living, prohibit distribution except on giving a bond to refund, provide for protective investment of shares as to which no bond can be or is given, and give an action to recover shares with interest. Cunnius v. Reading School Dist., 25 S. Ct. 721, 49 Law. Ed. ——.

51, 52. See the opinion of Mr. Justice doubted power to confer such jurisdiction under a special statutory proceeding made to fit the situation[52] and such power was recognized by the civil law and from it long since adopted into Louisiana. These proceedings must strictly follow the prerequisite conditions of fact laid down,[53] and all these facts must be well pleaded in the petition for letters.[54] Notice must be given of such proceedings[55] and it must fully meet the mode of notice, if any, prescribed by statute.[56] A trustee holding funds of the absentee which by such a proceeding would be transferred to administration is so aggrieved as to be entitled to appeal.[57]

Receivership for an absentee's property is not warranted in the case of a bequest to him if living where because of more than seven years' absence unheard of, he was presumably dead before it vested.[58]

The designation of an agent to receive process for an absentee under the New York Code when made abroad need not be dated,[59] and the consul taking it will be presumed to have acted within his jurisdiction, though the place of his residence is not stated.[60]

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE.

A vendor's agreement to furnish an abstract showing a merchantable title is not complied with where the abstract shows a defect which the vendor says he has a release of.[61] A statute requiring the county auditor to search records, and furnish a certificate of conveyances, mortgages, etc., does not make him a public abstractor required to make complete abstracts of specific tracts, but only requires him to search for such instruments as his attention is directed to.[62] An abstract delivered by a mortgagor to a mortgagee is regarded as part of the security for the loan and the mortgagor is not entitled to possession of it until the mortgage is paid.[63] An abstractor is liable after his license to do business has expired for damages occasioned by reason of a defective abstract made while his license was in effect;[64] but for a defect which causes no injury, there is no liability.[65] Where an abstract is made for the exclusive benefit of one party at the instance and expense of another, there is sufficient privity of contract between the abstractor and the person for whose benefit it is made to enable the latter to maintain action for damages suffered by reason of a defect.[66] The measure of damages is such an amount as will compensate for injury resulting from loss of title or impairment

White in Cunnius v. Reading School Dist., 25 S. Ct. 721, 49 Law. Ed. ——. In this opinion a comparison of the common law and civil law jurisprudence on this subject is made and the cases bearing on the constitutionality of such procedure either under general laws or special modes are analyzed and discriminated.

53, 54. In Maryland the petition must state (a) the time and place last heard of by family or friends, (b) that diligent inquiry was made among his family, relatives and friends, (c) that advertisement in and letters to likely last places of residence have produced no information since a date more than seven years prior to petition, (d) that petitioner believes the absentee is dead. Acts 1896, p. 434, c. 246. Lee v. Allen [Md.] 59 A. 184.

55. Lee v. Allen [Md.] 59 A. 184.

56. Record showing grant of letters 17 days after petition makes it invalid. The statute requires publication once a week for four weeks 15 days before appearance day. Act 1896, p. 434, c. 246. Lee v. Allen [Md.] 59 A. 184.

57. Lee v. Allen [Md.] 59 A. 184.

58. Construing Rev. Laws, c. 144. George v. Clark [Mass.] 71 N. E. 809.

59. It must be executed and acknowledged as a deed must be to be recorded. Pierce v. Martin, 89 N. Y. S. 434. Instrument dated 27th, the month being type-written "March", which word was stricken and "February" written, construed as of the earlier month where the later date would necessarily have been false. Id.

60. Pierce v. Martin, 89 N. Y. S. 434.

61. Spooner v. Cross [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1118.

62. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 417, 418. Dirks v. Collin [Wash.] 79 P. 1112.

63. Equitable Trust Co. v. Burley, 110 Ill. App. 538.

64. Western Loan & Sav. Co. v. Silver Bow Abstract Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 774.

65. Denton v. Nashville Title Co. [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 799.

66. Western Loan & Sav. Co. v. Silver Bow Abstract Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 774.

of the ownership or enjoyment of the property purchased on faith of the abstract,[67] and such injury must have been the direct result of the defect complained of.[68]

ABUSE OF PROCESS; ABUTTING OWNERS; ACCEPTANCE, see latest topical index.

ACCESSION AND CONFUSION OF PROPERTY.

As a general rule the wrongful confusion of goods operates as a forfeiture of the interest of the wrongdoer in all of the goods intermixed,[69] provided that the resulting mass cannot be ratably proportioned among the original owners in accordance with the quantities contributed by each.[70]

It is the duty of a stranger to an execution, whose goods are so intermingled with those of the execution debtor that they cannot be readily distinguished, to designate them to the officer making the levy, and if he fails to do so, the latter may levy upon the whole.[71] If he points out the goods not subject, no demand is necessary to enable him to maintain replevin or trover for those wrongfully seized;[72] but if not, a contrary rule prevails.[73]

One does not lose title to personal property which can be identified by reason of the fact that he is a trespasser.[74] A mortgagor of cattle cannot, by mixing other cattle of like description with them, defeat the mortgages, either in his own favor or that of a subsequent purchaser under him.[75]

Where a lessee under a gas lease mingles the gas from the demised premises with gas belonging to others so as to constitute a confusion of goods, and in consequence is compelled to account to and pay the latter the value of the whole mass, the lessor is not entitled to collect from such other persons the royalty on the gas from his land so mingled with theirs.[76]

Right to recover value of improvements made on lands of another.[77]—As a general rule one in possession of land belonging to another, who, in good faith and under the mistaken belief that he is the true owner, makes permanent improve-

67. Denton v. Nashville Title Co. [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 799.

68. Where there is no causal connection between the loss and the abstractor's fault, there can be no recovery. Denton v. Nashville Title Co. [Tenn.] 79 S. W. 799.

69. Evidence held to show that defendant willfully and indiscriminately intermixed certain logs belonging to plaintiff and the lumber he manufactured out of them with logs and lumber owned by himself. St. Paul Boom Co. v. Kemp. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 259. Where one having the right to cut and remove trees from land within five years cuts trees both before and after a subsequent conveyance of the land, made subject to the contract, and mingles and confuses them but falls to remove them within the five years, the grantee of the land may recover them all under the doctrine of confusion of goods, though those cut before conveyance were personalty, and hence did not pass thereunder. Mengal Box Co. v. Moore [Tenn.] 87 S. W. 415.

For a full discussion of this question, see note, 101 Am. St. Rep. 913.

70. Even if the commingling is malicious and fraudulent, the innocent party is not entitled to the whole mass unless it appears that it cannot be ratably apportioned among the original owners in accordance with the proportion contributed by each. Defendants purchased certain logs stolen from plaintiff and manufactured a part of them into lumber, amounting to 6,000 feet, which they indiscriminately mixed with lumber of their own of similar quality and value. On replevin, the officer seized 20,000 feet. Held, plaintiff was only entitled to ratable proportion and not to whole amount seized. St. Paul Boom Co. v. Kemp [Wis.] 103 N. W. 259.

71. Goods belonging to stepdaughter held not so intermingled with those of debtor, being clothing, pipe, watch chain, etc., as that they could not be readily distinguished. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

72. Not where constable was warned by debtor's stepdaughter, who lived with him, not to take property belonging to her, and where she pointed out such property to him and offered to show him bills and receipts for same. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

73. Greenberg v. Stevens, 212 Ill. 606, 72 N. E. 722.

74. Fact that one plants and cultivates oysters on lands of another does not authorize latter to take them for his own use, though he could compel their removal. Vroom v. Tilly, 99 App. Div. 516, 91 N. Y. S. 51.

75. Tootle v. Buckingham [Mo.] 88 S. W. 619.

76. No privity between them. Aiken v. Zahn, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 411.

77. See 3 C. L. 16.

ments thereon of a character beneficial to the estate, may recover their value when dispossessed.[78] This, however, does not apply to improvements made at a time when he has actual or constructive notice of the superior rights of another,[79] even though he in good faith believed his own title to be the better in point of law.[80]

The right to compensation is not cut off by a tax title, where the holder thereof subsequently acquires the title from the record owner before the expiration of the period for redemption.[81]

A statute giving compensation for improvements to any defendant against 78. Purchaser. Van Tassell v. Wakefield, 214 Ill. 205, 73 N. E. 340. In Michigan an unsuccessful defendant in ejectment who has been in actual, peaceable occupancy of the premises for a period of six years before the commencement of the action, or for a less period under color of title and in good faith, is entitled to compensation for improvements to the extent that they increase the present value of the premises. Comp. Laws, § 10,995. Boucher v. Trembley [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 184, 103 N. W. 819. No claim can be enforced by one who has not been in possession for six years where his claim is not under color of title. Id. A widow who has without color of title occupied the land for six years prior to the commencement of the action is entitled to compensation for improvements made before and after her husband's death, though he died before he and his family had been in possession for six years. Land occupied by husband and wife as homestead in belief that it was part of adjoining homestead tract. Id. An innocent purchaser of land at an administration sale for a valuable consideration, and without notice of any infirmity in his title, is entitled to full remuneration for his permanent improvements that add value to the lands, for taxes paid thereon, and for the purchase price when the same has gone to extinguish any charge against the land (Patillo v. Martin, 107 Mo. App. 653, 83 S. W. 1010), and the same constitute a lien on the land which the owner is bound to discharge before he is entitled to be restored to his original rights (Id.). An executor who, at the request or with the knowledge and consent of the owner of property, pays for improvements thereon under the mistaken belief that it belongs to the estate, may, as such executor, reimburse himself from the property. Neil v. Harris, 121 Ga. 647, 49 S. E. 773. But if he pays for such improvements, knowing that the property belongs to another as an advance payment to the latter upon and against his distributive share of the estate, he cannot recover it from her. Id.

Right of vendee on rescission of contract to purchase land: If, on rescission of a contract to purchase land for default on the part of the vendee, the vendor elects to take the land, he must allow for improvements made by the vendee. Lytle v. Scottish American Mortg. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 402. In case the vendor disputes their value or is unwilling or unable to pay for them, there should be an accounting, and the land should be sold and the proceeds applied first to the payment of the amount found due the vendor, any balance going to the vendee. Vendor not required to pay for improvements for which he did not order and which he does not desire. Id. A vendor who is unable to convey a title in accordance with his contract, must, on rescission of the contract, make a fair allowance for improvements placed on the land by the vendee in good faith. Moling v. Mahon [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 956. Purchaser of land under contract entitled to compensation for improvements where rescinds because vendor's title falls or he is unable to make conveyance. Dunn v. Mills [Kan.] 79 P. 146. In an action for deceit and false representations brought by a vendee against his vendor for falsely representing that certain lots pointed out were the ones for which the parties were bargaining, held, that the vendee could recover the value of improvements made on the land which were consistent with the use for which he purchased it. Lawson v. Vernon [Wash.] 80 P. 559.

79. Yock v. Mann [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1019. By one entering without color of title and with knowledge that it belongs to another. Wade v. Keown, 25 Ky. L. R. 1787, 78 S. W. 900. Purchaser from one holding land under deed containing condition against erection of grain elevator thereon, when such an elevator had been erected before sale to him, not a purchaser in good faith so as to be entitled to compensation on reversion of property to original grantor. Van Tassell v. Wakefield, 214 Ill. 205, 73 N. E. 340. A son is not entitled to compensation for improvements to the value of $500 or $600 made by him on land belonging to his father and which he occupied for thirty years on the sufferance of the latter, where the most of them were made after full notice to him that his father would not give him the land. Holsberry v. Harris [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 404. Improvements placed on land by vendee after he knew that vendor would not be able to make a title which would be approved by attorneys in accordance with contract are not made in good faith. Moling v. Mahon [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 956. This is not the case as to improvements made after such attorneys reported defects in the title to be cured. Id.

80. One having notice of facts rendering his title inferior to another's, who by mistake of law regards his title as good. Yock v. Mann [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1019. In the absence of laches, fraud, or other inequitable conduct on the part of the owner. Railroad company which took possession of property, which it was afterwards decided it could not condemn, while litigation to test its rights was in progress. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 890.

81. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 3961, tax title merges in that acquired from owner. Boucher v. Trembley [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 184, 103 N. W. 819.

whom a judgment or decree shall be rendered for land does not apply to a defendant in error on appeal who was plaintiff below.[82]

The right to compensation must be pleaded by defendant in order to recover it in the action by which he is dispossessed,[83] but failure to plead his equity in such suit does not estop him from asserting it in an independent suit for that purpose.[84]

ACCESSORIES; ACCIDENT; ACCOMMODATION PAPER; ACCOMPLICES, see latest topical index.

ACCORD AND SATISFACTION.[85]

§ 1. The accord. A. In general.[86]—Accord and satisfaction is the acceptance[87] of something agreed upon[88] in settlement of a debt or obligation,[89] or the adjustment of a disagreement as to what is due from one party to another,[90] and

82. Railroad company instituting suit to condemn land already in use by another railroad company, not entitled to compensation on reversal of final judgment in its favor. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 890.

83. Defendant in an action to recover land may not give evidence as to improvements in the absence of a claim therefor in his answer. Carraway v. Moore [Ark.] 86 S. W. 993.

84. Patillo v. Martin, 107 Mo. App. 653, 83 S. W. 1010. Suit held not to have been brought under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 3075, 3076. Nothing but improvements can be adjudicated under them, and action sought to recover purchase price in addition thereto. Id.

85. This topic does not include cases of Compositions with Creditors (3 C. L. 718), Novation (4 C. L. 838) or of Releases (4 C. L. 1270), except in so far as such transactions are also accords and satisfactions (see 1 C. L. 8, note 43), nor the general law of Payment and Tender (see 4 C. L. 955) or of Contracts (see 3 C. L. 805).

86. See 3 C. L. 17.

87. The legal notion of accord is a new agreement on a new consideration to discharge the debtor, and it is not enough that there be a clear agreement or accord and a sufficient consideration, but the accord must be executed. Erie Forge Co. v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 550. The discharge of a contract in a different thing from that for which the contract provides is an accord and satisfaction as to the particular payment concerning which the different thing is received. Payment in United States currency of a larger amount estimated in Porto Rican currency, in case of dispute as to the medium of payment. City of San Juan v. St. John's Gas Co., 25 S. Ct. 108.

Note: There can be no accord unless the parties are in possession of the knowledge necessary to adjust the matter understandingly. An acceptance in ignorance of material facts will not constitute an accord and satisfaction. Rued v. Cooper, 119 Cal. 463, 51 P. 704; 2 Pom. Eq. Juris. § 849, p. 1178; 1 Story, Eq. Juris. § 122, p. 131; Scully v. Delamater, 28 F. 114; Roberts v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 1 Fost. & F. 460; Sobieski v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 41 Minn. 169, 42 N. W. 863; Lee v. Tarplin, 183 Mass. 52, 66 N. E. 431; Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Withers v. Moore, 140 Cal. 591, 74 P. 159; Markel v. Spitter, 28 Ind. 488; Goodson v. National Masonic Acc. Ass'n, 91 Mo. App. 339; Belt v. American Cent. Ins. Co., 148 N. Y. 624, 43 N. E. 64; Woodford v. Marshall, 72 Wis. 129, 39 N. W. 326.—Adapted from note to Harrison v. Henderson [Kan.] 100 Am. St. Rep. 422-424.

88. In order to constitute an accord and satisfaction, the debtor and creditor must mutually agree as to the allowance or disallowance of the respective claims. Harby v. Henes, 90 N. Y. S. 461, citing Komp v. Raymond, 175 N. Y. 102, 113.

89. It is no compromise if a party knows he has no claim, but deceives the other into believing he has. Thayer v. Buchanan [Or.] 79 P. 343. A settlement of rebates and excesses in premiums paid on an indemnity policy, based on an estimate of the number of employes with an agreement for a subsequent adjustment based upon the actual number of employes and wages paid, held to be an accord and satisfaction. Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York v. Gillette-Herzog Mfg. Co., 92 Minn. 274, 99 N. W. 1123.

90. An instrument signed by plaintiff, acknowledging settlement in full of all claims for injuries received, constitutes a complete contract, in the absence of fraud, duress, mistake or other vitiating cause (Lanham v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 680); also where all liability for injuries received is released for a certain sum and the assumption of a physician's bill (Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 86 S. W. 322), or an agreement for employment when such employment becomes possible (Laughead v. Frick Coke Co., 209 Pa. 368, 58 A. 685). A settlement of a controversy between plaintiff and a township board arising out of the flowage of surface water, wherein plaintiff agreed to let the water flow in the natural channel across defendant's farm, made in defendant's absence, does not bind defendant and does not determine the natural channel and flowage of water as between plaintiff the payment of the amount so agreed upon.[91] One executory agreement is not extinguished by the execution of another between the same parties, nor is a security for an obligation merged in another security of the same degree which is accepted for the same obligation.[92] Where there is a contest as to whether a payment made was by way of accord and satisfaction, or was a payment upon another claim, and there is a dispute as to the respective obligations of the parties and their adjustment and satisfaction, the questions are for the jury.[93]

The policy of the law is to enforce settlements and thereby prevent litigation.[94] Litigation over the settlement of an estate may be terminated by agreement among those interested and will be recognized by the courts.[95] But settlements are not to be inferred or presumed except upon substantial showing of facts indicating that the claim in dispute was embraced within the terms of settlement.[96]

The effect of an accord and satisfaction, when executed, is to extinguish the

and defendant. O'Connor v. Hogan [Mich.] 104 N. W. 29. The failure of a minor to reply to a letter proposing that defendants would continue to pay for her board and treatment at a hospital, if she assured them she would make no further demand on account of injuries, did not constitute an accord and satisfaction. Hensler v. Stix [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 108.

91. See 3 C. L. 17, n. 78, 79. Where an agreement is made for the payment of a fixed annual sum in lieu of damages to plaintiff's premises by defendant's blasting operations, such arrangement being optional with defendant, plaintiff cannot maintain action to recover the specified amount. Andrews v. Wellington, 136 N. C. 336, 48 S. E. 732.

NOTE. Blackstone's definition (3 Bl. 15) that "an accord is a satisfaction agreed upon between the party injuring and the party injured, which when performed is a bar to all actions upon this account," has been frequently approved. Mitchell v. Hawley, 4 Denio [N. Y.] 418, 47 Am. Dec. 260; Rorer Iron Co. v. Trout, 83 Va. 397, 2 S. E. 713, 5 Am. St. Rep. 285; Sieber v. Amunson, 78 Wis. 682, 47 N. W. 1126. Other definitions of practically the same import of that in the text are to be found in Perin v. Cathcart, 115 Iowa, 557, 89 N. W. 12; Pulliam v. Taylor, 50 Miss. 257; Bull v. Bull, 43 Conn. 462.

A compromise is based upon a disputed claim, while an accord and satisfaction may be had as to a claim which is not disputed. Bellows v. Sowles, 55 Vt. 399, 45 Am. Rep. 291; Treitschke v. Western Grain Co., 10 Neb. 360, 6 N. W. 427.

A composition is defined as an agreement between an insolvent or embarassed debtor and his creditors, whereby the creditors in consideration of an immediate payment agree to accept a dividend less than the whole amount of their claims, to be distributed pro rata in discharge and satisfaction of the whole debt. Continental Nat. Bank v. McGroch, 92 Wis. 310, 66 N. W. 606. Whereas an accord and satisfaction is an agreement between the debtor and a single creditor, requiring an extraneous consideration, and which when applied to a liquidated debt will not operate as a discharge of it by a mere partial payment. See Wilson v. Samuels, 100 Cal. 514, 35 P. 148; Bailey v. Boyd, 75 Md. 125; Newell v. Higgins, 55 Minn. 82, 56 N. W. 577; White v. Kuntz, 107 N. Y. 518, 13 N. E. 423, 1 Am. St. Rep. 886; Crawford v. Krueger, 201 Pa. 348, 50 A. 931. Adapted from note to Harrison v. Henderson [Kan.] 100 Am. St. Rep. 392-394.

92. Acceptance of renewal mortgage and note held not to operate as extinguishment of former mortgage and note. White v. Stevenson, 144 Cal. 104, 77 P. 828. Unless intended to so operate. Dawson v. Thigpen [N. C.] 49 S. E. 959.

93. McCormick v. Shea, 94 N. Y. S. 485.

94. McFerran's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 441. A supplemental agreement, adjusting differences between the parties to a contract, operates as a settlement of their respective rights and obligations. Contract for sawing logs. Moorman v. Plummer Lumber Co., 113 La. 429, 37 So. 17. A settlement reached between husband and wife, after protracted efforts, pending divorce proceedings, relative to the maintenance of children, is binding. Dixon v. Dixon, 107 Mo. App. 682, 82 S. W. 547. The voluntary adjustment of a matter in dispute or litigation, even when protesting against it, effectually terminates the questions or litigation, in the absence of intimidation, fraud or concealment producing such settlement. Fitzpatrick v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 409. Settlement of the liability of one member of a partnership held binding. Langhorne v. McGhee [Va.] 49 S. E. 44.

95. Chauvet v. Ives, 93 N. Y. S. 744. A compromise agreement, between parties claiming under a will and those who claim that the will is void, by which the will was established, except as affected by the agreement, is never a modification of the will, but is a compromise of the rights of parties under the will, and a decree may be entered accordingly. Hastings v. Nesmith [Mass.] 74 N. E. 323. In a suit for damages by an administrator, the sole beneficiary, if under no disability, has a right to settle and accept payment of the unliquidated damages; the authority of the administrator not being exclusive. In a suit for benefit of a widow for damages for the pecuniary injury sustained by her in the death of her husband, a receipt for $200, and a release of defendant from the cause of action, were improperly excluded from evidence. Mattoon Gas Light & Coke Co. v. Dolan, 105 Ill. App. 1.

96. McFerran's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 441.

antecedent liability;[97] but, in order that a settlement shall operate thus, it must be shown that the subject-matter of the subsequent contention was embraced within the purview of the settlement by the express action and contemplation of the parties.[98] An agreement that all rights of parties under a contract shall cease and determine releases a right of action growing out of such contract;[99] and it is not deprived of such effect by a further clause stating that the contract is abrogated "in consequence of the notice heretofore given," although such notice was of itself ineffectual to terminate the contract.[1]

Full satisfaction and compensation from one of several tort feasors releases them all,[2] unless such release expressly reserves the right to sue the others;[3] but partial satisfaction, not intended and not received as a full settlement, made by one tort feasor, does not release the others.[4] In case of partial satisfaction, however, the other tort feasors are entitled, in an action against them, to have the amount received by the injured party deducted from the whole amount to which he is entitled.[5]

An accord and satisfaction is implied from acceptance and retention of a sum tendered in full, as a draft for a sum less than that due;[6] or a check, knowing that it is sent as payment in full.[7] But the acceptance and deposit, or cash-

97. In a suit brought on a release of an attorney's lien, executed in consideration of an agreement to pay a certain amount, the question of services rendered or the terms of the original employment are immaterial. Burleigh v. Palmer [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1068. An agreement between parties to foreclosure proceedings held to extinguish the debt and ipso facto to cancel the lien. Moody v. Gaston [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 224. A compromise settlement with the car company for an ejection by the conductor of a Pullman car, "of all the matters in controversy in this suit," and its payment, operates as a release of the railroad company, even if the conductor is an agent of both companies. Blake v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 430.

98. McFerran's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 441. A settlement of indebtedness by a cashier to the bank, by assigning stock, conveying land and giving a note, held to have reference only to the settlement of indebtedness as shown by the bank's books and not to include a claim against the bank arising from the sale by it of lands conveyed as security. Berner v. German State Bank, 125 Iowa, 438, 101 N. W. 156. In conveying a right of way of a 100-foot strip, the landowner released the company "from all inconvenience and damage incident to the construction and use of said railroad." Held, that the damages released were only such as resulted from the construction and operation of the railroad on the 100-foot strip, and not such as resulted from the company's works elsewhere; and that the release did not bar an action for damages resulting from the company's raising the grade of the highway five feet, for a distance of 3,000 feet in front of plaintiff's lands. Perrine v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [N. J. Law] 61 A. 87.

99. Swarts v. Narragansett Elec. Lighting Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 77.

1. Swarts v. Narragansett Elec. Lighting Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 111.

2. Jones v. Chism [Ark.] 83 S. W. 315; Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258.

3. Hirschfield v. Alsberg, 93 N. Y. S. 617.

4. Bailey v. Delta Elec. Light, Power & Mfg. Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 354.

5. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258.

6. Brown-Ketcham Iron Works v. Hazen, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 582.

7. McGregor v. Ware Const. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 981; Richardson v. Taylor [Me.] 60 A. 796; Canton Union Coal Co. v. Parlin & Orendorff Co. [Ill.] 74 N. E. 143. Acceptance and retention of proceeds of check for disputed wages tendered with statement of computation and receipt in full to a certain date to be signed and returned or check returned. United States Bobbin & Shuttle Co. v. Thissell [C. C. A.] 137 F. 1. The acceptance of checks in payment of author's royalties, based on a certain price, without objection, is an acquiescence in the publishers' interpretation of the contract and operates as an accord and satisfaction between the parties. In re McBride & Co., 132 F. 285. A remittance of the price of certain eggs purchased as payment in full, and a retention of the amount by plaintiff, there being a bona fide dispute as to the number of eggs purchased, constitutes an accord and satisfaction. Lightfoot & Son v. Edward Hurd & Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 128. The acceptance and retention by the creditor of a check sent by the debtor in payment of all demands, when there is an honest dispute between them as to the amount due, constitutes an accord and satisfaction. Kelly v. Bullock, 94 N. Y. S. 517. Where a tenant sent to his landlord bills for plumbing repairs, which he claimed should be allowed on rent, and a check for the balance of the rent due, tendered as payment in full, the retaining and cashing of the check and the keeping of the money was an acceptance of the amount in full payment. Cornelius v. Rosen [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 500; Harby v. Henes, 90 N. Y. S. 461. Accepting final payment for street cleaning, involving a deduction under a liquidated damage clause in the contract, and executing a release, constitutes an accord and satisfaction, regardless of the validity of the liqui-

ing of checks does not operate as an accord and satisfaction, where the circumstances of the transaction show that they were not received in full satisfaction,[8] nor where the evidence fails to show any understanding between the parties to pay or to receive the amount paid in settlement.[9] The appropriation by congress of a smaller amount of a judgment, in full payment of the same, does not compel claimant to accept the same, but, if he does so, his judgment is satisfied;[10] and when there is a disputed claim, the plaintiff cannot be permitted to assert that he did not understand that a sum of money offered in full was not, when accepted, a payment in full. He is bound either to reject the check or, by accepting it, accede to the defendant's terms.[11]

An attorney cannot settle or compromise a suit or claim without special authority; though in rare instances the nature of the business may be such that a power to compromise will be implied.[12] Nor is a bookkeeper, as such, without dated damage clause, until the release is impeached. Uvalde Asphalt Pav. Co. v. New York, 99 App. Div. 327, 91 N. Y. S. 131.

NOTE. Retention of sum sent as full payment of an unliquidated claim: The validity of a contract to pay an increased price for milk being in question, the seller notified the buyer that he would hold him to the contract, and that any payments made would only be credited on account. The buyer continued to receive the goods and sent in payment checks for smaller sums accompanied by statements at the foot of which were the words "to check in full." The seller accepted these checks and sued for the balance of his claim. Held, that the facts do not show an accord and satisfaction. Laroe v. Sugar Loaf Dairy Co., 180 N. Y. 367. In New York and in most states the retention, although under protest, of a sum sent as full satisfaction of an unliquidated claim, operates as an accord and satisfaction. Fuller v. Kemp, 138 N. Y. 231. That rule, resting as it must upon an implied acceptance of the offer of compromise, has been adversely criticised in some quarters. 17 Harv. L. R. 272, 469. The appropriation of a remittance, when accompanied by an express rejection of any conditions annexed, seems a conversion rather than an acceptance of the conditions. The principal case breaks away from the harsh New York rule to the extent of holding that such retention cannot be interpreted as an acceptance of the condition when, prior to its making, the buyer is informed that the seller intends to insist upon a definite claim, and that nothing is to constitute a waiver of his rights. See Eames, etc., Co. v. Prosser, 157 N. Y. 289. The distinction from Fuller v. Kemp is slight, but the case shows a tendency in a desirable direction. How far the seller must commit himself in order that an assent may not be implied against him is likely to prove a troublesome question.—18 Harv. L. R. 617.

8. Bankers' Union v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013. The acceptance by the creditor of a check from the debtor, written as "in full payment," with an immediate notice to the debtor that suit would be brought to recover the balance due, is not an accord and satisfaction. Harby v. Henes, 90 N. Y. S. 461. Nor the acceptance and deposit of a check because it could not be altered in the absence of the party authorized to sign checks, and with a recognition that it did not agree with the amount on the books. Terry & Tench Const. Co. v. Leeson, 84 N. Y. S. 267. Where defendant accepts part of the property shipped under contract at prices different from those agreed upon and rejects part, and mails a check for what he admits to be due, without returning the rejected articles, the deposit of such check by plaintiff, to his own credit, but with an immediate protest as to the correctness of the statement and a demand for the balance due, does not bar plaintiff's right to sue for the balance. Robinson v. Leatherbee Tie & Lumber Co., 120 Ga. 901, 48 S. E. 380. Where the defendant tenders a specific sum, which is refused, and thereupon pays the amount into court, plaintiff's acceptance of that sum from the court does not prejudice his claim to the balance in dispute. Bostrom v. Gibson, 111 Ill. App. 457. Neither does the retention and use of checks by the vendor constitute an accord and satisfaction, though sent with an account of goods delivered and the price, at the foot of which were printed the words "to check in full," where, under a contract, the vendee was to accept the goods at a certain price and continued to accept them, though he repudiated the contract, but was notified that the goods were delivered under the contract and that any check sent would be simply credited on account. Laroe v. Sugar Loaf Dairy Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 61. Where the creditor immediately notifies the debtor that the check will not be received in full settlement, but retains it for 70 days, meanwhile endeavoring to effect a settlement with the debtor, and then returns it, it cannot be held as a matter of law that there is an accord and satisfaction, but the question of unreasonable delay should go to the jury. Fredonia Gas Co. v. Elwood Supply Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 969. Receipt and use by executrix of a check for amount of produce, less advances made to her testator before his death, but insisting that defendant could not retain the advancements, does not constitute accord and satisfaction and executrix may sue for balance. Schermerhorn v. Gardenier, 94 N. Y. S. 253.

9. Goldsmith v. Lichtenberg [Mich.] 102 N. W. 627.

10. Bloodgood's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 69.

11. Laroe v. Sugar Loaf Dairy Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 61.

12. As in the regular course of pending suits, when an attorney has neither time special authority thereto, authorized in law to settle matters in dispute between his employers and others.[13] An agent may be specially authorized to settle.[14] A husband or father, who suffers injuries through another's negligence, cannot, by executing a release of damages, deprive his widow or children, in case of death from his injuries, of the right of recovery given them by statute.[15] Satisfaction by a landlord for injuries to a stranger, for which the tenant is solely liable, is no bar to a recovery against the tenant.[16] The board of county commissioners, in Oregon, is authorized to release any debt or damages arising out of the sale of lands to the county for delinquent taxes.[17] A settlement by an employe for a valuable consideration, for injuries afterward resulting in death, and a release of all liability therefor, bars an action therefor by his widow and child.[18] A settlement made by the parents for injuries to a child will, after the child's death from the same injuries, be presumed to have been made for their claim for nursing, care and medical bills, and will not bar an action by the child's administrator to recover for the suffering and anguish endured by the child, for which the parents had no right of action.[19] A contract of accord and satisfaction signed by a wife, after being signed and approved by her husband, is binding upon her,[20] and the husband cannot afterward sue for the loss of the services of his wife.[21] In case of a settlement of damages for injuries received by a minor, however, the burden of proof is upon defendant to show a ratification by the plaintiff, before such agreement can operate as an accord and satisfaction.[22]

(§ 1) B. The consideration.[23]—Every accord must rest upon a sufficient consideration,[24] consisting either of benefit to the creditor[25] or detriment to the nor opportunity to consult his client, whose interests would be imperiled by delay. Fleishman v. Meyer [Or.] 80 P. 209.

13. Grubbs v. Ferguson, 136 N. C. 60, 48 S. E. 551.

14. Note: Such an agent has wide powers and is impliedly authorized to do all things necessary to bring about settlement. Hagerman v. Bates, 24 Colo. 71; New York, P. & N. R. Co. v. Bates, 68 Md. 184; Hawkins v. Avery, 32 Barb. [N. Y.] 551; Smith v. Cantrel [Tex. Civ. App.] 50 S. W. 1081; Nickles v. Wells, 2 Utah, 167; Tanner v. Hastings, 2 Ill. App. 283; Nichols & Shepard Co. v. Hackney, 78 Minn. 461; Oliver v. Sterling, 20 Ohio St. 391; Pollock v. Cohen, 32 Ohio St. 514; Chiles v. Stephens, 3 A. K. Marsh. [Ky.] 340; Anderson v. Coonley, 21 Wend. [N. Y.] 279; Lowrey v. Bates, 26 Misc. 407, 56 N. Y. S. 197. But his authority extends only to settlement. Pollock v. Cohen, 32 Ohio St. 514; Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Smith, 3 Colo. 422; Chilton v. Willford, 2 Wis. 1, 60 Am. Dec. 399; Melcher v. Exchange Bank, 85 Mo. 362; Congar v. Galena & C. U. R. Co., 17 Wis. 177; City of New York v. Du Bois, 86 F. 889; Baldwin Fertilizer Co. v. Thompson, 106 Ga. 480. He cannot sell or dispose of property or pledge it to raise necessary funds. Dearing v. Lightfoot, 16 Ala. 28; Swett v. Brown, 5 Pick. [Mass.] 178; Essick v. Buckwalter [Pa.] 16 A. 849; nor assign the claim. Wood v. McCain, 7 Ala. 800, 42 Am. Dec. 612; Hannon v. Houston, 18 Kan. 561; Welch v. McKenzie, 66 Ark. 251; Hussey v. Crass [Tenn. Ch. App.] 53 S. W. 986. Nor submit it to arbitration. Huber v. Zimmerman, 21 Ala. 488, 56 Am. Dec. 255; Scarborough v. Reynolds, 12 Ala. 252; Mich. Cent. R. Co. v. Gougar, 55 Ill. 503; McPherson v. Cox, 86 N. Y. 472; O'Regan v. Quebec & Gulf Port S. S. Co., 19 New. Br. 528; New York v. Du Bois, 86 F. 889; Carnochan v. Gould, 1 Bailey [S. C.] 179, 19 Am. Dec. 668; Goodson v. Brooke, 4 Camp. 163. Though he can take a mere opinion on the disputed question. Hine v. Stephens, 33 Conn. 504. Whatever action he takes must be on his principal's behalf. Williams v. Johnston, 94 N. C. 633; McCormick v. Keith, 8 Neb. 142; Patterson v. Moore, 34 Pa. 69; Corr v. Greenfield, 134 Pa. 503; Scales v. Mount, 93 Ala. 82; Baird v. Randall, 58 Mich. 175; Middlebury College v. Loomis, 1 Vt. 189.—Adapted from Clark & Skyles on Agency, pp. 655-658.

15. Rev. St. 1899, § 2864, 2865. Strode v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 976.

16. Hirschfield v. Alsberg, 93 N. Y. S. 617.

17. B. & C. Comp. St. §§ 912, 913, 2518; Laws 1893, p. 28. Multnomah County v. Title Guarantee & Trust Co. [Or.] 80 P. 409.

18. Blount v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 305.

19. Meyer's Adm'r v. Zoll [Ky.] 84 S. W. 543.

20. Brundige v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1248.

21. Savory v. North East Borough, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

22. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

23. See 3 C. L. 20.

24. Tucker v. Dolan [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1126; Frank & Sons v. Gump [Va.] 51 S. E. 358. Settlement of a controversy over an easement to conduct water across another's lands, and as to water rights and the proper construction and use of a ditch, held binding on both parties. Board of Regents of State Agricultural College v. Hutchinson [Or.] 78 P. 1028.

25. An agreement for the re-employment of the servant "for such time only as may be debtor.[26] But an agreement to pay one liquidated debt is not sufficient consideration to sustain a release of another debt;[27] nor is the forbearance of the collection of a valid indebtedness, merely as a matter of good will and encouragement, sufficient to make a legal and binding settlement of it.[28] The settlement of a liquidated, undisputed liability, by payment of a sum less than that due, lacks consideration and is void,[29] unless there be a new, binding agreement upon a sufficient consideration.[30] But it has been held in Arkansas that an agreement to discharge a debt by the payment of a smaller amount, if fully executed and evidenced by a written receipt for the lesser sum in full satisfaction, constitutes a valid and irrevocable discharge.[31] Courts are prone to uphold, when possible, an agreement to accept less than the debt due in satisfaction thereof, and a very slight consideration will be held sufficient,[32] as a slight benefit to the creditor or slight detriment to the debtor.[33] If the sum due or the debtor's liability[34] is in dispute,[35] or unliquidated,[36] the payment of a sum less than that claimed, upon condition that it is to operate as full payment, is a good accord and satisfaction,[37] even though the asserted claim is without merit or foundation.[38] Where the dispute between the parties relates to the medium of payment, an agreement that payment in United States currency shall extinguish a claim for a larger sum estimated in Porto Rican currency is binding.[39] Under the law of North Carolina, providing that, where an agreement is made for the payment of a less sum than the amount due, the payment of such sum shall be a complete discharge of satisfactory" to the employer, though vague and indefinite as to duration of employment, constitutes a sufficient consideration for a release of right to sue for damages for injuries. Forbs v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 107 Mo. App. 661, 82 S. W. 562. A note in settlement of a claim against an executor for shortage in accounts, given by his widow to secure dismissal of proceedings against a co-executor, and abandonment of claim against the husband's estate, held valid. Rohrbacher v. Aitken, 145 Cal. 485, 78 P. 1054.

26. The discontinuance of legal proceedings already instituted is sufficient consideration for a compromise agreement between parties; and such agreements are favored by the courts. Rohrbacher v. Aitken, 145 Cal. 485, 78 P. 1054.

27. Siewing v. Tacke [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1103.

28. Kinsey v. Meaney, 90 N. Y. S. 327.

29. Bostrom v. Gibson, 111 Ill. App. 457; Tucker v. Dolan [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1126; Chamberlain v Smith [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 645; Hoidale v. Wood, 93 Minn. 190, 100 N. W. 1100. At common law, the acceptance by a creditor of the debtor's unsecured notes for a less sum than the original debt does not extinguish the debt. Frank & Sons v. Gump [Va.] 51 S. E. 358.

30. Goldsmith v. Lichtenberg [Mich.] 102 N. W. 627.

31. Dreyfus & Co. v. Roberts [Ark.] 87 S. W. 641. This case criticises the common-law doctrine as to the satisfaction of a debt by the payment of a lesser sum.

32. Tucker v. Dolan [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1126, citing Jaffray v. Davis, 124 N. Y. 164, 11 L. R. A. 710. The court will not inquire into the adequacy or inadequacy of a compromise fairly and deliberately made. An agreement to settle, without litigation, a disputed claim of infringement for use of certain dredging machinery. Bowers Hydraulic Dredging Co. v. Hess [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 362.

33. Tucker v. Dolan [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1126.

34. Bunge v. Koop, 48 N. Y. 225, 8 Am. Rep. 546; Komp v. Raymond, 175 N. Y. 102, 67 N. E. 113.

35. Miller v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 113 Ill. App. 481.

36. Laroe v. Sugar Loaf Dairy Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 61; Weber v. Board of Com'rs of Ramsey County, 93 Minn. 320, 101 N. W. 296.

37. Chamberlain v. Smith [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 645; Sims v. Three States Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1019; Goldsmith v. Lichtenberg [Mich.] 102 N. W. 627. Especially a mutual bona fide dispute arising from facts known to both parties, so that neither has an undue advantage. Thayer v. Buchanan [Or.] 79 P. 343. Where there is a bona fide dispute as to the amount due and a check is tendered by defendant in full satisfaction of the matter in controversy, with an offer to accept service of process if plaintiff is not satisfied, the acceptance of such check without objection is a complete accord and satisfaction; and this is true whether the claim be considered as liquidated or unliquidated. Le Page v. Lalance & Grosjean Mfg. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 676. A bona fide dispute as to the validity of taxes and tax certificates and the rights of the county thereunder is sufficient consideration to support a compromise settlement by the board of county commissioners who are authorized to settle claims due the county arising out of lands sold for delinquent taxes. B. & C. Comp. §§ 912, 913, 2518. Multnomah County v. Title Guarantee & Trust Co. [Or.] 80 P. 409.

38. Fitzpatrick v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 409.

39. City of San Juan v. St. John's Gas Co., 25 S. Ct. 108.

the debt, a partial performance may suffice to make a valid and binding compromise, where the plaintiff is himself to blame for the lack of full performance.[40] A mere payment, however, of what is due does not imply a settlement of disputed facts.[41]

(§ 1) C. Fraud, mistake and duress.[42]—An accord and satisfaction may, in a court of law or in equity, be set aside for fraud or misrepresentation in the execution or in the inducement to the execution of the contract.[43] Only fraud in the execution of the release is available in an action at law.[44] If a party does not intentionally and understandingly execute a release, and if his want of intention and understanding is purely by reason of mistake or misunderstanding on his part, then he has no remedy at law; his remedy, if any, is in equity to set aside the release.[45] In composition contracts between an insolvent debtor and his creditor, the utmost good faith must be observed by all parties.[46] A compromise agreement procured by the false and fraudulent statements of the debtor is void,[47] and a release of a claim for damages, procured by promises of employment which the promisor has no intention to fulfill, is voidable for the fraud.[48] Where a compromise settlement of a claim has been procured by fraud, the remedy, at least in the Federal courts, is in equity;[49] also where one is induced to sign a release by a fraudulent representation, and knows what he is signing;[50] but where he is deceived into signing it by the belief that he is signing something else, he may attack the instrument in an action at law.[51] If the setting aside of a written compromise for fraud in drawing it up would leave the parties to further expensive litigation, and relief can be afforded by a reformation of the agreement to correspond with the real intent of the parties, that course will be taken.[52] If parties act under a mistake, the accord and satisfaction may be set aside.[53] If there was a mutual mistake or imposition through fraud, so that there has been included in the settlement an item for which no fair consideration in fact exists, the settlement ought to be held void pro tanto, if the issue is

40. Code, § 574. As where a portion of the pay was to be taken in advertising, some of which had been done, but the plaintiff had failed, after repeated demands, to designate the amount of the advertising. Ramsey v. Browder, 136 N. C. 251, 48 S. E. 651.

41. McFerran's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 441.

42. See 3 C. L. 22.

43. Brundige v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 1248. In an action for a partnership accounting, the court may set aside for fraud a release barring plaintiff's right to relief. Smith v. Irvin, 45 Misc. 262, 92 N. Y. S. 170. A release executed while plaintiff was suffering pain and did not know what she was doing was set aside. Chicago City R. Co. v. McClain, 211 Ill. 589, 71 N. E. 1103.

44. Questions of execution of release and of fraud submitted to jury. Sargent Co. v. Baublis [Ill.] 74 N. E. 455.

45. Chicago & Alton R. Co. v. Jennings, 114 Ill. App. 622.

46, 47. Storms & Co. v. Horton [Conn.] 59 A. 421.

48. Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 86 S. W. 322. Where a settlement was made and defendant agreed to give a check immediately, but did not, as neither party had a blank check, and continued to make other promises to send the check, being notified four days before the commencement of suit that plaintiffs would sue if the check was not sent by a certain day, it was held that it could not be said, as a matter of law, that the settlement was conditional upon giving a check at the time or that it was procured by fraud. Wood v. Sherer [Mass.] 71 N. E. 947. And where an alleged release under seal was signed merely by a mark, and plaintiff denied all knowledge of such transaction, its validity was held to be a question for the jury. Clark v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.

49. Settlement of life insurance certificate at less than its face value. Stephenson v. Supreme Council, A. L. H., 130 F. 491.

50. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 195.

51. Chicago City R. Co. v. Uhter, 212 Ill. 174, 72 N. E. 195. Evidence that an instrument, stating in capital letters at the beginning that it was a release of all claims, was rapidly and indistinctly read to plaintiff, who was able to read but supposed the instrument was a receipt, was held not to show fraud in procuring the execution of the release. Hartley v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 214 Ill. 78, 73 N. E. 398.

52. Davy v. Davy, 90 N. Y. S. 242.

53. Settlement of claim for damages upon the assurance of the company's physician that the injuries were slight. Great Northern R. Co. v. Fowler [C. C. A.] 136 F. 118.

properly presented.[54] Settled or stated accounts can be opened or corrected only on the ground of fraud, accident, mistake or omission.[55]

§ 2. Satisfaction or discharge.[56]—An agreement for an accord and satisfaction, which has never been executed, is ineffectual as an accord and satisfaction.[57] The accord is sufficiently executed when all is done which the party agrees to accept in satisfaction of the pre-existing obligation.[58] Prior claims are presumed to be included in a settlement.[59] But claims not included in a settlement may be subsequently sued on.[60] A release in full for any claim of damages resulting in a suit pending can be filed in satisfaction of the judgment only upon defendant's paying the costs.[61]

§ 3. Pleadings, issues, and proof.[62]—Accord and satisfaction is a good plea by a debtor to the action of his creditor.[63] But an agreement to forbear suit on an obligation for a limited time after due, though founded on a sufficient consideration, cannot be pleaded in bar of an action brought within that time, the only remedy being in an action of damages for violation of the agreement.[64] To be good, this plea should state the facts constituting the satisfaction and that plaintiff accepted what was done or offered in satisfaction,[65] and it must show some consideration moving toward plaintiff, that plaintiff received something of value by the new agreement, or it will be bad after verdict.[66] The defense of accord and satisfaction cannot be added by amendment in the circuit court on appeal, when not pleaded in the county court;[67] nor, being a new and distinct defense, after the expiration of the time limited by stipulation for the filing of pleadings.[68] The burden of proving a settlement as an affirmative defense is on the person asserting it.[69]

The presumption of law is that a release is intentionally and knowingly made.[70] Fraud, accident, mistake or omission must be established by "clear and convincing" evidence, and the burden is on the party seeking to impeach the set-

54. Thayer v. Buchanan [Or.] 79 P. 343. In a suit to set aside a compromise of claims to land, evidence held insufficient to sustain a finding of mutual mistake authorizing the relief prayed. Willingham v. Jordan [Ark.] 87 S. W. 424.

55. Chapman v. Liverpool Salt & Coal Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 601.

56. See 3 C. L. 23.

57. Erie Forge Co. v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 550; Bankers' Union v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013. An agreement never carried out by the payment of the money, surrender of the contract and delivery of the release contemplated does not amount to an accord and satisfaction. Bandman v. Finn, 92 N. Y. S. 1096. A compromise is no defense if not executed. Russell v. Cassidy, 108 Mo. App. 577, 84 S. W. 171.

58. Laughead v. H. C. Frick Coke Co., 209 Pa. 368, 58 A. 685.

59. Melton v. Rittenhouse, 111 Ill. App. 30.

60. Claims for extra work not considered in the settlement of the amount due on a contract. McFerran's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 441. A settlement of "all matters in dispute" embraces only such as are in dispute at the time of its execution, and not all matters that might be subjects of dispute thereafter. Hollahan v. Sowers, 111 Ill. App. 263.

61. Naretti v. Scully, 133 F. 828.

62. See 3 C. L. 23.

63. Erie Forge Co. v. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co., 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 550.

64. Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 297.

65. Karter v. Fields, 140 Ala. 352, 37 So. 204.

66. Frank & Sons v. Gump [Va.] 51 S. E. 358.

67. Bankers' Union v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013.

68. Insurance Co. of North America v. Leader, 121 Ga. 260, 48 S. E. 972.

69. Bray v. Bray [Iowa] 103 N. W. 477. Action for board, room and personal attention. Barber v. Maden [Iowa] 102 N. W. 120. A note given in full settlement of all demands and paid is admissible to prove that there was nothing owing and unpaid, in an action to recover money paid under protest, to secure release from arrest in a suit brought to extort further sums from plaintiff. Grubbs v. Ferguson, 136 N. C. 60, 48 S. E. 551. Where, in an action on a replevin bond, it was stipulated by counsel in open court that the only issue was whether the property had been returned, evidence was not admissible to show an agreement that the return of part of the property was to be accepted as a full discharge of all liability under the bond. Franks v. Matson, 211 Ill. 338, 71 N. E. 1011. A promise to execute or perform at a future time would not support the plea of accord and satisfaction. Bankers' Union v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013.

70. Chicago & Alton R. Co. v. Jennings, 114 Ill. App. 622.

tlement of an account on such grounds.[71] It may be shown to support the good faith of a settlement that services were rendered by one party as claimed.[72]

Parol evidence is not admissible to contradict, vary or add to a written contract in full settlement of all claims for damages, in the absence of fraud, duress, mistake or other vitiating cause;[73] nor to show an additional agreement for employment, besides the complete contract of release contained in a written agreement.[74] But it may be resorted to to identify the subject-matter intended to be covered in a written release under the general word "claims," by showing the circumstances of the transaction;[75] and to explain a release under seal, purporting to have been signed by plaintiff by her mark.[76] General words in a release are to be limited and restrained to the particular words in the recital.[77] Where plaintiff refuses to accept a sum offered as a compromise or equitable settlement, and sues for the full amount of his claim, without any allegation of right to recover the sum offered, he cannot, on failure to establish his claim, recover judgment for the sum offered as a compromise payment.[78] The jury is justified in regarding with suspicion the claim of settlement made by a physician with his patient, at which no third person was asked to be present.[79]

ACCOUNTING, ACTION FOR.[1]

§ 1. Nature of remedy and jurisdiction of courts.[2]—Whether in equity or at law under the codes the remedy is equitable at base, applying to mutual or long and complicated[3] single accounts, because of the inadequacy of legal remedies to efficiently settle and adjust them,[4] and especially where the accounts lie between parties standing confidentially or in trust to each other or who have a joint or

71. Chapman v. Liverpool Salt & Coal Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 601; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Jennings, 114 Ill. App. 622.

72. Action against attorney to recover money collected on certain insurance policies. He admitted collection, and alleged performance of services prior to collection and settlement. Greenlee v. Mosnat [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1122.

73. Lanham v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 680.

74. Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 86 S. W. 322.

75. Perkins v. Owen [Wis.] 101 N. W. 415.

76. Clark v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.

77. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Dashiell, 25 S. Ct. 737.

78. McGregor v. Ware Const. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 981.

79. Bray v. Bray [Iowa] 103 N. W. 477.

1. This topic treats only of actions to obtain an accounting whether in equity or by means of legal remedies serving the same purpose. The accountability of fiduciaries is pertinent to the topics treating of the rights and liabilities of such fiduciaries. See Agency 3 C. L. 68; Brokers, 3 C. L. 535; Trusts, 4 C. L. 1727, and like topics. The recovery by action of the amount due on an account stated or open account, is a distinct proceeding. See the topic following this.

2. See 3 C. L. 24.

3. Account on a lumbering contract involving 45 reports each pertaining to eight kinds of lumber, covering 360 items and 5,000,000 feet. McMullen Lumber Co. v. Strother [C. C. A.] 136 F. 295.

4. Enforceability at law of single items does not oust equity. McMullen Lumber Co. v. Strother [C. C. A.] 136 F. 295. Where the remedy at law in an action for an accounting is not so complete and adequate as in equity, that alone is ground for equitable jurisdiction. Where the action involved contract, and mutual accounting and the entire transactions of two large mercantile establishments must be examined, and accounts compared. Fechteler v. Palm Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 462. Equity will not take jurisdiction of an accounting where there is no relation of trust and the accounting is not complicated, but is a mere basis for ascertaining damages. Plaintiff sued for an accounting, alleging that he had expert knowledge of the shoe business and a control of trade as traveling salesman; that he was employed by defendants as such and was illegally discharged; that as compensation he was to receive a commission on sales made by the defendants and that they failed to render correct monthly statements as agreed, and prayed an accounting. Holland v. Hallahan [Pa.] 60 A. 735.

common interest,[5] or where there is fraud alleged.[6] Though otherwise triable at law because of the few and simple items, equity may act because the accounts happen to involve a matter of equitable cognizance.[7] The breach of a single contract is usually remediable in damages, though it involves numerous transactions in course of performance and discharge.[8] In the Federal courts it is of persuasive force that in the local courts a reference would be ordered under the code if retained as a law case.[9]

§ 2. Persons liable and entitled to accounting.[10]—Any person to whom the accountant stands as a fiduciary or joint owner is entitled to an accounting,[11] if there is no inequitable conduct of complainant or inequitable quality in his suit.[12]

§ 3. Practice and procedure.[13]—In the case of administration and guar-

5. Stock brokers and customers. Haight v. Haight & Freese Co., 92 N. Y. S. 934.

Accounts of a partnership may be settled. It often happens that after a settlement of the accounts one accountant may sue the other at law to recover the balance ascertained by the settlement to be due him. Bruns v. Heise [Md.] 60 A. 604. See, also, Partnership, 4 C. L. 908.

Tenants in common against their co-tenants. Hollahan v. Sowers, 111 Ill. App. 263.

Joint enterprises: A complaint alleging that defendant, the owner of certain hay land contracted that complainants should cut, press, and haul the hay for a certain price, that under defendant's direction and pursuant to such contract, plaintiff cut and stacked a part of the hay and baled a portion thereof, but were prevented by defendant from baling and hauling all the hay required by the contract, plaintiffs also alleging that they had expended a certain sum of money in the work for which they claimed a lien on the hay not hauled, and alleging that the defendant had wrongfully taken possession of the hay, warranted an accounting. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069.

6. Complaint charging that the transactions between plaintiffs and defendants were multifarious and complicated, and could not be reached at law; that by mistake, oversight, or fraudulent connivance of the defendants much lumber was credited to the individual account of one of the defendants, etc., is sufficient to give the chancery court jurisdiction. Charlesworth v. Whitlow, Lake & Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 423. Will lie against brokers and fiscal agents, who for many years have received and disposed of large amounts of property for which periodical accounts were rendered alleged to have been false and fraudulent. Bay State Gas Co. v. Lawson [Mass.] 74 N. E. 921.

7. Clouds on title. Gay v. Berkey [Mich.] 100 N. W. 920.

8. A complaint alleging that plaintiff is the inventor of a mechanical appliance; that he confidentially disclosed the same to defendants, one of whom contracted to pay him certain cash royalties and to pay the fees for taking out the patents; that such defendant had installed plaintiff's appliance upon divers plants, and denied plaintiff's right to compensation therefor; that defendants had conspired to and had delayed the granting of letters patent upon plaintiff's inventions; that by defendants' conduct plaintiff had been deprived of all emoluments which otherwise would have accrued from his inventions; and that the amount of his damages and the amount of profits appropriated by defendants cannot be ascertained without an accounting, does not state facts sufficient to entitle plaintiff to an accounting. Griffith v. Dodgson, 93 N. Y. S. 155. Breach of contract to employ salesman, to pay him by commissions, and to render account of sales held remediable at law. Holland v. Hallahan [Pa.] 60 A. 735.

9. McMullen Lumber Co. v. Strother [C. C. A.] 136 F. 295.

10. See 3 C. L. 26.

11. See ante, § 1; also Agency, 3 C. L. 68; Brokers, 3 C. L. 535; Estates of Decedents, 3 C. L. 1238; Guardianship, 3 C. L. 1569; Trusts, 4 C. L. 1727; Partnership, 4 C. L. 908.

12. See Equity, 3 C. L. 1212-1218.

NOTE. Accounting for proceeds of illegal business: The plaintiff sues for an accounting against an agent for refusing to pay over the proceeds in an illegal business. Held, bill not maintainable. Woodson v. Hopkins [Miss.] 37 So. 1000. Generally an agent must account for money received in an illegal business. Baldwin v. Potter, 46 Vt. 402; Planters' Bank v. Union Bank, 16 Wall. [U. S.] 483, 499, 21 Law. Ed. 473; Murray v. Vanderbilt, 39 Barb. [N. Y.] 140, 152; Tenant v. Elliott, 1 B. & P. 3; Wilson v. Owen, 30 Mich. 474. The principal case seems to have applied the disputed rule as to the recovery of illegally earned money by one partner from another; such a recovery has been granted. Sharp v. Taylor, 2 Phill. 801; Anderson's Adm'rs v. Whitlock, 2 Bush [Ky.] 398; Brooks v. Martin, 2 Wall. [U. S.] 70, 17 Law. Ed. 732, discredited in McMullen v. Hoffman, 174 U. S. 639, 666, 43 Law. Ed. 1117. Decisions of this class may be reconciled by allowing a recovery (1) where the transaction was merely malum prohibitum and not malum in se. Farley v. Railroad Co., 14 F. 114; (2) after a formal accounting Leonard v. Poole, 114 N. Y. 371, 11 Am. St. Rep. 667, or (3) when the partnership itself was not illegal in its formation. Woodworth v. Bennett, 43 N. Y. 273, 3 Am. Rep. 706.—5 Columbia L. R. 472.

13. See 3 C. L. 26, 27.

Procedure in accounting at chancery, see Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. 38 (parties), 151 (bill), 321 (answer), 593 (hearing and reference) 743, 750, (decree) 1084 (U. S. Court Rules).

dianship, a special mode of procedure is applicable which in the first instance is usually in probate courts,[14] but resort may be had to equity in proper cases.[15] A demand for an accounting should ordinarily be made before suing.[16]

Parties.[17]—All partners are necessary parties to a firm accounting.[18] On accounting of an agent to his principal of the proceeds of property out of which a debt was to be paid, the agent's partner in the ownership of the property is not a necessary or a proper party.[19]

Pleading.[20]—The complaint must plead an account of which equity has jurisdiction,[21] and a demand for and refusal to account.[22] Any matter is proper which repels the presumption of laches.[23]

It is not essential to good pleading that there shall be a prayer for any particular relief. A prayer for general relief is sufficient.[24]

A bill for an accounting of the formation of a corporation may combine all the agreements which led up to the corporation in which parties were concerned,[25] and it is not multifariousness to ask that numerous periodical accounts be surcharged and falsified,[26] or to implead a third person in order to incidentally fasten a trust on property of the accountant which he holds.[27]

Decree for accounting; reference.[28]—The approved procedure in equity on a bill for an accounting is that an interlocutory decree be first entered, finding the facts determining the right to such accounting and directing the basis of the account, and then referring the cause to the master in chancery to state the account.[30] If facts fail to show accountability but yet a wrongful possession, restitution may be ordered.[31]

The case is ripe for accounting if defendant admits accountability and offers to account,[32] and a reference requiring the master to state the accounts between

14, 15. See Estates of Decedents, 3 C. L. 1238; Guardianship, 3 C. L. 1569.

16. Ayotte v. Nadeau [Mont.] 81 P. 145.

17. See 3 C. L. 26.

18. Bruns v. Heise [Md.] 60 A. 604.

19. Lasley v. Delano [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1063.

20. See 3 C. L. 26.

21. If jurisdiction is invoked because the account is long and complicated it must be so alleged. Kaston v. Paxton [Or.] 80 P. 209.

22. Ayotte v. Nadeau [Mont.] 81 P. 145.

23. The allegations of fraud, collusion, and conspiracy on the part of the managing officers of the corporation, who controlled the other officers, are important as explaining the long delay of the plaintiff in seeking a remedy from the defendants. Except for some such explanation, the plaintiff would appear to be bound by the acts of its officers in accepting these accounts and treating them as true, and would be barred by laches in neglecting to bring its suit earlier. Bay State Gas Co. v. Lawson [Mass.] 74 N. E. 921.

24. Fechteler v. Palm Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 462.

25. A written agreement was made between bankers as promoters, and a number of manufacturers of paper goods, as vendors, for the organization of a corporation, to which the properties of the vendors should be conveyed, fixing the rights of all the parties. A secret agreement was subsequently made by the promoters with a part of the vendors, which gave the latter an advantage and profit over the other vendors. A bill by a party to the first agreement joining all the parties to both agreements and the corporation was not multifarious. Shutts v. United Box Board & Paper Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1075.

26. Bill against brokers to surcharge and falsify a large number of monthly statements of account of plaintiff's dealings through a series of years and praying for a correction of errors in the accounts. Bay State Gas Co. v. Lawson [Mass.] 74 N. E. 921.

27. A bill is not multifarious which seeks to have an accounting on contracts with one of the defendants, where another defendant is joined under allegations that the two have wrongfully taken the funds equitably belonging to the complainant, and fraudulently sought to cover them up by investing them in lands, taking the legal title thereto in themselves, and the bill seeks to fasten a trust thereon for the use of complainant. McMullen Lumber Co. v. Strother [C. C. A.] 136 F. 295.

28, 29. See 3 C. L. 27.

30. Hollahan v. Sowers, 111 Ill. App. 263.

31. Where a person is prosecuted for an accounting in regard to trust property, being charged with having obtained possession thereof by fraud, and the charge of fraud fails but the fact of wrongful possession is established, the proper judgment for restoration of the trust property may be rendered. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

32. Where the plaintiff showed that he had an interest in property of which the defendant had control, and defendant recog-

the parties may be then ordered.[33] In proceedings before a referee, due objection and exception must be made before the referee in order to be available on review.[34] Unless the referee reports his evidence, the question whether items allowed were supported cannot be raised.[35] The court will not review questions of fact determined by the referee unless there is a showing that the entire evidence is before it.[36]

§ 4. Requisites, substance, form and statement of the account.[37]—The referee may only take into account such matters as are charged in plaintiff's specification.[38] An item covering a promissory note should not be allowed unless the note and title to it is proved and it is produced.[39] In a suit for an accounting for royalties due under a contract, the account should be taken down to the hearing, unless the petition limits the claim to the amount due when it is filed.[40]

ACCOUNTS STATED AND OPEN ACCOUNTS.

§ 1. Nature and elements of the several kinds of accounts.[41]—An account stated is a mutually approved casting up of the items of charge and credit arising from a transaction or transactions between parties, the balance shown by the result of which the one owing it expressly or impliedly promises to pay.[42] An account stated is distinct from an accord and satisfaction in that it settles accounts and promises payment.[43] The minds of the parties must meet upon the allowance of each item, and they must mutually concur upon the final adjustment,[44] nized him as the proper party to settle with, and alleged that he was ready to make a settlement with proper parties, a case for an accounting and settlement on the merits was made. Willlams v. Thweatt [Ark.] 83 S. W. 331.

33. Wilcoxon v. Wilcoxon, 111 Ill. App. 90.

34. Where, on a hearing before the referee, defendant did not object to any evidence on the ground that it was inadmissible under the statute of frauds, such objection was waived. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797. See more fully Masters and Commissioners, 4 C. L. 614; Reference, 4 C. L. 1257.

35. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

36. In an action where the defendant claimed that various items and classes of items were allowed without evidence. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

37. See 3 C. L. 27.

38. Where, on an accounting, a referee found that certain items claimed by defendant were payments for things not charged in plaintiff's specification, such items were properly disallowed. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797. Payments applied to discharge matters prior to or not included in the items should be disallowed. Id.

39. McCorkle v. Richards, 112 Ill. App. 495.

40. Standard Fireproofing Co. v. St. Louis Expanded Metal Fireproofing Co., 177 Mo. 559, 76 S. W. 1008.

41. See 3 C. L. 27.

42. Harrison v. Henderson, 67 Kan. 202, 72 P. 878. Draft of proposed account prepared by expert was examined, emendations made after conference and then approved as correct. Leinbach v. Wolle [Pa.] 61 A. 248. An instrument which is the result of an agreement relating to past transactions, acknowledging an indebtedness and promising to pay it, is, in effect, an account stated, on which an action may be based. Noyes v. Young [Mont.] 79 P. 1063. Instruction correct which stated that where an agent called in his principal for the purpose of settling the account between them, and submitted the account, and they went over it, and the principal agreed that all charges were satisfactory and the account correct, the agent was entitled to recover the balance in his favor shown by the account. Werckmann v. Taylor [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 44.

Evidence held insufficient to show an account stated. Allen-West Commission Co. v. Hudgins & Bro. [Ark.] 86 S. W. 289.

Definitions: See 99 Am. St. Rep. 288.

43. Bankers' Union v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013. See, also, "Accord and Satisfaction," ante.

44. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68. Where there is no mutual examination of each other's items, and a mutual agreement as to its correctness, there is no account stated. Charlesworth v. Whitlow, Lake & Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 423. To make an account stated, there must be a mutual agreement between the parties and an assent to the account as rendered. Love v. Ramsey [Mich.] 102 N. W. 279. A mere showing that plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, repeatedly asked defendant to pay the so that at least no more than mere computation remains to ascertain what is due.[45] The admission of correctness must be by the person to whom credit was actually given.[46] An agent specially deputed thereto may orally settle an account despite a stipulation that it should be settled in writing only.[47]

The consideration is the original transaction between the parties.[48]

Assent may be shown by parol agreement or mere acquiescence from which a promise to pay will be implied by law.[49] Retention without objection is assent[50] but mere silence after repudiation is not.[51] Admissions of correctness disputing the rightfulness of charging the alleged debtor rather than another are not an assent.[52] The mere rendering of an account does not make it a stated one.[53] The statement rendered must be made with a view to settling and adjusting the claim.[54] amount, and that she stated she would do so, is insufficient to show an account stated. Pavero v. Howard, 93 N. Y. S. 1115.

45. It is sufficient to constitute an account stated if the items constituting the account are settled upon so that nothing remains but a mere matter of computation. Wood v. O'Callaghan [Mich.] 104 N. W. 36.

46. Where an account had been stated for sale of fish. After account was stated defendant claimed an offset thereto consisting of two items, which show plaintiff indebted to defendant. Defendant had kept the account rendered, without apparent objection for a month. Held to show a contract with him and not another. Gorman v. McGowan, 44 Or. 597, 76 P. 769.

47. Where contract provided that "settlement of accounts governed by it are to be consummated only by written approval of said party of the first part from its home office," parties may make a valid settlement under such contract, although the settlement is not made or approved in writing, and is executed by an agent, who, however, was sent to make settlement. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Hellekson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 717.

48. Delabarre v. McAlpin, 101 App. Div. 468, 92 N. Y. S. 129. If any original item had a consideration it suffices. Patillo v. Allen-West Commission Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 680.

49. Delabarre v. McAlpin, 101 App. Div. 468, 92 N. Y. S. 129. Any contention or dispute as to its correctness, or denial of liability for any reason, or however groundless, negatives the implication of such promise. Columbia River Packing Co. v. Tallant, 132 F. 271. Proof of an acknowledgment by the defendant that a certain sum was due the plaintiff at a certain time in settlement of the account is sufficient. Letters, part of correspondence between the parties, may be introduced, which may rebut by their statements any inference of an account stated which might arise from defendant's silence after receiving the bill. Hoggson & Pettis Mfg. Co. v. Sears [Conn.] 60 A. 133.

50. Patillo v. Allen-West Commission Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 680. The rendition of an account and its retention without objection is but a circumstance to be submitted with other facts to determine whether there has been an account stated. Harrison v. Henderson, 67 Kan. 202, 72 P. 878. When an account stated is sent in the customary way, it is presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that it was duly received. Dick v. Zimmerman, 105 Ill. App. 615.

This applies only to accounts rendered by the creditor to his debtor, as to the correctness of which the latter has knowledge, and has no application to statements of account rendered by one who is bound by contract to account for sums collected in respect to which he has knowledge but the creditor has not. Vanuxem v. New York Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 107.

51. As in an action for losses on sale of cotton on margin, where defendant had, in an interview with a representative of the brokers, denied his liability and called the whole transaction a "bucket shop" affair, where he afterwards received a statement and letter to which he made no reply. Jacobs v. Cohn, 91 N. Y. S. 339. As where the occupant of premises denied all liability as tenant, the retention by him of a bill rendered more than three years after the occupancy is too strained to constitute an account stated. Benedict v. Jennings, 93 N. Y. S. 464. Where liability had been long and persistently denied on the ground that the indebtedness, whatever it was, had been satisfied by subsequent transfer of property, the failure of the person charged to object to the correctness of a statement of account sent him, or to make any reply, does not imply a promise to pay or convert the account into an account stated. Columbia River Packing Co. v. Tallant, 133 F. 990.

52. Where debtor objected, when account was rendered, that the account should be charged to a corporation of which he was manager, instead of to him individually, the creditor cannot claim an account stated on the ground that the debtor did not object to the amount. Love v. Ramsey [Mich.] 102 N. W. 279. Books of account showing goods originally charged to defendant are admissible, as to who was the debtor where there was testimony that defendant saw the entries and made no objection. Upon trial defendant conceded that the amount and price of goods were correct, and that they were delivered; the sole question being to whom was credit given. Id.

53. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68.

54. The mere furnishing by one party to another of a statement of account will not raise the implication of an account stated, though such statement be retained without

An open current account may embrace diverse kinds of transactions and items.[55]

§ 2. Binding effect, rights and liabilities.[56]—An account stated, in the absence of fraud, error or mistake in its execution, is conclusive between the parties[57] as to all matters adjusted by it,[58] except as they stand in a different right or capacity from that wherein they accounted.[59] It is not an estoppel under all circumstances.[60] An item omitted by mistake, accident or fraud from a settled account may be recovered in an action of assumpsit,[61] but the burden of proving it is on him who claims it.[62] Account stated becomes a new obligation and takes the place of the prior account,[63] and bears interest from its date.[64] Where the amount is definitely ascertained by stating an account, the law implies a promise to pay.[65] The statute of limitation commences to run against an account stated from the time of its statement.[66] Where there was no assent in writing to the account and it is not an open, mutual, running account, limitations can be pleaded to statute-barred items of an account stated.[67] An account stated may be waived, and action brought and defended upon the original account.[68]

An account rendered may amount to admission,[69] but where items of an account have been incurred under different contracts at different times, separate actions may be maintained for the amount due under each single contract.[70] objection. Harrison v. Henderson, 67 Kan. 202, 72 P. 878. An account between a Roman Catholic bishop and an employe made when there was a succession in the diocese and intended as final settlement was an account stated, though they had previously accounted from time to time, carrying one forward into the other as a mere starting point. De La Cuesta v. Montgomery, 144 Cal. 115, 77 P. 887.

55. Board, washing, service, nursing admittedly rendered during the time charged, running over five years, and an item for money loaned within that period, held all parts of a continuous open current account. Miller v. Armstrong, 123 Iowa, 86, 98 N. W. 561.

56. See 3 C. L. 29.

57. Noyes v. Young [Mont.] 79 P. 1063.

58. Where a statement of account is presented containing the rate of interest on overdue principal, parties will be bound by such rate of interest as where two years after certain mortgages matured, the mortgagee's agent furnished defendant a statement of account, in which interest on overdue principal was computed at 7 per cent per annum. Barnard v. Paterson [Mich.] 100 N. W. 893.

59. An account concerning the business of a firm held not to constitute an account stated as between the senior and junior member. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68.

60. Gillett v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68. Is a mere admission that the account is correct. It is not an estoppel. The account is still open to impeachment for mistakes or errors. Id. Where an account has been stated between two parties, the presumption is that the stated account is correct, and, when suit is instituted on it, the burden is on the party denying the account to show its inaccuracy, or that it was stated through fraud or mistake. Bankers' Union of the World v. Favalora [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1013.

61, 62. Harman v. Maddy Bros. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1009.

63. Harrison v. Henderson, 67 Kan. 202, 72 P. 878; Mincer v. Green, 94 N. Y. S. 15; Delabarre v. McAlpin, 101 App. Div. 468, 92 N. Y. S. 129. An action on a stated account is based on a new promise to pay into which all prior transactions are merged. Columbia River Packing Co. v. Tallant, 133 F. 990.

64. De La Cuesta v. Montgomery, 144 Cal. 115, 77 P. 887.

65. This is not qualified or rendered conditional by a promise on the part of the debtor to pay "when able." Mattingly v. Shortell [Ky.] 85 S. W. 215.

66. Delabarre v. McAlpin, 101 App. Div. 468, 92 N. Y. S. 129. See, also, Limitation of Actions, 4 C. L. 445.

67. Delabarre v. McAlpin, 101 App. Div. 468, 92 N. Y. S. 129. In an action on an account stated the plea that all the items in the account are barred by limitation is insufficient as a plea of limitation to individual items of the account against which the statute had run when the account was stated. Id.

68. Harrison v. Henderson, 67 Kan. 202, 72 P. 878. Action brought against an attorney where each item was gone into without objection, although defendant claimed an account had been stated, but defended on the reasonableness of charges made. Id.

69. A statement of account in which a purchaser lists articles at what seller claims to be the agreed price is, in the absence of mistake, conclusive evidence that the prices had been agreed upon. Ketchum v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 33 Wash. 92, 73 P. 1127.

70. Rendering a statement to defendant for the entire amount due under several contracts does not prevent plaintiff from suing on each contract separately, defendant not having accepted, but objected to the account rendered. Copland v. American De Forest Wireless Tel. Co., 136 N. C. 11, 48 S. E. 501.

A mutual account carries simple interest on annual balances.[71]

§ 3. Remedies on account stated.[72]—Where the common law remains, assumpsit lies.[73] In Connecticut what are denominated the "common counts" are a sufficient complaint, as against a demurrer, after plaintiff has filed a proper bill of particulars, if any count is a general statement of the cause of action.[74] Accordingly a complaint was sustained because the cause of action was thus pleaded, regardless of the propriety of a count on account stated added by amendment.[75] It is discretionary to allow an amendment bringing in an additional account.[76] Any counterclaim or defense is bad which in effect falsifies an item contained in the account as stated.[77] If plaintiff tenders unnecessary issues, defendant may answer them.[78] An account stated must be proved as alleged.[79] It is for the jury to say whether particular items had a basis in fact.[80] The verdict of the jury is erroneous on its face where it finds a disputed item due and ignores the only other one, admittedly due.[81]

§ 4. Remedies on open accounts.[82]—Most frequently the action as actually brought is grounded on the contract or contracts out of which the account grew.[83] In that case it is not an action on the account.

The action on account is not one on a "contract" within code provisions for suit where performance was to have been.[84]

The assignment or copy which an assignee must file may be written on the bill of items.[85] The items must be clearly stated,[86] but need not be copied in the body of the declaration.[87] One item insufficiently stated among many well stated does not open the petition to general demurrer.[88] Vagueness of items cannot be first challenged at the trial;[89] strict proof according to books of account will be refused if there was no notice to produce them.[90]

71. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797.

72. See 3 C. L. 29.

73. See Assumpsit, 3 C. L. 348.

74. Gen. St. 1902, § 627. Hoggson & P. Mfg. Co. v. Sears [Conn.] 60 A. 133.

75. Hoggson & P. Mfg. Co. v. Sears [Conn.] 60 A. 133.

76. Harrison v. Henderson, 67 Kan. 202, 72 P. 878.

77. Defendant claimed overpayment in one credit and demanded judgment therefor under a counter claim. Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Connors [Wis.] 99 N. W. 904.

78. Where action was instituted by plaintiff upon account rendered and stated for goods, wares, etc., and another paragraph charges that such property was obtained under false pretenses, it is error not to allow evidence of such false pretense, even though account is admitted in the answer. Jewett Bros. & Jewett v. Bentson [S. D.] 101 N. W. 715.

79. No recovery can be had on a quantum meruit, unless the pleadings are appropriately amended. Mattingly v. Shortell [Ky.] 85 S. W. 215. In an action upon an account stated, the plaintiff must stand or fall upon his allegation that an account was stated and agreed upon. Failing that, judgment goes against him, for he may not recover by proving the items of the account. Mincer v. Green, 94 N. Y. S. 15. The judgment against him is no bar to action for goods sold. Id.

80. In an action on an account stated, where a charge was made for services in renewing a note under an alleged agreement with plaintiff, whether such agreement was made and whether or not it was renewed by the defendant and whether the commission charged therefor by it was reasonable, were questions of fact for the jury. Treffinger v. Davis Real Estate Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 139.

81. Peale v. Shore Elec. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 46.

82. See 3 C. L. 31.

83. See Contracts, 3 C. L. 805; Implied Contracts, 3 C. L. 1690; Sales, 4 C. L. 1318.

84. It is suable in defendant's county. Code, § 613. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

85. Sleeper v. Gagne, 99 Me. 306, 59 A. 472. Rev. St. 1903, c. 84, § 146. It is as well to have the assignment on the account as on a separate paper. Id.

86. Items for contributive shares of taxes paid held good; item for damage by animals held bad. Bick v. Halberstadt [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 127.

87. Where the bill of items is annexed it has the same effect as if copied in body of the declaration. Sleeper v. Gagne, 99 Me. 306, 59 A. 472. It is no objection that the creditor's business card is printed on the paper. Id.

88. Bick v. Halberstadt [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 127.

89. Where, in an action on account, the complaint contained an itemized statement thereof with an affidavit that it was true and correct. Cauthron Lumber Co. v. Hall [Ark.] 88 S. W. 594.

90. Cauthron Lumber Co. v. Hall [Ark.] 88 S. W. 594.

When the account set forth in the complaint is not admitted, the entire business transactions between the parties are open to investigation, within reasonable discretion of the trial court.[91]

In some jurisdictions verification of the account makes prima facie proof if not denied on oath.[92] For this purpose it must be certain,[93] and must bear such internal evidence of authority or knowledge as the law requires.[94] The prima facie case made out by verification is rebutted, if the evidence shows credit to a third person and a transaction by him with defendant.[95] Verifying an account against the agent of an undisclosed principal has no force against the principal.[96]

It is error for court to instruct the jury in an action upon an open account that the plaintiff might recover such sum as the services rendered were reasonably worth.[97] The pleading alleging an open account, no recovery can be had on an account stated.[98] Where a plea was not sworn but might be amended by verifying, the entry of judgment on the pleadings was error.[99] If the account be long and the answer disputes it, the case may be transferred to the equity docket.[100]

In actions upon book accounts in Illinois commenced before justices of the peace, there is no appointment of auditors, but the justice examines parties under oath. Where appeal is taken from judgment of justice, the trial is de novo.[101]

ACCRETION; ACCUMULATIONS, see latest topical index.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

§ 1. Nature, office, and necessity.[1]—As a general rule, acknowledgment is necessary to entitle an instrument to registration,[2] and if the acknowledgment is void, the registration of the instrument is also void.[3] In Florida, by statute, deeds executed outside the state in order to be entitled to record within the state must

91. Miller v. Carnes [Minn.] 103 N. W. 877. A denial of certain purchases itemized held to admit proof that they were paid by money advanced. Manion v. Manion [Ky.] 85 S. W. 197.

92. In an action upon an open account, proved by the affidavit of plaintiff, it was error to allow defendant to introduce evidence in support of an unsworn plea over objection of plaintiff. Stafford v. Wilson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 800.

93. A verified account, attached as an exhibit to the petition, is properly excluded from evidence where it does not indicate the items thereof, nor their nature, so that it cannot be told therefrom whether it refers to matters that may be proved by a sworn account under the statute or not. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. v. Roquemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 449.

94. An affidavit served with the summons to the effect that defendants were justly indebted to the plaintiffs in a certain sum as a balance due for goods sold and delivered was admissible, though it did not state that affiant was agent, attorney, or bookkeeper for plaintiffs. Hirsh v. Fisher [Mich.] 101 N. W. 48.

95. Plaintiff's evidence held to have rebutted it. Kennedy v. Price [N. C.] 50 S. E. 566.

96. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. v. Roquemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 449.

97. Miller v. Armstrong, 123 Iowa, 86, 98 N. W. 561.

98. Allen-West Commission Co. v. Hudgins & Bro. [Ark.] 86 S. W. 289.

99. Stafford v. Wilson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 800.

100. Action on an account for money advanced and paid out and services rendered, embracing about 500 items, in which defendant's answer denied he had ever received the benefit of part of the items and alleged that plaintiff had, while employed by defendant as manager, neglected defendant's business, etc. Manion v. Manion [Ky.] 85 S. W. 197.

101. Dickinson v. Morgenstern, 111 Ill. App. 543.

1. See 3 C. L. 31.

2. A tax deed is not entitled to registration unless acknowledged or proven. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828.

3. Acknowledgment of deed taken by the grantee. Lance v. Tainter [N. C.] 49 S. E. 211.

be acknowledged before an officer having an official seal.[4] A deed by a married woman and her husband must be acknowledged by her on a privy examination,[5] but a contract for the sale of land need not be,[6] and in Illinois acknowledgment is not necessary to a release of dower,[7] but a chattel mortgage must be acknowledged before a magistrate of the town where the mortgagor resides.[8]

The record of a deed in the handwriting of a deputy clerk who was grantor therein is evidence of due execution, though the deed was not properly acknowledged for record,[9] and a record void because the deed was not properly acknowledged is nevertheless admissible to establish the existence of the deed when lost.[10] Acknowledgment makes an instrument to which it is attached presumptively genuine.[11]

§ 2. Officers who may take.[12]—In some states an officer interested in the transaction cannot take an acknowledgment,[13] but an agent procuring a transaction is not so interested as to disqualify him.[14]

§ 3. Taking and making acknowledgments.[15]—The power to take and the formalities to be followed in taking acknowledgments are fixed by the laws of the place where taken.[16] In Montana a notary in taking a married woman's acknowledgment to the declaration of a homestead does not act as a judicial officer,[17] nor exercise a function of the state government.[18] Dereliction of an officer in regard to statutory requirements will not prejudice innocent parties.[19]

Persons who may make.[20]—Any person who may lawfully execute an instrument may acknowledge it.[21] Under a statute providing that instruments executed by a corporation must be acknowledged by the president or secretary, the vice president and assistant secretary cannot acknowledge.[22]

§ 4. Certificate of acknowledgment.[23]—The form of certificate is generally prescribed by statute.[24] Such statutes are liberally construed, and a substantial compliance therewith is all that is required,[25] and if the two essential elements

4. A deed acknowledged before a justice in California having no official seal is not entitled to record, and its recordation does not make out a prima facie case of its due execution. Norris v. Billingsley [Fla.] 37 So. 564.

5. Deed not so acknowledged held void. Gaskins v. Allen [N. C.] 49 S. E. 919.

6. A contract for the sale of real estate by a married woman, in which her husband joins, need not be acknowledged. Act April 4, 1901 (P. L. 67). Jenkins v. Pittsburg & C. R. Co., 210 Pa. 134, 59 A. 823.

7. Carling v. Peebles [Ill.] 74 N. E. 87.

8. Farson v. Gilbert, 114 Ill. App. 17.

9. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364.

10. Simmons v. Hewitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 188.

11. Bill of sale. Metropolitan Lumber Co. v. McColeman [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 172, 103 N. W. 809.

12. See 3 C. L. 32.

13. Deed of trust acknowledged before the grantee named therein is void. Lance v. Tainter [N. C.] 49 S. E. 211.

14. Agent making a conditional sale. National Cash Register Co. v. Lesko [Conn.] 58 A. 967. An agent who negotiates a loan may take an acknowledgment to a mortgage executed to secure his principal. Austin v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ga.] 50 S. E. 382.

15. See 3 C. L. 33.

16. Werner v. Marx, 113 La. 1002, 37 So. 905.

17. Under Civ. Code, §§ 1606, 1609, 1611, 1700. Sackett v. McCaffrey [C. C. A.] 131 F. 219.

18. Sackett v. McCaffrey [C. C. A.] 131 F. 219.

19. Failure of the officer to observe the statutory requirements when taking the acknowledgment of a married woman to the deed of a homestead does not affect the grantee's title if he does not know of such dereliction and the certificate is in due form. Johnson v. Callaway [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 178.

20. See 1 C. L. 19.

21. National Cash Register Co. v. Lesko [Conn.] 58 A. 967.

22. Erickson v. Conniff [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1104.

23. See 3 C. L. 33.

24. Under St. Mass. 1894, p. 243, c. 253, prescribing a form of certificate and providing that instruments might be acknowledged in any manner theretofore lawfully used, an acknowledgment in the form sanctioned by Mass. St. 1882, c. 120, is proper. Costello v. Graham [Ariz.] 80 P. 336.

25. Larson v. Elsner, 93 Minn. 303, 101 N. W. 307. Certificate of acknowledgment to an instrument executed by the president of a corporation held a sufficient compliance with the form prescribed by Rev. Civ. Code, § 974, though it was not certified that to a valid certificate, the identity of the party executing the instrument, and his acknowledgment or admission that he did execute it, are apparent, it is sufficient.[26] A mere clerical error,[27] as a failure to fill in blanks,[28] will not invalidate it, nor will the fact that surplusage is appended to the signature of the officer taking;[29] but there must be a substantial compliance,[30] though a material defect may be cured by conduct of the party making,[31] or by a subsequent acknowledgment in due form.[32] A certificate of an acknowledgment by a trustee need not certify that he is known to be such trustee,[33] and under a statute providing that a notary of one county may take acknowledgments in another, a certificate of an acknowledgment taken in one county by a notary of another is not objectionable because not showing that he was notary of such other county in that state.[34]

§ 5. Authentication of officers' authority.[35]

§ 6. Operation and effect.[36]—The certificate of acknowledgment raises a

the person making the acknowledgment was the president of the corporation. State v. Coughran [S. D.] 103 N. W. 31. Certificate of acknowledgment of a married woman stating that she, on a "separate examination, apart from her husband," etc., acknowledged, sufficiently shows compliance with Laws 1865-66, p. 95, § 521, providing that such an acknowledgment shall be on a "private" examination. Timber v. Desparois [S. D.] 101 N. W. 879. Letters "N. P." appended to the signature of the person taking gives official character to the certificate and it is not vitiated by the omission from its body of the words "notary public." Leech v. Karthaus [Ala.] 37 So. 696.

26. Larson v. Elsner, 93 Minn. 303, 101 N. W. 307.

27. Omission of name of person making held not to invalidate it. Larson v. Elsner, 93 Minn. 303, 101 N. W. 307.

28. In an acknowledgment by husband and wife, the blanks before and after "he" were not filled in so as to make "they." Trerise v. Bottego [Mont.] 79 P. 1057.

29. The fact that a justice signs a certificate of acknowledgment as "justice and alderman" does not vitiate the certificate; the latter designation will be regarded as surplusage. Wilson v. Braden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 409.

30. A statute providing that in a certificate of acknowledgment executed by a corporation the officer taking must certify that the person making is the president or secretary, is not complied with by a certificate reciting that they are known to be the vice-president and assistant secretary. Erickson v. Conniff [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1104. In Texas a certificate to a deed executed by a married woman and her husband which does not show a privy examination of the wife or recite that the instrument was explained to her and that she stated she did not wish to retract it is insufficient. Estes v. Turner, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 365, 70 S. W. 1007.

31. Consent to the recordation of the instrument is equivalent to a statement that she did not wish to retract it. Masterson v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 428.

32. Masterson v. Harris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 428.

33. A certificate of acknowledgment to a deed executed by a trustee that the grantor was known "to be the person described in and who executed the annexed instrument" is sufficient. Need not be certified that he is known to be such officer. Thomas v. Wilcox [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1072.

34. Lamb v. Lamb [Mich.] 102 N. W. 645.

35. See 3 C. L. 34. Under Rev. St. 1876, § 1436, where an official in Germany certifies to the signatures to a power of attorney, and the American vice-consul certifies to the signature and seal of that officer and to his power to make the acknowledgment, the signatures are proven. Werner v. Marx, 113 La. 1002, 37 So. 905.

36. See 3 C. L. 34.

NOTE. Conclusiveness of certificate: The certificate is to be construed with reference to the instrument to which it is appended, consequently omissions or errors therein, not pertaining to the fact of acknowledgment itself, may usually be corrected by reference to the language of the conveyance. Carpenter v. Dexter, 8 Wall. [U. S.] 513, 19 Law. Ed. 426; Owen v. Baker, 101 Mo. 407, 20 Am. St. Rep. 618; Summer v. Mitchell, 29 Fla. 179, 30 Am. St. Rep. 106; Kelly v. Rosenstock, 45 Md. 389; Milner v. Nelson, 86 Iowa, 452, 41 Am. St. Rep. 506; Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Brackett, 37 Minn. 58. Oral evidence, however, is not admissible to prove that an essential fact was by mistake omitted from the certificate. Elliott v. Peirsol, 1 Pet. [U. S.] 328, 7 Law. Ed. 164; Ennor v. Thompson, 46 Ill. 214; Cox v. Holcomb, 87 Ala. 598; Willis v. Gattman, 53 Miss. 721; Wynne v. Small, 102 N. C. 133; Harty v. Ladd, 3 Or. 353. In some states, by statute, the certificate is only prima facie evidence of the facts recited, and its falsity may be shown by extraneous evidence. Tuten v. Gazen, 18 Fla. 751; Romer v. Conter, 53 Minn. 171; Moore v. Hopkins, 83 Cal. 270, 17 Am. St. Rep. 248; Pierce v. Georger, 103 Mo. 540. But in the absence of statutory provision to the contrary, it is usually regarded as conclusive in regard to the matters as to which the officer is required to certify (Pickens v. Knisely, 29 W. Va. 1, 6 Am. St. Rep. 622; Petty v. Grisard, 45 Ark. 117; Graham v. Anderson, 42 Ill. 515, 92 Am. Dec. 89; Pereau v. Frederick, 17 Neb. 117; Heilman v. Kroh, 155 Pa. 1; Banning v. Banning, 80 Cal. 271, 13 Am. St. Rep. 156; Johnstone v. Wallace, 53 Miss. 333, 24 Am. Rep. 699; Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Corey, 135 N. Y. 326), though the fact that there was no acknowledgment may be shown in contra-presumption of due execution of the instrument to which it is attached,[37] and is generally held conclusive as to the facts required to be certified to therein,[38] especially as against strangers to the transaction.[39] It is not subject to collateral attack,[40] and can be impeached only by satisfactory evidence,[41] so clear and convincing as to amount to a moral certainty.[42] In Wisconsin the officer taking may testify as to the falsity of his own certificate,[43] but in the absence of a satisfactory explanation that the act was a mistake, such testimony is entitled to but little weight.[44] Evidence of the character of the officer who took an acknowledgment is inadmissible on an issue as to the genuineness of the instrument acknowledged.[45]

An acknowledgment of an authorized signature validates it.[46]

§ 7. Defects and invalidities.[47]—As between the parties to an instrument, a defective acknowledgment may be cured by legislation.[48] Such legislation has a retroactive effect,[49] and is not an exercise of judicial power by the legislature,[50] but cannot operate to defeat vested rights.[51]

ACTIONS.

Only general questions relating strictly to Actions are treated. Causes of Action and Defenses and Forms of Action are distinct matters which are treated elsewhere.[52] In order to have an action there must be parties opposed or one party opposing all others in respect to a res in court.[53] A proceeding to obtain a license has been held to come within the purview of the term.[54] Actions are diction of the certificate (Meyer v. Gossett, 38 Ark. 377; Williamson v. Carskadden, 36 Ohio St. 664; Smith v. Ward, 2 Root [Conn.] 374; Morris v. Sargent, 18 Iowa, 90; O'Neill v. Webster, 150 Mass. 572; Wheelock v. Cavitt, 91 Tex. 679, 66 Am. St. Rep. 920), and as between the parties, oral evidence is always admissible to show that the acknowledgment was obtained by fraud or imposition (Grider v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 99 Ala. 281, 42 Am. St. Rep. 58; Allen v. Lenoir, 53 Miss. 321; Eyster v. Hatheway, 50 Ill. 521, 99 Am. Dec. 537; Cover v. Manaway, 115 Pa. 338, 2 Am. St. Rep. 552); but this cannot be shown as against a person innocent of the fraud (Ladew v. Paine, 82 Ill. 221; Johnstone v. Wallace, 53 Miss. 331, 24 Am. Rep. 699; Moore v. Fuller, 6 Or. 272, 25 Am. Rep. 524; Louden v. Blythe, 27 Pa. 22; Pierce v. Fort, 60 Tex. 464). See Tiffany on Real Prop. p. 925, § 405.

37. Evidence held insufficient to overcome this presumption. Uvalde Asphalt Pav. Co. v. New York, 99 App. Div. 327, 91 N. Y. S. 131.

38. Where a married woman admits on privy examination that her singature to a mortgage was her voluntary act, she could not thereafter impeach the certificate on the ground that her signature was procured by duress. Hall v. Hall, 26 Ky. L. R. 553, 82 S. W. 269.

39. St. 1903, § 507 and § 3760, declaring that except in cases of fraud or mistake it shall not be questioned except in a direct proceeding against the officer and his sureties. Godsey v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 657, 82 S. W. 386.

40. Direct provision of Laws 1899, p. 383, c. 389. Marsh v. Griffin, 136 N. C. 333, 48 S. E. 735.

41. A certificate of a married woman to a mortgage of a homestead. McGuire v. Wilson [Neb.] 99 N. W. 244.

42. Not by evidence of a doubtful character nor by a bare preponderance. Bennett v. Edgar, 93 N. Y. S. 203. Evidence held insufficient to prove a forgery. Id.

43, 44. Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220.

45. West v. Houston Oil Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 343.

46. Godsey v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 657, 82 S. W. 386.

An officer making a false certificate is personally liable for injury resulting. Innocent purchaser relying on certificate of a forged signature. Samuels v. Brand, 26 Ky. L. R. 943, 82 S. W. 977.

47. See 3 C. L. 34.

48. Maxwell v. Lincoln & Fifth Ward Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ill.] 74 N. E. 804. Following cases cited in 3 C. L. 34, n. 32. Steger v. Traveling Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 208 Ill. 236, 70 N. E. 236.

49, 50. Steger v. Traveling Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 208 Ill. 236, 70 N. E. 236.

51. Cannot affect priority of liens. Steger v. Traveling Men's Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 208 Ill. 236, 70 N. E. 236.

52. See those titles.

53. Suit to quiet title not without jurisdiction, though party defendant was dead when suit begun. McClymond v. Noble, 84 Minn. 329, 87 N. W. 838. The common-law rule that a suit begun in the name of a dead man is a nullity applies to cases under the Indian depredation act. Gallegos v. Navajos, 39 Ct. Cl. 86.

54. A proceeding to obtain a license to sell intoxicating liquors, under the statute, is a judicial proceeding in the nature of a civil,[55] criminal,[56] or quasi-criminal[57] in nature. Civil actions are either equitable or legal according to whether the case is cognizable at law or equity.[58]

The manner of commencing[59] an action varies in the different states; in some it is commenced by the issuance of a notice[60] or summons;[61] in others by the service thereof.[62]

Termination.[63]

The independent and separate existence of an action may be terminated by consolidation.[64]

Act of God; Additional Allowances; Ademption of Legacies, see latest topical index.

ADJOINING OWNERS.[65]

The owner of land may put it to any use which is reasonable, considering his interest and that of other persons affected by it.[66] The test to determine whether a particular use is reasonable is to inquire whether it is such a use as the ordinary man would make of his premises;[67] but no one has a right by an artificial structure of any kind upon his own land to cause the water which falls and accumulates thereon in rain or snow to be discharged upon the land of an adjacent proprietor,[68] nor has one a right to heap up loose earth upon his own land in such manner that if proper precautions are not taken to confine it, it must necessarily escape upon the land of his neighbor.[69] One who in tearing down his building injures the building of his neighbor is liable to him in damages.[70] civil action. Bryan v. De Moss [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 156.

55. Prosecutions for the violation of municipal ordinances are civil suits. Fortune v. Wilburton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 738; Unger v. Fanwood Tp., 69 N. J. Law, 548, 55 A. 42. But see Noland v. People [Colo.] 80 P. 887, where the action is spoken of as being quasi-criminal. See, also, Appeal and Review, 3 C. L. 167; Indictment and prosecution, 4 C. L. 1; and also topics where it is necessary to determine the civil or criminal character of the suit in order to determine matters of procedure; for instance, Bastards, 3 C. L. 496; Contempt, 3 C. L. 795; Habeas Corpus, 3 C. L. 1576; Jury, 4 C. L. 358, etc.

56. Where the punishment prescribed for violating an ordinance is imprisonment to be imposed by a justice of the peace, the suit is in the nature of a criminal proceeding. Unger v. Fanwood Tp., 69 N. J. Law, 548, 55 A. 42. A proceeding by a bankrupt's trustee to recover assets, alleged to belong to the bankrupt, from a third person, is not criminal in its nature because the person proceeded against may be punished for contempt if he fails to comply with the court's order. In re Alphin & Lake Cotton Co., 134 F. 477.

57. An action brought by a city for the breach of an ordinance forbidding the erection of wooden buildings within fire limits is quasi-criminal. Noland v. People [Colo.] 80 P. 887. But see ante, Fortune v. Wilburton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 738, and Unger v. Fanwood Tp., 69 N. J. Law, 548, 55 A. 42, where such actions are spoken of as civil.

58. See Equity, 3 C. L. 1210. As the distinction is now mainly important in determining matters of procedure, the question is treated under the various practice titles, such as Jury, 4 C. L. 358; Trial, 2 C. L. 1907, etc.

59. See 3 C. L. 36.

60. Under the conformity act (Rev. St. § 914 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 684]) an action may be instituted by such notice in a Federal court in Virginia in accordance with the state practice. Leas & McVitty v. Merriman, 132 F. 510. See, also, the topics enumerated under the head Federal Procedure in the Topical Index.

61. Under Code 1899, c. 124, § 5. Honesdale Shoe Co. v. Montgomery [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 434. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2524, and Code Civ. Prac. § 39, an action is commenced when the petition is filed and the summons issued, though the petition is not verified until later. City of Dayton v. Hirth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1136. An action to contest a will, when dismissed for want of prosecution and recommenced, will be deemed to have been begun on the date of service of summons issued against the first co-defendant served. Hunt v. Hunt, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 577.

62. For the purposes of the statute of limitations, Code Civ. Proc. § 398. Metz v. Metz, 90 N. Y. S. 340.

63. See 3 C. L. 36.

64. Allen v. McRae [Wis.] 100 N. W. 12. For the law relative to the consolidation of actions, see Trial, 4 C. L. 1708.

65. See 3 C. L. 36.

66. Where water collected on the roof of one owner and flowed onto the premises of another, undermining the foundation of his buildings, the court properly refused to instruct that ordinary care was not the measure of his duty. Hamlin v. Blankenburg [N. H.] 60 A. 1010.

67. Hamlin v. Blankenburg [N. H.] 60 A. 1010.

68. Huber v. Stark [Wis.] 102 N. W. 12.

69. Where one filled in a ravine, the mouth of which opened on a creek, the bed of which contained valuable deposits of

Notwithstanding a railroad may have been built and is operated by authority of law, an abutting owner may recover for an injury to his property without proof of negligence.[71]

An encroachment by one onto the domain of another, as by projecting the eaves of his building over the boundary, is remediable in equity.[72] One will not be compelled to abate a nuisance in a manner that will cause irreparable damage to his property, even though complete relief cannot be had in any other way.[73] The continuance of the blowing and drifting of the seeds of noxious weeds from the land of one owner to that of an adjoiner will not be enjoined,[74] and if one can recover damages because of such wrong he cannot recover the expense necessary to remove the weeds from his land until the amount is definitely ascertained.[75]

Lateral support.[76]—The right of lateral support is the right to have the land in its natural state supported by the adjacent land. It is an incident to the land, a right of property necessarily and naturally attached to the soil.[77] A landowner does not suffer damages recoverable at law for injury to lateral support of his property until it is so much disturbed that it slides or falls away.[78] One making an excavation on his own land, deeper than the foundation of a building on an adjoining lot, must notify the adjoining owner of the proposed excavation and afford him a reasonable opportunity to protect his property.[79] This rule is applicable to municipal corporations and their contractors,[80] and failure to give such notice is actionable negligence.[81]

Common ways and appurtenances.[82]—A right of way belonging to a railroad company is private property as to an adjoining owner and the latter has no easement thereon of light, air and view.[83] Where one has acquiesced in an interference with his light and air rights for a long period, equity will not grant relief if it will cause irreparable injury to his neighbor.[84]

Measure of damages.[85]—Where an excavation is made in a manner free from negligence, the measure of damages is the injury to the land without regard to buildings or structures thereon,[86] and for injuring an adjoining owner's buildsand and was owned by his neighbor, the loose earth was washed by the rains onto the sand beds. American Security & Trust Co. v. Lyon, 21 App. D. C. 122.

70. McClelland v. Baum, 91 N. Y. S. 719.

71. Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. Sinnet, 111 Ill. App. 75.

72. May be enjoined as a continuing trespass. Huber v. Stark [Wis.] 102 N. W. 12.

73. Will not be compelled to remove a passageway over an alley between his hotel kitchen and dining room which tends to retain in the alley odors from the kitchen which go into an adjoining owner's rooms when the wind is in a certain direction. Washington Lodge, No. 54, I. O. O. F., v. Frelinghuysen [Mich.] 101 N. W. 569.

74, 75. Harndon v. Stultz, 124 Iowa, 734, 100 N. W. 851.

76. See 3 C. L. 37.

Note: Liability for removal of lateral support by dredging the bed of navigable bodies of water, see White v. Nassau Trust Co., 168 N. Y. 149, 64 L. R. A. 275, and note.

77. Jones v. Greenfield, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 315. The owner of land has an absolute right to the lateral support of his ground in its natural state. Ruppert v. West Side Belt R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 613.

78. Kansas City & N. W. R. Co. v. Schwake [Kan.] 78 P. 431.

Note: It was contended that the original act of excavating which would cause the subsidence of the land was itself the infringement upon the right of lateral support. Though the right of lateral support is a natural right (Schultz v. Bower, 57 Minn. 493, 47 Am. St. Rep. 630), until a man's ordinary enjoyment of his land is interfered with, this right is not infringed (Backhouse v. Bonomi, 9 H. L. Cas. 503). The actionable wrong consists in allowing the land of the adjoining owner to fall, not in excavating on one's own land. Williams v. Kenney, 14 Barb. [N. Y.] 629.—5 Columbia L. R. 167.

79, 80. Gerst v. St. Louis [Mo.] 84 S. W. 34.

81. The publication of ordinances relative to sewers held not to be notice to an owner that an excavation dangerous to his property was about to be made. Gerst v. St. Louis [Mo.] 84 S. W. 34.

82. See 3 C. L. 39.

83. Osburn v. Chicago, 105 Ill. App. 217.

84. Washington Lodge, No. 54, I. O. O. F. v. Frelinghuysen [Mich.] 101 N. W. 569.

85. See 3 C. L. 40.

86. Jones v. Greenfield, 25 Pa. Super. Ct.

ing by making an excavation, it is the permanent depreciation in the value of the building,[87] less the amount such owner would have been obliged to expend to prevent injury to his building had he received timely notice of the proposed excavation.[88] Exemplary damages may be recovered for a malicious interference with property rights.[89]

ADJOURNMENTS; ADMINISTRATION, see latest topical index.

ADMIRALTY.

This topic includes only admiralty jurisdiction and practice. The law of maritime traffic and navigation is treated elsewhere.[90]

§ 1. Jurisdiction and courts.[91]—The statutes of the United States giving the Federal courts exclusive jurisdiction in admiralty cases expressly save to suitors in all cases the right of a common-law remedy where the common law is competent to give it.[92] By admiralty cases is meant suits in rem against a vessel.[93] Hence a state court is not deprived of jurisdiction of a suit against a carrier for damages to and loss of goods, merely because the answer alleges that the carriage was by water and that the loss was due to dangers of navigation, from liability for which defendant was exempted by the bill of lading and a general average bond.[94]

A citizen of the United States who is a party to a suit of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction cannot be deprived of his right to have such suit adjudicated by a court upon which admiralty jurisdiction has been conferred pursuant to the constitution.[95] Hence the treaty between Germany and the United States, giving the consular officers of each country exclusive power to determine differences between the captains and crews of vessels of their own nation, and prohibiting the courts of the other country from interfering therein, does not deprive the courts of the United States of jurisdiction to determine the rights of an American seaman who enters and leaves the service of a German vessel within this country.[96] A seaman claiming wages for services is not to be deemed a member of the crew of a ship within such treaty, if he was never legally bound to serve as such for a specified voyage or for a definite period of time.[97]

A court of admiralty may, in its discretion, take jurisdiction of a suit by sea-

315. A map showing the effect of the removal of lateral support held admissible on the question of damages. Ruppert v. West Side Belt R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 613.

87, 88. Gerst v. St. Louis [Mo.] 84 S. W. 34.

89. Interference with a servitude of view and drip. Bernos v. Canepa [La.] 38 So. 438.

90. See Shipping and Water Traffic, 4 C. L. 1450.

91. See 3 C. L. 40.

92. Rev. St. § 563, subd. 8, Comp. St. 1901, p. 457. John Meunier Gun Co. v. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 386.

93. John Meunier Gun Co. v. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 386.

94. May take jurisdiction of and determine questions of general average. Pleadings held not to show case within exclusive jurisdiction of Federal courts. John Meunier Gun Co. v. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 386.

95. The Neck 138 F. 144.

96. Art. 13, Treaty of Dec. 11, 1871, 17 Stat. 928. Suit to recover wages. The Neck, 138 F. 144.

97. Because hired in violation of Act Dec. 21, 1898, c. 28, 30 Stat. 763, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3079, prohibiting payment of wages to seamen in advance, and makes contract invalid in case of its violation. The Neck, 138 F. 144. Treaty above referred to does not exempt German vessels from operation of this act. Id.

men to recover wages from a foreign ship,[98] and will do so where libelants are Americans, and show a strong case for immediate relief,[99] or where they invoke provisions of the statutes of the United States.[1]

Maritime contracts.[2]—In order that a court of admiralty may have jurisdiction of a suit on a contract, it must be maritime in character;[3] but if maritime in character, the court will inquire into all its breaches and all the damages suffered thereby, however peculiar they may be and whatever issue they may involve.[4]

The lien of an oral pledge of freight is properly enforced by libel in admiralty.[5] The Federal statutes relating to the recording of mortgages do not make them, when so recorded, maritime liens enforceable in the first instance in a court of admiralty.[6] Where a court of admiralty has a fund arising from the sale of a vessel in its registry for distribution, and the maritime liens have been paid, the holder of a mortgage which has been recorded in accordance with the Federal statute may prove his claim against the fund, and is entitled to payment therefrom in the order of his priority.[7]

Admiralty courts have exclusive jurisdiction of salvage cases,[8] and of suits to enforce liens given by state statutes, to be enforced by a proceeding in rem, for repairs or supplies furnished to a vessel in her home port.[9]

State courts have jurisdiction of actions on maritime contracts to be performed on the high seas.[10]

Maritime torts.[11]—Every species of tort, however occurring, and whether on board a vessel or not, if upon the high seas or navigable waters, is of admiralty cognizance.[12] A proceeding in rem by the United States for the purpose of recovering a penalty for violation of the inspection laws is one in admiralty.[13]

98, 99, 1. The Alnwick, 132 F. 117.

2. See 3 C. L. 41.

3. Traffic agreement between railroad company and owner of steamships held not maritime. Graham v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. 134 F. 454. A contract on the part of a railroad company to furnish cargoes to the libelant and on the part of the libelant to furnish steamships to carry the cargoes so furnished is maritime. Graham v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 135 F. 608.

For an exhaustive note as to admiralty jurisdiction in matters of contract, see 66 L. R. A. 193.

4. Immaterial that some provisions are not maritime. Graham v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 134 F. 454.

5. Bank of British North America v. Freights, etc., of the Ansgar, 127 F. 859.

6. Rev. St. §§ 4192, 4193, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2837. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963.

7. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963. On hearing of suit in state court to set aside mortgage on vessel, bill was dismissed, and temporary injunction restraining its foreclosure was dissolved. Mortgagee then assigned mortgage. Subsequently appeal was allowed and injunction reinstated on complainant giving bond. While appeal was pending vessel was libeled for seamen's wages in court of admiralty and sold at instance of owner, all liens being transferred to proceeds. Owner then assigned his interest to third person. Held, that pendency of suit in state court did not preclude assignee of mortgage from proving same against fund in admiralty court, or prevent that court from passing on the claim and distributing the fund. Id.

8. Captain of revenue cutter at Nome, when no court there, had no authority to determine rights of salvors, unless as arbitrator by agreement of the parties. Standard Marine Ins. Co. v. Nome Beach L. & T. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 636.

9. Is in nature of maritime lien. Fredericks v. James Rees & Sons Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 730.

10. Gill v. North American Transportation & Trading Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 778.

11. See 3 C. L. 41.

12. The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

NOTE. Admiralty jurisdiction over torts: The supreme court has recognized that when the framers of the constitution provided that the courts of the United States should have jurisdiction in "all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction," they did not necessarily mean that jurisdiction exercised by the English admiralty courts, hampered by the prejudices of common-law judges, but the analogous jurisdiction exercised by the courts of other countries, and more particularly that exercised by the colonial courts. Waring v. Clarke, 5 How. [U. S.] 441, 12 Law. Ed. 226; The Lottawanna, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 558, 22 Law. Ed. 654; Benedict's Admiralty [3d Ed.] §§ 9, 118, 165, 192. Accordingly our courts have refused to limit the jurisdiction of admiralty in cases of contract, as did the English courts, to those made upon the sea and to be performed thereon, but disregarding the test of locality, have assumed jurisdiction over contracts of a mari-

A court of admiralty has jurisdiction of a libel in rem against a vessel for negligently running into and destroying a beacon surrounded by water, though it is built upon piles driven firmly into the bottom.[14] It has jurisdiction to limit liability only in case it could take original cognizance of a suit in rem or in personam to recover the loss or damage upon which the claim is made.[15]

The right to sue in admiralty for wrongful death exists only by virtue of the statutes of the various states,[16] and any defense allowed by such statutes, if successfully maintained, will bar recovery under the libel.[17]

§ 2. Remedies and remedial rights.[18]—In the absence of statute, a suit in rem against a ship for personal injuries abates by the death of the libelant.[19] In states where the right of action survives, however, his representative may be substituted and the suit continued in his name.[20] In such case a bond executed to time nature irrespective of where made or where to be performed. Insurance Co. v. Dunham, 11 Wall. [U. S.] 1, 20 Law. Ed. 90; afg. De Lovio v. Boit, 2 Gall. 397. In matters of tort, however, the locality rule was not called in question, since it was assumed that a tort, unlike the performance of a contract, to be of a maritime nature must be committed upon the sea. The first decision on the question was in 1865, when the supreme court applied the locality test, and held that an injury to an object on the shore caused by a vessel constituted no maritime tort, since the wrong was consummated upon the shore. The Plymouth, 3 Wall. [U. S.] 20, 18 Law. Ed. 125. As a matter of principle it is difficult to see in the case of a contract any more reason than in the case of a tort why the maritime nature of the transaction, rather than the locality test, should determine jurisdiction, whether the tort be to or by a ship. Atlee v. Union Packet Co., 21 Wall. [U. S.] 389, 22 Law. Ed. 619; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Towboat Co., 23 How. [U. S.] 209, 16 Law. Ed. 433. Though Mr. Justice Story assumed in De Lovio v. Boit, 2 Gall. 397, that the locality rule would still determine the jurisdiction over torts, yet it has been held that admiralty would not take jurisdiction over torts occurring within the locality where the tort was not of a maritime nature, (Campbell v. Hackfeld, 125 F. 696), and if we assume that there may be torts of a maritime nature not happening technically upon the sea (compare Perry v. Haines, 191 U. S. 17, 33, 48 Law. Ed. 73), his argument in that case as to contracts would apply equally well to torts, and no other decisions than the cases following The Plymouth, 3 Wall. [U. S.] 20, 18 Law. Ed. 125, could be found against such a position. A recent case in the supreme court, where a vessel had injured a beacon, a fixture permanently attached to the land, seems to have assimilated torts to contracts and to have made the maritime nature of the offense determine jurisdiction, rather than locality. The Blackheath, 195 U. S. 361, 49 Law. Ed. —. Mr. Justice Holmes sees distinguishing facts, but Mr. Justice Brown gives it this full effect, practically overruling The Plymouth and making the jurisdiction in admiralty in the United States co-extensive with the enlarged statutory jurisdiction of the English admiralty, which extends to "claims for damages by any ship." Admiralty Jurisdiction Act 1861, § 7. If this be the correct interpretation of the decision, the locality rule has been abandoned as to torts and a rule analogous to that adopted in the case of contracts applied. The pure locality test seems to be an arbitrary one, and while the nature of a tort may at times be difficult of determination, there would seem to be no more difficulty in the case of a tort than of a contract. When The Plymouth was decided, admiralty was looked upon as the agency of a centralized government and its jurisdiction regarded with suspicion; otherwise it would seem that the fact that in all the colonial charters as well as in the Virginia Statute of 1660, presumably in the minds of the framers of the constitution, there were words conferring upon the vice-admiralty courts jurisdiction over the "seashore and coasts," might have been used to determine that case in favor of the admiralty jurisdiction, even within the locality test. See Waring v. Clarke, 5 How. [U. S.] 441, 12 Law. Ed. 226. The jurisdiction of our admiralty court is derived from the constitution; it must be determined solely by the courts in construing the constitutional grant, and since the legislature cannot extend that jurisdiction to meet modern necessities (The Lottawanna, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 558, 22 Law. Ed. 654), it is incumbent on the courts to give full effect to the broad terms of the constitutional grant.—5 Columbia L. R. 312.

13. Not a criminal proceeding. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784.

14. Mere fact that it was not afloat immaterial. United States v. Evans, 25 S. Ct. 46.

15. The San Rafael, 134 F. 749.

16. See Quinette v. Bisso [C. C. A.] 136 F. 825. Court of admiralty has jurisdiction of a suit to recover damages from a vessel at fault for a collision on the high seas for loss of life resulting from the sinking of the other vessel, where a right of recovery for death by wrongful act is given by the statutes of the state to which both vessels belonged. Both part of the territory of such state and subject to its laws. In re Clyde S. S. Co., 134 F. 95.

17. Under La. Civ. Code, art. 2315, contributory negligence is a complete defense. Deceased held not guilty of such negligence. Quinette v. Bisso [C. C. A.] 136 F. 825.

18. See 3 C. L. 42.

19. The City of Belfast, 135 F. 208.

20. May be done under Pa. Act 1851, § 18 (P. L. 674). Suit by stevedore for injuries relieve the ship will be continued to secure any judgment which such representative may recover.[21]

As a general rule courts of admiralty govern themselves by the analogies of the common-law limitations.[22]

§ 3. Practice and procedure. A. Pleading, process, etc.[23]—Corporations have the same right as a natural person to maintain a libel in admiralty, in rem or in personam, and a libel in admiralty will lie against a corporation.[24] The court may properly allow a number of libelants having similar claims to join in and together prosecute an action in rem against the vessel to recover damages alleged to have been sustained by them severally.[25] Courts of admiralty do not encourage litigation by mere volunteers, and therefore one to whom claims for damages have been assigned solely for the purpose of bringing suit thereon has no standing to prosecute them.[26]

In order to obtain leave to maintain a suit in forma pauperis, the Federal statute relating to such suits must be complied with as well as the rules of the admiralty court in that regard.[27]

A citation in a suit in personam must be personally served on the defendant.[28] In case he cannot be found, libelant should proceed by attachment of his property.[29]

It is not error to permit a libel in which a large number of persons join to be signed and verified by their proctor in behalf of those of them who are shown to be outside of the state.[30] On sustaining exceptions to a libel for want of jurisdiction, it is proper to grant leave to amend, if the case is such that facts may be alleged which will bring it within the court's jurisdiction.[31]

A petition to limit liability must state the facts and circumstances by reason of which exemption is claimed, in order to entitle the petitioner to contest the question of fault on the part of the vessel;[32] but a failure to do so cannot be taken advantage of by the adverse parties, where, by stipulation, such proceedings have been consolidated with cross suits between the two vessels, in which the question of liability has been put in issue by the pleadings.[33] In such a proceeding the petition and answer on the one hand and the claims of damages on the other present distinct issues, which are to be separately adjudicated in the order named.[34] The petition for limitation of liability must allege the facts necessary to entitle the sustained in unloading ship. The City of Belfast, 135 F. 208.

21. The City of Belfast, 135 F. 208.

22. Where nothing exceptional in the case. Donald v. Guy, 135 F. 429. Owner of vessel not debarred by laches from recovering from her pilot the amount of damages paid by her on account of a collision due to pilot's negligence, where suit brought within time allowed by state statute for suing on similar claims. Id.

23. See 3 C. L. 42.

24. Clark & M. Corp. § 261.

25. For failure to keep vessel clean, and to furnish proper food and accommodations. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

26. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

27. Under Act July 20, 1892, 27 Stat. 252, 2 Supp. Rev. St. 41, Comp. St. 1901, p. 706, must aver that he is citizen of United States, and make affidavit that he is unable to give security for costs, and that he believes he is entitled to the redress he seeks. Donovan v. Salem & P. Nav. Co., 134 F. 316. Compliance with admiralty rules 4 and 5 of eastern district of Pennsylvania insufficient. Id. When process has issued without required showing, libelant may be allowed to supply the omission under § 2 of the act on a motion to require security being made. Id.

28. Exhibiting original to servant in defendant's family at his residence, and leaving copy with her is insufficient. Walker v. Hughes, 132 F. 885.

29. In accordance with ninth admiralty rule. Walker v. Hughes, 132 F. 885.

30. Practice not one to be commended. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

31. If facts exist which show that there is a maritime cause of action. Graham v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 134 F. 692.

32. Admiralty rule 56. The Sacramento, 131 F. 373; The Trader, 129 F. 462.

33. The Trader, 129 F. 462.

34, 35. In re Davidson S. S. Co., 133 F. 411.

petitioner, under the statute, to the relief sought.[35] A claimant contesting the right must take issue by answer, which must be full and explicit and distinct to each separate article and allegation as is required in answers to libels.[36] If the answer does not acknowledge the truth of the allegations of the petition, they must be proved.[37] The proof required in support of the petition that any liability incurred was without the privity or knowledge of the petitioner does not reach the subsequent issue of liability of the vessel for the individual claims sought to be proved,[38] but that issue must also be presented by appropriate pleadings conforming to the general practice in admiralty, the claimant being required to allege and prove a cause of action as in an original suit.[39]

Interrogatories[40] may be propounded touching any matter charged in the libel, or any matter of defence set up in the answer.[41] They must be as to material matters,[42] and must be definite.[43] Interrogatories annexed to an answer in a proceeding for limitation of liability, which are directed solely to the discovery of assets of the petitioner, are immaterial, and are subject to exception.[44]

(§ 3) B. Evidence, proof, hearing, and decree.[45]—The proof of the respective parties must conform to the issues tendered by their pleadings.[46] Where a large number of libelants having similar claims are permitted to join in a suit in rem against the vessel for damages for injuries from causes common to all, and which may be proved by the same evidence, it is not essential that each should testify, or that his damage be separately proved.[47]

The court may, when necessary, authorize the employment of a stenographer to take and transcribe the testimony before a commissioner on a reference, and direct that his fees shall be taxed as costs.[48]

In determining the measure of damages in case of death by wrongful act, the Federal courts will be governed by the decisions of the highest court of the state by virtue of whose statutes the suit is brought.[49]

As in the case of other judicial sales, a sale of vessel seized under proceedings in admiralty is not completed until confirmed by the court.[50] A sale not officially confirmed will be set aside and a new sale ordered on an offer of a materially increased bid, notwithstanding the fact that the first purchaser has deposited the amount of his bid in court, and incurred expense on account of his supposed purchase.[51]

36. Admiralty rules 56, 27. Answer held insufficient in certain respects. In re Davidson S. S. Co., 133 F. 411.

37, 38. In re Davidson S. S. Co., 133 F. 411.

39. Claim not stating facts upon which liability is asserted held insufficient. In re Davidson S. S. Co., 133 F. 411.

40. See 3 C. L. 43.

41. Admiralty rule 32, S. D., N. Y. In re Knickerbocker Steamboat Co., 136 F. 956.

42, 43, 44. In re Knickerbocker Steamboat Co., 136 F. 956.

45. See 3 C. L. 43.

46. Barber v. Lockwood, 134 F. 985. Libelants are not entitled to recover on a theory outside of or repugnant to the scope of the libel. Where libel against sanitary district to recover damages to shipping was predicated on the introduction of any current into river which would render navigation more difficult and expensive than it previously was, libelants could not recover on account of the speed of the current on the day when the damages occurred. Corrigan Transit Co. v. Sanitary Dist. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 851. Where sought to hold district under permit by secretary of war authorizing it to introduce current into river, an objection that secretary had no authority to issue permit because statute giving him such power was unconstitutional, held outside the scope of, and repugnant to, the libel. Id.

47. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609.

48. Will do so where parties refuse to stipulate for his employment, and services are necessary if progress is to be made on hearing, as where large number of disputed items of account are involved. Rogers v. Brown, 136 F. 813.

49. Quinette v. Bisso [C. C. A.] 136 F. 825.

50. Purchaser acquires no rights until confirmation. The Sue, 137 F. 133.

51. Order confirming sale entered with memorandum directing clerk to hold decree for five days subject to objection, and if none made, then to enter it of record. New bid before expiration of that time. The Sue, 137 F. 133.

Interest[52] is recoverable as a matter of right on claims arising out of contract,[53] but the allowance of interest by way of damages, as in cases of collision and the like, is in the discretion of the court.[54] This rule does not, however, apply in actions for damages for personal injuries, and interest should never be allowed on the amount awarded in that class of cases.[55]

Costs.[56]—The allowance of costs is discretionary with the court.[57] As a general rule they follow the decree, but the rule may be departed from in cases where circumstances of equity, hardship, oppression, or negligence render it proper to do so.[58] All costs necessarily or properly incurred may be allowed.[59] In the absence of fraud, the right thereto is not barred by reason of the fact that the amount recovered is less than that claimed.[60]

In a proceeding for limitation of liability, where there is an appraisal and a stipulation for value given, the petitioner may deduct from the fund the expenses of administration, not including the costs and expenses of procuring and giving the stipulation, nor the appraisal.[61] He is entitled to but one docket fee.[62] Each person recovering damages is entitled to a separate proctor's fee, payable by the stipulators for costs, and not out of the fund.[63]

Counsel fees may be allowed where there is a fund in court, irrespective of statutory provisions.[64] Proctors representing more than one petition are not entitled to separate docket fees.[65]

A defaulting respondent, who settles the case out of court, is not entitled to have a release, executed by the libelant on such settlement, filed in satisfaction of the judgment against him except on payment of the accrued costs.[66]

§ 4. Appeals and subsequent proceedings.[67]—An appeal lies from any final decree in admiralty,[68] and the case is tried de novo.[69] Findings of fact on conflicting evidence will not be disturbed unless clearly against the weight of the

52. See 3 C. L. 44.

53. As on claim for freight. Bethell v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 135 F. 445.

54. Bethell v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 135 F. 445. Whether interest shall be allowed by the court of first instance, or by the appellate court, on account of damage in a collision case. Burrows v. Lownsdale [C. C. A.] 133 F. 250. On adjustment of conflicting claims. The Eliza Lines [C. C. A.] 132 F. 242. The allowance of interest on damages for delay in the transportation of horses depends upon circumstances and rests in the discretion of the court. Libel in personam. La Conner Trading & Transp. Co. v. Widmer [C. C. A.] 136 F. 177.

See, also, The Cumberland, 135 F. 234.

55. Burrows v. Lownsdale [C. C. A.] 133 F. 250.

56. See 3 C. L. 44.

57. Bethell v. Mellor & Rittenhouse Co., 135 F. 445. Entirely under control of court. The Maurice, 130 F. 634. Are wholly within the control of the court, and are allowed upon equitable considerations. The Oregon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 609. Allowance of proctor's fee of $10 in each case held proper, where large number of libelants appeared by same attorney, and cause of action of each was proved by substantially the same witnesses. Id. Allowance of deposition fees for examining witnesses approved. Id.

58. The Maurice, 130 F. 634.

59. Where vessel libeled for collision is held without fault and libel is dismissed at libelant's costs. May include those incident to bringing in new party under rule 59. The Maurice, 130 F. 634. A libelant will be required to pay additional costs incurred by reason of his misstatements and misrepresentations on a hearing before a commissioner to whom the assessment of damages is referred. Required to pay half commissioner's and stenographer's costs on account of misstatements as to health and ability to work. The Elton, 135 F. 446.

60. Right of libelant who recovers damages for collision in which his own vessel was not in fault. The Thomas M. Parsons, 129 F. 972.

61, 62, 63. In re Excelsior Coal Co., 136 F. 271.

64. Allowance equivalent to one docket fee to each proctor who filed petition, held reasonable. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963.

65. The Gordon Campbell, 131 F. 963.

66. Naretti v. Scully, 133 F. 828.

67. See 3 C. L. 44.

68. Whether one to enforce forfeiture or penalty by the United States, or by an informer in his own name. The Ben R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 784. Lies from dismissal of libel by United States brought for purpose of enforcing penalty for violation of Act Jan. 18, 1897, c. 61, 29 Stat. 489, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3029, relating to inspection of gasoline vessels. Id.

69. Perriam v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 140.

evidence,[70] where the trial judge saw and heard the witnesses.[71] Where, however, he saw none of them, the entire record will be examined.[72] Since the amount of a salvage award rests largely in the discretion of the trial court, it will not be readjusted where there has been no mistake of fact or application of an unwarranted rule of compensation in arriving at the award.[73]

Sureties on a stipulation for the release of a libeled vessel are not parties to the suit in such a sense as to require them to be joined in an appeal by the claimant from the decree therein, unless some question involving their rights or obligations has arisen in the suit.[74] This is true though such decree is joint in form against the claimant and the stipulators.[75]

As in other cases, the right to review may be waived.[76] Where cross suits between the same parties, one in the circuit court and one in the district court in admiralty, are by agreement tried together on the same evidence, but separate judgments are entered in each court, a subsequent order of the trial judge finding that the causes were consolidated into the admiralty case does not effect a nunc pro tunc consolidation, and the judgment remaining of record in the circuit court is not reviewable on an appeal taken in the admiralty suit.[77]

A general exception to the amount of a finding by a commissioner on a reference is sufficient, where all the evidence is attached to his report.[78] A plain error in a computation by a commissioner may be corrected where it was called to the attention of the trial court, though no formal exception was taken to the commissioner's report on that ground.[79]

A rehearing will not be granted to enable a defeated party to introduce further evidence which was fully known to him and might have been introduced at the original hearing, but was not because counsel deemed it immaterial.[80]

ADMISSIONS, see latest topical index.

ADOPTION OF CHILDREN.

§ 1. Adoptive acts and proceedings.[81]—The adoption of children is a statutory proceeding and all recitals of the statute are mandatory.[82] Thus failure to record the instrument of adoption may render the act of adoption void.[83] But

70. As to salvage services. Perriam v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 140.

71. Unless there is a decided preponderance of evidence against it. Collision. The Edward Smith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 32. Unless clearly unsupported by the evidence, where he saw most of the witnesses. Action for failure of ship to furnish proper treatment to injured seaman. The Svealand [C. C. A.] 136 F. 109. Unless it clearly appears that it is contrary to the evidence. Collision. Jameson v. Lewis [C. C. A.] 131 F. 728.

72. Lazarus v. Barber [C. C. A.] 136 F. 534.

73. Item of freight wholly eliminated. Perriam v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 140.

74. Stipulation follows appeal, and is subject to the decision thereof. Perriam v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 140.

75. Perriam v. Pacific Coast Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 140.

76. Though a decree dismissing a libel by a charterer to recover damages for breach of a charter party is erroneous, it cannot be reversed further than to award costs to the libelant, where, with his acquiescence, a portion of the damages claimed by him were proved and allowed as a set-off in a cross-action brought against him by the owners in another court, and no review of the judgment in the latter action has been sought. Shotter Co. v. Larsen [C. C. A.] 134 F. 705.

77. Shotter Co. v. Larsen [C. C. A.] 134 F. 705.

78. Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Morris & C. Dredging Co., 132 F. 154.

79. The Eliza Lines [C. C. A.] 132 F. 242.

80. Fact not incorporated into agreed statement of facts on which case was tried. Merchants' Banking Co. v. Cargo of The Afton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 727.

81. See 3 C. L. 45.

82. Burnes v. Burnes, 132 F. 485.

83. As under Iowa statute. James v. James, 35 Wash. 650, 77 P. 1080.

while such statutes, being in derogation of the common law, should be strictly construed, their construction should not be so narrow as to defeat the purpose and intent of the legislature.[84] Some statutes provide for the adoption of both adults and minors.[85] The consent of the parent[86] or other person[87] who has or is entitled to the custody of a child is essential.

A judicial order of adoption[88] need not specify the rights which the statute fixes. A jurisdictional finding omitted by the clerk may be supplied nunc pro tunc.[89] The right to attack a decree may be barred by laches.[90] Whether there has been an adoption may be a question of fact.[91]

Conflict of laws.[92]—An adoption under the laws of one state, and valid under those laws, will be recognized and enforced in another state, if not repugnant to its laws or policy.[93] The burden of proving such repugnancy is on the party attacking the decree of adoption.[94]

Contracts of adoption.[95]—A contract to adopt is ineffective unless executed.[96] A deed in which the grantee is described as the grantor's adopted daughter cannot be regarded as an adoption of the grantee as the grantor's legal heir in pursuance of a special act of the legislature authorizing such adoption.[97]

§ 2. Consequences of adoption.[98]—Generally, an adopted child has all the rights of a natural child,[99] including the right to inherit from the person adopting

84. Brown's Adoption, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 259. Document signed by two brothers and their wives adopting a deceased brother's children, acknowledged and recorded as required by statute, held a valid adoption, as to the men, under Missouri statutes, though wives were not separately examined. Burnes v. Burnes, 132 F. 485.

85. So in Louisiana, as in Massachusetts. Succession of Caldwell [La.] 38 So. 140. Act No. 31 of 1872, p. 79, applies only to adoption of minors, has no repealing clause and did not abrogate the provisions of Civ. Code, art. 214, relative to the adoption of adults. Id.

86. In Washington consent of the mother of a child to its adoption by another is necessary only when she is living with her husband, or has custody and control of her child. James v. James, 35 Wash. 655, 77 P. 1082.

87. The Iowa statute does not authorize the adoption of an orphan grandchild, in the custody of its grandparents, by a collateral relative, over the protests of its grandparents. Construing Code, §§ 3250, 3254. Holmes v. Derrig [Iowa] 103 N. W. 973.

88. Order which strictly follows the statute is sufficient, though it does not in terms deprive the natural parents of "all legal rights whatsoever respecting the child." In re Sandon's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1089.

89. Court had power to amend order of adoption from which clerk had omitted finding that child was a resident of the county and within the court's jurisdiction. Ward v. Magness [Ark.] 86 S. W. 822.

90. The widow of a man who adopted a child previous to his marriage cannot, in the capacity of guardian of a child born 19 years after the decree, maintain a petition to revoke the adoption 21 years after the decree and 1½ years after her husband's death, on the ground that the record described him as a resident of Brooklyn, New York, without stating that he was a temporary resident of Pennsylvania. Brown's Adoption, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 259.

91. Evidence held to warrant finding that child had not been adopted as legal heir under Spanish law in force in Texas prior to 1840. Conrad v. Herring [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 427.

92. Note: See collection of cases on decrees of adoption in note to Irving v. Ford [183 Mass. 448] 65 L. R. A. 186; also 17 L. R. A. 435; and 39 Am. St. Rep. 229-231.

93. Adoption by uncle in Louisiana of niece in Massachusetts, under Massachusetts law, enforced in Louisiana. Succession of Caldwell [La.] 38 So. 140. A valid adoption under Iowa law will not be held void in Washington because the natural father of the adopted boy made false statements concerning the death of the boy's mother, and plaintiff would not have adopted the boy had he known the truth, nor because the boy became incorrigible, was sent to a reform school, from which he was afterward taken by his natural mother; nor because plaintiff removed to Washington, and took no steps there to adopt the boy. James v. James, 35 Wash. 655, 77 P. 1082.

94. Burden on party attacking Massachusetts decree to prove there was such a difference in the age of the parties that the adoption was repugnant to Louisiana laws. Succession of Caldwell [La.] 38 So. 140.

95. See 3 C. L. 46.

96. A contract to adopt, not signed by the foster mother and not carried out by foster father, held not to make child an heir or convey property to her, or bind foster father to make her his heir. Bowins v. English [Mich.] 101 N. W. 204.

97. Conrad v. Herring [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 427.

98. See 3 C. L. 46.

99. In Louisiana, as in Massachusetts, adopted children have all the rights of legitimate children. Succession of Caldwell [La.] 38 So. 140.

him.[1] But an adopted child can have no greater rights than a natural child,[2] and the rights granted and duties imposed by an adoption are only those granted and imposed by statute.[3] Adopting parents do not inherit from the adopted child.[4] One who adopts a minor as his child and heir has, while living, the same unlimited power of disposition of his property that a natural father has.[5] In the absence of an agreement to leave property to the adopted child, the promise to adopt cannot support a claim beyond the statutory provisions.[6] A child can inherit from a foster parent, though adopted without his knowledge or consent.[7] A child cannot inherit from one person's estate in the dual capacity of a blood relation and as an adopted child, but he can inherit both from his natural and the adopting parent.[8] A child adopted under a statute expressly excluding the right of inheritance from the rights of adopted children may nevertheless inherit from a foster parent whose death was subsequent to the passage of a statute giving adopted children the right of inheritance.[9] In Wisconsin a child duly adopted after execution of his foster parent's will, which makes no provision for him and shows no intention that no provision should be made, is entitled to a distributive share of the estate as though the testator had died inestate.[10]

To establish an exemption from the New York transfer tax under the statute exempting property transferred to a child to whom decedent stood for not less than ten years prior to the transfer in the mutually acknowledged relation of parent, it must be made to appear that the relation of parent and child was mutually acknowledged to exist.[11]

ADULTERATION.[12]

§ 1. Legislation and regulation.[13]—Legislation having for its object the

1. In Washington an adopted child is the heir of his adopters to the same extent as though born to them in lawful wedlock. James v. James, 35 Wash. 655, 77 P. 1082. In Texas the only effect of a statutory adoption is to make the child the heir at law of the person adopting him. Logan v. Lennix [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 364.

Note: The right of the adopted child to inherit depends to a great extent upon the statutes enacted in the various states, but the courts in construing this legislation draw a distinction between the legal status created by adoption and blood relationship, and hold that the adopted child may inherit from the blood relations of the adopting parent. Schouler, Domestic Rel. § 232; Humphries v. Davis, 100 Ind. 274, 50 Am. Rep. 788. In Maine, however, a somewhat different result was reached, and it was held that the status of an adopted child was such that under a will it would take as lineal descendant, the legatee having died in the lifetime of the testator.—Warner v. Prescott, 84 Me. 483, 30 Am. St. Rep. 370. Under the Michigan statute (Comp. Laws of 1897, § 8780, sub. 5), which provides that an adopted child shall become and be an heir at law of the person or persons adopting the same as if he or she were in fact the child of such person or persons, an adopted child is the heir of the adopting parent but is not the heir of the adopting parent's kindred. Van Derlyn v. Mack [Mich.] 100 N. W. 278.—3 Mich. L. R. 151.

2. Burnes v. Burnes, 132 F. 485.

3. Logan v. Lennix [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 364.

4. Property given to adopted daughter held to pass to next of kin and not to adopted mother. White v. Dotter [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1052. Mistake of fact and of law held not to affect devolution of property. Id.

5. Since there can be no heir of the living. Burnes v. Burnes [C. C. A.] 137 F. 781. The foster parent may disinherit him, or allow him to take a portion or all of his estate, subject to the rights of his wife, to the exclusion of his natural children. Burnes v. Burnes [C. C. A.] 132 F. 485.

6. Will disinheriting adopted child held binding on child. Logan v. Lennix [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 364.

7, 8. Burnes v. Burnes, 132 F. 485.

9. Construing Laws 1873, c. 830, and Laws 1887, c. 703. Theobald v. Smith, 92 N. Y. S. 1019.

10. Rev. St. 1898, § 2286, relative to children born after making of will, applies also to children adopted after foster parent's will has been executed. In re Sandon's Will [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1089.

11. No exemption under Laws 1896, c. 908, as amended by Laws 1901, c. 458, where both parties referred to transferee as niece and did not acknowledge her as daughter. In re Davis' Estate, 90 N. Y. S. 244.

12. See 3 C. L. 47. Regulations other than those against adulteration are treated prevention of fraud in the sale of food containing impurities or extraneous substances is constitutional.[14] Oleomargarine containing a small quantity of a vegetable oil to give it the color of butter is subject to the full tax on artificially colored oleomargarine, under the Federal act.[15]

§ 2. The offense.[16]—The sale of milk adulterated by adding thereto a substance containing poison is made a misdemeanor by the Nebraska pure food act.[17] The fact that the seller did not know that the substance added was poisonous is no defense to a prosecution under the act.[18] While it is not a violation of this act to sell a quantity of food for analysis upon demand, since the act makes refusal to comply with such demand a criminal offense,[19] yet a sale freely made in the ordinary course of trade without a demand therefor for the purpose of analysis, is a violation of the act, even though the purchaser intended to analyze it and the seller knew of his intention.[20] Under the Ohio statute it is held that a person who sells or delivers oleomargarine containing coloring matter to any person interested or demanding the same for analysis is guilty of a violation of the section of the statute making it a penal offense to "sell or deliver" oleomargarine so colored.[21]

§ 3. Enforcement and prosecution.[22]—An information under the Nebraska pure food act, alleging in substance that defendant unlawfully and knowingly sold milk to which a poisonous substance had been added, as and for pure milk, an article of food, is sufficient without a special allegation of guilty knowledge.[23] Such information sufficiently alleges that the milk was sold as an article of food.[24] The sale of milk which does not conform to the standards provided by the statute is conclusive evidence of a violation of the statute.[25] Where a complaint alleged in topics Commerce, 3 C. L. 711; Food, 3 C. L. 1433; and Health, 3 C. L. 1590.

13. See 3 C. L. 47.

14. Laws 1893, p. 655, c. 338, and Laws 1900, p. 187, c. 101, regulating sale of milk, valid. People v. Bowen [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 489. Act of June 26, 1895 (P. L. 317), prohibiting adulteration, and defining term food as used therein, held constitutional as applied to adulterated blackberry wine, and title of act held proper. Commonwealth v. Kebort, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 584.

15. Use of a slight amount of palm oil does not bring the oleomargarine within the proviso of the Federal act making the tax on oleomargarine "free from artificial coloration" less. Cliff v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 1. Finding that use of palm oil was substantially only for coloring purposes not disturbed on appeal. Id.

16. See 3 C. L. 47.

17. Construing Laws 1897, c. 99. Lansing v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 254.

18. Lansing v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 254.

19. Lansing v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 254. But see State v. Rippeth [Ohio] 72 N. E. 298, below.

20. Sec. 4 of the pure food act has no application to such a sale. Lansing v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 254.

NOTE: Sale for analysis: The Ohio statute provides under a penalty that no one shall "offer or expose for sale, sell or deliver, or have in possession with intent to sell" oleomargarine containing artificial coloring matter; also that any one having for sale goods included in the act shall, under penalty for refusal, deliver a sample for analysis to any one who demands the same and pays the price. In State v. Rippeth [Ohio] 72 N. E. 298, the defendant delivered oleomargarine containing artificial coloring to an official inspector who demanded the same for analysis and paid the price and it was held that the defendant was guilty on an affidavit charging him with having unlawfully "sold and delivered." (Compare Lansing v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 254, supra.)

An act to be punishable must come within the mischief aimed at by the statute. State v. Wray, 72 N. C. 253. The aim is to be gathered from the whole statute. Com. v. Hadley, 11 Met. 66. In the principal case the statute is for the protection of the public against fraud and injury to health. Waterbury v. Newton, 50 N. J. Law, 534; State v. Kelly, 54 Ohio St. 166, 180. One who receives pay from an officer for such a sample only under protest does not sell within the meaning of the act. Dinkelbihler v. State, 4 Ohio N. P. 313. Such a statute is not intended to prevent the sale of a sample in such a case, when it expressly commands it under penalty. Bates Ann. St. § 4200; State v. Dairy Co., 62 Ohio St. 123. This decision may be supported on an indictment charging the having in one's "possession with intent to sell." Bates Ann. St. § 4200.—5 Columbia L. R. 247.

21. State v. Rippeth [Ohio.] 72 N. E. 298.

22. See 3 C. L. 48.

23, 24. Lansing v. State [Neb.] 102 N. W. 254.

25. Construing Laws 1893, c. 338, and Laws 1900, c. 101, relating to sale of impure milk. People v. Bowen [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 489.

a sale of milk rendered impure by the addition of formaldehyde, the exclusion of evidence tending to show there was no formaldehyde on defendant's premises, and that none had been added to the milk by him or his employes was reversible error.[26]

ADULTERY.

Only the criminal offense is included in this topic.

§ 1. The offense.[27]—Evidence that defendant had intercourse with his servant six times during seven months is insufficient to sustain an indictment charging habitual carnal intercourse without living together,[28] and the fact that during such time the servant lived in defendant's house does not render defendant guilty under an indictment charging them with living together and having carnal intercourse.[29]

§ 2. The indictment or information.[30]—A husband is competent to make an information charging his wife's paramour with adultery.[31] The indictment alleging that defendant was lawfully married to another need not allege that he was not married to the party with whom the crime is alleged to have been committed.[32]

§ 3. Evidence.[33]—Former acts of intimacy short of carnal intercourse may be shown if of recent date.[34] Cases dealing with the sufficiency of evidence are shown in the notes.[35]

§ 4. Practice and trial.[36]—Newly discovered evidence that daughter-in-law of alleged paramour would testify that she slept with the latter the night the offense is alleged to have occurred warrants a new trial.[37] Where both participants were indicted and on separate trials one was convicted and the other acquitted, the one convicted is entitled to a new trial to obtain the testimony of the other, if it appears that such other will deny the acts of adultery.[38]

ADVANCEMENTS, see latest topical index.

ADVERSE POSSESSION.

§ 1. Estates and property subject to adverse possession.[39]—As a general

26. Prosecution under New York milk laws of 1893 and 1900. People v. Bowen [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 489.
27. See 3 C. L. 48.
28, 29. Boswell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1076.
30. See 2 C. L. 49.
31. Commonwealth v. Barr, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.
32. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1110.
33. See 3 C. L. 49.
34. French v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 4. Where former acts occurred four or five years before the commission of the offense for which defendant is on trial, the evidence thereof is inadmissible. Id.
35. Where prosecutrix contradicted herself as to the number of times the offense had been committed and there was evidence that one of the witnesses was the guilty party, evidence held insufficient to sustain the prosecution. Taylor v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 148.
36. See 3 C. L. 51.
37, 38. French v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 4.
39. See 3 C. L. 51.

rule all private estates in land are subject to adverse possession; thus an easement may be acquired,[40] but it does not operate as to public property nor as to property held in trust for the public,[41] nor as to land granted by the United States for a particular purpose.[42]

§ 2. Against whom available.[43]—Adverse possession does not run against the United States,[44] and prior to the issuance of patent it does not run against an entryman;[45] but where Federal land has been earned and the government holds only the bare legal title, it runs from the time the party who has earned it is entitled to his certificate.[46] It must appear, however, that the party was entitled to the certificate prior to its issue.[47] No rights can be acquired as against the state,[48] except as to land held in private right,[49] unless otherwise provided by statute.[50] Adverse possession runs against a municipality as to its property not held for the benefit of the public,[51] and until the doctrine was denied by statute, it was held in Nebraska[52] and Minnesota[53] that the public rights in streets and highways could be acquired as against municipalities; but as a general rule, adverse possession does not operate as to property held for the benefit of the public;[54] but an estoppel may arise,[55] and a contrary rule prevails in some states,[56] and

40. Anthony v. Kennard Bldg. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 921. And see Easements, 3 C. L. 1148.

41. See 2 C. L. 51. See post, § 2. Against whom available. Whether a private right of way over the right of way of a railroad company may be acquired is not decided. Davis v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 364.

42. Right of way granted to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, unless a conveyance of the land by that company would have been confirmed by Act April 28, 1904. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 S. Ct. 302; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Hasse, 25 S. Ct. 305. Adverse possession cannot ripen into a right which will divert the use and occupation of a right of way granted by congress for a particular purpose. Oregon Short Line R. Co. v. Quigley [Idaho] 80 P. 401.

43. See 3 C. L. 52.

44. Tyee Consolidated Min. Co. v. Langstedt [C. C. A.] 136 F. 124. One by mistake enclosing a portion of government land. Suksdorf v. Humphrey, 36 Wash. 1, 77 P. 1071.

45. Locator of mining claim and entryman on agricultural land stand on the same footing. Tyee Consolidated Min. Co. v. Langstedt [C. C. A.] 136 F. 124. Adverse possession runs against a grantee under the general land laws of the United States only from the date he acquires title. Id. In Alaska adverse possession of a mining claim as against a locater or his successors in interest cannot be initiated prior to issuance of patent. Tyee Consolidated Min. Co. v. Jennings [C. C. A.] 137 F. 863.

46. Where a railroad company has earned land and its title is perfect and nothing remains to be done but receive its certificate. Iowa Railroad Land Co. v. Fehring [Iowa] 101 N. W. [illegible].

47. It is presumed that title was acquired at the date of receiving the certificate. Iowa Railroad Land Co. v. Fehring [Iowa] 101 N. W. 120.

48. Lawless v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1039; Bright v. New Orleans R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 494. No title by adverse possession can be acquired against the state or general government, nor is land the subject of adverse possession while the title is in the state. Topping v. Cohn [Neb.] 99 N. W. 372.

49. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828.

50. Under St. 1903, § 2523, providing that limitations as to actions to recover land apply to actions brought by the commonwealth. Gray v. Soden [Ky.] 86 S. W. 515.

51. Runs against a tax title held by a city. Cass Farm Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 848. Runs against the city. Broad v. Beatty [Ark.] 83 S. W. 339. Runs against a county as to swamp lands acquired from the state. Gen. St. 1865, § 7, does not apply. Palmer v. Jones [Mo.] 85 S. W. 1113.

52. In Nebraska where the municipalities own the fee of the streets, prior to the enactment of ch. 79, p. 335, Laws 1899, adverse possession was available as against a municipality. City of Wahoo v. Netheway [Neb.] 102 N. W. 86.

53. Prior to the adoption of ch. 65, p. 65, Laws 1899. Haramon v. Krause, 93 Minn. 455, 101 N. W. 791.

54. Long continued encroachment on a public highway does not destroy the public right. Slattery v. McCaw, 44 Misc. 426, 90 N. Y. S. 52. In Texas by statute it does not run against a county as to lands granted to it for educational purposes. San Augustine County v. Madden [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 219, 87 S. W. 1056. Not as against a municipal corporation with respect to the public right to an easement in the street. People v. Rock Island [Ill.] 74 N. E. 437.

55. Where a street railroad has used the street for 50 years and expended large sums of money in improvements on a street. People v. Rock Island [Ill.] 74 N. E. 437. Evidence held insufficient to show an estoppel. Vorhes v. Ackley [Iowa] 103 N. W. 998.

56. Actual possession of a strip along a dedicated but unused street gives title. City of Houston v. Finnigan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 470.

where denied, adverse possession already begun is not interrupted by the acquisition of title,[57] and where such property is in the adverse possession of another, only an entry on behalf of the public is justified.[58] Title cannot be acquired against the right of creditors to subject lands devised for the payment of debts until the executor has been exhausted and a return of nulla bona made,[59] nor against persons under legal disability.[60] Thus title cannot be acquired as against a minor,[61] though it is competent for the legislature to provide otherwise,[62] or a married woman,[63] but disabilities cannot be tacked;[64] therefore as against a female minor it operates after marriage.[65]

§ 3. To whom available.[66]—Adverse possession runs in favor of the public[67] and of municipalities,[68] and of a corporation, notwithstanding the methods in which it may acquire title are prescribed.[69] An agent may acquire title as against his principal.[70]

§ 4. Definition and essential elements.[71]—Possession to be adverse must be hostile, actual, visible, notorious, and exclusive, continuous, and under a claim of title.[72] In some states, additional elements have been made essential in order

57. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4270, providing that adverse possession shall not run against property held for a public use if it began before a county acquired title, it is not interrupted by the fact that it subsequently acquires title. McGrath v. Nevada [Mo.] 86 S. W. 236.

58. Where the public refrains for the statutory period from opening an alley dedicated to public use, during which period the original owner has been in possession, a stranger to the title is not justified in making an entry. Haramon v. Krause, 93 Minn. 455, 101 N. W. 791.

59. Brock v. Kirkpatrick, 69 S. C. 231, 48 S. E. 72.

60. Freedman v. Oppenheim, 92 N. Y. S. 878.

61. Parker v. Ricks [La.] 38 So. 687; Vincent v. Blanton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 703. Under Code 1896, § 2807, the bar of the statute is not effective until three years after removal of the disability. Bradford v. Wilson, 140 Ala. 633, 37 So. 295. Adverse possession does not run against minors during minority where there was no ouster of their ancestor or notice of an adverse holding to them. Nugent v. Peterman [Mich.] 100 N. W. 895.

62. This is the effect of a statute containing no clause exempting them. Schauble v. Schulz [C. C. A.] 137 F. 389.

63. Franklin v. Cunningham [Mo.] 86 S. W. 79. Adverse possession can be established as against a married woman only by proof that it commenced prior to marriage or has run since the disability of coverture has been abolished. Broom v. Pearson [Tex.] 85 S. W. 790.

64. Disability of marriage contracted during minority cannot be tacked to the disability of minority. Franklin v. Cunningham [Mo.] 86 S. W. 79.

65. York v. Hutcheson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 895.

66. See 3 C. L. 53.

67. May acquire a highway as against all liens. City of Ft. Worth v. Cetti [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 826.

68. Murphy v. Com. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 524. Evidence held to show that possession of land for 40 years by tenants was the possession of a town. Id.

69. Civ. Code, §§ 286, 360, providing that a corporation may obtain title by condemnation and purchase, does not prevent it from acquiring title by prescription. Montecito Valley Water Co. v. Santa Barbara, 144 Cal. 578, 77 P. 1113.

70. The fact that one acts as agent for another in the care of land does not preclude him from doing an act that constitutes a disseisin or commencement of adverse possession. Carney v. Hennessey [Conn.] 60 A. 129.

71. See 3 C. L. 54. See Tiffany, Real Prop. §96.

72. Roby v. Calumet & C. Canal & Dock Co., 211 Ill. 173, 71 N. E. 822; O'Brien v. Fletcher [Ga.] 51 S. E. 405. Answer alleging title by adverse possession held good as against demurrer. Whitaker v. Jenkins [N. C.] 51 S. E. 104.

Evidence held to show adverse possession for the statutory period and acquisition of title thereby. Arnold v. Limburger [Ga.] 49 S. E. 812; Broad v. Beatty [Ark.] 83 S. W. 339; In re Schmidt [La.] 38 So. 26; Dowdell v. Orphans' Home Soc. [La.] 38 So. 16; Brigham v. Reau [Mich.] 102 N. W. 845; O'Neal v. Bellevue Imp. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1028.

Easement of way acquired. Wasmund v. Harm, 36 Wash. 170, 78 P. 777. One who used a passway for 30 years acquired an easement. Brown v. Barton, 26 Ky. L. R. 711, 82 S. W. 405. Held to raise a presumption of grant from the Spanish government. Ortiz v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 45.

Title is established by proof that the owner was disseised and kept out of possession for the legal term by a person or succession of persons occupying the land continuously for that period openly, adversely, and under a claim of right. Murphy v. Com. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 524. Adverse possession of a part of a railroad right of way for 50 years gives title. Jones v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 677. Possession by a mortgagee for 20 years gives title under Code Civ. Proc. § 379. Becker v. McCrea, 94 N. Y. S. 20. One in actual possession under to give title under particular statutes, such as claim in good faith under color of title,[73] payment of taxes,[74] inclosure[75] and cultivation of the land.[76] The doctrine implies a possession commenced in wrong and maintained against right,[77] but is distinguished from trespass by the claim of title and right to possession,[78] and presupposes a defect in title and may be invoked where the defect is discoverable in character.[79] All of the essential elements must coexist.[80] The possession must be exclusive.[81] A mere claim of title is insufficient,[82] though coupled with payment of taxes.[83] A possession that has its inception in subordination to the legal title does not become adverse by a mere change in mental attitude.[84]

In some states the doctrine of adverse possession seems to have become confused with estoppel.[85]

§ 5. Hostility.[86]—Possession must be under a claim of right[87] inconsistent with rights of the true owner,[88] and hostile to any superior title,[89] whether known color of title for the statutory period has title. Black v. Cox, 26 Ky. L. R. 599, 82 S. W. 278. Uninterrupted use and occupation under a claim of right for the statutory period gives title. Off v. Heinrichs [Wis.] 102 N. W. 904. Where in ejectment there is evidence that plaintiffs had been in possession under color of title for more than 20 years, it was not error to refuse to grant a nonsuit. Lassiter v. Okeetee Club [S. C.] 49 S. E. 224. Evidence of actual possession under a claim of right for the statutory period is sufficient under Civ. Code 1895, § 3248. Robson v. Shelnutt [Ga.] 50 S. E. 91. Where the owner of land grants a right to build a dam on it, the question of the proper location of the dam is settled by 20 years' adverse user. Roe v. Redner, 46 Misc. 25, 93 N. Y. S. 258.

73. Answer held to allege that defendant while in possession claimed title. Whitaker v. Jenkins [N. C.] 51 S. E. 104. One purchasing land with notice of a prior sale of growing timber thereon is not in adverse possession within 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5503. Brodack v. Morsbach [Wash.] 80 P. 275. One who has taken possession in bad faith cannot complain of mere stale demand. Messi v. Frechede, 113 La. 679, 37 So. 600.

74. Evidence held to show payment of taxes by an adverse claimant. Jones v. Hodges [Cal.] 79 P. 869.

75. Evidence held to show that a fence was a substantial inclosure within Code Civ. Proc. § 323. Jones v. Hodges [Cal.] 79 P. 869.

76. Under the express provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 325, one whose possession is not founded on a written instrument must have been in continuous, uninterrupted possession, paid all the taxes and have fenced or cultivated the land. Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739.

77. Swope v. Ward [Mo.] 84 S. W. 895. Where a father takes possession for his children, of land conveyed to another in trust for them, the children acquire title by adverse possession, though the conveyance in trust was in fraud of creditors of the father. Coke v. Ikard [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 869.

78. Dorlan v. Westervitch, 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382. One who enters under a claim of ownership with an intention to claim the land is in adverse possession. Swope v. Ward [Mo.] 84 S. W. 895.

79. The fact that one claiming adversely has constructive notice of a defect in his title is no defense to such title. Severson v. Gremm, 124 Iowa, 729, 100 N. W. 862.

80. McCaughn v. Young [Miss.] 37 So. 839; Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799; Maas v. Burdetzke, 93 Minn. 295, 101 N. W. 182; Erickson v. Murlin [Wash.] 80 P. 853. There must be actual possession and occupancy of the premises. Proctor v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 423.

81. Instruction ignoring necessity of exclusive possession is erroneous. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799. One in possession equally with the holder of the paper title does not hold adversely. Spencer Christian Church's Trustees v. Thomas [Ky.] 84 S. W. 750.

82. A grantee in a deed attempting to convey land which the grantor did not own claimed title to it but did not occupy it. Proctor v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 423. Under Code D. C. § 111. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141.

83. Young v. Grieb [Minn.] 104 N. W. 131.

84. Coberly v. Coberly [Mo.] 87 S. W. 957.

85. 23 years absence by a patentee of real estate, one claiming under a tax deed in the meantime paying taxes and making valuable improvements, held to estop patentee from claiming property. Murphy v. Dafoe [S. D.] 99 N. W. 86. Acquiescence sufficient to create a title by adverse possession "estops" one from questioning the correctness of a boundary. Klinkefus v. Vanmeter, 122 Iowa, 412, 98 N. W. 286.

86. See 3 C. L. 55.

87. Where one in possession tells the holders of the record title that he has purchased the land and proposes to stay on it as long as he lives and challenged them to eject him, he is in adverse possession. Swope v. Ward [Mo.] 84 S. W. 895. One who enters under a void trustee's deed, and notifies the grantor in the trust deed that he has purchased and holds the land as owner, is in hostile possession. McCaughn v. Young [Miss.] 37 So. 839. Under Rev. Codes N. D. 1899, § 3491a, the period begins at the date of possession and not on the date of the first payment of taxes. Schauble v. Schulz [C. C. A.] 137 F. 389.

88. The occupation of a street by a street railroad company was limited to the public right therein and did not invade property or unknown;[89] therefore a possession which inures to the benefit of the possessor and the owner and is not inconsistent with ownership in either is not adverse.[91] There seems to be a conflict of authority as to whether an admission of title in the United States will destroy the character of the possession as adverse. In Minnesota it is held that the possession is adverse notwithstanding such admission;[92] but a contrary conclusion was reached in Washington,[93] and in Texas such possession depends on whether or not there is an intention to acquire title.[94] Possession under a parol gift[95] or oral contract of sale is adverse.[96] Permissive possession,[97] possession under a license,[98] pursuant to an agreement,[99] or in subordination to the title of the true owner,[1] is not adverse, and will not ripen into title however rights of abutting owners. It was subsequently held that such occupation was an interference with the easements of light, air and access. Held, the company did not hold adversely to those rights until such determination. Hindley v. Manhattan R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 53. Where a widow conveys the entire community property to one who takes possession, prescription commences immediately to run in his favor. Jordan v. Richards [La.] 38 So. 206. A mere entry and the moving of a building held insufficient to show that one in possession was not holding adversely. West v. Webster [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 196.

89. Use by the owner of a fee is not adverse to a dominant easement until the exercise of such easement is asserted. Tudor Boiler Mfg. Co. v. Greenwald Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 37. Possession by the public of a street does not give it title to the fee where it makes no claim of ownership to the fee adverse to that of the true proprietor. Mott v. Eno, 97 App. Div. 580, 90 N. Y. S. 608. One who closed up a street recognized it as such, therefore his possession was not adverse. Heard v. Connor [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 605. A payment by a street railway company to abutting owners for an interference with their easements of light, air and access, negatives the idea of hostility. Hindley v. Manhattan R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 53.

90. Cass Farm Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 848.

91. Where a manufacturer erects scales on a railroad right of way and the company builds a side track thereto and transports cars to and from the scales for the benefit of both parties. Michigan Mill. Co. v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 574.

92. One taking possession under the belief that the premises are public land with the intention of acquiring title under the homestead law may acquire title as against the true owner. Maas v. Burdetzke, 93 Minn. 295, 101 N. W. 182.

93. An entry under the mistaken belief that the land is a part of the public domain and subject to entry is not adverse to the true owner. Yesler Estate v. Holmes [Wash.] 80 P. 851.

94. Persons who enter land believing it to belong to the state and having no intention to acquire it from the state are mere squatters as long as they continue in such belief, otherwise if they intend to acquire it. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364.

95. Gives title after the statutory period. Brown v. Norvell [Ark.] 86 S. W. 306; Murphy v. Roney, 26 Ky. L. R. 634, 82 S. W. 396.

96. Dean v. Gupton, 136 N. C. 141, 48 S. E. 576.

97. Top rail of a fence extending over the line, it being clear that the occupation was permissive. Slattery v. McCaw, 44 Misc. 426, 90 N. Y. S. 52. Evidence held to show that a possession was permissive. English v. Oppenshaw [Utah] 78 P. 476. Possession and use of a part of the easement not in use and not needed for immediate railroad purposes, and consistent with the company's right to reclaim the property when it is needed for the purposes for which it was acquired, will be held to be permissive only. Smith v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 194. Whether the necessities of a railroad company require exclusive occupancy of its right of way, and what use of the property by an abutting owner is an interference therewith, are questions of fact. Id. Permission need not be by a contract of renting or leasing. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746. An instruction that permissible possession is not adverse should also add that it was with recognition by the possessor of title of the true owner. Murphy v. Roney, 26 Ky. L. R. 634, 82 S. W. 396. An instruction that tells the jury that a road must have been used without the permission of a certain person or those under whom he claims is erroneous when a permission from either would have defeated the title. Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874. The possession of a daughter who enters on her father's land at his invitation and makes improvements with money furnished by him is not adverse to him. Brettmann v. Fischer [Ill.] 74 N. E. 777.

98. Railroad company under a license from a landowner constructed abutments of a bridge on his land. Nicolai v. Baltimore [Md.] 60 A. 627.

99. Owner agreed that a turnpike company could use land so long as it was used for a certain purpose. Montgomery County v. Bean, 26 Ky. L. R. 568, 82 S. W. 240. The possession of a tenant holding over is not indicative of hostility without some proof of claim of ownership. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 639. An attornment by one tenant to another with consent of the landlord or negotiations by a tenant relative to leasing from another does not affect the landlord's possession through him. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

1. Where an adverse possessor acknowledges the title of the true owner, adverse long continued.[2] In order that a possession originating in the permission of the true owner may become adverse, notice of such a holding must be brought to his attention;[3] but it is immaterial how he acquires such notice,[4] and it may be presumed from circumstances.[5] Adverse possession does not run as between husband and wife during coverture,[6] nor as between co-tenants[7] until ouster,[8] nor as between landlord and tenant.[9] The possession of the life tenant[10] or those claiming under him is not adverse to the remainderman,[11] nor is the possession of the wife of a life tenant under a tax deed adverse to him.[12] The possession of a grantor after the execution of a deed is not adverse,[13] nor is the possession of a vendee under an executory contract of sale until a repudiation of his vendor's title and notice thereof to him;[14] but is adverse as to all except the vendor and is adverse to him from the date he is entitled to a deed.[15] Possession under a mistake as to the boundary is not adverse if there is no intention to claim beyond the true boundary, wherever it may be;[16] but is if one is in possession of and claims up to a certain line,[17] and the mere fact that he does not know he is occupying his neighbor's land does not destroy the character of his possession.[18] possession does not commence to run until he repudiates it. Olson v. Burk [Minn.] 103 N. W. 335. The possession of an abutter who knowingly encloses a part of the street but makes no claim to title is not adverse. Vorhes v. Ackley [Iowa] 103 N. W. 998.

2. Doris v. Story [Ga.] 50 S. E. 348.

3. The acts of an abutter in accepting and recording a deed for and in taking possession of disputed land cannot be construed as the conduct of a mere licensee, and a title by presumption in favor of such grantee is acquired by continuous, hostile, and adverse possession for twenty-one years. Smith v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 194. Entry of widow held not to have been in aid of her right of dower and in subordination of the rights of her husband's heirs. Hooper v. Stuart, 23 App. D. C. 434.

4. Need not be derived from the hostile possessor and it is sufficient if he gets such notice from any source. Howatt v. Green [Mich.] 102 N. W. 734. Where one purchases land in the actual possession of another than his grantor, he is charged with notice of the extent of such possessor's claim of interest. Id. One purchasing land is charged with notice that one in actual possession thereof is claiming adversely. Kennedy v. Maness [N. C.] 50 S. E. 450.

5. Where one is in actual possession for 32 years and paying taxes on property only a few blocks from the residence of the true owner, it is presumed that such owner knows his holding is adverse. Black v. Cox, 26 Ky. L. R. 599, 82 S. W. 278.

6. Cervantes v. Cervantes [Tex. Civ. App.] 76 S. W. 790.

7. Woodlief v. Woodlief, 136 N. C. 133, 48 S. E. 583. A husband deeded property to his son and wife jointly; after the wife's death the husband entitled to curtesy in his wife's portion occupied it and that belonging to the son. City of Clinton v. Franklin, 26 Ky. L. R. 1053, 83 S. W. 142.

8. Answer held to allege ouster. Whitaker v. Jenkins [N. C.] 51 S. E. 105. As to what constitutes an ouster, see Tenants in Common and Joint Tenants, 4 C. L. 1672. Brigham v. Reau [Mich.] 102 N. W. 845; Broom v. Pearson [Tex.] 85 S. W. 790. Adverse possession by one co-tenant for the statutory period bars an action for partition. Rhodes v. Cooper, 113 La. 600, 37 So. 527. The possession of one who takes under a deed of the entire tract from a part of the owners, they warranting against all claims, is adverse and not as co-tenant. Wise v. Wolfe [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1191.

9. Evidence held to show that one in possession was not a tenant at sufferance. Thomson v. Weisman [Tex.] 82 S. W. 503. Dispute held not to deprive such possession of its character. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

10. Morrison v. Fletcher [Ky.] 84 S. W. 548. Not as against heirs of a married woman during the life of her husband entitled to curtesy. Wilson v. Frost [Mo.] 85 S. W. 375.

11, 12. Blair v. Johnson [Ill.] 74 N. E. 747.

13. His covenants raise a presumption that his possession is in subordination to the legal title. English v. Openshaw [Utah] 78 P. 476; Chancellor v. Teel [Ala.] 37 So. 665; Nugent v. Peterman [Mich.] 100 N. W. 895. The possession by a vendor after execution and delivery of the deed is in trust for the vendee, and is not adverse to him until some unequivocal act inconsistent with his rights is brought home to him (Hads v. Tiernan, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 14); but where the owner of vacant land conveys it, the grantee by reason of his legal title will be deemed to be in possession, and the grantor may subsequently acquire a new title by a new and independent adverse possession (Bird v. Whetstone [Kan.] 80 P. 942).

14. Runge v. Gilbough [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 832; State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828.

15. Schauble v. Schulz [C. C. A.] 137 F. 389.

16. Cuyler v. Bush [Ky.] 84 S. W. 579; Suksdorf v. Humphrey, 36 Wash. 1, 77 P. 1071. If one claims only to the true line wherever it may be, his possession beyond it is not adverse. Wilcox v. Smith [Wash.] 80 P. 803. One who encloses land beyond his boundary but claims only to the true line does not hold adversely. Murdock v. Stillman [Ark.] 82 S. W. 834.

The purchase of an outstanding title is an admission that one does not hold adversely to it,[19] and that one does not return the land for taxation is evidence that he does not hold adversely;[20] but the acceptance of a void lease is not a recognition of a superior title,[21] especially where at the time of accepting it he asserted title in himself.[22]

§ 6. Continuity.[23]—Possession must be continuous and uninterrupted[24] for the statutory period,[25] except in a country where much of the land is unoccupied,[26] and the continuity must be such that the possessor could be sued as a trespasser at any time during the period.[27] A joint holding by the legal owner with the adverse claimant,[28] or an acknowledgment of the title of the true owner,[29] as by entering into a contract with him for the purchase thereof, breaks the continuity;[30] but a mere dispute as to a boundary,[31] the acceptance of a deed of an al-

17. Cuyler v. Bush [Ky.] 84 S. W. 579. Possession under mistake is adverse if claim is made to the entire tract. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141. By reason of a mutual mistake a deed did not cover all the land intended to be conveyed. The grantee occupied up to a line pointed out by the grantor for the statutory period. Held, he acquired title. Lougee v. Shuhart [Iowa] 102 N. W. 1125.

18. Davis v. Braswell [Mo.] 84 S. W. 870. One who purchases and goes into possession of a lot enclosed by a fence possesses adversely a strip erroneously inclosed. Erickson v. Murlin [Wash.] 80 P. 853; Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546. See 3 C. L. 55, n. 64.

Note: From the standpoint of ease of application, the decision furnishes a method of determination both convenient and practical. Its doctrine is adhered to in many jurisdictions. Woodward v. Faris, 109 Cal. 12; Tex v. Pflug, 24 Neb. 666, 8 Am. St. Rep. 231; Seymour v. Carli, 31 Minn. 81; French v. Pearce, 8 Conn. 439, 21 Am. Dec. 680; Logsdon v. Dingg, 32 Ind. App. 158; Metcalfe v. McCutchen, 60 Miss. 145. Other courts make the intention of the adverse claimant the basis of his right and hold that if he has possession up to the boundary as located, claiming title to such boundary, even though it be incorrect, his possession is adverse. Preble v. R. Co., 85 Me. 260, 35 Am. St. Rep. 366; Bishop v. Bleyer, 105 Wis. 330; Beckman v. Davidson, 162 Mass. 347; Shotwell v. Gordon, 121 Mo. 482; Mode v. Long, 64 N. C. 433. While not a few courts hold that if the intention is to claim to the boundary as located, only if it is the true boundary, the possession is not adverse. Wilson v. Hunter, 59 Ark. 626, 43 Am. St. Rep. 63; Taylor v. Fomby, 116 Ala. 621, 67 Am. St. Rep. 149; Skinker v. Haagsma, 99 Mo. 208; Palmer v. Osborne, 115 Iowa, 714; Small v. Hamlet [Ky.] 68 S. W. 395. The difficulty of applying the tests necessary under these decisions is altogether obviated under the doctrine of the principal case, where the open, visible and continuous possession is the sole standard. But like all rigid rules of law, it must fail to effect justice in particular cases.—3 Mich. L. R. 402.

19. Woodlief v. Woodlief, 136 N. C. 133, 48 S. E. 583.

20. Doe v. Edmondson [Ala.] 37 So. 424.

21. It is merely evidence of the nature of the possession. Broad v. Beatty [Ark.] 83 S. W. 339.

22. Broad v. Beatty [Ark.] 83 S. W. 339.

23. See 3 C. L. 56.

24. Periodical trespasses, however long continued, will not give title. Huss v. Jacobs, 210 Pa. 145, 59 A. 991; Moore v. Mobley [Ga.] 51 S. E. 351. Instruction held not erroneous as lacking the element of continuity. Campbell Real Estate Co. v. Wiley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 251. Possession for five years, and after an abandonment for several years a possession for six months, another abandonment followed by occupancy for several years is insufficient. Clark v. White, 120 Ga. 957, 48 S. E. 357. An instruction that possession must have been "open, notorious, visible, adverse and under a claim of right for 20 years," excludes the idea of an interrupted or intermittent possession, and is not erroneous as not requiring continuity. Fatic v. Myer [Ind.] 72 N. E. 142. Easement for a private road is acquired by one who uses a well defined track across the land of another to his own, otherwise inaccessible, where such use has been adverse and continuous for more than twenty-one years. Bates v. Sherwood, 5 Ohio Circ. R. (N. S.) 63.

25. Olson v. Burk [Minn.] 103 N. W. 335. Evidence held insufficient to show continuity of possession for 20 years as required by Rev. St. 1898, §§ 4214, 4215. Hemmy v. Dunn [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1095.

26. In such a country continuous possession is not indispensable. Ortiz v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 45.

27. Wilson v. Braden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 409.

28. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799.

29. Olson v. Burk [Minn.] 103 N. W. 335. Where limitations were pleaded as a defense, proof that the defendant had acknowledged a superior title before the statute had run defeats his claim. Weisman v. Thomson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 728. An acknowledgment by one in possession that he intends to purchase from the owner breaks the continuity. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364.

30. Olson v. Burk [Minn.] 103 N. W. 335.

31. Negotiations for a settlement of a boundary dispute involving offers to purchase the strip does not break the continuity where one persists in claiming title. Clithero v. Fenner [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1027.

leged outstanding interest,[32] the mere fact that there are temporary breaches in an inclosure,[33] an absence from the state of an adverse claimant of wild land,[34] the bringing of an action,[35] or a judgment in ejectment without dispossession,[36] or an action to foreclose a vendor's lien,[37] does not; nor is it broken by the fact that the claimant does not personally occupy.[38] Whether an entry breaks the continuity depends upon the open and not the secret intention of the party making it,[39] and under a statute providing that entry must be followed by possession or action, a mere disturbance of possession is insufficient.[40] The act of the land commissioner of forfeiting land to the state for nonpayment of interest by the vendee on the purchase price while the land is in the adverse possession of another breaks the continuity.[41] In Texas continuity can be interrupted only by the bringing of suit;[42] but a suit by the owner of an undivided interest, on his own behalf and not for the benefit of his co-tenants, does not break the continuity as to them.[43] The levy of an execution against personal property breaks the continuity of possession thereof.[44]

Tacking.[45]—If the source of the title is of record, it is available to every person claiming under it who can connect himself with it,[46] and where successive parties are privies, the possession of one may be tacked to that of the other;[47] thus the possession of an agent may be tacked to that of his principal,[48] and that of one tenant who attorns to another may be tacked to the possession of such other,[49] and that of a grantee to that of his grantor,[50] if it be against some one to whom the grantor held adversely.[51] Interrupted and discontinuous periods cannot be tacked,[52] such as prior and subsequent periods where continuity has been broken.[53] The possession of a trespasser cannot be tacked to that of a claimant under color of title,[54] and the possession of the life tenant does not inure to the benefit of a remainderman.[55]

32. York v. Hutcheson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 895.

33. Jones v. Hodges [Cal.] 79 P. 869.

34. McCaughn v. Young [Miss.] 37 So. 839.

35, 36. Bradford v. Wilson, 140 Ala. 633, 37 So. 295.

37. A judgment in an action to foreclose a vendor's lien on land, through which a street has been dedicated, does not interrupt the adverse use of the street. City of Ft. Worth v. Cetti [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 826.

38. If another is in possession for him (Clithero v. Fenner [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1027), or by an overflow causing vacation of the land for a year (Robinson v. Nordman [Ark.] 88 S. W. 592).

39. Murphy v. Commonwealth [Mass.] 73 N. E. 524.

40. Comp. Laws 1897, § 9721, provides that entry must be followed by possession for a year or that action be commenced on such entry within one year after the dispossession. Place v. Place [Mich.] 102 N. W. 996.

41. Lawless v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1039.

42. Possession under a statute defining peaceable possession as one not interrupted by any adverse suit to recover the land. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

43. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

44. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1909, providing that a borrower of personal property acquires title after five years. Saulsberry v. Fitzpatrick [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1118.

45. See 3 C. L. 57.

46. One claiming under an unrecorded deed may tack his possession to that of his grantor whose deed was recorded. Robertson v. Downing Co., 120 Ga. 833, 48 S. E. 429.

47. Grantee in a deed, the calls of which did not describe the entire tract, the possession of which was transferred to him, may tack his possession to that of his grantor. Clithero v. Fenner [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1027.

48. Travis v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 425.

49. City of Houston v. Finnigan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 470.

50. Robinson v. Nordman [Ark.] 88 S. W. 592; Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101.

51. Where the owner of contiguous lots conveys one to A and the other to B, in a boundary dispute between A and B, one cannot tack his possession to that of the common grantor. Sluyter v. Schwab [Neb.] 102 N. W. 757.

52. Clark v. White, 120 Ga. 957, 48 S. E. 357.

53. Lawless v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1039.

54. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703.

55. Under Code, § 152, so as to bar a right to foreclose a mortgage. Woodlief v. Wester, 136 N. C. 162, 48 S. E. 578.

§ 7. Duration.[56]—The possession must continue for the statutory period[57] prior to action commenced to recover the land,[58] but it need not have been the period immediately preceding the filing of suit.[59] The period is the subject of statutory regulation and varies in the several states,[60] and in some states is lessened if possession is under color of title.[61] Statutes fixing the period may be retroactive,[62] and do not deprive the owner of due process if a reasonable time is given him within which to recover possession.[63]. Possession to avail under the Texas five-year statute must be under a genuine[64] and duly recorded deed[65] to the possessor.[66] The Arkansas two-year statute applies only where possession is under a tax deed,[67] and the seven-year statute does not run against married women.[68]

The period for the acquisition of an easement corresponds with the local period for quieting title to lands.[69]

§ 8. Color of title.[70]—Color of title is anything in writing connected with

56. See 3 C. L. 57.

57. Evidence held to show that one claiming an easement had not used it for the statutory period. Davis v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 364. Evidence held insufficient to show that one had been in possession under a claim of title for the statutory period. Roby v. Calumet & C. Canal & Dock Co., 211 Ill. 173, 71 N. E. 822. Claim of title by adverse possession is not sustained where the evidence fails to show possession for the statutory period. Jones v. Jones, 213 Ill. 228, 72 N. E. 695. Under Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 55, conferring title by payment of taxes under color for 10 years, payment of taxes under color for four years is insufficient. Jackson v. Bailey [S. D.] 104 N. W. 268.

58. An answer alleging title by adverse possession for the statutory period, but failing to state that such period was complete before the bringing of the action is demurrable. Gates v. Solomon [Ark.] 83 S. W. 348. Express provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 321. The holder of the legal title is not barred unless the land has been possessed adversely to him for five years prior to commencing action to recover it. Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739.

59. A plea of possession for 10 years next before the filing of suit does not limit the time of possession to such period. Campbell Real Estate Co. v. Wiley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 251.

60. See 3 C. L. 57, n. 98. Under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5503, 5505, purchasers from a surviving husband who have been in open possession and paid taxes for seven years have title as against heirs attempting to recover it more than three years after attaining majority. Biggart v. Evans, 36 Wash. 212, 78 P. 925.

61. Under Pub. Acts 1893 (Act No. 206, p. 391, § 73), providing that no tax deed shall be set aside after the purchaser has been in possession for five years, possession under a void tax deed for such period gives title. Pence v. Miller [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 110, 103 N. W. 582. Grantor in a security deed has 10 years to redeem, but may be barred in seven if the grantee is in under color of title. Benedict v. Gammon Theological Seminary [Ga.] 50 S. E. 162. Possession under mortgage foreclosure sale and payment of taxes is adverse within Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5503, 5504; 7 year statute. Cox v. Tompkinson [Wash.] 80 P. 1005. Instructions under the 10 year statute held not conflicting. Campbell Real Estate Co. v. Wiley [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 251.

62. Rev. Codes N. D. 1899, § 3491a, is retroactive in so far as it gives effect to adverse possession preceding its enactment. Schauble v. Schulz [C. C. A.] 137 F. 389.

63. Schauble v. Schulz [C. C. A.] 137 F. 389.

64. The five-year statute (Rev. St. 1895, art. 3342) is not available to one deraigning title through a forged deed. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

65. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395. One in possession under a deed made to another for his benefit cannot set up as a defense the five-year statute. Weisman v. Thomson [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 728. One in possession under a deed made to a third person for his benefit may assert Rev. St. 1895, art. 3342. Thomson v. Weisman [Tex.] 82 S. W. 503.

66. He cannot claim under the record of a deed of his vendor. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395.

67. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 4819, an allegation of possession under a purchase is insufficient. Harvey v. Douglass [Ark.] 83 S. W. 946.

68. Sand. & H. Dig. § 4819. Harvey v. Douglass [Ark.] 83 S. W. 946.

69. Wasmund v. Harm, 36 Wash. 170, 78 P. 777; Anthony v. Kennard Bldg. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 921; Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874.

70. See 2 C. L. 58.

NOTE. Title bonds as color of title: The confusion in the decisions attempting to define color of title is doubtless due in large part to the varying objects for which it becomes necessary to determine the meaning of the phrase. Its chief importance probably still consists in its connection with the doctrine of constructive adverse possession, which confers the right to acquire title to land not actually owned or occupied (Hasbrouck v. Vermilyea, 6 Cow. [N. Y.] 677; Bellefontaine Imp. Co. v. Niedringhaus, 181 Ill. 426, 72 Am. St. Rep. 269), as well as to bring trespass for entrance upon such land (14 Harv. Law Rev. 389). A second class of cases, however, is becoming steadily larger as a result of special statutes of limitation making color the title which serves to define the extent of the claim.[71] Thus, a void[72] or a voidable deed,[73] a mortgage foreclosure certificate of sale,[74] or a quitclaim deed not showing that the grantor claimed any interest in the property at the date of its execution,[75] or a foreign will, insufficient to pass title.[76] A deed is color of title only to the land actually described in it,[77] and any description which, unaided by extrinsic facts, satisfies the mind that the land adversely occupied is embraced within it, is sufficient;[78] but a deed containing an insufficient description is not color of title,[79] nor do void condemnation proceedings constitute color.[80] of title an essential element in the acquisition of title to land actually occupied. Dembitz, Land Titles, § 186. See Thompson v. Cragg, 24 Tex. 582; Finnegan v. Campbell, 74 Iowa, 158. This is especially common in statutes prescribing a comparatively short period of limitation. In some jurisdictions, indeed, the requirement appears to have been made even in the absence of express mention in the statutes. Finally, a third of the main heads under which the discussions may be grouped comprises actions brought under legislative provisions permitting recovery for improvements to land made bona fide and under color of title (Boyer v. Garner, 116 N. C. 125). It is not unnatural that in applying the statutory requirements to an individual case the courts have used language so broad as to be capable of application to cases of a different class. Upon this ground some attempt has been made to explain the conflict of authority as to the necessity of an instrument in writing, the adequacy of a deed void upon its face, and similar disputed questions. Unavailing though this attempt must in part be, it at least throws light upon points not yet hopelessly involved. It is, for instance, generally stated that bonds for title or executory contracts of sale will not give color of title. An examination of the decisions, however, discloses that many of them apply only to cases arising under short limitation statutes (Hardin v. Crate, 78 Ill. 533), a strict construction of which is not inappropriate. In other cases relied upon, the vendee under the executory contract claimed to have acquired a title as against his vendor by adverse possession (Brown v. Huey, 103 Ga. 448; Ormond v. Martin, 37 Ala. 598; Hart v. Bostwick, 14 Fla. 162). Here, plainly, the holding of the vendee was in subordination to the superior title of his vendor and not adverse to it. It does not follow that the written contract should not give color of title as against a stranger, and for the purpose of giving constructive possession (State Bank v. Smyers, 2 Strob. [S. C.] 24; Jones v. Perry, 10 Yerg. [Tenn.] 59, 30 Am. Dec. 430), or of satisfying a special statutory requirement for lands actually occupied (Burdell v. Blain, 66 Ga. 109; Fain v. Garthwright, 5 Ga. 6), it seems that it should. An Arkansas decision has, however, gone so far as to hold that a bond for title does not give sufficient color of title to warrant a statutory recovery against a third party, the real owner, for improvements made upon land under the bona fide belief that the obligor on the bond had good title (Beasley v. Equitable Securities Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 224). It seems fairer to construe such statutes founded, as they are, upon equitable principles (Cox v. McDivit, 125 Mo. 358; Whitney v. Richardson, 31 Vt. 300), so as to provide for the reimbursement of those who make improvements under a bona fide belief that they have a right to the land, whether their color of title be legal or equitable. To the language of the Arkansas statute indeed such a construction is especially applicable (Seymour v. Cleveland, 9 S. D. 94; Kilburn v. Ritchie, 2 Cal. 145, 56 Am. Dec. 326), but in the interpretation of acts less explicit in terms the same reasoning must apply.—From 18 Harv. L. R. 534.

71. See Cyc. Law Dict., "Color of Title," 168. An allegation in a complaint to quiet title that plaintiffs held under a warranty deed is an allegation that they held under color of title within Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5504, providing that a person who pays taxes on vacant property for seven years under color of title shall be deemed the legal owner. Jones v. Herrick, 35 Wash. 434, 77 P. 798. Such defect, if any, could be cured by amendment which would be regarded on appeal as made. Id.

72. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 47, a void tax deed. Murphy v. Dafoe [S. D.] 99 N. W. 86; State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828. An unacknowledged tax deed, unattested and not filed for record within five years after execution, is color of title of all land described therein. Dorlan v. Westervitch, 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382. An Indian deed is color of title under Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 54, whether or not it is actually void under the laws of the United States. Murphy v. Nelson [S. D.] 102 N. W. 691. A deed by a husband purporting to convey land to which his marital rights had attached but before he reduced it to possession as required by Laws 1886, p. 146. Arnold v. Limeburger [Ga.] 49 S. E. 812.

Sheriff's deed made pursuant to an illegal sale. Benedict v. Gammon Theological Seminary [Ga.] 50 S. E. 162.

73. Deed made in fraud of creditors. Moore v. Mobley [Ga.] 51 S. E. 351.

Unrecorded deed: Dorlan v. Westervitch, 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382.

74. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5503. Olson v. Howard [Wash.] 80 P. 170.

75. Archer v. Beihl [C. C. A.] 136 F. 113. Complaint in ejectment alleging title under a quitclaim deed held to sufficiently allege that title was claimed under the deed as color of title. Id.

76. Will not properly witnessed. Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101.

77. Archer v. Beihl [C. C. A.] 136 F. 113. Color of title only to land located within its calls. Marshall v. Corbett [N. C.] 50 S. E. 210.

78. Archer v. Beihl [C. C. A.] 136 F. 113.

Color of title is not an essential element of adverse possession.[81]

§ 9. Payment of taxes.[82]—Payment of taxes is, in some states, equivalent to possession of wild and vacant land,[83] and in other states it is only an element of adverse possession under particular statutes.[84] In Illinois payment of taxes must be under color of title made in good faith.[85] Under a statute providing for the payment of all taxes legally assessed, "legally assessed" means assessed under color of legal authority.[86] Actual payment of the taxes for the last year of the statutory period is not necessary.[87] Tax receipts are prima facie evidence that the land was rendered for taxation[88] and that taxes have been paid.[89]

§ 10. Area of possession.[90]—One holding without color holds only to the extent of his actual possession;[91] but one holding under color holds within the boundaries called for in his color,[92] whether the color be of record or not;[93] but

79. Luttrell v. Whitehead, 121 Ga. 699, 49 S. E. 691; Pitts v. Whitehead, 121 Ga. 704, 49 S. E. 693; Crawford v. Verner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 958; Dorlan v. Westervitch, 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382; Archer v. Beihl [C. C. A.] 136 F. 113.

A writing purporting to be an agreement to convey land but containing a description insufficient to identify it is not, in the absence of evidence showing the description applicable to a particular parcel, color of title. Priester v. Melton [Ga.] 51 S. E. 330.

80. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abbott [Ill.] 74 N. E. 412.

81. An absolute title claimed in good faith for the statutory period accompanied by actual adverse possession is sufficient to support an action to quiet title, though there was no color of title. Severson v. Gremm, 124 Iowa, 729, 100 N. W. 862.

82. See 3 C. L. 60.

83. Evidence of payment of taxes on land for seven years does not show that title was acquired thereby where it is not shown that they were vacant and unoccupied during all of that time or that possession was taken. Glos v. Miller, 213 Ill. 22, 72 N. E. 714. Kirby's Dig. § 5057, making payment of taxes on vacant and unimproved land equivalent to possession, applies only where the constructive possession so created is exclusive. Townson v. Denson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 661. Kirby's Dig. § 5057, does not require seven years payment of taxes before such payment will be equivalent to possession. Id. Tax receipts misdescribing the land are insufficient to support title by adverse possession under Kirby's Dig. § 5057, providing that wild land is deemed to be in the possession of the person who pays taxes if he have color. Boynton v. Ashabranner [Ark.] 88 S. W. 566.

84. In Texas possession and payment of taxes for five years. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 3342, one in possession may render for taxation in his own name or in the name of one for whom he is holding. Thomson v. Weisman [Tex.] 82 S. W. 503. The Texas three and five year statutes do not apply unless actual possession is under color of title. Ward v. Forrester [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 751. Payment of taxes and possession must concur under the Texas five-year statute. Wall v. Club Land & Cattle Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 534. Where one claiming under the Texas five-year statute claims under a deed purporting to convey an entire interest, he must have paid all of the taxes for the entire five years. Id. Failure to pay taxes for the last year of the period after they are due and prior to action brought is fatal to his claim. Id.

85. The wife of a life tenant who purchases the property at a tax sale does not have color in good faith nor does her grantee with notice. Blair v. Johnson [Ill.] 74 N. E. 747. Payment of taxes alone is insufficient. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abbott [Ill.] 74 N. E. 412.

86. It is immaterial that the taxes for one or more years were illegally assessed. Murphy v. Nelson [S. D.] 102 N. W. 691. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 325, providing that an adverse possessor must pay all taxes for the statutory period, where he pays no taxes but contends that the assessments were illegal, he is not prejudiced by evidence introduced by the holder of the paper title showing payment of void assessments. Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739.

87. Where one had been in possession for the statutory period and had paid taxes for all except the last year, which assessment was not yet due. Murphy v. Nelson [S. D.] 102 N. W. 691.

88. Thomson v. Welsman [Tex.] 82 S. W. 503.

89. Where one has a tax receipt for one year and will testify that he thought he paid taxes until a certain time, it is some evidence that he has paid taxes. Weir v. Cordz-Fisher Lumber Co., 186 Mo. 388, 85 S. W. 341. A general statement of payment of taxes for 12 years is insufficient to overcome a tax receipt for one of such years held by the opposite party. Boynton v. Ashabranner [Ark.] 88 S. W. 566.

90. See 3 C. L. 60.

91. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799. A railroad company which does not procure its right of way by grant or condemnation acquires title by limitation to no more than it has actual possession of. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Davis [Ark.] 87 S. W. 445.

92. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799. Actual possession of a portion of a tract under an instrument purporting to convey it all is coextensive with the calls of the instrument. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703. One who enters unoccupied land under a deed acquires possespossession of a tract under one deed is not constructive possession of an adjoining tract held under another deed,[94] and actual possession of one of two adjacent tracts described in a deed is not constructive possession of the other as against the true owner unless actual possession has been taken of a part of it,[95] since the real owner in actual possession of a part of a tract has constructive possession of the remainder.[96] Actual possession of one of two or more adjoining tracts of the same owner is possession of all of them.[97] Constructive possession can only apply to land immediately adjacent to a part of that which is in absolute and uncontrolled possession,[98] and where one conveys the portion of which he has actual possession, his constructive possession of the residue ceases.[99] Possession by one of land which he owns is not constructive possession of that which he does not own.[1]

§ 11. Sufficiency of possession.[2]—The sufficiency of acts to constitute adverse possession is governed by the facts of each particular case.[3] The ordinary sion to all the land described. Cuyler v. Bush [Ky.] 84 S. W. 579. The possession of a tenant under a lease is coextensive with the terms of the lease, though he has actual possession of a part only. Murphy v. Commonwealth [Mass.] 73 N. E. 524. Actual possession of a part extends to the limits of the grant if the real owner is not in possession of any part. Boynton v. Ashabranner [Ark.] 88 S. W. 568.

93. Recordation of a deed is not necessary to make it color coextensive with its description. O'Brien v. Fletcher [Ga.] 51 S. E. 405; Roberson v. Downing Co., 120 Ga. 833, 48 S. E. 429. But see Civ. Code 1895, § 3587.

Note: In adverse possession actual and notorious possession of the entire land must be shown for the statutory period. Burks v. Mitchell, 78 Ala. 61; Silver Creek Cement Co. v. Union Lime Co., 138 Ind. 297. Under color of title, however, possession of part may be construed as possession of the whole tract described within the instrument that gives rise to the color. Smith v. Gale, 144 U. S. 509, 36 Law. Ed. 521; Dougherty v. Miles, 97 Cal. 568. Washburn on Real Property (6th Ed.) §§ 1954, 1981. A deed need not be recorded to give color of title. Lea v. Polk County Copper Co., 21 How. [U. S.] 495, 16 Law. Ed. 204; Cramer v. Clow, 81 Iowa, 255, 9 L. R. A. 772.—4 Columbia L. R. 605.

94. Broom v. Pearson [Tex.] 85 S. W. 790.

95. Haggart v. Ranney [Ark.] 84 S. W. 703. Where the holder of a junior title enters on land in the possession of the owner of a senior title, his possession is only to the extent of actual inclosure. Cuyler v. Bush [Ky.] 84 S. W. 579. One claiming under a deed to an overlap of a junior survey must show possession of at least a part of the overlap. It is not enough to show possession merely within the limits of his own deed. McLemore v. Lomax [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 635.

96. Peden v. Crenshaw [Tex.] 84 S. W. 362.

97. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828.

98. Crist v. Boust, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 543.

99. State v. Harman [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 828.

1. Where a grantee in a deed attempting to convey land which the grantor did not own took possession of a portion which his grantor did own but not of the other. Proctor v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 423.

2. See 3 C. L. 61.

3. Young v. Grieb [Minn.] 104 N. W. 131. Possession held sufficient. Cutting fuel, fencing, cultivating. Miskwabik Development Ass'n v. Croze [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 133, 103 N. W. 558.

Clearing, fencing and claiming to a definite boundary line. King v. See [Ky.] 87 S. W. 758.

Fenced land, visited it from time to time and went on the land with another to whom he executed a paper whereby the other was to keep possession for him. Glos v. Dyche, 214 Ill. 417, 73 N. E. 757. One purchased an enclosed lot which erroneously included a narrow strip, built a house, the drip of the eaves of which fell on such strip; he also improved it in the same manner as he did the other portion. Erickson v. Murlin [Wash.] 80 P. 853.

Actual possession and payment of taxes: Dean v. Gupton, 136 N. C. 141, 48 S. E. 576.

Cultivation, using for pasture, etc. Kennedy v. Maness [N. C.] 50 S. E. 450. It is not necessary that one actually reside on the premises. If he lives on adjacent property and exercises acts of ownership. Travis v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 425.

Use of road by the public whenever it saw fit and without asking leave. Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874.

Building sheds, on a strip, enclosing it by a high fence, etc. City of Houston v. Finnigan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 470. Enclosure and cultivation is sufficient though all the land is not cultivated every year. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141.

Possession insufficient: That the top rail of a fence extends over the bounday. Slattery v. McCaw, 44 Misc. 426, 90 N. Y. S. 52.

Cutting rails and light wood and posting notices against trespassers. Stevens Lumber Co. v. Hughes [Miss.] 38 So. 769.

Payment of taxes; exercise of fitful disconnected acts of possession and cutting of timber and firewood. Boynton v. Ashabranner [Ark.] 88 S. W. 566.

Grading a strip reserved by the owners and customary use to which the premises are adapted is generally held sufficient,[4] and neither actual occupation, cultivation nor residence is necessary to constitute "actual possession" of property so situated as not to admit of permanent useful improvement;[5] but where there is no paper title, the possession must be actual so as to clearly acquaint the true owner with the fact that his rights are set at defiance and the extent thereof.[6] There cannot be a constructive and an actual possession of the same tract at the same time.[7] In some states acts which constitute a sufficient possession are enumerated by statute.[8] Possession of wild and vacant land follows the record title,[9] and possession to be adverse must be actual, visible, exclusive and notorious.[10] Adverse possession of a coal estate severed by deed from the fee on the surface must be actual.[11] for their private use, putting up sign posts at the intersection of streets with the names of the streets thereon. Mitchell v. Denver [Colo.] 78 P. 686.

Cutting a few trees in a swamp without it appearing definitely whether the intention was to enter into possession. Dowdell v. Orphans' Home Soc. [La.] 38 So. 16.

Payment of taxes and color and claim of title is insufficient. Jackson v. Boyd & Goldenburg [Ark.] 87 S. W. 126.

Mere possession under a parol gift is insufficient. West v. Webster [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 196.

Mere use of a passage over land of another with his knowledge is not adverse. Anthony v. Kennard Bldg. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 921. Driving cows into woodland and occasionally carrying off a fallen tree. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141.

4. Pasturing the land, cutting timber from it and fencing it, held sufficient. Clithero v. Fenner [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1027. Evidence of the sufficiency of possession held for the jury. Illinois Steel Co. v. Jeka [Wis.] 101 N. W. 399.

5. A continued claim evidenced by public acts of ownership, such as one would exercise over property which he claimed to own and would not exercise over property which he did not claim, is sufficient. McCaughn v. Young [Miss.] 37 So. 839. One who purchases land at a mortgage sale, but does not actually reside on it, but exercises control over it, has possession within Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5503. Olson v. Howard [Wash.] 80 P. 170.

6. Illinois Steel Co. v. Jeka [Wis.] 101 N. W. 399. Possession must be so notorious "that all who run may see." Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101. A possession which is adverse and actually known to the true owner is equivalent to one which is open, notorious and adverse. McCaughn v. Young [Miss.] 37 So. 839.

7. Crouch v. Colbert [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 992. One claiming under a void tax deed is not in adverse possession of lands in the actual possession of another. Kirker v. Daniels [Ark.] 83 S. W. 912. Prescription does not run in favor of tax title while the owner is allowed to remain in possession. Tieman v. Johnston [La.] 38 So. 75.

8. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 48, defining adverse possession among other things as the use of property for firewood or fencing timber, the cutting of timber for fuel for the use of his family by an agent who has charge of it is an act of possession. Murphy v. Dafoe [S. D.] 99 N. W. 86. Under the Wisconsin statute (St. 1898, § 4214), providing that if claim to title is not founded on some written instrument, judgment or decree, land is deemed possessed only when fenced or usually cultivated or improved, a hostile entry and commencement of improvement indicating a purpose to lay out a lot is sufficient not only as to the particular spot improved but of surrounding land. Illinois Steel Co. v. Jeka [Wis.] 101 N. W. 399. Premises are protected by a substantial enclosure within Code Civ. Proc. §§ 369, 370, 372, where they are fenced against everybody except one who does not claim any interest. Brown v. Doherty, 93 App. Div. 190, 87 N. Y. S. 563. Where cultivation, use or enjoyment is required (Tex. five and ten year statutes), the mere driving of posts around a parcel of land is insufficient. Peden v. Crenshaw [Tex.] 84 S. W. 362. Evidence insufficient to show title under the three or five year statute. William Carlyle & Co. v. Pruett [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 372.

Tenant's possession held insufficient to show constructive possession on part of the landlord so as to give him title under the ten-year statute. William Carlyle & Co. v. Pruett [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 372. A mere constructive possession is not "seisin or possession" within Kirby's Dig. § 5061, providing that one seeking to recover land sold for taxes must have been seised or possessed thereof within two years before commencement of the action. Towson v. Denson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 661.

9. Weir v. Cordz-Fisher Lumber Co., 186 Mo. 388, 85 S. W. 341. Where a tax sale of wild land is void, a purchaser takes no record title affording presumptive possession. Id.; Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101.

10. Must be actual. Vincent v. Blanton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 703. A mere claim to possession accompanied by an occasional cutting of timber, payment of taxes and prevention of trespass is insufficient. Wilson v. Braden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 409.

Cutting timber from wild land is insufficient. Weir v. Cordz-Fisher Lumber Co., 186 Mo. 388, 85 S. W. 341. One who after receiving a deed of wild land, pays taxes for a long period, uses timber, mortgages it, and offers it for sale, possesses adversely to the true owner. McCaughn v. Young [Miss.] 37 So. 839.

11. Evidence held insufficient. Huss v. Jacobs, 210 Pa. 145, 59 A. 991.

§ 12. Pleading, evidence and instructions.[12]—The facts constituting adverse possession must be pleaded.[13] In pleading title the use of "adverse" is sufficient without the qualifying adjectives "continuous and exclusive."[14] Where peaceable possession is not an element it need not be alleged.[15] A party is not prejudiced by an allegation of adverse possession for a period greater than is necessary.[16] A reply which puts in issue a plea of adverse possession cures a defect in the plea in not alleging adverse possession for the statutory period.[17]

Evidence.[18]—Adverse possession is usually a mixed question of law and fact to be left to the jury under proper instructions;[19] but where the undisputed evidence shows adverse possession, it is proper to direct a verdict.[20] There is no presumption that possession is adverse,[21] and one asserting a title acquired in this manner has the burden of proving all the elements.[22] He must prove continuity of possession,[23] and that the true owner was not under legal disability;[24] but where he has met his burden and want of capacity is set up, the party setting it up has the burden to show that it existed within the statutory period.[25] The elements may be shown by positive acts without declaration of ownership.[26] One holding adversely to the only persons who make any claim to title need not show that he holds adversely to all others.[27] The degree of proof necessary to show that the possession of a co-tenant is adverse is greater than it is where the claimants do not occupy that relation.[28] The cutting of timber[29] or the payment of taxes is a circumstance;[30] but tax receipts which do not identify the land are not evidence.[31]

12. See 3 C. L. 63. See, also, Limitation of Actions, 4 C. L. 445.

13. Rhodes v. Cooper, 113 La. 600, 37 So. 527. An allegation of a prior judgment lien is not an assertion of adverse title. Illinois Nat. Bank v. Trustees of Schools, 111 Ill. App. 189.

14. Jackson v. Snodgrass, 140 Ala. 365, 37 So. 246.

15. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 322, 325. Montecito Valley Water Co. v. City of Santa Barbara, 144 Cal. 578, 77 P. 1113.

16. An allegation that title had been acquired by use for 20 years does not preclude one from proving that adverse possession for any period less than 20 years would give title. Wasmund v. Harm, 36 Wash. 170, 78 P. 777.

17. King v. See [Ky.] 87 S. W. 758.

18. See 3 C. L. 64.

19. Evidence held for the jury. City of Ft. Worth v. Cetti [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 826. On conflicting evidence, the question as to whether one has occupied adversely is for the jury. Georgia Iron & Coal Co. v. Allison, 121 Ga. 483, 49 S. E. 618. Whether the essentials of adverse possession are satisfied by a given state of circumstances is a question for the jury under proper instructions. Illinois Steel Co. v. Jeka [Wis.] 101 N. W. 399.

20. York v. Hutcheson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 895.

21. Monk v. Wilmington [N. C.] 49 S. E. 345.

22. Wilson v. Braden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 409.

Evidence held insufficient to show adverse possession. Coberly v. Coberly [Mo.] 87 S. W. 957; Nathan v. Dierssen [Cal.] 79 P. 739; Leverett v. Bullard, 121 Ga. 534, 49 S. E. 591; Spriggs v. Simpkins, 25 Ky. L. R. 1788, 78 S. W. 900; Crist v. Boust, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 543. Under Rev. St. § 2861, presuming possession within the statutory period in the holder of the legal title. English v. Oppenshaw [Utah] 78 P. 476. Under the 10-year statute. Logan v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 395. Findings of fact which do not show adverse possession affirmatively but show negatively that possession was not adverse are insufficient to show title by adverse possession. Wilcox v. Smith [Wash.] 80 P. 803. One witness testified that his father did not live on the land but walked over it once, commenced to clear it and fixed the fences; another testified that he went on and took possession; held insufficient. Freedman v. Oppenheim, 92 N. Y. S. 878. One party to the suit had established prima facie title. Rountree v. Thompson, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 595, 71 S. W. 574.

23. Wilson v. Braden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 409; Monk v. Wilmington [N. C.] 49 S. E. 345.

24. Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874. A certificate of title made by a title company is insufficient proof of title. Johnson v. Thomas, 23 App. D. C. 141.

25. Arnold v. Limeburger [Ga.] 49 S. E. 812.

26. Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546.

27. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364.

28. Coberly v. Coberly [Mo.] 87 S. W. 957.

29. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799. Testimony of cutting timber by witnesses who could not say where the cutting was done is insufficient evidence. Id.

30, 31. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799.

What is admissible.[32]—Where one claims through the possession of another, all evidence tending to show possession by such other is admissible;[33] but possession cannot be established by family repute,[34] and an application by an administrator to sell land is not evidence of possession of his intestate.[35] Self-serving declarations of the possessor are inadmissible;[36] but declarations tending to show that possession is under a claim of right are.[37] Evidence tending to show that entry was under color of title,[38] or to show or negative a claim of title,[39] or that the possessor did not claim title,[40] or that the real owner was under legal disability,[41] or had made entry during the statutory period,[42] is admissible.

Instructions.[43]—In instructing, the court should define the elements.[44] Elements substantially charged need not be repeated.[45] Too great a burden of proof should not be required.[46]

§ 13. Nature of title acquired.[47]—Adverse possession for the statutory period operates as a grant[48] and conveys to the possessor an indefeasible title,[49] which is a defense to all claims whether known or unknown,[50] unaffected by admissions inconsistent with ownership, which, however, are evidence of the character of his possession,[51] or by a subsequent survey,[52] or an abandonment of pos-

32. See 3 C. L. 64.

33. Evidence tending to show adverse possession by a claimant's ancestor and his own possession as heir and successor improperly excluded. Dorlan v. Westervitch 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382. Where one claims through the adverse possession of his ancestor, he may testify that he heard him say that he had paid taxes. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799.

34. Luttrell v. Whitehead, 121 Ga. 699, 49 S. E. 691.

35. Luttrell v. Whitehead, 121 Ga. 699, 49 S. E. 691; Pitts v. Whitehead, 121 Ga. 704, 49 S. E. 693.

36, 37. Swope v. Ward, 185 Mo. 316, 84 S. W. 895.

38. An intermediate deed in a chain of title is admissible for the purpose of showing an entry under it as a basis for title by adverse possession. Crist v. Boust, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 543. A decree in proceedings to foreclose a lien on a bridge, the abutments of which were erected on land under license from the owner, is not evidence of adverse possession, the decree not purporting to convey the land. Nicolai v. Baltimore [Md.] 60 A. 627.

39. Where a town was in possession, evidence that no taxes had been assessed against the premises. Murphy v. Commonwealth [Mass.] 73 N. E. 524. A claimant may testify as to the amount of land he claims to own. Dorlan v. Westervitch, 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382.

40. A letter written by one in possession to the holder of the legal title recognizing his interest is admissible. English v. Oppenshaw [Utah] 78 P. 476. Evidence that the owner proposed to the user of a way that he close it to the public. Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874.

A recognition of another as his landlord is inconsistent with a claim of ownership. Coberly v. Coberly [Mo.] 87 S. W. 957. On an issue as to whether a tenant's possession after the expiration of a lease was adverse, it is immaterial whether the lease was to him or to another whose subtenant he was. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 639.

41. Ancient deeds containing recitals of widowhood and heirship are admissible against an adverse claimant. Wilson v. Braden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 409.

42. Where a claimant relies on cutting timber, the holder of the legal title should be allowed to show that he also cut. Chastang v. Chastang [Ala.] 37 So. 799.

43. See 3 C. L. 64.

44. "Adverse" and "Claim of right." Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874.

45. An instruction requiring that possession be uninterrupted is not erroneous because of the omission of "continuous." Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 874. An instruction otherwise perfect is not defective because not adding the element of "claim adversely." Vincent v. Willis, 26 Ky. L. R. 842, 82 S. W. 583.

46. Where both parties claimed title by adverse possession, instructions assuming that one had a better right to begin with than the other are erroneous. Dorlan v. Westervitch, 140 Ala. 283, 37 So. 382.

47. See 3 C. L. 64.

48. A grant is presumed from possession for the statutory period. Uzzell v. Horn [S. C.] 51 S. E. 253. Not only bars an action to recover the land but it confers title. Franklin v. Cunningham [Mo.] 86 S. W. 79.

49. After adverse possession for the statutory period the possessor may maintain ejectment. City of Clinton v. Franklin, 26 Ky. L. R. 1053, 83 S. W. 142. The title is sufficient on judicial sale under Civ. Code Prac. § 490. Wise v. Wolfe [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1191.

50. Tax title of which a purchaser of the premises had no notice. Cass Farm Co. v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 848.

51. Admissions inconsistent with ownership made after title has been acquired may be considered on an issue as to whether the possession was adverse. Murphy v. Roney, 26 Ky. L. R. 634, 82 S. W. 396. An acknowledgment by one after the period has run that he intends to purchase from the session;[53] but will not prevail against a bona fide purchaser from the holder of the record title under a sale made when the adverse claimant was out of possession.[54]

ADVERTISING CONTRACTS; ADVICE OF COUNSEL, see latest topical index.

AFFIDAVITS.[55]

Who may make.[56]—Affidavits required by the rules of practice should be made by the party whose knowledge is material, therefore the moving affidavit on motion to amend a pleading,[57] or an affidavit for a commission to take the testimony of witnesses absent from the state,[58] should be made by a party and not by his attorney.

Who may take.[59]—The taking of an affidavit is a ministerial act and may be done by an interested person.[60] In Georgia, by statute, an attorney cannot take owner is evidence that his holding is not adverse. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364.

52. A title acquired by adverse possession cannot be prejudiced by a subsequent survey made by the owner's consent for the purpose of finding the true line. Fatic v. Myer [Ind.] 72 N. E. 142. See 3 C. L. 64, n. 96.

53. Title is not lost by the fact that the owner states that he does not claim it, and offers to buy it and his possession ceases to be exclusive. Rennert v. Shirk [Ind.] 72 N. E. 546. The title acquired is not affected by a break in the continuity of possession. Off v. Heinrichs [Wis.] 102 N. W. 904.

54. Especially in a state where by statute the adverse claimant can have his title established of record. Adams v. Carpenter [Mo.] 86 S. W. 445.

55. Includes only general rules. Necessity of affidavits in particular proceedings and their sufficiency in point of substance is treated in titles dealing with the proceeding in question.

56. See 3 C. L. 65.

57. Treadwell v. Clark, 45 Misc. 268, 92 N. Y. S. 166.

58. Fox v. Peacock, 97 App. Div. 500, 90 N. Y. S. 137.

NOTE. Affidavits may be made by the parties in the suit during the progress thereof (1 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 599). The general rule is that an affidavit must be made by the person who has a personal knowledge of the facts, unless a good reason is shown for its being made by some other person (1 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 599; Barry v. Crane, 3 Madd. 472). Upon sufficient cause shown, a substituted affidavit by another person that a party will be allowed, as where the party is sick or absent, or where the suit is conducted by an agent or attorney in fact (1 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 599; Griel v. Buckius, 114 Pa. 187, 6 A. 153). It is held that an attorney may make an affidavit for his client (Abbott v. Zeigler, 9 Ind. 511; McAlpin v. Finch, 18 Tex. 831). Whenever the affidavit relates to the proceedings in the cause, the affidavit should, in general, be made either by the solicitor or by his clerk who has had the principal management of the cause (1 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 599; The Harriet, Olcott, 222, Fed. Cas. No. 6,096). An affidavit on which a motion is founded should not be made by the clerk of the attorney, but by the attorney himself, unless a sufficient excuse is offered for the omission. Chase v. Edwards, 2 Wend. [N. Y.] 283; Ames v. Merriman, 9 Wend. [N. Y.] 498; Bank of Pittsburgh v. Murphy, 64 Hun, 632, 18 N. Y. Supp. 575. The authority of an attorney at law to make an affidavit for his client is presumed, and neither averment nor proof of authority is necessary. Miller v. Adams, 52 N. Y. 409; Simpson v. Lombas, 14 La. Ann. 103. In some jurisdictions it is held that an affidavit which shows that the party making it is an agent of the plaintiff is presumptively made on behalf of the plaintiff. Smith v. Victorin, 54 Minn. 338, 56 N. W. 47; White Sewing Machine Co. v. Betting, 53 Mo. App. 260; Murray v. Cone, 8 Port. [Ala.] 252; Stringer v. Dean, 61 Mich. 196, 27 N. W. 886. See, however, Miller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 58 Wis. 312, 17 N. W. 130; Ex parte Bank, 7 Hill [N. Y.] 177. An affidavit made by an attorney need not show the affiant's means of knowledge any further than would be required of the party himself (Anderson v. Wehe, 58 Wis. 615, 77 N. W. 426; Bates v. Robinson, 8 Iowa, 318; Gilkeson v. Knight, 71 Mo. 403). An affidavit stating that the affiant is the treasurer of a corporation sufficiently shows his authority to make it (Forbes Lithograph Mfg. Co. v. Winter, 107 Mich. 116, 64 N. W. 1053). When the defendant puts in a stranger's affidavit, it must show upon its face sufficient reason why it is not made by the defendant himself, and that a real disability existed which prevented him from making it, and the circumstances giving rise to the disability (Griel v. Buckius, 114 Pa. 187, 6 A. 153). See, however, Murray v. Kirkpatrick, 1 Cow. [N. Y.] 210. See Fletcher, Equity Pl. & Pr. § 442.

59. See 3 C. L. 65; see, also, Notaries and Commissioners of Deeds, 4 C. L. 828.

60. Affidavit of renewal of a chattel mortgage in favor of a corporation after it is received and filed by the register of deeds may be sworn to by an officer of the corporation before a notary public who is also an officer and stockholder. Fair v. Citizens' State Bank [Kan.] 79 P. 144. Record of such a mortgage is constructive notice. Id.

an affidavit required of his client unless specially permitted by law,[61] but an affidavit which is the foundation of the proceeding to evict an intruder may be made before any officer authorized to administer an oath.[62] In Texas, by statute, the affidavit in lieu of a writ of error bond may be made before a notary in another state.[63]

Form and requisites.[64]—It is necessary that the affiant be in the personal presence of the officer administering the oath, and it cannot be administered by the use of the telephone, though the officer is familiar with the voice of the affiant.[65] The venue[66] and jurat[67] are essential, but want of venue does not invalidate if it appear of what county the notary is an officer,[68] and the entire paper may be looked to for this purpose.[69] The official character of the officer taking must appear,[70] and in an affidavit made in a foreign state before an officer of such state it must appear in some legal way that the person attesting was in fact authorized to administer the oath,[71] and the fact that the seal of a probate court is affixed is insufficient to show that the person attesting is an officer of that court or is so authorized.[72]

Admissibility of affidavit in evidence and effect thereof.[73]—An affidavit on information and belief is sufficient for some purposes[74] but not for others.[75] Where an affidavit of a subscribing witness to a will is taken in open court, the clerk's certificate thereto need not be authenticated by seal in order to render it admissible in evidence.[76]

AFFIDAVITS OF MERITS OF CLAIM OR DEFENSE.[77]

An affidavit of defense is purely a statutory requirement,[78] and where not re-

61. Under Civ. Code 1895, § 4417, an affidavit by a client before an attorney who is representing him in resisting the collection of a fi. fa. is void. Moultrie Lumber Co. v. Jenkins, 121 Ga. 721, 49 S. E. 678. And does not operate to convert the execution into mesne process returnable to court. Id.

62. Civ. Code 1895, § 4808. Rigall v. Sirmans [Ga.] 51 S. E. 381.

63. Rev. St. § 1895, art. 7, subd. 2. Latimer v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 444.

64. See 3 C. L. 65.

65. Under Rev. St. 1895, arts. 3, 7. Sullivan v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 421.

66. An affidavit of service of summons with notice, which is without venue, is a nullity. Frees v. Blyth, 99 App. Div. 541, 91 N. Y. S. 103.

67. An affidavit for publication to bring in a nonresident defendant to which is appended an unsigned and undated jurat, without evidence aliunde to explain the error, is insufficient. Rumeli v. Tampa [Fla.] 37 So. 563.

68. Affidavit to a list of sales of delinquent lands. Hornage v. Imboden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1036. It is presumed that an affidavit was taken within the territorial jurisdiction of the officer taking it. Abrams v. State, 121 Ga. 170, 48 S. E. 965.

69. Hornage v. Imboden [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1036.

70. Rumeli v. Tampa [Fla.] 37 So. 563. The letters "J. P." appended to a signature affixed to the jurat is sufficient to designate the official character of the person taking. Abrams v. State, 121 Ga. 170, 48 S. E. 965.

71. Affidavit of a plaintiff in error, in forma pauperis, under Civ. Code 1895, § 5613. Ballew v. Broach, 121 Ga. 421, 49 S. E. 297.

72. Howell v. Simpson Grocery Co., 121 Ga. 461, 49 S. E. 299.

73. See 3 C. L. 66.

74. That facts stated in a motion for a new trial are "true to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief" requires such facts to be taken as true. Scheffel v. Scheffel [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 408.

75. An affidavit for commission to take testimony of witnesses not in the state, the statements of which as to residence and absence from the state are on information and belief is insufficient. Fox v. Peacock, 97 App. Div. 500, 90 N. Y. S. 137.

76. Hymer v. Holyfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 722.

77. As to showing of merits in application for relief which rests in discretion, see such titles as Continuance and Postponement, 3 C. L. 801; Defaults, 3 C. L. 1069.

78. Under the Pennsylvania Procedure Act a plaintiff is entitled to judgment for want of an affidavit of defense only in actions on demands which are liquidated, and an affidavit is not necessary in an action to recover damages for breach of contract. Brady v. Osborn Engineering Co., 132 F. 412. In an action of assumpsit on the official bond of a sheriff where the action is founded on misfeasance or negligence, no affidavit is required. Commonwealth v. Milnor, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 1. In Missouri, in order that a variance may be urged on appeal, quired, it is immaterial that one filed is insufficient;[79] but where the declaration is supported by an affidavit of merits, all the pleas thereto must be also so supported.[80] A statement setting forth a good cause of action is sufficient to require an affidavit of defense,[81] and statements of material facts in the affidavit of claim are to be taken as true if not denied by the affidavit of defense.[82]

An affidavit of defense may shift the burden of proof to the opposite party[83] or cure an insufficient statement;[84] but it serves its purpose in preventing judgment by default and cannot be offered as evidence of the facts alleged therein;[85] and cannot be considered as evidence on appeal.[86]

The filing of an affidavit of defense invoking every defense except irregularity in the service of summons, amounts to a general appearance.[87]

The office of the affidavit is to prevent a summary judgment and it is not to be subjected to close and technical examination.[88] All that is required is that the facts of defense be averred with reasonable precision and distinctness,[89] but it must state facts sufficient to constitute prima facie a good defense.[90] The averments must form a complete answer to the plaintiff's demand. Every matter of defense must be set forth specifically and with such detail as to show clearly its the fact must be asserted by affidavit. Rev. St. 1899, § 655. Harrison v. Lakenan [Mo.] 88 S. W. 53.

NOTE. Jury trial: A law requiring that an affidavit of defense be made by the defendant before a jury trial may be had is valid. Dortic v. Lockwood, 61 Ga. 293; Hunt v. Lucas, 99 Mass. 404; Lawrence v. Borm, 86 Pa. 225; Randall v. Weld, 86 Pa. 357; and see Hobbs v. Dougherty County, 98 Ga. 574, 25 S. E. 579. So where a statute provides that if a railroad company sue for instalments of stock, it need not prove such subscription to have been made, unless the defendant shall deny the subscription by plea or answer, verified by affidavit, it is not an invasion of the right of trial by jury. Thigpen v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co., 32 Miss. 347. A requirement that an appellant make oath that he believes injustice had been done him, and that the appeal was not made for the purpose of delay, does not clog the appeal with an onerous restriction. "This is no more than a wholesale regulation; the object, of course, is to administer justice, and no man has a right to complain because he is refused an appeal intended for the purpose of delay, or in a case in which he does not think that he has suffered injustice. It might as well be said that the trial by jury was attacked by a law which should forbid a defendant to put in a dilatory plea, or to plead non est factum, in an action of debt on a bond, without swearing that he believed the matter of the plea to be true. Laws such as these promote justice, and leave the substance of the trial by jury unimpaired, and that is all which is required by these expressions in the constitution that 'trial by jury shall be as heretofore.'" Where a plaintiff has invoked the protection of the statute relieving her from the requirement of giving security for costs, on account of poverty, she is bound by its provisions requiring a dismissal of the action by the court, if the allegation of poverty be found false, and cannot object that she is deprived of the right to trial by jury. Woods v. Bailey, 122 F. 967.—From note to Eckrich v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 98 Am. St. Rep. 543.

79. Brady v. Osborn Engineering Co., 132 F. 412; Commonwealth v. Milnor, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

80. Plea to special count was so supported, others not. Blizzard v. Epkens, 105 Ill. App. 117.

81. Statement in an action for necessaries held sufficient. Davidov v. Bail, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 579. Statement in an action for goods sold held sufficient to call for an affidavit of defense. Genesee Paper Co. v. Bogert, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 23. To entitle plaintiff to a judgment for want of an affidavit of defense or because it is insufficient, all the essential elements of a complete cause of action must affirmatively appear in the statement and the exhibits made a part thereof. Commonwealth v. Magee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 329.

82. Bryan v. Harr, 21 App. D. C. 190.

83. The filing of an affidavit of defense to an action on a promissory note casts the burden of proof on the plaintiff, but does not raise a presumption of forgery or require more evidence than if the general issue had been pleaded. Stewart v. Gleason, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 325. An affidavit of nonservice having been filed in an action against a surety on a note, recovery cannot be had without proof of service of notice of dishonor. Singer v. Pollock, 91 N. Y. S. 755.

84. Copy of agreement not filed with the statement but was with the affidavit. Genesee Paper Co. v. Bogert, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 23.

85, 86. Kittanning Borough v. Kittanning Consol. Nat. Gas Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 355.

87. Southern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 88.

88. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Keen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 677.

89. Held sufficient in an action for the price of goods. Friel v. Custer, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 466.

relation to the plaintiff's claim,[91] and what is not stated must be regarded as not existing,[92] and if it fails to do so, either from omission of essential facts[93] or manifest evasiveness in the mode of statement, it is insufficient to prevent a judgment.[94] Nothing must be left to inference,[95] and where it is not clear whether an averment is of a fact or of an inference of law from particular facts not set forth, it is bad for uncertainty.[96] Intimations and indirect statements are insufficient,[97] and mere conclusions of law are not to be accepted as established facts simply because so stated.[98] An affidavit restricted to certain allegations is insufficient to require proof of allegations which it does not place in issue.[99] Allegations of set-off must be as specific as those used in a statement of claim,[1] and allegations in general terms are not to be regarded.[2] Where a stranger's affidavit is put in, it must show upon its face sufficient reason why it was not made by the defendant.[3] If a defense is probably good but defectively stated, a supplemental and even a third affidavit may be allowed.[4] The extent of allowing sup-

Held sufficient to prevent judgment in an action on a check. Creery v. Thompson, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 511. Action to recover the price of liquors. Adulteration alleged. Rheinstrom v. Wolf, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 559. Affidavit and supplementary affidavit held sufficient in an action on certificates of a beneficial association. Mitchell v. Monumental Mut. Life Ins. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 584. Action on a promissory note, though not averring in express terms, fraud, accident or mistake. Newell Booth Co. v. Sheldrake, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 528. Action against a corporation, not for profit. Schwerdfeger v. Columbia Gesang Verein, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 515. Scire facias sur mortgage. Want of authority to mortgage set up. Kay v. Gray, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 536. Held to go to the whole of plaintiff's claim on an insurance policy. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Keen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 677. Action to recover price of fixtures. Loeper v. Haas, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 184. Action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover a preference. Plummer v. Myers, 137 F. 660. To prevent judgment on a promissory note on account of failure of consideration and fraud. Rakestraw v. Woodward, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 165. In action against a married woman and her husband alleged to be trading in the name of the wife, an affidavit by the wife tending to negative liability by any one is good as to both. Van Cott v. Webb-Miller, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 51.

90. Held to state a defense to assessment insurance contract on the ground of laches. Supreme Council A. L. H. v. McAlarney [C. C. A.] 135 F. 72.

91. Held insufficient in an action for services rendered. Kyler v. Christman, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 548. Held insufficient in an action to recover price of paper sold. Genesee Paper Co. v. Bogert, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 23.

92. Kyler v. Christman, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 548.

93. Affidavit of defense admitted facts showing modification of original contract by a supplementary agreement set up by the plaintiff, and upon the validity of which his right of recovery depended. Cramp v. Philadelphia Const. Co., 134 F. 690.

94. Held insufficient in an action on a promissory note. Knight v. Walker Brick Co., 23 App. D. C. 519; Snyder v. Knight, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 309; Brian v. Merrill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 629; Tranter Davison Mfg. Co. v. Pittsburg Trolley Pole Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 46. In an action by an indorsee against the indorsor of a promissory note. Bryan v. Harr, 21 App. D. C. 190. Action for the price of goods. Carnahan Stamping & Enameling Co. v. Foley, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 643. Action on a written contract. Slater v. Van der Hoogt, 23 App. D. C. 417.

95. Held insufficient in an action for services by an officer of a corporation. Paine v. Berg, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 577.

96. Held open to this objection in an action for breach of covenant to furnish gas. Boal v. Citizens' Nat. Gas Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 339.

97. Held insufficient in an action by an attorney for professional services rendered. Whiting v. Davidge, 23 App. D. C. 156.

98. Bryan v. Harr, 21 App. D. C. 190.

99. Held insufficient to require proof of appointment of a trustee in bankruptcy. Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 37 So. 645.

1. McFetridge v. Megargee, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 501; Carnahan Stamping & Enameling Co. v. Foley, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 643.

2. In this respect the defendant is an actor, and averments must be as specific as those in a statement of claim. Penn Shovel Co. v. Phelps, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 595.

3. That a disability existed and the circumstances giving rise to such disability. Horsuch v. Fry, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 509. This rule is applicable to the sworn answer required by the rules of court of Allegheny county in sheriff's interpleader proceedings. Id.

4. Loeper v. Haas, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 184. The affirmance of an order discharging rule for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit with permission to plaintiff to move the court below for judgment for so much of his claim as to which the affidavit is deemed by the appellate court to be insufficient, does not abridge the discretionary power of the court below to permit a supplemental or even second and third affidavits, if the defense appear probably good. Kyler v. Christman, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 74.

plemental affidavits[5] or amendments rests largely in the discretion of the court;[6] but if a supplemental affidavit is not filed within a reasonable time, defendant cannot complain that the entry of judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit was premature.[7]

To entitle a plaintiff to appeal from an order discharging a rule for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit, he must except to the decision.[8]

AFFIRMATIONS, see latest topical index.

AFFRAY.

An affray is a mutual combat voluntarily engaged in by two or more persons in a public place.[9]

AGENCY.[10]

Agency resulting by operation of law from certain relations as in the case of partnership[11] or marriage[12] and other particular kinds of agencies are elsewhere treated.[13]

§ 1. The relation between the parties.[14]—The relation of agent to his principal is founded in greater or less degree upon trust and confidence; it is essentially a personal relation. And contracts of agency, like those creating other personal relations, will not be specifically enforced.[15]

(§ 1) A. Competency to act as agent or to employ agents.[16]—A married woman may act as agent of her husband[17] and may appoint an agent.[18] A re-

5. Discretion held not abused. Loeper v. Haas, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 184.

6. Cramp v. Philadelphia Const. Co., 134 F. 690; Blizzard v. Epkens, 105 Ill. App. 117.

7. McFetridge v. Megargee, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 501.

8. Commonwealth v. Cavett, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 57; Chambers v. McLean, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 551.

9. Instruction in a homicide case held misleading. Reynolds v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 949, 82 S. W. 978. See 3 Curr. L. 68, n. 50.

10. This topic follows closely in outline the recently issued and exhaustive work of Clark and Skyles on Agency.

11. A partner is the agent of the firm. Foster v. Murphy & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 47. In commercial or trading firms a partner can bind the firm by the execution of commercial paper. A firm engaged in taking and executing plumbing contracts, and selling fittings and fixtures, held to be such a firm (Marsh, Merwin & Lemmon v. Wheeler [Conn.] 59 A. 410), and this principle applies as well to law firms as to others, a contract for services made with one of a firm of attorneys being a contract with the firm (Dennis v. First Nat. Bank, 33 Wash. 161, 73 P. 1125).

12. See Husband and Wife, 3 C. L. 1669.

13. See Attorneys and Counselors, 3 C. L. 376; Brokers, 3 C. L. 535; Corporations, 3 C. L. 880; Factors, 3 C. L. 1415; Insurance, 4 C. L. 157; Partnership, 4 C. L. 908. And see specific article, 3 C. L. 101.

14. See 3 C. L. 69.

15. John L. Rowan & Co. v. Hull, 55 W. Va. 335, 47 S. E. 92.

16. See 3 C. L. 69.

17. The wife, like another person, may be made an agent for her husband, and as such impose upon him obligations by his ceiver has implied power to appoint such agents as are necessary to transact the business committed to him.[19]

(§ 1) B. Creation and existence of the relation.[20]—The contract of agency must have the elements essential to the validity of all contracts,[21] must be consistent with public policy,[22] and properly executed.[23] No express terms are required to define the agent's powers.[24] But no valid agency is created by the designation of a party to dispose of property in case of the death of the owner. An estate cannot be administered by an agent appointed in that manner.[25] Agency for a corporation may be conferred and proved as in the case of natural persons.[26] An agreement for the sale of real property, made by an agent, is invalid, unless the authority of the agent is in writing, subscribed by the party sought to be charged.[27] But an agent to take an option to purchase real estate is not required to have written authority from his principal;[28] nor an agent to purchase property for his principal.[29]

Agency is a mixed question of law and fact[30] to be determined by the jury authority, express or implied, precedent or subsequent. Steffens v. Nelson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 871.

18. A married woman, her husband joining, may make a valid power of attorney to convey her lands. In Pennsylvania. Linton v. Moorhead, 209 Pa. 646, 59 A. 264.

19. When a railroad company goes into the hands of a receiver, the power to appoint general agents necessarily goes with the order to conduct the business of the company. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. American Trading Co., 25 S. Ct. 84.

20. See 3 C. L. 69.

21. Merely because one renders gratuitous assistance to a friend, he does not, by so doing, enter into confidential relations or become an agent of the party he so advises. Gray v. Hafer, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 341, 15 Ohio Dec. 256. Entries in the books of agents of which the principal has no information constitute no contract between the parties nor a modification of one. Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, 71 N. E. 529.

22. Question of agency, whether revocable or irrevocable, has no bearing in a suit under a contract which is invalid as against morality or public policy. Pape v. Standard Oil Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 514. A contract for services in the procuring of government contracts does not necessarily call for corrupt practices, so as to make the contract of employment void as against public policy, even though the agent may misconduct himself thereunder. Kerr v. American Pneumatic Service Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 857.

23. In Texas the appointment of an agent to contract for the county for the erection and repair of buildings, etc., must be authorized by the commissioners acting as a body. Sayles' Rev. St. 1897, art. 797. Jackson-Foxworth Lumber Co. v. Hutchinson County [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 412. A written agreement by two parties to sell lands is enforceable, although signed by but one of them, if he had authority from the other to sign for him; and such authority may be oral, as where two executors were authorized by will to sell lands of the estate as trustees. Roe v. Smith, 42 Misc. 89, 85 N. Y. S. 527. Agency for collection of certain claims against the United States created by the oral acceptance of a letter containing a proposition to undertake the work. Carlisle v. Barnes, 92 N. Y. S. 917. A written proposition to employ one as an agent, signed by the proposer and accepted, though not signed by the agent, constitutes a binding contract enforceable against both. John L. Rowan & Co. v. Hull, 55 W. Va. 335, 47 S. E. 92.

24. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396. The placing of money in the hands of a party to be paid to a third party constitutes an agency. Commonwealth v. Folz, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 558.

25. Upon the back of a promissory note was a memorandum directing the disposition of the proceeds in case of the death of the payee, constituting the maker an agent for that purpose. Moore v. Weston [N. D.] 102 N. W. 163.

26. Brown v. British American Mortg. Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 312, citing Carey-Halliday Lumber Co. v. Cain, 70 Miss. 628.

27. Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 780. A real estate broker, who has lands listed for sale, can only find purchasers and submit propositions to his principal, and cannot make a valid agreement of sale, unless authorized thereto in writing. Halsell v. Renfrow, 14 Okl. 674, 78 P. 118. But a lease made through an agent, executed under seal by both lessee and agent and subsequently assigned by the owner under seal, cannot be attacked as invalid by the lessee who went into possession under it, on the ground of no written authority to the agent to execute the lease. Gleadall v. Kenney, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 576.

28. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290.

29. Rose v. Hayden, 35 Kan. 106, 57 Am. Rep. 145.

30. A question of agency as between the owners of the equity in property and the mortgagee; defendant held to be agent of the former and liable to them for rents collected. Rosaler v. Mandeville, 92 N. Y. S. 341.

under proper instructions,[31] when the agent's authority is not in writing.[32] But where there is no conflict in the evidence[33] or the evidence is such that the jury could not find otherwise,[34] the existence of the agency is a question for the court.[35] The extent of an agent's authority, under the power conferred, and what he may do as agent, when the appointment and authority, real or apparent, are admitted, or are not in controversy, are, also, questions of law.[36] But when the agent is in charge of an extensive district and there is no writing limiting his authority,[37] or where there is a dispute as to the authority conferred, the extent of such authority must be found by the trier of fact.[38]

Intermediaries.—A mere intermediary is not an agent and cannot be held liable as such when the capacity in which he acts is disclosed.[39] Dual agencies are void only when the fact of representation of both parties is not known to each.[40] And in the case of neglect of duties devolving upon an employe of two persons jointly, such neglect cannot be made the basis of recovery of damages by one against the other.[41] The master's possession of a vessel is as much for the benefit of the charterer as for the original owner.[42]

(§ 1) C. Implied agency.[43]—The fact of agency or its extent may be presumed from the conduct of the parties, or their usual course of business.[44] When

31. Delafield v. J. K. Armsby Co., 90 N. Y. S. 998; Swindell Bros. v. J. L. Gilbert & Bro. [Md.] 60 A. 102; Scull v. Skilton, 70 N. J. Law, 792, 59 A. 457; Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482; Johnson v. Cate [Vt.] 59 A. 830.

32. Lough v. John Davis & Co., 35 Wash. 449, 77 P. 732.

33. Johnson v. Cate [Vt.] 59 A. 830.

34. Phelps, Dodge & Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 218.

35. In an action against a principal on an alleged contract with his agent, in the absence of any proof of the agent's authority, it is proper for the court to assume, in its charge, that the agent had no authority to bind the principal. Quale v. Hazel [S. D.] 104 N. W. 215. Where an attorney at law, in executing a power to confess judgment, which runs to any attorney at law, merely recites that he is attorney in fact, it will be sufficient, as the court will take judicial notice that he is an attorney at law. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411.

36. Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482.

37. A sewing machine agent sold machines upon an agreement to furnish sufficient work to enable defendant to pay for them out of the profits. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Christian [Pa.] 60 A. 1087.

38. Evidence held sufficient to support verdict that the agent had authority to make the agreement in question. Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482; Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071; Clark v. Lehigh Val. R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.

39. Where one bank sent a note to another to procure the signatures of two parties, and the president of the second bank sent it to one of the parties and then returned it, apparently signed by both, to the first bank, held that there was no relation of principal and agent between the first bank and the president of the other; and, although one of the signatures was forged, the second bank was not liable, as the act of its president was outside of its corporate powers; and the president was held not bound as he made no representations. First Nat. Bank v. Commercial Nat. Bank [Tex.] 87 S. W. 1032.

40. A real estate broker, who is negotiating a sale of property, cannot represent both parties without their knowledge and consent. Green v. Southern States Lumber Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 670. Where the agent of the vendor is also president or agent of the purchaser, the effect of the dual agency will authorize the principal to repudiate the transaction. Whitley v. James, 121 Ga. 521, 49 S. E. 600.

41. Complaint was made that cattle had not been sufficiently salted and watered, but it appeared that they had been in the care of a party employed jointly by plaintiff and defendant. N. B. Brown & Co. v. St. John Trust Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 37.

42. Brig Maria, 39 Ct. Cl. 39.

43. See 3 C. L. 71. See, also, special article "Agency Implied from Relation of Parties," 3 C. L. 101. Evidence of the management of certain business of a son by the father, with the son's knowledge and consent, held sufficient to warrant a finding that the son was estopped to repudiate the action of the father in executing a mining lease. Jordan v. Greig [Colo.] 80 P. 1045. Where the payee of a note left it in the hands of her father, who attended to all the business connected therewith, it was error, in a suit to collect the note, to exclude evidence of a satisfaction of the deed of trust securing the note, which had been entered on the margin thereof by the father. Dawson v. Wombles [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 271. Where the employe of defendant was authorized to purchase a machine, which was obviously an experiment, defendant was bound by his contract with the sellers for extra work done on the machine under the employe's direction. Benton v. Moss, 93 N. Y. S. 1113.

44. The relation of principal and agent

a general agent is appointed by a receiver of a railroad company, he will be presumed to have the general powers of such an officer when acting for the railroad itself.[45] Where the statutes impose a legal duty upon the father to support a minor child,[46] the same agency to bind the father for necessaries is to be implied, where there is a total abandonment of a minor child, incapable of supporting itself, as implied in the wife on desertion by her husband.[47] Agency will not be presumed from the mere existence of the marital relation;[48] but, owing to the intimate relation of husband and wife, the agency of one for the other may be presumed upon slight evidence.[49] Once the agency is shown, the relation is presumed to continue.[50]

(§ 1) D. Evidence of agency.[51]—If an agent's authority is in writing, that is the best evidence;[52] and his powers must be ascertained from the instrument itself, which will be strictly construed;[53] and the authority conferred is never extended by intendment or construction, beyond that which is given in terms or is absolutely necessary for carrying the authority into effect.[54] A provision in a implies a grant of the powers necessarily incident to the purposes of the agency, or which, by established usage, may properly be employed in carrying out those purposes. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396. An agent has not only the authority which is expressly given, but such as is necessarily implied from the nature of the employment. Daniel v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 511, 48 S. E. 816. The purchasing agent of a corporation was known as a general officer of it and for 12 or 13 years had conducted transactions similar to those with plaintiff. Batavian Bank v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 687.

45. Such agent has the power to make special contracts to forward a through shipment by the steamer of a connecting carrier, on a certain day. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. American Trading Co., 25 S. Ct. 84. The application clerk and counterman at the home office of an insurance company, who was authorized to accept risks and cancel policies, held to have prima facie authority to waive in writing a provision in a contract of reinsurance limiting the company's liability on such risks. Northern Ins. Co. v. Associated Mfrs. Mut. Fire Ins. Corp., 90 N. Y. S. 14. Presumption of agency in giving consent for an abutter to the building of a street railway arises after council has acted upon the consent. Day v. Forest City R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 393.

46. Comp. Laws Mich. § 4495. Finn v. Adams [Mich.] 101 N. W. 533.

47. Finn v. Adams [Mich.] 101 N. W. 533.

48. McNemar v. Cohn, 115 Ill. App. 31; Francis v. Reeves [N. C.] 49 S. E. 213.

49. French v. Spencer, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 428.

50. A party who described himself as the duly authorized agent for plaintiff in the affidavit attached to the cognovit in the entry of judgment by confession under the terms of a lease, was the purchaser of the premises at sheriff's sale. Held that he was still acting as agent and held the sheriff's certificate as agent and not as a third person; and an order denying a motion to quash the execution and cancel the certificate was reversed. Parker v. Crilly, 113 Ill. App. 309. After a person has once ascertained the extent of the agent's authority he may, in subsequent dealings, assume that the original authority continues, unless informed to the contrary. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

51. See 3 C. L. 72.

52. American Tel. & T. Co. v. Green [Ind.] 73 N. E. 707; Maryland Casualty Co. v. Peoples, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 142. Construction of an agent's authority under a contract for the sale of real estate. Campbell v. Beard [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 747. A power of attorney is merely the evidence of the agent's authority; and a power to sell all the real property of the principal situated in the parish of Livingston sufficiently describes the property. Rownd v. Davidson, 113 La. 1047, 37 So. 965.

53. Kelly v. Tracy & Avery Co. [Ohio] 73 N. E. 455. A power of attorney in plain and unambiguous terms cannot be explained by parol evidence. Rogers v. Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 379. A power of attorney will be strictly construed in view of its controlling purpose, and the addition of general words will not be construed to extend the authority so as to add new and distinct powers, different from those expressly delegated. Power to recover possession of certain property, by the institution of necessary suits and the employment of counsel, does not include the power to defend the title of the land from subsequent attacks, after possession has been recovered, notwithstanding general terms of authority in the power of attorney. White v. Young [Ga.] 51 S. E. 28. In an action for commissions for negotiating the sale of land, authorized, as alleged, by defendant's agent, whose authority to contract with plaintiff was denied by defendant, the contract between defendant and his agent was admissible, he testifying that it was the only contract he had made for the sale of the land. Quale v. Hazel [S. D.] 104 N. W. 215.

54. If a judgment bond is given, under authority to enter security, become bail and "pledge" certain real estate, a judgment entered thereon is not void but will be limited in its lien and collection to the prop-written contract of agency, forbidding its change unless such change was approved in writing by the principal, does not prevent the making of a separate verbal contract of agency with reference to another transaction.[55] If the written instrument creating the agency is lost, that fact must be shown, when its terms may be shown by parol;[56] and parol evidence is also admissible to explain terms in a written contract of agency.[57] Where the authority of an agent is not in writing, both the fact and extent of the agency can be proved by parol.[58] The authority of an agent appointed by county commissioners in Texas to contract in behalf of the county in the erection, etc., of public buildings, may be shown by parol, it not being necessary that an order be actually entered on the minutes.[59] Although the word "authority" is too much in the nature of a conclusion to use in a question to a witness, it is at least proper for him to testify that there was no instruction or nothing said or written in regard to the matter by the party claimed to be the principal, to the party claimed to be the agent;[60] and when the agent's authority is merely verbal, the language should be stated to the best of the witness' recollection.[61] Neither direct proof,[62] nor affirmative evidence of a formal appointment,[63] is necessary; but the agency, or the authority, may be shown by facts and circumstances, or from the ratification of the agency.[64] Agency may be proved by circumstances and by the apparent relations and conduct of the parties.[65] Neither the extent,[66] nor the fact of the agency,[67] can be shown by the declarations of the alleged agent; nor by his acts[68] or admissions,[69] unless they ertles named in the power of attorney. Stokes v. Dewees, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 471.

55. The principal's general agent agreed orally with the selling agent to pay a commission on the sale of a second-hand machine. Shook v. Marion Mfg. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 657.

56. Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. v. Grimmon [Nev.] 81 P. 43.

57. Morrison Mfg. Co. v. Bryson [Iowa] 103 N. W. 1016.

58. Authority to represent the nonresident owner of a building. Lough v. John Davis & Co., 35 Wash. 449, 77 P. 732; Swindell Bros. v. J. L. Gilbert & Bro. [Md.] 60 A. 102.

59. Jackson-Foxworth Lumber Co. v. Hutchinson County [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 412.

60, 61. Jos. Schlitz Brew. Co. v. Grimmon [Nev.] 81 P. 43.

62. Evidence in an action for goods sold held sufficient to establish the agency through which they were bought. Crosno v. J. W. Bowser Milling Co., 106 Mo. App. 236, 80 S. W. 275.

63. Roberson v. Clevenger [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 512.

64. Swindell Bros. v. J. L. Gilbert & Bro. [Md.] 60 A. 102; Roberson v. Clevenger [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 512. An allegation of agency in the pleadings can be sustained by showing any state of facts which the law recognizes as establishing agency. Turner v. Turner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 969.

65. Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398.

66. White Sewing Mach. Co. v. Hill, 136 N. C. 128, 48 S. E. 575; Daniel v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 517, 48 S. E. 816; Dieckman v. Weirich, 24 Ky. L. R. 2340, 73 S. W. 1119; Jahren v. Palmer [Kan.] 79 P. 1081. Conversation overheard between the agent and his principal, by telephone, in regard to the transaction in question, is not admissible to prove the extent of the agent's authority, it being mere hearsay. Wilson v. Vogeler [Idaho] 79 P. 508. An attorney's declarations are inadmissible to prove the extent of his authority. West v. A. F. Messick Grocery Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 565.

67. Phillips v. Poulter, 111 Ill. App. 330; Sloan v. Sloan [Or.] 78 P. 893; Pederson v. Kiensel [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1088; Excelsior Consumers' Cigar Co. v. Stracherjan, 87 N. Y. S. 489; Higley v. Dennis [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 400; Blair-Baker Horse Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1027. Not even in the case of husband and wife. McNemar v. Cohn, 115 Ill. App. 31. In a suit by a third person against an alleged undisclosed principal. W. K. Niver Coal Co. v. Piedmont & Georges Creek Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 179. A statement by one claiming to represent a lodge, that he is "manager, or secretary or something" of the lodge, does not establish his authority to represent it. Castner v. Rinne, 31 Colo. 256, 72 P. 1052.

68. Hutchinson Wholesale Grocery Co. v. Rufus L. McDonald & Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 950; Richards v. Newstifter [Kan.] 78 P. 824; Fourth Nat. Bank v. Frost [Kan.] 78 P. 825, citing Streeter v. Poor, 4 Kan. 412; Lewis v. Bourbon County, 12 Kan. 186; Leu v. Mayer, 52 Kan. 419. The mere fact that one acts as the agent of the owner of a mortgage in collecting interest is not sufficient to show authority to collect the principal and discharge the mortgage. Cornish v. Woolverton [Mont.] 81 P. 4.

69. The admission of a member of a lodge that the trustees had appointed one of their number as agent to sell the lodge's real estate is not competent evidence of such trusare brought home to the principal,[70] nor can the powers of the agent be so extended.[71] But declarations made by an alleged agent, against interest, as to the character of the business relations between him and the alleged principal, are as competent, when the agent is made plaintiff's witness, as they would be if he were himself the plaintiff and testifying in his own behalf.[72] While agency cannot be proven by such declarations, they may be considered in connection with letters and subsequent acts;[73] and they are admissible after it has been shown by competent evidence that one is authorized to act for another.[74] The existence of the agency may be shown by the testimony of the agent himself to the fact;[75] and he can testify to facts and circumstances tending to show agency.[76] But as a witness to prove his authority he can testify only to facts, the instructions and directions given him and the sources from which they came, etc., but not to conclusions as to the extent of his authority.[77] The admissions of the principal are competent evidence as to the extent of his agent's authority.[78] Evidence of actual transactions between the parties, tending to show a course of dealing,[79] or letters between the parties tending to show agency,[80] are competent to prove the fact of agency.

Proof of the agency, whether express or implied, must be clear to bind the principal.[81] The burden of proving an agent's authority to waive restrictions on his agency is upon the party setting up such waiver.[82] The liability of the printee's authority. Castner v. Rinne, 31 Colo. 256, 72 P. 1052.

70. C. F. Blanke Tea & Coffee Co. v. Rees Printing Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 627. In the absence of the principal. Blair-Baker Horse Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1027.

71. A mere traveling salesman, with limited powers, cannot be shown to be a state agent by his own declarations. Aultman & Taylor Mach. Co. v. Cappleman [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1243.

72. W. K. Niver Coal Co. v. Piedmont & Georges Creek Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 179.

73. Sessions & Co. v. Isabel, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 288.

74. Brooke v. Lowe [Ga.] 50 S. E. 146; Hood v. Hendrickson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 994; Higley v. Dennis [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 400; Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398.

75. Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074; Jahren v. Palmer [Kan.] 79 P. 1081; Jos. Schlitz Brew. Co. v. Grimmon [Nev.] 81 P. 43; Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398.

76. Phillips v. Poulter, 111 Ill. App. 330. The mere fact that an agent to negotiate a loan is an attorney does not make the relation between him and his principal that of attorney and client, so as to render him incompetent as a witness against the borrower as to matters connected with the loan. Turner v. Turner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 969.

77. American Tel. & T. Co. v. Green [Ind.] 73 N. E. 707. Where the authority of an agent is a material question, to be passed upon by the jury, the agent may be examined as to the instructions received from his principal. Brown v. Kirk, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 157. An agent may testify that he acted in his principal's behalf in a transaction, but his testimony does not bind the latter or affect his rights. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636.

78. Washburn v. Betz, 94 N. Y. S. 342.

79. Management of affairs of a corporation by its officer. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 419; Crosno v. J. W. Bowser Milling Co., 106 Mo. App. 236, 80 S. W. 275.

80. Proof of agency by oral evidence, supplemented by letters, held sufficient. Harrison v. Craven [Mo.] 87 S. W. 962.

81. Scull v. Skilton, 70 N. J. Law, 792, 59 A. 457. And in case of husband and wife, the proof must be sufficiently strong to explain and remove the equivocal character in which she is placed by reason of her relation as wife. Francis v. Reeves [N. C.] 49 S. E. 213. Contract signed J. W. Duntley not shown to be contract of Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. Railway Speed Recorder Co. v. Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., 126 F. 223. There being no evidence that the alleged agent had any authority to bind the principal by the contract for the purchase of land, the court did not err in granting a nonsuit. Hood v. Hendrickson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 994. The purchaser of a piano, on a conditional sale, who agreed to insure the same for the seller's benefit, could not rely upon the statement of some one at the store, that he need not do so as it was "insured at the store," without proving the authority of such person to make the statement. Gordeen v. Pearlman, 91 N. Y. S. 420. Surrender of lease is no defense in absence of proof of authority of agent to accept the same. Earle v. Gillies, 92 N. Y. S. 239. An assignment of a claim by an attorney is insufficient proof of ownership of the claim, without proof of the attorney's authority to make the assignment. MacLatchy v. Hannan, 93 N. Y. S. 282.

82. Defendants ordered machines from plaintiff and claimed that their agent made a verbal agreement with them for the sole agency in the county, although the orders for the machines contained the printed statecipal can be shown only by proof of the agent's previous authority, or of subsequent ratification;[83] and the burden of showing not only the fact, but also the extent of the authority of an assumed agent, is upon the persons dealing with him.[84] Cases dealing with the admissibility[85] or sufficiency[86] of evidence as to agency in particular instances are grouped in the notes.

(§ 1) E. Estoppel to assert or deny agency.[87]—Estoppel is to be distinguished from ratification.[88] Where a party avails himself of the acts and meth-ment that no agreements with agents would be recognized, except such as were embraced in written orders, or were in writing and accepted at the company's office. White Sewing Mach. Co. v. Hill, 136 N. C. 128, 48 S. E. 573.

83. Daniel v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 517, 48 S. E. 816.

84. Where defendant's agent took an order for machinery which defendant refused to accept, it appeared that the agent had authority only to take orders subject to defendant's approval. T. H. Baker & Co. v. Kellett-Chatham Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 661. In an action on a note where the defense is payment to one other than the payee, the burden is on the defendant to show the authority of such person to receive payment. Higley v. Dennis [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 400. It not being within the apparent authority of an agent selling a pump to guarantee that a boiler which the purchaser owned and was using would furnish sufficient power to do the work it was then doing and also run the pump, the purchaser, to hold the seller thereon, must show such authority. Lucile Min. Co. v. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1121.

85. The agency cannot be proved by the testimony of another party as to a conversation with the alleged agent, that being mere hearsay. Broadstreet v. Hall, 32 Ind. App. 122, 69 N. E. 415. Where the agent's authority consists in a resolution adopted by an executive committee, in charge of a celebration arranging for the procuring of photographic work for a souvenir, such resolution is not an independent writing determining the scope of the agency, but that must be determined by the conduct and acts of the parties. Galvano Type Engraving Co. v. Jackson [Conn.] 60 A. 127. Evidence that an alleged agent had in various transactions acted as attorney for the party sought to be held is not competent to prove agency. Keegan v. Rock [Iowa] 102 N. W. 805. Where the estate counterclaimed for money alleged to have been received by claimant, as intestate's agent, for sale of a farm, and claimant alleged that he had fully accounted therefor, a writing signed by intestate in which she stated that she had given claimant $1,000, and to make it equal she thereby gave her daughter the same sum, was admissible as tending to show that the sum given to the daughter was a part of the farm money and was given her by claimant at intestate's direction. Vitty v. Peaslee's Estate, 76 Vt. 402, 57 A. 967. Oral evidence that one of two parties, having authority to sell lands, authorized the other to sign for him an agreement to sell a certain tract, is not excluded by the statute of frauds. Roe v. Smith, 42 Misc. 89, 85 N. Y. S. 527.

86. Evidence held sufficient: Of a sale of goods to defendant's authorized agent on defendant's account. Engel-Heller Co. v. Dineen, 91 N. Y. S. 336. To show that an agent, with authority to modify leases, had authority to accept a surrender of a lease and waive a provision therein that no surrender should be valid without the landlord's written acceptance. Goldsmith v. Schroeder, 93 App. Div. 206, 87 N. Y. S. 558. To show that the bookkeeper of defendant was in fact the representative and agent of plaintiff to whom defendant was indebted on a prior transaction. Campbell v. Emslie, 91 N. Y. S. 1069. To establish agency for delivery of notes. Barton v. Hughes, 117 Ga. 867, 45 S. E. 232. To show that the wife appointed her husband as her agent in making a loan, so as to bind her by his knowledge of facts affecting the title to lands involved in the transaction. Francis v. Reeves [N. C.] 49 S. E. 213. To show that it was within the authority of the general manager of a brewery to make a contract for the construction of a pavilion for the sale of beer. Washburn v. Betz, 94 N. Y. S. 342. Where a member of defendant firm testified that he called on plaintiff and told him defendant was dissatisfied with the business and wanted a better understanding, and the contract between the parties was then modified. Held sufficient proof of witness' authority to act as agent. Foster v. Murphy & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 47.

Evidence held insufficient: Jos. Schlitz Brew. Co. v. Grimmon [Nev.] 81 P. 43. Evidence of employment of attorney or ratification of his services, in an action in which judgment was rendered against defendant. Prichard v. Sigafus, 93 N. Y. S. 152. To show authority of agent to settle claim of damages for injury. Clark v. Lehigh Val. R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 609. To show that the husband was the agent of the wife. Succession of Sangpiel [La.] 38 So. 554. Merely showing that one was authorized to collect rent for a landlord is not evidence of authority to make contracts for renting the landlord's property. Dieckman v. Weirich, 24 Ky. L. R. 2340, 73 S. W. 1119. Proof that at another time and place the relation of principal and agent existed between the parties does not show actual agency. In the running of a hotel leased by defendant to a third party. Scull v. Skilton, 70 N. J. Law, 792, 59 A. 457. Testimony of a surviving partner, who had little to do with the transaction in question, held insufficient to show that a purchase by an agent of the firm was made without authority. Horowitz v. Hines, 93 N. Y. S. 469.

87. See 3 C. L. 74.

88. See post, § 2D, as to ratification. Steffens v. Nelson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 871. In this case Mr. Justice Jaggard said: The ods pursued by a mere volunteer in his behalf, he is estopped to deny the agency.[89] A lessee, who enters into possession of premises under a lease executed by an agent, cannot deny the authority of the agent on the ground of his having no written authority.[90] If a principal by his course of dealing holds out one as his agent to receive and credit money on securities and thus induces his creditors to pay money to such person, he is certainly concluded thereby. To permit the principal in such a case to deny the authority of the agent would be to perpetrate a fraud upon the debtor.[91]

(§ 1) F. Termination of relation.[92]—An agency for an indefinite time is terminable at will,[93] but when a client gives his attorney a written assignment of a claim, to enable him to settle and adjust conflicting claims as he deems best, it is too late to revoke the attorney's authority after settlements have been made by him.[94] If the contract of agency be for a fixed period,[95] or the agency be coupled with an interest,[96] it is revocable, but the principal will be liable for the damages caused by wrongful revocation.[97] For there is a distinction between the power proper decision of the question thus presented depends upon consideration of a neglected distinction between ratification and estoppel. Lord Coke said, "the name 'estoppel' or 'conclusion' was given because a man's own act or acceptance stoppeth or closeth up his mouth to allege or plead the truth." However much this definition may have been criticised as vicious (Everest & Strode on Estoppel, 9-16; Bigelow on Estoppel, 5), it is a brief statement of the effect of the essential principle of estoppel, viz., "that, whenever one of two innocent persons must suffer by the act of a third, he who enables such third person to occasion the loss must sustain it." Lickbarrow v. Mason, 2 T. R. 63; 1 Smith Lead. Cas. 759; Ewart on Estoppel, 9. Ratification, on the other hand, means confirmation. "To ratify is to give sanction and validity to something done without authority." Evans, Principal and Agent (Bedford's Ed.) 90. The underlying principle upon which liability for ratification attaches is that he who has commanded is legally responsible for the direct results and for the natural and probable consequences of his conduct, and that it is immaterial whether that command was given before or after the conduct. The substance of estoppel is the inducement to another to act to his prejudice. The substance of ratification is confirmation after conduct. "This is enough," said Mr. Bigelow, "to indicate that there may be danger in using the term 'estoppel' freely. It is common enough at present to speak of acquiescence and ratification as an estoppel. Neither the one nor the other, however, can be more than part of an estoppel at best. An estoppel is a legal consequence—a right—arising from acts or conduct, while acquiescence and ratification are but facts presupposing a situation incomplete in its legal aspect, i. e., not as yet attended with full legal consequences. The most that acquiescence or ratification can do—and this either may under circumstances do—is to supply an element necessary to the estoppel, and otherwise wanting, as e. g., knowledge of the fact at the time of making a misrepresentation. But each stands upon its own ground, and must be made out in its own way, not necessarily in the way required by the ordinary estoppel by conduct." Bigelow on Estoppel (5th Ed.) pp. 456, 457. And see Reinhart on Agency, 101.

89. Fraternal Army of America v. Evans, 114 Ill. App. 578.

90. Gleadall v. Kenney, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 576.

91. Dawson v. Wombles [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 271.

92. See 3 C. L. 75.

93. Macfarren v. Gallinger, 210 Pa. 74, 59 A. 435; John L. Rowan & Co. v. Hull, 55 W. Va. 335, 47 S. E. 92. An agency created for the simple payment over of money may be revoked at any time before payment. Commonwealth v. Folz, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 558.

94. Foot v. Smythe [Colo. App.] 78 P. 619.

95. The revocation of a contract of agency for a fixed period, if permissible, can have no legal effect between the parties, until notified to the agent. Spinks v. Georgia Quincy Granite Co. [La.] 38 So. 824. Where a power of attorney to vote stock is given for a fixed time, for a valuable consideration and as a part of a contract transaction which would not have taken place without the execution of such power, a revocation of such power will be enjoined by preliminary injunction. Rider v. Rider, 114 Ill. App. 202. The law presumes that all general employments are at will merely, and the burden of proving employment for a definite time rests upon him who alleges it. John L. Rowan & Co. v. Hull, 55 W. Va. 335, 47 S. E. 92.

96. Mere commission or reward for services by an agent does not alone make the agency one coupled with an interest. John L. Rowan & Co. v. Hull, 55 W. Va. 335, 47 S. E. 92. Dealings between the locator of mining claims and plaintiff held not to create a power coupled with an interest, but a mere power of attorney to sell, revocable at will. Taylor v. Burns [Ariz.] 76 P. 623. A trust deed of a life estate held to operate only as a power of attorney, and, not being coupled with an interest, to be revocable. Angle v. Marshall, 55 W. Va. 671, 47 S. E. 882.

97. John L. Rowan & Co. v. Hull, 55 W. Va. 335, 47 S. E. 92. Unless there is an express stipulation that it shall be revocable. Rider v. Rider, 114 Ill. App. 202. Where a landlord, having an interest in crops, au-and the right of revocation. If the principal has expressly or impliedly agreed to retain the agent for a definite time, he has the power, but not the right of revocation;[98] but where there is no express or implied agreement that the agent shall be retained for a definite time, the power and right of revocation coincide.[99] Under the statutes of Wisconsin providing for the recording of a power of attorney and a revocation thereof, and defining the term "conveyance,"[100] a power to convey real estate is not a conveyance and the recording of a revocation thereof does not terminate the power without actual notice to the agent.[1] As a general rule, agency is revoked by the death of the principal, when not coupled with an interest.[2] And the attempted appointment of an agent becomes nugatory upon the death of the principal.[3] But if a gift has been once completed, so as fully to transfer the beneficial interest, according to mutual consent and so as to make a third party a trustee for carrying out the original purposes of the donation, or the donor's agent, the death of the donor leaves the gift unimpaired;[4] and when a deed is delivered by the grantor to a third person, to be held until grantor's death and then to be recorded, such third person is not a mere agent whose authority is revoked by the grantor's death, but he may act after the death of the grantor and carry out the directions given him.[5] The interest which can protect a power, after the death of a person who creates it, must be an interest in the thing itself; the power must be grafted on the estate. An interest in the proceeds of the property does not constitute an interest in the thing, the subject-matter of the power.[6] A continuous violation of a stipulation in the contract of agency is good cause for discharge of the agent.[7] The withdrawal of the subject of the agency by the principal terminates the agency.[8] Where factors become thorized his tenant to sell the entire crop, to collect the proceeds and apply the landlord's portion to the satisfaction of an obligation owing by the landlord to the tenant, an agency coupled with an interest was created and could not be revoked at the will of the landlord. Big Four Wilmington Coal Co. v. Wren, 115 Ill. App. 331.

98. Distinction between the power and right to revoke. Harrison v. Augerson, 115 Ill. App. 226.

99. John L. Rowan & Co. v. Hull, 55 W. Va. 335, 47 S. E. 92.

100. Rev. St. 1898, §§ 2237, 2242, 2246. Best v. Gunther [Wis.] 104 N. W. 82.

1. Best v. Gunther [Wis.] 104 N. W. 82.

2. Wittman v. Pickens [Colo.] 81 P. 299. A contract, empowering a corporation to improve and sell real estate, held not to survive the death of the owner or bind his representatives. Fisher v. Southern Loan & Trust Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 592, citing Hunt v. Rousmanier, 8 Wheat. 174, 5 Law. Ed. 589.

3. The designation of the maker of a note as an agent to dispose of its proceeds in case of the payee's death. Moore v. Weston [N. D.] 102 N. W. 163.

4. An aged husband and wife had their separate bank accounts merged so as to give the whole to the survivor. Augsbury v. Shurtliff [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 927.

Note: The plaintiff sought to foreclose a mortgage given to secure a note. The mortgaged premises were conveyed by the maker of the note to the defendant. After the death of the payee of the note, the defendant, in ignorance of the death, made a payment to the agent of the payee. The agent became insolvent, and never paid this sum to the representatives of the principal. Held, that the death of the principal did not invalidate this payment so as to entitle the plaintiff to foreclose the mortgage. Meinhardt v. Newman [Neb.] 99 N. W. 261. The case follows the rule of the civil law that death ipso facto without notice does not terminate the agency. Such a rule has much in its favor in point of justice. It is followed in some jurisdictions. Cassiday v. McKenzie, 4 Watts & S. [Pa.] 282, 39 Am. Dec. 76. Though it is well settled that a power coupled with an interest survives the death of the principal (Hunt v. Rousmanier, 8 Wheat. [U. S.] 174, 21 Law. Ed. 379), yet a mere naked power is terminated by the death of the principal (Mechem on Agency, § 245). The reason underlying the rule is convincing. As a dead man can do no act, so his heirs and representatives should not be bound by the act of a person whom possibly they do not know and would not trust. Clayton v. Merrit, 52 Miss. 353.—4 Columbia L. R. 597.

5. Thompson v. Calhoun [Ill.] 74 N. E. 775.

6. Fisher v. Southern Loan & Trust Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 592, citing F. L. & T. Co. v. Wilson, 139 N. Y. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 696. The power of sale vested in a trustee in a trust deed is a power coupled with an interest and is not revoked by the death of the grantor; and so is the power of substitution of a new trustee. Frank v. Colonial & U. S. Mortg. Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 340.

7. Macfarren v. Gallinger, 210 Pa. 74, 59 A. 435.

8. An order to an agent, appointed to look after certain property, to deliver the same insolvent, their agency is terminated thereby and an assignee stands in their place and takes the estate subject to all the equities in favor of third persons, with the further liability that, if he collects money from purchasers who dealt with the agents as principals, he must account for it to the consignors, unless he can show that it is a part of the assets of the insolvent estate.[9] An agency ceases with the death of the agent;[10] and also by the dissolution of a partnership employed as agent.[11] A power of attorney exists in law only for some purpose and when fully executed by the accomplishment of its purpose it is exhausted.[12]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities of principal as to third persons. A. Actual or implied authority to bind principal.[13]—An agent has no implied authority to appoint subagents or delegate his powers[14] without his principal's consent.[15] There is no privity of contract between the principal and subagents appointed by an agent of limited powers, acting under special agreement as to compensation.[16] Under the statutory provisions of Montana relative to delegation of powers by an agent,[17] an agent authorized by a master to employ medical assistance for an injured servant has no authority to delegate to a physician employed authority to employ an assistant.[18] A general agent of a corporation may employ a subagent, but he cannot delegate an authority personal to himself, involving the exercise of judgment and discretion.[19]

The principal cannot repudiate acts within the agent's authority,[20] even to a third party. Scott v. Dewey, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

9. Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, 71 N. E. 529.

10. Bristol Sav. Bank v. Holley [Conn.] 58 A. 691.

11. Meysenburg v. Littlefield. 135 F. 184.

12. A power of attorney to enter judgment by confession merges in the judgment and nothing further remains to be done under it. Philadelphia v. Johnson, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 591.

13. See 3 C. L. 76.

14. Roush v. Gesman Bros. & Grant [Iowa] 102 N. W. 495. A person authorized by a corporation to act for it as to the insurance of its property has no authority to appoint subagents whose acts will bind the principal. Insurance Co. of North America v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 794.

Note: An indemnity company expressly stipulated in its bond that the latter should be binding only when signed by C., its agent. By mutual arrangement C.'s clerk issued and delivered, C. approving, an unsigned bond, the obligee consenting that C. should sign later. Held, the power to issue such a bond being discretionary, could not be delegated. Cullinan v. Bowker, 180 N. Y. 93. Mechanical and purely clerical acts may be delegated to a subagent. Commercial Bank v. Norton, 1 Hill [N. Y.] 501; Story, Agency, § 14. In matters of insurance, a subagent may perform discretionary acts. Bodine v. Ins. Co., 51 N. Y. 117, 10 Am. Rep. 566; Arff v. Ins. Co., 125 N. Y. 57, 10 L. R. A. 609. But this is an exception to the general rule which denies such power. Pendall v. Rench, 4 McLean [U. S.] 259; Catlin v. Bell, 4 Camp [N. D.] 183; Mechem, Agency, § 186. The issuing of the bond in the principal case seems within the general rule. Lewis v. Ingersoll, 3 Abb. App. Dec. [N. Y.] 55; Emerson v. Providence Hat Mfg. Co., 12 Mass. 237, 7 Am. Dec. 66.—5 Columbia L. R. 243.

15. But a real estate agent can turn over to another the lists of lands he holds for sale, that the other may make arrangements with the owners for handling the same, upon an agreement to share the commissions equally. Roush v. Gesman Bros. & Grant [Iowa] 102 N. W. 495. Or can agree with another agent to share commissions, in case the latter secures a purchaser, so long as there is no fraud or concealment of material facts from his principal. Madler v. Pozorski [Wis.] 102 N. W. 892.

16. Brown, Chipley & Co. v. Haigh, 113 La. 563, 37 So. 478.

17. Civ. Code, § 3140. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

18. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

19. The agent of a surety company cannot authorize a clerk in his office to pass upon an application and attach the seal of the company to a liquor bond. Cullinan v. Bowker [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 911.

20. Consolidated Fruit Jar Co. v. Wisner, 103 App. Div. 453, 93 N. Y. S. 128. If the principal has, by express act or as a logical result of his words or conduct, impressed upon the agent the character of one authorized to act for him in a given capacity, authority so to act follows as a necessary attribute of the character; and the principal, having conferred the character, will not be heard to assert, as against third persons who have relied thereon in good faith, that he did not intend to impose such authority, or that he had given the agent express instructions not to exercise it. T. H. Baker & Co. v. Kellett-Chatham Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 661. Where an agent takes a conveyance of lands to himself, at the request of his principal, who furnishes the consideration, and assumes the payment of liens thereon, such assumption is that of the principal, and he cannot relieve him-where he acts contrary to instructions.[21] If an agent exceeds his powers by contracting for a price beyond his authority, the party contracted with may nevertheless recover a reasonable price within such authority.[22] The agent has the authority of the principal in all matters within the scope of the agency,[23] and so long as the agent acts merely as such, his acts, legally speaking, are the acts of his principal.[24] A third party cannot repudiate a contract made by an agent in behalf of his principal, when the latter has fulfilled the same in good faith, merely on the ground of a misunderstanding with the agent.[25] When the principal carries on business under an assumed name, he is liable to third persons for the acts of agents within the scope of their authority, to the same extent as if the business had been done in his actual name.[26] Implied powers may arise from a course of dealing[27] or conduct of the parties.[28]

Declarations or admissions of the agent, made without authority, or as to matters outside the scope of his authority,[29] do not bind the principal, but declaself from the liability by any language put into the deed from his agent to him. Gage v. Cameron, 212 Ill. 146, 72 N. E. 204. An allegation, in pleading, of a settlement and accounting with a party, is supported by evidence of an accounting with his agent. Hayes v. Walker [S. C.] 48 S. E. 989. One who pays money to an authorized agent is entitled to credit therefor; he is not required to trace it into the hands of the principal, and the latter is bound by such payment, even though the agent fails to account for it. Held, that an association was bound by payment made to its secretary, who was in effect its general manager. Indiana Trust Co. v. International B. & L. Ass'n [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 633. Where an officer of the government, having authority, appropriates private property for public use, admitting it to be private property, an implied contract will arise; and where, in the construction of vessels, a patented process of calking was used, the patentee had a claim against the government. Brook's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 494. Where an agent, having authority to do so, purchases goods for his principal, the latter is liable to the seller therefor, although the agent wrongfully converts them to his own use. Austin v. Elk Mercantile Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 525. A retailer is responsible for the action of a clerk in delivering to a customer an article different from the one the customer desired to purchase. Block Light Co. v. Tappehorn, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 553. The mere fact that an agent fails to report to his principal, in accordance with his authority, will not release the principal from liability on the contract made by the agent. Galvano Type Engraving Co. v. Jackson [Conn.] 60 A. 127. Where the surety on an executor's bond authorized his attorney in fact to execute for him, as one of the sureties, "the bond required by the court," and the bond as executed, so far as valid, contained no provision in excess of the statute, although it was informal in certain respects, it was held that the surety was bound by it. Yost v. Ramey [Va.] 48 S. E. 862. Although a contract provides that all settlements of accounts under it are to be consummated only upon approval in writing from the home office, yet a settlement may be made without such approval, by an agent duly authorized to make a settlement in a particular case. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Hellekson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 717. A bank is bound by the acts of its cashier, acting in his official capacity. Pease v. Francis, 25 R. I. 226, 55 A. 686. Plaintiff represented by an agent to look after his interests in the division of grain raised by defendant as plaintiff's lessee on shares. Graves v. Walter, 93 Minn. 307, 101 N. W. 297. Contracts may be made by means of telegraphic communications sent by the principal or his agent. Cobb v. Glenn Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1005. Payment of rent to an agent discharges the lessee unless the agency has been previously revoked and the lessee notified. Strafford v. Walter, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 498.

21. Waiver of notice of loss in writing, by an adjuster of an insurance company. Gray v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 113 Ill. App. 537.

22. Galvano Type Engraving Co. v. Jackson [Conn.] 60 A. 127.

23. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

24. Hillard v. Taylor [La.] 38 So. 594.

25. Contract for share in an advertising book. Keniston v. Flaherty, 91 N. Y. S. 568.

26. A corporation by the name of "International Text Book Company" conducted a branch of its business under the name of "International Correspondence Schools." Phillips v. International Text Book Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 230.

27. The authority of an officer of a corporation may be inferred from the general manner in which, for a long time, he has been permitted to conduct its affairs, as well as from the conduct of the business allowed by the directors. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 419.

28. One held out by a railroad company as its duly authorized land agent and who transacts its entire land business may bind the company by a contract extending time for payment, or by waiving strict compliance with the provisions of his contract in that respect. Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482.

29. The unsworn statements of an agent outside the scope of his agency are not proof of the matters indicted therein as regards his principal. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909. The principal is not estopped from laying claim to land simply because its agent for the sale of lands, during rations and admissions within the agent's authority are binding.[30] But the agency must first be shown.[31] Where the proof is conflicting as to when the agency of the person representing another actually terminated, evidence of all material and relevant declarations of such person, made during the entire period as to which there is evidence tending to show the existence of the agency, should be received.[32] And declarations of the agent as to the extent of his authority are admissible to show the inducing cause of the contract, when followed by independent proof of such agency.[33] Where one authorizes another to speak for him, he may be confronted by testimony as to what his representative said within the scope of his authority; but where the employment is purely mechanical, the master is not bound by what his servant says while at work.[34]

Evidence and proofs.[35]—The admissions or declarations of the agent are received in evidence against the principal, not as admissions or declarations merely, but as parts of the res gestae.[36] The provisions of the Code of Georgia that the declarations of an agent "as to the business transacted by him are not admissible against his principal, unless they were a part of the negotiation and constituting the res gestae, or else the agent be dead," are merely declaratory of the law existing when the code was adopted.[37]

(§ 2) B. Apparent authority and unauthorized or wrongful acts of agent; torts.[38]—Acts of an agent within the apparent scope of his authority are binding on the principal,[39] and limitations of the agent's authority not brought to the knowledge of third persons do not affect them,[40] though binding as between a transaction, states that a particular tract does not belong to his principal, but was swamp lands. Iowa Railroad Land Co. v. Fehring [Iowa] 101 N. W. 120. And a separate agreement, signed by special agents in their individual capacity, is not admissible in evidence to bind the holder of an unconditional promissory note; as an agreement that, if the maker is unable to pay it, he may surrender the life insurance policy for which it was given. Thomas v. H. C. Bagley & Co., 119 Ga. 778, 47 S. E. 177.

30. An admission made by an officer of a corporation, in the performance of his duties and acting within the scope of his authority, binds the corporation; and the presence or absence of the plaintiff, or any one representing him, is immaterial. And the admissions of the vice-president, in the absence of the president and while acting in his stead, will bind the corporation. Vincent v. Soper Lumber Co., 113 Ill. App. 463. Declarations of an agent in the nature of entries made in the regular course of the principal's business are, after the agent's death, admissible against the principal. Turner v. Turner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 969.

31. Sloan v. Sloan [Or.] 78 P. 893; Brittain v. Westall [N. C.] 49 S. E. 54, citing Francis v. Edwards, 77 N. C. 271; Gilbert v. James, 86 N. C. 244; Daniel v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 517, 48 S. E. 816; Fred W. Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 390.

32. Porter v. Adams, 115 Ill. App. 439.

33. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Christian [Pa.] 60 A. 1087.

34. King v. Atlantic City Gas & Water Co., 70 N. J. Law, 679, 58 A. 345.

35. See 3 C. L. 78.

36. Blair-Baker Horse Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1027; Turner v. Turner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 969; Prussian Nat. Ins. Co. of Stettin, Germany, v. Empire Catering Co., 113 Ill. App. 67; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Keegan, 112 Ill. App. 338. Declarations of special agents that their representations, outside of the contract in writing which they negotiated, were authorized by their principal are not admissible as a part of the res gestae, such declarations being reduced to writing and showing on their face that they bound the agents only in their individual capacity. Thomas v. H. C. Bagley & Co., 119 Ga. 778, 47 S. E. 177.

37. Civ. Code 1895, § 3034. Turner v. Turner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 969.

38. See 3 C. L. 79.

39. Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074; American Tel. & T. Co. v. Green [Ind.] 73 N. E. 707.

40. Browning v. McNear, 145 Cal. 272, 78 P. 722. American Tel. & T. Co. v. Green [Ind.] 73 N. E. 707; Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074; Cullinan v. Bowker [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 911. The duties of the officers and agents of a corporation may be circumscribed or limited by the charter of incorporation, or by by-laws and regulations of the body corporate; but in the absence of specific limitations brought home to the knowledge of those who deal with them, or of which those who deal with them are bound to take notice, the officers of a corporation, as its agents, are authorized to bind the corporation, so long as they act within the ordinary scope of their duties. Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398. One who procures and actively assists another to carry on a business in his name and holds him out to the public as the responsible proprieprincipal and agent.[41] But if such limitations are known to the third party, the principal is not bound beyond the authority actually conferred,[42] and persons dealing with agents of limited powers must generally inquire as to the extent of their authority,[43] especially when dealing with an agent for the first time.[44] Persons dealing with agents are warranted in deducing the scope of the agent's apparent authority from the business he is permitted to conduct,[45] or the manner in which he is permitted to conduct it,[46] or from the nature of the agency.[47] Agency may, under some circumstances, be inferred in favor of a tor is bound by any contract which that other may make on his behalf, with a third party who has no knowledge of the secret arrangements between them. Ruane v. Murray, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 187.

41. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Peoples, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 142.

42. The principal has the unqualified right, as between himself and the agent, to define or limit the agent's authority. Cullinan v. Bowker [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 911. If a person dealing with an agent knows that he is acting under a circumscribed and limited authority, and that his act is in excess of, or an abuse of the authority actually conferred, then, manifestly, the principal is not bound, and it is immaterial whether the agent is a general or a special one. Id. Where defendant knew that plaintiff's agent was a mere hired man employed only to look after cattle, he could not defend against an action for injury to cattle that plaintiff's agent authorized him to put his bulls in the feeding pens with plaintiff's cattle. Trammell v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 325. When a third party has notice of the agency of the party with whom he deals, he must regard the property which is the subject of their transactions, as the property of the principal, and must confine his dealings strictly within the scope of the agent's authority. Merchants' and Mfrs.' Nat. Bank v. Ohio Val. Furniture Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 880. A general agent cannot waive conditions, etc., in an insurance policy, which, by the very terms of the policy, can be waived only by certain officers of the insurance company. Hutson v. Prudential Ins. Co. of America [Ga.] 50 S. E., 1000.

43. Tibbs v. Zirkle, 55 W. Va. 49, 46 S. E. 701; T. H. Baker & Co. v. Kellett-Chatham Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 661; Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071. A special power must be strictly pursued, and whoever deals with an agent constituted for a special purpose deals at his peril, when the agent passes the precise limit of his power. Stokes v. Dewees, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 471. The law presumes that one dealing with an agent knows the extent of his authority. Cobb v. Glenn Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1005. A customer of a bank who is credited by the cashier, in his passbook, with sums of money owing him by such cashier, is bound to inquire into the authority of the cashier to do so. Hier v. Miller, 68 Kan. 258, 75 P. 77. One paying a debt, secured by a mortgage, to a supposed agent of the owner of the mortgage, must ascertain the scope of the agent's authority to receive the money. Cornish v. Woolverton [Mont.] 81 P. 4.

44. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

45. Ruane v. Murray, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 187; Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396. Powers habitually exercised by a cashier of a bank with its knowledge and consent. Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544. Where plaintiff had for a long time transacted its business, of a nature similar to the transactions sued on, with a particular representative of defendant. Sloss Iron & Steel Co. v. Jackson Architectural Iron Works, 92 N. Y. S. 1056. Where a person had been represented as the superintendent and general manager of a firm, and had transacted its business from the start, including its financial affairs, and where defendant, for whom the money was borrowed, got it on the note signed by such agent, held, as a matter of law, that he was the legally authorized agent of defendant. Fordsville Banking Co. v. Thompson, 26 Ky. L. R. 534, 82 S. W. 251. Where one has been held out to the world as a general agent, a third party may deal with him as such and bind his principal until notice of revocation of authority is brought home to him. Cranwell v. Clinton Realty Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1030. Where a firm permits an employe to transact business on his own account, under the name of a company, and holds him out as such company, it is estopped to deny his authority to take notes and transfer them to others dealing with him, in reliance upon his apparent authority. Gardner v. Wiley [Or.] 79 P. 341. Where the apparent manager of a business refers a party, inquiring as to matters connected with pending transactions, to others for his information, the principal is bound by the representations of such parties. Haner v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 81 P. 98.

46. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396. A public and long continued course of business dealing by an agent may be safely relied upon by one dealing with a corporation upon the faith thereof; as where the purchasing agent of a corporation was known as a general officer of it and for 12 or 13 years had conducted transactions similar to those with plaintiff. Batavian Bank v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 687. Where an agent of a manufacturing concern calls on a retailer, takes his order and notifies his principal to ship the goods, a presumption arises, in the absence of evidence of any limitation on the agent's power that he has authority to make the sale. Nebraska Bridge Supply & Lumber Co. v. Owen Conway & Sons [Iowa] 103 N. W. 122.

47. An agent has by inference of law power to do any and all acts necessarily incident third party from proof of ownership.[48] An agent having negotiable paper in his possession for sale, indorsed in blank or otherwise by his principal, so as to permit transfer of title by delivery, may be regarded, by those having no notice of the agency, as the owner of such paper.[49]

Evidence and questions of fact.[50]—Apparent authority may be shown by showing a custom.[51] While the board of directors or trustees is the usual governing body of all private corporations and entitled to direct and control all its business and to direct its other officers, yet the president and other officers are those who are usually brought into contact with third parties in the conduct of the business of the organization; and custom and usage and the necessities of the social order demand that these executive officers should be regarded as entitled to bind the organization in all matters which such organizations are accustomed to transact through such officers.[52]

Unauthorized and tortious acts.[53]—Acts of an agent without the scope of his authority will not bind his principal unless ratified by him;[54] and where the principal repudiates a transaction as soon as it comes to his knowledge, notifying the other party, he cannot be said to have ratified it.[55] The principal cannot be held liable for the unauthorized acts of his agent simply because those acts were done with the intent to benefit or serve the principal.[56] A person to the performance of the duty required of him by his principal. American Tel. & T. Co v. Green [Ind.] 73 N. E. 707. As to third parties, the liability of the principal for the acts of his agent is measured not merely by the authority actually given, but by the authority essential to the business of the agency. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396. It rests with the principal to determine what character he will impart to his agent, and, having determined and imparted the character, he is held to have intended, also, the usual and legal attributes of that agency. T. H. Baker & Co. v. Kellett-Chatham Mach. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 661. A shipper may rely upon the authority of a station agent to make a special contract of shipment by a particular train, and need not prove any such authority, it being within the scope of his authority as a station agent. Pacific Exp. Co. v. Needham [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 22.

48. As between the owner of hansom cabs and the drivers. Connor v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 241; Walton v. Ensign, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 300.

49. Merchants' & Mfrs.' Nat. Bank v. Ohio Val. Furniture Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 880.

50. See 3 C. L. 81.

51. As a custom among carriers and warehousemen to construe a consignment, under an agreement to hold until freight charges are paid, as creating an agency for collection only. Lembeck v. Jarvis Terminal Cold Storage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 360.

52. Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398.

53. See 3 C. L. 82.

54. Jos. Schlitz Brew. Co. v. Grimmon [Nev.] 81 P. 43; Quale v. Hazel [S. D.] 104 N. W. 215. Unauthorized agreement by superintendent that company would pay for physician's services to employe. King v. Forbes Lithograph Mfg. Co., 183 Mass. 301, 67 N. E. 330. Unauthorized acts of its officers not binding on the corporation. Cobb v. Glenn Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1005. A sale of samples by a commercial traveler, except in pursuance of express instructions, confers no title on the purchaser. Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. v. Stein [Or.] 78 P. 365. An agent to sell typewriters unlawfully pledged two as security for a loan to himself. Wycoff, Seaman & Benedict v. Davis [Iowa] 103 N. W. 349. A principal is not bound by an unauthorized option given by his agent, unless he ratifies it. Tibbs v. Zirkle, 55 W. Va. 49, 46 S. E. 701. A principal is not bound by any oral agreements or statements made by his agent, not incorporated in the written order for goods, especially when the form of the order warns the vendee that the agent has no authority to make any agreements not printed or written in the order; such as an oral agreement not to sell goods to any other party in the same place. Walter Pratt & Co. v. Meyer [Ark.] 87 S. W. 123. A lease executed by an agent in his own name, under seal, without authority, is voidable but not void. Anderson v. Conner, 43 Misc. 384, 87 N. Y. S. 449. A formal surrender of leased premises is not necessary when the lease is void because of want of power in the agent to make it. Smoot's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 418. The limit of time within which a real estate broker is required to close a sale begins to run from the date of mailing the letter of authority to him, and not from the time when he received it. Satterthwaite v. Goodyear [N. C.] 49 S. E. 205.

55. Roberts v. Francis [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1076.

56. A local cashier for a railroad company, authorized only to collect freight charges, sell tickets and remit the money, has no authority as agent to cause the arrest of one whom he suspects of having stolen money, and the company is not responsible in dam-is not bound by the unauthorized acts of another, done without his knowledge,[57] unless he has permitted the alleged agent to hold himself out as such; but the party dealing with him as agent must be deceived to his prejudice by the false representation.[58] The agent cannot bind his principal by fraudulent contracts entered into with full knowledge and connivance of the party who seeks to recover on the contract.[59]

Fraud, misrepresentation or tortious acts by the agent may be imputed to the principal;[60] but the burden of proving the agency is on the plaintiff.[61] And where the agent is guilty of an independent fraud for his own benefit, the law does not impute to the principal notice of such fraud.[62] Where the consideration for a note and mortgage, negotiated by an agent, is contrary to public policy, the obligee therein, if he claims the benefit of it, is bound by the acts of his agent in negotiating it.[63] Under the statutes of Washington forbidding usury, the acts of the agent in loaning money bind the principal and he is held thereby to the same extent as if he had acted in person,[64] and where a broker loaned defendant's money at illegal rates of interest, the transaction was held usurious as against defendant, although he received no part of the commissions and had no knowledge of it.[65] Before a master can be held responsible for the torts of his servant, it must be clearly shown that the latter had express or implied authority to commit the wrong,[66] and the agent must have been at the time engaged in the principal's business and the tort must have been committed while the agent was carrying out such business.[67] Where the wife acts as the agent of the husband, he is responsible for her negligent acts, in the course of her employment, to the injury of a third person.[68] Under the Code of Louisiana, masters are responsible for damages occasioned by their servants only in the "exercise of the functions in which they are employed," and are not liable for collateral torts committed by servants while attending to the duties of their employment.[69] A creditor who employs an attorney only to attach his credages therefor. Daniel v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 136 N. C. 517, 48 S. E. 816.

57. Defendant's daughter wrote to a real estate broker, signing defendant's name, making arrangements for the sale of lands, but without defendant's knowledge or consent. Held, that defendant was not bound although the daughter lived in her family. Hickox v. Bacon, 17 S. D. 563, 97 N. W. 847. Husband not bound by unauthorized contract of wife, unless he knew of it or subsequently adopted it. Thompson v. Brown, 121 Ga. 814, 49 S. E. 740.

58. Fred W. Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 390.

59. Pacific Lumber Co. v. Moffat [C. C. A.] 134 F. 836.

60. As where the vendor of land referred the vendee to a third person for information as to the title, and the latter represented the land as unincumbered. Hahl v. Brooks, 213 Ill. 134, 72 N. E. 727. Fraudulent representations by the agent, to effect the sale of worthless stock. Campbell v. Park [Iowa] 101 N. W. 861. Fraudulent representations by agents in prospectuses issued to induce the purchase of stock. Briggs v. Foster [C. C. A.] 137 F. 773. Fraud in securing a deed, known to the principal. Cook v. Boyd [Iowa] 99 N. W. 1063.

61. Evidence held insufficient to show that defendant represented certain bonds and coupons to be legal and valid obligations. O'Day v. Bennett, 26 Ky. L. R. 702, 82 S. W. 442. Where plaintiff's horse was run into and killed by a team, by reason of the careless and negligent manner of the driver, a prima facie case of negligence is imputed to the defendant, by showing that he was the owner of the team, without affirmative proof that the driver was his agent or servant. Walton v. Ensign, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 300.

62. Pursley v. Stahley [Ga.] 50 S. E. 139.

63. A note and mortgage, executed in consideration of an agreement not to prosecute the obligor's son, held unenforceable. Corbett v. Clute [N. C.] 50 S. E. 216.

64. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 3669, 3671. Ridgway v. Davenport [Wash.] 79 P. 606.

65. Ridgway v. Davenport [Wash.] 79 P. 606.

66. Agents or clerks employed to run a commissary store and to collect amounts due by laborers to a construction company have no authority to cause the arrest of persons for violating a labor contract. Vara v. R. M. Quigley Const. Co. [La.] 38 So. 162.

67. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Grant [Ark.] 88 S. W. 580.

68. McNamar v. Cohn, 115 Ill. App. 31.

69. Civ. Code, art. 2320. Vara v. R. M. Quigley Const. Co. [La.] 38 So. 162.

itor's goods is not liable for the unauthorized act of the attorney in causing the debtor's arrest.[70] A government is not responsible for the tortious acts of its officers without previous authorization or subsequent ratification.[71]

(§ 2) C. Particular kinds of agencies.[72]—The powers of a general agent are to be determined by the scope of his agency,[73] while a special agent has only such power as is expressly conferred,[74] or necessarily implied from authority expressly given;[75] and he cannot depart from his strict instructions and bind his principal.[76] The general principles are further illustrated by the cases grouped

70. West v. A. F. Messick's Grocery Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 565.

71. Washington L. & T. Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 152. Execution of deed by agent, see Tiffany, Real Prop. 937; subscription of corporate stock by agent, see Helliwell, Stock & Stockholders, § 70.

72. See 3 C. L. 83.

73. Hutson v. Prudential Ins. Co. of America [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1000; Cullinan v. Bowker [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 911. The general agent of a railroad company will be presumed to have authority to make a contract for carriage beyond its lines. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. American Trading Co., 25 S. Ct. 84. The president of a bank or the vice-president acting in his stead is its chief representative and entitled to act as its general agent in the transaction of its business. He can employ counsel to appear for it and defend its interests in pending or prospective litigation. Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398. Where a broker is employed to transact all the business of a particular kind of his principal, he is a general agent. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Peoples, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 142. An instruction that "a general agent is defined under the law to be one empowered to transact all his principal's business" is sustained by the authorities, and cannot mislead a jury, as they must understand it to refer only to the kind of business transacted by the principal. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636. If a party holds out his agent to the world as a general agent in the transaction of his business, any contract made by him, within the scope of that business, will bind the principal, although there may be, as between principal and agent, a restriction upon the agent's general authority. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Peoples, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 142. The powers of a general agent extend to the doing of all acts connected with the business of his principal, and his authority will be deemed to include all usual means for the effective performance of his duties, in the employment of clerks, or of subordinate agencies, for the performance of acts, where an exercise of the agent's judgment or discretion is not demanded nor presumed. Cullinan v. Bowker [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 911. The general agent of a quarries company, having powers co-extensive with the business of the company, can bind his principal in a contract of release of claim for damages by an employe. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608. A general agency in a particular branch of the principal's business implies no power in connection with any other branch. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396. A deputy is regarded as a general agent of a sheriff, being generally authorized by law to represent the sheriff in all the duties confided to the latter, and can provide for the safe-keeping of goods seized on attachment or execution by committing them to a bailee. Ramsey v. Strobach, 52 Ala. 513. But in Pennsylvania a deputy sheriff has no power, by virtue of his office, to bind the sheriff by the employment of a watchman for goods attached. Munis v. Oliver, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 64. Insurance agents who are authorized to solicit and sell insurance and deliver policies and collect premiums are of the company and have power to waive conditions in insurance policies. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 112 Ill. App. 500. A depot quartermaster is a general agent of the government in the purchase of supplies, and has the right, when ordered to do so by the quartermaster general, to sell unnecessary supplies. Held, that he had power to make sale of temporary halls, stables and hospitals built for the occupation of troops in camp during the Spanish war. Houser's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 508.

74. A real estate agent has only limited powers, his business being only to find purchasers and to bring owners and purchasers together. He is a special agent, and must pursue his instructions and act within the scope of his limited powers. If he exceeds them, those who deal with him do so at their peril. Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071. An insurance broker employed merely to secure a policy of insurance on a particular property is the special agent of his employer. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Peoples, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 142. A bank which is made the lessor's agent to receive payments of rent has authority to receive payments only as provided for in the lease; and the receipt of a payment after the expiration of the lease will not bind the lessor. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Beales [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 551.

75. When an agent is authorized to do an act for his principal, all the means necessary for the accomplishment of the act are impliedly included in the authority, unless the agent be in some particular expressly restricted. Brittain v. Westall [N. C.] 49 S. E. 54, citing Sprague v. Gillett, 50 Mass. 91.

76. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Peoples, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 142. A person sent to get a horse, by the purchaser, being a special agent, could not bind him by an agreement that the title to the horse should remain in the vendor until paid for. Schenck v. Griffith [Ark.] 86 S. W. 850.

in the notes.[77] An insurance solicitor is an agent of the insurer, notwithstand-

77. Power to sell realty: Power of executrices of will to make a valid contract for sale of land. Coolbaugh v. Ransberry, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 97. A broker employed to sell lands has no implied authority to sign a contract to sell on behalf of his principal. Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071. A written power to sell land does not in itself include the power to option. Tibbs v. Zirkle, 55 W. Va. 49, 46 S. E. 701. A power of attorney authorizing the sale, by quitclaim deeds for such price, upon such terms of credit and to such terms as the attorneys saw fit, of the whole or any part of certain premises, did not authorize the conveyance of a part of the land in consideration of money expended in the defense of a certain suit to recover a part of the land. Brown v. Orange County [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 138, 88 S. W. 247. A power of attorney, authorizing the sale of lands for cash or notes, does not confer the authority to execute a deed without consideration. Rogers v. Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 379. Where the terms of a power of attorney cannot by any construction be said to authorize the execution of a deed, it will not be presumed that the deed was executed thereunder; nor will the proof of such a power of attorney be in itself sufficient to sustain a finding that the deed was executed without authority. Brown v. Orange County [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 138, 88 S. W. 247.

Power to buy or sell personalty: Contract held to be one of agency and not of conditional sale. John Deere Plow Co. v. McDavid [C. C. A.] 137 F. 802. An agency for a fixed period where it is stipulated that the agent is to receive commissions for his services is in the nature of a contract of letting and hiring. Spinks v. Georgia Quincy Granite Co. [La.] 38 So. 824. Authority to purchase goods as agent cannot be implied from special authority to sell goods and devote the proceeds to a particular purpose. Kelly v. Tracy & Avery Co. [Ohio] 73 N. E. 455. A contract which empowered an agent to sell personal property at any price he saw fit, and to pay the owners a fixed price when sold and to retain the balance as his commission, held to be an agency contract. Briggs v. Foster [C. C. A.] 137 F. 773. Authority to sell does not confer authority to mortgage. Wycoff, Seaman & Benedict v. Davis [Iowa] 103 N. W. 349. Authority to sell horses does not imply authority to deal with them in any other way, as to exchange them for other property. Roberts v. Francis [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1076. An agent authorized to conduct purchases and sales cannot, in the course of such transactions, obligate his principal to pay the debt of another by the purchase of lumber at a price sufficiently above the market price to cover the indebtedness owing to the vendor by an insolvent corporation. Pacific Lumber Co. v. Moffat [C. C. A.] 134 F. 836. Where an agent had authority to take notes of responsible parties for machines sold, held, that he had no power to bind his principal by the indorsement of such notes. National Fence Mach. Co. v. Higbleyman [Kan.] 80 P. 568. When an agent is supplied with funds, he cannot purchase on credit, unless, perhaps, such is the well known custom of the trade, or unless the principal, with notice of the facts, ratifies the transaction; but when the authority to buy or sell is given in general terms, without restrictions, the agent can buy or sell for cash or on credit, as he may deem best. When express authority to buy on credit is not given, but he is authorized to buy and no funds are furnished him to enable him to pay cash, he is by implication authorized to buy on the credit of his principal. Brittain v. Westall [N. C.] 49 S. E. 54. Where a person purchases at wholesale, buying at a stipulated price, selling for himself and conducting his business independently, he is in no sense an agent, although conducting a so-called "agency" for the sale of products. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

General sales agents: Construction of contract of agency for sale of goods within a certain territory on commission. Morrison Mfg. Co. v. Bryson [Iowa] 103 N. W. 1016. Contract to give plaintiff the right to sell all the company's product for five years, at a commission of $1 per car, for ice shipped from its plant, held to be an employment to sell on commission and not the creation of the relation of master and servant. Morrow v. Tunkhannock Ice Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 1004. A sales agent whose duties are to take orders within certain territory, and having authority to employ his own salesmen only, cannot employ a salesman and bind his principal to pay him for his services. National Cash Register Co. v. Hagan & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 727. A traveling salesman derives no implied authority from the nature of his employment to sell the samples with which he is intrusted as an aid in the discharge of his duties. Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. v. Stein [Or.] 78 P. 665.

Authority to receive payments or collect money: Authority to collect the interest on a note creates no presumption of authority to collect the principal. Higley v. Dennis [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 609, 88 S. W. 400; Cunningham v. McDonald [Tex.] 83 S. W. 372. An agent to collect a note when due, has no authority to receive payment before maturity, and such payment does not discharge the note. Id. Power to collect cash does not include authority to indorse the principal's name upon commercial paper and collect the same, and the payee may recover the value of checks so indorsed and paid. Goodell v. T. M. Sinclair & Co., 112 Ill. App. 594. An attorney in whose hands a claim is placed, in the absence of any limitation of his authority, is authorized to collect a judgment for the same by execution; and his client is liable for damages by the attorney's wrongful act in issuing and causing the levy of an execution in violation of a stay. Barber v. Dewes, 91 N. Y. S. 1059.

Where a carrier delivers goods to a consignee under an agreement that the latter is to hold them until freight charges are paid, the consignee becomes an agent for collection only. Such is the customary construction of such transactions between warehousemen and carriers. Lembeck v. Jarvis Terminal Cold Storage Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59

ing a clause in the policy to the effect that he should be the agent of the insured as to all statements and answers made in the application.[78]

A. 360. An authority to collect and settle a claim involves the exercise of a personal discretion, which cannot be delegated, and does not imply authority to submit the claim to arbitration. Allen v. Confederate Pub. Co., 121 Ga. 773, 49 S. E. 782.

Power to make or obtain loans: The mere fact that the principal allows his agent to retain a note and mortgage on which the latter has failed to negotiate a loan does not give rise to an agency to borrow smaller sums of money for a wholly different purpose than that for which the original note and mortgage were executed. Keegan v. Rock [Iowa] 102 N. W. 805. Mortgagees employed an attorney, before taking a mortgage, to see that it was a first lien, and he certified falsely that it was such, whereupon they gave their check to the attorney, payable to the mortgagor. The latter indorsed the check to the attorney to pay off the first mortgage, and he embezzled the money. Held, that the attorney was agent for the mortgagor and he must bear the loss. Trustees of Synod of Reformed Pres. Church v. Livingston [Pa.] 60 A. 154.

Powers with reference to commercial paper: Power given to sign one's name to any note or "like instrument" necessary in the management of an estate held to authorize the signing of his name to the renewal of a note in connection with the business of the estate. Stone v. McGregor [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 399.

Corporate and insurance agents: Lessee of hansom cab and horse held bailee and not agent of railroad company. Connor v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Co. 241. A corporation can act only by agents, and its duly elected officers are, within the scope of their respective duties, its agents to deal with third parties. Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398. The president of a bank has no inherent authority, by virtue of his office, to enter into contracts or agreements which will bind the corporation. Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544, citing Stokes v. N. J. Pottery Co., 46 N. J. Law, 237. The secretary of a corporation has no power merely as secretary to make contracts binding the corporation. Cobb v. Glenn Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1005. The cashier of a bank has no implied authority to pay his individual debts by crediting them upon the passbook of a customer of the bank and allowing him to check out the full amount, the bank receiving nothing in the transaction. Hier v. Miller, 68 Kan. 258, 75 P. 77. Authority of station agent to accept and hold cattle, intended for transportation, as a depositary during a short delay in shipment. Flint v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 938. A railroad agent, authorized to place cars along the line at points other than stations, to receive freight, has authority to make agreements in behalf of the company to receive such freight to await the arrival of cars, so as to make the company liable to an action for damage to cotton seed by exposure to the elements, while awaiting cars. Georgia S. & F. R. Co. v. Marchman, 121 Ga. 235, 48 S. E. 961. The fact that a party is a trustee of a lodge does not authorize him to represent it in the making of binding contracts, nor are his declarations binding upon the lodge. Castner v. Rinne, 31 Colo. 256, 72 P. 1052. An initial carrier of stock to be delivered by it to a connecting line, in making the contract of transportation for the connecting line, held to be acting only as agent. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Teeters [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1014. Drivers of delivery wagons for express companies have no authority, by virtue of such employment, to make special contracts of shipment in behalf of such companies. Pacific Exp. Co. v. Needham [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 22.

78. Held competent, in an action on the policy, to show that the insured gave truthful answers to the agent and the latter wrote false answers in the application. Reilly v. Empire Life Ins. Co., 99 App. Div. 535, 90 N. Y. S. 866. One who requests another to allow him to procure insurance on his property, and does so procure it, through another agency, is an insurance agent under the laws of Iowa. Code, § 1749. Hartman v. Hollowell [Iowa] 102 N. W. 524. The acceptance of notes for the premium and the delivery of the policy, by the agent of an insurance company, puts the policy in full force, the same as though the premium had been paid in cash. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

Miscellaneous special agencies: A written power of attorney to conduct "to final consummation" a pending suit, or to compromise the same, confers no authority to employ counsel, unknown to his principal, and to refer the controversy to referees selected by him and the adverse parties. City of New York & City of Brooklyn v. DuBois [C. C. A.] 132 F. 752. Where a stockbroker agreed with defendant to buy and sell stocks for him and his customers, defendant not knowing the customers, whose transactions were entirely with the broker, it was held that the broker was not the agent of defendant and defendant was not liable for the broker's representations to his customers. Holman v. Goslin, 93 N. Y. S. 126. One authorized to drive another's horse is not thereby made his agent for the purpose of making admissions as to the habits of the horse. Haywood v. Hamms [Conn.] 58 A. 695. The husband may act as agent of his wife, but in order to bind her, he must previously be authorized to do so, or his act must, with full knowledge, be ratified. Francis v. Reeves [N. C.] 49 S. E. 213, citing McLaren v. Hall, 26 Iowa, 297. If one initiates correspondence by telegraph, he selects the telegraph company as his agent, which agency continues throughout the correspondence. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579. In the transmission of a telegraphic message, the company is the agent of the sender, to whom, and not to the company, the recipient must look for damages arising out of error in the transmission. Richmond Hosiery Mills v. Western Union Tel.

(§ 2) D. Ratification by principal.[79]—One may ratify a previously unauthorized act, done in his behalf which he himself might have and may still lawfully do or might and may still lawfully delegate to another.[80] Ratification may be by mere acquiescence or failure to act,[81] for a considerable length of time,[82]

Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 290, citing Brooke v. W. U. Tel. Co., 119 Ga. 694. Where a party individually, and as trustee under her husband's will, appoints agents to manage her personal property or that of the estate, the relation between them is simply that of principal and agents and they do not become trustees of any property to which their principal is entitled. Myer v. Abbett, 94 N. Y. S. 238. A mortgagor procuring insurance on mortgaged premises for the mortgagee as his interest may appear, in accordance with an agreement to do so, is not in any sense the agent of the mortgagee. Agner v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 254. A party who obtains money on chattel mortgage, upon property already so mortgaged, is not the agent of the first mortgagee, so as to bind the latter by his representations to the second mortgagee in negotiating the loan. Citizens' State Bank v. Smith, 125 Iowa, 505, 101 N. W. 172. Where it is not alleged or shown that a co-defendant, in a suit to restrain interference with certain ditches, was the agent of the owner of the land, who is plaintiff, or authorized to represent him, and the other defendants are not connected with his statements, the defendants are not estopped to deny plaintiff's right to the use of the ditch, by any representations of such co-defendant. Campbell v. Flannery [Mont.] 79 P. 702. An agency to purchase a certain execution does not imply an authority to purchase the land upon which such execution has been levied. Hood v. Hendrickson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 994. Under a power of attorney contained in a lease but one judgment in ejection can be confessed. Philadelphia v. Johnson, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 591. The occupancy of premises, after the expiration of a lease, by an unauthorized officer of the United States, will not have the effect of continuing such lease. Smoot's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 418. It is a general principle that officers of the United States, in their official capacity, are special agents only and must act within their legally prescribed limitations, and a subordinate officer has no authority to bind the government beyond his delegated powers. Houser's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 508. Where the charter party provided that war risks should be borne by the United States and marine risks by the owners, a quartermaster had no authority, by oral assurances, to make the government liable for any further risks than the charter party provided, attendant upon the delivery to the transport fleet of a cargo of fresh water during a strong wind and a high sea. Donald's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 357. A statute giving holders of claims against the state the right to sue thereon in the superior court does not render the state liable for negligence of its officers or agents but merely waives its former immunity from suit. Act Wash. March 20, 1895 (Sess. Laws, p. 188). Billings v. State, 27 Wash. 288, 67 P. 583. The words "agency" and "agent," in connection with the "agencies" established by a brewing company for the sale of its products, must be regarded as in the nature of trade-names. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

79. See 3 C. L. 84.

80. The doctrine of ratification must not be confounded with the doctrine of estoppel by acquiescence or laches. Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544. Distinction between ratification and estoppel. Steffens v. Nelson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 871. The directors of a bank may ratify any act done or contract made by the president without authority, which they could have authorized him to do or make. Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544. Contracts entered into by promoters of corporations cannot technically be ratified by a corporation not in existence at the time of the making of the contract, yet if the agreement is a reasonable means of carrying out any of the company's authorized purposes, it may be accepted and adopted by the latter, either at the time of its formation or subsequently. A lease, delivered to a committee for and in behalf of the prospective corporation, which after formation entered into possession under it, was held to have been adopted. Thistle v. Jones, 45 Misc. 215, 92 N. Y. S. 113. Where an agent wrongfully pledges his principal's property as security for a loan to himself, the principal cannot ratify the transaction as there is no benefit to him. Wycoff v. Davis [Iowa] 103 N. W. 349. A husband cannot be held to have ratified and adopted a contract by his wife in her own behalf merely because he paid for part of the work. Thompson v. Brown, 121 Ga. 814, 49 S. E. 740. Where defendant's acts were in no way inconsistent with an oral contract made by him to sell goods on commission, he could not be held as a purchaser on the theory of a ratification of an alleged contract made in his behalf by his wife. Wade v. Wolfson, 90 N. Y. S. 1078. The bringing of an action by the principal against the agent to recover a commission secretly paid the agent by a third party, does not operate as a ratification of the contract, so as to discharge such party from an action for fraud and deceit, whereby the contract was induced. Collusion between agent and third party in the purchase and sale of oil lands to the principal. Barnsdall v. O'Day [C. C. A.] 134 F. 828. The payment into the treasury of a small portion of the money tortiously collected by a consular agent, upon a final settlement of his accounts, is not such a ratification of his acts as makes the government liable for the same. Washington Loan & Trust Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 152. The acts of the agent may be shown in connection with proof of a ratification of such acts by the principal. Richards v. Newstifter [Kan.] 78 P. 824.

or by positive acts, such as the adoption,[83] acceptance,[84] execution of a contract made through the alleged agent,[85] or the acceptance of benefits resulting from the unauthorized act.[86] The principal must have full knowledge of all material

81. Where the maker of a note signed the names of two relatives without authority, and the latter, after notice of the fact by the payee, did not repudiate the same until after the maturity of the note and the principal had died insolvent, it was held that they had thereby ratified the signatures. Corner Stone Bank v. Rhodes [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 739. Ratification will result by operation of law from acquiescence in a sale for an unreasonable length of time after notice of the agent's conduct. What is an unreasonable length of time depends upon the circumstances of the case and is a question for the jury. Length of time held sufficient in this case. Whitley v. James, 121 Ga. 521, 49 S. E. 600. Where a broker effected a sale of goods and sent his principal a memorandum of the terms of sale, which was kept by the latter four months without any repudiation of the contract, there was a ratification of the contract. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430. Ratification of an agent's contract may result from failure to object seasonably to the agent's violation of the terms of his contract. Massey v. Greenabaum Bros. [Del.] 58 A. 804. Where the president of a corporation executes, in its behalf and within the scope of its powers, a contract requiring the concurrence of the directors, and they, with knowledge of the fact, do not dissent within a reasonable time, it will be presumed to have ratified the act. Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544.

82. Sloan v. Sloan [Or.] 78 P. 893.

83. The giving of an order for the purchase of machinery, upon the negotiations of the agent, is a ratification of his agency up to that point. Benton v. Moss, 93 N. Y. S. 1113. The payment of checks in part payment of purchases made by an agent is a ratification of his contract. The agent bought feed for his cattle on the credit of his principal, who had a mortgage on the cattle. Evans-Snider-Buel Co. v. Hilje [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 208. Bringing an action upon a contract made by an agent, the terms of which are known to the principal, is a ratification of it. Shinn v. Guyton & H. Mule Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1015; Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074. A statement of an account by the bookkeeper of a corporation, which is adopted by the officer that is authorized to make or alter contracts, is binding on the company. Providence Mach. Co. v. Browning [S. C.] 49 S. E. 325. The payment of money by the principal, upon a contract made by an agent for a release of damages for an injury to an employe is a ratification of the contract of release. American Quarries Co. v. Lay [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 608. Sending to the agent of money to pay for purchases made. The principal, in such case, is liable to the vendor, even though the agent wrongfully appropriated the money to apply upon a debt owed him by the vendor. Luttrell v. East Tennessee Tel. Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1124. Ratification of signature to a note, by acknowledgment of the same when shown the signature by the holder of the note. Central Nat. Bank v. Copp, 184 Mass. 328, 68 N. E. 334. Where the quartermaster general directs the purchase of a vessel partially constructed, and the quartermaster in charge orders changes and additions that increase the cost, there being an exigency that requires the immediate performance of the work, an approval of his action by the quartermaster general, with full knowledge of the facts, is equivalent to express authority. Moran Brothers Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 486.

84. Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544. The protesting of a general agent's drafts for funds to be used on contracts made is not a repudiation by the principal, but a ratification, where the only reason given for not advancing the money is that it is unnecessary to do so. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636.

85. A lease of realty, executed under seal by an agent without written authority, may be ratified by a subsequent assignment under seal by the owner to another party and entering into possession under it by the lessee. Gleadall v. Kenney, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 576.

86. The acceptance of rent, with knowledge of a lease executed by an agent, is a ratification by the principal. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 419. Acceptance of the benefits of a contract of purchase, by receiving and disposing of the materials and making payments according to the contract. Swindell Bros. v. Gilbert & Bro. [Md.] 60 A. 102. The acceptance and deposit of a check, taken by a wife for her husband, is a ratification of her act in signing a receipt, and such receipt is evidence against him of payment. Steffens v. Nelson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 871. The retaining of money paid on a settlement, with knowledge of all the facts, is a ratification by the principal of such settlement, although it was made by the agent without authority. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Hellekson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 717. Ratification of acts of purchasers of a stock of goods, in behalf of certain creditors, by their interpleading and claiming a fund deposited by the seller. Alexander v. Wade, 106 Mo. App. 141, 80 S. W. 19. If one, with full knowledge of the facts, accepts the avails of an unauthorized treaty made in his behalf by another, he thereby ratifies such treaty and is bound by its terms as fully as he would be had he negotiated it himself. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Hellekson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 717. Collection of rent under a lease, executed by an agent without authority, is a ratification of it. Anderson v. Conner, 43 Misc. 384, 87 N. Y. S. 449. Where defendant admits getting money on a note signed by his agent, he cannot deny liability for the agent's act. Fordsville Banking Co. v. Thompson, 25 Ky. L. R. 534, 82 S. W. 251.

facts at the time of ratification;[87] and his act must also be voluntary.[88] Ratification cannot be partial.[89] Ratification is equivalent to an original grant of authority;[90] and cures any defect in the execution of a power.[91] Ratification is usually a question of fact for the jury.[92]

(§ 2) E. Undisclosed agency.[93]—An undisclosed principal may avail himself of a contract made by his agent.[94] Although a mining lease may be so executed by an agent as to bind himself only, yet his principal is entitled to ratify it and sue thereon.[95] An agent contracting in his own name for an undisclosed principal may sue on the contract in his own name.[96]

87. Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544; Bank of Commerce v. Miller, 105 Ill. App. 224; Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071; Steffens v. Nelson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 871; Stewart v. Harris, 91 N. Y. S. 438; Prichard v. Sigafus, 93 N. Y. S. 152; Quale v. Hazel [S. D.] 104 N. W. 215. And the latter must know that he would not be bound without such ratification. Munis v. Oliver, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 64, citing Pittsburg & Steubenville R. Co. v. Gazzam, 32 Pa. 340; Moore's Ex'rs v. Patterson, 28 Pa. 505; Zoebisch v. Rauch, 133 Pa. 532. Acts relied on as a ratification must be shown to have been done with full knowledge of all the material facts relating to the transaction. Facts not sufficient to show ratification of agency so as to render principal liable for agent's commission. Downing v. Buck [Mich.] 98 N. W. 388. The principal cannot be held to have acquiesced in or ratified any unauthorized understanding with his agent, in the absence of any showing that he had actual knowledge of such understanding. As a statement made by the vendor of a horse, to the agent sent to get it, that the title to the horse was to remain in the vendor until payment was made. Schenck v. Griffith [Ark.] 86 S. W. 850. The acceptance of part of the purchase price of property sold by an agent will not operate as a ratification of an unauthorized transaction, where the principal is not aware of the illegal acts of the agent. Chase v. Baskerville, 93 Minn. 402, 101 N. W. 950. Although a collector has indorsed checks payable to his principal and paid over the money, his principal cannot be held to have authorized the practice when he had no knowledge, and no means of knowing of it. Goodell v. Sinclair & Co., 112 Ill. App. 594. A petition setting up a ratification by the principal of a contract made with his agent must allege full knowledge by the principal of all the facts in order to show ratification. Butler v. Standard Guaranty & Trust Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 132.

88. Munis v. Oliver, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 64, citing Thrall v. Wilson, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 376; Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544.

89. Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074; Shinn v. Guyton & H. Mule Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1015. A ratification of part of an unauthorized transaction of an agent is a confirmation of the whole. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. v. Hellekson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 717. One cannot adopt a part of an unauthorized transaction made in his behalf, which is beneficial, and repudiate the rest. Shafer v. Russell [Utah] 79 P. 559; Third Nat. Bank v. Laboringman's Mercantile & Mfg. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 544. The contract ratified must be adopted as made. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Christian [Pa.] 60 A. 1087. If a principal elects to affirm a sale made by his agent, he can recover only the actual proceeds thereof. Stewart v. Harris, 91 N. Y. S. 438.

90. Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074. The underlying principle upon which liability for ratification attaches is that he who has commanded is legally responsible for the direct results and for the natural and probable consequences of his conduct, and that it is immaterial whether that command was given before or after the conduct. The substance of ratification is confirmation after conduct. Steffens v. Nelson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 871.

91. Whitley v. James, 121 Ga. 521, 49 S. E. 600. Restrictions on the powers of an agent can be waived by the principal. White Sew. Mach. Co. v. Hill, 136 N. C. 128, 48 S. E. 575.

92. Quale v. Hazel [S. D.] 104 N. W. 215. Evidence of a ratification of an agent's contract to pay a commission on the sale of a gas engine held sufficient. Meyers v. Brown-Cochran Co., 91 N. Y. S. 72. In an action to recover money loaned to a surety company, through its general agent, evidence held sufficient to justify the submission to the jury of the question of a ratification of the contract. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636. Held error to instruct the jury that, if they found that the defendant ratified the settlement in question, they should find for the plaintiff, without stating what acts would amount to a ratification. Morrill v. McNeill [Neb.] 104 N. W. 195.

93. See 3 C. L. 88.

94. The receiver of a telegram may recover from the company for breach of the contract of transmission made by the sender as his agent, though the agency was not disclosed when the contract was made. Manker v. Western Union Tel. Co., 137 Ala. 292, 34 So. 839.

95. The liability of the agent forms a sufficient consideration to the other party, and he is not injured by allowing the principal to come in and ratify and claim the benefits of the contract. Brooks v. Cook [Ala.] 38 So. 641.

96. Husband may sue on a contract with him for the erection of buildings on his wife's land. Simons v. Wittmann [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 791.

(§ 2) F. Notice to agent.[97]—Notice to an agent in the course of his employment is notice to the principal.[98] But the knowledge of an agent's agent, the latter not being also an agent of the principal, is not imputable to the principal.[99] And knowledge or notice not gained by the agent in the course of his employment cannot be imputed to the principal.[1] Nor is there a presumption that the agent has communicated to the principal facts coming to his knowledge as agent, when he has interests in the transaction adverse to those of his principal.[2]

97. See 3 C. L. 89.

98. Pursley v. Stahley [Ga.] 50 S. E. 139; Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 112 Ill. App. 500; Mack Mfg. Co. v. Smoot & Co., 102 Va. 724, 47 S. E. 859. It must be with respect to something material to the business in which the agent is employed. Chester v. Schaffer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 162; Marsh v. Wheeler [Conn.] 59 A. 410. Where one directs another to appraise land offered as security for a loan, procure an abstract and determine whether the title is good, he is charged with notice of a recorded mortgage. Field v. Campbell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 260. Notice to an agent who purchases a note that it is tainted with usury. Evidence of notice in this case held insufficient. Haynes v. Gay [Wash.] 79 P. 794. Service of a notice, provided for in the ordinance granting a franchise to a water company, upon the superintendent, held sufficient. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank v. Pontiac, 112 Ill. App. 545. Where the president of a corporation purchased goods of it for his individual business and had them shipped to his place of business, the knowledge of his agents and clerks as to the terms of the sales made to him was held to be his knowledge. Consolidated Fruit Jar Co. v. Wisner, 103 App. Div. 453, 93 N. Y. S. 128. The knowledge of agents of a bank that a party is insolvent, and that certain transactions with him are intended to give the bank a preference over other creditors, is knowledge of the bank.. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98. Where an agent had knowledge of a simulated conveyance of a homestead by a husband and wife, but elected to loan his principal's money on the security of the land, the agent's knowledge was imputable to the principal and she was estopped thereby. Morrill v. Bosley [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 529, 88 S. W. 519. One who, through an agent, joins in the redemption of property, is bound by the knowledge which the agent has of the equities in the property. Coombs v. Barker [Mont.] 79 P. 1. Knowledge of a servant or agent of an animal's vicious propensities will be imputed to the master, when such servant or agent has charge or control over the animal. Lynch v. Kineth, 36 Wash. 368, 78 P. 923. False statements made in an application for insurance, with the knowledge and at the suggestion of the agent, will not affect the company's liability on the policy issued thereon. American Ins. Co. v. Walston, 111 Ill. App. 133. Nor when facts claimed to have been suppressed are well known to the agent who solicited the insurance. Agent's knowledge of the use of intoxicating liquor by the insured. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89. Where a medical examiner is an agent of a life insurance company, notice to, or knowledge possessed by, him of matters material to the risk is notice to the company and prevents forfeiture of the policy for any such matter. Mystic Workers of the World v. Troutman, 113 Ill. App. 84. Knowledge of an insurance agent that the insured is not the owner in fee simple of the land on which the insured building stood is the knowledge of the company, and waives the provision in the policy voiding it, in such case. Johnson v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 339. Where the caretaker of stock rode in the stock car, instead of the caboose, with the knowledge and without the protest of the agent and trainmen of the railroad company, such company cannot defend against an action for damages for injuries received by the caretaker, on the ground of contributory negligence in riding in the stock car. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Teeters [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1014.

99. The knowledge of the agent's agent that rags were stored in principal's building contrary to the terms of his insurance policy. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Union Stock Yards Co. [Ky.] 87 S. W. 285.

1. Notice by the attorney of a city, given to the attorney of claimant for damages from a defective sidewalk in another suit brought against the owner of the walk, is not such notice as can be made the basis of an action by the city against the owner. Chester v. Schaffer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 162. A mere casual communication made to an agent, when no act or transaction of the agency was pending, and having no reference to his principal or his business, is not notice to the principal of the fact communicated. Patterson v. Irvin [Ala.] 38 So. 121.

2. A husband acted as his wife's agent in effecting a conveyance of her land to secure a loan, and on payment of the loan, he took title in his own name. She was not charged with his knowledge. Huot v. Reeder Bros. Shoe Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 98, 103 N. W. 569. Notice given to the agent, that goods sued for did not conform to the contract, at a time when the agent was acting in antagonism to the principal, and when the defendant knew that the agent would disregard the notice and would not communicate it to plaintiff, was not notice to the principal. Brown v. Harris [Mich.] 102 N. W. 960. Where, in an action in form to administer the property of an insolvent corporation, collusively brought, a receiver is fraudulently ap-

(§ 2). G. Remedies, pleading, procedure and proof.[3]—Third persons contracting with the agent of an undisclosed principal may, on discovery of the real principal, elect to pursue either principal or agent,[4] but cannot hold both.[5] The appropriation, otherwise than by attachment or execution, of furniture or other property found on demised premises, does not amount to an election by the landlord to hold the agent rather than the principal for the balance of unpaid rent,[6] nor does the rendering of an account to an agent for rent due, or the charging of the account against the agent.[7] When suit is brought against the agent of an undisclosed principal and the agent discloses the principal, who is then brought in as a party defendant, plaintiff, upon establishing his case against them, must elect against which he will take judgment.[8] It is always competent for a person dealing with an agent to show that the latter's acts, in excess of his express authority, are nevertheless within the scope of the authority which the principal has permitted him to assume, or which, by a course of dealing or otherwise, he has been held out by the principal, either to the public in general or to the person dealing with him, as possessing.[9] In an action against an agent of an undisclosed principal and the principal, when disclosed, the testimony of the agent that he bought the goods in his own name, but really for the principal whom he did not disclose, is admissible and sufficient to make a case against both agent and principal.[10] An agent may be contradicted, after proper foundation laid, by showing that he has made contradictory statements as to the matters in issue, even though his statements were no part of the res gestae.[11] It is always competent for the principal to show the scope and extent of the agent's authority.[12] pointed to carry out the designs of the corporation or its officers, such receiver is to be deemed the agent of the adversaries of the creditors. Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127, 99 N. W. 909.

3. See 3 C. L. 90.

4. Where guano was sold to a married man and the vendors sued his wife as a concealed principal, the finding of the jury for the plaintiffs on the facts, where the evidence was conflicting, was not disturbed. Holbrook v. Hodgson Cotton Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 916. An undisclosed principal is bound by the acts of his agent, within the scope of his authority, although the party dealing with him may have known the principal under another name. Phillips v. International Text Book Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 230. Where a stockbroker orders the purchase or sale of stocks through a firm of stockbrokers for a client of his, such firm has a right of action against the client, as an undisclosed principal. Kinsey v. Meaney, 98 App. Div. 420, 90 N. Y. S. 327. Where a husband ordered materials for a house built on his wife's lot, without stating to whom they were to be charged, and the wife directed alterations while the work was in progress, she was held liable as an undisclosed principal. Whipple v. Webb, 44 Misc. 332, 89 N. Y. S. 900. Where the authorized agent of an undisclosed principal procures a bond from a surety company, to enable him to procure a liquor tax certificate, the principal is liable to the surety company for a judgment and costs which it is required to pay on account of the agent's violation of the liquor laws. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co. v. American Brewing Co. [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 948. A principal may be charged upon a written or parol executory contract, entered into by his agent in his own name, within his authority, although the name of the principal does not appear in the transaction and is not disclosed, and the party dealing with him supposed the agent was acting for himself. Id. Where a seller to an agent acting for an undisclosed principal, after delivery, but before seeking to exact payment, learns the identity of the principal, he has an opportunity for investigating and comparing the standings of the agent and principal, just as he would have done if he had known the principal before delivery. Barrell v. Newby [C. C. A.] 127 F. 656.

5. Stockholders executing an order received from another broker who acts for an undisclosed principal, and suffering a loss in the transaction. Barrell v. Newby [C. C. A.] 127 F. 656.

6, 7. Smart v. Masters & Wardens of Nora Caesarea Lodge No. 2, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 15.

8. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. v. Roquemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 579, 88 S. W. 449.

9. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

10. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. v. Roquemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 579, 88 S. W. 449.

11. Sentell v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 215.

Where one ratifies a broker's sale upon the latter's erroneous statement as to the price received and in ignorance of the truth, he may disaffirm or affirm the sale upon discovery of the facts.[13]

A party to a written contract cannot have it rescinded on the ground that certain representations, not embodied in the contract, were made by the agent of the other party to induce him to sign, when the contract has printed on its back a warning that the company will not be bound by any statements not contained in the contract and that no agent has any authority to bind the company by any other representations or statements than such as are contained in the contract.[14]

In seeking to charge the principal with the knowledge of an agent, if the relationship is such that actual knowledge by the principal would be imputed to the agent, such relation should be set out, or knowledge should be alleged in the principal and no mention made of the agent.[15] Actual knowledge should be alleged, and not the facts from which it might be inferred.[16] An allegation that materials were furnished through a specified agent, for which defendant was obligated to pay, is good on general demurrer, inasmuch as it authorized proof of the agent's authority.[17] The fact of estoppel to deny the agency of one who has been permitted to hold himself out as an agent, to the prejudice of a third party, must be both pleaded and proved.[18] A verified account, attached to the petition in an action against an agent of an undisclosed principal, is evidence against the agent only and cannot be used against the principal when disclosed by the agent.[19] Proof of ratification includes proof of agency and authority and may be made under a pleading charging the ratified act to be that of the principal.[20]

§ 3. Rights and liabilities of agent as to third persons.[21]—An agent acting within his authority and disclosing his principal is not personally liable.[22] An agent who undertakes to bind his principal but fails to do so because of want of authority binds himself.[23] But this rule needs qualification and cannot be said to be universally true or correct.[24] The great weight of modern authority is that the agent is not personally bound by the contract itself and cannot be held liable in an action thereon.[25] But the party who is misled, or who parts with something of value, or otherwise acquires legal rights, can maintain a special action on the case, under the common-law procedure, or an action upon an implied assumpsit, under the code practice, when the agent has received the con-

12. Lauer Brew. Co. v. Schmidt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 396.

13. Stewart v. Harris, 91 N. Y. S. 438.

14. Butler v. Standard Guaranty & Trust Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 132.

15. Allegation that "the defendant, to wit, the defendant's agent," knew, etc., insufficient for any purpose. Davis v. Smith [R. I.] 58 A. 630.

16. As to infection of leased premises. Davis v. Smith [R. I.] 58 A. 630.

17. Jackson-Foxworth Lumber Co. v. Hutchinson County [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 565, 88 S. W. 412.

18. Fred W. Wolf Co. v. Galbraith [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 390; Lewis v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 704.

19. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. v. Roquemore [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 579, 88 S. W. 449.

20. Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074.

21. See 3 Curr. L. 92.

22. Durham v. Stubbings, 111 Ill. App. 10. Action for breach of contract, evidenced by memorandum in writing, for the sale of land, to recover payments made. Gable v. Crane, 24 Pa. Super. Co. 56.

23. Also when one makes a lease for a corporation not yet formed, the lease not being void but binding on the agent. Thistle v. Jones, 45 Misc. 215, 92 N. Y. S. 113. A contract for the sale of land held to have been executed by the vendor individually and not as agent of the owner of the land. Hardman v. Kelley [S. D.] 104 N. W. 272. An unauthorized agent does not render himself personally liable on a contract that is void under the statute of frauds. Morrison v. Hazzard [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 310, 88 S. W. 385.

24. Ogden v. Raymond, 22 Conn. 379, 58 Am. Dec. 429; Mechem, Ag. § 550.

sideration, or an action for damages.[26] And the measure of damages is what plaintiff lost, or the amount of money paid out, or the value of services rendered, or special damages sustained on account of the agent's wrong.[27] In Iowa, an insurance agent who effects insurance for an insolvent foreign company, without procuring a certificate from the state auditor, is liable to the insured for the loss, although he did not know of the company's insolvency.[28] The agent is personally liable when he purports to act as principal, the other party having no knowledge of the agency,[29] or when purporting to act as agent, he does not disclose the name of his principal.[30] But the general statement should not be construed as requiring the agent under all circumstances to expressly declare his agency and the name of his principal, regardless of whether the person dealing with him knows the facts or is chargeable with knowledge thereof from circumstances brought to his attention. Where one deals with the agent of a known principal in the regular course of conducting the principal's business by such agent, the presumption, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, is that the credit is extended to the principal.[31] Under the express provisions of the Mississippi Code, if a party conducts a business as "agent," "factor," "and company," or the like, without conspicuously disclosing by a sign the name of his principal, the property used in his business is liable for his debts.[32] He is personally liable to persons injured by his negligence.[33] An agent who receives money paid on a contract for the purchase of real estate, made by his principal, cannot be held liable in an action by the purchaser to recover the money back on proof of facts which would entitle the purchaser to rescind the contract.[34] But, under some circumstances, the agent having received the money, as long as it is in his possession, an action may be maintained against him to recover it back, if the principal is not authorized to receive it, or if he originally obtained it wrongfully.[35] Although an agent executes an instrument in his own name, he will not be personally bound unless the language clearly shows such intent.[36] Where a shipper contracts with a railroad company to carry a certain number 25. Hall v. Crandall, 29 Cal. 567, 89 Am. Dec. 64; Reinhard, Ag. § 307; Clark on Contracts, 274.

26. Le Roy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796, citing Delius v. Cawthorn, 13 N. C. 90.

27. Where the action proceeds, in pleadings and evidence, on the theory of the agent's personal liability, there can be no recovery on the theory of damages for a false assertion of authority. Le Roy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796.

28. Hartman v. Hollowell [Iowa] 102 N. W. 524.

29. When an agent makes a lease under seal in his own name, evidence is inadmissible to show that he executed only as agent and in behalf of his principal. Anderson v. Connor, 87 N. Y. S. 449.

30. And this is so, although the person contracting with the agent knew that he was acting as agent, if the name of the principal is not disclosed. Hunter v. Adoue [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 622. Parties who sign a lease to a fictitious corporation, as its president and vice-president, are individually liable for rent on the lease, although it is under seal. Schenkberg v. Treadwell, 94 N. Y. S. 418. But the rule does not apply where no contract relation has been induced or entered into with a third party. American Alkali Co. v. Kurtz, 134 F. 663. The mere fact that it was the custom of a firm of agents not to disclose the names of customers to their principals does not render them liable for the purchase price of all goods sold through their agency, for, if they undertook to guaranty the sales and solvency of purchasers, it should appear in their contract of agency. Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, 71 N. E. 529.

31. Alexander & E. Lumber Co. v. McGeehan [Wis.] 102 N. W. 571.

32. Code 1892, § 4234. Dale & Co. v. Harrahan [Miss.] 37 So. 458.

33. The agent of a nonresident owner of a building, who is in full charge thereof and has authority to make repairs, is liable for injuries to a tenant's infant child, caused by neglect to repair a rotten and unsafe veranda railing. Lough v. John Davis & Co., 35 Wash. 449, 77 P. 732.

34. Gable v. Crane, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 56, citing Kurzawski v. Schneider, 179 Pa. 500.

35. Gable v. Crane, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 56.

36. A contract of purchase held to be that of the principal and not that of the agent personally. Frambach v. Frank [Colo.] 81 P. 247.

of cattle, it is immaterial to the company whether the shipper acts for himself alone or as agent for another also.[37]

Evidence, proof and procedure.[38]—When a contract is made with an agent in his own name for an undisclosed principal, either the agent or the principal may sue upon it.[39] An agent guaranteeing an account for his employer, and being compelled by agreement to pay the same weekly, becomes in law the assignee of the account and is entitled to sue in attachment in his own name.[40] Money paid by the agent upon the fraudulent representation that the principal had not paid for certain purchases, may be recovered under the common count for money had and received.[41]

§ 4. Mutual rights, duties and liabilities. A. In general; contract of agency; diligence and good faith.[42]—The agent must use reasonable care and diligence in the business of his principal,[43] act in good faith,[44] and keep his principal informed as to facts regarding the subject of his agency,[45] and is liable

37. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Brown & Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 53.

38. See 3 C. L. 94.

39. A lease made by partners, "lessors, agents of the S. heirs," binds them personally and they may sue on it. Hunter v. Adoue [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 622.

40. McLane v. Colburn, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 257.

41. Johnson v. Cate [Vt.] 59 A. 830.

42. See 3 C. L. 94.

43. In the employment of an agent, the principal bargains for the disinterested skill, diligence and zeal of the agent for his own exclusive benefit. The presumption is, that the principal knows his own interests and object better than the agent; and the agent is bound to carry out the principal's plans. Dazey v. Roleau, 111 Ill. App. 367. A request to an agent from his principal for action in the line of the agency is equivalent to a command. A letter from the principal indicating a preference held to be in the nature of instructions. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson [Conn.] 60 A. 293. Where a party is made an agent for the payment of money to another, it is his duty to use it as directed or return it to the principal. Commonwealth v. Folz, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 558. Bankers are held to the exercise of ordinary care in making loans as agents for the lender. Watson v. Fagner, 105 Ill. App. 52.

44. Dazey v. Roleau, 111 Ill. App. 367. Whether a corporation be treated as an enlarged and amplified form of partnership, and the director as managing partner, or whether he is called an agent or trustee, elected by the stockholders to represent them in the management of the concern, he occupies a fiduciary position and is essentially within the rule which requires agents, attorneys, bailees, partners, trustees or other fiduciaries, to exercise the highest degree of good faith as to all matters connected with the property committed to their care. Oliver v. Oliver, 118 Ga. 362, 45 S. E. 232. Purchase of unimproved farm lands, etc., by an agent in charge thereof. Van Dusen v. Bigelow [N. D.] 100 N. W. 723. Where the eldest son of an aged woman was acting as her general agent, in the transaction of her business, the burden of proof was held to be on him to show that a gift of lands by her to him, was the free, voluntary and uninfluenced action of the grantor, in an action to set aside the deed. Reed v. Reed [Md.] 60 A. 621. The relation of employer and stenographer is not of so confidential a character as to require a higher measure of proof of a claim by the latter against the estate of the former, than is required in ordinary cases. In re Brown's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 147. Moneys deposited with a stockbroker as security, in the purchase and sale of stocks, a daily account being made up by charging margins and crediting avails of closed transactions, held to constitute an ordinary current account and not a fiduciary or trust fund. Kinsey v. Meaney, 98 App. Div. 420, 90 N. Y. S. 327. When an agent is under no contractual restraint, and no violation of business secrets reposed in him by reason of his agency is involved, he has the right, after the termination of his agency, to influence the policy holders of his former principal to forfeit or transfer their policies to other companies, whether or not such policies were the fruits of the agent's efforts while in his former employment. American Ins. Co. v. France, 111 Ill. App. 382. When an agent has ceased to do new business for his principal but is still engaged in collecting and remitting money due on outstanding mortgages, the relation between them is not such a trust relation as suspends the running of the statute of limitations. Jewell v. Jewell's Estate [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1059.

45. Green v. Southern States Lumber Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 670. It is the duty of an agent to keep true and correct accounts between himself and principal and to furnish him detailed and itemized statements of receipts and expenditures, which must be of such a character as to enable the principal to make some reasonable test of their honesty and accuracy. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v Ward, 113 Ill. App. 327. Where an agent rents property, collects rents, pays taxes and sees to repairs, and also gives advice as to value of unimproved farm lands belonging to his principal, a fiduciary relation is established between them, and if the agent purchases such farm lands for himself he must make full disclosures to his principal as to their value; if he conceals such facts the conveyance is void-for damages resulting from default in either respect.[46] An agent cannot make a profit for himself in the business of his agency.[47] A party cannot act as the agent of another in making a contract for himself.[48] But he may, upon the failure of his principal's negotiations and the termination of his fiduciary relation, make negotiations on his own account in the same matter.[49] And an agent for the collection of rents and the care of lands, who occupies lands adjoining those of his principal, is not estopped by the relationship from acquiring title by adverse possession to a parcel of land near the common boundary.[50] A co-agent under a power to sell is not bound by an unauthorized option given by the other agent, if not given or ratified by himself, and if he purchases the land for himself, he cannot be held as a trustee for the claimant under the option.[51] Where plaintiff, in making a loan to defendant to take up certain other debts, did not act as defendant's agent in purchasing such debts, he was entitled to demand from defendant the full amount of the debts, although he secured them at a discount.[52]

(§ 4) B. Accounting, settlement and reimbursement.[53]—All profits and benefits resulting from acts of an agent, whether in accordance with, or in violation of, his authority, belong to the principal.[54] The contract of an agent for his principal is the contract of the principal.[55]

When the principal and agent go over the agent's account as submitted by him, and the principal agrees that the charges are satisfactory and the account correct, the agent is entitled to recover the balance shown in his favor.[56] Where able. Van Dusen v. Bigelow [N. D.] 100 N. W. 723. An agent retained to obtain a settlement of a claim for damages against a railroad company, who failed to inform his principal of the company's standing offer to settle at a fixed sum, was held not entitled to recover under his contract for services. Haskell v. Smith, 90 N. Y. S. 353.

46. He may be sued by his principal in tort for fraud and deceit. Miller v. John, 111 Ill. App. 56. It is the primary duty of an agent to obey the instructions given to him by his principal. If he deviates therefrom and there is a consequent injury, the fact that the agent intended a benefit to the principal is no defense. Dazey v. Roleau, 111 Ill. App. 367.

47. Humbird v. Davis, 210 Pa. 311, 59 A. 1082; Harrison v. Craven [Mo.] 87 S. W. 962. By purchasing land from his principal, under cover of the name of a third person, and selling again at an advanced price. Moore v. Petty [C. C. A.] 135 F. 668. Or by purchasing lands placed in his charge and concerning whose value, etc., it was his duty to keep his principal informed. Van Dusen v. Bigelow [N. D.] 100 N. W. 723. An agent of a mining corporation, while sinking a shaft on property of plaintiff, discovered a vein on which another vein was located and obtained title to that claim; held, under all the circumstances, not to have made wrongful use of his agency to his principal's disadvantage. Calumet Gold Min. & Mill. Co. v. Phillips, 31 Colo. 267, 72 P. 1064.

48. Hier v. Miller, 68 Kan. 258, 75 P. 77, citing Chrystie v. Foster [C. C. A.] 61 F. 551, 553.

49. As where the principal was negotiating for a concession for an electric line, and the agent held in escrow an assignment by a third party to his principal, of an interest in a horse car line, pending negotiations, but the concession was not granted. Havana City R. Co. v. Ceballos, 131 F. 381.

50. Carney v. Hennessey [Conn.] 60 A. 129.

51. Tibbs v. Zirkle, 55 W. Va. 49, 46 S. E. 701.

52. Aldrich v. McClay [Ark.] 87 S. W. 813.

53. See 3 C. L. 96.

54. Humbird v. Davis, 210 Pa. 311, 59 A. 1082; Schick v. Suttle [Minn.] 102 N. W. 217, citing Snell v. Goodlander, 90 Minn. 533; Smitz v. Leopold, 51 Minn. 455; Hobart v. Sherburne, 66 Minn. 171; Holmes v. Cathcart, 88 Minn. 213, 97 Am. St. Rep. 513, 60 L. R. A. 734; Moore v. Petty [C. C. A.] 135 F. 668. The principal may recover on the contracts made in his behalf by his agent. Keniston v. Flaherty, 91 N. Y. S. 568. Where a written contract has been made by an agent for his principal, with full knowledge by the third party of such agency, the principal can sue on such contract directly, although not named therein. Rea v. Barker, 135 F. 890. Entrance upon or assertion of ownership of lands. Carney v. Hennessey [Conn.] 60 A. 129. Possession of land by the agent inures to the benefit of the principal, in the acquisition of title by adverse possession. Travis v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 425. Where the agency is established, the reservation of title to property by the agent inures to the benefit of his principal. Bronson v. Russell [Ala.] 37 So. 672.

55. Durham v. Stubbings, 111 Ill. App. 10; Johnson v. Cate [Vt.] 59 A. 830.

56. Werckmann v. Taylor [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 44. Credit in final accounting for un-no suggestion is made by the agents that money remitted is in excess of the proceeds of sales, the principal's appropriation of it in partial settlement of accounts is conclusive.[57] In case of the death of the agent who has received money for investment, the burden of showing either payment or accounting rests on his representatives.[58]

(§ 4) C. Compensation of agent.[59]—The right to compensation and the amount thereof is usually determinable from the contract between the parties.[60] Where the agent sues for commissions, the burden rests upon him to prove an agreement to pay the commissions.[61] Where an agent relies upon a custom as part of his contract of employment, he must show it to be so certain, continuous, uniform, well-known and of so long standing, that it can be said that the parties contracted with reference thereto.[62] Performance by the agent is a condition precedent to the right to compensation,[63] but modification of a contract, paid note sold by principal to agent. Hoskins' Adm'x v. Morton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 742.

57. Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, 71 N. E. 529.

58. In re Brown's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 149. An instruction that if money, for which the estate counterclaimed, was shown to have come into claimant's hands, the burden was on him to account for it as having been paid to intestate or disposed of according to her directions, approved. Vitty v. Peaslee's Estate, 76 Vt. 402, 57 A. 967.

59. See 3 C. L. 97.

60. Claim of agent for commission on direct sales made by principal within agent's district; contract construed. McCay Engineering Co. v. Crocker-Wheeler Elec. Co. [Md.] 60 A. 443. A contract providing for advances by the principal, to be repaid by the agent's commissions, construed. Arbaugh v. Shockney [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 668. Contract for commissions, to be applied on prior indebtedness, construed. McCormick v. Johnson [Mont.] 78 P. 500. A contract between a bankrupt company and a commercial sales agent construed, and held to entitle the agent to compensation on orders accepted and filled but not on such as were not accepted or were canceled. In re Ladue Tate Mfg. Co., 135 F. 910. An agent may be running a sawmill as such, and not as an independent operator, although he is paid a certain amount per thousand feet sawed. Crosno v. Bowser Milling Co., 106 Mo. App. 236, 80 S. W. 275. An agent authorized to improve and sell lands and reimburse himself from the proceeds, is entitled, after the termination of his authority by the death of the owner, to reimbursement and compensation for expenses and services, from the proceeds of the property when sold. Fisher v. Southern Loan & Trust Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 592.

61. Commissions claimed by an agent employed to sell "investment bond." Contracts held not earned by the negotiation of an exchange of one class of bonds for another. Warwick v. North American Inv. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 78. The principal may interpose as a counterclaim, in an action by the agent for his compensation, a claim for profits alleged to have been made by the agent in the course of his employment. Schick v. Suttle [Minn.] 102 N. W. 217. A corporation that sells out and ceases business is not liable for the salary of its president and manager, during the term for which he was elected, in the absence of a definite contract for such time. Busell Trimmer Co. v. Coburn [Mass.] 74 N. E. 334. An offer to pay a certain sum for the finding of a purchaser of land at $100 an acre is met by the finding of a purchaser who agrees to take the land at that price, either in cash or on such terms as the owner may desire; and the agent is entitled to his compensation, although the principal refuses to consummate the trade. Guthrie v. Bright, 26 Ky. L. R. 1021, 82 S. W. 985. Evidence held insufficient to establish an agreement to pay an agent, employed to contest a municipal assessment for improvements, a percentage on the entire assessment in case defendant sold the land before the confirmation of the assessment, instead of a percentage on the amount agent succeeded in having deducted from the assessment. Wolfsohn v. Haven, 95 App. Div. 621, 88 N. Y. S. 475.

62. An alleged custom on the part of insurance companies to pay their agents 5 per cent. on the net premiums, whenever they reached $5,000 during the year, or when an agent quit their employ, held not established. American Ins. Co. v. France, 111 Ill. App. 310.

63. Custom and the law have made it necessary that real estate agents should actually procure contracts, in order to earn their compensation. Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071. Where an agent, employed to sell the entire product of a manufactory makes no sales and is discharged before the end of his term, he can recover nothing from his employer. Morrow v. Tunkhannock Ice Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 1004. If, pending negotiations by an agent with a third person and before their completion, the principal steps in, accepts the benefit of the agent's services and closes the transaction, the agent is entitled to compensation as upon a full performance of his agreement. Emerson v. Nash [Wis.] 102 N. W. 921. An agent may proceed so far in execution of the purpose for which he is employed as to entitle him to his commission and still be far short of consummating a contract upon which an action for specific performance could be sustained against his employer. Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P.

made by the agent,[64] or groundless refusal of the principal[65] to carry it out, will not defeat the agent's right to commissions or reasonable compensation for services rendered.[66] Fraud on the part of the agent destroys his right to commissions.[67] If an agent employs a subagent to do the whole or any part of that which he is employed to do, without the knowledge or consent of his principal, inasmuch as there is no privity between the principal and the subagent, the latter will not be entitled to claim compensation from the principal.[68] The rights as to commissions, of subagents appointed by an agent of limited powers acting under special agreement as to compensation, are controlled by the terms of the actual contract made by the agent with the principal.[69]

(§ 4) D. Remedies, pleading, procedure, and proof.[70]—In case of complicated transactions characterized by mistake, oversight or fraud, the court of chancery has jurisdiction of proceedings by the principal to effect a settlement with his agent.[71] But the principal cannot support a bill for recovery of money for an injunction and for a receiver on illegal contracts and dealings by an agent in his behalf.[72] An agent, who fraudulently takes title in his own name to real 1071. In an action by an agent for commissions, evidence held sufficient to show that the sales were made within his territory and that he was entitled to commissions under the terms of his contract. McGeeham v. Gaar, Scott & Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1072.

64. Where an agent, who was working on a monthly salary, upon receiving notice that his compensation would thereafter depend upon a commission, immediately replied by letter declining to continue under such terms, which letter defendant claimed not to have received, but continued the services of the agent, the finding of the jury that the original contract had not been modified was sustained. Lee v. Huron Indemnity Union [Mich.] 97 N. W. 709.

65. Where a company arbitrarily and wrongfully terminates a partially performed contract for the sale of machinery, the agent may sue the company for the breach of contract or for the value of his services rendered. Richardson Machinery Co. v. Swartzel [Kan.] 79 P. 660. Where the principal repudiates all that the agent has done under a definite contract of employment, the agent is not bound by the compensation named in the agreement, but is entitled to whatever his services are worth, to be recovered in an action against the principal. Foot v. Smythe [Colo. App.] 78 P. 619. Where the principal rescinds his contract for the sale of real estate and revokes the agency before the expiration of the time allowed for the consummation of the sale, the agent is entitled to the commission agreed to be paid and can recover the same. Harrison v. Augerson, 115 Ill. App. 226. Where a contract, made with an attorney for five per cent. commission to collect claims against the United States for excessive duties charged was violated by the principal's failing to furnish the attorney with the necessary data, and by the employment of another attorney to prosecute the claims, the plaintiff attorney was held entitled to recover the percentage stipulated without proof of services rendered or their reasonable value. Carlisle v. Barnes, 92 N. Y. S. 917.

66. Although the principal may revoke the agency, he cannot thereby escape liability for a reasonable compensation for any work done by the agent before the revocation. New Kanawha Coal & Min. Co. v. Wright, 163 Ind. 529, 72 N. E. 550. Where an agent was employed to take charge of and rent real estate, under a contract revocable at the will of the principal, receiving a percentage of the rents as compensation, and the agency was revoked after property had been rented but before any rent had been collected, it was held that the agent was entitled to a reasonable compensation. Id. When an agent sues his principal for damages for nonfulfillment of orders on which commissions were to be paid, he must prove by competent evidence that such sales were made, or liabilities resulting therefrom have been paid by the agent. Telegrams and letters received from a representative of a witness in Europe are incompetent evidence of such sales, being mere hearsay. Kirby Lumber Co. v. Cummings & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 231. In case of a contract of agency for a fixed time, upon commissions, alleged want of due diligence, not complained of or acted upon during the period of employment, is no defense against the agent's claim for commissions. Spinks v. Georgia Quincy Granite Co. [La.] 38 So. 824. Where an agent has by contract the exclusive right to sell certain goods, for a specified time, within a particular territory, and the principal violates the contract by the sale of such goods in the territory specified, and refuses to allow the agent anything therefor, the agent can recover only such actual damages as he can show that he has sustained. LaFavorite Rubber Mfg. Co. v. H. Channon Co., 113 Ill. App. 491.

67. A real estate broker who attempts to represent both parties in a transaction, without their knowledge and consent, forfeits all right to compensation or commissions from either. Green v. Southern States Lumber Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 670.

68. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

69. Brown, Chipley & Co. v. Haigh, 113 La. 563, 37 So. 478.

estate which he was authorized to purchase for his principal, repudiates the agency, violates the terms of the agency and seeks to speculate off his principal, will be held to be a trustee ex maleficio, as to the real estate so secured.[73] And as to any property purchased as agent, in his own name, he will, in equity, be held to be the trustee of the principal, even though he pays the price himself; and, upon repayment of the money so advanced, he will be required to transfer the property so acquired to his principal.[74] If the agent disposes of his principal's property without authority, the act may be disavowed and set aside by the owner, even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. And if the agent purchases property with his principal's funds, the latter may follow it into the hands of a third person who purchases it for value, though that person be innocent and has no notice of the rights of the principal.[75] The principal retains title to goods in the hands of his agent until sold, and then to the proceeds, at least until paid by the agent, and may pursue both agent and purchaser until he has obtained satisfaction of his debt.[76] The principal may repudiate an unauthorized transaction by his agent and replevy property transferred in such transaction;[77] and he may replevy personal property, pledged by the agent as security for a loan, when unauthorized by himself, without repaying the loan.[78] Principals can pursue both the original buyers and del credere factors for payment, where the latter become indebted to their principals for goods consigned to them and sold on credit.[79] The relation of principal and agent does not prevent an action of tort by the principal against the agent,[80] and in such case the measure of damages is the same as if the relation did not exist.[81] The mere fact that defendant assumed to act as plaintiff's agent would not entitle plaintiff to recover in an action of deceit. The agency must be proved,[82] and the fact that the agent, in case of deviation from his principal's instructions, intended it as a benefit to the principal, is no defense.[83] Among other available remedies, as between principal and agent, illustrated in the notes, is an action for money had and received,[84] for conversion of property of the principal,[85] and for breach

70. See 3 C. L. 99.

71. Charlesworth v. Whitlow, Lake & Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 423.

72. Where a money loaner established an agency for the negotiation of loans at extortionate rates, and on contracts void as against public policy, and his agent claimed the business as his own and refused to account. Woodson v. Hopkins [Miss.] 37 So. 1000.

73. Harrison v. Craven [Mo.] 87 S. W. 962.

74. Morris v. Reigel [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1086.

75. Gussner v. Hawks [N. D.] 101 N. W. 898.

76. Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, 71 N. E. 529; Gussner v. Hawks [N. D.] 101 N. W. 898.

77. Where an agent without authority exchanged his principal's horses for other property and the principal notified the third party of his repudiation of the trade, he was relieved from tendering a return of the property received before commencing replevin. Roberts v. Francis [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1076.

78. Wycoff v. Davis [Iowa] 103 N. W. 349.

79. Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, 71 N. E. 529.

80. An action based on agent's fraud and deceit. Miller v. John, 111 Ill. App. 56.

81. The damages must be such as are a probable and natural result of the breach. Harrison v. Craven [Mo.] 87 S. W. 962.

82. Action for false and fraudulent representations as to value of lands and concealment of an offer for the same. Brinson v. Exley [Ga.] 49 S. E. 810.

83. Dazey v. Roleau, 111 Ill. App. 367.

84. A right of action accrues to the principal to recover money collected by his agent, whose duty is to remit without an accounting, as soon as the money is paid to him, and the statute of limitations begins to run then. Jewell v. Jewell's Estate [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1059. Suit by principal against agent to recover an item of compensation claimed to have been a duplicate payment; claim not established. Pheips, Dodge & Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 218. An agent for the collection of rents is liable to his principal's grantee for rents collected after the recording of the deed. Dempsey v. Zittel, 90 N. Y. S. 1054. Where long continued dealings between principals and agents have existed, during which consignments have been made to the agents and remittances made by them, with-

of the contract of agency.[86] The profits of an agent's transactions can be recovered by the principal;[87] and where the profit has been made by a fraudulent violation of the agent's duties, the principal may waive the tort and recover for money had and received, or may counterclaim in an action by the agent for compensation.[88] The principal can recover moneys paid out by his agent without authority.[89] A bank holding stock claimed by different persons and willing to account for and deliver it to the parties entitled thereto, is entitled to bring a bill of interpleader.[90]

Evidence.[91]—The existence of the relation of principal and agent may operate as evidence that acts done by the latter are done in behalf of the former.[92] An allegation that defendant made and executed a written contract may be supported by evidence that it was executed in his behalf by his duly authorized agent previously empowered to do so, or that, although the contract was authorized in the first instance, it was nevertheless ratified subsequently by the principal.[93]

AGISTMENT; AGREED CASE, see latest topical index.

AGRICULTURE.[1]

§ 1. Regulation.[2]—As the pursuit of agriculture affords peculiar opportunity for imposition and fraud, the subject has become largely regulated by statutes whose validity is sustained as an exercise of the police power.[3] Among others are regulations concerning purchase and sale of seeds,[4] and the growth or suppression of weeds.[5] out a final accounting, the agents being largely indebted to the principals during the entire time, and the agents finally became insolvent, held, that the assignee could not establish a defense against a suit by the principals, by selecting an arbitrary date to establish an overpayment by the agents, based simply upon the agents' method of bookkeeping. Cushman v. Snow, 186 Mass. 169, 71 N. E. 529. An agent who agrees to pay over a certain sum of money, upon the collection by him of certain notes held, is not liable to his principal, as for a collection of all the notes, when he has allowed a renewal of the balance of the notes after the collection of a part of them. Dickinson v. Motley Co., 90 N. Y. S. 286. Where an agent has made profits by a fraudulent violation of his duties, the principal may waive the tort and sue him for money had and received. Schick v. Suttle [Minn.] 102 N. W. 217.

85. Where a sales agent illegally obtains possession of property and sells it in violation of the specific terms upon which sales were authorized by the owner, an action of conversion will lie against him. Chase v. Baskerville, 93 Minn. 402, 101 N. W. 950. And where lumber was received by agents, under such circumstances that their failure to discover and account therefor would amount to gross negligence, they are liable for its value, unless they can show that they still have the lumber and can account for its loss, whether they are remunerated agents or merely gratuitous bailees. Charlesworth v. Whitlow, Lake & Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 423.

86. An action based on disobedience of instructions by agent, resulting in loss to his principal. Dazey v. Roleau, 111 Ill. App. 367.

87. Moore v. Pelty [C. C. A.] 135 F. 668.

88. Schick v. Suttle [Minn.] 102 N. W. 217.

89. As where a bank cashier credited sums, owing by him to a customer of the bank, upon the latter's passbook. Hier v. Miller, 68 Kan. 258, 75 P. 77.

90. Dickinson v. Griggsville Nat. Bank, 111 Ill. App. 183.

91. See 3 C. L. 101.

92. Carney v. Hennessey [Conn.] 60 A. 129.

93. Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074.

1. See 3 C. L. 137. See, also, the topic Emblements and Natural Products, 3 C. L. 1187.

2. See 3 C. L. 137.

3. Bazemore v. State, 121 Ga. 619, 49 S. E. 701.

4. The state may regulate the sale of cotton seed and fix a punishment upon the person who buys in violation of the terms of the statute. Bazemore v. State, 121 Ga. 619, 49 S. E. 701.

An indictment under such a statute need not describe the land on which the seed

In order to claim the protection of the "fertilizer" statutes of Kentucky, one must have complied therewith.[6]

§ 2. Cropping contracts, products and crop liens.[7]—The main distinction between a tenant and a cropper is that the former has an estate in the land while the latter has not.[8] Some courts make a further distinction holding that a cropper is a mere servant of the landlord and has no right of ownership in the crop until it is divided;[9] but this distinction is not universal, many courts holding that he has an interest in the crop,[10] which interest has been held sufficient to entitle his widow, after her year's support has been allotted out of it, to maintain conversion against the lessor.[11] The relation existing between the parties,[12] and the rights of each,[13] are governed by the terms of their contract. In those states where the cropper has an interest in the crop, if he dies before it is gathered his personal representatives are entitled to recover his interest, less the loss or damage caused by his death,[14] and the fact that a part of the crop has not been gathered cotton is grown. Bazemore v. State, 121 Ga. 619, 49 S. E. 701.

5. Under Acts 1901, p. 283, c. 117, making it unlawful for a railroad company to permit Johnson grass to go to seed on its right of way and allowing adjoining owners to recover $25 if it so does, authorizes a recovery of such sum each time the railroad is proved to have allowed such grass to mature and go to seed on its right of way. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Henderson & Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 371. But under the express provisions of such act, such owner cannot recover if he allows the grass communicated to his land to mature and go to seed. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Burns [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 250, 87 S. W. 1144. Such act is not unconstitutional as depriving the railroad of property without due process of law. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Henderson & Tompkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 371. Unless there is a nuisance or negligence in permitting weeds to grow and spread seed on adjacent lands, no action will lie except under statute. Harndon v. Stultz, 124 Iowa, 734, 100 N. W. 851. See, also, Adjoining Owners, 5 C. L. 33; Nuisance, 4 C. L. 839.

6. Where, in a suit for the purchase price of fertilizers, the plaintiff failed to show that he had complied with Ky. St. 1903, § 1822, subsec. 8, the testimony of farmers was held competent, though there was no analysis by the director of the state experimental station. Hardy Packing Co. v. Sprigg [Ky.] 84 S. W. 532.

7. See 3 C. L. 137.

8. Taylor v. Donahoe [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1099. See Landlord and Tenant, 4 C. L. 389.

NOTE. Distinction between cropper and tenant: It is oftentimes quite difficult to determine whether a person who works the land of another on shares is a tenant or a mere cropper. This is a question determinable only by the agreement in each particular case. Johnson v. Hoffman, 53 Mo. 504. It appears from the authorities that the question to be determined in every case of cultivation of land on shares is: Does the contract give the landowner his share as rent or the occupant his share as compensation for his labors? If the former, the person working the land is a tenant. If the latter he is simply a cropper. Williams v. Cleaver, 4 Houst. [Del.] 453; Steel v. Frick, 56 Pa. 172; Adams v. McKesson, 53 Pa. 81, 91 Am. Dec. 183. The difference between a cropper and a tenant is that a tenant has an estate in the land for the term, and consequently he has a right of property in the crops. If he pays a share of the crop for rents, it is he who divides off to the landowner his share, and until such division the right of property and of possession in the whole is his. A cropper has no estate in the land, and although he has in some sense possession of the crop, it is only the possession of a servant, and is in law that of the landowner, who must divide off to the cropper his share. Harrison v. Ricks, 71 N. C. 7; Gray v. Robinson [Ariz.] 33 P. 712; Haywood v. Rogers, 73 N. C. 320.—From note to Kelly v. Rummerfield [Wis.] 98 Am. St. Rep. 951, 953.

9. Taylor v. Donahoe [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1099.

10. Is not a mere laborer working for hire. Parker v. Brown, 136 N. C. 280, 48 S. E. 657.

11. Parker v. Brown, 136 N. C. 280, 48 S. E. 657.

12. Taylor v. Donahoe [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1099. One agreeing for one-third of the crop to cultivate the land of another for a "term of service," each party to pay certain expenses, and the contract being called one of employment, held, that it was a cropping contract and did not create the relation of landlord and tenant. Id.

13. Where landlord was entitled to possession until all debts due him by the cropper were paid, held, he could enforce such provision against a mortgagee of the cropper. Tuohy v. Linder, 144 Cal. 790, 78 P. 233.

14. Parker v. Brown, 136 N. C. 280, 48 S. E. 657. Instruction as to the method of calculating the amount of plaintiff's recovery held correct. Id.

does not justify the owner of the land in refusing a demand, by the cropper's representatives, for a portion of the crop.[15] A cropper having the right to use the buildings, farm implements, stock and other personal property of the landlord, his contract is a personal one and is not assignable without the owner's consent.[16] That a cropper's husband lives with her on the farm and devotes his time and labor to raising the crop does not overcome the presumption of ownership by the wife.[17] A cropper holding over after the expiration of his contract becomes a trespasser.[18]

In some states statutes govern the right of a tenant to remove the crop without satisfying all liens.[19]

In some it is a misdemeanor for a cropper to desert.[20]

Cases dealing with the sufficiency of evidence in the various actions are shown in the notes.[21]

Liens.—The sellers of fruit trees under a contract of payment out of crops raised therefrom have no lien on the land whereon the trees are planted.[22]

A cropper having defaulted, the landlord must prove his damage, and the amount thereof is the extent of his lien on the cropper's share,[23] and this, or any lien of the landlord, is waived by allowing the cropper to remove his portion of the crop.[24] The lien for money furnished to gather a crop is subordinate to the landlord's lien for rent,[25] and does not extend to other crops growing on the leased premises.[26] One can enforce his lien only against the property subject thereto, or the proceeds thereof.[27]

§ 3. Agricultural societies.[28]

AIDER BY VERDICT, ETC.; ALIBI, see latest topical index.

ALIENS.

§ 1. Who are aliens.[29]—Native born children of alien parents are citizens.[30] The political status of an alien is presumed to continue, and the mere fact of long residence in this country is insufficient to overcome this presumption.[31]

15. The representative is entitled to sue for conversion. Parker v. Brown, 136 N. C. 280, 48 S. E. 657.

16. Meyer v. Livesley [Or.] 78 P. 670.

17. Thurston v. Osborne-McMillan Elevator Co. [N. D.] 101 N. W. 892. The owner of the land releasing all right to the crops in consideration of a cancellation of the contract, the title to the crop vests in the cropper and her husband has no title thereto. Id.

18. Kenney v. Apley [Mich.] 102 N. W. 854.

19. North Carolina: Under Code, § 1759, providing that a tenant shall not remove the crop until satisfying all liens or giving the lessor 5 days' notice, it is no defense to a violation of this section that defendant had been damaged by a failure of the landlord to comply with the contract, and that such damage amounted to more than the rents and advancements. State v. Bell [N. C.] 49 S. E. 163.

20. A cropper leaving the land without returning is not guilty of a violation of Acts 1900, p. 140, c. 101, which deals with such croppers who have made a second contract, and being arrested, is entitled to a discharge on habeas corpus. Ex parte Harris [Miss.] 37 So. 505.

21. In an action by a landowner to recover possession of a cropper's share of grain raised by him pursuant to a contract to cultivate the land for a share of the crops, held, the evidence was insufficient to sustain a verdict for plaintiff. Graves v. Walter, 93 Minn. 307, 101 N. W. 297.

22. Butler v. Stark, 25 Ky. L. R. 1886, 79 S. W. 204.

23, 24. Graves v. Walter, 93 Minn. 307, 101 N. W. 297.

25. Goodwin v. Mitchell [Miss.] 38 So. 657.

26. Where money was furnished a receiver. Goodwin v. Mitchell [Miss.] 38 So. 657.

27. In an action to recover proceeds of lien cotton paid after notice, plaintiff could only require defendant to account for the money received from the crop under lien. Rose v. Florence Harness Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 556.

28. See 3 C. L. 137.

29. See 3 C. L. 138.

30. Ehrlich v. Weber [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 188. See 3 C. L. 138, n. 30.

§ 2. Disabilities and privileges.[32]—Except as to personal property,[33] an alien, under the common law, has no inheritable blood,[34] and, if he takes at all, he must do so under the statutes of the state where the property is, or by the provisions of treaties,[35] treaties being regarded as part of the law of every state.[36] Aliens, whether resident or nonresident, are generally allowed the benefit of statutes allowing damages for wrongful death.[37] A question of preferring a resident over a nonresident claimant will not be considered in an inquiry as to the right of property.[38] Under Rev. St. § 1068, aliens, whose government accords the same privilege to citizens of the United States, may prosecute claims against the United States in the court of claims and this right extends to aliens residing in the colonies of foreign governments,[39] and to corporate as well as to natural persons.[40] In Illinois the conservator of a nonresident alien lunatic may remove his ward's property from the state without showing that it is for the best interests of his ward,[41] and this right is not precluded by the fact that such property is in the hands of a resident conservator whose management is above criticism,[42] nor is such right to be considered as against public policy because if denied the property would escheat to the state upon the death of the alien.[43]

Under the Spanish law, aliens may acquire and possess real property, exercise the industries and take part in all enterprises not reserved, by existing laws and regulations, to Spanish subjects.[44] The Maura decree was an administrative law for the benefit of the state. It did not abrogate nor regulate civil rights, but pertained solely to the acquisition, classification and tenure of state lands.[45]

31. Ehrlich v. Weber [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 188.

32. See 3 C. L. 138.

33. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Osgood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 285. This common-law rule has neither been narrowed nor abrogated by statute in Indiana. Id.

34. Ehrlich v. Weber [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 188. See 2 Tiffany, Real Property, p. 1158.

35. Ehrlich v. Weber [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 188.

Kansas: Gen. St. 1899, p. 268, § 1194, providing that heirs of aliens can hold land inherited for three years, construed and held to bar the state from claiming the escheat of property left by a citizen and claimed by alien heirs. State v. Ellis [Kan.] 79 P. 1066.

Tennessee: Code 1858, §§ 1998-2000 are repealed by Acts 1875, p. 4, c. 2 (Shannon's Code, §§ 3659, 3660), and hence the heir or heirs of an alien may take land by descent or otherwise as citizens of the United States. Ehrlich v. Weber [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 188. Acts 1875, p. 4, c. 2, and Acts 1883, p. 330, c. 250, §§ 1, 2 construed, and latter held only to apply in a case in which all of the heirs are aliens. Id.

36. Where complainant bases his claim upon the provisions of a treaty, it is unnecessary for him to make a formal claim of his rights thereunder. Ehrlich v. Weber [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 188.

37. Indiana: Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 285, as amended, providing an action for wrongful death, an administrator appointed in Indiana may sue in the courts of such state for the wrongful death of a resident, although the ultimate distribution of the proceeds of the action will go to a nonresident alien, the laws of the alien's country authorizing a similar recovery in favor of an alien next of kin. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Osgood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 285. [This case apparently overrules the former ruling in 70 N. E. 839].

Iowa: An administrator appointed in Iowa may maintain an action in the state for an injury resulting in death to a resident alien, when it affirmatively appears that intestate's sole heir was at the time of said death, and still is, a nonresident alien. Romano v. Capital City Brick & Pipe Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 437.

Ohio: Nonresident aliens are entitled to the benefit of a statute providing for an action for unlawful death for the benefit of the next of kin. Rev. St. 6134 and 6135. Naylor v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 437.

Virginia: In Virginia an action for the wrongful death of a resident alien may be maintained for the benefit of his resident alien widow and children residing in another state. Va. Code 1904, § 2902, construed. Pocahontas Collieries Co. v. Rukas' Adm'r [Va.] 51 S. E. 449.

38. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 113 Ill. App. 415.

39, 40. Philippine Sugar Estates' Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 225.

41, 42, 43. Langmuir v. Landes, 113 Ill. App. 134.

44. Art. 18, Law of November, 1852, art. 38; Law of July 4, 1870. Philippine Sugar Estates' Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 225.

45. Philippine Sugar Estates' Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 225.

As a general rule aliens are amenable to the laws of the country into which they may come, and may be prosecuted for violations of its criminal laws.[46] A citizen of Austria accused of crime in this country may be proceeded against by information.[47]

§ 3. Immigration, exclusion and expulsion.[48]—The power to exclude and deport aliens is inherent to government.[49] The statutes providing a penalty for bringing in diseased immigrants apply only to a case where the diseased person is brought in by the vessel as a passenger or voluntarily.[50] The constructions placed upon particular statutes are shown in the notes.[51]

The Chinese exclusion acts are assisted but not controlled by the treaty with China,[52] and have no application to Chinese persons, other than laborers, who were domiciled in this country prior to their adoption;[53] but they do apply to a Chinese person who is a native of and emigrates from Hongkong, a British possession.[54] Recent decisions as to the constitutionality of these acts are given in the notes.[55] One's status as a merchant or laborer is largely to be determined by the work in which he engages after his arrival in this country[56] or, if a minor, after his parents have permanently returned to China.[57] To be a merchant within the meaning of such laws, one must be engaged in buying and selling merchandise in his own name and at a fixed place of business.[58] A proprietor of laundries who incidentally works for himself is not a laborer.[59] A Chinese merchant domiciled in the United States has the right to bring into this country minor children legally adopted by him in China, it being shown that the adoption was bona fide.[60] Placing a Chinese laborer in a detention shed is not a "landing" within the meaning of the law forbidding the master of any vessel from knowingly permitting any Chinese laborer to land,[61] and such Chinese laborer escaping from such confinement without the permission, connivance, knowledge or negligence of such master, the latter is not guilty of violating the statute.[62] The deportation of a 46, 47. State v. Neighbaker [Mo.] 83 S. W. 523.

48. See 3 C. L. 140.

49. United States v. Foong King, 132 F. 107.

50. Section 9 of Act March 3, 1903 (32 Stat. 1215) construed and held not to apply to a case where the deceased immigrant was a stowaway. Cunard S. S. Co. v. Stunahan, 134 F. 318.

51. The provision of section 28 of the immigration act of March 3, 1903, that nothing in such act shall apply to any prosecution or other proceeding begun under any existing acts, applies to those thereafter begun under the old law, based on acts committed before its repeal or amendment. Lang v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 201.

52. United States v. Foong King, 132 F. 107.

53. Ex parte Ng Quong Ming, 135 F. 378. Such a person temporarily leaving this country has the right to return, even though he is not included in one of the classes expressly excluded from the operation of such laws. Id.

54. United States v. Foong King, 132 F. 107.

55. Section 13 of the Chinese exclusion act of September 13, 1888, c. 1015 (25 Stat 479) is constitutional. United States v. Foong King, 132 F. 107.

56. A Chinese person entering on a merchant's certificate, but only continuing that occupation for fifteen months, after which he became a laborer, will be deported. Cheung Him Nin v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 391. A Chinese person entering under a certificate granted by Chinese authorities and immediately upon his arrival here and continually thereafter engaging in work as a laborer, is liable to deportation. Chin Chio Fong v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 154.

57. United States v. Joe Dick, 134 F. 988.

58. A Chinese person who at the time of his arrest was working as a servant in a boarding house, and who since coming to this country had worked as a cook and as delivery man in a store in which he had no interest, is not a merchant within the meaning of the Chinese exclusion laws. Mar Sing v. United States [C. C. A.] 137 F. 875.

59. United States v. Kol Lee, 132 F. 136.

60. Children admitted where it was shown that they had lived as members of his family and been supported by him in China for several years. Ex parte Fong Yim, 134 F. 938.

61. Act Cong. May 6, 1882, c. 126, § 2 (22 Stat. 59), as amended by Act July 5, 1884, c. 220 (23 Stat. 115), considered. United States v. Seabury, 133 F. 983.

62. United States v. Seabury, 133 F. 983.

Chinese woman will be ordered, though to do so is equivalent to remanding her to perpetual slavery and degradation.[63] A Chinese woman unlawfully in this country does not by her marriage to a Chinese laborer, lawfully here, become entitled to remain here.[64]

Shipowners who have wrongfully brought aliens to this country and have received them back for deportation are not made absolute insurers of the return of the immigrants to the port from whence they came but are simply required to use a faithful and careful effort to carry out the duty so imposed.[65] In a prosecution for violating this duty a stipulation of ultimate facts is as binding on the courts as the specific evidentiary facts set out in such stipulation.[66]

Exclusion.[67]—The power to exclude and deport aliens resides in the Federal government,[68] and congress may entrust the duty of enforcing the laws on this subject to executive officers, acting either alone or in connection with the courts.[69] The Federal courts have no jurisdiction to review by habeas corpus proceedings the decision of a collector denying a Chinaman, claiming to be a citizen, the right to enter, unless an appeal is first taken to the Secretary of Commerce and Labor,[70] and in such a case a decision of affirmance by the latter is no less conclusive on the Federal courts than when the ground on which admission is claimed is domicile or belonging to a class excepted from the exclusion acts.[71] A petition for habeas corpus ought not to be entertained unless the court is satisfied that the petitioner can at least make out a prima facie case.[72] The decision of the board of inquiry that an alien is entitled to land is not res judicata of the question.[73]

Registration.[74]—The Chinese exclusion act of 1892, as amended, requiring all "Chinese laborers" then within the United States to register, did not apply to Chinese merchants,[75] nor did it authorize the deportation of a Chinese merchant who continued in such business until after the time for registration had expired and then became a laborer through failure of his business, and was not provided with a certificate of registration.[76] As to the duty of registration, the test is capacity, not merely age.[77] Sickness may excuse a failure to register.[78]

Certificate.[79]—A merchant's certificate not stating the estimated value of his business carried on in China, nor fully establishing his status as a merchant, does

63. United States v. Ah Sou [C. C. A.] 138 F. 775 revg. 132 F. 878.

64. Especially where it was questionable whether the parties regarded the marriage as bona fide is no defense and the alleged husband has applied for a certificate of departure. United States v. Ah Sou, 138 F. 775 revg. 132 F. 878.

65. 26 Stat. at L. 1084, c. 551, construed. Hackfeld & Co. v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 456.

66. So held in regard to a stipulation that escape of immigrants from ship was without fault on the part of defendant. Hackfeld & Co. v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 456.

67. See 3 C. L. 142.

68. United States v. Foong King, 132 F. 107. See, also, United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19, and cases cited.

69. United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19, and cases cited. The constitutional guaranty of due process of law is not infringed by a statute making the decision of executive officers on the right of a Chinese person to enter this country conclusive on the Federal courts in habeas corpus proceedings in the absence of any abuse of authority, and this is true though citizenship be the ground upon which the right of entry is claimed. 28 Stat. at L. 372, 390, c. 301, construed. United States v. Ju Toy, 25 S. Ct. 644.

70. Mok Chung v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 166.

71, 72. United States v. Ju Toy, 25 S. Ct. 644.

73. Does not prevent the Secretary of Commerce and Labor from instituting new proceedings within a year thereafter for a retrial of the question. 32 Stat. 1218, 1219, 1220 and 825, construed. Pearson v. Williams [C. C. A.] 136 F. 734.

74. See 3 C. L. 143.

75, 76. United States v. Leo Won Tong, 132 F. 190.

77. The fact that a Chinese laborer was a minor 19 or 20 years old held not to exempt him from registering. United States v. Joe Dick, 134 F. 988.

78. Evidence held insufficient to show that Chinese laborer failed to register because of sickness. Yee Yuen v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 222.

79. See 3 C. L. 143.

not entitle him to enter or remain here.[80]

Deportation; procedure.[81]—A proceeding for the deportation of a Chinese person under the exclusion acts is civil in its nature,[82] and a plea of not guilty puts in issue two questions: First, is defendant a Chinese person or a person of Chinese descent? Second, if so is he entitled to be and remain in the United States?[83] The burden of proving the first issue is on the United States;[84] the burden of proving the second one on the defendant;[85] but upon either issue proof to the satisfaction of the commissioner or court is all that is required,[86] and in a few exceptional cases the facts have been held to raise a presumption that the defendant was entitled to remain.[87] In determining whether defendant is a Chinese person or a person of Chinese descent, his color, dress, language, and manner of wearing his hair may be considered,[88] and government inspectors and interpreters who state their ability to identify Chinese persons may testify, though they have no theoretical knowledge of the science of ethnology.[89] Admissions or statements of a defendant made to the officers by whom he is arrested in answer to questions put by them either before or after his arrest are admissible against him,[90] and the government has the right to call and examine him as a witness.[91] A stipulation that the respondent has the petitioner in his custody and control confers jurisdiction on the court in the same manner as though the petitioner were produced in court.[92] Chinese testimony must generally be corroborated by credible white witnesses,[93] and if to the effect that defendant was born in this country and is a merchant, it is sufficient if supported by the testimony of credible white witnesses that they have seen and known defendant, since he was young, as the child of a resident Chinaman, and that defendant was for years employed in a store as a merchant and was reputed to be a partner therein.[94] After a final order of deportation a Chinese person is not entitled to bail as a matter of right, and an application therefor is addressed to the sound discretion of the court.[95] This discretion should be exercised with careful regard to the evidence and the special circumstances of the case.[96]

New trial and appeal.[97]—As a general rule, a Chinese person, after exhaust-80. So held where defendant was designated as "Assistant Accountant in Kwong Yu Wing Shop, No. 47 Bonham Strand, Hong Kong." Cheung Pang v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 392.

81. See 3 C. L. 143.

82, 83, 84. United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19.

85. United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19; Lee Yue v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 45.

86. United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19.

Evidence that defendant was born in this country held insufficient to sustain the burden resting on him in view of a previous statement made and signed by him after arrest that he was born in China. United States v. Wong Du Bow, 133 F. 326.

87. Where a proprietor of laundries had resided in this country for 19 years, had lost his certificate and in good faith had obtained a worthless duplicate, it was held that, in view of his apparent good faith and reputable character, the facts raised a presumption that he was entitled to remain. United States v. Kol Lee, 132 F. 136.

88. United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19. Evidence held sufficient to show that defendant was a Chinese person. Id.

89, 90, 91. United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19.

92. Though petitioner be actually confined in another district. Ex parte Ng Quong Ming, 135 F. 378; Ex parte Fong Yim, 134 F. 938.

93. Testimony of defendant and two other Chinese witnesses held insufficient to support claim of citizenship in view of prior admission of defendant that he was born in China. Chew Hing v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 227.

94. United States v. Lee Wing, 136 F. 701.

95. United States v. Fah Chung, 132 F. 109.

96. United States v. Fah Chung, 132 F. 109. Where there is apparently no justification for entering the country and defendant entered and remained in plain violation and defiance of the law, bail will not be allowed. Id.

ing his appeal to the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, has the right to appeal to the courts,[98] and this right is not lost by an executory agreement purporting to waive it, and if he appears and demands to be heard on appeal, his status so far involves his statutory right to an appeal as to render the question as to whether his executory agreement amounted to a complete waiver thereof reviewable by the circuit court of appeals.[99] An appeal is the proper proceeding for the review of a judgment of a district court rendered on appeal from an order of a commissioner for the deportation of a Chinese person,[1] but such judgment of the district court will not be disturbed, unless clearly incorrect.[2]

§ 4. Naturalization.[3]—It is essential that the prescribed oath be taken.[4] A certified copy of the record of a court showing the admission of an alien to citizenship constitutes a "certificate of citizenship" within the meaning of the statutes making it an offense to use false certificates of citizenship,[5] and such "false certificate" is not limited to one that is forged, but includes one which is false in its recital of facts.[6] In the penal statutes of the United States, making it a crime for one to knowingly use a false or forged certificate of citizenship "purporting to have been issued under the provisions of any law of the United States relating to naturalization," the clause quoted refers to certificates which purport upon their face to have been issued after a compliance on the part of the alien named therein with the naturalization laws and as evidence of that fact.[7] The constructions placed upon particular words in such statutes are shown in the notes.[8]

ALIMONY.

§ 1. Nature and purpose of the allowance.[9]—Alimony awarded either pendente lite or upon the final determination of the action is founded upon the marital obligation to support and maintain, and is awarded by the court in enforcement of this obligation and duty.[10] There is no analogy between alimony ordered to be paid to the wife after a separation from bed and board and the sup-

97. See 3 C. L. 144.
98. So held where members of the family of a Chinese merchant domiciled in this country were denied admission. Ex parte Fong Yim, 134 F. 938; Ex parte Ng Quong Ming, 135 F. 378. Appeal had not been dismissed nor anything done in reliance on the agreement. Ah Tai v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 513.
99. Ah Tai v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 513.
1. United States v. Hung Chang [C. C. A.] 134 F. 19.
2. Mar Sing v. United States [C. C. A.] 137 F. 875.
3. See 3 C. L. 145.
4. One foreign born appearing before a state court while yet a minor and making oath that it is his bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States and renouncing allegiance to all foreign sovereigns is not naturalized. State v. Collister, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 33.
5, 6. Dolan v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 440.
7. Dolan v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 440. A certificate to sustain an indictment based on such statute (Rev. St. § 5425) need not recite that it is issued under a law of the United States, there being in fact no statute authorizing or requiring the issuance of such certificates. Id.
8. Rev. St. § 5427, dealing with the crime of using a false certificate of citizenship, construed and held that the word "felony" as used therein should be given its popular meaning, in order to give effect to the section in accordance with the manifest intention of congress. Dolan v. United States [C. C. A.] 133 F. 440.
9. See 3 C. L. 146.
10. Shepard v. Shepard, 90 N. Y. S. 982.

port allowed her in a judgment of divorce.[11] The right to the former arises from a marriage not permanently dissolved; while in the case of a judgment of divorce an amount is allowed in the nature of support or pension.[12] Alimony for the maintenance of the wife and support money for children are separate and distinct.[13] Hence acceptance of a gross sum in discharge of a claim for alimony does not preclude application for and allowance of support money for children.[14] In jurisdictions where a wife can claim alimony only when she is plaintiff,[15] she may claim it in a suit by her husband for divorce when she becomes a plaintiff in reconvention by demanding separation from bed and board.[16] Suit money and alimony may be allowed in a suit in equity by the wife relating to realty, where the husband puts in a cross bill praying for divorce.[17]

A court, in granting a divorce, has power to order the payment of alimony to the wife so long as she shall live, and require security therefor, and in such case the obligation, considered personal while defendant lives, is imposed on the security after his death.[18] Though the former wife of a minor under guardianship, who has obtained a divorce with a decree for alimony, be regarded as a creditor of the ward, yet if she has not brought suit against the guardian, nor attached the ward's estate, nor levied an execution, she is not a party aggrieved entitled to appeal from a decree settling the guardian's accounts.[19] In Louisiana, the recording of a judgment for alimony obtained by a wife against her husband in an action for separation from bed and board or for divorce creates a judicial mortgage.[20]

11. State v. Judge of Civ. Dist. Ct. for Parish of Orleans, Division C [La.] 38 So. 14.

12. The first is recovered in Louisiana under Civ. Code, art. 148; the second under art. 160. State v. Judge of Civ. Dist. Court for Parish of Orleans, Division C [La.] 38 So. 14.

13. Konitzer v. Konitzer, 112 Ill. App. 326.

14. Konitzer v. Konitzer, 112 Ill. App. 326. Where the divorce decree awards the custody of minor children to the mother, but makes no provision for their maintenance, the fact that alimony in a gross sum is awarded the mother does not prevent her from recovering from the father, or his estate, for the expense of maintaining the children. Lukowski v. Lukowski, 108 Mo. App. 204, 83 S. W. 274.

15. As in Louisiana. Landreaux v. Landreaux [La.] 38 So. 442.

16. Landreaux v. Landreaux [La.] 38 So. 442.

17. Suit by wife to enjoin alleged fraudulent transfer and to cancel deed, and cross-bill by husband for divorce. Moseley v. Larson [Miss.] 38 So. 234.

18. Wilson v. Hinman, 90 N. Y. S. 746.

Note: Commenting on Wilson v. Hinman, supra, a writer in the Michigan Law Review says: "The courts generally hold that the allowance of alimony payable in instalments ceases upon the death of either the divorced husband or wife. Francis v. Francis, 31 Grat. [Va.] 283; Wallingsford v. Wallingsford, 6 Har. & J. [Md.] 485; Casteel v. Casteel, 38 Ark. 478. And this is so even though the allowance is made to the wife during her life. Johns v. Johns, 44 App. Div. [N. Y.] 533; Lockwood v. Krum, 34 Ohio St. 1; Lennahan v. O'Keefe, 107 Ill. 620. In some states the court, in granting alimony, may make it a lien upon the property of the divorced husband when the circumstances seem to justify this action (Harshberger v. Harshberger, 26 Ill. 503; Tolerton v. Williard, 30 Ohio St. 579; Mahoney v. Mahoney, 59 Minn. 357), or may require security to be given (Slade v. Slade, 106 Mass. 499; Lockridge v. Lockridge, 3 Dana [Ky.] 28, 28 Am. Dec. 52; Gunther v. Jacobs, 44 Wis. 354). Alimony due and unpaid to the divorced wife at the time of her death is a vested right which passes to her legal representatives. Dinet v. Eigenmann, 80 Ill. 274; Miller v. Clark, 23 Ind. 370; Knapp v. Knapp, 134 Mass. 353. The statutes give the courts large discretionary power in the matter of alimony, and there are various dicta to the effect that the court may make alimony payable in instalments during the life of the divorced wife binding upon the heir of the divorced husband, but the intention to do so must unequivocally appear. Craig v. Craig, 163 Ill. 176; O'Hagan v. O'Hagan, 4 Iowa, 509. This case is of especial interest because it appears to have squarely raised the point for the first time in the state of New York."—3 Mich. L. R. 323.

19. Leyland v. Leyland [Mass.] 71 N. E. 794.

20. Baker v. Jewell [La.] 38 So. 532.

§ 2. Jurisdiction and power to award.[21]—Though the court of the domicile of the marriage may, at suit of the wife, render a decree of divorce against the nonresident husband on constructive service, yet such court is without jurisdiction to render a decree for alimony or costs against the nonresident husband, not served with process and not appearing in the cause.[22] In granting a divorce, the chancellor has also full power to settle and adjust the property rights of the parties.[23] But unless as incidental to divorce or other relief, alimony can be decreed only in cases within the statute.[24] Thus the New Jersey statute, providing that a husband who has abandoned his wife without justifiable cause may be compelled to maintain her, does not warrant an allowance where husband and wife are living apart by mutual agreement.[25] Under New York statutes, where there is no abandonment by the husband, but the wife has been forced to leave him on account of cruel and inhuman treatment, the wife is entitled to temporary alimony in a separation action, without instituting criminal proceedings for abandonment before a magistrate.[26] In Arkansas, an independent action for alimony irrespective of divorce proceedings may be sustained, or alimony may be awarded in a suit for divorce, though a divorce is denied.[27] Under the Texas statute, a court has no authority to order payment of a monthly sum for the maintenance of children as a part of the final decree of divorce.[28] In Kansas where action is brought for divorce and division of property, the court may decree a division of property, though a divorce is refused.[29]

§ 3. Stage or condition of the divorce proceeding.[30]—A decree of absolute divorce, with alimony, being obtained by a wife, the alimony allowed becomes a vested property right, and the decree is an adjudication of all questions relating to alimony which were or might have been litigated.[31] Similarly, after an order granting temporary alimony and attorney's fees has been duly passed, the court is without jurisdiction to revise or set it aside on any ground except one based on a change of circumstances subsequent to the granting of the order.[32] A change of circumstances being made to appear, the court has power to make such order, changing the original order, as will be just and equitable.[33] The dismissal of a complaint and counterclaim in a divorce action does not affect an order previously

21. See 3 C. L. 147.
22. Baker v. Jewell [La.] 38 So. 532.
23. Under Rev. St. c. 40, § 17. Heyman v. Heyman, 110 Ill. App. 87.
24. Patton v. Patton [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1019.
25. Construing Laws 1902, c. 157. Patton v. Patton [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 1019.
26. Weigand v. Weigand, 92 N. Y. S. 679.
27. Horton v. Horton [Ark.] 86 S. W. 824.
28. Power conferred by Rev. St. 1895, § 2987, to make provision for children, is to be exercised pendente lite only. Ligon v. Ligon [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 838.
29. Demurrer to evidence sustained as to claim for divorce and case retained for hearing as to division of property; procedure proper under Gen. St. 1901, § 5136. Bowers v. Bowers [Kan.] 78 P. 430.
30. See 3 C. L. 148.
31. Goodsell v. Goodsell, 46 Misc. 158, 93 N. Y. S. 1038. No change in fortunes or circumstances of parties appearing, motion of defendant for reduction of alimony four years after reference to take testimony, and motion of wife to reopen reference, denied. Id.
32. An unsuccessful attempt to review the order, made by the husband, and a reversal of a verdict for the wife in a suit for permanent alimony, do not constitute a change of status of the parties. Sumner v. Sumner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1013.
33. Rev. St. 1898, § 1212. Read v. Read [Utah] 78 P. 675. Divorce, custody of two children, and $900 and other articles as alimony having been awarded, a subsequent order of $5 per week was held proper, in view of the circumstances of the parties. Ostheimer v. Ostheimer [Iowa] 101 N. W. 275. No increase in award of alimony, where husband earned some salary, and he sides had married again and supported his wife and mother. Phillippi v. Phillippi [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 529. The fact that the husband remarries and offers to take the custody of children is no defense to an application by his former wife, who had obtained the divorce, for an additional allowance for the support of the children. Ostheimer v. Ostheimer [Iowa] 101 N. W. 275.

made for the payment of alimony, though payment was to be in monthly instalments and none was due at the time of such dismissal.[34] In New York where final judgment fails to provide for support and maintenance of children, custody of whom has been awarded to the wife, and fails to reserve power to modify the order, the court has no power thereafter to modify its final decree by incorporating a provision as to support of children.[35] The same rule is applied in Missouri.[36]

The court has power to require the husband to pay the wife alimony for her support pending an appeal by her from a judgment of divorce.[37] Whether such alimony should be allowed in a particular case rests in the sound discretion of the trial court.[38] The denial of a motion for alimony pending an appeal made before the appeal was perfected is not res judicata precluding the granting of a renewed motion after perfection of the appeal.[39]

§ 4. Reasons for and against. Provisional allowances.[40]—The purpose of allowing alimony pendente lite is to enable the wife to live meantime and to employ counsel who can properly present her case.[41] The allowance of such alimony is largely discretionary,[42] the respective financial conditions of the parties[43] and the conduct of each[44] being usually the determining factors. Usually the allowance will be made, if the necessary facts be made to appear,[45] whether the wife be

34. Shepard v. Shepard, 90 N. Y. S. 982.

35. Salomon v. Salomon, 101 App. Div. 588, 92 N. Y. S. 184.

36. Where decree of divorce was entered, custody of child given mother, and a monthly allowance awarded, but no provision for maintenance of child was made, the award of alimony could not be increased on grounds connected with support of child. Phillippi v. Phillippi [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 529.

37. Gay v. Gay [Cal.] 79 P. 885. An interlocutory order granting alimony pendente lite may be made pending an appeal of the cause. Lawrence v. Lawrence [Ala.] 37 So. 379.

38. Evidence held to show appeal was taken in good faith and allowance of alimony held proper. Gay v. Gay [Cal.] 79 P. 885.

39. Gay v. Gay [Cal.] 79 P. 885.

40. See 3 C. L. 148.

41. Kowalsky v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 394, 78 P. 877. A woman placed in jail on her husband's complaint without means of support, is entitled to alimony pending a suit for divorce brought by him, and suit money in a suit brought by her. Harmon v. Harmon [Del. Super.] 58 A. 1042.

42. Allowance of alimony pendente lite discretionary. Lesh v. Lesh, 21 App. D. C. 475. Evidence being conflicting as to fault of wife, discretion of court held not abused by award of temporary alimony and attorneys' fees. Ray v. Ray, 120 Ga. 25, 47 S. E. 570. The awarding of alimony and fixing the amount thereof being matters resting in the trial court's discretion, orders relating thereto will not be disturbed on appeal in the absence of an abuse of discretion. Read v. Read [Utah] 78 P. 675.

Contra: The benefit conferred on the wife by the statute providing that the court must make an allowance for her support, pending divorce proceedings, out of the estate of the husband, suitable to his estate and the condition in life of the parties (Code 1896, § 1495), is a matter of right and not one within the court's discretion. Lawrence v. Lawrence [Ala.] 37 So. 379.

43. Temporary alimony and counsel fees proper where wife owned $700 in stocks, and husband admitted large income and ownership of much property. Kowalsky v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 394, 78 P. 877. Allowance of alimony and counsel fees against complainant proper where it appeared that he had real and personal property and was employed and earning a salary. Jones v. Jones, 111 Ill. App. 396. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 900, a wife who holds all her property under the will of a former husband, which gave it to the children in case she remarried, there being children living, is without means to pay costs of a divorce suit, and hence the husband is liable therefor, though the wife was at fault. McMakin v. McMakin [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1140. Application to have prior agreement between parties, providing for monthly payments for support of children, incorporated in judgment for divorce and alimony, denied because wife had property of her own and justice did not demand such action by the court. Salomon v. Salomon, 101 App. Div. 588, 92 N. Y. S. 184. Motion for temporary alimony and counsel fees in separation suit denied where wife had income for services and enough on hand to pay expenses, and her services, or income therefrom, belonged to defendant, or had been given her by him. Richardson v. Richardson, 94 N. Y. S. 582.

44. Alimony pendente lite and counsel fees not granted where complainant's financial condition was better than defendant's, and evidence tended to show complainant guilty of conduct justifying husband in living apart. Steller v. Steller, 115 Ill. App. 323.

45. Finding of facts held sufficient under Code, § 1291, to warrant allowance of alimony pendente lite and attorney's fees to wife seeking divorce. Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733.

plaintiff or defendant.[46] Alimony may be granted for the payment of past expenses if such payment is necessary to enable the wife to further prosecute or defend her case.[47] The spouses must be living separately during the pendency of the suit for divorce in order to warrant alimony pendente lite.[48] But where suit has been instituted by the wife in good faith, a subsequent reconciliation with her husband and resumption of cohabitation is no bar to an allowance of fees for the attorney's services already rendered.[49] It is held in some states that the merits of the case will not be considered on an application for temporary alimony[50] further than is necessary to determine that the wife is proceeding in good faith, and not for the mere purpose of obtaining money from the husband.[51] But if the answer denies that there ever was a marriage, and that averment appears to be true, no alimony should be allowed.[52]

Permanent allowances.[53]—A court should not decree permanent alimony to a wife living separate and apart from her husband, in the absence of facts showing an obligation of the husband to support her under those conditions.[54] That separation was induced by insanity of the husband is not a defense to a claim for alimony, the wife not being at fault.[55] Refusal of the wife to return to the husband is no bar to her claim for alimony if the causes justifying the original separation remain.[56] Wrongdoing of the wife is a defense against her claim.[57]

§ 5. Amount, character and duration.[58]—The amount to be allowed rests in the sound discretion of the court;[59] the husband's means and ability to earn,[60]

46. In a suit for divorce and alimony, or for alimony alone, the court may order an allowance to the wife to insure her an efficient preparation of her case, whether she be defendant or plaintiff. Day v. Day [Kan.] 80 P. 974.

47. Though an order for $300, and $100 monthly, recited that the first sum was for previous unpaid instalments under a former order, held, this was only a reason, and the amount could be regarded as an award for present and past expenses. Gay v. Gay [Cal.] 79 P. 885.

48. Where wife returned to husband a month after filing motion for alimony and thereafter lived with him, she was not entitled to alimony. Fullhart v. Fullhart [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 541.

49. Fullhart v. Fullhart [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 541.

50. It is the general rule that alimony pendente lite will be granted without inquiry into the merits. Reed v. Reed [Miss.] 37 So. 642.

51. In action for divorce for cruelty, fact that husband offered use of home to wife pending action was immaterial on application for temporary alimony, since it involved merits. Kolwalsky v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 394, 78 P. 877.

52. Defendant could show in defense to application for alimony that at time of alleged marriage defendant was the undivorced wife of another. Reed v. Reed [Miss.] 37 So. 642.

53. See 3 C. L. 149.

54. Order for permanent alimony unwarranted where parties lived apart but there was no finding of desertion by the husband or offer by the wife to live with him. Volkmar v. Volkmar [Cal.] 81 P. 413.

55. Moseley v. Larson [Miss.] 38 So. 234.

56. Where jealousy of husband causing him to doubt and dishonor his wife was cause for which divorce was granted, the fact that she refused to return to him, though he was willing she should, was not cause for refusing alimony, his conduct and belief being unchanged. Thompson v. Thompson [Ky.] 85 S. W. 730.

57. Error to award alimony to plaintiff wife, when she was at fault, and husband had only enough to support himself and was in frail health. Smith v. Smith [Ky.] 86 S. W. 678. Alimony refused wife where she was proved guilty of adultery. Dollins v. Dollins, 26 Ky. L. R. 1036, 83 S. W. 95.

58. See 3 C. L. 150.

59. Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733. Award of alimony held clearly excessive. Kimbro v. Kimbro [Neb.] 102 N. W. 271. $500 alimony to wife, in suit where husband was given divorce for desertion, held not excessive. Metcalf v. Metcalf [Neb.] 102 N. W. 79.

60. $1,000 held reasonable alimony where husband had farm and personalty and would inherit considerable property and wife had nothing. Thompson v. Thompson [Ky.] 85 S. W. 730. Evidence being conflicting as to income, $8 a week alimony and $25 counsel fees, held proper in separation suit by wife. Dushinsky v. Dushinsky, 94 N. Y. S. 638. Where evidence tending to show earnings of $50 a week was unsatisfactory and husband denied that he earned more than $20 a week, allowance of $12 per week, with leave to apply for more on new papers, held proper. Weigand v. Weigand, 92 N. Y. S. 679. Allowance of $50 for counsel fees in suit for separation not disturbed on appeal, it appearing that husband denied that his income exceeded $20 per week. Id. Income of wife being uncertain and inade-

the wife's lack of means and station in life,[61] the children to be supported,[62] and the source of the property owned by the parties[63] being among the considerations by which the court will be guided. Upon division of the property, one-third is ordinarily held a liberal allowance to the wife in the absence of special circumstances;[64] but under the Washington statute, the awarding of all the community property to one of the parties is authorized.[65] A claim of the husband for personal injuries sustained after separation from his wife is community property, one-half of which may be set aside for the wife on her obtaining a divorce.[66]

§ 6. Procedure and practice.[67]—Notice of application for alimony pendente lite is not necessary where the husband has left the state for the purpose of defeating the wife's claim.[68] It is not necessary to make proof of the value of services of counsel where an allowance is made at the close of the trial, since the court may determine the matter from its own experience and the circumstances as disclosed by the record.[69] It is not necessarily error to dismiss a bill, leaving stand until further order an order for alimony.[70] The committee of a lunatic defendant must be made a party to proceedings to fix alimony or adjust property rights.[71] Where permanent alimony allowed an insane party is insufficient owing to the negligence of the defendant's guardian ad litem, who was appointed to make proof of complainant's property on complainant's nomination, a rehearing should be granted.[72] Where the parties agreed upon a sum payable in lieu of the amount awarded, and thereafter a reference was ordered to determine defendant's ability to pay, the court would not pass upon question whether defendant was guilty of contempt pending the reference.[73] A receiver appointed under the New York statute to take charge of the husband's personalty on his refusal to comply with a decree for alimony may properly be required to give bond.[74] An order granting quate, and husband's income $250 or $300 per month, allmony of $70 per month held not excessive. Read v. Read [Utah] 78 P. 675. Where husband's income consisting of salary, rents, and legal interest on investments amounted to $2925, one-third that amount, $23 per week, was held reasonable alimony, defendant being credited with $8 for rental of premises occcupied by plaintiff. Bennett v. Bennett [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 245. Alimony allowance of $1,300 per year not disturbed where it appeared that husband had income of $4,000. Edgar v. Edgar, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 220.

61. Read v. Read [Utah] 78 P. 675.

62. Where wife was given custody of 4 minor children, and it appeared she had assisted in accumulating property, a life estate in half the realty and half the personalty absolutely was held not excessive alimony. Crabtree v. Crabtree [Ky.] 85 S. W. 211. In suit by wife, allowance of rents of $45 per month as alimony held reasonable, she having two children, and the husband having taken with him on separation certain property. Baker v. Baker [Ky.] 85 S. W. 729. Husband's property being worth $75,000 and wife being awarded custody of two minor children, award of $6,500 to defendant wife for their support held justified, and made a lien on plaintiff's property. Taylor v. Taylor [Or.] 81 P. 367.

63. Where wife contributed to partnership business, allowance to her of what she contributed and one-half remainder of assets held proper. Heyman v. Heyman, 110 Ill. App. 87.

64. Where wife was capable, intelligent and in good health, and husband was broken down, addicted to drink, and in poor health, and there were no children, an allowance of more than 1-3 to wife was excessive. Edleman v. Edleman [Wis.] 104 N. W. 56.

65. Where there were no children, and husband had deserted wife and failed to support her, award of all the property amounting to $2300 above incumbrances to the wife was held proper under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5723. Miller v. Miller [Wash.] 80 P. 816.

66. Ligon v. Ligon [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 838.

67. See 3 C. L. 152.

68. Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733.

69. Cochran v. Cochran, 93 Minn. 284, 101 N. W. 179.

70. Kozacek v. Kozacek, 105 Ill. App. 180.

71. Frazer v. Frazer, 25 Ky. L. R. 882, 76 S. W. 546.

72. Frieseke v. Frieseke [Mich.] 101 N. W. 632.

73. Goodsell v. Goodsell, 94 App. Div. 443, 88 N. Y. S. 161.

74. Failure to require bond would not excuse husband for refusal to turn over property, and judgment committing him for contempt was therefore proper. In re Spies, 92 App. Div. 175, 86 N. Y. S. 1043.

alimony pendente lite is appealable in some states,[75] but not in others.[76] A refusal to grant permanent alimony is reviewable on appeal in Kentucky, though the court's action in granting a divorce may not be reviewed.[77]

§ 7. The decree;[78] its enforcement and discharge.[79]—An order directing counsel fees to be paid "to the plaintiff or to her counsel" is inaccurate, but not so irregular as to warrant interference by the appellate court.[80] In an action for divorce and alimony, the court has power to order that the plaintiff retain possession of personal property belonging to the husband until the alimony allowed should be paid;[81] and where a judgment so provides, that part of it which further provides for a specific lien on such personal property may be regarded as immaterial and surplusage.[82] A decree for alimony does not become dormant by failure to issue execution thereon for more than five years.[83] An appeal from a judgment allowing a pension does not suspend the effect of a judgment for alimony before a final decision in the divorce case. If pension be decreed in the final judgment for divorce, it will then succeed the decree for alimony.[84]

Consent decrees; contracts.—A decree for alimony is entered by consent if valid; but if the consent is obtained by coercion or fraud, a court of equity has power to purge the decree of the fraud.[85] One who consents to a decree obligating him to pay certain rents to his divorced wife is bound by the decree though the 75. Barker v. Barker, 136 N. C. 316, 48 S. E. 733. Order for alimony pendente lite and counsel fees is appealable without special leave, under Code D. C. § 226. Lesh v. Lesh, 21 App. D. C. 475.

76. Interlocutory decree allowing alimony pendente lite is not appealable. Lawrence v. Lawrence [Ala.] 37 So. 379.

77. Refusal of circuit judge to grant alimony is reviewable on appeal, though action in granting divorce is not. Thompson v. Thompson [Ky.] 85 S. W. 730.

78. NOTE. Nature of decree for alimony: The decisions of the courts are not entirely uniform as to the nature or status of a decree or judgment for alimony. Probably the majority of the courts regard a judgment for alimony as a debt of record in the same manner as any other judgment for money (Conrad v. Everich, 50 Ohio St. 476, 35 N. E. 58, 40 Am. St. Rep. 679; Trowbridge v. Spinning, 23 Wash. 48, 62 P. 125, 83 Am. St. Rep. 817, 54 L. R. A. 204). In Wetmore v. Wetmore, 149 N. Y. 520, 44 N. E. 169, 52 Am. St. Rep. 752, 33 L. R. A. 708, it was held that a judgment for alimony in favor of a woman makes her a judgment creditor of her former husband, and as such she is entitled to avail herself of all the remedies given by the statute to judgment creditors. It bas frequently been held that a decree for alimony has the same force and effect as a judgment at law. Coulter v. Lumpkin, 94 Ga. 225, 21 S. E. 461; Sapp v. Wightman, 103 Ill. 150; Frakes v. Brown, 2 Blackf. [Ind.] 295; Tyler v. Tyler, 99 Ky. 31, 34 S. W. 898; Dufrene v. Johnson, 60 Neb. 18, 82 N. W. 107. Though a decree of divorce is regarded as a judgment in rem rather than in personam, still in so far as it decrees alimony and costs, it is regarded as in personam. See the monographic note to De La Montanya v. De La Montanya [Cal.] 53 Am. St. Rep. 182-184. In Kunze v. Kunze, 94 Wis. 54, 68 S. W. 391, 59 Am. St. Rep. 857, it was said that if a decree awarding alimony has the effect of a judgment at law in the state wherein it was entered, an action at law may be maintained on it in another state. Because of the fact that a decree for alimony is often allowed to be subsequently modified on account of changed circumstances, it is sometimes urged that such decrees are not final judgments. Thus it has been held that an alimony decree is not such a debt which can be discharged in bankruptcy. Barclay v. Barclay, 184 Ill. 375, 56 N. E. 636, 51 L. R. A. 351; Welty v. Welty, 195 Ill. 385, 63 N. E. 161, 88 Am. St. Rep. 208; Audubon v. Shufeldt, 181 U. S. 575, 45 Law. Ed. 1009. But the contrary was held in Arrington v. Arrington, 131 N. C. 143, 42 S. E. 554, 92 Am. St. Rep. 769. The courts have also quite frequently held that a decree for alimony is not a debt within the meaning of the constitutional provision, prohibiting imprisonment for debt. In re Popejoy, 26 Colo. 32, 55 P. 1083, 77 Am. St. Rep. 222; Barclay v. Barclay, 184 Ill. 375, 56 N. E. 636, 51 L. R. A. 351; State v. King, 49 La. Ann. 1503, 22 So. 887; In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213, 66 P. 425, 90 Am. St. Rep. 736. In Lynde v. Lynde, 162 N. Y. 405, 56 N. E. 979, 76 Am. St. Rep. 332, 48 L. R. A. 679, it was held that a foreign decree for the future payment of alimony which remains subject to the discretion of the foreign court lacks that conclusiveness of character requisite for enforcement by the courts of another state.—See note to Harding v. Harding (16 S. Dak. 406, 92 N. W. 1080) in 102 Am. St. Rep. 702.

79. See 3 C. L. 153.

80. Kowalsky v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 394, 78 P. 877.

81, 82. Conklin v. Conklin, 93 Minn. 188, 101 N. W. 70.

83. Lemert v. Lemert [Ohio] 74 N. E. 194.

84. State v. Judge of Civ. Dist. Ct. for Parish of Orleans, Division C [La.] 38 So. 14.

85. Griswold v. Griswold, 111 Ill. App. 269.

obligation assumed was not covered by the pleadings or prayer for relief.[86] Since a wife cannot be barred of her potential right of dower in the lands of her husband by a verbal contract, such a contract between the parties to a divorce suit, attempting to settle the question of alimony by obligating the husband to pay the wife a certain sum, is void as to the land, and hence void in toto.[87]

Enforcement.[87a]—The trial court has authority to compel obedience to its orders granting alimony pending an appeal of the case.[88] An allowance of alimony is a judgment for debt,[89] and an action of debt will lie on a decree in equity for the payment of alimony rendered by a chancery court of another state.[90] Such action will lie though the sum adjudged is not a single, stated amount, but an accruing allowance, the decree being enforceable to the amount accrued at the time the action is brought.[91] The statutory powers of a chancellor to enforce a decree for alimony are not affected by a previous agreement, unsanctioned by the chancellor.[92] Where such agreement is not embodied in the decree and is inequitable, it is no defense to a proceeding to show cause for nonpayment of alimony under the decree.[93] In New York execution cannot issue on an order for support of the wife and care and maintenance of the children, pending a suit for separation or divorce.[94] Since an execution is not authorized, supplementary proceedings are also without authority.[95]

Failure of a divorced husband to comply with a decree directing the payment of alimony is prima facie evidence of contempt,[96] and if he seeks to show that the cause of such failure to pay is his inability to do so, the burden is upon him to establish that fact.[97] He must show with reasonable certainty the amount of money he has received, and that this money has been used in paying obligations and expenses, which, under the law, he should pay before making payments on the decree for alimony.[98] The court may discharge one committed for contempt on a showing of actual inability to comply with the decree.[99] That one entitled to alimony under a decree receives assistance from others does not affect the liability of the one against whom the decree is rendered.[1] It is the duty of one ordered to pay alimony, who is unable to comply with the order of the court, to protect himself by applying for a revocation or modification of the decree.[2] Though an allowance is for the wife's maintenance from year to year, the court will enforce payment, by commitment for contempt, for a period greater than one year.[3] A proper demand for payment of alimony is not a prerequisite to a commitment for contempt for failure to pay, when defendant has had an opportunity to pay, notice having been served upon him that contempt proceedings would be

86. Connellee v. Werenskiold [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 747.

87. Shemwell v. Carper's Adm'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 771.

87a. See 3 C. L. 153.

88. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Court [Mont.] 79 P. 13.

89. By Pub. Laws 1902, c. 971, § 5, suits may be brought or executions issued on an allowance for amounts from time to time due and unpaid. Wagner v. Wagner [R. I.] 57 A. 1058.

90, 91. Wagner v. Wagner [R. I.] 57 A. 1058.

92, 93. Silberschmidt v. Silberschmidt, 112 Ill. App. 58.

94. Such order is enforceable by sequestration or contempt proceedings under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1772, 1773. Weber v. Weber, 93 App. Div. 149, 87 N. Y. S. 519.

95. Code Civ. Proc. § 2435, relative to supplementary proceedings, inapplicable. Weber v. Weber, 93 App. Div. 149, 87 N. Y. S. 519.

96, 97. Shaffner v. Shaffner, 212 Ill. 492, 72 N. E. 447.

98. Showing by attorney as to income and living expenses of himself and family held insufficient. Shaffner v. Shaffner, 212 Ill. 492, 72 N. E. 447.

99. Decree for support. Perry v. Pernet [Ind.] 74 N. E. 609.

1. Shaffner v. Shaffner, 212 Ill. 492, 72 N. E. 447.

2. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Court [Mont.] 79 P. 13.

3. Shaffner v. Shaffner, 212 Ill. 492, 72 N. E. 447.

instituted on a certain day.[4] An order adjudging a husband in contempt for refusal to pay alimony should not include the costs of the divorce proceeding.[5]

Property fraudulently transferred by defendant in a divorce suit is subject to claims for alimony in the hands of the transferee;[6] and where the transferee executes a mortgage securing the payment of alimony he is not a mere surety, but as to the mortgage stands in the shoes of the transferror.[7] Money in the hands of an administrator belonging to an heir against whom an award of alimony has been made can be reached by the wife in whose favor the decree for alimony was rendered only by garnishment.[8]

Discharge.—A decree for alimony not being a claim provable in bankruptcy, it is not discharged by a final discharge in bankruptcy.[9]

§ 8. Suits for annulment and actions for separate maintenance.[10]—Where both husband and wife reside outside the state, the court has no jurisdiction of suit for support brought by wife.[11] A wife may apply for separate maintenance, though she has previously entered into a contract with her husband by which he agrees to support her in a state of separation.[12] A judgment for defendant in a suit by the wife for divorce and alimony on the grounds of cruelty and drunkenness is not a bar to a suit for separate support on the ground of desertion and failure to provide because of habitual drunkenness.[13] In a suit by wife for support under the New Jersey statute, it is proper to require of her a bond for costs.[14] Since the Rhode Island statute denominates a suit for the setting aside of a void marriage a proceeding for divorce, a woman petitioning for such relief may be granted allowances for temporary support, counsel fees and expenses.[15] The supreme court of the District of Columbia has power to grant alimony pendente lite and counsel fees in a suit by the wife for support and maintenance.[16] Counsel fees may be awarded in New York in a suit by the wife for annulment of the marriage.[17] In suits for maintenance and support under the California statute, a periodical allowance should be awarded, rather than a lump sum, in the absence of special circumstances.[18] In a suit for separate maintenance in Indiana, the court may order the payment of a weekly allowance instead of a gross sum,[19] and may authorize the wife to lease or mortgage the husband's realty and apply the proceeds on the decree for alimony.[20] Where in an action for maintenance a wife obtained a decree for a monthly allowance, and thereafter the husband procured a divorce and a discontinuance of the payments at a certain date, but a new trial was granted in the divorce case, the decree for the monthly allowance was enforceable according to its original terms.[21] Hence the allowance of

4. Noncompliance with the decree must in such case be regarded as willful. Shaffner v. Shaffner, 212 Ill. 492, 72 N. E. 447.

5. Shepard v. Shepard, 90 N. Y. S. 982.

6, 7. Wilson v. Hinman, 90 N. Y. S. 746.

8. Clifford v. Gridley, 113 Ill. App. 164.

9. Lemert v. Lemert [Ohio] 74 N. E. 194.

Note: As to effect of second marriage upon obligation to pay alimony, see collection of authorities in note to Brown v. Brown [31 Wash. 397] 62 L. R. A. 974.

10. See 3 C. L. 154.

11. Dithmar v. Dithmar [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 644.

12. Patterson v. Patterson, 111 Ill. App. 342.

13. Smith v. Smith [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1008.

14. Dithmar v. Dithmar [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 644.

15. Construing Gen. Laws 1896, c. 195, § 1, and Pub. Laws 1902, c. 971, § 5, in a case where woman petitioned for divorce, husband having been previously married. Leckney v. Leckney [R. I.] 59 A. 311.

16. Its inherent right to do so not divested by Code D. C. § 980. Lesh v. Lesh, 21 App. D. C. 475.

17. In suit to annul marriage for impotency of husband, court has power to allow wife counsel fees pendente lite. Gore v. Gore, 92 N. Y. S. 634; afg. 44 Misc. 323, 89 N. Y. S. 902.

18. Construing Civ. Code, § 137. Kusel v. Kusel [Cal.] 81 P. 295.

19. Smith v. Smith [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1008.

20. By express provisions of Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6980. Smith v. Smith [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1008.

21, 22. Smith v. Smith [Cal.] 81 P. 411.

alimony to the wife in the suit for divorce by the husband is improper.[22] Under a general denial to a complaint for separate support on the ground of desertion and failure to provide because of drunkenness, defendant may put in proof denying drunkenness, desertion and mistreatment, and may prove that plaintiff lived apart from defendant of her own will and did not offer to return nor ask for money.[23] A general allegation of desertion admits proof that the desertion was without cause.[24]

ALTERATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

§ 1. Definition, distinctions, and what constitutes.[25]—An alteration which makes an instrument speak a language different in legal effect from that which it originally spoke is material, and when made by one not a stranger to the paper, it is sufficient to avoid the contract as to all parties not consenting thereto;[26] but this does not apply where the party has the power to annul the provision attempted to be altered, irrespective of whether he is consciously and intentionally making such alteration.[27] It is not every alteration of an instrument that will defeat recovery thereon. It must be such an alteration as will materially change the contract of the parties.[28] A mere attempted alteration is not sufficient.[29]

§ 2. Particular instruments.[30]—Changes in a negotiable promissory note after delivery which alter the time of payment,[31] place of payment, when none is stated,[32] specie of payment,[33] amount and name of payee,[34] cutting a note from a

23, 24. Smith v. Smith [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1008.

25. See 3 C. L. 154.

26. As adding to a promissory note a place of payment, which imports negotiability, whereas, under statute, without words designating place of payment, would not have been negotiable, is a material alteration. Carroll v. Warren [Ala.] 37 So. 687; Bedgood-Howell Co. v. Moore [Ga.] 51 S. E. 420. An alteration of a check by the holder, consisting in a change of the name of the bank on which it is drawn, is a material alteration. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36. A material alteration of a contract is a destruction of a provision thereof and an attempt to foist a new provision on the other party. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866. Erasure of the word "trustee" in a deed by the grantee. Flitcraft v. Commonwealth Title Ins. & Trust Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 557. Insertion after execution in a building contract, the time for completion is a fraudulent alteration. Bolter v. Kozlowski, 211 Ill. 79, 71 N. E. 858. Addition of an unnecessary certificate of acknowledgment is not material. Canfield v. Orange [N. D.] 102 N. W. 313.

27. Provision that engineer of railroad might annul one portion of a construction contract without releasing contractor as to others. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866.

28. Note was executed at Lyons, Kan., and payable at Marshalltown, Iowa; the words "with exchange" were printed in the note; before it was executed the maker erased these words, but after its delivery the payee without knowledge or consent of the maker rewrote the words "with exchange." This was not a material alteration. First Nat. Bank v. Nordstrom [Kan.] 78 P. 804.

29. As where defendant without the knowledge or consent of plaintiff made an attempted erasure by drawing a pen and ink mark through the words "one hundred and eighty dollars, cash, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged to Davis & Co." in a building contract, after the failure and refusal of plaintiff to pay the first instalment of $180. Sullivan v. California Realty Co., 142 Cal. 201, 75 P. 767.

30. See 3 C. L. 155. Effect of alteration in deed, see Tiffany, Real Prop. 880.

31. In an action on a note it was apparent that its date had been changed, and that it had been so altered as to become payable after maker's death, instead of one year after date. Bowers v. Rineard, 209 Pa. 545, 58 A. 912.

32. Carroll v. Warren [Ala.] 37 So. 687.

33. Inserting the word "gold" before dollars in a promissory note is a material alteration. Colby v. Foxworthy [Neb.] 100 N. W. 798.

34. Where the amount in note was changed from $700 to $765, and name of payee from John M. Fudge to Lewis N. Martin. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565.

memorandum, limiting its effect as a negotiable instrument,[35] are material alterations. Insertion in building contract, after execution, the time for completion of contract,[36] or the change of name of the bank on which a check is drawn,[37] or the erasure of the word "trustee" in a deed, are material alterations.[38]

§ 3. Effect of material alteration; rights of parties.[39]—A material alteration avoids the instrument because, as altered, it no longer represents the agreement among the parties.[40] In general, the other party is released thereby,[41] but parties may be estopped from asserting a material alteration in a written instrument by their conduct.[42] Alterations may be impliedly authorized.[43] Where an instrument has been materially altered and is in the hands of a holder in due course, not a party to the alteration, he may enforce payment thereof according to its original tenor.[44] Mere negligence, however gross, is not sufficient to deprive a party of the character of a bona fide holder; proof of bad faith is essential.[45]

35. A school order for articles for school use was signed by the officers of the district, and recited "Issued by authority of officers of said district and payment guaranteed by them." Beneath the order was a printed certificate by the payee that it had received from the school district an official voucher, containing a recital that the matter was to be left to a vote of the district at an annual meeting, but the matter below the signature was detached, and the order with it detached, was transferred. This removal of the lower portion of the instrument was a material alteration. First Nat. Bank v. Carter [Mich.] 101 N. W. 585.

36. Bolter v. Kozlowski, 211 Ill. 79, 71 N. E. 858.

37. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36.

38. Flitcraft v. Com. Title Ins. & Trust Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 557.

39. See 3 C. L. 156.

40. Alteration in a note so as to make it payable after maker's death, instead of one year after date, is a material alteration and no recovery can be had thereon. Bowers v. Rineard, 209 Pa. 545, 58 A. 912. Where property was conveyed to a grantee as trustee, and such language appeared in the deed, subsequent erasure of the word "trustee" by the grantee was a forgery, rendering the deed void. Flitcraft v. Com. Title Ins. & Trust Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 557. Where brokers, without the consent of their customer, altered a written contract so as to give them a greater commission, the alteration rendered the entire contract void. Harrison v. Lakenan [Mo.] 88 S. W. 53.

41. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 866.

42. The written contract between plaintiff and defendant for the construction of a building cast upon the latter the duty of procuring the insurance upon the building during construction. The insurance was to be for their joint benefit. By the acts and statements of plaintiff they were to procure the insurance, which they failed to do. They were estopped from complaining that the defendant had not procured the same. Fransen v. Regents of Education of South Dakota [C. C. A.] 133 F. 24. In a contract for the sale of real estate a clause relating to incumbrance provided "that the north walls of the buildings on the above described premises" encroached on the street. One of the counterparts was delivered to the intending purchaser for execution, who in exchange for counterpart signed by the landowner delivered the one left with him for signature with the letter "s" erased from the words "walls" and "buildings," which fact he concealed. Webster Realty Co. v. Thomas, 46 Misc. 139, 93 N. Y. S. 1077.

43. In an action on bonds, one of the defendants claimed an alteration in the bonds, after delivery, by inserting the name of a certain person as obligor. The bonds were given for land sold to the obligors and that after the sale the defendant in question sold part of his interest to the one whose name had been added to the bond. The obligee testified that shortly after they were delivered to him the obligors told him they wanted them back to get some other parties who had come into the deal to sign them, and that the bonds were given back to one of the obligors, and afterwards again delivered to the obligee. Rocky Mount Loan & Trust Co. v. Price [Va.] 49 S. E. 73.

44. This is a statutory provision in some states. Rev. Laws, c. 73, § 141. Massachusetts Nat. Bank v. Snow [Mass.] 72 N. E. 959. Where blank spaces in a promissory note in the hands of an innocent holder had been filled out by inserting the rate and date of interest and place of payment. Humphrey Hardware Co. v. Herrick [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1016.

45. Merritt v. Dewey, 115 Ill. App. 503. The alteration of a written contract by a stranger without the privity or consent of the parties interested will not avoid the contract where the contents of same can be ascertained. Colby v. Foxworthy [Neb.] 100 N. W. 798. Where it was claimed that note in suit had been changed since signing, by means of which it had been made to read fifteen hundred dollars, whereas when signed the note read one hundred dollars, or "hundred dollars." Merritt v. Dewey, 115 Ill. App. 503. Defendant purchased an automobile on which there was a chattel mortgage. The mortgage had been altered after execution but by whom or under what circumstances was not disclosed. Defendant was not thereby divested of title to the automobile. Stearns v. Oberle, 94 N. Y. S. 37.

§ 4. Pleading and evidence.[46]—A fraudulent alteration of the note sued upon may be shown under the general issue.[47] The answer must allege that the material alteration was made after the execution of the note, which includes both signing and delivery.[48] The burden of proof of a defense of subsequent material alteration of an instrument is held in some states to be on the party asserting it, though the decisions are conflicting.[49] The party claiming an alteration in an instrument is only bound to establish it by a preponderance of the evidence.[50] If, however, there are suspicious circumstances apparent on the face of the instrument, the burden of proof rests upon the party producing it to account satisfactorily for any interlineation which operates a substantial change in the effect of such instrument.[51] Evidence of alteration of an instrument is not admissible until proper foundation therefor has been laid,[52] nor can rate of interest be fixed by a note which has been destroyed by alteration.[53] The fact that an erasure, which does not vary or alter the effect of a negotiable instrument, appears on its face, does not render it inadmissible in evidence.[54]

§ 5. Curing or ratifying alterations.[55]

AMBASSADORS AND CONSULS.[56]

Treaties conferring consular jurisdiction are to be reasonably but not liber-

46. See 3 C. L. 157.

47. Gandy v. Bissell's Estate [Neb.] 100 N. W. 803. A general plea of non est factum will authorize the party interposing it to prove that after the execution of the instrument in question it was altered without his consent. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565.

48. In an action on a note, an answer admitting that defendant "signed" the note sued on, but averring that thereafter, without his knowledge or consent, the note was materially altered, is insufficient as a statement of defense, as the averment of signature is not equivalent to an allegation of execution, as defendant may have consented to the alteration after signature but before delivery. Bowen v. Woodfield, 33 Ind. App. 687, 72 N. E. 162.

49. Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565. Evidence not sufficient to establish the defense of alteration by a change in the rate of interest from 7 to 8 per cent. Mathews v. De Werff [Ark.] 83 S. W. 327. The evidence of a party that he does not remember that it contained any provision for a commission, though he read it before signing, is not sufficient to overthrow the plain terms of a contract. Busby v. Compton [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 109.

Note: The civil-law rule is that alterations in the substantial part of an instrument are presumed to be false and must be accounted for. 4 Mascard Conc. 1261, n. 1-24; Pipes v. Hardesty, 9 La. Ann. 152. In England, such alterations, in the absence of suspicious circumstances, are presumed to have been made contemporaneously with the instrument's execution. Greenleaf on Evidence, § 564. The American decisions seem for the most part to conform to the civil-law rule. Smith v. U. S., 69 U. S. 219, 17 Law. Ed. 788; Jackson v. Osborn, 2 Wend. [N. Y.] 555. Policy would demand that such a principle be applied to negotiable paper. Ely v. Ely, 6 Grav [Mass.] 439; Kennedy v. Moore, 17 S. C. 464. Other American courts presume that the change was made with authority. Hagan v. Ins. Co., 81 Iowa, 321. Since it is hard to say that there is such a uniform experience in such cases as to give rise to a presumption, the better rule seems to be that the time of such alteration should be found by the jury as are ordinary facts in the absence of the presumption. Robinson v. Myers, 67 Pa. 9. In the principal case the suspicious circumstances were such evidence that the alterations were made subsequently as to justify the result in any event. —4 Columbia L. R. 601.

50. Gaskins v. Allen [N. C.] 49 S. E. 919.

51. Messi v. Frechede, 113 La. 679, 37 So. 600. Where, in an action for broker's commissions, plaintiff admitted that he altered the contract of sale, the burden of proof that such alteration was not fraudulent was on him. Robertson v. Vasey [Iowa] 101 N. W. 271.

52. So evidence that an instrument has been altered is inadmissible unless it be shown that the alteration was made after its execution and delivery, as it is presumed that any change made after instrument is drawn was made before execution. Deed of a city lot had been altered by addition in different ink, of the words in the description "100 ft. deep." Gunkel v. Seiberth [Ky.] 85 S. W. 733.

53. A mortgage note providing for ten per cent. interest was changed by an endorsement by the holder so as to draw 8 per cent., and this endorsement was thereafter erased by him annulling the note. There being no rate mentioned in the mortgage, the interest was fixed by Statute. Edwards v. Sartor [S. C.] 48 S. E. 537.

54. Where there was objection to the introduction of the note in evidence because the words "at the rate of eight per cent. per annum" appeared on its face to have been erased. Execution of the note having been admitted. Brown v. Fledwert [Or.] 80 P. 414.

55. See 3 C. L. 158.

56. See 3 C. L. 158.

ally construed.[57] The power of consuls given jurisdiction over the internal order of vessels of their nations, to require the arrest of seamen, is limited to requiring a United States marshal, through requisition presented to his court or judge, to make the arrest.[58] An arrest made by a state officer is a mere irregularity, when being brought on habeas corpus to the court, which on proper requisition would have ordered a marshal to make the arrest it is found that a ground for consular jurisdiction exists.[59] United States consuls are usually authorized to take and conclusively certify acknowledgments made abroad.[60] The consul of a nation may be authorized by our courts to receive a nonresident alien's distributable share of an estate for transmission.[61] A consul will be presumed to have acted within his jurisdiction, though he does not so state.[62]

AMBIGUITY; AMENDMENTS, see latest topical index.

AMICUS CURIAE.

A court has power to hear persons appearing as amici curiae and to receive their evidence in aid of the exercise of the court's discretion and to advise the court of the real facts of the case.[63] An amicus curiae has no power to represent a party in giving a notice of appeal.[64]

AMOTION; AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY; ANCIENT DOCUMENTS, see latest topical index.

ANIMALS.

§ 1. Property in animals.[65]—The modern rule is that a dog is a species of property recognized by law,[66] and may not be killed except for just cause.[67] The death of a domestic animal does not terminate the owner's property in it.[68] He may be required to dispose of the carcass, but he cannot be arbitrarily deprived of his property in it,[69] and he must be allowed a reasonable time within which to remove it.[70]

§ 2. Personal injuries inflicted by animals.[71]—The keeper[72] or owner[73] of 57. Contract with American citizen held void because of payment in advance, hence he never came within jurisdiction of consul of ship's nation. The Neck, 138 F. 144.

58. The Act of Congress June 11, 1864 (Rev. St. U. S. §§ 4079-4081; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2766) impliedly excludes state officers from exercising such power; otherwise they might do so. Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

59. Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

60. Werner v. Marx, 113 La. 1002, 37 So. 905; Long v. Powell, 120 Ga. 621, 48 S. E. 185.

61. In re Davenport, 43 Misc. 573, 89 N. Y. S. 537.

62. Pierce v. Martin, 89 N. Y. S. 434.

63. As where a proceeding is claimed to be collusive. Sampson v. Commissioners of Highways, 115 Ill. App. 443.

64. One who was not connected with a railway company in any way could not give notice of an appeal from a judgment against it. Southern R. Co. v. Locke [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1069.

65. See 3 C. L. 159.

66. His owner may maintain an action for an injury to him. Moore v. Charlotte Elec. R., Light & Power Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822. In an action involving the ownership of a dog, evidence held insufficient to show that it belonged to plaintiff. Ross v. Healy, 90 N. Y. S. 391.

67. Reed v. Goldneck [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1104.

68. Mann v. District of Columbia, 22 App. D. C. 139.

69. Mann v. District of Columbia, 22 App. D. C. 139. Art. 14, § 9 of the police regulations, requiring the carcasses of dead animals to be removed to a place to be approved by the commissioners, has no extra-territorial effect. Id.

70. Mann v. District of Columbia, 22 App. D. C. 139.

71. See 3 C. L. 159.

a domestic animal is liable for personal injuries inflicted by it only when he has notice of its vicious traits[74] or is negligent.[75] The notice must be actual,[76] but circumstances often render the question one of fact.[77] But one who undertakes to keep animals ferae naturae in a place of public resort is liable for injuries inflicted on a person who is not negligent,[78] unless the keeping of such animals is his lawful duty and obligation.[79] One guilty of contributory negligence[80] or who wantonly irritates an animal cannot recover for injuries resulting.[81] One seeking to recover for an injury by a domestic animal must allege[82] and prove the scienter,[83] and also that the animal possessed a particularly dangerous habit which caused the injury;[84] but a complaint under a remedial statute need not mention the statute,[85] nor allege scienter or facts dispensing with the necessity of it.[86] Scienter may be proven by evidence of the reputation of the animal.[87] The reputation

Note: Bees are not ferae naturae and their keeper is not liable absolutely and at all events for injuries they may inflict. Earl v. Van Alstine, 8 Barb. [N. Y.] 630; Parsons v. Manser, 119 Iowa, 88, 93 N. W. 86, 97 Am. St. Rep. 283. But the owner must be held to a knowledge of their vicious propensities, and manage them accordingly with due regard to the rights of others. In placing the hives in any particular place, he must exercise ordinary prudence for the avoidance of unnecessary danger to those likely to make lawful use of the premises or highway near by. Tellier v. Pellant, 5 Rev. Leg. 61; O'Gorman v. O'Gorman, 2 Ir. K. B. Div. 573, 58 Cent. L. J. 283.

As a nuisance: The keeping of bees is not of itself a nuisance and whether it becomes so in any given case is a question to be determined judicially. Town of Arkadelphia v. Clark, 52 Ark. 23, 11 S. W. 957, 20 Am. St. Rep. 154; Olmstead v. Rich, 6 N. Y. S. 826.—From note to Parsons v. Manser [Iowa] 97 Am. St. Rep. 290. See, also, note to the same case, 62 L. R. A. 133.

72. The owner of premises on which a dog is kept by another with his permission is not necessarily the keeper of the dog. McCosker v. Weatherbee [Me.] 59 A. 1019.

73. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4949, an allegation that plaintiff was bitten by a dog belonging to defendant is sustained by proof that he belonged to a partnership of which defendant was a member. Grissom v. Hofius [Wash.] 80 P. 1002.

74. That an officer of a corporation that owned a dog said to a witness "Look out for the dog or it will bite you" is insufficient to show the owner's knowledge. Bogodonow v. New York Lumber & Storage Co., 91 N. Y. S. 331.

75. The owner of a horse which kicks a traveler on the street is not liable in the absence of negligence. Miller v. Atlantic Refining Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 306. A servant does not assume the risk of viciousness on the part of an animal furnished him by the master, unless he has knowledge of such viciousness. Hagen v. Ice Delivery Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 592.

76. Must have actual notice of the vicious traits of a dog. Fettman v. Hencken & Willenbrock Co., 91 N. Y. S. 773.

77. Evidence that a dog had bitten persons in the presence of his owner's watchman and had been prevented by the watchman from biting others, held to raise a question for the jury as to the owner's knowledge, actual or imputed. Grissom v. Hofius [Wash.] 80 P. 1002. On a prosecution for keeping a vicious dog, evidence of apparent attacks, though they may have been harmless gambols, when it shows a propensity to attack and bite, raises a question for the jury. Tubins v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 267.

78. Jackson v. Baker, 24 App. D. C. 100.

79. The keeper of the National Zoological Park is not liable in the absence of negligence. Jackson v. Baker, 24 App. D. C. 100.

80. Passed close to the heels of a horse on the sidewalk without speaking to him. Miller v. Atlantic Refining Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 306.

81. Interfered with a dog while he was eating. Feldman v. Sellig, 110 Ill. App. 130.

82. Ward v. Danzeizen, 111 Ill. App. 163. An allegation that the dog was accustomed to bite is insufficient. Must be alleged that it was accustomed to bite persons. Feldman v. Sellig, 110 Ill. App. 130.

83. Notice to the owner of the vicious traits of his dog must be proven. Feldman v. Sellig, 110 Ill. App. 130. Vicious traits of a horse. Ward v. Danzeizen, 111 Ill. App. 163. A servant injured by a horse, who seeks to recover on the ground that the horse was "wild, vicious and unruly" has the burden to prove such trait. Palmer v. Coyle, 187 Mass. 136, 72 N. E. 844. Testimony as to a complaint made to a policeman by a witness after seeing an attack made by a dog with a view to having the policeman communicate the matter to the owner which he did is admissible. Tubins v. District of Columbia, 21 App. D. C. 267. Proof of knowledge that the animal is fierce or dangerous is proof of scienter. Id.

84. That a horse was accustomed to kick. Ward v. Danzeizen, 111 Ill. App. 163.

85. Under Gen. St. 1902, § 4487, fixing the liability of the keeper for damages done by a dog. Leone v. Kelly [Conn.] 60 A. 136.

86. Leone v. Kelly [Conn.] 60 A. 136.

87. After the introduction of evidence tending to show the vicious traits, further evidence of his reputation is admissible to show his owner's knowledge of his qualities. That a horse was not driven single because of his vicious propensities. Palmer v. Coyle, 187 Mass. 136, 72 N. E. 844.

of an animal for viciousness may be shown by evidence of specific instances when it exhibited vicious traits;[88] but proof of the vicious character of a class of animals is not proof that a particular animal of that class is vicious.[89]

§ 3. Injuries to property by animals trespassing or running at large.[90]—One who does not know of the vicious traits of an animal he allows to run at large is not liable for an injury which is not the natural consequence to be anticipated from allowing an ordinary animal to run.[91] In many of the western states no trespass is committed unless cattle break through a fence[92] sufficient to turn cattle of ordinary disposition[93] under ordinary circumstances;[94] but an owner may not willfully drive his cattle on another's land,[95] and this rule does not apply to sheep or swine.[96] In some states failure of adjoining proprietors to maintain a division fence precludes a recovery;[97] but in Iowa the common-law rule applies as to adjoining owners without a partition fence.[98] An agreement with the holder of an invalid title to adjoining property to build a division fence does not preclude a recovery by the true owner,[99] and a coterminous owner who fails to keep up his portion of the division fence is liable if his cattle trespass as a result of his negligence.[1]

The right to recover is not affected because the injury is slight,[2] but one seeking to recover must prove damage,[3] and nominal damages may be recovered though no actual damage is sustained.[4] The measure of damage is the injury caused to the crops or freehold.[5]

Where several dogs belonging to respective owners injure cattle, each owner

88. A horse. Palmer v. Coyle, 187 Mass. 136, 72 N. E. 844.

89. A general statement by a dog dealer that bitches with pups are vicious is insufficient to establish vicious traits in a particular bitch. Cook v. Levintan, 94 N. Y. S. 396.

90. See 3 C. L. 160.

91. Killing of a goat by a mule. Harvey v. Buchanan, 121 Ga. 384, 49 S. E. 281.

92. Wilson v. Caffall [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 726. On conflicting testimony as to whether a fence is such as the law requires for a legal fence the question is for the jury. Peterson v. Lacey [Iowa] 102 N. W. 153.

93. Where breachy bulls broke through a fence sufficient to turn cattle of ordinary disposition and injured fattening steers, the owner was liable. Trammell v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 325. Where breachy bulls broke into a yard where there were fattening steers and injured them, expert testimony that the fence was sufficient to turn cattle of ordinary disposition is admissible. Id.

94. Evidence that a pasture was overcrowded and that the feed therein was poor raises a question for the jury where the cattle broke through a fence owned by the owner of the land on whose ground they trespassed. Peterson v. Lacey [Iowa] 102 N. W. 153.

95. Allegation that one has an estate in certain land and that on a certain date defendant drove a large band of sheep onto it and depastured it, states a cause of action. Minter v. Gose [Wyo.] 78 P. 948.

96. Rev. St. 1887, § 1320, does not require a landowner to fence against sheep or swine. Spencer v. Morgan [Idaho] 79 P. 459.

97. In Wisconsin, failure to maintain a division fence if practicable precludes the recovery of damages for a trespass by an adjoiner's cattle. Rev. St. 1898, §§ 1391, 1395. Walls v. Cunningham [Wis.] 101 N. W. 696.

98. Where there has been no legal division of a partition fence, the owner of animals which escape onto adjoining land is liable. DeMers v. Rohan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 413.

99. Holder of an invalid tax title agreed to build his portion of a division fence. Hammond v. Tuttle [Mich.] 103 N. W. 178.

1. Where coterminous owners agree that each shall keep up a part of the division fence and by reason of the failure of one to keep up his portion the hogs of one enter onto the land of the other, the one at fault is liable for damage caused. Collins v. Cochran, 121 Ga. 785, 49 S. E. 771.

2. Peterson v. Lacey [Iowa] 102 N. W. 153.

3. Where cattle broke through a fence—partly on account of plaintiff's and partly on account of defendant's fault and there is no evidence as to what part of the damages was the result of either, there can be no determination of the damages by a jury. Hightower v. Henry [Miss.] 37 So. 745. Evidence held insufficient to show that trespassing cattle did any damage. Arla Cattle Co. v. Burk [Neb.] 102 N. W. 74.

4. Trammell v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 325.

5. Evidence of sickness of a plaintiff's family is admissible to show why cattle were not driven off as soon as discovered. De Mers v. Rohan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 413.

is liable for the damage done by his dog.[6] Admissions made by the owner of a sheep-killing dog are admissible against him.[7] In Pennsylvania a dog tax is levied to remunerate owners of sheep killed by dogs,[8] and in Rhode Island the town pays the owner his damages and recovers from the owner of the dog[9] in an action in tort.[10] The remedy being statutory must be strictly pursued.[11]

§ 4. Liability for killing or injuring animals.[12]—It is a crime to willfully kill the animals of another[13] and a trespass to expose his cattle to a contagious disease.[14] Dogs may not be killed except for just cause,[15] unless otherwise provided by statute.[16] Statutes generally provide that sheep-killing dogs may be killed.[17] A dog is not within a statute making the killing of cattle or other live stock by engines or cars prima facie evidence of negligence.[18] A bailee who negligently injures an animal in his possession is liable to the owner.[19] A proprietor is under no obligation to fence against trespassing animals,[20] nor to keep his premises in a safe condition as to them,[21] and is liable for injuries sustained by them only in case of gross negligence,[22] and not if the injury is the result of an accident;[23]

6. Under Code, § 2340. Anderson v. Halverson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 781. Evidence held for the jury as to the amount of damage caused by one dog. Id.

7. After killing the dog, he remarked that "it would kill no more sheep." Anderson v. Halverson [Iowa] 101 N. W. 781.

8. Under P. L. 68, damages cannot be assessed in favor of a resident of one township for sheep killed in another, and such damages certified to the township in which the sheep were killed. Marcy v. Springville Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 521.

9. Town of Richmond v. James [R. I.] 61 A. 54.

10. Under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 111, § 17, the town is subrogated to the rights of the sheep owner. Town of Richmond v. James [R. I.] 61 A. 54.

11. Allegations in a declaration by a town under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 111, § 17, of notice to the dog owner of presentation of a claim are improper. Town of Richmond v. James [R. I.] 61 A. 54.

12. See 3 Curr. L. 161.

13. In a prosecution for killing a domestic animal, direct proof of death by violence showing the existence of a criminal act demanding investigation, establishes the corpus delicti. Stockbridge v. Territory [Okl.] 79 P. 753. On a prosecution for poisoning colts, threats made by the defendant to get even with the owner of the colts for certain grievance is admissible. State v. Sargood [Vt.] 58 A. 971. Evidence as to the conduct of a certain woman whom defendant had attempted to poison, held admissible. Id.

14. It is within the exception of Rev. St. 1895, art. 1194, providing that no person shall be sued except in the county of his domicile, except for * * * trespass for which a civil action in damages will lie. Baldwin v. Richardson [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 353.

15. Reed v. Goldneck [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1104.

16. Prior to the enactment of Rev. St. 1899, § 6976, a trespassing dog could not be killed unless it was actually doing injury. Reed v. Goldneck [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1104. Where a dog is found at night in the midst of sheep by one who had recently lost animals by the ravages of dogs, it is sufficient upon which to base a conclusion that he had recently been engaged in killing sheep. Id.

17. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 6976, a dog caught killing sheep or under circumstances which indicate that it has recently been so engaged, may be killed by another than the owner of the sheep killed. Reed v. Goldneck [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1104.

18. Moore v. Charlotte Elec. R., Light & Power Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

19. A horse shoer who beats a horse brought to him to be shod, in such a manner as to cause its death, is liable for its value, and that the horse is uncontrollable and vicious is no defense. Bissell v. York [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 282. A lessee of cows who agrees to return a like number is liable to the lessor if one dies as the result of negligence. Scott v. Lockwood, 92 N. Y. S. 401.

20. Where a trespassing cow ate nitrate of soda and died, the landowner was not liable. Tennessee Chemical Co. v. Henry [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401.

21. A proprietor is liable for injuries sustained by a trespassing animal running at large in violation of an ordinance only in case of gross negligence. It is not gross negligence to have an open well on one's lot. McCutchen v. Gorsline [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1044.

22. A railroad company is bound to exercise only ordinary care to prevent injury to cattle by its trains. Georgia Southern & F. R. Co. v. Jones, 121 Ga. 822, 49 S. E. 729. Evidence held insufficient to show negligence by a proprietor where trespassing cattle drank of polluted water and died from the effects. Brimner v. Reed, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 318. Evidence as to a railroad's negligence in killing a horse held for the jury. Burlington & M. R. Co. v. Campbell [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1072. With respect to the care which locomotive engineers must take of beings on or near the track, a dog is on the same footing with a man and it is presumed that he will get out of the way. Moore v. Charlotte Elec. R., Light & Power Co., 136 N. C. 554, 48 S. E. 822.

23. Evidence held to show no negligence but he cannot wantonly injure them,[24] and in some states he is required to properly guard "attractive nuisances."[25] Railroad companies are liable for injuries to animals resulting from negligent operation or defective construction of their road,[26] as are also municipal corporations for negligent use or defective construction of highways.[27]

The measure of damages for killing an animal is its value,[28] and for injuring one the difference in its value before and after the injury;[29] but in Missouri, by statute, if a proprietor whose fields are not enclosed by a lawful fence injures an animal that has strayed onto his premises, he is liable for double damages.[30]

§ 5. Contracts of agistment.[31]—An agister is required to exercise ordinary diligence in caring for animals in his charge,[32] and is liable for damages for injuries to cattle resulting from negligence.[33] Expense incurred in feeding cattle because the pasture was insufficient may be set up in reconvention in an action to recover for pasturing;[34] but a contract for the furnishing of a particular pasture does not create a liability because the pasture was insufficient to maintain a certain number of cattle.[35] A contract to keep cattle in an unlawful inclosure on public lands is void.[36]

The agister's lien is purely statutory.[37] The status of the lien is fixed by the rule of the state where acquired,[38] and will be so enforced in a state where the same rule does not prevail.[39] It is not lost where the owners of the cattle take where a locomotive ran into mules. Southern R. Co. v. Hoge [Ala.] 37 So. 439.

24. Trespassing on railroad track. Curtis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 55, 78 P. 133.

25. A shed in which nitrate of soda is kept is not an attractive nuisance the maintenance of which made the owner liable for injuries sustained by trespassing animals. Tennessee Chemical Co. v. Henry [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 401.

26. See Railroads, 4 C. L. 1181. Pub. St. 1901, c. 159, § 23 requires a railroad company to fence only against cattle owned or in the custody of adjoining owners. Flint v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 938. The mere fact that bodies of dead cattle are found near the track is not proof that they were killed by the engine or cars of the railway company. Beaudin v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 303. It is not contributory negligence for an owner of animals to permit them to remain in a pasture after discovery that the fence was inadequate to keep them off the railroad's right of way. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bourne, 105 Ill. App. 27.

27. See Highways and Streets, 3 C. L. 1593.

28. On a prosecution for killing an ox, evidence of the habit of the ox of breaking into inclosed fields is irrelevant on the question of his value. Mims v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 354.

29. Where peat in a pasture was set on fire by an engine and cattle burned their legs, the measure of damages is the difference in value of the cattle before and after they were burned. Chicago, P. & St. L. R. Co. v. Willard, 111 Ill. App. 225.

30. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 3294, 3295, 3298. Woods v. Carty [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 124.

31. See 3 C. L. 162.

32. An agister's agreement to take care of a herd of cattle is an agreement to take ordinary care of them. Darr v. Donovan [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1012. An agister under a contract requiring him to care for cattle "in all respects as he would for similar property of his own" must give them such care as an ordinarily prudent person would under like circumstances. Mattern v. McCarty [Neb.] 102 N. W. 468.

33. Contract of agistment held to require the agister to use reasonable care to feed and protect cattle and to make him liable for negligence. Mattern v. McCarty [Neb.] 102 N. W. 468. "Just remuneration" as used in an agister's contract means the remuneration which the owner would be entitled to recover for the loss of his cattle by the agister's negligence. Id.

34. Not too remote. Scovill v. Melton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 463.

35. Brown & Co. v. St. John Trust Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 37.

36. Note given for keeping cattle in an inclosure of more than 160 acres in violation of 23 U. S. Stat. 321 is unenforceable. Tandy v. Elmore-Cooper Live Stock Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 614. The fact that the amount of the note was arrived at by common-law arbitration did not cure its invalidity. Id.

37. Does not exist in Oklahoma. Tandy v. Elmore-Cooper Live Stock Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 614.

38. Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, §§ 3319, 3326, providing that the lien thereby given shall not impair other liens, the lien of a livery stable keeper is inferior to the lien of a prior mortgagee. Masterson v. Pelz [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 56.

them without the agister's consent,[40] nor affected by the fact that the pasturing was done under an express contract as to price,[41] and its superiority over a prior chattel mortgage is not affected where the cattle are taken from the agister without his consent and shipped to a state where a different rule as to priority prevails[42] and the agister may recover in conversion against an innocent purchaser.[43] Though the lien continues after he has parted with possession, he has a right to retain the animals under it,[44] and where they are taken from him without his consent, he may recover them;[45] but if he has no lien, he has no right to retain possession as against one entitled thereto.[46]

§ 6. Estrays and impounding.[47]—Cattle breaking through a division fence cannot be retained damage feasant.[48] One who agrees to the retention of his animals pending ascertainment of the damage and refuses to submit to arbitration according to his agreement to do so is liable for the expense of caring for them in the meantime.[49] Municipal corporations have power to make effective ordinances forbidding the running at large of animals, by provisions for impounding and sale,[50] and such legislation is not illegal as providing for the forfeiture of animals impounded.[51] An ordinance providing for the sale of impounded animals unless redeemed by payment of a fine is unconstitutional as to the fine owing to the absence of judicial investigation.[52] But the purchaser's title is not affected because of the invalidity of the provision relative to the fine.[53] Payment of poundage fees[54] and expenses incurred in caring for the animals is a condition precedent to a right to recover them.[55]

§ 7. Regulation as to care; keeping and protection and health.[56]—It is not negligence per se to lead an animal ferae naturae on a public street[57] and in the absence of negligence there is no liability for an injury not the probable consequence of the act.[58] The keeping of live stock is under the police regulation of the state[59] and such police regulation extends over the public lands of the United States within the state.[60] The legislature may regulate the keeping of animals with respect to adjacent property.[61] The general welfare clause of the charter of a municipal corporation authorizes it to prevent the running at large of animals.[62]

39, 40, 41, 42, 43. Everett v. Barse Live Stock Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 165.

44. Under Ky. St. 1903, §§ 2500-2502. Speth v. Brangman [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1149.

45. Form of judgment held proper. Speth v. Brangman [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1149.

46. A guaranty of a note by a mortgagee procured as a condition of surrendering them is void. Tandy v. Elmore-Cooper Live Stock Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 614.

47. See 3 C. L. 163.

48. Where an adjoiner's cattle broke through that part of a division fence which it was his neighbor's duty to maintain, they could not be retained by his neighbor until the owner had compensated him for damages suffered. Cotton v. Huston [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 97.

49. Collins v. Cochran, 121 Ga. 785, 49 S. E. 771.

50, 51. Crum v. Bray, 121 Ga. 709, 49 S. E. 686.

52, 53. Shook v. Sexton [Wash.] 79 P. 1093.

54. Owner of cattle impounded by a de facto officer is liable for poundage fees notwithstanding the inability of the officer to recover from the municipality. White v. Clarkesville [Ark.] 87 S. W. 630.

55. Under Kirby's Dig. § 5451. White v. Clarkesville [Ark.] 87 S. W. 630. Expenses of an officer in caring for impounded animals are not "fees" within the rule governing the right of a de facto officer to fees. Id.

56. See 3 C. L. 164.

57. A bear. Bostock-Ferari Amusement Co. v. Brocksmith [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 281.

58. Injuries resulting because of the fright of a horse. Bostock-Ferari Amusement Co. v. Brocksmith [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 281.

59. Spencer v. Morgan [Idaho] 79 P. 459. Rev. St. 1887, §§ 1210, 1211 (The two mile limit law) is constitutional. Walker v. Bacon [Idaho] 81 P. 155; Spencer v. Morgan [Idaho] 79 P. 459. Acts 1898-99, amended by Acts 1900-1901, to prevent stock from running at large in Etowah County, is constitutional. Davis v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 454.

60. Spencer v. Morgan [Idaho] 79 P. 459.

61. Congregation Beth Israel v. O'Connell, 187 Mass. 236, 72 N. E. 1011.

62. Hogs. Crum v. Bray, 121 Ga. 709, 49 S. E. 686.

Where municipalities are required by statute to adopt ordinances to prevent animals running at large, mandamus will issue to compel such action.[63] Dangerous animals may be discriminated against.[64] Laws relative to the regulation of cattle running at large may be special,[65] but have no extraterritorial effect.[66] In some of the southern states stock law districts, to prevent cattle running at large therein, may be created upon the requisite vote of freeholders,[67] or upon a petition of a certain number of them,[68] and the fact that municipal authorities may prevent stock running at large does not deprive the freeholders of their right to petition.[69] Under the Mississippi statute the stock law cannot be put in force in a part of a county on a petition to put it in force in the entire county,[70] and where such action is taken, it is void and the petition is still before the board as if unacted upon and no appeal lies until such action is taken.[71] The petition for an election under the Texas Local Option Stock Law must specify the animals it is desired to restrain,[72] and describe the territory affected.[73] The petition must be acted upon as required by law,[74] and the election must conform to the petition,[75] and notice thereof be posted as required.[76] Violation of these laws is a criminal offense,[77] and subject to prosecution under the provisions of the general penal code, though a justice is also given jurisdiction.[78] A statute prohibiting the running at large of cattle and providing for a lien and enforcement thereof for its violation, provides a civil remedy, and no criminal action can be predicated upon it.[79]

Interstate transportation; quarantine; inspection.[80]—A state may prescribe conditions under which cattle infected with a contagious disease shall be admitted,[81] and the bringing in of such cattle in violation of such conditions may be

63. Act Oct. 1, 1903, § 1 (Acts 1903, p. 365) is mandatory. Huey v. Waldrop [Ala.] 37 So. 380.

64. Cattle with horns. Rev. St. 1899, § 5959. City of Doniphan v. White [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 400.

65. Under Const. art. 16, §§ 22, 23, may be made applicable to parts of a county other than a political subdivision. Ex parte Tompkins [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 379. Counties may be classified on the basis of population for the purpose of enacting statutes relative to cattle running at large. Acts 1903, p. 1342, c. 499, is not special legislation. Murphy v. State [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 711.

66. A resident of one state is not guilty of an offense against the laws of another because his cattle stray across the state line. Beattie v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 477.

67. Under Code 1892, §§ 2056, 2060, 2063. Stockton v. Caldwell [Miss.] 38 So. 369. Code 1892, §§ 2055, 2059, providing for the establishment of stock law districts, is constitutional. Ormond v. White [Miss.] 37 So. 834.

68. Stockton v. Caldwell [Miss.] 38 So. 369.

69. Stockton v. Caldwell [Miss.] 38 So. 369. Freeholders not given an opportunity to sign the petition will be counted against. Id.

70. Under Rev. Code 1892, § 2056. Bowles v. Board of Sup'rs of Leflore County [Miss.] 37 So. 707.

71. Bowles v. Townes [Miss.] 38 So. 354.

72. Ex parte Kimbrell [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 382.

73. A petition for a stock law election under Acts 26th Leg. p. 220, c. 128, § 3, must give the boundaries of the precinct in which it is to be held. Cox v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 88 S. W. 812.

74. Under Acts 26th Leg. p. 220, c. 128, §§ 3, 4, providing that the commissioner's court shall act upon a petition for a stock-law election "at the next regular term thereof," a petition filed during a regular term cannot be acted on at that term. Cox v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 88 S. W. 812.

75, 76. Ex parte Kimbrell [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 382.

77. Indictment for permitting a hog to run at large held sufficient under Acts 1898-99, p. 683, as amended by Acts 1900-1901, p. 170. Davis v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 454. Indictment for permitting a hog to run at large in violation of Acts 1898-99, amended by Acts 1900-1901, not affected by Acts 1903, Sept. 29. Id.

78. Acts 1898-99, p. 683, amended by Acts 1900-1901, p. 170, creating stock-law districts and giving a justice jurisdiction of a violation thereof, does not give him exclusive jurisdiction but the offender may be prosecuted by indictment. Davis v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 454.

79. Acts 1903, p. 1342, c. 499. Murphy v. State [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 711.

80. See 3 C. L. 165.

81. In the absence of rules prescribed by the live-stock sanitary commission, cattle carrying southern ticks cannot be transported into Kansas. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 81 P. 212. Sections 7451, 7452, Gen. St. 1901, construed. Id.

enjoined.[82] The Federal statute prohibiting the exportation of diseased animals out of quarantined districts applies only to diseased or infected animals,[83] and gives the secretary of agriculture no jurisdiction over animals not affected.[84] Railroads are generally required to furnish cattle yards to restrain cattle offered for transportation prior to being loaded,[85] and are liable for injuries resulting to them because of the defective condition of the yard.[86]

§ 8. Marks and brands.[87]—In California, by statute, it is a crime to mark or deface a mark with intent to steal, or prevent identification by the owner.[88] The mark placed on the animal need not be a conventional one, indicative of ownership,[89] and it is immaterial that it is not one calculated to accomplish the purpose intended.[90] Under the Arizona statute providing for the seizure and sequestration of certain unbranded or freshly branded cattle, the ownership of which is questioned, seizure cannot be made unless the ownership is questioned in some reasonable manner,[91] and forfeiture to the territory cannot be declared unless the provisions of the statute as to notice of sale are strictly complied with.[92]

§ 9. Cruelty to animals.[93]—Under the police power the time, place and manner of killing animals may be prescribed,[94] and authority to pass ordinances against cruelty to animals may properly be conferred upon municipal corporations, and such authority may be included in powers given in general terms.[95] In some states a willful act, omission or neglect which causes unjustifiable physical pain, suffering or death to an animal is a misdemeanor.[96] A statute making it a crime to so drive a horse as to cause its death is not violated if death results from some other cause.[97]

§ 10. Crimes against property in animals.—Theft of animals is either covered by the general law of larceny or by statutory crimes of the same nature.[98] There are various statutory crimes directed against fraudulent dealings.[99] One does not violate a penal statute against driving cattle from their accustomed range unless he does so purposely and willfully.[100]

82. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 81 P. 212.

83. Under 23 Stat. 31 the Secretary of Agriculture cannot prohibit the taking of a horse out of the quarantined district if it is not diseased. United States v. Hoover, 133 F. 950.

84. United States v. Hoover, 133 F. 950. The Federal statute providing that the Secretary of Agriculture may establish rules relative to the transportation of diseased cattle does not empower him to establish rules relative to cattle not diseased. 32 Stat. 791. Id.

85. It is their duty to do so under Pub. St. 1901, c. 160, § 1, requiring them to furnish facilities for transportation of property. Flint v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 938. A station agent with general authority to transact the business of the company at his station has authority to bind the carrier as a depositary by accepting cattle subject to a brief delay in shipment. Id.

86. Cattle escaping from a carrier's yard onto its tracks are not trespassers as to the carrier. Flint v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 938. Evidence held for the jury as to whether cattle temporarily restrained in a railroad company's yard were in the control of the shipper or company. Id.

87. See 3 C. L. 165.

88. Pen. Code, § 357. People v. Strombeck, 145 Cal. 110, 78 P. 472.

89. Slitting the ear is sufficient. People v. Strombeck, 145 Cal. 110, 78 P. 472.

90. People v. Strombeck, 145 Cal. 110, 78 P. 472.

91. Lacey v. Parks [Ariz.] 80 P. 367.

92. Laws 1903, p. 34, No. 26, § 5. Lacey v. Parks [Ariz.] 80 P. 367.

93. See 3 C. L. 165.

94. State v. Davis [N. J. Law] 61 A. 2. It is not a curtailment of a property right to prevent a person from using his animals or fowls as a target, whether to be shot at for amusement or as a test of skill in marksmanship. Id.

95. Acts 1887, p. 161, c. 3775, § 4, confers such authority. Porter v. Vinzant [Fla.] 38 So. 607.

96. Pen. Code 1895, § 703 et seq. Moore v. State, 121 Ga. 194, 48 S. E. 919. Under Cr. Code 1902, § 624, an owner of an animal may be convicted of cruelty to it by proof that it was worked when unfit to labor, with his knowledge and consent. State v. Browning [S. C.] 50 S. E. 185.

97. Evidence held to show that death resulted from disease. State v. Radcliff [Del.] 58 A. 943.

98. See Larceny, 4 C. L. 410.

99. See ante, § 8, Marks and brands.

100. Pen. Code 1895, § 913, is not violated where defendant attempted to prevent cattle from following his herd. Day v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 657.

ANNUITIES.[1]

The language employed by a testator must control in construing a clause of a will creating an annuity.[2] One who derives his rights under a compromise agreement between the contestants and proponents of a will, under which a consent decree is entered sustaining the will, except as modified, is not entitled to the benefit of a statute providing that a life tenant or annuitant under a will shall receive his income or annuity from and after the testator's death;[3] nor does a reference to the statute in the compromise agreement give him such right.[4] Trusts to pay annuities, consisting of legacies or payments of successive sums in gross, do not occasion suspension of the power of alienation, the annuities being releasable or assignable.[5] Where executors were authorized by a will to invest such sums as should be necessary to secure payment of annuities, and the will further provided that when a fund ceased to be necessary for that purpose it should be disposed of as residuary property, the annuities could be paid out of the general estate, or by the setting apart of specific sums.[6] On the sale of land under judicial decree for arrearages due under an annuity, the sum due is payable out of the proceeds, but for future arrearages the annuitant must look to the land itself.[7] A corporation not organized to grant, purchase or dispose of annuities, may legally contract to pay in annual instalments during the lives of the vendors for property which it has corporate authority to buy, although corporations not organized to deal in annuities are expressly forbidden to do so,[8] since such a transaction is not a dealing in annuities within the meaning of such a prohibition.[9]

ANOTHER SUIT PENDING; ANSWERS; ANTENUPTIAL CONTRACTS AND SETTLEMENTS; ANTITRUST LAWS, see latest topical index.

APPEAL AND REVIEW.

1. See 3 C. L. 165, 166, where will be found notes on form of instrument required, and apportionment of annuities. See, also, topic Wills. 2 C. L. 2133; Id., 4 C. L. 1863.

2. Clause construed to create annuity for 25 year period and not until children of beneficiary were of age, in case of beneficiary's death. Davis v. People, 111 Ill. App. 207.

3. Such compromise is not a will nor a modification of a will within the meaning of Rev. Laws, c. 141, § 24. Hastings v. Nesmith [Mass.] 74 N. E. 323.

4. Hastings v. Nesmith [Mass.] 74 N. E. 323.

5. Annuities not charged on land or specific funds, but merely made payable in instalments, do not occasion suspension. Smith v. Havens Relief Fund Soc., 44 Misc. 594, 90 N. Y. S. 168.

6. Smith v. Havens Relief Fund Soc, 44 Misc. 594. 90 N. Y. S. 168.

7. Claim that surplus should remain as a fund under control of court to secure future payments, held untenable. Walters v. Steele, 210 Pa. 219. 59 A. 821.

8, 9. Burnes v. Burnes [C. C. A.] 137 F. 781.

Scope of title.—All strictly revisory proceedings as distinguished from supervisory remedies[10] or prerogative writs are included herein, excepting certiorari[11] and proceedings in criminal cases.[12] Bills of review and other equitable or legal modes of opening or correcting judgments are not review in the sense here used.[13] The effect of judicial error (Harmless or Prejudicial Error),[14] and the modes of saving one's right to question those errors,[15] are allotted to separate titles.

§ 1. The right in general. A. Constitutional and statutory provisions; policy of the law.[16]—Within the constitution and organic law the legislature has power to withdraw[17] or regulate[18] the right of review of judicial proceedings.

10. See Mandamus, 4 C. L. 506; Prohibition, Writ of, 4 C. L. 1084, and the like.
11. See 3 C. L. 667.
12. See Indictment and Prosecution, 4 C. L. 1.
13. See Equity, 3 C. L. 1210; Judgments, 4 C. L. 287.
14. See 3 C. L. 1579.
15. See Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368.
16. See 3 C. L. 168.
17. See 3 C. L. 168, n. 33. As a general rule the right of appeal is governed by the law in force when the final judgment is ren-

The right is favored in the law,[19] but, being purely statutory,[20] cannot be extended[21] or denied[22] by the courts.

(§ 1) B. Waiver, election, transfer or extinguishment.[23]—A waiver[24] or election[25] to treat a proceeding as valid, or to pursue another remedy for relief,[26] dered (Kepler v. Rinehart, 162 Ind. 504, 70 N. E. 806), and unless it is evident from the terms of the statute which gives, modifies or takes away the right that it was intended to have a retrospective effect, it has no application to cases in which final judgment was rendered prior to the time such act took effect (Id.). It retroacts on cases pending but in which no final judgments have been rendered. See 3 C. L. 168, n. 36.

18. The method prescribed by the legislature is exclusive and mandatory. City of Greenwood v. Henderson, 84 Miss. 802, 37 So. 745. Section 6495, relating to appeal of motion to dissolve attachment, is not unconstitutional because it gives to defendant the right to appeal which is not given to plaintiff. Cecil v. Grant, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 65.

19. See 3 C. L. 168, n. 38. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874. An appellant complying with the law is entitled to have his rights directly passed on. McMichael v. Davis, 113 La. 807, 37 So. 763.

20. Is a strictly statutory right. McGaugh v. Holliday [Ala.] 37 So. 935. Appeals from municipal court. Smith v. Ely, 92 N. Y. S. 310. Does not exist unless expressly provided for. Capaul v. Railway, 26 Ohio C. C. 578, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 262. See 3 C. L. 168, n. 32. In Alabama an appeal from a decree overruling a motion to dismiss a cross bill for want of equity is not authorized by statute. McGaugh v. Holliday [Ala.] 37 So. 935.

21. Right is wholly of statutory origin and the statutory requirements must be strictly complied with. Appellate court has no jurisdiction unless appeal perfected in manner required by law. Arkansas & O. R. Co. v. Powell, 104 Mo. App. 362, 80 S. W. 336.

22. The right is absolute to appeal from a habeas corpus in a district court to the supreme court if a constitutional question be involved, even though it seems without merit. In re Marmo, 138 F. 201.

23. See 3 C. L. 168.

24. A stipulation by a Chinaman waiving his right of appeal from a commissioner's decision will not be given effect where the appeal was duly perfected and before dismissal he appeared and demanded a trial. Ah Tai v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 513.

25. What a husband does is not imputable as recognition and acquiescence by appellant wife. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471. A judgment against a town confirming the validity of a sale of bonds will not be reviewed at the instance of a ministerial officer, the corporate authorities having acquiesced in the judgment. Diefenderfer v. State [Wyo.] 80 P. 667. Where a judgment against a town has been acquiesced in by the corporate authorities and complied with as far as possible and are prevented from doing so fully only by the refusal of ministerial officers to do their duty, the fact that such officers have been allowed to give a supersedeas bond and the fact that their terms have expired does not authorize a review. Id. The right of appeal, if any exists, from an order allowing one not a party to the suit to file an original bill in the nature of a bill of review is lost by answering and permitting the case to go to issue before appealing. Leggett v. City of Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 566. Defendant may appeal from an order denying a motion to vacate an order for the examination of witnesses, notwithstanding his counsel appears and takes part in the examination. Osborn v. Barber, 93 N. Y. S. 833.

A satisfied decree is not appealable. In re Black's Estate [Mont.] 79 P. 554.

Separable parts of decree: Where an order is severable, acceptance of benefits in part is not inconsistent with appeal from the remainder. Ziadi v. Interurban St. R. Co., 97 App. Div. 137, 89 N. Y. S. 606. Redemption of certain lands from tax sale as permitted by a decree on a bill to quiet title does not preclude complainant from appealing from so much of the decree as dismisses the bill in respect to other lands. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249. Partial compliance with an order which requires the doing of a series of like but disconnected acts will not preclude the prosecution of error to revise it. Does not raise a question purely moot. Newman v. Lake [Kan.] 79 P. 675.

Payment of judgment on counterclaim, proof of which destroyed plaintiff's right of action, took away plaintiff's right to appeal. King v. Campbell, 107 Mo. App. 496, 81 S. W. 635.

Payment or tender into court: A railroad which pursuant to statute pays or tenders an award for the purpose of taking possession of land condemned does not thereby lose its right to appeal. Appeal by exceptions under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5160. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hayes [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 631.

A litigant party accepting the benefits of a judgment cannot thereafter appeal therefrom. Receipt by ward of money found to be due him after allowance of guardian's account held to preclude him from appealing from allowance, though amount allowed was same as that admitted by guardian to be due and charged in his account, where determination of amount due necessarily involved consideration of ward's claim that guardian had taken credit for exorbitant commissions and failed to account for certain rents. In re Sachleben, 106 Mo. App. 307, 80 S. W. 737. Foreclosure of a deed of trust by the grantee after judgment in a suit by him setting aside a prior deed by the same grantor does not preclude the defendant (grantor) from appealing, it being in no sense an acceptance of satisfaction by him. New York Store Mercantile Co. v. Thurmond, 186 Mo. 410, 85 S. W. 333. A party who has collected a judgment in his favor cannot appeal therefrom, with a view to recovering more, if he incurs a hazard of recovering less (Bechtel v. Evans or agreement to abide the event,[27] will deprive the party of his right of review. An existing matter of controversy is essential to any form of review,[28] hence the transfer[29] or extinguishment[30] of the aggrieved party's right is ground of dismissal.[31] The right of review may concur with an action to declare the invalidity of the judgment for facts dehors the record.[32]

(§ 1) C. Pendency of a former appeal.[33]—There can be no review while a former proceeding for one identical in scope and operation is pending,[34] unless the pending one be thereby abandoned.[35] After the reversal of a decree in his favor, the appellee or defendant in error may maintain error or appeal to review questions not decided on his adversary's appeal.[36]

§ 2. The remedy for obtaining review. A. Appeal and error[37] are the common remedies, the former to review equitable causes,[38] the latter judgments at law;[39] but a writ of error will also lie to review a decree in chancery.[40] The char-

[Idaho] 77 P. 212); but if he incurs no such hazard, he may appeal (Id.). One who has received money collected or paid on a judgment cannot appeal from such judgment, though he received it at the solicitation of appellee and in the belief that it would not affect his right of appeal. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v. Simpson, 163 Ind. 10, 71 N. E. 131. In obtaining an order staying all proceedings under an order reducing the verdict, except to permit an appeal therefrom, plaintiff does not attempt to enjoy the fruits of such order and at the same time appeal from it as erroneous. Cullen v. Uptegrove & Bro., 91 N. Y. S. 511.

A claimant to the whole of a fund deposited in court does not, by the receipt of a part thereof to which he was concededly entitled, forfeit his right to appeal from a judgment awarding the balance to another claimant. No claim made by other party to the part the first claimant received. City of St. Louis v. Nelson, 108 Mo. App. 210, 83 S. W. 271.

Payment of a judgment is not voluntary where petitioner in eminent domain proceedings pays the amount assessed and takes possession. Union Traction Co. v. Basey [Ind.] 73 N. E. 263. Payment by a garnishee of the amount of a judgment against him is not such a voluntary payment upon the judgment against the principal defendant as amounted to an acknowledgment of its validity. Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402, 77 P. 791.

26. Where a party institutes a suit in equity to vacate a judgment at law and from a decree rendered modifying such judgment he prosecutes an appeal, he will be barred from further prosecuting error from an adverse ruling on a motion to vacate the same judgment. Kellogg & Co. v. Spargur [Neb.] 100 N. W. 1025.

27. An attorney may stipulate in advance of the trial that there shall be no appeal. Leahy v. Stone, 115 Ill. App. 138. Arbitration agreements providing that there shall be no appeal from the judgment on the award are not against public policy. Hoste v. Dalton [Mich.] 100 N. W. 750.

28. State v. Tallman [Wash.] 80 P. 272.

29. Conveyance of interest in realty before suit by one against whom no personal judgment was rendered. Schneider v. Reed [Wis.] 101 N. W. 682.

30. A suspensive appeal is unnecessary when the party applying for it has by his voluntary action made impossible judicial execution of the order appealed from. Albert Mackie Grocery Co. v. Pratt [La.] 38 So. 250.

31. See post, § 11G.

32. State v. Sommerville [La.] 36 So. 864. Action for nullity of judgment is independent of appeal and reaches that which, being necessarily dehors the record, would not be remedied by appeal. Id. Dismissal of suspensive appeal does not preclude injunction ancillary to such a suit. Id.

33. See 3 C. L. 169.

34. Stutsman v. Sharpless, 125 Iowa, 335, 101 N. W. 105; Newbury v. Getchell & M. Lumber & Mfg. Co., 106 Iowa, 140, 76 N. W. 514.

35. Rule that second appeal will be dismissed if first is pending is inapplicable where the intention thereby to abandon first is clear. Dorman v. McDonald [Fla.] 36 So. 52, limiting DaCosta v. Dibble [Fla.] 33 So. 466. A party taking an appeal with supersedeas may take a second, if within the time during which appeals are by law allowed, without dismissing the first; but the better practice is to dismiss the first before taking the second. Robinson v. Arkansas Loan & Trust Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 609. An appellant may voluntarily dismiss and take a second appeal within the time limited. Stutsman v. Sharpless, 125 Iowa, 335, 101 N. W. 105, citing Groendyke v. Musgrave, 123 Iowa, 535. Where an appeal is dismissed because of failure to prosecute, no second appeal from the same order or judgment should be allowed unless the order of dismissal reserves the right. Collins v. Gladiator Consol. Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [S. D.] 103 N. W. 385; Maguire v. Goldberger [N. J. Law] 58 A. 167.

36. Guarantee Co. of North America v. Phoenix Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 170.

37. See 3 C. L. 170.

38. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482. Bankruptcy is equitable and error does not lie. Lockman v. Laug [C. C. A.] 128 F. 279. Appeal lies where the purpose of the suit is to remove cloud from title, though jurisdiction was obtained by intervention in an attachment. National Bank of Commerce v. Chamberlain [Neb.] 100 N. W. 943.

39. Reviewable by writ of error and not appeal: Decisions of the county court in the acter of the controversy and the relief, not the mode of trial, determines what is legal or equitable,[41] and the main judgment gives character to all which is inseparable from it.[42] An act providing a particular method of appeal is generally exclusive,[43] and must be strictly pursued.[44] Ordinarily if an "appeal" is given error will not lie[45] and vice versa.[46] The suing out of a writ of error is the beginning of a new suit.[47] Proceedings by a court reviewing acts of a commissioner finding a party guilty of contempt is not an original proceeding but a review.[48]

Appeal and not exceptions is the proper remedy where the case was tried below on an agreed statement of facts containing no clause authorizing the court to draw inferences of fact.[49]

Bankruptcy proceedings are specially reviewable under the act.[50]

Sometimes a case wrongly brought may be redocketed as if brought by the proper mode.[51]

(§ 2) B. Certification or reservation[52] of doubtful or disputed questions[53] is a mode of review in some states.

settlement of decedents' estates. Huffman v. Rhodes [Neb.] 100 N. W. 159. The judgment of a district court in habeas corpus proceedings. In re Greaser [Neb.] 101 N. W. 235. The assessment of costs against an attorney bringing the suit without authority, is an ancillary proceeding and not a civil action. Capaul v. Toledo & W. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 262, 26 Ohio C. C. 578. An order in a pending suit adjudging one not a party guilty of contempt in violating the preliminary injunction therein. Bessette v. Conkey Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 165. To review in the supreme court of the United States a judgment of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia in condemnation proceedings. Metropolitan R. Co. v. MacFarland, 25 S. Ct. 28. To review the judgment of a territorial supreme court in an action at law. Comstock v. Eagleton, 25 S. Ct. 210. Conviction of contempt. Bessette v. Conkey Co., 24 S. Ct. 665. Same rule applies where the respondent is a party. In re Christiensen, 24 S. Ct. 729. Error lies to the ninth circuit court of appeals from the district court of Alaska in an action to recover an interest in a mining claim tried to the court without jury. Act relating to territorial appeals and prescribing appeal does not apply. Shields v. Mongallon Exp. Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 539.

40. Woodard v. Glos, 113 Ill. App. 353.

41. That an action at law was tried by the court without a jury does not make appeal the proper remedy for review. Oklahoma City v. McMaster, 25 S. Ct. 324.

42. Taxation of costs is not severable so that a writ of error will be sustained to review it when appeal is the proper remedy to bring up the case. Jackson v. Butler [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 772.

43. Act 1903, p. 577, c. 248, §§ 1 and 4 construed. Lindsay v. Allen [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 171.

44. Arkansas & O. R. Co. v. Powell [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 336.

45. Order denying an application to sue a receiver finally disposes of the rights of the parties and is appealable. State v. Superior Court of Spokane County [Wash.] 80 P. 195. The remedy in a contested election case is appeal and not error. Jackson v. Butler [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 772. The practice of taking an appeal and a writ of error to review the same adjudication is not only permissible but commendable in cases in which counsel have just reason to doubt which is the proper proceeding to give jurisdiction to the appellate court. Lockman v. Laug [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1. Where parties injuriously affected by a decree have perfected an appeal therefrom to the appellate court, they cannot, so long as it is pending, prosecute error in the supreme court to review the same decree, though in doubt as to their remedy. Dunbar v. American Tel. & T. Co. [Ill.] 72 N. E. 904.

46. Appeal does not lie from a final judgment of a county court but it may be reviewed on error. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Brown [Colo.] 76 P. 799. Under Const. art. 6, § 23, and Mills' Ann. St. § 1091, a final judgment of the county court in a proceeding to sell decedent's lands to pay debts may be reviewed on error. Id.

47. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 430.

48. Mau v. Stoner [Wyo.] 76 P. 584.

49. City of Haverhill v. Marlborough [Mass.] 72 N. E. 943.

50. Judgments or orders of a district or circuit court entered in controversies arising in bankruptcy proceedings as distinguished from those entered in bankruptcy proceedings proper are reviewable by the circuit court of appeals only by appeal or writ of error under their general appellate jurisdiction. Bankruptcy Act, § 25a. In re Mueller [C. C. A.] 135 F. 711. In bankruptcy proceedings a litigant has the option, in a proper case, to review the decision by appeal or by a petition for revision as a matter of law. Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363; In re Friend, 134 F. 778. Judgments or orders in bankruptcy proceedings proper if reviewable under section 25a are not reviewable on petition to revise in matter of law under section 24b, the two provisions being exclusive. Order allowing claim of over $500. In re Mueller [C. C. A.] 135 F. 711.

51. See post, §§ 8, 11G.

52. See 3 C. L. 171. In Rhode Island, motions in arrest of judgment, made in a district court or in the common pleas division of the supreme court, must be certified to

(§ 2) C. The common remedies[54] appeal[55] or error[56] must, if adequate[57] or applicable,[58] be invoked and not extraordinary and special modes of review.[59] Otherwise certiorari,[60] prohibition,[61] mandamus,[62] injunction, or other equitable remedy,[63] or habeas corpus,[64] may avail.

the appellate division for decision. Barlow v. Tierney [R. I.] 59 A. 930. Where defendant appears by attorney after default and moves to set it aside, which motion is denied, he can "allege exceptions in writing" and have them transferred to the supreme court. Laws 1901, p. 563, c. 78, § 5. Hutchinson v. Manchester St. R. Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1011.

53. A question not raised by the pleadings, or ruled upon by the trial court and not presented to court of civil appeals cannot be certified by the latter court to the supreme court. Nabours v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 153.

54. See 3 C. L. 171.

55. Necessity of expropriation (eminent domain) may be reached by appeal. Mandamus, certiorari and prohibition denied. State v. Ellis [La.] 37 So. 209.

Injunction is appealable. State v. Leche [La.] 36 So. 868, citing State v. Sommerville [La.] 36 So. 864. In the District of Columbia an error of a justice of the peace in overruling a plea to the jurisdiction may be corrected by an appeal to the supreme court. On ground that defendant is not a resident of the subdistrict. Anderson v. Morton, 21 App. D. C. 444.

What is an "appeal:" The filing of exceptions for a review of the award in proceedings to take land for a railroad under the Indiana law is substantially an appeal. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5160. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hayes [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 531.

56. Refusal of lower court to make proper order: Refusal of court below to vacate dismissal of appeal to it from inferior court. Mandamus wrong remedy. Lemon v. Oakland Circuit Judge [Mich.] 103 N. W. 843.

57. Mandamus will issue if the remedy by appeal is not plain, speedy and adequate. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5756. State v. Hatch [Wash.] 78 P. 796.

58. An appeal in Georgia is a matter of purely statutory right, and lies only when provision is made therefor. Fontano v. Mozley & Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 707. An appeal to the superior court from the judgment of the ordinary setting apart or refusing to set apart a homestead lies only when the objections interposed by creditors are those provided for in Civ. Code 1895, § 2836. When other objections are interposed, the remedy is by certiorari. Id.

59. Appeal if it exists and not certiorari or prohibition. State v. Leche [La.] 36 So. 868. Where probate courts are courts of record and are given original jurisdiction in certain matters, their orders and judgments relative to such matters are not subject to collateral attack, but the remedy for one aggrieved is by appeal. Clark v. Rossier [Idaho] 78 P. 358. An improper ruling on application for change of venue is error reviewable by appeal rather than some remedy going only to jurisdiction. Eudaley v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 366; State v. Evans [Mo.] 83 S. W. 447. Certiorari will not lie if there is an appeal. State v. Justice Court of Tp. No. 1 [Mont.] 78 P. 498. Does not lie to correct alleged error of justice of the peace in overruling a plea to the jurisdiction. Anderson v. Morton, 21 App. D. C. 444. Will not lie in Minnesota to review personal property tax judgments; the proper remedy being appeal in the manner provided by law for the review of real estate tax judgments. State v. District Court of Ramsey County [Minn.] 100 N. W. 889. To entitle one to a writ of review from the district court under Code Civ. Proc. § 1941, it must appear that the inferior tribunal was performing some judicial act, that it exceeded its jurisdiction, and that there is no appeal or other speedy and adequate remedy. State v. Justice Court of Tp. No. 1 [Mont.] 78 P. 498.

A writ of mandamus cannot be made to take the place of an appeal or writ of error. On mandamus to compel signing of bill of exceptions, merits of relator's claim of error will not be considered. State v. Gibson [Mo.] 83 S. W. 472. The remedy for refusal of a court to transfer a cause from the law to the equity docket is by appeal or writ of error, and not by mandamus. Horton v. Gill [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 718. Mandamus cannot be resorted to if remedy by appeal is adequate. Recor v. St. Clair Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 643. Cattermole v. Ionia Circuit Judge [Mich.] 99 N. W. 1; Skutt v. Wolcott [Mich.] 99 N. W. 405; Wells v. Montcalm Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1001.

Prohibition will not issue if appeal or error will furnish a complete remedy. People v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 77 P. 239; State v. Taliman [Wash.] 80 P. 272.

Habeas corpus does not lie if remedy by appeal is adequate. Gillespie v. Rump [Ind.] 72 N. E. 138. Lies in Federal court in favor of one held by state authority only in case of one confined for an act done or omitted by him under the laws of the nation in pursuance of its authority, or under the laws and authority of a foreign government of which he is a subject. In re Dowd, 133 F. 747.

60. Certiorari lies: Where there is no dispute as to the facts and the only question is the power of the court to make the ruling in question. Berkey v. Thompson [Iowa] 102 N. W. 124. To review a statutory hearing by the city council of election contests, which is a judicial proceeding, there being no review by appeal or error. Staples v. Brown [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 254. Where an order can be taken up only with the judgment and the judgment is not appealable (having already been reviewed). Order allowing certain costs after affirmance of the judgment. State v. District Court [Mont.] 79 P. 410. To review the judgment of an inferior judicatory when no appeal therefrom is given by statute. To review judgment of ordinary setting apart or refusing to set apart homestead, where objections filed by creditors are other than those specified in Civ. Code 1895, § 2836. Fontano v. Mozley & Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 707.

Concurrent modes of review may present an election.[65]

In Rhode Island a party attacking a finding of fact which the statement shows was on conflicting evidence by the district court should claim a jury trial and not file exceptions.[66]

A judge should not sit to review the mere exercise of judgment by his predecessor, but should leave the parties aggrieved to their remedy by appeal.[67]

A special term order is properly reviewable by appeal to an appellate court and not by a motion made at another special term presided over by another justice to vacate the former order.[68]

§ 3. The parties. A. Persons entitled to review[69] include only those who are parties,[70] of record,[71] aggrieved,[72] by the decree or judgment, or their successors Appeal and certiorari are concurrent remedies to review judgments of the district court in New Jersey (Marcus v. Graver [N. J.] 58 A. 564); but in Michigan appeal rather than certiorari is the more appropriate remedy to review errors occurring at trials in justice court (Computing Scale Co. v. Tripp [Mich.] 101 N. W. 803). Where the trial court directed an administrator to pay himself a certain compensation for services and attorney's fees, and also certain expenses of alleged distributees and refused to fix the amount for a supersedeas bond on appeal and declined to recognize a supersedeas bond in an ample amount, which was filed; held, that the distributees had not an adequate remedy by appeal and were therefore entitled to a writ of review. In re Sullivan's Estate [Wash.] 78 P. 945.

61. Will not issue to review an order not appealable because the subject-matter of the controversy has ceased to exist. State v. Tallman [Wash.] 80 P. 272.

62. Mandamus and not writ of error the remedy for erroneous refusal of an appeal or supersedeas. Gutierrez v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 299; Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719. The proper remedy of appellant in case a lower court dismisses as for want of appealability an appeal to it is by mandamus to compel a hearing. Whether such order was a final one within Code, § 30, not decided because in any case the appeal could not be entertained. Robertson v. Southerland, 22 App. D. C. 595. Where there is no review by appeal or error, mandamus will not lie to review an order of an intermediate court. Smith v. Connor [Tex.] 84 S. W. 815. Where the refusal of a judge to vacate an order is not reviewable on appeal, mandamus will issue to compel him to consider the motion. Code Civ. Proc. § 1085. Cahill v. Superior Court of San Francisco [Cal.] 78 P. 467.

63, 64. A suit in equity to vacate a default judgment will not lie where there is an adequate remedy at law by an appeal from an order denying the motion to set aside the judgment. Stewart v. Snow [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 696. An appeal is not the proper remedy to obtain relief from a judgment taken through mistake, surprise, etc. Johnston v. Callahan [Cal.] 79 P. 870.

65. After an appeal under the oleomargarine act has been dismissed for want of prosecution, the remedy by certiorari is no longer available. P. L. 1886, p. 107. Maguire v. Goldberger [N. J. Law] 58 A. 167. See 1 C. L. 90, n. 1.

66. Cavanaugh v. Grady [R. I.] 52 A. 1027.

67. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

68. In re White, 91 N. Y. S. 513.

69. See 3 C. L. 172.

70. Must be parties to the action. Houston v. Greensboro Lumber Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 738. Petitioners held proper parties and entitled to appeal from order in county seat removal contest either under original order, or order amended nunc pro tunc under which they were granted an appeal after the finding was made and thereafter ordered made parties for the purpose of hearing the contest, which was set for a future day. Reese v. Steele [Ark.] 83 S. W. 335.

Held to be "parties" having the right to appeal: Under Mansf. Dig. § 1267 (Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 769), providing that appeals shall be granted upon the application of either party, an executor may appeal from an order modifying his report and ordering a distribution of the estate in a manner contended by him to be contrary to the will. In re Overton's Estate [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 766. Stockholders who are served with notice and appear in a proceeding against an insolvent corporation to assess stockholders on their superadded liability. Bennett v. Thorne [Wash.] 78 P. 936.

Held not to have right: An interpleader who makes no attempt to comply with statutory provisions for becoming a party. Handley v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 716. Witnesses from an order disallowing their fees under Laws 1901, p. 28, c. 31, Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5185, 4794. State v. Fair [Wash.] 76 P. 731. The subsequent entry of a special appearance does not authorize counsel so appearing to appeal from a default judgment against his client on the ground that he was not properly served. Houston v. Greensboro Lumber Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 738.

71. One not a party to the record, whose rights are prejudiced may make himself a party by motion to set aside the judgment and appeal from the denial of his motion, and if not appealable, sue out certiorari. In re Elliott [Cal.] 77 P. 1109. A master in chancery should not be made an appellee on an appeal to review the allowance of fees to him. Symms v. Jamieson, 115 Ill. App. 165. A beneficial party not of record cannot appeal in his own name. Gilray v. Metropolitan Nat. Bank, 113 Ill. App. 485. A guardian ad litem is entitled to take an appeal as the representative of the infant. Harper v. Cilley, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 55, 25 Ohio C. C. 770. One in interest;[73] and in proceedings not inter parties, or which may affect other than parties,[74] persons having a litigable interest[75] affected detrimentally may appeal.[76] All parties impleaded by appellant are conclusively regarded as in interest.[77] made a nominal party to a bill by having his name inserted in the caption thereof but not properly interpleaded may appeal from a decree overruling his demurrer thereto and granting the relief asked as to the subject-matter in controversy, which it appears from the other pleadings that he claims. Necessary party. Preston v. West [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 152.

72. Persons that will in no way be affected by a judgment and which was neither for nor against them cannot prosecute an appeal therefrom. Demarest v. Holdeman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 714. A party suffering no loss by reason of a decree. Heidbreder v. Superior Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Mo.] 83 S. W. 469. While, prima facie, the original parties on a record may answer, the supreme test as to whether an appeal statute is satisfied as to an appellant, or party aggrieved, or adverse party, is the possession of some substantial interest adverse to the judgment, a revision of which is sought on appeal. Rev. St. 1898, § 3049. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. Where, in an action for wrongful death which could be brought by the widow alone, the children were joined and a nonsuit was entered, an appeal by the children separately was quashed. Haughey v. Pittsburg R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 1112. Appeal does not lie from a judgment in appellant's favor. In an action to foreclose a trust deed, plaintiff had judgment for the amount of his debt but was denied foreclosure. Murto v. Lemon [Colo. App.] 76 P. 541. One who secures by a judgment or decree all the relief he seeks. Guarantee Co. of North America v. Phenix Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 170. Defendant may not appeal from a judgment dismissing the petition in condemnation proceedings, though such dismissal is had on petitioner's motion and for unsound reasons, and after a refusal of the court to act on defendant's motion to dismiss. Roby v. South Park Com'rs [Ill.] 74 N. E. 125. In a joint and several appeal it is not necessary that both the appellants be agrieved. Mills' Ann. St. § 400, construed. Stratton's Independence v. Midland Terminal R. Co. [Colo.] 77 P. 247.

Held to be parties aggrieved: An executor by an order directing partial distribution of the estate, where there is an issue as to the sufficiency of the estate to meet the distribution without loss to creditors. In re Murphy's Estate [Cal.] 78 P. 960. Beneficiaries of a trust created by a will, by an order refusing probate of the will. In re Fay's Estate [Cal.] 78 P. 340. Parties claiming an interest in the subject-matter, by a judgment purporting to determine that they have no rights therein. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Brown [Colo.] 76 P. 799. Remonstrants by an order granting a permit to sell liquor. In re Smith [Iowa] 101 N. W. 875. Under Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 5, § 60, a trustee holding funds belonging to an absentee, by a decree of the orphans' court appointing an administrator for the absentee. Lee v. Allen [Md.] 59 A. 184. One against whom judgment went has an appealable interest. Milburn-Stoddard Co. v. Stickney [N. D.] 103 N. W. 752. The principal defendant by a judgment against the garnishee. Badger Lumber Co. v. Stern [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1093. Any party to a foreclosure suit having an interest in the lands may appeal from the appointment of a receiver. Ruprecht v. Henrici, 113 Ill. App. 398.

Parties not aggrieved: Will contestants, not heirs of testator nor related to him, by a denial of their motion for a new trial within Code Civ. Proc. § 938. In re Antoldi's Estate [Cal.] 81 P. 278. The judgment defendant by error in apportioning a correct award between successful parties. Schoppel v. Daly [La.] 36 So. 322. Administrator, by decree to pay to legatee instead of heir; otherwise when he is assignee of the heir. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. Executor, by order allowing claim not contested by heir or creditor. May's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 267. The county auditor, by a judgment in certiorari against the board of county commissioners, though he was improperly made a defendant. State v. Boyden [S. D.] 100 N. W. 761. An officer as such, by a judgment which is against the municipal corporation to which he is attached. Defendefer v. State [Wyo.] 80 P. 667.

73. A consolidated corporation succeeding to all the rights of petitioner in eminent domain proceedings. Union Traction Co. v. Basey [Ind.] 73 N. E. 263. The receiver of a corporation, if authorized by the court appointing him, may sue out and prosecute a writ of error to review a judgment against the corporation. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430.

74. Where writ of assistance is issued, one who was not a party at the time of such issue may move to set the order aside and appeal from an order denying his motion. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783.

75. The commonwealth may appeal where interested in proceedings to register land titles. McQuesten v. Attorney General [Mass.] 72 N. E. 965. Trustees under a will are entitled to appeal from an order disposing of the property contrary to the testator's intent. Rothschild v. Wise, 92 N. Y. S. 1076. A party who does not voluntarily surrender goods under an attachment in replevin is not deprived of his interest in the property so as to preclude his right of appeal from a judgment in favor of plaintiff in replevin. Culver v. Randle [Or.] 78 P. 394. A legatee. In re Hunt's Will [Wis.] 100 N. W. 874.

76. Not being entitled to maintain a bill for that purpose, an administrator cannot appeal from a decree in a suit to remove cloud from title to real estate owned by the decedent. Strong v. Peters [Ill.] 72 N. E. 369. Intervening heirs may appeal from judgment not mentioning them. In re Anderson's Estate [Iowa] 101 N. W. 510. A trustee holding property of an absentee is a person aggrieved by an order appointing an administrator for the absentee with a view to distributing his property among his heirs. Lee v. Allen [Md.] 59 A. 184. An heir at law and next of kin who was not cited and did not know of or appear in a will contest in the orphans' court is a person aggrieved by a decree admitting a will to probate and may appeal therefrom to the prerogative court. In re Young's Will [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 154. Where a referee or master commissioner presents a claim for fees and expenses in the matter of the examination of a complicated guardian's account, and the claim is disallowed, the right of appeal extends to such referee or master. In re Guardianship of Edith K. Gorman, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 667, 15 Ohio Dec. 204. Judgment in replevin in favor of the administrator of a widow, against administrator of her husband, is adverse to all parties interested as distributees of his estate. Hinn v. Gersten [Wis.] 99 N. W. 338.

Appellee by stipulation may waive the question of appellant's appealable interest.[78]

(§ 3) B. Necessary or proper parties to be joined[79] or brought in[80] include all persons who may be affected by a reversal.[81] Among them are all co-defendants[82] who are joint in interest,[83] and co-parties[84] who decline to join in the review.[85] Successors in title and interest[86] may be substituted,[87] or brought in.

77. An appeal will not be dismissed for want of interest in opposing members of a family meeting at the motion of an appellee tutrix who herself brought them in as parties. Succession of Carbajal [La.] 36 So. 41. The original under tutor opposed her, but his successor joined and she then moved to dismiss. Id.

78. Does so by stipulating the questions to be presented. Morrison v. Austin State Bank [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1109.

79. See 3 C. L. 174. Married woman must make her husband appellee where he is interested. Lindebaum v. Coale [Iowa] 99 N. W. 162. An assessor petitioning for inspection of papers of a bank to ascertain the existence of taxable property is a necessary party to an appeal by the bank from an order entered therein. Daily v. Washington Nat. Bank [Ind.] 72 N. E. 260. If there is irregularity in the failure of a particular party to join in suing out a writ of error, such irregularity is cured upon such party subsequently by leave of court becoming a plaintiff in error. Hess v. Peck, 111 Ill. App. 111.

80. Process may be directed to issue against those parties not summoned as appellees where it is necessary to protect appellant's rights. As where, in suit to set aside conveyance as fraudulent, the sums found due those summoned is less than jurisdictional amount, but the various sums decreed against purchaser in favor of all creditors exceeds such amount. Wheby v. Moir [Va.] 47 S. E. 1005.

81. Sons of Peace No. 1 v. Sons and Daughters of Peace [Ga.] 50 S. E. 111. Co-defendants at the trial who would not be affected are not necessary parties. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 288. All parties plaintiff and defendant must be parties to a writ of error. Fraser v. Fraser, 110 Ill. App. 619. Parties to a foreclosure suit are not necessary to appeal from refusal to quash a writ of assistance and restore the claimant. Foreclosure purchaser and claimant appellant are alone necessary. Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 37 So. 582. Where a judgment of foreclosure has been entered, and a sale thereunder made to one not a party and a writ of assistance issued against a person not a party to the foreclosure suit, notice of appeal from an order granting such writ need not be served on all parties to the foreclosure suit. Mills v. Smiley [Idaho] 76 P. 783. On appeal from an order distributing an insolvent's estate, creditors whose claims have been proved and allowed are necessary parties. Bloomingdale v. Watson [C. C. A.] 128 F. 268. Where, in sequestration proceedings, it has been found that the assets of an insolvent corporation can in no case discharge the liabilities, and a judgment has been rendered against persons charged with the wrongful appropriation of property applicable to the payment of debts, the insolvent corporation, on an appeal from such judgment, is not an interested adverse party, so as to require service upon it of the notice of appeal, under the statute. Rev. St. 1898, § 3049. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

82. A party defendant in default who did not appear below is not a necessary party in error. Gen. St. 1901, § 5020. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Dailey [Kan.] 79 P. 158. On appeal from a judgment for defendants for their costs, all must be brought in though it appears that one of them has been discharged in bankruptcy from liability. Bruce v. Myers [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 710. Failure to join a party who was a joint defendant below and against whom a joint decree was rendered is not a defect of form merely, but one of substance necessitating dismissal. Copeland v. Waldron [C. C. A.] 133 F. 217. All parties to a joint judgment must be brought in, but where the judgment is several and in favor of the defendant in error, alone, the rule has no application. Eccles v. United States Fidelity & G. Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 942. In Indiana, vacation appeals must bring in all parties. Where, in an appeal by an administrator, the record is not filed within the time allowed for term time appeals and no stay is procured, the appeal must be treated as a vacation appeal. Holderman v. Wood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 199. All parties against whom the judgment was rendered must be made co-appellants. Rich Grove Tp., Pulaski County, v. Emmett [Ind.] 72 N. E. 543; Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638.

83. When, in an action on a bond against the principal and his sureties, the petition was dismissed on joint demurrer of all the defendants, the sureties were necessary parties defendant to a bill of exceptions sued out by plaintiff alleging error upon the judgment sustaining such demurrer and dismissing the petition. Green v. Barron [Ga.] 47 S. E. 188.

The suing out of a writ of error is the beginning of a new suit which must implead those who stand as parties at that time.[88] One not cited is not necessary.[89]

§ 4. Adjudications which may be reviewed either generally or in one of two appellate courts. A. Statutes[90] may provide for the review of any proceeding of a judicial nature fixing conditions,[91] or may withdraw such right.[92]

(§ 4) B. Reviewableness may be dependent on the general form or character of the adjudication.[93]—A decision must amount to the judgment[94] of the court[95] acting within, at least, a semblance of jurisdiction[96] on matters of law or fact as op-

84. One co-party's assignment to the other does not dispense with his being party if he is to bear costs of litigation and answer for his part of a possible judgment. Bulte v. Igleheart Bros. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 492.

85. If any co-parties refuse to join, a severance should be asked, and on obtaining it errors should be assigned in the names of those bringing error and scire facias sued out against all the non-joining co-parties and opposing parties to hear such errors. Fraser v. Fraser, 110 Ill. App. 619. All parties to a judgment who are satisfied therewith and whose interests are adverse to appellant's are properly made appellees. Vinall v. Hendricks [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 682; Risser v. Dungan [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 974; Canaday v. Yager [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 977.

86. It is not incumbent on appellee to bring in the legal representative or heirs of a deceased joint appellant, and the appeal may after the death of one proceed as the appeal of the remaining appellants. A proceeding in error may be prosecuted against the personal representatives of a deceased party without revivor. Fortune v. Gilbert [Ill.] 71 N. E. 442. Likewise an appeal from a judgment in a tort action against partners may be prosecuted against the surviving partner. Ritchey v. Seeley [Neb.] 102 N. W. 256. Appeal from an order directing an administrator to file a new bond and removing him from his office for failure to do so, the estate is not a necessary party. Robertson v. Ford [Ind.] 74 N. E. 1; Moore v. Bankers' Surety Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 607. Where an administrator appeals from an order favorable to the estate and unfavorable to him, he appeals as an individual and the estate represented by him as administrator should be made an appellee. Moore v. Ferguson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 126. The acceptance of service of summons in error by the attorney of record after the decease of his client gives no jurisdiction of error proceedings. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Robinson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 613.

87. Except in case of death or disability, the substitution of a party after rendition of judgment is not necessary to the prosecution or defense of an appeal, unless required by statute. Not under B. & C. Comp. § 38. Not in case of transfer of interest. Culver v. Randle [Or.] 78 P. 394. Where the death of a party is suggested on the record before trial or judgment, the substitution of the personal representative should be made in the trial court and not in the appellate court. Wilkinson v. Vordermark [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 538.

88. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 430.

89. Brugier v. Miller [La.] 38 So. 404.

90. See 3 C. L. 177.

91. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, p. 1929, § 3, providing that no appeal or writ of error shall lie from the county court of Goliad county to the court of civil appeals where the amount in controversy is less than $100, is constitutional. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fromme [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1054.

92. See 1 C. L. 94.

93. See 3 C. L. 177.

94. Brown v. Leary, 91 N. Y. S. 463; Smith v. Ely, 92 N. Y. S. 310; Rankin v. Bush, 92 N. Y. S. 866; Newberry v. Tennant [Ga.] 49 S. E. 621; Muttart v. Muttart, 93 N. Y. S. 468; Vaughn v. Milner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 287. No final decree or judgment entered. Appeal quashed. Delaware County Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74. An order merely sustaining a demurrer to a bill in equity, not dismissing the bill, is not appealable. Bosworth v. Wilson [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 942. A minute entry on the record of a motion—"Sept. 12, 1902, movant allowed 60 days for a bill of exceptions on the overruling of this motion. Motion overruled"—is not a judgment. Wallace v. Crosthwait [Ala.] 36 So. 622.

95. An order confirming the report of a master in chancery is not a final disposition of the case. Woods v. Woods [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 878. An appeal will not lie from a verdict. Premature where, in equitable action to subject lands in hands of devisees to debts, reference has been made to a master to determine all equitable issues, and there has been verdict on certain matters submitted to jury, but no order or judgment has been predicated thereon. Code Civ. Proc. § 11. Brock v. Kirkpatrick [S. C.] 48 S. E. 72; Jumeau v. Camp [Fla.] 37 So. 522. Not from findings. B. & C. Comp. § 547. Thornburg v. Gutridge [Or.] 80 P. 100. An order of reference founded on the expressed opinion of the judge, not followed by the sentence of the law thereon, is not appealable. Hill v. Cronin [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 132.

96. Board of Com'rs of Arapahoe County v. Denver Union Water Co. [Colo.] 76 P. 1060; Times Pub. Co. v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 806. Erroneous denial of a motion for change of venue does not end the jurisdiction but is an error to be reached by appeal. Eudaley v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 366. The probate court of Maine has jurisdiction in decreeing distribution to construe a will so far as necessary and appeal will therefore lie. In re Stilphen [Me.] 60 A. 888. If the court has jurisdiction of the claim made in plaintiff's bill of particulars it is not abrogated by an amendment joining a separate count with an independent prayer for relief which the court is not composed to matters of discretion[97] such as cost awards,[98] and it must have reached a finality,[99] became of record,[1] and been against appellant's consent or not due to his default.[2] Doubts as to appealability will be resolved favorably to the appeal.[3] It is sometimes said that motion for a new trial is necessary to appeal. This usually means that otherwise certain matters will not be reviewed[4] or that the appeal must be taken to the order on such motion and not from the judgment if certain matters would be reviewed.[5] Decisions other than the foregoing are reviewable under vari-petent to grant. Anthony v. Smithson [Kan.] 78 P. 454.

97. See post, § 13 F1. Rulings peculiar to province of trial court: Discretionary rulings. Motions denying orders to resettle former orders. In re Locust Ave., 87 N. Y. S. 798; Garofalo v. Prividl, 87 N. Y. S. 467. Order to retax costs. In re Locust Ave., 87 N. Y. S. 798. Order denying the petition of a bondholder for leave to intervene. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Tatnall [C. C. A.] 132 F. 305. Order granting leave to amend. Klinker v. Guggenheimer, 92 N. Y. S. 797. An order denying a motion for reargument. Tucker v. Dudley, 93 N. Y. S. 355.

98. Gray v. Mann [Fla.] 37 So. 161; Commercial Inv. Co. v. National Bank of Commerce [Wash.] 78 P. 910. The rule that an appeal to determine a mere matter of costs will not be entertained applies only to parties to the action and not to sureties on a cost bond. Trumbull v. Jefferson County [Wash.] 79 P. 1105. The rule that a decree or judgment for costs alone is not reviewable applies only to cases in equity and admiralty in which costs are generally discretionary. In actions at law costs are generally a matter of right and a judgment rendered on dismissal denying it may be reviewed by writ of error. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Petty [C. C. A.] 132 F. 603.

99. Robertson v. Southerland, 22 App. D. C. 595. A final order of a circuit court commissioner is appealable within 30 days after it is filed with the clerk of the district court though it directs the entry of a judgment for the relief awarded. State v. Martin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 303. An order for judgment on payment of jury fee is not final until after entry and payment of the fee. Wolff v. Wilson, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 266. An order requiring a party to appear for examination, otherwise a commitment for contempt to issue, is not final. Siegel v. Solomon, 92 N. Y. S. 238; Field v. White, 92 N. Y. S. 848. Appointment of commissioners and ordering land sold, after hearing evidence, in partition proceedings, held final. Lochrane v. Equitable Loan & Security Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 372. An order dismissing the bill for want of equity unless complainant amends so as to give it equity within two days, does not dismiss the bill and is not appealable. Robertson v. Montgomery Base Ball Ass'n [Ala.] 37 So. 241. A decree in a partition suit adjudicating the rights and interests of parties in the lands involved, ordering partition thereof and appointing commissioners to make the same is interlocutory merely and not final (Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722); but a decree ordering a sale of the property by the commissioners upon their report that partition cannot be made without great prejudice to owners of the land is final (Id.). Appeal by one of two defendants before final judgment as to both is premature. McVey v. Barker, 92 Mo. App. 498. Orders allowing an administrator certain funds for the payment of his own and attorney's services, being entered, in the form of judgments, after the hearing of testimony and the making of findings, will be treated as final for the purposes of appeal. In re Sullivan's Estate [Wash.] 78 P. 945.

1. Must be entered to be final. Hill v. Cronin [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 132. Appeal lies to injunction in liquor nuisance case even though not yet signed. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776. Suit dismissed pursuant to compromise and judgment for costs not entered. Musigbrod v. Hartford [Mont.] 76 P. 563. No appeal can be taken from an unrecorded form of decree signed by the judge though it is filed with the clerk. Martin v. Martin [Iowa] 99 N. W. 719.

2. No appeal lies from a default judgment. Schwartz v. Flaherty [Me.] 59 A. 737; Hill v. Martin, 88 N. Y. S. 708; Candeloro v. Benvenuta, 88 N. Y. S. 357; Title Guaranty & Trust Co. v. American Power & Const. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 502; State v. Leasia [Or.] 78 P. 328; King v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 837; Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Castle [Ark.] 86 S. W. 838. Under the municipal court act authorizing an appeal if defendant does not appear, one who does appear does not gain the right to appeal by afterward permitting judgment to go against him by default. Laws 1902, p. 1598, c. 580, § 311. Kerr v. Walter, 93 N. Y. S. 311. Defendant may appeal where plaintiff took judgment without notice after demurrer overruled and failure to answer over. Mathot v. Triebel, 92 N. Y. S. 512. On appeal from a judgment rendered on default the court will examine the evidence to see if it supports the judgment. Brooks v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 961. An appeal will lie from a judgment by default in the municipal court of New York though no motion has been made to the justice before whom the inquest was taken to open the default. Potter v. Katzenbach, 88 N. Y. S. 865. A judgment decree, or order entered by consent, is not appealable. King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89; Weber v. Costigan [Mich.] 102 N. W. 666; New Jersey Building, Loan & Investment Co. v. Lord [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 185; People v. Pernetti, 88 N. Y. S. 714; Reichenberg v. Interurban St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 384; Flewellin v. Lent, 90 N. Y. S. 417; Bernheim v. Bloch, 91 N. Y. S. 40; Clark v. Strong, 93 N. Y. S. 514; Texas Portland Cement & Lime Co. v. Lee [Tex.] 82 S. W. 1025; Chappell v. O'Brien, 22 App. D. C. 190.

3. Preston v. West [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 152.

4. See Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368, and New Trial, etc., 4 C. L. 810.

5. See post, § 13D, "Restriction of Review by Character of Judgment or Order."

ous statutes if they determine the "merits."[6] "principles of the cause,"[7] deny a rightful mode of trial,[8] "in effect discontinue the cause"[9] or "prevent judgment,"[10] or if they "change possession"[11] or "affect property rights," or if they would have been "final if rendered as claimed."[12] In some jurisdictions any interlocutory order is appealable by leave of court,[13] and as to some of such orders, even this is needless.[14]

Error will not lie to a judgment rendered pursuant to directions given on remand,[15] but a judgment resulting from election to pursue one of two courses held open by the mandate is appealable;[16] and where a judgment is affirmed with directions, the lower court must construe the same, and, if error is committed in so doing, the judgment is not void but subject to correction on review.[17]

Decisions by nonjudicial tribunals or boards are reviewable only by statute,[18] and statutory remedies are confined to such awards as their terms cover.[19]

Rulings relating to pleadings[20] and process[21] and matters of practice before

6. Intermediate decree upon the merits. Cauthen v. Cauthen [S. C.] 49 S. E. 321. An order granting a change of venue in a civil action involves the merits. Robertson Lumber Co. v. Jones [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1082.

7. An interlocutory decree that is appealable as one adjudicating the principles of the cause is one which adjudicates all the questions raised, and determines the principles and rules by which relief is to be administered so that it is only necessary to apply them to the facts in order to decree the relative rights of the parties in the subject-matter. Hill v. Cronin [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 132. A decree in a suit by an executor against devisees to convene creditors and administer the assets for their payment, made on a report of debts by a commissioner, decreeing debts against the estate and subjecting its lands to their payment, is appealable, since it is final, and adjudicates the principles of the cause. Trail v. Trail [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 431. Appeals are allowable in chancery wherein there is a decree or order adjudicating the principles of the cause. Code 1899, c. 135, § 1. Armstrong v. Ross [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 745. Not from an order of reference, founded on the expressed opinion of the judge, without adjudicating the principles involved. Id.

8. An order referring or recommitting a cause to the master to take and report testimony is not appealable unless it operates to deny a litigant a mode of trial to which he is entitled or is coram non judice. It is discretionary. Davidson v. Copeland [S. C.] 48 S. E. 33.

9. Transfer to another court does not do so. Womack v. Connor [Ark.] 85 S. W. 783.

10. An order in a mandamus proceeding denying relator's application for an order prescribing what particular questions arising in an action shall be tried by a jury is not an order affecting a substantial right determining the action and preventing judgment. Flannigan v. Lindgren [Wis.] 100 N. W. 818. Rulings on motions to amend pleadings do not ordinarily affect any substantial right, nor have appealable finality. Wiesmann v. Shanley [Wis.] 102 N. W. 932. An order denying plaintiff's motion to correct a verdict and enter judgment for him is not appealable as the error may be reviewed on appeal from the final judgment. Wolfgram v. Schoepke [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1054.

11. An appeal lies from a decree appointing a receiver whereby a change in the possession or control of the property is required. Virginia Passenger & Power Co. v. Fisher [Va.] 51 S. E. 198. Order authorizing sheriff to release sequestered property on bond being furnished. Boimare v. St. Geme [La.] 37 So. 770.

12. A judgment overruling a demurrer to a petition is proper matter for direct exception, as a ruling which would have been final "if it had been rendered as claimed" by defendant. Code 1895, § 5526. Ramey v. O'Byrne [Ga.] 49 S. E. 595. Except in the case of fast writs, the supreme court has no jurisdiction to consider a writ of error until after a final judgment in the court below, or one which would have been final had it been rendered as claimed by the plaintiff in error. Johnson v. Battle [Ga.] 48 S. E. 128.

13. Overruling demurrer. Code D. C. § 226. Starkweather v. Bank, 21 App. D. C. 281.

14. Allowance of temporary alimony. Lesh v. Lesh, 21 App. D. C. 475.

15. Chiles v. School Dist. of Buckner, Jackson County [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 880.

16. Where a cause is reversed and remanded, the opinion indicating that complainant may take one of two courses, and he elects to take a dismissal, an appeal from a decree then passed dismissing the bill, taken for the purpose of carrying the case to the court of last resort, will be entertained. Clark v. Roller, 23 App. D. C. 453.

17. Cordele Ice Co. v. Sims [Ga.] 48 S. E. 12.

18. The appeal from county court to circuit court is allowed only when the former court acts judicially. Not from revocation of liquor license. Barnett v. Pemiscot County Court [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 575.

Arbitrator's award. Wilbourn v. Hurt [Ala.] 36 So. 768. In Idaho an appeal does not lie from an order of a board of equalization. Humbird Lumber Co. v. Morgan [Idaho] 77 P. 433.

19. Code 1896, § 522, does not cover awards filed with a justice of the peace where no suit is pending. Wilbourn v. Hurt [Ala.] 36 So. 768.

20. Striking out paragraph for punitive damages leaving count for actual damages stand is not appealable. Banner v. Western the trial[22] are not generally reviewable in the absence of statute unless their effect is to finally determine the action[23] or involve "substantial rights," "merits," etc.[24]

Dismissals,[25] nonsuits,[26] orders to strike cause[27] and the like,[28] are reviewable

Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 117. Unless there has been a final termination of the case in the lower court, a writ of error will not lie to an order striking a plea, even though its effect may be to entitle plaintiff to a verdict or judgment as a matter of course. Johnson v. Battle [Ga.] 48 S. E. 128. Defendant is not entitled to appeal from an order overruling his plea in abatement in attachment proceedings, but can only appeal on the whole case. Rev. St. 1899, § 407. American Nat. Bank v. Thornburrow [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 771.

Demurrers and rulings thereon: Shannon's Code, § 4889, providing for the allowance of appeals from orders on demurrer applies to equity cases only. Payne v. Satterfield [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 800. An order sustaining a separate demurrer of two defendants, no disposition of the case being made as to another defendant, is not a final order. Houston v. Brown [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 775. Order sustaining demurrer to special pleas is not final while case is at issue on a general plea. Wenour v. Fossick, 115 Ill. App. 605.

Order sustaining a demurrer to the complaint is not appealable. State v. Fleming [Wash.] 79 P. 1115; New Jersey Bldg. Loan & Investment Co. v. Lord [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 185; Ernest v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1136; Livingston County Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Keach [Ill.] 72 N. E. 769; People v. Severson, 113 Ill. App. 496.

An order overruling a demurrer is not appealable. Belding v. Washington Cornice Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 37; Wenom v. Fossick [Ill.] 72 N. E. 732; Taft v. Mossey [Vt.] 59 A. 166; Wright v. Creamery Package Co. [Vt.] 58 A. 803; Gates v. Solomon [Ark.] 83 S. W. 348; Vaughn v. Milner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 287; Niles v. United States Trust Co., 22 App. D. C. 225; Starkweather v. Bank, 21 App. D. C. 281.

Amendments: A ruling on motion to amend not determinative of the cause will not go up on direct exception in Georgia even if final judgment has been since rendered; the writ must go from the final judgment. A direct bill of exceptions to a ruling made pendente lite, which does not assign error upon any final judgment, though such judgment was rendered, will not be entertained. Kibben v. Coastwise Dredging Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 330. The refusal of an amendment on the ground of want of power is appealable. To complaint. Lassiter v. Norfolk & C. R. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 642. Appeal from order refusing leave to file supplementary petition. Swift & Co. v. Koutsky [Neb.] 103 N. W. 436.

21. An order overruling a motion to vacate an order of publication against a nonresident defendant is not appealable. Not a final decree disposing of case, nor such an interlocutory order as is appealable under Code, § 226. Chappell v. O'Brien, 22 App. D. C. 190. An order of a justice of the peace quashing a writ of attachment is interlocutory and not appealable to the supreme court while the action remains undisposed of before the justice. United States v. Barnard, 24 App. D. C. 8. Where a corporation defendant pleads to the jurisdiction and files exceptions pendente lite to a judgment overruling the plea, and where, more than 60 days thereafter, the issue arising upon a traverse to the return of service was submitted to the judge without a jury, and determined adversely to defendant, held that there had been no final disposition of the case nor any decision or judgment which would have been a final disposition of the cause, if it had been rendered as claimed, and hence the supreme court had no jurisdiction to entertain a writ of error to review such decisions. Brakelow S. Co. v. West [Ga.] 48 S. E. 693. An order quashing service of summons, personal or by publication, is not reviewable before final judgment. Goldie v. Stewart [Neb.] 99 N. W. 255.

22. If without jurisdiction, an order of recommittal may be reviewed. Davidson v. Copeland [S. C.] 48 S. E. 33. An order denying defendant's motion to require plaintiff, who has been allowed to sue in forma pauperis, to file a prosecution bond. Christian v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 743. Order denying change of venue. Brown v. Cogdell [N. C.] 48 S. E. 515. Order to produce, for examination, books and papers. Erwin v. Ottawa Circuit Judge [Mich.] 101 N. W. 537; Neubert v. Armstrong Water Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 608. An ex parte order adding new parties defendant. Sundberg v. Goar [Minn.] 99 N. W. 638. But an order denying a motion to vacate such an order is. Id. An order for a continuance against defendant to a cross petition is not appealable. Bussell v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1126.

Challenge to the array: An order refusing to quash the array of jurors on grounds held to be mere irregularities is not appealable. Merits not involved. Code Civ. Proc. § 344 construed. Rhodes v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 689.

23. Where the trial court sustains a demurrer to an original petition, and at the same time allows an amendment, subject to future demurrer or answer, the case is not finally disposed of, and, therefore, the supreme court has no jurisdiction to pass upon an assignment of error complaining of the sustaining of the demurrer. Steed v. Savage [Ga.] 48 S. E. 689.

24. See preceding paragraph of text.

25. Summary proceedings. Sipp v. Reich, 88 N. Y. S. 960. Neither error nor appeal lies from an order refusing to dismiss a suit. Steward v. Parsons, 112 Ill. App. 611. Refusal of the court to act upon a motion to dismiss a petition. Roby v. South Park Com'rs [Ill.] 74 N. E. 125. Error may be prosecuted to an order dismissing a petition for failure to amend as directed by the court. Egan v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 482, 26 Ohio C. C. 616. Not from the discharge of a rule to show cause why a suit should when determinative of the action,[29] otherwise not,[30] and refusals to make such orders are not reviewable.[31]

Directed verdicts,[32] orders directing or arresting judgment or orders for new trial[33] and others of similar operation[34] are not reviewable at common law, since they are often discretionary and are not final. In some states, however, they are made directly appealable.[35] not be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Price v. Davis Coal & Coke Co. [Pa.] 57 A. 769. An order of the district court dismissing an appeal from a justice court judgment is not appealable. Lough v. White [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1084. Where a bill sets up distinct causes of action, a decree dismissing it as to certain of them and retaining it as to the others is final in so far as the dismissal is concerned. Scriven v. North [C. C. A.] 134 F. 366.

A reviewable final judgment or decree must be finally determinative[36] of the controversy to the aggrievement of the person claiming review.

26. A judgment of nonsuit which neither provided that plaintiffs take nothing by their writ and that defendant go hence without day, nor dismissed the case with costs to plaintiffs, is not appealable. Lyons v. Rollinson [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 646. A refusal to grant a compulsory nonsuit is not appealable. Snowman v. Mason [Me.] 59 A. 1019; Cox v. Wilson, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 635; Queen Anne's R. Co. v. Reed [Del.] 59 A. 860.

27. Refusal to quash a writ of foreign attachment is not a final judgment and is, therefore, not the subject of appeal. Dempsey v. Petersburg Sav. & Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 633.

28. A writ of error will lie to review the overruling of a motion to reinstate the case after the petition has been dismissed on demurrer. Van Dyke v. Van Dyke [Ga.] 48 S. E. 380. An order vacating and setting aside a verdict and not in terms but in effect granting a new trial is appealable. Eades v. Trowbridge [Cal.] 76 P. 714. Where a state court orders the removal of a case to the Federal court on an insufficient petition, the party aggrieved may appeal to the state appellate court. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jones' Adm'r [Ky.] 80 S. W. 484. An order quashing a writ of garnishment and releasing the garnishee is in effect a final judgment in the garnishment proceeding and reviewable by the supreme court. Recor v. St. Clair Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 643. An order of discharge upon a writ of habeas corpus is not a final order in the sense that an appeal or writ of error may be prosecuted thereon. Magerstadt v. People, 105 Ill. App. 316.

29. Where a bill in equity was dismissed and an order entered discharging a receiver and providing for the payment of costs, every question having been disposed of in so far as the trial court was concerned, it was a final decree. Viquesney v. Allen [C. C. A.] 131 F. 21.

30. An order vacating an attachment is not appealable. Feldman v. Siegel, 87 N. Y. S. 538. Mere written requests to the clerk for dismissal, filed among the papers of the case, are not orders of the court and are not appealable; hence an order refusing to vacate the same is not. Alpers v. Bliss [Cal.] 79 P. 171.

31. The refusal of a motion to dismiss an action on any ground whatever is never appealable. Christian v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 743.

32. An order refusing to direct a verdict in favor of a cross defendant as to whom the cause was continued is not appealable. Bussell v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1126.

33. Jefferson Hotel Co. v. Warren [C. C. A.] 128 F. 565; Foster v. Murphy & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 47; Clement v. Wilson [C. C. A.] 135 F. 749.

34. A motion to vacate a verdict is a motion for new trial and not appealable. Stern v. Bennington [Md.] 60 A. 17. Rules to show cause in cases tried in the district court in New Jersey cannot be brought before the supreme court by appeal. Haag v. Ellzabeth, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 515. An order allowing one not a party to the suit to file an original bill in the nature of a bill of review is not appealable. Leggett v. Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 566. No appeal lies from an order of the municipal court opening a default and vacating the judgment founded thereon. Candeloro v. Benvenuta, 88 N. Y. S. 357.

35. Direct bill lies to directed verdict. Webb v. Hicks [Ga.] 43 S. E. 738. Order overruling motion to reject findings made by a party is not enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 1722, amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146, and is not appealable. Johns v. Barnes [Mont.] 78 P. 703. An appeal lies from an order setting aside a verdict and granting a new trial for a supposed error of law. Johnson v. Grand Fountain of United Order of T. R. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 463. The denial in vacation of a motion to dismiss a motion for a new trial is cause for a separate and independent writ of error. Sumner v. Sumner [Ga.] 48 S. E. 727.

36. A final decree in a chancery case, such as will support an appeal, is not necessarily the last decree rendered, by which all proceedings in the cause are terminated, and nothing is left open for the future judgment or action of the court, but it is one which determines the substantial merits of the controversy, though there may remain a reference to be had, or the adjustment of some incidental or dependent matter. Hill v. Cronin [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 132. An appeal can be taken only from some decision or judgment in the nature of definite final determination of some disputed matter. Wells & McComas Council, No. 14, Junior Order United American Mechanics

Orders and adjudications in interlocutory[37] or provisional,[38] extraordinary[39]

v. Littleton [Md.] 60 A. 22. A final judgment is one which puts an end to the action by declaring that the plaintiff has either entitled himself, or has not, to recover the remedy for which he sues. Tipton v. Harris [Ky.] 82 S. W. 585.

Final: Dismissing a petition for failure to amend as directed. Egan v. New York, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 482, 26 Ohio C. C. 616. A decree for complainant on bill to redeem from a mortgage and ordering a reference. Gentry v. Lawley [Ala.] 37 So. 829. A decree dismissing a bill "out of court" for want of equity is final within Code 1896, § 426, authorizing appeals in chancery. Schwarz, Rosenbaum & Co. v. Barley [Ala.] 38 So. 119. Where partners agree upon liquidators to wind up the business and they proceed by rule to require creditors to show cause why inscriptions purporting to operate as privileges and mortgages should not be canceled, a judgment dismissing such rule, as showing no cause of action. Fitzner v. Noullet [La.] 38 So. 94. Final decree enjoining defendant from entering land, though defendant claimed an interest by purchase after the decree from persons not bound thereby. Clevenger v. Mayfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1062. A decree for plaintiff on a bill to redeem from foreclosure of a mortgage, though it provides for a subsequent accounting of rents and profits. Marquam v. United States Mortg. & Trust Co. [Or.] 78 P. 698. A decree fixing the amount of an insolvent bank's debts and determining the creditor's right to an assessment on stockholders' superadded liability. Bennett v. Thorne [Wash.] 78 P. 936. A default judgment whether legal or void. Jameson v. Simonds Saw Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 662. Orders appropriating money and directing how it shall be paid out. Boyd County v. Arthur [Ky.] 82 S. W. 613. Order allowing justices of the peace compensation for each day's work done by him in supervising the construction of county roads held final. Id. Order of county fiscal court appropriating money to be spent according to the directions of each magistrate is final. Id. An order appointing an administrator. Ex parte Small [S. C.] 48 S. E. 40. A judgment in a suit for trespass dissolving a temporary injunction and directing that the earnings of the property in the hands of a receiver be paid to defendant and that the receiver be discharged. State v. Douglass [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 87. Judgment in action to recover office held to dispose of issue as to fees collected by incumbent. Jeter v. Gouhenour [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1091. Appealability is not destroyed by inclusion in the judgment of an alternative clause of an unappealable character. Order to complete a purchase and failing that for attachment for contempt. Podesta v. Moody [N. J. Prerog.] 60 A. 939. A decree in other respects final is not rendered interlocutory by a direction therein contained in aid of the execution of the decree, requiring the defendants to account concerning certain specified matters. Clement v. Ireland [N. C.] 50 S. E. 570, citing Winthrop v. Meeker, 109 U. S. 180.

Not final: Order allowing fees to a master in chancery. Symms v. Jamieson, 115 Ill. App. 165. An order is not final when the substantial rights of the parties remain undetermined. Huffman v. Rhodes [Neb.] 100 N. W. 159. An application for review of a moderator's ruling rejecting an elector's ballot, certified with his findings and decision by the judge of the superior court, under the Connecticut statutes. In re Blake [Conn.] 60 A. 265. That a judgment entered on report of referee directing an accounting by the trustees of a dissolved corporation gave plaintiff a judgment for costs did not render it final, the provision for costs being, a mere irregularity which should have been corrected by motion. Osborn v. Cardeza [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 625. An order directing the resumption of certain payments by a guardian of property to the guardian of the person of a minor. In re White, 88 N. Y. S. 564. A judgment for plaintiff which does not dispose of defendant's counterclaim. Riddle v. Bearden [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1061. Judgment not disposing of all the parties or all the issues, where cause was expressly retained on docket and judgment was held open until the matters reserved could be determined. Wilson Hardware Co. v. Duff [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 907. Order discharging an attachment. Ferdinand Westheimer & Sons v. Hahn [Okl.] 78 P. 378. Where action for damages for cutting timber depended on a will, an appeal after court had construed will in accordance with plaintiff's contention and adjudged that they recover such damages as they had sustained, but before damages had been assessed, for which purpose the case was retained, and before final judgment was entered, held premature. Rogerson v. Greenleaf Johnson Lumber Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 647. Cannot review an order directing the sale of mortgaged property in a suit to enforce a mortgage debt, no final judgment having been entered. Tipton v. Harris [Ky.] 82 S. W. 585. Refusal to approve account and direction to account further. Sellar v. James, 113 Ill. App. 206. A judgment declaring certain parties to be stakeholders but leaving the amounts due from them to each depositor to be determined. Wilson Hardware Co. v. F. J. & R. C. Duff [Tex.] 85 S. W. 786.

37. The Wisconsin statute allowing appeals from interlocutory judgments, as in the case of final judgments, applies only to such interlocutory judgments as can be entered in actions, and not to interlocutory orders in special proceedings. Kingston v. Kingston [Wis.] 102 N. W. 577. The apportionment of referee's fees is final. Cobb v. Rhea [N. C.] 49 S. E. 161. No appeal lies by an executor from a decree directing him to make return of an order of sale of real estate for payment of debts, etc. Walker's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 256. A decree in mortgage foreclosure proceedings declining to determine an intervenor's rights in limine, but permitting him to use the property pending litigation is interlocutory only and unappealable. Columbia Ave. Trust Co. v. MacAfee Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 402. An order making absolute a rule, granted under the Pennsylvania statutes, to bring an action of ejectment within six months, is interlocutory and not appealable. Gabler v. Black [Pa.] 60 A. 257. Order discharging a rule to show cause why an attorney should not enter appearance for a lien claimant and strike off the lien according to agreement. Kurrie v. Cottingham [Pa.] 57 A. 1106. Order appointing receiver. Town of Vandalia v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Ill.] 70 N. E. 662. The code in Maryland authorizes an appeal from an order appointing a receiver. [Code, art. 5, § 25] (Monumental Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Wilkinson [Md.] 59 A. 125), but an order refusing to rescind their appointment is not final in its nature and is not appealable (Id.). Neither an order of a circuit court approving monthly reports of a receiver, nor one directing him to pay expenses incurred by him, made before the coming in of his final account, is final. Heinze v. Butte & B. Consol. Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 337. In New York an appeal from an interlocutory judgment of the county court will be considered on its merits where the parties have stipulated that it may be regarded as a motion for new trial on exceptions. Russ v. Maxwell, 87 N. Y. S. 1077. Interlocutory orders dissolving injunctions are appealable in Alabama, but this applies only to cases where an injunction has been dissolved by order or decree, and not by the act of complainant. Code 1896, § 428. Robertson v. Montgomery Base Ball Ass'n [Ala.] 37 So. 241. The deliverance of the chancellor that the filing of an amendment by complainant operated as a dissolution of the injunction is not such a dissolution as will support an appeal. Id. The appeal from a refusal of an application to reinstate an injunction, under chancery rule in Alabama, applies only where the injunction was dissolved by order or decree, and not by the act of a party. Code 1896, p. 1224, rule 101. Id. Appeal does not lie to a proceeding ancillary to the main action. Capaul v. Toledo & W. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 262, 26 Ohio C. C. 578.

and special[40] proceedings, are not reviewable except as provided by statute,[41] and

38. Injunctional orders: The dissolution of injunction and sequestration writs on bond adequately large to cover the claim of appellant made in terms reducible to money is not appealable since irreparable damage is not threatened. State v. Brunot [La.] 36 So. 481. In New York the discretion of the supreme court in issuing or refusing an injunction is not unlimited, and facts may be proved which will raise a question of law reviewable by the court of appeals. Penrhyn Slate Co. v. Granville Elec. Light & Power Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 566. Under Pierce's Code § 1048, subd. 3, not from an order vacating a temporary injunction unless it appears that the party enjoined is insolvent. Anderson v. McGregor [Wash.] 78 P. 776. A decree on the merits finding infringement of a patent, awarding a permanent injunction, and directing a reference to ascertain damages and profits is appealable as an interlocutory decree granting an injunction under the seventh section of the court of appeals act. Star Brass Works v. General Elec. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 102. Order striking out that portion of a preliminary injunction order, mandatory in character and dissolving the injunction to that extent, is appealable. Wolf v. Board of Sup'rs of Santa Clara County [Cal.] 76 P. 1108. Refusal to grant injunction in liquor nuisance case is appealable by Code, § 4101. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776. Though no appeal lies from an order dissolving a preliminary restraining order, where the order is in fact based on the conclusion that no relief can be granted on the bill an appeal will lie though the order does not in terms dismiss the bill. Bailey v. Willeford [C. C. A.] 131 F. 242. Where a temporary injunction is dissolved on a demurrer to the bill being sustained plaintiff is not entitled to appeal from so much of the order only as dissolves the injunction. Frye v. Carstens [C. C. A.] 130 F. 766. An order refusing to dissolve an injunction is appealable by express provisions of Code Civ. Proc. § 963, subd. 2. Neumann v. Moretti [Cal.] 79 P. 512. An order denying a motion to vacate an injunction against foreclosing a mortgage by advertisement is not appealable as a final order in a special proceeding. Tracy v. Scott [N. D.] 101 N. W. 905. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 963, subd. 2, appeal lies from an order refusing to dissolve an injunction. Neumann v. Moretti [Cal.] 79 P. 512. A statute allowing appeal from an interlocutory order granting an injunction does not authorize an appeal from an order refusing to dissolve an interlocutory injunction. Dyers & Cleaners' Union No. 10,168 v. Schuettauff, 113 Ill. App. 422.

Receivership orders: An order appointing a receiver is appealable (Code 1896, §§ 429, 800) but not one discharging or removing him or refusing to do so. Pagett v. Brooks [Ala.] 37 So. 263.

Order allowing alimony pendente lite is a final order, and appealable without special leave. Code D. C. § 226, construed. Lesh v. Lesh, 21 App. D. C. 475.

39. An order denying a motion in a mandamus case that the peremptory writ issue is not appealable. State v. McKellar [Minn.] 99 N. W. 807.

40. Order for examination of judgment debtor in supplementary proceedings is appealable. Ackerman v. Green [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 509. Order discharging garnishee for any cause. Cummings v. Edwards, Wood & Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 709. An order of the appellate division in New York to the Board of Railroad Commissioners to issue a certificate of public convenience is a final order in a special proceeding reviewable in the court of appeals on questions of law. In re Wood [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 561. An order appointing a referee in a proceeding to sell future contingent interests in land is not a final order under the statute authorizing appeals from final orders affecting substantial rights in special proceedings. Kingston v. Kingston [Wis.] 102 N. W. 577. A final order by a district court rendered on an appeal from an order of a village board then must be finally determinative,[42] work irreparable injury,[43] or affect substantial rights.[44] Orders punishing for contempt[45-47] are not reviewable except as provided by statute.

Orders after judgment[48] are not reviewable separately from the judgment if merely a part or continuation[49] of it; otherwise if they newly[50] determine rights[51] granting or refusing a liquor license is not reviewable by appeal. Halverstadt v. Berger [Neb.] 100 N. W. 934. No appeal or writ of error lies to review a decision of the interstate commerce commission denying or awarding reparation for an alleged violation of the interstate commerce act. Western New York & P. R. Co. v. Penn Refining Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 343. An order confirming a guardian's annual settlement is appealable. Under Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146. In re Scheuer's Estate [Mont.] 79 P. 244.

41. Cohen v. Ridgewood Shirt Co., 84 N. Y. S. 188. In West Virginia, a decree overruling a motion to quash an attachment is an interlocutory, but appealable, decree. Code 1899, c. 135, § 1. Elkins Nat. Bank v. Simmons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 893.

42. An order granting a temporary injunction on a complaint alleging irreparable injury, after notice and hearing both sides, cannot be reviewed by the court granting it, but the only method of review possible is in accordance with the statute regulating appeals (Code Civ. Proc. § 335). Jordan v. Wilson [S. C.] 48 S. E. 37. An order made on application of counsel for a receiver, without notice to the creditors, making an allowance for their services to him is not final and, therefore, not appealable. Wilder v. Reed [Or.] 78 P. 1027.

The determination of a justice of the district court deciding when one may take the poor debtor's oath is not reviewable on bill of exceptions. It is incident to some other proceeding and not directly reviewable. In re Harkness [R. I.] 60 A. 1067. Order appointing a curator is not appealable. Not a final decision. Looney v. Browning [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 564. An order in proceedings supplementary to execution requiring a person indebted to the judgment debtor to pay over the fund to apply on the judgment is final and reviewable on error at the suit of the judgment debtor where he opposed it on the ground that the debt was exempt. Duffey v. Reardon [Ohio] 71 N. E. 712.

43. An order requiring a bond for the release of a sequestration does not. State v. St. Paul [La.] 37 So. 964.

44. An order disallowing a chattel mortgage on a bankrupt's property is appealable to the circuit court of appeals under section 24a of the bankruptcy act. In re First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 135 F. 62; Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363. No appeal lies from an order of the appellate division affirming an order of the county court refusing to strike from its records a presentment of the grand jury censuring the board of supervisors for remissness in keeping their records. In re Jones [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 226. An order punishing a witness for contempt for failure to answer questions in proceedings to discover property of a decedent is final and appealable to the court of appeals. King v. Ashley [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 106. An order of reference to take and state an account, made before disposition of a plea in bar of an action, is immediately appealable. Jones v. Wooten [N. C.] 49 S. E. 915.

45, 46, 47. An order refusing to punish as contempt an alleged violation of an injunction is not appealable. People v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 892. An order in an equity suit adjudging defendant guilty of contempt in violating an injunction cannot be reviewed except on appeal from the final decree in the cause. Christensen Engineering Co. v. Westinghouse Air Brake Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 96.

Contra: A conviction of one not a party of contempt is a separate order final and reviewable (Bessette v. W. B. Conkey Co., 24 S. Ct. 665), and the same rule applies to the commitment of a party (In re Christensen Engineering Co., 24 S. Ct. 729).

48. Order taxing costs is not within the purview of a statute making appealable final orders after judgment which affect substantial rights. Smith v. Palmer [Wash.] 80 P. 460. In California by statute a special order made after final judgment is appealable. Order denying motion, after judgment, for the entry of a different judgment. Rahmel v. Lehndorff [Cal.] 76 P. 659. Appealable orders are deemed excepted to. Code Civ. Proc. § 647. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 939, subd. 3, from order striking from the files affidavits on a motion for a new trial. Gay v. Torrance [Cal.] 78 P. 540. Order denying motion for relief from default in not serving within the statutory period, a notice of intention to move for a new trial, is appealable. Steen v. Santa Clara Valley Mill & Lumber Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 171.

In Washington final orders made after judgment which affect a substantial right are appealable. Under 2 Bail. Ann. Codes & St. § 6500, subd. 7, an order striking so much of a judgment as awarded a recovery against a surety on an attachment bond. Brady v. Onffrog [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.

49. Order denying motion for retaxation of costs after reversal not reviewable. Spiegelman v. Union R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 478. Order in form of writ of assistance on foreclosure affects no substantial right. Title Guarantee & Trust Co. v. American Power & Const. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 502. An order discharging a levy on execution is not appealable. Hyman v. Segal, 88 N. Y. S. 1036.

50. An appeal will lie from an order awarding a writ of assistance in a foreclosure proceeding, after the sale has been confirmed and deed ordered. Escritt v. Michaleson [Neb.] 103 N. W. 300.

51. An order, after final judgment, refusing to release attached property, is appealable under Rev. St. 1887, § 4807, subd. 3, providing that an appeal may be taken from any special order made after final judgment.

or vacate,[52] modify,[53] or deny vacation or modification[54] of the judgment as distinguished from a default[55] and on some ground not resting in discretion.[56]

Decisions of lower appellate or intermediate courts are reviewable in cases usually prescribed by statute[57] if they possess finality.[58] A judgment of a state

Coey v. Cleghorn [Idaho] 77 P. 331. A judgment vacating a judgment and which also determines all questions which could be tried on a retrial is appealable though no formal order of dismissal of the action was made. Nolan v. Arnot [Wash.] 78 P. 463. An order confirming a sale by a commissioner or foreclosure is final and appealable. Cooper v. Ryan [Ark.] 83 S. W. 328. An appeal will lie from an order awarding a writ of assistance in a foreclosure proceeding after the sale has been confirmed and deed ordered, subject to the conditions of an appeal from an order confirming the sale. Escritt v. Michaleson [Neb.] 103 N. W. 300. An order discharging a rule to set aside a writ of execution is a final order on which an appeal will at once lie. Long v. Lebanon Nat. Bank [Pa.] 60 A. 556, citing Packer v. Owens, 164 Pa. 185. Final order appeal lies from an order allowing or disallowing costs for or against a guardian or his ward. In re Gorman, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 667, 15 Ohio Dec. 204.

52. Ordinarily an order vacating a judgment is not appealable but if it is a final order affecting substantial rights, an appeal will lie. State v. Tallman [Wash.] 80 P. 272. An order resetting a prior order of discontinuance and vacating it is appealable. Cameron v. White, 92 N. Y. S. 381.

53. An order of the probate court which vacates in part a previous order is appealable. In re Phelps' Estate [Minn.] 101 N. W. 496. Order amending judgment already entered. Code Civ. Proc. § 1722, amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 79 P. 410.

54. Order denying a motion to vacate a judgment of dismissal is not appealable. Alpers v. Bliss [Cal.] 79 P. 171. An order refusing to vacate a decree of distribution of a decedent's estate made by a district court is an order after judgment and is not appealable. Code Civ. Proc. § 445 (Comp. St. 1887, div. 1). In re Kelly's Estate [Mont.] 79 P. 244. Under the Connecticut statute, a refusal to set aside a judgment of nonsuit is appealable. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson [Conn.] 60 A. 293.

55. Statute does not include refusal to set aside decree pro confesso (Montgomery Traction Co. v. Harmon [Ala.] 37 So. 371), but as to other decrees than those confessed an appeal lies directly from a decree reversing them upon motion. Motion to reverse required by Code 1899, c. 134, applies only to cases upon a bill taken for confessed. Morrison & Co. v. Leach [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 237. Opening default is not the grant of a new trial from which appeal lies. Breed v. Hobart [Mo.] 86 S. W. 108. An appeal from a default judgment on the ground that defendant had not been properly served, defendant appearing specially for that purpose, is premature. Houston v. Greensboro Lumber Co. [N C.] 48 S. E. 738. An appeal from a default judgment, irregularly entered without notice to one who had appeared will not lie until the irregularity has been first called to the attention of the trial court by motion to set aside. Walton v. Hartman [Wash.] 80 P. 196.

56. An order refusing to vacate a prior appealable order is not appealable unless matters are presented which could not have been on an appeal from the original order. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527.

57. A judgment of the common pleas affirming a judgment of a justice of the peace on certiorari is not appealable in Pennsylvania. Phoenix Iron Works Co. v. Mullen, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 547. Orders granting a new trial are not appealable generally to the court of appeals in New York, but only those granting new trials on exceptions, and in no case tried to a jury and reversed can be so appealed unless it appears that the appellate division affirmed the facts. Allen v. Corn Exch. Bank [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 1026. An order of the appellate court reversing in part and affirming in part an allowance to an executor and remanding the case for further proceedings is not reviewable on error from the supreme court in Illinois. Griswold v. Smith [Ill.] 73 N. E. 400. Where the decision of the appellate court is such that nothing remains for the trial court but to carry the mandate into effect, an appeal to the supreme court will lie. Wenham v. International Packing Co. [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1079.

Judgment on appeal from justice's judgment: In forcible entry and detainer is appealable under B. & C. Comp. § 5754. Wolfer v. Hurst [Or.] 80 P. 419. Order sustaining a motion to dismiss an appeal from the justice court is not enumerated under Code Civ. Proc. § 1772, amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146, and therefore is not appealable to the supreme court. Franzman v. Davies [Mont.] 80 P. 251. 2 Mills' Ann. St. §§ 3839-3842, a taxpayer may appeal from the board of county commissioners to the district court, but no other appeal is provided for. Held such statute creates a special proceeding and no appeal lies in such case from the district to the circuit court of appeals under Laws 1891, p. 119, providing that the latter court may review all final judgments of inferior courts of record. Pilgrim Consol. Min. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Teller County [Colo. App.] 78 P. 617.

58. Dismissal of appeal from an order before judgment as wanting finality itself lacks finality where the whole matter may be reviewed on the judgment. See Robertson v. Southerland, 22 App. D. C. 595. Appeal dismissed from an order of the supreme court dismissing an appeal from an order of a justice of the peace quashing an attachment before judgment on the ground that the order was not final and not appealable, and remanding the cause for further proceedings before the justice. Id. The refusal of the superior court to dismiss supreme court reversing and remanding an equity case is not final.[59] Such minor court decisions are appealable as provided by statute.[60]

Parts of judgments may be reviewed if severable and complete in themselves.[61] As costs are part of the judgment, the taxation of them is not separately reviewable.[62]

(§ 4) C. Reviewableness may depend on character or value of action, subject-matter, or controversy.[63]—The action must be civil in its nature[64] to be reviewable by civil remedies. It must involve questions of law[65] or of fact to be reviewable by the remedies appropriate to each, e. g., error or appeal. In determining whether such an amount is involved as to make appeal or certiorari the proper remedy, the pleadings alone determine.[66]

The case may go either to an intermediate or to the highest court or may or may not be subject to further appeal from the former to the latter if any of the criteria hereafter referred to exist,[67] and the rights on which they stand have not a recordari granted as a substitute for an appeal from a justice, while not appealable, is, when excepted to, reviewable on an appeal from the court's action in setting aside a verdict and granting a new trial on the ground of an error of law. Refusal not a final judgment. Johnson v. Grand Fountain of United Order of True Reformers [N. C.] 47 S. E. 463. Order of the district court overruling a motion to dismiss an appeal from the justice court is not a final judgment appealable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1722, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146. Raymond v. Raymond [Mont.] 79 P. 1056. Order of the district court overruling a motion to dismiss an appeal from a justice court is not within Code Civ. Proc. § 1722, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146. Id. Judgment entered by the district court on direction of the court of appeals pursuant to Mills' Ann. Code § 398, is a judgment of the court of appeals so far as concerns review by the supreme court. Taylor v. Colorado Ironworks [Colo.] 80 P. 129. Statutes in some states provide for an appeal from the clerk to a judge of the superior court; the decision of the question by the judge, and the transmission of his decision to the clerk, after notice of which the parties may proceed according to law. N. C. Code §§ 254, 255. Alfred v. Smith [N. C.] 47 S. E. 597. A decision of the judge of the superior court on reversing a ruling of the clerk sustaining a demurrer is not a final judgment, but operates to remand the case, so far as it is before the judge, to the clerk. Under N. C. Code, §§ 254, 255. Id.

59. Schlosser v. Hemphill, 25 S. Ct. 654.

60. A judgment of the county court directing the removal of a county seat is appealable to the circuit court. Reese v. Steele [Ark.] 83 S. W. 335.

61. Code Civ. Proc. § 1300, distinctly allows appeals from specified parts of orders or judgments. Ziadi v. Interurban St. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 606.

62. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 79 P. 410. An order refusing to allow costs is reviewable only on appeal from the judgment. Musigbrod v. Hartford [Mont.] 76 P. 563.

63. See 3 C. L. 183.

64. Order for the discharge of a prisoner made in a habeas corpus proceeding is appealable. Garfinkel v. Sullivan [Wash.] 80 P. 188. Judgment on an appearance bond (bail) is attracted to the criminal nature of the prosecution and is appealable only as it is. State v. Cox [La.] 38 So. 456; State v. Epstein [Mo.] 84 S. W. 1120. In Ohio in order that a party may be entitled to appeal, the order from which an appeal is sought must be final, be made in a civil action in which the court has original jurisdiction, and the parties must not be entitled to a jury trial. Rev. St. § 5226. Application by a railroad company to define the manner in which another company may cross its tracks is not a civil action. Dayton & U. R. Co. v. Dayton & M. T. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 329, 26 Ohio C. C. 1. In Illinois an order adjudging a party litigant in contempt of court for a violation of an order entered for the benefit of the adverse party is directly appealable to the supreme court. Swedish-American Telephone Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. [Ill.] 70 N. E. 768.

Criminal appellate procedure is treated in Indictment and Prosecution, 4 C. L. 1. Compare titles treating of quasi-criminal proceedings, such as Bastards, 3 C. L. 496; Contempt, 3 C. L. 795, for the rules respecting such proceedings.

65. The question whether the court has power to grant an additional allowance is a question of law reviewable in the court of appeals. Standard Trust Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 925. Where the appellate division reverses the decision of the state comptroller assessing a franchise tax not as to the amount but as to the character of a part of the property, a question of law is involved. People v. Morgan [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 967.

66. Wheeless v. Carter [Ga.] 48 S. E. 121. Where, to an action in a county court for less than $50, defendant files a plea of setoff for more than that amount, and judgment is rendered for plaintiff, defendant may appeal to a jury in the superior court. Id.

67. See the matter following and see § 5. If a judgment does not determine title or is for an amount less than $2,500, no appeal lies to the supreme court. Clear Creek Leasing, Min. & Mill. Co. v. Comstock Gold-Silver Min. & Mill. Co. [Colo.] 78 P. 682.

been waived.[68] Thus if a decision is allowed to become a finality when it might be appealed, the appellate jurisdiction ex ratione materiae is ended, and an appeal from an injunction against execution for costs is governed solely by the amount.[69] Unless they exist, no error, however gross, opens the decision of an intermediate court, otherwise the last resort, to further appeal.[70] In Louisiana a reconventional judgment[71] or one dependent on a preceding judgment[72] is attracted to the nature of the principal one and goes where it would. Jurisdiction because of the subject-matter usually prevails over that dependent on the amount,[73] and the existence of one jurisdictional predicate makes others needless.[74]

Particular jurisdictional facts.[75]—Among the criteria prescribed by various statutes to determine appealability are the existence[76] of a constitutional[77] question particularly pointed out,[78] set up,[79] necessary to decision,[80] and adversely

Cases originating before justices of the peace: Under B. & C. Comp. § 548, providing that any party to a judgment may appeal, appeal lies from a judgment in forcible entry and unlawful detainer appealed from a justice of the peace. Dechenbach v. Rima [Or.] 77 P. 391.

68. Though a judgment after rendition cannot be so abated as to render it unappealable, waiver before judgment of a lien which would have resulted from the judgment is not such an abatement (Rhodes v. Frankfort Chair Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 768), and may destroy the character or quality which confers appealability (Id.).

69. Muntz v. Jefferson R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 586.

70. Where an intermediate court is the court of last resort where not exceeding a certain amount is involved, a judgment in such an action, though void, will not be reviewed by the supreme court. State v. Superior Court of Lincoln County [Wash.] 77 P. 33. The Colorado supreme court has no jurisdiction to review by error a judgment of the court of appeals where it has no jurisdiction to review by appeal. Taylor v. Colorado Iron Works [Colo.] 80 P. 129.

71. Judgment in reconvention is appealable where the main case would go. Judgment for impleaded third party establishing title held to have been on reconventional demand. Netter v. Reggio [La.] 37 So. 620.

72. The supreme court will not entertain appeal of a suit for nullity of a judgment not appealable to it (Strain's Heirs v. Lyons [La.] 38 So. 483), and coupling with it a demand for collateral relief or damages does not aid the matter (Id.).

73. Title to land controls value. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Ross [Ky.] 83 S. W. 635. Under Const. art. 4, § 4, and 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4650, giving jurisdiction where validity of a statute is involved, the supreme court has jurisdiction of an appeal involving validity of a city ordinance regardless of the amount. Shook v. Sexton [Wash.] 79 P. 1093. The Washington supreme court has jurisdiction of appeals in equitable actions regardless of the amount in controversy. Injunction. Trumbull v. Jefferson County [Wash.] 79 P. 1105; Bennett v. Thorne [Wash.] 78 P. 936. In cases where the supreme court has appellate jurisdiction of the matter in controversy in the lower court, the appealability of order made before or after final judgment does not depend on the amount involved. Sierra Water & Min. Co. v. Wolff [Cal.] 77 P. 1038. In Kansas defendant in forcible entry and detainer may appeal regardless of the amount involved. Burdsal v. Shields [Kan.] 79 P. 1067. A writ of mandate is reviewable regardless of amount involved. Order requiring corporation counsel of a city to approve a cost bill. City of Spokane v. Smith [Wash.] 79 P. 1125.

74. In cases involving construction of revenue laws, the supreme court of Missouri has appellate jurisdiction, even though no constitutional question is involved. City of St. Joseph v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1080.

75. See 3 C. L. 184-187.

76. Question already settled: Though the constitutional question involved has been previously decided by the supreme court, it will retain jurisdiction if the appeal was taken before such decision, but not if it was taken afterward. Carpenter v. Hamilton [Mo.] 84 S. W. 863. A constitutional question having arisen in a case, the supreme court has appellate jurisdiction, though the question has already been decided by it in another case. Meng v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 907. A question that has been once decided in Illinois will not be ground for a direct appeal in a subsequent case in the absence of special reasons. Griveau v. South Chicago City R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 309.

77. Clark v. American Cannel Coal Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 727; Griveau v. South Chicago City R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 309. A contention in a motion for a new trial raising the question as to whether or not a provision of the state constitution is violative of the Federal constitution involves a construction of both constitutions, and hence jurisdiction of an appeal from the judgment is in the supreme court rather than the court of appeals. Case certified from court of appeals on that ground. Lehner v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1028. Exemption of homestead involves vested right—may be certified. Myher v. Myher [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 116. Constitutional or Federal questions also govern in case of "Federal review." See post, this section.

78. To raise a constitutional question so as to give the supreme court appellate jurisdiction, the specific constitutional provi-

or prejudicially decided,[81] the construction[82] of statutes or public regulations, a question[83] or conflict of jurisdiction, or a conflict with,[84] or overruling of,[85] a decision of a co-ordinate court of intermediate appeal,[86] a case involving the revenue[87] or taxes,[88] a case involving freeholds,[89] titles,[90] boundaries,[91] or franchises, or the sions claimed to have been violated must be pointed out. City of St. Joseph v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1080; Shaw v. Goldman [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1223.

79. The constitutional question must have been raised below. State v. Bland [Mo.] 85 S. W. 561. Where judgment was rendered against plaintiff for failure to comply with a statute and he asked a declaration of law that such statute was unconstitutional and excepted to its refusal, a constitutional question is involved. Haag v. Ward [Mo.] 85 S. W. 391. To authorize review in the supreme court on the ground that a constitutional question is involved, such question must be squarely raised, saved by exception, and either embodied in the bill of exceptions or presented by the record. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329. Fairly preserved in the record. Mere assertion of counsel is not sufficient. Griveau v. South Chicago City R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 309. If question clearly appears from the pleadings, it is immaterial that the original bill does not expressly state that the statute drawn in question is unconstitutional. Wolf v. Hope [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1082.

80. Where the case may be decided without reference to the statute whose constitutionality is attacked, no constitutional question is involved. State v. Bland [Mo.] 85 S. W. 561. The Colorado supreme court has no jurisdiction to review a district court judgment in a matter appealed from the action of the county commissioners refusing relief against an assessment where the determination of the case may rest on the violation of a statute without invoking a constitutional provision to the same effect. Board of Com'rs of Teller County v. Independence Consol. Gold Min. Co. [Colo.] 79 P. 1012, following Pilgrim Con. M. Co. v. Board of County Com'rs of Teller Co. [Colo.] 76 P. 364.

81. Supreme court has no jurisdiction on constitutional ground, where instructions authorized a verdict by three-fourths of the jury, but the verdict in fact returned was unanimous. Kimble v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 887; Meng v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 907; Portwright v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1091; Shareman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 358; Hensler v. Stix [Mo.] 84 S. W. 894.

82. In an action for land occupied by the way of a railroad and defended by a plea of prescription, questions of taking, expropriation and the statutes thereon are involved. Scovell v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 582.

83. Appeal goes direct to U. S. supreme court if jurisdiction of a Federal court "as such" is questioned. See post, "Federal review."

84. To allow review in supreme court, the court of appeals need not expressly reverse its own former decision; it is enough that the decisions are in conflict. Red River, etc., R. Co. v. McKerley [Tex.] 86 S. W. 921. In Indiana, where a petition for a transfer from the appellate to the supreme court is filed on the ground of conflicting decision, the opinion only of the appellate court and not the record in the case is looked to. City of Huntington v. Lusch [Ind.] 71 N. E. 647.

85. Supreme court held not to have jurisdiction to issue writ of error where questions considered in court of appeals in two districts were distinguishable, and hence one did not overrule the other. Hall v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex.] 81 S. W. 520.

86. This is ground for certification in some states. See post, § 4E.

87. Question whether license or occupation tax is a tax which may be required as a condition precedent to transaction of business, the ad valorem tax having been paid, does not involve construction of revenue laws so as to give supreme court appellate jurisdiction. City of St. Joseph v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1080. A bill to enjoin the enforcement of a municipal assessment involves matters of revenue. Sumner v. Milford, 112 Ill. App. 623. An objection to the statement of the cause of action in a suit to recover a poll tax does not without notice show that a construction of the revenue laws is involved. State v. Holland [Mo.] 85 S. W. 356.

88. A license case dependent on facts goes to the court of appeal if the amount suffices to take it there on the facts, the validity of the tax being undisputed. State v. Court of Appeal for Parish of Orleans [La.] 36 So. 472.

89. Easement for use of a switch track involved and entitled the party to appeal to the supreme court. Stratton's Independence v. Midland Terminal R. Co. [Colo.] 77 P. 247. An issue whether land was dedicated as a street involves a freehold. City of Mattoon v. Noyes, 113 Ill. App. 111. Bill to remove cloud from title held not to involve freehold. Getzelman v. Blazier, 112 Ill. App. 648, following Prouty v. Moss, 188 Ill. 84. Issue on plea of liberum tenementum to trespass q. c. f. involves a freehold. Schwartz v. McQuaid, 115 Ill. App. 353. A bill to set aside a conveyance as in fraud of creditors or to declare premises subject to be sold to pay the debts of another than the one in whom the title stands does not involve a freehold. Brockway v. Kizer [Ill.] 74 N. E. 120. A right granted by ordinance to maintain for 50 years a passage from a building to an elevated street railroad is neither a franchise nor a freehold. City of Chicago v. Rothschild & Co. [Ill.] 72 N. E. 698. No freehold is involved in a controversy between the administrator of a decedent's estate and the heirs relative to the sale of land to pay debts. Thomas v. Waters [Ill.] 72 N. E. 820. A suit involving the validity of a tax deed on which the period of redemption has validity thereof when involved,[92] or title to office,[93] or questions involving civil or political rights,[94] a minimum[95] or maximum amount as prescribed by statute[96] or constitution,[97] "demanded,"[98] "involved,"[99] "in controversy,"[1] or "recovered,"[2] expired involves a freehold. Glos v. Stern [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1057. The final determination of a suit resulting in the gain or loss of an estate, involves a freehold. Kellogg Newspaper Co. v. Corn Belt Nat. B. & L. Ass'n, 105 Ill. App. 62. A suit to set aside a conveyance between the parties as obtained by fraud involves a freehold. Hursen v. Hursen [Ill.] 70 N. E. 904.

90. A suit to enjoin the collection of tolls on the ground that the toll road company's charter had expired or been forfeited does not involve title to land. State v. Louisiana, B. G. & A. Gravel Road Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 170. Action by an unsuccessful defendant in ejectment to recover the value of improvements made by him on the land. Bristol v. Thompson [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 780.

Liens: A suit to impress realty with a lien or to cancel and set aside a deed thereto involves title to realty, and supreme court has jurisdiction of appeal. Chrisman v. Linderman [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 461. Where the lien on land created by the suing out of an attachment is waived before judgment, the title to land is not involved. Rhodes v. Frankfort Chair Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 768.

Judgment involving a homestead or one incidental to such a judgment goes to supreme court. Durke v. Crane [La.] 36 So. 306. Whether a homestead set off to minors may be sold during the minority because it has increased in value beyond the amount allowed involves title to land. Brewington v. Brewington [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 640. Supreme court of Missouri, not court of appeals, has jurisdiction of appeal from order quashing execution levy on realty claimed to be exempt as homestead. Lawson v. Hammond [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 656.

Condemnation proceedings involve title to real estate. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329; In re Topping Ave. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 190. Where plaintiff claims land occupied by defendant under alleged condemnation and a claim of adverse possession, an appeal lies from a judgment in plaintiff's favor for $132 under a special finding of tenancy, since it settles rights relative to the land. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Ross [Ky.] 83 S. W. 635.

91. No appeal from Texas court of civil appeals to supreme court in boundary cases. Smithers v. Smith [Tex.] 81 S. W. 283.

92. A defense of ultra vires does not involve a franchise. Clark v. Assets Realization Co., 115 Ill. App. 150; Rostad v. Chicago Suburban Water & Light Co. [Ill.] 71 N. E. 978.

93. Office of school director is an office under the state within Const. art. 6, § 12, conferring exclusive jurisdiction on the Missouri supreme court in cases involving title to such offices. State v. Fasse [Mo.] 88 S. W. 1.

94. Right to be employed, though statutory, is not. State v. Sewerage & Water Board [La.] 37 So. 878.

95. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCampbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 854. Where only $100 damages and costs were demanded in a suit on a traverse bond, the court of appeals has no jurisdiction. Caldwell v. McVean [Ky.] 82 S. W. 992. Action on forthcoming bond held to involve more than $200. Brady v. Fraley's Adm'x [Ky.] 84 S. W. 750. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 950, in order that an appeal may lie to the court of appeals, the "value in controversy" must be not less than $200. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Ross [Ky.] 83 S. W. 635.

96. A judgment in a bankruptcy proceeding reversing a referee's decision relative to a homestead exemption in favor of a creditor whose claim is $2,000 involves over $500 and entitles the party aggrieved to appeal to the circuit court of appeals. Bankruptcy Act, § 25a, subd. 3. Burow v. Grand Lodge of Sons of Hermann of Texas [C. C. A.] 133 F. 708.

97. $2,000 in Louisiana. State v. Sewerage & Water Board [La.] 37 So. 878; Wagner Co. v. Monroe [La.] 37 So. 974.

98. In Illinois, where there was no trial on an issue of fact, appeal or error lies from the appellate to the supreme court if the amount claimed exceeds $1,000. Willard v. Zehr [Ill.] 74 N. E. 107.

99. Tieman v. Johnston [La.] 38 So. 75; Wagner Co. v. Monroe [La.] 37 So. 974; State v. Sewerage & Water Board [La.] 37 So. 878; State v. Board of Assessors [La.] 37 So. 878; Succession of Fullerton [La.] 38 So. 151. No appeal to either of the reviewing courts of Indiana lies in cases not involving more than $50, unless the validity of a franchise, ordinance, or other similar question is involved. Sears v. Carpenter [Ind.] 74 N. E. 244. Where the wife sues for damages for personal injuries and the husband joins, claiming expenses as damages, the sum total of both demands is the test of appellate jurisdiction. La Groue v. New Orleans [La.] 38 So. 160. Judgment may be reversed when the amount in controversy is sufficient to give appellate jurisdiction, though the plaintiff in error has been prejudiced in a sum less than the jurisdictional amount. But the costs will be allowed defendant. Wallace v. Leroy [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 243. The amount of the judgment remaining after entry of remittitur ordered at same term controls as to the amount involved. Merchants' Loan & Trust Co. v. Bradley [Ill.] 71 N. E. 343. The amount in dispute on appeal from a money judgment is the amount of the judgment and not the amount of the verdict, the verdict having been reduced in the trial court as excessive. Hensler v. Stix [Mo.] 84 S. W. 894.

Counterclaims: Where, in suit for $200, defendant loses on his plea of payment, but wins on counterclaim for $73, the court of appeals has jurisdiction of his appeal under Ky. St. 1903, § 950, there being $200 involved. Kefauver v. Kefauver [Ky.] 83 S. W. 119. Where defendant denies the existence of a cause of action in favor of plaintiff and pleads a set-off, and plaintiff has judgment, including[3] or excluding[4] costs,[5] interest, and other items,[6] according to the terms of the statute.

the amount involved is the amount of the judgment plus the amount of the set-off pleaded (Merchants' Loan & Trust Co. v. Bradley, 210 Ill. 128, 71 N. E. 343); but where plaintiff's cause of action is not wholly denied and plaintiff has judgment, the amount involved cannot be greater than the amount of the judgment (Id.). Where an action involves claims and offsets, the amount that determines the jurisdiction of the appellate court, as to plaintiff, is the amount of his claim plus the judgment rendered against him. Longacre Colliery Co. v. Creel [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 430. Where suit is brought for $300 and $270 is tendered into court, the amount in controversy is only $30 and the case is not appealable, the amount in controversy being less than $200. Stewart v. Hanna [Wash.] 76 P. 688.

Shares claimed from a fund or estate: The value of an insolvent estate to be distributed and not the amount provisionally distributed tests the appealability of an annual account. In re New Iberia Cotton Mills Co. [La.] 37 So. 8. In a suit to set aside a conveyance as fraudulent as to creditors, the appeal will not be dismissed because the sum due to those summoned as appellees is less than the jurisdictional amount, where the various sums decreed against the purchaser in favor of several creditors exceeds such amount in the aggregate, where there is a general appearance by counsel for appellees, all of whom have identical interests. In the absence of such appearance, court will direct process to issue against those not served. Wheby v. Moir [Va.] 47 S. E. 1005. In a suit by an heir for collation, the value of the estate and not of one of the shares claimed is the amount involved. Spaun v. Helen [La.] 36 So. 949. Amount held to exceed $2,000 giving jurisdiction to supreme court. Id. The court of civil appeals and not the supreme court has jurisdiction of an appeal by an executor from an order directing him to pay $3,500 to a legatee on account of her distributive share, where she claims no more than that sum, the only question being whether she shall have that or nothing. Held, that no question concerning land was involved. Berkemeier v. Peters [Mo.] 83 S. W. 750. Where the existence of a partnership and the subjection of certain assets to firm debts was involved, the supreme court has jurisdiction, though plaintiff's claim is less than $200.00. Lapp v. Clark's Adm'r [Ky.] 85 S. W. 717. When a partial account of a receiver is appealed, the liability which appellant may be required as stockholder to pay if the account stands is not the amount involved. In re New Iberia Cotton Mills Co. [La.] 37 So. 8.

In an action on a bond the amount involved is not the amount of the penalty but the damages alleged. Burnside v. Wand [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 995.

Fraudulent conveyances: Amount of execution and not value of land is test where judgment creditor assails conveyance as fraudulent. Courtney v. Rigmaiden [La.] 36 So. 704. Where account filed in justice's court contained no claim for interest from date of loss sued for to time of trial as an item of damage, and there were no written pleadings, such interest could not be allowed to the date of the judgment recovered by plaintiff, both in justice's and county court, to which an appeal was afterwards taken, so as to bring the amount in controversy, within the jurisdiction of the court of appeals. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Garner [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 433; Robinson v. Lamoureaux [Kan.] 80 P. 595.

The amount involved is fixed by the pleadings: Wall v. Mount [Ga.] 49 S. E. 778. The supreme court has no appellate jurisdiction of an action for damages in which the amount involved is not susceptible of valuation. Scheurich v. Southwest Missouri Light Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1226.

Where it appears as a matter of law from the pleadings that there is no right to recover certain items claimed, such items cannot be considered in calculating the amount involved. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. Blackwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 361.

When the sum demanded is not the real amount of damages, the real sum and not the sum demanded will govern all questions of jurisdiction. Smith v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 410. Where the damages prayed for and shown amounted to $150, an amended complaint alleging $75 additional damages held a mere sham designed to bring the case within Ky. St. 1903, § 950, requiring that the amount in controversy should be $200 or there should be no appellate jurisdiction. Id.

The modes for ascertaining and computing the amount are more fully discussed in Jurisdiction, 4 C. L. 324.

1. In an action to recover personal property, the amount in controversy is the value as found by the trial court, not the value alleged. Graves v. Thompson [Wash.] 77 P. 384. And alleged damages for detention cannot be added for the purpose of determining whether the amount is sufficient. Id. Where the petition in a suit against two persons alleges that each is liable for the amount sought against the other, the aggregate of the amounts claimed from both is the amount in controversy. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Lucas & King [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082. Amount in controversy is the amount which might be recovered under the petition, not the amount of the recovery had. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fromme [Tex.] 84 S. W. 1054. The test of appellate jurisdiction in West Virginia where plaintiff below is plaintiff in error is the amount actually demanded in the court below, less the amount recovered. Wallace v. Leroy [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 243.

2. Where an appeal is taken from a judgment for the payment of money, the amount in controversy for the purposes of jurisdiction is determined by the amount of the judgment. Astwood v. Wanamaker [Pa.] 58 A. 139. In Iowa where the trial court could consistently have rendered a judgment for over $100, the supreme court has jurisdiction without a certificate, irrespective of

No appeal lies in Kentucky from the grant of a divorce.[7]

Bankruptcy orders[8] and as a rule probate[9] and administration orders,[10] and lunacy or curatorial proceedings,[11] are appealable according to terms of statutes regulating such matters.

Eminent domain proceedings[11a] are covered by statute, as shown below.[11b]

Federal review[12] of state or territorial decisions, or the right to a further appeal from the circuit court of appeals to the United States supreme court, or the right of direct appeal to it, depends on the existence of a real, meritorious, Federal question[13] set up[14] and necessarily involved, and finally[15] decided adversely to ap-the amount of the judgment actually rendered. Waid v. Waid [Iowa] 99 N. W. 720. Where the damages are susceptible of direct proof and the judgment does not exceed $1,000, no appeal lies from the appellate to the supreme court without a certificate of importance. Amount remaining after remittitur controls. Merchants' Loan & Trust Co. v. Bradley [Ill.] 71 N. E. 343. The supreme court of appeals has no jurisdiction in error unless the judgment is over $100. But an order setting aside a judgment of $100 conferred jurisdiction as the accrued interest on the judgment brought the judgment within the amount limited by statute. State v. Boner [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 944. Reversal of a judgment on directed verdict for defendant in a personal injury case is not appealable, though damages in $15,000 are claimed. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 119.

3. Interest when demanded is included. Appeal from city court of Yonkers. Richardson & Boynton Co. v. Schiff, 87 N. Y. S. 672.

4. An appeal lies in Indiana from the appellate to the supreme court only when the amount in controversy exclusive of costs and interest exceeds $6,000. No appeal where judgment on sustaining demurrer to complaint is affirmed, though damages are laid at $10,000. Crum v. North Vernon Pump & Lumber Co. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 587; Leonard v. Whetstone [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1045.

5. The commissioner's fees are excluded under a statute fixing the amount in controversy "exclusive of interest and costs." Rhodes v. Frankfort Chair Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 768.

6, 7. Steele v. Steele [Ky.] 84 S. W. 516.

8. Disallowance of more than $500 of claim for franchise tax against bankrupt corporation is appealable under Bankruptcy act. In re Cosmopolitan Power Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 858. A judgment confirming a composition is reviewable by appeal under section 25a. In re Friend [C. C. A.] 134 F. 778. See, also, Bankruptcy, 3 C. L. 434.

9. See, also, Wills, 4 C. L. 1863.

10. An order refusing to vacate a decree of distribution and settlement of final account and an order denying an application to vacate an order settling an administrator's account and discharging him are not enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 1722, subd. 2, amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146, providing what orders may be appealed from the district to the supreme court in probate matters, and are therefore not appealable. In re Kelly's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 579. The supreme court has jurisdiction to review the finding of the circuit court on appeal from an order of the probate court fixing the fees of an attorney of an executor and determining from what fund they shall be paid. Ex parte Landrum [S. C.] 48 S. E. 47.

Substantial rights affected: In a proceeding to compel an accounting by an executor of an administrator, the denial of a motion to refer on the ground that the answer did not set up a valid plea in bar, when in fact it did do so, is appealable, since it involved a substantial right of plaintiffs. Jones v. Sugg [N. C.] 48 S. E. 575. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 2994, no appeal lies to the district court from an order of the probate court refusing to revoke letters testamentary or of administration. Graves v. Bond [Kan.] 78 P. 851. Supreme court has only such jurisdiction as is conferred by law under Const. art. 6, § 4, conferring such appellate jurisdiction as may be provided by law. In re Cahill's Estate [Cal.] 76 P. 383. An order denying a motion to vacate an order setting aside a homestead out of the estate of a decedent is not enumerated in Code Civ. Proc. § 963, subd. 3. Id. See, also, Estates of Decedents, 3 C. L. 1238.

11. Prior to the enactment of "an act providing for appeals from probate courts in matters pertaining to lunatics and habitual drunkards" (1905) no such right of appeal existed. State v. McCowen [Kan.] 80 P. 954.

11a. See 3 C. L. 182.

11b. Determination of preliminary questions may be reviewed on error. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Tod [Ohio] 74 N. E. 172; Dayton & U. R. Co. v. Dayton & M. Traction Co. [Ohio] 74 N. E. 195. Judgment of circuit court confirming inquisition in proceedings by a mining company to condemn land for a railroad is not reviewable. New York Min. Co. v. Midland Min. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 217. No appeal lies from an order refusing to appoint appraisers in proceedings to condemn land for the construction of a dam and dismissing such proceedings. Noblesville Hydraulic Co. v. Evans [Ind.] 72 N. E. 126.

12. See 3 C. L. 190.

13. Defendant carrier, sued in personal injury action by passenger, having claimed immunity because of use of equipment required by interstate commerce commission, the case was one involving a claim of immunity under Rev. St. U. S. § 709, warranting writ of error to Federal supreme court. Mathew v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S.

pellant[16] in the decision below. Review is direct in the supreme court if there is a question of construction of the Federal constitution[17] or of treaties,[18] or of the jurisdiction of a United States court "as such."[19] Appeal grounded on a constitutional question goes from the district to the Federal supreme court even in habeas corpus cases.[20] The provision for direct appeal to the supreme court applies to proceedings to compel the production of papers before the Interstate Commerce Commission.[21]

W. 646. Refusal of mandamus to enforce a right claimed under the Federal constitution presents a Federal question. Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Osborn, 189 U. S. 383, 47 Law. Ed. 860. A finding that a conveyance left no estate in the grantor which would pass by a sale in bankruptcy of his interest in the land presents no Federal question. Ex parte Republic of Columbia, 25 S. Ct. 107. A case involving title under a patent from the United States is not appealable from the circuit court of appeals. Bonin v. Gulf Co., 25 S. Ct. 608.

Denial of comity by one state: Whether a corporate contract was ipso facto void because in contravention of statutes governing foreign corporations and hence unenforceable in another state, held not to involve the full faith and credit clause of the Federal constitution. Allen v. Alleghany Co., 25 S. Ct. 311. Whether the courts of one state should sustain an action upon principles of comity between the states is a question within the exclusive jurisdiction of the state court. Action on corporate contract in contravention of statute regulating foreign corporations. Allen v. Alleghany Co., Id. A decision of a state court that a pleading does not disclose the defense that a note was given in course of business by a foreign corporation without complying with the state statutes involves only a local question. Id.

Where Federal jurisdiction depends only on diversity of citizenship, there is no appeal from the circuit court of appeals. A suit between citizens of different states involving land grants of their respective states is such a case. Stevenson v. Fain, 25 S. Ct. 6.

What constitutes a Federal question is fully treated in the topic Jurisdiction, 4 C. L. 324.

14. When set up below: Federal question first raised by petition for rehearing in highest state court too late to support appellate jurisdiction of Federal supreme court, where state court made no reference to it in denying petition. McMillen v. Ferrum Min. Co., 25 S. Ct. 533. A request for a directed verdict asserting rights under the Federal constitution which, if they exist, entitle the party to such direction, properly saves the Federal question. National Mut. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Brahan, 24 S. Ct. 532. Highest state court may decline to reopen, on second appeal, question of service of summons, which it has upheld on first appeal, without thereby making case for writ of error from Federal supreme court, where claim that service was invalid under Federal constitution was first set up on second hearing in trial court. Western Electrical Supply Co. v. Abbeville Elec. Light & Power Co., 25 S. Ct. 481.

The Federal constitution must be specified: Layton v. Mo., 187 U. S. 356, 47 Law. Ed. 214.

15. Reversal and remand of equity case held not final. Schlosser v. Hemphill, 25 S. Ct. 654. See, also, ante, § 4B.

16. Where the constitutional question was decided in appellant's favor, it confers no jurisdiction at his instance. Empire State-Idaho Min. & Developing Co. v. Hanley, 25 S. Ct. 691.

17. The giving of such effect as res judicata to a judgment as to deprive parties of their property without the finding of a vital question is within the due process clause, and direct appeal lies from the circuit court. Fayerweather v. Ritch, 25 S. Ct. 58. A contention that judgments offered in evidence were rendered without due process of law does not involve the construction of the Federal constitution so as to authorize a direct appeal. Cosmopolitan Min. Co. v. Walsh, 24 S. Ct. 489.

18. That the construction of a treaty is questioned only as bearing by way of argument on the construction of a statute does not authorize direct appeal. Sloan v. United States, 193 U. S. 614, 48 Law. Ed. 814.

19. Dismissal by the circuit court for want of jurisdiction in the state court from which the case had been removed does not raise a question of the jurisdiction of a Federal court as such. Courtney v. Pradt, 25 S. Ct. 208. It is only where the jurisdiction of a United States court as such is questioned that a direct appeal lies from the district to the supreme court. Schweer v. Brown, 25 S. Ct. 15. The objection that an attachment suit in aid of an action at law was not cognizable in a Federal court to which it had been removed because it was equitable in form does not assail the jurisdiction of a Federal court as such. Courtney v. Pradt, 25 S. Ct. 208. A motion to remand to state court not in terms questioning the jurisdiction of the Federal court as such does not authorize a direct appeal. Id.; Remington v. Central Pac. R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 577. Dismissal by Federal court after removal because of insufficient service of process warrants direct appeal. Remington v. Central Pac. Co., 25 S. Ct. 577. Validity of service of process from Federal court on resident director of foreign corporation involves jurisdiction of Federal court as such. Kendall v. American Automatic Loom Co., 25 S. Ct. 768; Board of Trade of Chicago v. Hammond Elevator Co., 25 S. Ct. 740. Question as to jurisdiction arising solely from the application of the rules of procedure as to bringing in parties does not authorize direct appeal. Bache v. Hunt, 24 S. Ct. 547.

Appeals and writs of error from district courts of Alaska are governed by Alaska Civil Code (31 Stat. 414, c. 51), and not by the Territorial Courts Appeals Act (18 Stat. pt. 3, p. 27, c. 80).[22]

(§ 4) D. Reviewableness may depend on the parties,[23] as where states or their political subdivisions[24] stand as litigants.

(§ 4) E. Certifiable or reserved questions and reported cases[25] usually are predicated on questions of jurisdiction,[26] importance, doubt, or conflict,[27] or several of these.[28] The question[29] and not the case is certifiable, and must be a question of law,[30] and be clearly[31] and concretely put, and be necessary[32] or material to a decision. Reports in Maine are intended to take up the whole case; hence the reporting of questions stipulating for final determination of all others by the trial judge is bad.[33]

§ 5. Courts of review[34] and their jurisdiction exist by force of statute[35] or

20. In re Marmo, 138 F. 201.

21. Interstate Commerce Commission Co. v. Baird, 24 S. Ct. 563.

22. Shields v. Mongollon Exploration Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 539.

23. See 3 C. L. 191.

24. A school district is not a political subdivision of the state within Mo. Const. art. 6, § 12, so as to give the supreme court jurisdiction of an appeal in a case in which such district is a party. School Dist. No. 1, Tp. 24, Range 4, v. Boyle [Mo.] 81 S. W. 409.

25. See 3 C. L. 191. The Vermont statute providing that when exceptions are taken and filed in a cause in county court, the court may, in its discretion, pass the same and the cause to the supreme court before final judgment for determination of the exceptions, has no application to suits in chancery. Taft v. Mossey [Vt.] 59 A. 166.

26. In some states the case is transferred by certification of a jurisdictional fact which is disclosed conferring jurisdiction on another court. See post, § 15B.

27. A difference of opinion between a court of appeals and the supreme court does not authorize certification. Smith v. Conner [Tex.] 84 S. W. 815. A writ of mandamus to compel a court of civil appeals to certify a case to the supreme court by reason of an alleged conflict between its decision and that of another court of civil appeals, will be denied where the supreme court finds that the alleged conflicting decisions are plainly distinguishable. Gen. Laws 1899, p. 170, c. 98, requires court of appeals to certify question in such cases. Shirley v. Connor [Tex.] 80 S. W. 984. The court of civil appeals is not required to certify a case where its conclusion is supported by decisions of the supreme court, though in conflict with decisions of another court of appeals. Stark v. Guffey Petroleum Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1080.

Differences of opinion between courts of appeal on a question of costs, which is largely on a matter of discretion, does not authorize certification. Smith v. Conner [Tex.] 84 S. W. 815. Though the constitution provides for the certification of a case to the supreme court when "any one of the judges" of the court of appeals shall deem its decision contrary to its previous decision or the decision of another court of appeals, a case may be certified when the entire court deems its decision contrary to that of another court of appeals. Rodgers v. Western Home Town Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 369.

28. Judgment affirmed where it appeared that lower court followed decision of supreme court, but question certified to supreme court by Kansas City court of appeals, since it appeared that the decision of the former conflicted with one of the St. Louis court of appeals, and determination of question was important. Evans v. Holman [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 17.

29. A question "whether there is any evidence in the case that will entitle plaintiff to a verdict" is good. Bauschard Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 370.

30. Citizens' Nat. Gas Co. v. Calvert, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 312. A reservation which embraces a mixed question of law and fact is erroneous. Coolroth v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 808. Where the decision of the appellate division in condemnation proceedings involved only the question as to the sufficiency of the damages awarded to property owners because of the construction of an elevated railroad, there are no questions of law involved entitling plaintiff to a certificate of questions of law to the court of appeals pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. § 190, subd. 2. In re Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 158.

31. Must be clearly stated and the facts on which it arises be admitted on the record or found by the jury in order that exceptions may be taken and a review had. Citizens' Nat. Gas Co. v. Calvert, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 312.

32. One which rules the case so completely that its decision will warrant a binding instruction. Citizens' Nat. Gas Co. v. Calvert, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 312. A demurrer based on a mere formal defect in a declaration is not certifiable to the supreme court. Miller v. Boyden, 22 R. I. 441, 48 A. 444; Cox v. American Agricultural Chemical Co., 24 R. I. 503, 53 A. 871.

33. La Forest v. Wm. L. Blake Co. [Me.] 60 A. 899. It was entertained in this case but the practice was condemned, and a precedent disavowed.

34. See 3 C. L. 192.

35. The superior court in Pennsylvania has jurisdiction on appeal in mandamus cases, but not where the purpose of the organic law,[36] and consent of parties will not confer jurisdiction.[37] Therefore, an appeal from a tribunal that was without jurisdiction confers none;[38] but since an appeal affords opportunity for a hearing anew before an impartial tribunal, the fact that one of the members below was disqualified is not a jurisdictional defect so as to prevent jurisdiction from attaching on appeal.[39] As between courts of primary and final appeal,[40] the jurisdiction nearly always depends on the existence of one or more of the criteria mentioned in the previous section.[41]

Appellate jurisdiction must be supported by a sufficient original or antecedent appellate jurisdiction to pronounce the judgment being reviewed,[42] and by orderly procedure efficient to bring up the cause,[43] else it can do naught but dismiss.[44] The appelate jurisdiction of the Federal courts in ordinary litigation is divided between the circuit court of appeals and the supreme court.[45] Error in transferring writ is to compel inspection of the books of a corporation. Neubert v. Armstrong Water Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 608.

36. The general assembly has no power to create a city court and provide for a direct writ of error therefrom to the supreme court in any municipality other than an incorporated city. A recital in the act that the court is established in a named "city" is not binding on the courts when the municipality is not in fact a city. White v. State [Ga.] 49 S. E. 715. Municipality of Sylvester being a town at the time of the establishment of a city court therein (Acts Aug. 11, Aug. 13, Aug. 15, 1904, Acts 1904, pp. 207, 240, 644, 645) such court is not a constitutional city court, and no writ of error lies therefrom to the supreme court. Id. It is beyond legislative power to change the constitutional courts or their jurisdiction. See Constitutional Law, 3 C. L. 730; Courts, 3 C. L. 970; Jurisdiction, 4 C. L. 324. Under a constitution providing that the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction throughout the state and such original jurisdiction as the general assembly may confer, the legislature cannot confer both original and appellate jurisdiction on the supreme court in cases brought before it by appeal from an inferior court. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109.

37. Midler v. Lese, 91 N. Y. S. 148. There being no authority for consolidating common-law and admiralty cases, consent of parties to such consolidation and an appeal from the admiralty case will not bring up the action at law. Shotter Co. v. Larsen [C. C. A.] 134 F. 705.

38. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Salem [Ind.] 70 N. E. 530. An appeal from a pretended judgment rendered by a person having no judicial powers confers no jurisdiction on the appellate tribunal. City of Windsor v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. App. 46. An appeal does not lie from a decree by the probate court fixing the mode of use of the streets by a telephone company under § 3461 Rev. St., such court having no authority to fix such mode. Cincinnati v. Queen City Tel. Co., 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 349.

39. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98.

40. Where a decree of the orphan's court following the petition adjudicates matters over which the circuit court has no jurisdiction on appeal, the appeal lies not to the circuit but to the court of appeals. Stonesifer v. Shriver [Md.] 59 A. 139. Appeals from final orders of the county court under the levee act lie to the circuit court and not to the appellate court. Where confirmation of special assessments is involved the appeal is to the supreme court. In re Petition of Wm. McCaleb, 105 Ill. App. 28.

41. See ante, § 4C. The appellate court of Illinois cannot pass upon the validity of a statute. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 111 Ill. App. 571. An appeal in a mandamus case as in other cases lies to the appellate court rather than to the supreme court unless some constitutional or other question is involved authorizing appeal to the supreme court. Watts v. Sangamon County [Ill.] 72 N. E. 11. The appellate term in New York has no jurisdiction to entertain a motion for a new trial upon exceptions ordered to be heard by it in the first instance before judgment. Dickson v. Manhattan R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 36.

42. Appellate judgment held void. Wilbourn v. Hurt [Ala.] 36 So. 768. On determining that the court below had no jurisdiction, the appellate court has no further power. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Walter Hunt & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1168. See, also, ante, § 4B, that the judgment must have been made in at least the semblance of jurisdiction to be reviewable.

43. See post, § 6. If the return day be too early, no jurisdiction even to amend the writ is gained. Was returnable to pending term. Barnett v. Hickson [Fla.] 37 So. 210.

44. An appeal taken when not authorized confers no jurisdiction on the appellate court except to make its order of dismissal. Humbird Lumber Co. v. Morgan [Idaho] 77 P. 433. While a district court is not authorized to review judgments of a probate court taken to it on appeal it may hear a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction. Rhyne v. Manchester Assur. Co. [Okl.] 78 P. 558. If any precedent acts are lacking there is no jurisdiction to do aught but dismiss or perhaps supervise the court below. State v. Sommerville [La.] 36 So. 864.

45. A suit involving a treaty of the United States is appealable directly to the supreme court, regardless of the ground of invoking the jurisdiction of the circuit court, and the circuit court of appeals

a case from one division of the court to another is not fatal to the jurisdiction.[46] The action of a Federal court vacating a decree rendered therein is not reviewable in a state court.[47]

A question of the jurisdiction of the appellate court may be raised at any time.[48] In Louisiana the court may decide any questions of fact, affecting its own jurisdiction, from the record if they sufficiently appear there or from facts found on a remand for that purpose.[49] If an appeal might lie to either of two courts there may be a binding election by going to the lower one.[50]

§ 6. Bringing up the cause. A. General nature and mode of practice.[51]—The appropriate remedy for review is discussed in another section,[52] as is the transmission and filing of the record on appeal.[53] An appeal where applicable is generally matter of right on compliance with the statutes granting it,[54] while writs of error,[55] certiorari,[56] and the like, are grantable within the judicial discretion of the court or judge to whom application is made, depending on the showing in the petition, assignments, or other necessary application. The suing out of a writ of error is a new suit,[57] while an appeal is a continuance of the action, and pending suits are not affected by legislation relating thereto.[58] Separate writs lie to separate judgments though pronounced in a consolidated trial and combined by consent in one bill of exceptions.[59]

Abatement and revival before taking appeal.—A suit abates and revivor in the trial court is necessary if a party dies before appeal is taken from a decree.[60] The intending appellee may apply for revivor against representatives of his deceased opponent;[61] but a proceeding in error being a new suit, it may be prosecuted without such revivor.[62]

(§ 6) B. Time for instituting and perfecting.[63]—Proceedings for review must be taken within the time limited by statute[64] or allowed by the common law.[65] has no jurisdiction. Suit by Indian to determine rights under patent. Terry v. Bird [C. C. A.] 129 F. 592. Where the circuit court sustained a demurrer to a bill for want of jurisdiction and defendant appealed from so much of the decree as adjudged him liable for the expense of the temporary receivership, no question of jurisdiction is involved. Viquesney v. Allen [C. C. A.] 131 F. 21. Section 24a of the bankruptcy act vests in the circuit court of appeals appellate jurisdiction over all controversies arising in bankruptcy proceedings over which those courts would have had jurisdiction had they arisen in the Federal courts in other cases. Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363.

46. Stripling v. Maguire [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 164.

47. Blythe Co. v. Bankers' Inv. Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 281.

48. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hall [Tex.] 85 S. W. 786.

49. Dannemann v. Charlton [La.] 36 So. 965.

50. By Laws 1899, p. 172, c. 92, a party taking a cause to the court of appeals waives a right to a review of the same by the supreme court. Blackman v. Edsall [Colo.] 80 P. 1044.

51. See 3 C. L. 193.

52. See ante, § 2.

53. See post, § 10.

54. Simpson v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 257. Appeal from the district court in New Jersey under the act of 1902 is a matter of right. Marcus v. Graver [N. J.] 58 A. 564.

55. A writ of error is a matter for judicial determination upon a consideration of the sufficiency of the grounds for the writ stated in the petition and assignment of errors. Simpson v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 257.

56. Marcus v. Graver [N. J.] 58 A. 564.

57. Eau Claire Canning Co. v. Western Brokerage Co., 213 Ill. 561, 73 N. E. 430.

58. Peters v. Harman, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 650, 27 Ohio C. C. 88. The amendatory act of Mar. 25, 1902, relating to notices in appeal, does not apply to actions pending at the time of its passage. Id. In Ohio unless an act amending appellate procedure expressly provides otherwise, appeals may be taken under the law as it stood at the time the original action was begun. Charles v. Fawley [Ohio] 72 N. E. 294.

59. Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. Van Elderen [C. C. A.] 137 F. 557. But where separate writs were each directed to both judgments and no objection was made till too late to sue out new ones, they were sustained. Id.

60, 61. Ropes v. McCabe [Fla.] 36 So. 715.

62. Ritchey v. Seeley [Neb.] 102 N. W. 256.

63. See 3 C. L. 193.

64. In re Blake [Conn.] 60 A. 265; Hopkins v. Crossley [Mich.] 101 N. W. 822;

The time ordinarily runs from the date when an appealable judgment or order[64]

Lynch v. Herrig [Mont.] 80 P. 240. No exception in case of death of counsel. Farmers' & Traders' Nat. Bank v. Willis [Ga.] 50 S. E. 366. The time and manner of taking an appeal to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia is governed entirely by its rules. Mulvihill v. Clabaugh, 21 App. D. C. 440. An appeal from a decree of foreclosure must be taken within one year. Acts 1899, p. 111, c. 60 Appeal from decree of foreclosure too late, but that from order confirming sale in time. Cooper v. Ryan [Ark.] 83 S. W. 328. Appeal taken within 60 days from entry of an order refusing probate of a will is in time. Code Civ. Proc. § 963, subd. 3. In re Fay's Estate [Cal.] 78 P. 340. Ten days from judgment or filing of findings of fact by the judge; but, under a rule requiring the clerk to enter the refiling of the finding after application to correct, an appeal within ten days from such refiling is seasonable. Boston Furniture Co. v. Thoms [Conn.] 60 A. 689. Under Mills' Ann. St. § 2432, the provision as to time within which order allowing appeal in irrigation cases is mandatory, and the supreme court cannot grant an extension. Baer Bros. Land & Cattle Co. v. Wilson [Colo.] 77 P. 245. A certificate of a jurisdictional question must be certified by the Federal circuit court during the term at which the decree is entered; the court has no jurisdiction to make it subsequently, under Judiciary Act March 3, 1891, § 6. Chamberlin v. Peoria, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 F. 32. And a reservation in the decree, reserving the right to make such further order at the foot of the decree as may seem just and proper, does not reserve the right to grant such certificate after the term. Id. If, on denial in vacation of a motion to dismiss a motion for a new trial, no writ of error is sued out and no exceptions are entered pendente lite, it is too late, after the expiration of thirty days from the date of the decision, to bring the question to the supreme court. Sumner v. Sumner [Ga.] 48 S. E. 727. An appeal from an interlocutory judgment not taken within 60 days from judgment entered as provided by Rev. St. 1887, § 4807, will be dismissed on motion. Richardson v. Ruddy [Idaho] 77 P. 972. Unless taken wtihin 60 days after entry of judgment, the supreme court is precluded from reviewing the evidence to ascertain its sufficiency to support the findings of fact. § 4807, Rev. St. 1887. Cunningham v. Stoner [Idaho] 79 P. 228. Appeal must be taken at same term. Finch v. Finch, 111 Ill. App. 481. Five years from final decree is allowed for writ of error in mechanic's lien cases. Gordon v. Sorg, 113 Ill. App. 522. In an equity case tried on depositions, a certification of the evidence must be filed within six months to be reviewed on appeal. National Surety Co. v. Walker [Iowa] 103 N. W. 492. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 3580, proceeding to reverse a judgment against a fraternal benefit association must be commenced within 60 days after rendition. Modern Woodmen of America v. Heath [Kan.] 79 P. 1091. Appeal commenced on Monday following the Saturday which was the last day is not in time though the petition was brought in on Saturday after clerk's office had closed. Gray v. Cooper [Kan.] 78 P. 812. Gen. St. 1901, § 5053, prescribing the time within which error to reverse interlocutory orders discharging an attachment or temporary injunction must be commenced, has no application to proceedings to reverse final judgment in an injunction action. Shanks v. Pearson [Kan.] 78 P. 446. The time (30 days) given to appeal suspensively from divorce does not apply to separation from bed and board. Knoll v. Knoll [La.] 38 So. 523. In Massachusetts exceptions to the finding on the ground that it was not supported by the evidence are taken too late when not taken until 20 days after the decision and on the filing of the bill. Richards v. Appley [Mass.] 73 N. E. 555. Two years in Mississippi. Chambliss v. Wood [Miss.] 36 So. 246. Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 810, authorizing any judge of the supreme court or of either of the courts of appeals, in cases appealable to said courts, to grant an appeal within one year next after the rendition of final judgment, does not apply where an appeal is already pending when the application is made. Smith v. Flick [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. The Nebraska statute of 1901 shortening the time within which appeals may be taken is valid. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sporer [Neb.] 100 N. W. 813. Under Comp. Laws, § 3425, must be taken within one year from rendition of judgment. Candler v. Washoe Lake Reservoir & G. C. Ditch Co. [Nev.] 80 P. 751. Time for filing in an attachment suit is not extended by the filing of a bill of exceptions after a ruling on the motion to dissolve the attachment. Cecil v. Grant, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 65. Petition in error to the withdrawal of evidence from the jury and dismissal of suit must be filed within four months from the rendition of the judgment. McCallen v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 366, 26 Ohio C. C. 710. Notice filed three days after entry of judgment of common pleas is sufficient on appeal to circuit. 25 Ohio Laws, 66. Kenton v. Board of Education of Mad River Tp. [Ohio] 71 N. E. 287. Ninety days from determination of motion for new trial. § 1, c. 148, p. 285, Sess. Laws 1903. Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 839. In Washington an appeal from an order denying a motion to vacate a tax foreclosure judgment is governed by the revenue statute and must be taken within 30 days from date of the order and is not extended by a petition to reconsider the order. Pedigo v. Fuller [Wash.] 79 P. 1129. Decree in suit by executor against devisees to convene creditors and administer assets for their payment, made on report of debts by a commissioner, decreeing debts against the estate and subjecting lands to their payment, must be appealed from within two years. Trail v. Trail [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 431.

65. There being no provision in the bankruptcy act or general orders fixing the time within which a petition for review of a referee's order must be filed, a reasonable time will be allowed in view of the general purpose of the act to expedite the proceedings. Crim v. Woodford [C. C. A.] 136 F. 34.

66. Where the motion for new trial prebecomes a finality[67] on the record,[68] and is computed according to the rules applicable to other procedure.[69] Under the Federal procedure, the writ of error must sented no additional matters, appeal therefrom must be within the time limited for appeal from the judgment. Moore v. Henderson [Ark.] 85 S. W. 237. The year allowed in Indiana excludes the day on which judgment was rendered and includes the last day of the year. Hoerger v. Citizens' St. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1095. An order sustaining a demurrer to one defense where trial proceeded on the others must, in order to be reviewed, be taken to the supreme court within one year from the sustaining of the demurrer. Corum v. Hubbard [Kan.] 77 P. 530. In Massachusetts where the court sustains a demurrer to the declaration and does not direct judgment, the right to appeal is in abeyance until the judgment is rendered. Cummings v. Ayer [Mass.] 74 N. E. 336. The time for an appeal on the merits cannot be counted from the date of overruling an objection to the cost bill. Wadhams v. Allen [Or.] 78 P. 362. See, also, Lemmons v. Huber [Or.] 77 P. 836. Limitation as to right to appeal from a decree overruling a motion to dissolve an attachment begins to run at the date of overruling the motion. Elkins Nat. Bank v. Simmons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 893. A nonappealable decree is carried forward to the date of a later appealable decree, and is reviewable upon an appeal from it. Trail v. Trail [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 431. An appeal from a later decree will not review a former appealable decree, an appeal from which is barred by limitations, nor can the later decree be reversed for errors therein arising from the former appeal. Id. Under Rev. St. § 4262, as amended by Laws 1901, p. 28, c. 28, and Sup. Ct. Rule 13 (26 P. 12), the time within which proceedings in error on motion for a new trial begins to run on the date action is taken on such motion and not from the date of entry of judgment. Conradt v. Lepper [Wyo.] 78 P. 1.

67. The judgment is not final while the judgment is still under control of the trial court by reason of a motion for new trial. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 131 F. 145. Date when judgment was entered within meaning of Code Civ. Proc. § 939, determined. In re More's Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 407. If an exception to an order allowing an amendment and retaining the case, made after a judgment sustaining a demurrer has been sustained with directions to allow defects in the petition to be cured, be to a ruling which would have been final, the bill of exceptions should be made returnable to the next term of the supreme court. Cordele Ice Co. v. Sims [Ga.] 48 S. E. 12. An order overruling a motion for a new trial in whole or in part is a final order and proceeding to review the same must be commenced within one year. Civ. Code, § 556. Clyde Mill. & Elevator Co. v. Buoy [Kan.] 80 P. 591. An order entered in the minute book on the last day of the term allowing an attorney's fee to plaintiff's attorney held not to have become complete until spread on the order book and approved and signed by the court on the first day of the succeeding term, so that it was sufficient to object to, and pray for an appeal from, such order on that day. Fristoe v. Gillen [Ky.] 80 S. W. 823. Time runs from signature, not from rendition of judgment. Orleans & J. R. Co. v. International Const. Co. [La.] 37 So. 10. Within ten days from the signing and notification of judgment, and the time begins to run at date of the judgment, if rendered in presence of the parties, and within three days after notification, if rendered in their absence or on default of one party. Code Prac. art. 1131. Simonton v. Mitchel [La.] 37 So. 877. A party to an action may appeal by serving notice within ten days after adjournment of court. Code, § 549. Houston v. Greensboro Lumber Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 738. An appeal is premature if brought before a final determination is had or if the judgment be incomplete. Delaware County Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74. Under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5030, 5115, 5071, 5075, a judgment in an equity case does not become final within §§ 5062, 6502, prescribing the time within which appeals may be taken and statements filed and served until the motion for a new trial is disposed of. State v. Chapman [Wash.] 76 P. 525. An appeal from an order sustaining a motion to dismiss an appeal from a justice of the peace for insufficiency of such bond and granting leave to move to amend and cure the defect on account of which the dismissal was ordered, is perfected in time where the bond is filed within twenty days after the denial of such motion. Schrot v. Schoenfeld, 23 App. D. C. 306.

68. The period within which an appeal may be taken begins to run from the entry of the judgment of record, regardless of when announced orally or in writing by the judge. In this case the appeal was taken within six months after the entry of judgment nunc pro tunc, though nearly 18 months after verdict. Stutsman v. Sharpless [Iowa] 101 N. W. 105. In New York where the appellate division reverses a judgment and grants a new trial, a further appeal is in time if taken within the statutory period after the judgment of reversal is entered, though the order granting the new trial was entered first. Wingert v. Krakauer [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 46. When an order dismissing an appeal is entered in circuit court nunc pro tunc, a petition in error to review it may be filed in the supreme court at any time within the statutory period after its actual entry. Charles v. Fawley [Ohio] 72 N. E. 294. Where, after the entry of an informal judgment on plaintiff's behalf, he prepares and has signed and entered a formal one, he is estopped from claiming that the time runs from the informal judgment entry. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 287.

69. See Time, 4 C. L. 1680. Under Code D. C. § 1389, making every Saturday afternoon a holiday for all purposes, Saturdays will be counted as half days in computing the time within which an appeal from deciissue in time notwithstanding the time of its allowance.[70] In North Dakota the right to appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial may be exercised after the time for appealing from the judgment has expired, provided the appeal is taken within the time limited for appealing from such orders.[71] The appellate court has no jurisdiction if an appeal is prematurely taken,[72] and it is premature if brought before performance of any of the necessary conditions.[73] "Fast" or "accelerated" appeals or writs of error are allowed in some jurisdictions and for certain classes of cases.[74] The taking of an appeal is jurisdictional and the court has no power to extend the time therefor or to cure any defect therein.[75]

(§ 6) C. Affidavits and oaths,[76] either of good faith[77] or to verify the grounds of appeal, are required in some states. The appellate court has no power to make any order respecting the amendment of the affidavit for appeal or the substitution of one conforming to statute for a defective one.[78] A clerical error however will be disregarded.[79]

(§ 6) D. Notice, citation or summons.[80]—Timely[81] and regular[82] service by sions of the commissioner of patents must be taken. Ocumpaugh v. Norton, 24 App. D. C. 296.

70. The circuit court of appeals is without jurisdiction to review a judgment on a writ of error not issued until more than six months after entry of the judgment though it may have been allowed within that time. Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, § 11. Rutan v. Johnson [C. C. A.] 130 F. 109.

71. King v. Hanson [N. D.] 99 N. W. 1085. The additional time allowed in North Dakota applies only to those orders which require the subsequent settlement of a statement of case for the purpose of review. Id.

72. The fact that appellee granted appellant further time to file his brief does not estop him from urging a motion to dismiss. In re More's Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 407. Where notice of appeal is given prior to entry of the judgment appealed from, the appellate court acquires no jurisdiction. Code Civ. Proc. § 939. Id. That one was furnished a copy of a decree by the clerk of court certifying that the decree was there on file in his office is not a certificate that the decree had been "entered" within Code Civ. Proc. § 939. Id.

73. Order for judgment on payment of jury fee and appeal taken before fee paid. Wolff v. Wilson, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 266. Appeal by executor from decree ordering him to make return of sale, etc. Walker's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 256. Appeal taken before exceptions filed in case tried to court. Miller v. Cambria County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 591. An appeal is premature if claimed before the settlement of the case. Sherman v. Sherman [Mich.] 102 N. W. 630.

74. A judgment sustaining a demurrer to a petition cannot be taken up by fast writ of error, since it is not authorized by Civ. Code 1895, § 5540; and exceptions so made will not be considered. Johnson v. Cravey [Ga.] 48 S. E. 424. After judgment sustaining demurrer has been sustained, with directions to allow defects to be cured, a fast writ will not lie to an order permitting the petition to be amended. Cordele Ice Co. v. Sims [Ga.] 48 S. E. 12. A bill of exceptions assigning error upon an order confirming a sale by a receiver, passed before the final decree, is not such a judgment as can be brought up by fast writ of error. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Burwell [Ga.] 48 S. E. 145. The jurisdiction of the supreme court to entertain cases relating to applications for a receiver which can be brought up by fast writ of error is restricted to those in which the application for a receiver has been granted or refused. Id.

75. Moe v. Harger [Idaho] 77 P. 645.

76. See 3 C. L. 196.

77. A prosecution for the violation of a city ordinance being a civil proceeding, the filing of the statutory affidavit is a condition precedent to an appeal from a conviction. Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 2815, considered. Fortune v. Incorporated Town of Wilburton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 738. The affidavit for an appeal from a conviction for violation of a city ordinance must be filed with the justice before whom the conviction was had. Must not be filed in the appellate court. Id. An affidavit of appeal filed after judgment is entered may be sufficient, though a substitute judgment be entered. Haseltine v. Messmore [Mo.] 82 S. W. 115. In Missouri no appeal will be allowed unless appellant or his agent shall, during the term at which the judgment was rendered, file in the court his affidavit stating that such appeal is not made for vexation or delay, but because the affiant believes that appellant is aggrieved by the judgment. Rev. St. 1899, § 808. Affidavit that appeal is not taken for vexation or delay, but that justice may be done the plaintiff in the premises, held insufficient. Arkansas & O. R. Co. v. Powell [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 336.

78. Since does not acquire jurisdiction without it. Arkansas & O. R. Co. v. Powell [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 336.

79. "Affidavit" prayed for instead of "appeal." Hitt v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 669.

80. See 3 C. L. 196.

81. Notice of appeal must be filed and served within the statutory time. Moe v. Harger [Idaho] 77 P. 645. It is not necessary in Alabama to serve citation for appeal within 10 days. State v. United States End. & T. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 442. A citation is not the appellant[83] on the opposing parties[84] (or such of them as have appeared[85] by counsel[86] or whose rights will be affected by a reversal[87]) of such notice of appeal, citation, or summons as the practice requires, in due form,[88] properly signed,[89] addressed to the party to be notified,[90] is usually requisite,[91] and the notice with jurisdictional to the extent that it must be issued within the time prescribed for taking the appeal, and where the appeal has been otherwise properly perfected, the appellate court will grant an opportunity to issue and serve a citation. Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1. No appeal lies in a summary proceeding in Maryland unless immediate notice of intention is given and the evidence has been reduced to writing and transmitted to the appellate court. But a petition praying the rescission of an order approving and passing an administrator's final account and requiring a restatement thereof is not summary. Stonesifer v. Shriver [Md.] 59 A. 139.

82. Notice of appeal is properly served by being "left with a person having charge" of the office under Code Civ. Proc. § 1011, where it is left in a conspicuous place on the desk of appellee's attorney and called to the attention of the person in charge of the office. People v. Perris Irr. Dist. [Cal.] 76 P. 381. Where the summons in error is duly issued and delivered to an officer for service, and the officer as well as the clerk of the court informs plaintiff's attorney that the summons has been served and returned, the attorney may rely upon the presumption that the officer has done his duty. Parker v. Parker [Neb.] 102 N. W. 85.

83. A stranger acting as amicus curiae cannot give notice of appeal. Southern R. Co. v. Locke [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1069.

84. Service of citation on the attorney confers no jurisdiction where defendant in error is a resident. National Cereal Co. v. Earnest [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1101. Sureties on a cost bond filed by a nonresident plaintiff are not parties and need not be served with notice of appeal. Wagner v. Royal [Wash.] 78 P. 1094. Where a petition against a partnership for the purchase price of goods is amended at the trial so as to charge but one individually, notice of appeal need be served only on him. Padden v. Clark [Iowa] 99 N. W. 152. Where in sequestration proceedings it has been found that the assets of an insolvent corporation can in no case discharge the liabilities, and a judgment has been rendered against persons charged with the wrongful appropriation of property applicable to the payment of debts, the insolvent corporation, on an appeal from such judgment, is not an interested adverse party, so as to require service upon it of the notice of appeal, under the statute. Rev. St. 1898, § 3049. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

85. Notice of appeal must be served on all parties appearing in the action and not joining in the appeal. A corporation must be served in an appeal by stockholders on a question relative to holding meetings, management, etc. Willard v. Lucile Dreyfus Min. Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 917. On appeal from an order denying a petition to vacate a judgment, only those who appeared in the proceeding to vacate need be served and not parties in the action in which the judgment was rendered. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6504. Collins v. Kinnear [Wash.] 79 P. 995.

86. An appeal as to nonresidents will not be dismissed on the motion of resident respondents because no notice of intent to appeal was served on them, where they were not represented by counsel. Cauthen v. Cauthen [S. C.] 49 S. E. 321.

87. Beach v. Wakefield [Iowa] 100 N. W. 938. Nonresident distributees of a decedent's estate. In re Pendergast's Estate [Cal.] 76 P. 962. In California, adverse parties who never appeared below are entitled to notice of appeal under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 940, 1014. Johnson v. Phenix Ins. Co. [Cal.] 80 P. 719. In an action by one executor, a notice of appeal need not be served on another executor joined as defendant because he refused to join as plaintiff; he not being an "adverse party" and would not be affected by a reversal. Sprague v. Walton [Cal.] 78 P. 645. Notice need not be served on the next friend of a minor appellant, though the judgment appealed from awards costs against both. Douglass v. Agne [Iowa] 99 N. W. 550. A lessee whose lease has expired and who claims no interest in property title to which is sought to be quieted is not an "adverse party" required to be served with notice of appeal. Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519.

88. Notice that defendant "has appealed" instead of that "he appeals" is sufficient under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6503, providing that informality or defect in notice is not ground for dismissal. James v. James [Wash.] 77 P. 1082. Where authority of "justice of the peace" and "justice of the peace court" are identical, a notice of appeal signed by the justice gives the appellate court jurisdiction of the justice of the peace court. State v. Justice Court of Tp. No. 1, Gallatin County [Mont.] 78 P. 498. That the notice of appeal is entitled "In the supreme court" is not a fatal irregularity where it clearly indicates the court and judgment appealed from, though the notice must be filed in the district court. Code, § 4115. Douglass v. Agne [Iowa] 99 N. W. 550.

89. Under Ohio Rev. St. 5227, a party may authorize his attorney to sign notice of appeal. Kefauver v. Batdorf, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 427, 24 Ohio C. C. 664; Kenton v. Board of Education [Ohio] 71 N. E. 287.

90. A notice addressed to one party is not notice to others, though served on the attorney acting for all. In re Pendergast's Estate [Cal.] 76 P. 962. A notice is insufficient as to a party to whom it is not addressed, though served on him. In re Anderson's Estate [Iowa] 101 N. W. 510.

91. An appeal is not taken until notice thereof is filed and served. Moe v. Harger [Idaho] 77 P. 645. Where no notice of appeal is served on an appellee or his attorney, the appeal will be dismissed as to him. Rice v. Bolton [Iowa] 100 N. W. 634. An return of service is usually required to be filed.[92] Failure to serve one party does not ordinarily affect the appeal as to his co-parties who are properly served.[93] Notice in open court to a party who has appeared obviates necessity of written notice,[94] and appearance cures failure to serve notice.[95] A notice of appeal stating that the parties joining therein severally and separately appeal is equivalent to a separate notice by each appellant.[96]

(§ 6) E. Application for leave to appeal[97] or for a writ of error[98] made within the time[99] and in the manner required by law[1] is necessary in some jurisdictions, but not in others.[2] When required, this need does not yield to the pendency of a rehearing.[3] Practice also varies as to the necessity of an accompanying assignment of errors.[4] When required, such assignment must be filed in time.[5]

(§ 6) F. Allocatur; order for or allowance of appeal; certificate.[6]—An allowance of the appeal is necessary in all practices where appeal does not go as of right,[7] and in cases where it is doubtful if an appeal of right would lie, one may be appeal being complete, the appellate court may dismiss it if appellant fails to give the statutory notice to appellee, or fails to prosecute it. Robinson v. Arkansas Loan & Trust Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 609. A term time appeal from an order refusing to dissolve an injunction granted at a previous term will not bring up any of the proceedings at the previous trial where no notice of appeal is given. Slusser v. Falin [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 17. The appeal is perfected by the filing of the transcript with the proper assignments of error thereon within the year, without service of a notice on appellee. Hoerger v. Citizens' St. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1095. Where appeal is taken by one of several parties from a justice court judgment, if the others are not notified of the appeal as required by Mills' Ann. St. § 2685, no judgment can be rendered against them at the first term. Miller v. Kinsel [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1075.

92. Filing within the statutory period after service on unnecessary parties is insufficient under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6503. Collins v. Kinnear [Wash.] 79 P. 995.

93. Appeal from a decree of distribution of an estate. In re Pendergast's Estate [Cal.] 76 P. 962. Service of notice of appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial, on the adverse parties to the motion is sufficient, though a co-defendant is not served. Johnson v. Phenix Ins. Co. [Cal.] 80 P. 719. Notice to co-parties is not necessary unless their rights may be prejudicially affected by the appeal. Ewart v. Ewart [Iowa] 101 N. W. 869.

94. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.

95. Stipulation held to amount to an appearance. Valley Lumber Co. v. Struck [Cal.] 80 P. 405.

96. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

97. See 3 C. L. 197.

98. In Florida, a writ of error in a habeas corpus case issued without the allowance thereof either by the trial judge or by a justice of the supreme court is a nullity. Rev. St. 1892, § 1780, as amended by chap. 4920, p. 52, Laws of 1901. State v. Vinzant [Fla.] 38 So. 366.

99. Certificate of importance must be asked and made within 20 days after rendition of judgment. Godfrey v. Wingert, 110 Ill. App. 563.

1. A prayer for an appeal made to a judge in his private office away from the court house without the clerk or docket is not made in open court. Hays v. Philadelphia, W. & B. R. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 439.

2. No written application is necessary in Alabama to appeal; the filing of approved security for costs within ten days suffices. State v. United States Endowment & Trust Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 442.

3. Godfrey v. Wingert, 110 Ill. App. 563.

4. Statement of errors usually required. New England Merchandise Co. v. Miner [Conn.] 58 A. 4. Petition for appeal must assign all the errors relied on for a reversal. Code 1887, § 3464. Hawpe v. Bumgardner [Va.] 48 S. E. 554. The filing of an assignment of errors before or at the time of the allowance of the appeal is indispensable under the eleventh rule of the circuit court of appeals. Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 128 F. 279; Simpson v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 257; Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1. Where in proceedings by appeal and by writ of error to review the same rulings the alleged errors are the same in both proceedings, the filing of a single assignment of errors accomplishes the purpose of the rule and is sufficient to sustain the proceeding requisite to obtain the review. Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1. Application by the party cast need not state that he is aggrieved or that there is error. Lee v. Foley [La.] 37 So. 594.

5. The assignment of errors on an appeal is filed in time when filed on or before the time when the judge signs the citation and approves the bond which he has made the condition of the allowance of the appeal. Simpson v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 129 F. 257; Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1. The assignment of errors must be presented to the judge at the time of the settling of the bill. Special rule 1 for circuit courts. Selph v. Cobb [Fla.] 38 So. 259.

6. See 3 C. L. 198.

7. The clerk cannot grant an appeal un-granted.[8] Allowance of an appeal may be revoked at the term at which it was made.[9] The order fixing amount of bond may be construed as allowing a devolutive appeal where the amount is too small for a suspensive appeal.[10] Where a bond is approved for appeal to the supreme court, and the appeal is allowed to the appellate court, there is no jurisdiction in the supreme court.[11] On mandamus to compel the allowance of an appeal, the merits of the judgment appealed will not be investigated.[12] The Federal district court will not allow an appeal from its decision refusing a writ of habeas corpus to one convicted in a state court, where an appeal from the state to the Federal supreme court has been dismissed.[13]

(§ 6) G. Bonds; security; payment of costs.[14]—Supersedeas bonds[15] and liability on appeal bonds are treated in other sections.[16] Bond or security for the payment of costs is uniformly required,[17] except as dispensed with by statutes relating to poor litigants[18] or to appeals by administrators[19] or executors,[19a] or by public officers,[20] or public corporations,[21] and must be filed in the court below.[22] less an authenticated copy of the transcript is presented to him within the time allowed for appealing. Damon v. Hammons [Ark.] 84 S. W. 796. An order on motion in open court and entered on the minutes need not be signed. Knoll v. Knoll [La.] 38 So. 523.

8. Guthrie v. Welch, 24 App. D. C. 562.

9. Werckmann v. Taylor [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 44.

10. Knoll v. Knoll [La.] 38 So. 523.

11. Sanitary Laundry Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 300, 72 N. E. 434.

12. State v. Sommerville [La.] 37 So. 476; State v. De Baillon [La.] 37 So. 481.

13. Ex parte Look, 134 F. 308.

14. See 3 C. L. 198.

15. See post, § 7.

16. See post, § 17.

17. Omission to file an undertaking as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1724, renders the appeal ineffectual. Johns v. Barnes [Mont.] 78 P. 703. Appeal bond is essential to the validity of an appeal to the district court from an order of the board of county commissioners. Foresman v. Nez Perce County Com'rs [Idaho] 80 P. 1131. No bond for costs is necessary in the District of Columbia where a supersedeas bond has been given. Daney v. Clark, 24 App. D. C. 487. Statutory regulations of the right to a review upon appeal or otherwise, as regards costs and security for costs, cannot be condemned as class legislation merely because it is more burdensome for some persons than for others to comply therewith. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. Reasonable regulations imposing costs and requiring security for costs as incidents of judicial proceedings to redress wrongs or protect rights do not violate the bill of rights entitling every person to "obtain justice freely and without being obliged to purchase it." Id.

18. The right to proceed in forma pauperis is purely statutory. Bradford v. Southern R. Co., 25 S. Ct. 55. There is no right to prosecute a writ of error in forma pauperis from the circuit court of appeals to the supreme court. Act July 20, 1892, applies to suits and not appellate proceedings. Id. Mills' Ann. St. § 676, permitting courts in their discretion to allow persons to sue in forma pauperis does not apply to the court of appeals. Ferrara v. Aurie Min. Co. [Colo. App.] 79 P. 302. Proof of inability to pay costs on appeal, in order to obtain a certificate authorizing an appeal without bond, must be made while the court is actually in session. Emerson v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1060. Where such proof is made before the court, there must be an order entered on the minutes showing that the court was in session. Smith v. Buffalo Oil Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 481.

19. The statute in Indiana allows administrators to appeal without bond, but extends only to cases involving the settlement of estates. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 2609-2612. An action by an administrator on a life insurance policy does not involve probate jurisdiction, and an appeal in such case is governed by the civil code. Holderman v. Wood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 199. An appeal by an administrator from an order directing him to give a new bond and removing him for failure to do so is governed by the civil code and not by the statute allowing administrators to prosecute appeals without bond. Moore v. Bankers' Surety Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 607. On appeal by an administrator from an order removing him he is not required to give bond as security for anything more than the costs that may be awarded against him. Fleming v. Kirby [Mich.] 100 N. W. 272.

19a. Chipman v. Wells [Ind. App.] 72 N. W. 172.

20. Where the prosecuting attorney on behalf of the state takes an appeal from a decree of the probate court determining a right to a collateral inheritance tax, no bond or notice is necessary. Humphreys v. State [Ohio] 70 N. E. 957.

21. In Mississippi no bond is required in case of an appeal by a county. Rev. Code 1892, § 93. Jones v. Rogers [Miss.] 38 So. 310. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6505, providing that no bond is necessary when appeal is taken by the state, county, city, etc., does not apply to an appeal by a county auditor on his own behalf. State v. Blumberg [Wash.] 76 P. 272.

22. The court of appeals has no power to set aside its rules relating to appeals, and to permit a bond to be filed in that court in lieu of one required to be filed below.

Where several appeals are taken, a bond must be given in each,[23] and a bond can be considered as that only of the appellant recited in its body as bound to prosecute with effect, and not of all persons signing it.[24] An undertaking in form to answer in a certain sum for the defaults of several defendants constitutes one obligation.[25] In some states the bond is allowed to stand as security on a further appeal.[26] Timeliness in filing and approval is essential.[27] Additional[28] or substituted security may be required to cure inadequateness or defects,[29] but total failure to give a bond is usually deemed so fundamental to jurisdiction as to be incurable.[30] Fixing[31] and approval of the security is primarily for the trial court[32] or other officer Darlington v. Turner, 24 App. D. C. 573. Bond may not be filed for the first time in the appellate court. Schrot v. Schoenfeld, 23 App. D. C. 421.

23. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1724, 1725, 1731, where appeals are taken from the judgment and from any other appealable order except one denying a new trial, a separate undertaking must be filed for each unless all are included in the same paper and proper reference made. Pirrie v. Moule [Mont.] 81 P. 390. Notice of appeal from a judgment which also enumerated several unappealable orders appealed from, held notice of appeal from the judgment only, and a single bond was sufficient. Wadleigh v. Phelps [Cal.] 81 P. 418. If several parties join in one notice of appeal, stating that they severally and separately appeal, the effect is the same as if there were as many notices of appeal as appellants; and to make the notice effective as to any appellant an undertaking in the sum of $250 under the statute is requisite to each. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

24. Lingle v. Chicago [Ill.] 71 N. E. 590.

25. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

26. The bond required by B. & C. Comp. § 5754, on appeal from the justice to the circuit court is effectual on a further appeal to the supreme court and no further undertaking is necessary. Wolfer v. Hurst [Or.] 80 P. 419.

27. Code, §§ 30, 31, requiring undertaking on appeal from justice to be given within six days is mandatory and provision is jurisdictional. Schrot v. Schoenfeld, 23 App. D. C. 421. Though right to appeal may not be lost if undertaking, which was presented for approval in due time, is retained by court until after prescribed time, it must be presented within such time. Record held not to show that it was so presented. Id. The filing of an appeal bond within twenty days after the close of the term at which a motion for a new trial was overruled, exception taken, and notice of appeal given, is too late, where the judgment was entered and the motion was filed at a previous term. Clements v. Buckner [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 235. Where an appeal is perfected by giving notice of appeal and filing an appeal bond, the fact that the bond is filed before the ruling on a motion for a new trial does not vitiate the appeal the notice not being given until after such ruling. Wores v. Preston [Ariz.] 77 P. 617. The court may fix any time not less than 20 days in which to file bond. Day v. Davis, 213 Ill. 53, 72 N. E. 682.

Payment of costs within the specified period is necessary in Michigan. Fees of register for return must be paid within 30 days. Trombley v. Klersy [Mich.] 102 N. W. 736.

28. The remedy of an appellee who regards the security on an appeal bond as insufficient is by motion and rule for additional security. Durham v. Straight [Ky.] 83 S. W. 581. Where the court below erroneously delegated to the clerk the duty of approving the appeal bond, the appellant will be permitted to give a new bond. Hepner v. Hepner, 112 Ill. App. 598.

29. If it incorrectly recites the judgment, the remedy is by motion for a new bond. Rev. St. ch. 110, § 70. Kloeckner v. Schafer, 110 Ill. App. 391. Civ. Code Prac. § 134, providing that the court may at any time permit a pleading or mistake in any respect to be amended, authorizes the substitution of a sufficient appeal bond in an election contest. Galloway v. Bradburn [Ky.] 82 S. W. 1013. 1 Morehead & B. Ky. St. p. 137, providing for the substitution of a sufficient appeal bond, is not repealed by Civ. Code Prac. § 682, nor by the Code of 1877 or of 1851, and hence it authorizes the substitution of a sufficient appeal bond in an election contest Id. Civ. Code Prac. § 682, providing for the substitution of a sufficient bond, and sections 683, 684, providing for the qualification of sureties, do not apply to an appeal bond given in an election contest pursuant to the provisions of Ky. St. 1903, § 1596, subsec. 2. Id.

30. Failure to file bonds as required by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1724, 1725, 1731, cannot be cured by filing a sufficient bond before the hearing of the motion to dismiss under § 1740. Pirrie v. Moule [Mont.] 81 P. 390. Appeal bond filed held to amount to no bond at all constituting an incurable defect Wadleigh v. Phelps [Cal.] 81 P. 418.

31. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1400, a bond for less than double the amount of costs in the court below, and which does not show that the probable costs were fixed by the clerk, is insufficient. Prusiecki v. Ramzinski [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 549. In Louisiana there must be a sum fixed by the court to sustain a devolutive appeal and a bond augmented by the statutory one-half for a suspensive one. Pelletier v. State Nat. Bank [La.] 36 So. 592.

32. On appeal from the county court, the judge must approve the bond, and cannot delegate that duty to the clerk. Hepner v. Hepner, 112 Ill. App. 598. Under the rules of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia, the lower court has no power designated by the statute.[33] Amount,[34] sureties,[35] and terms and conditions of the bond, are largely regulated by statute.[36] An appellant to the superior court must to approve an appeal bond which, though filed before the expiration of twenty days, is not submitted to it for approval within that time. Mulvihill v. Clabaugh, 21 App. D. C. 440.

33. Under Gen. St. 1901, §§ 1640, 1641, the bond must be filed and approved by the clerk of the board of county commissioners; approval by and filing with the clerk of the district court is insufficient. Board of Com'rs of Trego County v. Cross [Kan.] 79 P. 1084.

34. Texas Rev. St. 1895, art. 1400, requires the appellant to file a bond in double the probable amount of the costs in the trial court, the court of civil appeals, and the supreme court, such amount to be fixed by the clerk of the trial court. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1400. Horstman v. Little [Tex.] 83 S. W. 679. The giving of a bond in double the amount so fixed establishes the right of appeal, and such right is not affected by the fact that the costs afterwards appear to be greater than the clerk supposed they would be. Id. The court of civil appeals has no authority to review the action of the clerk, or to require a bond for a larger amount. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1025, empowering court, on motion to dismiss appeals, to allow defects in substance or form in such bonds to be amended by the giving of new ones, applies only when they are defective, and not where merely insufficient in amount. Id. If the amount be fixed in the order of allowance, it may suffice devolutively when too small to suspensively appeal. Knoll v. Knoll [La.] 38 So. 523.

35. Sureties on a claimant's bond are competent sureties on an appeal bond for the same parties. McClelland v. Barnard [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 841. A surety company properly certified may be surety. Eichorn v. New Orleans & C. R. L. & P. Co. [La.] 38 So. 526. If the sole security on the appeal bond is the same person as the security on the claim bond, the plaintiff in execution has obtained no additional security. McMurria v. Powell Bros. & Chason [Ga.] 48 S. E. 354. Appellant should be clearly and without abbreviation named in the bond as principal. "New Orleans & Carrollton Rd. L. & P. Co." held defective but harmlessly so. Eichorn v. New Orleans & C. R. Light & Power Co. [La.] 38 So. 526. The security on any statutory bond for the payment of the eventual condemnation money or to produce the property sued for or levied on cannot be security on a new bond required in a proceeding seeking a review of a judgment adverse to the principal in the first bond since he also is bound by such judgment. Appeal or certiorari is as much for his benefit as for that of principal. Applies where damage bond is given in claim case and judgment is rendered finding property subject and awarding damages on ground that claim was interposed for delay. Woodliff v. Bloodworth [Ga.] 49 S. E. 289. But this does not apply where the effect of the judgment is to relieve the surety from liability on the original bond as where damage bond is given in claim case, and verdict finds property subject but there is no finding that claim was interposed for delay. In such case may be surety on certiorari bond. Id. In case the certiorari is sustained, there is a discharge from liability on certiorari bond, and obligation on claim bond is thereby revived, but in such case the surety can never be liable, as in case of appeals, on both bonds. Id.

36. Where an appeal bond is actually given at the instance of appellant and signed by the security, the appeal should not be dismissed because of appellant's failure to sign it. Sanders v. Matthewson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 946. Bond on appeal from county to superior court reciting that appellant "brings L., and tenders him as security, and they the said appellant as principal and A. as security hereby acknowledge themselves bound," etc., and signed by appellant and L., but not by A., held good, and binding on L. McDermid v. Judge [Ga.] 49 S. E. 800. In any event the defect was a mere irregularity, curable by amendment, and hence it was error to dismiss the appeal. Id. A bond on appeal from the ordinary to the superior court reciting the parties to, and the character of the case, the judgment of the court and the term at which it was rendered, and in which the appellant and his security acknowledge themselves bound generally but not to any named obligee, for the eventual costs of the stated case, is a substantial compliance with Civ. Code 1895, § 4466, the fair implication being that the obligors are bound to the appellee in the terms of the bond. Smith v. Jackson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 930. An obligation to pay "the eventual costs in said case" is a fair equivalent of the statutory words "such further costs as may accrue by reason of such appeal." Id. An appeal bond conditioned to pay all costs accrued in the trial court "or" which may accrue on appeal is insufficient. Deaton v. Feazle [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1167. The bond should describe the judgment appealed from, and a bond merely stating that on a certain day the trial court entered judgment overruling defendant's motion for a new trial, and that appellant has appealed from such order to the court of appeals is defective. Wilkes v. Brown & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 844. Where it is manifest that the bond was intended to secure the respondents, the fact that it erroneously ran to the state is not ground for dismissal, the court being authorized to permit an amendment. Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal [Wash.] 78 P. 1096. A bond conditioned for the payment of costs and damages as provided by Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6506, is sufficient as an appeal bond though insufficient in amount to constitute a valid supersedeas. State v. Pendergast [Wash.] 81 P. 324. On appeal from a judgment denying the right to foreclose a delinquency tax certificate, only the bond required under the general provisions of the law relating to appeals is necessary and not the one required by Laws 1903, p. 74, c. 59, § 4, amending Laws 1897, p. 86, c. 71, § 104, conditioned on the payment of taxes, put the clerk under obligation to forward a proper transcript by paying or tendering his fees.[37] Where a judge requires a bond in an unwarranted amount, as a condition of an appeal, appellant is entitled to mandamus to compel him to accept a bond in a proper amount though such a bond has not been tendered him for approval.[38]

(§ 6) H. Entry below.[39]—Where a verbal order for an appeal is given, not in open court, the entry of the appeal must be made within the time limited by statute.[40] An entry stating that the appeal is taken to the "January term" sufficiently indicates that the return day is the first day of the term as the statute prescribes.[41] The requirement in Louisiana that every receivership petition, motion, etc., shall be entered by the clerk in his order book has no application to appeals by or against a receiver.[42]

§ 7. Transfer of jurisdiction; supersedeas and stay.[43]—The transfer is not accomplished until the appeal is fully perfected[44] by legally sufficient procedure[45] and according to the appropriate remedy.[46] An unappealable order can support no jurisdiction to be transferred.[47]

Supersedeas[47a] of the judicial power of the lower court results with the transfer of jurisdiction,[48] except as necessary to preserve rights pending appellate review.[49] etc., against the property and that the appeal will be prosecuted with effect. Nolan v. Arnot [Wash.] 78 P. 463. Supersedeas bond given on appeal from decree holding testator to have been trustee for complainant and referring case to an auditor for an accounting, when taken in connection with stipulation that appeal should not be heard until auditor made his report and should be heard in connection with appeal then to be taken, held sufficient to sustain the entire appeal. Darlington v. Turner, 24 App. D. C. 573. An omission from an undertaking, on appeal from a justice of the peace to the supreme court, of a provision that the judgment might be rendered against both the principal and the surety is a radical departure from Code, §§ 30, 31. Schrot v. Schoenfeld, 23 App. D. C. 421. So is an undertaking to pay damages and costs, instead of one to pay the judgment. Id.

37. Does not take an appeal within meaning of statute by merely praying an appeal and filing a bond. Appeal from action of county commissioners in altering public road. Blair v. Coakley [N. C.] 48 S. E. 804.

38. Fleming v. Kirby [Mich.] 100 N. W. 272.

39. See 3 C. L. 200.

40. Hays v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 439.

41. Swain v. London & L. Fire Ins. Co. [Fla.] 38 So. 3.

42. In re New Iberia Cotton Mills Co. [La.] 37 So. 8.

43. See 3 C. L. 200.

44. Proceedings on the merits held not stayed until bill of exceptions was filed to the trial of plea in abatement in attachment proceedings. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 407. When he appeals from whole case the bill of exceptions includes exceptions on the trial of plea in abatement, and makes one bill. American Nat. Bank v. Thornburrow [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 771. Cause is removed when an authenticated copy of the record is filed in the superior court. Robinson v. Arkansas Loan & Trust Co. [Ark.] 81 S. W. 609.

Jurisdiction is transferred to the appellate court by the acceptance by the proper court or judge of security upon the appeal within the time fixed by the statute. Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1.

45. Where an appeal is prematurely taken the case remains pending in the lower court, and it may retax costs and allow amendments to the pleadings. Gates v. Solomon [Ark.] 83 S. W. 348. See ante, § 6; post, §§ 8, 11.

46. See ante, § 2; post, § 8.

47. Muckenfuss v. Fishburns [S. C.] 46 S. E. 537. Overruling challenge to array is not appealable. Rhodes v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 689. Nonappealable decree of divorce held to terminate the marriage relation from the time it was entered. State v. Leasia [Or.] 78 P. 328. Where the complaint states a cause of action for actual damages and also one for punitive damages, a notice of appeal from the overruling of a motion to strike out the latter does not act as a supersedeas. Borrer v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 117.

47a. See 3 C. L. 200-204.

48. State v. De Baillon [La.] 37 So. 481. Trial court cannot grant ancillary relief, hence cause cannot be redocketed for purpose of filing petition for receiver. Westfall v. Wait [Ind.] 68 N. E. 1009. Final decree inadvertently entered while exceptions are pending takes effect only as an order for a decree, and does not become operative until the exceptions are disposed of. Tyndale v. Stanwood [Mass.] 73 N. E. 540. After a supersedeas bond has been accepted, writ of error allowed, and the citation issued, a motion to increase the bond is within the exclusive jurisdiction of appellate court. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 131 F. 145. After an appeal in probate proceedings, application for a rehearing must be made in

But ordinarily the judgment continues valid, binding, and efficient, so that it may be enforced,[50] and is in all respects operative unless[51] and until[52] the appellant gives a bond or security to abide by it if unsuccessful on the appeal, or unless a special order of supersedeas in such matters be allowed,[53] or the necessity thereof be abrogated by statute.[54]

An application[55] seasonably made[56] to a court or judge having authority,[57] and allowance made[58] fixing the amount of the bond, is necessary unless the amount is ascertainable by statute, which confers a stay as of right on complying with its terms.[59] In some instances a counter bond, security or tender is provided for by which the stay is averted.[60]

Aside from those judgments as to which supersedeas is allowed or denied absolutely,[61] the propriety of granting a supersedeas[62] or an appeal which is sus-appellate court. In re Murphy's Will, 79 App. Div. 541, 81 N. Y. S. 101. After service of notice of appeal from order denying a motion for a bill of particulars in part, the special term is without power to set the order aside or make an order that the order appealed from stand. Ziadi v. Interurban St. R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 606. Action of the trial court in vacating the judgment subsequent to the taking of the appeal cannot affect the decision of the appellate court. Winans v. Grable [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1110.

49. Pending appeal from an order denying confirmation of a receiver's sale, certificates will be authorized for expenses incident to the preservation of the property. Porch v. Agnew Co. [N. J. Eq.] 57 A. 546. The trial court may in certain cases order the judicial sequestration of the property in controversy after the appeal has been perfected. State v. De Baillon [La.] 37 So. 481.

50. An officer may lawfully proceed under an execution until he is officially notified of a supersedeas or other stay of proceedings. Western Seed & Irrigation Co. v. McDonald [Neb.] 99 N. W. 517.

51. Writ of error from dissolution of injunction does not continue injunction unless supersedeas bond is given. Griffin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 155. An appeal with bond for costs leaves an order discharging a garnishee enforceable. Cummings v. Edwards Wood & Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 709. Appeal does not prevent prevailing party in trial court from filing a transcript of the judgment with the clerk and recorder. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 352, a sale on foreclosure is not stayed on appeal, unless a bond is given as required. Muckenfuss v. Fishburns [S. C.] 46 S. E. 537. In Michigan, under Pub. Acts 1899, Act 243, an appeal in chancery does not operate as a supersedeas unless a bond is filed. Weber v. Costigan [Mich.] 102 N. W. 666.

52. Until an appeal bond is filed execution may issue on the judgment and levy made. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063.

53. Appeal to appellate term from order of municipal court granting new trial does not stay. Amorisia v. Rando, 88 N. Y. S. 356.

54. Massachusetts: Under Rev. Laws c. 159, § 19, an appeal from a final decree stays proceedings thereunder. Crossman v. Griggs [Mass.] 71 N. E. 560.

55. Appeal to appellate term from order of municipal court granting a new trial does not operate as a stay without an application therefor. Amorisia v. Rando, 88 N. Y. S. 356.

56. In Kentucky an application to vacate an injunction pending appeal must be made within 20 days after the order for continuance. Jackson v. Hardin [Ky.] 86 S. W. 530. A supersedeas issued while the case is subject to dismissal for failure to file transcript is valid. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 86 S. W. 682.

57. A circuit judge in vacation has power to stay proceedings in a county seat removal contest until appeal can be heard. This under Const. art. 7, § 14, giving such courts appellate jurisdiction, and Sand. & H. Dig. § 4896, authorizing temporary orders in vacation in certain cases. Reese v. Steele [Ark.] 83 S. W. 335.

58. Execution of supersedeas bond without issue of supersedeas does not supersede the judgment. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 86 S. W. 682.

59. An action to foreclose a pledge of corporate stock is not within Code Civ. Proc. § 943, providing that a judgment for the delivery of personal property is not stayed by appeal unless the things be placed in custody of the court or sufficient bond given, and therefore appellant on giving the bond required by § 949 is entitled to a supersedeas. Rohrbacher v. Superior Court [Cal.] 78 P. 22. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1596, subsec. 12, providing for the giving of an appeal bond in election cases, such bond to be conditioned to pay all damages sustained by the appellee, and such section further providing that upon production of the final judgment the successful party may qualify for the office, the giving of the bond operates as a supersedeas and the damages sustained by appellee consist in his being kept out of the office during the pendency of the appeal. Galloway v. Bradburn [Ky.] 82 S. W. 1013.

60. By statute a railroad paying or tendering the award made can in Indiana take possession of lands condemned pending appeal. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5160. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hayes [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 531.

61. A merely preventative injunction cannot be rendered inoperative by a supersedeas. State v. Superior Court of King County [Wash.] 77 P. 33; Green Bay & M. Canal Co.

pensive[63] is discretionary with the court,[64] the exercise of the right being usually founded on the safeguarding of a right of property,[65] or on the perishable nature of the subject-matter,[66] or precariousness of rights affected, and though a supersedeas has been denied, chancery will grant an injunction preserving the status quo pending decision of an appeal where appellee is proceeding to render nugatory any reversal that may be had.[67] The bond must show who and what are affected by it,[68] must undertake to do what the statute prescribes,[69] and must be properly executed, though failing in this regard a supersedeas may be obtained on filing a sufficient bond in the appellate court.[70] If the amount of the bond is fixed by statute and is jurisdictional, the bond must be in such amount.[71] If the review is de novo, as in equity, the decree or judgment,[72] as well as the jurisdiction, is superseded by the taking of an appeal.[73] But usually in such cases the bond or undertaking to obtain the appeal is made large enough to cover the judgment[74] as well as costs.

The effect of a supersedeas is simply to suspend the judgment,[75] the lower court losing its power only in respect to those things which might trench on the appellate functions,[76] or when the judgment is also stayed which might change

v. Norrie [C. C. A.] 128 F. 896. Pending appeal from the grant of a preventative injunction defendant is not entitled as a matter of right to supersede the order. State v. Superior Court of Pierce County [Wash.] 80 P. 1108. Pending appeal from denial of an application to sue a receiver, the applicant is entitled to a stay of proceedings. State v. Superior Court [Wash.] 80 P. 195.

62. Supersedeas will not be granted where it appears that before a hearing can be had on the appeal the patent which is the subject of the suit will have expired. Timolat v. Philadelphia Pneumatic Tool Co., 130 F. 903.

63. There is no necessity for suspensive appeal when appellant has by his voluntary action made impossible judicial execution of the order appealed from. Albert Mackie Grocery Co. v. Pratt [La.] 38 So. 250.

64. Timolat v. Philadelphia Pneumatic Tool Co., 130 F. 903.

65. An injunction against sale of property by a city granted on behalf of a subordinate public corporation claiming title involves title to property and to its proceeds, and from the dissolution of it on bond a suspensive appeal is allowable. State v. Sommerville [La.] 37 So. 476.

66. Liability to fluctuations in value is not perishability. Code Proc. § 576. Hannay v. New Orleans Cotton Exch. [La.] 36 So. 831.

67. People's Traction Co. v. Central Pass. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 58 A. 597.

68. Supersedeas bonds given by several defendants being each in excess of double the amount of the respective judgments, and appearing to have been given in the action in which the judgment was rendered, the appeal will not be dismissed on the ground that the bonds do not properly describe the judgment and are insufficient in amount. International & G. N. R. Co. v. McGehee [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 804.

69. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1596, a bond for appeal in an election case covenanting that appellant will pay the damages adjudged against him on the appeal is insufficient. Galloway v. Bradburn [Ky.] 82 S. W. 1013.

70. So held where bond was ineffectual because of the failure of sureties to justify in proper manner. Nonpareil Mfg. Co. v. McCourtney [Cal.] 76 P. 653.

71. Must be double the amount of the judgment recovered, though the amount of the judgment is paid into court. Pierson v. First Nat. Bank [Wash.] 79 P. 1003. $32.91 less than the statutory amount ($15,032.91) is not a trifle which can be overlooked. Pelletier v. State Nat. Bank [La.] 36 So. 592. [In Louisiana suspension of the judgment is incidental to a suspensive appeal which requires a bond to cover the judgment. See ante, § 6G].

72. An appeal is a continuation of the original suit for the purpose of obtaining a new trial and a new judgment. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98.

73. Highway proceedings. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98.

74. That the bond was fixed for an amount slightly less than the judgment and costs, appellee being present and making no objection, is immaterial. Clarke v. Eureka County Bank, 131 F. 145.

75. An appeal suspends the effect of the judgment as evidence of matters determined, though execution is not stayed. Di Nola v. Allison [Cal.] 76 P. 976.

76. Suit to correct a judicial record will lie while appeal is pending. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 194. Court may compel obedience to its order for payment of allmony pending appeal from divorce decree. State v. Second Judicial Dist. Court [Mont.] 79 P. 13. A record and transcript of judgment may be filed after appeal. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. A motion for retaxation of costs being promptly made is not affected by appeal. McDermott v. Yvelin, 92 N. Y. S. 1088.

Appeals from interlocutory orders do not affect the power of the trial court to proceed with the cause with respect to any matter not involved in the appeal. Cuyler v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co., 132 F. 568. An appeal from order granting a temporary in-the status quo, for a supersedeas working a stay preserves the status quo[77] of the parties only[78] existing just before the judgment was entered,[79] suspending all proceedings except those necessary to safeguard such status quo,[80] and it is contempt to disobey or transgress it.[81] Self-executing judgments are not stayed by the giving of a supersedeas bond.[82] A supersedeas bond can only stay so much of the judgment as it can affect.[83] Rights dependent on the outcome of the appeal are not suspended but are merely immature.[84] A supersedeas should be modified to meet changing conditions or rights.[85]

The application or motion for a special supersedeas must conform to the statutes.[86]

§ 8. Appearance,[87] entry, and docketing above, are generally essential; or else some other acts which have the same effect[88] must be done to put the cause into the reviewing court,[89] at or before the time allowed by law.[90] Several appeals junction has no effect on the main case unless an order staying proceedings is made. Crown Cork & Seal Co. v. Standard Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 184. Appeal from a probate decree directing the sale of land does not bring up the whole case. Tyndale v. Stanwood [Mass.] 71 N. E. 83. Pending an appeal from an order overruling demurrer to answer, no stay having been taken or reply filed, defendant may file note of issue and serve notice of trial. Ward v. Smith, 91 N. Y. S. 905. An appeal from a judgment allowing a pension in divorce proceedings does not suspend a prior judgment for alimony. State v. Judge of Civil Dist. Ct. [La.] 38 So. 14. Appeal from order appointing receiver does not preclude trial of the cause on the merits. State v. Bell [Wash.] 78 P. 908.

77. A suspensive appeal leaves the judgment in status quo. Dannemann v. Charlton [La.] 36 So. 965. On appeal from an order appointing a receiver, a bond superseding him will stand in lieu of him pending a determination of the propriety of his appointment. Oudin & B. Fire Clay Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Conlan [Wash.] 80 P. 283.

78. Filing of stay bond on appeal from modification of order in divorce suit awarding custody of child held not to entitle appellant to custody of child pending appeal. In re De Lemos [Cal.] 76 P. 1115.

79. Remelin v. Remelin [Ky.] 87 S. W. 263. A statutory supersedeas in derogation of common law does not restore goods levied on but merely stays sale whilst the lien continues. Rev. St. § 1272 provides for stay of all "further" proceedings. Thalheim v. Camp Phosphate Co. [Fla.] 37 So. 523.

80. Suspensive appeal from dissolution of injunction against trespass on land by oil lessee holds matters in abeyance. State v. DeBaillon [La.] 37 So. 534. Pending it appellant could not sue for possession and a counter injunction. Id. In awarding sequestration on subsequent conditions, the lower court must keep within them and not trench on the matter appealed. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate v. Houssiere-Latreille Oil Co. [La.] 38 So. 458. After suspensive appeal the trial court may if the status quo is violated sequester the property subject to the appeal to preserve it. State v. De Baillon [La.] 37 So. 534; State v. De Baillon [La.] 37 So. 481. A judgment may not be inscribed after a suspensive appeal. Dannenmann v. Charlton [La.] 36 So. 965. When done it will be canceled. Id.

81. Durham v. Streight [Ky.] 83 S. W. 581.

82. Reese v. Steele [Ark.] 83 S. W. 335. Judgments declaring the vote in a proceeding for the removal of a county seat and directing the removal are not, by their nature, subject to supersedeas by giving a bond which would be a nullity beyond securing the costs. Id.

83. Reese v. Steele [Ark.] 83 S. W. 335. Where it cannot be held for anything except costs, it will only stay the amount so far as they are concerned. Order in county seat contest directing removal of records. Id.

84. An action on an injunction bond does not lie pending appeal from judgment dissolving the injunction, though no supersedeas bond is filed, even where it is provided by statute that a proceeding to reverse a judgment shall not stay execution unless a supersedeas be filed. Tutty v. Ryan [Wyo.] 78 P. 657. See, also, Injunction, 4 C. L. 96. Where a decree granting conditional relief is superseded, the time within which to comply with the conditions is extended until the decree again becomes enforceable in the trial court. Ruzicka v. Hotovy [Neb.] 101 N. W. 328.

85. Where a condemnation proceeding is removed from a state to a Federal circuit court, and after compensation has been ascertained, a writ of error is prosecuted, any supersedeas obtained should be modified so that the petitioner in the proceedings to condemn shall have the same rights which he would have had if the proceedings had remained in the state court. Broadmoor Land Co. v. Curr [C. C. A.] 133 F. 37.

86. Whitaker v. McBride [Neb.] 98 N. W. 877. Supersedeas given after the time has expired is ineffectual. Id.

87. See 3 C. L. 204. Where no notice of an appeal is given defendant and he does not appear in the appellate court, the appeal will be dismissed. Failure to record entry of appeal in chancery order book in compliance with Florida statute making such recording constructive notice to appellee. City of Orlando v. Macy [Fla.] 34 So. 298.

88. Filing the bond must be followed by timely citation and filing of transcript. Chambliss v. Wood [Miss.] 36 So. 246.

89. In many states the filing or return of the appeal papers serves this purpose. As to should be severally docketed or if docketed together are still regarded as several.[91] An appearance for any other purpose than to dispute jurisdiction of appellee's person is general to the appeal and admits validity of its entry.[92] An appeal may be entered by an attorney at law without written authority to do so.[93] In Colorado a mistaken appeal may be dismissed and redocketed as on error[94] even when it is too late to newly bring error,[95] but not after the reviewing court has decided the case and it has been appealed again.[96] It follows that when appeal is heard without objection and argued to the merits, the error in the mode of review is naught.[97] In Florida if entry be tardy as to some of several interlocutory decrees, it may still avail for those as to which it was timely.[98]

§ 9. Perpetuation of proceedings and evidence for the reviewing court. Record on appeal.)[99] Scope and terminology.—The "record proper" sometimes designated as the "fundamental record," "judgment roll" or "common law record" includes those matters which are at common law of record ex propria vigore. The "secondary record" includes the various means by which matters not part of the record proper are made of record, by bill of exceptions, settled case, abstract, approved motion for new trial, etc. The "entire record" or record on appeal comprises all that is transmitted to the reviewing court, including both record proper and secondary record.

(§ 9) A. What the record proper must show.[1]—That which is a part of the record proper below must appear by such record and its omission cannot be supplied by the secondary record.[2] As a general rule, the jurisdiction of the court below is presumed if it is of general,[3] but not if it is of limited jurisdiction.[4] But the facts necessary to appellate jurisdiction must always appear.[5] On appeal from an in-such practice, see post, § 11.

90. An appeal to the superior court from the action of the county commissioners in altering a public road should be taken and returned to the next term of court, whether criminal or civil. Code 2039 and Acts 1901, p. 175, c. 28, § 2, construed. Blair v. Coakley [N. C.] 48 S. E. 804. Rules relating to appeals from justice court (Code, §§ 875-883, 565) requiring return to be made to the appellate court and the papers to be filed with the clerk within 10 days after the appeal is taken, etc., apply. Id.

91. Where both parties appeal, the appeal of each must be separately docketed. Orion Knitting Mills v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 652. Under Sup. Ct. Rule 30 (64 P. 15) appeals in three cases cannot be docketed as one appeal and the clerk paid for a single cause. Rachofsky v. Benson [Colo. App.] 77 P. 862.

92. Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 37 So. 582.

93. Under Civ. Code 1895, §§ 4417, 4423, requirement of such authority by § 4457 applies only to attorneys in fact. Friar v. Curry, Arrington & Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 206.

94. Under express provisions of Mills' Ann. Code, § 388a, if the appellate court has no jurisdiction to review a cause on appeal but would have on writ of error, the appeal will be dismissed and the cause re-entered on the docket as pending on error. Murto v. Lemon [Colo.] 76 P. 541.

95. This should be done though such a length of time has elapsed since the rendition of judgment that a writ of error could not be sued out. Bowling v. Chambers [Colo.] 77 P. 16.

96. It is too late to assert that a cause should have been redocketed on error when the cause comes a second time to the supreme court from a judgment of a district court entered pursuant to the mandate of the court of appeals. Taylor v. Colorado Iron Works [Colo.] 80 P. 129.

97. Though it heard an unauthorized appeal its judgment cannot be assailed for want of jurisdiction where appellees appeared and argued the merits. Taylor v. Colorado Ironworks [Colo.] 80 P. 129.

98. Futch v. Adams [Fla.] 36 So. 575.

99. See 3 C. L. 204.

1. See 3 C. L. 204. An appeal makes the entire record available to appellant and imposes the duty upon him and upon the clerk of the lower court to place the material parts of it in the transcript sent to the appellate court. Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363.

2. Statements in the bill of exceptions will not aid omission from the record proper of motion for new trial. Griffin v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 111. That which is properly a matter of record cannot be shown by bill of exceptions. That a special judge presided. Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. Asman [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1060. A recital in the bill itself that the time was extended cannot supply failure of the record proper to show settlement of the bill. Bick v. Williams [Mo.] 80 S. W. 885.

3. Trumbull v. Jefferson County [Wash.] 79 P. 1105.

4. Rhyne v. Manchester Assur. Co. [Okl.] 78 P. 558.

termediate court, the steps by which it acquired jurisdiction must appear.[6] The record proper must also show the pleadings[7] and judgment below,[8] the motion for new trial and order thereon,[9] the making of objections,[10] taking of exceptions,[11] the making of the secondary record[12] and the timely taking of all steps necessary to bring up the case for review.[13] The appealable interest of appellant, especially

5. Will not review judgment of district court where amount in controversy is below that required to give it original jurisdiction and record does show requisites necessary to confer jurisdiction by appeal from justice's court. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Jordan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 1105. The facts authorizing a direct appeal must appear from the record, not by a certificate of the trial judge. Cosmopolitan Min. Co. v. Walsh, 193 U. S. 460, 48 Law. Ed. 749. The record to sustain a direct appeal from the circuit to the supreme court must contain a certificate that a jurisdictional question was decided or its equivalent, such as a proper specification in the allowance of the writ of error. Filhiol v. Torney, 194 U. S. 356, 48 Law. Ed. 1014. The certificate of the trial judge that the action involves a ground which gives the supreme court jurisdiction is not binding on the latter. Huffman v. Ackarman [Kan.] 81 P. 168. Constitutional question supporting jurisdiction must appear of record or by bill of exceptions. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329. Amount in controversy. Williamson v. Payne [Va.] 49 S. E. 660.

6. On appeal from the county court in a suit originating in justice court, the record must show how the county court acquired jurisdiction. Albritton v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1008; Penn Fire Ins. Co. v. Pounder [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 666.

7. Nichols v. Weston County Com'rs [Wyo.] 76 P. 681.

8. Gabbart & Co. v. Bauer [Miss.] 38 So. 548; Ropes v. Lansing [Fla.] 38 So. 177; Wallace v. Crosthwait [Ala.] 36 So. 622; Johns v. Barnes [Mont.] 78 P. 703. The clerk's certificate is sufficient, on appeal, to show that there was a judgment in the case. Feller v. McKillip [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 641.

9. On appeal from grant of new trial must include either in the record proper or in a bill of exceptions under Code 1896, § 434. Randall v. Worthington [Ala.] 37 So. 594. Statement in bill—"The court granted said motion and set aside the verdict of the jury and granted defendant a new trial"—shows no judgment. Id. Motion for new trial must appear in the abstract and recital thereof in bill of exceptions is unavailing. Bailey v. McWilliams [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 618.

10. Where the plaintiff proposes findings of fact which set forth the whole theory of his case and sets out particularly wherein the evidence is insufficient to support the findings as made, the specifications are sufficient though the particular findings alleged to be unsupported by the evidence are not pointed out. Chapman v. Greene [S. D.] 101 N. W. 351.

11. The bill of exceptions must show that the refusal to charge as requested was excepted to. Hathaway v. Goslant [Vt.] 59 A. 835. The bill of exceptions must show that exceptions were taken. A statement that exception was taken must be held to relate to the time when objection was made. Snowman v. Mason [Me.] 59 A. 1019.

12. The record must show that exceptions were presented to the trial court and acted on. Patterson v. Frazer [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1077. Filing of bill of exceptions and allowance of additional time to file must appear by the record. Recital in bill is insufficient. Williams v. Harris [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 643. There must be a recital or entry in the record to identify the bill of exceptions. Metz v. Sutton [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 929. Record held to show defendants' bill of exceptions properly identified and authenticated. Martin v. Castle [Mo.] 81 S. W. 426. Abstract must show timely filing of bill of exceptions. Wendleton v. Kingery [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 102. A bill of exceptions, perfected according to Act October 22, 1902, amending Rev. St. §§ 5301, 5301a, 5302, thereby becomes an original paper within the meaning of § 6716, and a journal entry ordering such bill to be made a part of the record is not necessary in order to entitle it to be considered by the reviewing court. Strauch v. Massillon Stoneware Co. [Ohio] 73 N. E. 211. The record proper must, if in term time, show the filing of the bill of exceptions, and if leave be given to file the bill in vacation, the minute of the clerk in vacation must show the filing within the time allowed. Bick v. Williams [Mo.] 80 S. W. 885. When a judge in vacation makes an order showing that he has executed a bill of exceptions, and so certifies it to the clerk, the latter must record such order in the law order book and attest it. Bill made in vacation under Code 1899, c. 131, § 9. Bank of Ravenswood v. Wetzel [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 886. It is not, however, necessary that such bill, or any part thereof, be literally copied into such book. Sufficient if bill may be identified from order as recorded. Id. The bill is part of the record if it does, by its own matter or character, identify itself as the bill mentioned in the order of court or the judge certifying its execution. Id. A bill of exceptions not made a part of the statement on motion for a new trial cannot be considered. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971. Conflicting affidavits as to whether a stipulation for an extension of time for filing a statement of facts was made will not be considered. Such fact must appear from the record. Humes v. Hillman [Wash.] 80 P. 1104. Must show exceptions to judgment of city court of Gadsden if trial was by court Acts 1900, 1901, p. 1288, § 15. Hoge v. Herzberg [Ala.] 37 So. 591.

13. Either appearance or citation must appear by the record and a recital in a default judgment that defendant was duly cited is insufficient. Shook v. Laufer [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 277. Failure of record to of one not a party to the record, must appear.[14] The rule in equity differs from that which prevails at law, and the complainant to whom relief is granted must preserve in the record the evidence upon which it is based, either by a certificate or evidence or by recitals in the decree finding the specific facts proven on the hearing.[15]

(§ 9) B. What is part of record proper; necessity of secondary record.[16] —The office of the bill of exceptions or other secondary record is to make of record that which is not part of the record proper, and it is necessary except to review errors apparent on the face of the judgment roll.[17] The record proper consists of the summons, pleadings, and judgment,[18] and orders made with reference to the record.[19] Proposed pleadings and amendments which have never become pleadings in the action are no part of the record.[20] Other proceedings had below, in order to be reviewed, must be brought into the record by a bill of exceptions,[21] show that amount of an appeal bond had been fixed by the trial court as required by 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6506, is ground for dismissal. In re Drasdo's Estate [Wash.] 77 P. 735. The record need not show how it was transmitted by the clerk to the judge, any safe mode of transmission being sufficient. Davies v. New Castle & L. R. Co. [Ohio] 73 N. E. 213.

14. Delaware County Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74.

15. Wilcoxon v. Wilcoxon, 111 Ill. App. 90.

16. See 3 C. L. 206.

17. Lethbridge v. Lauder [Wyo.] 76 P. 682; Poor v. Cudlhee [Wash.] 79 P. 1105; Stone v. McClellan [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 751; Ball v. O'Keefe [Wash.] 77 P. 382; State v. Justice Court of Tp. No. 1, Gallatin County [Mont.] 78 P. 498; Johnston v. Callahan [Cal.] 79 P. 870; Hecht v. Carey [Wyo.] 78 P. 705; Ivancovich v. Weilenman [Cal.] 78 P. 268; Miller v. Head Camp [Or.] 77 P. 83; Miller v. Enterprise Canal & Land Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 439; Woolverton v. Johnson [Kan.] 77 P. 559; Burnett v. Kirk [Wash.] 80 P. 855; Johnson v. Staley [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 541; Manley v. Wheeling & Lake Erie R. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 384, 24 Ohio C. C. 70.

18. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53. Affidavit of defense. Brainerd v. Davis, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 599. Demurrer to the evidence. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Pierce [Va.] 48 S. E. 534. An order on a motion to strike a pleading. Gaston v. Marengo Imp. Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 738. Order for publication of summons is not. McHatton v. Rhodes, 143 Cal. 275, 76 P. 1036. A praecipe for a summons is no part of the record. Palmer v. Palmer, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 242, 25 Ohio C. C. 660. Papers of which plaintiff makes profert in his declaration and attaches as exhibits. United States v. Bell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 336. Notices of trial are no part of the judgment roll. Sweeny v. Kellogg, 89 N. Y. S. 314. An interlocutory order to become part of the judgment roll must be one which in some way involves the merits or necessarily affects the judgment. Goldstein v. Michelson, 91 N. Y. S. 32. A petition to intervene and become a party in the main case is part of the record. Brannan v. Baxter & Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 45.

19. By statute in Tennessee the findings of fact and conclusions of law of the trial court, trying an issue of fact, are made a part of the record when, on request, they are reduced to writing, signed by the judge, and filed. Shannon's Code, § 4684. Tennessee Cent. R. Co. v. Foster [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 585. No bill of exceptions is necessary unless the judgment is challenged upon some other ground than error of law in the conclusions upon the facts found. Id.

20. Plea is filed out of time and is rejected. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Machine Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64. Amendment offered but disallowed. Ponder v. Quitman Ginnery [Ga.] 49 S. E. 746; Taylor v. McLaughlin [Ga.] 48 S. E. 203; Polsgrove v. Walker [Ky.] 82 S. W. 979. Where, by a consent order, all the pleadings anterior to an amended petition are withdrawn and stricken from the files, the original petition ceases to be a part of the record. Norman v. Central Kentucky Asylum [Ky.] 80 S. W. 781.

21. Assignments of errors at the trial cannot be reviewed in the absence of a bill of exceptions. Conrad v. Broeker [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 1019; Bryant v. Nelson-Frey Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 859; National R. Co. of Mexico v. O'Leary [C. C. A.] 126 F. 363. Remarks of counsel complained of as improper cannot be preserved for review by means of ex parte affidavits. Finlay Brewing Co. v. People, 111 Ill. App. 200. A motion and the ruling thereon to require plaintiff to make his complaint more definite and certain prior to the act of 1903 did not become part of the record without a bill of exceptions or order of the court. Act 1903, p. 339, c. 193, §§ 2, 3. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Collins [Ind.] 71 N. E. 661; Mondamin Meadows Dairy Co. v. Brudi [Ind.] 72 N. E. 643. Whether the circuit court was without jurisdiction of an appeal from justice court because of a want of jurisdiction in the justice is determined from the record and not from the justice's docket where that has not been brought in by bill of exceptions. Town of Washburn v. Washburn Waterworks Co. [Wis.] 98 N. W. 539. A motion for a new trial and the rulings thereon can be brought in the record on appeal only in a bill of exceptions. The mere fact that the clerk puts into the record what purports to be a motion for a new trial is not sufficient. Salomon v. Ellison, 102 Ill. App. 419. A mere recital in a motion to set aside the judgment cannot perform the office of a statement of the fact incorporated in the bill of journal entry,[22] or equivalent proceedings,[23] except in the case of certain proceedings subsequent to the judgment.[24] In chancery cases and some special statutory proceedings,[25] the record includes all proceedings and files below,[26] including the testimony, if taken by deposition,[27] or as settled if taken in open court.[28] Stipulaexceptions. Mahoney v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 151. Evidence taken down and transcribed by a stenographer is not a part of the record unless made so by a proper bill of exceptions. When and under what conditions a "skeleton bill of exceptions" is allowable. Tracy's Adm'x v. Carver Coal Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 825. In the absence of a bill of exceptions the granting of a motion to strike the complaint cannot be considered. Henry v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 361.

22. In Ohio where a bill of exceptions is perfected in accordance with the act of 1902, it thereby becomes an original paper, and a journal entry ordering it made a part of the record is not necessary. Strauch v. Massillon Stoneware Co. [Ohio] 73 N. E. 211, rvg. 26 Ohio C. C. 73, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 536. A bill of exceptions cannot be considered unless it is made part of the record by a journal entry. Manley v. Wheeling & Lake Erie R. Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 384, 24 Ohio C. C. 70. An agreed statement of facts, although in writing, signed by counsel for all parties, and filed, does not become part of the record unless brought upon the record by bill of exceptions, or the facts as agreed upon are stated in the journal entry as the court's finding of facts. Goyert v. Eicher [Ohio] 70 N. E. 508. An order of court showing that plaintiff moved the court to require defendant to file a statement of its grounds of defense, that the motion was overruled and the plaintiff excepted, is sufficient. Driver's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 1000.

23. In cases not triable de novo on appeal, neither errors of law occurring at the trial, nor the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the findings can be considered without specifications of error embodied in a statement of the case. Barnum v. Gorham Land Co. [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1079. In Iowa the statutes recognize shorthand notes duly certified as being the equivalent of a bill of exceptions. Where two stenographers were employed on a case and it was stipulated that one of them should certify to all the notes as if he had taken them all, held that the evidence was properly preserved under Code, § 3675. Hofacre v. Monticello [Iowa] 103 N. W. 488. In Pennsylvania where there is no bill of exceptions, it must appear in order to bring exceptions to rulings upon evidence upon the record, that the stenographer's notes have been approved by the judge as correct. Kershner v. Kemmerling, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 181.

Instructions are no part of the record unless it appears that they were filed. An order to file them is not sufficient (Elrod v. Purlee [Ind.] 73 N. E. 589), and signed by the trial judge. Filing without signing is not enough (Michigan City v. Phillips [Ind.] 71 N. E. 205). Filing several days after the trial is not enough. Speck v. Kenoyer [Ind.] 73 N. E. 896. The mere filing of the charge by the trial judge does not make it subject to assignment of errors. Kinney v. Burnhorn, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 583. Where the instructions are incorporated in the bill of exceptions, it is not necessary for the trial judge to sign marginal exceptions thereon. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888. Incorporating them into the original bill of exceptions containing the longhand manuscript of the evidence does not bring them into the record. Michigan City v. Phillips [Ind.] 71 N. E. 205. The method prescribed by the legislature is exclusive and mandatory, but where the original instructions filed show that the statute was substantially complied with, a slight discrepancy will be disregarded. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Boswell [Miss.] 38 So. 43.

24. In determining whether the trial court erred in refusing a new trial for misconduct of jury and after discovered evidence, the supreme court will consider depositions taken in support of the motion. Mix v. North American Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 272.

25. Contested election case. Griffith v. Bonawitz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 327. Bankruptcy. In re Robertshaw Mfg. Co., 135 F. 220; Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363. A case and exceptions are not required on appeal from an order of a surrogate declining to open a decree. In re Gowdey's Estate, 91 N. Y. S. 662. An order of the surrogate should specify the papers used thereon in order that it may appear what should be printed. Rule 41. Id.

26. On appeal from the decision of the district court in a contested election, the entire record should be brought up. Griffith v. Bonawitz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 327. The court of bankruptcy from which an appeal is taken has no jurisdiction to designate what records shall be certified on which the appellate court shall determine the appeal. In re Robertshaw Mfg. Co., 135 F. 220. In the absence of a stipulation, the whole of the record in the strict sense of the word must be transmitted. Id. Where the parties are unable to agree as to its contents, the appellant should file a praecipe with the clerk pointing out specifically what records in his judgment should be certified, leaving it to the appellee to suggest diminution and ask for a certiorari if he deems it necessary. Id. A bill of exceptions has no function and accomplishes no purpose in proceedings in bankruptcy. Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363. Original papers which were not properly a part of the files in the lower court are not properly made part of the record there and are not properly a part of the files of the circuit court. Strauch v. Massilon Stoneware Co. 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 536, 26 Ohio C. C. 73.

27. Where the evidence is introduced entirely by depositions and written instruments filed in the lower court which by filing become of record, failure to file the stenographer's transcript is immaterial. National Surety Co. v. Walker [Iowa] 101 N. W. 780.

28. Evidence not authenticated by the tions,[29] interlocutory motions and orders thereon,[30] agreed statement of facts,[31] depositions,[32] proceedings at the trial,[33] motion for new trial and order thereon,[34] affidavits;[35] the opinion of the trial court,[36] and the evidence,[37] are no part of the record proper, and statutes providing for the filing of the reporter's transcript of the evidence does not make it of record,[38] nor do recitals in the motion for new trial make of record the matters recited.[39] Statutes sometimes provide that instructions may be made of record by order,[40] but unless so authenticated trial judge, though contained in the record, cannot be considered on appeal in the absence of a stipulation that it is the evidence heard on the trial. Darrin v. Hoff [Md.] 58 A. 196. Where the statement of the evidence and rulings is neither allowed by the justice who tried the case, substantiated by affidavit, nor assented to by the appellee, the case is not properly before the supreme court. Rice v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 629.

29. Zunpelman v. Power [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 69.

30. A motion to quash condemnation proceedings. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329. A written motion to exclude evidence and an order denying the same. Holt v. Cave [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 309. Order for transfer to another division. Stripling v. Maguire [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 164. A petition for certiorari. Tompkins v. Newman [Ga.] 47 S. E. 557. Order striking pleas. Lynn v. Bean [Ala.] 37 So. 515. A motion for judgment on the pleadings. Grubbs v. Needles [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 873. Denial of continuance. Smith v. Hughes [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 936. Under rule 29 (64 P. 12), providing that on appeal the papers used on the hearing of a motion must be authenticated by incorporating them into the bill of exceptions, an unauthenticated affidavit printed in the transcript on appeal is no part of the record. People v. Wrin [Cal.] 76 P. 646. Rulings upon motions are not deemed saved for review unless the motion and ruling are made a part of the bill of exceptions. Grubbs v. Needles [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 873.

31. Smith v. Smith [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 586; Taylor v. Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 306; Woolverton v. Johnson [Kan.] 77 P. 559. A bill of exceptions is not necessary where the case was tried below on an agreed statement of facts signed by the respective parties, and submitted to the court and made a part of its record. American Security & Trust Co. v. Walker, 23 App. D. C. 583.

32. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Kuykendall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 61. Deposition not used below cannot be considered, though included in record. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263. In a chancery case, where the evidence is taken by depositions, they become a part of the record, and there is no necessity for a bill of exceptions, since the chancellor has the whole record before him and all legal issues are thereby raised for his consideration. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Hollenbeck [Ark.] 80 S. W. 145.

33. Froman v. Wilson [Colo. App.] 78 P. 615. Rulings on evidence at trial of equity case where evidence was taken by a commissioner must be in bill of exceptions. Jennings v. Wyzanski [Mass.] 74 N. E. 347. Argument of counsel. Preston v. Davis, 112 Ill. App. 636; Burt-Brabb Lumber Co. v. Crawford [Ky.] 86 N. W. 702; Mueller v. Kinkead, 113 Ill. App. 132; Finlay Brew. Co. v. People, 111 Ill. App. 200; Paducah R. & Light Co. v. Bell's Adm'r [Ky.] 85 S. W. 216.

34. Williams v. Hawley [Cal.] 77 P. 762; Power v. Fairbanks [Cal.] 80 P. 1075. It is not necessary to incorporate into a bill of exceptions a copy of the journal entry overruling a motion for a new trial. Conradt v. Lepper [Wyo.] 81 P. 307.

35. Eubank v. Eastman [Ga.] 48 S. E. 426; Bracey-Welles Const. Co. v. Terry [Ind.] 82 S. W. 846; Hamilton v. Saunders [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 253; Skinner v. Horn [Cal.] 77 P. 904; Soder v. Adams Hardware Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 775.

36. In re Shively's Estate [Ga.] 78 P. 869.

37. Wilson v. Phillipsburg [Kan.] 77 P. 582; Anderson v. McGregor [Wash.] 78 P. 776; Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53; Hays v. Crutcher [Idaho] 77 P. 620.

38. The official stenographer's transcript though required by statute to be filed is no part of the record unless approved as a bill of exceptions. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Howard [Ky.] 85 S. W. 732. A statute providing that the notes of the official stenographer shall be typewritten and filed with the clerk, and shall become a part of the records of the court, does not make them a part of the record proper. Laws 1903, p. 83, c. 58, § 4. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53.

39. Scheffel v. Scheffel [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 408. Improper argument must be saved by bill of exceptions—recitation in motion for new trial being insufficient. Estes v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 909; Edger v. Kupper [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 949.

40. Special instruction cannot be reviewed as having been given, unless judge has indorsed thereon whether it was refused or given, as required by statute. Albritton v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 646. The charge of the court and requests for instructions, though required to be filed, are not part of the record proper. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53. Where the judgment roll must be certified as an entirety, instructions not appearing in it, but merely in the statement on motion for a new trial, cannot be considered. Butte Min. & Mill Co. v. Kenyon [Mont.] 76 P. 696. Instructions not made a part of the judgment roll but only in the statement on motion for a new trial will not be considered. Dawes v. Great Falls [Mont.] 77 P. 309; Butte Min. & Mill. Co. v. Kenyon [Mont.] 77 P. 319; Spencer v. Spencer [Mont.] 79 P. 320. Instructions not a part of the judgment roll are not open to review. Shropshire v. Sidebottom [Mont.] 76 P. 941.

they must be embodied in the bill of exceptions.[41] Recital in the record proper of matters which are no part of such record are unavailing to supply omissions from the bill of exceptions.[42]

(§ 9) C. Form, requisites and settlement of secondary record. 1. The bill of exceptions.[43]—In order to preserve exceptions to the action of the trial court in relation to any matter not a part of the record, a bill embodying it must be tendered, authenticated by the trial judge, and filed in the case before the adjournment of the term of court at which the action complained of occurred.[44] This rule applies to any proceedings had in the progress of the case as well as to the action of the court upon trial and judgment.[45] The bill of exceptions in some jurisdictions embraces all matters not part of the record proper,[46] while in others it is confined to specific errors, being used concurrently with other forms of secondary record,[47] while in some separate bills are settled to each alleged error; each

41. Will ignore charge preserved in record but not in bill of exceptions. Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341.

42. Order disposing of motion for new trial must be shown in bill of exceptions and omission is not cured by recital in record proper. Fisher v. Lederer, 115 Ill. App. 289. Date of motion for new trial omitted from the bill of exceptions may be supplied by reference to the record. Lambert v. Lambert [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 203. Charge must be in bill of exceptions. Southern R. Co. v. Yancy [Ala.] 37 So. 341. Inclusion in the transcript of a petition to make certain papers part of the record and a stipulation that such petition was granted will not take the place of a bill of exceptions. Metropolitan R. Co. v. MacFarland, 25 S. Ct. 28. Objection and exception must appear by the bill and omission is not cured by recitals in record proper. Dupuis Co. v. Cobb, 113 Ill. App. 421.

43. See 3 C. L. 208.

44. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fort [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 429. Questions not arising on the record cannot be reviewed without a bill of exceptions. State v. Beimfohr [Mo.] 81 S. W. 162. The office of the bill of exceptions is to set forth those proceedings which are not required to be entered in the record proper. McCord Rubber Co. v. St. Joseph Water Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 189. The bill of exceptions becomes a part of the record when signed by the judge, ordered by the court to be filed, and filed. Bill held sufficiently identified by order of court. Id. It is never spread on the record of the court, and no order of the court properly calls for it to be so spread. Id. A bill of exceptions to the remarks of counsel, being properly filed, becomes a part of the record of the case. Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 531.

45. Bill of exceptions must be filed at term at which proceedings are had, if previous to one at which final judgment is entered, or exceptions are waived. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fort [Tenn.] 80 S. W. 429. Laws 1899, p. 657, c. 275, authorizing judge to allow time to file bills after final judgment, does not apply to wayside bills of this character. Id. Petition and bond for removal to Federal court held not part of record, and assignment predicated on refusal of trial court to receive them and to order removal overruled, where only made part of bill of exceptions filed after final judgment at a subsequent term. Id.

46. The bill of exceptions should contain only the relevant portions of the evidence in narrative form. District of Columbia v. Frazer, 21 App. D. C. 154. Appellant denied recovery of costs on account of breach of rule. Brown v. Insurance Co., 21 App. D. C. 325. Ordinarily in an equity case the bill of exceptions must contain all the evidence (State v. Gibson [Mo.] 83 S. W. 472), but this rule does not apply where the only question proposed to be raised is the jurisdiction of the court. In such case need only embrace that bearing on the question (Id.). Mandamus to compel signing of bill should not be denied on theory that defendants have right to insist that decrees in their favor shall not be disturbed until court has reviewed entire evidence and found merits of the case against them. Id. The facts being contested in an equity case, the bill of exceptions should contain the evidence, though the judge found the facts and stated conclusions of law thereon; and mandamus will not lie to compel the judge to sign a bill omitting such evidence. State v. Jarrott [Mo.] 81 S. W. 876. In attachment proceedings separate bills of exceptions must be filed in the attachment branch of the case and in the remaining portion of the action on the merits. Rev. St. 1899, § 407. Alexander v. Wade [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 917.

47. Objections to the "exclusion" of evidence must be presented by bill of exceptions, notwithstanding a rule allowing objections to "evidence admitted over objection" to be presented by statement of facts. Home Circle Soc. No. 2 v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 320. Rulings on the admission of evidence must be saved by bill of exceptions; not in the statement of facts. Scott v. Llano County Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 301. The refusal of the court to grant an order requiring the production of a paper, which is material evidence in the case, after the adverse party has been served with notice to produce it, is reviewable in a motion for a new trial. Not necessary to take advantage of error by exceptions pendente lite. Carrington v. Brooks [Ga.] 48 S. E. 970. The disallowance of an amend-bill must in such case be in the form appropriate to bring up the particular error,[48] and each complete in itself.[49] The bill of exceptions is ordinarily required to be embraced in one document,[50] and should include all matters essential to the question involved,[51] which were presented to the trial court, and nothing that was not so presented.[52] Unnecessary or immaterial matters should not be included.[53] Papers referred to therein must be annexed or identified beyond doubt.[54] Skeleton bills, that is bills which provide for the subsequent copying by the clerk into and as a part of them of some paper or document, are allowed in some states.[55] Appellant must see that record or abstract contains everything necessary to review,[56] and its omissions will be construed against him[57] and the ment cannot be properly excepted to in a motion for a new trial. Raleigh & G. R. Co. v. Pullman Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1008. A ground of a motion for a new trial which complains that the verdict is contrary to a given charge of the court is in effect a complaint that the verdict is contrary to law. Spearman v. Sanders [Ga.] 49 S. E. 296. The sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict will not be considered upon a direct bill of exceptions. Question may be made in lower court by motion for new trial and decision brought up. Mulherin v. Kennedy [Ga.] 48 S. E. 437. Rulings of court in excluding evidence must be preserved by bill of exceptions and not by statement of facts. Home Circle Soc. No. 1 v. Shelton [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 84.

48. Affirmative charge will not be reviewed on evidentiary bill of exceptions. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Calhoun [Fla.] 36 So. 361. In respect to a charge given or refused, it must be set out in the ordinary bill of exceptions with the evidence or substance thereof to which it related and the charge that was given thereon. Daytona Bridge Co. v. Bond [Fla.] 36 So. 445.

49. Evidentiary and ordinary bills must be separately made up (Daytona Bridge Co. v. Bond [Fla.] 36 So. 445), and each must be sufficient in itself (Id.). An exception referring to another exception for its objection will be overruled. Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99. The court will not refer from one bill of exceptions to another to aid defects claimed on either. Evidentiary and ordinary bills. Daytona Bridge Co. v. Bond [Fla.] 36 So. 445. In reviewing charge it will not look to evidence outside the ordinary bill of exceptions. Maultsby v. Boulware [Fla.] 36 So. 713.

50. Leave to file a bill of exceptions authorizes the filing of as many separate bills as appellant desires. One embracing the evidence and another the ruling directing a verdict. Davis v. Mercer Lumber Co. [Ind.] 73 N. Y. 899. A party can have but one bill of exceptions in the same case. Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164. When the judge has signed a bill of exceptions, he has exhausted his statutory power thereto, so far as the party tendering the exceptions is concerned. Id.

51. The bill of exceptions must contain the evidence objected to. A mere reference to the official transcript which is not furnished to the court is not sufficient. Hathaway v. Goslant [Vt.] 59 A. 835. The evidence may properly be stated in narrative form. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888. It is not necessary that the evidence in the bill be transcribed by the official stenographer. Id.; Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. McEwen [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 926.

52. Affidavits filed with the clerk upon motion for a new trial and not presented to the court upon hearing should not be embodied in the bill of exceptions. State v. Spiegel, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 255, 25 Ohio C. C. 552.

53. A bill intended to bring up the ruling of the court directing a verdict need not present the language used by the court in so doing as such a direction is in no sense an instruction. Davis v. Mercer Lumber Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 899.

54. Mere statement in bill that certain numbered instructions were given does not bring in correspondingly numbered instructions copied into the transcript. Newton v. Russian [Ark.] 85 S. W. 407. An exhibit not attached to the bill of exceptions, and erroneously referred to therein, cannot be considered. Insurance policy marked "A" and referred to as "B." Lewis C. Hammel v. Ins. Co. of Penn., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 380, 24 Ohio C. C. 101. Exhibits attached to a bill and referred to properly in the amended bill but not set out therein are properly a part of the record. Weir v. Jones [Miss.] 37 So. 128. A skeleton bill of exceptions presented to the judge for signature, reciting that the plaintiff "asked the following instructions, to wit: (clerk here set out the several instructions asked by plaintiff in full)," and stating that the court gave certain specified numbered instructions and refused others, held to sufficiently identify the instructions asked, given, and refused, in view of the fact that the clerk was thereby enabled to copy them correctly, there being no contention that they were not properly set out in the transcript. Ford v. Bodcaw Lumber Co. [Ark.] 83 S. W. 346.

55. Practice stated. Tracy's Adm'x v. Carver Coal Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 825. A skeleton bill containing a direction to the clerk to copy the official stenographer's transcript of the parol evidence is insufficient. Rev. St. 1899, § 866, as amended by Acts 1903, p. 105, construed. Forbs v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 562.

56. Grabill v. Ren, 110 Ill. App. 587.

57. Peoria Star Co. v. Lambert, 115 Ill. App. 319; Lumbard v. Holdiman, 115 Ill. App. 458; Kiesewetter v. Supreme Tent of Knights of Maccabees of the World, 112 Ill. App. 48; Grondenberg v. Grondenberg, 112 Ill. App. 615.

court will of its own motion refuse to consider a bill not conforming to the rules.[58] As a general rule deficiencies in matters which belong to the bill of exceptions cannot be aided by other parts of the record.[59] A stipulation that objections and exceptions need not be taken at the trial does not dispense with the necessity of inserting them in the bill of exceptions precisely as if they had been so taken.[60] The office of the bill of exceptions is not only to verify the recitals, but to authenticate itself, and to show all facts, including the signature, within the proper time, needed to give the reviewing court jurisdiction.[61] The bill of exceptions must show on its face that it was signed in due time.[62] A defective bill cannot be aided by extrinsic evidence, except in cases expressly provided by statute.[63] In making up statements or bills of exceptions, litigants are not required to use transcripts of the record of the official stenographer.[64]

Settlement, signing, and filing.[65]—The bill must be settled by the judge who tried the case[66] unless provision is made for settlement by his successor.[67] It must be presented during the term[68] or within the time limited by statute or rule,[69] or an extension of such time duly allowed[70] before the expiration of the 58. District of Columbia v. Frazer, 21 App. D. C. 154; Brown v. Insurance Co., 21 App. D. C. 325.

59. Jamison v. Dooley [Tex.] 82 S. W. 780.

60. The Fairbank Co. v. Nicolai, 112 Ill. App. 261.

61, 62. Atkins v. Winter [Ga.] 48 S. E. 717.

63. Supreme court cannot consider an affidavit setting up reasons why a corrected bill was not presented until the return of the judge to the county where the trial was had. Atkins v. Winter [Ga.] 48 S. E. 717. A motion to dismiss will be overruled where it affirmatively appears from the record that the bill of exceptions was tendered in time, though such fact is not recited in the bill itself. Where judgment rendered Oct. 13, and bill signed Nov. 12, 1903. Green v. Valdosta Guano Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 984. The fact that a demurrer to the evidence is unnecessarily made a part of the bill of exceptions does not prevent a review of the ruling thereon. Is part of record proper. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Pierce [Va.] 48 S. E. 534.

64. Though Code Civ. Proc. §§ 370, 377 require the official stenographer to attend all sittings and file with the clerk full notes of the proceedings. York v. Steward [Mont.] 76 P. 756. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 370, 377, which provides for an official stenographer and makes his notes prima facie correct, litigants in making up statements or bills are not required to obtain transcripts from him. Id.

65. See 3 C. L. 210.

66. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 1; Burch v. Goodenough, 110 Ill. App. 603. Where the case was tried by the judge of another county acting specially he is the proper person to settle the bill of exceptions and he may do so in his own county. Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters v. Knowles, 113 Ill. App. 641. The clerk's certificate cannot authenticate a bill not signed by the judge until after the certificate was made. Nurrenbern v. Daniels [Ind.] 71 N. E. 889. In the absence of some statutory provision, a bill of exceptions will not be regarded as sealed unless it is identified by the certificate of the trial court. Bostwick v. Willett [N. J.] 60 A. 398.

67. Trial judge cannot as his own successor settle bill after his term; he can only do so under the statute continuing his power after term to a time fixed in term. Mowery v. Wilson State Bank [Kan.] 72 P. 539. In order that a trial judge out of office shall have jurisdiction to sign and settle a case made, such jurisdiction must have been preserved by some proper order. Granite State Fire Ins. Co. v. Harn [Kan.] 76 P. 822.

68. Cantlin & Co. v. Miller [Wyo.] 78 P. 295. When the date of adjournment does not appear, it may be presumed to support the bill of exceptions that it was on the latest legal day for adjournment, thus making the signature timely. Might have been continued into August, and bill signed September 14, was hence within 30 days after adjournment. Carroll v. Warren [Ala.] 37 So. 687. Cannot by agreement be signed after beginning of next term. Practice rule 30. Abercrombie v. Vandiver [Ala.] 37 So. 296. In Federal courts it may be settled at any time during the trial term or the term at which judgment is entered, or at any extended time which the court may grant while the judgment remains open. Minahan v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 37. Bill of exceptions showing interlocutory order must be made at the term at which the order was entered unless additional time is allowed. City of Spring Valley v. County of Bureau, 115 Ill. App. 545. The court has no power to allow a bill of exceptions, or to alter or amend one already allowed and filed, after the expiration of the trial term, in the absence of a rule of court authorizing it, or an order or agreement of the parties extending the time, especially after an appeal has been perfected. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 1. An adjourned term after the time of an extension is not a continuation of the regular term for the purpose of signature of the bill. Hayes v. Woodham [Ala.] 36 So. 545.

69. Winklemann v. Schlueter [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 928; Norman v. Great Western Tall-time originally limited.[71] Relief in case of accident, mistake, or other excusable neglect, is generally provided.[72] The bill must be approved,[73] and stipulation will not dispense with such approval.[74] Approval must be by the judge, as such,[75] within the time allowed by law,[76] and the approved bill must be filed[77] in the court below after signature,[78] within the time allowed by law;[79] and in some jurisdictions oring Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 782. Civ. Code 1895, § 5539. Jossey v. Brown [Ga.] 47 S. E. 350; Smith v. Emerson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 922; Hayes v. Woodham [Ala.] 36 So. 545; Dodds v. Gregson [Wash.] 77 P. 791; Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814; Halstead v. Sigler [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 257; Stock v. Luebben [Neb.] 100 N. W. 307; Dodds v. Gregson [Wash.] 77 P. 791. Where the last day allowed falls on Sunday, the bill of exceptions may be presented on Monday. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522. When the bill is returned for correction, a new starting point is fixed, and hence what is a reasonable time for making the correction is independent of the length of time allowed for the presentation of the original bill. Atkins v. Winter [Ga.] 48 S. E. 717. In case the statute does not fix a time within which the changed bill may be corrected and excepted, plaintiff is entitled to a reasonable time within which to act. Id. What is a reasonable time should be determined as matter of law rather than as matter of fact. Id. Twenty days is a reasonable time, and should be fixed as the limit. Id. Delay of 38 days held unreasonable. Id. Delay in entering final judgment does not postpone the time for filing bills of exception to the overruling of a motion for new trial. St. Paul's Congregation v. Houtz [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 262. Exceptions will be considered though the clerk failed to present them to the court, it being his duty to do so and the exceptant having no control over him. Goff v. Britton, 182 Mass. 293, 65 N. E. 379. Time to file a general bill will not authorize the filing after time of a special bill. Wagner v. Weyhe [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 915.

70. It is not necessary that either the application for the extension of the time for filing a bill of exceptions or the order granting it should show that it was for good cause. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. United States, 23 App. D. C. 535. An order extending the time for filing the bill of exceptions need not be made by the judge who presided at the trial. Id. Time allowed without specifying otherwise runs from adjournment of the term. Carroll v. Warren [Ala.] 37 So. 687. An extension of time may be made during the term of trial to a day beyond that term. Minahan v. Grand Trunk W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 37. Where a stated number of days is allowed by order to file bill of exceptions, the day on which the order is dated is excluded. Gates v. Davis [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1132. Counsel who acquiesce in an order fixing the date for filing bill of exceptions at a time when a term would intervene cannot withdraw consent. Hill's Adm'r v. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 759. Under an order extending the time for filing the bill of exceptions "to" a certain term, it may be filed up to or on the first day of such term, but not thereafter. Bloch Queensware Co. v. Smith [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 592. Agreeing to postpone settlement beyond ruling on new trial motion is a postponement past the beginning of the "next term," the new trial motion being set for then. Practice rule 30 (Code p. 1200). Birmingham R. & El. Co. v. James [Ala.] 36 So. 464. Under a rule limiting agreements to extend time of settlement of a bill (Code p. 1200), one settled by agreement after beginning of next term will be ignored. Id. A bill of exceptions invalid as to the judgment because tardily settled may be good as to a motion for new trial made at a later term. Id. If extended by agreement beyond the time when the court may settle it, orders after adjournment granting extension are naught. Id. Time given from the overruling during term of motion for new trial extends the making of a bill to the trial as well as to the motion. Gaston v. Marengo Imp. Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 738.

71. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814; Haggelund v. Oakdale Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 106; Keyes v. Kennedy [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 539. Rev. St. 1899, § 728. O'Bannon v. St. Louis & G. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 321; Moore v. Andrews [Colo.] 81 P. 248.

72. Mistake in fixing the time, resulting from an excusable inadvertence on the part of appellant's attorney. Code Civ. Proc. § 473. Kaltschmidt v. Weber [Cal.] 79 P. 272. Sickness of judge. Roberts v. Bennett [C. C. A.] 135 F. 748. Mistake, accident or unforeseen cause. Mere forgetfulness no excuse. Haggelund v. Oakdale Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 106.

73. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Lovelace [Ga.] 49 S. E. 607.

74. Leppel v. District Court of Garfield County [Colo.] 78 P. 682. Certificate by judge that the statement has been agreed on by counsel, but containing no approval by him, is insufficient. Watkins v. Hale [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 386. A bill agreed to by the parties and presented by a commissioner appointed to settle it will be considered, it being a copy of the original bill which was disallowed through misunderstanding. Scaplen v. Blanchard [Mass.] 72 N. E. 346.

75. The authority given a referee by the statute to decide any question which arises upon the trial, sign a report, or settle a case, does not relieve the court of its statutory duty to settle the bill of exceptions. Babcock v. Ormsby [S. D.] 100 N. W. 759.

76. Where the statute provides no time it is to be fixed by the judge. State v. Adair [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 611.

77. In Ohio when the party taking a bill of exceptions has filed it within the statutory period he has performed all the duties imposed on him. Davies v. New Castle & L. R. Co. [Ohio] 73 N. E. 213.

78. And the fact that it was so filed must appear. Elrod v. Purlee [Ind.] 73 N. E. 589. Where the record on appeal shows that the

it is required to be served on the adverse party.[80] The duty of the trial court to approve a truthful bill presented in time[81] will be enforced by mandamus;[82] but an appellate court will not, on mandamus, overrule the statement of the trial judge as to what were the facts.[83] In some states provision is made for authentication by affidavit of bystanders if the judge refuses to sign.[84] A bill duly settled is a record and can only be corrected as such.[85] Every reasonable intend-judge signed the bill, the presumption arises that he did his duty and filed it after he had signed it. Neighbors v. Davis [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 151; Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009. Where a bill was signed and filed on the same day it will be presumed that signature preceded filing. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Parks [Ind.] 72 N. E. 636.

79. Cooper v. Lazarus [Ga.] 47 S. E. 500; Simpson v. Scroggins [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1129.

80. An acknowledgment of service upon a bill of exceptions does not relate to or bind any person not actually named or sufficiently designated as a defendant in error when the acknowledgment is entered. Sears v. Jeffords [Ga.] 47 S. E. 186; Green v. Barron [Ga.] 47 S. E. 188. Such an acknowledgment will not be construed as an acknowledgment by one thereafter made a party by amendment to the bill of exceptions. Sears v. Jeffords [Ga.] 47 S. E. 186. Objection that the bill of exceptions was not properly served is waived by presenting amendments to it. Fordham v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 1040. Court rules requiring the submission of bills to the adverse attorney and subsequently to the judge, and requiring an affidavit of counsel if the bill is not agreed to, are upheld. State v. Adair [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 611.

81. Must be presented in time. Civ. Code 1895, § 5539. The only exceptions in the statute are the judge's absence from home or his failure by casualty to certify the bill of exceptions. Farmers' & Traders' Nat. Bank v. Willis [Ga.] 50 S. E. 366. Where an ex parte order extending the time for settling a bill of exceptions has been found on hearing to have been fraudulently obtained, the judge may set it aside and refuse to settle the bill because not presented in time. State v. Sornberger [Neb.] 101 N. W. 241.

82. In Massachusetts the prevailing party is entitled, after exceptions by his adversary have been amended, to petition to have the exceptions allowed as filed. Dorr v. Schenck [Mass.] 73 N. E. 532. Mandamus is the remedy when the circuit court improperly refuses to sign a bill of exceptions. State v. Jarrott [Mo.] 81 S. W. 876. Mandamus will lie to compel the judge to sign the bill of exceptions. State v. Gibson [Mo.] 83 S. W. 472. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 727-736, providing the procedure when the court refuses the filing of exceptions, applies only where the judge refuses to sign a bill on the ground that it is not a true statement of the matters excepted to, and not where he refuses because a bill in an equity case does not contain all the evidence, where the only question intended to be raised is that of jurisdiction. Id. The contention that there is no merit in relator's claim of error will not prevent the issuance of the writ. Change of venue. The question must be brought before court in regular way, by bill of exceptions. Id. Mandamus will not lie to compel the trial court to make incompetent evidence (affidavit made on information and belief on motion for new trial) a part of a bill of exceptions. Gay v. Torrance [Cal.] 78 P. 540. On mandamus by a plaintiff in a divorce suit to compel the judge to settle the bill of exceptions defendant cannot intervene and set up special reasons for refusal to settle the bill. Gay v. Torrance [Cal.] 76 P. 717.

83. State v. Spiegel, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 255, 25 Ohio C. C. 552. What shall be contained in the bill is a matter exclusively for the trial judge to determine. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888. Where it is sought by mandamus to compel the respondent to sign a bill of exceptions and the answer denies said bill to be a true bill and this answer is not denied by any reply, the respondent is entitled upon the pleadings to have the petition dismissed. State v. Spiegel, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 255, 25 Ohio C. C. 552.

84. A bill verified by bystanders must be prepared, sworn to and filed at the time the occurrence it relates to transpires. Dehougne v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1066. Statutory requirements necessary to the preservation of a bill of exceptions must be complied with. Mills' Ann. Code, § 385, requires timely notice to the opposite party where a bill is sought to be preserved by affidavits. Froman v. Wilson [Colo. App.] 78 P. 615. Bill signed by bystanders is invalid where there is nothing from the judge to show that he refused to sign or why. Metz v. Sutton [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 929.

85. Where a party attempts to state his exception in the bill but fails to state it fully, an amendment is proper after the time has passed during which exceptions might be filed. Dorr v. Schenck [Mass.] 73 N. E. 532. Where it is the duty of the trial court to examine and settle bills of exceptions and statements, where once settled and filed, it becomes part of the record and not subject to correction except on a showing of mistake and in no case should it be stricken from the files. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1155, 1173. York v. Steward [Mont.] 76 P. 756. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 650, amendments to a bill of exceptions held to have been agreed to so that presentation to the judge for settlement within 10 days was not necessary. Gay v. Torrance [Cal.] 76 P. 717. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1155, 1173, a bill of exceptions once settled and filed becomes a part of the record, not subject to connection except on a showing of mistake. York v. Steward [Mont.] 76 P. 756. After the bill of exceptions has been certified, the defendant in error cannot have any additional evidence or other matter sent up, except such ment arising from the record of settlement supports the court's action therein.[86] It may be vacated for defects which vitiate the settlement below.[87]

(§ 9C) 2. The settled case or statement of facts.[88]—The case must be settled and approved,[89] unless a statute provides for an agreed case,[90] by the judge who tried the case,[91] within the district,[92] within the time limited by law,[93] rule,[94] or stipulation of parties,[95] or an extension thereof duly granted,[96] and must be as is a part of the record and on file in the office of the clerk. Jones v. Gill [Ga.] 48 S. E. 688.

86. If the judge's certificate to the bill of exceptions is not dated, the certificate will be presumed to have been made on the day of the acknowledgment of service by counsel for the defendant in error. Under Civ. Code 1895, § 5566, providing that writ of error shall not be dismissed unless it is made to appear that signature was made after the time required by law. Porter v. Holmes [Ga.] 50 S. E. 923. It will be presumed that the acknowledgment of service was made after the bill was certified and within ten days thereof. Bill of exceptions will not be dismissed on ground that it does not affirmatively appear that it was served after the signing of the certificate by the trial judge. Thompson v. Hays [Ga.] 51 S. E. 33. Where the date of the certificate, the date of the acknowledgment of due and legal service, and the date of the filing of the bill of exceptions, are the same, it will be presumed that these steps were taken in their proper chronological sequence. McCain v. Bonner [Ga.] 51 S. E. 36.

87. A motion to strike a bill of exceptions from the files on the ground that it does not contain all the evidence will be overruled where the determination of the errors assigned does not depend upon the weight of the evidence. Determination depends upon construction of will. Union Sav. Bank & T. Co. v. Smith, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 237, 26 Ohio C. C. 317.

88. See 3 C. L. 213.

89. A statement of facts signed by the parties, but not introduced in evidence or signed or approved by the judge cannot be considered as a statement of facts on appeal. Stone v. McClellan [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 751.

90. A written agreement as to facts is not an agreed case provided for by Mills' Ann. Code § 278, and must therefore be made part of the record by bill of exceptions. Wagner-Stockbridge Mercantile & Drug Co. v. Goddard [Colo.] 80 P. 1038. A statement signed by the judge but not by counsel, without a certificate that counsel failed to agree, and not purporting to contain all the facts, cannot be considered as a statement of facts on appeal. Sloan v. Schumpert [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1005.

91. An appellant in New Jersey is not entitled under the act of 1902 to have the stenographer's notes certified as the state of the case, but there should be a statement agreed upon, or in default of agreement the case should be settled and signed by the judge. Boland v. Kaveny [N. J.] 58 A. 99; Esler v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J.] 58 A. 113; Van Vechten v. McGuire [N. J. Law] 58 A. 331. An omission to set out a material and necessary fact in the state of the case is no ground for reversal. If appellant is dissatisfied with the statement he should suggest diminution. Van Vechten v. McGuire [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 331. The court entering a decree is without jurisdiction to sign and seal a certificate of evidence presented pursuant to a void order allowing an appeal. And an approval and stipulation of such a certificate by opposing counsel will not confer authority to sign and seal it. Finch v. Finch, 111 Ill. App. 481. In absence of showing of statutory grounds therefor, a case signed by a judge other than the one who tried the case is insufficient. Parks & Woolson Mach. Co. v. Levy, 88 N. Y. S. 993. Approval of brief of evidence held sufficient. Tifton, etc., R. Co. v. Chastain [Ga.] 50 S. E. 105.

92. Cameron-Barkley Co. v. Thornton Light & Power Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 76.

93. Robbins v. Mackie [Kan.] 79 P. 170; Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 439; Daugherty v. Hedricks [Kan.] 77 P. 586; Hildreth v. Thibodeau [Mass.] 71 N. E. 111. Where a party is allowed "to" a certain date to serve a case made, the time expires at twelve o'clock, midnight, on the date preceding the date given. Maynes v. Gray [Kan.] 76 P. 443.

94. State v. Kelly [Minn.] 103 N. W. 15.

95. State v. Kelly [Minn.] 103 N. W. 15. Case filed in appellate court before time set for settlement will be returned to the files to allow appellant to move for its return and settlement if he desires. Hillman v. De Rosa, 90 N. Y. S. 409. Where the time is extended by stipulation, no order is necessary. 2 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 5062. Dodds v. Gregson [Wash.] 77 P. 791.

96. Under Laws 1903, c. 380, p. 583, if a motion to extend the time for serving a case made is made at the time of rendition of judgment and the extension is then granted it is a sufficient compliance with the requirement that the order be filed with the clerk of court. Howard v. Carter [Kan.] 80 P. 61. When time for serving a case made is extended by the judge under the provisions of Laws 1903, c. 380, § 1, the requirements of the law are satisfied by filing the order of extension with the clerk of court. The filing constitutes notice of the extension. Clark v. Board of Com'rs of Mitchell County [Kan.] 77 P. 284. An extension of time within which to serve a case made, "to" August 10th requires service before the expiration of August 9th. Code Civ. Proc. § 722, including the last day in the computation of time, does not apply to this case. Buck's Stove & Range Co. v. Davidson [Kan.] 79 P. 119. An agreement that the statement may be approved "at any time" does not authorize approval after the tran-filed in the court below.[97] The date that exhibits are attached to the statement is immaterial so long as they are sufficiently indorsed and marked for identification.[98] Mandamus will lie to compel a judge to settle and sign a properly presented case-made.[99] Provision is usually made for settlement in case of the death or retirement of a judge.[1] The judge may correct his certificate after the expiration of the time to settle the case.[2] It is generally provided that the proposed case, with notice of settlement,[3] be served on the adverse party,[4] who may present amendments or accept the case as proposed,[5] at the time of settlement.[6] Cases dealing with the necessary contents of a settled case are discussed below.[7] script has gone up. Watkins v. Hale [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 386. A case made completed within the time extended under ch. 380, p. 583, Laws 1903, is not invalidated because the order extending the time was not filed with the clerk, the provision requiring such filing being directory, not mandatory. Kansas City-Leavenworth R. Co. v. Langley [Kan.] 78 P. 858. In Michigan an extension of time to settle a case on appeal may be granted by the supreme court beyond the 40 days specified in supreme court rules 8 and 15, and the extension may be conditional. Sherman v. Sherman [Mich.] 102 N. W. 630.

97. Appellant's counsel agreeing that the statement of facts need not be filed within the statutory time contributes to the delay within the meaning of Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 1382, and hence cannot have the statement considered. Wilson v. Tyler Coffin Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 664. Where appellant's counsel might have compelled the filing of a statement of facts within the statutory time, but failed to do se, and the statement is filed after the expiration of such time, it will be stricken on motion. Where mandamus could have been resorted to to compel the filing of the statement within the prescribed time. Id. A statement in an opinion that an order extending the time for filing a statement of facts must thereafter be upon written motion only does not have the effect of a regularly adopted rule of practice. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex.] 81 S. W. 25. An order granting leave to file a statement of facts within 10 days after adjournment may be entered nunc pro tunc upon oral evidence and the recollection of the judge. Id.

98. Suksdorf v. Humphrey [Wash.] 77 P. 1071.

99. Cadillac State Bank v. Wexford Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 667. But not when presented after expiration of the time fixed by stipulation of parties. State v. Kelly [Minn.] 103 N. W. 15.

1. In Kansas, a trial judge has jurisdiction after the expiration of his term, to sign and settle a case until the time "fixed" for serving, suggesting amendments or settling and signing has expired, and no longer. Robbins v. Mackie [Kan.] 79 P. 170.

2. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5060, a judge may correct or supplement his certificate either after the statement has been settled or after the expiration of the time allowed by statute within which to file amendments. In re Halburte's Estate [Wash.] 80 P. 294.

3. Where notice has once been regularly given of the proposed settlement of a statement of facts, which has been continued from time te time, further formal notice is not always required. Dodds v. Gregson [Wash.] 77 P. 791.

4. Case made must show that it has been served within the statutory period or a valid extension thereof. Zinkeisen v. Lewis [Kan.] 80 P. 44.

5. The appellee may accept the appellant's case, or if he adds or rejects anything, the judge settles the case on appeal. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53. In Kansas though a statute prescribes the time, after service of a case made, within which amendments may be suggested, the court may with consent of the parties limit it to a shorter period. Robbins v. Mackie [Kan.] 79 P. 170. The trial judge should not settle a statement until it is corrected so as to state the truth as to all matters it purports to contain. Humbird Lumber Co. v. Kootenai County [Idaho] 79 P. 396. Where a proposed statement of case is served on appellee and he serves no amendments, he agrees to its settlement as proposed and further notice to him is unnecessary. Juckett v. Farge Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 742.

6. A motion to strike exceptions to a referee's refusal to pass on proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law is premature if made before judgment, the remedy being at the time of the settlement of the case on appeal. Underwood v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 832. Where the statute provides that if appellant's case is not returned by appellee within five days, with objections, it shall be deemed approved, it cannot be corrected after such time. Code, § 550. Barber v. Justice [N. C.] 50 S. E. 445.

7. A history 23 pages long filled with irrelevant details and arguments is in violation of the rule and weakens instead of strengthening a case and thus defeats its own end. Slater v. Slater [Pa.] 58 A. 267. There is no difference between a statement and bill of exceptions in form or substance except that a statement follows a notice of intention to move for a new trial. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 742. The case on appeal is a statement of the exceptions taken at the trial, and so much only of the evidence, charge, or other happenings as is necessary to present the exceptions intelligibly. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53. Superfluous matter which can throw no light on the exceptions taken need not be included. Id. A case

A statute providing that the notes of the official stenographer shall be typewritten and filed and shall become a part of the records of the court does not render them conclusive as to the evidence or as to what occurred at the trial, but those matters must still be settled by the judge if counsel disagree in regard to them.[8] Such notes cannot be made to take the place of the case on appeal.[9] They should not be included therein bodily, but their substance only should be stated in narrative form.[10]

(§ 9C) 3. Abstracts.[11]—Where the practice of abstracting prevails, the appellant should, in every case,[12] present an abstract containing all that is necessary to an understanding of the matters which he wishes to urge,[13] presenting the evidence with intelligible fulness,[14] and showing the names of the parties, and ... nature of the proceedings, a short abstract of the bill or petition, and the testimony on which the findings are based.[15] And in a total absence thereof, the case will not be considered on its merits.[16] On the other hand, the evidence and proceedings must be condensed as far as practicable,[17] and proceedings and papers made need contain only so much of the record as presents the alleged error. Wade v. Mitchell [Okl.] 79 P. 95. Notes of official stenographer not made a part of it by Laws 1903, p. 83, c. 58, § 4, providing that they shall be typewritten and filed and shall become a part of the records of the court. A case made containing only a transcript of the stenographer's notes of the evidence presents no question for review. High v. United States [Okl.] 78 P. 100. On appeal from an order granting or refusing a nonsuit or a demurrer to the evidence, only the evidence deemed to be material should be sent up. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53. Where plaintiffs excepted to dismissal on the ground that a judgment roll showed a former recovery, it was defendant's duty to add the jugment roll to the case on appeal by proper amendment. Muller v. Bendit, 90 N. Y. S. 433.

8. Laws 1903, p. 83, c. 58. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53.

9, 10. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53.

11. See 3 C. L. 215.

12. An abstract is required though the appeal or writ of error is by the long form. Mink v. Chesney [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 924.

13. Hixson v. Carqueville Lithographing Co., 115 Ill. App. 427. An abstract which is a mere index will not be considered. Henion v. Pohl, 113 Ill. App. 100. Abstract not containing the pleadings or judgment is meaningless and the judgment will be affirmed. Metzler v. Crebbin [Colo. App.] 79 P. 301. Where appellant's abstract did not show that evidence offered by him was excluded nor objections to evidence offered by appellee, assignments relative to admission or exclusive of evidence cannot be reviewed. Shilling Mercantile Co. v. Elliott [Colo. App.] 79 P. 179. A rule of court requiring so much of the evidence to be set forth in the abstract as is necessary to present the point relied on is not complied with by incorporation of such evidence in the brief. San Miguel Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Bonner [Colo.] 79 P. 1025. If the abstract is sufficient to permit the decision of the questions raised, the court will not affirm for failure to include all the evidence. Graham v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 93. No part of the record not embraced in the abstract will be considered and plaintiff in error must abide the consequences of any want of necessary fullness. Macdermid v. Watkins [Colo. App.] 77 P. 253. Errors on which a party depends for reversal must appear by the abstract as the court will not examine the transcript. Gage v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 109, 71 N. E. 877. A claim that the failure of the abstract to show the entry of an appealable decree was due to an oversight of the attorney who prepared the abstract is not a sufficient excuse for failure to file a proper one. Martin v. Martin [Iowa] 99 N. W. 719. The "paper book" in Pennsylvania must contain a statement of the question involved. Rule 17. Roush's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 652.

14. Facts necessary to an understanding of the error complained of must appear from the abstract. Cummings v. Smith, 114 Ill. App. 35. An abstract embracing in 10 printed pages evidence covering 113 typewritten pages is too meager upon which to review objections to the exclusion or admission of evidence. Slaughter v. Strouse [Colo. App.] 79 P. 972. The brief of the evidence must contain such an abstract thereof as will obviate the necessity of reading the entire evidence. Hess v. Corwin [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 141. A judgment in an action for services will be reversed where neither the amount of the services, their value or for whom rendered, appears from the abstract. Crowe v. Walker [Colo. App.] 78 P. 618.

15. O'Donnell v. Clements, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 447. "Sufficiency of the affidavit of defense" is not sufficient. Devers v. Sollenberger, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 64.

16. Good v. Bank of Edwardsville [Ill.] 70 N. E. 583; Kellogg Newspaper Co. v. Corn Belt Nat. Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 210 Ill. 419, 71 N. E. 339.

17. The evidence will not be reviewed where it is apparent that there has been no bona fide effort to brief it as required by law. Hathcock v. McGouirk [Ga.] 47 S. E. 563; St. Amand v. Lehman [Ga.] 47 S. E.

need not be set out in full, but the fact that each was duly had or served must be shown.[18] In South Dakota, failure to serve and file the abstract within the time limited is no reason for striking it from the record.[19]

Supplemental or counter abstracts.[20]—Where an appellee is not satisfied with appellant's abstract, he is entitled to file one supplying the omissions.[21] In some jurisdictions, the abstract must be approved,[22] but where the practice of counter abstracting prevails, approval is usually unnecessary.[23]

(§ 9) D. Sufficiency of entire record to present particular questions.[24]—Every presumption favors the correctness of the rulings below,[25] and accordingly

949; Martin v. Castle [Mo.] 81 S. W. 426. An abstract containing the pleadings, exhibits, motions, and judgment in full, and the testimony principally in narrative but to some extent by question and answer, is not too full. New York Store Mercantile Co. v. Thurmond [Mo.] 85 S. W. 333. Where the supreme court rules as to condensing the evidence in the abstract are not observed, the costs of the abstract will not be taxed (Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Bell [Ill.] 70 N. E. 754), and in a flagrant case pro forma affirmance may follow (Olson v. Lund [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1128). The abstract on appeal must be sufficiently full to enable the court to determine therefrom whether or not the errors assigned are well taken and the court will not search the record to determine whether technical objections were well taken. Chaloupka v. Bohemian Roman Catholic First Cent. Union, 111 Ill. App. 585.

18. Abstract must contain an allegation that notice of appeal has been duly served. In re Long's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 501.

19. Juckett v. Fargo Mercantile Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 742.

20. See 3 C. L. 216.

21. The correctness of translations of letters in the abstract cannot be put in issue on appeal by a mere denial though there is no proof of their genuineness. Schneider v. Schneider [Iowa] 98 N. W. 159. Where appellee claims anything has been omitted from appellant's abstract, he must supply the deficiency, unless the omitted evidence is in possession of appellant. Downs v. Downs [Iowa] 102 N. W. 431. A supplemental abstract the filing of which was unnecessary will be stricken on motion and the cost of printing it taxed to the party filing it. Wunderlin v. Wunderlin [Iowa] 100 N. W. 37. An additional abstract consisting of a brief and opinion of a master in a case where there is no authority for proceedings before a master is no part of the record. Preliminary injunction granted by the court. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n v. Rahlf, 213 Ill. 549, 73 N. E. 414. Appellant's abstract will be taken as found; where he fails to specify his objections to respondent's additional abstract in writing so that the clerk may order a certified transcript of the part of the record in dispute in accordance with Rev. St. 1899, § 813, but instead cites the bill of exceptions to show that respondent's abstract is incorrect, to which the court has no access, the appeal being by the short form. Reedy Elevator Mfg. Co. v. Mertz [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 684. The syllabus in this case states that under such circumstances the abstract as made by "respondent" must be taken as true, which is evidently what the opinion means, though it does not say so. Appellant by treating an additional abstract as filed within the proper time waives the defect. So held where objection was first made during the hearing. Haseltine v. Messmore [Mo.] 82 S. W. 115. When a full transcript is made because of a denial of an additional abstract grounded on a difference as to evidence, either the denial or the printed argument should point out the page in the transcript which sustains the denial. St. & Rules Sup. Ct. § 31. Lundvick v. National Union Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 970.

22. The supreme court will not consider a brief of evidence not approved by the trial judge (Milton v. Savannah [Ga.] 48 S. E. 684), or the judge may indorse his approval on the brief itself at any time before the bill of exceptions is certified. Cannot be approved thereafter. Id. Such approval may be shown by a recital in the bill of exceptions. Id.

23. Abstracts of the record, on which case is submitted on appeal, not excepted to, are admitted to be a true statement of the material substance of the record, and cause will be considered on them alone. Hendry v. Whidden [Fla.] 37 So. 571. An abstract by an appellant under Rev. St. 1899, § 813, need not be authenticated by the clerk, but is conclusively presumed true unless challenged by a counter abstract. Martin v. Castle [Mo.] 81 S. W. 426. If the appellee is not satisfied with appellant's abstract, he should make timely objection. Failure will be treated as a waiver and as an admission that it states the evidence correctly. Watson v. Dilts [Iowa] 100 N. W. 50.

24. See 3 C. L. 250.

25. Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240; Graves v. Norfolk & S. R. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 502; Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009; Manley v. Railway Co., 24 Ohio C. C. 70, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 384; Squires v. Martin, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 313, 24 Ohio C. C. 232; Bennett v. Roys [Ill.] 72 N. E. 380; Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489. It follows from this rule that an appeal from a default judgment is useless. Johnston v. Callahan [Cal.] 79 P. 870. Rule applied where record does not contain all the evidence. City of St. Joseph v. Pitt [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 544; Cravens v. Despain [Ky.] 80 S. W. 456. Burden of showing error is on party alleging the same. Gairdner v. Tate [Ga.] 48 S. E. 907. Error not presumed to avoid effect the record, to present an alleged error, must not only show the ruling complained of,[26] and objection and exception thereto,[27] but so much of the evidence[28] and of error shown. Talbott v. Donaldson [Kan.] 80 P. 981. Record should be liberally construed to find its meaning. Gregg v. Barnes Co., 110 Ill. App. 238. After verdict it will be assumed in the absence of legal evidence to the contrary that all claims for consequential damages not legally recoverable were disallowed at the trial. Karnuff v. Kelch [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 364. On appeal in a partition suit, the record being silent, the court will presume that the rights of the parties have changed so that a former suit will not operate as a bar. Miller v. Lanning [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1115. Presumed that questions party refused to answer were proper and that he was properly committed for refusing. Fenn v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 103. In the absence of a case or bill of exceptions, it will be assumed that the question of alimony in a divorce case was voluntarily litigated, though the pleadings do not raise the question. Conklin v. Conklin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 70. Where an order granting a motion for a nonsuit on the ground of variance was passed, but was not entered until after an amendment adjusting the pleading to the proof was allowed, after which the order was filed, it will be presumed that the subsequent filing of the order was under the direction of the judge, nothing appearing to the contrary, and such order will be deemed a judgment that plaintiff has failed to prove his case as laid in the amended petition. Fenn v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 141.

26. Hefferlin v. Karlman [Mont.] 76 P. 757; Ridley v. Mobile & O. R. Co. [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 606; Smith v. Hughes [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 936; Land Title & Trust Co. v. Fulmer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 260. An undisclosed ruling will be presumed to have been in favor of the successful party. Hillman v. De Rosa, 92 N. Y. S. 67; Rickert v. Pollock, 92 N. Y. S. 89; Gairdner v. Tate [Ga.] 48 S. E. 907. Though exceptions to rulings are not necessary in chancery cases, the record on appeal must show that questions presented for review were involved below and adverse rulings made. Ortmeier v. Ivory [Ill.] 70 N. E. 665. Error cannot be assigned in New Jersey on an order striking out a pleading, unless the order is entered on the record at the request of the party against whom it is made. Bowers Hydraulic Dredging Co. v. Hess [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 362. Rulings on motions to strike out pleadings cannot be considered when the bill of exceptions preserves neither the motion nor the ruling thereon. Hatcher v. Branch, Powell & Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 690.

27. Objection, ruling and exception must appear. Saenz v. Mumme & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 59. Ground of objection must appear. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jarrell [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 632; Kaestner v. Farmers & Merchants State Bank, 112 Ill. App. 158. A ruling on demurrer will not be reviewed where the grounds thereof are not copied into the record, according to Code, § 3271, as amended by Acts 1899-1900, c. 100. Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bauserman [Va.] 48 S. E. 857. No exception taken. Southern R. Co. v. Blevins [C. C. A.] 130 F. 688; Marsh v. Keating [Conn.] 60 A. 689; Hoffman v. Loud & Sons Lumber Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 1010; Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164; Adams v. Board of Com'rs of Whitley County [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1029; Pearl v. Benton Tp. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 188. Exception to granting of motion for amendment of answer held sufficiently shown. Robinson v. Lampel, 89 N. Y. S. 853. Failure to reserve exceptions to rulings on evidence is not cured by motion for new trial based on the rulings. Brigham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738. Where the record shows no objection to a creditor's right to appeal as such from the probate to the district court, an objection on that ground is waived. Appeal of McAlpine [Minn.] 100 N. W. 233.

Rulings on evidence not reviewable, when exceptions thereto were not urged below. Skinner v. Campbell [Fla.] 33 So. 526; Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Rabinowitz [Ga.] 48 S. E. 326; Everett v. Kemp [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 534. No exception to the sufficiency of evidence to support a finding. Hammond v. Doty, 103 Ill. App. 75. Exception to instructions at the time they were given must appear. Chicago Live Stock Commission Co. v. Connally [Okl.] 78 P. 318. Giving of instruction and exception thereto presumed to be contemporaneous. Skow v. Locks [Neb.] 91 N. W. 204. Only objections shown by record to have been made below can be considered. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Birdwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1067. The judgment will be affirmed where the errors assigned all relate to matters occurring at the trial, and there is no showing that the motion for a new trial was overruled and exceptions saved, and the respondent insists on such a course. Blattner v. Metz [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 270. Rulings on pleadings are not reviewable where the judgment entry recites that plaintiff takes a nonsuit with bill of exceptions, on account of rulings on evidence. Sands v. Hickey, 135 Ala. 322, 33 So. 827. Where the record shows no exceptions to the conclusions of law and the brief only attacks the findings, nothing but the sufficiency of the evidence is before the court for review. Delaney v. Shipp [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1033. If an exception was taken to the ruling of the court in directing a verdict, that ruling may be reviewed, though no motion for a new trial was made. Wheeler v. Seamans [Wis.] 102 N. W. 28. An assignment to the overruling of a motion to make the complaint more specific cannot be considered where the record does not show that such a motion was made. Consolidated Stone Co. v. Staggs [Ind.] 73 N. E. 695. The insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict cannot be considered where there was no motion for a new trial before the judgment and the order denying a new trial after judgment was not brought up. Sletten v. Madison [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1020.

proceedings below as to exclude every fair intendment in support of such ruling,[29] and the record must be certified to contain all such matters.[30] This rule has been

28. If evidence is to be reviewed it must appear from bill of exceptions that it is all there. Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Free Sons of Israel v. Ohnstein, 110 Ill. App. 312; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Joslin [Ark.] 86 S. W. 435; Duggan v. Ryan [Ill.] 71 N. E. 848; Young v. Irwin [Kan.] 79 P. 678; Bryant v. Nelson-Frey Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 859; Exendine v. Goldstine [Okl.] 77 P. 45; Wade v. Mitchell [Okl.] 79 P. 95. Case made must show that it contains all the evidence. Frame v. Ryel [Okl.] 79 P. 97. Rulings on sufficiency not reviewed unless record contains all the evidence, and such fact appears. Crooks v. Harmon [Utah] 81 P. 95; Landt v. Schneider [Mont.] 77 P. 307; Merk v. Bowery Min. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 519; Froman v. Wilson [Colo. App.] 78 P. 615. When it is clear that all the evidence is in the record, it will be so treated, though there is no express statement to that effect. Fisher v. Chicago City R. Co., 114 Ill. App. 217. A recital in the record from which it fairly appears that all the evidence has been preserved is sufficient. Young v. Irwin [Kan.] 79 P. 678. A bill of exceptions approved and signed by the trial judge will be presumed to contain all the evidence, it not indicating on its face the omission of any part thereof. Murphy v. Roney [Ky.] 82 S. W. 396. It cannot be assailed by affidavits. Id. "Testimony" is not a proper word to use in a bill of exceptions to show that it contains all the evidence. Crooks v. Harmon [Utah] 80 P. 95.

29. It is not sufficient that the reasons given by the court below are shown to be erroneous. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Lester [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 401. The appellant must so overcome all reasonable inferences on the record favorable to appellee as to make out a material issue of law wrongly decided. Heath v. Sheetz [Ind.] 74 N. E. 505. Record must show error affirmatively and directly and not merely by way of presumption. Swain v. McMillan [Mont.] 76 P. 943; Powers v. Fairbanks [Cal.] 80 P. 1075; Skinner v. Horn [Cal.] 79 P. 597; Strauck v. Massillon Stoneware Co., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 536, 26 Ohio C. C. 73. Objection to deposition on ground that plaintiffs had no notice that it was to be taken will not be considered where bill of exceptions does not state as a fact that they had no notice. Ward v. Cameron [Tex.] 80 S. W. 69. The rights of the respondent cannot be prejudiced by failure of the appellant to furnish the reviewing court with papers required to be furnished by him. Skinner v. Horn [Cal.] 77 P. 904. An objection that an allowance against a bankrupt's estate was erroneous because not proved within one year after the adjudication of bankruptcy cannot be maintained where the record does not show the date of the adjudication. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584. A contention that the court erred in ordering defendant to produce a deed, on the ground that he had no opportunity to plead, answer or demur to plaintiff's motion to require its production, is untenable where the record does not show affirmatively that he had no opportunity. Jenner v. Brooks [Conn.] 59 A. 508. An objection that the limitations pleaded were not applied by the trial court is not available where the amended answer setting them up is not made a part of the record. Falls Branch Jellico Land & Improvement Co. v. Com. [Ky.] 83 S. W. 108.

30. Evidence not reviewed unless bill is certified to contain it all. Lumbard v. Holdiman, 115 Ill. App. 458. Unless the record is testified to contain all the affidavits on which an order was made, it will be presumed there were others supporting the order. Wieczorek v. Adamski, 114 Ill. App. 161. The certificate of the court to a transcript of the stenographer's notes certified by the stenographer as a full transcript, held to show that all the evidence was contained. Mitchell v. Jensen [Utah] 81 P. 165. A statement that the "foregoing case made contains all the evidence introduced at the hearing," made in the form of a certificate signed by the attorneys of plaintiff in error will be treated as part of the case made. Hill v. Gatliff [Kan.] 76 P. 428. Ordinarily the certificate of the trial judge to the bill of exceptions must state that it specifies or contains all of the evidence necessary to a clear understanding of the errors complained of. Dierks v. Smith [Ga.] 47 S. E. 203. But a writ of error will not be dismissed for a failure to comply with this requirement where the only ruling complained of is based on technical objections to the pleadings in the court below, and it appears as a matter of necessary inference that no evidence was introduced. Id. Judge's certificate that record contains all the evidence unavailing if it appears otherwise that certain evidence is omitted. Exendine v. Goldstine [Okl.] 77 P. 45. Certificate insufficient under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5060, where it appeared that depositions were omitted. Kane v. Kane [Wash.] 77 P. 842. On appeal to the appellate term from a judgment of the city court, the facts cannot be reviewed where there is no certificate that the case contains all the evidence. Mayer v. Horenburger, 88 N. Y. S. 966; Empire Trust Co. v. Devlin, 90 N. Y. S. 1066; Hilgert v. Black, 90 N. Y. S. 1067. In the absence of a certificate or stipulation that the appeal book contains all the evidence, review is limited to the exceptions taken by appellant. Jones v. Oppenheim, 91 N. Y. S. 343. Where the case discloses a denial of a motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial and an exception thereto, the evidence may be reviewed, though there is no certificate. Hochberger v. Baum, 92 N. Y. S. 244. Where the bill itself states that it contains all the evidence, it will be presumed to state the truth in the absence of any showing on its face that there was other evidence not brought in. Abbreviation "etc." will be regarded as used by the witness if possible instead of applied to rulings relating to jurisdiction,[31] process[32] and pleading,[33] entry and by the person transcribing his testimony. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888. In order to review alleged error in refusing instructions, it is not necessary that the record expressly state that no instruction given is omitted therefrom where those given and refused are numbered consecutively and it is apparent that all those given are set out. Siegel, Cooper & Co. v. Norton [Ill.] 70 N. E. 636.

31. On a silent record it is presumed that the trial court acted within its jurisdiction. Snider v. Badere [Wash.] 81 P. 302. Record and supplement thereto held not to show that the trial court acted beyond its jurisdiction. Id. Where the amended petition claims a sum within the jurisdiction below and the original does not appear, it will be presumed that it claimed the same amount. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 393. Objection to jurisdiction of county commissioners to establish a road, not pleaded, cannot be considered unless the entire proceedings relative to the establishment of the road appear in the record. Carlson v. Board of Com'rs of Spokane County [Wash.] 80 P. 795. Where the district court is given original jurisdiction in probate matters, the presumption of regularity applies to its proceedings in such matters. Lethbridge v. Lauder [Wyo.] 76 P. 683. It will be presumed that facts authorized the appointment of a special administrator under Rev. St. 1899, § 4542, providing that orders need not recite jurisdictional facts. Id. Error does not lie to review a judgment rendered against a nonresident minor on the ground that no guardian ad litem was appointed for him or requisite answer filed, where the fact of his minority appears only in the praecipe for a summons and not in the record. Palmer v. Palmer, 25 Ohio C. C. 660, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 242. In the absence of proper evidence as to when a term of the trial court adjourned, it will be presumed that it continued as long as the judge took jurisdiction of matters which could only be considered in term. Southern R. Co. v. Flemister [Ga.] 48 S. E. 160.

32. In Arkansas a recital in a decree that "defendants were duly served with summons herein as required by law" is prima facie evidence of that fact and must be taken as true on appeal in the absence of anything to the contrary in the record. Sand. & H. Dig. § 4191. Love v. Kaufman [Ark.] 80 S. W. 884. Presumed that granting an amendment of summons was in furtherance of justice under Mills' Ann. Code, § 75. Slaughter v. Strause [Colo. App.] 79 P. 972. Error in dismissing an action on the ground that summons had not been served cannot be considered where the motion to dismiss the affidavit in support thereof and the exception to the ruling of the court are not made a part of the record. Bowling v. Chambers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 16. It is not necessary for a defendant, in appearing in a court of record to quash a defective writ commencing an action, to cause the record to recite that his appearance is for that purpose only, in order to avoid a waiver of defect in the jurisdiction of the court. In such case, whether an appearance is general or special is to be determined by the record as it stands at the time the motion is made. Fisher, Sons & Co. v. Crowley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422.

33. The meaning imported by pleadings as they appear in the record and not the meaning which parties say was understood controls. Weicker v. Stavely [N. D.] 103 N. W. 753.

Presumptions as to sufficiency: Rulings upon the sufficiency of pleadings will not be reviewed unless the pleadings attacked are in the record. Consol. Stone Co. v. Staggs [Ind.] 73 N. E. 695; Godding v. Rossiter [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1094. Where a portion of a plea is stricken on motion and such portion does not appear in the transcript, the ruling cannot be reviewed. Muller v. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works [Fla.] 38 So. 64. Plea as originally made must appear to test its sufficiency. Northern Alabama R. Co. v. Mansell [Ala.] 36 So. 459. The record must preserve the pleadings in exact identity if exceptions referring thereto by line and page are to be considered. Maultsby v. Boulware [Fla.] 36 So. 713. If the sole exception is that there was no cause of action stated, nothing is necessary but the pleading or motion assailed, the exception thereto, and the judgment thereon. Succession of Begue [La.] 36 So. 849. The certificate must unequivocally show that the pleadings in the record are the ones upon which the case was tried. Consolidated Stone Co. v. Staggs [Ind.] 73 N. E. 695. Erroneous overruling of a demurrer to a bad paragraph will reverse, though the complaint contains a good paragraph where it does not appear which paragraph was the basis of the judgment or verdict. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Hunsucker [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 556; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reyman [Ind.] 73 N. E. 587; Case v. Hursh [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 818; Norton-Reed Stone Co. v. Steele [Ind. App.] 69 N. E. 198. The supreme court cannot consider an answer to an interrogatory submitted to the jury stating on what paragraph of the complaint their verdict is based. Muncie Pulp Co. v. Davis [Ind.] 70 N. E. 875. Where the declaration is not abstracted, it will be presumed to have been properly drawn and to support a verdict on any theory of the evidence. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Chiaventone, 214 Ill. 314, 73 N. E. 420. Assignments complaining of the overruling of demurrers cannot be considered when the record does not contain any pleadings embracing the demurrers or any judgment or order disposing of them. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fossati [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1038. An order overruling a demurrer to the reply may be reviewed on a transcript of the record without bringing up the evidence. Talbott v. Donaldson [Kan.] 80 P. 981. Where a petition was objected to on appeal for failure to contain a particular averment, and the evidence was not in the record, it will be pre-opening of defaults,[34] motions and affidavits,[35] proceedings at trial in general,[36]

sumed that proof of the omitted fact was made at trial. Ashland & C. St. R. Co. v. Lee [Ky.] 82 S. W. 368. When a demurrer is overruled and then withdrawn, the decision on it cannot be reviewed on error; but if the final judgment appears by the record to rest solely on the pleading demurred to, or if a ruling at the trial on the question raised by the demurrer is presented in a bill of exceptions, that can be reviewed on error. Montclair Military Academy v. North Jersey St. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1050.

Presumptions as to amendments or additional pleadings: On a silent record it is presumed that a complaint was amended to correspond to the proof. Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1126. In Washington, amendments to pleadings which might have been made below on motion will be deemed to have been made. Hodges v. Price [Wash.] 80 P. 202. Amendment offered and disallowed must be brought up. Raleigh & G. R. Co. v. Pullman Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1008. Grounds of amendment and proposed amendment not in record. Bulte v. Igleheart Bros. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 492. Refusal to grant leave to amend a complaint before answer filed will not be reviewed unless error appears from the record. Stewart v. Winner [Kan.] 80 P. 934. In an appeal from an order sustaining a demurrer, it is presumed that permission to amend was given. Turner v. Hamilton [Wyo.] 80 P. 664. On an appeal from a judgment for plaintiff in an action of conversion for a policy of insurance or its value, an amendment eliminating the prayer for possession will be presumed to have been made before a tender of the policy. First Nat. Bank v. Cleland [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 337. On a silent record alleged error in allowing defendant to file a cross complaint is not reviewable. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 1124. Refusal of leave to further plead sustained where no real intention to avail of such leave and no proposed plea was shown in record. Maultsby v. Boulware [Fla.] 36 So. 713.

Presumptions as to pleadings not in the record: Where it appears that the case was tried below on the assumption that the answer was put in issue, it will be so treated on appeal, though no reply appears. Allen v. Aylor [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 904. Where the original petition stated a cause of action and the amended petition was not in the record, it will be presumed that it is sufficient. Hess v. Trumbo [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1153. Pleas will be presumed to have made the general issue when the record does not show what they were and when the bill of exceptions does not aid it. Bradford v. Boozer [Ala.] 36 So. 716. Where there were written pleadings, the court will not presume oral pleadings authorizing additional recovery. Missouri, etc., R. Co. of Texas v. Dawson Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 298. The original answer being lost and an amended one filed in the trial court, the absence of the original answer cannot be taken advantage of on appeal. Commonwealth v. Higgins' Trustee [Ky.] 82 S. W. 601.

34. Where an offer to file an answer after the first term is refused by the court on the ground that the case is in default, it will be presumed on appeal that the case had been marked in default on the docket, where the record fails to show whether it had or not. Norman v. Great Western Tailoring Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 782.

35. The record must show the motion and the evidence on which the order was based. Motion and affidavits not in record; overruling of motion not reviewed. Foley v. Kane, 114 Ill. App. 544. Motion to dismiss petition cannot be reviewed where motion does not appear in bill of exceptions. St. Louis & O. R. Co. v. Union Trust & Sav. Bank [Ill.] 70 N. E. 651. Where the motion for a new trial is not in the record, though specified in the bill of exceptions, and the clerk below certifies that he can find none, the questions raised by it cannot be reviewed. Sikes v. Norman [Ga.] 50 S. E. 134. A ruling on a motion will not be reviewed unless the record shows the grounds of the motion. Hooper v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 662. The grant of a motion for new trial, the grounds not being specified, will not be reviewed if any ground alleged in the motion is not presented for review. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wade [Fla.] 38 So. 49. Motion for new trial—evidence wanting. Davis v. Dinnie [N. D.] 101 N. W. 314. Grounds of motion for new trial based on rulings on evidence not considered, the record not containing the evidence. Hall v. Davis [Ga.] 50 S. E. 106; Buck v. Nicholls Mfg. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 82. Correctness of order denying application for cancellation of judgment cannot be reviewed unless the record contains the evidence on which the order was based. Barto v. Stanley [Wash.] 78 P. 791. An order denying a motion to set aside a default cannot be reviewed where the record fails to show that the affidavits and counter affidavits are brought up. Covault v. Sanders [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 163. Where the evidence upon which a dismissed suit was reinstated is not preserved, error or abuse of discretion will not be presumed. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Smith [Neb.] 99 N. W. 813. An order made in resettlement of a prior order of discontinuance of an action is not reviewable where the papers on which it was granted are not printed. Cameron v. White, 92 N. Y. S. 381. Where on appeal from an order denying a new trial the case does not show that it contains all the evidence reviewed is limited to the exceptions taken. Iaquinto v. Bauer, 93 N. Y. S. 388. The ruling of the trial court in granting a nonsuit cannot be reviewed where no question is raised on the pleadings and there is no statement of facts in the record. Osborn v. Pioneer Mut. Ins. Ass'n [Wash.] 79 P. 286. An order denying a continuance asked on the ground that plaintiff, whose deposition had been previously taken by defendant, was in no condition to testify, owing to the feeble condition of her mind, will be affirmed where only a part of the deposition is in the record. Shannon v. Marchbanks [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 860. An assignment of error that plaintiff's motion for a new trial, on the ground that she had been restored sufficiently to enable her to attend court or to give her deposition, will also be overruled for the same reason. Id.

admission,[37] exclusion,[38] and sufficiency of evidence,[39] instructions,[40] findings,[41]

36. The rules of the trial court will not be regarded on appeal unless they are before the court in the particular record involved. Edwards v. Warner, 111 Ill. App. 32. Bill of exceptions must show rules of court for noncompliance with which ruling was made. Dahms v. Moore, 110 Ill. App. 223. In the absence of proof to the contrary, a court is presumed to have complied with its own rules respecting short-cause calendars. Union Book Co. v. Robinson, 105 Ill. App. 236. Where the record fails to show that a special judge presided, the presumption is that the trial was before the regular judge. Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. Asman [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1060. Remark of court in limiting evidence will not be reviewed unless it appears from the record to have been made in presence of jury. Burt-Brabb Lumber Co. v. Crawford [Ky.] 86 S. W. 702. Where the record shows that attorneys' fees were allowed "on hearing," it will be presumed that there was evidence sustaining the allowance. Dills v. Auxier [Ky.] 85 S. W. 743. A bill alleging error in accepting disqualified jurors but failing to clearly show the disqualification is insufficient. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Lester [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 401. Where the record does not show that a juror actually sat in the case or that appellant exhausted his peremptory challenges, error in overruling a challenge for cause is not available. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754. A decision that a juror challenged for actual bias is not incompetent may be reviewed, though all the evidence as to his competency is not incorporated in the bill, if sufficient evidence to show that he was biased is contained. State v. Miller [Or.] 81 P. 363. It will be presumed on appeal that the court ruled correctly in overruling defendant's motion to set aside the swearing of the jury or continue the case on the ground of surprise, in that the court had indicated a different ground of liability in ruling on a previous demurrer to the petition from that on which he proposed to submit the case to the jury, where there is nothing in the record to show that defendant was misled by the ruling on the demurrer. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. McIntosh [Ky.] 80 S. W. 496.

37. A contention that certain evidence was not admissible because not within the issues cannot be considered in the absence of the complaint. Gottesman v. Heiden, 88 N. Y. S. 957.

Record must show evidence ruled on: Davenport v. Lines [Conn.] 59 A. 603; Carlson v. Hall [Iowa] 99 N. W. 571; Carhart v. Oddenkirk [Colo. App.] 79 P. 303. Agreed statement of facts did not contain testimony. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Burke [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 774. Evidence not in record. Wilson v. Huguenin [Ga.] 43 S. E. 857. Evidence objected to must be set out in the motion for a new trial. Hunting & Co. v. Quarterman [Ga.] 47 S. E. 928; Robert Portner Brewing Co. v. Cooper [Ga.] 47 S. E. 631. Evidence must be set forth in such a manner that the question of its admissibility can be decided without reference to other parts of the record. McTier v. Crosby [Ga.] 48 S. E. 355; Johnson v. Perry [Ga.] 48 S. E. 686; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. McClifford [Ga.] 47 S. E. 590. Error in admission of deed in evidence not considered where deed is not properly set forth in the motion for new trial. Benning v. Horkan [Ga.] 48 S. E. 123. Error on admission of written instrument will not be considered unless writing is set forth either literally or in substance in the bill of exceptions, or attached thereto as an exhibit. McNorrill v. Daniel [Ga.] 48 S. E. 680. The record of a motion, in support of which it is objected that secondary evidence was heard must show what was the available best evidence. Brooke v. Augusta Warehouse & Banking Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 341. Where error is assigned on the admission of evidence on the ground of irrelevancy, it must be made to appear from the motion that the evidence, even if not material, was of sufficient importance to require a new trial. Hunting & Co. v. Quarterman [Ga.] 47 S. E. 928. Admission of parol evidence as to the contents of "certain papers" will not be reviewed where the record does not show what the papers were. Presidio County v. Clarke [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 475. The rule that the admission or exclusion of evidence will not be considered in the absence of a statement of facts does not apply where the pleadings clearly indicate that the excluded evidence was the very foundation of the action, and could not have been supplied by other evidence and that without it the continuation of the trial would have been an idle consumption of time. Castellano v. Marks [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 729. An assignment of error on the admission of evidence cannot be sustained where the bill of exceptions fails to show the answer to the question objected to. Gipson v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 226.

Record must show proper objection: Paul v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 130 F. 951; Wilson v. Phillipsburg [Kan.] 77 P. 582. Did not appear from the record that error was committed in the admission of certain evidence. Hennessy v. Kennedy Furniture Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 291. Only such reasons as are assigned in the trial court as objections to the introduction of evidence will be considered on appeal. Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009. A judgment will not be reversed for error in admitting evidence because of its possible effect upon a certain issue unless the record shows without ambiguity that it was objected to for that reason. Kesterson v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 97. In Florida no objection is allowed in the appellate court to the admissibility or competency of any evidence found verdict,[42] judgment and relief granted,[43] grant or denial of a new trial,[44] proceedings on intermediate appeals.[45] in the record of a chancery case, unless the record affirmatively shows that the objection was presented to the chancellor and expressly ruled upon. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works v. Lester [Fla.] 38 So. 56.

Presumptions as to evidence contained in record or sent up on appeal: In the absence of a showing to the contrary, it will be presumed that depositions admitted below were taken under the necessary formalities. Simonds v. Cash [Mich.] 99 N. W. 754. Every paper purporting to be evidence found copied by the clerk into the record in a chancery cause will be presumed by the appellate court to have been offered in evidence in the court below. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works v. Lester [Fla.] 38 So. 56. Where an original document admitted in evidence over the objection that it was not stamped is transmitted with the record, as authorized by the rule, it is immaterial that a copy thereof in the transcript does not show whether it was stamped or not. Sackett v. McCaffrey [C. C. A.] 131 F. 219. If not in the record, it is presumed that a document put in evidence to show the authority of a foreign insurance corporation to do business in the state was the certificate of the superintendent of insurance prescribed by Mills' Ann. St. § 2217. Thompson v. Commercial Union Assur. Co. [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1073.

It must appear that the evidence objected to was in fact admitted: Where the record does not show that certain evidence was admitted and while the court charged on the assumption that it was, the charge was objected to, the appellate court will not presume it was admitted. Spiro v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 148. Where record fails to show that written instrument offered in evidence and objected to was admitted or read, it will not be treated as part of evidence on appeal. Thompson v. Cade [Okl.] 79 P. 96. The record must show that objection to the admission of a deposition going only to the manner of taking the same was made by motion to suppress, since such an objection cannot be made for the first time at the trial. In the absence of such showing it is presumed it was first made at the trial. Oliver v. Oregon Sugar Co. [Or.] 76 P. 1086. An assignment of error complaining of the admission of certain records in evidence will be overruled where the agreed statement of facts fails to show that they were offered. Morgan v. Oliver [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 111. A bill of exceptions showing only that certain evidence was offered and an exception taken, but not that the evidence was admitted, does not present for review a ruling on the evidence. Hausmann v. Trinity & B. V. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1052.

38. Where in an action tried to the court evidence is refused for one purpose, it will be presumed that it was not considered for any other purpose. Rowe v. Johnson [Colo.] 81 P. 268.

Record must show excluded evidence: Affidavits not included. Willey v. The Benedict Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 270. Record must show what was expected to be proved by excluded evidence. Boyd v. West Chicago St. R. Co., 112 Ill. App. 50. Record must show what excluded answer would have been. Shippers' Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032; Long v. Red River, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1048; Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 957; Emory Mfg. Co. v. Rood, 182 Mass. 166, 65 N. E. 58; Richmond & P. Elec. R. Co. v. Rubin [Va.] 47 S. E. 834; American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Milstead [Va.] 47 S. E. 853; Leggat v. Carroll [Mont.] 76 P. 805. Exclusion of document not in evidence will not be reviewed. Rieger v. Welles [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1136.

Materiality of excluded evidence must appear: Womack v. Gross [N. C.] 47 S. E. 464; Boyce v. Augusta Camp, No. 7,429, M. W. A. [Okl.] 78 P. 322; Womack v. Gross [N. C.] 47 S. E. 464; Richmond & P. Elec. R. Co. v. Rubin [Va.] 47 S. E. 834; Norman v. Hopper [Wash.] 80 P. 551. It will be presumed that evidence which the court withdrew, and instructed the jury to disregard, had no effect on the verdict. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mulfinger's Adm'x [Ky.] 80 S. W. 499. Where offered testimony of a divorced wife against her husband is excluded on the ground that it related to communications made to her during coverture, it will be presumed on appeal that it was properly excluded in the absence of a statement by counsel offering it that it did not relate to such communications. German-American Ins. Co. v. Paul [Ind. T.] 83 S. W. 60. The refusal to allow an attesting witness to a will to testify as to declarations of the testatrix, made when the will was executed, as to why she disposed of her property in a particular manner, is not ground for reversal where the bill of exceptions fails to show what reason she gave him for so disposing of it. Floore v. Green [Ky.] 83 S. W. 133.

39. Rulings on sufficiency of evidence not reviewed unless all the evidence is in the record: Mabinett v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Ark.] 86 S. W. 293; Guarantee Co. of N. A. v. Phenix Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 170; Price v. Price [Ga.] 50 S. E. 91; Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489; Parks & W. Mach. Co. v. Levy, 88 N. Y. S. 993; Kisling v. Barrett [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 507; Steeley v. Seward [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 139; Goldsmith v. Lichtenberg [Mich.] 102 N. W. 627; Nash v. Kansas City Hydraulic Press Brick Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 90; State v. Gavin [Mo.] 81 S. W. 162; State v. Boyle [Mo.] 81 S. W. 161; Pryor v. Wolkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240; Capaul v. Railway Co., 26 Ohio C. C. 578, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 262; Conklin v. Conklin [Minn.] 101 N. W. 70; Sivin v. Mutual Match Co., 91 N. Y. S. 771; Delaware Co. Trust, S. D. & Title Ins. Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74; Mitchell v. Jensen [Utah] 81 P. 165. To leave a map out is fatal. Pittsburg, etc.,

R. Co. v. Greb [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 620. Facts not disturbed unless affirmatively shown to be wrong. Seiberling & Co. v. Porter [Ind.] 74 N. E. 516. Proof will be presumed of a material fact of which a record not returning all the evidence is silent. Hoge v. Herzberg [Ala.] 37 So. 591. Whether a deed was voluntary or for value cannot be determined unless a copy or sufficient description thereof is embraced in the record. West v. Wright [Ga.] 49 S. E. 285. Where the trial court treats a deed as a voluntary one and plaintiffs in error fail to show that he erred in so doing, the supreme court will also so treat it. Id. Where no evidence is brought up the court cannot assume that a freight brakeman acted without the scope of his authority in ejecting an intruder from the train, the rules of different companies differing in that respect. Seaboard Air Line R. v. Richard [C. C. A.] 136 F. 409. An assignment that a verdict is contrary to the evidence cannot be considered unless all the evidence is in the record. Neder v. Jennings [Utah] 78 P. 482; Whitehead v. Breckenridge [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 698. Direction of a verdict will not be reviewed where it was based on certain by-laws which are not in the record. Kiesewetter v. Supreme Tent, etc., 112 Ill. App. 48. Appellant's defensive evidence not being in record, court could not say that it did not cure weakness of plaintiff's case. Todd v. McLeod [Mass.] 74 N. E. 344. To present for review a ruling sustaining a demurrer to the plaintiff's evidence, the case made need not contain all the pleadings at any time filed in the case. It is sufficient if it contain the pleadings upon which the trial was had. John Deere Plow Co. v. Jones [Kan.] 76 P. 750. In the absence of an agreed statement of facts, nothing short of the testimony itself will enable the court to form its conclusions as to the facts that are to control its decision. Stipulation that plaintiff's evidence tended to prove certain facts and defendant's tended to prove certain other inconsistent facts is insufficient. Reid v. Forsythe [Md.] 58 A. 204. Evidence in the record will be considered notwithstanding the record also shows a statement by counsel of his purpose to withdraw it, where no order permitting its withdrawal appears. Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Vandenberg [Ind.] 73 N. E. 990. Where the record does not show that it contains all the evidence on which a nunc pro tunc order is sought, no question is presented for review on appeal from the overruling of a motion for such entry. Crystal Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. Marion Gas Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 15. Exhibits used for a collateral purpose by witnesses whose testimony is complete without them and which were not introduced in evidence are not evidence, and questions depending on the evidence can be considered in their absence. White v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 276. A report of the evidence heard by a commissioner may be considered where considered below, though the court below only required the commissioner to report the facts. Page v. Melrose [Mass.] 71 N. E. 787. The determination of a controversy upon evidence closed by an order cannot be reversed upon the merits upon appeal from such order without a bill of exceptions. Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. v. Washburn Brewing Co. [Wis.] 100 N. W. 832. On appeal from a nonsuit whatever the evidence tends to prove will be taken as established, but to justify reversal the record must contain evidence fairly tending to prove the allegations. In a personal injury action, the negligence of defendant or that it was the proximate cause must not be left to conjecture. Shaw v. New Year Gold Mines Co. [Mont.] 77 P. 515. Record in election contest, containing copies of ballots introduced as evidence, held complete, there being no agreement of counsel or order of the court that the original ballots should be sent up. Shields v. McMahan [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 597.

Findings of fact not reviewable unless all evidence is in record. Abner Dobie Co. v. Keystone Consol. Min. Co. [Cal.] 78 P. 1050; Paine v. San Bernardino Valley Traction Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 659; In re Brown's Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 160; Neumann v. Moretti [Cal.] 79 P. 510; Bressler v. Kelly [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 613; Benton v. Beakey [Kan.] 78 P. 410; Darrin v. Hoff [Md.] 58 A. 196; Hill-O'Meara Const. Co. v. Sessinghaus [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 747; Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998; Custer County Bank v. Custer County [S. D.] 100 N. W. 424; Spencer v. Commercial Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 914; In re Reed's Estate [Utah] 79 P. 1049. Master's findings. Bakshian v. Hassanoff [Mass.] 71 N. E. 555. Findings by an auditor. In re Penn Gaskell's Estate [Pa.] 57 A. 715; Fowler v. Davis [Ga.] 47 S. E. 951. A finding of fact is conclusive, when the statement on motion for a new trial contains no specification of the insufficiency of the evidence to support it. In re Antoldi's Estate [Cal.] 81 P. 278.

On a silent record, presumption is that judgment was supported by evidence. Score v. Griffin [Ariz.] 80 P. 331; McGregor v. Lang [Mont.] 81 P. 343; Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240. In the absence of a statement of facts, or a finding of the court or jury to the contrary, it will be presumed that proof was made of all facts necessary to sustain the judgment. Varner v. Varner [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 386; Ellis v. National Exch. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 776; Sloan v. Schumpert [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1005; King v. King [Ill.] 74 N. E. 89. Insufficiency of evidence to sustain the judgment may be considered where all material evidence is given in the statement. Handley v. Sprinkle [Mont.] 77 P. 296. In the absence of all the evidence taken before a referee, an objection that various items of the judgment were allowed without evidence will not be reviewed. Holt v. Howard [Vt.] 58 A. 797. Where the judgment in an action tried to the court recites that it was based on satisfactory legal evidence it will be presumed that necessary and proper proof was before the court, there being nothing in the record to show the contrary. Coulbourn Bros. v. Boulton [Md.] 59 A. 711. A decree which recites that the material allegations of the bill are true will not be disturbed upon a question of fact in the absence of a certificate of the evidence. Illinois Nat. Bank v. Trustees of Schools, 111 Ill. App. 189. In the absence of a bill of exceptions, a decree supported by the pleadings will not be set aside because of special findings, unless unreconcilable therewith. Kupke v. Polk [Neb.] 103 N. W. 321. In the absence of evidence as to the nature and character of the injuries sustained by plaintiff, it will be presumed that a default judgment in his favor was supported by the evidence heard by the trial judge when it was rendered. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. Where the evidence is not in the record and the statement of facts in the special finding does not show that as to the defendant moving for a new trial the judgment is excessive, the overruling of the motion on that ground is not cause for reversal. Coy v. Druckamiller [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 195.

40. Presumptions as to regularity and sufficiency of instructions: That charge was in writing. Johnson v. Melhousin, 105 Ill. App. 367. That charge was free from error. Graves v. Norfolk & S. R. Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 502. That instructions were based on testimony. Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240. Instructions to which no objection is made on appeal will be treated as correct. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 83 S. W. 332. Record being silent, presumed on appeal that request for submission of special issues was made. Stahl v. Askey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 79. Failure to object to a verbal charge, in a motion for a new trial, warrants the inference, on appeal, that a written charge was waived. Schwartzlose v. Mehlitz [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 68. Where no instructions were given or refused in a case tried by the court, it will be presumed that the court made a proper application of the law to the facts. Manch v. Hornback [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 536. Where the record contains an agreement that there was evidence to justify the giving of every instruction given, the instructions cannot be reviewed. Forsee v. Hurd [Mo.] 84 S. W. 872. An unchallenged statement by respondent that certain instructions were given, and if given were correct, will be taken as true, nothing being in the record to the contrary. Griffith v. Ridpath [Wash.] 80 P. 820. Where the record does not show that instructions were requested before the commencement of the argument, the presumption is that they were refused because not requested in time. White v. Sun Pub. Co. [Ind. Sup.] 73 N. E. 890. The failure of the court to instruct in a particular manner cannot be assigned as error, where the record does not show that he was requested to rule upon the question. Childs v. Bolton [S. C.] 48 S. E. 618. The record to review refusal of special instructions must show that they were requested after the main charge was delivered. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. McAdams [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1076. Where a requested charge appears to have invited an error in the general charge, the error will not be reviewed unless it affirmatively appears that the request was not made until the general charge had been delivered. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. McDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 493.

The giving or refusal of instructions cannot be reviewed unless the record contains the entire charge. Michigan City v. Phillipps [Ind.] 71 N. E. 205; Frank Bird Transfer Co. v. Morrow [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 189; Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Gray [Ind.] 72 N. E. 869; Stevenson v. Levinson [Va.] 49 S. E. 974; Tucker v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 128; Lunsford v. Bailey [Ala.] 38 So. 362. Instructions not in the abstract will not be reviewed. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140. Record must contain whole charge to question refusal of a request as one already given. Netcher v. Bernstein, 110 Ill. App. 484. If instructions given are not in the record they are presumed proper. Swope v. Seattle [Wash.] 78 P. 607; Griffith v. Ridpath [Wash.] 80 P. 820. Where instructions refused are not in the record it is presumed that they were covered by those given and contained in the abstract. Slaughter v. Strouse [Colo. App.] 79 P. 972. The action of the court in setting aside a verdict for misdirection of the jury cannot be reviewed on appeal, where the instructions given are not contained in the record. Rocky Mount Loan & Trust Co. v. Price [Va.] 49 S. E. 73. Only affirmative errors can be considered by reviewing court, where a part of the charge is omitted from the record. Sharp v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 19, 26 Ohio C. C. 59.

Record must contain evidence to which instructions asked or refused relate. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Yount [C. C. A.] 136 F. 589; Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240. Instructions presumed proper in absence of evidence unless erroneous under any state of facts. Pryor v. Walkerville [Mont.] 79 P. 240. Where the record does not contain the evidence, instructions given and refused which can be interpreted only by the evidence will not be reviewed. Wilson v. Phillipsburg [Kan.] 77 P. 582. Where bill of exceptions does not show what admissions and declarations were admitted, instruction that declarations of the parties should be received with caution cannot be objected to on appeal. Thompson v. Purdy [Or.] 77 P. 113. Failure to charge on a necessary element of the cause of action will be presumed justified by absence of controversy. Carlson v. Hall [Iowa] 99 N. W. 571. A charge to disregard certain argument of counsel will not be reviewed unless the record shows the facts on which it was based. Creager v. Yarborough [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 376. Instructions will be considered only respecting them and the accompanying statement of facts as set out in the bill of exceptions. Daytona Bridge Co. v. Bond [Fla.] 36 So. 445. No assignment can be based on a statement sent out with the jury where it is not placed on the stenographer's notes and hence is not in the record. Welliver v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 79. In Pennsylvania where special instructions are not asked and particular error of law or material misstatement of the evidence cannot be pointed out, review will be made of the general effect of the charge and the judgment affirmed if the charge is correct as a whole. Rider-Ericsson Engine Co. v. Fredericks, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 72.

41. On a silent record it is presumed that findings necessary to support the judgment were made. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6; Damon v. Quinn [Cal.] 76 P. 818. Where special issues were found by the jury it will be assumed that the court found all other issues in favor of the prevailing party. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746; Rotan Grocery Co. v. Noble [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 586. It is presumed that the trial court in making findings considered all competent evidence introduced (Hereford v. Benton [Colo. App.] 80 P. 499), and only such evidence (Poling v. Condon-Lane Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 279). Where the court below finds the facts by consent of the parties, a jury trial being expressly waived, any decision of the supreme court must be made with reference to those facts as found and set out in the case and can rest on them alone. State v. Armour Packing Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 411. There is no presumption of facts found in a case where after opening the trial to a jury the facts in issue were stipulated and judgment rendered for defendant on motion to dismiss for want of facts. New York Cement Co. v. Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co. [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 451. On a silent record, findings are conclusive in the absence of a contradictory finding. Miller v. Enterprise Canal & Land Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 439. An assignment based on an alleged erroneous finding will not be considered where the record discloses no such finding. Land Title & Trust Co. v. Fulmer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 260. A decree based on findings and conclusions made on the opening statement is not reviewable unless the statement is preserved in the record. City of Ballard v. Mitchell [Wash.] 80 P. 440; City of Ballard v. Ross [Wash.] 80 P. 440. An appellate court cannot draw inferences or indulge in presumptions in aid of the findings of the trial court. Nance v. Kemper [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 937. Failure of the trial court to make special findings requested will not be reviewed where it does not appear that the attention of the court was directed to its failure to comply with such request. Simon v. Simon [Kan.] 77 P. 571. Findings are construed with a view to uphold rather than to defeat the judgment, and if from the facts found other facts may be inferred which support the judgment it will be assumed that such inferences were made. Paine v. San Bernardino Valley Traction Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 659. On a silent record, where findings were not filed until the day after the close of the evidence it will be presumed that the court regularly adjourned until that day. Doty v. Jenkins [Cal.] 77 P. 1104. In the absence of a complete record findings of a chancellor incorporated in the decree will be supported by every reasonable presumption and intendment, and it will be presumed that the omitted portions of the record if incorporated in the transcript would sustain the findings and decree. Patterson v. Johnson [Ill.] 73 N. E. 761.

42. In the absence of specific error indicated it will be presumed that the jury followed instructions which were properly granted. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Boswell [Miss.] 38 So. 43. Conditional verdict not reviewed because neither evidence nor instructions were in record. Delaware Co. Trust, S. D. & Title Ins. C., v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74. Objection to reception of verdict because not unanimous is deemed waived where not made at time of its receipt and where want of unanimity is not preserved in the bill of exceptions. Wores v. Preston [Ariz.] 77 P. 617. An assignment relating to the time and circumstances under which the verdict was received will not be considered where the assignment is not sustained by anything appearing in the record proper and there is no bill of exceptions. Kinney v. Burnhorn, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 583. In trespass to try title the appellate court cannot say, as a matter of law, that the issue of estoppel pleaded by one of the defendants was sustained by the evidence, where the verdict was a general one for all of them. Wilkins v. Clawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 732. That jury heeded charge that evidence was admissible for limited purpose only. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 535. Where on a motion to set aside a verdict for misconduct of a juror the court heard evidence but filed no statement of facts, the question cannot be reviewed on appeal. Patch Mfg. Co. v. Protection Lodge No. 215, International Ass'n of Machinists [Vt.] 60 A. 74. Where a verdict is directed in an equity case, and no motion for a new trial is made, and there is nothing in the bill of exceptions or the transcript of the record properly calling in question the correctness of the verdict directed, the court will not consider assignments of error to a decree based on the verdict and substantially following it. Atkins v. Winter [Ga.] 50 S. E. 487.

43. A judgment is presumed to be right and will be affirmed where the record is so imperfect as not to disclose error therein. National Cash Register Co. v. Union Bargain House [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 287. Action of lower court dismissing an action presumed regular. Soder v. Adams Hardware Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 775. It being the duty of the court to enter judgment, and it being fairly inferred that the court ordered it, and that through error of the clerk it was not recorded, it will be held to have been entered. Fitzgerald v. Gore, 105 Ill. App. 242. Whether a prior judgment constitutes a bar cannot be determined in the absence of the judgment roll of the prior action or a copy from the record. Sprague v. Voigtman, 93 N. Y. S. 523. The sufficiency of a judgment roll to justify dismissal under a plea of former recovery cannot be determined where it does not appear in the case on appeal. Muller v. Bendit, 90 N. Y. S. 433; McCleary v. Willis [Wash.] 77 P. 1073. On appeal on the judgment roll it will not be presumed against the judgment, that there was evidence on a point in respect to which there was no finding. Eva v. Symons [Cal.] 78 P. 648. Where a judgment is rendered against a person who has died after service but before judgment, such fact cannot be corrected by appeal or error unless in some proper way the fact of death is made to appear of record. Prouty v. Moss, 111 Ill. App. 536. The appellate court will not reverse an order in lunacy proceedings imposing costs on the lunatic's estate, where there was no testimony taken and no method of showing that the amount was excessive. Brooke's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 430. In the absence of pleadings or findings of fact, the supreme court cannot reverse the judgment. Winans v. Grable [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1110. Where the findings in the record are insufficient to support the judgment and the judgment does not purport to be based on findings it will be presumed there were none to support it. Thomas v. Issenhuth [S. D.] 100 N. W. 436. Where on appeal from a judgment of the circuit court affirming a judgment of a magistrate the case does not show on what ground the magistrate based his judgment, nor the exceptions on appeal to the circuit court, nor on what ground the circuit court based its judgment, the decision of the circuit court will not be reviewed. Moore v. Dean [S. C.] 49 S. E. 840. Where a statute provides that the conclusions and judgment of a municipal court, in a trial without a jury, may be presented for review by bill of exceptions to the supreme court, such judgment cannot be reviewed when the bill discloses no exception to the judgment and what the judgment was. Morey v. Monk [Ala.] 38 So. 265. In reviewing certiorari to a justice's judgment, the presumption is indulged that the court below construed the return in such way as to support the decision which was made. Faulkner v. Snead [Ga.] 49 S. E. 747. In Alabama, where the conclusions and judgment of a municipal court, in a case tried without a jury, may be reviewed on a bill of exceptions, such judgment will not be reviewed unless the bill discloses what the judgment was and exceptions thereto; but the rulings on admissibility of evidence are reviewable. Morey v. Monk [Ala.] 38 So. 265. The terms of the law under which the plaintiff association was chartered not being in the record, and it having failed to show the amount of damages arising from the breach of the bond sued on, a judgment based on the admissions of defendant's pleas was not error of which plaintiff can complain. National Bldg. Ass'n v. Quinn [Ga.] 49 S. E. 312. An objection, in an action to determine the title to land, that a previous judgment dismissing a caveat against the issuance of a patent therefor was a bar to the action cannot be sustained, where the transcript does not contain the record of such previous proceedings. Combs v. Duff [Ky.] 80 S. W. 165. Where on appeal it appears that plaintiff's cause of action was based on written exhibits offered in evidence but not attached to the record and it does not appear on what the judgment in favor of plaintiff is based, the judgment will be reversed. United States Title Guarantee & Indemnity Co. v. Royal, 87 N. Y. S. 457.

(§ 9) E. Conclusiveness of record and effect of conflicts therein.[46]—The record imports absolute verity,[47] and cannot be impeached by affidavits[48] or by

44. Presumption favors grant of new trial. Starer v. Stern, 91 N. Y. S. 821. It is presumed that an order granting a new trial was properly made. That motion for new trial was made on affidavits used at hearing and that such affidavits were sufficient to justify the order appealed from. Skinner v. Horn [Cal.] 77 P. 904; Wyckoff v. Pajaro Valley Consol. R. Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 17. If the record does not show on which ground specified in the motion a new trial was granted, the order will be affirmed if it can be sustained on any of them. Miller v. Enterprise Canal & Land Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 439. Denial of new trial cannot be reviewed unless grounds of motion appear. Peoria Star Co. v. Lambert, 115 Ill. App. 319. A grant of a new trial will be presumed to have been based on a bill of exceptions showing that notice of the motion was served and that it was to be moved on the bill. Weed v. Reed [Cal.] 76 P. 652. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1736, it will be presumed that a statement in the record was used on the motion for a new trial. Mahoney v. Dixon [Mont.] 77 P. 519. The granting of a new trial on a motion based on several grounds will not be reversed if the action can be sustained on any ground assigned where the record does not show on what particular it was granted. Glover v. Ratcliff [Kan.] 77 P. 89. On a silent record it is presumed that evidence taken by a referee was before the trial court in passing on a motion for a new trial. Simon v. Simon [Kan.] 77 P. 571. Where the court was in error in granting a new trial for the ground specified, it will not be presumed that other grounds justified the grant. Dale v. Hodge [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 929. Grant of new trial will be reviewed where record discloses situation as fully as it appeared to trial court. Busse v. Schaeffer [Iowa] 103 N. W. 947. An order denying a new trial cannot be reviewed where the record shows that the statutory statement containing the grounds on which the motion therefor was heard was not authenticated and did not show the grounds argued or contain specifications of error. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527.

45. On appeal from a judgment of the county court dismissing an appeal from a justice's court for failure to give the statutory bond, it being made to appear that the pauper's oath filed by appellant in the county court was contested and the transcript failing to disclose the testimony taken on the contest, it will be presumed that such evidence disproved the facts stated in the oath and authorized the dismissal. Cook v. Burson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 871.

46. See 3 C. L. 219.

47. An appellate court must accept the facts as certified by the trial judge, and his statement in the bill of exceptions that it does not contain all the evidence cannot be discredited by an assignment charging error in changing the testimony of a witness as taken by a sworn stenographer. Nacogdoches Grocery Co. v. Rushing [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 659. Appellate courts cannot consider anything a part of the statement of facts unless it is properly made a part thereof by the trial court, and they have no power to add to or amend such statement as actually prepared. Certiorari will not lie to bring up a paper which should have been made a part of the statement of facts. Cox v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 672. The appellate court must accept matters certified in the bill of exceptions as the absolute truth. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App.

the statement of counsel.[49] In case of conflict, that part of the entire record whose appropriate function it is to present that particular matter prevails.[50]

D. C. 1. In the absence of statute the supreme court has no authority to try a traverse to a return of service of a bill of exceptions, or to refer to the trial court the issue of fact as to the truth or falsity of such return. Civ. Code 1895, § 4988, allowing a traverse to a false entry of service does not apply. Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15. The signature of the trial judge to a bill of exceptions imports verity in the absence of anything in the bill to the contrary. Conradt v. Lepper [Wyo.] 81 P. 307. The certificate of the trial judge in settling a case made imports the truthfulness of the statements contained and nothing more. Exendine v. Goldstine [Okl.] 77 P. 45. The record is conclusive on the reviewing court and the parties, and cannot be questioned or corrected. Thompson v. Cade [Okl.] 79 P. 96. A recital in a judgment that certain parties appeared is conclusive. In re Pendergast's Estate [Cal.] 76 P. 962. Stenographer's report of charge as corrected and certified by the trial judge. Toddes v. Hafer, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 78. As to instructions given. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174. Cases appealed must be heard and decided upon the record made in the court from which the appeal is taken, rather than upon claims of counsel. Spacek v. Schaub [Mich.] 103 N. W. 546. Incompetent evidence admitted without objection becomes evidence in the case and cannot be taken out by the trial judge's certificate that if it had been called to his attention he would not have admitted it and did not have it in mind when he made the ruling complained of. Rapson v. Leighton [Mass.] 73 N. E. 540. On appeal the certified transcript of the record imports absolute verity and statements of the parties in a verified petition are not available either to dispute the record or to supply anything not therein disclosed. Whisler v. Whisler [Ind.] 70 N. E. 152. The return of the trial justice of the municipal court is conclusive as to what occurred at the trial. Bunke v. New York Telephone Co., 91 N. Y. S. 390. The appellate court will not interfere with the case as settled by the trial judge on his recollection after considering affidavits by counsel as to the happening of a matter not shown by the stenographer's minutes. Burke v. Baker, 93 N. Y. S. 215.

48. Affidavits cannot be received in the supreme court to correct the record as certified by the clerk. Wm. James' Sons & Co. v. Gott [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 649. In an interference case affidavits will not be received by the court of appeals in contradiction or correction of the record of the proceedings in the patent office. May be received to show or explain material changes which may have occurred in an exhibit after its transmission. Blackford v. Wilder, 21 App. D. C. 1. Record on appeal cannot be impeached by affidavit. Allen v. Aylor [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 904. The record imports absolute verity and cannot be contradicted by aliunde proof. Transcript and bill of exceptions. Supreme court has no jurisdiction to hear evidence contradicting it. Writ of error will not be dismissed where bill of exceptions and entries thereon show jurisdiction. Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15. Statement in record that final judgment was rendered. Wolf v. Hope [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1082. The "case" as settled and certified by the trial judge must furnish the basis of review and cannot be attacked by affidavits. Haidt v. Swift & Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 388.

49. An assignment complaining of the overruling of objections to evidence will be overruled for failure of the bills of exceptions to state that the evidence offered was in fact admitted. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 140; Barstow Irr. Co. v. Black [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1036. Verity of record cannot be questioned by argument. Winslow v. Guthrie, 113 Ill. App. 50.

50. What appears in the clerk's duly certified transcript of the records and files will be accepted in preference to what appears in the certificate of the judge. Southern R. Co. v. Flemister [Ga.] 48 S. E. 160. But the statement of the judge will control as to matters transpiring during the progress of the trial or in the conduct of the business of the court which are not of record or of file. Where clerk certified that no entry appeared on the minutes showing when a given term of court adjourned, a statement by the judge in an order overruling a motion to dismiss a motion for a new trial, and an averment in a duly verified bill of exceptions that the motion was filed in term, will control. Id. On a question as to the contents of the pleadings, the record proper prevails over a recital in the bill of exceptions. Hawley v. Huth, 114 Ill. App. 29. The statement of facts controls the bill of exceptions. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 695. A certificate of completeness overcomes an allegation of incompleteness not accompanied by a showing that what was omitted was pertinent. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471. The record controls the "case" on appeal prepared by counsel, where the two are in conflict. Finding of judge as to when motion to dismiss case was made. Blair v. Coakley [N. C.] 48 S. E. 804. The statement of the judge in the case on appeal as to what occurred on the trial must be accepted as importing verity. Will be taken as absolutely true. Cameron-Barkley Co. v. Thornton Light & Power Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 76. This rule does not extend to exceptions taken to the refusal of the court to grant a prayer, or to the granting of a prayer for instructions, nor to the assignment of error in the charge of the court where by statute such alleged errors are deemed to have been duly excepted to. Under Clark's Code (3rd Ed.) § 412, subd. 3. Id. Record on appeal prevails over the bill of exceptions. Record showed that bill of exceptions was not filed in time. Held that order of extension contained in bill could not be considered. Allen v. Aylor [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 904. In case of conflict the record proper controls

The presumption of absolute verity will not be indulged to prohibit correction of an obvious clerical mistake,[51] and the rule does not apply in a case where the official term of the judge who tried the case expired between the rendition of the judgment and the perfection of an appeal and his successor in office caused amendments to be made thereto by writ of diminution.[52] Neither does the recital of the clerk in the record that a particular day was the second day of the term control.[53]

§ 10. Transmission of proceedings and evidence to reviewing court. A. Form and contents of transcript or return.[54]—Where both parties appeal, there must be a separate transcript in each case.[55] The rule cannot be waived by consent of counsel.[56] The "transcript or record on appeal" consists of the "record proper," and the "secondary record,"[57] and generally all of such records should be included,[58] though in some states parties indicate by praecipe what shall be included.[59] No praecipe is necessary in Indiana,[60] but where one is filed,[61] papers incorporated in the record but not requested by the appellant in his praecipe are no part of the record.[62] The rules usually require an index to be sent up with the bill of exceptions as to the character of the judgment. Vickers v. Chisholm [Colo. App.] 79 P. 302. When order book entries made by the clerk as to matters not essential to the judgment are in conflict with the bill of exceptions, the latter will control. Johnson v. Staley [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 541. The statement in a bill of exceptions as to the dates of trial controls where there is a discrepancy between it and the record made by the clerk. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888. Bill of exceptions may supply date of passing order where it is not shown by the order. Tifton, etc., R. Co. v. Chastain [Ga.] 50 S. E. 105.

51. Substitution of plaintiff for defendant in statement as to who excepted to ruling. Pichon v. Martin [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1009.

52. Hays v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. [Md.] 58 A. 439.

53. Edwards v. Warner, 111 Ill. App. 32.

54. See 3 C. L. 217.

55. Orion Knitting Mills v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 652.

56. Orion Knitting Mills v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 652. If only one transcript is filed, the cause will be remanded to enable the parties to comply with the rule. Court will not determine to which party the one filed belongs. Id.

57. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53. The entries of continuances and other docket entries, interlocutory judgments, incidental matters, as judgments nisi against witnesses, prayers for instructions, and the charge though in writing and required to be filed, are not a part of the record on appeal unless presented for review by proper exception. Though they are parts of the record of the action. Id.

58. Under Laws 1901, p. 28, c. 31, § 2, providing that any bill of exceptions or statement of facts on file when the record is sent up shall be sent up as a part thereof, such statement or bill properly certified constitutes part of the record in the appellate court. Johnston v. Gerry [Wash.] 76 P. 258. A transcript must contain the complete record. Wade v. Mitchell [Okl.] 79 P. 95. The transcript must contain a copy of the order appealed from. Wolf v. Board of Sup'rs of Santa Clara County [Cal.] 76 P. 1108.

59. The clerk making up a transcript must include every paper requested by either party if it has relation to or leads up to decree. He has no discretion (Anderson v. Long [Fla.] 37 So. 565), but should omit, though requested to include, papers in another though antecedent proceeding and papers not presented till after decision (Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 37 So. 582). While the clerk is without discretion to omit requested papers related to or leading to the judgment, the court will not be a party to abuse his power to make such requests. Id. Pleadings held properly in record in case appealed after change of venue. Indianapolis & G. Rapid Transit Co. v. Andis [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 145. In Indiana where a change of venue is granted from a county having two courts and a transcript from both is necessary, the clerk of the trial court in making up the record for an appeal properly includes both transcripts. Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 297. Nothing but matters part of the record proper or made so by bill of exceptions is proper to include in Wisconsin. Rule 7½. Goodhue v. Bohen [Wis.] 99 N. W. 216. On appeal from an order denying a motion, appellant is entitled to a full recital of all papers used on the motion. Davis v. Reflex Camera Co., 90 N. Y. S. 877.

60. Law not changed by Act Mch. 9, 1903. Featherngill v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 181.

61. A praecipe for a transcript merely without designation of any particular part calls for a complete transcript of the record including the bill of exceptions. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888.

62. Original bill of exceptions should not be incorporated where praecipe calls for transcript. Workman v. State [Ind.] 73 N. E. 917; Makeever v. Blankenbaker [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 546; City of Alexandria v. Liebler [Ind.] 70 N. E. 512; Boss v. Lang [Ind.] 71 N. E. 120. Praecipe held sufficient. New American Oil & Min. Co. v. Troyer [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 37; Indianapolis & G. Rapid Transit Co. v. Derry [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 912. Origi-

the record and to be printed, and marginal references to be made.[63] Copies, not the original files, should be sent up,[64] unless the statute provides for the inclusion of certain original papers,[65] but certification of original papers as transcript confers jurisdiction.[66] Irrelevant matter should not be included in the record on appeal,[67] but a transcript will not be stricken out because it contains documents not properly embraced therein, but appellant will be taxed with the resulting costs.[68] In Georgia any part of a record contained in a transcript transmitted to the appellate court, material to a clear understanding of the errors complained of, will be considered, though the specification was not broad enough technically to require its transmission.[69]

(§ 10) B. Certification and authentication.[70]—The transcript must be authenticated by certificate[71] of the clerk,[72] under seal, showing its completeness.[73] The record itself must be signed by the trial judge,[74] but signature of the constituent parts thereof is unnecessary.[75] Amendments to the certificate may be allowed if applied for before final hearing.[76]

(§ 10) C. Transmission, filing, and printing.[77]—The transcript must be nal bill is part of record where called for by praecipe and included in transcript. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ray [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 942; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 250. The original bill of exceptions containing the evidence constitutes and is considered a part of the transcript. Acts 1903, p. 340, c. 193, § 7. Avery v. Nordyke & Marman Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888; City of Vincennes v. Spees [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 531.

63. Rules 19(2), 19(3), and 28, 27 S. E. vii, viii. Sigman v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 420.

64. Original statement of facts should not be sent to appellate court except on order of the trial court and then only in special cases. Shirley v. Conner [Tex.] 81 S. W. 284.

65. Ind. Act March 9, 1903. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 888.

66. Appeal from county to circuit court. Estate of Shields v. Michener, 113 Ill. App. 18.

67. Supreme court rule 22, 27 S. E. viii. Only enough of the record should be included to show that the case is properly constituted, and this, with the summons, pleadings, verdict, and judgment, and the case on appeal, setting out so much of the proceedings at the trial as will throw light on the exceptions, is all that is necessary. Sigman v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 420. Original papers filed in the court below should remain there for the benefit and security of all parties concerned, the court of appeal acting upon a transcript and not upon the record itself. Martin v. Todd [Ill.] 71 N. E. 852.

68. Motion for continuance and reply thereto and order overruling it, in regard to which no error is assigned, and affidavit and other papers relating to appellant's efforts to obtain bill of exceptions, filed 34 days after adjournment of court. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 107.

69. Tifton, etc., R. Co. v. Chastain [Ga.] 50 S. E. 105.

70. See 3 C. L. 218.

71. Wade v. Mitchell [Okl.] 79 P. 95; Zarling v. Perrin Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247.

72. Where authenticated by the judge instead of the clerk, it is a nullity. Bowling v. Chambers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 16.

73. Wade v. Mitchell [Okl.] 79 P. 95. The certificate is invalid if it recites the omission of any requested papers. Anderson v. Long [Fla.] 37 So. 565; Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 37 So. 582. It is not indispensable that it be certified that all the evidence is in the record if the record otherwise shows it. Henline v. Brady, 110 Ill. App. 75. In order that the court of civil appeals may acquire jurisdiction of an appeal, the clerk's certificate to the transcript must show that it contains a true copy of all the proceedings in the cause. Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. 1897, art. 1411, Dist. Ct. Rule 94 (67 S. W. xxvii), construed. Appeal dismissed. Paris, etc., R. Co. v. Armstrong & Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 28. A transcript is not sufficiently authenticated unless the clerk's certificate states that it contains all the records and proceedings in the case. Walcher v. Stone [Okl.] 79 P. 771. A certificate showing that the statement to which it is attached did not contain all the facts and proceedings at the trial precludes the supreme court from considering such statement. In re Holburte's Estate [Wash.] 80 P. 294.

74. A signature pasted thereon will not suffice. Yost v. Clark, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 144.

75. The signature of the trial judge to a special finding is required only for the identification of the paper and is not required where the finding is brought into the record by a bill of exceptions or order of the court. Coffinberry v. McClellan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 97.

76. Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 37 So. 582.

Contra: The clerk of the court below cannot be allowed to correct his certificate to the transcript, especially after the time within which certificate is required to be filed has elapsed. Paris & G. N. R. Co. v. Armstrong & Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 28.

77. See 3 C. L. 218. A clerk of court can be compelled by mandamus to deliver a transcript of appeal. State v. Wells [La.] 35 So. 641.

filed in the appellate court[78] within the time prescribed,[79] or an extension thereof duly granted.[80] Failure to file in time is not jurisdictional,[81] but is ground for dismissal.[82] Only so much of the proceedings as is material to some question on which the appeal is predicated should be printed.[83] Original papers made part of the record on appeal cannot be withdrawn for other use even by consent of parties.[84]

(§ 10) D. Amendment and correction.[85]—The party presenting a case for review is chargeable with all errors and omissions that the record discloses,[88] and can take no advantage of its omissions.[87] Until the record is actually sent up, the lower court may correct it,[88] and the record on appeal may be corrected in some states in the lower court,[89] especially if leave be granted by the appellate court.[90]

78. The law does not fix the time within which the stenographer's transcript shall be filed in law actions in Iowa. Watson v. Dilts [Iowa] 100 N. W. 50. Where it is impossible to obtain a sufficient transcript to present the errors complained of, it is not proper practice to file an imperfect transcript with a petition in error with the purpose of afterwards procuring a complete transcript and amending the petition in error, there being no reasonable certainty of being able to procure such amended transcript. Zweibel v. Caldwell [Neb.] 102 N. W. 84.

79. Delay in filing appeal bond pending negotiations for compromise is not a want of diligence depriving appellant of the favor of an extension even though the clerk's inability to furnish it was due to the delay. Hillard v. Taylor [La.] 38 So. 594. The date of the allowance of the appeal, and not the time of filing the bill of exceptions after the appeal is granted, determines the term of the appellate court to which the appeal is returnable. Rule 25, Kansas City Court of Appeals. Smith v. Flick [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. Appellant is required to file in the office of the proper appellate court, fifteen days before the first day of the term, a perfect transcript of the record and proceedings in the cause, or, in lieu thereof, a certified copy of the record entry of the judgment appealed from. Rev. St. 1899, § 813. Where appeal granted Nov. 11, the certificate was required to be filed 15 days before the March term, the date of the allowance of the appeal determining the term to which the appeal was returnable under Rule 25, Kansas City court of appeals. Id. A failure to do so is not excused because appellants were misled as to the time within which they were required to file their bill of exceptions. Id. Transcript must be seasonably filed above. If duly cited appellee excuses delay by failing to move for dismissal. Chambliss v. Wood [Miss.] 36 So 246.

80. Extension of time to file transcript cannot be granted after the statutory time has elapsed. Langhorne Johnson & Co. v. Wiley [Ky.] 87 S. W. 266; Louisiana R. & Nav. Co. v. Miller [La.] 38 So. 19.

81. Rev. St. 1887, § 1778, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 249, requiring papers on appeal from an order of the county commissioners to be transmitted to the district court within five days after service of notice of appeal is not jurisdictional, and failure to do so does not deprive appellant of the benefits of his appeal. Humbird Lumber Co. v. Kootenai County [Idaho] 79 P. 396; McAvoy v. Harkins [Wash.] 81 P. 77.

82. See post, § 11G.

83. Osborne v. Norwalk [Conn.] 60 A. 645. Preliminary pleadings rendered unimportant by the substitution of amended ones should not be included, no reason of appeal being predicated thereon. Id.

84. Jamison v. New York & T. Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 482.

85. See 3 C. L. 219.

86. Cannot be charged to the stenographer who prepared it. Thompson v. Cade [Okl.] 79 P. 96.

87. An appellant cannot be heard to contend that the record does not show a final judgment disposing of the main case, since that contention is an invitation to dismiss the appeal. Lamont v. Lamont Crystallized Egg Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1269.

88. The court of common pleas retains jurisdiction of a case appealed until the record is actually removed to correct a mistake apparent on the face of the record where there is anything to correct it by, in order that the true record may be sent up. Green v. Prince Metallic Paint Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 418. A trial judge has authority to correct the stenographer's report of his charge, and the appellate court cannot go outside the charge as corrected and certified by him. Toddes v. Hafer, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 78.

89. The record may be corrected by the trial court, after appeal, upon application of appellant. Markle v. Laisle [Iowa] 102 N. W. 780. Motions to amend the records of the circuit court in pending appeal cases must be addressed to, and the amendments made in, that court. Supreme court acts on record as made below, and will not entertain such motions. Wm. James' Sons & Co. v. Gott [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 649. Proceedings to supply the omission of papers from the record in an appeal from a circuit court to the court of appeals must be taken in the circuit court and not in the court of appeals. Mullins v. Mullins [Ky.] 81 S. W. 687. Generally an amendment of the record of a trial court must be made under an order of that court and not of an appellate court. Request to amend sheriff's return on summons, refused, when made after submission of appeal, sheriff not being produced for examination. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 911. Where Certiorari is often granted to bring up corrections made below.[91] In other jurisdictions the practice is to make corrections in the appellate court,[92] upon suggestion of diminution. In most states the trial court's power over the record ends when an appeal is taken, and no amendments thereof are proper except upon permission first had of the appellate court.[93] Papers not a part of the record, but copied therein by mistake, will be disregarded if such fact is apparent from the record itself or on the clerk's certificate of the fact.[94] Amendments are not allowed after submission.[95] The time for making amendments is usually regulated material matter has been omitted from the transcript, a supplemental one may be filed on order made allowing it. Baer Bros. Land & Cattle Co. v. Wilson [Colo.] 77 P. 245. An appellant filing a transcript which is insufficient to confer jurisdiction on the appellate court should be allowed to withdraw the same on request. Paris & G. N. R. Co. v. Armstrong & Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 28. The omission from the transcript of the appeal bond and indorsements, showing date of filing and approval, may be supplied by supplemental transcript, showing that the bond was filed and approved within the time limited. Stratton's Independence v. Midland Terminal R. Co. [Colo.] 77 P. 247. Failure of a judgment to declare that the complaint was dismissed without prejudice must be remedied by amendment in the trial court. Electrical Equipment Co. v. Feuerlicht, 90 N. Y. S. 467.

90. If error in the record is discovered after transmission to the appellate court, the proper practice is to apply there for a continuance and to the trial court for an amendment. Wolf v. Hope [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1082. Where material matter has been omitted from the transcript, permission may be obtained to withdraw it for correction by the trial court. Baer Bros. Land & Cattle Co. v. Wilson [Colo.] 77 P. 245. Upon timely request, the record may be returned to the trial court to correct a jurisdictional defect apparent therein. State v. Washington Irr. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 803.

91. An order to "remand for correction" is in the nature of a certiorari to complete the record and does not divest the jurisdiction of the court of appeal. Simonton v. Mitchel [La.] 37 So. 877. Certiorari will issue to compel the incorporation into the case of appellant's exceptions and assignment of errors in so far as they relate to the instructions given or refused. Cameron-Barkley Co. v. Thornton Light & Power Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 76. The mistake of appellant's counsel in sending up the stenographer's notes, instead of a properly settled case, does not entitle appellant to a certiorari. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53. Omissions of the clerk in copying the record may be supplied by certiorari. Wm. James' Sons & Co. v. Gott [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 649. Certiorari is the remedy to correct a record not showing the bond correctly. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471. Mansf. Dig. § 1273 (Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 775), providing for the issuance of certiorari to complete the record, does not require notice to the opposite party of an application for the writ. Bracey-Welles Const. Co. v. Terry [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 846. Certiorari will not lie from the court of appeals to correct a record claimed to have been altered since case was heard below, but the correction should be made in the lower court. Not shown that record as it stood was not correctly copied. Bowman v. Ray [Ky.] 80 S. W. 200.

92. The supreme court cannot amend a bill of exceptions or determine whether respondent was entitled to have certain desired matter inserted therein. Jones v. Sioux Falls [S. D.] 101 N. W. 43. A misnomer in the description in the bill of exceptions of one who was a party in the court below may be corrected by amendment. Description of plaintiffs in bill of exceptions as receivers of the "Southern Mutual Loan Ass'n" instead of "Southern Mutual Building & Loan Ass'n." Ramey v. O'Byrne [Ga.] 49 S. E. 595. A motion to strike a statement is addressed to the supreme court and there is nothing upon which it can operate if at the time it is made the transcript is still in the trial court. Johnston v. Gerry [Wash.] 76 P. 258. A suggestion of diminution of the record and a motion to strike out a part of the record will not be entertained unless it is sworn to, and points out the defects therein with the particularity required by the rules. By rule xiv. Clark v. Roller, 23 App. D. C. 453. In the absence of an express reservation of power during the term, a court cannot after a term and after a case is appealed, permit the filing of an amended or supplemental bill of exceptions. Carp v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 480. An amendment may be made to a sheriff's return on a writ in the appellate court. Under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 670, 672, 673. Holtschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 489. Where, through no fault of plaintiff in error, the papers in the cause are not arranged as required by rules of court, the defendant in error will be given time to file briefs and plaintiff in error charged with costs. Matthews v. Nefsy [Wyo.] 78 P. 664.

93. A supplemental opinion of the court below, formulated after reargument ordered by the court of errors and appeals, containing additional reasons for the decree or judgment below, is no part of the record, unless sent up at the request of the court of errors and appeals. Varrick v. Hitt [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 47.

94. Wm. James' Sons & Co. v. Gott [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 649.

95. The abstract cannot be amended after a petition for a rehearing has been granted. Martin v. Martin [Iowa] 99 N. W. 719. No amendment of the record after submission of the case without objection will be granted, the time for correction being at the by statute,[96] and in the absence of statute the decisions are conflicting as to whether the doctrine of laches applies.[97]

§ 11. Practice and proceedings in appellate court before hearing. A. Joint and several appeals; consolidation; severance.[98]—Where both parties appeal, the appeal of each constitutes a separate and distinct case in the supreme court.[99] A joint motion for a new trial will not support separate petitions in error, but where it appears from a fair interpretation of the record that separate motions for a new trial by both defendants were denied, the court will not decline to consider separate petitions in error merely because the order reads as though it overruled a joint motion.[1] Where two or more join in a petition in error, no error can be availed of that is not prejudicial to both or all of them.[2] Several claimants in bankruptcy may unite in an appeal from an order affecting them all alike, though their interests are several and distinct.[3] A separate appeal cannot be maintained by a single property owner in a special assessment case where the order allowing the appeal is joint.[4] Several interlocutory orders in the same case may be brought up by a single appeal in Indiana.[5]

(§ 11) B. Original and cross proceedings.[6]—The cross assignment of errors is elsewhere treated.[7] The appellee is not entitled to have the judgment reversed where there is no cross appeal.[8] An appellee may, by complaint in the nature of a cross appeal, be relieved from erroneous or unjust conditions imposed by the decree appealed from.[9] Where an appellee in Connecticut files a bill of exceptions under the statute, he cannot by such bill raise the question of the overruling of a demurrer.[10] Since an equity appeal opens up the whole record, a cross-appeal is not essential to entitle an appellee to a reversal of a prejudicial decree.[11]

(§ 11) C. Amendment of parties.[12]—Amendment and substitution may be allowed in case of the death of a party[13] or a change of incumbency where the hearing in the trial court when the transfer is made up. Olney v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387.

96. Amendments must be made within the statutory period allowed. Under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5058, the court has no power to permit a proposed statement, filed and served, to be withdrawn for the purpose of amendment though the time for amending has not expired. State v. Linn [Wash.] 76 P. 513. In Washington, by statute, the record may be supplemented at any time prior to the hearing of the appeal. Under Laws 1901, p. 28, c. 31, § 2, may be supplemented so as to show filing, service, and settlement of statement of facts notwithstanding a motion to strike the statement for want of such matters. Johnston v. Gerry [Wash.] 76 P. 258.

97. A delay of two years in moving to withdraw the record for the purpose of having the bill of exceptions amended in the trial court is unreasonable. Freeburgh v. Lamoreaux [Wyo.] 81 P. 97. As no time is fixed by Mansf. Dig. § 1273 (Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 775), laches cannot be imputed to a party applying thereunder for a certiorari to perfect the record. Bracey-Welles Const. Co. v. Terry [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 846.

98. See 3 C. L. 220.

99. Orion Knitting Mills v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 652. Where an execution is levied against two separate tracts of land and two different claims are filed by different persons, each claiming one of the tracts, and the two claim cases are tried together by consent, and one order of dismissal is passed covering both, plaintiff is entitled to sue out a separate bill of exceptions in each case. Cases not merged, and order is in effect equivalent to similar order in each case. Valdosta Guano Co. v. Hart [Ga.] 47 S. E. 212.

1. Goken v. Dallugge [Neb.] 99 N. W. 818.

2. Felsch v. Babb [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1911.

3. Crim v. Woodford [C. C. A.] 136 F. 34.

4. Lingle v. Chicago [Ill.] 71 N. E. 590.

5. Gagnon v. French Lick Springs Hotel Co. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 849.

6. See 3 C. L. 220.

7. See post, § 11E3.

8. Because he was adjudged to have lien on land instead of title to it. Miller v. Wireman [Ky.] 80 S. W. 517.

9. Kupke v. Polk [Neb.] 103 N. W. 321.

10. Gen. St. § 804. State v. Thresher [Conn.] 58 A. 460.

11. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works v. Lester [Fla.] 38 So. 56.

12. See 3 C. L. 221.

13. An appeal need not be stayed to allow the appointment of a successor of a deceased trustee where he had no interest in the only question involved in the appeal. Coffman v. Gates [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 657. Death of appellee before submission, not suggested, does not render a reversal void, and it may be perfected by revivor. Deppen v. Immohr's Ex'r [Ky.] 84 S. W. 333. The party is an officer or representative.[14] Where a writ of error is sued out by one entitled to except, all parties in the court below whom the record shows could have united in suing out the writ may be made co-plaintiffs in error by amendment in the supreme court.[15] No notice need be given to the parties so added.[16] Parties added by amendment in the supreme court may unite with the original plaintiff in error in his assignments of error, or they may sever and seek to uphold the judgment.[17]

(§ 11) D. Calendars; trial dockets; terms.[18]—An appeal cannot be docketed before the term to which it was taken[19] or before the transcript is filed.[20] If a case is erroneously[21] or prematurely docketed, it will be stricken.[22] Hearing may be postponed to await the event of a suit which will control the decision.[23] Provision is usually made for expediting certain classes of cases.[24]

(§ 11) E. Forming issues; pleading, assigning and specifying error. 1. In general.[25]—The assignment of errors is appellant's pleading tendering an issue of law. Errors not assigned will not be considered,[26] and when required to be filed below they will not be considered unless so filed and set out in the record[27] joinder in error of a deceased party does not affect the right to prosecute the proceeding when his sole heirs are named as parties, but his name will be stricken from the title on motion. Johnston v. Little Horse Creek Irrigating Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 22. A provision that no appeal or writ of error shall abate because of the death of either of the parties, but may be revived, applies only to actions on causes of action which survive. Shannon's Code, § 4575, construed, and held not to apply to action to have defendant declared lunatic. Posey v. Posey [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 1. Motion in the court above to open the record unless executors come in is not the remedy where a party dies before appeal is taken. There must be revivor below. Ropes v. McCabe [Fla.] 36 So. 715.

14. In mandamus against a judge his successor in office may be substituted on appeal. Territory of New Mexico v. Baker, 25 S. Ct. 375.

15. Administrator. Ramey v. O'Byrne [Ga.] 49 S. E. 595. If it appears from the record that one who should have been joined as a defendant in error to the bill of exceptions has not been named as such therein, he may be made a party by amendment, provided he waives service and consents that the case he heard on the merits. Sears v. Jeffords [Ga.] 47 S. E. 186.

16, 17. Ramey v. O'Byrne [Ga.] 49 S. E. 595.

18. See 3 C. L. 221.

19. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 84 S. W. 533.

20. Hamilton v. Kentucky Title Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 1182; People v. District Court of Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 1069.

21. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank v. Burwell [Ga.] 48 S. E. 145.

22. Garcia v. Brown [Cal.] 79 P. 590.

23. Where a suit is pending to expunge an order of the court below from the record, hearing of an appeal will be postponed until the suit is determined. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 194.

24. An appeal will not be advanced because of the magnitude of property rights involved if because of the want of a supersedeas the judgment may be enforced releasing it. Order discharging garnishee releases what he holds. Cummings v. Edwards Wood & Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 709. A local option contest is not within a statute providing for the advancement of election contests. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 84 N. W. 533. Where the judgment is for money and no extraordinary circumstances or questions of public importance are involved, the case will not be added to the existing calendar, though appellants are entitled to preference. Goldberg v. Markowitz [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 316. An appeal taken within 30 days from an interlocutory decree granting an injunction is entitled to be advanced on the calendar for hearing subject to the rules as to filing briefs. Star Brass Works v. General El. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 102.

25. See 3 C. L. 221.

26. Jones v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 518; Morgan v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 836; Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 2; George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286; Watke v. Stine [Ill.] 73 N. E. 793; Lucas v. Stonewall Ins. Co. [Ala.] 36 So. 40; Highland Boy Gold Min. Co. v. Strickley [Utah] 78 P. 296; Morris v. Cork [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 709; Crawford v. Murphy [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1073; Godding v. Rossiter [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1094; Morrison v. Austin State Bank [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1109; Doyle v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 113 Ill. App. 532; In re Shively's Estate [Cal.] 78 P. 869; Woods v. Woods [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 878; Dickenson v. Stults [Ga.] 48 S. E. 173.

27. Flersheim Mercantile Co. v. Gillespie [Okl.] 77 P. 183; Norfolk R. & Light Co. v. Spratley [Va.] 49 S. E. 502; El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Harry [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 735; Handley v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 716; Hole v. Van Duzer [Idaho] 81 P. 109; Gillies v. Clarke Fork Coal Min. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 370. By Rev. St. 1901, the requirement that appellant file an assignment of errors in the lower court was omitted, but the requirement that the transcript contain such assignment was retained. Held, that filing of such assignment in the lower court was not necessary, but if filed it must be contained in the transcript as part of the record. Santa in the same form as that in which they were so filed.[28] Errors first assigned in the reply brief are not reviewable,[29] and a stipulation in the reviewing court allowing the filing of a supplemental brief "citing additional points and authorities" does not authorize a new assignment of error.[30] Fundamental or jurisdictional error appearing on the face of the record will be reviewed, though not assigned.[31] The court may in its discretion review errors not assigned.[32] Assignments must name all parties,[33] and be signed by the appellant or his counsel.[34] Assignments cannot be amended after submission except on notice and leave applied for in writing.[35]

(§ 11E) 2. Proper parties to assign error.[36]—Only a party aggrieved can assign error,[37] and one in default cannot.[38] Plaintiff cannot contend that one whom he made a defendant was not a proper party to the suit.[39] Appellants but not respondents in North Dakota can specify for review questions of fact in cases tried to the court without a jury.[40]

(§ 11E) 3. Cross errors.[41]—The appellee cannot be heard as to errors which he does not raise by cross assignment,[42] or in some states, unless he has

Cruz County v. Barnes [Ariz.] 76 P. 621. The transcript or abstract must contain an assignment of errors and points relied on as required by rules of court. Ferris v. Modern Woodmen of America [Utah] 81 P. 141. Exceptions pendente lite cannot be passed upon unless error is distinctly assigned thereon, either in the bill of exceptions or at the hearing in the supreme court. Sumner v. Sumner [Ga.] 48 S. E. 727.

28. Appellant's assignments of error in his brief not being a correct or even substantial copy of the assignments in the record, they were not considered by the appellate court. Kingston v. Austin Oil Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 813; Dean v. Cate [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 234.

29. Hawpe v. Bumgardner [Va.] 48 S. E. 554.

30. Crane Co. v. Pacific Heat & Power Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 460.

31. Cressler v. Asheville [N. C.] 51 S. E. 53; First State Bank v. McGaughey [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 55; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Nelson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 616. Though the supreme court may of its own motion consider an error not assigned which is apparent on the face of the record, it is not bound to do so, and ought not to when the judgment is substantially just. Cole v. Jerman [Conn.] 59 A. 425. Objections to jurisdiction that cannot be waived and may be raised at any time, or considered by the court on its own motion need not be presented by assignment of error. Objection that action is on an assigned contract and that it does not appear that suit could have been maintained by the assignor. Utah-Nevada Co. v. De Lamar [C. C. A.] 133 F. 113. Appellate courts may consider without assignments rulings of trial courts which are fundamental in character or which determine a question upon which the very right of the case depends. Ruling sustaining general demurrer is fundamental and reviewable without assignment, though special exceptions might also have been taken. City of San Antonio v. Talerico [Tex.] 81 S. W. 518. Want of equity jurisdiction because of legal remedy need not be assigned. Williams v. Peeples [Fla.] 37 So. 572.

32. The defense of laches may be considered by an appellate court, though not made the subject of an assignment of error. Shea v. Nilima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209.

33. Parties against whom no relief is sought must be named as appellants in the assignments and not as appellees. Smith v. Peters [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1103. An assignment must contain the names in full of all appellants and appellees. Nordyke & Marmon Co. v. Fitzpatrick [Ind.] 71 N. E. 46; Presbyterian Church v. Dyke [Ind.] 71 N. E. 503. The "Estate of S.," not naming the administrator, is not sufficient. Dallam v. Stockwell's Estate [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 911.

34. Kinkade v. Gibson [Ill.] 70 N. E. 683.

35. Rule 4. Daily v. Washington Nat. Bank [Ind.] 72 N. E. 260.

36. See 3 C. L. 222.

37. City of Chicago v. People ex rel. Gray, 111 Ill. App. 594; Ruhl & Co. v. Nestor, 52 W. Va. 610, 44 S. E. 233. Any party may assign a defect of necessary parties. Rumell v. Tampa [Fla.] 37 So. 563.

38. Assignments raised by a party who failed to plead and against whom judgment was taken by default cannot be considered. City of Lincoln v. Bailey [Neb.] 99 N. W. 830.

39. Hoffman v. Silverthorn [Mich.] 100 N. W. 183.

40. Salemonson v. Thompson [N. D.] 101 N. W. 320.

41. See 3 C. L. 223.

42. Bessemer Irr. Ditch Co. v. Woolley [Colo.] 76 P. 1053; Sauter v. Anderson, 110 Ill. App. 574; In re Opening of Summit Ave., 32 N. Y. S. 1027; Miller v. Brooks [Ga.] 47 S. E. 646; Muller v. McLaughlin [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 687; Kern Oil Co. v. Crawford [Cal.] 76 P. 1111; Rodman v. Quick [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1087; Haigh v. Carroll [Ill.] 71 N. E. 317; United States Exp. Co. v. Joyce [Ind.] 72 N. E. 865; News Pub. Co. v. Associated Press, 114 Ill. App. 241; Adams v. Long, 114 Ill. App. 277. The judgment cannot be amended for appellees who made no complaint and sought no remedy. Succes-cross appealed,[43] and when he does so he is bound by the usual rule as to saving of the question below;[44] but in cross assigning, he may go beyond the errors assigned.[45] Cross errors are not assignable in the Federal courts.[46]

(§ 11E) 4. Specifications and averments.[47]—Assignments of error must be definite and specific,[48] and distinct errors must not be grouped in one assignment,[49]

sion of Thomas [La.] 38 So. 519, following Ware v. Convillion, 112 La. 43, 36 So. 220. A ruling on the admissibility of evidence by the appellate court, adverse to respondent, cannot be reviewed on further appeal to the supreme court in the absence of a cross assignment of error. Kantzler v. Benzinger [Ill.] 73 N. E. 874. Where a demurrer has been sustained to a plea filed by the party successful at the hearing, no question can be raised by such party on appeal where he has assigned no cross error upon the ruling. Kuhn v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 111 Ill. App. 323. An appellant cannot take advantage of the fact that the court did not pass upon a motion and demurrer filed by appellee, as he is not injured thereby. Pearce v. Albright [N. M.] 76 P. 286. Where the appeal is from specified parts of the decree only, and appellant notifies all parties to that effect and that he will have copied into the transcript only such parts of the record as are necessary to review such parts of the decree, the appellate court will not consider an assignment of error by one of the appellees, long after the submission of the cause, concerning another part of the decree, and having no relation to the part appealed from. Allen & Co. v. Maxwell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 242. The appellate court will not consider the question whether the facts disclosed by a motion to set aside a default judgment and by the evidence on its hearing show a good excuse for defendant's failure to appear and answer, where the finding of the court that they do is not cross assigned as error by plaintiff. Will merely adopt such finding. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. Where a direct appeal to the supreme court of the United States is authorized, the whole case is brought up, and accordingly respondent may cross assign nonfederal errors. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 194 U. S. 618, 48 Law. Ed. 1142. Where plaintiff appeals, claiming inadequate recovery and the evidence shows that he was not entitled to recover at all, there will be no reversal unless appellee assigns cross errors. Parker v. Supreme Lodge, 115 Ill. App. 501.

43. On appeal by defendant, plaintiff cannot, in the absence of a cross appeal, complain of failure to submit a certain matter as an element of damages. Pullman Co. v. Kelly [Miss.] 38 So. 317. Appellee need not cross appeal in chancery to assail the decree. Parken v. Safford [Fla.] 37 So. 567.

44. Buster v. Warren [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1063. An appellee is not entitled to a reversal on a cross assignment of error complaining of the inadequacy of the verdict in his favor, though he raised the point by a motion for a new trial, where the record fails to show that such motion was called to the attention of, or acted upon by, the trial court, and where he did not perfect an appeal. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Larkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 94.

45. Where on petition to condemn two tracts of land, there is dismissal as to one and judgment as to the other, and the petitioner appeals from the judgment of dismissal, the landowner cannot assign cross errors as to the judgment of condemnation. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1017.

46. Must be independent proceeding. Guarantee Co. of N. A. v. Phoenix Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 170.

47. See 3 C. L. 223.

48. Charouleau v. Shields [Ariz.] 76 P. 821; Bryant v. Nelson-Frey Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 859; Guthrie v. Howland [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 234; Spitzer v. Miller [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833; Johnston Glass Co. v. Lucas [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1102; Scribner v. Taggart [Iowa] 98 N. W. 798; Candler v. Washoe Lake Reservoir & G. C. Ditch Co. [Nev.] 80 P. 751; Lutlopp v. Heckmann [N. J. Err. & App.] 57 A. 1046; O'Donnell v. Clements, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 447; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. White & Co. [Tex.] 80 S. W. 77; Taylor v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 738. An exception to an instruction which does not correctly set out the same will not be reviewed. Cowles v. Lovin [N. C.] 47 S. E. 610. In Pennsylvania an assignment to the admission of a letter must contain a copy thereof. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 2. Assignment that an act of the general assembly "is too vague and indefinite to be enforced, and also is contrary to natural law, and violative of natural rights to fish in the sea, and arms thereof" is too indefinite. Prey v. Oemler [Ga.] 47 S. E. 546. Where it is clear from the record that an assignment relates to appellee's amended petition, the omission of the word "amended" in the assignment will be regarded as a clerical error. Guthrie v. Howland [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 234. In equity general assignments of error are sufficient if they inform the court as to the matters passed upon. Campbell v. William Cameron & Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 762. Where complaint is made of the charge of the court upon which no specific assignment of error is made, such charge will be considered no further than to determine whether it states an abstractly correct proposition of law. Mulherin v. Kennedy [Ga.] 48 S. E. 437. An assignment that "there is manifest error in the record in the following particulars, to wit:" followed by specifications, is sufficient. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. Howard [Ind.] 71 N. E. 493. It is irregular to assign as errors extracts from the opinion of the trial court, especially where it is not indicated that they are extracts. Altoona v. Morrison, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 417.

49. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 395; Bingham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738; Spitzer v. Miller [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833; Steen v. Swadley [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 871; Erie City v. Grant, 24 Pa. Super. Ct.

nor must co-parties join in assignments not affecting all alike[50] unless the exception was joint.[51] Each specification must be complete in itself.[52] Reference to the record for verification is usually required.[53] In New Jersey an assignment of error in fact must conclude with a verification,[54] and an assignment which contradicts the record in matters of fact is improper.[55] In Indiana, matters which are causes for new trial cannot be assigned as independent errors,[56] and only matters properly assignable as grounds for such motion can be considered without independent assignments.[57] In the notes are applications of the rules of definiteness and certainty to assignments respecting pleadings,[58] admission and exclusion 109; Godshalk's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 410; Moore v. Bischoff, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 1; Wabash Ave., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 305; Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 227; Peck v. Peck [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 257; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Boykin [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1163; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 695. On charge as to fraud in procuring release and on charge as to mistake therein. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682. Grouping of assignments of error based on different reasons why the verdict is contrary to the evidence is improper. Fort Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Robinson [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 410. Assignment complaining of refusal to give requested charge and of failure to submit issue suggested in requested charge is bad. Metcalfe v. Lowenstein [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 362. An assignment on the overruling of several exceptions, presenting more than one question, will not be considered. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Hagler [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 692. All the assignments of error may be copied one after another no matter to how many subjects they may relate, but practice is not commendable. Neal v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 402. Assignments of error relating to the same subject may be grouped, with propositions under them. Id.

50. Leader v. Mattingly [Ala.] 37 So. 270. A joint assignment by several parties presents no question if the ruling was right as to either of them. Vansell v. Carithers [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 158. A joint assignment not good as to all the persons joining is good as to none. City of Lincoln v. Bailey [Neb.] 99 N. W. 830; Kupke v. Polk [Neb.] 103 N. W. 321.

51. Coy v. Druckamiller [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 195. Where a joint and several demurrer is overruled and exception taken jointly, no question is raised by separate assignments of error. Whitesell v. Strickler [Ind.] 73 N. E. 153. Specifications of error must apply accurately to the rulings complained of, separate assignments to a joint exception not being sufficient. Id.

52. Spitzer v. Miller [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833. Reference to page elsewhere is not sufficient. Vanderslice v. Donner, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 319; Winkler v. Hawkes [Iowa] 102 N. W. 418.

53. Winkler v. Hawkes [Iowa] 102 N. W. 418. Errors in record not referred to by page as required. Butte Min. & Mill. Co. v. Kenyon [Mont.] 76 P. 696.

54, 55. Karnuff v. Kelch [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 364.

56. Assignment that facts as found are contrary to law and not supported by sufficient evidence. Leedy v. Capital Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1000. Refusal of jury trial. Abbott v. Inman [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 284.

57. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814.

58. An assignment that the court erred in overruling demurrer to several paragraphs of the complaint cannot be sustained if one paragraph be good. Cambridge Lodge No. 9, K. P. v. Routh [Ind.] 71 N. E. 148. An assignment questioning the sufficiency of a complaint in its entirety is unavailing if it contain a good count. Nickey v. Dougan [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 288. An assignment questioning the overruling as to one paragraph, a demurrer addressed to two paragraphs presents nothing. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 666. Separate assignments based on a joint exception to the overruling of separate demurrers to several paragraphs of a complaint raise no question. Johnston Glass Co. v. Lucas [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1102; Perry-Matthews-Buskirk Stone Co. v. Speer [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 933. Where after the overruling of a separate demurrer to each of the two paragraphs of a complaint plaintiff dismissed as to one paragraph, a general assignment of error to the overruling of the demurrer is not joint as so much of the demurrer as applied to the dismissed paragraph went out of the case with it. City of Hammond v. Winslow [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 819. Sufficiency of pleas cannot be considered on appeal where no error is assigned regarding the settling of the pleadings. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hamilton, 105 Ill. App. 75. Assignment of error in rendering judgment against defendant without proof does not authorize consideration of alleged error in sustaining a demurrer to the answer. Godding v. Rossiter [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1094. An assignment that the court erred in holding that the pleadings set up an executed contract and that the same was prima facie evidence against defendant raises the admissibility of such contract. Altgelt v. Oliver Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 28. Assignments of error which go to the action of the court in sustaining exceptions to the petition and in sustaining a motion to quash the proceedings do not present for review a ruling relative to costs. Hunter v. Adoue [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 622. An assignment that court erred in refusing to sustain certain exceptions and demurrers which involved several propositions, held too general. Wat-

of evidence,[59] instructions,[60] sufficiency of evidence,[61] verdicts,[62] findings,[63] judgment[64] and rulings on motions for new trial.[65]

kins Land Mortg. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 560. Assignment of error that court below "erred in sustaining appellees' general and special demurrers" to the petition, and in dismissing the action, and rendering judgment against appellant for costs, held not too general to prevent consideration of action of court on the general demurrer, though his action on the special demurrer is not assailed. Stark v. J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1080.

59. The question of competency cannot be considered on a specification that evidence was insufficient to prove a fact. Williams v. Hawley [Cal.] 77 P. 762. Refusal to strike out testimony received without objection will not be considered if not assigned as error. Dawson v. Proctor [Colo. App.] 79 P. 303. An assignment of error upon the refusal of the court to allow a witness to answer a specified question propounded by the party calling him must state what evidence was thus sought to be elicited and that the court was informed thereof at the time of the ruling. City of Macon v. Humphries [Ga.] 50 S. E. 986. In order to properly present for review the question whether or not error was committed in admitting given evidence, the complaining party must make it appear not only that it was admitted over his objection but also what grounds of objection he urged when it was offered. Powell v. Georgia, etc., R. Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 759. Where the ruling is proper as to one item of evidence excluded and erroneous as to another, and a single objection was taken to both, the overruling is not well assigned as error. Appeal of Spencer [Conn.] 60 A. 289. An assignment to a ruling on evidence must set forth the evidence admitted or offered and rejected. Toddes v. Hafer, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 78; Bachert v. Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. [Pa.] 57 A. 765. It is not enough that the text of the assignment be supplemented by reference to the evidence set out in extenso in the appendix. Pizzi v. Nardello, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 535. Assignment that court erred in overruling motion to strike out answers to two direct and two cross questions held too general. Bell v. Bates [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 551. An assignment on the admission of evidence must state the ground of objection. Altgelt v. Elmendorf [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 41. An assignment of error in allowing questions without showing any objection to the answers is insufficient. Altgelt v. Elmendorf [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 41. An assignment that the court erred in admitting evidence, "which evidence is fully set forth in the bill of exceptions" is too indefinite. Steen v. Swadley [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 871.

60. Errors must be specifically assigned. Bowles v. Wicker [Ga.] 50 S. E. 476; Kaufman v. Pittsburg, C. & W. R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 2; Roth v. Slobodien [N. J. Law] 60 A. 59; Jacksonville & St. L. R. Co. v. Wilhite [Ill.] 70 N. E. 583. An assignment of error to the failure to charge is unavailing when the bill of exceptions fails to show that it was requested. Bingham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738. An assignment that the court erred in charging the jury as certified in the printed record without pointing out the particular errors in a charge covering 12 pages is too general. Chase v. Waterbury Sav. Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 37. Where requests to charge are numerous, an assignment that the court erred in refusing to charge as requested is not sufficiently specific. McAllin v. McAllin [Conn.] 59 A. 413; Farrell v. Eastern Machinery Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 611; Central Union Tel. Co. v. Sokola [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 143. An assignment which merely sets out the language excepted to is sufficient where the objection as clearly appears from such language as it would if the assignment were further elaborated. Best v. Kessler [C. C. A.] 130 F. 24. A general exception to several propositions either given or refused will be overruled if any one was correctly given or refused. Erie R. Co. v. Littell [C. C. A.] 128 F. 546; Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Prunty [C. C. A.] 133 F. 13; Johnson v. Leffler Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 488. It must be particularized wherein the instructions were violated. Banks v. McCandless [Ga.] 47 S. E. 332. An assignment of error that a specified portion of the charge is "misleading" is too general to be considered. Riddle v. Sheppard [Ga.] 47 S. E. 201. An exception to a correct charge because of failure to give, in the same connection, some other pertinent legal proposition, is not a good assignment of error. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Barnes [Ga.] 49 S. E. 282; City of Macon v. Humphries [Ga.] 50 S. E. 986. Failure to charge as to a pertinent matter cannot be taken advantage of by assigning error upon a charge correctly instructing the jury as to other matters involved. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Williams [Ga.] 48 S. E. 404. A complaint that the court omitted to instruct the jury as to pertinent matters to be considered by them is not properly brought up for review by an assignment of error that certain instructions excepted to were incorrect in that the court in the same connection should have charged other propositions of law applicable to the case. Robert Portner Brewing Co. v. Cooper [Ga.] 47 S. E. 631. A general exception to an entire charge on the ground that it is argumentative is untenable. Guertin v. Hudson [N. H.] 53 A. 736. An exception that the court erred in his charge to the jury is too broad to be considered. Sigman v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 420. A specification of error as follows: "The instruction complained of * * * being the entire charge as found on pages 115 to 120 of the transcript, and which the court is asked to consider without compelling the appellant to set it out in full," is not in compliance with the rules of the court of appeals. Doherty v. Arkansas & O. R. Co. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 899. In Pennsylvania, where no particular error can be pointed out, review will be made of the charge as a whole. Rider-Ericsson Engine Co. v. Fredericks, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 72. Though the admission of evidence is assigned as error, an error alleged in the charge relating to the admission of such evidence will not be considered where that portion of the charge has not been assigned as error. McCarthy v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 778. Assignment setting forth a single sentence or clause separate from the context will not be considered unless the quoted portion be self-sustaining and self-explanatory. Cox v. Wilson, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 635. Objections to charges, expressly stated in the assignments cannot be enlarged by propositions submitted under them. Faubion v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ App.] 81 S. W. 56. An assignment alleging a charge to have been erroneous on a certain ground, whether it was erroneous on another ground will not be considered. Id. Assignment of error in giving charge asked by "defendant" will not sustain claim of error in giving charge asked by plaintiff. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Henseriang [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 948. Assignment that court erred in submitting failure to deliver second of two telegrams as a basis of recovery, held not to raise question whether it erred in not restricting extent of recovery. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Ridenour [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1030. A complaint that the court should have submitted an issue suggested in a requested improper charge will not be considered on appeal unless specifically made by a proper assignment of error. Metcalfe v. Lowenstein [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 362. The judgment will not be reversed because a substantially correct charge is not sufficiently full, where the appellant's brief contains no assignment of error complaining of the refusal of the court to give an additional charge requested by it. Unsell v. Sisk [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 34.

61. An assignment that the court erred in directing a verdict is sufficiently specific. Taylor v. McLaughlin [Ga.] 48 S. E. 203; Long v. Red River, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1048. That the court erred in directing a nonsuit is a sufficient assignment. Randolph v. Brunswick & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 396. Sufficiency of evidence to support finding cannot be reviewed in the absence of specification of particulars wherein it is insufficient. Adams v. Hopkins [Cal.] 77 P. 712. Under a statute providing that the final decision of an action is deemed excepted to, an assignment of error that the judgment based on findings is not supported by the evidence is insufficient. Crooks v. Harmon [Utah] 80 P. 95.

62. An assignment that the verdict is contrary to law is too general. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Bomberger [C. C. A.] 130 F. 884. On assignments of grounds for new trial which cover merely the sufficiency or legal effect of the evidence, the court will not consider answers to interrogatories. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall [Ind.] 72 N. E. 552. Error by the jury in computation will not be considered unless distinctly pointed out. Furguson v. Ragon [Okl.] 81 P. 431. An assignment that the verdict for damages is not sustained by the evidence will not raise excessiveness of damages. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 37. Assignment merely that verdict is excessive is too general. International & G. N. R. Co. v. McVey [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 991. Assignment that verdict is excessive, outrageous, unconscionable, and in manifest disregard of law and evidence, raises more than one question and is improper. Id.

63. An assignment that the "findings of the court" are not supported by the evidence is good. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 568, cl. 6. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109. An assignment that the decision is not sustained by the evidence does not require a review as to the weight of the evidence. Bush v. German-American Bldg. Ass'n [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 914. An assignment that the court erred in its conclusions of law is joint and unless good as to all is good as to none. Wolverton v. Wolverton [Ind.] 71 N. E. 123; Vinall v. Hendricks [Ind.] 71 N. E. 682. An assignment that the "court erred in overruling the defendant's exception to the conclusion of law stated upon the special finding of facts" presents no question for review. Burck v. Davis [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 192. An assignment of error in overruling a motion for a new trial does not present the question of the sufficiency of the evidence to support the findings. Neils Lumber Co. v. Hines [Minn.] 101 N. W. 959. Where the statute requires a separate exception to each finding of fact or conclusion of law complained of, a mere general exception is insufficient, and its repetition after each assignment of a particular error will not bring the appeal within the statute. Act Mch. 16, 1868 (P. L. 45), relating to appeals from orders of removal of paupers. Franklin Tp. Overseers v. Rayburn Tp. Overseers, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 522. An assignment that the findings as to the extent of the damage are not sustained by the evidence will not support a contention that the court adopted a wrong theory as to measure of damages. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 286. Where no error is assigned upon the making of a finding, the supreme court will accept the fact found as a fact without considering whether it is supported by the evidence or not. Sherry v. Madler [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1095.

64. Assignment that the verdict and decree "is violative of the vested constitutional rights of the defendants" to the use and enjoyment of the property in dispute under leases from the state is too general. Prey v. Oemler [Ga.] 47 S. E. 546. An assignment that the court erred in rendering judgment against defendant that he take nothing is not sufficiently specific. Watzlavzick v. Oppenheimer [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 855. An assignment of error in a decree enjoining an execution sale that the evidence did not show that the land was plaintiff's homestead is not germane to a proposition that such decree was erroneous because the sale was not such a cloud on title as might be enjoined. Mansur & T. Implement Co. v. Graham [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 308. That judgment of the district court entered pursuant to an order of the court of appeals may be assailed as void, it must be assigned as error that the court of appeals was without jurisdiction to enter the judgment. Taylor v. Colorado Ironworks [Colo.] 80 P. 129.

65. Assignment "that court erred in over-

(§ 11E) 5. Demurrers, pleas, and replication.[66]—An appellee may file in the supreme court a plea in bar of the appeal, based on the statute of limitations.[67] In a proceeding in error it is proper for the defendant in error by way of answer to set up such facts subsequent to the judgment as are claimed to be a waiver of the error complained of.[68] Upon the filing of a plea of prescription by the defendant, the case will be remanded for trial of that plea, the appeal remaining otherwise in statu quo.[69] An answer to appeal under Louisiana practice, praying an amendment to increase the claim of damages, must be filed at least three days before argument.[70]

(§ 11) F. Briefs and arguments.[71]—Briefs are generally required by rule of court.[72] The prescribed time of filing and serving is peremptory[73] unless extended.[74] It is generally required that they be printed[75] and served.[76] Statutes and court rules prescribing the form and contents of briefs are insisted on.[77] Among the common requirements is a summary of so much of the record as presents the errors relied on,[78] with references to the record for verification,[79] a sepa-ruling appellant's motion for a new trial because of the errors herein assigned and which were duly presented therein" is too general. Harris v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1198. An assignment of error in refusing a new trial for four specific reasons is not multifarious, there being but one error, i. e., that of refusing the new trial. Mix v. North American Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 272. Under Sup. Ct. Rule 12 (4 Pac. x.), that no error will be considered unless clearly pointed out in appellant's brief, an assignment that the court erred in denying a motion for a new trial, though too indefinite, did not preclude consideration of error distinctly pointed out which might be reviewed without a motion for a new trial. Rowe v. Northport Smelting & Refining Co. [Wash.] 76 P. 529.

66. See 3 C. L. 229.

67. Farmer v. Allen [Miss.] 38 So. 38.

68. Charles P. Kellogg & Co. v. Spargur [Neb.] 100 N. W. 1025.

69. Myers v. Lansing [La.] 38 So. 85.

70. Bonnin v. Crowley [La.] 36 So. 842.

71. See 3 C. L. 229.

72. A failure to file a brief is a waiver of the right to be heard. Le Breton v. Swartzel [Okl.] 78 P. 323. A case submitted without oral argument by consent will not be considered unless a printed argument or brief is filed by counsel for each of the parties. Sup. Ct. Rule 10, 39 S. E. vi. Where both parties appeal, must be separate ones in each case, when different questions are involved. Orion Knitting Mills v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [N. C.] 48 S. E. 652.

73. Court of Appeals rule 3 (75 S. W. v.) providing that an appellee failing to file his brief on time will be required to pay the costs up to the date of filing will not be enforced in the absence of a motion by appellant prior to the submission of the cause. Schnabel v. Waggener [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1125.

74. Showing by counsel for plaintiff in error held insufficient to warrant an extension of time for filing briefs as against a motion to dismiss. Cook v. South Omaha Nat. Bank [Wyo.] 79 P. 18. An application for leave to file a brief in the court of appeals notwithstanding a failure to file it in the lower court within the prescribed time will be denied where no excuse for such failure is offered. Booker v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 385.

75. A typewritten brief the imprint being blurred and illegible will not be considered. Lodwick Lumber Co. v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 358. In divorce case where defendant did not contest, but court appointed attorney to appear for her, motion by such attorney, on appeal by complainant from decree dismissing bill, for leave to file typewritten brief, denied. Lenoir v. Lenoir, 24 App. D. C. 160.

76. Under a statute making the attorney general the attorney of record for any county, he is entitled to be served in an appeal against a county. McIntosh Hardware Co. v. Flathead County [Mont.] 80 P. 239.

77. Sup. and App. Ct. Rule 22. Woodward v. Dobyzkoski [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 607; Wolverton v. Wolverton [Ind.] 71 N. E. 123; Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Shelley [Ind.] 71 N. E. 151; Kennedy v. Swisher [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 724; McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. McCormick [Iowa] 103 N. W. 204. Brief prefaced with assignments of errors in violation of the statute abolishing such practice. Winkler v. Hawkes [Iowa] 102 N. W. 418. A paper filed by appellant containing neither points, propositions nor argument, as required by rule, will not be considered. Sup. Ct. Rules 54 and 56. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. McCormick [Iowa] 103 N. W. 204.

78. Sup. and Appellate Ct. rule 22. Woodward v. Dobyzkoski [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 607; Kennedy v. Swisher [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 724; Todd v. Cage [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 925; Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Shelley [Ind.] 71 N. E. 151; Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128; Webster v. Major [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 176. Right to judgment on answers to special interrogatories cannot be considered in their absence from the brief. Nurrenbern v. Daniels [Ind.] 71 N. E. 889. Undisputed statements of fact in the brief are consider-rate assignment or statement of the contentions or alleged errors,[80] a distinct ed as admissions made at the trial. Territory v. Board of Com'rs of Bernalillo County [N. M.] 79 P. 709. If rulings on pleadings are objected to, a concise statement of their contents is necessary. Shatz v. Alexandria Gas Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1094; Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Walton [Ind.] 72 N. E. 646; Tuthill Spring Co. v. Holliday [Ind.] 72 N. E. 872. In a copy of the demurrer or its substance if error is predicated on, the order sustaining it is necessary. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Alexander [Ind.] 73 N. E. 279; Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Gray [Ind.] 72 N. E. 869; Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Alexander [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 279. Rule not complied with by reference to place in record where pleading is found. Schreiber v. Worm [Ind.] 72 N. E. 852. Matters depending on evidence cannot be considered in the absence of a concise statement of it. Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Walton [Ind.] 72 N. E. 646; Welch v. State [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1043. Ruling on refusal of new trial for newly-discovered evidence. Perdue v. Gill [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 844. Sufficiency of evidence. Where appellant states there is no evidence and appellee sets out what he claims is sufficient, the question will be reviewed. Tipton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. Dean [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1082. A mere reference to the pages of the record where evidence may be found is not a compliance with a rule which requires the brief to quote the full substance of the evidence. Breitkreutz v. National Bank of Holton [Kan.] 79 P. 686. If the instructions complained of or a succinct statement thereof are not set out, they will not be considered. Sup. & App. Ct. Rule 22, subd. 5. Woodward v. Dobyzkoski [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 607; Kennedy v. Swisher [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 724; Perdue v. Gill [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 844; Huey & Co. v. Johnston [Ind.] 73 N. E. 996; Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128; Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall [Ind.] 72 N. E. 552; Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Vandenberg [Ind.] 73 N. E. 990; Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Walton [Ind.] 72 N. E. 646; Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Norcross [Ind.] 72 N. E. 132; Garrigue v. Keller [Ind.] 74 N. E. 523. Rule is not complied with by a statement as to what counsel conceives to be the legal effect of the instruction. Buehner Chair Co. v. Feulner [Ind.] 73 N. E. 816. Omission cannot be supplied in reply brief. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Lain [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 539.

Misconduct of counsel in argument will not be reviewed in the absence of a statement thereof. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Lain [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 539. Alleged misconduct of the jury supported by affidavits cannot be reviewed in the absence of the substance of the affidavits. Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Lain [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 539. The overruling of a motion for a new trial cannot be considered where the causes assigned or a succinct statement thereof are not set out. Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Walton [Ind.] 72 N. E. 646.

79. Huey Co. v. Johnston [Ind.] 73 N. E. 996. Required by rules of court. Butte Min. & Mill. Co. v. Kenyon [Mont.] 77 P. 319. Where the reference to folios of the record is incorrect, the reviewing court is not obliged to and will not search the record. Bird v. Potter [Cal.] 79 P. 970. Objections will not be reviewed where the evidence objected to is not pointed out, no reference is made to the pages where it may be found and the abstract of 128 pages is not indexed. The Fair v. Hoffman [Ill.] 70 N. E. 622; St. Louis & O. R. Co. v. Union Trust & Sav. Bank [Ill.] 70 N. E. 651.

80. The points or errors must be specified. Defects in complaint. Storer v. Markley [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1081; Flickner v. Lambert [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 263. Appellate Court Rule 22. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Greb [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 620. Must be a distinct enumeration of errors relied on. Standley v. Flint [Idaho] 79 P. 815. Assignment held sufficient. Whitney v. Dewey [Idaho] 80 P. 1117. Errors or points not contained in the "statement of points" in appellant's brief will not be considered in Indiana. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Greb [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 620. Must specify errors relied on. Rule 10. Grubbs v. Needles [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 873. Errors not specified will not be considered. Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998. Appellants' brief must show errors relied on if the applicability of the propositions discussed cannot be determined without an investigation. McIntosh Hardware Co. v. Flathead County [Mont.] 80 P. 239. Substantial compliance with rule is sufficient upon which to deny a motion to strike the brief. Johnston v. Gerry [Wash.] 76 P. 258. At the conclusion of appellant's statement of the case, it was recited that appeal was from the order sustaining a demurrer to which the argument was wholly directed. Held, the brief would not be stricken because not pointing out errors relied on. McKenzie v. Royal Dairy [Wash.] 77 P. 680. Appellant need not assign his reasons in the specifications of error contained in the brief. They belong in the portion devoted to argument. State v. Justice Ct. of Tp. No. 1, Gallatin County [Mont.] 78 P. 498.

Assignment, statement, and proposition under the Texas rule. Assignment: Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 298. Assignment will not be considered where neither it nor the proposition points out the error in the charge complained of. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Sanchez [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 849. Several assignments of error consecutively stated followed by a statement that they would be treated as propositions will not be considered. King v. Battaglia [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 839. An assignment of error appearing in the record cannot be considered unless copied in the brief. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Harry [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 735.

Statement: An assignment not accompanied by a statement of facts will not be considered. McCord v. Hames [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 504; Galloway v. Floyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 805; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Boykin [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1163; Dieter v. Bowers [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 847. To sustain an assignment that a argument addressed to each,[81, 82] and the citation of authorities.[83] Though the court may consider jurisdictional questions not discussed,[84] all matters not charge ignored a defense, the statement in the brief must show that there was evidence to sustain such defense. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Reeves [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1099. The statement in appellants' brief must show reservation of a bill of exceptions. Saenz v. Mumme Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 N. W. 59. An assignment of error complaining of the refusal of a charge will not be considered unless the evidence relied on to warrant it is set out in the brief. Burke v. Holmes [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 564. The statement under an assignment of error in a charge should contain the charge in full or in substance and refer to the record for verification. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Vanlandingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 847. Instructions not set out in full in the brief of the complaining party as required by rules of court will not be reviewed. Hallwood Cash Register Co. v. Dailey [Kan.] 79 P. 158. Briefs must be full and explicit enough to enable the court to decide the case without reference to the transcript. Krick v. Dow [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 245. An assignment to the exclusion of evidence will not be considered where the statement under it does not show what the evidence was. Id.

Proposition: An assignment which is not a proposition of law in itself and is not accompanied by a proposition will not be considered. Taylor v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 260; Taylor v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 738; El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 718; City of San Antonio v. Marshall & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 315. An assignment of error not accompanied by a proposition of law will not be considered. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Alderete [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1246. A proposition that "a verdict without evidence to support it is void" will not authorize a review of the evidence if there is some evidence supporting the verdict. Stewart v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 310. The court will not though requested by counsel consider, as propositions under an assignment, the propositions under other assignments. San Antonio Foundry Co. v. Drish [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 440. A proposition under an assignment of error in a charge which merely states that it is error to ignore a material issue is too abstract. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 21. As is a proposition that it is error "to give an instruction against the interest of a party. Id. Propositions in the brief, not based on assignments of error carried into the brief, will not be considered. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Ingram [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 208. Propositions not embraced in or authorized by the assignments of error to which they refer will not be considered. Robertson v. Trammell [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 258. A subsidiary proposition that, if evidence showed any negligence, it further showed that a joint tort feasor negligently did the act causing the injury, and that, except for a settlement by plaintiff with it, defendant would have been entitled to an action over against it, was not authorized by an assignment of error that the court erred in refusing to direct a verdict on account of the insufficiency of the evidence to show negligence, and because of the evidence of accord and satisfaction. Id. The court will not subdivide or reconstruct assignments of error or propositions in order to reverse for a technical error. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Purdy [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 37. A proposition under an assignment of error stating that, even if a request to charge was not correct, it was sufficient to call the court's attention to the issue involved, and to require the giving of a proper charge on the subject, cannot be considered in the absence of an assignment alleging that the court should have, in view of the request, given another and proper charge on the subject. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Harry [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 735. Assignments of error which are propositions in themselves need not be followed by propositions. Castellano v. Marks [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 729. In the Texas court of civil appeals, the assignments of error are required to be copied into the brief, and each point under each assignment must be stated as a proposition, unless the assignment itself sufficiently discloses the point, in which case it is sufficient to copy the assignment. Rule 30. Neal v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 402. A proposition not cognate to the assignment to which it refers, and which states no point which can arise from it, but presents and raises a distinct question, arising from the action of the court upon a matter separate and having no connection with that complained of in the assignment, cannot be considered. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Harry [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 735.

81, 82. Storer v. Markley [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1081. Court will not make its own investigation as to whether ruling was correct. Duggan v. Ryan [Ill.] 71 N. E. 848; Radichel v. Kendall [Wis.] 99 N. W. 348; Hanson v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1101. Merely repeating the substance of the exceptions reserved does not assign or argue the error. Mitchell v. Gambill [Ala.] 37 So. 402. A mere general assertion of error in a ruling does not require a consideration thereof. Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. DeYaeger, 112 Ill. App. 537.

83. Unintelligible citation. Winkler v. Hawkes [Iowa] 102 N. W. 418. Where an assignment is argued in both appellate and supreme courts, it will be reviewed though no authorities were cited in the brief filed in the appellate court or in the original brief in the supreme court. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Burridge [Ill.] 71 N. E. 838.

84. City of Tarkio v. Clark [Mo.] 85 S. W. 329. Fundamental defects of jurisdiction. Jurisdictional want of equity in bill. City of Jacksonville v. Massey Bus. College [Fla.] 36 So. 432. Ouster of chancery jurisdiction by existence of legal remedy. Wil-urged by argument in the brief are deemed waived.[85] New points presented by the reply or supplemental brief will not be considered.[86]

A party has no absolute right to amend his brief, except by the citation of additional authorities,[87] and no other amendment will be allowed unless it appears that it will not involve injustice or inconvenience to the other party.[88]

A scandalous brief will be stricken from the files,[89] and counsel filing them liams v. Peeples [Fla.] 37 So. 572. Lack of argument will not deprive the court of power to base reversal on exceptions not discussed. Purcell v. Hoffman House, 89 N. Y. S. 975. Where for the purpose of conferring jurisdiction the trial judge certifies that a constitutional question is involved, but no such question in the argument or brief, it will be assumed that if such a question existed it has been waived. Coghlan v. Williams [Kan.] 76 P. 394.

85. Leader v. Mattingly [Ala.] 37 So. 270; Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. v. Brantley [Ala.] 37 So. 698; Bingham v. Davidson [Ala.] 37 So. 738; Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 1124; Cole v. Jerman [Conn.] 59 A. 425; Daytona Bridge Co. v. Bond [Fla.] 36 So. 445; MacFarlane v. Southern Lumber & Supply Co. [Fla.] 36 So. 1029; Jones v. Nolan [Ga.] 48 S. E. 166; Tyler v. Justice [Ga.] 48 S. E. 328; New England Mortg. Sec. Co. v. Anderson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 396; Sweeney v. Sweeney [Ga.] 48 S. E. 984; Brantley v. Taylor [Ga.] 49 S. E. 262; Town of Douglasville v. Skinner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 287; Frank & Co. v. Horkan [Ga.] 49 S. E. 800; Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Lindley, 110 Ill. App. 161; Sauter v. Anderson, 110 Ill. App. 574; Sanitary Dist. of Chicago v. Pearce, 110 Ill. App. 592; O'Neil v. Rogers, 110 Ill. App. 622; Melton v. Rittenhouse, 111 Ill. App. 30; Conkey v. Rex, 111 Ill. App. 121; Sanks v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 112 Ill. App. 385; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Burke, 112 Ill. App. 415; Mellanson v. Mellanson, 113 Ill. App. 81; Botwinis v. Allgood, 113 Ill. App. 188; Barnes v. Huffman, 113 Ill. App. 226; Pickett v. People, 114 Ill. App. 188; Illinois Central R. Co. v. McMillan, 115 Ill. App. 600; Springer v. Lipsis [Ill.] 70 N. E. 641; Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386; Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Buzis [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1060; Welch v. State [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1043; Johnston Glass Co. v. Lucas [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1102; People v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 315; Woodhams v. Jennings [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1088; Michigan City v. Phillips [Ind.] 71 N. E. 205; Storer v. Markley [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1081; Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109; Peden v. Scott [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1099; Houghton v. Furbush [Mass.] 70 N. E. 49; Wright v. Perry [Mass.] 74 N. E. 328; Jaroszewski v. Allen, 117 Iowa, 632, 91 N. W. 941; Illinois Steel Co. v. Jeka [Wis.] 101 N. W. 399; Pitz v. Kentucky & N. Distilling & Cattle Feeding Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 797; Batty v. Hastings [Neb.] 95 N. W. 866; Sayre v. Johnson [Mont.] 81 P. 389; Incorporated Town of Tahlequah v. Guinn [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 886; Kapiloff v. Feist, 91 N. Y. S. 27; Jones v. Brinsmade, 93 N. Y. S. 674. Assignments of error in the bill of exceptions. Jones v. Lingo [Ga.] 48 S. E. 190. Grounds of a motion for a new trial not argued. Brice v. Sheffield [Ga.] 48 S. E. 925. Points raised by the motion not urged in the brief or argument. McCullough v. Pritchett [Ga.] 48 S. E. 148. Failure to disclose the ground of objections to the refusal of instructions. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Buzis [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1060. Where no variance between the evidence and declaration is urged and the declaration is not abstracted, the question of variance is waived. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Chiaventone, 214 Ill. 314, 73 N. E. 420. Questions presented by demurrer where appellant fails to point out any objection to the pleading demurred to. United States Board & Paper Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 487. Cross assignments of error objecting to the sufficiency of the complaint. Glenn v. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 861. A finding not specifically attacked in the appellate court will ordinarily be assumed as correct though excepted to in the trial court. Riley v. Allen [Kan.] 81 P. 186. Exception to the allowance of an amendment. Houghton v. Furbush [Mass.] 70 N. E. 49. Errors not presented in the briefs nor oral arguments. Candler v. Washoe Lake Reservoir & G. C. Ditch Co. [Nev.] 80 P. 751. Where the particulars in which the evidence is deemed insufficient to support the findings are not pointed out it will be presumed the decision was justified. Pribble v. Bromley [S. D.] 102 N. W. 298. Errors not pointed out or argued. McKenzie v. Royal Dairy [Wash.] 77 P. 680. When not patently erroneous. Hawkins v. Casey [Wash.] 80 P. 792. Exceptions abandoned upon condition will be treated as waived upon the fulfilment of the condition. Roth v. Adams [Mass.] 70 N. E. 445.

Supreme court of Illinois does not consider matters discussed in appellate court and not in supreme court. Hinchcliff v. Rudnick [Ill.] 72 N. E. 691. Errors not argued in appellate court deemed abandoned on further appeal. Central Union Bldg. Co. v. Kolander [Ill.] 72 N. E. 50. Questions discussed in the appellate court where not discussed in the same way in the supreme court. Hinchcliff v. Rudnick [Ill.] 72 N. E. 691.

86. Gage v. Chicago, 211 Ill. 109, 71 N. E. 877; Michigan Sanitarium & Benevolent Ass'n v. Battle Creek [Mich.] 101 N. W. 855; People v. Cole [Mich.] 102 N. W. 856.

87. Under rule 38 of Court of Civ. Apps. (67 S. W. xvi). Peck v. Peck [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 257; Neal v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 402.

88. Rule 38. Amendment will not be allowed after motion attacking brief for want of conformity to rules has been filed. Neal v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 402; Peck v. Peck [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 257.

89. Referring to the trial court in dis-punished.[90] Statements in the briefs as to matters shown by the record, if not questioned, will be taken as true,[91] but statements of facts not appearing of record should not be made,[92] and appellant should not insert a large number of pages of testimony which he deems favorable to his case.[93] The several counsel in a case in Illinois must unite in a single brief.[94]

Refiling briefs from other courts.[95]—Under the supreme court rule in Indiana certified copies of the briefs and argument used in the appellate court may be filed to show what questions were there raised and affidavits are inadmissible for that purpose.[96]

(§ 11) G. Grounds for dismissing or striking out appeal.[97]—An appeal will be dismissed for want of jurisdiction,[98] want of litigable right,[99] or real controversy,[1] properly saved below,[2] as where the appeal is for delay only,[3] abstract-courteous language. Coats v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 484.

90. Stoll v. Pearl [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1054.

91. Brewer v. Bridges [Ind.] 73 N. E. 811; Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Shelley [Ind.] 71 N. E. 151; Arla Cattle Co. v. Burk [Neb.] 102 N. W. 74.

92. Himrod Coal Co. v. Beckwith, 111 Ill. App. 379.

93. The Fair v. Hoffmann [Ill.] 70 N. E. 622.

94. Rule 15. Thomas v. First Nat. Bank [Ill.] 72 N. E. 801.

95. See 3 C. L. 231.

96. Gunning v. Sorg [Ill.] 73 N. E. 870.

97. See 3 C. L. 232.

98. Where amount involved is less than jurisdictional sum. Sears v. Carpenter [Ind.] 74 N. E. 244; Crum v. North Vernon Pump & L. Co. [Ind.] 72 N. E. 587; Leonard v. Whetstone [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1045; Courtney v. Rigmaiden [La.] 36 So. 704; State v. Board of Assessors [La.] 37 So. 878; Wagner Co. v. Monroe [La.] 37 So. 974; State v. Sewerage & Water Board [La.] 37 So. 878; Williamson v. Payne [Va.] 49 S. E. 660; Chapman v. Haley [Ky.] 80 S. W. 190. So held there being no freehold, franchise or constitutional question involved. Beam v. Harrington [Colo.] 79 P. 1013. Appeal involving less than $50 will be dismissed in superior court. Johnson v. Perry [Ga.] 48 S. E. 686. Suit should not be dismissed, only appeal. Id. The appeal will not be dismissed, where the jurisdiction depends in part upon the amount claimed as damages, unless the claim is clearly fictitious. Tieman v. Johnston [La.] 38 So. 75. And the appellate court will take notice of the fact ex proprio motu. Succession of Fullerton [La.] 38 So. 151.

Appeal from nonappealable order will be dismissed. Thornburg v. Gutridge [Or.] 80 P. 100; Heinze v. Butte & B. Consolidated Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 337; Griswold v. Smith, 214 Ill. 323, 73 N. E. 400; In re Jones [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 226; Toher v. Schaefer, 92 N. Y. S. 795; State v. McKellar [Minn.] 99 N. W. 807; People v. Ann Arbor R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 892; Halvenstadt v. Berger [Neb.] 100 N. W. 934; Reich v. Dyer [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 922. Discretionary orders. Eggen v. Fox [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1054. As to what orders are appealable, see ante, § 4.

Death of party to cause of action not surviving. Cooper v. Murphy [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 664.

Appeal to wrong court. Terry v. Bird [C. C. A.] 129 F. 592. In Pennsylvania, the case being erroneously appealed to the superior court, it will be certified to the supreme court for decision. Neubert v. Armstrong Water Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 608.

Suit for an injunction; appeal dismissed, there being no certificate showing case to come within any excepted class giving the court jurisdiction. Hayden v. Stewart [Kan.] 77 P. 697. Where the original tribunal has no jurisdiction, the appellate tribunal acquires none. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98.

99. Frisch v. Ard [Colo.] 81 P. 247. Gas wells played out. State v. Indianapolis Gas Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 139. Property sold to one who voluntarily removes obstruction complained of. Dunn v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 890. Controversy in summary proceedings determined by cessation of relation of landlord and tenant. Stein v. Kesselgruh, 91 N. Y. S. 64. Cause of action extinguished by affirmance of default. Amorisa v. Rando, 88 N. Y. S. 356. Where the time for issuing the license sought expired. Galvin v. Davidson [Fla.] 37 So. 575; State v. Martin [Fla.] 36 So. 362. Case involving right to an office dismissed where term of office had expired. Jeter v. Gouhenour [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1091; Hamilton v. Ammons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 128; Riggins v. Richards [Tex.] 80 S. W. 524. Dismissal was without prejudice to right to sue for salary. Id. Sale of stock after appeal from refusal of mandamus to inspect corporate books. State v. New Orleans Maritime & Merchants' Exch. [La.] 36 So. 760. Estoppel to deny interest in those brought in as parties by movant. Succession of Carbajal [La.] 36 So. 41.

The expiration of the term of office involved does not work a dismissal of an appeal from a judgment of ouster in quo warranto, respondent being liable for a fine and costs. Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719. Appeal in habeas corpus proceedings will not be dismissed for lack of interest in relator, where it appears that person detained was never insane and that commitment was void. People v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 277.

1. Where there is no contest as to the law or facts and both parties desire affirmance, the case will be dismissed. Davies v. Brooks [Ill.] 72 N. E. 724. Reversal of final decree showing that special appeal was ness of the question involved,[4] for abandonment of the prosecution,[5] or, unless the defect is waived[6] or excusable,[7] for substantial[8] defect in time or manner of pro-without right, latter will be dismissed. Wagonhurst v. Wineland, 24 App. D. C. 6. Appeal from decree enjoining sale will be dismissed, the sale having been made by consent. Baker v. Tappan [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 447. Dismissed where want of equity appeared on face of bill. Florida Pkg. & Ice Co. v. Carney [Fla.] 38 So. 602. Appeal by a public officer in a purely personal action by or against him abates with his resignation. In re Lermond's Estate [Cal.] 76 P. 488. Appeal from a judgment entered pursuant to the directions of the appellate court on a prior appeal will be dismissed on motion. Idaho Comstock Co. v. Lundstrum [Idaho] 76 P. 762; Scheffel v. Scheffel [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 862. Writ of error dismissed, it not appearing that judgment excepted to hurt appellant. First Nat. Bank v. American Sugar Ref. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 326. Writ of error dismissed where a reversal would be of no benefit to appellant. Garlington v. Davison [Ga.] 50 S. E. 667. Dismissed where territory was taken out of bailiwick of officers whose control of it was sought to be controlled by injunction. Montgomery County v. Montgomery Traction Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 208. Dismissed when appeal involved a question of costs only. Lamona v. Odessa State Bank [Wash.] 76 P. 534. Where the basis of the writ of error is an illegal agreement, the writ will be dismissed. Smith v. Bank [Kan.] 76 P. 858. Appeal was dismissed because of compromise, though owing to defective records of one of the parties, a corporation, authorized corporate action was not provable. In re Pettis [La.] 38 So. 590.

Will not be dismissed because all the relief demanded had been given by the trial court, the merits of the controversy being to some extent involved. Multnomah County v. White [Or.] 81 P. 388. The filing of a second suit for identically the same cause of action is no ground for the dismissal of a writ of error previously sued out to a ruling in the first action. Randolph v. Brunswick & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 396.

2. A motion to reverse is essential to appellate review of a decree taken for confessed. Morrison & Co. v. Leach [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 237; Cipher v. Bowen [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 128.

3. A suggestion that the appeal is taken only for delay requires consideration of errors not assigned (Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Hadley & Alvoid [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 932), and in such a case affirmance will be granted only where the absence of error appears from a short and cursory examination of the record (St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll [Ark.] 84 S. W. 475). Where the only errors complained of are an instruction in the exact language of one approved by a former decision and the insufficiency of evidence when it is manifest that the evidence, though conflicting, is sufficient, the appeal will be deemed to have been taken for delay. Id. There being no statement of facts and no fundamental error apparent of record, the appeal is manifestly one for delay and an affirmance with 10% damages will be ordered. Van Wormer v. Vaughan [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 278.

4. Moot cases. Dunn v. State [Ind.] 71 N. E. 890. No judgment could afford any relief. Bradley v. Voorsanger [Cal.] 76 P. 1031. Dismissed where the constitutional question involved was manifestly only pretended. Griveau v. South Chicago City R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 309.

5. Wilcox v. Merrill, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 59; Amorisia v. Rando, 88 N. Y. S. 356. The appeal should be dismissed where the conditions, upon which time to serve a case is extended, are not complied with (Levy v. Fidelity & Deposit Co., 87 N. Y. S. 487), but the failure of appellant to print his abstract and brief while a motion to dismiss is pending does not warrant dismissal (Collins v. Gladiator Consol. Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [S. D.] 103 N. W. 385), nor is an appeal, already taken, abandoned by appellant's causing citation to be recalled and withheld from service until time for taking appeal has elapsed (State v. United States End. & T. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 442).

Undue delay is ground for dismissal: Gaskill v. Miller [N. J. Law] 58 A. 81; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sporer [Neb.] 100 N. W. 813; Hopkins v. Crossley [Mich.] 101 N. W. 822. Failure for 85 days after decision of supreme court that order is appealable. Hopper v. Livingston Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 629. Failure of appellant to pay the register's fee for return within 30 days. Compiled Laws Mich. § 552. Trombley v. Klersy [Mich.] 102 N. W. 736. Delay in settling case. Sherman v. Sherman [Mich.] 102 N. W. 630. Where appellant filed a petition for a writ of error 6 months after the recovery of judgment but did not have citation issued until a year later, and the transcript was not filed in the appellate court until 3 months later, held, such laches as to require a dismissal of the writ. Swilley v. Blount [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 790.

The appeal being dismissed, damages are allowable as for a vexatious appeal. Wilcox v. Merrill, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 59.

6. See post, § 11H.

7. Delay in serving papers is excusable when caused by an accident in printing office (Brief: Hurley v. Kennally [Mo.] 85 S. W. 357), or by failure of the clerk (Langhorne, Johnson & Co. v. Wiley [Ky.] 87 S. W. 266), or stenographer (Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491), to get the transcript out in time, or of the trial court to settle the statement promptly (Castro v. Breidenbach [Cal.] 76 P. 1114), nor will the appeal be dismissed where the papers were mailed in time and delayed in transmission (Record: New York Store Mercantile Co. v. Thurmond [Mo.] 85 S. W. 333), though the contrary has been held where no inquiry was made for 10 days, though there was telephone communication (Statement of facts: Western Union Tel. Co. v. Kuykendall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 61). It is no excuse that party in default is an administratrix. Chipman v. Wells [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 172. Prematurity cedure in bringing up the case,[9] or in filing[10] a proper record[11] assigning error.[12]

In the return day of appeal being due to the fault of judge is not ground for dismissal. Orleans & J. R. Co. v. International Const. Co. [La.] 37 So. 10. The fault is that of the judge though counsel wrote the order. Id.

8. The appeal will not be dismissed for delay which causes no harm. Hillard v. Taylor [La.] 38 So. 594. Delay in filing brief is not ground for dismissal where in any event the appeal cannot be submitted for some time thereafter. (Deaton v. Feazle [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1167), or where the only result of a dismissal would be to put appellant to the cost of a new appeal (Hillard v. Taylor [La.] 38 So. 594). Writ of error will not be dismissed because one of several assignments of error cannot be considered because not taken in time. McCain v. Bonner [Ga.] 51 S. E. 36. In the absence of affirmative evidence that judge signed certificate to bill of exceptions after the statutory time, failure to date such certificate is not ground for dismissal. Proter v. Holmes [Ga.] 50 S. E. 923. An appeal will not be dismissed because not docketed within the prescribed time if it is docketed at the first term after the trial below, and before motion to dismiss. Curtis v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 213. A technical and nonprejudicial variance in the title of the appeal papers is immaterial. Boyles v. State [Wash.] 77 P. 198. That judgment sustaining a demurrer is not made a part of the record is not ground for dismissal, the bill of exceptions reciting that the demurrer was heard and sustained. Flanders v. Daley [Ga.] 48 S. E. 327. The withdrawal of one appellant is not ground for dismissal, it not working prejudice to the other appellants. Appellants were sureties on a bail bond. Boyles v. State [Wash.] 77 P. 198. Appeal by township not quashed for naming of township as appellant instead of supervisors. Marcy v. Springville Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 521.

9. Defects constituting a ground for dismissal. In general: Failure to take appeal within the time allowed by statute. Cooper v. Ryan [Ark.] 83 S. W. 328. Single appeal from several unconsolidated suits. McCosh v. Myers, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 61. An appeal where error only lies. Bessette v. W. B. Conkey Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 165. A writ of error prematurely returnable. Barnett v. Hickson [Fla.] 37 So. 210. Noncompliance with Rev. Codes 1899, § 5630, is ground for dismissal only in appeals taken under that section. Milburn-Stoddard Co. v. Stickney [N. D.] 103. N. W. 752. A writ of error which fails to affirmatively show that exception was taken in due time. Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164. Failure to present assignment of errors at the time of the settlement of the bill of exceptions. Special rule 1 for circuit courts. Selph v. Cobb [Fla.] 38 So. 259. Failure to serve assignments of error with bill of exceptions. Hanselman v. Adrlon [Mich.] 102 N. W. 988. A writ of error improperly giving the date of the judgment below may be dismissed without prejudice to a second writ correcting the error. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 S. Ct. 302.

Bonds. Failure to give and defects therein: Failure to give bond. Foresman v. Board of Com'rs [Idaho] 80 P. 1131. Appeal from order rejecting claim against decedent's estate. Dallam v. Stockwell's Estate [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 911. Failure to include all appellants. Lingle v. Chicago. 210 Ill. 600, 71 N. E. 590. Bond approved for appeal to wrong court. Sanitary Laundry Co. v. People, 212 Ill. 300, 72 N. E. 434. Failure to give additional security requested by appellate court. Brown v. Wagar, 110 Ill. App. 354. Failure to give corrected bond as requested. Kloeckner v. Schafer, 110 Ill. App. 391. So held where second bond was also defective. Wilkes v. W. O. Brown & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 844. Where pauper's oath filed in lieu of the statutory bond is shown to be untrue. Cook v. Burson & Gaines [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 871. In such case, on appeal to county court, appellant cannot complain of action of county court in permitting him to prosecute appeal on condition that he file cost bond by the next term, and in dismissing appeal at such term on his failing to do so. Could dismiss at second as well as at first term. Id.

In Louisiana if an appeal be allowed suspensively and the amount of the bond be fixed, the appeal may stand devolutively if the bond be given, though it be for too little to support a suspensive appeal; but if no sum be fixed and the bond be for too little to suspensively appeal, there must be a dismissal. Pelletier v. State Nat. Bank [La.] 36 So. 592. The supreme court of Louisiana will not dismiss for insufficiency of a suspensive bond not fixed by law nor within the cases prescribed by its code. Code Prac. §§ 575, 576. "Perishable" property within the latter section does not refer to fluctuations in value of stock whereby the value may perish. Hannay v. New Orleans Cotton Exch. [La.] 36 So. 831. An appeal may be sustained as devolutive if the amount of the bond was fixed in the order, though prayed for suspensively. Knoll v. Knoll [La.] 38 So. 523.

Defect of parties: Ground for dismissal. Copland v. Waldron [C. C. A.] 133 F. 217; Wilkinson v. Vordermark [Ind.] 70 N. E. 538; Lingle v. Chicago, 210 Ill. 600, 71 N. E. 590; Risser v. Dungan [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 974; Canaday v. Yager [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 977; Moore v. Ferguson [Ind.] 72 N. E. 126; Daily v. Washington Nat. Bank [Ind.] 72 N. E. 260; Lindebaum v. Coale [Iowa] 99 N. W. 162; Newman v. Gates [Ind.] 72 N. E. 638; Sons of Peace, No. 1 v. Sons & Daughters of Peace [Ga.] 50 S. E. 111. Failure to bring in heirs of landowner on appeal in drainage case. Rich Grove Tp. v. Emmett [Ind.] 72 N. E. 543. Children cannot appeal from a nonsuit in an action for wrongful death where widow is living. Haughey v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 1112. Failure to bring in all creditors on appeal from order distributing assets of insolvent corporation. Bloomingdale v. Watson [C. C. A.] 128 F. 268. Want of revivor against representatives of party deceased before appeal. Ropes v. McCabe [Fla.] 36 So. 715. Failure to make personal representatives of a decedent parties to a writ of error to review a judgment against such decedent. Smith v. Stillwell [Ariz.] 80 P. 333.

Prematurity: No final judgment. Delaware County Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74; Wright & Valley v. Creamery Package Co. [Vt.] 58 A. 803; Jabine v. Sparks [C. C. A.] 131 F. 440; Bussell v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1126; Vaughn v. Milner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 287; Jumeau v. Camp [Fla.] 37 So. 522; Haag v. Elizabeth, P. & C. J. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 515; Wenom v. Fossick, 213 Ill. 70, 72 N. E. 732; Livingston County B. & L. Ass'n v. Keach, 213 Ill. 59, 72 N. E. 769; Goldie v. Stewart [Neb.] 99 N. W. 255; Leggett v. Detroit [Mich.] 100 N. W. 566; Penniman v. Miners' & Merchants' Bank [Md.] 59 A. 757; Smith v. Ely, 92 N. Y. S. 310; Hallagan v. Tanner [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 556; Crossin v. Beebe [Mass.] 72 N. E. 65; Robertson v. Montgomery Base Ball Ass'n [Ala.] 37 So. 241. Appeal by executor from decree ordering him to make return of sale, etc. Walker's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 256. Order for judgment on payment of jury fee and appeal taken before fee paid. Wolff v. Wilson, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 266. Appeal taken before exceptions filed to decision of a case tried by court without a jury. Miller v. Cambria County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 591. Appeal by one defendant before judgment becomes final as to both. McVey v. Barker, 92 Mo. App. 499.

Want of a notice of appeal constitutes a ground for dismissal (Davis v. Tacoma Ry. & Power Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 209), the appeal not being taken in open court (Lanzilli v. Morisi, 23 App. D. C. 451). An appeal may be dismissed as to an appellee not served. Rice v. Bolton [Iowa] 100 N. W. 634. Failure to bring in appellee who has not entered appearance in vacation appeal. Court of App. Rule 35. Moore v. Banker's Surety Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 607. Failure to serve notice on principal defendant in mechanic's lien case. Beach v. Wakefield [Iowa] 100 N. W. 338.

Defects not constituting ground for dismissal. In general: Failure to file a motion for a new trial is not ground for dismissal. State v. Shrader [Neb.] 103 N. W. 276. An appeal will not be dismissed, if the entry thereof sufficiently indicates that the first day of the next succeeding term is the return day. As where the entry stated that the appeal was taken "to the January term A. D., 1905, of the supreme court." Swain v. London & L. Fire Ins. Co. [Fla.] 38 So. 3.

Bonds. Failure to give or defects therein: If failure to give bond happens through mistake or accident or is excusable in any view of the matter, it is proper for the trial or appellate court to allow the omission to be cured. Rev. St. 1898, § 3068. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. If the giving of an undertaking is not jurisdictional but depends on an order of the trial court, failure to give bond in the absence of such order is not ground for dismissal. Appeal from an order of the board of county commissioners under Rev. St. 1887, § 1777, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 248. Great Northern R. Co. v. Kootenai County [Idaho] 78 P. 1078; Kootenai Val. R. Co. v. Kootenai County [Idaho] 78 P. 1080. The appeal should not be dismissed for mere irregularities in the bond, curable by amendment. Name of one appearing on its face as acknowledging himself bound as security was not signed thereto. McDurmid v. Judge [Ga.] 49 S. E. 800. Objection that bond does not conform to rules and only binds appellant for the judgment of the court of appeals is not fatal. La Conner-Trading & Transportation Co. v. Widmer [C. C. A.] 136 F. 177.

Irregularities in citation: The mere failure to have citation returned within twenty days and an alias issued, if for some reason the original cannot be served on the appellee, is not an irregularity for which the appeal will be dismissed. Raub v. Hurt, 24 App. D. C. 211.

10. Failure to file transcript: Warren v. McGowan [Cal.] 77 P. 909; Ellis v. Moon [Wash.] 78 P. 677; Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Miller [La.] 38 So. 19; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 86 S. W. 682. So held where transcript was not filed until two years after rendition of judgment. Berends v. Bellevue Water & Fuel Gas Light Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 970.

Bill of exceptions: Where there was no entry on bill showing that it was so filed and plaintiff in error failed in mandamus proceedings to require clerk to make such entry (Cooper v. Lazarus [Ga.] 47 S. E. 500), or a duly authenticated copy of the judgment appealed from (Bowling v. Chambers [Colo. App.] 77 P. 16) within the time required by law, is ground for dismissal, as is failure to file abstracts and briefs in conformity with the rules of the court (Smith v. Stilwell [Ariz.] 80 P. 333). Failure to file 5 copies of printed abstract. Baubletts v. Krug Park Amusement Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1179. Where previous motion to dismiss for failure to file briefs had been denied and cause was reset and continued to enable appellant to comply with rules "in respect to the serving of the abstracts, briefs, etc." Ritchie v. Ferrell [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1097. If, on appeal to the superior court from the action of the county commissioners in altering a public road, appellant finds that the papers or transcript have not been sent up, and that the case has not been docketed, it is his duty at once to move for the necessary writ or process to perfect his appeal, and, on his failure to do so, the court may, upon the papers being filed and the case docketed, dismiss the appeal. Blair v. Coakley [N. C.] 48 S. E. 804.

Substantial compliance with such laws or rules is all that is required; hence failure to present bill of exceptions within prescribed time is immaterial, appellee having had a reasonable time to examine it before it was presented to the court for signature (Iowa Gold Min. Co. v. Diefenthaler [Colo.] 76 P. 981); nor is the failure to file a schedule within ninety days after the granting of the appeal ground for dismissal, appellant having filed a transcript of the entire record. Schedule required by Civ. Code Prac. § 737, subsec. 4a (Harrigan v. Advance Thresher Co. [Ky.] 80 S. W. 205). Delay in filing papers is not ground for dismissal where it is caused by appellee (Richey v.

Ferrell [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1183), or where it is not directly due to the fault of appellant's attorney and has not caused respondent expense or embarrassment (Dean v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 842). Tardiness in bringing up the transcript will not be regarded as acquiesced in when appellant was not cited. Chambliss v. Wood [Miss.] 36 So. 246.

11. An appeal will be dismissed where the record fails to show the essential facts necessary to give the appellate court jurisdiction. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Jordan [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 1105. Indefiniteness and uncertainty will not cause dismissal where it would result in great injury to appellant. Midler v. Lese, 91 N. Y. S. 148. The appeal will be dismissed on motion before the case comes up on the merits in its original order where the record is so imperfect that no other disposition could be made of it at that time. Lanzilli v. Morisi, 23 App. D. C. 451.

Defects in transcript or paper book: Failure to set forth names of parties, nature of proceedings, short abstract of bill, and testimony on which auditor's findings are based. O'Donnell v. Clements, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 447. No statement of question involved as required by rule 17. Roush's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 652; Denvers v. Sollenberger, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 64. Nothing in record to connect appellant with case. Delaware County Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74. Exceptions not printed totidem verbis. Moore v. Bischoff, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 1. Failure to follow rule 27 regarding arrangement of matters in paper book. Id. Appeal from the landlord and tenant act of 1863, the record of the justice's proceedings not being printed in appellant's paper book. Cunningham v. Everett, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 469. Signature of trial judge pasted on record instead of record itself being signed. Yost v. Clark, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 144. Paper book in which statement of question involved is two pages in length. Rule 26. H——— v. T——— [Pa.] 57 A. 562. Failure to show judgment. Wabash R. Co. v. Baskerville, 111 Ill. App. 9; Rones v. Lansing [Fla.] 38 So. 177; J. T. Gabbart v. Bauer [Miss.] 38 So. 548. Verdict and judgment. Esler v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 113. Judgment and bill of exceptions. Sherman v. Butcher [N. J. Law] 58 A. 115. Recital of a judgment in the notice of appeal will not supply the lack of it from the record. Smith v. Ely, 92 N. Y. S. 310. No certificate of judgment roll and many improper and irrelevant proceedings incorporated. Goodhue v. Bohen [Wis.] 99 N. W. 216. Transcript not certified. Hiser v. Baker, 115 Ill. App. 12. Certification of transcript insufficient. Paris & G. N. R. Co. v. Armstrong [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 28. Where it failed to state that it contained a copy of all the proceedings in the case. Id. Record on appeal from order not containing all motion papers. Hunter v. Campbell, 92 N. Y. S. 311. No index or marginal notes. Whinrey v. Starr [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 32. In such a case it is optional with the court to dismiss the action, or to postpone its consideration and refer the record to the clerk for the purpose of having it put in the prescribed shape, appellant to pay the costs and an allowance of $5 to the clerk. N. C. Supreme Court rule 20. Sigman v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 420.

Assignments of error: Appeal will be dismissed if assignment of errors does not contain the names of all the parties (Nordyke & M. Co. v. Fitzpatrick [Ind.] 71 N. E. 46; Presbyterian Church of Remington v. Dyke [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 503), or if it does not give their names in full (Daliam v. Stockwill's Estate [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 911). Appeal dismissed, assignment of error not being signed by appellent or his attorney. Kinkade v. Gibson [Ill.] 70 N. E. 683. Where parties against whom no relief is sought were made appellees instead of appellants. Smith v. Peters [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1103.

Bill of exceptions: Writ of error will not be dismissed because the bill of exceptions does not expressly state that no evidence was introduced before the trial judge on the questions brought up for review, where that fact clearly appears. Jarrett v. City Elec. R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 927. Where plaintiff seeks to review the ruling in two separate cases by a single bill of exceptions, though they were tried together, the writ of error will be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Valdosta Guana Co. v. Hart [Ga.] 47 S. E. 212. It is not ground of dismissal that there are two writs of error, when the proceedings are such that two distinct cases are disposed of in the trial court. Martin v. Nichols [Ga.] 49 S. E. 613. A writ of error will not be dismissed because the bill of exceptions fails to specify all the material parts of the record, or for failing to file exceptions pendente lite at a proper time. Atlanta Suburban Land Corp. v. Austin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124. Deficiency in marginal notes to bill of exceptions held not fatal. Vinall v. Hendricks [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 682.

Where it appears that no bill of exceptions was allowed and without such bill there is nothing to review, the cause will be dismissed. J. V. Cantlin & Co. v. Miller & Chapman [Wyo.] 78 P. 295. Where there was no bill of exceptions and stenographer's notes were not approved, held ground for dismissal. Kershner v. Kemmerling, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 181.

Defects in abstract. Grounds for dismissal: Failure of abstract to contain an allegation of due service of notice of appeal. In re Long's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 501. Failure to show appealable judgment. Martin v. Martin [Iowa] 99 N. W. 719. Lack of an index. Manuel v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 551. Where the rule as to abstracting the record has not been rigidly enforced for several years, the court will not affirm, notwithstanding error for failure to abstract. Neal v. Brandon & Baugh [Ark.] 85 S. W. 776.

Failure to brief evidence is not ground for dismissing the bill of exceptions, but leaves the case for any disposition which may be properly made without regard to the evidence. Armand v. Lehman [Ga.] 47 S. E. 949.

Failure of record to contain all the evidence: Delaware County Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 74. Appeal dismissed where the case made did not show that all the evidence introduced was contained

Failure to file briefs[13] within the time specified[14] may lead to dismissal,[15] affirmance,[16] or continuance,[17] at appellee's option. Substantial compliance with the statute or rule is all that is generally required,[18] nonprejudicial[19] or excusable[20] delay not being fatal. Appellee's failure to file a brief does not necessarily lead to reversal.[21] Defects not attributable to appellant are not ground for dismissal.[22] Correction of a nonjurisdictional defect before motion for dismissal cures the error,[23] and where the statute is recent and the practice not well settled, the court in the absence of objection will waive the error and look into the merits.[24] In therein. McCormick v. Fromme [Kan.] 77 P. 89. The writ of error will be dismissed where the question made by the assignment of error necessarily involves a consideration of evidence not properly brought up. Eubank v. Eastman [Ga.] 48 S. E. 426. That the transcript does not contain a paper which was part of the record, evidence of the respondent is not ground for dismissal. A certified copy should have been furnished by the party introducing it. Coey v. Cleghorn [Idaho] 77 P. 331.

Failure to bring to the reviewing court exhibits not introduced in evidence nor kept with the files of the case as exhibits is not ground for dismissal. Gehres v. Wallace [Wash.] 80 P. 273.

12. Failure to assign errors is ground for dismissal (Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 128 F. 279), as is the failure to set forth exceptions and rulings thereon (O'Donnell v. Clements, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 447). A statement in the bill of exceptions that "plaintiff excepts to said verdict and judgment as being contrary to law is ineffectual. Newberry v. Tenant [Ga.] 49 S. E. 621. Assignments of error being ineffectual to present any question except their own sufficiency, the appeal will be dismissed. Spitzer v. Miller [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833. Embodying several matters. Moore v. Bischoff, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 1. On an appeal from the judgment a motion to dismiss on the ground that the statement in the motion for the new trial did not contain a specification of errors is properly denied. Bond v. Hurd [Mont.] 78 P. 579.

13. Miller v. Collier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 925; Union Casualty & Surety Co. v. Hickey, 112 Ill. App. 363; Henion v. Pohl, 113 Ill. App. 100; Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Hagler [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 692; N. Nigro & Co. v. Hodges [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1169. Failure to present so much of record as is essential to review exceptions. Rule 22. Todd v. Cage [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 925; Chicago Terminal Trf. Co. v. Walton [Ind.] 72 N. E. 646. It is not the duty of the court to search the record. A judgment is presumptively correct, and in the absence of a brief in support of the petition in error the appellate court will dismiss the appeal. Le Breton v. Swartzel [Okl.] 78 P. 323.

14. Stallard v. Hagar [Okl.] 78 P. 323; Le Breton v. Swartzel [Okl.] 78 P. 323; Coats v. Coats [Cal.] 80 P. 694; Wade v. Percival [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 679. Where less than twenty days elapsed between the time of filing of appellant's brief and notice thereof to appellee, and the submission of the case, appellee not having filed a brief, it was held that appellant's delay had been prejudicial to appellee, and the appeal was dismissed. Dodd v. Presley [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 811.

15. See cases in two preceding notes.

16. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180. Appellant failed to file brief as required by Rule 42 of court of appeals; judgment affirmed without examination of record further than to see that appellee's brief showed affirmation proper. Schulz v. Ruedrich [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 324.

17. Failure to serve in time is ground for putting case over term. In re Haase, 91 N. Y. S. 373.

18. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180.

19. A few hours' delay will not necessitate affirmance. Buehner v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 345. Where a brief was filed one month after the appeal was perfected but not served until three days later, the delay in filing and serving was held too insignificant to be ground for affirmance. Wood v. Fisk [Or.] 77 P. 128.

20. Motion to dismiss appeal denied where failure to serve appellant's brief and abstract 20 days before cause was docketed was caused by attorney's inadvertent miscalculation of time. Baker v. Independence [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 501. Appeal dismissed where appellant failed to file a brief in the trial court twenty days before the day set for submission of the cause, and did not offer any excuse for the delay. Booher v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 385.

21. Hanrahan v. Knickerbocker [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1137.

22. Omission of that which it was an officer's duty to supply. Simonton v. Mitchel [La.] 37 So. 877. Defective citation issued by court. Succession of Henry [La.] 37 So. 756. On appeal from county commissioners to the district court, the appeal bond, requiring approval by the county clerk, was approved by him as "clerk of the district court." Hitchcock County v. Brown [Neb.] 102 N. W. 456.

23. Transcript filed after time prescribed but before motion to dismiss is made. The Kawailani [C. C. A.] 128 F. 879. Defective bonds cured by the filing of proper undertakings before motions to dismiss were heard. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. Where counsel for respondents having knowledge of defects in an appeal failed to object in season and counsel for appellants promptly cured the defects when noted, the court permitted the appeals to stand, denying motions to dismiss without terms except that appellants were required to submit the appeals on the merits in their order. Id.

certain states the appeal will not be dismissed if within a specified time after the hearing of the motion the appellant moves for its correction;[25] but in all such cases the merits are examined, and unless appellant has good grounds of appeal the dismissal is absolute.[26] All questions essential to a decision must be certified.[27] A motion to dismiss a writ of error will not lie on the ground that no motion for a new trial was made,[28] and on appeal on the judgment roll the question whether it presents reversible error is to be considered on the merits and not on a motion to dismiss.[29] An appeal from a judgment alone will not be dismissed because a former appeal in the same action was dismissed, where it does not appear from what the former appeal was taken.[30] The circuit court of appeals will not dismiss an appeal on motion of the appellant and remand the case with directions to permit the amendment of a pleading on a showing that facts were inadvertently omitted therefrom which was not known to appellant until after the appeal was taken.[31] The dismissal of an appeal removes the case from the appellate court and places the parties in the same condition as they were before the appeal was taken, no directions as to further proceedings below being proper.[32] Where it appears aliunde the record that the judgment appealed from is void for want of jurisdiction, the better practice is to dismiss the appeal and remit the parties to a motion in the court below to rid themselves if need be of the void judgment in that court.[33] Where an appeal from an order is dismissed, it is conclusive on all questions raised thereunder.[34] Pro forma affirmance is sometimes ordered instead on the same grounds.[35] In order to confer jurisdiction and authorize affirmance on 24. Esler v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J.] 58 A. 113; Boughton v. Boughton [Conn.] 58 A. 226.

25. Thirty days allowed. Goodhue v. Bohen [Wis.] 99 N. W. 216.

26. Milwaukee Trust Co. v. Sherwin [Wis.] 99 N. W. 229.

27. Where a question certified cannot be correctly answered either in the affirmative or negative and the court cannot determine without deciding questions not certified whether the judgment should be affirmed or reversed, the appeal will be dismissed. Malone v. Sts. Peter & Paul's Church, Brooklyn, 172 N. Y. 269, 64 N. E. 961.

28. The supreme court will examine the record in such a case to see whether the pleadings sustain the judgment. Eccles v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 942.

29. Collins v. Gladiator Consol. Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [S. D.] 103 N. W. 385.

30. Collins v. Gladiator Consol. Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [S. D.] 103 N. W. 385.

31. Strand v. Griffith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 739.

32. In re Silverman's Estate [Wis.] 102 N. W. 891.

33. Disqualification of judge. Elmira Realty Co. v. Gibson, 92 N. Y. S. 913.

34. Muckenfuss v. Fishburns [S. C.] 46 S. E. 537.

35. Failure to file abstract of transcript in accordance with the rules of court. Ross v. Frick Co. [Ark.] 83 S. W. 343. Failure to file certificate of judgment within required time. Smith v. Flick [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. In appeals from justice courts, if appellant fails to docket his appeal in time, the appellee may docket the case, and, upon motion, have the case affirmed, and recover the costs of the appeal. Acts 1899, p. 423, c. 443. Blair v. Coakley [N. C.] 48 S. E. 804. An affirmance of a judgment refusing a new trial results, where there is no approved brief of the evidence, and none of the assignments of error can be decided without reference to the evidence. Milton v. Savannah [Ga.] 48 S. E. 684. Motion to affirm on ground that question involved was manifestly frivolous and that appeal was taken for purposes of delay only (Rule 15, § 2) granted. Raub v. Hurt, 24 App. D. C. 211. Where jurisdiction of the supreme court depends solely on a constitutional question involved and the judgment of the trial court can be affirmed without passing on it, it will be so declared, though the determination withdraws the case from its jurisdiction and constitutes an adjudication on the merits. Gregg v. Board of Com'rs of Lake County [Colo.] 76 P. 376. Failure of appellant to file briefs is ground for affirmance in Indiana. Rule 22, 27 N. E. vi. Johnson v. Sherwood [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 180), but where some attempt has been made to comply with the rule, the court will review the case, though the rule has not in all respects been strictly complied with (Id.). An abandonment of argument by counsel for plaintiff in error necessitates affirmance. Edwards v. Mason [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 458. Insufficient abstract of record. A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co. v. Corn Belt Nat. B. & L. Ass'n. [Ill.] 71 N. E. 339; Good v. Bank of Edwardsville [Ill.] 70 N. E. 583. Brief not conforming to rules. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. McCormick [Iowa] 103 N. W. 204. Excusable delay of appellant in filing his brief will not necessitate affirmance. A few hours. Beuhner v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co. [Iowa] certificate for nonprosecution of the appeal, the certificate of the clerk must contain or be accompanied by a copy of the judgment, as well as a copy of the appeal bond, if one has been given.[36] In such cases the judgment of affirmance is generally held to be equivalent to a dismissal[37] and vice versa.[38]

(§ 11) H. Raising and waiver of defects.[39]—An appeal does not abate ipso facto on failure to file transcript in time but continues till dismissal is ordered.[40] Defects are ordinarily raised by motion in the appellate court[41] to dismiss or affirm,[42] after it has acquired jurisdiction,[43] which motion should as in other cases be made specifically[44] on notice.[45] Affidavits aliunde the record are not usually allowable,[46] though the court may, in investigating its own jurisdiction, examine a transcript not a part of that originally set up.[47] Nonjurisdictional[48] defects,[49] but not jurisdictional ones,[50] are amendable[51] and are waived by delay in object-

100 N. W. 345. Filing abstract not conforming to rule. Olson v. Lund [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1128.

36. Supreme Council A. L. H. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 207.

37. Where on appeal from justice court appellee dockets the case, the judgment of affirmance is equivalent to a dismissal of the action, and the appellate court is not required to look into the record for the purpose of passing upon the merits of the exceptions. Blair v. Coakley [N. C.] 48 S. E. 804.

38. In Montana, by statute, the dismissal of an appeal effects an affirmance unless expressly made without prejudice. Code Civ. Proc. § 1741. McIntosh Hardware Co. v. Flathead County [Mont.] 80 P. 239.

39. See 3 C. L. 238.

40. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 86 S. W. 682.

41. After return filed, an appeal can only be dismissed in accordance with the rules and practice of the supreme court. Jordan v. Wilson [S. C.] 48 S. E. 37. Motion to dismiss must be filed within three days after filing transcript. Saxon v. Southwestern Brick & Tile Mfg. Co. [La.] 37 So. 540.

42. A single justice in Massachusetts has power to determine a motion to dismiss a creditor's appeal from a probate decree allowing a guardian's final account. Leyland v. Leyland [Mass.] 71 N. E. 794.

43. A motion to affirm on the ground that the appeal is for delay cannot be heard without docketing the case. Hamilton v. Kentucky Title Co. [Ky.] 79 S. W. 1182.

44. Motion based on incompleteness of record must show what was omitted and that it was pertinent. Succession of Theriot [La.] 38 So. 471. It must specify wherein the appeal bond "is not such as the law requires." Id.

45. Seibert v. Grief [Ky.] 86 S. W. 970. By opposing motion, appellant waives right to object to insufficiency of notice. Bruce v. Myers [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 710.

46. Change of ownership in the subject-matter after appeal cannot be shown by affidavit in the appellate court. Gordon v. Sorg, 113 Ill. App. 522. A motion to dismiss a writ of error as to certain appellants, who appeared and filed briefs in the appellate court, on the ground of want of interest, and based on ex parte affidavits in conflict with the record, will be denied. King v. Summerville [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1050.

47. Hannay v. New Orleans Cotton Exch. [La.] 36 So. 831.

48. Appellee may waive for failure to file the transcript in time. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 86 S. W. 682. An objection that an appeal is premature, by claim of appeal and filing of bond prior to the settlement of the case, may be waived by the appellee's neglect to take steps for dismissal. Sherman v. Sherman [Mich.] 102 N. W. 630. The joinder in error of an appellee is a waiver of the failure of appellant to file an appeal bond but not of the jurisdiction of the court. Canaday v. Yager [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 977.

49. An attempt under Code Civ. Proc. § 954, to cure the defect of failure to file an appeal bond held not to estop appellee to insist on dismissal. Wadleigh v. Phelps [Cal.] 81 P. 418.

50. The appellate court's jurisdiction may be questioned at any time. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. of Texas v. Hall [Tex.] 85 S. W. 786.

Appellee cannot waive, or estop himself to urge, the insufficiency of an affidavit for appeal. Arkansas & O. R. Co. v. Powell [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 336. Writ cannot even be amended if returned too early. Barnett v. Hickson [Fla.] 37 So. 210.

51. The appellate court having jurisdiction, it may allow defects in the appeal to be cured within the time allowed by statute. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. Where an appeal bond is filed but not served, the appellate court has jurisdiction to hear the appeal without the defect being cured, no seasonable objection having been made, and there being no other defect in the appeal. Id. The statute of jeofailes of Ohio is applicable to proceedings in error and a petition may be amended in matters of form as any other pleading. Failure to subscribe. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Bailey [Ohio] 70 N. E. 900. After a proper service of a notice of appeal, the appellate court may permit the correction of mistakes in taking the appeal. Oconto Land Co. v. Mosling [Wis.] 100 N. W. 824. Amendments in appellate procedure are allowed in Wisconsin but only in furtherance of justice and on such terms as will protect the opposite party. Milwaukee Trust Co. v. Sherman [Wis.] 99 N. W. 229.

ing,[52] or by proceeding in the case without objection.[53] Jurisdictional defects are fatal irrespective of the manner in which they are called to the court's attention,[54] and the court will sua sponte notice its want of jurisdiction.[55] Where an extensive examination of the record is involved, the decision of the motion is usually reserved until hearing of the merits.[56] Appellants are generally entitled to dismiss as of course at any time before hearing upon payment of the costs.[57]

§ 12. Hearing.[58]

§ 13. Review. A. Mode of review; review proper or trial de novo.[59]—Judgments at law[60] and judgments or orders brought up on error or like proceedings[61] are reviewed for matter of law only[62] as found in the record and bill of excep-

52. Motion to dismiss plea of abatement, not filed in time. Alling v. Weissman [Conn.] 59 A. 419. A motion to dismiss a petition in error for failure to file a motion for new trial in the lower court is a waiver of objections to the sufficiency of the summons in error. State v. Shrader [Neb.] 103 N. W. 276. A motion to dismiss because of insufficiency of the bond must be made within three days from the filing of the appeal in the supreme court. In re Lindner [La.] 37 So. 720.

53. An irregular writ may be sustained when no objection is made till too late to sue out new ones. Waters Pierce Oil Co. v. Van Elderen [C. C. A.] 137 F. 557. Where parties are permitted to change their position and become plaintiffs in error, defendant in error by joining in error waives the suing out of a new writ by them. Brown v. Keegan [Colo.] 76 P. 1056. An objection that no notice of the filing of the schedule for the partial transcript was served cannot be made for the first time in the brief, the case having been submitted without objection. Particularly where schedule filed distinctly sets out parts of record to be omitted from transcript, and it is apparent that such parts have no bearing on questions relied on for a reversal. Phillips v. Phillips' Adm'r [Ky.] 80 S. W. 826. Motion to dismiss will not lie when appellee has fixed the case for trial. Saxon v. Southwestern Brick & Tile Mfg. Co. [La.] 37 So. 540. Not because transcript was returned after an improper extension to which no objection was made at the time. Hillard v. Taylor [La.] 38 So. 594. Where respondent after settlement of bill of exceptions stipulates for its use by the clerk in preparing the transcript, he waives the objection that the bill was not settled in time. Berz v. Mecartney, 115 Ill. App. 66. Irregularity in notifying defendants of any of the proceedings held waived. Hirsh v. Fisher [Mich.] 101 N. W. 48. Filing of brief addressed solely to the merits waives objections to the notice of the writ of error. Igo v. Bradford [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 618.

54. Martin v. Martin [Iowa] 99 N. W. 719.

55. Netter v. Reggio [La.] 37 So. 620. Record not showing jurisdiction, the court will dismiss of its own motion. Zinkeisen v. Lewis [Kan.] 80 P. 44. The court of its own motion may dismiss appeal from nonappealable order. Thornburg v. Gutridge [Or.] 80 P. 100.

56. Disposition of a motion to dismiss an appeal in advance of final hearing will be postponed until final hearing where as extensive an examination as on final hearing is required and incidentally substantial rights of the parties may be settled. Farmers' Union Ditch Co. v. Rio Grande Canal Co. [Colo.] 76 P. 366. The transcript will not be examined on a motion to dismiss the appeal. Wolf v. Board of Sup'rs of Santa Clara County [Cal.] 76 P. 1108. The merits of a motion for relief from default in not moving for a new trial within the statutory period cannot be determined on a motion to dismiss the appeal from an order denying such motion. Steen v. Santa Clara Val. Mill & Lumber Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 171.

57. An appellant from a municipal court judgment cannot, by conceding that it cannot prevail, procure a dismissal or withdrawal of the appeal without costs against the objection of respondent, nor can the court in its discretion permit such dismissal. In such case the judgment must be affirmed with full statutory costs. Mallery v. Interurban St. Ry. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 60.

58, 59. See 3 C. L. 240.

60. Rulings on evidence are not ordinarily reached by appeal from eminent domain proceedings unless they caused substantial error. Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell [Mich.] 103 N. W. 856.

61. One complaining of the rulings and charges of the court by direct exception stakes his right to a reversal upon strictly legal grounds. Little v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 953.

62. An action at law for the recovery of money only, tried since the taking effect of the act of 1903, ch. 201, p. 277, cannot be tried de novo on appeal. Barnum v. Gorham Land Co. [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1079. The only questions that can properly be considered on a reservation are such as pertain to the proper disposition of the cause on the issues formed by the pleadings, and such facts as may be ascertained by agreement, or determined by a finding or verdict. Bronson v. Thompson [Conn.] 58 A. 692. The appeal from the district court to the supreme court in New Jersey under the act of 1902 is limited in its scope to questions of law only. The supreme court will not reverse a judgment of the district court that is based upon its conclusion upon a mixed question of law and fact, if the conclusion is legally inferable from the facts proven. Burr v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 609. On error to a judgment entered on findings of fact, the court is bound by the findings. Hoffman v. Silverthorn [Mich.] 100 N. W. 183. An assignment based on a tions.[63] Equitable decrees and orders are usually reviewed de novo,[64] appeal not reaching errors of law.[65] On error from a court trial in the district court in Alaska, rulings on evidence will be examined though the waiver of a jury was not in writing filed but was verbal in open court.[66] In some special proceedings[67] and on appeal from inferior courts,[68] it is provided in many jurisdictions that a trial de novo be had. Subject to limitation of the issues as originally made, the rules of pleading and practice are as in ordinary actions when appeal results in a formal retrial by a court of general superior jurisdiction,[69] and the burden of proof general exception to findings which cover both conclusions of law and of fact presents no question for review. Leaver v. Kilmer [N. J. Err. & App.] 59 A. 643. The sole object of the bill of exceptions covering proceedings before a justice of the peace is to provide for a review of questions of law. Squires v. Martin, Adm'r, 24 Ohio C. C. 232, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 313; Kenova Loan & Trust Co. v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 717. On petition for review in bankruptcy, only questions of law are considered. See, ante, § 2, as to the revisory functions of the several remedies.

63. See ante, § 9.

64. Appeal in chancery opens the whole case. Parken v. Safford [Fla.] 37 So. 567; Chaslavka v. Mechalek [Iowa] 99 N. W. 154; Hartung v. Oldfield [Iowa] 99 N. W. 699; Nandain v. Fullenwider [Neb.] 100 N. W. 296; Farrel v. Bouck [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1018; Jennings v. Wyzanski [Mass.] 74 N. E. 347. Decree will be reviewed on basis of facts admitted by pleadings and which should have been found on evidence. Id. Where a decree dismissing a bill is general, all defenses pleaded are open to defendant on appeal although only one may have been sustained by the trial court in its opinion. American Tube Works v. Bridgewater Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 16. Under direct provision of B. & C. Comp. §§ 406, 555, an equity appeal is tried de novo and final decree rendered without reference to findings or conclusions of the trial court. Powers v. Powers [Or.] 80 P. 1058. A cause tried below as one at law cannot be tried on appeal as one in equity. Ayotte v. Nadeau [Mont.] 81 P. 145.

A law case which might have presented equitable features will be regarded as in equity if it was so tried below since the parties cannot disavow the theory adopted by them. See Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368.

Divorce is triable de novo. Kane v. Kane [Wash.] 77 P. 842. Partition is triable de novo. James v. James [Wash.] 77 P. 1080.

65. Appeal will not reach erroneous rulings in admitting or rejecting evidence. Kennell v. Randall [Neb.] 103 N. W. 677.

66. The Alaska Civil Code (31 Stat. 363, c. 19) and not the practice in circuit courts applies. Shields v. Mongollon Expl. Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 539.

67. On appeal from the commissioners' court to the circuit by a taxpayer whose assessment was raised, the circuit may further raise it. Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. Co. v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 433. In Colorado the jurisdiction of the district court on an appeal from the board of county commissioners relative to an assessment is appellate and is governed by the terms of the statute giving the appeal. Board of Com'rs of Arapahoe County v. Denver Union Water Co. [Colo.] 76 P. 1060. In Pennsylvania an appeal from a report of county auditors reopens the whole case. Horning's Case, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 282. On appeal from the decision of the district court in a contested election, the entire record should be brought up, and it will be considered de novo. Griffith v. Bonawitz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 327.

68. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1761, a district court tries appeals from the justice court anew and in such case sits as a justice and either party may have reviewed any question raised before the justice and presented to the district court. State v. Justice Court of Tp. No. 1, Gallatin County [Mont.] 78 P. 498. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 34, c. 30, § 1, providing that proceedings before a police judge shall be reviewable in the superior court "by appeal" gives a right of trial de novo. City of Spokane v. Smith [Wash.] 79 P. 1125. An appeal from probate court to the common pleas operates to vacate the probate court's decree and requires a retrial on the merits. Fitts v. Probate Court of East Greenwich [R. I.] 58 A. 801. Appeals from probate courts are usually de novo, and questions may be raised not raised and passed upon in the probate court. Reed v. Whipple [Mich.] 103 N. W. 548. An appeal lies from an inquest taken without jurisdiction and brings up the entire proceedings for review. Horowitz v. Decker, 88 N. Y. S. 217. Where defendant in municipal court offers no evidence, but relies on its motions to strike out the evidence on a material issue and to dismiss, the court on appeal cannot receive evidence to supply omitted proof. Mandelbaum v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 377. See, also, Justices of the Peace, 4 C. L. 372.

69. See Pleading, 4 C. L. 980, and other practice topics. This is the sort of review that commonly follows appeals from inferior tribunals such as "county" courts, justices, etc. The superior court has, on appeal to it from an inferior court, only the power and jurisdiction in the case possessed by the inferior court. Cannot try title to land on appeal from ordinary. Mulherin v. Kennedy [Ga.] 48 S. E. 437. Pleas in abatement cannot be filed unless delay is excused. Adams & Johnson v. Branan [Ga.] 48 S. E. 128: Witt v. Willis [Ky.] 85 S. W. 223. Under Sess. Laws 1889, p. 24, providing for an appeal to the district court from a decision of the county commissioners in reviewing an assessment, the case as made by the pe-usually abides where it was.[70] On such a retrial, an issue of fact not pertinent to the original proceeding but within the ordinary jurisdiction of the reviewing court and necessarily determinative of the rights of the parties may, it seems, be decided when tried below without objection.[71]

(§ 13) B. General scope and objects of review.[72]—Unnecessary points[73] or abstract questions will not be decided, nor any futile review be made.[74] Accordingly errors which may not arise or may be cured on a retrial,[75] questions eliminated by a settlement or change of facts or by other collateral matter,[76] or cured[77] tition before the commissioners cannot be altered by complaint filed in the district court. Board of Com'rs of Arapahoe County v. Denver Union Water Co. [Colo.] 76 P. 1060.

70. On appeal from establishment of highway, petitioner must prove necessity and remonstrators their damages. Heath v. Sheetz [Ind.] 74 N. E. 505.

71. Where the clerk in a boundary proceeding under the North Carolina Act exceeded his jurisdiction by trying title but no objection was made, an appeal will enable the superior court to try the fact of title. Smith v. Johnson [N. C.] 49 S. E. 62.

72. See 3 C. L. 241.

73. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 103 N. W. 460; W. L. Watkins & Co. v. Guthrie & Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 370. Where the evidence requires the verdict, errors in instructions are immaterial. Creary v. Wefel [C. C. A.] 135 F. 304. Where the exception to the conclusions of law presents the same questions as those arising on demurrers to the complaint, a determination of the sufficiency of the complaint is unnecessary. Ross v. Van Natta [Ind.] 74 N. E. 10. Questions argued may be decided where effective to avoid further litigation though their decision is not necessary to a determination of the case. Sargent v. Little [N. H.] 58 A. 44. In Connecticut a bill of exceptions filed by an appellee calls for consideration only when a new trial is advised and not where a new trial will be of no avail. Gen. St. 1902, § 804. Andrews v. Platt [Conn.] 58 A. 458. Assignments of error relating to a count on which appellant had judgment need not be considered. McAllin v. McAllin [Conn.] 59 A. 413. Where an answer to a crossbill sets up the same facts as the original bill, and the general finding is for plaintiff, the court on defendant's appeal will not consider an error in overruling a demurrer to the answer to the cross bill. Bowen v. Gerhold [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 546.

74. Smith v. Wenz [Mass.] 73 N. E. 651; Scott v. Sheehan [Cal.] 79 P. 353; Littleton v. Burgess [Wyo.] 79 P. 922. The appellate court will not decide which was the legal and which the illegal ballot box in an election district when it appears that a decision either way would not change the result. Schuman v. Sanderson [Ark.] 83 S. W. 940. Judgment satisfied pending appeal. Trumbull v. Jefferson County [Wash.] 79 P. 1105. The giving of a supersedeas bond does not authorize the review of a merely abstract question. Diefenderfer v. State [Wyo.] 80 P. 667. The charge will not be reviewed where all the errors claimed will be covered by a review of the evidence de novo. In a civil case where there is no well founded complaint of the exclusion of evidence, the reviewing court will apply the law to the facts regardless of the judge's charge on trial. Warner v. Talbot [La.] 36 So. 743. Where a judgment is clearly barred in law, the record will not be considered to determine whether it was supported by the evidence or not. Norman v. Central Kentucky Asylum [Ky.] 80 S. W. 781. Question becoming of no practical importance pending appeal. Gas wells played out. State v. Indianapolis Gas Co. [Ind.] 71 N. E. 139. In Pennsylvania where no action is pending and the parties desire the opinion of the court on a case stated, the case stated should be filed in connection with an amicable action so as to show upon the record an actual pending action. Altoona v. Morrison, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 417; compare Miller v. Cambria County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 591. A decree affirming an order of a municipal board fixing a rate for a public service will be reviewed after the year for which the rate was fixed has expired, where the rate once fixed continues in force until changed by law and questions of law are presented which will serve as guides in subsequent proceedings. Boise City Irr. & Land Co. v. Clark [C. C. A.] 131 F. 415.

75. Errors which may be obviated by following the directions of the appellate court on a retrial will not be reviewed. Berg v. Humptulips Boom & River Imp. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 528. Questions presented by assignments of error, but relating to matters which can be of no practical importance on another hearing, will not be specifically dealt with in event that the judgment is reversed on other grounds which are controlling. Carrington v. Brooks [Ga.] 48 S. E. 970. The propriety of certain acts of a receiver will not be considered where the case must be remanded and such acts must be determined on a new trial. First Nat. Bank v. Cook [Wyo.] 78 P. 1083.

76. Appeal from order on motion to compel prosecution of action after relief sought in action is otherwise obtained. Luikert v. Snyder, 92 N. Y. S. 97. An assignment becomes immaterial when facts transpire after appeal taken which render the ruling right or harmless. Refusal to charge executor for a bond afterward found. Owens v. Owens' Estate, 84 Miss. 673, 37 So. 149. Consideration of the propriety of the dissolution of a temporary injunction restraining the performance of a contract will not be prevented by the fact that the contract has expired by its own terms prior to the taking of the appeal, since liability on the injunction bond depends thereon. Click v. Sample [Ark.] 83 S. W. 932.

77. Question whether original appeal or merged in a later and final decision,[78] will be ignored. The same matter will not be twice considered merely because twice assigned.[79] That which is necessarily subject to pendency of the appeal cannot make a question or destroy one,[80] nor can mere inability to rectify an error be so regarded as to oust the power of review.[81] When a cross bill of exceptions presents a question which is controlling upon the case as a whole, that question will be first considered and disposed of.[82]

No question not properly saved below,[83] preserved and presented in the record,[84] properly assigned,[85] and briefed and argued,[86] will receive attention, and only such as harm the person appealing or objecting.[87] In some states review extends only to so much of the case as involves the question conferring jurisdiction,[88] and will not extend to the merits unless appellant's contention on the question on which the court's jurisdiction depends is sustained.[89]

Fundamental errors and jurisdictional defects on the face of the record are reviewed at any stage though never before claimed nor urged.[90] An appellate from order, without bond, operated as supersedeas, where appeal bond was afterwards given within prescribed time in second appeal. Daney v. Clark, 24 App. D. C. 487. If special findings be accepted by a party as established facts, objections based on the admissibility of evidence to establish them will not be considered. Aultman Threshing & Engine Co. v. Knoll [Kan.] 79 P. 1074.

78. Where the trial court on final hearing makes perpetual a preliminary injunction previously granted, the supreme court will not examine into the regularity of the order granting the preliminary injunction. City of Leavenworth v. Leavenworth City & Ft. L. Water Co. [Kan.] 76 P. 451.

79. Assignments to rulings on pleadings were covered by assignment to conclusions on special findings presenting same questions. Chaplin v. Leapley [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 546.

80. Enforcement of a judgment pending appeal is no bar to appellant's right of review. New York Store Mercantile Co. v. Thurmond [Mo.] 85 S. W. 333. If, before appeal, appellee transfers the judgment to his attorney, the appeal will not reach the question whether the transfer is void as being litigious. If void title continued in plaintiff, the appellee and appellant had no interest to support such a question. Kuck v. Johnson [La.] 38 So. 559.

81. Where, on trial of an issue to determine whether a debtor arrested under a writ of capias ad satisfaciendum has made a fraudulent conveyance to hinder and delay the payment of his debts, the trial court directs a verdict for defendant, quashes the writ, and discharges him from custody, it cannot be contended on appeal that the question there raised is purely an academic one, on the theory that the debtor, having once been discharged, cannot be rearrested. Is an argument that erroneous decision below ousts appellate court of jurisdiction. Bokel, Gwynn, McKenney Co. v. Costello, 22 App. D. C. 81.

82. Hill v. Georgia State B. & L. Ass'n [Ga.] 47 S. E. 897. When a case is absolutely controlled by the decision of the assignments of error in the cross bill of exceptions, the writ of error in the main bill will be dismissed, the effect of such dismissal being to allow the judgment complained of in that bill to stand affirmed. Id.

83. See Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368.

84. See ante, § 9.

85. See ante, § 11 E.

86. See ante, § 11 F.

87. See Harmless, etc., Error, 3 C. L. 1579.

88. Where the constitution grants appellate jurisdiction of suits involving the constitutionality of any fine or penalty imposed by a municipal corporation, on such appeals, no other question can be considered. City of Crowley v. Ellsworth [La.] 38 So. 199.

89. See 3 C. L. 241, n. 40; Jurisdiction, 4 C. L. 341, n. 78. In Virginia, where the jurisdiction of the supreme court of appeals depends solely on the fact that the constitutionality of a law is involved, the court has no jurisdiction to decide the case on the merits, unless the contention of appellant on the constitutional question is sustained. Const. § 88. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Umstadter [Va.] 50 S. E. 259. Where a direct appeal from the circuit court to the Federal supreme court is authorized, the entire case comes up and not merely the question on which jurisdiction is founded. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 24 S. Ct. 784.

90. City of Jacksonville v. Massey Business College [Fla.] 36 So. 432. Defect on face of record of judgment. Epping v. Columbus [Ga.] 43 S. E. 803. It is the duty of the appellate court to consider errors apparent on the face of the record, though it fails to show that a motion for a new trial or in arrest of judgment was made in the court below, and though there is no bill of exceptions. Hill-O'Meara Const. Co. v. Sessinghaus [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 747.

Defects in jurisdiction: Florida Pkg. & Ice Co. v. Carney [Fla.] 38 So. 602. Legal remedy apparent on face of bill. Williams v. Peeples [Fla.] 37 So. 572.

One appearing, accepting service and waiving process cannot allege in error that he was not legally served. Broocks v. Masterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 822. The sufficiency of an affidavit for appeal from a justice's court to the circuit court cannot be questioned for the first time on appeal to the supreme court. Gerhart Realty Co. v. Welter [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 278. Defect of court may inquire into the jurisdiction of the court below in order to determine its own jurisdiction,[91] but whether a lower appeal should have been allowed is not reviewable.[92] Questions peculiar to the scope of review in particular courts are treated in the footnotes.[93] necessary parties: Wasserman v. Metzger [Va.] 47 S. E. 820.

Fundamental sufficiency of a pleading always an open question under Rev. St. 1899, § 602. Ball v. Neosho [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 777. Under Mansf. Dig. Ark. § 5054 (Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 3259), one filing a demurrer with his answer and failing to present it for consideration may object to the jurisdiction for the first time on appeal. Ansley v. McLoud [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 908. Under B. & C. Comp. § 72, providing that objections to the complaint not taken by demurrer or answer are deemed waived, except jurisdictional objections, objection to the jurisdiction of the court may be first made on appeal. Kalyton v. Kalyton [Or.] 78 P. 332. Only fundamental defects in pleading may be first questioned. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co. v. Beales [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 551. Where it does not appear that the petition was attacked in the lower court, a judgment in favor of plaintiff must stand unless the petition wholly fails to state a cause of action, even defectively. Pence v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 746. The fact that an issue is defective in that it fails to directly present the causal connection between the negligence of defendant and the damages sustained is not a cause for reversal by the court on its own motion, where both parties acquiesced in the form of the issues, and no exception was taken. Hunter v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 47 S. E. 745.

Total failure of evidence on a material issue: Entire absence of aught but hearsay to support verdict may be examined though as hearsay no objection was made. Eastlick v. Southern R. Co., 116 Ga. 48, 42 S. E. 499. The rule that ground for a nonsuit not specified in the motion therefor cannot be considered on appeal in support of the court's action in granting it does not apply where the defect in plaintiff's case is inherent and cannot be cured. Warner v. Warner [Cal.] 78 P. 24.

Verdict excessive in law, because departing from measure and data of damages as prescribed by law. McDonald v. Champion Iron & Steel Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 829.

91. Rhyne v. Manchester Assur. Co. [Okl.] 78 P. 558.

92. The question of the right to appeal from a justice judgment in forcible entry and unlawful detainer to the district court is one for the district court to pass on in the first instance. Dechenbach v. Rima [Or.] 77 P. 391.

93. An appeal to the circuit court of appeals does not bring before that court the question of the jurisdiction of the circuit or district court, as that question is reviewable only by the supreme court. Fisheries Co. v. Lennen [C. C. A.] 130 F. 533. In reviewing proceedings before justices of the peace and other inferior tribunals acting within their jurisdiction, liberal rules will be adopted. Squires v. Martin, Adm'r, 24 Ohio C. C. 232, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 313. The supreme court of Massachusetts has power to determine on exceptions whether or not a condition of things in a highway constitutes, as a matter of law, a defect. Upham v. Boston [Mass.] 72 N. E. 946. Oral proceedings in a municipal court are not so closely scrutinized as proceedings of a court of record. Cossel v. Atschul, 91 N. Y. S. 1.

In New York where the appeal is taken from the judgment only under Code Civ. Proc. § 1346, sub. 2, the appellate division can only review questions of law arising on exceptions taken at the trial (Alden v. Supreme Tent, Knights of Maccabees of the World [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 104), but such an appeal brings up the judgment and all questions of law including the rulings of the court during the progress of the trial and exceptions taken thereto, though no motion for new trial is made or order entered thereon (Rollins v. Sidney B. Bowman Cycle Co., 89 N. Y. S. 289). By appealing from a judgment of reversal by the appellate division, the appellant takes the risk not only of the questions considered by that court but also of any and all exceptions appearing in the record. So that if there are any legal errors committed by the trial court the order appealed from must be sustained (Jenks v. Thompson [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 266), whether they were noticed by that court or not, and judgment absolute must be directed against the appellant unless they are absolutely harmless. An order of the appellate division reversing a judgment on the law and the facts and ordering a new trial cannot be reviewed by the court of appeals on the ground that the appellate division had no power to reverse on the facts because plaintiff was entitled as a matter of law to a judgment in his favor, where he failed to ask for the direction of a verdict, and there is any question of fact or credibility of witnesses for the jury. Reich v. Dyer [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 922. The court of appeals is not precluded by a statement in the order of the appellate division that the reversal was on the law and the facts where the record shows that there were no disputed facts. Penrhyn Slate Co. v. Granville El L. & P. Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 566. The finding on a question of title confirmed by the appellate division cannot be reviewed in the court of appeals on the theory that the question is determined by plaintiff's title deeds where no objection was made to their admission. Kennedy v. Mineola, H. & F. Traction Co. [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 102.

In Illinois the determination of a question of fact (Luther v. Crawford, 213 Ill. 596, 73 N. E. 430; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Crose, 214 Ill. 602, 73 N. E. 865; Blakeslee's Exp. & V. Co. v. Ford [Ill.] 74 N. E. 135; Hinchcliff v. Rudnick, 212 Ill. 569, 72 N. E. 691; Spring Val. Coal Co. v. Cheaventone, 214 Ill. 314, 73 N. E. 420; Springer v. Lipsis [Ill.] 70 N. E. 641; Kantzler v. Benzinger, 214 Ill. 589, 73 N. E. 874; Meyer v. Purcell, 214 Ill.

(§ 13) C. Restriction of review to rulings and issues below.[94]—Review proper is of course strictly confined to the rulings made[95] and issues joined and decided[96] below.[97] The general rule is that the theory of the case acquiesced in below will be adhered to,[98] and that a correct ruling will be sustained without regard to the wrong or deficient reasons given below.[99]

62, 73 N. E. 392; Kehl v. Abram, 210 Ill. 218, 71 N. E. 347; Anthony Ittner Brick Co. v. Ashby, 198 Ill. 562, 64 N. E. 1109; Ewen v. Wilbor [Ill.] 70 N. E. 575; Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill [Ill.] 71 N. E. 43; Henrietta Coal Co. v. Campbell [Ill.] 71 N. E. 863; or of a mixed question of law and fact (Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Peterson [Ill.] 70 N. E. 757), by the appellate court is not reviewable on a further appeal to the supreme court. Where the appellate court finds the facts differently from the trial court and incorporates its findings in its judgment the only question open for review on further appeals is whether the facts found support the judgment. Craver v. Acme Harvester Co. [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1047. It is the duty of the appellate court, on an assignment that the verdict is against the weight of the evidence, to weigh the evidence and determine that question. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smith [Ill.] 70 N. E. 628. Where the supreme court reverses a case because the findings of fact are not sufficiently specific and remands it to the appellate court for specific findings, which the appellate court makes, such findings are conclusive. Martin v. Martin [Ill.] 72 N. E. 418.

94. See 3 C. L. 244.

95. New England Merchandise Co. v. Miner [Conn.] 58 A. 4; Joseph Joseph Bros. Co. v. Schonthal Iron & Steel Co. [Md.] 58 A. 205; Bakshian v. Hassanoff [Mass.] 71 N. E. 555; Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthieson [Ill.] 72 N. E. 443; Inhabitants of Verona v. Bridges [Me.] 57 A. 797; Mackey v. Northern Milling Co. [Ill.] 71 N. E. 448; Hayward v. School-Dist. No. 9 of Hope Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999; Bryant v. Nelson-Frey Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 859; McCook Irrigation & Water Power Co. v. Crews [Neb.] 102 N. W. 249, citing Cobbey v. Buchanan, 48 Neb. 391; Hyde v. Hyde, 60 Neb. 502; Hayward v. School-Dist. No. 9 of Hope Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999; Smith v. McDonald [Mich.] 102 N. W. 738; Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753. Code Pub. Gen. Laws, Md. art. 5, § 9. Home Friendly Soc. v. Roberson [Md.] 59 A. 279; Colè v. Jerman [Conn.] 59 A. 425; Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584; Anderson v. Dees [Neb.] 94 N. W. 961; Batty v. Hastings [Neb.] 95 N. W. 866; Barker v. Citizens' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 99 N. W. 866; Getchell & Martin Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Peterson & Sampson [Iowa] 100 N. W. 550; Spier v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 101 N. W. 846; Canton Co. of Baltimore v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 57 A. 637; Bray v. Bray [Iowa] 103 N. W. 477; Davey v. Davey [Neb.] 103 N. W. 282. When a petition is demurred to on both general and special grounds, and dismissed upon the former only, the supreme court cannot, upon a bill of exceptions sued out by plaintiff in which he assigns error on the ruling adverse to him, undertake to pass upon the sufficiency of the special grounds of demurrer. Ponder v. Quitman Ginnery [Ga.] 49 S. E. 746. Where a demurrer and a motion to dismiss for want of equity are both interposed and the bill is dismissed, the appeal does not reach the demurrer. Jones v. Bright [Ala.] 37 So. 79. Matters reserved for decision are not reviewable. Owens v. Owens' Estate [Miss.] 37 So. 149.

96. Where evidence is introduced on issues not raised in the pleadings, and objected to, the issues will not be considered on appeal. City of Alexandria v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. & S. S. Co., 109 La. 50, 33 So. 65. The court will not look to facts not found below. Louisville Property Co. v. Nashville [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 810. No attempt having been made to support a ground of a motion for a new trial, that ground presented no question for consideration on appeal. Shaw v. Goldman [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1223. The supreme court will not determine as to compensation for improvements which was not at issue below. Riverside Land Co. v. Pietsch [Wash.] 77 P. 195. Sufficiency of notice of expiration of period within which to redeem from mortgage foreclosure not passed on below will not be considered on appeal. David v. Whitehead [Wyo.] 79 P. 19.

97. The consequence of this is that one must join issue or procure a ruling by properly objecting or challenging the court's attention. See full treatment in Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368.

98. Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson [Wash.] 80 P. 813; Sack v. St. Louis Car Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 79. Case being tried below on theory that complaint stated cause of action for forcible entry, sufficiency of complaint determined on this theory on appeal. Spellmann v. Rhode [Mont.] 81 P. 395; Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880; Boden v. Scholtz, 91 N. Y. S. 437; Birkett v. Nichols, 90 N. Y. S. 257; Eckes v. Stetler, 90 N. Y. S. 473; Tyng v. Corporation Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 928; Fox v. Ralston [Iowa] 102 N. W. 424; Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 92; Braunberg v. Solomon, 92 N. Y. S. 506; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 315; Davenport v. Lines [Conn.] 59 A. 603; Daily v. Saginaw B. & L. Ass'n [Mich.] 95 N. W. 326, 10 Det. Leg. N. 226; Battles v. Roberts [Iowa] 95 N. W. 247; Mallory v. Fitzgerald's Estate [Neb.] 95 N. W. 601; Fifer v. Fifer [N. D.] 99 N. W. 763.

See more fully Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368.

99. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Lester [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 401; Morelock v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 5. The appellate court will not reverse what appears to have been a correct ruling of the trial court, if correct for any reason apparent of record. Stapper v. Wolter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 850. Too narrow a reason is not error. O'Keeffe v. John P. Squire Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 340. If testimony was properly rejected, the ruling of the court

(§ 13) D. The extent of the review and the questions reached is measured by the character and effect of the order or judgment.[1]—A case not otherwise reviewable but certified for review because of a constitutional question will be reviewed on that alone;[2] but where a direct appeal from the circuit court to the Federal supreme court is authorized, the entire case comes up and not only the question on which jurisdiction is founded.[3] A matter incident to an order is reviewable, though an appeal to another order which would have reached it was lost.[4]

Generally speaking, the main or final judgment takes up all intermediate orders and proceedings,[5] but not those subsequent to it[6] or separate parts not will be sustained, though he may have given an insufficient or even a wrong reason therefor. Barksdale v. Security Inv. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 943. Wrong theory below disregarded if result right. Stark v. Kirchgraber [Mo. Sup.] 85 S. W. 868. The reasons given by the court for its action in granting a new trial are immaterial. Powers v. Fairbanks [Cal.] 80 P. 1075. A general order denying a motion for a new trial after entry of judgment of dismissal for want of prosecution should be sustained on any view which will support it. Fant v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 338.

See more fully Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 C. L. 1579.

1. See 3 C. L. 247. Merits are not reviewable on appeal from dismissal for want of capacity to sue. Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 37 So. 645.

2. When the amount in controversy is such that the appellate court has no jurisdiction to review but there is attached to the case made a certificate of the trial judge that there is a constitutional question involved, no other question will be reviewed. Coghlan v. Williams [Kan.] 76 P. 394.

3. Field v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 24 S. Ct. 784.

4. Acts 1903, p. 577, c. 248, §§ 1, 4, providing for an appeal from a judgment rendered by a chancellor at chambers, is exclusive and hence a writ of error will not lie to review such a decree, but questions so brought up may be considered as collateral to and arising out of matters pending before the court on appeal in the same cause. Lindsay v. Allen [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 171.

5. The case being properly before the supreme court on appeal, all decrees and proceedings therein are subject to consideration and review. Virginia Passenger & Power Co. v. Fisher [Va.] 51 S. E. 198. An appeal from a judgment brings up a question of validity of allowance of attorney's fees, a part of such judgment. Spencer v. Commercial Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 914. Under a statute providing that on appeal from a judgment intermediate orders involving the merits or affecting the judgment, except an appealable order, may be reviewed, an order striking a pleading is reviewable. Alpers v. Bliss [Cal.] 79 P. 171. The overruling of an objection to the unauthorized acting of an assistant justice is ground for exception to the appellate court. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. A motion to strike a supplemental petition from the files is carried up on appeal, and may be determined in the appellate court in the same manner as in the court having original jurisdiction. Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 169, 27 Ohio C. C. 347. An order of a court of chancery sustaining exceptions to an answer for insufficiency is not a final decree. Furthermore, it is not so carried into a final decree, subsequently made in the cause, as to become a part of it and appealable with it. New Jersey B., L. & Inv. Co. v. Lord [N. J. Err. & App.] 58 A. 185. Where a demurrer to a bill is overruled and a hearing is had on an agreed statement of facts and the bill pro forma dismissed, the benefit of the demurrer is impliedly reserved to defendant until the hearing and the questions raised thereby are properly reviewable. White River Sav. Bank v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 59 A. 197. An appeal carries up all questions on the pleadings. Scofield v. Excelsior Oil Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 169, 27 Ohio C. C. 347. On appeal from a judgment only the review is confined to the exceptions taken at the trial. Denial of new trial not reviewable. Mollineaux v. Clapp, 90 N. Y. S. 880. An order substituting a plaintiff is not brought up. Rogers v. Ingersoll, 93 N. Y. S. 140. An appeal from a final judgment brings up the order denying a motion for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was excessive. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 287. In West Virginia appeal is forbidden for any error which may be corrected upon motion to correct errors in a decree; such proceeding being essentially a substitute for an appeal, an appeal after a refusal to correct brings up the whole decree as fully as an appeal in any other case. George v. Zinn [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 904. On appeal from a final decree, errors may be assigned upon interlocutory decrees, though not embraced in the entry of appeal. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

6. An order denying a motion for new trial made and entered subsequent to the entry of judgment does not go up on appeal from the judgment. Ziesloft v. George V. Blackburne Co., 91 N. Y. S. 8. Order denying motion to amend referee's report dismissing action and to recommit the case does not go up on appeal from final judgment. Spencer v. Huntington, 91 N. Y. S. 561. On appeal from a final judgment, the question whether its entry violated an order staying proceedings is not reviewable. Franklin v. Beegle, 92 N. Y. S. 449.

appealed.[7] Appeals from the grant or refusal of a new trial[8] or other order made in course of trial reach only that which entered into the order itself, and matters not presented thereon cannot be considered on such appeal,[9] but only on appeal from final judgment.[10]

In some states appeal from the order on a motion for new trial and not one from the judgment reaches the facts[11] or the rulings during trial,[12] but a judgment on the pleadings may be reviewed without a motion for a new trial,[13] and on appeal from the judgment only, the record may be examined to determine whether there was any evidence to support the findings.[14] The merits of an appeal from a probate order can ordinarily be fully reached on a bill of exceptions to the order itself. Motion for new trial and appeal therefrom is not necessary.[15]

An appeal from an interlocutory order brings up only the order itself as it stood at the time of the making thereof[16] and nothing subsequent.

7. Smith v. Smith [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1094. An appeal from specified parts of a decree which are set out in a written notice stating that no other part will be appealed from by appellant, and which are independent and involve only the rights of the appellees named therein, does not bring up for adjudication the whole decree. W. & T. Allen & Co. v. Maxwell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 242.

8. Bashore v. Parker [Cal.] 80 P. 707.

Order denying a new trial reaches only errors of law occurring at the trial. Green v. Duvergev [Cal.] 80 P. 324. Only those arising on the specifications of insufficiency of evidence and errors of law contained in the bill of exceptions. Williams v. Hawley [Cal.] 77 P. 762. Only those relating to alleged errors of law and whether the findings are supported. Holmes v. Warren [Cal.] 78 P. 954. Granting a nonsuit upon the opening statement of counsel, if improper, is an error of law which may be reviewed on appeal from an order denying new trial. Green v. Duvergev [Cal.] 80 P. 234. Where objection to the introduction of evidence was made at the outset of the trial on the ground that the complaint does not state a cause of action, the sufficiency of the complaint is reviewable on appeal from an order denying a new trial. Ayotte v. Nadeau [Mont.] 81 P. 145.

Not questions arising from the conclusions of law to be deduced from facts found cannot be, nor can questions arising on the sufficiency of the complaint to state facts constituting a cause of action. Williams v. Hawley [Cal.] 77 P. 762.

Not the sufficiency of a pleading. Green v. Duvergey [Cal.] 80 P. 234. Ruling a demurrer. Holmes v. Warren [Cal.] 78 P. 954. Complaint. Frey v. Vignier [Cal.] 78 P. 733; Green v. Duvergey [Cal.] 80 P. 324. Technical objections to the sufficiency of a pleading which might have been raised by special demurrer. Bashore v. Parker [Cal.] 80 P. 707. Motion to strike out a pleading. Green v. Duvergey [Cal.] 80 P. 324. Cross complaint that the findings were not within the issues and that the judgment is not supported by the findings. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 1124.

Not the sufficiency of findings to sustain the judgment. Holmes v. Warren [Cal.] 78 P. 954.

Not the question of proper parties. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 286.

9. A general demurrer to the evidence cannot be used to inject into a case in the appellate court questions not specifically called to the attention of the trial court. Chinn v. Naylor [Mo.] 81 S. W. 1109. See, also, Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368. An order sustaining a demurrer is no part of the procedure during the trial and cannot be reviewed on appeal from the denial of a new trial. Grimes v. Erickson [Minn.] 103 N. W. 334.

10. Order made after an unsuccessful appeal, vacating a judgment on the ground of fraud pursuant to 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5153 et seq., authorizing vacation for fraud after term time. Post v. Spokane [Wash.] 76 P. 510. A decree establishing due notice is reviewable on an appeal from a decree settling the executor's account and making final distribution but not otherwise. The former decree was embraced in the latter. In re Wilson's Estate [Cal.] 81 P. 313.

11. Where appeal is from the judgment and not from the order overruling motion for a new trial, the sufficiency of evidence will not be determined but only whether there is any evidence to support the judgment. Dawes v. Great Falls [Mont.] 77 P. 309. An appeal from the judgment alone does not bring up the sufficiency of the evidence (Zeisloft v. George V. Blackburne Co., 91 N. Y. S. 8), nor the sufficiency of an affidavit for an order of arrest where a motion to vacate the order was not appealed from (Anker v. Smith, 87 N. Y. S. 479).

12. Rulings made in the course of the trial cannot be reviewed except on appeal from an order overruling a motion for a new trial. Bradford v. Brennan [Okl.] 78 P. 387.

13. Dunn v. Claunch [Okl.] 78 P. 388.

14. Sheldon v. Powell [Mont.] 78 P. 491. Want of evidence to support the judgment may be relied upon and considered upon an appeal from the judgment because a question of law is raised. Beaudin v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Mont.] 78 P. 303; Carman v. Montana Cent. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 690.

15. In re Geary's Estate [Cal.] 79 P. 855.

16. On appeal by defendant from an order overruling a demurrer to a bill in equity, granting a temporary injunction and ap-

On appeal from nonsuit or directed verdict, every fact which the evidence tends to prove must be considered as proved.[17] In reviewing a ruling on a demurrer, facts not alleged cannot be considered, though admitted.[18] On appeal from the grant of a preliminary injunction, the bill is treated as on demurrer.[19]

Disallowance of claim in bankruptcy brings up with it the rank or security of the debt.[20] Proceedings before referee do not ordinarily come up on petition to revise in matter of law.[21] On appeal in equity, the trial being de novo,[22] errors in admitting or excluding evidence are not reviewed,[23] and a decision correct on the merits or supported by sufficient legal evidence will be affirmed regardless of such errors.[24] Thus incompetent evidence heard by the chancellor will be presumed to have been disregarded unless it affirmatively appears to have affected the finding.[25] But where it appears that the improper evidence was given weight, the decree must be reversed.[26] In equity appeals the findings must stand or fall upon the pleadings contained in the record,[27] and errors at the trial in re-pointing a receiver, after the issuance of a rule to show cause, the demurrer and order cannot be considered as before the court except in so far as the demurrer is a return to the rule and an admission of the allegations of the bill for the purpose of the rule. Niles v. United States Trust Co., 22 App. D. C. 225. The appeal will be considered only in so far as it has reference to the allowance of an injunction and the appointment of a receiver. Id. On appeal by beneficiaries of a trust created by will from an order refusing the probate of the will, the validity of the trust clause as to them will not be determined. In re Fay's Estate [Cal.] 78 P. 340. Appeal from interlocutory order does not open up whole record and does not reach other orders now barred from appeal. Dekle v. Barkley [Fla.] 37 So. 581. The setting aside of a nonsuit to permit plaintiff to amend his petition is discretionary and the appellate court will not review the evidence to find an alleged abuse of such discretion in that the evidence would not have sustained a verdict for plaintiff under the petition as amended. Cohn v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 846. On appeal from an order granting a preliminary injunction, the only inquiry is whether the discretion of the court was improvidently exercised, the merits not being in issue. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39; Railroad Commission of Texas v. J. Rosenbaum Grain Co. [C. C. A.] 130 F. 110. Where an order appointing a receiver was affirmed by the appellate court as modified, such order could not be reviewed by the supreme court on appeal from a subsequent interlocutory order. Town of Vandalia v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Ill.] 70 N. E. 662. On appeal from orders of a special term refusing to vacate certain other special term orders, the only question reviewable is whether the orders refusing to vacate were properly made. In re White, 91 N. Y. S. 513. Where unsatisfactory conditions are imposed in permitting the withdrawal of a juror, an appeal from such order does not bring up a ruling in pursuance of which the withdrawal was asked; holding the complaint insufficient. Rawson v. Silo, 93 N. Y. S. 416. An appeal from an order for a sale of a ward's land will not bring up an order confirming a guardian's annual settlement. In re Scheuer's Estate [Mont.] 79 P. 244. Where several interlocutory orders or decrees are made in a case and only certain ones are appealed from, assignments of error based upon those not appealed from cannot be considered. Camp Phosphate Co. v. Anderson [Fla.] 37 So. 722.

17. Allen v. Bell [Mont.] 79 P. 582; Dryden v. H. E. Pogue Distillery Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 262. The question is not whether the evidence is sufficient to go to the jury, but whether it is sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to judgment. O'Connor v. Simpson [Wash.] 79 P. 1102. But see Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1072. A judgment in favor of demurree on conflicting evidence will not be disturbed unless upon a plain legal ground, sufficient to preclude any recovery on the part of the demurree. Demurrer to evidence in action on contract. Barrett v. Raleigh Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 154. A judgment overruling a demurrer to evidence will be sustained, unless it is contrary to the plain preponderance of the evidence, or is without evidence to support it as to some material question at issue. Mannon v. Camden Interstate R. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 450. Where a reference to a master was only to determine the amount of rents due a party, an appeal from a decree confirming the master's report will not authorize a review of the party's right to recover rents. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

18. Maskey v. Lackmann [Cal.] 81 P. 115.

19. Herzberger v. Barrow, 115 Ill. App. 79.

20. In re Cosmopolitan Power Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 858.

21. In re Pettingill & Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 840. See, also, Bankruptcy, 3 C. L. 434.

22. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works v. Lester [Fla.] 38 So. 56.

23. Farrell v. Bouck [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1018.

24. Nickell v. Tracy, 91 N. Y. S. 287; Town of Adel v. Woodall [Ga.] 50 S. E. 481. On appeal the court in Nebraska only considers whether the pleadings and evidence support the judgment. O'Neal v. Bellevue Imp. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1028.

25. Springer v. Borden [Ill.] 71 N. E. 345.

26. Johnson v. Johnson [Minn.] 99 N. W. 803.

27, 28. Farmers' & M. Nat. Bank v. Mosher [Neb.] 100 N. W. 133.

ceiving or rejecting evidence or upon questions arising on the pleadings[28] and errors merely affecting the verdict are not subject to review, the verdict being merely advisory.[29] Error in decreeing on a verdict is no ground for new trial.[30] In Pennsylvania the appeal in wife desertion cases brought on the statute has the effect merely of a common-law certiorari and brings up only the regularity of the proceedings below,[31] and on appeal in road proceedings the merits are not examinable, and reversal will be had only for defects apparent on the record, jurisdictional errors and errors of law.[32]

(§ 13) E. Restriction to contents of record.[33]—Sufficiency of record to permit review of particular questions is elsewhere treated.[34] Except as to matters judicially noticed,[35] appellate review is ordinarily confined to the record, and matters aliunde will not be considered,[36] though some matters arising after the ap-

29. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14. Error in instructions. Id. Conduct of counsel in argument and the conduct of the jury. Id.

30. R. J. Booth & Co. v. L. Mohr & Sons [Ga.] 50 S. E. 173.

31. Commonwealth v. Mills, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 549.

32. Cornplanter Township Road No. 1, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 20.

33. See 3 C. L. 250.

34. See ante, § 9 D.

35. On appeal in an action on a judgment, the appellate court will take judicial notice of the fact that it has reversed the judgment sued on. Avocato v. Dell' Ara [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 444. The appellate courts will take judicial notice of the terms of the district courts of the state. Held that court judicially knew that certain orders were not entered at regular term. Accousi v. G. A. Stowers Furniture Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 1104. Where the record shows that certain orders were made at a time when there could be no regular term of court and does not show that they were made at a special term they must be taken and considered as having been made in vacation. Cannot be presumed that they were made at special term. Id. Appellate court will take judicial notice of its former opinion reversing lower court and remanding it back for new trial. Roberson v. State [Fla.] 34 So. 294. Where it does not appear under what particular law a city is organized the supreme court cannot take judicial notice that it was organized under the act of Feb. 11, 1880, but it may look to the terms of that act to support a judgment against the city. Territory v. Socorro [N. M.] 76 P. 283. The appellate court will notice judicially whatever the court of original jurisdiction was bound to judicially notice. Tischner v. Rutledge [Wash.] 77 P. 388.

36. Jenkins v. Barber [Miss.] 38 So. 36. Where the evidence has been lost review cannot be made on affidavits supplied by the parties but a new trial will be ordered. Brody v. Katz, 87 N. Y. S. 452. Affidavits attached to brief showing nonservice are not considered on appeal from order refusing to set aside default. Guase v. Sterling Piano Co., 88 N. Y. S. 532. An affidavit not purporting to have been verified until the day after the order appealed from was entered is not properly part of the record and cannot be considered. Cameron v. White, 92 N. Y. S. 381. Affidavits in support of a motion for a new trial, not embodied in a bill of exceptions or statement of facts, cannot be considered on appeal. Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 839. On behalf of the party responsible for the abstract, review is confined to the matters found therein unless some cogent reason appears for departing from the rule. Slaughter v. Strouse [Colo. App.] 79 P. 972; following Strassheim v. Cole, 14 Colo. App. 164, 59 P. 479. Matters not in the record will not be considered. Leppel v. District Court of Garfield County [Colo.] 78 P. 682. Whether disbarment charges should be instituted against one of appellees who had been joined because he had acquired the judgment, litigiously as alleged, depends on matters foreign to the record. Kuck v. Johnson [La.] 38 So. 559. An affidavit filed in the trial court long after an appeal is taken, and brought up as part of a supplemental transcript cannot be considered. Flood v. Libby [Wash.] 80 P. 533. On writ of error to review a judgment the validity thereof may be determined from the entire record, but evidence dehors the record may not be looked to. National Metal Co. v. Green Consol. Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 397. The supreme court is not at liberty to go outside the statement of facts and to consult references therein to ascertain the contents of a statute of another state or of an opinion of its supreme court. National Bank of Commerce v. Kenney [Tex.] 83 S. W. 368. Review must be made on the evidence presented to the court below and the reviewing court cannot consider outside matters, such as the recollection of the judges as to the issues presented by a prior case between the same parties to assist in overturning the judgment. Hoffman v. Silverthorn [Mich.] 100 N. W. 183. In determining the validity of a release introduced in evidence on a retrial after a former appeal, the appellate court cannot look outside the record on the present appeal. Hartley v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 214 Ill. 78, 73 N. E. 398. An objection to the finding and judgment of a lower court which does not relate to the pleadings or appear on the face of the judgment itself can be preserved for review only by an exception duly taken in the trial court and preserved by bill of exceptions, and a recital in the transcript prepared by the clerk that on the judgment being entered the appellant prayed an appeal which was allowed, peal may be so presented.[37] Records and opinions on former appeals,[38] and rules and opinions of the trial court, are no part of the record.[39] The rule of restriction to the regularly made and transmitted record has no application to original powers of inquiry into facts necessary to decide objections to its own jurisdiction or motions to dismiss,[40] or to decide applications for interlocutory or provisional relief.[41]

(§ 13) F. Rulings peculiar to province of trial court. 1. Discretionary rulings in general.[42]—The discretion of a trial court is not absolute but is subject to review in case of abuse,[43] but discretionary rulings will not be disturbed unless an abuse of discretion clearly appears.[44] This rule has been applied to is insufficient. Jones v. Milford [Ill.] 70 N. E. 598. A statement in the condition of an appeal bond filed and approved by the clerk that a decree was entered dismissing the bill does not show that any such decree was actually entered. Livingston County B. & L. Ass'n v. Keach [Ill.] 72 N. E. 769. The supreme court cannot, from statements in counsel's brief, draw any inference of fact opposed to the findings of the trial judge. Hoffman v. Silverthorn [Mich.] 100 N. W. 184. Ambiguous stipulation as to the effect of which parties do not agree will not be considered. Barnard v. Lawyers' Title Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 41. In determining question of fact, court cannot consider what purports to be a transcript of the evidence not made part of the return. Singer v. Pollock, 91 N. Y. S. 755. A paper purporting to be a brief of the evidence, but which is not approved by the trial judge as correct, cannot be considered by the trial court. De Loach v. Planters' & People's Mut. Fire Ass'n [Ga.] 50 S. E. 141.

37. An appellate court has jurisdiction to determine the effect of a discharge in bankruptcy set up by supplemental petition pending an appeal. Boyd v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Colo. App.] 76 P. 986. An appellate court may avail itself of authentic evidence outside the record before it of matters occurring since the decree of the trial court when such course is necessary to prevent a miscarriage of justice, to avoid a useless circuity of proceeding, or to preserve a jurisdiction lawfully acquired, or to protect itself from imposition or further prosecution of litigation where the controversy between the parties has been settled or for other reasons has ceased to exist. Ridge v. Manker [C. C. A.] 132 F. 599.

38. Record on former appeal not considered. Inabinett v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Ark.] 86 S. W. 293. The memorandum of the trial court, though not a substantive part of the findings may be resorted to to interpret them. Johnson v. Johnson [Minn.] 99 N. W. 803. A memorandum of the trial judge attached to but not made a part of the order granting a new trial cannot be considered in determining upon what ground the order was granted, the order being explicit by its own terms (Holland v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 608), and may be looked to to ascertain the grounds on which a verdict was set aside (Fox v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 754).

39. A rule of the trial court not in the record cannot be considered. Johnston v. Callahan [Cal.] 79 P. 870. Though opinion of district judge is not part of record to show findings of fact unless so ordered it may be examined on petition to revise proceedings in bankruptcy to see what rulings of law were made. In re Pettengill [C. C. A.] 137 F. 840. Statements of fact contained in the brief of counsel and the attached affidavit of a justice, explaining what he meant by his answer, cannot be considered in reviewing the order of the judge of the superior court granting a new trial on certiorari. Faulkner v. Snead [Ga.] 49 S. E. 747.

40. See ante, § 11 H.

41. See post, § 14.

42. See 3 C. L. 264.

43. Enlarging time to take testimony is reviewable if discretion was abused. Lykes v. Beauchamp [Fla.] 38 So. 603. It is abuse to grant it for light reasons when not asked till after time fixed by rules. Id. Denying motion for new trial. In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 78 P. 971. If exercised so as to defeat substantial justice. Discretion accorded by B. & C. Comp. § 103, in allowing answers or replies to be made after the time limited by the code. McFarlane v. McFarlane [Or.] 77 P. 837. Questions involving legal discretion requiring a new bond because of alleged insufficiency of the first, to secure an injunction pendente lite in a suit to restrain a city from changing street grade in front of one's property. Swope v. Seattle [Wash.] 76 P. 517. Where order overruling motion for new trial contains nothing to indicate that judge was dissatisfied with verdict or that he had failed to exercise the discretion required of him by law, remarks made by him pending the argument of the motion will not be considered in determining whether he has exercised such discretion. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Steinhauser [Ga.] 48 S. E. 698.

44. Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 126. Matters resting in the discretion of the chancellor. State v. Sunapee Dam Co. [N. H.] 55 A. 899. Questions involving absolute discretion. Smith v. Smith [Cal.] 76 P. 489. In no case will it be held that there has been an abuse of discretion in refusing to approve an exception to an auditor's report, where there is any evidence to support the auditor's finding. Fowler v. Davis [Ga.] 47 S. E. 951. Denial of permission to amend a complaint held an abuse of discretion. Anglo-Californian Bank v. Field [Cal.] 80 P. 1080. Where default is set aside and new trial granted, it is not abusive of discretion to refuse continuance for absence rulings on motions for a change of venue,[45] motions for continuance,[46] orders relating to pleadings, motions with reference to pleadings[47] or for a bill of particulars,[48] to the granting or refusing to grant a temporary injunction,[49] the refusal of a rule to correct omissions in the transcript on appeal from a justice's judgof plaintiff. Wilson v. Pfaffe [Iowa] 103 N. W. 992. Grant of new trial held not abuse of discretion. Clifford v. Latham [S. D.] 103 N. W. 642. When there is an allegation of the court's abuse of its discretion in passing upon the application it is the appellate court's duty to inquire into the facts and if after due consideration, an abuse appears, to correct it and grant a new trial. Attempts to influence jury, misconduct of jury and officers, and after-discovered evidence. Mix v. North American Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 272. The action of the trial court, on motion for a new trial, will be reviewed in some cases where the motion is based on the misconduct of the jury or those connected with it, and the trial court has refused to consider, or has erroneously considered, the application on an uncontested state of facts. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9. But where the trial court, after hearing the evidence, finds that the charges are not sustained, a judgment on the verdict will not be disturbed. Id.

45. Fitzhugh v. Nicholas [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1092. Refusal to remove a cause to the county in which the essential evidence upon which it depends is located. Eames v. Armstrong [N. C.] 48 S. E. 769.

46. Colorado Trading & Transfer Co. v. Oliver [Colo. App.] 78 P. 308; Banker Min. & Mill Co. v. Allen [Colo. App.] 78 P. 1070; Robertson v. Moore [Idaho] 77 P. 218. Denial of motion. Richardson v. Ruddy [Idaho] 77 P. 972; Hutchinson v. Manchester St. Ry. [N. H.] 60 A. 1011; City of Elgin v. Nofs, 212 Ill. 20, 72 N. E. 43; Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 174; Crouch v. Dakota, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 101 N. W. 722; Chambers v. Modern Woodmen of America [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1107; A. C. Fulmer Coal Co. v. Morgantown & K. R. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E 606. To permit the production of evidence. Knapp v. Order of Pendo [Wash.] 79 P. 209.

47. Allowance of or refusal to allow amendments: Adams v. Hopkins [Cal.] 77 P. 712; Schrot v. Schoenfeld, 23 App. D. C. 421; Senft v. Vanek [Ill.] 70 N. E. 720; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miles [Ind.] 70 N. E. 985; Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808; Kennett v. Van Tassell [Kan.] 79 P. 665; Kentucky Refining Co. v. Saluda Oil Mill Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E 987; Clerks' Benev. Union v. Knights of Columbus [S. C.] 50 S. E. 206; Vesey v. Commercial Union Assur. Co., Limited, of London, England [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1074; Kinney v. Craig [Va.] 48 S. E. 864; Great Northern R. Co. v. Herron [C. C. A.] 136 F. 49; Rucker v. Bolles [C. C. A.] 133 F. 858; Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614. Refusal of leave to amend a petition, setting up a new and distinct issue, after the introduction of testimony. Allen v. North Des Moines Methodist Episcopal Church [Iowa] 102 N. W. 808. At any stage of the proceeding. Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461. After case had been heard in supreme court and remanded for new trial. Central Sav. Bank v. O'Connor [Mich.] 102 N. W. 280. Greater liberality is allowed in amending answers than complaints. Murphy v. Plankinton Bank [S. D.] 100 N. W. 614. After verdict, when material to the case which has been defectively stated. Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 194. Sutton v. Catawba Power Co. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 863. After the introduction of evidence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hengst [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 832. So as to allege venue. Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson [Wash.] 80 P. 813. Rule not changed by fact that amendment may relate to withdrawal of plea in bar and substitution of one in abatement, or vice versa. Chunn v. City & S. R. Co., 23 App. D. C. 551.

Motions to make more specific: Under Code Civ. Proc. § 60. Mulligan v. Smith [Colo.] 76 P. 1063. More definite. Berg v. Humptulips Boom & River Imp. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 528.

Granting leave to file a cross complaint as provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 442, 937. Alpers v. Bliss [Cal.] 79 P. 171.

Allowing withdrawal of pleadings: O'Connell v. E. C. King & Son [R. I.] 59 A. 926. Granting of leave to withdraw a plea and interpose a demurrer. People v. McDonald [Ill.] 70 N. E. 646.

Motions to strike out: Refusing to strike out a part or all of a pleading. Woodhams v. Jennings [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1088. Refusal to strike amendments to a petition filed after the taking of testimony and while the case is under consideration, to make the petition conform to proofs. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 502.

To compel election between counts: Denial of motion to compel an election between counts of a complaint made at the trial is discretionary; but when the inconsistency appears on the face of the complaint and plaintiff moves for an election before answering, a denial of his motion may be reviewed. Frieze v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 81.

48. Llewellyn v. Froehlich, 88 N. Y. S. 966. Motion to require defendant to file a statement of its grounds of defense. Driver's Adm'r v. Southern R. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 1000.

49. In refusing to grant an injunction to restrain the cutting of timber, where there is a conflict of evidence as to the insolvency of defendants, and the evidence is insufficient to show irreparable injury, and no other ground for relief is alleged. Stonecipher v. Wilson [Ga.] 47 S. E. 936. Granting temporary injunction. Shields v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 394; Werner Co. v. Encyclopaedia Britannica Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 831; Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39; Northern Securities Co. v. Harriman [C. C. A.] 134 F. 331; Phenix Ins. Co. v. Perkins [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1110. An order granting a preliminary injunction which merely keeps the property in litigation in statu quo.

ment,[50] the denial of a motion to dismiss,[51] or for a nonsuit,[52] the nonsuiting of a party for failure to answer interrogatories,[53] permitting plaintiff to dismiss,[54] the granting of a jury trial when not demanded[55] or the calling of a jury in a law case after a jury trial has been waived,[56] rulings in regard to the selection of a jury,[57] rulings relating to trial,[58] rulings in regard to the qualification of experts,[59] the allowance of leading questions[60] and cumulative evidence,[61] the order of proof,[62] motions to strike evidence;[63] the action of the court in regard to misconduct of Shea v. Niiima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209; Coram v. Ingersoll [C. C. A.] 133 F. 226. Order fixing the amount of the bond. Crown Cork & Seal Co. v. Standard Stopper Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 184.

50. Hager v. Knapp [Or.] 78 P. 671.

51. In equity. Lilly v. Eklund [Wash.] 79 P. 1107. Denial of leave to dismiss bill without prejudice after set down for hearing. Lykes v. Beauchamp [Fla.] 38 So. 603.

52. McVeigh v. Ripley [Conn.] 58 A. 701; George L. Storms & Co. v. Horton [Conn.] 59 A. 421; Norman Printer's Supply Co. v. Ford [Conn.] 59 A. 499; Snowman v. Mason [Me.] 59 A. 1019; Pierce v. Barney [Pa.] 58 A. 152; Cavanaugh v. Grady [R. I.] 52 A. 1027. The rule is particularly applicable to trials in courts where no provision is made for preserving an accurate report of the evidence. Id. The denial of a motion to withdraw a juror because of counsel's improper remarks in summing up. Cattano v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 73 N. Y. 565, 66 N. E. 563.

53. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3575. Horton v. Driskell [Wyo.] 77 P. 354.

54. Unless it clearly appears that some fundamental rule of a court of equity was violated, or there was an abuse of legal discretion. Where no evidence has been taken, and no hearing had upon the merits, the fact alone that defendant may be subjected to another suit is not a ground for denying a motion to dismiss. Penn Phonograph Co. v. Columbia Phonograph Co. [C. C. A.] 132 F. 808.

55. Knapp v. Order of Pendo [Wash.] 79 P. 209.

56. Under Laws 1903, c. 43. Fleming v. Wilson [Wash.] 80 P. 1104.

57. Determination as to partiality will be interfered with only where the voir dire examination shows as a matter of law that he was biased. Graybill v. De Young [Cal.] 80 P. 618. Examination of jurors upon their voir dire. Sullivan v. Padrosa [Ga.] 50 S. E. 142. A ruling on a motion for a special venire made after the expiration of the time within which it could have been demanded as of right. Refusal to grant motion 3 days before cause was set. Basham v. Hammond Packing Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 1227. Challenges to jurors. Felsch v. Babb [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1011.

58. Dilatory tactics in making up the issues. Rice v. Bolton [Iowa] 100 N. W. 634. Order for the inspection of books or documents. Harris v. Richardson [Minn.] 100 N. W. 92. The orderly and proper conduct of a trial. Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220. The manner of examining witnesses. Bray v. Bray [Iowa] 103 N. W. 477; Worrell & Williams v. Kinnear Mfg. Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 988. Refusal to direct an issue in an equity case. Wurster v. Armfield, 90 N. Y. S. 699. Entry of a nunc pro tunc order. Hofacre v. Monticello [Iowa] 103 N. W. 488. In Pennsylvania it is peculiarly within the province of the quarter sessions to determine whether road viewers misbehave themselves, or whether any undue influence was brought to bear upon them and the determination of that question will not be interfered with, except for manifest and flagrant abuse of discretion. Cornplanter Tp. Road, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 20. Whether a party to a case stated and transferred from the superior court for judgment should, in justice, be relieved from the agreement under which the case was transferred, and allowed to try the facts, is a question for the superior court. Congdon v. Nashua [N. H.] 57 A. 686. Granting or denying of a motion to exclude witnesses, not under examination, from the courtroom. Denial. Griffith v. Ridpath [Wash.] 80 P. 820. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 3371. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 80 P. 918.

59. Gila Val. etc., R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 80 P. 337; Meyers v. McAllister [Minn.] 103 N. W. 564. Ruling admitting the evidence will not be reversed unless it clearly appears that the witness was not qualified. Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bauserman [Va.] 48 S. E. 857.

60. Josephson v. Sigfusson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 703; Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bauserman [Va.] 48 S. E. 857; Richmond & P. Elec. R. Co. v. Rubin [Va.] 47 S. E. 834.

61. Action in allowing questions asked on cross examination which were contained in former questions to which no objection was made. Beadle v. Paine [Or.] 80 P. 903. Restricting the number of impeaching witnesses and refusing to allow the examination of any additional ones. Donaldson v. Dobbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1084.

62. McAllin v. McAllin [Conn.] 59 A. 413; Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthieson [Ill.] 72 N. E. 443; Seigle v. Badger Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 4. Refusal to admit new evidence on redirect examination. Shafer v. Russell [Utah] 79 P. 559. Reopening case to let in omitted evidence (Work v. Braun [S. D.] 103 N. W. 764), or further evidence (Schilling v. Curran [Mont.] 76 P. 998), or refusal to do so (Knapp v. Order of Pendo [Wash.] 79 P. 209; Alling v. Weissman [Conn.] 59 A. 419; Radichel v. Kendall [Wis.] 99 N. W. 348; Winn v. Itzel [Wis.] 103 N. W. 220). Untimely admission, unless prejudicial. Siegle v. Phoenix Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 637. Allowing evidence in chief to be introduced in rebuttal. Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 82 S. W. 126; Northern Ala. R. Co. v. Mansell [Ala.] 36 So. 459. Permitting a party to reopen her case after the sufficiency of her evidence has been challenged. Kane v. Kane [Wash.] 77 P. 842.

63. Hetzel v. Easterly, 89 N. Y. S. 154.

counsel,[64] the reference of a case to an auditor[65] and rulings on exceptions to an auditor's[66] or master's report,[67] the matter of submitting special interrogatories to the jury,[68] allowing documentary evidence to be taken to the jury room,[69] the allowance of costs on appeal from a justice's judgment,[70] the refusal to direct a verdict,[71] rulings on motions to set aside judgments[72] or to vacate default judgments,[73] the allowance of alimony[74] or the discharge of an order requiring its payment,[75] the granting[76] or denial of a motion for a new trial,[77] settlement of excep-

64. Improper remarks. McKee v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1013. Refusal to grant new trial because of improper remarks where counsel was admonished and apologized. Parker v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1016; Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489.

65. Refusal to appoint auditor. Teasley v. Bradley [Ga.] 47 S. E. 925. Refusal of the court to recommit the report of a master. Bakshian v. Hassanoff [Mass.] 71 N. E. 555.

66. Refusal to approve an exception of fact thereto in equity. Fowler v. Davis [Ga.] 47 S. E. 951.

67. An order of the circuit court overruling exceptions to the report of a master for the reason that the record was not printed as required by the rules. Du Bois v. New York [C. C. A.] 128 F. 418.

68. Under Rev. St. 1901, par. 1427. Gila Val., etc., R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 80 P. 337. Form of special interrogatories. Zimmer v. Fox River Val. Elec. R. Co. [Wis.] 95 N. W. 957.

69. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1083. Carmen v. Montana Cent. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 690.

70. Flewellin v. Lent, 90 N. Y. S. 417.

71. Refusal to direct a verdict will not be disturbed. Sikes v. Norman [Ga.] 50 S. E. 134.

72. Granting motion under B. & C. Comp. § 103. Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 94. An application to revoke a final decree of divorce is in the nature of an application to a chancellor. Given v. Given, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 467.

73. Klepfer v. Keokuk [Iowa] 102 N. W. 515; Carver v. Seevers & Bryan [Iowa] 102 N. W. 518, citing Briggs v. Coffin, 91 Iowa, 329; McQuade v. C., R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 78 Iowa, 688; Meade County Bank v. Decker [S. D.] 102 N. W. 597; Stoll v. Pearl [Wis.] 99 N. W. 906; El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. Refusal to set aside. Germania Fire Ins. Co. v. Muller. 110 Ill. App. 190. Setting aside and granting new trial. Wilson v. Pfaffe [Iowa] 103 N. W. 992. Conclusive when attacked only on ground of power, the reasons urged for setting it aside being not disputed. Harkness v. Jarvis [Mo.] 81 S. W. 446. The power given by statute to set aside a judgment by default or by mistake is discretionary. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Granting or denying a motion and the terms upon which relief will be granted. Walton v. Hartman [Wash.] 80 P. 196. Vacating judgment for mistake, surprise, etc. Hoyt v. Lightbody [Minn.] 101 N. W. 304. An order opening a default without condition will be considered as made on the theory that the party was entitled to it as a matter of right. Cohen v. Meryash, 93 N. Y. S. 529.

74. Not where allowance pendente lite is reasonable, was made after filing of testimony, and was based on affidavits and presumably on testimony referred to therein, and testimony is not before appellate court. Lesh v. Lesh, 21 App. D. C. 475.

75. Because of inability to pay. Smith v. Smith [Cal.] 76 P. 489.

76. Smith v. Tombigbee & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 389; Hooper v. Fletcher [Cal.] 79 P. 418; McCauley v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 671; Werthman v. Mason City, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 135; Casey v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 357; Hill v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 3; Abernethy v. Yount [N. C.] 50 S. E. 696; Unzelmann v. Shelton [S. D.] 103 N. W. 646; Wait v. Robertson Mortg. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 926; Eggen v. Fox [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1054; Clement v. Wilson [C. C. A.] 135 F. 749. Because verdict not justified by the evidence. Konicek v. R. F. Conway & Co. [Iowa] 99 N. W. 703; Marshalltown Stone Co. v. Des Moines Brick Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 1124; Miller v. Scovell [Minn.] 101 N. W. 74. For newly discovered evidence. Hunter v. Porter [Iowa] 100 N. W. 53; Chambliss v. Hass [Iowa] 101 N. W. 153; Kleutsch v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 139. First grant of a new trial upon certiorari from a justice's court, where the verdict was not demanded by the evidence. Walker & Walker v. Hughes [Ga.] 48 S. E. 387. From city court. Brantley v. Taylor [Ga.] 49 S. E. 262. Even where there have been two verdicts in justice court in favor of plaintiff, the supreme court will not interfere with a second grant of a new trial or certiorari, where it appears that there were errors which, in a close case, may have been injurious to the losing party. Faulkner v. Snead [Ga.] 49 S. E. 747. Granting of first new trial where the verdict as rendered was not demanded by the law and the evidence. Solomons & Co. v. Merchants' & M. Transp. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 687. Though based on a single ground, without regard to whether such ground was meritorious. Elliott v. McCalla [Ga.] 50 S. E. 960. Where record shows that verdict not demanded. Smith v. Anderson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 979. Where it does not affirmatively appear that it was not demanded. Smith v. Hightower [Ga.] 51 S. E. 28. For error in an instruction, if there is any doubt about the propriety of such instruction. Delaplain v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 71. The rule does not apply where the motion is granted by the successor of the trial judge. Tyler v. Haggart [S. D.] 102 N. W. 682. That a new trial was granted instead of requiring a remittitur of a portion of an excessive verdict.

tions, extension of time to settle bills of exceptions and move for new trial,[78] the Wait v. Robertson Mortg. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 926. Discretion of trial court in granting one new trial, if supported by substantial evidence, unless the case is such that no verdict in favor of the party to whom the new trial is granted could stand. Fitzjohn v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 81 S. W. 907. It will be presumed, when the contrary is not shown, that the court acted within its discretionary power. Eggen v. Fox [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1054. Where the verdict is sustained by the evidence and it does not appear that a new trial was granted on discretionary grounds, the order will be reversed. Briggs v. Rutherford [Minn.] 101 N. W. 954. Where a motion for a new trial on the ground of errors at the trial and insufficiency of evidence is granted generally and no errors appear and there is sufficient evidence to support the verdict, the order will be reversed. Owens v. Savage [Minn.] 101 N. W. 790. An order granting a new trial generally, one of the grounds of the motion being the insufficiency of evidence, will not be disturbed if the evidence warrants a more favorable verdict for the moving party. Weed v. Weed [Cal.] 76 P. 652. The appellate court will look with less scrutiny on an order granting a new trial than on one refusing to do so (Bloch Queensware Co. v. Smith [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 592), and is much more reluctant to interfere (Werthman v. Mason City, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 135; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wade [Fla.] 38 So. 49; Kunz v. Dinneen [S. D.] 100 N. W. 165).

77. Kelly v. Moore, 22 App. D. C. 9; Adcock v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Or.] 77 P. 78; Jefferson Hotel Co. v. Warren [C. C. A.] 128 F. 565; Lazier Gas Engine Co. v. Du Bois [C. C. A.] 130 F. 834; Foster v. Murphy & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 47; United Engineering & Contracting Co. v. Broadnax [C. C. A.] 136 F. 351; Southern Pac. Co. v. Maloney [C. C. A.] 136 F. 171; Newport News & O. P. R. & E. Co. v. Yount [C. C. A.] 136 F. 589. Whether the issues are in an ordinary suit in equity, or in a probate appeal. Crocker v. Crocker [Mass.] 73 N. E. 1068. Denial after judgment by default. Copper King of Arizona v. Johnson [Ariz.] 76 P. 594; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Castellow [Ga.] 49 S. E. 753; Franklin v. Pritchard Bros. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 342. Where evidence, though conflicting, is sufficient to authorize verdict, and motion is on general grounds. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Steinhauser [Ga.] 48 S. E. 698; Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Rabinowitz [Ga.] 48 S. E. 326; New England Mtg. Sec. Co. v. Anderson, Felder & Davis [Ga.] 48 S. E. 396; Kessler v. Hecht [Ga.] 48 S. E. 922; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Bagley [Ga.] 48 S. E. 179; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Owen [Ga.] 48 S. E. 916; Revis v. Roper [Ga.] 49 S. E. 291; Georgia & A. R. Co. v. Shiver [Ga.] 49 S. E. 700; Wrightsville & T. R. Co. v. Kelley [Ga.] 47 S. E. 366; Prey v. Oemler [Ga.] 47 S. E. 546. The evidence being conflicting and sufficient to sustain the verdict, and the verdict having been approved by the trial judge. Longmore v. Stegall [Ga.] 49 S. E. 264. Where no error of law complained of. Georgia R. Co. v. Bass [Ga.] 48 S. E. 939; Sharp v. Jones [Ga.] 47 S. E. 901. Where there is some evidence to support the verdict and the trial court is satisfied with it. Blackshear v. Dekle [Ga.] 48 S. E. 311; City of Sparta v. Stewart [Ga.] 47 S. E. 911. Based solely upon the grounds that the verdict was contrary to law and the evidence, and without evidence to support it, where evidence is sufficient to support verdict. Baldwin Fertilizer Co. v. McAllister [Ga.] 49 S. E. 733. Upon finding that the charge of misconduct on the part of counsel and the jury is not sustained. Affidavits and counter affidavits submitted on the question. Evidence conflicting and evidence of misconduct not so strong as to justify inference that judge misapprehended facts or abused his discretion. Desverges v. Goette [Ga.] 48 S. E. 693. Where there is evidence to sustain the findings of the jury unless there was some error of law prejudicial to the rights of the losing party. Riddle v. Sheppard [Ga.] 47 S. E. 201; Cooper v. Rawlings [Ga.] 47 S. E. 198. Being no complaint that any error of law was committed, and evidence being sufficient to authorize verdict. McCowen v. Triplett [Ga.] 47 S. E. 217; Weil v. Carswell [Ga.] 47 S. E. 217; Underwood v. Underwood [Ga.] 48 S. E. 921. Where the evidence is conflicting and authorizes a finding in favor of either party, in the absence of an error of law prejudicial to the losing party. As to terms of contract and whether it had been complied with. Eubanks v. West & Baggett [Ga.] 47 S. E. 194. When the jury have exercised their discretion by granting a partial instead of an absolute divorce for extreme cruelty or habitual intoxication, and the judge has exercised his discretion by overruling a motion for a new trial made by defendant, the supreme court will not interfere. Wolf v. Wolf [Ga.] 48 S. E. 691. On conflicting affidavits as to newly discovered evidence. Esler v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 73. For misconduct of counsel. Gorham v. Sioux City Stock Yards Co. [Iowa] 92 N. W. 698; American Electrical Works v. New England Elec. R. Const. Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 64; Parker v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1016. For absence of counsel and surprise. Tschohl v. Machinery Mut. Ins. Ass'n [Iowa] 101 N. W. 740. Verdict obtained by perjury. Chamberlain v. Olean St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 851. Against weight of evidence. Case must be clear to justify reversal. Lovely v. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 894. Where it presents no question of law. Torphy v. Fall River [Mass.] 74 N. E. 465. For the insufficiency of the evidence. Cutten v. Pearsall [Cal.] 81 P. 25; Sutherland v. Council Bluffs [Iowa] 99 N. W. 572; Miller v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 99. Where there was some testimony on each of the points in issue. Davis v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 47 S. E. 723. Newly discovered evidence. Selleck v. Head [Conn.] 58 A. 224; Carlson v. Hall [Iowa] 99 N. W. 571; In re Colbert's Estate [Mont.] 80 P. 248; Edge v. Edge [Neb.] 99 N. W. 644. Surprise or newly discovered evidence. Landeau v. Frazier [Mont.] 76 P. 290. Where the evidence is conflicting, though same judge did not preside at the trial. Spearman v. Sanders [Ga.] 49 S. E. 296.

appointment[70] and removal of court officers,[80] and the allowance of fees,[81] though there appears to be some conflict in regard to this proposition.[82] The rule does not, however, apply to a case where the court has failed or refused to exercise his discretion,[83] or where his decision was in fact based on the law rather than on discretion,[84] or where from the nature of the case he could have no better knowledge of the circumstances than the reviewing court.[85]

(§ 13F) 2. Questions of fact.[86]—Generally speaking, questions of fact are not reviewed[87] unless the decision below is wholly unsustained by the evidence,[88]

78. Bishop & Babcock Co. v. Schleuning [S. D.] 103 N. W. 387.

79. Order appointing one of trustees to sell property under deed of trust. Wood v. Grayson, 22 App. D. C. 432. Appointment of a receiver for an insolvent corporation. United States Shipbuilding Co. v. Conklin [C. C. A.] 126 F. 132. That a receiver was necessary and his charges reasonable. Crouch v. Dakota, etc., R. Co. [S. D.] 101 N. W. 722. The appointment of a receiver and the appointment of an attorney for a party, as receiver, where it is not claimed that the appointee is unfit or that he will neglect the duties of his position. Fisher v. Southern L. & T. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 592. An order setting aside an order approving a receiver's final report and discharging him will not be disturbed. Williams v. Des Moines L. & T. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277.

80. The removal by the probate court of a collector of an estate, to whom letters ad colligendum have been issued. Guthrie v. Welch, 24 App. D. C. 562.

81. An allowance to the attorney of an assignee, made by the chancellor who tried the case and was familiar with the extent and character of the services, though it appears small under the circumstances. Thum v. Kentucky Citizens' B. & L. Ass'n's Receiver [Ky.] 80 S. W. 790. To master in chancery. Symms v. Chicago, 115 Ill. App. 169.

82. The allowance of attorney's fees by the chancellor is subject to review. Callender's Adm'r v. Callender [Ky.] 82 S. W. 372.

83. Refusal of new trial ignoring discretionary grounds. McIntyre v. McIntyre [Ga.] 47 S. E. 501. Where fails to do so through misconstruction of statute. Edwards Loan Co. v. Skinner [Iowa] 102 N. W. 828. Where his action is based on grounds other than discretionary ones, as where he refuses to act for want of power rather than in the exercise of discretion. Refusal of compulsory reference for lack of power. Hart v. Godkin [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1057.

84. Unless the grounds are discretionary, the order may be reviewed as any other. Abernethy v. Yount [N. C.] 50 S. E. 696; Robinson v. Lampel, 89 N. Y. S. 853; Badanes v. Feder, 93 N. Y. S. 478. Granting or refusal of a preliminary injunction where it appears that the court regarded as of controlling importance a view of the law that is erroneous, court thought that denial would not be reviewable. Northern Securities Co. v. Harriman [C. C. A.] 134 F. 331. Where an order refusing a temporary injunction itself discloses that no discretion was exercised but that it was on the ground that plaintiff had no cause of action. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Perkins [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1110. Refusal to permit the filing of an answer after time on a misconception of the statute will be reviewed. Edwards Loan Co. v. Skinner [Iowa] 102 N. W. 828. Under Code § 412, providing that the trial judge may entertain a motion on his minutes to set aside a verdict and grant a new trial on exceptions or for insufficient evidence or for excessive damages, the ruling may be reviewed. Abernethy v. Yount [N. C.] 50 S. E. 696. Generally unless the order shows on its face or from its nature or the circumstances that it was founded on discretion it will be presumed to have been on the law and, therefore, reviewable. Order granting new trial. Briggs v. Rutherford [Minn.] 101 N. W. 954; Owens v. Savage [Minn.] 101 N. W. 790; Robinson v. Lampel, 89 N. Y. S. 853; Badanes v. Feder, 93 N. Y. S. 478. Where motion is made on all statutory grounds and the order granting it does not state the grounds on which it is granted, but no costs are imposed, it will be presumed that it was granted on some exception taken at the trial. Robinson v. Lampel, 89 N. Y. S. 853. Where an order granting a new trial specifies no grounds, it will be presumed to have been granted on exception taken during the trial, and, therefore, reviewable. Badanes v. Feder, 93 N. Y. S. 478. Where there is sufficient evidence for plaintiff to warrant submission and decision of the case on the merits, a dismissal not appearing to have been on the merits will be presumed to have been for insufficiency of proof, and, therefore, erroneous. Bernstein v. Bear Lithia Springs Water Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1061. Recommittal to an auditor is usually discretionary, but where it appears that improper evidence was admitted, and there is nothing showing that the refusal to recommit was founded on discretion, it will be presumed the ruling was made because the court deemed there was no error. Tripp v. Macomber [Mass.] 72 N. E. 361.

85. Reasonable notice of taking deposition, under Comp. Laws, 1897, § 10,136. McCall v. Jacobson [Mich.] 102 N. W. 969.

86. See 3 C. L. 271.

87. Durfee v. Seale [Cal.] 73 P. 436; Rohloff v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 58 A. 5; Osborne v. Norwalk [Conn.] 60 A. 645; Silverstein v. Gallagher [Conn.] 60 A. 1022; Banks v. McCandless [Ga.] 47 S. E. 332; Friedman v. Verchofsky, 105 Ill. App. 414; E. T. Kenney Co. v. Ruff [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 622; Borror v. Carrier [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 123; Tappen v. Eshelman [Ind.] 73 N. E. 688; Chicago Terminal Transf. Co. v. Vandenberg [Ind.] 73 N. E. 993; Leedy v. Capital Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1000; Hossier Const. Co. v. National Bank of Commerce [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1006; Harndon v. Stultz [Iowa] 100 N. W. 861; Arb v. Farmers' & M.

the wording of this rule varying somewhat in the various jurisdictions.[89] Ap-

Bank [Iowa] 102 N. W. 132; Sands v. Marchionda [Mass.] 71 N. E. 546; Morrill & W. Const. Co. v. Boston [Mass.] 71 N. E. 550; Curran v. Paul Whitin Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 318; Crusoe Bros. Co. v. Kudner [Mich.] 99 N. W. 788; William Barie Dry Goods Co. v. Casler [Mich.] 101 N. W. 215; Fairfield v. Hart [Mich.] 102 N. W. 641; Cannon v. McIntyre [Mich.] 103 N. W. 530; Shipley v. Belduc [Minn.] 101 N. W. 952; Gould v. Alton [Minn.] 101 N. W. 965; Hutzel v. Leach [Neb.] 99 N. W. 255; Malone v. Garver [Neb.] 92 N. W. 726; Cruse v. Holstein Lumber Co. [Neb.] 97 N. W. 295; Gore v. Herring [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1110; Vail v. Goodman [N. J. Law] 53 A. 692; Cosgrove v. Metropolitan Const. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 82; McLaughlin v. Beck [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1081; Lapat v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1084; Isetts v. Bliwise [N. J. Law] 60 A. 200; Morgenthau v. Beaton, 88 N. Y. S. 359; Vogel v. Hawthorne, 88 N. Y. S. 1046; Tom Sweeney Hardware Co. v. Gardner [S. D.] 99 N. W. 1105; State v. Coughran [S. D.] 103 N. W. 31; Peterson v. Christianson [S. D.] 101 N. W. 40; Kittoe v. Willey [Wis.] 99 N. W. 337; Hutchins v. Bautch [Wis.] 101 N. W. 671; Tate v. Jerman [Wis.] 101 N. W. 679; Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363; Burns v. Burns [C. C. A.] 131 F. 238; Lopez v. Collier [C. C. A.] 129 F. 104; San Fernando Copper Mining & Reduction Co. v. Humphrey [C. C. A.] 130 F. 298; West Virginia N. R. Co. v. United States [C. C. A.] 134 F. 198. Except to ascertain that there is evidence to support them. Dilks v. Kelsey [N. J. Law] 59 A. 897. Can be reviewed only when they are essential elements in the determination of questions of law. Kepler v. Lackawanna Lumber Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 284. Where the general finding is not inconsistent with the subordinate facts found and is not controlled by any erroneous view of the law. Hourigan v. Norwich [Conn.] 59 A. 487. As to the intention of a party relative to the place of his residence, in an election contest. Huston v. Anderson [Cal.] 78 P. 626. What is reasonable time to reject stated account is law; what time was taken is fact. Daytona Bridge Co. v. Bond [Fla.] 36 So. 445. Finding concerning notice and quorum of school meeting. Akron Sav. Bank v. School Tp. of Westfield [Iowa] 103 N. W. 968. Whether attorney in case had notice of all proceedings. Williams v. Des Moines Loan & T. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 277. Where an agreed statement of facts on which the case was decided contained the words, "Court may draw such inferences of fact as are warranted," the appeal presents only questions of law as the supreme court cannot draw inferences of fact. Webber v. Cambridgeport Sav. Bank [Mass.] 71 N. E. 567. In proceedings for the allowance of a claim against the estate of a decedent. Mason v. Gaither's Estate [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 277. The court of appeals is not precluded from reviewing the refusal of a peremptory instruction for defendant by the fact that the jury has found a verdict for plaintiff which has been approved by the trial court. Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741. Findings in eminent domain proceeding. Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell [Mich.] 103 N. W. 856. Finding on motion for new trial that jury did not misconduct itself or ignore charge. White Sewing Mach. Co. v. Phoenix Nerve Beverage Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 600. A motion for leave to open a default so far as grounded on accident, mistake or misfortune presents a question of fact only for the decision of the superior court. Hutchinson v. Manchester St. R. Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1011. The question whether the consideration for a note transferred by a husband to his wife was so inadequate as to suggest fraud cannot be considered in the face of the verdict of the jury that it was transferred for a valuable consideration and not in fraud of creditors. Trust Co. v. Bendow [N. C.] 47 S. E. 435. Finding of existence of partnership relation reasonably sustained. Cassidy v. Saline County Bank [Okl.] 78 P. 324. Whether an act of a partner in excess of authority was ratified. Id. Whether a partner acted within the scope of his authority. Id. Facts stated in affidavits filed on a motion to rescind an order dismissing a case for want of prosecution. Bond v. Corbin [S. C.] 47 S. E. 374. Whether plaintiff's possession under a mortgage of the subject-matter of an action of trover at the time of its conversion was fraudulent. Aldrich v. Higgins [Conn.] 59 A. 498. Question of sufficiency of possession of real estate to constitute notice. Butler v. Wheeler [N. H.] 59 A. 935. A finding of fact by the circuit court on appeal from a magistrate. Loveless v. Gilliam [S. C.] 50 S. E. 9. In Federal review of state courts. Chrisman v. Miller, 25 S. Ct. 468; Smiley v. Kansas, 25 S. Ct. 289. On petition for review in bankruptcy. Kenova Loan & Trust Co. v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 717. Whether a bankrupt was insolvent at the time of giving a preference. Kaufman v. Tredway, 25 S. Ct. 33. As to what was the law of another state. Eastern B. & L. Ass'n v. Ebaugh, 185 U. S. 114, 46 Law. Ed. 830. The Federal statute providing that there shall be no reversal in the supreme court or any circuit court on a writ of error for any error of fact is applicable to the circuit court of appeals. Rev. St. § 1011. Paul v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 F. 951.

Questions of law reviewable: Whether an instrument in writing constitutes a lease or a license. Roberts v. Lynn Ice Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 523. The rulings of the trial court consisting of conclusions on the facts found. Peterson v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Conn.] 59 A. 502. A general verdict which may include mixed questions of law and fact is conclusive as to both except so far as they may be saved by some exceptions which the party has taken to the ruling of the court on questions of law. Paul v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 F. 951.

88. If there is any substantial evidence to support it: Schroder v. Aden Gold Min. Co. [Cal.] 78 P. 20; In re Seileck's Will [Iowa] 101 N. W. 453; Schaff & Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 700; Ferguson v. Lederer Strauss & Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 794; Many v. Logeman [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 48; Everman v. Eggers [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 592; Logan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.]

proval by the trial court on motion for a new trial,[90] or the concurrence of several 82 S. W. 126; Bond v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 124; Reed v. Goldneck [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1104; Woodard v. Cooney [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 598; Keller v. Schwartz, 93 N. Y. S. 620; White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836. The fact that there is evidence in the record to support the verdict precludes further review of the denial of a motion for new trial for insufficient evidence. Barricklow v. Stewart [Ind.] 72 N. E. 128. Where one injured in a collision testified that he had looked before going on the track and the company alleged that if he had looked he must have seen the car, the court on appeal cannot say that there was no evidence that he was in the exercise of ordinary care. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker [Ill.] 70 N. E. 624. Though against the preponderance (Crouch v. Colbert [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 992; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Byrne [Ark.] 84 S. W. 469; Heinly v. Goldberg, 105 Ill. App. 30; Turner-Hudnut Co. v. Vaupel, 111 Ill. App. 146; Chicago City R. Co. v. McClain [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1103; Fudge v. Marquell [Ind.] 72 N. E. 565), or weight of the evidence (Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 84 S. W. 755; California Elec. Light Co. v. California Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Cal.] 78 P. 372; Ft. Wayne Traction Co. v. Hardendorf [Ind.] 72 N. E. 593; Ball v. Beaumont [Neb.] 102 N. W. 264; Davey v. Davey [Neb.] 103 N. W. 282; Hehir v. Rhode Island [R. I.] 58 A. 246). That plaintiff is entitled to the sole possession of the property in dispute. Beatty v. Clarkson [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1033.

The weight of the evidence will not be passed upon by the reviewing court. Jordan v. Greig [Colo.] 80 P. 1045; Schergen v. Baerweldt Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 281; Bond v. Wilson [N. C.] 49 S. E. 89; Strickler v. Gitchel [Okl.] 78 P. 94; Richardson v. Penny [Okl.] 78 P. 320; Koon v. Southern Ry. [S. C.] 48 S. E. 86; Stacy v. Cherokee Foundry & Mach. Works [S. C.] 49 S. E. 223. Where there is substantial evidence. Everman v. Eggers [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 592. If there is evidence reasonably tending to support it. Abbott v. Keller [Okl.] 78 P. 377. If any evidence. Ft. Smith Lumber Co. v. Cathey [Ark.] 86 S. W. 806; Swindell Bros. v. J. L. Gilbert & Bro. [Md.] 60 A. 102; Jones v. American Warehouse Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 106. Merely examined to see if there is legal evidence to support the verdict. Unzelmann v. Shelton [S. D.] 103 N. W. 646. Where a peremptory instruction to find for defendant is refused. Blakeslies' Exp. & V. Co. v. Ford [Ill.] 74 N. E. 135. But findings will be reversed when result of misapprehension of force and effect of a group of circumstances. Rosenbloom v. Cohen, 91 N. Y. S. 382. In passing upon the question of variance between the pleadings and proof. Town of Cicero v. Bartelme [Ill.] 72 N. E. 437. In condemnation proceedings the jury is the sole judge of the credibility of witnesses, the weight of evidence and the damage shown. Oregon Short Line R. Co. v. Russell [Utah] 76 P. 345.

The credibility of the witnesses will not be passed upon by the reviewing court. Jordan v. Greig [Colo.] 80 P. 1045; Hess v. Killebrew [Ill.] 70 N. E. 675; Rutherford v. Bath County [Ky.] 80 S. W. 815; Moret v. New Orleans R. Co. [La.] 36 So. 759; Bissell v. York [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 282; Reed v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 65; Watson v. Gross [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 104; Schergen v. Baerweldt Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 281; Estes v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 627; Strickler v. Gitchel [Okl.] 78 P. 94; Mora v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 632.

Number of witnesses: That more witnesses testified against the finding than for it will not warrant reversal. Grace v. Moseley, 112 Ill. App. 100; Pate v. Quinn, 115 Ill. App. 513; Rutherford v. Bath County [Ky.] 80 S. W. 815. The judgment will not be reversed merely because the jury chose to believe the lesser number of witnesses. Brierly v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 451. Not because two defendants contradicted plaintiff whose testimony was not improbable and was slightly corroborated by his wife. Meyerson v. Levy, 90 N. Y. S. 1068.

89. Judgment based on conflicting evidence will not be disturbed. Ryder v. Leach [Ariz.] 77 P. 490; Charonleau v. Shields & Price [Ariz.] 76 P. 821; Cavanaugh v. Wholey [Cal.] 76 P. 979; Southern California Inv. Co. v. Wilshire [Cal.] 77 P. 767; Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co. [Cal.] 77 P. 1124; Gabriel v. Bank of Suisun [Cal.] 78 P. 736; Chapman v. Duffy [Colo.] 79 P. 746; Humphreys v. Brown [Ga.] 47 S. E. 188; Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Turner [Ga.] 47 S. E. 191; Robert Portner Brewing Co. v. Cooper [Ga.] 47 S. E. 631; Holmes v. Holmes [Ga.] 47 S. E. 962; Dickinson v. Stultz [Ga.] 48 S. E. 173; McLeod v. Morris [Ga.] 48 S. E. 188; Tanner v. Lee [Ga.] 49 S. E. 592; Robertson v. Moore [Idaho] 77 P. 218; Deeds v. Stephens [Idaho] 79 P. 77; Dick v. Zimmerman, 105 Ill. App. 615; Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Lindley, 110 Ill. App. 161; Village of Wilmette v. Brachle, 110 Ill. App. 356; Netcher v. Bernstein, 110 Ill. App. 484; Sauter v. Anderson, 110 Ill. App. 574; Demmer v. American Ins. Co., 110 Ill. App. 580; Ramsaier v. Oetting, 115 Ill. App. 70; Chicago & J. Elec. R. Co. v. Herbert, 115 Ill. App. 248; Russell v. Utter, 115 Ill. App. 604; Griffin v. Smith [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 684; Winfield Nat. Bank v. Maurer [Kan.] 79 P. 131; Edwards v. Porter [Kan.] 79 P. 159; Board of Railroad Com'rs of Kansas v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 53; Louisville R. Co. v. De Gore [Ky.] 84 S. W. 326; City of Suburban Tel. Ass'n v. Woodworth [Ky.] 86 S. W. 972; Guthrie v. Carney [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1126; St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. Teutonia Ins Co. [La.] 37 So. 967; Bissell v. York [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 282; Laclede Const. Co. v. T. J. Moss Tie Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 76; Bray v. Riggs [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 116; Johnson v. Chilton [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 648; Edger v. Kupper [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 949; Sperling v. Stubblefield [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1172; Falkinburgh v. Daggs [Mo. App.] 79 S. W. 1176; Bertig-Smythe Co. v. Bonsack Lumber Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 870; Calderwood v. Robertson [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 879; Hennessy v. Kennedy Furniture Co. [Mont.] 76 P. 291; Barnes v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Nev.] 76 P. 931; Way v. Sherman [Mont.] 76 P. 942; Scott v. Ford [Or.] 78 P. 742; Rose v. Flor-verdicts on successive trials, strengthens the presumption in favor of the finding ence Harness Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 556; Thach v. Continental Travelers' Mut. Acc. Ass'n [Tenn.] 87 S. W. 255; Citizen's R. Co. v. Blackman [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 242; Echols v. Jacobs Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hooten [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1095; Young v. Meredith [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 32; Houston Land & Trust Co. v. Hubbard [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 474; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Goodman [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 492; Pickett v. Gleed [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 946; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Kilman [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1050; Gisborn v. Milner [Utah] 79 P. 556; Fulton v. Crosby & Beckley Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1012. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2061, subd. 2, providing for instructions as to how evidence is to be considered. Sarraille v. Calmon [Cal.] 76 P. 497. Setting aside codicil in will contest. French v. French [Ill.] 74 N. E. 403. Party sustained by probabilities contradicted by two witnesses—verdict not disturbed. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Dean, 112 Ill. App. 10. As to whether removal of a telephone instrument was a discrimination against a subscriber. Crouch v. Arnett [Kan.] 79 P. 1086. A conflict cannot be said to arise simply because one witness has testified contrary to another. Moulton v. Sanford, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 59 A. 1023. In Montana if the conflict is trifling or the evidence preponderates against the findings, the facts will be examined. Under Acts 1903 [2nd Ex. Sess. p. 1], making it the duty of the supreme court to determine questions of fact in certain cases. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux [Mont.] 80 P. 6. An amendment by a judge, of a record nunc pro tunc, to speak the truth, on conflicting evidence as to the facts. Kerr v. Hicks, 131 N. C. 90, 42 S. E. 532. Cannot determine the facts though the findings will not support a judgment for either party. Scott v. Ford [Or.] 80 P. 899. Will be examined only to determine whether there is probative evidence to sustain the verdict. Charles E. Bryant & Co. v. Arnold [S. D.] 102 N. W. 303. Decision of state court on conflicting evidence will not be reviewed in Federal court. Gleason v. White, 25 S. Ct. 782. The rule does not apply where all the material evidence is documentary. Talcott v. Mastin [Colo. App.] 79 P. 973. Such evidence raises a question of law, and findings thereon are not conclusive. Sullivant v. Jahren [Kan.] 79 P. 1071. Where the trial was had entirely upon depositions may consider the same as if originally heard there. Roby v. Roby [Idaho] 77 P. 213. The rule is not changed by a statute providing that the reviewing court "shall examine the evidence and render such judgment as shall be just and proper." Board of Railroad Com'rs of Kansas v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Kan.] 80 P. 53.

Where there is sufficient evidence to support it: Carpenter v. Lindauer [N. M.] 78 P. 57. A judgment overruling a motion for a new trial where the evidence is conflicting. Wynn v. J. N. Pease & Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 143. Evidence need only tend to prove essential facts. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 535. On a trial de novo, findings of the trial court will not be disturbed merely because incompetent testimony was admitted if there is sufficient competent evidence to support the findings. Cooke v. Cain [Wash.] 77 P. 682. Appellate court can only determine whether there is evidence reasonably sufficient to support the findings of the jury. If so, verdict must be sustained, though court might have reached different conclusion if left to it in first instance. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Harry [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 735. Will set aside the verdict if it is satisfied that the evidence is plainly insufficient to support it. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Watkins [Va.] 51 S. E. 172. Reversed where record clearly showed that testimony supporting verdict was false and insufficient. Wright v. Kansas City [Mo.] 86 S. W. 452. Verdict resting on testimony of party whose credibility is strongly impeached. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 28. If the evidence is insufficient to support the verdict, the judgment may be reversed. Chicago City Ry. Co. v. Miller, 111 Ill. App. 446. There must be substantial, reasonable and coherent evidence. Moulton v. Sanford, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 59 A. 1023. When the testimony most favorable to plaintiff will not support a necessary inference. Ising v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1092. Where the verdict or finding is clearly unsupported. Ruemmeli-Braun Co. v. Cahill [Okl.] 79 P. 260. A mere scintilla of evidence is not enough. Hehir v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 58 A. 246.

Unless manifestly against weight of evidence: Union Foundry Works v. Columbia Iron & Steel Co., 112 Ill. App. 183; Chicago City R. Co. v. Osborne, 105 Ill. App. 462; Independent Order of Foresters v. Mutter, 105 Ill. App. 518; Tanton v. Boomgaarden, 111 Ill. App. 37; City of Nokomis v. Farley, 113 Ill. App. 161; Steuben County Wine Co. v. McNeeley, 113 Ill. App. 488; Heaton v. Hennessy, 112 Ill. App. 653; Toledo, P. & W. Ry. Co. v. Hammett, 115 Ill. App. 268; Peoria Star Co. v. Lambert, 115 Ill. App. 319; Schoop v. Schoop, 115 Ill. App. 343. A finding that a malt liquor is an intoxicating liquor. Domonick v. State, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 192, 27 Ohio C. C. 305.

Unless clearly and palpably against weight of evidence: Johnston v. McNiff, 113 Ill. App. 1; Colonial Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Klaybolt, 112 Ill. App. 406; Village of Upper Alton v. Green, 112 Ill. App. 439; West Chicago St. Ry. Co. v. Randolph, 113 Ill. App. 274; Buckley v. Acme Food Co., 113 Ill. App. 210; Tremblay v. Tri-City Ry. Co., 113 Ill. App. 56; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Weil, 115 Ill. App. 384; Humphries v. Raritan Copper Works [N. J. Law] 60 A. 62; Erdman v. Stache, 90 N. Y. S. 375; Lamm v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 390; Unzelmann v. Shelton [S. D.] 103 N. W. 647; Promontory Ranch Co. v. Argile [Utah] 79 P. 47. Unless manifestly wrong. Tyler v. Haggart [S. D.] 102 N. W. 682. Unless so against the weight of evidence as to indicate, clearly, want of proper consideration of the evidence, mistake by overlooking material evidence, or prejudice, or some other below.[91] The presumption in favor of findings of fact in the lower court operates improper cause. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

Unless clearly against weight of evidence: Howard v. Perrin [Ariz.] 76 P. 460; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Haecker, 110 Ill. App. 102; Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Nelson, 115 Ill. App. 432; Lamm v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 390; Curtis v. Oregon R. & N. Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 133. If the evidence of appellant, sustained by the undisputed facts and circumstances, plainly preponderates over that of the appellee, as shown by the records. Furst v. Galloway [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 146. Finding for plaintiff on demurrer to evidence by defendant will not be disturbed unless it is against the plain and decided preponderance of the evidence or is wholly without evidence to support it. Barrett v. Raleigh Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 154. The finding of the trial court upon a question of fact, as to which there is conflicting evidence, will be reversed when there is a decided preponderance of evidence against it, and the finding itself is inconsistent with what the evidence, on the whole, shows was intended to be the relation of the parties toward one another. Pearson v. West Virginia Lime & Cement Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 418. Refusal of new trial is not disturbed unless allowing all presumptions the preponderance is so decided as to carry a conviction that the verdict was unjust and wrong. Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Lindsey [Ala.] 37 So. 289. Unless so against the weight of evidence as to indicate, clearly, want of proper consideration of the evidence, mistake by overlooking material evidence, or prejudice, or some other improper cause. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909.

Every presumption in favor of finding of trial court: St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hill [Ark.] 86 S. W. 303; Dick v. Zimmerman, 105 Ill. App. 615; Chaffe v. Barataria Canning Co. [La.] 36 So. 943; McNair v. Moore [S. C.] 50 S. E. 197. Only in the absence of substantial evidence will they be disturbed. Bank of Willows v. Small [Cal.] 78 P. 263. In reviewing the weight of the evidence, the fact that the jury were instructed too favorably for the unsuccessful party will be considered. Colonial Mut. Fire Ins. Co. of Philadelphia v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302. Though the proof be doubtful, the judgment will not be disturbed. Controversy involving title to real property. Black v. Cox [Ky.] 82 S. W. 278. All conflicts resolved in favor of prevailing party. Lackland v. Lexington Coal Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 397. A judgment for plaintiff in a street railroad crossing accident case should not be reversed for failure to give a peremptory instruction for defendant, unless after giving plaintiff the benefit of the most favorable construction of all the evidence, and every reasonable inference in his favor that may be drawn therefrom, no other reasonable conclusion can be arrived at than that plaintiff was guilty of such contributory negligence as to preclude recovery. Asphalt Granitoid Const. Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 741. Where verdict was set aside on law alone, facts will be resolved in favor of appellee. Johnson v. Holmes [Mass.] 74 N. E. 364. Though the findings below are presumptively right, it is the court's duty to review the evidence whenever its sufficiency is presented to ascertain whether there is a preponderance against the finding. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14. Presumption is stronger where the court below acted on oral evidence. The Gladestry [C. C. A.] 128 F. 591; Barton Bros. v. Texas Produce Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 355; Melton v. Rittenhouse, 111 Ill. App. 30; Hess v. Killebrew [Ill.] 70 N E. 675; Bartholomew v. Green [Iowa] 102 N. W. 777; Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 502; Heyman v. Heyman [Ill.] 71 N. E. 591; Columbia Theatre Amusement Co. v. Adsit [Ill.] 71 N. E. 868; Williams v. Moulton [Mass.] 71 N. E. 808; Evans v. Woodsworth [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1082. Whether injury resulted to reversion by cutting timber. Anderson v. Cowan [Iowa] 101 N. W. 92. To overcome the presumption a preponderance of evidence against facts must clearly appear. Clarke v. Conners [S. D.] 101 N. W. 883; Morris v. Reigel [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1086; First Nat. Bank v. Buetow [Wis.] 101 N. W. 927. Evidence is to be treated as on demurrer to the evidence. Rocky Mount L. & T. Co. v. Price [Va.] 49 S. E. 73.

90. Georgia Ry. & Electric Co. v. Blacknall [Ga.] 50 S. E. 92; Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Jordon [Ga.] 50 S. E. 123; Thompson v. Stottler [Iowa] 100 N. W. 852; Lovely v. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 894. The supreme court can rarely set aside a verdict dependent on the weight of the evidence and approved by the circuit judge. Code 1899, c. 131, § 9, requiring the evidence to be certified, does not change rule. Buck v. Newberry [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 889. A verdict on conflicting evidence, approved by the trial court, is conclusive. Gaston v. Johnson [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 276; Taylor v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 738; Southern Ry. in Kentucky v. Forsythe's Ex'rs [Ky.] 82 S. W. 385. Where he saw and heard the witnesses unless manifestly against the weight of the evidence (Piper v. Andricks, 209 Ill. 564, 71 N. E. 18), or an abuse of discretion appears (Sutherland v. Council Bluffs [Iowa] 99 N. W. 572). Finding of jury in highway proceedings. Speck v. Kenoyer [Ind.] 73 N. E. 896. Undue influence or capacity. French v. French [Ill.] 74 N. E. 403. Personal action in tort for damages. Meyer v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 267. Where there is sufficient evidence to warrant it. Benning v. Horkan [Ga.] 48 S. E. 123; Holbrook v. Hodgson Cotton Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 916. Unless it is manifestly the result of passion or prejudice. Snider v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 530. Will not interfere where trial court has approved verdict by refusing new trial, though court believes that they ought to have found differently. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Weathers [Ga.] 47 S. E. 956. There being an express denial by defendant of the notice and fraud alleged, the evidence supporting the verdict in his favor, and the equally in favor of verdicts,[92] findings by the court in law[93] or equity cases,[94] in finding having been approved by the presiding judge. Buchanan v. Ellison [Ga.] 49 S. E. 724. His approval entitled to weight, though did not preside at trial. Does not carry same force as that of trial judge. Spearman v. Sanders [Ga.] 49 S. E. 296.

91. Vansant v. Miller [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1091; Atwood Lumber Co. v. Watkins [Minn.] 103 N. W. 332; Brown v. Paper Co., 69 N. J. Law, 474, 55 A. 87; Anderson v. Kannon [Neb.] 99 N. W. 824. Where three juries have found same way (Parmly v. Farrar, 204 Ill. 38, 68 N. E. 438; Hinchliff v. Rudnik [Ill.] 72 N. E. 691), except where there is no evidence whatever to support the verdict (Sergent v. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co., 89 N. Y. S. 35). A verdict may be set aside the third time because there is no evidence to support it. Meinrenken v. New York, etc., R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1015. Will not be set aside the second time on the ground that it is against the weight of the evidence (Green v. Barnes Mfg. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 171), though this rule will not prevent setting it aside for excessiveness (Green v. Barnes Mfg. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 171). Concurrent findings of two lower courts. United States v. Stinson, 25 S. Ct 426; Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Aitken, 25 S. Ct. 317. Will not interfere where plaintiff has recovered a verdict for the third time, and some new evidence was introduced on the last trial, and the evidence is sufficient to sustain the verdict, which has been approved by the presiding judge, the supreme court will not interfere. Western & A. R. Co. v. Robinson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 978. A judgment having been reversed because of an erroneous directed verdict for defendant, judgment for plaintiff on retrial will not be reversed for refusal of the judge to direct for defendant, the evidence being more favorable to plaintiff than on the first trial. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Shoemaker [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 1019. Rule is confined to the effect of the determination by the trier of facts and does not extend to court questions arising from the admitted or uncontroverted facts of the case. Fulton v. Grieb Rubber Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 37.

92. Cronenwett v. United States Health & Accident Ins. Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 848; Stout v. William Campbell Co. [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 492; Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Berkes [Ind.] 70 N. E. 815; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Cavanaugh [Ind. App.] 71 N. E. 239; American Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Green [Ind.] 73 N. E. 707. Verdicts. Perdue v. Gill [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 844; D. M. Osborne & Co. v. Waterloo [Mich.] 101 N. W. 801; Keys v. Second Baptist Church [Me.] 59 A. 446; Anderson v. Kannon [Neb.] 99 N. W. 824; Fremont Brewing Co. v. Schulz [Neb.] 101 N. W. 234; Davey v. Davey [Neb.] 103 N. W. 282; Berliner v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 455; Borgia v. Gange, 88 N. Y. S. 923; Booth v. Fordham, 91 N. Y. S. 406; Neppach v. Oregon & C. R. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 482; Robinson Mach. Co. v. Hazel Kirk Gas Coal Co., 204 Pa. 177, 53 A. 772. Findings of fact on the trial of a caveat to a will. Struth v. Decker [Md.] 59 A. 727. Probate appeal. Crocker v. Crocker [Mass.] 73 N. E. 1068.

If evidence to support it. Watson v. Fagner, 105 Ill. App. 52; Nichols v. Shaw, 105 Ill. App. 114; Minneapolis Threshing Mach. Co. v. Burton [Minn.] 103 N. W. 335. When the testimony if true justifies it. State v. Fair [Wash.] 76 P. 731. If the instructions and rulings on evidence were proper. Ver Steeg v. Becker-Moore Paint Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 346. Not conclusive if evidence and instructions were disregarded. On an issue of contributory negligence. Woolf v. Washington Ry. & Nav. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 997. Unless unsupported by, or flagrantly against, the evidence. South. Covington & C. St. R. Co. v. Weber [Ky.] 82 S. W. 986. Unless palpably erroneous. Campbell v. Emslie [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1030.

Unless so clearly against evidence as to denote passion or prejudice: West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Brown, 112 Ill. App. 351; Norfolk Ry. & Light Co. v. Spratley [Va.] 49 S. E. 502; Ingram v. Wishkah Boom Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 34; City of Chicago v. Merwin, 105 Ill. App. 168.

Based on conflicting evidence: Green v. Soule [Cal.] 78 P. 337; Roche v. Baldwin [Cal.] 76 P. 956; House v. Johnson [Colo. App.] 76 P. 743; Fitzhugh v. Brown [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1091; Trawick v. Trussell [Ga.] 50 S. E. 86; Kendrick State Bank v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Idaho] 79 P. 457; Spencer v. Morgan [Idaho] 79 P. 459; Watson v. Molden [Idaho] 79 P. 503; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Stratton, 111 Ill. App. 142; Moore v. Grachowski, 111 Ill. App. 216; White v. Reed & Morton, 111 Ill. App. 262; Brown v. McNair [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 677; Zimmerman v. Robinson & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 814; Chicago G. W. R. Co. v. Troup [Kan.] 76 P. 859; Graham v. Troth [Kan.] 77 P. 92; Young v. Irwin [Kan.] 79 P. 678; Garred v. Blackburn [Ky.] 82 S. W. 234; Trimble v. Swinford [Ky.] 86 S. W. 686; Lee v. Huron Indemnity Union [Mich.] 97 N. W. 709; Spacek v. Schaub [Mich.] 103 N. W. 546; Van Slyck v. Arseneau [Mich.] 103 N. W. 571; Butte Min. & Mill. Co. v. Kenyon [Mont.] 76 P. 696; Devencenzi v. Cassinelli [Nev.] 81 P. 41; Strickler v. Gitchel [Okl.] 78 P. 94; Oakes v. Prather [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 557; Richmond Passenger & Power Co. v. Steger [Va.] 49 S. E. 486; Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 839; Beebe v. Redward [Wash.] 77 P. 1052; Hayes v. Ray [Wash.] 79 P. 495; Go Fun v. Fidalgo Island Canning Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 797; Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 1126; Hawkins v. Casey [Wash.] 80 P. 792. Unless clearly wrong. Florida Cent. & P. R. Co. v. Usina [Ga.] 50 S. E. 667. Where there is evidence to sustain it. Ashley v. Heinrichs, 105 Ill. App. 102. When the evidence, viewed in the light of the surrounding circumstances so strongly preponderates against the verdict as to amount to a moral certainty that the jury erred in its conclusion, the verdict must be set aside. Mouiton v. Sanford, etc., R. Co. [Me.] 59 A. 1023. Unless clearly against weight of evidence. Curtis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co. [Wash.] 78 P. 133. Will be set aside where plainly and clearly wrong and when, to allow it to stand, would be a plain injustice to the defendant. Chapman v. Liverpool Salt & Coal the absence of a statute to the contrary,[95] or by referees,[96] masters,[97] auditors,[98]

Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 601. In reviewing the evidence the court must recognize the existence of certain facts controlled by physical laws and disregard testimony in conflict therewith. Quigley v. Naughton, 91 N. Y. S. 491. Where plaintiff testifies that he looked for an approaching car and did not see it, the alleged physical fact that had he looked he must have seen it is not controlling on the appellate court. Chicago City R. Co. v. Barker [Ill.] 70 N. E. 624. A verdict in a will case stands on the same ground as a verdict in any other jury case. Floore v. Green [Ky.] 83 S. W. 133. Capacity and undue influence. In re McKenna's Estate [Cal.] 77 P. 461; Bailey v. Bailey [Ky.] 82 S. W. 387. Refusal to grant a new trial based on finding of the jury on conflicting evidence. Stowe v. La Conner Trading & Transportation Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 856.

Where jury has viewed premises: Though the evidence for plaintiff is weak, the verdict will not be disturbed, the jury having by consent of parties personally inspected the place where the tort was committed. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Mims [Ga.] 50 S. E. 137; St. Louis & O. R. Co. v. Union Trust & Sav. Bank [Ill.] 70 N. E. 651; Dowie v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Ill.] 73 N. E. 354.

Amount of damages: Kuck v. Johnson [La.] 38 So. 559; Gorham v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 574; Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675; Nichols v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 78 P. 866. Though the verdict is for the highest amount justifiable under the evidence. Jennings v. Ingram, 111 Ill. App. 261. A verdict for damages in condemnation proceedings will not be disturbed as excessive where it is less than half what it might have been under the evidence. Board of Levee Com'rs of Yazoo-Mississippi Delta v. Lee [Miss.] 37 So. 747. Objection to the verdict as excessive is not an error in point of law which can be reviewed under the act of 1902. P. L. 1902, p. 565. Roth v. Slobodien [N. J. Law] 60 A. 59. On conflicting evidence as to the amount of damages, the verdict, though high, cannot be set aside where within the scope of plaintiff's testimony. Zelley v. West Jersey & S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 9. Statutory authority to grant a new trial on the ground of excessiveness of verdict will not be exercised unless the injustice is so apparent as to show great abuse of discretion in the trial judge in authorizing the verdict to stand. Act May 20, 1891, P. L. 101. Stauffer v. Reading [Pa.] 57 A. 829. Will not be set aside as excessive unless so excessive as to shock the court's sense of justice. Quigley v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 958. Will not be set aside because damages seem too large. Normile v. Wheeling Traction Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1030. Verdict conclusive where no error of law appears on the record. Southern Pac. Co. v. Maloney [C. C. A.] 136 F. 171; Walker Mfg. Co. v. Knox [C. C. A.] 136 F. 334.

93. Alabama & G. Lumber Co. v. Tisdale [Ala.] 36 So. 618; Baldridge v. Leon Lake Ditch & Reservoir Co. [Colo. App.] 80 P. 477; Gregory v. Filbeck's Estate [Colo. App.] 77 P. 369; Shelley v. Wescott, 23 App. D. C. 135; Rademacher v. Greenwood, 114 Ill. App. 542; Langdon v. Hughes, 113 Ill. App. 203; Glasscock v. Des Moines Ins. Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 503; Summers v. Summers [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1154; Baquet v. New Orleans & C. R., Light & Power Co. [La.] 36 So. 606; Roth v. Forsee [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 913; Mauch v. Hornback [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 536; Dowaglac Mfg. Co. v. Hellekson [N. D.] 100 N. W. 717; Gorman v. McGowan [Or.] 76 P. 769; Good v. Smith [Or.] 76 P. 354; Hodges v. People's Bank [S. C.] 50 S. E. 192; Paul v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 F. 951; Streeter v. Sanitary Dist. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 124; York v. Washburn [C. C. A.] 129 F. 564; Eureka County Bank v. Clarke [C. C. A.] 130 F. 325; American Bridge Co. v. Camden Interstate R. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 323. Unless it appears that an obvious error has intervened in the application of the law, or a serious mistake has been made in the application of the law. Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363. Where the only error assigned is that the judgment is not supported by the evidence, the judgment will be affirmed if upon consideration of the whole record there is sufficient competent evidence to sustain it. Hutzel v. Draper [Neb.] 99 N. W. 263. Review limited to the rulings made during the progress of the trial which are presented by the bill of exceptions. Streeter v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago [C. C. A.] 133 F. 124. Where a magistrate refuses to act because of insufficiency of proof without further specification, his decision will be upheld if there is any inadequacy. Refusal to issue body execution. Salsberg v. Tobias, 88 N. Y. S. 967. Errors alleged in findings subject to revision by the circuit court of appeals, that court being limited in that connection to the question whether there is any evidence on which such findings could be made. Paul v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 F. 951. Where writs of error are prosecuted in cases tried to the court on stipulation waiving jury trial, the court of appeals is limited to reviewing exceptions taken to the admission or exclusion of evidence, and to rulings on questions of law. Kruger v. Constable [C. C. A.] 128 F. 908. Where the record of a habeas corpus proceeding is such that a fact might have been found either way, the appeal court is not at liberty to interfere with the finding. Meyers v. Clearman [Iowa] 101 N. W. 193. A trial justice having the witnesses before him and hearing them testify is better able to judge of their credibility and fairness than the reviewing court. Morning Journal Ass'n v. Harris, 92 N. Y. S. 316. The supreme court cannot review findings of fact of the circuit court on appeal from a magistrate. James v. Northeastern R. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 504. Where at the conclusion of the trial both parties move for a directed verdict, the court is thereby authorized to find the ultimate facts, and the only inquiries on review are whether there was any proper evidence to sustain its findings and whether the law was correctly applied thereto. Insurance Co. of North America v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 794.

Supported by evidence: Bird v. Potter or auditing judges,[99] or special tribunals,[1] especially where declared by statute to [Cal.] 79 P. 970; Atkins v. Boyle [Colo.] 80 P. 1067; Hereford v. Benton [Colo. App.] 80 P. 499; Pearsell Mfg. Co. v. Jeffreys [Mo.] 81 S. W. 901; Bankers' Union of the World v. Pickens [Kan.] 79 P. 148; Ortiz v. First Nat. Bank [N. M.] 78 P. 529; Olds v. Traders' Bank of Kansas City, Mo. [Okl.] 78 P. 93; Fleer v. Reagan, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 170; Wolfe v. Second Nat. Bank [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 243. The decision of the judge as to the competency of a witness, when such competency depends on the determination of a question of fact. Carroll v. Barber [Ga.] 47 S. E. 181. In an election contest if there is evidence legally sufficient to sustain it, though there may be a preponderance of evidence against it. Sand. & H. Dig. § 2698, providing that evidence is to be taken by depositions, and that court shall determine the same as a summary proceeding, does not change rule. Schuman v. Sanderson [Ark.] 83 S. W. 940. The court's finding as to the residence of decedents, in a suit by an administrator, where it is sustained by a preponderance of the evidence. Sommer v. Franklin Bank [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1025; Watt v. Amos [Okl.] 79 P. 109.

Conflicting evidence: Larsen v. Allan Line S. S. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 181; Deeg v. Ettleson [Wash.] 80 P. 437; Wheeler v. Watson [Colo.] 81 P. 269; Farmers' Irr. Ditch Co. v. Consolidated Hillsborough Ditch Co. [Colo.] 81 P. 272; In re Gianelli's Estate [Cal.] 79 P. 841; Columbia Copper Min. Co. v. Duchess Min., Mill. & Smelt. Co. [Wyo.] 79 P. 385; Sheehan v. Scott [Cal.] 79 P. 350; Lake v. Owens [Cal.] 79 P. 589. That representations were false and known to be so. Willey v. Clements [Cal.] 79 P. 850. A judgment overruling defendant's motion for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was contrary to law and the evidence will be affirmed, where the evidence, though conflicting, is sufficient to sustain a finding for plaintiff. Johnson v. Harley [Ga.] 48 S. E. 685. Action on motion to open default. Savings Bank of Santa Rosa v. Schell [Cal.] 76 P. 250.

94. Benson v. Taylor [Ga.] 50 S. E. 348; Bouton v. Cameron [Ill.] 68 N. E. 800; Baumgartner v. Bradt [Ill.] 69 N. E. 912; Van der Aa v. Van Drunen [Ill.] 70 N. E. 33; Spacy v. Ritter, 214 Ill. 266, 73 N. E. 447; Calkins v. Worth [Ill.] 74 N. E. 81; Gannon v. Moles, 111 Ill. App. 19; Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 502; Colbert v. Moore [Mass.] 70 N. E. 42; J. Regester's Sons Co. v. Reed [Mass.] 70 N. E. 53; Herlihy v. Coney [Me.] 59 A. 952; Stocker v. Nemaha County [Neb.] 100 N. W. 308; Paige v. Dempsey, 90 N. Y. S. 1019; Byers v. Byers [Pa.] 57 A. 62; Gundaker v. Ehrgott [Pa.] 58 A. 476; First Nat. Bank v. McKinley Coal Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 484; Obney v. Obney, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 122; Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82; Paulus v. M. M. Buck Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 594. Where after disagreement of the jury in an equity suit the parties stipulate that the presiding judge find the facts on the evidence heard by the jury, a stenographer's transcript being furnished him, his findings have the same weight as those of a chancellor on oral testimony. Hess v. Killebrew [Ill.] 70 N. E. 675. Where there is uncontradicted evidence supporting it (Coleman v. White [Miss.] 38 So. 336), the supreme court must accept it unless it is clearly and manifestly wrong (Melchoir v. Kahn [Miss.] 38 So. 347). Under the new equity rules in Pennsylvania the findings of the court are like the findings of a master under the old practice. Obney v. Obney, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 116. That fraud has not been proven. Holt v. Murphy [Okl.] 79 P. 265. Unless an obvious error has intervened in the application of the law, or some grave mistake has been made in the consideration of the facts. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 126 F. 82.

On conflicting evidence: R. Dinwiddie & Co. v. Nash [Ky.] 86 S. W. 517; F. Weikel Chair Co. v. Napper [Ky.] 86 S. W. 528; Flowers v. Moorman & Hill [Ky.] 86 S. W. 545. Are cases where the fact of conflict does not deprive petitioner of a remedy by which to preserve the status until the disputed issue may be submitted to a jury in a trial in which both parties have the right to cross-examine all the witnesses. Injunction. Armand v. Lehman [Ga.] 47 S. E. 949. Will be supported unless clearly erroneous. Jennings v. Wyzanski [Mass.] 74 N. E. 347. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 21, amended by Acts 1903 (2d Ex. Sess.) p. 7, c. 1, providing that on appeal in equity cases question of fact arising on the evidence presented by the record may be determined, a finding will not be disturbed unless against the preponderance of evidence. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 80 P. 918. An appellate court should not reverse on the facts unless there is a reasonable probability that the result will be different on a new trial. Sternaman v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 904. An appellate court will be slow to reverse a judgment for defendant on the facts in a personal injury case, where the only evidence is the uncorroborated testimony of plaintiff. Hartman v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 352. Where a case is reported to the law court with a stipulation that it is to be heard as if a verdict had been rendered for plaintiff and a motion for new trial filed for defendant, all conclusions and inferences of fact which a jury would have been warranted by the evidence in finding for plaintiff must be found by the court for plaintiff. McTaggart v. Maine Cent. R. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 1027.

95. In Indiana by statute appeals in which the court renders judgment for the right party on the whole record are provided for both at law and in equity. Acts 1903, p. 341, c. 193, § 8, directing consideration of facts in cases tried by the court, will be restricted to such cases as where by reason of evidence resting in documents or the clear character of the evidence the finding can as matter of law be said to be wrong. Hudelson v. Hudelson [Ind.] 74 N. E. 504. The appellate court is obliged to weigh the evidence only in cases not triable by a jury. That a case was in fact tried by the court is immaterial. Hanrahan v. Knickerbocker [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 1137. Does not apply where jury was waived. First Nat. Bank v. Beach [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 287. Applies to cases formerly of exclusively equitable jurisdiction. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.]

be prima facie correct;[2] but in equity[3] and other cases which are reviewable de novo they are not conclusive.[4]

73 N. E. 109; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodward [Ind.] 73 N. E. 810. The statute does not contemplate a trial de novo, upon the evidence, nor require the court to weigh conflicting oral testimony; the judgment of the trial court as in other cases will be presumed to be correct and will not be disturbed unless it is affirmatively shown not to be sustained by the evidence, or clearly against the weight thereof. Parkison v. Thompson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 109. An assignment of error in a cause triable by a jury that the court erred in overruling a motion for new trial does not present the question of the sufficiency of the evidence as contemplated by the act. Hoosier Const. Co. v. National Bank of Commerce [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 473. Where a cause tried by the court is submitted on appeal on all the evidence preserved by the bill of exceptions, the court is required by the statute to determine what is right on the whole case. Acts 1903, p. 341, c. 193, § 8. Sargent Glass Co. v. Matthews Land Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 474.

In Washington, findings by the court are not, like a verdict, binding upon the supreme court, but are rather advisory. Garfinkle v. Sullivan [Wash.] 80 P. 188.

96. Citizens' Coal Min. Co. v. McDermott [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 459. Supported by competent evidence. Stephens v. Parvin [Colo.] 78 P. 688.

When based on sufficient evidence and confirmed by the court. Chancellor v. Teel [Ala.] 37 So. 665; Curnen v. Reilly, 90 N. Y. S 974; Fenn v. McCarrell [Pa.] 57 A. 1108; Bierbrauer v. Kuhnel [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1018; In re Lawrence [C. C. A.] 134 F. 843; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Hampton [C. C. A.] 134 F. 734.

Of commissioner. Page v. Melrose [Mass.] 71 N. E. 787; Poling v. Condon-Lane Boom & Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 279; W. & T. Allen & Co. v. Maxwell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 242; Wolfe v. Second Nat. Bank [W. Va.] 47 S. E. 243.

Referee in bankruptcy. In re Shults, 135 F. 623; In re Royce Dry Goods Co., 133 F. 100.

97. Joslin v. Goddard [Mass.] 72 N. E. 948.

When confirmed. Approved by chancellor. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Jacobson, 105 Ill. App. 283; Torrey v. Dickinson, 111 Ill. App. 524. Though the evidence is such that an opposite finding if found would have been sustained. Joslin v. Goddard [Mass.] 72 N. E. 948. On conflicting evidence. Last Chance Min. Co. v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. & Concentrating Co. [C. C. A.] 131 F. 579. In the absence of manifest error. Buckingham v. Estes [C. C. A.] 128 F. 584.

98. When confirmed: Relating to compensation of an assignee for benefit of creditors. In re Powel's Estate [Pa.] 57 A. 981. Finding that building for which lien is claimed is a "substantial addition." Dunbar v. Washington Foundry & Mach. Co. [Pa.] 59 A. 434. Based on sufficient evidence. In re Powel's Estate [Pa.] 57 A. 981.

99. Haye's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 570; Casely's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 646; Hortz's Estate, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 489. Findings in a complicated accounting based on sufficient evidence. Jackson v. Smyth, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 545. Only reversed for clear error. Hortz's Estate, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 489.

When based on sufficient evidence and confirmed. Haye's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 570. Finding as to amount of trustee's claim for counsel fees, when confirmed, will not be disturbed in the absence of clear error. Casely's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 646.

1, 2. Findings of state corporation commission fixing railroad rates. Const. § 156f. Norfolk & P. Belt Line R. Co. v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 39. On appeal from an order of the board of railroad commissioners issuing a certificate of public convenience, questions of fact will be considered by the New York court of appeals only so far as to determine whether there was evidence to support the findings. In re Wood [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 561. Where after hearing a local assessment has been confirmed by the lower court, it will not be reversed on appeal in the absence of manifest error. Clark v. Chicago, 214 Ill. 318, 73 N. E. 358.

3. Will be deferred to. Myers v. Schuchmann [Mo.] 81 S. W. 618; Jack Harvard Zinc Min. Co. v. Continental Zinc & Lead Min. & Smelt. Co. [Mo. App.] 80 S. W. 12. Supreme court will not interfere with finding that sheriff's return of service of summons was true, where two chancellors refused to believe the only witness who testified that it was false. Smoot v. Judd [Mo.] 83 S. W. 481. While appellate court will review the evidence in a divorce case, the finding of the trial court merits much deference and consideration. Schweikert v. Schweikert [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1095. Persuasive only. Goerke v. Rodgers [Ark.] 86 S. W. 837. Evidence will be examined with a view to sustaining the judgment, but if insufficient the judgment will be reversed. Presumption in favor of judgment. Small v. Harrington [Idaho] 79 P. 461. Where there is little or no conflict in the evidence and the finding of the chancellor appears to be erroneous, the decree will be reversed. Shackleford v. Elliott [Ill.] 70 N. E. 745. Findings by the court in a common law case have the same weight as a verdict, but in an equitable case the court will weigh the evidence. Wood v. Howk [Ky.] 79 S. W. 1184. Failure to make special findings of facts and conclusions of law, as required by Rev. St. 1899, § 695, in proceeding to restrain infringement of trade-mark held not reversible error, since such findings are not conclusive. W. A. Gaines & Co. v. E. Whyte Grocery, Fruit & Wine Co. [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 648. The conclusions of the trial court derived from the consideration of the testimony of witnesses examined in the presence of the court will not be regarded unless upon the whole record, in view of the position of the trial court in weighing such testimony, they appear to be right. Naudain v. Fullenwider [Neb.] 100 N. W. 296. Notwithstanding the findings of the trial court are always presumptively right in an equitable action, yet it is the duty of the court on appeal to review the evidence when its sufficiency is properly presented to ascertain whether or not there is a clear preponderance against the finding. First Nat. Bank v. McCarthy [S. D.] 100 N. W. 14. Though the verdict of a jury in an

(§ 13) G. Rulings and decisions on intermediate appeals.[5]—Where an intermediate appeal is had, the findings of fact therein made are usually final[6] or at least will be reluctantly disturbed;[7] review in the court of last resort being confined to questions of law.[8] The judgment only of the appellate court and not its opinion is reviewable,[9] and the review is limited to the questions there litigated.[10] equity case is merely advisory and the appeal court does not review it, a verdict sustaining the finding adds great weight to it and precludes a reversal in the absence of the most cogent reasons. Thompson v. Hardy [S. D.] 102 N. W. 299. Under the practice in Alaska whereby equitable and legal powers are exercised by the one judge in the same trial, his findings are not conclusive as in law actions, because the action was mainly legal, but where made in dispensing equitable relief, they lose their conclusiveness and are open to review as those of a chancellor. Shields v. Mongollon Expl. Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 539.

4. Election contest. Shields v. McMahan [Tenn.] 81 S. W. 597.

5. See 3 C. L. 282.

6. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Newmiller [Ill.] 74 N. E. 410. Proximate cause of death. Triggs v. McIntyre [Ill.] 74 N. E. 400. The supreme court will not pass upon the question whether the facts sustained the conclusion of the probate judge where that question was not considered by the circuit court on appeal to it. Circuit court has power to review all findings of probate court. Code Civ. Proc. § 55. Ex parte Small [S. C.] 48 S. E. 50. Conclusive on excessiveness of verdict. International, etc., R. Co. v. Goswick [Tex.] 85 S. W. 785. The conclusion of a circuit judge on a question of fact on appeal from a judgment of a magistrate is conclusive on the supreme court. Corley v. Evans [S. C.] 48 S. E. 459; Stacy v. Cherokee Foundry & Mach. Works [S. C.] 49 S. E. 223. Finding that judgment not supported by the evidence as to one cause of action is not reviewable. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R. [S. C.] 49 S. E. 568. "Unanimous decision of appellate division" does not include unanimous decision by general term of city court affirmed by appellate division and by leave appealed higher. Construing Const. art. 6, § 9. Klein v. East River Elec. Light Co. [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 495. In Illinois an affirmance of a judgment by the appellate court is conclusive as to the facts on the supreme court. Amount of damages. Dunn v. Crichfield [Ill.] 73 N. E. 386. Where the appellate court affirms the judgment of the trial court, questions of fact therein are settled, though the affirmance is by a divided court, the two sitting judges disagreeing. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schmitz [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1050. Where there is any competent evidence, which with its reasonable inferences tends to prove the controverted fact, the judgment of the appellate court is final. Illinois Steel Co. v. Olste [Ill.] 73 N. E. 422; Delaware & H. Canal Co. v. Mitchell [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1026.

7. Brignac v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. [La.] 36 So. 595. Will be done only in exceptional cases. Id.

8. The supreme court of Illinois will not consider on appeal from the appellate court whether the weight of the evidence supports the verdict or finding. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Chiaventone, 214 Ill. 314, 73 N. E. 420; Kantzler v. Benzinger, 214 Ill. 589, 73 N. E. 874; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Schmitz [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1050; Illinois Terminal R. Co. v. Mitchell [Ill.] 73 N. E. 449; United States Wringer Co. v. Cooney [Ill.] 73 N. E. 803; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crose [Ill.] 73 N. E. 365; Chicago City R. Co. v. Bundy [Ill.] 71 N. E. 28; Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Donnell [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1015; Chicago City R. Co. v. Lannon [Ill.] 72 N. E. 585. Where the appellate court reverses the circuit court but its judgment recites no findings of facts different from those found by the circuit, the supreme court will presume the appellate court found the same facts as the circuit but differed only in the application of the law. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. People [Ill.] 73 N. E. 393. Where the appellate court in Illinois reverses a judgment in favor of plaintiff on questions of law and holds that the facts found are not sufficient in law to sustain a cause of action, such question will be reviewed on further appeal to the supreme court. Kantzler v. Benzinger [Ill.] 73 N. E. 874. Where the appellate court does not incorporate in its judgment any finding of fact, it is presumed that the facts were found the same in that court as in the trial court. People v. Lindblom [Ill.] 74 N. E. 73. On appeal from a judgment or second appeal to the appellate court it will be presumed in the absence of a showing to the contrary that the appellate court looked to its former judgment and directly determined that its former judgment was not res judicata of the matters now presented. Blakeslee's Express & Van Co. v. Ford, 215 Ill. 230, 74 N. E. 135. The excessiveness of the verdict is a question of fact not open to the supreme court in Illinois. City of Elgin v. Nofs [Ill.] 72 N. E. 43. Affirmance is necessary in the supreme court of Illinois where there is no ruling in the record on a question of law, the judgment of the appellate court being conclusive on the facts. Luther v. Crawford, 213 Ill. 596, 73 N. E. 430. The New York court of appeals will determine whether the evidence warranted submission to the jury where defendant moved for dismissal and it does not appear from the order or judgment that the affirmance by the appellate division was unanimous. Perez v. Sandrowitz [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 228. The unanimous affirmance of a judgment founded wholly on immaterial evidence, every portion of which was duly objected to, will not prevent the consideration of questions raised by exceptions to the rulings by the court of appeals. Woods Motor Vehicle Co. v. Brady [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 674. Where the inferences from uncontradicted evidence all point one way there is no question of fact and the court of appeals has jurisdiction notwithstanding a unanimous reversal by the appellate division. In re Totten [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 748.

9. Kehl v. Abram, 210 Ill. 218, 71 N. E. 347. Error cannot be assigned on the opinions of the appellate courts of Illinois nor

On appeal from district court of a case originating before a justice, the review is of what the district court did and not what the justice did.[11] A party voluntarily assuming a position in the appellate court cannot shift it on further appeal.[12]

(§ 13) H. Effect of decision on former review in the same case.[13]—In case of reversal everything decided,[14] and in case of affirmance everything that might have been raised,[15] unless decision thereon is pretermitted,[16] is the law of the case on subsequent review of the same case.[17] Whether right or wrong,[18] the can the supreme court consider an assignment that the appellate court refused to weigh or consider the evidence on controverted questions of fact presented to that court for its decision. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smith [Ill.] 70 N. E. 628.

10. The supreme court of Illinois considers only such questions as were litigated in the appellate court irrespective of whether they were saved in the trial court. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Melville [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1052; Kehl v. Abram, 210 Ill. 218, 71 N. E. 347; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Prickett [Ill.] 71 N. E. 435. The appellant cannot raise in the supreme court a question he did not raise in the appellate court though he was appellee there. Columbia Theatre Amusement Co. v. Adsit [Ill.] 71 N. E. 868. Matters assigned but not argued in the appellate court cannot be raised in the supreme court. Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386; United States Wringer Co. v. Cooney [Ill.] 73 N. E. 803.

11. Simmons v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 954.

12. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co. [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1084.

13. See 3 C. L. 284.

14. A judgment of reversal involves only the questions decided. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Hill, 24 S. Ct. 538; Harrison v. McReynolds [Mo.] 82 S. W. 120. The opinion of an appellate court upon a question not raised by the pleading is not binding on the intermediate appellate court. Nabours v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 153. The doctrine of "law of the case" extends only to the questions presented and distinctly passed upon on the former appeal. Hunter v. Porter [Idaho] 77 P. 434.

15. All questions which were or might have been presented on the appeal are settled by the decision. Laughlins' Ex'r v. Boughner [Ky.] 84 S. W. 300; McNeill v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1145.

16. A remark in the opinion that conceding all the facts claimed by a party the court is not clear whether he ought to recover does not prevent other propositions decided in the opinion from being the law of the case. Leicher v. Keeney [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 920.

17. City of Covington v. Asman [Ky.] 80 S. W. 154; Franz v. Mendonca [Cal.] 80 P. 1078; McNeill v. Thompson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1145; Second Nat. Bank v. Fitzpatrick [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1150; Leicher v. Keeney [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 920. Stating the rule and collating many authorities. Halstead v. Sigler [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 257; Guarantee Co. of N. A. v. Phoenix Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 170; Ludington v. Patton [Wis.] 99 N. W. 614; Farrel v. Bouck [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1018; John O'Brien Lumber Co. v. Wilkinson [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1050; Wells & McComas, Council No. 14, Junior Order United American Mechanics v. Littleton [Md.] 60 A. 22; New Omaha Thomson-Houston Electric Light Co. v. Rombold [Neb.] 102 N. W. 475; Parrotte v. Dryden [Neb.] 102 N. W. 610; Illinois Central R. Co. v. Seitz, 111 Ill. App. 242; Bostwick v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1042; Skilton v. Coddington, 93 N. Y. S. 460; Heyman v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 342, City of Hickory v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 683; Lewis v. Prichard [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 743; De Loach v. Planters' & People's Mut. Fire Ass'n [Ga.] 50 S. E. 141; Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 80 P. 918; James v. E. G. Lyons Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 275; Blankenship v. Whaley [Cal.] 76 P. 235; Brooks v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Utah] 76 P. 881; Brooks v. Barth [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 873; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Blackley, Hurst & Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 196; Taussig v. St. Louis & K. R. Co. [Mo.] 85 S. W. 378; Preston v. Price [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1183; Ayer & Lord Tie Co. v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1096; Porter v. State [Neb.] 103 N. W. 669; Merritt v. Dewey, 115 Ill. App. 503; Hayward v. Smith [Mo.] 86 S. W. 183; Ridgley v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Neb.] 103 N. W. 669; Olney v. Boston & M. R. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387; Bostick v. Jacobs [Ala.] 37 So. 629; Albright v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 719; Gila Valley, G. & N. R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 80 P. 337; Limberg v. Glenwood Lumber Co. [Cal.] 78 P. 728; Raymon v. Glover [Cal.] 78 P. 3; Bailey v. Cascade Timber Co. [Wash.] 77 P. 377; Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v. Galvin [Ky.] 81 S. W. 239; Chenault v. Quisenberry [Ky.] 81 S. W. 690; Harrington v. Rawls [N. C.] 48 S. E. 571; Vann v. Edwards [N. C.] 47 S. E. 784; Warner v. Grayson, 24 App. D. C. 55. Right to recover concluded by former remand to take and state an account. Nutt v. Knut [Miss.] 36 So. 689. The determination of a legal question by a court becomes the law of the case, unless reversed by an appellate court. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Toledo, 121 F. 734. Where a cause is remanded by the appellate court generally, its judgment is not a final judgment and is not res judicata. Blakeslee's Exp. & Van Co. v. Ford, 215 Ill. 230, 74 N. E. 135. Reversal of an order denying a reference to ascertain damages determines that plaintiff is entitled to damages. Periman v. Bernstein, 87 N. Y. S. 862. A case once decided by the supreme court will not be reopened as to questions previously considered unless it is rendered necessary by a change in the views of one or more of the justices participating therein. Jacobs v. Queen Ins. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1090. Where an assignment of error to the overruling of a demurrer was waived on a prior appeal by not discussing it, the objection to the sufficiency of the complaint will not be considered on a subsequent appeal. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. Moore [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 479. Where a defendant in error, whose interests were adverse to those of its principle applies, however, only to the decisions on points necessary to a determination of the case,[19] and cases in which the evidence is the same.[20] And where new evidence was introduced on the second trial, the court will examine as to its effect,[21] and the court will always look into the record on the former appeal to ascertain what facts were then before it in order to determine the extent of the application of the rule.[22] Where the constitutionality of proceedings for a local assessment has been fully considered and confirmed, appellant cannot on a subsequent appeal gather additional facts and frame additional reasons to secure a revision on the ground of the unconstitutionality of the proceedings.[23] Where there has been no change in the status of parties and no property right has vested under the ruling, the court will reverse its first ruling, if clearly erroneous, especially when a constitutional question is involved.[24] The binding effect of the decision on a retrial in the lower court[25] and the effect of appellate decisions as precedents in other cases are elsewhere treated.[26]

§ 14. Provisional, ancillary, and interlocutory relief[27] necessary or proper to the due administration of appellate jurisdiction, may be allowed by the reviewing court.[28] The issues appealed will not be decided in advance of hearing in order to protect the property pendente lite.[29] In Louisiana where a bonded release of a judicial sequestration pending appeal is sought, the matter will be remanded for co-defendants and identical with those of plaintiff in error, did not assign cross error on a question not raised by plaintiff's assignment of errors, but argued the question fully in his brief, such defendant could not, after an adverse decree, sue out an original writ to review the same question. Suburban R. Co. v. City of Chicago [Ill.] 68 N. E. 422. A decision that a declaration did not state a cause of action with sufficient certainty is not a decision that a good cause of action was not stated and will not require such decision on second appeal. Hinchcliff v. Rudnik [Ill.] 72 N. E. 691. A statement in the prior opinion that certain persons were proper parties to an action to prevent "further waste" is not a decision that such action was for waste. Halstead v. Sigler [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 257. No exception to this rule will be made when the question determined is one of practice and the parties have been guided by it in the second trial. Williams v. Miles [Neb.] 102 N. W. 482.

18. Heller v. Dailey [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 821.

19. City of Rushville v. Rushville Natural Gas Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 87.

20. Seeton v. Town of Dunbarton [N. H.] 59 A. 944; Buehner Chair Co. v. Feulner [Ind.] 73 N. E. 816; Quirk v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 815; Union Nat. Bank v. Leary, 88 N. Y. S. 652; Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins. Co. v. Robbins & Myers Co., 88 N. Y. S. 996. Decision that plaintiff cannot recover on the facts. Thuis v. Vincennes [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1098. That negligent act was not within scope of servant's employment. Gibson v. International Trust Co. [Mass.] 72 N. E. 70. Excessiveness of damages. Rueping v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 710. A holding that the evidence was not sufficient to support the judgment is not binding on the second appeal where the evidence is different on the second trial. Lanza v. Le Grand Quarry Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 488. It is even on third appeal where no other or different evidence is produced. Meinrenken v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1015.

21. Hamilton Nat. Bank v. American L. & T. Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 202. Mere cumulative evidence of the same facts does not avoid the rule. Westfall v. Wait [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1089.

22. Westfall v. Wait [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1089. In the absence of the notice and record of a prior appeal it will be presumed that it was from the entire judgment. Talcott v. Wabash R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 1037.

23. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. City of New Haven [Conn.] 60 A. 651.

24. Board of School Directors of Buncombe County v. Asheville [N. C.] 50 S. E. 279.

25. See post, § 15F.

26. See Stare Decisis, 4 C. L. 1512.

27. See 3 C. L. 286. In addition to relief in the appellate court, such as does not conflict with the supersedeas may be granted below. See ante, § 7.

28. The Louisiana court of appeals has power to prevent vexatious execution of judgments appealed to it. State v. Leche [La.] 36 So. 868. If appellee proceeds to execute a judgment suspensively appealed, the supreme court may rule him to show cause against the setting aside of such acts. Instituting judicial mortgage after appeal. It need not be done in this case by application to judge who rendered judgment. Dannemann v. Charlton [La.] 36 So. 965. The trial court may in Louisiana sequester lands in dispute pending appeal from injunction against trespass. State v. De Baillon [La.] 37 So. 534. May sequester oil produced from lands pending suspensive appeal from dissolution of an injunction granted to lessee against lessor. State v. De Baillon [La.] 37 So. 481. On appeal by the wife in good faith in a divorce suit where the trial court has not ordered the husband to pay a sufficient sum to defray the expenses of the appeal and the wife has no means the appellate court may tax any deficiency against the full proofs of conditions,[30] and the appellate court cannot pass a sentence of nullity on a judgment if the grounds for it are not in the record.[31] Relief ancillary to a concurrent remedy before the trial court may be granted by it though it accomplishes that which the reviewing court withdrew.[32]

§ 15. Decision and determination. A. Affirmance or reversal.[33]—Assuming the existence[34] and the proper acquisition of appellate power,[35] the revision of the record in the manner and bounds already pointed out[36] will ordinarily lead to an affirmance or reversal according to the absence or presence of error. A profitless reversal[37] or one to allow recovery of nominal damages[38] will not be granted, nor will a judgment be reversed for errors which in no way prejudiced the party complaining;[39] but where the record shows a mistrial, reversal and new trial must follow.[40] Pro forma affirmance is sometimes allowed for failure to properly prosecute the appeal, such affirmance being governed by the same considerations as dismissal and treated with it.[41] It has been said, however, that dismissal rather than affirmance should be ordered where further proceedings on the merits are possible.[42] Pro forma reversals are authorized in some jurisdictions.[43] Reversal or affirmance is usually entire,[44] though a reversal in part of a severable judgment is husband. Roby v. Roby [Idaho] 77 P. 213.

29, 30. Jennings Heywood Oil Synd. v. Houssiere Latveille Oil Co. [La.] 38 So. 458.

31. State v. Sommerville [La.] 36 So. 864.

32. Injunction in aid of action of nullity after dismissal of suspensive appeal. State v. Sommerville [La.] 36 So. 864.

33. See 3 C. L. 286.

34. See ante, §§ 4, 5.

35. See ante, §§ 6-11.

36. See ante, § 13.

37. Garlington v. Davison [Ga.] 50 S. E. 667. Where effect would be to direct a decree having the same effect. Buster v. Wright [C. C. A.] 135 F. 947. Decree dismissing bill showing lack of jurisdiction on its face. Chamberlin v. Peoria, D. & E. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 118 F. 32. Erroneous order fixing time to file appeal bond will not reverse on error where the case is affirmed on the merits. Day v. Davis, 213 Ill. 53, 72 N. E. 682. Exceptions will not be sustained in any event if the exceptant must ultimately fail on the undisputed facts. Orr v. Oldtown [Me.] 58 A. 914. Where the judgment is the only one possible under indisputable evidence, errors at the trial will not be looked for. Hawke v. Kerr [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1023. On appeal from mandamus to compel payment of officer's salary, abolition of the office will be considered though not raised below. Reed v. Dunbar, 41 Ore. 506, 69 P. 451.

38. Hopedale Elec. Co. v. Electric Storage Battery Co., 89 N. Y. S. 325; White v. Sun Pub. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 890. Where such a judgment would establish plaintiff's title to specific property also, he is entitled to reversal. Rollins v. Sidney B. Bowman Cycle Co., 89 N. Y. S. 289.

39. See Harmless, etc., Error, 3 C. L. 1579.

40. Marcus v. Graver [N. J. Law] 58 A. 564; People v. Wells [N. Y.] 70 N. E. 926. Where an erroneous view of the law is given to the jury, the verdict must be set aside whether the error is chargeable to counsel, the presiding judge, or the supreme court. Olney v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387. Where the court cannot say in view of the evidence and instructions that the verdict is right on the evidence, it will not uphold a judgment as being right on the merits notwithstanding erroneous instructions. Nickey v. Dougan [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 288. Where counsel for plaintiff appellee admits that he has no case unless based on a theory not claimed or set up below, he admits his case away and reversal must follow. Sartor v. Smith [Iowa] 101 N. W. 515. Where a complaint wholly fails to set out a cause of action and cannot be made good by amendment, judgment will be reversed. Harshman v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 412. If the defect of jurisdiction of a court springs from inexcusable departure from established principles governing the exercise of judicial power, its judgment is erroneous, but not void, and may and ought to be set aside on appeal. Harrigan v. Gilchrist [Wis.] 99 N. W. 909. A final judgment rendered in the absence of a necessary party must be reversed and remanded in order that proper parties may be brought in regardless of how the defect is brought to the attention of the court. Powell v. People, 214 Ill. 475, 73 N. E. 795.

41. See ante, § 11 G.

42. Where dismissal is necessary the judgment should be affirmed only where further proceedings upon the merits would be improper or impossible. Walton v. Hartman [Wash.] 80 P. 196.

43. Failure of appellee to file briefs does not necessarily lead to reversal (Hanrahan v. Knickerbocker [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1137; Dickinson v. Morgenstern, 111 Ill. App. 543), but may in case of great negligence for which no excuse is shown (Moore v. Zumbrum [Ind.] 70 N. E. 800; Union Traction Co. v. Forst [Ind.] 70 N. E. 979; Miller v. Julian [Ind.] 72 N. E. 588.

44. Though a recovery of damages and penalty is reversed for error affecting the penalty alone, the reversal should be in toto. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 44. An erroneous judgment will be reversed as a whole though no errors are assigned as to parts thereof. Town of Newbold v. Douglas [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1040. Where the judgment requires respondent to proper,[45] but the benefits of reversal will be limited to plaintiffs in error who complained of the judgment.[46] When contradictory verdicts in favor of two several parties are returned, the one which is sustained by the evidence, if either, will be affirmed and the other disposed of as the case may require.[47] The reversal of a final order dismissing summary proceedings carries with it the reversal of a judgment for costs thereafter entered.[48] Reversal in the absence of error is occasionally ordered in the interests of justice.[49] Where the justices are equally divided in opinion, the judgment stands affirmed by operation of law.[50] In Florida a majority is constitutionally required for decision, hence the common-law rule of affirmance by a divided court is abrogated but if the division seems permanent on a full attendance[51] all should vote for affirmance which will be binding only in the instant case and will constitute no precedent.[52]

(§ 15) B. Transfers and removals and certifications and reservations.[53] —The Missouri court of appeals will certify cases involving constitutional points to the supreme court.[54] The court will of its own motion transfer a case of which it has no jurisdiction to that court which has.[55] Certification back will not be made where the matter was once decided in the intermediate court and might write out a formula and also adjusts the interests of the parties in the capital stock of a corporation, a reversal of the judgment in so far as it adjusts the property interests will carry with it the part relating to the formula though there is no appeal from that part. Hunter Smokeless Powder Co. v. Hunter, 91 N. Y. S. 620. Where a joint motion for a new trial is properly overruled as to any one of the defendants, the judgment should be affirmed. Lydick v. Gill [Neb.] 94 N. W. 109. If a judgment against several is bad as to one it must be reversed as to all. Cummings v. Smith, 114 Ill. App. 35; South Side El. R. Co. v. Nesvig [Ill.] 73 N. E. 749. Cannot be reversed in part. Hutchinson v. Sine, 105 Ill. App. 638.

45. If an issue erroneously decided is separable from other issues in the case, an appellate court may order a new trial of such issue only. Osmers v. Furey [Mont.] 81 P. 345. Ancillary proceedings may be separated from the main action, and the former reversed and the latter affirmed.

Action of assumpsit; attachment proceedings ancillary thereto. Mullen v. Camp [Fla.] 35 So. 402. Judgments against property owners for special assessments being several, a reversal as to one has no effect on the others. Harman v. People [Ill.] 73 N. E. 760; Goldstein v. Milford [Ill.] 73 N. E. 758.

46. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Brown [Colo.] 76 P. 799. Where an appeal by petitioner in condemnation proceedings is only from a part of the judgment awarding damages to one defendant, on dismissing the appeal and affirming the judgment, the supreme court should not direct entry of judgment in favor of other defendants. Port Angeles Pac. R. Co. v. Cooke [Wash.] 80 P. 305.

47. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co. v. McManegol [Neb.] 103 N. W. 305.

48. Simmons v. Pope, 88 N. Y. S. 122.

49. Collating the cases under Shannon's Code, § 4905, providing for remand when complete justice cannot be done by reason of some defect in the record not due to culpable negligence. Bank of Winchester v. White [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 697. Though, on a demurrer to the declaration being sustained, plaintiff elects to stand thereon and appeals, where the appellate court also holds the declaration to be demurrable, it may give him a second opportunity to amend when the interests of justice seem to demand it. Where readily inferable from declaration that cause of action existed, held that judgment would be reversed and remanded if appellant within ten days would file notice of intention to amend. Otherwise would be reversed. District of Columbia v. Ball, 22 App. D. C. 543.

50. Seaboard Air Line R. v. Jones [Ga.] 47 S. E. 319; Parry v. Johnson [Ga.] 48 S. E. 29; Bank of Unadilla v. Georgia & A. R. Co. [Ga.] 48 S. E. 112; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlin, 114 Ill. App. 141; Evening Post Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 81 S. W. 264; Jacobs v. Queen Ins. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1090; Commercial Bank v. Towers [Fla.] 37 So. 742, citing State v. McClung [Fla.] 37 So. 51; Holton v. Patterson [Fla.] 38 So. 352; Moore v. State [Ga.] 49 S. E. 617. Where there is a principal and a reconventional demand it is a concurrence if a majority agree on the principal, and a majority differently composed agree on the reconventional demand. Losecco v. Gregory [La.] 32 So. 985.

51. State v. McClung [Fla.] 37 So. 51.

52. State v. McClung [Fla.] 37 So. 51, following California where there is a like provision.

If there be less than six judges present a circuit judge should be called in pursuant to Act May 20, 1903, c. 5123. Id.

53. See 3 C. L. 291.

54. Lehner v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1028; Bristol v. Thompson [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 780; Myher v. Myher [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 116.

55. Netter v. Reggio [La.] 37 So. 620. The court of appeals will not of its own motion raise the question of jurisdiction where the party entitled to raise the question declines to do so. Manning v. Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co., 18 App. D. C. 191, decree reversed Chesapeake & P. Tel. Co. v. Manning, 186 U. S. 238. 46 Law. Ed. 1144 have been further appealed but was not.[56] Where a case is pending on appeal in the superior court, the judge has no power to remand the same for trial to the court from which it was appealed.[57] The losing party in the appellate court after the overruling of his motion for a rehearing is entitled to a transfer of the case to the supreme court in certain cases,[58] but one who procured reversal and a mandate for new trial does not lose merely because he deems himself entitled to a final judgment, and a motion to modify the mandate to direct final judgment is not a motion for a rehearing.[59] On an equal division of judges in the appellate court of Indiana, the cause will be transferred to the supreme court.[60]

(§ 15) C. Remand or final determination.[61]—On reversal, the ordinary practice is to remand for a new trial;[62] but if the error is clerical[63] or a mere matter of computation,[64] or if the pleadings show want of jurisdiction or complete lack of merits,[65] or if the appellate court has all the facts before it and can do complete justice,[66] the error will be corrected and the judgment affirmed as re-

56. What the court of appeals has dismissed for supposed want of jurisdiction unappealed further cannot be certified back to it by the supreme court where it has come on appeal direct from the trial court. Muntz v. Jefferson R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 586.

57. Fish v. Du Bose [Ga.] 48 S. E. 915.

58, 59. Standard Pottery Co. v. Moudy [Ind.] 74 N. E. 242.

60. Haughton v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 652.

61. See 3 C. L. 291.

62. On reversal of a judgment non obstante the cause will be remanded with leave to appellee to perfect his motion for new trial where such a motion was made in connection with his motion for judgment. Nelson v. Grondahl [N. D.] 100 N. W. 1093. Where plaintiff, in deference to an adverse intimation from the court, submits to a nonsuit, he is not entitled on a reversal to a judgment in his favor but must undergo a trial de novo. City of Hickory v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 683. Where the record on appeal in a suit for infringement of patent fails to show any connection between defendant and the act of infringement proved, the court will not remand the case to permit the amendment of the pleadings and the introduction of new evidence to prove such connection, nor to substitute as defendant the party shown to have infringed. National Casket Co. v. Stolts [C. C. A.] 135 F. 534. Where a judgment quieting title on a tax deed is reversed for invalidity of the tax title but plaintiff is entitled to a lien for subsequent taxes paid the case will be remanded for proof of their amount. Green v. McGrew [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 832.

63. Broll v. Wishert [Tex. Civ. App.] 79 S. W. 1089; New Orleans Terminal Co. v. Teller [La.] 37 So. 624; Hanrick v. Hanrick [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 795. Verdict and judgment awarding plaintiff a half interest in land reformed where defendant claimed only one-third. Cummins v. Cummins [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 561. A judgment dismissing an appeal from the county court to the circuit court and remanding the cause "for further proceedings in accordance with the findings," was modified into a simple judgment of dismissal. In re Silverman's Estate [Wis.] 102 N. W. 891. Judgment having been erroneously entered for defendant it was reversed and remanded with instructions to enter decree for plaintiff in accordance with his claims on appeal. Meffert v. Dyer [Mo. App.] 81 S. W. 643.

64. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Honea [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 267; Broocks v. Masterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 822. Improper allowance of interest may be corrected without reversal. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 298; Howard v. Perrin [Ariz.] 76 P. 460; Gerst v. St. Louis [Mo.] 84 S. W. 34.

65. A decree opening an interlocutory order without a showing of the proper circumstances will be reversed unless the bill shows no equity when it will be finally dismissed. Macfarlane v. Dorsey [Fla.] 38 So. 512. Dismissed for want of equity on face of bill. Florida Packing & Ice Co. v. Carney [Fla.] 38 So. 602. Remand will be made where a curative act affecting rights and status of parties was passed after judgment. Curing charters and organization of municipalities. In re Lindner [La.] 38 So. 610. Remand with direction to dismiss. Bill showing no equity. Hendry v. Whidden [Fla.] 37 So. 571. Bill showing full legal remedy. Williams v. Peeples [Fla.] 37 So. 572.

66. Johnston v. Gerry [Wash.] 76 P. 258; Leffingwell v. Miller [Colo. App.] 79 P. 327; Harris-Hearin Fountain Co. v. Pressler [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 664; Cox v. Burdett, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 346. On defendant's appeal in an action for wrongful death, where the lower court erroneously divided the verdict between the widow and minor children and their attorneys, the court of appeals will protect the rights of the minors, set aside the judgment, and enter judgment in accordance with the verdict though the error did not affect defendant. In such case defendant not entitled to costs, where he did not raise the objection in the lower court. Shippers Compress & Warehouse Co. v. Davidson Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1032. The court of appeals has power, on appeal from a judgment in an equitable proceeding, to decide the case on its merits and finally dispose of it. Appeal from dissolution of temporary injunction in suit for trespass. State v. Douglass [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 87. Where new trial was granted on the erroneous con-turned,[67] or the party may be required as a condition of affirmance to cure the error by remittitur,[68] and this is the usual practice in correcting an excessive recovery,[69] as where the judgment includes damages established by incompetent evidence, which can be remitted by plaintiff.[70] If it clearly appears that no different clusion that the evidence was against the findings there should be remand with directions to enter final judgment unless a motion in arrest or non obstante shall be made and sustained. Philadelphia Underwriters' Ins. Co. of North America v. Bigelow [Fla.] 37 So. 210. In Illinois in mandamus the judgment of the appellate court holding that the writ should issue and remanding the cause with orders that its issue should also in terms award the writ, and on further appeal to the supreme court that court will on affirming the judgment enter final judgment awarding the writ and remand the cause with orders to issue it. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. People [Ill.] 73 N. E. 393. Where the defendant duly excepted to the granting of an extra allowance, the appellate court may modify the judgment by deducting such allowance. Keuhner v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1055. Where plaintiff appeals from a judgment only in so far as it is unfavorable to him and the unfavorable portion, though unauthorized cannot be eliminated without prejudice to defendant, reversal entire and not modification is necessary. Electric Boat Co. v. Howey, 89 N. Y. S. 210. Where a judgment of the municipal court in replevin erroneously awarded possession it may be modified on appeal by striking out such provision. Levy v. Hohweisner, 91 N. Y. S. 552. Decree dismissing, without prejudice, a bill in equity for specific performance of contract, affirmed with leave to apply to lower court for leave to amend, in view of fact that equities deserving of protection would probably be barred in any other proceeding, decree of affirmance to be made absolute in case complainants did not before mandate went down, elect to apply for such leave. Johnson v. Elkins, 23 App. D. C. 486. Decree modified so as to correct defect in form in failing to adjudge in terms that defendant should pay sum found to be due to complainant, or that complainant should recover it, and affirmed as modified. Eclipse Bicycle Co. v. Farrow, 23 App. D. C. 411.

67. Under Code, § 957, giving court power to render such judgment as shall appear to it ought to be rendered. On reversal of judgment reversing proper order of corporation commission. North Carolina Corp. Com. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 191. The appellate court may modify the judgment below. Cox v. Burdett, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 346; Barber v. Maden [Iowa] 102 N. W. 120. Judgment for more than one penalty will be modified. In re Transfer Penalty Cases, 92 N. Y. S. 322. Judgment for nominal damages cannot be increased to a substantial sum though the proof is clear. Dixon v. James [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 673. The appellate division, on appeal from an interlocutory judgment cannot reverse a finding of fact contrary to that of the trial court, and modify the interlocutory judgment in accordance therewith, though it has power to reverse a finding of fact and order a new trial. New York Bank Note Co. v. Hamilton Bank Note Engraving & Printing Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 48. Where it is not possible that the facts will be otherwise on a retrial and sufficient is before the court to advise it, the judgment should be modified and affirmed. Heerwagen v. Crosstown St. R. Co. of Buffalo [N. Y.] 71 N. E. 729.

68. Where the amount of damages awarded evinces passion, prejudice or caprice, the appellate court may require a remittitur as a condition of affirmance. Action for personal injuries. Alabama G. S. R. Co. v. Roberts [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 314. In an action for personal injuries any error in permitting a recovery for items of expenditure alleged but not proved is curable on appeal by remittitur of the amount claimed therefor. Medical attendance. Brown v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 310. Judgment affirmed on condition that plaintiff write off attorney's fees, not recoverable because no notice of intent to sue therefor was given. Pritchard v. McCrary [Ga.] 50 S. E. 366. Judgment overruling motion for new trial affirmed on condition that plaintiff would voluntarily write off the recovery of attorney's fees, there being no evidence authorizing their recovery. Minnesota Lumber Co. v. Hobbs & Livingston [Ga.] 49 S. E. 783. Where evidence demanded finding for plaintiffs of five-sixths undivided interest in land, and only effect of sending case back for new trial would be to prolong litigation as to remaining one-sixth, held that judgment would be affirmed provided plaintiff would write off from verdict directed in their favor a one-sixth undivided interest in the land and one-sixth of the amount found by the jury in their favor as mesne profits, but otherwise it would be reversed. Georgia Iron & Coal Co. v. Allison [Ga.] 49 S. E. 618. On appeal by plaintiff from a judgment for insufficient damages, in a case where the justice might with propriety have awarded a larger sum, affirmance will be conditioned on defendant's waiving costs on appeal. Wappus v. Donelly, 91 N. Y. S. 381. Where affirmance is made notwithstanding error involving a trivial sum, appellee's costs will be diminished to the extent of the error. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 111 Ill. App. 571.

69. Wagner v. Ellis [Miss.] 37 So. 959.

70. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668; Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co. [Wash.] 79 P. 287. In Maryland plaintiff may release excess of damages over that laid in the declaration and the court of appeals may enter judgment accordingly. Finch v. Mishler [Md.] 59 A. 1009. An error in the admission of evidence which would merely have affected the amount of recovery may be cured by remittitur. Chicago City R. Co. v. Miller, 111 Ill. App. 446. Remittiturs are allowable in the court of appeals of Illinois in actions ex result could be reached, judgment absolute will follow the reversal,[71] or the case may be reversed with specific directions to the court below as to its corrective action.[72] The court will sometimes suggest amendments to avoid needless litigadelicto to such sum as would seem not excessive damages. Chicago City R. Co. v. Gemmill [Ill.] 71 N. E. 43. Where the option is given plaintiff to take a judgment for a less sum than that awarded by the jury and avoid a new trial, the sum should be placed as low as an impartial jury would likely award, and where the same option is given defendant, the sum should be placed as high as an impartial jury would be likely to award under the evidence. Heimlich v. Tabor [Wis.] 102 N. W. 10; Rueping v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 710. Physicians' services improperly included in judgment for infant. Judgment affirmed on condition of striking out amount thereof. Koehler v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1056. Remittitur and division of costs awarded where appellee was entitled to recover in part. Govern v. Russ [Iowa] 100 N. W. 325; Childs v. Swift, 91 N. Y. S. 768. Damages included for which recovery could not be had in the action. Dundon v. Interurban St. R. Co., 87 N. Y. S. 452. An affirmance may be conditioned on the remittitur of excessive or illegal sums awarded or on consent that the judgment be modified by striking out the objectionable relief. Teasley v. Bradley [Ga.] 47 S. E. 925.

71. Fatal objection to plaintiff's right to maintain action. Denton v. Bennett, 92 N. Y. S. 522; Munch v. New York, 93 N. Y. S. 509. A summons may be held void and quashed and the action dismissed for error in refusing to quash the summons. M. Fisher Sons & Co. v. Crowley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422. Judgment for defendant, after his admission of liability for a certain sum in his answer will be reversed and judgment entered for the admitted amount. Rose v. Florence Harness Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 556. Where an agreed state of facts, adopted by the trial court as the basis of its findings and spread upon the record, includes all the facts essential to a determination of the controversy, it will be treated as a special verdict upon which the court of review will render the same judgment that the trial court ought to have rendered. National Bank of New Jersey v. Berrall [N. J. Law] 58 A. 189. Where a special verdict is taken and decision of motion for nonsuit reserved, the appellate division by express provision of the code may direct such judgment on the special verdict as the law requires. Code Civ. Proc. § 1187. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 93 N. Y. S. 958. Where counsel for defense stated that no new trial was desired and if a reversal could not be had without a new trial, defendant would waive error, held that, as a new trial would be necessary the error was waived and judgment affirmed. Strong v. Weber [Mich.] 102 N. W. 991. When all the facts are before the appellate court, the case will not be remanded because of an error in the charge, but will be finally disposed of. City of Shreveport v. Youree [La.] 38 So. 135.

72. A decree may be reversed with directions to recommit when based on a report so complicated by the exceptions as to be incorrigible without restating an account. Clark v. Hendricks Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 455. On a certification from the court of appeals, the supreme court may in its discretion remand direct to the district court to admit the raising of important questions. Scovell v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 582. On reversal of a dismissal of the complaint on the merits, the court may direct that necessary parties be joined. Bunn & Trawick v. England [Ga.] 50 S. E. 914. A bill wholly without equity will be remanded with directions to dismiss even when not objected to for that reason. City of Jacksonville v. Massey Business College [Fla.] 36 So. 432. If judgment is based on an unintelligible or ambiguous instrument there may be a remand with leave to amend. S. D. Moody & Co. v. Spotorno [La.] 36 So. 836. Where suit was upon three items of account, upon the first of which it was held that plaintiff was entitled to recover and upon the other two that he was not, and it was possible, by reason of admissions in appellant's brief as to how the verdict was made up, to eliminate the improper items from the verdict, held that the case would be remanded to the lower court with directions to vacate the judgment there rendered and enter a new one for the amount for which it was held that plaintiff was entitled to recover, reforming the verdict if necessary. Armour & Co. v. Gundersheimer, 23 App. D. C. 210. Where the uncontroverted evidence shows that the case was wrongly decided on a question of fact, the case will not be reversed but remanded with directions. State v. Merchant [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 483. If it clearly appears that the evidence does not support the verdict and that a new trial will not change the result, the appellate court will reverse the judgment and remand the case with direction to enter judgment for the adverse party. Ruemmeli-Braun Co. v. Cahill [Okl.] 79 P. 260. On reversal of a judgment non obstante veredicto the court will order judgment on the verdict. Highlands v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co. [Pa.] 58 A. 560. Where the error extends only to the entry of the judgment, reversal will be merely with directions to properly enter the judgment. Gage v. People, 213 Ill. 410, 72 N. E. 1084; Id. 213 Ill. 457, 72 N. E. 1099. Where judgment is rendered upon a materially erroneous statement of account, it will be reversed and the cause remanded with directions to recommit it to a commissioner for a restatement in accordance with the principles announced by the appellate court. Lewis v. Prichard [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 743. Upon the filing by defendant of a plea of prescription, the case will be remanded for trial of that plea. Myers v. Lansing [La.] 38 So. 85. On reversal in an action on a judgment because the judgment sued on has been reversed, the case will be remanded to await final judgment in the other case. Avocato v. Dell' Ara [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 444.

tion or error.[73] The power to make final determination is one to be exercised with great caution,[74] and will not be exercised where a retrial may cast new light on the case,[75] and rarely where the appeal is from a judgment not finally disposing of the merits.[76] Remand for further proceedings may be made without decision where necessary to justice.[77] If, by lapse of time, the lower court has lost its power to issue writs of possession in condemnation proceedings, the supreme court will issue them or remand the cause to the court below for that purpose.[78]

(§ 15) D. Findings, conclusions and opinions on which decision is predicated.[79]—The purpose of an opinion being to explain and perpetuate the rules of law decided, a written opinion may be dispensed with on affirming a fact case.[80] A mere reference in the opinion to a legal act will not be stricken out on the ground that it might intimate the illegality of the act and thus do harm.[81]

(§ 15) E. Modifying or relieving from appellate decree.[82]—An error of the clerk of the appellate court in adding an extra allowance to the judgment in a case where such allowance was not proper is clerical and may be corrected, though

73. Dekle v. Barkley [Fla.] 37 So. 581.

74. Final determination can be made in the appeal court only where the evidence is such that the court can definitely determine the rights of the parties. Avery Mfg. Co. v. Smith [N. D.] 103 N. W. 410. Judgment reversing referee's report had no opinion and hence the grounds of decision and some of the facts were uncertain and doubtful. Horn & Brannen Mfg. Co. v. Steelman, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 126. Where the evidence is such that a jury trial is appropriate final judgment cannot be rendered for plaintiff on reversal, though it was error to direct a verdict for defendant. Bass v. Rublee [Vt.] 57 A. 965. No final judgment can be rendered on appeal on a demurrer to the evidence where there is no joinder in demurrer in the record. Id. A cause will be remanded when it appears from the record that plaintiff may have a cause of action and to reverse without remanding might produce complications. Durham v. Stubbings, 111 Ill. App. 10.

75. Final judgment on reversal will be rendered only where the evidence is so conclusive that there is no issue of fact. Eastham v. Hunter [Tex.] 86 S. W. 323. Though the supreme court is authorized in certain cases to render such judgment as the lower court should have rendered if jurisdiction is purely appellate, it can do so only when the issue was first determined in the lower court. Hecht v. Carey [Wyo.] 78 P. 705. The court will remand on reversal for failure of proof if it appears that more light may be cast on the case on a retrial. Sauter v. Anderson, 112 Ill. App. 580. Where as a rule of practice it would be proper to remand the cause with directions to enter judgment, if such a course would be manifestly unjust, a new trial will be ordered. Where counsel mistakenly relied on a decision of the supreme court and did not offer certain evidence. Lenz v. Blake-McFall Co. [Or.] 76 P. 356. The supreme court will remand when the record does not advise it how to act justly and intelligently. Rhodes v. Cooper [La.] 37 So. 527.

76. Though the order below was not final, the court will if the whole matter is in the record and the nature of the case permits, finally dispose of the controversy. Harriman v. Northern Securities Co., 25 S. Ct. 493. On appeal from the dissolution of a temporary injunction, the court of appeals has no power to enter final judgment (State v. Smith [Mo.] 86 S. W. 867), and if it shall do so certiorari will issue from the supreme court to vacate it. (Id.)

77. In Maryland where it appears that substantial merits will not be determined by affirmance or reversal, the cause may be remanded without decision for further proceedings. Code art. 5, § 36. Facts unsettled in decree appealed from. Carlin v. Harris [Md.] 59 A. 122. Where the decision on questions of fact in proceedings for the probate of a will is not free from doubt and the result reached below is not entirely satisfactory, the appellate division will send the case to the trial term for a jury trial. In re Warnock's Will, 92 N. Y. S. 643. Ordinarily a judgment for defendant will be affirmed notwithstanding errors at the trial, if it appears that a demurrer to the complaint should have been sustained; but where it appears from the evidence that the right of the matter was not decided and the complaint is amendable, remand will be made for that purpose. Town of Greendale v. Suit [Ind.] 71 N. E. 658. The court will not proceed to inquire whether there was error in finding in favor of certain defendants where the interest of a deceased defendant was not adjudicated as against his personal representative, and the substitution of such representative will still have to be had in the trial court. Wilkinson v. Vordermark [Ind.] 70 N. E. 538. Remand where evidence shows action barred in part but which part is not certain because of evidence regarded as immaterial. Paine v. Dodds [N. D.] 103 N. W. 931. Habeas corpus for child. Louisiana Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children v. Tyler [La.] 38 So. 464.

78. An appeal from condemnation proceedings. Collier v. Union R. Co. [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 155.

79. See 3 C. L. 294.

80. Delaune v. Beaumont Irr. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 438.

81. Weir v. Jones [Miss.] 37 So. 128.

82. See 3 C. L. 295.

the motion to correct was not made within 30 days after judgment.[83] A petition to the appellate court for a reversal because, since the judgment, the claim which was the basis of it had been proved in bankruptcy and the debtor discharged, must show the date of the petition in bankruptcy.[84] An appellate decree may be vacated and the cause sent back for the introduction of further testimony where the pleadings are ambiguous and a party has been misled to his prejudice by failing to offer such testimony.[85] Appellate judgment taxing costs cannot be stayed below.[86] The Washington supreme court has jurisdiction to correct its judgment at any time during the term at which it was entered.[87]

(§ 15) F. Mandate and retrial.[88]—The mandate is usually withheld for a time fixed by the rules to admit of application for reargument,[89] at the expiration of which time it is, on payment of costs,[90] sent down and filed in the court below,[91] the remittitur transferring jurisdiction to the lower court.[92] It is conclusive upon the court below,[93] and mandamus lies to enforce its commands.[94] A general reversal

83. Hall v. Dineen [Ky.] 87 S. W. 275.
84. House v. Johnson [Colo.] 76 P. 743.
85. McPhee v. Kelsay [Or.] 78 P. 224.
86. Dugue v. Levy [La.] 38 So. 410.
87. Port Angeles Pac. R. Co. v. Cooke [Wash.] 80 P. 305. Appellant will not be permitted to seek a modification as to matters not challenged in his briefs when defeated in his attempt to secure a reversal. Batty v. Hastings [Neb.] 95 N. W. 866.
88. See 3 C. L. 295.
89. In Georgia must be forwarded as soon as practicable after the expiration of ten days from the supreme court's approval of the minutes containing the judgment, unless otherwise ordered. Rule 35, as amended, 108 Ga. vi, 36 S. E. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Jones [Ga.] 47 S. E. 320. Whether it shall be forwarded earlier is a question addressed to the discretion of the court. Id.
90. When a supplemental affidavit on application for mandate without payment of costs admits that applicant has just received more than $1,000 in settlement of the case, the application will be denied. Texas Cent. Ry. Co. v. Pledger [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 470. It will be presumed that failure to file remittitur for four months after the judgment was sent down was because the filing fee had not been paid or for some other reason. Mabb v. Stewart [Cal.] 77 P. 402.
91. Good practice requires that the remittitur be entered upon the minutes of the trial court, but such entry is not necessary to restore its jurisdiction and control over the case. Atlanta, etc., Ry. Co. v. Wilson [Ga.] 47 S. E. 366. The entering of motions by appellee after the filing in open court of the mandate on reversal constitutes a waiver of the statutory notice of the filing of the motion. Crigler & Crigler v. Ford [Ky.] 82 S. W. 599. Where neither party files the mandate on reversal and remand within two years, the action is deemed abandoned. Marks v. Metzger Linseed Oil Co., 113 Ill. App. 475.
92. After a judgment of the supreme court has been pronounced and entered upon its minutes, and the remittitur issued and transmitted to the trial court, and there received the supreme court loses jurisdiction over the case, and can make no further order which will alter or change the judgment pronounced (Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Jones [Ga.] 47 S. E. 320), except where the remittitur has been transmitted as the result of a mistake, irregularity, inadvertence, fraud, or the like (Id.). Hence a remittitur regularly issued and transmitted in accordance with the deliberate order and judgment of the court cannot be recalled after it has been filed in the office of the clerk of the trial court. Id. The effect of the mandate when it goes down is to remove the case from the supreme court and it is then too late to apply for correction. Monahan v. Monahan [Vt.] 59 A. 176. After the mandate has gone down the supreme court will not entertain a motion that the case be brought forward from the docket of the previous term, and the entry therein made affirming the decree and remanding the case stricken off. Id.
93. Where the judgment of the trial court has been affirmed by the supreme court with direction to amend it in a designated way, and that the costs incident to the writ of error be taxed against the prevailing party in the court below, an order formally making the judgment of the supreme court that of the trial court is not an indispensable prerequisite to the amendment by the trial court. Rusk v. Hill [Ga.] 49 S. E. 261. The amended judgment of the trial court is not the place in which to tax the costs of the writ of error in accordance with the direction of the supreme court. Id. When the decision on appeal settled all questions, leaving nothing to be done but the calculation of interest and the rendition of judgment, the court need not on demand refer the case to a commissioner. Laughlin's Ex'x v. Boughner [Ky.] 84 S. W. 300. Where a judgment is reversed on defendant's appeal and the cause remanded with directions to set aside all orders and decrees and dismiss the cause, a judgment refusing to modify a decree in the same matter, from which plaintiff appeals, must be reversed as a matter of course. Heidbreder v. Superior Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Mo.] 83 S. W. 469. A decree on appeal cannot be varied or examined by the lower court for any other purpose than execution. Decree of lower court held not in opposition to, or in excess of, mandate. Warner v.

leaves the case as though it had not been tried,[95] except as to matters adjudicated on the appeal,[96] and the decision of the appellate court stands as the law of the case on Grayson, 24 App. D. C. 55. On remand the lower court is bound by the decree of the appellate court, and must carry it into effect according to the mandate. State v. Douglass [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 87. It cannot vary or examine it for any other purpose than execution. Where, in suit for trespass, judgment dissolving temporary injunction, directing that earnings in hands of receiver be paid to defendant, and that receiver be discharged, was reversed on appeal, and remanded with directions to enter judgment for plaintiff, lower court had no authority to set case for trial on ground that plaintiff's damages had not been determined. Id. No modification of the judgment directed by the appellate tribunal can be made by the trial court. Where a trust as to real estate was declared void and judgment was that it should go to the heir, the trial court had no jurisdiction to modify by marshalling assets so as to impose on such realty a proportion of the expense of administration. In re Pichoir's Estate [Cal.] 80 P. 512. No provision can be engrafted upon it nor can any be taken from it. Id. A technical compliance with the mandate of the reviewing court is not required. Where the reviewing court ordered restitution of a fund in controversy to the prevailing party, the district court can permit one not a party to intervene and show that a portion had been transferred to him during the litigation. Hargis v. Robinson [Kan.] 79 P. 119. After a mandate of "bill dismissed with costs" has been transmitted, the court below has no power to stay judgment and execution. Nothing remains after such a mandate is received except to enforce it according to its terms. Whitney v. Johnston [Me.] 58 A. 1027. Where the mandate after affirmance directs the court to take such further proceedings as right and justice and the laws require, the court below has power to correct a clerical error in computing the amount of the judgment. Ex parte Marks [C. C. A.] 136 F. 168. A remand with instructions limits the functions of the trial court strictly to the execution of the mandate. Ludington v. Patton [Wis.] 99 N. W. 614. Where a case is returned with a mandate defining and limiting the duty of the trial court, such mandate is controlling and prevents the opening up of the case anew. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. v. New Haven [Conn.] 60 A. 651. A judgment not "in accordance" with the mandate of the appellate court on a former appeal will be reversed. Rev. St. Wis., 1898, § 3071. Burnham v. Chase [Wis.] 102 N. W. 940. Remand with directions to proceed in conformity with the appeal court's opinion requires a new trial or not, dependent on whether the opinion determines the whole controversy. In re Maher's Estate [Ill.] 71 N. E. 438.

94. Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel compliance with the mandate of the appellate court. Order placing case on docket for further hearing where mandate required judgment to be entered for plaintiff, held not reviewable by appeal or error. State v. Douglass [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 87.

95. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Board of Education of Somerset [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1120. Judgment on the pleadings may be ordered by the trial court on return of the mandate reversing the judgment and ordering a new trial, where the pleadings present such a state of conceded facts as entitle a party to judgment. Dodge v. United States [C. C. A.] 131 F. 849. Where the question of jurisdiction depends upon the facts, the setting aside of the verdict by the supreme court on account of an erroneous instruction in regard to such facts leaves the case still pending in the lower court. Instruction in regard to legal residence of defendant. Decision does not operate as dismissal. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson [Ga.] 47 S. E. 366. Upon return of the mandate of reversal, the verdict and judgment are vacated and cease to be longer of force. Id. Reversal for an error in instruction as to measure of damages requires a retrial of all issues. Heard v. Ewan [Ark.] 85 S. W. 240. Reversal of a judgment and of a refusal of a new trial opens up the whole case. Meadows v. Osterkamp [S. D.] 103 N. W. 643. A general order for a new trial without any limitations or restrictions entitles the parties to a retrial of all the issues. Corporation of Members of Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints v. Watson [Utah] 76 P. 706.

96. Unless the new evidence presents a substantially different state of facts to which the law as announced was not applied. Smith v. Day, 136 F. 964. Determination of the appellate court is binding on the parties on another trial. Kent v. Williams [Cal.] 79 P. 527. Judgment entered below in accordance with the law of the case is proper. Gutierrez v. Territory [N. M.] 79 P. 299. The decision of the supreme court on appeal from an order dismissing a bill on demurrer, reversing the order, establishes the bill's sufficiency and on a second trial the only question is whether the evidence sustains the bill. Bixler v. Summerfield [Ill.] 70 N. E. 1059. In Nebraska where a decree in equity is reversed and remanded generally without instructions, the lower court exercises its discretion in the further disposition of the case consistent with the law of the case as expressed in the opinion. Hoagland v. Stewart [Neb.] 100 N. W. 133. Where a commissioner's opinion is not made official, the law of the case is derived from the judgment of the court and the questions necessarily determined thereby. Id. The reversal of an order appointing commissioners to assess damages for change of street grade on the ground that before such an order could be made the issues raised by an amended answer must be tried, authorizes the trial of such issues, though it does not in terms direct it. In re Borup, 92 N. Y. S. 624. Instruction on a retrial held in accordance with the opinion of the supreme court on appeal, though "sole" was substituted for "proximate" cause. Gila Val., etc., R. Co. v. Lyon [Ariz.] 80 P. 337. A decision on appeal that the five-year statute of limitations retrial[97] in so far as the evidence is in legal effect the same,[98] though the holding was not contained in the mandate issued to the trial court.[99] The entry in the lower court of the rescript from the full court showing that the decree reviewed has been affirmed is not a decree, but only calls for the entry of the proper decree.[1] Plaintiff may discontinue,[2] amendment of pleadings may be allowed,[3] new parties brought in,[4] and additional evidence adduced on the retrial.[5] Appearance to the appeal dispenses does not apply so as to bar an action on a note is not an adjudication that limitations could not again be pleaded in the action on any ground whatsoever, so as to preclude defendant from setting up limitations to a reply alleging fraud in the procurement of the money on the note and that therefore defendant's discharge in bankruptcy was not a release therefrom. Louisville Banking Co. v. Buchanan [Ky.] 80 S. W. 193. Instructions on retrial based on holdings on the prior appeal are proper. James v. E. G. Lyons Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 275. A decree being reversed and the cause remanded solely for a further accounting between the parties in accordance with the opinion, such opinion was the law of the case on retrial and consideration of questions decided was precluded. Hanrick v. Hanrick [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 795. Where a dismissal is reversed and remanded to take an account, the plaintiff's right to recover is no longer open to question. Nutt v. Knut [Miss.] 36 So. 689. Under B. & C. Comp. St. §§ 406, 555, providing that an appeal from a decree in equity shall be tried de novo and final decree entered regardless of findings or conclusions of the trial court, the rights of the parties and questions adjudicated must in subsequent litigation be ascertained from the appellate decree. Gentry v. Pacific Live Stock Co. [Or.] 77 P. 115. The findings and conclusions of the trial court form no part of the appellate decree unless made a part of it. Id.

97. Supreme Court of Honor v. Tracy [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1021; John O'Brien Lumber Co. v. Wilkinson [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1050; Curtis v. Zutavern [Neb.] 102 N. W. 77. Nonsuit of plaintiff thereby sustained. Fulton v. Grieb Rubber Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 37.

98. Seeton v. Dunbarton [N. H.] 59 A. 944. That there is evidence of negligence to go to jury. Zimmer v. Fox River Val. Elec. R. Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1099. The rule applies only where the facts remain the same. Midland Steel Co. v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 290. A holding that plaintiff's evidence entitled him to go to the jury is not conclusive that he will be so entitled on retrial, that question depending on the evidence then introduced. Hartley v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 214 Ill. 78, 73 N. E. 398.

99. Empire State-Idaho Min. & Developing Co. v. Hanley [C. C. A.] 136 F. 99.

1. Tyndale v. Stanwood [Mass.] 73 N. E. 540. Where a final decree was not entered in the lower court after decision on review, the supreme judicial court will order the entry of such decree as the rescript calls for to complete the record. Id.

2. After receipt of the remittitur by the court below the plaintiff in term time or vacation may dismiss his suit. Where judgment for plaintiff reversed. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson [Ga.] 47 S. E. 366.

3. Dinsmoor v. Rowse [Ill.] 71 N. E. 1003; Blue v. Campbell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 909. Amendment held properly allowed in lower court after petition had been held defective by supreme court on general demurrer, there being enough to amend by. Rome Furnace Co. v. Patterson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 928. Supplemental affidavits of defense may be filed on prompt application. Kyler v. Christman, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 74. Ambiguous statement may be amended. Brown v. Kirk, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 157. Where defendant as the record stands after reversal is bound to be defeated and be mulcted in costs he should be allowed to amend only on payment of costs then accrued. Klinker v. Guggenheimer, 92 N. Y. S. 797. A garnishee can add good grounds to those held insufficient on motion in arrest of judgment. Union Compress Co. v. A. Leffler & Son [Ga.] 50 S. E. 483. After the case has been placed on the day calendar for retrial, defendant will not be permitted to amend by denying a fact admitted by his original answer. Treadwell v. Clark, 92 N. Y. S. 166. Where the supreme court of the United States on error to a state court reverses and remands a case generally, the practice of the state court as to allowing further amendment prevails. Gadsden v. Thrush [Neb.] 99 N. W. 835. A judgment sustaining a demurrer having been affirmed, with direction that plaintiff be permitted to cure the defect as to misjoinder of causes of action and parties defendant, and an amendment for that purpose having been presented and allowed, the case remains pending in the lower court, which thereafter has jurisdiction to require the strengthening of a bond given under an order appointing a receiver. Cordele Ice Co. v. Sims [Ga.] 48 S. E. 12. Upon the reversal of a judgment overruling a demurrer to the declaration and the return of the remittitur to the lower court, the plaintiff has the right to amend. City of Rome v. Sudduth [Ga.] 49 S. E. 300; Scanlon v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 930. The rule is otherwise where a judgment sustaining a demurrer is sustained. since in such case there is nothing in the lower court to amend. City of Rome v. Sudduth [Ga.] 49 S. E. 300; Harp v. Southern R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 206. A suit may still be amended into one at law after docketing a rescript, "Bill dismissed." It is not a final disposition. Crossman v. Griggs [Mass.] 74 N. E. 358.

4. In equity persons not parties to the suit but having an interest therein may be made parties by an amended petition upon the cause being remanded. Bolsen v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Ky.] 82 S. W. 972.

5. A ruling that the evidence was not sufficient to support the decree calls for a new trial with privilege to make additional proof if possible. In re Maher's Estate [Ill.]

with process below.[6] Restitution on reversal of a judgment can be compelled only from parties to the record, their assignees or personal representatives, and only to the extent that such parties have actually profited by the erroneous judgment.[7] The dismissal of an appeal from an order affirms it but gives it no more vitality than it already had.[8] After affirmance the judgment may be opened below for matter of defense arising after judgment,[9] or to correct clerical mistakes, but not otherwise.[10]

§ 16. Rehearing and relief thereon.[11]—Though appellate courts receive petitions for rehearing with reluctance, there is no aversion to the reception of such a motion that calls for any apology to the court in a case where counsel believes his client entitled to a rehearing.[12] In the absence of a statute authorizing applications for rehearings, whether such applications will be entertained, and, if entertained, what disposition shall be made of them, are questions addressed entirely to the sound discretion of the court.[13] No such application will be entertained in any case after the remittitur has been forwarded to the clerk of the trial court, even though presented during the term, and before the remittitur has reached the office of such clerk.[14] A motion based on points not urged upon the hearing,[15] or containing merely a reargument of the same points made on the submission,[16] will not be considered, nor as a rule will amendments of the record be allowed.[17] A rehearing will be granted on motion of the losing party only when it appears that the court has overlooked a material fact in the record, a statute, or a decision which is controlling as authority, and which would require a different judgment from that rendered.[18] The supreme court will, during a term at which a judgment is rendered, and before the remittitur has been forwarded to the clerk of the trial court, when dissatisfied with the judgment, of its own

71 N. E. 438; Lauza v. Le Grand Quarry Co. [Iowa] 100 N. W. 488. Upon the reversal and remanding of a cause, the trial court has power to re-refer the cause to a master to take further testimony. Assets Realization Co. v. Wightman, 105 Ill. App. 618.

6. An appeal is an appearance and on reversal vests jurisdiction in the trial court. Rumell v. Tampa [Fla.] 37 So. 563. Where a guardian ad litem, appointed for a minor on whom a summons had been served, answered and prosecuted an appeal for her, no further process was necessary on return of the case to the circuit court. Norman v. Central Kentucky Asylum [Ky.] 80 S. W. 781.

7. Schnabel v. Waggener [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1125.

8. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.

9. Camden Interstate Ry. Co. v. Lee [Ky.] 84 S. W. 332. The dismissal of an appeal from a void order does not impart validity to it. Sullivan v. Gage [Cal.] 79 P. 537. Affirmance was not based on such errors and they were not called to the attention of the reviewing court. Edinburgh Lombard Inv. Co. v. Walsh [Kan.] 79 P. 688. This is not changing the judgment affirmed. Id.

10. After affirmance on appeal, the trial court has no power to alter or modify the judgment. State v. District Court [Mont.] 79 P. 410.

11. See 3 C. L. 298.

12. Pietsch v. Milbrath [Wis.] 102 N. W. 342.

13, 14. Seaboard Air Line R. v. Jones [Ga.] 47 S. E. 320.

15. Rehearing will not be granted on a point not made or referred to in the original briefs. Rules 22 & 23, 55 N. E. vi. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Lindsey [Ind. App.] 70 N. E. 998.

16. City of Chicago v. Cicero [Ill.] 71 N. E. 356; Stoll v. Pearl [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1054. A rehearing will be granted to consider assignments which the court refused to consider on the submission because of a mutual ignorance on the part of counsel and the court of a statute changing the procedure in such cases. Finkbinder v. Ernst [Mich.] 100 N. W. 180.

17. The court on rehearing will not consider an additional record filed by permission but not brought to the attention of the court and not abstracted. Eustace v. People [Ill.] 72 N. E. 1089. The circuit court of appeals will on rehearing permit the amendment of a petition for removal by supplying an averment of citizenship requisite to give jurisdiction, where it appears that the omission was inadvertent and it is shown by stipulation of the parties that the requisite diversity of citizenship existed. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Prunty [C. C. A.] 133 F. 13.

18. Seaboard Air Line R. v. Jones [Ga.] 47 S. E. 320. A decision of the court of civil appeals on a motion of plaintiff in error for judgment in his favor is a matter determined by that court within the meaning of Rev. St. 1895, art. 1030, allowing a motion for a rehearing as to any matter determined by such court. Nabours v. McCord [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 661.

motion, order a rehearing of the case.[19] The mere fact that the justices are evenly divided in opinion as to what should be the judgment in a case, as a result of which the judgment of the lower court is affirmed by operation of law, is no reason for granting a rehearing.[20] The grounds should appear on the face of the petition.[21] Under a rule of court providing that the time for serving a petition for a rehearing on the adverse party shall not be extended, a petition not served will be disregarded.[22] Rehearing may be refused by correcting error.[23] In Illinois a motion for rehearing containing any argument whatever will be stricken from the files without consideration.[24] A court will of its own motion strike from its records a motion and brief which contain personal criticisms of members of the court or of its commissioner and of his character and motives in the performance of his official duties.[25] The appellate division on reargument will overrule its prior decision where, since making it, the court of appeals has decided a similar case adversely.[26] On petition for rehearing the judgment of the appellate court may be amended so as to include a reversal of an erroneous interlocutory order and rehearing denied.[27]

§ 17. Liability on bonds and damages or penalties for delay.[28]—An undertaking invalid under the statute may be enforceable as a common-law obligation.[29]

A bond conditioned for the payment of condemnation money, judgment and costs found against appellant on final determination in the supreme court is good and enforceable, though the supreme court merely affirmed the judgment rendered below.[30] As against the sureties, the dismissal of the appeal operates as an affirmance.[31] Procuring the modification of a decree is a "prosecution to effect."[32]

Extent of liability.[33]—A surety on an appeal bond in a claim case, where claimant is appellant, is liable not only for costs and any damages that may be assessed for a frivolous appeal, but also for any damages that may be assessed against claimant in the event that it is determined that the claim was interposed for delay only.[34]

An appeal bond in an election contest, conditioned that appellant will perform the judgment if affirmed, renders the surety simply liable for the surrender of the office if the judgment is affirmed.[35]

19, 20. Seaboard Air Line R. v. Jones [Ga.] 47 S. E. 320. The provision of the constitution of Virginia requiring rehearings before the full bench in case of a division of opinion refers only to cases involving the constitution. Funkhouser v. Spahr [Va.] 46 S. E. 378.

21. Rehearing should not be asked as to matters which have been determined and conceded by counsel to be supported by authority. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 1092.

22. Brooks v. Union Trust & Realty Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 843.

23. Reducing verdict. Schoppel v. Daly [La.] 36 So. 322.

24. Rule 30. Chicago City R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 208 Ill. 267, 70 N. E. 477.

25. Fred Krug Brewing Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 101 N. W. 329; Stoll v. Pearl [Wis.] 100 N. W. 1054.

26. Walsh v. Hanan, 87 N. Y. S. 930.

27. Indian River Mfg. Co. v. Wooten [Fla.] 37 So. 731.

28. See 3 C. L. 299. Necessity and sufficiency of security on appeal is treated ante, § 6 (G).

29. Gein v. Little, 89 N. Y. S. 488. Where the bond is unnecessary for perfecting the appeal and ineffectual as a stay and no other consideration appears, it is unenforceable. Mossein v. Empire State Surety Co., 89 N. Y. S. 843. Though given in pursuance of an invalid statute, if the appellant has obtained and the appellee lost rights under it. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Ettenheimer [Neb.] 99 N. W. 652. A bond conditioned for the payment of rents and profits and under which the obligor retains possession may be given effect as a contract, though invalid as a statutory bond. Escritt v. Michaleson [Neb.] 103 N. W. 300.

30. Maloney v. Johnson McLean Co. [Neb.] 100 N. W. 423.

31. Jewett v. Shoemaker [Iowa] 100 N. W. 531.

32. Crane v. Buckley [C. C. A.] 138 F. 22.

33. See 3 C. L. 299.

34. McMurria v. Powell Bros. & Chason [Ga.] 48 S. E. 354.

35. Galloway v. Bradburn [Ky.] 82 S. W. 1013.

The question as to what damages were within the contemplation of the parties when a supersedeas bond was executed is one of law for the court,[36] to be determined from the bond itself and the circumstances under which it was given.[37] The testimony of the sureties as to the nature of the damages which they understood it would cover is irrelevant.[38]

A bond given in an attempted appeal from an order awarding a writ of assistance in a mortgage foreclosure proceeding, conditioned for the payment of rent, is valid, as a contract, where the obligor has, by reason of the bond, retained possession of the premises pending the appeal.[39] Where the bond sued on recites the judgment, it need not be introduced in evidence in an action thereon.[40]

Rights and liabilities of sureties.[41]—Sureties are entitled to appear and interpose any defense which they may have to the rendition of a judgment against them on the bond after affirmance.[42] Though not parties to the suit, they are parties to the record on appeal and are not entitled to notice of a motion for judgment on the bond on affirmance.[43] Any defense operating to prevent the affirmance of the judgment superseded must be there urged and cannot be used to defeat recovery on the bond.[44]

Where the complaint does not allege that the undertaking was sealed, the sureties may raise the defense of want of consideration, though it is not pleaded;[45] but if, on the undertaking being produced, it appears to be sealed, the burden is on the sureties to rebut the presumption of consideration arising from the seal.[46]

A surety company which has retained the premium paid cannot dispute the authority of the officer or agent who signed the bond.[47]

Sureties whose liability has become fixed prior to an adjudication in bankruptcy as to the principal remain liable even though the judgment becomes inoperative as to him.[48]

On reversal appellant is entitled to collateral deposited with the surety.[49]

Forfeiture and enforcement.[50]—An appellate court having no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal has no jurisdiction to enter a judgment on the supersedeas bond.[51] Summary judgment may be entered against the surety on a supersedeas bond in Idaho after notice.[52]

Damages and penalties for delay.[53]—Damages will in some states be awarded where a writ of error is sued out for delay only.[54]

A statute providing for a recovery of ten per cent. damages on the amount superseded on the affirmance of a judgment for the payment of money, the collection of which has been superseded, does not apply where the only pecuniary relief afforded by the judgment was an award of the costs of the action.[55]

36, 37. Waycross Air Line R. Co. v. Offerman & W. R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 582. Damages for loss of freight held to have been within contemplation of the parties when the supersedeas bond was executed and to be covered by it. Id. Evidence held to have demanded verdict for plaintiff, and court properly directed finding against exceptions of fact to auditor's report. Id.

38. Waycross Air Line R. Co. v. Offerman & W. R. Co. [Ga.] 47 S. E. 582.

39. Escritt v. Michaleson [Neb.] 103 N. W. 300.

40. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hamilton, 105 Ill. App. 75.

41. See 3 C. L. 299.

42, 43, 44. Jewett v. Shoemaker [Iowa] 100 N. W. 531.

45, 46. Geln v. Little, 89 N. Y. S. 488.

47. Eichorn v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 526.

48. Bankruptcy Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 16; 30 St. 550; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3428 St. Louis World Pub. Co. v. Rialto Grain & Securities Co. [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 781.

49. Jackson v. Lawyers' Surety Co., 88 N. Y. S. 576.

50. See 3 C. L. 299.

51. Montgomery v. Montgomery [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1108.

52. Empire State-Idaho Min. & D. Co. v. Hanley [C. C. A.] 136 F. 99.

53. See Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 4 C. L. 470.

54. Where no sufficient reason appears. Motion granted. Kessler v. Hecht [Ga.] 48 S. E. 922.

55. Civ. Code, § 764. Oberdorfer v. White [Ky.] 80 S. W. 1099.

APPEARANCE.

§ 1. General; special; what constitutes each. General appearance.[1]—The test for determining the character of an appearance is the relief asked; the law looking to its substance rather than to its form, or the name given it by the party appearing,[2] and in a court of record the character of the appearance is to be determined by the record as it stands at the time the appearance is made.[3] An appearance for any other purpose than to question the jurisdiction of the court is general,[4] and in some states an appearance is presumed general unless otherwise specified.[5] By demurring,[6] seeking permission to file an answer,[7] moving to vacate a judgment,[8] or by making a written stipulation as to the date of trial,[9] one enters a general appearance. But the execution of an attachment bond,[10] or of an affidavit of nonresidence,[11] or the filing of a petition for removal from a state to a Federal court,[12] does not have that effect. One appearing specially must confine himself to the objections relating to the jurisdiction over his person, or his appearance will become general.[13] An amended petition reiterating the averments of the original petition and setting up a new cause of action, an answer expressly stating that it is to the original petition does not constitute an appearance to that portion of the amended petition which sets up the new cause of action.[14]

Appeal.[15]—An appeal operates as an appearance which will permit the court below, after reversal, to proceed with the case.[16]

Special appearance.[17]—The service of process being invalid, the defendant may appear specially and defeat the jurisdiction of the court.[18] In most states a special appearance is waived unless all subsequent appearances are so limited;[19]

1. See 3 C. L. 300.
2. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n [N. C.] 50 S. E. 221.
3. It is unnecessary to make the order, plea or motion expressly state that the appearance is only for the purpose of excepting to the jurisdiction. M. Fisher, Sons & Co. v. Crowley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422.
4. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n [N. C.] 50 S. E. 221. If the relief prayed affects the merits, or the motion involves the merits, the appearance is general. Id. An unlimited or unqualified appearance is general. Savannah Grocery Co. v. Rizer [S. C.] 50 S. E. 199.
5. Larsen v. Allan Line S. S. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 181.
6. Pruyn v. Black, 93 N. Y. S. 995; Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1004; Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698; Sayre & Fisher Co. v. Griefen [N. J. Law] 60 A. 513.
7. Defendant moving to vacate a default judgment upon jurisdictional grounds and asking permission to file an answer makes a general appearance. Simensen v. Simensen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 708.
8. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n [N. C.] 50 S. E. 221.
9. A written stipulation, signed by counsel for both parties and filed in court, agreeing that the cause might be set for trial on a certain date, constitutes an unlimited appearance. Markey v. Louisiana & M. R. Co., 185 Mo. 348, 84 S. W. 61.
10. Hilton v. Consumers' Can Co. [Va.] 48 S. E. 899.
11. Dexter v. Lichliter, 24 App. D. C. 222.
12. Gebbie & Co. v. Review of Reviews Co., 134 F. 150.
13. Perrine v. Knights Templar & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1017; Dexter v. Lichliter, 24 App. D. C. 222; Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 37 So. 582. Where an appellee appears generally in the supreme court, and moves to dismiss the appeal upon grounds other than those relating solely to the jurisdiction of his person, he cannot be permitted to question the sufficiency of the recorded entry of appeal to give the appellate court jurisdiction over his person. Id.
14. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Carter, 26 Ky. L. R. 665, 82 S. W. 380.
15. See 3 C. L. 301.
16. Rumeli v. Tampa [Fla.] 37 So. 563.
17. See 3 C. L. 301.
18. Dexter v. Lichliter, 24 App. D. C. 222.
19. Washington: 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4886. Hodges v. Price [Wash.] 80 P. 202; Larsen v. Allan Line S. S. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 181. This is true, though the special appearance is preserved in the answer. Id.

but a motion made on special appearance being overruled and defendant excepting, his subsequent appearance to the merits waives none of his rights.[20] In New York a party may appear specially in an action in a manner other than as specified for a general appearance by a defendant in § 421 of the Code of Civil Procedure.[21]

§ 2. Who may make or enter.[22]—An appearance may be made by a duly authorized attorney[23] or by his agent,[24] and a general or special appearance by an attorney at law is presumptive evidence of his authority to so appear.[25] Appearance as a witness is not an appearance as a party.[26]

§ 3. Effect.[27]—A general or voluntary appearance confers jurisdiction of the person[28] and waives a lack of,[29] or any defect in,[30] the process or the service thereof.[31] In condemnation proceedings it waives any question as to the sufficiency of the publication of notice.[32] The general appearance of defendant in a state court does not operate as a waiver of his right to remove to the Federal courts.[33] A general appearance does not relate back so as to validate void proceedings theretofore had.[34]

Under a statute requiring that the answer be filed within a specified time, a special appearance for the purpose of moving to quash the service of summons does not extend the time for answering.[35] Joint debtors being sued as partners, a special appearance by one of them to have the proceedings dismissed because he was not a partner is not equivalent to a plea in abatement requiring replication and proof by plaintiff to meet it.[36] A motion to dismiss on the ground that process was not served does not amount to an appearance waiving the objection.[37]

20. Fisher, Sons & Co. v. Crowley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422.

21. Cutting v. Jessmer, 91 N. Y. S. 658.

22. See 3 C. L. 302.

23. Defendants held to be properly before the court, their appearance having been entered by their attorney and they not having objected thereto. Vance v. Lane's Trustee, 26 Ky. L. R. 619, 82 S. W. 297. Where a summons was issued against "the estate of J.," not showing whether J. was dead or alive, the appearance for "the defendant" of an attorney who expressly repudiated any appearance for the trustee of J. could not confer jurisdiction to substitute the trustee as defendant or render judgment against him. McNamara v. Vanderpoel, 88 N. Y. S. 145.

24. Counsel authorizing a person not admitted to practice to appear on the return day, he cannot afterwards contend that there was no appearance. Kerr v. Walter, 93 N. Y. S. 311.

25. Cutting v. Jessmer, 91 N. Y. S. 658.

26. Where a summons issued simply against "the estate of J.," the testimony of a witness that he was a trustee of J. and was there to defend the action was not a voluntary appearance as a defendant, either in an individual or representative capacity. McNamara v. Vanderpoel, 88 N. Y. S. 145.

27. See 3 C. L. 302.

28. Giboney v. Cooper [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 939; Stamey v. Barkley [Pa.] 60 A. 991; Savannah Grocery Co. v. Rizer [S. C.] 50 S. E. 199. Waives all objections thereto. Greenwood Loan & Guarantee Ass'n v. Williams [S. C.] 51 S. E. 272; Perrine v. Knights Templar & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1017; Simensen v. Simensen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 708; Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698; Sayre & Fisher Co. v. Griefen [N. J. Law] 60 A. 513. Waives the right to plead to the jurisdiction. Markey v. Louisiana & M. R. Co., 185 Mo. 348, 84 S. W. 61. Under Municipal Court Act, § 311, authorizing an appeal if defendant does not appear, a defendant who has appeared does not obtain the right to appeal by afterward permitting judgment to go against him by default. Kerr v. Walter, 93 N. Y. S. 311.

29. Giboney v. Cooper & Cooper [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 939; Butman v. Butman, 213 Ill. 104, 72 N. E. 821. Where one voluntarily appeared and demurred. Whitaker v. Hughes, 14 Okl. 510, 78 P. 383.

30. Giboney v. Cooper & Cooper [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 939; Ferrell v. Camden [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 733. Technical defects in summons. Stryker v. Pendergast, 105 Ill. App. 413. Defendant appearing, accepting service in writing, and waiving the issuance of process, he cannot allege in error that he was not legally cited. Broocks v. Masterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 822.

31. Seydel v. Corporation Liquidating Co., 88 N. Y. S. 1004; Martin v. Crossley, 91 N. Y. S. 712.

32. Orange County v. Ellsworth, 90 N. Y. S. 576.

33. Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. American Bridge Co., 137 F. 284.

34. Simensen v. Simensen [N. D.] 100 N. W. 708.

35. Mantle v. Casey [Mont.] 78 P. 591.

36. Hirsh v. Fisher [Mich.] 101 N. W. 48.

37. Hilton & Allen v. Consumers' Can Co. [Va.] 48 S. E. 899.

APPELLATE COURTS AND JURISDICTION; APPLICATION OF PAYMENTS; APPOINTMENT; APPORTIONMENT LAWS, see latest topical index.

APPRENTICES.[38]

Both at common law and under the Iowa statute, parents of a minor have no right to bind him as an apprentice except during the years of his minority.[39] Continuance in the master's service after the termination of the period for which an apprentice is bound by an indenture amounts to nothing more than a contract of employment,[40] though the provisions of the indenture as to the character of the service to be rendered, and payment and instruction, may be regarded as continuing in force in the absence of other express arrangements.[41] Hence, where an apprentice continues in the service after reaching his majority, the statute regulating the manner of terminating the relation of master and apprentice has no application.[42] Willful disobedience, if established, justifies the discharge of the apprentice or imposition of a penalty.[43] Requiring an apprentice to leave or accept a condition equivalent to a new contract of service amounts to a discharge and justifies the apprentice in leaving.[44] A provision in an agreement that one-half the apprentice reserve should be forfeited if the master deemed a discharge necessary for acts of disobedience, does not make the master the sole judge of what constitutes an act of disobedience.[45] Under the New York statutes providing remedies for breach of an indenture of apprenticeship, an action for specific performance of the indenture and for an injunction restraining service for any other than the plaintiff, will not lie.[46]

ARBITRATION AND AWARD.

§ 1. The remedy in general.[47]

§ 2. The submission and agreements to submit.[48]—No particular form of submission is necessary; it may be by parol.[49] Only those to be bound by the award need sign the submission,[50] though parties cannot by an agreement antecedent to the arising of a dispute agree to submit it so as to oust courts of all jurisdiction.[51] An agreement requiring the confirmation of a court of competent original jurisdiction is valid, though it provides that there shall be no appeal.[52] A common-law agreement to submit the validity and effect of a contract, or to

38. See 3 C. L. 303.
39. Code, § 3229. Walton v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 506.
40, 41. Walton v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 506.
42. Code, § 3241, does not apply, but master may discharge in any way he chooses, provided the discharge is justified. Walton v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 506.
43. Evidence held not to show willful disobedience. Bradley v. Perkins [Mich.] 101 N. W. 583. Disobedience held to justify discharge. Walton v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 506.
44. As where foreman told apprentice to leave, or remain 30 days beyond the period contracted for. Bradley v. Perkins [Mich.] 101 N. W. 583.
45. Bradley v. Perkins [Mich.] 101 N. W. 583.
46. Construing Rev. St. c. 8, § 29; Acts 1871, c. 934; Cr. Code Prac. §§ 927-930. Thomas v. Baird, 94 N. Y. S. 47.
47, 48. See 3 C. L. 303.
49. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.
50. Hoste v. Dalton [Mich.] 100 N. W. 750.
51. Sanitary Dist. v. McMahon & Montgomery Co., 110 Ill. App. 510.
52. Hoste v. Dalton [Mich.] 100 N. W. 750.

submit all matters in dispute to arbitration, may be revoked by either party at any time before the award.[53]

Who may make.[54]—A married woman may submit to a common-law arbitration, where by statute she is given complete power to contract with relation to her own property, though excepted by the statute from those who may make a statutory submission;[55] but not with reference to real estate.[56] An agent to collect and settle a claim has no power to submit the matter to arbitration.[57] An agreement by an infant to submit to arbitration is voidable.[58]

Effect.[59]

§ 3. The arbitrators and umpire.[60]—The submission must be made to the persons agreed upon,[61] and upon failure of any of such persons to act, the others have no power, without the consent of both parties, to select a third person in place of person so refusing.[62] Failure of the arbitrator agreed upon in a contract to act, after submission,[63] or failure of the arbitrators to agree, refusal to act or death of a party, arbitrator or umpire, nullifies the arbitration agreement and the jurisdiction of the court attaches,[64] and in the absence of an agreement thereto, the court possesses no power to compel the parties to select other arbitrators.[65]

§ 4. Hearing and procedure before arbitrators.[66]—The appraisement must be made within the time named, or within a reasonable time.[67] A party may in the presence of the other deliver to the arbitrators a statement showing his contention as to how the account should be settled.[68]

§ 5. The award; requisites, validity and effect.[69]—The award must conform to the submission and cover all matters submitted,[70] and may be made in the

53. Parsons v. Ambos, 121 Ga. 98, 48 S. E. 696.

54. See 3 C. L. 304.

Note: As to power of corporate officers to submit, see Clark & M. Corp. § 264. As to power of guardian ad litem, see note 97 Am. St. Rep. 1001.

55. Hoste v. Dalton [Mich.] 100 N. W. 750.

56. While under Code, § 178, a married woman may, without the joinder of her husband, sue to settle the title to her separate real estate, yet she cannot, in view of Const. art. 10, § 6, authorizing a married woman to convey real estate "with the written assent of her husband" submit the question of title to lands owned by her to arbitration. Smith v. Bruton [N. C.] 49 S. E. 64.

57. By agreement with an agent of the plaintiff to collect and settle an account for the sale of books, the matter was submitted to an attorney for arbitration. While an agent of this character is allowed some discretion in the matter of settlements, the discretion is personal and cannot be delegated to another. Allen v. Confederate Pub. Co., 121 Ga. 773, 49 S. E. 782.

58. A guardian ad litem or next friend of an infant cannot bind him by submission to arbitration, even though the submission be made a rule of court. Millsaps v. Estes [N. C.] 50 S. E. 227.

59, 60. See 3 C. L. 304.

61. Werneberg v. Pittsburg, 210 Pa. 267, 59 A. 1000.

62. Where the parties to an executory agreement for the sale of goods agreed that the price to be paid for the property should be fixed by valuers nominated in the agreement, and the valuers refused to act. Elberton Hardware Co. v. Hawes [Ga.] 50 S. E. 964.

63. Where a contract of a city provided that matters in dispute should be submitted to the director of the department of public works for his determination, which should be final, and after work on the city contract was completed a dispute arose, and the director heard the testimony, but was removed from office before his decision was rendered and he refused to further act. Werneberg v. Pittsburg, 210 Pa. 267, 59 A. 1000.

64. Where arbitrators fail to agree upon an award, the plaintiff is not compelled to submit to another arbitration, but may forthwith bring his action in the courts (Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 889); but it will not be passed upon by the courts, where there is no fraud or unreasonableness on his part (Heidlinger v. Onward Const. Co., 44 Misc. 555, 90 N. Y. S. 115).

65. Where there is no agreement for resubmission, the authority may be revoked by failure of the appraisers to agree; or when an award is actually made, is subsequently set aside. Parsons v. Ambos, 121 Ga. 98, 48 S. E. 696.

66. See 3 C. L. 304.

67. Parsons v. Ambos, 121 Ga. 98, 48 S. E. 696.

68. Lumbard v. Holdiman, 115 Ill. App. 458.

69. See 3 C. L. 305.

70. A submission to "settle and forever dispose of all questions and controversies arising and existing between the parties," is sufficiently complied with by an award covering the matters in dispute, excepting alternative.[71] The general rule is where a dispute is submitted by private agreement to a stated number of arbitrators, all must join in the award to give it effect.[72] The award of arbitrators in a common-law arbitration is conclusive, in the absence of such fraud or gross mistake or unfair conduct as would justify the court in setting it aside.[73] When an award has been made, signed and delivered by the arbitrators, their authority is terminated;[74] but an invalid award does not end the submission.[75] It is a general rule that a valid award operates to merge and extinguish all claims embraced in the submission and is binding upon the parties.[76]

Proof of award.—An award can only be proved by the fact itself, and in the absence of any evidence that a final award was made by the arbitrators, it will be presumed that none was made.[77]

Enforcement of award.[78]

Review of award.[79]—Though a submission cannot oust all courts of jurisdiction, the right of appeal may be precluded by agreement.[80] If any great or palpable error, gross mistake or fraud has been committed by the arbitrators or an umpire, that may be ground for opening such award or umpirage. But the mistake must be plain and gross to set aside the award,[81] a distinction being drawn specifically certain things which were not in condition for final adjudication. Such an award, however, will not prejudice the defendant to an accounting as to the matters excepted from the award. Astwood v. Wanamaker, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 591. The only issues presented for the consideration of the arbitrators were between the plaintiff on the one part and the other parties named in the agreement on the other, and the award followed the submission. If the defendants desired that any issues between themselves should be decided by the arbitrators, a stipulation to that effect should have been made. Brock v. Lawton, 210 Pa. 195, 59 A. 997.

71. Where the bill was filed to compel delivery of shares of stock or payment of their value, an award on arbitration in the alternative was proper. Brock v. Lawton, 210 Pa. 195, 59 A. 997.

72. But it is competent for the parties to agree that a decision by a majority shall be valid, and such an agreement may be inferred from circumstances. When an arrangement is made for two arbitrators selected by the parties, and a third only in the event that these two cannot agree, it implies an understanding that a determination made by the third or special arbitrator and either of the two others shall be binding. Fish v. Vermillion [Kan.] 78 P. 811.

73. Ridgill Bros. v. Dupree [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1166. Where a person is designated in a contract as final arbitrator, his decision in any matter within his authority under the terms of that agreement is conclusive upon the parties in the absence of fraud or of such gross mistake as would necessarily imply bad faith, or failure to exercise honest judgment. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. East Grand Forks [Minn.] 102 N. W. 703. The award until set aside is conclusive of the rights of all parties in interest. Clerks' Benev. Union v. Knights of Columbus [S. C.] 50 S. E. 206; Souther Iron Co. v. Laclede Power Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 450. Where, under the terms of a building contract, the architect was to render certificates on which payments were to be made, in the absence of proof of fraud or palpable mistake apparent on the face of his award, neither party can show that he decided wrongly on the law or the facts. Heidlinger v. Onward Const. Co., 44 Misc. 555, 90 N. Y. S. 115.

74. They have no jurisdiction to reopen the case and make a new award without the consent of both parties. Brown v. Durham [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 120.

75. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

76. Where an insurance policy provides in case of disagreement as to amount of loss to goods by fire for arbitration as to such amount, and provides that the award shall "determine the amount of such loss," a valid award thereunder is conclusive as to such amount. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

77. An award cannot be proved by any admissions or statements which the arbitrators may have made during consultation. Miller v. Carnes [Minn.] 103 N. W. 877.

78, 79. See 3 C. L. 305.

80. Hoste v. Dalton [Mich.] 100 N. W. 750.

81. This was an action to obtain possession of a piano awarded to the defendant in a so-called voting contest. The plaintiff claimed that it had received the majority of the votes but that a number of spurious votes were cast and counted by the arbitrators for the defendant. There was no allegation that it was made through misconduct, fraud or mistake. Clerks' Benev. Union v. Knights of Columbus [S. C.] 50 S. E. 206. An award cannot be impeached at law by evidence of misconduct of the arbitrators in becoming intoxicated while performing their duties or other cause not apparent on the face of the award. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901. Where the award is so gross and palpably inadequate as to shock the moral sense, it is sufficient evidence to be sub-between common-law awards which can be impeached only for matter apparent on their face and statutory awards which may be impeached for extraneous grounds.[82] The award of an arbitrator cannot be set aside for mere error of judgment as to the law or facts of the case submitted to him,[83] or for error in the rejection or admission of evidence,[84] or on merely technical grounds in no wise affecting the merits, where it is apparent the utmost good faith has been observed.[85] In appellate review of a judgment on an award, the findings of the arbitrator have the same standing as those of a court or jury.[86] Upon review of an award of arbitration, the court has the same power to decree payment of interest as in an ordinary case.[87] The burden is on the adverse party to show facts that would relieve him from its legal effect.[88] An award cannot be impeached for fraud in a court of law.[89]

§ 6. International disputes.[90]

§ 7. Statutory arbitration between employers and employes.[91]

ARCHITECTS, see latest topical index.

ARGUMENT AND CONDUCT OF COUNSEL.

§ 1. Right of argument and order of same.[92]—As a general rule the right to open and close the argument rests with the party having the burden of proof.[93]

mitted to the jury on the issues relating to fraud and corruption or partiality and bias. Action on an award of arbitrators for loss on an insurance policy. The award of the arbitrators was $73.50; the verdict of the jury which was supported by the evidence was $750. Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 889. The court will not set aside an award because the complainant was not notified that the appraisers intended to meet and estimate the damages, where it is shown she was present, and where it is not shown that she was injured by the award. Sterling v. German-American Ins. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 200.

82. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

83. Heidlinger v. Onward Const. Co., 44 Misc. 555, 90 N. Y. S. 115.

84. Lumbard v. Holdiman, 115 Ill. App. 458.

85. As the failure of the arbitrators to deliver a copy of their award to the parties affected thereby. Lumbard v. Holdiman, 115 Ill. App. 458.

86. Jackson v. Smyth, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 545. And see Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

87. Ex parte Republic of Columbia, 25 S. Ct. 107.

88. Ridgill Bros. v. Dupree [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1166.

89. Fire Ass'n v. Allesina [Or.] 77 P. 123.

90, 91. See 3 C. L. 306.

92. See 3 C. L. 306.

93. Stevens v. Friedman [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 132. The burden of proof in the whole action lies upon the party who would be defeated if no evidence were given on either side, and hence he has the right to close the argument. Civ. Code Prac. § 526. One excepting to report of commissioners in condemnation proceedings, which is presumptively correct. St. 1903, § 838. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Liebel [Ky.] 86 S. W. 549. Where judgment must have gone for appellee had no evidence been introduced on either side, appellant is entitled to closing argument. Has burden under Civ. Code Prac. § 526. Mattingly v. Shortell [Ky.] 85 S. W. 215. Where burden of proof is on defendant, he is entitled to the concluding argument. Civ. Code Prac. § 317, subsec. 6. Burden on party who would be defeated if no evidence was given. Id. § 526. Ashland & C. St. R. Co. v. Hoffman, 26 Ky. L. R. 778, 82 S. W. 566. City is entitled to open and close on hearing of objections to confirmation of special assessments for street improvements. Rule not changed by fact that assessment roll is prima facie proof of the correctness of the amount assessed. City of Peru v. Bartels, 214 Ill. 515, 73 N. E. 755. Where the answer admits the claim of the plaintiff, but sets up in one defense that nothing is due, and in another, a novation, defendant is entitled to the opening and close, there being but the one issue. Gerlaugh v. Riley, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 107, 14 Ohio Dec. 557. Where a de-

In some states defendant is given the right when he admits the plaintiff's cause by the pleadings, and takes upon himself the burden of proof,[94] or when he admits it of record, except in so far as defeated by proof of the facts alleged in the answer.[95]

Statutory provisions regulating the right to open and close do not take away all the discretionary power of the court as to argument,[96] and his exercise of such power will not be interfered with, except in extreme cases.[97] Some courts hold that defendant cannot, as an absolute right, deprive plaintiff of his right to close by such waiver, but that the matter is largely discretionary.

There is a conflict of authority as to the effect on the right to make a closing argument of a waiver of argument by opposing counsel.[98] Others hold that the allowing of additional argument is prejudicial error.[99]

It is not improper, where plaintiff is represented by three attorneys and defendant by two, to permit the argument to the jury to proceed by alternate arguments for plaintiff and defendant, beginning and ending with an argument for plaintiff.[1]

Depriving a party, having the burden of proof, of final argument, is generally held to be a deprivation of a substantial right necessarily affecting the judgment[2] and reversible error,[3] though in some states no reversal will be granted unless prejudice is clearly shown.[4]

Limiting argument.[5]—The court may limit the time allowed for argument murrer to a petition for injunction and the appointment of a receiver is considered at the interlocutory hearing when the evidence and the entire case is heard for the purpose of determining whether the plaintiff is entitled to equitable relief, plaintiff is entitled to open and close on the whole case, and it is not error to refuse to allow defendant to open and conclude the argument on the demurrer. Boston Mercantile Co. v. Ould-Carter Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 466. In Iowa the question as to which party is entitled to open and close is not to be determined until after all the evidence has been received. Party "then" having the burden of the issue has the right. Code, § 3701. Shaffer v. Des Moines Coal & Hay Co., 122 Iowa, 233, 98 N. W. 111. In determining which party has the burden of proof, only issues which are for the determination of the jury are to be considered. Not issues made by the pleadings which are without support in the evidence or established by the evidence without any conflict. Id. For a discussion of the right to open and close in equity, see Fletcher's Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 692, p. 710. Argument of motions. Id., § 421, p. 441.

94. The fact that counsel stated that he assumed the burden of proving the affirmative of an issue in the case, in no wise alters the status fixed by the pleadings. Cir. Ct. Rule 59. Kennington v. Catoe, 68 S. C. 470, 47 S. E. 719. Must, by admissions in his answer, make out a prima facie case for plaintiff, and thus relieve him from the necessity of introducing evidence. Oral admissions insufficient. Du Bignon v. Wright [Ga.] 50 S. E. 65. Defendant held to have right. Atlanta Suburban Land Corp. v. Austin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124.

95. Tex. Co. Ct. Rule 31 (67 S. W. xxiii). Bell v. Fox [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 384. Defendant had right where he admitted plaintiff's right to recover the amount sued for, although he did not admit the truth of facts alleged in an affidavit of attachment sued out by plaintiff in aid of principal action. Id.

96. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 545. Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489.

97. Judgment will not be reversed for refusal of court to permit plaintiff to make closing argument after defendant waives his right of argument, where record does not show anything to prevent opening argument from having been made as complete as possible, and there is nothing but speculation to indicate that verdict would have been different under any argument. Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489.

98. Conrad v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 489.

99. Held prejudicial error to allow other counsel to further address the jury for plaintiff, even though the one first speaking did not use all the time allotted to him. Arguments limited to one hour on each side and first speaker occupied but thirty minutes. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Vanzego [Kan.] 80 P. 944.

1. Stevens v. Friedman [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 132.

2. Kennington v. Catoe, 68 S. C. 470, 47 S. E. 719.

3. Ashland & C. St. R. Co. v. Hoffman, 26 Ky. L. R. 778, 82 S. W. 566; Mattingly v. Shortell [Ky.] 85 S. W. 215.

4. Shaffer v. Des Moines Coal & Hay Co., 122 Iowa, 233, 98 N. W. 111.

5. See 3 C. L. 306, n. 40.

within reasonable bounds,[6] and his action will not be disturbed unless abuse of his discretion is shown.[7] A liberal allowance should, however, be made.[8]

§ 2. Opening statement.[9]—Counsel may make an opening statement, or not, at his own election.[10] As a general rule, when made, it should be confined to a statement of the party's claims and the evidence by which he expects to prove them.[11] Where the statute specifically provides what may be stated, counsel may not, as of right, make any other statements.[12] The latitude to be allowed, however, except in so far as controlled by statute, is largely in the discretion of the trial court, and its action should be upheld except for illegal or gross abuse of discretion.[13]

The pleadings and not the opening statements make the issues.[14] Hence the statement of plaintiff's counsel need not necessarily include all the facts essential to recovery,[15] nor need those referred to be stated with exactness,[16] and the court is not authorized to take the case from the jury or to render judgment upon such statement unless some fact is clearly stated, or some admission clearly made, which evidence relevant under the pleadings cannot cure, and which, therefore, necessarily and absolutely precludes recovery.[17]

6. Ray v. Pecos & N. T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 466. Reasonable time must be allowed counsel, all the circumstances considered. It should not be consumed by colloquys and interruptions. Neumann v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 189. Where the time allotted to either side for argument was 15 minutes and where interference by the court and opposing counsel is accompanied by so much discussion as to consume a large part of time allotted, it is reversible error not to grant further time. Id.

7. Counsel cannot complain that time was unequally distributed, where made no objection to allowance, but closed after arguing for 35 minutes of the hour allowed him, stating that he did not have sufficient time to present his case as he wished to, without requesting more time. Ray v. Pecos & N. T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 466. Unless it can be said from review of evidence that time allowed was manifestly too short. Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark, 214 Ill. 399, 73 N. E. 787.

Held not an abuse of discretion: Limiting argument to 45 minutes each and on request allowing defendant 7 minutes more. Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark, 214 Ill. 399, 73 N. E. 787; Id., 115 Ill. App. 209. Limiting time to an hour and a half on each side and requiring it to be made in the evening when the questions of fact were few and questions of law well settled, and no prejudice was shown. City of Elgin v. Nofs, 212 Ill. 20, 72 N. E. 43.

8. Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark, 214 Ill. 399, 73 N. E. 787.

9. See 3 C. L. 307.

10. Statute authorizing it is permissive only. Stewart v. Rogers [Kan.] 80 P. 58.

11. Kirby's Dig. § 6196. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Murphy [Ark.] 85 S. W. 428. Statement by counsel for propounders in will contest held proper under Code Civ. Prac. § 317. Rust v. Rust [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1152.

12. Under Colo. Code, § 187, giving him right to state his case and the evidence by which he intends to sustain it, it is not error to refuse to allow him to state his theory of the law applicable to the case. San Miguel Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Bonner [Colo.] 79 P. 1025.

13. Even if had right to state his theory of law in opening address, it was a discretionary right merely, and no abuse in refusing to allow him to do so, no prejudice being shown. San Miguel Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Bonner [Colo.] 79 P. 1025. The fact that the argument does not proceed in the order prescribed by the statute is not necessarily ground for reversal. The fact that, in a will contest, counsel for propounders first read the will to the jury and stated that it had been executed in the presence of witnesses, and that unless contestants showed that testator was of unsound mind or had been unduly influenced it must stand as his will, that contestant's counsel then stated the case to the jury, and that counsel for propounders thereafter resumed his statement and stated what the evidence would show, held not ground for reversal, notwithstanding Civ. Code Prac. § 317, the substantial rights of contestants not having been prejudiced. Rust v. Rust [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1152.

14. Brashear v. Rabenstein [Kan.] 80 P. 950; Stewart v. Rogers [Kan.] 80 P. 58.

15. Party will not be sent out of court because counsel negligently or ignorantly fails to allude to one or more matters necessary to be proved. Brashear v. Rabenstein [Kan.] 80 P. 950. May state his case as briefly or as generally as he sees fit. Redding v. Puget Sound Iron & Steel Works, 36 Wash. 642, 79 P. 308.

16. May be indefinite and ambiguous, and important facts may be left doubtful, or merely suggested, or left wholly to inference. Brashear v. Rabenstein [Kan.] 80 P. 950.

17. Brashear v. Rabenstein [Kan.] 80 P. 950. It is only when such statement shows affirmatively that there is no cause of action or that there is a full and complete defense thereto, or when it is expressly admitted that the facts stated are the only ones which the party expects or intends to prove,

Statements at variance with the pleadings may be excluded on motion,[18] or they may be taken as admissions for the purposes of the trial.[19]

§ 3. Kind, extent, and mode of argument or comment during trial.[20]

Use of pleadings and other writings belonging to the case.[21]—The practice of reading the petition to the jury in the opening statement is not to be commended, but unless prejudice is shown the discretion of the trial court over such matters will not be interfered with.[22]

Remarks during trial.[23]—It is improper to persist in attempts to get matters which have been excluded before the jury[24] or to persistently override[25] or refuse to acquiesce in the rulings of the court,[26] or to attempt to introduce collateral matters by suggestive questions.[27]

Statements of counsel to the court as to what he can prove in asking certain questions which the witnesses are not permitted to answer are not improper, where the jury are informed that they cannot consider such statements as evidence.[28]

Comments on witnesses.[29]—Counsel may arraign the conduct of the parties, and impugn, excuse, justify or condemn motives, so far as they are developed by the evidence;[30] but it is improper to discredit an adversary's witnesses by voluntary statements of damaging facts not in evidence.[31] that the court is warranted in rendering final judgment upon it. Failure to state case more fully is no justification for withdrawing case from the jury. Reding v. Puget Sound Iron & Steel Works, 31 Wash. 642, 79 P. 308. A variance between statement and pleadings of the party making it is not sufficient ground on which to base a motion for judgment in favor of the opposite party unless facts are therein admitted which preclude the party's right of action or defense as stated in his pleadings. Stewart v. Rogers [Kan.] 80 P. 58.

18. Stewart v. Rogers [Kan.] 80 P. 58.

19. Stewart v. Rogers [Kan.] 80 P. 58. Concession by plaintiff's counsel in discussion before court at opening of trial that action was one solely for damages for nuisance held equivalent to elimination of prayer for equitable relief, where defendant's counsel relied thereon and case was tried as action at law. Van Vechten v. Hudson River Power Transmission Co., 92 N. Y. S. 956.

20. See 3 C. L. 307.

21. See 3 C. L. 308.

22. City of Lexington v. Kreitz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 444.

23. See 3 C. L. 311.

24. Repeatedly asking a question which has been excluded. Quinn v. New York City R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 560. Action of plaintiff's attorney, in action for breach of contract, in trying to get the proposition of compromise before the jury, held improper but not prejudicial, the evidence having been excluded. Brockman Commission Co. v. Kilbourne [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 275. Persistent and deliberate attempts to bring before the jury offers of compromise, which have been properly excluded, are ground for a new trial where the evidence in plaintiff's favor is not conclusive. Salter v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 588.

25. New trial granted where counsel having been told by the court that reading from decisions was improper, and request made to instruct jury to disregard it, still persisted that his action was proper. Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 897.

26. Oliver v. Jessup's Estate [Mich.] 100 N. W. 900.

27. Reference to former accidents. Airikainen v. Houghton County S. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 264. Fact that defendant insurance company did not pay policy on life of its president. Pioneer Reserve Ass'n v. Jones, 111 Ill. App. 156.

28. Northern Tex. Const. Co. v. Crawford [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 223.

29. See 3 C. L. 309.

30. He may assail the credibility of witnesses when impeached by direct evidence or by inconsistencies or incoherencies in their testimony. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Rose, 214 Ill. 545, 73 N. E. 780.

31. Ground for reversal, when done in regard to sharply contested and very doubtful issue. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 60. Remarks cannot be said to be harmless because plaintiff sued for $10,000 and only recovered $1,500. Id. Argument that railroads ignore rights of citizens, kill and maim at pleasure and then bring in their employes to swear them through, and that defendant's witnesses had to swear the way they did or lose their jobs. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Statement that railroad employes were furnished with prepared statements which they were required to answer "yes" in order to hold their jobs, and if they answered "no" "they walk the plank," held ground for reversal when not excluded on objection, there being evidence that such a statement was prepared but none as to the latter part of the remark. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jolly [Ky.] 84 S. W. 330. Personal injury action reversed because of statement of counsel, over objection: "Suppose you have a case against the railroad company. The entire railroad crew will come into court and try to swear you out of it. That is the way they always do. * * * They

It is not improper to comment on the failure to call certain witnesses[32] or to procure certain evidence.[33]

Comments on evidence, and scope of argument in relation thereto.[34]—Counsel may comment on the evidence in the case,[35] and may draw fair inferences therefrom,[36] but must confine his remarks strictly to the evidence and the arguments have the case made up for them, and they follow each other and swear to it;" of which there was no proof. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 60. Attacking witness in argument not reversible error where there is some evidence justifying it and objection thereto is sustained. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bennett, 214 Ill. 26, 73 N. E. 343.

32. Held not reversible error to ask why certain witnesses were not called and to state that it was because, if called, they could not help but testify that the sidewalk where plaintiff was alleged to have been injured was defective, though such statement was not strictly warranted by the evidence. City of Covington v. Bostwick, 26 Ky. L. R. 780, 82 S. W. 569. Held not reversible error to refer to absence of conductor and all passengers but one who were on the car when plaintiff's cow was killed, and to draw the inference that their evidence would have been unfavorable to defendant, where one of plaintiff's witnesses had been severely criticised. Airikainen v. Houghton County St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 264. Where three out of four persons who were working in store of defendant when accident occurred were called as witnesses, but fourth was not, though in the city, and no reason was given why he was not, counsel may argue that his evidence would have been unfavorable to defendant. Lambert v. Hamlin [N. H.] 59 A. 941. Error, if any, in stating that witness was well, instead of that there was no evidence that he was sick, held harmless. Id.

33. Comments on failure to take depositions as to plaintiff's character from his home not objectionable, where number of depositions procured from other places. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374.

34. See 3 C. L. 309, 310.

35. Plaintiff's statement in his opening, over objection, that the defense would undoubtedly be the same old stereotyped defense, that the mule ran upon the track, and that they did not have time to avoid it, where the court said it was liberal about opening statements, held not reversible error, where appeared that verdict was responsive to evidence. Kansas City Southern R. C. v. Murphy [Ark.] 85 S. W. 428. See this case for list of Arkansas cases on this subject. Documents in evidence are proper subjects of comment or debate with respect to any matter appearing on the face thereof. On issue as to whether brokers had altered certain written contract, held not improper for counsel to comment on fact that it appeared to be in five different handwritings, though attention of witnesses had not been called to that fact. Harrison v. Lakenan [Mo.] 88 S. W. 53. Statement that defendant could have gone to scene of accident and, by experiment, have determined within what distance they could have stopped the train "and brought their witnesses here and had them swear to it," held legitimate. Scullin v. Wabash R. Co., 184 Mo. 695, 83 S. W. 760. It is legitimate argument for counsel in a personal injury action to say that when the defendant filed its first answer it admitted what plaintiff claimed—that he was within a foot of the track—and that it did not withdraw that admission until it found out it was not on its private property, but at a public highway, where it had not the right to run people down without looking for them, as it would in its private way, by which "I mean to say on their own right of way people are trespassers, but on a public highway you and I have just as much right as the railway company, and they are bound to look out for us." Id. Where, in action for rent, there was evidence that premises were rented merely for purpose of getting objectionable competitor of defendant out of business, and the question was a material one, counsel had a right to comment thereon, though testimony of a witness to show such fact had been excluded. Richmond Ice Co. v. Crystal Ice Co. [Va.] 49 S. E. 650.

36. Warranted inferences. Rust v. Rust [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1152. Argument directed to questions of fact involved in the case on trial is germane and essential. Clear Creek Stone Co. v. Carmichael [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 935. So long as he confines his discussion to the issues and the evidence, he will be guilty of no misconduct, though he may use bad logic and draw erroneous inferences. Supreme Lodge M. W. W. v. Jones, 113 Ill. App. 241. May argue such conclusions from the testimony as he pleases, provided he does not misquote witnesses. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Rose, 214 Ill. 545, 73 N. E. 780. May make such deductions as he thinks the evidence justifies, and a wide latitude wil be given him in this regard. Supreme Lodge M. W. W. v. Jones, 113 Ill. App. 241. Statements of fact permissible if supported by evidence. Seeton v. Dunbarton [N. H.] 59 A. 944.

Arguments held proper: Where it was claimed that bad construction work impaired the value of a building for a hotel, to say that no abatement of charges to guests had been shown. Matthews v. Farrell, 140 Ala. 298, 37 So. 325. References to the acceptance of an ordinance by the appellant company and its failure to obey it. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Rose, 214 Ill. 545, 73 S. E. 780. Remarks as to right of plaintiff to be where he was. Joyce v. Chicago, 111 Ill. App. 443. Where conspiracy to render one unable to perform a contract was declared on, to say that in counsel's opinion defendant greatly desired to rid itself of all competition. Standard Oil Co. v. Doyle, 26 Ky. L. R.

of opposing counsel.[37] Thus, he may not state as a fact matter pertinent to the issues which is not in evidence,[38] state what the evidence of absent witnesses would have been,[39] discuss evidence which has been withdrawn from the jury,[40] or refer to offers of compromise,[41] other similar accidents,[42] or actions,[43] the result of a previous trial,[44] or his own professional experience.[45] He may, however, in-

544, 82 S. W. 271. In a contest it was for counsel for the propounders to state that contestants were not shown to have extended one act of kindness toward testator and that some of the children had washed their hands of the contest. Rust v. Rust [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1152. Remarks held to have been a fair inference to be drawn from the whole evidence, and not to have been such as could have misled or prejudiced the jury, and hence they were not ground for reversal. Phoenix Brewing Co. v. Weiss, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 519. To argue, when plaintiff is only witness, that she was either injured as she testified or was guilty of perjury. Heltzen v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 918. Reference to certain witnesses of plaintiff as "gentle cutthroats," where evidence showed that they were participants in strike and parties to assaults on strike breakers, and justified conclusion that, though not literally cutthroats, they were willing to become such if they could thereby accomplish the purpose intended by the strike. Sterling v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 655. Statement of counsel that it was duty of conductor to help plaintiff alight, held merely an expression of opinion, and not prejudicial if unwarranted. Louisville R. Co. v. Sheehan [Ky.] 85 S. W. 688. Statement of manner in which defendant's wood was sawed held immaterial, if not supported by evidence, and harmless, particularly where it was changed so as to be satisfactory to defendant. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374.

37. Tex. Dist. Ct. Rule 39 (67 S. W. xxiii). St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 509; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 60. Must be confined to record. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rehm [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 526. Must not discuss matters not in evidence. American Electrical Works v. New England Elec. R. Const. Co., 186 Mass. 546, 72 N. E. 64. Attempts of counsel, by statements unwarranted by the evidence, to make witnesses of themselves in regard to matters outside the record, are improper. English v. Anderson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 583. In action for damages for polluting cistern, destroying orchard, etc., statements that plaintiff had committed acts himself, and had poisoned his well in order to collect insurance on his wife's life, and that counsel had not proved these facts only because court would not permit it, held reversible error, particularly since verdict for defendant was against preponderance of evidence. Id. It is ground for a new trial to call attention in the opening statement to collateral matters calculated to prejudice the jury. Pioneer Reserve Ass'n v. Jones, 111 Ill. App. 156. May not introduce into the case, for the purpose of influencing the jurors, evidentiary matter which cannot be or has not been proved. Olney v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387. The admission of unsworn statements of irrelevant facts in argument is as fatal as the introduction of evidence to prove them. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Field [C. C. A.] 137 F. 14.

38. Abuses his privilege, and exceptions may be taken on the other side which may be good ground for a new trial or reversal. Supreme Lodge M. W. W. v. Jones, 113 Ill. App. 241.

Arguments held improper: Statement that insured had answered in five applications that she did not have heart disease, and that five different physicians had certified that she did not have it, there being no evidence to that effect, held improper. Supreme Lodge M. W. W. v Jones, 113 Ill. App. 241. Reference to difficulties in getting answers to interrogatories, when same were not in evidence and no allusion was made to them on the trial. American Electrical Works v. New England Elec. R. Const. Co., 186 Mass. 546, 72 N. E. 64. Remark that witness for railroad company came to the trial on passes and was present when his deposition might have been taken, there being no evidence to that effect and it not being a proper subject of comment in any event. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Field [C. C. A.] 137 F. 14.

39. Louisville R. Co. v. Sheehan [Ky.] 85 S. W. 688.

40. Coruth v. Jones [Vt.] 60 A. 814.

41. Salter v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 588.

42. In suit for personal injuries caused by defective sidewalk, reference to fact that one of the counsel for defendant city had been previously injured by falling on sidewalk, and that they "are now healing the injury by his employment in this suit." City of Lexington v. Kreitz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 444. Reference to plaintiff's discharge and former injuries, and request for punitive damages, held ground for reversal. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rehm [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 526.

43. References to "fake" personal injury suits against railroads, and "fake" settlements by them. International, etc., R. Co. v. Goswick [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 423.

44. The fact that counsel on examining jurors on their voir dire, on appeal from an award by the sheriff's jury in condemnation proceedings, stated to those first called the amount of the award for the purpose of identifying the case, held not prejudicial error, in view of instructions and fact that it did not appear that any of such jurors sat in the case. Simons v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 129. Fact that counsel asked each juror whether finding of sheriff's jury would have any weight with him, or influence him in finding value of land under the evidence, not reversible error. Id.

dulge in oratorical flourishes,[46] and may draw upon the facts of history to illustrate a thought or point in his argument.[47]

Appeals to passion, prejudice and sympathy.[48]—Appeals to the jury on considerations other than the merits of the case,[49] or the use of language or arguments calculated to arouse their passion and prejudice against the opposite party, are improper.[50] Thus, it is improper to appeal to them to give plaintiff punitive damages when he is not entitled thereto,[51] or to state that the amount claimed would not compensate counsel for the injuries complained of,[52] or inquire of jurors

Arguments held improper: Statement of counsel that he was satisfied at end of former trial. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lawrence, 211 Ill. 373, 71 N. E. 1024. Reference to fact that case was previously reversed on a technicality, and that defendant was preparing to obtain another reversal, improper. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jolly [Ky.] 84 S. W. 330. On appeal to call attention to the verdict of the jury in another court. Held harmless, because verdict for plaintiff was inevitable. Beatty v. Clarkson [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1033. Where question before jury was whether plaintiff was in fact negligent, held error to read from opinion on former appeal a discussion as to whether, on the facts then presented, plaintiff was negligent as a matter of law. Olney v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387. To read from a former decision to the jury and insisting upon his right to do so after objection thereto has been sustained. Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 99 N. W. 897.

45. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374.

46. Remarks that defendant's servants would have handled a car load of steers with more care than they did plaintiff, held mere rhetorical flourish and not beyond the limits of forensic debate. West v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 140.

47. Not reversible error for counsel for plaintiff, in action against railroad for personal injuries, to state that statistics furnished by the interstate commerce commission showed that 60,000 persons were killed or crippled by railroads during past year, and that evidence showed that defendant was reckless or careless, in reply to remarks of defendant's counsel in regard to carefulness of engineers, at least when no prejudice shown. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Colly [Ky.] 86 S. W. 536.

48. See 3 C. L. 309.

49. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 509.

50. Himrod Coal Co. v. Beckwith, 111 Ill. App. 379. Argument effective in arousing passion and prejudice is wholly indefensible, and, unless it can be seen that it did not result in injury, the judgment ought to be reversed. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Statement that accident occurred through criminal negligence of defendant which was objected to. Kinne v. International R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 930. Denunciation of defendant, in action for obstructing passway, calculated to prejudice jury. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Carter [Ky.] 86 S. W. 685. Must set aside the verdict, though remarks were not objected to, where counsel intentionally goes outside of record and indulges in remarks clearly prejudicial, and which must have been made for the purpose of influencing the jury. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rehm [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 526.

51. Statement that corporations must be made to obey the law, like other people, and that the only way to do it was to punish them by giving punitive damages, as they could not be indicted and prosecuted like other people. On objection that this was a misstatement of the law, he stated they could be indicted but not imprisoned, and that he did not ask a verdict because defendant was a corporation but that both parties were equal before the law. Held, legitimate argument. Tutwiler Coal, Coke & Iron Co. v. Nail [Ala.] 37 So. 634.

Arguments held improper: Claim for exemplary damages. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lauth [Ill.] 74 N. E. 738. Statement that income from $5,000, especially after deducting expenses of litigation, would not be a fair substitute. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Vipond, 212 Ill. 199, 72 N. E. 22. In suit for damages for alleged negligent killing, statement that "there is no recompense that can in any way compensate a father or parent for the loss of a child," etc., and that jury should give punitive damages, held cause for reversal. Chicago City R. Co. v. Math, 114 Ill. App. 350. Asking the jury to bring in such a verdict as would teach defendant and all similar corporations that their railroads must be run with some regard to the safety of human life and limb, constitutes reversible error when unrebuked and uncorrected by the court after attention has been called to it. Kinne v. International R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 930. In suit for personal injuries received at railroad crossing, remarks to effect that public was interested in case, and that jury should return verdict so large that it would be to interest of defendant to keep watchman there, held prejudicial, there being no evidence that any one else had ever been injured there through failure to have such watchman, and there being a conflict of evidence as to defendant's negligence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 509. Remarks tending to arouse passion and prejudice against railroad, and request that they bring in big enough verdict to teach it not to indulge in such practices in the future. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rehm [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 526.

52. Attempt to compel opposing counsel to answer or refuse to answer question as to how much he would take to accept alleged injury of plaintiff (Union Pac. R. Co. v. Field [C. C. A.] 137 F. 14), and statement that amount asked would not compensate speaker (Id.). Statement that counsel would how much they would take for similar injuries,[53] to contrast the poverty of plaintiff and the wealth of defendant,[54] to appeal to race prejudices,[55] or the prejudice against corporations,[56] to state that carriers are accustomed to disregard the rights of the public,[57] to refer to the fact that defendant is insured and that any damages will be paid by the insurance company,[58] or to refer to the probability of an appeal.[59]

Mere abuse is also improper,[60] but remarks not amounting to a misstatement of a material fact, but which are rather the venting of offensive epithets, are not ordinarily a ground for reversal.[61] The court should, however, correct them as a breach of decorum and an offense against its dignity.[62]

Statements of law and reading from decisions or papers pertinent to other cases.[63]—The suggestion of erroneous views of the law by counsel is fatal error unless extracted by the charge.[64]

The practice of allowing counsel to read lawbooks to the jury is dangerous and should not be permitted.[65] The court may and should refuse to allow it when not have suffered the injury complained of for $25,000. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lauth [Ill.] 74 N. E. 738.

53. In suit for death of child by wrongful act, reference to sufferings of parents, and as to how much jurors would take under similar circumstances. Excessive damages reduced. McDonald v. Champion Iron & Steel Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 208, 103 N. W. 829.

54. Hlmrod Coal Co. v. Beckwith, 111 Ill. App. 379. Telling jury of plaintiff's poverty and seeking to prejudice them against defendant corporation. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Seitz, 111 Ill. App. 242. Reference to plaintiff's poor clothing. McKee v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 470, 83 S. W. 1013. Statement that juries would not allow corporations to rob poor men of their labor, and the case at bar involved scheme to beat plaintiff out of his labor. Ft. Smith Lumber Co. v. Cathey [Ark.] 86 S. W. 806.

55. Reference to execution creditor as a Jew without a conscience "who would take the last thing you had." Day v. Ferguson [Ark.] 85 S. W. 771.

56. Comments on power of brewing companies in city goverument and their treatment of saloon keepers. Jung v. Theo. Hamm Brew. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 233. Reference to defendant as a rich corporation. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lauth [Ill.] 74 N. E. 738. Seeking to inflame jury's passions against defendant corporation. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Seitz, 111 Ill. App. 242. In a personal injury action, held reversible for counsel for plaintiff to state in his closing argument that the defendant was a soulless corporation, making millions of dollars a day, and to offer to give defendant's counsel $2.50 to let him tell the story of how defendant treated a widow in another suit against it, and further state that he crossed the company's tracks every day, and knew that they ran their cars wild there, and it would be stopped if he had to bring an injunction suit. Where jury not admonished to disregard remarks. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 84 S. W. 755. Where the evidence authorized a verdict for either party, the unrebuked argument of plaintiff's counsel that he did not ask for a verdict because defendant was an irrigation company, though such corporations had swindled people dealing with them, and that defendant was no better than other corporations, constitutes reversible error. Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 531.

57. Statement that railroad corporations ignore rights of citizens, kill and maim them at pleasure, and then bring in their employes to swear them through. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Could not be made subject of proof or assumed as matter of common knowledge. Remark that carrier corporations are accustomed to proceed without regard to the rights and feelings of those with whom they deal, held improper, but not so flagrant as to constitute grouud of appeal in absence of objection. Levidow v. Starin [Conn.] 60 A. 123.

58. Reversible error to persist in attempt to get it before jury. Lone Star Brew. Co. v. Voith [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1100.

59. Statement that jury should not give small verdict on theory that defendant would pay it rather than appeal, and that it would appeal anyway. Quirk v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 815.

60. Is not argument. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lauth [Ill.] 74 N. E. 738. Statement that defendant "did not have the decency of a rattlesnake." Id.

61. Statement that counsel was tricked by defendant not calling witness subpoenaed by it, and that a certain witness was a perjurer and a villain, not ground for reversal, though not justified by the record. Franklin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 930.

62. Should protect witnesses from unjust and opprobrious remarks, calculated to result in breach of peace. Franklin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 930.

63. See 3 C. L. 308.

64. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Field [C. C. A.] 137 F. 14. Failure of the court to sustain objection to an erroneous statement of law. Statement of counsel in action for malicious prosecution that defendant must prove plaintiff guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, where objection was overruled. Rullson v. Collins [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 748.

65. Ray v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [W.

objected to.[66] Allowing the reading of good and pertinent law is not ground for reversal,[67] but the contrary is true in case it is bad or not pertinent, unless the error is cured by instructions propounding the sound law on the very points to which such bad law relates.[68] So, too, it is generally held to be reversible error to allow, over objection, the reading of reports of decisions giving evidence or facts involved in decided cases more or less similar to the one at bar.[69] Some courts, however, hold that the judgment will not be reversed in any case unless injury is shown.[70]

It is within the discretion of the court to refuse to allow counsel to read certain sections of the statutes.[71]

Comments on instructions and special interrogatories.[72]—Counsel has no right to advise the jury that he does not intend to ask for any instructions.[73]

He may suggest to the jury the answers he believes should be given to the special interrogatories of the opposite party under the evidence,[74] but may not state that they were propounded merely for the purpose of confusing the jury, and thus obtaining a reversal,[75] or direct the jury to answer them in such a manner as to correspond with the general verdict rather than in accordance with the evidence.[76]

§ 4. Excuses for impropriety.[77]—It is immaterial whether counsel deliberately intended to mislead the jury, or whether he believed that he was acting within his rights.[78]

Reversal will not be granted for misconduct, where counsel for both parties are guilty,[79] nor may one complain of improper remarks in reply to, and provoked by, his own argument.[80]

§ 5. Objections and rulings.[81]—The control of the argument is within the sound judicial discretion of the trial judge, and it is his duty to keep it within

Va.] 50 S. E. 413. Reading decisions on the complex question as to what constitutes a fixture has a tendency to confuse rather than to enlighten them. Filley v. Christopher [Wash.] 80 P. 834.

66. Ray v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 413. Held reversible error to read from textbooks and reports. Id. Refusal to allow counsel to read from a decision and to state to the jury that the doctrine there announced should be approved and applied to the case at bar, held not error. Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113, 78 P. 607.

67, 68. Ray v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 413.

69. Ray v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 413. It is never permissible for counsel to read the law from the books when the effect thereof is to bring before the jury the facts of the case decided, or the amount of the verdict, or the comments of the judge upon the facts, or to influence the jury in deciding upon the facts in the case on trial. Olney v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387.

70. Williams v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 1100.

71. Meyer v. Foster [Cal.] 81 P. 402.

72. See 3 C. L. 309, 310.

73. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Otstot, 212 Ill. 429, 72 N. E. 387. Statement that party has no requests for instructions elicited by court's request to present them and which is directly responsive thereto insufficient to warrant a reversal. Id.

74. Himrod Coal Co. v. Beckwith, 111 Ill. App. 379. May read and discuss interrogatories which the court has indicated he will submit to the jury, pointing out what answers ought to be returned thereto. Clear Creek Stone Co. v. Carmichael [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 935.

75. Himrod Coal Co. v. Beckwith, 111 Ill. App. 379.

76. Statement that jury should first find general verdict and then answer interrogatories so that answers will dovetail in and agree with it, held improper, but not ground for withdrawing case from jury. Opposite party only entitled to have jury admonished not to consider them. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Fine, 163 Ind. 617, 72 N. E. 589.

77. See 3 C. L. 311.

78. In reading part of former opinion in same case. Olney v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387.

79. Culver v. South Haven & E. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 663; Chicago City R. Co. v. Enroth, 113 Ill. App. 285.

80. Defendant cannot complain of statement of plaintiff's counsel that he was satisfied that there were more fake settlements by railroad companies than fake suits against them, where he himself called attention to fact that persons injured by railroads suddenly recovered after getting judgment. International, etc., R. Co. v. Goswick [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 423.

proper bounds.[82] It is his duty, on objection, to exclude improper statements,[83] and to promptly stop counsel when guilty of any misconduct, explain to the jury the impropriety of his remarks, and take steps to prevent its repetition,[84] even though no objection has been interposed.[85]

As in the case of other matters occurring at the trial, that the misconduct of counsel may be reviewed by the appellate court, it must be objected to at the time, a ruling on such objection must be obtained, and an exception taken thereto[86] The ordinary steps to perfect the appeal and to present the matter to the reviewing court must also be taken.[87]

§ 6. Action of court or counsel curing objection.[88]—Unless the misconduct is such as to prevent a fair verdict,[89] its harmful influence may generally be cured by the withdrawal of the objectionable remarks,[90] or by the action of the trial court in promptly sustaining an objection thereto,[91] admonishing counsel to de-

81. See 3 C. L. 311.

82. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Murphy [Ark.] 85 S. W. 428. The regulation of conduct of counsel in argument is largely in the discretion of the trial court. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lawrence, 211 Ill. 373, 71 N. E. 1024.

83. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jolly [Ky.] 84 S. W. 330.

84. Judgment will be reversed for a failure of duty in this regard which manifestly affects the result. Supreme Lodge M. W. W. v. Jones, 113 Ill. App. 241.

85. Improper argument should be suppressed by the court whether objected to or not. Reference in suit for death of child, to suffering of parents, and as to how much jurors would take under similar circumstances. McDonald v. Champion Iron & Steel Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 208, 103 N. W. 829. It is his duty, without objection having been made, to prevent counsel from discussing extraneous issues, introducing irrelevant facts, and insinuating erroneous views of the law. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Field [C. C. A.] 137 F. 14. He should also at once correct the error, if possible, and if not should discharge the jury and direct a new trial. Id. Under the district court rules of Texas, the court is not required to wait for objections to be made when the rules as to argument are violated, but if not noticed and corrected by the court, opposing counsel may ask leave to present his objections. Rule 41 (67 S. W. xxiii). St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 509.

86. See Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368.

87. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

88. See 3 C. L. 312.

89. Attempts to bring offers of compromise before jury not cured by withdrawal of question and answer, where evidence not conclusive. Salter v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 588. A ruling sustaining an objection to counsel's misconduct does not always remove the ill effects thereof. May still have been effective to arouse passion and prejudice. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lauth [Ill.] 74 N. E. 738. A new trial should be granted notwithstanding such ruling and though the trial court may have done its full duty in the matter, where it appears that the abuse of argument has worked an injustice to one of the parties. Id. The judgment will be reversed where counsel tells the jury of the poverty of his client and seeks to inflame their passions against a defendant corporation, notwithstanding the fact that objections to his remarks are sustained. In opening statement. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Seitz, 111 Ill. App. 242. Argument that railroads ignore rights of citizens, and that its employes had to swear as they did or lose their jobs, not cured by sustaining objection and instructing jury to disregard the remark, where plaintiff admitted verdict was excessive by remitting part of it. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Error in calling attention to collateral matters calculated to prejudice the jury. Pioneer Reserve Ass'n v. Jones, 111 Ill. App. 156. And in seeking to get such matters before the jury is not cured by sustaining objections thereto. Id. Error in reading from opinion on prior appeal, on facts there presented not cured by instruction that the question was for them to decide, whether plaintiff exercised ordinary care, where they were not told to disregard the reference to the opinion (Olney v. Boston & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 59 A. 387), nor by request of counsel to jury to consider what he had read merely as his view of the law (Id.).

90. By his withdrawing them and requesting the jury to disregard them and the court to instruct them to disregard them. Cane Belt R. Co. v. Crosson [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 867. As where counsel commenced a statement that the income from $5,000, especially when something was deducted for expense of litigation, would not be a fair substitute, and when statement was objected to by defendant, expressed willingness to have it struck out if not proper, and did not finish his statement. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Vipond, 212 Ill. 199, 72 N. E. 22.

91. City of Lexington v. Kreltz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 444. Where an objection has been sustained by the trial court, it is only for an excessive abuse of the latitude properly allowed counsel in addressing juries, by the use of peculiarly prejudicial language outside of the record, that the judgment will be set aside for such misconduct. Id.

Misconduct cured by sustaining objection: Attacking witness, where the evidence furnishes some ground therefor. Chicago City R. Co. v. Bennett, 214 Ill. 26, 73 N. E. 343. Statement of counsel that he was satisfied sist,[92] or instructing the jury to disregard it,[93] or by two or more of these combined.[94]

In some cases the error may be cured by remitting a part of a resulting excessive verdict,[95] but this does not apply where the passion and prejudice aroused thereby may have entered into the determination of the issues of fact.[96]

The error of the court in allowing counsel to argue that the jury should award exemplary damages is not cured by the fact that counsel honestly believed he was entitled to them.[97]

The question whether a new trial shall be granted for misconduct of counsel in his remarks to the jury rests in the sound judicial discretion of the trial court,[98] and his action in the matter will not be interfered with on appeal, unless it appears that such discretion was clearly abused.[99] at end of other trial where verdict was well sustained by evidence. Discretion so exercised as to obviate all objection. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lawrence, 211 Ill. 373, 71 N. E. 1024. Where remark made in response to request of court, and no other relief asked for. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Otstot, 212 Ill. 429, 72 N. E. 387. Improper reference to former accidents in a question where counsel characterized it as entirely improper, and there was no request to refer to it in the charge. Airikainen v. Houghton County St. R. Co. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 264.

92. Mild admonitions held not sufficient. English v. Anderson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 583. Reference to difficulty in procuring answers to interrogatories when same were not in evidence and no allusion was made to them on trial cured by direction to counsel to confine himself to the evidence, which he did. American Electrical Works v. New Eng. Elec. R. Const. Co., 186 Mass. 546, 72 N. E. 64.

93. Mere admonition of counsel not always sufficient. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 84 S. W. 755. Where court admonishes the jury to disregard certain statements, it will be presumed on appeal that they obeyed the orders. Louisville R. Co. v. Sheehan [Ky.] 85 S. W. 688.

Misconduct held cured by instructions: Statement that juries would not allow corporations to beat poor men out of their labor and that the case at bar was a scheme to beat plaintiff out of his. Ft. Smith Lumber Co. v. Cathey [Ark.] 86 S. W. 806. Statement as to what evidence of absent witness for opposite party would have been. Louisville R. Co. v. Sheehan [Ky.] 85 S. W. 688. Statement that jury should not give small verdict on theory that defendant would pay it rather than appeal, and that it would appeal anyway if possible, where no objection made at the time, and verdict was not excessive. Quirk v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 815. Erroneous statements of law. Seeton v. Dunbarton [N. H.] 59 A. 944. Remarks as to manner in which interrogatories should be answered held not ground for reversal, where court, on overruling motion to withdraw submission of cause, stated that he would instruct jury to answer them according to evidence, and did so, and counsel failed to request court to admonish jury, when remarks were made, not to consider them. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Fine, 163 Ind. 617, 72 N. E. 589.

94. An objection by opposing counsel followed by a rebuke from the court and an admonition to the jury to disregard the remarks will generally cure the prejudicial statements. Reference to execution creditor as a Jew without a conscience "who would take the last thing you had." Day v. Ferguson [Ark.] 85 S. W. 771.

Misconduct cured:. Where counsel was stopped, and jury instructed not to consider his language, and he admitted that his language was probably improper, and it not appearing that injury resulted. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. McDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 493. Reference to counsel's professional experience where it was immediately withdrawn on exception being taken and jury was instructed to disregard it, and nothing further was said about it by opposing counsel. Lee v. Dow [N. H.] 59 A. 374. Error held not to have prejudiced and misled the jury. Id. Where objection was sustained and jury instructed not to consider remarks. Schwartz v. McQuaid, 214 Ill. 357, 73 N. E. 582. Reference in personal injury action to plaintiff's poor clothing held not misconduct justifying interfering with action of court in refusing new trial, where counsel was immediately checked and jury admonished to disregard it. McKee v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 470, 83 S. W. 1013.

95. See McDonald v. Champion Iron & Steel Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 208, 103 N. W. 829.

96. Remittitur did not cure error since passion and prejudice may have entered into determination of issues of fact. Wabash R. Co. v. Billings, 212 Ill. 37, 72 N. E. 2. Error cannot be cured by remittitur where evidence not conclusive on issues of negligence and contributory negligence, and jury may have been influenced thereby. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rehm [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 526.

97. In case where they were not recoverable. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lauth [Ill.] 74 N. E. 738.

98. Whether it naturally tended to prejudice jury is peculiarly for trial court to determine, taking into consideration all the circumstances. Jung v. Theo. Hamm Brewing Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 233.

99. Held no abuse. Jung v. Theo. Hamm Brewing Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 233.

A case will be reversed for improper and necessarily prejudicial remarks.[100] Whether remarks are prejudicial depends upon the peculiar facts of each case.[101]

Waiver.—Misconduct is not waived by the statement of the opposing counsel that he does not care whether the objectionable language is retracted or not, where he accompanies it by a reiteration of his exceptions.[102]

ARMY AND NAVY; ARRAIGNMENT AND PLEAS, see latest topical index.

ARREST AND BINDING OVER.

§ 1. Occasion or necessity for warrant.[1]—Peace officers have authority to arrest without warrant in certain cases.[2]

In Missouri a police officer may without a warrant arrest for a past misdemeanor, provided such officer has reasonable grounds to suspect a misdemeanor has been committed,[3] and if the necessary facts authorizing the arrest exist, they con-

100. In opening statement. Mattoon Gas Light & Coke Co. v. Dolan, 111 Ill. App. 333.

101. Ft. Smith Lumber Co. v. Cathey [Ark.] 86 S. W. 806. Remarks are not such as to work a reversal for the refusal of the trial court to arrest the same unless the statements are made as of fact, are unsupported by any evidence and are pertinent to the issue, or their natural tendency is to influence the finding of the jury. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Bromberg [Ala.] 37 So. 395. It will be presumed that erroneous arguments were prejudicial in the absence of a showing beyond a doubt that they were not and could not have been. Reversal where remarks were not withdrawn and no specific instruction not to consider them. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Field [C. C. A.] 137 F. 14. Conduct of attorney before a jury does not constitute prejudicial error, when it appears that what he said, taken in connection with the remarks of the court in the presence of the jury was calculated to prejudice the jury against him rather than otherwise. American Contracting Co. v. Sammon, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 121.

See, also, Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 3 C. L. 1579.

102. In response to question addressed to court. Jung v. Theo. Hamm Brewing Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 233.

1. See 3 C. L. 312.

2. People v. Crane, 94 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 343. An arrest by a chief of police, who in conjunction with a deputy sheriff has a warrant therefor, and is assisting the deputy sheriff in making the arrest, is lawful. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 804.

Statutes generally prescribe the conditions under which a peace officer may arrest without a warrant. B. & C. Comp. § 1611. State v. Williams [Or.] 77 P. 965. Gen. St. 1901, § 813. City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681. Cr. Code Prac. §§ 35-37. Mann v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 723, 82 S. W. 438. The usual provisions are (1) for a crime committed in his presence; (2) for a felony committed although not in his presence; (3) for a felony in fact committed and he has reasonable cause for believing the person arrested to have been the perpetrator. Under such statutes mandamus will not lie to compel an arrest without a warrant for a misdemeanor not committed in an officer's presence. State v. Williams [Or.] 77 P. 965.

Peace officers have at common law the right to arrest upon view, without warrant, all persons who are guilty of a breach of the peace or other violation of the criminal laws. Percival v. Bailey [S. C.] 49 S. E. 7. It may be that an offense committed in the full hearing of an officer would be deemed as committed in his view (Id.), and under special circumstances of emergency a peace officer may arrest without a warrant for a breach of the peace not committed in his view, if the officer arrived at the place of disturbance very soon after the offense and found the offender present (Id.). In Kentucky a deputy marshal of a city of the fifth class may arrest without a warrant one committing an offense in his presence. Commonwealth v. Robinson [Ky.] 84 S. W. 319. In Pennsylvania a special police officer in the employ of a railroad company may arrest without a warrant a person who jumps from a car on which he was a trespasser and is about to escape. P. L. 125, 152. Higby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. 452, 58 A. 858.

3. Rev. St. 1899, § 6212. State v. Boyd, 108 Mo. App. 518, 84 S. W. 191. An ordinance attempting to authorize arrest without warrant of persons suspected of committing misdemeanors is void. Gunderson v. Struebing [Wis.] 104 N. W. 149.

At common law an escaped felon could be arrested by any one without a warrant stitute the authority and protection of the peace officer;[4] but an arrest and detention without warrant where there is no evidence of a criminal act is a violation of the constitutional right of liberty.[5] Though a warrant may lose its force because of its issuance in another county, it may show the existence of such facts as authorize an arrest without a warrant.[6] That an arrest was made without a warrant is not a jurisdictional defect and is waived by an appearance and submission to arraignment without objection,[7] or by a plea to the merits of the charge.[8]

A private person[9] may arrest and detain, until the arrival of an officer, one committing a breach of the peace,[10] or one who he has reasonable grounds for believing has committed a felony.[11] A peace officer has no authority to deputize a private person to arrest another under a warrant.[12]

§ 2. Privilege from arrest.[13]—The privilege extends only to protect one from arrest on civil process,[14] and may be waived.[15] A question involving the constitutional privilege from arrest of a U. S. senator will sustain a writ of error from the Federal supreme court to review a conviction in a district court.[16]

§ 3. Complaint, affidavit, or information to procure warrant.[17]—A complaint is entitled to liberal construction in justice court,[18] and is not defective in naming an accused John Doe, when the true name is unknown.[19] A complaint made upon information and belief is not sufficient under a requirement of probable cause,[20] but such a defect may be waived by the giving of bail, or asking for continuances.[21] That no complaint was made before arrest is waived by a plea to the merits.[22] In general, a complaint on information and belief only confers no jurisdiction on a magistrate to issue a warrant,[23] though the informer need not have personal knowledge of the facts necessary to convict the defendant,[24] but in some states a warrant may issue if the informer swears that he is informed of them and believes the facts to be true as stated in the information.[25] An information filed by a prosecutor must charge an offense shown by the depositions tak-

(Williford v. State, 121 Ga. 173, 48 S. E. 962), and in Georgia a misdemeanor convict, who has escaped, may be recaptured by any peace officer without a warrant (Id.).

One breaking the peace and indulging in loud cursing within the hearing of women may be arrested without a warrant (People v. Nihell, 144 Cal. 200, 77 P. 916); but an arrest by an officer without a warrant, for seduction, is illegal (Earles v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1).

4. People v. Crane, 94 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 343.

5. People v. Breen, 44 Misc. 375, 89 N. Y. S. 998.

6. Smotherman v. State, 140 Ala. 168, 37 So. 376.

7. Hollibaugh v. Hehn [Wyo.] 79 P. 1044.

8. Borough of North Plainfield v. Goodwin [N. J. Law] 60 A. 571. After conviction in a police court and appeal and conviction in district court, one is not entitled to question the constitutionality of a statute authorizing arrest without a warrant on view. City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681.

9. See 3 C. L. 314.

10. Gray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 764.

11. Cr. Code Prac. § 37. Mann v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 723, 82 S. W. 438.

12. Mann v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 723, 82 S. W. 438. Unless properly deputized a private citizen cannot justify an arrest merely because he has in his possession a warrant for the person sought to be taken. Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716.

13. See 3 C. L. 314.

14. One who is in a county only for the purpose of giving special bail in an action wherein he had been arrested on a capias is not privileged from arrest for bastardy. Cady v. St. Clair Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1025.

15. Burton v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 243.

16. U. S. Const. art. 1, § 6. Burton v. United States, 25 S. Ct. 243.

17. See 3 C. L. 314.

18. State v. Clemmenson, 92 Minn. 191, 99 N. W. 640.

19. State v. King [Kan.] 80 P. 606.

20. Const. § 18. State v. McLain [N. D.] 102 N. W. 407.

21. State v. McLain [N. D.] 102 N. W. 407.

22. Borough of North Plainfield v. Goodwin [N. J. Law] 60 A. 571.

23. People v. Preston, 44 Misc. 267, 89 N. Y. S. 889; Hollibaugh v. Hehn [Wyo.] 79 P. 1044.

24. Commonwealth v. Barr, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.

25. Commonwealth v. Barr, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 609. An arrest may be lawful when made under a warrant issued on complaint sworn to by one who had no actual knowledge of the facts set out in the complaint. State v. King [Kan.] 80 P. 606.

en at the preliminary examination.[26] Where the clerk of the circuit court is ex officio clerk of the county court, an affidavit for warrant is not defective in reciting that it was taken before the clerk of the circuit court.[27] If the examination is to proceed at once, the accused may waive the requirement of a written information,[28] as may one on trial for committing a nuisance.[29]

§ 4. The warrant and its issuance.[30]—A warrant is of no force beyond the state of the issuing magistrate;[31] but in some states a warrant issued by a justice of the peace may be served in a county other than that of issuance, if indorsed by a magistrate of such other county.[32] Federal prisoners arrested in a district other than that in which they are indicted may be removed to that district for trial.[33] The issuing of a warrant is a judicial act performed by a judicial officer and is the beginning of a judicial proceeding, but it is not the act of a court.[34] A municipal charter requiring a mayor to see that the ordinances were faithfully executed and conferring jurisdiction to try violators thereof authorizes him to issue a warrant for one violating an ordinance.[35] An assistant justice of the peace, appointed to act during the absence of the regular incumbent, has authority to issue warrants in Rhode Island;[36] such a warrant need not show on its face the inability of the justice to act,[37] and a designation of authority as "Assistant Justice" is sufficient.[38] In Georgia a warrant issued by a justice of the peace must be made returnable before himself or some other judicial officer having jurisdiction in the premises.[39] In California a writ of mandate to compel the issuance of a warrant will be granted only upon the affidavit of one having some particular interest to be subserved by this process, independent of that which he holds with the public at large.[40]

§ 5. Making arrest and keeping and disposition of prisoner.[41]—A mere invitation by a police officer to accompany him to the police station, complied with and followed by a search, is not an arrest.[42] An officer is not bound to show his warrant in making an arrest,[43] but unless he, or another with whom he is acting in concert, is in possession of the warrant and in a position to show it upon demand, the arrest is not lawful.[44] A de facto marshal of a municipal corporation is authorized to make an arrest.[45] Only a Federal marshal may make an arrest on the requisition of a foreign consul under a treaty.[46] The motive in-

26. Ex parte Knudtson [Idaho] 79 P. 641.

27. Pruett v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 343.

28. People v. Crane, 94 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 343.

29. City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681.

30. See 3 C. L. 315.

Warrant held sufficient: That defendant willfully cut a person named with a knife and otherwise abused him on the public streets, held sufficient; that defendant willfully abused and shot at a person named on the streets of a town without provocation, held sufficient; a warrant charging that defendant willfully struck and abused C. on the streets of the town without provocation and in violation of the ordinances, sufficiently sets forth the offense. Town of Clinton v. Leake [S. C.] 50 S. E. 541.

31. Ex parte Sykes [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 538.

32. Code 1896, § 5219. Smotherman v. State, 140 Ala. 168, 37 So. 373. Code Cr. Proc. arts. 259, 260. Ex parte Sykes [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 538.

33. Removal may be to District of Columbia. Hyde v. Shine, 25 S. Ct. 760; Dimond v. Shine, 25 S. Ct. 766.

34. Ormond v. Ball, 120 Ga. 916, 48 S. E. 383.

35. Williams v. Sewell, 121 Ga. 665, 49 S. E. 732.

36. Authority of appointment does not lapse by entering on new term. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 228, § 11. State v. Chappell [R. I.] 58 A. 1009.

37. State v. Chappell [R. I.] 58 A. 1009.

38. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 229, §§ 34, 35. State v. Chappell [R. I.] 58 A. 1009.

39. Pen. Code 1895, § 885. Ormond v. Ball, 120 Ga. 916, 48 S. E. 383.

40. Code Civ. Proc. § 1086. Fritts v. Charles, 145 Cal. 512, 78 P. 1057.

41. See 3 C. L. 316.

42. Gunderson v. Struebing [Wis.] 104 N. W. 149.

43, 44. Adams v. State, 121 Ga. 163, 48 S. E. 910.

45. McDuffie v. State, 121 Ga. 580, 49 S. E. 708.

46. Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

volved in an arrest does not affect its legality.[47] An officer making an arrest may use sufficient force to subdue the prisoner, though not acting in self defense,[48] being bound to use reasonable judgment in the circumstances,[49] and if assaulted, may defend himself and use such force as may be necessary for that purpose.[50] Force used in attempting to make an unlawful arrest constitutes assault and battery,[51] and the accused may resist with a force proportionate to that being used to detain him,[52] but if such person uses excessive force, the one attempting to arrest may defend himself.[53] An arrest which is illegal, without reference to the knowledge or belief of the party that it is illegal, may afford adequate cause to reduce an unlawful homicide to manslaughter;[54] but one is not justified in shooting an officer who merely announces the intention to arrest him, although the character of the officer does not appear and the arrest would be unwarranted.[55] A police officer failing to execute a warrant for arrest cannot justify absolutely by showing that the magistrate issuing the warrant orally requested him not to serve it.[56] The police have the power and it is their duty to search the person of one lawfully arrested for evidence to prove the charge,[57] or for weapons or valuables,[58] but officers making a lawful arrest are not exonerated thereby from subsequent robbery of the person arrested.[59] The imprisonment of a French seaman under our treaty with France may continue until the expiration of two months.[60]

§ 6. Preliminary hearing, binding over, or discharge.[61]—Formerly all inquiry at preliminary examinations might be confined to the prosecution, and the accused was not entitled to offer evidence in his own behalf,[62] but modern statutes generally require that all witnesses produced by the defendant must be sworn and examined.[63] Statutes may expressly authorize a defendant charged with crime to waive a preliminary examination,[64] and an accused out on bail who voluntarily absents himself cannot complain that witnesses were examined in his absence.[65] A justice of the peace,[66] or examining magistrate holding an accused for trial of a misdemeanor need not reduce to writing the evidence introduced or depositions taken unless so requested by the parties,[67] though in general, when a prisoner is arraigned the necessary facts to justify a further detention must be shown by competent proof by depositions or evidence taken in writing.[68] Where one arrested without a warrant is held for trial, the examining magistrate need not return to

The irregularity of an arrest by a state police officer on the requisition of a foreign consul is obviated by an examination into the case by a Federal court. Id.

47. McDuffie v. State, 121 Ga. 580, 49 S. E. 708.

48, 49. Sheehan v. West [R. I.] 60 A. 761.

50. Commonwealth v. Crowley, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 124. The law does not require him to flee to the wall. Id.

51. Mann v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 723, 82 S. W. 438.

52. Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716. One about to be arrested unlawfully may resist force with force, proportioned to the character of the assault. Mann v. Com., 26 Ky. L. R. 723, 82 S. W. 438.

53. Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716.

54. Earles v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1.

55. Keady v. People, 32 Colo. 57, 74 P. 892, 66 L. R. A. 353.

Note: For a valuable note on liability for homicide in resisting arrest, see note to Keady v. People [Colo.] 66 L. R. A. 353.

56. People v. McAdoo, 90 N. Y. S. 669.

57. Smith v. Jerome, 93 N. Y. S. 202.

58. Keady v. People, 32 Colo. 57, 74 P. 892, 66 L. R. A. 353.

59. Tones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 722, 88 S. W. 217.

60. U. S. Rev. St. §§ 4079-4081. Dallemagne v. Moisan, 25 S. Ct. 422.

61. See 3 C. L. 317.

62. Farnham v. Colman [S. D.] 103 N. W. 161.

63. Rev. Code Cr. Proc. §§ 153-158. Farnham v. Colman [S. D.] 103 N. W. 161.

64. Hollibaugh v. Hehn [Wyo.] 79 P. 1044. A waiver results from an accused permitting himself to be arraigned upon an information and pleading thereto. Id.

65. State v. McLain [N. D.] 102 N. W. 407.

66. State v. Clemmensen, 92 Minn. 191, 99 N. W. 640.

67. People v. Zabor, 44 Misc. 633, 90 N. Y. S. 412.

68. People v. Crane, 94 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 343.

the trial court a formal written information or any other pleading in the nature of an indictment.[69] To authorize a commitment pending an adjournment of the examination, a proper information in writing must be filed with the magistrate,[70] and a detention of the accused after an adjournment of the examination but without a formal commitment is illegal.[71] An affidavit of a police officer filed with a coroner warranting the facts attending a person's death, though not charging the prisoner with any crime, may justify the commitment of the accused during the preliminary examination.[72] A court having a prisoner in its custody, though out on bail, may change the charge upon which he was arrested so as to fit the facts of the case at any time pending the inquiry.[73] Where it appears that there is no evidence that the crime charged has been committed or where it appears that it has been committed, but there is no evidence of reasonable ground for believing that it was committed by accused, he is entitled to his liberty.[74] After conviction and commitment to prison by a court of competent jurisdiction, one cannot by habeas corpus question the sufficiency of the evidence produced on the preliminary examination.[75] That one under arrest asked for an examination is not admissible on the trial.[76] That one branch of the defense was not presented at the examination raises no inference against the accused unless the jury are satisfied that evidence was then in defendant's possession and would have been put in if true.[77] Where an arrest is without authority of law, mileage fees and costs cannot be taxed against the person arrested.[78]

§ 7. Custody awaiting indictment or trial.[79]—A person against whom a complaint for a felony has been filed before a magistrate who can only charge or hold for trial before another tribunal is "charged" with a crime under the Federal constitution and statutes.[80] In Idaho, unless good cause is shown to the contrary, the court will order a dismissal of the prosecution where a person has been held to answer for a public offense if an indictment is not found against him at the next term of court at which he is held to answer.[81]

ARREST OF JUDGMENT; ARREST ON CIVIL PROCESS, see latest topical index.

ARSON.

The crime.[82]—Arson at common law is an offense against the security of the habitation,[83] though at present the statutes in some states make it one against the property.[84] A railroad box-car is a structure capable of affording shelter to human beings.[85] In statutory arson malice is not always essential.[86]

69. Code Cr. Proc. pt. 4, c. 7, § 221. People v. Zabor, 44 Misc. 633, 90 N. Y. S. 412.

70, 71. People v. Crane, 94 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 343.

72. People v. Flynn, 44 Misc. 20, 89 N. Y. S. 697.

73. Commonwealth v. Jones, 26 Ky. L. R. 867, 82 S. W. 643.

74. People v. Crane, 94 App. Div. 397, 88 N. Y. S. 343. Where the court finds no good reason for believing that an indictable offense has been committed, the accused will be discharged. Myers v. Clearman, 125 Iowa, 461, 101 N. W. 193.

75. Ex parte Knudtson [Idaho] 79 P. 641.

76. State v. Hopper [La.] 38 So. 452.

77. Commonwealth v. Anselvich [Mass.] 71 N. E. 790.

78. Ex parte Sykes [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 538.

79. See 3 C. L. 318.

80. U. S. Const. art. 4, § 2, subd. 2; U. S. Rev. St. § 5278. In re Strauss, 25 S. Ct. 535.

81. Rev. St. 1887, § 8212. Loss of the complaint and press of business on the part of the prosecutor is not "good cause." In re Jay [Idaho] 79 P. 202.

82. See 3 C. L. 318, n. 27-31.

83. State v. Lintner [S. D.] 104 N. W. 205; Harrell v. State, 121 Ga. 607, 49 S. E. 703.

84. So held under Pen. Code, §§ 542, 543. State v. Lintner [S. D.] 104 N. W. 205.

85. Pen. Code, §§ 542, 543, construed. State v. Lintner [S. D.] 104 N. W. 205.

86. Rev. St. 1898, § 4400, cl. 2, does not require that the malicious intent to burn the dwelling house shall exist. Colbert v. State [Wis.] 104 N. W. 61.

Indictment and prosecution.[87]—Ownership need not be averred in statutory arson of a particular class of buildings.[88] An allegation of maliciously firing a building whereby a dwelling was burned is sufficient to charge the malicious setting fire to a building by the burning whereof another's dwelling shall be burned.[89] As a general rule an allegation of ownership is sustained by proof of occupancy of the alleged owner under a claim of right.[90]

On a prosecution for willfully and wantonly burning a building, it is incumbent on the state to show an intent, or to show facts and circumstances from which an intent may be inferred; and it is necessary that the jury should find the intent as a fact before the defendant can be adjudged guilty.[91] The admissibility[92] and competency of evidence is largely matter of the general law of criminal evidence.[93] Some preliminary testimony tending to show the corpus delicti should precede the admission of a confession.[94] Statement by prosecutor that there was no dynamite or other explosive in his house is not expert evidence.[95] Cases dealing with the sufficiency of the evidence are shown in the notes.[96] The setting of the fire being denied, instructions referring to the fire "which was set" and to the "setting of the fire" in the building in which the fire originated are objectionable, as assuming that some person set the fire.[97]

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

§ 1. Nature and elements of criminal offense.[98]—An assault is an offer or attempt to do violence to the person of another, with the means at hand of carry-

87. See 3 C. L. 318, n. 32-35.

88. In Missouri an information charging the burning of a church building need not allege the ownership thereof. Rev. St. 1899, § 1875, construed. An information charging arson, consisting of the burning of a house of public worship, the property of the General Baptist Church, held sufficient. State v. Hunt [Mo.] 88 S. W. 719.

89. Rev. St. 1898, § 4400, cl. 2, penalizing the willful and malicious setting fire to a building by the burning whereof the dwelling house of another shall be burned in the daytime. Colbert v. State [Wis.] 104 N. W. 61.

90. Harrell v. State, 121 Ga. 607, 49 S. E. 703. Where the indictment alleged the property to be the property of C., whereas he only had the possession and control of it, title being in his wife, held immaterial under Cr. Code, § 128, providing that such an erroneous allegation is immaterial if the offense be clearly described with certainty. Commonwealth v. Napier [Ky.] 84 S. W. 536.

91. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 628, 48 S. E. 670.

92. Where the question was as to the value of the property at the time it was insured, evidence as to its value when new held inadmissible. People v. Helwig [Cal.] 80 P. 1030.

93. See Indictment and Prosecution, 4 C. L. 1.

94. Testimony that prosecutor's house was burned and that mule tracks found near it corresponded to tracks made by defendant's mule, held sufficient to render a confession by defendant admissible. Davis v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 676. It being conceded that the building described in the indictment was burned, and there being some evidence that the fire was of incendiary origin, the corpus delicti is sufficiently shown to render a confession by defendant admissible. State v. Rogoway [Or.] 78 P. 987.

95. Does not require a preliminary showing of witness' competency as an expert. Davis v. State [Ala.] 37 So. 676.

96. Evidence as to threats to burn building, former unsuccessful attempt, etc., held sufficient to sustain a conviction of arson in the first degree. People v. Wagner [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 577. Evidence that bloodhounds sought out defendant and that tracks near the burned barn corresponded with those of defendant, even to certain peculiar marks, held sufficient to support a conviction. Tinnan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 753. Evidence that the fire was incendiary, that defendant had an opportunity to commit the crime, and that he cherished ill feelings towards the owner of the property destroyed, does not warrant a conviction. Jones v. Com. [Va.] 49 S. E. 663. Evidence that accused had had unpleasant words with the wife of the owner of the burned property, and that tracks led to defendant's house, held insufficient to convict. Williams v. State [Ga.] 51 S. E. 344.

97. Colbert v. State [Wis.] 104 N. W. 61.

98. See 3 C. L. 319.

ing the intention into execution.[99] A battery is the actual infliction of the injury.[1] Neither mere words, however insulting and abusive, a mere threat or violence menaced, as distinguished from violence begun to be executed,[2] nor mere preparation as distinguished from acts done in execution of the criminal purpose, will constitute an assault,[3] nor will a silent approval of another's acts justify conviction.[4] Several acts which have been held to constitute an assault are referred to in the note.[5] Under the Texas law if there is no violence there must be intent to injure or the assault is not aggravated,[6] and a charge on intent presumed from violence must be supported by proof of violence.[7] Taking indecent liberties with a woman is not aggravated assault unless it be done against her consent.[8]

§ 2. Defenses.[9]—If the act complained of was not unlawful, as if it was done by an officer, teacher, parent or other person in authority,[10] or was accident-

99. Clark & M. on Crimes, § 197. State v. Dyer [Del.] 58 A. 947; State v. Wood [S. D.] 103 N. W. 25; State v. Daniel, 136 N. C. 571, 48 S. E. 544; People v. Wells, 145 Cal. 138, 78 P. 470. Aggravated assault. Mapula v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 389. Intent to injure is usually essential (State v. Cruikshank [N. D.] 100 N. W. 697; Jordan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 823), and in assault proper there must be an offer or attempt to injure by violence (State v. Daniel, 136 N. C. 571, 48 S. E. 544). An attempt or endeavor to injure is essential to simple assault. Haupt v. Swenson, 125 Iowa, 694, 101 N. W. 520.

1. State v. Dyer [Del.] 58 A. 947; State v. Schmidt [S. D.] 104 N. W. 259.

2. State v. Daniel, 136 N. C. 571, 48 S. E. 544; Haupt v. Swenson, 125 Iowa, 694, 101 N. W. 520.

3. Going after weapon. State v. Wood [S. D.] 103 N. W. 25.

4. Commonwealth v. Middleby [Mass.] 73 N. E. 208.

5. Pointing pistol at person not intended. People v. Wells, 145 Cal. 138, 78 P. 470. Shooting at another with intent only to frighten is an assault and battery. Pastrana v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 347. Taking hold of woman and expressing desire for sexual intercourse. Gill v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1062. Indecent liberties. Knight v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1067. Where the defendant departs from the highway and drives upon private property of the prosecutor and in passing strikes the prosecutor with a whip, she is guilty of assault and battery. State v. Dyer [Del.] 58 A. 947.

6, 7. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 798.

8. Refusal to so charge was error. Lee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 798.

9. See 3 C. L. 320.

10. Police officer making arrest. Sheehan v. West [R. I.] 60 A. 761. Chastisement administered by a school teacher must be reasonable, and unaccompanied with malice or revenge. State v. Thornton, 136 N. C. 610, 48 S. E. 602.

Note: A teacher for the purpose of correction, occupies the place of a parent (2 Kent, Com. 203; Reg. v. Hopley, 2 Fost. & F. 202; Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 16 Am. St. Rep. 31; State v. Pendergrass, 19 N. C. [2 Dev. & B. L.] 365, 31 Am. Dec. 416; Lander v. Seaver, 32 Vt. 114, 76 Am. Dec. 156, 1 Bl. Com. 453; Stevens v. Fassett, 27 Me. 266; Fitzgerald v. Northcote, 4 Fost. & F. 656; Cleary v. Booth [1893] 1 Q. B. 465, 62 L. J. Mag. Cas. [N. S.] 87, 5 Rep. 263, 68 L. T. [N. S.] 349, 41 Week. Rep. 391, 17 Cox, C. C. 611, 57 J. P. 373; Quinn v. Nolan, 7 Ohio Dec. Reprint, 585; Lower Can. Civ. Code, § 245), and is entitled to exercise reasonable restraint and administer reasonable correction (3 Bl. Com. 120; 3 Salk. 47; Bacon, Abr. tit. "Assault & B." p. 373; Morris' Case, 1 N. Y. City Hall Rec. 52; Reg. v. Hopley, 2 Fost. & F. 202; Cooper v. State, 8 Baxt. [Tenn.] 324, 35 Am. Rep. 704; Marlsbary v. State, 10 Ind. App. 21; Danenhoffer v. State, 69 Ind. 295; Commonwealth v. Ebert, 11 Pa. Dist. Rep. 199; Clasen v. Pruhs [Neb.] 95 N. W. 640; Wilbur v. Berry, 71 N. H. 619; Deskins v. Gose, 85 Mo. 485, 55 Am. Rep. 387; Cooper v. McJunkin, 4 Ind. 290; Gardner v. Bygrave, 53 J. P. 743; New York Pen. Code, § 223, subd. 4; Minn. St. § 6477 [4]; White's Ann. Tex. Pen. Code, tit. XV, ch. 1, art. 593 [490]; Dowlen v. State, 14 Tex. App. 61; Stephens v. State, 44 Tex. Cr. Rep. 67; Hutton v. State, 23 Tex. App. 387, 59 Am. Rep. 777; Metcalf v. State, 21 Tex. App. 174; Thomason v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 43 S. W. 1013; Kinnard v. State, 35 Tex. Cr. Rep. 276, 60 Am. St. Rep. 47; White's Ann. Tex. Pen. Code, title XV, ch. 12, art. 682; 3 N. J. Gen. St. p. 3049, § 202), though he has not been regularly or legally appointed (Kidder v. Chellis, 59 N. H. 473), the pupil has reached his majority (Stevens v. Fassett, 27 Me. 266), and the chastisement, through a defect in the pupil's constitution unknown to the teacher, results seriously (Quin v. Nolan, 7 Ohio Dec. Reprint, 585). He is criminally or civilly liable, however, as for an assault or more serious charge if he indulges in immoderate chastisement (1 Hale, P. C. 261; 1 Fost. C. L. 262; 1 Hawk. P. C. 111; Reg. v. Hopley, 2 Fost. & F. 202; 3 Salk. 47; 1 Hume, Cr. L. of Scotland, p. 237; Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 16 Am. St. Rep. 31; State v. Long, 117 N. C. 791; State v. Pendergrass, 19 N. C. [2 Dev. & B. L.] 365, 31 Am. Dec. 416; Commonwealth v. Fell, 11 Hazard, Pa. Reg. 179; Commonwealth v. Randall, 4 Gray [Mass.] 36; Anderson v. State, 3 Head [Tenn.] 455, 75 Am. Dec. 774; Marlsbary v. State, 10 Ind. App. 21; Brisson v. Lafontaine, 8 L. C. Jur. 173; Hathaway v. Rice, 19 Vt. 102; Clasen v.

ally done while doing a lawful act,[11] or if done in the necessary defense of one's self or property,[12] or the person of a member of one's family,[13] there is no offense. Mere opprobrious words do not justify an assault,[14] nor does acting under advice.[15]

§ 3. Indictment.[16]—The indictment need not follow the language of the statute,[17] any language fairly describing the offense being sufficient.[18] It may

Pruhs [Neb.] 95 N. W. 640; Patterson v. Nutter, 78 Me. 509, 57 Am. Rep. 818; Lefebvre v. Des Petits Freres, Mont. L. Rep. 6 Super. Ct. 430; Whitely v. State, 33 Tex. Cr. Rep. 172; Spear v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 25 S. W. 125; Howerton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 43 S. W. 1018; Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 20 S. W. 360), whether the injuries inflicted are of permanent nature or not (State v. Mizner, 50 Iowa, 145, 32 Am. Rep. 128; State v. Boyer, 70 Mo. App. 156). The presumptions favor the view that the teacher exercised a reasonable discretion under all the circumstances (Bolding v. State, 23 Tex. App. 175; Commonwealth v. Randall, 4 Gray [Mass.] 36; State v. Ward, 1 Kan. L. J. 370; Hathaway v. Rice, 19 Vt. 102; Haycraft v. Grigsby, 88 Mo. App. 354), and that the punishment was inflicted with a proper motive (State v. Pendergrass, 19 N. C. [2 Dev. & B. L.] 365, 31 Am. Dec. 416; State v. Thornton [N. C.] 48 S. E. 602; Anderson v. State, 3 Head [Tenn.] 455, 75 Am. Dec. 744; Stephens v. State, 44 Tex. Cr. Rep. 67; Marlsbary v. State 10 Ind. App. 21; Dowlen v. State, 14 Tex. App. 61; 1 Hume, Cr. L. of Scotland, 238; Haycraft v. Grigsby, 88 Mo. App. 354); the presumptions, however, being open to rebuttal (Anderson v. State, 3 Head [Tenn.] 455, 75 Am. Dec. 774; State v. Mizner, 50 Iowa, 145, 32 Am. Rep. 128; Haycraft v. Grigsby, 88 Mo. App. 354). Though a proper motive will not excuse extreme severity and excessiveness (Reg. v. Hopley, 2 Fost. & F. 202; Drum v. Miller, 135 N. C. 204, 65 L. R. A. 890; Haycraft v. Grigsby, 88 Mo. App. 354; Lander v. Seaver, 32 Vt. 114, 76 Am. Dec. 156), a teacher is not liable for mere errors in judgment resulting in injuries not permanent where there is no proof of malice (State v. Pendergrass, 19 N. C. [2 Dev. & B. L.] 365, 31 Am. Dec. 416; State v. Thornton [N. C.] 48 S. E. 602; Commonwealth v. Seed, 5 Clark [Pa.] 78; Vanvactor v. State, 113 Ind. 276, 3 Am. St. Rep. 645; Fox v. People, 84 Ill. App. 270), nor, under the ancient cases, for injuries resulting in death (Fost. C. L. 262; 1 Hawk. P. C. 111; 1 Hale, P. C. 261, 473, 474; J. Kelyng, 28, 65). A punishment inflicted maliciously or in anger (State v. Boyer, 70 Mo. App. 156; State v. Long, 117 N. C. 791; Commonwealth v. Seed, 5 Clark [Pa.] 78; State v. Pendergrass, 19 N. C. [2 Dev. & B. L.] 365, 31 Am. Dec. 416; State v. Thornton [N. C.] 48 S. E. 602; Commonwealth v. Ebert, 11 Pa. Dist. Rep. 199; Commonwealth v. Fell, 11 Hazard, Pa. Reg. 179; Bolding v. State, 23 Tex. App. 175; Reg. v. Hopley, 2 Fost. & F. 202; 1 Hale P. C. 454; 1 Hume, Cr. L. of Scotland, 238; Commonwealth v. Randall, 4 Gray [Mass.] 36; Dowlen v. State, 14 Tex. App. 61; Marlsbary v. State, 10 Ind. App. 21; Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 16 Am. St. Rep. 31; Gardner v. State, 4 Ind. 632; Haycraft v. People, 88 Mo. App. 354; Brisson v. Lafontaine, 8 L. C. Jur. 173; Hathaway v. Rice, 19 Vt. 102; Cooper v. McJunkin, 4 Ind. 290), and without cause (Anderson v. State, 3 Head [Tenn.] 455, 75 Am. Dec. 774; State v. Vanderbilt, 116 Ind. 11, 9 Am. St. Rep. 820; State v. Mizner, 50 Iowa, 145, 32 Am. Rep. 128; Morrow v. Wood, 35 Wis. 59, 17 Am. Rep. 471), or for a cause unknown to the pupil (State v. Mizner, 50 Iowa, 145, 32 Am Rep. 128), cannot be justified. The reasonableness or excessiveness of the punishment where in dispute is generally a question for the jury (State v. Mizner, 45 Iowa, 248, 24 Am. Rep. 769; Commonwealth v. Randall, 4 Gray [Mass.] 36; State v. Boyer, 70 Mo. App. 156; Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 16 Am. St. Rep. 31; Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 20 S. W. 360; Sheehan v. Sturges, 53 Conn. 481; Quinn v. Nolan, 7 Ohio Dec. Reprint, 585; Lander v. Seaver, 32 Vt. 114, 76 Am. Dec. 156; Clasen v. Pruhs [Neb.] 95 N. W. 640), taking into consideration all the circumstances of the case such as the nature of the instrument used (Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 20 S. W. 360; Boyd v. State, 88 Ala. 169, 16 Am. St. Rep. 31; Commonwealth v. Seed, 5 Clark [Pa.] 78; 1 Hale, P. C. 261, 454, 473, 474; 1 Hawk. P. C. 111; Fost. C. L. 262; Reg. v. Hopley, 2 Fost. & F. 202, J. Kelyng, 64), the extent of the punishment (State v. Thornton, 136 N. C. 610, 48 S. E. 602), the offense of the pupil and his character and disposition (Lander v. Seaver, 32 Vt. 114, 76 Am. Dec. 156; Quinn v. Nolan, 7 Ohio Dec. Reprint, 585; Sheehan v. Sturges, 53 Conn. 481; Haycraft v. Grigsby, 88 Mo. App. 354). —Adapted from note to Drum v. Miller [N. C.] 65 L. R. A. 890.

11. Accidentally striking a person while defending against the attack of another is striking in self-defense. State v. Mount [N. J. Law] 61 A. 259.

12. State v. Sharp [Iowa] 103 N. W. 770; State v. Schmidt [S. D.] 104 N. W. 259; State v. Dyer [Del.] 58 A. 947; Chapman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1073; Harmon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 831. Apparent necessity is sufficient. Harrison v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1058. Resistance to an officer attempting a legal arrest cannot be self defense. People v. Nihell, 144 Cal. 200, 77 P. 916.

13. Gray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 764.

14. Scott v. State [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1004. Insulting language used by a little child no justification to defendant. McKinley v. State, 121 Ga. 193, 48 S. E. 917.

15. Commonwealth v. Middleby [Mass.] 73 N. E. 208.

16. See 3 C. L. 321.

17. State v. Crulkshank [N. D.] 100 N. W. 697.

18. An information charging that defendant willfully abused and shot at a person named, on the streets of the town named, without provocation, sufficiently charges the offense. Town of Clinton v. Leake [S. C.] 50 S. E. 541.

cover various degrees of assaults,[19] and conviction may be had under a charge of a greater offense, provided it be one which includes assault.[20]

§ 4. Evidence; instructions; verdict; punishment.[21]—Though the use of force on another will be presumed to have been without justification or excuse,[22] if the accused introduces evidence of justification, the burden is not thereby shifted to him to establish his defense, but the state will be required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the assault was not justified.[23] As in other prosecutions, the admissibility of evidence depends upon its competency,[24] and its relevancy and materiality to the issues involved.[25] Below are cited cases involving proof of intent and malice,[26] ability to commit injury,[27] extent of prosecutor's injuries,[28] threats,[29] and justification.[30] Cases involving the sufficiency of the evidence are mentioned below.[31] Defendant is entitled to instructions covering lesser offenses of which he might under the pleadings and evidence be convicted,[32]

19. Harmon v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 520.

20. Mapula v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 389; State v. Cruikshank [N. D.] 100 N. W. 697. A conviction of assault and battery may be had under an indictment for assault with intent to murder. Pastrana v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 347. On prosecution for homicide may be convicted of aggravated assault. Armsworthy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 697, 88 S. W. 215.

21. See 3 C. L. 321.

22. State v. Schmidt [S. D.] 104 N. W. 259.

23. State v. Schmidt [S. D.] 104 N. W. 259; State v. Sharp [Iowa] 103 N. W. 770.

24. Evidence of third person of statements made by wife, in presence of husband, wife refusing to testify, is competent. Joiner v. State, 119 Ga. 315, 46 S. E. 412. For the purpose of contradicting the prosecuting witness, it is incompetent for a justice of the peace to testify to a statement made by the witness, at a hearing before said justice, involving the same state of facts as the case on trial, in which such prosecuting witness was the defendant. State v. Dyer [Del.] 58 A. 947.

25. Evidence that the prosecutor said that he had employed a democrat to represent him and brought the action before a democratic judge was irrelevant. State v. Rattedge [Del.] 58 A. 944. In a prosecution for assault and battery, evidence that the prosecutor had brought a civil action against the same defendant for the same offense is inadmissible. Where the defendant was a state detective, evidence that the prosecutor had attempted to have defendant removed from his office was inadmissible. Id. Where prosecutor was beaten with a stick, he may be asked if he was armed. Tuberville v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 333. Where defendant was on trial for assaulting an officer trying to arrest him, it was immaterial whether he had ever been tried for the prior offense. People v. Nihell, 144 Cal. 200, 77 P. 916.

26. In a prosecution of a school-teacher for whipping a pupil, evidence as to discipline of school before defendant assumed control and a request of committee to be more strict was irrelevant. State v. Thornton, 136 N. C. 610, 48 S. E. 602. Evidence of prior assaults not part of the res gestae is irrelevant. Livingston v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1111.

27. On trial for an assault with a pistol, evidence that defendant discharged his pistol shortly afterwards is relevant, but not that he had brass knuckles on his person when arrested. People v. Wells, 145 Cal. 138, 78 P. 470.

28. Brown v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 268. Evidence that the assaulted person suffered great pain is material, the indictment covering the several degrees of assault. Harmon v. State [Fla.] 37 So. 520.

29. Previous threats, both of defendant and the prosecuting witness, are relevant where the issue is as to which was the aggressor. State v. Atkins [Vt.] 59 A. 826.

30. Where the defendant assaulted a person sent by the sheriff to assist in making a schedule of attached goods, on the question of justification, it is immaterial that the sheriff had a right to demand of defendant to show property attached, the sheriff being informed by defendant that not all of the property in the store was attached. Commonwealth v. Middleby [Mass.] 73 N. E. 208. Evidence of an assault by defendant on prosecutor's wife is proper. Gray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 764.

31. Evidence sufficient to support conviction of: Simple assault. State v. Coleman, 108 Mo. App. 421, 83 S. W. 1096; State v. Stock [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 269. Aggravated assault. Gill v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1062; Knight v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1067. Assault with deadly weapon. State v. Cruikshank [N. D.] 100 N. W. 697; Tuberville v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 333. Wife-beating. Joiner v. State, 119 Ga. 315, 46 S. E. 412.

Evidence insufficient to convict of aggravated assault. McAfee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 376; George v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 1057. To prove assault as principal. Clay v. State [Ark.] 88 S. W. 306.

32. In a prosecution for assault with intent to murder where defendant testified that his intent in shooting the prosecutor was merely to frighten him, a charge on simple and aggravated assault should be given. Pastrana v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 347. Where the defendant struck but one blow with a small pistol causing a small bruise, he is entitled to an instruction that he was not guilty of aggravated assault, unless the pistol, as used, was a deadly weapon. Hardin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 591. An instruction on aggravated assault in a prosecution for assault with intent to rob is properly denied. Long v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 384.

and instructions are necessary on any matter of self-defense of which there is evidence.[33] Several decisions discussing the form and propriety of particular instructions are referred to in the note.[34]

The verdict must be sufficiently definite to determine the offense of which the defendant is convicted.[35] Punishment for assault and battery in West Virginia may be by fine or imprisonment or both, and is limited in its extent only by the constitutional inhibition against excessiveness.[36]

§ 5. Civil liability.[37]—The liability of a master for assault by his servant is elsewhere treated.[38] A person is not responsible for an assault committed by another without his knowledge or consent,[39] and a corporation cannot be guilty of an assault unless at the time it owed some duty to the person assaulted, and the person committing the assault was acting under its authority.[40]

What constitutes.[41]—The same elements must appear in a civil as a criminal assault,[42] and an attempt or endeavor to do violence to the person is necessary,[43] though defendant's intent is immaterial where the acts constituting the assault are themselves unlawful.[44] The assault need not culminate in physical violence.[45]

Defenses.[46]—A property owner may resist another in a trespass upon it,[47] but

33. Armsworthy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 697, 88 S. W. 215; Harrison v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1058; Chapman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1073. An instruction that the defendant must not use excessive violence in self-defense is wrong where there is no evidence of extreme or excessive violence. Where an indictment for assault with intent to murder was so worded as to preclude a conviction of aggravated assault, if defendant established his right to fire the first shot, he was entitled to a charge of acquittal. Simpson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 826; Harmon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 831.

34. Instruction held correctly refused where instructions given were correct and full. Tuberville v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 333. Where the allegation was that aggravated assault was committed with a hoe handle, inflicting serious bodily injury, it was error to charge jury to convict if they believed assault was committed with premeditated design. Winzel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 187. Instruction as to elements of crime held erroneous. State v. Daniels, 136 N. C. 571, 48 S. E. 544. An instruction on mutual combat is erroneous when the issue is not raised. Chapman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1073. In a prosecution for assault, evidence that defendant committed a breach of the peace at the store of prosecutor on the occasion of the assault, that an officer was called for by telephone, and that prosecutor attempted to detain defendant by holding his horse, is sufficient to authorize a charge on prosecutor's right to arrest and detain defendant for breach of the peace until an officer should arrive. Gray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 764. Charge on provoking difficulty held erroneous. Pedro v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 721, 88 S. W. 233.

35. Where the issues of simple and aggravated assault are submitted to the jury, the verdict must state which offense is intended. Winzel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 187. Verdict finding defendant guilty of "assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to do bodily harm" does not warrant a judgment and sentence for the felony defined in Rev. Code 1899, § 7145, as an attempt to shoot with intent to do bodily harm. State v. Cruikshank [N. D.] 100 N. W. 697.

36. State v. McKain [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 20.

37. See 3 C. L. 323.

38. See Master and Servant, 4 C. L. 633; Carriers, 3 C. L. 591. See special article immediately following this topic.

39. Though the two were fighting plaintiff. Le Laurin v. Murray [Ark.] 87 S. W. 131.

40. Haggerty v. Potter, 111 Ill. App. 433.

41 See 3 C. L. 323.

42. See 3 C. L. 323, n. 90. Haupt v. Swenson, 125 Iowa, 694, 101 N. W. 520.

43. Haupt v. Swenson, 125 Iowa, 694, 101 N. W. 520. An action for the willful and wanton but not forcible expulsion of a passenger from a street car by a conductor is not an action for assault and battery. Sommerfield v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 718, 84 S. W. 172. In an action for assault and false imprisonment hy a tax collector, question whether plaintiff was improperly treated is for the jury. Kerr v. Atwood [Mass.] 74 N. E. 917.

44. Where the evidence is in dispute, the question whether acts constituting assault are lawful or unlawful is for the jury. Nicholls v. Colwell, 113 Ill. App. 219; Mohr v. Williams [Minn.] 104 N. W. 12. A physician is liable for an assault where he performs a surgical operation on a person not consenting. Plaintiff under influence of anaesthetics. Mohr v. Williams [Minn.] 104 N. W. 12.

45. Pointing a loaded firearm and discharging the same. Kurz v. Doerr [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 926.

46. See 3 C. L. 323.

Note: Authority of teacher to chastise pupil, see note, ante, § 2, "Defenses."

47. The design of the owner in resisting is not material. Slingerland v. Gillespie, 70 N. J. Law, 720, 59 A. 162.

reasonable force must be used in expelling a trespasser,[48] or in reclaiming property.[49] Mere provocation is not a defense,[50] but may be considered in mitigation of punitive damages,[51] if uttered so recent to the time of committing the assault as not to allow "cooling time" to intervene.[52] One who uses excessive force in self-defense is liable,[53] but an officer, using reasonable judgment, is justified in using sufficient force to subdue a prisoner, although the officer is not acting in self-defense.[54] A consent to engage in a mutual combat will not justify an assault,[55] but evidence of mutual consent to fight may be shown in mitigation of damages,[56] and injuries received in a friendly scuffle invited, provoked, or encouraged by plaintiff, are not actionable.[57] A mistake as to the identity of the person assaulted may be a defense where an assault on the person intended would have been justified.[58]

Pleading, evidence and trial.[59]—The sufficiency of complaints,[60] and the propriety of amendments thereto,[61] are discussed in the note. Justification is not admissible under the general issue, but must be specially pleaded.[62]

The burden of a prima facie case is on the plaintiff,[63] but he is not bound to go further and negative justification,[64] and the presumption of innocence applicable to criminal cases does not apply.[65] Res gestae[66] and evidence of previous relations,[67] character and reputation of the parties,[68] provocation,[69] and admissions,[70]

48. Hunt v. Caskey [N. J. Law] 60 A. 42. Lack of information as to validity of plaintiff's proxies not a defense to assault in ejecting plaintiff from stockholders' meeting. Noller v. Wright [Mich.] 101 N. W. 553.

49. Miller v. Sadowsky [Mich.] 101 N. W. 621.

50. Roth v. Slobodien [N. J. Law] 60 A. 59.

51. Mitchell v. Gambill, 140 Ala. 316, 37 So. 290; Le Laurin v. Murray [Ark.] 87 S. W. 131. Damages can never be mitigated below actual compensation. Le Laurin v. Murray [Ark.] 87 S. W. 131.

52. Le Laurin v. Murray [Ark.] 87 S. W. 131.

53. Where a person claiming to act in self-defense fails to use the highest degree of care practicable under the circumstances to ascertain whom he is striking, and fails to strike person intended, he is liable. Crabtree v. Dawson, 26 Ky. L. R. 1046, 83 S. W. 557. Question whether force used in self-defense is excessive, for the jury. Beck v. Minneapolis Union R. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 746.

54. Sheehan v. West [R. I.] 60 A. 761. An officer is also justified in using reasonable force to compel a person under arrest to obey his orders. McNally v. Arnold [Iowa] 103 N. W. 361.

55. Each party must be left to suffer all consequences, civil and criminal. McNeil v. Mullin [Kan.] 79 P. 168.

56. Thomas v. Riley, 114 Ill. App. 520.

57. Nicholls v. Colwell, 113 Ill. App. 219.

58. Crabtree v. Dawson, 26 Ky. L. R. 1046, 83 S. W. 557, 67 L. R. A. 565.

Note: In Courvoisier v. Raymond, 23 Colo. 113, 47 P. 284, the court does not lay down any rule as to the amount of care required of defendant in ascertaining the identity of his apparent assailant, but leaves it to the jury whether there actually was a mistake in regard thereto, and, if there was, then whether or not it was excusable. A similar result was reached in Paxton v. Boyer, 67 Ill. 132, 16 Am. Rep. 615. In James v. Campbell, 5 Car. & P. 372, such an assault was held actionable.—Adapted from a note to Crabtree v. Dawson [Ky.] 67 L. R. A. 565.

59. See 3 C. L. 324.

60. In trespass against a corporation, not necessary to aver evidentiary facts. Haggerty v. Potter, 111 Ill. App. 433. Averments connecting damages with injury sufficient. Pennington v. Caughey, 145 Cal. 10, 78 P. 227.

61. Where assault constituted an implied breach of defendant's contract as a carrier, amendment of complaint to conform to proof showing such breach allowed. Rein v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 636.

62. Mitchell v. Gambill, 140 Ala. 316, 37 So. 290; Thomas v. Riley, 114 Ill. App. 520.

63. In civil actions plaintiff is not bound to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. Preponderance of evidence sufficient. Kurz v. Doerr [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 926. The burden is on plaintiff to show the assault, but not to negative self-defense. Happy v. Prichard [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 655.

64. The burden is on the defendant to prove justification. Monson v. Lewis [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1094. Plaintiff need not negative self-defense. Happy v. Prichard [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 655.

65. Kurz v. Doerr [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 926. Held permissible to show subject-matter of altercation as bearing upon the probability of the blow being struck by the defendant without warning and without justifiable provocation. Coruth v. Jones [Vt.] 60 A. 814.

66. Abusive language. Le Laurin v. Murray [Ark.] 87 S. W. 131.

67. Evidence of prior abusive language admissible to explain language used at time of assault. Le Laurin v. Murray [Ark.] 87 S. W. 131.

68. Evidence of plaintiff's general reputation as a pugnacious person admissible. Lowe v. Ring [Wis.] 101 N. W. 381. In an ac-and evidence going to the amount of damages or extent of injury,[71] are admissible. Sufficiency of evidence is discussed in the note.[72]

Cases involving the measure[73] and excessiveness[74] of damages are cited in the note. Instructions must be based on evidence within the issues.[75] Whether a new trial should be granted or refused upon the ground of excessive or inadequate damages, as in other cases, rests in the sound judicial discretion of the trial court.[76]

LIABILITY OF MASTER FOR ASSAULT BY SERVANT.[1]

[SPECIAL ARTICLE BY WALTER A. SHUMAKER.]

A master is not civilly liable for an assault by his servant on a third person, unless: (1) The act of the servant was within the scope of his employment, or (2) was ratified by the master, or, (3) the master owed to the third person a special duty of hospitality or protection of which such assault was a breach.

tion by a father to recover damages for an assault upon and criminal abuse of minor child, evidence involving the general character of said minor at a time subsequent to the assault complained of is incompetent. Nyman v. Lynde, 93 Minn. 257, 101 N. W. 163.

69. Provocation in mitigation must not be too remote. Davis v. Collins [S. C.] 48 S. E. 469.

70. A plea of guilty in a criminal action for the same offense may be received in a civil action, but only as an admission. But circumstances explaining the plea may be shown by defendant. Risdon v. Yates, 145 Cal. 210, 78 P. 641.

71. Evidence of physician as to cause of pain, competent. Noller v. Wright [Mich.] 101 N. W. 553. Mental suffering is a proper element of actual damages. Happy v. Prichard [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 655. Evidence that child of defendant, pregnant at time of assault, was small and nervous, incompetent. Haupt v. Swenson, 125 Iowa, 694, 101 N. W. 520.

72. Assault and rape—evidence insufficient. Champagne v. Hamey [Mo.] 88 S. W. 92. The question whether the acts of the defendant in a particular case amount to self-defense is for the jury, especially where the evidence is conflicting. Thompson v. Stottler [Iowa] 100 N. W. 852.

73. General damages for an assault accompanied by sexual solicitations do not include injury to reputation. Sletten v. Madison [Wis.] 99 N. W. 1020. Punitive damages may be awarded though trouble arose out of a business transaction. Lowe v. Ring [Wis.] 101 N. W. 381. Malice imputed and considered in assessing punitive damages. Davis v. Collins [S. C.] 48 S. E. 469. Elements of compensatory damages. Miller v. Sadowsky [Mich.] 101 N. W. 621.

74. $500 not excessive where assault and criminal abuse were upon a minor child. Nyman v. Lynde, 93 Minn. 257, 101 N. W. 162. $300 not excessive. Gulbertson v. Hanson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 2. $7,000 not excessive. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Grant [Ark.] 88 S. W. 580. Verdict for $3,000 reduced to $1,000. Hunt v. Caskey [N. J. Law] 60 A. 42.

See, also, Damages, 3 C. L. 1020.

75. A charge taking from the jury relevant facts is erroneous. Britton v. Young [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 905. An instruction authorizing the combination in one verdict of damages for injuries to the plaintiff, his medical bill, and loss of time, is proper. Happy v. Prichard [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 655. It is also proper in an action against officers for an assault committed upon plaintiff while under arrest, where there is evidence of the plaintiff's resistance to the authority of the officers with reference to maintaining quiet in the jail, to give an instruction on the duty of such officers to maintain order. McNally v. Arnold [Iowa] 103 N. W. 361. Instruction that suffering and pain, etc., is a part of punitive damages, held good. Roth v. Slobodien [N. J. Sup.] 60 A. 59. An instruction that defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty properly denied. Kurz v. Doerr [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 326. Instruction as to the burden of proof where justification is a defense, held erroneous. Monson v. Lewis [Wis.] 101 N. W. 1094. Instruction on exemplary damages held erroneous. Johnston v. Wells [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 70. An instruction that words of provocation may be considered in mitigation of damage erroneous where there is no evidence of provocative words used. Langdon v. Clarke [Neb.] 103 N. W. 62. Instruction on law of mutual combat held erroneous. McNeil v. Mullin [Kan.] 79 P. 168. Where complaint alleged "the commission of an assault and battery in pursuance of a conspiracy between the defendants, etc.," a charge that conspiracy is the gravamen of the complaint is erroneous. Britton v. Young [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 905.

76. Mohr v. Williams [Minn.] 104 N. W. 12 and see Damages, 3 C. L. 1020.

1. Civil liability only is treated. For a full discussion of criminal liability of master for acts of his servant, see Clark & M. Crimes (2d ed.) 260. The current cases relating to the subject-matter of this article are treated annually in Current Law under the topic Master and Servant (see 4 C. L. 608).

Scope of employment.—It is obvious that in a sense the commission of an assault is rarely within the actual or apparent authority of a servant, and accordingly the earlier cases relieved the master from all liability for wanton or malicious acts not committed by his express authority.[2] The modern rule is, however, well settled that the master is liable for every act of his servant, however willful, if done in the course of his employment and in execution of the master's business.[3] Stated more specifically, if the nature of the employment be such that the servant would under any circumstances be authorized to use force against third persons in the course of such business, the master commits it to the servant to decide the occasion for using force and the degree of force to be used; and if the servant, through misjudgment or violence of temper, goes beyond the necessity of the occasion, and gives a right of action to a third person, he is as to such person acting within the scope of his employment.[4] Thus a watchman or other person employed to protect property,[5] or to keep order on the master's premises,[6] or a servant charged with the protection of the master's property as an incident to other duties,[7] or a servant sent

2. Church v. Mansfield, 20 Conn. 287; Hibbard v. Railroad Co., 15 N. Y. 455; Moore v. Sanborne, 2 Mich. 519; Lindsay v. Griffan, 22 Ala. 629.

3. "A master," says Mitchell, J., in Morier v. St. Paul, etc. R. Co., 31 Minn. 351, 47 Am. Rep. 793, "is not liable for every wrong which the servant may commit during the continuance of the employment. The liability can only occur when that which is done is within the real or apparent scope of the master's business. It does not arise when the servant steps outside of his employment to do an act for himself, not connected with his master's business. Beyond the scope of his employment the servant is as much a stranger to his master as any third person. The master is only responsible so long as the servant can be said to be doing the act, in the doing of which he is guilty of negligence, in the course of his employment. A master is not responsible for any act or omission of his servant which is not connected with the business in which he serves him, and does not happen in the course of his employment, and, in determining whether a particular act is done in the course of the servant's employment, it is proper first to inquire whether the servant was at the time engaged in serving his master. If the act be done while the servant is at liberty from the service, and pursuing his own ends exclusively, the master is not responsible. If the servant was, at the time when the injury was inflicted, acting for himself, and as his own master, pro tempore, the master is not liable. If the servant steps aside from his master's business, for however short a time, to do an act not connected with such business, the relation of master and servant is for the time suspended. Such, variously expressed, is the uniform doctrine laid down by all the authorities."

4. Eastern Counties R. Co. v. Broom, 6 Exch. 314; Greenwood v. Seymour, 30 Law J. Exch. 327; Southern Exp. Co. v. Platten [C. C. A.] 93 F. 936; Turner v. North Beach & M. R. Co., 34 Cal. 594; Maisenbacker v. Society Concordia, 71 Conn. 369, 71 Am. St. Rep. 213; Savannah St. R. Co. v. Bryan, 86 Ga. 312, 22 Am. St. Rep. 464; St. Louis, A. & C. R. Co. v. Dalby, 19 Ill. 353; North Chicago City R. Co. v. Gastka, 128 Ill. 613; Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Flexman, 103 Ill. 546, 42 Am. Rep. 33; Carter v. Louisville, N. A. & C. R. Co., 98 Ind. 552, 49 Am. Rep. 780; Evansville & T. H. R. Co. v. McKee, 99 Ind. 519, 50 Am. Rep. 102; McKinley v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 44 Iowa, 314, 24 Am. Rep. 748; Sherley v. Billings, 8 Bush [Ky.] 147, 8 Am. Rep. 451; Hanson v. European & N. A. R. Co., 62 Me. 84, 16 Am. Rep. 404; Goddard v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 57 Me. 202, 2 Am. Rep. 39; Holmes v. Wakefield, 12 Allen [Mass.] 580, 90 Am. Dec. 171; Moore v. Fitchburg R. Corp. 4 Gray [Mass.] 465, 64 Am. Dec. 83; Ramsden v. Boston & A. R. Co., 104 Mass. 117, 6 Am. Rep. 200; Bryant v. Rich, 106 Mass. 180, 8 Am. Rep. 311; Brokaw v. New Jersey R. & T. Co., 32 N. J. Law, 328, 90 Am. Dec. 659; Haver v. Central R. Co., 62 N. J. Law, 282, 72 Am. St. Rep. 647; Rounds v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 64 N. Y. 129, 21 Am. Rep. 597; Higgins v. Watervliet Turnpike & R. Co., 46 N. Y. 23, 7 Am. Rep. 293; Hoffman v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 87 N. Y. 25, 41 Am. Rep. 337; Hussey v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 98 N. C. 34, 2 Am. St. Rep. 312; Passenger R. Co. v. Young, 21 Ohio St. 518, 8 Am. Rep. 78; Atlantic & G. W. R. Co. v. Dunn, 19 Ohio St. 162, 2 Am. Rep. 382; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Vandiver, 42 Pa. 365, 82 Am. Dec. 520; McClung v. Dearborne, 134 Pa. 396, 19 Am. St. Rep. 708; Redding v. South Carolina R. Co., 3 Rich. [S. C.] 1, 16 Am. Rep. 681; Palmer v. Charlotte, C. & A. R. Co., 3 Rich [S. C.] 580, 16 Am. Rep. 750.

5. Canfield v. Railroad Co., 59 Mo. App. 354; Rogan v. Moore Mfg. Co., 79 Wis. 573; Deck v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Md.] 59 A. 650. A watchman has been held to act outside his duties in chastising a person for past trespasses. Brown v. Boston Ice Co. [Mass.] 86 Am. St. Rep. 469.

6. Doorkeeper at theatre. Dickson v. Waldron, 135 Ind. 507. Gatekeeper at fair. Oakland City Agr. Soc. v. Bingham, 4 Ind. App. 383.

7. Shop clerks apprehending suspected thief. Field v. Kane, 99 Ill. App. 1; McDonald v. Franchere, 102 Iowa, 496. Assault by depot hands protecting property. Hous-

to retake property of the master,[8] renders the master liable if he commit an unwarranted assault in executing such duties, and this, though a spirit of malice and vengeance mingles with the servant's sense of duty;[9] but if the servant commit the assault solely for his own malicious purpose, the master is not liable.[10] And where the servant acts wholly outside the scope of his employment, though in the master's interest, as where a servant not authorized to eject trespassers assumes to do so,[11] or a collector assaults the debtor,[12] or a waiter assaults a guest,[13] or an employee doing certain work assaults a person obstructing him therein,[14] the master is not liable. Some courts have exonerated the master where the assault was palpably uncalled for by the particular occasion, as where a watchman shot a trespasser as he was leaving the premises;[15] but the weight of authority as well as the better reason is to the contrary.[16] If the business committed to the servant was such as to be likely to produce an altercation, instruction to the servant not to commit an assault does not relieve the master from liability.[17]

Ratification.—Ratification of the act of a servant is of course equivalent to original authority, and renders the master liable to the same extent as if such authority had been given.[18] To be subject to ratification the wrongful act of the ton, etc., R. Co. v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 73 S. W. 56. Assault on customer who refuses to pay. Bergman v. Hendrickson, 106 Wis. 434. Clerk ejecting alleged spy of rival store. Geraty v. Stein, 30 Hun [N. Y.] 426. Ejecting trespassers from master's premises. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Doherty, 53 Ill. App. 283; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. King, 77 Ill. App. 581, afd. 179 Ill. 91.

8. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 122 U. S. 597, 30 Law. Ed. 1146; McClung v. Dearborne, 134 Pa. 396.. Collector sent to retake property conditionally sold. O'Connell v. Samuel, 81 Hun [N. Y.] 357; Levi v. Brooks, 121 Mass. 501. But see McGrath v. Michaels, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458.

9. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. King, 77 Ill. App. 581, afd. 179 Ill. 91.

10. Mott v. Consumers' Ice Co., 73 N. Y. 543; Little Miami R. Co. v. Wetmore, 19 Ohio St. 110; Gilliam v. S. & N. A. R. Co., 70 Ala. 268; Central R. Co. v. Peacock, 69 Md. 257; McGilvray v. West End St. R. Co., 164 Mass. 122; Cofield v. McCabe, 58 Minn. 218; Curtis v. Dineen, 4 Dak. 245.

11. Railroad conductors have power to eject trespassers from their trains. Kline v. Central Pac. R. Co., 37 Cal. 400, 99 Am. Dec. 282; North Chicago City R. Co. v. Gastka, 128 Ill. 613; Hoffman v. New York Cent. R. Co., 87 N. Y. 25, 41 Am. Rep. 337; Marion v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 59 Iowa, 428, 44 Am. Rep. 687.

Railroad engineers may eject trespassers from the engine. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. West, 125 Ill. 320; Carter v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 98 Ind. 552; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Zantzinger [Tex.] 44 L. R. A. 553.

Baggageman may eject trespasser from baggage room. Rounds v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. 129, 21 Am. Rep. 597.

As to railroad brakemen the decisions are in conflict. That they have implied power to eject trespassers, see Brevig v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 64 Minn. 168; Hoffman v. New York Cent. etc., R. Co., 87 N. Y. 25; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly, 36 Kan. 655. That they have not, see Illinois Cent. etc., R. Co. v. King, 179 Ill. 91; Marlon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 59 Iowa, 428.

Sleeping car porter wantonly assaulting passenger is not acting within scope of employment. Williams v. Pullman Palace-Car Co., 40 La. Ann. 87. Where the porter collected tickets, and assault growing from an altercation as to the return of a ticket was held to be within his employment. Dwinnelle v. New York, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Y. 117, 8 L. R. A. 224. Employer liable for indecent assault by porter on female passenger. Campbell v. Pullman Palace-Car Co., 42 F. 484.

Train master not authorized to eject person from company's grounds. Cent. of Ga. R. Co. v. Morris, 121 Ga. 484, 49 S. E. 606.

12. McGrath v. Michaels, 80 App. Div. [N. Y.] 458. Assault by collector on debtor in altercation over settlement of account. Collette v. Reborl, 107 Mo. 711, 82 S. W. 552. An assault by a collector on one who unheld the debtor in a contention that he had already paid was held beyond the scope of employment. Callahan v. Hyland, 59 Ill. App. 347. Assault by lock keeper on one evading payment of tolls. Ware v. Baratana & L. Canal Co., 15 La. 169.

13. Rahmel v. Lehndorff, 142 Cal. 681, 76 P. 659. And see Clancy v. Barker [C. C. A.] 131 F. 161.

14. Assault by employes building fence on persons seeking to obstruct work not within scope of employment. Waaler v. Great Northern R. Co. [S. D.] 100 N. W. 1097.

15. Golden v. Newbrand, 52 Iowa, 59. Shooting trespasser. Holler v. Ross [N. J.] 96 Am. St. Rep. 546.

16. Haehl v. Wabash R. Co., 119 Mo. 325; Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 84 Ill. App. 202.

17. Servant sent to get property forfeited by nonpayment of price. McClung v. Dearborne, 134 Pa. 396. Ejection of trespasser. Letts v. Hoboken, etc., Co., 70 N. J. Law, 358, 57 A. 392.

18. See Clark & Skyles on Agency, p. 354. See, also, Damages, 3 C. L. 999, as to servant must have been committed in the master's interest.[19] Mere retention of the guilty servant after knowledge of an unlawful assault by him does not amount to a ratification.[20]

Special duty of hospitality or protection.—An exception to the rule as to servants acting outside the scope of their employment exists in cases where the master owes to the third person a special duty of hospitality or protection. In such case it is usually held that any assault by a servant, being a breach of that duty, renders the master liable. The most common illustration is the relation of carrier and passenger,[21] but the rule is applied with varying strictness to innkeepers,[22] keepers of theatres and other places of public amusement,[23] and also to stores and other places of business to which the public is invited.[24] As to common carriers the law is well settled. The carrier's obligation is to carry his passenger properly and treat him respectfully, and if he intrusts the duty to his servants the law holds him responsible for the manner in which they execute the trust. The carrier is liable to the passenger for every assault by the carrier's servants, without regard to whether it was inspired by malicious motives.[25] If, because the assault was in self-defense or in the proper discharge of duty, the servant is freed from liability, of course the carrier is not liable;[26] but neither abusive language by the passenger,[27] intoxication of the passenger,[28] or minor violations of rules[29] will justify an assault. Whenever ejection from the train is authorized, so much force as is needful for that purpose may be used,[30] but no more.[31]

As to whether persons in other relations involving a duty of hospitality are liable to the same extent involves some doubt, though the better rule seems to be that "the duty due from a carrier to his passenger, from the innkeeper to his guest, and from the theatrical manager to his patron, while perhaps differing in degree, is similar in kind."[32] The contrary view is presented in a recent Federal case,[33] in which the majority opinion holds the rule pertaining to carriers to be inapplica-ratification subjecting master to punative damages.

19. Dillingham v. Russell, 73 Tex. 47, 15 Am. St. Rep. 753.

20. Williams v. Pullman Palace-Car Co., 40 La. Ann. 87; Robinson v. Superior Transit R. Co., 94 Wis. 345; Dillingham v. Russell, 73 Tex. 47.

21. Bryant v. Rich, 106 Mass. 188; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Flexman, 103 Ill. 548; Fick v. Chicago & N. R. Co., 68 Wis. 471; Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, 91 Ind. 21; Dwinnelle v. New York, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Y. 122; Sturat v. Brooklyn & C. T. R. Co., 90 N. Y. 588; Pittsburg, Ft. W. etc., R. Co. v. Hinds, 53 Pa. 515; Godard v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 57 Me. 214; Spohn v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 87 Mo. 74.

Sleeping car companies. Pullman Palace-Car Co. v. Lowe, 28 Neb. 239; Williams v. Palace-Car Co., 40 La. Ann. 421; Nevin v. Pullman Palace-Car Co., 106 Ill. 230.

22. Overstreet v. Mosier, 88 Mo. App. 72; Tonsey v. Roberts, 53 N. Y. Super. Ct. 446; Clancy v. Barker [Neb.] 98 N. W. 440.

23. Dickson v. Waldron, 135 Ind. 507, 34 N. E. 510, 35 N. E. 1.

24. Stores. Swinerton v. Boutiller, 71 Misc. [N. Y.] 640; Mallach v. Ridley, 24 Abb. N. C. 181.

Express office. Richberger v. Express Co., 73 Miss. 170.

25. See cases cited ante. See, also, Craker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 36 Wis. 657, where the carrier was held liable for the act of its conductor in kissing a passenger against her will.

26. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Jopes, 142 U. S. 18, 35 Law. Ed. 919; Hayes v. St. Louis R. Co., 15 Mo. App. 583; Moore v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 38 S. C. 1.

27. Haman v. Omaha Horse R. Co., 35 Neb. 74; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Barger, 80 Md. 23; Coggins v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 18 Ill. App. 620.

28. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Sheehan, 29 Ill. App. 90.

29. Terre Haute & I. R. Co. v. Jackson, 81 Ind. 19; Hanson v. European & N. A. R. Co., 62 Me. 84.

30. Wright v. California Cent. R. Co., 78 Cal. 360; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Connell, 112 Ill. 295.

31. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Herring, 57 Ill. 59; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bills, 104 Ind. 37; Planz v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 157 Mass. 377; Higgins v. Watervliet, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 23.

32. Dickson v. Waldron, 135 Ind. 507. See, also, Mastad v. Swedish Brethren, 83 Minn. 42; Norcross v. Norcross, 53 Me. 169; Pinkerton v. Woodward, 33 Cal. 585; Russell v. Fagan, 7 Houst. [Del.] 392.

33. Clancy v. Barker [C. C. A.] 131 F. 161.

ble to innkeepers and others in similar relation. The reason given for the distinction, viz., that the peculiar liability of carriers is imposed in view of the peculiar dangers attending travel by rail, does not seem altogether sound, for the rules regulating the liability of carriers antedate the dangers of modern travel. And however these dangers may impose stringent rules to avoid accident, they seem irrelevant to malicious assault by the carrier's servant. A strong dissenting opinion [34] and a contrary decision on the same facts by the supreme court of Nebraska [35] considerably weaken the weight of the holding.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS, see latest topical index.

ASSIGNMENTS.

§ 1. Rights susceptible of assignment.[36]—Generally speaking, all choses in action which may survive the owner's death may now be assigned.[37] Thus accounts,[38] mortgages [39] and chattel mortgages,[40] tax certificates,[41] or a right of action for taxes paid under protest,[42] mechanics' liens,[43] options to purchase land,[44] or underwriting agreements,[45] are assignable. Negotiable instruments may pass by an assignment without being endorsed.[46] Trading stamps are transferable and may be used and assigned by one not a customer of the company.[47] An Indian nation may assign their rights in a government fund to new members incorporated with them.[48] A part of a claim may be assigned with consent of debtor,[49] but a contract cannot be assigned where its express terms [50] or the law [51] forbids it, except by

34. See opinion of Mr. Justice Thayer, 131 F. 171.

35. Clancy v. Barker [Neb.] 98 N. W. 440.

36. See 3 C. L. 326.

37. 2 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law (2d Ed.) 1017.

38. Sleeper v. Gagne, 99 Me. 306, 59 A. 472; Conroy v. Boeck, 91 N. Y. S. 80.

39. Law v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 327.

40. Burden on mortgagor to show that assignee took with knowledge that the note was tainted with usury. Haynes v. Gay [Wash.] 79 P. 794.

41. Where they were assigned to one to protect a supposed interest in the property, he was entitled to a refundment on the assessments being declared void, though he was not unable to obtain possession of the property. People v. Board of Sup'r of Nassau County, 93 N. Y. S. 344.

42. The fact that the illegality alleged is that there were fraudulent alterations of the assessment roll does not prevent its assignment. Laing v. Forest Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 664.

43. First Nat. Bank v. Mitchell, 46 Misc. 30, 93 N. Y. S. 231.

44. Option to purchase land adjoining a river for the purpose of developing water power assigned to another who was also securing options. Twin City Power Co. v. Barrett [C. C. A.] 126 F. 302. Option for 30 days to purchase described land for $6,000. Kreutzer v. Lynch [Wis.] 100 N. W. 887.

Contra: An offer under seal and for a valuable consideration to another to sell land at a certain price if paid within 5 years is unassignable though irrevocable. Rease v. Kittle [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 150.

45. Agreement to buy bonds of corporation with bonus of stock at a certain price. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Milling & Export Co., 135 F. 146.

46. Certificates of deposit. Rivenburgh v. First Nat. Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 652.

47. Notwithstanding that the maker retains title to the paper on which they are printed, the right of redemption is assignable. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368.

48. The Cherokees admitted the Delawares to citizenship and to a share in their lands and funds. Delaware Indians' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 234. Act of Chickasaw Nation in admitting freedman to citizenship may be repealed before approval of congress. Choctaw Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 558.

49. Where city paid assignee part of claim, it waived its right to object. Gordon v. Jefferson [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 617.

50. Swarts v. Narragansett Elec. Lighting Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 77. Contract with a telegraph company for board of trade quotations which could not be assigned. A transfer of the business terminated the contract. Sullivan v. Chicago Board of Trade, 111 Ill. App. 492. Stamping a bill of lading "Nonnegotiable" does not affect its assignability. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 99 Md. 661, 59 A. 134. See note, "Right to prohibit the assignment of a contract," 3 C. L. 231, n. 39.

51. Provision in city charter. It will operation of law;[52] but one cannot limit the assignability of his outstanding obligations.[53] All judgments may be assigned.[54] So, too, one may assign actions arising out of contract,[55] or of wrongs to property,[56] as a suit to restrain the infringement of a patent.[57] But rights of action arising out of fraud or deceit,[58] or for personal injuries,[59] are not assignable, except in states where, as in Texas, all causes of action are assignable by statute.[60] The claim of a contractor against a city[61] or a claim against a state may be assigned;[62] but claims against the United States cannot be assigned[63] except by operation of law.[64]

Contracts for personal services or otherwise appurtenant to persons or specific property[65] cannot be assigned. It is enough that there is an implied intention to require personal service.[66] The business of an insurance agent,[67] or a contract to pay an annuity for the support of one's father, is not a contract for personal services.[68] So the nature of the contract may show that it is not assignable, as a contract to sell a certain style of printing press exclusively to or through a certain corporation,[69] or a contract made by a land company on conveying land to a glass factory to supply natural gas free of cost;[70] and this may control though the contract is made expressly between the parties and their assigns.[71] not prevent the assignment of money due on a contract for public work after the contract has been fully performed. Appeal of City of Duluth [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1059.

52. A mortgage provided that it should be nonnegotiable and uncollectible in the hands of any other person than the mortgagee, but it passed to a receiver appointed by a Federal court. Scaife v. Scammon Inv. & Sav. Ass'n [Kan.] 80 P. 957.

53. The transfer of trading stamps will not be enjoined on account thereof. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368.

54. Curtin v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 431, 78 P. 962. Testimony of two plaintiffs that it has been assigned to one of them establishes such assignment as against the testimony of the defendant. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837.

55. The wrongful refusal of a bank to honor a depositor's check is not a personal wrong but a breach of contract. Robinson v. Wiley [Mass.] 74 N. E. 923. For money had and received. Rines v. New York & Brooklyn Brewing Co., 90 N. Y. S. 362.

56. Action for conversion assignable. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 212 Ill. 134, 72 N. E. 200.

57. Defendant could avail themselves of any equity or defense against the assignor. Haarman-DeLaire-Schaffer Co. v. Leuders, 135 F. 120.

58. Action for recovery of taxes on account of fraudulent alterations in the assessment roll is assignable. Laing v. Forest Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 664.

59. Right of action not assignable before judgment, even to the attorney prosecuting the same, and a statute preserving the right to an executor or administrator does not render them assignable. Weller v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 61 A. 459. But a judgment may be assigned immediately after it is recovered. Reynolds v. Cavanagh [Mich.] 102 N. W. 986.

60. Rev. St. 1895 art. 4647. Suit to recover penalty on a liquor dealer's bond. McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045.

61. In absence of any statute. Gordon v. Jefferson [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 617.

62. Bounties on coyote scalps. Bauer v. State, 144 Cal. 740, 78 P. 280.

63. Rev. St. § 3477. But this was not designed to aid persons to avoid their debts, and where contractors who were embarrassed had assigned their contract to their creditors, who had secured an injunction from a state court forbidding the contractors from collecting on the contract, the Treasury officials could not arbitrarily select between the claimants. People's Trust Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 359.

64. Suit by administratrix for salary due deceased as a judge, who had retired. James's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 615.

65. See 3 C. L. 327.

66. A contract for the installation of electric apparatus, providing that the construction of circuits be under the supervision of the contractor, is for personal services. Swarts v. Narragansett Elec. Lighting Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 77.

67. The insurance company cannot control the use or transfer of the expiration register which was made by the agent. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Sullard, 97 App. Div. 233, 89 N. Y. S. 934.

68. Father conveyed land to son on agreement to pay off incumbrances and to pay annuity. Hurley v. McCallister [S. D.] 103 N. W. 644.

69. Even where the corporation was dissolved, and another corporation, its successor, was organized in another state, and all rights and property assigned to it. New York Bank Note Co. v. Hamilton Bank Note Engraving & Printing Co. [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 48.

70. Neither can the receiver of the glass factory assign it. Sargent Glass Co. v. Matthews Land Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 474.

71. The express use of the word "assigns" did not control the terms, which showed that it was nonassignable. Swarts v. Narragansett Elec. Lighting Co. [R. I.] 59 A. 111.

An assignment of future earnings,[72] if limited to amount or time,[73] and if not made for the purpose of defrauding creditors,[74] is valid, or at least good in equity.[75] Its validity is sometimes dependent on its being recorded.[76] The assignment by municipal employees of their salaries is contrary to public policy,[77] unless they have already earned them.[78]

Contingent interests may be assigned[79] as a remainder,[80] rights under a will,[81] money to become due under a contract,[82] though the fund has no actual or potential existence;[83] but the bare possibility of a reverter is not assignable.[84]

§ 2. Requisites and sufficiency of express assignments.[85]—An assignment need not be made on a separate paper,[86] nor is any consideration necessary to its validity.[87] No particular form is required to assign claims in bankruptcy.[88] Delivery of a certificate,[89] bill of lading,[90] bank book,[91] draft,[92] or writing, may be sufficient.[93] The acceptance of stock and the payment of the purchase price is sufficient to pass the title to stock,[94] but an executory contract does not pass the title

72. See 3 C. L. 327.

73. Assignment of wages to be earned in future under an existing contract to secure a present debt cannot be enforced as to wages earned after bankruptcy. Leitch v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 704.

74. For a definite period of six months. Quigley v. Welter [Minn.] 104 N. W. 236. Assignment of wages to be earned under an existing employment, made in good faith and for a valuable consideration, is valid, where there is a reasonable expectation that the wages covered by the contract will be earned; against such an assignment a claim for homestead exemption cannot prevail. Brooks Co. v. Tolman, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 137.

75. Made by a corporation to secure a loan. Cogan v. Conover Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 408.

76. Mace v. Richardson [Me.] 60 A. 701.

77. A city fireman, in consideration of payment to him of a percentage of his monthly salary, promised to collect and turn over to the assignee the whole amount. Mercantile Finance Co. v. Welsh, 91 N. Y. S. 723. An officer who had been wrongfully discharged by a city assigned his claim against the city, and his receiver thereunder was not entitled to the salary earned after the officer's reinstatement, or to the gratuity given him by law because of such removal. People v. Grout, 45 Misc. 742, 92 N. Y. S. 742. See 1 C. L. 222, n. 16.

78. But it was not conceded that a janitor employed by the school board was a public officer. Oberdorfer v. Louisville School Board [Ky.] 85 S. W. 696.

79. See 3 C. L. 328.

80. A remainderman may institute proceedings to have his assignment of his rights to a fellow remainderman set aside where the same was induced by fraudulent representations as to the state of the life tenant's health. Obney v. Obney, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 116; Obney v. Obney, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 122.

81. Assigned his share in a certain mortgage in which he had a remainder under his grandfather's will. Dixon v. Bentley [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1036.

82. Payment to be made at certain stages of the building and on completion. Campbell v. J. E. Grant Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 794.

83. Assignment good as against subsequent creditors. Johnson v. Donohue [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 360.

84. Deed conveyed land in consideration of support of grantor for life by grantee, and in case of failure was to be void. Helms v. Helms [N. C.] 49 S. E. 110.

85. See 3 L. C. 329.

86. An account may be assigned by an indorsement on the bill of items. Sleeper v. Gagne, 99 Me. 306, 59 A. 472.

87. Civ. Code, §§ 1039, 1040, 1083, 1084. Curtin v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 431, 78 P. 962.

88. The indorsement and delivery of notes which had been proved and allowed will be allowed, as against a written assignment made several years later. In re Sweetser, 131 F. 567.

89. Seat in produce exchange assigned by delivery of certificate with a blank assignment indorsed thereon. Hamblen v. German, 93 App. Div. 464, 87 N. Y. S. 642.

90. The indorsement and delivery of a bill of lading transfers the title to the goods to the vendee, subject only to the right of stoppage in transitu, if the right of no third person has intervened. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 99 Md. 661, 59 A. 134.

91. There is a sufficient delivery where a depositor gives her pass-book to another with an order on the bank for the payment of the deposit on production of the book, though the depositor dies the next day before the presentation of the book or order. McGuire v. Murphy, 94 N. Y. S. 1005.

92. The delivery of drafts to a bank for collection, with direction that when collected the proceeds were to be paid to a person named, constitutes an assignment to such person. Zilke v. Woodley, 36 Wash. 84, 78 P. 299.

93. Decedent executed a writing giving all his property, including bank deposits, to plaintiff, in consideration of the latter's caring for him during his sickness, but reserved the right to hold the property as long as he lived. Rivenburgh v. First Nat. Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 652. Note, "Delivery," 3 C. L. 330.

94. The sale is not invalid because the undisclosed principal of the purchaser could until the sale is executed.[95] A policy may be retransferred by destruction of assignment and redelivery of policy.[96] The assent of guarantors is necessary for the assignment of a guaranty.[97] A bankrupt cannot assign property after filing his petition in bankruptcy.[98] Where an officer[99] or agent[1] assigns, due authority must be proved. At common law an administrator may assign choses in action.[2] A receiver cannot assign a contract where the original holder could not.[3] Failure of the assignee of a chose in action to give notice of the assignment to the debtor is immaterial as against an attaching creditor.[4] One must give notice to a judgment debtor of an assignment of the judgment.[5]

Record.[6]—The assignment of a mortgage on real property is a conveyance which may be recorded.[7] Filing is not necessary to render an assignment binding as to one who has actual notice of it.[8]

§ 3. Constructive or equitable assignments.[9]—Assignments insufficient at law may be good in equity,[10] if that carries out the intent of the parties.[11] The assignment of a verdict to be recovered,[12] of a fund which has no potential existence,[13] or of a debt to accrue under a contract,[14] but not of money to accrue where there is no not legally acquire the stock. Newman v. Mercantile Trust Co. [Mo.] 88 S. W. 6.

95. For sale of stock. Osgood v. Skinner, 111 Ill. App. 606. A contract that an attorney shall receive a part of the recovery is executory merely, as the cause of action remains in the client. Weller v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 61 A. 459.

96. The legal presumption of continued ownership of an insurance policy under an assignment is rebutted by the assignor's possession of the policy and the failure of the assignee's executor to find the assignment among the papers. Cuyler v. Wallace, 91 N. Y. S. 690.

97. Allegation in pleading that it was assigned with the knowledge and consent of the guarantors is sufficient. Levy v. Cohen, 92 N. Y. S. 1074.

98. Title passes from bankrupt on filing, and receiver cannot transfer the same without an order of the court. Muschel v, Austern, 43 Misc. 352, 87 N. Y. S. 235.

99. The president of a corporation has no authority to assign an account due the corporation unless duly empowered by the directors. Authority to make a loan, payable "out of the first collection following such loan," is insufficient. Cogan v. Conover Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 408.

1. Testimony of one that he opened an account at a bank, and proof of a bank book containing an account under a different name, do not show authority for the former to assign the account. Robbins v. Bank of M. & L. Jarmulosky, 90 N. Y. S. 288. Proof that a claim was assigned to plaintiff by an attorney of the assignor is insufficient without proof of the authority of the attorney in fact. MacLatchy v. Hannan, 93 N. Y. S. 282.

2. But in Ohio the power is taken away except in certain cases, and a transfer to a residuary legatee is ineffective. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

3. Sargent Glass Co. v. Matthews Land Co. [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 474.

4. Milligan v. Plymouth State Bank, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 585.

5. The entry of the assignment on the records of the court is not notice to defendant, and after paying judgment to plaintiff he cannot be compelled to pay the judgment a second time to the assignee. Work v. Prall, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 104.

6. See 3 C. L. 331.

7. Real Property Law, § 240, defines "conveyance" as any instrument by which any estate or interest in real property is created, transferred, mortgaged, or assigned. Weideman v. Pech, 92 N. Y. S. 493.

8. Statute provided assignment of a cause of action should be filed with the papers in the cause. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Joslin [Ark.] 86 S. W. 435.

9. See 3 C. L. 331.

10. Assignment of interest in the estate of a grandfather, though insufficient at law to pass any interest in the mortgage, will in equity entitle the assignee to the proceeds of the mortgage. Dixon v. Bentley [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1036.

11. Where plaintiff's husband was trustee for her, a writing by the husband declaring that all rights and interests purporting to belong to him were the property of plaintiff did not amount to an equitable assignment. Woolf v. Barnes, 46 Misc. 169, 93 N. Y. S. 219.

12. The assignment of any verdict to be recovered in a pending action to attorneys for professional services will not be presumed to be fraudulent as against an attaching creditor. Briggs v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 163.

13. Assignment of funds to become due under a railroad contract in consideration of a pre-existing debt, made within four months of bankruptcy, is good as against creditors subsequent to the bankruptcy. Johnson v. Donohue [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 360.

14. A surety on a building contract might take an assignment from the contractor, though he could acquire no lien against the owner; and where the sum due the contractor was less than the sum due from the contractor to the surety, there was consideration, and the fund definitely ascertained. Campbell v. J. E. Grant Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 794.

contract, is good in equity.[15] An order,[16] a negotiable draft,[17] or a check in the ordinary form, without presentation,[18] does not constitute an assignment of the fund. But an accepted order[19] or an order to another or a particular fund constitutes an equitable assignment thereof.[20]

§ 4. Construction, interpretation, and effect.[21]—The natural and reasonable meaning is taken,[22] and the whole transaction may be considered.[23] A mere option must be enforced before default or within a reasonable time thereafter, or it will not result in an assignment.[24] A devisee of land, subject to a lease, is an assignee of the rents.[25] Unpaid dividends do not pass with an assignment of shares of stock.[26] Assignments may be absolute[27] or for collateral security,[28] which may be shown by the conduct of the parties.[29] But a right to repurchase,[30] or even an

15. An assignment to a creditor of all the proceeds of the future sales of milk to a certain person gives the creditor no title or equitable lien, where there was no contract with the person requiring the delivery of milk. O'Neil v. Helmke [Wis.] 102 N. W. 573. Assignee acquires no lien under an equitable assignment of money to be earned unless the assignor has earned the money and the debtor received notice. Cogan v. Conover Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 408.

16. Contractor gave to a firm an order on a railroad, but it was not presented for a year, and then a day later the contractor filed a petition in bankruptcy, and the order was held a preference. Johnston v. Huff, Andrews & Moyler Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 704.

17. Borough of Rosselle Park v. Montgomery [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 954.

18. Garnishment creates a lien superior to that of a check which has not been presented. Love v. Ardmore Stock Exch. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 721. See note, "Check, whether assignment of fund," 3 C. L. 332.

19. Contractor for city building secured order in favor of a bank from comptroller for money due. Third Nat. Bank. v. Atlantic City [C. C. A.] 130 F. 751. Where a subcontractor acepts an order from the contractor on the owner, service of notice on the owner makes an equitable assignment of the amount to become due contractor. Wheelock v. Hull, 124 Iowa, 752, 100 N. W. 863.

20. Contractor delivered orders on owner of building for payment of materials furnished, which constituted an equitable assignment of so much of the contract price as was due and unpaid, as against subsequent attaching creditors. Lutter v. Grosse, 26 Ky. L. R. 585, 82 S. W. 278. Orders drawn by a building contractor against the owner in favor of a subcontractor give the latter inchoate rights in the funds, which become absolute on filing the order and notice of lien with the county clerk. Such orders take precedence over a general assignment of the contractor. Armstrong v. Chisolm, 99 App. Div. 465, 91 N. Y. S. 299. An order to defendant to pay plaintiff the amount due the drawer at the date of the order constituted an assignment of the drawer's account. Comer v. Floore, [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 410, 88 S. W. 246.

21. See 3 C. L. 334.

22. Where a contractor, from whom 10 per cent. was reserved until the work was completed, after part performance assigned his contract to another, who was to have all moneys "hereafter accruing," he was entitled to the 10 per cent. earned at the time of the assignment. Ercanbrack v. Faris [Idaho] 79 P. 817. Under an assignment of future wages for "money, supplies and merchandise to me already paid and furnished, and to be hereafter paid, advanced and furnished," an order for money accepted by the assignee may be included, and cannot be reached by trustee process. Mace v. Richardson [Me.] 60 A. 701.

23. Evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement, of which the written assignment of a seat in a produce exchange was a part, may be admitted to defend a title derived under the assignment. Hamblen v. German, 93 App. Div. 464, 87 N. Y. S. 642.

24. Plaintiff agreed to assign an account to defendant after the payment of a certain sum by instalments, and in case of default the instalments paid were to be applied on the account; defendant defaulted, and after the account was outlawed plaintiff sued defendant for the balance. Frye-Bruhn Co. v. McGowan [Wash.] 80 P. 761.

25. He may sue the lessee for breach of covenant to pay rent and taxes, though the words "assign or assigns" does not appear in the covenant. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

26. Redhead v. Iowa Nat. Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 796.

27. A contract transferring certain shares of stock to defendant, held under the evidence to be one of purchase and sale, and not creating any trust in favor of the vendors. Northern Securities Co. v. Harriman [C. C. A.] 134 F. 331. An instrument assigning the income of certain property to another until it should amount to $25,000, and which recited that it was given in consideration of a loan of that sum, was an absolute assignment and not a mortgage. Seymour v. Ryan [Minn.] 101 N. W. 958.

28. Where the assignment expressly stated it was for collateral security, but did not mention the note, the assignee could not hold the assignment as a general collateral security for any sums due, after the original loan had been paid. Cogan v. Conover Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 408.

29. Evidence that the debt for which the assignment was given had been reduced by realizing on some collateral did not show an intention to treat the transfer as security. Seymour v. Ryan [Minn.] 101 N. W. 958.

30. Where one sold all his property and express recital that it is for security, may not be sufficient to show that it is not absolute.[31] An assignment to an attorney of a proportion of the damages prevails over a subsequent assignment, regardless of notice;[32] and in many jurisdictions the first assignee prevails, notwithstanding no notice has been given,[33] as it becomes effective, as between the parties, when made.[34] An assignment carries with it any collateral as a necessary incident.[35] An assignment pending action does not abate the same, but it may be prosecuted to judgment in the name of the original plaintiff,[36] and it cannot result in changing an action at law to a suit in equity.[37] As the assignee acquires only the assignor's interest,[38] unless the thing assigned was collateral to a negotiable note.[39] or was a bill of lading,[40] he takes it subject to all defenses that could have been set up against the assignor at the time of the assignment;[41] but he is not liable for a previous tort of his assignor.[42] An assignment may be set aside on the ground of fraud;[43] but in the absence of contradictory evidence, where a consideration is expressed, it will be presumed bona fide.[44] Where an assignment is made to an attorney so as to settle a claim, the client cannot revoke it after settlements have been made.[45] business by a bill of sale, but reserved the right to repurchase at the contract price and any money advanced, less money received in the course of the business, and exercised the option, he cannot compel the other party to account for profits, as the sale was absolute. Kerting v. Hatcher, 216 Ill. 232, 74 N. E. 783.

31. Contractor assigned his contract to his surety for security, but treated by the parties as an absolute assignment. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636.

32. Attorney contracted with owner of real estate to take proceedings to recover damages from city for the taking of land for streets, in consideration of the assignment to him of 8 per cent thereof; a subsequent grantee of the landowner was liable to the attorney. Flannery v. Geiger, 92 N. Y. S. 785.

33. The first assignee of a judgment prevails over a bona fide second assignee, though the assignment was not filed or notice given. Curtin v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 431, 78 P. 962.

34. Regardless of notice to the debtor. Quigley v. Welter [Minn.] 104 N. W. 236. But see note, "Can subsequent assignees obtain precedence by first giving notice?" 3 C. L. 334.

35. An underwriting agreement, by which bonds with a bonus of stock was to be purchased at a certain price, was with the bonds assigned to a bank, and the latter was held to have the right to require the delivery of the stock. Kirkpatrick v. Eastern Milling & Export Co., 135 F. 146. Bona fide assignees of notes, also become the owners of trust deeds securing them, subject only to equities of makers and of third parties of which they had notice. Kittler v. Studabaker, 113 Ill. App. 342.

36. An assignment to plaintiff's attorney as security for his fees. Mayo v. Halley, 124 Iowa, 675, 100 N. W. 529.

37. By a mere assignment by plaintiff of interests in his claim under the alleged contract, and making the assignees parties defendant. Butterly v. Deering, 92 N. Y. S. 675.

38. The assignment by a vendor of his interest in a land contract vests in the assignee a lien upon the vendor's interest in the land to the extend of the debt secured, and not exceeding the unpaid purchase money. Lamm v. Armstrong [Minn.] 104 N. W. 304. One assigned his right to an accounting under a trust agreement. Sawyer v. Cook [Mass.] 74 N. E. 356.

39. Where one acquires in good faith a negotiable note which was fraudulently issued, he acquires a good title to any collateral security assigned to him, though the latter was nonnegotiable. White v. Dodge [Mass.] 73 N. E. 549.

40. One who takes a bill of lading from a vendee acquires an unassailable title to the goods, notwithstanding the fraud of the vendee, even as against the defrauded vendor. National Bank of Bristol v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 99 Ind. 661, 59 A. 134.

41. Williams v. Neely [C. C. A.] 134 F. 1. The assignee of a note which provided that the whole was to become due on any default in the payment of interest, who took the same after such default, takes it subject to all defenses. Ray v. Baker [Ind.] 74 N. E. 619.

42. A contract for building a tunnel provided that the contractor should be liable for all damages to abutting property; he contractor became liable in damages, and then assigned his contract to an assignee, who agreed to do everything necessary in order that the assignor might receive all moneys due on the contract. Lockwood v. Naughton Co., 93 N. Y. S. 614.

43. But the New York municipal court is not a court having equitable jurisdiction. Midler v. Lese, 91 N. Y. S. 148. Where a judgment creditor assigned for a consideration a judgment to an attorney of the debtor, who was ignorant that an execution and sale of land had been made thereunder, the creditor was estopped from claiming the land under the sale, as he had assisted in the concealment. Barto v. Davis [Wash.] 79 P. 623.

44. Assignment of a mortgage.. Weideman v. Pech, 92 N. Y. S. 493.

45. Attorney was not to be deprived of his right to compensation for his services. Foot v. Smythe [Colo. App.] 78 P. 619.

§ 5. Enforcement of assignment and of rights assigned.[46]—The assignee of a chose in action may sue in his own name,[47] though there is no consideration,[48] or the assignment was for security,[49] or the assignee is merely a trustee for his assignor.[50] But the assignment must be bona fide, and an attorney who takes a claim on shares,[51] or an assignee who takes an assignment made without consideration, and merely for the purpose of bringing suit for the benefit of the assignor, is not a bona fide holder.[52] An assignment by a party to a controversy of his rights therein is ineffectual to enable him to testify.[53] There must be due proof of execution of the assignment,[54] and in Maine for an assignee to sue in his own name he must file with the writ a copy of the assignment.[55]

An assignee of part of a claim may sue to recover the portion assigned,[56] but a single cause of action cannot be split up by several assignments without the consent of the debtor.[57] An assignee may sue to have a contract reformed,[58] and assignees are bound by the results of any action brought by their assignors,[59] and cannot enforce a claim,[60] or a nonnegotiable note where the same was paid in good faith to the assignor before notice of the assignment.[61] An assignee who has knowledge of a defect may not be able to enforce a claim which was good in the hands of the assignor.[62] The assignee of a chose in action [63] must sue in the name of his

46. See 3 C. L. 335.

47. An agent guarantying an account for his employer, and being compelled by agreement to pay the same weekly, becomes in law the assignee of the account, and is entitled to sue in attachment in his own own. McLane v. Colburn, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 257.

48. Open account. Wallace v. Leroy [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 243.

49. A bona fide assignee of claims as collateral is entitled to sue thereon in his own name. City Bank of New Haven v. Thorp [Conn.] 61 A. 428.

50. Complaint is sufficient which alleges the assignment of a judgment from the owner, though it does not allege that plaintiff is still the owner. Evidence of the assignment of all judgments of assignors is sufficient evidence of assignment of a judgment of prior date, in the absence of the evidence of any other assignment. Curtin v. Kowalsky, 145 Cal. 431, 78 P. 962.

51. An agreement whereby an attorney, in consideration of the assignment to him of a non-negotiable chose in action, agrees to enforce collection at his own expense, and pay the assignor one-half of the proceeds, is invalid as against public policy. Slade v. Zeitfuss [Conn.] 59 A. 406.

52. Assignment by a lodge to its officers is colorable only. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

53. It is not made in good faith. Verstine v. Yeaney, 210 Pa. 109, 59 A. 689.

54. Positive statement of a witness that an assignment was signed by a given person is sufficient, though it appears he was not present when the instrument was signed. Bauer v. State, 144 Cal. 740, 78 P. 280. In action by an assignee the objection cannot be raised for the first time on an appeal that there was no proof of the assignment. Conroy v. Boeck, 91 N. Y. S. 80.

55. It was sufficient that the assignment was made on the bill of items annexed to the writ. Sleeper v. Gagne, 99 Me. 306, 59 A. 472.

56. Where the assignee of part sued the debtor and the assignee of another part and the assignor, alleging that the two latter would not join as co-plaintiffs, he stated no cause of action against them, and the debtor was entitled to have the same stricken out. Chase v. Deering, 93 N. Y. S. 434.

57. But on appeal, in absence of anything to the contrary in the record, it will be presumed that the debtor consented. Sincell v. Davis, 24 App. D. C. 218.

58. Contract for a lease to a corporation to be formed by one of the parties, and when the corporation was formed the lease was assigned to it. Pittsburgh Amusement Co. v. Ferguson, 100 App. Div. 453, 91 N. Y. S. 666.

59. Rights under a contract assigned, the issue of the existence of the contract having been litigated in a previous action. Butterly v. Deering, 92 N. Y. S. 675.

60. Where the assignee had allowed payment of claims assigned to him as collateral to be paid to the assignor, such payment constituted a defense to an action against the debtor. City Bank of New Haven v. Thorp [Conn.] 61 A. 428.

61. The recording of the mortgage is not notice to the mortgagor, but it is notice to a purchaser from the mortgagor. Cornish v. Woolverton [Mont.] 81 P. 4. Where the assignee sues the person liable, who has made a settlement with the assignor after the assignment, he must allege either that the assignment was filed, or that the person had notice. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Joslin [Ark.] 86 S. W. 435.

62. Where one took an assignment of wages earned knowing that the debtor had no authority to incur any expense beyond the value of the proceeds of mining, he could not enforce the same. Farrell v. Gold Flint Min. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 1027.

63. Factor who sells in own name and advances price to owner. Ermeling v. Gibson Canning Co., 105 Ill. App. 196. Where plaintiff in an action for conversion assigns her right of action to her attorney as security for advances and attorney's fees, the assignor in some jurisdictions and the assignor, though only a nominal plaintiff, must be living.[64]

ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.[65]

§ 1. Nature of transaction in general.[66]—A transfer of property to a trustee upon a trust to distribute to creditors is an assignment for the benefit of the latter.[67] So also, under the statutes of some states, the giving of a preference by an insolvent debtor constitutes such an assignment.[68] But such statutes do not apply where the preferences given are those established by law.[69]

§ 2. Statutory provisions and conflict of laws.[70]—The national bankruptcy act supersedes all state insolvency laws,[71] except as to cases and persons not within its purview.[72] The assignor being declared a bankrupt, his assignment is invalidated if made within four months of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy,[73] but if not made within such time, it stands, if otherwise valid.[74]

§ 3. Right to make a general assignment.[75]—The right of a debtor to make a common-law assignment for the benefit of his creditors exists independent of statute.[76] action is properly continued in the name of the original plaintiff. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 212 Ill. 134, 72 N. E. 200.

64. Though assignor is only nominal plaintiff, still if he is not living, the suit is a nullity and cannot be cured by amendment. Karrick v. Wetmore, 22 App. D. C. 487.

65. This topic treats only of voluntary assignments for the benefits of creditors. For involuntary assignments, see Creditors' Suit, 3 C. L. 976; Insolvency, 4 C. L. 129. See, also, Bankruptcy, 3 C. L. 434.

66. See 3 C. L. 337.

67. As that term is used in St. 1898, § 1694; Gilbert Paper Co. v. Whiting Paper Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 20. A trust deed conveying all the property of an insolvent debtor, coupled with an agreement on the trustee's part to convert the same into money and pay and discharge the insolvent's debts, held to constitute a common-law assignment. Lucy v. Freeman, 93 Minn. 274, 101 N. W. 167.

68. Where an insolvent debtor raised money to pay a note by mortgaging all his property, and the same day filed an assignment for the benefit of creditors, held, such payment was within Ky. St. 1903, § 1910, declaring a preference by an insolvent debtor to amount to an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Hines & Co. v. Hays, 26 Ky. L. R. 967, 82 S. W. 1007. See 3 C. L. 337, n. 23.

69. Where a testamentary trustee, who was also a beneficiary, conveyed his interest in the trust estate to a third person, and the grantee reconveyed to the trustee with power to manage and sell the same for legatees, held not to constitute a preferential assignment within the meaning of P. L. 273, providing that such an assignment shall inure to the benefit of all creditors. In re Hart's Estate [Pa.] 60 A. 728.

70. See 3 C. L. 337.

71. Such state laws remain in abeyance so long as the bankruptcy act remains in force. Hoague v. Cumner, 187 Mass. 296, 72 N. E. 956. Hence trustee in bankruptcy cannot avoid assignment for the benefit of creditors merely because the assignee failed to deposit a copy of the assignment in the office of the town clerk, as required by Rev. Laws, c. 147, § 21. Id. But see 3 C. L. 338, n. 34.

72. See Bankruptcy, 3 C. L. 435, n. 71.

73. McDaniel v. Osborn [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 601.

74. Hoague v. Cumner, 187 Mass. 296, 72 N. E. 956.

75. See 3 C. L. 338.

76. Lucy v. Freeman, 93 Minn. 274, 101 N. W. 167.

§ 4. Filing, recording or registering; qualifying of assignee, removals and substitution.[77]—As the right to make the assignment exists independent of statutory provisions, a failure to comply therewith does not render such assignment absolutely void, but only voidable at the instance of creditors and subsequent purchasers in good faith.[78]

§ 5. Meaning and effect in general.[79]—Under the statutes of most states the assignment dissolves all liens created on the property within a specified time prior to the assignment.[80]

§ 6. Legality and equitableness.[81]—The purpose of the assignment must be legal.[82] An assignment by a corporation must conform to the statutory requirements regulating the transfer of its property.[83] By assenting to the assignment, creditors will be estopped to question the validity thereof.[84] Under the statutes of some states the creditors by commencing an action to enforce their claims may avoid the assignment.[85]

Reservation of property.[86]

Preferences.[87]—In most states an assignment preferring certain creditors is void.[88]

77. See 3 C. L. 338.

78. Lucy v. Freeman, 93 Minn. 274, 101 N. W. 167.

79. See 3 C. L. 338.

80. Under Pub. Laws 1902, p. 61, c. 984, § 4, providing that an assignment for the benefit of creditors shall dissolve any attachment, levy or lien placed on the assigned property within four months prior to the assignment, an attachment bond executed within four months of the assignment is not vacated thereby. Eldred v. Avedisian [R. I.] 60 A. 677.

81. See 3 C. L. 338.

82. An assignment for the benefit of creditors in order to obtain a stay of execution under P. L. 413, 415, authorizing the court to stay execution so that a sale may be made by the assignee, is an improper use of the act, and an application for a stay will be denied. Weist v. Wuller, 210 Pa. 143, 59 A. 820.

83. Under St. 1880, p. 131, c. 118, § 1, an assignment by a mining corporation must be assented to by the holders of two-thirds of the capital stock. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511, 78 P. 30. A previous consent by holders of requisite amount of stock, though made in their capacities as directors, is, as against creditors, equivalent to a subsequent ratification. Id. For assignments by corporations, see, generally, 3 Clark & M. Corp. c. 25.

84. Assenting creditor cannot be heard to say that assignment was fraudulent. McAvoy v. Harkins [Wash.] 81 P. 77. Garnishee alleging that he held the property as an assignee for benefit of creditors can, on demurrer, amend to allege that plaintiff, a creditor, assented to the assignment. Id. Waives all objections to the regularity of the assignment and to the title of the assignee to the assets. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511, 78 P. 30. Assenting creditor held estopped to question title of purchaser because of defects in assignee's title. Id. An assignee of a creditor who has filed his claim by allowing the same to remain on file becomes an assenting creditor, within the meaning of Civ. Code, §§ 3458, 3459. Id. Debtor assigned to sheriff; creditors met, elected assignee and presented claims; held estopped to contest validity of assignment. Lacy v. Gunn [Cal.] 74 P. 156. See 2 C. L. 339, n. 53; 1 C. L. 228, n. 22.

85. Under Code 1883, § 685, if creditors of a corporation commence an action to enforce their claims within sixty days after the registration of an assignment for the benefit of creditors they thereby avoid such assignment. Fisher v. Western Carolina Bank [N. C.] 44 S. E. 601. Such suits in no manner increasing the assets, the plaintiffs therein are not by reason thereof entitled to a lien on the corporation's assets in the hands of a receiver. Id.

86. See 3 C. L. 339, where an extensive note on this subject will be found.

87. See 3 C. L. 340.

88. NOTE. Preferences to Creditors: In the absence of statutes forbidding preferences, every debtor has a right, before an assignment for the benefit of creditors, and before contemplation thereof, to prefer one or more of his creditors to the rest. In fact, it is a general rule that a debtor may, while retaining dominion over his property, and not contemplating an assignment, use his property in discharge of his liabilities, and pay one or more creditors to the exclusion of the others. See monographic notes to Benham v. Ham, 34 Am. St. Rep. 856, 857, on lawful and unlawful preferences in assignments for the benefit of creditors; Cutter v. Pollock, 4 N. D. 205, 50 Am. St. Rep. 644; Williams v. Clark, 47 Minn. 53; Barnett v. Kinney, 147 U. S. 476, 37 Law. Ed. 247; Mitchell v. Beal, 8 Yerg. [Tenn.] 134, 29 Am. Dec. 108; Home Nat. Bank v. Sanchez, 131 Ill. 330; Livermore v. McNair, 34 N. J. Eq. 478; Anderson v. Tydings, 8 Md. 427, 63 Am. Dec. 708; Warner v. Littlefield, 89 Mich. 329; Sandwich Mfg. Co. v. Max, 5 S. D. 125, 24 L. R. A. 524. It is only when a debtor indicates his intention of taking advantage of the law permitting and regulating general assignments, and putting his property under its protection, that he is denied the right to make preferences among his creditors. Sandwich Mfg. Co. v. Max, 5

§ 7. Property passing to and rights of the assignee therein.[89]—All the right, title and interest of the assignor in the property conveyed passes by the assignment to the assignee.[90] Property inherited after the execution of the deed of assignment is no part of the trust estate.[91] The assignee of a general contractor takes subject to the right of laborers and materialmen to subsequently file mechanic's liens for work performed prior to the assignment.[92]

Property transferred or conveyed by assignor.[93]—The property conveyed depends largely upon the description in the instrument of assignment.[94]

§ 8. Liability of assignee; bond.[95]—The assignee should be upheld in all of his actions intended for the benefit of the estate and which do not result in injury thereto,[96] but he is liable for all losses occasioned by his negligence.[97] An assignee or trustee continuing the insolvent's business and signing a purchase-money note for material with his own name and the additional word "Trustee," the question whether the sale was made on the trustee's individual credit, or the credit

S. D. 125, 24 L. R. A. 524. It has been held that a debtor, if not prohibited by statute, may, even when insolvent, prefer a creditor in an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Hull v. Jeffrey, 8 Ohio, 390; Grover v. Wakeman, 11 Wend. [N. Y.] 187, 25 Am. Dec. 624; Paul v. Baugh, 85 Va. 955; Perkins v. Hutchinson, 17 R. I. 450; Talley v. Curtain, 54 F. 43; Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 9 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 394, 48 Am. Dec. 719.

An assignment law does not deprive debtors of their common-law right to prefer creditors. Kavanaugh v. Oberfelder, 37 Neb. 647; Wharton v. Clements, 3 Del. Ch. 209; Woonsocket Rubber Co. v. Felley, 30 F. 808; Hull v. Jeffrey, 8 Ohio, 390; Crow v. Beardsley, 68 Mo. 435; Sandwich Mfg. Co. v. Max, 5 S. D. 125, 24 L. R. A. 524; Manning v. Beck, 129 N. Y. 1, 14 L. R. A. 198. It is only preferences conferred by the assignment that are forbidden, not preferences given by other instruments, and as a separate and independent transaction. Gummersell v. Hanbloom, 19 Mo. App. 274; Lake Shore Banking Co. v. Fuller, 110 Pa. 156. A preference is not invalid except as prohibited by the assignment law. Mackellar v. Pillsbury, 48 Minn. 396; Kavanaugh v. Oberfelder, 37 Neb. 647. The right of a debtor to pay one or more credtors in preference to others, and the right to make a general assignment for the benefit of all of his creditors, ratably, are distinct and independent rights. Sandwich Mfg. Co. v. Max, 5 S. D. 125, 24 L. R. A. 524. From note to Bank of Little Rock v. Frank [Ark.] 58 Am. St. Rep. 65, 86.

89. See 3 C. L. 341.

90. After the assignment the assignor has no further right of control over the property. Gilbert Paper Co. v. Whiting Paper Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 20. Assignee takes absolute title. Rowley v. D'Arcy, 184 Mass. 550, 69 N. E. 325. Under the "Martin Act" (Gen. St. p. 3370), the surplus resulting from a tax sale is properly paid to the owner's assignee, though the latter has conveyed his interest in the land to the purchaser. Gavenesch v. Jersey City [N. J. Law] 59 A. 25.

91. This is true though it is incumbered by a mortgage as security for some of the assignor's debts. Read v. Reynolds [Md.] 59 A. 669. Also the assignee may become a purchaser at a sale under such mortgage, especially where the trust estate could not have been increased or diminished by the price obtained at the sale. Id.

92. So held where subcontractor claiming lien had, at the time of the assignment, an order, amounting to an equitable assignment, for the funds due for his part of the avails. Armstrong v. Chisolm, 99 App. Div. 465, 91 N. Y. S. 299. See 2 C. L. 344, n. 43, 44.

93. See 3 C. L. 342.

94. An assignment conveying all the assignee's "property, choses in action of every name, nature and description, * * * except such property only as is exempt by law from attachment," held to convey all the debtor's title to any personal property or assignable rights of action owned or possessed by him, except such as is exempt from execution by Pub. St. 1882, c. 171, § 34. Robinson v. Wiley [Mass.] 74 N. E. 923. Held to include a right of action against a bank for wrongfully dishonoring a check. Id.

95. See 3 C. L. 342.

96. Rochford v. Doty [Wash.] 79 P. 782. Being obliged to pay for property taken by him under an attachment bond, he is not obliged to account therefor to creditors of the assignor. Id.

97. Where assignee mistakenly supposed estate was solvent, and paid note in full, and as a result thereof the creditor allowed his right of action against the indorsers to become barred by limitations, held, assignee was liable for sum negligently paid. German Security Bank v. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 761. The assignment being rendered void because of the assignee's failure to have the same filed and recorded and as a result thereof the property is lost to creditors, a creditor may maintain an action against the assignee for damages without proving his claim before the county court (Huddleson v. Polk [Neb.] 102 N. W. 464), and the amount of damages is the amount which the creditor would have received if the assignment had been valid. (Id.). In such an action it may be shown by the defendant in mitigation of damages that there are other creditors entitled to participate in the assets of the

of the trust estate, is one for the jury,[98] and on this question evidence is admissible as to whether his services were gratuitous or not.[99]

§ 9. Collection of assets and reduction to money. Sale of assets by assignee.[1] As a general rule, the assignee has power to sell the property at either public auction or private sale,[2] the purchaser taking the title of the assignor.[3] At a sale at public auction the assignee is the only person who can legally release any bidder from the obligation incurred by his bid.[4] There is nothing to prevent the assignor from buying the property after the assignment, provided it is done fairly and openly and without detriment to the rights of creditors.[5] A sale made by an assignee without an order of court does not release judgment liens.[6]

Validity and setting aside sale.[7]—Unless the assignee is a party thereto, fictitious bids by creditors, made to puff the price, do not render the sale voidable at the election of the purchaser.[8] Inadequacy of price is of itself insufficient to justify setting aside the sale as fraudulent.[9]

§ 10. Administration of the trust in general.[10]—As a general rule, the assignee has full authority to sue for and collect such claims as constitute a part of the assets, and to resist the payment of unjust and illegal demands asserted against them,[11] and he may appeal the causes which he brings or defends.[12] In Alabama he cannot maintain an action in his own name for the breach of a verbal agreement for a sale of goods by defendant to the assignor.[13] An order directing an assignee to sue his predecessor for conversion is not a final order and does not bar any defense to the action.[14]

§ 11. Debts and liabilities of the estate.[15]—The assignee completing an unfinished contract and suing for the contract price, the defendant may set off a claim growing out of mutual dealings between him and the assignor before the date of assignment.[16]

In Louisiana, where mortgaged real estate is included in a cessio bonorum, the mortgage creditor is authorized to enforce his mortgage by executory process contradictorily with the syndic of the insolvency.[17]

Claim of assignee for compensation and allowance.[18]—An allowance to the assignee of five per cent. of the money handled is reasonable.[19]

insolvent estate, but, to be available, this fact must be affirmatively pleaded in the answer. Id.

98, 99. Megowan v. Peterson, 92 N. Y. S. 611.

1. See 3 C. L. 342.

2. Pub. St. 1882, c. 157, §§ 46-50; Rowley v. D'Arcy, 184 Mass. 550, 69 N. E. 325.

3. Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. v. Grimmon [Nev.] 81 P. 43.

4. Rowley v. D'Arcy, 184 Mass. 550, 69 N. E. 325. Creditors combining to puff the price cannot by a stipulation among themselves secure immunity from any risk of being held personally liable for their several offers. Id.

5. Curnen v. Reilly, 99 App. Div. 159, 90 N. Y. S. 974. Where assignee could only obtain bid for $8,500 and assignor procured another to buy stock for him for $9,500 and assignor sold it in eighteen months for $19,031.22 at a cost of $4,000, held, purchase was valid. Id.

6. In re White's Estate, 20 Pa. 627, 59 A. 271. Such judgment creditors are not entitled to participate in fund realized from the sale and in the hands of assignee. Id.

7. See 3 C. L. 343.

8. Rowley v. D'Arcy, 184 Mass. 550, 69 N. E. 325.

9. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511, 78 P. 30.

10. See 3 C. L. 343.

11. Anderson v. Davis, 55 W. Va. 429, 47 S. E. 157. In a suit to enforce a mortgage on real estate included in a cessio bonorum, the syndic of the insolvency has the legal capacity to urge, on behalf of all the creditors, all defenses which the situation calls for. Trezevant v. Levy's Heirs [La.] 38 So. 589.

12. Anderson v. Davis, 55 W. Va. 429, 47 S. E. 157.

13. Code 1896, §§ 28, 876, do not apply. Snead v. Bell [Ala.] 38 So. 259.

14. Hence a cross complaint by the surety on the bond of the former assignee seeking to have the order set aside is of no merit. Rochford v. Doty [Wash.] 79 P. 782.

15. See 3 C. L. 343.

16. Meeder v. Goehring, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 457.

17. Trezevant v. Levy's Heirs [La.] 38 So. 589.

18. See 3 C. L. 343.

19. Drey v. Watson [C. C. A.] 138 F. 792.

§ 12. Presentment and allowance of claims.[20]—An order granting or refusing the petition of a creditor to be permitted to file his claim for allowance after the expiration of the time limited to do so is a matter within the discretion of the trial court,[21] and in determining the question the court may consider the equities of the petitioner's claim,[22] and its order will not be disturbed on appeal unless there be a clear abuse of discretion.[23] An affidavit to the claim being defective, it cannot be amended after the expiration of the time for filing the claim, so as to relate back.[24] A creditor's affidavit to his claim stating that the account is "correct" is not equivalent to saying that it is "true" and "that the debt is just."[25] It does not constitute a repudiation of the assignment for a creditor to attack its validity without right,[26] or for him to sue on his claim and reduce it to judgment,[27] nor does the latter constitute a withdrawal of a claim which has been filed.[28] The latter remedy is not inconsistent with the prosecution of the claim before the assignee, unless there is an attempt to seize the assigned property on execution.[29]

§ 13. Classes and priorities of debts.[30]—In some states the claims of laborers and employees for salary are preferred.[31] A secured creditor is entitled to share in the general assets in the same proportion with other creditors, and without any deduction because of his collateral security.[32] One loaning money upon a third person guarantying payment is not entitled to a preference over such guarantor upon the distribution of the borrower's assets.[33]

§ 14. Satisfaction and discharge of debts and claims.[34]—A claim filed is not extinguished by the fact of such filing,[35] or by the payment of a dividend thereon less in amount than the face of such claim,[36] and the creditor many enforce payment of the balance due him by proceeding against his debtor by judgment or by other lawful means;[37] so, too, such creditor may offset his claim against any claim held against him by the assignee,[38] and the latter cannot object thereto on the ground that the creditor thereby increased his dividends.[39] An assignee cannot recover payments made to a creditor by mistake, the creditor having changed his position to his prejudice in reliance thereon.[40] In New York an assignee willfully neglecting to obey a decree for the payment of money is guilty of contempt.[41]

§ 15. Accounting, settlement and discharge, or failure of trust.[42]—Where the assignee files an answer to a petition for a citation to account, and the answer

20. See 3 C. L. 344.

21. In re Willard [Minn.] 103 N. W. 562.

22. In re Willard [Minn.] 103 N. W. 562. Where claim was technically a legal one and unjust, held no error in denying petition. Id.

23. In re Willard [Minn.] 103 N. W. 562.

24. Hughes v. Potts [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 708.

25. Affidavit held insufficient under Batt's Ann. St. 1895, art. 78. Hughes v. Potts [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 708.

26. Duncan v. State Nat. Bank [Miss.] 38 So. 45.

27, 28, 29. Lacy v. Gunn, 144 Cal. 511, 78 P. 30.

30. See 3 C. L. 344.

31. Indiana:. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 7051, 7058, making debts due laborers and employes preferred claims, it must be shown that the labor was performed in connection with the business in which the insolvent debtor was engaged. McDaniel v. Osborn [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 601.

32. Corbett v. Joannes [Wis.] 104 N. W. 69; Harrigan v. Gilchrist, 121 Wis. 127-344, 99 N. W. 909.

33. Where the officers of a corporation agreed to prefer one loaning the corporation money in case anything happened, held not to give the lender a preference over the individual claims of the officers. In re Kittanning Elec. Light, Heat & Power Co.'s Estate, 210 Pa. 6, 59 A. 266.

34. See 3 C. L. 345.

35, 36, 37, 38. Little v. Sturgis [Iowa] 103 N. W. 205.

39. Little v. Sturgis [Iowa] 103 N. W. 205. It is probable that the other creditors might complain. Id.

40. Where assignee mistakenly supposed estate was solvent and paid note in full and as a result thereof the creditor allowed his right of action against the indorsers to become barred by limitations, held, assignee could not recover. German Security Bank v. Columbia Finance & Trust Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 761.

41. Under Laws 1877, p. 547, c. 466, § 22, as amended by Laws 1894, p. 269, c. 134, supreme court has concurrent jurisdiction with county court to punish him. Laws 1885, p. 626, c. 380. In re Merklen, 44 Misc. 169, 89 N. Y. S. 786.

42. See 3 C. L. 345.

is equivalent to an account, it is error to dismiss the proceedings.[43] In such a case the court should direct that notice be given to creditors, and, if exceptions are filed, should proceed in the usual manner to determine whether the answer is equivalent to an account, and, if not, should direct that the assignee file an account.[44] In New York the report of a referee stating the account of an assignee cannot be filed after the assignee's death and before his personal representative is made a party.[45]

There being a vacancy in the position of assignee, a receiver may be appointed to take charge of and collect the claims,[46] and if no competent person will accept the position as receiver, the court can assign the duty to the master commissioner.[47] An order of discharge being made after a hearing and upon notice is, in effect, a final judgment, and, as such, is binding upon assignors and creditors, and is subject to attack only upon grounds upon which other judgments are assailable.[48]

§ 16. Rights of creditors under a void assignment, or after the assignee's discharge.—By recent legislation in Wisconsin the fact that the assignment is void does not enable the creditors to reach the property by attachment or garnishment.[49] The assignee being discharged, a creditor may sue in his own name to set aside a fraudulent conveyance made by the assignor prior to the assignment,[50] and in any event another creditor is the only person who can object to such procedure.[51]

ASSISTANCE, WRIT OF.

The remedy is founded on the principle that a court of equity will, when it can do so justly, carry its decrees into full execution without relying on the co-operation of any other tribunal.[52] Its issuance rests in discretion.[53] The judgment awarding possession is the sole justification of the writ, and it should not issue to require something to be done which the judgment does not require,[54] and in no event should it issue without notice to the person in possession,[55] though he acquired possession under a conveyance executed pending the foreclosure suit.[56] It will issue to put into possession a purchaser at foreclosure sale or any one who by the decree becomes entitled to the possession of the land in controversy,[57] pro

43, 44. Juniata Bldg. & Loan Ass'ns Assigned Est., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 40.

45. Code Civ. Proc. § 755. In re Venable, 93 N. Y. S. 1074. This is true though the referee had signed the report and had it ready for delivery previous to the death of the assignee. Id. This is not changed by General Assignment Act, § 10 (Laws 1877, p. 545, c. 466). Id. The subsequent appointment of the representative of the deceased assignee's estate in place of the deceased assignee does not validate such filing. Id.

46, 47. Andrews v. Wilson's Assignees, 26 Ky. L. R. 658, 82 S. W. 391.

48. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392. Complaint in action to set aside held insufficient in that it did not show that the remedy by motion was unavailable or inadequate, or that the new evidence could not have been discovered and presented at the hearing or within one year thereafter, or in what the newly discovered evidence consisted. Id. Order of discharge, though procured by fraud, held not subject to collateral attack and to constitute a defense to an action of conversion by the assignee's successor. Rochford v. Doty [Wash.] 79 P. 782. See Judgments, 4 C L. 287.

49. Laws 1897, p. 742, c. 334, § 2 considered. Gilbert Paper Co. v. Whiting Paper Co. [Wis] 102 N. W. 20.

50. Fidelity Nat. Bank v. Adams [Wash.] 80 P. 284.

51. Assignor cannot. Fidelity Nat Bank v. Adams [Wash.] 80 P. 284. Eq. 482.

52. See Beatty v. De Forest, 27 N. J

53. Baird v. Van Vechten, 44 Misc. 279 89 N. Y. S. 879.

54. If a judgment does not award possession the writ should not issue. Baird v. Van Vechten, 44 Misc. 279, 89 N. Y. S 879.

55. If he is dispossessed under a wri issued without notice he should be restored to possession. Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 38 So 367.

56. Ray v. Trice [Fla.] 38 So. 367.

57. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A 66.

viding such purchaser has a clear right to possession.[58] It will issue as against one in possession who entered pending the suit, under any of the parties,[59] or as a trespasser,[60] or against one who conceals his title and represents to the parties that his possession is subject to the suit,[61] or against one in possession under an unrecorded instrument;[62] but not as against one who took possession prior to the filing of lis pendens.[63] One in possession under an instrument not entitled to record may be estopped to assert his right thereunder where he conceals such right during the suit,[64] and the fact that he does not know that his rights under the concealed instrument were not affected by the suit does not affect the force of such estoppel.[65] Such estoppel is not merely for the benefit of the purchaser at the foreclosure sale, but is rather for the benefit of the complainant who in reliance on the concealment has neglected to make the person concealing a party.[66] The issuance or refusal of the writ does not conclude the parties interested except so far as it adjudges the right of possession as a result of the suit.[67]

ASSOCIATIONS AND SOCIETIES.[68]

§ 1. Definition, nature, and organization.[69]—A voluntary unincorporated association is not a co-partnership unless engaged in some business as an association.[70]

58. Such right, however need not be established beyond a reasonable doubt. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 66. Nor as against a party in possession who makes a litigable claim of ownership which was unaffected by the foreclosure decree. Urlan v. Ruhe [Neb.] 103 N. W. 670.

59, 60, 61. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 66.

62. Laws 1902, p. 531, does not apply to an instrument not entitled to record. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 66.

63. Baird v. Van Vechten, 44 Misc. 279, 89 N. Y. S. 879.

Note: The writ can issue on the application of no one except a party to the suit (Wilson v. Polk, 13 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 132, 51 Am. Dec. 151); but a purchaser at a sale under a decree is deemed to be a party within the rule (Jones v. Hooper, 50 Miss. 510). It will not issue against any but a party to the suit in which it was sought, or his representative, or one coming into possession pendente lite. Comr. v. Felton, 61 F. 731; Van Hook v. Throckmorton, 8 Paige [N. Y.] 33; Terrell v. Allison, 21 Wall. [U. S.] 289, 22 Law. Ed. 634. See Musgrove v. Gray, 123 Ala. 376, 26 So. 643, 82 Am. St. Rep. 124. It is only allowed when the right is clear. Barton v. Beatty, 28 N. J. Eq. 412; National Building & Loan Ass'n v. Strauss [N. J. Eq.] 49 A. 137. And it is not customary to issue it where there is a bona fide contest as to the right to possession or where the rights of the principal parties have not been fully adjudicated in the principal suit. Van Meter v. Borden, 25 N. J. Eq. 414; Roach v. Clark, 150 Ind. 93, 65 Am. St. Rep. 353; Wiley v. Carlisle, 93 Ala. 238; Knight v. Houghtalling, 94 N. C. 411; Hayward v. Kinney, 84 Mich. 591; Ex parte Jenkins, 48 S. C. 686. Facts showing the necessity of its issue must be presented to the court. Bruce v. Roney, 18 Ill. 67; Oglesby v. Pearce, 68 Ill. 220. There is a difference of opinion concerning the necessity of giving notice therefor. As between the parties and those claiming under them it is said that the defendant is not entitled to notice (Harney v. Morton, 39 Miss. 508); but it is held that the person in possession should have notice of the application for the writ and is entitled to be heard thereon (Blouvelt v. Smith, 22 N. J. Eq. 31; Jones v. Hooper, 50 Miss. 510; Hooper v. Yonge, 69 Ala. 484). See, Fletcher, Equity Pl. & Pr. p. 760.

64, 65. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 66.

66. Hence the absence of injury to the purchaser does not affect the estoppel. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 66.

67. Strong v. Smith [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 66.

68. Scope of article. Only cases dealing with voluntary unincorporated associations or membership corporations, organized for purposes not pecuniary, are fully treated, though reference has been made to beneficial associations. For full treatment of the last named, see Fraternal and Mutual Benefit Associations, 3 C. L. 1499. For general corporation law, see Corporations, 3 C. L. 880. For titles closely related to the one here treated, see Joint Stock Companies, 4 C. L. 280; Exchanges and Boards of Trade, 3 C. L. 1397; Building and Loan Associations, 3 C. L. 561; Religious Societies, 4 C. L. 1275.

69. See 3 C. L. 346.

NOTE. Societies and clubs distinguished from corporations: Societies or clubs may be incorporated, but they are

§ 2. Internal relations, rights, and duties.[71]—Judicial tribunals will not interfere with the internal government of the affairs of voluntary associations or membership corporations where the action complained of has been taken in accordance with reasonable by-laws and regulations.[72] But disciplinary action, such as suspension or expulsion, is invalid if not taken in conformity with the society's by-laws and statutes governing procedure.[73] Thus suspension of a member entitled to privileges or rights of property, at an illegal meeting, without notice or opportunity to be heard, is illegal,[74] and in such case equity has jurisdiction to grant relief.[75] Procedure of lodges is presumed to have been regular, in the absence of a contrary showing.[76] Procedure in contests of election of trustees of an association is statutory in New York.[77]

The rights of members of a voluntary or unincorporated association are fixed by and depend upon the constitution and articles of association[78] which constitute often unincorporated. In the latter case, they are merely voluntary associations of persons for some common purpose, usually social, literary, or political. The words "society" and "club" have no very definite meaning in the law. They may be formed for a great variety of purposes, and there is no uniformity in their constitutions and rules. See Com. v. Pomphret, 137 Mass. 564, 50 Am. Rep. 340. Though unincorporated, they often resemble corporations in many respects, as, for example, in having the capacity of succession. Unlike a corporation, however, the members of an unincorporated society or club do not form a collective whole, and cannot collectively acquire any rights, or incur any obligations. There is no distinct legal entity apart from the members. White v. Brownell, 3 Abb. Pr. [N. S.; N. Y.] 318; East Haddam Central Baptist Church v. East Haddam Baptist Ecclesiastical Soc., 44 Conn. 259; Lafond v. Deems, 52 How. Pr. [N. Y.] 41; Liggett v. Ladd, 17 Or. 89; Crawford v. Gross, 140 Pa. 297; Curd v. Wallace, 7 Dana [Ky.] 190, 32 Am. Dec. 85. They are generally managed through trustees, who make all necessary contracts, and purchase and hold the property necessary for the purposes of the association. See East Haddam Central Baptist Church v. East Haddam Baptist Ecclesiastical Soc., 44 Conn. 259; Liggett v. Ladd, 17 Or. 89; Crawford v. Gross, 140 Pa. 297; Birmingham v. Gallagher, 112 Mass. 190. The rights and liabilities of the members depend upon the contract under which they have associated. See Waite v. Merrill, 4 Me. 102, 16 Am. Dec. 238 (society of Shakers); Austin v. Searing, 16 N. Y. 112, 69 Am. Dec. 665; Mann v. Butler, 2 Barb. Ch. [N. Y.] 362; Leech v. Harris, 2 Brewst. [Pa.] 571; Henry v. Jackson, 37 Vt. 431; Logan v. McNaugher, 88 Pa. St. 103. As a rule, actions cannot, unless permitted by statute, be brought by or against an unincorporated society or club by its name, but must be brought by or against all the members. See Lloyd v. Loaring, 6 Ves. 773; Schuetzen Bund v. Agitations Verein, 44 Mich. 313; Lewis v. Tilton, 64 Iowa, 220; Pipe v. Bateman, 1 Iowa, 369; Curd v. Wallace, 7 Dana [Ky.] 190, 32 Am. Dec. 85. And see Niven v. Spickerman, 12 Johns. [N. Y.] 401.—From Clark & M. Corp., § 22.

70. Organizations whose sole function is promotion of common interests of members are not co-partnerships. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

71. See 3 C. L. 346; see, also, Bolsot on By-Laws [2d Ed.].

72. Stein v. Mark, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 921. Civil courts are inclined to sustain rules and proceedings, and mere informality in removal, if for a just cause, is no ground for interference by mandamus. Crow v. Capital City Council, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 416. Where a member of a beneficial association is summoned for trial before a tribunal established by the laws of the association, and the member files an answer, employs counsel and appears at the meeting of the tribunal, but, for purposes of his own convenience, withdraws before his case is reached, and the trial is conducted in his absence in a fair and proper manner, and after conviction he does not ask for a retrial in the manner provided by the laws of the association, he has no standing to maintain a mandamus suit in a civil court to secure his reinstatement. Id.

73. Stein v. Marks, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 921.

74. Meeting not called by quorum of 7 members as required by by-laws, and no notice given. Stein v. Marks, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 921.

75. Mandamus is remedy when member seeks reinstatement, after improper expulsion; in this case member was denied rights without having been expelled. Stein v. Marks, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 921.

76. Presumed that quorum was present at lodge election for one year; and that election was held the following year. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

77. Where the affidavits on which the case was submitted consisted largely of conclusions and not facts, the proceedings should be sent to a referee to take the evidence of the witnesses on oral examination, and to report the same to the court, with his opinion. Gen. Corp. Law, § 27. In re Pleasant Valley Soc., 93 N. Y. S. 1106.

78. The relation is contractual, and courts will not interfere unless public interests intervene. Stein v. Marks, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 926.

the contract of membership, and consent thereto is necessary to constitute one a member.[79] In the case of a corporation, members' rights depend upon its powers derived from the state and set forth in its charter and by-laws and regulatory statutes.[80] By-laws inconsistent with the purpose of the corporation, and by-laws which provide for a forfeiture of the rights of membership in case of refusal to abide by such inconsistent by-laws, are unreasonable and invalid.[81] Thus a corporation organized for literary and social purposes cannot enforce by-laws, pledging support to a political organization and providing that only those abiding by such by-laws shall be members.[82] A provision of the regulations of the relief department of a railway, and of a member's contract, that a recovery for injuries or death against the company shall operate as a release of claims against the relief department is reasonable and valid [83] and is binding upon him and his beneficiaries or legal representatives, in case of his death.[84] Mandamus will lie against an incorporated association and its officers at the instance of a member, to compel the performance of an act insuring to the member his rights under the charter and by-laws.[85]

An incorporated beneficial association has inherent power to expel members who violate reasonable by-laws,[86] and are hostile to the association.[87] A by-law providing for expulsion for defamation of officers or members, causing dissensions and disorders in the organization, is reasonable.[88] Failure to pay assessments may terminate membership,[89] the validity of an assessment depending upon the rules and regulations of the association.[90] Courts will not generally prevent a regular expulsion for violation of a reasonable rule,[91] although they may refuse to aid in the enforcement of the rule.[92] A suit for reinstatement may be defeated by

79. Brokers' association which adopted new constitution, changed dues, and transferred assets to new organization, lost its identity, and an old member did not become a member of the new organization unless he assented to new constitution. Konta v. St. Louis Stock Exch. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 969.

80. Stein v. Marks, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 921.

81. Such by-laws infringe state Const. art. 1, § 1; prohibiting disfranchisement or deprivation of rights or property unless by law of the land or judgment of peers. Stein v. Marks, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 921.

82. Stein v. Marks, 44 Misc. 140, 89 N. Y. S. 921.

Note: As to the subject-matter of by-laws in general, including conformity to charter and reasonableness, see Boisot on By-Laws, Ch. III., §§ 80-86.

83, 84. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Ray [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 942.

85. The directors of a political club and the custodian of a list of members refused to grant a member an opportunity to inspect the list to institute measures to promote the objects for which the club was organized, and to prevent it from being used to further the political ambitions of any member of the club, and to oppose the election of incompetent public officials. McClintock v. Young Republicans of Philadelphia, 210 Pa. 115, 59 A. 691.

86. Del Ponte v. Societa Italiana di M. S. Guglielmo Marconi [R. I.] 60 A. 237.

87. Member of beneficial association who was hostile, attacking national council, refusing to obey its orders, and urging secession, held properly expelled. Crow v. Capital City Council, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 411.

88. Newspaper article attacking committee in charge of celebration, causing them to resign, and holding society up to ridicule, held libelous and ground for expulsion under the by-law. Del Ponte v. Societa Italiana di M. S. Guglielmo Marconi [R. I.] 60 A. 237.

89. Under by-laws of a beneficial association providing that a member failing to pay an assessment by prescribed time shall, ipso facto, stand disconnected from the association, one ceases to be a member on default of payment, and loses the right to participate in benefits. Delaney v. Kelly, 92 N. Y. S. 1021.

90. Suspension for refusal to pay an assessment levied to aid certain members out of work to the extent of $14, when the largest payment that could properly be made under the regulations and by-laws was $10, held unjustifiable. Moeller v. Machine Printers' Beneficial Ass'n [R. I.] 60 A. 591.

91. Charging less commission than that fixed by a rule of a stock exchange ground for expulsion, and mandamus will not lie to prevent it. Dickinson v. Board of Trade of City of Chicago, 114 Ill. App. 295.

92. Dickinson v. Board of Trade of City of Chicago, 114 Ill. App. 295.

laches,[93] and where expulsion is for nonpayment of dues, tender of dues, or an attempt to learn their amount, is necessary before a suit for reinstatement can be successfully maintained.[94] One who has forfeited membership in a beneficial association for failure to pay assessments in time cannot thereafter be compelled to pay the assessment.[95] An association is not estopped to deny that a person was ever a member, where such person alleges, in bringing suit to enforce rights of membership, that he did not know of his expulsion for nonpayment of dues, since he could not in such case have been deceived to his injury.[96]

Where the by-laws of a lodge are not strictly complied with, in the giving of a bond by one of its trustees, the acceptance by the lodge of the bond is a sufficient approval,[97] and the sureties on the bond cannot complain after such action by the lodge.[98] The bond of a trustee of a lodge in which annual elections are required, which provides that it shall continue in force so long as the trustee holds office by re-election or otherwise, is valid and enforceable according to its terms.[99] Sureties on a trustee's bond given to secure a lodge are not released from liability by a change or increase in the membership of the lodge,[1] nor by a change in the personnel of the board of trustees, their principal remaining a member thereof.[2] But a change in the by-laws, requiring a different kind of bond, is an implied release of liability on a bond of the former kind.[3]

§ 3. The association and persons not members.[4]—Members of an unincorporated association, not engaged in business as an association but organized only to promote common interests of members, are liable on contracts made by the association, if at all, only on the law of principal and agent.[5] Members of a political party, who pay monthly dues, are not personally liable to one employed by trustees to render services in connection with the publication of a party newspaper,[6]

93. Delay of over a year, during which seats, valueless when expulsion took place, became worth $7,500, fatal to relief in equity. Konta v. St. Louis Stock Exch. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 969.

94. Konta v. St. Louis Stock Exch. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 969.

95. Johnston v. Anderson, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 152.

96. Konta v. St. Louis Stock Exch. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 969.

97. Where the by-laws of a lodge provided that the trustees, before entering upon the duties of their office, should give a joint or several bond to the lodge, with three sureties to be approved by the lodge, the trustees might unite in a joint bond, or each trustee might give a several bond, and an acceptance by the lodge would be a sufficient approval. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

98. Approval of bond with two instead of three sureties. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

99. Claim that such bond was in force only for term for which trustee was elected—one year—held untenable. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

1, 2. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

3. By-law requiring joint and several bond of trustee released sureties on several bond of a single trustee. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

4. See 3 C. L. 347.

5. Not as members of a partnership. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

NOTE. Unincorporated clubs and societies as principals: When a number of persons become members of a club or society for social, political, religious or charitable purposes, without becoming incorporated, the law does not regard them collectively as a legal entity or artificial person, like a corporation, but merely as so many individuals, and it necessarily follows that the club or society as such cannot appoint or have an agent. Clark & M. Corp. 48. The members may appoint an agent, but in such case he is the agent of the members as individuals, and they are joint principals. Ray v. Powers, 134 Mass. 22; Willcox v. Arnold, 162 Mass. 577. It is well settled, however, that such an association, since there is no community of interest for business purposes, is not a partnership, and one member, or a majority of members, or an agent appointed by one member or a majority of members, has no authority to bind other members, without their assent. Such authority is not implied from the mere fact of membership. Clark & S. Ag., § 25. See, also, §§ 90, 91.

6. Hence action against treasurer not maintainable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1919, authorizing suits against president or treasurer of an unincorporated association of 7 or more, where associates are personally liable to plaintiff. Lightbourne v. Walsh, 97 App. Div. 187, 89 N. Y. S. 856.

since such trustees have no implied power to incur liabilities beyond the amount of the fund provided by the dues.[7] But where such fund is sufficient at the time of the employment of the plaintiff and a portion of it has been diverted to pay off liens on the plant, thus enhancing the value of property of the association, the association is liable.[8] A suit seeking to enforce payment of a debt out of trust funds of an association is not objectionable as one seeking to enforce a personal liability of members.[9]

§ 4. Actions and litigation.[10]—At common law unincorporated societies, whether organized for business or other purposes, are not entitled to recognition in the courts in their common name,[11] and cannot sue[12] or be sued[13] in such name. Suit must be brought in the name of the members, or in the name of a few as representing the interests of all.[14] Whether all members of such an association should be made parties should be raised by special, not by general, demurrer.[15] The right to sue an unincorporated association in the name under which it is known is frequently given by statute.[16] Statutes authorizing suits against such associations under the common name do not authorize suits by them under such name.[17] An unincorporated association whose only function is the promotion of common interests of its members, and which is not engaged in any business, as an association, cannot be sued under its common name by reason of a statute authorizing such suit against associations transacting business under a common name.[18] An action for a breach of contract made by such an association for its members must be brought against the members individually.[19] Trustees of an incorporated association, expressly authorized to commence suit on a bond, may sue thereon without joining the corporation, being trustees of an express trust.[20] Under the Maine statute a lodge may sue in the name of its trustees for the time being.[21] An assignment by a lodge to certain officers of a cause of action on a bond without consideration merely to sue for the benefit of the lodge, does not entitle the assignees to maintain the action in their own names.[22]

As to matters incidental to the operation of a voluntary association, members

7. Lightbourne v. Walsh, 97 App. Div. 187, 89 N. Y. S. 856.

8. In accepting the property after payment of liens by its agents, the association ratifies its agents' acts and thereby becomes liable. Hosman v. Kinneally, 90 N. Y. S. 357.

9. Enforcement of benefit on death of member of mutual benefit association. Pearson v. Anderburg [Utah] 80 P. 307.

10. See 3 C. L. 348.

11. It is well settled that, in the absence of a statute otherwise providing, to be entitled to conduct judicial proceedings in court, a party litigant must be either a natural or artificial person. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

12. Pearson v. Anderburg [Utah] 80 P. 307. St. Paul Typothetae, unincorporated association of employers, organized only to promote common interests, cannot sue under association name. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

13. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725; Pearson v. Anderburg [Utah] 80 P. 307.

14. Pearson v. Anderburg [Utah] 80 P. 307.

15. Plant System Relief & Hospital Dept. v. Dickinson, 118 Ga. —, 45 S. E. 483.

16. Held, that defendant could be sued under its name whether incorporated or not. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1101.

17. Gen. St. 1894, § 5177 does not authorize suit by St. Paul Typothetae as such. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

18. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37, organized by employes to protect common interests and not doing other "business," cannot be sued in common name under Gen. St. 1894, § 5177. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

19. St. Paul Typothetae v. St. Paul Bookbinders' Union No. 37 [Minn.] 102 N. W. 725.

20. Under Mills' Ann. Code, § 5. Hecker v. Cook [Colo. App.] 78 P. 311.

21. Rev. St. c. 84, § 28. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

22. Coombs v. Harford, 99 Me. 426, 59 A. 529.

may restrict themselves to tribunals created by the association;[23] but such a restriction is not binding when the enforcement of a contract or property right is involved.[24] Directors of a labor association, whose duty it is, under the rules and regulations, to decide important questions referred to them by different districts, are not authorized to settle grievances of individual members, and resort to them is not a condition precedent to the maintenance of an action by members for relief from illegal suspension.[25]

In New Jersey the doctrine applicable to service of process on agents of foreign corporations is applied also to agents of foreign unincorporated associations.[26] Thus service must be upon an agent having a representative character respecting the subject-matter of the litigation.[27]

§ 5. Dissolution and termination.[28]—Upon a dissolution of an association in the funds of which members have a pecuniary interest, such funds remain, in equity, the property of its members, and they are entitled to have the fund divided between them.[29] An unincorporated Lloyd's association of fire underwriters is subject to adjudication as an involuntary bankrupt.[30]

ASSUMPSIT.

§ 1. Nature, form and propriety of action.[31]—Assumpsit will not lie upon a sealed obligation.[32]

23. Pearson v. Anderburg [Utah] 80 P. 307.

24. As enforcement of benefit contract in mutual benefit association; here, resort to association tribunal is not a condition precedent to action in courts. Pearson v. Anderburg [Utah] 80 P. 307. Where property rights in an association are involved, a claimant is not obliged to exhaust the remedies by appeal within the association before bringing suit. Supreme Court of Independent Order of Foresters v. Mutter, 105 Ill. App. 518.

25. Moeller v. Machine Printers' Beneficial Ass'n [R. I.] 60 A. 591.

26. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1101.

27. Under P. L. 1903, pp. 545, 546, providing that service upon an unincorporated association may be made upon the president or any other officer for the time being or the agent, manager, or the person in charge of the business of such organization, service upon the local agent and route agent of an express company was held sufficient. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1101.

28. See 3 C. L. 348.

29. The "Old Volunteer Fire Department of Detroit" was incorporated by a special act of the legislature, which provided for the uses to which its funds should be devoted. The funds were derived mainly from members. After the purpose of the organization had ceased it dissolved and placed the funds in the hands of a trustee for a special purpose, which failed. Held, such fund did not escheat to the state but should be divided among the persons recognized as members at the time of the dissolution, and the personal representatives of deceased members. Hopkins v. Crossley [Mich.] 101 N. W. 822.

30. Bankr. Act, July 1, 1898, 541, § 4b; 30 Stat. 547. In re Seaboard Fire Underwriters, 137 F. 987.

31. See 3 C. L. 348. See, also, Contracts, 3 C. L. 805; and Implied Contracts, 3 C. L. 1690.

32. Brown v. Commercial Fire Ins. Co., 21 App. D. C. 325.

Note: Assumpsit in the common-law action for the recovery of damages for the nonperformance of a parol or simple contract. Although the action derived its origin from the provisions of the Statute of Westminster the second, and was formerly classed invariably among the actions on the case, it is now generally regarded as a distinct form of action, and in modern statutes and elsewhere is frequently mentioned, even in contradistinction to actions on the case, as belonging to the class of actions ex contractu. Holmes, Common Law, 274-288; Anson, Contracts, 39-42; Ward's Pollock on Contracts, 142-144; Chitty, Pleadings [16th Am. Ed.] 1, iii. According to the strict principles of the common law, assumpsit will lie only on a parol or simple contract. McKay v. Darling, 65 Vt. 639; Wood v. Edwards, 19 Johns. [N. Y.] 205; Codman v. Jenkins, 14 Mass. 93; North v. Nichols, 37 Conn. 375; Johnston v. Salisbury, 61 Ill. 316. But in several states this rule has been changed by statute and assumpsit will now lie where formerly the remedy was by debt or covenant. 2 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 988, 989.

Waiver of tort.[33]—Where the facts authorize such action, a party injured may waive the tort and sue in assumpsit.[34] But an election to proceed on contract is binding and precludes the party so electing from later resorting to an action in tort.[35] A statement by plaintiff in an affidavit in opposition to a motion for a change of venue that the action is in tort is not a binding election to proceed in tort, such statement having had no effect on the court's decision.[36] But where plaintiff obtains a reference on the faith of a formal declaration by him that his action is on contract and not in tort, such conduct is a binding election.[37] Where the gravamen of the complaint is on contract, the fact that there are allegations charging tortious conduct on the part of defendants does not make the action one sounding in tort.[38]

§ 2. The common counts.[39]—Wherever the facts are such that the law raises an implied promise, there may be a recovery under the common counts;[40] where the action is based upon an express contract, special assumpsit should be brought.[41] Where an executory contract is set out in the declaration, and no more is shown by the evidence, recovery for the breach cannot be had under the common counts.[42] But where it appears that the contract declared on has been fully performed, and nothing remains to be done by plaintiff, a recovery may be had under the common counts,[43] and the contract may be read in evidence to show its terms and the amount due.[44]

Goods sold and delivered.[45]—Indebitatus assumpsit lies where a contract of 33. See 3 C. L. 348, also Election and Waiver, 3 C. L. 1177.

34. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98. The owner of goods wrongfully taken from his possession may sue in tort for damages or waive the tort and sue for their value. Harter v. Pearson, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 304. Conversion may be waived and the transaction treated as a loan of money; as where one converts to his own use money, or property that by agreement was equivalent to money, placed in his hands for another purpose. Couter v. Pierson [N. J. Law] 61 A. 81.

35. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98. After satisfaction of a judgment in assumpsit the right to proceed in tort is gone. Harter v. Pearson, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 304.

36, 37. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98.

38. Price v. Parker, 44 Misc. 582, 90 N. Y. S. 98. A complaint alleging that defendants were intrusted with money for a certain purpose, and that after accomplishing such purpose defendants received and retained the money and converted it to their own use should be treated as ex contractu and not ex delicto, and a recovery permitted upon the theory of money had and received under an implied promise to repay it, the allegation of conversion being treated as surplusage. Logan v. Freerks [N. D.] 103 N. W. 426.

39. See 3 C. L. 349.

40. See Implied Contracts, 3 C. L. 1690. Where a payee of a note receives money which in fact belongs to another, the maker having misappropriated it to meet the note, the real owner may bring money had and received to recover from the payee, a promise to repay being implied. Porter v. Roseman [Ind.] 74 N. E. 1105. Wherever one person requests or allows another to assume such a position that the latter may be compelled by law to discharge the former's legal liabilities, the law imports a request to make such payment and a promise to repay, and the obligation thus created may be enforced by assumpsit. Barrett v. Armstrong [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 140. An item omitted by mistake, accident, or fraud, from a settled account between individuals, growing out of an ordinary business transaction, may be recovered in an action of assumpsit. Harman v. Maddy Bros. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1009. An asylum may recover on a quantum meruit for the expense of keeping an insane person whether the judgment of the county court committing him was or was not void. Hopper v. Eastern Kentucky Lunatic Asylum [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1187.

41. See 3 C. L. 349, n. 12. Where adjacent owners contract for the construction of a party wall at joint expense, and one party pays the entire cost, he may recover the proportion payable by the other under a special count on the agreement. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

42. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

43. Peden v. Scott [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1099; Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854. Indebitatus assumpsit where completed sale and delivery of fruit was shown. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

44. Contract for monument. Peden v. Scott [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1099. Action on building contract to recover proportion of cost of party wall. Evans v. Howell, 211 Ill. 85, 71 N. E. 854.

45. See 3 C. L. 349.

sale is fully executed and nothing remains to be done but payment of the purchase price.[46]

Use and occupation of land.—Assumpsit lies for the use and occupation of land, though there is no express contract of renting or agreement to pay for the use of the land.[47] But in order to recover in assumpsit, the relation of landlord and tenant not being shown to exist, plaintiff must make out title just as he would in ejectment, the foundation of the action being the appropriation by defendant to his use of plaintiff's property.[48]

Work, labor and materials.[49]—There can be no recovery for labor voluntarily performed, for which there was neither an express nor implied promise to pay.[50] Where, in a suit on a contract, the complaint contains the common counts, there may be a recovery for the value of work and materials furnished, if defendant accepted the work, though plaintiff did not fully perform the contract.[51] The value of medical services rendered a pauper may be recovered from the county on the common counts, if the county requested the rendition of such services.[52]

Money paid.[53]—Indebitatus assumpsit will lie for money paid which in justice and good conscience ought not to be retained.[54] Illegal taxes paid under protest may be recovered under the common counts.[55] Money advanced upon a contract subsequently abandoned by mutual agreement may be recovered under the common counts,[56] and where suit is on the common counts and the evidence shows that money had been advanced, there is no variance, though the bill of particulars is for money lent.[57] Assumpsit on the part of an heir who has paid the liabilities against an estate will not lie to obtain a joint judgment against the residuary heirs for their proportion.[58]

Money had and received.[59]—Wherever one person has in his hands money equitably belonging to another, that other may recover it by assumpsit for money had and received.[60] Thus the action will lie to recover from defendant money received by him from third persons to be returned to plaintiff,[61] or for money paid to defendant to be paid by him to a third person for plaintiff,[62] on default of defendant to perform the agreement. Money had and received lies to recover proceeds of property on which plaintiff had a lien, defendant having knowledge of the lien or of facts showing its existence.[63] The remedy is available where defendant

46. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 211 Ill. 539, 71 N. E. 1084.

47. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Ross, 26 Ky. L. R. 1251, 83 S. W. 635.

48. Evidence insufficient to show title. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Ross, 26 Ky. L. R. 1251, 83 S. W. 635.

49. See 3 C. L. 350.

50. De Montague v. Bacharach, 187 Mass. 128, 72 N. E. 938.

51. Matthews v. Farrell, 140 Ala. 298, 37 So. 325.

52. County of De Witt v. Spaulding, 111 Ill. App. 364.

53. See 3 C. L. 350.

54. As where paid under mistake of fact not arising from intentional neglect. Scott v. Ford [Or.] 78 P. 742.

55. Michigan Sanitarium & Benev. Ass'n v. City of Battle Creek [Mich.] 101 N. W. 855.

56. But there could be no recovery where plaintiff violated the contract, which was not abandoned, after making advancements. Murphy v. Dalton [Mich.] 102 N. W. 277.

57. Murphy v. Dalton [Mich.] 102 N. W. 277.

58. Such judgment is enforceable against any one of the defendants who may be again compelled to sue his co-defendants for contribution, thus prolonging the litigation. The remedy is in equity where a distribution may do complete justice. Calhoun v. Tangany, 105 Ill. App. 23.

59. See 3 C. L. 350.

60. Trustee entitled to recover overpayments to a firm creditor who had been partially paid by a member of the firm. Langhorne v. McGhee [Va.] 49 S. E. 44.

61. Money for tickets bought by plaintiff but not used by him. Fottori v. Vesella [R. I.] 61 A. 143. Plaintiff recovered, not what he paid originally, but such sum, less commissions, with interest to date of trial. Id.

62. Clark v. Jenness [Mass.] 74 N. E. 343.

63. Proceeds of cotton on which plaintiff had lien for rent of land. Link v. Barksdale [S. C.] 50 S. E. 189.

receives plaintiff's money without consideration and in consequence of the fraud of a third person, and it is no defense that defendant cannot be restored to his original position.[64] An action for money had and received may be maintained, though defendant has not actually received the money,[65] and it is no objection to the maintenance of the action that equitable principles are to some extent to be applied and that the money sought be recovered is impressed with a trust in the hands of the holder.[66] Unless some specific fund of plaintiff has been diverted by defendant, the action will not lie.[67]

§ 3. Declaration, pleas, and defenses.[68]—It is not necessary to state whether a contract declared on is oral or written, even though the law requires it to be in writing; and a statement of its terms is sufficient to show whether the defendant's promise was express or implied.[69] In a transitory action such as for goods sold and delivered, or for services rendered, it is not necessary to lay a venue in the statement of claim.[70] Where in suits commenced by the common counts the real cause of action is such that, to enable the parties to plead correctly and properly try the case, the plaintiff will be required to file by way of amendment a substitute complaint or complete statement of the facts showing the cause of action, the common counts drop out of the case.[71] But in some cases the common counts may remain in the case after the plaintiff has filed a bill of particulars.[72] The office of the bill of particulars in such case is not to supply any necessary allegation of the complaint, without which it would be insufficient upon demurrer, but to furnish a statement of the items of the claims which are generally described by the common counts.[73] After the filing of a proper bill of particulars a complaint containing the common counts is not demurrable for want of particularity; the remedy is by motion to make the bill of particulars more specific.[74] A complaint substantially in the form of a common count in assumpsit for goods sold and delivered and labor and work performed for a certain university upon defendant's promise to pay therefor is sufficient.[75] A statement of claim is sufficient which sets forth a sale and delivery by plaintiff to defendant at a given date of a certain quantity of merchandise, at a specified price, payable at a fixed time, the performance of a certain service upon defendant's agreement to pay the expense thereof, and the whole amount plaintiff believes is justly due from defendant.[76] A complaint alleging in two counts that defendant entered upon plaintiff's land and cut trees, and claiming and seeking to recover the value of the trees, is in assumpsit and not in trespass quare clausum fregit.[77] A suit by an attorney on a contract whereby he was retained to institute a proceeding to recover damages from a city in consideration of an assignment of eight per cent. of the damages recovered is a suit for money had and received to plaintiff's use, and not one to enforce an attorney's lien.[78] The existence of an attorney's lien on the award of damages would not bar a suit on the contract.[79] A complaint for money had and received is not sustained by

64. Mulligan v. Harlam, 92 N. Y. S. 765.

65. The contrary proposition cannot be sustained under the liberal rule of construction of pleadings laid down by the code. Staton v. Webb [N. C.] 49 S. E. 55.

66. Merino v. Munoz, 99 App. Div. 201, 90 N. Y. S. 985.

67. Where defendant, as guardian of complainant's children, collected a debt due complainant from third persons, complainant's remedy against such third persons was unaffected, and the action would not lie. Finn v. Adams [Mich.] 101 N. W. 533.

68. See 3 C. L. 351.

69, 70. American Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Smith Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 176.

71, 72, 73, 74. Hoggson & P. Mfg. Co. v. Sears [Conn.] 60 A. 133.

75. Worthington v. Worthington, 100 App. Div. 332, 91 N. Y. S. 443.

76. American Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Smith Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 176.

77. Hence Tennessee court had jurisdiction, though trees were cut in Mississippi. West v. McClure [Miss.] 37 So. 752.

78, 79. Flannery v. Geiger, 92 N. Y. S. 785.

proof that the president of the defendant partnership procured payment of the firm's debts with money of the plaintiff corporation, of which the firm president was secretary.[80]

§ 4. Evidence.[81]—In an action to recover money received by defendant from plaintiff through the fraud of the third person, evidence of defendant's good faith is inadmissible, a previous demand having been made.[82] An action being tried upon the theory that work, labor and materials were furnished by plaintiffs under the general authority and direction of defendants, and the jury having found such relation to exist, recovery was not upon a quantum meruit, and hence the admission of evidence of actual expenditures was proper.[83]

ASSUMPTION OF OBLIGATIONS; ASSUMPTION OF RISK, see latest topical index.

ASYLUMS AND HOSPITALS.

§ 1. Officers, their powers, duties and liabilities.[84]—The board of directors of a state asylum can confer on itself by by-laws no greater power than the statute under which it was organized gives it.[85] A power in the board of directors to elect a physician for a term is not power to remove him before the end of the term,[86] but he may be removed under the provisions of a general law providing for the removal of state officers who neglect or refuse to perform their official duties.[87] Courts will not prescribe rules for the government of state institutions unless those in force are unreasonable or subversive of the purposes for which the institution was established.[88] The power of the New York supreme court to direct officers of an orphan asylum to furnish relatives of persons under its care a copy of the records relative to such inmate is descretionary,[89] and will not be exercised when no possible benefit can result to the relative or inmate.[90]

§ 2. Maintenance of institutions and support of inmates.[91]—In New York where an illegitimate child intrusted to a foundling asylum by its mother is indentured out, the indenture will not be canceled at the instance of the mother.[92] The liability of asylums and hospitals for taxes is treated in a separate topic.[93]

§ 3. Liability of institutions or officers for injuries to inmates.[94]—Officers acting within the scope of their authority are not personally liable for holding a person regularly committed.[95] A railroad hospital operated by a corporation inde-

80. Powell Hardware Co. v. Mayer [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 1008.
81. See 3 C. L. 352.
82. Mulligan v. Harlam, 92 N. Y. S. 765.
83. Radel v. Lesher, 137 F. 719.
84. See 3 C. L. 352.
85. Wall v. Board of Directors of Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum, 145 Cal. 468, 78 P. 951.
86. Wall v. Board of Directors of Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum, 145 Cal. 468, 78 P. 951. That an election of a physician was not held on the date prescribed by the by-laws of a state hospital becomes immaterial on the question of the validity of the election when prior thereto the by-laws had been repealed. Id.
87. Wall v. Board of Directors of Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum, 145 Cal. 468, 78 P. 951.
88. Doren v. Fleming, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 81.
89. Under Laws 1884, c. 438, § 3. In re Shapiro, 92 N. Y. S. 1027.
90. Not at the instance of the mother of an illegitimate child placed beyond her power to regain custody of him. In re Shapiro, 92 N. Y. S. 1027.
91. See 3 C. L. 353.
92. Laws 1872, c. 635, §§ 2, 4. In re Shapiro, 92 N. Y. S. 1027.
93. See Taxes, 4 C. L. 1605.
94. See 3 C. L. 353.
95. Where commitment to state institution was regular and officers acted within the scope of their authority, held, parties participating therein were not liable in damages to person committed. Doren v. Fleming, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 81.

pendent of the railroad company, though maintained by assessments deducted from the employe's wages, is an organization distinct from the railroad company, and the latter is not liable for negligence of the hospital directors or physicians in treating an employe.[96]

ATTACHMENT.

§ 1. Definition, nature and distinctions.[97]—Attachment is a statutory remedy and the local statutes must be consulted, any seemingly general rule being so only by reason of similar enactments in various states. The remedy, while only provisional and ancillary in its nature,[98] is an action at law as distinguished from a suit in equity.[99]

§ 2. In what actions it will issue.[1]—The writ will not lie, before judgment, in an action against a national bank,[2] nor in a mechanics' lien suit commenced in a Federal court.[3] In order to bring a case within the attachment law, there must be a debt or claim, the amount of which may be definitely ascertained before the trial by a method of computation provided by the contract, or by the application of some statutory measure of damages plainly suggested by the recitals of the affidavit.[4] A debt, created by the decree of a court of equity for the payment of money only, will sustain the writ.[5] An attachment may be predicated upon an

96. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Buchanan [Ky.] 88 S. W. 312.

97. See 3 C. L. 354.

98. Fred Krug Brewing Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 101 N. W. 329; Hatcher v. Hendrie & Bolthoff Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267; Jewett Bros. v. Huffman [N. D.] 103 N. W. 408. False pretenses which are relied upon solely as a basis for the provisional remedy by attachment are no part of the cause of action and allegations in the complaint relative thereto are mere surplusage. Jewett Bros. v. Huffman [N. D.] 103 N. W. 408. A plea of infancy defeating the action, it dissolves an attachment issued in connection therewith. Wallace v. Leroy [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 243. Under County Ct. Rule 31, giving the defendant the right to open and close on his admission of plaintiff's cause of action except as defeated by proof of the facts of the answer, defendant is entitled to open and close where he admits plaintiff's right to recover the amount sued for, although he does not admit the truth of facts alleged in an affidavit for attachment sued out by plaintiff in aid of the principal action. Bell v. Fox [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 384.

99. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267. No writ of attachment can be obtained in a mechanics' lien suit commenced in a Federal court, because proceedings in equity and at law cannot be so combined. Id.

1. See C. L. 354.

2. It is immaterial whether the bank be solvent or insolvent. U. S. Rev. Stat. § 5242 construed. Van Reed v. People's Nat. Bank, 25 S. Ct. 775. This rule is not changed by 22 Stat. at L. 163, ch. 290. Id.

3. In the Federal courts proceedings at law and in equity cannot be so combined. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

4. Pearsons v. Peters [S. D.] 102 N. W. 606.

5. Costs taxed in appellate equity court. Cord v. Newlin [N. J. Law] 59 A. 22.

affidavit which shows facts supportive either of an action of assumpsit or an action ex delicto.[6]

§ 3. Right to and grounds for the writ.[7]—The ground for attachment must exist at the time the writ is issued.[8] In some states attachment will lie if the debt or liability which forms the basis of the writ was fraudulently contracted.[9]

Removal from state.—In most states attachment will lie if the debtor is about to leave, or is leaving the state or county with an intent to defraud,[10] or without paying or securing plaintiff's debt,[11] or without leaving sufficient property within the state for the payment thereof.[12] These statutes refer to the debtor's person and if he has left the state and established his residence in another before the writ is sought it will not lie, although he has left property in the state in which the attachment issued.[13]

Nonresidence.[14]—As a general rule attachment may be brought against a nonresident in any court in whose jurisdiction he has property.[15] Temporary absence is not nonresidence justifying attachment.[16] In some states, in certain proceedings, attachment may be made against a nonresident after two non ests.[17] One residing upon an Indian reservation in Idaho is a resident of that state.[18] An uncontradicted recital in a contract, upon which suit is commenced by attachment, that defendant is a foreign company, tends to establish its nonresidence.[19]

Attachment against corporations.[20]—In Ohio foreign corporations are in certain instances exempt from attachment.[21]

6. Where affidavit alleged that defendant was indebted to plaintiff in a sum certain, such sum being obtained from plaintiff by fraud and misrepresentation. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 113 Ill. App. 415, afd. 211 Ill. 310, 71 N. E. 1001.

7. See 3 C. L. 355.

8. Murphy, Grant & Co. v. Zaspel [Idaho] 81 P. 301.

9. Affidavit, after stating the material facts and defendant's liability, alleging that defendant "fraudulently contracted the debt and incurred the liability" upon which suit is brought is a sufficient statement of the ground of the attachment under Code 1899, c. 106, § 1, subd. 8. Elkins Nat. Bank v. Simmons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 893. Under such section an affidavit stating the material facts and alleging defendant's liability and that the debt sued on was by him fraudulently incurred is sufficient. Id.

10. Affidavit averring that defendant had stated that he was going to leave the state held insufficient under Code Civ. Proc. § 2906, subd. 2, providing that in such a case there must be an intent to defraud. Franke v. Havens, 102 App. Div. 67, 92 N. Y. S. 377.

11. Under Code, § 3878, subd. 8, making it a ground of attachment that one is about to permanently remove from the state, and refuses to pay or secure the debt due plaintiff, an allegation in a petition that defendant is about to leave the state and defraud his creditors is insufficient. Upp v. Neuhring [Iowa] 104 N. W. 350.

12. A petition charging that defendant was about to remove permanently out of the state is insufficient under Code, § 3878, subd. 3, making it a ground for an attachment that defendant is about to remove his property out of the state, without leaving sufficient property to pay his debts. Upp v. Neuhring [Iowa] 104 N. W. 350.

13. Brooks v. Hutchinson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 926. In Georgia the county is recognized as the division instead of the state. Id.

14. See 3 C. L. 355.

15. Under Code, § 445, attachment may issue against the property of a nonresident who is the defendant in an action in the supreme court of the District of Columbia. Bradford v. Brown, 22 App. D. C. 455.

16. Where defendant left and went into another state to secure employment until his crops should mature, and if the field should prove satisfactory to change his residence, held not a nonresident, his family still remaining within the state. Mahoney v. Tyler, 136 N. C. 40, 48 S. E. 549.

17. Under Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 9, §§ 24, 43, and 4, two returns of non est, made when the cause of action declared on was a claim for liquidated damages, cannot be utilized as the basis for an attachment issued upon a declaration which proceeds for the recovery of unliquidated damages, as to which cause of action no summons was issued and no returns of non est were made, especially in the absence of the affidavit required by § 4. Stewart v. Chappell [Md.] 60 A. 625. See 3 C. L. 355, n. 19.

18. Coey v. Cleghorn [Idaho] 79 P. 72.

19. Anglo-Wyoming Oil Fields v. Miller [Ill.] 74 N. E. 821.

20. See 3 C. L. 356. See Clark & M. Corp., § 772.

21. Foreign corporations engaged in interstate commerce business in Ohio, but not established in the state, taking advantage of Rev. St. § 148 d, c, are under § 5521 exempt from attachment. Armour Carlines v. Bigalow Fruit Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 161.

Fraudulent transfer or disposition of property.[22]—A conveyance of property made with fraudulent intent to cheat, hinder or delay creditors is ground for attachment.[23] Fraud is an essential element.[24] The fact that the sale hinders the creditors in collecting their debts does not render it fraudulent, unless such hindrance is a part of the intent with which the sale is made.[25] The proceeds of the sale being fraudulently withheld from the creditors, it will be inferred that the sale was fraudulent.[26] In order to have a fraudulent transfer, the debtor must be insolvent,[27] and the question of insolvency at the time of the transfer is generally one of fact for the jury.[28] As to what constitutes a fraudulent conveyance is treated elsewhere,[29] the few cases shown in the notes being kept solely for the purpose of illustration.[30] The burden of proof is on an attaching creditor to show the intent to defraud.[31] Negligence or unskillfulness in farming, by which the debtor wastes his property, is not a ground for attachment where there is no fraudulent intent.[32] There being two defendants and the affidavit not stating which is about to perpetrate the fraud, it will be treated as though in the plural; charging both with the fraudulent purpose.[33]

§ 4. Attachable property.[34]—The attachment debtor must have an attachable interest in the property [35] or the latter must be held in fraud of plaintiff's rights.[36] A deed from defendant being void on its face, the property is properly attached under a statute relating to the attachment of property standing in the name of defendant.[37] Neither the vendor of a conditional sale [38] nor his assignee [39] can have an attachment against the property of the purchaser to secure the payment

22. See 3 C. L. 356.

23. Though it be a valid conveyance between the parties and confers a perfect title. Farris v. Gross [Ark.] 87 S. W. 633. A disposal of property for the sole purpose of using the proceeds to pay the transferor's debts is insufficient to sustain attachment on the ground that he had disposed of his property with intent to hinder and delay his creditors. Blakemore v. Eagle [Ark.] 84 S. W. 637.

24. An instruction that if at the time the affidavit for attachment was made, the defendant was not about to convert his property into money for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors, then said attachment was illegally sued out, held correct. Bell v. Fox [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 384.

25, 26. Farris v. Gross [Ark.] 87 S. W. 633.

27. American Nat. Bank v. Thornburrow [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 771. Attaching creditor must allege and prove the debtor's insolvency. Hicks Co. v. Thomas [La.] 38 So. 148. Under Code Prac. art. 240, subd. 4, an intent to give an unfair preference is ground for attachment. There is an "unfair preference" where the creditor knew or had good reasons to know that the debtor was insolvent and the transaction gives the creditor any advantage over other creditors. Bank of Patterson v. Urban Co. [La.] 38 So. 561.

28. American Nat. Bank v. Thornburrow [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 771.

29. See Fraudulent Conveyances, 3 C. L. 1535.

30. Where the owner of property conveyed it to the surety on his bail bond and the latter did not incur any liability, but 10 months later at the transferror's request conveyed it to the latter's wife, held sufficient evidence of fraud to sustain the attachment. Brady v. Fraley's Adm'x [Ky.] 84 S. W. 750. An appropriation of firm property to the payment of individual debts is a fraudulent conveyance sufficient to sustain attachment. Reynolds v. Radke, 112 Ill. App. 575. Money paid upon legitimate claims, or claims supposed to be legitimate, at a time when the concern is supposed to be solvent, is not paid out in fraud of other creditors. American Eng. Spec. Co. v. O'Brien, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 550.

31. American Eng. Spec. Co. v. O'Brien, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 550.

32. Blakemore v. Eagle [Ark.] 84 S. W. 637.

33. Hare v. Cook, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 73.

34. See 3 C. L. 357.

35. Where one discounted draft and took bill of lading and, on the buyer's refusing to accept the goods or pay the draft delivered the goods to the seller to sell as agent, held, the seller did not acquire a title sufficient to render the goods subject to attachment by his creditors. Mather v. Gordon Bros. [Conn.] 59 A. 424.

36. Property fraudulently transferred is subject to attachment as though no transfer had been made. Rev. Codes, 1899, § 5052, construed. Salemonson v. Thompson [N. D.] 101 N. W. 320. In such a case the levy of the writ is deemed an election by the creditor to treat the conveyance as fraudulent. Id. A creditor may attach property conveyed by the debtor in fraud of creditors. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Huntington, 99 Me. 361, 59 A. 515.

37. Johnson v. Miner, 144 Cal. 785, 78 P. 240.

38, 39. Barton v. Groseclose [Idaho] 81 P. 623.

of the purchase price until the property itself has been exhausted. Where a bank collects a draft and sends it for collection, the fund so realized may be attached in a suit against the owner of the draft.[40] Unless one waives his exemptions,[41] exempt property is not subject to attachment, and the court has the power to set aside a levy made thereon.[42] In Ohio, in actions to recover for necessaries sold, attachment will lie to reach what is otherwise exempt property.[43] A fund of a life insurance company, being derived from assessments for the payment of death claims and being deposited in a bank, is liable to attachment by the beneficiary in a life policy whose claim has been approved.[44] Money proceeds of the sale of land which belonged to wards are subject to attachment in the hands of the clerk after the confirmation of the sale.[45]

Attachment of debts and choses in action.[46]—In many states the statutes provide for the "attachment" of debts due the defendant; this remedy corresponds to that of garnishment and is treated elsewhere.[47] By the common law, shares of stock in a corporation, being in the nature of choses in action, are not subject to attachment,[48] but in many states this rule has been changed by statute.[49] Statutes relating to subjects of attachment have no extraterritorial force.[50]

§ 5. Procedure in general.[51]—The procedure being wholly statutory, the local statutes must be consulted,[52] and, as the remedy is in derogation of the common law, must be strictly complied with.[53] As a general rule the application should show compliance with statutory conditions precedent.[54] In Pennsylvania defendant not being personally served, nor a resident of the county, and not hav-

40. Nashville Produce Co. v. Sewell, 121 Ga. 278, 48 S. E. 945; Henry v. Lennox-Haldeman Co., 116 Ga. 9, 42 S. E. 383 and High v. Padrosa, 119 Ga. 648, 46 S. E. 859, held inapplicable to the above case. Id.

41. Where defendant disclaimed ownership and attachment was discharged on motion, and then attached again, held that the first disclaimer did not waive his right to claim an exemption. Coey v. Cleghorn [Idaho] 79 P. 72. See Exemptions, 3 C. L. 1408.

42. Holmes v. Marshall, 145 Cal. 777, 79 P. 534. See Exemptions, 3 C. L. 1408.

43. Physicians service constitute "necessaries." Kraft v. Wolf, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 105. An allegation in the affidavit of "necessaries, to wit, groceries," held sufficient. McLane v. Colburn, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 257. Statement in the affidavit that the claim is for rent does not afford ground for a presumption that it is a claim for "necessaries." Hare v. Cook, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 73.

44. National Park Bank v. Clark, 92 App. Div. 262, 87 N. Y. S. 185.

45. Le Roy v. Jacobsky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796.

46. See 3 C. L. 359.

47. See Garnishment, 3 C. L. 1550.

48. Lipscomb's Adm'r v. Condon [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 392.

49. Code of 1899, ch. 106, § 9, held to make the above change. Lipscomb's Adm'r v. Condon [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 392. Capital stock in a domestic corporation is subject to attachment, although the certificate of stock be in the possession of the debtor outside of the state. Cord v. Newlin [N. J. Law] 59 A. 22. See Helliwell, Stock and Stockholders, §§ 396-402.

50. Shannon's Code, §§ 5260, 5267, authorizing the attachment of choses in action whether due or not due, and declaring inoperative and void any transfer, sale or assignment thereof after the levy of the attachment, can have no extraterritorial effect, so as to defeat the rights of a bona fide purchaser of a note in the state of Texas. Kimbrough v. Hornsby [Tenn.] 84 S. W. 613.

51. See 3 C. L. 359.

52. Massachusetts: In Massachusetts where mortgaged chattels are in the hands of a bailee of the mortgagor, they can be attached only under a writ of summons and attachment as if unincumbered. Rev. Laws, c. 167, §§ 69-78. Jenness v. Shreves [Mass.] 74 N. E. 312. Cannot be attached by trusteeing the bailee and summoning him to answer. Id. Mortgaged personalty in the possession of the mortgagee cannot be attached under Rev. Laws, c. 167, § 74, providing that mortgaged personalty in the possession of mortgagor may be attached as though unincumbered. Id.

Pennsylvania: The words "before that time" in the foreign attachment act (Act of May 10, 1889, P. L. 183), relate to the time when judgment is about to be taken, and not to the "third term." Sperry v. Styer, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 607.

53. Dye v. Crary [N. M.] 78 P. 533. Gaining jurisdiction by attachment is strictly a statutory proceeding and the statute must be followed in detail. Jones v. Fuchs, 94 N. Y. S. 57.

54. New York: Section 181 of the tax law, requiring foreign corporations to pay a license tax, does not prohibit the maintenance of an action by the assignee of a foreign corporation, hence an application by such assignee for an attachment need not allege compliance with such law. Box ing appeared in the action, the proceeding must follow the practice which is provided in case of foreign attachment.[55]

Jurisdiction.[56]—The test of jurisdiction is the status of the case at the time the action is commenced, and if there is sufficient in the complaint when it is filed to give the court jurisdiction, the attachment may rightfully issue and no subsequent proceeding in the court can effect its standing.[57]

Necessity of issuance of summons and service thereof.[58]—Issuance of a writ of attachment containing a summons clause is sufficient issuance of a summons.[59] Service must be made within the required time and a court has no authority to extend its jurisdiction by an order extending the time.[60] The service being by publication, the defendant not appearing and no property being attached, the court is without jurisdiction.[61] A general appearance by a nonresident renders harmless all defects in the service of process.[62] The execution of an attachment bond by defendant does not amount to an appearance giving the court jurisdiction to enter a personal judgment against him.[63]

§ 6. Affidavit and its sufficiency.[64]—Under the procedure of most states, an affidavit is essential to jurisdiction.[65] The affidavit must be made as near as practicable to the date of the issuance of the writ,[66] and must be sworn to by the plaintiff, his agent or attorney.[67] The secretary of a corporate plaintiff is not, by virtue of his office, the agent of the plaintiff for the purpose of making the affidavit.[68] An affidavit which, except for the heading, states every essential part of the complaint, including prayer for judgment, will serve also as a complaint.[69] A variance between the claim stated in the affidavit and the demand set up in the declaration is fatal,[70] unless it does not affect the character of the claim sued on.[71] Upon a motion to quash the attachment for such variance, the declaration may be

Board & Lining Co. v. Vincennes Paper Co., 45 Misc. 1, 90 N. Y. S. 836. Laws 1892, p. 1805, c. 687 not applying to contracts made without the state, the application by the assignee of a foreign corporation for an attachment in an action on a contract need not allege that the contract was made within the state. Id.

55. Sperry v. Styer, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 607.

56. See 3 C. L. 360.

57. Hunter v. Wenatchee Land Co., 36 Wash. 541, 79 P. 40. Where a complaint, when filed, contains sufficient averments to give the court jurisdiction, and an attachment of the defendant's property is rightfully issued thereon, the fact that plaintiff demurred to the answer, thereby admitting allegations of defense, is no ground for dissolving the attachment. Id.

58. See 3 C. L. 360.

59. This under Mansf. Dig. § 4967, providing that a civil action is commenced by filing a complaint and causing a summons to issue thereon. Handley v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 716.

60. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 638, service of the summons by publication must be commenced within 30 days after the granting of the warrant. Jones v. Fuchs, 94 N. Y. S. 57.

61. State Bank of Chicago v. Theweatt, 111 Ill. App. 599.

62. Where a nonresident makes a general appearance and makes a motion to vacate but does not traverse the allegations of nonresidence, and that he has property in the state, and that the cause of action arose in the state, the attachment will not be dissolved for failure of the affidavit for publication to allege that defendant, by due diligence, could not be found in the state, and because the affidavit did not give the grounds for his belief that defendant was a nonresident. Savannah Grocery Co. v. Rizer [S. C.] 50 S. E. 199.

63. Hilton v. Consumers' Can Co. [Va.] 48 S. E. 899.

64. See 3 C. L. 361.

65. Under Code 1892, § 486 et seq., where a bill in chancery for an attachment does not show that the debtor has any land in the state and does not join any persons having effects, etc., but merely personal property is levied on, and no bond or affidavit is given, the court has no jurisdiction; the proper remedy is sequestration. Advance Lumber Co. v. Laurel Nat. Bank [Miss.] 38 So. 313.

66. Murphy, Grant & Co. v. Zaspel [Idaho] 81 P. 301. An affidavit made 28 days before the commencement of the suit is insufficient, the ground of attachment being that the debt was not secured. Id.

67. P. L. 1901, p. 158. North Penn Iron Co. v. Boyce [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1094.

68. Under P. L. 1901, p. 158. North Penn Iron Co. v. Boyce [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1094.

69. Handley v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 716.

70. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833.

71. An attachment issued in a suit on a promissory note is sufficient in law, though resorted to for the purpose of establishing it, and a plea in abatement is not necessary.[72] A plea in abatement to an attachment which sets up only matter of variance, appearing from the declaration and affidavit without the aid of the plea, may be treated as a motion to quash.[73] Upon a motion to dissolve the complaint may be referred to to render the affidavit sufficient.[74] The court having jurisdiction, the sufficiency of the affidavits cannot be questioned in a collateral attack.[75]

Averments in general.[76]—The affidavit is not required to state the facts showing that the plaintiff is entitled to recover in the action as fully as they are required to be stated in the complaint,[77] but it is generally sufficient if the grounds of the action are stated with sufficient certainty to show that the cause of action is such as will permit an attachment to issue.[78] The affidavit being upon information and belief, it should set forth the sources of information and grounds of belief,[79] but being positively sworn to, it is sufficient if it is in the language of the statute.[80]

Averments as to nonresidence.[81]—The defendant being a nonresident, there must be a sufficient allegation of that fact.[82]

§ 7. Attachment bond or undertaking; terms.[83]—The undertaking must be signed by the plaintiff or in his name by his authorized agent,[84] and in this connection the fact that the undertaking need not be under seal is important.[85] Attachment being issued against the property of one of several co-defendants, the plaintiff's bond is properly made to such defendant and not to his co-defendents.[86]

the date of the note is stated differently in the petition and the amended petition. Orlopp v. Schueller, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 611.

72, 73. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833.

74. Germantown Trust Co. v. Whitney [S. D.] 102 N. W. 304.

75. Rogers v. Ingersoll, 93 N. Y. S. 140.

76. See 3 C. L. 361.

77. Germantown Trust Co. v. Whitney [S. D.] 102 N. W. 304.

78. Germantown Trust Co. v. Whitney [S. D.] 102 N. W. 304. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 207, requiring the affidavit to state a cause of action against defendant and to specify the amount and grounds of the claim, an affidavit that defendant is indebted to plaintiff in a certain sum and that plaintiff has a cause of action against defendant based on certain notes, and that defendant is a nonresident but owns certain real estate within the state, is sufficient. Id. Where the ground for an attachment is that the defendant fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the liability for which the suit is brought, the affiant should state the material facts relied upon to show the existence of such ground, and, if the facts are stated in a vague and uncertain manner and not sufficient to show that the debt was fraudulently contracted or the liability fraudulently incurred, the attachment should be quashed. Elkins Nat. Bank v. Simmons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 893.

79. Young v. American Bank, 44 Misc. 308, 89 N. Y. S. 915. Affidavit that defendant had departed with intent to defraud creditors, but not stating on what the affiant's belief was founded; and stating that diligent efforts had been made by his employes to find defendant, but did not state in what the effort consisted, and also stating that the employes had been informed that he had so left, without stating the employes told or who told them, and not containing the affidavits of the employes, is fatally defective. Lassen v. Burt, 92 N. Y. S. 796. An affidavit made by plaintiff's attorney alleging on information and belief that defendant obtained money of plaintiff by a forged draft, that deponent's information was telegraphic communications from his partner and from conversations with a detective, coupled with an affidavit of an employe of plaintiff's attorney that he heard defendant state to the magistrate that he desired to plead guilty, before a United States commissioner, to the charge made by plaintiff and that he did plead guilty, held sufficient to show a cause of action in favor of plaintiff against defendant under Code Civ. Proc. § 636. Mexico City Banking Co. v. McIntyre, 94 N. Y. S. 157.

80. 3 C. L. 361, n. 19. Affidavit that debtor "is actually removing without the limits of said county, or about to remove," being in the language of the statute, is sufficient. Brooks v. Hutchinson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 926.

81. See 3 C. L. 362.

82. An affidavit by an officer of a corporation stating that the affiant has personal knowledge of all facts therein, including the fact that the defendant was a foreign corporation, is a sufficient showing of such fact. Box Board & Lining Co. v. Vincennes Paper Co., 45 Misc. 1, 90 N. Y. S. 836.

83. See 3 C. L. 362.

84. Furness v. Calhoun [S. C.] 50 S. E. 194. A bond signed on behalf of plaintiff by an attorney of record on authority of a telegram from an associate attorney to the effect that plaintiff authorized him to sign the undertaking in his behalf is sufficient. Id.

85. Furness v. Calhoun [S. C.] 50 S. E. 194.

86. Bradford v. Brown, 22 App. D. C. 455.

Liabilities on bond.[87]—All damages sustained by reason of the attachment and which are secured by the undertaking must be assessed and recovered in a civil action upon the undertaking.[88] The attachment suit being dismissed and suit being brought on the bond, the plaintiff is entitled to recover reasonable attorney's fees for defending the attachment suit, together with such other damages as were proximately occasioned by the levy on plaintiff's property.[89] and this is so, though he was personally served in the attachment suit and the plaintiff in such suit paid the costs and returned the property.[90] Such reasonable attorney's fees may be recovered where the liability has been incurred, even though they have not been actually expended before the trial of the suit on the attachment bond.[91]

Actions on bond; evidence.[92]—The opinion of the appellate court in the attachment case is not admissible in evidence in an action on the attachment bond, it being admitted that the attachment was not successfully maintained.[93]

§ 8. The writ or warrant.[94]—Under a statute requiring the warrant of attachment to state the grounds thereof, a recital of grounds in the alternative is an irregularity rendering the warrant liable to vacation upon a motion to that effect;[95] but the defect is not jurisdictional, and the warrant is valid until vacated.[96] In New York an attachment not signed by plaintiff's attorney is fatally defective.[97] In New Mexico an alias writ cannot be issued.[98]

§ 9. The levy or seizure; indemnifying bonds.[99] Service of writ.—The fact that the service of a writ of attachment is informal cannot be taken advantage of by a third person claiming the property.[1] Service of the writ by an officer to whom it was not directed does not affect the validity of the service.[2] The provisions of the New Jersey attachment act with regard to the mode of serving the writ are directory only, and substantial compliance with them is sufficient.[3]

87. See 3 C. L. 362.

88. Mahoney v. Tyler, 136 N. C. 40, 48 S. E. 549. Such damages cannot be recovered in the attachment suit. Code, § 356, construed. Id.

89. Oakes v. Smith, 121 Ga. 317, 48 S. E. 942.

90. Roy v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 37 So. 641.

91. Oakes v. Smith, 121 Ga. 317, 48 S. E. 942. Where the uncontradicted evidence showed that defendant had incurred a liability for attorney's fees in defending the attachment suit, held, a new trial should be granted, it appearing that the verdict was generally for the obligor in the bond. Id.

92. See 3 C. L. 363.

93. State v. Parsons [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1019.

94. See 3 C. L. 363.

95, 96. Rogers v. Ingersoll, 93 N. Y. S. 140.

97. Code Civ. Proc. § 641. Lassen v. Burt, 92 N. Y. S. 796.

98. Dye v. Crary [N. M.] 78 P. 533.

NOTE. Power to issue an alias writ—collateral attack: The court issuing the alias writ of attachment was one of general jurisdiction, but the statute does not in express terms authorize an alias writ. The courts of the various states which have passed on the subject hold divergent views as to the issuing of alias writs of attachment when not provided for by statute, but the weight of authority seems to be in favor of the issuance of such writs. It is difficult to see why they should not issue in some cases, as, when the first writ has expired without being served or when it has been lost by the officer before being returned or when additional property belonging to the debtor has been discovered after the service of the first writ. Elliott v. Stevens, 10 Iowa, 418. Contra, Dennison v. Blumenthal, 37 Ill. App. 385. The dissenting opinion of Mills, C. J., was based on the ground that the granting of the alias writ of attachment was a matter of procedure, and the validity of its issue could not be questioned collaterally. The question is a disputed one, many courts holding that defects in following prescribed forms are jurisdictional and sufficient to reverse the judgment in another suit. Greenvault v. Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank, 2 Doug. [Mich.] 498; Heard v. National Bank, 114 Ga. 291. The supreme court of the United States holds that such irregularities cannot be questioned in a collateral attack. Voorhees v. U. S. Bank, 10 Pet. 449, 9 Law. Ed. 490; Cooper v. Reynolds, 77 U. S. 308, 19 Law. Ed. 931; Needham v. Wilson [U. S.] 47 F. 97; Darnell v. Mack, 46 Neb. 740. The general principles underlying this question are discussed in an article by J. R. Rood in 1 Mich. Law Rev. 645.—From 13 Mich. L. R. 315.

99. See 3 C. L. 364.

1, 2. Hawkins & Co. v. McAlister [Miss.] 38 So. 225.

3. P. L. 1901, pp. 158, 160, construed. Cord v. Newlin [N. J. Law] 59 A. 22.

The levy or seizure.[4]—Suit being brought against partners and the writ being directed against their property, levy may be made upon either their firm or individual property.[5] In an action against three defendants as partners, two of them appearing and the attachment issuing against them, a levy may be made upon the partnership property.[6]

The levy consists in the seizure, actual or constructive, of the property attached,[7] and it is essential to the lien created by the attachment of personal property that the property should be removed and held in the custody of the law.[8] Where goods attached are in a store, they must be removed within a reasonable time after they are ascertained;[9] but such removal need not be made before a schedule is made.[10] Where the property consists of real estate or is in the possession of a third person, the attachment debtor simply having an interest therein, statutes generally provide that the levy may be made by the giving of notice.[11] The same certainty is not required in an attachment levy as is required in an execution levy and sale, because the attached property is subject to further orders of the court before exposed to sale, and a levy sufficiently definite to identify it will hold it until the court can act.[12] A general attachment of all of defendant's real estate within a certain county is sufficient to attach all real estate owned by him and situated in the county.[13] A substantial compliance with the statute is sufficient.[14] Whether all or only a part of the goods in a store are attached is a matter of fact, and in determining the effect to be given to what was done, all the circumstances, including prior negotiations for a bond, may be considered.[15] The naming of the thing levied on is not controlling.[16]

Indemnifying bonds.[17]—In an action upon an indemnifying bond, the obligors cannot inquire into the merits adjudicated in the attachment proceeding.[18] The fact that there were other attachments upon the property does not relieve the obligors from their liability.[19]

4. See 3 C. L. 364.

5. Where suit is brought against H. & R. composing the firm of H. & R. and the writ is directed against the property of H. & R., it authorizes a levy upon either the firm or individual property of H. & R. Kleinsmith v. Kempner [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 409.

6. Rogers v. Ingersoll, 93 N. Y. S. 140.

7. Gilbert v. Estate of Yunk, 110 Ill. App. 558, quoting from Smith v. Packard [C. C. A.] 98 F. 793.

8. Gilbert v. Estate of Yunk, 110 Ill. App. 558, quoting from Smith v. Packard [C. C. A.] 98 F. 793. The officer must take actual possession of the goods on the writ of attachment, which is not required when the attachment is made by trustee process. Perry v. Griefen, 99 Me. 420, 59 A. 601.

9. Commonwealth v. Middleby [Mass.] 73 N. E. 208. The fact that the owner of the store and goods told the sheriff that some of the goods in the store were not his may be considered on the question of unreasonable delay in removing the attached goods. Id. The owner of the store and goods cannot testify as to the time it takes to remove them. Id.

10. Commonwealth v. Middleby [Mass.] 73 N. E. 208.

11. In Kentucky the levy of an order of attachment on one tract of land by giving the occupant a copy and posting another on it creates a lien on that land and affects the parties to the action, as well as subsequent purchasers. Civ. Code Proc. § 203, construed (Hatcher v. Wagner [Ky.] 87 S. W. 778); but such a levy cannot be extended to another and different tract so as to give a lien on it which would affect a subsequent purchaser, lessee or incumbrancer. Second tract was one-half mile from first (Id.). Levy on promissory note in the hands of a pledgee. Hardon v. Dixon, 91 App. Div. 109, 86 N. Y. S. 346. See Tiffany, Real Prop. p. 1314, § 571, as to the manner of levying on realty.

12. Scott v. Houpt [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1057.

13. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Huntington, 99 Me. 361, 59 A. 515.

14. Levy on corporate stocks. Scott v. Houpt [Ark.] 83 S. W. 1057.

15. Commonwealth v. Middleby [Mass.] 73 N. E. 208. An instruction that "if it had been understood by the owners * * * that nothing was attached but the sugar, * * * some remark of that kind would not have been made," is not an instruction that the question of what was attached depended upon what the owner understood was attached. Id.

16. Where one attached a note due defendant, in the hands of a pledgee, held to attach defendant's interest in such note. Hardon v. Dixon, 91 App. Div. 109, 86 N. Y. S. 346.

17. See 3 C. L. 364, n. 88.

18, 19. Meyer v. Purcell, 114 Ill. App. 472.

§ 10. Return to the writ.[20]—In some states the court to which the writ is returnable is designated by statute.[21] Though the description of the property attached be indefinite, the return is sufficient for jurisdictional purposes if it shows that goods of the defendant were attached on the writ in the state fori.[22] A return specifically describing a part of the goods attached is valid as to such part.[23] If the sheriff's return fails to show a legal execution of the writ, the return may be amended according to the facts,[24] but such amendment cannot relate back to the levy so as to cut off the right of an intervening purchaser.[25] An omission, from a return of the service of an attachment, as to whether a copy of the order was left with an occupant is a mere irregularity.[26] Statutory requirements as to the contents of the return must be complied with.[27] Irregularities in the return are not avoidable in a collateral attack.[28] In Maine the filing of a copy of the return in the statutory office is not a part of the process of attaching personal property.[29] The officer is presumed to have performed his duty,[30] and his return is presumed to be true;[31] if it is not, the party's remedy is by an action against him for a false return.[32]

§ 11. Custody, sale, redelivery or release of attached property.[33]—A forthcoming bond being given, a sale should not be ordered unless there is danger of probable loss to plaintiff by allowing the property to remain in the defendant's possession until the issues are tried.[34] Attached property being placed in the hands of a receiver and the latter being ordered to sell free from incumbrances, an injunction will lie to restrain a sale under the attachment, but the attachment plaintiffs are entitled to payment out of the proceeds if they have acquired a valid lien on the land.[35] Under a statute authorizing a sale upon the application of a party, an attaching creditor may withdraw his application for sale without thereby dissolving the attachment.[36]

When it is judicially determined, upon the trial of the attachment issue, that the attachment was wrongfully levied, the attachment debtor becomes entitled to a return of the property,[37] or the proceeds of a sale thereof,[38] without waiting

20. See 3 C. L. 365.

21. Georgia: Under Acts 1899, p. 389, any officer authorized to issue an attachment under the general law may make it returnable to the city court of La Grange. Brooks v. Hutchinson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 926.

22. Perry v. Griefen, 99 Me. 420, 59 A. 601.

23. So held where the officer attached all of defendant's goods in a certain building, later made a schedule of part and released the rest. Smith v. Wenz [Mass.] 73 N. E. 651.

24. Cord v. Newlin [N. J. Law] 59 A. 22.

25. Where return did not show a levy on all the property. Hatcher v. Wagner [Ky.] 87 S. W. 778.

26. Stillman v. Hamer [Kan.] 78 P. 836.

27. New York: Failure of the return to state the reason for failure to make personal service as required by Laws 1902, pp. 1518, 1519, c. 580, is fatal where the defect cannot be cured by reference to the warrant or other paper, and defendant does not appear. Silverman v. Davis, 90 N. Y. S. 405.

28. Stillman v. Hamer [Kan.] 78 P. 836.

29. Hence errors made in such return will not dissolve the original attachment. Perry v. Griefen, 99 Me. 420, 59 A. 601.

30. The return failing to show the manner of making the attachment, the law presumes that the officer performed his duty and complied with the requirements of the law, and the return will be held sufficient in the absence of countervailing evidence. Griffin v. American Gold Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 69.

31. So held on a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction. Perry v. Griefen, 99 Me. 420, 59 A. 601. So held on appeal from the taxation of costs. Smith v. Wenz [Mass.] 73 N. E. 651.

32. Perry v. Griefen, 99 Me. 420, 59 A. 601; Smith v. Wenz [Mass.] 73 N. E. 651.

33. See 3 C. L. 366.

34. Where the record did not show any necessity for a sale, or that the sureties on the bond were insolvent, held order of sale erroneous. Lee v. Newton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 789.

35. Beardslee v. Ingraham, 94 N. Y. S. 937.

36. Rev. Laws, c. 167, §§ 82-96, construed. Smith v. Wenz [Mass.] 73 N. E. 651.

37. Gilbert v. Estate of Yunk, 110 Ill. App. 558.

38. Under Code, §§ 372, 373, requiring that when the attachment is vacated the sheriff shall deliver to the defendant all the property attached and remaining in his hands, or the proceeds thereof, if it has for the determination of the other issues in the case;[39] but the failure of the sheriff to redeliver the property is not a default for which the plaintiff in the attachment suit is liable.[40]

§ 12. Forthcoming bonds and receipts.[41]—A forthcoming bond takes the place of the possession of the officer,[42] and where it is conditioned that the defendant will perform the judgment of the court, the power of the court or its officers over the property attached ceases, and the plaintiff can look only to the bond for indemnity;[43] but in cases where the bond is to the effect that the judgment of the court shall be performed, or that the property or its value shall be forthcoming and subject to the order of the court, the lien created by the attachment and the power of the court over the attached property subsist.[44] The effect of the bond is, however, largely regulated by statute.[45] Upon the determination of the attachment issue in his favor, the attachment debtor is no longer obligated under his forthcoming bond.[46] A forthcoming bond being conditioned to perform the judgment of the court, the defendant is thereby estopped to raise any question as to the regularity of the attachment,[47] and the validity of the bond does not depend upon the regularity of the attachment.[48] The liability on the attachment bond is one growing out of the contract,[49] and is dependent upon the terms thereof,[50] any action on the bond being, of course, ex contractu.[51] Forthcoming bonds which provide for and express the idea of succession in respect to obligees contemplate that whoever succeeds to the right of control over the right of action involving the subject-matter to which the contract relates shall be the obligee, and have a right of action to enforce the obligation.[52] In those states where an assignment for the benefit of creditors vacates the attachment lien, such an assignment does not vacate the obligation of a forthcoming bond pursuant to which the goods were delivered to the obligee and the attachment dissolved.[53] The amount of the bond been sold, the sales mentioned have reference to those made before the attachment is vacated. Mamoney v. Tyler, 136 N. C. 40, 48, S. E. 549.

39. Gilbert v. Estate of Yunk, 110 Ill. App. 558.

40. Mahoney v. Tyler, 136 N. C. 40, 48 S. E. 549.

41. See 3 C. L. 367.

42. Gilbert v. Estate of Yunk, 110 Ill. App. 558.

43. Lee v. Newton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 789; Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004. A subsequent order of the court discharging the attachment held a nullity. Id. Where such order sought to discharge the surety solely as a consequence following the discharge of the attachment, the order of dismissal does not render the order res judicata as to the surety's liability. Id.

44. Lee v. Newton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 789.

45. Under Rev. Code 1892, § 147, the lien of the attachment is not displaced by the execution of the forthcoming bond. Smith & Co. v. Lacey [Miss.] 38 So. 311.

46. Gilbert v. Estate of Yunk, 110 Ill. App. 558, afd. 214 Ill. 237, 73 N. E. 335; Horstman v. Little [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 286.

47. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004. 2 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5374, 5376, construed, and the latter section held only to apply to a case where the property was released without the discharge of the writ. Id.

48. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.

49. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234.

50. A forthcoming bond reciting that whereas a writ of attachment issued out of a certain court at the suit of G. and D., plaintiffs; and that by virtue thereof the sheriff has attached the property; and that if the property attached shall be forthcoming in answer to the judgment of the court in said suit, the obligation is to be void, held that the sureties are bound only in the case mentioned, though the bond recites that the same property is also subject to attachment writs in five other cases. Gilbert v. Estate of Yunk, 110 Ill. App. 558, afd. 214 Ill. 237, 73 N. E. 335.

51. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234.

52. American Surety Co. v. Campbell & Zell Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 531. A bond running to a receiver, "his successors and assigns" is not limited to another receiver, but includes succession in corporate control, so that on the termination of the receivership control over the action, the corporation is entitled to prosecute an action on the bond. Id. In such case the termination of the receivership control over the action does not discharge the surety on the bond. Id.

53. Pub. Laws 1902, p. 61, c. 984, § 4, construed. Eldred v. Awedisian [R. I.] 60 A. 677.

often determines the jurisdiction of a court over the action thereon.[54] In an action on a forthcoming bond, an unverified general denial admits the execution of the bond, but denies the other allegations of the petition.[55] A cause of action for wrongful attachment and one against the surety on the attachment bond for a breach thereof cannot be united in one suit.[56]

§ 13. Lien or other consequences of levy.[57]—By the levy one acquires a lien for the satisfaction of any judgment that may be recovered in the action.[58] This lien is terminated by a dismissal of the attachment suit,[59] but, if obtained in a state court, it is not lost or terminated by the removal of the cause to a Federal court,[60] and the power to protect and enforce such lien exists in the latter court in like manner as though it had been obtained by a proceeding in that court.[61] A temporary restraining order issued in a suit to stay the attachment proceedings does not operate as a release of the property from the custody of the officer, nor discharge the attachment lien.[62] The lien is lost, however, by the rendition of a simple money judgment, the court failing to enter an order directing a sale of the property.[63] The law does not favor abandonments, and, before an attachment lien will be deemed to have been abandoned, some affirmative act or conduct of the creditor must be shown which is clearly inconsistent with the continuance of the lien.[64] By making an agreement with other attaching creditors to prorate the property, an attachment lienor does not abandon his lien as to that portion of the property upon which the other attachment liens are declared invalid.[65] In the absence of a statutory provision regulating the continuance of an attachment lien, which has been confirmed in a judgment, the duration of the lien is the duration of the judgment itself.[66] A garnishee served under an attachment voluntarily surrendering the property, a judgment against him is not necessary to perfect the attachment lien,[67] nor is the lien defeated because the sheriff fails to make return of such delivery, where he retains custody of the property under the writ.[68]

§ 14. Conflicting levies, liens and creditors; priorities.[69]—An attaching creditor is not a purchaser for value,[70] and in the absence of fraud or statutory regulations, he obtains only such rights in the property seized as his debtor had at the time of seizure.[71] His rights, are, however, superior to those of subsequent assignees [72] or purchasers with notice [73] from the defendant.

54. An action against a surety on an attachment bond in the penal sum of $200 is not within the jurisdiction of the superior court. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234.

55. Dunn v. Claunch [Okl.] 78 P. 388. Held to deny an allegation to the effect that the property was delivered to the defendant, and also one to the effect that defendant had removed the attached property from the territory, and failed to surrender it to be sold to satisfy the judgment pursuant to the terms of the bond. Id.

56. Code, § 267, construed. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co., 135 N. C. 73, 47 S. E. 234.

57. See 3 C. L. 367. See 2 Tiffany, Real Property, p. 1314, § 571.

58. 3 C. L. 367, n. 49. Perry v. Griefen, 99 Me. 420, 59 A. 601. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 649, providing the mode of levying on real estate, the effect of the attachment is simply to create a lien on the property. Beardslee v. Ingraham, 94 N. Y. S. 937.

59. Horstman v. Little [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 286.

60. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267. So held where service was made by publication and the action was not one for which such service is provided by Federal practice. 18 Stat. 471, construed. Blumberg v. Shaw Co., 131 F. 608.

61. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

62. It merely prevents further proceedings during its continuance. Johnson v. Gillenwater [Ark.] 87 S. W. 439.

63. Moore, Schafer Shoe Mfg. Co. v. Billings [Or.] 80 P. 422.

64. Stillman v. Hamer [Kan.] 78 P. 836.

65. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

66. Stillman v. Hamer [Kan.] 78 P. 836.

67, 68. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

69. See 3 C. L. 368.

70. 3 C. L. p. 368, n. 61. Leonard v. Fleming [N. D.] 102 N. W. 308.

71. Berz v. Mecartney, 115 Ill. App. 66; Lipscomb's Adm'r v. Condon [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 392. An unregistered transfer of cor-

Priorities between attachments and mortgages.[74]—The presumption of fraud which arises against a mortgagee who does not take immediate possession is not available to one who attaches the property after the mortgagee has taken possession.[75] Statutes prescribing the method by which a chattel mortgagee may preserve his rights must be strictly complied with.[76]

Priority between attachments and receivers.[77]—The attachment lien is superior to the right of a subsequently appointed receiver for the debtor.[78]

Effect of bankruptcy proceedings.[79]—An adjudication in bankruptcy annuls an attachment lien obtained within four months prior to the filing of the petition,[80] unless the bankruptcy court orders such lien preserved for the benefit of the estate.[81] Bankruptcy proceedings do not affect an attachment lien upon property exempt as against the trustee but not exempt from seizure for the debt upon which the attachment is based.[82] It being conceded that part and possibly all of the property attached is exempt from the bankruptcy proceedings, it may be held under the attachment until the question is determined in the bankruptcy proceedings.[83] An attachment lien being unaffected by bankruptcy proceedings against the debtor, the discharge in bankruptcy does not prevent the attaching creditor from entering up judgment and recovering from the sureties on the forthcoming bond.[84]

porate stock, if made for a valuable consideration and without fraud, vests in the transferee a title superior to that acquired by a subsequent attaching creditor of the transferror. Id. Purchaser at sale held to acquire no title as against a deed delivered before the levy and recorded after the attachment and before judgment. Leonard v. Fleming [N. D.] 102 N. W. 308. Where the vendor of property assigned his claim for payment and an action was subsequently brought against the vendor and the property attached, the vendee when sued by the assignee is not entitled to have the attachment creditors interpleaded. Michigan Sav. Bank v. Coy, Hunt & Co., 45 Misc. 40, 90 N. Y. S. 814. Transfer of property to a secured creditor, the property to be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of the creditor's debt held not fraudulent and valid as against a subsequent attaching creditor, though the property was not included in the deed of trust given the secured creditor. Blakemore v. Eagle [Ark.] 84 S. W. 637. Where a deed by a husband and wife was made in good faith and was not fraudulent, it was superior to a subsequent attachment by a creditor of the grantors, irrespective of whether the property conveyed was a homestead at the time of the conveyance. Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Yawter [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 407. Property must be taken subject to all lawfully existing liens created by his debtors. Milligan v. Plymouth State Bank, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 585. Want of notice in the garnishee will not defeat an assignee's interest in the debt in favor of an attaching creditor. Id.

72. An interplea setting up a claim based upon an assignment made after the attachment has been levied is properly denied. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 113 Ill. App. 415, 211 Ill. 310, afd. 71 N. E. 1001.

73. A purchaser of land, with notice of an attachment lien thereon takes it subject to such lien, and occupies no better position to contest the validity of the lien than the grantor would have had. Stillman v. Hamer [Kan.] 78 P. 836.

74. See 3 C. L. 369.

75. The presumption of fraud referred to is raised by statute in Nebraska. Fred Krug Brewing Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 101 N. W. 329.

76. Under Pub. St. 1882 c. 161, § 75, requiring a mortgagee of chattels to give a true statement of the amount due to the attaching creditor in order to work a dissolution of the attachment, an excessive statement made through inadvertance does not dissolve the attachment, especially where the value of the property exceeds the amount due. Cousins v. O'Brien [Mass.] 74 N. E. 289.

77. See 3 C. L. 369.

78. National Park Bank v. Clark, 92 App. Div. 262, 87 N. Y. S. 185.

79. See 3 C. L. 370. See, also, Bankruptcy, 3 C. L. 434.

80. See 3 C. L. 370, n. 95. See, also, American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Huntington, 99 Me. 361, 59 A. 515.

81. Bankr. Act 1898, c. 541, § 67f. Receivers of Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. v. Staake [C. C. A.] 133 F. 717. See Bankruptcy, 3 C. L. 434.

82. Jewett Bros. v. Huffman [N. D.] 103 N. W. 408.

83. Jewett Bros. v. Huffman [N. D.] 103 N. W. 408. The fact that the warrant of attachment has been levied upon the property of the bankrupt does not authorize the trustee in bankruptcy to intervene in the action in which the attachment issued for the purpose of obtaining possession of the attached property. Id.

84. Smith & Co. v. Lacey [Miss.] 38 So. 311.

§ 15. Enforcement and dissolution, discharge, vacation, or abandonment of attachment.[85]—A suit to enforce an attachment lien obtained in a former action in the same court, and to subject the attached property, or the proceeds of its sale, to the satisfaction of a judgment recovered in that action, is merely supplementary to the former action,[86] and is a continuation thereof so far as the question of jurisdiction is concerned.[87] Where the original suit was removed from a state to a Federal court, the fact that the proceeds of the sale of the attached property are not in the actual custody of the latter does not make the second suit an original one.[88] The right of plaintiff to sue in his own and the sheriff's name to enforce the lien is largely statutory.[89] The attaching creditor may be deemed to have abandoned his lien by laches in instituting proceedings to enforce it,[90] or by prosecuting other judicial remedies inconsistent therewith.[91] By a general appearance one waives the right to move to quash the writ.[92]

(§ 15) A. Validity and grounds for setting aside.[93]—The affidavit of attachment stating that defendant, a nonresident, has no property subject to execution except that attached, the attachment will not be dissolved on the affidavit of defendant that he is amply able to respond to any judgment that may be recovered.[94]

(§ 15) B. Procedure.[95]—It is discretionary with the court to advance the hearing of the attachment issue.[96] In some courts it is necessary to file a declaration in attachment at the term to which the suit is returnable.[97] There being a general attachment and the record not showing what property is claimed to be covered thereby, the plaintiff should make a written motion for judgment particularly describing the property against which judgment is desired,[98] and if such property is claimed to have been conveyed in fraud of plaintiff, the motion should be supported by the affidavit of plaintiff or his attorney to that effect, and that the property was covered by the attachment.[99]

Upon a motion to dismiss or vacate, defendant cannot be permitted to try the cause upon the merits.[1] The motion to vacate need not be made upon the

85. See 3 C. L. 370.

86. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

87. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267. The original suit having been removed from a state to a Federal court, the second suit may be maintained as an incident to the jurisdiction already vested without regard to citizenship or residence of the parties. Id.

88. This because the effect of the former action was to bring the property potentially within the jurisdiction of the Federal court. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co., [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

89. New York: Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 677, 678, providing plaintiff, by leave of the court or judge may bring in his own name and that of the sheriff jointly any action which might be brought by the sheriff to recover a demand attached, the leave of court referred to means the court in which the action is brought, and not the court of which the officer who issued the warrant is a member. Rogers v. Ingersoll, 93 N. Y. S. 140.

90. Delay which cannot give rise to an inference of abandonment, and which results in no advantage to the attaching creditor or injury to the opposing party does not constitute such laches as will bar the right to enforce the lien. Hatcher v. Hendrie & B. Mfg. & Supply Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 267.

91. Where defendant died, cause was revived against his administrator and judgment was entered for plaintiff, the latter by proving his claim against the estate was held to have abandoned the attachment levy. Lafferty v. Lafferty [Mich.] 102 N. W. 626.

92. Cord v. Newlin [N. J. Law] 59 A. 22.

93. See 3 C. L. 370.

94. Hunter v. Wenatchee Land Co., 36 Wash. 541, 79 P. 40.

95. See 3 C. L. 371.

96. Dickinson v. Morgenstern, 111 Ill. App. 543.

97. Georgia: In a suit by attachment in the city court of Lexington it is necessary to file a declaration in attachment at the term to which the suit is returnable, in like manner as though the suit were in the superior court. Any judgment ordered without such a declaration is a nullity. Callaway v. Maxwell [Ga.] 51 S. E. 320.

98, 99. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Huntington, 99 Me. 361, 59 A. 515.

1. Germantown Trust Co. v. Whitney [S. D.] 102 N. W. 304. The evidence being conflicting, the court will not on a motion to vacate determine the merits of the contro-return day.[2] An order vacating a warrant of attachment being made upon the merits, the general rule of practice requiring specification of the irregularity relied upon does not apply.[3] The motion to dissolve should specify the grounds upon which it is based.[4] The notice of such motion stating that it is based upon an affidavit denying the truth of the attachment affidavit, it sufficiently shows that the ground for the motion is the falsity of the latter affidavit.[5] Defendant's affidavit putting in issue the facts alleged in the attachment affidavit, the burden is upon the plaintiff to prove that the attachment affidavit is true.[6] One may move to quash the levy, even though he has made a general appearance in the action.[7] Defendant on a hearing of his motion to dissolve cannot strike out his verified statement that he did not own the property,[8] and such statement is sufficient to defeat the motion.[9] The filing of an amended declaration changing the form of one's action from tort to assumpsit is not an irregularity open to attack by an interpleader whose rights have been acquired pendente lite.[10] In Georgia a plea of breach of warranty or recoupment to an attachment for purchase money in a justice's court need not be in writing.[11] In Illinois there is no statute requiring the reference of an attachment issue to an auditor.[12]

Evidence.[13]—Statements by defendant of his intent to defraud plaintiff are admissible.[14]

Judgment and decree or order.[15]—A judgment obtained against a nonresident, where the jurisdiction rests only upon service by publication and the seizure of defendant's property, has the same conclusive effect, to the extent of his interest in the property seized, as a judgment rendered upon personal service.[15] Judgment in attachment being rendered against defendant prior to the trial of the garnishment issue, such judgment is final only in the sense that it binds such defendant to the extent of any debt due him from, or property held for him by, the garnishee at the time of the service of the attachment writ.[17] A ruling made upon a motion to dissolve an attachment is not res judicata of the facts involved therein, as against one who, though a party to the proceedings at the time of the ruling, is dismissed therefrom by the final judgment entered in the action.[18] An order denying a motion to dissolve upon one ground is not res judicata of the right to have the attachment dissolved upon another ground.[19] An order overruling a motion to quash is an interlocutory,[20] but appealable order,[21] and does not versy but will deny the motion. Where motion was based on fact that alleged agency did not exist and the evidence was such that the agency might be established on trial, the motion was denied. Norden v. Duke, 94 N. Y. S. 878.

2. Code of Civ. Proc. §§ 2916, 2917, construed. Franke v. Havens, 102 App. Div. 67, 92 N. Y. S. 377.

3. Norden v. Duke, 94 N. Y. S. 878.

4. Hare v. Cook, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 73.

5, 6. Jones v. Hoefs [N. D.] 103 N. W. 751.

7. Cord v. Newlin [N. J. Law] 59 A. 22.

8, 9. People's Nat. Bank v. Morris [Kan.] 80 P. 586.

10. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 211 Ill. 310, 71 N. E. 1001, afg. 113 Ill. App. 415.

11. Casey v. Crane & Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 92.

12. Though main action is one of account. Dickinson v. Morgenstern, 111 Ill. App. 543.

13. See 3 C. L. 372.

14. The affidavit alleging that defendant was about to transfer his property in fraud of creditors, evidence that after defendant's offer of compromise was rejected he stated that if the suit went against him he would assign or get rid of his property so that there would be little left, is admissible. Schnull v. Cuddy [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1030.

15. See 3 C. L. 373.

16. Salemonson v. Thompson [N. D.] 101 N. W. 320.

17. State Bank of Chicago v. Theweatt, 111 Ill. App. 599.

18. Fred Krug Brewing Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 101 N. W. 329.

19. So held where the first motion was based on an offer by defendant to give security and the second motion was based on the alleged falsity of the affidavit. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.

20. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833; Elkins Nat. Bank v. Simmons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 893.

21. Elkins Nat. Bank v. Simmons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 893. Id.

preclude a renewal of the motion.[22] Such second motion may be made by one who did not participate in the first.[23]

Appeal.[24]—Where a justice has jurisdiction and renders judgment in favor of the garnishee in an attachment proceeding, the defendant in the original attachment proceeding may appeal therefrom.[25] The dismissal of an appeal from an order purporting to discharge the attachment is in effect an affirmance of the order.[26] Judgment being entered against the defendant and the surety on his forthcoming bond, an order striking from the record so much of the judgment as awarded a recovery against the surety is appealable,[27] and the surety having appeared in the action, a notice of appeal, given in open court, obviates the necessity of service of a written notice of appeal.[28]

§ 16. Other remedies.—Where the grounds stated in a petition for attachment are insufficient, a motion to dissolve the writ is not the only remedy; replevin is generally held to lie.[29] In Iowa it is not necessary for defendant in the attachment to give a notice of ownership before bringing replevin.[30]

§ 17. Hostile and opposing claims to attached property.[31]—Where property is claimed by lienors, the only question that can be determined in the action is the right of possession.[32] A resident interpleading is not entitled to a preference over a nonresident.[33] The mere right of a simple-contract creditor to have his debt satisfied cannot be asserted by interpleading in an attachment suit.[34] A prior lienor cannot resort to equity to stay proceedings under a subsequent lienor's judgment and recover possession of the property.[35] A claimant is not always confined to the ground upon which he bases his claim.[36] Plaintiff by joining issue on a claim to the property when filed waives his right to have the claim dismissed as improperly filed.[37] One having the mere possession of property cannot, by failing to compel interpleader or by failing to suggest that another is the true owner, bar the rightful owner of the right to assert his title thereto.[38]

Pleading.[39]—The pleadings must not be uncertain or inconsistent.[40]

Evidence and questions for the jury[41]—The self-serving declaration of a husband is inadmissible against his wife in a subsequent attachment suit against him, the wife claiming title adversely to the husband.[42] An attaching creditor

22. Simmons v. Simmons [W. Va.] 48 S. E. 833.
23. Elkins Nat. Bank v. Simmons [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 893.
24. See 3 C. L. 373.
25. Gilray v. Metropolitan Nat. Bank, 113 Ill. App. 485.
26. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.
27. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6500, subd. 7. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.
28. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5374, 5375. Brady v. Onffroy [Wash.] 79 P. 1004.
29. Held to lie under a statute authorizing replevin for personal property unlawfully detained. Upp v. Neuhring [Iowa] 104 N. W. 350.
30. Code, §§ 3991, 3906, construed. Upp v. Neuhring [Iowa] 104 N. W. 350.
31. See 3 C. L. 373.
32. The priority of liens cannot be determined. Groesbeck v. Evans [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 430.
33, 34. May v. Disconto Gesellschaft, 211 Ill. 310, 71 N. E. 1001, afg. 113 Ill. App. 415.
35. Chattel mortgagees have an adequate remedy at law by replevin to recover possession of the mortgaged property when the same is attached to enforce a laborer's lien, which by Kirby's Dig. § 5011 is subordinate to the mortgage lien. Johnson v. Gillenwater [Ark.] 87 S. W. 439.
36. Where a claimant bases his right on a transfer of the property to him from his tenant in satisfaction of his landlord's lien, if he fails to show a valid transfer he may yet recover on showing a valid lien and that he was in possession at the time of levy. Groesbeck v. Evans [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 430.
37, 38. Canty v. Wood [Miss.] 38 So. 315.
39. See 3 C. L. 374.
40. Where on attachment of property as belonging to a tenant the landlord filed a claimant's affidavit and a pleading alleging that he was a lienholder in possession of the property at the time it was levied on for supplies advanced while growing the crop, and that in satisfaction of such lien indebtedness the property had been transferred and delivered to him, held sufficient on general demurrer. Groesbeck v. Evans [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 430.
41. See 3 C. L. 374.
42. Declaration was made in prior attachment suit against husband. Vermillion v. Parsons, 101 Mo. App. 602, 73 S. W. 994.

attacking the conveyance as fraudulent has the burden of proof.[43] The claimant's title being a question of fact, it is for the jury.[44]

Trial.[45]—In West Virginia, where persons claiming the property attached or some interest in it are admitted as parties in the cause, their claim is to be tried by a jury impaneled for the purpose, and it is error for the court to pass upon their claims without the intervention of a jury.[46] Waiver of the right of trial by jury must be by consent entered of record.[47]

§ 18. Wrongful attachment.[48]—One seizing property under a void writ[49] or seizing property belonging to a person other than defendant[50] is liable for wrongful attachment.

The bailee of property[51] or a lienor in possession[52] may maintain an action for wrongful attachment, and in the latter case it is not necessary to set out the particulars of the lien in the petition.[53] It is no defense that plaintiff's title was acquired in fraud of execution creditors.[54] Where two attachments are issued at practically the same time and both are subsequently dissolved, a settlement by the defendant with the second attaching creditor does not relieve the first attachment creditor for injuries occasioned by his attachment.[55] Reconvention for damages while the attachment suit is pending is an exceptional remedy, but is allowed in some jurisdictions.[56]

Pleading.[57]—In an action for wrongful seizure, allegations in the complaint stating facts from which both malice and want of probable cause will be inferred are tantamount to specific allegations of malice and want of probable cause.[58]

Evidence and questions of fact.[59]—The officer's return showing the seizure and sale is competent evidence on behalf of plaintiff as tending to establish the 43. Hicks Co. v. Thomas [La.] 38 So. 148.

44. Stone v. Cassidy [Ark.] 87 S. W. 621.

45. See 3 C. L. 374.

46. Code of 1899, ch. 106, § 23. Lipscomb's Adm'r v. Condon [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 392. In such case it is reversible error to hear and determine the issue upon the petition, and answer thereto, and depositions of witnesses, according to the rules and principles governing courts of equity. Id.

47. Lipscomb's Adm'r v. Condon [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 392. It cannot be merely inferred from the fact that the court tried the case without objection. Id.

48. See 3 C. L. 374.

49. Where justice's signature was placed on writ without his authority and plaintiff ratified and adopted the issuance and execution of the writ, held plaintiff was liable for wrongful attachment. Sanger Bros. v. Brandon [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 431.

50. Farmers' & Traders' Nat. Bank v. Allen-Holmes Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 816. If such property is sold under the attachment proceedings the owner is entitled to recover damages for such unlawful seizure and sale. Id.

51. Vermillion v. Parsons, 101 Mo. App. 602, 73 S. W. 994.

52. May maintain conversion. Fred Krug Brewing Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 101 N. W. 329.

53. Fred Krug Brewing Co. v. Healey [Neb.] 101 N. W. 329.

54. Shoup v. Marks [C. C. A.] 128 F. 32.

55. Ceraline Mfg. Co. v. Anthracite Beer Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 94.

56. Iowa: Under Code, § 3887, providing that defendant may, in the attachment suit, interpose a counterclaim for damages on the bond, such counterclaim is not available to him if his right of action therefor has not accrued from damages which he has suffered, but has been acquired by assignment of a cause of action for damages accrued to another person by reason of a levy under attachment in such suit. Morrison Mfg. Co. v. Rimerman [Iowa] 104 N. W. 279.

NOTE: The doctrine of reconvention is recognized and applied in the following cases. Hencke v. Johnson, 62 Iowa, 555; Campbell v. Chamberlain, 10 Iowa, 337; Lowenstein v. Monroe, 55 Iowa, 82; Cole v. Smith, 83 Iowa, 579; Hardeman v. Morgan, 48 Tex. 103; Baker v. Abbott, 2 Tex. Civ. App. 147; Turner v. Lytle, 59 Md. 199; Raymond v. Green, 12 Neb. 215, 41 Am. Rep. 763; Plunkett v. Sauer, 101 Pa. 356. The general rule, however, is that no action to recover damages for a wrongful or a malicious attachment can be maintained until the final determination of the attachment suit; and the plaintiff, in order to recover, must show that such suit was decided in his favor or that the attachment has been dismissed, dissolved or abandoned. Sloan v. McCracken, 7 Lea [Tenn.] 626. Hansford v. Perrin, 6 B. Mon. [Ky.] 595; Kamer v. Thompson-Houston Elec. Light Co., 95 N. C. 277; Nolle v. Thompson, 3 Metc. [Ky.] 121; Kennedy v. Meacham, 18 F. 312; Dunning v. Humphrey, 24 Wend. [N. Y.] 31.—From note to Tisdale v. Major [Iowa] 68 Am. St. Rep. 266, 267.

57. See 3 C. L. 375.

58. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 571.

59. See 3 C. L. 375.

value of the goods.[60] Evidence that defendant offered to pay the indebtedness less certain damages is admissible on the issue of malice.[61] Statements by agents are generally admissible.[62]

Instructions.—The general rules as to instructions apply.[63]

Damages.[64]—Unless a malicious motive induced the attachment or there are circumstances of oppression,[65] the damages are confined to reimbursement for the loss.[66] No actual damages being shown, exemplary damages cannot be recovered.[67] The approved measure of damages for the wrongful attachment of personal property is the value of the property when taken,[68] unless the owner replevied the same within a short time after seizure.[69] The market value of a stock of goods wrongfully taken from its owner is to be ascertained by what it would cost to replace the merchandise in his store; that is, the wholesale price plus the cost of carriage from the jobbing market to the place of seizure;[70] but if the goods are old and shopworn, the jobbing price of similar new goods could be only a relevant circumstance.[71] In a suit for damages for wrongful attachment, the plaintiff is entitled to recover reasonable attorney's fees paid in defending the attachment suit both in the trial and appellate courts;[72] but he is

60. Shoup v. Marks [C. C. A.] 128 F. 32.

61. Kleinsmith v. Kemper [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 409.

62. In an action to recover goods attached as the property of another, evidence that plaintiff's creditman stated that he knew nothing of any purchase of the stock by plaintiff and that the debtor in the attachment suit told plaintiff nothing, was admissible as tending to show that plaintiff did not purchase the goods prior to the attachment, as alleged, but is inadmissible to sustain the attachment. Carter-Battle Grocer Co. v. Rusing [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 449. In such action plaintiff claiming in one count to have been in possession through its agent R. and in another that R., at the time of seizure, owned the property but subsequently assigned to plaintiff, evidence that R. told officer making levy that he had bought the stock, held inadmissible under the first count but competent under the second. Id.

63. In an action to recover goods attached as those of another, an instruction that if defendant's agent was not deceived by statements made to him by plaintiff's agent as to the true ownership of the goods, but relied on his judgment or other information, defendant's plea of estoppel by reason of the statements of plaintiff's agent would not be a good defense, was erroneous as a charge on the weight of the evidence. Carter-Battle Grocer Co. v. Rusing [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 449. Such instruction was also erroneous for failure to require that defendants' agent and the officer levying the writ should have been ignorant of the true ownership of the goods prior to the issuance and levy of the writ. Id. These errors were emphasized by the court's refusal to charge that if plaintiff's agent did not make the alleged statements there was no estoppel raised on account thereof. Id.

64. See 3 C. L. 375.

65. State v. Parsons [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1019. An attachment being sued out wantonly, recklessly and willfully for the purpose of coercing another to pay money he does not owe, such acts are equivalent to malice, and punitive damages may be recovered. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 571.

66. State v. Parsons [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1019. A brewing company being prevented from filling its orders by an illegal attachment of its beer, it may recover damages for the injuries sustained from the person issuing the attachment. Ceraline Mfg. Co. v. Anthracite Beer Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 94.

67. Lawson v. Goodwin [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 279. Where a landlord was entitled to a distress warrant but by mistake sued out an attachment, held, exemplary damages could not be recovered. Id.

68. State v. Parsons [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1019.

69. Lawson v. Goodwin [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 279.

70, 71. State v. Parsons [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1019.

72. State v. Parsons [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1019.

NOTE. Attorney's fees as an element of damages: Whether or not counsel fees incurred in defending the suit when a wrongful attachment has been levied should be allowed as an element of actual damages is a question upon which there is a lack of harmony in the adjudications. In some jurisdictions the right to collect attorney's fees as an element of the damages is always recognized. State v. Kerns, 70 Mo. App. 663; Gilkerson-Sloss, etc., Co. v. Yale, 47 La. Ann. 690. This is especially true where the attachment was not sued out in good faith. Littlejohn v. Wilcox, 2 La. Ann. 620. But the counsel fees which can be recovered when the case is tried on its merits embrace only those incurred in procuring a dissolution of the attachment. Adam v. Gomila, 37 La. Ann. 479; Fush v. Egan, 48 La. Ann. 60; State v. Heckart, 62 Mo. App. 427. In other jurisdictions, however, attorney's fees incurred in defending the attachment suit cannot be allowed as part of the damages which may be recovered. Hughes v. Brooks, 36 Tex. 379; Kennot entitled to recover for the services rendered by the attorneys on the merits of the case after the dissolution of the attachment.[73]

ATTEMPTS, see latest topical index.

ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS.

§ 1. Admission to practice and license taxes.[74]—Good character being essential,[75] an applicant guilty of a crime of moral turpitude is not eligible, and when an applicant has been convicted of such crime, a pardon does not restore moral integrity.[76] The applicant should make known all facts affecting his character and moral fitness for a license.[77] A license can be obtained only from the court or body specified for that purpose by statutory or constitutional provision.[78] One is not an attorney who fails to follow his admission by a certificate required by statute and by engaging in practice.[79] nedy v. Meacham, 18 F. 312; Patton v. Garrett, 37 Ark. 605; Plumb v. Woodmansee, 34 Iowa, 116. Yarborough v. Weaver, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 215. In Texas, at least, a distinction has been made when the attachment is sued out maliciously and without probable cause, in which case attorneys' fees are recoverable. Hughes v. Brooks, 36 Tex. 379. Dickenson v. Maynard, 20 La. Ann. 66, 96 Am. Dec. 379; State v. McKeon, 25 Mo. App. 667; Porter v. Knight, 63 Iowa, 365. However, in an action upon an attachment bond for the wrongful suing out of an attachment, the court may allow attorney fees for services rendered in the entire defense of the action, when such defense tends merely to show the wrongful issuance of the attachment. Union Mill Co. v. Prenzler, 100 Iowa, 540. A recovery in damages of the full amount of the attachment bond does not preclude the taxation of attorney fees as part of the costs. Union Mercantile Co. v. Chandler, 90 Iowa, 650. In some states also the fees will not be allowed unless specially claimed in the complaint. Boggan v. Bennett, 102 Ala. 400; Crofford v. Vassar, 95 Ala. 548; Vorse v. Phillips, 37 Iowa, 428. It has been held that such fees are not an element of damages that can be recovered on the attachment bond. Stringfield v. Hirsch, 94 Tenn. 425, 45 Am. St. Rep. 733. A defendant who is not the owner of any of the property attached cannot, after defeating a recovery on the indebtedness issue, maintain an action to recover attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in defending the suit on the attachment issue. Tebo v. Betancourt, 73 Miss. 868, 55 Am. St. Rep. 573; Adams v. Gillam, 53 Kan. 131. If the defendant in attachment employed no counsel until after judgment by default against him, and then only to make an unsuccessful motion for a new trial, he cannot recover such counsel fees in an action on the attachment bond. Trammell v. Ramage, 97 Ala. 666; Baldwin v. Walker, 94 Ala. 515.—From note to Tisdale v. Major [Iowa] 68 Am. St. Rep. 263, 273.

73. State v. Parsons [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1019.

74. See 3 C. L. 376 and see, also, Licenses, 4 C. L. 428.

75. See, also, post, § 3.

76. Embezzlement. People v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737. But see People v. Payson, 215 Ill. 476, 74 N. E. 383.

77. An applicant's failure to advise the court that he has been convicted of crime involving morals is a reprehensible concealment of material fact. People v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737.

78. In California this power is conferred by the constitution upon the district court of appeal. There is nothing in the law as it now exists that purports to authorize the supreme court to make any order of admission. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 277, 279, as amended Feb. 15, 1905. In re Mock [Cal.] 80 P. 64. In California the supreme court has both original and appellate jurisdiction in proceedings for the disbarment of an attorney; it will, however, entertain the accusation as an original proceeding only when the prosecution is instituted on the relation of some one in the public interest. Such as a bar association. In re Ashley [Cal.] 80 P. 1030. A contested application originating in the supreme court will be transferred to the proper district court of appeal. In re Hovey [Cal.] 80 P. 234.

79. Where plaintiff was admitted to the

§ 2. Duties, privileges and disabilities.[80]—It is the professional duty of counsel to assist the court in preserving the nisi prius trial from error.[81] By a rule of privilege they are disabled to disclose professional communications from clients,[82] and they cannot exercise the incompatible office of judge.[83] In Vermont it is the settled law that an attorney is not, by virtue of that relation alone, liable for fees accruing in suits brought by him,[84] but he may become so by custom. In some jurisdictions the distinctions between attorneys, solicitors and counsel is preserved.[85]

§ 3. Suspension and disbarment. Grounds.[86]—Statutory enumeration of grounds for disbarment excludes all other causes.[87] Procuring admission by concealment of disqualifications,[88] unfitness for the confidential relation to his client or unworthiness of public confidence,[89] lack of such honesty and truthfulness as his profession requires,[90] flagrant disrespect to the courts,[91] attempts to subvert justice,[92] dereliction in a public attorneyship,[93] acts of fraud and dishonesty,[94] false representations to clients[95] and the procuring from them of money by such bar in 1893, but never filed the certificate required by laws 1899, p. 406, c. 225, with the clerk of the court of appeals, and only practiced a year after admission, he is not an attorney within Code Civ. Proc. § 73, prohibiting buying of choses in action by attorneys with intent to sue thereon. Thompson v. Stiles, 44 Misc. 334, 89 N. Y. S. 876.

80. See 3 C. L. 377.

81. Newport & C. Bridge Co. v. Jutte, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 189.

82. See Witnesses, 4 C. L. 1943.

83. City courts established by Sess. Laws 1901, p. 110, c. 103, are inferior courts similar to justices courts, a judge of such city court, though disqualified from practising as an attorney in his own court, is not debarred from appearing as an attorney in an action filed in the district court in the first instance. Nichols v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 78 P. 866. See, also, Judges, 4 C. L. 280.

84. Russell's Ex'x v. Ferguson [Vt.] 60 A. 802. Evidence held to show such a custom. Id.

85. In re Hoffecher [Del. Ch.] 60 A. 981. Solicitors and counsel in equity, see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. 458, 459, 466, 477.

86. See 3 C. L. 378.

87. In re Collins [Cal.] 81 P. 220. But see State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

88. Previous conviction of crime. People v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737.

89. Evidence held insufficient to justify disbarment. Ex parte Eastham [Or.] 80 P. 1057.

90. The moral delinquencies must be such, however, as shall unfit the person accused for the proper discharge of the trust reposed in him. Among these are the absence of common honesty and veracity, especially in all professional intercourse. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

91. Maliciously procuring the publication of false charges against a judge, to influence or discredit him in a pending matter is a violation of the oath to maintain the respect due the courts. In re Collins [Cal.] 81 P. 220.

92. It is ground for suspension to encourage a witness in a criminal case to continue in concealment and avoid attendance when it was known he would be required as a witness. State Board of Examiners in Law v. Lane, 93 Minn. 425, 101 N. W. 613. Perjury and subornation of perjury warrants disbarment. In re Lamb, 94 N. Y. S. 331.

93. District attorney who took money from gamblers and saloon keepers for forbearing to prosecute them, and who refused to prosecute a larceny case unless the prosecuting witness would advance money therefor will be disbarred. People v. Anglim [Colo.] 78 P. 687. Acceptance of money by one representing a public prosecutor from a defendant in consideration of a dismissal of the case is ground for suspension or disbarment. Tudor v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 84 S. W. 522.

Note: The right to disbar an attorney arises out of the fact that he is an officer of the court and amenable thereto. In general, dishonest professional conduct, general immorality or such act of crime or vice as may show him unfitted for the confidence reposed in him, as an attorney, will be sufficient ground for disbarment. Baker v. Commonwealth, 10 Bush. [Ky.] 592. An attorney may be considered unfit to practice his profession if he conducts himself so as to bring the courts into public contempt. In re Woolley, 11 Bush. [Ky.] 95. The courts have a common-law right to determine who shall practice before them, and this right is not taken away by a statute enumerating grounds for disbarment. In re Mills, 1 Mich. 392; State v. Laughlin, 10 Mo. App. 1. The contrary, however, has been held in Ex parte Smith, 28 Ind. 47; Kane v. Haywood, 66 N. C. 1; In re Eaton, 4 N. D. 514, 62 N. W. 597. The Anglim case may be distinguished from In re Burnette [Kan.] 78 P. 440, reported in 3 Mich. Law Rev. 232, by the fact that in that case (where the accused failed to appear) there was disbarment without evidence, while in this case evidence was introduced which established the accusations. —From 3 Mich. L. R. 315.

94. People v. Payson, 215 Ill. 476, 74 N. E. 383.

95, 96. People v. Shirley, 214 Ill. 142, 73 N. E. 303. Evidence held to show procuring of money by falsely stating it was nec-means,[96] bad faith to clients, as by the representation of hostile interests,[97] are ground for disbarment, but entering into a champertous agreement is not, though it transpires that the client's interest was worth more than was paid for it.[98] The loss of that good character which is necessary for admission is ground, though not enumerated among the statutory grounds.[99] The fact of a former conviction is of great force but not of itself ground for disbarment,[1] unless made so by statute.[2] After an attorney has been acquitted of crime he cannot be disbarred because of such crime.[3]

Defense or excuse.[4]—Personal motives of relator are not a defense.[5]

Proceedings in general.[6]—Disbarment proceedings are usually held to be civil,[7] and the procedure need not conform to the constitutional requirements applicable to criminal prosecutions.[8] Petitions in disbarment proceedings must be signed and verified according to statute.[9] The general power of courts of general jurisdiction to entertain disbarment proceedings is not revoked by vesting the power of admission exclusively in the supreme court.[10] A private informer should proceed in the superior court.[11] In Iowa an accusation must be submitted and sanctioned by the court before citing to answer.[12] Accordingly it is error to include a citation in an order directing a committee to prepare charges. This objection, however, is waived by pleading to the merits.[13] A statute empowering the court to direct the drafting of charges does not imply that they shall be based solely on what the court has in mind.[14] In Kansas where the law is similar to Iowa the accusation instituted by a private informer must be sworn, but if the court chooses to act on it the want of a verification is not jurisdictional.[15] The answer must plead ultimate facts and not evidence.[16] Depositions are permissible in such a proceed-essary for insurance expenses, etc. Id. A solicitor in chancery appointed trustee took funds invested in safe, income-bearing securities, disposed of them, and invested the proceeds in the stock of industrial corporations of which he was the promotor, thereby losing heavily. In re Hoffecher [Del. Ch.] 60 A. 981.

97. Evidence held not to show a corrupt attempt to represent hostile interests. In re Collins [Cal.] 81 P. 220.

98. In re Jones [Utah] 81 P. 162.

99. See Code, § 324. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105; People v. Payson, 215 Ill. 476, 74 N. E. 383. Procuring a client to loan money held as guardian on grossly inadequate security and in attorneys real but concealed interest; procuring a client's lien to be subordinated to that of attorney's wife without presenting for decision the question which was prior; procuring clients to loan money on land which accused knew had already been sold on execution and profiting by the transaction. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

1. People v. Payson, 215 Ill. 476, 74 N. E. 383.

2. A statute providing for removal or suspension of an attorney on production of a record of conviction of an indictable offense does not authorize suspension pending an appeal from conviction with stay. Rev. St. 1899, § 4929. State v. Sale [Mo.] 87 S. W. 967. Writ of prohibition will issue to prevent suspension threatened under such circumstances. Id.

3. People v. John, 212 Ill. 615, 72 N. E. 789.

4. See 3 C. L. 378.

5. People v. Payson, 215 Ill. 476, 74 N. E. 383.

6. See 3 C. L. 378.

7. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

8. It does not require the charges to be preferred by information or indictment, or require a trial by jury, or a confrontation of the accused with the witnesses against him. State v. McRae [Fla.] 38 So. 605.

9. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 291, it is not necessary that the accusation presented by a committee of a bar association be verified by a member of the committee. A verification stating positively that the charges are true and in the exact language of the statute is sufficient. In re Collins [Cal.] 81 P. 220.

10. Code, § 323 is not repealed by Code, § 309. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

11. In re Ashley [Cal.] 80 P. 1030.

12. Code, § 326. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

13. Motion, demurrer and answer. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

14. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

15. Gen. St. 1901, § 400. In re Burnette [Kan.] 78 P. 440.

16. People v. Payson, 210 Ill. 82, 71 N. E. 692. Allegations of malice in the informers, of the action taken by a former attorney general, and the enumeration of clients who certified as to honesty, held to subject answer to be stricken as pleading evidence. Id.

ing, it being civil,[17] and the right to confront witnesses has no application.[18] Disbarment cannot be adjudged on default without proof.[19] A reduction of the evidence to writing filed and preserved is accomplished by certifying, filing and transcribing pursuant to order the shorthand report.[20] In Iowa such a proceeding goes up to the supreme court on appeal [21] for trial de novo [22] on the original papers and full transcript.[23] The court should not disbar a lawyer on testimony of a doubtful character.[24] The striking of his name from the roll of solicitors in chancery does not disbar an attorney from practice as an attorney before the law court of Delaware.[25]

Reinstatement [26] should be made by setting aside a judgment not supported by proof.[27]

§ 4. Creation and termination of relation with client.[28]—The relation is created by contract with the client or his agent [29] to perform legal services [30] for the client.[31] The relation exists where the attorney is consulted as such and undertakes to act for the person seeking advice.[32] It is not necessary that the attorney should have appeared as such in legal proceedings.[33] It may exist with-

17. Code, § 4684. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

18. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

19. Disbarment proceedings were instituted against B by an accusation sworn to upon information and belief. On the day set for the hearing B failed to appear and the court rendered judgment disbarring him from the practice of his profession. Four days later he appeared and asked the court to set aside the judgment. The court refused and B appeals. Held, he should not have been disbarred. In re Burnette [Kan.] 78 P. 440.

Note. The statute provides that if the accused fails to answer the court shall proceed to render such judgments as the case requires. In the opinion of the majority of the court this statute does not mean that a court can disbar an attorney upon default unless the accusation has been substantiated by proper evidence. State v. Shumate, 48 W. Va. 359, 37 S. E. 618; In re Simpson, 9 N. D. 379, 83 N. W. 541; People v. Pendleton, 17 Colo. 544, 30 P. 1041; In re Eldridge, 82 N. Y. 161, 37 Am. Rep. 558; Penobscot County Bar v. Kimball, 64 Me. 140. The right of an attorney to practice law is secured to him by the constitution and laws of the state. He cannot be deprived of his right without a day in court. State v. Start, 7 Iowa, 499; Ex parte Robinson, 19 Wall. [U. S.] 505, 22 Law. Ed. 205. But notice is not necessary when the offense is in the nature of a contempt committed in the presence of the court. In re Woolley, 11 Bush. [Ky.] 95. The minority opinion was based on a literal interpretation of the statute. By refusing to appear he virtually admits his guilt. Ex parte Thompson, 32 Or. 499, 52 P. 570, 40 L. R. A. 194; In re Randel, 158 N. Y. 216, 52 N. E. 1106; In re Wellcome, 23 Mont. 450, 59 P. 445, 3 Mich. L. R. 232.

20. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

21, 22, 23. Code, § 329. State v. Mosher [Iowa] 103 N. W. 105.

24. Evidence insufficient to show acceptance of sum from defendant in criminal case to secure dismissal. Tudor v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 84 S. W. 522.

25. In re Hoffecher [Del. Ch.] 60 A. 981.

26. See 3 C. L. 379.

27. A judgment disbarring an attorney, unsupported by any evidence except the accusation against him, sworn to upon information and belief, should be set aside upon application. In re Burnette [Kan.] 78 P. 440.

28. See 3 C. L. 379. See, also, post, § 8.

29. Where secretary and treasurer of corporation employed plaintiff who rendered services for the corporation, the latter was liable therefor. Wintner v. Rosemont Realty Co., 91 N. Y. S. 452. The president of a corporation has power to employ counsel to defend an action against the corporation, and bind the corporation for reasonable compensation to the attorney. Campbell v. Pittsburgh Bridge Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 138. An agreement by attorneys of creditors to extend the time of payment on notes and a trust deed does not bind a trustee holding the lands for the creditors subject to certain prior incumbrances. Ray v. Lobdell, 213 Ill. 389, 72 N. E. 1076. That attorneys were retained generally by certain persons is evidence to be considered in determining who is liable for special services, but is not conclusive on the question. Stroley v. Schnepp, 93 N. Y. S. 1082.

Contract for legal services held to have been made by letter and negotiations though no formal written instrument was drawn. Carlisle v. Barnes, 92 N. Y. S. 917.

30. The mere fact that an agent is employed to negotiate a loan is an attorney at law, and in securing the loan performs duties ordinarily performed by an attorney, will not make the relation existing between the borrower and agent that of attorney and client, so as to render the agent an incompetent witness against the borrower as to matters which came to his knowledge pending the negotiation of the loan. Turner v. Turner [Ga.] 50 S. E. 969.

31. Where one assigns all his right in a judgment to an attorney who is to account to the assignor for one-half the amount realized, the attorney is vested with full title and is not agent to collect the judgment. Spangenberg v. Zumstein, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 406.

32, 33. Sheehan v. Erbe, 92 N. Y. S. 862.

out payment of a fee [34] and continues so long as the the terms of the contract provide.[35] A retainer of one member of a firm of attorneys is a retainer of the firm, in the absence of any express stipulation to the contrary.[36] Sound policy forbids an attorney from appearing for conflicting interests,[37] but he may be agent for different parties as to different parts of a transaction.[38] A contract to pay the attorney of the adverse party to do something or to refrain from doing something which will effect the interest of his client is illegal and void,[39] especially where the attorney is acting under appointment of court to represent the interests of unknown clients.[40] A contract to procure legislative action is not necessarily bad.[41] The relation based on ratification is not found solely on knowledge that one was assisting the original counsel.[42] A client has the right to discharge an attorney at any time but must pay the discharged attorney money due him,[43] and if he be employed on a contingent fee, it should be upon condition that he pay them fair remuneration for services already performed.[44] His authority and employment ceases on the death of his client.[45]

Substitution is necessary when the case goes to a court where the attorney is not admitted.[46] Statutes providing for notice to provide a substitute when the adverse party's attorney ceases to act have no application to a voluntary withdrawal by an attorney and refusal to proceed at the trial.[47] On granting a substitution a condition may be imposed securing the discharged attorney under a contingent contract.[48]

§ 5. Rights, duties and liabilities between attorney and client; generally; loyalty and good faith.[49] Diligence.[50]—An attorney is liable to his client for a

34. Mack v. Sharp [Mich.] 101 N. W. 631.

35. A contract whereby a corporation agreed to give an attorney "permanent employment" as counsel if he would render certain services and the scheme involved proved a success, was satisfied by his employment thereafter for the period of a year at a fixed salary. Sullivan v. Detroit, etc., R. Co. [Mich.] 98 N. W. 756.

36. Lockwood v. Dillenbeck, 93 N. Y. S. 321.

37. Counsel appeared for the executor or trustee in a suit for the construction of a will and also for a legatee or devisee under the will. Smith v. Jordan [Conn.] 59 A. 507. The attorneys of a bankrupt's trustee in merely making out and presenting formal proof of a claim is not of itself a double employment. In re McKenna, 137 F. 611. A defendant whose position is in fact adverse to that of another defendant cannot act as the latter's counsel, unless, if at all, express authority was shown on the record. Jenkins v. Barber [Miss.] 38 So. 36.

38. Mortgagees employed an attorney before taking the mortgage, to see that that it was a first lien on the property. There was an existing mortgage but the attorney falsely certified that the proposed mortgage was a first lien. The money was given to the attorney by check payable to the mortgagor who endorsed it and directed the attorney to pay the first mortgage but he embezzled it. The mortgagor must bear the loss. Trustees of Synod of Reformed Presbyterian Church v. Livingston [Pa.] 60 A. 154.

39. Steger v. Hume, 97 Tex. 324, 79 S. W. 19.

40. Contract to pay attorneys a certain sum to abandon an appeal by them from a judgment allowing them $2,000 for services held void. Steger v. Hume, 97 Tex. 324, 79 S. W. 19.

41. Stroemer v. Van Orsdel [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1053.

42. Lathrop v. Hallett [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1095.

43. Vincent v. Nassau County, 45 Misc. 247, 92 N. Y. S. 32.

44. Du Bois v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 570.

45. The death of the client deprives the attorney of the right to appear and suggest the death of his client, for the purpose of obtaining an order of revivor, before the appointment of a legal representative. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodson [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 105. A power of attorney not coupled with an interest, is revoked by the death of the donor. Fisher v. Southern Loan & Trust Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 592.

46. In a case begun in the state court but carried to the Federal courts there must be a substitution for an attorney admitted to the state but not the Federal bar. Lincoln Mfg. Co. v. New Haven Clock Co., 135 F. 1023.

47. The validity of a judgment is not affected by a party's counsel without leave of court, announcing their withdrawal from the case, serving on the adverse party and filing with the clerk of the court notice thereof and by refusing to proceed with or participate therein. McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384, 77 P. 736.

48. Du Bois v. New York [C. C. A.] 134 F. 570.

49. See 3 C. L. 379.

50. See 3 C. L. 380.

loss resulting from a failure to exercise reasonable diligence, or such care and skill as is ordinarily possessed by persons of common capacity engaged in the same business.[51] Where an attorney undertakes the prosecution of a claim on a contingent fee based on a percentage of the amount collected, it is contemplated that he shall perform whatever services may be necessary.[52] In such a case the failure of a forwarding agency which sent the claim to furnish a bond does not excuse the attorney.[53] If a claim be settled without authority, the question of negligence does not arise.[54]

Dealings between attorney and client.[55]—He owes his client the duty of the utmost loyalty and good faith and should disclose facts within his knowledge essential to his client's full understanding of dealings with him.[56] The burden is on the attorney to show good faith and absence of undue influence,[57] that his dealings were fair and just, that the client acted upon full information, and that no undue advantage was taken.[58] But the law does not prohibit an attorney from dealing with his clients, and contracts when deliberately made are as valid as contracts between other parties,[59] though transactions between them will be closely scrutinized, especially where the attorney acquires any of his client's property,[60] and where he has so acquired title the court will impress the property with a trust in favor of the client,[61] but the client must act promptly.[62] These rules have no application to a charge of negligence in protecting a client's rights in litigation or transactions with others, but applies only where the attorney has obtained prop-

51. Loan of client's money upon insufficient security. Kissam v. Squires, 92 N. Y. S. 873. Failure of attorney employed to examine title to land to learn whether there were mechanics' liens when he knew a building was being put up was a breach of his duty to his client for which he was liable on his bond for resulting damage. Humboldt Bldg. Ass'n Co. v. Ducker's Ex'r, 26 Ky. L. R. 931, 82 S. W. 969.

52. Taking of an appeal was rendered necessary by an erroneous decision of the trial court. Cavanaugh v. Robinson [Mich.] 101 N. W. 824.

53. Cavanaugh v. Robinson [Mich.] 101 N. W. 824.

54. Instruction held bad which implied that it did. Vooth v. McEachen [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 488.

55. See 3 C. L. 380.

56. Where attorney became purchaser of land belonging to the estate for which he was the attorney, without disclosing his purpose to do so, or real value, the sale was annulled. Thweatt v. Freeman [Ark.] 84 S. W. 720.

57. Thweatt v. Freeman [Ark.] 84 S. W. 720.

58. Bingham v. Sheldon, 91 N. Y. S. 917. Evidence held to show relation between plaintiff and defendant such that defendant was subject to the rule. Thweatt v. Freeman [Ark.] 84 S. W. 720. Evidence held to show fraud of attorney in obtaining transfer of lease. Sheehan v. Erbe, 92 N. Y. S. 862. Ratification of acts of attorney held to have been given by client without full knowledge of facts; hence attorney was liable for negligent transaction resulting in loss to the client, notwithstanding such ratification. Kissam v. Squires, 92 N. Y. S. 873. Refusal of instruction on burden of proof on an attorney as to fairness of dealings proper where sole issue was whether contract for compensation of attorneys was made. Werner v. Knowlton, 94 N. Y. S. 1054. In action to recover funds from attorney, proof of relation, of facts tending to show receipt of funds, and that they were not used for intended purpose, is sufficient where defendant introduced no testimony, since burden was on him. Purdy v. Wallace, 93 N. Y. S. 608. Action for fraud growing out of advantage taken of relation of attorney and client cannot be maintained where evidence shows relation did not exist. Sinclair v. Higgins, 46 Misc. 136, 93 N. Y. S. 195.

59. Starrett v. Brosseau, 110 Ill. App. 605. Stipulations for the payment of attorneys commissions in mortgages and other securities are valid, but are, nevertheless, subject to the equitable control of the court. Scott v. Carl, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 460.

60. Stanwood v. Wishard, 134 F. 959.

61. Stanwood v. Wishard, 134 F. 959. Like a trustee and aside from fraud or bad faith he cannot take an adverse interest in the clients property. Where an attorney, by statements and representations made to his clients as to the condition and value of their land, the subject of the litigation, procures the sale thereof to be made to a third party, for whom he is at the same time acting in that capacity and immediately takes a half interest therein for himself, paying one-half of the consideration, the client may set aside the purchase at will. Levara v. McNeny [Neb.] 102 N. W. 1042.

This rule does not apply in the making of a contract to recover an estate by one whose business it is to find estates having no notorious claimant, to hunt up the heirs and recover the estate for them. Adams v. Schmidtt [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 345.

62. Six years delay held not slothful. Stanwood v. Wishard, 134 F. 959.

erty of the client.[63] The purchase price with interest less the rents and profits must be returned.[64]

Accounting to client.[65]—For breach of duty to pay charges on property, the damages do not include the diminution of price received on foreclosure.[66] Statutory costs awarded to a party in an action belong to him, and his attorney has no interest therein.[67]

§ 6. Remedies between the parties.[68]—One may collect so much as an attorney has received by an unauthorized settlement and not thereby preclude himself to sue for the balance.[69] An action to recover moneys paid to attorneys for a specific purpose is not tortwise merely because it is alleged that they converted it.[70] By statute in Alabama a summary judgment may be had against an attorney for failure to pay over money collected by him.[71] An attorney sued while all vouchers and evidence are in his client's hands may have an injunction pending discovery.[72] The attorney sued for money intrusted to him has the burden of proving a direction to use it for a new purpose [73] or a disposal of it per previous agreement.[74] The burden of showing the amount of damages suffered rests upon the client.[75]

§ 7. Compensation and lien.[76] Right to and amount of compensation.—Performance of the service undertaken is necessary to earn a fee [77] except it be excused or rendered impossible by the client.[78] There can be no recovery beyond that specially contracted for the work done,[79] though assisting counsel are not

63. No application on charge of negligent loan of client's money to a third person. Schreiber v. Heath, 92 N. Y. S. 1043.

64. Levara v. McNeny [Neb.] 100 N. W. 1042.

65. See 3 C. L. 381.

66. Dean v. Radford [Mich.] 104 N. W. 329.

67. The client may satisfy a judgment awarding him costs. Early v. Whitney, 94 N. Y. S. 728.

68. See 3 C. L. 381.

69. Burgraf v. Byrnes [Minn.] 103 N. W. 215.

70. Logan v. Freerks [N. D.] 103 N. W. 426.

71. Held, under evidence in such a proceeding, a general affirmative charge for either party would be improper. Boyett v. Payne [Ala.] 37 So. 585. In such a proceeding, under Code 1896, § 3810, an order of the owner of the judgment to pay the amount of a judgment to a transferee thereof is competent evidence. Id.

72. Shaw v. Frey [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 811.

73. Logan v. Freerks [N. D.] 103 N. W. 426.

74. Where attorney retained money deposited with him to secure sureties upon an undertaking, his mere statement that the money had been paid over to the sureties was insufficient, in an action to recover, where he had previously asserted a lien on the money. Brenner v. Martin, 91 N. Y. S. 156.

75. Action for settling a claim for less than its face value without authority. Vooth v. McEachen [N. Y.] 73 N. E. 488.

76. See 3 C. L. 381.

77. An attorney who abandons the service for which he was employed, without justifiable cause, is not entitled to compensation. Order of substitution of attorneys in divorce case should have been without requirement as to additional fees, the first attorney having abandoned the case. Cary v. Cary, 97 App. Div. 471, 89 N. Y. S. 1061. Allegations of answer in action for compensation, attempting to set up agreement to proceed without retainer, that plaintiff had unjustifiably abandoned the case, and that he was not entitled to compensation, held insufficient, and judgment on pleadings proper. Pierce v. Newlin, 100 App. Div. 516, 91 N. Y. S. 377. Whether services rendered are within the terms of a contract depends upon its terms. Services in recovery of excessive duties as to which importer had entered protest held within contract and that attorney entitled therefor. Comstock v. Flower [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 207.

78. A client may not by abandoning a suit commenced at his instigation recover back the retaining fee he paid his attorney for the prosecution of such action, the attorney having performed as far as possible and being ready and willing to continue. Riehl v. Levy, 90 N. Y. S. 441.

79. Cavanah v. Robinson [Mich.] 101 N. W. 824. In an action by attorneys to recover fees due for professional services, on a written contract fixing the fees to be paid, what would be just and reasonable compensation for the services rendered is immaterial. Heiberger v. Worthington, 23 App. D. C. 565. Where a compromise is effected, within a contract between an attorney and client as to the compensation of the attorney, in case the litigation is compromised, it will not be disturbed merely because the client settled with another attorney for similar services for a less amount. Clifton v. Clark, 84 Miss. 795, 37 So. 746. The amount of compensation as fixed by agreement depends upon the construction of the agreement. Agreement construed. Werner v. Knowlton, 94 N. Y.

bound by an agreement of which they had no knowledge that attorneys' fees should be limited to a sum stated.[80] The existence of a contract may be a question of fact,[81] but since the compensation of an attorney is governed by agreement, express or implied, unrestrained by law, the validity of an agreement fixing compensation need not be submitted to the jury in the absence of proof of fraud or overreaching.[82] Extra compensation may be had for services not covered by the contract [83] or included in a payment made.[84] A quantum meruit may be recovered if the client disaffirms authorized work under a contract.[85] If there is no agreed fee the usual and customary fee is due or a reasonable fee,[86] considering the character and efficiency of the services.[87] The court may determine from its own knowledge the value of fees,[88] and will not ignore its own knowledge in passing on evidence,[89] but it is a question of fact not open on appeal.[90]

Contingent fees.[91]—A contract for a contingent fee is not necessarily invalid,[92] and if fair will be followed in adjusting a claim after the client's death.[93]

S. 1054. Rendition of a bill for legal services, not conditioned on payment within a reasonable time cannot be construed as an offer to accept the amount stated therein. Webster v. Loeb [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 463. Where a contract between attorney and client, after providing for the payment of a fee of $1,000 to the attorney for professional services to be rendered, and specifically what such services were to consist of, concluded with a provision that one-half of the sum should be paid immediately upon the execution of the contract, and the balance at the termination of a pending suit in which the client was interested but to which he was not a party, in event that he should become a party, but was silent as to the time for payment of such balance in event that he should not become a party to the suit, which was settled shortly after the agreement was made, the balance of the fee was payable to the attorney; the proper construction of the contract being that the attorney should receive $1,000 for his services in any event. Whiting v. Davidge, 23 App. D. C. 156.

80. Gates v. McClenahan [Iowa] 103 N. W. 969.

81. Whether there was a contract for each item of service alleged by attorney. Dempsey v. Wells [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1015. Entry in attorney's ledger, under proper title, of "Fee $750" is insufficient to prove an agreement to pay such amount. Davis v. Fischer, 90 N. Y. S. 301.

82. Werner v. Knowlton, 94 N. Y. S. 1054.

83. Services rendered in excess of those included in a contract may be recovered. Barcus v. Sherwood [C. C. A.] 136 F. 184.

84. Evidence held to show fee paid was only for services in district court and that attorney was entitled to compensation for services in appellate court. Morris v. Kesterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 417, 87 S. W. 277.

85. If the client unjustifiably repudiates the attorney's work the attorney is not bound by the amount which he had named as his compensation, but is entitled to recover the reasonable value of his services. Foot v. Smythe [Colo. App.] 78 P. 619.

86. In the absence of a contract provision the amount of compensation to which an attorney is entitled is the reasonable value of his services. Dempsey v. Wells [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1015. A bill rendered by an attorney for services to his client is competent for the defendant in an action for attorneys services, as some evidence of the value plaintiff himself placed upon the services. Webster v. Loeb [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 463. Where the only question is, as to the amount due for attorney's fees, the proper question to be put to an expert witness is, what is the usual and customary charge for such services as were rendered; but if there is no usual and customary charge for such services, it is proper to ask what such services are reasonably worth. Maneaty v. Steele, 112 Ill. App. 19.

87. A fee must be reasonable considering the services rendered. Where $75 was allowed in court below, $100 for defending an appeal was held excessive. Combs v. Combs, 26 Ky. L. R. 617, 82 S. W. 298. In estimating the value of professional services the amount involved and the results obtained may be considered. Evidence admitted to show value of services rendered and responsibility assumed by plaintiff. Graves v. Sanders [C. C. A.] 125 F. 690. The financial condition of a judgment debtor may be considered in determining the value of services rendered in collection of the judgment. Boyett v. Payne [Ala.] 37 So. 585.

88. The value of attorney's fees can be found by the court without any evidence on the point. Pearce v. Albright [N. M.] 76 P. 286.

89. Value proved at $5,000, cut down to $2,000. Gates v. McClenahan [Iowa] 103 N. W. 969. $2,000 upheld in suit for separate maintenance where husband's estate was from $250,000 to $500,000 and his income $10,000 to $16,000. Hutchinson v. Hutchinson, 105 Ill. App. 349.

90. Where the amount of a trustee's claim for counsel fees has been contested before the auditing judge, and found reasonable, such finding will not be disturbed upon appeal in the absence of clear error. Casely's Estate, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 646.

91. See 3 C. L. 382.

92. Stroemer v. Van Orsdel [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1053. In Missouri contracts for a proportion of any settlement of a case as compensation are valid. Yonge v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 184.

93. Upon the death of the client and the continuance of the suit in the name of the

Such agreements are not champertous where the attorneys are to make no advances or payments,[94] but the purchase or maintenance of a law suit by an attorney is champerty.[95] In an action by an attorney to recover on a contract for compensation, champerty is an affirmative defense which must be pleaded.[96] It is against public policy to stipulate that the client shall not settle without the attorney's consent.[97] He may recover though unsuccessful if failure was due to the client's nonperformance of his promise.[98]

Implied contract.[99]—There is no implied promise to pay an attorney whom one has not employed, because of incidental benefits derived from his services.[1] It is essential that the services be rendered as attorney and not as incident to another relation.[2] On the death of counsel before full performance, recovery may be had for the reasonable value of the services performed in such proportion as they bore to what he undertook.[3] Implied promises to pay an associated counsel do not arise merely from knowledge of it by the client.[4]

Employment of several attorneys, or by several clients.[5]—Attorneys severally employed can each recover.[6] Where an order of substitution directs two substituted attorneys to pay a certain sum to the former attorney, the latter may maintain an action to recover such sum against either of the substitutes without joining the other.[7] executor the court ought to uphold the contract for contingent fees to the extent at least, of not alowing its existence to influence its action. The Orphans' Court can and will confine the amount to reasonable compensation. Johnston v. Reilly [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1044.

94. Granat v. Kruse, 114 Ill. App. 488.

95. An agreement between the holder of a nonnegotiable chose in action and an attorney, by which the latter, in consideration of an assignment of the claim, agreed to enforce the collection thereof by suit, himself to pay all the expenses, and remit to the assignor one-half of the proceeds in full for his services, is invalid, as against public policy. Slade v. Zeitfuss [Conn.] 59 A. 406. See, also, Champerty and Maintenance, 3 C. L. 677. A contract that the attorney shall receive as compensation a part of what may be recovered is not an assignment. Weller v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 61 A. 549. An agreement to allow attorneys one-half the amount recovered is not an assignment of one-half the cause of action. Attorneys not parties in interest. American Cotton Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 343, 87 S. W. 842. Attorneys who bring suit in the name of the client upon the entire cause of action, though entitled by contract to one-half the amount recovered, and proceed to judgment after the question of their interest in the cause of action has been raised, are bound by the judgment. Id. An agreement by an attorney to pay all or some portion of the court costs to accrue in a suit which he is employed to prosecute is champertous. Agreement to pay all costs and take half the recovery in actions to recover excessive duties champertous. Comstock v. Flower [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 207.

Note: Attorney having contract for contingent fee as party see Knickerbocker v. Worthing [Mich.] 101 N. W. 540; Foy v. Barry, 87 App. Div. 291, 84 N. Y. S. 335; Bradshaw v. Frazer, 113 Iowa, 579, 89 N. W. 579.

96. Comstock v. Flower [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 207.

97. Weller v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co.]N. J. Err. & App.] 61 A. 459. A settlement made in good faith will be valid. Id.

98. Failure to furnish promised data for use in proceedings to recover excessive or illegal duties was a breach of the contract, and plaintiff could recover the agreed 5 per cent of the recovery without proof of services or their reasonable value. Carlisle v. Barnes, 98 N. Y. S. 917.

99. See 3 C. L. 384.

1. In an action for services rendered, a finding that they were not rendered at the request of defendants negatives the fact of an implied request, as well as of an express request. Merrill v. Gunnison, 145 Cal. 544, 79 P. 67. Evidence held to support such a finding. Id. No recovery for services rendered without knowledge or consent of client. Morris v. Kesterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 417, 88 S. W. 277.

2. A director or officer of a corporation may recover for legal services if they were rendered upon request, and not gratuitously, and under such circumstances that the parties understood, or ought to have understood that they were to be paid for. Taussig v. St. Louis & K. R. Co., 186 Mo. 269, 85 S. W. 378.

3. Johnston v. Bernalillo County Com'rs [N. M.] 78 P. 43.

4. It is consistent with employment of the attorney to assist the counsel at the latter's expense. Lathrop v. Hallett [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1095.

5. See 3 C. L. 385.

6. Prior employment and retainer of one partner is no defense to an action by the other for individual services rendered after dissolution of the partnership. Webster v. Loeb [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 463.

7. Fenlon v. Paillard, 93 N. Y. S. 1101.

Allowance by court or taxation as costs.[8]—Except as provided by statute[9] or by contract,[10] fees of counsel are not allowed as incident to recovery in an ordinary action,[11] but are often allowed in adjusting the equities of suitors in equity[12] or in the adjustment of rights in a fund or estate diversely charged or claimed.[13] It is commonly provided that counsel appointed for one accused shall be paid from the public funds at a rate prescribed or ordered by the court,[14] and allowance may be made for each trial.[15] Like allowance are sometimes made to attorneys appointed for nonresidents.[16] Statutes authorizing allowances are strictly construed and will not be extended beyond the limits imposed by their clear language.[17] Such fees are not "costs," [18] but being incidental must rest on a valid or-

8. See 3 C. L. 385.

9. Upon failure to prosecute an appeal, the court under act of May 19, 1897 (P. L. 67), awarded an additional attorney fee of $25. Wilcox v. Merrill, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 59. In Iowa a fee may be taxed in a liquor injunction contempt case besides the ten per cent. for collecting the fine allowed by statute. Code, § 2429. Brennan v. Roberts, 125 Iowa, 615, 101 N. W. 460. Civ. Code 1895, § 3796 declares that attorney's fees may be allowed if the defendant has acted in bad faith, or been stubbornly litigious. In an action for tort against a carrier for conversion of goods consigned to the plaintiff, in order to recover such attorney's fees the petition must allege in terms such bad faith, etc. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Chicago Portrait Co. [Ga.] 49 S. E. 727. In Florida, attorney's fees may be recovered in certain actions against fire and life insurance companies. Acts 1893, c. 4173, p. 101, so providing, was not repealed by Acts 1899, c. 4677, p. 33, and is constitutional. L'Engle v. Scottish Union & National Fire Ins. Co. [Fla.] 37 So. 462.

10. In an action to recover on a bond and for attorneys fees, there was no allegation that the defendant undertook to pay attorney's fees in case of suit, and the bond contained no such stipulation. In the absence of such agreement, counsel fees cannot be awarded either as costs or otherwise. Dame v. Cochiti Reduction & Improvement Co. [N. M.] 79 P. 296. Though, in Georgia, obligations to pay attorneys' fees are declared void by statute, such a promise in a note is enforceable if the statutory notice of intention to sue is given, and the debt is not paid before the return day. Defendant may defeat recovery of such fees by paying the debt. Browne v. Edwards [Ga.] 50 S. E. 110. Since the act of 1900 (Van Epps' Code Supp. § 6185), in order to recover attorney's fees on a note it must be alleged in the pleadings that the statutory notice has been given, and this allegation, if denied, must be proved on the trial. Pritchard v. McCrary [Ga.] 50 S. E. 366.

11. Such allowance may be saved for review by first objecting by exception to the allowance made; and may be reviewed on appeal from the judgment. Spencer v. Commercial Co., 36 Wash. 374, 78 P. 914.

12. In mechanic's lien proceedings. Hess v. Peck, 111 Ill. App. 111. In an action to set aside a deed of trust of certain securities given by a life tenant, it was held that the court had power, within the scope of the decree, to make a proper allowance to the attorney whose services were rendered in support of the deed. Bauernschmidt v. Bauernschmidt [Md.] 60 A. 437. Where partition proceedings are amicable, it is proper to allow the attorneys conducting the proceedings a reasonable fee, and to require the payment of the same by the parties in proportion to their interest in the property involved. Johnson v. Emerick [Neb.] 104 N. W. 169. Litigation designed to diminish a fund cannot be charged on it, though an indirect benefit resulted. Myers v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 31.

13. Bankruptcy: Only reasonable compensation will be allowed attorneys in composition. In re Talton, 137 F. 178. An executor may before probate employ counsel to resist the contest of a will and obtain compensation for such attorneys services from the assets of the estate. Fillinger v. Conley, 163 Ind. 584, 72 N. E. 597. An executor may employ counsel in an ejectment suit, and upon the settlement of the estate he will be entitled to counsel fees not only for the settlement of the estate but also for services in the ejectment suit. Evan's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 151. In bankruptcy cases. $200 allowed out of $2,000 recovered. In re Covington, 132 F. 884.

14. In Pennsylvania it is held that the court has no authority to make an order on the county commissioners to pay a sum of money to defend a prisoner indicted for murder. Commonwealth v. Dillen [Pa.] 60 A. 263.

15. Under Code Cr. Proc. § 308, allowing reasonable compensation to attorneys assigned to defend indigent criminals, successive alowances may be made for successive trials at different terms, each allowance being within the statutory limitation. People v. Montgomery, 91 N. Y. S. 765.

16. Duly appointed attorney for nonresident is to be compensated for his services, whether rendered in the circuit court or supreme court; the allowance to be made by the court appointing him. Cochran v. Lee's Adm'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 769.

17. Where act provided for the allowance of costs and attorney's fees to garnishees in attachment, executions "issued out of any court of record of this state" does not apply to writs of attachment issued by justices of the peace, aldermen and magistrates. Julius King Optical Co. v. Royal Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 527. An attorney's fee, in addition to the statutory attorney's fee, cannot be allowed in an action for damages for the alleged violation of the covenants of a lease. Spencer v. Commer-der.[19] Fees on foreclosure of a mortgage need not be prayed and are not a separate cause of action.[20]

The allowance in the ordinary case runs to the receiver or fiduciary, not to the attorney direct.[21] The decree for solicitor's fees in partition fees may be entered in favor of the solicitor, though not a part to the suit.[22] An allowance of a fee should not be made without notice to the party to be charged and an opportunity to be heard as to its reasonableness.[23]

The amount of allowance [24] is the reasonable worth of the services,[25] if none be fixed otherwise. In case of a contract for fees, only so much as will indemnify is recoverable.[26]

Assignments as security.[27]

Lien.[28]—An attorney has a lien on moneys or papers in his hands [29] received by him in the course of his employment, not only for costs and charges in the particular suit, but for any general balance in other professional business.[30] It is a common-law right.[31] It is unaffected by the fact that his client is an executor or trustee,[32] and covers services to decedent as well as to the executor.[33] The lien is for services rendered at the request of his client; an attorney sub-employed by counsel to assist him in a case at his own expense is not entitled to a lien.[34] The right is not at common law or under the ordinary statutes restricted to employments wherein an action was actually begun.[35] There may also be a contract lien [36] or by virtue of a contract as to compensation one may be deprived of a right cial Co., 36 Wash. 374, 78 P. 914. Rapid Transit Act, § 62, authorizing allowance of fees for additional counsel for the city in condemnation proceedings, does not authorize such allowance to counsel for property owners. In re Rapid Transit Com'rs, 93 N. Y. S. 262.

18. Hence the allowance against the state is not binding on its auditing board. Code Civ. Proc. § 1038. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537.

19. But where the order appointing a receiver is void for want of jurisdiction, an order awarding counsel fees for the receiver is also void. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537. Where, under the Code, requiring the court in proceedings to enforce mechanic's liens to allow costs and attorneys' fees, a contractor who does not establish his lien because the fund due him is exhausted in the payment of subcontractors, is not entitled to them. Stimson v. Dunham, Carrigan, Hayden Co. [Cal.] 79 P. 968.

20. Thrasher v. Moran [Cal.] 81 P. 32.

21. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537.

22. McMullen v. Reynolds, 105 Ill. App. 386.

23. Combs v. Combs, 26 Ky. L. R. 617, 82 S. W. 298.

24. See 3 C. L. 386.

25. $800 for services was proper, where counsel assisted in recovering $25,000 for the trustee being engaged fifty days. In re McKenna, 137 F. 611. In determining the amount of solicitor's fees, the court should take into consideration the standing and experience of the solicitor, as well as the nature, importance and result of the controversy, and may of its own motion obtain the opinion of other attorneys as to a proper amount. McMullen v. Reynolds, 105 Ill. App. 386. $50 was upheld in an action on a note for $589. Warnock v. Itawis [Wash.] 80 P. 297. Evidence sufficient to show allowance of fees not so unreasonable as to authorize reversal. Dills v. Auxier [Ky.] 85 S. W. 743. $100 for services on appeal held excessive where but $75 was allowed for trial. Combs v. Combs, 26 Ky. L. R. 617, 82 S. W. 298.

26. A provision in a note sued on, for payment of 10 per cent. attorney's fees in case of collection by attorney, is a contract of indemnity, and not for payment of agreed damages; hence where holder had not agreed with his attorneys on amount to be paid for services in collecting the note, recovery can be had only for reasonable value of services. Texas Land & Loan Co. v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1020.

27. See 3 C. L. 385.

28. See 3 C. L. 388.

29. Burleigh v. Palmer [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1068.

30. Mathot v. Triebel, 98 App. Div. 328, 90 N. Y. S. 903; In re McGuires Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 97.

31. In re McGuire's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 97.

32. Burleigh v. Palmer [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1068.

33. He may retain enough of the money to pay the general balance due him for such services performed for a deceased client, as well as those performed for the representative of the estate of the decedent. Meloy v. Meloy, 24 App. D. C. 239.

34. Lathrop v. Hallett [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1095.

35. Under the New York Code the attorney's llen exists before actual commencement of the action. Mathot v. Triebel, 98 App. Div. 328, 90 N. Y. S. 903,

36. A simple assignment by a married woman without her husband, of an interest in the recovery in a lawsuit, with reference of lien.[37] In Missouri the lien acquired by an attorney who has a contract for a certain portion of a settlement as compensation, and has given notice of such contract to his client's adversary, is not destroyed by a settlement without the written consent of the attorney.[38] Such settlement renders the adversary who has notice of the contract liable for the amount to which the attorney is entitled,[39] and this amount may be recovered in an action at law.[40] There need not be a verdict or judgment in favor of the client [41] nor is solvency of the client and willingness to pay a defense to such action.[42] There is no attorney's lien outside of statutory provisions in that state.[43]

An attorney's lien is subject to the right of his client to settle,[44] and while a collusive settlement, made to defraud the attorney, may be set aside, an honest settlement will not be interferred with.[45] On the other hand the rights of an attorney will be protected where a settlement is made without his knowledge or consent.[46] An attorney's statutory lien in Missouri on a cause of action is not lost by a settlement between the parties, but attaches to the proceeds of the settlement.[47]

Loss of lien.[48]—The lien continues only while property is in his hands.[49] If he has an interest in a prospective judgment he does not lose it by opposing a disadvantageous one.[50] Where an attorney's lien is released on an agreement for the payment of a certain sum by the client, in an action to enforce such argeement the terms of the original agreement are immaterial.[51]

Enforcement of lien.[52]—A party to an action is only secondarily liable to the attorney of the adverse party for the amount of his lien; namely, only when the adverse party is insolvent and unable to pay.[53] Where a case is settled, attorneys to her own separate property, and directly for the benefit of that estate, to secure to an attorney reasonable compensation for his services, followed by a successful suit, has the effect to vest the beneficiary with an equity, by reason of which equity will create a lien. Adams v. Schmidtt [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 345. A married woman had legal capacity to agree to execute a deed of trust on certain lands to secure, for plaintiffs their fees in certain divorce proceedings to be brought by her in case plaintiffs were successful in vesting the title in her as a part of such litigation. Such contract constituted an equitable lien on the property which attached thereon when the title became vested in her by the decree in such proceedings. Patrick v. Morrow [Colo.] 81 P. 242. Contract between attorney and client, as found in receipt given by attorney construed, and held, that mortgage given by client was only to secure attorney in furnishing bond, and not to secure payment of remainder of fee. Sparks v. Walden, 25 Ky. L. R. 1937, 79 S. W. 248. Lien for attorney's fees, given by landowner who contracts for an improvement, in connection with mechanic's lien and notes, is valid. Summerville v. King [Tex.] 83 S. W. 680. But if land on which improvement is built is a homestead, such lien for fees is unenforceable. Summerville v. King [Tex.] 84 S. W. 648.

37. Agreement that one of three plaintiffs was to pay one counsel and other two were to pay attorney of record enforced, attorney of record not being entitled to retain money belonging to the third plaintiff. Radley v. Gaylor, 98 App. Div. 158, 90 N. Y. S. 758.

38, 39. Yonge v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 184.

40. Corresponding to trespass on the case; further prosecution of the case is unnecessary. Yonge v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 184.

41, 42. Yonge v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 184.

43. Conkling v. Austin [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 911.

44. Lien held good for one-half settlement, not for one-half judgment. Gurley v. Gruenstein, 44 Misc. 268, 89 N. Y. S. 887.

45. Gurley v. Gruenstein, 44 Misc. 268, 89 N. Y. S. 887.

46. Smith v. Acker Process Co., 92 N. Y. S. 351.

47. Under Acts 1901, p. 46, attorney had lien on proceeds of settlement of suit for specific performance of contract for realty, deeds being executed. Conkling v. Austin [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 911.

48. See 3 C. L. 389.

49. Not after deposit in court. Quakertown & E. R. Co. v. Guarantors' Liability Indemnity Co., 209 Pa. 121, 58 A. 277.

50. Where an attorney has been discharged by his client, his interest in the judgment will not be forfeited because he in good faith opposes a settlement between the parties to the judgment, which he deems prejudicial to his interest. Shoup v. Shoup, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 552.

51. Burleigh v. Palmer [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1068.

52. See 3 C. L. 389.

53. No recovery by plaintiff's attorney from defendant when plaintiff was solvent. Gurley v. Gruenstein, 44 Misc. 268, 89 N. Y. S. 887.

may continue the trial to establish and enforce their lien for compensation.[54] But such right to continue ceases where the adverse party offers to pay costs and compensation to which the attorneys are entitled, tendering a sum for the purpose, and requesting judgment for what is claimed beyond such sum,[55] since the court then has power to determine the amount to which the attorneys are entitled and enforce a settlement and end the case.[56] When the suit is so prosecuted, there can be no recovery for fees unless the evidence is of such a character that a recovery in behalf of the client would have been authorized if the suit were still proceeding for his benefit.[57] An order of continuance to determine and enforce an attorney's lien should not be made where it does not appear that the client is not financially able to pay the attorney.[58] Code remedies for enforcement of attorney's liens are not exclusive, but only cumulative, since courts of equity have always had power to ascertain and enforce liens.[59] Where the attorney had a valid contract interest in proceeds he may sue as for money had and received after it has been paid over,[60] or may at his option enforce any contract lien [61] even against an assignee.[62] Statutory power in a court to determine and enforce an attorney's lien necessarily includes the power to determine whether a lien exists or not.[63] In an action to declare a lien on a contract between a client and a third person, and on money due defendant thereunder, the third person is not a necessary party.[64]

§ 8. Authority of attorney to represent client.[65] Creation, proof and termination of authority.[66]—Where an attorney appears in an action for a defendant, the presumption is that he was authorized to appear.[67] It is not necessary that the attorney shall have signed pleadings or be of record.[68] The authority of attorneys must be promptly challenged.[69] A statute requiring proof of authority when the opposite party is in default does not apply where only one of two joint adversaries defaults.[70] The existence of authority is a question of fact.[71] A judg-

54. Code Civ. Proc. § 66. Kuehn v. Syracuse Rapid Transit R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 883. To recover their fees, attorneys are frequently allowed to continue, in their own interest, actions which their clients have settled, abandoned or otherwise prevented their attorneys from completing. While the suit was pending, the defendant paid to the plaintiff a sum of money in full satisfaction of her demand and she signed a paper releasing the company from liability. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Owens, 119 Ga. 833, 47 S. E. 213.

55, 56. Kuehn v. Syracuse Rapid Transit R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 883.

57. As there could have been no recovery on the part of the plaintiff, the attorneys could not recover. Atlanta R. & Power Co. v. Owens, 119 Ga. 833, 47 S. E. 213.

58. Code Civ. Proc. § 66. Smith v. Acker Process Co., 92 N. Y. S. 351.

59. Mathot v. Triebel, 98 App. Div. 328, 90 N. Y. S. 903.

60. Where an attorney contracted to take necessary proceedings to recover damages for the taking of property in street opening proceedings, and to receive one-eighth of the award as compensation, an action against a grantee of the premises to whom the award was paid to recover such agreed compensation is an action for money had and received and not to enforce an attorney's lien. Flannery v. Geiger, 92 N. Y. S. 785.

61, 62. The fact that such grantee took the premises and award subject to the attorney's lien and that the attorney might have enforced the lien does not bar such action on the contract of retainer for money had and received. Flannery v. Geiger, 92 N. Y. S. 785.

63. Code Civ. Proc. § 66, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 80, c. 61, construed. Radley v. Gaylor, 98 App. Div. 158, 90 N. Y. S. 758.

64. Mathor v. Triebel, 98 App. Div. 328, 90 N. Y. S. 903.

65, 66. See 3 C. L. 390.

67. Ebel v. Stringer [Neb.] 102 N. W. 466. A general or special appearance in an action by an attorney is presumptive evidence of the authority of the attorney to so appear. Cutting v. Jessmer, 91 N. Y. S. 658.

68. A party held to have been represented where though other attorneys had signed pleadings, the party's husband, a practicing lawyer, appeared with her knowledge and consent. Wilkie v. Reynolds [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 179.

69. Authority to appear at trial cannot be raised for first time on appeal. Bray v. Bray [Iowa] 103 N. W. 477. By admitting service of papers on a motion for a new trial by an attorney for defendant without objection, and by serving papers in plaintiff's behalf on such attorney, the objection that the attorney is not the attorney of record is waived. Smith v. Smith, 145 Cal. 615, 79 P. 275.

70. By statutory provision in Michigan Comp. Laws, § 762, it is provided that authority to appear as attorney may be either

ment reciting an appearance by attorney is conclusive as to the appearance of the attorney but not on the question of the attorney's authority to make the appearance.[72] Declarations of the attorney are incompetent to prove the scope of his authority.[73] An attorney acting for a client in a justice court acts as an attorney in fact, and his authority ceases when the case is finally submitted.[74] Authority cannot be revoked after it is executed.[75]

Scope of authority.[76]—An attorney has power to bind his client by acts within his actual or implied authority.[77] Unauthorized acts may be repudiated [78] or ratified,[79] and as to third persons the rule as to apparent authority applies.[80] Notice to an attorney as to matters within the scope of his retainer is notice to the client.[81] The authority of an attorney extends to all acts needful to the prosecution or defense of the suit in which he is retained.[82-87] written or verbal, and shall be proved in all cases when requested by the opposite party, or where the opposite party fails to appear. Hirsh v. Fisher [Mich.] 101 N. W. 48.

71. Evidence held to justify conclusion that attorney who appeared, conducted the trial, and made affidavit for appeal, was authorized to represent defendant so that a stipulation signed by him was binding. Markey v. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 84 S. W. 61. Evidence held not to show absolute agreement by attorney to represent plaintiff in action; hence plaintiff not excused from personally attending to prosecution. Harrison v. Oak Cliff Land Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 821,

72. Evidence showed no authority to appear. Korman v. Grand Lodge of the U. S., 44 Misc. 564, 90 N. Y. S. 120.

73. West v. A. F. Messick Grocery Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 565.

74. Cutting v. Jessmer, 91 N. Y. S. 658.

75. Settlements had been made. Foot v. Smythe [Colo. App.] 78 P. 619.

76. See 3 C. L. 390. Agency of attorney for client. See Clark and Skyles Agency, pp. 1365-1616.

77. Client is bound by acts of attorney representing him in an action to which he has expressly or impliedly consented. Hill's Adm'r v. Penn. Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 759. A bondholder's counsel has no authority as such to waive payment of interest. Real Estate Trust Co. v. Union Trust Co. [Md.] 61 A. 228. Client is chargeable with the action, mistake or inadvertence of his attorney. Application for a reissue of a patent with broader claims, made six years after patent granted, the only excuse being that he was unaware of the narrow scope of his claims. In re Starkey, 21 App. D. C. 519. A client is liable for acts of his attorney done in his presence and sanctioned by him. Client held liable for acts of his attorney in inducing a justice to issue a criminal warrant without sanction of prosecuting attorney, as required by Rev. St. 1899, § 2750. Brueckner v. Frederick [Mo. App.] 83 S. W. 775. Unauthorized act of attorney in causing debtor's arrest does not render client liable. West v. A. F. Messick Grocery Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 565.

78. A client may repudiate a stipulation made by his attorney not pursuant to general authority, but in the mistaken belief that he had a special authority to make it. Schaefer v. Schoenborn [Minn.] 103 N. W. 501.

79. Where he exceeds his authority and the client takes advantage of it, it is a ratification of the attorney's act and the client is bound thereby. Leahy v. Stone, 115 Ill. App. 138.

80. Where an attorney has apparently full authority to act, without any restriction whatever, the client will be bound by his acts, notwithstanding violation of secret restrictions. As where a client authorized his attorney to settle his claim, which authority was known to the other party, the attorney's act in compromising the claim is binding on the client, though in so doing he violated restrictions the other parties had no notice of. Kelly v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 583.

81. Knowledge by attorney that trustee with power of sale for reinvestment is selling to his own wife is knowledge of his client. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. v. Clowney [S. C.] 49 S. E. 569. The assignee of a judgment was chargeable with the knowledge of his attorney who negotiated the assignment concerning litigation affecting the judgment. Boice v. Conover [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 159. One who merely deals with a person who, though an attorney, acts for his own interest, is not charged with what the attorney knows. The attorney having been requested to ascertain whether his client would sell a pending application for a patent, bought such application himself, without disclosing the fact that he was acting for any one else, and then at a profit resold and assigned the same to complainant. National Cash Register Co. v. Columbus Watch Co. [C. C. A.] 129 F. 114. Knowledge acquired by an attorney in the course of the performance of his duties as such is notice to the client. Knowledge of existence of mortgage, not of record, acquired by attorney employed to draw up and acknowledge deed, is notice to client. Allison v. Falconer [Ark.] 87 S. W. 639. To bind a principal with knowledge of his attorney, acquired in another transaction, not relating to his client's business, the burden is on the person claiming such notice to show that such knowledge was in the attorney's mind at the time he acted for his client. Knowledge of existence of mortgage. Mathews v. Damainville, 100 App. Div. 311, 91 N. Y. S. 524. Notice by the attorney for the plaintiff in a personal injury action against a municipality to the attorney for the owner of the property where accident happened in another suit is not such notice as will affect the owner. Chester v. Schaffer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 162.

§ 9. Rights and liabilities to third persons.[88]—The client is liable for acts of his attorney within the scope of his authority, though such acts are unwarranted by law.[89] An attorney who causes attachment to issue becomes personally liable to the sheriff for fees and charges where the attachment is vacated for legal insufficiency of the papers on which it was granted.[90] An action to recover excessive costs, paid out by an attorney for his client or appropriated to pay himself, before an order reducing costs was made, should be brought against the successful party and not against his attorney.[91]

§ 10. Law partnerships and associations.[92]—A member of a partnership engaged in the practice of law has implied authority to bind the firm by a contract for the purchase of law books.[93]

§ 11. Public attorneys. A. Attorneys general,[94, 95]—An attorney general with constitutionally defined powers has no power except such as are thus given.[96]

82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87. An attorney may make a binding stipulation extending the time for the service of papers. Morris v. Press Pub. Co., 98 App. Div. 143, 90 N. Y. S. 673. An attorney employed for the purpose of collecting has no implied authority to extend the time of payment of claims in his hands. Mason v. Edward Thompson Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 507. The entry of a special appearance does not authorize counsel so appearing to appeal from a default judgment against his client. Houston v. Greensboro Lumber Co., 136 N. C. 328, 48 S. E. 738. Where an attorney has appeared for a party throughout the entire proceedings in a case, his authority to sign a notice of appeal is presumed. Kefauver v. Batdorf, 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 427.

Compromise of claim: An attorney employed to bring and prosecute a suit has no power by reason thereof to compromise his client's claim. Kelly v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 583; Fleishman v. Meyer [Or.] 80 P. 209. He may not settle a judgment for less than its face. Burgraf v. Byrnes [Minn.] 103 N. W. 215. An attorney has the power to promise an opposite party to pay her the amount of her claim in consideration of her dismissal of her suit, and such promise is binding on the client. Grand Lodge, Independent Order Free Sons of Israel v. Ohnstein, 110 Ill. App. 312.

Admission of facts: Attorney may bind client by admissions dispensing with formal proof of facts. Everett v. Marston [Mo.] 85 S. W. 540. Cannot bind his client by an admission, not of record, without express authority. In an action for goods sold and delivered, it appeared that defendant's counsel in going over the items in the bill of particulars with plaintiff's counsel in the court room admitted the sales between specified dates. Jefferson Bank v. Gossett, 90 N. Y. S. 1049. May on the brief in the supreme court admit facts. Territory v. Board of Com'rs of Bernalillo County [N. M.] 79 P. 709. Stipulation as to facts by attorney of record is binding on client. J. L. Raper Lumber Co. v. Elizabeth City Lumber Co. [N. C.] 49 S. E. 946. May make admissions upon the trial. Preston v. Davis, 112 Ill. App. 636; Harniska v. Dolph [C. C. A.] 133 F. 158.

May in advance of the trial stipulate that the judgment shall be final. Leahy v. Stone, 115 Ill. App. 138.

Cannot employ associate counsel therein at the expense of his client. An attorney may empower another attorney to appear for him and the client is bound by such appearance. Reich v. Cochran, 94 N. Y. S. 404; Lathrop v. Hallett [Colo. App.] 77 P. 1095.

May confess judgment: Town of Chalmers v. Tandy, 111 Ill. App. 252. An agreement made in open court by an attorney, who has been retained by the defendant, that a judgment may be taken against his client for a certain sum, is binding upon such client in the absence of fraud, collusion, surprise, or some ground of the same nature. Mericden Hydro-Carbon Arc. Light Co. v. W. A. Anderson, 111 Ill. App. 449.

88. See 3 C. L. 392.

89. Where defendant placed a claim in the hands of an attorney, who recovered judgment thereon, in absence of any limitation of his authority the attorney is authorized to collect the judgment by execution; hence the client is liable for damages sustained by reason of an unlawful levy in violation of a stay. Barber v. Dewes, 91 N. Y. S. 1059.

90. Gadski-Tauscher v. Graff, 44 Misc. 418, 89 N. Y. S. 1019.

91. Rickert v. Pollock, 92 N. Y. S. 89.

92. See 3 C. L. 392. Settlement of accounts on dissolution. See Gillette v. Chavez [N. M.] 78 P. 68.

93. Alley v. Bowen-Merrill Co. [Ark.] 88 S. W. 838.

94, 95. See 3 C. L. 392. Information in equity by Attorney General, see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. 90-92.

96. Under Kirby's Dig. art. 6, c. 62, defining the duties of the attorney general of the state of Arkansas, held that in a suit against the State Board of Railroad Commissioners to restrain the collection of taxes on assessments made by them, the attorney general had no power to intervene on behalf of the state. Railroad Tax Cases, 136 F. 233.

Statutes enabling the attorney general to employ assistants do not forbid him to act through an unofficial attorney.[97]

(§ 11) B. District and state's or prosecuting attorneys.[98]—Statutes creating the office of county attorney and providing for election to the same must conform to constitutional provisions [99] and elections must conform to valid statutes.[1] A commonwealth's attorney duly elected in a county in which he resides is not disqualified by a subsequent legislative change in the boundaries of the district making him a nonresident,[2] since, though a legislature be given power to abolish the office, it cannot abolish the tenure of any rightful incumbent thereof.[3] County authorities may unless excluded by statute hire attorneys but cannot make them public officers.[4]

It is the province of the county board and not of the county attorney to determine whether the county shall bring an action,[5] and it is his duey to conduct the case.[6] A prosecuting attorney may accept notice of a writ of error in a criminal case and waive the issuance and service of summons in error and enter the appearance of the state.[7] A case which is only criminal in its nature is not a criminal case which the public prosecutor must conduct.[8] In Georgia the constitution imposes upon the solicitor general the burden of representing the state in all caess taken up from his circuit to the supreme court.[9]

A county attorney must be candid, honest and sincere in his official conduct.[10] The law presumes that he acted in good faith in all matters charged against him, and the burden is on the state to show otherwise in quo warranto for official misconduct.[10a] It may bear on the question of good faith in prosecuting a particular offense that he was aware of the general and public violation of law in that regard.[11] A county attorney in Kansas is not obliged to institute proceedings for the punishment of offenders against the prohibitory liquor law upon his own knowledge,[12] but when he receives an information according to the statute he must proceed [13] and cannot await the outcome of a prosecution simultaneously begun under a city ordinance supposedly thought to be more speedy in its administration.[14] In order to mandamus a district attorney the petition must allege and clearly show

97. Appeal in application for the registration of land title could be taken by the attorney general or unofficial attorney. McQuesten v. Attorney General, 187 Mass. 185, 72 N. E. 965.

98. See 3 C. L. 393.

99. Acts 1903, c. 576, extending term of county attorney as fixed by Acts 1899, c. 362, held unconstitutional in part. State v. Trewhitt [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 480.

1. Election of county attorney for one year by county court held regular under Acts 1899, c. 352, an amendment thereto not having become effective. State v. Trewhitt [Tenn.] 82 S. W. 480.

2, 3. Adams v. Roberts, 26 Ky. L. R. 1271, 83 S. W. 1035.

4. County supervisors in New York York may employ attorneys for necessary legal services but cannot create an office of attorney with a regular term and quarterly salary. Vincent v. Nassau County, 45 Misc. 247, 92 N. Y. S. 32.

5. Kerby v. Board of Com'rs of Clay County [Kan.] 81 P. 503.

6. County attorney is authorized to prosecute an appeal from order of fiscal court when so directed by the county court. Jefferson County v. Young [Ky.] 86 S. W. 985. By statutory provision in Kentucky, county attorneys are required to prosecute appeals from orders of the fiscal court when directed to do so by the county court. Ky. St. 1903, § 127. Boyd County v. Arthur, 26 Ky. L. R. 906, 82 S. W. 613.

7. Nichols v. State [Ohio] 73 N. E. 220.

8. A contempt proceeding growing out of a liquor injunction case in Iowa, brought by a citizen, may be prosecuted by any attorney though criminal in its nature. Brennan v. Roberts, 125 Iowa, 615, 101 N. W. 460.

9. Williams v. State, 121 Ga. 195, 48 S. E. 938.

10. Action to remove a county attorney charged with violating his duty in respect o the enforcement of the prohibitory liquor law State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

10a. Evidence held insufficient. Id.

11. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

12. Whenever notified by an officer or other person of any violation of that law, it is his duty forthwith diligently to exercise all the authority conferred upon him by law for the purpose of disclosing, prosecuting and punishing the offender. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854, following State v. Foster, 32 Kan. 14, 3 P. 534.

13, 14. State v. Trinkle [Kan.] 78 P. 854.

that his refusal to act has been an arbitrary act and not merely a mistake of judgment.[15]

The appointment of assisting prosecutors is generally provided for by statute,[16] thought it is said that a court has inherent power to appoint a temporary substitute for an unwilling public prosecutor,[17] and in the absence or inability of the district attorney the business of the state continues under the direction of substitutes.[18] That a substitute for a district attorney had been previously consulted by citizens in regard to the particular action prosecuted by him does not disqualify him, his private employment having ceased.[19] If a statute prescribes the form of the appointment of assistant county attorneys, such forms must be complied with.[20] When a district attorney insists on a defendant pleading to an information, drawn and subscribed by his deputy in the name of the district attorney, he thereby ratifies such subscription and sanctions it by his official oath.[21] Some official act done is necessary to make one a de facto assistant.[22] The court will take judicial notice of the powers of a deputy appointed under statute [23] and presumes the regularity of his appointment when he has acted as such.[24]

Salaries and compensation are statutory matters.[25] Where, as in California, the statute declares that salaries and fees provided therein shall be in full for all services rendered by him or his deputies, the county attorney cannot claim extra compensation for a deputy or assistant,[26] or the statute be avoided by appointing or allowing for the services of a salaried assistant,[27] nor can the services of such in aiding to perform the district attorney's duties be regarded as his "personal" expenses.[28] Under the Kentucky statutes and constitution allowing the commonwealth attorney fifty per cent. of fines and forfeitures recovered and paid into the 15. Application to compel defendant to institute quo warranto proceedings to test a franchise. Buggeln v. Doe [Ariz.] 78 P. 367.

16. Rev. St. 1898, § 750, does not require statement of cause for appointment of assisting prosecutor, but only when district attorney pro tem is appointed. Colbert v. State [Wis.] 104 N. W. 61.

17. When a state's attorney, though in attendance upon the court, refuses to discharge his duties, the court has the implied power to appoint some other member of the bar to appear before the grand jury during the examination of the evidence to advise them on questions of law and to frame indictments. Taylor v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 380.

18. District judges are authorized to appoint competent attorneys to represent the state in criminal and civil matters pending before their court, when for any cause the district attorney is excused, necessarily absent or sick, etc. State v. Reid, 113 La. 890, 37 So. 866.

19. State v. Reid, 113 La. 890, 37 So. 866.

20. Where statute authorized county attorneys, by consent of commissioner's court, to appoint in writing, not to exceed three assistants, who shall subscribe the oath of office imposed by the constitution, mere verbal authority to one to represent the county attorney is insufficient. Murrey v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 349.

21. Motion to set aside the information based on the ground that it was not found, indorsed, or presented as required by law. State v. Guglielmo [Or.] 79 P. 577.

22. One who was verbally appointed assistant county attorney did not become a de facto officer from the mere act of signing an information. Murrey v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 349.

23, 24. State v. Guglielmo [Or.] 79 P. 577.

25. In New Mexico salaries are to be paid quarterly. Comp. Laws 1897, § 2578. Territory v. Board of Com'rs Bernallillo County [N. M.] 79 P. 709. Const., § 235, providing that salaries shall not be changed during the term of office is not affected by an act creating another judicial district, the effect of which was to withdraw one of the counties from the district where complainant was commonwealth attorney and lessen the amount of fines and penalties he would have otherwise received, where his salary, $500, and the "percentage" of fines received by him were not changed. Butler v. Stephens [Ky.] 84 S. W. 745.

In Arkansas a deputy prosecuting attorney who secures a conviction in a blind tiger case before a justice is entitled to his statutory fee of $25, though defendant appeals to the circuit court and is again convicted there, for which the prosecutor is entitled to an additional $25. Good v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 638.

26. Such as a stenographer employed in writing letters, pleadings, judgments, opinions, etc., see St. 1897, p. 488, c. 277. Humiston v. Shaffer, 145 Cal. 195, 78 P. 651.

27. Humiston v. Shaffer, 145 Cal. 195, 78 P. 651.

28. County Government Act, § 228. Humiston v. Shaffer, 145 Cal. 195, 78 P. 651.

treasury, up to the total amount allowed as yearly compensation, he has a vested interest in judgments for fines and may look to them for compensation.[29]

United States district attorneys acting as such are presumed to have been rightly appointed, where they are in the undisturbed and unquestioned exercise of the powers of such office.[30] The commission of an assistant to a district attorney or the attorney general of the United States may be signed by the solicitor general when acting as attorney general [31] and the court will judicially notice the incumbency of his office.[32] Such an assistant is not disqualified for a criminal prosecution by having been of counsel in a civil suit in the same connection,[33] and a commission to assist in "preparation and trial" is not strictly construed but includes general authority to act in respect to the case.[34] Assistant district attorneys of the United States being officers of the United States courts [35] cannot be punished by any state court for acts within their duties as such officers.

(§ 11) C. Municipal attorneys.—A municipality so empowered may by ordinance establish a law department and employ an attorney with exclusive power to represent it as such [36] and thereafter the mayor and council cannot bind it for services of a special attorney.[37] No implied contract can arise against a city which departed from the statutory mode of contracting.[38] City attorneys are confined to the authority conferred on them by law.[39]

ATTORNEYS FOR THE PUBLIC, see latest topical index.

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS.

License and regulations.[40]

Sale.[41]—If an auctioneer discloses the fact of his agency the law presumes that he contracted on behalf of his principal,[42] and he is not personally liable for failure of title of the goods sold.[43] Being an agent he cannot purchase for himself or for another,[44] and if he does the sale is void.[45] An announcement by the auctioneer that "everything should be as represented or no sale" applies to every

29. Judgments obtained by him while in office, he is entitled to fifty per cent. up to $4,000, though such judgments are not collected until the year has passed; if he has already obtained $4,000, the balance applies on his next year's pay or the pay of his successor. Hager v. Franklin [Ky.] 84 S. W. 541.

30. It is no objection to an indictment that the appointment of a United State district attorney is invalid on the ground that such attorney is not a permanent resident of the district. United States v. Mitchell, 136 F. 896.

31. Such appointment is sufficient if signed by the solicitor general as "Acting Attorney General," it being presumed without a recital that he was at the time properly acting as such under Rev. St. U. S. § 363. United States v. Twining, 132 F. 129.

32, 33. United States v. Twining, 132 F. 129.

34. He may appear before the grand jury. United States v. Twining, 132 F. 129.

35. Petitioner in his official capacity as assistant United States district attorney, procured the production of state court records before a federal grand jury under an ordinary subpoena duces tecum, and thereafter held possession of such records as such attorney, he was not subject to punishment for contempt of the state court for failure to return such records on demand. In re Leaken, 137 F. 680.

36, 37. Ordinance established a law department and denied the liability of the city for services of any attorney other than the corporation counsel and city attorney. Hope v. Alton, 214 Ill. 102, 73 N. E. 406.

38. Bossard v. Grand Forks [N. D.] 102 N. W. 164.

39. Under the Corporation Court Act, authorizing complaints before such courts to be sworn to before the city attorney, who for that purpose should have power to administer oaths, he has no authority to take an affidavit to a complaint for use before any other court. Johnson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 274.

40, 41. See 3 C. L. 394.

See Clark & S. Agency, 1860-1903, as to agency of an auctioneer.

42. Sufficiency of disclosure held for the jury when the principal's name was not disclosed. Mercer v. Leihy [Mich.] 102 N. W. 972.

43. Goods had been stolen. Mercer v. Leihy [Mich.] 102 N. W. 972.

44. Perkins v. Applegate [Ky.] 85 S. W. 723.

45. Long delay by the owner of the goods in repudiating the transaction is immaterial. Perkins v. Applegate [Ky.] 85 S. W. 723.

articles sold.[46] Latent defects relative to the goods sold must be explained.[47] A tender of an article misrepresented by the auctioneer is not necessary to the rescission of the sale if the purchaser complains and the seller refuses to take the article back.[48] A secret agreement between the owner of the goods and the auctioneer that no sale should be made except on a bid satisfactory to the owner is no defense to an action on the auctioneer's bond to recover the purchase price which he refused to turn over.[49]

AUDITA QUERELA; AUSTRALIAN BALLOTS; AUTREFOIS ACQUIT; BAGGAGE, see latest topical index.

BAIL, CIVIL.

Under the statutes of Michigan a defendant arrested under a capias is not entitled to be released from custody upon the justification of his sureties by affidavit without perfecting the bail according to the rules of court,[50] and the fact that the court has not made any rules relating to the perfection of special bail does not entitle defendant to be discharged before the expiration of the time for taking exceptions to the bail,[51] and the court refusing to release defendant unless the sureties appear in court and justify it in effect establishes a rule that the approval by the court of the sureties is necessary to the perfection of the bail.[52] In an action by sureties against the sheriff for a false return of execution against the principal, failure of the sureties to surrender the principal after action begun on the bond may be pleaded in mitigation.[53]

BAIL, CRIMINAL.

§ 1. Authority to take and right to give bail.[54]—Bail is defined as meaning "to set at liberty a person arrested or imprisoned, on security being taken for his appearance," [55] and the right to it extends, as a rule, to all non-capital crimes,[56]

46. A horse represented to be sound. Bailey v. Manley [Vt.] 59 A. 200.
47. Where lots are sold from a plat it is incumbent on the owners to explain to the public anything on the plat which without explanation might be misleading. Slingluff v. Dugan, 98 Md. 518, 56 A. 837.
48. Bailey v. Manley [Vt.] 59 A. 200.
49. The sale was made to the highest bidder and there was no claim that a "puffer" had been used. Gregory v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 45 Misc. 112, 91 N. Y. S. 595.
50. Comp. Laws, §§ 10,000, 10,032, 10,033, 10,036, 10,037, construed. Ludwick v. Perkins [Mich.] 101 N. W. 66.
51. Comp. Laws, §§ 10,000, 10,031, 10,032, 10,033, 10,036, 10,037, construed. Ludwick Perkins [Mich.] 101 N. W. 66.
52. Ludwick v. Perkins [Mich.] 101 N. W. 66.
53. Prividi v. O'Brien, 91 N. Y. S. 324.
54. See 3 C. L. 395.
55. State v. Davis, 27 Utah, 368, 75 P. 857.
56. The vast majority of crimes are bailable, either as matter of right or as matter of discretion. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 91 N. Y. S. 962. An infant convicted of a misdemeanor and committed to the reform school, pending appeal to the supreme court is entitled to bail. Ball. Am. Codes & St. § 6530. Packenham v. Reed [Wash.] 79 P. 786. The only right of defendant when brought before the magistrate in a bastardy proceeding is to furnish bail acceptable to the magistrate, and the sole power of the magistrate is to admit him to bail. Rev. Codes 1899, § 7842. State v. Carroll [N. D.] 101 N. W. 317. In such cases a formal order holding the defendant for bail is unnecessary. Id. A defendant acquitted of a charge of murder in the first degree by virtue of a conviction of murder in the second degree, upon reversal of such conviction, is entitled to bail, since he cannot again be prosecuted for a capital offense. Ex parte Moore [Tex. Cr. App.] 80 S. W. 620.

either while the accused is waiting trial or pending appeal.[57] It is not designed as a satisfaction of the offense when it is forfeited and paid, but as a means of compelling the party to submit to the trial and punishment which the law ordains for his offense.[58] Cash deposits in lieu of bail are provided for by statute in some states.[59]

§ 2. Making of recognizance and sufficiency thereof.[60]—A recognizance of bail bond, in general, binds to three things: (1) To appear and answer either to a specified charge, or to such matters as may be objected; (2) to stand to and abide the judgment of the court; (3) not to depart without leave of the court; each of which particulars is distinct and independent.[61] The statement in the bail bond of what is regarded as the offense is, at most, but a recital,[62] and errors and imperfections as to that matter are generally immaterial;[63] but in Texas the bond must specify whether the charge is of a felony or misdemeanor,[64] and a recognizance on appeal must give the same information;[65] must state the punishment assessed;[66] the term and court to which the appeal is taken;[67] and must require defendant to abide the judgment of the appellate court "in this cause."[68] It is not necessary for

57. After an appeal from a judgment admitting appellant to bail, if he gives bond and is liberated his appeal will be dismissed. Ex parte Elmore [Tex. Cr. App.] 88 S. W. 347. Upon refusal of bail by the lower court, pending appeal to the supreme court, habeas corpus in the latter court is the proper practice. Packenham v. Reed [Wash.] 79 P. 786. It is within the discretion of the court to admit to bail pending appeal from an order remanding one held under an extradition warrant. Farrell v. Hawley [Conn.] 61 A. 502.

58. State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

59. Deposit with county treasurer. Code Cr. Proc. § 586. McNamara v. Wallace, 97 App. Div. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 591. Statute does not apply to police justices, and the acceptance of such deposit by a police justice is unauthorized. Id. A magistrate may take bail or a deposit of money for defendant's appearance, upon adjournment of an examination, although the crime charged be punishable by imprisonment exceeding five years, the statute prohibiting bail by magistrates in such cases, referring only to bail after the prisoner is held to answer to the grand jury. Code Cr. Proc. § 557; Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 91 N. Y. S. 962. Where a legatee's rights in his legacy are confined to the use of the same for support and maintenance only, he cannot legally deposit it as security for his appearance for examination before a magistrate. Id.

60. See 3 C. L. 396.

61. State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

62. Pernetti v. People, 99 App. Div. 391, 91 N. Y. S. 210.

63. And where a recognizance bond binds defendant to answer an indictment for a violation of a statute, it is not insufficient for merely referring to the statute without describing the offense. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 89, 84 S. W. 1120. In Mississippi it is not essential that bonds and recognizances in criminal cases should describe the offense actually committed, but they are valid to hold the defendant to answer for the offense committed, unless discharged by the court. Code 1892, § 1395. Where a bond was conditioned for appearance to answer the charge of robbery and defendant failed to appear to answer a charge of grand larceny, for which he had been indicted, a judgment on the bond in favor of the state was sustained. Smith v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 335.

64. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 309, subd. 3 (Willson's St. Supp. 1897-1900, p. 92, c. 4). Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 756. A bond, stating that defendant is charged with embezzlement, but not stating the amount, so as to show whether the charge is a felony or a misdemeanor, is insufficient. Nichols v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1113. But a bond that states that defendant was charged with embezzlement of over $50 satisfies the statute, that being a statutory felony. Id. A recital that the charge against the defendant is abortion (State v. Davis, 27 Utah, 368, 75 P. 857), or seduction (Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 756), is a sufficient statement of the offense charged.

65. A recognizance on appeal from a conviction of misdemeanor must state that appellant was convicted of a misdemeanor (Hannon v. State [Tex. r. App.] 87 S. W. 152; Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 756), and not undertake to set out the offense in terms. Hart v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 592.

66. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 887. Hart v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 592; Saufly v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 709; Flynn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 509; Gordon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 1037; Hannon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 152; Thomas v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 353.

67. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 889, as amended by Acts 27th Leg. p. 291, c. 124 (Russell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 589), but a bail bond conditioned for defendant's "personal appearance before the criminal district court of H. county now in session, and to remain from day to day," sufficiently designates the time, place and court before which he is to appear (Nichols v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1113).

68. The absence of the words "in this the recognizance to state that the warrant had a proper return signed by the officer serving it;[69] nor to recite the fact that defendant pleaded;[70] nor to particularly describe the magistrate;[71] nor is it vitiated by requiring the defendant to "further do and receive that which the said court shall then consider," those words being mere surplusage.[72] There is no substantial difference between a recognizance at common law and the one provided by the Missouri statute.[73] A bail bond[74] or recognizance on appeal,[75] accepted without authority of law, is void, and a deposit of money accepted, in lieu of bail, without authority of law, cannot be retained.[76] A recognizance must be signed in the presence of the committing magistrate,[77] and be taken while the court is in session;[78] but the signature of the principal is not necessary to bind the surety,[79] and approval of the bond is not necessary.[80]

§ 3. Fulfillment or forfeiture; discharge; rights and liabilities of sureties.[81]—The dominion of the bail is a continuance of the original imprisonment,[82] the surety signing a bail bond being, in legal effect, substituted for the jailor.[83] A recognizance of bail is taken to secure the attendance of the party accused to answer the indictment and to submit to a trial and the judgment of the court thereon.[84] These obligations are not mere idle forms, but are required and are made for the purposes expressed in them;[85] and actual appearance in court is necessary to prevent the forfeiture of bail.[86] It is the duty of the bail, when ordered by the court, to produce the prisoner,[87] whether or not the charge set forth in the indictment found is identical with that stated in the bail bond.[88] But bail will be exonerated where the performance of the condition is rendered impossible by cause" is a fatal defect. Mallard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1114; Hannon v State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 152. But the use of the words "in this court," instead of "in this cause," will not vitiate the recognizance, when subsequent portions of it show that it was taken in the particular cause. Cassens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 708, 88 S. W. 229.

69, 70. State v. Russ [Me.] 60 A. 704.

71. A recognizance for appearance of defendant, given upon adjournment of a preliminary examination, is not void for failure to state of what township, county and state the justice is a magistrate, the other records in the case sufficiently showing it. Leis v. State [Kan.] 80 P. 949.

72. State v. Russ [Me.] 60 A. 704.

73. State v. Boehm, 184 Mo. 201, 83 S. W. 477.

74. A justice in Mississippi cannot bind a defendant over to appear at the circuit court on a charge of conspiracy to rob, as that is a misdemeanor and justices have final jurisdiction of such offenses. He must dispose of the case. Code of 1892, §§ 2420, 2421. Smith v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 319.

75. In a case that is non-appealable, as in case of a conviction of simple assault and fine of $5, where appeals are not allowed unless the punishment exceeds $100. Thomas v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 353.

76. McNamara v. Wallace, 97 App. Div. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 591; Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 91 N. Y. S. 962.

77. State v. Cornell [S. C.] 50 S. E. 22.

78. In the absence of positive evidence of adjournment before the taking of the bond, it will be assumed that the justice's court, as a committing court, was still in session when the bond was approved. Crumpecker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 564.

79. Evidence held insufficient to show that the surety signed an appearance recognizance in the general sessions on condition that the principal should also sign it. State v. Cornell [S. C.] 50 S. E. 22.

80. It is enough that the constable in whose custody the prisoner was, took the bond, released him and placed it with the committing magistrate. Crumpecker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 564.

81. See 3 C. L. 397.

82. Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716.

83. Pernetti v. People, 99 App. Div. 391, 91 N. Y. S. 210; Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716; State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

84. State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

85. State v. Frankgos [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 79.

86. An offer by defendant's attorney to enter a plea of guilty for him affords no defense in a proceeding to forfeit bail. Wells v. Terrell, 121 Ga. 368, 49 S. E. 319; State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

87. Pernetti v. People, 99 App. Div. 391, N. Y. S. 210.

88. If the greater offense named in the bond includes the smaller offense charged in the indictment, or, if the smaller offense named in the bond forms an element of the greater offense named in the indictment, or if the two offenses contain a common element, or if the charge in the indictment is one growing out of the same circumstances, as did the charge on which the bail was taken, the security will, in either case, be required to produce the body of his principal to answer the indictment.

the act of God, the act of the obligee or the act of the law.[89] Not only is it the duty of the surety to produce his principal to answer whatever charge may be made against him, but it is his further duty to see to it that the principal, at all times during the term of the court to which he is bound to appear, is present to answer the call of the court and to do what the law may require.[90]

The continuance of a criminal case does not release the recognizance given for the appearance of the accused,[91] and a mere order to furnish surety in a larger sum for further examination does not supersede the prior bail bond, so as to release the surety thereon.[92]

The bail has a legal dominion over the accused,[93] and may at any time surrender him to the custody of the law, in discharge of their obligation.[94, 95] If the accused refuses to surrender, the bail can seize him and hold him in order to make delivery in discharge of the bond,[96] and in a proper case may get another to make the seizure for him.[97]

Under the code of North Carolina, providing for the surrender of the principal by his sureties, at any time before execution against him,[98] defendant's appearance, conviction and sentence, without his formal delivery to the custody of the sheriff by order of the court, does not exonerate the bail.[99] The bond given on review is merely an appearance bond and it is error to enter judgment on affirmance against the sureties for the amount of the fine.[1]

§ 4. Enforcement of bond or recognizance.[2]—A recognizance is in the nature of a conditional judgment, subject only to such matters of legal avoidance as may be shown by plea, or to such matters of relief as may induce the court to remit or mitigate the forfeiture.[3] Moneys deposited in lieu of bail are to be treated as if they had been recovered on a recognizance.[4] Where the condition of the bail

Pernetti v. People, 99 App. Div. 391, 91 N. Y. S. 210; Wells v. Ferrell, 121 Ga. 368, 49 S. E. 319. Surety held responsible for prisoner's appearance to answer to an indictment for perjury, growing out of false swearing at the inquest, the charge of homicide on which he was held to bail having been dismissed. Pernetti v. People, 99 App. Div. 391, 91 N. Y. S. 210. Sureties on a bail bond to answer to a charge of larceny from the person, held bound to produce the defendant to answer an indictment for simple larceny. Wells v. Ferrell, 121 Ga. 368, 49 S. E. 319.

89. Accused prevented from appearing by his removal by the court for trial under indictment in another district. In re Beavers, 131 F. 366, citing Taylor v. Taintor, 16 Wall. [U. S.] 366, 21 Law. Ed. 287.

90. State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

91. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604. The St. Louis court of criminal correction, under its power to make rules as to the continuance of criminal examinations (Rev. St. 1899, pp. 2541, 2542, § 15) can adjourn such proceedings for more than ten days, without releasing the bail, notwithstanding the general prohibition of adjournments for more than 10 days contained in section 2448, Rev. St. 1899. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 144, 84 S. W. 1123.

92. After the commencement of the examination the magistrate ordered the principal to furnish surety in a larger sum, but he left the court without furnishing it, and failed to appear for further examination. The surety was held. People v. Newman, 100 App. Div. 436, 91 N. Y. S. 811.

93. State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

94, 95. State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917; Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716.

96. Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716.

97. If the surety is a woman, or physically too weak, or if the accused is at a distant point and out of the reach of his bondsman, the bail may lawfully deputize an agent to seize the body and deliver him to the sheriff. Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716, citing Clark v. Gordon, 82 Ga. 613; Pen. Code 1895, § 935; Taylor v. Taintor, 16 Wall. [U. S.] 371, 21 Law. Ed. 287. Without proof of authority another person than the bail cannot authorize a third person to make such arrest. The son of the bail. Coleman v. State, 121 Ga. 594, 49 S. E. 716.

98. Code, § 1230.

99. Defendant appeared, was tried and convicted and ordered to pay a fine and costs. He excepted and appealed, was ordered to give an undertaking for costs of the appeal, and undertaking to stay the execution on the judgment, and one for his appearance at the next term, but failed to give any of the undertakings or to pay the fine and costs. His bail were held. State v. Schenck [N. C.] 49 S. E. 917.

1. Tucker v. Moultrie [Ga.] 50 S. E. 61.

2. See 3 C. L. 398.

3. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604.

4. Money deposited in lieu of bail for appearance for examination, under Code Cr. Proc. § 192, cannot be recovered, even bond is violated and the bond is duly estreated, a perfect cause of action against the surety is acquired;[5] and a wise and sound public policy requires a rigid enforcement of these bonds when breached.[6] The provision of the South Carolina code that a forfeited recognizance shall be estreated without delay is merely directory.[7] In proceedings to estreat a recognizance, it must be alleged that the signing was in the presence of the magistrate,[8] and that defendant was called at the door of the court house and failed to answer.[9] In Missouri where defendant, without sufficient excuse, fails to appear, the court must cause the fact to be entered and thereupon the recognizance is forfeited;[10] but the mere noting of a forfeiture is not the final determination of the liability of the defendant and his sureties. It is a mere preliminary step to the issuance of scire facias.[11] The truth of the entry of the forfeiture of a recognizance on the record can be contested only by motion to set aside or vacate the entry, or to reverse the order of forfeiture.[12] In Utah,[13] the district court may direct the district attorney to institute an action on a forfeited bail bond.[14] The office and purpose of the scire facias is to notify the sureties of the default of their principal and afford them opportunity to show cause why execution should not issue against them.[15] In Tennessee a scire facias in proceedings on a forfeited recognizance is not defective merely because it fails to recite "in the name of the state," where it contains every material statement in the form prescribed;[16] nor will it be quashed, because it was issued against the sureties alone.[17] A variance between a bail bond stating that defendant is charged with seduction and a scire facias stating that he was charged with a felony is immaterial.[18] A demurrer to a scire facias in proceedings to enforce a recognizance bond is waived by pleading over.[19] The answer of the bail to the scire facias must be in writing,[20] and cannot contradict or traverse the entry of the forfeiture.[21] In sufficiency of the indictment is no defense to proceedings to forfeit bail for nonappearance.[22] A judgment on a scire facias upon a recognizance of bail is a bar though an executor deposits funds belonging to an estate. Code Cr. Proc. § 596. Sutherland v. St. Lawrence County, 91 N. Y. S. 962.

5. Kirk v. United States [C. C. A.] 137 F. 753.

6. State v. Frankgos [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 79. A suit or scire facias founded on the forfeiture of a recognizance is a collateral proceeding. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604.

7. Cr. Code 1902, § 85. A proceeding in 1903 to estreat a recognizance forfeited in 1897 held not barred by laches. State v. Cornell [S. C.] 50 S. E. 22.

8. An allegation that defendant was bound over in a bond signed by two sureties is a sufficient compliance. State v. Cornell [S. C.] 50 S. E. 22.

9. Special proceedings to estreat a recognizance do not fall within rule 60 of the circuit court that, where a party has suffered a nonsuit, all proceedings in a new action shall be suspended until the costs of the former action have been paid, so as to bar the state, because of its failure to pay costs of action by the state against the surety on the recognizance on the civil side of the court. State v. Cornell [S. C.] 50 S. E. 22.

10. State v. Boehm, 184 Mo. 201, 83 S. W. 477.

11. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 89, 84 S. W. 1120.

12. An answer denying the truth of the record, though informal, will be treated as such motion, when that appears to have been the intention of defendant. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604.

13. Sess. Laws 1901, p. 70, c. 69. State v. Davis,, 27 Utah, 368, 75 P. 857.

14. McNamara v. Wallace, 97 App. Div. 76, 89 N. Y. S. 591; State v. Davis, 27 Utah, 368, 75 P. 857.

15. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 89, 84 S. W. 112.

16. Acts 1897, p. 183, c. 47. State v. Frankgos [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 79.

17. Under Shannon's Code, § 4484, persons jointly or severally, or jointly and severally bound in the same instrument may all or any of them be sued in the same action. State v. Frankgos [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 79.

18. Wisdom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 756.

19. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 89, 84 S. W. 1120.

20. Cr. Code, § 94, subsec. 3 provides that all the proceedings subsequent to the summons shall be the same as in ordinary civil actions. Bonner v. Com. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1185.

21. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604.

22. The clause in a recognizance "not to depart the court without leave" is a very significant one. State v. Boehm, 184 Mo. 201, 83 S. W. 477.

to defenses which might have been made against the scire facias,[23] and cannot be released by the court at a later term.[24] In Missouri an appeal in proceedings by scire facias to enforce a recognizance, in a case of felony, lies to the supreme court, though the amount involved was but $600 and costs;[25] and such an appeal is not an original action at law, but a continuation of the criminal proceedings.[26] Where a surety resides in another district from that in which the bond was filed and remains there, his personal liability on the bond must be established in the district where he resides.[27] Under a statute requiring the return of a bail bond to the clerk of the court at which the defendant is required to answer, but not requiring it to be filed,[28] a complaint is not insufficient because it failed to allege the filing of the bond.[29] Defendants in an action on a bail bond, without putting in a plea of non est factum, may raise the objection that the bond was taken when the court was not in session and was void.[30] In an action on a forfeited recognizance, no judgment can be rendered against the bail in the absence of the record from the examining court showing that the accused was held over and was in custody.[31] Under the statutory provisions of Missouri, a judgment for the state, in proceedings to enforce a recognizance bond, is not reversible merely because the scire facias recited a forfeiture on a day other than the one when forfeiture was noted.[32]

§ 5. Remission of forfeiture and return of deposit in lieu of bail.[33]—An application for the reduction or remission of the penalty in forfeited recognizances is addressed to the discretion of the court;[34] and is to be exercised only in extreme cases.[35] The refusal of a motion to set aside the entry of forfeiture does not prevent the granting of relief under the statute authorizing a reduction or remission of the penalty in the discretion of the court.[36] Money deposited in lieu of bail is placed in the possession and control of the court, with power to order it paid to the county treasurer in case of default or to return it to the accused or his order, in case of surrender before default.[37] A deposit of money in lieu of bail,[38] which is made by a third person, not as a loan to the accused but as a pledge to secure his release, cannot be assigned by the accused after surrendering himself, so as to give the assignee any right thereto as against the depositor.[39]

BAILMENT.[40]

§ 1. Definition and mode of creation.[41]—A bailment is in a sense the holding of goods in trust.[42] It is the delivery of personal property to be held for some 23, 24. State v. Boner [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 944.

25, 26. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 89, 84 S. W. 1120.
27. Kirk v. United States [C. C. A.] 137 F. 753.
28. Rev. St. 1898, § 4686. State v. Davis, 27 Utah, 368, 75 P. 857.
29. State v. Davis, 27 Utah, 368, 75 P. 857.
30. Crumpecker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 79 S. W. 564.
31. Bonner v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1185.
32. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 89, 84 S. W. 1120.
33. See 3 C. L. 399.
34. North Carolina Code, § 1205. The action of the court is not reviewable in the supreme court. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604.
35. Shannon's Code, § 5182. It does not authorize relief merely because the sureties have, in good faith and at much expense, made unavailing efforts to recapture the criminal. State v. Frankgos [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 79.
36. Code, § 1205. State v. Morgan, 136 N. C. 593, 48 S. E. 604.
37. Rev. Laws, c. 217, §§ 78, 79. Way v. Day [Mass.] 73 N. E. 543.
38. Rev. Laws, c. 217, §§ 77-79. Way v. Day [Mass.] 73 N. E. 543.
39. Way v. Day [Mass.] 73 N. E. 543.
40. As to particular kinds of bailments, see such topics as Animals (Agistment) 5 purpose and to be returned when the object of the delivery is accomplished.[43] There is no intent to pass title as there must be in a sale.[44] It is not necessary that there be an express stipulation for the return of the property, although the right to compel their redelivery must exist.[45] Though return in specie is not indispensable,[46] the fact that the contract contemplated a use of the property making such return impossible is to be considered in determining the nature of the transaction.[47]

§ 2. Rights and liabilities as between bailor and bailee.[48]—An ordinary bailee is not an absolute insurer, but it is possible for him to change his common-law liability by a special contract,[49] and to fix the measure of liability.[50] But an

C. L. 117; Banking and Finance, 5 C. L. 347; Carriers, 3 C. L. 591; Warehousing and Deposits, 4 C. L. 1820.

41. See 3 C. L. 400.

42. Nicolette Lumber Co. v. People's Coal Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 575.

43. A Delaware statute provides that the property must be the subject of larceny in order to be embezzled by the bailee. 19 Del. Laws, p. 1134, c. 782. State v. Seeny [Del.] 59 A. 48. Within the meaning of article 938, Texas Pen. Code 1895, the intrusting of a horse to an employe is a bailment and the riding to a different place than ordered constitutes sufficient conversion to convict for embezzlement. Wilson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 82 S. W. 651.

44. Deburghraeve v. Antenrieth, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 267. Goods shipped on trial or der with right to test the same for 20 days is a bailment unless goods are longer retained. O'Donnell v. Wing, 121 Ga. 717, 49 S. E. 720. A lease of a piano to be terminated at any time, payment to be made for use of instrument which should become property of lessee on payment of certain sum, is a contract of bailment. Painter v. Snyder, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 603. Where plaintiff should install a machine to be paid for in three payments, defendant to afford facilities and keep machine insured, it was held the transaction did not come within the definition of bailment but title passed to defendant. Wiliam R. Trigg Co. v. Bucyrus Co. [Va.] 51 S. E. 174. The intention of the parties to make a sale as originally expressed does not prevent a change to a bailment while contract is executory. In re Naylor Mfg. Co., 135 F. 206. Intention to make a pledge of stock and not a sale is illustrated in In re McLean-Bowman Co., 138 F. 181. If no other facts appear in the case than that merchandise has been shipped by one party to another to be sold on commission, there is a bailment and not a transfer of title. Williamson & Co v. Prairie Queen Milling Co., 111 Ill. App. 373.

45. A contract to "let, lease and hire" a horse for a definite term, rent to be paid monthly, constitutes a contract of bailment. Porter v. Duncan, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 58. If there is no provision for the return of the goods or the payment of commissions and the goods are to be paid for when sold, there is a sale and not a bailment. In re Martin-Vernon Music Co., 132 F. 983. But if a sender of goods reserves a right to compel their return,, is to pay commissions for their sale and is to return any advances made by the consignee, the transaction is a bailment. In re Flanders [C. C. A.] 134 F. 560.

46. To constitute a bailment of stock it is not essential that the identical certificates received by the bailee be returned, but valid certificates of the same kind and for an equivalent number of shares must be in the bailee's possession. Bunte v. Schumann, 92 N. Y. S. 806.

47. Where grain is delivered at an elevator which does a general buying and selling business with knowledge that the same will be mixed with other grain and sales be made from the mass, the transaction is a sale, not a bailment. Thompson v. Jordan [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1087.

48. See 3 C. L. 401.

49. But a party agreeing to be responsible for all coal after delivery alongside its docks assumes only the liability imposed by law. Fairmont Coal Co. v. Jones & Adams Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 711.

Particular contracts construed: The clause "all of which shall be returned * * * in good order and condition, ordinary wear and tear excepted" did not increase liability of bailee in case of accidental fire. D'Echaux v. Gibson Cypress Lumber Co. [La.] 38 So. 476. A stipulation in a lease that a lessee should not be held liable for damage from the elements does not excuse the want of ordinary care to protect from storm and rain. Sinischalchi v. Baslico, 92 N. Y. S. 722.

NOTE. Warehouseman—Limitation of Liability: The plaintiff stored apples in the defendant's warehouse. During the winter, through the negligence of the defendant, the apples were damaged by freezing. The defendant endeavored to relieve himself from liability by proving that he gave a receipt containing the words "At owner's risk." Held, that the giving of such a receipt did not relieve the defendant from liability for negligence. Denver Public Warehouse Co. v. Munger [Colo. App.] 77 P. 5. A bailee for hire may limit his liability by a special contract and in the absence of fraud, in weight of authority, may contract away his responsibility for any degree of negligence. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co. v. Merchant's Bank, 6 How. [U. S.] 344, 12 Law. Ed. 465. Story on Bailments [9th Ed.] § 22. A contract relieving him from the duty of care he owes must be clear and explicit. The principal case assimilates warehousemen to common carriers and suggests that the term "negligence" should be used, as the New York courts require in express undertaking by a bailee for hire to carry goods safely does not render him responsible for the mischievous act of a third person.[51] A common carrier becomes responsible as a mere bailee when goods are in its possession after sufficient attempts have been made toward delivery.[52]

In a contract of bailment for hire, reasonable and proper care must be used by the bailee.[53] The bailor, also, undertakes to exercise adequate deligence, skill and the latter case. Mynard v. S. B. & R. R. Co., 71 N. Y. 180, 27 Am. Rep. 28. Assuming, as, the court does, that there was sufficient notice to introduce this release into the contract, the words "At owner's risk," according to a rational interpretation, would seem to have accomplished that result. (1 Columbia L. R. 265; Id. 488.) 4 Columbia L. R. 598.

50. The words "just remuneration" used in a contract are interpreted to mean the remuneration allowed by law. Mattern v. McCarty [Neb.] 102 N. W. 468.

51. While a picture is being prepared by bailee for safe carriage, it is injured by willful act of a boy, bailee not liable. Jaminet v. American Storage & Moving Co. [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 128.

52. After holding a shipment of liquor a week with consent of consignee, the carrier is subject as a bailee to Ky. St. 1903, § 2557, subsec. 4. Adams Exp. Co. v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1111. See, also, Carriers, 3 C. L. 591.

53. Mattern v. McCarty [Neb.] 102 N. W. 468. In renting a typewriting machine the bailee must use ordinary care. Phillips v. International Text Book Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 230. Bailee returns to starting point with a horse he knows to be sick. Held, that it cannot be said as a matter of law that defendant did not use ordinary care. Haralson v. Hahl [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1008. But failure to have more than one attendant for a check room at which 300 persons check articles of wearing apparel for hire is negligence. Manson v. Pullman Palace Car Porters' & R. Employes Beneficial Ass'n [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1120.

NOTE. Loss of Goods Resulting From Violation Of Ordinance: Defendant in error sent to plaintiff in error some articles to be laundered. While in the possession of the laundry company, the articles were destroyed by fire, which entered the building of plaintiff in error through windows which were not protected by fire-proof shutters, as required by city ordinance. The ordinance provided that "all brick buildings, except dwelling houses, school houses, churches and all strictly fire-proof buildings, shall have fire-proof shutters on every entrance on the rear walls and courts, with openings within forty feet of each other." In this action to recover the value of the articles destroyed, held, that the ordinance was intended primarily for the protection of the public, and that plaintiff in error was, therefore, not liable for the loss of the goods,—the violation of the ordinance, by plaintiff in error, being of "No evidential value upon the question of negligence." Frontier Steam Laundry Co. v. Connolly [Neb.] 101 N. W. 995. It is frequently difficult to decide whether an ordinance is intended for the protection of individuals or for that of the public only. If the ordinance is not for the benefit of individuals, but is intended to protect only the public, a violation thereof furnishes no ground of action to a private individual as against the one charged with violating the ordinance. Redress must be had from the municipality. Flynn v. Canton Co. of Baltimore, 40 Md. 312, 17 Am. Rep. 603; Heeney v. Sprague, 11 R. I. 456, 23 Am. Rep. 502; Vandyke v. City of Cincinnati & Harbeson, 1 Disney [Ohio] 532; Taylor v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 45 Mich. 74, 40 Am. Rep. 457; Kirby v. Boylston Market Ass'n, 14 Gray [Mass.] 249, 74 Am. Dec. 682; Moore v. Gadsden, 93 N. Y. 12. It might be observed, however, that most of the cases supporting this principal seem to be instances where action was brought against a landowner who had allowed snow or ice to accumulate in front of his premises, contrary to city ordinance, whereby passersby slipped and were injured. In the case under discussion, there was a dissenting opinion, one judge holding that the ordinance was as much applicable to individuals, in the matter of protection, as to the public as a whole. Where ordinances are for the benefit of individuals, there exists a conflict of authority as to the degree of negligence attributable to one whose violation of an ordinance has resulted in loss to another. Some cases go to the extent of holding such violation to be negligence per se. Queen v. Dayton Coal & Iron Co., 95 Tenn. 458, 49 Am. St. Rep. 935, 30 L. R. A. 82; Smith v. The Milwaukee Build. & Trad. Exch., 91 Wis. 360, 51 Am. St. Rep. 912, 30 L. R. A. 504; Billings v. Breinig, 45 Mich. 65; Messenger v. Pate, 42 Iowa, 443; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Brown, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 503; Karle v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 55 Mo. 476; Siemers v. Eisen, 54 Cal. 418; Correll v. B. C. R. & M. R. Co., 38 Iowa, 120, 18 Am. Rep. 22; Central R. Co. v. Curtis, 87 Ga. 416, 13 S. E. 757. Other courts hold that the violation of an ordinance does not constitute negligence per se, but is competent evidence of negligence to be submitted to the consideration of the jury. Knupfle v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 84 N. Y. 488; Conner v. Traction Co., 173 Pa. 602, 34 A. 238; Clark v. Boston & M. R. Co., 64 N. H. 323; Beck v. Vancouver R. Co., 25 Or. 32; Jeffs v. Rio Grande Western Co., 9 Utah, 374; Davis v. Guarnieri, 45 Ohio St. 470, 4 Am. St. Rep. 548; Hayes v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 111 U. S. 228, 28 Law. Ed. 410; Hanlon v. South Boston Horse R., 129 Mass. 310. Even though defendant has violated an ordinance, that fact alone will not fix his liability unless such violation be shown to have proximately caused the injury of which complaint is made. Philadelphia, Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Stebbing, 62 Md. 504; Clisby v. Mobile & Ohio R. Co., 78 Miss. 937; Selleck v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co., 93 Mich. 375; Stone v. Boston & Albany R. Co., 171 Mass. 536, 41 L. R. A. 794; Railway Co. v.

prudence in furnishing the hired article,[54] and assumes all ordinary risks incident to the purpose for which the property is to be used.[55] A gratuitous bailee is required to use ordinary care.[56] The same degree of care is required when a bailment is mutually advantageous to both parties.[57] A bailee not being informed or knowing the use of the bailed article cannot be held liable for special damages caused by its delay.[58] When there is no time stipulated for the return of the property, bailed for the purpose of repair, a reasonable time is allowed the bailee for the doing of his work.[59]

When property is destroyed or injured while in the possession of the bailee, the burden is upon him to show reasonable care.[60] But the evidence of bailor must show that the loss of the property occurred before the redelivery to him.[61] When bailee has shown that injury occurred through operation of forces not within his control, the one complaining must disprove asserted cause of loss or show want of reasonable care.[62] A total default in delivery is prima facie evidence of negligence.[63] Burden of proof may be changed by statute.[64]

The law gives to a common carrier a lien upon property bailed to him,[65] also to a bailee who has cared for it,[66] or to one with whom it has been left for repair while the property is in their possession.[67] A bailee who insures the property which he holds has in case of loss the right to indemnify himself to the full extent of his lien out of the amount for which the property is insured.[68] If he has not

Staley, 41 Ohio St. 118, 52 Am. Rep. 74; Butcher v. W. Va. & P. R. R. Co., 37 W. Va. 180, 18 L. R. A. 519; Sowles v. Moore, 65 Vt. 322, 21 L. R. A. 723.—From 3 Mich. L. R. 404.

54. Ordinary diligence must be used by a livery stable keeper in furnishing a team. Stanely v. Steele [Conn.] 60 A. 640.

55. Plaintiff hiring to defendant horses for logging purposes assumes ordinary risks. Alden v. Grande Ronde Lumber Co. [Or.] 81 P. 385.

56. In case of a gratuitous bailee, liberal construction should be given to clause "Don't pay any money out except for stock." Miller v. Dayton [Minn.] 102 N. W. 862.

57. Mattern v. McCarty [Neb.] 102 N. W. 468.

58. Pine Bluff Iron Works v. Boling & Bro. [Ark.] 88 S. W. 306.

59. Dutton v. Shaw [Miss.] 38 So. 638.

60. Sinischalchi v. Baslico,, 92 N. Y. S. 722; Manson v. Pullman Palace Car Porters' & R. Employes' Beneficial Ass'n [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1120. A horse is injured while in bailee's possession. Bailee must show that injury was not caused by his negligence. Powers v. Jughardt, 91 N. Y. S. 556.

61. Emdin v. Haas, 92 N. Y. S. 312. Proof of delivery of cloth to bailee, appearance of spots on its return and sponging on wrong side, held sufficient to throw burden of proof on the defendant. Cossel v. Altschul, 91 N. Y. S. 1.

62. Defendant introduced evidence to show accidental destruction of horses by fire. Burden is then on bailor to show want of ordinary care. Hunter v. Ricke Bros. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 826.

63. Simonoff v. Fox, 91 N. Y. S. 757.

64. Article 2723, La. Civ. Code. D'Echaux v. Gibson Cypress Lumber Co. [La.] 38 So. 476.

65. Nicolette Lumber CoC. v. People's Coal Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 575.

66. Section 3445, Rev. St. of Idaho 1887, as amended by act of Feb. 9, 1899, gives a bailee a lien in the property which he has cared for and protected while the same is in his possession. If two of three tenants in common employ another person to care for the property, the latter is entitled to a lien. Williamson v. Moore [Idaho] 80 P. 227.

67. Dutton v. Shaw [Miss.] 38 So. 638.

68. Johnston v. Charles Abresch Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 395.

NOTE. Adoption of insurance policy: Defendant, being engaged in the manufacture, sale, and repairing of carriages, etc., procured a policy of insurance covering its goods and all materials and supplies used in its business, "either its own or held by it in trust or on commission or in storage or for repairs." The insured property, including a carriage belonging to plaintiff which was at defendant's shop for repairs, was destroyed by fire. Defendant, in settling with the insurance company, did not claim to recover the value of the carriage, but only so much as was due it thereon for the repairs, although plaintiff had notified both it and the insurance company, immediately after the fire, of her intention to claim indemnity under the policy. Held, that the policy covered the whole value of the carriage, and that plaintiff could recover of defendant her proportional share of the insurance less the amount due for repairs. Johnston v. Chas. Abresch Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 395. Though two of the justices dissented from the holding, it seems to be fully in accord with the great weight of precedent. Warehousemen, commission men, common carriers and bailees generally have such an insurable interest in the bailed goods that they may insure them for their full value, either with or without the knowledge of the owner, and the latter may adopt the contract after the occurrence of proceeded in accordance with the agreement, he may still have a lien for the benefit accepted by bailor less the damages resulting from breach of the contract.[69] A bailee who has a lien may retain possession until charges are paid or tendered.[70] A tender of actual amount is necessary, although an improper one is demanded.[71] A lienor unless otherwise provided by statute loses his lien on surrender of possession of the property.[72] Statutes may limit the right of possession to a certain time or provide for a lien without possession.[73] A bailee who has a lien may be authorized by statute to sell the property and retain the amount of his claim.[74]

A person cannot be made a bailee against his will, but he has no right to remove the property so as to destroy or injure it.[75] When bailee and bailor have agreed upon a place of storage and the bailee later removes the property without the bailor's consent, the former is liable in case of destruction of property by fire.[76] When a lessee provides for the sale of the increase of his stock and the proceeds are to be divided between lessor and lessee, the lessor is entitled to receive his half as soon as property is sold.[77]

§ 3. Rights and liabilities as to third persons.[78]—The purchaser of the bailee gets no better rights than his vendor had,[79] Nor can a carrier have a lien upon goods shipped by a bailee without the owner's authority.[80] The receiver of a consignee has no right to hold bailed property against the owner.[81] If a third person buys from a bailee goods that have been shipped to the latter on a trial order, the loss, as in this case. See 1 May on Insurance, pp. 80, 95; Home Ins. Co. v. Baltimore Warehouse Co., 93 U. S. 527, 23 Law. Ed. 868; California Ins. Co. v. Union Compress Co., 133 U. S. 387, 33 Law. Ed. 730; Pelzer Mfg. Co. v. St. P. Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 41 F. 271; Johnson v. Campbell, 120 Mass. 449; Fire Ins. Ass'n of Eng. v. Merchants' & Miners' Trans. Co., 66 Md. 339, 59 Am. Rep. 162. Defendant in the principal case, being under § 2607, Rev. St. 1898, plaintiff's trustee as to the insurance, and having failed to fulfill his duty to collect the same, was liable for the resulting damages.—From 3 Mich. L. R. 330.

69. By statute (S. D. Rev. Civ. Code, § 2153), plaintiffs were entitled to lien on undelivered hay for compensation due them for services on all the hay part of which had been delivered to bailor. Woodford v. Kelley [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1069.

70. A repairer of machinery has a lien on the property while in his possession for services rendered. Pine Bluff Iron Works v. Boling & Bro. [Ark.] 88 S. W. 306. A bailee under a contract requiring payment when the repairing of machinery is done is entitled to retain possession until the repairs are paid for. Dutton v. Shaw [Miss.] 38 So. 638.

71. Dutton v. Shaw [Miss.] 38 So. 638.

72. When owner of an automobile uses it at pleasure, the keeper of a garage has no lien on it. Smith v. O'Brien, 94 N. Y. S. 673.

73. Statute 1743, Rev. St. of Fla. 1892, limit the right of possession to three months. Replevin may be brought after that time to recover possession by owner. Ocala Foundry & Mach. Works v. Lester [Fla.] 38 So. 51.

74. Proof that the bailee had agreed to notify plaintiff of the foreclosure is without the issues where he sues on the theory that the bailee is a custodian of attached property. Koyukuk Min. Co. v. Van De Vanter, 30 Wash. 385, 70 P. 966.

75. A servant is dismissed and furniture removed so forcibly as to injure it. Employe held liable. Behm v. Damm, 91 N. Y. S. 735. A lessee who refuses to remove or accept his own property at the expiration of the lease cannot sue the lessor for conversion if the latter causes the goods to be stored in a warehouse. Browder v. Phinney [Wash.] 79 P. 598.

76. The measure of damages is reasonable market value of the goods. The action that can be brought is one in the nature of a conversion (formerly a special or innominate action). McCurdy v. Wallblom Furniture & Carpet Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 873.

77. Lessee can be prevented from disposing of property by an injunction. Price v. Grice [Idaho] 79 P. 387.

78. See 3 C. L. 403.

79. The purchaser of a lessee takes subject to the rights of the lessor. Turnbow v. Beckstead, 25 Utah, 468, 71 P. 1062. Where payment only is a prerequisite to the passing of title, the transaction is held to be a conditional sale within statute requiring filing of the contract for the protection of third persons. Pringle v. Canfield [S. D.] 104 N. W. 223. Unless written evidence of the loan be recorded, property left with a bailee for 5 years without demand for it by the bailor is as to an innocent purchaser or creditor of the bailee to be deemed the property of the bailee. (Ky. St. 1903, § 1909). It has no application where property is taken by execution 3 years after delivery, although after the bond is given two more years elapse. Saulsberry v. Fitzpatrick [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1118.

80. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Tolbert [Ga.] 51 S. E. 401.

81. Williams & Co. v. Prairie Queen Milling Co., 111 Ill. App. 373.

the bailment becomes a sale and the vendee gets a good title.[82] A bailee of property has a right to maintain an action and can recover the entire damages.[83] A bailee may insure the property in his possession for the protection of his interest in the same as well as that of the owner.[84] A bailee in possession and control of a conveyance is responsible to a third person for the negligence of his driver.[85] If the proper interpretation of a contract is left doubtful as to whether there is a sale or a bailment, the innocent purchaser should be favored as against the maker of the contract.[86] If an attaching creditor is entitled to the surplus of the proceeds of the sale of goods in the hands of a mortgagee, no claim on the part of the bailor or mortgagor would justify the mortgagee in retaining the goods.[87] A promise by a third party without consideration to restore bailed property to the bailor gives the latter no legal right.[88]

BANKING AND FINANCE.

This article does not treat of depositaries,[89] nor of the bank as a corporation.[90] The taxation of banks and bank stock is treated elsewhere.[91]

§ 1. The occupation in general; regulation, supervision, control.[92]—A bank is an institution authorized to receive deposits of money, to lend money and to issue promissory notes, or to perform some one or more of these functions.[93] The right to carry on a banking business through the agency of a corporation is a franchise,[94] and statutory provisions must be complied with.[95] It is competent for the legislature to provide for publicity of the condition and business methods of an

82. Organ is shipped on trial order with the right to test the same for twenty days. Retention of same for more than 20 days or sale of it ends bailment. O'Donnell v. Wing, 121 Ga. 717, 49 S. E. 720.

83. Waggoner v. Snody [Tex.] 85 S. W. 1134. Plaintiff had possession of personal property of another in her trunk. Property destroyed by carrier. She can sue as bailee but only one suit can be brought. Colvin v. Fargo, 94 N. Y. S. 377.

84. Unless there is an understanding to the contrary between bailee, bailor and insurer, the interest of the bailor is included. Johnston v. Charles Abresch Co. [Wis.] 101 N. W. 395.

85. Kelton v. Fifer, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 603. The owner of property is not responsible for the negligence of the bailee when the former has no right and does not exercise any right of control. Connor v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 241.

86. Dicta in Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918.

87. Scherzer v. Muirhead, 84 N. Y. S. 159.

88. Smith v. Corrigan [Neb.] 101 N. W. 331.

89. See Warehousing and Deposits, 4 C. L. 1820; also Bailment, 5 C. L. 342.

90. See Corporations, 3 C. L. 880; Foreign Corporations, 3 C. L. 1455.

91. See Taxes, 4 C. L. 1605.

92. See 3 C. L. 403.

93. Cyc. Law Dict. p. 86. Note brokers adopting as a branch of their business the making of loans to their customers on the security of the notes held for sale become engaged in the banking business. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562.

94. 3 C. L. 404, n. 12.

95. A certificate of incorporation filed under the act concerning corporations (Revision of 1896, P. L. p. 277) cannot include powers of a banking corporation, or those instalment investment company,[96] and to make a reasonable classification of corporations, companies and individuals for that purpose.[97]

§ 2. Associated or incorporated bankers. Corporate existence.[98]—A bank incorporated under a special charter may forfeit all rights thereunder by proceeding under a general statute.[99] The consolidation of banks is largely governed by statute,[1] a merger under an invalid statute being inoperative and void.[2]

Good will.—A banking corporation may have a good will which, when acquired, constitutes a species of property.[3]

Stock subscriptions and dividends.[4]

Transfer of stock.[5]—Unauthorized action of the directors of a bank in withholding assent to the transfer of stock to a purchaser thereof, preventing the purchaser from reselling the stock before the insolvency of the bank, is not of itself evidence of fraud on the purchaser.[6]

Lien on stock.[7]

General powers.[8]—A state bank upon selling collateral security may guaranty the title, quality, soundness or healthful condition of such security,[9] and, in certain states, may receive deeds of real property as security for past indebtedness as well as for contemplated advances agreed upon.[10]

Reserve fund.[11]

Personal liability of directors and officers.[12] Actions against wrongdoing officers.[13]—A court of equity may, at the instance of a stockholder, entertain a proceeding against the bank and its officers and compel it to account for a fraudulent conversion of its funds,[14] and such court may, if necessary for the preservation of the res, appoint a receiver.[15] Cases dealing with the sufficiency of evidence are given in the notes.[16]

Powers of officers and right to represent bank.[17]—The president of a bank has, within the scope of his general authority, the right to employ counsel to represent of a trust company, or such as are intended to derive profit from the loan and use of money. McCarter v. Imperial Trustee Co. [N. Y. Law] 60 A. 223.

96. State v. Northwestern Trust Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 14.

97. State v. Northwestern Trust Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 14. Classification exempting building and loan associations, savings banks, insurance companies, and fraternal beneficiary associations, is not unreasonable. Id.

98. See 3 C. L. 404.

99. So held where bank changed its name pursuant to Act of June 16, 1887. Boor v. Tolman, 113 Ill. App. 322. In such a case the stockholder's liability is that declared by the general law. Id.

1. Banking Law, § 36, referring to the rights of a stockholder who objects to a proposed merger, refers to the actual owner of the stock and not to the one in whose name the shares are while really belonging to another. In re Rogers, 92 N. Y. S. 465.

2. Boor v. Tolman, 113 Ill. App. 322.

3. Lindemann v. Rusk [Wis.] 104 N. W. 119.

4. See 3 C. L. 404.

5. See 3 C. L. 405.

6. Penfold v. Charlevoix Sav. Bank [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 108, 103 N. W. 572.

7, 8. See 3 C. L. 405.

9. State Bank of Commerce v. Dody [Kan.] 79 P. 1092. May guaranty that cattle are free from disease. Id.

10. A bank organized under the state banking act has such authority under Rev. Codes 1899, § 3230. Merchants' State Bank v. Tufts [N. D.] 103 N. W. 760.

11, 12. See 3 C. L. 406.

13. See 1 C. L. 292.

14. This is true though the right to dissolve such a corporation rests solely in the state. Chandler Mortg. Co. v. Loring, 113 Ill. App. 423.

15. Chandler Mortgage Co. v. Loring, 113 Ill. App. 423. A bill alleging that the assets have been wrongfully converted can be traced by a receiver if appointed, and will be dissipated if a receiver is not appointed, and that the officers of the bank have been discharged in bankruptcy, and that the complainant has received nothing on her investment and that no account has been made with her or her fellow-stockholders, held to make a proper case for the appointment of a receiver. Id.

16. In a suit by a bank depositor against the bank and its president to establish the equitable title of the bank to certain shares of railroad stock claimed by the president as his individual property, evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that the purchase of the stock by a third person was for the use of the president. Dundon v. McDonald [Cal.] 80 P. 1034. Also that the purchase of the stock was not ratified by the bank. Id.

17. See 3 C. L. 407.

the bank in pending or prospective litigation;[18] but in procuring a signature to a note so as to enable another bank to make a loan, he acts without his authority.[19] So, also, in procuring a personal loan he does not bind the bank,[20] and the fact that the bank's directors subsequently pass a resolution to indemnify him therefor gives the lender no rights.[21] In warranting the soundness of another institution in which he is an officer, the president does not represent the bank.[22] A person acting in the place of the president during the absence of the latter has the right to exercise the usual and ordinary functions of the president so far as they are required for the occasion.[23]

The cashier has power to bind the bank by his indorsement, for a consideration passing to the bank,[24] on the bank's paper made for the purpose of transferring the latter;[25] but he has no right or authority to knowingly accept a worthless check on another bank and charge his bank with the amount thereof,[26] or to receive money offered for deposit away from the bank,[27] and if he does so he acts as the agent of the depositor, not of the bank.[28] In order that the statement or admission of a cashier may be taken as the statement or admission of the bank of which he is an officer, he must be acting within the scope of his power or duty as the bank's agent or officer,[29] and the burden is upon the person offering such testimony to establish its admissibility under the rule just stated.[30]

As to whether an officer acts in his official or individual capacity is often a question for the jury.[31]

Unauthorized acts.[32]—Ratification is equivalent to previous authorization.[33]

18. Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398.

19. First Nat. Bank v. Commercial Nat. Bank [Tex.] 87 S. W. 1032. Where he did not act negligently nor made misrepresentations as to the authority of the bank, held not personally liable, the signature being forged. Id.

20. Where money was loaned president and he gave his personal bond for its repayment, held it could not be recovered from the bank, the latter receiving no benefit from the loan. People v. Mercantile Co-op. Bank, 93 N. Y. S. 521.

21. Resolution was without consideration. People v. Mercantile Co-op. Bank, 93 N. Y. S. 521.

22. That such warranty was false is no defense to an action by the receiver of the bank to recover for an overdraft. Earl v. Munce, 133 F. 1008.

23. May employ counsel. Russell v. Washington Sav. Bank, 23 App. D. C. 398. Where in such a case one of four vice-presidents employed counsel, held for the jury whether the employment was for the bank or officer individually. Id.

24. Where by the indorsement the bank obtained money to take up a large indebtedness owing to it by the maker of the note, held a sufficient consideration. First Nat. Bank v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 693.

25. First Nat. Bank v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 693.

26. Van Buren County Sav. Bank v. Sterling Woolen Mills Co., 125 Iowa, 645, 101 N. W. 477. Where by agreement between the cashier and president a worthless check was drawn on another bank to cover the president's shortage as treasurer of another concern and credited, together with a good check, to the latter's account, the latter cannot claim both the amount of the good check and that of the bad. Id. Deposits made by the president to cover overdrafts on his account as treasurer must be applied to the benefit of the concern of which he was treasurer and not to the treasurer's individual account. Id.

27. Demarest v. Holdeman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 714.

Note: This must be distinguished from the right of a cashier to follow up a delinquent debtor of the bank and exact payment from him at any time and place when and where he may be able to do so.—From Demarest v. Holdeman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 714.

28. So held where the cashier made an arrangement to keep books and receive and disburse money for a third person. Demarest v. Holdeman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 714.

29. Harrison County v. State Sav. Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 121. Where the cashier is called as a witness in an action to which the bank is not a party, it is certainly the general, if not the universal, rule that he does not represent the bank so that his statements there made will be admissible against it in a later litigation to which it is a party in interest. Id.

30. Harrison County v. State Sav. Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 121. This is especially true where the statement or admission sought to be proved has reference to a past transaction. Id.

31. As to whether cashier in bank acted in his official capacity or as agent for plaintiff in indorsing note, held a question for the jury. First Nat. Bank v. Anderson [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 693.

32. See 3 C. L. 408.

33. Where cashier purchased land and an Official or individual capacity.[34]—An officer of a bank is an agent thereof,[35] and hence any contract executed by him between himself and the bank is presumptively void [36] and may be avoided by the bank,[37] though actual fraud does not exist.[38] An officer borrowing money from the bank cannot escape liability therefor by agreeing to pay usurious interest; [39] but in such case equity will require him to pay the principal sum and legal interest.[40] Money borrowed and invested by a director will not be regarded as an investment for the bank in the absence of evidence that the interest paid by the director does not equal his profits from the use of the money.[41]

Notice to bank from knowledge of officers.[42]—In order that the knowledge of an officer may be imputed to a bank, it must be shown that the knowledge was acquired while he was acting within the scope of his authority,[43] and as an official of the bank.[44]

Winding up.[45]—In some states depositors are entitled to be paid in full before other creditors are entitled to share in the assets of an insolvent bank.[46] Creditors not joining in an application for permission to reorganize, which application contains an erroneous statement that the bank is solvent, are entitled to a preference over those joining therein, the reorganization scheme failing in operation.[47] A claim acquired after the insolvency of a bank cannot be set off against one's indebtedness to the bank.[48] A bank receiver will not be ordered to do that which is impossible.[49]

Reorganization.[50]

Stockholders' individual liability and the enforcement thereof.[51]—By receiving and accepting dividends [52] and by participating in proceedings to reorganize the bank,[53] a corporation may become estopped to deny its power to purchase and hold the stock.[54] action was begun to compel specific performance by the vendor, a ratification of the cashier's acts held sufficient to allow the bank to maintain the action. Washington State Bank v. Dickson, 35 Wash. 641, 77 P. 1067.

34. See 3 C. L. 409.

35. Northwestern Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Lough [N. W.] 102 N. W. 160. See, also, 3 C. L. 409, n. 15.

36. Deed executed by cashier of a state bank to himself as an individual is, in the absence of affirmative evidence of his authority, presumptively void and of no effect. Northwestern Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Lough [N. D.] 102 N. W. 160.

37. Agreement by president of bank that maker of note on behalf of another corporation in which both the president and maker were interested should not be liable thereon, held not binding on the bank which discounted the note. Bank of Le Roy v. Purdy, 100 App. Div. 64, 91 N. Y. S. 310.

38, 39. Gund v. Ballard [Neb.] 103 N. W. 309.

40. Will not enforce the usurious contract but will simply require him to do equity. Gund v. Ballard [Neb.] 103 N. W. 309.

41. So held where money was borrowed just before the termination of the bank and was repaid. Lindemann v. Rusk [Wis.] 104 N. W. 119.

42. See 3 C. L. 409.

43. In the absence of evidence of the scope of an employee's authority, notice to him of the dissolution of a firm held not notice to the bank. Marsh v. Wheeler [Conn.] 59 A. 410.

44. Knowledge acquired by an officer while acting for his own interests and adverse to those of the bank cannot be imputed to the latter. Bank of Le Roy v. Purdy, 100 App. Div. 64, 91 N. Y. S. 310.

45. See 3 C. L. 410.

46. Code, §§ 1877-83, so provides. State v. Corning State Sav. Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 97.

47. Rumble v. Tyus [Ga.] 51 S. E. 420.

48. Where payment of a certified check was refused after insolvency and the check was returned to the drawer, held, his right of action for the amount of the check or for damages could not be set-off against his indebtedness to the bank. Schlesinger v. Kurzrok, 94 N. Y. S. 442.

49. Where checks drawn on a bank are sent to it for collection and it gives its check on another bank in payment, which check is dishonored and the collecting bank becomes insolvent, the receiver of such bank will not be ordered to return the checks delivered for collection where they have been returned to the drawers as paid. People v. Federal Bank of New York, 94 N. Y. S. 732.

50, 51. See 3 C. L. 411.

52, 53. Hunt v. Hauser Malting Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 1032.

54. Whether or not proof of the manner in which the defendant corporation consented to the agreement to reorganize held

A proceeding to assess stockholders of an insolvent bank upon their superadded liability to creditors is an equitable proceeding,[55] and a decree fixing the amount of the bank's indebtedness and determining the creditors' rights to an assessment is final,[56] and the stockholders, having been served, appearing and contesting the proceeding, may appeal therefrom.[57] In South Dakota a stockholder in an insolvent bank is individually liable to a creditor of the bank up to the par value of his shares,[58] and the creditor may proceed against one or more of the stockholders to recover the amount of his indebtedness in an action at law,[59] or may sue the stockholder upon a judgment recovered against the bank.[60] For the purposes of suit the liability of a stockholder is contractual,[61] and accrues at the time the cause of action arises against the corporation.[62] In those states where the law creating the stockholders' liability is silent as to the time when the cause of action accrues, it is held to accrue immediately upon the insolvency, like default, of the banking corporation.[63] The contructions placed upon various statutes [64] and the sufficiency of the pleadings [65] and evidence [66] in suits to enforce a stockholder's liability are shown in the notes.

§ 3. National banks.[67] Powers.[68]—Questions as to the power of a national bank to buy and hold real estate can only be raised by the Federal government.[69] A national bank has no power to invest its surplus fund in the stock of another national bank,[70] hence, though it purchases such stock and receives dividends thereon, immaterial. Hunt v. Hauser Malting Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 1032.

55. Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253, 78 P. 936. In Washington an appeal lies to the supreme court irrespective of the amount in controversy. Id.

56. Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253, 78 P. 936.

57. Though the corporation is named as defendant. Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253, 78 P. 936.

58. Const. art. 18, § 3, and Civ. Code, § 864, construed. Union Nat. Bank v. Halley [S. D.] 104 N. W. 213.

59. Union Nat. Bank v. Halley [S. D.] 104 N. W. 213.

60. Const. art. 18, § 3, construed. Union Nat. Bank v. Halley [S. D.] 104 N. W. 213.

61. An action to enforce the double liability imposed by Act 1892, p. 156, c. 109, § 85 l is one to enforce a contract within the meaning of Act 1886, p. 307, c. 184, § 170. Coulbourn Bros. v. Boulton [Md.] 59 A. 711.

Contra: Liability of stockholders in national banks. McClaine v. Rankin, 25 S. Ct. 410. See § 3, National Banks.

62. Boor v. Tolman, 113 Ill. App. 322. Not at the time judgment is rendered. Id.

63. So held in Washington. Const. art. 12, § 11, construed. Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253, 78 P. 936. [See case for collection of authorities on this point.]

Note: This case must be distinguished from those relating to stock subscription liability, or to national banks, both of which are governed by entirely different principles. The necessity of a call and assessment on unpaid stock subscriptions is based solely on the express contract of the parties. Scovill v. Thayer, 105 U. S. 143, 26 Law. Ed. 968; Terry v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 628, 24 Law. Ed. 365. The contract of the subscriber to the stock is that he will pay upon a demand by the proper authorities of the corporation. And it has been invariably held that as to the stock subscription liability a call or demand must precede the suit. So, in the national bank cases, the amount of liability in any given case is "to be determined by the comptroller of the currency" (Rev. St. U. S. § 5151 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3465]). Kennedy v. Gibbons, 8 Wall. [U. S.] 498, 505, 19 Law. Ed. 476; Sanger v. Upton, 91 U. S. 56, 23 Law. Ed. 220.—From Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253, 78 P. 936, 941.

64. California: St. 1903, p. 73, c. 65, repealing the bank commission act of 1878, as amended in 1887 and 1895, without a saving clause as to pending litigation, did not affect an action to enforce an assessment on bank stock pursuant to a prior final judgment under the act decreeing the corporation insolvent, and directing the enforcement of stockholders' liability. Union Sav. Bank v. Leiter, 145 Cal. 696, 79 P. 441.

65. Maryland: In an action to enforce the liability of a stockholder in a banking corporation under Acts 1892, p. 156, c. 109, § 85 l, the affidavit, required by Act 1886, p. 308, c. 184, § 171, being accompanied by an account for money due plaintiff as depositor with the corporation of which defendant was a stockholder, setting forth the dates and amounts of all deposits made and the aggregate thereof, with credit for money withdrawn, it is sufficient without filing plaintiff's bank book or defendant's certificates of stock. Coulbourn Bros. v. Boulton [Md.] 59 A. 711.

66. In an action to enforce a stockholder's liability, evidence considered and held to show that the defendant was the real owner of stock standing in the name of his wife. Hunt v. Reardon, 93 Minn. 375, 101 N. W. 606.

67. See 3 C. L. 412. For the powers of officers to represent bank, unauthorized acts, etc., see ante, § 2.

68. See 3 C. L. 412.

69. Minneapolis Threshing Mach. Co. v. Jones [Minn.] 103 N. W. 1017.

it cannot be assessed thereon as a stockholder.[71] Stockholders by ratifying a contract estop themselves from subsequently claiming that it was ultra vires.[72]

Violation of banking act.[73]

Dividends.—Directors of national banks can declare dividends only out of net profits;[74] but, with the approval of the comptroller of the currency, assets which it is not necessary to retain as capital or for the surplus fund may be returned to the shareholders by the directors,[75] and dividends so ordered may be made payable in the future, and on the contingency of future collections on such assets.[76] A dividend declared in favor of those who are then shareholders though payable at a future date, severs the fund to be distributed from the assets of the corporation, and the share of each shareholder vests in him as an individual and he does not lose it on ceasing to be a shareholder.[77] Similarly such shareholders may transfer their rights in the dividend with or without a transfer of their shares of stock.[78]

Rights and liabilities of stockholders and the enforcement thereof.[79]—A stockholder of a national bank has the right to inspect the list of stockholders and to make extracts therefrom for the purpose of negotiating for the purchase of stock,[80] and the right being denied and an application being made to the Federal circuit court for a writ of mandamus, the pleadings must show that the matter in dispute exceeds $2,000 in value or the court has no jurisdiction.[81]

In the absence of exceptional circumstances the stockholder's liability is fixed at the date when the bank goes into liquidation[82] and the stockholder may not thereafter transfer his stock and avoid liability thereon.[83] A stockholder remains liable as to creditors after he has sold his stock if he permits his name to remain on the books as a stockholder unless he does all that he can reasonably do to effect a transfer on the stock register.[84] A stockholder is liable even after making an out-and-out sale of his shares and causing the proper transfer to be made on the books of the bank, if the bank was insolvent at the time of the transfer and he knew or ought to have known of such insolvency and the transfer was made to an irresponsible person whose financial condition was known or ought to have been known to the seller;[85] it is essential that all these conditions co-exist.[86] For the purposes of the national banking act the pledgor of stock is to be regarded as the owner until and unless something further transpires which operates to transfer the ownership to another.[87] The pledgee may, without himself becoming liable to the contingencies of ownership, have the stock transferred in blank by the pledgor;[88] but 70, 71. Shaw v. National German-American Bank, 132 F. 658.

72. Contract by which a national bank assumed all the obligations of an insolvent bank. George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 35 F. 286.

73. See 3 C. L. 413.

74. Rev. St. U. S. §§ 5199, 5204. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 60 A. 1059.

75, 76. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 60 A. 1059.

77. By selling his share he does not transfer his interest in the dividend. This notwithstanding Rev. St. U. S. § 5139. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 60 A. 1059. So held where the dividend consisted in the return of assets not needed as capital nor for the surplus fund. Id.

78. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 60 A. 1059.

79. See 3 C. L. 414. Liability of stockholder of a national bank, see Clark & M. § 806.

80. Under Rev. St. U. S. § 5210, and Laws of New York 1892, p. 1831, c. 688, § 29, and 25 Stat. (U. S.) 436, a shareholder in a national bank located in the city of New York has such right. People v. Consolidated Nat. Bank, 94 N. Y. S. 173.

81. Large v. Consolidated Nat. Bank, 137 F. 168. Averment that plaintiff is the registered owner of ten shares of the capital stock of defendant, held insufficient. Id.

82. Muir v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Wash.] 80 P. 1007, and cases cited. Liability for an assessment depends upon who was the owner at that date. Hulitt v. Ohio Valley Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 461.

83. Muir v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Wash.] 80 P. 1007, and cases cited.

84, 85, 86. McDonald v. Dewey [C. C. A.] 134 F. 528.

87. Hulitt v. Ohio Valley Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 461.

88. Hulitt v. Ohio Valley Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 461. In such case the pledgor

he may become liable if he causes the stock to be transferred, on the books of the company, to an irresponsible person.[89] The individual liability of the stockholders extends only to enforceable contracts, debts and engagements of the bank.[90] A married woman becoming a stockholder is subject to the statutory liability for assessments,[91] and the same rule applies to estates of decedents so long as their assets can be reached.[92] The Federal circuit court has jurisdiction of a suit to enforce the liability of stockholders of a national bank which has gone into voluntary liquidation.[93] The remedy of a receiver of a national bank against the trustee and distributees of a decendent's estate to collect an assessment on stock for which the assets of the estate are liable is in equity.[94] The liability of stockholders is not contractual within the meaning of statutes of limitations,[95] and the statute does not commence to run until assessment is made by the comptroller of the currency.[96]

Suits by and against.—A suit which may be brought in a Federal circuit court by or against a citizen of a state because it arises under the constitution, laws or treaties of the United States may for the same reason be brought in such court by or against a national bank located in the same state.[97] A suit against an insolvent national bank which has gone into voluntary liquidation to enforce a specific lien, or to enforce and judicially administer a trust previously created by contract, or to enforce and judicially administer the trust arising from the insolvency and proceedings in liquidation, is a suit arising under the laws of the United States.[98]

State interference and powers of state courts.[99]—National banks are quasi-public institutions, and for the purpose for which they are instituted are national in their character, and, within constitutional limits, are subject to the control of Congress, and are not to be interfered with by state, legislative or judicial action, except so far as the law-making power of the government may permit.[1] Under the Federal statutes attachment cannot issue, before judgment, from a state court against a national bank or its property.[2]

Reduction of capital.[3]—The directors of a national bank may, after a reduction of the capital stock of the bank has been allowed on condition that bad and does not cease to be the owner in the sense intended by law, and until the ownership is in some way divested from the pledgor the latter continues to stand for the stock. Id.

89. Where pledgee of stock had same transferred to an irresponsible employe, who paid no consideration for transfer, the pledgee then made an indorsement on the note which the stock secured, of a sum as proceeds of a sale of the stock made on the day of the transfer, and proved the balance due on the note against the estate of the pledgor, and received dividends thereon, held stock belonged to pledgee. Hulitt v. Ohio Valley Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 461.

90. 21 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law (2d ed.) p. 343, and cases cited. Where a national bank assumes the debts of an insolvent national bank contemplating liquidation, in consideration of a transfer of certain of the bank's available assets, and certain notes for the balance, such notes represented the "contracts, debts and engagements" of the insolvent bank, for which its stockholders were liable under Rev. St. § 5151. George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286.

91. At least in those states where she is not prohibited from owning such stock in her own right. Christopher v. Norvell [C. C. A.] 134 F. 842. Laws of Florida held not to prohibit her assuming such liability. Id.

92. The statutory limitation as to the time for the presentment of claims against the estate does not apply. Rev. St. U. S. § 5152, construed. Mortimer v. Potter, 213 Ill. 178, 72 N. E. 817.

93. 19 Stat. 63 construed. George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286. 19 Stat. 63, giving Federal courts original equity jurisdiction of a creditor's bill against stockholders of a national bank which has gone into liquidation as authorized by Rev. St. § 5220, is not repealed by 22 Stat. 163, nor by 25 Stat. 436. Id.

94. Mortimer v. Potter, 213 Ill. 178, 72 N. E. 817.

95. Ball. Wash. Code, § 4800, subd. 3, does not apply to it. McClaine v. Rankin, 25 S. Ct. 410.

96. McClaine v. Rankin, 25 S. Ct. 410.

97, 98. George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286.

99. See 3 C. L. 414.

1. Van Reed v. People's Nat. Bank, 25 S. Ct. 775.

2. U. S. Rev. St. § 5242, construed. Van Reed v. People's Nat. Bank, 25 S. Ct. 775. This is not changed by 22 Stat. at L. 163, c. 290. Id. Hence jurisdiction over the person or property of a national bank is not acquired by the issue of an attachment out of a state court before judgment. Id.

doubtful assets be charged off and set aside for the benefit of the then stockholders, set aside and charge off such assets to the purpose named,[4] and on so doing, the right to receive the proceeds of the assets thus set apart is irrevocably vested in those who are shareholders on the date of the approval of the reduction of stock by the comptroller of the curreney,[5] and in so charging off the assets the bank may list, in the schedule of charged-off assets, claims which are also and primarily listed at a lesser valuation as part of the capital stock.[6]

Usury by national banks.[7]—By compounding interest oftener than is permitted by the state laws, a national bank charges a higher rate than that allowed, although the compounded interest is less than the state laws permit to be compounded annually.[8] Usury by a national bank works a forfeiture of all interest, but not of the principal,[9] and the bank suing for the entire amount cannot avoid the forfeiture by declaring an election to remit the excessive interest,[10] nor can the bank escape this penalty because the usurious amount was trifling,[11] nor on the theory that the charge is a penalty because of the failure to pay the debt when due.[12] In order to recover double the amount of interest, actual payment must have been made.[13] Payments made on a usurious debt without any agreement as to their application must be applied on the principal.[14]

Winding up.[15]—A national bank in voluntary liquidation is not thereby dissolved as a corporation but continues for the purpose of liquidation and winding up its business;[16] but it is not thereafter required to register a subsequent transfer of its stock and to issue new stock to the transferee.[17] The tangible assets and the liability of shareholders of an insolvent national bank in the process of liquidation constitute, in the hands of the liquidating agent, an express trust fund for the primary benefit of creditors.[18] On the suit of one or more creditors on behalf of all for the winding up of the affairs of an insolvent national bank, there can be had, if desired, a complete judicial administration of the affairs of the bank, an ascertainment of the valid and subsisting claims against it, an enforcement of the trusts in respect of both the assets and the capital stock, and, finally, the distribution of the avails,[19] and a bill for such comprehensive relief is not multifarious.[20]

§ 4. Savings banks. Powers and liability of directors.[21] Supervisors.—The fact that the commissioner of banking erroneously construes a report does not render it fraudulent.[22]

3. See 3 C. L. 413, nn. 92, 93.

4. The approval of the comptroller of the currency having been obtained, the directors are simply declaring a dividend from assets in excess of the capital stock. Rev. St. U. S. § 5145. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 60 A. 1059.

5, 6. Cogswell v. Second Nat. Bank [Conn.] 60 A. 1059.

7. See 3 C. L. 415.

8. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Donnell, 25 S. Ct. 49.

9. In re Samuel Wilde's Sons, 133 F. 562.

10. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Donnell, 25 S. Ct. 49. In a case where a national bank was held to forfeit all interest for usury, on a new trial being ordered on other grounds the bank could recover lawful interest by relinquishing its claim to the usurious interest. Second Nat. Bank v. Fitzpatrick [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1150.

11, 12. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Donnell, 25 S. Ct. 49.

13. Giving a renewal note by surety held not to entitle him to recover. U. S. Rev. St. § 5198, construed. First Nat. Bank v. Lasater, 25 S. Ct. 296; Lassater v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 642, 88 S. W. 429. Nor does payment of such renewal note give the principal a cause of action under such statute. Id.

14. Second Nat. Bank v. Fitzpatrick [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1150.

15. See 3 C. L. 413, n. 5; 3 C. L. 414, n. 17.

16. Muir v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Wash.] 80 P. 1007, and cases cited.

17. U. S. Rev. St. § 5220, construed. Muir v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Wash.] 80 P. 1007.

18, 19, 20. George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286.

21. See 3 C. L. 416.

22. A report to the commissioner of banking containing the items, unadjusted errors in stocks, cash paid, real estate, etc., does not constitute a fraudulent report because the commissioner mistakenly treated such items as assets and reported the bank sound. Penfold v. Charlevoix Sav. Bank [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 108, 103 N. W. 572.

Rules.[23]—A depositor is bound by all reasonable rules to which he assents in writing [24] or which are printed in the passbook which he accepts and uses.[25] A by-law providing that the bank shall not be responsible for any fraud practiced upon it does not relieve the bank from its duty to exercise ordinary care to prevent payment to the wrong person.[26] The bank agreeing to pay the deposit to the depositor, his order or legal representative, it cannot avoid liability for a payment made upon a forged order to one who had fraudulently obtained possession of the passbook, even by showing that such payment was made in good faith and in the exercise of ordinary care.[27]

Reliance on passbooks.[28]—It is a common rule in savings banks that the depositor shall produce his bankbook in order to draw his deposit, or any part of it, and that production of the book shall be authority to the bank to pay the person so producing it. This is regarded as a reasonable and binding regulation,[29] and if the bank pay to one having the book, there being no circumstances to excite suspicion and base an imputation of negligence on the part of the bank, the payment is good.[30] The foregoing proposition is not affected by another rule prescribing that if depositors are not present personally, an order properly signed and witnessed must accompany the presentation of the book in case of withdrawal.[31] The bank being negligent, it is liable even though the depositor was negligent in allowing the book to get out of his possession; [32] nor does such negligence estop the owner from claiming repayment.[33]

Deposits and repayment.[34]—A deposit in trust for a certain person is presumed to belong to such person.[35] An order by a husband and wife requesting that their separate accounts be merged so as to run to either or the survivor of them constitutes an order making them joint owners of the fund.[36] Such order is revocable by either party at any time before presented,[37] and being delivered to the husband for delivery to the bank, he becomes the agent of the wife.[38]

The bank is negligent if it fails to make a physical comparison between a signature to a draft and the signature of the depositor on file in the bank.[39] A

23. See 3 C. L. 416.

24. Langdale v. Citizens' Bank of Savannah, 121 Ga. 105, 48 S. E. 708.

25. By such acceptance and use they become a part of the contract of deposit. Chase v. Waterbury Sav. Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 37.

26. Even though such person presents the deposit book. Chase v. Waterbury Sav. Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 37. Evidence held sufficient to uphold a finding that the bank was negligent in paying money on a forged order. Id.

27. Chase v. Waterbury Sav. Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 37.

28. See 3 C. L. 416.

29. Langdale v. Citizens' Bank of Savannah, 121 Ga. 105, 48 S. E. 708; 2 Morse, Banks & Banking, § 620.

30. Langdale v. Citizens' Bank of Savannah, 121 Ga. 105, 48 S. E. 708; 2 Morse, Banks & Banking, § 620. Where money was withdrawn on a forged signature, the bank was held not negligent where the drawer had the pass book and answered all test questions correctly and the depositor subsequently had possession of the book and made six different deposits without questioning the withdrawal entry. Ferguson v. Harlem Sav. Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 261.

31. Langdale v. Citizens' Bank of Savannah, 121 Ga. 105, 48 S. E. 708.

32. Paid deposit on forged order. Chase v. Waterbury Savings Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 37.

33. Chase v. Waterbury Sav. Bank [Conn.] 59 A. 37.

34. See 3 C. L. 417.

35. Savings Bank accounts standing in the name of "J. F. in trust for M. F., his wife;" "J. F. in trust for M. F.;" and "J. F. or M. F.," held on J. F.'s death to presumptively belong to M. F. In re Finn's Estate, 44 Misc. 622, 90 N. Y. S. 159.

36, 37. Augsbury v. Shurtliff [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 927.

38. Was revoked by death of wife before order was delivered to bank. Augsbury v. Shurtliff [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 927. In an action by the husband to recover possession of the wife's bankbook after her death, held reversible error to nonsuit the plaintiff without submitting the question as to whether such order was delivered by the husband to the bank during the lifetime of the wife. Id.

39. Kelley v. Buffalo Sav. Bank [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 995.

savings bank being ignorant of a depositor's death is only required to use ordinary care in paying a draft purporting to bear his signature.[40]

Action to recover deposit.—The New York banking law requiring the court in an action to recover a savings deposit to make a claimant interpleading a party defendant applies only to claimants claiming a present interest in the fund.[41] In an action to recover a savings deposit the city court of New York may allow parties to interplead and proceed with the cause.[42]

Winding up.—Recent constructions placed upon statutes relating to this subject are shown in the notes.[43]

§ 5. Loan, investment and trust companies.[44]—A trust company having the power to execute trusts, loan money, buy and sell securities, etc., has power to execute a note for the benefit of a railroad company which it is financing.[45] Under the laws of Nebraska if a corporation's plan of doing business involves receiving from each of its members a stated sum at stated intervals until a specified amount is received from such members, and investing this money in property for the benefit of its members, it is an instalment investment company.[46] The constructions placed upon statutes relating to the names of trust companies,[47] their power to in-

40. Bankbook was presented at the same time. Kelley v. Buffalo Sav. Bank [N. Y.] 72 N. E. 995.

NOTE. Payment of forged order after death of depositor: One of the rules of the bank provided that "the secretary will endeavor to prevent frauds, but all payments made to persons producing the deposit books or duplicates thereof, shall be good and valid payments to the depositors respectively." Another rule provided that "on the decease of any depositor the amount standing to the credit of the deceased shall be paid to his or her legal representatives when legally demanded." The decision is based on the fact that due diligence was not exercised by defendant to ascertain the identity of the party presenting the pass-book, and is in accord with reason and authority. It has quite generally been held, under similar circumstances, that the bank is bound to exercise at least ordinary diligence. Appleby v. Erie Co. Sav. Bank, 62 N. Y. 12; Sullivan v. Lewiston Inst. of Sav., 56 Me. 507, 96 Am. Dec. 500; Ladd v. Augusta Sav. Bank, 96 Me. 510, 58 L. R. A. 288; Brown v. Merrimac River Sav. Bank, 67 N. H. 549, 68 Am. St. Rep. 700. And where the bank has agreed to "Use its best efforts to prevent fraud" it is bound to the exercise of more than ordinary diligence. Allen v. Williamsburgh Sav. Bank, 69 N. Y. 314. See also Kummel v. Germania Sav. Bank, 127 N. Y. 488, 13 L. R. A. 786. In Schoenwald v. Metropolitan Sav. Bank, 57 N. Y. 418, however, it was held that the bank had a right to pay to any one presenting the pass-book, and that the fact that a receipt was forged was immaterial. Where the depositor is dead, however, it has been held that the rule as to diligence no longer applies, the bank being bound absolutely by the second rule above to make payment to the legal representative, and one of the judges in the present case based his concurrence on this ground. Mahan v. South Brooklyn Sav. Inst., 175 N. Y. 69, 96 Am. St. Rep. 603; Farmer v. Manhattan Sav. Inst., 60 Hun [N. Y.] 462; Padmore v. South Brooklyn Sav. Inst., 48 N. Y. App. Div. 218. But these cases are to be distinguished from the principal case by the fact that in each of the former the bank had notice of the depositor's death. Where, on the other hand, there has been no actual notice of the death and no negligence on the part of the bank is shown, the bank has been held discharged by payment on a forged receipt to one presenting the pass-book. Donlan v. Provident Inst. for Savings, 127 Mass. 183, 34 Am. Rep. 358; Goldrick v. Bristol Co. Sav. Bank, 123 Mass. 320.—3 Mich. L. R. 419.

41. Does not apply to one claiming only a future interest. Banking Law, § 115, construed. Gifford v. Oneida Sav. Bank, 99 App. Div. 25, 90 N. Y. S. 693.

42. This by the express terms of § 115 of the Banking Law. Gottschall v. German Sav. Bank, 90 N. Y. S. 896.

43. Wisconsin: Laws 1903, p. 351, c. 234, does not authorize the commissioner of banking to maintain an action to administer the affairs of an insolvent savings bank as against the creditors of the bank. Bergh v. Security Sav. Bank [Wis.] 100 N. W. 831. Such law does not affect or change Rev. St. 1898, § 3218 et seq. Id.

44. See 3 C. L. 417.

45. Trust companies organized under Rev. St. 1899, § 1427, held to have such power. First Nat. Bank v. Guardian Trust Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 109.

46. Laws 1903, p. 269, c. 29, Comp. St. 1903, c. 16, §§ 216, 227, and Cobbey's Ann. St. §§ 6649, 6660, construed. State v. Northwestern Trust Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 14. Such statutes are not in violation of the Nebraska State Constitution, art. 3 or art. 6, § 1; nor does it give the State Banking Board such arbitrary powers as to be unconstitutional for that reason. Id.

47. Washington: Laws 1903, p. 367, c. 176, providing that no company afterwards authorized under any other act shall use the words "trust" in its name applies to a pre-existing corporation changing its name so as to include such word. State v. Nichols [Wash.] 80 P. 462. In such a case man-vest their funds,[48] and the liability of stockholders therein,[49] are shown in the notes.

§ 6. Deposits and repayment; checks, drafts, certificates, receipts.[50] Duty to receive deposits.[50a]—A bank may receive or decline deposits and do business with whom it pleases.[51]

Relation of banker and depositor.[52]—An ordinary deposit is not a loan to the bank,[53] the relation of banker and depositor being that of debtor and creditor.[54] A deposit is a contract of the state where it is made.[55] Bankers are held to be in exercise of ordinary care in making loans as agents for the lender.[56]

Evidence of deposit.[57]—Where a deposit stands in the names of two persons jointly, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that their interests are equal,[58] and in such case, as between the depositors, the possession of the bankbook is not evidence of the possessor's dominion over the fund,[59] nor, as between such depositors, is the recognition by the bank of the right of each to withdraw the entire deposit material.[60]

A certificate of deposit is in legal effect a promissory note,[61] transferable by indorsement,[62] or assignment,[63] and the depositary is bound to deliver the deposit to the indorsee [64] or assignee, generally, upon demand being made,[65] and it is in this latter respect that most courts hold that the certificate differs from a promissory note.[66] Where the certificate is payable on its return properly indorsed, demand damus will not lie to compel the secretary of state to file such amendment to the corporation's articles. Id. Such act does not violate Const. art. 2, § 19, providing that no bill shall embrace more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title. Id.

48. Wisconsin: Rev. St. 1898, § 1791h, relating to investments by trust companies, does not refer to funds held by it in the capacity of trustee. In re Allis' Estate [Wis.] 101 N. W. 365.

49. Maryland: Code Pub. Gen. Laws, art. 23, § 85 1 refers to safe deposits, guaranty, loan and fidelity companies, and is applicable to a domestic corporation in incorporated under a special charter to do a safe deposit, trust and fidelity business. Murphy v. Wheatley [Md.] 59 A. 704. Such statute is valid as to domestic corporations, though it be void as to foreign corporations. Id. Acts 1904, p. 597, c. 337, abated all separate actions, commenced after January 1, 1903, and pending at the time the act was passed, to enforce a stockholder's liability. Such act is not unconstitutional as violating the confractural rights of the creditor. Miners' & Merchants' Bank v. Snyder [Md.] 59 A. 707.

50. In this connection see Negotiable Instruments, 4 C. L. 787, and Non-negotiable Paper, 4 C. L. 827.

50a. See 3 C. L. 417, nn. 81, 82.

51. Elliott v. Capital City State Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 777.

52. See 3 C. L. 417.

53. Elliott v. Capital City State Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 777, overruling Mereness v. First Nat. Bank, 112 Iowa, 11, 83 N. W. 711, 84 Am. St. Rep. 318, 51 L. R. A. 410; Long v. Emsley, 57 Iowa, 11, 10 N. W. 280; Lowry v. Polk County, 51 Iowa, 50, 49 N. W. 1049, 33 Am. Rep. 114.

54. Reed Grocery Co. v. Canton Nat. Bank [Md.] 59 A. 716.

55. A deposit of money by a citizen and resident of New York in a private bank in that state, interest to be paid on the deposit in New York, held a New York contract. Schinotti v. Whitney, 130 F. 780.

56. Wason v. Fagner, 105 Ill. App. 52.

57. See 3 C. L. 418.

58, 59. Tompkins v. McGinn [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 452.

60. Is a mere inference. Tompkins v. McGinn [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 452.

61. Hanna v. Manufacturers' Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 304. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7515, construed. First Nat. Bank v. Stopf [Ind.] 74 N. E. 987.

62. First Nat. Bank v. Stapf [Ind.] 74 N. E. 987.

63. Where instrument of assignment was delivered to third person to deliver to assignee on assignor's death, and the assignor died without revoking it, held, assignee was entitled to instrument and certificates and, on receiving them, the deposits. Rivenburgh v. First Nat. Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 652.

64. Hanna v. Manufacturers' Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 304.

65. Elliott v. Capital City State Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 777.

66. Elliott v. Capital City State Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 777.

NOTE. Certificates of deposit as promissory notes and their negotiability: A certificate of deposit is not an ordinary receipt; in fact, it contains few of the elements of a receipt. It does contain the elements of a promissory note, and the almost universal rule is that such certificates are promissory notes, to be governed in general by the same rules that control instruments of that character. Leaphart v. Bank, 45 S. C. 563, 55 Am. St. Rep. 800, 33 L. R. A. 700. A promissory note is an unconditional promise to pay a certain sum of money absolutely, and these essential elements, a debt of a definite sum and a promise to pay, are present in a certificate of deposit, and need not be made within the period of limitations.[67] The transfer must be for a consideration,[68] though past service or friendship is sufficient.[69]

Letters of credit.[70]

Repayment of deposits.[71]—A bank by receiving a general deposit assumes no further obligation than to pay the amount received upon demand [72] at its banking house [73] during banking hours.[74] The demand should be made by a check, draft, order, receipt or other writing for the payment of the amount desired, which writing when honored and in the hands of the bank will be evidence of the authority and direction of the depositor to pay as well as evidence of payment.[75] A banker may pay upon an oral order or direction, but under the usages of the banking business he is not required to do so.[76] The bank must account for all money received, the matter of accounting being purely a question of fact.[77] A depositor is liable for payments made on drafts drawn by his duly authorized agent,[78] and the bank may recover therefor, though a part of the money remains on deposit to the credit of the agent.[79] Payment of checks or drafts may be made by giving credit to the depositor or payee,[80] but the mere checking over of public funds to for this reason it is deemed a promissory note. Renfro v. Merchants,' etc., Bank, 83 Ala. 425; Welton v. Adams, 4 Cal. 37, 60 Am. Dec. 579; Falls Point Sav. Inst. v. Weedon, 18 Md. 320, 81 Am. Dec. 603; Drake v. Markle, 21 Ind. 433, 83 Am. Dec. 358; Kilgore v. Bulkley, 14 Conn. 363; Maxwell v. Agnew, 21 Fla. 154; Lynch v. Goldsmith, 64 Ga. 42; Bank of Peru v. Farnsworth, 18 Ill. 563, Laughlin v. Mershall, 19 Ill. 390; Gregg v. Union, etc., Bank, 87 Ind. 238; Tripp v. Curtenius, 36 Mich. 494, 24 Am. Rep. 610; Pardee v. Fish, 60 N. Y. 265, 19 Am. Rep. 176; Cassidy v. First Nat. Bank, 30 Minn. 86; Mitchell v. Easton, 37 Minn. 335. While a certificate of deposit is almost universally recognized as a promissory note payable on demand, unless the deposit is a time deposit, yet in one important particular such certificates differ from ordinary promissory notes. A promissory note, payable on demand, is due as soon as it is given, and an action may be brought on it immediately, demand for payment being unnecessary. The courts are divided, however, as to whether this rule holds good with respect to certificates of deposit. Perhaps the weight of authority is to the effect that such certificates are not due until demand for payment is made and the certificate returned. The reason for this is that the bank receives the money not as a real loan, but as a deposit. "No one could desire to receive money in deposit for an indefinite period with the right in the depositor to sue the next moment, and without any prior intimation that he wished to recall the loan": Justice Bronson, in Downes v. Phoenix Bank, 6 Hill [N. Y.] 297, quoted in Bellows Falls Bank v. Rutland County Bank, 40 Vt. 377. In accord with these decisions are Munger v. Albany, etc., Bank, 85 N. Y. 580; Pardee v. Fish, 60 N. Y. 265, 19 Am. Rep. 176; Smiley v. Fry, 100 N. Y. 262; Shute v. Pacific Nat. Bank, 136 Mass. 487; Riddle v. First Nat. Bank, 27 F. 503; Fells Point Sav. Inst. v. Weedon, 18 Md. 320, 81 Am. Dec. 603. The reasoning of these cases has not met with universal approval, and good authority is found for the doctrine that certificates of deposit, being promissory notes, must be in all respects subject to the same rules to which such notes are subject. Tripp v. Curtenius, 36 Mich. 494, 24 Am. Rep. 610.—From note to Hillsinger v. Georgia R. Bank, 108 Ga. 357, 75 Am. St. Rep. 42, 46 et seq.

67. Elliott v. Capital City State Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 777.

68. In replevin by an indorsee to recover certificates of deposit, the evidence held not conclusive that the transfer was without consideration and void. Sather v. Sexton, 93 Minn. 480, 101 N. W. 654.

69. Sather v. Sexton, 93 Minn. 480, 101 N. W. 654.

70, 71. See 3 C. L. 418.

72. Ex parte Stockman [S. C.] 48 S. E. 736; Elliott v. Capital City State Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 777. Unless the banker desires to return a deposit he is under no obligation to seek his creditor for the purpose of making payment. Id.

73. Elliott v. Capital City State Bank [Iowa] 103 N. W. 777.

74, 75, 76. First Nat. Bank v. Stapf [Ind.] 74 N. E. 987.

77. Evidence held sufficient to warrant the deduction of two drafts, drawn by the defendant bank in favor of plaintiff, from the latter's account. Supreme Tent Knights of Maccabees of the World v. Port Huron Sav. Bank [Mich.] 100 N. W. 898.

78. Farmers' Bank of Dearborn v. Fudge [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1112. In such case held immaterial whether or not the depositor requested the bank to make the payment. Id. In an action by the bank to recover payments so made, an instruction authorizing a recovery if the third person was defendant's agent or so held out by him is not in conflict with an instruction directing the jury to find for defendant if he did not agree to pay such drafts and the third person's agency was not established. Id. An insruction held not erroneous for referring the jury to the petition for a description of the drafts, the latter being in evidence. Id.

79. Farmers' Bank of Dearborn v. Fudge [Mo. App.] 82 S. W. 1112.

80. The giving of credit to the depositor of checks operates as a payment thereof, though the bank was insolvent at the depositor's successor in office does not operate as a payment relieving the bank from liability on its bond.[81] A check being returned as paid it is prima facie evidence of the receipt of the sum by the payee.[82] A depositor is not bound by a special custom of which he has no knowledge.[83] A bank being notified that a deposit is claimed by a third person it is bound to hold the money a sufficient length of time to afford such other an opportunity to assert his claim,[84] and if he has a reasonable time allowed him for that purpose, and fails to do so, the bank may pay the deposit to the depositor, without any liability to the adverse claimant.[85] What is a reasonable time is a mixed question of law and fact, which, under proper instructions of the court ought to be submitted to the jury.[86] In the absence of agreement there is no interest on deposit accounts until demand and refusal,[87] or until the bank suspends payment.[88]

Checks.[89]—A check can only be drawn against a depositor's deposit, and not against other indebtedness due the depositor by the bank.[90] Before an ordinary check will operate as an equitable assignment of the funds upon which it is drawn so as to acquire priority over a subsequent attaching creditor, one of three things must appear. First, the check must, on its face, show the intention to appropriate the fund on deposit;[91] or, second, the depositary bank must have had notice in some way of the drawing of the check;[92] or, third, the check must have been made against a particular fund on deposit, and for the whole of such fund.[93] An ordinary check upon one's general account, and not for the whole thereof, does not operate as an assignment of the fund until the check is accepted or certified by the bank.[94] A check not operating as an equitable assignment may be revoked by the maker and any subsequent payment is made at the peril of the bank,[95] though the latter is bound to pay the bona fide holder of a check indorsed in blank, even though notified by the payee that he lost it.[96] The bringing of suit by the drawer against the payee to recover the sum paid him by the bank in disregard of the instructions is not a ratification of the act of the bank.[97] The bank is bound the time, if the checks would have been paid if payment had been demanded when there were presented. Hubbard v. Pettey [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 509. Payee of draft depositing it and receiving credit as a depositor, the proceeds of the draft become the property of the bank, and cannot be recovered by the drawer for a failure of consideration of the draft as between the drawer and payee. Reed Grocery v. Canton Nat. Bank [Md.] 59 A. 716; Miller v. Farm. & Mechanics' Bank, 30 Md. 392, distinguished. The payee of a check indorsing and depositing it and receiving credit for the amount as cash to be checked against, the bank becomes the owner of the check. Aebl v. Bank of Evansville [Wis.] 102 N. W. 329. Where the hand to pay is also the hand to receive, payment may be made by a transfer of credits upon the books of a bank. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 102 N. W. 765.

81. Bond ran to treasurer of county or his successors. Buhrer v. Baldwin [Mich.] 100 N. W. 468.

82. So held where bank was drawee and payee. Patterson v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 102 N. W. 765. It is not conclusive evidence. Id.

83. Kuder v. Greene [Ark.] 82 S. W. 836.

84. Drumm-Flato Commission Co. v. Gerlach Bank, 107 Mo. App. 426, 81 S. W. 503. Need not hold it for a time sufficient to enable him to investigate his rights to the deposit and bring suit against the bank to enforce the same. Id.

85, 86. Drumm-Flato Commission Co. v. Gerlach Bank, 107 Mo. App. 426, 81 S. W. 503.

87. Ex parte Stockman [S. C.] 48 S. E. 736.

88. Depositor is entitled to interest from the date of suspension as damages for breach of the contract to pay his checks on presentation, whether they were presented or not. Ex parte Stockman [S. C.] 48 S. E. 736.

89. See 3 C. L. 418-420.

90. Refusal to honor a check against such indebtedness does not render the bank liable in damages. McKnight v. Bank of Acadia [La.] 38 So. 172.

91, 92. Love v. Ardmore Stock Exch. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 721.

93. Love v. Ardmore Stock Exch. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 721. Check drawn against particular draft held an appropration of sufficient of the proceeds of the draft to pay the check. Parkersburg Mill. Co. v. Farmers' & Traders' Nat. Bank, 26 Ky. L. R. 964, 82 S. W. 1003.

94, 95. Pease & Dwyer Co. v. State Nat. Bank [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 172.

96. Unaka Nat. Bank v. Butler [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 655.

97. Pease & Dwyer Co. v. State Nat. Bank [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 172.

to pay to the payee or indorsee,[98] and payment being refused a bona fide holder may sue to recover the amount of the check.[99] Where a party has a check in ordinary form on general funds in a bank, it is his duty to present such check within reasonable time,[1] and if before presentation a third party attaches or garnishees the money in a proper legal action, he aquires a lien superior to the rights of the payee.[2]

Forged or altered checks and drafts.[3]—As between the depositor and the bank, the latter is held to a knowledge of the signature and handwriting of its customer, and in the absence of some fault on the part of the latter affecting the question of liability, a forged check, whether the forgery was accomplished by material alteration or the forgery of the signature, is honored by the bank at its peril.[4] Changing the name of the bank on which the check is drawn is a material alteration,[5] which it is not the duty of the depositor to foresee.[6] No local custom can give vitality to a forged check.[7]

Overdrafts.[8]—The allowance of overdrafts is a matter resting in the judgment and discretion of the governing body of the bank, unless it delegates the duty to designated officials.[9] Such officers are not liable for losses occurring therefrom provided that they act honestly and prudently.[10] Several officers of a bank wrongfully permitting overdrafts are jointly and severably liable for all loss sustained thereby,[11] and in such case a release of the debtor in consideration of his executing a deed of trust for his creditors does not release the officer.[12]

The assignment of a bank account must be made by the party in whose name it stands, and being in writing, it cannot be proved by parol.[13]

Set-off of debts due bank against deposit. Lien of bank.[14]—There is a conflict as to whether a bank may without notice apply funds of a depositor in extinguishing past due claims held against him.[15] A bank has a lien on all moneys,

98. A bank has no authority to pay the proceeds of checks made payable to the cashier of the bank to the party presenting the check. Kuder v. Greene [Ark.] 82 S. W. 836.

99. Turner v. Hot Springs Nat. Bank [S. D.] 101 N. W. 348.

1, 2. Love v. Ardmore Stock Exch. [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 721.

3. See 3 C. L. 420.

4, 5. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36.

6. Where depositor stopped payment on check, drew deposit from bank and deposited money elsewhere, held not bound to notify bank, in which deposit was made, of the existence of the check. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36.

7. Morris v. Beaumont Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 36.

8. See 3 C. L. 420.

9. Western Bank v. Coldewey's Ex'x, 26 Ky. L. R. 1247, 83 S. W. 629.

10. Western Bank v. Coldewey's Ex'x, 26 Ky. L. R. 1247, 83 S. W. 629; Cope v. Westbay [Mo.] 87 S. W. 504. Allowing man of considerable means to overdraw account $3,500 and permitting his successor in business, who assumed such debt, to overdraw to the extent of $500, held not to render the officials personally liable. Id.

11. Western Bank v. Coldewey's Ex'x, 26 Ky. L. R. 1247, 83 S. W. 629. Where applications for loans had to be submitted to an advisory committee, held, the president was liable for allowing his son to overdraw his account without the consent of the advisory committee. Id.

12. Western Bank v. Coldewey's Ex'x, 26 Ky. L. R. 1247, 83 S. W. 629. An assignment by "J. B." of a bank account standing in the name of "M. B. & Son," is of itself insufficient to sustain an action thereon by the assignee. Robbins v. Bank of M. & L. Jarmulowsky, 90 N. Y. S. 288.

13. Robbins v. Bank of M. & L. Jarmulosky, 90 N. Y. S. 288.

14. See 3 C. L. 422.

15. That it cannot. Caloham v. Bank of Anderson, 69 S. C. 374, 48 S. E. 293. [By a divided court.]

NOTE. Dishonor of check—Application of funds to depositors debts: A bank may refuse to honor a depositor's check when there is not sufficient funds remaining after offsetting balances due it from the depositor. Commercial Bank v. Hughes, 17 Wend. [N. Y.] 94; Garnett v. McKewan, L. R. 8 Exch. 10. The offsetting claims, however, must be due or the bank is not justified in refusing to honor the check. Fogarties v. State Bank, 12 Rich. Law [S. C.] 518, 78 Am. Dec. 468. The authorities at common law seem uniformly opposed to the view in the principal case; nevertheless it finds support in Louisiana from the adoption there of Roman civil law principles. There an irregular deposit is not subject to set off, or, as it is called, to compensation. Gordon v. Muchler, 34 La. Ann. 604. Where the right exists, as it notes, and funds of a customer in its possession, for any indebtedness of the customer to the bank which is due and unpaid.[16]

Deposits received after insolvency.[17]—A deposit made while the bank is insolvent to the knowledge of its officers may be recovered from the bank's receiver [18] in preference to the general creditors,[19] provided that it went to swell the assets of the bank left at the time the bank was closed,[20] and, in the absence of controverting evidence, it will generally be presumed that the deposit did swell such assets,[21] and it is not necessary to trace the identical money into the receiver's hands.[22] The mere fact of insolvency at the time the deposit is received is insufficient to justify a finding of fraud, but the insolvency must be of such a character that it is manifestly impossible for the bankers to continue in business and meet their obligations; [23] and this fact must have been known by the bankers.[24] It is fraud that must be proved. An honest mistake as to the condition of the bank and an honest belief in the solvency of the institution, if it exists, negative the conclusion of fraud upon which the plaintiff's cause of action must depend.[25]

General deposits.[26]—Where the money deposited is mingled with other money of the bank, and the entire amount forms a single fund, from which depositors are paid, it is a general deposit.[27]

Special deposits.[28]—A special deposit is created where the money is left for safe keeping and the identical money is returned to the depositor.[29]

Specific deposits.[30]

Trust funds.[31]—A fund being left for a specific purpose, it constitutes a trust fund in the hands of the bank,[32] and the bank is liable if it converts the property to another use.[33] In order to be liable, a bank must have knowledge that the funds deposited are impressed with a trust.[34] does at common law, there would hardly be a duty to notify unless a custom be shown interpreting the contract or working an estoppel.—4 Columbia L. R. 602.

16. Garrison v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 978.

17. See 3 C. L. 423.

18. Baker v. Orme, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 289; Western German Bank v. Norveil [C. C. A.] 134 F. 724.

19. Willoughby v. Weinberger [Okl.] 79 P. 777.

20. Where checks on a third bank were deposited in another bank while insolvent and were used by it in settling an indebtedness, and nothing came into the hands of the receiver from such checks, held, the depositor was not entitled to a preference. Willoughby v. Weinberger [Okl.] 79 P. 777.

21. So held where deposit was made in the morning and bank closed 2½ hours later, and at the time of closing had on hand more cash that the day's deposits amounted to. Willoughby v. Weinberger [Okl.] 79 P. 777.

22. Western German Bank v. Norveil [C. C. A.] 134 F. 724.

23. Williams v. Van Norden Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 821. Evidence held insufficient to show the above condition. Id.

24. So as to justify the conclusion that they accepted the deposit knowing that they would not and could not respond when the depositor demanded it. Williams v. Van Norden Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 821. Knowledge of insolvency is sufficient irrespective of intentional wrong or bad faith. Nathan v. Uhlmann, 101 App. Div. 388, 92 N. Y. S. 13.

25. Williams v. Van Norden Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 821.

26. See 3 C. L. 423.

27. See 3 C. L. 423, n. 82. Money deposited by a township treasurer in a bank as provided by Rev. St. Ohio, §§ 1513, 1514, 6841 is a general, not a special deposit. In re Smart, 136 F. 974. Where a woman left money in a private bank, stating that she would leave it for a few days, the money consisting of a roll of bills, neither wrapped nor tied, and an ordinary bankbook was given her, and she refused a checkbook, held a general, and not a special, deposit. State v. Dickerson [Kan.] 81 P. 497.

28. See 3 C. L. 423.

29. In re Smart, 136 F. 974. See 3 C. L. 423, n. 86.

30, 31. See 3 C. L. 424.

32. Money deposited under an agreement that it is to be used exclusively for the payment of creditors of a corporation constitutes a trust fund for such creditors. Ellis v. National Exch. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 776. Order by husband that wife should have a right to draw on the community property deposited in the bank and should have the right of survivorship, held to constitute the bank a trustee for her benefit. Sprague v. Walton, 145 Cal. 228, 78 P. 645.

33. Bank held liable where it receives a deposit with directions to use it to pay a certain contractor for certain machinery, and applies the money to a debt owed it by

Slander of credit or damages for failure to pay checks.[35]—A bank wrongfully refusing to honor a check is liable for the damages resulting therefrom, including interest on the amount of the check until it is paid,[36] though the refusal is due to a mistake in bookkeeping;[37] and the jury may take into consideration the natural and necessary consequences of the bank's breach of contract without proof of special damages,[38] and in the absence of such proof, the law presumes, both in the case of an individual and of a corporation, that substantial damages have been sustained.[39] In an action for damages for refusal to honor a check, the general rules as to the admissiblity and sufficiency [40] of the evidence apply; evidence of the previous dishonor of another check is inadmissible,[41] but plaintiff may show conversations between himself and business men with whom he tried to obtain credit after the dishonor of the check, though he does not allege special damages.[42]

Actions to recover deposits.[43]—A receiver being appointed, a deposit can only be recovered by petition in the receivership action.[44] A suit for a balance of deposits as per passbook will be maintained where there is no plea of want of amicable demand, accompanied by a tender of the balance due.[45] A bank holding a deposit in trust cannot be compelled, in a suit brought against it to recover the fund, to litigate the rights of claimants.[46] Bank deposits are "money lent" within the meaning of statutes of limitations,[47] and such statute does not begin to run against the recovery of the deposit until demand is made for repayment [48] or until the bank discontinues banking operations and suspends payment.[49] The general rules as to the admissibility [50] and sufficiency [51] of the evidence and the cross-examination of witnesses,[52] apply.

Certifications.[53]—A different rule is to be applied as between the drawer and the payee of a check, when the drawer himself, before delivery, causes the check to be certified, from that which obtains when the payee, after delivery to him, obtains the contractor. Winfield Nat. Bank v. Railroad Loan & Sav. Ass'n [Kan.] 81 P. 202. Petition examined and held to state a cause of action on an implied contract and not in tort. Id.

34. That depositor deposited check payable to him as trustee to his personal account, held not to render the bank liable. Batchelder v. Central Nat. Bank [Mass.] 73 N. E. 1024.

35. See 3 C. L. 424.

36. Helene v. Corn Exch. Bank, 96 App. Div. 392, 89 N. Y. S. 310.

37, 38, 39. Metropolitan Supply Co. v. Garden City Banking & Trust Co., 114 Ill. App. 318.

40. In an action against a bank for dishonoring a check, evidence held sufficient to warrant the submission to the jury of the question whether plaintiff had ratified the act of the bank in charging to plaintiff's account, as agent, the amount of a note given to the bank by plaintiff individually. Sprowl v. Southern Nat. Bank [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1117.

41. Sprowl v. Southern Nat. Bank [Ky.] 86 S. W. 1117.

42. Metropolitan Supply Co. v. Garden City Banking & Trust Co., 114 Ill. App. 318.

43. See 3 C. L. 424.

44. An action cannot be maintained against the receiver. Crutchfield v. Hunter [N. C.] 50 S. E. 557.

45. McKnight v. Bank of Acadia [La.] 38 So. 172.

46. Until the rights of the claimants are settled among themselves, the bank's obligation is fulfilled by holding the fund. Leonard v. Camden Nat. Bank, 70 N. J. Law, 660, 59 A. 143.

47. Civ. Code La. art. 3538 (3503) considered. Schinotti v. Whitney, 130 F. 780.

48. Schinotti v. Whitney, 130 F. 780.

49. Such suspension waives demand. Schinotti v. Whitney, 130 F. 780.

50. A judgment obtained by a depositor in one action is not competent evidence against the same defendant in another action brought by another and different depositor. Nathan v. Uhlmann, 101 App. Div. 388, 92 N. Y. S. 13.

51. In an action against a bank to recover the difference between the aggregates of sums deposited and the sums withdrawn, evidence held sufficient to sustain a judgment for defendant. West v. Bank of Caruthersville [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 601.

52. Where at the time deposit was made a bank examiner told the depositor that the impairment of the bank's capital was only $70,000 or $80,000, which left it solvent, whereas it was later shown to be $371,000, which left it insolvent, held, in an action against the directors for receiving deposits while insolvent, not an abuse of discretion to refuse to permit the examiner to explain the discrepancy on cross-examination. Nathan v. Uhlmann, 101 App. Div. 388, 92 N. Y. S. 13.

53. See 3 C. L. 425.

the certification. In the latter case the drawer is discharged from the indebtedness for which the check was given, and the holder can look only to the bank;[54] while in the former case the drawer is not discharged of his indebtedness, but the holder may, in case the bank fails to abide by its obligation, have recourse to his debtor upon the original indebtedness.[55] This rule, however, applies only to the relation between drawer and payee, and has nothing to do with the character or extent of the obligation assumed by the bank by the act of certification.[56]

§ 7. Circulating notes.—A bank bill stolen from, or lost by, a bank and fraudulently put into circulation is good as against the bank, in the hands of a bona fide holder for value,[57] and the mere possession of any holder is sufficient to impose the burden of proof on the bank to show the fraud or bad faith of the plaintiff.[58] But neither a thief, nor a finder, nor a holder having good reason to believe that the bill has been stolen or lost can recover,[59] and if by fraud or mistake he does secure payment thereon, he will be required to return the sum so secured.[60]

§ 8. Loans and discounts.[61]—"Discounting" as that term is understood in banking must be done with money under the control of the discounter, but belonging, at least in part, to another.[62] In New York the law follows the national bank act and does not impose as a penalty for usury the forfeiture of the principal.[63]

Advances against bills of lading.[64]—A bank advancing money and taking the bills of lading as security, the title to the goods vests in the bank,[65] subject, however, to the terms of the contract between the parties relative to the retransfer of the goods or the payment of profits.[66]

Drafts with bills of lading attached.[67]—A bank discounting a draft with the bill of lading attached, the goods thereby become the property of the bank.[68]

Agreements to honor paper.—A bank having erroneously authorized the giving 54, 55, 56. Schlesinger v. Kurzrok, 94 N. Y. S. 442.

57, 58. Pelletier v. State Nat. Bank [La.] 38 So. 132.

59. Pelletier v. State Nat. Bank [La.] 38 So. 132. One purchasing $10,000 of notes of a solvent bank for $25 held not a purchaser in good faith. Id.

60. Pelletier v. State Nat. Bank [La.] 38 So. 132.

61. See 3 C. L. 426. Where the officers of a bank have knowledge that money paid it by another officer belongs to a third party, the bank's liability to the latter depends upon whether the money was used to pay the officer's individual indebtedness to the bank or to pay the third party's indebtedness. The question of good faith is not involved. Supreme Tent Knights of Maccabees of the World v. Port Huron Sav. Bank [Mich.] 100 N. W. 898.

62. Clark v. Assets Realization Co., 115 Ill. App. 150. The purchase by a New Jersey corporation of the assets of a defunct building and loan association, with its own money, is not "discounting bills, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness," within the meaning of the New Jersey Corporation Act. Id.

63. 3 U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 3454-3493; Laws N. Y. 1870, p. 437, c. 163; Laws 1880, p. 823, c. 567, construed. In re Samuel Wild's Sons, 133 F. 562.

64. See 3 C. L. 426.

65. In re McElheny, 91 App. Div. 131, 86 N. Y. S. 326. Where, under a contract for a letter of credit, the banker held a policy of insurance on the goods, and the latter were destroyed, held entitled to share in the insurance money ratably with other bankers holding other insurance on the goods. Id. So held where goods were imported under a letter of credit, the bill of lading and the consular invoice being made out to the banker. Moors v. Drury, 186 Mass. 424, 71 N. E. 810. This is true, though the importer writes the banker that the goods are to be held as general collateral security for his account. Id.

66. So held where banker was to sell goods, and pay letter of credit, turning proceeds over to borrower. Moors v. Drury, 186 Mass. 424, 71 N. E. 810. Bank to resell goods to borrower on payment of purchase price. In re McElheny, 91 App. Div. 131, 86 N. Y. S. 326.

67. See 3 C. L. 426.

68. One not subject to attachment by a creditor of the shipper. Bank of New Roads v. Kentucky Refining Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1103; Temple Nat. Bank v. Louisville Cotton Oil Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 518, 82 S. W. 253. Where the property was delivered by the banker to the seller for resale, held not to vest title in the latter so as to render it liable to attachment by the seller's creditors. Mather v. Gordon Bros. [Conn.] 59 A. 424. Evidence held sufficient to show that bank discounted draft and did not hold it for collection. Id. Temple Nat. Bank v. Louisville Cotton Oil Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 518, 82 S. W. 253.

of credit may correct the mistake before liabilities have been incurred or losses sustained in consequence thereof.[69]

§ 9. Collections.[70]—Commercial paper being forwarded to a bank for collection, the bank acts as a mere agent of the owner,[71] and the latter may revoke the bank's authority and demand a return of the paper at any time before collection,[72] a refusal to comply with such demand operating as a conversion of the paper.[73] A bank taking paper for collection, the title thereto does not pass from the depositor,[74] and the bank's title is measured by that of the forwarder;[75] but the money being collected and credited, the title passes,[76] and the relation between the bank and depositor becomes that of debtor and creditor,[77] and upon the bank becoming insolvent the depositor can only share in the assets pro rata with general creditors.[78] A payment to the bank or its correspondent operates as a payment to the owner of the paper.[79] The obligation to collect requires the bank to accept only money in payment. If it accepts a draft it does so at its peril,[80] though, on the absence of instructions to the contrary,[81] the collecting bank may remit by a check or draft upon itself,[82] and this is true if the bank is insolvent, but is open and and doing business, and there is no fraud between it and the drawee.[83] Special instructions as to the manner of remitting must be followed.[84] The bank is liable for losses sustained by reason of the acts of its agents.[85] Unless the paper is stamped with some indicia indicating that it is forwarded for collection, the owner cannot recover from a subagent to whom it is sent for collection and who treats the agent as the owner.[86] An indebtedness existing in favor of a bank against the forwarder does not constitute

69. Brinton v. Lewiston Nat. Bank [Idaho] 81 P. 112.

70. See 3 C. L. 426. Bank collections, see Selover on Bank Collections.

71, 72, 73. Bank of America v. Waydell, 92 N. Y. S. 666.

74. Garrison v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 978.

75. Bank of America v. Waydell, 92 N. Y. S. 666.

76. Garrison v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 978.

77. North Carolina Corp. Commission v. Merchants' & Farmers' Bank [N. C.] 50 S. E. 308. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 2768, a bank with which a note and mortgage assigned by a husband to his wife in fraud of creditors were placed for collection, and which received a check for the amount due on the note and mortgage, payable to its order, was subject to garnishment for the amount of the check by a creditor of the husband. Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1068. 3 Am. & Eng. Ency. Law, pp. 819-821, and cases cited.

Contra. Federal Courts: A bank receiving a check for collection is liable as a trustee for the money collected. Holder v. Western German Bank [C. C. A.] 136 F. 90, afg. 132 F. 187.

Georgia: Is a bailee. Nashville Produce Co. v. Sewell, 121 Ga. 278, 48 S. E. 945. Henry v. Lennox-Halderman Co., 116 Ga. 9, 42 S. E. 383, and High v. Padrosa, 119 Ga. 648, 46 S. E. 859, held inapplicable to the above case. Id.

78. North Carolina Corp. Commission v. Merchants' & Farmers' Bank [N. C.] 50 S. E. 308.

79. Porter v. Roseman [Ind.] 74 N. E. 1105.

80. 3 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, 804. A bank to whom a draft with bill of lading attached is sent for collection, surrendering the bill and taking a draft from the insolvent purchaser as a means of collecting the draft of the seller, which draft was never paid, is liable to the seller for the market value of the goods at the time the purchaser took possession, and not for the face of the draft. People's Nat. Bank v. Brogden [Tex.] 83 S. W. 1098. Motion for rehearing in court of appeals, granted. Id. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 601, in compliance with the views of the supreme court as indicated above.

81. A collecting bank cannot send its own draft in payment contrary to instructions. Holder v. Western German Bank [C. C. A.] 136 F. 90, afg. 132 F. 187.

82, 83. North Carolina Corp. Commission v. Merchants' & Farmers' Bank [N. C.] 50 S. E. 308.

84. The instruction of a bank in sending a check for collection to another bank, "Remit New York exchange," authorizes a remittance only in accordance with custom. Holder v. Western German Bank [C. C. A.] 136 F. 90, afg. 132 F. 187.

85. Where a life insurance company sent renewals on policies to a bank for collection, and the bank permitted the company's agent to collect them, held liable for the agent's failure to deposit the sums collected, especially where the insurance company had no knowledge that the collections were so made. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. Firs Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 80 P. 467. Agent for bank testifying that he collected the amount but failed to account, held to supply omission on part of plaintiff to prove that any amount was collected by the bank. Id.

86. Subagent is entitled to its banker's lien. Garrison v. Union Trust Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 978.

the bank a holder of the draft for value, it not discharging or dealing with the draft in any way on the faith thereof.[87]

Duty to preserve rights of parties.[88]—Where a bank receives commercial paper for collection, the law implies a contract upon its part to use reasonable skill and diligence in making the collection,[89] and this contract is supported by a sufficient consideration, whether a collection charge, termed "exchange," be made or not.[90] No custom, general or special, will excuse the want of reasonable diligence.[91] The admissibility of particular evidence in an action to enforce the bank's liability is shown in the notes.[92]

§ 10. Criminal transactions.[93]—The crime of embezzlement from a national bank by an officer, clerk or agent involves two general elements: First, a breach of trust or duty in respect to the moneys, properties, and effects in the party's possession, belonging to another; and, second, the wrongful appropriation thereof to his own use.[94] In order to constitute this crime, it is necessary that the property, money or effects embezzled should at the time be in the lawful possession or custody of the accused.[95] Abstraction, under the national banking laws, is the act of one who, being an officer of a national banking association, wrongfully takes or withdraws from it any of its moneys, funds or credits with intent to injure or defraud it, or some other person or company, and, without its knowledge or consent, or that of its board of directors, converts them to the use of himself, or some other person or company other than the bank.[96] No previous lawful possession is necessary to constitute the crime, nor does it matter in what manner it is accomplished.[97] Willful misapplication as described in the national banking act means a misapplication, willfully and unlawfully made by one of the officers enumerated therein, of the money, funds or credits of the bank, and made with intent to injure the bank, or some other company or person;[98] and it has been held that there must be a conversion of the funds misapplied, to the use and benefit of the wrongdoer, or to the use of some one other than the bank.[99] It is not necessary that the officer so charged should have been previously in the possession or custody of the money, funds, or credits of the bank by virtue of any trust, duty or employment.[1] It will thus be seen that the crime of embezzlement under the national banking act em-

87. This under Negotiable Instruments Law, § 51, providing that an antecedent debt constitutes value. In this case the draft was not yet due. Bank of America v. Waydell, 92 N. Y. S. 666.

88. See 3 C. L. 427.

89. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 80 P. 467.

90. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Colo. App.] 80 P. 467; 3 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law, 802.

91. The presenting of checks through the clearing house the day after receiving them, instead of having them certified on the same day, was claimed to be a usage, but held not to be reasonable diligence. Bank of Commerce v. Miller, 105 Ill. App. 224.

92. In an action against the bank for failing to give notice of protest, evidence that indorser's address was written on note in the handwriting of the bank's collection clerk held admissible to prove that the note was delivered to the latter. Howard v. Bank of the Metropolis, 93 N. Y. S. 1042.

93. See 3 C. L. 427. See Clark & M. Law of Crimes [2nd Ed.] § 343 (b) p. 503.

NOTE. Application of state statutes to embezzlement by national bank officers: The act of congress creating national banks provides for the punishment of embezzlement of the property of the bank by its officers. It follows that the matter is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal courts, and such embezzlement cannot be punished by a state court, even though a state statute may provide therefor. Commonwealth v. Felton, 101 Mass. 204; Commonwealth v. Ketner, 92 Pa. 372, 37 Am. Rep. 692; State v. Tuller, 34 Conn. 280; Clark & M. Crimes [2d ed.] § 343 (b). In State v. Tuller, supra, a state statute providing for the punishment of embezzlement by a bank officer of the property of the bank's customers deposited with it is applicable to national banks. —From Clark & M. Crimes [2d ed.] § 343 (b) and note to Eggleston v. State [Ala.] 87 Am. St. Rep. 46.

94. Rev. St. § 5209, considered. United States v. Breese, 131 F. 915.

95. United States v. Breese, 131 F. 915.

96. Rev. St. U. S. 5209, construed. United States v. Breese, 131 F. 915.

97, 98, 99. United States v. Breese, 131 F. 915.

1. United States v. Breese, 131 F. 915. The possession required for the crime of misapplication is that one have access to, control over, and management of the funds. United States v. Eastman, 133 F. 551.

braces the offenses of abstraction and willful misapplication, but the converse of the proposition is not necessarily true.[2] The intent to injure or defraud the bank, or some other person or company, and which is an essential element in all of the above mentioned crimes, need not necessarily have been the object or purpose with which the act was done; it is sufficient if the natural and necessary effect of the act was to injure or defraud the bank or others, and it was willfully and intentionally done.[3] An officer of a national bank is not guilty of embezzlement, abstraction or willful misapplication of its funds because of his obtaining money from the bank for his own use by means of overdrafts or loans by bona fide arrangement with its authorized officers or committee,[4] but he is only protected by such arrangement where it was made by those representing the bank in good faith, and in the supposed interest of the bank.[5]

The indictment should set forth all the elements of the offense charged with sufficient clearness to apprise the respondent with reasonable certainty of the nature of the accusation and of every substantial feature of the wrong charged against him.[6] An indictment charging a defendant, in different counts, with offenses against two different national banks, of each of which he was an officer, is not necessarily demurrable; but the propriety of such joinder in a given case is left to the discretion of the court, which may compel an election between the counts or direct separate trials.[7] Allegations must be of fact,[8] and must be consistent.[9] An indictment charging that defendant made a false entry in the books of the bank as to the amount withdrawn by a depositor is sufficient if it alleges that the said depositor did not withdraw the specified sum on the day specified in the entry.[10]

Evidence of other transactions by defendant and of a similar nature is admissible on the question of intent.[11]

2, 3, 4, 5. United States v. Breese, 131 F. 915.

6. United States v. Eastman, 132 F. 551. An indictment of an officer of a national bank for misapplication of funds sufficiently alleges his possession thereof by an averment that he was president of the bank, and as such had access to its funds, properties, moneys and credits, with duties to perform in their control, management and application. Id. Such indictment sufficiently alleges the manner in which the misapplication was accomplished where it charges that, having access to the funds and properties of the bank, he willfully, unlawfully, fraudulently, and without the consent of the bank, converted them to his own use, or to the use of persons other than himself and other than the association. Id. The indictment charging the officer with misapplication of funds and making false entries in the bank's books, it need not allege that the acts were done feloniously, where they are charged to have been done willfully and with intent to defraud the bank. Id. Various objections to an indictment, charging an officer of a national bank with misapplication of funds, on the ground of insufficiency of description of the property, considered, and held not well taken. Id.

7. Rev. St. U. S. §§ 1024, 5209, construed. United States v. Eastman, 132 F. 551.

8. An indictment for making false entries in the books of a bank an allegation that the defendant on said day paid out of and from the funds of said bank the sum of $5,200 is not an allegation of fact, but a conclusion of the pleader. State v Piper [N. H.] 60 A. 742.

9. An allegation in an indictment for making false entries in the books of a bank, that defendant, as such cashier, did not pay out the sum, or any part thereof, does not negative the truth of a prior allegation to the effect that the bank had on the specified day paid out a specific sum. State v. Piper [N. H.] 60 A. 742.

10. Need not allege that the money was not withdrawn from the depositor's account either by him or on his order. State v. Piper [N. H.] 60 A. 432. An indictment under Pub. St. 1901, c. 165, § 32, relating to false entries by a bank officer, should contain at least the following averments: (1) That the respondent was an officer (describing his office) of a loan and banking company organized under the laws of New Hampshire, and engaged in carrying on a loan and banking business (describing the company and its place of business in the state); (2) that, being such officer, he made in a book (describing it) owned and used by the institution in transacting its loan and banking business an entry (describing it); (3) that the entry was false (setting out the facts relied upon to establish its falsity) and was made with intent to deceive the officers of the institution (describing them), or the bank commissioners (naming them); (4) averments of time and place. Id.

11. In the trial of an officer of a national bank for embezzlement, abstraction and misapplication of funds. United States v. Breese, 131 F. 915.

BANKRUPTCY.

§ 1. The bankruptcy act, amendments, and general orders. Construction of act.[1]—In all matters pertaining to a construction of the Federal bankruptcy act the holdings of the supreme court of the United States are conclusive.[2]

General orders.[3]—The forms set forth in the general orders are not mandatory but are to be used with such alterations as may be necessary to suit the circumstances of any particular case.[4]

§ 2. Supersession of state laws.[5]—The national bankruptcy act suspends and supersedes all state insolvency laws [6] which are in their nature bankruptcy acts [7] except as to cases and persons not within its purview.[8]

1. See 3 C. L. 434.
2. Stewart v. Hoffman [Mont.] 81 P. 3, overruling former opinion, Id. [Mont.] 77 P 689.
3. See 3 C. L. 434.
4. Burke v. Guarantee Title & Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 562.
5. See 3 C. L. 434.

§ 3. Occasion for proceeding and acts of bankruptcy. A. In general.[9] Insolvency.[10]—Under the present bankruptcy law a debtor is not insolvent unless his property at a fair valuation and exclusive of any property which he has conveyed, concealed, or removed, or permitted to be conveyed, concealed, or removed with intent to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors,[11] is insufficient to pay his debts.[12] A stockholder's liability for unpaid stock subscriptions cannot be taken into account as an asset in determining the question of the corporation's solvency.[13] A bankrupt remaining personally liable upon a mortgage upon land conveyed by him, such debt is chargeable as a liability;[14] also sums paid to preserve assets are generally regarded as liabilities.[15]

(§ 3) B. Disposition of property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors.[16] The giving of a lien, valid under the bankruptcy act does not constitute an act of bankruptcy.[17]

(§ 3) C. A preferential transfer while insolvent.[18]—An insolvent knowingly preferring a creditor commits an act of bankruptcy.[19] The transaction amounting to a preference, the law presumes that it was done with intent to prefer.[20]

(§ 3) D. Suffering or permitting while insolvent, the obtaining of a preference through legal proceedings.[21]—It is not the mere obtaining of a preference through legal proceedings while insolvent that makes the debtor liable as a bankrupt, but it is the failure on his part to have the same vacated or discharged within five days before a sale or final disposition of the property.[22]

(§ 3) E. General assignment.[23]—The assignee need not have been appointed by order of a court [24] nor under a state insolvency law.[25]

6. Hoague v. Cumner, 187 Mass. 296, 72 N. E. 956; In re J. H. Alison Lumber Co., 137 F. 643, and cases cited. Pennsylvania act of June 4, 1901, is suspended. Potts v. Smith Mfg. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 206.

7. Until proceedings have been begun under the Federal bankruptcy act, the operation of the Georgia insolvent traders' act is not suspended as to a particular case. Boston Mercantile Co. v. Ould-Carter Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 466. The Georgia insolvent traders' act is unquestionably an insolvency law, but it lacks one necessary element of a bankruptcy law, viz., provision that after discharge the debtor shall be released from further liability on his debts. Id.

8. Potts v. Smith Mfg. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 206. Does not apply to a farmer. Musser v. Brindle, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 37.

9. See 3 C. L. 435.

10. See 3 C. L. 435. As to the burden of proving insolvency and the evidence admissible on such issue, see post, § 5 C.

11. In re Shoesmith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 684. Proceeds of a fraudulent conveyance being invested in a distant state they should be treated as "concealed assets" and deducted from available assets, for the purpose of determining insolvency. Id.

12. Crandall v. Coats, 133 F. 965; In re Shoesmith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 684; Murphy v. W. T. Murphy & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 486; Hastings v. Fithian [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 350 The evidence must be such as to satisfy the jury that defendant's existing indebtedness is more than the value of his assets at the time the petition is filed. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498; Knittel v. McGowan, Id., but see 137 F. 453, where case is reversed on other grounds. Evidence held to establish insolvency. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247.

13. First Nat. Bank v. The Wyoming Valley Ice Co., 136 F. 466.

14. Grantee took a mere equity of redemption. In re Shoesmith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 684.

15. Instruction that license fee was paid, by purchase of license to preserve license as an asset and that the amount so paid should be charged as a liability on an issue as to the debtor's insolvency held correct. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498. But see McGowan v. Knittel [C. C. A.] 137 F. 453, where case is reversed on other grounds.

16. See 3 C. L. 436.

17. Where a debtor while solvent made an equitable assignment of insurance policies to be issued as security for a loan, but failed to make a delivery and assignment of the policies to the creditor, until after loss, when he was insolvent, the assignment thereof at that time did not constitute an act of bankruptcy. Wilder v. Watts, 138 F. 426.

18. See 3 C. L. 436.

19. Rex Buggy Co. v. Hearick [C. C. A.] 132 F. 310.

20. Rex Buggy Co. v. Hearick [C. C. A.] 132 F. 310. See 3 C. L. 436, n. 91.

21. See 3 C. L. 437.

22. Petition alleging that the debtor's property has been attached in a legal proceeding is insufficient. In re Vetterman, 135 F. 443.

23. See 3 C. L. 437.

(§ 3) F. Admitting insolvency in writing and willingness to be adjudged a bankrupt.[26]

§ 4. Persons who may be adjudged bankrupts and who may petition.[27]—A natural person engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil cannot be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt.[28] To bring one within this exemption it is not essential that he should till the soil in person, or that his operations should be limited to agricultural planting, sowing and cultivation of the soil,[29] but such tillage of the soil must be his chief occupation or business and the one upon which he relies for his livelihood and financial welfare.[30] A corporation [31] engaged principally in manufacturing [32] or trading and mercantile pursuits [33] may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. The term "trading pursuits" as here used applies only to persons or concerns trading in tangible property or chattels.[34] To come within the provisions of the bankruptcy law as a manufacturer, it is not necessary that the corporation itself perform every operation with or upon the so-called raw material necessary to produce the completed article.[35] It is all-sufficient if it do any one of the several acts necessary to produce such manufactured articles in their completed form.[36] A corporation engaged in keeping an inn or hotel is not principally engaged in trading or mercantile pursuits.[37] A partnership conducting

24. In re Hercules Atkin Co., 133 F. 813.

25. In re Spalding, 134 F. 507. The appointment of a receiver in a judgment creditor's suit against an alleged bankrupt in a state court, because of the debtor's insolvency, constitutes an act of bankruptcy. Id.

26, 27. See 3 C. L. 438.

28. Act 1898, § 41. See 3 C. L. 438, n. 24.

29. Bank of Dearborn v. Matney, 132 F. 75.

30. Bank of Dearborn v. Matney, 132 F. 75. One who receives between $1,500 and $1,800 per year from the products of his farm, and spends $15,000 per year buying and feeding live stock and who becomes indebted to the extend of $50,000 by reason of his live stock transactions is not chiefly engaged in farming. Id. Bankrupt residing on farm of three hundred acres, which he had purchased, but only partially paid for, and cultivating only one-third thereof, spending most of his time and money in dealing in finely bred cattle, held not engaged chiefly in farming. In re Brown, 132 F. 706. Lawyer running a collection business and a farm, making nothing out of the former and his gross income from the farm was $1,800, and his indebtedness arose principally out of his purchase and operation of the farm, held chiefly engaged in farming. In re Hoy, 137 F. 175.

31. A mercantile association organized under Act Pa. 1874 (P. L. 271), providing for "the formation of partnership associations in which the capital subscribed shall alone be responsible for the debts of the association" may be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt. In re Hercules Atkin Co., 133 F. 813.

[The Court holds that it is immaterial whether the association be regarded as a corporation or not, but expresses the view that it comes within the definition of the word "corporation" as used in the Bankr. Act of 1898, § 1, subd. "a," cl. 6.]

32. A construction company engaged in constructing bridges, wharves, bulkheads, and driving piles for foundations for buildings, etc., whenever they could obtain a contract therefor is not a manufacturing concern. In re MacNichol Const. Co., 134 F. 979.

Contra, see 3 C. L. 438, n. 30, 31.

33. A corporation engaged in carrying on a wholesale and retail ice business is engaged chiefly in trading and mercantile pursuits. First Nat. Bank v. Wyoming Valley Ice Co., 136 F. 466.

34. In re Snyder & Johnson Co., 133 F. 806, following In re Surety Guaranty Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 121 F. 73. Does not include a corporation engaged in soliciting advertisements and placing them in papers at rates previously furnished it. Id.

35. In re Troy Steam Laundering Co., 132 F. 266.

36. In re Troy Steam Laundering Co., 132 F. 266. A corporation whose chief business is laundering collars, cuffs, etc., for the manufacturers before the articles are put on the market is engaged chiefly in manufacturing. Id.

37. In re United States Hotel Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 225.

Note: The question as to what occupations are to be classed as trading or mercantile pursuits is a perplexing one in American bankruptcy law. The decisions are so inconsistent that even a marked tendency of any sort is wanting. The question whether innkeepers belong to this category was squarely raised in the case of In re Ryan, 2 Sawyer, 411, 5 Leg. Gaz. 263, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,183, where the respondent, who kept a tavern and bar, was adjudged a trader within the meaning of that term as used in the Bankruptcy Act of 1867 (14 Stat. 537) and hence held subject to proceedings in involuntary bankruptcy. This case seems to have been overlooked, however, in the decision of the principal case. A like conclusion is reached in the cases of In re Barton Hotel Co., 12 Am. Bankr. Rep. 335, and In re San Gabriel Sanitorium Co., 95 Fed. 271; but in the fora private bank [38] and an unincorporated Lloyd's association of fire underwriters are subject to involuntary proceedings.[39] An irrigation company is not subject to involuntary proceedings.[40] It has been held that a quasi public corporation is not amendable to the bankruptcy law on the ground of public policy.[41] A corporation or association does not cease to exist so as to preclude bankruptcy proceedings by instituting proceedings to wind up its affairs.[42]

Who may petition. Voluntary proceedings.[43]—A "qualified person" of the statute is one, other than a corporation, who owes debts.[44]

Involuntary proceedings.[45]—Persons who procure or connive at the commission of an act of bankruptcy are incompetent to maintain proceedings in bankruptcy on account of such act.[46] The time of the adjudication is the time to test the sufficiency of the number of the petitioning creditors and of the amount of their claims to warrant the adjudication,[47] and the bankruptcy act does not sanction the splitting up of a single claim into several demands in order to create the requisite number of petitioning creditors.[48] The petition being dismissed for insufficiency of petitioning creditors it is too late for a nonparticipating creditor to intervene as a matter of right.[49]

§ 5. Procedure for adjudication. A. In general.[50]—The Federal district court has general and exclusive jurisdiction of bankruptcy proceedings,[51] which jurisdiction is defined by the bankruptcy act.[52] Proceedings in bankruptcy are in the nature of a suit [53] in equity,[54] and hence pleadings in bankruptcy follow the rules of equity pleading.[55] Proceedings may be instituted in a district court mer the court laid stress on the fact that the receipts from a cafe and bar largely exceeded those from rental of rooms. In re Morton Boarding Stables, 108 Fed. 791, 5 Am. Bankr. Rep. 763, following In re Odell, 9 Ben. [U. S.] 209, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,426, 17 Nat. Bankr. Reg. 73, held that the owner of livery and boarding stables was engaged in trading or mercantile pursuits. See, also, Campbell v. Fink, 2 Duval [Ky.] 107; In re Sherwood, 9 Ben. [U. S.] 66, 17 N. B. R. 112, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,773, and Collier on Bankruptcy [5th ed.], p. 64. The following English and Canadian authorities support the decisions of the court in the principal case: Luton v. Biggs, Skinner, 267, 291; Willitt v. Thomas, 2 Chitty, 691; Harmon v. Clarkson, 22 U. C. Com. Pl. 291; Newton v. Trigg, 1 Showers, 96. See, also, In re Chesapeake Oyster and Fish Co., 112 F. 960.—3 Mich. L. R. 571.

38. An unincorporated association of individuals formed to carry on the business of a private bank under Laning's Rev. Laws Ohio, § 4891 et seq. Burkhart v. German-American Bank, 137 F. 958.

39. In re Seaboard Fire Underwriters, 137 F. 987.

40. In re Bay City Irr. Co., 135 F. 850.

41. Irrigation company. In re Bay City Irr. Co., 135 F. 850.

[In this case the report of the referee was adopted by the court, the company was held not to come within the purview of the act and the above point was not necessary to the decision.]

42. The election of liquidating trustees does not preclude the bankruptcy proceedings, the association being organized under a statute that upon giving notice the association shall cease to carry on its business, except so far as may be required for the beneficial winding up thereof. In re Hercules Atkin Co., 133 F. 813.

43. See 3 C. L. 439.

44. Act 1898, §§ 59 and 4a construed. In re Little [C. C. A.] 137 F. 521.

45. See 3 C. L. 439.

46. In re Marks Bros., 135 F. 448, citing In re Williams, 14 N. B. R. 132, Fed Cas. No. 17,706; Clark v. Heine, 11 A. B. R. 595, 127 F. 288, 62 C. C. A. 172; Simonson v. Sinsheimer, 95 F. 954, 37 C. C. A. 337. See, also, 3 C. L. 440, n. 63. 64. Where petitioners procured act of bankruptcy, and there was no proof that the defendant was insolvent and his property was in the hands of state receivers, who were acting faithfully, diligently and efficiently, petition was dismissed. Woolford v. Diamond State Steel Co., 138 F. 582.

47. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1000. Creditors may join at any time before the adjudication and be counted to make up the number of creditors and the amount of claims required by the act. Id.

Contra: "The number of creditors necessary to the petition should be reckoned as of the date of the petition." See 3 C. L. 439, n. 52.

48, 49. In re Tribelhorn [C. C. A.] 137 F. 3.

50. See 3 C. L. 440.

51. In re Shoesmith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 684.

52. In re Tybo Mining & Reduction Co., 132 F. 697.

53. In re Herrman [C. C. A.] 134 F. 566.

54. Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1; Dodge v. Norlin [C. C. A.] 133 F. 363. Except in certain specified particulars, proceedings in bankruptcy are of an equitable nature. In re Waugh [C. C. A.] 133 F. 281.

55. In re Urban & Suburban Realty Co.,

though there is a vacancy in the office of judge;[56] in such a case it is the duty of the clerk to receive and file the petition when offered[57] and it seems that he may also issue a subpoena thereon tested in his own name.[58]

Schedules.—The schedule should definitely describe the debt[59] and should give the address of the creditor or his attorney.[60] The schedule being sufficiently specific to notify the creditor that the debtor will claim his discharge as a release from liability on the claim it is generally sufficient.[61] A claim may be scheduled in the name of the equitable owner, thus a claim may be listed in the name of a creditor who is represented by a receiver,[62] and a note belonging to a bank may be scheduled as belonging to the bank though payable to its cashier.[63]

(§ 5) B. Voluntary proceedings.[64]—The bankruptcy law places no restriction upon one's right to file a second petition before the expiration of six years.[65] A voluntary petition which schedules no debt which would be barred by a discharge may be dismissed in the discretion of the court.[66]

(§ 5) C. Involuntary proceedings.[67]—The petition must be filed within four months of the commission of the act of bankruptcy.[68] Prior to the amendment of 1903, it was the transfer of property that was made the act of bankruptcy and not the recording of the instrument of transfer,[69] and the period of four months began to run from the time of such transfer.[70] The amendment of 1903 changing this rule is not retroactive.[71] The words "notorious, exclusive, or continuous possession" in section three as applied to intangible personal property means such possession as is usual and ordinary, unaccompanied by acts or conduct tending to conceal its ownership.[72]

Where bankruptcy proceedings are instituted in the courts of two different districts, each of which has jurisdiction, the one in which proceedings were last instituted will yield jurisdiction to the other[73] and will stay the proceedings.[74] A

132 F. 140. Time for demurring will not be extended as a matter of course, even where it is apparent that a demurrer would have been proper if filed in time. Id. Adjudication against a corporation will not be set aside because petition failed to show that it was of a class subject to involuntary proceedings. Id. See Equity, 3 C. L. 1210.

56, 57. In re Urban & Suburban Realty Co., 132 F. 140.

58. Rev. St. § 911. In re Urban & Suburban Realty Co., 132 F. 140.

59. A description, in the schedules, of the debt as follows: "Deficiency judgment on foreclosure of mortgage entered March 13, '02," held sufficient. In re David, 44 Misc. 516, 90 N. Y. S. 85.

60. Where creditor's residence was in fact unknown but certain attorneys had stated that all communications for such creditor should be sent to them, held an entry in the schedules, under the head of "Residence," "care D. & D., attys., 88 Nassau St., N. Y. C.," was sufficient. In re David, 44 Misc. 516, 90 N. Y. S. 85. Where creditor's address was unknown but bankrupt knew the address of his attorney and made no effort to ascertain the creditor's address, and no notice was sent him, held claim was not properly scheduled. Fieldmark v. Weinstein, 90 N. Y. S. 478.

61. Where the sole debt between the bankrupt and a creditor had been reduced to judgment, the fact that such debt was listed as the original contract debt does not except it from the discharge. Loomis v. Wallblom [Minn.] 102 N. W. 1114.

62. Where creditors of an insolvent corporation brought an action and obtained judgment against an insolvent corporation and its stockholders, and a receiver was appointed to enforce the stockholders' liability, a schedule by a stockholder naming the creditors and not the receiver, held correct. Longfield v. Minnesota Sav. Bank [Minn.] 103 N. W. 706.

63. Ross-Lewin v. Goold, 113 Ill. App. 499, afd. 211 Ill. 384, 71 N. E. 1028.

64. See 3 C. L. 441.

65. In re Little [C. C. A.] 137 F. 521.

66. In re Colaluca, 133 F. 255.

67. See 3 C. L. 441.

68. Rex Buggy Co. v. Hearick [C. C. A.] 132 F. 310. A petition filed more than four months after the recordation of a preferential transfer of notes secured by a chattel mortgage, held not filed in time and dismissed. In re Bogen, 134 F. 1019.

69. Murphy v. W. T. Murphy & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 486. This is not affected by act 1898, § 3b. Id.

70, 71. Murphy v. W. T. Murphy & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 486.

72. In re Bogen, 134 F. 1019.

73. In re Tybo Mining & Reduction Co., 132 F. 697.

74. Will not necessarily dismiss the proceedings, since the other court may transfer the case if it appears to be for the greatest convenience of the parties. In re Tybo Mining & Reduction Co., 132 F. 697.

corporation having its domicile in one judicial district and its principal place of business in another, the courts of both districts have concurrent jurisdiction.[75] In case two or more petitions are filed against the same debtor in different districts, the first hearing shall be had in the district where the debtor has his domicile,[76] and the proceedings in the other court will be stayed until such hearing is had [77] leaving it to the discretion [78] of such court to determine in which court the case can be proceeded with for the greatest convenience of the parties in interest,[79] and the burden is upon the petitioners for removal to show clearly and affirmatively that it is for the greatest convenience of such parties that the proceedings should be transferred.[80] This rule of jurisdiction is not absolute but must yield to the necessities of the case.[81] The phrase "parties in interest" as here used is not limited to unsecured creditors but includes all persons whose pecuniary interests are directly affected by the proceedings.[82] The word "individual" as used here and in general order No. 6 is equivalent to "person" and includes a corporation.[83] Proximity of the place of business of a bankrupt to the court entertaining the proceedings, and proximity of a majority of creditors in number or amount of claims, though persuasive, is not conclusive on the question of convenience.[84] An order directing the removal and consolidation of the proceedings with a cause pending in another jurisdiction is reviewable only by appeal from the order.[85]

An objection that the subpœna was improperly served can be raised only by motion or defense at the trial.[86] The answer alleging a larger number than twelve creditors the mode of service on such creditors is immaterial, the creditors named being actually served in time to intervene if they desired to do so.[87]

Any creditor may voluntarily appear and join in the petition or be heard in opposition thereto,[88] and those not appearing are, in contemplation of law, represented by the bankrupt to the extent of being concluded as to all matters directly in issue and determined by the order of adjudication.[89] The fact that directors and stockholders of the bankrupt corporation join in the petition is not evidence of bad faith or collusion, such petitioners being creditors.[90] An alleged bankrupt has a right to a reasonable time to answer petitions for his adjudication.[91] A single day is insufficient where the bankrupt is not within the district.[92]

75. In re United Button Co., 137 F. 668.

76. General orders No. 6. In re Globe Sec. Co., 132 F. 709. Where a petition is filed against an individual in the district of his domicile and is followed by a prompt adjudication before a hearing on petitions filed in the meantime in other districts, the court of the domicile acquires exclusive jurisdiction. In re United Button Co., 132 F. 378.

77. In re Globe Sec. Co., 132 F. 709.

78. In re Tybo Mining & Reduction Co., 132 F. 978.

79. In re Globe Sec. Co., 132 F. 709.

80. In re Tybo Mining & Reduction Co., 132 F. 978.

81. Where associated corporations of different states went into bankruptcy, held court first acquiring jurisdiction would retain it. In re Southwestern Bridge & Iron Co., 133 F. 568.

82. In re United Button Co., 137 F. 668.

83. In re United Button Co., 137 F. 668; In re Globe Sec. Co., 132 F. 709.

84. In re United Button Co., 137 F. 668. Evidence held insufficient to show that transfer would be for the greatest convenience of the parties in interest. Id. Where the petitioners are merely a minority of the creditors, representing only a small part of the indebtedness, a transfer is not warranted by the fact that the greater part of the bankrupt's property is in another district. In re Tybo Mining & Reduction Co., 132 F. 978. Where proceedings were started in New York and Colorado and most of the creditors, witnesses, etc., lived in the west, held case should be transferred to Colorado. In re General Metals Co., 133 F. 84.

85. Kyle Lumber Co. v. Bush [C. C. A.] 133 F. 688. Is not reviewable on a petition to review and revoke. Id.

86. Not by demurrer. In re Seaboard Fire Underwriters, 137 F. 987.

87. In re Tribelhorn [C. C. A.] 137 F. 3.

88, 89. Ayres v. Cone [C. C. A.] 138 F. 778.

90. First Nat. Bank v. Wyoming Valley Ice Co., 136 F. 466.

91, 92. Lockman v. Lang [C. C. A.] 132 F. 1.

The petition being sufficient, the petitioners have the right to proceed to support it by evidence and, if successful, to have the defendant adjudged a bankrupt regardless of any delay, confusion or expense attending such a course.[93] Answer being filed and the petitioners moving for an adjudication on the pleadings they thereby admit all facts properly pleaded in the answer,[94] and if the motion is denied, defendants are entitled to a final decree dismissing the petition.[95] Where an answer is interposed in involuntary proceedings, the judge may refer the proceeding to a special commissioner to take the testimony and return it with his opinion,[96] and in such a case it is no objection to such reference that a former involuntary petition by other creditors had been determined by the judge in favor of the alleged bankrupt,[97] and the fact that the taking of testimony before the commissioner will be more extensive than is a hearing before the judge is insufficient to prevent such reference.[98]

The petition must state the nature of the petitioner's claims [99] though it need not allege all the elements thereof,[1] and must show either by express language or inference that the defendant is not of the excepted classes.[2] Allegations of acts of bankruptcy in the language of the act, without setting forth any other facts or circumstances, are insufficient,[3] the petitioning creditors being bound to make as full a disclosure as their information will permit,[4] and if such disclosure is incomplete it must be accompanied by an explanation.[5] A specification alleging that property was transferred with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, should state facts and circumstances from which such intent may be inferred.[6] An allegation that the bankrupt has his "principal place of residence" in the district is sufficient to confer jurisdiction on the court of such district.[7] Insufficiency in the allegation as to the number of creditors is not an incurable jurisdictional defect.[8] An attorney in fact for a petitioning creditor can make the necessary

93. Woolford v. Diamond State Steel Co., 128 F. 582.

94, 95. In re Waugh [C. C. A.] 133 F. 281.

96, 97, 98. In re Lacov [C. C. A.] 134 F. 237.

99. In re White, 135 F. 199.

1 The petition alleging that the claims are for goods sold and delivered to the bankrupt within one year from the date of the execution of the petition, it is not necessary to allege when the several amounts became due, nor to state the amount of the securities held nor the manner in which the value of such securities is fixed. In re Hark, 135 F. 603.

2. Either by a negative averment to that effect, or by a direct averment of his principal business. In re White, 135 F. 199.

3. In re Hark, 135 F. 603. A general averment of the payment of money with intent to prefer creditors is insufficient. In re Blumberg, 133 F. 845.

4. In re Blumberg, 133 F. 845. An averment that property was transferred for an "improper consideration" is insufficient. Id.

5. In re Blumberg, 133 F. 845.

6. In re White, 135 F. 199. An allegation that defendant, a retail merchant, transferred and removed goods from his store with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors is insufficient. Id. A petition alleging that the bankrupt while insolvent conveyed certain described real estate to a designated person with intent to hinder, delay, and defraud his creditors, has been held sufficient. Id. [The facts here stated are very few, and this specification is barely over the line which divides it from those held to be insufficient, and probably cannot in all cases be regarded as a precedent. Id.] Petition alleging that defendants are insolvent and that on a certain date, within four months of filing the petition, they removed, transferred and concealed certain property from a designated place with intent to hinder, delay, and defraud their creditors, and stating the value of the goods on information and belief and that the petitioners have been unable to ascertain to what place said goods have been removed, is sufficient. In re Hark, 135 F. 603.

7. Especially as against a collateral attack. Ross-Lewin v. Goold, 113 Ill. App. 499, afd. 211 Ill. 384, 71 N. E. 1028.

8. In re Haff [C. C. A.] 136 F. 78. Failure of an involuntary petition filed by a single creditor to allege that the creditors were less than twelve in number does not deprive the court of jurisdiction, three creditors having probable claims having united in earlier proceedings, and the bankrupt not having denied the claims of such creditors, nor filed a list of all his creditors, with their addresses, under oath. Id. A single creditor filing the petition, the averment that all the creditors of the alleged bankrupt are less than twelve in number does not condition the jurisdic-

oath to the petition, where the facts are within his own knowledge.[9] A bankruptcy court has power to permit amendments of pleadings by the insertion or correction of jurisdictional as well as other averments.[10] Such power is discretionary [11] and will be exercised in the furtherance of justice the defect being properly excused.[12] The bankruptcy court having jurisdiction, it may permit the amendment of a petition, defective for want of equity, more than four months after the commission of the act of bankruptcy,[13] and such amendment relates to and takes effect as of the date of the filing of the original petition,[14] but an original petition cannot be amended by setting out therein acts of bankruptcy not referred to in the original petition, and occurring more than four months before the application for an order allowing the amendment.[15] That an involuntary petition contained a prayer that the petitioner might be permitted to intervene in earlier proceedings as a cautionary measure does not deprive it of its status as an original petition.[16] Defects may be waived by answer.[17]

It is incumbent upon the defendant to deny the allegation of insolvency in the petition,[18] and if he does so and appears in court on the hearing with his books, papers, and accounts, and submits to an examination, and gives testimony as to all matters relating to the question of insolvency, the burden of proving insolvency rests on the creditors; [19] but if the bankrupt fails to so do the burden of proving his solvency rests upon him.[20] The debtor seeking protection under the exemption of the statute should present tangible, reliable evidence to bring himself within the exemption.[21] As a general rule evidence of subsisting,[22] though unmatured,[23] liabilities of the bankrupt, are admissible on the issue of his solveney,[24] but evidence of concealed assets is inadmissible.[25] A creditor having ob-tion of the court. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1000.

9. Where verification alleged that petitioner was without district and that the attorney had full authority to institute and prosecute suit. Rogers v. De Soto Placer Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 407.

10. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1,000. Petition may be amended by the insertion of averments that the alleged bankrupt is not a wage-earner or farmer, and that all his creditors are less than twelve in number. Id. Failing to state nature of petitioner's claim it may be amended. In re White, 135 F. 199. Failing to show that defendant is not of an excepted class it may be amended. Id.

11. Where petition was fatally defective. Woolford v. Diamond State Steel Co., 138 F. 582.

12. Amendment seeking to set up acts of bankruptcy occurring subsequently to those stated in the original petition, and which must have been known to some of the petitioners at the time the petition was filed, denied. Wilder v. Watts, 138 F. 426.

13, 14. In re Shoesmith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 684.

15, 16. In re Haff [C. C. A.] 136 F. 78.

17. The objection that the petitioner failed to file a duplicate of his petition is waived by an answer by the bankrupt within four months of the alleged acts of bankruptcy without presenting the objection. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1,000.

18. In re American Pub. Co. [Okl.] 79 P. 762. If he fails to do so the allegation is admitted. Id.

19. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498. See McGowan v. Knittel [C. C. A.] 137 F. 453, where the first case is reversed on other grounds, this one being reaffirmed. In re American Pub. Co. [Okl.] 79 P. 762. Where a respondent corporation appears at the hearing by its president, who with other witnesses is examined, and certain books are produced, but neither the testimony of the witnesses nor the matters shown by the books disclose the financial condition of the respondent, such acts are not a compliance with Act 1898, § 3, subd. d. Id.

20. In re Shoesmith [C. C. A.] 135 F. 684; In re American Pub. Co. [Okl.] 79 P. 762.

21. Bank of Dearborn v. Matney, 132 F. 75.

22. Evidence of a judgment which has been opened to permit a defense is inadmissible. McGowan v. Knittel [C. C. A.] 137 F. 453, rvg. 134 F. 498.

23. In the absence of denial. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498. But see McGowan v. Knittel [C. C. A.] 137 F. 453, where case is reversed on other grounds.

24. A judgment entered against the alleged bankrupt in a state court more than four months before the commission of the act of bankruptcy is admissible to show insolvency. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498. But see McGowan v. Knittel [C. C. A.] 137 F. 453, where case is reversed on other grounds.

25. Evidence that alleged bankrupt on deeding property had made a parol agreetained the appointment of a receiver on the ground of insolvency he is estopped to deny the debtor's insolvency when other creditors institute bankruptcy proceedings based on the appointment.[26] Cases dealing with the sufficiency of the evidence are shown in the notes.[27]

Notice to creditors of a proposed dismissal of the proceedings is generally essential,[28] but the creditors being informed of the pendency of the proceedings and not appearing and asking to intervene an order of dismissal for want of sufficient petitioners will not be withheld until the clerk can notify such creditors.[29]

The adjudication does not absolve the bankrupt from any agreement, contract, or liability,[30] but, as against a creditor acquiescing in it and proving his claim, it is res judicata on the question of the bankrupt's residence.[31] Creditors knowingly failing to plead they are not entitled to have the judgment set aside to permit them to plead unless they show satisfactory reasons for their delay.[32] A default judgment being rendered against the alleged bankrupt, an application to set it aside should be made to the district court.[33]

Costs will be allowed to an alleged bankrupt, on dismissal of an involuntary petition against him, only after the filing of his bill of costs with the clerk and notice to the petitioning creditors.[34]

Exemption of bankrupt from arrest.—The provision of the bankruptcy act which exempts a bankrupt from arrest upon civil process except in certain enumerated cases applies to the detention of a bankrupt taken into custody before bankruptcy,[35] and in such case he may be discharged on a writ of habeas corpus.[36] The bankruptcy court may issue an order restraining the arrest of the bankrupt even though a petition for review of an order refusing to revoke a discharge is pending.[37]

§ 6. Protection and possession of the property pending the appointment of trustee; receivers.[38]—From the filing of the petition until the adjudication, the property rights of the debtor are in abeyance,[39] and upon the adjudication, title to the bankrupt's property passes from him at once, and is conditionally vested in the court pending the appointment of a trustee, or until the estate is finally closed or abandoned by the creditors.[40] The court may, in its discretion,[41] when necessary to preserve the estate,[42] appoint a receiver. Such receiver is a mere custodian ment that upon his paying certain judgments and claims, the property was to revert to him, and that such reversionary interest was an asset valued at $20,000, is inadmissible upon the issue of his insolvency. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498. But see McGowan v. Knittel [C. C. A.] 137 F. 453, where case is reversed on other grounds.

26. In re Spalding, 134 F. 507.

27. An adjudication of bankruptcy against a corporation held warranted by the evidence. In re Imperial Corporation, 133 F. 73.

28. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1000.

29. In re Tribelhorn [C. C. A.] 137 F. 3.

30. Watson v. Merrill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 359. Where there was no rent due at the time of the filing of a petition against the lessee, the adjudication does not constitute a breach at that time of the covenant of the bankrupt to pay rents occurring thereafter. Id.

31. In re Hintze, 134 F. 141.

32. In re Urban & Suburban Realty Title Co., 132 F. 140.

33. In re Imperial Corporation, 133 F. 73.

34. In re Haeseler-Kohlhoff Carbon Co., 135 F. 867.

35. People v. Erlanger, 132 F. 883.
Contra: In re Claiborne, 109 F. 74.

36. People v. Erlanger, 132 F. 883.

37. In re Chandler, 135 F. 893.

38. See 3 C. L. 444.

39. In re Mertens, 134 F. 101.

40. Rand v. Sage [Minn.] 102 N. W. 864.

41. Such appointment is not reviewable by a writ of mandamus. Edinburg Coal Co. v. Humphreys [C. C. A.] 134 F. 839.

42. Where it was alleged that the indebtedness for which the alleged bankrupts were liable was created through fraud, that two of them had absconded, and that the other was in prison, the appointment of a receiver before adjudication without notice to such incarcerated defendant is not void as a taking of property without due process of law. In re Francis, 136 F. 912.

of the property [43] and cannot exercise the powers of a trustee, but he may take appropriate measures incident to the protection of the property in his custody, though he is not authorized, and the bankruptcy court cannot properly direct him, to take possession of property held and claimed adversely by third parties, or to institute actions for the recovery of property claimed to belong to the bankrupt's estate.[44] The order of appointment may confer power to borrow money.[45] The appointment of a receiver after a fire does not impair or destroy in any way the title or interest or possession of the bankrupt so as to render an insurance policy void under a provision prohibiting any change in the interest, title, or possession of the insured.[46] The order appointing a receiver should provide that he should not take possession of the property until the proper bond is filed,[47] and failing in this regard it should be vacated though another creditor has applied for a receiver and filed a bond conditioned to pay all expenses and damages if his petition be dismissed.[48]

§ 7. Creditors' meetings; appointment of trustee; removals.[49]—Neither the bankrupt nor his attorney should be permitted to have any influence in the election of the trustee,[50] but where the relation of attorney and client is limited to the filing of the petition, the attorney may accept claims, sent to him thereafter without his solicitation or the procurement of the bankrupt, and vote on such claims for the election of a trustee.[51] The requirement that the trustees shall be elected at the first meeting is directory only.[52] A "creditor" within the meaning of the bankruptcy act is one who "owns" a claim, and the owner of a beneficial interest in a claim does not own the claim itself,[53] hence a committee of creditors holding assigned claims in trust for the assignors is only entitled to one vote.[54] The choice of a trustee by the creditors is subject to the approval of the referee or judge, and a trustee chosen by the creditors is removable by the judge.[55] A trustee being selected by the vote of a majority in number and amount of those present at the creditors' meeting, the referee cannot appoint a different trustee merely because he does not approve of the creditors' selection,[56] nor is the fact that the trustee chosen is hostile to the bankrupt,[57] or had, as receiver, unreasonably delayed to account for the funds in his hands,[58] ground for the referee to refuse to confirm his selection. That the trustee affected a composition by means of fraudulent misrepresentations is ground for his removal.[59] The referee has no power to fill a vacancy in the office of trustee, unless the creditors, after a meeting has been called by the referee, fail to fill the same.[60] A bankruptcy court cannot aid the administration of the estate of person adjudicated a bankrupt in another district by ap-

43. In re Kolin [C. C. A.] 134 F. 557.

44. In re Kolin [C. C. A.] 134 F. 557. Evidence held sufficient to show that at the time the receiver took possession the claimant was not in possession nor was claiming possession. Id.

45. Edinburg Coal Co. v. Humphreys [C. C. A.] 134 F. 839.

46. Fire occurred after adjudication and after receiver was notified of appointment but before formal appointment. Fuller v. Jameson, 98 App. Div. 53, 90 N. Y. S. 456.

47. In re Haff [C. C. A.] 135 F. 742. Order failing to fix a time within which the bond should be filed and not requiring it to be filed before the receiver should take possession of the property. Id.

48. In re Haff [C. C. A.] 135 F. 742.

49. See 3 C. L. 445.

50, 51. In re Cooper, 135 F. 196.

52. In re William F. Fisher & Co., 135 F. 223. Where two trustees, appointed at first meeting, applied for a sale of the bankrupt's assets, pending which a third trustee was elected, who qualified and joined in petition of sale, the fact that the petition was presented by two trustees only in the first instance held no objection thereto. Id.

53, 54, 55. In re Kenney, 136 F. 451.

56. In re Mangan, 133 F. 1000.

57. So held where serious charges were made as to disposition of goods by the institution of the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Mangan, 133 F. 1000.

58. In re Mangan, 133 F. 1000.

59. In re Allen B. Wrisley Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 388.

60. In re William F. Fisher & Co., 135 F. 223.

pointing an ancillary trustee.[61] As a general rule a successor of a deceased trustee will only be appointed where necessary for the administration of the estate.[62]

§ 8. Compositions.[63]—The approval of a composition is discretionary,[64] and it will not be granted if the composition is detrimental to creditors[65] or if the bankrupt has been guilty of any of the acts or failed to perform any of the duties which would be a bar to his discharge.[66] It is essential that a composition provide for the payment of all taxes legally due and owing.[67] The confirmation of a composition can only be set aside upon the application of parties in interest,[68] and leave to file a petition to set aside such confirmation should be refused only when the petition shows on its face that the petitioner is not entitled to relief.[69] That the composition was effected by the fraudulent statements of the trustee is ground for setting it aside.[70] A judgment confirming a composition is a judgment granting a discharge[71] and is reviewable only by appeal.[72] An order of confirmation may be proved by a certified copy under the seal of the clerk of the court.[73]

§ 9. Property and rights passing to trustee. A. Particular kinds of property and rights.[74]—Property in a stock exchange seat,[75] goods bought but not paid for, title having passed,[76] choses in action belonging to the bankrupt at the date of the adjudication,[77] a copyright held under an absolute assignment from the author to the bankrupt,[78] and the interest of a bankrupt mortgagor in the property mortgaged,[79] pass to the trustee. Remainders[80] and legacies[81] being vested at the time of the adjudication pass to the trustee of the remaindermen or legatees. The trustee is vested by operation of law with the title to all "documents relating to the bankrupt's property."[82] The word "document" includes all muniments of title, contracts, securities, bills of exchange, bills receivable, notes,

61. In re Tybo Mining & Reduction Co., 132 F. 697.

62. Where bankruptcy proceedings were instituted in 1868 and the assignee died in 1893, a successor to such assignee will not be appointed to enable the grantee of a deed executed by the bankrupt in 1860 to sue to reform the deed so as to include land alleged to have been omitted by mistake. In re Haskell's Estate, 134 F. 309.

63. See 3 C. L. 445.

64. In re Woodend, 133 F. 593.

65. Where bankrupt formed a corporation to carry on business and offered to issue stock for the payment of creditors, he retaining the control of the business, held the composition would not be ratified. In re Woodend, 133 F. 593.

66. Bankrupts failing to keep or withholding books for the purpose of concealing their true financial condition, confirmation will be refused. In re Olman, 134 F. 681. Where sole explanation of loss of $30,000 by tailoring firm was botch work and a tailor's strike, no books being offered in evidence except two bank books, held composition would be refused. Id. See, also, 3 C. L. 446, n. 74.

67. In re Flynn, 134 F. 145. Taxes assessed before, and payable after, the adjudication are "legally due and owing" on the day they are assessed. Id.

68. In re Allen B. Wrisley Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 388.

69. In re Allen B. Wrisley Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 388. A creditor who has assigned his claim and received value therefor is not a "party in interest" though the assignment was obtained through the fraud and misrepresentation of the trustee and bankrupt. Id.

70. In re Allen B. Wrisley Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 388.

71. In re Friend [C. C. A.] 134 F. 778; Mandell v. Levy, 93 N. Y. S. 545.

72. In re Friend [C. C. A.] 134 F. 778.

73. Mandell v. Levy, 93 N. Y. S. 545.

74. See 3 C. L. 446.

75. In re Hurlbutt, Hatch & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 504.

76. Transaction under which goods were shipped to bankrupt held a sale and title passed to trustee. In re Martin-Vernon Music Co., 132 F. 983. The seller of goods under a contract of sale and return is not entitled to recover the goods unsold from the buyer's trustee in bankruptcy. In re Miller, 135 F. 868.

77. In re Grissler [C. C. A.] 136 F. 754.

78. In re Howley-Dresser Co., 132 F. 1002.

79. In re Jersey Island Packing Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 625.

80. Woods v. Little [C. C. A.] 134 F. 229.

81. In re McKenna, 137 F. 611. Legacy held to rest in legatee upon the death of the testator and that it might thereafter have been transferred or levied upon and sold under judicial process against him, hence upon his being adjudged a bankrupt, his interest vested in his trustee in bankruptcy. Watkins v. Bigelow, 93 Minn. 361, 101 N. W. 497.

82. Act 1898, § 70, cl. 1. In re Hess, 134 F. 109.

bankbooks, account books, and all papers and books relating to the bankrupt's business.[83] The right of a mortgagor to rents and profits accruing up to the time that the mortgagee enters passes to the former's trustee.[84] The interest of a bankrupt lessee in the demised premises being intact at the time of the adjudication the right of possession passes to the trustee.[85] The trustee takes title to insurance policies, on the life of the bankrupt, which have a cash [86] or collateral loan and paid-up insurance [87] value even though they have no cash surrender value, and this is especially true if the insurer voluntarily agrees to pay a certain sum for the policy, on condition that it receive a release signed by the insured and the beneficiary,[88] and in such case the trustee is entitled to sell the bankrupt's interest and to have the bankrupt assign the same.[89] But a policy which has no actual value as an asset does not pass to the trustee.[90] Property held by the bankrupt under a conditional sale, void for want of record, passes to the trustee.[91] In Texas community property passes to the trustee of the husband.[92] Trust funds, when kept separate from the bankrupt's general funds,[93] or money paid the bankrupt by mistake,[94] form no part of the bankrupt's estate. Salary of a public officer of a state earned but not payable at the time of his filing a petition in bankruptcy does not pass to his trustee.[95]

Property fraudulently conveyed.[96]—The trustee takes title to [97] property fraudulently [98] conveyed by the bankrupt,[99] unless the transferee is a bona fide [1]

83. In re Hess, 134 F. 109.

84. In re Chase, 133 F. 79.

85. So held where prior to the bankruptcy of the tenant the landlord took no step to regain possession of the premises for rent in arrears. In re Adams, 134 F. 149.

86. Gould v. New York Life Ins. Co., 132 F. 927.

87. In re Coleman [C. C. A.] 136 F. 818. Act 1898, § 70, subd. 5, does not change the above rule. Id.

88. Beneficiary was insured's wife. In re Coleman [C. C. A.] 136 F. 818.

89. In re Coleman [C. C. A.] 136 F. 818.

90. Gould v. New York Life Ins. Co., 132 F. 927. Where policy was of no actual value at time of adjudication but before discharge bankrupt died, held did not pass to the trustee as an asset. Id. Before a trustee can lay his hands on a policy of insurance, or the proceeds of it, if paid to another than the bankrupt, as being assets of the estate to be distributed among the bankrupt's creditors, he must be able to prove that the policy belonged to the bankrupt, having to him some value—either a cash surrender value payable to himself, his estate, or personal representatives, or an actual value of benefit to creditors. Carr v. Myers [Pa.] 60 A. 913.

91 In re Dunn Hardware & Furniture Co., 132 F. 719; In re Smith, 132 F. 301.

92. Collins v. Bryan [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 432. May recover community funds used by the husband in the erection of improvements on the wife's separate property, to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the improvement. Id. And he is only entitled to interest on the amount the community contributed. Id.

93. In he Taft [C. C. A.] 133 F. 511.

94. Trustee cannot recover such funds from a third person. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

95. In re Doherty, 135 F. 432.

96. See 3 C. L. 448.

97. Shreck v. Hanlon [Neb.] 104 N. W. 193; Annis v. Butterfield, 99 Me. 181, 58 A. 898. See, also, Tucker v. Denico [R. I.] 59 A. 920.

Whether a trustee in bankruptcy can sell estate which had previously been conveyed by the bankrupt in fraud of his creditors, until he has obtained an adjudication of the fraud, and reduced the estate to possession, quaere. If the trustee cannot give title to the premises by the deed the deed conveyed only a mere right of action to attack the fraudulent conveyance and is not enforceable. Annis v. Butterfield, 99 Me. 181, 58 A. 898.

98. Fraud, actual or constructive, is a necessary element to give the trustee a right of action. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918. A bona fide sale for fair value or in the discharge of a valid lien made prior to the institution of bankruptcy proceedings cannot be annulled by the trustee, and the property sold is no part of the bankrupt's estate. Eason v. Garrison & Kelly [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 800. Assignment by a wife, within four months prior to her bankruptcy, to her husband, for the purpose of securing money to pay a mortgage on her homestead, held fraudulent as against her creditors. Section 67e construed. Clarke v. Sherman [Iowa] 103 N. W. 982.

99. Trustee cannot have a fraudulent conveyance by a purchaser from the bankrupt set aside, the sale by the latter being valid. Sellers v. Hayes, 163 Ind. 422, 72 N. E. 119.

1. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918. Sale of stock in bulk by bankrupt while insolvent, taking in exchange a farm and the payment of a debt to a bank in which the purchasers were stockholders, held void. In re Moody, 134 F. 628.

purchaser for value [2] prior to the date of the adjudication.[3] The trustee, to the exclusion of creditors,[4] may recover such property or its value [5] if the conveyance could have been avoided by any creditor of the bankrupt,[6] other than one whose right is in the nature of a mere lienor,[7] and it is not essential that the creditors be in position to attack the transfer.[8] The action being brought under act 1898, § 70e, it is immaterial that the transfer was made by the bankrupt more than four months before the filing of the petition,[9] though the contrary is true when § 67e is sought to be applied.[10] The term "fraudulent conveyances" as here used includes all conveyances which are fraudulent by the common law, by statute law and by any other recognized rule of law of the state.[11] The expression "with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud" creditors, is used in the bankruptcy act with the meaning given to it in statutes declaratory of the common law against fraudulent conveyances;[12] and the mere fact that an insolvent debtor pays one creditor in full is not of itself evidence of an intention on his part to hinder, delay, or defraud other creditors,[13] In order to set aside a sale by the insolvent the burden is on the trustee to show fraud.[14] Subsection 4 of section 70a and section 70e may be read in connection with section 1, subsections 23 and 25.[15]

2. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918. A mortgage given to secure antecedent debts is not given for "value" within the meaning of § 70, cl. e. Empire State Trust Co. v. Trustees of Wm. F. Fisher & Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 940. Under § 67e, a transfer for a past consideration is void. Raley v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 103 N. W. 57. Gifts made by a bankrupt to his wife while he is insolvent and while he is contemplating going into bankruptcy which he does shortly afterwards are void and recoverable by his trustee. Wiley v. McBride [Ark.] 85 S. W. 84. One loaning money to the wife of a bankrupt to pay a mortgage on the bankrupt's homestead, and receiving a note made by the husband and payable to the wife, held a purchaser in good faith and for a present fair consideration within the meaning of Act 1898, § 67e. Clarke v. Sherman [Iowa] 103 N. W. 982. An issue in a suit by the trustee to recover property alleged to have been fraudulently conveyed failing to submit as an element of the purchaser's good faith that he paid a present fair consideration for the goods, was improper. Piedmont Sav. Bank v. Levy [N. C.] 50 S. E. 657.

3. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918.

4. Moore, Schafer Shoe Mfg. Co. v. Billings [Or.] 80 P. 422. A creditors' bill instituted subsequent to an adjudication in bankruptcy against the debtor to set aside a chattel mortgage and a sale of a stock of merchandise does not give rise to a lien, in favor of the creditor filing the same on the goods sought to be reached. Id.

5. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918.

6. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918. Trustee may avoid a mortgage made by a New Jersey corporation, which the creditors of the corporation might avoid under New Jersey corporation act, § 64. Empire State Trust Co. v. Trustees of Wm. F. Fisher & Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 940. Trustee held entitled to recover community property conveyed by the bankrupt to his wife and by her conveyed to defendants pursuant to a conspiracy to defraud the bankrupt's creditors. Shelley v. Nolen [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 524.

7. Sellers v. Hayes, 163 Ind. 422, 72 N. E. 119. Cannot represent a creditor who has a lien by virtue of Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6637a et seq., providing that sales of a stock of merchandise in bulk are fraudulent as to certain creditors unless certain conditions are observed. Id.

8. Shreck v. Hanlon [Neb.] 104 N. W. 193. He may maintain an action in the nature of a creditors' bill to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, without reducing the claims of the creditors to judment. Id.

9. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918; Shelley v. Nolen [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 524.

10. Shelley v. Nolen [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 524; Murphy v. W. T. Murphy & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 486. Under § 67e an assignment for the benefit of creditors made more than four months before the filing of the petition cannot be avoided by the trustee. McIntire v. Jennings [Wash.] 80 P. 278; Hoague v. Cumner, 187 Mass. 291, 72 N. E. 956.

11. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918. A conveyance fraudulent under the laws of the state is fraudulent under the bankruptcy act. Lavender v. Bowen [Iowa] 101 N. W. 760. Under act 1898, §§ 67a, 70e and Code, § 1254, the trustee may maintain an action to cancel, as a cloud on title, a deed made by the bankrupt, which was void for defective acknowledgment, probate and registration. Lance v. Tainter [N. C.] 49 S. E. 211.

12, 13. Kingsbury v. First Nat. Bank [Kan.] 81 P. 187.

14. Eason v. Garrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 800.

15. Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918.

(§ 9) B. Nature of trustee's title in general.[16]—The trustee is an officer of the court and stands in a fiduciary relation to creditors,[17] In all cases unaffected by fraud [18] or some positive provision of the bankruptcy act,[19] the trustee, upon his appointment and qualification,[20] is vested, by operation of law,[21] with the same, but no better title than the bankrupt had [22] at the date of the adjudication [23] to all nonexempt [24] property of the bankrupt, and the latter if he asserts a right to hold and possess such property against the trustee is in contempt of court.[25] The rights of the trustee to property are not enlarged by the fact that such property is listed and passed to the trustee as part of the bankrupt's assets.[26] The trustee has all the powers which the bankrupt might have exercised for his own benefit,[27] and may assume or renounce executory contracts of the bankrupt as he may deem for the best interest of the estate,[28] and may recover any of the bankrupt's property which a creditor might have recovered,[29] but in such an action he must recover on the strength of his own title.[30] But notwithstanding any provisions which are found in the bankruptcy act relative to the right of the trustee to avoid par-

16. See 3 C. L. 449.

17. In re Allen B. Wrisley Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 388.

18. See ante, § 9, a. Property fraudulently conveyed.

19. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 25 S. Ct. 306.

20. In re Granite City Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 818, afg. 131 F. 1004; Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918, and cases cited.

21. In re Hess, 134 F. 109; Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918, and cases cited; In re Granite City Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 818, afg. 131 F. 1004. No demand for the surrender and possession of the bankrupt's property is necessary. Id.

22. In re Bacon, 132 F. 157; Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918, and cases cited. The trustee can enforce no greater rights than are held by the bankrupt and creditors the trustee represents. Eason v. Garrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 800. Takes subject to all valid claims, liens and equities. In re MacDonald, 138 F. 463. Uncompleted vessels in shipyard owned by bankrupt held the property of the petitioners for whom they were being rebuilt and who had made all payments required, which payments exceeded in amount the value of the boats. Id. Trustee of lessee is bound by a valid assignment. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 288. Trustee does not take title to goods held by the bankrupt as bailee. In re Miller, 135 F. 871. A trustee cannot sell a nonassignable contract held by the bankrupt without the assent of the other contracting party. In re D. H. McBride & Co., 132 F. 285. Trustee can assert no greater interest in estate of bankrupt's father than bankrupt himself could claim. Wick v. Hickey [Iowa] 103 N. W. 469. The trustee succeeds to the bankrupt's title to choses in action subject to any defense, abatement, or counterclaim to which they would have been liable in the hands of the latter. Nebraska Moline Plow Co. v. Blackburn [Neb.] 104 N. W. 178. A contractor's trustee stands in no better position with reference to a materialman's lien than would the contractor's general assignee for the benefit of creditors. In re Grissler [C. C. A.] 136 F. 754.

Evidence held insufficient to show that goods were obtained by bankrupt on a false statement made to a commercial agency. In re Rose, 135 F. 888.

23. In re MacDonald, 138 F. 463; In re Noel, 137 F. 694; Bush v. Export Storage Co., 136 F. 918, and cases cited. Adjudication operates as a seizure of the property by which it is taken in custodia legis. In re Granite City Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 818, afg. 131 F. 1004. A debtor takes a bequest accruing after the adjudication free from the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Woods, 133 F. 82. The terms of the bequest providing that all indebtedness due by the legatee shall be deducted from the bequest, the legatee is entitled to the benefit of such bequest in full, so far as the legatee's general creditors are concerned, subject only to the contingency of his not obtaining a discharge. Id. Held error to refuse to instruct the jury that the bankrupt cannot recover on a claim earned prior to the date of the adjudication in bankruptcy. Id.; Rand v. Sage [Minn.] 102 N. W. 864.

Contra.—Takes title as of the date of the filing of the petition. Glidden v. Massacusetts Hospital Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 538.

24. See post, § 16.

25. In re Granite City Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 818, afg. 131 F. 1004.

26. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 288.

27. In re Bacon, 132 F. 157.

28. Lease. Watson v. Merrill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 359. See 3 C. L. 447, n. 8, 9. Vendor of land under a parol agreement to sell to the bankrupt, upon refusing to perform may be sued by the trustee to recover the purchase price. Durham v. Wick, 210 Pa. 128, 59 A. 824.

29. In a suit to foreclose a mortgage, it is competent for the mortgagor's trustee to question its validity. Carlsbad Water Co. v. New [Colo.] 81 P. 34. See ante, § 9, A. Property fraudulently conveyed.

30. Cannot recover on weakness of defendant's title. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 288.

ticular transactions of the debtor, yet the whole act must be read in the light of the predominating purpose of congress with reference to the distribution of assets, namely, to prevent any inequality of payment among the unsecured creditors.[31] The trustee may pay off a mortgage on the property and have the mortgage assigned to himself or to a person designated by him, although it is not in process of foreclosure, where it is shown that so doing will result beneficially to the estate,[32] and the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction on his petition to compel the mortgagee to accept payment and execute the assignment.[33] As to whether the trustee is a purchaser or not there is a conflict.[34]

(§ 9) C. The trustee takes title free from liens[35] acquired by legal proceedings[36] in a state or Federal court[37] within four months prior to the filing of the petition[38] in voluntary or involuntary proceedings;[39] as by garnishment,[40] by execution issued on judgment,[41] or by proceedings supplementary thereto,[42] upon property exempt as against the trustee,[43] and it being conceded that part and possibly all of the property attached is exempt from the bankruptcy proceedings it may be held under the lien until it is determined what part if any passed to the trustee.[44] A lien acquired within time, being otherwise valid, it will be protected if it is recorded within the statutory time although within four months of the filing of the petition[45] or after the adjudication.[46] Under the bankruptcy act, liens given or accepted in good faith, and not in contemplation, or in fraud, of the act,[47] and for a present consideration,[48] which have been recorded according to law, are valid. The requirement as to recordation under this provision is satisfied if the instrument be recorded before the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings.[49] Liens and the rights of parties thereto will be construed in bankruptcy proceedings with reference to the laws of the state where the proceeding

31. Sellers v. Hayes, 163 Ind. 422, 72 N. E. 119.

32, 33. In re Bacon, 132 F. 157.

34. That he is not. In re Ducker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 43, afg. 133 F. 771; In re Beede, 138 F. 441. For cases pro and con, see 3 C. L. 450, n. 41.

35. See 3 C. L. 450.

36. Subjecting the income of a trust fund to the payment of debts under N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1391, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 1071, c. 46, is acquiring a lien through legal proceedings. In re Tiffany, 133 F. 799. A suit under Code W. Va. 1899, c. 74, § 2, brought within four months of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy is void as a proceeding for the imposition of a lien within Act 1898, § 67, cl. f. In re Porterfield, 138 F. 193.

37. See 3 C. L. 450, n. 57.

38. Liens acquired more than four months before the filing of the petition are valid. Attachment lien. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Huntington, 99 Me. 361, 59 A. 515. Mortgage lien. In re Reynolds, 133 F. 585. Judgment lien. Hillyer v. Le Roy, 179 N. Y. 369, 72 N. E. 237. Title acquired by sale under attachment proceedings. Tucker v. Denico [R. I.] 59 A. 920.

39. Cavanaugh v. Fenley [Minn.] 103 N. W. 711; Gardiner v. Ross [S. D.] 104 N. W. 220; Smith v. Zachry, 121 Ga. 467, 49 S. E. 286, following McKenney v. Cheney, 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433. Voluntary proceedings. Rothermel v. Moyer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 325.

40. Cavanaugh v. Fenley [Minn.] 103 N. W. 711. Though the bankrupt made no reference in his schedules to the fact that the indebtedness had been garnished. Id.

41. In re Burton Bros. Mfg. Co., 134 F. 157.

42. Gardiner v. Ross [S. D.] 104 N. W. 220.

43. The lien of an attachment is not dissolved by the bankruptcy of the attachment debtor where the property attached is exempt as against the trustee in bankruptcy, but is not exempt from the attachment. Jewett Bros. v. Huffman [N. D.] 103 N. W. 408.

44. Attachment proceedings. Jewett Bros. v. Huffman [N. D.] 103 N. W. 408. The fact that the warrant of attachment has been levied does not authorize the trustee to intervene in the action in which the attachment issued for the purpose of obtaining possession of the attached property. Id.

45. Mechanic's lien. In re Grissler [C. C. A.] 136 F. 754. Contra: See 3 C. L. 451, n. 70.

46. In re Lillington Lumber Co., 132 F. 886.

47. Crim v. Woodford [C. C. A.] 136 F. 34. That borrower, a man of excellent reputation and engaged in large contracts had overdrawn his bank account, does not charge lender with knowledge of his insolvency. Id.

48. Crim v. Woodford [C. C. A.] 136 F. 34.

49. In re Clifford, 136 F. 475.

is pending and the liens created.[50] The trustee takes subject to liens, legal or equitable, valid as to creditors,[51] but free from liens invalid as to creditors,[52] as for want of recordation.[53] Under the laws of most states the trustee takes free from unrecorded conditional sales.[54] Section 67, subds. "a" and "b" apply to judgments obtained by creditors of the bankrupt subsequent as well as prior to adjudication, in cases where the action to procure the judgment was commenced prior to the institution of bankruptcy proceedings.[55] A personal claim against a bankrupt's estate does not constitute a lien.[56] Creditors having a valid lien may enforce the same without regard to the bankruptcy proceedings,[57] but the property subject thereto not being in the actual custody of another court the lien must be enforced in the bankruptcy court.[58] The filing of the petition is a seizure for the benefit of the bankrupt's creditors; it is a caveat to all the world, and, in effect, an attachment and injunction.[59] The bankruptcy act only renders liens void as against the trustee and those claiming under him.[60] When beneficial to the estate, a lien voidable as against the trustee will not be dissolved but the trustee will be subrogated to the rights of the lienor and empowered to enforce the lien.[61] The court ordering attachment liens preserved for the benefit of the estate, it is proper for it to award the attaching creditors reasonable attorney's fees.[62] Under the bankruptcy act Congress may impair the obligation of contracts.[63]

50. Eason v. Garrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 800. Section 67a refers only to the validity of lien claims under the law of the state wherein the bankruptcy proceedings are pending. Murphy v. W. T. Murphy & Co. [Iowa] 101 N. W. 486.

51. Eason v. Garrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 800. A lien acquired without fraud for a valuable consideration, valid as against the bankrupt, and antedating by four months the bankruptcy proceedings, is good as against general creditors represented by the trustee whether recorded or not. Id. A vendor of goods, sold the bankrupt, having retained possession, the trustee takes subject to the vendor's lien. In re Manuel J. Portuondo Co., 135 F. 592. Drafts operating as an equitable assignment of certain rents pro tanto, they constitute a lien on the funds in the hands of the trustee. In re Oliver, 132 F. 588.

52. Receivers of Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. v. Staake [C. C. A.] 133 F. 717; In re First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 135 F. 62.

53. The holder of an instrument who might have had a lien if he had recorded it before bankruptcy cannot acquire such lien by recording it thereafter. So held as regards a Pennsylvania mortgage. In re Lukens, 138 F. 188.

54. In re Smith, 132 F. 301; In re Dunn Hardware & Furniture Co., 132 F. 719; In re Press-Post Printing Co., 134 F. 998; In re Rasmussen's Estate, 136 F. 704. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 496; In re Ducker, 133 F. 771; In re Ducker [C. C. A.] 134 F. 43, afg. 133 F. 771. Under Rev. St. Ohio, § 4155-2. Dolle v. Cassell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 52.

55. In re Beebe, 138 F. 441.

56 Eason v. Garrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 800.

57. Hillyer v. Le Roy, 179 N. Y. 369, 72 N. E. 237.

58. In re Vastbinder, 132 F. 718. Trustee may sell the property to the exclusion of a sheriff who has a valid lien thereon by virtue of the levy of an execution more than four months prior to the filing of the petition. Id. In such case the sheriff having obtained the issuance of a rendition exponas, the latter must be stayed. Id.

59. In re First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 135 F. 62; In re Jersey Island Packing Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 625. Adjudication held to have this effect. In re Reynolds, 133 F. 585; In re Ducker, 133 F. 771. Adjudication and transfer of possession to trustee constitutes legal process and operates as a seizure of the property for all the creditors. In re Press-Post Printing Co., 134 F. 998. Seizure of the court of bankruptcy operates as an attachment, and an injunction for the benefit of all persons having interests in the bankrupt's estate. Dolle v. Cassell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 52.

60. Smith v. Zachry, 121 Ga. 467, 49 S. E. 286, following McKenney v. Cheney, 118 Ga. 387, 45 S. E. 433.

61. Act 1898, § 67, c. 3. Attachment liens obtained within four months of filing the petition, and upon property previously transferred by the bankrupt by an unrecorded deed will be preserved for the benefit of the estate, although the property subject thereto did not belong to the bankrupt, except as to the attaching creditors, and could not have been reached by the trustee except for the attachments. Receivers of Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. v. Staake [C. C. A.] 136 F. 717.

62. So held where the trustee could not have otherwise reached the property. Receivers of Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. v. Staake [C. C. A.] 133 F. 717.

63. Rothermel v. Moyer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 325. Act 1898, § 67f, is valid as to an execution on a judgment by confession, although such confession contains a stipulation of "release of all errors and without stay of execution." Rothermel v. Moyer, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 325.

(§ 9) D. Whether chattel mortgages[64] executed by the bankrupt are valid liens must be determined by the law of the state where they were executed.[65] The trustee has no greater right to attack a chattel mortgage executed by the bankrupt than the creditors represented by such trustee had at the time of the adjudication.[66]

(§ 9) E. Preferential transfers[67] and payments.[68]—In order to constitute a preference, there must have been a transfer[69] by the bankrupt[70] while insolvent,[71] within four months prior to the filing of the petition[72] to a creditor[73] or some one in his behalf,[74] the party so receiving it[75] or the one to be benefited thereby[76] having reasonable cause to believe that a preference was thereby intended.[77] He

64. See 3 C. L. 452.

65. In re First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 135 F. 62; In re Beede, 138 F. 441; Thompson v. Fairbanks, 25 S. Ct. 306. Massachusetts' rule considered. Humphrey v. Tatman, 25 S. Ct. 567.

66. Skilton v. Coddington, 93 N. Y. S. 460.

67. See 3 C. L. 453. See, also, Tiffany, Real Property, p. 1117.

68. See 3 C. L. 457.

69. Depositing money in a bank in the due course of business is not a transfer within the meaning of the bankruptcy act. Habegger v. First Nat. Bank [Minn.] 103 N. W. 216. The enforcement of a lien by the taking possession, with the consent of the mortgagor, of after-acquired property covered by a valid mortgage, is not a conveyance or transfer within the meaning of the bankruptcy law. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 25 S. Ct. 306. The mortgage having been executed more than four months before the filing of the petition, the trustee's rights are not enlarged by the existence at the time the mortgagee took possession of an attachment and secured chattel mortgage which were both dissolved by the bankruptcy proceedings. Id.

70. Where a debtor transferred his property to a corporation formed to carry on the business for the benefit of creditors, and such corporation was thereafter declared a bankrupt, but no bankruptcy proceedings were instituted against the debtor, held not a conveyance in fraud of the bankruptcy law. In re A. L. Robertshaw Mfg. Co., 133 F. 556.

71. In re Clifford, 136 F. 475; Hastings v. Fithian [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 350; Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247; Roney v. Conable, 125 Iowa, 664, 101 N. W. 505; Wilkinson v. Anderson-Taylor Co. [Utah] 79 P. 46; Edwards v. Carondelet Mill. Co., 108 Mo. App. 275, 83 S. W. 764. On an issue as to whether a debtor was insolvent at the time he gave a certain transfer, the fact that late in the afternoon of the day he made the transfer he conveyed nearly all his property, thereby rendering himself insolvent, did not, on the theory that fractions of a day are not to be considered, render him insolvent at the time of the alleged transfer. Upson v. Mt. Morris Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 1101.

As to when one is insolvent within the meaning of the bankruptcy law of 1898, see ante, § 3a.

72. Hastings v. Fithian [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 350; Wilkinson v. Anderson-Taylor Co. [Utah] 79 P. 46. Order presented day before filing of petition held not to constitute an equitable assignment of the fund as of its date and hence to constitute a preference. Johnston v. Huff, Andrews & Moyler Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 704. A deed of trust executed more than four months before the filing of the petition held valid. In re Porterfield, 138 F. 193. A transfer made more than four months prior to the filing of the petition held valid. Little v. Holley-Brooks Hardware Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 874. Bankr. Act 1898, § 3b, applies only to acts of bankruptcy; it does not refer to preferences. Id.

73. Wilkinson v. Anderson-Taylor Co. [Utah] 79 P. 46. A surety is a creditor. Horstman v. Little [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 286; Crandall v. Coats, 133 F. 965.

74. See 3 C. L. 453, n. 98.

75. In re Clifford, 136 F. 475. The statement of claim alleging that defendant's agent had reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent, an affidavit of defense alleging that defendant had no personal knowledge of the debtor's insolvency is insufficient. Plummer v. Myers, 137 F. 660.

76. In re Clifford, 136 F. 475.

77. Galveston Dry Goods Co. v. Frenkel [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 949; Hastings v. Fithian [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 350; Blankenbaker v. Charleston State Bank, 111 Ill. App. 393; Keith v. Gettysburg Nat. Bank, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 14.

What constitutes reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended: This is a question of fact (Kaufman v. Tredway, 25 S. Ct. 33; Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98. Evidence held to require submission of question to jury. Wetstein v. Franciscus [C. C. A.] 133 F. 900; Upson v. Mt. Morris Bank, 92 N. Y. S. 1101). While actual knowledge is not essential (Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247), still the creditor is chargeable with notice of such facts as a reasonable inquiry, in view of the facts with respect to the debtor's condition, which were brought home to him, might reasonably be expected to foreclose (Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98), and it is not enough that the creditor suspected or had cause to suspect that a preference was intended (Johnston v. George D. Witt Shoe Co. [Va.] 50 S. E. 153). The creditor is bound only by the information he has at the time he receives payment and is not obliged to trace to the ultimate any suspicious circumstances that may exist within his knowledge to ascertain whether such payment would be void within the law. Blankenbaker v. Charleston State Bank, 111 Ill. App. 393. The principles of construction laid down by the need not have actual knowledge of the debtor's insolvency,[78] though having reasonable ground to believe the debtor insolvent,[79] he is chargeable with notice of intent to prefer.[80] A preference must have actually resulted,[81] the effect thereof being to prefer one creditor over others of the same class.[82] Whether an intent to courts in determining the force and effect to be given to the phrase "reasonable cause to believe," found in the act of 1867, apply equally in considering the meaning of this phrase in the act of 1898. Stevenson v. Milliken, Tomlinson Co., 99 Me. 320, 59 A. 472; Blankenbaker v. Charleston State Bank, 111 Ill. App. 393.

Illustrations: A creditor knowing that money with which loan was repaid after frequent urging was obtained by the debtor by a sale of his stock of merchandise, and that such sale put him out of business had reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent. Thomas v. Adelman, 136 F. 973. A creditor receiving payment from a second transferee of property knowing that such payment was the consideration of the transfer and that the debtor was insolvent, held to have received a preference. Horstman v. Little [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 286. Where, at the time of the transfer, the creditor knew of the existence of judgments against the debtor, and that the latter had been unable to pay various notes and drafts, and was allowing sight drafts to be dishonored, and was failing to pay other obligations and accounts as they became due, held creditor had reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended. Christopherson v. Oleson [S. D.] 102 N. W. 685. Evidence held insufficient to show that creditor had reasonable cause to believe that debtor intended a preference. Turner v. Fisher, 133 F. 594; Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247.

78. See 3 C. L. 453, n. 3.

79. What constitutes reasonable ground to believe debtor insolvent: This is ordinarily a question of fact (Kaufman v. Tredway, 25 S. Ct. 33; Turner v. Fisher, 133 F. 594; Christopherson v. Oleson [S. D.] 102 N. W. 685). Yet, where the facts as to the debtor's financial condition are clearly established by a special verdict, the court may, as a matter of law, hold that the creditor was charged with such knowledge (Christopherson v. Oleson [S. D.] 102 N. W. 685). It is not enough that a creditor has some cause to suspect the insolvency of his debtor, but he must have such a knowledge of facts as to induce a reasonable belief of his debtor's insolvency. Turner v. Fisher, 133 F. 594; Stevenson v. Milliken, Tomlinson Co., 99 Me. 320, 59 A. 472. A creditor having knowledge of facts respecting his debtor's insolvency, sufficient to put an ordinary man on inquiry, is chargeable with knowledge of the facts which such inquiry should reasonably be expected to disclose. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247.

Illustrations: Grounds for reasonable belief in a present inability to pay debts in the course of business is not necessarily grounds for believing the debtor insolvent. In re Pettingill & Co., 136 F. 218. Where less than a year before bankruptcy the bankrupt owed the debtor $30,000 which he was unable to pay, but paid $8,000 on account, and the parties continued to deal with each other, the creditor relying on a mercantile agency's report, large credit being given and large payments being made, held, the creditor did not have reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent. Id. Where debtor claimed that his goods were more than sufficient to pay his debts and there was no rumor of his insolvency, held, the creditor did not have reasonable cause to believe him insolvent. Edwards v. Carondelet Mill. Co., 108 Mo. App. 275, 83 S. W. 764. Creditors receiving back goods bought and knowing that the debtor could not pay his debts, held to have reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent. In re Andrews, 135 F. 599. Evidence held sufficient to charge the preferred creditors with notice of the bankrupt's insolvency. Crandell v. Coats, 133 F. 965. Evidence held insufficient to show reasonable cause to believe debtor insolvent. Stevenson v. Milliken-Tomlinson Co., 99 Me. 320, 59 A. 472.

80. Creditor having knowledge of debtor's insolvency, a preference will be presumed. Raley v. Raymond Bros. Clarke Co. [Neb.] 103 N. W. 57.

81. Unrecorded chattel mortgage being valid as against creditors, it does not constitute a preference, though recorded within the four-month period. Texas Rev. St. 1895, art. 3328, considered. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Pipkin Drug Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 396. Where one agreed with an employer that the latter would deduct sums due the former for goods sold laborers, from the wages of the latter, and turn the same over to the seller of the goods, the retention of such sums by the employer within four months of the filing of the petition does not constitute a preference, though such seller was a debtor of the employer. Western Tie & Timber Co. v. Brown, 25 S. C. 334.

In those states where a chattel mortgagee by taking possession of after-acquired property brings it within the operation of the mortgage as of its date, and the mortgagee is entitled to possession at any time, the turning over of possession to the mortgagee within four months of the mortgagor's bankruptcy is not an unlawful preference, the mortgage having been executed more than four months before filing the petition. Vermont law considered. In re Rogers, 132 F. 560.

82. Hasting v. Tithian [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 350; Sellers v. Hayes, 163 Ind. 422, 72 N. E. 119; Wilkinson v. Anderson-Taylor Co. [Utah] 79 P. 46.

A creditor securing a transfer from an insolvent debtor within four months of the latter's bankruptcy in order to secure his claim to the exclusion of other creditors, the transfer may be set aside at the suit of the trustee. Ferguson v. Lederer, Strauss & Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 794.

Giving of chattel mortgages constitutes a preference, undue advantage over other prefer on the part of the bankrupt is essential is the subject of conflicting decisions.[83] The trustee cannot avoid a transfer to a bona fide purchaser [84] for a present fair consideration.[85] The phrase "ground to believe" is synonymous with "cause to believe."[86] Whether a given transaction in the form of a recordable instrument constitutes a preference must be determined by the facts existing at its inception, and not at the time of its record,[87] if in fact a preference when executed it may be avoided by the filing of a petition in bankruptcy by or against the maker thereof within four months after its record; but if it was not originally a preference, a failure to record it until the maker became insolvent will not make it one.[88] The renewal of a prior valid mortgage within the four months period does not constitute a preference.[89] Where a creditor is given security more than four months before the filing of the petition, the subsequent execution of a more formal instrument within the four months period is not a preference,[90] providing that the giving of the first security is not void as to creditors.[91] It is not essential that the property actually passed into the hands of the defendant.[92] It is no defense that the property was applied to a guaranty of the indebtedness.[93] A preferential transfer is voidable, not void,[94] and the trustee has the exclusive right to take advantage of its invalidity;[95] it cannot be asserted by creditors whose debts were created after the bankrupt's discharge.[96] The four months period of limitation as against a preferential transfer which is neither fraudulent nor requires recordation begins to run from creditors being thereby obtained. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

A creditor purchasing property with an understanding that the proceeds should be used to pay preferred claims, held not to constitute a preference. Eason v. Garrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 800.

That a creditor is secured does not prevent the transfer from being preferential as to other creditors. Horstman v. Little [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 286.

83. That he must. Keith v. Gettysburg Nat. Bank, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 14, following Peck v. Connell, 21 Pa. Super. Ct. 22; Little v. Holley-Brooks Hardware Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 874. For cases pro and con, see 3 C. L. 454, n. 8.

What constitutes such an intent: A transfer made more than a year before the passage of the bankruptcy act cannot be regarded as having been made in contemplation of bankruptcy. Gardner v. Haines [S. D.] 104 N. W. 244. Evidence held to show that certain mortgages were executed by the bankrupt with intent to prefer. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98. Evidence held to fail to disclose any desire or purpose on the part of the bankrupt to give the defendants any advantage over other creditors. Stevenson v. Milliken-Tomlinson Co., 99 Me. 320, 59 A. 472.

84. See 3 C. L. 455, n. 9.

85. In re Clifford, 136 F. 475. A present loan on security is not a preference. In re Noel, 137 F. 694. A sale of goods by a creditor to a bankrupt firm, to be paid for in ten or thirty days, cannot be regarded as a cash transaction so as to entitle the creditor to retain payment and prove the balance of his claim against the bankrupt's estate. In re John Morrow & Co., 134 F. 686.

A mortgage given within the four-months' period, in part to secure an antecedent debt and in part to secure a loan made at the time, is valid to the extent of the latter transaction. In re Dismal Swamp Contracting Co., 135 F. 415.

86. Edwards v. Carondelet Mill. Co., 108 Mo. App. 275, 83 S. W. 764.

87, 88. Seager v. Lamm [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1.

89. In re Noel, 137 F. 694.

90. Stewart v. Hoffman [Mont.] 81 P. 3, overruling former opinion, Id. [Mont.] 77 P. 689.

Testimony by the transferee that transfer was given in accordance with a former agreement between the parties and to pay for trust funds misappropriated by the bankrupt, held insufficient to render transfer valid. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 286.

91. Mortgage executed within the four-months period is void, though it is given pursuant to a parol agreement made prior to the commencement of such period. In re Dismal Swamp Contracting Co., 135 F. 415.

92. In an action to recover the value of a preference, the fact that what defendant received was its mortgage interest under a chattel mortgage obtained from the bankrupt in fraud of the bankruptcy act, instead of the property itself, does not defeat the action. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

93. It is no defense where the goods were sold to the bankrupt on credit and part returned that the creditor's agent by a collateral agreement with him guarantied payment of part of the indebtedness and that the goods returned were applied on such part. Plummer v. Myers, 137 F. 660.

94. Dyer v. Kratzenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 1012.

95. Lewis v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 78 P. 990. Trustee's assignee has no such right. Id.

96. Johnson v. Donahue [Tenn.] 83 S. W. 360.

the date of the transfer.[97] In an action to recover a preference, the only question involved is whether the property was obtained in fraud of the bankruptcy act.[98] An alleged preferred creditor is entitled to have the issue of the debtor's insolvency determined in an action to which he is a party, and is not bound by an adjudication of bankruptcy,[99] and the burden is on such transferee to show that the transfer was made before the bankrupt suspended payment and without knowledge of the latter's insolvency.[1] The preference being set aside, the preferred creditor is only required to return the property and the cash value of such of it as he has sold,[2] and is entitled to reimbursement for payments made in satisfying incumbrances.[3] New credits may be set off as against the amount recoverable from the creditor as a preference,[4] and it is not necessary that the property representing such credits should remain a part of the debtor's estate until his adjudication in bankruptcy, or that it should be used in payment of preferred debts.[5]

§ 10. Collection, reduction to possession and protection of property. A. Discovery.[6]

(§ 10) B. Compelling surrender by bankrupt.[7]—In the absence of satisfactory explanation, it is presumed that property traced into the hands of the bankrupt a short time prior to the suspension of business remains in his hands and the bankrupt must answer therefor.[8] The bankruptcy court has the power to require a bankrupt to execute the instruments necessary to effectuate the sale of a personal and exclusive right.[9] Upon an application to make the bankrupt surrender his books, he is entitled to plead the constitutional provision against forcing a man to give incriminating evidence against himself,[10] and in such case the books should be produced before the court or referee for determination of the question whether the plea is well founded in fact, and for the making of an order for the protection of the bankrupt from the discovery of such evidence, and, if possible, to enable the trustee to obtain other necessary information from such books.[11]

(§ 10) C. Property in possession of officer appointed by state courts.[12]—Before the adjudication the bankruptcy court has no jurisdiction over a receiver appointed in a state court, no relief being sought against him.[13]

(§ 10) D. Summary proceedings against third persons; jurisdiction.[14]—. A bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to summarily determine the right of a third party, not an adverse claimant, to or in property of the bankrupt;[15] but in the

97. Not from the date the transferee took possession or the bankrupt's creditors acquired notice. Act 1898, § 3h, is not intended to be read in connection with section 60, subdivisions a and b. Little v. Holley-Brooks Hardware Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 874.

98. The fact that there are one or more classes of creditors and the manner in which the property will be administered does not alter the plaintiff's rights. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

99. Edwards v. Carondelet Mill. Co., 108 Mo. App. 275, 83 S. W. 764

2. Russell v. Powell [Wash.] 80 P. 837. He is not required to pay the trustees the He is not required to pay the trustee the agreed value of the property at the time it was transferred. Id.

3. Crandell v. Coats, 133 F. 965.

4. Act 1898, § 60c. In re John Morrow & Co., 134 F. 686. Where indebtedness was settled by the giving of promissory notes and later goods were again sold the debtor on short credit, held indebtedness for such new goods was a new credit. Id.

5. Kaufman v. Tredway, 25 S. Ct. 33.

6. See 3 C. L. 458.

7. See 3 C. L. 459.

8. In re Royce Dry Goods Co., 133 F. 100. Evidence held sufficient to support finding that bankrupt had the sum of $2,425 under her control which she concealed and refused to surrender to her trustee. In re Cole, 135 F. 439.

9. Stock exchange seat. In re Hurlbutt, Hatch & Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 504. In such case title having vested in the trustee, it is no objection to the transfer that it was equivalent to resignation of the holder's personal membership in the exchange. Id.

10, 11. In re Hess, 134 F. 109.

12. See 3 C. L. 460.

13. In re Bay City Irr. Co., 135 F. 850.

14. See 3 C. L. 461.

15. So held as regards property of the bankrupt coming into the hands of a third party before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy to which he asserts no adverse claim. In re Wiesen Bros., 138 F. 164.

absence of consent,[16] it has no jurisdiction to so compel an adverse claimant to surrender property in his possession,[17] the remedy in such case being by an independent,[18] plenary [19] suit. But the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to entertain proceedings to ascertain whether there is an adverse claimant.[20] The failure of adverse claimants to abandon their claims after their objections to the jurisdiction of the court have been overruled does not amount to a consent to the jurisdiction.[21] If the bankruptcy court has either actual or constructive possession of the property, the matter may be heard upon petition and answer.[22] Property being surrendered to a claimant by the receiver, the trustee cannot recover the same in summary proceedings.[23] The mere refusal of a person in possession to surrender the property does not constitute him an adverse claimant.[24] Sheriff seizing and holding property under an attachment issued out of the state court prior to the filing of the bankruptcy proceedings is an adverse claimant.[25] In a summary proceeding to recover property alleged to belong to the bankrupt, the questions of preference and of fraud cannot be considered.[26]

(§ 10) E. Actions to collect or reduce the property to the trustee's possession.[27]—The trustee may bring an action to recover property belonging to the estate, or to subject the income of trust funds to the payment of the bankrupt's debts [28] in the state [29] or Federal [30] courts without express leave or direction of the bankruptcy court.[31] Such an action is not criminal in its nature because the defendant may be punished for contempt in case he fails to comply with the court's order.[32] The trustee simply seeking the recovery of a money judgment, the action is legal in its nature; [33] but it being necessary to have a written instrument set aside, the suit is in equity.[34] There is a conflict as to whether a previous demand is necessary in order to maintain an action at law to recover a preference,[35] but

16. In re Andre [C. C. A.] 135 F. 736; In re Hadden-Rodee Co., 135 F. 886. Adverse claimant instituting a summary proceeding, the court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to determine the rights of the claimant. In re D. H. McBride & Co., 132 F. 285. An injunction against the sale of mortgaged property being dissolved upon the mortgagee consenting to the payment of the proceeds of a sale of the property to a certain bank to be held subject to an order of court, the court can determine the validity of the mortgage in any appropriate form of proceeding. In re Noel, 137 F. 694.

17. In re Andre [C. C. A.] 135 F. 736; In re New York Car Wheel Works, 132 F. 203; First Nat. Bank v. Chicago Title & Trust Co., 25 S. Ct. 693. A court of bankruptcy, after adjudging, in a proceeding begun by the receiver's petition for directions respecting a sale, that the receiver was not in possession of the property, has no jurisdiction to decree the sale, and determine the right of adverse claimants to the proceeds. Id.

18. In re Noel, 137 F. 694.

19. In re New York Car Wheel Works, 132 F. 203; In re Noel, 137 F. 694.

20. In re Andre [C. C. A.] 135 F. 736.

21. Objection was to jurisdiction of court of bankruptcy to act on receiver's petition for directions respecting a sale. First Nat. Bank v. Chicago Title & Trust Co., 25 S. Ct. 693.

22. In re Noel, 137 F. 694. Property may be recovered in a summary proceeding from one taking the goods under a writ of replevin issued from a state court after the petition in bankruptcy had been filed. In re Briskman, 132 F. 201. This is not changed by a provision in an order consolidating with such involuntary proceedings the proceedings on a voluntary petition subsequently filed that it should be "without prejudice to interested parties." Id.

23. Hinds v. Moore [C. C. A.] 134 F. 221.

24, 25. In re Andre [C. C. A.] 135 F. 736.

26. Where money sought was claimed by defendant to have been applied by him in payment of his salary and in accordance with custom, held, trustee could not recover. In re Lebrecht, 135 F. 878.

27. See 3 C. L. 462.

28. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 1391, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 1071, c. 46, considered. In re Tiffany, 133 F. 799.

29, 30. See next subdivision, Jurisdiction of Courts.

31. Callahan v. Israel, 186 Mass. 383, 71 N. E. 812.

32. In re Alphin & Lake Cotton Co., 134 F. 477.

33. Hodges v. People's Bank [S. C.] 50 S. E. 192.

34. Dyer v. Kratzenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 1012.

35. That it is not. Goldberg v. Harlan, 33 Ind. App. 465, 67 N. E. 707. Chattel mortgagee converting mortgaged property and applying the proceeds to the payment of the mortgage debt, no demand is necessary. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

That it is: Wright v. Skinner, 136 F. 694.

such demand is not necessary to the recovery of the preference in equity.[36] Where a mortgagee converts the property and applies the proceeds to his debts, the action to recover the value of the property, so converted, as a preference is one in trover.[37] An order of court providing that the bankrupt's attorney shall not act for any creditor or the trustee "in bankruptcy proceedings" has no application to a suit by the trustee on a claim.[38]

Jurisdiction.[39]—State and Federal courts have concurrent jurisdiction of actions to set aside preferential transfers.[40] An action to recover property fraudulently transferred may be brought in any court that would have had jurisdiction if bankruptcy had not intervened,[41] and the trustee may bring an action, to recover property taken by a lienor from the bankrupt after his adjudication, in a state court,[42] and having invoked the jurisdiction of such court, he is bound by its judgment rendered on the merits.[43] The bankruptcy court has jurisdiction of a plenary suit to determine rights in or liens upon property in its possession,[44] or to avoid an unlawful preference, or to recover property unlawfully transferred by the creditor,[45] and, in such a suit to establish rights in property within the district, a nonresident defendant, claiming adversely, may be brought in by an order and service, in accordance with Rev. St. § 783.[46] The trustee taking actual possession of property, although it be in another state, it is in the custody of the bankruptcy court administering the estate.[47] The district court of another district than that in which the bankruptcy proceedings are pending may entertain a suit to set aside a fraudulent transfer made by the bankrupt to parties residing in such district.[48] Prior to the amendment of 1903 the state courts had jurisdiction of an action by a trustee to recover the value of property transferred as a preference, and the action could not be maintained in a Federal court, in the absence of other jurisdictional grounds, without the defendant's consent.[49] An action by the trustee to enforce a chose in action in the nature of a statutory lien must be brought in the state courts, unless the adverse parties consent to be sued in the United States circuit court.[50] In what state court the action may be brought is governed by the state's statutes.[51]

Parties.[52]—In a suit by the trustee to set aside an alleged preferential transfer of the bankrupt's interest in a partnership to a third person, the bankrupt's partner is not a necessary party.[53] A trustee appointed after the institution of a suit to set aside a fraudulent conveyance made by the bankrupt may be added by amendment as a party defendant to the suit.[54]

Pleading.[55]—Pleadings in bankruptcy follow the rules of pleadings in equity.[56] The complaint in an action to recover a preference should allege all the essential

36. Wright v. Skinner, 136 F. 694.
37. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.
38. Callahan v. Israel, 186 Mass. 383, 71 N. E. 812.
39. See 3 C. L. 463.
40. Stern v. Mayer, 29 App. Div. 427, 91 N. Y. S. 292.
41. Breckons v. Snyder [Pa.] 60 A. 575. May be brought in court of common pleas. Id.
42, 43. In re Reynolds, 133 F. 585.
44. Whitney v. Wennran, 25 S. Ct. 778. The bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to determine the validity of an alleged equitable lien on nonexempt property of the bankrupt. Lucius v. Cawthon-Coleman Co., 25 S. Ct. 214.
45, 46. Horskins v. Sanderson, 132 F. 415.
47. In re Granite City Bank [C. C. A.] 137 F. 818, afg. 131 F. 1004, for which case see 3 C. L. 463, n. 45.
48. Lawrence v. Lowrie, 133 F. 995.
49. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.
50. Mechanic's lien. In re Grissler [C. C. A.] 136 F. 754.
51. New York: An equitable action by a trustee to recover a preference is not within the jurisdiction of the city court of the City of New York as defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 315. Dyer v. Kratzenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 1012.
52. See 3 C. L. 463.
53. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 286.
54. Davis v. W. F. Vandiver & Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 850.
55. See 3 C. L. 464.
56. In re Urban & Suburban Realty Title Co., 132 F. 140.

elements thereof,[57] but it need not allege that any creditor has filed a claim in the bankruptcy proceeding, or any fact showing the necessity of recovering the alleged preference,[58] and alleging a demand and refusal is sufficient, though it does not allege by whom it was made.[59] In a suit under § 70e, the petition should allege the amount of the claims of the creditors who were such at the time the fraudulent conveyances were made,[60] and that the assets of the bankrupt's estate in the hands of the trustee are insufficient to pay the same.[61] In a suit to recover the proceeds of insurance polices paid to a third person, it must be alleged that prior to the filing of the petition the bankrupt had a property right in the policies which he could have transferred or which might have been levied on and sold under judicial process.[62] A bill in equity to recover a payment made by the bankrupt alleging the same to be a preference or a fraudulent payment is not multifarious.[63]

Presumptions and burden of proof; evidence.[64]—In an action by the trustee to recover property of the bankrupt, the presumption is that the trustee has complied with all the requirements of the law and is qualified to sue,[65] and such fact can only be put in issue by a verified denial;[66] but being denied, the trustee must prove his appointment.[67] A trustee is not entitled to recover funds, alleged to belong to the bankrupt, from a third person, unless it is proved beyond a reasonable doubt that such person has the fund in his possession or control,[68] and the fund being traced into defendant's hands, the burden is upon him to account for it.[69] In a suit to recover a preference, the trustee must prove all essential facts[70] by a preponderance of evidence.[71] In proceedings by the trustee to set aside a conveyance as fraudulent, the burden is on defendants to show that they are purchasers for value.[72] Stenographer's notes of testimony given by the bankrupt at

57. Petition alleging that at the time of the transfer the bankrupt had no other property or estate available for the payment of his debts, and that neither he nor defendant made any provision for the payment of his other debts, that he was then owing defendant a specified sum, and with intent to collect his claim in full and in fraud of other creditors, defendant accepted the transfer, which was fraudulent, with intent on the part of all parties to give the defendant an illegal preference, and to hinder, delay and defraud all other creditors, held, in the absence of a request for a more specific statement, to sufficiently allege a preferential transfer. Ferguson v. Lederer, Strauss Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 794.

58. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

59. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247. This is especially true where the objection is first made on appeal under the Indiana practice. Id.

60. Shelley v. Nolen [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 524.

61. Shelley v. Nolen [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 524; Roney v. Conable, 125 Iowa, 664, 101 N. W. 505.

62. Carr v. Myers [Pa.] 60 A. 913.

63. Wright v. Skinner, 136 F. 694.

64. See 3 C. L. 464.

65. Breckons v. Snyder [Pa.] 60 A. 575.

66. Under Rev. Code 1892, § 1797, declaring that plaintiff need not prove the description of character, unless specially denied by verified plea, an allegation that one suing as trustee in bankruptcy was not legally appointed, verified only by an affidavit relating to the discovery given in the answer to interrogatories, is insufficient to require proof of the legality of plaintiff's appointment. Thompson v. First Nat. Bank [Miss.] 37 So. 645.

67. Van Houten v. Oliver, 91 N. Y. S. 36.

68. In re Feldser, 134 F. 307. Evidence held sufficient to show that the defendant had the property in his possession and control. Id. Must prove defendant's possession by evidence plain and convincing beyond reasonable controversy. In re Alphin & Lake Cotton Co., 134 F. 477. In a proceeding by the trustee of a bankrupt corporation, organized by defendant for the furtherance of fraudulent cotton transactions, to charge the latter with funds received by him and alleged to belong to the corporation, evidence held to require a finding in favor of the trustee. Id.

69. In re Alphin & Lake Cotton Co., 134 F. 477.

70. Wilkinson v. Anderson-Taylor Co. [Utah] 79 P. 46. Must prove that payments were made while bankrupt was insolvent (Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247), and that payee had reasonable cause to believe that a preference was being obtained (Id.). As to what constitutes "reasonable cause to believe that a preference is being obtained," see ante, § 9, subd. e. The law presumes that payments made by the bankrupt were legal, and the burden of proof is on the trustee to overcome this presumption. Keith v. Gettysburg Nat. Bank, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 14.

71. Wilkinson v. Anderson-Taylor Co. [Utah] 79 P. 46. Instructions held fair and to cover entire case. Id.

72. Lawrence v. Lowrie, 133 F. 995.

the various stages in the proceedings are admissible against him,[73] but not as against third persons.[74] The testimony given by other persons in such proceedings is incompetent as against the bankrupt.[75] In a suit to recover property fraudulently conveyed, testimony is admissible that the bankrupt stated to witnesses that the property was his and that he made the transfer to defraud creditors.[76] Testimony of dealings between debtor and creditor some six or seven months prior to a transaction alleged to constitute a preference is admissible on the question of knowledge.[77] The certificate of appointment is admissible to prove the authority of the trustee.[78] Proof should be limited to matters in issue.[79]

In general, testimony of the trustee as to the extent of the liabilities and assets of the bankrupt [80] and evidence as to the value of the assets [81] is admissible on the question of insolvency. The adjudication is evidence of bankrupt's insolvency at its date.[82]

Trial and judgment.[83]—An action to set aside a preferential transfer, being brought in a state court, the trial and procedure in the action are to be governed by the laws of the state.[84] In a suit in equity by a trustee to establish rights in property, the court may issue a writ of sequestration to prevent the removal of the property from the district, where the showing is not such as to warrant the appointment of a receiver.[85] The requiring of an injunction bond in suits in the Federal courts by trustees or receivers in bankruptcy relating to the administration of the estate is a matter resting in the discretion of the court, to be exercised in view of the facts of each case.[86] An action by the trustee to recover the value of property fraudulently transferred by the bankrupt to defendant as an agent does not preclude the bringing of a similar action against the agent's principal.[87] Instructions must state the whole case [88] and must conform to the issues.[89] The prayer in the petition must authorize the judgment.[90] A judgment, in an action to

73. Testimony taken at creditor's meetings called for the general purpose of inquiring into the bankrupt's affairs. In re Wiesen Bros., 135 F. 442.

74. Notes of testimony given at preliminary hearing before the referee held inadmissible in an action by the trustee to recover property alleged to belong to the bankrupt. Breckons v. Snyder [Pa.] 60 A. 575.

75. In re Wiesen Bros., 135 F. 442.

76. Shelley v. Nolen [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 524.

77. Kaufman v. Tredway, 25 S. Ct. 33.

78. Harrell v. State, 121 Ga. 607, 49 S. E. 703.

79. In an action by the trustee to recover moneys paid by the bankrupt prior to his adjudication in alleged satisfaction of a debt, the existence of the debt being the sole issue, it is not necessary to show that there were unsatisfied creditors at the time the payment was made, or the suit brought or at the time of trial. Breckons v. Snyder [Pa.] 60 A. 575.

80. In an action to recover a preference, testimony by the trustee as to the bankrupt's assets and liabilities at the time of the bankruptcy which was only a few days after the preference was given, during which no substantial change had taken place in the debtor's financial condition, is competent on the issue of insolvency, as well as to show the preferential effect of the payment. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247.

81. Evidence as to the value of the property that came into the hands of the trustee held admissible on the question of preference. Coolidge v. Ayers [Vt.] 61 A. 40.

82. Breckons v. Snyder [Pa.] 60 A. 575.

83. See 3 C. L. 466.

84. Stern v. Mayer, 99 App. Div. 427, 91 N. Y. S. 292. An action to recover the value of a preferential transfer of personal property, no equitable relief being asked, is within Code Civ. Proc. § 968, subd. 1, relating to jury trial. Id.

85. Horskins v. Sanderson, 132 F. 415.

86. In re Barrett, 132 F. 362. Is not governed by state statutes nor by rules of court applicable to ordinary suits at law or in equity. Id.

87. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

88. An instruction on the issue of notice and intent to prefer, stating only a part of the facts, held properly refused. Johnston v. George D. Witt Shoe Co. [Va.] 50 S. E. 153.

89. There being no allegation of fraud in a petition to recover a preferential transfer, a request to charge on fraud in the language of § 60e, act 1898, is properly refused. Johnston v. George D. White Shoe Co. [Va.] 50 S. E. 153.

90. The prayer of a petition of a trustee to enforce a claim against the separate estate of the bankrupt's wife for the amount of community funds expended in improving the wife's separate property, "for such recover the value of a preferential transfer, including an amount sufficient to substantially offset an amount improperly deducted therefrom does substantial justice and will not be disturbed.[91]

Interest.—On the recovery of an unlawful preference, interest may be recovered from the date of demand.[92] The commencement of a suit to recover an alleged preference is a demand which starts the running of interest.[93]

Costs.[94]—The requiring of cost bonds in suits in the Federal courts, by trustees or receivers in bankruptcy, relating to the administration of the estate, is a matter resting in the discretion of the court, to be exercised in view of the facts in each case.[95] Such security will not be required unless it appears that the trustee is acting in bad faith, nor will it be required unless there are assets of the estate out of which costs are payable and then only when the circumstances are such as to render it equitable that the creditors should indemnify the adverse party by giving the security.[96]

Appeal and review.—In South Carolina, in a purely legal action by the trustee to recover the value of a preference, findings of fact cannot be reviewed on appeal.[97]

(§ 10) F. Claims not reduced to possession by the trustee.[98]—The trustee may, subject to the control of the bankruptcy court, refuse to take possession of properties that will be burdensome rather than profitable to the estate,[99] and he must elect within a reasonable time whether or not he will take any particular property of the estate.[1] Electing to reject, the title to the asset remains in the bankrupt,[2] and the trustee cannot object to the institution of suits by creditors to reduce to control assets which the trustee might intentionally or unintentionally permit to escape.[3] A bankrupt who omits to schedule and withholds from his trustee all knowledge of certain property cannot, after his estate in bankruptcy has been finally closed up, assert title to the property on the ground that the trustee had never taken any action in respect to it.[4]

§ 11. Protection of trustee's title and possession;[5] actions pending by or against bankrupt.[6]—Under act 1898, § 2, cl. 15, the court may, upon proper application and cause shown, restrain not only the debtor, but any other party, from making any transfer or disposition of any part of the debtor's property, or from any interference therewith;[7] the court[8] but not the referee[9] may enjoin proceed-other and further relief, general and special, legal and equitable, as to the court shall seem meet and just," authorized the court to decree a sale of the improvements to satisfy a judgment for the trustee. Collins v. Bryan [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 237, 88 S. W. 432.

91. Jackman v. Eau Claire Nat. Bank [Wis.] 104 N. W. 98.

92. Capital Nat. Bank v. Wilkerson [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 247.

93. Kaufman v. Tredway, 25 S. Ct. 33.

94. See 3 C. L. 466.

95. In re Barrett, 132 F. 362. Is not governed by state statutes nor by rules of court applicable to ordinary suits at law or in equity. Id.

96. In re Barrett, 132 F. 362.

97. Hodges v. People's Bank [S. C.] 50 S. E. 192.

98. See 3 C. L. 467.

99. May refuse to take possession of mortgaged property, if its value, over and above the incumbrance, is not sufficient to justify an attempt to administer it. In re Jersey Island Packing Co. [C. C. A.]. See 3 C. L. 467, n. 7.

1. If the trustee desires to keep a contract of bankrupt alive, he must manifest his election within a reasonable time. In re Pettingill & Co., 137 F. 143.

2. See 3 C. L. 467, n. 11. Where, after a trial resulting in a verdict for defendant, plaintiff was adjudged a bankrupt, and his trustee substituted, plaintiff could nevertheless prosecute an appeal on the trustee's filing his written consent thereto, and the defendant had no ground of complaint. Christy v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 194.

3. Davis v. W. F. Vandiver & Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 850.

4. First Nat. Bank v. Lasater, 25 S. Ct. 206.

5. See 3 C. L. 467.

6. See C. L. 467; for rights of trustee therein, see next section.

7. In re Jersey Island Packing Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 625.

8. Where, after distress by a landlord,

