CURRENT LAW

A COMPLETE ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF NEW LAW

VOLUME VI.

INFANTS TO WITNESSES

GEORGE FOSTER LONGSDORF, EDITOR
WALTER A. SHUMAKER, ASSOCIATE

ST. PAUL, MINN.
THE KEEFE-DAVIDSON COMPANY
1906.

TOPICAL INDEX.

Use the index in your latest number. Ignore all previous indexes in volumes and numbers. The latest index cites by volume and page to the latest treatment of any subject.

You do not have to study classification. This index contains the name of every subject you are familiar with and not merely the titles of our articles.

The page citation at the beginning of each article directs to the particular subdivision wanted. There you find its latest treatment and also a volume and page citation to the same points in earlier volumes.

Black figures refer to volumes; light figures to pages.

This index is revised and reprinted every month. Remember to start with the latest index and you cannot go astray or miss anything.

A.

B.

C.

D.

E.

H.

I.

J.

K.

L.

M.

N.

O.

P.

Q.

R.

S.

T.

U.

V.

W.

CURRENT LAW

VOLUME VI. MARCH, 1906. NUMBER 1.

INFANTS.

§ 1. Status and disabilities in general.[1]—Rights and duties as between parent and child,[2] powers and proceedings of guardians,[3] and guardians ad litem,[4] are elsewhere treated, as is also the application to infants of the doctrines of contributory negligence[5] and assumption of risk.[6] Infants are the wards of chancery, both as regards their custody[7] and their property.[8] The citizenship of an infant is determined by the citizenship of his legal custodian.[9] In some states the marriage of an infant removes his disabilities[10] and divests him of rights acquired by virtue of his infancy.[11] The doctrine of estoppel in pais does not apply to infants,[12] nor can they make or authorize to be made for them admissions against their interests.[13]

§ 2. Custody, protection, support and earnings.[14]—As a general rule it may be stated that parents are entitled to the custody of their infant children;[15] but infants are wards of the courts[16] of the state in which they reside.[17] The age at

1. See 4 C. L. 92.
2. See Parent and Child, 4 C. L. 873.
3. See Guardianship, 5 C. L. 1603.
4. See Guardians Ad Litem and Next Friends, 5 C. L. 1601.
5. See Negligence, 4 C. L. 764.
6. See Master and Servant, 4 C. L. 533.
7. See post, § 2; also Guardianship, 5 C. L. 1603.
8. See post, § 4.
9. The citizenship of an infant whose custody is awarded to the mother in divorce proceedings is determined by hers so long as he remains with her, for the purposes of jurisdiction of Federal courts. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.
10. In Texas this rule applies to a putative marriage void at common law but creating all the rights of coverture where contracted. Barkley v. Dumke [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 242, 87 S. W. 1147. A married woman, though a minor, can, when aided and assisted by her husband, sue for partition of property in which she has an interest, without being authorized to do so by the judge on the advice of a family meeting. Tobin v. U. S. Safe Deposit & Sav. Bank [La.] 39 So. 33.
11. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1707, the marriage of an infant divests her of her homestead rights in her parent's estate. Jones v. Crawford [Ky.] 84 S. W. 568.
12. That he misrepresented his age is no defense to an action. Kirkham v. Wheeler-Osgood Co. [Wash.] 81 P. 869. An infant is not estopped by accepting after majority an amount paid his guardian on a life policy in which he was beneficiary, accepted by the guardian in compromise of the claims. Knights Templars & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. v. Crayton, 209 Ill. 550, 70 N. E. 1066.
13. Knights Templars & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. v. Crayton, 209 Ill. 550, 70 N. E. 1066.
14. See 4 C. L. 92.

NOTE. Criminal liability for causing death of infant by neglect: A person entrusted with the care and who undertakes the duty of supplying a helpless infant with the necessaries of life and who willfully neglects to discharge such duty is guilty of murder (Lewis v. State, 72 Ga. 164, 53 Am. Rep. 835; Pallis v. State, 123 Ala. 12, 26 So. 339, 82 Am. St. Rep. 106), and if such party does an act which might lead to the death of the infant, and which does so, he is guilty of manslaughter (Reg. v. Bubb, 4 Cox C. C. 455).—See note to Johnson v. State [Ohio] 61 L. R. A. 290.

15. See Parent and Child, 4 C. L. 873; also Guardianship, 5 C. L. 1603. Elliott v. Harris, 24 App. D. C. 11.
16. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 7147, the pro-which an infant shall be competent to do military service depends wholly on legislative enactment.[18] As to which parent is entitled to the custody of children after separation depends upon the best interests of the children.[19] One entitled to the custody of an infant may maintain an action for damages for its abduction.[20]

§ 3. Statutes for the protection of infants.[21]—A statute, the manifest purpose of which is to prohibit the employment of infants in certain occupations, applies to all parties connected with the employment.[22]

§ 4. Property and conveyances.[23]—Courts of chancery have general jurisdiction over the estates of infants and may authorize the conversion of their realty into personalty,[24] or authorize a lease for a term exceeding the period of minority,[25] or for a long term if future rights of the infants are protected and their best interests subserved.[26] The power to dispose of an infant's real estate is statutory.[27] In Louisiana, an infant's real estate cannot be sold at private sale,[28] unless to effect a partition.[29] In Arkansas, land sold for taxes during minority may be redeemed after majority,[30] and tender of the amount necessary to redeem is not a condition precedent to exercising the right.[31] The owner of the tax title must account for bate court has jurisdiction to commit to the Industrial School for Girls any girl under 16 years of age who leads a vagrant life. In re Gassaway [Kan.] 79 P. 113. Question as to whether a parent or a society in whose care a child was placed was entitled to its custody remanded for further testimony. Louisiana Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children v. Tyler [La] 38 So. 464. A judge hearing a writ of habeas corpus is not bound to award the custody of infants to either parent. Kirkland v. Canty [Ga.] 50 S. E. 90.

NOTE. Habeas Corpus decree as to custody of an infant is conclusive as to all questions necessarily involved as between the same parties and upon the same state of facts. State v. Bechdel, 37 Minn. 360, 34 N. W. 334, 5 Am. St. Rep. 854; Mercein v. People, 25 Wend. [N. Y.] 64, 35 Am. Dec. 653; Weir v. Marley, 99 Mo. 484; In re Sueden, 105 Mich. 61, 62 N. W. 1009, 55 Am. St. Rep. 435. Contra. In re King, 66 Kan. 695, 97 Am. St. Rep. 399. But is not res judicata where different conditions prevail (Lemunier v. McClearly, 37 La. Ann. 133; Edwards v. Edwards, 84 Mo. App. 552; People v. Winston, 72 N. Y. S. 456), nor as between different parties (Taylor v. Neither, 108 Ga. 765, 33 S. E. 420; In re Reynolds, 8 N. Y. S. 172).—See note to In re King [Kan.] 67 L. R. A. 783.

17. Where a New York foundling asylum sent infants to illiterate and vicious half breed Indians in Arizona from whom they were taken by American residents having suitable homes, the asylum was held not entitled to recover them. New York Foundling Hospital v. Gatti [Ariz.] 79 P. 231.

18. A minor over 18 years of age who enlists in the marine corps will not be discharged from the custody of his officers in habeas corpus brought by his father. Elliott v. Harris, 24 App. D. C. 11. See, also, Military and Naval Law, 4 C. L. 640.

19. In awarding a separate maintenance to a wife, it is proper to give her the custody of very young children. Schoop v. Schoop, 115 Ill. App. 343. Courts in the exercise of sound discretion may award the custody to either. Commonwealth v. Strickland, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 309. See Divorce, 5 C. L. 1026, for a full discussion of this subject.

20. Where niece lived with aunt but on visiting another aunt preferred to remain with the latter providing that she could visit the aunt she formerly lived with, a privilege which the latter refused to allow at first but finally granted, held no abduction. Baumgartner v. Eigenbrot [Md.] 60 A. 601.

21. See 4 C. L. 92; see, also, Master and Servant, 4 C. L. 533, for a full discussion of statutes regulating employment.

22. An employer who knowingly employs a minor under 14 in a factory violates Laws 1903, p. 261, c. 136. Kirkham v. Wheeler-Osgood Co. [Wash.] 81 P. 869.

23. See 4 C. L. 92.

24. Where the estate is liable to be sold for taxes and drainage assessments which the owners have no means to pay. King v. King, 215 Ill. 100, 74 N. E. 89.

25. If their best interests are subserved thereby. Ricardi v. Gaboury [Tenn.] 89 S. W. 98.

26. Lease for 99 years, rental to be adjusted every 20 years. Ricardi v. Gaboury [Tenn.] 89 S. W. 98.

27. Statutory authority to sell does not include authority to mortgage. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 6411-6416, 6460-6469. Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154.

28. Parker v. Ricks [La.] 38 So. 687.

29. Succession of Sallier [La.] 38 So. 929. Under Civ. Code, art. 1341, a court may, ex officio, convoke a family meeting to fix terms of credit and security on which the interest of minors in property partitioned may be sold. Tobin v. U. S. Safe Deposit & Sav. Bank [La.] 39 So. 33.

30. Under Kirby's Dig. § 7095, a minor may within two years after attaining majority maintain suit against the state, its vendees and subsequent purchasers to redeem his land sold for taxes during his minority. Hodges v. Harkleroad [Ark.] 85 S. W. 779. This right exists relative to lands sold in 1879. Id. Infant remainderman whose interest may be decreased by birth of other children is an owner within this statute. Id.

31. The right to redeem cannot be defeat-the rental value after the right to redeem is asserted.[32] Deeds of conveyance executed by an infant are voidable and may be disaffirmed[33] or ratified after he attains majority.[34] Mere lapse of time after attaining majority raises no presumption of ratification if during such time the grantor is under the disability of coverture.[35] A minor co-tenant after attaining majority may waive his right of action to recover his share of an outstanding claim which his co-tenant purchased at foreclosure sale of the property.[36]

§ 5. Contracts.[37]—As a general rule an infant's contracts are voidable, not void;[38] but his contracts for necessaries are valid[39] if executed,[40] and in Georgia, by statute, his contracts in connection with a profession, trade or employment in which he is engaged are binding,[41] if he is so engaged by permission of his parent or guardian.[42] His voidable contracts may be disaffirmed within a reasonable time after he attains majority, and if relative to personalty, at any time before.[43] Whether he has used reasonable diligence in disaffirming after attaining majority is a question of fact;[44] but one asserting a ratification has the burden of proof.[45] On timely disaffirmance and restoration of what he has received, he is released from ed because of failure to tender the amount necessary if the right to redeem is denied. Hodges v. Harkleroad [Ark.] 85 S. W. 779. Under Kirby's Dig. §§ 2759, 2760, an infant, after attaining majority, may redeem from tax sales occurring during minority without affidavit of tender of taxes and value of improvements required by such statute. Id.

32. In a suit to redeem land sold for taxes during minority, he may recover rent accruing subsequent to his attempted redemption but not that accruing prior thereto. Hodges v. Harkleroad [Ark.] 85 S. W. 779.

33. The institution of a suit after attaintaining majority, to cancel a conveyance made during minority is a repudiation of the transaction. Slater v. Rudderforth, 25 App. D. C. 497. A deed by an infant is avoided where after majority he executes another deed of the same premises to a different person. Gaskins v. Allen, 137 N. C. 426, 49 S. E. 919.

34. Errors of form in a partition sale may be ratified after majority. Succession of Sallier [La.] 38 So. 929. A void deed executed after majority is no ratification of a deed executed while a minor. Gaskins v. Allen, 137 N. C. 426, 49 S. E. 919.

35. Gaskins v. Allen, 137 N. C. 426, 49 S. E. 919.

36. Ryason v. Dunten [Ind.] 73 N. E. 74. A minor co-tenant who for several years after attaining majority fails to assert his rights against his co-tenant who had purchased the property at foreclosure sale will not be permitted to assert them as against a bona fide purchaser from his co-tenant. Id.

37. See 4 C. L. 93.

38. His contract of partnership. Gordon v. Miller [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 943.

Agreement to submit to arbitration: Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227. An antenuptial agreement with an affianced infant may be valid. Wood v. Reamer, 26 Ky. L. R. 819, 82 S. W. 572.

39. Goods furnished him for use in a trading business are not necessaries, though he derives his living solely from such business. Wallace v. Leroy [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 243. A contract with a telegraph company for transmission of a message to his parents, he being practically destitute and in need of money relative to which the message was sent, is one for necessaries. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Greer [Tenn.] 89 S. W. 327.

40. Where he contracts for a course in pharmacy and leaves the school prior to completing it, he may recover the unearned portion of tuition paid. Wallin v. Highland Park Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 839.

41. A "linter" in an oil mill is not engaged in a "profession, trade or business" within Civ. Code 1895, § 3650, so as to make him bound by a contract with his employer relative to a claim of damages for personal injuries. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

42. That an infant is collecting the proceeds of his employment does not show permission from his parent to engage in such employment. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

43. Code, § 3189. Seeley v. Seeley-Howe-Le Van Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 961. One who loans money to a minor to enable him to redeem his land from a mortgage is not entitled to be subrogated to the lien of the mortgagee, the minor not being legally bound to redeem and redemption not being necessary. Burton v. Anthony [Or.] 79 P. 185.

44. In seeking to set aside a consent judgment. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1023.

45. One seeking to hold an infant bound by his contract on the ground that he retained the consideration after attaining majority has the burden of showing that he possessed the consideration after majority and retained it for such a length of time that a ratification is to be inferred. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788. Evidence that after attaining majority an infant lived in the vicinity of land relative to which a contract on which a judgment sought to be set aside was based, and had notice of improvements being made, is admissible on the question of ratification. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1023.

all liability,[46] even as against innocent third persons.[47] A disaffirmance, accompanied by a surrender of what he has received, releases his surety.[48] Disaffirmance of a contract of employment for a given time is not a bar against recovery on a quantum meruit for the services rendered.[49] On disaffirmance[50] he must restore what he received if he has it,[51] since he cannot be permitted to retain what he received and recover what he parted with;[52] but he is not precluded from rescinding by the fact that during the course of the transaction he received property[53] which he has lost, spent, or squandered.[54] He may plead his infancy as a defense to an action at law without restoring what he has received.[55]

§ 6. Torts.[56]

§ 7. Crimes.[57]—An infant between the ages of 7 and 12 is presumed incapable of committing crime.[58] This presumption can be rebutted only by affirmative proof that he has capacity to understand the wrongful character of the act complained of.[59] An infant who has reached the age of discretion is responsible for crime, though his contracts would not be enforceable.[60] Inability to make a valid promise of marriage is no defense to the crime of seduction.[61]

§ 8. Actions by and against.[62]—An infant may recover damages for injuries

46. Seeley v. Seeley-Howe-Le Van Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 961.

47. On a negotiable note in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Seeley v. Seeley-Howe-Le Van Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 961.

NOTE. Rights of third persons: Upon repudiating a sale of his property he becomes entitled to it even as against a bona fide purchaser from his vendee. Harrod v. Myers, 21 Ark. 592, 76 Am. Dec. 409; Miles v. Lingerman, 24 Ind. 385; Jenkins v. Jenkins, 12 Iowa, 195; Downing v. Stone, 47 Mo. App. 144; Searcy v. Hunter, 81 Tex. 644; Hovey v. Hobson, 53 Me. 451; Mustard v. Wohlford's Heirs, 15 Grat. [Va.] 329. He may avoid his negotiable instrument as against a bona fide holder. Howard v. Simpkins, 70 Ga. 322.—See Hammon, Cont., § 175.

48. Seeley v. Seeley-Howe-Le Van Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 961.

49. Fisher v. Kissinger, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 218.

Note: Upon repudiating a contract of hiring and service, an infant may recover on a quantum meruit the reasonable value of the services he has rendered under it. Ray v. Haines, 52 Ill. 485; Indianapolis Chair Mfg. Co. v. Wilcox, 59 Ind. 429; Vehue v. Pinkham, 60 Me. 142; Gaffney v. Hayden, 110 Mass. 137, 14 Am. Rep. 580; Vent v. Osgood, 19 Pick. [Mass.] 572; Lufkin v. Mayall, 25 N. H. 82; Medbury v. Watrous, 7 Hill [N. Y.] 110; Francis v. Felmit, 20 N. C. 498; Dearden v. Adams, 19 R. I. 217; Price v. Furman, 27 Vt. 268, 65 Am. Dec. 194. By the better opinion the amount so recoverable is not subject to diminution by deducting the damages occasioned by the breach. Derocher v. Continental Mills, 58 Me. 217, 4 Am. Rep. 286; Radley v. Kenedy, 14 N. Y. S. 268. There are cases, however, holding to the contrary. Lowe v. Sinclear, 27 Mo. 308; Shurtleff v. Millard, 12 R. I. 272, 34 Am. Rep. 640; Hoxie v. Lincoln, 25 Vt. 206. See Hammon, Contracts, § 175b.

50. Where, after majority, action is brought to set aside an award by arbitrators and it is alleged that the award was made in a collusive and fraudulent suit, it constitutes a disaffirmance of the arbitration and award. Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227.

51. He must return what he has received as a condition precedent to having a sale annulled. Succession of Sallier [La.] 38 So. 929. Where an infant seeks to disaffirm an award by which title to his land passed, he must restore what he received, and if what he received has been invested, he must surrender the property. Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227.

52. An infant partner who agreed to deliver goods belonging to the firm in satisfaction of a balance due thereon cannot repudiate and recover the goods without paying the balance of the price due. Gordon v. Miller [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 943.

53. Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227.

54. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

55. Wallace v. Leroy [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 243. Where, in an action against an infant on a contract, property received by him has been attached in the hands of a third person, the establishment of the defense of infancy annuls the contract, defeats the action and dissolves the attachment. Id.

56, 57. See 4 C. L. 94.

58. Pen. Code, § 19. People v. Domenico, 45 Misc. 309, 92 N. Y. S. 390. An infant under 10 years of age is incapable of committing crime. Over 10 and under 14 the state must prove his capacity. Singleton v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 156.

59. Plea of guilty does not overcome it. People v. Domenico, 45 Misc. 309, 92 N. Y. S. 390. Nor can their capacity be determined by the court from their appearance and conversation with them and their parents, no evidence as to their capacity having been taken. Id.

60. Procuring money by fraudulent practices on a contract to perform services. Vinson v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 79.

61. State v. Brock, 186 Mo. 457, 85 S. W. 595.

62. See 4 C. L. 94.

caused by the negligence of another.[63] Service of process must be made on the infant[64] or one authorized by law to accept service for him;[65] but he can appear and defend only by guardian ad litem[66] duly appointed.[67] It is held that he may appear by attorney for the purpose of a continuance,[68] and failure to appoint a guardian ad litem merely affects the regularity of procedure and not the jurisdiction of the court;[69] but he cannot stand in judgment unless he was represented by a guardian ad litem.[70]

As a general rule infants are excepted from the operation of statutes of limitation,[71] which affect the remedy and not the right[72] as to transactions to which the bar is applicable;[73] but unless specially excepted, such statutes apply to them.[74] The disability of infancy cannot be tacked to the disability of coverture.[75]

The question of jurisdiction of a Federal court where an infant is suing by his guardian depends on the citizenship of the infant.[76]

A complaint for personal injuries should show that the infant sustained the damage complained of.[77] An infant party is not bound by admissions in a pleading of his adult co-defendant.[78] The incompetency of testimony against him cannot be waived by his attorney.[79] A bill in equity cannot be taken for confessed as to him.[80]

Where the interests of a guardian are adverse to those of his ward in property

63. Wilmot v. McPadden [Conn.] 61 A. 1069.

64. A minor is a member of his father's family, and process in an action against him is served by leaving a copy with the father at the father's dwelling. Yerkes v. Stetson [Pa.] 61 A. 113.

65. Service on a guardian ad litem appointed on a defective affidavit (not stating whether or not they had a statutory guardian), held not void. Mullins v. Mullins [Ky.] 87 S. W. 764.

66. A judgment not clearly favorable to him will be reversed where it appears that no guardian ad litem was appointed. Langston v. Bassette [Va.] 51 S. E. 218.

67. See Guardians Ad Litem and Next Friends, 5 C. L. 1601.

68. An appointment of a guardian ad litem at a following term is sufficient to give jurisdiction. Sears v. Duling [Vt.] 61 A. 518.

69. A complaint not alleging such appointment is not demurrable on the ground of want of capacity. Goodfriend v. Robins, 92 N. Y. S. 240. An allegation in a petition by an infant suing by his guardian, that such guardian was duly appointed etc., is not of a jurisdictional fact nor is it a material averment within Ohio Code, providing that such issues may be raised by general denial. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

70. The question of the court's failure to appoint a guardian ad litem may be raised on motion to set aside the judgment. State v. Gawronski, 110 Mo. App. 414, 85 S. W. 126. Unless a guardian ad litem was appointed, a judgment against him is void. Weaver v. Glenn [Va.] 51 S. E. 835. Under Code 1896, § 3180, a partition decree of property in which infants have an interest is erroneous where no guardian ad litem was appointed for them. Edwards v. Edwards [Ala.] 39 So. 82. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 558, after commencement of an action against an infant and service of process upon him, no further proceedings can be taken until the appointment of a guardian ad litem. State v. Gawronski, 110 Mo. App. 414, 85 S. W. 126.

71. Parker v. Ricks [La.] 38 So. 687. Limitations against an action for the recovery of land do not run against infants. Vincent v. Blanton [Ky.] 85 S. W. 703.

72. Code 1902, § 426 is a pure statute of limitation affecting the remedy. Jones v. Boykin, 70 S. C. 309, 49 S. E. 877.

73. Where an infant was a party to an action, was duly served and was represented by a guardian ad litem, and he consented to the judgment rendered and received benefits by reason of the compromise, an action to set aside such judgment is governed by reasonable diligence and not by limitations. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1023.

74. Minors are not exempted from the provisions of Rev. Codes N. D. 1899, § 3491a. Schauble v. Schulz [C. C. A.] 137 F. 389.

75. Adverse possession commenced during minority begins to run against a female infant at the date of her marriage. York v. Hutcheson [Tex. Civ App.] 83 S. W. 895.

76. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

77. A declaration in tort by a next friend, alleging in its commencement that the next friend complains and in its conclusion that the tort was to the damage of the next friend, is irregular and will be stricken. Blonski v. American Enameled Brick & Tile Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1101.

78. Holderby v. Hagan [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 437.

79. Jespersen v. Mech, 213 Ill 488, 72 N. E. 1114.

80. Holderby v. Hagan [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 437. In an action to quiet title as against infants, the plaintiff must prove his title. Id.

in suit, attorneys who appear for a guardian ad litem appointed for him are entitled to reasonable fees out of the infants' estate;[81] but the amount of such fees cannot be declared a lien on the property in controversy.[82]

A judgment against an infant on proper service is not void, but voidable only,[83] and can be set aside only in case of fraud, collusion or prejudicial error,[84] or where it appears that a good defense was not interposed by his guardian ad litem.[85] A judgment will not be set aside because of mere irregularity in the appointment of a guardian ad litem.[86] Equity will entertain a bill by an infant to impeach a decree for errors of law apparent on the face of the record without requiring him to file a bill for review, to apply for a rehearing, or sue out error.[87] Such a bill may be filed at any time during minority or within the period allowed after majority for prosecuting a writ of error.[88] A mere technical rule will not be permitted to defeat the review of a meritorious petition.[89]

INFORMATION; INFORMERS, see latest topical index.

INJUNCTION.

§ 1. Nature of remedy and grounds therefor.[90]—Injunctions are known as mandatory or preventive according as they command a defendant to do or to refrain from an act.[91] Mandatory injunctions are used with extreme caution and the relative convenience or inconvenience which would result to the parties from granting or withholding it will be taken into consideration in each case.[92] A preliminary 81, 82. Owens v. Gunther [Ark.] 86 S. W. 851.

83. A minor may assail a judgment for fraud or error only in case he seeks relief within the statutory period after attaining majority. Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154.

84. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1023.

85. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1023. A judgment in an action in which their guardian ad litem made no defense is not binding on them. Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227.

86. Infant had suffered no substantial injustice. Middleton v. Stokes [S. C.] 50 S. E. 539.

87. A decree declaring lands not subject to partition and requiring a sale and division of the proceeds is a final decree within this rule. Crane v. Stafford [Ill.] 75 N. E. 424.

88. Crane v. Stafford [Ill.] 75 N. E. 424.

89. A rule that a motion for a new trial is indivisible cannot be invoked to defeat a review of a meritorious petition in error by a minor defendant whose guardian ad litem has inadvertently joined with him a mere nominal defendant. Godfrey v. Smith [Neb.] 103 N. W. 450.

90. See 4 C. L. 96. In many of the topics relating to particular matters, e. g., Corporations, 5 C. L. 764, the applicability of injunctive relief is incidentally discussed.

91. Mason v. Byrley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767.

92. Mason v. Byrley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767. Mandatory injunctions are granted only in rare instances such as to remove obstructions to easements. Jacquelin v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 18. In Louisiana it seems that injunction is not allowed where mandatory injunction may be mandatory.[93] A mandatory injunction will issue to compel a quasi-public corporation to perform its public duties without discrimination.[94] A special injunction is one granted for the prevention of irreparable injury when the preventive aid of the court is the ultimate and only relief sought and the primary equity involved in the suit.[95] A common injunction is one granted in aid of, or as secondary to, another equity.[96] An injunction will issue to restrain the parties[97] in the action in which it is granted and also, when so drawn, their attorneys, agents and employees,[98] and also persons acting in collusion or combination with the parties with knowledge of the injunction,[99] but not persons who are not in any way connected with the parties.[1]

As a general rule injunction will only issue when there is a clear and undisputed right, legal or equitable,[2] and where irreparable injury will result from the acts relief is the essence of the prayer, mandamus being the proper remedy. But an injunction "slightly mandatory," where a mandate is requisite to complete equity as an incident to preventive relief, will issue. Itzkovitch v. Whitaker [La.] 39 So. 499, and cases cited. The distinction so made seems both logical and practical. Under the statutes of Kentucky mandamus issues only to public officers, executive and ministerial. Accordingly mandatory injunction and not mandamus is the remedy to compel a telephone company to install a telephone. Williams v. Maysville Tel. Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 945, 82 S. W. 995.

93. By statute in Kentucky (Civ. Code Prac. § 276). Mason v. Byrley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767. It is sometimes held that mandatory injunction should not issue pending trial. Injunction restraining defendant's solicitors from using a badge designed to mislead plaintiff's customers held not mandatory. Morton v. Morton [Cal.] 82 P. 664. An injunction to prevent the discontinuance of a railroad station is so far mandatory in its nature that it should not issue preliminarily except under such circumstances as would justify mandatory injunctions. Jacquelin v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 18. Mandatory injunction to obtain letters to prepare evidence for defense of criminal action refused. Smith v. Jerome, 93 N. Y. S. 202.

94. To furnish water to a user on the same terms as it furnishes water to a business competitor of complainant when the conditions of service are practically the same. Wiemer v. Louisville Water Co., 130 F. 251.

95. Injunction to restrain use of a room in violation of a covenant in a lease held to be a special injunction. Cobb v. Clegg, 137 N. C. 153, 49 S. E. 80.

96. Cobb v. Clegg, 137 N. C. 153, 49 S. E. 80.

97. Herzberger v. Barrow, 115 Ill. App. 79.

98. People v. Marr, 181 N. Y. 463, 74 N. E. 431; Rigas v. Livingston, 178 N. Y. 20, 70 N. E. 107.

99. Rigas v. Livingston, 178 N. Y. 20, 70 N. E. 107. When all the defendants had knowledge of a strike injunction, it was held to be immaterial that some were not parties to the injunction suit nor served with process or with the injunction. O'Brien v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 108. An injunction against a corporation binds its officers and agents although they be not parties of record. Town of Adel v. Woodall [Ga.] 50 S. E. 481.

1. Injunction was against city authorities, and a private person not acting as agent, servant or in collusion was held not to be restrained thereby. Rigas v. Livingston, 178 N. Y. 20, 70 N. E. 107.

2. Jacquelin v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 18. The right of the complainant to claim specific performance was disputed and injunction refused. Lucas v. Milliken, 139 F. 816. Injunction will be refused when to grant it would be unconscionable, even though a legal right is about to be violated; such a case is presented where the legal right arises out of a decree of court rendered by mistake. Parsons v. Ohio Pail Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 116. Injunction may be refused where it is deemed inequitable, even where the defendant does not raise this point. McConnell v. Hampton [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1092. Where complainant's predecessors in title had covenanted to extend a street through land where defendant's water pipes were laid and defendant took with knowledge of the pipes, it was held he had no greater rights than his grantor's and that he could not come into equity for an injunction to enjoin the maintenance of the pipes. Jayne v. Cortland Waterworks Co., 95 N. Y. S. 227. Where the plaintiff's legal right is not clear or is disputed, equity will not interfere and issue final orders or decrees before the right is established by proceedings at law, unless it clearly appears that no adequate remedy at law exists or that irreparable and permanent injury must result unless the summary process by injunction is not interposed. Williams v. Mathewson [N. H.] 60 A. 687. Not to restrain an action at law on an oral agreement in the absence of fraud, set off, multiplicity of suits or other equitable ground. Waggaman v. Keith Co., 23 App. D. C. 166. It is doubtful whether an injunction will lie to enjoin a husband from disposing of or selling his property in order to avoid payment of alimony. Griswold v. Griswold, 111 Ill. App. 269. Under the laws of Michigan (Comp. Laws, § 7754), providing that money payable to a beneficiary by a benefit society duly organized could not be come at by trustee, garnishment or other process or seized by any legal or equitable process or by operation of law, it was held that the court in a divorce proceeding could not enjoin such payments. Hunt v. Branch Circuit Judge [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 490, 104 N. W. 724.

complained of,[3] for which there is no adequate remedy at law.[4] Injunction may issue in other cases by force of statute in some states.[5] Whether damages will be regarded by a court of equity as "irreparable" or not depends more upon the nature of the

3. Becker v. Gilbert [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 29.

Granted: Sale of books of a mercantile agency on levy and also the sale of information contained in them enjoined. Sinsabaugh v. Dun, 214 Ill. 70, 73 N. E. 390. Removal of a blacksmith shop to another site in violation of an ordinance enjoined on ground that irreparable damage would be caused by the greater exposure to fire. Patterson v. Johnson, 114 Ill. App. 329. Removal of a wooden building in violation of a city ordinance enjoined on the ground that it would cause irreparable injury to the plaintiff. Patterson v. Johnson, 214 Ill. 481, 73 N. E. 761. To prevent an addition to a building in which the plaintiff had a common easement with the defendant. Piro v. Shipley, 211 Pa. 36, 60 A. 325. Cutting a channel in lands of another by which to turn a steamship around enjoined. Wilkinson v. Dunkley-Williams Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 170. In Idaho an injunction will issue to restrain temporarily an act which will result in great damage to the plaintiff, although the injury is not irreparable and notwithstanding he has other remedies. Price v. Grice [Idaho] 79 P. 387. In Illinois violations of the insurance laws were enjoined although there was an adequate remedy at law, criminally and civilly, and no injury had been suffered. North American Ins. Co. v. Yates, 116 Ill. App. 217.

Refused: A preliminary injunction will not issue to restrain the collection of debts due defendants where it appears that there is no fund to be distributed and no injury will result to the complainant from such collection. Rowland v. Auto Car Co., 133 F. 835. Incurring indebtedness beyond constitutional limit held not to cause irreparable injury to or deprive tax payer of his remedy. Bailey v. Sioux Falls [S. D.] 103 N. W. 16. Injunction refused where an entry which would have been lawful if properly made was effected by force against one wrongfully withholding possession, there being no irreparable injury involved. Montgomery Amusement Co. v. Montgomery Traction Co., 139 F. 353. Loss of the presidency of a corporation by failure to get sufficient stock through breach of contract to sue held not to be irreparable injury where the defendants were able to respond in damages. Lucas v. Milliken, 139 F. 816. Not to prevent laying gas pipes which at one single point only interfered with the complainants' pipes. Atlantic City Gas & Water Co. v. Consumers' Gas & Fuel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 750.

4. Granted: Cutting off steam supply by landlord enjoined, it being held that it was essential to the reasonable use and enjoyment of the demised premises and that there was no adequate remedy at law. Slack v. Knox, 114 Ill. App. 435. Where commercial ruin was threatened by acts of a combination of brewers in restraint of trade, an injunction issued on the ground that the remedy at law was inadequate, although the statute (anti-trust act—26 Stat. at L. 209, c. 647; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3201), provided for threefold damages. Leonard v. Abner-Drury Brewing Co., 25 App. D. C. 161. To prevent the sale of property seized upon process, a motion in the action in which the execution issued being held to be an inadequate remedy. Gale Mfg. Co. v. Sleeper [Kan.] 79 P. 648. Procuring breach of patent medicine contract. Garst v. Charles, 187 Mass. 144, 72 N. E. 839. Relief granted although certiorari and criminal proceedings were possible, where by virtue of an ordinance a railroad obstructed the streets. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831. The remedy afforded by an indefinite succession of lawsuits on account of constant flowings of land can hardly be regarded as adequate. Boglins v. Giorgetta [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612. Mandatory injunction will lie for refusal of a water company to furnish water to the complainant at the same rates as to others, this being the only adequate remedy available. Wiemer v. Louisville Water Co., 130 F. 251. Injunction issued to restrain a lessor of real estate from preventing the owners of certain boilers which they delivered to his lessees under a contract of bailment, and which had been attached to the realty, from repossessing themselves of their property upon the bankruptcy of the lessee. Wetherill v. Gallagher, 211 Pa. 306, 60 A. 905. No adequate remedy at law for wrongful use of water supply by city where it was impossible to ascertain how much water was being used. Turners Falls Fire Dist. v. Millers Falls Water Supply Dist. [Mass.] 75 N. E. 630.

The extraordinary legal remedies, mandamus, prohibition and quo warranto being "legal" should be applied if fully adequate. Compare Mandamus, 4 C. L. 506; Prohibition, Writ Of, 4 C. L. 1084; Quo Warranto, 4 C. L. 1177, Mandamus held to be the remedy to restrain removal of railroad station. Jacquelin v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 18.

Refused: Where a water company condemned land under which a gas company ran its pipes, an injunction was refused the latter on the ground that it could remove the pipes to other land at a small expense. Independent Natural Gas Co. v. Butler Water Co., 210 Pa. 177, 59 A. 984. A public improvement will not be enjoined to save a private citizen from some doubtful future injury for which he will have an adequate remedy at law. Simonson v. Richardson, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 170. Refused where a county was in possession of land in compliance with Texas law (Supp. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. art 4471), providing for possession after condemnation, as there was an adequate remedy at law to try the right of the county to condemn the land. Johnston v. O'Rourke & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 501. Not to restrain justices from acting because of interest in the result. National Tube Co. v. Smith [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 717. Court refused to enforce by injunction a covenant not to institute condemnation proceedings against any lands of a railroad company whether the covenant was an easement or not. Morris & E. R. Co. v. Hoboken & M. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 332. Injunction will not lie to right injured than upon the pecuniary measure of the loss suffered.[6] The adequate remedy at law which will deprive a court of equity of jurisdiction is a remedy as certain, complete, prompt and efficient to attain the ends of justice as the remedy in equity.[7] The remedy at law may be inadequate because the resulting damages will not be susceptible of computation[8] or because the defendant is insolvent[9] or in case of fraud,[10] or because requiring a multitude of suits,[11] and in like manner multiplicity of suits,[12] or impossibility of computing damages, may render the injuries irreparable.[13] The issuance of an injunction is not a matter of absolute right, but rests in the sound discretion of the court, to be determined on the consideration of all the special restrain the service of an execution upon the ground that it was judgment entered by another court by mistake, since that court should be applied to for a correction. Hearn v. Canning [R. I.] 61 A. 602. Dispossession of a tenant by a landlord under claim of right does not present a case of "no adequate remedy at law." Williams v. Mathewson [N. H.] 60 A. 687. An injunction to restrain the surveying and condemning of a right of way over the plaintiff's land refused on the ground that the plaintiff's remedy at law was adequate in the condemnation proceedings. South & W. R. Co. v. Virginia & S. E. Ry. Co. [Va.] 51 S. E. 843. Injunction does not lie to enforce rights acquired under an assignment of part of a contract; the remedy is at law for the breach. New York & Bermudez Co. v. Herrmann, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 431. Where building restrictions in a deed were mutually misconstrued by both complainant and defendant and the former alone of all the other property owners objected to the defendant's violation of them an injunction was refused and complainant left to an action at law for damages. Righter v. Winters [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 770. Not to recover possession of mortgaged property attached to enforce a laborer's lien as replevin is an adequate remedy. Johnson v. Gillenwater [Ark.] 87 S. W. 439. Refused where plaintiff was amply protected by common-law remedy of attachment. Booth & Co. v. Mohr [Ga.] 50 S. E. 173. Remedy at law by certiorari deemed to be adequate and an injunction was refused to restrain commissioners from proceeding under Georgia law (Pol. Code 1895, §§ 520-522) to lay out and open a public road. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co. v. Redwine [Ga.] 51 S. E. 724.

5. Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 3649. Injunction issued to restrain further obstruction to access to a private road. Downing v. Corcoran [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 114.

6. Injunction granted for obstructing a drainage ditch, although the damages sustained by the back water was only $15. Robertson v. Lewis, 77 Conn. 345, 59 A. 409.

7. Williams v. Neely [C. C. A.] 134 F. 1; Meyer v. Boonville, 162 Ind. 165, 70 N. E. 146; American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicosin, 34 Ind. App. 643, 73 N. E. 625; Watkins v. Tallassee Falls Mfg. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 756. Injunction granted to prevent the transfer of shares of stock pendente lite on the ground that they were different from ordinary personal property and that equitable relief was more beneficial and complete than legal. Currie v. Jones, 138 N. C. 189, 50 S. E. 560. An action upon forged promissory notes restrained. Ritterhoff v. Puget Sound Nat. Bank, 37 Wash. 76, 79 P. 601. The real question is not whether a party is utterly without remedy but whether the legal remedy, if any, is inadequate in the sense that it will not place the parties to the contract in the same positions which they occupied before the attempted breach of contract. Erie R. Co. v. Buffalo, 180 N. Y. 192, 73 N. E. 26. For a full discussion of the general principles, see Equity, 5 C. L. 1144.

8. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368; Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164. Wrongful levy of an execution on subscribers' books of a mercantile agency and threatened disclosure of their contents enjoined. Sinsabaugh v. Dun, 214 Ill. 70, 73 N. E. 390. Where a mining contract provided for a royalty on all coal which would not pass through a screen of a certain size, injunction lies to prevent the use of a screen with a larger mesh. Drake v. Black Diamond Coal & Min. Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 545.

9. Shields v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 394. In such a case the plaintiff's legal remedy would be inadequate. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368. The question as to the inability of the defendant to respond in damages was held not to be properly raised where there were two defendants and the financial irresponsibility of only one was alleged. Williams v. Mathewson [N. H.] 60 A. 687. Equity will restrain the sale of real estate of a decedent, conveyed away in lifetime in fraud of creditors to knowledge of vendee and estate of decedent is insolvent, but the rule held not to apply to the facts of the case at bar. Monroe v. Monroe, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 51. Mere insolvency of the defendant does not make the remedy at law inadequate in a suit involving right to possession of land. Martinson v. Marzolf [N. D.] 103 N. W. 937.

10. Injunction against use by defendant's solicitors of a badge similar to plaintiff's and calculated to deceive his customers issued without proof of insolvency. Morton v. Morton [Cal.] 82 P. 664.

11. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368. To prevent cutting off steam connections and supply. Slack v. Knox, 114 Ill. App. 435. Injunction may issue to prevent a multiplicity of suits arising because of the constant flowing of the complainant's lands. Boglino v. Giorgetta [Colo. App.] 78 P. 612. Repeated slight trespasses will be enjoined, though the damage is slight and defendant is solvent. O'Brien v. Murphy [Mass.] 75 N. E. 700; Hornung v. Herring [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1071.

12. Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F.

circumstances of each case.[14] The "balance of convenience or hardship" must be in favor of the complainants.[15] Injunction will not issue to enjoin a speculative or contingent injury[16] nor to preserve rights which may never accrue.[17] An injunction which would be useless will not be granted.[18] The right to an injunction may be barred by laches[19] or by estoppel.[20] Injunction is not appropriate to mandamus proceedings.[21] A common-law court may be given the power to issue restraining orders by the legislature[22] but such power is not an equitable one.[23]

§ 2. Who and what may be enjoined. A. In general.[24]—The various grounds whereon equity in general may be invoked[25] and the general nature and office of injunctions[26] have already been discussed. Injunction as a statutory remedy pertains to the particular subject-matter or right whereto the statute relates.[27]

209. Prosecution of a number of actions under a smoke nuisance ordinance. Dispossession of a tenant by a landlord under claim of right was held not to call in the power of equity on the ground of avoidance of a multiplicity of suits. Williams v. Mathewson [N. H.] 60 A. 687.

13. Injunction to restrain collection of a judgment by sale of R. G. Dun & Co. reference books enjoined. Sinsabaugh v. Dun, 114 Ill. App. 523.

14. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co., 113 Tenn. 331, 83 S. W. 658.

15. Hoy v. Altoona Midway Oil Co., 136 F. 483. Injunction against laying railroad tracks refused in doubtful case. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Inland Traction Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 115. Where complainant's damage would obviously be slight and the defendant's loss from an injunction would be considerable, injunction will not issue. Bill by author to restrain publication because his reputation would suffer by reason of the inferior paper and binding used. Cleveland v. Martin [Ill.] 75 N. E. 772.

16. Fisher v. Georgia Vitrified Brick & Clay Co., 121 Ga. 621, 49 S. E. 679. Not restrain a party from exhibiting drawings and diagrams of inventions, in the absence of showing threats so to do or reasons to expect it. Griffith v. Dodgson, 93 N. Y. S. 155.

17. Not to restrain a sale of land by the guardian of an incompetent until the plaintiff was in a position to bring a bill for the specific performance of a contract for the sale of it to him made by the incompetent. In re Hayden's Estate [Cal. App.] 81 P. 668. An injunction will not lie to restrain a defendant from using property in order that it might be subject to an execution in payment of a prospective judgment. Williamson v. Moore [Idaho] 80 P. 227.

18. To restrain past acts. Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698. Past acts of causing water to set back on plaintiff's land by means of a dam. Bryant v. Frank H. Lamb Timber Co., 37 Wash. 168, 79 P. 622. Sale of shares of stock already made. Huet v. Piedmont Springs Lumber Co., 138 N. C. 443, 50 S. E. 846. Performance of an ultra vires contract practically executed. Fisher v. Georgia Vitrified Brick & Clay Co., 121 Ga. 621, 49 S. E. 679. Not to restrain canvass of votes cast for representatives in the National House when the certificates of election have been issued and the House has admitted the holders. Selden v. Montague, 194 U. S. 153, 48 Law. Ed. 915. Where the defendant repeatedly obstructed plaintiff's access to a right of way it was held that the case was not within the rule, although the obstructions were actually erected. Downing v. Corcoran [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 114. An injunction refused to restrain a railroad company from renewing a bridge lawfully built under an act of congress, where such acts in no manner increased the obstruction to navigation on the ground it would not furnish the remedy sought. United States v. Parkersburg Branch R. Co., 134 F. 969.

19. Diversion of water to injury of riparian owner. Penrhyn Slate Co. v. Granville Elec. Light & Power Co., 181 N. Y. 80, 73 N. E. 566; Mooter v. Whitman, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 141; City of Elberton v. Pearle Cotton Mills [Ga.] 50 S. E. 977. Injunction refused where there had been a delay of eight years. Taylor v. Erie City Pass. R. Co. [Pa.] 61 A. 992. Refused when nuisance of gas and smoke from a plant had gone on for ten years and thousands of dollars had been spent upon improving the plant. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co., 113 Tenn. 331, 83 S. W. 658. Right to enjoin the maintenance of water pipes in certain land held to be lost by sleeping on one's rights. Jayne v. Cortland Waterworks Co., 95 N. Y. S. 227.

20. Injunction refused where the defendant gas company had requested the plaintiff company to disclose its lines of pipes and it had not only refused so to do but kept a representative on the defendant's line of work who made no objection to it as deviating from the lines prescribed by statute to the injury of the plaintiff. Atlantic City Gas & Water Co. v. Consumers' Gas & Fuel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 750.

21. Proceeding to compel county treasurer to make tax sales. People v. Lewis, 102 App. Div. 408, 92 N. Y. S. 642.

22. Pennsylvania Laws (P. L. 331) act of May 29, 1901, § 9, giving the court of quarter sessions jurisdiction of indictments for illegal sales of oleomargarine with power to issue restraining orders, held to be constitutional. Commonwealth v. Andrews, 211 Pa. 110, 60 A. 554.

23. "The remedy provided is not a proceeding in equity * * * and is in consonance with the principle of preventive justice which had early recognition in the common law and which was said by distinguished authority to be preferable in all respects to punishing justice." Commonwealth v. Andrews, 211 Pa. 110, 60 A. 554.

24, 25. See 4 C. L. 100.

26. See ante, § 1.

(§ 2) B. Actions or proceedings.[28]—The bringing of actions or suits will be enjoined on the ground of multiplicity,[29] but actions by different persons on distinct and separate grounds do not constitute a multiplicity of suits.[30] Injunction will not lie to restrain an action at law where there is a legal defense,[31] but will issue to permit the assertion of an equitable estoppel.[32] It may issue to protect a judgment and complete the plaintiff's remedy,[33] or to prevent fraud,[34] or to restrain the entry or enforcement of a judgment which would be by reason of matters not available at law, contrary to equity and good conscience,[35] as in case of fraud[36] or con-

27. E. g. that authorized in proceedings to dissolve corporations. See 4 C. L. 100, n. 7.

28. See 4 C. L. 100.

29. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson, 34 Ind. App. 643, 73 N. E. 625; Watkins v. Tallassee Falls Mfg. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 756.

30. Injunction refused where plaintiff was garnished in 142 different suits. National Tube Co. v. Smith [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 717.

31. Held not necessary to go into equity to show that a lease made to A was really for the benefit of B. Cox v. O'Neal [Ala.] 37 So. 674. Injunction refused to restrain an action at law by a principal against an agent for paying over money collected on a judgment to a third person, it being held that the question of ownership was for a court of law and could not be determined by this process. Moss Mercantile Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 82 P. 8. Not to restrain collection of a judgment alleged to have been paid and satisfied. Pyle v. Crebs, 112 Ill. App. 480.

32. To restrain an action in ejectment where by conduct and receipt of rents a corporation was held estopped to deny validity of a lease. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 419.

33. In an action for the recovery of land and damages for its use an injunction was granted to prevent the subsequent transfer of it by the defendant in evasion of the judgment. Cole v. Jerman, 77 Conn. 374, 59 A. 425. An action in ejectment was enjoined where the owner of an equity of redemption had been induced by fraud to deed away the equity, and it was necessary to go into equity to get the deed canceled to make her defense to the action available. Hudson v. Jackson [Ala.] 39 So. 227.

34. Action on promissory note enjoined on the ground of fraud. Saloon mortgage note. O'Brien v. Paterson Brewing & Malting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 437. Injunction to enjoin the prosecution of an action of ejectment and cancel a deed on the ground that it and the record of it had been fraudulently altered was refused, since the court of law could determine the validity of the deed and until it was declared invalid there was no equitable right involved. Wilson v. Miller [Ala.] 39 So. 178.

35. Injunction issued to restrain an action at law on a promissory note to allow of a defense of reduction arising ont of the same transaction, the remedy at law being inadequate. Williams v. Neely [C. C. A.] 134 F. 1. Collection of judgment on notes restrained until the defendant would consent to a new trial in which plaintiff might set up a defense which he had not had an opportunity to use. Headley v. Leavitt [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 963. Collection restrained where judgment was obtained without service. Herzberger v. Barrow, 115 Ill. App. 79. Injunction granted where an indorsement on a note was the result of a mistake. King v. Hart, 116 Ill. App. 33. An action on a building contract held to be within the rule. Watkins v. Tallassee Falls Mfg. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 756. Injunction issued to restrain enforcement of a judgment not authorized by the summons and complaint. Phillips v. Norton [S. D.] 101 N. W. 727. An injunction will issue at the instance of a bankrupt who has not listed a judgment creditor on his schedules only if he proves the creditor had notice or knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings in time to prove his claim. Armstrong v. Sweeney [Neb.] 103 N. W. 436. As a general rule a court of equity should not intervene in a litigation pending in a court of law and by injunction transfer it to that court on the ground that in that court alone the equitable right of action or of defense can be recognized or enforced. Kronson v. Lipschitz [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 819. An injunction to transfer an action at law in which the title to personalty was involved to court of equity on the ground that the doctrine of equitable estoppel was involved, refused. Kronson v. Lipschitz [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 819. Where an action of ejectment was brought against a tenant by a third party who did not join the landlord, a later grantee who did not allege that the landlord was not aware of the ejectment suit was refused an injunction to prevent a writ of possession issuing in favor of the plaintiff in the ejectment suit. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222. An action at law upon a note will not be enjoined so that a court of equity may order the cancellation of the note without more, since a judgment in favor of the defendant as completely cancels the note as a decree in equity. House v. Oliver [Ga.] 51 S. E. 722. It is a rule that applications for relief in equity against judgments at law will be scrutinized closely and that an injunction to prevent the enforcement of the same will not be granted except on facts which show the clearest and strongest reasons for the interposition of chancery. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. A defendant in an action at law who is severally liable with a party not sued may not have the action enjoined and removed to equity to enable the defendant to establish an equitable set-off when it does not appear that the co-debtor was insolvent. Kewanee Mfg. Co. v. Leigh [C. C. A.] 135 F. 58.

36. When the plaintiff's attorney agreed to continue the case and the plaintiff perspiracy,[37] or in a case where one is by accident[38] or through ignorance unmixed with negligence on his part, prevented from making his defense or from taking steps for the preservation of his rights.[39] It must clearly appear that it would be contrary to equity or good conscience to allow the judgment at law complained of to be enforced.[40] Diligence and clear grounds for equitable relief must appear.[41] Thus an injunction will not issue to restrain the collection of a void judgment[42] where that fact is apparent on the face of the record,[43] but it will issue where extrinsic evidence is necessary to show the defect.[44] Injunction will never lie to restrain a levy and sale of personal property[45] unless it is of such peculiar and intrinsic value to the owner that its loss cannot be adequately compensated in damages.[46] It will issue to restrain a sale under an execution which will cast a cloud upon the complainant's title,[47] or to prevent a judicial sale where the legal process is being abused by the judgment creditor.[48] Injunction proceedings to restrain the foreclosure of a mortgage are provided for by statute in some states.[49] By statute Federal courts are forbidden to grant a writ of injunction to stay proceedings in a state court,[50] except in banksonally took a default. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Flowers [Miss.] 38 So. 37. Bill to set aside a decree for sale of land fraudulently obtained. Keith v. Alger [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 71.

37. Actions in regard to canvassing election returns. People v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 79 P. 1024.

38. Rhode Island law (Gen. St. 1872, c. 185, § 10, and Gen. St. 1896, c. 228, § 10), providing for the conduct of courts in the absence of the justice, construed. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635.

39. Defective work in constructing a sidewalk underground not apparent upon inspection. Chapman v. Salfissberg, 111 Ill. App. 102. Equity will not relieve a party when he has had a plain, speedy and adequate remedy at law, which by his own negligence he has not availed himself of. Presley v. Dean [Idaho] 79 P. 71. Injunction to restrain service of an execution, on the ground that the judgment was entered by mistake, was refused where the mistake could only have happened through the neglect of the plaintiff or his counsel, no fraud being charged. Hearn v. Canning [R. I.] 61 A. 602.

40. Even if it be conceded that the plaintiff took his right to appeal by an unavoidable accident, that does not amount to anything unless the judgment from which he appealed was wrong or there was something which made it inequitable for the defendant to enforce the judgment. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Newman [Ark.] 84 S. W. 727.

41. Not to restrain judgment of a lower court where defendant had ample opportunity to appeal. Henion v. Pohl, 113 Ill. App. 100. Not to restrain the collection of a judgment by one who claimed money held by a garnishee. Radzinzki v. Fry, 111 Ill. App. 645. Not to restrain the prosecution of action to collect taxes against a foreign corporation on the ground that it was not liable therefor. Scottish Union & National Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 196 U. S. 611, 49 Law. Ed. 619.

42. Henman v. Westheimer, 110 Mo. App. 191, 85 S. W. 101. This rule applies only when the judgment creditor threatens to enforce collection and nobody is involved except the judgment creditor and debtor and an injunction issued when a garnishee was involved who was threatened with suits by various claimants. Pfeiffer v. McCullough, 115 Ill. App. 251.

43, 44. Henman v. Westheimer, 110 Mo. App. 191, 85 S. W. 101.

45. Levy on fresh and refrigerated meats held to be within this rule. Florida Packing & Ice Co. v. Carney [Fla.] 38 So. 602.

46. Florida Packing & Ice Co. v. Carney [Fla.] 38 So. 602.

47. Injunction to restrain a sale on a levy was refused where the complainant was the record holder of the title at the time of levy and the land was levied on as the land of another, since it did not raise such a cloud as to require it. Magoffin v. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n [Tex. Civ. App.] 54 S. W. 843.

48. Where at the sale the judgment creditor cast doubts upon the judgment debtor's title to the land being sold, the sale was enjoined until the question of title there raised could be determined on the ground that it was inequitable for the creditor to use legal process to sell and then cheapen it by starting this question as to the res to be sold. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 938.

49. Laws of North Dakota (Rev. Codes 1899, § 5845). Tracy v. Scott [N. D.] 101 N. W. 905.

50. U. S. Rev. St. § 720; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 581. A decree of the Federal court restraining the use of property by a party to whom the state court had given the right was held not to be within the statute, since the ownership of the property had changed since the state decision. Oman v. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 64; Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. v. Oman, 134 F. 441. This section applies so as to prevent the issuing of an injunction, not only to a state court but it also prohibits a restraining order against parties to a suit in a state court. Security Trust Co. of Camden v. Union Trust Co., 134 F. 301. This prohibition extends to the entire proceedings of the state court from the commencement of the suit until the execution issued on the judgment decree is satisfied. Id. Statute ruptcy cases.[51] A Federal court will not enjoin the prosecution of action in a state court which does not interfere with any property over which the Federal court has acquired jurisdiction.[52] Where proceedings in rem are instituted in both Federal and state courts, the court which first takes possession of the res acquires exclusive jurisdiction.[53] An injunction will issue from a state court to restrain the enforcement of a decree or judgment of a Federal court which was obtained by fraud.[54] The rule that an injunction will not issue from one court which interferes with the judgments or decrees of a court of co-ordinate or concurrent jurisdiction, having equal power to grant the relief sought by injunction, exists by statute[55] and at common law.[56] Injunction, however, may issue in cases of concurrent jurisdiction if equity can give a more perfect remedy or better trial than a court of law.[57] An injunction issued by the court of one state does not control the court of another state,[58] nor will an injunction issue to enforce laws of another state.[59] Injunction will not held not to apply to proceedings of a state railroad commission which had been held by the highest state court to be only an administrative agency with quasi-judicial powers. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Railroad Commission [C. C. A.] 138 F. 327. In cases where the Federal court acts in aid of its own jurisdiction and to render its decree effectual, it may notwithstanding U. S. Rev. St. § 720 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 581) restrain all proceedings in a state court which would have the effect of defeating or impairing its jurisdiction. Julian v. Central Trust Co., 193 U. S. 93, 48 Law. Ed. 629. A Federal court enjoined the sale of land on judgments rendered in a state court on causes of action arising after the confirmation of a foreclosure sale, when the decree of sale and confirmation showed that the Federal court intended to retain jurisdiction so far as was necessary to determine all liens and demands to be paid by the purchaser at the sale. Id. While a Federal court will not attempt to restrain a state court in a pending proceeding, the statute may not be construed to limit the power of a Federal court to restrain parties from instituting proceedings in any court. Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F. 209. Statute held not to apply where the judgment in the state court was obtained by fraud, or other equitable grounds existed, where Federal court would have jurisdiction to grant relief were the judgment that of a Federal court. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39. A Federal court will take equitable jurisdiction to prevent irreparable injury to property, even though its decree may operate incidentally to restrain criminal proceedings in state courts. Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F. 209.

51. Security Trust Co. of Camden v. Union Trust Co., 134 F. 301. In the New Jersey district court of the United States, a referee in bankruptcy has no power to grant an injunction to stay proceedings in a state court. General Orders in Bankruptcy No. 12, § 3, providing that an application for an injunction to stay proceedings of a court or officer of the United States or of a state shall be heard and determined by the judge and rules of New Jersey district court vesting referees with such jurisdiction as may be delegated under the bankruptcy act and the general orders of the supreme court, construed. In re Siebert, 133 F. 781.

52. Suit in state court was for removal of trustees to whom Federal court had ordered money to be paid. Copeland v. Bruning [C. C. A.] 127 F. 550.

53. A state court will enjoin a sale of property in the possession of receivers appointed by it, under an attachment obtained in a suit in a Federal court prior to the receivership proceedings. Beardslee v. Ingraham, 94 N. Y. S. 937. Where a Federal court and a state court have jurisdiction, the tribunal whose jurisdiction first attaches holds in exclusion of the other until its duty is fully performed, and the jurisdiction involved is fully exhausted. Security Trust Co. of Camden v. Union Trust Co., 134 F. 301. While a state court will not enjoin a party from prosecuting his demands in a Federal court which has acquired jurisdiction (Shaw v. Frey [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 811), it may compel discovery from such a party, if under its jurisdiction, of matters necessary to a fair trial of the action in the Federal court, and may to that end enjoin the prosecution of the action in the Federal court pending the discovery. Id.

54. The fraud must be extrinsic or collateral to the questions examined. Keith v. Alger [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 71.

55. Kentucky (Civ. Code Prac. section 285). Nairin v. Kentucky Heating Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 676. Under the Constitution of Texas it was held that a district court might not enjoin actions at law in the count court within the jurisdiction of the county court. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 1100.

56. Nairin v. Kentucky Heating Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 676.

57. Grafton & B. R. Co. v. Buckhannon & N. R. Co., 56 W. Va. 458, 49 S. E. 532.

58. Injunction will not lie to restrain a garnishee action on the ground that an injunction to restrain the garnishee from paying has issued in another state. National Tube Co. v. Smith [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 717. An injunction will not issue to restrain obedience to orders of a foreign court where it does not appear that that court had no jurisdiction to make them. Johnstown Min. Co. v. Morse, 45 Misc. 110, 91 N. Y. S. 536.

59. Refused to restrain garnishment of issue to restrain a party from prosecuting an action in a foreign court where the ground for injunction can be set up as a defense in the foreign court.[60] Ministerial officers of the United States may be bound by an injunction issued by a State court having jurisdiction.[61]

(§ 2) C. Public, official and municipal acts[62] that are wrongful and unlawful may be restrained as where trespass is committed in the guise of police surveillance,[63] or discretion is being abused[64] or are illegal,[65] or fraudulent contract is being performed,[66] or a wrongful use is being made of municipal property,[67] or the municipal funds are being improperly used.[68] But lawful acts[69] or acts in the execution of lawful administrative[70] or legislative powers, will not be so restrained.[71] Exhibition of the photograph of an innocent person in a rogue's gallery will be restrained.[72] The wages earned in Pennsylvania which were exempt by the law of that state. National Tube Co. v. Smith [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 717.

60. Prosecution of a proceeding to determine the right to a patent in U. S. Patent Office. Griffith v. Dodgson, 93 N. Y. S. 155.

61. An order by a state court enjoining a creditor from collecting a claim from the United States and appointing a receiver to do so, makes it unlawful for the secretary of the treasury to pay him, and such payment did not discharge the United States and such order does not contravene the United States statute (Rev. St. § 3477) forbidding and making void assignments of claims against the United States. People's Trust Co. v. United States, 38 Ct. Cl. 359.

62. See 4 C. L. 102.

63. Granted where officers interfered with customers by statements of the reputation of the place and threats of possible raids. Delaney v. Flood, 45 Misc. 97, 91 N. Y. S. 672. Stationing officers in saloon and restaurant under plea of inspection but in such manner as to damage plaintiff's business, enjoined. Hale v. Burns, 101 App. Div. 101, 91 N. Y. S. 929. Interference with business of complainant under guise of police inspection. Craushaw v. McAdoo, 47 Misc. 420, 94 N. Y. S. 386. Proper police surveillance will not be enjoined as where the complainant had a restaurant in a court with houses of ill-fame to which there was but one entrance which was guarded by police, who thereby interfered with the restaurant business. Pon v. Wittman [Cal.] 81 P. 984. Injunction to restrain police surveillance which interfered with complainant's restaurant refused where it was not clear from doubt but that the complainant had such relations with the houses of ill-repute, which the police were watching, as to preclude him from coming into equity with clean hands. Id. Injunction against repeated visits of police to ascertain if plaintiff was selling liquor contrary to law refused. Adams v. Chesapeake Oyster & Fish Co. [Colo.] 82 P. 528, following Adams v. Crorlr, 29 Colo. 488.

64. Taking up brick walks in good repair and ordering cement walk relaid, the only object being to correct the grade and slope of the walk, held an abuse of discretion, and injunction would issue. Detmers v. Columbus, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 657.

65. Contract for street lighting. Meyer v. Boonville, 162 Ind. 165, 70 N. E. 146.

66. Where the successful bidder for a contract was allowed materially to change his bid, an injunction was granted at the instance of an unsuccessful bidder. Mohr v. Chicago, 114 Ill. App. 283. Injunction will lie to restrain the execution of a contract for public work awarded under different specifications from those under which bids were advertised and subsequent to the time named for receiving bids. State v. Board of Education, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 345. Although injunction may be the proper remedy for preventing the award of a contract for public work to another than the lowest bidder, it does not lie where the suit is brought by the lowest bidder, unless he sue in his capacity of taxpayer, or become the beneficiary of a suit brought by a taxpayer whom he may agree to indemnify against costs and expenses. Carmichael & Co. v. McCourt, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 561.

67. Use of village hall for sale of groceries restrained. Nerlien v. Brooten [Minn.] 102 N. W. 867.

68. Allowing village marshal to spend part of his time as a salesman at village expense enjoined. Nerlien v. Brooten [Minn.] 102 N. W. 867. Injunction issued at the instance of taxpayers to restrain a continued disposition of a school fund contrary to law. Clark v. Cline [Ga.] 51 S. E. 617. Payment to a railroad to induce it to come to a town. Town of Adel v. Woodall [Ga.] 50 S. E. 481. Injunction lies at the instance of a taxpayer to prevent the illegal disposition of public funds. Sears v. James [Or.] 82 P. 14.

69. Enforcement of N. Y. law (Pen. Code, §§ 259, 260, 265), prohibiting public games of baseball on Sunday. Brighton Athletic Club v. McAdoo, 94 N. Y. S. 391. Removal of fruit and flower stands which obstructed travel in public highway upheld. Pagames v. Chicago, 111 Ill. App. 590.

70. Injunction refused to enjoin posting of officers for the inspection of a hotel where liquors were sold. Delaney v. Flood, 45 Misc. 97, 91 N. Y. S. 672.

71. Must be beyond the scope of corporate authority, and the passage of the ordinance must work irreparable injury. Rico v. Snider, 134 F. 953.

72. Itzkovitch v. Whitaker [La.] 39 So. 499.

Contra: See In re Molineux, 177 N. Y. 395, 69 N. E. 727, where the decision was put upon the ground that such photographs constituted a public record whose permanency could not be impaired. See, also, Owen v. Partridge, 40 Misc. 415, 82 N. Y. S. 248.

performance of contracts by municipalities will not be enjoined unless a "clear violation of law" is established.[73]

Acts of boards or officers,[74] executive,[75] administrative,[76] or judicial, will not ordinarily be controlled,[77] yet in case of fraud[78] or irreparable injury,[79] or where action was required to remedy unauthorized acts, such acts may be restrained or compelled.[80] An injunction will issue to restrain a city official from acting under an ordinance where certiorari would not lie to review the proceedings, pending a suit to determine his right so to act.[81] Injunction will lie to protect property in the possession of a court through its officer.[82]

Elections and right to office.[83]—Injunction will issue to restrain interference with the discharge of the duties of a public office by the incumbent found to be in rightful possession thereof.[84] An injunction issued by a Federal court restraining a commissioner's court from publishing an order declaring the result of a local option election does not annul the election.[85]

Taxes.[86]—As a general rule, injunction will not issue to prevent the collection of taxes,[87] but it will, in case of a void tax or assessment,[88] such as one levied under an unconstitutional statute which had not been declared unconstitutional at the time

73. Contract for city lighting upheld. Laws of New York 1891, pp. 199, 243, c. 105, providing for the charter of the City of Buffalo, construed. Stockton v. Buffalo, 95 N. Y. S. 509. A clear case of fraud or mismanagement must be made out and the performance of a lighting contract was upheld. McMaster v. Waynesboro [Ga.] 50 S. E. 122.

74. See 4 C. L. 102.

75. State v. Ross [Wash.] 81 P. 865.

76. Releasing of public land by State land commissioner. State v. Ross [Wash.] 81 P. 865. Injunction will not issue to prevent a municipal board from canvassing the returns of an election. State v. Carlson [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1004. Assessor acting under a valid statute. McConnell v. Hampton [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1092. Injunction will not lie upon the suit of a taxpayer to prevent repair of a bridge by county commissioners, which is located within municipal limits, but not on ground belonging to the city. State v. Carlisle, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 627. Averments in a bill by a taxpayer to restrain a prison superintendent from making use of public money and convict labor for his own profit, that he threatens to and will continue so to act, do not warrant the issuance of an injunction, since the taxpayer may not intervene until the superintendent's illegal bills are presented to the state and are about to be paid by it. Sears v. James [Or.] 82 P. 14.

77. County commissioners acting as board of equalization for the correction of assessment rolls. Ricketts v. Crewdson [Wyo.] 79 P. 1042.

78. Ricketts v. Crewdson [Wyo.] 79 P. 1042.

79. Under the Washington Law (Code Pub. Instruction [Laws 1897, c. 118, §§ 27, 105]), authorizing the State Board of Education to adopt a uniform system of text books and providing that after adoption books should not be changed for five years, it was held that the plaintiff who had a contract for the supply of books was not entitled to an injunction unless it was irreparably damaged by violation thereof. Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 399, 78 P. 1096.

80. Where a board was illegally constituted and so acted without authority, mandamus was held to be an inadequate remedy and an injunction issued to compel a canvassing board to act. Mason v. Byrley [Ky.] 84 S. W. 767.

81. Removal of fence as being in violation of an ordinance regulating the height of same. Jackson v. Miller [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 1019.

82. Receiver. Vestel v. Tasker [Ga.] 51 S. E. 300.

83. See 4 C. L. 103.

84. Title to the office may not be tried in a suit for an injunction. Scott v. Sheehan, 145 Cal. 691, 79 P. 353.

85. McHam v. Love [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 78, 87 S. W. 875.

86. See 4 C. L. 104.

87. Not when the assessor omitted to attach his affidavit to the assessment roll. Douglas v. Fargo [N. D.] 101 N. W. 919. The mere fact that a tax or proposed assessment is or will be illegal does not justify a resort to equity. McConnell v. Hampton [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1092. Since an injunction to restrain levy of a tax refused, action at law was held to be adequate. Torgrinson v. Norwich School Dist. No. 31 [N. D.] 103 N. W. 414. Violation of certain Ohio statutes prohibiting the pollution of streams, etc., by sewerage by a village or its officers or agents, held not to justify an injunction to set aside the sewer assessment. Clencay v. Norwood, 137 F. 962. Not to restrain collection of tax where no complaint to the board of equalization had been made. Ricketts v. Crewdson [Wyo.] 79 P. 1042. Injunction refused where a street improvement assessment was made after valid proceedings on the part of the city, although in the process of grading land of the complainant was unlawfully but unintentionally encroached upon. Davis v. Silverton [Or.] 82 P. 16. Injunction will not issue from a Federal court to restrain collection of a state railroad the levy was made.[89] Injunction will not issue where part only of a tax is illegal, unless the legal portion has been tendered or paid.[90]

(§ 2) D. Enforcement of statutes or ordinances[91] may be restrained if they are invalid.[92] Injunction may issue to restrain the enforcement of an invalid ordinance to avoid multiplicity of suits, where the interests of the complainants and many other persons are identical and injuriously affected by the ordinance[93] and are the same as those of the public in general, within the municipal limits.[94]

(§ 2) E. Exercise of right of eminent domain[95] without prior compliance with the requirements of the law, will be prevented.[96]

(§ 2) F. Acts affecting rights in highways and public or quasi-public places.[97]—Injunction will lie at the instance of an abutting property owner to prevent an interference with his property rights in a street, which amounts to a public nuisance and by which he is specially injured,[98] or at the suit of the dedicator of franchise tax. Coulter v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 196 U. S. 599, 49 Law. Ed. 615.

88. Collection of sewer assessment under W. Va. Laws (acts 1901, c. 151, p. 420) restrained. Cain v. Elkins [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 898. Arkansas statute (Sand. & H. Dig. § 3778), authorizing an injunction against unauthorized taxes, etc., held to give Federal court equitable jurisdiction. Humes v. Little Rock, 138 F. 929. Tax upon the use of trading stamps held to be unauthorized and void. Hewin v. Atlanta, 121 Ga. 723, 49 S. E. 765. A tax extended upon an assessment made by a body which had no authority at law to make the assessment was held to be absolutely void and the collection of it enjoined. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co. v. Vollman, 213 Ill. 609, 73 N. E. 360.

89. Kirkley v. Parker, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 371. A Federal court will issue an injunction to restrain an improper apportionment and certification of a state tax to the counties, as being unconstitutional. Coulter v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 196 U. S. 599, 49 Law. Ed. 615. Rhode Island Pub. Laws 1903, p. 33, c. 110, providing for the abolition of school districts and vesting of the property in the towns and for a tax therefor, construed, and, it was held that, since the mandatory requirements of the statute had not been followed, the assessment of the tax was void. Tefft v. Lewis [R. I.] 60 A. 243.

90. Douglas v. Fargo [N. D.] 101 N. W. 919.

91. See 4 C. L. 104. Compare Municipal Corporations, 4 C. L. 720.

92. Roby v. Chicago, 215 Ill. 604, 74 N. E. 768; Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F. 209. Injunction will not lie to restrain a franchise ordinance unless the franchise constitutes a wrongful squandering or surrendering of money or property of a city so that taxation will be increased thereby. Clark v. Interstate Independent Tel. Co. [Neb.] 101 N. W. 977. Automobile license ordinance. City of Chicago v. Banker, 112 Ill. App. 94. An ordinance granting a railroad the right to allow trains to stand 30 minutes at the intersection of streets enjoined. Gilcrest v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831. Municipal authorities restrained from a continuous trespass by enforcing an invalid statute. Riley v. Greenwood [S. C.] 51 S. E. 532. Ordinance requiring water company to supply certain institutions with water free and fixing water rates, held to be void. City of Chicago v. Rogers Park Water Co., 214 Ill. 212, 73 N. E. 375. Payment of an increased salary of a city judge by municipality under a statute held to be unconstitutional and enjoined. Wolf v. Hope, 210 Ill. 50, 70 N. E. 1082. Ordinance in regard to use of streets by street railways held valid and injunction refused. Roby v. Chicago, 215 Ill. 604, 74 N. E. 768. Ordinance requiring license fee for oil tank wagons upheld and injunction refused. Spiegler v. Chicago, 216 Ill. 114, 74 N. E. 718. Injunction refused to enjoin municipal officers from enforcing a building ordinance on the ground that the plaintiff could assert his rights by way of defense at law. City of Sylvania v. Hilton [Ga.] 51 S. E. 744. The action must be beyond the corporate power and must work irreparable injury. Rico v. Snider, 134 F. 953. Various taxpayers need not pay a void tax and bring separate actions for trespass, but may join in one suit to enjoin the collection of the tax. Hewin v. Atlanta, 121 Ga. 723, 49 S. E. 765.

93. An ordinance which required a license fee from oil tank wagons was held valid and an injunction refused. Spiegler v. Chicago, 216 Ill. 114, 74 N. E. 718.

94. A contract for street lighting enjoined. Meyer v. Boonville, 162 Ind. 165, 70 N. E. 146.

95. See 4 C. L. 104.

96. Taking property without due process of law. Riley v. Greenwood [S. C.] 51 S. E. 532. To restrain the laying out of a road over the plaintiff's land where the statute had not been followed and so no valid condemnation of the land. Plowman v. Dallas County [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 487, 88 S. W. 252.

97. See 4 C. L. 104. See, also, Highways and Streets, 3 C. L. 1593.

98. To restrain a railroad from laying its tracks in a street so as seriously to interfere with, if not destroy, the complainant's easement of access to its property. Tennessee Brewing Co. v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., P. R. Co., 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 109. To restrain a railroad from trespassing on real estate and unlawful use of streets to the injury of an abutter. Xavier Salty v. Louisiana R. & Nav. Co. [La.] 38 So. 427. Cutting a channel through a park to restrain diversion to other purposes.[99] One physical construction of a grade crossing authorized by law cannot be enjoined as a public nuisance, but if the railroad company exhibits an intention not to comply with the provisions of law with respect to safe-guarding it, injunction will issue at the instance of the municipal authorities.[1]

(§ 2) G. Acts of quasi-public and private corporations or associations.[2]—Injunction will not lie to interfere with the proceedings of a corporation acting regularly under valid by-laws.[3] An injunction will issue at the instance of a minority stockholder to prevent unlawful acts by the majority stockholders,[4] but an injunction will not issue unless it is averred that the complainant has exhausted all the remedy provided by the by-laws and constitution of the society or corporation.[5] A minority stockholder may in a proper case have an action at law against the corporation restrained.[6]

(§ 2) H. Breach or enforcement of contract or of trust.[7]—An injunction will not lie to restrain the breach of a personal contract[8] or one relating to personal property[9] or to compel specific performance of such a contract where there is an adequate remedy at law.[10] A mandatory injunction will lie to enforce the specific performance of contracts relating to real estate and interests therein.[11] Injunction will lie to enforce negative covenants in agreements by prohibiting their breach, such as valid a street enjoined. Wilkinson v. Dunkley-Williams Co. [Mich.] 103 N. W. 170. An injunction was refused to restrain a public nuisance consisting of a building erected in a street at the instance of an owner of land on the opposite side of the street whose damage was not special but the same as that of the public in general. Labry v. Gilmour [Ky.] 89 S. W. 231. Injunction will not lie to restrain the laying of a spur railway track in a public street, where no abutter objects. Herzog v. P., C., C. & St. L. R. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 527.

99. Bayard v. Bancroft [Del.] 62 A. 6.

1. N. J. Railroad law, § 9226 (P. L. 1903, pp. 650, 659), relating to grade crossings, construed. Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson County v. Central R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 303. A preliminary injunction will not issue to restrain a railroad from relocating its roadbed upon a portion of a public highway and changing the location of an established grade crossing. Baldwin Tp. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 210 Pa. 86, 59 A. 478.

2. See 4 C. L. 105. Compare title Corporations, 3 C. L. 880.

3. Investigation by Board of Trade directors of charge against a member. Board of Trade of Chicago v. Weare, 105 Ill. App. 289. Stockholders of a corporation may not be enjoined from voting on the ground that the persons for whom they vote to manage it may possibly abuse their trust. Lucas v. Milliken, 139 F. 816.

4. To prevent sale of stock of an insane person for failure to pay an assessment where the holder of a majority of the stock acted fraudulently. Weber v. Della Mountain Min. Co. [Idaho] 81 P. 931. Voting upon the majority stock and the holding of an election of officers until the right to vote on the majority stock was determined, enjoined. Villamil v. Hirsch, 138 F. 690. Abandonment of an ancient community ditch enjoined. Candelaria v. Vallejos [N. M.] 81 P. 589. Bill must contain an averment of collusion or fraud on the part of the managing officers or of a majority of stockholders before equity will interfere to restrain acts of management of a corporation or society. Coss v. Mansfield Lodge No. 56, B. P. O. E., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 11.

5. Secret society. Coss v. Mansfield Lodge No. 56, B. P. O. E., 4 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 11.

6. A minority stockholder is entitled to preliminary injunction to restrain a suit at law against the corporation by a firm composed of stockholders who formed a majority of both the stockholders and directors who made and approved the contract, nor is he estopped by the fact that he voted in favor of allowing the defendants to do the work, since the contract did not name the price for the work. Booth v. Land Filling & Imp. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 767.

7. See 4 C. L. 106.

8. Newspaper carrier route contract. Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co., 45 Or. 520, 78 P. 737. The negative enforcement of contract by restraining the defendant from acts other than those which will result in a specific performance of his agreement will be exercised only when upon a fair construction of the contract it affirmatively appears that the service called for comes under the head of special, unique and extraordinary. Taylor Iron & Steel Co. v. Nichols [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 946. Interference with right to use tracks under a contract. Schenectady R. Co. v. United Traction Co., 101 App. Div. 277, 91 N. Y. S. 651.

9. Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co., 45 Or. 520, 78 P. 737. Injunction refused to compel specific performance of a contract for purchase of beer exclusively from plaintiff. Seattle Brewing & Malting Co. v. Jensen, 36 Wash. 462, 78 P. 1007.

10. Harlow v. Oregonian Pub. Co., 45 Or. 520, 78 P. 737.

agreements in restraint of trade[12] or covenants in mortgages[13] or agreements restricting the use of real estate,[14] even without proof of present or future financial loss.[15] The right to invoke relief by injunction in such case is not absolute but is to a certain extent discretionary[16] and governed by the same general principles which control the enforcement of specific performance of contracts.[17]

Third persons may be restrained from causing a covenantor to violate his contract.[18] A contract giving the exclusive right to sell articles in a given territory will be protected by injunction against third persons.[19]

(§ 2) I. Interference with property, business or comfort of private persons.[20] —Equity will prevent the destruction of the business of an individual by illegal combinations formed to prevent competition.[21] A statute is necessary to give in-

11. Performance of contract for gas in an oil well enforced. Carnegie Natural Gas Co. v. South Penn Oil Co., 56 W. Va. 402, 49 S. E. 548. Contract by married woman for the sale of her separate estate. Dunn v. Stowers [Va.] 51 S. E. 366. Injunction will lie to compel the specific performance of a lease. Carnegie Natural Gas Co. v. South Penn Oil Co., 56 W. Va. 402, 49 S. E. 548. Specific performance decreed where plaintiff was allowed to enter under an oral agreement with an agent of a corporation which accepted the agreed rent and allowed the plaintiff to invest a large amount in the property. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 419. Where the effect of the restraint sought was practically to compel performance of agreements by the defendant which were not binding upon complainant injunction was refused. Becker v. Gilbert [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 29. For a full discussion, see the topic Specific Performance, 4 C. L. 1494.

12. Covenant not to engage in a like business for a given time in a given area. Andrews v. Kingsbury, 112 Ill. App. 518; Salzman v. Siegelman, 102 App. Div. 406, 92 N. Y. S. 844. The enforcement of covenants like the one now under consideration is not favored by the law or public policy, and therefore such covenants will be strictly construed. Markert & Co. v. Jefferson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 398. A contract in restraint of track not limited in time or space held to be invalid and injunction refused. Roberts v. Lemont [Neb.] 102 N. W. 770. Not to restrain engaging in a similar business and soliciting old customers where the contract was for the sale of a laundry business without negative and restrictive covenants. Such covenants will not be implied. MacMartin v. Stevens, 37 Wash. 616, 79 P. 1099. Covenants of a negative nature in a jockey apprenticeship indenture held not to be within the rule and injunction was refused. Thomas v. Baird, 94 N. Y. S. 47.

13. Injunction refused where the mortgage recited that failure to buy domestic beer of the mortgagee should work a default but contained no personal covenant so to buy. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n v. Rahlf, 213 Ill. 549, 73 N. E. 414.

14. Will be enforced where it will not impose an inequitable, unjust and useless burden upon the owner of the lot. Robinson v. Edgell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1027. Injunction was refused and complainant left to an action for damages where restrictions in a deed were mutually misconstrued and he alone among the adjacent property owners objected to the defendant's violation of them, the remedy at law not being inadequate. Righter v. Winters [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 770. Mandatory injunction to enforce building restrictions. Morrow v. Hasselman [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 369. A covenant against the sale of intoxicating liquor or its manufacture on the land sold may be enforced by injunction, unless the plaintiff has been deprived of his right by his own conduct or laches. Mooter v. Whitman, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 141.

15. Andrews v. Kingsbury, 112 Ill. App. 518; Righter v. Winters [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 770.

Contra: Damage must be shown to be irreparable. Samuel Cupples Envelope Co. v. Lackner, 99 App. Div. 231, 90 N. Y. S. 954.

16. Robinson v. Edgell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1027.

17. Will be refused if the enforcement would be, through changed circumstances and lapse of time, an unjust, inequitable and useless burden upon the owner of the lot. Robinson v. Edgell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1027.

18. Procuring one to break a contract as to the sale of patent medicines enjoined. Garst v. Charles, 187 Mass. 144, 72 N. E. 839. Sale of patent medicine at cut rates and in other than original packages. Dr. Miles Medical Co. v. Goldthwaite, 133 F. 794. Injunction will issue to restrain the employment of another's servant whom the defendant enticed from the other's service for the purpose of learning his trade secrets. Taylor Iron & Steel Co. v. Nichols [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 946. Will not issue to prevent the discharge of an employe by an employer by reason of a contract calling for such discharge made with labor unions. Mills v. U. S. Printing Co., 99 App. Div. 605, 91 N. Y. S. 185.

19. Corbin v. Taussig, 137 F. 151.

20. See 4 C. L. 107.

21. Where through intimidation of a brewing association whose purpose was to prevent competition and fix prices and control distribution to retail dealers, a company was about to yield to the demands of the association whereby the price at which the plaintiff had purchased its beer would be greatly increased and in all probability they would be shut out by the association from the purchase of it at any price and their business ruined thereby, an injunction issued restraining the doing or continuing of the wrongful acts as specified. Leonard v. Abner-Drury Brewing Co., 25 App. D. C. 161. An injunction was refused to restrain the junctive relief against contracts in restraint of trade,[22] since at common law there was no affirmative relief against them, even for one specially injured thereby.[23] An injunction will issue to prevent strikers from interfering with the plaintiff's business or property or intimidating his employes,[24] also to prevent a conspiracy to boycott and injure and destroy his business,[25] but one will not issue to restrain the organization of a strike.[26] An injunction will issue to prevent an improper interference with the plaintiff's business,[27] or to restrain unfair discrimination by a public service company.[28]

Trade[29] and firm names will be protected on the ground of unfair competition,[30] but the injunction should not extend further than is necessary to protect the rights of the plaintiff.[31]

members of an association of live stock dealers, established to promote and protect the interest of live stock dealers, which had expelled the defendant for misconduct from refusing to have dealings in accordance with the by-laws of the association on the ground that the association was not a combination in restraint of trade, nor did its action amount to a boycott as provided in the Missouri Law (Rev. St. 1899, § 8879). Gladish v. Bridgeford [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 77.

22. It was held that in the absence of statute, the Attorney General might not maintain a suit to prevent the performance of a contract establishing insurance rates which was in restraint of trade and so against public policy and that the fact that private corporations were the offenders made no difference. McCarter v. Firemen's Ins. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 705.

23. "The common law does not treat agreements in restraint of trade as being illegal in the ordinary sense of the word, but merely as being unenforceable." McCarter v. Firemen's Ins. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 705.

24. Ideal Mfg. Co. v. Donovan [Mich.] 102 N. W. 372. Threatening by means of force and violence, use of opprobrious epithets or means of intimidation, whether upon the premises of the complainant or elsewhere, for the purposes of intimidating employes and forcing them to quit another's employ, restrained. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Gee, 139 F. 582.

Allegations in a bill to enjoin strikers that the strikers stationed themselves in the approaches to the complainant's place of business and began a system of intimidation by warnings and menaces so that the complainant's employes were so intimidated and frightened that they unwillingly quit work, were held sufficient to charge acts of the defendant to give the court jurisdiction. O'Brien v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 108. That a few members of a union indulged in violence during a strike does not authorize an injunction against the union which had passed a resolution deprecating violence. Karges Furniture Co. v. Amalgamated Woodworkers' Local Union No. 131 [Ind.] 75 N. E. 877.

25. My Maryland Lodge No. 186 v. Adt [Md.] 59 A. 721; Loewe v. California State Federation of Labor, 139 F. 71; Christensen v. Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Co., 110 Ill. App. 61. Injunction issued to restrain strikers from maintaining a boycott of the complainant's restaurant and maliciously inducing by persuasion, fraud and coercion patrons and others not to deal with him. Jensen v. Cooks' & Waiters' Union of Seattle [Wash.] 81 P. 1069. A court may in a proper case enjoin acts or conduct which interfere with and injure the trade and business of the complainant, but a court will not order an injunction which alone in general and sweeping terms enjoins a defendant from interfering with or injuring the business of the defendant. Such an order when made is a part of an order for an injunction to restrain certain particular and specified acts. Builders' Painting & Decorating Co. v. Advisory Board Bldg. Trades of Chicago, 116 Ill. App. 264. Injunction restraining "picketing" and "boycotting" unqualifiedly held improper. Mills v. U. S. Printing Co., 99 App. Div. 605, 91 N. Y. S. 185.

26. Mills v. U. S. Printing Co., 99 App. Div. 605, 91 N. Y. S. 185.

27. Improper use of trading stamps of complainant enjoined. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Mechanics' Clothing Co., 135 F. 833; Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Temple, 137 F. 992. Injunction will lie to restrain an unlawful interference with plaintiff's business by the enforcing of an agreement by members of an illegal combination, viz., causing labor unions to call out union employees of the plaintiff. Employing Printers' Club v. Doctor Blosser Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 353.

28. Discontinuance of service to complainants but not to others on same line held unfair discrimination by a railroad and enjoined. Agee & Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 680.

29. See 4 C. L. 108. In an action to restrain unfair competition in trade, no proprietary interest in the words or device is necessary in order to have an injunction issue. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 [Cal.] 380, 78 Pac. 879. Use of trade name enjoined. Devlin v. Peek, 135 F. 167. Injunction granted to restrain the use of a corporate name so as to deceive the public and exact similitude was held not to be required as a condition of relief. Chicago Landlords' Protective Bureau v. Koebel, 112 Ill. App. 21. Use by defendant's solicitors of a badge similar to that used by employes of plaintiff. Morton v. Morton [Cal.] 82 P. 664.

30. Will issue to restrain pendente lite the use of a firm name by retiring partner till the right to its use is determined. Steinfeld v. National Shirt Waist Co., 99 App. Div. 286, 90 N. Y. S. 964. Boxes, labels, etc., used by the defendant, held to be so similar to complainants' as to be evidence of an in-

Trade secrets will be protected by mandatory injunction.[32]

Copyrights will be protected by injunction.[33]

Waste[34] may be prevented by injunction.[35]

Incorporeal property.[36]—Injunction will lie to prevent the malicious diversion and waste of subterranean waters.[37]

Easements and rights of way.[38]—An injunction will issue to restrain an unlawful or excessive use of an easement[39] or even any use thereof,[40] and also to restrain an actual or threatened interference with the enjoyment of,[41] or to remove an obstruction of, an easement[42] or right of way.[43]

Nuisance.[44]—Equity has original and statutory jurisdiction to restrain a nuisance[45] at the instance of the public[46] if the nuisance be criminal or public,[47] or to restrain a public nuisance at the instance of a property owner specially affected or injured thereby,[48] despite the fact that certiorari or criminal proceedings may be resorted to.[49] Injunction will also issue to restrain a private nuisance,[50] even where the defendant is solvent,[51] but not for a mere diminution of property value by the tent to deceive purchasers and to constitute unfair competition. Bickmore Gall Cure Co. v. Karns [C. C. A.] 134 F. 833. For a full discussion, see the topic Trade-Marks and Trade-Names, 4 C. L. 1689.

31. To prevent use of a similar tradename. Dodge Stationery Co. v. Dodge, 145 Cal. 380, 78 P. 879.

32. Where railroad companies turned over blue prints sent them for inspection by one car company to a rival company, an injunction issued restraining the use of the prints or copies and ordering their return to the owner. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Standard Steel Car Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 4. Injunction issued to enjoin the use of information as to trade secrets gained from an employe of another whom the defendant had persuaded to divulge the same. Taylor Iron & Steel Co. v. Nichols [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 946. A restraining order pendente lite granted against an employe and a company which had enticed him into its employ and to divulge his former employe's trade secrets. Id.

33. Infringement of copyright of a city directory enjoined. Sampson & Murdock Co. v. Seaver-Radford Co., 134 F. 890. See, also, the topic Copyrights, 5 C. L. 761.

34. See 4 C. L. 108.

35. Tenant restrained from removing fixtures to which he had lost his right, at the suit of a purchaser of the real estate. Davis v. Carsley Mfg. Co., 112 Ill. App. 112. See, also, the topic Waste, 4 C. L. 1823. A county which has acquired a tax lien upon real estate is entitled to an injunction to restrain waste thereof by the removal of buildings without first becoming a purchaser at a tax sale. Lancaster County v. Fitzgerald [Neb.] 104 N. W. 875.

36. See 4 C. L. 110.

37. Gagnon v. French Lick Springs Hotel Co., 163 Ind. 687, 72 N. E. 849.

38. See 4 C. L. 110, also ante, § 2 F, acts affecting rights in highways, etc., and the topic Easements, 5 C. L. 1048.

39. McCullough v. Broad Exch. Co., 101 App. Div. 566, 92 N. Y. S. 533.

40. When an office building was erected covering more than the dominant tenement and the tenants in both parts used the easement, any use thereof was enjoined until the building should be so altered as to permit the easement to be used by the dominant estate only. McCullough v. Broad Exch. Co., 101 App. Div. 566, 92 N. Y. S. 533.

41. Threatened alteration of a building in which plaintiff had an easement. Piro v. Shipley, 211 Pa. 36, 60 A. 325. Right to use a pipe line. Everett Water Co. v. Powers, 37 Wash. 143, 79 P. 617.

42. Fire escape over an alleyway. Schmoels v. Betz [Pa.] 61 A. 525.

43. Right of way over a stairway. Bale v. Todd [Ga.] 50 S. E. 990. Under the Missouri law (Rev. St. 1899, § 3649), providing for injunctions when irreparable injury was threatened or no adequate remedy at law existed it was held that an injunction would issue to restrain the obstructions of a right of way. Downing v. Corcoran [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 114.

44. See 4 C. L. 108. See, also, the topic Nuisance, 4 C. L. 839.

45. Law of Tennessee (Code 1858, § 3403, as amended by Acts 1901, p. 246, c. 139), giving the court discretionary power in actions for damages for a nuisance to grant injunctive relief construed. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co., 113 Tenn. 331, 83 S. W. 658.

46. Pool rooms which disturbed people and injured property in vicinity. Cella v. People, 112 Ill. App. 376.

47. Encroachment upon public street by a building. Village of Oxford v. Willoughby, 181 N. Y. 155, 73 N. E. 677.

48. House of prostitution next plaintiff's vacant lot. Dempsie v. Darling [Wash.] 81 P. 152. Encroachment upon street by show cases and bay windows. Forbes v. Detroit [Mich.] 102 N. W. 740.

Contra: Remedy at law for damages is the only one in the case of a private individual. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Maegerlein, 114 Ill. App. 222.

49. The custom of a railroad of causing trains to stand at the intersection of streets restrained, although authorized by ordinance. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines [Iowa] 102 N. W. 831.

50, 51. Friedman v. Columbia Mach. Works & Malleable Iron Co., 99 App. Div. 504, 91 N. Y. S. 129.

nuisance without irreparable injury.[52] An injunction will not issue to restrain an act not a nuisance per se and which may never become one.[53] To warrant an injunction against an act, its character as a nuisance must first be determined at law.[54] Injunction will lie to restrain a nuisance, although produced by a lawful business.[55]

Trespass.[56]—An injunction will not issue to restrain a threatened trespass upon real estate, but it will where[57] by reason of the continuous character of the threatened invasion, irreparable injury will result[58] or a multiplicity of actions arise.[59] Courts will be slow, however, to grant an injunction to restrain a trespass committed under color of right or title.[60] Injunction will issue to prevent timber cutting when the complainant has a good title[61] and the defendant is insolvent.[62] By statute in Georgia injunction will issue to restrain the cutting of timber when the defendant is insolvent[63] or the damage would be irreparable,[64] or other circumstances exist

52. Nuisance caused by the maintenance of embankment by a riparian owner. American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson, 34 Ind. App. 643, 73 N. E. 625.

Contra: Mandatory injunction will lie to remove a dam, without proof of special damage. Allen v. Stowell, 145 Cal. 666, 79 P. 371.

53. Not to restrain the construction of a wooden building within the fire limits next to the plaintiff's vacant lot. West v. Ponca City Milling Co., 14 Okl. 646, 79 P. 100. A building for storing ice held not to be a nuisance per se. Flood v. Consumer's Co., 105 Ill. App. 559. Not to restrain the erection of a structure on one's own land unless it clearly appears that the business to be carried on therein will be and cannot be so conducted as not to be a nuisance. Id.

54. Flood v. Consumer's Co., 105 Ill. App. 559.

55. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co., 113 Tenn. 331, 83 S. W. 658.

56. See 4 C. L. 109. See, also, the topic Trespass, 4 C. L. 1698.

57. Unless the damage threatened is irremediable and there is no adequate remedy at law. Indian Land & Trust Co. v. Shoenfelt [C. C. A.] 135 F. 484. A mere naked trespass containing no elements of damage which cannot be redressed by an action at law will not be enjoined. Wilson v. Meyer [Ala.] 39 So. 317. Injunction refused where it did not appear that the injury complained of would be repeated or that the dam was being maintained or any threat so to do had been made. Bryant v. Lamb Timber Co., 37 Wash. 168, 79 P. 622. Threats of ouster and destruction of furniture held insufficient grounds for injunctive relief. Kredo v. Phelps, 145 Cal. 526, 78 P. 1044.

58. The mere averment of irreparable damage is futile, without allegations of facts showing that irremediable injury may reasonably be apprehended. Indian Land & Trust Co. v. Shoenfelt [C. C. A.] 135 F. 484. Injunction against a trespass granted upon a bill alleging that the trespass would deprive the plaintiff of the free use of his property and prevent manufacture thereon at a profitable time. Wilson v. Meyer [Ala.] 39 So. 317. Causing overflow of plaintiff's land by obstructing a river with logs, enjoined. White v. Codd [Wash.] 80 P. 836. Mandatory injunction will lie to remove logs floated and left on plaintiff's land. Id. Sweeping debris from a bridge upon plaintiff's premises. Sadlier v. New York, 93 N. Y. S. 579. Eaves projecting over one's line enjoined. Huber v. Stark [Wis.] 102 N. W. 12. Casting of water in any form upon land of another by eaves projecting over one's line, enjoined. Id. To enjoin the diversion of surface water upon one's land by town officials. Smith v. Eaton Tp. [Mich.] 101 N. W. 661. Not in a dispute over a boundary line which was easily to be ascertained and no irreparable injury was involved. Harvey v. Miller, 24 App. D. C. 51. Leaving brushwood cut on plaintiff's land so as to be a menace by reason of forest fires held not to be a continuing trespass and injunction refused. Litchfield v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 1016. Taking mineral ore from land found to belong to the plaintiff enjoined and the question as to actual damage was held to be immaterial. Reiner v. Schroeder, 146 Cal. 411, 80 P. 517. Injunction held to be warranted. Roberts v. Heinsohn [Ga.] 51 S. E. 589.

59. Continuous wrongful overflow of land enjoined. Schwarzenbach v. Electric Water Power Co., 101 App. Div. 345, 92 N. Y. S. 187. The inconvenience resulting from repeated slight trespasses is ground for injunction, though nominal damages would compensate for any one of them. O'Brien v. Murphy [Mass.] 75 N. E. 700.

60. Shields v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 394.

61. Loyd v. Blackburn [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 741; Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164; Marcum v. Marcum [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 246. An injunction was granted restraining timber cutting under the North Carolina Law (Acts 1901, p. 900, c. 666), providing that the writ should issue where the plaintiff showed a bona fide claim based upon evidence sufficient to constitute a prima facie title, the court holding the evidence presented sufficient. Moore v. Fowle [N. C.] 51 S. E. 796.

62. Loyd v. Blackburn [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 741. Insolvency makes such cutting irreparable damage. Marcum v. Marcum [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 246. Injunction to restrain a trespass was refused where there was no allegation of insolvency of the defendant or that there would be a continuing trespass or a multiplicity of suits or irreparable injury. Western Tie & Timber Co. v. Newport Land Co. [Ark.] 87 S. W. 432. Refused where plaintiff's title was questioned and defendant was solvent. Curtin v. Stout [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 810.

63. Civ. Code 1895, § 4927, as amended by which require it, as the prevention of multiplicity of suits, provided[65] the plaintiff has a perfect title to the land or timber.[66]

(§ 2) J. Crimes.[67]—Ordinarily an injunction will not lie to restrain the commission of a crime,[68] but a continuing injury to property or business may be enjoined, although it may also be punishable as a nuisance or other crime.[69] Injunction will lie to prevent irreparable injury, even though the effect is to restrain criminal proceedings.[70]

§ 3. Suits or actions for injunction.[71]—The bill for an injunction must state facts from which the court can see that the acts alleged were wrongful and done with intent to injure and that they do in the particular and specific way pointed out in the bill injure the complainant. General allegations are insufficient.[72] The verification of the petition for a preliminary injunction need not be made by the com-acts 1899, p. 39. Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164; Fletcher v. Fletcher [Ga.] 51 S. E. 416.

64. Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164; Fletcher v. Fletcher [Ga.] 51 S. E. 416.

65. Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164.

66. Gray Lumber Co. v. Gaskin [Ga.] 50 S. E. 164; Fletcher v. Fletcher [Ga.] 51 S. E. 418. Injunction refused where the complainant failed to show a "perfect title" to the timber land as provided in Georgia Laws (Civ. Code 1895, § 4927), although the threatened injuries would be irreparable and multiplicity of suits would arise. Lanier v. Hebard [Ga.] 51 S. E. 632; Gray v. Wright [Ga.] 51 S. E. 373; Swindell & Co. v. Saddler [Ga.] 49 S. E. 753.

67. See 4 C. L. 110.

68, 69. Christensen v. Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Co., 110 Ill. App. 61.

70. Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F. 209.

Note: One sometimes meets with the broad statement that criminal proceedings cannot be restrained. Stated as a general proposition, this may be regarded as true (Davis v. Am. Soc., 6 Daly [N. Y.] 81, 75 N. Y. 362), and yet it is not without exception. Especially are exceptions noticeable in the more recent decisions, which, on the whole, seem to favor a more liberal construction of this branch of equitable jurisdiction than has heretofore been given. It seems to be now settled that injunction will lie to restrain a criminal prosecution if it is threatened for the purpose of hindering the enjoyment of a right conferred by law (Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Atlanta, 118 Ga. 486). So also trespass to property if it be continuous in its nature may be enjoined, to prevent a multiplicity of suits. Whitfield v. Rogers, 26 Miss. 84, 59 Am. Dec. 244. Likewise, if the threatened trespass consists of but a single act and irreparable mischief would otherwise result, injunction will lie. Wilson v. City of Mineral Point, 39 Wis. 160; Ryan v. Brown, 18 Mich. 196, 100 Am. Dec. 154. As to whether or not the injunctive jurisdiction will be exercised to prohibit the publication of defamatory matter, the authorities are not in harmony. The later English decisions have recognized the authority of equity to restrain publications injurious to trade business or title. Quartz Hill, etc., Co. v. Beall, L. R. 20 Ch. Div. 501, 507. This doctrine has been followed in some of the states (Grand Rapids School Furniture Co. v. Haney School Furniture Co., 92 Mich. 558, 52 N. W. 1009, 31 Am. St. Rep. 611, 16 L. R. A. 721), but is not generally approved in America (Boston Diatite Co. v. Mfg. Co., 114 Mass. 69, 19 Am. Rep. 310). 'Applying these principles to threats of purely personal injury, there would seem to be no room for equity to interfere by way of injunction, as there exist in such cases other appropriate remedies. So injunction has been refused because ample protection could be had upon application to the police or magistrates (Supp v. Keusing, 28 N. Y. Super. Ct. 609), or because the remedy in damages was adequate (Herrington v. Herrington, 11 Ill. App. 121), and in Railroad Co. v. Walton, 14 Ala. 207, it is broadly stated that, "Equity cannot * * * restrain the commission of a personal trespass, although it may be threatened." It is true that the commission of acts threatened by strikers have been enjoined where the effect of such threats was to interfere with the continuation of complainant's business or his right of freedom to contract. Vegelahn v. Gunter, 167 Mass. 92, 57 Am. St. Rep. 443, 35 L. R. A. 722; Hutchins' and Bunker's Cas. 764. See, also, 2 Mich. L. R. 321. Here, however, the threatened personal injury does not stand alone but is connected with the violation of property rights.—3 Mich. L. R. 226.

71. See 4 C. L. 111.

72. Builders' Painting & Decorating Co. v. Advisory Board Bldg. Trades of Chicago, 116 Ill. App. 264. The facts and circumstances constituting the alleged grievance must be specifically set out in the bill. South & W. R. Co. v. Virginia & S. E. R. Co. [Va.] 51 S. E. 843. Facts must be disclosed to enable the court to determine therefrom the necessity of awarding the extraordinary remedy of injunction. Shafer v. Fry [Ind.] 73 N. E. 698; American Plate Glass Co. v. Nicoson, 34 Ind. App. 643, 73 N. E. 625. An injunction will not issue unless the bill sets out facts showing the necessity for it and not mere statements of irreparable injury. Montgomery Light & Water Power Co. v. Citizens' Light, Heat & Power Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1026. Injunction will not issue when on the face of the bill there is an adequate remedy at law. Williams v. Peeples [Fla.] 37 So. 572. Where a proceeding for the assessment of a tax was void on its face [Vt. Laws 1894, p. 144, No. 165, § 13, as amended by Laws

plainant in person.[73] Injunction will not issue where the bill has no affidavit to support its allegations until after rule to show cause has been issued.[74] When a court of equity obtains jurisdiction, it will hold the same for every purpose and for a complete determination of all the rights involved.[75] Where a court has refused to issue an injunction on the ground of no jurisdiction such action will be reviewed on mandamus,[76] but not where it has granted an injunction claiming jurisdiction.[77] injunction to restrain a nuisance will lie at the instance of one of several persons affected in substantially the same manner[78] against several defendants, whose separate and independent acts cause the nuisance.[79] An injunction should not be issued without notice to the opposing party, except where it is clearly necessary to act without it.[80] As the sole object of a preliminary injunction is to preserve the subject-matter of the controversy in the condition in which it is until the merits can be heard, an injunction should never be issued upon an ex parte application, the effect of which is to deprive the party enjoined of his right of property to the thing in dispute.[81]

The naked averment of irreparable injury unless an injunction issues forthwith is not sufficient to dispense with notice.[82] Notice is sometimes required by statute.[83] An injunction to restrain persons not parties to an action will not be granted on motion.[84] An injunction which is sought as auxiliary and incidental to the ultimate relief will not issue where the ultimate relief is beyond the jurisdiction of the court 1902, p. 278, No. 211 (Laws 1902, p. 288), providing for orders for paving by city councils, construed]. Blanchard v. Barre [Vt.] 60 A. 970. In a suit to prevent by injunction the imposition of a cloud upon the plaintiff's title by a survey and condemnation of a right of way over the plaintiff's land, the bill must show affirmatively the cloud or threatened acts which will impose it. South & W. R. Co. v. Virginia & S. E. R. Co. [Va.] 51 S. E. 843. Where the surveying and condemnation of a right of way were sought to be enjoined for failure to obtain permission from the state corporation commission as provided in the Virginia Code 1904, § 1105e, c. 52, p. 576, the writ was refused since the bill did not allege noncompliance. Id.

73. It is sufficient if made by his general manager of his own knowledge. My Maryland Lodge No. 186 v. Adt [Md.] 59 A. 721.

74. Niles v. U. S. Trust Co., 22 App. D. C. 225.

75. An action at law on a building contract was enjoined because of defenses which could not be set up therein and the order that all matters might be settled in one suit. Watkins v. Tallassee Falls Mfg. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 756. The court was upheld in its refusal to send a case to jury to determine facts as to whether injunction was still proper after a nuisance had been abated. Tucker v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 100 App. Div. 407, 91 N. Y. S. 439.

76, 77. Chatfield v. Lenawee Circuit Judge [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 284, 104 N. W. 45.

78. The lands of the various plaintiffs may be separate and distinct from each other. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co., 113 Tenn. 331, 83 S. W. 658.

79. Emission of poisonous gas and smoke. Madison v. Ducktown Sulphur, Copper & Iron Co., 113 Tenn. 331, 83 S. W. 658. Will issue to enjoin several defendants from jointly contaminating a stream. Warren v. Parkhurst, 45 Misc. 466, 92 N. Y. S. 725.

80. Sprague v. Monarch Book Co., 105 Ill. App. 530. An injunction ought not to issue without notice upon the bare possibility of an injury or mere apprehension not founded upon a substantial basis of fact. Parish v. Vance, 110 Ill. App. 50. Injunction which should not have been granted without notice will not be set aside where it appears that had notice been given the injunction would have been granted and that no harm has in fact resulted. Pfeiffer v. McCullough, 115 Ill. App. 251.

81. An injunction was dissolved which had been granted ex parte, the effect of which was to deprive the defendants of the possession of stock for the purposes of voting and exercising rights of ownership. Lucas v. Milliken, 139 F. 816.

82. This is especially true where the complainant had knowledge of the facts some time previous to the filing of the bill, as where a man had been nominated for a year and another a few days before the election filed a bill to restrain the county clerk from putting his name on the ballot. Commonwealth v. Combs [Ky.] 86 S. W. 697.

83. California Law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 528, 530), providing that an injunction may not issue after answer except on notice or an order to show cause, but that a restraining order may issue in the meantime. Neumann v. Moretti, 146 Cal. 31, 79 P. 512. Under the California law (Code Civ. Proc. § 532), providing that where an injunction is granted without notice a defendant may move before trial for a dissolution or modification of it, such motion could not be granted where it was for a modification in important particulars without notice to the plaintiff. Cherry Hill Gold Min. Co. v. Baker [Cal.] 82 P. 370.

84. Sale of property held by the receivers to afford.[85] Injunction will not issue where after the suit is commenced there is a change of circumstances which renders the injunction unnecessary.[86] A permanent injunction will not issue on a motion supported by affidavits.[87] A party who has been refused an injunction may not dismiss the suit and institute another for the same cause and apply again to the same or another judge for an injunction.[88] If a defendant might have obtained an injunction in the original action he may not obtain one in a subsequent action.[89] The party who obtains an injunction may not take any advantage over the other party by reason of it.[90] A counter injunction against the other party will not issue upon an appeal from an order setting aside an injunction, as the effect of the appeal is to hold matters in abeyance.[91] In a suit to try title it is proper for an injunction to issue against both parties restraining them from interfering with each other's property after the award.[92] A demurrer does not admit the truth of the allegation in a bill for an injunction that the injury will be irreparable.[93] In Louisiana an injunction may issue in a petitory action.[94] In Texas a general denial in an injunction suit is not the subject of a general demurrer, and the plaintiff must prove his case.[95] An injunction against the infringement of a patent is not a defense in a suit by a third party for failure to furnish articles under a contract, where before the injunction decree the complainant gained control of the defendant by purchase of its stock.[96] The death of one of two parties restrained by a temporary injunction does not preclude the other from seeking the dissolution of the writ as to him.[97] An appellate court may not issue an injunction restraining one of the parties pending further proceedings in the court below, that being provisional relief to be granted, if at all, by the court of original jurisdiction.[98]

§ 4. Preliminary injunction. A. Issuance.[99]—A preliminary injunction may issue to maintain the status quo of property and rights involved until the final determination thereof,[1] where irreparable injury will follow if it is not issued[2] or where appointed by the state court, by the plaintiff in a Federal action and the U. S. Marshal sought to be enjoined. Strickland v. National Salt Co., 94 N. Y. S. 936.

85. People v. District Court of Denver [Colo.] 80 P. 908.

86. Rule held not to apply where the determination of the validity of a municipal contract and taxation for the payment of it was involved. Patterson v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Minn.] 101 N. W. 1064.

87. Wickes v. Hatch, 92 N. Y. S. 1017.

88, 89. Maloney v. King [Mont.] 76 P. 939.

90. Where an injunction was in force restraining the publication of the result of an election to determine whether one part of a municipal corporation would be annexed to another under the Arkansas law (Kirby's Dig. § 5522), a franchise granted in that part by the municipal corporation to which it had belonged and which obtained the injunction was held void. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 88 S. W. 826.

91. Relief was by a writ of sequestration. State v. De Baillon, 113 La. 619, 37 So. 534.

92. In a suit to try title to a quarry and for an injunction, it was held proper while granting one to the plaintiff restraining the defendant at the same time to grant one to the defendant restraining the plaintiff from interfering with the rock awarded to the defendant. Phillips v. Collinsville Granite Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 666.

93. Williams v. Mathewson [N. H.] 60 A. 687.

94. Action to prevent interference with the complainant in his work of lumbering. Dowdell v. Orphans' Home Soc. [La.] 38 So. 16.

95. Under Tex. Rev. St. 1895, art. 3006, authorizing defendant in injunction proceedings to answer as in other civil actions, general denial makes it necessary for plaintiffs to prove their case. Murphy v. Smith, Walker & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 678.

96. McElroy v. American Rubber Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 441.

97. It was an interlocutory not a final proceeding. Chatfield v. Clark [Ga.] 51 S. E. 743.

98. On an appeal from a decree annulling a street railroad franchise, the court declined to enjoin the city from removing the tracks pending the determination of the company's rights under an ordinance. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 88 S. W. 1026.

99. See 4 C. L. 113.

1. To restrain an entry upon real estate. Massee-Felton Lumber Co. v. Sirmans [Ga.] 50 S. E. 92. Digging an oil well restrained to preserve natural gas pendente lite. Carnegie Natural Gas Co. v. South Penn. Oil Co., 56 W. Va. 402, 49 S. E. 548. Transfer of shares of stock enjoined. Currie v. Jones, 138 N. C. 189, 50 S. E. 560. Voting on majority stock and holding an election of officers enjoined until the right to vote on the majority stock was determined. Villamil v. Hirsch, 138 F. 690. A preliminary fraud is alleged.[3] In some states a preliminary injunction is provided for by statute in proper cases.[4] Whether or not a preliminary injunction shall issue must be determined entirely by the bill and exhibits filed with it, without regard to the answer,[5] and the right to it must be clearly shown therein.[6] The granting or withholding of a preliminary injunction lies within the sound discretion of the court and will not be reviewed on appeal unless it be clearly shown that the discretion has been abused[7] or that the court below took a wrong view of the situation.[8] The ex-injunction will issue to preserve the status quo, viz., the right of the majority of stockholders to control, but not to destroy the status quo by giving control to the minority. Lucas v. Milliken, 139 F. 816. Issued to restrain mining operations pendente lite where some of the defendants were insolvent and fraud and conspiracy is alleged. Lockhart v. Leeds, 195 U. S. 427, 49 Law. Ed. 263. Revocation of power of attorney enjoined pendente lite. Rider v. Rider, 114 Ill. App. 202. A preliminary injunction may issue when it can do the defendant no harm in order to preserve the property until the plaintiff's right can be determined in equity or at law. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368.

2. Jacquelin v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 18. To warrant the issuance of an injunction to restrain a corporation from disregarding the conditions and limitations of its charter at the instance of a private party, special damage to him either partially accomplished or threatened must be shown. This was a suit by a rival gas company to prevent another company from laying pipes in street contrary to the provisions of the New Jersey law (P. L. 1876, c. 309, § 21, p. 316). Atlantic City Gas & Water Co. v. Consumers' Gas & Fuel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 750. Preliminary injunction by gas company having contract with city to compel another company pursuant to a contract to furnish it gas denied. American Lighting Co. v. Public Service Corp., 132 F. 794.

3. Fraudulent change of the terms of an oral contract in a written agreement. Woolf v. Barnes, 93 N. Y. S. 961. Injunction granted to restrain the use of a voting trust agreement found to have been procured by fraud. Knickerbocker Inv. Co. v. Voorhees, 100 App. Div. 414, 91 N. Y. S. 816.

4. Bill held insufficient under the New York law (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 603, 604), providing for injunctions pendente lite. Werbelovsky v. Michael, 94 N. Y. S. 156. New York Laws (Code of Civil Proc. § 604, subd. 1), providing for the issuance of a preliminary injunction where the defendant is doing, procuring or suffering to be done acts in violation of the plaintiff's rights respecting the subject of the action and tending to render the judgment ineffectual, held not to apply to the facts. Platt v. Elias, 91 N. Y. S. 1079. Under the New York law (Code Civ. Proc. § 1781), providing for accounting, by directors of foreign corporations, of property received by them, the disposition of such property was enjoined pending action as provided in § 1787. Acken v. Coughlin, 34 Civ. Proc. R. 200, 92 N. Y. S. 700. Under the Iowa law [Code, § 2405], if a case of a liquor nuisance is made out, a temporary injunction shall issue on application. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776. Under the Idaho law (Rev. St. 1887, § 4288), a party is not under the necessity of waiting until his property has been damaged or destroyed and his business disorganized and his premises encroached upon to the extent of his own ouster and then resort to an action at law for redress. Price v. Grice [Idaho] 79 P. 387.

5. Infringement of trade-mark. Smith Dixon Co. v. Stevens [Md.] 59 A. 401. To warrant the issuance of a temporary injunction, the sources of information and grounds of belief, must appear in the verification of the complaint. Samuel Cupples Envelope Co. v. Lackner, 99 App. Div. 231, 90 N. Y. S. 954. In order for a preliminary injunction to issue, it is sufficient if in the exercise of sound discretion the court can find from the pleadings, evidence and affidavits in support thereof, a case which presents a proper subject for investigation by a court of equity. Shea v. Nilima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209; Gagnon v. French Lick Springs Hotel Co., 163 Ind. 687, 72 N. E. 849. Where aside from the bill and answers the only evidence consists of exhibits and affidavits wholly inconclusive and irreconcilable, a preliminary injunction will issue to preserve the property in litigation. Hoy v. Altoona Midway Oil Co., 136 F. 483.

6. Facts held not to justify the issuance of an injunction (Maryland Acts 1892, p. 500, c. 357, providing for the registration of trade-marks, construed). Smith Dixon Co. v. Stevens [Md.] 59 A. 401. Injunction refused in a suit for an accounting and winding up of a partnership by one claiming to be a partner, where the affidavits did not clearly establish a partnership. Rowland v. Auto Car Co., 133 F. 835. Only in a clear case will a highway be closed by preliminary injunction. Meyer v. Petersburg [Minn.] 104 N. W. 899.

7. Werner Co. v. Encyclopaedia Britannica Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 831; Meyer v. Petersburg [Minn.] 104 N. W. 899; McConnell v. Haughton [Ind.] 73 N. E. 1092; Northern Securities Co. v. Harriman [C. C. A.] 134 F. 331; Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39; Hoy v. Altoona Midway Oil Co., 136 F. 483; Shields v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 394; Price v. Grice [Idaho] 79 P. 387; Ellis v. Stewart [Ga.] 51 S. E. 321; Weber v. Della Mountain Min. Co. [Idaho] 81 P. 931; Cranshaw v. McAdoo, 94 N. Y. S. 386; Brighton Athletic Club v. McAdoo, 94 N. Y. S. 391. A preliminary injunction which merely keeps the property in statu quo pendente lite will not be disturbed upon appeal unless it clearly appears that the court issuing it abused its discretion. Shea v. Nilima [C. C. A.] 133 F. 209. A preliminary injunction restraining the transfer of property beyond the jurisdiction of the court upon which the complainant claims a tent of relief to be granted by injunction is also within the discretion of the court.[9] When a sworn bill presents grave questions of law and it appears that injury to the moving party will be immediate and certain and that no injury will be done to the defendant that cannot be provided against by bond, a preliminary injunction will issue.[10] A preliminary injunction will not issue where it would disastrously affect the defendant where his insolvency is not alleged.[11] Upon the hearing of a motion for a preliminary injunction the rules of evidence are applied less strictly than upon a final hearing of the cause, and consequently, evidence that would not be competent in support of an application for a perpetual injunction may be admitted.[12] Injunction will issue where the allegations in the bill are not denied by the answer filed.[13] Answers filed before the hearing of an application for a preliminary injunction must be considered[14] and if found to deny the equity of the bill in such manner as would authorize its dissolution on motion therefor, the injunction should not be granted,[15] but when they are not responsive to the bill and set up new matter by way of avoidance, a preliminary injunction may issue.[16] A preliminary injunction cannot be issued where the complainant rests on an unsettled and doubtful rule of law,[17] especially in the absence of any allegation that the defendant cannot respond for any amount of damages recovered against him at law.[18] A preliminary injunction will be denied where a court is not satisfied that it has jurisdiction.[19] A preliminary injunction will issue to restrain an act which the defendant has an ultimate right to do but only on the performance of a condition precedent which is within its power to perform.[20] Where, pending decision on an application, amendment of the petition and additional affidavits are received, notice should be given thereof.[21] Defendants who deny the commission of the acts complained of cannot object to an injunction pendente lite.[22] lien will not be disturbed on appeal unless it is entirely clear from the record that there is no equity in the bill, especially where the removal might work irremediable injury to the complainant and the continuance of the injunction comparatively little harm to the respondent. Coram v. Ingersoll [C. C. A.] 133 F. 226. The discretion of the lower court in issuing or refusing injunctions is not unlimited, since facts may be proved which raise questions of law reviewable on appeal. Penrhyn Slate Co. v. Granville Elec. Light & Power Co., 181 N. Y. 80, 73 N. E. 566. Rule held not to apply where the judge regarded as of controlling importance in issuing a preliminary injunction the fact that an order denying it would not be reviewable on appeal, and the appellate court will in such case determine the right to an injunction on its merits. Northern Securities Co. v. Harriman [C. C. A.] 134 F. 331.

8. Werner Co. v. Encyclopaedia Britannica Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 831.

9. Defendant may set up facts happening before or after the action began which bear on or affect the extent of relief to be granted and the sufficiency of them will not be considered on demurrer. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 92 N. Y. S. 1052.

10. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39.

11. Napier v. Westerhoff, 138 F. 420.

12. My Maryland Lodge No. 186 v. Adt [Md.] 59 A. 721.

13. Allegations of wrongful use of trading stamps. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Brady, 134 F. 691.

14. Maryland Code Gen. Pub. Laws, art. 25, §§ 1, 12, 86, and acts 1900, p. 1083, c. 685, § 196; p. 1086, c. 685, §§ 205, 208, providing for the opening, altering and closing of roads by county commissioners, construed. Riggs v. Winterode [Md.] 59 A. 762.

15. Riggs v. Winterode [Md.] 59 A. 762.

16. "There may be cases in which the new matter set up would justify the court in refusing to grant an injunction at once. * * * Where the court is satisfied that the plaintiff will not be injured by not having the injunction issue at once and the testimony can be taken in a reasonable time, if the new matter be of a character that would ultimately require the dissolution of the injunction if proven, it would be useless to compel the judge to issue a preliminary injunction. Some discretion must be allowed him in such cases." Riggs v. Winterode [Md.] 59 A. 762.

17. Injunction against use of trading stamps by a merchant who obtained them from customers of the stamp company and not from the company direct, refused. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368.

18. Sperry & Hutchinson Co. v. Hertzberg [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 368.

19. Ordinance providing for examination and licensing of automobile operators. Farson v. Chicago, 138 F. 184.

20. Erection of a viaduct by railroad commissioners enjoined. Erie R. Co. v. Buffalo, 180 N. Y. 192, 73 N. E. 26.

21. Overstreet v. Sylvania Water Supply Co. [Ga.] 52 S. E. 164.

(§ 4) B. Bonds.[23]—A court of equity has power to require as a condition precedent to the issuing of an injunction, a bond from the complainants in such amount and with such surety as fully to indemnify the defendant, if he ultimately prevails, against loss or damage resulting from the temporary restraint.[24] In California an injunction must be dissolved where no undertaking to pay damages to the party enjoined as provided by law is given.[25] An injunction bond is not jurisdictional, and a mere defect therein may be remedied by the court.[26]

(§ 4) C. Dissolution, modification or continuance; reinstatement.[27]—A common injunction issues without notice on the coming in of the bill and may be dissolved as a matter of discretion upon the filing of the answer,[28] while a special injunction will not be dissolved upon the coming in of the answer if it appears probable that the plaintiff will maintain his primary equity[29] or there is a reasonable apprehension of irreparable loss[30] or it appears reasonably necessary to preserve the plaintiff's right or property in statu quo.[31] An injunction will be dissolved which has been so unfairly used as to amount to an abuse of process.[32] A preliminary injunction will be dissolved when the sworn answer denies the allegations of the bill on which relief is sought.[33] An injunction will not be dissolved on motion by a third person who has an adequate remedy at law.[34] A preliminary injunction will not be dissolved because of mis-statements of ownership where the party has such interest as will entitle him to protection if he establishes his cause.[35] When an injunction is the ultimate relief sought and it is dissolved, the case should be dismissed,[36] but where the injunction is collateral merely and is dissolved, the case should not be dismissed, if other and further proceedings are necessary to give the ultimate relief sought.[37] The relative harm from continuing or dissolving a preliminary injunction will not be investigated when plaintiff is without rights to protect.[37a] Where at the time of trial it is found that the grounds for making a

22. My Maryland Lodge No. 186 v. Adt [Md.] 59 A. 721.

23. See 4 C. L. 117.

24. Hoy v. Altoona Midway Oil Co., 136 F. 483; Currie v. Jones, 138 N. C. 189, 50 S. E. 560. Under the laws of South Carolina (Civ. Code Proc. 1902, § 244), providing that a court may if it seems proper before granting an injunction have the defendant and in the meantime issue a restraining order, it was held that it was not the duty of the judge to require the plaintiff to file an undertaking by reason of the restraining order. Creech v. Long [S. C.] 51 S. E. 614.

25. Code Civ. Proc. § 529. Neumann v. Morettl, 146 Cal. 31, 79 P. 512; Id., 146 Cal. 27, 79 P. 510.

26. Herzberger v. Barrow, 115 Ill. App. 79.

27. See 4 C. L. 117.

28. Cobb v. Clegg, 137 N. C. 153, 49 S. E. 80; Magoffin v. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 843.

29, 30, 31. Cobb v. Clegg, 137 N. C. 153, 49 S. E. 80.

32. Where two days before a corporate election an injunction was obtained restraining the defendants from voting, but not served until the meeting had been organized and no opportunity was afforded by means of adjournment to try the merits of the case, with the result that the minority obtained control, the injunction was dissolved. Lucas v. Milliken, 139 F. 816.

33. Montgomery Light & Water Power Co. v. Citizens' Light, Heat & Power Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1026. On a motion to dissolve an injunction on answer made the court is confined to matters in denial of the bill's averments and may not consider new matters set up by the answer. Agee & Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 680.

34. Damages caused (stopping of work) by an injunction to an employe of the real defendant and the fact that the undertaking filed was too small was held to be no ground for dissolving the injunction as there was an adequate legal remedy against the defendant. Smith v. Alberta & British Columbia Exploration or Reclamation Co. [Idaho] 74 P. 1071.

35. Emery v. Ionia Circuit Judge [Mich.] 101 N. W. 801.

36. Avocato v. Dell'Ara [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 443. When a preliminary injunction is dissolved, the bill may be dismissed at the same time for want of equity. Hontros v. Chicago, 113 Ill. App. 318.

37. Held to be error to dismiss a case upon the dissolution of an injunction restraining a sale under a judgment obtained by perjured testimony, the ultimate relief being the annulment of the judgment. Avocato v. Dell'Ara [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 443.

37a. Pioneer Min. & Mfg. Co. v. Shamblin, 140 Ala. 486, 37 So. 391.

temporary injunction permanent do not exist, it is proper for the court to refuse a permanent injunction and dismiss the bill.[38] Where an injunction has been superseded by an irregular but not void judgment, a motion to vacate it must be coupled with one to vacate the judgment.[39] In South Dakota an injunction may be dissolved and the action dismissed, but no judgment entered until the defendant's damages are ascertained.[40] An injunction directed against a trespass upon real estate cannot properly be dissolved on bond.[41] It is within the discretion of the court to modify the terms of an injunction as occasion may require.[42] A motion to dissolve an injunction on the ground of the insufficiency of the bill admits no more than would a demurrer to the bill.[43] An injunction restraining a transfer of stock in a bill of interpleader will be dissolved where the plaintiff does not pay into court the amount due upon the stock which he claims.[44]

Costs.[45]—Where an injunction bond expressly provides that the sureties shall pay the defendant's costs if the plaintiffs fail to prosecute the injunction with effect, a decree awarding the defendant costs (the injunction having been dissolved) was held not to defeat his right of action on the bond.[46] Where a temporary injunction properly issued and had fully protected the complainant's rights, but at the time of trial grounds for making it permanent did not exist, it was held proper to dismiss the complaint but that costs should have been awarded to the complainant.[47]

(§ 4) D. Damages on dissolution and liability on bond.[48]—A right of action on an injunction bond does not accrue until the main action has been tried and determined.[49] In order to recover damages on an injunction bond, it must appear that the plaintiff was prevented by the injunction from enjoying some right or privilege to which he was entitled.[50] An action may be brought upon an injunction bond upon the voluntary dismissal of the action by the plaintiff[51] but not where the dismissal is by agreement of the parties.[52] Where through failure of parties to act a case is deemed to be abandoned, a previously existing injunction necessarily becomes void.[53] An action on an injunction bond may be brought after judgment before appeal, but if an appeal is taken thereafter the action will be dismissed with-

38. Where before trial a strike had ended and the defendants had abandoned their original purpose of injuring the complainant in his business. Clancy v. Geb [Wis.] 104 N. W. 746.

39. Martinson v. Marzolf [S. D.] 103 N. W. 937.

40. South Dakota Law (Code of Civ. Pro. § 200), providing for a written undertaking to pay the damages which may be sustained by an injunction, construed, and it was held that damages may be assessed although not claimed in the pleadings. Kelley & Co. v. Mead [S. D.] 101 N. W. 882.

41. Xavier Realty v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co. [La.] 38 So. 427.

42. Modification from an order to close a sewer to an order to continue it and abate the nuisance. Phillips v. Du Bignon [Ga.] 50 S. E. 928.

43. Board of Trade of Chicago v. Weare, 105 Ill. App. 289.

44. Quin v. Hart [Miss.] 37 So. 553.

45. See 4 C. L. 119.

46. Jones v. State [Md.] 61 A. 222.

47. Clancy v. Geb [Wis.] 104 N. W. 746.

48. See 4 C. L. 119.

49. Lacey v. Davis, 126 Iowa, 675, 102 N. W. 535.

50. Where an injunction did no harm to defendants who were mere trespassers, no damages were allowed in action on the bond. East Tennessee Tel. Co. v. Anderson County Tel. Co., 24 Ky. L. R. 2358, 115 Ky. 488, 74 S. W. 218. Since an injunction does not operate upon acts already done, there is no damage suffered by reason of them upon a dissolution of the injunction. Xavier Realty v. Louisiana R. & Nav. Co. [La.] 39 So. 6. Parties whose rights were contingent upon payment of purchase money were held to be properly enjoined and to have no cause of action on the injunction bond because they paid at the end of the litigation. Yarwood v. Cedar Canyon Consol. Min. Co., 37 Wash. 56, 79 P. 483. Failure to plead and offer evidence of damages caused by an improvident injunction does not estop the defendant from suing on the injunction bond. McLennon v. Fenner [S. D.] 104 N. W. 218.

51. The plaintiff is held to have confessed that he had no legal or equitable right to the injunction granted. St. Joseph & E. Power Co. v. Graham [Ind.] 74 N. E. 498; Kelley & Co. v. Mead [S. D.] 101 N. W. 882.

52. St. Joseph & E. Power Co. v. Graham [Ind.] 74 N. E. 498.

53. Marks v. Metzger Linseed Oil Co., 113 Ill. App. 475.

out prejudice.[54] Damages consist of money expended or lost by the defendant by reason of the issuance of the writ together with reasonable attorney fees in procuring the dissolution.[55] Dissolution of an injunction upon obedience to it does not make its issuance wrongful and give a right of action on the bond.[56] Injunction bonds should be liberally construed.[57]

Practice in action on bonds.[58]—A complaint on an injunction bond must allege that the damages claimed have not been paid.[59] Upon the dissolution of an injunction the court may in its discretion assess damages actually shown to have been suffered by reason of the injunction[60] or direct a jury so to do.[61]

(§ 4) E. The appealability[62] of preliminary orders and of the dissolution, vacation and modification or refusal thereof, is regulated by statute and has been discussed fully elsewhere.[63]

§ 5. Decree, judgment or order for injunction.[64]—The commands of an injunction must be direct and specific, not general and sweeping.[65] An injunction issued by a court[66] or by an official, without jurisdiction,[67] is void. A restraining decree which is not void and does not embrace matters fairly in issue upon the bill and answers will not be vacated by mandamus.[68] A temporary restraining order issued at the commencement of a suit does not release property from the custody of the attaching officer or discharge the lien acquired by levy, but stays proceedings while the injunction is in force.[69] In New York, by statute, an injunction order is ir-

54. Tutty v. Ryan [Wyo.] 79 P. 920.

55. McLennon v. Fenner [S. D.] 104 N. W. 218.

56. Yarwood v. Cedar Canyon Consol. Mining Co., 37 Wash. 56, 79 P. 483.

57. Under the Indiana Law (Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 269-273), providing that all persons adverse to plaintiff and necessary parties to effect a complete settlement of matters in issue are proper parties defendant and (§ 1167) providing for an appeal bond, a party admitted as a defendant after the filing of the bond was allowed the benefit of it. Sheets v. Hays [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 20.

58. See 4 C. L. 121.

59. Bebee v. Jackson [Mont.] 79 P. 1051.

60. Under the laws of Arkansas (Kirby's Dig. § 3998), providing that upon dissolution of an injunction to stay proceedings upon a judgment or final order to assess damages, it was held that the judge was not authorized to enter a decree for the full amount of the judgment sought to be stayed unless damages to that extent were shown to have been sustained. Johnson v. Gillenwater [Ark.] 87 S. W. 439. Under the South Dakota Law (Code Civ. Proc. § 200), providing that damages caused by an improvident injunction may be ascertained by reference or otherwise as the court shall direct, it was held that it was discretionary with the court whether or not damages should be assessed in the action in which the injunction issued and that defendant might waive this remedy and sue on the injunction bond. McLennon v. Fenner [S. D.] 104 N. W. 218. The remedy given by Kentucky statutes (Civ. Code, § 295), for the assessment of special damages by the court upon the dissolution of an injunction to stay proceedings to enforce a judgment, is exclusive and no action may be had upon the injunction bond. Mason, Gooch & Hoge Co. v. Mechanics' Lien & Trust Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 570, 82 S. W. 290.

61. Under the Kansas Law (Rev. St. 1899, § 3639), providing that upon the dissolution of an injunction in whole or part, damages shall be assessed by a jury or the court, it was held that a motion to assess damages might be filed on affirmance of a final judgment dissolving the injunction and dismissing the bill. Wabash R. Co. v. Sweet, 110 Mo. App. 100, 84 S. W. 95.

62. See 4 C. L. 121.

63. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

64. See 4 C. L. 121.

65. Builders' Painting & Decorating Co. v. Advisory Board Bldg. Trades of Chicago, 116 Ill. App. 264.

66. State v. Carlson [Neb.] 101 N. W. 1004.

67. Under the Law of Kentucky (Civ. Code Prac. § 273), providing for preliminary restraining orders by the clerk of court in absence of the judge, it was held that the clerk has no authority to issue mandatory injunctions or an injunction granting the ultimate relief sought, such as an order restraining the placing of the name of a candidate on the ballot on the eve of an election. Commonwealth v. Combs [Ky.] 86 S. W. 697. Under the Arkansas Law (Kirby's Dig. § 1294), providing that in the absence of the Chancellor, the circuit court might issue injunctions after suit is brought, but not before, it was held that a circuit court had no jurisdiction to issue an injunction when that was the ultimate relief sought and that a suit seeking a restraining order to prevent the payment of license fees to the mayor by the city marshal was not within the statute (Kirby's Dig. §§ 3462, 7983), providing for quo warranto and the prevention of usurpation of office, was a suit for an injunction and not within the jurisdiction of the court. Moody v. Lourimore [Ark.] 86 S. W. 400.

regular which does not recite the grounds upon which it is granted[70] but such irregularities may be corrected by amendment.[71] An injunction decree in an infringement case is a defense in an action by a third party for failure to supply articles whose manufacture is enjoined.[72]

§ 6. Violation and punishment.[73]—The willful violation of an injunction by a party to the cause is a contempt of court punishable as such.[74] A "willful" disobedience of an injunction is a criminal contempt[75] while a mere disobedience, by which the right of a party to the action is defeated or hindered, is a civil contempt.[76] An injunction must be obeyed in its spirit as well as in its letter.[77] When a contempt is committed without the presence of the court, the affidavit of facts must show on its face a case of contempt in order to give the court jurisdiction.[78] A party may not be punished in contempt proceedings for disregard of a restraining order in a case where there is an adequate remedy at law where the equitable jurisdiction of the court was duly questioned and found wanting.[79] Disobedience to an injunction is not excused by showing that it was subsequently dismissed for an irregularity or want of equity in the bill,[80] but it is excused where there is no legal power in the court to issue the writ.[81] Although the terms of an injunction are broader than the allegations of the bill, that fact is no defense in a contempt proceeding.[82] In Texas the powers of a judge to punish for contempt are controlled by

68. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Kalkaska Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 951.

69. Johnson v. Gillenwater [Ark.] 87 S. W. 439.

70. N. Y. law (Code Civ. Proc. § 610). Meyer v. Moress, 94 N. Y. S. 771.

71. Werbelovsky v. Michael, 94 N. Y. S. 156.

72. The rule was held not to apply where prior to the entry of the decree the complainant obtained control of the defendant through the purchase of its stock. McElroy v. American Rubber Tire Co. [C. C. A.] 122 F. 441.

73. See 4 C. L. 122. See, also, Contempt, 5 C. L. 650.

74. Sale of goods was held to establish a contempt of court and a fine was imposed. Universal Talking Mach. Co. v. Keen, 136 F. 456. Aiding in the violation of an injunction against the infringement of a patent by taking over and conducting the business in his own name with knowledge of the injunction was held to be a contempt of court and a fine was imposed. Hamilton v. Diamond Drill & Machine Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 417. Peace officers acting in good faith held not guilty of contempt of an injunction restraining township officers from interfering with the laying of certain pipes. Public Service Corp. of New Jersey v. De Grote [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 65.

Injunction against strikes, etc.: A system of "picketing" for more than a year around and near complainant's premises was held to be a contempt of court, even though there was no violence. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Gee, 139 F. 582. "The argument seems to be that anything short of physical violence is lawful * * * (as not amounting to intimidation which was enjoined). * * * But peaceful, law abiding men can be intimidated by gesticulations, by menaces, by being called harsh names * * * (scabs) * * * and by being followed or compelled to pass by men known to be unfriendly * * * (engaged in "picketing"). Id. Insults, assaults and beatings by strikers of employes were held to amount to a contempt of court as violating a strike injunction. O'Brien v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 108. A defendant will not be adjudged guilty of a contempt unless it clearly appears that he was acting in bad faith in evasion of the court's orders. Sponenburg v. Gloversville, 94 N. Y. S. 264.

75. People v. Marr, 181 N. Y. 463, 74 N. E. 431.

76. The primary object of one is to protect private rights and of the other, to maintain the dignity of the court, and vindicate the authority of the law. People v. Marr, 181 N. Y. 463, 74 N. E. 431. In contempt proceedings for violation of an injunction restraining the defendants from interfering with the water in an irrigation ditch, it was held that the action being civil it could only be maintained by a plaintiff who had suffered actual or special damages. Thompson v. McFarland [Utah] 82 P. 478. Proceedings for contempt under an injunction issued to protect the rights of a private individual are civil and in no sense criminal. Therefore the rule in criminal proceedings for contempt that a sworn answer if sufficient to purge him from contempt may be taken as true does not apply. O'Brien v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 108.

77. It was held to be contempt of court for a defendant who had been enjoined from disturbing certain property to bring an action of trespass against the plaintiff pendente lite. Maloney v. King [Mont.] 76 P. 939.

78. Hutton v. Superior Court of San Francisco [Cal.] 81 P. 409.

79. American Lighting Co. v. Public Service Corp., 134 F. 129.

80, 81. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cleburne Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 1100.

statute.[83] A party to an action who is in contempt of court for violation of an injunction has no absolute right to proceed with the trial.[84] In Illinois defendants in contempt proceedings for violation of an injunction are not entitled to a trial by jury.[85] In a contempt proceeding the defendants are not entitled to a specific bill of particulars setting forth the offenses charged.[86] Matters relating to practice in contempt proceedings are treated elsewhere.[87]

§ 7. Liability for wrongful injunction.[88]—Damages for the malicious suing out of an injunction cannot be recovered upon the injunction bond.[89] Since an injunction is not the act of the party applying for it, but of the court, no wrong is committed by the party although it is dissolved, unless he acted maliciously and without probable cause.[90]

INNS, RESTAURANTS AND LODGING HOUSES.[91]

Public regulation.[92]—The power to license inns and taverns is a power commonly, if not universally, exercised by the municipal authorities in cities.[93]

Who is a guest.[94]

Duty to receive guests.—At common law an innkeeper is bound to receive all guests provided he has accommodations and they are not objectionable persons.[95] But he is not obliged to permit all persons to remain as permanent lodgers.[96] An apartment house or family hotel in which suites of rooms are rented upon annual leases, and transient tenants are not solicited, is not a hotel within the meaning of the New York statute, providing that all persons shall have full and equal accommodations and privileges in inns, hotels and restaurants.[97]

Liability for safety of guests.[98]—An innkeeper is held only to the exercise of reasonable care for the safety of his guests;[99] he is not an insurer of their safety.[1] Failure to comply with a statutory building regulation is prima facie negligence.[2] There can be no recovery for the injury or death of a guest unless the negligence alleged was the proximate cause thereof.[3] There can be no recovery for negligence not alleged.[4]

82. O'Brien v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 108.

83. Under the Laws of Texas (Rev. St. 1895, art. 3013), providing for punishment for contempt by committing to jail until the party purges himself from the contempt as directed by the court and (art. 1101) providing that the court should have power to punish by a fine not exceeding $100 or by imprisonment not exceeding 3 days, a person in contempt, it was held that a fine of $300 and 15 days imprisonment was not within the jurisdiction of court under either section. Ex parte Margan [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 755.

84. Campbell v. Justices of Superior Court [Mass.] 73 N. E. 659.

85. Laws of Illinois 1893, p. 96, providing for a jury trial where a judgment is to be satisfied by imprisonment, so construed. O'Brien v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 108.

86. O'Brien v. People [Ill] 75 N. E. 108.

87. See Contempt, 5 C. L. 650.

88. See 4 C. L. 123. In so far as there is an abuse of process, the procuring of an injunction is a tort in some of the states. See Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 4 C. L. 470; Process, 4 C. L. 1070.

89, 90. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Chicago, 110 Ill. App. 395.

91. See 4 C. L. 123.

92. See 4 C. L. 124.

93. The city council of Atlantic City has authority under P. L. 1902, p. 298, to license inns and taverns. Conover v. Gregson [N. J. Law] 60 A. 31.

94. See 4 C. L. 123, and note. See, also, following paragraphs, Liens and Liability for Effects.

95. Crapo v. Rockwell, 94 N. Y. S. 1122. An innkeeper is liable at common law to one who has been refused the privileges of a guest. Cornell v. Huber, 102 App. Div. 293, 92 N. Y. S. 434.

96. Crapo v. Rockwell, 94 N. Y. S. 1122.

97. Laws 1895, p. 974, c. 1042, does not render a landlord of an apartment house liable to a penalty for refusing to accept a certain person as a tenant. Alsberg v. Lucerne Hotel Co., 92 N. Y. S. 851.

98, 99. See 4 C. L. 123.

1. Clancy v. Barker [Neb.] 103 N. W. 446.

2. Failure to have standpipe in hotel building over 100 feet high as required by Building Code of New York City, p. 65, § 102. Acton v. Reed, 93 N. Y. S. 911.

3. Failure to have standpipe in hotel as required by building code, held not to have contributed to death of guest by suffocation. Acton v. Reed, 93 N. Y. S. 911. Fact that door to a stairway was locked was not proximate cause of death by suffocation of guest who did not try to go out by that door and who reached the next floor by a different

It is the duty of a hotel keeper to protect his guests while in his hotel against the assaults of employes who assist in the conduct of the hotel and in the care and accommodation of the guests.[5] If damages result from such assault, the hotel keeper is liable.[6]

Liens.[7]—At common law an innkeeper has a lien on baggage and effects of the guest brought to the inn to secure payment for lodging and supplies furnished.[8] This lien attaches to property in possession of the guest, title to which is in another, if the innkeeper has no notice of the third person's rights,[9] since a person who furnishes property to a guest is presumed to know that the law gives such lien.[10] The innkeeper has no common-law lien upon property of a mere lodger.[11] The Washington statute gives no lien on property in possession of a guest known by the hotel keeper to belong to a third person.[12] The Texas statute gives a lien on personal property in favor of hotel and boarding house keepers, but not in favor of lodging house keepers.[13]

Public regulation; licenses.[14]—Violation of intoxicating liquor laws by innkeepers is elsewhere treated.[15]

Liability for effects.[16]—At common law an innkeeper is the insurer of property of his guest and is liable for its loss for any cause whatever except neglect of the guest or the act of God or the public enemy.[17] But one seeking to enforce this strict liability must show that the relation of innkeeper and transient guest existed at the time the property was lost,[18] or within a reasonable time preceding;[19] one who is a boarder[20] or a servant[21] cannot enforce it. A guest has a reasonable time in which to remove his property, and thereafter the innkeeper is liable as a bailee stairway. Id. Even had evidence been sufficient to show failure to keep posted in guest's room a diagram showing exits, halls, stairways, etc., as required by Greater New York Charter, § 762, such failure could not be deemed a proximate cause of death by suffocation of a guest who had been in hotel nine months and was familiar with its arrangement. Id.

4. Rev. St. 1899, § 9036, requiring a rope or rope ladder to be fastened in every room above second story was impliedly repealed by Acts 1901, p. 219, requiring fire escapes to be placed on exterior of hotel buildings. Hence an action based on a violation of the former cannot be maintained, though a violation of the latter is shown. Yall v. Gillham, 187 Mo. 393, 86 S. W. 125.

5. Clancy v. Barker [Neb.] 103 N. W. 446.

6. Infant son of guest lost an eye by accidental discharge of pistol in hands of bellboy, while the latter was off duty, and both were in a room not occupied by any guest; the hotel keeper was held liable. Clancy v. Barker [Neb.] 103 N. W. 446.

Note: The Nebraska court on rehearing adheres to its original decision in this case (see Clancy v. Barker [Neb.] 98 N. W. 440), notwithstanding a contrary decision in a suit based on the same facts by the Federal circuit court of appeals. Clancy v. Barker [C. C. A.] 131 F. 161. Mr. Justice Barnes, however, dissents. Interesting discussions and many authorities will be found in the opinion in the Federal case (where there was also a dissenting opinion), and in the dissenting opinion of Mr. Justice Barnes. See, also, special article, Liability of Master for Assault by Servant, 5 C. L. 275.

7. See 4 C. L. 124.

8. Common-law rule still in force in New York. Horace Waters & Co. v. Gerard, 94 N. Y. S. 702.

9. As where guest had piano under conditional sale, title being in vendor. Horace Waters & Co. v. Gerard, 94 N. Y. S. 702.

10. Horace Waters & Co. v. Gerard, 94 N. Y. S. 702.

11. Lien attaches only to effects of a guest. Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co. v. Hotel Stevens Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 563.

12. No lien on traveling salesman's samples, known to belong to his employer. Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co. v. Hotel Stevens Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 563. Evidence that hotel men had extensive acquaintance with salesmen and their methods and never knew of an instance where they owned their samples was sufficient to prove a general custom so that the hotel keeper could not claim that he did not know that shoe samples did not belong to salesman, when he had extended credit without inquiry as to ownership. Id.

13. Hardin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 591.

14. See 4 C. L. 124.

15. See Intoxicating Liquors, 4 C. L. 252.

16. See 4 C. L. 123.

17. The common law rule is still enforced except as such liability has been modified by statute. Crapo v. Rockwell, 94 N. Y. S. 1122.

18. Crapo v. Rockwell, 94 N. Y. S. 1122.

19. Complaint must allege that relation existed at the time of loss or a reasonable time preceding. Clark v. Ball [Colo.] 82 P. 529.

20. Woman who had lived 17 months at in the absence of a special contract.[22] Where one delivers baggage to a hotel at a time when he is not a guest, and thereafter becomes a guest, the presumption is that the baggage was in the possession of the hotel at the time the owner became a guest, and the burden is on the hotel keeper to prove the contrary in an action for its loss.[23] Under statutes of some states, a hotel keeper who has a suitable safe and has posted the notice required by law is not liable as an innkeeper for the loss of valuables not placed therein, unless the guest has offered to deliver such valuables and the hotel keeper has refused to receive or deposit them.[24] Where a guest places a box containing jewelry in the hands of the clerk without disclosing the contents of the box or requesting a deposit of it in the safe, the innkeeper is liable only as a gratuitous bailee for gross negligence.[25]

Offenses.—In Pennsylvania, one who removes his property from a hotel with the intention of defrauding the hotel keeper is guilty of an indictable offense.[26]

INQUEST OF DAMAGES, see latest topical index.

INQUEST OF DEATH.[27]

Only the coroner at the place where the crime was committed or the body found has jurisdiction to hold an inquest.[28] The testimony of a witness subsequently prosecuted for manslaughter, taken at a coroner's inquest in pursuance of a subpoena, the witness not being under arrest or accused of the crime at the time, and there being nothing to indicate that the testimony is involuntarily given, is admissible an inn which accommodated both transients and boarders, had property there indicating she intended to stay, and made special arrangements for rates, was a boarder. Crapo v. Rockwell, 94 N. Y. S. 1122. As to who is a "boarder," see note 4 C. L. 123.

21. Clark v. Ball [Colo.] 82 P. 529.

22. Clark v. Ball [Colo.] 82 P. 529.

NOTE. Liability of an innkeeper after guest's departure: The general rule is that the guest, by his departure, ceases to be such, and that the hotelkeeper's liability is not that of an innkeeper, but merely of a bailee, where the goods are committed to his charge. Wear v. Gleason, 52 Ark. 364, 12 S. W. 756, 20 Am. St. Rep. 186; Murray v. Marshall, 9 Colo. 482, 13 P. 589, 59 Am. Rep. 152; Brown Hotel Co. v. Burckhart, 13 Colo. App. 59, 56 P. 183; O'Brien v. Valil, 22 Fla. 627, 1 So. 137, 12 Am. St. Rep. 219; Hoffman v. Roessle, 39 Misc. 787, 81 N. Y. S. 291; Whitemore v. Haroldson, 70 Tenn. [2 Lea] 312; McDaniels v. Robinson, 26 Vt. 316, 62 Am. Dec. 574; Id., 28 Vt. 387, 67 Am. Dec. 720. And where the property is left behind without calling the innkeeper's attention to that fact, the owner acts at his own peril, as the host has a right to believe that he has taken it with him, and is therefore no longer responsible for its safekeeping. Glenn v. Jackson, 93 Ala. 342, 9 So. 259, 12 L. R. A. 382; Wintermute v. Clarke, 7 N. Y. Super Ct. [Sand.] 242. In Stewart v. Head, 70 Ga. 449, a guest left a valise in the hotel office, without calling attention thereto, and the clerk, not knowing who the owner was, took it into a room where baggage was kept, and it was subsequently broken open and the contents taken. The landlord was held to be a naked depositary, liable only for gross negligence. The innkeeper's liability does not cease the very instant the guest pays his bill, but he has a reasonable time in which to remove his goods, during which period the extraordinary liability attaches. What is a reasonable time is to be estimated according to the circumstances of the case. Adams v. Clem, 41 Ga. 65, 5 Am. Rep. 524; Baehr v. Downey, 133 Mich. 163, 94 N. W. 750, 103 Am. St. Rep. 444; Maxwell v. Gerard, 84 Hun, 537, 32 N. Y. S. 849.

He may also become liable for property of the guest which arrives at the inn after his departure. So where a landlord promised to forward goods which were expected to arrive after the guest had left, and it was delivered at the hotel, but not forwarded or returned to the sender, the landlord was held liable as an ordinary bailee, the refusal or neglect to return the property on demand making out a prima facie case against him. Baehr v. Downey, 133 Mich. 163, 94 N. W. 750, 103 Am. St. Rep. 444.—From note Johnson v. Chadbourn Finance Co. [Minn.] 99 Am. St. Rep. 587.

23. Oriental Hotel Ass'n v. Faust [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 373.

24. Rev. St. 1899, § 7578. Horton v. Terminal Hotel & Arcade Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 363.

25. Complaint held to state a cause of action against hotelkeeper as bailee where delivery and failure to return were alleged. Horton v. Terminal Hotel & Arcade Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 363. Instruction defining gross negligence should have been given. Id.

26. Conviction sustained under Act April 20, 1876 (P. L. 45). Commonwealth v. Billig, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 477.

27. See 4 C. L. 125; also Coroners, 5 C. L. 763.

28. Since the purpose of the inquest is to against him when placed on trial for the crime.[29] Such testimony is not to be deemed involuntary merely because given in response to a subpoena.[30] In Iowa a physician summoned by a coroner to make an examination may recover compensation for his services from the county.[31]

INSANE PERSONS.[32]

§ 1. Existence and effect of insanity in general.[33]—An adjudication that one is insane is conclusive of the fact at that time and prima facie evidence of insanity at a subsequent period,[34] but raises no presumption of previous lunacy.[35] The degree of insanity which will relieve a person from liability on his contracts[36] may not be sufficient to absolve him from liability for crime.[37] The insanity of a husband does not absolve him or his estate from the duty of maintaining his wife,[38] and enforced separation caused by insanity is not ground for divorce;[39] but the husband is not liable at common law for the support of his wife while she is confined in an insane asylum under process of law.[40] On restoration to sanity, the quondam lunatic is entitled to be restored to his civil rights.[41] One seeking to establish a restoration of sanity has the burden of proof.[42] That a party goes insecure evidence and to prevent the escape of the guilty person. Young v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 85 S. W. 229. Coroner cannot recover fees for unauthorized inquest. Id. See Coroners, 5 C. L. 763.

29. State v. Finch [Kan.] 81 P. 494.

30. State v. Finch [Kan.] 81 P. 494. See Witnesses (Privileges of) 4 C. L. 1967.

31. Code, §§ 515, 529. Finarty v. Marion County [Iowa] 103 N. W. 772.

32. Insanity as a defense to crime, see Criminal Law, 5 C. L. 883.

33. See 4 C. L. 126.

NOTE: Kleptomania is not ground for the annulment of marriage if the person afflicted with it is otherwise sane and his or her mind is not so affected with this peculiar mania as to be incapable of understanding or assenting to the marriage contract (Lewis v. Lewis, 44 Minn. 124, 46 N. W. 323, 20 Am. St. Rep. 559, 9 L. R. A. 505), but is a complete defense to the crime of larceny (Commonwealth v. Fritch, 9 Pa. Co. Ct. Rep. 164; Harris v. State, 18 Tex. App. 287; In re Castle, 102 L. T. 28; People v. Cummins, 47 Mich. 334, 11 N. W. 184). See, also, Looney v. State, 10 Tex. Ct. App. 520, 38 Am. Rep. 646. In State v. McCullough, 114 Iowa, 532, 89 Am. St. Rep. 382, 55 L. R. A. 378, it is defined as an irresistible desire to steal, arising from a weakening of the will power to such an extent as to leave the afflicted one powerless to control his impulse without regard to whether such impulse is inspired by avarice, greed or idle fancy.—Note to State v. McCullough [Iowa] 89 Am. St. Rep. 382.

34. Where, on a prosecution for homicide, defendant was adjudged insane and committed to an asylum and 3 years later his mental condition was found to be the same, on subsequent petition for discharge, he must show by a clear and strong preponderance of evidence that he is not insane and that his release will not be dangerous to the public peace. In re Palmer, 26 R. I. 486, 59 A. 746. In habeas corpus by one declared insane and dangerous in a prosecution for homicide, it is presumed that he continues in the same condition until the contrary is affirmatively proven. Ex parte Brown [Wash.] 81 P. 552.

35. Andrews v. Andrews' Committee [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1080.

36. A person is insane when he or she is not possessed of mind and reason equal to a full and clear understanding of the nature and consequence of his or her act in making a contract. Barlow v. Strange, 120 Ga. 1015, 48 S. E. 344.

37. The Florida statutes which prescribe the mode of procedure in adjudging persons insane do not apply to persons charged with a criminal offense who plead insanity. Reyes v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 257.

38. Alimony may be allowed where divorce is granted because of the husband's insanity. Moseley v. Larson [Miss.] 38 So. 234.

39. Absence for the statutory period caused by insanity is no ground for divorce. Andrews v. Andrews' Committee [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1080.

40. Richardson v. Stuesser [Wis.] 103 N. W. 261. See Husband and Wife, 5 C. L. 1731, note.

41. Under Laws 1896, p. 501, c. 545, and Code Civ. Proc. § 2058, providing for a writ of habeas corpus and an appeal from proceedings thereunder, an appeal showing that the alleged lunatic was not insane will not be dismissed merely because the relator was a stranger to the proceeding and had no interest. People v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 277.

42. On petition in habeas corpus for discharge from an asylum, evidence held insufficient to show that petitioner was not insane sane after verdict rendered is no objection to the signing of the findings and judgment.[48]

§ 2. Inquisitions[44] of lunacy are statutory and are governed by the statute under which they are had as to notice,[45] venue,[46] and the extent and character of findings to be made,[47] and costs.[48]

§ 3. Guardianship and support.[49]—Guardians may be appointed for the persons and estates of insane persons after their lunacy has been established[50] and not before.[51] In the appointment of a guardian the best interest of the lunatic is the controlling consideration.[52]

The estates of insane persons[53] and those whose moral duty it is to support them are generally made liable for the cost of their maintenance in asylums,[54] and methods are provided by law for the recovery of such expense.[55] A state has no common-law right to recover compensation for maintaining a nonresident patient in a state asylum,[56] and such right is not given by a statutory provision that the support of an insane person, a public charge, shall not release their estates or relatives from liability.[57] A husband is not liable for the support of his insane wife who has been removed from his home and is maintained at an insane asylum.[58] The cost for caring for indigent insane is generally imposed on the county of his residence,[59] and is a subject of statutory regulation.[60] A statutory right of one and that his discharge would not be dangerous to the public peace. In re Palmer, 26 R. I. 486, 59 A. 746. In habeas corpus for the discharge of an insane person as cured, testimony of eminent physicians must be taken at its full value and be regarded as controlling. Id.

43. San Luis Obispo County v. Simas [Cal. App.] 81 P. 972.

44. See 4 C. L. 126. Ch. 253, p. 612, Laws 1901 (Gen. St. 1901, § 6521), providing for inquests of lunacy, does not embrace more in its body than is expressed in its title. Ex parte Schley [Kan.] 80 P. 631.

45. Under Act June 13, 1836 (P. L. 589), notice of lunacy proceeding on the alleged lunatic is sufficient, without notice to next of kin or friends. Brooke's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 430.

46. Lunacy proceedings relative to a person confined in a state asylum may be brought in the county in which the hospital is situated or in the county of the residence of the alleged lunatic. Brooke's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 430.

47. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2325, an inquisition of lunacy is not confined to the sole question of incompetency, but a finding as to the lunatic's property may be made. In re Preston, 46 Misc. 46, 93 N. Y. S. 283.

48. The costs of an inquisition for the determination of the mental capacity of one to manage his property cannot be awarded against his estate when the proceeding resulted in a determination that he was not an incompetent. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 2333, 2334, 2336. Sander v. Larner, 101 App. Div. 167, 91 N. Y. S. 428. An order imposing costs in lunacy proceedings on the lunatic's estate will not be reversed where no testimony was taken and no method of showing the amount to be excessive. Brooke's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 430.

49. See 4 C. L. 127; also, Guardianship, 5 C. L. 1603.

50. A finding on an inquisition of lunacy held equivalent to a finding that the alleged incompetent was an imbecile bringing the case within the concurrent jurisdiction of the county and supreme courts, conferred by Code Civ. Proc. § 2320. In re Preston, 46 Misc. 46, 93 N. Y. S. 283.

51. Before a guardian can be appointed and property transferred to him, it must appear that the person is weak minded and is liable to lose his property. In re Bryden's Estate [Pa.] 61 A. 250.

52. In proceedings for the appointment of a committee for an incompetent who is competent to decide the manner of his life and desires to stay in his present abode, the court should order that he be not removed therefrom without authority from the court. In re Cooper, 94 N. Y. S. 270.

53. Where a lunatic is placed in a foreign asylum with the consent of her husband and committee, such asylum can recover from the lunatic's estate the amount allowed by the state of his residence, for his support. Mander's Committee v. Eastern State Hospital [Ky.] 84 S. W. 761.

54. Rev. St. 1898, § 604E, into which was incorporated §§ 1500-1505, provides the procedure by which one privately liable for the support of an insane person confined in an asylum may be compelled to pay. Richardson v. Stuesser [Wis.] 103 N. W. 261.

55. An action to enforce the order of the county judge must be commenced in the name of the county in some court having jurisdiction. The county court has not jurisdiction. Richardson v. Stuesser [Wis.] 103 N. W. 261.

56. Such asylums being largely charities. State v. Colligan [Iowa] 104 N. W. 905.

57. Code, § 2297. State v. Colligan [Iowa] 104 N. W. 905.

58. The fact that she is so legally removed from his home does not raise an inference of a refusal to support her therein county to recover from another for maintenance of indigent insane persons is not a vested right.[61]

§ 4. Commitment to asylums.[62]—A statute providing that a person indicted for an offense and acquitted by the jury because he is insane may be committed to prison if his discharge be deemed dangerous to the community is not unconstitutional.[63] It does not prevent the insane person from demanding an investigation at any time of the question of his restoration to sanity.[64] The order of commitment must be certain.[65]

§ 5. Property and debts.[66]—Real estate of insane persons may be sold on order of court.[67] The committee of a lunatic is entitled to present possession of the income of his ward's estate.[68] An executory gift which might have been revoked by the donor may be revoked by his guardian on the donor's becoming non compos mentis.[69] The committee of a lunatic who has absolute control of the ward's property is taxable on credits in his hands belonging to his ward in the county of his domicile, though appointed elsewhere.[70] In Illinois the conservator of a lunatic is entitled to administer his estate.[71] In Texas, on the insanity of one spouse, the other may administer and dispose of the community property during his lifetime, but he cannot dispose of the community interest of the insane spouse by will.[72]

§ 6. Contracts and conveyances.[73]—As a general rule an insane person's contracts are voidable, not void,[74] but may be void by reason of the nature of the so as to render him liable for her support in the hospital. Richardson v. Stuesser [Wis.] 103 N. W. 261.

59. Under the New York statutes where an indigent resident of one county, charged with crime in another, is committed to a state lunatic asylum, there is no general liability on the part of the county of his residence to reimburse the county from which he was sent for sums paid out by it on account of his confinement in the asylum. Jefferson County v. County of Oswego, 102 App. Div. 232, 92 N. Y. S. 709.

60. Laws 1896, p. 508, c. 545, § 101, amended by Laws 1899, p. 461, c. 260, expressly provide that the expenses of an inmate of a state asylum, committed there by a court of criminal jurisdiction, and transferred to the Matteawan State Hospital, are to be paid by the county in which the criminal charge arose, if he was then a resident of that county, otherwise by the state. Jefferson County v. County of Oswego, 102 App. Div. 232, 92 N. Y. S. 709.

61. A repeal of the statute discontinues the liability, though the same person continued in the asylum and was maintained. Jefferson County v. County of Oswego, 102 App. Div. 232, 92 N. Y. S. 709. And the fact that his expenses were paid by the county liable under the statute is not such an admission of liability as precludes the right to discontinue payment after the statute is repealed. Id.

62. See 4 C. L. 128.

63. Does not deny due process, nor the right to trial by jury, nor the right of counsel, nor does it inflict cruel punishment. Ex parte Brown [Wash.] 81 P. 552.

64. Ex parte Brown [Wash.] 81 P. 552.

65. An order committing to prison one found insane and acquitted on that ground and sent to prison because his discharge was deemed dangerous, "to await further order of the court," is not void for uncertainty. Ex parte Brown [Wash.] 81 P. 552.

66. See 4 C. L. 128.

67. Civ. Code Proc. § 490, subsec. 2, expressly provides that a vested estate in possession owned by two or more may be ordered sold by the court of equity, though the owners be of unsound mind. Mudock v. Loeser [Ky.] 87 S. W. 808.

68. The committee of an incompetent legatee is entitled to rents accruing to his ward without waiting until the administrator of the estate has settled and had approved his annual account. In re Cowen, 94 N. Y. S. 303.

69. Promise to permit his property to be occupied by another rent free, and on the death of the promisor the promisee to become the owner. Buhler v. Trombly [Mich.] 102 N. W. 647.

70. Hurt v. Bristol [Va.] 51 S. E. 223. Under Code 1904, p. 877, § 1702, the committee of a lunatic has absolute control of his ward's estate, though it is his duty to render annual accounts to the court. Id. Code 1904, p. 254, § 492b, relative to payment of taxes from funds in the control of the court, does not apply. Id.

71. Statutes construed. Lang v. Friesenecker, 213 Ill. 598, 73 N. E. 329.

72. Rev. St. 1895, art. 2220, does not divest the title of the insane spouse. Schwartz v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 282. See, also, Husband and Wife, 5 C. L. 1731.

73. See 4 C. L. 129. See, also, Contracts, 5 C. L. 664; Incompetency, 5 C. L. 1775.

NOTE: Revocation of agency by insanity, see 4 C. L. 1303.

74. A contract by one mentally weak of which fact the other party has notice will not be specifically enforced, especially where the incompetent has returned all he received by virtue of it. Miller v. Tjexhus [S. D.] 104 N. W. 519. An assignment of a contract subject-matter.[75] A marriage contracted by an insane person is void,[76] and in Alabama all his contracts are void.[77] In jurisdictions where the contracts are void, the defense of insanity is not a personal one.[78]

§ 7. Torts.[79]

§ 8. Actions by or against.[80]—If there is no statutory authority for the

to purchase land is voidable only. Wolcott v. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 569.

Note: As to whether an assignment by an insane person, not under guardianship, involving his right to execute a deed, is void or voidable, the decisions are conflicting. By the weight of authority, however, it is held voidable. Castro v. Geil, 110 Cal. 292, 42 P. 804, 52 Am. St. Rep. 84; French Lumbering Co. v. Theriault, 107 Wis. 627, 83 N. W. 927, 81 Am. St. Rep. 856, 51 L. R. A. 910; McAnaw v. Tiffin, 143 Mo. 667, 45 S. W. 656; Burnham v. Kidwell, 113 Ill. 425; Johnson v. Harmon, 94 U. S. 371, 24 Law. Ed. 271; Luhrs v. Hancock, 181 U. S. 567, 45 Law. Ed. 1005. Van Deusen v. Sweet, 51 N. Y. 378, only declares deeds void when made by persons absolutely incompetent to act mentally in the transaction. Several American jurisdictions, including two Federal circuit courts, hold the deeds of persons non compos mentis absolutely void when a guardian does not appear to have been appointed. Farley v. Parker, 6 Or. 105, 25 Am. Rep. 504; Boddie v. Bush, 136 Ala. 560; Beach, The Modern Law of Contract, 1390; German Savings & Loan Soc. v. De Lashmutt, 67 F. 399; Edwards v. Davenport, 20 F. 756. To be distinguished from these, Dexter v. Hall, 15 Wall. [U. S.] 9, 21 Law. Ed. 73, that the power of attorney of one non compos mentis is void. Commitment to an asylum pursuant to statute does not establish incapacity to contract in the person so committed. Leggate v. Clark, 111 Mass. 308; Knox v. Hang, 48 Minn. 58; The Topeka Water-Supply Co. v. Root, 56 Kan. 187; Dewey v. Allgire, 37 Neb. 6, 40 Am. St. Rep. 468. Ratification is presumed by doing nothing toward disaffirmance after becoming sane. Arnold v. Richmond Iron Works, 1 Gray [Mass.] 434. Or by long acquiescence after restoration to sanity. Jones v. Evans, 7 Dana [Ky.] 96. Ratification or disaffirmance may be shown by any acts clearly indicating an intention to ratify or annul a deed made during insanity. Howe v. Howe, 99 Mass. 98.—3 Mich. L. R. 157.

75. A conveyance of the homestead by a husband, insane as to all duties owing his wife, is void. Moseley v. Larson [Miss.] 38 So. 234.

76. The adjudication of lunacy which annuls a marriage contracted while such condition existed is the adjudication in the suit brought to annul such marriage, and the lunatic need not be so adjudged prior to commencement of such action. Statutes construed. Mackey v. Peters, 22 App. D. C. 341.

77. His transfer of a note. Walker v. Winn [Ala.] 39 So. 12.

78. The maker of a note transferred by an insane person may set up the insanity of the transferror in an action by the transferee, under the plea that the plaintiff is not the real party in interest. Walker v. Winn [Ala.] 39 So. 12.

NOTE. Who may disaffirm: The contract of an insane person may be disaffirmed in the incompetent's lifetime by his guardian or committee (McClain v. Davis, 77 Ind. 419; Gibson v. Soper, 6 Gray [Mass.] 279; Reason v. Jones, 119 Mich. 672; Halley v. Troester, 72 Mo. 73; Moore v. Hershey, 90 Pa. 196), or by himself upon entire restoration to reason, or in a lucid interval (McClain v. Davis, 77 Ind. 419; Hovey v. Hobson, 53 Me. 451, 454, 89 Am. Dec. 705; Turner v. Rusk, 53 Md. 65; Gibson v. Soper, 6 Gray [Mass.] 279; Moore v. Hershey, 90 Pa. 1962), or, after his death, by his heirs or legal representatives (Beverley's Case, 4 Coke, 123b; Bunn v. Postell, 107 Ga. 490; Somers v. Pumphrey, 24 Ind. 231; Northwestern Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Blankenship, 94 Ind. 535, 48 Am. Rep. 185; Hovey v. Hobson, 53 Me. 451, 89 Am. Dec. 705; Evans v. Horan, 52 Md. 602; Rogers v. Blackwell, 49 Mich. 192; Hunt v. Rabitoay, 125 Mich. 137, 84 Am. St. Rep. 563; McAnaw v. Tiffin, 143 Mo. 667; Millison v. Nicholson, 1 N. C. 549; Wigglesworth v. Steers, 1 Hen. & M. [Va.] 70), and an incompetent's conveyance may be avoided by any one who is in privity with him (Cates v. Woodson, 2 Dana [Ky.] 452, 454). But see Hunt v. Rabitoay, 125 Mich. 137, 84 Am. St. Rep. 563. In reference to the law of infancy on this point, see page 254, supra. The sane party is bound by the contract if the other so elects (Matthews v. Baxter, L. R. 8 Exch. 132; Harmon v. Harmon, 51 F. 113; Caldwell v. Ruddy, 2 Idaho, 5, 11; Mead v. Stegall, 77 Ill. App. 679; Allen v. Berryhill, 27 Iowa, 534; Breckenridge's Heirs v. Ormsby, 1 J. J. Marsh. [Ky.] 236, 239; Howe v. Howe, 99 Mass. 88, 99), and strangers cannot exercise the right to rescind (Eaton's Adm'r v. Perry, 29 Mo. 96). But see Drummond v. Hopper, 4 Har. [Del.] 327. Thus, a surety on a note executed by an insane person cannot interpose insanity as a defense, where the maker has not avoided the instrument (Caldwell v. Ruddy, 2 Idaho, 5; Lee v. Yandell, 69 Tex. 34). And one not in privity with a lunatic who has conveyed away his property cannot avoid the deed, where, at the time of making it, the grantor had not been adjudged insane (Key's Lessee v. Davis, 1 Md. 32, 43; Jackson v. Gumaer, 2 Cow. [N. Y.] 552; Ingraham v. Baldwin, 9 N. Y. 45.) However, it has been held that the fact that the indorser of a negotiable note was insane at the time of the indorsement may be urged as a defense by the maker of the note in an action thereon by the indorsee (Alcock v. Alcock, 3 Man. & G. 268; Bradbury v. Place [Me.] 10 A. 461; Hannahs v. Sheldon, 20 Mich. 278; Burke v. Allen, 29 N. H. 106). Contra, Carrier v. Sears, 4 Allen [Mass.] 336. See Tiffany, Real Prop. § 191.

79. See 4 C. L. 129 and 2 C. L. 458.

80. See 4 C. L. 129.

appointment of a guardian ad litem for an incompetent plaintiff, the action must be prosecuted by his committee,[81] and in case of his disqualification or refusal to prosecute, a new committee should be appointed for that purpose;[82] but it is held that a suit in equity may by leave of court be maintained by the next friend on behalf of a lunatic who has not been so found upon inquisition,[83] and such bill will not be stricken on the application of the alleged incompetent, supported by affidavits of his return to capacity, prior to the judicial determination of such question,[84] and a proceeding to annul a marriage contracted during lunacy is properly brought by a next friend, making the committee a party defendant.[85] Though jurisdiction can be acquired by personal service on an insane person, a guardian ad litem should be appointed to protect his interests at all subsequent proceedings.[86] A cause should not be dismissed because the plaintiff is insane.[87] An insane person is a ward of the court and his committee is subject to its control.[88] Under a pleading sufficient to let in testimony of mental weakness and partial incapacity to attend to business, evidence of total incapacity is admissible.[89] Actions against the estate of a lunatic are governed by the limitations of the state where the estate is located, since the estate can be reached only through the courts of that state.[90]

INSOLVENCY.

This article treats only of the general law of insolvency and insolvency procedure and settlement. Matters pertinent to bankruptcy,[91] assignments for the benefit of creditors,[92] the appointment, rights, and duties of receivers,[93] the discharge of insolvents from imprisonment for debt,[94] the law of marshalling assets,[95] and composition with creditors, are treated elsewhere.[96]

§ 1. Effect of Federal bankruptcy act on state insolvency laws.[97]—The national

81. Rankert v. Rankert, 93 N. Y. S. 399. A complaint by a next friend which does not disclose that the insane person has no guardian or why it was necessary for him to sue by next friend may be met by special demurrer. If the special demurrer is not met by appropriate amendment, it is proper to dismiss the action. Stanley v. Stanley [Ga.] 51 S. E. 287.

82. Rankert v. Rankert, 93 N. Y. S. 399.

83. Kroehl v. Taylor [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 257.

Note: As to the right of lunatics to institute legal proceedings by their next friends either before or after an inquisition of lunacy, see Isle v. Cranby, 199 Ill. 39, 64 L. R. A. 513, and note.

84. Bill to set aside a conveyance and revoke a power of attorney. Kroehl v. Taylor [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 257.

85. Under Code D. C. § 1286. Mackey v. Peters, 22 App. D. C. 341.

86. Wilson v. Wilson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 300. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 427, a guardian ad litem in foreclosure proceedings should be given authority to appear in surplus money proceedings or another person should be designated to appear. American Mortg. Co. v. Dewey, 94 N. Y. S. 808.

87. The court should appoint a guardian ad litem under the authority conferred by Rev. St. 1898, § 2615. Wiesmann v. Donald [Wis.] 104 N. W. 916.

88. Where there is a formal defect in the pleading of a committee, the court should order an amendment and find facts according to the proof shown by the record. Manders' Committee v. Eastern State Hospital [Ky.] 84 S. W. 761.

89. Miller v. Tjexhus [S. D.] 104 N. W. 519.

90. Action against the committee of a lunatic, resident of Kentucky, for maintenance in a Virginia hospital. Manders' Committee v. Eastern State Hospital [Ky.] 84 S. W. 761.

91. See Bankruptcy, 5 C. L. 367.

92. See Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, 5 C. L. 286.

93. See Receivers, 4 C. L. 1238.

94. See Civil Arrest, 5 C. L. 587.

95. See Marshaling Assets and Securities, 4 C. L. 531.

96. See Composition With Creditors, 5 C. L. 608.

97. See 4 C. L. 129. See, also, Bankruptcy, 5 C. L. 367.

bankruptcy act suspends and supersedes all state insolvency laws which are in their nature bankruptcy acts,[98] except as to cases and persons not within its purview;[99] but it has been held that state laws which are not in the nature of bankruptcy acts are not suspended in any given case until proceedings are actually commenced against the debtor under the Federal act.[1] A distinction must be drawn between the staying of a proceeding to coerce payment of a debt and the supersession of an insolvency or bankruptcy law. A proceeding may be stayed, though based on a law which is neither of these.[2]

§ 2. Procedure and parties to adjudicate insolvency.[3]—One is insolvent within the meaning of the Federal bankruptcy act when the aggregate of his property, exclusive of any property which he may have conveyed, transferred, concealed, or removed, or permitted to be sold or removed with intent to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors, is not, at a fair valuation, sufficient in amount to pay his debts.[4]

Under the New Jersey act the debtor is only required to present his petition to the court and not to file it, and he is not deprived of his right to a discharge because the judge fails to file it with the clerk within a reasonable time.[5]

§ 3. Property passing to the assignee[6] is generally such as might be subjected to the payment of debts.[7] In a suit by an assignee for creditors to recover the price of work done under a contract entered into by the assignor and completed by the assignee, the defendant may set off a claim growing out of mutual dealings between him and the assignor before the date of the assignment.[8]

In Louisiana a mortgage may be enforced by execution process against a syndic to whom has come the debtor's estate in the lands by a cession[9] and he may make all defenses for the creditors.[10]

§ 4. Adminstration of insolvent estate.[11]—The affairs of an insolvent corporation will be administered by a Federal court of equity in accordance with its general equity powers rather than by a close adherence to the provisions of the

98. Act of June 4, 1901, which is substantially a bankrupt act, suspended whether proceedings have been begun under Federal act or not, since where states and congress have concurrent power, its exercise by congress does away with state control. Potts v. Smith Mfg. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 206. Rev. Laws, c. 147 superseded and remains in abeyance so long as bankruptcy act continues in force. Hoague v. Cumner, 187 Mass. 296, 72 N. E. 956. See, also, In re Alison Lumber Co., 137 F. 643, and cases cited.

99. Potts v. Smith Mfg. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 206. Proceedings under state law may be had against farmers, to whom bankruptcy act does not apply. Musser v. Brindle, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 37.

1. Georgia insolvent traders' act (Civ. Code 1895, §§ 2716-2722) is an insolvency and not a bankruptcy law, and the state courts have jurisdiction to try all cases coming within its purview, in the absence of any proceedings under the Federal statute. Boston Mercantile Co. v. Ould-Carter Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 466. State court must, however, yield jurisdiction when either voluntary or involuntary proceedings are begun under Federal act. Id.

2. Note. It is held in In re Hicks, 133 F. 739, that a fire ordinance providing for discharge of firemen on failure to pay personal and household debts is in conflict with the National Bankruptcy Act. While this is plainly laid down, there seems to be an implied qualification of it in the fact that the court calls attention to the pendency of the bankruptcy proceeding, when proceedings were instituted under the ordinance, which as the court found were intended to coerce payment of a scheduled debt. There undoubtedly was a conflict between the two proceedings and in that case the state proceeding must yield (See cases cited in the Opinion, p. 747); but a conflict between the proceedings is not one between the laws out of which they originate and the case seems wrong in so holding. Would it be contended that in the absence of a pending proceeding in bankruptcy or as to debts incurred after discharge the ordinance would have no force?

3. See 3 C. L. 130.

4. See Bankruptcy, 5 C. L. 367, for a full discussion of this question.

5. Stokes v. Hardy [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 403, rvg. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 650.

6. See 3 C. L. 130.

7. See the titles Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, 5 C. L. 286; Bankruptcy, 5 C. L. 367; Fraudulent Conveyances, 5 C. L. 1556.

8. Contract to drill well. Meeder v. Goehring, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 457.

9, 10. Trezevant v. Levy's Heirs [La.] 38 So. 589.

11. See 4 C. L. 130.

statutes of the state in which it has its domicile.[12] In such case the rules in bankruptcy proceedings should be observed in so far as applicable, particularly where the corporation is one which might have been forced into involuntary bankruptcy.[13]

In Louisiana in the choice of a definitive syndic the opinion of the majority of the creditors in number and amount must prevail.[14] In case one person has a majority in number and another in amount, there is no choice and the court should make an appointment.[15] Each creditor is entitled to only one expression of opinion,[16] and no one of them will be presumed to have abandoned his right because he has been too explicit or lengthy in setting out his claims.[17]

The statutes relating to the filing of claims against insolvents do not apply to claims for indebtedness incurred by the assignee for the benefit of creditors after the making of the assignment.[18] Debts due, but not yet payable, are provable as such;[19] but claims, the existence of which is wholly contingent, are not.[20]

A court of equity, in administering the affairs of an insolvent corporation, will allow a claim to be proven after the expiration of the period limited by a general order for the proof of creditors' claims, and before distribution, provided the claim is an equitable one and the claimant is not chargeable with laches;[21] but it will not postpone the distribution indefinitely for the mere purpose of insuring against loss parties whose contractual relations with the corporation give rise to no present ascertainable debts.[22]

A debtor has a right to prefer a creditor, and a creditor to obtain a preference over other creditors, so long as it is not done to aid a debtor in hindering and delaying his creditors,[23] and there is no violation of the Federal bankruptcy act.[24]

Courts of equity usually seek to put all creditors of an insolvent estate upon the same footing as to the payment of their claims, and allow no preferences between them, unless justice demands it;[25] but the equality which is to be sought is generally rather equality between members of a class than between different classes of in-

12, 13. Conklin v. U. S. Shipbuilding Co., 136 F. 1006.

14. Rev. St. § 1799. Conery v. His Creditors [La.] 38 So. 1005. Transfer of claims held to give transferee right to vote them. Id. Evidence held not to show payment of claim of one of the creditors so as to disqualify him from voting. Id.

15. Conery v. His Creditors [La.] 38 So. 1005.

16. Assignee of several claims cannot express an opinion for each of them. Conery v. His Creditors [La.] 38 So. 1005.

17. Conery v. His Creditors [La.] 38 So. 1005. The word "vote" in Rev. St. § 1797 does not have the effect of changing or modifying § 1799 to such an extent as would justify the court in holding that a creditor who details the different amounts due him in voting has lost all right to be heard, except as to the first amount. Id.

18. Ringenoldus v. Abresch, 119 Wis. 410, 96 N. W. 817.

19. Gen. St. c. 118, § 25. Cruvier v. Williams [Mass.] 75 N. E. 618. Effect of agreement to give defendant credit for net proceeds of certain land conveyed by him to his creditor, with further agreement that defendant would pay any balance remaining due, held to be that debt was due but not payable until after a sale of the land, and hence it was provable. Id.

20. Where it is altogether contingent whether there is a debt or not, as where land is conveyed and accepted in payment in so far as the proceeds thereof will go, coupled with an agreement to make good the loss to the creditor if the land does not sell for the amount of the debt, the claim is not provable and the discharge is not a bar. Currier v. Williams [Mass.] 75 N. E. 618. A contract is not provable so long as it remains wholly uncertain whether it will ever give rise to any actual duty or liability, and there is no means of removing the uncertainty by calculation. Surety on bond of insolvent corporation, who has not been subjected to any loss or required to pay any money, by reason of his liability thereon, has no provable claim merely because of the pendency of a suit against him thereon in which he denies liability. Conklin v. U. S. Shipbuilding Co., 136 F. 1006.

21. Conklin v. U. S. Shipbuilding Co., 136 F. 1006.

22. Not to protect sureties on bond who have not yet been subjected to any loss, and who deny liability in a suit against them. Conklin v. U. S. Shipbuilding Co., 136 F. 1006.

23. Eickstaedt v. Moses, 105 Ill. App. 634. Debtor may prefer his creditors (Schreeder v. Werry [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 832), and the rule is not changed by the fact that the creditor is the wife of the debtor (Id.).

24. See Bankruptcy, 5 C. L. 367.

dividuals.[26] The state has no right to a preference over other creditors of an insolvent corporation on a simple contract claim, which it has taken no steps to enforce before the appointment of a receiver.[27] Wages due laborers are generally made preferred claims.[28] The Federal statutes give a surety, who has paid the amount due the government under his insolvent principal's bond, a preference in the distribution of the latter's estate,[29] and the statute giving a preference to claims of the government against the estates of insolvents gives it no priority as against such surety, and no such right exists.[30]

§ 5. Rights and liabilities affected by insolvency and discharge of insolvent.[31]—The legislature has authority to provide the machinery through which the distribution of the estates of insolvents is to be made,[32] and an act which does so controls any process of collection put in course of execution subsequent to its passage, even though the claim which is sought to be enforced arose prior thereto.[33]

In New Jersey the insolvent is required, as a condition precedent to his right to discharge, to make an assignment to parties nominated by the court, of all his real and personal property not exempt.[34] Such assignment operates upon all the property of the debtor, whether exhibited in the inventory or not,[35] and he is not excused from making it by reason of the fact that the inventory shows only exempt property.[36] The insolvent, however, is not responsible for the act of the court in making the discharge before the inventory is filed, and he should not, by reason thereof, be entirely deprived of his right to a discharge, nor should the sureties on his bond be required to pay his debts.[37]

INSPECTION, see latest topical index.

25, 26. Gilbert v. Endowment Ass'n, 21 App. D. C. 344.

27. Claim under insurance policy. State v. Williams [Md.] 61 A. 297.

28. In Indiana before labor claims can stand as preferred debts, it must be shown that the labor was performed in connection with the business in which the insolvent was engaged. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 7051, 7058, construed. McDaniel v. Osborne [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 601. Receiver appointed in action to foreclose mortgage is neither an assignee nor receiver within the meaning of Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1236, subd. 4, or § 7058, making debts due laborers preferred claims in certain cases. Id.

In Mississippi claims for labor performed for a corporation just before its insolvency and the appointment of a receiver, which was necessary to continue the business and preserve the property, are entitled to preference over the claims of both ordinary and mortgage creditors. L'Hote v. Boyet [Miss.] 38 So. 1.

29. Rev. St. § 3468. Has priority for so much of the government's claim only as he may have paid either voluntarily or under compulsion. United States v. Heaton, 124 F. 699. An individual who has paid money to the government as a surety acquires the same right of priority which belongs to the government, and it may be that the same priority extends to one who has satisfied a moral obligation to the government by responding as surety for a Federal officer or employe who has been guilty of misfeasance. American Surety Co. v. Akron Savings Bank Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 374.

30. Rev. St. §§ 3466-3468. United States v. Heaton, 124 F. 699.

31. See 3 C. L. 131.

32. Musser v. Brindle, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 37.

33. Musser v. Brindle, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 37. Where, after passage of insolvency act of June 4, 1901 (P. L. 404), judgment is entered and execution issued upon a bond secured by a mortgage executed prior to passage of act, one to whom defendant subsequently makes assignment for the benefit of creditors is entitled to have the execution on defendant's personalty set aside. Id. Act does not defeat plaintiff of his preference, if he has one, but merely gives assignee control of personalty of the assignor, and is not unconstitutional as depriving plaintiff of vested rights. Id.

34. Insolvent debtor's act, § 11, Gen. St. p. 1728. Stokes v. Hardy [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 403, rvg. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 650.

35. Stokes v. Hardy [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 403, rvg. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 650.

36. Order of discharge set aside. Stokes v. Hardy [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 403, rvg. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 650.

37. Supreme court, on setting aside discharge, should not permit creditors to sue on the bond, but should remand case to the common pleas for further proceedings according to law. Stokes v. Hardy [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 403, rvg. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 650.

INSPECTION LAWS.[38]

Statutes providing for the inspection of factories are a proper exercise of the police power,[39] and are valid if uniform in operation.[40] They do not impose judicial or legislative functions on inspectors by requiring them to make inspections and give certificates of the result thereof to proprietors.[41] Ordinances providing for the inspection of milk and prohibiting the sale of milk which is not of the grade required are valid police regulations,[42] and will be upheld if within the charter powers of the municipality enacting them.[43] Such an ordinance charging a city chemist with the duty of analyzing all specimens of milk submitted to him to determine whether it is of the required grade does not deprive a seller of milk of any constitutional right.[44] A reasonable[45] inspection fee is not a tax upon property and the exaction of such a fee is a valid exercise of the police power.[46]

Under the Wilson act, subjecting to state laws intoxicating liquors shipped into the state and held there for sale or consumption, a state may subject to inspection, and impose an inspection fee upon, beer and other malt liquors shipped into a state, similar domestic products being subject to the same inspection.[47] A decision by the highest state court that such a statute is a valid exercise of the police power, within the provisions of the state constitution, and that it is not objectionable as being a revenue and not an inspection law, though the inspection provided for is inadequate and the revenue produced greater than the cost of inspection, is conclusive on a Federal court and brings the law within the terms of the Wilson act.[48] It is not therefore objectionable as an interference with interstate commerce, even though it deters the shipment into the state of liquors made elsewhere.[49]

Laws regulating common occupations which from their nature afford peculiar opportunity for imposition and fraud are within the police power.[50] Thus the Georgia statute regulating the sale of seed cotton, requiring the written consent of the owner of the land to the sale, and providing for the punishment of persons who buy in violation of the terms of the act, is valid.[51] An indictment following the language of the statute is not demurrable because it fails to describe the land on which the seed cotton was grown.[52]

38. See 4 C. L. 132. Compare Constitutional Law, 5 C. L. 619; Food, 5 C. L. 1436; Health, 5 C. L. 1641.

39. Laws 1901, pp. 197, 198, providing for factory inspectors and for an inspection fee of $1 is valid. State v. Vickens, 186 Mo. 103, 84 S. W. 908.

40. Statute applying to all factories in the state held not to discriminate between factories in cities and those in the country. State v. Vickens, 186 Mo. 103, 84 S. W. 908.

41. State v. Vickens, 186 Mo. 103, 84 S. W. 908.

42. St. Louis ordinance requiring milk to contain, on analysis, seven-tenths per cent. ash is valid. City of St. Louis v. Liessing [Mo.] 89 S. W. 611.

43. St. Louis charter gives power to provide for milk inspection and to license and regulate occupation; hence ordinance providing for reasonable inspection and reasonable fee therefor is valid. City of St. Louis v. Liessing [Mo.] 89 S. W. 611; City of St. Louis v. Grafeman Dairy Co. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 617.

44. The seller may contest the chemist's analysis and decision when prosecuted. City of St. Louis v. Liessing [Mo.] 89 S. W. 611.

45. Fee of $1 for inspecting factory is reasonable. State v. Vickens, 186 Mo. 103, 84 S. W. 908. Requiring annual registration fee of $1 from milk and cream venders, $2.50 per six months from dealers and $25 from wholesalers, is reasonable. City of St. Louis v. Liessing [Mo.] 89 S. W. 611.

46. State v. Vickens, 186 Mo. 103, 84 S. W. 908. Requiring venders of milk and cream to pay a registration fee of $1 per year to pay cost of inspection is proper exercise of police power. City of St. Louis v. Grafeman Dairy Co. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 617.

47. Missouri statute upheld. Pabst Brewing Co. v. Crenshaw, 198 U. S. 17, 49 Law. Ed. 925.

48. Decision of Missouri supreme court in State v. Bixman, 162 Mo. 1, 62 S. W. 828, held state law valid. Pabst Brewing Co. v. Crenshaw, 198 U. S. 17, 49 Law. Ed. 925.

49. Pabst Brewing Co. v. Crenshaw, 198 U. S. 17, 49 Law. Ed. 925.

50, 51, 52. Bazemore v. State, 121 Ga. 619, 49 S. E. 701.

INSTRUCTIONS.

The scope of this topic is confined to instructions in civil cases. Instructions in criminal prosecutions are elsewhere treated.[53]

§ 1. Object and purpose[54] of instructions is to lay down the law applicable to the facts which the evidence tends to prove.[55] They may be used for the purpose of telling the jury to disregard remarks made by the court during the course of the trial,[56] but not to exclude from consideration evidence admitted without objection.[57] Questions of law should not be submitted.[58]

§ 2. Province of court and jury.[59]—It is the exclusive province of the jury to determine all issues of fact;[60] the credibility of witnesses;[61] the weight to be given their testimony,[62] and to find the ultimate facts from all the evidence intro-

53. See Indictment and Prosecution, 4 C. L. 1.

54. See 4 C. L. 133.

55. Not to tell the jury that there is no proof of an allegation except to direct a verdict as to allegations not supported. Chicago & Joliet Elec. R. Co. v. Spence, 115 Ill. App. 465.

56. Chicago City R. Co. v. Jordan, 116 Ill. App. 650.

57. Chicago City R. Co. v. Fetzer, 113 Ill. App. 280.

58. See, also, post, § 2. Morrill v. McNeill [Neb.] 104 N. W. 195. An instruction that "defendant is liable, if without good cause and validly under the law, he repudiated his contract," is erroneous. Harmison v. Fleming, 105 Ill. App. 43. Leaving for the jury to decide whether the facts stated and proved give a cause of action. Tracewell v. Wood County Court [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 185. Requiring proof of material allegations without explaining what are material allegations is error. Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. De Yaeger, 112 Ill. App. 537. An instruction authorizing a finding for plaintiff if he made out his case "as laid in the declaration" is not erroneous as authorizing to determine what were the material allegations. Fraternal Army of America v. Evans, 215 Ill. 629, 74 N. E. 689. Where an ordinance has been duly proved and its terms are plain, the court may charge the jury to determine what it is and whether it has been violated. Thomasson v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 443.

59. See 4 C. L. 133.

60. Where facts are disputed, a peremptory charge is properly refused. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. McAdams [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1076.

Province of the jury is invaded by an instruction that greater care is required in operating cars in cities and on populous streets than in sparsely settled districts or upon streets where there are few travelers (Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Taylor [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1045; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 163), or by one to the effect that failure to heed certain signals constitutes negligence (Wabash R. Co. v. Bhymer, 112 Ill. App. 225). Request that certain acts constitute negligence is properly refused. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 110 Ill. App. 304.

61. The credibility of witnesses is for the jury, not the court. Southern Industrial Institute v. Hellier [Ala.] 39 So. 163. Where weight of the evidence or credibility of witnesses is involved, the cause should be submitted to the jury. Weller v. Hilderbrandt [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1108. An instruction which tends to hamper the jury in the full exercise of its judgment as to the credibility of witnesses is error. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Burke, 112 Ill. App. 415.

62. See, also, post, §§ 5, 12. The weight to be accorded evidence is for the jury, and it is error to withdraw it from their control by limiting or defining it. Harman v. Maddy Bros. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1009.

Province of jury invaded: An instruction

duced.[63] Hence, if the evidence is conflicting,[64] or even when there is no conflict,[65] if reasonable minds acting within the limitations prescribed by law might reach different conclusions, the issues must be submitted to them.[66] The court may point out inferences which may be drawn from a given state of facts,[67] and where there is no issue of fact, it is the duty of the court to direct a verdict.[68]

The construction of written instruments[69] is for the court.[70]

§ 3. Duty of instructing. Requests for instructions.[71]—In some jurisdictions the court is required to instruct on its own motion as to the general features of the law applicable to the material issues.[72] This rule is not complied with by a colloquy between court and counsel.[73] But in other jurisdictions courts are not required to instruct except as requested by the parties.[74] If the court of its own motion gives an instruction which it is not required to give in the absence of a request and such instruction is erroneous it is ground for reversal.[75] The court is not required to give the law governing the entire case.[76] An error of omission is not ground for reversal.[77] If an instruction is not as full as desired[78] in that it omits reference to as to how to weigh the evidence. Stubbings Co. v. World's Columbian Exposition Co., 110 Ill. App. 210. That testimony of witnesses having superior opportunities for knowing what took place is entitled to more weight than those who have not such opportunities. Himrod Coal Co. v. Clingan, 114 Ill. App. 568. That certain evidence should be considered with caution as it is subject to much imperfection and possible mistake. Mayer v. Schneider, 112 Ill. App. 628.

63. An instruction that if after considering all the evidence the jury believe the testimony of any one witness, they should find accordingly, invades the province of the jury. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Shedd, 110 Ill. App. 400.

64. Weller v. Hilderbrandt [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1108.

65. Though there is no conflict in the evidence, the conclusion therefrom is to be drawn by the jury if reasonable persons might differ as to the proper conclusion. Rothrock v. Cedar Rapids [Iowa] 103 N. W. 475.

66. Campbell v. Everhart [N. C.] 52 S. E. 201; Weller v. Hilderbrandt [S. D.] 101 N. W. 1108.

67. Kirkpatrick v. Allemannia Fire Ins. Co., 102 App. Div. 327, 92 N. Y. S. 466.

68. See Directing Verdict and Demurrer to Evidence, 5 C. L. 1004.

Southern R. Co. v. Vaughn [Miss.] 38 So. 500. An instruction that if the jury find that the evidence is evenly balanced on the material issues, they being clearly defined, a verdict must be found for the defendant, is proper. Chicago City R. Co. v. Osborne, 105 Ill. App. 462.

69. See 4 C. L. 134.

70. Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386. Submitting the question whether certain writings constitute a contract is erroneous. Ellis v. Block [Mass.] 73 N. E. 475.

71. See 4 C. L. 134.

72. It is the duty of the court to submit issues essential to the disposal of the controversy. Falkner v. Pilcher, 137 N. C. 449, 49 S. E. 945. In an action for unliquidated damages, the court must instruct as to the measure. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1073.

73. Comp. Laws, §§ 10243, 10246, requiring the court to instruct as to the law of the case. Simons v. Haberkorn [Mich.] 102 N. W. 659.

74. In Illinois the court is under no obligation to instruct of his own motion. Osgood v. Skinner, 111 Ill. App. 606. By statute in New Mexico, a court is under no obligation to instruct, therefore the fact that an instruction is insufficient is not error. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Santa Fe Mercantile Co. [N. M.] 82 P. 363.

75. Charging that evidence is competent for a purpose for which it is incompetent. Lundvick v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 429.

76. See post, § 6.

77. An omission in an instruction correct so far as it goes cannot be complained of by a party who requested no instruction supplying the omission. Freeman v. Slay [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 664, 88 S. W. 404. A correct charge is not to be characterized as erroneous because of omission to charge in connection therewith an additional pertinent principle. Tucker v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 128. An instruction that a corporation is liable for the negligence of its officers is not erroneous for failure to include acts of its agents, servants and employes. Williams v. Mineral City Park Ass'n [Iowa] 102 N. W. 783. Error in not submitting a case so as to entitle a recovery against one of several defendants is one of omission. Dunn v. Newberry [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 626. Failure to instruct that a verdict might be returned against one co-defendant is not reversible. Triggs v. McIntyre, 115 Ill. App. 257. Failure to state that facts must be proved "by a fair preponderance of evidence." Mack v. Starr [Conn.] 61 A. 472. Failure to instruct as to measure of damages. Central R. Co. v. Ankiewicz, 213 Ill. 621, 73 N. E. 382. Instruction in an action on an implied contract for services that plaintiff was entitled to recover if he was the owner of his own time and had a cause of action is not erroneous in failing to state what would give rise to a cause of action. Grotjan v. Rice [Wis.] 102 N. W. 551. Failure to charge an applicable principle. Bamparticular issues,[79] defenses,[80] or theories,[81] or if a party deems an instruction ambiguous[82] or misleading,[83] or not sufficiently explicit,[84] or fears that a correct principle may be misapplied,[85] he should prefer an appropriate request. So also if an instruction is not precisely accurate[86] or technical terms are not defined,[87] or a particular phase of the case is not covered,[88] or if a party desires an instruction on a particular point,[89] or a specific application of a rule,[90] or a limitation on a rule not of universal berg v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 988. Failure to withdraw an issue as to an established fact. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Vanlandingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 847.

78. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Bagley, 121 Ga. 781, 49 S. E. 780. If amplification of the general charge is desired, an appropriate request should be preferred. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

79. Omission to state all the issues is not ground for reversal, it being the duty of the parties to request special charges covering omitted issues. Boyles v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 936; Stewart v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 310. Though a party is entitled to have an issue submitted, failure to submit it is not reversible error. Kneeland v. Arnold, 88 N. Y. S. 367. No instruction was asked on an issue of assumed risk. Lounsbury v. David [Wis.] 102 N. W. 941. Failure to submit issues of contributory negligence and assumption of risk is not error in the absence of a request where there is no evidence to support an affirmative finding on such issues. Mueller v. Northwestern Iron Co. [Wis.] 104 N. W. 67. A party cannot complain of failure to submit an issue unless he tendered it. Falkner v. Pilcher, 137 N. C. 449, 49 S. E. 945. Unless at the outset of the trial the court announced that it would not submit such issue. Id.

80. Failure to specify certain matters of defense. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Blacknall [Ga.] 50 S. E. 92. An omission to submit some of the grounds of defense. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Wishert [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 799, 89 S. W. 460.

81. An instruction correctly presenting the law as to defendant's theory of the case is not erroneous because not presenting in the same connection the plaintiff's contentions. Edwards v. Capps [Ga.] 50 S. E. 943.

82. A party should request an explanatory instruction correcting a charge from which he apprehends prejudice. Vandiver & Co. v. Waller [Ala.] 39 So. 136.

83. A statement in a charge not altogether plain should be called to the attention of the court. Commonwealth v. Middleby [Mass.] 73 N. E. 208. If the charge is otherwise clear, language susceptible of a construction in conflict therewith should be called to the attention of the court if counsel deems it misleading. Cody v. Duluth St. R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 397; Snedecor v. Pope [Ala.] 39 So. 318.

84. If a party desires a more explicit instruction on a particular issue, he should prefer a request. Mitchell v. Pinckney [Iowa] 104 N. W. 286. If the law applicable to a particular phase of the case is desired explained, a request should be made. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364. If a party desires a more comprehensive charge, he should so request. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hay [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 27, 86 S. W. 954.

85. Flowers v. Flowers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242.

86. "If you believe and find from the evidence" is sufficient in the absence of a request for a more accurate instruction, though it does not require plaintiff to prove his case by a preponderance of evidence. Kerr v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 596. It is the duty of counsel to call attention to an inaccurate statement as to the testimony. Oehmler v. Pittsburg R. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 617. An inadvertent misstatement of the evidence is not ground for reversal where not prejudicial and the attention of the court was not called to it by counsel. Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

87. A party who does not request a definition of a technical term used cannot complain of the omission. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 87 S. W. 440; Dysart-Cook Mule Co. v. Reed [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 591. Preponderance of evidence. Schornak v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1087.

88. If instructions given fairly cover the case it is not reversible error that all phases of the case were not covered. Gillies v. Clarke Fork Coal Min. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 370. Omission to instruct on a certain phase of the case. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135. If a party deems an instruction deficient he should prefer a request supplementing it. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682.

89. Osborn v. Mississippi & Rum River Boom Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 879; Warn v. Flint [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 294, 104 N. W. 37. Failure to charge upon contributory negligence. Barklow v. Avery [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 417. A party who desires evidence competent on certain issues restricted to such issues. Bird v. Bird [Ill.] 75 N. E. 760. Omission to cover a particular proposition must be made the subject of an appropriate request. Jennings v. Edgefield Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 52 S. E. 113; Providence Mach. Co. v. Browning [S. C.] 52 S. E. 117. If a party desires a particular instruction, he must request it. Johnston v. McNiff, 113 Ill. App. 1.

90. Brinkley Carworks & Mfg. Co. v. Cooper [Ark.] 87 S. W. 645; Freeland v. Southern R. Co., 70 S. C. 427, 50 S. E. 11. That a promise and its nonperformance standing alone do not constitute fraud. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668. In the absence of a request, a court is not required to apply statutory rules to the particular facts. Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15. Failure to charge specifically relative to a particular issue. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Penny [Tex. Civ. App.]

application,[91] or the attention of the jury directed to specific items of damages,[92] an instruction supplying the omission should be requested.

Limiting number of instructions[93] to be offered is erroneous.[94] Such error is prejudicial where it forces a party to so draft his instructions as to render them confused, misleading, argumentative or otherwise open to criticism;[95] but is not reversible error where the substance of those refused was covered in those given.[96]

Requests for instructions.[97]—A party upon request made is entitled to a clear and distinct instruction upon the rule of law applicable to his theory of the case,[98] if there is any evidence tending to support the issues presented by him;[99] and if he has two distinct defenses, he is entitled to have each fairly presented and submitted.[1] That requests bear the names of the attorneys of the parties making them is not reversible error.[2]

Form and sufficiency of request.[3]—In framing instructions a party need only present the law applicable to his theory of the case. He need not anticipate and negative possible defenses.[4] If several instructions embodying the same proposition in varying language are requested, a party will not be heard to complain because the one considered most important was not given.[5] A requested instruction should be strictly correct,[6] complete in itself,[7] accurately framed,[8] so as to bear

13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 196, 87 S. W. 718. Failure to give specific instruction. Red River, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1169.

91. Zvonik v. Interurban St. R. Co., 88 N. Y. S. 399. Failure to charge a qualification of a sound proposition given. Sanders v. Aiken Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 679. Error cannot be predicated on a failure to qualify a correct instruction. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302. Modification of instructions must be requested. Jennings v. Edgefield Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 52 S. E. 113.

92. Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753. If a party deems a charge as to damages not sufficiently distinct, he should request a charge supplying the deficiency. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Lester [Tex. Civ. App.], 84 S. W. 401. If a party desires elements of damages to be made more specific. Carpenter v. Hamilton, 185 Mo. 603, 84 S. W. 863. If a party permits the jury to retire without being instructed upon the measure of damages. Central R. Co. v. Ankiewicz, 115 Ill. App. 380.

93. See 4 C. L. 135.

94. It is not ground for reversal, however, unless prejudicial. The Fair v. Hoffmann, 110 Ill. App. 500.

95. Daily v. Smith-Hippen Co., 111 Ill. App. 319.

96. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Olsen, 113 Ill. App. 303.

97. See 4 C. L. 135.

98. Thomas v. Butler, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 305; Suburban R. Co. v. Malstrom, 105 Ill. App. 631. A party who has produced proof tending to establish his theory is entitled to have such theory submitted without qualifying words calculated to mislead the jury into believing that though such theory is found to be true, a verdict may be returned for the other party. Brownfield v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 104 N. W. 876. A party is entitled to an instruction applying directly and specifically to his theory of the facts which there is evidence tending to prove. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Leach, 215 Ill. 184, 74 N. E. 119. Specific requests applicable and not adequately covered should be given. Wright v. Roberts, 99 App. Div. 38, 90 N. Y. S. 752. Refusal of correct instructions is not harmless on the ground that the jury must have understood the law therein contained without instructions. Grotjan v. Rice [Wis.] 102 N. W. 551. It is error to refuse an instruction submitting a vital issue. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 112 Ill. App. 152.

99. Title by adverse possession relied upon by defendant in ejectment. Link v. Campbell [Neb.] 104 N. W. 939.

1. Crow v. Burgin [Miss.] 38 So. 625.

2. Thornton Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10.

3. See 4 C. L. 136.

4. Kellyville Coal Co. v. Strine [Ill.] 75 N. E. 375.

5. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Otstot, 212 Ill. 429, 72 N. E. 387.

6. Shafer v. Russell, 28 Utah, 444, 79 P. 559. Request correct only in part may be refused. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Baer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 653. If one of several instructions requested in their entirety is bad, all may be refused. Southern R. Co. v. Douglass [Ala.] 39 So. 268. Requests which do not state correct principles applicable to the facts of the case may be refused. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Otstot, 113 Ill. App. 37.

7. An instruction, incomplete in that a sentence breaks off apparently in the middle, may be refused. Estate of Shields v. Michener, 113 Ill. App. 18. Requests omitting pertinent facts shown by the evidence may be refused. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Coutourie [C. C. A.] 135 F. 465.

8. The court is not required to reduce an instruction inaccurately framed to proper form. Creager v. Yarborough [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 77, 87 S. W. 376; Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Cammer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 625. A court is not required to concretely on the facts of the case,[9] contain definitions for technical terms employed,[10] be clear and intelligible,[11] applicable to the facts of the case,[12] and the issues made by the pleadings,[13] and be presented in conformity to statutory requirements;[14] but a request for an incorrect instruction if sufficient to call the court's attention to the issue requires the giving of a correct instruction upon such issue.[15] Requests stating a mere truision[16] or an abstract proposition,[17] though correct,[18] may be refused, especially where such proposition is not applicable,[19] or is not concretely applied.[20] A fortiori, if the proposition is inaccurate and misleading.[21]

Time of making request.[22]—Instructions must be presented before the commencement of the argument.[23]

Disposition of requests.[24]—A party is entitled to have given a request which in form and substance correctly states the law applicable to the case.[25] This requirement amend a request stating an erroneous proposition and give it as amended. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Stock & Sons [Va.] 51 S. E. 161. The court is not required to pick out undisputed facts and rule upon them unless disputed facts are material to the issues. Pierce v. O'Brien [Mass.] 75 N. E. 61.

9. Joyce v. Chicago, 111 Ill. App. 443.

10. Requests containing "burden of proof" without defining it may be refused. Laurence L. Prince & Co. v. St. Louis Cotton Compress Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 873. A request as to liability if injury was caused by negligence of a fellow-servant is properly refused where no definition of a fellow-servant has been given. Consolidated Coal Co. v. Shepherd, 112 Ill. App. 458.

11. A request, vague in meaning and practically unintelligible, may be refused. Creager v. Yarborough [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 77, 87 S. W. 376. A request predicated on an instruction so unintelligible that it was refused is properly refused. Id. Under Code 1896, § 3328, requiring requests to be in writing and to be given or refused in the terms written, an unintelligible request is properly refused. Southern Industrial Institute v. Hellier [Ala.] 39 So. 163. Failure of the plaintiff's instructions to refer specifically to each count in the declaration is not misleading where the defendant's given instructions refer in detail to the elements essential to be proved to sustain the different counts. Junction Min. Co. v. Ench, 111 Ill. App. 346.

12. Requests which do not accurately state the law applicable and which are misleading may be refused. Parrish v. Huntington [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 416. A request containing a correct proposition may be refused when the facts on which it was predicated would not make it applicable. Williams v. Finlayson [Fla.] 38 So. 50. Requests not consonant with any theory of the case. Pacific Export Lumber Co. v. North Pacific Lumber Co. [Or.] 80 P. 105. An instruction predicated on an issue of fact not submitted. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Penny [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 196, 87 S. W. 718.

13. Milhouse v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 52 S. E. 41. A charge based on an erroneous theory is properly refused. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Highnote [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 365.

14. An instruction placed on the desk but not called to the court's attention until after the jury had retired is not presented within Rev. St. 1895, art. 1319. Bailey v. Hartman [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 829.

15. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Minter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 477; Texas Loan & Trust Co. v. Angel [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1056; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lowe [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1059; Nicola Bros. Co. v. Hurst [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1081. A request objectionable as not conforming to the pleadings held sufficient to require the court to present such issue. McNeese v. Carver [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 430.

16. The refusal of a request stating a mere truism is harmless. Mack v. Starr [Conn.] 61 A. 472.

17. Independent Brewing Ass'n v. Klett, 114 Ill. App. 1; Chicago City R. Co. v. Enroth, 113 Ill. App. 285. Giving abstract propositions is error where they are apt to mislead the jury. Diefenthaler v. Hall, 116 Ill. App. 422.

18. Illinois Terra Cotta Lumber Co. v. Hanley, 116 Ill. App. 359; Chicago Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Campbell, 116 Ill. App. 322; Joyce v. Chicago, 111 Ill. App. 443.

19. Independent Brewing Ass'n v. Klett, 114 Ill. App. 1; Himrod Coal Co. v. Clingan, 114 Ill. App. 568.

20. Abstract propositions not applied may be given or refused. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 112 Ill. App. 281; Kehl v. Abram, 112 Ill. App. 77. Abstract propositions not concretely applied have a tendency to confuse the jury and ordinarily should not be given. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Fox, 113 Ill. App. 180. The giving of abstract propositions not concretely applied is not reversible error. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Vipond, 112 Ill. App. 558.

21. Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 211 Ill. 279, 71 N. E. 991.

22. See 4 C. L. 36.

23. Stametz v. Mitchenor [Ind.] 75 N. E. 579.

24. See 4 C. L. 136.

25. Omaha Packing Co. v. Murray, 112 Ill. App. 232. Judgment reversed because of failure of court to charge at the request of a party a rule of law applicable to the facts. Van Vechten v. New York & New Jersey Tel. & T. Co. [N. J. Law] 58 A. 1096. Correct requests not covered should be given. Dambmann v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 180 N. Y. 384, 73 N. E. 59; Hennessey v. Forty-is not satisfied by an oral statement of the judge made during the progress of the trial,[26] but is by the giving of instructions not substantially different from those asked.[27] But he is not entitled to have it given in the language used by him.[28] Requests may be modified[29] unless otherwise provided by statute[30] or explained.[31] Special instructions should be given or refused without qualification or comment.[32] Mere failure to mark instructions "given" or "refused" as required by statute is not reversible error.[33]

Repetition.[34]—A requested instruction substantially covered by the charge already given may be refused,[35] though the proposition stated therein is correct;[36] but a court cannot refuse a special instruction grouping the specific facts on which a party relies for a verdict, on the ground that the general charge presented such Second St., etc., R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1058; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hall [Tex.] 85 S. W. 786; Hartman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 86; Crowder v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 166.

26. Does not cure error in refusing to give proper requests. Bloomington & Normal R. Co. v. Gabbert, 111 Ill. App. 147.

27. Slusher v. Hopkins [Ky.] 89 S. W. 244.

28. The judge may give the proposition in terms to suit himself. Jones v. Greenfield, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 315. Requests which are argumentative or prolix, repeating in different language the same propositions, thereby giving undue prominence to certain phases, should be refused and the propositions be covered in the general charge. Herbert v. Interstate Iron Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 451.

29. Tremblay v. Tri-City R. Co., 113 Ill. App. 56. If a request is too broad in its terms it may be modified. Flynn v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 560.

30. A statute which prohibits the qualifying, modifying or explaining an instruction is not violated by the withdrawal of one. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Zapp, 110 Ill. App. 553.

31. Code 1896, § 3328, requiring that requests be given in the terms presented, prohibits the court from qualifying the instruction but not from explaining it. Calloway v. Gay [Ala.] 39 So. 277.

32. Columbus Railway v. Connor, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 361.

33. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Olsen, 113 Ill. App. 303; Chicago Elec. Transit Co. v. Kinnare, 115 Ill. App. 115.

34. See 4 C. L. 137.

35. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753; Lynch v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 535; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 445; City of Battle Creek v. Haak [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1005; Woods v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 1082; Deland v. Cameron [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 597; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Cluck [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 186, 87 S. W. 817; American Cotton Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 343, 87 S. W. 842; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hitt [Ark.] 88 S. W. 908; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Tisdale [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 1063; Franklin v. St. Louis & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 930; Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 87 S. W. 440; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 45, 87 S. W. 1060; Go Fun v. Fidalgo Island Canning Co., 37 Wash. 233, 79 P. 797; Schwartz v. McQuaid, 214 Ill. 357, 73 N. E. 582; Paxton v. Woodward [Mont.] 78 P. 215; Dunn v. Crichfield 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386; Chicago North Shore St. R. Co. v. Strathmann, 213 Ill. 252, 72 N. E. 800; Kozlowski v. Chicago, 113 Ill. App. 513; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Jennings, 114 Ill. App. 622; Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 113 Ill. App. 381; Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. De Yaeger, 112 Ill. App. 537; Illinois Terra Cotta Lumber Co. v. Hanley, 116 Ill. App. 359; Omaha Packing Co. v. Murray, 112 Ill. App. 232; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pettit, 111 Ill. App. 172; Knights Templars & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. v. Crayton, 110 Ill. App. 648; Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Melville, 110 Ill. App. 242; Village of Wilmette v. Brachle, 110 Ill. App. 356; Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Collins, 110 Ill. App. 505; Huey Co. v. Johnston [Ind.] 73 N. E. 996; Hebert v. Interstate Iron Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 451; Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Jacobson [Ill.] 75 N. E. 508; Chicago City R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ill.] 75 N. E. 383; Young v. O'Brien, 36 Wash. 570, 79 P. 211; Davis v. Diamond Carriage & Livery Co., 146 Cal. 59, 79 P. 596; Ward Land & Stock Co. v. Mapes [Cal.] 82 P. 426; Virginia Passenger & Power Co. v. Patterson [Va.] 51 S. E. 157; Western & A. R. Co. v. Branan [Ga.] 51 S. E. 650; Young v. Meredith [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 32; Jackson v. American Tel. & T. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 1015; Woodley v. Coker [Ga.] 50 S. E. 936; Merriman v. Cover [Va.] 51 S. E. 817; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Castellow, 121 Ga. 772, 49 S. E. 753; Pacific Export Lumber Co. v. North Pacific Lumber Co. [Or.] 80 P. 105; Richmond Ice Co. v. Crystal Ice Co., 103 Va. 465, 49 S. E. 650; Texarkana & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Toliver [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 375; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Slaughter [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1085; Davis v. Braswell, 185 Mo. 576, 84 S. W. 870; Impkamp v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 655, 84 S. W. 119; Freymark v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 606; Texas Short Line R. Co. v. Waymire [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 907, 89 S. W. 452; Eckhard v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 602; Stametz v. Mitchenor [Ind.] 75 N. E. 579; Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Sawusch [Ill.] 75 N. E. 797; Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513; Cody v. Market St. R. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 666; Milhouse v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 52 S. E. 41; Jennings v. Edgefield Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 52 S. E. 113; Chicago Elec. Transit Co. v. Kinnare, 115 Ill. App. 115; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Foster [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct.

issues abstractly,[87] and where instructions given would not convey to the mind of a juryman the idea embodied in a request, the request should be given.[88] Repeating the same instruction in different terms is not ground for reversal.[89]

Rep. 370, 87 S. W. 879; Louisville R. Co. v. Johnson [Ky.] 87 S. W. 782; Field v. Field [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 726; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Valandingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 847; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 838; San Antonio Foundry Co. v. Drish [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 440; Citizens' R. Co. v. Gossett [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 35; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Colly [Ky.] 86 S. W. 536; Beers v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 278; Cunningham v. Springer [N. M.] 82 P. 232; Lampley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 773; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Roth [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1112; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 47; Hitt v. Kansas City, 110 Mo. App. 713, 85 S. W. 669; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Goodman [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 492; Trinity & B. V. R. Co. v. Simpson [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 23, 86 S. W. 1034; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. O'Loughlin [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1104; Hickey v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 82 P. 29; Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Hagler [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 692; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. McAdams [Tex.' Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1076; Edger v. Kupper, 110 Mo. App. 280, 85 S. W. 949; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Crowley [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 342; Wright v. Kansas City, 187 Mo. 678, 86 S. W. 452; Shields v. Overall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 373; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Kellerman [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 140, 87 S. W. 401; St. Louis & S. W. R. Co. v. Foster [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 911, 89 S. W. 450; Barklow v. Avery [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 893, 89 S. W. 417; Southern Const. Co. v. Hinkle [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 309; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Curd [Ky.] 89 S. W. 140; Carpenter v. Jones [Ark.] 88 S. W. 871; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Leakey [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex Ct. Rep. 496, 87 S. W. 1168. After a charge that plaintiff could not recover if he was intoxicated, a charge based on partial or total intoxication may be refused. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 669. It is unnecessary to state an instruction in the language requested if the substance has been given. Purcell Wholesale Grocery Co. v. Bryant [Ind. T.] 89 S. W. 662. Request that plaintiff could not complain of fraud if he knew of it at the time he entered into the transaction is covered by a charge that he cannot recover if he had such knowledge. Smith v. McDonald [Mich.] 102 N. W. 738. When it is charged that plaintiff must establish certain enumerated propositions by a preponderance of evidence, defining it, it is not necessary to charge to find for defendant if the weight of evidence was in his favor or evenly balanced. Hickey v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 82 P. 29. After an instruction that recovery can be had only on clear proof, it is not error to refuse to instruct that the proof must be full. Harman & Crockett v. Maddy Bros. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1009. Where the court has instructed on all material issues presented by the pleadings and evidence, special request may be refused unless some portion of the charge was erroneous. Hansen v. Haley [Idaho] 81 P. 935.

A charge that plaintiff must prove his case by a preponderance of evidence precludes the necessity of a special charge on the same subject or to find for defendant if the evidence was evenly balanced. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 669. Request, as to duty of jurymen, held covered by charge given. Shaller v. Detroit Union R. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 632. The converse of an instruction given should not be charged. Greene v. Louisville R. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1154. If the issue of contributory negligence has been submitted in general terms, a party is not entitled to have the specific facts upon which the defense is based grouped and thus presented if such charge would be liable to mislead the jury. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Rea [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 428; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Nelson [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 81, 87 S. W. 706. Requests to charge as to the credibility of witnesses had been covered. City Elec. R. Co. v. Smith, 121 Ga. 663, 49 S. E. 724. Where the court has instructed that the jury are the sole judges of the credibility of witnesses, an instruction that if any have willfully testified falsely, their entire testimony may be disregarded, may be refused. Flynn v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 560.

36. Seaboard & R. R. Co. v. Vaughn's Adm'x [Va.] 51 S. E. 452; Chicago City R. Co. v. Fetzer, 113 Ill. App. 280; Chicago City R. Co. v. Matthieson, 113 Ill. App. 246; Netcher v. Bernstein, 110 Ill. App. 484; Johnson v. Larcade, 110 Ill. App. 611; Chicago City R. Co. v. Enroth, 113 Ill. App. 285. Requests technically correct may be refused if the general charge has covered the ground in different language. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Coutourie [C. C. A.] 135 F. 465. Failure to give a proper instruction is not reversible error when the principle was stated in another instruction. Sweet v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 850.

37. Southern Const. Co. v. Hinkle [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 309; Texas Short Line R. Co. v. Waymire [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 907, 89 S. W. 452. An instruction specifically applying the facts is not improper because the same proposition was charged in general terms. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Rea [Tex.] 87 S. W. 324. Error in refusing a specific instruction held not to have been cured by the general charge. City of San Juan v. St. John's Gas Co., 195 U. S. 510, 49 Law. Ed. 299.

38. In malicious prosecution an instruction that plaintiff has the burden of proof does not justify the refusal of a request that plaintiff must show that defendant acted without probable cause. Harris v. Thomas [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 239, 103 N. W. 863.

39. Keys v. Winnsboro Granite Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 549. The repetition in the general charge of a special charge properly given, either before or after argument, is not necessarily erroneous. Smart v. Masters & War-

§ 4. Assumption of facts.[40]—The court may not assume the existence of disputed facts or issues,[41] or of facts relative to which there is no evidence,[42] facts not proven,[43] or facts proven not to exist.[44] But admitted[45] or undisputed dens, etc., Lodge No. 2, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 15.

40. See 4 C. L. 138.

41. Welliver v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 79; Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 87 S. W. 440; Abeel v. McDonnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 980, 87 S. W. 1066; Corkings v. Meier, 112 Ill. App. 655; Thomas v. Riley, 114 Ill. App. 520; Himrod Coal Co. v. Clingan, 114 Ill. App. 568. Request assuming facts in dispute properly refused. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Bell, 111 Ill. App. 280; Netherlands-American Steam Nav. Co. v. Diamond [C. C. A.] 128 F. 570. Facts relative to which there is conflicting testimony (Hoolas Smelting Co. v. Planters' Compress Co. [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1052), or facts put in issue by the evidence should not be assumed (Vollman Buggy Body Co. v. Spry, 26 Ky. L. R. 228, 80 S. W. 1092). That deceased was driving on the track in front of the car at the time of the accident. Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 113 Ill. App. 381. Assuming one party's theory to be true and another's untrue. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Alfred, 113 Ill. App. 236. Assuming a denial of an averment of the answer. Adams Exp. Co. v. Gordon, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 563. That want of care and skill is, to a certain extent, to be reasonably expected. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Grommes, 110 Ill. App. 113. That a master had furnished a safe place for his servant to work in. Hall v. West & S. Mill Co. [Wash.] 81 P. 915. That failure to timber a mine was negligence. Abbott v. Marion Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 110. That a certain act is negligence. Maus v. Mahoning Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 624.

Rule violated: Instruction in an action on an accident policy held to assume that the accident was the sole and proximate cause of the death. Continental Casualty Co. v. Peltier [Va.] 51 S. E. 209. On an issue as to the existence of a partnership, an instruction that a contract to perform services and receive a share of the profits as compensation did not constitute a partnership assumes that the share of profits was received as wages. Rector v. Robins [Ark.] 86 S. W. 667. Instruction in an action against a carrier for loss of goods that the consignee was entitled to recover for injuries to all the goods though some of them belonged to his wife assumes that all the goods were injured. Walter v. Alabama Great So. R. Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 87. That defendant is liable for negligence of plaintiff's co-employes assumes that such co-employes were negligent. Stanley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 112. "To find for plaintiff if defendant's servants knew of the dangerous condition of the mine" assumes that the mine was in a dangerous condition. Straight Creek Coal Co. v. Haney's Adm'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1114. Instruction held erroneous as withdrawing an issue involved from the consideration of the jury. Durst v. Ernst, 45 Misc. 627, 91 N. Y. S. 13.

Rule not violated: "If the jury believe from the evidence" certain facts, reciting them, is not an assumption of such facts. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Enslen [Ala.] 39 So. 74. A fact left to the jury to be determined from the evidence is not assumed. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682. An instruction that "if one was guilty of negligence in omitting to do a certain act" plaintiff could recover, is not on the weight of evidence. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Rea [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 428. A charge that if the jury found certain facts they should find for plaintiff does not assume a fact in issue because "if any" was not used in connection with its recital. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Warren [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 26. "That if doing certain acts was negligence" plaintiff cannot recover, does not assume such acts to be negligence. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 664. Instruction that if on a certain day plaintiff was employed by defendant, and walked over a path established for use of employes, etc., did not assume that defendant had established a path. San Antonio Foundry Co. v. Drish [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 440. Instruction in an action for damages for death of animals held not to assume that they were not transported with ordinary care. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Snyder [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1041. Instructions as a whole held not to have been understood by the jury as assuming disputed facts recited therein. Brinkley Car Works & Mfg. Co. v. Cooper [Ark.] 87 S. W. 645. Instruction that it is the duty of a carrier to use ordinary care to prevent injury to a passenger does not assume negligence on the part of the carrier. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Vollrath [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 777, 89 S. W. 279. Instruction held not to assume facts submitted by it. Id. A charge in an action for libel that before determining other questions the jury must decide whether the publication constituted libel, an instruction that if libel was published defendants would be liable did not assume that the publication was libelous. Jensen v. Damm [Iowa] 103 N. W. 798. Instruction reciting certain facts held not to assume them. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. McDonald [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 493; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Rea [Tex.] 87 S. W. 324. Instruction that if certain facts existed, reciting them, is not erroneous as assuming them to exist. Christy v. Des Moines City R. Co., 126 Iowa, 428, 102 N. W. 194.

42. Instruction assuming facts not in evidence may be refused. Flynn v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 560. It is error to assume that a conveyance alleged to be fraudulent was made in consideration of a prior indebtedness where there is no evidence of such fact. Clark v. Bell [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 767, 89 S. W. 38. Facts having no foundation in the evidence should not be assumed. Dexter v. Thayer [Mass.] 75 N. E. 223; Place v. Place [Mich.] 102 N. W. 996.

43. Parke v. Nixon [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 413, 104 N. W. 597.

facts,[46] facts established beyond controversy,[47] or facts assumed by the parties during the course of the trial,[48] may be assumed.

§ 5. Charging with respect to matters of fact or commenting on weight of evidence.[49]—As a general rule trial courts are prohibited from charging with respect to matters of fact or commenting on the evidence,[50] or expressing an opinion

44. Assuming a fact shown not to exist is erroneous. American Exp. Co. v. Jennings [Miss.] 38 So. 374.

45. Harrison v. Lakenan [Mo.] 88 S. W. 53. Uncontroverted or admitted facts may be assumed. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Newmiller, 116 Ill. App. 625.

46. Wolf Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 129; Stanley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 112; Quale v. Hazel [S. D.] 104 N. W. 215.

47. Shafer v. Russell, 28 Utah, 444, 79 P. 559; Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Yates [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 283; St. Louis & S. R. Co. v. Smith, 216 Ill. 339, 74 N. E. 1063. If the testimony is such that no other conclusion can be reached than that the fact existed, such fact may be assumed. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Highnote [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 365.

48. That a certain thoroughfare was a street. Knight v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 1192.

49. See 4 C. L. 140.

50. It is the province of the jury to determine what force is to be given testimony, and as a general rule trial courts are not permitted to express an opinion as to its weight. Kernan v. Crook, Horner & Co. [Md.] 59 A. 753. Instructions on the weight of evidence properly refused. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 47; Abeel v. McDonnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 980, 87 S. W. 1066. Comments on the weight of evidence, insinuations as to the weight of evidence or credibility of witnesses, are erroneous. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263; Imboden v. Imboden's Estate, Id.

Rule violated: That certain facts were proved or that certain kinds of evidence are entitled to more weight than other kinds. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Otstot, 113 Ill. App. 37. Held erroneous as withdrawing from the jury facts relevant to the issues. Britton v. Young [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 905. That a party is bound to prove only certain facts to entitle him to recover. Quint v. Dimond [Cal.] 82 P. 310. That evidence of oral admissions of a party ought to be viewed with caution. Goss v. Steiger Terra Cotta & Pottery Works [Cal.] 82 P. 681. Intimating what weight and effect is to be given any testimony. Bickerman v. Tarter, 115 Ill. App. 278. An instruction which in effect determines the weight of evidence. Campbell v. Everhart [N. C.] 52 S. E. 201. That evidence fails to show a certain fact attempted to be proven. Southern R. Co. v. Douglass [Ala.] 39 So. 268. That if plaintiff's stacks were destroyed by failure of defendant to keep its right of way clear of combustible material, plaintiff can recover. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Dial [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 22. To ignore the rush of business and scarcity of cars in an action based on negligence in failing to furnish cars. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Nelson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 616. That if the jury find that the only evidence is that of the parties who swear oath against oath the verdict must be for the plaintiff. Thomas v. Law, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 19. That a finding that a mule sickened and died a few days after delivery is not sufficient evidence on which to find that the mule was diseased when sold. Moulton v. Gibbs, 105 Ill. App. 104. That a certain fact was established by undisputed evidence. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 838. That the undisputed evidence shows a certain fact is erroneous where there is evidence to the contrary. Trinity & B. V. R. Co. v. Simpson [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 23, 86 S. W. 1034. To charge that there is no evidence of a certain fact. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Rice [Ala.] 38 So. 857. To charge what facts constitute negligence. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co. v. Hudson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 29. Rehearsing facts and stating that if proved they constitute negligence. Lampley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 773. An instruction seeking to determine what is negligence invades the province of the jury. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pettit, 111 Ill. App. 172. "A railway is negligent if it runs its car at a rate of speed that will not permit its stopping within the distance covered by its own headlight." Jensen v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 4. Assuming a fact in issue. Taylor v. Houston Elec. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1019. Assuming a fact which is a question for the jury. Kirby v. Panhandle & G. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. R. 421, 88 S. W. 281; Jones-Pope Produce Co. v. Breedlove [Ark.] 83 S. W. 294. That an agent has no authority to do a certain thing. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Ray Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 691.

Rule not violated: "If you believe" reciting certain facts. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Kothmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1089; Patch Mfg. Co. v. Protection Lodge, No. 215, I. A. M. [Vt.] 60 A. 74. An instruction that clearly states the issue and legal principles and leaves the jury free to dispose of the case under the evidence is not partial. Field v. Schuster, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 82. Withdrawal of an issue which there is no evidence to support. Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 211 Ill. 279, 71 N. E. 991. Held not erroneous as telling the jury what the evidence proved. Huntington Light & Fuel Co. v. Beaver [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1002. The court may state to the jury what as a matter of law constitutes ordinary care. Christy v. Elliott, 216 Ill. 31, 74 N. E. 1035. That a promise and nonperformance may be considered as evidence in the case is not objectionable as charge that such facts constitute fraud. McDonald v. Smith [Mich.] 102 N. W. 668. An instruction relative to "defects" in a machine which was clearly relevant to "alleged defects." Anderson v. Seropian [Cal.] 81 P. 521. That a as to its weight;[51] hence a presumption of fact should not be charged where there is evidence tending to rebut it.[52] But this rule is not universally followed,[53] especially in common-law states and states having no constitutional or statutory provision on the subject.[54] Federal courts do not follow the rule,[55] and it is not binding upon state courts of last resort.[56]

certain thing is a sufficient consideration to support a contract is not a charge on the evidence where whether such fact existed was left to the jury. Willoughby v. Willoughby, 70 S. C. 516, 50 S. E. 208. "You know what the actual damages mean (the digging of the holes and the running of wagons over the land)." Duke v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 675. "You know what 'actual' means and what 'damages' means. Now in this case what was the actual damages? Figure it out. Now go to the question of punitive damages and figure that out." Phillips v. American Tel. & Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 247. A statement based on admissions in the pleadings. Latour v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 265. Instruction in an action for injuries caused by obstructing a culvert. Shores v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 699. That it is the duty of a street car company to select a reasonably safe place for landing passengers wherever its cars may stop for that purpose does not state what is negligence per se. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Vining [Ga.] 51 S. E. 719. An instruction not to consider mortality tables in evidence if they believed plaintiff not entitled to recover or if they believed his injuries not permanent. Sanders v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 728. "You are to judge of the conduct, the diligence, the negligence and the acts of the plaintiff in this case by that rule," after reciting definition of ordinary care and diligence. Id. Remarks made by the court on objections to evidence. Tinsley v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 913. That the absence of a debtor from his home without informing his creditor does not authorize the latter to resort to attachment, and that absence under certain circumstances did not amount to absconding within the law. Vandiver & Co. v. Waller [Ala.] 39 So. 136; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Highnote [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 365. A preliminary statement reciting the facts whereon the plaintiff based his cause of action. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Glover [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 604. Instruction held not on the weight of evidence as taking an issue of fact from the jury. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Copley [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 219. "If you believe," reciting certain facts. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Prude [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1046. "That a child of tender years is not held to the same degree of accountability as an adult, but the question of his capacity is for your determination." Texas & P. R. Co. v. Ball [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 456. Assuming admitted facts. Comer v. Thornton [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 19. Instruction held not on the weight of evidence as charging that certain facts constituted negligence. Rio Grande, etc., R. Co. v. Martinez [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 853. Instructions relative to fraudulent representations held not to take from the jury the materiality of such representations. Craft v. Barron [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1099. Instruction as to elements of damages which have universal judicial recognition is not on the facts, where the injury for which damages are sought is not disputed. Jennings v. Edgefield Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 52 S. E. 113. Stating an admitted fact. Id. It is not error for the court in refusing an instruction to say that were it not for a recent decision of the supreme court he would give it. Romick v. Sech. 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 97.

51. Rule violated: Defining the duty of a motorman and stating that he had no right to run upon the person injured. Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 113 Ill. App. 381. Instruction held subject to the objection that the court disbelieved the testimony offered to prove the fact to which the instruction related. In re Imboden's Estate [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 263. Instructing that a verdict may be found for plaintiff if the evidence preponderates in his favor, "though but slightly," is calculated to impress the jury that the court inclines in favor of plaintiff. O'Donnell v. Armour Curled Hair Works, 111 Ill. App. 516.

Rule not violated: Instructions held not to contain an expression of opinion of the court. Powell v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 803, 49 S. E. 759; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hitt [Ark.] 88 S. W. 908; Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15. A charge that "the duty resting by law on all persons to exercise ordinary care to avoid the consequences of another's negligence does not arise until the danger is impending." Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818. A charge that it is the duty of a carrier to stop "long enough" at its station for a passenger to alight is not an expression of opinion as to what would be negligence. Western & A. R. Co. v. Burnham [Ga.] 50 S. E. 984. Where a court refuses to charge that there is no evidence of a fact, it is not an expression of opinion to charge that there is some evidence of it. Thomason v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 443.

52. That a connecting carrier which completed the carriage will be liable for a deficiency without proof that it was occasioned by its fault. Bibb v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 663.

53 See Blashfield, Instructions to Juries, § 38 et seq.

54. The court may express his opinion, comment on the evidence or the witness or parties if he leaves the jury free to determine the case on the evidence. Lappe v. Gfeller, 211 Pa. 462, 60 A. 1049. It is not error for the court to comment on the absence of witnesses which could have been produced by a proper degree of diligence. Oldham v. U. S. Express Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 549.

55. A Federal judge may express his opinion as to the weight of evidence but he cannot direct the jury to ignore evidence that

Conflicting evidence.[57]—Where the evidence is conflicting, the court should call attention to the kinds and character of the testimony offered,[58] and explain the difference between interested and disinterested testimony.[59]

§ 6. Form and general substance of instruction.[60]—It is not required that the entire law of the case be stated in a single instruction,[61] but everything essential to the expression of a single rule should be embraced.[62] An instruction correct so far as it goes but which does not assume to point out all the elements essential to a recovery may be supplemented.[63] All of the instructions given are to be taken as a series,[64] but an instruction intended to cover the whole case and which directs the jury to find a certain way should include all the necessary elements involved.[65] Where a case is submitted for a special verdict, only the instructions appropriate to the question to be answered should be given,[66] and where a case is submitted on special issues, it is not necessary to instruct as to the law.[67] The instructions should be stated in as simple, orderly, clear and precise manner as is possible under the circumstances,[68] but it is not essential that they be the most simple and direct that is admissible. Post v. United States [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1.

56. The fact that the court of last resort has stated in the same case what facts would constitute negligence does not make it proper for the trial court to charge that such facts would constitute negligence. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Vining [Ga.] 51 S. E. 719.

57. See 4 C. L. 142.

58. Pyne v. Delaware, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 61 A. 817.

59. Should explain the difference between interested and disinterested testimony, and caution the jury as to their duty in weighing and deciding on a conflict. Clark v. Union Traction Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 302.

60. See 4 C. L. 142.

61. See, also, post, § 17, Instructions must be considered as a whole. Omissions in one may be supplemented by other instructions. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 126 Iowa, 730, 102 N. W. 793.

62. A charge on the burden of proof should be so framed as to require the plaintiff to prove all facts necessary to entitle him to recover. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Wishert [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 799, 89 S. W. 460. Instructions held bad for failing to hypothesize that contributory negligence referred to therein contributed to the injury complained of. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Matthews [Ala.] 39 So. 207. An instruction that a policy of insurance was entered into by the secretary's acceptance of the application and membership fee is erroneous, in not touching upon the authority of the secretary, which was a point in dispute. Gillespie Home Tp. Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Prather, 105 Ill. App. 1230. An instruction based on a theory of a servant being ordered into a dangerous place by his master must not ignore any of the elements essential to a recovery. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Hill, 112 Ill. App. 475. Request purporting to state the necessary elements of a highway by prescription, but neglecting to require that user must be under a claim of right, properly refused. Town of Bethel v. Pruett, 215 Ill. 162, 74 N. E. 111.

63. One that a street railway company is chargeable with notice that it must use due care to avoid injuring persons on the street is not misleading in failing to charge that such persons must use due care to avoid injury, other instructions having covered this phase of the case. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Schulz [Ill.] 75 N. E. 495.

64. See post, § 17, Instructions must be considered as a whole.

65. Should be so framed as to leave no doubt as to the facts upon which it is made to depend. Ford v. Hine Brothers Co., 115 Ill. App. 153. An instruction directing a verdict if certain facts are found must embrace all the facts and conditions essential to such verdict. Chicago City R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 114 Ill. App. 359. The question here was not only whether plaintiff used ordinary care in getting out of the way of the car, but also whether in getting in the way he used such care. Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579. An instruction embodying the elements essential to a recovery is not objectionable as attempting to summarize the evidence without including the evidence of both sides. Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386. Where the court states that to sustain the burden of proof certain facts must be established but omits a fact essential to a right of recovery, a verdict will be set aside unless the evidence requires a finding adverse to the defendant on such issue. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. White [Neb.] 103 N. W. 661.

66. General instructions are not proper. Morrison v. Lee [N. D.] 102 N. W. 223.

67. On submission of an issue whether or not certain property is community property, it is not necessary to instruct in what manner or with what funds the property must have been acquired. York v. Hilger [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1117.

68. A mass of disorderly and unarranged requests should not be read. Rosenstein v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 60 A. 1061. The court need not instruct in the language presented by counsel but may choose that mode of expression best adapted to intelligently state the law on the requested subject-matter. Hickey v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 82 P. 29. The principles charged should not be so connected with each other and confused as to be misleading. Western & A. R. Co. v. Burnham [Ga.] 50 S. E. 984. It is erroneous to state in immediate connection with each other, without can be given.[69] Their meaning is to be determined by what ordinary men and jurors would understand them to mean, under the evidence and circumstances of the trial.[70] Instructions dealing with the evidence should run—"if you believe from the evidence,"[71] but it is not necessary that each thought, element or act pointed out or specified shall be preceded immediately by the requirement that it must be found from the evidence.[72] An admonition, though applicable, need not be repeated in every instruction.[73] Hypothetical instructions should be based on a correct hypothesis.[74] Reading excerpts from opinions of appellate courts is not a desirable method of instructing,[75] as such excerpts are liable to be misleading[76] or argumentative.[77] The language of instructions should be intelligible,[78] clear,[79] and free from ambiguity.[80] Instructions should not be misleading,[81] or tend to impress the explanation, two distinct rules of law, qualifying the former with the latter. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Streyer [Ga.] 51 S. E. 342.

Approved forms: Relating to liability for goods sold and delivered. Reynolds v. Blake, 111 Ill. App. 53. Relative to negligence and contributory negligence held not ground for reversal, though not to be commended. Huey Co. v. Johnston [Ind.] 73 N. E. 996. "If the jury believe from the evidence that the plaintiff while in the exercise of ordinary care was injured by or in consequence of the negligence alleged in the declaration or any count thereof, you can find defendant guilty." Illinois Terra Cotta Lumber Co. v. Hanley, 116 Ill. App. 359. "Plaintiff's case" and "his case" are proper terms to be used in instructions. Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson, 116 Ill. App. 609; Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson, 215 Ill. 436, 74 N. E. 458.

69. If they are such as can be readily understood by the ordinary mind, it is sufficient. Carson v. Old Nat. Bank, 37 Wash. 279, 79 P. 927.

70. Bickel v. Martin, 115 Ill. App. 367. A special charge to the jury to the effect that in order to render an assignment of the contract valid there would have to be a new agreement between the parties "simultaneously" will be interpreted to mean that the new agreement be or exist between the parties simultaneously, and not that it must be made between them simultaneously. Caldwell Furnace Foundry Co. v. Peck-Williamson Heating, etc., Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 629. "While" exercising ordinary care is sufficiently broad to require the jury to find the exercise of such degree of care at and immediately prior to the time of his injury. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lawrence, 113 Ill. App. 269. An instruction that the jury should consider an alleged dedicator's acts as proof of his intention to dedicate did not authorize the determination of the question of intention on the alleged dedicator's testimony alone. Town of Bethel v. Pruett, 215 Ill. 162, 74 N. E. 111.

71. "If you believe from the evidence bearing on plaintiff's case" is equivalent to "If you believe from the evidence." Hayward v. Scott, 114 Ill. App. 531. "Under the evidence and the instructions of the court" and "from the preponderance of the evidence in this case and under the instructions of the court" are proper substitutes for "from the evidence." Chicago & W. I. R. Co. v. Newell, 113 Ill. App. 263. "The evidence" means all the evidence. Adams v. Pease, 113 Ill. App. 356. Instruction that if the jury find from the evidence "that the plaintiff has made out his case by a preponderance of the evidence as alleged in his declaration," he is entitled to recover, is proper. United States Brewing Co. v. Stoltenberg, 114 Ill. App. 435. Failure to require the jury's belief to be "based on the evidence" held not prejudicial error. Town of Bethel v. Pruett, 215 Ill. 162, 74 N. E. 111. "If you believe from the evidence" should not be used. Merrell v. Dudley [N. C.] 51 S. E. 777.

72. Where an instruction contains but one sentence and begins with the requirement to "find from the evidence" the matters therein the direction applies to the entire sentence. Leighton & H. Steel Co. v. Snell [Ill.] 75 N. E. 462.

73. Where instructions inform the jury that carelessness or unskillfulness must have attended all the acts of a defendant, it was not necessary that this admonition be repeated in every instruction. Mernin v. Cory, 145 Cal. 573, 79 P. 174.

74. Refusal of a request that the undisputed evidence showed a fact was proper where the evidence showed a different fact. O'Connor v. Hogan [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 272, 104 N. W. 29.

75. Thomas v. Butler, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 305.

76. The practice of presenting an excerpt from an opinion of an appellate court is not commended. Jensen v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 4.

77. Language used by the court of last resort, especially where used in the discussion of the facts of a case, is often inappropriate to be used in an instruction. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co. v. Hudson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 29.

78. Unintelligible in language properly refused. Kehl v. Abram, 112 Ill. App. 77. Instruction held unintelligible. Frank v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 88.

79. Held confusing: Texas & P. R. Co. v. Ray Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 691; Citizens R. Co. v. Gossett [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 35. Vague and confusing instructions should not be given. City of Cleburne v. Gutta Percha & Rubber Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 108, 88 S. W. 300. Instruction held not erroneous as making a carrier liable for any negligence except its own. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302.

80. Ambiguous instructions are ground for reversal if they are prejudicial. Renn v.

jury with the idea that they may disregard the law and facts of the case.[82] The measure of damages should not be left to the unlimited discretion of the jury,[83] nor should they be misled into allowing double damages.[84] Instructions should not appeal to the sympathies of the jury,[85] nor impose too great a burden of proof.[86]

Tallman, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 503. Instruction held not ambiguous. Schroeder v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 968.

81. Held misleading and ground for reversal. Curry v. Lanning, 94 N. Y. S. 535; Plucker v. Miller, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 495. That upon a certain showing a presumption of negligence arises is misleading if the jury are not instructed that this presumption is rebuttable. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Crose. 113 Ill. App. 547. Abstract propositions, though correct, should not be given if they are misleading. Chan v. Slater [Mont.] 82 P. 657. Instruction that plaintiff could not recover if his injuries were caused by his own and his foreman's negligence is misleading. The jury might have understood that the foreman's negligence alone would not authorize a recovery. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Kellerman [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 140, 87 S. W. 401. An instruction that the law raises a presumption of negligence from certain facts is misleading in not stating that such presumption is rebuttable. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Jamieson, 112 Ill. App. 69. Requiring that the jury "should be reasonably satisfied by a preponderance of evidence." Callaway v. Gay [Ala.] 39 So. 277. Request that it takes the same amount of evidence to prove one thing as it does to prove another is properly refused and a requirement that it be proved by a preponderance substituted. Smith v. McDonald [Mich.] 102 N. W. 738. It is erroneous to instruct the jury to use its own knowledge in determining what evidence means. Northern Supply Co. v. Wangard, 123 Wis. 1, 100 N. W. 1066. Instruction as to the effect of admission. Castner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 126 Iowa, 581, 102 N. W. 499. A misleading charge is not ground for reversal unless prejudice results. Vandiver & Co. v. Waller [Ala.] 39 So. 136.

Properly refused as too general as well as misleading. Mueller v. Northwestern Iron Co. [Wis.] 104 N. W. 67. Misleading instruction may be refused. Stewart v. Doak [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 95; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. O'Loughlin [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1104; Jacksonville Elec. Co. v. Adams [Fla.] 39 So. 183. Instruction that it is not the duty of a railroad company to check the speed of its trains at crossings is properly refused where it appears that the train was running in the limits of a municipality at a speed prohibited by ordinance. Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. De Yaeger, 112 Ill. App. 537. Request from which the jury might have inferred that the burden of proof rested on the wrong party. Brown v. Harris [Mich.] 102 N. W. 960.

Held not misleading: Instruction in an action for false imprisonment, assault and battery and malicious prosecution. Lansky v. Prettyman [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 120, 103 N. W. 538. Instruction defining circumstantial evidence and preponderance. Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson, 215 Ill. 436, 74 N. E. 458. Instructions as to the duty of a master to furnish his servants a safe place in which to work. Powley v. Swensen, 146 Cal. 471, 80 P. 722. That the court read to the jury Civ. Code 1895, § 2322, containing two principles, is not ground for a new trial. Macon & B. R. Co. v. Anderson, 121 Ga. 666, 49 S. E. 791. Instruction to consider and weigh testimony as to what services of an attorney are worth held not misleading. Sexton v. Bradley, 110 Ill. App. 495. That an instruction is in general terms is not ground for reversal unless it is misleading. Sack v. St. Louis Car Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 79.

82. That the jury are the sole judges of the facts and that the court does not intend to instruct how they should find any question of fact. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Straud, 114 Ill. App. 479.

83. The measure of damages in a personal injury action should not be left to the unlimited discretion of the jury. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kuck, 112 Ill. App. 620.

84. When a general measure of damages is stated, it is improper to so frame a charge as to authorize an additional recovery for particular items included in and covered by the general measure. St. Louis & S. W. R. Co. v. Foster [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 450. Instructions held not objectionable as misleading the jury into giving double damages. Red River, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1169.

Not misleading: Instruction as to measure of damages against a connecting carrier. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Slaughter [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1085. Instruction as to damages held misleading as not limiting the jury to the allowance of actual damages. La Favorite Rubber Mfg. Co. v. Channon Co., 113 Ill. App. 491. An instruction that such damages may be allowed as the jury believe from the evidence was sustained, not exceeding the amount claimed, is not erroneous because the amount claimed was large. Kellyville Coal Co. v. Strine [Ill.] 75 N. E. 375.

85. In an action for wrongful death, instructing that the case should be decided the same as if the widow and not the brother was plaintiff. National Council of the Knights & Ladies of Security v. O'Brien, 112 Ill. App. 40. But see Reiss v. Kienle, 88 N. Y. S. 359, holding that it is not erroneous to charge that defendant will be incarcerated if the verdict goes against him.

86. "By a preponderance of the evidence to the satisfaction of the jury" is bad form. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Cammer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 625. Contributory negligence may be proven by a preponderance of evidence. Proof need not be "clear and convincing." Sanders v. Aiken Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 50 S. E. 679. That the jury must be "satisfied" is erroneous where only a preponderance of evidence is required. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Buchanan [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1073. Requiring plaintiff to prove his case to the satisfaction of the jury is erroneous. Kelley v. Malhoit, 115 Ill. App. 23.

Instructions should be certain.[87]—They should be direct, accurate and certain,[88] and repetition should be avoided,[89] especially where the evidence is conflicting[90] or evenly balanced,[91] or the case is a close one upon the facts.[92]

Verbal inaccuracies and inelegancies[93] should be avoided,[94] as they constitute ground for reversal if prejudice results,[95] but usually they are considered harmless[96] and not to be complained of by a party who does not at the time call them to the attention of the court.[97]

Requiring too great a burden of proof is erroneous. Ketchum v. Gilmer, 115 Ill. App. 347; Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364.

Held not to violate the rule: Instruction that plaintiff must make out his case "to the satisfaction of the jury" does not impose too great a burden. Powell v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 803, 49 S. E. 759. Instruction to find for a party if the evidence preponderates in his favor, though but slightly, is not erroneous. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lawrence, 113 Ill. App. 269; Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson, 215 Ill. 436, 74 N. E. 458. Unless the jury believe and "can say" from the evidence imposes no greater burden of proof than if "can say" had been omitted. O'Donnell v. Rosenthal, 110 Ill. App. 225. "Preponderates in his favor though but slightly," though subject to criticism is not reversible error. Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson, 116 Ill. App. 609.

87. See 4 C. L. 143.

88. An instruction permitting the jury to award damages on mere caprice is erroneous. Simons v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 129.

Held clear and not open to the objection of being vague. City of Lexington v. Kreitz [Neb.] 103 N. W. 444. Held not vague or uncertain. Dysart-Cook Mule Co. v. Reed [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 591.

89. The giving of a great number of instructions containing much repetition may be reversible error in a close case. Bartz v. Chicago City R. Co., 116 Ill. App. 554.

90. Where there is a sharp conflict in the evidence, instructions should be clear and accurate. Bloomington & N. R. Co. v. Gabbert, 111 Ill. App. 147; Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Grommes, 110 Ill. App. 113.

91. Where the evidence is conflicting and would have justified a verdict either way. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Moras, 111 Ill. App. 531. Where there is a sharp conflict and a verdict either way would be sustained, the instructions must be accurate and correct. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Burke, 112 Ill. App. 415.

92. Where the case is very close on the facts, it is important that the instructions be accurate. Sardis & D. R. Co. v. McCoy [Miss.] 37 So. 706. The jury should be fully and accurately instructed where the case is close and the evidence conflicting. Buckler v. Newman, 116 Ill. App. 546.

93. See 4 C. L. 143.

94. When a party is seeking to recover on several contracts, it is error to instruct that if he was not in default relative to said contracts "or either of them," he is entitled to recover. Armeny v. Madson & Buck Co., 111 Ill. App. 621. "Corroborated by other credible witnesses" is erroneous when corroboration by a single witness would be sufficient. Weddemann v. Lehman, 111 Ill. App. 231. "A fair preponderance of evidence" is erroneous. Link v. Campbell [Neb.] 104 N. W. 939. "Clear" preponderance is erroneous. Chan v. Slater [Mont.] 82 P. 657. Where it is the duty of the jury to consider certain facts, imperative forms of expression should be used, "must" instead of "may" or "should." Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind.] 75 N. E. 272. Error to use "believed" instead of "knew." Smith v. McDonald [Mich.] 102 N. W. 738.

95. Court making incorrect statements of testimony on dominant questions on a controlling issue in its charge, is ground for reversal. Wuest v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 619.

96. A statement that a bonding company signed paper as surety, not as an accommodation indorser but for a consideration, followed immediately by a statement of the rights of sureties and that they are favored in the law, held not prejudicial. American Bonding Co. v. Ottumwa [C. C. A.] 137 F. 572. Slight inaccuracies in the recital of testimony is not ground for reversal. McCosh v. Myers, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 61. "Strong evidence" instead of "persuasive evidence" held not reversible error. Fry v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 147. Use of "defendant" instead of "plaintiff" held not misleading. Bowick v. American Pipe Mfg. Co., 69 S. C. 360, 48 S. E. 276. An instruction to answer an issue of contributory negligence "no" is bad form, but harmless when there is an entire absence of evidence. Walker v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 135 N. C. 738, 47 S. E. 675. Omission of "preponderance" in a single instance held not prejudicial. Humphrey v. Pope [Cal. App.] 82 P. 223. Omission of "not" in a definition of negligence held not reversible error. Young v. People's Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 788. Use of "defendant" instead of "plaintiff" is harmless when the instructions as a whole are not misleading. Reupke v. Stuhr & Son Grain Co., 126 Iowa, 632, 102 N. W. 509. Though not perfectly accurate and above criticism, it is not ground for reversal if the jury were not misled. Demmer v. American Ins. Co., 110 Ill. App. 580. Use of "street" instead of "sidewalk" held harmless. Village of Upper Alton v. Green, 112 Ill. App. 439. Refusal to give instruction which was subject to some verbal criticism held error. Chicago City R. Co. v. Meinheit, 114 Ill. App. 497.

97. When a judge drops a word or expression in the course of a long charge which is plainly error and contrary to the theory of the case, counsel should call his

Argumentative instructions[98] should not be given,[99] but the giving of an abstract and argumentative charge is not reversible error,[1] especially if instructions as a whole state the law fully and clearly.[2]

The instructions should be consistent.[3]—Conflicting requests should not be read to the jury without adequate comment or reference to the conflict,[4] and though instructions supplement each other, they should state correct principles and be in harmony.[5] The giving of inconsistent instructions is reversible error,[6] unless they relate to an immaterial issue.[7] An incorrect instruction is not cured by a correct one in direct conflict with it.[8]

§ 7. Relation of instruction to pleading and evidence.[9]—Instructions should be predicated on the issues made by the pleadings,[10] which are material,[11] and attention to the inadvertence and not rely on a general exception. Patch Mfg. Co. v. Protection Lodge No. 215, I. A. M. [Vt.] 60 A. 74.

98. See 4 C. L. 145.

99. McCormick v. Parriott [Colo.] 80 P. 1044; Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Rier [Ala.] 38 So. 857. Requests which are argumentative, suggestive or persuasive should be refused. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Alfred, 113 Ill. App. 236.

Properly refused: Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Nuetzel, 114 Ill. App. 466; Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. DeYaeger, 112 Ill. App. 537.

Held argumentative: Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Ward, 113 Ill. App. 327; Quint v. Dimond [Cal.] 82 P. 310; Macon R. & Light Co. v. Vining [Ga.] 51 S. E. 719. Singling out certain testimony and stating the effect to be given it. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 695. That no one has a right to leap from a moving train in the night time because he is carried past his destination is abstract and argumentative. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Matthews [Ala.] 39 So. 207. "The argument is not sound which seeks to trace the immediate cause of the death of 'M' through the previous stages of physical suffering and months of disease and medical treatment to the original accident on the railroad." Id. "A mule of ordinary gentleness as used in the complaint does not mean any particular mule which is ordinarily gentle, but means a mule which is as gentle as ordinarily gentle mules." Western R. Co. v. Cleghorn [Ala.] 39 So. 133. Instruction as to the duty of a railroad company to keep its right of way clear of combustible material held argumentative. Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v. Dial [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 22. In stating the contentions of the parties the court should not so mingle them with inferences and deductions from facts in evidence that they are presented in the form of an argument. Smith v. Hazlehurst [Ga.] 50 S. E. 917. That it is a sound rule of law that if a witness willfully swears falsely to a material fact his entire testimony may be disregarded. McClendon v. McKissack [Ala.] 38 So. 1020. A charge that the law abhors fraud. Id.

1. Vandiver & Co. v. Waller [Ala.] 39 So. 136.

2. McCormick v. Parriott [Colo.] 80 P. 1044.

3. See 4 C. L. 145.

Rule violated: Assuming a certain fact and then submitting whether or not it existed is erroneous. Anderson v. Seropian [Cal.] 81 P. 521. Error to give instructions which contradict each other with respect to material matters. Thomas v. Riley, 114 Ill. App. 520. Instructions as to negligence and contributory negligence. Christy v. Des Moines City R. Co., 126 Iowa, 428. 102 N. W. 194. Instruction held contradictory and prejudicial. Quist v. Dimond [Cal.] 82 P. 310.

Rule not violated: Instructions relative to the duty of an agent held not inconsistent. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636. Instructions relative to burden of proof held not inconsistent. Pacific Packing & Navigation Co. v. Fielding [C. C. A.] 136 F. 577; McClure v. Feldmann, 184 Mo. 710, 84 S. W. 16; Wright v. Kansas City, 187 Mo. 678, 86 S. W. 452.

4. Shailer v. Vullock [Conn.] 61 A. 65.

5. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Grommes, 110 Ill. App. 113.

6. Inconsistent instructions held prejudicial error. Rosenstein v. Fair Haven & W. R. Co. [Conn.] 60 A. 1061. Giving two instructions so contradictory that both cannot be followed is error. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Jennings, 114 Ill. App. 622. Instruction that if certain facts were found plaintiff was entitled to recover without a qualification "unless he was guilty of contributory negligence" is not cured by a subsequent charge that contributory negligence would bar a recovery. Nickey v. Steuder [Ind.] 73 N. E. 117.

7. Inconsistent instructions relative to an immaterial issue are not ground for reversal. James v. Lyons Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 275. Inconsistent instructions on an immaterial point, where the jury could not have been misled, are not grounds for a new trial. Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10.

8. Rector v. Robins [Ark.] 86 S. W. 667.

9. See 4 C. L. 145.

10. Instruction not based on the pleadings is erroneous: Nickey v. Dougan, 34 Ind. App. 601, 73 N. E. 288; Western & A. R. Co. v. Burnham [Ga.] 50 S. E. 984; Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Hardy [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1053; Word v. Marrs [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 17; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Ray Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 691. An instruction upon a theory of recovery not which remain controverted,[12] and upon the competent evidence[13] introduced in the case,[14, 15] which is sufficient to warrant an instruction,[16] and not upon evidence merely supported by allegations. Wabash R. Co. v. Burress, 111 Ill. App. 258.

Held erroneous: Where a complaint alleged injuries other than those proved, authorizing a recovery if plaintiff was injured "in whole or in part as alleged" is not a charge on facts not proven, nor does it authorize a recovery for injuries not alleged. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hay [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 27, 86 S. W. 954. Instruction erroneous as not limiting the question of negligence to that alleged in the complaint. Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. Thrasher [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 829. Where a right of recovery is not based on negligence of a coemploye and it is not alleged that the master knew of such negligence nor that plaintiff was ignorant thereof, an instruction relative thereto is not within the issues. Nickey v. Dougan, 34 Ind. App. 601, 73 N. E. 288. Erroneous not to limit the right to recover to negligence charged in the declaration. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Scott, 111 Ill. App. 234. An instruction authorizing a recovery for negligence should be limited to the acts of negligence alleged. Schroeder v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 968. Erroneous as allowing a recovery of damages not prayed for in the complaint. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Logan [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 812. Where defendant claimed that, on account of his having incurred expense in the transaction in suit, he had paid plaintiff a certain sum in settlement, but did not request submission of issue of such accord and satisfaction, held, that he was restricted to his plea, and his contention that an instruction for plaintiff precluded consideration of the amount of such expenses was outside the issues. Sayers v. Craven, 107 Mo. App. 407, 81 S. W. 473. An instruction must confine the jury to the consideration of negligence alleged in the declaration. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Grommes, 110 Ill. App. 113. An instruction based upon no count in the declaration is erroneous. Gillespie Home Tp. Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Prather, 105 Ill. App. 123. In an action for services rendered, an instruction authorizing a recovery of damages for breach of contract is not based on the cause of action pleaded and is erroneous. Mengis v. Fitzgerald, 95 N. Y. S. 436. An instruction submitting an issue of fraud not made by the pleadings is erroneous. Beadleston v. Furrer, 102 App. Div. 544, 92 N. Y. S. 879. An issue of discovered peril, in order to be submitted, must be raised by the pleadings. Hawkins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 52. Where the negligence relied on is excessive speed, it is error to instruct on the failure to give warnings. Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 662, 47 S. E. 850. Instructions allowing a recovery for negligence not alleged are erroneous. Hartman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 86.

Not erroneous: Instructions held not to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit of any contention made by the pleadings and supported by the evidence. Tucker v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 128. It is error to refuse to instruct that no negligence other than that alleged in the petition should be considered. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Lockwood [Ohio] 74 N. E. 1071.

11. Instructions on an immaterial issue should not be given. Chan v. Slater [Mont.] 82 P. 657. Under § 50 of the Practice Act, it is proper to instruct the jury to disregard counts which would not sustain judgment after verdict. Chicago, W. & V. Coal Co. v. Moran, 110 Ill. App. 664.

12. It is error to instruct on an issue made by the pleadings, but expressly abandoned in open court during the progress of the trial. McWhorter v. O'Neal [Ga.] 51 S. E. 288.

13. That a party does not object to the introduction of incompetent evidence does not preclude him from objecting to its submission to the jury as an element of damages. Lennox v. Interurban St. R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 230. An instruction based on excluded evidence is erroneous. Foley v. Xavier, 93 N. Y. S. 289. Request based on evidence held inadmissible is properly refused. Chicago Consolidated Traction Co. v. Gervens, 113 Ill. App. 275.

14, 15. Should not be in conflict with the evidence. Tuffey v. Brooklyn Union Gas Co., 102 App. Div. 416, 92 N. Y. S. 489.

Instructions having no foundation in the evidence should not be given. Sargent Co. v. Baublis, 215 Ill. 428, 74 N. E. 455. Every instruction should be based upon some evidence. Himrod Coal Co. v. Clingan, 114 Ill. App. 568; Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Nuetzel, 114 Ill. App. 466. An instruction not based on evidence is bad. Nickey v. Dougan, 34 Ind. App. 601, 73 N. E. 288; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Perkins [Ala.] 39 So. 305. Must limit the jury to the evidence. Wabash R. Co. v. Bhymer, 112 Ill. App. 225. To justify the submission of the question of fraud, there must be some evidence of it. Lancaster v. Lee [S. C.] 51 S. E. 139. Should relate solely to the facts of the case. Chicago & J. Elec. R. Co. v. Spence, 115 Ill. App. 465. The jury should be confined in their considerations to acts of negligence shown by the proof. Sommers v. St. Louis Transit Co., 108 Mo. App. 319, 83 S. W. 268. Referring the measure of damages to the judgment of the jury without reference to what might be found from the evidence is erroneous. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Thrasher [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 829. An instruction which predicates a right to recover upon proof made in the case upon a particular count is proper. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Pettit, 111 Ill. App. 172. Instruction to consider all the facts and circumstances proven by the evidence is proper. City of Chicago v. Davies, 110 Ill. App. 427. A refusal to instruct that a verdict might be found upon circumstantial evidence is error. Moulton v. Gibbs, 105 Ill. App. 104.

Error to submit issues not raised by the evidence: Hase v. Schotte [Mo. App.] 84 S. W. 1014; Delta Bag Co. v. Kearns, 112 Ill. App. 269; Sanitary Dist. of Chicago v. McMahon & Montgomery Co., 110 Ill. App. 510; Rainey v. Lawrence [Kan.] 79 P. 116; Stew-offered,[17] and conform to the theory upon which the case was tried.[18] Requests for instructions not so predicated are properly refused,[19] though they state a cor-art v. Van Deventer Carpet Co., 138 N. C. 60, 50 S. E. 562; Chambers v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 501; Burnley v. Mullins [Miss.] 38 So. 635; Willis v. St. Joseph R. Light, Heat & Power Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 567; Hollingsworth v. Barrett [Ky.] 89 S. W. 107.

Held erroneous: Submitting the hypothesis of a severe abrasion is error where there is no evidence thereof, though the language of the instruction was used in the petition. St. Louis v. Kansas City, 110 Mo. App. 653, 85 S. W. 630. An instruction which leads the jury to believe that they may base their verdict on a fact not supported by the evidence. Rumsey v. Shaw [Pa.] 61 A. 1109. Where a party was struck by a car which he testifies he never saw an instruction as to what he could presume had he seen the car is error. Toohey v. Interurban St. R. Co., 102 App. Div. 296, 92 N. Y. S. 427. It is error to charge that the jury may find a fact which there is no evidence to sustain. Dellapia v. American Ice Co., 95 N. Y. S. 605. Abstract propositions not supported by evidence should not be given. Williams & Co. v. Harris, 137 N. C. 460, 49 S. E. 954. Instruction relative to wanton negligence is erroneous where there is no evidence of such negligence. McCandless v. Phreaner, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 383. There being no evidence of undue influence, a charge upon that subject is erroneous. Moore v. Boothe [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 218, 87 S. W. 882. It is error to charge that a certain act is negligence when such instruction has no foundation in the evidence. Marshall v. Holbrook, C. & D. Contracting Co., 95 N. Y. S. 599. Error to submit an issue of negligence not raised by the evidence. Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 186 Mo. 430, 85 S. W. 346. As to an element of damages as to which there is no evidence. Davis v. Richardson [Ark.] 89 S. W. 318. It is error to instruct that the fact that a party called no witnesses may be considered where there is no evidence that such party had witnesses whom he could produce. Robinson v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 1010. An instruction requiring a jury to find facts of which there is no evidence is erroneous. Schroeder v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 968.

Must be based on issues made either by the pleadings or the evidence: Request based on matter not in issue may be refused. Chicago Consolidated Traction Co. v. Gervens, 113 Ill. App. 275; Woods v. Wabash R. Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 1082; Walsh v. Jackson [Colo.] 81 P. 258; Patterson v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 102 N. W. 765; Diefenthaler v. Hall, 116 Ill. App. 422. Instructions predicated on causes of action not alleged or proven are misleading. Corum v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 143.

It is error to submit an issue not tendered by the pleadings nor litigated in the presentation of the case. Cody v. Duluth St. R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 201. Instruction not based on any matter under consideration properly refused. Stowe v. La Conner Trading & Transp. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 856. Introducing into the case a substantial issue not raised by the pleadings nor litigated by consent is reversible error. Dolson v. Dunham [Minn.] 104 N. W. 964. It is error to direct the jury to find on issues not raised by the pleadings or upon the trial. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeler [Kan.] 79 P. 673. Instruction upon subject of fellow-servants properly refused where the question does not arise in the case. Wabash R. Co. v. Burress, 111 Ill. App. 258.

Must be based on evidence and pleadings: Schlesinger v. Scheunemann, 114 Ill. App. 459; Thornton-Thomas Mercantile Co. v. Bretherton [Mont.] 80 P. 10. As a rule it is error to submit to the jury, as a question affecting the rights of the parties, an issue not raised by both the pleadings and the evidence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. McAnaney [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 1062. Such introduction is ground for reversal if it appears that the jury were misled. Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Forrest [Ohio] 75 N. E. 818.

16. Evidence held to justify an instruction relative to false representations. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Goodwin, 120 Ga. 83, 47 S. E. 641. Where there is evidence affording an inference of a certain fact, an instruction based thereon is warranted. Southern R. Co. v. Douglass [Ala.] 39 So. 268. A scintilla of evidence which would not support a verdict does not call for an instruction on the issue to which it is addressed. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Stock [Va.] 51 S. E. 161.

17. Not on evidence "offered." Henline v. Brady, 110 Ill. App. 75.

18. Morley v. St. Joseph [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 1013. A party should not be given the benefit of any theory not covered by his pleading. Western & A. R. Co. v. Branan [Ga.] 51 S. E. 650. They should be adjusted to the law and facts of the case on trial. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Price, 121 Ga. 651, 49 S. E. 683. Instructions predicated on issues not submitted may be refused. Rio Grande, etc., R. Co. v. Martinez [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 853. Must be based on theories advanced by the pleadings. Himrod Coal Co. v. Clingan, 114 Ill. App. 568.

19. Not within the pleadings: Issues not raised by the pleadings need not be instructed upon. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 45, 87 S. W. 1060. Instruction predicated on contributory negligence not pleaded properly refused. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Foster [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 370, 87 S. W. 879; Allen-West Commission Co. v. Hudgins & Bro. [Ark.] 86 S. W. 289; O'Donnell v. Armour Curled Hair Works, 111 Ill. App. 516; Kimball Co. v. Piper, 111 Ill. App. 82.

Not predicated on the evidence: Request not based on evidence properly refused. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co. v. Friedman Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 713; Miller v. Carnes [Minn.] 103 N. W. 877; Quale v. Hazel [S. D.] 104 N. W. 215; City of Indianapolis v. Cauley [Ind.] 73 N. E. 691; Kehi v. Abram, 112 Ill. App. 77; Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Bell, 111 Ill. App. 280; German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135; Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v.

rect proposition of law,[20] as they tend to confuse the jury.[21] An instruction not predicated on issues in the case is not ground for reversal unless it is prejudicial.[22] An instruction should be predicated on all the evidence bearing on the issue to which it relates,[23] and when testimony is stricken the court should upon request instruct that it be disregarded.[24]

§ 8. Stating issues to jury.[25]—In submitting the case to the jury, the court should separate and state definitely the issues of fact made by the pleadings,[26] and instruct upon each issue as the nature of the case may require.[27] Where there are no written pleadings, the court should frame the issues from the evidence and present the disputed questions of fact.[28] Attention should be called to material allegations admitted and denied.[29] The court should not read the pleadings and instruct the jury to determine the controversy, and not otherwise define the specific issues.[30] The court should not submit inconsistent theories and authorize a recovery on either.[31] It is not a sufficient statement of the issues to refer the jury to the pleadings,[32] and although it is proper to permit the jury to take the plead-

Harrls, 103 Va. 708, 49 S. E. 991; United States Wringer Co. v. Cooney, 214 Ill. 520, 73 N. E. 803; Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 211 Ill. 279, 71 N. E. 991; Id., 113 Ill. App. 381; Denison & P. S. R. Co. v. Harlan [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 207, 87 S. W. 732; Lansky v. Prettyman [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 120, 103 N. W. 538; Portsmouth St. R. Co. v. Peed's Adm'r, 102 Va. 662, 47 S. E. 850; Ward Land & Stock Co. v. Mapes [Cal.] 82 P. 426; Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386; McKenzie v. Mitchell [Ga.] 51 S. E. 34; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Cluck [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 186, 87 S. W. 817; Harrison v. Lakenan [Mo.] 88 S. W. 53; Parke v. Nixon [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 413, 104 N. W. 597; Haywood v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 433. A special charge that "if plaintiff by her own testimony in support of her cause of action raises a presumption of contributory negligence, the burden rests upon her to remove that presumption" was properly refused where there was no testimony implying negligence on her part. Smith v. Johnson, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 8. Requests concerning a defense which, as a matter of law is insufficiently supported by the evidence, need not be given. American Surety Co. v. Choctaw Const. Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 487. It is not error to refuse to instruct that a woman is subject to the same rules and conditions with respect to negligence that a man is where there is no testimony on the subject. Busch v. Robinson [Or.] 81 P. 237.

20. An instruction, though containing a correct proposition of law, may be refused if there is no evidence before the jury on the subject. Young v. O'Brien, 36 Wash. 570, 79 P. 211. Abstract propositions wholly disconnected from the issues should not be charged. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Augusta Brokerage Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 473.

21. Instructions having no foundation in the evidence, though abstractly correct, tend to confuse the jury. Maus v. Mahoning Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 624. A correct abstract proposition not based on evidence is misleading. Whitaker v. Thayer [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 364. Abstract propositions without support in the evidence are misleading and should not be given. Fordyce v. Key [Ark.] 84 S. W. 797.

22. Not based on evidence. Burns v. Goddard [S. C.] 51 S. E. 915. Is harmless if it was disregarded. Adams v. Pease, 113 Ill. App. 356. Submitting an issue not raised by the evidence is harmless where the jury could not have found for the opposing party unless on other grounds. Price v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 858. Not based on the pleadings. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Kellerman [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 140, 87 S. W. 401.

23. Willis v. St. Joseph R., Light, Heat & Power Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 567. It is proper to instruct the jury to consider all the facts and circumstances in assessing damages. Chicago City R. Co. v. Sheehan, 110 Ill. App. 492.

24. Walsh v. Jackson [Colo.] 81 P. 258.

25. See 4 C. L. 148.

26. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Lockwood [Ohio] 74 N. E. 1071. Instruction held to submit the issue of contributory negligence. Quirk v. Rapid R. Co. [Mich.] 100 N. W. 815. The contentions of a party and the law applicable thereto should be stated. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Gardner [Ga.] 49 S. E. 818.

27. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Lockwood [Ohio] 74 N. E. 1071. Where a complaint is in four paragraphs, radically different in their averments and theories, an instruction that they are substantially the same and that the establishment of either one would entitle a recovery, is erroneous. Nickey v. Dougan, 34 Ind. App. 601, 73 N. E. 288.

28. Coxe v. Singleton [N. C.] 51 S. E. 1019.

29, 30. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Lockwood [Ohio] 74 N. E. 1071.

31. Behen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 186 Mo. 430, 85 S. W. 346.

32. But see 4 C. L. 148, n. 81 et seq. The court should point out the issues of fact for the jury to try. An instruction merely referring to the declaration as a statement of plaintiff's case is insufficient and erroneous. It would not, for the average juror, point out either the issues to be tried, or the plaintiff's case. Chicago City R. Co. v. Mauger, 105 Ill. App. 579.

ings to the jury room, it is also proper to set forth in instructions a clear statement of the case and the issues to be determined.[33] Improper reference to a declaration which has been superseded by an amended one is not reversible error when the reference was with respect to allegations substantially the same as in the amended declaration.[34] It is not material in what form issues are presented.[35] It is sufficient if the jury fully understand the questions they are to determine.[36] If more elaborate instructions are desired, an appropriate request should be preferred.[37] It is not required that all the issues be stated in a single instruction,[38] and when the issues have once been stated, a repetition is unnecessary.[39] If the issues are simple and have been stated by counsel, a statement of them by the court is unnecessary.[40] The simplicity of the issues may render any statement of them unnecessary.[41] Issues which involve the recitation of a large amount of testimony,[42] abandoned issues,[43] issues not sustained,[44] issues embodying evidentiary facts only,[45] or issues withdrawn during the trial,[46] need not be submitted. Contentions supported by any evidence,[47] however slight,[48] should be submitted; but those having no foundation in the evidence should not.[49]

§ 9. Ignoring material evidence, theories and defenses.[50]—Instructions should

33. Paxton v. Woodward [Mont.] 78 P. 215. It is not error to incorporate the pleadings into the instructions, but it is the better practice for the court to instruct as to the issues. Blair-Baker Horse Co. v. First Nat. Bank [Ind.] 2 N. E. 1027. It is proper to refer the jury to the pleadings. Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. DeYaeger, 112 Ill. App. 537.

34. Hansell-Elcock Foundry Co. v. Clark, 115 Ill. App. 209.

35. Deaver v. Deaver, 137 N. C. 240, 49 S. E. 113. It is only required that issues be submitted in such form as when decided they form a basis for the judgment. Wright v. Cotten [N. C.] 52 S. E. 141. Where the points for decision have been clearly stated, it is not error in stating the issues to practically copy the pleadings instead of making a succinct statement of the issues. German Ins. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 361. If facts alleged are sufficient to authorize a recovery it is not error to group them and direct the jury to find for plaintiff if they existed. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 71.

36. Failure to refer to the negligence charged in the declaration is not reversible error where the jury could not have understood that the instruction had reference to any other negligence. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Surrells, 115 Ill. App. 615. On a conflict of evidence as to whether a disease resulted from an injury or other causes, the jury should be informed as to the probable causes from which the disease might result. Clark v. Union Traction Co. [Pa.] 60 A. 302. Where the court has fully stated the issues, it is not ground for a new trial that he refuses to charge that other issues growing out of the evidence are not to be considered except in so far as they bear on the ultimate result. Morrison v. Dickey [Ga.] 50 S. E. 178.

37. In stating the contentions of one party, it is proper to confine the statement to matters which it is necessary for him to prove; if the other party desires instructions as to admissions made in the pleadings, he should prefer a request. Georgia, F. & A. R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15.

38. See ante, § 6 and post, § 17, Instructions must be considered as a whole.

39. See ante, § 3, Repetition.

40. Cody v. Market St. R. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 666.

41. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4993, subd. 6, requiring the court to charge all matters of law necessary for the information of the jury in finding a verdict, failure to state the issues in a case where they are simple is not error. Lambert v. La Conner Trading & Transp. Co., 37 Wash. 113, 79 P. 608.

42. A party is not entitled to have submitted a question the answer to which involves the recitation of a large amount of testimony. Jenkins v. Beachy [Kan.] 80 P. 947.

43. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Dukes, 121 Ga. 787, 49 S. E. 788.

44. If a plaintiff fails to sustain by evidence a charge of negligence, this feature should be eliminated when stating the issues to the jury. Western & A. R. Co. v. Branan [Ga.] 51 S. E. 650.

45. Jackson v. American Tel. & T. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 1015.

46. German Ins. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 361.

47. There being evidence from which a jury might find that there had been waste, the issue of damages should have been submitted. Roby v. Newton, 121 Ga. 679, 49 S. E. 694.

48. It is proper to submit the theory of a party, though supported only by the testimony of one witness. Christy v. Des Moines City R. Co., 126 Iowa, 428, 102 N. W. 194.

49. See ante, § 7. Where there has been no arbitration and no award and no evidence thereof, an instruction to the effect that there has been no arbitration and award is not necessary. Williamson v. North Pac. Lumber Co., 43 Or. 337, 73 P. 7.

50. See 4 C. L. 148.

be so framed as not to ignore or withdraw from the consideration of the jury any meritorious theory,[51] material issue,[52] evidence,[53] or matter of defense;[54] hence the attention of the jury should not be confined to one view of the case if there are more than one which should be considered,[55] and an instruction directed to an issue relative to which there is other evidence and room for other inferences than those enumerated is properly refused;[56] but a particular defense not supported by any evidence may be ignored.[57]

§ 10. Giving undue prominence to evidence, issues and theories.[58]—Instructions should not single out and give undue prominence to particular facts[59] or evidence,[60] and requested instructions subject to this vice may be refused;[61] but

51. Reynolds v. Blake, 111 Ill. App. 53. Where the entire case does not hang on a single point, it is error to make the finding of the jury depend upon it. Campbell v. Bates [Ala.] 39 So. 144. Request which ignores theories of recovery contained in the pleadings is properly refused. St. Louis & B. Elec. R. Co. v. Erlinger, 112 Ill. App. 506.

52. An instruction eliminating material issues (Mengis v. Fitzgerald, 95 N. Y. S. 436), or which withdraws from the issues a material matter in dispute, is erroneous (Tibbits v. Sweet [Neb.] 102 N. W. 255). Instruction erroneous as ignoring the question as to whether a motorman attempted to stop his car in time to avoid collision. Chicago City R. Co. v. Schmidt [Ill.] 75 N. E. 383. Instruction ignoring a material averment (Alton Light & Traction Co. v. Oliver [Ill.] 75 N. E. 419), or an issue of negligence (St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Rea [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 428), or other material issue raised by the pleadings, is properly refused (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cains [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 682), as is a request for a directed verdict which ignores facts involved which are clearly for the jury (Dietrich v. Lancaster [Pa.] 61 A. 1112).

Held not to ignore a material issue. Sanders v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 728.

53. Material evidence (Welliver v. Pennsylvania Canal Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 79; Edger v. Knpper, 110 Mo. App. 280, 85 S. W. 949; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Perkins [Ala.] 39 So. 305), or material facts should not be ignored (Dexter v. Thayer [Mass.] 75 N. E. 223). An instruction which takes from the jury the consideration of material evidence is erroneous (Rylander v. Laursen [Wis.] 102 N. W. 341) and failure to submit evidence on a material question to jury is reversible error (Augsbury v. Shurtliff, 180 N. Y. 138, 72 N. E. 927). Requests ignoring material facts (Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386; Flynn v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 560), or important (Deltring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140), or pertinent evidence (Chicago Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Campbell, 116 Ill. App. 322), or omitting reference to material evidence, properly refused (Johnston v. Witt Shoe Co., 103 Va. 611, 50 S. E. 153). Should not eliminate the consideration of material evidence. Stewart v. Van Deventer Carpet Co., 138 N. C. 60, 50 S. E. 562. Instruction ignoring evidence of proximate cause properly refused. Diamond Block Coal Co. v. Cuthbertson [Ind.] 73 N. E. 818. Reciting the allegations of the complaint and telling the jury that if they have been established, plaintiff is entitled to recover, is proper where opposing evidence merely sought to disprove them. Does not ignore defendants' evidence. Illinois Central R. Co. v. Smith, 111 Ill. App. 177.

54. Defense of contributory negligence. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Scott, 111 Ill. App. 234; Abbott v. Marion Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 110. In an action for injuries submitting the sole question and making the verdict depend on whose witnesses were believed, with no instructions on negligence and contributory negligence, is error. Haggerty v. New York City R. Co., 90 N. Y. S. 336. Instruction held erroneous as ignoring a master's duty to furnish his employes a safe place in which to work. Virginia & N. C. Wheel Co. v. Harris, 103 Va. 708, 49 S. E. 991. An instruction ignoring the defense of assumed risk raised by the pleadings is fatally defective. Montgomery Coal Co. v. Barringer [Ill.] 75 N. E. 900. An instruction that a principal is not bound by acts of his agent in excess of his authority is properly refused where it excludes from consideration a ratification relied on. Shafer v. Russell, 28 Utah, 444, 79 P. 559. An instruction which ignores a material matter of defense is erroneous (Continental Casualty Co. v. Peltier [Va.] 51 S. E. 209; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Price, 121 Ga. 651, 49 S. E. 683), and may be refused (Rio Grande, etc., R. Co. v. Martinez [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 853).

Not erroneous as ignoring a defense. Powley v. Swensen, 146 Cal. 471, 80 P. 722.

55. Renn v. Tallman, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 503.

56. Southern I. R. Co. v. Hoggatt [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1096.

57. Robison v. Bailey, 113 Ill. App. 123.

58. See 4 C. L. 150.

59. South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Schilling [Ky.] 89 S. W. 220. It is error to single out isolated facts. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 87 S. W. 440. To instruct that the relationship of parties to a transfer raises no presumption of fraud on creditors without noticing the other facts is misleading and erroneous. Merrill v. Merrill, 105 Ill. App. 5. Particular facts disclosed by the evidence should not be emphasized (Atwood Lumber Co. v. Watkins [Minn.] 103 N. W. 332), or singled out and given undue prominence (Scott v. Snyder, 116 Ill. App. 393). Undue prominence should not be given to particuthis rule is subject to the rule that each party is entitled to instructions hypothetically outlining the evidence and state of the case upon which he relies.[62] Undue prominence is given by directing the jury to consider a certain undisputed fact,[63] or to consider certain particular facts in reaching a conclusion on an ultimate fact,[64] or by singling out a particular witness and confining the attention of the jury to a portion of the testimony,[65] or by singling out one of several important issues in such way as to impress the jury that it is the controlling one.[66] It is also erroneous to single out certain testimony and state the effect to be given it,[67] or permit the jury to magnify its importance;[68] but if there is no evidence to support a certain fact, the court may so instruct.[69] Undue prominence is not given by mere repetition,[70] nor by specifically applying a theory in two ways at the request of the respective parties.[71]

§ 11. Definition of terms used.[72]—Technical terms employed in the instructions should be defined.[73] The definition given should be correct;[74] but a failure to define such terms is not generally held prejudicial error unless a definition was requested,[75] and especially is this so as to terms commonly used.[76] A definition need not be given if it would not aid the jury in their deliberations,[77] and failure to give it is harmless where it could not have influenced the verdict.[78]

lar facts and circumstances in evidence. Hart v. Carsley Mfg. Co., 116 Ill. App. 159.

Held not to single out facts. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hitt [Ark.] 88 S. W. 908.

60. It is erroneous to direct special attention to some phase of the evidence and give it undue prominence. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Rice [Ala.] 38 So. 857. Certain portions of the evidence should not be singled out and made prominent. Chicago Consolidated Traction Co. v. Gervens, 113 Ill. App. 275. Calling special attention to letters in evidence is erroneous as tending to create an impression that the court attaches special importance to them. Steuben County Wine Co. v. McNeeley, 113 Ill. App. 488.

61. A request which singles out isolated facts and confines the attention of the jury to them is properly refused. Hickey v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 82 P. 29; Chicago Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Campbell, 116 Ill. App. 322.

62. Chicago City R. Co. v. Math, 114 Ill. App. 350.

63. Campbell v. Bates [Ala.] 39 So. 144.

64. Eckhard v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 602.

65. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Perkins [Ala.] 39 So. 305.

66. Jacksonville Elec. Co. v. Adams [Fla.] 39 So. 183.

67. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 695.

68. Simons v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 129.

69. Feitl v. Chicago City R. Co., 113 Ill. App. 381.

70. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Copley [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 219. Defining "negligence" twice held not to give it undue prominence. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Warren [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 26.

71. When neither party was satisfied with the generality of the charge and made specific requests. Price v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 858.

72. See 4 C. L. 151.

73. An instruction on willful injury without stating what facts were necessary to prove it is erroneous. Chicago City R. Co. v. Jordan, 215 Ill. 390, 74 N. E. 452. Where "ordinary care," "reasonable diligence" and "reasonable care" are used, an instruction defining "ordinary care" should have stated that the other terms are synonymous. Greene v. Louisville R. Co. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 1154.

74. Erroneous definition of "preponderance of evidence" held prejudicial. Grotjan v. Rice [Wis.] 102 N. W. 551. A definition of a general agent as one authorized to transact all his principal's business is not misleading where the jury must have understood it to refer only to the kind of business the principal was authorized to do. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Ladd [C. C. A.] 135 F. 636. Instruction that preponderance is not necessarily determined by the number of witnesses is not bad where the jury is not told wherein the preponderance consists. Kozlowski v. Chicago, 113 Ill. App. 513. As to what constitutes a preponderance of evidence held proper. Chicago City R. Co. v. Enroth, 113 Ill. App. 285. Definition of negligence if inaccurate, was cured by a correct definition. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Kothmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1089.

75. Failure to define "ordinary care" is not error in the absence of an appropriate request. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Tisdale [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 1063. "Proximate cause" may be used without otherwise defining it. Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 126 Iowa, 730, 102 N. W. 793. A party who does not request a definition of a technical term used in an instruction requested by him cannot object to an inaccuracy in a definition given by the court of its own motion. Ashby v. Elsberry & N. H. Gravel Road Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 957.

76. "Use" in a question to an applicant for life insurance "Do you use liquor?" Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 656. A general objection does not

§ 12. Rules of evidence; credibility and conflicts.[79]—The court should instruct that evidence admitted for a certain purpose cannot be considered for any other;[80] that impeaching testimony should not be considered as substantive evidence;[81] and should limit the consideration of testimony to the parties against whom it is admissible.[82] It is proper to instruct that the jury are the judges of the credit to be given the testimony of witnesses,[83] and an instruction that expert testimony must not be disregarded must be given where justice demands it.[84] Refusal to give cautionary instruction as to the weight to be given expert testimony is not reversible error.[85] Instructing that depositions should be given the same weight as if the testimony had been given in open court is proper.[86] Instructions that affirmative is of more weight than negative testimony should be based on the hypothesis of like circumstances of the parties.[87] Where the defendant has raised the issue of contributory negligence, a charge that if the evidence is evenly balanced the issues should be found in his favor is erroneous.[88]

The credibility[89] of witnesses is for the jury,[90] and an instruction on the credibility of witnesses, not supported by evidence or apparent facts but based on metaphysical abstractions which suggest suspicion and invite conjecture, is vicious.[91] Where each party contends that the witnesses of the other are unreliable, it is proper to instruct that the character of the witnesses may be considered.[92] It is error to instruct that the testimony of sworn officers of the law is entitled to the more credit.[93] Instructions to consider the demeanor of witnesses should not be mandatory.[94] Commanding the jury to apply its knowledge of human nature to each witness that they may judge the weight to be given his testimony is vicious.[95]

Falsus in uno falsus in omnibus[96] should be given only when there is sufficient basis in the evidentiary facts and circumstances to show that there was willful false swearing,[97] and whether this rule applies to the evidence of a case is a question for raise the question as to whether "safe" should have been defined. Mt. Nebo Anthracite Coal Co. v. Williamson [Ark.] 84 S. W. 779.

77. Where title was claimed by gift, a definition of "gift" need not be given where the only issue is as to which witnesses were to be believed. Parke v. Nixon [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 413, 104 N. W. 597.

78. Failure to define the distinction between "remote" and "proximate" cause is harmless where the jury is told that the negligence must have been the direct cause. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Coutourie [C. C. A.] 135 F. 465.

79. See 4 C. L. 151. Compare Evidence, 5 C. L. 1301; Witnesses, 4 C. L. 1943, where the substantive law is treated.

80. Georgia & A. R. Co. v. Shiver, 121 Ga. 708, 49 S. E. 700; Westfeldt v. Adams, 135 N. C. 591, 47 S. E. 816.

81. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Houchins [Ky.] 89 S. W. 530; Straight Creek Coal Co. v. Hanen's Adm'r [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1114.

82. Admissions by a joint defendant. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Houchins [Ky.] 89 S. W. 530.

83. Illinois Central R. Co. v. Smith, 111 Ill. App. 177.

84. St. Louis v. Kansas City, 110 Mo. App. 653, 85 S. W. 630. Instruction as to expert testimony held proper. Smith v. Missouri & K. Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 71.

85. Wood v. Los Angeles Traction Co. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 547.

86. Olcese v. Mobile Fruit & Trading Co., 112 Ill. App. 281.

87. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Otstot, 212 Ill. 429, 72 N. E. 387.

88. Hickey v. Rio Grande Western R. Co. [Utah] 82 P. 29.

89. See 4 C. L. 151.

90. See ante, §§ 2, 5. Suggesting that the testimony of a witness may be discredited because he is in the employ of the party calling him is erroneous. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Burke, 112 Ill. App. 415. That the testimony of one credible witness may be entitled to more weight than that of many others believed to have been mistaken or who knowingly testified falsely and have not been corroborated, is erroneous. Tri-City R. Co. v. Gould [Ill.] 75 N. E. 493.

91. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Burke, 112 Ill. App. 415.

92. Harrison v. Lakenan [Mo.] 88 S. W. 53.

93. Durst v. Ernst, 45 Misc. 627, 91 N. Y. S. 13.

94. That it is "the duty" of the jury to consider the demeanor of witnesses. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Burke, 112 Ill. App. 415.

95. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Burke, 112 Ill. App. 415.

96. See 4 C. L. 152. See, also, Witnesses, 4 C. L. 1943.

the court and not for the jury,[98] and in determining whether the rule is applicable, the court must consider that willful false swearing is not to be imputed to a witness when it appears that discrepancies and conflicts in his testimony are manifestly honest mistakes.[99] The instruction is applicable where a witness has been wholly discredited.[1] The instruction must contain the limitation that the false swearing must have been willfully and corruptly done,[2] and have related to a material fact,[3] and that other testimony remains uncorroborated.[4]

§ 13. Admonitory and cautionary instructions.[5]—The jury may be instructed in positive terms that they must accept the law as laid down by the court.[6] It is proper to instruct that the jury "must weigh the evidence fairly and without partiality or passion," but such an instruction is not a matter of right.[7] It is proper to refuse to instruct that the jury have no right to disregard the testimony of any witness where there is nothing to show that any testimony would be disregarded.[8] It is vicious, if not erroneous, to warn a jury that their special findings must be consistent with their general verdict.[9] When jurors are at the time of retirement admonished as to their conduct during separation, it is not necessary to repeat the admonition before separation actually takes place.[10]

§ 14. Necessity of instructing in writing.[11]—In some states it is required by statute that instructions be in writing,[12] unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties.[13] Refusal to give an oral request is not ground for a new trial, though made in response to an inquiry of the court if there was anything they desired charged.[14] Where a court verbally instructs not to consider certain remarks of counsel, a party who does request written instructions cannot complain.[15]

§ 15. Presentation of instructions.[16]—The court is not required to analyze and connect the numerous requests and indicate in logical sequence how they modify each other.[17] Failure of the judge to sign his name to the charge written by him

97, 98, 99. Pumorlo v. Merrill [Wis.] 103 N. W. 464.

1. Fields v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 134.

2. Sardis & D. R. Co. v. McCoy [Miss.] 37 So. 706. Instruction that "if a witness has testified falsely as to a material fact his entire testimony may be disregarded" is erroneous. Jackson v. Powell, 110 Mo. App. 249, 84 S. W. 1132. Instruction that before the testimony of a witness may be disregarded the jury must believe he has "palpably" testified falsely, is erroneous. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Moras, 111 Ill. App. 531. An instruction that the testimony of one credible witness may be entitled to more weight than that of many others who have testified falsely and are not corroborated is erroneous in omitting the hypothesis that they knowingly testified falsely and because it limits the corroboration to other credible witnesses instead of to other credible evidence. Johnson v. Farrell, 215 Ill. 542, 74 N. E. 760.

3. Bickerman v. Tarter, 115 Ill. App. 278. Instruction that testimony of a witness who had knowingly testified falsely might be disregarded is erroneous when it is given without regard to whether the testimony related to a material issue. Weddemann v. Lehman, 111 Ill. App. 231.

4. An instruction to disregard the testimony of a witness who has sworn falsely without regard to whether he has been corroborated or not is erroneous. Szymkus v. Eureka Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 114 Ill App. 401; Himrod Coal Co. v. Clingan, 114 Ill. App. 568.

5. See 4 C. L. 153.

6. Where a juror insists upon applying his own legal opinion instead of accepting the law from the court. Council v. Teal [Ga.] 49 S. E. 806.

7. Snedecor v. Pope [Ala.] 39 So. 318.

8. Hintz v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 292, 104 N. W. 23.

9. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Sivey, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 221.

10. Fields v. Dewitt [Kan.] 81 P. 467.

11. See 4 C. L. 153.

12. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 110, § 53 applies to an instruction directing a verdict. Gardner-Wilmington Coal Co. v. Knott, 115 Ill. App. 515.

13. Under Acts 1903, p. 338, c. 193, § 1, instructions may be given orally with the consent of the parties, but before exception can be taken the portions excepted to must be particularized by number. Strong v. Ross [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 291.

14. Shedden v. Stiles, 121 Ga. 637, 49 S. E. 719. Otherwise refusal of request will not be considered on appeal. Chicago Hydraulic Press Brick Co. v. Campbell, 116 Ill. App. 322.

15. American Cotton Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.], 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 343, 87 S. W. 842.

16. See 4 C. L. 153.

17. That the main charge and various requests relating to the same subject are not given in strict connection is not reversible and read to the jury is not reversible error.[18] Failure to send the instructions to the jury room is not reversible error in the absence of an objection.[19]

§ 16. Additional instructions after retirement[20] should not be given after the deliberations of the jury have commenced.[21]

§ 17. Review.[22]—It is presumed on appeal that instructions given were obeyed,[23] and in determining whether or not they were understood, words used will be given their customary significance.[24] An appellate court is not required to survey the entire testimony of a case in order to ascertain whether a particular instruction should have been given.[25]

Objections and exceptions below.[26]—A general exception to an entire charge is not sufficient where the objectionable element is contained in an instruction that is correct in general.[27] A defect in form in an instruction must be pointed out by specific objection.[28] An exception must point out the portion of the charge claimed to be erroneous,[29] and state wherein it is erroneous,[30] and be made in conformity to statutory requirements.[31] The reasons of a refusal to give an instruction need not be excepted to.[32] An exception to a refusal to give instructions is not waived by proceeding with the trial.[33] An objection to an erroneous charge is not waived by failure to request a proper one.[34]

The record on appeal.[35]—In order that instructions may be reviewed on appeal, they must be set out in full in the record,[36] and the record must state that all the instructions given are included,[37] otherwise it will be presumed that error therein was cured.[38] The record must show that requested instructions were presented at error. Keys v. Winnsboro Granite Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 549.

18. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Lucas [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082.

19. Under Code, § 128 (Comp. Laws 1891, § 2685), requiring that all instructions be taken to the jury room, failure to send them is not ground for new trial in the absence of objection to such failure. Cunningham v. Springer [N. M.] 82 P. 232.

20. See 4 C. L. 153. See, also, Special Article on Additional Instructions, 4 C. L. 1718.

21. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1321, providing for additional instructions on application of the jury in open court, it is error to recall the jury for such purpose after they had retired and been in deliberation for half an hour. Bailey v. Hartman [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 829.

22. See 4 C. L. 154.

23. Chicago City R. Co. v. Hyndshaw, 116 Ill. App. 367. One that told them emphatically to disregard a certain portion of the charge. Rudberg v. Bowden Felting Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 590.

24. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Williams [Miss.] 39 So. 489.

25. Beadle v. Paine [Or.] 80 P. 903.

26. See 4 C. L. 154. See, also, Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368.

27. McDermott v. Severe, 25 App. D. C. 276.

28. Davis v. Richardson [Ark.] 89 S. W. 318. Special exception must be taken to an instruction which assumes a controverted fact. McElvaney v. Smith [Ark.] 88 S. W. 981.

29. Georgia, F. & A. R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15.

30. Tinsley v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 913.

31. Under Acts 1903, p. 338, c. 193, § 1, an exception to the giving or refusing of instruction must be dated. Inland Steel Co. v. Smith [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 852. Under Acts 1903, p. 338, c. 193, § 1, an exception must set forth the substance of the instruction excepted to. Id. Acts 1903, p. 338, c. 193, § 1, providing a memorandum indicating the numbers of instructions given and those refused, shall be signed by the judge, a memorandum signed by counsel does not establish the fact of refusal. Id. Acts 1903, p. 338, c. 193, § 1, does not authorize the taking of an exception to the modification of an instruction. Id.

32. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1080, amended by Sess. Laws 1901, p. 160, authorizing an exception to a refusal to give instructions, the reason of the refusal need not be excepted to. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

33. Chessman v. Hale [Mont.] 79 P. 254.

34. Bibb v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 663.

35. See 4 C. L. 154. See, also, Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

36. All instructions must be set out in the record: Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 207 Ill. 486, 69 N. E. 873; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 110 Ill. App. 154; Village of Wilmette v. Brachle, 110 Ill. App. 356; The Fair v. Hoffmann, 110 Ill. App. 500. Instructions not incorporated into the abstract of appeal will not be reviewed. Deitring v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 140.

37. Netcher v. Bernstein, 110 Ill. App. 484.

38. If the record does not show that all the instructions given are contained, it is presumed that instructions covering those refused were given. Kehl v. Abram, 112 Ill. App. 77.

the proper time.[39] Objectionable instructions must be set out in the brief,[40] and discussed in the argument.[41]

Invited error.[42]—A party cannot complain of instructions given at his own request,[43] nor of error in an instruction given if his own instructions requested[44] or given[45] contain like error. A party who requests the greater portion of instructions cannot complain that the instructions given were too voluminous,[46] and where a counsel states in open court that there is but one issue, an instruction upon some other issue may be refused.[47]

Harmless error.[48]—A party cannot complain of error which was cured by other instructions,[49] or which was not prejudicial to him,[50] nor of one which was to his advantage.[51]

Instructions must be considered as a whole[52] in the light of the evidence intro-

39. Record on appeal must show that instructions refused were tendered before commencement of the argument. Recital that they were presented at the proper time is disapproved. Stametz v. Mitchenor [Ind.] 75 N. E. 579.

40. Error in or refusal to give instructions is deemed waived where not set out in the brief. Huey Co. v. Johnston [Ind.] 73 N. E. 996.

41. Only instructions specifically discussed in the argument will be considered. Dunn v. Crichfield, 214 Ill. 292, 73 N. E. 386.

42. See 4 C. L. 155. See, also, Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 5 C. L. 1620.

43. Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Boswell [Miss.] 38 So. 43. A party cannot contend on appeal that his own instruction was erroneous. City of Ottawa v. Hayne, 214 Ill. 45, 73 N. E. 385. If a requested instruction contains inapt words, other instructions using such words cannot be complained of on that ground by the party making the request. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Williams [Miss.] 39 So. 489.

44. One cannot complain of an error in an instruction when his own instructions contain a like error. Central R. Co. v. Sehnert, 115 Ill. App. 560; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Vallrath [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 777, 89 S. W. 279; Price v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 858.

45. People v. Griesbach, 112 Ill. App. 192; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Kothmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1089; Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Lindley, 110 Ill. App. 161; Village of Wilmette v. Brachle, 110 Ill. App. 356; Fraternal Army of America v. Evans, 114 Ill. App. 578; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Alfred, 113 Ill. App. 236. One cannot assert error in an instruction upon a certain theory when an instruction upon the same theory was given at his request. Kimball Co. v. Piper, 111 Ill. App. 82.

46. Heman v. Hartman [Mo.] 87 S. W. 947.

47. Winslow v. Guthrie, 113 Ill. App. 50.

48. See 4 C. L. 155. See, also, Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 5 C. L. 1620.

49. Refusal to give a correct request is cured by giving a substantially identical instruction. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Matthews [Ala.] 39 So. 207.

50. The mere recital in an instruction of an uncontroverted fact is harmless. Spencer v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 593. Failure to instruct to disregard incompetent evidence is harmless where the court directs a verdict. Uzzell v. Horn [S. C.] 51 S. E. 253. Refusal of a correct instruction is harmless where the verdict shows that such refusal did not affect the issue. Wabash R. Co. v. Bhymer, 112 Ill. App. 225. Error in modifying an instruction is harmless where the elements omitted were covered by other instructions. Coal Belt Elec. R. Co. v. Kays [Ill.] 75 N. E. 498. An erroneous instruction if disregarded in arriving at the verdict is harmless. Cheney v. Field, 114 Ill. App. 597.

51. A party cannot complain of an error favorable to himself. Georgia, F. & A. R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15. Imposing too great a burden of proof on the opposing party. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 664. Plaintiff cannot complain where only error is in imposing too great a burden on defendant. Tyler v. Bowen, 124 Iowa, 452, 100 N. W. 505. A party cannot complain of inconsistent instructions favorable to himself. James v. Lyons Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 275. A charge as to facts excusing contributory negligence, although in the opinion of the court unnecessary, is not to the prejudice of the defendant if no contributory negligence existed. Smith v. Johnson, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 8. A party cannot complain of failure to submit an issue when such failure is favorable to him. Mitchell v. Pinckney [Iowa] 104 N. W. 286.

52. See 4 C. L. 155. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. McAdams [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1076; Patch Mfg. Co. v. Protection Lodge No. 215, I. A. M. [Vt.] 60 A. 74; Burk v. Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 126 Iowa, 730, 102 N. W. 793; United States Brewing Co. v. Stoltenberg, 113 Ill. App. 435; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Crose, 113 Ill. App. 547; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Andrews, 116 Ill. App. 8; Chicago City R. Co. v. Hyndshaw, 116 Ill. App. 367; Reuss v. Monroe, 115 Ill. App. 10; Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Vallowe, 115 Ill. App. 621. Instructions given for both parties will be considered together. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Williams [Miss.] 39 So. 489.

Held not misleading: Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Haverstick [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 34; Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Antrobus, 33 Ind. App. 663, 71 N. E. 971; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Kothmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1089; Bowick v. American Pipe Mfg. Co., 69 S. C. 360, 48 S. E. 276.

Held not erroneous: City of Lexington v. Fleharty [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1056; Beadle v.

duced,[53] and the special circumstances of the case,[54] and if, when so considered, they fairly and correctly present the law applicable to the case,[55] it is not ground for reversal that a single instruction was erroneous[56] or incomplete,[57] or not happily expressed[58] or misleading,[59] or otherwise subject to criticism.[60] But this rule does not apply if as a whole they do not state the law correctly,[61] and if as a whole they are misleading, it is ground for reversal, though no particular portion is erroneous.[62] The correctness of an instruction given is to be determined by considering it in connection with the other instructions.[63] Omissions[64] or errors[65] in one may be supplied or cured by the contents of others.

Curing bad instructions.[66]—As a general rule they cannot be cured by the giving of a correct one,[67] especially where the erroneous one was prominently called to the

Paine [Or.] 80 P. 903; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Colly [Ky.] 86 S. W. 536; Central R. Co. v. Sehnert, 115 Ill. App. 560; German Ins. Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 361; Sanders v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 728; Price v. Denison [Minn.] 103 N. W. 728. Held not prejudicial to a party. Neal v. Gilmore [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 540, 104 N. W. 609. Held not to inject into the case a question not litigated. Cody v. Duluth St. R. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 397. Held not to allow a recovery for negligence with which the defendant was not chargeable. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 838. Held properly to state the law applicable to the degree of care required of carriers of passengers. Hart v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 37 Wash. 424, 79 P. 954. Held, a fair statement. Lundvick v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 429. As to measure of damages, held proper. Western & A. R. Co. v. Burnham [Ga.] 50 S. E. 984. Held to properly present the case. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Rea [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 428. Held not to submit abandoned issues. Carpenter v. Hamilton, 185 Mo. 603, 84 S. W. 863.

53. Humphrey v. Pope [Cal. App.] 82 P. 223.

54. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Chugren, 110 Ill. App. 545.

55. If the instructions as a whole present the law to the jury with substantial correctness, it is sufficient. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Lindley, 110 Ill. App. 161. Where the charge as a whole is proper, a particular portion of it which is appropriate to its setting will not be deemed erroneous because the necessary instructions were omitted. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 21.

56. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1894, § 670. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. James [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 536; Humphrey v. Pope [Cal. App.] 82 P. 223.

57. Mitchell v. Pinckney [Iowa] 104 N. W. 286.

58. Georgetown & T. R. Co. v. Smith, 25 App. D. C. 259.

59. Stowe v. La Conner Trading & Transp. Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 856. The instructions must be considered as a whole to determine whether the jury were misled by excerpts which if standing alone would be subject to criticism. Templin v. Boone [Iowa] 102 N. W. 789.

60. Taylor v. Houston Elec. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1019. An instruction impartial and correct as a whole is not objectionable because portions of it if standing alone would be subject to criticism. Guild v. Andrews [C. C. A.] 137 F. 369.

61. Where instructions as a whole do not correctly state the law, the proposition that if as a whole they do state the law correctly, a single erroneous instruction is not ground for reversal, does not apply. Nickey v. Dougan, 34 Ind. App. 601, 73 N. E. 288.

62. Renn v. Tallman, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 503.

63. Virginia Portland Cement Co. v. Luck's Adm'r, 103 Va. 427, 49 S. E. 577. A part of the charge set out in the "case" on appeal cannot be detached from the rest of it and considered as an independent proposition. Graves v. Norfolk & S. R. Co., 136 N. C. 3, 48 S. E. 502.

64. Toledo, P. & W. R. Co. v. Hammett, 115 Ill. App. 268. It is not necessary to state the entire law of the case in one instruction. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Collins, 110 Ill. App. 504. Omissions in one may be supplied by contents of another. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Jamieson, 112 Ill. App. 69. Instruction which ignores some of the questions involved is not ground for reversal where those questions were fully covered by other instructions. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Vallowe, 214 Ill. 124, 73 N. E. 416. If instructions as a whole fully state the law applicable to the case, it is not ground for reversal that particular instructions standing alone did not embody all the law applicable. Anderson v. Seropian [Cal.] 81 P. 521.

65. Defective instruction held cured by the presentation of the case and other instructions. Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. Posey [Ark.] 85 S. W. 1127. A defect in one paragraph of the charge in that it assumes disputed facts is cured by another portion placing the burden of proof of such facts. Barklow v. Avery [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 893, 89 S. W. 417. Instruction defining "ordinary care," if erroneous, held to have been cured by other instructions. Commonwealth Elec. Co. v. Rose, 214 Ill. 545, 73 N. E. 780.

66. See 4 C. L. 157. See, also, Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 5 C. L. 1620.

67. Sands v. Marquardt [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 1011; Heard v. Ewan [Ark.] 85 S. W. 240; Fletcher v. Eagle [Ark.] 86 S. W. 810; Sack v. St. Louis Car Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 79; St. Louis & N. A. R. Co. v. Midkiff [Ark.] 87 S. W. 446; Finks v. Hollis [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 463; Love v. Turner [S. C.] 51 S. E. 101; Shepherd v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 1007. Erroneous instruction in a bastardy proceeding not rendered harmless by a prior correct one. Shailer v. Bullock [Conn.] 61 A.

attention of the jury,[68] or the curative one did not refer to the erroneous one.[69] But a contrary rule has been held.[70] An instruction placing the burden of proof on the wrong party is cured by an explicit charge to the contrary,[71] and one subject to criticism in not stating the correct measure of damages may be cured by repeated instructions on the correct measure.[72] A misstatement of a theory may sometimes be cured by a correct statement in another instruction.[73]

INSURANCE.

Matters relating to fraternal benefit[74] and marine insurance are treated elsewhere.[75]

65. An instruction which states an incorrect principle of law cannot be cured by any other instruction given. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Grommes, 110 Ill. App. 113. An instruction erroneous in that it does not correctly state the law is not cured by other instructions. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Snow [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 908. An incomplete statement of the law in one instruction is not cured by a complete statement in another unless it appears that the jury were not misled by the former. Continental Casualty Co. v. Peltier [Va.] 51 S. E. 209.

68. Kelley v. United Traction Co., 88 App. Div. 234, 85 N. Y. S. 433.

69. City of Cleburne v. Gutta Percha & R. Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 108, 88 S. W. 300.

§ 1. Insurance laws, regulations and supervision in general.[76]—The insurance business is of such a nature as to be subject to regulation under the police power of the state,[77] and supervisory and visitorial powers are usually conferred on a state officer.[78]

The general insurance laws do not ordinarily apply to fraternal benefit associations.[79] The character of the company in this regard is to be determined from its policies and not from its name, nor, in the case of foreign companies, from the character given it by the officer admitting it to do business within the state.[80] The character of a foreign company is to be determined by the law of the forum.[81]

§ 2. Corporations and associations doing an insurance business. A. Corporate existence, character, management, rights and liabilities.[82]—If the constitution reserves to the legislature the right to amend, alter, annul, or repeal all gen-

70. An erroneous charge that it is the duty of a carrier to deliver freight to the consignee is cured by a charge that the duty is only to give notice of its arrival. Bristow v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 529.

71. Rice v. New York City R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 326.

72. Drainage Com'rs Dist. No. 2 v. Drainage Com'rs Dist. No. 3, 113 Ill. App. 114.

73. Where there is small dispute as to facts. Spring Valley Coal Co. v. Robizas, 111 Ill. App. 49.

74. See Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523. All cases having to do with the contracts of such associations are there treated even if the general rules of insurance law apply.

75. See Shipping and Water Traffic, 4 C. L. 1450.

76. See 4 C. L. 158.

77. Alabama: Code 1896, § 2619, providing that if any person or corporation engaged in the business of fire insurance shall be a member of any tariff association, or have agreements with fire insurance corporations as to rates of premiums, any policy stipulations as to giving notice or proof of loss, etc., shall be void, is a valid police regulation. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204. Is not unconstitutional as discriminating against particular individuals or corporations. Id.

Arkansas: Act Jan. 23, 1905, making it conspiracy for insurance companies to enter into a combination to fix the price of insurance, etc., and prescribing penalties, is valid. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 89 S. W. 42.

Iowa: Companies doing business in Iowa are not deprived of rights under the 14th amendment to the Federal constitution by Code 1897, § 1754, making it unlawful for them or their agents to enter into combinations relating to rates, etc. Carroll v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 26 S. Ct. 66.

78. An injunction pendente lite restraining voting trustees from voting plaintiff's stock, but not interfering with their action as officers of the company, does not require the application of the attorney general and approval of the superintendent of insurance. Under Laws 1892, p. 1958, c. 690, § 56. Knickerbocker Inv. Co. v. Voorhees, 100 App. Div. 414, 91 N. Y. S. 816. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 73, par. 3, the Superintendent of Insurance can maintain a bill against foreign insurance companies to restrain them from doing business within the state of Illinois without complying with the insurance laws thereof. North American Ins. Co. v. Yates, 214 Ill. 272, 73 N. E. 423, afg. 116 Ill. App. 217. Is made applicable to foreign companies by Rev. St. 1874, c. 32, § 26, making foreign companies subject to the same liabilities, restrictions, and duties as domestic ones. Id. Not necessary to show an injury to civil or property rights before bill will lie. Id. For the purpose of avoiding a multiplicity of suits he may maintain a single bill against several such companies which maintain an agency in the state for the transaction of all sorts of fire insurance business except the issuing of policies on property located within the state. Id. Allegation that companies did everything pertaining to carrying on insurance business except to issue policies covering property within the state, held not to exclude the charge that they solicited insurance from citizens on their property outside the state. Id. Bill held not multifarious, the acts complained of being all a part of a common plan or conspiracy. Id.

79. See, also, Fraternal Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523. Missouri statutes prohibiting the defense of suicide (Rev. St. 1899, § 7896) and providing that misrepresentations shall not avoid the policy unless they actually contribute to the death of the insured (Rev. St. 1899, § 7890). Herzberger v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 110 Mo. App. 328, 85 S. W. 986. The Royal Arcanum is a fraternal order and exempt from the insurance laws of the state. Gilligan v. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum, 26 Ohio C. C. 42, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 471.

80. Herzberg v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 110 Mo. App. 328, 85 S. W. 986.

81. Foreign society authorized to issue certificates to representatives of the insured is not a fraternal benefit association within the meaning of Rev. St. 1899, § 1408, and hence is subject to the general insurance laws, though it is such an association under the laws of the state where it is incorporated. Herzberg v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 110 Mo. App. 328, 85 S. W. 986.

82. See 4 C. L. 158. See, also, Associations and Societies, 5 C. L. 292; Corporations, 5 C. L. 764.

eral or special laws, it may amend the special charter of an assessment company even though no such right is reserved in the charter itself.[83]

A company authorized to issue both old line and assessment insurance may, in the absence of a provision to the contrary in its policies or its charter, discontinue the writing of the latter kind, at least as against a policy holder who fails to show that he was in any way injured thereby.[84] An assessment company may change to the old line plan of insurance where power to amend its charter is expressly reserved,[85] or a right to do so is conferred by the statutes or constitution of the state where it is organized.[86] Such a change does not impair the obligations of the contracts of members previously insured, where no attempt is made to repudiate them and the assessments thereon are not thereby rendered unreasonable.[87] The members of such an association have no vested interest in its assets, and hence those who are dissatisfied with the change must seek redress at law and not by a suit in equity to dissolve the association unless it be shown that the affairs of the corporation are grossly mismanaged by those charged with the responsibilities of a proper conservation of its assets.[88] A policy holder electing to cancel his policy and demand a return of the money he has paid is bound to pursue that remedy and cannot thereafter maintain a suit to compel the association to continue business under its original plan.[89]

In Kentucky real estate title insurance companies existing under special acts of the legislature passed prior to the present constitution are nevertheless restricted in their powers by the subsequent legislation relative to such corporations.[90]

Insolvency.[91]—In the settlement of the affairs of an insolvent insurance company, whether it is a joint stock, mutual, or endowment company, ordinary creditors, policy or certificate holders, and stockholders should ordinarily be preferred

83. May authorize change to old line plan. Polk v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 273. Although the act providing for the incorporation of stock life insurance companies may contain no reservation of the right to alter or amend the charters of such companies (Laws 1853, p. 887, c. 463), yet they may be altered or amended where the right to amend the charter of every corporation is reserved by a general statute (1 Rev. St. p. 600, § 8). Lord v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 94 N. Y. S. 65.

84. Plaintiff held to have failed to show that the amount of his assessments was increased by the change. Green v. Hartford Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 887.

85. The power to amend the charter of a mutual assessment association gives a right to make any amendment reasonably calculated to accomplish the purpose which the association had in view at the time of its formation. Iversen v. Minnesota Mut. Life Ins. Co., 137 F. 268. Where the charter of an assessment association specifically reserves to its officers the power of amendment, the association may, by such an amendment, change from the assessment to the old line plan of insurance over the protest of a minority of the policy holders. Particularly where change is authorized by statute. Id. Both under the statute and general principles of law company held authorized to make change at annual meeting without special notice. Id. Evidence held not to sustain charges of fraud and insolvency. Id.

86. Persons who become members of an assessment insurance association pursuant to contracts providing that they shall be controlled by the laws of the state where it is incorporated are presumed to have full knowledge of the provisions of the constitution and laws of such state under which it has a right to change its plan of operations (Polk v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 273), and hence their contract rights are not impaired by a change to the old line plan of insurance authorized by the laws of such state (Id.). Change authorized by Laws 1892, p. 1955, c. 690, § 52, as amended by Laws 1901, p. 1779, c. 722. Id. Act of reincorporation as authorized by such laws does not operate to create a new corporation, though a different name is assumed and a new plan of insurance is adopted. Id.

87. Iversen v. Minnesota Mut. Life Ins. Co., 137 F. 268.

88. Polk v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 273. Record held to sufficiently show that company was not insolvent. Id. Allegations of fraudulent mismanagement not supported by any averment of specific facts cannot be considered as an admission of fraudulent mismanagement by a demurrer to the bill. Id.

89. Iversen v. Minnesota Mut. Life Ins. Co., 137 F. 268.

90. Such a corporation, by failure to accept the constitution, is not estopped to deny that it is exercising all the privileges granted by its special charter. Act March 19, 1894 (Acts 1894, p. 226, c. 99). Hager v. Kentucky Title Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 346, 85 S. W. 183.

91. See 4 C. L. 160, n. 20-29. See, also, in the order named.[92] The representatives of a certificate holder in an endowment association who dies before it becomes insolvent are general creditors within this rule, and their claim is entitled to a preference over those of the other certificate holders and stockholders.[93] The liability of certificate holders in an endowment association to pay assessments terminates on its insolvency and the commencement of proceedings to wind up its affairs, and as creditors they become entitled to an accounting as to the present value of their certificates on the basis of their surrender value.[94] The relative rights of the policy holders and the general creditors of an assessment company are to be determined with reference to the provisions of the charter, constitution, and by-laws of the company, and of the statutes, all of which form a part of the contract between the company and the policy holders.[95] In so far as such provisions subject certain assets to the payment of particular liabilities, the prior equities which may be thereby created should be considered in the application and distribution of the assets of the company under the receivership.[96]

Taxation[97] of the property of domestic or foreign companies within the state is governed by the provisions of the general and special revenue laws and is treated elsewhere.[98]

(§ 2) B. Conditions necessary to engage in insurance business, and certification and withdrawal of right.[99]—Insurance companies are often required to Corporations, 5 C. L. 764; Receivers, 4 C. L. 1238.

92. Gilbert v. Endowment Ass'n, 21 App. D. C. 344. Where sale by insolvent endowment association of its entire property to another company was set aside for fraud and want of consideration, and claim of latter company for reimbursement of purchase price was denied until claims of creditors and certificate holders were satisfied, held, that auditor in distributing funds of association, which were insufficient to pay such claims, properly excluded claim of vendee for reimbursement. Id. Imperfections in pleadings in several consolidated actions will not be allowed to stand in the way of the distribution of fund derived from sale of assets of insolvent insurance company. Id.

93. Particularly where it has been reduced to judgment. Gilbert v. Endowment Ass'n, 21 App. D. C. 344.

94. Gilbert v. Endowment Ass'n, 21 App. D. C. 344.

95. Betts v. Connecticut Life Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 345. Provisions of charter and by-laws held not to render policyholders liable to creditors as partners, the company being a joint stock company, the entire management of which was in the hands of officers and directors chosen by the stockholders only. Id.

96. Betts v. Connecticut Life Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 345. Neither Gen. St. 1902, § 3546, providing that court may direct application of avails of assets and property equitably in satisfaction of claims proved against company, nor Id. § 3554, providing for application of assets by insurance commissioner, operates to change the rule. Id. Under charter (10 Sp. Laws, p. 616), constitution, and by-laws of assessment company, held, that moneys derived by receiver from judgments against stockholders for amounts due on their stock subscriptions belonged to the working capital, and, it having been reduced below the required amount, the policyholders were entitled to so much thereof as might be necessary to make up such required amount as against the general creditors. Id. Order that receiver of insolvent company should apply principal of fund deposited with state treasurer by the company, together with the interest accruing thereon after the fund was placed in the receiver's custody as a trust fund for the benefit of the policyholders, held proper under Gen. St. 1902, §§ 3607, 3611. Id.

97. See 4 C. L. 161, n. 30.

98. See, also, Licenses, 4 C. L. 428; Taxes, 4 C. L. 1605. Operations of soliciting agent whose duties are to solicit insurance, receive and forward the application, receive the policy and deliver it to the insured and collect the first premium constitute a "doing and conducting of an insurance business" within an ordinance levying a license for the doing and conducting of an insurance business of whatever kind. City of Lake Charles v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [La.] 38 So. 578.

A statute forbidding the right of action on any contract in a business when the privilege license has not been paid is not a statute of limitations. Rev. Code 1892, § 3401. Is an absolute bar. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edwards [Miss.] 37 So. 748. And hence an amnesty act, removing such bar of recovery, is not a violation of the constitutional inhibition of the revival of rights of action barred by lapse of time or statutes of limitation. Acts 1904, p. 57, c. 75 does not violate Const. § 97. Id. Such constitutional provision relates only to a limitation of time in which suit may be brought existing under the statute or the general law, and not to a contractual limitation. Id. Fact that year in which, under the terms of the policy, a suit could be brought thereon had elapsed before the passage of the amnesty act held not to preclude a recovery after the passage of such act. Company cannot take advantage of the bar in aid of the contractual limitation. Id.

make deposits with the state for the protection of policy holders.[1] Every fire, life, and accident company doing business in Arkansas is required to give a bond to the state conditioned for the prompt payment of all claims arising and accruing to any person during the term of the bond under any of its policies, and to renew the same annually.[2] The bond does not become effective until presented to and approved by the state auditor, but it may, if it expressly so provides, have a retroactive effect so as to cover losses occurring between its date and the date of such approval.[3] The claim is deemed to arise and accrue and the liability of the sureties is fixed when the loss occurs, and not when the amount thereof becomes payable under the terms of the policy.[4]

§ 3. Foreign insurers and companies.[5]—Since the power of an insurance company to do business in a state other than that where it was organized is derived from the express or implied will of the legislature thereof,[6] the legislature may absolutely exclude foreign companies,[7] or admit them upon such conditions and subject to such restrictions as it may see fit to impose,[8] provided they are not repugnant to the constitution,[9] and may discriminate between domestic and foreign corporations in its regulations.[10] Thus it may prohibit such companies from becoming members of pools or combinations to fix rates,[11] require them to appoint the insurance commissioner or some other public officer as their agent upon whom process may be served,[12] or to purchase government, municipal, or state bonds and

99. See 4 C. L. 161. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

1. An insurance company is organized for all purposes, except issuing policies, when its charter has been filed and approved by the attorney general, its capital stock subscribed and directors elected. Under the Act of 1869, may proceed with collection of subscriptions, etc., though it has not made deposits required by Hurd's Rev. St. 1901, c. 73, §§ 176, 180, 181. Blinn v. Riggs, 110 Ill. App. 37.

2. Sand. & H. Dig. §§ 4124, 4127, 4130. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fultz [Ark.] 89 S. W. 93.

3. S. & H. Dig. § 4130. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fultz [Ark.] 89 S. W. 93. Bond providing that it should cover the period from March 1, 1900, until March 1, 1901, held to have become effective on the former date and to cover loss occurring March 2, 1900, though not approved until March 16, 1900. Id. Statute requires bond to run for a year, and obligors are presumed to have known that fact and to have bound themselves with reference thereto. Id. Liability of sureties is not affected by the fact that company had previously given a bond running for one year from May 16, 1899. Id.

4. Liability of company on fire policy is fixed when loss occurs, though policy provides that it shall not be payable until 60 days after the receipt of proofs of loss, and liability of sureties becomes fixed with that of the principal. Hence suit is properly brought on bond in force when loss occurs. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Fultz [Ark.] 89 S. W. 93.

5. See 4 C. L. 161. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523; Foreign Corporations, 5 C. L. 1470.

6. Swing v. Hill [Ind.] 75 N. E. 658; Commonwealth v. Gregory [Ky.] 89 S. W. 168.

7. Commonwealth v. Gregory [Ky.] 89 S. W. 168; Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703.

8. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parker [Ala.] 39 So. 204; Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 89 S. W. 42; Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703; Commonwealth v. Gregory [Ky.] 89 S. W. 168; Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Host [Wis.] 102 N. W. 579.

9. Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703.

10. May require agents of foreign companies to take out license though agents of domestic companies are not required to do so. Commonwealth v. Gregory [Ky.] 89 S. W. 168.

11. See, also, § 1, ante. Code 1896, § 2619, providing that, if any insurer shall become a member of any tariff association or shall make any agreement with other companies in regard to rates, provisions in its policies relating to notice and proofs of loss, etc., applies to foreign companies and is valid. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39, So. 204. Act Jan. 23, 1905, prohibiting insurance companies entering into pools or combinations from doing business in the state is valid. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 89 S. W. 42. Act prohibits the doing of business in Arkansas by company belonging to trust or pool to fix rates anywhere, though such trust is not created or maintained in that state, and does not fix or attempt to fix rates on property in such state. Id.

12. Such regulations are reasonable and valid and do not violate due process of law clause of Federal constitution. Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703. Insurance commissioner. Laws 1901, p. 66, c. 5; Laws 1899, p. 175, c. 54, § 62 (3). Green v. Hartford Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 887.

deposit them with a designated state officer for the protection of policy holders,[13] or require them[14] or their agents to obtain a license to do business within the state.[15] It has, however, no power to prohibit citizens from making contracts outside of the state insuring property within its boundaries.[16]

Foreign companies doing business within the state after such conditions have been imposed will be presumed to have assented to them, at least in the absence of pleading and proof to the contrary.[17]

The collection of premiums, payment of losses, making of contracts of insurance, issuance of policies and conducting and maintaining of insurance agencies constitute the transaction of business within the meaning of the insurance laws;[18] but the mere appointment of an agent or the taking of a bond from him does not.[19]

The business of insurance is not commerce, and hence laws regulating foreign companies are not violative of the interstate commerce clause of the Federal constitution.[20]

Foreign companies cannot sue on contracts founded on acts which are at variance with the law or the settled policy of the state of the forum, even though such contracts are made in another state.[21]

The license of a foreign company may be revoked for violation of its charter provisions[22] or of the laws of the forum.[23] A judgment of revocation should not declare policies theretofore issued to be void where none of the policy holders have been made parties to the suit or given a hearing.[24]

13. Under Ohio Rev. St. § 3660, foreign companies are required to invest in and deposit bonds for the protection of local policy holders, before doing business in the state; also, under § 2745, to pay a privilege tax. Scottish Union & Nat. Ins. Co. v. Bowland, 196 U. S. 611, 49 Law. Ed. 619. The bonds so required to be deposited are taxable as personal property. Id.

14. In Indiana: From the auditor of the state, under Rev. St. 1881, § 3765. Wilson v. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 892.

Louisiana: A separate license may be exacted of a foreign insurance company by every municipality where it does business. City of Lake Charles v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [La.] 38 So. 578. Not relieved from liability for municipal license by proof that it has already paid to another city a license predicated on the business done by it throughout the state. Id.

15. See § 4B, post.

16. In suit by trustee for creditors of foreign company to recover statutory liability against policy holders, held no defense that company wrote policies insuring property in Indiana for benefit of citizens of that state, without having complied with its insurance laws, it not appearing that the contracts were made in that state or were to be performed there. Swing v. Hill [Ind.] 75 N. E. 658.

17. Will be presumed to have filed stipulation required by statute authorizing service on insurance commissioner, and hence judgment based thereon does not deny company due process of law. Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703.

18. North American Ins. Co. v. Yates, 116 Ill. App. 217, afd. 214 Ill. 272, 73 N. E. 423. Issuance of policy by foreign company on property within the state and its delivery to the owner constitute a doing business within the state, within the meaning of code, §§ 1721, 1725, 1747, in regard to foreign companies. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524. Foreign company is doing business within a state, so as to confer jurisdiction on Federal courts, where policies covering property therein require it to send its agents there to adjust its losses. Pennsylvania Lumbermen's Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Meyer, 197 U. S. 407, 49 Law. Ed. 810.

19. Wilson v. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 892.

20. Statute requiring agents of foreign companies to obtain licenses. Commonwealth v. Gregory [Ky.] 89 S. W. 168. Provision that, if insured is member of tariff association or has made agreement with other companies as to rates, stipulations in its policies requiring notice of loss shall be void. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parker [Ala.] 39 So. 204.

21. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 5157, prohibiting anyone from soliciting insurance for a foreign company without a certificate and § 10,467, prohibiting foreign corporation from maintaining an action founded on any forbidden act, mutual insurance contract covering property within the state, made between a resident and a foreign company which had not complied with the laws of the state, the insurance having been placed through an agent outside of the state, cannot, on the insolvency of the company, be made the basis of an action for an assessment levied in the insolvency proceedings. Swing v. Western Lumber Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 188, 103 N. W. 816.

22. The issue of "deferred dividend insurance," whereby the cumulated assets or surplus is to be distributed only in longer periods than 5 years, being authorized by the laws of New York, the license of a New York company to do business in Wisconsin will not be revoked on the ground that its business is unauthorized. See Gen. Laws N. Y. 1872, c. 100 (Rev. St. [Birdseye's Ed.] p. 1849)

A foreign mutual company which executes the bond required of stock companies, instead of that required of mutual companies, and does business in the state as a stock company, using the standard policy, and the sureties on such bond, are estopped to plead that such policies are ultra vires.[25]

§ 4. Agents and solicitors for insurance. A. Distinctions and kinds of agency.[26]—One having authority to accept risks, countersign, issue, and renew policies, collect premiums, and the like, is a general agent of the insurer.[27]

By statute in some states any person who solicits insurance and procures the application therefor is declared to be the agent of the company issuing the policy upon such application or any renewal thereof, anything in the application or the policy to the contrary notwithstanding.[28]

One who solicits insurance, receives and forwards applications and delivers the policies to the insured and collects the first premium is an agent and not a mere drummer.[29] One who procures insurance for another through the company's agent is a mere broker;[30] but one who is obligated to solicit insurance for a particular company alone is an agent and not a broker.[31]

An agent who acting as broker procures insurance through the agent of another company is the agent of the one who employs him to secure the insurance and not of the company.[32]

(§ 4) B. The right to negotiate insurance and regulations thereabout.[33]—Statutes in many states require agents of foreign companies to be licensed by the state[34] and to give bond.[35]

§ 83. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Host [Wis.] 102 N. W. 579.

23, 24. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Host [Wis.] 102 N. W. 579.

25. Minneapolis Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Norman [Ark.] 85 S. W. 229.

26. See, also, Agency, 5 C. L. 64.

27. In modifying contract. German-American Ins. Co. v. Yellow Poplar Lumber Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 105, 84 S. W. 551. Agents having power to solicit and sell insurance, deliver policies, and collect premiums, though the territory in which they operate is restricted. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 112 Ill. App. 500. The local agent of a foreign company, supplied with blank policies signed by the president and secretary, to be filled up, countersigned and issued, has the powers of a general agent as to policies issued by him. Richard v. Springfield Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 563. Evidence sufficient to warrant finding that firm were general agents. Lewis v. Guardian Fire & Life Assur. Co., 181 N. Y. 392, 74 N. E. 224, afg. 93 App. Div. 157, 87 N. Y. S. 525.

28. Minnesota: Laws 1895, p. 437, c. 175, § 25. One may become agent by his conduct within meaning of this act, though not regularly appointed. Webster v. Ferguson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 213.

In Iowa any one who solicits insurance or procures applications therefor is regarded as the soliciting agent of the company issuing a policy on such application or a renewal thereof. Code, § 1749. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524. One who requests another to allow him to procure a fire policy on the latter's property and does so is agent. Id.

In South Carolina any person soliciting insurance for a foreign company or doing anything in the making or consummating of a contract of insurance or examining into or adjusting a loss for or in behalf of such company is presumed to be its agent, but such presumption may be rebutted. Civ. Code 1902, § 1810. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855.

29. Within municipal license law. City of Lake Charles v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [La.] 38 So. 578.

30. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. American Cement Plaster Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1115. Agent of one company procuring policy through agent of another company held a mere broker, so that company was not estopped by his fraud. Mahon v. Royal Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 732.

31. City of Lake Charles v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [La.] 38 So. 578.

32. Defendant not being authorized to issue insurance where the property was situated, procured it through another agent, paying him the premium, but the latter failed to report it to his company, whereupon the policy was canceled; held, that defendant was plaintiff's agent, and was not liable for the premium unless he acted negligently or fraudulently. Marriam v. Robbins, 102 App. Div. 214, 92 N. Y. S. 654.

33. See 4 C. L. 164. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

34. In Iowa agents are forbidden to act for a foreign company in taking risks or transacting business of insurance in the state without having first procured a certificate of authority from the secretary of state to the effect that such company has complied with the statutes. Code, § 1725. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524.

Kansas: Gen. St. 1901, §§ 3381, 3386, providing penalties for acting as agent for foreign companies which have not complied

(§ 4) C. Rights and liabilities of agents.[36]—The general rules of contract and agency apply as between the company and its agents.[37] The agent is liable to the company for any loss due to his neglect to follow his instructions[38] or to his fraudulent acts or concealment of facts known to him.[39] He cannot act for himself and the company in the same transaction and as to the same matter.[40] A request from the principal to the agent for action in the line of the agency is equivalent to a demand.[41] Where there is no contractual restraint and no violation of business with the law, apply to fire companies and their agents. Latham Mercantile & Commercial Co. v. Harrod [Kan.] 81 P. 214.

In Kentucky, under St. 1903, §§ 634, 681, 694, 761, agents of foreign companies are required to obtain licenses and pay fees therefor. Commonwealth v. Gregory [Ky.] 89 S. W. 168. Act does not apply to agents of domestic companies and they are not required to take out licenses. Id. Statute does not violate the Federal constitution as to equal rights of citizens, equal protection of the laws or interstate commerce. Id.

Michigan: Unlawful for any one to solicit insurance for nonresident company without procuring certificate from insurance commissioner that it has complied with the laws of the state. Comp. Laws 1897, § 5157. Swing v. Western Lumber Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 188, 103 N. W. 816.

35. In New York an agent of a foreign company who makes in the state a contract of insurance on property within the state without having filed the bond required by the statute is liable for a penalty. Laws 1892, p. 1989, c. 690, § 135. Ithaca Fire Dept. v. Rice, 95 N. Y. S. 464. Complaint to recover penalty insufficient where it fails to allege that contract was made within the state. Id.

36. See 4 C. L. 164. For power of agents to waive forfeitures see §§ 16 C and 19, post.

37. See, also, Agency, 5 C. L. 64; Contracts, 5 C. L. 664. One appointed agent of life company for the purpose of soliciting insurance from a particular person resigned after the company had declined to issue the policy applied for. Company thereafter issued another policy to such person and agent sued for commissions thereon on the theory that application was procured through his efforts. Held, that evidence that after plaintiff's resignation he had attempted to procure a policy for such person in another company was admissible as tending to show an abandonment of his contract with defendant. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Rilling [Ill.] 76 N. E. 73. Under contract providing that agent shall be allowed commissions on original or renewal cash premiums which shall, "during his continuance as agent" of the company, be received by it, up to and including the fifth year of assurance, should his agency continue so long, on insurance effected by him, agent cannot recover commissions after he ceases to act as such. Chase v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 325. Under further provision that renewal commissions which have not accrued at the termination of his agency shall be placed to his credit as they accrue, provided he is not engaged in the business of life insurance in any capacity for any other company in the state, he cannot recover commissions on renewal premiums paid after his wrongful discharge, where he enters employ of another company in the state. Id. Where a general agent is required to make an "immediate" report on policies held back beyond the contract period, though entitled to a reasonable time to comply, he is not entitled to twenty-four hours, when the report could be made in much less time. State Life Ins. Co. v. Schwarzkopf, 109 Mo. App. 383, 84 S. W. 353. Memorandum on letter heads of state agency of an insurance company reciting that plaintiff is entitled to continuous renewal commissions as long as premiums are paid on all policies placed by him through such agency, and signed by manager as such, held not to be the personal contract of the manager. Anderson v. English, 94 N. Y. S. 200. Extrinsic evidence held to show that contract was made by manager as agent of the company. Id. Could not be construed as engagement on part of manager to answer for debt of company. Id. In any event manager was not liable as no consideration was shown to have passed to him. Id. Placing of insurance with agent prior to the execution by him of a promise to pay renewal commissions on premiums paid does not constitute a sufficient consideration to support such promise. Id.

38. Evidence that agent was directed to reduce amount of risk under binder, that he failed to negotiate with insured for reduction or to give notice of cancellation, and that he never delivered binder executed in behalf of another company, and that company paid its proportion of the loss in accordance with an adjustment under the terms of the policy, held to make out prima facie case. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 77 Conn. 559, 60 A. 293.

39. The refusal of the company to allow a clause to be attached to the policy making the loss payable to a bank to which it had been transferred as collateral security, and its instruction to its agent to eliminate such clause, is not a notification to him that it will cancel the policy if the transfer is made, so as to render the agent's acceptance of the transfer, as cashier of the bank, and his failure to notify the bank that it had been made, fraudulent, and make him liable for the amount of the loss, even though it be conceded that company would have canceled policy had it been notified of the transfer. Scottish Union & Nat. Ins. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 667, 89 S. W. 419.

40. Where the agent procured from his company a policy for himself and, being unable to pay the first premium, his son-in-law paid the premium to him as agent, without the company's knowledge or consent, no part of which premium was ever accounted for or paid over, held, that there was no payment. State Life Ins. Co. v. Harvey [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1056.

secrets imposed in him by reason of his agency, he has the right, after the termination of his agency, to influence policy holders to forfeit or transfer their policies to other companies, regardless of whether they were obtained as the fruits of his own energies or otherwise.[42]

The company is responsible for the fraudulent acts of its agents within the actual or apparent scope of their authority,[43] and a general agent is responsible for the fraud of a soliciting agent who acts for him and not for the company.[44]

An agreement by an insurance broker to keep his principal insured for a certain amount for a term of years, in consideration of a stipulated sum per hundred per year, obligates him to take out a new policy, at his own expense, in place of one canceled;[45] and if he contends that, in case of cancellation, he is entitled to additional commissions and will insist upon them in future, the principal may treat the contract as abrogated.[46] The fact that the principal, having paid the commissions for the first year, asserts during such year that it will not make further payments under the contract, does not put it in default so as to give the broker an immediate right of action for breach of the contract, but his right of action does not accrue until the commissions for the second year become due and are refused.[47] One who employs an insurance broker does not become liable to pay him commissions as such, but at most impliedly agrees to accept the insurance and pay the premiums, thus enabling him to earn his commissions from the company, and in case of a breach, the broker's remedy, if any, is an action for breach of contract and not an action for the commissions.[48]

An agent who negligently fails to procure insurance for his principal's building in accordance with his agreement is personally liable for the resulting loss.[49] One contracting with another who is agent of an undisclosed principal may, on discovery of the principal, resort to him or to the agent at his election;[50] but having once elected to hold the agent he cannot thereafter have recourse to the principal.[51]

One soliciting insurance for a foreign company and delivering its policies impliedly represents that it is authorized to do business in the state and he to act for it,[52] and the insured, in the absence of knowledge to the contrary, is entitled to assume that such is the fact.[53] If the company has not complied with the law the agent will be

41. To reduce amount of company's obligation under binder. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 77 Conn. 559, 60 A. 293.

42. American Ins. Co. v. France, 111 Ill. App. 382.

43. In collecting a premium not due, although the company did not authorize or participate in his conduct. New England Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Swain [Md.] 60 A. 469.

44. Solicitor, acting under a general agent and having no authority from the company to accept notes for premiums, but authorized by the general agent to take notes and turn them in to him, acts as agent for the general agent and not for the policy holder, and the general agent is responsible for his fraud in inducing an applicant to sign a note. Remmel v. Witherington [Ark.] 88 S. W. 967.

45. Tanenbaum v. Federal Match Co., 102 App. Div. 520, 92 N. Y. S. 683.

46, 47. Tanenbaum v. Federal Match Co., 102 App. Div. 524, 92 N. Y. S. 685.

48. Arndt v. Miller, Daybill & Co., 95 N. Y. S. 604.

49. Where plaintiff employed defendant's ex-agent to keep his building insured, but through the latter's negligence no insurance was effected, held under the evidence, that plaintiff relied solely on the agent's individual promise and not on the company. Rounsaville v. North Carolina Home Fire Ins. Co., 138 N. C. 191, 50 S. E. 619.

50. Rounsaville v. North Carolina Home Fire Ins. Co., 138 N. C. 191, 50 S. E. 619.

51. Rounsaville v. North Carolina Home Fire Ins. Co., 138 N. C. 191, 50 S. E. 619. Where plaintiff employed defendant's agent to keep his building insured, but the latter neglected to do so, having told the agent he would look to him for indemnity for his loss and having recovered judgment against him, he thereby elected to treat him as solely liable and could not recover from the company. Id.

52. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524. Is his duty to know that company has complied with statutes. Latham Mercantile & Commercial Co. v. Harrod [Kan.] 81 P. 214.

53. Letter sent with policies held not to require insured to investigate solvency of company so as to relieve insured from liability. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524. Evidence held to sustain finding that insured was not advised that he held to have guaranteed its solvency to the extent of the statutory requirements for doing business within the state, and is liable to the insured for any loss sustained by him by reason of its insolvency.[54] The policy holder is not, in such case, in pari delicto with the company or its agents.[55] The rule has been held to apply to brokers,[56] in which case actual loss through proof of insolvency of the foreign company is not a prerequisite condition to his liability for the amount of the loss,[57] and it is immaterial that the policy is not rendered void by the company's failure to comply with the law, and that the insured might recover upon it if he could discover the company's domicile.[58] It has also been adopted by statute in some states.[59] One may by his conduct constitute himself an agent within the meaning of such a statute without regard to whether he is the duly authorized agent of any licensed company or the appointed representative of nonlicensed companies,[60] but one acting at the request of the insured is not personally liable unless the latter was deceived by his conduct, having reasonable grounds to believe that the companies involved in the transaction were duly authorized by the state.[61]

In Iowa any agent who solicits with knowledge that the company is insolvent or is doing business in an unlawful manner is guilty of a misdemeanor.[62] The statute of Mississippi requiring an agent transacting business as a "trader or otherwise" to disclose the name of his principal under penalty of making the property used in the business liable for the agent's debts does not apply to a person doing business solely as insurance agent.[63] Under the Kentucky statute a company is not liable for the criminal act of its agent in giving a rebate on a premium, contrary to law, when it did not authorize or assent to the act, but disapproved it.[64] would have to take his own risk as to solvency of companies. Id.

§ 5. Insurable risks and interests. Fire insurance.[65]—The insured must have an insurable interest in the property covered by the policy,[66] not only at the time when the policy is issued but also when the loss occurs,[67] or the contract is void.

54. If company is not worth $200,000 in actual paid-up cash capital, as it must be in order to do business within the state (Code, § 1721), the undertaking of the agent supplies that want for the benefit of the insured, and, if loss occurs, agent must respond to insured and look to company for indemnity. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524. Agents representing several companies who were requested to insure property in a No. 1 company, but placed the insurance with a company not authorized to do business in the state, held liable to the amount of the policy for a loss unpaid on account of company's insolvency. Latham Mercantile & Commercial Co. v. Harrod [Kan.] 81 P. 214.

55. Latham Mercantile & Commercial Co. v. Harrod [Kan.] 81 P. 214.

56. Insurance brokers are charged with the exercise of reasonable care and skill in obtaining information as to the responsibility of the insurer, and are liable for any loss occasioned by the want of such care. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105. It is the duty of the broker to know whether the insurer has a right to engage in business within the state, and so knowing, not to lend his aid, directly or indirectly, to a violation of the law, and a failure in this regard is negligence. Instruction rendering agent personally liable as a matter of law in such case approved. Id.

57. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105.

58. Particularly where company's existence anywhere is matter of serious doubt under the evidence. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105.

59. Laws 1895, p. 437, c. 175, § 87. Webster v. Ferguson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 213.

60. Webster v. Ferguson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 213.

61. Not where insured accepted services with knowledge of the nature of the insurance secured, and acceptance of policies did not depend on whether companies were licensed to do business in the state. Webster v. Ferguson [Minn.] 102 N. W. 213.

62. Code, §§ 1747, 1748. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524.

63. Code 1892, § 4234. Lyons & Co. v. Steele & Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 371.

64. Under St. 1903, § 656, making any company "or" agent giving a rebate liable to a fine. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Commonwealtb [Ky.] 89 S. W. 537.

65. See 4 C. L. 166.

66. Otherwise contract is wagering one. Bennett v. Mutual Fire Ins. Co. [Md.] 60 A. 99.

67. Sale after policy is issued, but before loss, avoids policy. Bennett v. Mutual Fire Ins. Co. [Md.] 60 A. 99. Absolute conveyance cannot be shown by parol to be mortgage in an action at law on the policy, so as to show that insured still retained an interest. Id.

In general, it may be said that any one who will suffer pecuniary loss by its destruction or injury has such an interest.[68]

Life insurance.[69]—The beneficiary in a policy taken out by the insured on his own life and on which the insured himself pays the premium may recover thereon, though he has no insurable interest in the life of the insured, provided the transaction is not a mere cloak for a wager.[70] Life policies issued to one having no insurable interest in the life of the insured are in the nature of wagers, and hence are void as contrary to public policy.[71]

§ 6. Application.[72]—If questions in the application, the answers to which become warranties, are ambiguous, they will be construed most strongly against the insurer, and the insured may stand upon the strict form of the question put to him.[73] Thus if a question is dual in character and covers two transactions so coupled as to admit of a single answer, a negative answer is a negation of the proposition as a whole and does not necessarily affirm or deny either of its component parts as an independent proposition, and cannot be said to be false if it is true as to either.[74]

68. Under Civ. Code, § 2546, every interest of such a nature that the contemplated peril might directly damnify the insured. Loring v. Dutchess Ins. Co. [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1025. Anyone having an interest which would be injured if the peril insured against should happen. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. McClain, 27 Ky. L. R. 461, 85 S. W. 699.

Held to have insurable interest: Both purchaser of property who paid consideration and mortgagee in whose name he took title, under Civ. Code, § 2546. Loring v. Dutchess Ins. Co. [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1025. The president of a bank loaning money belonging to it and taking as security therefor a note and mortgage running to him personally may, when in possession, insure the property in his own name as mortgagee, and the bank not objecting collect the insurance in case of loss. Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 377, 102 N. W. 120; Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127. A mortgagee in possession. Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 377, 102 N. W. 120; Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127. Vendor of stock of goods, in whose name business is continued and who holds assets to indemnify him against debts contracted in his name. Has material interest in their preservation to the amount of indebtedness for the goods bought in his name, and holds balance as pledgee in trust for the buyer. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. McClain, 27 Ky. L. R. 461, 85 S. W. 699. A trustee of an express or an implied trust may effect insurance in his own name for the benefit of the cestui que trust. Id. A vendee in a contract of conditional sale of personalty who is to be held liable for loss or damage by fire, to the amount of his advancements and his liability for possible destruction by fire. Ryan v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 849. The holder of the legal title to personalty subject to the rights of a purchaser to acquire it by performance of a contract of sale. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Northern Assur. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 610, 105 N. W. 76. Mortgagor of personalty in possession. Nugent v. Rensselaer County Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 605. Both the owner of the mortgaged property and the mortgagee in the absence of an agreement to the contrary. Miller v. Gibbs, 95 N. Y. S. 385.

Held not to have insurable interest: Owner of property who sells it subject to certain deeds of trust thereon and retains a vendor's lien has no insurable interest therein except for the further security of such vendor's lien. Baker v. Monumental Sav. & Loan Ass'n [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 403.

69. See 4 C. L. 166. For necessity of insurable interest in assignee, see post, § 14.

70. Beneficiary living in open concubinage with the insured is entitled to one-tenth of the amount of the policy, though she is not entitled to the balance under the statute (Civ. Code, arts. 1481 and 12). The insured's own interest and that of his children support the policy to the extent of the other nine-tenths, the facts showing that he had not abandoned all interest therein. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Neal [La.] 38 So. 485.

71. Policies procured by false and fraudulent representations by the beneficiaries and the insured that the former are creditors of the latter. Griffin's Adm'r v. Equitable Assur. Soc., 27 Ky. L. R. 313, 84 S. W. 1164.

72. See 4 C. L. 167. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523. Application as part of contract, see post, §§ 7, 9.

73. McKinnon v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 180. If questions are of doubtful import, the insurer is bound by an answer to which they are properly susceptible. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co. v. Dobler [C. C. A.] 137 F. 550. Where question in application for life policy "Have you now any insurance on your life?" was followed by "Have you any other insurance?" held, that the purpose of the last question was only to inquire whether the insured had fully answered the previous one, and its purport was, "Have you now answered as to all life insurance that you carry?" Id. The word insurance in both questions refers only to life insurance, and insured having answered the first question by setting out his other life policy, there was no breach of warranty, though the second was answered in the negative, by reason of the fact that he had certain other accident policies. Id.

§ 7. The contract of insurance in general, and general rules for its interpretation.[75] Definitions and distinctions.[76]—An old line policy is a contract whereby the amount to be paid by the assured is fixed and unalterable, and the liability incurred by the company is also fixed, definite, and unchangeable.[77] It is assessment insurance where the payments to be made by the insured are not unalterably fixed by the contract, but the benefit to be paid is dependent upon the collection of such assessments as may be necessary for paying the amounts insured.[78] It has been held that it is assessment insurance though the premium first reserved is a definite sum, if it is further provided that the company may require the payment of a greater sum if its condition at any time renders such a course necessary,[79] but a policy providing for a fixed annual premium from which a certain sum is to be set aside to constitute an emergency fund is not an assessment policy within the meaning of the Missouri statute defining assessment insurance, though it further provides that an assessment may be levied to meet any excess in the death rate over that estimated in the American mortality tables.

A proviso is a stipulation added to the principal contract to avoid the defendant's promise by way of defeasance or excuse.[80] An exception is a proviso which excludes something from a statement or description, so that the promise is only to perform what remains after the part excepted is taken away.[81]

Essentials and validity; acceptance.[82]—An insurance contract is not within the statute of frauds and may be oral.[83] There must, however, be an offer and acceptance[84] and the minds of the parties must meet as to all the essential terms of the contract[85] before the death of the insured or the occurrence of the loss.[86] One mak-

74. Word "insurance" in warranty "no application ever made by me for insurance has been declined, and no accident or health policy issued to me has been canceled, or renewal refused except as herein stated," held to mean life insurance. MacKinnon v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 180. Negative answer held not to be false where it was true as to the latter part of the proposition, though plaintiff had previously made an application for a life policy which was declined. Demurrer to plea setting up breach of warranty sustained. Id.

75. See 4 C. L. 167. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

76. See 4 C. L. 167, n. 4.

77. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285. Defendant held to be an old line, and not an assessment company. Moore v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 988.

78. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285. Every contract in which the payment of the benefit is in any manner or degree dependent upon the collection of an assessment upon persons holding similar contracts. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 7901. Id. In order to bring a policy within the purview of this section it must show upon its face that the parties to the contract understood that the amount necessary to pay the insurance promised was to be gathered in whole or in part by an assessment upon the holders of policies in the same class or category. Williams v. St. Louis Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 499.

79. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285. Although the policy gives a table of quarterly payments to be made opposite to age periods and varying therewith, it does not fix upon it the character of an ordinary life policy contract at a level premium, where other provisions characterize it as a policy under the assessment plan. Such a policy is not subject to the Missouri nonforfeiture act. Id. Reinsurance contract held not to change character of insurance. Id.

80. Cassidy v. Royal Exch. Assur., 99 Me. 399, 58 A. 549. Provision in Maine standard policy covering lumber in several piles, "this policy to attach in each locality in proportion as the value in each bears to that of all. This clause to be inoperative when the lumber piles are less than 100 feet apart," held a proviso. Id.

81. Cassidy v. Royal Exch. Assur., 99 Me. 399, 59 A. 549.

82. See 4 C. L. 167. See, also, Contracts, 5 C. L. 664.

83. German-American Ins. Co. v. Yellow Poplar Lumber Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 105, 84 S. W. 551.

84. Where the agent of a company with whom defendants had previously been insured, in reply to a letter of inquiry, which he considered an application, promised to "bind the risk," until the writer decided what to do, there was a contract. Bradley v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co., 46 Misc. 41, 93 N. Y. S. 245.

85. Deceased applied for policy, paid amount of first premium, and received receipt which was to be received as cash in payment of such premium if policy was issued, but if not then amount paid was to be returned. Policy applied for was not issued, but a different one was tendered and refused. Later a more favorable policy was sent by the company to its agent to be tendered to ing a claim under a policy procured for him by another without his knowledge thereby accepts it, and becomes bound by all its conditions.[87]

Where insured dies after the termination by its terms of a provisional policy which is to run pending the consideration of his application and providing for the issuance of a permanent policy as soon as may be if his application is accepted, the beneficiary's cause of action does not rest on the provisional policy but solely upon a contract for permanent insurance, created either by the issuance of a policy or the acceptance of the application before the death of the insured giving him a right to demand a policy.[88]

As a general rule the insurance takes effect from the date of the policy,[89] in the absence of a provision that it shall not be effective until certain conditions have been complied with.[90] The date of delivery may be shown to have been different from the date of the policy.[91] the applicant, but the applicant being sick it was never delivered to him and was returned by the agent to the company after his death. Held, that there was no contract. New York Life Ins. Co. v. McIntosh [Miss.] 38 So. 775. One applying for term insurance until a certain date and a 20-payment life policy from that time, deposited note for first premium in bank in escrow to be delivered to agent when bank turned over a satisfactory policy to him. Premium as fixed by the application was changed by the company and policy at new rate was sent to agents to be delivered on the applicant signing a correction of the application, and agents sent it and correction slip to the bank. Insured died before taking the policy from the bank or examining or accepting it. Held no contract. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Hocker [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 773, 89 S. W. 26. Evidence that the day before his death deceased instructed a third person to take the policy from the bank held not to show that he or anyone for him had examined and accepted it. Id.

86. A valid contract of life insurance cannot be consummated after the death of the insured. Dickey v. Continental Casualty Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 788, 89 S. W. 436. Held no contract where it was stipulated that policy should not be binding until countersigned by the policy writer and delivered, but applicant died before delivery. Id. Evidence held to show death of applicant before consummation of contract. Id. Evidence held not to show verbal contract, where it appeared that applicant was dead when agent signed application and assignment of wages for him as authorized, though company subsequently issued policy and sent it to agent. Id.

87. As to notice of loss, under accident policy. Johnson v. Maryland Casualty Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1009.

88. Affidavit of defense explicitly denying that policy had been issued, or that the application had been accepted, or that defendant so stated, held to go to the whole of plaintiff's claim and to be sufficient. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Keen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 677.

89. Unless it is provided that it shall take effect only upon some condition, in which case upon the condition being met, the policy, if delivered, takes effect as of its date. Rayburn v. Pennsylvania Casualty Co., 138 N. C. 379, 50 S. E. 762. Where insurance is applied for, a policy subsequently issued and delivered is based on the status of the insured at the time of the application and the insurer assumes the risk from the date of the policy. Is liable where accident occurred before delivery and agent had knowledge of that fact. Id. An accident policy for the term of one year, beginning and ending on a fixed date, is a continuing contract, although not delivered and the premium is not paid at the date of its issue. Contract running from Oct. 23, 1901, and ending Oct. 23, 1902, cannot be held to take effect on Oct. 30, 1901, the date of the payment of the premium. Id.

90. Where application provides that policy shall not take effect until it is delivered to the insured while he is in good health, there is no contract where insured dies before policy is written and issued. Reserve Loan Life Ins. Co. v. Hockett [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 842. Fact that policy when issued is dated back as of the date of the application is not controlling. Id. Where receipt states that there shall be no liability until policy is issued and court finds that it was not issued until after the death of the insured, it is immaterial whether such receipt modifies the provisions of the application as to the necessity of delivery. Id. Provision that policy shall not be binding upon the company unless upon its date and delivery the insured is alive and in sound health is valid, and the policy does not take effect, and there can be no recovery thereon, unless the insured is alive and in sound health at such times. Barker v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 945. Where policy provides that it shall not become operative and binding until first premium is paid and policy is delivered during the lifetime and good health of the insured, it does not become effective until such delivery and payment, where the two are concurrent. Stramback v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 731. Where policy provides that it shall not take effect until first premium is paid and accepted, payment is necessary to put the policy in force. State Life Ins. Co. v. Harvey [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1056. If the written application duly signed by the applicant provides that it is to become a part of the contract and that the contract is not to take effect until the first premium is paid, and that the policy is to be accepted subject to the conditions and agreements therein contained,

In the absence of fraud, delivery is conclusive proof that the contract is completed and an acknowledgment that the premium was properly paid during good health.[92] There may be a constructive delivery though the policy is retained by the agent for the insured at his request,[93] or to obtain further information, which has been procured before the loss occurs.[94]

By statute in some states life insurance companies are prohibited from discriminating between insurants of the same class and of equal expectation of life in regard to the amount or payment of premiums or any other conditions of the contract.[95] Any contract made in violation of such a statute is void.[96]

In some states life policies taken out without the knowledge and consent of the insured are void.[97]

Failure to state the amount of the premium in the policy does not affect the validity of the contract where it is shown that it has been paid.[98] The validity of a policy, for want of internal revenue stamps required at the time of its issue, cannot be raised in a state court.[99]

A policy may be issued in a trade name, where the property is owned distributively by persons doing business under that name, each of whom has an insurable interest therein.[1] An error in the middle name of the insured in a life policy, after its acceptance, is no defense to an action on a promissory note for the first premium, unless it affirmatively appears that after discovering the error the insured made a proper request for its correction which was refused.[2]

The Michigan statute providing for a commission to frame a standard form of fire insurance policy is invalid as an unwarranted delegation of legislative power,[3] and hence the parties are not prevented from inserting in their policies provisions other than those contained in the standard policy so framed, notwithstanding a provision therein to the contrary.[4]

Deferred dividend policies are lawful unless forbidden by statute.[5]

the insurance will not take effect until the premium is paid and the policy issued (Bowen v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 1040) and the acknowledgment of the receipt of the premium in the policy, in such case, is not conclusive on the insurer (Id.).

91. Life policy dated in December may be shown not to have been delivered until the following February. Haughton v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 592.

92. Rayburn v. Pennsylvania Casualty Co., 138 N. C. 379, 50 S. E. 762.

93. Where agent offered to extend credit for the first premium, notified the insured that he held the policy for delivery, and was notified by the insured to hold the policy for him and did so, held, that there was evidence of a constructive delivery of the policy to the insured while in good health. Dargan v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 125.

94. Where fire risk was accepted by an agent, the policy written and signed, the premium paid and the agent represented to the owner that he was insured, the contract was complete, though the agent still retained the policy for a further report to the company, which had been made. Wheaton v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850. Evidence sufficient to support finding that these facts existed. Id.

95. Rev. St. 1898, § 1955o. Urwan v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1102.

96. Insurance contract which plaintiff was induced to take out in consideration of his being appointed special agent. Urwan v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1102.

97. Premiums paid thereon, in good faith, may be recovered. Griffin's Adm'r v. Equitable Assur. Soc., 27 Ky. L. R. 313, 84 S. W. 1164.

98, 99. Wheaton v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850.

1. Property insured under the name "Crawfordsville Sanatarium." New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. v. Wall [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 668.

2. Held error to allow plaintiff to testify that he complained to agent, who promised to have the mistake corrected. Porter v. Holmes [Ga.] 50 S. E. 923.

3. Act 149, p. 141, Pub. Acts 1881 (Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 5170-5179) held repugnant to Const. art. 4, § 1, vesting legislative power in the senate and house of representatives. King v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 160, 103 N. W. 616.

4. Iron safe clause held valid. King v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 160, 103 N. W. 616.

5. Mutual companies are not forbidden to issue "deferred dividend insurance" wherein the accumulated surplus is not to be distributed except in longer periods than five years either by the laws of New York or those of Wisconsin. Gen. Ins. Laws of N. Y. §§ 83, 87, Rev. St. (Birdseye's Ed.) pp. 1849,

Conflict of laws.[6]—The contract is governed by the laws of the state where it is completed,[7] which is generally held to be the place where the policy is delivered and the premium paid,[8] though there seems to be some conflict of authority in this regard.[9] The law of the forum controls matters affecting the remedy.[10] Stipulations as to the place of the contract and as to what laws shall govern are valid and binding unless they impair the obligations of a contract, or conflict with the laws of the state where the contract is made.[11]

Construction.[12]—A policy of insurance is a contract of indemnity in which the parties have a legal right to insert any conditions and stipulations which they deem reasonable or necessary, provided no statute or principle of public policy is thereby contravened.[13] It is to be interpreted the same as any other contract,[14] and when unambiguous in its terms it will be enforced as written.[15] If possible

1852, and Wis. Rev. St. 1898, § 1952, construed. Equitable Life. Assur. Soc. v. Host [Wis.] 102 N. W. 579.

6. See 4 C. L. 169. See, also, Conflict of Laws, 5 C. L. 610; Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

7. A life policy issued to insured while he was in Missouri by a foreign company admitted to do business, and doing a general insurance business in that state is a Missouri contract and is governed by the laws of that state. Moore v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 988. Is subject to Rev. St. 1899, § 7397, relative to extended insurance, though containing provisions repugnant thereto. Id. Contract agreed upon in Louisiana, to be executed at the home of the insured, which was in that state, held to have its situs in that state and to be governed by its laws. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Neal [La.] 38 So. 485. A life policy issued in Massachusetts by a company of that state and to be executed there is subject to the laws of that state. Leonard v. State Mut. Life Assur. Co. [R. I.] 61 A. 52. Where a policy does not become effective until countersigned by an agent in a specified place, it is a contract of the place where it is to be countersigned. Hardiman v. Fire Ass'n [Pa.] 61 A. 990. Policy issued by a Connecticut company providing that it should not be valid until countersigned by the agent of the company in the state of New York, where the property was situated, held a New York contract, to be governed by the laws of that state, both as to validity, construction, and discharge, though after being so countersigned it was mailed to the insured at Jersey City. Orient Ins. Co. v. Rudolph [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 26.

8. In reference to payment of municipal licenses for transacting insurance business. City of Lake Charles v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [La.] 38 So. 578. The New York statute relative to the forfeiture of life policies forms no part of a contract of insurance made by a New York company, where the application was made and the policy delivered in Texas, and it does not appear that it was sent to be delivered subject to the payment of the premium or of a premium note. Cowen v. Equitable Life Assur. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 404.

9. See 4 C. L. 169, n. 19.

10. As to competency of physician attending insured's sister to testify as to the cause of her death. Doll v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 705.

11. That home office shall be the place of the contract. Polk v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 273. Where a fire insurance binder provided that the insurers assumed the amounts of insurance set opposite their names under the conditions of the New York standard policy, all the conditions of such policy were made applicable, including the right of the insurer to cancel at any time on five days' notice. British-American Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 77 Conn. 559, 60 A. 293.

12. See 4 C. L. 169. See, also, Contracts, 5 C. L. 664; Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523. This section is designed to state the general rules of interpretation only. Examples of the manner in which they are applied to warranties and the like will be found in the appropriate sections following.

13. Dunning v. Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 99 Me. 390, 59 A. 535; Johnson v. Maryland Casualty Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1009.

14. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. Intention controls. Rochester German Ins. Co. v. Peaslee-Gaulbert Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 1155, 87 S. W. 1115. Like all other contracts it is to be construed in accordance with its general scope and design, and the real intention of the parties as disclosed by an examination of the whole instrument. Dunning v. Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 99 Me. 390, 59 A. 535. Court must adopt that construction which in its judgment best corresponds with the intention of the parties. Johnson v. Maryland Casualty Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1009.

15. Courts will not construe plain language so as to make it embrace what was not intended. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. The court must interpret the contract as it finds it, and has no power to add to it or take from it. Dunning v. Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 99 Me. 390, 59 A 535. Plain, explicit language cannot be disregarded, nor an interpretation given to the policy at variance with the clearly disclosed intent. White v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 735. As in the case of other contracts should be enforced according to its plain provisions. Nelson v. Traders' Ins. Co., 181 N. Y. 472, 74 N. E. 421, afg. 86 App. Div. 66, 83 N. Y. S 220. Courts should not refuse to enforce forfeitures or limitations in the standard policy which the parties are deemed to have agreed upon. Id. Accepted policy is the contract and, when unambiguous, binds the parties in the absence of fraud or mutual it should be so construed as to give effect to every part of it.[16] Written provisions control printed ones,[17] and the language used will be given its natural and ordinary meaning,[18] words being taken in their popular sense in the absence of anything to show a contrary intention.[19] The purpose of the contract should be taken into consideration,[20] and if the language is susceptible to an interpretation consonant to the general intention of the agreement, it will be adopted in preference to a literal interpretation which would defeat such intention.[21] So, too, a construction giving it effect will be preferred to one rendering it void.[22]

If the language is susceptible of two meanings it is to be understood in the sense in which the insurer had reason to suppose it was understood by the assured.[23] In case of ambiguity or inconsistency the policy will be given a construction most favorable to the insured,[24] and this is particularly applicable to provisions looking to a forfeiture of the interest of the insured or those claiming under him.[25] There mistake of facts (Hood v. Prudential Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 527), and must be enforced according to its terms as to payment of premiums (Sydnor v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 521). Rule that forfeitures are not favored and that ambiguous provisions are to be interpreted in favor of insured does not warrant court in making new contract or construing policy contrary to its plain meaning. National Life Ins. Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 618. The policy is a contract by which must be measured the right of the insured and the obligation of the insurer. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497.

16. Welch v. British American Assur. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 964.

17. A special manuscript addition as to the amount of assessments will be presumed to have been separately considered and to express the exact agreement of the parties, and will govern wherever repugnant to the general covenants in the printed form. Moore v. Lichtenberger, 2 Pa. Super. Ct. 268.

18. Welch v. British American Assur. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 964. Should be construed according to the sense and meaning of the terms which the parties have used, and if they are clear and unambiguous, these terms are to be understood in their plain and ordinary sense. Dunning v. Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 99 Me. 390, 59 A. 535.

19. Civ. Code, § 2209. Warranty that insured was not "connected" with the sale of liquor held not violated by occasional sales made for another without compensation. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609. Should be given their ordinary significance. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612.

20. As to meaning of "immediate and total disability." Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

21. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

22. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Fitzgerald [Ind.] 75 N. E. 262. Where an injury proximately proceeds from a cause which falls within the limitations of the policy interpreted according to the ordinary understanding of the force of words, that interpretation is to be preferred, rather than one which would defeat the protection of the assured in a large class of cases. Id. Must be presumed that parties intended that which in certain events would mean something and have some effective force. James v. United States Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 125.

23. Valentini v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 758.

24. Since insurer makes policy, he is presumed to have employed words which express his real intention. Dunning v. Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 99 Me. 390, 59 A. 535; Welch v. British American Assur. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 964; Patterson v. Ocean Acc. & Guarantee Corp., 25 App. D. C. 46; National Fire Ins. Co. v. Tbree States Lumber Co., 217 Ill. 115, 75 N. E. 450; Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Ayres, 217 Ill. 390, 75 N. E. 506; Taylor v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 134 F. 932. When policy is prepared by the insurer. Szymkus v. Eureka F. & M. Ins. Co., 114 Ill. App. 401. Provisions in accident policies requiring notice of injury to be given within a specified time after the accident occurs. United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176. Terms in application made a part of the policy. Krell v. Chickasaw Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 364. Doubtful or ambiguous provisions or those favorable to the company. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Dobbins [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 383. As to when policy takes effect. Stramback v. Fidelity Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 731; Rayburn v. Pennsylvania Casualty Co., 138 N. C. 379, 50 S. E. 762. If meaning is ambiguous or doubtful, will be construed rather against the company than the insured, and doubts should be resolved in favor of the latter, giving, of course, legal effect to the intention if ascertainable, though imperfectly or obscurely expressed. Bray & Franklin v. Virginia F. & M. Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 922. As between inconsistent, conflicting, and incongruous provisions of doubtful and ambiguous significance, it being manifest that the form and all the necessary conditions are the statements, essentially, of the officers, agents, and attorneys of the company, the construction most favorable to the assured will be adopted and applied. Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213. As to limitations. Id. As to whether insured was authorized to keep dynamite. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Dobbins [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 383. Iron-safe clause. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E 812. Where a clause, condition, or warranty admits of two interpretations equally reasonable. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86.

is a conflict of authority as to whether this rule applies where the law prescribes a standard form of policy.[26]

The contract will be presumed to have been made with reference to statutes then in force which become a part thereof,[27] and the insured is chargeable with notice of the terms of a standard policy of his state.[28]

A rider attached to the policy and without which it would be incomplete will be construed as a part of the contract,[29] and is supported by the same consideration as the policy itself.[30]

If the application is made a part of the policy they must be construed together.[31] If the provisions of the two are inconsistent or in conflict, the policy controls.[32] So too a note given for the first premium, the application, and the policy, when forming one transaction, should be read together as the entire contract.[33]

The contract determines the rights and liabilities of the members of a mutual company, and the fact of membership does not alter the relations thus created.[34] The charter and by-laws of all mutual companies are a part of the insurance

25. See, also, § 9, post. Right to examine body of insured. Patterson v. Ocean Acc. & Guarantee Corp., 25 App. D. C. 46. Warranties requiring unconditional and sole ownership. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105. Iron-safe clause, and clause forbidding assignments. Scottish-Union & Nat. Ins. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 667, 89 S. W. 419. Conditions which provide for a forfeiture of the interest of the insured, or those claiming under him. Civ. Code, §§ 1442, 1654. Word "insured" held not to include mortgagee to whom policy was made payable. Welch v. British American Assur. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 964. Iron-safe clause. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350. Court will prevent forfeiture if possible to do so without making a new contract. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730. Conditions rendering policy void if violated construed strictly, and insured should be given benefit of doubt as to meaning. Swank v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 547, 102 N. W. 429. Forfeitures not favored. Mettner v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 112; National Fire Ins. Co. v. Three States Lumber Co., 217 Ill. 115, 75 N. E. 450. For nonpayment of premiums. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011. Every reasonable intendment will be indulged to avoid a forfeiture. Cannot, however, go to the extent of making a different contract for the parties. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. American Cement Plaster Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1115. Clauses, conditions, and warranties in fire policies will be construed most strongly against the insurer where it may be fairly done, in order to avoid a forfeiture or to permit a recovery. Provisions requiring inventory. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. Doubts fairly arising will be resolved against the insurer. Id. If policies contain inconsistent provisions or are so framed as to be fairly open to construction, that view should be adopted, if possible, which will sustain rather than forfeit the contract. Glens Falls Ins. Co. v. Michael [Ind.] 74 N. E. 964. As to forfeiture for nonpayment of premiums. Stramback v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 731. As to when forfeiture for nonpayment of premiums takes effect. Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213. Clause allowing 30 days grace for payment of premiums. Taylor v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 134 F. 932. Warranties as to other insurance held not to cover accident policies. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co. v. Dobler [C. C. A.] 137 F. 550.

26. Louisiana: The rule requiring the policy to be interpreted most strongly against the insurer does not apply. Under Acts 1898, No. 105, p. 151, § 22, requiring fire policies to conform to the New York standard form. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87.

Contra: See 4 C. L. 172, n. 56.

27. The New York statute (Laws 1892, p. 2015, c. 690, § 211), requiring consent of insurer to change of beneficiary, becomes a part of a New York policy and controls, though the policy is silent on the subject. Freund v. Freund, 218 Ill. 189, 75 N. E. 925. Provision of Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 7897 in regard to extended insurance, held a part of policy of foreign company admitted to do business within the state, though policy contains conditions repugnant thereto. Moore v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 988.

28. Conditions as to vacancy. Hardiman v. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia [Pa.] 61 A. 990.

29. Iron-safe clause forming part of rider which also described property insured. Court cannot adopt description and reject remainder. King v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 160, 103 N. W. 616.

30. By promise of insurer to indemnify the insured. King v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 160, 103 N. W. 616.

31. Life policy. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529.

32. Where application made certain answers warranties but policy described them as stipulations and agreements, held that they would be construed as representations. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529.

33. Provisions in application and note avoiding policy for nonpayment of note at maturity held part of contract. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Bussell [Ark.] 86 S. W. 814.

34. Polk v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 273.

contract and as binding upon the insured as the conditions of the policy itself;[35] but entries upon their books, made in connection with the policy, are not.[36]

There seems to be a conflict of authority as to whether a policy for which a single premium is paid, and which insures different classes of property in separate amounts, is entire or severable.[37]

By statute in some states the application and the by-laws of the company cannot be considered as a part of the policy, even though referred to therein, or be received in evidence unless a correct copy thereof is attached to the policy.[38] If not so attached the case is to be considered and disposed of as if no such paper existed.[39] The rule applies to actions against the insured as well as to those against the insurer,[40] but does not operate to exclude the policy because the application is not attached.[41] It has been held to apply only to the original application on which the policy was issued, and not to an application for renewal after a lapse.[42] The burden is on the company to show that such a copy was attached when the policy was delivered.[43] Evidence of a custom of the company to so attach a copy is inadmissible to show that a copy had been attached to the policy in suit.[44]

By statute in Kentucky in the case of co-operative companies the policy or certificate and the application, constitution, by-laws, or other rules which are made a part thereof are required to be plainly printed, and no portion thereof may be in type smaller than brevier.[45]

§ 8. Premiums and premium notes, dues and assessments, and payment of the same.[46]—A premium is the compensation paid a company for the indemnity furnished.[47] An assessment is only the ascertainment by the directors of the amount of the premium or price for insurance which the insured is required to pay.[48] In mutual companies the premium to be paid is dependent upon the amount of the aggregate losses of the members during the period the policy is in force.[49] If the

35. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285. The articles of association and by-laws are admissible to determine the obligations and rights of the parties. Id. Rights of the policy holders and the insurer must be determined in connection with the constitution and by-laws and the certificate of insurance. Polk v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 273.

36. Moore v. Lichtenberger, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 268.

37. In Louisiana is entire and indivisible. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87.

In New York it is severable. Miller v. Gibbs, 95 N. Y. S. 385.

In Washington it is severable. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287.

38. Kentucky. St. 1903, § 679. Griffin's Adm'r v. Equitable Assur. Soc., 27 Ky. L. R. 313, 84 S. W. 1164. If any part of the consideration is a statement of the insured made in a written application, it must be stated in the policy or a copy thereof must be indorsed thereon. St. 1903, §§ 656, 679, must be construed in connection with Id. §§ 470, 472. Continental Casualty Co. v. Jasper [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1078.

Massachusetts. Rev. Laws, c. 118, § 73. Holden v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 337.

Pennsylvania. Act May 11, 1881 (P. L. 20). Moore v. Bestline, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 6. Applies to fire and life policies. Custer v. Fidelity Mut. Aid Ass'n, 211 Pa. 257, 60 A. 776. If not attached are not admissible to show forfeiture for nonpayment of mortality assessment made as provided therein. Id. Copy of charter of company created by special act of assembly, which is made a part of the policy must be attached to policy, or any defense based on provisions thereof in regard to making assessments and forfeiting policy for their nonpayment must fail. Muhlenberg v. Mutual Fire Ins. Co. of Sinking Springs, 211 Pa. 432, 60 A. 995.

39. Moore v. Bestline, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 6.

40. To action by receiver of insolvent mutual company to collect assessment. Moore v. Bestline, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 6.

41. Moore v. Bestline, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 6. Where the basis rate of assessment in a mutual fire insurance company is in neither the application nor the by-laws it is competent in a suit by a receiver of a mutual company to collect an assessment to prove the same by oral testimony and the records of the company. Id.

42. Holden v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 337.

43, 44. Custer v. Fidelity Mut. Aid Ass'n, 211 Pa. 257, 60 A. 776.

45. St. 1903, § 679. Letzler's Adm'r v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 372, 85 S. W. 177. Has no application to old-line insurance companies. Letzler's Adm'r v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 372, 85 S. W. 177.

46. See 4 C. L. 173. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

rate in a binder is left blank and is to be subsequently fixed by a board of underwriters, both parties are bound to such rate as is subsequently so fixed in due course of business.[50]

Policies generally provide for forfeiture for nonpayment of premiums when due.[51] A mere receipt of the amount of a premium by one who is an agent of the company is not necessarily a payment thereof.[52] A statement by the insured to an agent having no authority to alter or discharge the contract, that he does not intend to continue the contract does not terminate the policy or prevent payment before forfeiture for nonpayment.[53] Under a policy providing that in consideration of the payment in advance of a certain sum, which may be paid in quarterly instalments covering the quarter year's insurance for which the instalment is paid in advance, the company insures the life for one year from date, and in consideration of the payment of a like sum on or before a certain date each year until nineteen years' premiums have been paid, which payments may also be made quarterly subject to the same conditions, the payment of the premium is the condition on which the continued existence of the policy depends, and when the premium is not paid the insurance ceases.[54]

The giving of a notice of the accrual of premiums is a condition prerequisite to a forfeiture for their nonpayment when provided for by the policy[55] or if required by statute.[56] If the insurer sends the notice by mail, properly addressed and stamp-

47, 48, 49. Moore v. Lichtenberger, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 268.

50. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 77 Conn. 559, 60 A. 293.

51. Where contract expressly provided for forfeiture for nonpayment of premiums or assessments, and such default was made, verdict held to have been properly directed for defendant. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285. Evidence held to show that policy had lapsed for nonpayment of premium and that extended insurance had expired before the death of the insured, and instruction to find for defendant was therefore proper. Spencer v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 899. A stipulation that the premium shall be paid annually before a specified date, and that the policy shall become void if this is not done is binding upon both the insured and the beneficiary. Failure to make payments as stipulated releases company from all liability unless policy is revived in the prescribed manner. Hutson v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1000.

52. Where an agent procured a policy on his own life, but being unable to pay the first premium, his son-in-law without the knowledge of the company paid it to him as agent, no part of which premium was ever accounted for or paid over, there was no payment. State Life Ins. Co. v. Harvey [Ohio] 73 N. E. 1056.

53. Statement made during month of grace. Taylor v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 134 F. 932.

54. On failure to pay premium for third quarter of third year insurance ceases, and there can be no recovery on insured's subsequent death. Inaccurate to call this a forfeiture. Letzler's Adm'r v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 372, 85 S. W. 177.

55. Reasonable notice of intention to cancel is necessary. Sherrod v. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Ass'n [N. C.] 51 S. E. 910. Mere fact that notice may have been provided for in general terms in the policy but without any reference to the New York law in that regard, either directly or indirectly, or in any other portion of the contract, would not be sufficient to incorporate such law into the same as a part thereof. Cowen v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 404. Evidence held to clearly show that application did not give insured's street and number, and court properly refused to allow an issue of fact to be made on the question. Id.

56. In New York no life policy may be declared forfeited or lapsed for nonpayment of premiums, within one year thereafter unless notice is mailed to the insured of the time when the payment is due, which must inform him that the policy will become forfeited and void unless the premium is paid on or before the day it falls due, to the corporation or to a duly appointed agent or person authorized to collect such premium. It is essential for a company seeking to declare its policy forfeited to establish that the required notice has been mailed to the insured. Laws 1897, p. 92, c. 218, § 2. Instruction held to properly have made mailing of notice, the pivotal question, and not to have made verdict rest upon question of extension of time for payment of premium. Howell v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 87. Laws 1892, p. 1972, c. 690, § 92. Notice simply informing insured that policy would expire the day the premium became due unless it was paid to a named person at a certain address, held insufficient and properly excluded. Seely v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. [N. H.] 61 A. 585. Prefixing words, "the conditions of your policy provide," to that part of the notice which is required to state that the policy will be forfeited unless premium is paid on or before the day it becomes due, does not render it insufficient, though policy in fact

ed, the law presumes that the addressee received it.[57] An alleged unwritten custom as to the manner of notifying the insured of an assessment and of declaring the policy canceled for its nonpayment cannot supersede or take the place of the method provided in the charter, when the latter is made a part of the contract.[58] A failure to give the notice contemplated by the policy does not operate to continue it in force until the next payment becomes due, though no consequences are provided for, but at most only entitles the insured to a reasonable time to pay the premium after it becomes due.[59] Notice need not be given to one to whom a policy has been assigned as collateral in the absence of a provision to the contrary.[60]

A provision allowing a grace of thirty days for the payment of annual premiums gives the insured immunity from forfeiture for nonpayment for a period of thirteen months from the date when the last previous payment became due.[61] The policy is continued in full force during such thirty days and the premium may be paid by the insured within such time, or, in case of his death, by his representatives.[62]

In fire policies the contract is from year to year and is dependent upon yearly renewals by the payment of annual premiums.[63] Some courts hold that, in the case of life insurance, by the payment of the initial premium, a contract is entered into which contemplates an insurance for the entire life of the insured, and the company, for its protection, provides for a forfeiture for nonpayment of premiums at certain times.[64] Others hold that by the payment of the first premium the insured effects an insurance on his life for one year, and purchases a right to continue that insurance from year to year during life at the same rate,[65] the requirement of the payment of subsequent premiums being a mere option, the exercise of which is necessary to keep the insurance in force, and which does not constitute a debt,[66] and that therefore the insurer cannot compel the continuance of the insurance nor payment of subsequent premiums, nor can it collect a note given therefor.[67]

In the absence of a provision therein to the contrary, a life policy stipulating that it shall not become operative and binding until the actual payment of the initial premium and delivery of the policy during the lifetime and good health provides for a forfeiture only in case of nonpayment within thirty days after it becomes due. Nederland Life Ins. Co. v. Meinert, 26 S. Ct. 15, rvg. [C. C. A.] 127 F. 651. Laws 1876, §§ 1, 2, p. 322, c. 341; 3 Rev. St. [8th Ed.] p. 1685. Cowen v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 404. Notice addressed to "Adam B. Cowan" instead of to "Adam Bird Cowen" held sufficient in the absence of evidence that there was any other person of that or a similar name in the city where insured resided. Id.

57. Sherrod v. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Ass'n [N. C.] 51 S. E. 910. This presumption may be rebutted. Id. Even though by-law provides that "any member failing to pay his assessment within sixty days from date of notice, which date shall be the day of mailing said notice, shall forfeit all rights, claims, and privlieges in this association, and his policy shall by such failure be canceled without any further notice," plaintiff may rebut presumption by showing that he never received such notice. Id.

58. Muhlenberg v. Mutual Fire Ins. Co., 211 Pa. 432, 60 A. 995.

59. Policy certainly could not be enforced where it appeared that premium had been repeatedly demanded and that insured had died without paving. Cowen v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 404.

60. Failure to pay premiums after notice to the insured as required by the by-laws of a mutual assessment company held to have avoided the policy, though no notice was given to assignee. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. American Nat. Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 789.

61. Taylor v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 134 F. 932.

62. No provision by whom it shall be paid, or that insured shall be in good health or living. Taylor v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 134 F. 932.

63. Taylor v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 134 F. 932.

64. Each instalment is part consideration for the entire insurance for life, and not consideration for insurance during the next following year. Taylor v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 134 F. 932. Life policies are not contracts for insurance for a single year with privilege of renewal for payment of premiums, but they constitute entire contracts of assurance for life subject to discontinuance or forfeiture for nonpayment of any of the stipulated premiums. Stramback v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 731. See, also, Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213.

65, 66, 67. Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Adler [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 835.

of the insured does not become effective until the date of such delivery and payment, where the two are concurrent, and the insurance paid for by the initial premium has its inception on the latter date.[68] The insurer may provide that the premium shall be paid in advance of the commencement of the period of insurance covered by such payment,[69] and the policy being an entire contract of assurance for life a provision for forfeiture if the premium is not paid on a specified date will be construed as avoiding the contract only after the expiration of the period already paid for, and as not affecting that part of the insurance for which payment has been made.[70] There seems, however, to be some conflict of authority in this regard.[71]

Payment may be made at any time before the close of the last day of the period limited.[72]

The delivery of a policy reciting that plaintiff is insured in consideration of a specified premium before such payment is actually made will be regarded as an extension of credit to the insured.[73] In the absence of a provision to the contrary a premium note, if accepted, is a payment of the premium.[74] Where the policy and note so provide, a failure to pay the latter at maturity prevents a recovery.[75] A provision that the policy shall be void while the note or any part thereof remains unpaid after maturity operates to suspend the insurance during the continuance

68. That date and not date of policy controls. Stramback v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 731. Rule not changed by the fact that policy further recites that it is made in consideration of payment of premiums on certain specified dates, in view of another provision that premiums may be paid annually, semi-annually, or quarterly in advance, but that in any event policy shall continue in force only for the period actually paid. Id. Policy dated Sept. 8 and not delivered until Sept. 24 could not be forfeited for nonpayment of premium until a year from the latter date. Id. Where the application was made May 5 and the payment was made July 24, the policy ran from the latter date. Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213.

69. Stramback v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 731.

70. Thus, where policy dated Sept. 8, 1902, did not go into effect until Sept. 24 because not delivered until that date, and insurance did not therefore have its inception until the latter date, failure to pay semi-annual premium due by terms of policy on Sept. 8, 1903, did not work a forfeiture until Sept. 24, 1903, and beneficiary was entitled to recover where insured died Sept. 11, 1903. Stramback v. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 731. Where application was made on May 5, 1894, and policy was issued July 10, but did not become effective until July 24, on which date insured accepted it and paid two years' premium, failure to pay premium due by terms of policy on May 5, 1896, held not to work a forfeiture until July 24, 1896, though policy provided that it should become void if premium was not paid when due and beneficiary was entitled to recover where insured died July 3, 1896. Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213.

71. Where the policy provides for quarterly payments on certain specified dates, the payments must be made on those dates notwithstanding a further provision that the policy is not to take effect until the first premium is paid, and the fact that the first premium was not paid until April 26, though the policy was dated March 31. Contract does not contemplate quarterly payments from time when contract takes effect. Sydnor v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 521.

72. Where policy provides that premiums shall be paid weekly to a collector, or if not collected they shall be sent to the home office or the agent before they are four weeks in arrears, the policy does not lapse until the close of the last day of the four weeks after the premium becomes due, and premium may be paid at any time on that day. Doney v. Prudential Ins. Co., 99 App. Div. 23, 90 N. Y. S. 757.

73. Germania Fire Ins. Co. v. Muller, 110 Ill. App. 190.

74. Where insured applied for short term insurance until a specified date and a 20-year payment policy from that time and gave note to cover premiums for both payable when the first annual premium was due, held, that such note, on its acceptance, constituted a payment of the premium for the term insurance though the amount thereof was something less than the aggregate of the two premiums. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Hocker [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 773, 89 S. W. 26.

75. Where a premium note and the receipt given therefor provide that the policy shall be void if such note is not paid when due, the policy becomes void if the note is not paid at maturity, no affirmative action cancelling it being necessary, and can only be reinstated by complying with the conditions prescribed therein. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Bussell [Ark.] 86 S. W. 814. Note given for a premium on a life policy and conditioned for the lapse of the policy in case of its nonpayment does not pay the premium. Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Adler [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 835. Policy held to have ceased and determined by failure to pay note when due, where both policy and note so provided. National Life Ins. Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 618.

of the default and to relieve the insurer from liability for a loss then occurring.[76] The giving of a note for an entire annual premium will be regarded as an election to pay premiums annually rather than semi-annually or quarterly as permitted by the policy.[77]

Industrial policies providing for insurance for consecutive periods and that the premiums are to be paid from insured's wages by orders on his employer, generally make actual payment of such orders when due a prerequisite to recovery.[78]

Policies sometimes provide that premiums may be paid to a collector,[79] in which case he may exercise his discretion as to the mode of payment.[80]

Under a rule authorizing the superintendent to accept overdue premiums between the date on which they are due and the date when the premium receipt must be returned for cancellation, provided he can certify that the insured is in good health, on nonpayment of a premium when due, after notice, the risk is on the insured that pending the delay permitted by the agents, he may change in health or die, and the policy be forfeited.[81]

Policies frequently provide for an extension of time for making payment after they have been in force for a certain length of time.[82] Provisions as to the method of obtaining such an extension must be complied with.[83]

76. Jefferson Mut. Ins. Co. v. Murray [Ark.] 86 S. W. 813. Subsequent payment revives it and makes it again take effect from the time of payment and continue for the remainder of the period first stipulated. Id.

77. Payments made on such note cannot be treated as quarterly payments, to keep the policy in force for a part of the year. National Life Ins. Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 618.

78. Policy providing that premiums were to be paid out of wages of the insured, and that the insurer should not be liable for loss occurring while the insured was in default, held to have lapsed on failure of insured's paymaster to withold from his wages a sum sufficient to pay an instalment of the premium and to remit same to the company in accordance with an order therefor given by the insured to the insurer. Continental Casualty Co. v. Jasper [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1078. Where accident policy provided for payment of premiums for separate consecutive periods, each premium to apply only to its corresponding period, and that no claim for injuries sustained in any period for which the premium had not been actually fully paid should be valid, and insurer took orders on insured's employer for the premiums to be paid out of his earnings for each period, held, that the insurance for each period was made to depend on the actual payment of the orders out of insured's earnings for the months specified, and on failure of employer to pay one of them because insured had not earned enough during the month, the policy lapsed. Hagins v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 683. The term "injuries" covers injuries resulting in death, and in case insured is killed during period for which premium is not paid, the beneficiary cannot recover. Instruction approved. Id. No notice necessary before forfeiture. Id.

79. Provision that "all premiums are payable at the home office of the company, but may be paid to an authorized representative of the company" and that "if for any reason the premium is not called for when due by an authorized representative of the company," it shall be the duty of the insured to send it to the home or a district office before it has been in arrears four weeks, held to show that the premium was in fact payable to the collectors of the company. Rutherford v. Prudential Ins. Co., 34 Ind. App. 531, 73 N. E. 202. The magnitude of the expense involved in transmitting weekly premiums as compared to the amount involved in the main transaction may be considered in determining the intention in this regard. Id.

80. Insured having left money with third person for payment of weekly premiums, and collector authorized to receive them having agreed to call there for them, held that policy was not avoided for nonpayment on his failure to do so. Rutherford v. Prudential Ins. Co., 34 Ind. App. 531, 73 N. E. 202.

81. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Hall [Va.] 52 S. E. 345.

82. Provision in mutual policy that, after policy has been in force for five years, and before the expiration of ten years from its date, if "death shall occur within six months from the date of maturity of dues unpaid, or within six months from the date of the mortuary calls which such member has omitted or neglected to pay," the policy shall be payable in the same manner as though such dues and mortuary calls had been paid when due, held to give assured six months' extension of time as to both annual dues and mortuary premiums within which they may be paid, but that policy was forfeited where insured was more than six months behind in his mortuary premiums at the time of his death, though he was not behind at all in his annual dues. Spinks v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 169.

83. Evidence that receipts were sent to collecting agents with instructions to present the same for payment, and, if not paid, to hold them and present them from time to time until recalled, and that receipt was so presented several times to the insured and not paid, and was returned in response to a

A "privilege and condition" in a life policy that if premiums are paid in semi-annual instalments, any instalment necessary to complete the full year's premium at maturity of the contract shall be deducted from the claim, applies only to annual premium policies and not those providing for semi-annual premiums.[84]

Brokers, acting as agents for foreign companies in placing insurance, but having no interest in the premiums payable cannot sue in their own names therefor.[85]

If the insurer erroneously claims a forfeiture by reason of nonpayment, the insured is absolved from liability to tender further premiums, but they should be deducted from the amount found due in an action on the policy.[86] So, too, a certificate holder in an assessment association need not pay an illegal assessment or tender a sum equivalent to a legal one, or give his reasons for refusing to pay, in order to preserve his rights under his contract.[87]

Mutual companies.—A mutual company may, by contract, limit the liability of the insured to assessment.[88] Members of a mutual company are bound by the action of the directors in making assessments unless they can show illegality, fraud, or gross mistake.[89] Charter provisions requiring such companies to set out in their policies what portions of the premiums are to be set aside for expenses must be substantially complied with.[90] If the assured accepts the policy without objection he will be presumed to have assented to the apportionment therein expressed.[91] A change in the classifications of members is invalid as to those not consenting thereto.[92]

§ 9. Warranties, conditions, and representations.[93] In general.[94]—As in the case of other contracts the parties may make the existence or nonexistence of any fact a condition precedent to the obligation of performance undertaken by either party.[95] In the absence of bad faith the law requires only a reasonable and substantial compliance with the clauses, conditions and warranties of the policy.[96] Ordinarily the falsity of a statement which the parties have expressly warranted direction of the company on the day before insured's death, held immaterial on the question of extension, it not appearing that an extension had been applied for or granted, under a rule of defendant authorizing an extension on application, or that the agents had authority to grant an extension. Cowen v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 404.

84. Bracher v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. 92 N. Y. S. 1105, rvg. 42 Misc. 290, 86 N. Y. S. 557.

85. Cortis v. Van Derveer, 91 N. Y. S. 743.

86. Doney v. Prudential Ins. Co., 99 App. Div. 23, 90 N. Y. S. 757.

87. Benjamin v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 146 Cal. 34, 79 P. 517.

88. May be made part of policy where there is no provision on the subject in the by-laws. Moore v. Lichtenberger, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 268.

89. Moore v. Lichtenberger, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 268.

90. Stipulation in policy held a substantial compliance. Porter v. Holmes [Ga.] 50 S. E. 923.

91. Porter v. Holmes [Ga.] 50 S. E. 923.

92. Where insured's certificate and the constitution of an assessment company provide for assessments upon the "entire membership in force at the date of the last death, the same to be apportioned among the members according to the age of each member," subsequent resolutions classifying the members and placing all those entering prior to a certain date subsequent to that at which such certificate was issued in a class by themselves, and requiring them to pay according to the attained age of each at the date of the assessment, but providing that members of other classes shall be assessed as of the age of their entry into the association, are disproportionate, discriminating, unauthorized and in violation of the contract of such certificate holder, and therefore inoperative and void as to him. Benjamin v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 146 Cal. 34, 79 P. 517.

93. See 4 C. L. 177. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

94. See 4 C. L. 177.

95. Statements made by deceased in his application as to the nonexistence of consumption in his family and that he had not had any serious illness being matters in regard to which he must have known, held warranties, and policy was avoided where they were shown to be false. Doll v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 705.

96. Evidence held to show substantial compliance with requirement that insured keep books of account correctly detailing purchases and sales. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. Iron-safe clause. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350.

to be true,[97] or the breach of a promissory warranty avoids the policy,[98] whether actually material to the risk or not.[99] By statute in some states no misrepresentation or false warranty avoids the policy unless it is in regard to a matter material to the risk or unless it is fraudulently made.[1] In others the violation of, or failure to

97. False answers in regard to matters material to the risk made warranties. Act of 1885 does not change rule. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

As to health of applicant: Warranty that applicant had never been declined or postponed by any company, held false where he had been rejected by a fraternal benefit society. Peterson v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co., 115 Ill. App. 421. Evidence sufficient to sustain finding that answers to questions in regard to health were not false. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Moravec, 116 Ill. App. 271. Evidence held to sustain finding that insured did not have diabetes when he made application and had not had it before that time. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89. Where insured stated in her application that the condition of her health was good, that she had no physical or mental defect and had never suffered from cancer, and the uncontradicted evidence showed that she died of cancer and was in poor health when the application was made, held error to refuse to dismiss the complaint at the close of the evidence. Finn v. Prudential Ins. Co., 98 App. Div. 588, 90 N. Y. S. 697. Where there was undisputed evidence that insured had been attended by a physician and was in poor health when the policy was delivered, it was error to submit those questions to the jury where the application made a part of the policy, warranted that she had not consulted a physician for ten years and provided that the policy should not take effect unless delivered and accepted while she was in good health. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Calvert [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 889.

As to occupation: Warranty that insured was not "connected" with the manufacture or sale of liquors held not breached by his occasionally waiting on the customers of a saloon, as a mere accommodation. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609.

As to use of intoxicants: Use of liquors to excess before, at the time of, and after the issuance of the policy held to avoid policy, where answers in application, which were made warranties, stated that he did not use liquors at all. Requested instructions improperly refused. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. American Nat. Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 789. Evidence held not to show breach. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89. Evidence held sufficient to support verdict that warranties were not false. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Blasingame [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 819.

98. Compliance a condition precedent to recovery. Keeping of books and inventory in safe. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Requirement that insured shall produce books, etc., for examination. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86.

99. Where a promise is declared to be a warranty, the question of its materiality is eliminated, and the only concern of the courts, in the absence of contrary statutory enactments, is to see whether or not it has been complied with. St. Landry Mercantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87. A breach of warranty defeats a life policy without reference to its materiality or bearing on the particular risk. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 656.

1. In Kentucky no misrepresentations avoid the policy unless they are material or fraudulent. St. 1903, § 639. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. McClain, 27 Ky. L. R. 461, 85 S. W. 699. Applies as well to the policy as to the application. To stipulations as to interest and title. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. McClain, 27 Ky. L. R. 461, 85 S. W. 699. If the insured has a pecuniary interest in the property equal to, or greater than, the insurance, it is not material to the risk that another person has an interest in the property or that the insured does not own the absolute or unconditional title. Id. Under this statute the insured is not bound by the exact letter of such statements, nor is the policy avoided if matter relevant to the transaction, but not material to the risk, has not been disclosed, particularly where no questions were asked concerning it. As to title and interest of the insured in the premises. Id. The misstatement itself must be material, that is the insured must not materially misstate the facts, and a substantial misstatement in regard to a matter substantially material to the risk avoids the policy, whether made with intent to deceive or not. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Dees, 27 Ky. L. R. 670, 86 S. W. 522. Statute is remedial. Id. Under this statute no immaterial statement is fraudulent, and a statement made in answer to questions which is not substantially the truth is at least constructively fraudulent. Id.

Massachusetts: Under Rev. Laws, c. 118, § 21, no misrepresentations or warranties in negotiations for life policy are deemed material or defeat the policy unless made with actual intent to deceive, or unless the risk is thereby increased. Coughlin v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 76 N. E. 192. Mass. Laws 1894, c. 522, p. 675, as amended by Laws 1895, c. 271, p. 272. Leonard v. State Mut. Life Assur. Co. [R. I.] 61 A. 52. Does not apply to provisions in the policy itself, as a provision that it shall not become binding unless delivered when insured is alive and in sound health. Barker v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 945. Instructions erroneous as mixing the law applicable to negotiations and that applicable to conditions in the policy. Requested instructions should have been given. Id.

Michigan: Comp. Laws 1897, § 5180, providing that there shall be no forfeiture for breach of conditions unless the insurer is prejudiced thereby, does not apply to cases where the loss occurs during a breach of the contract and while its terms are being violated, and hence does not prevent the policy from being declared void for breach of the iron-safe clause. King v. Concordia Fire observe, conditions which, by the terms of the policy, render it void, does not defeat a recovery if it appears that such violation or failure did not contribute to the loss.[2]

Warranties are to be strictly construed, and will not be extended so as to include anything not necessarily implied in their terms.[3] In case of ambiguity or doubt answers to questions in the application will be construed as representations rather than warranties.[4] Even though a warranty in name or form be created by the term of the contract, its effect may be modified by other parts of the policy or application, including questions and answers, so that the answers will be construed not as warranties of immaterial facts stated therein, but rather a warranty of insured's honest belief of their truth.[5]

As a general rule false representations avoid the policy only if material to the risk, or fraudulent.[6] The previous health of the applicant,[7] his rejection by other

Ins. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 160, 103 N. W. 616.

In Missouri misrepresentations do not avoid the policy unless the matters misrepresented shall have actually contributed to the insured's death. Rev. St. 1899, § 7890. Herzberg v. Modern Brotherhood, 110 Mo. App. 328, 85 S. W. 986. Rev. St. 1889, § 5849. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. American Nat. Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 789. Instructions properly refused. Williams v. St. Louis Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 499. False representation that deceased never had syphilis does not avoid policy where there was no substantial evidence that it caused his death. Herzberg v. Modern Brotherhood, 110 Mo. App. 328, 85 S. W. 986. This statute does not apply to assessment companies. Williams v. St. Louis Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 499; Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. American Nat. Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 789.

Rhode Island: Laws 1902, p. 75, c. 997, amending Gen. Laws 1896, c. 244, providing that misstatements made in procuring a policy of life insurance shall not be deemed material or avoid the policy, unless materially contributing to the contingency or event on which the policy is to become due and payable is not retroactive. Leonard v. State Mut. Life Assur. Co. [R. I.] 61 A. 52.

Virginia: Code 1904, § 3344a, providing that no answers to interrogatories made by an applicant shall bar recovery upon any policy issued upon such application, by reason of any warranty in the application or policy, unless it is clearly proved that such answer was willfully false or fraudulently made, or that it was material, applies only to policies issued upon an application in which the insured has answered interrogatories about matters as to which such answer was willfully false or fraudulently made. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Held not to apply to iron-safe clause. Id.

2. Iowa: Code, § 1743. Breach of agreement to keep books and of iron-safe clause held not to preclude recovery in absence of pleading or proof that it in any manner contributed to the loss. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 565, 102 N. W. 502. Defense based on change in use or occupancy is good if it renders the risk in fact more hazardous. Krell v. Chickasaw Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 364.

3. See, also, § 7, post. Valentini v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 758. Every reasonable intendment must be indulged in favor of the policy. As to use of Intoxicants. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 656.

4. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529. Courts incline to regard such statements or answers binding only in so far as they are material to the risk, where it is possible to do so without doing violence to the clear intention of the parties expressed in unequivocal and unqualified language to the contrary. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Pruett [Ala.] 37 So. 700.

5. Pleas averring that application provided, "among other things," that all statements therein were true, and then alleging false statements held bad in failing to allege or show that by the contract, taken as a whole, such answers were warranted to be true, or amounted to more than untrue representations immaterial to the risk, and forming no inducement to the making of the contract. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Pruett [Ala.] 37 So. 700. Where insured stated in his application that he did not have, and never had had, a disease of the liver, and the evidence showed that he had had it but had been permanently cured and was in good health when policy was issued, held, that the fact that the court instructed the jury that if it believed the evidence it must find for the defendant showed that the overruling of the demurrers to the pleas was prejudicial to plaintiff and hence court properly granted new trial. Id.

6. Misrepresentations as to physical condition do not operate to avoid the contract unless they are such as to deceive the insurer in regard to a matter material to the risk, or unless they are warranted as true. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Pruett [Ala.] 37 So. 700. False and fraudulent statements as to matters material to the risk, or the fraudulent suppression of any matter of fact material to the risk made in order to procure the policy, avoid the insurance (German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135), but a mere omission to state that the stock was second hand, or that it was bought at a large discount does not, in the absence of fraud (Id.). Instruction approved. Id. False and fraudulent statements as to the value of the property to be insured, made in order to procure the in-companies,[8] and his habits as to the use of intoxicants,[9] are regarded as material within this rule. If material the motive of the insured in making the representation or his knowledge of the facts cannot be considered.[10] No statement can be a misrepresentation of a fact if it was not made with reference to such fact but with reference to an entirely different though similar one.[11] False answers to specific questions in regard to matters within the personal knowledge of the insured will be deemed fraudulent;[12] but erroneous statements as to mere matters of opinion will not avoid the policy if made in good faith.[13]

If the contract is entire a breach of a condition as to one of the classes of property insured avoids the whole of the insurance,[14] but if severable a breach as to one class does not, in the absence of fraud, the contravention of public policy, or an increase of the risk, avoid the policy as to other classes not affected thereby.[15]

Fire insurance.[16]—Provisions avoiding the policy for any change in the interest, title, or possession of the property,[17] if the interest of the insured in the property is surance, avoid the policy. Instruction approved. Id. If the policy was obtained by false and fraudulent representations and no policy would have been issued had the truth been known, no contract between the parties ever existed. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Antram [Miss.] 38 So. 626. In order that false representations made in answer to specific questions may avoid the policy, the insured must have been guilty of actual or legal fraud in making them. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529.

7. Peterson v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co., 115 Ill. App. 421. Answers as to previous illness. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275. Where deceased stated he never had had heart disease, whereas he had been treated for angina pectoris. Rondinello v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 293. False statement that applicant had never had heart disease avoids policy, even though she did not have it at the time of making the application. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Moravec, 214 Ill. 186, 73 N. E. 415. Instruction on the theory that assured had suffered from heart disease warranted by the evidence. Id.

8. Peterson v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co., 115 Ill. App. 421.

9. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Dees, 27 Ky. L. R. 670, 86 S. W. 522. Instructions held erroneous. Id.

10. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Union Stockyards Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 852, 87 S. W. 285.

11. Statement of insured's agent, repeated by insured to the insurer that tenant had removed all the rags from the premises when he had in fact only removed those in one building, held not a misrepresentation where the agent believed that such building was the only one covered by the tenant's lease. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Union Stockyards Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 852, 87 S. W. 285.

12. Evidence held to sustain finding that insured was not guilty of fraudulent representations as to his health. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529.

13. Misstatement as to value. Instruction approved. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135. In an application for fire insurance, statements as to the age and value of the buildings are expressions of opinion, not warranties. Home Ins. Co. of New York v. Overturf [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 47.

14. Where part of the amount is placed on a building and part on a stock of merchandise therein, and policy by its terms becomes void either for breach of warranty as to taking, preserving, and producing inventories, or of condition as to ownership of ground on which building stands, the whole contract is avoided though there is only one such breach. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87.

15. Fact that policy covered piano not owned by insured held not to render it void as to other property on the ground that the interest of the insured was not truly stated, in the absence of all proof of fraud. Will be presumed to have been a mistake. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287. The fact that one item is inserted by mistake of the parties does not affect the validity of the contract as to other items on the ground that there was no meeting of the minds and hence no contract. Id.

16. See 4 C. L. 181.

17. Grunauer v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 62 A. 418. The period of interest in the insured embraced in such conditions is from the beginning to the expiration of the policy. Id. Conditions against alienation are ordinarily construed as intended to provide only against changes in ownership which might supply a motive to destroy the property or which would weaken the interest of the insured in protecting it, and hence dealings with the property not calculated to produce such an effect do not avoid the policy. Schloss v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 701. Word "interest" is not used in sense of insurable interest, and policy is not necessarily rendered void merely because there is a change in the insurable interest of the insured, or because a third person acquires such an interest. Moseley v. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co., 109 Mo. App. 464, 84 S. W. 1000.

Held to avoid policy: Execution of an agreement to convey accompanied by the putting of the purchaser in possession of the premises. Grunauer v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 62 A. 418. A contract for conveyance of land at the ex-not truly stated,[18] or is other than unconditional and sole ownership,[19] or for the concealment or misrepresentation of insured's interest in the property, or of facts material to the risk,[20] or if the insured property is sold,[21] or removed,[22] or for the piration of a year, giving the purchaser possession meanwhile, though as a tenant of the vendor without rent, since it makes the purchaser the equitable owner in fee. Brighton Beach Racing Ass'n v. Home Ins. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 654. Transfer from father to son, merely to clear up the title preliminary to another intended transfer. Rosenstein v. Traders' Ins. Co., 102 App. Div. 147, 92 N. Y. S. 326. Trust deed, when executed to pay off incumbrances, the residue to go to the owner. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Black, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 132.

Held not to avoid policy: A sale made without any change of possession and attended immediately by a resale of the property, leaving the insured at the end of the transaction with the same title and interest as at the beginning does not prejudice defendant in respect of the risk, nor amount to a change of title, interest, or possession within the meaning of a clause avoiding the policy for such a change or one requiring a statement of such change to be given within 60 days after the fire. Schloss v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 701. Agreement to sell conditioned on the vendee being able to raise a certain sum on the property, and the execution of a contract and deed to enable him to do so, which were placed in the hands of brokers with instructions not to deliver the same without the vendor's permission, even though sale was completed long after the fire. Swank v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 547, 102 N. W. 429. Contract of sale not enforceable under the statute of frauds, as where agent having merely verbal authority makes verbal contract of sale, and gives a receipt for a part of the purchase price, the balance to be paid if title proves good, and owner gives deed to agent to deliver on payment of balance of purchase price. Moseley v. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co., 109 Mo. App. 464, 84 S. W. 1000. Fact that vendee could have charged land with a lien for what he had paid does not work a change of interest, at least where he makes no attempt to do so. Id.

18. Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127. Statement of insured that his interest was that of mortgagee held true, though mortgage, which ran to him personally, was given to secure loan of money belonging to a bank of which he was president. Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 377, 102 N. W. 120. Where insured had purchased certain realty and personalty for a lump sum, and a deed therefor was placed in escrow to be delivered on payment of the balance, but at the time of taking out the policy a part had not been paid, the vendee claiming that the title to a part of the property had not been perfected and that the amount paid was the reasonable value of the remaining property, held, that a statement that there was no incumbrance on the property was false and rendered the policy void. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. American Cement Plaster Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1115. In absence of proof as to the value of the personalty it could not be presumed that the amount remaining unpaid represented its value, and hence there was no incumbrance on the realty. Id. Held immaterial that the vice-president of the insured refused to sign the application personally because of these statements, where he knew that the companies would not issue the policies without a written application, and permitted the broker to prepare and forward it. Id. Held immaterial whether person signing application had authority to do so in the first place, since insured ratified his acts by seeking to recover on the policies. Id.

19. Such a provision is material, valid, and binding. Insurance Co. of North America v. Erickson [Fla.] 39 So. 495. A breach of such an express condition prevents recovery, even though the insured made no representations in regard to the matter or any fraudulent concealment of the facts, and no written application. Policy held void. St. Landry Wholesale Mecantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87. Breach renders contract voidable merely and not absolutely void. Glens Falls Ins. Co. v. Michael [Ind.] 74 N. E. 964.

Held to avoid policy: A bond for title or contract for sale, entered into before the taking out of the policy, which renders the vendor no longer an unconditional owner but converts him into a trustee holding the legal title in trust for the vendee as security for the purchase price. Insurance Co. of North America v. Erickson [Fla.] 39 So. 495. Proof that fixtures put in leased building by insured were property of lessor under the lease. Prussian National Ins. Co. v. Empire Catering Co., 113 Ill. App. 67.

Held not to avoid policy: Requirement satisfied where he is equitable owner though he holds title jointly with his wife. Instruction held warranted by the evidence. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105. The interest of a purchaser of property, which he has unqualifiedly agreed to buy and the vendor has absolutely contracted to sell upon definite terms is sole and unconditional ownership. Insurance Co. of North America v. Erickson [Fla.] 39 So. 495. Contract to sell, which has not been performed at the time of the fire, particularly where it is provided that title and possession shall remain in the vendor. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Three States Lumber Co., 217 Ill. 115, 75 N. E. 450. Proof that plaintiff purchased a part of the destroyed goods under a contract providing that title should remain in the seller until they were paid for, since it does not of itself negative an absolute sale. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 565, 102 N. W. 502. Evidence insufficient to show breach. Id.

20. A fact not actually known to him cannot be concealed, but it may be misrepresented. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Union Stock Yards Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 852, 87 S. W. 285. A trustee of an express or implied trust may effect insurance in his own name for the benefit of the equitable owner, and though the beneficiary be not disclosed giving of a chattel mortgage on personalty,[23] or for any increase of the hazard,[24] or for keeping certain explosive or inflammable substances on the premises,[24a] or if the insured has or procures any other insurance on any of the property,[25] or for allowing the premises to remain vacant and unoccupied,[26] without the company's such policy is not void for concealment or misrepresentation of material facts relating to the risk or insured's interest. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. McClain, 27 Ky. L. R. 461, 85 S. W. 699. Policy in seller's name procured by one buying a stock of merchandise under an agreement that the business should be conducted in the name of the seller who should hold the assets to indemnify himself against debts incurred by the buyer, held valid though name of buyer was not disclosed to the insurer, where it appeared that the latter knew that the buyer actually attended to the store. Insurance will be held to be for benefit of the buyer to the extent that the property exceeds the seller's liability for goods bought in his name. Id.

21. A condition rendering the policy void in case of a contract of "sale or to sell" requires that the contract be a valid and enforceable one. Swank v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 547, 102 N. W. 429. Not violated by agreement to sell conditioned on the vendee being able to raise a certain sum on the property, and the execution of a contract and deed to enable him to do so which were placed in the hands of brokers with instructions not to deliver the same without the vendor's permission. Id. Fact that sale was completed long after the fire is immaterial. Id. The sale must be such as passed title to the property. International Wood Co. v. National Assur. Co., 99 Me. 415, 59 A. 544. Policy on personalty not avoided by sale by receiver under order of court, where sale was never completed in accordance with the order of confirmation, and the sale was thereafter annulled and money returned to the purchaser. Id.

22. Under the Ohio standard policy. Walsh & Co. v. Queen Ins. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 1. Promise of agent to make entries consenting to removal of goods without avail to the insured where the entries were not in fact made. Walsh & Co. v. Queen Ins. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 1.

23. Giving of chattel mortgage without the consent of the company indorsed on the policy held to terminate insurance and prevent recovery on policy by the insured or his appointee. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497.

24. Evidence held sufficient to support finding that risk was not increased by the construction of an asbestos roof. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025. Ordinarily vacancy is not such an increase of risk as will avoid a policy without express agreement to that effect. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. Presence of small quantity of rags on the premises does not increase hazard as a matter of law, but hazard caused by their presence necessarily depends on their quantity. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Union Stockyards Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 852, 87 S. W. 285. Under a policy providing that it shall be void if the hazard is increased, any such increase suspends the insurance while the forbidden condition continues to exist, and relieves the insurer from liability for a loss occurring during that time, but if the original condition is restored before loss and during the term covered by the policy, the liability of the insurer is also restored, at least where the insurer has retained the premium without complaint. Id.

Effect of increase by tenants or trespassers: Under a policy providing that it shall be void if the hazard is increased by any means within the control or knowledge of the insured, it is not avoided by the misuse of the premises by a tenant in a manner increasing the hazard of which the insured has no knowledge. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Union Stockyards Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 852, 87 S. W. 285. The knowledge of an agent of one of the officers of the insured that a tenant has stored rags in the other buildings is not the knowledge of the insured. Id. Nor is it avoided by the acts of a trespasser of which the insured has no knowledge. Not by failure of tenant to remove rags on termination of lease, or by his storing loose rags on the premises which he had no right to do. Id.

24a. Provision avoiding policy if benzine is kept on the premises refers to its habitual use only, and presence of small quantity for use in cleaning metals does not prevent recovery. Instruction erroneous. Szymkus v. Eureka F. & M. Ins. Co., 114 Ill. App. 401.

25. See, also, § 17, post.

Provisions as to application for additional insurance: Condition requiring application for permit for additional insurance to be made, and to be filed with company, and permit to be indorsed on policy is reasonable and valid, and must be substantially complied with. Monk v. Penn Tp. Mut. Fire Ins. Ass'n, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 449. Statement by insured to secretary of company on street car that he had taken additional insurance held not sufficient compliance, where he failed to send policy to office for indorsement, as the agent told him to do. Id.

Held not to avoid policy: Failure to state that the applicant has insurance on other property not covered by defendant's policy. Home Ins. Co. of New York v. Overturf [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 47. Evidence insufficient to show existence of other insurance covering the property destroyed. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Northern Assur. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 610, 105 N. W. 76. Where two policies for $3,000 each and one for $2,000 were renewed by the agent, but the insured told him to reduce the insurance to $6,000 and he destroyed the $2,000 one, there was no overinsurance by the writing of the latter policy, in violation of the provisions of other policies as to concurrent insurance. Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127.

Policy held avoided. Heyl v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 118; Lake Superior Produce & Cold Storage Co. v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 560. Provision of policy on stock of goods covering "farm implements," prohibiting additional insurance, consent, are valid and binding on the insured, and any violation thereof will ordinarily prevent a recovery in case of loss. The same is true of provisions requiring the insured to take inventories[27] and keep books,[28] and to preserve them in an iron held violated by taking out policy covering "mowing machines and binders," though the latter implements were purchased after the first policy was taken out, since they were protected by it. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 565, 102 N. W. 502. Offered answer held to show violation of such provision which, if proved, would avoid the policy. Home Ins. Co. v. Overturf [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 47.

26. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612; Id., 75 N. E. 849. Maine standard fire policy (Laws 1895, p. 14, c. 18) becomes void if the premises become vacant by the removal of the owner or occupant, and so remain for more than thirty days without the written or printed consent of the company, irrespective of whether the risk is thereby materially increased or not. Knowlton v. Patrons' Androscoggin Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Me.] 62 A. 289. Rev. St. 1883, c. 49, § 20, providing that change in occupation of the property shall not affect the policy unless it materially increases the risk, held repealed by § 3 of the act of 1895, repealing all provisions of law inconsistent with the standard policy thereby adopted. Id. Violation of provision of rider attached to policy, as authorized by Rev. St. c. 49, § 4, that policy should be rendered void for vacancy or nonoccupancy continued for more than ten days, held to avoid policy. Knowlton v. Patrons' Androscoggin Mut. F. Ins. Co. [Me.] 62 A. 289.

Meaning of "vacant and unoccupied": Dwelling house becomes vacant and unoccupied when it ceases to be used as a place of human habitation or for living purposes. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612; Id., 75 N. E. 849. The extent of the time of the vacancy is not of the essence of the contract. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 849; Id., 73 N. E. 612. Nor is it material that insured did not know that house, which was occupied by a tenant, had become vacant, since he assumes risk of tenant moving out. Id. Farm buildings held to have become "personally unoccupied" where plaintiff's tenant had moved his family to town, though he continued to pay rent therefor, left his cattle and some of his furniture there, and worked on the farm pleasant days, and intended to return there with his family in about two months. Knowlton v. Patrons' Androscoggin Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Me.] 62 A. 289.

Effect of re-occupancy: Fact that premises are reoccupied after they have been vacant for the specified period does not prevent forfeiture. Hardiman v. Fire Ass'n [Pa.] 61 A. 990.

27. Is warranty and compliance is a condition precedent to recovery. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Under a provision that the insured must take an inventory at least once a year during the life of the policy, he has a year from the date of the policy in which to take it, though the policy only runs for one year. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. Inventory held sufficient. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Where merely a rough inventory had been taken in pencil and on tablets subject to revision before being copied in ink it was not such a "complete" inventory as was required to be kept in an iron safe, and its destruction by fire before the end of the time given the insured in which to prepare a complete inventory and the consequent failure to produce it did not avoid the policy. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. Teutonia Ins. Co., 113 La. 1053, 37 So. 967. Warranty that insured would take, preserve and produce inventory held not complied with where the inventory was not taken within the time specified and was not preserved or produced, though it was alleged, after the loss, that an inventory approximately correct could be made from the books. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87. Condition that inventories should be taken once a year held not to require each inventory to be taken exactly 12 months after the preceding one, and it was sufficient where inventories were taken in April, 1901, and February, 1902, and the fire occurred June 21, 1903. Newton v. Theresa Village Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 104 N. W. 107.

28. Is warranty, and compliance therewith is a condition precedent to recovery. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812; Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. A requirement that the insured shall keep books of account correctly detailing purchases and sales is complied with by keeping such books as will fairly show to a man of ordinary intelligence all purchases and sales. Evidence held to show substantial compliance. Id. There is a substantial compliance where the record of sales and purchases is so kept as of itself to show the business transacted, or where it does so when the entries are explained. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350. Entry of all sales, there being no purchases, in a common manilla book, which contained inventory and which was produced after the fire, held sufficient, failure to keep ledger which contained nothing essential to an understanding of plaintiff's business in safe being immaterial. Instructions approved. Id. Is sufficient if with the assistance of those who kept them or understood the system, the amount of purchases and sales can be ascertained and cash transactions distinguished from credit transactions. Books held sufficient. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Evidence held to justify finding that books were such as were contemplated by the contract. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025. Under provision that insured shall make an inventory "within thirty days after the date of the policy," and shall keep a set of books presenting a complete record of business transacted "from the date of the inventory," held, that the insured had 30 days in which to take the inventory and was not required to commence keeping books until it was taken, so that failure to keep books did not prevent recovery where fire occurred within 30 days and no inventory had been taken. Bray v. Virginia safe,[29] and after the fire to produce all books, bills, accounts and the like for examination as often as may be required.[30] There is no implied condition against the removal of the goods.[31] If the last inventory is actually produced the fact that it was not in the safe at the time of the fire as required by the policy is immaterial.[32]

Life and accident insurance.[33]—A provision that the policy shall be void if at the time of its issue there is any industrial policy in force, issued by the same company upon the life of the insured, unless indorsed with the company's consent, is reasonable and binding unless waived.[34]

Where the policy provides that it shall not take effect if at its date the insured is not in sound health, the actual condition of his health at that time and not his knowledge thereof controls.[35] A warranty or representation as to the condition of Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 922. Obligation to keep books held not to arise until after the taking of the inventory. Richard v. Springfield Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 563. Provision requiring insured to keep and preserve set of books clearly and plainly presenting a complete record of all business transacted, including all purchases and sales for cash or credit, does not require the preservation of all books used, and is not violated because ledger does not itemize credit sales. Scottish-Union & National Ins. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 667, 89 S. W. 419. Held, that evidence admitted of no other conclusion than that there was a substantial compliance, and hence there was no error in failing to submit such issue to the jury. Id.

29. Is a warranty and compliance therewith is a condition precedent to the right to recover on the policy. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. The parties may, in order to preserve exact evidence of the extent of the loss, contract that the books of account and inventory of the insured shall be kept in an iron safe. Contracts for preservation of testimony are valid. King v. Concordia Fire Ins Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 160, 103 N. W. 616, citing Phoenix Ins. Co. v. Angel, 18 Ky. L. R. 1034, 38 S. W. 1067, as holding to the contrary. Provision requiring insured to keep his books and inventory in an iron safe at night "or at some other place secure against fire in another building" does not require that the other building be safer than the one insured, but merely that the books be kept in a building not exposed to the hazard of the fire which might endanger the property insured. Id. Under policy providing that insured shall keep books, take an inventory, "and shall keep said books and a copy of their last inventory in an iron safe at night, or at some place secure against fire in another building, otherwise this policy shall be void," the failure to keep the books and inventory in a safe or in another building avoids the policy. Not necessary that there be both a failure to keep books at all and a failure to keep them in such a place. Id. A provision requiring insured to keep his books in an iron safe "during the hours said store is not open for business" does not require him to place them in the safe during a temporary absence from his drug store as a physician, before his usual closing time. Major v. Insurance Co. of North America [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 883.

30. Provision requiring insured, as often as required, to produce his books, etc., for examination at such reasonable place as may be designated, and that no action may be maintained on the policy until such requirement is complied with is a promissory warranty and compliance is a condition precedent to recovery. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. Means a reasonable place in the locality or town where the insured property was situated, in the absence of conditions rendering such place unreasonable. City 140 miles from place where property was situated held not a reasonable place, and insured was not chargeable with a breach for failure to produce them there. Id. It is incumbent on the company both to request the information and to designate the place where it shall be produced. Seibel v. Firemen's Ins. Co. [Pa.] 62 A. 101, afg. 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 154. Failure to produce books held no defense where no place was designated, and insurer's principal office was outside the state. Id. When contained in a policy on household goods imposes no obligation on the insured with respect to the property covered by the policy. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271.

31. In the absence of a provision to the contrary in the policy the company is not relieved from liability by reason of the fact that defendant removed a part of his stock of goods before the fire otherwise than in the usual course of selling them. Instruction that such removal would be fraud held error, where only provision in policy is that company shall not be liable beyond three-fourths of the cash value of personal property at the time any loss or damage occurs. Beavers v. Security Mut. Ins. Co. [Ark.] 90 S. W. 13.

32. Evidence held sufficient to show that the inventory produced was the last one. Newton v. Theresa Village Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 104 N. W. 107.

33. See 4 C. L. 184.

34. In view of the circumstances under which the company conducted its business. Hood v. Prudential Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 527.

35. Where the policy was dated July 1 and insured died September 23 of hemorrhage induced by cancer, and there was expert evidence to the effect that he could not have been in good health at the time of the delivery of the policy, it was error not to instruct the jury that if he was not in good health then, the policy never became effective, irrespective of whether he knew it or not.

health goes only to the extent of an honest and true statement of the applicant's belief.[36]

Questions propounded to an applicant in relation to illnesses and injuries should, if possible, be interpreted as referring only to such as would affect the risk to be assumed,[37] and it is sufficient if the answers are substantially true.[38] The terms "sickness" and "disease" as used in the application do not include trifling and temporary illnesses which readily yield to treatment and leave no permanent physical injury or disorder calculated or having a tendency to shorten life,[39] but only such serious illnesses as impair the constitution or leave some chronic or organic effect.[40] So, too, in order that a failure to disclose attendance by a physician may be held as a matter of law to be a breach of warranty, it must appear that such attendance was for a substantial disorder and not for a mere functional or temporary indisposition.[41]

Warranties that the insured does not use intoxicating liquors mean that he does not do so as a habit, practice, or custom, and are not broken by an occasional use.[42]

Accident policies frequently provide for double payments in case the insured is injured while riding on a public conveyance.[43]

"Voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger" means the insured must have consciously and of his own volition encountered a risk of injury which he need not have incurred in the performance of his duties with reasonable prudence.[44] The words "unnecessary danger" signify that the danger meant is one not incident to the duty or avocation of insured; and the words "voluntary exposure" signify that

Carmichael v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 587.

36. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Moravec, 116 Ill. App. 271. In the absence of evidence that insured's attention was called to them unanswered statements in the application held not to constitute such a warranty as will defeat recovery upon a policy, though policy provided that when there was no answer it was agreed that warranty was true without exception. Id.

37. Unless they are in words which exclude such interpretation. Trenton v. North American Acc. Ins. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 781, 89 S. W. 276. Warranties that insured had not been afflicted with certain diseases, "injuries or wounds," nor suffered the loss of certain members, been ruptured or "otherwise injured." Id.

38. Evidence held to sustain finding that insured was not guilty of fraudulent representations. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529.

39. Not headache, indigestion, etc. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529.

40. Instructions approved. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Lindley, 110 Ill. App. 161.

41. Consultations with a physician had by insured's mother with or without his knowledge, when he was not suffering from any ailment, held not to constitute breach. Valentini v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 758. Same is true of consultation for slight nervous disorder which did not interfere with his physical vigor or with his ability to attend to his business. Id. Physical examinations of insured to ascertain his physical condition made upon the physician's own initiative without charge and for the sole purpose of rendering a friendly service held not within warranty as to when insured last "consulted" a physician. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co. v. Dobler [C. C. A.] 137 J. 550.

42. A negative answer to the question, "Do you use liquors?" is not false because the applicant had drunk liquor, however slight the use. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 656. Verdict that there was no breach sustained on the ground that the evidence being conflicting, the question was for the jury. Id.

43. In an action on a policy providing for double payments in case of injury while a passenger on a street car, the question of whether plaintiff was a passenger at the time of his injury held properly submitted to jury under the evidence. James v. United States Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 125.

44. Bateman v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 443, 85 S. W. 128.

NOTE. Voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger: A railroad porter, sent to flag approaching trains, sat down on the track, and involuntarily falling asleep, was killed. In an action on an accident policy, held, his conduct did not constitute voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger. Bateman v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 110 Mo. 443, 85 S. W. 128. Voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger is not synonymous with negligence. Payne v. Frat. Acc. Ass'n, 119 Iowa, 342; Lehman v. G. E. C. & I. Co., 39 N. Y. S. 912. To constitute a voluntary exposure, there must be either a conscious and intentional assumption of a risk which reason and ordinary prudence would pronounce dangerous (Equitable Acc. Ins. Co. v. Osborn, 90 Ala. 201, 13 L. R. A. 267; Keene v. N. E. Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 161 Mass. 149), or gross negligence displaying a spirit of recklessness (Acc. Co. v. Dorgan, 58 F. 945, 22 L. R. A. 620; Johnson v. Guarantee Co., 115 Mich. 86, 40 L. R. A. 440, note), such as really constitutes a voluntary exposure (DeLoy v. Travellers' Ins. Co., 171

he must be exposed to danger with the consent of his will.[45] Though the act of the insured may have exposed him to some risk and have been careless, yet the insurer is not relieved from liability unless he realized the risk and voluntarily incurred it when he was under no necessity to do so.[46]

§ 10. The risk or object of indemnity.[47] Accident and health insurance.[48]—Many accident policies require visible marks of the injury,[49] and exempt the insurer from liability for death or injuries resulting from the inhalation of gas,[50] or from intentional injuries inflicted by another,[51] or for accidents happening in a wild and uncivilized country.[52] The injury is also generally required to be a violent one.[53] Health policies generally make absolute and necessary confinement to the house a criterion of disability, and hence a condition precedent to recovery.[54]

An injury results from accidental means when it is produced by something unforeseen, unexpected, and unusual in the act preceding it.[55] The fact that the Pa. St. 1). Dangers incident to the insured's occupation are not unnecessary dangers within the meaning of the policy. National Ben. Ass'n v. Jackson, 114 Ill. 533.—5 Columbia L. R. 474.

45. A train porter sent back to flag a train does not violate such a provision by sitting down on the track and involuntarily going to sleep. Bateman v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 443, 85 S. W. 128. There being no certain proof as to why deceased was lying on the railroad track when struck by a train or that he was to blame for his perilous position, question whether he was killed on account of a "voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger" held one of fact. Id.

46. Bateman v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 443, 85 S. W. 128. Requested instruction properly refused. Id.

47, 48. See 4 C. L. 186.

49. Shrinkage of hip and leg muscles, lameness of the leg, and breaking down of the bones of the joint which was perceptible to digital examination are "visible marks of the injury." United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176.

50. A provision exempting insurer from liability for death resulting wholly, partly, directly or indirectly from any gas or vapor, has no reference to the asphyxiation of insured by involuntarily inhaling gas escaping into his room while he was asleep. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Ayers, 217 Ill. 390, 75 N. E. 506. But under a policy relieving insurer from liability for injury caused by the "voluntary or involuntary inhalation of any gas or any anaesthetic," or "resulting from any poison or infection accidentally or otherwise taken, administered, absorbed or inhaled," there could be no recovery for death caused by involuntarily inhaling gas while asleep in a hotel whether accident occurred because of his mistake or the neglect of some other person. Porter v. Preferred Acc. Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. 682.

51. Murder of insured releases company as where he is shot by other parties while in custody of officers. Jarnagin v. Travelers' Protective Ass'n [C. C. A.] 133 F. 892. Though he is shot because of the negligence of officers of the law, who had arrested him and had him in custody in failing to protect him, the shooting and not the negligence was the proximate cause of his death. Id.

52. An accident to insured in a sawmill camp where some 300 persons were residing, about 35 miles distant from a railroad station, in Ontario, Canada, held not within such exemption. United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176.

53. Injury to hand caused by resting the head thereon for some time during sleep and bruising it against the bed rail held a violent one. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Fitzgerald [Ind.] 75 N. E. 262. Death from blood poisoning from infection of wound received in a fist fight held direct result of bodily injuries sustained through external, violent, and accidental means. Carroll v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 137 F. 1012.

54. Such a provision is valid, and insured cannot recover unless so confined. Dunning v. Massachusetts Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 99 Me. 390, 59 A. 535. Mutual association may frame health policy upon the assumption that confinement to house would be found so irksome that few would submit to it except upon compulsion of severe illness. Id. Policy held to require such confinement. Id. Evidence held to show that "vitis" sometimes requires absolute confinement to the house, and hence such a provision in a policy covering that disease did not render the promised indemnity nugatory and delusive. Id. Where plaintiff's preliminary notice of illness and his physician's testimony showed that he was not necessarily confined to his house or bed, he could not recover under a policy conditioned on his being "necessarily, entirely and continuously confined to the house and subject to the calls of a registered physician." Cooper v. Phoenix Acc. & Sick Ben. Ass'n [Mich.] 104 N. W. 734.

55. The word accident should be given its ordinary and usual signification as being an event which takes place without one's foresight or expectation. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Fitzgerald [Ind.] 75 N. E. 262.

Injuries held accidental: A strain received in the ordinary course of insured's business. Patterson v. Ocean Acc. & G. Corp., 25 App. D. C. 46. Inflammation of periosteum of metacarpal bones of the hand resulting from lying on hand while it was pressed against bed rail during sleep. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Fitzgerald [Ind.] 75 N. E. 262. Death from blood poisoning from infection of wound received in fist fight held direct result of bodily injuries sustained through external, violent, and accidental means. Carroll v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 137 F. 1012.

injury resulting in deceased's death occurred during a fist fight which was a breach of the peace does not preclude a recovery where the policy contains no special clause vitiating it for that reason.[56]

Wholly disabled means disabled from performing substantially the occupation stated in the policy[57] or from doing such work as, considering his ordinary employment, qualifications for affairs, and station in life, could be expected of the insured.[58] Since it must be assumed that the parties intended that which in certain events or contingencies would mean something and have some effective force, it cannot be construed to mean absolute helplessness,[59] even though it is further provided that by wholly disabled shall be understood that the insured is totally unable to perform any part of the duties pertaining to the occupation stated.[60] The test is was his earning power destroyed;[61] and recovery is not prevented by reason of the fact that he was able to do chores or casual business.[62] "Immediately" disabled means presently or on the happening of the accident.[63] "Occupation" implies simply that pursuit which, at the time of the accident, constitutes the assured's principal business or pursuit.[64] The correct test is not so much whether insured had in fact abandoned the occupation stated in his policy, but whether or not at the time of his injury he was in fact engaged in another occupation, not merely incidental, but as a business of a more hazardous classification.[65]

The causes referred to in accident policies are proximate and not remote causes.[66] Where injury or death combines the results of accident and disease or other conditions, the accident must be the sole and proximate cause if the disease be wholly due to the accident,[67] but the insurer is liable even where the disease or other cause

56. Death is not the natural result of such an encounter, though it would be if deadly weapons were used. Carroll v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 137 F. 1012.

57. James v. United States Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 125.

58. Wholly disabled from doing any work, labor, business, or service, or any part thereof. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491. Inability to do all the substantial acts necessary to be done in the prosecution of his business. Where it appeared that insured devoted practically his whole time to obtaining relief from his injury, held, that evidence was sufficient to go to the jury on the question of his having been wholly, continuously, and permanently disabled by the injury alone from carrying on any and every kind of business, and to justify a finding for plaintiff, though he was able to give some attention to his correspondence. United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176.

59. James v. United States Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 125; United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176.

60. Means inability to perform any substantial part of the business. James v. United States Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 125.

61. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

62. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491. Mere fact that brakeman went on his run held not to preclude recovery where he hired a substitute. Id. Neither did fact that he went to his farm occasionally to give instructions, and once assisted in assorting strawberries. Requested instructions held erroneous. Id.

63. Could not recover if he was able to perform his duties as brakeman for eight days after the accident. Instructions approved. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

64. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Dunn [C. C. A.] 138 F. 629. Though policy described duties of insured, who was a queensware merchant, as "office duties and traveling," held, that it would be regarded as covering generally the entire business of a wholesale and retail queensware merchant, the parties having so interpreted it at the trial by introducing evidence as to whether plaintiff was disabled from performing any of his duties and making no effort to confine such business to the two branches named. James v. United States Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 125. Occupation of insured, after destruction of his drug store by fire, held that of supervising farmer, which was specified as a more hazardous risk than that of druggist, his occupation as specified in the policy, and hence, under terms of policy, on his death, beneficiary was only entitled to recover the amount which the premium paid would have purchased at the rate fixed for farmers. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Dunn [C. C. A.] 138 F. 629. Fact that for some time after fire he was engaged in collecting insurance and outstanding accounts and intended to resume drug business after obtaining title to farm under homestead laws held not to operate as continuance of his occupation of druggist. Id.

65. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Dunn [C. C. A.] 138 F. 629.

66. Continental Casualty Co. v. Loyd [Md.] 73 N. E. 824.

67. Fact that insured did not follow ad-pre-existed the accident if it was actuated or the consequences were due to conditions set in motion by the accident without which no harm would have come from them.[68] The terms of the policy control and may absolve the insurer if disease contributes even in this secondary causation.[69]

Employers' liability insurance.[70]—If an employer's liability policy is an agreement to indemnify the insured against liability, he has a right of action against the company as soon as his liability is determined by the entry of a judgment against him;[71] but if the indemnity is against loss, the insured has no right of recovery upon the policy until he has suffered a loss by the payment of the claim against him.[72]

A provision insuring the owner of a building against loss arising from his "contingent" liability for injuries resulting from the acts or negligence of contractors is vice of first physician he consulted held not necessarily to have rendered him guilty of negligence materially contributing to his subsequent diseased condition so that the injury was not the "sole" cause thereof, where it appeared that he did follow the treatment of other physicians, presumably of standing. United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176. A policy insuring against loss of business time resulting from bodily injuries effected through external, violent, and accidental means, covers loss of business time by disease proximately caused by a bodily injury occasioned through such means. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Fitzgerald [Ind.] 75 N. E. 262. An efficient and adequate cause being found must be deemed to be the true cause, unless some other cause, not incidental to it, but independent of it, is shown to have intervened between it and the result. Injury held proximate cause of inflammation in the absence of showing that it was due to any other cause. Id. Instruction to the effect that if disease was direct result of injuries, and would not have happened but for them, the injuries would be the proximate cause of death, held misleading where it appeared that deceased died from typhoid fever after an accident, and that there was no necessary or natural causal connection between the injuries and the disease. Continental Casualty Co v. Peltier [Va.] 51 S. E. 209. Even if evidence showed that insured by reason of his injuries contracted the disease more readily than he otherwise would have done, instruction was erroneous as ignoring provisions of policy that it covered only injuries which "solely and independently of all other causes necessarily result in death." Id. Where policy covered only injuries which "solely and independently of all other causes necessarily resulted in death," and it appeared that when insured died he had typhoid fever which followed the accident, an instruction leaving it to the jury to infer that, before any other cause than his injuries could be considered by them as a defense, it must appear to have been independent of the injuries, held erroneous, as leaving entirely out of view the provision exempting the company from liability if disease or other cause concurred with the injuries in producing death. Id.

68. Under policy insuring "against accidental bodily injuries caused solely by external, violent, and visible means which shall, independently of all other causes, disable the insured" and against death resulting from accidental bodily injuries as the "actual and direct cause thereof," the company is liable where the accident is the proximate, direct cause of death, though there was a pre-existing diseased condition of the body. Patterson v. Ocean, A. & G. Corp., 25 App. D. C. 46. Injury which might naturally produce death in person of certain temperament or state of health is the cause of his death if he dies by reason thereof, even if he would not have died if his temperament or previous health had been different. Id. Evidence held to warrant submission of question whether accident was actual and direct cause of death, and not to warrant finding as matter of law that it was not. Id. Evidence sufficient to sustain finding that a fall and not a tumor was the proximate cause of death. Continental Casualty Ins. Co. v. Lloyd [Ind.] 73 N. E. 824.

69. Under policy insuring against death resulting solely from injuries which are the proximate cause thereof and exempting the company from liability for accident or death resulting wholly or partly, directly or indirectly, from bodily or mental infirmity, or disorder, or disease in any form, the company is not liable if at the time of the accident the insured was suffering from a pre-existing disease or bodily infirmity without which the accident could not have caused his death, and he died because the accident aggravated the effects of the disease, or the disease aggravated the effects of the accident. White v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 735. Evidence held to show that diabetes with which insured was afflicted at the time of the accident was a contributing cause of his death and judgment ordered for defendant. Id. Order modified and new trial ordered instead of judgment for defendant. White v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 884.

70. See 4 C. L. 186.

71. Allen v. Gilman, McNeil & Co., 137 F. 136.

72. Policy providing that it was for purpose of indemnifying insured "against loss from liability for damages," and that no action should lie against the insurer as respects any loss under the policy unless the suit be brought by the insured himself to reimburse him for loss actually sustained and paid by him in satisfaction of a judgment. Allen v. Gilman, McNeil & Co., 137 F. 136.

meaningless, and imposes no liability on the insurer.[73] A provision obligating the insurer, as soon as process in a suit against the assured is forwarded to it, to defend the same at its own cost on behalf of and in the name of the assured, is not a contract that it will become a party to the action, nor an agreement that the insured may make it a party for any purpose.[74] Such policies frequently relieve the insurer from liability for injuries to any person employed contrary to law.[75]

Fire insurance.[76]—The interest covered by the policy is only that owned by the insured when it is issued and not a different interest subsequently acquired after the former one has been disposed of.[77]

What property is covered by the policy is a question of intention, to be arrived at by a construction of the policy in accordance with the general rules of interpretation previously stated.[78] The construction of particular policies will be found in the note.[79] The word "fire" is generally held to include the idea of visible light and heat, and hence not to include spontaneous combustion where these elements do not exist.[80] The words "and such other merchandise as is usually kept for sale in a retail hardware store" following an enumeration of specific articles covered mean articles in addition to those mentioned, their kind being only limited by the provision that they be of a sort usually kept in such a store.[81]

73. Insuring owner of a building in construction "against loss from common-law of statutory liability arising from the contingent liability" for damages for injuries accidentally suffered for act or negligence of any contractor or subcontractor. If owner is liable at all, his liability is original and not contingent. Sroka v. Frankfort Amer. Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 501.

74. Particularly where policy further provides that no action shall lie against it until judgment shall have been recovered against the insured. Texas Short Line R. Co. v. Waymire [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 907, 89 S. W. 452.

75. Insurer held not liable for injuries to a child employed contrary to law, whether injury was proximate result of his being employed contrary to law or not. Tozer v. Ocean Acc. & G. Corp. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 509. Provision held not to be ambiguous so that subsequent conduct of parties could be regarded as a practical construction. Id.

76. See 4 C. L. 187.

77. Bennett v. Mutual Fire Ins. Co. [Md.] 60 A. 99. Where property was sold after policy was issued by a deed absolute on its face it could not be shown that grantee on the same day agreed to resell it to the insured on his paying a specified sum for purpose of showing an interest in the insured at the time of the loss, since interest so acquired was a new one and was not covered by the policy. Id. This was particularly true where there was no offer to show any transfer of the policy in accordance with its provisions. Id.

78. See § 7, ante.

79. Policy held to cover lumber under asbestos roof. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025. A policy on a "two story" building is not avoided by testimony that the building was a story and a half house, where there was no showing that the half story did not make it a two-story house, either in common parlance or within the established usage of underwriters, nor that the alleged misdescription increased the risk, or influenced the insurer in accepting the risk or fixing the rate. Requested instruction properly refused. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105.

Lumber in "mill sheds" held to mean that contained in sheds detached and distant from the mill and not such as was under roofs projecting from the mill to cover the tracks on either side and not intended as lumber sheds. Wolverine Lumber Co. v. Palatine Ins. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 991. Policy held to be a blanket one not intended to apply specifically to any particular number of bushels of grain that might have been in any particular granary when it was issued, but to continue on this class of property even though replaced by other similar grain. Johnston v. Phelps Co. Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 72. A fire policy stating in the typewritten portion that it covered awnings attached to the building, and in the printed portion that it did not cover awnings held in storage, embraced awnings stored in the building but attached when required to be used. Wicks v. London & L. Fire Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 1034 [Advance sheets only]. Word "additions" in provision in policy covering "property known as the A. manufacturing company" embracing several buildings, giving the insured the privilege "to make additions, alterations and repairs" which were to be covered by the policy, held to have reference to additions to plant and to include entirely new buildings and policy covered them and machinery, fixtures, and materials therein. Arlington Co. v. Colonial Assur. Co., 180 N. Y. 337, 73 N. E. 34, rvg. 84 N. Y. S. 1117. Policy covering building and "addition" held to cover addition to be built, there being no addition when it was issued. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Policy covering a "stock of sugar and molasses deposited in the sugar manufactory" on a certain estate held to cover sugar and molasses coming into the sugar house as the result of the manufacture of a crop growing when the policy was issued where risk under the

Insured cannot recover if he intentionally sets fire to the property or intentionally causes someone else to do so.[82]

The insurer may, by a clause in the policy, exempt itself from liability for loss by theft during the fire,[83] or in case of the fall of the building or any part thereof, except as the result of fire.[84] No recovery can be had for an injury to the insured building by reason of the collision of a fire engine therewith, on its way to a fire.[85]

If the fire breaks out in the insured building before the expiration of the policy and continues to burn thereafter until the property is totally destroyed, the loss is one occurring within the insured period;[86] but if it does not break out until after the expiration of the policy, the insurer is not liable though the loss was seen to be inevitable when the policy expired.[87] Where the policy covers merchandise in a building, if the fire attacks the building before the expiration of the policy term, and by reason thereof it is impossible to remove the merchandise or save it from damage, the loss will be deemed to have occurred during the life of the policy whether the fire was actually communicated to the specific articles within such time or not.[88]

Hail insurance.—In Kansas a mutual association organized to insure its members against injury to growing crops by hail may by its by-laws provide that it shall not be liable for losses to grain left standing after a specified date.[89] policy was not to attach until more than two months after the date of the policy. Royal Ins. Co. v. Miller, 26 S. Ct. 46.

80. Spontaneous combustion of wool submerged in a flood, with smoke and great heat but no visible flame or glow, held not covered. Western Woolen Mill Co. v. Northern Assur. Co. [C. C. A.] 139 F. 637. Held that there was some evidence to support verdict for plaintiff on theory that wool was destroyed by spontaneous combustion and hence it was not error to overrule demurrer to plaintiff's evidence and to refuse to direct verdict for defendant. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513.

81. Not confined to articles ejusdem generis. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Dobbins [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 383. Insured held to have a right to carry in stock a small quantity of dynamite, such being the custom among hardware merchants in his vicinity. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Dobbins [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 383. Evidence of custom held properly allowed to go to the jury and to be sufficient to support finding that there was such a custom. Id. It is not necessary that such a custom should extend to the whole state, but it is sufficient that it is generally recognized and observed by those engaged in the kind of transactions to which it applies in the territory where it is claimed to exist, and it is not essential that it be observed in every individual transaction. Id. The insurer is bound to inform itself of the usages of the particular business insured, and is presumed to know them. Id.

82. Instruction approved. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135. Verdict of jury, on conflicting evidence, that he did not do so, held conclusive. Id. Verdict that insured did not set the fire held not so clearly and palpably against weight of evidence as to require it to be set aside on appeal. Colonial Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302. Evidence held to justify finding that insured did not set the fire. Schornak v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1087. Evidence held to support finding that fire was of incendiary origin, produced with the knowledge and approval of the officers of the insured. Kirkpatrick v. Allemannia Fire Ins. Co., 102 App. Div. 327, 92 N. Y. S. 466.

83. Otherwise it is liable. Sklencher v. Fire Ass'n [N. J. Law] 60 A. 232. A clause exempting the company from liability for loss caused by theft means such losses incurred during a fire. Sklencher v. Fire Ass'n [N. J. Law] 60 A. 232.

84. Nelson v. Traders' Ins. Co., 181 N. Y. 472, 74 N. E. 421, afg. 83 N. Y. S. 220. Under policy covering stock of goods in store in westerly part of building described as a "three story brick metal roof building," the easterly part of which was occupied as a hotel, and providing that if the building or any part thereof, should fall, except as the result of fire, the insurance on the building or its contents should immediately cease, no recovery could be had where easterly wall fell and fire followed, and goods were damaged though fire did not reach store, the fall referred to being that of the general building or any part thereof and not the particular part used as a store. Nelson v. Traders' Ins. Co., 181 N. Y. 472, 74 N. E. 421, afg. 83 N. Y. S. 220.

85. Fire is not the proximate cause. Foster v. Fidelity Fire Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 585.

86. Rochester German Ins. Co. v. Peaslee-Gaulbert Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 1155, 87 S. W. 1115.

87. Instruction held erroneous. Rochester German Ins. Co. v. Peaslee-Gaulbert Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 1155, 87 S. W. 1115.

88. Rochester-German Ins. Co. v. Peaslee-Gaulbert Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 3.

89. Corporation organized under Gen. St. 1901, c. 50, art. 5, may limit its liability to losses occurring prior to noon of July 25, although Gen. St. 1901, § 3560 provides that the policies of such companies shall expire on April 1. Kansas State Mut. Hail Ass'n v. Prather [Kan.] 79 P. 1080.

Life insurance.[90]—There is a conflict of authority as to the effect of a provision exempting the company in case of suicide while sane or insane, some courts holding that it avoids the policy in every case,[91] and others that it does not prevent a recovery where insured does not have sufficient mind to render him conscious that he is taking his own life when he commits the act.[92] In Missouri suicide is no defense unless the policy was taken out with that view.[93]

No recovery can be had in case insured is legally executed for the commission of a crime, where the policy contains no provisions in reference thereto.[94]

Title insurance policies generally make actual eviction a condition precedent to recovery.[95]

Reformation of policy for mistake.[96]—In case of a mutual mistake of fact equity may reform the contract and enforce it as it was mutually intended to be made,[97] provided the evidence is clear, convincing, and satisfactory, and there is no

90, 91. See 4 C. L. 188.

92. The act will not then be deemed his, but will be regarded in law as an accidental killing. Masonic Life Ass'n v. Pollard's Guardian [Ky.] 89 S. W. 219. Company is not liable if insured had mind enough to know that the act would probably result in his death and acted with that intention. Instruction held erroneous. Id.

93. Rev. St. 1899. § 7896. Herzberg v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 110 Mo. App. 328, 85 S. W. 986.

94. This is a rule of public policy and the advantage to the insurance company is only incidental. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 353. Contract cannot be enforced under circumstances which could not be lawfully stipulated for. Id.

95. A condition that "no claim shall arise under the policy, unless the party insured has been actually evicted under an adverse title insured against," is not fulfilled by an adjudication that does not determine the title, as an adjudication on appeal that an order of an orphans' court, confirming a sale of the lands by an administrator to plaintiff be annulled and held for naught. Ocean View Land Co. v. West Jersey Title Guaranty Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 61 A. 83. Covers only eviction by process of law taken under legal proceedings. Id.

96. See 4 C. L. 187.

97. Where plaintiff claimed that by mistake the wrong building had been described in the policy, but the evidence showed that the company had no intention of insuring any other, the contract could not be reformed. Boyce v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 589. Where the policy provides that it shall be void in case there is other insurance thereon and there is such other insurance, it is proper for plaintiff in an action thereon to anticipate this defense and ask that it be reformed so as to permit other insurance in accordance with the actual agreement. If no defense is made, there is then no necessity for the correction, and question will not be tried. Kelly v. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 380. A separate action to reform is not necessary but plaintiff may in an action on the policy set up facts showing the mistake and on proof thereof recover the amount of his loss. Misdescription of building. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brannon [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 208, 89 S. W. 1057. Not necessary to specifically pray for a reformation. Id. Complaint alleging that contract as agreed to was one for the insurance of the property while in a particular building and that by mistake or fraud of defendant's agent, and without plaintiff's knowledge, agreement was misstated in policy, held sufficient to raise issue stated and to render evidence in regard thereto admissible. Id. Question whether agent assented to different contract from that stated in the policy must be determined from what he said and did in the negotiations, and not from any uncommunicated intentions. Id. Where negotiations for a contract of insurance, when reduced to writing, constituted a mere option, evidence that the agents of both parties understood it to be different, held insufficient to establish a mutual mistake warranting a reformation. Barker v. Pullman Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 70. Agreement by insurance company to renew defendant's policies, on their expiration, for three years at the same rate and signed by both parties, held to constitute a mere option which did not bind defendant to take the insurance. Barker v. Pullman Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 70, afg. 124 F. 555.

Evidence held to warrant reformation: As to name of insured and location of subject-matter of the risk. Phoenix Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 88 S. W. 917. By elimination of co-insurance clause. Gray v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 113 Ill. App. 537. So as to include provision for concurrent insurance omitted by oversight of agent. Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 377, 102 N. W. 120. Where the agent issued a fire insurance policy to the mortgagee personally, instead of to him as mortgagee in possession, as was intended, held that there was a mistake of fact authorizing reformation, whether the omission was the result of the agent's carelessness or arose out of a mistaken notion on his part that the policies as written were sufficient to express the understanding. Id.; Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127. Renewal policy issued to mortgagee personally without words of qualification instead of to him as mortgagee will be reformed where at time of procuring original policy defendant's agent was informed of the facts, informed that the mortgagee would take possession and put a man in charge to run the business, and insurance to protect mortgagee was substantial doubt as to the agreement.[98] The right to such relief is based on the principles of equity and not upon the doctrine of estoppel,[99] and defendant may show, if it can, that the policy correctly states the contract agreed upon, or that its agent never assented to the contract which plaintiff alleges was the true one.[1]

The fact that the insured accepts the policy without noticing the mistake does not necessarily preclude him from having it corrected,[2] though it may do so.[3]

The right to reformation may be lost by negligence,[4] and the suit must of course be brought within the time fixed by the statute of limitations.[4a] A previous unsuccessful action at law on the unreformed contract is no bar.[5]

§ 11. The beneficiary and the insured.[6]—In determining who are the beneficiaries designated by the policy, the ordinary rules for construing contracts apply.[7]

The beneficiary in a life policy can only be changed by compliance with the statute and the contract provisions in that regard, and with the consent of the company.[8] His rights become fixed on the issuance and acceptance of the policy and cannot be affected by the insured or the insurer except in the manner pro-asked for, and insured, relying upon knowledge of agent, did not read the policy. Knowledge of agent is that of the company. Dalton v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 125; Dalton v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 125; Dalton v. Providence-Washington Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 126. By elimination of warranty that premises were occupied exclusively for dwelling purposes by not more than two families. Schuessler v. Fire Ins. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 649. By inserting provision allowing concurrent insurance. Grand View Bldg. Ass'n v. Northern Assur. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 246. Evidence in equitable suit to reform held to show mutual mistake in attaching rider authorizing concurrent insurance in a less sum than intended. Farwell v. Home Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 93.

98. Gray v. Merchants Ins. Co., 113 Ill. App. 537; Farwell v. Home Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 93; Barker v. Pullman Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 70, afg. 124 F. 555. Evidence insufficient to warrant reversal of judgment refusing to strike out provision that policy should cover "farm implements," etc. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 565, 102 N. W. 502.

99. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brannon [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 208, 89 S. W. 1057.

1. Where policy insured property while in a particular building and plaintiff alleged that it was intended to insure it in another building, company not estopped to show that policy expressed true contract because agent knew true location. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brannon [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 208, 89 S. W. 1057.

2. Held not to have done so where agent declared, when he delivered it, that it was all right. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brannon [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 208, 89 S. W. 1057.

3. Fact that the agent failed to insert the street and number of insured's address, so that notice of accruing premiums should be sent there, held to afford no ground for the reformation of the application in the absence of any allegation or proof of fraud, or any explanation of the insured's failure to read and understand the application. Cowen v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 404.

4. Plaintiffs held not guilty of such negligence in failing to read policy and rider in regard to concurrent insurance before the fire as to preclude reformation. Farwell v. Home Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 93.

4a. Statute relative to actions on written contracts applies and not that applicable to actions for relief on the ground of fraud. Grand View Bldg. Ass'n v. Northern Assur. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 246.

5. A suit in equity to reform a policy and to recover on the policy so reformed may be maintained after an unsuccessful action at law on the unreformed contract. Grand View Bldg. Ass'n v. Northern Assur. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 246.

6. See 4 C. L. 189. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

7. Policy held to cover interests of both the purchaser of the property, to whom it was payable as his interest might appear, and mortgagee in whose name title was taken and insurance applied for. Loring v. Dutchess Ins. Co. [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1025. The proceeds of a policy payable to "my wife and the heirs of my body" go to the widow and children as individuals in equal shares and not to the personal representatives. Bramlett v. Mathis [S. C.] 50 S. E. 644.

8. Under a provision that no change shall take effect until indorsed on the policy by the company at its home office, no change can be accomplished until such conditions are fulfilled. Freund v. Freund, 218 Ill. 189, 75 N. E. 925. Signing by insured of printed forms requesting change which were prepared by company and furnished to him at branch office, held not to effect the change where the policy provided that insured might change beneficiary at any time by written notice to the company at its home office, such change to take effect on the indorsement of the same upon the policy by the company. Id. Under N. Y. Laws 1892, p. 2015, c. 690, § 211, requiring consent of insurer to change of beneficiaries. Id. The consent of the company to a change is not a merely ministerial act and hence, it not having been indorsed on the policy, equity will not decree a change on the theory that the insured has done everything required of him to effect it when he signs the application therefor. Id. The rights of the beneficiary become fixed at the death of the insured and

vided therein.[9] Thus if the insured mutilates the policy by adding the name of another beneficiary, the original beneficiary may show such mutilation and recover on the contract as originally made.[10] His interest is, however, subject to a right reserved to the insured by the policy to change the beneficiary.[11]

Where the policy provides that if the beneficiary is not living at the death of the insured the proceeds shall be payable to the latter's administrator, he takes any part of the proceeds which the beneficiary is incapable of taking.[12] Children to whom a policy on the life of their father is payable, if their mother is not living, have a vested interest in the proceeds subject to be divested if the mother survives the insured and on the death of one of the children after that of his mother, his interest descends to his heirs.[13]

By statute in many states policies on the life of a husband payable to his wife are her sole and separate property free from the control or disposition of her husband.[14] In New York a policy payable to a married woman or to her and her children may be disposed of by her by will if she dies before it becomes due leaving no children or issue of deceased children.[15]

A gratuitous policy of life insurance is a donation of movables within the meaning of the Louisiana statute rendering persons living together in open concubinage incapable of donating to each other movables in excess of one-tenth part of the whole value of their respective estates,[16] and such policy is void as to such ex-are not affected by any change contemplated but not perfected by insured according to the terms of the policy and the statutes. Laws N. Y. 1892, p. 2015, c. 690, § 211. The provisions of the policy and the statute cannot be waived by the company after insured's death. Id. A provision that the insured "may with the consent of the company at any time assign it, or before assignment change the beneficiary," and requiring written notice of an assignment to be given to the company, does not require that the company be given notice of a change of the beneficiary or that it consent thereto. Howe v. Fidelity Trust Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 521. A trust document executed by the insured, appointing a trustee to administer the proceeds of the policy, held to amount to a change of beneficiary and not to be an assignment, and was valid without the company's consent. Id.

Where an insurance policy was made payable to the wife of insured, in conformity with statutory provisions, so as to be subject to her disposition in case of her death without issue, an agreement by the insurer, on her death without issue, to pay the policy to insured's estate in consideration of his payment of future premiums, did not estop insurer from denying liability to his estate. Bradshaw v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 780.

9. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Dees, 27 Ky. L. R. 670, 86 S. W. 522.

10. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Dees, 27 Ky. L. R. 670, 86 S. W. 522. As where father mutilates life policy taken out for the benefit of his daughter, by the insertion of a minor son as a co-beneficiary, notwithstanding he had a right to change the beneficiary with consent of the insurer. Instructions held too favorable to defendant. Id.

11. Howe v. Fidelity Trust Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 521.

12. Takes the nine-tenths which the beneficiary, being the concubine of the insured, is incapable of taking under La. Civ. Code, art. 1481. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Neal [La.] 38 So. 485.

13. Proceeds of policy payable to Insured's wife if living, and if not to their children, held, on the death of the wife and one of their two children before that of the insured, to belong one-half to the surviving child and the other half to the children of the deceased child. Michigan Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Basler [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 159, 103 N. W. 596.

14. Rev. St. 1898, § 2347. Wife may sue for repudiation of policy payable to her if she survives the Insured or if not then to his heirs, without joining him as a plaintiff. Merrick v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 593. Neither this statute nor Rev. St. 1878, § 2347, to same effect, renders wife's interest nonassignable. Canterbury v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1096.

15. A life policy payable to the wife "for her sole use, if living, in conformity with the statute, and if not living, to their children or their guardian for their use," was within Laws 1840, p. 59, c. 80, as amended by Laws 1870, p. 612, c. 227, and Laws 1873, p. 1234, c. 821, relative to policies payable to married women, and in case of her death before her husband, passed under the residuary clause of her will, notwithstanding the fact that it was procured by the husband who paid all the premiums thereon and kept it in his possession (Statute since superseded by Laws 1896, c. 272, p. 215). Bradshaw v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 780.

16. Within Civ. Code, art. 1481. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Neal [La.] 38 So. 485. The gratuity as to nine-tenths is prohibited in any form, whether as a donation, a gratuitous stipulation pour autrui, or in the form of an insurance policy, and hence the policy cess.[17] It being established that the beneficiary was the concubine of the insured, a married man, the burden is on her to show a legal consideration.[18] There is, however, no donation where the concubine herself pays the premiums on a policy on the life of the insured in accordance with its provisions, but in such case she is the owner of the policy and is entitled to the proceeds, to the exclusion of his collateral kin.[19]

Rights of employe under employer's liability policy.[20]—In case a judgment for injuries against one having an employer's liability policy is not paid, on account of the insolvency of the insured, there is no privity of contract between the insurer and the judgment creditor through the insurance contract, that being a matter between the insurer and insured only.[21]

Rights of mortgagee.[22]—In the absence of a provision therein to the contrary,[23] if the policy is issued to the owner, the loss if any being payable to a mortgagee or other third person as his interest may appear, the insurance is to be deemed as running to the owner, and any act of his which would avoid the policy as against him will prevent a recovery by the mortgagee, though he is ignorant of the violation of the contract and does not consent thereto.[24] The only right acquired by the mortgagee is a right to receive so much of any sum as may become due under the policy as does not exceed his interest as mortgagee.[25] This is paris not rendered valid by regarding it as a stipulation pour autrui. Id.

17. Under Civ. Code, art. 12, providing that whatever is done in violation of a prohibitory law is void, although the nullity be not formally directed. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Neal [La.] 38 So. 485. Beneficiary in endowment policy, who was concubine of the insured, the latter being a married man and leaving children without support, held entitled to only one-tenth of the proceeds, it appearing that the insured had no property. Id.

18. Presumption is that it was gratuitous. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Neal [La.] 38 So. 485. Evidence held not to show that insured was indebted to the beneficiary. Id.

19. But where the concubine paid all the premiums, as was stipulated with the insurer, rendered faithful service to the deceased and provided him with decent burial, he not expending a cent on the policy, it was not a donation to her, but her own investment, and she was entitled to the proceeds to the exclusion of the insured's collateral kin. Particularly where he was unmarried and left no forced heirs. Succession of Johnson [La.] 38 So. 880.

20. See 4 C. L. 190.

21. Burke v. London Guarantee & Acc. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 652.

22. See 4 C. L. 191. For rights of mortgagee as to appraisal of loss, see § 20, post. Subrogation of insurer to rights of mortgagee, see § 23, post.

23. Where a mortgage clause provides that the insurance shall not be invalidated as to the mortgagee by any act or neglect of the mortgagor, the insured, nor by any change in the title or ownership of the property, the mortgagee is not affected by the mortgagor's failure to give notice to the company of a change in title as required by the policy, and can only be called upon to give such notice himself after having acquired knowledge of the change. Southern Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 88. Notice in the proof of loss held sufficient where it did not appear that mortgagee knew of the change prior to that time. Id.

24. Welch v. British American Assur. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 964. Such an indorsement commonly called an open mortgage clause does not bring the mortgagee and the insurer into contractual relations with each other, but the contract remains one exclusively between the insurer and the property owner. Collinsville Sav. Soc. v. Boston Ins. Co., 77 Conn. 676, 60 A. 647. Mortgagee's right to take is limited to insurer's liability under the policy, and the policy may become forfeited and the mortgagee deprived of all protection thereunder by any act or default of the property owner before the loss. Id. In the absence of some provision to the contrary, does not create a new contract of insurance with the payee, or abrogate or waive any condition of the policy. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497. Where a policy is void as to the assured for a violation of the condition against other insurance, it is also void as to one, not being a mortgagee, to whom, by subsequent agreement "any loss or damage ascertained and proved to be due the insured" is made payable as his interest may appear. Heyl v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 118.

25. Is not the "insured" within the meaning of the provision for appraisal of the loss, but owner has full power in that regard, and his acceptance of the award binds mortgagee, though latter had nothing to do with it. Collinsville Sav. Soc. v. Boston Ins. Co., 77 Conn. 676, 60 A. 647. Is not an assignment of the policy and does not divest the insured of his title; it is only a conditional appointment that if the mortgage debt is unpaid at the date of loss the money shall go to the mortgagee. Staats v. Georgia Home Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 815. Is a ticularly true when the indorsement is made subject to the conditions of the policy, in which event a loss to be payable to the mortgagees must be one which, under the conditions of the policy, would be payable to the insured in the absence of such indorsement, and whatever would defeat the insured's right to payment in the absence of such indorsement, will still defeat it.[26] Thus where the policy provides that it cannot be modified or any provision thereof waived except in writing, an indorsement making the loss payable to third persons as their interest may appear does not either in terms or by implication consent to an incumbrance created by a chattel mortgage in favor of such persons, or prevent a forfeiture of the policy for the giving of such a mortgage without the company's consent.[27] The appointment of such persons to receive the loss is not inconsistent with the prohibition against chattel mortgages, since it is not necessary that there be such a mortgage, in order to make the appointment valid, or to give the appointees an interest in the loss.[28] It has been held that where the policy contains a further provision to the effect that if, with the consent of the company, any interest shall exist in favor of a mortgagee, the conditions of the policy shall apply in the manner expressed in such provisions and conditions of insurance relating to such interest as shall be written upon, attached, or appended to the policy, the interest of the mortgagee is freed from all conditions not repeated at the time of the creation of that interest by being at that time again, in substance at least, written upon the policy, or attached or appended thereto.[29] There seems, however, to be some conflict of authority in this regard.[30]

The phrase "as his interest may appear" does not refer to the mortgagee's interest in the property, but to the amount of the mortgage debt,[31] and to such interest in the payment of the loss as may appear when it occurs, without regard to the character of the interest or the time when it may have arisen.[32]

The mortgagee's right of recovery is limited by the extent of his interest in the property,[33] the provisions of the loss payable clause,[34] and the amount of mere appointee for that purpose. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497.

26. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497. Such provision and provisions in the policy as to waiver must be read together. Id.

27. Indorsement did not mention mortgage, describe appointees as mortgagees, or show that attention of parties was called to the existence of the mortgage. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497. Allegations of complaint held to mean nothing more than that consent to chattel mortgage was given at time and place when and where provision making policy payable to mortgagees was indorsed on policy and by agents who made the indorsement. Id.

28. Particularly where they were both creditors of the insured and mortgagees of his realty. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497.

29. Where provision was indorsed on policy that loss should be payable to mortgagee, subsequent sale of premises by mortgagor in violation of a condition of the policy, held not to prevent recovery by mortgagee. Welch v. British Am. Assur. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 964. Subsequent provisions in policy that it is "made subject to the foregoing stipulations and conditions, together with such other provisions, agreements, or conditions as may be endorsed hereon, or added hereto" and that no privilege or permission affecting the insurance shall ever be claimed by the insured unless written on or attached to the policy do not change the rule. Word "insured" held not to mean the mortgagee. Id.

30. Award of appraisers accepted by mortgagor held binding on mortgagee, though policy contained the provision last quoted. Collinsville Savings Soc. v. Boston Ins. Co., 77 Conn. 676, 60 A. 647.

31. Brown v. Commercial Fire Ins. Co., 21 App. D. C. 325.

32. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497.

33. Where mortgage is a lien on the realty only, his right is limited to amount of insurance on building, and he has no interest in that on personalty contained therein. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287.

34. Where policies insured buildings and their contents under separate valuations and were indorsed "Loss, if any, on buildings, payable" to a mortgagee as his interest may appear, he was not entitled to any of the insurance on the "contents." Contract held severable. Miller v. Gibbs, 95 N. Y. S. 385.

the mortgage debt,[35] which latter is prima facie determinable from the record of the mortgage;[36] but a mortgagee who is also a trustee may recover the full amount of the policy.[37] The insured is not deprived of his right to sue on the policy,[38] and the mortgagee may maintain an action at law thereon in his own name when the amount of the mortgage debt exceeds the value of the insurance and the mortgage covers all the property destroyed.[39]

In Porto Rico the avails of insurance on mortgaged property, and the crops growing thereon when the policy is issued, inure to the benefit of a mortgagee whose interest is acquired before loss, and he may sue to enforce his rights therein without an assignment or transfer of the policy to him by the mortgagor.[40] He need not first exhaust his remedies against the other property embraced in the mortgage.[41]

Insurance by bailee or agent.[42]

§ 12. Policy value in cash or loans before loss.[43]—It has been held that certificates in endowment associations have a surrender value on the insolvency of the company in the same manner as ordinary policies of insurance.[44]

§ 13. Options and privileges under policy.[45]—Policies frequently provide that, on default in the payment of premiums after they have been in force for a certain number of years, the insured's share of the reserve fund shall be applied on the amount due,[46] or shall be used to purchase extended insurance.[47] A pro-

35. Where mortgagee insures solely on his own account, if loss occurs before extinguishment of debt the insurer is bound to pay him the amount of such debt, not to exceed the amount of the policy. Baker v. Monumental Sav. & Loan Ass'n [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 403. Where policy issued to mortgagee in possession of a stock of goods is renewed at end of first year, thus indicating that the insurer expected store to continue as a going concern, it cannot contend that he had no interest in the property at the time of the fire on the ground that his debt has been paid by the receipt of the proceeds of sales more than equaling the amount thereof, it appearing that he has, with the consent of the mortgagor, replenished the stock from time to time, and has applied only the net proceeds to the payment of his claim. Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 377, 102 N. W. 120; Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127.

36. Policy is prima facie payable to him to the extent of the mortgage debt as it appears from the records notwithstanding a renewal of the mortgage subsequent to the issue of the policy. Continental Ins. Co. v. Thomason, 27 Ky. L. R. 158, 84 S. W. 546.

37. Chattel mortgage. Wheaton v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850. Where a chattel deed of trust stipulates that the chattels shall be kept insured for the better security of the debt, and the policy is delivered to the trustee, he has an equitable lien upon the proceeds of the insurance. Brown v. Commercial Fire Ins. Co., 21 App. D. C. 325. Trustee in a chattel trust deed, by the delivery to him of the policy, and its indorsement as payable to him as his interest may appear becomes the assignee of the policy, and not merely an appointee to receive payment. Id. His right is not affected by the fact that indorsement was made after the loss, though it was antedated. Id. Judgment in such case will protect the insurer which has no concern with possible claims of mortgagees or unsecured creditors who might impress trust on part of the insurance. Id.

38. Staats v. Georgia Howe Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 815.

39. Brown v. Commercial Fire Ins. Co., 21 App. D. C. 325.

40. Avails of insurance on sugar and molasses coming into the sugar house on a sugar plantation as the result of the manufacture of a crop growing on mortgaged realty when the insurance was effected inure to the benefit of the mortgagee if the loss occurred after the execution of the mortgage particularly when the mortgage covers both the realty and the fruits thereof, and he may sue to enforce his rights therein without an assignment or transfer of the policy to him by the mortgagor. Under Mortgage Law of 1880, art. 118, and Mortgage Law of 1893, art. 110, providing that mortgage shall cover crops growing, or harvested but not yet removed and warehoused, when the mortgage falls due, and indemnities due the mortgagor for insurance of the realty or the crops. Royal Ins. Co. v. Miller, 26 S. Ct. 46. The fact that the Spanish law gives a summary remedy to enforce a mortgage does not prevent the mortgagee from suing in the ordinary way to enforce the application of the proceeds of the policy to the payment of his mortgage. Id.

41. In Porto Rico. Royal Ins. Co. v. Miller, 26 S. Ct. 46.

42. See 4 C. L. 192.

43. See 4 C. L. 193.

44. Gilbert v. Endowment Assn., 21 App. D. C. 344.

45. See 4 C. L. 193.

46. Under policy providing for equitable division of reserve fund every five years in the form of a bond, and that policy of any vision for extended insurance "after the policy has been in force three full years" has no application where the insured fails to pay a quarterly instalment of the third year's insurance and the insurance ceases.[48]

Under a policy providing that, on default after the payment of a certain number of premiums, the insured shall be entitled to a paid up policy provided he makes a demand therefor and surrenders his policy within a specified time, the time of making the demand is not of the essence of the contract, and the insured, or the beneficiary after his death, may make it within a reasonable time.[49] The rule is different, however, where the policy further provides that on his failure to surrender it within the time specified the reserve shall be used in the purchase of extended or term insurance, since in such case the insured has two options and is bound to elect between them.[50] In Kentucky five years is held to be a reasonable time in which to make such demand.[51] A surrender or an offer to surrender the lapsed policy is not essential where, upon demand, the company unconditionally refuses to issue a paid up one on the ground that the policy is valueless and no longer in force.[52] The New York statute requiring a demand and a surrender of the policy to be made within six months after forfeiture has no extraterritorial operation.[53] In Kentucky the holder of a life policy is not entitled to any part of the reserve fund while the policy remains in force or until it is surrendered to the company.[54] member who had paid premiums in advance when due without using any portion of his accumulations in such fund should be nonforfeitable for nonpayment of premiums until all his share therein had been exhausted for that purpose, held, that plaintiff, who had paid premiums for ten years had right to have bonds issued at end of five years applied to payment of premium which he did not pay when due, even though no bonds had been issued to him at the end of the ten-year period. Kelly v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 601.

47. Premiums having been paid for five years, held that, under the contract, if there was anything in the guaranty fund on the day when a premium became due and not paid which had not been used to keep the premiums level, 80 per cent. thereof must be applied to extend the insurance. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. King, 216 Ill. 416, 75 N. E. 166. Where policy provided that certain portion of premiums was to be used to form guaranty fund, and company failed, on notice, to produce its books showing amount of premiums received, held, that it was competent for plaintiff to show cost of insurance by company's sworn reports to two states, the actual mortality reported, and the estimated mortality based on tables in general use, as tending to show that there was sufficient money in the fund to carry the policy to the date of insured's death. Id. Admissions of defendant's officers that general mortality had never exceeded expected mortality held admissible. Id. Evidence that agent told beneficiary when policy was taken out that it was the best kind of a policy because it was nonforfeitable after five years, and that another agent subsequently told her that he had been sent to take up the policy and could give her a better rate if she would take a straight 10-year policy in lieu thereof, held irrelevant and immaterial. Id.

48. Letzler's Adm'r v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 372, 85 S. W. 177.

49. Under a policy providing that, on default after the payment of premiums for a specified period, the insured shall be entitled to a paid-up nonparticipating stock policy provided he returns his policy and applies therefor within a specified time, and that otherwise the policy shall be void except as to the legal reserve at the end of the last policy year for which the entire premium has been paid, which shall be paid after satisfactory proof of the death of the insured, a failure to demand a paid-up policy within the time specified does not forfeit insured's right to a paid-up policy. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Sugg, 27 Ky. L. R. 846, 86 S. W. 967.

50. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Sugg, 27 Ky. L. R. 846, 86 S. W. 967.

51. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Sugg, 27 Ky. L. R. 846, 86 S. W. 967. Demand for a paid-up policy must be made within five years after default in the payment of premiums, but, the demand having been made in time, an action to compel the issuance of the policy may be brought on the written contract at any time within fifteen years after the cause of action accrues. Barrett v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 586, 85 S. W. 749. There is no laches where the action is brought within the time limited by the statute. Id.

52. Barrett v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 586, 85 S. W. 749.

53. N. Y. Laws 1892, p. 1969, c. 690. Barrett v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 586, 85 S. W. 749.

54. Under St. 1903, § 559, requiring surrender of policy by insured in order to entitle him to the cash surrender value of the policy, and Id. § 659, subd. 3, making it optional with the company, in case of industrial policies where the weekly premiums are less than 50 cents each, to pay the cash

By statute in some states life policies on which a certain number of premiums have been paid become nonforfeitable for subsequent nonpayment, the net value of the policy at the time of default being used to purchase temporary insurance or a paid up policy.[55] The premiums paid by the assured is the basis to be adopted for ascertaining such net value.[56] No allowance need be made for future charges except such as the statute provides.[57] The period for which the policy is continued in force is to be calculated from the date of the policy and not from the date of the lapse.[58] Such provisions do not ordinarily apply to assessment insurance,[59] but the inclusion of an accident clause in a policy does not prevent its being a "policy of insurance on life."[60]

§ 14. Assignments and transfers of benefits or insurance.[61] Life insurance.[62]—There is a conflict of authority as to the validity of an assignment to one having no insurable interest in the life of the insured,[63] but all courts unite in holding such an assignment void where the transaction is a mere wager.[64] The defense of want of insurable interest cannot be raised in a contest between rival assignees,[65] nor can the assignor question the validity of the assignment because it is not made in the manner required by the policy.[66] In case the assignment is surrender value or to issue a paid-up policy, and releasing it from further liability on doing either. Jenkins v. Sun Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 1142, 87 S. W. 1143.

55. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 7897, no policies of insurance on life can be forfeited after the payment of three annual premiums thereon for nonpayment of premiums, but net value of policy at time of default shall be computed on actuaries' or combined experience tables of mortality, with four per cent. interest per annum, and after deducting from three-fourths of such net value any notes or other evidences of indebtedness to the company, the balance shall be taken as a net single premium for temporary insurance for the full amount written in the policy. Moore v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 988. Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 7897. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285. Where declaration on life policy counted on statute providing that after policy had been in force for three years the reserve thereof, in case of default, computed with the surrender value, should be taken as a single premium and be applied to continue the policy in force or purchase temporary insurance, held, that finding that replication to a plea to such count was not sustained by the evidence, was not a finding that there was nothing in the guaranty fund, and hence was not inconsistent with a finding in plaintiff's favor. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. King, 216 Ill. 416, 75 N. E. 166.

56. Policy must be looked to for this purpose. Moore v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 988.

57. The effect of the statute is to create a paid-up policy and hence no allowance need be made for future charges, other than that made by the statute in allowing the company one-fourth of the net value, and in providing (§ 7899) that the company shall have the right to deduct from the amount insured in the policy the amount compounded at six per cent. per annum of all premiums that have been foreborne at the time of the decease including the whole of the year's premium in which the death occurs. Moore v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 988.

58. Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Adler [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 835. Paragraph of complaint alleging payment of four premiums held good on demurrer as showing an extension of insurance for over 10 years under the nonforfeiture law. Id.

59. Do not under Mo. Rev. St. 1899, § 7910. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285.

60. Within Rev. St. 1899, § 7897, providing for extended insurance. Moore v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 988.

61. See 4 C. L. 193. See Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

62. See 4 C. L. 193.

63. See 4 C. L. 193, n. 3, et seq., also 4 C. L. 236.

Alabama: An assignment by the insured to one having no insurable interest in his life is void as a wager policy. Troy v. London [Ala.] 39 So. 713.

64. Irrespective of whether the holder of a policy on his own life may legally sell and assign it to one having no insurable interest in his life, he cannot make it the subject-matter of a wagering and speculative contract between himself and a person having no interest therein. Quillian v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801. Assignment of policy to one having no insurable interest under agreement whereby the assignee was to pay a past due premium, and assignment and policy were left in hands of third person for 90 days, during which time the assignor was to have the privilege of repaying the premium, in which event the policy and assignment were to be returned to him, but in case he failed to do so then the policy was to go to the assignee, and in case the assignor should die within the 90 days then the assignee was to have the policy on payment of certain sums to the assignee's children and certain notes, held a wagering contract and vold. Id.

65. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Tucker [R. I.] 61 A. 142. Public policy does not require the court to interpose the defense declared to be illegal the assignee may recover the amount of premiums paid,[67] and any other payments made for the insured's benefit under the terms of the agreement.[68] In case the insured deposits the policy and an assignment thereof with a third person, in pursuance of the terms of a wagering contract, his executor may recover it under the statute authorizing the recovery of money lost under a gambling contract.[69]

Mere naked possession of the policy is not evidence of ownership, but in the absence of a written assignment the holder must show that he is the bona fide owner and the manner in which he became such.[70]

An assignment of a policy as collateral security vests in the assignee a title sufficient to enable him to collect the proceeds thereof,[71] yet it does not divest the assignor of the general property in the policy, and he still has title thereto subject to the assignee's lien.[72] The assignee may ordinarily enforce the collection of the security to the full amount, holding any surplus above the amount due him for the persons equitably entitled thereto.[73] Before the assignor has a right to control or in any way interfere with its collection he must allege the insolvency of the assignee, or fraud committed or about to be committed by him, or some other substantial reason.[74] A tender of the debt extinguishes the assignee's lien, and entitles the assignor to the possession of the collateral.[75] So too, where the assignee has been paid more than the amount of his debt by the insurance company and declares to the assignor his intention to collect and appropriate the amount remaining due on the policy contrary to his agreement, and the company, being informed of that fact, agrees to hold the balance due on the policy until legally authorized to dispose of the same, the insured has a right of action at law against the company.[76] One to whom a policy in a mutual assessment company is assigned as collateral security takes the same subject to the rules and by-laws of the company and is not entitled to notice of the time of payment of premiums required by them to be given to the insured.[77]

In states where the statute makes a policy payable to a married woman her sole and separate property, she and the insured may assign it without the company's consent.[78] Where the charter of a mutual company provides that a policy for the benefit of insured's wife or children shall not be held or made liable for his debts, a paid-up policy cannot, without consent of the beneficiaries, be assigned to the company as security for a loan,[79] notwithstanding a provision in the policy that it may be assigned at any time with the consent of the company.[80] of want of insurable interest but only to be satisfied that the contract is not a mere wager. Id.

66. Because not indorsed on the policy. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Tucker [R. I.] 61 A. 142.

67. Quillian v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801.

68. Entitled to be reimbursed out of proceeds of policy for sums paid in satisfaction of notes of the assignor which the agreement required him to pay in case of the assignor's death. Quillian v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801.

69. Under Code 1895, § 3671. May maintain equitable action to prevent the assignee from collecting the policy, on the happening of the event which, under the contract, makes the assignment absolute. Quillian v. Johnson [Ga.] 49 S. E. 801.

70. Cuyler v. Wallace [N. Y.] 76 N. E. 1; Cuyler v. Wallace, 101 App. Div. 207, rvg, 91 N. Y. S. 690. Son having assigned policy, payable to his representatives, to his father, latter will be presumed to continue to own it until the contrary is shown, and the mere fact that the son was in possession of the policy, claiming to be the owner thereof prior to the father's death, is insufficient to show a reassignment to him. Id. Possession by son raises no presumption of oral reassignment for a valuable consideration. Id.

71, 72, 73, 74, 75. Clark v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 133 F. 816.

76. Particularly when the liability to pay on the policy is not in dispute. Clark v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 133 F. 816.

77. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. American Nat. Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 789.

78. Rev. St. 1878, § 2347; amd. Laws 1889, p. 299, c. 271, § 1; Laws 1901, p. 482, c. 376. Canterbury v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1096, and cases cited.

A provision in an assignment of a paid-up policy to the company as collateral security for a loan that, upon failure to pay the principal or interest of the loan, the company may cancel the policy and apply its cash surrender value to the payment of the loan and interest, is a forfeiture in the nature of a mere penalty for the nonpayment of borrowed money, and hence unenforceable.[81]

In Illinois an insurance policy is not negotiable either by common law or by statute, so as to vest the title in the assignee,[82] and suit thereon must be brought in the name of the assignor for the use of the assignee.[83] All defenses can be interposed to such an action which could have been if the name of the assignee were eliminated.[84]

Policies having an inchoate value pass to the insured's trustee in bankruptcy though they have no cash surrender value.[85] So do policies having no technical cash surrender value at the time of the adjudication but which have a surrender value in which the bankrupt has a contingent interest.[86]

Fire insurance.[87]—Policies of fire insurance are not in their nature assignable before loss without the express consent of the company, and such an attempted assignment puts an end to the contract independently of prohibitory conditions therein.[88] Provisions requiring such consent and prescribing the manner in which it may be obtained, are valid and must be complied with.[89] A clause prohibiting the assignment of the policy before loss is not violated by its transfer and delivery as collateral security for a debt,[90] and a subsequent refusal by the insurer to

79. Act March 19, 1878 (Acts 1877-78, p. 640, c. 545) § 6, construed. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Twyman [Ky.] 89 S. W. 178.

80. Such provision is repugnant to the constitution and void. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Twyman [Ky.] 89 S. W. 178.

81. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Twyman [Ky.] 89 S. W. 178. Particularly where the policy does not provide for the surrender of the policy for its paid-up or cash surrender value, or for a loan thereon from the company to the insured, and the company's charter provides that a policy payable to the insured's wife and children shall not be made liable for his debts. Id.

82, 83. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

84. Words "for the use of" the assignee are mere surplusage. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

85. Policies having a collateral loan value and paid-up insurance value. Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 70, subd. 5, 30 Stat. 565 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3451), authorizing a bankrupt to retain policies by paying their cash surrender value to the trustee, does not by implication change this rule. In re Coleman [C. C. A.] 136 F. 818.

Note: In Holden v. Stratton, 198 U. S. 202, 49 Law. Ed. 1018, supreme court intimates but does not expressly decide that policies "having a cash surrender value" include policies having a cash value which would be recognized and paid by the insurer on surrender of the policy, though no stipulation as to surrender value is contained therein.

86. Where policy had no cash surrender value, but the insurer voluntarily agreed to pay a certain sum for it, upon a release from the insured and his wife, the bankrupt's interest was assignable and his trustee could sell it and have the bankrupt assign the same. In re Coleman [C. C. A.] 136 F. 818.

87. See 4 C. L. 195.

88. The transfer by one corporation to another of all its insured property, together with the policy, the original corporation continuing its existence, gives the transferee no rights under the policy, in the absence of the insurer's assent to the assignment, particularly where the policy provides that an assignment without the company's consent shall render it void. Miles Lamp Chimney Co. v. Erie Fire Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 107. It appearing that the old corporation still remains in existence, it must appear that the new one has in some lawful way succeeded to its rights in the policy before it can sue thereon. Id.

89. Where assignee of company failed to sign and forward necessary application for the company's consent as required until after the property was destroyed, held that he could not recover. Hall v. Continental Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 99, 84 S. W. 519. Under provision that policy might be transferred or assigned by obtaining the consent of the secretary, and that any transfer or assignment made without such consent expressed in writing should forfeit all benefits under the policy, held, that policy was forfeited on sale of insured's interest unless it was transferred in the manner specified. Bennett v. Mutual Fire Ins. Co. [Md.] 60 A. 99. Where an averment that a policy of reinsurance procured by a town mutual company has been assigned to plaintiff in due form by order of its board of directors is not denied in the answer, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that such board had authority to make the assignment. Cass County v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 237.

90. Scottish Union & Nat. Ins. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 667, 89 S. W. 419.

attach a loss payable clause in no way affects the insured's right to make such transfer.[91] An agreement to assign a policy as collateral security for a loan will operate as an equitable assignment though it is not delivered when issued nor actually assigned until after loss, when the borrower is insolvent.[92]

After loss the policy may be assigned without the consent of the company and without in anyway affecting its liability,[93] notwithstanding a provision therein to the contrary.[94] The assignee simply stands in the shoes of the assignor, and any valid defense which could be set up against the insured is available against the assignee.[95] He is not bound by a subsequent adjustment of the loss made by the insurer with the assignor.[96]

§ 15. Change or substitution of contract, or risk, or of conditions thereupon.[97]—Although in writing the policy may be changed or modified by parol, notwithstanding a provision therein to the contrary.[98] The acts of the agent in this regard are binding on the company, if within the general scope of his authority.[99]

An agent authorized to consent to the removal of the insured property may do so orally, and the fact that the rate is greater in the new location will not relieve the company from liability provided the insured agrees and holds himself in readiness to pay the additional premium, it being the agent's duty to ascertain the increased rate and demand the same.[1]

When a member of a life association ratifies the transfer of its assets and obligations to another company, he thereby ceases to be a member of the retiring company and releases it from further liability.[2]

§ 16. Rescission, forfeiture, cancellation and avoidance. A. By agreement.[3]—The insured's rights are fixed by the contract and he cannot be deprived of them without his consent, except in the manner prescribed thereby.[4] Conditions imposed upon the insurer with respect to giving notice of cancellation will be

91. Company cannot without insured's consent insert additional provisions in the policy after it has been issued. Scottish Union & Nat. Ins. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 667, 89 S. W. 419.

92. Assignee has lien and assignment after loss is not fraudulent preference so as to constitute act of bankruptcy. Wilder v. Watts, 138 F. 426.

93. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901; Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Borchardt & Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 429. Civ. Code, § 2102, prohibiting transfers without the consent of the company, applies only to assignments before loss, and § 2105 expressly provides that a transfer after loss does not affect the liability of the insurer. Id. Words "subject to the consent" of the company in assignment held mere surplusage, and the result of inadvertence. Id.

94. Such conditions are null and void, as inconsistent with the covenant of indemnity and contrary to public policy. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Borchardt & Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 429.

95. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Borchardt & Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 429.

96. Unless the assignor acted as his authorized agent. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Borchardt & Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 429.

97. See 4 C. L. 196.

98. Provision prohibiting parol modification is a part of the contract and hence it may be changed the same as any other part. German-American Ins. Co. v. Yellow Poplar Lumber Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 105, 84 S. W. 551. The "clear space" clause in a policy of insurance on lumber may be abrogated by agreement, prior to loss, in consideration of an increased premium. Id. Act of agent in abrogating such clause held not a waiver but an additional contract based upon a valuable consideration, and binding on the company, Id. Preponderance of evidence held to sustain finding that abrogation of "clear-space clause" in policy covering lumber was made before the loss. Id.

99. Bound by act of agent, who was authorized to accept risks, countersign, issue and deliver policies, renew risks, and receive premiums, in abrogating clear-space clause in policy covering lumber in consideration of an increased premium. German-American Ins. Co. v. Yellow Poplar Lumber Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 105, 84 S. W. 551.

1. Cooper v. German-American Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 687.

2. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Hare. 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 348, 26 Ohio C. C. 197.

3. See 4 C. L. 196.

4. Mortgagee held to have had no authority to cancel policy as against the insured, particularly where no notice was given to the latter, and there was no offer to return the unearned premium. Peterson v. Hartford Fire Ins. Co., 111 Ill. App. 466.

strictly construed[5] and must be strictly complied with.[6] Where the required notice is given and the insured agrees to the cancellation and that the unearned premium may be applied on other policies, the policy is canceled though it is not surrendered until after the fire, and the premium is not returned.[7] The transmission to the insured of the fact of cancellation, by a special agent of the insurer authorized to cancel on notice, is final, and a subsequent arrangement between him and the insured to let the policy stand is immaterial because a new discretionary act beyond such agent's power.[8]

An unauthorized or fraudulent cancellation is void,[9] and is not ratified by any act or statement of the insured, without full knowledge of the facts.[10]

A cancellation by the company on the request of an agent of the insured having express or implied authority in the premises is valid.[11] An agent, authorized by a corporation to act in its behalf in all matters pertaining to the insurance of its property, cannot delegate his power to cancel policies and make substitutions to another, without his principal's consent, express or implied.[12] An agent of the company may be the agent of the insured for the purpose of selecting the companies in which the insurance shall be placed,[13] and a cancellation and substitution by him is valid, though made without notice, where the insured ratifies his action as soon as he learns of it.[14]

5. Where the policy provides for its cancellation on the giving of five days notice to the assured, and describes the owner as the assured, a mortgagee to whom the loss is payable as his interest may appear cannot surrender the policy for cancellation even though she has possession of it, and notice to her is insufficient. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204.

6. Held that under terms of policy it could not be canceled without giving five days notice to the insured. Not by secret agreement between company and creditor of insured to whom policy was made payable as his interest might appear. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. Georgia Industrial Co. [Ga.] 52 S. E. 289. Company cannot cancel a policy upon its own volition, without notice, where the policy provides for notice. Fowler Cycle Works v. Western Ins. Co., 111 Ill. App. 631. Notice of cancellation served on plaintiff held sufficient and not to have been rendered conditional by expression of opinion therein that companies would remain on risk if certain objectionable clauses were removed. Colonial Assur. Co. v. National Fire Ins. Co., 110 Ill. App. 471. Service on plaintiff of letter of defendant company to its agent directing the latter to cancel its policies of reinsurance held "a notice of cancellation" sufficient to meet the requirements of the policies in that respect, and terminate the liability five days thereafter. Id. Even if it could be construed as a cancellation only on condition that objectionable provisions were not removed within a reasonable time, such time will not, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, be regarded as extending the time beyond that fixed by the policy in which the notice shall take effect. Id.

7. Though not surrendered until day after the fire eleven days later. Citizens' Ins. Co. v. Henderson Elevator Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 151, 84 S. W. 580.

8. Colonial Assur. Co. v. National Fire Ins. Co., 110 Ill. App. 471.

9. Where the agent embezzles the premium and in order to conceal that fact subsequently obtains the policy from a mortgagee having custody of it, and without the knowledge or consent of the insured, substitutes another policy therefor, the latter is not a valid contract. Peterson v. Hartford Fire Ins. Co., 111 Ill. App. 466. Retention of premium not an application of it on second policy, where it does not appear that he made even a nominal application of it or had authority to so apply it. Id.

10. Where through the fraud of the agent a policy was surrendered and canceled and another fraudulently substituted, held, that the cancellation was not ratified by the insured's statement, at the instance of the agent, that he had no insurance with the first company, nor by the commencement of action against both companies, since the rights of the parties were fixed when the loss occurred. Peterson v. Hartford Fire Ins. Co., 111 Ill. App. 466.

11. The possession of a policy by a broker implies authority to procure its cancellation; but this implication is rebutted where the company is at the time informed that he has ceased to be the agent of the insured. Fowler Cycle Works v. Western Ins. Co., 111 Ill. App. 631. Letter revoking broker's agency in all respects except that he was to complete work of taking out additional insurance held not to give him implied authority to cancel policies. Id.

12. Cannot delegate authority to cancel and substitute policies and waive notice of cancellation. Insurance Co. v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 794. Broker held to have no express authority to cancel or substitute policies (Id.), nor was he clothed with implied authority to do so by a course of dealing (Id.), or by custom (Id.).

13. Phoenix Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 88 S. W. 917.

14. Where insured enters into agreement with an insurance agent to keep his property insured not specifying the companies he makes such agent his agent for the selection

(§ 16) B. For breach of contract, condition, or warranty, or misrepresentation.[15]—The company having assumed the risk of loss and received the consideration therefor can escape liability only by showing that the insured was guilty of some act or omission which in some way contributed to the loss, or which was in violation of the plain and unequivocal terms of the contract.[16] Though forfeitures are not favored they will be enforced unless the party by whose fault they are incurred can show some good ground in the conduct of the other party on which to base a reasonable excuse for such default.[17] The forfeiture occurs upon the breach of the condition on which it is based.[18]

If no right of cancellation is reserved neither party can withdraw from the obligation imposed without consent of the other,[19] and of the beneficiary in case of a life policy,[20] and this rule is not affected by the reservation of a right to change the beneficiary which has never been exercised.[21]

A provision making the policy incontestable after a specified time except for nonpayment of premiums or understatement of age precludes the insurer from defending on the ground that it was induced to issue it through fraud and misrepresentation,[22] but a provision making it incontestable except for nonpayment or fraud does not prevent the company from contesting payment in case the insured is legally executed for murder.[23]

The company is not liable on a policy which it is induced to issue through the fraud of the insured.[24] In the absence of special circumstances equity will not take jurisdiction to cancel a life policy for fraud after insured's death, where suit must be brought thereon within a year, the remedy at law being complete.[25]

One who is induced to take out a policy through false and fraudulent representations on the part of the agent as to what the contract will contain, may on receipt of a contract differing essentially from that agreed on, repudiate it and reof companies and the cancellation and substitution of policies. Phoenix Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 88 S. W. 917.

15. See 4 C. L. 196. See, also, post, §§ 8, 9.

16. Scottish Union & Nat. Ins. Co. v. Andrews [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 667, 89 S. W. 419.

17. For nonpayment of premiums. Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Adler [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 835.

18. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011.

19. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

20. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89. Where a husband obtains a policy for the benefit of his wife and children, he cannot surrender it without their consent. Id.

21. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

22. See 4 C. L. 197, n. 42. Williams v. St. Louis Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 499.

23. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 353.

24. Evidence held insufficient to show that another woman was substituted to take the medical examination in place of the insured. Williams v. St. Louis Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 499. The defense of fraud in procuring the insurance is sustained where the insured who died shortly after the policy was issued, from enlargement of his spleen to twenty-six times its normal size, failed to disclose his condition to the examining physician, although three physicians had told him of the bad condition of his health, one of whom refused to pass him for life insurance, another told him he had heart disease, and the third discovered the enlargement; and this is true notwithstanding the examining physician failed to discover his condition and numerous acquaintances testified to his apparent good health. Michigan Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Whittaker, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 1. Upon denial of decedent's application for insurance in a certain company its agents applied to defendant's agent for policy on decedent's life. They were furnished with an application which they filled up and signed without notice to or authority from deceased. They also procured the physician who had made the medical examination and certificate on the rejected application a year before to copy the same, and then delivered the application to defendant's agent, who had no notice of the manner in which it was prepared. Defendant issued a policy which was delivered to decedent's wife, who paid for it, believing that it was the policy originally applied for. Held, that the defendant having been induced to issue the policy through fraud was not liable thereon. Mahon v. Royal Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 732.

25. Jurisdiction is concurrent and it is discretionary with the chancellor to assume it or not. Des Moines Life Ins. Co. v. Seifert, 112 Ill. App. 277.

cover the premiums paid.[26] He must, however, act promptly and return the policy within a reasonable time, or offer to do so,[27] and the burden is on him to show fraud by clear, strong and convincing proof.[28]

All prior negotiations are presumed to have been merged in the policy, and hence where the application sets forth all the provisions which the policy is to contain, parol evidence is inadmissible to vary its terms.[29] If the insured is able to read he will be presumed to know the contents of the application and is bound by a contract conforming thereto though its terms are in conflict with the misrepresentation of the soliciting agent.[30] By accepting the policy he becomes bound by conditions and provisions appearing on its face.[31] So, too, he is bound by provisions therein and in a binding receipt that the policy cannot issue or take effect until the first premium is paid in full,[32] and is chargeable with the notice contained in the receipt that the agent cannot, without express authority, waive such payment and deliver a valid policy.[33] He is not, however, precluded from insisting on

26. Urwan v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1102. An application for insurance and a contemporaneous application for appointment as special agent will, though separate in form, be considered as part of the same transaction and will be construed together for the purpose of determining the rights of the parties in this regard, where, in order to make his appointment as agent effectual, he was bound to continue the payment of premiums for the full term of the policy, and was induced to pay the first year's premium on the policy in order to secure the special agent's contract as well as the policy (Id.), and if the agent's contract differs materially from the one agreed upon, the insured may reject it and demand a return of the money paid (Id.), though he does not thereby acquire a cause of action in tort for deceit (Id.). Complaint held not to allege that the false representations constituted a cause of action for deceit. Id. The fact that the policy and the agent's contract are both void because in violation of a statute prohibiting discrimination between insurants does not render the parties in pari delicto so as to prevent a recovery by plaintiff. Id. Where an illiterate woman was induced to take out a life policy by representations that she could "draw out" at the end of ten years, but the policy as written gave her no right to draw out any sum at that time, held, that she was entitled, on discovery of that fact, to recover the amount paid by her as premiums. Caldwell v. Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 52 S. E. 252. "Draw out" held to mean that she could draw the amount due her at that time. Id. The measure of damages for inducing one to take out a policy through false representations is the amount of premiums paid with interest. Id.

27. Evidence in action on premium note held insufficient to support verdict that it had been obtained by fraud in that policy was not worded as defendant had been led to believe it would be, it not appearing that defendant ever offered to return the policy. Allen v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 615. In action to recover premiums paid on ground that plaintiff was induced to take out policy through false representations, instruction that payment of premiums after discovery of fraud would prevent plaintiff from setting it up later "unless she paid under protest," held not erroneous as not based on the evidence, where it appeared that after discovering that there was something wrong she tried to have the matter adjusted without success. Caldwell v. Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 52 S. E. 252. A member of a mutual company accepting and retaining a fire policy for over a year, and paying one assessment thereon, cannot, after the rights of innocent third parties have intervened, escape liability for assessments made on the company becoming insolvent, by showing that he was induced to accept the policy and enter into the contract through misrepresentations of the soliciting agent. Moore v. Lichtenberger, 26 Pa. Super Ct. 268.

28. Instructions approved. Caldwell v. Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 52 S. E. 252.

29. Vette v. Evans [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 504.

30. Particularly where he makes no objection when policy is delivered. Vette v. Evans [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 504. As to amount which insured will be entitled to receive. Id. Parol evidence inadmissible to show fraudulent representations as to what the policy was to contain. Id. Evidence held not to sustain allegations of fraud. Id.

31. Is estopped from denying that he assented thereto. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87. Fact that portion of the words of a covenant against vacancy were accidentally covered by revenue stamps held not to sustain claim that insured had no notice thereof, the apparent fact that a part of the printing was covered being sufficient to put him on notice. Hardiman v. Fire Ass'n [Pa.] 61 A. 990.

32. Receipt issued by agent on partial payment of first premium. Bowen v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 1040. Receipt held to show that such payment was merely intended to secure company against expense of medical examination in case applicant did not take the policy, and not to have made a binding contract where insured died before the payment of the balance of such premium. Id.

33. Will be held to have knowledge that binding receipt given by agent making insurance in force from date of application is not binding on company. Bowen v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 1040.

the rate of premium fixed in the written application by reason of the fact that he fails to read the policy.[34]

If the insurer sells and transfers all its assets without the consent of the insured, the latter may treat his contract as terminated and recover any damages sustained thereby.[35]

If the company wrongfully refuses to receive a premium on the ground that the policy has become forfeited by a breach of one of its conditions, the holder of the policy may either elect to consider the policy at an end, in which case he may recover its just value in a proper action brought for that purpose,[36] or he may institute an equitable proceeding to have the policy adjudged in force, in which the question of forfeiture may be determined,[37] or he may tender the premium, wait until the policy becomes payable by its terms, and then try the question of forfeiture in an action on the policy.[38] On repudiation during the insured's lifetime the measure of damages is the cost of replacing the policy on the same terms in a sound company at the time of the surrender,[39] or, if the insured is not then insurable, the present value of the policy at the time of the breach,[40] to be ascertained by discounting the amount of the policy for the expectancy of life and deducting therefrom the discounted premiums for the same period.[41]

In the absence of fraud on the part of the beneficiary, to constitute a consideration for the payment of premiums, there must be a contract against which at the time of its execution the insurer cannot interpose a valid defense.[42] Premi-

34. Where defendant's written proposal for employer's liability insurance contained a specified rate of premium inserted by plaintiff's agent who promised to attach a copy of the application to the policy but, being found erroneous, the correct rate was inserted in the copy attached to the policy, defendant was entitled to assume that the rate specified was the same as that contained in the proposal. Employers' Liability Assur. Corp. v. Grand Rapids Bridge Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 975.

35. Is thereby relieved from liability on a premium note less the value of his insurance from the date of his policy to the date of the transfer. Vette v. Evans [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 504.

36. See, also Contracts, 5 C. L. 664. If there has been an actual breach and the insurer declines to recognize him as a policy holder, insists that his policy is no longer in force, and wrongfully refuses his tendered premiums. Insured has sufficient interest in the policy for this purpose, particularly where he has procured assignments of the interests of the beneficiaries. Kelly v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 601. This is true though a bond given by the company to the insured operates in law as a payment of the premiums whose nonpayment by the insured when due is claimed by defendant to have avoided the contract. Where policy provided that equitable division of reserve fund should be made every five years in the form of a bond, and that policy of any member who had paid his premiums in advance when due without using any portion of his accumulations in such fund should be nonforfeitable until all his share therein had been exhausted in payment of premiums, and plaintiff tendered bonds previously received in payment of premiums and defendant refused to accept them, held, that he was entitled to treat contract as repudiated. Id. On company's wrongful refusal to perform or to be longer bound, insured may recover premiums paid. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Hare, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 348. Where company wrongfully refuses to accept further payments of assessments and declares that insurance has lapsed, and the certificate of membership become forfeited, beneficiary may recover its just value. Merrick v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 593. Cancellation must be alleged and proved to be wrongful, and hence where an assessment policy holder voluntarily ceased payment of assessments and abandoned his policy, he could not recover damages for its cancellation. Green v. Hartford Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 887.

37. Merrick v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 593.

Where a company wrongfully declares a life policy lapsed and refuses to have any further dealings with the insured. Kelly v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 601.

38, 39. Merrick v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 593.

40. Merrick v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 593; Kelly v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 601.

41. Kelly v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 601. See, also, Merrick v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 593.

42. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Felix [Ohio] 75 N. E. 941. The provisions of the policy whereby the insurer has provided for immunity from liability must be looked to to determine whether it has incurred liability, rather than averments in its answer that it intends and is ready and willing to be bound thereby. Id. Premiums paid by wife on policy issued on life of her husband without his knowledge or consent may be reums paid on a void policy[43] or on a policy wrongfully canceled by the insurer may be recovered back by the insured.[44]

In some states an insurer seeking to avoid the policy on the ground of misrepresentations must deposit in court for repayment the premiums paid on the policy.[45]

Failure to make further payments of premiums on an ultra vires contract cannot result in any forfeiture of the right to recover premiums already paid.[46]

(§ 16) C. Estoppel or waiver of right to cancel or avoid.[47]—Provisions and conditions in the policy which are for the benefit of the insurer,[48] including provisions in the by-laws of mutual companies which are not prescribed by statute, may be waived by it.[49] So too, the insured[50] or his authorized agent may waive conditions and provisions inserted for his benefit.[51] The beneficiary is not estopped to assert the illegality of an assessment by reason of the fact that the insured previously paid similar assessments without protest.[52]

Policies which are absolutely void cannot be the subject of waiver.[53] The waiver covered where policy makes application, and consequently the regulations, a part of the contract, and regulations provide that policy shall not bind the company unless person against whose death it insures is aware of the insurance. Id.

43. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Felix [Ohio] 75 N. E. 941. Premiums paid in good faith on policies void because taken without the knowledge and consent of the insured. Griffin's Adm'r v. Equitable Assur. Soc., 27 Ky. L. R. 313, 84 S. W. 1164. On refusal of the company to perform an ultra vires contract the insured may recover the premiums paid. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Hare, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 348. In an action quasi ex contractu. Id. May recover them from company which purchases assets of the insurer, where it assumes all latter's liabilities, etc. Id. Association cannot affirm or reject the terms of a policy in part so as to confine the insured to one of the benefits therein provided for, when he has paid for the right to elect between two benefits therein set forth. Id.

44. May recover the amount of all premiums and dues paid by him, with interest thereon from the date of payment, there being an implied promise on the part of the company to repay the sum so received by it. Is action on implied contract for specific sum within Code, § 385, providing for judgment by default final. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 N. C. 515, 50 S. E. 221.

45. Rev. St. 1899, § 7891. Herzberg v. Modern Brotherhood, 110 Mo. App. 328, 85 S. W. 986.

46. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Hare, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 348, 26 Ohio C. C. 197.

47. See 4 C. L. 200. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523. For waiver of requirements as to notice and proofs of loss, see § 20, post. Waiver of provisions limiting time within which suit must be brought, § 24 A, post.

48. For nonpayment of premiums: Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011.

As to who shall be deemed agents: That no person shall be deemed its agent in matters relating to the insurance unless duly authorized in writing. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803.

49. Where statute creating company does not prescribe character of title or interest which insured shall have in the property, a by-law or regulation making void a policy issued to anyone not having a fee simple title may be waived. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730.

50. Notice of cancellation. Phoenix Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 88 S. W. 917; Insurance Co. v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 794.

51. Where agent of defendant, who was also the agent of the insured for the purpose of keeping the property insured without notice to the insured canceled one of the policies previously procured and substituted another in the defendant, which he mailed to insured before the fire, held, that defendant's policy was in force, though policy was not taken from the post office by plaintiff until after the fire. Phoenix Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 88 S. W. 917.

A broker who was a subagent of the insured and not an agent of the insurer, had no authority to cancel policies and to substitute others, or to waive notice of cancellation. Insurance Co. v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 794. Evidence held not to show that plaintiff, through its general agent, held out its subagent to insurance company as having authority to cancel policies and waive notice. Id.

52. Benjamin v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 146 Cal. 34, 79 P. 517.

53. A policy procured through false and fraudulent representations by the insured. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Antram [Miss.] 38 So. 626. Receipt of premiums by agent and full knowledge of adjuster of the fraud held no waiver. Instruction erroneous. Id. Instruction that though jury believed that policy had been procured through fraudulent representations they should find for plaintiff if they believed that the agent accepted the premium after the fire and after the adjuster had investigated the fire and the loss and had full knowledge of all the facts held erroneous in the absence of proof that the adjuster, when making his examination, knew of the fraud. Id. The mere fact that he knew the true state of the title and of

of one condition does not relieve the insured from the necessity of complying with the others.[54] The fact that the company waived forfeitures of policies held by other persons is immaterial where it does not appear that insured knew of such waivers, and that his conduct was influenced by such knowledge.[55] Provisions as to the manner of changing the beneficiary cannot be waived after the death of the insured.[56]

Waiver may be the express abandonment of a right,[57] but it is more frequently implied from acts that are inconsistent with its continued assertion.[58] It may be but is not necessarily founded upon an estoppel.[59] Any acts, declarations, or course of dealing by the insurer, with knowledge of facts constituting a breach of a condition in the policy, leading the insured to honestly think that, by conforming thereto, a forfeiture will not be incurred, followed by due conformity on his part,[60] or any conduct on its part inducing the insured to rest on the well founded belief that a strict performance of conditions will not be insisted upon,[61] even though the in-the insured's interest is insufficient to show that he knew that policy had been obtained through fraudulent representations. Id. The mere fact that contrary to the terms of the policy other insurance has been obtained will not render it absolutely void so as to prevent a waiver or estoppel by subsequent acts. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Grove, 116 Ill. App. 529. Breach of warranty that insured is sole and unconditional owner of the property does not render the policy void ab initio, so as to prevent waiver, but merely voidable. Glens Falls Ins. Co. v. Michael [Ind.] 74 N. E. 964.

54. The waiver of a condition against occupancy by a tenant does not operate as a waiver of a separate and distinct condition avoiding the policy for vacancy (Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612; Id., 75 N. E. 849), nor does the fact that the insurer knew that the property was occupied by a tenant prevent a forfeiture for vacancy on the theory that the parties must have had in mind the probability that there would be intervals of vacancy between the outgoing of one and the incoming of another tenant (Id.). Under a provision that the insured shall "keep his books and inventory in an iron safe at night, or at some place secure against fire in another building," a waiver of the requirement of the safe, by reason of the fact that the agent knew when the policy was issued that the insured had none, does not relieve the insured from the necessity of keeping his books in another building. King v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 160, 103 N. W. 616. Nor is the latter requirement waived by reason of the fact that there is no other safer building in town. Not necessary that the other building be safer. Id.

55. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609.

56. Waiver can only operate in favor of the assured as between him and the company but not as between the company and third persons, as the beneficiaries, whose rights have vested by the death of the insured. Freund v. Freund, 218 Ill. 189, 75 N. E. 925. The filing of a bill of interpleader and payment of the proceeds of a policy into court cannot be construed as a waiver of the conditions prescribed for effecting change. Id.

57, 58. Johnson v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 339.

59. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011.

60. For waivers by agents see "Acts and knowledge of agents of insurer," infra, this section.

Fire Insurance: Estops the company from insisting upon the forfeiture, though it might be claimed under the express letter of the policy. Foreman v. German Alliance Ins. Ass'n [Va.] 52 S. E. 337. Repayment, after premises became vacant, of premium previously advanced by agent of both the insured and the insurer, held not a waiver. Id. Forfeiture, on account of the execution of a chattel deed of trust on the property is waived where, after loss, the company's secretary, by request of trustee, endorsed the policy as payable to him, dating the endorsement as of date before the loss, and company, by its subsequent conduct, induced him to incur trouble and expense on the faith of that act. Brown v. Commercial Fire Ins. Co., 21 App. D. C. 325.

Indemnity company, with knowledge of all the facts, assuming the defense of an action for damages against the insured, held estopped to rely on a provision in the policy exempting it from liability in case of injury to a child employed contrary to law. Complaint held to state cause of action. Tozer v. Ocean Acc. & G. Corp. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 509.

Employers' liability insurance: A stipulation in an employer's liability policy providing for indemnity only for sums paid in satisfaction of judgment after trial of the issue is waived where, after notice of a proposed settlement, the company refused to take part or give any advice and the insured makes a settlement in good faith. Bradley v. Standard L. & A. Ins. Co., 46 Misc. 41, 93 N. Y. S. 245.

61. Life insurance: Where the conduct of the company leads the insured to believe that it will receive premiums after they are due, if paid within a reasonable time, it is estopped from insisting on a forfeiture. Kelly v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 601; Rutherford v. Prudential Ins. Co., 34 Ind. App. 531, 73 N. E. 202. Averments of complaint held to show disregard and consequent waiver of provision that if weekly premiums were not called for when sured may not have thereby been misled to his prejudice or into an altered position,[62] will preclude it from claiming a forfeiture as a bar to recovery. Some courts hold that a breach of condition is waived by the failure of the insurer to claim a forfeiture within a reasonable time after knowledge of the facts,[63] while others require an affirmative act in addition thereto.[64] Slight acts or circumstances on the part due they should be sent to home or district office. Id. Cannot in good faith afterward set it up as a bar to recovery. Wagaman v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 616, 85 S. W. 117. Where plaintiff had paid 49 premiums, 11 of which had been paid after they were due and defendant refused to accept a premium after due, though within the time when the agent had agreed to receive it, defendant held estopped to object. Course of dealing with plaintiff and other policy holders held waiver. Id. Evidence held to show that company had knowledge that agent was receiving past due premiums and that it was the invariable custom of defendant to receive such premiums. Id. Written statement required to be made when past due premiums were received reciting that the acceptance of past due premium shall not establish a precedent for the acceptance of future payments after they become due, nor waive, or alter, or change any of the conditions of the policy or application does not change the rule. Id. A former waiver of forfeiture for a delay of two days in payment does not estop the insurer from insisting upon forfeiture for nonpayment until 16 days after maturity when the insured was in extremis, particularly when neither company nor agent was informed of the latter fact, and amount paid was tendered back. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609. Evidence insufficient to show custom that agents should collect premiums on ordinary policies at the homes of the insured at a later date than that fixed by the policies. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Hall [Va.] 52 S. E. 345.

Fire insurance: To bind the insurer by waiver of a stipulation rendering the policy void on the procuring of additional insurance it must be shown that the insurer had knowledge of the additional insurance and that thereafter its conduct was such as to imply a purpose on its part not to insist on a forfeiture, in the absence of an agreement to that effect. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271.

Employers' liability policy insured vessel owner against damages for injuries to its employes on its vessels due to its negligence. Vessel was libeled on claim for injuries due to negligence and for breach of implied contract of employment in failing to care for injured seaman, and judgment was rendered against vessel on latter ground only. Insurer was bound to defend the suit and attorneys for the defense, though nominally those of the insured, were in fact the attorneys and agents of the insurer. After judgment for libelant an appeal taken by the insured was dismissed at the instance of the insurer, who agreed to reimburse the insured for the amount of the judgment then paid. Held, no fraud being shown and it appearing that the insurer had a copy of the libel, it was estopped to claim ignorance of the fact that the judgment was based on a ground which relieved it from liability, and it was bound to pay the amount thereof and the subsequently incurred costs. Globe Nav. Co. v. Maryland Casualty Co. [Wash.] 81 P. 826. Fact that it acted under honest mistake as to the ground of the judgment held not to relieve it since, under the circumstances, it was chargeable with the knowledge of its attorneys, and was negligent in not learning the facts. Id. Intent to deceive was not necessary. Id. Under the circumstances held that insured was not equally chargeable with knowledge so as to prevent an estoppel. Id. Insurer having induced insured to abandon his appeal could not be heard to say that the latter was not prejudiced because it did not appear that the judgment would have been reversed on appeal, the right of appeal being absolute. Id.

62. If, after knowledge of all the facts, its conduct has been such as to reasonably imply a purpose not to insist upon a forfeiture, it will be held irrevocably bound as by an election to treat the contract as if no cause of forfeiture had occurred. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011.

63. Condition against additional insurance. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271. Held waived by failure to object or cancel the policy after knowledge that other insurance had been procured. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Grove, 215 Ill. 299, 74 N. E. 141. Doctrine of waiver in such case is that of estoppel in pais, there being no substantial difference between the two. Id.

Warranty as to sole ownership: Waived unless the insurer, on discovery of the fact that the insured has not such a title, promptly notifies him of its intention to avoid the policy and tenders, or manifests its willingness to restore, the unearned premium. Does not render policy void ab initio, and hence is waived by retention of premium with full knowledge of the facts. Glens Falls Ins. Co. v. Michael [Ind.] 74 N. E. 964.

Other insurance: Failure to cancel policy after knowledge of other insurance tends to show waiver. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855.

64. Mere neglect to insist upon a forfeiture will not alone constitute a waiver, but there must be some affirmative act on the part of the insurer which induces the insured to rest on the well founded belief that strict performance of a condition will not be insisted upon. Iron safe clause held waived. Rundell v. Anchor Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 105 N. W. 112. Mere knowledge by the company of the existence of the breach does not of itself amount to an estoppel or waiver, but it must be accompanied by some positive act of confirmation upon which in connection with the knowledge, a waiver may be predicated, and by force of which the broken contract may be said to be revived. Held no waiver of breach of condition against vacancy, even if knowledge of agent was knowledge of company. Fore-of the insurer will be construed as a waiver to prevent a forfeiture, where the condition in the contract is in favor of the company.[65]

No consideration is necessary for a waiver by conduct,[66] and a waiver once made, either by declaration or by acts and conduct, cannot be recalled.[67]

A delivery of the policy as a completed contract under an express or implied agreement that a credit shall be given for the premium is a waiver of a provision that the company shall not be liable on the policy until the premium is actually paid.[68] The acceptance of premiums with knowledge of a breach of a condition avoiding the policy precludes the company from defending on that ground,[69] unless the insured is liable therefor in any event;[70] but mere unsuccessful attempts to collect an overdue premium is not a waiver of the right to insist on a forfeiture for its nonpayment when due,[71] nor can the acceptance by the agent of the amount of man v. German Alliance Ins. Ass'n [Va.] 52 S. E. 337.

65. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730.

66. Mettner v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 112. For nonpayment of premiums. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011.

67. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011; Mettner v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 112. Where the insurer waives a forfeiture for nonpayment of a premium note, its liability becomes fixed by the death of the insured, and his administrator may sue on the policy without tender of payment of the note. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011.

68. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89. Raises a presumption that a credit is intended. Germania Fire Ins. Co. v. Muller, 110 Ill. App. 190. Delivery of policies to insured, or another at his instance, is an express waiver of prepayment of premiums, and company cannot thereafter cancel them except in accordance with their terms and conditions. Provident Sav. L. A. S. v. Georgia Industrial Co. [Ga.] 52 S. E. 289. Mailing of policy to agent held not to constitute an implied delivery waiving immediate payment, in the absence of a showing that the principal had instructed the agent to deliver it without payment of the first premium or while the applicant was in ill health, in open violation of the stipulations of the policy. Neff v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1041. Evidence sufficient to justify inference of waiver of payment of first premium during good health. Dargan v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 125.

69. Must be with knowledge of the facts: Company held not, in view of the large number of policies issued by it, its manner of keeping records, and fact that premiums on former policy were paid by insured's wife and on later policy by insured himself, chargeable with knowledge that it had a previous industrial policy on insured's life so as to render receipt of premium a waiver of provision rendering policy void under such circumstances unless consent thereto was indorsed thereon. Hood v. Prudential Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 527. Where by-laws require notice to be given to company in an application which must be passed upon by the board of directors, fact that insured told its secretary on street car that he had taken out additional insurance held not notice to company, in absence of proof that secretary communicated such information to directors. Monk v. Penn Tp. Mut. Fire Ins. Ass'n, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 449.

Payment of premiums: Acceptance of past due second premium when insured is in good health is not a waiver as to conditions of policy as to payment of future premiums regardless of the health of the insured when the latter become in default, particularly where the receipt for the second premium provides that it shall not constitute a waiver of any of the conditions of the policy. Sydnor v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 521.

Condition as to ownership: A by-law of a mutual company requiring ownership in fee simple held waived where the secretary was notified of change in character of title and he stated that no change in the policy was required, and company continued to levy and receive assessments. Instruction approved. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730. Company also estopped to deny liability. Id.

Occupation of insured: As where the insured engaged in the liquor business, contrary to the terms of the policy, with knowledge of the agent who accepted the premiums. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 112 Ill. App. 500.

Concurrent insurance: The acceptance of premiums after the company has notice that the insured has taken out additional insurance estops the company from defending on the ground that a permit therefor was not indorsed on the policy. Monk v. Penn Tp. Mut. Fire Ins. Ass'n, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 449.

70. Forfeiture of mutual policy resulting from nonoccupancy of buildings held not waived by subsequent acceptance of an assessment from plaintiff covering losses which occurred before and after the fire, every member of the company being obligated to pay his proportion of the losses during his connection with the company and the company having a lien on the building therefor, and plaintiff not having surrendered his policy prior to the making of such assessment. Knowlton v. Patrons' Androscoggin Mut. F. Ins. Co. [Me.] 62 A. 289.

71. Does not tend to show waiver or extension of time. Cowen v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 404.

a premium which he has previously remitted to the company operate as a waiver by the latter of fraud in procuring the policy.[72] The retention, after default, of a note given for an annual premium and an insistence on its payment is an election to treat the policy as subsisting and valid and is a waiver of the right of forfeiture for nonpayment;[73] but the acceptance of a part payment on an overdue note does not operate as a waiver of forfeiture where the note provides that a failure to pay it at maturity shall forfeit the policy in accordance with its terms, and that in such event the whole amount of the note shall be considered earned and shall be collectible without restoration of the policy.[74] Retention of premiums for more than a reasonable time after a declaration of forfeiture is a waiver thereof,[75] what is a reasonable time being a question of fact.[76]

Requiring proofs of loss is a waiver of breaches of conditions known to the insurer,[77] particularly when the insured is thereby induced to incur expense.[78] A positive refusal to pay the loss is a waiver of the right to examine the insured's books.[79] A refusal to pay for failure to give the required notice of loss is a waiver of all other defenses,[80] but the mere acceptance of proofs of loss does not have this effect.[81] Denial of liability by the insurer under an employer's liability policy is not a waiver of a provision that no action shall lie against the insurer until the injured party shall have recovered judgment against the insured.[82] Unless procured by fraud a settlement of the loss and a contract to pay a particular sum in satisfaction thereof operates as a waiver of all warranties in the policy whether the company knows of their breach or not.[83] Provisions in the policy that it shall become void if the insured is not the sole and unconditional owner of the property and the like, unless consent of the company is indorsed thereon in writing, apply only to changes arising after the policy is issued, and not to an existing state or condition of the property

72. Where the agent remits the premium to the company before he receives it from the insured, his subsequent acceptance of the amount thereof from the latter in liquidation of the private indebtedness thus created cannot operate as a waiver by the company, though at the time of its receipt both the agent and the adjuster had full knowledge of the facts. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Antram [Miss.] 38 So. 626.

73. Policy and note both contained forfeiture clause making policy void if note was not paid at maturity. Washburn v. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1011.

74. National Life Ins. Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 618. Where note provides that in case of default in its payment the full amount of the premium shall be considered as earned, the premium is earned by the risk assumed during the time the policy is in force, so that the acceptance of payment after loss occurring while the policy is suspended, does not render the insurer liable. Jefferson Mut. Ins. Co. v. Murray [Ark.] 86 S. W. 813.

75. Seeking to impose new and unauthorized conditions for reinstatement, retention of premium until after expiration of time for reinstatement and delay in proceedings for reinstatement, without any excuse offered, held to support finding of waiver of forfeiture for nonpayment of premium when due. Mettner v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 112.

76. Mettner v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 112.

77. Provision against incumbrances held waived by requiring proofs and requesting a conference for an adjustment. Nugent v. Rensselaer County Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 605.

78. Breach of iron-safe clause held waived, where the secretary and adjuster, with full knowledge of the breach, told insured's wife that proofs of loss must be sent to the company, and thereby induced insured to incur expense in preparing and forwarding them. Rundell v. Anchor Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 105 N. W. 112.

79. Colonial Mutual Fire Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302.

80. Accident policy. Moore v. National Acc. Soc., 38 Wash. 31, 80 P. 171.

81. Does not ipso facto waive a right of forfeiture for incumbering the property without the consent of the insurer, especially where they give no specific information as to the mortgage. American Ins. Co. v. Walston, 111 Ill. App. 133. Instruction held misleading and inaccurate. Id.

82. Does not thereby subject itself to liability to have payment demanded at an earlier time than that fixed by the policy. Texas Short Line R. Co. v. Waymire [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 907, 89 S. W. 452.

83. Execution of drafts in final settlement of loss on personalty under policy issued to a certain sanitarium held in absence of fraud, to estop company, in an action on such drafts from denying that those composing sanitarium were the real parties in interest. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. v. Wall [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 668.

when the policy is issued.[84] If the policy is issued with knowledge on the part of the company of facts which under the terms of the contract render it void, it cannot avail itself of them as a defense to an action thereon,[85] and the same rule applies when the company ought to have known the facts constituting the alleged breach.[86] It has, however, been held that under an accident policy relieving the insurer from liability if at the time of the accident the insured was suffering from a pre-existing disease without which death would not have ensued, the liability of the insurer is not in any way affected or changed by the fact that it knew of the existence of such disease when the policy was issued.[87]

If there is no written application, and the assured has an insurable interest in the property, acts in good faith and makes no actual misrepresentation or concealment of his interest therein, and the company issues the policy and accepts and retains the premium without making inquiry concerning his interest, it will be presumed to have knowledge of the condition of his title and to assure the property with such knowledge.[88]

84. Policy held valid though insured held legal title subject to right of third person to acquire it by complying with terms of contract of sale. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Northern Assur. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 610, 105 N. W. 76.

85. Fire Insurance. Other insurance: Of fact that there is other insurance on the property. Lewis v. Guardian Fire & Life Assur. Co., 181 N. Y. 392, 74 N. E. 224, afg. 93 App. Div. 157, 87 N. Y. S. 525. Knowledge of other insurance when original policy was issued, though mistaken as to its amount, and failure to object to renewal afterward, held to create estoppel. German-American Ins. Co. v. Harper [Ark.] 86 S. W. 817.

Ownership of property: Provision that policy should be void if the insured's interest should be other than unconditional and sole ownership held waived, where condition of the title was stated in the application. Loring v. Dutchess Ins. Co. [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1025. Company cannot rely on condition that policy should be void if subject of insurance was building on property not owned by the insured in fee simple, where applicant informed agent that he did not own the land. Johnson v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 339. A policy not void because the application for the insurance, which was signed by an agent of the owners, indicated a joint, instead of separate ownership, when the nature of the ownership was fully understood by the agent of the company at the time the application was signed. Farmers' Mutual Fire & Lightning Ins. Co. v. Ward, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 509, 24 Ohio C. C. 156.

Occupancy by tenant: Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612; Id., 75 N. E. 849.

Incumbrances: The issuance of a policy and retention of the premium by the insurer with knowledge of the existence of a chattel mortgage on the property is a waiver of a condition against such incumbrances, and a waiver of a provision requiring waivers to be indorsed on the policy, whether the waiver was by the insurer itself or by the agent issuing the policy. Fire Ass'n v. Yeagley, 34 Ind. App. 387, 72 N. E. 1035.

Life Insurance: In the absence of fraud on the part of the insured. Hood v. Prudential Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 527.

Warranties as to use of intoxicants: False warranties in the application will not defeat recovery on the policy where the company had knowledge of the facts when the policy was issued. Use of intoxicants. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

As to previous application and health: Delivery of policy after investigating standing of physician making medical examination held not waiver of breach of warranties that applicant had never applied for other insurance, and as to his health, where it was not shown that agent had knowledge of the facts. Peterson v. Manhattan Life Ins. Co., 115 Ill. App. 421.

86. Hood v. Prudential Ins. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 527. But the plaintiff must show that the company, with knowledge of the facts, dispensed with the observance of the condition. Id. Where it appeared that company issued large number of industrial policies, that it kept its records only by the numbers of the policies, and that the premiums on the previous policy were paid by insured's wife and those on the one in suit by the insured himself, held, that the company was not chargeable with notice that it had issued a previous policy so as to preclude it from setting up a provision in the policy in suit that it should be void if there should be in force upon the life of the insured, an industrial policy previously issued by the same company, unless consent thereto was indorsed thereon. Id.

87. In such case insurer contracts to indemnify insured from accidental injury with the reservation that the insurer will not be liable if the infirmity directly or indirectly co-operates with an accidental injury in causing death. White v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 735.

88. That insured had previously contracted to sell the property. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Three States Lumber Co., 217 Ill. 115, 75 N. E. 450. By issuing the policy with the knowledge, thus imputed, that he has only a life estate, it will be held to have waived a provision that the policy shall be

Provisions requiring all waivers to be in writing and indorsed on or attached to the policy are valid and binding on the insured.[89] It has been frequently held, however, that they are for the company's benefit and hence that it may waive them,[90] that they refer only to express waivers, and not to those claimed to exist by reason of acts of the insurer inconsistent with an intention on its part to enforce the condition,[91] and that they do not prevent the company from becoming estopped by its conduct from insisting on a forfeiture for a breach of condition.[92]

Acts and knowledge of agents of insurer.[93]—In accordance with the general principles of the law of agency the knowledge of the agent, either as to facts existing when the policy is issued[94] or to those subsequently arising, is imputed to the com-void if the insured's interest be other than unconditional and sole ownership in fee simple, where insured acts in good faith and is ignorant of materiality of that question. Glens Falls Ins. Co. v. Michael [Ind.] 74 N. E. 964. Where insured did not know that the insurer did not insure mortgaged chattels, held that he could recover for a loss, though the policy provided that it should be void if the property was so incumbered. Neher v. Western Assur. Co. [Wash.] 82 P. 166. In case of an oral application the applicant is not required to show the exact condition of his title unless requested to do so, and if he is guilty of no misleading conduct the insurer will be regarded as having assumed the risk of undisclosed incumbrances. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Northern Assur. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 610, 105 N. W. 76. Policy describing property as that of the insured held valid though he held legal title subject to right of third person to acquire it by complying with terms of a contract of sale since insurer could not complain of its failure to require a more specific description. Id. Instruction to the effect that, if the agent inserted the description of the property in the policy from his own knowledge acquired while inspecting it for the insurance, the company could not take advantage of inaccuracies therein unless the insured by his conduct led him into making them, held sufficiently favorable to defendant, and finding against it could not be disturbed. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025.

89. See, also, "Acts and knowledge of agents," infra, this section. Pennsylvania Casualty Co. v. Bacon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 907. Are for the benefit of both parties and of the community at large. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497.

90. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Grove, 215 Ill. 299, 74 N. E. 141; Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 112 Ill. App. 500; Phenix Ins. Co. v. Grove, 116 Ill. App. 529. If additional insurance is taken, contrary to the terms of the policy and the company makes no objection after actual knowledge thereof is brought home to it, it is estopped from insisting upon a forfeiture because its consent was not endorsed on the policy, and waives condition requiring such indorsement. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Grove, 116 Ill. App. 529. Issuance of policy and retention of premium with knowledge of existence of chattel mortgage held waiver. Fire Ass'n v. Yeagley, 34 Ind. App. 387, 72 N. E. 1035.

91. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 112 Ill. App. 500. Do not prevent waiver of condition that policy shall be void if insured engages in saloon business by acceptance of premiums by general agent with knowledge of its violation. Id.

92. Continental Ins. Co. v. Thomason, 27 Ky. L. R. 158, 84 S. W. 546. Thus it will be estopped from claiming a forfeiture for a change of title notwithstanding such provision where it subsequently, and with knowledge of the facts, collects a premium note and assures the insured that his policy is all right. Id. The rule that waivers by agents under such circumstances work an estoppel applies only to acts within the real or apparent scope of their authority, and not to the extension of time on a premium note by a mere collecting agent. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Bussell [Ark.] 86 S. W. 814.

93. See 4 C. L. 202, n. 97, et seq. See, also, Agency, 5 C. L. 64.

94. Fire Insurance. As to nature of ownership: Johnson v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 339; Farmers' Mut. F. & L. Ins. Co. v. Ward, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 509. Evidence held not to show that agent knew that the insured did not own the land on which the building insured was situated. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 87.

Other insurance. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 565, 102 N. W. 502; Lewis v. Guardian Fire & Life Assur. Co., 181 N. Y. 392, 74 N. E. 224, afg. 93 App. Div. 157, 87 N. Y. S. 525; Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855.

Incumbrances: Evidence held to show knowledge of the existence of chattel mortgage. Fire Ass'n v. Yeagley, 34 Ind. App. 387, 72 N. E. 1035.

Life Insurance. Occupation of insured: Knowledge of general agent that insured had engaged in the liquor business. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Sullivan, 112 Ill. App. 500.

Use of intoxicants: Knowledge of the agent taking the application. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

The medical examiner is the agent of the company in making the examination, taking down the answers, and reporting them. Carmichael v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 587. His knowledge thus acquired, and his interpretation of the answers given and errors in recording them are those of the company, which is estopped from taking advantage of what it thus knew and had thus done when accepting the premiums and issuing the policy. Id. Evidence that insured answered questions correctly but that the physician recorded pany.[95] It must, however, appear that such knowledge was acquired while he was transacting the business of the company as its agent.[96]

Where the same party acts as agent of the company and of one to whom the policy is payable as his interest may appear, knowledge acquired by him in the latter capacity does not bind the company unless it is present in the agent's mind at the time he does the act claimed to constitute the waiver.[97] The burden is on the party relying on the waiver to prove that the knowledge was so in his mind.[98] That fact may be shown by circumstantial as well as by direct evidence.[99] Information imparted to one agent of the company dealing with the insured may be imputed to another agent participating in those dealings, though in fact the latter is ignorant thereof.[1]

The acts of the agent within the apparent scope of his authority are binding on the company,[2] and neither the termination of his authority[3] nor any limitations them incorrectly is admissible, if pleadings are sufficient. Id.

Accident Insurance: Evidence that premium was paid to, and accident policy delivered by, agent with knowledge that insured had already been injured, held to tend to prove waiver of provision that policy should not take effect unless premium was actually paid previous to any accident under which claim should be made, and to require submission of issue to the jury. Rayburn v. Pennsylvania Casualty Co., 138 N. C. 379, 50 S. E. 762.

Effect of Failure of Agent to Record Answers as Given. See 4 C. L. 180, n. 50 et seq.

If the insured in good faith gives true answers, and the agent, without the insured's knowledge, writes false ones in the application, such agent in so doing acts as the agent of the insurer, and the latter is estopped to deny its liability. As to construction of chimneys and ownership of property. Foster v. Pioneer Mut. Ins. Ass'n, 37 Wash. 288, 79 P. 798. Where insured informed agent that he had diabetes and agent stated that such fact was unimportant and failed to record it in the application, held, that company could not avoid policy on the ground of fraud and false representations in that regard. White v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 735. So, too, false statements in an application, known to and made at the suggestion of the agent, do not affect the liability of the company. American Ins. Co. v. Walston, 111 Ill. App. 133. As to incumbrances. Id.

95. Held to be knowledge of company: Knowledge that insured had taken out other insurance. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Grove, 215 Ill. 299, 74 N. E. 141. Knowledge of secretary of mutual company that insured had sold fee of property. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jackman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730. Knowledge of an agent authorized to solicit insurance, take applications, and collect premiums as to change in title even though he has no authority to issue policies. Continental Ins. Co. v. Thomason, 27 Ky. L. R. 158, 84 S. W. 546.

Held not knowledge of company: Knowledge as to title obtained by a mere broker from the officers of the assured, while soliciting insurance. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. American Cement Plaster Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1115. Notice to a mere solicitor for insurance of a fact transpiring after the issuance of the policy. His agency ceases when he transmits application to the company, and fact that he says "all right" when notified of execution of mortgage is not a waiver of forfeiture for incumbering property without the insurer's consent. American Ins. Co. v. Walston, 111 Ill. App. 133.

96. Where the agent procured additional insurance in another company, his knowledge was not the knowledge of the first company and did not estop it from claiming a forfeiture on account of additional insurance. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271.

97, 98, 99. Foreman v. German Alliance Ins. Ass'n [Va.] 52 S. E. 337.

1. One obtaining policy from one member of firm of agents after informing another member that he had other insurance may assume that provision requiring fact of other insurance to be indorsed on policy was waived. Lewis v. Guardian Fire & Life Assur. Co., 181 N. Y. 392, 74 N. E. 224; afg. 93 App. Div. 157, 87 N. Y. S. 525.

2. Fire Insurance: An agent authorized to issue binds by all waivers, representations or acts unless the insured has notice of the limitation of his power. Richard v. Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 563. Whether or not he has authority to issue is not the test of his power to waive. American Ins. Co. v. Walston, 111 Ill. App. 133. Requested instruction properly refused. Id. The company is bound by the acts of its agent in issuing a policy and in inducing plaintiff to believe that he was insured in such company, notwithstanding that the company had as a matter of fact refused to accept the risk and had directed the agent to cancel the policy. Is liable where agent gives no notice to the insured, prior to the fire, that the risk has been rejected. Wheaton v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850.

Iron safe clause: Requested instruction that if it was understood that the inventory offered was not sufficient, and that policy was issued on the understanding that the insured would make a new one, held properly modified by stating that such was the case unless the insured was told by the agent at the time the insurance was issued that the inventory was sufficient. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundthereon are binding on the insured unless he has notice thereof.[4] Limitations in the son [Va.] 52 S. E. 350. Assent to inventory shown at time of application held waiver of objection thereto. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855.

Local agent of nonresident company held to have apparent authority to waive by a writing attached to the policy breach resulting from failure, through illness, to make inventory within time required. Richard v. Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. [La.] 38 So. 563.

Ownership: Action of agent authorized to solicit insurance, take applications, and collect premiums in telling insured that a change of ownership did not invalidate the policy and in taking premiums with knowledge of such change held binding on the company, though he has no authority to issue policies. Continental Ins. Co. v. Thomason, 27 Ky. L. R. 158, 84 S. W. 546. A provision avoiding the policy, if the property is not absolutely owned by the insured is waived by the knowledge of the agent of the change of interest and his written assent to the assignment of the policy. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Lindley, 111 Ill. App. 266.

Life and Accident Insurance: Company bound by all acts within apparent scope of agent's authority. Hutson v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1000. Even where he disobeys instructions, if the insured has no knowledge of the fact that he has done so. Agreement as to character of policy. Gray v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 113 Ill. App. 537. The test of authority is what he did in the usual course of the company's business. Wagaman v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 616, 85 S. W. 117. An agent to whom the policy is sent for delivery on the payment of the first premium, which has not been paid in advance, is the agent of the insurer until such payment is made. Bowen v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 1040. Company is not responsible for fraud of brokers who procure policy through its agents, and hence is not estopped from setting it up. Mahon v. Royal Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 732. Waiver is confined to acts done within the scope of the agent's authority and to matters which can be waived. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Bussell [Ark.] 86 S. W. 814.

Payment of premiums: General agents may ordinarily waive provisions that the policy shall not take effect until the payment of the premium, but subagents have no such authority. Pennsylvania Casualty Co. v. Bacon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 907.

A general agent who is permitted by the company to accept notes payable to himself in lieu of cash, the company looking to him instead of the policy holder, has authority to bind the company by accepting notes, his act in so doing being within the apparent scope of his authority. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Abbey [Ark.] 88 S. W. 950. The company is bound by his waiver of a cash payment in such case whether he settles with it for the premium or not. Id. Instruction limiting right to recovery to finding that the general agent accepted the notes in lieu of cash held proper. Id. Evidence held to show that agent accepted four notes for quarterly instalments of first annual premium in lieu of cash when policy was delivered, and extended credit for the first year and not merely for the first quarter, and plaintiff was entitled to recover though insured failed to pay the first three notes where he died before the fourth became due. Id.

Local agent with authority to receive premiums and solicit insurance has authority to waive forfeiture by the receipt of past-due premiums, though the policy limits his authority to the receipt of premiums. Wagaman v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 616, 85 S. W. 117. An agent employed or authorized to collect premiums does not thereby have authority to grant an extension of the time for their payment. Mettropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Hall [Va.] 52 S. E. 345. A soliciting agent employed by a general agent of an insurance company cannot bind the company by agreeing that default in paying premiums shall not forfeit the policy (Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Abbey [Ark.] 88 S. W. 950), nor by accepting notes in lieu of cash for premiums (Id.) But a general agent, clothed with authority to transact generally the company's business in the state, can. Id.

Employers' Liability Insurance: The paymaster of the insured's employer on whom he has given orders for the payment of monthly instalments of the premiums on an industrial policy, to be deducted from the insured's wages and forwarded by the paymaster to the insurer, is the agent of the insured to pay over from his wages the agreed amount as it becomes due on the premium and is the agent of the insurer only for the purpose of remitting to it the amounts so paid. Continental Casualty Co. v. Jasper [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1078. Hence where he fails to retain an instalment as required he has no authority to accept a payment of the amount thereof on behalf of the company after the death of the insured, and does not act as its agent in so doing. Payment by beneficiary, after death of insured who had been notified that the policy had lapsed, and delivery to him by paymaster of company's receipt held not to prevent lapse. Id. Under a policy insuring against liability for injuries caused by insured's negligence, providing that the insurer should be notified of suits to enforce claims for such injuries and defend or settle the same, where the attorneys and agents of the insurer, with the assent of the insured, settle a claim for more than the amount of the policy, and the insured pays the same, further provisions prohibiting settlements by the insured without the written consent of the insurer, and that it shall be liable only after final judgment against the insured and the like have no application and are no defense to an action against the insurer for the amount of the policy. New Amsterdam Casualty Co. v. East Tennessee Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 139 F. 602. The insured having in good faith accepted the agents' assumption of authority to settle a claim on behalf of the insurer, and having paid the amount agreed upon believing that they have acted within their authority, and there being no restrictions on their authority in this regard in the policy, the company can-policy on the authority of the agent to extend the time for the payment of premiums are binding on the insured,[5] unless the company, by a course of business or otherwise, has waived the limitation on the agent's power of waiver.[6] The same is true of limitations on the right to waive conditions and forfeitures,[7] which are, however, often treated as referring to waivers made after the issuance of the policy, and as not precluding a waiver of conditions entering into the validity of the contract at its inception.[8] The company may also after acquiring full knowledge of the facts, not defend on the ground that they had no such authority. Evidence held to authorize finding that agents were authorized to settle or defend, or that assured was justified in assuming that they were. Id.

3. Termination of the authority of a general agent authorized to waive provisions of the policy does not relieve the insurer from the effect of a subsequent waiver unless the insured has notice. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271.

4. Hutson v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1000; Foster v. Pioneer Mut. Ins. Ass'n, 37 Wash. 288, 79 P. 798. Special instructions limiting his authority to accept notes in lieu of cash. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Abbey [Ark.] 88 S. W. 950. Company may qualify general agent's authority, and in such case will not be bound by acts beyond the scope of his authority, where person dealing with him has notice of the limitation. Hutson v. Prudential Ins. Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1000. Limitations in an application printed in very fine type are insufficient. Foster v. Pioneer Mut. Ins. Ass'n, 37 Wash. 288, 79 P. 798. This is true though the agent is only a solicitor, unauthorized to accept insurance. Id.

5. Where agent agreed to accept premium on next day, and requested company's assistant superintendent to collect it which he agreed but failed to do, and on such day insured was sick with illness from which she died, held, that company was not estopped from enforcing forfeiture. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Hall [Va.] 52 S. E. 345.

6. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Hall [Va.] 52 S. E. 345.

7. Johnson v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 339. Binding on the insured and the beneficiary. Hutson v. Prudential Ins. Co. of America [Ga.] 50 S. E. 1000. By accepting policy insured assents to such provision and cannot rely on any agreement with him with regard to a waiver. Id. Acceptance of overdue premium by general agent held not to be waiver of provisions requiring application for revival and proof that insured was in good health. Id. Where policy provides that it cannot be varied or modified and that no forfeiture can be waived and no premiums accepted after they are in arrears except by written agreement signed by an officer of the company, and application that policy shall not take effect until first premium is paid while insured is in good health, agreement by soliciting agent that he would pay premium and that applicant could pay him later is not binding on the company in the absence of proof that it accepted money from the agent or looked to him for payment, and does not constitute payment of the premium or a waiver thereof. Neff v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1041. Will be conclusively presumed to have read limitations. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609. Acceptance of overdue premiums and agreement that they might be paid after they became due held not binding on company. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609. Under a standard policy containing express stipulations with respect to the authority of agents, where it was within the power of the insured to produce the policy to have an additional insurance permit indorsed thereon and he failed to do so, a mere oral promise of the agent to attend to the matter is his own individual promise and does not bind the company or estop it on his failure to do so. Perry v. Caledonian Ins. Co., 103 App. Div. 113, 93 N. Y. S. 50. Where the policy provides that all waivers must be written upon or attached to the policy, it cannot, in the absence of fraud or mistake, be shown by parol that at the time of indorsing a loss payable clause on the policy the agent knew that the property was incumbered by a chattel mortgage in favor of the indorsees, and intended by such indorsement to consent to such mortgage in behalf of the company. Atlas Reduction Co. v. New Zealand Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 497. Knowledge or even statements of the agent in such case are immaterial. Id. It is reasonable and competent for the company to make it a matter of condition in the policy that any consent by an agent to waive or modify any of the express terms of the policy shall be manifested in writing by one of its officers. Pennsylvania Casualty Co. v. Bacon [C. C. A.] 133 F. 907. Such a limited grant of authority is the measure of the agent's power, and any modification or waiver by him not thus manifested is ineffectual, and does not bind the company unless it is shown that he had express authority to dispense with the condition, or that the company subsequently and with knowledge of the facts ratified his action. Id. A subagent has no authority to waive a provision that the policy shall not take effect unless the premium is actually paid prior to any accident on which a claim is made where it appears that the insurer did not charge premiums on policies to its agents until they were actually received. Id. General agent can waive such payment only when it appears that the company held him personally responsible for the premium, or that it was the practice of the company to charge the premium to the agent at the time of delivering to him the premium receipt. Id.

8. Does not prevent knowledge of agent that insured was not the owner of the property on which the insured building was situated operating to estop the company ratify the acts of the agent done beyond the scope of his authority, and thereby waive the breach and estop itself from relying thereon.[9]

Since all prior negotiations are merged in the policy, the insured cannot show that the agent agreed before, or at the time when, the policy was issued that some of its provisions need not be complied with.[10]

(§ 16) D. Reinstatement.[11]—A provision giving the insured the right to restore a policy within a month after forfeiture, on payment of the delinquent premium, with interest, contemplates payment by the insured during his lifetime and not by another after his death.[12] A payment of the principal without the specified interest, does not work a restoration.[13] Additional requirements in a premium note given after default are binding on the insured.[14]

The authority of a special agent to revive a canceled policy will not be presumed but must be proved.[15]

§ 17. Contracts of reinsurance and concurrent insurance.[16]—The general rules of construction previously stated[17] apply to provisions authorizing concurrent insurance and to re-insurance.[18] The acceptance of a sum from a co-insurer in satisfaction of its policy is not conclusive on the insured as to the amount of the loss, if it appears that the payment was by way of compromise and did not represent the company's pro rata share thereof.[19]

Reinsurance.[20]—A contract of reinsurance to an amount not exceeding a specified sum, the loss, if any, payable pro rata at the same time and in the same manner as by the original insurers, means that the loss shall be divided according to the proportion which the amount of reinsurance bears to the original insurance.[21] After the contract of reinsurance has been made it cannot be changed except with the consent of both parties, and hence is not affected by any modification of the original policy.[22] Thus the proportion of the loss for which the reinsurer is liable remains the same notwithstanding a reduction in the amount of the original policy.[23] Where from setting up a provision of the policy that it shall be void "if the subject of the insurance be a building on ground not owned by the insured in fee simple." Johnson v. Aetna Ins. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 339.

9. Acceptance of overdue premium by company held not a ratification or waiver, where agent informed it that it was paid when due. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609.

10. Cannot show by parol that agent agreed when policy was issued that premiums should not be due until a date later than that fixed by the policy (Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Hall [Va.] 52 S. E. 345), or that they were to be payable at the house of the insured contrary to the terms of the policy (Id.).

11. See 4 C. L. 207.

12. National Life Ins. Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 618.

13. Of premium note. National Life Ins. Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 618.

14. Where policy provided for restoration at any time within a month by payment of the premium with interest, but after default insured gave a note providing that policy should determine if it was not paid at maturity, but that it would be restored if note was collected after maturity and satisfactory evidence of good health was furnished, held, that insured was bound by the terms of the note and after default in its payment was only entitled to restoration on furnishing evidence of good health, though policy did not require it. National Life Ins. Co. v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 618.

15. Fire insurance. Colonial Assur. Co. v. National Fire Ins. Co., 110 Ill. App. 471.

16. See 4 C. L. 207. For conditions against other insurance, see § 9, ante.

17. See § 7, ante.

18. The phrase "$1500 total concurrent insurance permitted, including this policy," indorsed on a fire policy, limits the total amount of insurance to $1,500, and does not allow $1,500 additional insurance. Home Ins. Co. v. Morrow [Ala.] 39 So. 587. Contract of reinsurance and assumption of plaintiff's policy held not to change insurance from assessment to old line. Hayden v. Franklin Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 285.

19. While it appeared that the property was insured in another company and that plaintiff had accepted from the latter a small sum, held, that there was evidence authorizing a finding that such sum did not represent a pro rata share of the loss as claimed by plaintiff, and that it was accepted only because plaintiff realized that company was not liable to him in any amount. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Harris [Ga.] 52 S. E. 88.

20. See 4 C. L. 209.

21, 22. Home Ins. Co. v. Continental Ins. Co., 180 N. Y. 389, 73 N. E. 65, afg. 89 App. Div. 1, 85 N. Y. S. 262.

a mutual company partially reinsures a risk in another company and assigns the policy of reinsurance to the party holding the original policy, the latter may, on the occurrence of a loss covered by both policies institute suits on both policies at once, they being independent and there being no provision to the contrary in either of them.[24] The liability of the reinsuring company in such case is not limited to its pro rata share of the loss, in the absence of a provision to that effect in its policy.[25]

A policy holder agreeing to an assumption by another company of the liability on his policy and releasing the original insurer cannot participate in the reserve fund of the latter.[26]

A town mutual insurance company organized under the Missouri statutes may reinsure a similar company organized under the same statute where it could have itself insured the property in the first instance.[27] Such reinsurance not being expressly prohibited, the reinsuring company cannot contend that the contract is ultra vires after it has been fully executed by the other party.[28]

§ 18. The loss or benefits, its extent and extent of liability therefor.[29] Fire insurance.—The right of a mortgagee to recover on the policy is limited only by his interest in the property[30] and the amount of the mortgage debt,[31] but a mortgagee who is also a trustee may recover the full amount of the loss.[32]

By statute in some states if the total cash value of the property destroyed is less than the total insurance, no provision in the policy can operate to reduce the amount to be paid to a sum less than such cash value.[33] Under a policy providing that the insurer shall not be liable beyond the actual cash value at the time of the loss which in no event shall exceed the then cost to the insured of replacing the same, the measure of damages is what it would cost to replace the property, not instanter, but within a reasonable time.[34] "Cash value" means the cash market value at the time and place where the goods are situated and the fire occurs, or if there is no

23. Where original policy is for $10,000, and reinsurance is for an amount not to exceed $5,000, with the pro rata provision above quoted, on the subsequent reduction of the original policy to $2,000, the reinsurer is liable only for half the amount recovered against the original insurer, and not for the full amount thereof. Home Ins. Co. v. Continental Ins. Co., 180 N. Y. 389, 73 N. E. 65, afg. 89 App. Div. 1, 85 N. Y. S. 262.

24, 25. Cass County v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 237.

26. Jenkins v. Sun Life Ins. Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 1142, 87 S. W. 1143.

27. Company organized under Act March 21, 1895 (Sess. Laws 1895, p. 200). Cass County v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 237. Not prevented from doing so by Rev. St. 1889, § 5875, forbidding such companies from doing business on any other plan than that on which they are organized, where reinsurance is on the same plan as the original insurance. Id.

28. Cass County v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo.] 86 S. W. 237.

29. See 4 C. L. 209.

30. See, also, § 11, ante. The right of mortgagee of realty to recover on a policy payable to him as his interest may appear is limited to the amount of insurance on the building. Verdict for amount of insurance on both the building and the personalty therein held excessive where he had no lien on the latter. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287.

31. Where he insures solely on his own account, if the premises are destroyed before any payment or extinguishment of the mortgage, the insurer is bound to pay him the amount of the debt if it does not exceed the insurance. Baker v. Monumental Sav. & Loan Ass'n [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 403.

32. A mortgagee of chattels to whom the owner has given a bill of sale, to sell them, deduct his claim, pay other debts and turn over any balance, is the legal owner and trustee of an express trust, and may collect the entire insurance thereon, though more than his claim. Wheaton v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850.

33. Rev. St. 1898, § 1943a, providing that no fire policy shall limit the amount to be paid at less than the actual cash value of the property, if within the amount of the insurance for which premium is paid, means the actual cash value of the property destroyed. Newton v. Theresa Village Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 104 N. W. 107. In such case provision that if at the time of the fire the total insurance on the property shall exceed 75 per cent. of the actual cash value of the property, "this policy shall hereby become void in the proportion of such excess to such total insurance," has no effect. Id.

34. Thirty days held to be a reasonable time within which to replace stock of merchandise. Texas Moline Plow Co. v. Niagara Fire Ins. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 4, 87 S. W. 192.

market value there, then at the nearest adjacent markets, or, if that is not shown, its intrinsic value.[35] In determining such value the jury may consider its intrinsic value, its value in adjacent markets, the ease or difficulty of transportation, the demand for such property, the fact that it was second hand, its deterioration, the price paid for it, the opinion of witnesses knowing its value, and all other facts and circumstances in evidence tending to show value.[36] Realized, but not prospective, profits may be considered.[37]

A provision that the insurer shall not be liable for loss caused by neglect of the insured to use all reasonable means to save or preserve the property at or after a fire or when the property is endangered by fire in neighboring premises, only requires the insured to exercise care in saving or preserving the property at or after the fire and prevents a recovery for so much of it as could have been saved by the insured with the exercise of due care and the use of reasonable means.[38] It does not apply to negligent acts before the fire starts,[39] and the insurer is liable even though the negligent act of the insured or his servants, not amounting to fraud, be the proximate cause of the damage.[40]

Several insurers are each liable for the loss up to the amount of their policies, but there can be only one satisfaction.[41]

Valued policies.[42]—Valued policy laws in many states make the insurer liable for the full amount of the insurance specified in the contract in case of a total loss.[43]

Endowments.—A provision adjusting the amount of the endowment according to the number of members in an assessment company will not be cut down by a reduction of the productiveness of an assessment due to the fact that many members have exercised the right to change to a flat premium system.[44]

35, 36. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135.

37. Instructions approved. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135.

38. Beavers v. Security Mut. Ins. Co. [Ark.] 90 S. W. 13. Negligence in this regard does not work a forfeiture of the entire policy, but merely precludes a recovery for such property as could have been saved by the use of reasonable means at the insured's command. Requested instruction properly refused. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135. Evidence held to justify finding that insured did not fail to make reasonable effort to save the property. Schornak v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1087.

39. Beavers v. Security Mut. Ins. Co. [Ark.] 90 S. W. 13.

40. Mere carelessness or negligence not amounting to fraud, though the direct cause of the fire, is covered by the policy. Instruction held erroneous and prejudicial. Beavers v. Security Mut. Ins. Co. [Ark.] 90 S. W. 13.

41. Fact that insured has recovered judgment against one of the companies is no defense to a suit against the other. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Sample, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 629. Payment of one of said judgments and the costs of both suits operates as a satisfaction as to both to the extent of the amount paid. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Sample, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 629.

42. See 4 C. L. 210.

43. In Arkansas, in case of a total loss, the policy is regarded as a liquidated demand for the full amount thereof, and hence the value of such property is not open to evidence. Kirby's Dig. § 4375. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Noe [Ark.] 88 S. W. 572.

Mississippi statute applies to a builder's risk policy for more than the builder's interest in the building. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Antram [Miss.] 38 So. 626.

Pennsylvania: A valued policy is not one which estimates merely the value of the property insured, but is one which values the loss, and is equivalent to an assessment of damages in the event of a loss. Whiteman v. Merion Title & Trust Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 320. Under a policy of title insurance whereby company agrees to "indemnify, keep harmless, and insure" a mortgagee "from all loss or damage, not exceeding $1,500, which the said insured shall sustain by reason of defects or unmarketability of the title of the insured to the estate, mortgage, or interest described, * * * or because of any liens on it or incumbrances, charging the same at the date of this policy," where the insured suffers a total loss by reason of the sale of the property under a prior mortgage, the insurer is liable only for the actual value of the land, and not for the amount of the mortgage insured. Id.

Total loss: Loss held total where building was wholly destroyed except a glass door which was destroyed after its removal. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Noe [Ark.] 88 S. W. 572.

44. Policy in assessment company provided that if insured paid specified assessments up to a certain date it would pay him a certain sum provided 80 per cent. of an assessment levied on all its members would produce that amount. Held, that he was entitled to such sum at such time though

Employers' liability insurance.[45]—Where the company does not defend the suit against the insured and the insured has to defend and is precluded by the terms of the policy from making a settlement, the company is liable for the costs of such suit in an action on the policy.[46] If the insurer is obligated to defend actions against the insured, it is liable for the entire expense of an action based in part on negligent acts covered by its policy and in part on a contract liability not so covered, in the absence of a showing that the amount expended was not necessary to establish the defense which the insurer was bound to make.[47] Where the exclusive control of compromises is reserved to the insurer it may reject an offer without being liable beyond the amount insured in event of a larger recovery.[48]

§ 19. Notice, claim, and proof of loss.[49]—Provisions requiring notice[50] and proofs of loss are conditions precedent and must be complied with before a recovery can be had on the policy.[51] The same is true of a requirement that the insured furnish a certificate of a notary or magistrate if required, where a demand therefor before suit is shown.[52] It has, however, been held that equity having acquired jurisdiction of a suit to compel reinstatement of plaintiff's insurance notwithstanding a forfeiture, and having decreed such reinstatement without an appeal by defendant, the company, under statutory authority, subsequently changed from assessment to the stipulated premium plan of insurance, and most of the members changed their assessment certificates for stipulated premium policies, where it appeared that 80 per cent. of an assessment on all members, including those who had made the change, would more than equal such sum. Smith v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co., 123 Wis. 586, 102 N. W. 57. His right of recovery could not be limited to 80 per cent. of an assessment on members who refused to change their certificates for stipulated premium policies. Id. Statute authorizing the change (Laws 1899, c. 270, p. 460) does not have that effect since it provides that no existing contracts shall be annulled, modified, or changed thereby. Id. Nor did reserved right to change by-laws, since that right is expressly limited so that "the amount of the benefit shall not be reduced," and it did not appear that by-laws were changed. Id. Such statute does not require a classification of members so that moneys derived from members entering after the change was required to be exclusively devoted to their insurance and could not be devoted to payment of plaintiff's claim. Id. Cannot be contended that plaintiff is only entitled to what can be collected by assessment, but by taking stipulated premiums from new members company will be deemed to have commuted and collected from them in advance their assessments to meet plaintiff's policy. Id. Plaintiff's right is not affected by consolidation of company with another and reinsurance by latter of all outstanding insurance, at least where there is no proof to limit the assumption by the purchasing company of the other company's liability to plaintiff. Id.

45. See 4 C. L. 211.

46. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Henderson Cotton Mills, 27 Ky. L. R. 653, 85 S. W. 1090.

47. Under employer's liability policy indemnifying navigation company against damages for injuries to its employes caused by its negligence, and obligating defendant to defend any action against plaintiff for such damages, held, that defendant was liable for the entire expense of an action based on negligence and on a breach of plaintiff's contract duty to care for an injured seaman. Globe Nav. Co. v. Maryland Casualty Co. [Wash.] 81 P. 826.

48. Rumford, etc., Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 92 Me. 574, 43 A. 503, cited New Orleans & C. R. Co. v. Maryland Casualty Co. [La.] 38 So. 89.

49. See 4 C. L. 211. See Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

50. Accident insurance: Giving of notice of accident within ten days after its occurrence. Johnson v. American Casualty Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1009.

Fire insurance: Must be affirmatively shown that requirements of immediate notice and that proofs shall be furnished within 60 days have been complied with, or that they have been waived by some officer authorized to represent insurer in the adjustment and settlement of the loss. Conditions are separate and compliance with each must be shown. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568. Finding that proofs were waived by the conduct of the insurer held to necessarily involve finding that insurer had notice, so that separate finding that it was given was unnecessary. Id.

51. Fire insurance. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568. Unless waived. Perry v. Caledonian Ins. Co., 103 App. Div. 113, 93 N. Y. S. 50; Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 137 N. C. 402, 49 S. E. 889. Policy is rendered void by failure to present proofs within the time limit. Billings v. National Ins. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 567. Evidence held to authorize submission to the jury of question whether agents, in receiving insured's proofs of loss, were acting within the scope of their authority. Schloss & Kahn v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Ala.] 37 So. 701.

52. Egan v. Merchants' Fire Ass'n [Wash.] 82 P. 898.

may give judgment for the amount of an endowment becoming due thereunder before trial, though no proofs of loss have been furnished and the policy provides that it shall not be payable until sixty days after such proofs.[53] Failure to give the required notice is not excused because the result of accident, mistake, and misfortune,[54] nor because the insurer has actual knowledge of the facts.[55] By statute in some states all provisions for notice and proofs are made void if the insurer is a member of any association whose object is the fixing of rates for insurance.[56]

A requirement that notice[57] or proofs be furnished within a specified time does not work a forfeiture for noncompliance therewith in the absence of a provision to that effect, but at most only affects the maturity of the claim.[58] They may nevertheless be furnished within a reasonable time, but must be made within such time as will enable the insured to bring his suit within the time limited by the policy.[59] Notice under an accident policy is sufficient if given within the prescribed time after the insured knows that the accident is the cause of the injury.[60] Immediate notice means notice within a reasonable time under the circumstances.[61]

53. Smith v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co., 123 Wis. 586, 102 N. W. 57.

54. Not because agent failed to inform insured of existence of accident policy. Johnson v. Maryland Casualty Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1009.

55. Not by fact that it has knowledge of loss under fire policy, no waiver being shown. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204.

56. See §§ 1, 3, ante.

57. There should be a clear and express provision for forfeiture before the courts will enforce it. James v. United States Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 125. Provision that no claim should be valid unless the provisions and conditions should be complied with held not an express provision for forfeiture for failure to give such notice. Id.

58. Fire insurance: Instruction approved. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350.

Life insurance: Failure to furnish proofs of death merely postpones the right to sue until proofs have been furnished. Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213.

59. Instruction authorizing recovery if proofs were furnished within a reasonable time and not later than 60 days prior to the end of 12 months after the fire approved. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350.

60. Where neither the insured nor his physicians knew for nearly eight months that his injuries were due to the accident, but supposed that he had rheumatism, the failure to give notice within ten days after the accident did not justify a forfeiture. United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176.

61. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4923. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Fitzgerald [Ind.] 75 N. E. 262. Evidence held not so convincing that notice was given within reasonable time as to render harmless an instruction that subsequent denial of liability on another ground, without mentioning the failure to give notice, would amount to a waiver, though question of reasonable time was for the jury under the circumstances. Id. Evidence insufficient to show due diligence in furnishing sworn statement. Parker v. Farmers' Fire Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 286. Delay of four months, when insured was well able to give notice held unreasonable. Dunshee v. Travelers Ins. Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 559.

NOTE. Notice of injury: Plaintiffs were owners of certain mines and Y. Bros., coplaintiffs, were operating said mines, the proceeds being divided between them and plaintiff company. The latter took out with defendant a contract of indemnity insurance in favor of itself and Y. Bros. to cover liability for accidents to employes. Y. Bros. knew nothing of the policy. A man was injured at the mine but was kept from his work by the injury only a day or two, and made no complaint until about eight months thereafter, when he brought suit. Plaintiff company had no knowledge of the accident until the day before suit was commenced. They at once notified the insurance company, which denied liability on the ground that immediate notice of accident was not given in accordance with the terms of the contract. The injured man recovered from the mining company and Y. Bros., who now seek to recoup on the policy. Held, defendant is not liable. Deer Trail Consol. Min. Co. v. Maryland Casualty Co., 36 Wash. 46, 78 P. 135.

Immediate notice is universally construed to mean notice within a reasonable time. And what is a reasonable time is ordinarily a question of fact for the jury, taking into consideration all the circumstances of the case. 2 May, Insurance [4th Ed.] § 462. Ward v. Maryland Cas. Co., 71 N. H. 262, 93 Am. St. Rep. 514; Columbia Paper Stock Co. v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 104 Mo. 157, 78 S. W. 320; Mandel v. Fidelity & Cas. Co., 170 Mass. 173, 64 Am. St. Rep. 291; McFarland v. Acc. Ass'n, 124 Mo. 218; Underwood Veneer Co. v. London Guar. & Acc. Co., 100 Wis. 378. In several cases where the policy provided that notice of accident or loss should be given within a certain time specified, notice given after that time has been held sufficient under the circumstances though delay was through no fault of the insurer. Trippe v. Prov. Fund Soc., 140 N. Y. 23, 37 Am. St. Rep. 529, 22 L. R. A. 432; Woodmen's Acc. Ass'n v. Pratt, 62 Neb. 673,

A substantial compliance with the provisions of the policy as to proofs of loss is sufficient.[62] The statements of value made need not be within plaintiff's personal knowledge.[63] If the insured is a nonresident a verification by his agent is sufficient.[64] In order to require the furnishing of new proofs there must be a real, intentional withdrawal of the original ones.[65] A second proof is not ordinarily rendered necessary by an award of appraisers[66] nor is the delivery of proofs affected by reason of the fact that the insured subsequently borrows them.[67]

Under a policy providing that any medical officer of the insurer shall have the right and opportunity, as often as he may desire, to examine the body of the insured in order to ascertain the cause of death, and that any failure to comply with such provision shall operate to defeat the policy, a failure to extend such permission, upon demand made at a reasonable time and place before burial, is a bar to recovery.[68] Such a right does not include a right of autopsy or dissection, or a right of exhumation for that purpose.[69]

False swearing.[70]—In order that false swearing may avoid the policy it must be intentional[71] or the result of a reckless disregard of the truth,[72] must relate to a material matter,[73] and must result in prejudice to the insurer.[74]

89 Am. St. Rep. 777, 55 L. R. A. 291; Kentzler v. Am. Mut. Acc. Ass'n, 88 Wis. 589, 43 Am. St. Rep. 934. But contra, Gamble v. Acc. Ass'n, 4 Ir. R. C. L. 204. The holding in the principal case is no doubt correct and in accord with the great majority of former decisions, though the case of Chamberlain v. Ins. Co., 55 N. H. 249, seems to take precisely the opposite view.—3 Mich. L. R. 241.

62. Instruction requiring absolute compliance properly refused. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350; Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Ailey [Va.] 51 S. E. 812.

Proofs held sufficient. Fire Ass'n v. Yeagley, 34 Ind. App. 387, 72 N. E. 1035. Where stock of merchandise was totally destroyed, though failing to give the cash value of each item and the loss thereon. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Ailey [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Proof held sufficiently specific in describing property destroyed and its value. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

63. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135.

64. Though policy requires it to be sworn to by the insured. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Northern Assur. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 610, 105 N. W. 76.

65. Evidence held not to show such withdrawal. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

66. Policy held not to require second proof. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

67. For purpose of copying them. Walker v. Lancashire Ins. Co. [Mass.] 75 N. E. 66. Evidence held to justify finding that proofs of loss were properly delivered. Id.

68, 69. Patterson v. Ocean Acc. & G. Corp., 25 App. D. C. 46.

70. See 4 C. L. 215.

71. A false statement is not a defense in an action for insurance, unless shown to have been made with intent to deceive and that prejudice resulted. Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 377, 102 N. W. 120. Oath by insured that property belonged to him as mortgagee and that no other person had any interest therein except the mortgagor, held not to be false though mortgage was given to him personally to secure loan of money belonging to the bank of which he was president. Id.; Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127. Evidence held insufficient to show false swearing as to ownership and condition of title. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 565, 102 N. W. 502. Evidence held to sustain verdict that there was no false swearing. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287. Finding that insured was not guilty of wilful false swearing held not to be against the clear preponderance of the evidence. Newton v. Theresa Village Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 104 N. W. 107. The fraud referred to in a policy as avoiding the contract is actual fraud and requires proof of a fraudulent intent. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Northern Assur. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 610, 105 N. W. 76. Policy not avoided by mistake in including in proofs property removed before the fire, or in describing insured's interest. Id. False and fraudulent statements in the proofs as to the value of the property knowingly made avoid the policy, but misstatements made in good faith and believing them to be true do not. Instruction approved. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135. A mere inadvertent misstatement of loss, based on an erroneous estimate of value, does not constitute false swearing. Nugent v. Rensselaer County Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 605. Mere overvaluation of the property does not make the proofs fraudulent. Home Ins. Co. v. Overturf [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 47. If a plaintiff falsely and knowingly inserts any single article which was not burned or not in the house, the fraud prevents his recovery on the policy. Evidence held to show fraud in this regard. Rovinsky v. Northern Assur. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 1025. Where the insured warranted his statements as to the accident to be true, an erroneous statement against his own interest, innocently made, is not ground for forfeiting his rights. Wall v. Continental

Examination under oath.[75]—Notice of the intention of a fire insurance company to have an examination of a policyholder whose property has been destroyed is sufficient when it states the time and place of the examination and the name of the person who is to conduct it.[76]

Waiver.[77]—The requirement of notice and proofs of loss is for the benefit of the insurer and may be waived by it.[78] The waiver may be express or it may be implied from any acts or conduct on the part of the insurer reasonably calculated to lead the insured to believe that no proofs will be required,[79] as by a distinct denial of liability on other grounds after having been notified of the loss within the required time,[80] or proceedings looking to an adjustment of the loss;[81] but a failure to furnish proofs

Casualty Co., [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491. As to immediate and total disability. Id. Proofs taken as a whole held consistent with the belief that insured was immediately and totally disabled to perform work or business, and not bound to produce a belief to the contrary in the minds of defendant's officers, or such as to conclusively establish the fact that he was not so disabled. Id.

72. Must be willful or careless. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287. Putting such false and excessive valuation on the whole as displays a reckless and dishonest regard of the truth is itself fraudulent and prevents any recovery at all. Evidence held to show fraudulent overvaluation. Rovinsky v. Northern Assur. Co. [Me.] 60 A. 1025. Evidence of plaintiff and his wife held so unreasonable and incredible and so overborne by established facts and circumstances that court was not justified in accepting it as basis of decision. Id.

73. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287.

74. Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics Ins. Co., 126 Iowa, 377, 102 N. W. 120; Dalton v. Germania Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 127.

75. See 4 C. L. 215.

76. Mahoney v. Insurance Co., 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 246.

77. See 4 C. L. 213.

78. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568; Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 137 N. C. 402, 49 S. E. 889.

79. Gray v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 113 Ill. App. 537. Instructions approved. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803. Any acts or conduct which lead the insured reasonably to infer that no proofs will be required. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568. Acts or conduct evidencing a recognition of liability. Id. The failure to answer a letter from the insured, stating that one claiming to represent the insurer had called after the fire, but did not examine the property, and asking permission to remove the goods saved, did not constitute an admission that the representative who called had authority to adjust the loss and to waive proofs, there being no statement in the letter that the man came as an adjuster. Parker v. Farmers' Fire Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 286.

80. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Thomas [Md.] 61 A. 293; Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350.

Proofs held waived: Evidence held to justify verdict that adjuster waived proofs by denying liability. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025. Complaint held to show waiver. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. Even if insufficient, ruling that it was held harmless where ample evidence of waiver was admitted without objection. Id. A demand for payment and an offer to make proof of death by one to whom the policy authorizes payment to be made, and a denial to him of liability amounts to a waiver of other proof and authorizes an immediate action on the policy. Rutherford v. Prudential Ins. Co., 34 Ind. App. 531, 73 N. E. 202. Evidence held to show denial, especially as adjuster demanded the execution of a non-waiver agreement by the insured. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. Teutonia Ins. Co., 113 La. 1053, 37 So. 967. Evidence showing that refusal to settle was based on sole ground that building was not worth amount for which it was insured, etc., held to justify finding of waiver. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568. Finding of waiver held not objectionable as being based on letter insufficient in itself to show waiver, since facts therein referred to must be considered in connection with it. Id.

Proofs not waived: By denial of liability by adjuster where it did not appear on what ground liability was denied, and when, with reference to the time for furnishing proofs, the waiver was claimed to have become effective, particularly where no issue as to such waiver was tendered by the pleadings. Fire Ass'n v. Yeagley, 34 Ind. App. 387, 72 N. E. 1035. Where notice was not given within a reasonable time, the fact that the company denied all liability solely on the ground that the policy did not cover the injury held not a waiver of immediate notice. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Fitzgerald [Ind.] 75 N. E. 262. Rule does not apply to case where company wrote beneficiary that it would not pay because it appeared from proofs that plaintiff had given false answers to questions in the application in that she swore that insured never had consumption and proofs showed that he was treated for that disease prior to the date of the policy, and plaintiff showed on the trial that proofs had no relation to insured and repudiated them. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Thomas [Md.] 61 A. 293.

81. Proceedings for adjustment held waiver of strict compliance with requirement as to notice. Walker v. Lancashire Ins. Co. [Mass.] 75 N. E. 66. An agreement to arbitrate is a waiver of the want of due proofs. Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 137 N. C. 402, 49 S. E. 889. Where insured on time is not waived by the retention of overdue proofs.[82] There can, however, be no waiver without a full knowledge of the facts.[83] A waiver once made cannot be abrogated without the consent of the insured.[84]

A waiver of proofs is a waiver of the condition that no action can be maintained upon the policy, and no loss is payable under it until a limited time after satisfactory proof of loss has been received by the company.[85] In such case suit may be brought at once upon the denial of liability, although the time limited by the policy after proof may not have expired.[86]

Defects in the proofs are waived by a failure to object thereto within a reasonable time after their receipt.[87]

The powers of an agent are prima facie coextensive with the business intrusted to his care,[88] and will not be narrowed by limitations not communicated to the person with whom he deals.[89] Adjusters are generally held to have power to waive proofs either directly or by their acts or conduct,[90] though there appears to be some conflict of authority in this regard.[91] claims that arbitration has failed because of fraud he is not required to file proofs before suing to establish the fraud and recover his damages. Id. Where an agreement for arbitration was entered into nine days after the loss, a failure to answer a telegram sent by the insured on the seventeenth day, as to when the insurer's appraiser would come, was not a waiver of proofs required to be made within 60 days after loss, or of appraisal. Providence Washington Ins. Co. v. Wolf [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1093, modifying 72 N. E. 606.

82. Perry v. Caledonian Ins. Co., 103 App. Div. 113, 93 N. Y. S. 50.

83. Held no waiver of proofs in absence of evidence that defendant knew or had reason to know that the proofs actually supplied had no relation to the insured. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Thomas [Md.] 61 A. 293.

84. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568. Operates to strike the condition requiring them out of the contract. Id.

85, 86. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803.

87. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350. Evidence that company retained unsigned notice of loss for sixty days without objection, and offered to pay a certain sum as an adjustment of the loss held to warrant a submission to the jury of a waiver of formal proofs. Glaser v. Home Ins. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 524. Failure to furnish certificate of justice held waived where the insurer made no objection to payment on that ground. Norris v. Equitable Fire Ass'n [S. D.] 102 N. W. 306. The retention of proofs of death sent after time limited in the policy. Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213.

88. See, also, § 16 C, ante. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803. Acts of managers of branch office of company organized in a foreign country and doing business in the United States, intrusted with unlimited powers, are equivalent to the acts of the company itself. Evidence held to show that defendant's United States branch office had such powers. Id. Agent not authorized to adjust losses cannot bind the insurer to a waiver by an unauthorized statement that the policy was void and that the insurer would not pay it. Perry v. Caledonian Ins. Co., 103 App. Div. 113, 93 N. Y. S. 50. Agent's denial of liability in the exercise of his authority held waiver. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204. The fact that the agent did not point out any defects in proofs but indicated intention to contest on other grounds, held sufficient to authorize finding of substantial compliance or a waiver. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350. Action of officer to whom accident policy required insured to give notice of injury in refusing to pay for failure to give notice of loss held binding on company. Moore v. National Acc. Soc., 38 Wash. 31, 80 P. 171.

89. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803; Walker v. Lancashire Ins. Co. [Mass.] 75 N. E. 66.

90. Agent with authority to examine and adjust a loss. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. Held waived by statement of adjuster that proofs need not be furnished. Gray v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 113 Ill. App. 537. Conduct of defendant, whose adjuster prepared proofs with knowledge of controversy, held a waiver of requirement that proofs should be submitted within a specified time. Lake Superior Produce & Cold Storage Co. v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 94 N. W. 560.

Denial of liability. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. Teutonia Ins. Co., 113 La. 1053, 37 So. 967. Where person alleged to be general agent was served with proofs of loss, and adjuster thereafter proceeded to adjust loss but stopped on ground that he had discovered transfer of title, evidence held to have fairly raised question of waiver, so that it was properly submitted to the jury. Southern Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 88. Acts and declarations of agent and adjuster tending to show denial of liability held prima facie binding on company under Civ. Code 1902, § 1810, prescribing who are agents. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855.

91. Cannot waive provisions of policy. Emanuel v. Maryland Casualty Co., 94 N. Y. S. 36.

There is a conflict of authority as to the effect of provisions in the policy limiting the authority of agents to make waivers and requiring them to be in writing and indorsed on the policy.[92] Some courts hold that they prevent an oral waiver of proofs by an agent,[93] others that they apply only to waivers before loss,[94] and still others that, being for the benefit of the insurer, they may be waived by it,[95] and do not preclude the insured from showing as a fact that the officer, agent, or representative having in charge the adjustment of the loss was invested with the same power, or, in other words, that the restrictions upon his power of waiver had been removed.[96]

§ 20. Adjustment and arbitration.[97]—Provisions in regard to arbitration are for the benefit of the company, and on receipt of the proofs of loss it is its duty to take the necessary steps to have the loss adjusted in accordance with the contract.[98] Provisions requiring an appraisal as a condition precedent to suit will be strictly construed against the company.[99] The arbitration provided for in the Minnesota standard policy is not a condition precedent to action, unless a controversy between the parties as to the amount of the loss in fact exists.[1]

In South Dakota, in the case of mutual fire companies, the secretary is required to adjust the loss. If a satisfactory settlement cannot be made he is required to appoint a committee for that purpose, and if they cannot agree, then the insured and the company are each required to choose a disinterested party who, with a third party to be chosen by them if they do not agree, constitute a board of arbitration whose decision is final as to all matters in dispute.[2] The company may waive this provision and does so by failure to prove an offer to the insured to settle the claim, and by failing to appoint an arbitrator and requesting the appointment of one by the insured.[3] Proof that a committee has been appointed and reported to the secretary is inadmissible in the absence of proof that no settlement has been effected.[4]

92. See, also, § 16 C, ante.

93. Since no officer or agent can waive any stipulations except in the manner provided therein. Billings v. National Ins. Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 567.

94. Parol evidence of waiver is admissible. St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. Teutonia Ins. Co., 113 La. 1053, 37 So. 967.

95. Though policy provides that no agent or adjuster shall have the right to acknowledge or deny liability. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. Provisions that no officer or agent of the company may waive any conditions of the policy except those which may by its terms be made the subject of agreement and that the waiver of such conditions must be written upon or attached to the policy. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803. In any event such provisions do not apply to waiver of proofs of loss, where proofs are not included in conditions which may be changed. Id.

96. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803. This fact being proved, the adjuster would have all the authority of the company in the settlement of the loss, including the waiver of the specified provisions relating thereto, notwithstanding the limitations contained in the policy. Id. Unless restricted in his authority, and unless insured has notice of that fact, adjuster has all the power of the company, in the settlement of a loss, to waive any of the conditions of the policy. Id. The waiver of conditions or of the limitations on the agent's authority to waive them may be shown by parol, since the waiver itself may be by parol. Id. As by acts and declarations of the agent appointed to adjust a loss in the course of the performance of his duty. Id.

97. See 4 C. L. 216. See, also, Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

98. Its duty and not that of the insured to institute the arbitration proceedings. Norris v. Equitable Fire Ass'n [S. D.] 102 N. W. 306.

99. Norris v. Equitable Fire Ass'n [S. D.] 102 N. W. 306. A mutual fire company having issued an old line or standard policy, the insured is entitled to rely on the same, and proceed according to its provisions. May sue thereon after furnishing proofs required thereby, at least where defendant makes no effort to procure statutory arbitration. Id.

1. Kelly v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 380.

2. Laws 1897, p. 199, c. 70, § 7. Norris v. Equitable Fire Ass'n [S. D.] 102 N. W. 306.

3. Norris v. Equitable Fire Ass'n [S. D.] 102 N. W. 306. Where, after notice of a loss given to a mutual insurance company organized under Laws 1897, p. 199, c. 70, § 7, none of the steps prescribed by the statute for adjustment were taken, it amounted to a waiver of the conditions. Id. Question put to secretary as to whether he had made

A mere naked agreement to arbitrate may be revoked before the arbitrators have agreed upon an award.[5]

A mortgagee to whom, by an open mortgage clause, the policy is made payable as his interest may appear is not the insured within the meaning of provisions for the appraisal of the loss.[6] In the absence of any provision to the contrary he has no right to participate in the adjustment of the loss, and is bound by the action of the owner in accepting the award of the appraisers even though they used an erroneous method of computation.[7]

The agreement for arbitration is collateral to the contract for insurance, and if it fails of accomplishment without fault of parties, they are relegated to their legal rights independent thereof.[8] After a disagreement as to the loss and a request by either party for arbitration both parties are under the duty to act in good faith to have the loss ascertained as provided by the policy,[9] and if either in bad faith prevents such ascertainment by refusing to proceed,[10] or by insisting on the selection of improper arbitrators,[11] or by undue interference with them after their selection, the other party is thereby absolved from further obligation to arbitrate.[12] But an arbitration cannot, after it is properly submitted, be defeated by the withdrawal of one of the appraisers during the investigation.[13]

By disinterested is meant fair and unprejudiced.[14] The fact that the appraiser selected by the insured has a preconceived opinion as an expert, derived from a personal inspection of the property, does not disqualify him,[15] nor does the fact that he was previously employed by the insured to make an estimate of the loss and damage, though the latter fact may be considered by the jury in determining whether he is disinterested.[16] Failure to object to the selection of an interested party on acquiring knowledge of the facts is a waiver of the objection.[17] The selection of an interested appraiser by the insured does not estop him from objecting to an incompetent and interested appraiser selected by the insurer.[18]

In cases where the proceedings provided for are not ordinary arbitrations but are merely an appraisal and ascertainment of the amount of the loss, the neces-a settlement with the insured held incompetent. Id.

4. Norris v. Equitable Fire Ass'n [S. D.] 102 N. W. 306.

5. Agreement for reference held revocable and revoked by commencing suit before award. Seibel v. Firemen's Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 154, afd. 62 A. 101.

6. Term insured held limited to the owner and his legal representatives. Collinsville Sav. Soc. v. Boston Ins. Co., 77 Conn. 676, 60 A. 647.

7. Collinsville Sav. Soc. v. Boston Ins. Co., 77 Conn. 676, 60 A. 647.

8, 9. Western Assur. Co. v. Hall Bros. [Ala.] 38 So. 853.

10. Arbitration not in accordance with the terms of the policy having failed, and insured having thereafter requested and insisted upon a proper arbitration which was refused by the company, held, that he could sue on the policy. Western Assur. Co. v. Hall Bros. [Ala.] 38 So. 853. The right to an appraisal will be waived by the insurer, if its referee with its direct or indirect approval arbitrarily refuses to co-operate in the choice of a third referee, and refuses to further act as referee or if, after disapproval of such action, it refuses to agree to the selection of other referees. O'Rourke v. German Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 900. Facts held to justify a finding of a waiver. Id.

11. Where the umpire and one or more of the arbitrators were partial and incompetent, and the insured, as soon as he learned of it demanded the selection of disinterested and competent ones, but the insurer refused, the insured could break up the arbitration and sue on the policy. Western Assur. Co. v. Hall Bros. [Ala.] 38 So. 853.

12. Western Assur. Co. v. Hall Bros. [Ala.] 38 So. 853.

13. Niagara Fire Ins. Co. v. Boon [Ark.] 88 S. W. 915.

14. National Fire Ins. Co. v. O'Bryan [Ark.] 87 S. W. 129. Evidence insufficient to warrant disqualification of appraisers for bias and partisanship. Niagara Fire Ins. Co. v. Boon [Ark.] 88 S. W. 915.

15. National Fire Ins. Co. v. O'Bryan [Ark.] 87 S. W. 129.

16. Instruction approved. National Fire Ins. Co. v. O'Bryan [Ark.] 87 S. W. 129.

17. Failure of the insurer to object to the selection of the insured's clerk. Western Assur. Co. v. Hall Bros. [Ala.] 38 So. 853.

18. Waiver of objection by company does not authorize it to select an incompetent and interested party and conceal that fact from the insurer. Western Assur. Co. v. Hall Bros. [Ala.] 38 So. 853.

sity of notice to the parties of the time and place of the meeting of the appraisers depends upon the circumstances surrounding each case, and whether the insured has already furnished all necessary information, or whether he has requested that he be present to make any additional explanation or to hear what may be said by others.[19]

Where the policy provides for arbitration, in case of disagreement, and that the award shall determine the amount of the loss, a valid award thereunder is conclusive as to the amount of the loss.[20] Every reasonable intendment and presumption is in favor of the award,[21] and it should not be set aside unless it clearly appears that it was made without authority, or was the result of fraud or mistake, or of the misfeasance or malfeasance of the appraisers.[22] Mere inadequacy alone is not sufficient,[23] but inadequacy so gross and palpable as to shock the moral sense is sufficient evidence to be submitted to the jury on the issues relating to fraud and corruption or partiality and bias.[24] As in the case of other awards, it can be set aside in an action at law only for causes apparent on its face, and fraud or misconduct on the part of the arbitrators can be availed of only in equity.[25]

If the submission is limited to the ascertainment of the amount of the loss, an award does not prevent an action on the policy.[26]

If the award is invalid and arbitration is made a condition precedent to an action on the policy, plaintiff must ask for another arbitration.[27]

§ 21. Option to pay loss or restore property.[28]

§ 22. Payment of loss or benefits and adjustment of interests in proceeds.[29]—The ordinary rules as to compromise and settlement[30] and payment and tender ap-

19. Evidence held to show that insured had sufficient notice to enable her to appear and to notify counsel if she desired, and that she was actually present. Sterling v. German American Ins. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 200. Held that proceedings were not ordinary arbitration. Id.

20. Held error to open up the award and hear evidence as to the value of the property. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901. The conclusiveness of the award is not affected by the fact that the submission is not under seal. Id.

21. Presumed to have acted in accordance with the law and the terms of the contract, and burden is on those attacking the award to establish the contrary by convincing evidence. Niagara Fire Ins. Co. v. Boon [Ark.] 88 S. W. 915.

22. Evidence insufficient to warrant setting it aside. Niagara Fire Ins. Co. v. Boon [Ark.] 88 S. W. 915. All that is required to justify the setting aside of an award on the ground of fraud, bias or undue influence is that the evidence satisfies the jury of the truth of the allegations in the complaint. Not necessary that direct, affirmative or positive proof be given. Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 137 N. C. 402, 49 S. E. 889.

23. Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 137 N. C. 402, 49 S. E. 889. Where there is sufficient evidence to sustain the award, it cannot be attacked, though the valuation be inaccurate, unless so grossly erroneous as to show bad faith or other grounds to set the award aside. Niagara Fire Ins. Co. v. Boon [Ark.] 88 S. W. 915.

24. Instruction approved. Perry v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 137 N. C. 402, 49 S. E. 889. Difference between award and jury's finding as to the amount of the loss held to justify setting award aside. Id. Difference between estimates of complainant's witness and the award not sufficiently radical to show that appraisers were influenced by improper motives. Sterling v. German-American Ins. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 200.

25. In action at law on the policy evidence that the arbitrators were intoxicated is inadmissible. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901. Code 1899, c. 108, § 4, giving court of law power to set aside certain awards for causes not apparent on the face, applies only to awards in pending suits, or where the submission provides that the award shall be returned to a court for judgment or decree, and not to awards in pais such as the one in controversy. Id.

26. Contract in such case is not merged in the award so as to require the action to be on the award, but award is merely evidence in the action on the policy. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901. This is particularly true where it is provided that no action shall be sustained "on this policy" until the provisions in regard to arbitration have been complied with. Id.

27. Submission is still valid. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

28. See 4 C. L. 219.

29. See 4 C. L. 219. See Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 5 C. L. 1523.

30. See, also, Accord and Satisfaction, 5 C. L. 14. Held, that there was no sufficient evidence of the mutuality of the arrangement between the companies and plaintiff to ply.[31] A settlement for a sum less than the entire claim will not be sustained where the amount due is admitted,[32] nor is there any consideration for the acceptance of a part payment in full satisfaction when based on a contention, not made in good faith, that the policy is void.[33] If a settlement is procured through fraud plaintiff need not tender back the amount paid him, but it may be retained to apply on the amount recovered.[34] If the insurer makes a settlement not legally binding in whole or in some inseparable part, it cannot set off the same as against liability under the policy.[35]

Where policies in favor of beneficiaries having no insurable interest are not absolutely void as wagering contracts, and have been paid by the insurer in good faith to such beneficiaries without knowledge that they had no insurable interest or that the proceeds were claimed by insured's administrator, the beneficiaries will be treated in equity as the assignees or appointees of those entitled thereto,[36] and the administrator cannot compel the company to pay a second time, his remedy, if any, being against the beneficiaries.[37] So, too, a payment in good faith to the person designated as beneficiary and described as insured's wife is a valid payment as against the insured's representative.[38]

The proceeds of a fire policy, taken out in good faith by an administrator, on property believed to belong to his decedent, belong to the estate, though its title is subsequently found to be invalid.[39]

Under a provision that any debt of assured shall be deducted from the face of the policy when paid, the insurer is entitled to credit for an unpaid premium note outstanding at the time of the insured's death, with interest.[40]

A judgment creditor of the insured garnishing the insurer must recover, if at all, upon such right as the debtor may possess against the garnishee.[41]

In many states the proceeds of life policies are exempted from liability for the insured's debts,[42] and when so exempted are exempt under the bankrupt act.[43]

establish a settlement which would be an accord and satisfaction at law. Lake Superior Produce & Cold Storage Co. v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 560.

31. See, also, Payment and Tender, 4 C. L. 955. Retention of drafts by plaintiff held not to amount to payment, where it appeared that he held them after discovering that the other companies would not carry out an agreement as to settlement, in hopes that the claims might be eventually settled. Lake Superior Produce & Cold Storage Co. v. Concordia Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 560. Tender not including value of certain awnings covered by the policy held insufficient. Wicks v. London & Lancashire Fire Ins. Co., 91 N. Y. S. 1036 [Advance sheets only.]

32. Caine v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Life Ass'n, 115 Ill. App. 307.

33. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Blasingame [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 819.

34. Caine v. Farmers' & Mechanics' Life Ass'n, 115 Ill. App. 307.

35. New Orleans & C. R. Co. v. Maryland Casualty Co. [La.] 38 So. 89. The company cannot deduct from a judgment recovered against the insured for injuries to a minor employe a sum of money paid to his widowed mother in compromise of her claim, though purporting to include his also, she not being his legal tutrix. Id.

36, 37. Griffin's Adm'r v. Equitable Assur. Soc., 27 Ky. L. R. 313, 84 S. W. 1164.

38. Insurer is not bound to determine whether she was legally married to him, or to notify insured's relatives that she was demanding payment. Representative's remedy, if any, is against beneficiary. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Louisville Trust Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 268. It will be presumed that such payment was made in good faith in the absence of pleading and proof that at the time of making it the insurer knew that she was not in fact his wife or had no insurable interest in his life. Id.

39. Premiums paid from the estate. Bloom v. Strauss [Ark.] 84 S. W. 511.

40. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v. Spinks, 27 Ky. L. R. 325, 84 S. W. 1160, modifying 26 Ky. L. R. 1205, 83 S. W. 615.

41. Employer's liability. Allen v. Gilman, McNeil & Co., 137 F. 136.

42. California: Under Code Civ. Proc. § 690, subd. 18, all moneys, benefits, privileges or immunities accruing or in any manner growing out of life insurance are exempt from execution if the annual premiums paid do not exceed five hundred dollars. Holmes v. Marshall, 145 Cal. 777, 79 P. 534. Statute should be liberally construed. Id. Such exemption extends to the beneficiary, and exempts insurance money received by the widow from liability for her debts. Id. When payable to and collected by the estate of insured, the proceeds may be set apart for the widow, without first paying decedent's debts and are then exempt as to

§ 23. Subrogation and other secondary rights of the insurer.[44]—An insurance company which has indemnified the owner of property for loss incurred by him is entitled to all the means of indemnity which the latter had against the party primarily liable to the extent of the payment,[45] and it may therefore bring a suit against the wrongdoer who has occasioned the loss.[46] The right of the insurer in such cases is solely one of reimbursement, and hence it is only entitled to be indemnified for the amount of the loss actually paid by it,[47] though it has been held that if the insured could have recovered interest the company may recover its pro rata share thereof in addition to the amount actually paid by it.[48]

The payment by the company to the mortgagee, to whom the policy is payable as his interest may appear, of the amount of his debt against the mortgagor is not a discharge of such debt, but the insurer is entitled to an assignment thereof from the mortgagee and may recover the same from the mortgagor.[49]

§ 24. Remedies and procedure. A. Rights of action and defenses and parties.[50]—Assumpsit will lie on a policy not under seal.[51] The beneficiary after the death of insured may maintain trover for a policy unlawfully converted, during insured's lifetime, by the agent of the company.[52]

An action on the policy may be brought in any county in which proper service may be had on the company, irrespective of the location of the property destroyed.[53] her debts. Id. Estate is beneficiary and proceeds are assets exempt from execution, and as such are properly set apart to the widow under Code Civ. Proc. § 1465. Id. The fact that the widow deposits the money in the bank does not so change its character as to render it subject to attachment on execution. Id.

Washington: Laws 1895, p. 336, and Laws 1897, p. 70, providing that the proceeds or avails of all life and accident insurance "shall be exempt from all liability for any debt" is not in conflict with the constitutional provisions of that state as to exemptions. Holden v. Stratton, 198 U. S. 202, 49 Law. Ed. 1018. The act applies to endowment policies and is not restricted to those payable after the death of the insured. Id. It also protects the avails of such insurance from pursuit of the creditors of the insured where the proceeds of the policies are payable to his estate, and from the creditors of the beneficiary. Id.

43. See, also, § 14, ante. By Act July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. at L. 548, c. 541, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3424) § 6, preserving to the bankrupt the exemptions allowed by state laws. Holden v. Stratton, 198 U. S. 202, 49 Law. Ed. 1018. Effect of this section is not limited by § 70a, subd. 5, relating to property passing to the trustee, providing that policies having a cash surrender value payable to himself or his estate shall pass to trustee as assets, unless the bankrupt pays or secures to him a sum equal to such value as ascertained and stated by the company. The purpose of the last section is to confer a benefit on the bankrupt by limiting the character of the trustee's interest in nonexempt policies, and not to cause exempt policy to become assets of the estate. Id.

44. See 4 C. L. 220.

45. Is subrogated to insured's right of action against railroad company negligently causing fire, since it is assignable under Civ. Code, § 1351. Caledonia Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 544.

46. Caledonia Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 544.

47. Under assignment to company by insured, which limited amount to actual value of the property destroyed, and complaint which demanded actual damages, and by virtue of the doctrine of subrogation, action by insurance company against the party causing the fire held not one for treble damages authorized by Pol. Code, § 3344, and hence two-year limitation prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 338, in cases of actions upon a liability not founded upon an instrument in writing, applies and not the three-year limitation prescribed for actions on liabilities created by statute. Phoenix Ins. Co. v. Pacific Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 81 P. 976.

48. Interest recoverable in the discretion of the jury under Civ. Code, § 4281, in case of destruction of property by fire, is an incident of insured's right of action and hence passes with it. Caledonia Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 544.

49. Baker v. Monumental Sav. & L. Ass'n [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 403. Where grantee in deed of trust purchases insurance in grantor's name on trust property for security of his debt, company, on payment of entire debt, is entitled to take assignment thereof and to recover it in same manner as its assignor could have done. Id. This is true though the grantor had, before insurance was taken out and without the grantee's knowledge, sold the property, subject to the trust deed, and reserving a vendor's lien for the purchase price. Id.

50. See 4 C. L. 221.

51. Policy held not a contract under seal, though corporate seal was impressed in upper corner over figures not forming a part of the contract. Brown v. Commercial Fire Ins. Co., 21 App. D. C. 325.

52. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

53. Southern Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 88.

A resident mortgagor may maintain an action on a fire policy though both the insurer and the mortgagee, made a defendant, are nonresidents, and the policy was taken, and the property is located outside of the state.[54]

There is sufficient privity between two claimants to the proceeds of the same policy to enable the company to maintain a bill of interpleader against them.[55] The fact that one of them has brought suit in another jurisdiction against the insurer will not prevent the maintenance of such a bill by it in a jurisdiction where both are subject to personal service of process.[56]

Parties.[57]—Suit on a life policy payable to the insured can only be brought by his administrator or executor.[58] Under a statute declaring that every life policy payable to a married woman shall be her separate property a husband who has taken out a policy on his life payable to his wife if she survives him and, if not, to his heirs, need not be joined as a party plaintiff in a suit by her against the company for damages for repudiation of the contract.[59] The mortgagee to whom a policy is made payable as his interest may appear is a necessary party to an action thereon by the mortgagor and if he refuses to join as plaintiff may be made a defendant.[60]

Two companies, made liable for an equal amount by a single policy signed by each, are jointly liable and may be sued jointly.[61] So, too, several parties protected by the same policy may sue jointly for losses occurring at the same time.[62]

Process.[63]—Service on the defendant company must be made in conformity to the provisions of the statutes of the state where the action is brought.[64]

54. Lewis v. Guardian Fire & Life Assur. Co., 181 N. Y. 392, 74 N. E. 224, afg. 93 App. Div. 157, 87 N. Y. S. 525.

55. Kellogg v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 25 App. D. C. 36. Allegations that two persons have preferred claims against the company, that they are both for the proceeds of the same policy, that company has no beneficial interest therein, and that it cannot determine without hazard to itself to which party the proceeds belong, held sufficient to sustain bill of interpleader. Id. Where several parties claim the proceeds of a policy, the special term of the supreme court has jurisdiction to make an order discharging the insurer from all liability on payment of the proceeds into court. Claimant held to have assented that amount paid was all that was due. Lane v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 102 App. Div. 470, 92 N. Y. S. 877.

56. Kellogg v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 25 App. D. C. 36.

57. See 4 C. L. 222. See, also, Parties, 4 C. L. 888.

58. Wilkinson v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [R. I.] 61 A. 43.

59. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 2347. Merrick v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 593. Husband and wife are not so united in interest as to require that they should be joined as plaintiffs under Rev. St. 1898, § 2604. Id.

60. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 448. Lewis v. Guardian Fire & Life Assur. Co., 181 N. Y. 392, 74 N. E. 224, afg. 93 App. Div. 157, 27 N. Y. S. 525.

61. Recital that each received half the premiums and provision that each shall pay half the loss applies only between the companies, and does not change rule. Szymkus v. Eureka Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 114 Ill. App. 401.

62. Under § 5005, Rev. St. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Ward, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 509, 24 Ohio C. C. 156. All of the beneficiaries may unite as plaintiffs even though a part is payable to the assured and a part to others. Purchaser of property to whom policy was payable as his interest might appear and mortgagee in whose name title was taken and insurance applied for. Lorling v. Dutchess Ins. Co. [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1025.

63. See 4 C. L. 221. For validity of provisions authorizing service on insurance commissioner in case of foreign companies see § 3, ante. See, also, Process, 4 C. L. 1070.

64. Missouri: Under Rev. St. 1899, § 8092, authorizing service on town mutual companies to be had in St. Louis, if the cause of action originates elsewhere, only by serving the president, secretary, or other chief officer in charge of the company's "principal office," a return showing service in that city by service on the secretary in charge of its "usual business office" does not show good service. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 564.

New York: Under Code Civ. Proc. § 432, subd. 3, service of summons on a resident director of a foreign company is sufficient where the company is doing business within the state, the cause of action arises there, there are no other officers or agents of the company in the state, and it has no office there. Pennsylvania Lumbermen's Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Meyer, 197 U. S. 407, 49 Law. Ed. 810. Foreign company held bound to pay loss in state where insured resided, and hence cause of action arose there, within the Limitations.[65]—Suit cannot of course be brought before the time when the loss is payable by the terms of the policy,[66] unless such provision is waived.[67] The action must be brought within the time fixed by the general statute of limitations.[68]

There is a conflict of authority as to whether foreign companies are out of the state within the meaning of the general statutes of limitations,[69] and as to the effect in this regard of provisions authorizing the service of summons on the insurance commissioner in actions against foreign companies.[70]

There is a conflict of authority as to the validity of contract limitations.[71] Some courts hold them to be contrary to public policy if less than the period fixed by the statute of limitations,[72] and others hold them valid if reasonable.[73] The matter is regulated by statute in some states.[74] The question is one of general meaning of N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. § 432, subd. 3, authorizing service of summons on cashier, director, or managing agent of a foreign corporation in certain cases. Id.

65. See 4 C. L. 222. See, also, Limitation of Actions, 4 C. L. 445.

66. Where policy provided absolutely for proofs of loss and also for a magistrate's certificate if required, and that loss should be payable 60 days after satisfactory proofs of loss, suit brought more than 60 days after proofs were furnished, but less than 60 days after the furnishing of a certificate subsequently demanded, was not premature, the certificate being no part of the proofs. Egan v. Merchants' Fire Ass'n [Wash.] 82 P. 898.

67. A provision that suit shall not be brought for the full amount of an accident policy until after the expiration of two years from the date of the injury is waived by a denial of liability in the answer based on other grounds. Suit within two years held not premature though policy provided that if, after expiration of that time, it should be satisfactorily proven that injuries sustained had continuously disabled, and would alone permanently and entirely disable, the insured during life from any and all occupations, he should receive a sum which, together with sum already paid should amount to a certain sum. United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176.

68. Under the express provisions of Kirby's Dig. § 4381, if plaintiff in an action on an insurance policy suffers nonsuit, he may commence anew within one year thereafter, notwithstanding stipulations to the contrary in the policy. Where policy provides that suit must be commenced within a year, and plaintiff commences it within that time but takes a nonsuit, he may commence another suit within a year thereafter. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Noe [Ark.] 88 S. W. 572. Prescription of 20 years generally applicable to personal actions in Porto Rico before the Civil Code went into effect in that island governs an action on a fire policy for a loss occurring before such code went into effect. Royal Ins. Co. v. Miller, 26 S. Ct. 46.

69. North Carolina: Under Code, § 162, statute does not run in favor of such companies. Green v. Hartford Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 887.

70. North Carolina: Provision that statute does not run while defendant is out of the state (Code, § 167) is not abrogated or affected in any way by Laws 1901, c. 5, p. 66, or Laws 1899, c. 54, § 62 (3), p. 175, authorizing service on commissioner. Green v. Hartford Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 887.

71. See, also, Contracts, 5 C. L. 664; Limitation of Actions, 4 C. L. 445.

Note: A life policy contained the provision that no suit should be maintained thereon unless begun within one year from the death of the insured. Held, such a clause is in contravention of public policy and void. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v. Spinks, 26 Ky. L. R. 1205, 83 S. W. 615. The decision in the principal case is against the overwhelming weight of authority (Farmers' Mutual Fire Ins. Co. v. Barr, 94 Pa. 345; Johnson v. Humbolt Ins. Co., 91 Ill. 92, 33 Am. Rep. 47), and is open to criticism. Statutes must be construed in the light of the common law. At common law there was no limitation, and nothing in the act forbids parties from making their own limitation within the prescribed time. Provisions like the above are almost universally recognized as reasonable conditions precedent and given effect. Riddlesbarger v. Hartford Ins. Co., 7 Wall. [U. S.] 386, 19 Law. Ed. 257.—5 Columbia L. R. 327.

72. Kentucky: A limitation of 30 days after payment of loss by the insured in an employer's indemnity policy is contrary to public policy. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Henderson Cotton Mills, 27 Ky. L. R. 653, 85 S. W. 1090.

Nebraska: Grand View Bldg. Ass'n v. Northern Assur. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 246.

73. Georgia: A stipulation that no suit shall be brought after one year from the death of the insured is reasonable and valid. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Caudle [Ga.] 50 S. E. 337.

Illinois: Requirement that suit be commenced within 12 months after fire held valid. Colonial Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302.

Federal courts: Provision that no action may be brought on a life policy after the lapse of a year from the death of the insured held valid. Spinks v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 169.

74. Indiana: Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4923, makes invalid any condition or agreement for a shorter period than 3 years, and a six months' limitation in a policy is void. Rutherford v. Prudential Ins. Co., 34 Ind. App. 531, 73 N. E. 202.

Rhode Island: Two-year limitation is valid under Rev. Laws 1902, vol. 2, c. 118, § 26, prohibiting shorter limitation, and requires beneficiary to procure suit to be jurisprudence in regard to which a Federal court will follow Federal decisions even though in conflict with the latest decision of the highest state court.[75]

The cause of action on a policy accrues at the expiration of the time stipulated for payment of the claim.[76] If the receipt and approval of proofs is made a condition precedent to a right of action, the cause of action does not accrue until such condition is complied with, and hence limitations do not begin to run until that time.[77] In computing the time within which the action must be brought the day on which the loss occurs will be excluded, and that on which the action is brought included.[78] Suit is commenced when a praecipe is filed and a summons is issued thereon.[79] Failure to appoint an administrator within the time prescribed does not prevent the running of limitations against a life policy payable to the insured.[80]

The company may waive contract limitations or estop itself from asserting them,[81] but in order to have that effect its conduct must appear to have been such as to prevent the bringing of the action within the stipulated time.[82]

(§ 24) B. Practice and pleading.[83]—The general rules of pleading,[84] in-

brought thereon by a competent person within that time. Wilkinson v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [R. I.] 61 A. 43.

75. No statute of limitations being involved. Spinks v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 F. 169. Particularly where the last decision of the state court before the submission of the demurrer raising the question upheld the validity of such provisions, though a subsequent decision held to the contrary. Id.

76. Wilkinson v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [R. I.] 61 A. 43. Where the policy provided for the payment of the sum named within twenty-four hours after proof of death, the cause of action accrued at the expiration of the twenty-four hours and the stipulated limitation of two years began to run. Id.

77. Where policy provides that no action shall be brought against insurer after lapse of two years from the time when the cause of action accrues. Stinchcombe v. New York Life Ins. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 213.

78. Fire insurance. Colonial Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302.

79. Colonial Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302.

80. Though suit can only be brought by administrator. Wilkinson v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. [R. I.] 61 A. 43.

81. Walsh v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 445. Evidence insufficient to show waiver. Berger v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 541. Provision requiring suit to be commenced within 12 months waived by the receipt of proofs of loss without objections or denial of liability, and subsequent negotiations lasting 16 months leading insured to entertain hopes of final payment. Brown v. Commercial Fire Ins. Co., 21 App. D. C. 325. An adjuster has no authority to waive a contract limitation. Berger v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 541.

82. Where the company denied liability 8 months before the expiration of the limit, and did nothing to deter plaintiff from suing, a failure to sue within the contract time was a bar to recovery. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Caudle [Ga.] 50 S. E. 337. Where insurer immediately denied liability, but later twice offered to pay $30 to avoid litigation and attendant expense, such offers were not negotiations calculated to prevent plaintiff from bringing suit and did not as a matter of law amount to a waiver of a provision requiring suit to be brought within three months after the right of action accrued, or estop defendant from relying on it. Cooper v. Phoenix Acc. & Sick Benefit Ass'n [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 487, 104 N. W. 734.

83. See 4 C. L. 224.

84. See Pleading, 4 C. L. 980. Petition held to sufficiently state a cause of action against a reinsurer, as against an objection to the introduction of evidence. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

Must plead facts and not conclusions: A plea that by its terms the contract sued on may be canceled and that defendant canceled it before loss in accordance with its terms is bad on demurrer in failing to set out the terms of the policy in that regard. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204. Plea in action on policy insuring household furniture alleging that policy provided that insured should produce for examination all bills and that she failed to produce bills showing from whom she purchased the household furniture destroyed held bad for failing to aver that plaintiff was under any duty to comply with such provision. Traders Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271. Answer merely alleging that plaintiff negligently stood by and permitted the building to be consumed by fire, but averring no particular facts, and not alleging that plaintiff could have prevented the fire or saved the goods, held not to state a defense. Home Ins. Co. v. Overturf [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 47.

Must be definite and certain: Averment that the interest of the mortgagee was fully disclosed in the proof of loss held sufficient. Loring v. Dutchess Ins. Co. [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1025.

Incorporation of other papers: Allegations held sufficient to make adjuster's agreement a part of the complaint under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 365. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814.

As to corporate existence: Name "Georgia Co-Operative Fire Association" by which defendant was sued, taken in connection with the allegations of the petition, held to im-cluding those as to amendments,[85] the necessity of alleging jurisdictional facts,[86] and the necessity of verification, apply.[87]

The complaint should affirmatively show a performance of the conditions upon which the claim is based, or that performance has been waived.[88] In most states it is sufficient to aver in general terms the performance by the insured of all the terms of the policy.[89] If the complaint alleges both a performance of the conditions of the policy and in addition states facts showing a waiver of the proofs of loss, the former allegation may be treated as surplusage.[90] There is a conflict of authority as to whether waiver may be shown under a general allegation of performance.[91]

Where exceptions are stated in separate clauses of the policy and not in the promising or contracting clause, plaintiff need not negative them, but is only required to set out so much of the contract as he relies on.[92]

In some states a copy of the policy must be attached to the complaint.[93] A port a corporation, and it was not necessary even as against a special demurrer to allege the corporate existence of the defendant. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Borchardt & Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 429.

As to waiver: Replications seeking to set up waiver of prohibition against additional insurance by failure to object and cancel the policy after the agent had knowledge that additional insurance had been procured held bad in failing to show that such knowledge was acquired by the agent while transacting defendant's business. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271. Replications setting up waiver of right to forfeit policy for procuring additional insurance by failure to object thereto and cancel the policy after notice held sufficient. Id. Replication alleging that general agent of the company, with authority to waive provisions, had knowledge of the facts, and that, if his agency had been revoked, plaintiff had no knowledge or notice of that fact, held sufficient as against the demurrers interposed. Id. Replication attempting to set up waiver by agent after revocation of his authority held bad. Id.

Answer must deny, or confess or avoid: A plea that plaintiff ought not to recover upon the contract sued on by reason of anything alleged in the complaint is bad on demurrer. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204. Certain rejoiners held demurrable as not being answers to replications. Traders' Ins. Co. v. Letcher [Ala.] 39 So. 271.

85. Joinder by amendment of assignee of fire policy as party plaintiff in suit in Porto Rico by mortgagee to enforce his right to proceeds of policy held not a clear abuse of court's discretion, where assignee's rights are alleged to be subordinate to those of the mortgagee, in view of Law of Civ. Proc. for Cuba & Porto Rico, art. 156, providing that causes of action against several persons, or by several persons against one, arising from the same source of title, or based upon the same cause of action, may be joined and brought in one action. Royal Ins. Co. v. Miller, 26 S. Ct. 46.

86. Defect in petition in failing to state that the hay, grain and farm utensils destroyed were located in the barn in D. county and thus show jurisdiction of the court of that county over the subject-matter was cured by verdict under Rev. St. 1899, § 672. Thomasson v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 564.

87. Where the complaint is in code form and implies an action in the name of the insured, a plea that defendant never issued a policy to plaintiff, but that it issued one to a third person with loss payable to a mortgagee, which was subsequently canceled, is in substance and legal effect a plea of non est factum and bad if not sworn to. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204.

88. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612; Johnson v. Maryland Casualty Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1009.

89. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1894, § 373 (Horner's Ann. St. 1897, § 370). Id. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 373, averments that insured has fully complied with all the requirements, stipulations, and agreements on her part to be performed, held sufficient. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814. A general averment of the performance of all conditions precedent, and that the loss did not happen by reason of any of the conditions provided against in the policy is sufficient in assumpsit, though policy is set out in haec verba. Colonial Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302.

90. Ohio Farmers' Ins. Co. v. Vogel [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 612.

91. In Missouri it may be. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568.

In New York it cannot be. Condition as to time of payment of premiums. Garlick v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 645.

In Ohio it cannot be. Mahoney v. Insurance Co., 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 246.

92. Though employers' liability policy requires that employes must be over 12 years of age, plaintiff need not allege that person injured was over that age, the fact that he was not being a matter of defense. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Henderson Cotton Mills, 27 Ky. L. R. 653, 85 S. W. 1090.

93. Where no objection was made to plaintiff's failure to attach a copy of the policy to the complaint until trial, but the copy of the policy filed with the declaration may be amended to conform to the original in case of variance.[94] In a suit on the policy it is not necessary to attach copies of the adjustment and of a written promise to pay the amount thereby found to be due.[95]

In an action on a fire policy the complaint must allege that plaintiff owned the property at the time of the fire[96] and the value of the property destroyed.[97]

One to whom a life policy is assigned by the insured as security for any or all sums which the insured may then or thereafter owe him must plead and prove an existing indebtedness in order to recover on the same, there being no presumption that he has an insurable interest.[98]

If arbitration is not a condition precedent to an action on the policy, plaintiff need not allege that it was or was not had, or that it was waived.[99]

The nonexistence of[1] or failure to perform conditions precedent must be specially pleaded.[2]

Defendant may introduce evidence tending to show that plaintiff set the fire under a general denial of an allegation that the fire did not start through the fault or negligence of plaintiff.[3] Where plaintiff alleges ownership in himself, defendant may under a general denial prove ownership in another.[4]

In some states plaintiff is required to file a statement of claim in the nature of a bill of particulars,[5] and where the defense is the failure of the insured to comply with, or his violation of, any clause, condition, or warranty, the defendant is required to file a statement specifying the clause, condition, or warranty not kept or answer admitted the making of the policy as alleged in the complaint which referred to it by number, and it appeared that defendant had one form of policy and its secretary kept a record of policies, it was proper to treat the complaint as including a copy. Nugent v. Rensselaer County Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 605.

94. So as to include omitted loss payable clause, and to correct description of building insured. Staats v. Georgia Home Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 815.

95. Suit held one upon the policies and not upon a written promise to pay the specific amount shown by a written adjustment of the loss. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Borchardt & Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 429.

96. Allegations held sufficient on demurrer. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814. A general averment that plaintiff at the inception of the policy and at the time of the loss was the owner of the property destroyed is sufficient to admit evidence of any interest he may have had. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. v. Wall [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 668. Must aver an insurable interest in the property at the date of the issuance of the policy, and also at the date of the loss, except where the property has been sold and the policy transferred to the purchaser in the interim with the company's consent, in which case such facts must be stated. Rodgers v. Western Home Town Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 186 Mo. 248, 85 S. W. 369. A reference in the petition to "his frame dwelling" and "his furniture" is a sufficient allegation, after judgment, that assured owned the property. Id.

97. Adjuster's agreement, made a part of the complaint, stipulating that the amount of the loss was conclusively agreed to be a certain sum, when taken in connection with complaint, held to render unnecessary any further allegation as to the value of the property. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Finklestein [Ind.] 73 N. E. 814. Where insured's interest is changed from fee to life estate without objection by the insurer, he need not, in case of a total loss, allege that it is of value equal to the insurance. Continental Ins. Co. v. Thomason, 27 Ky. L. R. 158, 84 S. W. 546.

98. Troy v. London [Ala.] 39 So. 713.

99. It is unnecessary, in an action on the Minnesota standard policy. If controversy in fact exists, defendant may plead failure to arbitrate as a defense. Kelly v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 380.

1. Unperformed conditions in an accident policy are matters of defense. As the requirement of a visible mark of injury on the body and that the injury shall not have been sustained in a wild country. United States Casualty Co. v. Hanson [Colo. App.] 79 P. 176.

2. Conditions as to notice and proofs of loss. Where performance of conditions precedent is alleged generally in the complaint, general denial is insufficient to put these facts in issue. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568.

3. 4. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855.

5. The statement of claim required by the statute of West Virginia in an action on a fire policy is not a pleading but is in the nature of a bill of particulars. By Code 1899, c. 125, § 62. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. And is sufficient if it in effect gives defendant reasonable notice of the nature of the plaintiff's claim. Id. Where it notifies defendant that plaintiff will claim to the extent of the face of the policy, the amount of the stock of merchandise covered by the policy and also violated.[6] The New Jersey statute requiring the opposite party to plead specifically where there is a general averment of the performance of conditions precedent is not complied with by a specification in a written response to a demand for a specification of defenses.[7]

Interest on the claim from the beginning of the action may be awarded under the prayer for proper relief, though not specially prayed in the petition.[8]

Variance.[9]—The usual rules as to variance apply.[10] There is no variance between a plea of full performance of all the terms and conditions of the policy and proof that certain questions, which had apparently been incorrectly answered, were in fact answered correctly and incorrectly recorded by the company's agent.[11] One suing for specific relief to which he is not entitled may have such relief as the facts alleged show that he is in law entitled to.[12]

Practice.[13]—Where a policy of liability insurance bases the premium on the amount of compensation paid by assured to his employes and gives a right to examine assured's books as to such compensation, in an action for a premium the insurer is entitled to an order to produce the books, so far as they relate to such compensation.[14]

(§ 24) C. Evidence, questions for the jury, instructions. Presumptions and burden of proof.[15]—The law presumes against suicide,[16] and also that every man is sane until the contrary is shown.[17] When it is proved that the insured committed suicide while sane, no presumption can be indulged in.[18]

the amount of fixtures not covered, the part in regard to the fixtures will be disregarded as surplusage. Id. Statement held to notify defendant that it would be held for everything covered by the policy, and to be sufficient to authorize the admission of the policy in evidence. Id. It cannot be demurred to, but if too vague or otherwise insufficient the remedy is to object to the introduction of evidence under it. Id.

6. Code 1899, c. 125, § 64. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529; Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. Plaintiff is not required to prove compliance with any clause, condition or warranty not so specified. Id. No specification having been filed in the trial court of the defense that the policy was forfeited by the assignment of the right of the assured, it cannot be availed of on writ of error. Billmyer v. Hamburg-Bremen Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 901.

7. Practice act § 118 (P. L. 1903, p. 570) not complied with by specification in written response to a demand for a specification of defenses under § 104, which is not a part of the record. McGlade v. Home Ins. Co. [N. J. Law] 59 A. 628. Defendant having failed to comply with such provision held not error to refuse to nonsuit plaintiff for failure to prove the giving of the required notice of loss. Id.

8. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Henderson Cotton Mills, 27 Ky. L. R. 653, 85 S. W. 1090.

9. See 4 C. L. 226.

10. See Pleading, 4 C. L. 980. Held no variance in action against agent for failure to comply with instructions to cancel contract of insurance entered into by means of a binder, and to reduce amount of insurance. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 77 Conn. 559, 60 A. 293. Variance between allegations and proof held not so material as to authorize reversal. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Jockman [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 730. Slight variance between the petition and the proof as to the mode in which the reinsurer became bound held cured by verdict, where no effort was made to take advantage of it in the statutory way. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

11. As to condition of insured's health, etc. Carmichael v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 587.

12. Though plaintiff sues for loss to machinery on theory that insurance on tobacco has been transferred to it, he is nevertheless, on failure to show such transfer, entitled to recover for loss to tobacco, if the allegations of the complaint are sufficient for that purpose. Wright v. Teutonia Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 55. Complaint held sufficient to authorize recovery for loss of tobacco orlginally covered by the policy, though it was framed on the theory that action was for loss to machinery to which it was alleged that company had agreed to transfer the insurance which claim appeared to be unfounded, and though there was no allegation as to the value of the tobacco at the time of the fire, in the absence of a demurrer or a motion to make more definite and certain. Id.

13. See 4 C. L. 226.

14. United States Casualty Co. v. John N. Robins Co., 95 N. Y. S. 726. Order should not enjoin destruction of or interference with such books, particularly where there is no suggestion that defendant has threatened to do or is about to do anything of that kind. Id.

15. See 4 C. L. 226. See, also, Evidence, 5 C. L. 1301.

16, 17. Masonic Life Ass'n of Western New York v. Pollard's Guardian [Ky.] 89 S. W. 219.

The burden has been held to be on plaintiff to show the performance of conditions precedent,[19] waiver,[20] that the breach of conditions did not contribute to the loss,[21] that the manner of the insured's death was within the terms of the policy,[22] and to negative exceptions.[23] The burden is on the insurer to show breaches of warranty,[24] fraud and false swearing,[25] negligence in failing to use all reasonable means to save the property,[26] that the loss comes within a proviso on which it relies,[27] and to show, in case of a total loss, that the change of the insured's title from an estate in fee to a life estate reduced his interest to an amount below the face of the policy.[28] The execution of the policy must be proved.[29]

Evidence.[30]—The usual rules of evidence apply,[31] including those as to the

18. Where it was proved that insured committed suicide while sane, and there was no conflict in the evidence, held error to give peremptory instruction for the defenddant. Masonic Life Ass'n v. Pollard's Guardian [Ky.] 89 S. W. 219.

19. Must aver and prove performance of conditions precedent, or an offer to perform rejected by defendant, or his readiness to perform until defendant discharged him from so doing, or prevented him from performing. As to notice of accident, Johnson v. Maryland Casualty Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1009. Compliance with a condition that he submit to an examination under oath concerning the loss. Mahoney v. Scottish Union & National Ins. Co., 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 246.

20. Of conditions requiring notice of other insurance and indorsement of permit therefor on policy. Monk v. Penn Tp. Mut. Fire Ins. Ass'n, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 449.

21. Under Iowa Code, § 1743, providing that no stipulation avoiding the policy before loss shall prevent recovery if the plaintiff shows that his failure to observe it did not contribute to the loss. Krell v. Chickasaw Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 364.

22. Accident insurance. Continental Casualty Ins. Co. v. Lloyd [Ind.] 73 N. E. 824. Under an accident policy whereby company agreed to pay a certain sum if the insured's injuries "should solely and independently of all other causes necessarily result in his death," the beneficiary has the burden of proving not only that the injuries received by the insured were sufficient to cause his death, but also that they did in fact do so, independently of any other concurring cause. This is true whether disease pre-existed the accident or supervened between the injuries and the insured's death. Continental Casualty Co. v. Peltier [Va.] 51 S. E. 209.

23. Cassidy v. Royal Exch. Assur., 99 Me. 399, 59 A. 549.

24. Life insurance: Is an affirmative defense which defendant is bound to establish. Valentini v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 758; Carmichael v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 587. As to insured's age. Collins v. German-American Mut. Life Ass'n [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 891. To show by a preponderance of the evidence that the assured made false and fraudulent answers to questions propounded in the application. Logan v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 529. In action on life policy which makes application a part of it where declaration is filed under Code 1899, c. 125, § 61, and defendant files statement of defense under Id. § 64, alleging fraudulent answers to questions in the application, to which plaintiff replies generally, the burden is on defendant to prove its allegations by a preponderance of the evidence. Id. Not a condition precedent to recovery that plaintiff should prove such answers to be true. Id.

Fire insurance: The burden of showing forfeiture is on the defendant. For breach of iron-safe clause, and procuring other insurance. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855. Where there is some evidence tending to show compliance or waiver, it is error to direct verdict for defendant. Id.

25. Must prove willful fraud and false swearing in proofs of loss by clear and satisfactory evidence. Newton v. Theresa Village Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 104 N. W. 107.

26. Where policy provides that insurer shall not be liable for loss caused thereby. German-American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135.

27. If defendant relies on a proviso to avoid liability the burden is on him to plead it and to prove that the loss came within it (Cassidy v. Royal Exch. Assur., 99 Me. 399, 59 A. 549), and the same is true of a clause which operates as a partial defeasance or excuse (Id). Has burden of showing that loss came within proviso that apportionment clause should be inoperative when lumber piles covered by policy were less than 100 feet apart. Id. The burden being upon defendant to establish the facts upon which an apportionment clause, by way of a proviso, would attach, held, that he was bound to do so before the referees to whom the loss was submitted to arbitration on failure of the parties to agree, and having failed to do so it was estopped to require plaintiff to submit to another arbitration to obtain them, or to claim that question was still open. Id.

28. Where the insured's interest is changed and the insurer nevertheless continues the insurance. Aside from the provisions of Ky. St. 1903, § 700, making companies liable for the face of the policy in case of total loss. Continental Ins. Co. v. Thomason, 27 Ky. L. R. 158, 84 S. W. 546.

29. Evidence held to fully prove the issuance of the policy by the defendant, and hence the making of the policy was sufficiently proved. Staats v. Georgia Home Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 815.

30. See 4 C. L. 227. See, also, Evidence, 5 C. L. 1301.

31. See, also, Evidence, 5 C. L. 1301.

admission of expert[32] and opinion evidence,[33] the qualification of experts,[34] judicial

Where plaintiffs testify that adjuster had told them that they need not put in proofs of loss, adjuster should be allowed to deny such conversation. Emanuel v. Maryland Casualty Co., 94 N. Y. S. 36.

Accident Insurance: In suit on policy providing for payment of premiums by orders on insured's employer, evidence of the employer that an order was not paid because the sum to the credit of the insured was less than the amount of the premium and the insurer would not accept partial payments, held admissible. Hagins v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 683.

Fire Insurance. Evidence held admissible: Wife being competent witness under Code D. C. § 1068, her testimony that purchase money of land conveyed to her and her husband jointly was furnished by him alone, and that he had the sole beneficial ownership. Mallery v. Frye, 21 App. D. C. 105. Evidence as to former policy in which there was a recognition of the existence of a chattel mortgage relied on to avoid the policy in suit, where there was some evidence to the effect that the latter policy was a renewal of the former one and was issued by the same agent. Fire Ass'n v. Yeagley, 34 Ind. App. 387, 72 N. E. 1035. That when witness opened door of warehouse smoke came out. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513. Where defense was that plaintiff's president set fire, and defendant introduced evidence as to plaintiff's financial condition, evidence offered by plaintiff as to the value of its assets at the time of the fire, to rebut the presumption of fraud. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Santa Fe Mercantile Co. [N. M.] 82 P. 363. Where defendant alleges false statements in the application as to the date of the inventory, plaintiff may show that such statements were the result of a mistake, both for the purpose of showing his good faith and that defendant had notice of the true facts before issuing the policy. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855.

Evidence held inadmissible: Copy of ex parte affidavit attached to copy of proofs. American Ins. Co. v. Walston, 111 Ill. App. 133. Question as to the time the agent knew what the premium was held immaterial and properly excluded, he having previously testified that he had offered the policy for a certain premium. Wheaton v. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850.

Harmless error: Though no issue as to waiver was tendered by the pleadings, held not reversible error to admit evidence of insured's attorney that both he and the insured had demanded the amount of the policy, and that the adjuster had denied all liability. Fire Ass'n v. Yeagley, 34 Ind. App. 387, 72 N. E. 1035. Admission by plaintiff that no attempt was made to remove goods when they could have been removed held to render harmless exclusion of evidence as to feasibility of removing them before fire reached them. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Santa Fe Mercantile Co. [N. M.] 82 P. 363.

Life Insurance. Evidence held admissible: In action against company for fraud of agent in collecting, through fraudulent representations a premium not due, evidence as to agent's commission on first premium. New England Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Swain [Md.] 60 A. 469. Where the insurer claimed a breach of warranty that insured was not connected with the liquor business, evidence that he received no compensation for an occasional service rendered to a saloonkeeper was material, as tending to show his relation to the business. Collins v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mont.] 80 P. 609. On the issue as to whether insured was suffering from disease and needed medical attention when it was claimed a physician attended him, evidence as to whether he attended his business regularly. Valentini v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 758.

Evidence held inadmissible: Plaintiff having testified that he had ceased to pay his assessments because "he saw he could not keep up," held that his motives and the method of reasoning by which he arrived at his conclusion to abandon his policy were irrelevant. Green v. Hartford Life Ins. Co. [N. C.] 51 S. E. 887. So also was question whether he subsequently took out other insurance in lieu of that abandoned. Id. Where plaintiff contended that receipt for part of first premium created a binding contract held error to admit a different form of binding receipt and to permit witness to explain it, it not being shown that the assured or the plaintiff knew of the existence of such receipt. Admission held harmless. Bowen v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 1040. Questions as to whether insured would have paid premium on day it was demanded had she been told that policy would otherwise be forfeited, and whether it was not agent's duty to collect premiums at insured's residence after the time for payment had been extended, held incompetent as calling for conclusions. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Hall [Va.] 52 S. E. 345.

32. Expert evidence held inadmissible. Fire insurance: Where sole question was whether spontaneous combustion occurred held not error to refuse to admit expert evidence as to meaning of "fire," "ignition point," "ignition," etc., since characteristics of fire are matters of common knowledge. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513. Held not prejudicial to exclude scientific description of characteristics of "wool in the grease" for same reason. Id. As the meaning of the term "pro rata" in contracts of reinsurance has been settled by construction of the courts, testimony of experts as to the use of the term by underwriters. Home Ins. Co. v. Continental Ins. Co., 180 N. Y. 389, 73 N. E. 65. To show that the erection of a building near the insured premises increased the risk. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812.

33. Evidence Held Admissible. Fire insurance: Evidence of witnesses as to the value of the goods destroyed based on what they saw in the building, on the issue of fraud in procuring the policy and false swearing after loss. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Evidence of the cost price of articles and opinions as notice,[35] secondary evidence,[36] hearsay,[37] the proof of pedigree,[38] the use of memoranda,[39] and the declarations and admissions of agents,[40] decedents,[41] and other to the value thereof. Glaser v. Home Ins. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 524.

Life insurance: The testimony of nonmedical friends, to show that, at the date of the policy, the appearance of the insured was that of a man in sound health, where one of the issues is whether he had heart disease, from which he died, before the policy was issued, though insurer expressly waives defense of unsoundness of health when policy is issued, and medical testimony is to the effect that insured may have such disease and yet appear to be in sound health. Rondinella v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 293.

34. Wool merchants and manufacturers, who have had years of experience, held competent to give opinions as to the effect of water on a large mass of wool and the probability of spontaneous combustion in it. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513. One having sufficient knowledge thereof to speak with intelligence (Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86), as a salesman who has had experience in merchandising and has inspected a stock of goods, may testify as to value (Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855).

35. Court will take judicial notice of recognized scientific facts and principles as to spontaneous combustion, and as to amount of heat which can be produced without fire. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513.

36. Secondary evidence of contents of defendant's notice offering reward for apprehension of persons setting fire held inadmissible where nothing was offered to show why original could not be produced. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Santa Fe Mercantile Co. [N. M.] 82 P. 363.

37. Held hearsay: Receipts given by insured to insurer for amount of loss, in action by insurer against its agent for failure to reduce binder obligation as directed. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 77 Conn. 559, 60 A. 293. Question as to whether matters which witness had told detective in regard to fire were common talk about town held irrelevant and hearsay. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Santa Fe Mercantile Co. [N. M.] 82 P. 363.

38. Baptismal church registers kept by parish priest in Ireland according to his ordinary course of business and proved to be admissible as evidence of pedigree in the courts of that country are admissible as evidence of pedigree and the facts therein stated for the purpose of showing a breach of warranty as to insured's age, though no statute requires the keeping of such records. Collins v. German-American Mut. Life Ass'n [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 891. Though evidence of baptism is not evidence of birth, court will take judicial notice that insured was born on some date prior to the date of baptism. Id. Where it is shown that register had been kept from time immemorial by the clergymen of the parish, that it was their duty to keep it, and that the person purporting to make the entries was clergyman of the parish when the entry was made, and has since died, it will be presumed that he made it without proof of his handwriting. Id. Evidence held sufficient to identify person baptised as the insured. Id. Evidence of declaration by persons since deceased, as to the age of a member of a family, is admissible. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Henderson Cotton Mills, 27 Ky. L. R. 653, 85 S. W. 1090.

39. Inventories in the nature of memoranda made by the insured's foreman the day after the fire are admissible for the purpose of strengthening his recollection as to the amount and value of the lumber destroyed. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025.

40. Fire Insurance. Evidence held admissible: Where defense is violation of sole ownership clause, admissions of one of plaintiff's officers that plaintiff was a lessee, and the lease under which fixtures destroyed became the property of the lessor. Prussian Nat. Ins. Co. v. Empire Catering Co., 113 Ill. App. 67. Declarations of plaintiff's adjuster, made while engaged in plaintiff's business, in regard to lease. Id. Declarations of solicitor of insurance working for, and under authority of, an agency which was an agent of the insurer, he being an agent of the insurer. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812. Declarations of the agent of the company through whom the policy was issued. Id. Declarations of agent, made while he still had possession of the policy, as to why it had not been delivered. Part of the res gestae. Wheaton v. Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850.

Evidence held inadmissible: Where firm which was agent for both insurance company and building and loan association, to whom policy was made payable as its interest might appear, paid a premium for the loan association, the receipt given by such firm on repayment to it of the amount advanced for such premium and other premiums, held not admissible as against the company in a suit on the policy, it not having been given by them as the company's agents. Foreman v. German Alliance Ins. Ass'n [Va.] 52 S. E. 337.

Life Insurance: Where liability is denied on the ground that the policy lapsed for nonpayment of premiums, evidence of a witness that he was told by a person in insurer's office that the last payment of premium was on a certain date is incompetent in the absence of proof that such person was an officer authorized to make an admission binding on the company. Spencer v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 899. Evidence that such person stated the date from a book is inadmissible in the absence of evidence accounting for the nonproduction of the book, which is the best evidence. Id.

41. Accident insurance: Declarations of the insured made to his wife and brother-in-law before his death, tending to show that he was then suffering severe bodily pain and that he had sustained an accidental strain (Patterson v. Ocean Acc. & G. Corporation, 25 App. D. C. 46), and statements made by him to the attending physician on interested parties.[42] The admission of evidence as to collateral matters is largely discretionary.[43] Parol evidence is inadmissible to contradict or vary the terms of the contract,[44] but is admissible to show that the word "addition" has reference to an addition to be built and not one already in existence,[45] and to explain ambiguous terms.[46] In order that evidence of previous incendiarism by plaintiff may be admissible some real connection between such previous crimes and the alleged incendiarism alleged by way of defense to the policy in suit must appear beyond the allegation that they have both sprung from the same vicious disposition.[47]

Evidence of the insured's physical condition immediately before and immediately after the time in question is admissible on the issue of his condition at the time he made and signed the application, and his own knowledge of the same.[48]

The acts of the parties after the loss are competent evidence as bearing on their understanding as to the existence of the contract.[49]

Evidence is admissible to show the true consideration for the policy and that it was not paid.[50] the day after the alleged accident tending to show his bodily pain, the particular location of the same, and the symptoms of his malady, are admissible as part of the res gestae (Id.), but not a statement made to the physician that he had received a strain on the day before, to which he attributed his condition (Id.). Too long after the occurrence. Id.

Life insurance: In an action by an executor evidence of declarations of deceased as to the condition of her health when the application was made are admissible against the executor. Finn v. Prudential Ins. Co., 98 App. Div. 588, 90 N. Y. S. 697.

42. In an action by a mortgagee to whom the policy is payable as his interest may appear, admissions by the mortgagor who is made a party defendant are not binding on the insurer. Admissions that plaintiff is entitled to recover full amount of policy covering both building and personalty, where he has no lien on latter. Herzog v. Palatine Ins. Co., 36 Wash. 611, 79 P. 287.

43. Court held not to have abused its discretion in excluding evidence that insured had scattered oil on walls of house situated 50 feet from the burned barn, it being a collateral matter. Schornak v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1087.

44. For purpose of showing that blanket fire policy was only intended to cover grain in the granary and barn destroyed, that there was no danger of destruction of wagons or implements not in such barn or granary, and that when policy was taken out the secretary of the company only examined grain and implements contained therein. Johnston v. Phelps County Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 72. Inadmissible under Rev. Civ. Code, § 1239, to contradict the terms of a written statement, added to application by the agent, that he had issued a binding receipt so as to show it not to be, in fact, a binding receipt. Bowen v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 1040. Where property is insured while in a building described, and it is shown that such a building existed but that the property when destroyed was in another building, it cannot be shown by parol that the intention was to insure the property while in the latter building. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Brannon [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 208, 89 S. W. 1057.

45. Where policy covered building "and addition," evidence of the value of the building after an addition had been built to it. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812.

46. Where a policy expired at "noon" to show that by a well known custom of the place of the contract, the word was used with reference to standard instead of sun time. Rochester German Ins. Co. v. Peaslee-Gaulbert Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 1155, 87 S. W. 1115.

47. Where the defense was that plaintiff caused the fire, evidence of statements of the president and manager of plaintiff corporation to his partner 2½ years before, as to their insolvent condition and the advisability of procuring more insurance, and that plaintiff thereafter bought his partner's interest, and that the goods were then destroyed by fire 1½ years before the fire giving rise to the action, held irrelevant. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Santa Fe Mercantile Co. [N. M.] 82 P. 363. Evidence merely showing that other fires had occurred held inadmissible. Colonial Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Ellinger, 112 Ill. App. 302.

48. Declarations of the insured that he was suffering from effects of a surgical operation made after the issuance of the policy in explanation of his appearance, walk, and smell of drugs about his person, and in connection with the manifestly impaired condition of his health, held admissible as tending to show his knowledge of his physical condition at time of making the alleged false and fraudulent statements. Haughton v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 592.

49. Fact that after accident agent did not repudiate liability, and company sent adjuster. Bradley v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co., 46 Misc. 41, 93 N. Y. S. 245.

50. St. 1903, §§ 470, 472. Continental Casualty Co. v. Jasper [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1078. But under St. 1903, §§ 656, 679, if any part of the consideration is a statement of the insured made in a written application, it must be stated in the policy, or a copy thereof must be indorsed thereon. Id.

Where the policy undertakes to pay the value of the property at the time and place of the loss, evidence of its value at some other place and time is incompetent, unless it is also shown that its value at both times and places was practically the same, or unless the difference, if any, is pointed out.[51] The actual value cannot be shown in place of the market value unless a foundation for such a showing is made.[52] If the statements of value are not within the personal knowledge of the party making the proofs, he may show his means of information upon which they were based.[53]

In an action on the policy an arbitration agreement not in accordance with its provisions is inadmissible.[54]

Preliminary proofs of death are merely evidence that the insured has complied with the requirement of the policy.[55] Statements therein will be taken against the claimant as admissions against interest, but he may show that they are without foundation and were inadvertently made.[56] Statements of a physician in the proofs as to prior illnesses of the insured may be contradicted by proof of his subsequent declarations and admissions inconsistent therewith.[57] Where the claimant's affidavit to the proofs is to the best of his knowledge and belief, he is not thereby precluding from showing that his statements therein were based exclusively on information coming from what he had a right to suppose was a reliable source, and that they are not true.[58] A supplemental statement made by a physician in compliance with the company's requirement of more complete proofs is part of the proofs of death.[59] Under a policy providing that statements in the proofs shall be evidence of the facts therein stated in behalf of, but not against the company, it is error to withdraw a physician's statement contained therein from the jury, though plaintiff has introduced evidence to impeach it.[60]

Proofs of loss under a fire policy are not evidence of the amount of loss and are admissible only to show compliance with the requirement of proof of loss.[61]

Questions for the jury.[62]—Whether there has been a breach of warranty,[63]

51. Evidence of value at time of inventory taken at another place before the fire and other evidence of its value at such place held inadmissible. Lundvick v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 429.

52. Lundvick v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 429.

53. Where goods were purchased by plaintiff's partner, since deceased, and plaintiff had not seen them and had no other knowledge of their value, letters and telegrams sent by deceased, from town to which he went to buy the goods, to plaintiff, held admissible. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135.

54. Agreement providing for arbitration between insured and several companies, one appraiser to be the joint selection of all of the latter, and for the appraisal of the loss on a few specified articles only, the estimating of the cost of replacing and repairing the same, and for the prorating of the loss among the several companies, held not in accordance with the policy. Western Assur. Co. v. Hall Bros. [Ala.] 38 So. 853.

55. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

56. Do not estop him from showing the truth. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275. Proofs furnished by the beneficiary are admissible against her. Haughton v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 592. Had right to explain admissions therein at the proper time. Id.

57. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

58. Answers to questions as to prior illness of insured. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

59. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa Super. Ct. 275.

60. Rondinella v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 293.

61. Tucker v. Colonial Fire Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 86. Not admissible to prove the facts connected with the loss, or the value of the property destroyed or injured. Instruction erroneous. Lundvick v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 429.

62. See 4 C. L. 230. See, also, Questions of Law and Fact, 4 C. L. 1165.

63. Fire insurance: Where there was at least some evidence of a compliance with the iron-safe clause as to the keeping of books, the keeping of the books and inventory in a safe, and their production for inspection, question of compliance. Direction of verdict for defendant held error. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855. Whether there was a breach of warranty by use of feed cooker instead of tank heater. Krell v. Chickasaw Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 364.

Life insurance: Where defendant relied the materiality of an answer to a question in the application,[64] whether a paper produced on the trial is the application which plaintiff signed,[65] whether a misrepresentation or warranty is made with actual intent to deceive,[66] whether notice of forfeiture was mailed to the insured,[67] whether insured was in good health when the policy was issued,[68] the cause of the loss,[69] whether there was a change of ownership and possession,[70] whether the insured was totally disabled by the accident,[71] whether there has been an increase of risk,[72] what is the proximate cause of an injury or death,[73] the possibility of spontaneous combustion in certain substances,[74] waiver,[75] and estoppel,[76] the authority of an agent[77] and for which party he acted,[78] whether or not there has been a substantial compliance with the provisions on breaches of warranties, the evidence being conflicting and leaving inferences and deductions to be drawn in arriving at the ultimate fact, it was error to direct a verdict for defendant, although the weight of evidence was with it. Haughton v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. [Ind.] 74 N. E. 613, Id. 73 N. E. 592. Whether insured used intoxicants. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 656.

64. When doubtful. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

65. Walsh v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 445.

66. Representation by insured in endowment policy that he was 22 years of age when he was 30. Coughlin v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 76 N. E. 192.

67. Howell v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 87.

68. Where he was in apparent good health when the insurance was taken, but became ill the next month with cystic disease of the kidneys, whether such condition could have developed within the time. Barker v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 945.

69. Whether caused by lightning or a windstorm. Warmcastle v. Scottish Union & Nat. Ins. Co., 210 Pa. 362, 59 A. 1105.

70. Where the insured made a transfer to his son of the property covered by a fire insurance policy, without the insurer's consent, but both father and son testified that there was no change of ownership or possession, whether the presumption of delivery and transfer created by the recording of the deed was overcome by their testimony. Rosenstein v. Traders' Ins. Co., 102 App. Div. 147, 92 N. Y. S. 326.

71. In absence of conclusive facts. Wall v. Continental Casualty Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 491.

72. Fire insurance: By the erection of an asbestos roof over lumber. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025. Whether there was in fact any change in the use or occupancy contemplated by the application, and, if so, whether such change made the risk more hazardous. Krell v. Chickasaw Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 364. By presence of a small quantity of rags on premises. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Union Stockyards Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 852, 87 S. W. 285. By the erection of a building near a storehouse. Prudential Fire Ins. Co. v. Alley [Va.] 51 S. E. 812.

Accident insurance: Whether injured foot and finger received prior to the application and not disclosed therein were such as increased the risk and were within the contemplation of the parties. Trenton v. North American Acc. Ins. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 781, 89 S. W. 276.

Life insurance: Whether the matter misrepresented or made a warranty increased the risk of loss so as to avoid the policy under the statute. Representation of insured in endowment policy that he was 22 years old when he was 30 cannot be said to increase risk as matter of law. Coughlin v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 76 N. E. 192.

73. Patterson v. Ocean Acc. & G. Corp., 25 App. D. C. 46.

Accident insurance: Where it appears that two or more causes contributed to the injury and there is doubt or the facts are such that equally prudent persons might differ as to which was the efficient, dominant, proximate cause of death. Continental Casualty Ins. Co. v. Lloyd [Ind.] 73 N. E. 824.

74. Where scientific works and the opinions of experts vary widely. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513.

75. Of proofs of loss. Burgess v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 568. Unless the evidence is so convincing that reasonable men could not differ as to the result, in which case the court may declare a waiver as a matter of law. Id. Whether proofs of loss were waived, there being evidence tending to show a denial of liability. L. T. Madden & Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 70 S. C. 295, 49 S. E. 855; St. Landry Wholesale Mercantile Co. v. Teutonia Ins. Co., 113 La. 1053, 37 So. 967.

76. Whether defendant had estopped itself from asserting that the action was not commenced within the time limited by the policy. Walsh v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 445. Whether insurer has, by its conduct, raised implied agreement to accept premiums after they become due. Kelly v. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 601. In any event its submission was harmless where bonds previously issued to insured operated as payment of premiums as a matter of law. Id.

77. Under the evidence question whether agent had authority to deny liability so as to waive proofs. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204.

78. Whether or not the agent acted at the instance of plaintiffs in obtaining insurance as to proof of loss,[79] whether the insurer is connected with a tariff association,[80] whether an appraiser is competent and disinterested,[81] and when the fraud relied on was discovered,[82] have been held to be for the jury on conflicting evidence.

The construction of written instruments is ordinarily for the court.[83] Where an answer in the application is palpably and manifestly material, it is the duty of the court to so charge.[84]

Instructions.[85]—The ordinary rules as to instructions apply.[86] Thus, they should be confined to matters in issue,[87] should not determine questions of fact in issue,[88] and should not withdraw from the jury the consideration of material evidence.[89] A party cannot complain of the submission of an issue suggested or from companies neither knew anything about. Hartman & Daniels v. Hollowell, 126 Iowa, 643, 102 N. W. 524. Whether an agent, in collecting a premium not due, was agent of the company. New England Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Swain [Md.] 60 A. 469. Whether the agents who issued the policy were treated by the parties as the agents of the defendant in adjusting the loss. Frost v. North British Mercantile Ins. Co. [Vt.] 60 A. 803.

79. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co. v. Edmundson [Va.] 52 S. E. 350.

80. So as to make provisions as to notice and proofs void under the statute. Continental Ins. Co. v. Parkes [Ala.] 39 So. 204.

81. National Fire Ins. Co. v. O'Bryan [Ark.] 87 S. W. 129.

82. Whether plaintiff sued within three years from the time he discovered, or might with reasonable diligence have discovered, the fraud of an agent in collecting a premium not due. New England Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Swain [Md.] 60 A. 469.

83. The construction of a written application signed by the applicant and a receipt for a part payment of the first premium signed by the agent and accepted in writing by the applicant, and a witness cannot give his opinion as to their meaning. Held error to allow witness to testify as to whether receipt was what was known as a binding receipt, but harmless. Bowen v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 1040.

84. Answers as to previous illness belong to this class. Baldi v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

85. See 4 C. L. 231. See, also, Instructions, 6 C. L. 43.

86. Instructions Approved. Fire insurance: As to fraud and misrepresentations as to value (German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135), false swearing as to value (Id.), that insured could not recover if he set the fire or procured others to do so (Id.), and as to the method of arriving at the "cash value" of the property (Id.), and as to amount of recovery and apportionment of loss (Id.). As to a well-known custom or usage governing in determining the meaning of the word "noon," to fix the time of expiration of policy. Rochester German Ins. Co. v. Peaslee-Gaulbert Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 1155, 87 S. W. 1115. Instruction held to have placed burden on defendant only as to their affirmative defense that plaintiff set the fire and not objectionable as placing burden on them on the whole case. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Santa Fe Mercantile Co. [N. M.] 82 P. 363. As to incendiary fires and bias of witness. Kirkpatrick v. Allemannia Fire Ins. Co., 102 App. Div. 327, 92 N. Y. S. 466. Not reversible error for the judge to comment on the fact that plaintiff had not called as a witness a physician who declared in the proofs of death that he had treated deceased for angina pectoris prior to the date of the policy. Rondinella v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 293.

Life insurance: As to effect of breach of warranty that insured did not use intoxicants. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. American Nat. Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 789.

Instructions Held Properly Refused. Fire insurance: That wool could not set fire to itself. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen Mill Co. [Kan.] 82 P. 513. Defining fire, in view of instruction that there must actually have been fire. Id.

Instructions Held Erroneous. Life insurance: As to notice to pay premiums. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. American Nat. Bank [Ark.] 84 S. W. 789. As to the liability of a company for the fraudulent action of its agent, as not requiring the jury to determine whether the agent was acting within the scope of his employment. New England Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Swain [Md.] 60 A. 469.

87. Fire insurance: Instruction that failure to exercise reasonable care in attempting to save the property properly refused in the absence of evidence that insured was in fault in that regard. German American Ins. Co. v. Brown [Ark.] 87 S. W. 135. Instructions as to duty to keep books in safe, or other safe place, held abstract where it did not appear that there was any such agreement or condition in the policy. Beavers v. Security Mut. Ins. Co. [Ark.] 90 S. W. 13.

Life insurance: Where insured warranted that he had never had heart disease, and had not consulted any other physician than one named, but another physician stated in proofs of death that he had treated him therefor before policy was issued, held error for court to tell jury that as deceased was on friendly terms with the physician the latter might not have regarded the incident referred to in the application as a consultation, there being no evidence to support it. Rondinella v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 293. Question of waiver of breaches of warranty as to health held in the case and to have been properly submitted. Security Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Calvert [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 889.

submitted by his own requested instructions,[90] nor can he ordinarily complain of the failure to give instructions for which he does not ask.[91]

(§ 24) D. Verdict, findings, judgment, costs and fees.[92]—The verdict should not, of course, exceed the amount of the loss proven.[93] In a suit on a fire policy covering, in different amounts, a dwelling house and the furniture therein located, a verdict for plaintiff need not specify separately the amounts allowed for loss on each, but may be for a lump sum covering the entire amount of the loss.[94]

Interest, costs, and penalties.[95]—Interest ordinarily runs from the date when the loss becomes payable.[96] The company is liable for interest from the date of the writ notwithstanding adverse claims to the proceeds of the policy where it fails to file a petition of interpleader or pay the money into court.[97]

On paying into court the proceeds of a policy for which there are several claimants, the company is not entitled to costs to be deducted therefrom.[98]

In Missouri if the jury find a vexatious refusal to pay on the part of the insurer, the insured may be awarded statutory damages not exceeding ten per cent and a reasonable attorney's fee.[99]

(§ 24) E. Enforcement of judgment.[100]—One recovering a judgment against a mutual company on a policy obtained through a branch thereof cannot hold officers paying claims having no preference over his, and paying salaries to themselves, personally liable thereon, his remedy being to obtain an order, in the original cause, for an assessment as provided by the charter and by-laws.[101]

88. Life insurance: Instruction on the question of "issue" and "delivery" of policy held not objectionable as determining the question in issue. Dargan v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. [S. C.] 51 S. E. 125.

89. Fire insurance: Charge as to method of determining value of property destroyed held fair and not to preclude consideration of evidence showing depreciation. Lundvick v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 104 N. W. 429. Instruction that if plaintiff was entitled to recover at all, he was entitled to recover the full amount of his loss, held not improper as withdrawing consideration of defense that insured did not make reasonable effort to save the property, in view of the other instructions and of the fact that there was no evidence as to the value of any property which might have been saved. Schornak v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1087.

90. Where the defendant requested an instruction that a failure to comply with the clause as to keeping books avoided the policy, it could not complain of the court's action in sending the issue of the violation of that clause to the jury, nor the adverse finding of the jury. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. State [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1025.

91. See Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368. The court held not required to define the term "use," where the defense was based on insured's use of liquors, in the absence of a request for an accurately worded special charge. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 656.

92. See 4 C. L. 232. See, also, Costs, 5 C. L. 842; Interest, 4 C. L. 241; Judgments, 4 C. L. 287; Verdicts and Findings, 4 C. L. 1803.

93. Evidence held to show that loss sustained was greater than the verdict. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Harris [Ga.] 52 S. E. 88.

94. Georgia Co-op. Fire Ass'n v. Harris [Ga.] 52 S. E. 88.

95. See 4 C. L. 232.

96. Where equity, having obtained jurisdiction of a suit to reinstate forfeited insurance, gave judgment for the amount of the policy, and the policy provided that it should be payable 60 days after proofs of loss but no proofs were furnished, and there was no evidence as to when proofs would have been furnished but for the wrong giving the court jurisdiction, interest will be allowed commencing 60 days after the date of the service of the complaint, which gives all needed information for adjustment. Smith v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co., 123 Wis. 586, 102 N. W. 57.

97. Davis v. National Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 330.

98. Lane v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 102 App. Div. 470, 92 N. Y. S. 877.

99. Where company stubbornly contested a liability upon a ground not sustained by the evidence, an allowance of ten per cent. statutory damages and $200 attorney fees therefor held not excessive. Evidence held to justify submission of question of vexatious delay and to warrant finding for plaintiff on that issue. Williams v. St. Louis Life Ins. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 499.

100. See 4 C. L. 232.

101. Could not hold officers either on the ground of making such payments, as he had no lien thereon but was only entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of an assessment, or because of the attempted dissolution which was illegal and ineffective. Perry v. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Ass'n [N. C.] 51 S. E. 1025.

INTEREST.

§ 1. Right to interest and demands bearing interest.[1]—Interest is the compensation allowed by law or fixed by the parties to a contract for the use or forbearance or detention of money.[2] Interest is not recoverable against the government.[3] Claims against a municipal corporation do not bear interest in the absence of an express agreement therefor,[4] except where money is wrongfully obtained and illegally withheld.[5] Interest is not allowable on claims withheld by virtue of legal process,[6] nor on those the payment of which is prevented by law,[7] or by the act of the creditor;[8] but may in proper cases be charged from date of suit where knowing of an adverse claim one withheld payment and did not, as he might have done, interplead the claimants.[9]

It may rest in contract express[10] or implied.[11]—Advancements do not bear interest unless there be a clearly manifest intention that they shall do so expressed in the will.[12]

Interest as damages ex contractu is recoverable[13] on liquidated demands improperly withheld,[14] and on moneys received by one for the use of another and re-

1. See 4 C. L. 241.
2. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, of Texas, article 3097.
3. Watts v. U. S., 129 F. 222.
4. Where a contract for repairs on a county court house did not provide for payment of interest, but did provide for interest-bearing orders, which orders were void, no interest could be recovered, there being no express contract therefor. Coles County v. Goehring, 209 Ill. 142, 70 N. E. 610. A city is not liable for interest on money paid to it under protest until judgment rendered for its recovery. Lewis v. San Francisco [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1106.
5. A city is liable for interest on water taxes wrongfully exacted and withheld until recovered in an action at law. City of Chicago v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Ill.] 75 N. E. 803.
6. Where one summoned as trustee is indebted to the principal defendant for a claim upon which interest is recoverable as damages for breach of contract, interest will not be deemed to accrue during the pendency of the trustee process. Walker v. Lancashire Ins. Co. [Mass.] 75 N. E. 66.
7. By Code Civ. Proc. § 1193, an owner of a building is forbidden to pay the contractor sums due him after he has been served with notice of the claims of subcontractors. Stimson v. Dunham, Carrigan, Hayden Co., 146 Cal. 281, 79 P. 968.
8. One who gives another an option to purchase property but before payments became due, denied the contract cannot, when specific performance is decreed against him, recover interest on such payments. Civ. Code, § 4280. Finlen v. Heinze [Mont.] 80 P. 918. A vendor who refuses to accept the purchase price cannot, when specific performance is decreed, recover interest except from the date he tendered the deed in conformity with the decree. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290.
9. Insurance company against which loss had accrued. Davis v. National Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 330.
10. See 4 C. L. 241. An open account, secured by a mortgage providing that on sale of the mortgaged premises the proceeds should be applied to the payment of the debt, interest and costs, draws interest from the date when due. William Mulherin Sons & Co. v. Stansell, 70 S. C. 568, 50 S. E. 497.
11. See 4 C. L. 241. In Pennsylvania a book account for goods sold bears interest from the end of every six months after sale and delivery. Kamber v. Becker, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 266.
12. Stahl's Estate, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 402.
13. See 4 C. L. 242.
14. Shaul v. Board of Education of New York, 95 N. Y. S. 479.

Money collected by an attorney for his client bears interest from date of collection (Goodin v. Hays [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1101), and a balance due an attorney after he is discharged by his client bears interest from the date of the discharge (Id.). Where a daughter paid her father money on his agreement to buy a home which should be hers at his death, and he thereafter purchased a home for a greater amount and did not secure it for her at his death as he agreed to, she was entitled to interest from the date of the original payment to her father. Leary v. Corvin, 181 N. Y. 222, 73 N. E. 984. A purchaser in possession under a bond for title under an agreement to pay the purchase price when the acreage was ascertained and deed executed is chargeable with interest from the date he took possession. Ewell v. Jackson's Adm'r [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1047.

Interest disallowed on a claim for raising a sunken vessel where there was long delay in prosecuting action to recover it, the claim was made excessive and it was difficult to obtain evidence of the value of the services rendered. Merritt & C. Derrick & Wrecking Co. v. Morris & C. Dredging Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 780.

tained without the owner's knowledge.[15] In Illinois, by statute, debts evidenced by a written instrument bear interest from due time,[16] and a note endorsed "no interest to be charged on this note" bears interest after maturity.[17]

Unliquidated demands,[18] the amounts of which are not ascertainable by mere computation,[19] do not bear interest, especially where such demands are subject to counterclaim also unliquidated.[20] An amount is certain if it is ascertainable by mere computation.[21] An overdue open account, the amount of which is ascertained,[22] and an unliquidated demand for breach of contract for the sale of property having a market value,[23] bear interest. Unless equity demands it, interest is not allowable on partnership accounts until there has been a settlement and accounting of the same.[24]

Interest from the date of injury may be allowed in torts,[25] which consist in a diminution of the pecuniary value of property or a withholding of it,[26] if demanded in the complaint and awarded by the verdict.[27] But it is denied in cases of simple negligence[28] and personal injuries.[29]

Verdicts for unliquidated damages do not bear interest before judgment,[30] unless the statute so provides.[31]

Interest ceases with the cessation or tender of the debt or obligation.[32]—A claim for interest falls where payment in full of an obligation is accepted.[33] A

15. Underwood v. Whiteside County Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 115 Ill. App. 387. An executrix who enforces payment of a debt held by the testator as collateral is liable to the true owner of the debt for interest on the balance due him from the date of collection. Laughlin's Ex'r v. Boughner [Ky.] 84 S. W. 300.

16. Instruction allowing interest in case verdict was returned for plaintiff on a life policy held proper. Knights Templars & Masons' Life Indemnity Co. v. Crayton, 110 Ill. App. 648. The face of a life policy bears interest from date of proof of death and demand made. Supreme Lodge, Knights & Ladies of Honor v. Rehg, 116 Ill. App. 59.

17. Harnish v. Miles, 111 Ill. App. 105.

18. Bagley v. Stern, 92 N. Y. S. 244; Stephens v. Phoenix Bridge Co. [C. C. A.] 139 F. 248. Water company's claim against a city for water furnished, the amount of which was not ascertained. Harrodsburg Water Co. v. Harrodsburg [Ky.] 89 S. W. 729.

Mesne profits or rental value does not ordinarily bear interest, at least until it becomes a liquidated sum. Fricker v. Americus Mfg. & Imp. Co. [Ga.] 52 S. E. 65.

A contractor's demand for extras does not draw interest until the amount is ascertained by judgment. Stimson v. Dunham, Carrigan, Hayden Co., 146 Cal. 281, 79 P. 968.

19. A claim for work and labor which was subject to a reduction for damages, and a part of the claim for extra work was in dispute, does not bear interest. Excelsior Terra Cotta Co. v. Harde, 181 N. Y. 11, 73 N. E. 494.

Note: The common-law rule requiring the amount to be liquidated has been modified to the extent that it is allowable if the amount is ascertainable by mere computation. Excelsior Terra Cotta Co. v. Harde, 181 N. Y. 11, 73 N. E. 494.

20. Stephens v. Phoenix Bridge Co. [C. C. A.] 139 F. 248.

21. Labor and material furnished at a specified price. Braas v. Springville, 100 App. Div. 197, 91 N. Y. S. 599.

22. Gregory v. New Home Sewing Mach. Co. [Ky.] 86 S. W. 529. An open account bears interest only from date the balance due is ascertained. Erickson v. Stockton & T. C. R. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 961.

23. Reynolds v. Burr, 93 N. Y. S. 319.

24. Goodwill v. Heim [Pa.] 62 A. 24. A liquidating partner who has been given the control of the business and finances of the firm and has made no claims on his co-partner for moneys withdrawn should not be allowed interest in an accounting. Id.

25. See 4 C. L. 244.

26. On the value of goods unlawfully converted and sold on execution. Johnson v. Gillen [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 135, 103 N. W. 547. So, also, if one obtains moneys of another by fraud, interest runs from the date of obtaining it. Corse & Co. v. Minnesota Grain Co. [Minn.] 102 N. W. 728. But if he obtains it by mistake without fraud, interest does not run until demand for its return. Id.

27. See post, § 3.

28. Missouri & K. Tel. Co. v. Vandervort [Kan.] 79 P. 1068.

29. Under B. & C. Comp. § 4595, interest on unliquidated damages arising out of tort for the infliction of personal injuries cannot be allowed between verdict and judgment. Sorenson v. Oregon Power Co. [Or.] 82 P. 10.

30. Sorenson v. Oregon Power Co. [Or.] 82 P. 10. A verdict for unliquidated damages does not bear interest from date of its finding to rendition of judgment thereon. Clyde Milling & Elevator Co. v. Buoy [Kan.] 80 P. 591.

31. Since 1882, a judgment upon a verdict in an action ex delicto should bear interest from date of verdict if there be one and not from date of judgment. Campbell v. Elkins [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 220.

32. See 4 C. L. 244.

tender to stop interest must be for the full amount of the debt,[34] and under some circumstances the money must be paid into court.[35]

Compound interest[36] is not allowable unless contracted for[37] or exacted as a penalty,[38] and payments on interest bearing obligations are not to be so applied as to compound the interest accrued.[39] A revived judgment does not bear compound interest from date of revival,[40] but interest coupons attached to a bond bear interest after maturity.[41]

§ 2. Rate and computation.[42]—A contract is governed as to interest by the law of the place where executed,[43] and the courts of one state will not on a supposed ground of public policy, refuse to enforce collection of sums due on a lawful bond solvable by the laws of a foreign state and not given in evasion of the laws of the state where enforcement is sought, merely because the rate of interest is higher than that allowed by the laws of the state of the forum.[44]

Subject to the laws against usury and those fixing a maximum legal rate,[45] the rate agreed on controls[46] from date until payment;[47] but if no rate is specified, the legal rate will prevail from maturity until payment.[48] An obligation bearing less than the legal rate "until maturity" will bear the legal rate after maturity,[49] and one drawing higher than the legal rate will draw only the legal rate after judgment.[50]

33. Where parties to an account have a settlement and payment is made in full, any possible claim that might have been made for interest falls. Crane v. Brooks [Mass.] 75 N. E. 710. One who accepts the amount of an appropriation made "in full for the principal of a judgment" recovered against the United States is thereafter estopped to claim an unpaid balance of interest. Bloodgood's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 69.

34. A charterer by an offer to pay less than the charter hire due prior to suit brought does not relieve himself from liability for interest, especially where the offer did not include interest and was not paid into court. Donaldson v. Severn River Glass Sand Co., 138 F. 691.

35. A vendee in an action for specific performance of a contract to sell land, who has had the use of the land since he tendered the price, is chargeable with interest on the amount of the tender where it was not brought into court. Rankin v. Rankin, 216 Ill. 132, 74 N. E. 763.

36. See 4 C. L. 244.

37. An obligation providing that if not paid at maturity accrued interest should become part of the principal and bear interest until paid does not authorize the compounding of interest accruing after maturity. Warnock v. Itawis [Wash.] 80 P. 297.

38. An executor is not chargeable with compound interest if it does not appear that he received such interest on moneys of the estate or was guilty of misappropriation of the funds of the estate. In re Castner's Estate [Cal. App.] 81 P. 991.

39. Payments exceeding accrued interest may be deducted when made, and interest computed on the balance from such date, but payments of less than the accrued interest should not be deducted until such times as together with subsequent payments they exceed accrued interest. Hawkins v. Merchants' & Mechanics' Loan & Bldg. Ass'n [Ky.] 89 S. W. 197.

40. Only simple interest from date of the original judgment. Gregory v. Perry [S. C.] 50 S. E. 787.

41. Each matured coupon is a separate promise and gives rise to a separate cause of action to whosoever holds it, and is not while attached to the bond an incident of it. Rice v. Shealy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 868.

42. See 4 C. L. 245.

43. A contract executed and payable in New York and by inference only, delivered in Nebraska, bears the New York rate of interest. Cudahy Packing Co. v. New Amsterdam Casualty Co., 132 F. 623. The rate is governed by the law of the place of performance. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

Note: Whether a contract for the payment of money, which stipulates for interest but does not specify the rate or designate the place of payment, be treated as payable generally, or at the place where it was made, in either case there is ordinarily no basis for a presumption that the parties intended to be governed by any other law than that of the place where the contract was made; and therefore that law governs as to the rate. Butters v. Olds, 11 Iowa, 1; Holley v. Holley, Litt. Sel. Cas. [Ky.] 507, 12 Am. Dec. 342; Hawley v. Sloo, 12 La Ann. 815; Hopkins v. Miller, 17 N. J. Law, 185; Lewis v. Ingersoll, 1 Keyes [N. Y.] 347; Kavanaugh v. Day, 10 R. I. 393. See, also, Varick v. Crane, 4 N. J. Eq. 128.—See note to United States Sav. & Loan Co. v. Beckley, 62 L. R. A. 35.

44. Midland Sav. & Loan Co. v. Solomon [Kan.] 79 P. 1077.

45. See Usury, 4 C. L. 1764.

46. An agreement to pay one and one-half per cent. per month binds the obligor, though the legal rate is subsequently reduced. Johnson v. Pullman State Bank [Wash.] 82 P. 122.

47. Where an obligation bears a specified rate of interest, such rate will prevail from date until payment. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

48. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

A statute fixing a special rate after execution issued and returned "no property found" does not apply prior to judgment.[51]

Interest fixed by contract runs from the date agreed upon,[52] and interest allowed by statute from the date prescribed.[53] An unliquidated claim against the estate of a decedent bears interest only from date of presentation,[54] and a legacy in lieu of dower only from the date it is payable.[55] Circumstances may render a demand necessary to entitle one to interest,[56] as when money is deposited as security.[57] Formal demand, however, may be waived.[58] If no demand is necessary, interest runs from due date.[59] Moneys payable upon the condition of performance of certain services become due when the services are performed.[60]

Technically, the computation of interest is for the jury; practically, it is a matter of evidence.[61] It should be computed by such method as will work justice to the parties,[62] and so as to cover the full interest-bearing period.[63] A judgment should not include interest beyond its date.[64]

49. "Until paid" in a promissory note means "until maturity." Wright v. Hanna, 210 Pa. 349, 59 A. 1097.

50. Thrasher v. Moran [Cal.] 81 P. 32.

51. Licking Valley Bldg. Ass'n No. 3 v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 89 S. W. 682.

52. An escrow bears interest from date of deposit if such was the intention of the parties. Not from the date of the performance of the conditions. Bither v. Christensen [Cal. App.] 81 P. 670.

53. Rev. St. 1898, § 2768 makes no provision for interest, and a garnishee is liable for interest only from the date of the judgment in the original action, not from the date of garnishment. Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1068. Where in a partition sale property is adjudicated to one who promises to pay the price, he is liable for interest from the date of the district court judgment. Tobin v. United States Safe Deposit & Sav. Bank [La.] 39 So. 33.

54. Claim for board furnished the deceased. Tyndall v. Van Auken's Estate, 94 N. Y. S. 269.

55. Does not bear interest from the death of the testator. In re Martens, 94 N. Y. S. 297.

NOTE. The allowance of interest on the amount due for arrearages of an annuity is discretionary where the annuity is for the widow's maintenance and prompt payment is necessary to her comfortable support (Beeson v. Elliott, 1 Del. Ch. 368; Addams v. Hefferman, 9 Watts [Pa.] 529); or in lieu of dower (Elliott v. Beeson, 1 Harr. [Del.] 106; Seitzinger's Estate, 170 Pa. 531, 32 A. 1101; Houston v. Jamison, 4 Harr. [Del.] 330). But in Isenhart v. Brown, 2 Edw. Ch. [N. Y.] 347, it was held that where payments due on an annuity had been allowed to fall in arrears, no interest was payable on such arrears. Where an annuity was to be paid in provisions delivered at a particular place, the value of which was to be ascertained by testimony, and in the absence of any satisfactory proof of a demand at the place where it was to be paid, or of an agreement to dispense with such demand and convert the same into money, no interest should have been allowed on the arrears thereof. Phillips v. Williams, 5 Grat. [Va.] 259.—See note to Mower v. Sanford [Conn.] 63 L. R. A. 629.

56. Where interest as a penalty is prescribed by law for failure to pay tax bills within a specified period after demand, the date of a demand not established is considered to have been made on the last day of the month during which demand was made. Perkinson v. Schnake, 108 Mo. App. 255, 83 S. W. 301.

57. If the return of a sum of money deposited as security is not demanded, it bears interest only from commencement of action to recover it. Kirkland v. Niagara Gorge R. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 657.

58. A property owner who states to the collector that he will not pay a special assessment tax except at the end of a lawsuit waives formal demand and is liable for penal interest from 30 days after such statement is made. Perkinson v. Schnake, 108 Mo. App. 255, 83 S. W. 301.

59. Where a sale has been made by a commissioner under a decree of court and notes taken for deferred payments, no demand for payment is necessary. Blue v. Campbell [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 909.

60. Under a statute providing that money payable under a written contract bears interest from due time, an attorney's fee dependent on his successful defense of a suit bears interest from final determination of the case. Morrow v. Pike County [Mo.] 88 S. W. 99.

61. Melink v. Coman, 111 Ill. App. 583.

62. Where the plaintiff recovers a verdict but certain items were found for defendant, interest should be computed on the amount found for plaintiff until the items found for defendant became due; such items should then be deducted and interest computed on the balance until judgment. Masterson v. Heitmann & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 8, 87 S. W. 227.

63. Interest on an interest-bearing obligation runs until the date of the verdict, not merely to the date of the writ. Jennings v. Moore [Mass.] 75 N. E. 214.

64. It is erroneous in making a final decree in a suit to foreclose a mortgage to include therein interest on the principal debt to a time beyond the date of the decree. Laflin v. Gato [Fla.] 39 So. 59.

When interest is payable is to be determined from the language of the instrument evidencing the debt.[65]

§ 3. Remedies and procedure to recover interest.[66]—The person who owns the debt also owns the interest accrued thereon.[67] Interest cannot be allowed as damages for breach of contract,[68] or as damages in tort[69] unless prayed for in the complaint and awarded by the verdict, and this is the rule, although interest on all moneys due and payable is authorized by statute,[70] but interest may be allowed from commencement of action under a prayer for all proper relief.[71]

INTERNAL REVENUE LAWS.

§ 1. The tax on liquors and tobacco.[72]—Internal revenue laws are not like penal laws, to be strictly construed, but should be construed fairly and reasonably in such manner as most effectually to accomplish the intention of congress,[73] and are not to be evaded by mere subterfuge.[74] They apply to the dispensing agents of a state which, in the exercise of its sovereign power, has taken charge of the business of selling intoxicants,[75] and it is within the constitutional powers of the United States to exact these taxes from them.[76] An assessment by a collector is prima facie valid,[77] and the United States is not bound to produce direct evidence of its validity.[78] Rules and regulations prescribed by the treasury department have no force as rules of evidence.[79] Rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner of internal revenue must be reasonable[80] and must be conformed to by persons seeking

65. Section 9, c. 74, entitled "Interest," fixing the time when interest shall be computed, does not make it payable annually or otherwise. Illinois Nat. Bank v. Trustees of Schools, 111 Ill. App. 189.

66. See 4 C. L. 245.

67. A pledgee of collateral, assigned to him as security is not entitled to interest thereon as a bonus after the principal debt has been paid in full. Ruberg v. Brown [S. C.] 51 S. E. 96.

68. Breach of contract to furnish cars for the shipment of cattle. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Scott & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1065.

69. In an action for damages for injuries to a shipment of cattle. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 47. A prayer for a certain amount, costs, and general relief does not authorize a recovery of interest on such amount. First Nat. Bank v. Cleland [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 337.

70. A statute authorizing interest on all moneys due and payable does not authorize its recovery on a demand sued for unless prayed for in the petition. Morley v. St. Joseph [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 1013.

71. Need not be specially prayed for. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Henderson Cotton Mills [Ky.] 85 S. W. 1090. A complaint on a note praying interest from date according to its terms need not specially pray for interest from the filing of the complaint to judgment entered. Thrasher v. Moran [Cal.] 81 P. 32.

72. See 4 C. L. 246.

73. United States v. Cole, 134 F. 697.

74. A druggist who sells a medicinal preparation, 88 per cent. proof spirits or any other per cent. more than sufficient to preserve the medicinal properties of roots or drugs contained therein, is a retail liquor dealer within Rev. St. §§ 3244, 3248 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2096, 2107), defining "retail dealer" and "distilled spirits." United States v. Morfew, 136 F. 491.

75. U. S. Rev. St. §§ 3140, 3232, 3234 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 2040, 2091, 2097). State of South Carolina v. U. S., 26 S. Ct. 110. The dispensary system of South Carolina is commercial as well as a police regulation because conducted for profit. State of South Carolina's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 257.

76. State of South Carolina v. U. S., 26 S. Ct. 110.

77. An assessment under Rev. St. § 3309 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2158) on spirits produced and not accounted for, is prima facie evidence of its validity. United States v. Cole, 134 F. 697.

78. A stipulation by a defendant in an action to recover an assessment on unreported spirits alleged to have been distilled from certain fruit, that he had received such fruit but had wholly failed to account for its destruction or for the spirits alleged to have been distilled from it, justifies a finding in favor of the government. United States v. Cole, 134 F. 697.

79. They are for the guidance of officers in the administration of the revenue laws and have no force as rules of evidence in actions to collect assessments. United States v. Cole, 134 F. 697.

80. The rules and regulations prescribed relief.[81] By Act of Congress, April 12, 1902, a rebate of revenue paid on tobacco was authorized,[82] and strict compliance with the instructions on the back of a blank proof for tobacco rebate, detailing the duties of the witnesses, is not a condition precedent to a right to the rebate.[83] The action of the commissioner on claims for rebates is reviewable by the circuit court.[84] An allowance by the commissioner of internal revenue for the refund of a tax illegally collected is an award upon which an action may be maintained, and is conclusive until impeached for fraud or mistake.[85] A declaration on a distiller's bond, the condition of which is that the principal should in all respects comply with the law and regulations relative to the duties of distillers, must set forth with certainty the laws or regulations violated and the laws authorizing the commissioner to make the regulations broken.[86] The rules of procedure of the Federal court apply in internal revenue proceedings.[87]

§ 2. Oleomargarine Act August 2, 1886.[88]

§ 3. War Revenue Acts June 13, 1898, and March 2, 1901.[89]—A claim to recover back internal revenue taxes illegally exacted is one founded upon a law of congress and may be enforced by an action directly against the United States under that act, after it has been presented to the commissioner of internal revenue, whether or not it is approved by him and whether it sounds in contract or in tort.[90] An action against the United States upon a claim to recover back internal revenue taxes illegally exacted which has been presented to but not approved by the commissioner of internal revenue is barred after two years.[91] A statement of claim against a collector to recover revenue taxes paid, on the ground that plaintiff is not subject to such taxes, should set out the transactions on account of which they were assessed.[92]

The requirement that certain instruments bear a revenue stamp does not apply to an option to purchase land,[93] and is not binding on state courts.[94]

by the commissioner of internal revenue on April 28, 1902, providing for claims for rebate under act April 12, 1902, c. 500, § 3 (32 Stat. 96), of taxes paid on manufactured tobacco and snuff, are reasonable. Powell v. U. S., 135 F. 881.

81. A bankrupt's trustee is not entitled to recover where there is evidence tending to show that the claim is fraudulent and that the regulations prescribed are not complied with. Powell v. U. S., 135 F. 881.

82. The uncontradicted testimony of four witnesses in a suit for a tobacco rebate as authorized by Act April 12, 1902, is sufficient as against evidence that the space in the store was inadequate to hold the amount of tobacco testified to, offered for the purpose of showing that the claim was fraudulent. Hyams v. U. S., 139 F. 997.

83. Hyams v. U. S., 139 F. 997.

84. A rejection by the commissioner of internal revenue in proceedings to recover a tobacco rebate as authorized by Act Cong. April 12, 1902, the whole claim having accrued since the passage of the Tucker Act March 3, 1887, amended by Act June 27, 1898, is reviewable by the circuit court. Hyams v. U. S., 139 F. 997.

85. Action may be maintained in the court of claims directly against the government. Edison Illuminating Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 208.

86. United States v. Zemel Co., 137 F. 989.

87. Under the rule of court that the arrangement of rules under distinct heads is not to prevent their covering every mode of procedure to which they are applicable, a rule under the head "Admiralty" that service on the proctor of a party in admiralty stipulations binds the sureties applies to internal revenue proceedings. United States v. 59,650 Cigars, 138 F. 166.

88, 89. See 4 C. L. 247.

90. Christie-Street Commission Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 326.

91. Rev. St. § 3227 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2089). Christie-Street Commission Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 326. The limitation of two years prescribed by Rev. St. § 3227 for the commencement of actions to recover internal revenue taxes illegally exacted is not inconsistent with and was not repealed by the Act of March 3, 1887, providing that actions under the law must be brought within six years. Id.

92. Haight & Freese Co. v. McCoach, 135 F. 894.

93. Only instruments conveying an interest or title are required to be stamped. Hughes v. Antill, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 290.

94. The Federal statute requiring a revenue stamp to be placed on a deed need not be complied with in order to render such deed valid in state courts. Thompson v. Calhoun, 216 Ill. 161, 74 N. E. 775. The question of want of a revenue stamp on an insurance policy cannot properly be raised in a state court. Wheaton v. Liverpool & L. & G. Ins. Co. [S. D.] 104 N. W. 850.

The legacy tax[95] was not "imposed" and did not become a lien until one year after the testator's death.[96] It did not apply to contingent legacies[97] and was repealed July 1, 1902.[98]

§ 4. Filled Cheese Act June 6, 1896.[99]

INTERNATIONAL LAW.[1]

The law of nations applies to decide matters formerly decided by a treaty which by act of one nation has been abrogated[2] and matters resolved from doubt by treaty may thereby again become doubtful.[3] When sovereignty changes, local laws continue in force till changed.[4]

INTERPLEADER.

§ 1. Nature of remedy and right to it.[5]—There must be two persons claiming the same thing against complainant adversely to each other, and he must be without beneficial interest in it and unable to determine without hazard who is right.[6] The right to interplead is not in abeyance merely because one of the claimants must

95. See 4 C. L. 248.

96. Where a testator died within one year prior to July 1, 1902, the date the tax was repealed, legacies provided by him are not taxable. Eidman v. Tilghman [C. C. A.] 136 F. 141.

97. To A. "when she is 18 years old" is contingent. Heberton v. McClain, 135 F. 226. An estate to "A." conditioned on his attaining a certain age is contingent. Vanderbilt v. Eidman, 196 U. S. 480, 49 Law. Ed. 563.

98. The legacy tax was not due and payable until one year after the death of the testator, and was repealed July 1, 1902; hence it did not attach to legacies provided by a testator who died within one year prior to the date of repeal. Philadelphia Trust, etc., Co. v. McCoach, 135 F. 866.

99. See 4 C. L. 249.

1. Excludes matters relating to war, prize, etc. (see War, 4 C. L. 1818); aliens (5 C. L. 96), conflict of laws (5 C. L. 610); seamen (see Shipping, etc., 4 C. L. 1450); ambassadors and consuls (5 C. L. 113).

2, 3. Schooner Atlantic, 39 Ct. Cl. 193.

4. Philippine Sugar Estates Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 225.

5. See 4 C. L. 249.

6. Kellogg v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 25 App. D. C. 36. The tendency is to extend the remedy more freely. Its rise and growth are reviewed in Byers v. Sansom-Thayer Com. Co., 111 Ill. App. 575.

Allowed: Where complainant bank held deposits claimed by both principal and agents in the transactions whence the money came. Fidelity Fire Ins. Co. v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 110 Ill. App. 92. To warehouseman where bailor had given conflicting delivery orders. Beebe v. Mead, 101 App. Div. 500, 92 N. Y. S. 51. Where bank held stocks claimed by several as successors in estate. Dickinson v. Griggsville Nat. Bank, 111 Ill. App. 183. As to money realized from a sale and claimed against buyer by one as owner and others as mortgagees. Byers v. Sansom-Thayer Com. Co., 111 Ill. App. 575. In case of contentious claims by depositor's executors against his assignee of certificate of deposit alleged to hold by an incomplete gift. Harris Banking Co. v. Miller [Mo.] 89 S. W. 629. To the depositary of a specific sum claimed by the depositor and by others as the intended payees. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Calvet-Rogniat, 46 Misc. 16, 93 N. Y. S. 238. All mechanics' lienors were required to come in and litigate and owner was discharged on payment of contract price into court. Stimson v. Dunham, Carrigan, Hayden Co., 146 Cal. 281, 79 P. 968.

Refused: The remedy is bill to vacate for fraud and not interpleader where plaintiff, a tenant, was induced by his creditor to suffer judgment as garnishee for rent after the landlord had parted with his interest, the garnishment plaintiff being innocent of complicity. Belond v. Rayburn [Wash] 80 P. 553.

Legal doubt or hazard: Bill dismissed which showed clear legal obligation to mechanics' lienor as against contractor. Turner v. Miller [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 741. It will not lie at suit of garnishee where the garnishment proceeding includes all claimants and will decide all questions. Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1068. As against assignee of judgment, the judgment creditor's receiver does not by mere assertion of a demand create a doubt or hazard. Stock, Grain & Provision Co. v. Haight, 95 N. Y. S. 71. Claim of a receiver of one who had deposited money to secure performance of charter party held not well founded. Hanna v. Manufacturers' Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 304.

Hostility to one claimant is not shown by the mere filing of an answer when sued by one. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Calvet-Rogniat, 46 Misc. 16, 93 N. Y. S. 238.

resort to suit necessarily determinative of the doubt before he can recover.[7] The existence of an obligation from complainant to one of defendants of a nature not adjudicable under the bill is fatal.[8] Privity between the adverse claimants if otherwise requisite[9] is not so when they claim from a common source.[10]

Statutory proceedings to implead third persons claiming against a defendant are akin to equitable interpleader,[11] and in New York this may be allowed in the municipal courts;[12] but inferior courts will not do so if issues would thereby be made resulting in an ouster of jurisdiction.[13]

§ 2. Procedure and relief; discharge of stakeholder; costs.[14] Process and pleading.—Personal jurisdiction of both claimants is essential,[15] but if it can be obtained, the commencement and pendency of a suit by one of them in another jurisdiction is no obstacle.[16]

The contentious claims should be so pleaded as to show a risk in paying either.[17] They need not be set out so particularly that the causes of action asserted would be well pleaded.[18] The prayer should be that defendants be compelled to litigate and settle their titles.[19] The affidavit of noncollusion either in the bill or annexed to it is essential.[20] When there is a sworn denial of collusion and an averment of indifference the inference from the existence of a contract with one defendant is overcome.[21]

Discharge.[21a]—While discharge should not follow immediately on the filing of an amended bill without further answer,[22] it is harmless if naught has been changed but to increase the fund paid into court.[23] When interpleader is allowed on paying into court, the applicant should not only be dismissed but there should be a judgment barring the reassertion of the obligation,[24] and until this is done he may resist a dismissal as to him.[26]

Further proceedings.[26a]—Having allowed the bill the usual practice is to order defendants to litigate their claims[26] and the one claiming against the prima facie right is to be the actor.[27] It is error to enter an ex parte decree nisi for the one prima facie entitled[28] especially when requiring the other to plead in short time and

7. Judgment defendant levied on by judgment plaintiff's creditor may sue to interplead notwithstanding such creditor's inability to proceed except by supplementary proceedings against the judgment defendant. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 717, 721. Water Supply Co. v. Sarnow [Cal. App.] 82 P. 689.

8. Byers v. Sansom-Thayer Com. Co., 111 Ill. App. 575. No such duty in case of factor who has money claimed by consignor as owner of goods and by mortgagees. Id.

9. See 4 C. L. 250, n. 98; Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 773.

10. Two claims under same insurance policy. Kellogg v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 25 App. D. C. 36.

11. Dexter v. Lichliter, 24 App. D. C. 222.

12. Municipal Court Act, § 187 (Laws 1902, c. 580) so provides. Reichardt v. American Platinum Works, 94 N. Y. S. 384.

13. Equitable issues. Marcus v. Aufses, 94 N. Y. S. 397; Krugman v. Hanover Fire Ins. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 399.

14. See 4 C. L. 251.

15. Publication will not suffice. Dexter v. Lichliter, 24 App. D. C. 222. If attempted, a special appearance to challenge the jurisdiction is proper. Id.

16. Kellogg v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 35 App. D. C. 36.

17. Bill held to show clear legal duty to pay mechanic's lien and not principal contractor. Turner v. Miller [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 741.

18. Byers v. Sansom-Thayer Com. Co., 111 Ill. App. 575.

19. Chartiers Oil Co. v. Moore's Devisees, 56 W. Va. 540, 49 S. E. 449.

20. Chartiers Oil Co. v. Moore's Devisees, 56 W. Va. 540, 49 S. E. 449. The affidavit of noncollusion is supplied by a suitable averment in a verified bill. Byers v. Sansom-Thayer Com. Co., 111 Ill. App. 575.

21. Facts were confessed by demurrer. Byers v. Sansom-Thayer Com. Co., 111 Ill. App. 575.

21a. See 4 C. L. 252.

22, 23. Kellogg v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 25 App. D. C. 36.

24. Plaintiff who interpleaded claimants to a judgment should have a judgment declaring same discharged. Bowsky v. Cosby, 94 N. Y. S. 792. Such judgment should not be rendered on appeal, but where remand is in any event necessary should be below. Id.

25. Bowsky v. Cosby, 94 N. Y. S. 792.

25a. See 4 C. L. 252.

26. See Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 790.

27. Buck v. Mason [C. C. A.] 135 F. 304.

28. Buck v. Mason [C. C. A.] 135 F. 304. Seven days for claimant at distance to plead is too little. Id.

only on conditions of indemnity. If by agreement all parties are to have their rights decreed, leaving only the disputed claims, the decree cannot go into the adjustment of the dispute.[29] Interpleader being refused, the bill will not support a decree affecting defendants' rights.[30] Injunction against threatened suits will issue in aid of interpleader.[31] Privileges or defenses pertaining wholly to complainant and necessarily forborne by him in interpleading will not be litigated.[32]

Statutory interpleaders are equitable in nature;[33] hence if the code merely gives the remedy and provides no procedure, that of equity should be adopted,[34] and if an order of interpleader be entered in an action, it becomes an equitable one.[35] When a defendant moves for interpleader, the practice is to substitute for him the other claimant and to plead anew or supplementally as the case requires.[36] Leave to plead supplementally should be asked by plaintiff[37] but an admission of "due" service by the new defendant disentitles him to object.[38] Likewise plaintiff by silence may waive objection to the jurisdiction over the new defendant.[39] If the new defendant fails to plead responsively, he may be defaulted.[40]

Costs are taxable against the one who has wrongfully claimed the property.[41]

INTERPRETATION; INTERPRETERS; INTERSTATE COMMERCE; INTERVENTION, see latest topical index.

INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

§ 1. Control of the liquor traffic; validity of statutes and ordinances.[42]—No one has an inherent[43] or constitutional[44] right to manufacture or sell intoxicating

29. Buck v. Mason [C. C. A.] 135 F. 304.
30. Interpleader being refused a lessee as against two claimants, it was error to enjoin one from collecting rents. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Foster [Pa.] 61 A. 571.
31. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Calvet-Rogniat, 46 Misc. 16, 93 N. Y. S. 238.
32. In interpleader by an insurance company, an assignee is not put to proof of interest. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Tucker [R. I.] 61 A. 142.
33. See ante, § 1.
34. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963; Hanna v. Manufacturers' Trust Co., 93 N. Y. S. 304.
35. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963.
36. Under the New York Code the practice is: When a defendant in an action obtains an order, the plaintiff applies for leave to file a supplemental complaint and to substitute for defendant the adverse claimant on the former's paying or tendering into court the money or property. The supplemental complaint should allege the cause of action as originally pleaded and add allegations showing the interpleader and demand judgment against the new defendant for the money or property and costs. The new defendant may then answer within the regular time. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963.
37, 38. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963.

liquors even for medical, mechanical or scientific purposes,[45] the traffic being subject to the control of the state through an exercise of its police power.[46] Hence the legislature may prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the state or it may impose any conditions, short of prohibition, upon the manufacture and traffic in such liquor, that it deems proper.[47] It may pass laws of local application.[48] The statutes must, however, observe constitutional requirements,[49] such as the distribution of governmental functions[50] and requirements as to title.[51] In some 39. Reichardt v. American Platinum Works, 94 N. Y. S. 384.

40. Greenblatt v. Mendelsohn, 92 N. Y. S. 963.

41. Dickinson v. Griggsville Nat. Bank, 111 Ill. App. 183. Defeated claimant taxed with costs. Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World v. Wood [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 891. Allowance of a percentage of the value of the property is error where complainant claimed no right in it. Beebe v. Mead, 101 App. Div. 500, 92 N. Y. S. 51.

42. See 4 C. L. 253.

43. Barnett v. Pemiscot County Court [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 575; Sandys v. Williams [Or.] 80 P. 642; Fanning's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 622.

44. The right is not one of the privileges guarantied to the citizens of the United States by the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution. Sandys v. Williams [Or.] 80 P. 642; State v. Durein [Kan.] 80 P. 987.

45. The constitutional rights of a person are not violated by denying him a permit or by canceling such permit after it has been granted. Procedure under Kansas statutes considered. Newman v. Lake [Kan.] 79 P. 675, following State v. Durein [Kan.] 78 P. 152.

46. Sandys v. Williams [Or.] 80 P. 642; Borck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 580; Hart v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 523; Equitable Loan & Security Co. v. Edwardsville [Ala.] 38 So. 1016; McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045. Exercise of the police power in regulating the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquors, see 1 Abbott, Municipal Corp. § 130, pp. 250 et seq.

47. State v. Durein [Kan.] 80 P. 987. The amendment to the state constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors except for certain purposes affected the power of the legislature to tolerate only, and did not abridge its power further to restrain or prohibit the liquor traffic. Id.

48. State v. Barrett, 138 N. C. 630, 50 S. E. 506.

49. Code 1892, § 1604, making it a misdemeanor to act as agent of either the seller or purchaser in effecting an unlawful sale of liquor in any territory in which a sale is prohibited is constitutional. Hart v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 523.

50. Chapter 346, p. 626, Gen. Laws 1905, relating to the issuance of liquor licenses by the county commissioners, held not to violate art. 3, § 1, of the Constitution of the state, relating to the distribution of governmental functions. State v. Bates [Minn.] 104 N. W. 709. Laws 1903, p. 749, § 434 making the possession of more than one quart of intoxicating liquor by an unlicensed person prima facie evidence of keeping it for sale, is not unconstitutional as an invasion by the legislative of the judicial department of the government. State v. Barrett, 138 N. C. 630, 50 S. E. 506. Acts of April 28, 1899 (P. L. 67 and 68) are unconstitutional, inasmuch as they seek to delegate the legislative power by requiring that the repeal provided for shall not go into effect unless a majority of duly qualified voters of the borough and county shall vote in favor of said repeal at an election to be held in accordance with the provisions of the act. McGonnell's License, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 642.

51. Laws 1901, p. 58, c. 4930 is not unconstitutional as embracing two subjects. Caesar v. State [Fla.] 39 So. 470. Act of June 9, 1891 (P. L. 248) held constitutional. Stroudsburg Borough v. Shick, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 442. The prohibition of the sale of liquor on certain days is pertinent to and naturally connected with the general subject of the sale of intoxicants. Ordinance entitled "Sale of Intoxicating Liquors," and the body of the act prohibiting the opening of licensed saloons on the Sabbath held valid. City of Duluth v. Abrahamson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 682. Restrictions and limitations attached to a license are germane to and properly connected with the subject of imposing license taxes, and consequently they may be embraced in an act with such subject. Schiller v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 706. Provisions for the payment of the license and other taxes, prescribing penalties for doing business without a license and prescribing penalties for failure to comply with the provisions of such licenses, are matters properly connected with the subject of imposing license and other taxes, and they may properly be embraced in one act. Laws 1903, p. 3, ch. 5106, held valid. Id. The title "An ordinance concerning misdemeanors" is sufficiently broad to cover a provision prohibiting any one engaging in any calling on Sunday, or keeping open any place of business, or permitting persons to resort thereto for the purpose of drinking intoxicating liquor on Sunday. Town of Lovilla v. Cobb, 126 Iowa, 557, 102 N. W. 496. The title of an act being "An act to prohibit the sale of" liquors of a given character in a named county, "and for other purposes herein mentioned," authorizes legislation in the body of the act that the prohibition should not become effective until an election was had and a result favoring such prohibition was obtained. Oglesby v. State, 121 Ga. 602, 49 S. E. 706. Acts 1902, p. 64, entitled "An act to prohibit the sale of liquor on Sunday," held valid, though it prohibits Sunday sales, provides a punishment therefor, imposes forfeiture of the license on a

states an act containing subjects not embraced in the title is void only as to such subjects.[52] The state, or its subordinate agent, when duly authorized, may confer the privilege on one class of persons and deny it as to others.[53] The act must not deny anyone the equal protection of the law.[54] An act prohibiting a recovery for liquor bought in another state does not impair the obligation of a contract.[55] Subject to well-defined limitations the legislatures may change the rules of evidence and declare that certain facts or conditions, when shown, shall constitute prima facie evidence of guilt,[56] and in this connection it cannot be said, as a matter of law, that the keeping of more than one quart of liquor in one's possession has no relation to an intent to sell.[57] The legislature cannot change the meaning of the word "sale" so as to evade or enlarge constitutional provisions respecting sales of intoxicants.[58] Where the liquor is an article of interstate commerce[59] it is not subject to state legislation,[60] though this rule has been modified by the "Wilson Bill" so as to render the shipment subject to the state laws upon its "arrival in" the state.[61] Under this law the power of the state does not attach until the liquor is delivered to the consignee,[62] though the state may exact a license fee from one selling liquors conviction for a second offense within a year, prescribes certain duties of the clerk of court and judge in the event of a second conviction, and provides a penalty for failure of the judge to perform such duties. Borck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 580.

52. A contention that "An act to regulate the sale of intoxicants" is void because undertaking also to regulate gifts of intoxicants is untenable under Const. art. 3, § 35. McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045.

53. Sandys v. Williams [Or.] 80 P. 642. An ordinance prohibiting a sale of intoxicating liquors in a private room does not, by making an exception in favor of hotels, contravene Const. art. 1, § 21, inhibiting laws granting privileges which on the same terms shall not equally belong to all citizens. Id.

54. Rev. St. c. 29, § 64, prohibiting a recovery for liquor bought in another state, held valid. Corbin v. Houlehan [Me.] 61 A. 131. An act giving a right of recovery on a liquor dealer's bond for selling liquor to minors held valid. McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045. Rev. Laws 1895, art. 5060l, regulating the sale of liquors, and providing that it shall not apply to wines made from grapes grown in the state while in the hands of the producers, held valid. Douthit v. State [Tex.] 83 S. W. 795. Laws 1903, p. 749, c. 434, making the possession of more than one quart of intoxicating liquor by an unlicensed person prima facie evidence of keeping it for sale, held valid. State v. Barrett, 138 N. C. 630, 50 S. E. 506.

55. Rev. St. c. 29, § 64 construed. Corbin v. Houlehan [Me.] 61 A. 131.

56. Laws N. C. 1903, p. 749, c. 434, making the possession of more than one quart of intoxicating liquor by an unlicensed person prima facie evidence of keeping it for sale, is valid. State v. Barrett, 138 N. C. 630, 50 S. E. 506. Is not unconstitutional as an invasion by the legislative of the judicial department of the government (Id.), nor as depriving the accused of the presumption of innocence (Id.), nor as denying him the equal protection of the law (Id.).

57. State v. Barrett, 138 N. C. 630, 50 S. E. 506. Laws 1903, p. 749, c. 434, making the possession of more than one quart of intoxicating liquor by an unlicensed person prima facie evidence of keeping it for sale, is not void as arbitrarily making a lawful act prima facie evidence of a guilty intent. Id.

58. Act providing that C. O. D. contracts of sale shall be deemed to have been made where the goods are delivered and paid for held unconstitutional. Keller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 264, 87 S. W. 669. See 4 C. L. 271, n. 10.

59. Intoxicating liquors shipped from one state into another on a C. O. D. contract is interstate commerce, and cannot be controlled by state laws. Sedgwick v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 813; Donley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 13, 89 S. W. 553; Id. [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 13, 89 S. W. 554. Where wholesale liquor dealer contracts within a state to sell liquor to be shipped from another state, the shipment is interstate commerce, though the seller is a resident of the state where the sale is made and the whisky is to be delivered. Sloman v. Moebs Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 854.

60. Rev. Pol. Code, §§ 2834, 2838, making it an offense for a traveling salesman to take orders for intoxicating liquor without a license, does not violate the interstate commerce clause of the Federal Constitution, State v. Delamater [S. D.] 104 N. W. 537. Code 1892, § 1604, making it a misdemeanor to act as agent of either the seller or purchaser in effecting an unlawful sale, does not violate the interstate commerce clause of the Federal Constitution. Hart v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 523.

61. Wilson Bill is 26 Stat. 613, c. 728. See note Constitutionality of laws affecting interstate commerce, 3 C. L. 711, where the law on this subject is fully developed.

62. Crigler v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 276. Intoxicating liquors shipped C. O. D. from one state into another state cannot be subjected to seizure under the laws of the latter state while in the hands of the common carrier. American Exp. Co. v. Iowa, 196 U. S. 133, 49 Law. Ed. 417; Adams Exp.

within the state on a boat engaged in interstate commerce.[63] In order to be interstate commerce, the introduction of the liquor into the state must not be for the purpose of an illegal sale.[64] A state inspection law, although producing a revenue and providing an inadequate inspection, will be deemed to have been enacted in the exercise of the state's police power within the meaning of the "Wilson Bill"[65] and such an act is not void as an interference with interstate commerce because it operates to deter shipments into the state,[66] nor does it unlawfully burden such commerce.[67] Congress has no power to penalize the sale of liquor to an Indian who has been emancipated and given the privileges of citizenship.[68] The provision of a local option law excepting sales for sacramental and medicinal purposes from its operation does not violate a constitutional provision requiring the legislature to enact laws whereby the voters may determine, by majority vote, whether the sale of intoxicants shall be prohibited.[69] An act putting the punishment of an offense in the hands of municipal authorities infringes a constitutional provision requiring criminal prosecutions to be based on an indictment.[70] The constitution of Alabama prohibits the passage of local laws unless a notice is published in the locality affected stating the substance of the proposed law.[71] In other states special legislation is prohibited in cases for which provision has been made by an existing general law.[72] Cruel and unusual punishments are prohibited.[73] The constitutionality of an act cannot be contested by one whose rights it does not affect.[74] While repeals by impli-

Co. v. Iowa, 196 U. S. 147, 49 Law. Ed. 424. Nor can the common carrier be rendered liable as for an unlawful sale. Chambers v. Adams Exp. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 152.

63. Foppiano v. Speed, 26 S. Ct. 138.

64. Whisky manufactured and sent by the distiller to another state in order to be reshipped in retail quantities to consumers in local option territory in the state where the distillery is located, whose orders have been taken by the distiller's agents, is not interstate commerce. Crigler v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 276. Rev. St. c. 29, § 64, prohibiting the maintenance of an action in the courts of the state to recover for intoxicating liquors bought in another state with intent to sell the same in the former state in violation of law, does not impair the interstate commerce clause of the Federal constitution. Corbin v. Houlehan [Me.] 61 A. 131.

65, 66, 67. Pabst Brewing Co. v. Crenshaw, 198 U. S. 17, 49 Law. Ed. 925.

68. 29 Stat. at L. 506, chap. 109, penalizing the sale of liquor to an Indian, held not applicable to an Indian to whom an allotment has been made under the act of Feb. 8, 1887, which grants the allottees the privilege of citizenship. In re Heff, 197 U. S. 488, 49 Law. Ed. 848.

69. Const. art. 16, § 20 construed. Ray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1121.

70. Gen. St. p. 1795, pl. 50, § 2, held unconstitutional. State v. Terry [N. J. Law] 61 A. 148, following State v. Anderson, 40 N. J. Law, 224; Meyer v. State, 41 N. J. Law, 6; Id., 42 N. J. Law, 145.

71. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 392, held unconstitutional. Hudgins v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 717. Notices that application would be made to repeal the law authorizing the establishment of dispensaries, so far as it related to C. county, held ineffectual as not embodying the substance of the proposed law as required by the constitution. Town of Elba v. Rhodes [Ala.] 38 So. 807. Notice "that there will be a petition before the next legislature to repeal the prohibition law for L. beat" held not to authorize law repealing law forbidding the sale of intoxicants "at or within eight miles of the court house of the town of L" only so far as the same applied to the "corporate limits of the town of L." Brame v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 1031. A notice that an application would be made to the legislature to pass a law preventing the sale of spirituous, etc. liquors except in incorporated cities or towns within five miles of the Insane Hospital situated at T. & M., sufficiently states the substance of Loc. Acts 1903, p. 352, prohibiting the sale of spirituous, etc., liquors within five miles of the Alabama State Hospital located at T. & M., except in cities now incorporated or hereafter to be incorporated under the laws of the state. State v. Williams [Ala.] 39 So. 276.

72. Under previous decisions, Acts 1880-81, p. 608, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within the limits of Jefferson county, is unconstitutional. Edwards v. State [Ga.] 51 S. E. 630.

73. Acts 1903, p. 64, providing that a person convicted twice for violating the Sunday liquor law shall forfeit his license and be debarred from engaging in the liquor business for two years, does not impose a cruel or unusual punishment. Borck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 580.

74. Where one convicted of selling intoxicants in violation of the license act of 1902 was not affected by the discriminations in the act with reference to cider and wines, as it did not appear that defendant was convicted of selling either cider or wines, he could not assail the validity of the act on the ground of such discriminations. State v. Barr [Vt.] 62 A. 43. A retail liquor dealer cannot object that a statute giving a right cation are not favored there being an irreconcilable conflict between two laws the later one prevails.[75]

A municipality generally has the power either under statutory enactment[76] or under the general welfare clause in its charter[77] to pass reasonable[78] ordinances restricting or regulating the liquor traffic in such city. The unreasonableness of the ordinance must be determined by considering whether or not a necessity existed for the regulation.[79] Unless expressly stated in the charter to the contrary valid ordinances cannot be ordained when inconsistent with the general state law.[80] Resolutions inconsistent with charter provisions are void.[81] The legislature may, by express enactment, authorize the municipality to provide for the punishment of an act which in its nature affects the health, peace and good order of the community notwithstanding that such act has been made penal under the general law of the state.[82]

A dispensary law may be passed to take effect on the ratification of the same by the people of a county or district.[83] An act authorizing incorporated towns in a certain county to establish and operate dispensaries is not unconstitutional as granting a special privilege;[84] but if the act allows a town board to so do, the members of the board receiving the profits of the business, it is unconstitutional.[85] of recovery on a liquor dealer's bond for selling liquor to a minor is unconstitutional on the ground that it is provided in the law that it shall not apply to wines produced from grapes grown in the state while the same are in the hands of the producers or manufacturers thereof, in view of a further provision that, when wines produced from grapes grown in the state are in the hands of a retail liquor dealer, they are subject to the same regulation as other liquors, whether produced in the state or not. McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045.

75. There is no conflict between a statutory provision granting an absolute discretion to a probate judge to revoke a druggist's permit at any time and a provision requiring him to investigate the propriety of such revocation upon the presentation of a petition signed by a certain number of residents. Gen. St. 1901, § 2452, construed. Newman v. Lake [Kan.] 79 P. 675. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 2493-2500 are not repealed by Laws 1903, p. 178, c. 122. Stahl v. Lee [Kan.] 80 P. 983. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7283, renders immaterial the words "in less quantities than a quart at a time" contained in § 7283b and by implication repeals that provision. Cahill v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 182; State v. Kiley [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 184. The repugnance between the acts of April 10, 1873, and July 30, 1897, is irreconcilable. Sun & B. Pub. Co. v. Bennett, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 243.

76. Under a statute authorizing municipal corporations to make ordinances to provide for the safety, health, order and comfort of such corporations, a town has authority to pass an ordinance prohibiting anyone from permitting persons to resort to his place of business on Sunday for the purpose of drinking intoxicating liquors. Town of Lovilia v. Cobb, 126 Iowa, 557, 102 N. W. 496. The town of Mansfield has power to rule and regulate, as well as prohibit, the sale of intoxicating drinks and to call an election to determine by ballot questions their grant suggests. Evans v. Police Jury [La.] 38 So. 555.

77. May pass an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of intoxicating liquors for the purpose of unlawful sale. Tucker v. Moultrie [Ga.] 50 S. E. 61.

78. An ordinance prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in any side room, back room, upper room, alcove, booth or box connected with a saloon is a proper exercise of the police power. Sandys v. Williams [Or.] 80 P. 642. Ordinance forbidding the keeping of chairs, or anything for persons, except the bartender or proprietor, to sit on in saloons is reasonable. Pate v. Jonesboro [Ark.] 87 S. W. 437.

79. Sandys v. Williams [Or.] 80 P. 642.

80. A city of the fourth class is not authorized to pass an ordinance requiring applicants for dramshop licenses to obtain yearly the consent of two-thirds of the qualified voters of the entire city. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 2993, 5957, 5978, construed. State v. McCammon [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 510. A city ordinance providing that native wine shall not be sold within the city, except on premises where the grapes or berries are grown and the wine is manufactured, is void, being contrary to Acts 1899, p. 137. Laws 1901, p. 326, and Const. 1874, art. 12, § 4 considered. City of Morrilton v. Comes [Ark.] 87 S. W. 1024. An ordinance depending for its authority upon Gen. St. 1901, § 2499 and imposing a penalty different from that prescribed by such statute is void. In re Van Tuyl [Kan.] 81 P. 181.

81. A resolution of a city council under which a liquor dealer gave the city his note on an understanding that he might carry on the liquor business until the maturity of the note, when a license was to be issued, held inconsistent with charter provisions and illegal and the note void. Meyer-Marx Co. v. Ensley [Ala.] 37 So. 639.

82. Littlejohn v. Stells [Ga.] 51 S. E. 390.

83. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 137 held valid. Childers v. Shepherd [Ala.] 39 So. 235.

§ 2. Local option laws.[86]—In most[87] but not all[88] states the determination of the question of prohibition is left to the electors of the political subdivisions of the state. In the absence of express charter enactment conferring the power, municipalities cannot establish prohibition except under the local option law.[89] The fact that additional territory is added to a political subdivision in which local option has been established does not operate to repeal such local option in the absence of another vote authorizing the sale of liquor therein.[90] In Texas a county can override the option of any subdivision of itself.[91] Local option laws are not repealed by general laws, unless specially mentioned in the general law, or such purpose is made manifest under the plain provisions of the general law.[92] All laws not inconsistent with the local option law remain in force after its adoption.[93]

Submission and elections.[93a]—A petition signed by a certain percentage of the qualified[94] or "registered"[95] voters is generally, though not always, a prerequisite. In North Carolina the aldermen of a city may purge the registration lists of such persons as are not entitled to vote because of the constitutional disqualification of not having paid their poll tax.[96] In some states a designated court may order an election on its own motion.[97] In such states defects in a petition filed are immaterial,[98] and an order being made on a petition, the court may thereafter, on its own motion, order

84. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 137 held valid. Childers v. Shepherd [Ala.] 39 So. 235.

85. Loc. Acts 1903, p. 443 held unconstitutional. Town of Elba v. Rhodes [Ala.] 38 So. 807; Lee v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 720. Acts 1903, p. 87, creating a board of dispensary commissioners to maintain and regulate a dispensary in the town of Abbeville held unconstitutional. Newman v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 648.

86. See 4 C. L. 255.

87. Under Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 24, par. 63, it is purely discretionary with a city whether or not it will prohibit the sale of liquors or license and regulate the traffic therein. Malkan v. Chicago [Ill.] 75 N. E. 548. The citizens of the town of Mansfield have the right and power to determine for themselves all questions of local option, regardless of the action of the people of the parish as a whole. Evans v. Police Jury [La.] 38 So. 555.

88. Statutes of Kentucky construed and held that the provisions of the local option law are in force in Laurel county by virtue of the "Five Counties Act," although the local option law has never been formally adopted in Laurel county by a vote of the people. Crigler v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 276.

89. State v. McCammon [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 510.

90. Ex parte Fields [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 89, 86 S. W. 1022.

91. The fact that all of a certain county was under local option, except two towns therein, at the time a local option election was held to place the entire county under local option, held not to invalidate the election. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18.

92. Ex parte Neal [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 831. Terrell election law (Laws 1903, p. 133, c. 101), requiring notices of special elections to be published or posted 20 days prior to election, did not repeal the local option law (Laws 1899, p. 220, c. 128) in regard to notices. Id. Laws 1903, p. 749, c. 434, § 1, not being irreconcilably in conflict with Laws 1905, p. 495, c. 497, § 13, is not repealed thereby. State v. Parker [N. C.] 51 S. E. 1028. Local Act of April 11, 1866 (P. L. 658), prohibiting the granting of licenses in Potter county, repeals local Act of March 27, 1866 (P. L. 339), prohibiting the issuance of licenses in the borough of Candersport. McGonnell's License, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 642. The local option law (Laws 1905, p. 41, c. 2) does not supersede Portland City Charter, § 73, subds. 21, 48, giving the council power to regulate the traffic in intoxicating liquors, but it is only a modification thereof when by election its provisions are made applicable to the city. Sandys v. Williams [Or.] 80 P. 642.

93. Held not to repeal a general statute punishing a sale without a license. Commonwealth v. Barbour [Ky.] 89 S. W. 479.

93a. See 4 C. L. 255 et seq.

94. A petition for an election under the Beal Law is sufficient as to the number of signers, when it has been signed by as many qualified electors as equal forty per cent. of those who cast their votes at the last preceding election. In re South Charleston Election Contest, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373.

95. Term "registered voters" as used in an order for an election held not to include all persons whose names were on the permanent registration roll at the preceding municipal election, but only includes those who had paid their poll tax as required and were entitled to vote. Pace v. Raleigh [N. C.] 52 S. E. 277.

96. Pace v. Raleigh [N. C.] 52 S. E. 277.

97. It is competent for the commissioner's court to order an election on their own motion, and in support of their action it will be presumed that they acted on their own motion, notwithstanding the recitations in the order. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 19.

98. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18.

an election at a later date.[99] Jurisdiction of a court to order the election is largely statutory.[1] Immaterial defects in the order will be disregarded.[2] In Texas an order for a local option election may be made either at a regular or special session of the commissioner's court,[3] and an order for an election in a justice's precinct need not show the name of the presiding officer,[4] nor give the metes and bounds of the precinct.[5] It is competent to order a local option election in a county irrespective of the status of some of the precincts in the county as to local option.[6] In Ohio the petition is jurisdictional,[7] and must substantially comply with the law.[8] In Kentucky it is immaterial if the petitioners live in one or more precincts or in one or more counties.[9] Names may be withdrawn from a petition at any time before the election is ordered,[10] and the number of petitioners is to be determined as of the time when action is taken on the petition.[11] The application for the withdrawal of names from the petition should not allege mere conclusions.[12] In the absence of prejudice, a copy of the application may be filed.[13] In Arkansas applications for withdrawal of names from a petition for prohibition under the three-mile law may be introduced in evidence after the matter is argued and submitted to the court.[14] Such applications are filed in time if filed five days before the court takes up the petition for final consideration.[15] The petition for an election is a public document which any citizen or petitioner of the district has a right to inspect,[16] and mandatory injunction is an appropriate remedy to enforce this right.[17] A clerical misprision in copying the petition in the minutes of the court may be corrected on a prosecution for a violation of the local option law.[18] Statutes generally prescribe the length of time notice of 99. Hanna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 472, 87 S. W. 702.

1. Under Const. § 61 and Ky. St. 1903, § 2554, where petition is made for an election in a town lying in two counties, the county court of the county in which the greater part of the town lies has jurisdiction to order it. Early v. Rains [Ky.] 89 S. W. 289.

2. Where other orders showed that the election was held as directed and that there was a majority of votes against the sale of liquor, and taken together established all the jurisdictional facts necessary to a valid election, held, that the mere failure of the order directing the holders of the election to specifically state that the signers of the petition constituted 25 per cent. of the legal voters "in each precinct" of the territory to be affected did not invalidate the election. Ky. St. 1903, § 2554 construed. Commonwealth v. Jones [Ky.] 84 S. W. 305.

3. Koch v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 88 S. W. 809. An order for a local option election may be made by the commissioners' court at a special term. Hanna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 472, 87 S. W. 702.

4, 5. Fitze v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1156.

6. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 19.

7. Brannock Law. In re Petition of Wightman, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 129.

8. In re Petition of Wightman, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 129. Is fatally defective where there is a failure to describe any residence district in the city, or to describe the entire city as being a residence district. Id.

9. Early v. Rains [Ky.] 89 S. W. 289.

10. Beal Law election. Petitioner need not have consent of council. Haynes v. Incorporated Village of Hillsboro, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 17.

11. Council loses jurisdiction to order a Beal Law election when names are withdrawn from the petition to a number less than the requisite forty per cent. before action is taken on the petition. Id.

12. Applications for the withdrawal of names from a petition for prohibition, stating that the signers, "after mature deliberation," wished their names taken off, that they had been "misled," that "unjust means were used to secure signers," and that they were inclined to the belief that the matter had not been fairly presented" to them, when not supported by specific reasons nor proof of facts, held insufficient. Colvin v. Finch [Ark.] 87 S. W. 443.

13. On the hearing of a petition for prohibition under the three-mile law, the admission in evidence of copies of applications to withdraw the names of certain petitioners is harmless, the originals having been filed and the petitioners apprised of their contents and not being misled or prejudiced in any way by the reading of the copies instead of the originals. Colvin v. Finch [Ark.] 87 S. W. 443.

14. Instead of having the same read before the arguments of counsel. Colvin v. Finch [Ark.] 87 S. W. 443. The other petitioners are not prejudiced by the court permitting such petitions to be so introduced where they were not refused permission to be heard by proof or argument on the matter set up in the application. Id.

15. Although they were not filed until two days after the filing of the petition. Colvin v. Finch [Ark.] 87 S. W. 443.

16. Election under Brannock Law. Krickenberger v. Wilson, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 179.

17. Krickenberger v. Wilson, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 179.

18. So held where word "sale" was copied the election must be given,[19] and, while failure to publish is fatal,[20] an irregularity in the publication will not be considered, where it appears that notice to voters of the pendency of the election was so general that more votes were cast than at the last preceding election.[21] The propositions must not be self-contradictory nor misleading,[22] and being severable should be stated separately.[23] Rules as to the formality and regularity of elections should be deducted from the statutes and decisions of the state wherein the election is held.[24] In some states elections under the local option statutes are to be conducted in accordance with the law governing municipal elections.[25] A special election being held, special registration is necessary or the election is not free and equal.[26] In Kentucky special officers must be appointed.[27] In the absence of a showing of fraud or injury, the location of a voting booth just outside a boundary of the district will not invalidate the election.[28] An idiot or insane person cannot vote,[29] but a qualified voter being unable to leave his carriage, it is competent for the judges to go out to his carriage and receive his ballot and deposit it in the ballot box.[30] A ballot not properly marked cannot be counted,[31] and in determining the number of votes cast, only those should be counted upon which the expression of a choice is indicated.[32] The secrecy of the ballot is not violated by the voters being cautioned that ballots other than those furnished by the clerk if cast might be thrown out, the voter being allowed to take two ballots, one for and the the other against prohibition, identical in outward appearance and not being required to disclose which he cast.[33] In Kentucky, while no devices should be used on the ballots, yet if those used are otherwise unobjectionable, and all the ballots have the same devices, it will not justify setting aside the election.[34] Mere irregularity in form, which does not mislead the electors, will not invalidate an election.[35]

"same." Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 19.

10. Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. art. 3387, providing for 12 days notice of a local option election, is not repealed by the general election law (Acts 1903, pp. 140, 141, c. 101) providing for 20 days notice. McHam v. Love [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 78, 87 S. W. 875.

20. Failure to publish the notice required by Liquor Tax Law, § 16 renders the submission illegal. In re Electors of Town of La Fayette, 93 N. Y. S. 534, afg. 45 Misc. 141, 91 N. Y. S. 970, on other grounds; the decision of the lower court on this question is reversed.

21. In re South Charleston Election Contest, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373.

22. A proposition reading: "Whether or not spirituous," etc. "liquors shall be sold," etc., "within the town of," etc., "and that the provisions of this law and prohibition shall apply to druggists," held properly worded, and not self-contradicting or misleading. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

23. Under Ky. St. 1903, §§ 2554, 2558, a proposition, "Whether or not spirituous * * * liquors shall be sold, * * * within * * *, and that the provisions of this law and prohibition shall apply to druggists," held proper, the propositions not being severable. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

24. Rather than from the decisions of other states which have special reference to the policy and legislation of such states. In re Petition of Ammer, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 329.

25. Rev. St. 1899, § 3028. O'Laughlin v. Kirkwood, 107 Mo. App. 302, 81 S. W. 512. See Elections, 5 C. L. 1065.

26. Early v. Rains [Ky.] 89 S. W. 289.

27. Ky. St. 1903, c. 81, § 2555. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

28. The designation, in an order for an election and the proclamation giving notice thereof under the Brannock Law, of a voting place on the opposite side of a street forming one of the boundaries of the proposed district and fifteen feet beyond the center of the street where the boundary line runs, held not a sufficient ground for setting aside the will of the voters as expressed by a decided majority. In re Petition of Ammer, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 329.

29. One whose mental condition is such that a court would experience no hesitancy in committing him to an insane asylum or in appointing a guardian for him were proper application made comes well within the class of persons who under the term "idiot" or "insane" are prohibited from voting by the constitution. In re South Charleston Election Contest, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373.

30. Irregularity, if any, is one which should be charged to the election officers rather than to the voter, and is not of a character which would interfere with a free expression of the people's choice. In re South Charleston Election Contest, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373.

31, 32. In re South Charleston Election Contest, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373.

33. O'Laughlin v. Kirkwood, 107 Mo. App. 302, 81 S. W. 512.

34. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

Local option does not take effect on the election day.[36] In Texas the order declaring local option in force must be published for four successive weeks.[37] Failure to immediately publish the order does not render the order invalid but merely postpones the taking effect of the law.[38] The order declaring the result of the election in a justice's precinct need not show the name of the presiding officer,[39] nor give the metes and bounds of the precinct.[40] Unnecessary and unauthorized signatures being affixed to the order declaring local option in force, they will be disregarded.[41] The granting by a Federal court of an order restraining the publication of the order declaring the result of a local option election does not annul the election.[42] It is not necessary that the names of the county judge and the commissioners be attached to the order as published.[43] Where the order for the election, the order declaring the result, and the certificate of the county judge showing the publication thereof, are all in proper form, they constitute sufficient evidence of the fact that local option is in force in the territory covered by the orders.[44]

A local option election will not be held void on collateral attack where a substantial compliance with the provisions of the statute is shown by the petition and the orders entered of record by the county judge.[45]

A contest proceeding[45a] is not an action at law or a suit in equity.[46] It is a special statutory proceeding conferring power which must be exercised within the limits and by the method prescribed by the statute.[47] Such a proceeding cannot be annexed to a suit at law or a case in equity,[48] nor can a suit in equity be converted by amendment into a proceeding for contest under the statute.[49] Equitable relief cannot be sought in the proceeding, and legal relief can only be sought to the extent that the statute authorizes it and no further.[50] Jurisdiction is largely statutory,[51] the legis-

Use of symbol representing the Holy Bible held not to invalidate the election. Id.

35. In re South Charleston Election Contest, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373. Even if the Terrell law applies to a local option election to the extent that the ballots should be headed "Official Ballot," and that but one ticket, with "For Prohibition" and "Against Prohibition," should be used, the use of separate ballots, neither indorsed "Official Ballot," does not vitiate the election. Hanna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 472, 87 S. W. 702.

36. An indictment alleging that a local option election was held on a certain day, and thereupon an order prohibiting sales was made, and that defendant "then and there" sold liquor, was subject to a motion to quash as showing a sale on the day the election was held, when it could not have been unlawful. Wolf v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 8.

37. Moss v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 833; Stephens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 974. Where the fourth publication of the S. W. 834; Ellis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 834; Johnson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 notice to put a local option law in effect was enjoined and an appeal from an order dismissing the action, in which a supersedeas had been given, was dismissed under a stipulation and the mandate was issued immediately after the expiration of 30 days during which the clerk is required to hold it, held, the publications were continuous. Ex parte Gill [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 272. Where, after such an order had been twice published, further publication was prevented by injunction, and no further publication was made until 16 months after the dissolution of the injunction, when the order was published twice, held insufficient. Griffin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 155; Stephens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 98, 87 S. W. 157.

38. So held where publication was postponed for 11 months after the entry of the order. Rawls v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1071.

39, 40. Fitze v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1156.

41. Commissioners' signatures disregarded and county judge having signed order it was held valid. Hanna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 472, 87 S. W. 702.

42. McHam v. Love [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex Ct. Rep. 78, 87 S. W. 875.

43. Hillard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 520, 87 S. W. 821.

44. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18. Court may assume in his charge that the law was in force at the time. Id.

45. Commonwealth v. Jones [Ky.] 84 S. W. 305.

45a. See 4 C. L. 258.

46. Ogburn v. Elmore [Ga.] 51 S. E. 641. Petition held to set forth a suit in equity and not a proceeding to contest an election held under the general local option law. Id.

47, 48, 49, 50. Ogburn v. Elmore [Ga.] 51 S. E. 641.

51. Pol. Code 1895, § 1546 confers upon the superior court as a court jurisdiction to hear and determine a contest of an election held under the provisions of that law. Ogburn v. Elmore [Ga.] 51 S. E. 641. Const. art. 5, § 8, as amended in 1891, giving the dis-

lature having power to confer upon persons holding judicial offices the authority to hear contests of elections,[52] and there being no provision of law for a review of their decision, it is final.[53] A mere charge of bias or hostility against a judge will not disqualify him; facts which, if true, would probably operate to prevent his giving a fair trial must be alleged.[54] In order to confer jurisdiction, the requirements of the statute as to serving notice must be complied with.[55] Under the Ohio "Brannock Law" it is not necessary that the petition should be signed by the petitioner and the requirement as to verification is complied with where the petition is sworn to by the petitioner before an officer duly authorized to administer the oath.[56] The general allegation in a petition that the election was illegal is not sufficient for the admission of testimony as to irregularities other than those specified in the petition,[57] and in Ohio amendments cannot be allowed more than twenty days after the election.[58] In Kentucky local option contest cases cannot be docketed, except by consent, before the term at which they stand for trial.[59] The right to appeal is statutory.[60]

The resubmission[60a] of local option questions is entirely statutory.[61] In some states a petition for revocation takes the place of an election.[62] In some states a designated period of time must have elapsed before a second election can be held.[63] The resubmission resulting in a reversal of the existing order of things, statutes generally provide when it shall take effect.[64]

§ 3. Licenses and license taxes.[65] Requirement and fixing of tax.[65a]—The business of selling intoxicating liquors constitutes an exception to the general rule

trict court jurisdiction over contested election cases, is not self-executing and the district court has no jurisdiction to try such cases save in the manner prescribed by statute. Mercer v. Woods [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 15. The probate court is clothed with final jurisdiction in a proceeding to contest an election under the Brannock Law without the intervention of freeholders. In re Petition of Wightman, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 129.

52, 53. Ogburn v. Elmore [Ga.] 51 S. E. 641, and cases cited.

54. In a contested local option election case, an affidavit that the judge "is opposed to the sale and traffic in such liquors to the extent that he has a pronounced bias against it," is insufficient. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

55. That county attorney who was one of the parties had actual notice does not dispense with the necessity of a written notice. Mercer v. Woods [Tex. Civ. App.] 78 S. W. 15. Under the Brannock Local Option Law, petition must be stricken from the files where there has been a failure to issue summons upon the mayor for more than twenty days after the election. Short v. Cincinnati, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 117.

56. Short v. Cincinnati, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 117.

57, 58. Beal Law. In re South Charleston Election Contest, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 373.

59. Laws 1900, Ex. Sess. p. 39, c. 5, § 12 does not apply to such contests. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 84 S. W. 533.

60. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2567, an appeal lies from an order of the contest board setting aside the return of an election as certified by the board of convassers,' showing a majority in favor of prohibition, the contest board further adjudging that, as it was unable to find a majority either for or against the proposition, there was no election and that neither party was entitled to have certified any fact concerning the same. Erwin v. Benton [Ky.] 87 S. W. 291.

60a. See 4 C. L. 258.

61. Under Liquor Tax Law, § 16, resubmission of local option questions must be had to a special town meeting duly called for that purpose, and not to a subsequent general election. In re Electors of Town of La Fayette, 93 N. Y. S. 534, afg. 45 Misc. 141, 91 N. Y. S. 970. Under such section the reason to be shown to the justice is the same reason which rendered the original submission improper. Id.

62. Petitions for revocation of local option prohibition, under Sand. & H. Dig. § 5877, as amended by Laws 1895, p. 86, filed in the county court three days before the expiration of the order of prohibition, the revocation to take effect on the expiration of the prohibitory term, are not premature. Willmans v. Bordwell [Ark.] 84 S. W. 474.

63. Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 3393, two years must elapse before a second election can be held, but an election held more than two years after the last preceding election is not rendered invalid by the fact that the result of the preceding election was published within two years. Ex parte Smith [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 718, 88 S. W. 245.

64. Under Sand. & H. Dig. § 4886, a majority vote favorable to the licensing of the sale of liquor does not authorize the issuance of license until on or after the 1st day of January following the election. State v. Fulkerson [Ark.] 83 S. W. 934.

65. See 4 C. L. 258.

65a. See 4 C. L. 258, 259.

that when a license to do a general business has been exacted and paid another license cannot be required and collected for the doing of a particular act or series of acts constituting an integral part of such general business.[66] Hence, in regulating the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors and in the requirement of a license in the doing of the business, the legislature has the power to segregate and require a separate license for each article,[67] and this power the legislature may confer, by grant in the charter, on a municipality, even though the general statutes of the state in reference to licenses and the raising of revenue do not do so.[68] As a general rule municipalities have the right either to forego imposing license taxes at all,[69] or to impose them at any time of the year and for any length of time after the passage of the ordinance,[70] and this without the adoption of a budget.[71] They have the right to add interest and attorney's fees to the license in case of delinquency.[72] A mulct tax exacted from a saloon keeper as a condition of engaging in the liquor business is a tax.[73] The amount of the tax is entirely statutory.[74] In North Carolina a distiller who also operates a rectifying plant is subject to the tax imposed on rectifiers of liquor.[75] In Louisiana a parish having voted no license and a town in the parish having voted license, the police jury has no authority to levy a license tax on the sale of spirituous liquors within the limits of the town,[76] and the power of the parish can be restored only by a vote of the people of the parish.[77]

Application for and granting of license.[78]—No man has a right to a liquor license;[79] he has only the right to apply for a license to the legislature or its delegate.[80] The proceeding to obtain a license is generally held to be a judicial proceeding in the nature of a civil action,[81] the power to grant the license being ordinarily vested in a court, board or municipality.[82] The exercise of such power is ordinarily held 66. Gambill v. Erdrich Bros. [Ala.] 39 So. 297.

67. Gambill v. Erdrich Bros. [Ala.] 39 So. 297. A distiller operating a rectifying plant may be subjected to an increased tax. Arey v. Rowan County Com'rs [N. C.] 51 S. E. 41.

68. Gambill v. Erdrich Bros. [Ala.] 39 So. 297. Birmingham City Charter granting to the municipality full power to license, regulate or restrain the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and declaring that the power to license, so conferred, may be used in the exercise of the police powers, as well as for the purpose of raising revenue, and that any person dealing in two or more of the articles so to be regulated, or engaging in two or more of the businesses, etc., for which a license may be required for each, shall take out a license for each line of business, authorizes a tax on the wholesale dealing in beer and another and separate tax for dealing at wholesale in other intoxicating liquors. Id.

69. City of New Iberia v. Moss Hotel Co., 113 La. 1022, 37 So. 913.

70. City of New Iberia v. Moss Hotel Co., 113 La. 1022, 37 So. 913. The fact that an ordinance adopted in 1903, imposing a license for 1904, was invalid, held not to impair power of municipality to pass an ordinance in May, 1904, imposing a license tax from and after July 1, 1904. Id.

71. So held as to the city of New Iberia. City of New Iberia v. Moss Hotel Co., 113 La. 1022, 37 So. 913.

72. City of New Iberia v. Moss Hotel Co., 113 La. 1022, 37 So. 913.

73. Cannot be recovered back when voluntarily paid under mistake of law. Ahlers v. Estherville [Iowa] 104 N. W. 453. The imposition of mulct taxes under Code, § 2433 et seq., is a tax and not a license, and is collectible by summary proceedings. Newton v. McKay [Iowa] 102 N. W. 827.

74. In Virginia one applying for the privilege of manufacturing liquors by fermentation or distillation from pomace for three months beginning Aug. 24th, must pay a tax of $50; Code 1904, § 2253, as amended by Laws 1904, p. 42, not repealing Code 1904, § 555, and the tax of $5 being for the privilege of manufacturing for three months, expiring April 30th. Shiflett v. Grimsley [Va.] 51 S. E. 838.

75. Acts 1903, pp. 340, 341, c. 247, §§ 60, 63 construed. Arey v. Rowan County Com'rs [N. C.] 51 S. E. 41.

76, 77. Evans v. Police Jury of De Soto Parish [La.] 38 So. 555.

78. See 4 C. L. 258, et seq.

79, 80. Fanning's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 622. See, also, ante, § 1.

81. Bryan v. De Moss, 34 Ind. App. 473, 73 N. E. 156.

82. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3637, subsec. 4, authorizing a city of the fifth class to license such sales as are not "now forbidden by law," and § 2558 providing that local option prohibition shall not apply to wholesalers, held, such a city could impose a li-to be a judicial act,[83] though the contrary is held in some states;[84] but in no case can such discretion be arbitrarily used.[85] In the absence of valid special legislation, general statutes govern the issuance of a license by a political subdivision.[86] Municipal ordinances must comply with statutory provisions,[87] and must not be unreasonable in their requirements.[88]

Applications.[88a]—As a general rule the application must show that the applicant is a citizen of the United States,[89] and a defect in this regard cannot be cured by a supplemental affidavit of the applicant.[90] It must also specifically describe the location of the place where he desires to carry on the business.[91] The granting of an amendment to the application is purely discretionary,[92] the cases being exceptional where an amendment is justified.[93] An executor with power to sell and authorized, as agent, to rent the premises and take exclusive charge of them is not the duly authorized agent of the owner for the purpose of signing a petition for a license.[94] In Pennsylvania it is not necessary that the good character and temperate habits of the applicant shall be averred in the petition or certified to by twelve reputable qualified electors;[95] but the court has jurisdiction to entertain the application and grant the license upon satisfactory proof of the temperate habits and good moral character of the applicant and of other essential facts.[96] In order that the license may be valid, notice of the application must be given in good faith[97] and in the manner required by law.[98] Posting being required, it must be done in the cense upon wholesale liquor dealers. Cofer v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 264.

83. Whissen v. Furth [Ark.] 84 S. W. 500. The discretion vested in the probate judge is a judicial discretion to be exercised only with reference to the facts and circumstances of each case after a full hearing. State v. Durein [Kan.] 80 P. 987. See, also, Fanning's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 622.

84. County Court v. Virginia-Pocahontas Coal Co. v. McDowell County Court [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 1; State v. Williams [Ala.] 39 So. 276.

85. A county court must treat alike all applicants possessing the legal qualifications, and it cannot license favored persons and exclude others possessing similar qualifications. Kirby's Dig. § 5120 considered. Sarlo v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 88 S. W. 953.

86. The general statutes applicable to the issuance of a license to sell intoxicating liquors obtain in Mobile county. State v. Williams [Ala.] 39 So. 276.

87. An ordinance relative to a city license for the sale of intoxicating liquor held to sufficiently comply with the provisions of Rev. Pol. Code, § 2854. City of Centerville v. Gayken [S. D.] 104 N. W. 910.

88. An ordinance of a city having more than 2,000 inhabitants requiring an applicant for a license to yearly procure a petition signed by two-thirds of the qualified petitioners in the entire city is void for unreasonableness. State v. McCammon [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 510.

88a. See 4 C. L. 259, 260.

89. A petition stating that applicant is a citizen of the United States and that he was born in Ireland, without more is fatally defective. Walsh's License, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 87.

90. Walsh's License, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 87.

91. Where streets were named and blocks numbered but houses not numbered, an application describing the place at which the liquors are to be sold as "No. —— Street in the City of G., County of S., State of T.," is sufficient. Douthitt v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 7, 87 S. W. 90. An application describing the place of business as "at No. G. Building in the town of H., County of H., and part of lots No. 11 and 12 in block No. 3, division one," does not necessarily embrace two separate places of business. Cox v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 34. Remonstrants not being misled, a description of the premises as follows: "That certain storeroom and dwelling containing storeroom, three rooms and cellar and occupied last year as a wholesale liquor store by your petitioner situate in the eleventh ward, Pittsburg, in said county," being held sufficient. Walker's License, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 90. An application for a license describing the premises where the business was to be conducted as the lower floor of the front room of a building on a certain street corner, held insufficient, under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7283a, requiring the application to specifically describe the room. Mace v. Smith [Ind.] 72 N. E. 1135. Description describing property as at the corner of two streets without specifying corner is defective. Cramer's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 596.

92, 93. Cramer's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 596.

94. In re McCay, 93 N. Y. S. 401.

95, 96. Sauers's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 463.

97. Where citizens testified that though they looked for notices they saw none and the applicant testified that he went out after dark and put up the notices, held not posted in good faith. Commonwealth v. Redman [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1073.

98. Commonwealth v. Redman [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1073. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7278, one publication of the notice in a news-manner that other notices of like character are posted,[99] and the notice must be securely fastened.[1] The applicant must show that he possesses the character and fitness required by the statute, and, in the event of a contest, the burden of proof is on him.[2] If previously of bad character, the burden is upon him to show that he has reformed.[3] An habitual violator of the laws is not within the meaning of statutes requiring the applicant to be of "good moral character;"[4] but the mere fact that in the past the applicant has habitually violated the laws will not prevent his having a "good moral character" if the evidence shows a real reformation.[5] This restored good moral character is not proved by a mere cessation from violations of the law induced by bench warrants and burning orders.[6] In South Dakota a city council may determine the applicant's unfitness from the personal knowledge of its members and may deny the application without further investigation and without stating the reasons on which their action is predicated.[7] The applicant must intend to use the license legally and in good faith.[8] A license will not issue to sell liquor on property in the title to which there is a restriction against the selling of liquor on the premises.[9] In Arkansas the county court, before granting a license, must determine whether a majority of the votes of the county have been cast in favor of license or not,[10] and while the finding of the court is not conclusive, yet it cannot be overturned by an abstract of the vote filed by the election commissioners, the certificate to which does not cover the vote on the question of license.[11] The issuance of a license by it raises a presumption that the judge found that the majority of the votes were cast in favor of license,[12] and testimony of election commissioners in the negative is incompetent, in the absence of a showing that the original returns of the election could not be procured.[13] The license should be granted immediately after the expiration of the statutory time relative to notices, etc.[14]

Remonstrances.[14a]—A private citizen may appear as remonstrant against a petition for a liquor license,[15] and in those states wherein the court, in denying or granting the license, exercises a judicial discretion, may appeal from an adverse decision.[16] One's signature to a remonstrance may be made by a duly authorized attorney[17] on a typewriter.[18] A remonstrator may revoke his signature within the time limited by law,[19] and having revoked his signature within such time, he cannot be counted.[20] paper of the class designated at least 20 days before the meeting of the board is sufficient. Perdue v. Gill [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 844. The publication of the list of applicants in Lycoming county is governed by general Act of July 30, 1897 [P. L. 464], and not by the local act of April 10, 1873. Sun & B. Pub. Co. v. Bennett, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 243.

99, 1. Commonwealth v. Redman [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1073.

2, 3, 4, 5, 6. Whissen v. Furth [Ark.] 84 S. W. 500.

7. Rev. Pol. Code, §§ 2855, 2857 construed. McCormick v. Pfeiffer [S. D.] 103 N. W. 31. A city council may, on its own knowledge refuse one having a county license, a city license. City of Centerville v. Gayken [S. D.] 104 N. W. 910.

8. Application for wholesale license refused where it appeared that applicant under the cover of the one license intended to run a wholesale liquor business and a bottling works. Ferch's License, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 92.

9. Fanning's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 622.

10. State v. Songer [Ark.] 88 S. W. 903.

11. Certificate merely certified as to votes cast for candidate for office. State v. Songer [Ark.] 88 S. W. 903.

12, 13. State v. Songer [Ark.] 88 S. W. 903.

14. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2993 and § 2997, as amended by Laws 1901, p. 142, a petition cannot be allowed to lie idle for months after the expiration of the 10 days and a license then granted for a term of six months from the date of granting. State v. Mulvihill [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 773.

14a. See 4 C. L. 261.

15, 16. Whissen v. Furth [Ark.] 84 S. W. 500.

17, 18. Ardery v. Smith [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 840.

19. A remonstrator may by some affirmative act of his own withdraw his name at any time prior to the jurisdictional period of three days before the first Monday of the month in which the application is to be heard. So held where remonstrance was filed by an attorney in fact. Davis v. Affleck, 34 Ind. App. 572, 73 N. E. 283.

Any act of a remonstrator which evinces an intention or desire to withdraw from the remonstrance constitutes an affirmative act within the meaning of the decided cases.[21] As a general rule the remonstrance need not state that it is signed by the required number or that the remonstrants are qualified to sign.[22] Defects in the remonstrance may be cured by reference to the application.[23] The remonstrance alleging a ground for refusing the license, it is error for the court or board to refuse to try the issue thus made.[24]

Appeal and the like.[24a]—In those states wherein it is held that the exercise of the power to grant the license is not a judicial act, prohibition will not lie,[25] nor can the exercise of the power be reviewed by a bill in equity;[26] but mandamus will lie,[27] the procedure being entirely statutory.[28] Certiorari cannot take the place of mandamus to compel the making of a record or part of a record which the inferior tribunal should have made.[29] A judge wrongfully refusing to issue a license is liable for the cost of subsequent mandamus proceedings.[30] In the absence of express statutory provisions, the right to an appeal is dependent upon whether the granting body exercises a judicial discretion or not; if its act is a judicial one, an appeal lies.[31] In some states an appeal to an intermediate appellate court is not tried de novo,[32] and unless an appeal is taken therefrom, the judgment of such court is a final disposition of the cause.[33] In Nebraska in order to take an appeal from such decision a motion for a new trial is unnecessary.[34] Upon appeal, the record being regular, it is presumed that the court below had due regard to the number and character of the petitioners and that the license was refused for a legal reason and not arbitra-

20. Davis v. Affleck, 34 Ind. App. 572, 73 N. E. 283.

21. Davis v. Affleck, 34 Ind. App. 572, 73 N. E. 283. Instrument whereby signers withdrew their signatures from all remonstrances which had been or might thereafter be signed by any agent or attorney in fact, held sufficient to revoke signatures. Id.

22. Under Laws 1895, p. 251, c. 127, § 9, providing that a remonstrance shall be signed by a majority of the legal voters of the township or ward, the remonstrance need not state that it is signed by a majority or that the signers are legal voters of the township or ward. Bryan v. De Moss, 34 Ind. App. 473, 73 N. E. 156.

23. An application being for a license to sell intoxicants in a specific ward, a remonstrance against issuing a license to the applicant to sell intoxicants "in said aforesaid ward" is sufficient. Bryan v. De Moss, 34 Ind. App. 473, 73 N. E. 156; Bryan v. Jones, 34 Ind. 701, 73 N. E. 1135. [In the former case Wiley, J., dissents from this proposition, stating that in his opinion the lower court should have allowed an amendment; in the latter case he gives his reasons for dissenting.]

24. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7278, providing for a remonstrance where the applicant is immoral or unfit to be intrusted with the privilege, held error for a court to refuse to try the issue on a remonstrance alleging a prior violation of the law by the applicant. Ardery v. Smith [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 840.

24a. See 4 C. L. 261.

25. This is true whether the granting body acts within or beyond the power conferred on it. Virginia-Pocahontas Coal Co. v. McDowell County Court [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 1.

26. Under Code Pub. Loc. Laws, art. 24, as amended by Acts 1896, p. 717, c. 411, it is for the clerk of the circuit court to determine whether the law has been complied with by the applicant, and his action in refusing a license cannot be reviewed by a bill in equity. Fooks v. Purnell [Md.] 61 A. 582.

27. State v. Williams [Ala.] 39 So. 276. So held where applicant was qualified and had complied with proper prerequisites. State v. McCammon [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 510.

28. Kirby's Dig. § 4481 requires 10 days notice after filing petition for mandamus to compel the mayor and recorder of a town to issue a license. Moody v. Rogers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 84.

29. In certiorari to remove to the St. Louis court of appeals the record of the excise commissioner in relation to granting a dramshop license, the court on suggestion of a diminution of the record cannot compel the commissioner to make a record of certain alleged findings and certify them as part of the record. State v. Mulvihill [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 773.

30. So held as regards a probate judge. Hudgins v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 717.

31. Whissen v. Furth [Ark.] 84 S. W. 500.

32. Appeals to the circuit court from orders of the county court denying a license must be tried on the evidence heard in the county court. Holmes v. Robertson County Court [Ky.] 89 S. W. 106.

33. Paden v. Carson [Okl.] 82 P. 830. After a decision of the board granting a license has been reversed by the district court and the license denied and ordered revoked, there is no authority in the county board to rehear the cause on the same petition and notice, and, after hearing additional testimony, regrant a license. Id.

34. Lee v. Brittain [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1076, rily.[35] The decision of the lower court will not be disturbed on appeal unless manifestly erroneous.[36] The validity of particular statutes, granting the right to appeal, is shown in the notes.[37]

Renewals are not as a matter of right.[38] An order granting a renewal need not recite the making of the previous order or the granting of a previous license.[39]

By accepting the license the licensee assents to its terms and conditions.[40] He is concluded by the order granting the license and it is original evidence against him in a subsequent prosecution for an illegal sale.[41] On such a prosecution he cannot collaterally attack the validity of his license.[42]

Power to condition grant.—A delegate of the power having the right to refuse license, it may make the grant of the license conditional.[43]

Bonds.[44]—A liquor dealer's bond is statutory and must conform substantially to statutory requirements,[45] but it will be construed so as to carry into effect the intention of the parties if fairly ascertainable from the terms of the obligation;[46] but being defective there is a conflict as to whether it may be enforced as a common-law obligation.[47] In most states the licensing board is limited to a determination of the sufficiency of bonds tendered in compliance with the law.[48] The validity of the bond is not affected by defects in the license or the application therefor,[49] nor by the fact that the taxes were not paid in advance at the time of the issuance of the following Bennett v. Otto [Neb.] 94 N. W. 807.

35. Shearer's License, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 34. Record being regular, an appellate court will not reverse the order because names of remonstrants were duplicated. Id.

36. Cramer's License, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 596.

37. The provisions of the statute of Kansas authorizing an appeal and proceeding in error from the action of the probate judge in refusing a permit are valid and afford ample remedies to those who are wrongfully denied such permits. State v. Durein [Kan.] 80 P. 987.

38. Rev. Laws, c. 100, § 20, as amended by St. 1902, p. 122, c. 171, authorizing the surrendering and cancellation of a license and the issuance of a license for the unexpired term, does not give a licensee any right with reference to the granting of future licenses after the expiration of the term. Tracy v. Ginzberg [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637.

39. State v. Mulloy [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 569.

40. Terms as to revocation. Malkan v. Chicago, 217 Ill. 471, 75 N. E. 548.

41. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 592, 85 S. W. 613.

42. On a prosecution for violating the Sunday law, defendant cannot question the validity of his license by attacking the order or judgment of the county court granting the same. State v. Mulloy [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 569.

43. County court may impose a condition providing for revocation upon violation of the law. Sarlo v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 88 S. W. 953.

44. See 4 C. L. 262.

45. State v. Harper [Tex.] 86 S. W. 920, rvg. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 294. The statute requiring at least two sureties, a bond with only one surety is invalid. Hillman v. Mayher [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 818. A bond conditioned that the principal "shall faithfully observe and comply with all the laws relating to * * * intoxicating liquors and especially with the requirements of Act 25th Gen. Assem. p. 63, c. 62," held enforceable, though the act referred to was repealed or superseded by Code 1897 before the bond was executed. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 539, 102 N. W. 446.

46. State v. Harper [Tex.] 86 S. W. 920, rvg. 85 S. W. 294. A bond reciting that H. & G. desire to engage in the liquor business, and that they are the principals and signed by them is valid, though conditioned only that H. shall conform to the statute. Id.

47. It may be so enforced. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 539, 102 N. W. 446. It cannot be so enforced. Hillman v. Mayher [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 818.

48. So held under Comp. Laws § 5386. It cannot require more than two sufficient sureties. Power v. Common Council of Litchfield [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 484, 104 N. W. 664. Where common council of a village after adopting a resolution requiring four sureties rejected a bond in proper form with two sureties, held, it was shown that it had not attempted to determine, as expressly required by Comp. Laws, § 5386, the sufficiency of the bond. Id. In such case a finding that the common council acted in good faith in determining that the bond did not comply with its resolution requiring four sureties is immaterial. Id.

49. Is not rendered void by issuance of license without a written application (State v. Harper [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 878), or by the filing of the same after the issuance of the license (Id.). Is not rendered void because the application in describing the place of business includes two separate places. Cox v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 34. That the license, in violation of a statutory requirement, fails to designate the place where the liquor is to be sold does not invalidate the bond. Douthit v. State [Tex.] 83 S. W. 795. Failure of a purchaser license,[50] nor because the obligation of the bond exceeds the legal requirements.[51] The bond is a contract, the sum stated therein being in the nature of liquidated damages.[52] In Iowa the principal and surety on the bond are liable for the full tax for the quarter in which the former commenced business.[53] A brewing corporation may become liable as surety upon a liquor license bond executed by it to induce the licensee to lease a building from it and deal exclusively in its products.[54] In some states the sureties must be freeholders.[55] Ordinarily neither the death of the principal[56] nor the failure of the public authorities to collect the tax when due[57] will discharge the surety. The surety on a bond under the Iowa mulct law cannot escape liability for taxes accruing after the principal fails to pay the tax on the ground that after such failure the principal is no longer operating under the mulct law.[58] The principal in the bond is deemed to have agreed with his surety that he will conduct the business in accordance with statutory requirements and that he will save the surety from any liability on the bond,[59] and this rule applies to an undisclosed principal.[60]

Payment and collection of fee or tax.[61]—The license fee must be paid in cash.[62] Taxes voluntarily paid under a mistake of law cannot be recovered back.[63] In Iowa a liquor dealer failing to pay the mulct tax the county may proceed by action on his bond,[64] and by criminal prosecution for illegal sales made after the tax became due and unpaid;[65] but such tax is not a personal obligation of the owner of the property, and cannot be enforced by an action at law against him.[66] Though one half of the tax goes to the town in which the saloon is located, the entire tax is payable to the county treasurer.[67] In Pennsylvania where the county treasurer has received moneys belonging to a city as the proceeds of liquor licenses, the city may of an unexpired license to have the transfer made on the books of the issuing officer and to file an application designating the particular house in which he proposes to conduct his business, and to have such designation made in the license, does not render his bond void. Rev. St. 1895, articles 5056, 5057 construed. Faulkner v. Cassidy [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 366, 87 S. W. 904.

50. State v. Harper [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 878.

51. Validity is not affected because purporting to bind the heirs and legal representatives of the obligors. McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045.

52. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co. v. American Brewing Co. [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 948. Are assessable before clerk or before the court below under Code Civ. Proc. § 194. Id.

53. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 539, 102 N. W. 446.

54. So held where the corporation was incorporated to do a general business of manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and to erect suitable buildings for the carrying on of the business to buy, sell, lease, rent, exchange or otherwise handle real estate, and the execution of deeds, leases, bonds, etc. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 103 N. W. 460, afg. on rehearing 98 N. W. 1046.

55. Laws 1895, p. 122, c. 22 is ineffectual as an amendment or repeal of Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 7155. Lee v. Brittain [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1076, following Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Libby [Neb.] 101 N. W. 994.

56. The liability of the principal and sureties on a liquor dealer's bond conditioned for the payment of judgments for civil damages growing out of unlawful sales is not destroyed by the death of the principal. Bond given under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7288 construed. State v. Soale [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1111.

57, 58. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 536, 102 N. W. 446.

59, 60. City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co. v. American Brewing Co. [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 948.

61. See 4 C. L. 263.

62. A resolution of a city council under which a liquor dealer gave the city his note on an understanding that he might carry on the liquor business until the maturity of the note, when a license was to be issued, held illegal and the note void. Meyer-Marx Co. v. Ensley [Ala.] 37 So. 639.

63. Where a city had not complied with all the requirements of the mulct law, but plaintiff, without looking the matter up, relied upon the fact that other saloons were being operated and paid the tax, held, it could not be recovered back. Ahlers v. Estherville [Iowa] 104 N. W. 453.

64. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 539, 102 N. W. 446; Carroll County v. Ley [Iowa] 103 N. W. 101.

65. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 539, 102 N. W. 446.

66. Code, § 2432 construed. Carroll County v. Ley [Iowa] 103 N. W. 101.

67. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 539, 102 N. W. 446.

maintain a suit on the treasurer's bond in the name of the county to its own use,[68] and the fact that the money was not received by the treasurer within six years of the commencement of the suit is not a defense, since the obligation to pay is secured by a sealed instrument.[69] All questions referring to the settlement of the county treasurer's accounts respecting the proportion of license taxes payable to cities, boroughs and townships must be determined by the courts.[70] A borough has a right to receive its proportion of the money collected for retail liquor licenses without abatement for commissions to the county treasurer,[71] and if the treasurer deducts such percentage and pays over the balance receiving a receipt therefor, such receipt is merely for payment on account, and the borough may subsequently recover the amount retained.[72] In some states the tax is made a lien on the property in which the traffic is conducted.[73] Such statutes are not unconstitutional, even though the property owner is given no notice of the proceedings and is afforded no opportunity to be heard with reference thereto.[74] Having had all the required notice, the fact that the property owner did not have knowledge of sales of liquor on his premises until after the time within which he might have applied to the board for remission of the tax is immaterial.[75]

Scope and effect of license.[76]—A license is not a contract,[77] but is a mere personal privilege which may be canceled at any time.[78] Its protection extends to employes of the licensee,[79] but is limited by the scope of the license.[80] It affords no protection against a prosecution for a sale in a prohibited territory,[81] nor does it protect the holder from the consequences of unlawful practices on the premises and persons so offending may be liable to a property owner individually damaged.[82]

Surrender, transfer or revocation of license.[83]—A license is not a contract,[84]

68. Lehigh Co. v. Gossler, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 406. By failing to pay over the money the treasurer fails to perform the condition of his bond requiring him to "faithfully perform the duties of his office." Id.

69. Lehigh Co. v. Gossler, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 406.

70. Cannot be referred to county auditors. Lehigh Co. v. Gossler, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 406. Hence a county treasurer cannot set up against a claim of a city for its proportion of such taxes, an adjudication by the county auditors. Id.

71. Stroudsburg Borough v. Shick, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 442. The county commissioners have no authority to permit the treasurer to deduct a specified percentage from such moneys. Id.

72. Stroudsburg Borough v. Shick, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 442.

73. In Ohio this lien is superior to that of a mortgage given and duly entered of record prior to the entry of such tax on the duplicate and prior to the beginning of such traffic on the premises. Pioneer Trust Co. v. Stich, 71 Ohio St. 459, 73 N. E. 520. Such priority is not affected by the fact that at the date of such mortgage no sale of liquor was ever known to have taken place on the premises; that the premises were not adapted to the traffic; that the mortgagee had no knowledge at any time of any sale of liquor thereon, or of any intention to sell on the part of anyone; and that he loaned the money in good faith, and had no reason to suspect or fear that any sales of liquor would ever be made on the mortgaged premises. Id.

74. Code, § 2433 et seq. held valid. Newton v. McKay [Iowa] 102 N. W. 827.

75. Newton v. McKay [Iowa] 102 N. W. 827.

76. See 4 C. L. 263.

77. Sarlo v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 88 S. W. 953.

78. Sarlo v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 88 S. W. 953; Barnett v. Pemiscot County Court [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 575; Tracy v. Ginzberg [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637.

79. State v. Barnett [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 572.

80. A municipal license authorizing the maintenance of a saloon at a certain street and number does not entitle the licensee to run one saloon in the basement of the building and another entirely independent saloon, having a separate street door and no inside connection on each floor. Malkan v. Chicago [Ill.] 75 N. E. 548. A certificate issued under Laws 1896, p. 51, c. 112, § 11, subd. 1, as amended by Laws 1897, p. 210, c. 312, § 6, does not authorize the sale of liquors in any other part of the hotel building than the single room described. In re McCoy, 93 N. Y. S. 401. A licensed wholesale liquor dealer who gives an agent one quart of whiskey for each sale by the agent of five gallons of liquor is as to such quart guilty of retailing liquor without a license. Friedman v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 1276, 83 S. W. 1040.

81. Brame v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 1031. A license to sell in a prohibited district is void. State v. Fulkerson [Ark.] 83 S. W. 934.

82. State v. Tabler, 34 Ind. App. 393, 72 N. E. 1039.

83. See 4 C. L. 263.

but is a mere personal privilege;[85] hence it is revocable at the will of the granting body[86] whether the license so provides or not,[87] without trial or notice.[88] In the absence of statutory provisions the license is nontransferable[89] and nonassignable.[90] In some states a license is, with the consent of the granting body, transferable.[91] The application for a transfer in such case is addressed to the sound legal discretion of such body,[92] and the exercise of such discretion will not be interfered with on appeal unless clearly abusive.[93] A request from a licensee to transfer his license applies only to the existing license and not to a renewal thereof.[94] Money paid to procure a bankrupt licensee and his trustee to procure the nomination of the payor as the bankrupt's successor belongs to the bankrupt's creditors.[95] A licensee while holding himself out as the responsible owner of the business is liable on the contracts of one whom he permits, by secret agreement, to trade independently under the license.[96] One may become estopped to object that a license is not transferable,[97] or to deny the authority of the transferror to act as agent for a former owner.[98] In revoking a license the court is generally held to act in an administrative and ministerial capacity,[99] and hence no appeal lies from a judgment of revocation.[1] Revocation being in the exercise of the executive powers of a municipality, the action is not reviewable by certiorari,[2] though the converse is true if the authorities act judicially.[3] The licensee keeping a disorderly house[4] or running two saloons under one license,[5] the latter may be revoked. A city has power, under its general welfare clause, to pass an ordinance making a conviction of the licensee, by a court of com-

84. Sarlo v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 88 S. W. 953. See 3 C. L. 263, n. 93.

85. Sarlo v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 88 S. W. 953; Tracy v. Ginzberg [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637; Barnett v. Pemiscot County Court [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 575. See 3 C. L. 263, n. 95.

86. Sarlo v. Pulaski County [Ark.] 88 S. W. 953; Barnett v. Pemiscot County Court [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 575.

87. Borck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 580.

88. Carr v. City Council of Augusta [Ga.] 52 S. E. 300.

89. Tracy v. Ginzberg [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637; Young v. Stevenson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1000; Sawyer v. Sanderson [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 151. Where licensee sold out, the bill of sale reciting that the transfer was of all the seller's goods, license, good will, etc., and the business was conducted by the purchaser in the seller's name, held to constitute a transfer of the license. Id. Where a liquor dealer sold his stock and appointed the purchaser his agent, with power to sell liquor under the seller's license, the purchaser could not do business thereunder. Young v. Stevenson [Ark.] 86 S. W. 1000.

90. Tracy v. Ginzberg [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637.

91. The granting of a license to the occupant of premises owned by another does not entitle the owner to demand as a pure legal right that the license be transferred to him upon the removal, whether voluntary or by compulsion, of the licensee from the premises. Stern's License, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 538.

92, 93. Stern's License, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 538.

94. Mydosh v. Bayonne [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1111.

95. Is not property received by the trustee to the use of one whose principal had advanced money to pay for the license. Tracy v. Ginzberg [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637.

96. Ruane v. Murray, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 187.

97. Mortgagee of liquor license held estopped to enjoin sale after default on the ground that the license could not be conveyed. It appeared that the license was transferable. Sullivan v. Bailey, 21 App. D. C. 100.

98. In an action on a liquor dealer's bond where it appeared that defendant accepted an unexpired license and executed a bond and under the authority thereof pursued the occupation, held, he was estopped to deny the authority of the one who made the transfer of the license as agent for the former owner. Faulkner v. Cassidy [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 366, 87 S. W. 904.

99. State v. Kirk [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1099. Barnett v. Pemiscot County Ct. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 575.

1. State v. Kirk [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1099; Barnett v. Pemiscot County Ct. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 575. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 3017, 3018, providing that in the event a dramshop keeper is convicted in the circuit court of any one of the several offenses therein defined, he shall, in addition to a fine, forfeit his license, do not change the rule. Id. Refusal of the county court to grant an appeal from an order revoking a license does not authorize a subsequent sale by the former licensee or his employe. State v. Barnett [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 460.

2. Carr v. City Council of Augusta [Ga.] 52 S. E. 300.

3. Carr v. City Council of Augusta [Ga.] 52 S. E. 300. Where a city ordinance provided for the revocation of a license on conviction of the licensee for a violation of the law, held, the city council acted in a judicial capacity in revoking the license. Id.

4. State v. Barnett [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 460.

5. Revocation in such case is not arbitrary. Malkan v. Chicago [Ill.] 75 N. E. 548.

petent jurisdiction, for violating the liquor laws ground for revocation,[6] and an ordinance requiring the clerk of the city council to submit to the council "each and every conviction," contemplates that evidence of the conviction shall be submitted by the clerk.[7] A city council cannot justify a revocation under a general power to revoke at pleasure where it appears from the resolution of revocation that the same was passed under the authority of an ordinance declaring a given act to be cause for revocation.[8] A criminal prosecution does not bar a proceeding to revoke the license on the same evidence,[9] nor does an appeal in such prosecution stay the judgment of revocation.[10] By acquiescence one may waive the fact that the proceeding to forfeit was not embraced in the call of a called term.[11] In New York a liquor tax certificate is subject to cancellation in the hands of a bona fide transferee for violations of the law by the original owner.[12]

Sale without license, or without paying tax.[13]—The offense of selling without a license cannot be properly charged against one selling liquors in territory where prohibition exists under a valid statute;[14] but the rule is otherwise if the statute attempting to provide for prohibition is unconstitutional.[15] Want of authority in the municipal officers to issue a license does not authorize selling without a license or prevent such conduct from being criminal;[16] but a city licensee being wrongfully refused a state license may make sales without being liable to conviction for selling without a license.[17] It is competent for the legislature to provide that one violating the conditions of his license shall be guilty of selling without a license.[18] A city ordinance providing that any person who shall sell or otherwise dispose of any liquors without a license shall be fined is sufficient to include wholesale traffic.[19] In order to constitute the offense, the liquor must be intoxicating.[20] A license protects the licensee's employes.[21] A distiller is not entitled to sell liquor manufactured by him during the term of his license after such term has expired.[22] A brewing company may accept orders in a county in which it has no license and may deliver to the persons ordering.[23] Unless he have a license therefor, a wholesale seller at retail is guilty of selling without a license.[24] In most states a club steward need not have a license.[25] The constructions placed upon various statutes will be found in the notes.[26]

§ 4. Regulation of traffic.[27] Dispensary system.[28]—A municipality in con-

6, 7, 8. Carr v. City Council of Augusta [Ga.] 52 S. E. 300.

9, 10, 11. State v. Barnett [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 460.

12. Under Liquor Tax Law 1897, p. 228, c. 312, § 27, forbidding the transfer of a liquor tax certificate by any holder of a certificate who shall have violated the provisions of the liquor tax law. In re Cullinan, 93 N. Y. S. 492.

13. See 4 C. L. 264.

14, 15, 16. Edwards v. State [Ga.] 51 S. E. 630.

17. Under Ky. St. §§ 3704, 4203, it is the absolute duty of the clerk of the county court to issue such state license. Koch v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 84 S. W. 533.

18. Schiller v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 706.

19. Cofer v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 264.

20. Rev. St. 1895, art. 5060a, construed. Ex parte Gray [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 828.

21. State v. Barnett [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 572.

22. Rev. Code 1852, amended in 1893, p. 420, c. 53, does not authorize such a sale. State v. McNett [Del.] 61 A. 869.

23. Ceraline Mfg. Co. v. Anthracite Beer Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 94.

24. A licensed wholesale liquor dealer who gives an agent one quart of whisky for each sale by the agent of five gallons of liquor is as to such quart guilty of retailing liquor without a license. Friedman v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 1276, 83 S. W. 1040.

25. A foreman of a gang of laborers selling beer to the laborers, without a license, taking payment either in cash or deducting the amount from their wages, the laborers having no title or interest in the beer, held guilty of selling without a license and not a club steward. Commonwealth v. Alfa, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 454.

26. Chapter 346, p. 626, Gen. Laws 1905, construed, and the word "not" as used in the phrase "in quantities not less than five gallons" as used in § 2, omitted. State v. Bates [Minn.] 104 N. W. 709.

27. See 4 C. L. 265. What ordinances are ducting a dispensary is exercising a governmental function[29] in the promotion of which public money may be lawfully invested and expended,[30] and the stock of liquors constitutes property used for municipal purposes within the meaning of exemption laws, even though profits may incidentally result to the municipality from the sale of such liquors.[31] In South Carolina the board of directors of the state dispensary have no power to close a county dispensary lawfully established.[32] In Connecticut a town agent has power to appoint suitable subagents when necessary to aid him in carrying on the agency.[33]

Permitting music in saloon.—That the music was allowed by an employe contrary to defendant's express instructions is no defense unless such instructions were given in good faith and not for the purpose of evading the law.[34] Rooms used in connection with the barroom are part of the dramshop.[35]

Prohibition of sale, gift or keeping open at certain times.[36]—Generally the owner of a saloon or dealer[37] in intoxicants is prohibited from keeping his place of business open for traffic[38] or selling liquor on Sunday,[39] and the statute imposing an affirmative duty upon him he is liable for a violation of the law by his employe, though contrary to his express instructions;[40] but if the statute imposes no such affirmative duty, he is not liable for the acts of his employe in violation of orders given in good faith and with the intention and expectation that they should be obeyed;[41] whether the orders were so given is a question for the jury.[42] One may reasonable, see ante, § 1. Prosecutions for violation of law, see post, § 6 B.

28. For constitutionality of dispensary laws, see ante, § 1.

29, 30, 31. Equitable Loan & Security Co. v. Edwardsville [Ala.] 38 So. 1016.

32. 24 Stat. at L. 485. State v. Board of Directors of State Dispensary, 70 S. C. 509, 50 S. E. 203.

33. Gen. St. §§ 2722, 2726, providing for a town agent in a no-license town of not more than 5,000 inhabitants, construed. State v. Marley [Conn.] 62 A. 85.

34. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 584, 85 S. W. 615.

35. So held where there were three rooms all under one roof and separated by thin board partitions through which were door openings. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 584, 85 S. W. 615.

36. See 4 C. L. 265. For the operation of general Sunday laws see Sunday, 4 C. L. 1589.

37. A partner is a "dealer" within the meaning of laws upon this subject (Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 8, 89 S. W. 832), and is amenable to the law in his individual capacity (Id.).

38. Pen. Code 1895, art. 199, so construed. Evidence that defendant kept his place open on Sunday where his regular customers congregated held sufficient to sustain a conviction. Armstrong v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 827. Evidence that defendant permitted some acquaintances to enter his dramshop and drink spirituous liquors on Sunday held insufficient to sustain a conviction for keeping a tippling shop open on Sunday in violation of Rev. St. 1899, § 2243. State v. Meagher [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 595. Where as soon as crowd entered, saloonkeeper ordered them out and there was no sale or attempted sale, held insufficient to warrant a conviction for violating an ordinance requiring Sunday closing. City of Vandalia v. Carracker, 116 Ill. App. 62. The unexplained fact of a saloon being open on Sunday is sufficient to justify a conviction of the keeper thereof for violating a statute requiring all saloons to be closed on Sunday. State v. Grant [S. D.] 105 N. W. 97.

39. Evidence that owner was seen on Sunday taking a bottle of beer into a billiard room adjoining his barroom where there were two men, held insufficient to warrant a conviction, defendant testifying that the liquor was for his own use and the two men were there to collect money due them. Tobin v. District of Columbia, 22 App. D. C. 482. Where witness left money on the bar, held, evidence was sufficient to show a violation of the Sunday law, though defendant claimed that he gave witness the whisky. Morris v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 8, 89 S. W. 832. Evidence held sufficient to sustain a conviction under an ordinance prohibiting the opening of licensed saloons on the Sabbath. City of Duluth v. Abrahamson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 682.

Under a provision in an act that if the holder of a license to sell liquors sells at times forbidden by the act he shall be guilty of selling without a license, and the time forbidden is between 12 o'clock Saturday night and 12 o'clock Sunday night, the penalty is not for selling on Sunday as such, but for selling in violation of the license. Schiller v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 706.

40. Rev. Pol. Code, § 2847 construed. State v. Grant [S. D.] 105 N. W. 97. Liability of employer for acts of employe, see Clark & Marshall, Crimes [2d Ed.] p. 261. Liability of agent see same work, p. 267.

41. Botkins v. State [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 298. Where defendant gave instructions to bartenders not to sell on Sunday, but, though he lived in a room adjoining the saloon, made no effort to see that his instructions were observed, held, evidence did not require the be guilty of such a sale though he has no license[43] or his license is void.[44] Within the meaning of Sunday laws, liquor is merchandise.[45] A sale is unnecessary in order to constitute the offense of keeping open for the purpose of traffic on Sunday,[46] and it is immaterial whether the door stood open or was opened for ingress and egress to parties, and was closed as soon as they went in or out.[47] A single sale on Saturday, the liquor to be delivered on Sunday, does not constitute keeping one's place open for traffic on Sunday;[48] in such a case the fact that the seller violated some of the conditions of his bond does not authorize a conviction for violating the Sunday law.[49] That, owing to irregularities, the election is voidable, is no defense to keeping open on election day.[50] That a Sunday sale was to an officer of the law with his consent[51] and for the purpose of prosecution[52] does not justify the seller. When sale is made by the wife of accused, the presumption is that the wife acted as her husband's agent in so doing.[53] The fact that hotel or restaurant keepers can pursue their occupations on Sunday does not authorize them to furnish liquor with meals, the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday,[54] though by statute in some states an exception is made in favor of the proprietor of a hotel[55] who is allowed to serve liquor to guests[56] ordering meals.[57] A sale being shown, the burden is on defendant to show that he comes within this exception.[58] Whether sale of a lunch in connection with a purported gift of the liquor is in fact a sale of the liquor is a question for the jury.[59] Defendant's building not coming within the statutory definition of a hotel, the fact that an excise agent told him that it was sufficient to enable him to conduct business as a hotel keeper is no defense.[60]

Prohibition of sale in certain places.[61]—In some states the business must be carried on in one room, such room having but one entrance.[62] A door at the end court to direct an acquittal. State v. Pierce [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 663.

42. Botkins v. State [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 298.

43. Rev. St. 1899, § 2243, prohibiting the keeping open of "any ale or porter house, grocery or tippling shop" on Sunday, provides for the punishment of a dramshop keeper, without license, who keeps his dramshop open on Sunday. State v. Meagher [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 595.

44. Since Rev. Pol. Code, § 2847, requiring all saloons to be closed on Sunday, does not refer solely to legally licensed saloons, a saloon keeper may be convicted of violating the Sunday law though his license is void. State v. Grant [S. D.] 105 N. W. 97.

45. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 37.

46. Griffith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 9, 89 S. W. 832.

47. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 37.

48, 49. Crawford v. State [Tex. Cr. App. 89 S. W. 1079.

50. So held where irregularities consisted in the publication of the notice in a newspaper instead of posting the same in three public places, as required by law. Sadler v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 12, 89 S. W. 974.

51, 52. Borck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 580.

53. Trometer v. District of Columbia, 24 App. D. C. 242. Although husband and wife both testified that she had no authority from him to make the sale and that he had forbidden her to make sales at any time, and there is no affirmative testimony upon the subject of her agency, held proper for the trial court to refuse to direct a verdict for accused. Id.

54. Savage v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 702, 88 S. W. 351.

55. The fact that certain dwellers in a building pay a stipulated weekly or monthly sum for their entertainment does not deprive an establishment otherwise within the terms of the statute of its character as a hotel, as such word is defined in Liquor Tax Laws, § 31, subd. k. Cullinan v. Clark, 46 Misc. 188, 93 N. Y. S. 256.

56. Serving a sandwich costing five cents to a casual visitor who orders liquor does not constitute service to a guest. In re Cullinan, 45 Misc. 497, 92 N. Y. S. 802.

57. Where the evidence showed that liquor was sold on Sunday to persons who announced as their essential purpose the desire to procure liquor and did not desire a meal, a verdict for defendant was against the weight of the evidence, though there was evidence that defendant's waiters insisted on serving with the liquor some trifling refreshments, which were carried away again untasted. Cullinan v. O'Connor, 100 App. Div. 142, 91 N. Y. S. 628.

58. Cullinan v. O'Connor, 100 App. Div. 142, 91 N. Y. S. 628.

59. Savage v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 702, 88 S. W. 351.

60. Cullinan v. O'Connor, 100 App. Div. 142, 91 N. Y. S. 628.

61. See 4 C. L. 266.

62. Such a law is violated by the maintenance of a saloon having a barroom proper connected by a window with other rooms of a long hall is not an entrance upon a public street.[63] A statute requiring the bar to be in plain view from the street, means plain view from the street or sidewalk when being used by pedestrians in the usual and ordinary way.[64] The use of an "L" or alcove, the space within which is not visible from the street, for a bar, does not constitute a violation of a requirement that retail liquor dealers must keep an open house in which no screen or other device is used to obstruct the view.[65] The laws of some states require that the saloon keeper obtain the consent of the owners of property lying within a certain distance of the building.[66]

Prohibition of sale or gift to certain persons.[67]—Inhibition of the gift of intoxicants to minors in local option territory is a proper exercise of the police power,[68] and such a law is not suspended by the adoption of local option.[69] Local option being in force, one cannot violate a statute prohibiting the sale of intoxicants to minors.[70] To be guilty of selling,[71] giving, or permitting liquor to be given,[72] one must have known or have had reasonable ground to believe that the purchaser was a minor. Allowing a minor to take the liquor without objection constitutes a gift.[73] A statute making it unlawful to give spirituous liquors to a minor without the consent of the latter's parent or guardian authorizes the giving of such consent only in cases of emergency, and a general permission is no defense to a prosecution under the statute.[74] Want of consent by a minor's parents may be inferred from the fact that they were at the time in a distant state, and the minor had been in the city where the saloon was located only a few days.[75] In some states minors are not permitted to enter or remain in a saloon; remaining in this case means loitering.[76] Such a law applies to children of the saloon keeper,[77] and excludes all questions of knowledge;[78] hence in an action for the breach of a bond in permitting and also connected by a stairway with a basement in which liquors are kept and which in turn is connected with other rooms in the building and through them with a wide street by another and separate flight of stairs. Jones v. Byington [Iowa] 104 N. W. 473.

63. McColl v. Rally [Iowa] 103 N. W. 972.

64. McColl v. Rally [Iowa] 103 N. W. 972. A saloon conducted in the basement of a building with the bar so arranged that it commenced 35 feet from the nearest part of the sidewalk and the tops of the windows were but 4 feet above the walk, held, it did not comply with the law. Id.

65. So held where the dealer merely rented the place and the "L" was the most convenient place therein for the location of the bar. State v. Langran & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 713.

66. Where saloon keeper could not obtain consent of property owners within 50 feet of one end of building and so he constructed a board partition 50 feet from that end of his room, leaving a dead, unoccupied and useless space between it and the wall, held, a mere subterfuge and that defendant did not comply with Code, § 2448, requiring the consent of property owners within 50 feet of the building in which a saloon is located. McColl v. Rally [Iowa] 103 N. W. 972.

67. See 4 C. L. 266.

68, 69. Stephens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 797.

70, 71. Tracy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1056.

72. Under a statute providing that a liquor dealer shall not sell, give nor permit to be given any spirituous liquors to a minor, a liquor seller is not liable on his bond for permitting another to give liquor to a minor in his place of business where such seller in good faith believed the minor was over age. Holly v. Simmons [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 811, 89 S. W. 776, rvg. 85 S. W. 325.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain a conviction of the offense of giving and furnishing intoxicating liquors to a minor. State v. Hawkins [Minn.] 104 N. W. 898.

73. Where defendant allowed minor to take liquor from him, without objection, at the suggestion of a third person, held guilty, though defendant did not offer the liquor to the minor. Parker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 822.

74. Shannon's Code, § 6786 construed. Pressly v. State [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 378.

75. Krick v. Dow [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 245.

76. A bond, executed under Rev. St. 1895, § 5060g, conditioned that the dealer shall not permit any minor to enter and remain in his place of business, is not breached by his permitting a minor to enter and remain momentarily in his saloon. Douthit v. State [Tex.] 83 S. W. 795.

77. Jones v. Byington [Iowa] 104 N. W. 473.

78. In an action against a liquor dealer for a sale to a minor, the use in an instruction of the word "knowingly" to qualify the word "permit," used in the statute making it a breach of the bond to permit a minor to enter or remain in a saloon, is error. Wakeham v. Price [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1093.

plaintiff's minor son to enter and gamble in the principal's saloon, evidence of the appearance of the minor[79] or of the existence of signs that minors were not allowed to remain in the saloon,[80] is immaterial. Bringing liquor out to one driving up to the saloon constitutes a sale in the seller's place of business.[81]

§ 5. Action for penalties.[82]—Statutes authorizing a recovery of liquidated damages by the person aggrieved in case of a breach of the bond are penal in their nature and should be strictly construed or at least should not be so liberally construed as to award damages in doubtful cases.[83] The amount in controversy for jurisdictional purposes is the damage claimed and not the number of breaches of the bond alleged.[84] An action to recover penalties purely statutory cannot be maintained on a bond good only as a common-law obligation.[85] Under a statute giving a right of action to the party aggrieved by a sale to a minor, no one has a right of action except the parent or some one standing in loco parentis.[86] The state may have successive recoveries on the bond until it is exhausted,[87] either by suits in its own behalf or by suits by the parties aggrieved,[88] and the state is not limited to a single penalty for all the violations prior to suit brought.[89] Recoveries for several breaches may be had in one action.[90] In Iowa the county may sue on the bond to recover an unpaid mulct tax[91] without first exhausting the property of the principal[92] and interest may be recovered on a quarterly instalment of mulct tax remaining unpaid.[93] Plaintiff must establish his case by a preponderance of the evidence.[94] In an action on a liquor dealer's bond, proof of breaches occurring a few months prior to the dates specified in the petition is sufficient to support the allegations.[95] The petition alleging several breaches of the bond and that each constituted a separate ground of recovery, plaintiff is entitled to recover under proof of any one of the breaches.[96] Cases dealing with the sufficiency of pleadings[97] and evidence[98]

79, 80. Krick v. Dow [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 245.

81. Sale to an habitual drunkard. Douthitt v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 7, 87 S. W. 190.

82. See 4 C. L. 267.

83. Choate v. Vlha [Tex. Civ., App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 32, 89 S. W. 1082.

84. In an action on a liquor dealer's bond for selling liquors to a minor the petition laying the damages at $1,000 the county court has jurisdiction though the petition alleges five sales to the minor which fact would have entitled the plaintiff to damages in excess of the jurisdiction of such court. McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045.

85. Hillman v. Mayher [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 818.

86. Uncle with whom orphan minor was living held not entitled to sue. Choate v. Vlha [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 32, 89 S. W. 1082.

87. Under Rev. St. 1895, § 5060g. Douthit v. State [Tex.] 83 S. W. 795; Hawthorne v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 839.

88. Rev. St. 1895, § 5060g. Douthit v. State [Tex.] 83 S. W. 795.

89. Hawthorne v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 839.

90. Douthitt v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 7, 87 S. W. 190.

91, 92, 93. O'Brien County v. Mahon, 126 Iowa, 539, 102 N. W. 446.

94. Cox v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 34.

95. Hawthorne v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 839.

96. Wakeham v. Price [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1093. An instruction that the jury should find for defendant if they failed to find that there were any such violations "on said dates" held erroneous, in that the jury might have concluded that the plaintiff was required to prove all the breaches. Id.

97. In an action on a liquor dealer's bond to recover damages because of sales of liquor to plaintiff's husband after notice prohibiting the same, the petition showed that defendant was doing business under a license transferred to him by another, and that, on the day the transfer was made, defendant entered into the bond sued on for the sale of liquors at the place in which it was charged the sales in question took place and, when the bond was executed, defendant was selling liquor at that place and the bond recited that defendant desired to engage in the sale of liquors at the place where the sales in question were charged to have been made, held, the petition was sufficient on demurrer. Faulkner v. Cassidy [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 366, 87 S. W. 904.

98. In an action on a liquor dealer's bond evidence held to show a violation of the provisions prohibiting a liquor dealer from permitting prohibited games to be played dealt, or exhibited in or about his place of business. Hawthorne v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 839.

are shown in the notes. The general rules as to instructions[99] and harmless error[1] apply. Objections cannot be urged for the first time on appeal.[2] In Texas a judgment in favor of the state on a liquor dealer's bond does not bear interest.[3]

§ 6. Criminal prosecutions. A. Offenses and responsibility therefor in general.[4]—In the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary, the liquor sold must have been intoxicating,[5] and, as a general rule, must have been sold for use as a beverage.[6] Whether or not the sale is so made is a question of fact for the jury.[7] A statutory definition or enumeration, while conclusive,[8] is not exclusive, the intoxicating qualities of any other liquor being a question of fact.[9] Where the drunkenness is the effect of drugs contained in the preparation and not of any intoxicating

99. Where defendant admitted that if he sold the minor liquor he must have known he was a minor, an instruction that the act must have been knowingly done, held improper. Findley v. Holly [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 24. In an action for permitting a minor to remain in a saloon, an instruction "that the term 'remain' is not to be given its restricted sense, but means rather, something that exists and continues after some other time or event or to tarry or loiter," held misleading. Id. In an action on a liquor dealer's bond for selling liquor to an habitual drunkard, in which there was evidence that the drunkard purchased the liquor as agent for a third person, defendant was entitled to an instruction that if the jury believed that defendant delivered the liquor to the drunkard for the third person with the belief that such third person had sent the drunkard for it it would not constitute a sale to the drunkard and a charge submitting in a general way the issue as to whether or not the transaction was a sale to the drunkard was not sufficient. Douthitt v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 377, 87 S. W. 190.

1. Alleged error in sustaining a petition seeking the recovery of more than one penalty is harmless where the jury found but one breach. Douthitt v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 7, 87 S. W. 190.

2. No objection being urged against the verdict on the ground that there was no proof that the principal was a licensed liquor dealer, the objection cannot be urged on appeal. Cox v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 34. In an action by the excise commissioner on the bond taken on granting a liquor tax certificate as hotel keeper under Liquor Tax Law, § 31, defendant cannot urge for the first time on review that the certificate and bond were void because of false statements in the application for the certificate showing compliance with regulations applicable to hotel buildings. Cullinan v. O'Connor, 100 App. Div. 142, 91 N. Y. S. 628.

3. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, articles 3105, 3097. Hawthorne v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 839.

4. See 4 C. L. 267.

5. Rev. St. 1895, art. 5060a, construed. Ex parte Gray [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 828. Selling a nonintoxicating liquor in local option territory without a license is not an offense. Reisenberg v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 585.

6. On a prosecution for keeping intoxicating liquor for sale without authority as respects preparations having a legitimate use for medicinal or toilet purposes the question is not whether they contain more than 1% of alcohol but whether the articles are sold to be used as a beverage. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38.

7. State v. Williams [N. D.] 104 N. W. 546.

8. State v. Calvin [Iowa] 103 N. W. 968. Under Code, § 2382, declaring alcohol to be an intoxicating liquor, proof that liquor used as a beverage contains alcohol is sufficient to establish its character as intoxicating liquor however much the alcohol may be diluted or however weak its intoxicating effect as a beverage may be. Id. The statute defining intoxicating liquors as those that will intoxicate, it is error to charge that "any liquors which contain any percentage of alcohol, if sold as a beverage," are intoxicating liquors. Rev. Codes 1899, § 7598, construed. State v. Virgo [N. D.] 103 N. W. 610. The act of 1902 does not exclude from the term "intoxicating liquor" medicinal preparations, fluid extracts, and toilet articles of which alcohol is the solvent principle. State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37. On a prosecution for keeping intoxicating liquors for sale without authority, an instruction that the question was not as to the possibility of an ordinary man drinking enough of the preparation to intoxicate him, held not erroneous, other instructions giving the statutory definition of intoxicating liquors. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38. It is not necessary for the state to allege or prove that the liquors named in Pen. Code § 431 are intoxicating. Edwards v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 319. The sale of "lager beer" at a time when the sale of malt liquors is prohibited is a violation of Liquor Tax Law, § 2, defining liquors as used in the act to include all distilled or rectified spirits or fermented or malt liquors. Cullinan v. McGovern, 94 N. Y. S. 525. A sale of liquor, whose principal ingredient was lager beer, containing between .74 per cent. and 1.18 per cent. in volume of alcohol, is a violation of Liquor Tax Law, § 2, defining liquors as used in the act to include all distilled or rectified spirits or fermented or malt liquors. People v. Cox, 94 N. Y. S. 526. afg. 45 Misc. 311, 92 N. Y. S. 125. The exception contained in § 66 of the crimes act (P. L. 1898, p. 812) with respect to liquors that are "compounded and intended to be used as medicine" does not relate to the first branch of the section which prohibits the sale of any vinous, spirituous or other ardent spirits, but only to the second branch liquor, defendant is not guilty.[10] A sale without a license of any compound containing liquors enumerated in a prohibitory statute is unlawful, whether such compound be intoxicating or not.[11] The term "malt liquor" includes lager beer.[12]

The violation of an ordinance is not a crime punishable under the laws of the state.[13] In Ohio a charge for the first offense is a misdemeanor under the Beal Law.[14]

To constitute an illegal sale the seller must be the owner or have rightful possession of the liquor,[15] and must have received therefor a valuable consideration.[16] This consideration may consist of services[17] or property other than cash.[18] It is not necessary that the seller derive a profit from the transaction.[19] Shams or devices to evade the above principles will not be tolerated.[20] One merely lending liquor to be repaid in kind is not guilty of a sale.[21] Where the owner of fruit has it manufactured into liquor, receiving the product of the identical fruit furnished, the distiller is not guilty of a sale of liquor;[22] but if the fruit is exchanged for liquor already manufactured, or if the distiller furnishes the owner of the fruit liquor in advance, the transaction is a sale.[23] Mistake of law is no defense.[24] The sale may be shown by facts and circumstances as well as by direct proof.[25] Ordinarily one purchasing liquor as the agent of another, and having no interest in the transaction nor making any profit therefrom, is not guilty of violating a local option which prohibits the sale of "any composition of which any of the said liquors shall form the chief ingredient." State v. Terry [N. J. Law] 61 A. 148, following State v. Marks, 65 N. J. Law, 84, 46 A. 757.

9. "Swankey" is an intoxicating liquor within the meaning of the Beal Law. Dominick v. State, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 192.

10. Pearce v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 727, 88 S. W. 234.

11. Such a sale of a compound containing alcohol is unlawful, whether the compound is intoxicating or not. Bradshaw v. State [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1051.

12. Cullinan v. McGovern, 94 N. Y. S. 525.

13. A charge of "keeping intoxicants for sale within the limits of Ft. Valley, Ga.," in violation of an ordinance of that town, does not charge the commission of a crime punishable under the laws of the state. Little v. State [Ga.] 51 S. E. 501.

14. Dominick v. State, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 192.

15. A barkeeper serving customers with intoxicating drinks has possession of the liquor dispensed at least while placing it on the bar. City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681.

16. Adams v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1079.

17. A licensed wholesale liquor dealer who gives an agent one quart of whisky for each sale by the agent of five gallons of liquor is, as to such quart, guilty of retailing liquor without a license. Friedman v. Commonwealth, 26 Ky. L. R. 1276, 83 S. W. 1040.

18. Where brandy was given in exchange for fruit. Barnes v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 729, 88 S. W. 804; Id. [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 623, 88 S. W. 805.

19. State v. Nelson [N. D.] 103 N. W. 609.

20. Where one bought a ticket entitling him to so many bottles of beer, the ticket being so arranged that as each bottle of beer was delivered a punch hole was made to show the fact, held, there was a sale. Harper v. State [Miss.] 37 So. 956. Conviction sustained where prosecutor obtained liquor by getting it himself from defendant's place of business, and leaving the price thereof where defendant could find it, and that defendant did find and accept it. Fitze v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1156. Where resident of local option territory mailed an order to a nonresident and the latter sent the liquor by express and subsequently received a money order from the purchaser in payment, held not a C. O. D. shipment and valid. Ky. St. 1903, § 2557b, subd. 4, construed. Doores v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 89 S. W. 162. The act of a person whose place of business was outside of local option territory in telling a friend residing in such territory that he would gladly sell him liquor cannot be considered a trick or device to evade the local option law where the sale that subsequently took place constituted a sale outside of the local option territory. Id.

21. Hardy v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 554, 87 S. W. 1038.

22. Barnes v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 623, 88 S. W. 805.

23. Barnes v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 623, 88 S. W. 805. An employe in a distillery delivering brandy in exchange for peaches and for the revenue license on the brandy is guilty of a sale. Id. [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 729, 88 S. W. 804.

24. Evidence that defendant had no intention of violating the law or making a sale held inadmissible. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18.

25. Adams v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1079. Conviction sustained where prosecutor asked defendant if there was anything around and defendant answered "Maybe so; look and see," and prosecutor went into a smokehouse and found some whisky, took some and left money to pay therefor. Roach v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 586. Where alleged buyer asked how much whisky was, received no answer but left some money, held law,[26] though the rule is otherwise if he acts as agent of the consignor.[27] This matter is now largely regulated by statute.[28] One is not liable for an unauthorized sale by a third person not in his employ.[29]

The place of sale often determines the existence of the criminal offense; in determining this question the intention of the parties governs,[30] the sale generally being held to take place where the order is given and unconditionally accepted,[31] though the place of shipment is sometimes held controlling.[32] The mere manual delivery does not fix the locus of the sale.[33] Liquor being ordered shipped C. O. D., sufficient to show a sale. Cable v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 98.

26. Washington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 801. Where one made a business of acting as agent for residents of local option territory in buying liquor in license territory, the buyer agreeing to be liable for loss in transit, held not guilty of violating the local option law. Owens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 794. Where prosecutor gave defendant some money and requested defendant to get him some whisky which he did, held, defendant was not guilty of violating the local option law he having acted as prosecutor's agent. Rector v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 41. Defendant having testified that he acted as the agent of the buyer, held proper to charge that if he did he was not guilty. Washington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 801.

Evidence held sufficient to show that defendant sold the liquor, though he claimed that he purchased it from a third person for the prosecutor and acted merely as the friend of the latter. Ledbetter v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 836. Where, without previous arrangements with anyone as to the conditions of disposal, defendant procured two kegs of beer and permitted all who came to drink, the drinkers paying a price fixed by defendant and the latter on one occasion passing the hat, held to show an unlawful sale. State v. Nelson [N. D.] 103 N. W. 609. Defense of agency held unavailable where defendant told B. that he was going to another city for a day and wanted to know if he wanted any whisky and B. gave him $1.00 for a half gallon without agreeing to pay any of defendant's expenses. State v. Johnston (N. C.) 52 S. E. 273. Where one gave defendant a dollar and asked him if he could get him some whisky and defendant returned with the liquor in 10 minutes, held not to authorize the submission of the question of defendant buying the whisky as the buyer's agent. Hanna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 472, 87 S. W. 702. Evidence that defendant accepted and forwarded orders for liquor, which liquor was shipped to him for the buyer, held insufficient to raise the issue of defendant's agency for the liquor company. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 284. Evidence held sufficient as against a claim of agency to sustain a conviction. Cook v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 1029, 89 S. W. 641.

27. Defendant who gave an order for liquor on an express company can be convicted whether he acted as agent of the consignor or for himself. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 19. Where accused furnished blanks, stamped envelopes, etc., held, jury were warranted in finding that he acted as the agent of the sellers. Walker v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 994.

28. Where one engaged in the liquor business in Louisiana, took orders for whisky in a city in Mississippi, where the sale was prohibited by law, collecting at the time the purchase price, the whisky being subsequently delivered in Louisiana to an express company for transportation and delivery to the purchaser, held guilty of violating Code 1892, § 1604, making it a misdemeanor for one to act as agent for either the purchaser or seller in effecting an unlawful sale.

29. The fact that defendant is the proprietor of a restaurant or saloon in which whisky is sold, an internal revenue license being posted in his place of business, does not make defendant guilty of a violation of the local option law, the sale in question having been made by a third person. Rawls v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1071.

30. Where as soon as liquor was ordered it was set apart for the purchasers and sent to them the next day with instructions that it was not to be delivered unless paid for, held, sale took place at place of delivery. Cross v. State [Ark.] 87 S. W. 1026. Where defendant told B. that he was going to another city for a day and wanted to know if he wanted any whisky and B. gave him $1.00 for a half gallon without agreeing to pay any of defendant's expenses, held to constitute a sale at the place where the agreement was entered into. State v. Johnston [N. C.] 52 S. E. 273.

31. Where defendant solicited trade in local option county but refused to take any orders and the buyer telephoned to the defendant's bartender outside of the county and ordered liquor to be sent C. O. D., held, sale took place outside of local option county. Fooshee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 522, 87 S. W. 820. An agent taking C. O. D. orders subject to the approval of his house, the sale is made where the order is approved. Sims v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 483, 87 S. W. 689. See, also, Luster v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 326; Parker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1155; Donley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 13, 89 S. W. 553; Donley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 13, 89 S. W. 554; Coats v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 838; Novich v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 332; Merriweather v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 332; Wright v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 24.

32. Where liquor was ordered and paid for in one county and shipped from another county, held, sale was made in latter county. Sims v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 1019.

the sale occurs at the time and place of delivery to the carrier;[34] but some courts have refused to follow this general rule of the law of sales, where the transaction is devised to defeat the law,[35] and hold that if any part of the transaction occurs in the prohibition territory, though some essential part is done elsewhere for the purpose of evading the law, the transaction is deemed to have occurred in the prohibition district.[36] Where liquors are shipped to a consignee C. O. D. without his knowledge or consent, but he receipts to the carrier therefor and pays the charges, there is a sale at the point of destination.[37] The legislature cannot change the meaning of the word "sale" so as to evade or enlarge constitutional provisions respecting sales of intoxicants.[38] One receiving money from third persons to get a C. O. D. shipment of liquor with the understanding that such third persons are to receive proportionate shares of the liquor is guilty of a sale.[39] The rule is otherwise, however, if defendant merely borrows the money, the lender getting none of the liquor except in the way of a treat,[40] or if defendant before delivery returns the money and rescinds the sale.[41] The consignee of a C. O. D. shipment giving a third party an order for the liquor is guilty of selling,[42] even though he has not taken possession,[43] and the fact that he has previously instructed the express company not to honor his orders is no defense.[44] The delivery of a bill of lading is tantamount to a delivery of the liquor.[45] One to whom[46] or with whom[47] a C. O. D. shipment is sent or left for

33. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 284.

34. Keller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 264, 87 S. W. 669; Otto v. State [Tex. Cr. App] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 470, 87 S. W. 698; Green v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 1043; Taggart v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1155. Notwithstanding an oral agreement that the purchaser need not accept the liquor and that the title should remain in the seller until it is paid for. Golightly v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 26. Order taken by sample is taken in a local option county. Sedgwick v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 813. Order taken subject to acceptance. Luster v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 326; Parker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1155; Donley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 13, 89 S. W. 553; Id. [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 13, 89 S. W. 554; Coats v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 838; Wright v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 24. Though buyer paid express charges. Joseph v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 326. Where consignee was liable for loss while in transit. Novich v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 332; Merriweather v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 332.

35. Rules of law governing the construction of contracts have little place in prosecutions of penal actions where a transaction, in itself an offense, is so shaped by the criminal actors as to make it conform in appearance to the letter of law, but it violates it in fact and spirit. Commonwealth v. Adair [Ky.] 89 S. W. 1130.

36. Commonwealth v. Adair [Ky.] 89 S. W. 1130. A sale of beer made by one whose place of business was just outside the corporate limits of a local option city to a person inside the city who ordered the beer by telephone, held made in the local option territory, though the driver of the delivery wagon refused to accept the price of the beer when tendered in the city but induced the buyer to accompany him outside the city limits and there accepted the money. Id.; Adair v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 89 S. W. 1132.

37. Otto v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 470, 87 S. W. 698.

38. Act providing that C. O. D. contracts of sale shall be deemed to have been made where the goods are delivered and paid for held unconstitutional. Keller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 269, 87 S. W. 669.

39. Beall v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 334; Hillard v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 520, 87 S. W. 821; Sliger v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 88 S. W. 243; Holman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 977; Hoyt v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1082 (Second case). Where defendant had no knowledge of shipment until its arrival. Dunn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 326.

40. Beall v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 334.

41. White v. State [Tex. Cr. App] 85 S. W. 9.

42. Where liquor had not been ordered. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18.

43, 44. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 19.

45. Where one procured a bill of lading, made out in a fictitious name, for a cask of beer and delivered it to another, held guilty of selling. Price v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 41.

46. Delivery of liquor to an express company addressed to the buyer in care of defendant is to the customer. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 284.

47. Express agent. Ellington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 136, 86 S. W. 330. One with whom C. O. D. shipments are left until called for, such person simply collecting the charges on delivery, held not guilty of a sale. Bills v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 93, 86 S. W. 1012.

delivery is not guilty of a sale, though the shipment was not in pursuance of a contract, the deliverer being ignorant of such fact.[48]

In some states keeping a place and selling are distinct offenses.[49] Generally the keeping of intoxicating liquors for the purpose of unlawful sale is a criminal offense.[50]

In most prohibition states or localities, when necessary to the health of a patient,[51] a physician may prescribe or sell intoxicating liquors to him, and in this connection an honest mistake is a defense.[52] A druggist selling liquor for medicinal purposes is also generally protected, but the sale must be made in good faith, and the existence of a physician's prescription is not conclusive evidence of this fact.[53] A druggist is not guilty, though the liquor be ordered for an illegal purpose, if the sale be for a legal purpose.[54] In North Dakota a storekeeper can sell patent medicines, although they may contain alcohol as one of their ingredients.[55]

It is not an offense for a person not authorized to sell intoxicating liquors to keep them for his own use,[56] but in some states possession has been made prima facie evidence that they are kept for unlawful purposes.[57]

In some states sales by a wholesaler or distiller are exempted from the operation of the local option laws.[58] What constitutes a sale at wholesale is generally a ques-

48. Ellington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 136, 86 S. W. 330.

49. So held under the Beal Law. Dominick v. State, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 192.

50. Evidence that two jugs containing six or seven gallons of intoxicating liquor were found in the house of the accused, in a "dry" county, and she also had 15 or 20 empty jugs, which apparently had contained whisky, concealed in her house, that the accused admitted that the whisky in the jugs was hers, that certain parties stole a jug of whisky from the house of the accused during her absence, and that 19 persons at different times had given the accused sums of money to "order" whisky for them, held sufficient to sustain a finding that defendant was keeping intoxicating liquors for the purpose of unlawful sale. Watts v. Forsyth [Ga.] 51 S. E. 508. Where one living in a "dry town" has at his home "cased whisky" and "37 pints of liquor in his trunk" and receives, by railroad, whisky by the case billed "Mineral Water," and some of his visitors act "a little strange," others depart with wrapped packages and still others immediately upon leaving, retire to secluded places and drink whisky from a flask, held sufficient to warrant a conviction for keeping liquor for unlawful sale, notwithstanding defendant's statement that the liquors were kept exclusively for his own use. Tucker v. Moultrie [Ga.] 50 S. E. 61.

51. Under Laws 1881, p. 235, c. 128, § 3, as amended by Laws 1885, p. 237, c. 149, § 2; Gen. St. 1901, § 2453, a physician lawfully engaged in the practice of his profession may administer intoxicating liquors to a patient if he deem it necessary to the health of such patient and charge and receive pay therefor. State v. Wilson [Kan.] 80 P. 565. Physician held not authorized to give a man liquor simply because a member of his family was sick. Blakeley v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 948.

52. So held in construing an ordinance making it unlawful for a physician to give a prescription for liquor unless absolutely required as a medicine. Commonwealth v. Williams [Ky.] 86 S. W. 553.

53. P. L. 1889, p. 77; Gen. St. p. 1813 construed. State v. Terry [N. J. Law] 61 A. 148.

54. Where a druggist ordered liquor for a customer but, before it was called for, sold nearly all for medicinal purposes and when the customer called the druggist returned his money and gave him the remaining liquor free of charge, held no sale. Blasingame v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 275.

55. Rev. Codes 1899, § 7281. State v. Williams [N. D.] 104 N. W. 546. Instruction that sale of patent medicine is unlawful unless made by a registered pharmacist held erroneous. Id.

56. State v. White [Kan.] 80 P. 589. Under Laws 1905, p. 991, c. 800, § 20, making the possession of more than two gallons of spirituous liquor at any one time prima facie evidence that the possessor is engaged in the illegal sale of liquor, the possession of more than the specified quantity is not of itself a distinct and substantive offense, but is merely an evidential fact in a prosecution for an illegal sale under other sections of the act. State v. McIntyre [N. C.] 52 S. E. 63. Laws 1903, p. 144, c. 125, and Laws 1905, p. 987, c. 800, do not make it an indictable offense for one to have in his possession more than two gallons of whisky with intent to sell the same. Id.

57. Laws 1905, p. 991, c. 800, § 20 construed. State v. McIntyre [N. C.] 52 S. E. 63. In Kansas one cannot keep such liquors, except in a dwelling house not used in connection with a place of business, without making out such a prima facie case. State v. White [Kan.] 80 P. 589.

58. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2558 where a distiller sells five gallons of whisky in the usual course of trade and in good faith, he is not liable for a violation of the local option law though another furnished the purchaser part of the money to pay for the whisky and re-

tion of law for the court.[59] A sale of a quart of native wine is not a sale at wholesale.[60] In Delaware a manufacturer is only authorized to sell liquor on the premises where they are distilled.[61] A statute requiring a traveling salesman to have a license to take orders is violated by the taking of an order by an unlicensed traveling man, subject to acceptance by his principal.[62] A soliciting and collecting agent of a brewing company cannot be convicted under an indictment charging him with "doing business" without a license.[63]

Payment of the Iowa mulct tax does not constitute a bar to proceedings for the unlawful sale of liquors.[64] A conviction under an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of intoxicating liquors for the purpose of unlawful sale is no bar to a conviction for keeping the same liquors for that purpose on a subsequent day.[65]

(§ 6) B. Indictment and prosecution.[66] Jurisdiction.[67]—Under a statute providing that if a river be a boundary between two counties, the criminal jurisdiction of each county shall embrace offenses committed on the river or any island thereof, a sale of whisky on a boat on a river at a place where it bounds a county is a sale within the county.[68] In some states a mayor of a town has jurisdiction over violations of the liquor laws.[69]

Prosecution in general.[70]—A detective may act as prosecutor for a violation of the local option law.[71] Where two or more laws are violated by accused's act, the commonwealth may elect under which law it will prosecute.[72] In a prosecution for a sale of liquor in a county in which such sales are prohibited, it is not necessary to show the day upon which the sale was made.[73]

Indictment, information or complaint.[74]—In order that an affidavit may constitute a sufficient foundation for an information for selling liquor to a minor, it is not essential that it aver that the sale was on the dramshop keeper's premises.[75] The indictment or information must clearly and distinctly set forth the acts constituting the offense,[76] so as to inform the accused of the nature of the accusation ceived part of it from the purchaser away from the premises of defendant. Howard v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 89 S. W. 256. One who, in handling the products of a brewer, is conducting a wholesale house on his own account, is not within the protection of Laws 1904, p. 160, c. 76, declaring it unlawful for anyone, "except manufacturers selling liquors of their own make" to sell liquor by wholesale in local option territory. Adair v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 89 S. W. 1132.

59. So held under Rev. Laws, c. 100, § 1, as amended by St. 1903, p. 486, c. 460. Commonwealth v. Poulin [Mass.] 73 N. E. 655.

60. Commonwealth v. Poulin [Mass.] 73 N. E. 655.

61. Rev. Code 1852, amended in 1893, p. 420, c. 53. State v. McNett [Del.] 61 A. 869. Such statute does not authorize a sale by one of the members of the firm as an individual in his store at a place distant from the distillery. Id.

62. Rev. Pol. Code, §§ 2834, 2838, 2852 construed. State v. Delamater [S. D.] 104 N. W. 537.

63. Salter v. Columbus, 121 Ga. 829, 49 S. E. 734.

64. Newton v. McKay [Iowa] 102 N. W. 827.

65. Tucker v. Moultrie [Ga.] 50 S. E. 61.

66. See 4 C. L. 272. See. also, topic Indictment and Prosecution, 5 C. L. 1790.

Witnesses, see topic Witnesses, 4 C. L. 1943; also Examination of Witnesses, 5 C. L. 1371.

67. See 4 C. L. 267.

68. Nickols v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 86 S. W. 513.

69. The mayor of the city of Youngstown has jurisdiction to hear and finally determine misdemeanors, notwithstanding the Act of April 26th, 1904 (97 O. L. 623), where no imprisonment is part of the penalty, and of such character is a charge under section 4364-20a for the first offense. Dominick v. State, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 192. See 4 C. L. 267.

70. See 4 C. L. 268.

71. Rector v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 41.

72. One selling without a license in prohibition territory may be punished for either offense. Commonwealth v. Barbour [Ky.] 89 S. W. 479.

73. State v. Burton, 138 N. C. 575, 50 S. E. 214.

74. See 4 C. L. 272.

75. State v. Essman [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 955.

76. P. L. 1893, p. 193 does not change the nature of the offense of habitually selling intoxicating liquors contrary to law, nor render the place where such sales are carried on any the less a disorderly house and a public nuisance, but simply requires the indictment to set forth with precision the charagainst him,[77] it ordinarily being sufficient, however, to charge the offense in the language of the statute or in terms equivalent thereto.[78] All the statutory elements of the offense must be alleged.[79] In some states the indictment must name the crime.[80] Where several different acts named in a statute are the means whereby one offense may be committed and are set out in the disjunctive, they may all be charged in one count of an indictment in the conjunctive if they are not repugnant.[81] It is generally sufficient to charge the kind of liquor sold in the alternative.[82] The indictment or information[83] or complaint[84] must not be double. The words used in an indictment or information must be construed according to their usual acceptance in acter of the acts that constitute the offense. State v. Terry [N. J. Law] 61 A. 148. Under Rev. Codes 1899, § 8047, subd. 7, an indictment otherwise sufficient will be held sufficient when "the act or omission charged as the offense is clearly and distinctly set forth in ordinary and concise language, without repetition and in such manner as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended." State v. Erickson, [N. D.] 103 N. W. 389. An information for a continuing offense, which alleges that the offense was committed "on the 1st day of January, 1904, and on divers and sundry days, and times between that day and the 24th day of April, 1905, and on the 24th day of April, 1905," is sufficiently certain as to time. State v. Brown [N. D.] 104 N. W. 1112. An information which alleges that the defendant, during a stated time, kept and maintained a nuisance defined and prohibited by Rev. Codes 1899, § 7605, in two adjacent buildings within the same curtilage, particularly describing the place, is neither uncertain nor double. Id.

77. Indictment prescribed by Laws 1901, p. 58, ch. 4930, § 8 informs the accused of the nature of the accusation against him. Caesar v. State [Fla.] 39 So. 470.

78. So held as regards an indictment in the language of Ky. St. 1903, § 2557a. Commonwealth v. Jarvis [Ky.] 86 S. W. 556. Indictment for illegal sale on Sunday contrary to provisions of Rev. St. 1899, § 3011 need not use the word "unlawfully." State v. Schleuter, 110 Mo. App. 7, 83 S. W. 1012. Under a statute prohibiting the sale of distilled or rectified spirits or fermented or malt liquors, it is not necessary to allege that the liquor was intoxicating. Liquor Tax Laws (Laws 1897, p. 207, c. 312) § 2, construed. People v. Cox, 94 N. Y. S. 526, afg. 45 Misc. 311, 92 N. Y. S. 125. Laws 1897, p. 207, c. 312, § 2, providing that the term "liquors" shall include all distilled or rectified spirits, wines, fermented or malt liquors, an indictment need not allege that the liquors sold were distilled or rectified spirits, etc. People v. Myers, 95 N. Y. S. 993. An indictment under Laws 1897, p. 233, c. 312, § 31, alleging, in the language of the statute, that defendant sold liquor in quantities less than five wine gallons at a time, held sufficient without stating the exact quantities sold. Id.

79. An indictment under Comp. Laws, § 5409 held fatally defective for failure to charge that the view of the "bar or place in said room" where the liquors were sold was obstructed. People v. Schimmell [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 406, 104 N. W. 670. An information charging a violation of Gen. Laws 1905, p. 379, c. 159, prohibiting the receiving or soliciting of orders for the sale or delivery of intoxicating liquors in prohibition territory, is fatally defective if it fails to allege that the sale and delivery was to be consummated in prohibition territory. Patterson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 31. Since Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7283 renders immaterial the words "in less quantities than a quart at a time," contained in § 7283b, an indictment for a violation of this latter section need not allege, in describing defendant's license, the quantity in which liquor may be sold by him. Cahill v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 182; State v. Kiley [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 184.

80. Under Code Cr. Proc., requiring the indictment to name the crime, an indictment charging the crime of offering and exposing for sale fermented liquors and distilled and rectified spirits in violation of Liquor Tax Law, § 31, is sufficient. People v. Seeley, 93 N. Y. S. 982.

81. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3011, prescribing a penalty for dramshop keepers who keep open their shop or sell, give away or otherwise dispose of any intoxicating liquors on Sunday, an indictment charging the commission of the acts enumerated in the conjunctive, and in one count, is good. State v. Schleuter, 110 Mo. App. 7, 83 S. W. 1012.

82. An indictment charging that defendant sold a "beverage, liquid mixture or decoction" is good on demurrer. Commonwealth v. Jarvis [Ky.] 86 S. W. 556.

83. An indictment for violation of Liquor Tax Law, § 21, charging a sale without a license, and also a sale in a town which had voted that no license should be granted, held not bad for duplicity. People v. Seeley, 93 N. Y. S. 982. An information alleging that the defendant, during a stated time, kept and maintained a nuisance defined and prohibited by Rev. Codes 1899, § 7605, in two adjacent buildings within the same curtilage, particularly describing the place, is neither uncertain nor double. State v. Brown [N. D.] 104 N. W. 1112. An information for a continuing offense, which alleges that the offense was committed "on the 1st day of January, 1904, and on divers and sundry days, and times between that day and the 24th day of April, 1905, and on the 24th day of April, 1905, does not allege more than one offense. Id.

84. Affidavit charging the keeping of a place where intoxicating liquors are sold is not bad for duplicity because it charges several distinct offenses of the same kind common language.[85] A "keeper of a blind tiger," in its general acceptation and understanding, means a person engaged in the unlawful sale of intoxicating beverages.[86] An allegation that the defendant unlawfully kept a place where intoxicating liquors were sold necessarily implies that the sales were unlawful.[87] An indictment charging individuals as a firm will be construed as charging the individuals with violating the law.[88] Allegations which are surplusage not being misleading or prejudicial, will be disregarded.[89] The indictment need not negative a proviso or exception contained in a clause subsequent to that creating the offense.[90] There is a conflict as to whether the indictment need name the purchaser,[91] and in those states where it is not essential, if defendant deems it either expedient or necessary that he should be advised of the name of such person, he should apply for a bill of particulars.[92] A complaint for violating the Sunday law need not specify the particular business defendant was engaged in, but it is sufficient to allege that he was a dealer in wares and merchandise.[93] As a general rule it is not necessary to name the beverage sold.[94] An ordinance may generally be referred to by its title and date of passage.[95] It is necessary to show that the transaction set up in the indictment occurred before the indictment was returned by the grand jury[96] and within the period of limitations.[97] A statutory definition of a word used may be looked to to supply an eleand calling for the same punishments. Volk v. Westerville, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 241.

85. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1805. State v. Tabler, 34 Ind. App. 393, 72 N. E. 1039.

86. State v. Tabler, 34 Ind. App. 393, 72 N. E. 1039.

87. State v. Erickson [N. D.] 103 N. W. 389. Further allegations negativing lawful sales treated as surplusage, and not being misleading or prejudicial, the indictment was held sufficient. Id.

88. Where an indictment charged "A. and B., a firm," with violation of the local option law, held the words "a firm" would be treated as surplusage. Rawls v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1071.

89. Where it was alleged that defendant unlawfully kept a place where intoxicating liquors were sold, allegations negativing lawful sales disregarded. State v. Erickson [N. D.] 103 N. W. 389. Under a statute declaring it unlawful for a saloon keeper to permit any person to go into the saloon at certain times, an information alleging that defendant did "unlawfully suffer, allow and permit" a certain person to enter the saloon during the prohibited time, held sufficient, the words "suffer" and "allow" being surplusage. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1825, providing that no information shall be quashed because of any surplusage. Botkins v. State [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 298.

90. An indictment charging the sale of vinous liquors in violation of Pub. Laws 1901, p. 498, c. 347 need not aver that the liquors sold were not manufactured from grapes raised on the lands of defendant. State v. Burton, 138 N. C. 575, 50 S. E. 214. When an act makes penal the sale of intoxicating liquors, and in a subsequent section provides that the prohibition shall not prevent practicing physicians from furnishing such liquors to their patients, it is not necessary, in an indictment for a violation of the act, to allege that the sale was not by a practicing physician. Oglesby v. State, 121 Ga. 602, 49 S. E. 706.

91. An indictment for selling liquor in violation of the local option law must allege the name of the purchaser. Ellington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 136, 86 S. W. 330. Affidavits, information or indictment must allege the name of the purchaser or that his name is to the affiant, informant or grand jury unknown. Rev. St. 1903, §§ 4364-20b and 4364-20c construed. State v. Ridgway [Ohio] 76 N. E. 95. Except in cases where the identification of the person to whom the liquor was sold may be essential to the defendant for his proper defense, as, for example, where he is charged with having sold liquor to a minor, the information need not allege the name of the buyer. Trometer v. District of Columbia, 24 App. D. C. 242.

92. Trometer v. District of Columbia, 24 App. D. C. 242.

93. Griffith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 9, 89 S. W. 832.

94. Commonwealth v. Jarvis [Ky.] 86 S. W. 556.

95. Under Pen. Code, § 963, providing that in pleading a private statute it is sufficient to refer to the statute by its title and day of its passage, a complaint for violation of a county ordinance forbidding the handling of intoxicating liquors without a license is sufficient where the title of the ordinance and the date of its passage are set out in the complaint. Ex parte Childs [Cal. App.] 81 P. 667.

96. Where an indictment for an illegal sale was returned Feb. 13, 1904, evidence of a sale "some time in the spring of 1904," is insufficient to support a conviction. Wolf v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1145.

97. In Kentucky an indictment for a misdemeanor must show on its face that it was committed within 12 months before the finding of the indictment, unless it is in lieu of a former indictment, and then it must show that the offense was committed within a year before that indictment was ment of the offense.[98] Inaccurate expressions are harmless no one being misled thereby.[99] An information may be amended as to matters of substance or form before the defendant pleads,[1] but after that time it can only be amended as to matters of form, and not then unless it can be done without prejudice to the rights of the defendant.[2] Waiving the filing of a written complaint in the police court concludes defendant's rights thereto in the district court after appeal.[3] Defects in the indictment may be cured by verdict.[4] The proof must meet and sustain the allegations of the indictment.[5] Under an indictment charging a sale to persons whose names are to the grand jury unknown, it is proper to show a sale to one person.[6] Under a complaint charging defendant with assisting in keeping a common nuisance, proof that the accused committed the offense unaided by any other person justifies a conviction.[7] Where there is an immaterial variance between the indictment and the evidence, the former may be amended.[8] An indictment cannot be amended so as to cure a variance as to the place of sale.[9] On prosecutions for permitting music in a saloon[10] or for selling without a license,[11] the state may prove the commission of the offense at any time within the period of limitations.

Judicial notice.[12]—The courts will generally take judicial notice of legislative enactments.[13] The intoxicating qualities of beer must be proven.[14] Prohibition being put in force by a vote of the people, there is a conflict as to whether the fact of prohibition must be proved.[15] found or the prosecution begun. Combs v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 84 S. W. 753. An indictment returned July 20, 1904, charging defendant with having sold liquor without a license on July 18, 1904, and further stating that a former indictment for the offense, filed on November 13, 1903, had been stolen and cannot be found, held bad. Id.

98. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2990, defining a dramshop keeper as a person licensed to sell intoxicants, an information charging a dramshop keeper with a violation of § 3011, prohibiting any person having a license as a dramshop keeper from keeping his dramshop open on Sunday, is sufficient although it does not state that defendant is a "licensed" dramshop keeper. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 592, 85 S. W. 613.

99. Under Code Cr. Proc. § 542, informality in an indictment in alleging a sale without a license, instead of a sale without having paid the tax, is not cause for reversal; the crime named at the head of the indictment being a violation of Liquor Tax Law, § 31, and there being a charge that the sale was contrary to the statute in such case made and provided. People v. Seeley, 93 N. Y. S. 982.

1. State v. Bundy [Kan.] 81 P. 459.

2. State v. Bundy [Kan.] 81 P. 459. A charge of maintaining a nuisance under the prohibitory liquor law wherein there is no concurrence in the time of keeping the place and the time of doing the acts in the place necessary to constitute an offense is defective, and an amendment alleging that all the acts were contemperaneous is a matter of substance. Id.

3. City of Topeka v. Kersh [Kan.] 79 P. 681.

4. An information charging the sale of intoxicating liquors, without specifying the kind of liquors sold, and without negativing the circumstances under which cider and wines included in the words "intoxicating liquors" could lawfully be sold, is sufficient after a verdict of guilty; for it will be presumed that the sale was found unlawful. State v. Barr [Vt.] 62 A. 43.

5. Ellington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 136, 86 S. W. 330. An indictment alleging an illegal sale is not supported by proof of soliciting or receiving orders for such a sale. Potts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 835. Proof of a sale to L. B. & F. B. constitutes a variance from an indictment charging a sale to M. B., there being no evidence that either L. or F. was known as or called M. O'Reilly v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 8. An information alleging that defendant sold liquor to S. in violation of the local option law is not sustained by evidence that defendant sold liquor to M., which S. and M. drank. Arnold v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18.

6. People v. Seeley, 93 N. Y. S. 982.

7. No accessories in misdemeanor. City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681.

8. P. L. 1898, p. 878, § 34. State v. Ham [N. J. Law] 60 A. 41.

9. State v. Ham [N. J. Law] 60 A. 41.

10. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 584, 85 S. W. 615.

11. Though indictment named particular date. Pitts v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 147.

12. See 4 C. L. 274.

13. The supreme court will take judicial notice of the local prohibition law known as the "Five Counties Act" (Acts 1883-84, vol. 1, p. 1116, c. 598), and of the operation of the general local option law of 1894 (Ky. St. 1903, c. 81). Crigler v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 276.

14. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 763; Sullivan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 150; Cassens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 708, 88 S. W. 229; Potts v.

Presumptions and burden of proof.[16]—The general presumption of innocence applies.[17] Any presumption to be brought into play in construing a contract will be taken in favor of accused.[18] The burden is on the state to show beyond a reasonable doubt that the liquor sold was intoxicating.[19] In most states statutes make certain facts prima facie evidence of others;[20] such statutes mean that such evidence is competent and sufficient to justify a jury in finding a defendant guilty, provided it does in fact satisfy them of his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, and not otherwise.[21] In a prosecution for violating the local option law, the order declaring the result of the election is prima facie evidence of its validity,[22] and the burden is on the defense to show that the statutory notices were not posted.[23] The possession of a United States license to sell malt liquor is not prima facie evidence that the licensee is engaged in selling intoxicating liquors.[24] The burden is on defendant to show matters of justification.[25]

Admissibility of evidence.[26]—To be admissible the evidence must be relevant[27] and competent.[28] Evidence of other sales at different times is inadmissible unless

State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 835; Id. [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 836.

15. That it must. Election was under general local option law. Nicols v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1072. The courts will take judicial notice of the result of a prohibition election, whether the same was held under the general local option liquor law or a local act providing for such election. Oglesby v. State, 121 Ga. 602, 49 S. E. 706.

16. See 4 C. L. 274.

17. In a prosecution for violating the local option law, it appearing that defendant, an express agent, who delivered the liquor to the consignee, was not aware that the shipment was not in pursuance of a contract, the presumption is that the transaction was legitimate and the shipment was not unlawful. Ellington v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 136, 86 S. W. 330.

18. Keller v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 264, 87 S. W. 669.

19. Rutherford v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 636, 88 S. W. 810.

20. Section 3, p. 58, c. 4930 of the Laws of 1901, making proof of delivery of the liquor by defendant and receipt of the money by him prima facie evidence of ownership, modifies the rule laid down in Anderson v. State, 32 Fla. 242, 13 So. 435, and casts the burden of rebutting the presumption on the defendant. Goode v. State [Fla.] 39 So. 461.

21. Rev. Codes 1899, § 7614, providing that the possession of a United States license is prima facie evidence of guilt, so construed. State v. Momberg [N. D.] 103 N. W. 566.

22, 23. Fitze v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1156.

24. Uloth v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 521, 87 S. W. 822.

25. In a prosecution of the sale of liquor to a minor, under Pen. Code 1895, § 444, the burden is on defendant to show written authority from the parent or guardian. Graham v. State, 121 Ga. 590, 49 S. E. 678. A person seeking to justify Sunday sale of liquor in violation of Liquor Tax Law, § 31k, subd. 2, by relying on exceptions contained in said section, must plead and prove the facts bringing him within the exception. In re Cullinan, 45 Misc. 497, 92 N. Y. S. 802. Must show that building has the equipment of a hotel or is constructed as required by Liquor Tax Law, § 31k, subd. 2. Id. Must show that he has a license. Commonwealth v. Wenzel, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 467.

26. See 4 C. L. 274.

Witnesses, see topic Witnesses 4 C. L. 1943, and Examination of Witnesses, 5 C. L. 1371.

27. In a prosecution for keeping a "blind tiger," evidence that defendant frequently received express packages weighing about 85 pounds, addressed plainly to defendant, with nothing to indicate their contents, held relevant. Goad v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 935. In such a case orders on defendant's letter heads being signed by defendant and containing checks in payment held admissible. Id. Also held proper to permit a witness to testify that he had a conversation with C. with reference to certain orders received by him from defendant; that he saw the letters containing the orders for whisky and that later C. gave the letters to witness. Id. Where it was necessary for the state to prove that defendant's store was open for the purpose of traffic, evidence that witness saw a person put something that looked like a bottle of wine in his pocket held relevant. Dillard v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 584. In a prosecution for selling liquor on Sunday, held, evidence that two or three years before defendant had tried to have saloon keepers in town stop selling beer by the can, held irrelevant. State v. Pierce [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 663. It is not error to refuse to permit the manufacturer of a malt extract found in defendant's place of business to testify as to the percentage of alcohol in the other medicines manufactured by his firm. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38.

28. The record of the issuance of the license is secondary evidence and is inadmissible, the licensee having been notified to produce his license. State v. Mulloy [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 569. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2990, defining a dramshop keeper as a person licensed to sell intoxicants, the license itself is the best evidence that defendant is a dramshop keeper, and, although defendant cannot be compelled to produce his license, he should be notified so to do in order to lay a foundation for the introduction of sec-connected with the case[29] or unless it serves to show a system[30] or criminal intent.[31] Evidence of sales[32] or use[33] by others is inadmissible. The fact that defendant has sold the liquor for a legitimate purpose is inadmissible.[34] That one received numerous express packages is inadmissible to show a system or a criminal intent.[35] Evidence that defendant would not let buyer drink the liquor on the premises is admissible to show an intent to sell the liquor for use as a beverage.[36] On a prosecution for violating the Sunday law, it is competent for the state to prove by defendant that he was in the habit of violating the Sunday law.[37] The state is not bound to confine its evidence to the liquor for which it claims a conviction.[38] Hearsay evidence is inadmissible.[39] The general rules as to res gestae apply.[40] Evidence tending to show the intoxicating[41] or nonintoxicating[42] quality of the liquor sold is admissible.

ondary evidence. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 592, 85 S. W. 613. Order granting license is original evidence against licensee. Id. A list of liquor licenses made by the clerk of the county court in the form of a memorandum to which the licensees were not parties is not original evidence against a particular licensee in an action against him for an illegal sale. Id. A question asked defendant on cross-examination whether he had an internal revenue license is not objectionable as calling for secondary evidence. Collins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 585.

29. Driver v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1056. Evidence of prior sale at a time when defendant was not connected with the business is inadmissible. Rutherford v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 636, 88 S. W. 810. Held error to admit evidence of an illegal sale by the accused more than two years prior to the date of the accusation and to charge the jury that they might "consider these transactions as circumstances in arriving at a proper verdict." Erwin v. State, 121 Ga. 580, 49 S. E. 689. Evidence of prior sales is inadmissible to show intoxicating qualities of liquor sold in the absence of proof that the liquor sold on the prior occasion was of the same kind as that sold on the occasion in question. Rutherford v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 636, 88 S. W. 810.

30. Where prosecutor asked defendant if there was anything around and defendant answered "Maybe so; look and see," and prosecutor went into a smokehouse and found some whisky, took some and left money to pay therefor, held, evidence of former similar transactions were admissible to show a system. Roach v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 586. The prosecution may, after having offered evidence of the distinct sales charged in the several counts of the indictment, give testimony tending to prove other sales made by the accused at other times within the period named in the indictment. State v. Barr [Vt.] 62 A. 43.

31. Evidence tending to show that defendant sold a malt extract for use as a beverage in March, 1905, tends to show that he was keeping it for sale as a beverage in June of that year. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38.

32. Held proper to exclude testimony of grocers and druggists that they had for a long time sold the preparation in question openly and visibly. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38.

33. Held proper to exclude evidence to show that the preparation in question was used by the medical profession and by people generally for the same purposes as certain known proprietary articles, and that a person could not become intoxicated by the use of such articles. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38.

34. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38; Blasingame v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 275.

35. In a prosecution for furnishing whisky to witness, which liquor defendant procured from a C. O. D. express package addressed to himself, evidence that defendant received, during the month prior to the transaction in question, nine packages of whisky by express, is inadmissible to show a system or defendant's intent. Parish v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 830.

36. Testimony that defendant told him he would have to go outside to drink the liquor held admissible. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38. Evidence tending to show that a purchaser asked defendant to open the bottle for him, but that defendant refused to do so, saying that the purchaser must take it away, held admissible. Id.

37. Morris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 8, 89 S. W. 832.

38. State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37.

39. On a prosecution for violating a local option law, it is improper to allow a witness to tell about an analysis of the liquor made by another. Uloth v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 521, 87 S. W. 822.

40. In a prosecution for furnishing whisky to witness, which liquor defendant procured from a C. O. D. express package addressed to himself, evidence that defendant received, during the month prior to the transaction in question, nine packages of whisky by express, is inadmissible as part of the res gestae. Parish v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 830.

41. It is proper to permit the amount of alcohol and the other ingredients of the extract found in defendant's place of business to be shown. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38. Testimony of a witness that he had taken three drinks of the liquor in question and that it had rendered him intoxicated is admissible on the question as to whether or not the liquor is intoxicating. People v. Seeley, 93 N. Y. S. 982. Also evidence that the witness was intoxicated is admissible. Id. Evidence that beer made boys drunk held admissible. State v. Hawkins [Minn.] 104 N. W. 898 [The court states that it does not want to be understood as holding that the court might not in the absence of evidence of the fact, take

Also the taste and effect of drinking liquor can be considered in determining what kind of liquor it is for the purpose of deciding, whether or not it is one of the kind enumerated in the statute.[43] Police officers after tasting liquor and professing knowledge of its stimulating attributes may testify that it is intoxicating.[44] Copies of the books or records in the office of the internal revenue collector are admissible.[45] In a prosecution for violation of a local option law, evidence of circumstances tending to connect the accused with the commission of the alleged crime, even though inconclusive, is admissible when it tends to throw light upon the real question,[46] consequently its admission rests largely within the judicial discretion of the trial judge,[47] and an appellate court will not disturb his ruling thereon unless clearly erroneous.[48] Circumstances of the search and seizure tending to characterize the place and business are admissible[49] without regard to the legality of the warrant.[50] The finding of other liquors in the same place bears upon the question whether the kind relied upon was kept for illegal sale.[51] The officers making the search may testify as to what they saw,[52] and that they made the search by virtue of a warrant for intoxicating liquor;[53] but the return to the search warrant is inadmissible against defendant.[54] Evidence tending to disprove the claims[55] or evidence[56] of the state is admissible. Evidence showing a mistake of law is inadmissible.[57]

Weight and sufficiency of evidence.[58]—Proof of a single sale is sufficient to establish the charge that the defendant kept a place where intoxicating liquors were sold.[59] In order to convict, circumstantial evidence must be such as to exclude every reasonable hypothesis except the guilt of accused.[60] In a prosecution for judicial notice that lager beer is intoxicating].

42. Where the liquor sold was "beer" or "Frosty" or "Ino" and there was evidence to show that defendant did not keep beer but kept "Frosty" and "Ino," testimony that such liquids did not taste like beer and were not beer held admissible. Porter v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 150, 86 S. W. 1014.

43. Edwards v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 319.

44. State v. Olson [Minn.] 103 N. W. 727.

45. Johnson v. State [Tex Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 834, and cases cited. See 4 C. L. 275, n. 91.

46, 47, 48. Goode v. State [Fla.] 39 So. 461.

49. State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37. Held permissible to show that at the time of the search two men, under the influence of liquor, were wrangling over a bottle, during which wrangling defendant came into the room, though it appeared that the bottle was seized and found to contain soda water. Id.

50. Articles found in building and evidence relating thereto held admissible. State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37.

51. State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37.

52. State v. Barr [Vt.] 62 A. 43; State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37.

53. So held where court charged fully and correctly with regard to reasonable doubt and the presumption of evidence. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38.

54. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38.

55. Where defendant claimed that bottles contained Jamaica ginger, evidence that Jamaica ginger was never put up in bottles of the shape of those seized, held admissible. State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37.

56. Where prosecutor testified that he was in defendant's place of business on two specified occasions and bought beer, defendant should be permitted to testify that on one of the dates mentioned by prosecutor the liquor he sold was not intoxicating and that on the other date prosecutor was not at defendant's place of business. Porter v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 150, 86 S. W. 1014. Where defendants claimed to have purchased, carried away and had analyzed some "Malt Rose," which was an article of commerce, held, defendant was entitled to introduce evidence of another chemist who had made an analysis of "Malt Rose" for the purpose of showing its contents. People v. Kastner, 101 App. Div. 265, 91 N. Y. S. 1004.

57. Evidence that defendant had no intention of violating the law or making a sale held inadmissible. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18.

58. See 4 C. L. 275.

59. Volk v. Westerville, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 241.

60. Where witness gave defendant 85c. to procure whisky for him and later found a bottle of whisky in his workshop, held, evidence insufficient to warrant a conviction. Nicholson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 477, 87 S. W. 343. Where evidence failed to show that defendant knew of the sale or to connect him with it, held insufficient to sustain a conviction. Pecaria v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 251, 90 S. W. 42. The mere fact that prosecutor gave defendant a dollar and afterwards got a bottle of whisky from a box, without connecting defendant with the box is insufficient to sustain a conviction of violating the local option law. Williams v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1144. Where one procured whisky for another, evidence held insufficient to sustain a conviction under an ordinance making it unlawful for any person to keep liquor for sale violation of a local option law, the crime may be proved by showing a systematic course of trade by the defendant, as well as by showing a single act.[61] An order granting a license failing to contain the license or to show that it has been actually issued and delivered is not evidence of the issuance of the license.[62]

Trial.[63]—Statutes conferring upon justices jurisdiction to accept pleas of guilty must be taken to contain by implication every provision necessary to make the jurisdiction effective.[64] An objection that there is no evidence that the offense was committed within the state cannot be raised by demurrer to the evidence,[65] nor by a request to charge that the burden is on the state;[66] but the matter is defensive, and defendant may take advantage of it under a plea of not guilty.[67] An objection that the offense was not committed in the county of indictment and trial must be raised by plea in abatement.[68] Absence of a witness may sometimes be made ground for a continuance.[69] Where an information contains several counts, charging the sale of liquors without a license, the state's evidence showing the several offenses charged, it should be required to elect on which count it will rely for a conviction.[70] Defendant may waive trial by jury.[71] One arraigned for the violation of a municipal ordinance is not entitled to a jury trial.[72] The general rules as to harmless error apply.[73] Questions of fact are for the jury; questions of law for the court.[74] The court or barter or to be given away to induce trade. Patterson v. Batesville [Miss.] 37 So. 560. Evidence that appellant received $1.00 from prosecuting witness and returned him a bottle of whisky held sufficient to sustain a conviction. Hoyt v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1082 (First case). Witness gave defendant 80 cents, and told him to bring him a quart of whisky. Defendant took the money and later defendant found a bottle of whisky in his shop. Defendant was working for witness and the 80 cents was allowed as a credit on work done by defendant. Prosecutor had at the time given other parties money and asked them to get him whisky; held insufficient to sustain a conviction. Bittix v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 87 S. W. 348. Evidence to show a sale held sufficient to sustain a conviction. Goode v. State [Fla.] 39 So. 461. Evidence held to require submission to jury of question whether transaction was a gift or sale. Barnes v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 623, 88 S. W. 805.

61. Goode v. State [Fla.] 39 So. 461.

62. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 592, 85 S. W. 613.

63. See 4 C. L. 276.

64. Ex parte Demarco [Vt.] 61 A. 36. Under License Act 1904, § 114, a justice before whom a plea of guilty of selling liquor contrary to the act is entered has implied authority to sentence the offender to imprisonment. Id.

65, 66, 67. State v. Burton, 138 N. C. 575, 50 S. E. 214.

68. Code, § 1194. State v. Burton, 138 N. C. 575, 50 S. E. 214.

69. Where absent witness would have testified that liquor bought was not intoxicating, held, continuance should have been granted. Porter v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 150, 86 S. W. 1014.

70. Though the court ruled that there could be a conviction of no more offenses than there were counts, and that each offense must be found on evidence particularly relating to it. State v. Barr [Vt.] 62 A. 43.

71. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 22. Prosecution for violating local option law. Otto v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 470, 87 S. W. 698.

72. Littlejohn v. Stells [Ga.] 51 S. E. 390; Little v. State [Ga.] 51 S. E. 501.

73. Testimony of an express agent in regard to an order admitted on the trial to have been given, held harmless. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 18. The exclusion of bills of lading showing that whisky had been shipped at various times to the prosecuting witness held harmless to defendant prosecuting witness admitting that he had received the whisky. Ray v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 83 S. W. 1121. Defendant admitting that he had a license admission of evidence on this point held harmless. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 584, 85 S. W. 615. The offense being shown by defendant's witnesses he is not prejudiced by the court's refusal to allow him to cross-examine a witness for the state who testifies to the fact of the offense alone for the purpose of showing that he was prejudiced against defendant. Id. Defendant being permitted to show what was said or done at the time of the alleged sale, held, any error in overruling question asking witness to state a conversation held at that time was harmless. Collins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 84 S. W. 585. Refusal to permit a witness to testify as to whether or not he had made a trade with the grand jury whereby he gave evidence against defendant on condition that he, witness, was not indicted, held harmless, it not being shown that his testimony against defendant was material. Hanna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 472, 87 S. W. 702. In a prosecution for Sunday liquor selling any error in requiring the accused, after he testified that he did not remember making the sale complained of, to state whether he sold liquor on that day, or was accustomed to selling on Sunday, was harmless, he having answered in the negawhether requested or not should give appropriate instructions on every substantial issue in the case presented by the evidence.[75] An instruction must not be misleading

tive. Borck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 580. Where sole question was whether defendant on a certain day sold to prosecutor intoxicating liquor and prosecutor testified that he purchased a drink of intoxicating liquor from defendant on that day, any error in the admission of evidence of sales to other persons on that day is rendered harmless by defendant's testimony that he sold to prosecutor and to other persons certain bitters which the evidence showed to be intoxicating. People v. Seeley, 93 N. Y. S. 982.

74. It is not erroneous to leave to the jury whether the sale of intoxicants had been prohibited in the territory where the liquor was sold. Adams v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1079. When the liquid by common knowledge and observation contains alcohol, the court may so declare; but if the question is doubtful, it is for the jury. State v. Parker [N. C.] 51 S. E. 1028. The question whether a police jury has authority to regulate the sale of intoxicants in a town is judicial. Evans v. Police Jury [La.] 38 So. 555.

75. Where issue was whether accused was agent of the seller or purchaser, held, the failure of the court to instruct on the latter theory was error requiring the grant of a new trial. Walker v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 994. There being conflicting evidence as to whether the liquor sold is intoxicating a requested instruction to define "intoxicating liquor" should be given. Uloth v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 521, 87 S. W. 822. It only being proved inferentially that the accused was the agent of the seller, held, the court should have instructed that if accused represented the purchaser he was not guilty. Golightly v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 26. Where defendant testifies that if the liquor was intoxicating he did not know it, but that, without any negligence, he made an honest mistake in that respect, a requested instruction covering such question should be given. Id. Where there was evidence that the liquor sold was not an intoxicant, held error to refuse an instruction that if it was a nonintoxicant, or if there was a doubt of its being an intoxicant, defendant should be acquitted. Rutherford v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 636, 88 S. W. 810. Held error to submit state's theory that defendant sold the liquor and refuse to submit defendant's theory that he acted as the purchaser's agent. Driver v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1056. Where the state did not claim that defendant was the agent of the purchaser and defendant claimed that the alleged purchaser stole the liquor from him, held not error to refuse a charge presenting the theory that defendant was the agent of the purchaser. Carter v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 835. Where liquor sold was a patent medicine which did not taste, smell or look like an intoxicant, held error to refuse an instruction that defendant was not guilty if the liquor sold was a medical preparation, and was not an intoxicating liquor when drunk in such quantities as could be practically drank. Pearce v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 727, 88 S. W. 234. Where more than a month elapsed from the time prosecutor's father requested him to buy him whisky and gave him money therefor and the time the prosecutor actually bought the liquor and prosecutor denied any agency, held not to present the issue that if the sale of the whisky was to the prosecutor as agent of his father defendant should be acquitted. Gee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1078. Where there was testimony showing that the liquor sold was not intoxicating, that the distiller so told the defendant and that defendant relied thereon, held, a charge submitting the question of mistake of fact should be given. Mayne v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 329. Where there was testimony showing that the liquor sold was not intoxicating, a charge to acquit if the jury had a reasonable doubt whether the article sold was intoxicating should have been given. Id. Where the court charged that defendant was guilty if he received money from prosecutor to get a C. O. D. shipment of liquor with the understanding that prosecutor was to have same, held error to refuse to charge at defendant's request that if defendant gave the money so received to W., and requested him to return it to prosecutor, then defendant was not guilty. White v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 9. Where a physician testified that the preparation found was largely used as a proprietary medicine and the court charged that there was no doubt that it was so used and might be so used lawfully, held, defendant's evidence in regard to the medicinal character of the preparation was sufficiently presented to the jury. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38. Evidence held insufficient to justify submission to jury of questions as to whether defendant had any pecuniary interest in the sale, and whether he was acting as agent for a certain drug company in making the same. Blasingame v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 275. Instruction that defendant may be found guilty if he acted as agent of seller held erroneous, the evidence being insufficient to raise the question of agency. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 284. An instruction submitting certain facts to the jury and stating that if they found them to be true defendant should be found guilty, such facts constituting a sale and having been in evidence, was proper. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 19. Where witness testified that defendant borrowed $1.95 and loaned witness some whisky and that defendant had repaid $.50 of the sum borrowed and witness intended to pay back the whisky, held to warrant an instruction that if the transaction was a mere subterfuge to evade the law defendant was guilty. Buckner v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 12, 89 S. W. 829. In a prosecution for selling "drinks containing alcohol," an instruction that while it would be insufficient to convict if the drinks sold contained a mere trace of alcohol, it was not required that they contain a sufficient quantity to intoxicate when freely used, but they must contain such an amount as a man of ordinary sense, reason and judgment would say that they "had alcohol in" them, held justified by the

ing[76] or uncertain;[77] it must conform to the allegations and proof,[78] and must not be on the weight of the evidence.[79] It must not leave questions of law to the jury.[80] Unless required by the terms of the statute or by the state of the evidence, on a prosecution for violating the Sunday law, it is not necessary to instruct as to the reason for keeping open,[81] or to define the words "traffic"[82] or "liquor dealer,"[83] In defining a word the court need not give every synonym.[84] The charge must be construed as a whole.[85] A bottle of liquor being offered in evidence and received as an exhibit, it may be allowed, under restrictions not to taste its contents, to go to the evidence. State v. Parker [N. C.] 51 S. E. 1028. On the trial of an indictment for selling vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors or any admixture thereof, without a license, it being admitted that the liquor sold contained slightly less than one per cent. of alcohol, a charge that if the jury believed that the beverage sold had any alcohol, or any admixture thereof, in it, and also believed that the defendant sold the beverage, they should return a verdict of guilty, held correct. Commonwealth v. Wenzel, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 467.

76. Where the controlling issue was whether the liquor was intoxicating, a charge that the courts will take judicial notice that fermented wine is intoxicating held misleading. Hall v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 59. Instruction held objectionable as authorizing a conviction regardless of where the sale was consummated. Blasingame v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 275.

77. Instruction held erroneous because assuming some agency and leaving it uncertain whether the agency was for the purchaser or seller. Blasingame v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 275.

78. Under an indictment alleging an illegal sale, a charge authorizing a conviction for soliciting or receiving orders for such a sale is erroneous. Potts v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 835. Where the liquor was shipped to appellant and another and appellant took the goods, held, an instruction referring to a shipment to appellant alone held not erroneous. Beall v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 334. Where a verbal complaint charged that defendant assisted in committing a common nuisance in a back room on the first floor of a two story building No. 708 Kansas avenue, and the particular room was described by witnesses for the city, held, the court was justified in referring to it in the instructions as "the place described in the evidence." City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681. Where more than a month elapsed from the time prosecutor's father requested him to buy him whisky and gave him money therefor, and the time the prosecutor actually bought the liquor and prosecutor denied any agency, held to warrant a charge that if the jury should find from the evidence that prosecutor got the bottle of whisky from the accused and paid him for it, it would be a sale to him, prosecutor, whether he was acting for himself or his father. Gee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1078.

79. An instruction that "in law a sale is the agreed transfer of property having some value to another for a valuable consideration. A sale may be shown by facts and circumstances as well as by direct proof," is not erroneous as being on the weight of the evidence. Adams v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 1079.

80. On a prosecution for a violation of the local option law, held immaterial whether the court instructed the jury that the local option law was in force in the county or assumed in the charge that it was in effect. Cantwell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 19. On a trial for violating a local option law, an instruction that the local option law was in effect in the county is correct, unless there is an issue raised by testimony questioning the regularity of the manner of putting the law into effect in the county. Kehoe v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 881, 89 S. W. 270. An instruction that the test of where the sale was consummated is whose loss it would have been if lost in transit held properly refused in the absence of some rule by which the jury could ascertain whose loss it would have been. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 85 S. W. 284.

81. Held not necessary to instruct that defendant must have kept his place open for the sale and exchange of goods, wares and merchandise, and to acquit if he kept it open for any other cause or reason. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 37.

82, 83. Smith v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 37.

84. A charge defining the word "administer" as to mean "to give, supply or dispense" is correct though it fails to contain the word "furnish." State v. Wilson [Kan.] 80 P. 565.

85. An instruction that, if the preparation kept by defendant was bought and used as a beverage because of the intoxicating ingredient contained in it, it was a beverage and an intoxicating one, held not erroneous, other instructions being given as to what liquors were intoxicating and that defendant was not liable unless he kept it to sell as a beverage. State v. Costa [Vt.] 62 A. 38. A charge that if defendant took orders as alleged in the indictment, he was guilty, held not rendered erroneous because the court did not in immediate connection therewith give a charge on agency, it appearing that the court did elsewhere in the charge state the law as to agency in the language of a written request preferred by defendant's counsel. Walker v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 319. A charge that if the beverage found is "capable of producing intoxication and may be used for that purpose then it is prohibited," held not erroneous in view of other instructions given, the evident meaning of the court being that a preparation of this kind might in some circumstances be classed with intoxicating liquors, and so come within the prohibition, although not ordinarily used as a beverage. State v. Krinski [Vt.] 62 A. 37.

jury upon its retirement.[86] The verdict must be responsive to the charge.[87] The sentence must be authorized by statute.[88] Imprisonment being erroneously added as part of the punishment, an appellate court may modify the judgment by striking out such part.[89] Imprisonment is not part of the penalty, where it is imposed only to enforce payment of a fine and costs under a police regulation.[90] In Kentucky there is no lien on the property where one makes illegal sales in his own house.[91] The general rules as to what constitutes a ground for a new trial apply.[92]

Appeal.[93]—Witnesses not being cross-examined to test the value of their testimony, it must be assumed on appeal that they recognized the beverage which they described.[94]

§ 7. Summary proceedings. Searches, seizures and forfeitures.[95]—In some states the warrant issues as a matter of right.[96] A seizure is tortious if made under a warrant issued by special statutory authority but not showing a complaint to call forth such authority.[97] The officer's authority is limited by the terms of the warrant,[98] and if the officer abuses or exceeds his authority or executes it in an unlawful manner to the injury of another, his bond is liable.[99] A single search warrant cannot be lawfully issued to search more than one place.[1] A demurrer to a complaint and warrant will reach defects in the warrant as well as those in the com-

86. State v. Olson [Minn.] 103 N. W. 727.

87. Where a verbal complaint charged that defendant assisted in committing a common nuisance in a back room on the first floor of a two-story building No. 708 Kansas avenue, a verdict finding defendant guilty of maintaining a nuisance at 708 Kansas avenue, "as claimed in the prosecution," held responsive to the charge. City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 79 P. 681.

88. Shannon's Code, § 6789 does not authorize imprisonment for giving liquor to a minor. Pressly v. State [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 378. A sentence under an ordinance passed under the authority of Acts 1903, p. 96, providing that the accused shall work upon a city chain gang is without authority. Littlejohn v. Stells [Ga.] 51 S. E. 390.

89. Pressly v. State [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 378.

90. Schlagel v. State, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 429. Error does not lie to a refusal by a mayor to grant a trial by jury to one charged for the first time under section 4364-20 with allowing a saloon to remain open on Sunday. Id.

91. Ky. St. 1903, § 2557 applies only to rented premises. Commonwealth v. Duncan [Ky.] 84 S. W. 526.

92. Failure to give appropriate instructions on all issues is ground for new trial. Walker v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 994. Testimony of defendant's wife that he was at home at the time it was claimed he was at his restaurant and sold the liquor, held cumulative and not newly discovered evidence entitling him to a new trial. Hanna v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 472, 87 S. W. 702. Where absent witness would have testified that liquor was not intoxicating and continuance was refused, held, new trial should have been granted. Porter v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 150, 86 S. W. 1014. Where it did not appear from the record that either B. or P. was the prosecuting witness, it is not error for the court to refuse to grant defendant a new trial on the ground that one of the jurors was of kin to one of them. State v. Barnett, 110 Mo. App. 584, 85 S. W. 615. A physician held not entitled to a new trial because of the subsequent discovery of his statutory affidavit filed with the county clerk, authorizing him to furnish liquor to his patients, where he made no attempt at the trial to prove that such affidavit, though lost, had been properly filed, and made no request for a continuance by reason of such loss. Blakeley v. State [Ark.] 83 S. W. 948.

93. See Indictment and Prosecution, 5 C. L. 1790.

94. Cullinan v. McGovern, 94 N. Y. S. 525.

95. See 4 C. L. 277. See Search and Seizure, 4 C. L. 1416.

96. Under Acts 1899, p. 11, a judge has no discretion, but must issue a search warrant on presentation of an affidavit stating that liquors are kept by certain persons contrary to law. State v. Fulkerson [Ark.] 83 S. W. 934. The act applies to sales made openly under claim of license in a prohibited district. Id.

97. Where a justice issued a warrant, under Acts 1902, p. 106, No. 90, § 61, showing that complaint was made by one on his oath of office, but not showing the office, the process was no protection to the officer executing it. Casselini v. Booth [Vt.] 59 A. 833.

98. Under a warrant directing an officer to enter and search the premises and remove any of the described liquor found therein with the casks and other vessels in which it was contained, and all implements of sale and furniture used in the illegal keeping or sale of such liquor and carry them to a place of safety and keep them until final action was had thereon, held, the officer had no authority in plaintiff's absence, to remove from his dwelling an iron safe, which was locked, and, on plaintiff's subsequent refusal to open the same, break it open, there being no evidence that it was used for the storage of liquors. Blackmar v. Nickerson [Mass.] 74 N. E. 932.

99. State constable. Civ. Code 1902, vol. 1, §§ 595, 661, construed. Wieters v. May [S.

plaint.[2] In Kansas intoxicating liquor is property and before it can be destroyed the claimant thereto is entitled to a trial by jury of the question whether it has been used in violation of law.[3]

§ 8. Abatement of traffic as a nuisance; injunction.[4]—The jurisdiction of particular courts is statutory.[5] A place being improperly conducted, it may constitute a nuisance.[6] Unlawful sales being made, the fact that the seller has a permit does not exempt the place from being a common nuisance.[7] In construing statutes on this subject the word "place" may mean one or more rooms in a building, an entire building or more than one building within the same place used together for the convenient conduct of the prohibited purpose.[8] There being no statutes making a place where intoxicating liquors are sold a nuisance per se, the erection of screens and other devices to make an illegal sale of liquor more safe does not constitute a nuisance as a matter of law.[9] One who has been engaged in unlawful traffic in intoxicating liquors cannot avoid an injunction by bringing the conduct of his business into conformity with law before the hearing for the writ.[10] In a suit to enjoin the maintenance of a nuisance, it is not necessary to have the existence of the nuisance established by any former adjudication or verdict,[11] nor is defendant entitled to a jury trial as a matter of right.[12] The burden is on the dealer to show performance of all conditions precedent to the opening of the saloon and that the physical aspects of his place of business conform to the requirements of the law;[13] but it is for the complaining party to affirmatively show any violation of the law involving matters of conduct, such as illegal sales, etc.[14] A case being made for an injunction, it is error to refuse the writ,[15] and, in Iowa, for the correction of an error thus committed, an appeal will lie to the supreme court,[16] though it does not appear that the record entry has been signed by the judge.[17] The existence of a criminal action against defendant in the same court, at the same time and on the same facts, is not ground for postponing the civil action.[18]

§ 9. Civil liabilities for injuries resulting from sale. Civil damage laws.[19]—Civil damage acts create a cause of action which was unknown at the common law.[20]

C.] 50 S. E. 547; Harrington v. Gideon [S. C.] 50 S. E. 549.

1. If it violates this rule it is invalid. State v. Duane [Me.] 62 A. 80. When a warrant in describing the place to be searched, describes three places, each occupied by a different person though all three places are adjoining, the court cannot read into the warrant words not therein written to show the other two places were named simply as boundaries of the place occupied by the respondent. Id.

2. State v. Duane [Me.] 62 A. 80.

3. Stahl v. Lee [Kan.] 80 P. 983. Gen. St. 1901, § 2496, preserves to the claimant the right of appeal from a judgment of the police court. Id. It follows from this that Gen. St. 1901, § 2499 is not unconstitutional. Id.

4. See 4 C. L. 277.

5. Under Const. art. 6, § 5, a suit under St. 1899, p. 103, c. 88, authorizing the district attorney to bring a civil action in the name of the people to abate a public nuisance, is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the superior court. People v. Wing [Cal.] 81 P. 1103.

6. The sales causing public intoxication and consequent annoyance to the public, the place constitutes a public nuisance. State v. Tabler, 34 Ind. App. 393, 72 N. E. 1039. A complaint alleging specific facts tending to show that the tippling house and gambling room complained of is a public nuisance, and that it is so conducted as to be injurious to the health, indecent and offensive to the senses and to interfere with the free use of property and the comfortable enjoyment of life and property in the town, held to sufficiently allege a public nuisance. People v. Wing [Cal.] 81 P. 1103.

7. State v. Erickson [N. D.] 103 N. W. 389.

8. State v. Brown [N. D.] 104 N. W. 1112.

9. State v. Tabler, 34 Ind. App. 393, 72 N. E. 1039.

10. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776.

11, 12. Cowdery v. State [Kan.] 80 P. 953.

13, 14. Jones v. Byington [Iowa] 104 N. W. 473.

15. Code, § 2405 considered. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776.

16. Code, § 4101. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776.

17. Code, § 242 construed and held directory only. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776.

18. Cowdery v. State [Kan.] 80 P. 953.

19. See 4 C. L. 278.

20. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 213.

There is a conflict as to whether they should be liberally or strictly construed.[21] By these statutes liquor dealers are generally rendered jointly and severally liable[22] for all the natural or proximate consequences of intoxication[23] to which they in any degree contributed.[24] Such liability extends to sureties on their bonds,[25] and in some states to their landlords,[26] and all such persons and their sureties may be joined as defendants in a single action to recover damages.[27] The question of proximate cause is for the jury under appropriate instructions of law.[28] One is not bound to anticipate what is merely possible, nor on the other hand, is he liable for such consequences only as usually follow.[29] It is sufficient if the result ought to have been apprehended according to the usual experience of mankind.[30] It is not the lawful, but the wrongful or negligent, act of a third party intervening, which breaks the chain of causation and relieves the original wrongdoer of the consequences of his wrongful act.[31] A recovery cannot be sustained where it appears that death resulted from deceased's own willful and unlawful conduct.[32] In some states while the intoxicating liquor must have contributed as a proximate cause to the intoxication, and the act of the intoxicated person must have been the cause of the injury, it is not necessary that the intoxication should have been the proximate cause of injury or of the act which caused it.[33] In Illinois a saloon-keeper is not liable for the care of one in-

Rev. St. 1903, c. 29, § 58 construed. Currier v. McKee, 99 Me. 364, 59 A. 442.

21. Should be liberally construed so as to effect the beneficent purpose for which they are enacted. Currier v. McKee, 99 Me. 364, 59 A. 442. Are penal in character and should receive a strict construction. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212.

22. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 103 N. W. 460, afg. on rehearing 98 N. W. 1046. In Illinois each person who assists in rendering one an habitual drunkard is liable for the acts of all persons who contributed, by the furnishing of intoxicating liquors, to the creation of such condition. Earp v. Lilly [Ill.] 75 N. E. 552. An instruction that the suit against each of the defendants is a separate suit and that the jury could find the defendants all guilty or all not guilty, or find some of them guilty and some not guilty, as the evidence may show, held not misleading. Id.

23. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212; Sauter v. Anderson, 112 Ill. App. 580. Section 8 of the dramshop act does not render a saloon-keeper liable for the care of one who, while intoxicated, is injured, not in consequence of the intoxication, but by the willful criminal act of a third person. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212.

24. Jessen v. Wilhite [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1064. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 43, § 9, any person who shall, by selling or giving intoxicating liquors, have caused the intoxication in whole or in part is liable. Instruction approved. Triggs v. McIntyre, 215 Ill. 369, 74 N. E. 400, afg. 115 Ill. App. 257. It is no defense for defendants to show that the intoxication was principally caused by the sale to the deceased of liquor by one not a defendant to the action. Kelley v. Malhoit, 115 Ill. App. 23.

25. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 103 N. W. 460, afg. on rehearing 98 N. W. 1046. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7288 gives a remedy against the saloon keeper personally or against the sureties on his bond at the election of the person injured. State v. Soale [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1111.

26. Triggs v. McIntyre, 215 Ill. 369, 74 N. E. 400, afg. 115 Ill. App. 257.

27. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 103 N. W. 460, afg. on rehearing 98 N. W. 1046.

28. Botwinnis v. Allgood, 113 Ill. App. 188; Currier v. McKee, 99 Me. 364, 59 A. 442. Whether seller is bound to apprehend that intoxication is liable to cause unjustifiable assaults and consequent injury to the assailant is a question of fact for the jury. Id. Whether an attack of gangrene was the result of alcoholism and exposure induced by it, or whether it was a separate and intervening cause of death, held for the jury. Temme v. Schmidt [Pa.] 60 A. 158. Question whether proximate cause of deceased's death was intoxication or an assault by third persons held for the jury. Triggs v. McIntyre, 215 Ill. 369, 74 N. E. 400, afg. 115 Ill. App. 257. Whether sale of liquor caused purchaser to commit the murder held for the jury. Stecher v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 501.

29. Currier v. McKee, 99 Me. 364, 59 A. 442. He is not legally liable for consequences which could not have been foreseen or reasonably expected to occur as a direct or natural result of the use as a beverage of the intoxicating liquors sold. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212.

30. Currier v. McKee, 99 Me. 364, 59 A. 42.

31. Currier v. McKee, 99 Me. 364, 59 A. 442. Where intoxicated person committed an unjustifiable assault and was injured, held, if his intoxication caused the assault and he was injured by the person assailed while the latter was defending himself, the seller of the liquor was liable. Id. It is not a natural and probable result of intoxication that the person intoxicated should come to his death or receive great bodily harm by the willful criminal act of a third party. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212.

jured by an intoxicated person to whom such saloon-keeper has sold liquor.[34] In Nebraska one is liable for all damages growing out of the disqualification resulting from or contributed to by the sale, without reference to the time through which such disqualification may continue.[35]

A child born after its father's death may sue for loss of support due to its father's death.[36] In Illinois the rights of action of the widow and children are separate and distinct,[37] and a judgment in an action by the former will not bar an action by the latter.[38] The fact that a father's course of conduct tended to encourage his minor son in dissipated habits does not bar him from recovering damages for a sale to his son,[39] though it is competent evidence as tending to show that he was not aggrieved by such sale.[40] Under the statutes of many states one injured by an intoxicated person may maintain an action against the seller of the liquor in his own name.[41] The fact that plaintiff had written one of defendants that she did not object to an occasional sale to her husband does not bar an action for damages but can be considered only in mitigation of damages.[42]

A petition against a surety must allege the granting and issuance of the license.[43] Plaintiff need not prove his case to the satisfaction of the jury.[44] The question of intoxication is ordinarily one of fact for the jury.[45] The proper foundation as to age and general health being first proven, the Carlisle tables of mortality or life expectancy are admissible for the consideration of the jury in determining the probable duration of the life of deceased.[46] The general rules as to the cross-examination of a witness apply.[47] The erroneous admission of evidence may be

32. So held where intoxicated person killed another in self-defense. Sauter v. Anderson, 112 Ill. App. 580.

33. So held under Rev. St. 1903, c. 29, § 58. Currier v. McKee, 99 Me. 364, 59 A. 442.

34. Section 8 of the dramshop act construed. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212.

35. Jessen v. Wilhite [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1064.

36. State v. Soale [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1111.

NOTE. Right of child born after death of father to recover for loss of support: Personal rights of an infant do not occur until birth. Up to that time the personal rights of the infant are not distinguishable from those of the mother. Allair v. St. Luke's Hospital, 184 Ill. 359, 56 N. E. 638, 75 Am. St. Rep. 176, 48 L. R. A. 225; Dietrich v. Northampton, 138 Mass. 14, 52 Am. Rep. 422; Patrick Gorman v. Budlong, 23 R. I. 169, 49 A. 704, 91 Am. St. Rep. 629, 55 L. R. A. 118. Under the common law, property rights of the infant relate to the time of conception. "Lord Hardwicke, in discussing the same question, held, that a child in the mother's womb is a person in rerum natura, and that by the rules of the civil common law 'she [the child] was to all intents and purposes a child as if born in her father's lifetime.' Speaking of the civil law, which limits the operation of this rule to cases where it is considered for the benefit of the child to be considered born, he says it is to be considered as living for all purposes." Nelson v. Galveston R. Co., 78 Tex. 625, 14 S. W. 1021, 22 Am. St. Rep. 81, 11 L. R. A. 391; Harper v. Archer, 4 Smedes & M. [Miss.] 99, 43 Am. Dec. 472, and cases cited in the footnotes; Commonwealth v. Parker, 9 Metc. [Mass.] 263, 43 Am. Dec. 396; In re Winne, 1 Lans. [N. Y.] 508; Marsellis v. Thalhimer, 2 Paige [N. Y.] 35, 21 Am. Dec. 66; 1 Blk. Comm. § 130. An infant may recover for the loss of support caused by the wrongful killing of its father by another, although the infant was en ventre sa mere at the time the wrongful killing occurred. Nelson v. Galveston R. Co., supra. Such child is entitled to share equally with other children of the deceased in the benefit of such action. George v. Richard, L. R. 3 Adm. & Eccl. 466; Blake v. Midland R. Co., L. R. 18 Q. B. 93, 21; Quinlen v. Welch, 66 Hun, 684, 23 N. Y. S. 963. By the weight of authority no distinction should be made between the rights of a posthumous child and one born during the lifetime of the parent. This is the doctrine of the celebrated case of Theluson v. Woodford, 2 Ves. Jr. 319.—From State v. Soale [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 1111.

37, 38. Stecher v. People [Ill.] 75 N. E. 501.

39, 40. Wakeham v. Price [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1093.

41. So held under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 2945 as regards a married man. Judson v. Parry [Wash.] 80 P. 194.

42. Action under Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 43, par. 9. Earp v. Lilly [Ill.] 75 N. E. 552.

43. Quist v. American Bonding & Trust Co. [Neb.] 105 N. W. 255.

44. Kelley v. Malhoit, 115 Ill. App. 23.

45. Botwinis v. Allgood, 113 Ill. App. 188.

46. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 103 N. W. 460, afg. on rehearing 98 N. W. 1046.

47. Cross-examination of plaintiff as to her husband's earnings and business does not entitle plaintiff to show that she has children who contribute to the earnings of cured by an instruction to disregard.[48] There must be proof of injury to person, property or means of support,[49] hence any evidence tending to prove pecuniary loss is admissible.[50] The habits of the deceased as to the drinking of liquor and the effect of such liquor upon him are proper subjects of inquiry.[51] Evidence of the property and financial condition of plaintiff's husband is admissible as showing plaintiff's means of support.[52] In an action by a wife, testimony that plaintiff has children is inadmissible,[53] and it is incompetent to show an aggravation of injuries to plaintiff's feelings by showing the presence of her children when she was informed of her husband's debauch.[54] In an action by a wife to recover, on behalf of herself and children, for loss of support, defendant cannot show in mitigation of the damages that the wife has commenced divorce proceedings.[55] Whether loss of support is permanent or not is a question of fact for the jury.[56] A sale willfully and wantonly made authorizes exemplary damages, although the seller could not anticipate the particular injury suffered by reason of the sale complained of.[57] A sale to an intoxicated person[58] or to an habitual drunkard[59] is deemed to have been willfully and wantonly made, and evidence tending to show that the seller had knowledge of the buyer's condition is admissible.[60] Proof of a right to exemplary damages as against one defendant does not authorize the allowance of such damages against another.[61] The discretion of the jury as to the amount of damages should be properly limited by instructions.[62] The general rules as to instructions apply.[63] Where the family. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292.

48. Error in the admission of testimony as to the amount spent by plaintiff's husband in defendant's saloon is cured by subsequently charging the jury that no recovery can be had for such money. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292.

49. Plaintiff's testimony showing that her husband provided for her as well after the debauch as formerly and that the only real difference that the loss of the money spent on the debauch made was that plaintiff would have that much less money if her husband should die before her, held, plaintiff was not entitled to recover for any injury to her person, property or means of support. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292.

50. Evidence tending to prove that the minor sons of the deceased were required to devote all their time to the support of themselves and the family of which they were a part, held admissible as tending to prove pecuniary loss. Horst v. Lewis [Neb.] 103 N. W. 460, afg. on rehearing 98 N. W. 1046. Evidence as to the payment of the debts of the deceased from the proceeds of the products raised on the farm held not erroneously admitted. Id.

51. Bear upon question of actual loss and damage sustained. Kelley v. Malhoit, 115 Ill. App. 23.

52. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292.

53. Though the admission of the testimony is made indirectly. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292.

54. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292.

55, 56. Jessen v. Wilhite [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1064.

57. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292; Earp v. Lilly [Ill.] 75 N. E. 552.

58. Manzer v. Phillips [Mich.] 102 N. W. 292.

59. Earp v. Lilly [Ill.] 75 N. E. 552.

60. Evidence that plaintiff's husband was drunk frequently and drank liquor in defendants' saloon while intoxicated and was often drunk on the streets of the village, held admissible as tending to show knowledge on the part of defendants that he was an habitual drunkard. Earp v. Lilly [Ill.] 75 N. E. 552.

61. Instruction held erroneous. Corkings v. Meier, 112 Ill. App. 655.

62. Where the jury were required to determine the amount of damages which plaintiffs had sustained from the evidence, and they were instructed as to the proper elements of damage, they were not allowed discretion to impose whatever damages they might choose, and defendant was not harmed by an instruction referring to the amount claimed in the declaration. Triggs v. McIntyre, 215 Ill. 369, 74 N. E. 400, afg. 115 Ill. App. 257.

63. An instruction permitting the jury to award exemplary damages is improper where it does not furnish the jury with any rule or guide for so doing. Pisa v. Holy, 114 Ill. App. 6. An instruction permitting the jury to consider plaintiff's poverty and the fact that she notified the defendant not to sell her husband liquor, in determining the question as to whether such liquor was sold or given and did cause the intoxication complained of is erroneous. Corkings v. Meier, 112 Ill. App. 655. In an action for loss of support due to rendering plaintiff's husband an habitual drunkard, an instruction that the suit against each of the defendants is a separate suit and that the jury can find the defendants all guilty or all not guilty, or find some of them guilty and some not guilty, as the evidence may show, held not misleading. Earp v. Lilly [Ill.] 75 N. E. 552.

an action is brought against a saloon-keeper and his landlord jointly, it is not error, in the absence of a request so to do, to omit to submit a form for a special verdict in case the jury should find one of the defendants not guilty.[64]

§ 10. Property rights in and contracts relating to intoxicants.[65]—Where liquor is sold with the intent to enable the buyer to violate the prohibitory liquor law, of which the seller has knowledge, the seller cannot recover on a note given for the purchase price, even though the sale is made without the state.[66] Impurity, vitiation or adulteration of liquors which will constitute a defense in an action for the price of the same must be such as impair their quality or value.[67] Though a lessee covenants that he will not use the premises except for the saloon business, the lease is not rendered illegal nor absolved by the adoption of local option in the county.[68] The inclusion of the seller's license in a sale, for a single and indivisible consideration of a saloon, fixtures and good will, renders the whole contract and the note given therefor void.[69]

§ 11. Drunkenness as an offense.[70]—The drunkenness must have occurred in a public place and the indictment or information must so show.[71] By some statutes the offense is limited to intoxicated persons on the public streets.[72]

INTOXICATION; INVENTIONS; INVESTMENTS; IRRIGATION; ISLANDS; ISSUE; ISSUES TO JURY; JEOFAIL; JEOPARDY; JETTISON; JOINDER OF CAUSES, see latest topical index.

JOINT ADVENTURES.[73]

A joint adventure exists where two or more combine their energies or capital in a single enterprise,[74] or where one contributes capital to a business to be repaid from the profits,[75] though as to third persons such facts are often held to constitute a partnership.[76] Absolute certainty as to the nature and extent of the business to be carried on is not fatal.[77] A fiduciary relation exists between the parties involving a duty of full disclosure[78] and entire good faith.[79] Accounting between

64. Triggs v. McIntyre, 215 Ill. 369, 74 N. E. 400, afg. 115 Ill. App. 257.

65. See 4 C. L. 280.

66. M. Levy & Son v. Stegemann [Iowa] 104 N. W. 372.

67. Affidavit of defense failing to so aver held insufficient. Spellman v. Kelly, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 39. Affidavit of defense averring that liquors were impure, that defendant was a licensed dealer, that he distributed the liquors to his customers when it was discovered that the liquors were impure, and in consequence defendant lost customers and suffered damages, held sufficient. Rheinstrom v. Wolf, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 559.

68. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Keenan [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 251, 88 S. W. 197.

69. Sawyer v. Sanderson [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 151.

70. See 2 C. L. 575.

71. An information for drunkenness, "In a certain public place, to wit, in the town of H., and near the H. public road, at a building known as the 'Old Graves Mill,'" is insufficient in that it does not show that the drunkenness occurred at a public place. Murrey v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 475, 87 S. W. 349. An information for drunkenness, "In a certain public place, to wit, in the town of H., and near the H. public road, at a building known as the 'Old Graves Mill,'" does not authorize a conviction for drunkenness at a place near the H. public road, nor on a public street in the town of H. Id.

72. A person intoxicated when walking on a public street to land adjacent thereto, where he is arrested before complaint is made, is properly convicted of a violation of Comp. Laws 1897, § 11,736, punishing intoxicated persons when on the public streets, etc. People v. Camp [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 665, 105 N. W. 155.

73. See, also, Clark & M. Corp. § 19; Shumaker, Partn. § 54.

74. Employment of two brokers to procure purchaser held to make them parties to joint adventure. Stotts v. Miller [Iowa] 105 N. W. 127.

75. Agreement to advance money to carry on business and receive share of profits constitutes a joint adventure. Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753. A contract by which money is advanced to carry on a business, the lender to receive a share of the profits, is a joint adventure. Kirkwood v. Smith, 95 N. Y. S. 926. Leasing on shares. Price v. Grice [Idaho] 79 P. 387.

76. See Partnership, 4 C. L. 908.

77. Agreement held not uncertain. Alderton v. Williams [Mich.] 102 N. W. 753.

78. Calkins v. Worth, 215 Ill. 78, 74 N. E. 81; Hinton v. Ring, 111 Ill. App. 369.

parties to a joint adventure are governed by the rules applicable to partnership.[80]

JOINT EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES; JOINT LIABILITIES OR AGREEMENTS, see latest topical index.

JOINT STOCK COMPANIES.

A joint stock company is a partnership and not a corporation.[81] Every person interested whether as shareholder or creditor is a proper party to a bill to wind up the affairs of a joint stock company.[82] Shareholders may be permitted to surrender their shares towards the payment of debts, liability in addition being reserved if a balance be found due.[83] Shareholders may be permitted to purchase the lands of the association on winding up sale,[84] subject to such conditions as the court may fix.

JOINT TENANCY, see latest topical index.

JUDGES.

This topic excludes the organization[85] and jurisdiction[86] of courts and matters common to the election, salary and tenure of officers generally.[87] It treats only of judges as such and as distinguished from the courts over which they preside.

§ 1. The office; appointment or election; qualifications and tenure.[88]—Whether an appointment can be made for an ensuing term before a vacancy exists depends on the statutes.[89] A term of office has been held to begin on the day when the vacancy making possible the appointment arose[90] and ends on midnight of the day "until" which the judge was appointed.[91] In the absence of statute or constitutional limitation, the term is governed by the appointment thereto.[92] Constitutional requirements as to the term must not be infringed, but such requirements are ordinarily held not to apply to the filling of vacancies,[93] and even if they do apply so as to forbid appointments for unexpired terms, such an appointment cannot operate as an appointment for the constitutional term.[94] A judge has

79. Paddock v. Bray [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 383, 88 S. W. 419.
80. Kirkwood v. Smith, 95 N. Y. S. 926.
81. People v. Rose [Ill.] 76 N. E. 42.
82, 83, 84. Randolph v. Nichol [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1037.
85. See Courts, 5 C. L. 870.
86. See Jurisdiction, 6 C. L. 267.
87. See Elections, 5 C. L. 1065; Officers and Public Employes, 4 C. L. 854.
88. See 4 C. L. 280.
89. A judge of the Court of Special Sessions in New York cannot be appointed until there is a vacancy. People v. Fitzgerald, 180 N. Y. 269, 73 N. E. 55.
90. A "term" begins to run from the time a vacancy exists, not from the date of appointment, where the act creating the vacancy fixes the date when the first incumbency shall end. So held as to the preliminary terms of justices of the court of appeals. Harrison v. Colgan [Cal.] 82 P. 674.
91. The term of a judge appointed to hold "until" a certain day expires on midnight of that day. People v. Fitzgerald, 180 N. Y. 269, 73 N. E. 55.
92. State v. Dow [Conn.] 60 A. 1063. A judge elected to fill a vacancy caused by death or resignation holds for the unexpired term only. Nicks v. Curl [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 368.
93. The period between the creation of a new circuit and the next general election is a "vacancy" which may be filled by ad interim appointment, and such appointment does not infringe the constitutional provision that circuit judges shall hold office for six years. State v. Burkhead, 187 Mo. 14, 85 S. W. 901.
94. Without determining whether the General Assembly has power to appoint a city judge to fill an unexpired term, in view of the 20th Amendment to the Constitution, providing that such judges shall be appointed for terms of two years, an appointment

no power after the expiration of his term,[95] and all acts which he is required or permitted to do to the exclusion of co-ordinate judges, his successor may do,[96] and where the successor has power to act, he may be substituted in pending mandamus to compel action.[97] If a judge be his own successor his powers continue without interruption.[98]

The acts of a defacto judge are not void if within the jurisdiction of the court over which he presides,[99] but where the invalidity of his appointment arises from the unconstitutionality of the statute authorizing it, acts in the exercise of powers conferred only by such statute are void.[1]

Salaries[2] of judges are fixed by statute or by local fiscal authorities pursuant to statute[3] and their right to allowance for expenses depends likewise on the terms of the statute.[4] Constitutional provisions usually forbid increase or decrease of judicial salaries so as to affect judges in office at the enactment thereof,[5] and if by reason of such a provision the increase is inapplicable to the judges of one court, it is inapplicable to other judges whose salaries are by law conformed to theirs.[6] A constitutional prohibition against increasing salaries of "public officers" during their terms, has been held inapplicable to judges.[7] The Federal statutes provide that on reaching the age of seventy judges may retire on full pay.[8]

§ 2. Special, substitute and assistant judges.[9]—Statutes usually provide for the election or appointment of a special judge on the absence or disqualification of the regular judge,[10] for resort to the judge of another district,[11] or for the expressly to fill an unexpired term cannot be held good as an appointment and void as to its limitation of the term. Either the appointment was wholly invalid or it expired according to its terms. State v. Dow [Conn.] 60 A. 1063.

95. Gordon v. Trainor, 92 N. Y. S. 321.

96. Opening judgment in term. Gordon v. Trainor, 92 N. Y. S. 321.

97. Territory of New Mexico v. Baker, 196 U. S. 432, 49 Law. Ed. 540.

98. Argument in first term and reargument in second. Jewett v. Schmidt, 95 N. Y. S. 631; afg. 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737.

99. Sellers v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 356; State v. Judge of Eighth Judicial Circuit [Ala.] 38 So. 835; Walker v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 242.

1. So held as to equity powers conferred only by an invalid statute creating a new circuit. Alabama Nat. Bank v. Williams [Ala.] 38 So. 240.

2. See 4 C. L. 281.

3. Code Civ. Proc. § 1151, relating to the fixing of the compensation of the judges in Kings County, contemplates that such compensation be fixed in advance. People v. McClellan, 102 App. Div. 21, 92 N. Y. S. 105. A judge who, knowing that no provision had been made, served his entire term without claim for compensation is not entitled to compel the board to fix his compensation therefor. Id.

4. The word "stationery" in a statute fixing the expenses for which a judge is to be allowed does not include postage on official letters. Crook v. Calhoun County Com'rs Court [Ala.] 39 So. 383.

5. The California statute increasing the salary of justices of the court of appeals (St. 1905, c. 249) does not apply to justices in office at the time of its passage. Harrison v. Colgan [Cal.] 81 P. 1010; Id., 82 P. 674. An increase by a statute passed before a judge's term of office begins but not taking effect till after is within the prohibition against increase of salary during a term. Harrison v. Colgan [Cal.] 82 P. 674. A statute providing that no fees should be allowed examining magistrates until after indictment deprives them of fees where the grand jury refuses to indict, and accordingly such statute cannot apply to a judge in office at the time of its passage. Thomas v. Hager, 27 Ky. L. R. 813, 86 S. W. 969.

6. The salaries of the judges of the Court of Appeals being conformed by law to those of the Supreme Court judges, a statute attempting to increase the salaries of the latter judges and void because of a constitutional provision relating to them alone does not increase the salaries of the judges of the Court of Appeals. Harrison v. Colgan [Cal.] 82 P. 674.

7. Under a constitutional provision that judges should receive adequate salaries to be fixed by law, an increase may be made applicable to judges in office, as judges are not "public officers" within a constitutional provision forbidding increase during the terms of public officers (Commonwealth v. Mathues, 210 Pa. 372, 59 A. 961), and if such prohibition applied to judges it would be nullified by the provision as to fixing adequate salaries (Id.). P. L. 175 held to apply to judges in office when it was enacted. Id.

8. The supreme court of the District of Columbia is a "Court of the United States" within such a provision. James' case, 38 Ct. Cl. 615.

9. See 4 C. L. 282.

10. The "absence" of a judge which will permit appointment of an assistant judge is absence from the district and no less absence will permit appointment. Opie v.

calling in of the judge of another court.[12] Where a special judge is appointed on the absence or disqualification of the regular judge, he has the same powers as the regular judge would have had.[13] His powers do not end with the term of court, but he can make such orders in vacation as are proper to be so made and necessary to finally dispose of the case for which he was called,[14] and where his order is reversed, it is his duty to proceed on the mandate without further designation or request,[15] and such duty devolves on his successor.[16] A special judge elected by the bar on failure of the county judge to appear at term need not give bond.[17] A judge of another circuit acting on the disqualification of the local judge need not go into the circuit where the case arose.[18] Authority of a judge of the superior court to "preside" on disqualification of the judge of the city court does not authorize him to attest an affidavit as the basis of a criminal charge.[19] That court was held by an assistant judge when no occasion for his appointment existed is ground of exception to the judgment.[20]

§ 3. Powers, duties and liabilities.[21]—Judicial acts must be performed in person and cannot be delegated,[22] and must be performed with the formalities ordinarily attendant on judicial acts.[23]

Powers during vacation or at chambers.[24]—Powers out of term depend on the statutes.[25] They ordinarily extend to all interlocutory and provisional orders[26] but not to judgments or rulings on the merits.[26a] A judge of another circuit to whom a matter is presented on disqualification of the local judge may hear it in chambers if the nature of the case admits of such hearing, provided court is not in session at the time in the circuit where the case arose.[27] Where no pleadings have been filed, the judge has no power in chambers to order service of process by

Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. That the constitution provides for the election of a special judge on disqualification of the county judge and on the failure of the district judge to appear does not invalidate a statute providing for election of a special judge if the county judge fails to appear. Porter v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 767. Under a provision for election of a special judge if the county judge does not appear at "the time appointed" to hold court, such an election may be had on the first day of the term without waiting the entire day for the appearance of the regular judge. Id. Such a course is optional as the election would be valid if held on the second day. Scott v. State, 43 Tex. Cr. R. 591, 68 S. W. 178.

11. Glover v. Morris [Ga.] 50 S. E. 956. A judge of one circuit may on request hold court in any other circuit. Salomon v. Chicago Title & Trust Co., 115 Ill. App. 194.

12. It is competent for the legislature to provide that a judge of one court may decide certain questions on the request of another court, though the latter court is given by the Constitution exclusive jurisdiction of such subject. Morgan v. Reel [Pa.] 62 A. 253.

13, 14. Dupoyster v. Clarke [Ky.] 90 S. W. 1.

15, 16. Glover v. Morris [Ga.] 50 S. E. 956.

17. Porter v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 767.

18. Glover v. Morris [Ga.] 50 S. E. 956.

19. Edmondson v. State [Ga.] 51 S. E. 301.

20. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635.

21. See 4 C. L. 283.

22. Settling bill of exceptions. Gray v. Frontroy [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1090.

23. An order made orally and out of court is not a valid exercise of powers in chambers. In re Kimble [Iowa] 103 N. W. 1009.

24. See 4 C. L. 283.

25. A statute authorizing the issuance in vacation of an order to show cause why prohibition should not issue is valid. Code 1899, c. 110, § 1. Campbell v. Doolittle [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 260. Pleadings cannot be received or any other step taken in a cause in vacation except on statutory authority. Keller v. Keller [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 318. Act April 30, 1900, § 81, continuing in force the previous laws of Hawaii as to "the Civil Courts and their jurisdiction and procedure," continued an act giving certain powers to a judge in chambers. Carter v. Gear, 197 U. S. 348, 49 Law. Ed. 787.

26. An order for temporary alimony may be made in vacation if notice and opportunity to defend be given. Keller v. Keller [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 318. A restraining order in aid of a pending suit may issue in vacation. Reese v. Cannon [Ark.] 84 S. W. 793.

26a. A judge at chambers has no power to pass judgment for contempt not committed in the presence of the court. State v. Scarborough, 70 S. C. 288, 49 S. E. 860. Where his powers are limited to orders which are interlocutory or preparatory for trial (Mills' Ann. Code. § 408), he has no power to deny on the merits a petition for mandamus (People v. Hebel, 19 Colo. App. 523, 76 P. 550), or to render any other judgment (Id.).

27. Glover v. Morris [Ga.] 50 S. E. 956.

publication.[28] In Georgia a statute provides that at a hearing had on prescribed notice the court shall have the same powers in vacation as at term.[29]

Immunities and exemptions.[30]—The judge of a court of superior[31] or inferior[32] jurisdiction is not civilly liable for acts in his judicial capacity, but is charged with the same liability for negligence as other officers in respect to ministerial duties.[33]

§ 4. Disqualification in particular cases.[34]—Disqualification disables the judge from any judicial act in the cause.[35] It does not disqualify him to try a challenge to the qualification of his substitute.[36] A case as to which one of the three judges of an intermediate court is disqualified should not be assigned to that court, since on disagreement of the two remaining judges an affirmance pro forma settling the facts against appellant would result;[37] but the sitting of a biased judge is harmless where the bench consisted of three members and the decision was unanimous.[38] As to whether the act of a disqualified judge is void or voidable only the cases are in conflict.[39]

Interest and kinship.[40]—The disqualifying interest need not be pecuniary; any interest which would naturally operate to create a bias is sufficient.[41] A judge who would receive benefits under a bill for the complainant and all others similarly situated is disqualified,[42] the fact that he has a right to come into the suit and receive the benefits of the decree being sufficient irrespective of whether he manifests an intent to do so.[43] That justices of the supreme court issued a rule on an attorney to show cause why he should not be disbarred for misconduct does not disqualify them from hearing the cause in which such misconduct arose.[44] Relationship to a party is a disqualification,[45] but relationship to an attorney in the case is not.[46]

28. Lochrane v. Equitable Loan & Security Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 372.

29. After a judge has by the statutory ten days' notice of the date of hearing acquired the power to hear a case in vacation under the act of 1895 (Civ. Code 1895, § 4323), he may in vacation continue the case from time to time. Glenn v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 371.

30. See 4 C. L. 284.

31. A judge of a court of general jurisdiction is not liable civilly for any act done in the exercise of his judicial functions though done maliciously or corruptly. United States v. Bell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 336. A judge who makes a mistake in dismissing a case and is compelled to proceed and try the same by a writ of mandamus is not liable to the plaintiff in damages. Rev. St. 1887, § 4987 does not apply to courts or judges. Hill v. Morgan [Idaho] 76 P. 765.

32. A judge of an inferior court is not civilly liable for acts in good faith beyond his jurisdiction. Rush v. Buckley [Me.] 61 A. 774, collating the authorities pro and con.

33. County judge held negligent in approving guardian's bond with insolvent surety. Commonwealth v. Lee, 27 Ky. L. R. 806, 86 S. W. 990. Degree of care required Id., 89 S. W. 731.

34. See 4 C. L. 285.

35. Allowance of leave to appeal in forma pauperis is a judicial act which cannot be performed by a judge who has been counsel in the cause. Kalklosh v. Bunting [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 676, 88 S. W. 389.

36. State v. Foster, 112 La. 612, 36 So. 554.

37. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. v. King, 216 Ill. 416, 75 N. E. 166.

38. Biggins v. Lambert, 213 Ill. 625, 73 N. E. 371.

39. After a constitutional disqualification is disclosed, though on an unauthorized proceeding, all further proceedings by the judge are void. Disqualification appeared on a motion to transfer the case to another court by reason thereof for which there was no statutory authority. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1102. Relationship of the judge to a party renders the judgment void. Elmira Realty Co. v. Gibson, 92 N. Y. S. 913. Disqualification of a judge by interest makes his order voidable only. Prohibition will not lie to prevent enforcement. City of Grafton v. Holt [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 21. Where a trial de novo may be had on appeal, disqualification of the trial judge does not make the judgment void. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98.

40. See 4 C. L. 285.

41. Judge who was a depositor in a bank is disqualified to try one charged with an embezzlement which caused the failure of such bank. Ex parte Cornwell [Ala.] 39 So. 354.

42. Taxpayers' bill to fix water rates. City of Grafton v. Holt [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 21. A statute that no judge shall be deemed disqualified by reason of being a taxpayer in the community does not operate to relieve him of disability to sit in a suit to fix rates for water supply to private consumers, he being such a consumer. Id.

43. City of Grafton v. Holt [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 21.

44. Philbrook v. Newman [Cal.] 82 P. 772.

45. Relationship of the judge to a party within the statutory degree renders the judgment void. Elmira Realty Co. v. Gibson, 92 N. Y. S. 913.

Disqualification because of having been counsel[47] disables the judge to sit in the case, whether it be civil or criminal,[48] and in all subsequent cases between the same parties[49] and involving the same issues.[50] He need not have been the only or principal attorney; it is sufficient if he was consulted as an attorney about the case.[51]

Bias and prejudice.[52]—Only such bias as clearly manifests the impossibility of a fair trial will disqualify.[53]

Procedure and trial of fact of disqualification.[54]—The objection must be promptly[55] and specifically[56] made, and the party alleging disqualification has the burden of proof.[57] A judge to whom objection is made for disqualification should refer the matter to another judge for trial of the facts,[58] and it is the duty of such judge to try the matter as soon as practicable.[59] Objections not amounting to legal disqualification are addressed to the discretion of the judge.[60] In some states it is provided by statute[61] that on the timely filing[62] in any proceeding[63] of an affidavit of prejudice, 46. An appellate judge is not disqualified by the fact that his son was counsel in the court below. People v. Patrick [N. Y.] 75 N. E. 963.

47. See 4 C. L. 285.

48. The New York statute disqualifying a judge to sit in a cause in which he has been counsel applies to civil and criminal cases alike. People v. Haas, 93 N. Y. S. 790.

49. Under a statute disqualifying a judge who has been counsel for "either party," it is sufficient if he has been counsel for one of several co-parties. State v. Dick [Wis.] 103 N. W. 229.

50. One who was attorney for a party in a suit is disqualified to sit in a subsequent suit between some of the same parties involving the same property and issues. State v. Dick [Wis.] 103 N. W. 229. Service as attorney in a suit to partition devised lands does not disqualify from sitting in a contest of the will on the ground of incapacity. In re Glass' Estate [Iowa] 103 N. W. 1013. Having been of counsel for one of the parties in a case involving different issues is no disqualification. City of Austin v. Cahill [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 312, 89 S. W. 552. One who was counsel in a case is disqualified to sit in a subsequent case between the parties in which the judgment in the former suit is pleaded as a bar. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1102.

51. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1102. One who was attorney for an alleged accomplice of defendant and as such had consulted with defendant about the case is within the statute. People v. Haas, 93 N. Y. S. 790.

52. See 4 C. L. 286.

53. A declaration by a judge that if counsel in a pending case tried it in the same technical manner in which they had tried a previous case they could expect no concessions from the court does not show such bias as will disqualify at common law. Hutchinson v. Manchester St. R. Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1011. A town warden is not disqualified to sit on the trial of one accused of illegal registration by the fact that he had previously, as a member of the Board of Canvassers, approved the registered list with defendant's name thereon, no objection being made thereto. Williams v. Champlin, 26 R. I. 416, 59 A. 75.

54. See 4 C. L. 286.

55. People v. Patrick [N. Y.] 75 N. E. 963; Perry v. Pernet [Ind.] 74 N. E. 609. After several orders have been made by the judge is too late. Dupoyster v. Ft. Jefferson Imp. Co.'s Receiver [Ky.] 89 S. W. 509. Is waived by moving for a continuance before the alleged disqualified judge. Hutchinson v. Manchester St. R. Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1011.

56. An affidavit in a contest over a local option election that the judge was so opposed to the liquor traffic as to have a bias against it insufficiently states the facts showing bias. Erwin v. Benton, 27 Ky. L. R. 909, 87 S. W. 291.

57. Unverified petition not supported by any evidence and denied by the judge properly overruled. McGuire v. Blount, 26 S. Ct. 1. An affidavit on information and belief of relationship between the judge and a party is insufficient to prove the disqualification. Reversal denied where such affidavit was the only evidence in the record and it did not appear on what ground the motion was denied. Davis v. Atkinson [Ark.] 87 S. W. 432.

58. State v. Reid [La.] 38 So. 70.

59. Answer in mandamus to judge held to show adequate reason for delay. State v. Reid [La.] 38 So. 963.

60. People v. Patrick [N. Y.] 75 N. E. 963.

61. The Minnesota statute providing that a judge shall be disqualified ipso facto on the filing of an affidavit of prejudice, does not apply in districts having less than three judges. Proviso to that effect held to apply to entire statute and not merely to the next preceding clause. State v. Webber [Minn.] 105 N. W. 68.

62. Affidavit of prejudice being required to be filed before the day fixed for hearing, no such affidavit is effective to interrupt any hearing final or interlocutory if filed on the day fixed for such hearing. State v. Donlan [Mont.] 80 P. 244.

63. Section 180, Code Civ. Proc. relating to disqualification, applies to probate proceedings, though it is in part 1 of the Code and § 2920 in part 3 provides that except as provided in part 3 the provisions of part 2 shall be the rules of procedure in probate. State v. Donlan [Mont.] 80 P. 244. Rev. St. § 550, providing for the disqualification of a judge for bias or prejudice, applies to a con-another judge must be called in. An affidavit in the language of the statute is held sufficient notwithstanding a rule of court.[64]

JUDGMENT NOTES, see latest topical index.

JUDGMENTS.

This topic excludes all matters relating to foreign[65] or criminal[66] judgments, the conclusiveness of judgments[67] and the specific modes of enforcing the judgment.[68]

§ 1. Definition, nature and classification of judgments.[69]—A judgment is a conclusion of law upon facts found or admitted by the parties or upon their default in the course of the suit.[70] The codes of several states define a judgment to be tempt proceeding founded on an alleged contempt requiring written charge and trial. Hunt v. State, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 621. Such an affidavit may be filed to disqualify a judge from hearing a motion for a new trial. State v. District Court of Lewis & Clarke County [Mont.] 82 P. 789. The right to file an affidavit of bias or prejudice under Rev. St. § 550 is not limited to cases where all the judges of the subdivision are disqualified; one particular judge may be disqualified and another judge of the subdivision brought in. Hunt v. State, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 621.

64. An affidavit setting forth the statutory grounds of disqualification in the language of the statute is sufficient. Hence a rule of court requiring that an affidavit filed under Rev. St. § 550 shall specifically set forth the facts constituting the bias or prejudice is invalid. Hunt v. State, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 621. The fact that without such statement it is almost impossible to secure a conviction for perjury is insufficient to warrant the sustaining of such rule. Id. Bias and prejudice are states of mind and are not susceptible of a statement specifically showing the facts which constitute them. Rule of court requiring such statement held nugatory. Id.

65. See Foreign Judgments, 5 C. L. 1483.

66. See Indictment and Prosecution, 4 C. L. 1.

67. See Former Adjudication, 5 C. L. 1502.

68. See Creditors' Suit, 5 C. L. 880; Executions, 5 C. L. 1384; Sequestration, 4 C. L. 1420; Supplementary Proceedings, 4 C. L. 1591; etc.

69. See 4 C. L. 287.

This section is definitive in its nature, the manner of taking and the requisites of the various kinds of judgments enumerated being treated later on in this article or in separate articles. See topics Confession of Judgment, 5 C. L. 608; Defaults, 5 C. L. 982, etc.

70. Cyc. Law Dict., "Judgment," p. 507. An order of notice is not a judgment. Smith v. Whaley [R. I.] 61 A. 173. Orders made by judges for elections under the Brannock

the final determination of the rights of the parties in an action or proceeding,[71] and distinctions are sometimes made between judgments, orders and decrees.[72] A judgment is not a contract within the meaning of constitutional provisions prohibiting the impairing of the obligation of a contract.[73]

Judgments on offer, consent, stipulation, or confession.[74]—A consent judgment is a contract of the parties made a matter of record by the court at their request.[75] A judgment under a stipulation is a judgment by consent.[76]

Default and office judgments.[77]

Final and interlocutory judgments.[78]—The word "final" is used of a judgment in several senses, and when used in any qualified sense, that fact must be kept clearly in mind.[79] To be final the judgment must terminate and completely dispose of the action;[80] consequently it is essential to a final judgment in an action at law that it have either a "nil capiat" or an "eat inde sine die" or equivalent words.[81] A provision for costs is not an essential element of a final judgment.[82] A decree in other respects final is not rendered interlocutory by the incorporation of matters in aid of the execution thereof.[83] The New York code defines a final judgment as the final determination of the rights of the parties to the action.[84] Mere judgments

Law are merely ministerial and not judgments of the court, and hence may be reviewed by an associate judge, notwithstanding a rule against the review of the judgments of associate judges. Fulton v. Columbus, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 358.

71. Code Civ. Proc. § 577. An order denying an alleged widow's petition for a homestead allowance, based on her claim of widowhood, on which issue is joined, is a judgment. In re Harrington's Estate [Cal.] 81 P. 546.

72. See Motions and Orders, 4 C. L. 704; Equity (decrees), 5 C. L. 1144. In New York a special proceeding does not terminate in a judgment. Terminates in a final order. Code Civ. Proc. § 3343, subd. 20 and § 1301 construed. Fenlon v. Paillard, 46 Misc. 151, 93 Y. S. 1101.

73. Laws 1897, p. 52, c. 39, providing that after the expiration of six years from the rendition of any judgment it shall cease to be a lien or charge against the estate or person of the judgment debtor, and no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained by which the lien of the judgment shall be extended, is not, as to a judgment in an action of tort rendered before its passage, an unconstitutional violation of the obligation of contracts. Gaffney v. Jones [Wash.] 81 P. 1058.

74. See 4 C. L. 288. See, also, Confession of Judgment, 5 C. L. 608.

See Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 704, 705.

75. Bunn v. Braswell [N. C.] 51 S. E. 927.

76. Pacific Paving Co. v. Vizelich [Cal. App.] 82 P. 82.

77. See 4 C. L. 289. Also see the topic Defaults, 5 C. L. 982, where the mode and manner of taking a default and an office judgment is fully treated; as to the opening of default judgments, see post, § 5.

See Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 706.

78. See 4 C. L. 289.

79. What judgments are final for the purposes of appeal or res judicata is treated respectively in Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121 and Former Adjudication, 5 C. L. 1502.

A judgment or decree may be final as to some things and not so as to others. See topics just cited.

See Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 700.

80. People v. Severson, 113 Ill. App. 496. The suit having been closed by final judgment, no further proceedings can be had in it except such as may be required for the execution of the judgment. Sequestration of property denied. Martel v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 39 So. 441. In an action for an accounting between partners, a judgment overruling exceptions and making the auditor's finding the judgment of the court, being unexcepted to, held final. Hogan v. Walsh [Ga.] 50 S. E. 84. A decree in partition entered after everything had been done in the cause except the settlement of costs, held a final decree. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. v. Roberts, 103 Va. 661, 49 S. E. 984. A decree declaring lands not subject to partition and ordering a sale and division of the proceeds held final. Crane v. Stafford, 217 Ill. 21, 75 N. E. 424. The order of discharge of an assignee for the benefit of creditors which the court is authorized to make after a hearing and notice is a final judgment. Comp. Laws 1887, § 4675, considered. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392. A judgment determining the amount due to each of the creditors of an insolvent corporation, adjudging that they are entitled to recover the same from the stockholders and fixing the sum due the creditors, held a final judgment. Childs v. Blethen [Wash.] 82 P. 405.

81. People v. Severson, 113 Ill. App. 496.

82. Childs v. Blethen [Wash.] 82 P. 405.

83. A decree confirming a foreclosure sale of land held final, notwithstanding a subsequent order made at the same term permitting additional pleadings, wherein the defendants sought to subject the plaintiff for the rents and profits of the land alleged to have been received by him between the sale and a prior sale which had been set aside, to be filed. Clement v. Ireland, 138 N. C. 136, 50 S. E. 570.

84. Code Civ. Proc. § 1200. A judgment in an action for the reformation of a contract for costs,[85] decrees rendered on cross bills,[86] orders sustaining demurrers,[87] or decrees which merely give to the parties an opportunity to carry out offers made by them in open court,[88] are not final judgments. An order that an action be dismissed is an order for final judgment.[89] The filing of a petition of intervention does not prevent the entry of a final decree where the petition in intervention may be abandoned.[90]

A judgment on the merits can only be given where at the close of the whole case the court is of the opinion that plaintiff is not entitled to recover as a matter of law or where the court sustains a demurrer.[91] Defendant resting at the close of plaintiff's case and moving for a dismissal of the complaint and plaintiff moving for judgment, a judgment for defendants involves the merits.[92]

Judgments in personam and in rem.[93]—A judgment in personam is one against the person.[94].

§ 2. Requisites. A. In general.[95]—In order to have a valid judgment the court must have jurisdiction of the cause of action,[96] the subject-matter and, except in actions in rem,[97] the parties[98] at the time the judgment was rendered.[99] Having for the amount due thereunder, for an accounting and for the delivery of stocks and bonds of a corporation which reforms the contract, directs a judgment for plaintiff for a specified sum, orders the transfer of stocks and bonds, requires plaintiff to account, and appoints a referee to take the account, and which recites that it is an interlocutory judgment and reserves all questions as to interest and extra allowance until final judgment, is an interlocutory judgment. Potter v. Rossiter, 95 N. Y. S. 1036.

85. People v. Severson, 113 Ill. App. 496.

86. A decree pro confesso rendered on a cross bill is within Federal Equity Rule 1. Blythe Co. v. Bankers' Inv. Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 281.

87. Order sustaining a demurrer and granting leave to file an amended complaint. Cooke v. McQuaters [S. D.] 103 N. W. 385.

88. Gunning v. Sorg, 113 Ill. App. 332.

89. Davis v. National Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 658.

90. East Tennessee Land Co. v. Leeson, 185 Mass. 4, 69 N. E. 351. Such intervention being by a receiver to secure himself for costs of suits instituted by him but in which the insolvent was substituted as nominal plaintiff is abandoned by the receivers' taking a final decree. Id.

91. Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, p. 1561, c. 580) § 249. Consequently where a judgment is rendered in favor of defendants at the close of plaintiff's case it can only be a judgment of nonsuit. Levy v. Timble, 94 N. Y. S. 3. Judgment "dismissing the complaint on the ground that this action is prematurely brought, the work not being completed according to the contract, and judgment for the defendant on the counterclaim for the sum of $25 without costs," held to show a decision on the merits and defendant was entitled to have it amended to show such fact. Ruegamer v. Cleslinskie, 93 N. Y. S. 599.

92. Is not merely a judgment of nonsuit. Zimmerman Co. v. New York City R. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 598.

93. See 4 C. L. 289.

94. A judgment ordering, adjudging and decreeing that B. have and recover of and from S. Bros. the sum of $2,335, "for which let execution issue," etc., constitutes a personal judgment against S. Bros. Sanger Bros. v. Corsicana Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 737.

95. See 4 C. L. 290.

96. Judgment held void where petition failed to show an amount involved sufficient to bring the cause within the jurisdiction of the district court. Moore v. Snell [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 270. Court cannot enter judgment awarding any relief in an ancillary action after the main action has been dismissed and the order of dismissal allowed to become final. State Bank v. Theweatt, 111 Ill. App. 599. Where the only ground of jurisdiction alleged in a suit to set off cross judgments is defendant's insolvency and proof of insolvency fails, a court of equity cannot render a decree that will terminate the controversy between the parties or prevent an appeal. Whelen v. McMahan [Or.] 82 P. 19.

97. Acts 1895, p. 89, c. 71, in regard to suits to enforce levee taxes, makes the proceeding in the nature of a suit in rem, and the fact that the owner of the property was not a party defendant does not affect the validity of the decree. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252. It is competent for the legislature to provide that a lien for taxes may be foreclosed in the courts against the person to whom the land was assessed, whether that person is or is not the owner of the property; and a judgment of foreclosure against property of a resident owner is not void although service was had by publication and the owner's wife was not made a party defendant. Allen v. Peterson, 38 Wash. 599, 80 P. 849.

98. Bickford v. Francouia [N. H.] 60 A. 98; Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Taylor [Iowa] 105 N. W. 125; Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182; Fink v. Wallach, 95 N. Y. S. 872; Hickey v. Conley, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 388; Chester City v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 206. Appellate judgment. Omaha Nat. Bank v. Robinson [Neb.] 102 N. W. 613. Want of jurisdiction of the lower court appearing on the face of the record, an appellate court must such jurisdiction the judgment may be erroneous but not void.[1] It follows that there must have been a legal service of valid process,[2] though this fact need not appear of record in order that the court shall have jurisdiction, in the sense of possessing the power, to enter judgment.[3] Personal service is essential to a judgment in personam,[4] and in some states to a default judgment.[5] In Mississippi any error or mistake as to whether the cause is of equity or common-law jurisdiction is immaterial.[6] The declaration must name at least one defendant,[7] but a prayer is unnecessary if the appropriate relief sufficiently appears from the allegations of the complaint.[8] In Washington the complaint need not be filed.[9] Unless represented by or in privity with parties before the court,[10] the judgment is void as to persons not before the court;[11] hence all necessary parties should be brought into the court[12] rendering the judgment.[13] A defect in this regard cannot be waived,[14] and the reverse; it cannot correct error. Mandamus proceedings. Powell v. People, 214 Ill. 475, 73 N. E. 795.

99. A decree granting letters of administration cannot be upheld by showing that property of the decedent was brought into the state after his death. McCarthy v. Supreme Court of I. O. of F., 94 N. Y. S. 876.

1. Grannis v. Superior Court, 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891. The court having jurisdiction of the parties and the subject-matter, a default judgment taken without notice in an action for equitable relief after the defendants had appeared is irregular but not void. Martinson v. Margolf [N. D.] 103 N. W. 937. Mere irregularities do not render the judgment void; it is valid until vacated or reversed. Hickey v. Conley, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 388; Smith v. Finger [Okl.] 79 P. 759.

2. So held where on scire facias to revive a default judgment it appeared from the return that the service of process was insufficient. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. Service of summons by publication, directing defendants to appear within 60 days after the date of the first publication, which gives but 19 days between the date of the last publication and the day of judgment, does not give the court jurisdiction to enter a default judgment foreclosing a tax lien. Bailey v. Hood, 38 Wash. 700, 80 P. 559. A resident defendant temporarily absent from the state cannot be properly served, under Rev. Laws, c. 167, § 31, at his last and usual place of abode, and subjected to a judgment by default, without further notice. Porter v. Prince [Mass.] 74 N. E. 256. A justice's judgment is absolutely void where defendant was not served with process more than five days before the rendition of judgment. Comenitz v. Bank of Commerce [Miss.] 38 So. 35. Under a statute authorizing service by leaving a copy at the usual residence of defendant, a judgment based on a return showing service by leaving at the "last" usual place of residence of the defendant is void. Ruby v. Pierce [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1142. It not being essential to the validity of a service by publication that there be a sheriff's return to the effect that defendant cannot be found in the county in which action is brought, a judgment is not void because the return in the action bears a date prior to the commencement of the action. Allen v. Peterson, 38 Wash. 599, 80 P. 849. See topic Process, 4 C. L. 1070.

3. It may supply proof of service after judgment. Schmidt v. Hoffmann [Wis.] 105 N. W. 44.

4. Stone v. Cassidy [Ark.] 87 S. W. 621. Attachment proceeding. French v. White [Vt.] 62 A. 35. See Jurisdiction, 4 C. L. 324, also see 4 C. L. 290, n. 46.

5. Default judgment must be based on personal service of process. Code Civ. Proc. § 426, subd. 4. O'Connell v. Gallagher, 93 N. Y. S. 643. The discovery of a summons and its delivery to defendant by her employe is not such personal service. Id. See topic Defaults, 5 C. L. 932; also Process, 4 C. L. 1070.

6. Personal judgment against the members of a firm for a firm debt rendered in a suit to set aside alleged fraudulent conveyance by them affirmed. Holmes Bros. v. Ferguson-McKinney Dry Goods Co. [Miss.] 39 So. 70.

7. Failing to so do action should be dismissed. Poling & Co. v. Moore [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 99.

8. Staton v. Webb, 137 N. C. 35, 49 S. E. 55. A complaint filed by a judgment creditor of a mortgagor stating that defendant mortgagee had sold the mortgaged premises for more than enough to pay his debt, and refused to pay the surplus to plaintiff in satisfaction of his docketed judgments, and in which the evident relief, though not stated, was to require defendant to pay over the surplus to plaintiff, held sufficient. Id. Court states that it is safer and better practice to add a formal prayer for relief. Id.

9. Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood [Wash.] 82 P. 933.

10. Under Gen. St. N. J. p. 2336, § 2, where, in an action on a bond, one of two defendant joint debtors is properly before the court, plaintiff is entitled to a judgment against both joint debtors. Sayre & Fisher Co. v. Griefen [N. J. Law] 60 A. 513. See Former Adjudication, 5 C. L. 1502; Parties, 4 C. L. 888.

11. A decree held void as to assigns not before the court. Collins v. Denny Clay Co. [Wash.] 82 P. 1012. See Former Adjudication, 5 C. L. 1502.

12. Rev. St. 1898, § 2610 considered. McDougald v. New Richmond Roller Mills Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 244.

13. A party cannot be brought into the case in the court in which a transcript is filed. Doerr v. Graybill, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 321.

14. Rev. St. 1898, §§ 2610, 2654, considered. McDougald v. New Richmond Roller Mills Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 244.

judgment should be withheld until the situation is such that the persons not before the court will not be liable to be prejudiced.[15] The presence of superfluous defendants does not prevent a plaintiff from obtaining such relief as he is entitled to against the proper defendant.[16] A judgment entered against a minor upon proper service is merely avoidable and, unless attacked within the proper period after the disability of infancy has ceased to exist, continues to be valid as though rendered against persons under no disability whatever.[17] Upon attaining majority and within the time limited either by the rules of common law or by statute, such minors may attack any judgment for fraud or error shown.[18] There is a conflict as to whether a disqualification of the judge renders the judgment void.[19] That the attorney for one of the parties withdrew from the case when it was regularly called for trial does not affect the validity of the judgment rendered.[20] Except in the case of a consent judgment[21] the judgment should be supported by a verdict or findings of fact,[22] though failure to observe this rule does not render the judgment void but merely reversible on appeal or error.[23] Conclusions of law other than the judgment are unnecessary,[24] though in New York, upon the trial of an issue of law, a decision must be filed.[25] In California a final divorce decree must be supported by an interlocutory judgment.[26] An order disposing of money or property in the custody of the court, pursuant to former decrees, need not be supported by pleadings, evidence or findings, the court having knowledge of the facts.[27] Where, in proceedings out of the course of the common law, matters necessary to sustain the judgment do not appear of record[28] or the judgment directed by statute is not entered,[29] the judgment is void. It is not necessary that the judgment be

15. All such persons are necessary parties to a full determination of the litigation and should be brought in by amendment. McDougald v. New Richmond Roller Mills Co. [Wis.] 103 N. W. 244.

16. Acme Bedford Stone Co. v. McPhetridge [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 838.

17, 18. Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154.

19. That it does. Judge of counsel. Johnson v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1102. Where a judge is related within the sixth degree to one of the parties in a cause tried before him, the relationship renders the judgment absolutely void. Elmira Realty Co. v. Gibson, 92 N. Y. S. 913.

Is merely voidable. Where judge was a quasi party to a suit in equity under the description of the bill filed by certain named plaintiffs suing on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated. City of Grafton v. Holt [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 21. Disqualification of member of tribunal in highway proceedings. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98.

20. So held where a party's counsel, on a motion for a continuance being denied, withdrew from the case, serving on the adverse party and filing with the clerk of the court a notice thereof and refused to participate further in the proceedings. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4771 construed. McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384, 77 P. 736.

21. Harniska v. Dolph [C. C. A.] 133 F. 158. There being a consent judgment there need be no waiver of a jury trial. Id.

22. Plunkett v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620; Prowell v. Neuendorf [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 403, 104 N. W. 666. For conformity of judgment to verdict or findings, see post, next subdivision.

23. The rendition of a judgment without a finding to support it is not void although written findings have been timely requested. It constitutes merely an irregularity or error for which the judgment may be vacated or reversed upon proper proceedings for that purpose. School Dist. No. 3, Carbon County v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155. Where the court simply found the evidence as given by a witness on a disputed question and drew a conclusion that was unsupported by any finding of fact, held, the judgment would be reversed. Dougherty v. Lion Fire Ins. Co. [N. Y.] 76 N. E. 4, rvg. 95 App. Div. 618, 88 N. Y. S. 1096.

24. Roberts v. Hall [Cal.] 82 P. 66.

25. Code Civ. Proc. § 1010. Rowe v. Rowe, 92 N. Y. S. 491.

26. Unless so supported the judgment is absolutely void regardless of any considerations of waiver, consent or acquiescence of the parties. Grannis v. Superior Court, 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891.

27. Sanger Bros. v. Corsicana Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 737.

28. Hickey v. Conley, 84 Pa. Super. Ct. 388. If the complaint and the record in a proceeding under the act of April 3, 1830, omits to set forth the rent reserved by the lease, or that the tenant refused to remove from and deliver up possession of the premises after notice to quit, the judgment is absolutely void. Id.

29. Hickey v. Conley, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 388. In a proceeding under the Act of April 3, 1830, a judgment in the following form, "After hearing judgment by default for thirty dollars for rent and possession of plainenforceable by execution.[30] Where separate and independent judgments may be taken against defendants, the fact that one of the defendants was dead at the commencement of the action does not render a judgment against all void as to the living defendants.[31] The weight of authority seems to support the proposition that the court having jurisdiction, a judgment rendered for or against a party after his death is not for that reason void.[32] A judgment valid on its face[33] being entered in the cause, any subsequent judgment entered before the first judgment is vacated, modified, reversed or disposed of by some means provided by law is void.[34] A judgment must be mutual,[35] must be rendered according to judicial methods and pursuant to established principles of law or equity,[36] and must conform to statutory requirements.[37]

(§ 2) B. Conformity to process, pleading, proof and verdict or findings.[38]—Unless the issues are changed by agreement[39] or by a consent decree,[40] the judgment must conform to the pleadings,[41] though under the codes of some states any relief tiff's property and costs of suit," is fatally defective, inasmuch as the act provides a judgment against the lessee, that the premiees shall be delivered up to the lessor. Id.

30. A general judgment may be rendered against a school district in an action on a warrant drawn against the schoolhouse fund. School Dist. No. 3, Carbon County, v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

31. Judgment in tax foreclosure proceedings. Allen v. Peterson, 38 Wash. 599, 80 P. 849.

32. An order dismissing the bill is merely voidable where at the time of its entry the party against whom it was entered was dead, but such fact did not appear of record. Prouty v. Moss, 111 Ill. App. 536.

33. Buffalo Pitts Co. v. Dearing, 37 Wash. 591, 79 P. 1104. If the judgment is void or of no effect there is no objection to the court subsequently entering a valid judgment in the action or proceeding, though the first judgment remains on the record unchallenged. Morrison v. Berlin, 37 Wash. 600, 79 P. 1114.

34. Morrison v. Berlin, 37 Wash. 600, 79 P. 1114; Buffalo Pitts Co. v. Dearing, 37 Wash. 591, 79 P. 1104. Where, on plaintiff's motion for a new trial, judgment is entered for him without setting aside or in any way disposing of the former judgment for defendant, the judgment last entered is void (Id.), and the entry of a subsequent judgment in the same cause is not a method provided by law for disposing of an original judgment (Id.).

35. Judgment in ejectment awarding the possession of the land to plaintiff and decreeing that the sums paid by defendant should be a lien thereon, held mutual. Jamison v. Martin, 184 Mo. 422, 83 S. W. 750.

36. Court cannot do what seems right and just. Washington Loan & Trust Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 152.

37. Under Rev. St. 1899, c. 6, art. 1, § 473, a judgment for the penalty of a bond securing the performance of covenants should provide that it shall stand as security for further breaches, and it is error to provide that upon payment of the damages already accrued the payment shall be satisfied. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Schuchman, 189 Mo. 468, 88 S. W. 626. Under Mills' Ann. Code, §§ 14, 43, 235-240, the only judgment which can be rendered against a co-partnership on a firm debt or obligation is one against the co-partnership jointly, and the partners summoned or appearing, whether the summons is served upon all or one or more of the defendants. Blythe v. Cordingly [Colo. App.] 80 P. 495.

38. See 4 C. L. 292.

39. Where a petition stated a case in equity to cancel a deed, and by agreement between the parties the deed was recognized as valid, held, a judgment awarding to plaintiff that portion of the purchase money which was held by the court and claimed by defendant as his commission for selling the land was proper. Bailey v. McWilliams [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 618. Where, in an action against several, the parties make an agreement whereby the interests of all defendants but one are adjusted, a judgment against that one is good, though no formal order of dismissal is entered as against the others. Id.

40. Where by a consent decree defendant agreed to pay certain rents to his divorced wife, he is bound thereby though no such obligation was embraced in the pleadings nor such relief prayed for. Connellee v. Werenskiold [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 747.

41. Where bill denies existence of written contract, which court finds in fact existed, plaintiff is not entitled to enforcement of such written contract. Levandowski v. Althouse [Mich.] 99 N. W. 786. Under a complaint to recover damages for breach of a contract for services which contract was void under the statute of frauds, no recovery can be had for the services actually rendered. Banta v. Banta, 103 App. Div. 172, 93 N. Y. S. 393. Where, in a suit to restrain interference with certain ditches, the theory of the complaint is that defendants neither have nor claim any interest in the premises, defendants cannot be enjoined from cutting or draining the ditches on the theory that they are tenants in common and as such cannot lawfully commit waste. Campbell v. Flannery [Mont.] 80 P. 240. Code Civ. Proc. § 1207. Where a complaint seeks to establish a lien on property in plaintiff's hands to satisfy a demand due him, and no answer is filed, plaintiff is not entitled to a money judgment. Mathot v. Triebel, 102 App. Div. 426, 92 N. Y. S. 512. Where, in a suit for consistent with the real issues and the proof may be granted.[42] Failure to observe this requirement renders the judgment erroneous but not void.[43] The granting of the right to appropriate process to enforce the judgment though not asked for is harmless.[44] A judgment will be sustained by a declaration containing one good count which the record affirmatively shows is the basis of the judgment[45] and to which the evidence is applicable, and the judgment responsive.[46] The answer of one of several defendants requiring it, the court may determine the rights of defendants among themselves.[47] A judgment by confession can only be sustained by a warrant authorizing it at the time and in the manner and form in which it is entered.[48] In the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary[49] the judgment damages for destroying timber and to restrain a trespass on land, defendant only claimed to own two-thirds of the mineral and timber in and on the land, held error to give defendant in the judgment all the mineral and timber. Browning v. Cumberland Gap Canal Coal Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 267. On the trial of a feigned issue to determine the ownership of a fund paid into court, it is error to permit a verdict and judgment to be entered against the defendant for a stated sum. The verdict and finding should be for the plaintiff generally. Julius King Optical Co. v. Royal Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 527. Averment, in petition of a trustee in bankruptcy to enforce a claim against the separate estate of the bankrupt's wife, that $1,000 of the community estate had been expended in improving the separate property of the wife, held sufficient to justify a judgment to the effect that the community estate owned an interest in the improvements to the extent of $300. Collins v. Bryan [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 237, 88 S. W. 432. A prayer "for such other and further relief, general and special, legal and equitable, as to the court shall seem meet and just," in a petition by a trustee in bankruptcy to enforce a claim against the separate property of the bankrupt's wife for the amount of community funds expended in improving the wife's separate property, held to authorize the court to decree a sale of the improvement to satisfy a judgment for the trustee. Id. Where, in a suit on a promissory note, the petition set out the note in haec verba and prayed for judgment for the debt, interest and attorney's fees provided for by the note, together with costs and general relief, held, plaintiff was entitled to a judgment for the aggregate of the items so demanded notwithstanding a general prayer for damages in a sum less than that aggregate. Ellis v. National Exch. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 776. Where proceedings were brought to escheat property, but failed because of appearance of heirs, and were changed by orders permitting administrator to intervene in a proceeding to marshal assets and to provide for paying fees to the attorney of the administrator and escheator and to sell lands at a time when all parties interested were represented and no objections were made, the judgment will not be set aside as beyond the scope of the pleadings. In re Bugg's Estate [S. C.] 51 S. E. 263. When an execution is levied and a claim interposed and the claimant, in aid of his claim, files an equitable petition praying that in the event the property is found subject, the amount due on the execution be ascertained, offering to pay that amount, and the answer is purely defensive, a decree fixing the amount due by the defendant in execution larger than the total amount due on the execution and charging the land with its payment is unauthorized by the pleadings. Austin v. Southern Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Ga.] 50 S. E. 382. Where the complaint demanded judgment for "$51.1898," with interest thereon at 10 per cent. per annum from Sept. 13, 1892, to rendition of judgment (Sept. 12, 1900), also $15 attorney's fees and taxable costs, a judgment for $107.02, enumerating principal, interest and attorney's fees as a part of the $107.02, should be construed as including the principal, interest and attorney's fees, and hence was not objectionable as being for a greater sum than that demanded. Pacific Paving Co. v. Vizelich [Cal. App.] 82 P. 82.

42. The fact that a party proceeds to trial upon a mistaken idea as to the nature of the action and the scope of the issues framed by the pleadings does not deprive him of the right to such relief as is consistent with the real issues and the proof in the case. Logan v. Freerks [N. D.] 103 N. W. 426.

43. Default judgment. Burton v. Loulsville, 27 Ky. L. R. 514, 85 S. W. 727.

44. White v. Wise [Cal. App.] 81 P. 664.

45. In the absence of such a showing the judgment will not be sustained. Judgment for the collection of a municipal assessment. Daly v. Gubbins [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833.

46. Drainage Com'rs Dist. No. 2 v. Drainage Com'rs Dist. No. 3, 113 Ill. App. 114. One of two counts in a petition being sufficient, a motion in arrest will be denied. Carpenter v. Hamilton, 185 Mo. 602, 84 S. W. 863.

47. Where each defendant answers setting up affirmatively his rights and asks to have the same adjudicated, a decree determining the relative rights of the defendants among themselves is within the issues, though defendant's rights were not urged by way of cross complaint. Miller v. Thompson, 139 Cal. 643, 73 P. 583.

48. Eddy v. Smiley, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 318. A warrant of attorney to confess judgment to "The R. G. Eddy Marble and Granite Company of Meadville" will not sustain a judgment confessed to R. G. Eddy individually. Id. Under a joint warrant of attorney a judgment can only be confessed against all the makers, and in case of the death of one of them no judgment can be confessed against the survivors. Kloeckner v. Schafer, 110 Ill. App. 391. See Confession of Judgment, 5 C. L. 608, also see note, What judgment is authorized by warrant. 5 C. L. 609.

in a joint action must be for or against all of the plaintiffs[50] or defendants[51] or none of them; but the rule does not extend to actions against defendants who are jointly and severally liable.[52] The judgment must also be supported by the proof,[53] and, as to matters of substance,[54] must conform to the verdict[55] or findings,[56] and in this connection it should be remembered that verdicts are to be given a reasonable intendment, and are to be construed in the light of the pleadings.[57] This rule

49. Rule is abrogated in New York. Galligan v. De Lorenzo, 92 N. Y. S. 268 Under Code Civ. Proc. § 578, a judgment may be given for or against one or more of several plaintiffs. Roberts v. Hall [Cal.] 82 P. 66. Code Civ. Proc. § 578, alters the rule, hence where, in an action on a fire insurance policy under the terms of which loss was payable to the mortgagee, a mortgagee refused to be made plaintiff and was made defendant, a judgment in favor of plaintiff for the amount of the policy and interest and that out of such judgment the mortgagee be paid, held valid, though the mortgagee was never served nor appeared. Johnson v. Phenix Ins. Co., 146 Cal. 571, 80 P. 719. Va. Ann. Code 1904, p. 1801, allowing judgment against less than all the joint contractors, does not apply where one of the defendants alone files a defense which is not personal, but which goes to the plaintiff's right of recovery against all the defendants. Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

50. Where there is a joinder of petitioners for a writ of mandamus, judgment must be for all or for none of them. Sedden v. McBride [Pa.] 60 A. 12.

51. Somers v. Florida Pebble Phosphate Co. [Fla.] 39 So. 61; Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753.

52. Joint tort feasors. Weathers v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 908. In an action against several defendants for damages for burning grass, plaintiff is entitled to recover against all the defendants or against any one whose liability he establishes. Dunn v. Newberry [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 626.

53. Judgment being against the weight of the evidence, it will be reversed on appeal. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Nelson, 115 Ill. App. 432. In order to warrant a joint judgment against several defendants sued jointly for negligence, the evidence must show that the acts of negligence co-operated concurrently or in continuous successive order producing the common result. Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. Van Elderen [C. C. A.] 137 F. 557. Where a contract for the employment of an attorney to defend the county school fund provides for the payment of the attorney out of such fund, a general judgment against the county is erroneous. Morrow v. Pike County, 189 Mo. 610, 88 S. W. 99.

54. In an action of trespass against a township, an entry of judgment "in favor of the defendant" by the prothonotary who signs his own name is not fatally defective, although the verdict of the jury, returned some days before, was, "We find the said defendant township not guilty." Maus v. Mahoning Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 624.

55. Maus v. Mahoning Tp., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 624. Decree held to follow the verdict. Atkins v. Winter [Ga.] 50 S. E. 487. Judgment in an action for interference with water mains held sufficiently supported by the findings. Roberts v. Hall [Cal.] 82 P. 66. Under Code 1896, § 4142, in an action to try the right to property levied on, the real issue is whether the property is subject to execution; and a verdict finding the property to be that of defendant in the writ and liable to plaintiff's execution does not render the judgment thereon invalid on the ground that such verdict fails to find the issue in favor of plaintiff in execution. Johnson v. Citizens' Bank [Ala.] 39 So. 577. A special verdict that plaintiff at the time of taking the note sued on was not aware that the amount was incorrectly stated held a sufficient basis for a judgment declaring a lien on certain property for the amount for which the note was given, though there was a finding that the true consideration of the note was less than stated on its face. Featherstone v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 387, 88 S. W. 470. A judgment in favor of a transferee of a note, executed for material and labor furnished, for the face amount thereof, held proper, though the special verdict found that the value of the materials and labor performed in the construction of the improvement was less than the sum stated in the note. Id. Where defendant filed a plea in reconvention and the court submitted special issues to the jury in the form of interrogatories which had no relation or reference to the plea in reconvention, held, a judgment reciting that it was based upon the answers to the interrogatories and nevertheless finding for defendant on the plea in reconvention was unauthorized by the verdict. Union Carpet Lining Co. v. George F. Miller & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 651.

56. The decision being in effect a nonsuit only, for failure of proof, a judgment upon the merits is improper. Weeks v. Van Ness, 93 N. Y. S. 337. The fact that the trial court made no express finding on the defense of limitation pleaded by defendant does not render the findings insufficient to support a judgment for plaintiff, where they show the date when the cause of action accrued and it appears therefrom that the action was not barred. Santos v. Silva [Cal. App.] 82 P. 981. In a suit to impress a trust on real estate, plaintiff alleged that one of the defendants was entitled to a certain interest in the property and asked for certain relief for this defendant, but the latter did not answer or seek any relief. An interlocutory judgment was entered establishing the trust and directing a conveyance to plaintiff of an undivided interest in the property with a reference to determine the amounts due the parties. The defendant who did not answer did not appear at the reference, and the referee made no finding as to his interest in the property; held, a judgment declaring him entitled to a certain undivided interest was unauthorized. McWhirter v. Bowen, 92 N. Y. S. 1039.

of conformity is subject to the right of the court to amend the verdict for irregularities appearing on its face.[58] to render a judgment non obstante,[59] and to disregard a verdict contrary to law.[60] An objection that the judgment does not conform to the verdict is a matter for motion in the trial court.[61] The entered judgment must conform to the order authorizing its rendition[62] and to such "interlocutory judgments" as are not subject to revision in the final judgment.[63] The court declining to entertain the case on the ground of comity of jurisdiction, a judgment on the merits is erroneous.[64] Where only one of two joint defendants appeared, a joint default judgment is void.[65] One cannot take advantage of discrepancies in his own favor.[66] Lack of conformity may be waived.[67]

Judgment non obstante.[68]—At the common law judgment non obstante veredicto could be entered only when the plea confessed the cause of action and set up matters in avoidance which were insufficient, although found true, to constitute a defense or a bar to the action,[69] consequently it followed that a judgment non obstante could only be rendered for the plaintiff.[70] This rule has been relaxed and made to apply in favor of the defendant so that it is now generally held that the defendant is entitled to a judgment non obstante veredicto when the plaintiff's pleadings are insufficient to support a judgment in his favor.[71] So, too, if general and special verdicts rendered are inconsistent with each other, the general verdict may in some cases be disregarded and judgment based on the special verdict.[72] Also verdicts contrary to law[73] or which give no right or defense[74] may be disregarded. But in no case is it proper practice to enter a judgment non obstante veredicto unless it appears on the record that the verdict of the jury cannot be supported as matter of 57. Atkins v. Winter [Ga.] 50 S. E. 487. See Verdicts and Findings, 4 C. L. 1803.

58. Mistake in computation of interest corrected and judgment entered on corrected verdict. Gould v. Hartwig [Kan.] 80 P. 976. See Verdicts and Findings, 4 C. L. 1803.

59. See infra this section.

60. Bank of S. W. Georgia v. McGarrah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393.

61. Cannot be made for the first time on appeal. Elmer v. Levin, 95 N. Y. S. 537.

62. Where an order provided that a demurrer to the complaint should be overruled with costs to the plaintiff with leave to answer on payment of costs to be taxed, an interlocutory judgment providing that the demurrer be overruled and judgment rendered in favor of plaintiff "as prayed for in the complaint," is erroneous. Smythe v. Greacen, 96 App. Div. 182, 89 N, Y. S. 111.

63. Where, in a partnership accounting, an interlocutory judgment decreed that plaintiff was entitled to a certain number of shares of corporate stock if defendants were in a position to transfer them, it is error for the final judgment to give defendants the option of transferring the stock or paying plaintiff the ascertained value thereof. Reilly v. Freeman, 95 N. Y. S. 1069. Where an interlocutory judgment did not require defendant to transfer to plaintiff any specific shares of corporate stock, the final judgment should not direct the transfer of specific shares. Id.

64. James Freeman Brown Co. v. Harris [C. C. A.] 139 F. 105.

65. Patterson v. Jarmon [Del. Super.] 62 A. 8.

66. Where judgment was rendered for a less sum than that granted by the conclusions of law. Leedy v. Capital Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1000.

67. Failure to move to set aside a default held to waive a lack of identity between the name of the plaintiff as contained in the process, default and judgment with that contained in the declaration. Edwards v. Warner, 111 Ill. App. 32.

68. See 4 C. L. 298.

69. Plunkett v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620.

70. Chicago City R. Co. v. White, 110 Ill. App. 23. See, also, Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Brown, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 185.

71. Plunkett v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620. Where in an action on a fire insurance policy to recover as for a total loss, and the defense was a partial loss and refusal of a demand for appraisement, and the verdict of the jury for plaintiff showed a partial loss, held, the remedy for defendant was a motion for a new trial, not a motion for judgment or in arrest thereof. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Brown, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 185.

72. Plunkett v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620. As to what verdicts are inconsistent, see Verdicts and Findings, 4 C. L. 1803.

73. Bank of S. W. Georgia v. McGarrah, 120 Ga. 944, 48 S. E. 393.

74. Where jury found that plaintiff was the owner of the note in suit, held entitled to a judgment notwithstanding a verdict on another issue that the note was executed under a parol agreement that defendant should not be liable thereon. Western Carolina Bank v. Moore [N. C.] 51 S. E. 79.

law.[75] In all other cases the proper practice is to move for a new trial[76] or review the case on writ of error and exceptions.[77] There must be either a general or special verdict to support a judgment or the pleadings must authorize its entry.[78] A judgment non obstante should not be given upon a portion of the special findings returned the rest being ignored.[79] A plea showing want of consideration on its face is bad after verdict and entitles plaintiff to a judgment non obstante veredicto.[80] A judgment non obstante will not be granted on the ground of a variance between the pleadings and proof,[81] or for failure of proof,[82] unless it appears that such defect cannot be cured by amending the pleadings or granting a new trial.

§ 3. Arrest of judgment.[82a]—The grounds for, the procedure on, and the effect of a motion for an arrest of judgment, are treated elsewhere.[83]

§ 4. Rendition, entry and docketing.[84]—Statutes generally fix the time at which the notice of a motion for judgment must be filed in[85] and returned to[86] the office of the clerk of court. A court does not lose jurisdiction of a motion for final judgment because of the expiration of the judge's term after argument and before rehearing.[87] The judgment must be rendered at a time[88] and place[89] authorized by law for holding court; hence, unless authorized by statute,[90] a judg-

75. Plunkett v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620. Rule has not been changed by Laws 1895; p. 729, c. 320. In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502. Except in clear cases a court is not justified in directing judgment non obstante that a will by a parent in favor of a child was obtained by undue influence. Id. Where the presence of suspicious circumstances is inconsistent with such an entirely clear case, and the trial court is satisfied that the party against whom the verdict is rendered is entitled to some relief, the common-law remedy is to grant a new trial. Id. In determining what judgment shall be entered upon a special verdict, nothing can be looked to by the court except the pleadings and the postea. Borough of Seabright v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 64. Hence the evidence from which a fact might have been found, without any finding of the fact itself, is valueless in a special verdict. Id.

76. Plunkett v. Detroit Electric R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620. See In re Sperl's Estate [Minn.] 103 N. W. 502. See also New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 4 C. L. 810.

77. Plunkett v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

78. Plunkett v. Detroit Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 153, 103 N. W. 620. A verdict for one party cannot be set aside and judgment entered for the other party without a new trial. Prowell v. Neuendorf [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 403, 104 N. W. 666.

79. Where two sets of interrogatories with answers were returned by the jury, the record showed one set, as stated, of interrogatories submitted to the jury for them to answer, immediately following which were interrogatories with answers purporting to have been submitted to the jury on issues joined on the cross complaint, held, a motion for judgment non obstante on the answers to the interrogatories framed "on the complaint herein," was properly overruled. New Hampshire Fire Ins. Co. v. Wall [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 668.

80. Action on bond, plea of accord and satisfaction. Frank v. Gump [Va.] 51 S. E. 358.

81. Chapter 63, p. 74, Laws 1901 considered. Welch v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 396.

82. Failure of proof as to some essential elements of the cause of action. Laws 1901, p. 74, chap. 63, considered. Welch v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 396.

82a. See 4 C. L. 298.

83. See New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 4 C. L. 810.

84. See 4 C. L. 296.

85. A notice of a motion for judgment for money due on contract, under the provisions of § 6, ch. 121, Code 1899, must be filed in the clerk of the court's office before the commencement of the term at which such motion is to be heard; but the length of time between such filing and the commencement of the term is not prescribed. Knox v. Horner [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 979.

86. A notice of a motion for judgment for money due on contract under the provisions of § 6, ch. 121, Code 1899 need not be returned to the clerk of court's office in which the motion is to be made 20 days before the commencement of the term at which the motion is to be heard. Knox v. Horner [W. Va.] 51 S. E. 979.

87. Judge succeeded himself. Jewett v. Schmidt, 95 N. Y. S. 631, afg. 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737.

88. Judgment rendered at term organized under Gen. Acts 1903, p. 566, fixing time for holding circuit court in Washington county, is void the statute being unconstitutional. Yellow Pine Lumber Co. v. Randall [Ala.] 39 So. 565; Kidd v. Burke [Ala.] 38 So. 241; McMillan v. Gadsden [Ala.] 39 So. 569; Hammond v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 736.

89. A trial at a place other than the regular court house and where there was no authority to sit for the trial of the particular case is coram non judice. Trial of fact by stipulation at other place. Armstrong v. Loveland, 99 App. Div. 28, 90 N. Y. S. 711.

90. Under Mills' Ann. St. § 74, providing that when a demurrer is decided either in ment rendered in vacation is void,[91] and such a judgment is not validated by a subsequent order, entered in term time, purporting only to correct an error in the description of one of the parties.[92] A judgment rendered previous to the date of trial fixed by stipulation between the parties is valid.[93] In the absence of statutory provisions the trial court is entitled to a reasonable time to consider the questions presented to it for decision and to enter such decree or judgment as will reflect its judgment,[94] and it cannot be coerced by mandamus to enter a judgment on motion of counsel before it has had sufficient time to be duly advised and satisfied as to the proper judgment to be entered.[95] So long as the trial judge is permitted to sit in the case, an appellate court, on petition for mandamus to compel him to enter judgment, will not consider his private motives nor his estimate of counsel conducting the trial.[96] In many states statutes prescribe the time for entering judgment,[97] and a judgment entered before the commencement[98] or after the expiration[99] of such statutory period is void. Within the meaning of statutes on this subject the time to which adjournment is taken for the submission of briefs is the time of the submission of the cause.[1] In order to start the running of the statutory time a finding must not be such as will warrant more than one kind of a judgment.[2] term or vacation the court may proceed to final judgment thereon unless the unsuccessful party plead over as amended, the court may in such a case render judgment in vacation. Hereford v. Benton [Colo. App.] 80 P. 499.

91. Consent decree. Boynton v. Ashabranner [Ark.] 88 S. W. 566. Judgment overruling demurrer, rendered in vacation before appearance term, held void. Toomer v. Warren [Ga.] 51 S. E. 393.

92. Boynton v. Ashabranner [Ark.] 88 S. W. 566.

93. Civil Code, §§ 175, 176 considered. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 80 P. 1065.

94. Alexander v. Moss [Ky.] 89 S. W. 118.

95. Alexander v. Moss [Ky.] 89 S. W. 118.

NOTE. Mandamus as a remedy to compel the rendition, entry and correction of judgment: Mandamus lies to compel a judge to sign judgment rendered by him (State v. Judge, 28 La. Ann. 451), or his predecessor in office (Life, etc., Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 33 U. S. [8 Pet.] 291, 8 Law. Ed. 106), and is the proper remedy for the refusal of a judge to enter judgment, which it is clearly his duty to enter, where nothing remains to be done but the clerical work of entering it (Corthell v. Mead, 19 Colo. 386, 35 P. 741; O'Brien v. Tallman, 36 Mich. 13; Branford v. Grant, 1 N. M. 579). So where the plaintiff failed to appear it will lie to compel a justice to enter a judgment of nonsuit. Cogney v. Wattles. 121 Mich. 469, 80 N. W. 245. The rule is the same where a jury has been had in a case, and the writ issues to compel a judge to receive and enter a verdict and to give judgment thereon. Munkers v. Watson, 9 Kan. 668; State v. Knight, 46 Mo. 83; State v. Adams, 12 Mo. App. 436; State v. Adams, 76 Mo. 605; State v. Beall, 48 Neb. 817, 67 N. W. 868; Cortelyou v. Ten Eyck, 22 N. J. Law 45; Lloyd v. Brinck, 35 Tex. 1. In Ludlum v. District Ct., 9 Cal. 7, it is held that mandamus will not lie to compel a judge to enter judgment on the report of a referee, thus overruling Russell v. Elliott, 2 Cal. 245. In Dorr v. Hill, 62 N. H. 506, it is held that where a statute provides that when a report of referees is duly made to a justice of the peace without suit he shall enter judgment and issue execution thereon for damages and costs, mandamus will lie to enforce this duty.

Mandamus may issue to correct an erroneously entered judgment. Frederick v. Circuit Judge, 52 Mich. 529, 18 N. W. 343. See also Smith v. Moore, 38 Conn. 105. The writ lies to compel the correction of entries in the docket of a justice of the peace, so as to make it conform to the facts. State v. Whittlet, 61 Wis. 351, 21 N. W. 245. But it will not lie to compel the altering of dates therein. Mooney v. Edwards, 51 N. J. Law, 479, 17 A. 973. That the amendment of the record of an inferior court is a matter of judicial discretion for the court having the custody thereof has been held in Commonwealth v. Hultz, 6 Pa. 169.—From note to State v. Gardner [Wash.] 98 Am. St. Rep. 863, 894.

96. Alexander v. Moss [Ky.] 89 S. W. 118.

97. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 289 a judgment on a report of a referee entered 10 days after the written notice of the filing of the report is not premature. Wood v. Saginaw Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [S. D.] 105 N. W. 101.

98. Under the statutes of California a final divorce judgment entered prior to the expiration of a year from the date of the interlocutory judgment is absolutely void regardless of any considerations of waiver, consent or acquiescence of the parties. Grannis v. Superior Ct., 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891.

99. Though attorney for one of the parties consented to an extension of such statutory time. Municipal court judgment. Maggo v. Ocean View Cemetery, 94 N. Y. S. 595.

1. Municipal Court Act, § 230 (Laws 1902, p. 1557, c. 580) construed. Eisenberg Co. v. Janzlik, 92 N. Y. S. 247.

2. Rev. St. 1898, § 2894a, providing that whenever a finding shall be filed or a verdict rendered the successful party shall cause judgment to be entered within 60 days or the clerk shall enter judgment, con-

A judgment is not subject to reversal because not immediately entered on the return of the verdict.[3] Except in the case of a consent judgment,[4] the judgment should not be rendered until an opportunity has been given defendant to be heard in the cause;[5] consequently a default judgment rendered before the expiration of the time to answer is erroneous.[6] In some cases it is improper to render a judgment upon default until there has been an inquest of damages.[7] In Massachusetts where exceptions are taken to the rulings made at the hearing, no final order or decree should be passed before the expiration of the time for filing the exception or until the determination of the questions of law thereby raised[8] and a final decree inadvertently entered while exceptions are pending takes effect only as an order for a decree and does not become operative until the exceptions are disposed of.[9] A judge dying after the rendition of findings his successor may enter judgment.[10] In the absence of prejudice the rendition of judgment as of the wrong term is harmless.[11] In New York final judgment should be rendered against the original parties though one of them dies after the rendition of an interlocutory judgment.[12] The date of a judgment is the date of its filing.[13] In Massachusetts the clerk, as a ministerial officer, has no authority to enter judgment without the sanction of the court.[14] Mere delay in extending the journal entry of a judgment on the records of the court in which it is entered does not affect the validity of the judgment when no fraud is perpetrated upon the parties to the judgment or their privies by reason of such delay.[15]

Form.[16]—The judgment should contain nothing but a statement that the court strued. Dresser v. Lemma, 122 Wis. 387, 100 N. W. 844.

3. Harris v. Fidalgo Mill Co., 38 Wash. 169, 80 P. 289.

4. Where a warrant to confess judgment authorizes any attorney to appear and confess judgment for an amount named, the defendant has no standing to be first heard before entry of judgment. Mulhearn v. Roach, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 483.

5. Where cause was retired from docket, held, judgment could not be entered against defendant 4 years thereafter without giving him an opportunity to be heard. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222. Judgment overruling demurrer in vacation before the appearance term is void. Toomer v. Warren [Ga.] 51 S. E. 393. Where defendant was allowed until after December 30th to file a supplemental affidavit of defense and the case was placed on the current motion list for January 4th and was continued by special order with notice to the defendant until January 11th, and on that day, no supplemental affidavit having been filed, judgment was entered for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense, held, defendant could not complain of the entry of judgment as premature, because members of the bar had been notified that "undisposed of cases upon prior current motion lists" would be called for argument on January 18th. McFetridge v. Megargee, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 501.

6. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1166 a defendant being entitled to two days after the return to appear or answer where a summons by publication was not completed until May 26th, a default judgment entered on May 28th is erroneous. Quigley v. Ellenwood [Cal. App.] 82 P. 974. Plaintiff having filed a statement from which judgment may be litigated and having served notice of the filing of the statement and no affidavit of defense having been filed within 15 days after notice, judgment may be entered against defendant. Spetz v. Howard, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 420. See Defaults, 5 C. L. 982.

7. So held in a suit to cancel a deed for fraud and for damages in consequence of the fraud. Code Civ. Proc. § 267 construed. Marion v. City Council [S. C.] 52 S. E. 418 [dicta].

8. Tyndale v. Stanwood, 186 Mass. 59, 71 N. E. 83.

9. Tyndale v. Stanwood, 186 Mass. 59, 71 N. E. 83; Id., 73 N. E. 540.

10. So held where, in an action by trustee process, a claimant of the fund intervened and a finding was made for plaintiff as against the claimant, and the trustee was charged on his answer. Newburyport Inst. for Sav. v. Coffin [Mass.] 75 N. E. 81.

11. Where the court erroneously considered the October term as continuing after the May term had commenced, and rendered judgment during the May term as of the October term. Smith v. King of Arizona Min. & Mill. Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 357.

12. Code Civ. Proc. § 763. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737. Case affirmed 95 N. Y. S. 631 this point not being discussed.

13. Warner v. Miner [Wash.] 82 P. 1033. A decree is not rendered until it has been entered or filed of record. Paltzer v. Johnston, 114 Ill. App. 493.

14. Pub. St. 1882, c. 171, § 1; St. 1885, p. 892, c. 384, § 12 considered. Washington Nat. Bank v. Williams [Mass.] 74 N. E. 470.

15. Gallaway v. Rochester Loan & Banking Co. [Neb.] 104 N. W. 922. Where entry was made before final adjournment of term, held delay was not unreasonable. Id.

16. See 4 C. L. 294.

has made its findings of fact and conclusions of law and then decree the relief granted.[17] It must show with certainty the matters determined.[18] In New York, upon the trial of a demurrer, the decision must direct the final or interlocutory judgment to be entered thereupon, but it is not necessary to make any findings of fact.[19] A signed order for a specific judgment entered on the record and again signed may constitute a valid judgment.[20] It is essential to a final judgment in an action at law that it have either a nil capiat or an eat inde sine die or equivalent words.[21] In New York a decision which fails to separate the findings of fact and the conclusions of law is in the short form.[22] The judgment entry showing that defendant appeared by counsel, further recital in the judgment as to the court's jurisdiction is unnecessary and may be treated as surplusage.[23] In the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary, a judgment is limited to the relief sought by the pleadings, and it need not specify the kind or character of the execution which may be issued for its enforcement;[24] but an award of execution does not invalidate the judgment.[25] As to whether a judgment should be in the alternative for property or its value is largely statutory.[26] Judgments should run to and against parties in the capacity wherein they sue or defend.[27] A contradictory judgment will be reversed.[28] In some states statutes require the signature of the judge,[29] and the insertion of the amount of the costs;[30] in others, costs are taxed by the clerk.[31] The failure of a court to render a judgment in conformity with the law is

Form of decrees, see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 722-724.

17. Recital of facts found stricken out. Beebe v. Mead, 101 App. Div. 500, 92 N. Y. S. 51.

18. Transcript reciting: "Now, April 16, 1901, on motion of [counsel], the court directs judgment for want of an appearance. * * * Whereupon judgment is entered against defendant in the sum of $1,250, with interest from Nov. 14, 1898," sufficiently shows a judgment. Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703. Where a statement of claim embraces two distinct items and a rule is taken for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense as to one of the items specifying it, the court may give judgment by the simple entry "rule absolute" without filing an opinion designating the item for which judgment is given. Smucker v. Grinberg, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 531.

19. Rowe v. Rowe, 92 N. Y. S. 491.

20. An order for judgment which embodied the final determination of the action made by the trial court and was in the form required for a judgment, but concluded with a direction to enter judgment, signed by the judge and attested by the clerk, was recorded in full in the judgment book, where it was again signed by the judge and clerk, held, that such record was a valid judgment. Hagler v. Kelly [N. D.] 103 N. W. 629.

21. People v. Severson, 113 Ill. App. 496.

22. Jefferson County Nat. Bank v. Dewey, 181 N. Y. 98, 73 N. E. 569. See case for discussion of distinction between two forms.

23. Pacific Selling Co. v. Collins [Ala.] 39 So. 579. See Appearance, 5 C. L. 248.

24. Banning v. Roy [Or.] 82 P. 708. Under B. & C. Comp. § 218, in order to justify an arrest and imprisonment of a defendant upon an execution in a civil action, where he has been provisionally arrested and discharged on bail, it is not necessary that the judgment should show the issuance of the writ or an order therefor, or direct an execution against the person. Id. Laws 1899, pp. 299, 300, § 18 do not require that the judgment order in tax foreclosure proceedings contain a direction to the clerk to make out and enter an order of sale. Warner v. Miner [Wash.] 82 P. 1033. An award of execution adds nothing to the judgment. Hartz v. Hausser [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 141, 90 S. W. 63.

25. State v. Alexander [Tenn.] 90 S. W. 20.

26. Code 1896, § 4144, providing that if the property is not delivered to the officer making the levy and costs paid, an execution shall issue, does not require the judgment to be in the alternative for the property or its value. Johnson v. Citizens' Bank [Ala.] 39 So. 577.

27. A judgment against a receiver should run against him in his official capacity and direct payment in due course of administration. Malott v. Mapes, 111 Ill. App. 340; Malott v. Howell, 111 Ill. App. 233.

28. Judgment dismissing the action for want of prosecution and awarding costs against defendants. Vickers v. Chisholm [Colo. App.] 79 P. 302.

29. The provision of Code, § 242 that the record of the proceedings of the district court "shall be signed by the judge" is directory only. Donnelly v. Smith [Iowa] 103 N. W. 776. Held, under such section an appeal would lie from an order refusing a temporary writ of injunction in connection with an action to abate an intoxicating liquor nuisance, though it did not appear that the record entry had been signed by the judge. Id.

30. Under Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, p. 1589, c. 580) §§ 341, 342, a judgment is not complete until the costs are inserted. Allen v. Wells, Fargo & Co., 95 N. Y. S. 597.

not a clerical misprision.[32] Technical errors in the form of the judgment are not generally ground for reversal on appeal.[33] The trial court must enter judgment in accordance with an appellate mandate.[34]

Nunc pro tunc entries.[35]—Judgment having been actually rendered by the court,[36] but owing to the misprision of the clerk the judgment so pronounced has not been entered,[37] or has been erroneously entered,[38] the court of rendition has inherent power,[39] and it is its duty[40] at any time[41] on notice and motion[42] or sua sponte[43] to correct the record so as to make it recite the facts without vacating the judgment and entering a new one,[44] and if it refuses to so do the aggrieved party is entitled to mandamus to compel the correction.[45] This power exists even after the expiration of the term of rendition and the taking of an appeal,[46] and even after judgment on appeal, it being apparent that attention was not called to the error on review and the appellate decree being in no way based on such error.[47] By an extension of this doctrine judgments to which one is clearly entitled and which must have been omitted or erroneously framed by mere inadvertence will be entered or

31. State v. Alexander [Tenn.] 90 S. W. 20. See Costs, 5 C. L. 842.

32. Commonwealth v. Ratcliff, 27 Ky. L. R. 297, 84 S. W. 1147. Failure of the court to add an order awarding a capias ad satisfaciendum to a judgment against the sheriff of a county for collecting taxes in excess of the constitutional limit is not a mere clerical misprision. Id.

33. So held where the judgment was for damages instead of, technically, in debt. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411 [dicta]. Mistake in plaintiff's Christian name held immaterial. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Surrells, 115 Ill. App. 615.

34. In an action to set aside a deed it was ordered that plaintiff give a bond and collect the rents, and the mandate on appeal directed the dismissal of the complaint, held, a judgment against the sureties on the bond was unauthorized. Burnham v. Chase [Wis.] 102 N. W. 940. Where a lower court fails to enter a final decree in accordance with a mandate or rescript of an appellate court, the latter court may order the entry of such decree as the mandate or rescript calls for, to complete the record. Tyndale v. Stanwood [Mass.] 73 N. E. 540. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

35. See 4 C. L. 297.

36. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 79 P. 1014; Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. Clark Pressed Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 27; Mack v. Polecat Drainage Dist., 216 Ill. 56, 74 N. E. 691; Gagnon's case, 38 Ct. Cl. 10; Finch v. Finch, 111 Ill. App. 481.

37. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 79 P. 1014; Ex parte Marks [C. C. A.] 136 F. 168. May correct matters of form after term of rendition. Finch v. Finch, 111 Ill. App. 481. Under Acts 1881, p. 68, authorizing the court to allow and charge a lien for attorney's fees, the court may amend its decree in this regard so as to make it speak the truth. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249. Where clerk failed to make formal entry of judgment, court may order it entered nunc pro tunc. This though the attorney for the prevailing party has become judge. Stern v. Bennington [Md.] 60 A. 17.

38. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 79 P. 1014. Judgment not entered in full. Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. Clark Pressed Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 27. Error of computation appearing on the face of the record. Erickson v. Stockton & T. C. R. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 961. Where findings were duly made, reduced to writing, signed and filed in the cause but by the error, misprision and omission of the clerk were not entered on the judgment, held, they should be entered nunc pro tunc after entry of judgment. School Dist. No. 3, Carbon County, v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155. There is no difference in the power of a court to correct its minutes by entering nunc pro tunc an order made but not entered, and its power to correct its minutes by expunging therefrom an order never in fact made. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 194.

39. Ex parte Marks [C. C. A.] 136 F. 168. Id.

40. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 79 P. 1014; Erickson v. Stockton & T. C. R. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 961.

41. Ex parte Marks [C. C. A.] 136 F. 168.

42. Phelps v. Wolff [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1062; Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. Clark Pressed Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 27; Erickson v. Stockton & T. C. R. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 961.

43. Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. Clark Pressed Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 27.

44. Erickson v. Stockton & T. C. R. Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 961.

45. So held where court granted new trial and denied defendant's motion for judgment nunc pro tunc. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 79 P. 1014.

46. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 194. Power of court after proceedings to vacate judgment on motion for a new trial or on appeal or under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 is limited to the correction of mere clerical misprisions on the record, or to the excision of such parts of the record as appear to be or can be shown to be void for lack of jurisdiction or power. Grannis v. Superior Ct., 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891.

47. Edinburgh Lombard Inv. Co. v. Walsh [Kan.] 79 P. 688. Such a correction is not the rendition of a new judgment nor the changing of a judgment which has been affirmed by the supreme court. Id.

supplied.[48] A jurisdictional defect cannot be cured by a nunc pro tunc order.[49] Laches in making the motion may bar relief.[50] An entry which is insufficient to constitute a final judgment does not constitute a bar to an application for the entry of a nunc pro tunc judgment.[51] The entry of judgment nunc pro tunc as of the date of the motion for judgment is proper where prejudice would otherwise result from the delay in the decision of the case.[52] Where there has been no change of parties after verdict, the losing party is not prejudiced by a nunc pro tunc entry of judgment even though the court had no power to so enter it.[53] The one causing the error cannot object to its correction after the expiration of the term of rendition.[54] The petition in a suit to correct the record in a case by expunging an order never in fact made need not be supported by affidavit,[55] nor need it tender nor meet the issue covered by the order.[56] Except in those states wherein the judge, in open court, orally directs the clerk to enter up judgment,[57] parol evidence is inadmissible to show that the judgment was actually rendered.[58] On a motion to enter findings nunc pro tunc, the bill of exceptions is competent evidence that the findings were in fact made.[59] A nunc pro tunc judgment must conform to and be no broader in its terms than the judgment actually rendered.[60]

Contents of judgment roll.[61]—At common law the judgment roll was made up of all the papers in the case necessary to support the judgment, and every jurisdictional requisite to a valid judgment was required to be evidenced by some paper incorporated as a part thereof.[62] In Arizona a statement of the evidence is not a jurisdictional part of the judgment roll where a default is taken.[63]

Filing transcript in other courts.—Statutory requirements must be observed.[64]

48. Where after entry of judgment for the amount admitted by the answer to be due, plaintiff after trial resulting in his favor has another judgment for the entire claim, there is simply a clerical misprision which may be corrected on motion. Dersch v. Walker [Ky.] 89 S. W. 233. Technical error in referring an action on a guardian's bond to an assessor to ascertain the sum for which execution shall issue before entering judgment for the penalty of the bond. Donaher v. Flint [Mass.] 74 N. E. 927.

Note. In 15 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 214, citing Doane v. Glenn, 1 Colo. 456, it is said that this extension of the rule is based on the fiction that the omission or misentry was a clerical misprision.

49. So held where there was a failure to properly file the summons, etc., with the clerk as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 442. Fink v. Wallach, 95 N. Y. S. 872.

50. Six months' delay, plaintiff's attorney having succeeded to the judgeship and no other attorney being employed by plaintiff, held, plaintiff was not guilty of laches in moving for an entry of judgment nunc pro tunc. Stern v. Bennington [Md.] 60 A. 17.

51. Entry was made by clerk of court. Phelps v. Wolff [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1062.

52. Judgment so entered where pending reargument for a motion for judgment a child was born who would be a necessary party. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737, afd. 95 N. Y. S. 631.

53. Stern v. Bennington [Md.] 60 A. 17.

54. Clerical error. Ex parte Marks [C. C. A.] 136 F. 168.

55. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 194.

56. Where order sought to be expunged purported to allow an appeal without payment or security for costs, held, the petition was not required to tender or meet the issue whether the appellants in the original case were unable to pay the costs or give security therefor. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Walker [Tex. Civ. App] 87 S. W. 194.

57. Clerk failed to enter judgment. Stern v. Bennington [Md.] 60 A. 17.

58. Crystal Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. Marion Gas Co. [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 15. Nunc pro tunc entry denied where motion stated that judge had started to write the subject of the entry and had written two words thereof. Id. Naturalization decree. Gagnon's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 10. The fact that the court gave judgment at the previous term can only be proved by some memorial paper or minute in the case at such former term. Mack v. Polecat Drainage Dist., 216 Ill. 56, 74 N. E. 691.

59. School Dist. No. 3, Carbon County v. Western Tube Co. [Wyo.] 80 P. 155.

60. Where the decree so entered contains findings not supported by the evidence introduced on the hearing of the application for its entry, it will be reversed as to such findings. Phelps v. Wolff [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1062.

61. See 4 C. L. 298.

62. Steinfield v. Montijo [Ariz.] 80 P. 325.

63. Rev. St. 1901, §§ 1435, 1443 construed. Steinfield v. Montijo [Ariz.] 80 P. 325.

64. Where a certificate of a judgment, filed Feb. 1, 1898, failed to recite the name of the owner as required by Code 1896, §§ 1920-1922, the judgment did not constitute a lien. Greenwood v. Trigg, Dobbs & Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 361. Acts 1898-99, p. 34, amending such

An abstract is not equivalent to a transcript.[65] In Mississippi a justice's judgment may be enrolled in the circuit court immediately upon rendition.[66]

§ 5. Occasion and propriety of amending, opening, vacating or restraining enforcement.[67] A. Before finality.[68]—During the term the judgment, unless it be rendered by consent,[69] lies wholly within the control of the court, and the latter, in the exercise of its discretion,[70] can vacate,[71] alter, revise or amend it[72] as it sees fit, short of introducing and adjudicating a new cause of action,[73] even though a transcript be filed in a higher court for the purpose of creating a lien.[74] The discretion must, however, be exercised for reasonable cause and upon such grounds as may reasonably happen to a person in the exercise of ordinary diligence in the protection of his rights.[75] A motion to vacate may prevent finality and a continuance will then extend the power,[76] and to effectuate this purpose the motion may be oral and unaccompanied by a statement of the grounds therefor.[77] If the case goes over by law as undisposed of, no order of continuance is needed.[78] In many states and especially in the case of default judgments[79] statutes extend the time at which the judgment may be set aside and defenses let in, and the weight of authority is to the effect that these statutory provisions are mandatory[80] and apply only to the code provisions, held prospective in its operation and not to cure such certificate. Id.

65. The filing of an abstract of a justice's judgment in the clerk's office of the circuit court confers no authority upon the clerk of the circuit court to issue execution thereon. Steringer v. John Mackie & Co. [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 942.

66. Even though the five days allowed for an appeal have not elapsed. Code 1892, § 2413 construed. Minshew v. Davidson & Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 315.

67. See 4 C. L. 299. As to Equity Practice see generally, Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 729, 732.

68. See 4 C. L. 299. See New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 4 C. L. 810.

69. The court cannot modify or change the terms of a consent decree. Massey v. Barbee, 138 N. C. 84, 50 S. E. 567.

70. Horn v. United Securities Co. [Or.] 81 P. 1009; Klepfer v. Keokuk, 126 Iowa, 592, 102 N. W. 515; In re Bugg's Estate [S. C.] 51 S. E. 263. B. & C. Comp. § 103. Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 94. So held where defendant and corroborating witnesses testified as to facts constituting a meritorious defense. Gottlieb v. Middleberg, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 525.

71. Kloeckner v. Schafer, 110 Ill. App. 391. Default judgment taken before answer day. Rev. St. § 5354, subd. 3 construed. Elyria Milling Co. v. Swartz, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 251. The court may set aside a verdict and judgment and entertain a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48. Default judgments taken before answer day are irregular within the meaning of Rev. St. § 5354, subd. 3, and hence may be vacated during term of rendition. Elyria Milling Co. v. Swartz, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 251.

72. Can strike an award of execution against an administrator from the judgment. McLaughlin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ill. App. 262. Extra allowance of costs made. Bowers v. Male, 102 App. Div. 609, 92 N. Y. S. 183. Defendant held entitled to have a judgment rendered on the merits amended to show such fact. Ruegamer v. Cieslinskie, 93 N. Y. S. 599.

73. An amendment changing the real plaintiff held not permissible. Good Roads Machinery Co. v. Old Lycoming Tp., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 156.

74. Filing a transcript of a default judgment rendered in a superior court in the district court so as to create a lien on land does not deprive the superior court of power to set it aside. Code §§ 260, 263, 273, 3790 and 4537 considered. Klepfer v. Keokuk, 126 Iowa, 592, 102 N. W. 515.

75. Moody v. Reichow, 38 Wash. 303, 80 P. 461.

76, 77. Hartman v. Viera, 113 Ill. App. 216.

78. Harkness v. Jarvis [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 1025.

79. A defendant served by publication only held entitled at any time within three years after the rendition of the judgment to have the judgment reopened and to be allowed to come in and defend. Gen. St. 1901, § 4511 considered. McKee v. Covalt [Kan.] 81 P. 475. The general provisions of the statute of limitations do not govern suits brought under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 609, providing that parties against whom a judgment has been rendered without other notice than by publication may have the same reopened at any time within 5 years of rendition. Hollenback v. Poston, 34 Ind. App. 481, 73 N. E. 162. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5518, providing for the vacation of default judgments based on service by publication, applies only to actions for the recovery of possession of real property and not to a suit to set aside fraudulent conveyances. Jordan v. Hutchinson [Wash.] 81 P. 867. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 496, the right to appear is absolute and conditional on the payment of costs or securing thereof and the appearing defendant is not required to give any notice to the opposite party except as to subsequent steps. Coffin v. Ontonagon Circuit Judge [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 219, 103 N. W. 835.

80. National Metal Co. v. Greene Consol. Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 397. Rev. St. 1901, enumerated grounds.[81] Where a remittitur is entered after judgment, the judgment should be corrected and not allowed to stand for the full amount.[82] In some states an irregular judgment may be set aside after term[83] on a showing of merits.[84] In North Dakota the word "term" as applied to the district court is deemed to have lost its common-law meaning; hence it follows that such court can exercise its inherent power to grant relief, on motion, from an irregular judgment or order at any time unless the time for so doing has been limited by law.[85] An interlocutory judgment may be set aside at any time before final judgment.[86] In some cases when necessary for the furtherance of justice an appellate court on appeal may grant relief,[87] especially against clerical errors[88] and inadvertent omissions.[89]

(§ 5) B. Right to relief after the judgment has become final as by the expiration of the term of rendition or of the statutory extension thereof.[90]—In the absence of statutes a judgment cannot be vacated, altered or amended after it has become a finality[91] unless it is void[92] or was procured by fraud,[93] accident[94]

par. 1478 is mandatory and the trial court has no power to vacate, set aside or modify its judgment at a term subsequent to the term of rendition. Id. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 75, requiring the application to be made within six months after adjournment of the term of rendition, the court cannot set aside an irregular or erroneous judgment after the expiration of such time. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 80 P. 1065. Under Laws 1880, p. 356, c. 232, § 63, an application to open a default judgment whether made in the city or in the county court must be made within 20 days after the rendition of such judgment. Cooper v. Cooper, 94 N. Y. S. 814.

81. A motion to vacate for irregularity may be heard and granted even though more than one year has elapsed since notice of the judgment. Rev. Codes 1899, §§ 5298, 5605 construed. Martinson v. Marzolf [N. D.] 103 N. W. 937.

82. Forcible entry and detainer proceedings. Barada-Ghio Real Estate Co. v. Heidbrink [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1109.

83. Code Civ. Proc. § 602. Gavin v. Reed [Neb.] 102 N. W. 455. May be set aside within a reasonable time after the expiration of the term. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 N. C. 515, 50 S. E. 221. Code, § 274 applies only to regular judgments. Becton v. Dunn, 137 N. C. 559, 50 S. E. 289. A default judgment entered while there was a good answer and defense bond on file is irregular. Id.

84. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 N. C. 515, 50 S. E. 221. Code Civ. Proc. § 602. Gavin v. Reed [Neb.] 102 N. W. 455.

85. Default judgment entered against one not in default may be set aside at any time. Martinson v. Marzolf [N. D.] 103 N. W. 937.

86. A decree pro confesso rendered on a cross bill is interlocutory and within Federal Equity Rule 1 and hence the decree may be vacated on motion after the adjournment of the term. Blythe Co. v. Bankers' Inv. Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 281.

87. While the supreme court will not ordinarily correct irregularities in the judgment on writ of error, it will do so if the statutory time for such correction in the trial court has expired and the judgment debtor is without other remedy. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Schuchman, 189 Mo. 468, 88 S. W. 626. See, also, Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

88. Clerical error in form of judgment. Johnson v. Citizens' Bank [Ala.] 39 So. 577. Mistake in description of land in partition decree. Hanrick v. Hanrick [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 795. Where a mistake in the measure of damages is susceptible of mathematical calculation, an appellate court may correct the same. Cox v. Burdett, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 346.

89. A decree may be amended by supplying an omission to fix a day of sale. Gregory v. Perry [S. C.] 50 S. E. 787.

90. See 4 C. L. 299, 301, 304, 306. Nunc pro tunc entries, see ante, § 4. Statutes extending time before judgment becomes final, see ante, this section, subdivision A.

91. After term of rendition. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 80 P. 1065; Finch v. Finch, 111 Ill. App. 481; Doremus v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 513, 72 N. E. 403. Where several terms had elapsed between an order of confirmation of an assessment and an order denying the sale of the property benefited, held the order denying the sale did not operate to set aside the judgment of confirmation and hence a subsequent assessment could only be made under Laws 1897, p. 122, § 60. Id. Rev. St. 1901, par. 1478 construed. National Metal Co. v. Greene Consol. Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 397. A court cannot at a later term release a final judgment entered at a former term upon a writ of scire facias upon a recognizance of bail. State v. Boner [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 944. Alleged errors of law cannot be examined and revised on motion entered after term of rendition. Crane v. Stafford, 217 Ill. 21, 75 N. E. 424. Federal court has no power after expiration of the term to vacate judgment for fraud in the procurement. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. So held where the judgment was based on a false return of service of process, plaintiff at law having participated in the fraud. Id., 137 F. 222. A default judgment of forfeiture for an alleged attempt to defraud the customs laws cannot be vacated for irregularities in the procedure after term and more than two years after its entry. United States v. Four Lorgnette Holders, 132 F. 564. After proceedings to vacate or modify a judgment on moor mistake,[95] or unless the vacation or modification is ordered by an appellate court.[96] In many states this rule has been enlarged by statutes providing for the vacation of a judgment taken against a party through his mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect.[97] That the judgment is erroneous is no ground for setting it aside[98] except on appeal.[99] Mere irregularities are not grounds for relief[1] and this is true, though the judgment be against an infant, there being no proof that the latter suffered substantial injustice.[2] After the term of rendition courts of law exercise equitable control over judgments by confession.[3] While a Federal law court has no power to vacate its judgment of a former term[4] except for errors of fact such as can be relied on under writ of error coram nobis,[5] for a fact occurring after judgment such as can be relied on audita querela,[6] or for want of jurisdiction shown on the face of the record,[7] still such court has power, equitable in its nature, to so control the execution of its final processes as to prevent a wrong from being done thereby.[8]

In all cases the grant of relief is discretionary with the court[9] and the exercise of this discretion ought to tend in a reasonable degree to secure a determination of tion for a new trial or on appeal or under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 are ended and the time therefor has expired, the superior court has no power or authority to vacate or modify its judgment in a matter of substance, on account of judicial error in the decision, no matter how apparent such error may be on the face of the decree. Grannis v. Superior Ct., 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891.

92. Where judgment was void by reason of the relationship of the judge to one of the parties to the action. Elmira Realty Co. v. Gibson, 92 N. Y. S. 913; Bailey v. Hood, 38 Wash. 700, 80 P. 559; People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 80 P. 1065; Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182; MacFarland v. Saunders, 25 App. D. C. 438; Hickey v. Conley, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 388. Code, § 3796, providing for opening a default judgment and granting a new trial, does not apply where judgment is void for want of jurisdiction. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Taylor [Iowa] 105 N. W. 125. A default judgment may be directly attacked for the insufficiency of service by publication in a proceeding to set the same aside. Id.

93. Dart v. Richardson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1094; Arnout v. Chadwick [Neb.] 104 N. W. 942; Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154; York County v. Thompson [Pa.] 61 A. 1024. What constitutes fraud, see post, next subdivision.

94. What constitutes accident, see next subdivision.

95. What constitutes mistake, see next subdivision.

96. Doremus v. Chicago, 212 Ill. 513, 72 N. E. 403.

97. Clement v. Ireland, 138 N. C. 136, 50 S. E. 570.

98. Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood [Wash.] 82 P. 933; McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384, 77 P. 736. Notice of leave to amend being unnecessary, an erroneous judgment that the return of service to such notice was sufficient is not an error of law justifying a vacation of the final judgment. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. After proceedings to vacate or modify a judgment on motion for a new trial on an appeal or under Code Civ. Proc. § 473 are ended, and the time therefor has expired, the superior court has no power or authority to vacate or modify its judgment, in a matter of substance, on account of judicial error in the decision, no matter how apparent such error may be on the face of the record. Grannis v. Superior Ct., 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891.

99. McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384, 77 P. 736.

1. By moving to open a judgment by confession one admits the regularity of the judgment and merely questions the right of plaintiff to recover on the merits. Treasurer of Division No. 168 v. Keller, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 135.

2. This is especially true where the rights of third persons have become involved. Middleton v. Stokes [S. C.] 50 S. E. 539.

3. Kloeckner v. Schafer, 110 Ill. App. 391.

4. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222; Id., 137 F. 198. A Federal law court has after the end of the term no power to vacate a judgment at law founded on a false but apparently valid return of service of process, whether or not the fraud was induced by plaintiff. Id., 137 F. 222.

5. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222. (Coram "vobis" in opinion evidently a misprint.)

6. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222. See post, § 13.

7, 8. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222.

9. Everett v. Everett, 180 N. Y. 452, 73 N. E. 231; Kjetland v. Pederson [S. D.] 104 N. W. 677; Pelegrinelli v. McCloud River Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 695; Walton v. Hartman, 38 Wash. 34, 80 P. 196. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5298. Keeney v. Fargo [N. D.] 105 N. W. 92; Winstone v. Winstone [Wash.] 82 P. 268; Hartman v. Viera, 113 Ill. App. 216. Trial court has power to set aside a default for want of an affidavit of defense. O'Connell v. King, 26 R. I. 544, 59 A. 926. Discretion is governed by equitable principles. Martinson v. Marzolf [N. D.] 103 N. W. 937. While an action to recover land was pending, there was a contest in the Federal land office between the same parties involving the validity of certain homestead filings, which contest resulted in a decision for the defendants in the present action, but there was a petition for review of that decision still pending and undetermined, held, the rights of the parties upon a trial.[10] Relief will not be granted if the moving party has by conduct or otherwise waived the irregularity, or if his conduct has been such as to render it inequitable to grant relief.[11] Relief will be denied if the applicant has been guilty of unexcused[12] negligence or laches,[13] and in this connection, that if the petition for review resulted in a decision for plaintiff then an irregular judgment in his favor by the state court should not be vacated, except as to costs, but if the petition resulted in an affirmance, the state judgment should be vacated. Id. Partition decree reopened to allow divorced wife of one of the parties to appear and set up her claims. Foster v. Phinizy, 121 Ga. 673, 49 S. E. 865.

Texas: In the absence of sufficient excuse the granting of relief is discretionary. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelley [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 60, 87 S. W. 660, rvg. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

10. Default judgment. Walsh v. Boyle [Minn.] 103 N. W. 506. Default judgment opened, on condition that defendant pay plaintiff counsel fees, where he had a good defense and was not notified that the case had been assigned for trial, though he was negligent in employing counsel. Miller v. McCormick [R. I.] 60 A. 48

11. Martinson v. Marzolf [N. D.] 103 N. W. 937.

12. In the absence of a sufficient excuse the right is discretionary. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelley [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 60, 87 S. W. 660, rvg. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855. Default judgment set aside where it appeared that failure to enter an appearance was an oversight due to the papers in the case getting misplaced. Klepfer v. Keokuk, 126 Iowa, 592, 102 N. W. 515. After remittitur from appellate court had been filed, plaintiffs served an amended complaint on the stenographer of defendant's attorneys during their absence and the stenographer failed to call the attorney's attention to the matter. One of defendant's attorneys had requested the clerk of the district court to inform him of the filing of the remittitur, but the clerk failed to do so, and though such attorney met plaintiff's attorney every day the latter never referred to the amended complaint, held default judgment would be set aside. Greene v. Montana Brewing Co. [Mont.] 79 P. 693. Where the answer was served one day after the expiration of the statutory time to answer and the application for leave to answer showed a defense on the merits, reasonable excuse, an attachment of sufficient of defendant's land to protect plaintiff and no delay in trial, the default judgment should be opened. Walsh v. Boyle [Minn.] 103 N. W. 506. Default judgment opened on condition that defendant pay the plaintiff's counsel fees, where he had a good defense and was not notified that the case had been assigned for trial, though he was negligent in employing counsel. Miller v. McCormick [R. I.] 60 A. 48. After injury defendant company prepared for trial, action was not commenced for two years, then defendant turned its evidence, etc., over to an insurance company under contract to defend the same; it failed to do so and a default judgment was entered; held, there being a showing of merits, the default should be opened. Pelegrinelli v. McCloud River Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 695. Defendant's rights being fully protected by counsel, the latter's refusal to state that the allowance of an amendment to the complaint surprised him did not entitle defendant to have a judgment against him vacated. Carlisle v. Barnes, 102 App. Div. 582, 92 N. Y. S. 924, afg. 45 Misc. 6, 90 N. Y. S. 810. Five years delay held to bar right to have default judgment opened on mere statement of defendant that "for some unaccountable oversight no affidavit of defense was filed." Burrowes Co. v. Cambridge Springs Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 315. Where landlord had no knowledge of the action against tenant in time to have himself made a party, he is entitled to have a default judgment against the tenant opened. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. Where defendant's attorney while away from his home city telegraphed to another city where trial was to be had, inquiring of plaintiff's attorney as to when the case would be reached, and plaintiff's attorney replied that it would be impossible to reach the case that week, and that he had written; but instead of writing he telegraphed date of trial to place from which the telegram of defendant's attorney had been sent, defendant's attorney having gone home did not get the telegram and was not present at the trial; held, default judgment would be vacated on the payment of costs. O'Toole v. Phoenix Ins. Co. [Wash.] 82 P. 175. On a motion to vacate a default judgment it appeared that the defense could not be established in the absence of a certain witness. No steps were taken to secure his attendance until June 16th but there was no expectation that the case would be tried until June 15th. The witness had left June 5th, and his attendance could not be secured before June 29th. Defendant had no control over the movements of the witness and it was unsafe to stipulate to go to trial on the 29th whether he was present or not. Held, judgment would be set aside. Richard v. National Distilling Co., 95 N. Y. S. 547.

13. Affidavit showing wanton negligence, default judgment will not be vacated. Gordon v. Gordon [S. D.] 105 N. W. 244. Where bankrupt relied on receiver to interpose his discharge as a defense, held, judgment against him would not be opened. Mack Mfg. Co. v. Van Duerson, 138 F. 953. Application to open a default judgment against a corporation denied where summons was personally served on its secretary. Billingham v. Miller & T. Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 356. Where defendant's counsel forwarded cross complaint and answer by registered mail but failed to receive receipt of delivery from the post office department and failed to investigate the matter until two days before default was taken, held, default judgment would not be opened. Carr v. First Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 947. To warrant a court in setting aside a judgment upon a showing of surprise under Rev. Codes 1899, § 5298, the party must move in the absence of collusion or fraud,[14] negligence of an agent[15] or attorney[16] is the negligence of the principal. Except in the case of a judgment void for the want of jurisdiction[17] the petitioner must show that he has a meritorious defense[18] at promptly and within one year after notice. Keeney v. Fargo [N. D.] 105 N. W. 92. In cases of motions to set aside judgments not within the provisions of Rev. Codes 1899, § 5298, application for relief must be made seasonably. Id. Where defendant was in court with his witnesses and one of his attorneys on the day set for trial, but, owing to the illness of another of his attorneys, the case was postponed until the next day, and after the postponement defendant abandoned the case; held, in the absence of any excuse, a default judgment would not be set aside. Brown v. Huber. 92 N. Y. S. 940. Where defendant acquiesced in a default judgment by voluntarily paying it, a motion to set the judgment aside and permit defendant to answer, relief denied where affidavit of his attorney did not include a copy of the proposed answer and showed but slight excuse for the failure to answer in time. Wood v. Hall, 95 N. Y. S. 175. That one of the defendants understood inperfectly the English language and had difficulty in explaining his defense to his counsel held not to excuse 14 months' delay, defendants having been twice notified that the motion for default would be called for hearing. Moody v. Reichow, 38 Wash. 303, 80 P. 461. A landlord knowing of the institution of an action of ejectment against his tenant in time to make defense but failing so to do is not entitled to have the judgment opened. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222. Where a judgment note is not entered up until five years after its date, and no rule is taken to open it until four years after its entry and the testimony taken on the rule to open is contradictory in character, held, the court was justified in refusing to open the judgment. Fryberger v. Motter, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 317. In New York the mere fact that a defendant not served with summons knows of the action and takes no steps to prevent proceedings therein does not constitute laches, barring his right to have the default judgment set aside. O'Connell v. Gallagher, 93 N. Y. S. 643. Where evidence tended to show deliberate intention on the part of defendant and his attorney to abandon defense and permit plaintiff to take judgment, held, default judgment would not be opened. Peterson v. Crosier [Utah] 81 P. 860. That defendant would have lost his position as an employe of a corporation had he attended the trial is no ground for opening default judgment where he knew of the trial but took no steps to prevent its being tried in his absence. Id. Where facts showing an alleged abandonment of a widow's homestead could have been discovered before the trial of a suit to deprive her thereof, held, there was no reason for vacating the judgment. Moore v. Rogers, 27 Ky. L. R. 827, 86 S. W. 977. Where a party has a meritorious defense and through his own intentional neglect failed to appear for trial, and a judgment was rendered against him, the judgment will not be vacated, for the purpose of allowing him to plead some other meritorious defense which he might have to the action, and which was known to his counsel at the time he filed his answer in the first instance. Peterson v. Crosier [Utah] 81 P. 860. Where there was 10 years delay before commencing action, 5 years more before bringing it to an issue of fact and 15 years more before trying to bring the issue to trial, held, a judgment of dismissal would not be vacated on the petition of persons who had a speculative interest in the result, plaintiff's claim of title resting upon the fact that defendants' remote grantor, who was the husband of one of the plaintiffs and father of the others, executed his deed as an unmarried man. Hoffmeister v. Renton Co-op. Coal Co. [Wash.] 82 P. 127.

14. The supreme court of Washington is not prepared to announce the rule that negligence of one's attorney is no defense as they can conceive exceptions thereto. Winstone v. Winstone [Wash.] 82 P. 268.

15. Failure of agent to pay taxes held no ground for vacating default tax judgments. Warner v. Miner [Wash.] 82 P. 1033.

16. Carr v. First Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 947; Peterson v. Crosier [Utah] 81 P. 860; Foster v. Weber, 110 Ill. App. 5. Complaint alleging negligence and financial irresponsibility of attorney held insufficient to warrant vacation of judgment. Jones v. Vane [Idaho] 82 P. 110. Where one of a series of similar cases was decided in favor of plaintiff and defendant's counsel, though in court and ready for trial, refused to proceed with the rest of the cases, held, judgment in one of the latter would not be set aside. Sutter v. New York, 106 App. Div. 129, 94 N. Y. S. 515. Where on the day counsel was notified that his motion to strike out part of the complaint was overruled he prepared and transmitted an answer and wrote plaintiff's counsel asking for advice as to what to do, to which plaintiff's counsel replied he had obtained judgment, held, judgment would not be set aside. Horn v. United Securities Co. [Or.] 81 P. 1009.

The supreme court of Washington is not prepared to announce the rule that negligence of one's attorney is no defense, as they can conceive of exceptions thereto. Winstone v. Winstone [Wash.] 82 P. 268.

17. Suit to restrain enforcement and have decree vacated. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837.

18. Bell v. Thompson [Cal.] 82 P. 327; El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelley [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 60, 87 S. W. 660, rvg. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855; Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411; Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co. v. Krempel, 116 Ill. App. 253. Default judgment. Foster v. Weber, 110 Ill. App. 5. Motion to set aside a judgment for irregularities. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 N. C. 515, 50 S. E. 221. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 521, one who petitions for the vacation of a judgment and for a new trial must plead and prove that he has a defense to the action. Wireman v. Wireman's Adm'r, 27 Ky. L. R. 961, 87 S. W. 319. Decree pro confesso for an accounting will not be vacated where it is made clear to

least to a part of the cause of action;[19] but the fact that he has such a defense is not of itself sufficient to warrant the opening of the judgment.[20] The Code of Colorado does not authorize the granting of relief after the expiration of the term, except where it appears that the party aggrieved has been unable to apply for the relief sought during the term of rendition.[21] In New York a court has no power after final judgment granting an absolute divorce to incorporate a provision in the judgment for the maintenance and education of the children of the marriage.[22] A judgment will not be vacated where the subject of the controversy has been eliminated.[23] The want of notice for lack of which a judgment may be set aside means that notice which is essential to give the court jurisdiction;[24] it does not, in the absence of statutory provisions, mean notice of the time set for trial.[25] Clerical mistakes are not grounds for vacating the judgment.[26] A decree will not be opened on the ground of newly discovered evidence unless the latter changes the aspect of the case.[27] The fact that the petition is prosecuted by persons who have a speculative interest in the result is an element worthy of consideration, especially when the cause of action is at best doubtful or where its successful prosecution will deprive persons of property to which they were morally entitled, and would be legally so but for a mistake of law made at the time they acquired it.[28] The grounds urged must be consistent with the applicant's previous conduct with reference to the case.[29]

the court that defendants are under a duty to account. Tull v. Brooke, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 426. Where defendant in a default judgment voluntarily paid it, held, relief would be denied, the affidavit not setting forth a copy of the proposed answer. Wood v. Hall, 95 N. Y. S. 175. A complaint to set aside a judgment procured without any fraud on causes of action barred by limitations at the time the suit to set aside the judgment is commenced is fatally defective where it fails to affirmatively show that there was a good defense to the original action. Burbridge v. Rauer, 146 Cal. 21, 79 P. 526. By moving to open a judgment by confession one admits the regularity of the judgment and merely questions the right of plaintiff to recover on the merits. Treasurer of Division No. 168 v. Keller, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 135.

19, 20. Reed v. Bank of Ukiah [Cal.] 82 P. 845.

21. Held proper to refuse an application for relief after term where the only reason for not making the application during the term was that plaintiff erroneously believed that he was entitled to a new trial as a matter of right. Smith v. Mock [Colo.] 79 P. 1011.

22. Code Civ. Proc. § 1771. Salomon v. Salomon, 101 App. Div. 588, 34 Civ. Proc. R. 113, 92 N. Y. S. 184.

23. A decree for divorce will not after the death of the successful party be set aside on the application of the defeated party on the ground that the court was without jurisdiction. Dwyer v. Nolan [Wash.] 82 P. 746. Personal representative of such decedent cannot consent to the setting aside of such decree nor represent decedent in the action to set aside. Id.

24. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 80 P. 1065.

25. People v. District Ct. [Colo.] 80 P. 1065.

But see Miller v. McCormick [R. I.] 60 A. 48, where a default judgment was opened on condition that defendant pay plaintiff's counsel fees, where he had a good defense and was not notified that the case had been assigned for trial, though he was negligent in employing counsel.

26. Where judgment gave date of filing as prior to date the cause was heard, held a mere clerical error, the clerk testifying that the latter date was left blank and he filled it in by mistake erroneously. Warner v. Miner [Wash.] 82 P. 1033. In the absence of such a showing the judgment will not be set aside because the clerk of court appointed the guardian ad litem without authority. Id. Nor, in the absence of such a showing, will the judgment be set aside because the case was heard at chambers on the consent of such guardian ad litem. Id.

27. In re Chedsey, 95 N. Y. S. 342. Judgment in habeas corpus for the custody of a child will not be opened to allow the respondent to offer further testimony as to existing facts upon the mere vague intimation that additional evidence might possibly be obtained by further investigation. Ex parte Davidge [S. C.] 51 S. E. 269.

28. Hoffmeister v. Renton Co-op. Coal Co. [Wash.] 82 P. 127. Where plaintiffs in enjectment were under no legal disability at the time the cause of action arose but they delayed 10 years before commencing action, 5 years more before bringing it to an issue of fact and 15 years more before trying to bring the issue to trial, held, a judgment of dismissal would not be vacated on the petition of persons who had a speculative interest in the result, plaintiff's claim of title resting upon the fact that defendants' remote grantor, who was the husband of one of the plaintiffs and father of the others, executed his deed as an unmarried man. Id.

29. Where defendant defaulted and then asked for an extension of time to answer on the ground that it desired to interpose a counterclaim and that the facts constitut-

A motion to set aside a default judgment raises the question of the sufficiency of the declaration to support the same,[30] but not the truth of such allegations.[31] On a motion to vacate the court will not require the same particularity in the pleadings as when they are challenged on trial.[32] Where, pending a motion to vacate based on invalid returns of service of process, a motion to amend is made and the amended return discloses a valid service, the motion will not be granted if the facts stated in the amended return are true.[33]

A court of equity[34] in the absence of statutory provisions[35] has the inherent,[36] discretionary[37] power to set aside or enjoin the enforcement of a judgment rendered in an action at law,[38] even though one action be in the Federal and the other in the state courts[39] for fraud in the procurement of the decree[40] unaccompanied by ing such counterclaim were known only to an absent witness, and the request was denied and judgment entered for plaintiff, held, it would not be set aside where the answer tendered with the motion did not set up a counterclaim but relied on facts at all times available to defendant. Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 94. Where basis of petition was the negligence of petitioner's attorney but it appeared that other counsel was secured who made a motion for a new trial but did not appeal from the order refusing to grant a new trial, held, judgment would not be vacated. Divorce decree. Winstone v. Winstone [Wash.] 82 P. 268. Plaintiff is not entitled to have a default opened as a matter of right where the case was twice passed at his request, because of engagement of counsel who it was stated was to try it for him, and an application for further adjournment on the ground that plaintiff's guardian ad litem was to try the case and had a conflicting engagement. Cohen v. Meryash, 93 N. Y. S. 529.

30. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co. v. Krempel, 116 Ill. App. 253.

31. Where the complaint in a suit to foreclose a mortgage alleges that the mortgage was given to secure two notes, a default judgment of foreclosure will not be vacated on the ground that the mortgage in fact secured but one of the notes. Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434, 79 P. 959.

32. Petition in replevin held sufficient though it did not allege ownership or right to possession, it stating the facts entitling plaintiff to possession. Thompson v. Caddo County Bank [Okl.] 82 P. 927. Petition in replevin pleading the title of plaintiff to be that of mortgagee under a chattel mortgage and stating that deeming itself insecure it took possession, sustained on motion to vacate though it did not particularize plaintiff's special ownership. Id.

33. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222.

34. See 4 C. L. 304-306. Bills of review or bills in the nature of bills of review, see Equity, 5 C. L. 1144. For law, practice and forms see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 952.

35. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 285, a suit will not lie in the chancery division to enjoin proceedings on a judgment in the law and equity division of the circuit court. Nairin v. Kentucky Heating Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 551, 86 S. W. 676.

36. The power of a court of equity to purge a consent decree for alimony of fraud entering into the procurement thereof is not derived from § 18 of the Divorce Act. Griswold v. Griswold, 111 Ill. App. 269.

37. Is entitled to exercise the same discretion in granting or refusing the relief asked as on application for a bill of review. Fraudulent divorce decree. Kerans v. Kerans [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 305. Under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 246, § 2, providing that in case of judgment by default or by mistake the court may within six months after entry thereof set aside the same and reinstate the case, the power thus given is discretionary and not subject to review by the supreme court. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Grant of Federal injunction against state judgment. 26 Stat. 826 considered. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39.

38. Probate decrees: Court of equity has jurisdiction to set aside a decree of a county court approving and settling the final account of an administrator. B. & C. Comp. § 911 considered. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351. A decree approving and settling the final account of an administrator is such a final adjudication that equity will set it aside for fraud in its procurement, though the distribution has not been made nor the administrator discharged. Id.

39. State court may entertain bill to restrain enforcement of decree or judgment of a Federal court. Keith v. Alger [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 71. Federal courts can grant relief against state judgment. Rev. St. U. S. § 720 is not to be literally construed. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39. In such case a preliminary injunction may be issued against the defendants to prevent the collection of the judgment by execution or otherwise. Id.

40. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351. Consent decree for alimony. Griswold v. Griswold, 111 Ill. App. 269. Will relieve against a default judgment entered on account of fraud. Goldie Const. Co. v. Rich Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 587. Fraud must have prevented use of defense. White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836. In the Federal courts equity alone can relieve against a judgment procured by fraud. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. Defendant being free from laches, equity will grant relief from a judgment obtained on a false return of service of process, plaintiff at law participating in the fraud. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222. Where the false return of service of process is the sole act of the person making the return and such person is an officer, there is no relief in equity in the Federal courts. Id.

NOTE: Private process server: In Kibbe unexcused[41] negligence,[42] laches[43] or fault[44] on the part of him who invokes the remedy or his attorney,[45] and in this connection ample means for information is equivalent to knowledge.[46] This remedy cannot be utilized for the correction of errors or irregularities,[47] or where the petitioner had or has an adequate legal remedy.[48] Equity will not grant relief unless it clearly appears that the petitioner

v. Benson, 17 Wall. [U. S.] 625, 21 Law. Ed. 741, by mistake or fraud a private process server, apparently without the connivance of the plaintiff at law, made a false return of service and relief was granted on the ground that the defendant at law had no notice.—From King v. Davis, 137 F. 222.

What constitutes fraud, see post, next subdivision.

41. Petitioner must show fraud, surprise or circumstances beyond his control in order to excuse default. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Judgment on a note opened on suit by an indorser the latter having relied on the maker's promise to defend the action and the note having been paid which fact was, at the time, known to the maker and holder of the note alone. Johnson v. Chilton [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 648. Equity will relieve where petitioner was ignorant of his defense at the time of the trial and could not have discovered it by the exercise of reasonable diligence in time to set it up at law. Chapman v. Salfisberg, 111 Ill. App. 102. Party seeking relief must show that he was prevented by accident, mistake or fraud from maintaining his legal rights and that the obstacle preventing him could not have been overcome or avoided by any reasonable diligence on his part. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392. See, also, White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836.

42. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351; White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836; Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Evidence held sufficient to sustain finding that plaintiff and his attorney were inexcusably negligent in failing to defend suit. White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836. In order that newly discovered evidence may be available the complaint must show diligence in discovering it. The mere want of knowledge of its existence is not sufficient. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392.

43. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351; Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Must show a clear case of diligence. White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836. Complaint must show that petitioner was diligent. City of Ft. Pierre v. Hall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 470. Eight months' delay after entry of decree settling administrator's account is not such laches as will preclude setting aside for fraud. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351.

44. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351; White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836; Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. When a defendant suffers judgment to be taken against him which he might have avoided by pleading and proving his discharge in bankruptcy, he cannot obtain relief therefrom in equity. White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836.

45. Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co. v. Billingsley [Neb.] 105 N. W. 85.

46. A city denied equitable relief against default judgment on certain warrants where defenses were matters of public record, and the city officials had, for five years before seeking relief against such judgments, ample means of access to such records, though they claimed that it was hard to locate the required papers. City of Ft. Pierre v. Hall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 470.

47. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351. Under Va. Code 1904, pp. 1406, 1728, a rule to plead being unnecessary the fact that no such rule was served, as directed by a court order, is not ground for vacation of a default judgment long after the term at which it was rendered, especially when defendant did not hear of the order until long after final judgment was rendered. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. Judgment for a license tax is not void and therefore relief by injunction against execution thereon may not be had, though the ordinance forming the basis of the action was penal in its nature and had not been published. Masterson v. Keller [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 839, 89 S. W. 803.

48. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Not entitled to redress where he has failed to avail himself of right to appeal. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351. An independent action to set aside a judgment is not maintainable when the remedy by motion provided by Rev. Codes 1899, § 5298 is available and adequate. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392. Complaint failing to show that one year had expired after notice of judgment held demurrable for not negativing present availability of the motion. Id. Existence of equitable defense does not bar right. Humphries v. Adkins [Ala.] 38 So. 840, overruling dictum in Hooper v. Birchfield, 138 Ala. 423, 35 So. 351. A bill in equity will not lie to restrain the enforcement of a judgment on the ground of payment. Proper remedy is by writ of audita querela or by motion in the nature of such writ. Pyle v. Crebs, 112 Ill. App. 480. If in the rendition of a decree of foreclosure of a mortgage the court errs in assessing a lien as prior thereto in favor of one of the parties, the mortgagee has a speedy and adequate remedy by appeal or error and equity will not subsequently interpose. Nebraska Loan & Trust Co. v. Crook [Neb.] 103 N. W. 57. Defendant taking no exception and his motion to set aside the judgment being denied, held, not entitled to injunction against enforcement of judgment rendered in an action tried before an assistant justice acting without authority. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 228, § 11 considered. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Where plaintiff in an attachment suit obtains a judgment against a garnishee, a claimant of the money in the garnishee's hands cannot have the collection of such judgment enjoined, for if he was notified to appear and did not do so he is bound by has a meritorious defense,[49] was injured by the fraud,[50] and that it will be contrary to equity and good conscience to deny the petition.[51] An unaccepted offer to show a meritorious defense will answer this requirement.[52] To obtain relief the petitioner's hands must be clean[53] and he must himself do equity.[54] A threatened irreparable injury is ground for an injunction.[55] Unless exclusive, statutes affording relief upon enumerated equitable grounds do not bar equitable relief upon grounds not specified.[56] An infant defendant has a right to file by his next friend or guardian[57] at any time during his minority,[58] or within the period allowed after majority for the prosecution of a writ of error,[59] an original bill to impeach a decree either for fraud or for error apparent upon the face of the proceedings.[60] Newly discovered evidence to be successfully presented as a ground for relief must be material, relevant and noncumulative, and such as could not have been discovered in time for use at the first trial by the exercise of proper care and diligence.[61] Equity will enjoin the enforcement of a judgment apparently valid on its face such judgment, and if he was not so notified his rights against the garnishee are in no wise affected by the collection of the judgment so sought to be restrained. Radzinski v. Fry, 111 Ill. App. 645. See, also, Goldie Const. Co. v. Rich Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 587.

49. Ople v. Ciancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635; White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836; Keith v. Alger [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 71; Robinson v. Arkansas Loan & Trust Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 413. The fact that defendant was a married woman when the action was instituted against her and that her husband was not made a party is no ground for enjoining the enforcement of the judgment against her. Church v. Gallic [Ark.] 88 S. W. 307. A judgment entered on a judgment note payable to the treasurer of a beneficial association will not be opened on an allegation by the defendant that he applied for benefits to the secretary of the executive committee of the association and was informed by that officer that he could secure relief by applying to the vice president; that before receiving such benefits it would be necessary for him to sign a paper in the nature of a receipt, but that no demand would be made for the repayment of money so received, and that upon the faith of this representation he signed the note upon which the judgment was rendered. Treasurer of Division No. 168 v. Keller, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 135.

50. Keith v. Alger [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 71. Where a vendee of land had procured the setting aside of the sale for fraud and the land was sold as that of the deceased vendor's estate, held, the vendor's heirs could not have the decree set aside on the ground that prior thereto the vendee had conveyed his interest by a secret conveyance. Id.

51. Ople v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. Must show that if relief is granted a different result will be decreed. Id. It is not enough that an accident has prevented the losing party from pressing a motion for a new trial based upon technical errors occurring at the trial, even though they might be sufficient to warrant a reversal on appeal. Noe v. Layton [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1005.

52. Where judgment was based on a stipulation signed by an attorney having no right to represent the defendant in the action, held, equity would enjoin its enforcement, applicant offering to show a defense on the merits but the court declined the offer. Goldie Const. Co. v. Rich Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 587.

53. Equity will not assume jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of default judgment against a lottery concern. Pacific Debenture Co. v. Caldwell [Cal.] 81 P. 314.

54. Where mortgage was valid held mortgage foreclosure decree would not be set aside unless the applicant paid what was equitably due with interest. Stull v. Masilonka [Neb.] 104 N. W. 188. In a suit by a city to enjoin a judgment on warrants one of which was confessedly valid and the payee in the other one was entitled to a valid warrant, held, the city was not entitled to relief unless it tendered the just amount due or the warrant to which defendant was justly entitled. City of Ft. Pierre v. Hall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 470.

55. The wrongful levy of an execution on the subscribers' books of a mercantile agency and the threatened disclosure of the contents thereof constitute an irreparable injury, to restrain which an injunction will issue. Sinsabaugh v. Dun, 214 Ill. 70, 73 N. E. 390.

56. Right to relief in equity for fraud is not affected by B. & C. Comp. § 103, providing for relief of a party by a court of record from a judgment taken against him through his mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351.

57. Mauzey v. Dazey, 114 Ill. App. 652.

58. Crane v. Stafford, 217 Ill. 21, 75 N. E. 424; Mauzey v. Dazey, 114 Ill. App. 652.

59. Crane v. Stafford, 217 Ill. 21, 75 N. E. 424.

60. He is not bound to proceed by way of rehearing or by bill of review. Mauzey v. Dazey, 114 Ill. App. 652; Crane v. Stafford, 217 Ill. 21, 75 N. E. 424.

61. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392. A Federal court will not enjoin enforcement of a judgment of a state court on grounds that have been passed upon by the state court, the application being supported by the same affidavits with only cumulative evidence. Bailey v. Willeford [C. C. A.] 136 F. 382.

but rendered without service or appearance;[62] but neither a mere accident unmixed with negligence of the applicant[63] nor a nonjurisdictional irregularity in the entry of a judgment[64] will afford a basis for the granting of relief. Judgments in divorce cases will not be readily set aside, especially in jurisdictions where parties to the divorce action are permitted to marry again.[65] In the absence of fraud or other equitable grounds a surety is not entitled to have the enforcement of a judgment against him enjoined because suit is subsequently brought against his principal and the latter interposes a defense.[66]

(§ 5) C. Fraud, accident, mistake, surprise and other particular grounds.[67]—Fraud must lie in the procurement of the decree[68] and must be extrinsic or collateral to the questions examined and determined in the action.[69] It is not necessary

62. Where judgment was based on a stipulation signed by an attorney having no right to represent the defendant in the action. Goldie Const. Co. v. Rich Const. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 587.

63. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635.

64. Failure to file statement of the evidence as part of the record as required by Rev. St. 1901, § 1435, is not ground for vacating a default judgment. Steinfield v. Montijo [Ariz.] 80 P. 325.

65. Winstone v. Winstone [Wash.] 82 P. 268.

66. Dampskibsaktieselskabet Habil v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 54.

67. See 4 C. L. 301, 302, 304, 306. The general doctrines as to fraud, accident and mistake are treated in Fraud and Undue Influence, 5 C. L. 1541; Mistake and Accident, 4 C. L. 674.

68. Judgment by confession set aside where affidavit did not, as required by statute, state the true consideration of the bond. Kleeman v. Blatz Brewing Co. [N. J. Law] 60 A. 408. Where former judgment on same cause of action had been satisfied, held, equity would grant relief against second judgment. King v. Arney, 114 Ill. App. 141. Judgment against a county will be opened where the evidence tends to show that the county has been defrauded and that the party obtaining the judgment was a party to the fraud. York County v. Thompson [Pa.] 61 A. 1024. Judgment on a note opened on suit by an indorser, the latter having relied on the maker's promise to defend the action and the note having been paid, which fact was at the time known to the maker and holder of the note alone. Johnson v. Chilton [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 648. A divorce decree being obtained by fraud and without notice, the defendant is entitled to have it set aside by petition in the cause, and is not required to resort to a bill of review. Kerans v. Kerans [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 305. In order that a judgment may be set aside for the fraud of an attorney, it must be proven that the judgment was obtained by reason of such fraudulent acts or practices. Dart v. Richardson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 1094. Evidence held insufficient to warrant setting aside of judgment. Id. Where after foreclosure suit was brought one of defendants suggested to plaintiff's counsel that defendants convey the property in satisfaction of the mortgage debt, and counsel said he would consult his client and let defendant know if the offer was accepted, the fact that he did not communicate with defendant until after a default judgment providing for a deficiency had been taken is not such fraud as authorizes the setting aside of the judgment. Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434, 79 P. 959. A finding that by reason of certain facts defendant "fraudulently took and obtained an unfair advantage over plaintiff" did not amount to a finding that the judgment was obtained by fraud. Reich v. Cochran, 94 N. Y. S. 404, rvg. 41 Misc. 621, 85 N. Y. S. 247. Where a judgment note in favor of a firm was given in escrow by a partner to secure the performance of his duties, held a judgment thereon, after dissolution of the partnership, in favor of one of the partners for an alleged balance due him, would be opened. Herman v. Potamkin, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 11. Judgment on judgment note opened where parol contemporaneous agreement was not performed. Keeler v. De Witt, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 463. A judgment by confession will be opened where the note on which it was based was executed in the belief that some other document not a note was being signed. Funk v. Hossack, 115 Ill. App. 340. Evidence held not to show fraud in procurement of consent to entry of judgment. Reed v. Bank of Ukiah [Cal.] 82 P. 845. Where, in a suit to quiet title against one in possession under a tax deed, defendant and his counsel discussed making a claim for improvements, but decided that they were not of sufficient value, there was no ground for a charge of fraud or neglect of counsel in not making such claim. Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood [Wash.] 82 P. 933. Where dispossession proceedings were in fact begun before the expiration of the 10 days allowed by statute for the payment of rent after it becomes due, but the judgment was not rendered until the expiration of such 10 days, held no fraud, though the affidavit of service for a demand of rent was false but there was no showing that the affiant or the landlord knew it to be so. Reich v. Cochran, 94 N. Y. S. 404, rvg. 41 Misc. 621, 85 N. Y. S. 247. Where amount of administrator's compensation was limited by agreement with the heirs, and notice of the hearing for the settlement of his account was published in an obscure part of a paper in fine type and the administrator concealed from the heirs the fact that his final account had been filed and he therein charged more than the agreed compensation, held, there was fraud in procuring decree settling account. Froebrich v. Lane, 45 Or. 13, 76 P. 351.

69. Keith v. Alger [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 71.

that actual fraud should be found; it is sufficient if facts and circumstances are proven from which constructive fraud can be inferred.[70] The court must have been influenced and deceived by the fraud and induced to enter a judgment or decree prejudicial to the interests of petitioner.[71] Cases in which the facts are deemed to show "surprise" as the term is used here are shown in the notes.[72] Where it is sought to vacate a decree against a minor on the ground of error shown, said error must be prejudicial, must clearly appear upon the face of the record in the original proceedings, and must be such as would have entitled the minor to a reversal of said decree or judgment upon appeal.[73] In order to strike the judgment there must be irregularity affecting the integrity of the record or the validity of the judgment.[74] A judgment will not be opened on the ground that the defendant was incapacitated on account of habitual drunkenness to make the contract on which the judgment was entered, the evidence being insufficient to show that defendant was entirely incapable of making a contract or transacting ordinary business.[75]

(§ 5) D. Procedure to amend, open, vacate or enjoin.[76] Time for application.[77]—Application must be seasonably made[78] and within the statutory time.[79]

Parties.[80]—Unless he be the real party in interest,[81] a stranger to the proceedings in which judgment was rendered has no right to institute proceedings to amend or set aside the judgment.[82] Sureties on a replevin bond may attack a judgment in the replevin suit rendered after the death of the plaintiff and without revivor or suggestion of death upon the record.[83] An objection that the applicant was not a party to the judgment which it is sought to reopen may be waived[84] and should be raised by demurrer.[85] A person having a right to set aside a decree

70. Arnout v. Chadwick [Neb.] 104 N. W. 942. Evidence held sufficient to justify court in vacating decree. Id.

71. Petition to vacate for fraud a decree entered against petitioner while a minor. Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154.

72. Where plaintiff was given until the 7th day of April to plead and defendants on examination on April 6th found no petition on file, held, default judgment would be set aside. Carver v. Seevers, 126 Iowa, 669, 102 N. W. 518. Plaintiff not being entitled to a summary judgment defendant is entitled to assume that the case will take its regular course on the trial docket, and a summary judgment may be stricken on the ground of surprise. Mueller v. Michaels [Md.] 60 A. 485. A default judgment in ejectment will not be set aside after the term of entry merely because the description in the original petition was imperfect, the description having been amended without notice and the applicant not alleging that he was misled by the description. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

73. Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154.

74. Bradshaw Electro Sanitary Odor Co. v. Bradshaw, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 196. Where a judgment is entered by confession defendant may take advantage of the insufficiency of the name of the party plaintiff by a motion to set aside the judgment. Treasurer of Division No. 168 v. Keller, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 135.

75. Spetz v. Howard, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 420.

76. See 4 C. L. 307 et seq.

77. See 4 C. L. 307.

78. What constitutes laches, see ante this section, subdivision B.

79. Scott v. Hanford, 37 Wash. 5, 79 P. 481. A judgment valid on its face may not be attacked by motion, supported by affidavit that there was no service on defendant, filed five years after entry of judgment. Id. Default judgment based on publication; three years under Gen. St. 1901, § 4511. McKee v. Covalt [Kan.] 81 P. 475. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 609, five years. Hollenback v. Poston, 34 Ind. App. 481, 73 N. E. 162. Under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5153, 5156, 5157, an application to vacate a judgment on the ground of fraud in obtaining it must be by petition commenced within one year after the judgment was made and on the same notice as to time, mode of service and return as in ordinary actions. Twigg v. James, 37 Wash, 434, 79 P. 959.

80. See 4 C. L. 301.

81. Pier v. Oneida County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 912.

82. Pier v. Oneida County [Wis.] 102 N. W. 912. After judgment in an action against a county to annul tax certificates, the owner of a portion of the certificates, not a party to the action nor seeking to be made such, cannot make a motion to vacate. Id. That decree is collusive makes no difference. Union Waxed & Parchment Paper Co. v. Sevigne Bread Wrapper Co., 138 F. 415. In an action to set aside a decree affecting title to real estate, plaintiff cannot be permitted to recover unless it appears from the pleadings and proof that he has some interest in the title to the property involved. Stuli v. Masilonka [Neb.] 104 N. W. 188.

83. McBrayer v. Jordan [Neb.] 103 N. W. 50.

84. Foster v. Phinizy, 121 Ga. 673, 49 S. E. 865.

in a direct proceeding for that purpose may assign the right of action and the assignee may maintain a suit to set the decree aside.[86] Parties to a judgment must be made parties to an action to annul it,[87] and where the necessary parties are not cited in the trial court, the error cannot be corrected by their appearance in the appellate court long after the appeal has been returned and over the objections of the appellants.[88]

Modes and manner of procedure.[89]—A final judgment can be vacated or set aside only on some proceeding authorized by law.[90] Statutes should be consulted and the statutory method followed.[91] Besides error and appeal[92] the common-law remedies were on the law side error coram nobis and audita querela and later motion to vacate during term; and on the chancery side by bill of review or other bill appropriate to the case.[93] Codes and statutes have abolished or superseded some of these and the distinctions are now largely obliterated, leaving in most states only motion and bill in equity or equitable action.[94] A judgment being void on its face or on an inspection of the judgment roll is found to be void will be set aside at any time on motion of a party or by the court on its own motion;[95] but it is held that a motion is not the proper mode of procedure where the judgment is valid upon its face or its infirmity cannot be ascertained by an inspection of the judgment roll;[96] hence where a party is driven to evidence dehors the record to show that a judgment is void, he should be permitted to do so only where the facts upon which he relies may be examined into under the forms and sanction of a regular trial.[97]

85. Is not the proper subject-matter of an answer. Foster v. Phinizy, 121 Ga. 673, 49 S. E. 865.

86. Clevenger v. Mayfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1062. Where ejectment was brought against a tenant and the landlord was not joined and had no notice of the action until after judgment had been rendered in favor of plaintiff, the landlord was entitled to convey her rights in the land, including the right to have such judgment opened and be permitted to defend, to a purchaser, innocent or otherwise. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222.

87. Gremaud v. Gremaud [La.] 38 So. 901. In a proceeding to set aside a decree on the ground of fraud perpetrated in its rendition by a plaintiff in the suit on his co-plaintiffs, instituted by a purchaser of the interests of some of the co-plaintiffs, the other co-plaintiffs should be made parties. Clevenger v. Mayfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1062.

88. Gremaud v. Gremaud [La.] 38 So. 901.

89. See 4 C. L. 308.

90. Davis v. National Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 658.

91. Kentucky: In case of fraud in obtaining the judgment the remedy is by action under Civil Code, § 518, subsec. 4. Combs v. Johnson, 26 Ky. L. R. 12, 80 S. W. 506.

Massachusetts: A judgment may also be set aside upon a motion by the prevailing party, filed within three months in accordance with the provisions of Rev. Laws, c. 193, § 14. Davis v. National Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 658.

Missouri: Under Rev. St. 1899, § 780, a petition for review is the proper method of proceeding to set aside a final default judgment. Rev. St. 1899, § 770, allowing a motion to set aside a default before final judgment, does not apply. Billingham v. Miller Commission Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 356.

In Oklahoma proceedings to vacate a judgment on the ground of fraud must be by petition verified by affidavit, setting forth the judgment sought to be vacated, the grounds therefor, and the defense to the action, if the applicant was defendant. Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, c. 66, art. 22, § 564. Thompson v. Caddo County Bank [Okl.] 82 P. 927. A motion is not the proper remedy. Id.

Washington: Under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5153, 5156, 5157, an application to vacate a judgment on the ground of fraud in obtaining it must be by petition commenced within one year after the judgment was made, and on the same notice as to time, mode of service and return as in ordinary actions. Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434, 79 P. 959.

92. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

93. See 15 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 253. Audita querela, see post, § 15. Bill of review, see Equity, 5 C. L. 1144.

94. See 4 C. L. 308; 2 C. L. 592.

95. Morrison v. Berlin, 37 Wash. 600, 79 P. 1114; National Metal Co. v. Greene Consol. Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 397; Prouty v. Moss, 111 Ill. App. 536; Kronenberger v. Heinemann, 104 Ill. App. 156, overruled in part. Civ. Code 1895, § 5362. Union Compress Co. v. A. Leffler & Son [Ga.] 50 S. E. 483.

96. National Metal Co. v. Greene Consol. Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 397. Under Rev. St. 1901, paragraphs 1478, 1088, 1323, where in an action against a corporation the sheriff's return showed service on the local agent of the corporation and there was evidence corroborating the return, the trial court had no jurisdiction to set aside the judgment after the term of rendition. Id.

97. National Metal Co. v. Greene Consol. Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 397.

A judgment cannot be vacated in North Carolina for irregularities except by motion in the cause.[98] An appeal is not the proper method for obtaining relief from a judgment taken through mistake, inadvertence or excusable neglect.[99]

Pleadings and practice.[1]—The name given the pleading is generally immaterial so far as substantial allegations are concerned.[2] All facts necessary to constitute the case against the judgment must be alleged.[3] Fraud being alleged, the facts constituting the alleged fraud must be stated[4] and so must the want of authority of the judge.[5] Allegations of defense must not be pregnant with admissions that counter defenses exist.[6] A denial of facts necessary to support the judgment must ordinarily be positive and not on information and belief.[7] In Oklahoma the petition must be verified if fraud is alleged.[8] An affidavit of merits must be made by the person having personal knowledge of the particular facts stated in the affidavit.[9]

In a bill in equity directed against a judgment at law, the specific grounds of complainant's equity must be distinctly set forth.[10] The bill must show that

In Georgia in order to set aside for irregularities not appearing on the face of the record, one should proceed by petition with rule nisi or process and service upon the necessary parties. Union Compress Co. v. A. Leffler & Son [Ga.] 50 S. E. 483.

98. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 N. C. 515, 50 S. E. 221.

99. Proper method is by application to the lower court, under Code Civ. Proc. § 473. Johnston v. Callahan, 146 Cal. 212, 79 P. 870.

1. See 4 C. L. 308, 309.

2. Application by the losing party to have the judgment vacated held a petition to vacate under Rev. Laws, c. 193, § 15, though it was entitled "Motion" and in asking that the case be restored to the docket the word "move" was used instead of "pray." Davis v. National Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 658.

3. In a suit to have a judgment for defendant, rendered in an action brought to deprive her of her homestead rights in certain land, set aside, a petition alleging that defendant had taken up her residence on other property held defective in failing to allege that she thereby intended to abandon her homestead in the first mentioned land. Moore v. Rogers, 27 Ky. L. R. 827, 86 S. W. 977. Attack for want of jurisdiction. Cook v. Weigley [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1029. Under Civ. Code Proc. § 521 one who petitions for the vacation of a judgment and for a new trial must plead and prove that he has a defense to the action. Wireman v. Wireman's Adm'r, 27 Ky. L. R. 961, 87 S. W. 319.

4. Petition to vacate for fraud a decree entered against petitioner while a minor. Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154. A complaint in an action to set aside a judgment on the ground that the affidavit of publication was fraudulent, which alleges that the affidavit was false and fraudulent but which fails to controvert any of the specific allegations of epecific facts contained in the affidavit does not show the falsity of the affidavit in any essential particular and is insufficient. Cargile v. Silsbee [Cal.] 82 P. 1044. Petition must set forth the judgment sought to be vacated, the facts constituting the alleged fraud, and must fully state the facts constituting the defense to the original action. Thompson v. Caddo County Bank [Okl.] 82 P. 927. A petition which sets up only a general denial by way of defense and does not state the facts constituting the fraud is fatally defective. Id.

5. In an action to set aside a judgment upon the ground that the summons was issued by one not a justice of the peace de jure or de facto, the complaint held defective in that it did not sufficiently declare that the justice issuing the summons had not been elected at the general election preceding and had not duly qualified. Kane v. Arneson Mercantile Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 218.

6. An allegation in a complaint to set aside a judgment on a note that the note was never signed by any member of a firm of which plaintiff was a member "to his knowledge" leaves it to be presumed in support of the judgment that it was so signed without plaintiff's knowledge. Burbridge v. Rauer, 146 Cal. 21, 79 P. 526. A further allegation that at the date of the commencement of the original action nothing was due or unpaid to defendant's assignor from plaintiff permits of the presumption in support of the judgment that at the date the amount claimed was due and unpaid to defendant who was then assignee and owner of the claim. Id.

7. A denial based on want of information of plaintiff's ownership of the note on which default judgment was entered held insufficient to warrant the setting aside of such judgment, there being no claim that plaintiff was not the owner. Tullis v. McClary [Iowa] 104 N. W. 505.

8. Thompson v. Caddo County Bank [Okl.] 82 P. 927.

9. Moody v. Reichow, 38 Wash. 303, 80 P. 461.

10. City of Ft. Pierre v. Hall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 470. General allegations that appellant lost her right of appeal by the loss of a bill of exceptions—an accident unavoidable on her part—held insufficient to warrant equitable interposition. Church v. Gallic [Ark.] 88 S. W. 307. Allegations in petition held so vague and contradictory that the court could not determine whether the judgment sought to be set aside was valid or not. Benedict v. Gammon Theological Seminary [Ga.] 50 S. E. 162.

the remedy at law is unavailable or inadequate,[11] that the petitioner was free from negligence,[12] that he has a meritorious defense,[13] and newly discovered evidence being made the basis of the application, the bill must show its character[14] and that proper diligence was exercised in its discovery.[15]

In the absence of statutory provisions[16] a motion should state the grounds upon which it is based.[17] As a general rule an affidavit should state facts and not conclusions.[18]

On a scire facias to revive judgment a statute authorizing a defendant to plead as many matters as he shall think necessary allows repugnant pleas.[19]

The proceeding to set aside is distinct and separate from the original case and presents wholly distinct issues.[20] Upon a motion to strike out a judgment in which is alleged irregularity in the proceeding in which the judgment was entered, the whole question of jurisdiction and whether the proper steps have been taken to justify the entry of judgment by the court is open.[21]

Notice, either actual or constructive, of the proceedings must be given the litigants,[22] and if the judgment is set aside without notice, one purchasing after the rendition of the judgment is entitled to a writ of mandamus directing the judge to set aside the order.[23]

In some states a bond must be given.[24]

Burden of proof and evidence.[25]—Unless a defect appears of record the burden is on the movant or petitioner to affirmatively show its existence.[26] All intendments are in favor of the regularity of the proceedings.[27] Parol evidence is admissible

11. Under Rev. Codes 1899, § 5298 must show that one year had expired since notice of judgment. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392.

12. City of Ft. Pierre v. Hall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 470.

13. Bell v. Thompson [Cal.] 82 P. 327.

14. So that court can determine its materiality and relevancy. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392. Complaint in an application to set aside a judgment discharging an assignee for the benefit of creditors and to secure a new accounting alleging that five years after such judgment was rendered plaintiff "accidentally" discovered that the account was not true in several particulars, held insufficient. Id.

15. Freeman v. Wood [N. D.] 103 N. W. 392.

16. Under Gen. St. 1902, § 762, a motion to set aside a judgment of nonsuit need not specify the particular grounds upon which it was based. British American Ins. Co. v. Wilson, 77 Conn. 559, 60 A. 293.

17. Motion for modification. Borror v. Carrier, 34 Ind. App. 353, 73 N. E. 123.

18. Affidavit stating that judgment is unjust and excessive and that defendant has a good defense on the merits to the whole of such claim is insufficient. Chicago & M. Elec. R. Co. v. Krempel, 116 Ill. App. 253. Under a statute requiring an affidavit of merits in order to have a default judgment set aside an affidavit of defendant's attorney stating that from his investigations he believed that the accident for which plaintiff sought to recover was not caused by defendant's negligence, held sufficient without setting forth the facts on which such belief was based. Klepfer v. Keokuk, 126 Iowa, 592, 102 N. W. 515.

19. Pleas to scire facias to revive a default judgment, denying service of process, declaration and notices in the manner and at the time and places stated in the returns, and alleging service on an unauthorized person, may be joined. Va. Code 1904, p. 1718, construed. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

20. Should be tried on the pleadings of the parties in such proceeding separate from the original case. Rev. St. 1895 articles 1375-1378 considered. Brown v. Dutton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 454. Such art. 1375 applies to justices' courts. Id.

21. Mueller v. Michaels [Md.] 60 A. 485.

22. Void judgment. Dwyer v. Nolan [Wash.] 82 P. 746. Irregular decree. Vincent v. Benzie Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 369.

23. Vincent v. Benzie Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 369.

24. Under Rev. Laws, c. 193, §§ 15 and 17, no final order can be made on a petition to vacate until a bond is given. Davis v. National Life Ins. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 658.

25. See 4 C. L. 309.

26. On a silent record it is not presumed that an affidavit for publication was not attached to the petition. Stull v. Masilonka [Neb.] 104 N. W. 188. When a judgment defendant moves that judgment be vacated for error of fact, he assumes the burden of proof, and must show satisfactorily that such error existed. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

27. In the absence of evidence to the contrary a finding of invalidity of a judgment will be deemed to have been based upon sufficient cause. Morrison v. Berlin, 37 Wash. 600, 79 P. 1114. Where a judgment recites that the court heard proofs, it will be presumed that the proofs showed an oral contract, not that it was erroneously rendered on a written contract without the filing of a copy on motion to set aside. Foster v.

to show fraud in confessing a judgment.[28] When there is evidence of fraud it is error to exclude evidence that the defrauded person was susceptible to the other's arts.[29] Excluding proper evidence is harmless where because of futility of relief a decree must have been refused even had a case been made out.[30] Where the only witnesses other than plaintiff are nonresidents and absent from the state and their affidavits are not obtainable, defendant, on moving to open a default judgment, may by its agent make affidavit of facts narrated to the agent by the absent witnesses.[31] The value of affidavits as proof in particular cases is shown in the notes.[32]

Questions of law and fact.[33]—A motion for leave to open a default judgment, so far as grounded on accident, mistake or misfortune, presents a question of fact for the decision of the trial court.[34]

Judgment or order of vacation and extent and effect thereof.[35]—The imposition of conditions on opening the judgment is discretionary with the court.[36] A legal defense accruing subsequent to the judgment, equity will only restrain enforcement until defendant consents to a retrial of the case at law.[37] When neces-

Weber, 110 Ill. App. 5. In a suit under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 609 to open a default judgment based on service by publication, nothing appearing to the contrary it will be presumed that the proceedings were regular and the statute complied with and the publication warranted. Everett v. Everett, 180 N. Y. 452, 73 N. E. 231. Where the court before entry of a default judgment finds that the default of defendants had been duly entered, service of summons and complaint is presumed. Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434, 79 P. 959. Parol evidence of defendant and other witnesses that he was absent from the state at the time of the alleged service of summons is not sufficient to overcome the presumptions in favor of jurisdiction from the recitals of personal service in the default judgment and in the return of the officer. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837. Recital in default judgment that summons had been duly served and that more than 20 days had been allowed to elapse since the service but no answer had been served on complainant's attorney and no appearance had been made by defendant. held to show that court had passed on question of default and was conclusive as far as the record of such proceeding was concerned, in an action to vacate such judgment. Schmidt v. Hoffmann [Wis.] 105 N. W. 44.

28. Where a wife attacks a judgment confessed by her husband to his sister on the ground that it was given with intent to hinder and delay the collection of his debt to her, parol evidence is admissible to show the fraud, and its existence is to be determined by a jury from a preponderance of the testimony. Meyers v. Meyers, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 603.

29. Where the court found that there was no fraud or undue influence in procuring consent to the entry of judgment, the exclusion of evidence relating to the judgment debtor's weakness of mind and susceptibility to fraud is harmless. Reed v. Bank of Ukiah [Cal.] 82 P. 845.

30. In a suit to vacate partition and foreclosure decrees, error in rejecting evidence to show fraud in procuring the partition decree is harmless, there being nothing to authorize vacation of the foreclosure decree which cut off all of complainant's rights. Wilson v. Wilson [Wash.] 82 P. 154.

31. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Kelley [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 60, 87 S. W. 660, rvg. [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 855.

32. The person making the service filing an affidavit that he had done so, a motion to vacate a default judgment will be denied though the defendant and his wife file affidavits denying the service. Matchett v. Liebig [S. D.] 105 N. W. 170. Where summons was regularly served and read by defendant who neglected to consult counsel, answer or appear, held default judgment would not be set aside though defendant made affidavit that he had made a settlement with plaintiff, this being denied by counter affidavit. Kjetland v. Pederson [S. D.] 104 N. W. 677. Where the affidavit of service stated that affiant served the summons on defendant and knew the person served to be defendant, and the server's affidavit in opposition to a motion to set aside a default judgment stated that before proceeding to make service she was given a description of defendant to enable her to identify her, and the person served answered such description and defendant made an affidavit, supported by that of another, that he was not served, held, judgment would be set aside on the ground that there was no personal service of process. O'Connell v. Gallagher, 93 N. Y. S. 643.

33. See 4 C. L. 310.

34. Hutchinson v. Manchester St. R. Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1011.

35. See 4 C. L. 310.

36. Walton v. Hartman, 38 Wash. 34, 80 P. 196.

37. The business in which complainant and defendant's son was engaged failed and defendant agreed to pay certain notes of the concern if complainant would pay the others. Defendant fulfilled his part of the agreement and sued complainant as indorser and obtained judgment against him because he had not paid, but merely secured, the notes he was to pay; held, the enforcement of the judgment would be enjoined until defendant consented to a retrial of the action at law on the notes and further consented that complainant might set up the alleged contract as a defense. Headley v. Leavitt [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 963.

sary, liens or other securities should be preserved.[38] Conditions may be waived.[39] A judgment being partially valid[40] or there being a partial defense,[41] it may be modified or vacated pro tanto. A judgment being void a valid judgment may be entered in its place.[42] A motion to open a default can never result in a decision of the issues involved in the controversy.[43] In an action against joint tort feasors, judgment being rendered against all of the defendants the court in setting aside the judgment as against one of them should also dismiss the action as to him.[44] In order to set aside a formal and sufficient judgment there must be an adjudication by the court to that effect.[45]

A judgment being opened generally and without conditions, the trial should proceed as if no judgment had been entered,[46] and defendant is entitled to establish any defense admissible under his pleas.[47] A judgment being opened generally it is inadmissible in evidence against the defendant.[48] In an action against joint tort feasors judgment being rendered against all of the defendants, the setting aside of the judgment as against one does not impair it as against the other.[49]

Appeal or review.[50]—The order opening or vacating a judgment is not appealable unless it is a final judgment in itself or unless the statute has made it reviewable.[51] The order being appealable, either party aggrieved[52] or one not party

38. In a proceeding to open a judgment on which execution has issued, the execution and lien should remain until final determination of the case. Van Cott v. Webb-Miller, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 51. Proceeding for vacating a default judgment by motion, liens should be preserved, defendant required to answer and plaintiff allowed to reply, and such order made as the verdict warrants. Elyria Milling Co. v. Swartz, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 251. Where so long as a certain guaranty was kept plaintiff could not enter judgment by confession, held, judgment should be set aside and not allowed to stand as security. Independent Brewing Ass'n v. Klett, 114 Ill. App. 1.

39. Voluntary appearance by the defendants and an application by them, upon the day of trial, for an adjournment, without objection being made to the nonpayment of the costs imposed as a condition for opening the plaintiff's default, held a waiver of such condition, to the extent, at least, of conferring jurisdiction upon the court to hear and determine the case; and hence when upon the adjourned trial day plaintiff tendered the costs in open court, defendants were in no situation to urge that the court had no jurisdiction over their persons. Rickert v. Pollack, 95 N. Y. S. 578.

40. Where a judgment was, in so far as it purported to grant an immediate divorce, void as being entered without any interlocutory judgment, as required by Civ. Code, §§ 131, 132, it was within the power of the superior court at any time, on motion of either party or of its own motion, to vacate so much of the decree as awarded an absolute divorce, leaving the remainder of it, determining that the party was entitled to a divorce, unmodified and unaffected. Grannis v. Superior Ct., 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891.

41. Robinson v. Arkansas Loan & Trust Co. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 413.

42. Morrison v. Berlin, 37 Wash. 600, 79 P. 1114.

43. Everett v. Everett, 180 N. Y. 452, 73 N. E. 231.

44. Weathers v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 908.

45. Chambers v. Morris [Ala.] 39 So. 375.

46. Long v. Morningstar [Pa.] 61 A. 1007. The record of the judgment is not competent evidence of its validity. Id.

47. Long v. Morningstar [Pa.] 61 A. 1007. Where a judgment by confession on a building contract is opened generally and without restriction, defendant is entitled to deny the execution of the contract. Mulhearn v. Roach, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 483.

48. Held inadmissible against a bankrupt on issue of solvency. McGowan v. Knittel [C. C. A.] 137 F. 453, dissenting opinion 137 F. 1015, rvg. In re McGowan, 134 F. 498.

49. Weathers v. Kansas City Southern R. Co. [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 908.

50. See 4 C. L. 310 and the topic Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121, where all the doctrines are fully discussed.

51. While ordinarily there is no appeal from an order vacating a judgment, yet, if it is a final order which affects the substantial rights of the parties, an appeal will lie. State v. Tallman, 38 Wash. 132, 80 P. 272. Under Gen. Laws 1896, c. 246, § 2, providing that in case of judgment by default or mistake the court may, within six months after entry thereof, set aside the same and reinstate the case, the power thus given is discretionary, and not subject to review by the supreme court. Opie v. Clancy [R. I.] 60 A. 635. See, also, cases cited 5 C. L. 137.

There must be an order or judgment setting aside or refusing to set aside the judgment complained of. Chambers v. Morris [Ala.] 39 So. 375.

The "record" must show such order: Bill of exceptions reciting that "said motion coming on to be heard was submitted without argument * * * and on said date the following entry was made * * * on the docket: * * * 'Motion granted; verdict set aside,'" held to affirmatively show that the court made no order setting aside the verdict or vacating the judgment. Chambers v. Morris [Ala.] 39 So. 375.

by name aggrieved by the ruling[53] may appeal. The appeal is separate and distinct from the original action[54] reviewable by modes not necessarily the same.[55] An exercise of the power is not subject to review in another division of the same court,[56] nor being rendered by a Federal court is it open for review in a state court.[57] In Colorado an exception to the ruling is essential.[58] The merits of the original action will not be inquired into.[59] A correct ruling of the trial court will not be reversed, though based on an erroneous ground,[60] nor will the trial court's ruling be reversed unless an abuse of discretion is conclusively and affirmatively shown[61] by appellant.[62] A finding of the trial court reasonably supported by the evidence will be sustained.[63]

§ 6. Construction, operation and effect of judgment.[64]—Judgments are interpreted by the pleadings[65] and by the subject-matter of the suit.[66] In construing the judgment the whole context should be considered and in case of doubt preference should be given to that construction which is more in consonance with a proper decree on the law and facts of the case.[67] An appellate judgment implies

52. Either party may appeal from a judgment rendered in a proceeding, under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1375, to set aside a judgment rendered on service of citation by publication in the district or county court. Brown v. Dutton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 454. Such article 1375 applies to justices' courts. Id.

53. One aggrieved by a ruling refusing to vacate a default judgment may, under Laws 1901, p. 563, c. 78, § 6, seasonably object, allege exceptions in writing and have them transferred to the supreme court. Hutchinson v. Manchester St. R. Co. [N. H.] 60 A. 1011.

54, 55. On appeal from a judgment in a proceeding under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1375 to set aside a judgment rendered on service of citation by publication, the method of appeal or practice on appeal will be controlled by the judgment appealed from without reference to the judgment in the original case. Brown v. Dutton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 454. Such article 1375 applies to justices' courts. Id.

56. Cascia v. Gilbane, 26 R. I. 584, 60 A. 237.

57. Blythe Co. v. Bankers' Inv. Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 281.

58. Smith v. Mock [Colo.] 79 P. 1011.

59. Such questions should be raised by proper pleadings and first presented to the trial court. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39. On appeal appellant can complain only of the action of the court with respect to the motion. Chambers v. Morris [Ala.] 39 So. 375. Errors in the original judgment cannot be reviewed. Even though the motion was made at the term of entry. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411.

60. Scott v. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 137 N. C. 515, 50 S. E. 221.

61. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39; Carver v. Seevers, 126 Iowa, 669, 102 N. W. 518; Kjetland v. Pederson [S. D.] 104 N. W. 677; Keeney v. Fargo [N. D.] 105 N. W. 92; In re Bugg's Estate [S. C.] 51 S. E. 263; Nye v. Bill Nye Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 94; Horn v. United Securities Co. [Or.] 81 P. 1009; Winstone v. Winstone [Wash.] 82 P. 268; Pelegrinelli v. McCloud River Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 695; Gottlieb v. Middleberg, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 625; Foster v. Weber, 110 Ill. App. 5; Hartman v. Viera, 113 Ill. App. 216. Where on the day counsel was notified that his motion to strike out part of the complaint was overruled he prepared and transmitted an answer and wrote plaintiff's counsel asking for advice as to what to do, to which plaintiff's counsel replied that he had obtained judgment, held no abuse of discretion in refusing to set it aside. Horn v. United Securities Co. [Or.] 81 P. 1009.

62. Pelegrinelli v. McCloud River Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 696.

63. Finding of trial court that plaintiff and his attorney were inexcusably negligent in failing to defend, being reasonably supported by the evidence must be adopted by the appellate court as a conclusion of fact. White v. Powell [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 836.

64. See 4 C. L. 294, 311.

65. Sharp v. Zeller [La.] 38 So. 449; Burnside v. Wand, 108 Mo. App. 539, 84 S. W. 995. Where, in an action on a bond given for the payment of alimony in the penal sum of $6,000, plaintiff prayed judgment for the penalty of the bond and that execution issue for the sum of $365, with interest, as damages and for costs, and after general denial a trial was had on which judgment was rendered for plaintiff for the penalty of the bond and for damages, held, the judgment for the penalty should be rejected as surplusage and the judgment construed as a mere money judgment for the damages. Id. Where, in an action for damages for obstructing a watercourse plaintiff only asked for past damages and accompanied this demand with a prayer for an injunction, held, the damages awarded were only compensation for the damages which had been sustained. Scheurich v. Southwest Mo. Light Co., 109 Mo. App. 406, 84 S. W. 1003.

66. Sharp v. Zeller [La.] 38 So. 449.

67. Sharp v. Zeller [La.] 38 So. 449. Where the complaint demanded judgment for "$51.-1898," with interest thereon at 10 per cent per annum from Sept. 13, 1892 to Sept. 12, 1900, also $16 attorney's fees and taxable costs, a judgment for $107.02, enumerating principal, interest and attorney's fees as a part of the $107.02, should be construed as not only that the court had jurisdiction but that it heard and determined that question.[68] A decree 30 years old will be presumed to have been based on proper jurisdictional steps.[69] A consent judgment being a contract must be construed as any other contract.[70] Judgments may be final[71] on the merits[72] in personam[73] or in rem.[74] A judgment may be a unit[75] or it may be severable.[76] Where there are two conflicting judgments in the same case, the later in point of time must prevail.[77]

The doctrines of estoppel by judgment and the merger and bar of causes of action in and by the judgment are treated elsewhere.[78] Defects in the pleadings[79] other than a failure to state a cause of action[80] may be cured by the judgment.[81] A judgment operates to make the judgment debtors joint debtors.[82] The suit having been closed by final judgment no further proceedings can be had in it except such as may be required for the execution of the judgment.[83] A decree pro confesso admits the facts charged in the bill, but not the conclusions drawn therefrom nor the conclusions of law.[84] The members of a firm being jointly and severally including the principal, interest and attorney's fees and hence was not objectionable as being for a greater sum than that demanded. Pacific Paving Co. v. Vizelich, [Cal. App.] 82 P. 82. Plaintiff being entitled to recover $1,000 and a judgment being entered for $596 against one defendant and $1,000 against three defendants, held to be a judgment for $1,000 and the $596 having been collected, plaintiff could only recover $404 from the other defendants. March v. Barnet [Cal. App.] 82 P. 697.

68. Cook v. Weigley [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1029.

69. Smith v. Schwarz, 209 Pa. 79, 57 A. 1129.

70. Bunn v. Braswell [N. C.] 51 S. E. 927. Consent judgment declaring that defendant had "an equity to redeem certain land" held to establish the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee between the parties. Id. A recital that unless defendant pay a certain sum by a certain time he "shall stand absolutely debarred" of all equity in the land, held not to amount to a strict foreclosure. Id. A consent judgment that a basement hall shall be for the common and unobstructed use of the parties, that a space therein used as a stairway shall be for their common use and that said basement hall and stairway shall be used only for ingress and egress by plaintiff to his building, gives plaintiff no right to participate in the use of closets under the stairway, or to have any changes made so that light can be admitted through windows to the stairway. Massey v. Barbee, 138 N. C. 84, 50 S. E. 567.

71, 72, 73, 74. See ante, § 1.

75. A judgment in an action in trespass as well as in all other actions at law is a unit as to all the defendants against whom it is rendered, and if it must be reversed for error as to one it must be reversed as to all. South Side El. R. Co. v. Nesvig, 214 Ill. 463, 73 N. E. 749; Cummings v. Smith, 114 Ill. App. 35; Comenitz v. Bank of Commerce [Miss.] 38 So. 35. Action on the case. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 115 Ill. App. 110.

76. A judgment in receivership proceedings determining the amount due each creditor and fixing the statutory liability of each stockholder held a several judgment against the several stockholders. Childs v. Blethen [Wash.] 82 P. 405. In an action for an accounting between joint adventurers, an interlocutory judgment providing "that plaintiff have judgment against the defendants and each of them, for the shares of stock and sums of money that may be found due him from said defendants and each of them," does not provide for a joint recovery, but for a final judgment against the defendants severally. Spier v. Hyde, 95 N. Y. S. 952. Where title to land is divided into separate undivided interests and a judgment in a tax suit purports to affect all the interests, it may be held valid as to some and void as to others. Eminence Land & Min. Co. v. Current River Land & Cattle Co., 187 Mo. 420, 86 S. W. 145, and cases cited. Where mandamus was brought against a carrier and its president, and the mandate was addressed to the carrier and to its president, "and each of them according to their several and respective powers," and the judgment for costs went against the carrier alone, held, the mandate was not a joint judgment, but should be taken distributively as affecting the president only according to his powers. West Virginia Northern R. Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 198.

77. Minor's Heirs v. New Orleans [La.] 38 So. 999.

78. See Former Adjudication, 5 C. L. 1502.

79. Defects in reply held cured by finding and judgment. George v. Robinson [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 607.

80. Bell v. Thompson [Cal.] 82 P. 327.

81. See Pleading, 4 C. L. 980.

82. Symmes v. Cauble [S. C.] 51 S. E. 862. Judgment against maker, surety and guarantor held to render them joint debtors and Civ. Code 1892, § 2841, providing that a joint debtor may make a separate composition with his creditor, applies. Id. Such § 2841 applies to a note executed in December, 1883, where the guaranty was indorsed thereon in March, 1884. Id.

83. Sequestration of property denied. Martel v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 39 So. 441.

84. Perkins v. Tyrer, 24 App. D. C. 447.

liable for its debts, the taking of judgment against one partner, who is alone served, does not release the other partner from his liability for the debt;[85] but in states where a judgment can be rendered against the partnership as such, it will constitute a bar to any suit on the same demand against the partnership.[86]

§ 7. Collateral attack.[87]—The rule that a judgment cannot be attacked in a collateral proceeding is a rule of policy and convenience,[88] and may be waived by the parties for whose benefit it exists;[89] and, being waived, the judgment rendered in such attack, being otherwise valid, is binding and conclusive on the parties until set aside in some manner authorized by law.[90]

What is collateral.[91]—A plea to a writ of scire facias is a collateral attack upon the judgment sought to be revived.[92] An objection that an administrator's deed, executed under order of court in fulfillment of a bond for title given by decedent, is void for failure to conform to the description of the land contained in the bond, is a collateral attack on the judgment.[93] An attack on a judgment on the ground that it was procured by fraud is generally deemed direct.[94]

Grounds.[95]—The court having jurisdiction of the parties and the subject-matter, its judgment cannot be collaterally assailed by the parties or their privies.[96] The court having no jurisdiction, its judgment may be collaterally attacked[97] at any time by any person who has not by his conduct estopped himself from questioning its validity,[98] though being a court of general jurisdiction want of jurisdiction must affirmatively appear on the face of the record.[99] The reason for this is that, as to a court of general jurisdiction, all jurisdictional facts as to which the 85, 86. Cowan v. Leming [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 953.

87. See 4 C. L. 311.

88, 89, 90. In re Clifford, 37 Wash. 460, 79 P. 1001.

91. See 4 C. L. 311.

92. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

93. Dutton v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1025.

94. In a suit to enjoin defendant from entering on land claimed by plaintiff under a decree vesting title thereto in him, defendant by way of cross bill alleged that the decree had been procured by the fraud of plaintiff or his co-plaintiffs, through whom defendant claimed as a purchaser subsequent to the rendition of the decree. Both suits were in the same court. Held, that the cross bill was a direct attack on the decree. Clevenger v. Mayfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 1062.

95. See 4 C. L. 312.

96. Foreclosure decree. Pinkney v. Weaver, 115 Ill. App. 582. Judgment in condemnation proceedings. Compton v. Seattle, 38 Wash. 514, 80 P. 757. Judgment of probate court setting aside homestead to widow of deceased. Jenkins v. Clisby [Ala.] 39 So. 735. Decree declaring a homestead loan association insolvent, appointing a receiver therefor and directing the collection of its outstanding loans. Broch v. French, 116 Ill. App. 15. A court having jurisdiction to issue a warrant of attachment the validity of the warrant cannot be questioned collaterally. Affidavit objected to as insufficient. Rogers v. Ingersoll, 93 N. Y. S. 140. Dramshop keeper held not entitled to collaterally attack judgment of county court granting license in a prosecution under the dramshop act. State v. Mulloy [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 569. See Former Adjudication, 5 C. L. 1502.

97. Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182; Glos v. Collins, 110 Ill. App. 121; Hickey v. Conley, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 388. Tax proceeding. Mayot v. Auditor General [Mich.] 104 N. W. 19, citing Rumsey v. Griffin [Mich.] 101 N. W. 571. Order passed in vacation by the judge of the superior court. Callaway v. Irvin [Ga.] 51 S. E. 477. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2473, a grant of letters of administration can be collaterally attacked for want of jurisdiction. McCarthy v. Supreme Ct. of Independent Order of Foresters, 94 N. Y. S. 876. Proceedings for a street improvement being void because of failure to give the abutting property owners notice of the engineer's report of the final estimate of costs, as required by Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4294, may be collaterally attacked. Daly v. Gubbins [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 833. A void order cannot by inaction of parties become an adjudication. Award of costs which court had no power to make. Sander v. Larner, 101 App. Div. 167, 91 N. Y. S. 423.

98. Callaway v. Irvin [Ga.] 51 S. E. 477.

99. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861; Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. Grantham [Ind.] 75 N. E. 265; Sacramento Bank v. Montgomery, 146 Cal. 745, 81 P. 138; Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815; Hickey v. Stallworth [Ala.] 39 So. 267. Appointment of an administrator de bonis non after an estate has been finally settled is void and subject to collateral attack. Id. County court. Wallace v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 432. Decree admitting will to probate. Upson v. Davis, 110 Ill. App. 375. Change of venue presumed. Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. Grantham [Ind.] 75 N. E. 265. Judgment in a suit brought under Rev. St. 1881, § 4277, to enforce a lien for a drainage assessment. Ellison v. Branstrator, 34 Ind. App. 411, 73 N. E. 146. A judgment against a corporation record is silent will be presumed,[1] and the exercise of jurisdiction warrants the presumption that all necessary facts were proved.[2] The conclusive presumption of validity extends to the return of process upon which the judgment is based,[3] and if the language of the return fairly admits of a construction which will make the return legal and sufficient it should be so construed.[4] Want of jurisdiction may be cannot be collaterally attacked on the ground that at the time it was rendered the corporation had ceased to do business and transferred its property to a trustee for the benefit of creditors. Temple v. Branch Saw Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 109, 88 S. W. 442. Judgments or decrees of a Federal court whose jurisdiction is involved on the ground of diverse citizenship, which is alleged and admitted cannot be collaterally assailed on the ground that there was in fact no diverse citizenship. Riverdale Cotton Mills v. Alabama & G. Mfg. Co., 198 U. S. 188, 49 Law. Ed. 1008. A claim due under a contract exceeding the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace was split into several amounts, each of which was within his jurisdiction; held, the judgments therein could not be collaterally attacked. Adams v. Jennings, 103 Va. 579, 49 S. E. 982. Order of sale in probate proceedings held subject to attack, the record showing that the court was without jurisdiction because the application for the sale therein was not made by a "creditor or other person interested in the estate," as required by Rev. St. 1899, § 150. Stark v. Kirchgraber, 186 Mo. 633, 85 S. W. 868. A judgment reciting that defendant has been regularly served and his default regularly entered according to law, it is not void on its face although the only affidavit showing publication of service contained in the judgment roll was filed after the expiration of the statutory time for the service and return of service. Sacramento Bank v. Montgomery, 146 Cal. 745, 81 P. 138. Absence of the judge at the time to which the cause was continued does not render a judgment subsequently rendered by him as of that time void, though the party against whom it was rendered was absent at the time of rendition. County judge. Action was not within jurisdiction of a justice of the peace. Bussing v. Taggart [Neb.] 103 N. W. 430.

1. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861, citing 2 C. L. 595; Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249; Dutton v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1025. On collateral attack on a judgment by confession it is not necessary that the cognovit recite that the attorney executing the power is an attorney at law. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411. Judgment by court of general jurisdiction sustaining an attachment is not subject to collateral attack on the ground that the writ of attachment was not served on the defendant. Burris v. Craig [Colo.] 82 P. 944. On collateral attack of bankrupt's discharge it will be presumed that court heard evidence establishing residence as required by statute. Ross-Lewin v. Goold, 211 Ill. 384, 71 N. E. 1028. Under Rev. Prob. Code, §§ 26 to 202, 332, making the probate court in effect one of general jurisdiction, an order finding the existence of all facts necessary to constitute a valid sale of real estate and ordering such sale is on collateral attack conclusive of the sufficiency of the petition for the sale. Blackman v. Mulhall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 250. Under such statutes where an order confirming a sale of real estate to pay a decedent's debts recites that the sale was legally made and fairly conducted, it will be presumed on collateral attack that the court had before it proof showing that statutory requirements had been complied with. Id. A finding by such a court that a petition for the sale of land was duly presented by an administrator and administratrix and ordering the sale to be made in the name of both cannot be collaterally attacked on the ground that the petition was made by the administrator alone. Id. On collateral attack on the appointment of an administrator that a petition for the appointment was in fact filed and notice thereof given, the contrary not affirmatively appearing. Id. Justices' court having jurisdiction in matters of contract up to $300 and in matters of damages to personal property up to $100 on a collateral attack of a judgment in an action for over $100 "for the unlawful conversion of money belonging to the plaintiff," held it would be presumed that the action was based on contract. Frank v. Dungan [Ark.] 90 S. W. 17. Petition in dispossess proceedings being insufficient to confer jurisdiction and all proceedings as shown by the record being regular on their face, the judgment could not be collaterally attacked on the ground that the court was without jurisdiction because no demand for the payment of the rent due was in fact made. Reich v. Cochran, 94 N. Y. S. 404, rvg. 41 Misc. 621, 85 N. Y. S. 247. Where, in a partition of stocks and bonds belonging to a succession, minor heirs are represented by tutors ad hoc duly appointed by the court, a defendant, urging the nullity of the proceedings on the ground that the tutors ad hoc were not duly sworn carries the burden of proving the fact affirmatively. The mere absence of such oaths from the record is insufficient to prove that the tutors ad hoc were not duly sworn. State v. Canal Bank & Trust Co. [La.] 38 So. 584.

2. Where a court's right to take jurisdiction depended on facts in pais, it is presumed, in collateral proceedings, if jurisdiction was retained that the court itself inquired concerning the facts and adjudicated them. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131. Where suits to dissolve a loan association were commenced in the Federal and state courts the fact that an order attempting to transfer the jurisdiction of the state court to the Federal court was erroneous is no ground for collaterally attacking the Federal court's jurisdiction. Id.

3. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861, citing 2 C. L. 595.

4. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861, citing 2 C. L. 595. Where the return on which a default judgment in divorce is based shows that the summons and complaint were properly and personally served on the defendant, it is immaterial that the officer making the service also certifies that the name by which the defendant was described ascertained by the consideration of the whole record.[5] The record of a suit being destroyed it will be presumed that it contained evidence justifying the judgment.[6] Where the question upon which the jurisdiction depends is one of law purely, the jurisdiction over the subject-matter is always open to collateral inquiry.[7] The record showing jurisdiction it cannot be contradicted by evidence aliunde.[8] Where the files in the action have been lost, parol evidence as to the contents thereof is admissible to contradict recitals in the judgment.[9] As a general rule where the jurisdiction of an inferior court depends upon a fact which the court is required to settle and ascertain, if the court has jurisdiction of the parties the decision of the question of fact is conclusive and not subject to collateral attack.[10] The rule being that jurisdiction is never presumed but must appear or the judgment will be void and subject to collateral attack;[11] but when the jurisdiction appears the same rules are applicable as in the case of courts of general jurisdiction.[12] Fraud is not ground for collateral attack.[13] An erroneous judgment[14] or one voidable for mere irregularities of procedure[15] cannot be collaterally attacked. The same general in the papers served was not his true name but only an alias. Id.

5. Stark v. Kirchgraber, 186 Mo. 633, 85 S. W. 868, following Hutchinson v. Shelley, 133 Mo. 400, 34 S. W. 838.

6. Judgment awarded dower to widow, held, it would be presumed that her husband had died before its rendition and that she had a previous claim to unassigned dower as widow. Bloom v. Sawyer [Ky.] 89 S. W. 204.

7. Grannis v. Superior Ct., 146 Cal. 245, 79 P. 891.

8. Collateral attack by a party to the original suit on a judgment of a domestic court of general jurisdiction. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. Justice court. Reddish v. Shaw, 111 Ill. App. 337. Foreign judgment. Spiker v. American Relief Soc. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 143, 103 N. W. 611.

9. Recital that judgment had been served. Eminence Land & Min. Co. v. Current River Land & Cattle Co., 187 Mo. 420, 86 S. W. 145. Where an administrator's deed was executed under order of court in fulfillment of decedent's bond for title and the court records were destroyed by fire, a bond for title offered in evidence, purporting to have been executed by intestate but differing materially from the recitals of the judgment directing the execution of the deed, as stated therein, held insufficient to show that it was the bond on which the court acted, or rebut the presumption that the court had sufficient evidence before it on which to render the judgment on which the deed was executed. Dutton v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1025.

10. Rice v. Travis, 216 Ill. 249, 74 N. E. 801. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1899, p. 1389, c. 119, § 27, a default judgment of a justice of the peace for plaintiff in a replevin suit, though not expressly finding it, is conclusive between the parties against collateral attack, that the value of the property did not exceed $200, the limit of a justice's jurisdiction, a case within his jurisdiction being stated by the affidavit for replevin alleging the value was $200. Id.

11, 12. Rice v. Travis, 216 Ill. 249, 74 N. E. 801.

13. Earp v. Minton, 138 N. C. 202, 50 S. E. 624. Is no defense in a proceeding by scire facias to revive the judgment. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

14. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131. Where suits to dissolve a loan association were commenced in the Federal and state courts, the fact that an order attempting to transfer the jurisdiction of the state court to the Federal court was erroneous is no ground for collaterally attacking the judgment of the Federal court. Id. Foreclosure decree. Jackson v. Grosser, 218 Ill. 494, 75 N. E. 1032. Court having jurisdiction, an erroneous decision as to what facts are put in issue by the pleadings cannot be questioned collaterally. Koehler v. Holt Mfg. Co., 146 Cal. 335, 80 P. 73. Judgment imposing costs on acquittal in criminal case is conclusive. Miller v. Hastings Borough, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 569. Where Federal judgment was paid, held any error or mistake by the court in computing interest could not be corrected in an action in a state court. Huntington v. Newport News & M. V. Co. [Conn.] 61 A. 59. A decree of a court of competent jurisdiction is not subject to a collateral attack because lands were sold thereunder for illegal penalties and costs. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252; Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249. Under Acts 1881, p. 68, authorizing the court to allow attorney's fees, the allowance of too much or too little is error and not ground for collateral attack. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249.

15. Lack of notice in foreclosure decree cured by confirmation. Carpenter v. Zarbuck [Ark.] 86 S. W. 299. An irregularity in the revival of a judgment cannot be availed of in a proceeding by creditor's bill filed to enforce the collection of such judgment. Linn v. Downing, 116 Ill. App. 454. A divorce decree having every appearance of a final judgment cannot be collaterally attacked because entered before costs were paid in violation of a rule of court. Baker v. Baker, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 553. Order of county court discharging an administrator de bonis non and closing the estate is not subject to collateral attack because court erred in making such order without proof of service of citation thereon and before all the debts and expenses had been paid. Wallace v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 432. The entry of rules apply to foreign judgments,[16] judgments by confession,[17] judgments against infants,[18] default divorce judgments,[19] and to the decisions of boards acting judicially.[20] In most states probate courts are regarded as courts of general jurisdiction.[21] The doctrine of collateral attack as applied to administration and probate decrees is elsewhere discussed more at large.[22]

§ 8. Lien.[23] When and to what it attaches.[23a]—The lien of judgment before levy of execution or other like process[24] is under most statutes limited to such interests in land[25] as are vested[26] and not exempt.[27] It may attach to a right of redemption or defeasance.[28] Until levy[29] or until a notice operating as a sort of garnish-

a warning order in a suit to enforce levee taxes not being jurisdictional, failure to enter it is not ground for collateral attack. Ballard v. Hunter [Ark.] 85 S. W. 252. Irregularities in permitting amendments to the bill for the purpose of bringing in other parties and the ordering of publication without formal affidavit and the insufficiency of publication held not grounds for collateral attack. Alabama & V. R. Co. v. Thomas [Miss.] 38 So. 770. A judgment founded upon a corrected petition without notice other than the original notice is merely irregular and not subject to collateral attack. Stull v. Masilonka [Neb.] 104 N. W. 188. Failure to give notice of a nunc pro tunc entry of judgment made at a subsequent term and based on the certain knowledge of the judge does not render the amended judgment subject to collateral attack. Groton Bridge & Mfg. Co. v. Clark Pressed Brick Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 27. Defendant failing to appear, failure of the court to treat his counterclaim as withdrawn does not render the judgment in the cause subject to collateral attack. Id. Foreign judgment in garnishment proceeding held could not be collaterally attacked on the ground that notice was not given the proper agent. Orient Ins. Co. v. Rudolph [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 26. Where there is some notice, an irregularity or the sufficiency thereof cannot be questioned in a collateral proceeding. Publication of order of probate court to show cause why real property should not be sold to pay decedent's debts. Rev. Prob. Code § 26 in effect makes the probate court one of general jurisdiction. Blackman v. Mulhall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 250. The fact that the notice published did not order persons interested to appear and show cause as required by Rev. Prob. Code, § 203, does not affect the validity of the sale in a collateral proceeding, where the notice states in accordance with the statute that application has been made for the sale and that hearing will be had at the time designated therein, and the order for the sale recites that all proceedings required by statute have been complied with. Id. Under Rev. Prob. Code, § 26, making the probate court in effect one of general jurisdiction, irregularity in appointing an administrator without petition being first filed cannot be taken advantage of in a collateral attack. Id. In habeas corpus proceedings the regularity of the judgment under which petitioners were imprisoned cannot be impeached for errors or defects not affecting the jurisdiction of the court to render the judgment. Hollibaugh v. Hehn [Wyo.] 79 P. 1044.

16. See Foreign Judgments, 5 C. L. 1483. Cooper v. Brazelton [C. C. A.] 135 F. 476; Old Wayne Mut. Life Ass'n v. McDonough [Ind.] 73 N. E. 703. Garnishment proceeding held could not be collaterally attacked on the ground that notice was not given the proper agent. Orient Ins. Co. v. Rudolph [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 26. The question of jurisdiction is open to inquiry when the judgment of a court of the state comes under consideration in a Federal court sitting in the same state. Cooper v. Brazelton [C. C. A.] 135 F. 476.

17. Judgment by confession being rendered in term time by the court, the same presumptions will be indulged in support of it as in the case of ordinary judgments. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411.

18. A decree against infant defendants in a case where the court has jurisdiction of both the parties and the subject-matter is protected from collateral attack the same as a judgment against adults. Pinkney v. Weaver, 115 Ill. App. 582.

19. Sodini v. Sodini [Minn.] 102 N. W. 861, citing 2 C. L. 595.

20. In the matter of approving and rejecting claims against the state the board of examiners acts judicially and its decisions in cases where it has jurisdiction are not subject to collateral attack. Sullivan v. Gage, 145 Cal. 759, 79 P. 537.

21. County court with reference to probate matters is a court of general jurisdiction. Wallace v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 432. Probate court of general jurisdiction and jurisdictional facts are presumed. Hickey v. Stallworth [Ala.] 39 So. 267. Orphans' court is a court of general jurisdiction. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815. Order of sale in probate proceedings. Stark v. Kirchgraber, 186 Mo. 633, 85 S. W. 868. Decree admitting will to probate. Upson v. Davis, 110 Ill. App. 375. Rev. Prob. Code, §§ 26, 202, 332, make the probate court in effect one of general jurisdiction. Blackman v. Mulhall [S. D.] 104 N. W. 250.

22. See Estates of Decedents, 5 C. L. 1270.

23, 23a. See 4 C. L. 314.

Enrollment of decree in higher court for the purposes of a lien, see ante, § 4.

24. Execution and attachment liens, see Attachment, 5 C. L. 302; Executions, 5 C. L. 1384. As to what properties are subject to execution, see Executions, 5 C. L. 1384.

25. See 4 C. L. 314.

26. Gift under a will subject to a power of sale held vested. In re L'Hommedieu, 138 F. 606. See Executions, 5 C. L. 1384.

27. Homestead. Davis v. Yonge [Ark.] 85 S. W. 90. See Executions, 5 C. L. 1384, and Homesteads, 5 C. L. 1689.

28. In Oregon the purchaser's title on foreclosure sale is incomplete until time for redemption has passed and a judgment after ment,[30] judgment liens are general and indefinite. Except where the true owner is estopped from asserting title,[31] the lien of a judgment attaches only to such interest in the debtor's land as he has at the time of its rendition[32] or acquires thereafter,[33] and must be subordinated to the superior equity of a prior specific lien.[34] The lien of a judgment in rem extends only to the interest of defendant in the property involved.[35] In Oregon the lien of a judgment subsequent to foreclosure sale may come in superior to the mortgagor's grantee who redeemed and thus under the laws of that state prevented foreclosure title from accruing.[36] In Mississippi the lien of a justice's judgment attaches as of the date of its enrollment in the circuit court[37] and binds all the property of defendant without regard to its character or description.[38]

Duration of lien.[38a]—The lien of a judgment is a "right accrued"[39] and as such not extinguished by repeal of a statute giving it.[40] A judgment lien does not cease to exist because of the death of the judgment creditor,[41] and it may be enforced in equity without revival.[42] As a general rule such suits must be brought in the county where the land lies; but in construing statutes so providing the courts generally hold that if a court of equity has jurisdiction over any of the land sought to be subjected to the lien it may enforce the judgment lien against land outside the county, even though it finds that the property within the county where suit is brought is not liable.[43] The lien is a mere incident of the debt and ceases to exist when the judgment becomes barred by limitations.[44] The lien is continued in a stay bond and relates back to the rendition of the judgment so as to protect the judg-foreclosure becomes a lien available if redemption is made. Kaston v. Storey [Or.] 80 P. 217.

29. So held as affecting the judgment creditor's right to redeem from a mortgage foreclosure sale. Illinois Nat. Bank v. Trustees of Schools, 111 Ill. App. 189.

30. The lien of a judgment against a corporate shareholder does not attach to the stock upon the rendition of judgment, but only after notice acting as a sort of garnishment on the corporation or withholding the lien until levy as under Civ. Code 1895, § 3125. Owens v. Atlanta Trust & Banking Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 379.

31. Owens v. Atlanta Trust & Banking Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 379.

32. Glen Morris-Glyndon Supply Co. v. McColgan [Md.] 60 A. 608; Owens v. Atlanta Trust & Banking Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 379.

33. Glen Morris-Glyndon Supply Co. v. McColgan [Md.] 60 A. 608. Where property was devised in trust, the property to be divided among the beneficiaries at a certain time and the trustee was given no power to sell, held, judgments against the beneficiaries became liens on their interests at the time for division. Moll v. Gardner, 214 Ill. 248, 73 N. E. 442.

34. Even though created by a defective mortgage or conveyance. Glen Morris-Glyndon Supply Co. v. McColgan [Md.] 60 A. 608. The lien of a judgment against a corporate stockholder on his stock is inferior to an existing lien arising by virtue of a by-law under Civ. Code 1895, § 2825, even though the plaintiff in fi. fa. had no notice thereof at the time he made the loan, secured the judgment, or gave notice to the corporation under Civ. Code 1895, § 5431. Owens v. Atlanta Trust & Banking Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 379.

35. Judgment in attachment, defendant not appearing in person. Bainbridge v. Allen [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 706. Judgment in a foreign attachment in which there was no appearance entered by the defendant. Glenny v. Boyd, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 380.

36. In Oregon a foreclosure decree becomes a lien on the property at the time it is recovered and docketed subject to be determined only by the consummation of such sale by the execution and delivery of a sheriff's deed, or by redemption. B. & C. Comp. §§ 205, 227. Kaston v. Storey [Or.] 80 P. 217.

37. Minshew v. Davidson & Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 315.

38. Held to bind stock of goods and merchandise. Minshew v. Davidson & Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 315.

38a. See 4 C. L. 316.

39, 40. Where judgment was obtained and docketed for personal property taxes and became a lien upon the property in question before Revised Codes of 1895 took effect, such lien continued notwithstanding the repeal of the law under which the lien was acquired. Hagler v. Kelly [S. D.] 103 N. W. 629, overruling Gull River Lumber Co. v. Lee, 7 N. D. 135, 73 N. W. 430.

41. Code 1899, c. 139, § 5, makes it an absolute lien. Laidley v. Reynolds [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 405.

42, 43. Laidley v. Reynolds [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 405.

44. Where a judgment was not rendered until a homestead was set apart and it was barred by limitations before the exemption ceased, a suit to enforce the lien after the exemption ceased and more than 20 years after the issue of execution held barred. Code 1904, §§ 3567, 3573, 3577, 3578 and 3649 construed. Ackiss' Ex'rs v. Satchel [Va.] 52 S. E. 378.

ment creditor against subsequent liens or conveyances by the judgment debtor.[45] The lien of a judgment obtained during the life of a decedent continues indefinitely against his heirs and devisees[46] or their assignees,[47] subject to the general presumption of payment arising after 20 years.[48] In Mississippi the only way in which the lien of a judgment can be extended is by suit brought within seven years from the date of rendition,[49] and this suit may be brought by an assignee of the judgment in his own name,[50] and in such a case the judgment roll need not show the assignment or that the judgment was based on the original judgment.[51]

Rank and priority of lien.[51a]—The judgment lien on an undivided interest is superior to a subsequent voluntary partition between the co-tenants,[52] and this superiority continues throughout the enforcement of the lien,[53] though the purchaser at the execution sale may if equity requires it be required to take the share set out to the judgment debtor in such partition.[54] A subsequent purchaser takes subject to the judgment lien.[55] As between a judgment creditor and a mortgagee the former is entitled to all the surplus proceeds of the sale after the payment of the mortgage debt, with such expenses only as are provided for in the mortgage or are necessarily incident thereto,[56] and the mortgagor will not be permitted by a subsequent agreement with the mortgagee to give the latter the entire proceeds of the sale, to the exclusion of judgment creditors, under the guise of exorbitant commissions.[57]

The mode of asserting the lien is by execution unless it is sought to reach property not leviable[58] or held subject to voidable though apparently superior liens or titles.[59]

Release.—The lien covering more property than is necessary for the creditor's protection, the debtor may in Connecticut demand a partial release,[60] and plaintiff prevailing on such an application is not entitled to recover damages for defendant's refusal to discharge the lien on demand without alleging and proving facts justifying such recovery.[61]

45. Cook v. Martin [Ark.] 87 S. W. 625.

46. Ziegler v. Schall, 209 Pa. 526, 58 A. 912. By allowing five years to elapse between revivals its priority is lost as to other judgments against the decedent, or as to mortgagees or judgment creditors of devisees, by failure at a revival to give notice to them. Act June 18, 1895 (P. L. 197) construed. Id.

47. Where devisees assigned their interests to secure judgments confessed by them, held, assignees were at most mortgagees and lien of judgment against decedent continued. Ziegler v. Schall, 209 Pa. 526, 58 A. 912.

48. Roberts v. Powell [Pa.] 60 A. 258.

49. Code 1892, § 2743. Street v. Smith [Miss.] 37 So. 837. Code 1892, § 2462, providing for the barring of liens unless a marginal record entry is made, does not apply to judgment liens. Id.

50, 51. Street v. Smith [Miss.] 37 So. 837.

51a. See 4 C. L. 315.

52. Boice v. Conover [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 159.

53. Judgment creditor may sell undivided interest as if no partition had been made. Boice v. Conover [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 159.

54. Boice v. Conover [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 159.

55. Davis v. Yonge [Ark.] 85 S. W. 90.

56, 57. Staton v. Webb, 137 N. C. 35, 49 S. E. 55.

58. In North Carolina, where property is conveyed to a trustee upon a declaration of trust unless the trust is pure and unmixed and it is the right of the cestui que trust to call for the immediate conveyance of the legal title, the lien of a judgment thereon must be enforced by a civil action. Mayo v. Staton, 139 N. C. 670, 50 S. E. 331. So held where land was conveyed to a trustee upon a declaration of trust, and there was no defeasance in the deed, to sell for the payment of debt or to discharge any other duty in which persons, other than the judgment debtor, had an interest, or when for any other reason the judgment debtor could not call for an immediate transfer of the legal title. Id. See, also, Creditor's Suits, 5 C. L. 880.

59. A creditor whose judgment is inferior to a mortgage cannot, by levy of a common-law execution, subject property held by the mortgagee under a title voidable at his own sale under a power. Williams v. Williams Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 52. Nor can a judgment creditor of an heir levy upon and sell land formerly belonging to the estate, but held by a voidable title, because of a purchase by the administrator at his own sale. Id.

60. Where on an application for partial release of a judgment lien the judgment creditor's demurrer not reaching the allegation that the land after the partial release prayed for would be worth more than the amount of the judgment, held, the court properly found that the complaint substan-

"Judicial mortgages."—In Louisiana the recording of a judgment for alimony obtained by a wife against her husband in an action for separation from bed and board or divorce creates a judicial mortgage.[62] A judicial mortgagee has a right of action to have a sheriff's return on writ and seizure of sale under a prior general mortgage corrected and to have a judgment decreeing the correct balance if there is a balance.[63]

§ 9. Suspension, dormancy and revival.[64]—While a judgment is not by dormancy deprived of all vitality,[65] it is without generative vitality.[66] That it may have efficiency, it must be revived;[67] hence a dormant judgment does not authorize the issuance of execution.[68] The issuance of execution[69] or a writ of possession[70] is generally sufficient to prevent dormancy; but the pendency of ancillary proceedings does not extend the time within which a judgment becomes dormant.[71] In order that an agreement between the parties may prevent dormancy it must have the effect of renewing the debtor's liability.[72] In Virginia a judgment on which execution has issued may be kept alive by other executions issued within the statutory period.[73] Generally dormancy raises a presumption of payment,[74] and after this presumption has once arisen, no act of the creditor or any one assuming to represent the estate of the debtor can have the effect of reviving the judgment.[75] The judgment creditor dying revival is only necessary for the purpose of issuing execution.[76] In the District of Columbia failure to have execution issued within a year and a day after the return of an execution unsatisfied drives plaintiff to an action of debt upon the judgment or to a scire facias to revive it,[77] or to a suit in equity to have a decree for the enforcement of the judgment within the time saved by the statute of limitations.[78] The laws of a state in regard to the revival of a judgment existing at the time of the execution of a contract become a part of the tially stated that the defendant's judgment lien covers more than sufficient property to reasonably secure his judgment. Byrne v. Kelsey [Conn.] 61 A. 965.

61. Byrne v. Kelsey [Conn.] 61 A. 965.

62. Baker v. Jewell [La.] 38 So. 532.

63. He has a right to safeguard his interest if his debtor will not. Hardy v. Pecot [La.] 36 So. 992.

64. See 4 C. L. 316.

65. Furer v. Holmes [Neb.] 102 N. W. 764.

66, 67, 68. Denny v. Ross [Kan.] 79 P. 502.

69. Under Stat. 1893, § 4337, a judgment against a city of the first class becomes dormant after five years from the date of its rendition, unless the judgment creditor, within such time, causes execution to issue thereon. Beadles v. Fry [Okl.] 82 P. 1041. An entry of the execution on the general execution docket will not prevent the dormancy of a judgment rendered in the superior court, where the execution has not been placed on the execution docket of that court within seven years from the rendition of the judgment. Rountree v. Jones [Ga.] 52 S. E. 325.

70. Under the common law unless a writ of possession be issued on a judgment in ejectment within a year and a day, the judgment must be revived. Virginia Code 1904, p. 1900, fixes the time at one year. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

71. So held as regards a proceeding in the probate court in aid of execution upon a judgment in the district court. Denny v. Ross [Kan.] 79 P. 502.

72. An agreement between practically all of the judgment creditors of a city that such city shall pay such creditors in the order of priority of the date thereof instead of paying each judgment creditor his pro rata share, and a resolution of a city council which refers to such agreement, and orders the city treasurer to pay such judgments, according to such contract, do not change the legal status of the city toward any of such creditors, nor do they excuse any judgment creditor from suing out an execution within five years of the date his judgment was rendered, or from securing a revivor of his judgment within one year after it became dormant. Beadles v. Fry [Okl.] 82 P. 1041.

73. Ackiss' Ex'rs v. Satchel [Va.] 52 S. E. 378.

74. Furer v. Holmes [Neb.] 102 N. W. 764.

75. Brantley v. Bittle [S. C.] 51 S. E. 561. A judgment recovered against a debtor during his lifetime can be revived against the administrator of his estate when the summons for renewal was not issued against the administrator of his estate within 20 years after the death of the judgment debtor and when the right of action on the judgment was barred at the time the summons was issued. Code Civ. Proc. § 309. Id.

76. It is not necessary in order to enforce the lien of the judgment in equity. Code 1899, c. 139, § 5. Laidley v. Reynolds [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 405.

77. Raub v. Hurt, 24 App. D. C. 211.

78. Raub v. Hurt, 24 App. D. C. 211. See post, § 14, Actions on Judgment.

"obligation" of such contract within the meaning of constitutional provisions;[79] it follows that such law is not as to a judgment in an action of tort, rendered before its passage an unconstitutional violation of the obligation of contracts.[80] An affidavit alleging the existence of the judgment, its dormancy and the fact that it is unpaid is sufficient to justify a conditional order of revivor,[81] and, upon proper service and default, to sustain an order making the revivor absolute.[82] In Nebraska a judgment rendered in a justice court may be revived either in that court or in the district court.[83] A writ of scire facias to obtain an execution upon a judgment is a judicial writ,[84] and should issue from, be returned to, and heard and determined by, the court which rendered judgment and has possession of the record.[85] In the Federal courts the procedure on the writ of scire facias should conform as nearly as may be to the state procedure.[86] In Virginia the action on scire facias takes the same course as an ordinary action at law in which a writ of inquiry is dispensed with.[87] In some states personal service is required.[88] A plea to a scire facias must allege the facts which constitute a defense, and must not merely suggest the possibility of the existence of such facts.[89] On scire facias to revive a judgment, no defense can be made except one that has arisen since the judgment.[90] Fraud is no defense to the proceeding.[91] General rules as to parties apply.[92] A proceeding to revive a judgment entered in favor of a co-partnership should after the death of one partner be revived in the name of the surviving partner alone.[93] On scire facias to revive a default judgment it appearing from the return that the service of process was insufficient, the judgment will be held void, under either a motion to vacate or under a plea of nul tiel record, subject, however, to the right of amend-

79. Howard v. Ross, 38 Wash. 627, 80 P. 819. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5148-5150, continuing the lien of a judgment for six years and prohibiting any action or other proceeding to revive the lien for a longer period than six years is unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of a contract if applied to a judgment recovered after the passage of such sections on a note executed and delivered prior to their passage, when the laws permitted a revival of such a judgment or the institution of suit thereon. Id. Williams v. Packard [Wash.] 81 P. 710.

80. Gaffney v. Jones [Wash.] 81 P. 1058.

81, 82. Furer v. Holmes [Neb.] 102 N. W. 764.

83. Furer v. Holmes [Neb.] 102 N. W. 764. The fact that the judgment is dormant when transcripted affords no reason for changing the rule. Id. Bussing v. Taggart [Neb.] 103 N. W. 430.

84. As distinguished from an original writ. Kennebec Steam Towage Co. v. Rich [Me.] 60 A. 702.

85. Kennebec Steam Towage Co. v. Rich [Me.] 60 A. 702.

86. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

87. Office judgment on default and confirmation thereof. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

88. Civ. Code 1895, § 5381, which requires a writ of scire facias to "be served by the sheriff of the county in which the party to be notified may reside, 20 days before the sitting of the court," contemplates personal service, hence service by leaving a copy at the most notorious place of abode of the defendant is not sufficient. Atwood v. Hirsch Bros. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 742.

89. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. Where in ejectment a landlord claiming title to a part of the premises was not made a party, a plea by his tenant in possession at the time the action was begun, that he was a mere tenant in possession, and that since the judgment his lease had expired and he had surrendered possession and removed from the land, held insufficient to prevent judgment against him. Id.

90. Philadelphia v. Peyton, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 350. On scire facias to revive a judgment entered upon an original scire facias sur municipal lien, the fact that no evidence is offered that notice was given to the owner of the property to do the work, and that it was done by the city because of his failure cannot operate to defeat the right of the city to a judgment. Id.

91. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

92. If at the time judgment is entered upon an original scire facias sur municipal lien there is no registered owner, it is not incumbent upon the city to make the owner who several years after registers his title a party to the scire facias which later issues to continue the lien. Philadelphia v. Peyton, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 350. Under Act June 1, 1887 (P. L. 289) where land subject to a judgment has been conveyed and thereafter the judgment is revived against the defendant alone without naming the terretenant in the scire facias, the lien of the judgment on the land is lost. Barrell v. Adams, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 635.

93. Linn v. Downing, 116 Ill. App. 454. Cannot be revived in the names of the surviving partner and the personal representative of the deceased partner. Id. An allegation that L. and S., late partners as L. & S., obtained the judgment in question, cannot be construed as averring that L. and S.

ment of the return in certain cases.[94] The judgment in scire facias is, to a certain extent, a new judgment designed to avoid the statute of limitations by giving a new point for its currency.[95] A recovery on a revived judgment is the amount of the original judgment with interest from the date the latter was rendered.[96] In Texas a judgment creditor whose judgment has been erroneously satisfied of record may, in a suit against the judgment debtor to set aside the satisfaction and revive the judgment, sue out a writ of garnishment to reach a debt due the debtor.[97]

§ 10. Assignment of judgment.[98]—A judgment for the recovery of money, even when not assignable by statute, so as to vest the legal title in the assignee, is nevertheless a chose in action, subject to sale and equitable assignment.[99] Such judgment may be assigned by parol as well as by written contract.[1] A written assignment made pursuant to a previous parol agreement assigning the judgment relates back to the time of such agreement.[2] A board having the power to abate or compromise a tax has the power to sell and assign a tax judgment[3] for less than the amount due thereon if the transaction is free from fraud or other illegality.[4] An assignment of a judgment is not generally regarded as an assignment of a right of action,[5] but in any event whether it constitutes a purchase of a litigious right will not be determined on appeal from the judgment,[6] but the remedy of the debtor is to oppose its enforcement.[7] While the court will look to the specific written assignment of the judgment and its terms to determine what passes thereby,[8] the general rule is that an absolute assignment of a judgment passes all the assignor's assignable rights therein to the assignee and gives the latter the right to use every remedy, lien or security available to the assignor as a means of enforcement thereof;[9] but it may be stated, in a particular application of the general rule, that those rights which thus pass by assignment along with a judgment are only such as are vested in the assignor by virtue of that particular judgment and do not include those arising out of another and different proceeding, although such other proceeding be a contest over a particular method of enforcing the judgment assigned,[10] nor does the assignment vest in the assignee, as an incident, a litigious right against a third party to recover damages for an injury which accrued prior to the assignment.[11] In no case are the assignee's rights superior to those of his assignor.[12] The as-obtained the judgment jointly and not as partners. Id.

94. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

95, 96. Gregory v. Perry [S. C.] 50 S. E. 787.

97. Rev. St. 1895, art. 217, subd. 2. Francis Bros. v. Robinson [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 803. A judgment satisfied of record cannot be made the basis for the issuance of a writ of garnishment under Rev. St. 1895, art. 217, subd. 3. Id.

98. See 4 C. L. 318.

Debtor's right of set-off, effect of assignment on, see post, § 11.

99, 1, 2. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp [Ky.] 89 S. W. 304.

3. Board of county commissioners has power to sell and assign a judgment obtained for personal property taxes under the General Revenue Law of 1890. Hagler v. Kelly [N. D.] 103 N. W. 629.

4. Hagler v. Kelly [N. D.] 103 N. W. 629.

5. The assignment of a judgment is not the assignment of a right of action in tort where not till after the assignment was it paid to defendants; any wrongful withholding of the money being a wrong done by them to plaintiff. Reynolds v. Cavanagh [Mich.] 102 N. W. 986.

6, 7. Kuck v. Johnson [La.] 38 So. 559.

8. Crist v. McDaniel [Okl.] 82 P. 991.

9. Crist v. McDaniel [Okl.] 82 P. 991. The assignment of a judgment in writing by a receiver who had power to dispose of the assets of a bank vests in the assignee title to the judgment and the right to such equitable relief as the bank or receiver could have had. Rogers v. Dimon, 106 Ill. App. 201.

10. Crist v. McDaniel [Okl.] 82 P. 991. Assignment of judgment held not to give assignee a right of action on the stay bond given in a suit to enjoin the sale of property levied on under the judgment. Id.

11. Commonwealth v. Wampler [Va.] 51 S. E. 737. The assignee of a judgment is not entitled to maintain an action for damages against an officer and the sureties on his official bond for a breach of the condition thereof which occurred prior to the assignment, by reason of his failure to return a forthcoming bond taken upon the judgment within the time and in the manner prescribed by statute to give such bond the signee is chargeable with the knowledge of his attorney, who negotiated the assignment, concerning litigation affecting the judgment.[13] There is no implied warranty in the mere assignment of a judgment that it is impregnable.[14] The implied warranty is that it is a genuine judgment, that in due form of law a judgment was entered, that the court had jurisdiction to enter it, and that it has not been paid, released or otherwise nullified.[15] If the assignee desires further protection he must have it expressly provided for.[16] It is the duty of the assignee to give the debtor notice of the assignment,[17] and if he fails to do so and the debtor pays the amount of the judgment to the plaintiff, the assignee, in the absence of an estoppel,[18] cannot compel the debtor to make a second payment to himself.[19] In a suit to enforce in equity a defective assignment, only such persons as have an interest in the fund should be made parties.[20] Cases dealing with the sufficiency of evidence to show an assignment are shown in the notes.[21]

§ 11. Payment, discharge and satisfaction.[22]—Though there be several judgments there can be but one satisfaction of the debt.[23] An offer to pay a less amount than the face value of the judgment in full payment thereof being accepted by the judgment creditor without protest operates as a satisfaction of the judgment.[24] A subsequent payment of the balance is a gratuity and bears no interest.[25] A note does not generally operate as payment.[26] A judgment against an executor force of a judgment against the obligors therein. Id.

12. Assignee takes only the title and interest of the assignor. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp [Ky.] 89 S. W. 304. As in sales of other personal property the rule of caveat emptor applies. Id. Judgment had been released of record. Blythe v. Cordingly [Colo. App.] 80 P. 495. An assignee though a bona fide purchaser, takes subject to the defense of payment by the judgment debtor, in favor of persons interested in the property on which the judgment was a lien. Boice v. Conover [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 159. Takes the same subject to existing equities between the parties. Work v. Prall, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 104. Where a judgment recovered for the benefit of a firm by a surviving partner thereof is assigned by the latter in payment of his individual debt to one knowing the facts, the assignee takes subject to the rights of the firm creditors. Jones v. Dulaney, 27 Ky. L. R. 702, 86 S. W. 547. The interest in a judgment of attorneys, taking an assignment thereof, over and above their lien thereon for fees due from the judgment creditor, a surviving partner, held in no wise increased by the fact that the estate of the deceased partner subsequently paid them their fees. Id.

13. Boice v. Conover [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 159.

14, 15. Hinkley v. Champaign Nat. Bank, 216 Ill. 559, 75 N. E. 210.

16. Hinkley v. Champaign Nat. Bank, 216 Ill. 559, 75 N. E. 210. A covenant "that there is now due on said judgment" a specified sum, and that the assignor will not collect nor release the same contains no express warranty that the judgment is unassailable and does not make the assignor liable for damages resulting from the judgment being opened and the action defeated by defendant therein.

17. The entry of the assignment on the records of the court of common pleas is not notice to defendant. Work v. Prall, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 104.

18. A promise made by the defendant in a judgment to pay an assignee of the judgment the amount thereof will not estop the defendant from asserting subsequently that he had paid the amount of the judgment to the plaintiff without notice of the assignment, if it appears that the assignee's legal position was not changed by reason of the promise, or that he suffered any loss therefrom. Work v. Prall, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 104.

19. Work v. Prall, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 104.

20. Where guardian assigned judgment in favor of ward without order of court and the guardian was subsequently removed, held, a complaint by the assignee joining the first guardian, and his sureties, the second guardian and the judgment debtor, was demurrable, in that the first guardian and his sureties should not have been joined. Conservative Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Omaha [Neb.] 103 N. W. 286.

21. The testimony of two plaintiffs, somewhat corroborated by the testimony of other witnesses, that the judgment had been assigned, held sufficient to establish the assignment as against the testimony of defendant alone. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837. Evidence held insufficient to show an assignment. Ebel v. Stringer [Neb.] 102 N. W. 466.

22. See 4 C. L. 318. Recovery of money paid under a judgment subsequently reversed, see Implied Contracts, 5 C. L. 1756.

23. Judgments on two insurance policies on same goods held payment of one and costs of both suits operates as a satisfaction to the extent of the amount paid on the judgment as to both judgments. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Sample, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 629.

24. So held where Congress made a partial appropriation "in full for the principal of the judgment." Bloodgood's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 69.

25. Bloodgood's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 69.

26. Note and renewal thereof held not to extinguish judgment debt. Hayward v. Empire State Sugar Co., 93 N. Y. S. 449.

or administrator is payable only in the due course of the administration of the estate.[27] A judgment is extinguished when it is paid by one who is primarily liable for its satisfaction, and it cannot, after such payment, be kept alive by assignment.[28] Where a judgment is paid by a co-surety, his right to subrogation is not defeated by satisfaction of the judgment.[29] In New Jersey, in an action on a bill or note, payment of a judgment by one secondarily liable does not satisfy a judgment against the maker,[30] but the one paying the judgment is, upon paying the costs incurred by the creditor in obtaining the judgment,[31] entitled to an assignment of the judgment against the maker.[32] A clerk of court has authority to satisfy judgments only in the cases where the statute gives him authority so to do.[33] He cannot do so upon a deposit with him of the amount of the judgment unless authorized to receive payment,[34] and if without such authority the receipt of money for this purpose is not an official act,[35] and hence he cannot be amerced for failure to pay over money paid him for the satisfaction of a judgment on file in his office.[36]

§ 12. Set-off.[37] Occasion for or right of set-off.[38]—Judgments, although they affect principally the identical parties, are not as a matter of right to be set off against each other, but the legal and equitable rights of all persons interested therein should be considered.[39] In order that judgments may be set off they must be mutual,[40] and a judgment debtor is not bound to claim his right of set-off until his liability is finally determined.[41] A dormant judgment may be set off against a live judgment.[42] In so far as the attorneys have a lien thereon for their fees, a judgment is not subject to a set-off.[43] An assignee of a judgment takes subject to the right of the debtor to set off existing judgments,[44] even though the right to

27. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5697. Collins v. Denny Clay Co. [Wash.] 82 P. 1012.

28. Ebel v. Stringer [Neb.] 102 N. W. 466. A payment by the judgment debtor discharges the judgment as against him and those who hold interests in property subject to the judgment, and as to them it cannot be kept alive by assignment. Boice v. Conover [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 159.

29. Shaffer v. Messner, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 191.

30. Gen. St. p. 2538, § 36, and P. L. 1903, p. 543, § 35. McKenna v. Corcoran [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 1026.

31. McKenna v. Corcoran [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 1026.

32. Gen. St. p. 2538, § 36, and P. L. 1903, p. 543, § 35. McKenna v. Corcoran [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 1026.

33. Milburn-Stoddard Co. v. Stickney [N. D.] 103 N. W. 752.

34. Clerk of the district court has no such power. Milburn-Stoddard Co. v. Stickney [N. D.] 103 N. W. 752.

35. Milburn-Stoddard Co. v. Stickney [N. D.] 103 N. W. 752.

36. So held as to the clerk of the district court. Rev. Codes 1899, §§ 5555, 5556 construed. Milburn-Stoddard Co. v. Stickney [N. D.] 103 N. W. 752.

37, 38. See 4 C. L. 320.

39. Civ. Code Proc. § 377. A judgment in favor of an assignee for the benefit of creditors for the conversion of assets of the debtor's assigned estate could not equitably be set-off by a judgment allowing unsecured claims against the estate in favor of the party claiming the set-off. First Nat. Bank v. Krieger's Assignee [Ky.] 89 S. W. 733.

40. Where the pledgor of stock becomes insolvent and the pledgee converts the stock, held, a judgment in favor of the pledgee allowing its unsecured claims against the estate cannot be set-off against a judgment for the conversion, since the demands out of which the judgments grew were not mutual. First Nat. Bank v. Krieger's Assignee [Ky.] 89 S. W. 733.

41. That judgment debtor appealed after obtaining assignment of judgment against his creditor and after an affirmance filed a motion of set-off, held, motion was in time even as against assignees of the judgment pending the appeal. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 304.

42. This under Rev. St. § 5071, defining a set-off as a cause of action arising on contract or ascertained by the decision of a court. Oliver v. Canan, 71 Ohio St. 360, 73 N. E. 466.

43. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp [Ky.] 89 S. W. 304. The lien of an attorney for his services and disbursements in an action is superior to that of the parties' right to set-off separate and independent judgments rendered in the same action. Smith v. Cayuga Lake Cement Co., 95 N. Y. S. 236.

44. Debtor had purchased judgment against his judgment creditor before the latter assigned his judgment. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp [Ky.] 89 S. W. 304. The right of set-off under the terms of Rev. St. § 5073 is not destroyed by the fact that one of the judgment debtors assigns his judgment for value, after the rendition of the judgment against him, to a third person who at the time is ignorant of the judgment against his assignor. Oliver v. Canan, 71 Ohio St. 360, 73 N. E.

a set-off had not actually accrued at the time of the assignment; it is sufficient if the liability under which the right subsequently accrues then existed.[45] A judgment debtor obtaining an assignment of a judgment against his judgment creditor is not required to file a notice of the assignment in order to have the right of set-off as against a subsequent assignee of his judgment creditor.[46] A debtor may buy a judgment against his creditor to use it as a set-off,[47] and so may use the same to its full amount regardless of the price paid for it.[48]

Effect of set-off.[49]—When a judgment for the value of a chattel is satisfied by offsetting, the chattel passes to the one cast for its value.[50]

Procedure to claim.[51]—Actions to set-off judgments are equitable in their nature and usually must be brought in a court of chancery.[52] This jurisdiction was assumed by courts of equity at an early date and still exists, but its exercise depends upon the inadequacy of the remedy at law.[53] It is only when there is some supervening equity such as insolvency,[54] or the like, which renders the interposition of the court necessary to protect the rights of the plaintiff, that it will intervene at all.[55] The mere existence of cross demands is not sufficient.[56] The fact that application is not first made in the court of rendition will not prevent equitable relief as "complete justice."[57] In California the court of rendition possesses the power to set-off its judgments one against another on motion.[58]

§ 13. Interest[59] is regulated by statute and "judgments" bearing interest are those only which the statute contemplates.[60] Where it is provided by statute that a judgment shall bear interest until paid, it will do so though it contains no provision to that effect.[61] It bears no interest until the performance of conditions

466. Where a wife took an assignment of a judgment in favor of her husband with knowledge that the judgment debtor as surety on her husband's notes would have to pay the same, her husband being insolvent; held an equitable right of set-off existed which was not affected by the assignment. Coonan v. Loewenthal [Cal.] 81 P. 527. Mortgages executed by the husband to indemnify the surety held not to change the rule, their only effect being to make the amount of the judgment debtor's claim, as surety, uncertain. Id.

45. Equity. Coonan v. Loewenthal [Cal.] 81 P. 527.

46, 47. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp [Ky.] 89 S. W. 304.

48. So held where debtor had an arrangement with his assignor that the judgment should not be paid for until used and then only at a reduced rate. Brown & Bro. v. Lapp [Ky.] 89 S. W. 304.

49. See 4 C. L. 320.

50. Hildebrand v. Head [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 599, 88 S. W. 438.

51. See 4 C. L. 320.

52. Judgment of different courts. Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co. v. Billingsley [Neb.] 105 N. W. 85.

53. Whelan v. McMahon [Or.] 82 P. 19.

54. Whelan v. McMahon [Or.] 82 P. 19; Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co. v. Billingsley [Neb.] 105 N. W. 85. A party against whom a judgment has been rendered in favor of the trustee of a bankrupt may by proper proceedings in equity be allowed to offset against the same a claim allowed in its favor against the bankrupt in the bankruptcy proceedings. Id. Insolvency held a material allegation of the complaint and unless sustained by proof plaintiff was not entitled to relief. Whelan v. McMahon [Or.] 82 P. 19.

55, 56. Whelan v. McMahon [Or.] 82 P. 19.

57. Failure of a judgment debtor to file a complaint under Gen. St. 1902, § 654, asking a set-off against a judgment for a tort by the court in which it was rendered, does not deprive the court which had taken jurisdiction of the settlement of the affairs of the judgment creditor by receivership proceedings, from allowing the set-off by directing an equitable application of the assets in the hands of the receiver in satisfaction of claims proved. Betts v. Connecticut Life Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 345.

58. Coonan v. Loewenthal [Cal.] 81 P. 527; Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co. v. Billingsley [Neb.] 105 N. W. 85.

59. Interest on the obligation as distinguished from the judgment. See Interest, 6 C. L. 157.

60. A widow's allowance set-off by commissioners from her husband's estate is not a judgment within the statute relating to interest. Does not bear interest from the date of set-off. Field v. Field, 215 Ill. 496, 74 N. E. 443. Under a statute defining interest as the compensation allowed by law or fixed by the parties to a contract for the use or forbearance or detention of money, a judgment in favor of the state on a penal bond does not bear interest. Liquor dealer's bond. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, articles 3105 and 3097 construed. Hawthorne v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 839. A judgment in favor of the trustee in bankruptcy of a husband for community funds expended on the separate property of the wife does not bear interest. To allow interest would be an encroachment on the wife's separate made precedent to right of payment.[62] In West Virginia a judgment rendered upon a verdict in an action ex delicto should bear interest from the date of the verdict.[63] The rate pertaining to the obligation ceases and that pertaining to judgments applies from the time of rendition.[64]

§ 14. Enforcement of judgment.[65]—Executions, other final process and creditors' suits are treated elsewhere.[66] The enforcement of a judgment or the right to withhold its enforcement is a matter primarily within the jurisdiction of the court by which it was rendered.[67] A judgment against a partnership as a corporation cannot be enforced against the partners individually.[68] Matter existing anterior to the judgment cannot be made a ground for supersedeas of an execution issued on such judgment.[69]

§ 15. Audita querela.[70]—Audita querela is a form of action which lies for a defendant to recall or prevent an execution, on account of some matter occurring after judgment amounting to a discharge and which could not have been, and cannot be taken advantage of otherwise.[71] It follows that a writ of audita querela, or a motion in the nature of such writ, is the proper remedy to restrain the enforcement of a judgment that has been paid.[72] A court having no jurisdiction and its judgment being void, audita querela to vacate the judgment and execution thereon is unnecessary.[73]

§ 16. Actions on judgment; merger.[74]—The action must be brought within the period of limitations[75] prescribed by the law of the forum.[76] The legislature may shorten the statute of limitations as to existing causes of action provided a reasonable time is given for the commencement of an action before the bar takes effect,[77] though the laws of a state permitting actions on a judgment existing at the time of the execution of a contract become a part of the "obligation" of such property. Collins v. Bryan [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 237, 88 S. W. 432.

61. McNeill v. Durham & C. R. Co., 138 N. C. 1, 50 S. E. 458.

62. A decree requiring payment only after tender of certain security does not bear interest until after that date. Moore v. Durnan [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 327.

63. Code 1899, c. 131, § 16. Campbell v. Elkins [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 220.

64. Under Act May 23, 1889 (P. L. 277), after a lien for taxes has been filed a city may add a penalty of one per cent. per month until judgment entered on the scire facias, but thereafter the judgment bears only six per cent. per annum. Altoona v. Morrison, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 417.

65. See 4 C. L. 320.

66. See separate articles Creditors' Suits, 5 C. L. 880 and Executions, 5 C. L. 1384.

67. People's Home Sav. Bank v. Sadler [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1029.

68. Sinsabaugh v. Dun, 214 Ill. 70, 73 N. E. 390.

69. Jesse French Piano & Organ Co. v. Bradley [Ala.] 39 So. 47.

70. The modern practice is by motion, see ante, § 5.

71. Cyc. Law Dict. p. 77. Where at the time a husband was sued in ejectment, he was in possession by the mere sufferance of his wife, who held the title and resided on the premises, but was not sued, and the husband acquired a life estate in the land by the death of his wife after judgment and before execution, he is entitled by reason of his wife's death to have a judgment by default as to him opened and to be allowed to defend. King v. Davis, 137 F. 222.

72. Bill in equity is not the proper remedy. Pyle v. Crebs, 112 Ill. App. 480.

73. French v. White [Vt.] 62 A. 35.

74. See 4 C. L. 320. Merger of the cause of action in the judgment is treated in Former Adjudication, 5 C. L. 1502.

75. Under Code §§ 3439, 3447, the period within which an action on a judgment may be maintained is 5 years, being the time between the end of 15 years and of 20 years after its rendition. Wooster v. Bateman, 126 Iowa, 552, 102 N. W. 521. Under Gen. St. Kan. 1901, § 4883, an action on a judgment procured against a decedent in his lifetime must be commenced within one year from the appointment and qualification of his representative. First Nat. Bank v. Hazie [R. I.] 61 A. 171, following Scroggs v. Tutt, 23 Kan. 181.

76. So held in an action on a judgment obtained in another state against the decedent in his lifetime, the state of the forum being where the decedent resided at the time of his death and where his estate was situated and will proved. First Nat. Bank v. Hazie [R. I.] 61 A. 171.

77. Acts 29th Gen. Assem. p. 103, c. 137, allowing 15 months within which actions might be brought on judgments otherwise barred by the amendment, held reasonable as agalnst residents, and nonresidents. Wooster v. Bateman, 126 Iowa, 552, 102 N. W. 521. See article Limitation of Actions, 4 C. L. 445. Acts 29th Gen. Assem. p. 103, c. 137, providing that Code, §§ 3439, 3447, limiting actions on judgments, should be applicable to all judgments rendered after the taking effect of the Code of 1873 and prior contract within the meaning of constitutional provisions;[78] but a change in the law is not as to a judgment in an action of tort, rendered before its passage, an unconstitutional violation of the obligation of contracts.[79] A dormant judgment not being revived within the statutory time, it will be treated as barred by the statute of limitations and no recovery can be had thereon.[80] An action upon a joint judgment may be maintained against one of the judgment debtors alone.[81] In New York an action will lie upon a final order in a special proceeding.[82] Statutory proceedings against a co-obligor of a judgment debtor not served in the action nor a party thereto must rest upon a valid judgment.[83]

JUDICIAL NOTICE, see latest topical index.

JUDICIAL SALES.

§ 1. Occasion for and nature of judicial sales.[1]—The judicial sales here discussed do not embrace those pursuant to foreclosure decrees or execution, or in proceedings to sell a decedent's lands and the like.[2] In their nature judicial sales are involuntary.[3] Sales of decedents' lands under order of court to pay debts are judicial.[4]

§ 2. The order, writ or decree.[5]—A judgment for the sale of land in winding up a corporation is not void for failure to describe the land, but merely erroneous, and the purchaser will not be relieved on that account, if the conduct of the sale was regular,[6] especially where the misdescription was known to the purchaser and he does not complain of being misled;[7] and an erroneous description may be cured to the taking effect of the Code of 1897 held not unconstitutional for nonuniformity (Wooster v. Bateman, 126 Iowa, 552, 102 N. W. 521), nor as depriving a judgment holder of the benefits thereof without due process of law (Id.).

78. Howard v. Ross, 38 Wash. 627, 80 P. 819. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5148-5150, containing the lien of a judgment for six years and prohibiting any action or other proceeding to revive the lien for a longer period than six years, is unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of a contract if applied to a judgment recovered after the passage of such sections on a note executed and delivered prior to their passage, when the laws permitted a revival of such a judgment on the institution of suit thereon. Id. Williams v. Packard [Wash.] 81 P. 710.

79. Gaffney v. Jones [Wash.] 81 P. 1058.

80. Courts will deny the aid of mandamus to compel payment of the same. Beadles v. Fry [Okl.] 82 P. 1041.

81. Foreign judgment. Childs v. Blethen [Wash.] 82 P. 405 [dicta] and cases cited.

82. Code Civ. Proc. § 1913 does not affect the case. Fenlon v. Paillard, 46 Misc. 151, 93 N. Y. S. 1101.

83. Proceedings authorized by Gen. St. 1894, §§ 5436-5441 considered. No action can be brought under these sections against such co-obligor subsequent to 10 years from the docketing of such judgment. Brown v. Dooley [Minn.] 103 N. W. 894.

1. See 4 C. L. 321.

2. Those sales have many general points of similarity, but being largely governed by statutory rules, the cases cannot with safety be cited to general principles. The topics cited should be compared.

3. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 938.

4. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815, citing 11 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] 1111; Pierce v. Vansell [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 554.

5. See 4 C. L. 321.

6. Thompson v. Brownlie, 25 Ky. L. R. 622, 76 S. W. 172.

7. A 30-foot lot was erroneously described in the judgment and advertisement as a 60-foot lot, but the error was corrected in a supplemental decree. Murdock v. Loeser, 27 Ky. L. R. 1057, 87 S. W. 808.

by reference to the other proceedings in the cause;[8] nor is an order of sale void because the holder of a lien on the property was not made a party to the proceeding.[9] A judgment directing the sale of land to satisfy a debt directs by implication a sale of only so much as may be necessary.[10]

§ 3. Levy, seizure, appraisal and the like.[11]—The valuation and appraisement of land on a judicial sale are for the benefit of the defendant, giving him the right to redeem, which right he can waive.[12]

§ 4. Notice and advertisement of sale.[13]—The notice of sale should be published for the prescribed time,[14] and the nature and quantum of estate to be sold should appear or be indicated.[15] A notice of sale which did not state that the lands would be sold in separate parcels was sufficient, though the decree provided for separate sales.[16] Where it appears that the property was sold for less than a fair price, it cannot be said that the failure to publish the advertisement in two newspapers, as required by law, was not injurious to a second mortgagee.[17]

§ 5. Sale and conduct of it and return.[18]—Judicial sales are involuntary sales and the rules of sales inter partes do not all apply.[19] Sale is usually by a master.[20] The sale must be such as to afford free and intelligent bidding,[21] must be fair[22] and on full competition.[23] Contracts to abstain from bidding which have a tendency to destroy free competition are contrary to public policy.[24] In the

8. Where the judgment described the property to be sold generally as a house and two lots, and the report of sale and order of confirmation specifically mentioned the house and two lots, such property passed by the sale. notwithstanding the judgment contained also a description by metes and bounds that included only the vacant lots. Ford v. Azbill, 27 Ky. L. R. 347, 85 S. W. 217.

9. Thompson v. Brownlie, 25 Ky. L. R. 622, 76 S. W. 172.

10. Burks' Adm'r v. Lane Lumber Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 686.

11. See 4 C. L. 321.

12. Where no exceptions were filed to the report of sale, until long after the confirmation, the payment of the purchase price and the issue of the deed, the failure of the appraisers to fix the value of the land was unavailable to the owner. Gravitt v. Mountz, 27 Ky. L. R. 945, 87 S. W. 304.

13. See 4 C. L. 321.

14, 15. Rawolle v. Kalbfleisch, 94 N. Y. S. 16.

16. Gen. St. 1901, § 4905, does not require the advertisement to state that the lands will be sold separately. Fraser v. Seeley [Kan.] 79 P. 1081.

17. Polhemus v. Princilla [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 263.

18. See 4 C. L. 321.

19. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 938.

20. NOTE. Mode of selling by master or commissioner: Sales of premises under a decree in chancery are usually made by a master or commissioner, or under the immediate direction of such officer, who may, however, employ an auctioneer merely to conduct the sale in his presence. 1 Barb. Ch. Pr. 525; Heyer v. Deaves. 2 Johns. Ch. [N. Y.] 154. Masters' sales are usually managed by the solicitor for the complainant, and it is held that he is, in all questions which may arise between the vendor and purchaser, to be considered as the agent of all the parties to the suit. Dalby v. Pullen, 1 Russ. & M. 296. Although a residuary legatee or tenant for life or the owner of a reversionary interest may become the purchaser at a sale under order of the court, it is necessary, if he be a party to the record, that he should have a previous order to warrant his being admitted as a bidder at the sale, and the court will not permit a party having such an order to conduct the sale. 1 Barb. Ch. Pr. 527; Williams v. Attenborough, Turn. & R. 76; Domville v. Berrington, 2 Younge & C. 724. If a master's conduct is grossly oppressive and improper, upon a sale by him it will be ordered to be set aside, and under certain circumstances the costs of so doing and of subsequent proceedings have been taxed against him. Baring v. Moore, 5 Paige [N. Y.] 48.—From Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 738.

21. A person claiming title to the land may at the sale state facts relating to the title, possession or alleged right of possession; but a failure to do so will not work an estoppel of the assertion of his right or remedy. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 938. It is inequitable, however, for a party having an interest in the land to express an opinion as to the title which injures and prejudices the sale of the interest which the debtor has (Id.), and where the judgment creditor starts a question of title merely to cheapen what he proposes to sell, he will be restrained from making the sale until the question of title is determined (Id.).

22. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682.

23. Where the sale is attended by circumstances showing that the purchaser desired to prevent fair and open competition, this, coupled with inadequacy of price, is sufficient for setting aside the sale. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682. A fair price only should be taken, and a minimum price fixed by appraisal is not a war-

absence of evidence to the contrary, it must be presumed that on a sale of so much of a tract of 42 acres as was necessary, the land was divisible.[25] The law requiring the sheriff to announce that the sale is made subject to paramount privileges and mortgages does not require an announcement that the purchaser will be authorized to retain the surplus of the price over the seizing creditor's claim to satisfy subordinate mortgages.[26] In Mississippi the land must be parcelled to 160 acres or less.[27] The master may resell where by mistake he sold to a bidder believing him to be the owner of the decree and for that reason forbearing to exact a cash payment.[28] In most jurisdictions the complainant procures and files the master's report of sale.[29] A return of sale at public auction implies a sale to the highest bidder.[30]

§ 6. Confirmation and setting aside sales.[31]—While formal confirmation should always be entered of record, yet a formal order is not indispensable, if confirmation can be gathered from the whole record.[32] The confirmation of a judicial sale on the day the report was filed, while unusual is valid in the absence of any showing why it should not be confirmed.[33] Confirmation is largely subject to discretion.[34] While a purchaser will not be compelled to take a doubtful title to what has been offered for sale, because of which rule a title sold as clear and in fee must be so and free from doubt,[35] yet a judicial sale will be confirmed as against the purchaser, though there are tax liens on the land,[36] and since the rule of caveat emptor applies,[37] the purchaser must take such title as the proceedings will show to be subject to sale.[38] A doubt as to how the title came is immaterial if the title is clear and unites all the doubtful sources and chains.[39] The report of sale and the confirmation are prima facie evidence that the land was actually sold;[40] but under a statute providing for confirmation of a judicial sale notwithstanding rant to the master to accept that if more is offered or could on free bidding have been obtained. Id.

24. Contract held to have had no such tendency when made after full value was bid by the parties who then agreed to buy and divide. Mallon v. Buster [Ky.] 89 S. W. 257.

25. Burks' Adm'r v. Lane Lumber Co. [Ky.] 89 S. W. 686.

26. The purchaser may retain but the announcement need not be made. McLellan v. Rosser [La.] 38 So. 85.

27. A sale of a half section less the unascertained homestead and dower therein is not a sale of a "parcel of 160 acres" or less. Shannon v. Summers [Miss.] 38 So. 345.

28. Slack v. Cooper [Ill.] 76 N. E. 84.

29. Fletcher Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 738. 1 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 529.

30. Fraser v. Seeley [Kan.] 79 P. 1081.

31. See 4 C. L. 321.

32. In this case the deed to the purchaser was produced which was "in all things approved and confirmed by the court." Cowling v. Nelson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 913.

33. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

34. Slack v. Cooper [Ill.] 76 N. E. 84.

35. An unreleased lien is no objection to title when barred by statute. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191. And if an innocent purchaser has come in the possibility of new payments is none. Id. Heirs against whom adverse possession has fully run cannot throw any doubt on it. Id. The fact that a sale en masse included infants' interests in some of the parcels is no objection where the money is not yet paid, for then it may still be adjusted. Id. So where a potential dowress was omitted from suit but the husband's share is yet in court. Id. Mere misdescription is no objection. Id. Failure to file a survey which may yet be done is not. Id. Doubt as to ownership of an interest is not, if in any event the owner will be bound by decree and sale. Id.

36. Credit should be allowed the purchaser on the price. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

37. See post, § 8B.

38. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815.

39. Murdock v. Loeser, 27 Ky. L. R. 1057, 87 S. W. 808. As where there were liens between defendants or where one of the owners was dead and her share came either by descent to the other parties or by devise to one of them. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191. A title by judicial sale of property of one interdicted is marketable where such person received a sale as security of the property which belonged to a community and the wife made the vendee her universal legatee and the vendee then retroceded to the husband, who soon donated to the legatee an undivided half and then married the legatee who survived him and thereafter executed the first wife's will and held the property for more than 10 years. In re Schmidt [La.] 38 So. 26.

40. Du Hadaway v. Driver [Ark.] 86 S. W. 807. Evidence to rebut it held insufficient. Id.

defects in the advertisement of sale, in case the officer shall certify that the property was sold for a fair price, the burden of proving the price to be fair is on the officer or the purchaser alleging it.[41] Failure to give notice of the sale tends to show fraud.[42]

Setting aside a sale.[43]—An order confirming a judicial sale is a final judgment over which the court making it has no control, after the expiration of the term at which it was entered, except for equitable or statutory grounds.[44] Where the purchaser directed the deed to be made with certain limitations to a third party who accepts the deed, the order of confirmation is res judicata as to the limitations.[45] With respect to judicial sales the court will deal with the purchaser upon equitable principles;[46] hence where he can legally claim that he was misled or deceived by some apparent adjudication of the court and that it is inequitable to enforce his contract of purchase, he is entitled to relief.[47] But a minor's sale of real estate under an order removing his disability, which is valid on its face, cannot, though induced by fraud, be set aside so as to affect innocent purchasers from his grantee.[48]

Inadequacy of consideration, standing alone, is not sufficient reason for setting aside a judicial sale, unless it is gross;[49] but may be when accompanied with fraudulent prevention of competition on the part of the purchaser, or irregularities on the part of officers conducting sale.[50] If there is a right of redemption it is not a ground even where a deficiency will be thus thrown on other property secondarily chargeable.[51]

Application to set aside should be prompt.[52] But he who seeks to set aside a judicial sale is not chargeable with laches until he has acquired knowledge of the facts or of circumstances sufficient to charge him with such knowledge.[53] When sale has been confirmed, all parties being before the court, a special statute of limitation of actions to set it aside runs[54] even though the sale is wholly void and therefore incurable.[55] In Mississippi only chancery sales made in "good faith" are protected after two years' possession by the purchaser, and the statute therefore cannot be invoked by a subsequent bona fide vendee, where the original purchaser did not act in good faith.[56] Equitable relief will not ordinarily be granted to the purchaser where an appeal is pending which may decide the question.[57] Equity

41. Acts 1891, p. 24, § 1. Polhemus v. Princilla [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 263. Evidence held to show that the price was not fair. Id.

42. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682.

43. See 4 C. L. 322.

44. Causes mentioned in secs. 518, 340, Civ. Code Prac., regulating the granting of new trials after the term at which judgment was rendered. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

45. Corbett v. Fogle [S. C.] 51 S. E. 884.

46, 47. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815.

48. Disability removed under authority of Sand. & H. Dig. § 1119. Young v. Hiner [Ark.] 79 S. W. 1062.

49. Rawolle v. Kalbfleisch, 94 N. Y. S. 16.

50. Especially when the purchaser is himself the attorney conducting the sale. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682. The omission by plaintiff's attorney to bring lienors into the decree followed by a purchase by him at about the minimum price on the appraised value, a false return by the master as to the amount of cash paid in, the crediting of improper allowance on the bid and the subsequent taking of title to a portion of the property in the name of the master's wife, shows fraud. Id. In a proceeding by a sheriff to compel acceptance of a deed, where the persons who could have been injured by lack of proper advertisement were not made parties and it was probable that the property sold did not bring a fair price, a resale should be ordered. Polhemus v. Princilla [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 263. $2,490 held not a "fair price" for land having on it $9,000 of improvements and producing $900 yearly and which once sold for $4,500 and earlier for $5,000. Id.

51. Sale of exempt and nonexempt lands in inverse order to satisfy liens. Fraser v. Seeley [Kan.] 79 P. 1081.

52. It is too late after confirmation to object that the commissioner was appointed in vacation, no harm being shown. Sawyer v. Hentz [Ark.] 85 S. W. 775.

53. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682.

54, 55. Cowling v. Nelson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 913.

must be done.[58] A valid defense to sale as made being essential,[59] the exceptions must show it when considered as on motion to confirm.[60]

If a sale be void, the relief to which defendants are entitled is to recover the land not merely to redeem.[61]

Costs.[62]—Costs and expenses will be allowed a bidder who successfully resists a proceeding to enforce a defective sale of which he had no benefit.[63]

Proceedings on resale.[64]

§ 7. Completion of sale; deeds, payments and credits.[65]—When land is sold pursuant to a chancery decree, the fact which vests the purchaser with the beneficial estate is an order confirming the sale. To pass the legal title, a conveyance is necessary.[66] But delivery of a personal asset, like a promissory note, is sufficient to pass title, if made after confirmation of the sale.[67] Where sale is by the court rather than by its officers[68] no formal assignment or transfer by them is essential.[69] A deed executed by one styling himself receiver of an estate and as commissioner, he being in fact a commissioner, is evidence of the facts recited therein.[70] The purchaser being a party to the decree is bound thereby,[71] and as ancillary to its decree a court of equity may put the purchaser into possession as against any who are parties to the decree or in privity to them,[72] and in case of dispute between a first and second purchaser, their rights may therefore be determined on a rule for such relief[73] and if the facts be doubtful they may be referred.[74] Limitations of actions to recover real estate judicially sold have no application to actions to reform the deed for mistake in describing land not sold.[75]

56. Code 1880, § 2693. Shannon v. Summers [Miss.] 38 So. 345.

57. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815.

58. Infants repudiating proceedings must return what they have received. Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227.

59. By adaptation to the rule on application for new trial after term. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

60. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

61. Cowling v. Nelson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 913.

62. See 4 C. L. 322.

63. Polhemus v. Princilla [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 263.

64. See 4 C. L. 322.

65. See 4 C. L. 323.

66. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131. The purchaser has no color of title until the deed is delivered to him. Cowling v. Nelson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 913.

NOTE. Confirmation in chancery: In ordinary sales by auction or private agreement, the contract is complete when the agreement is signed, but a different rule prevails in sales by a master. In such cases the purchaser is not considered as entitled to the benefit of his contract until the master's report of the purchaser's bid is absolutely confirmed. 1 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 529. After the master's report has been filed, the court enters an order that the sale may be confirmed. It is usually provided that the sale may be confirmed unless cause is shown against it within a specified number of days, and if no such cause is shown within that time, the order shall become absolute of course. 1 Barbour, Ch. Pr. 529.—From Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 738.

67. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131.

68, 69. Sale held to have been so. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131.

Note: The usual practice is for the master to make the deed, that being a merely ministerial act required by the decree, and of the same character as the sale of the property. See 1 Barb. Ch. Pr. 468. The court of chancery in England always acted in personam and not in rem, and consequently, in adjudicating rights of the different parties to a proceeding concerning land, it did not by its decree undertake to transfer the title from one to the other of such parties, but gave relief by ordering one party to make a conveyance, cancel an instrument, or do other acts so as to establish and perfect the rights of the respective parties as adjudicated. This principle of action on the part of courts of equity has, however, been changed by statute in many states of the country, so that instead of requiring the parties to carry out the decree, the court itself does so, acting through a commissioner or other officer, and under some statutes the decree alone, without any further action, is sufficient to transfer the title. As regards land outside the jurisdiction, however, the court must still act in personam. Tiffany, Real Prop. § 465. Pomeroy, Eq. Jur. §§ 134, 135, 170, 1317.

70. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249.

71. Ex parte Qualls [S. C.] 50 S. E. 646; Corbett v. Fogle [S. C.] 51 S. E. 884; Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

72. Ex parte Qualls [S. C.] 50 S. E. 646; Assistance, Writ of, 5 C. L. 291.

73, 74. Ex parte Qualls [S. C.] 50 S. E. 646.

75. Five-years statute respecting administrator's action to recover land inapplicable. Pierce v. Vansell [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 554.

A lienor who purchases may not be allowed to credit his demand on the price unless the court ascertains the validity and amount of his lien.[76] Taxes incumbering land sold as clear will be allowed as a credit.[77] All judicial questions as to payment and distribution of proceeds are for the court and not for the master.[78]

An order to complete a purchase is appealable and carries with it an order to attach the bidder for contempt in failing to do so.[79]

§ 8. Title and rights under sales and under deed. A. Defects and collateral attack.[80]—Every presumption is in favor of the authority and authenticity of the proceedings,[81] and the title will not be overthrown for mere irregularities or errors,[82] even of jurisdiction[83] or matter making it merely voidable[84] except as to persons with knowledge or notice.[85] A sale which could not in any case be made is, however, void[86] like one where on the record it appears no title ever passed.[87] The acknowledgment of a deed made in open court, is a judicial act and concludes all mere irregularities, however gross, in the process and sale.[88]

(§ 8) B. Outstanding titles and interests.[89]—The rule of caveat emptor applies to all judicial sales[90] and a greater estate than defendant has and than is in court cannot be sold.[91] The rule also applies to a purchaser at a judicial sale of land described by metes and bounds and as containing a given number of acres more or less, as to any deficiency in the acreage.[92] But courts of equity do not

76. The master canot allow such credit. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682.

77. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

78. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682.

79. Podesta v. Moody [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 939.

80. See 4 C. L. 323.

81. Especially in case of judicial sales made under the Spanish regime in Florida, and they will not be upset by a nice examination into their regularity where transfers of title have since been made. McGuire v. Blount, 26 S. Ct. 1. It will not be presumed that one answering as "guardian" falsely so styled himself. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191. In collateral proceedings a decree of a court of general jurisdiction ordering the sale of land is presumed to have been made in a suit in which the court had jurisdiction of both parties and subject-matter. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249.

82. Failure to appoint guardian for infant heir on administrator's sale is error and the remedy is appeal and not collateral attack on sale. Davidson v. Marcum [Ky.] 89 S. W. 703.

83. Cannot be assailed by a purchaser who is a stranger to the original suit for want of jurisdiction to entertain the suit. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131.

84. Where a sheriff's deed is attacked in trespass to try title, plaintiff is not entitled to relief on a showing that the deed was merely voidable. Temple v. Branch Saw Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 109, 88 S. W. 442.

85. Innocent purchasers at a judicial sale, having no notice of any irregularity in the proceedings and judgment, will be protected when it appears that the court had jurisdiction of the parties and proceedings and that the judgment on its face authorized the sale (Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227); but where both the purchaser and his assignee were parties to, and had knowledge of, illegalities in the proceedings leading up to the sale, they are not protected as bona fide purchasers [Under Civ. Code Prac. § 391] (Davidson v. Marcum [Ky.] 89 S. W. 703).

86. Partition sale being allowable only for division, a record showing that it was ordered solely to pay costs is open to attack. Cowling v. Nelson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 913.

87. Where the terms of a decree of sale in partition were not complied with, no money paid, no note for deferred payments given and no commissioner's deed executed, the sale was void and passed no title out of the owners. Liverman v. Lee [Miss.] 38 So. 658.

88. A variation in the date of sale as stated in the sheriff's deed and the return upon the order of sale does not wholly avoid the sale. Temple v. Branch Saw Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 109, 88 S. W. 442.

89. See 4 C. L. 324.

90. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 938. The fact that the bidder mistakenly supposed that it was customary for the sheriff to give notice in his advertisements of prior incumbrances will not relieve him in the absence of fraud. He is bound by the record of mortgages. Hartman v. Pemberton, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 222; Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815.

91. The purchaser is bound by the judgment in the case. determining what estate is to be sold. Duncan v. American Standard Asphalt Co., 26 Ky. L. R. 1067, 83 S. W. 124. In a sale of corporate property the purchaser takes only such title as the corporation had. Thompson v. Brownlie, 25 Ky. L. R. 622, 76 S. W. 172. The deed passes the same title that a deed of bargain and sale executed by the judgment debtor would pass. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 60 A. 938.

92. Landreth v. Howell, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 210.

knowingly offer a disputed and litigated title for sale, and in such sales, as distinguished from execution sales, the purchaser has a right to look to the court to protect him,[93] and it seems probable that, when a purchaser before confirmation shows a failure of the title in some material particular, a court of equity may relieve him of a bid, made under a clear misapprehension of fact or law, inducing the bidding.[94] The purchaser of land under order of the court on complying with the terms becomes a party to the proceedings and is bound by notice of all the orders in the case,[95] and by the notice of the sale.[96] The purchaser and his grantees are charged with notice of the amount of land embraced in the order authorizing sale[97] especially if the deed refers to the record thereof.[98]

(§ 8) C. Rights of parties under sale and in proceeds.[99]—All the defendant's title, including all his defenses to protect it,[1] passes to the purchaser. Where the purchaser pays only part of the price and takes possession, but fails to pay the balance and the land is sold to another whose purchase is confirmed, the latter purchaser has the legal and the former the equitable title.[2] A purchaser standing in trust, as by an attorney who purchases his client's property at a sale conducted by himself, must affirmatively show that it was done with the utmost good faith;[3] and co-purchasers with such an one are put to like proof.[4] Such may be charged as trustees.[5] When a purchaser of land in his own name is declared a trustee and required to convey to the debtor as having purchased it in trust for him, it is error to require a conveyance "with covenants of general warranty."[6] A sale to the selling officer's agent paid by a credit is not protected as a sale "in good faith."[7]

An invalid judicial sale may be cured by subsequent ratification[8] or defects in title,[9] or deficiencies in quantity not warranted[10] will be waived by acquiescence.

93. Carraway v. Stancill, 137 N. C. 472, 49 S. E. 957. See, also, ante, § 6.

94. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.

95. Ex parte Qualls [S. C.] 50 S. E. 646; Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191. Having directed deed to a third person and procured a confirmation, he is bound. Corbett v. Fogle [S. C.] 51 S. E. 884. As a violation of Const. 1869, art. 12, § 18, requiring land sold in pursuance of decrees to be divided into tracts not exceeding 160 acres, disclosed in the record. Shannon v. Summers [Miss.] 38 So. 345. Purchasers are charged with notice of the invalidity of a sale pursuant to an arbitration and award, where it appears that the arbitration, award and judgment were entered by consent of parties who were infants. Millsaps v. Estes, 137 N. C. 535, 50 S. E. 227.

96. Where the notice stated that the balance of the bid must be paid to the sheriff at his office, within 10 days without further demand, a bidder who paid the hand money and signed the bid was not relieved because, when he informed plaintiff's attorney and the defendant that he would not perfect the sale, he was not at once notified that he would be held to his bid. Hartman v. Pemberton, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 222. Nor would notice to the sheriff in such a case relieve him, as no further demand of the purchase money was necessary. Id.

97, 98. See Notice and Record of Title, 4 C. L. 829. Applied where only twelve acres, more or less, were to be sold and the deed covered thirty-nine acres. Pierce v. Vansell [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 554.

99. See 4 C. L. 324.

1. The right to plead limitation of foreclosure passes with the title to the purchaser. Hopkins v. Clyde, 71 Ohio St. 141, 72 N. E. 846.

2. Ex parte Qualls [S. C.] 50 S. E. 646.

3. Such a sale will not be sustained where the attorney failed to make lienholders parties to the proceedings, so as to conceal the real condition of the title, and others were unable to bid intelligently. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682.

4. Mansfield v. Wallace, 217 Ill. 610, 75 N. E. 682.

5. Where one or more coparceners buy in at a partition sale, they may if proof be clear be charged as resulting trustees. Dooly v. Pinson [Ala.] 39 So. 664. Evidence examined. Id.

6. Hatfield v. Allison [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 729.

7. Code 1880, § 2693 bars action to set aside after two years. Shannon v. Summers [Miss.] 38 So. 345.

8. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 50 A. 815.

9. Where a person entered into possession of land under a judicial deed and lived on the premises for twenty years, he was presumed to have acquiesced in certain limitations in the deed. Corbett v. Fogle [S. C.] 51 S. E. 884.

10. Assumpsit for a deficiency will not lie after acceptance and acquiescence. Landreth v. Howell, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 210.

Rights in proceeds and on bid.[11]—The proceeds are to be applied and surplus distributed according to principles of equity; hence when several parcels are sold, some clear and others incumbered, the price realized on the clear parcels must be set out before allowing incumbrances.[12] In apportioning proceeds to several tracts, relative value and not acreage is the proper basis.[13] If after confirmation it appears there are liens from one to another judgment plaintiff, the money to discharge same may be paid into court to abide adjudication of their equities[14] which will be ordered.[15]

The purchaser need not look to the distribution of proceeds.[16]

If a sale is reversed or set aside as void, but no actual fraud on the part of the purchasers is shown, they are entitled, upon vacation of the sale, to a return of the purchase price with interest and the value of lasting improvements, less a reasonable rental value with interest.[17] Even under a void sale the bidder having paid off a tax lien is subrogated thereto[18] and should be paid out of a subsequent valid sale.[19]

A defaulting purchaser is not liable on his bid when the second sale is conducted on less advantageous terms and a less valuable title passes by it.[20] The measure of damages is the difference in prices realized.[21]

JURISDICTION.

Scope of title.—This topic deals only with the principles of civil jurisdiction in general. Questions relating to the jurisdiction of criminal courts are treated elsewhere.[1]

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[2]—The court can make no binding adjudication in an action in which it is without jurisdiction.[3] Jurisdiction is the power to

11. See 4 C. L. 324.
12. Where three parcels of land, two of which were subject to a mortgage, were sold, the proceeds to be apportioned, it was error to charge any part of the mortgage to the parcel not subject thereto when making the distribution. Hogg v. Rose, 94 N. Y. S. 914.
13. Hogg v. Rose [N. Y.] 76 N. E. 38.
14, 15. Wise v. Wolfe, 27 Ky. L. R. 610, 85 S. W. 1191.
16. Murdock v. Loeser, 27 Ky. L. R. 1057, 87 S. W. 808.
17. Davidson v. Marcum [Ky.] 89 S. W. 703.
18, 19. Liverman v. Lee [Miss.] 38 So. 658.
20, 21. Pepper v. Deakyne [Pa.] 61 A. 805.
1. See Indictment and Prosecution, 5 C. L. 1790.
2. See 4 C. L. 324.
3. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Taylor [Iowa] 105 N. W. 125.

hear and determine the subject-matter in controversy between the parties to a suit,[4] and it exists if the law confers on the court the power to render a judgment or decree.[5] Jurisdiction of the particular matter does not mean simple jurisdiction of the particular case then before the court, but jurisdiction of the class of cases to which it belongs.[6] It does not depend upon the sufficiency of the pleadings,[7] or upon the rightfulness of the decision in a particular case,[8] though it is necessary for a court to obtain cognizance of the particular cause by the requisite process and pleadings before it can determine it.[9] Strictly speaking, questions relating to whether the issues presented for consideration are proper for judicial cognizance in any event, and, if so, whether the facts alleged constitute a cause of action in equity in favor of plaintiff, do not go to the jurisdiction of the court, since judicial power is not involved in doubt but only whether its exercise is permissible in view of the established practice.[10]

The courts have no power to control or supervise legislative or official administrative discretion.[11]

§ 2. Elements and constituents in general.[12]—Essential to jurisdiction is a subject-matter upon which adjudication is sought[13] by a competent party, in a competent form,[14] regularly invoked[15] against adversary parties, or in respect to the subject-matter itself, which must at least constructively be in court.[16] Except in actions affecting personal status, or in those partaking of the nature of proceedings

4. O'Brien v. People, 216 Ill. 354, 75 N. E. 108. Jurisdiction of the subject-matter and of the parties is the right to hear and determine the suit or proceeding in favor of or against the parties to it. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1000.

5, 6. O'Brien v. People, 216 Ill. 354, 75 N. E. 108.

7. If the court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter and the parties, nothing further is required. O'Brien v. People, 216 Ill. 354, 75 N. E. 108. In a suit for an injunction, where defendants are served with process but fail to file answers or demur, the court acquires jurisdiction of the subject-matter and the parties, notwithstanding defects in the bill. Id. If pleading states a case belonging to a general class over which the authority of the court extends, then jurisdiction attaches and the court has power to decide whether the pleading is good or bad. Allegations held to sufficiently charge acts of defendants to give court jurisdiction to pass on sufficiency of bill. Id. Facts essential to invoke jurisdiction differ materially from those essential to constitute a good cause of action for the relief sought. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1000. Thus a defective petition in bankruptcy or an insufficient complaint at law, accompanied by proper service upon the defendants, gives jurisdiction to the court to determine the questions it presents, though it may not contain averments entitling complainant to any relief, and it may be the duty of the court to determine either the question of its jurisdiction or the merits of the controversy against the petitioner or the plaintiff. Averment in petition in bankruptcy, filed by single creditor, that all the creditors of the alleged bankrupt are less than twelve in number is not one essential to the jurisdiction of the court, but one which is requisite to invoke a favorable adjudication upon the petition. Id.

8. Is not lost because of an erroneous one. Allegations of bill for injunction held to sufficiently charge acts of defendants to give court jurisdication to pass on the sufficiency of the bill, and hence question of jurisdiction to grant injunction not affected by whether decision was correct or incorrect. O'Brien v. People, 216 Ill. 354, 75 N. E. 108.

9. Besides having jurisdiction of the class of causes to which a given cause of action belongs. Moore v. Holt, 55 W. Va. 507, 47 S. E. 251.

10. State v. Houser, 122 Wis. 534, 100 N. W. 964.

11. See Constitutional Law, 5 C. L. 627. Compare Elections, 5 C. L. 1073; Highways and Streets, 5 C. L. 1645; Eminent Domain, 5 C. L. 1097; Municipal Corporations, 4 C. L. 720; Public Works and Improvements, 4 C. L. 1124.

12. See 4 C. L. 325.

13. The bankruptcy court, on an involuntary petition against a corporation, and, prior to its being adjudged a bankrupt, has no jurisdiction of a receiver appointed by a state court for such corporation, no relief being sought against him. In re Bay City Irr. Co., 135 F. 850.

14. Though a bill shows want of equity and there is a conflict of jurisdiction as well, the filing of a cross bill may invoke equity and by stipulating for a stay the conflict may be removed. Pending proceedings in the courts of administration to sell decedent's lands for debts, a bill was filed by the purchaser for relief, the administrator filed a cross bill for specific performance and the former proceedings were stayed by stipulation. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815.

15. See Process, 4 C. L. 1070; Appearance, 5 C. L. 248.

16. Federal district court has jurisdiction to inquire by writ of habeas corpus into cause of detention of Chinese persons in another district, where chief Chinese exclusion in rem, substituted service as against a nonresident can be effected only where, in connection therewith, property in the state is brought under the control of the court, and is subject to its disposition, by process adapted to that purpose.[17] The mere fact that, in an action against two defendants domiciled beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the court of first instance, jurisdiction is acquired as to one, does not of itself authorize the bringing of the other into court by the appointment and citation of a curator ad hoc, even though the appearance of such other defendant be necessary in order to enable the parties already in court, or either of them, to obtain a judgment upon the issues offered for decision.[18] Power is sometimes given to courts to act when not all of these elements are present, as in the case where executive or legislative branches may, upon request, obtain a judicial opinion.[19]

Where the intent of a statute is that a court shall render between litigants a final judicial judgment at law or decree in equity, no breadth of language can enable it to do so except by judicial methods and pursuant to established principles of law or equity.[20]

§ 3. Legislative power respecting jurisdiction.[21]—Legislatures can neither limit nor enlarge the jurisdiction of constitutional courts unless expressly authorized by the constitution to which both owe their existence,[22] nor can they restrict officer for the state, in his return to the writ, admits that they are detained by him, and has entered into and taken the benefit of a stipulation that they need not be produced in open court. Ex parte Fong Yin, 134 F. 938. Petitioner was awarded custody of child on habeas corpus proceedings and an agreement was entered into that he should keep child, pending an appeal, within jurisdiction of the court, which agreement was filed and made an order of court. Held, that his act in removing child into another county of the state did not remove it from the jurisdiction of the court, but circuit court's jurisdiction, for purpose of enforcing or modifying its order, extended to any place in the state where the petitioner might locate. Willis v. Willis [Ind.] 75 N. E. 655.

17. Otherwise due process of law clause of the Federal constitution is violated. West v. Lehmer [La.] 38 So. 969. Action by resident of Mississippi in district court of one parish against a railway company whose agent for service of summons is domiciled in another parish, and against another defendant domiciled in Ohio, to annul a contract to which the plaintiff is neither a party nor a privy, whereby the company has agreed to establish a depot on the land of the other defendant, lying contiguous to that of plaintiff in a third parish, in consideration of the grant of a portion of such land for right of way, etc., is a personal action, not in the nature of a proceeding in rem. Id.

18. West v. Lehmer [La.] 38 So. 969.

19. In Colorado the supreme court is required to give its opinion upon important questions upon solemn occasions, when required by the governor, the senate, or the house of representatives. Const. art. 6, § 3. Right to call for opinion is limited to questions which so vitally affect public interest as to render it necessary for public welfare. In re Senate Resolution No. 10 [Colo.] 79 P. 1009. Is required to give opinion, on request of senate, as to whether, on a contest over the office of governor, the general assembly may declare a vacancy to exist in that office. Id.

In Florida the justices of the supreme court are authorized, on the governor's request, to interpret any portion of the constitution that affects his executive powers and duties, but they have no authority, on such request, to interpret or pass upon the constitutionality of statutes affecting such powers or duties. Const. art. 4, § 13, construed. Advisory Opinion to Governor [Fla.] 39 So. 187.

20. Washington L. & T. Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 152. Under a statute referring a claim to the court of claims and conferring jurisdiction to hear and determine the question of the liability of the United States, and to render judgment in favor of claimants in the event that the court "shall be of the opinion that the United States are justly liable, under all the circumstances of said case," the court must judge the case according to the principles of law or equity which guide and govern courts, and not upon ethical principles. Id.

21. See 4 C. L. 328.

22. Const. § 168, authorizing the general assembly to provide inferior courts in certain cities and towns in lieu of justices of the peace, and providing that such courts shall have jurisdiction in civil actions where the amount in controversy does not exceed $100, is a limitation upon the power of the legislature to confer on such courts, when established, jurisdiction in excess of that amount. Alford v. Hicks [Ala.] 38 So. 752. Under Ky. Const. § 143, the general assembly has no power to confer upon a police court jurisdiction to try and determine offenses occurring outside of the corporate limits of the city or town in which it is established. Ky. St. 1903, § 3496, held void. Ingram v. Fuson, 26 Ky. L. R. 863, 82 S. W. 606. Const. art. 6, § 18 does not prohibit the legislature from giving to municipal courts the jurisdiction there given to justices of the peace. Attorney General v. Loomis [Mich.] 105 N. W. 4. Acts 1905, No. 70, not unconstitutional as an

the power of the courts to punish for contempt as it existed at common law;[23] but they may enlarge or restrict the jurisdiction of a court as fixed by the common law and the statutes declaring its powers,[24] and may confer upon persons holding judicial offices authority to hear contests of elections.[25] State legislation can neither directly enlarge nor contract the jurisdiction of the Federal courts.[26]

§ 4. Territorial limitations.[27]—All jurisdictions are bounded territorially either by the limits of the state,[28] the nation, or by those of the district or circuit in which they are established.[29]

attempt to deprive any justice of the peace of jurisdiction. Id. Municipal courts cannot be authorized to try extra-municipal crimes. Acts 1905, No. 70, establishing a court whose jurisdiction is not limited by the boundaries of the city, cannot be sustained as a provision for the establishment of a municipal court, though that name is used in the act. Id. So much of Code 1892, § 2128, as commits the judicial administration of the game laws to mayors and justices of the peace, whether the act be done in their respective districts or not, is unconstitutional and void. Ex parte Fritz [Miss.] 38 So. 722. The legislature cannot confer chancery powers on the probate courts of a territory where the organic law vests such powers exclusively in the supreme and district courts. Garrett v. London & L. Fire Ins. Co. [Okl.] 81 P. 421. Pennsylvania Act of May 29, 1901 (P. L. 331, § 9), giving the court of quarter sessions jurisdiction to issue an order enjoining defendant from selling oleomargarine without a license, is not invalid as vesting in the court equitable powers in contravention of Const. art. 5, § 1, which merely gives such court judicial powers without limiting them. Commonwealth v. Andrews, 211 Pa. 110, 60 A. 554. Such statute is an exercise of the police power and proceeding is not equitable so as to interfere with exclusive equitable jurisdiction of court of common pleas. Id. The legislature of Texas has power by local or general law to increase, diminish, or change the civil and criminal jurisdiction of county courts, but in case it makes any such change, it must also conform the jurisdiction of the other courts to such change. Const. art. 5, § 22. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fromme [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1054. It may increase the jurisdiction of the county court by giving it jurisdiction over matters embraced within the jurisdiction of the justice courts, and may regulate the right of appeal from the county court to the court of civil appeals, thereby conforming the jurisdiction of the two courts. Act 1895 (Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, p. 1929) § 3, held valid. Id. Statute is not unconstitutional as embracing more than one subject. Id. The legislature has no power to take away or abridge the constitutional and prerogative powers of the supreme court to review the proceedings of all special statutory tribunals. Meachem v. Common Council [N. J. Law] 62 A. 303. May review by certiorari action of city council in declaring vacant the seat of one of its members, though charter makes council sole judge of the election, return, and qualification of its members. Id. Const. art. 3, § 8, providing that the probate court shall have such jurisdiction of the property of certain persons as shall be provided by law, and shall also have jurisdiction in habeas corpus, does not prohibit the legislature from imposing other and additional judicial duties on such court, not inconsistent with, and the exercise of which would not interfere with, the performance of such constitutional duties. In re Gassaway [Kan.] 79 P. 113. Gen. St. 1901, § 7147, conferring on such court power to commit certain girls to the industrial school, is not repugnant to such section. Id.

23. Power of superior courts to do so is derived from the very constitution of the court, without express statutory aid. Ex parte McCown [N. C.] 51 S. E. 957. See, also, Contempt, 5 C. L. 650.

24. Court of common pleas. Commonwealth v. Andrews, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 571.

25. Ogburn v. Elmore [Ga.] 51 S. E. 641.

26. Cannot, by giving a procedure, oust a Federal court of its equity jurisdiction. People's Sav. Bank v. Layman, 134 F. 635.

27. See 4 C. L. 328.

28. Decree of Federal court appointing receivers has no effect, proprio vigore, beyond the limits of the state in which it is rendered, and it will not be allowed by the courts of another state to prevail, as a matter of comity, against any remedy which the laws of the latter afford its own citizens against property of the company within its jurisdiction. Gerding v. East Tennessee Land Co., 185 Mass. 380, 70 N. E. 206. New York court has no power, in an action by a New York corporation against two residents of the same state, to restrain defendants from doing acts under authority of orders of the court of Montana in suits in that state to which plaintiff was not a party, it not appearing that the Montana court was without jurisdiction to make such orders. Johnstown Min. Co. v. Morse, 45 Misc. 110, 91 N. Y. S. 586. Action on fire policy may be maintained in any county in the state in which such service may be had on defendant as to bring it legally into court, irrespective of the location of the property destroyed. Southern Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 88. Batt's Ann. Civ. St. 1895, art. 4577, providing that actions against railroad companies for the penalties provided for discrimination shall be brought in the proper court having jurisdiction thereof in Traverse county, or any other county to or through which such railroad may run, relates to the subject of venue only and not to jurisdiction, and hence court of county to which road does not run has jurisdiction if defendant does not file plea of privilege to be sued elsewhere. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Stribling [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 374. A court having obtained jurisdiction over a domestic corporation does not thereby acquire jurisdiction over a foreign corporation jointly liable on the contract sued on, unless the action is brought at the domicile

§ 5. Limitations resting in situs of subject-matter or status of litigants.[30]—The power to adjudicate upon a subject-matter which can have no existence save at a fixed place pertains to the courts erected for that place,[31] and courts of other places may not entertain such jurisdiction,[32] though they may have it for the purpose of adjudicating personal rights of persons present in court, which are in respect to, but of the domestic company, which, in the case of a railroad, is the place where its public office is located. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1194. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. McKnight [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 1003, 89 S. W. 755. Under Laws 1899, p. 214, c. 125, providing that whenever property has been transported over two or more railroads operating any part of their roads in the state, a suit for damages thereto may be brought in any county in which either of them extends or is operated, a petition in an action for damages brought in a county in which one of three connecting carriers operates, alleging rough handling by each of them and plaintiff's entire damages, fixes the jurisdiction of the court. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Dolan [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 302. A plea of privilege to the jurisdiction by one of the roads in such case must allege that no part of the damage occurred on its line and that the allegations of the petition showing liability on its part were false and fraudulently made for the purpose of conferring jurisdiction on the trial court, which was a court situated on its line. Id. In order that the court may obtain jurisdiction over a foreign corporation under this statute, it must appear that it operated a part of its road and had an agent in the state, and also that the property has been transported over its line. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. McKnight [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 1003, 89 S. W. 755. Not necessary that it own the tracks over which it operates in the state. Id. Court has no jurisdiction where it appears that foreign company refused to receive the shipment. Id. A Federal court in one state cannot enforce rights given by a statute of another state with respect to the use of so much of a bridge across a river lying between the two states as is situated within the latter state. Evansville & H. Traction Co. v. Henderson Bridge Co., 134 F. 973.

29. Where nothing but the title to land is concerned and the court is called upon to act upon the person of the defendant only, a court of chancery may administer relief in any county where defendant is found. Munger v. Crowe, 115 Ill. App. 189. But where the court is called upon to act directly upon the property, it is essential upon its power to act that the property to be affected be within its territorial jurisdiction. Id. As a general rule a defendant must be sued in the court of his domicile, but the actions of boundary and revendication of real estate are required to be brought before the court within whose jurisdiction the land to be bounded or revendicated is situated. Civ. Code, art. 840; Code Prac. art. 163. Parish of Caddo v. Parish of DeSoto [La.] 38 So. 273. Suit in boundary between two parishes may be brought in either parish, and plaintiff parish may institute suit in the court of her own domicile. Id. A justice of the peace, having jurisdiction of the subject-matter, may, by consent of all the parties, hear the evidence and argument outside of the township in which he resides and for which he was elected. Stark v. Treat, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 286. Where the alleged lunatic is confined in a state hospital for the insane, lunacy proceedings may be brought in the county in which the hospital is situated, or in the county of the lunatic's residence. Brooke's Estate, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 430.

30. See 4 C. L. 328.

31. In suit by attorney against nonresident client and treasurer of the United States to enforce lien on fund in treasury belonging to the client, for which check was about to be issued, held that, as between the treasurer and the plaintiff, the fund had a locality in the District of Columbia, and the court of that district had jurisdiction to appoint a receiver of the fund whose receipt would protect the treasurer. Final question of jurisdiction over the fund could only be raised by nonresident defendant who was not bound by decree because not brought before the court by process. Roberts v. Consaul, 24 App. D. C. 551. Under Kirby's Dig. § 6060, circuit court of a county in which land of decedent or any part of it lies has jurisdiction to partition it after the administration on decedent's estate has been wound up and the administrator discharged, even though the estate was administered in another county. §§ 6063 and 6064 have no application to such a case. Cowling v. Nelson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 913. The status of land and immovable property, together with its title and incidents thereof, is subject to the adjudication of the courts of that sovereignty within the boundaries of which it is located. Cook v. Weigley [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1029. Court of New Jersey held to have jurisdiction to foreclose mortgage on islands within its boundaries, notwithstanding provision of boundary agreement with New York (Act June 28, 1834, c. 126, 4 Stat. 709) that latter state should retain its then jurisdiction over islands in certain waters, where it does not appear that it had jurisdiction over those in controversy when the act was passed. Id. Court of state in which mortgaged land is situated acquires jurisdiction to foreclose mortgage and cut off rights of foreign mortgagee by service by publication, commencement of foreclosure proceedings and filing of lis pendens. Greenwood Loan & Guarantee Ass'n v. Williams [S. C.] 51 S. E. 272. The court of the county in which a part of the property covered by a deed of trust given by a foreign corporation is situated has jurisdiction of a suit to foreclose such deed and to appoint a receiver to take charge of such property. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1194, subds. 12, 23, art. 1465, subds. 2, 4. Commercial Tel. Co. v. Territorial Bank & Trust Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 66. Under Code 1899, c. 123, § 1, suit to subject land to a debt must be brought in the county where land is situated. Laidley v. Reynolds [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 405. When suit in equity is brought in one county to enforce a judgment on lots in it and in another county, the

do not affect such subject-matter.[33] Alienage or nonresidence of litigants who are subject to the personal jurisdiction of a court is no obstacle to an action which is transitory and therefore may follow the person,[34] but many statutes exclude courts from jurisdiction over actions where both of the parties are nonresidents, and the court does not lose jurisdiction to proceed against the land in the latter county because it finds that, under the evidence, the land in the county where the suit is brought is not liable, it having jurisdiction to sell land in any county under Code 1899, c 132, § 1, and because, having jurisdiction for one purpose, it may administer full relief. Id.

32. Where defendant in a divorce suit is not served in the state and does not appear, the court cannot vest in plaintiff any interest in defendant's land in another state. Part of decree seeking to do so is purely proceeding in rem, and res, having its situs in another state, must be controlled by the latter's laws. Proctor v. Proctor, 215 Ill. 275, 74 N. E. 145. Court of one territory will not entertain suit for specific performance of agreement as to oil lease of lands in another to compel transfer of interest in the lease, and operation under the lease, since it would require constant supervision of manner of operation, the agreement being wholly indefinite as to the manner of working and the extent of the operations to be carried on. Wilhite v. Skelton [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 932. Action by stockholders of foreign corporation to have declared void for fraud an agreement canceling a lease to it from another foreign corporation does not involve the title to land so as to affect the jurisdiction of the courts of a state other than that where the land is situated. Not within Code Civ. Proc. § 1780. Jacobs v. Mexican Sugar Refining Co., 93 N. Y. S. 776. Courts of one state cannot by decree effect the legal transfer of the title to realty situated in other states. Full faith and credit clause of the Federal constitution refers only to personal obligations and duties, contracts and liabilities, other than those affecting interests in realty. Courtney v. Henry, 114 Ill. App. 635.

33. A court of equity, having acquired jurisdiction over the person of the defendant, has jurisdiction to enter any decree which may concern or affect lands in controversy situated in a foreign state to the same extent and as fully as though they were in the state where the court has its situs. To declare defendant a constructive trustee of a mining claim obtained by fraud. Butterfield v. Nogales Copper Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 345. The courts of a state in which all the parties to the action reside have jurisdiction of an action for specific performance of a contract for the sale of realty in another state. Rea v. Ferguson, 126 Iowa, 704, 102 N. W. 778. Where receiver of foreign corporation appears in action, court has jurisdiction to cancel for fraud contract relating to lands in foreign country. Code Civ. Proc. § 1780. Pruyn v. Black, 93 N. Y. S. 995. Courts of state have jurisdiction of action by resident stockholders of foreign corporation against another foreign corporation to have declared void for fraud an agreement canceling a lease from defendant to the corporation of which plaintiffs were members. Code Civ. Proc. § 1780. Jacobs v. Mexican Sugar Refining Co., 93 N. Y. S. 776, afg. 45 Misc. 180, 91 N. Y. S. 902.

34. Under D. C. Code, § 1537, an action by a nonresident corporation against another nonresident corporation is maintainable in the District of Columbia when defendant does business and has a place of business there. Guilford Granite Co. v. Harrison Granite Co., 23 App. D. C. 1. Statute of Illinois giving single damages by way of compensation for killing of stock by railroad at a point where right of way is not fenced is not penal and may be sued on in Missouri. Stonebraker v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 497, 85 S. W. 631. The courts of a state may determine any question relating to the stock of a domestic corporation. Where plea of nonresident defendant denied that property concerning which relief was sought was located within the state, but failed to deny that it was capital stock of a corporation domiciled therein, held, that court had jurisdiction to proceed against him in respect to it, and that a decree could be made with respect to his interest in the res which would bind him, even though he did not appear after the giving of the required notice. Andrews v. Guayaquil & Q. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 568. A Georgia corporation doing business in another state may be sued in Georgia by a citizen of such other state for an injury inflicted in that state. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 121 Ga. 391, 49 S. E. 308. Liability in a transitory action may be enforced, and the right of action pursued in the courts of any state which can obtain jurisdiction of the defendant, without regard to where the wrongdoer or the person injured resided, or where the injury was inflicted. Of suit for injuries to cattle occurring outside of the state where all parties were nonresidents. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Godair Commission Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 871. In a transitory action by a nonresident plaintiff, where a nonresident defendant voluntarily comes into the state and is there served with process as a resident of the county in which he is doing business, the court of such county has jurisdiction of the case. Bowman v. Flint [Tex. Civ. App.] 82 S. W. 1049. A right of action given by the statutes of one state will be enforced by the courts of another state whose statutes give a similar right under the same state of facts. Statutes must be of similar import or character, but need not be precisely the same. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Kellerman [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 140, 87 S. W. 401. Courts of Texas, having obtained jurisdiction over the parties, will enforce Kansas Gen. St. 1901, § 5858, making railroads liable for injuries to their servants caused by the negligence of fellow servants, the statutes of the two states being sufficiently similar. Id. Fact that under Kansas statute defendant had a discretionary right to have the jury view the place of the accident held not to deprive Texas court of jurisdiction. Id. Duty of master to furnish cause of action is of foreign origin,[35] whilst the alienage, or the diversity of citizenship of the litigants, may draw the case into the Federal courts.[36] The residential requirement in divorce actions does not apply to a defendant who files a cross bill, the residence of plaintiff having given jurisdiction.[37]

§ 6. Limitations resting in amount or value in controversy.[38]—The division of jurisdiction between courts is often accomplished by statutes fixing a maximum[39] or safe place to work, etc., substantially the same (Id.), and defendant entitled to special verdict in both states (Id.). Railroad extending into and which is operated in Texas may be sued there on a cause of action arising in Kansas, though it is incorporated under the laws of Kansas and plaintiff is a citizen of that state. Id. Aliens may sue in the court of claims, and this right extends to aliens residing in the colonies of foreign governments, and to corporations as well as to natural persons. U. S. Rev. St. § 1068. Corporation incorporated according to laws of Philippines. The Philippine Sugar Estates Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 225. For purposes of jurisdiction, it is conclusively presumed that all the stockholders of a corporation are citizens of the state under whose laws it was created. Id.

35. Divorce being a proceeding to alter the status of the person, the courts of a state have jurisdiction only when one of the parties has an actual bona fide domicile within its territory, without regard to where the offense for which it is sought was committed. Will not assume jurisdiction if both parties are nonresidents, though offense was committed within the state, and if court otherwise has jurisdiction, is not deprived of it because offense was committed outside the state. Adams v. Adams [Md.] 61 A. 628. Under Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1904, art. 16, §§ 35, 36, where parties lived out of state, and husband committed adultery within the state, and wife left him and established her residence within the state, court of county in which she resided could grant her a divorce, though she had not, at time of filing her bill, resided in state for the preceding two years. Id. In proceedings for the appointment of a receiver for an insolvent corporation, the jurisdiction of the court to allow claims must be determined by the general character of the relief sought, without reference to the character of any particular debt which may be proved before the referee. Holshouser Co. v. Gold Hill Copper Co. [N. C.] 50 S. E. 650. Claim by state which chartered foreign corporation for franchise or annual license fees held provable, Code, § 194 preventing suits by nonresidents against foreign corporation unless cause of action arises in the state or the subject of the action is situated there, not applying to such proceedings. Id. The City Court of Birmingham has no jurisdiction of a suit against a foreign corporation on a cause of action arising outside the state. Dozier Lumber Co. v. Smith-Isburgh Lumber Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 714.

36. See § 11 B, post.

37. Note: An action for divorce was brought by a wife, resident within the jurisdiction, against a nonresident husband. The defendant appeared personally and filed a cross petition for divorce. The trial court dismissed the petition and then dismissed the cross petition for want of jurisdiction. Upon appeal by the defendant, it was held, the statute requiring a period of residence before filing a petition for divorce, did not prevent a nonresident from filing a cross petition and that the appeal would be sustained. Pine v. Pine [Neb.] 100 N. W. 938.

The court in the principal case having jurisdiction over the parties would do full justice upon the merits of the issues. It will not compel obedience by the defendant and at the same time deny him affirmative relief. This seems to be a reasonable construction of a statute denying divorce to nonresident petitioners. Fullmer v. Fullmer, 6 Week. Dig. [N. Y.] 22; Clutton v. Clutton, 108 Mich. 267; Sterl v. Sterl, 2 Ill. App. 223. Massachusetts reaches the same result by a different process of reasoning. Watkins v. Watkins, 135 Mass. 83. Rhode Island and California interpret the statute strictly. Volk v. Volk, 18 R. I. 639; Coulthurst v. Coulthurst, 58 Cal. 239. The purpose of the residence clause being simply to limit the number of divorce suits, the liberal interpretation seems preferable.—5 Columbia L. R. 61.

38. See 4 C. L. 331.

39. Rev. St. c. 79, § 75, providing that the Kennebec superior court "has exclusive jurisdiction of scire facias on judgments and recognizances not exceeding $500," does not in terms or by necessary implication take away the inherent jurisdiction of that court over scire facias to obtain execution upon its own judgments, even though the debt and costs in the aggregate exceed $500. Kennebec Steam Towage Co. v. Rich [Me.] 60 A. 702.

NOTE. Effect of counterclaim: Upon suit in a magistrate's court, the defendant attempted to set up a counterclaim for a sum exceeding the statutory jurisdiction of the court. Held that, as the counterclaim was a new action, the court could not entertain it, since it was not within its jurisdiction. Corley v. Evans, 69 S. C. 520, 48 S. E. 459.

Many courts of limited jurisdiction follow the principal case in holding that they have no jurisdiction over a counterclaim larger than their jurisdictional amount, on the theory that the counterclaim is a new action. Alemeida v. Siegerson, 20 Mo. 497; Guswold v. Pieratt, 110 Cal. 259. The better rule, however, seems to regard the counterclaim as part of the same action, and the amount demanded by the plaintiff once having given the court jurisdiction over the original action, the court's jurisdiction holds over the counterclaim provided there is no statutory prohibition. The N. Y. Code of Civil Procedure, § 2945, as to justices' courts, admits the counterclaim, even though it exceeds the sum for which the court could not take jurisdiction in a new and distinct action. Howard Iron Works v. Buffalo El. Co., 176 N. Y. 1; 4 Columbia L. R. 75.—4 Columbia L. R. 603.

minimum[40] jurisdictional amount or value "involved,"[41] "demanded,"[42] "claimed,"[43]

40. In the case of appeals from justices of the peace, a minimum is usually fixed below which no case is appealable. See Justices of the Peace, 4 C. L. 372. Under Act May 5, 1899 (P. L. 248), providing that appeal from decree of orphans' court on any single claim not greater than $1,500, shall be to superior court, where court disallows two distinct claims, one over and one under that amount, supreme court will review larger claim and remit smaller one to superior court. In re Eslen's Estate, 211 Pa. 215, 60 A. 733.

41. California: An appeal to the court of appeals will be transferred to the supreme court under provisions of constitution and Sup. Ct. rule 32, where, on account of the amount involved, the appeal should have been taken to the latter court in the first instance. Weldon v. Rogers [Cal. App.] 82 P. 352.

Illinois: Supreme court has no jurisdiction to review judgment of appellate court in suit to set aside conveyance of land and subject it to plaintiff's judgment where the amount involved is less than $1,000. Lydston v. Auburgh, 216 Ill. 210, 74 N. E. 796. The amount involved in such a suit is the amount of indebtedness to the payment of which the land is sought to be subjected and not the value of the property. Id. Appeal does not lie to supreme court in suit by assignee of life policy to enjoin payment of tontine dividends amounting to less than $1,000, though paid up policy which admittedly was to be issued to complainant, and the amount of premiums paid by her, together with the indebtedness secured by the assignment, was in excess of $1,000. Brueggemann v. Brueggemann, 215 Ill. 509, 74 N. E. 800.

Louisiana: Where the issues raised and determined in the district court involve an amount over $2,000, exclusive of interest, the supreme court has appellate jurisdiction. Const. 1898, art. 85. Fact that fund for distribution is under that amount does not deprive court of jurisdiction where other issues involving amounts largely in excess of that required were raised and determined below. Succession of Sangfried [La.] 38 So. 593. Whether such issues should properly have been so raised and passed upon is not before the court on a motion to dismiss the appeal. Id. After seizure of certain property belonging to the city had been set aside in district court on ground that property was exempt and judgment had been affirmed on appeal, sheriff, on rule to show cause in district court recovered $385 for keeping such property. Held, that appeal to supreme court would be dismissed because involving less than the jurisdictional amount, there being nothing in claim for costs which by reason of its character, should make it appealable to the supreme court regardless of the amount involved. Wagner Co. v. Monroe, 113 La. 1073, 37 So. 974. Case will be transferred to court of appeal on appellant filing affidavit that appeal was not taken for purposes of delay. Id. No appeal lies to supreme court from judgment homologating an administrator's account which purports to distribute a fund not exceeding $2,000, exclusive of interest, and court will ex proprio motu, take notice of its want of jurisdiction and dismiss the appeal unless appellant makes oath that appeal was not taken for delay (Acts 1904, No. 56), in which case it will be transferred to court of appeal. Succession of Fullerton [La.] 38 So. 151. Has no jurisdiction of action to annul a judgment which was affirmed by the proper court of appeal in the exercise of its conceded appellate jurisdiction. Cause not appealable in amount to supreme court, for the review of a judgment therein cannot be made appealable to it to review judgment rendered in an action of nullity in the same cause. Strain's Heirs v. Lyons [La.] 38 So. 483. In such case jurisdiction cannot be vested in the supreme court by ingrafting on the action in nullity demands for damages, or other collateral and contingent claims dependent on the annulment of the judgment. Id. Where wife sues for damages for personal injuries and husband joins in action, claiming medical and other expenses incurred by reason of her injuries, the test of appellate jurisdiction is the sum total of both demands arising from the same cause of action. La Groue v. New Orleans [La.] 38 So. 160. An appeal involving $310 will be dismissed where the jurisdiction of the supreme court depends wholly on the amount involved. Succession of Glancey [La.] 38 So. 826.

Missouri: In an action on a bond given to secure the payment of alimony, the amount involved for the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of the appellate court is not the penalty of the bond, but the actual damages sustained by reason of the breach. Burnside v. Wand, 108 Mo. App. 539, 84 S. W. 995.

Federal courts: Circuit court has jurisdiction of action for $2,500 damages for preventing plaintiff from exercising right to vote for member of congress. Knight v. Shelton, 134 F. 423. In suit in circuit court by creditors of an insolvent corporation on behalf of themselves and all other creditors similarly situated to recover property alleged to belong to the corporation but to have been fraudulently acquired by defendants, creditors having claims of less than $2,000 may join with those whose claims exceed that sum. Stanwood v. Wishard, 134 F. 959. Suit against state corporation commission to enjoin enforcement of order, alleged to be void as interfering with interstate commerce, by bringing suits for penalties and damages, etc., held to involve more than $2,000. Southern R. Co. v. Greensboro Ice & Coal Co., 134 F. 82. In a suit for injunction, the amount involved is the value of the right to be protected or the extent of the injury to be prevented by the injunction. Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10. Federal circuit court has jurisdiction to enjoin collection of license tax, where license imposed amounts to $2,600 per annum, and it is alleged that it would require more than a year to test the matter in the law courts. Humes v. Little Rock, 138 F. 929. In a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a license tax on complainant's business, alleged to have been intentionally made prohibitory, the amount in controversy is the value of the business. Id. In suit to set aside judgments of a probate court establishing claims against an intestate's estate which are a lien on realty inherited by complainants, on the ground that "in controversy,"[44] or "recovered,"[45] and these amounts include or exclude costs, interest,[46] and the like, according as the terms of the various statutes provide. Wheth-

they were fraudulently obtained by defendants acting in concert, the value of the matter in dispute is the aggregate amount of the claims whose allowance was procured in furtherance of the fraudulent combination and conspiracy. McDaniel v. Traylor, 196 U. S. 415, 49 Law. Ed. 533. In the absence of proof of such a combination, the claim of each of the plaintiffs must, for jurisdictional purposes, be regarded as separate from all the others. Id. On petition for removal of a cause to the Federal court, the question of the amount in controversy is a jurisdictional fact, and, outside of necessity of making a prima facie case for removal, must be determined by the Federal court. State court must first decide whether record and petition show on their faces a right of removal, but inquiry in that court as to amount in controversy is ended where there is a bona fide demand for more than the jurisdictional amount, any dispute as to the amount recoverable, when not limited by law, being for the Federal court. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Kan.] 79 P. 655.

42. In actions for unliquidated damages, the amount in controversy is ordinarily the amount which the plaintiff in good faith demands. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Kan.] 79 P. 655.

43. Alabama: In action in city court "on a moneyed demand," where the recovery is below the minimum amount of the court's jurisdiction as fixed by Code 1896, § 3315, and the amount claimed is not reduced below that of which the court had jurisdiction by a set-off successfully made by defendant, and the statutory affidavit to avoid the setting aside of the judgment and dismissal of the suit is not made, the judgment will be set aside on appeal and the suit dismissed. Smith v. Allen [Ala.] 37 So. 933.

Illinois: In Illinois where there is trial on an issue of fact in the lower court, appeals and writs of error lie from the appellate to the supreme court where the amount claimed in the pleadings exceeds $1,000. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, p. 569, c. 37, § 8. Willard v. Zehr, 215 Ill. 148, 74 N. E. 107. Issue of fact arises where material fact is alleged by the pleadings on one side and denied on the other. Id. None where demurrer to plea is sustained. Id. The amount claimed and not the amount of the judgment governs. Id.

Montana: Demand for $239 with 25 per cent penalty and legal interest is in excess of limit fixed for jurisdiction of justice by Code Civ. Proc. § 66, subd. 1. Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695.

New York: Municipal court has no jurisdiction of a contract action in which the "sum claimed" exceeds $500. Laws 1902, p. 1487, c. 580, § 1, subd. 1. Cohen v. Lewsen, 92 N. Y. 59. Has no jurisdiction where both summons and complaint claimed $500 with interest. Smith v. Dunn, 92 N. Y. S. 300. May enter judgment for $499, besides costs and allowances. Frenchi v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S. 771. Has jurisdiction of action for unliquidated damages for breach of contract, where summons stated that if defendant failed to appear plaintiff would take judgment for $500 with interest and costs, plaintiff not being entitled to recover interest on the amount of his alleged loss, and interest on his actual loss being recoverable only as part of the damages. Hamburger v. Hellman, 92 N. Y. S. 1067.

44. Indiana: Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1337j, it is the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest and costs, as shown by the judgment of the trial court on the merits, that determines the right of appeal from the appellate court to the supreme court under subd. 3, and such right does not lie unless such judgment exceeds $6,000. Avery v. Nordyke & Marmon Co. [Ind.] 73 N. E. 119. In all other cases, except in those specified in which an appeal lies directly to the supreme court, decision of appellate court is final, unless it contravenes a ruling precedent of the supreme court, or involves an erroneous decision of a new question, in which case the losing party may apply to have the case transferred to the supreme court. Id. Appeal authorized only where the amount in controversy, as established by the judgment of the trial court, exceeds $6,000, exclusive of interest and costs. Durbin v. Northwestern Scraper Co. [Ind.] 75 N. E. 1. Does not authorize an appeal where trial court overruled plaintiff's demurrer to appellant's answer, and rendered judgment in plaintiff's answer as against the other defendants, which, in so far as it overruled the demurrer, was reversed by the appellate court with directions to sustain the demurrer. Id. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1337f, Acts 1901, p. 566, c. 247, § 6, as amended by Acts 1903, p. 280, c. 156, no appeal in any civil case lies to the supreme or appellate court where the amount in controversy exclusive of interest and costs does not exceed $50, except in the cases specifically designated in § 1337h (§ 8, Act of 1901). Appeal dismissed. Sears v. Carpenter [Ind.] 74 N. E. 244. Where, in action to recover statutory penalty, the amount recovered, exclusive of interest and costs, does not exceed $50, and plaintiff is satisfied with the judgment, and there is no set-off or counterclaim, that sum must be regarded as the "amount in controversy." Hood v. Baker [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 608.

Kentucky: The court of appeals has no jurisdiction of an appeal from a judgment for $200, the amount sued for, where defendant admits liability for $40 in his answer and offers to confess judgment for that amount, the amount in controversy on the appeal being only $160. United States Health & Acc. Ins. Co. v. Webb's Adm'r [Ky.] 88 S. W. 1108. Court of appeals has jurisdiction of defendant's appeal where his counterclaim for more than $200 is rejected, though plaintiff recovers only $75. Gates v. Davis [Ky.] 89 S. W. 490. Appeal dismissed because amount in controversy was less than $200. Muir v. Muir [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1070. Under St. 1903, § 978, appeals may be taken to the circuit court from all orders and judgments of the fiscal court in civil cases where the value in controversy, exclusive of interest and costs, is over $25. Jefferson County v. Young [Ky.] 86 S. W. 985.

Texas: The county court has no jurisdiction where the amount in controversy does er the existence of such an amount shall be determined from the pleadings[47] or from not exceed $200. McRimmon & Co. v. Hart [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 881. Where note provided for the payment of 10 per cent on the amount due on a note for attorney's fees in case suit was brought thereon, 10 per cent of total sum due at institution of suit, including interest, should be added to the principal, and county court has jurisdiction if the resulting total exceeds $200. Id. In an action to enforce a carrier's common-law lien for freight charges as enlarged by Rev. St. 1895, arts. 327, 328, 330, authorizing sale to pay freight charges of live stock remaining unclaimed for 48 hours, the value of the stock on which the lien is asserted, and not the amount of the charges, determines the jurisdiction of the trial court. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Rucker [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 185, 87 S. W. 818, afg. [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 815. Where carrier also seeks to recover property which has been taken from it wrongfully, value of property to which right of possession is asserted, and not the amount of freight charges, determines jurisdiction of trial court. Id. In action against three railroad companies for damages for injuries to live stock, the aggregate amount claimed against the three determines the question of jurisdiction of the county court, where it is alleged that the defendants were partners and acted as such in handling the shipment, since in such case each was liable for all the damages recoverable against either. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Lucas [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1082. Where petition alleged damages for physical and mental suffering in the sum of $1,000, and as an independent cause of action, 25 cents for sending a telegram, and prayer was that plaintiff have judgment "for all his damages, including his charges paid for the transmission and delivery of said message and cost of suit," held, that the damages asked exceeded $1.000, and county court had no jurisdiction. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hawkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 847. A judgment for plaintiff by the district court will be reversed and the case dismissed where it conclusively appears that the amount involved exceeds $200 and is less than $500, and hence was within the jurisdiction of the county rather than the district court. Bigby v. Brantley [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 311. Under Laws 1895, p. 57, c. 45, the county court of Goliad county has concurrent jurisdiction with the justice court, and hence has jurisdiction of actions involving less than $200. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCampbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1158. District court held to have jurisdiction of suit on note calling for $200 and attorney's fees. Groesbeck v. Thompson Mill. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 346. In order to give court of civil appeals appellate jurisdiction over contract action appealed from justice to county court, the amount in controversy, or the judgment of the county court, must exceed $100, exclusive of interest and costs. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 996. Lacy v. O'Reilly [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 918, 89 S. W. 640. Surety on note for $100, with interest after maturity and attorney's fees if collected by law, paid same at maturity, the principal having previously agreed to pay note in $5 instalments. One instalment was paid and surety commenced suit in justice court for balance. Judgment was rendered for defendant in justice court and in county court on appeal. Held, court of civil appeals had no appellate jurisdiction, the amount in controversy being less than $100, whether action was based on implied contract or on the express one, since in no event was surety entitled to recover more than the amount paid by him, with interest. Id.

Virginia: In suit involving liability of defendant on stock subscription, the amount in controversy is the par value of the stock. Elliott v. Ashby [Va.] 52 S. E. 383. Supreme court held to have appellate jurisdiction in suit by receiver of insolvent corporation to recover assessment on stock subscribed where amount subscribed for by defendant amounted to $1,000, though the judgment rendered against him was for less than $300. Id.

West Virginia: The test of appellate jurisdiction in the supreme court, when the plaintiff below is the plaintiff in error, and the matter in controversy is pecuniary, is the amount actually demanded in the court below, less the amount recovered, if any, and not merely the amount or additional amount, which he shows himself to be entitled to recover. Wallace v. Leroy [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 243. Where the amount in controversy is sufficient to give appellate jurisdiction, but plaintiff is prejudiced by an error in a sum less than the jurisdictional amount, the judgment will be reversed, but the costs in the supreme court will be adjudged to the defendant in error as the party substantially prevailing. Id.

Washington: Supreme court has no appellate jurisdiction in cases where the original amount in controversy does not exceed $200. National Grocery Co. v. Cann [Wash.] 81 P. 1054. Washington supreme court has no appellate jurisdiction of civil actions at law for the recovery of money or personal property when the original amount in controversy or the value of the property does not exceed $200. State v. Coon [Wash.] 82 P. 993. Has no jurisdiction of appeal from judgment awarding mandamus compelling city officials to pay judgment for $115 for costs awarded by the supreme court, where the legal question at issue is whether the city was the real party in interest and therefore liable for the costs, and the right of the court to enforce its own judgments is not involved. Id.

45. Colorado: Supreme court has no jurisdiction of appeals where the judgment below is for less than $2,500, unless it appears that a franchise or freehold is involved, or that a construction of the Federal or state constitution is necessary to a decision of the case. Appeal dismissed. Beam v. Harrington [Colo.] 79 P. 1013.

46. Under U. S. Rev. St. § 1927, providing that justices of the peace in Arizona shall not have jurisdiction in any controversy where the debt or sum claimed exceeds $300, the "debt or sum claimed" includes interest as well as principal, where interest is allowed and sought to be recovered in the action, and hence Ariz. Rev. St. 1901, § 2047, is invalid in so far as it attempts to exclude interest the facts as against the pleadings, depends largely on the precise words of the statute, as it also does in the case where no value appears on the record. When two or more demands, for each of which a cause of action would lie, are properly joined in one suit, the failure to establish one or more of them will not deprive the court of jurisdiction, though the one established and proven is for a sum less than the jurisdictional amount.[48] Parties will not, however, be allowed to work a fraud on the court from the amount determining jurisdiction. Brown v. Braun [Ariz.] 80 P. 323. The amount involved in a suit is the amount in controversy between the parties at the time the suit is brought, and interest accruing during the pendency of the suit cannot be added to make up the amount necessary to give jurisdiction to an appellate court Amount of principal and interest due when suit is brought. Lydston v. Auburgh, 216 Ill. 210, 74 N E. 796. Interest to the date of trial should be included in determining the amount in controversy, it being damages for delay and not interest within the meaning of the statute. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fromme [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1054. Computing interest to date of filing suit, amount in controversy held not to be $100. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCampbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 854. In a suit for unliquidated damages, a prayer for "$1,000 damages, interest and costs" will be taken as demanding only interest on the judgment and not interest as additional damages, and hence a maximum jurisdiction of $1,000 is not exceeded. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 139. 90 S. W. 65.

47. Where there is nothing to show bad faith, or where there is room for doubt, the pleadings control in determining the amount in controversy. Brown v. Edwards [Ga.] 50 S. E. 110. While Atlanta city court has no jurisdiction to try case within jurisdiction of justice, it has jurisdiction of suit on note for $100 and ten per cent. attorney's fees, where petition filed on return day alleges that notice required by statute in order to recover such fees (Acts 1900, p. 53, Van Epps' Code Supp. § 6185) has been given to defendant. Id. Where plaintiff in action for negligence in justice court only claimed $100 damages, and the evidence would have authorized a finding for a greater or a less amount, held not error to refuse to dismiss because damage proved was greater than the jurisdictional amount. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Knight [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124. On proceedings in error the amount in controversy is to be determined by the amount claimed by plaintiff in his petition. Robinson v. Lamoureaux [Kan.] 80 P. 595. For the purposes of the appeal the plaintiff is bound by the allegations of his petition as to the value of the property claimed by him, and neither his right to appeal nor the jurisdiction of the court to which the appeal is taken fluctuates with the market value of such property. Real estate. Spremich v. Maurepas Land & Lumber Co. [La.] 38 So. 327. In New York municipal court where the claim for judgment in the summons, there being no written complaint, does not exceed $500, it, and not the bill of particulars, controls, the summons being required to state the amount for which plaintiff will take judgment if defendant fails to answer (Laws 1902, c. 580, § 27). Hamburger v. Hellman, 92 N. Y. S. 1067. If the complaint is in writing, it and not the bill of particulars determines the jurisdiction of the New York municipal court Frenchi v. New York City R. Co., 92 N. Y. S 771. A judgment for plaintiff in the district court is fundamentally erroneous where the petition fails to state a cause of action for the jurisdictional amount. Moore v. Snell [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 270. In suit on $600 note, and for a balance of $32.50 on account, and for $250 damages, and petition shows that indebtedness evidenced by the note has been extinguished, district court has no jurisdiction. Id. In suit on note where one secondarily liable in his answer asked for judgment over against the maker for any sum for which he might be adjudged liable, his assertion of a claim for attorney's fees to which he was not entitled could not be considered so as to bring the amount within the appellate jurisdiction of the court of appeals. Franklin Life Ins. Co. v. Blackwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 361. The "amount in controversy" within the meaning of Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, p. 1929, Act 1895, p. 57, c. 45, § 3, prohibiting appeals from the county court of Goliad county to the court of appeals "where the judgment or amount in controversy does not exceed $100," is the full amount recoverable by plaintiff under the allegations of his petition, even though the judgment actually recovered is less than $100. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fromme [Tex. Civ. App.] 84 S. W. 1054. The date of the trial in the county court is the time at which the amount of recovery must be ascertained. Id.; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCampbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 854. The ad damnum clause in a petition fixes the jurisdiction of the court when it depends on the amount of the matter in controversy. In action on liquor dealer's bond where the amount of damages laid by the petition was within the jurisdiction of the county court, that court was not deprived of jurisdiction because facts were alleged which would have entitled plaintiff to larger damages had he asked for them. McLaury v. Watelsky [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 87 S. W. 1045. It is the amount in good faith claimed and not the amount recovered which establishes the jurisdiction of Federal courts. United States v. Swift [C. C. A.] 139 F. 225. The jurisdiction of suits against the United States conferred on the circuit courts by section two of the Tucker Act extends to all suits of the class described in which the amount claimed in good faith exceeds $1000, although a smaller sum may be recovered. Act March 3, 1887, c. 359 (24 Stat. 505). Id. For purpose of determining whether amount is sufficient to authorize removal to Federal court, amount demanded in complaint controls, particularly in actions for unliquidated damages. Springer v. Bricker [Ind.] 76 N. E. 114. This is true though complaint may show that plain-by purposely alleging a fictitious amount to be due in order to confer jurisdiction.[49] The suit should also be dismissed if the facts alleged be such as to show no cause of action as to such part of the whole sum sued for as to reduce it below the jurisdictional amount.[50] After jurisdiction has once attached, a party cannot ordinarily defeat it by changing the amount of his claim by amendment or otherwise.[51] In the absence of a statute to the contrary,[52] plaintiff cannot confer jurisdiction by remitting a part of the amount claimed.[53] Separate causes of action in favor of different parties cannot be grouped together by a common assignee so as to bring the amount within the jurisdictional limit.[54] Matters incidental to the main action may be determined regardless of the amount involved therein.[55] Where jurisdiction is tiff was actually damaged in a larger amount. Id.

48. Western Union Tel. Co v. Siddall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 343. Fact that plaintiff failed to establish cause of action for mental suffering, etc., held not to prevent district court from rendering judgment for 25 cents, the price paid for sending telegram. Id. Where plaintiff sued appellant and another on two obligations, one for $550 and one for $200, the fact that the judgment of the district court exonerated appellant from liability on the former did not preclude it from assuming jurisdiction of the demand against him for the $200, in the absence of a special plea that the assertion of the $550 claim was made merely for the purpose of conferring jurisdiction and was unfounded in fact. Groesbeck v. Thompson Milling Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 346. Fact that there is no merit in claim for mental anguish in suit against telegraph company for failure to deliver telegram and that allegations in regard to it are stricken out does not deprive circuit court of jurisdiction, though the amount remaining in controversy is less than $200. Denham v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Ky.] 87 S. W. 788. Where the jurisdiction of the supreme court depends in part upon an amount claimed as damages, the appeal will not be dismissed unless the claim so made is clearly fictitious. Tieman v. Johnston [La.] 38 So. 75.

49. Browne v. Edwards [Ga.] 50 S. E. 110. Will not be presumed, in the absence of an allegation to that effect, that one of two demands joined in one suit, but not established, was fictitious, and was added merely for the purpose of fraudulently conferring jurisdiction on the court. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Siddall [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 343.

50. Action in county court against telegraph company properly dismissed where plaintiff was not entitled to recover any of the damages alleged except the expenses of a certain trip, which were less than the jurisdictional amount. Kopperl v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1018. Where special exceptions to the petition are sustained on the ground that the allegations are insufficient to warrant a recovery of certain items, and the amount remaining is less than $200, the county court is deprived of jurisdiction. Where allegations were insufficient to authorize recovery of statutory penalties. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Butler [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 800. Though the amount claimed in the petition may be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction. Carswell & Co. v. Habberzettle [Tex.] 86 S. W. 738.

51. Whether the amount in controversy is sufficient to confer jurisdiction on the Federal circuit court of a suit sought to be removed to it is to be determined by the claim of the complainant as shown by the record at the time of filing the petition for removal (Johnson v. Computing Scale Co., 139 F. 339), and after removal he cannot defeat the jurisdiction of the Federal court by changing his position or the record for that purpose (Id.) A party cannot defeat a removal from a state to a Federal court by an amendment of his pleading diminishing his demand after the petition and bond for removal have been filed. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Kan.] 79 P. 655.

52. Laws 1902, p. 1562, § 250, permitting a party to an action in the municipal court to remit the excess if "the sum found due exceeds the sum for which the court is authorized to enter judgment," applies only to cases where the court has acquired jurisdiction in the first instance, and not where the amount demanded in the summons and complaint exceeds the jurisdictional amount. Smith v. Dunn, 92 N. Y. S. 300. Where claim of plaintiff is for a judgment of $500, court has jurisdiction, though he establishes a right to recover more than that sum, provided he waives the excess. Hamburger v. Hellman, 92 N. Y. S. 1067.

53. Under U. S. Rev. St., § 1927, providing that justices of the peace in Arizona shall not have jurisdiction where the debt or sum claimed exceeds $300, jurisdiction depends upon the demand which plaintiff makes when suit is brought, and he cannot thereafter confer jurisdiction on the justice by remitting a portion of the amount claimed. Brown v. Braun [Ariz.] 80 P. 323.

54. Claims of coal miners against their employer, constituting separate causes of action and no single one of which exceeds $100, cannot be grouped together by a common assignee so as to bring the amount within the jurisdictional limits of the circuit court. Paris Mercantile Co. v. Hunter [Ark.] 86 S. W. 808.

55. In suit to enforce mechanic's lien arising on defendant's property under contract between his vendor and plaintiff, where vendor was made party and admitted the debt, but claimed that defendant had assumed it, and set up by cross bill a claim against defendant for sums which he had been compelled to pay on the contract, district court had jurisdiction to determine claim set up in cross bill as incidental to the suit, though it was in an amount beneath its jurisdiction. Haberzettle v. Dearing [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 539. Where district court obtains jurisdiction of a suit by grantor in deed of trust to re-conferred or limited on grounds other than the amount in controversy, such amount may be immaterial.[56]

§ 7. Limitations resting in character of subject-matter or object of action.[57]—Particularly in respect to courts below those of general original jurisdiction, and in case of appeals, is jurisdiction denied or conferred, where the action involves the title to land,[58] a freehold,[59] constitutional questions,[60] not previously decided by the strain sale of his homestead included therein, it should retain jurisdiction for all purposes and grant complete relief, and hence should determine the issues raised by a cross petition of the payee of the note secured by the deed praying for a judgment on the note, though the amount thereof is less than $500. Walker v. Woody [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 957, 89 S. W. 789.

56. An action to cancel contracts executed without authority and procured by fraud is of equitable cognizance, and hence is within the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court regardless of the form of the judgment or the amount in controversy. Horrell v. California, O. & W. Homebuilders' Ass'n [Wash.] 82 P. 889. Proceedings to set out a widow's award are not ex contractu, and hence the amount in controversy is immaterial. Kroell v. Kroell [Ill.] 76 N. E. 63.

57. See 4 C. L. 334.

58. Mere statement of opinion in verified answer that title to realty will be involved, without stating facts from which such conclusion would follow, is insufficient to authorize certification of case to superior court from justice court. McAlister v. Tindal [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1117. The title to real estate may be involved in an action of trespass quare clausum fregit, but if brought before a justice of the peace, his judgment would not adjudicate the question of ownership of the freehold. It would be a fact in controversy, but not in issue. Appeal lies to supreme not appellate court. Weidner v. Lund, 105 Ill. App. 454. In the absence of a statute to the contrary, the test as to whether title to realty is so directly involved as to deprive a justice of jurisdiction is whether the issues to be litigated demand a judgment affecting title. Title is not directly involved where issues demand a judgment for money only. Pankey v. Modglin, 116 Ill. App. 6. Justice is not deprived of jurisdiction because title is incidentally involved. Id. Justice has jurisdiction of action to recover for breach of a covenant as to title in a deed of conveyance. Id. Where the amount in controversy is less than $200, the title to land must be directly involved and concluded by the judgment in order to give the Kentucky court of appeals appellate jurisdiction. Not sufficient that title is collaterally involved. City of Covington v. McKenna [Ky.] 86 S. W. 689. Not directly involved in suit on apportionment warrant for municipal improvement against property owner in which plaintiff seeks judgment against city if owner is not liable, and in which owner files cross petition against city claiming to own the street, and denying that it is a city street, where judgment was rendered holding that city did not own street and dismissing petition against the property owner, and giving plaintiff judgment against city for less than $200, but expressly reserving cross petition for further adjudication. Id. In an action for land occupied by the way of a railroad and defended by a plea of prescription, questions of taking, expropriation and the statutes thereon are involved. Scovell v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 582. Summary eviction proceedings before court commissioner should be dismissed where proof shows that title to land is involved. Meeske v. Miller [Mich.] 101 N. W. 52. Title is not in controversy where defendant is in possession under an agreement making him plaintiff's tenant either at an agreed rent, or at will or sufferance, since he cannot deny landlord's title. Id. Title to lands cannot be tried in prosecution in recorder's court for obstructing the street. People v. Wolverine Mfg. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 491, 104 N. W. 725. In order to oust court of jurisdiction there must be a bona fide contention either as to the existence of the highway or the title of the lands where the alleged obstructions are located. Id. Existence of highway held to be so clearly shown as to admit of no bona fide contest, particularly as defendants recognized its existence, and hence court had jurisdiction. Id. Title to realty held clearly involved in suit in which plaintiffs prayed for its possession. Tice v. Hamilton [Mo.] 87 S. W. 497. In suit to enjoin corporation from collecting tolls on a gravel road, where issues tendered were whether charter of company to which defendant had succeeded had expired, and whether defendant had failed to keep its road in repair within statute providing for forfeiture of its charter if it failed to do so, held, that title to realty was not involved. State v. Louisiana, B. G. & A. Gravel Road Co., 187 Mo. 439, 86 S. W. 170. Question whether minors to whom homestead had been set apart should be allowed to retain it during their minority, though it had risen in value until it was worth more than $1,500, or whether it should be sold and $1,500 should be invested for their use and the balance be distributed to the owners of the fee, held to so far involve or affect the title to the realty as to warrant a transfer of the cause from the court of appeals to the supreme court. Brewingon v. Brewington, 110 Mo. App. 569, 85 S. W. 640. The title to realty is involved in proceedings by a city to condemn land for a street and hence the supreme court has appellate jurisdiction. City of Tarkio v. Clark, 186 Mo. 285, 85 S. W. 329. In summary proceedings for possession of land, instituted before justice and removed to circuit court, where relation of landlord and tenant is established, title to land is not involved since tenant cannot question landlord's title. Diiks v. Kelsey [N. J. Law] 59 A. 897. The test for determining whether a case is a mere case of boundary is whether there would have been any case had the question of boundary been eliminated. Trespass to try title to establish plaintiff's right to a certain survey, defendants claiming under prior surveys, and plaintiff that such court of last resort,[61] properly raised and passed upon below,[62] decided adversely to prior surveys did not embrace any part of the land for which she sued, and that the patents thereto were void, held not a mere "case of boundary" of which supreme court had no jurisdiction, since there would still be a case if the boundary case was eliminated. Mansfield v. Gilbert [Tex.] 86 S. W. 922.

59. An appeal directly to, or a writ of error directly from, the supreme court from or to the trial court lies in Illinois in cases in which a freehold is involved. Van Tassell v. Wakefield, 214 Ill. 205, 73 N. E. 340. A freehold is involved only in cases where either the necessary result of the judgment or decree is that one party gains and the other loses a freehold estate, or where the title is so put in issue by the pleadings that the decision of the case necessarily involves a decision of such issue. Id.; Douglas Park Bldg. Ass'n v. Roberts, 218 Ill. 454, 75 N. E. 1018; Hursen v. Hursen, 110 Ill. App. 345; City of Mattoon v. Noyes, 113 Ill. App. 111. Appeal must be to appellate court if freehold is not involved in points assigned for error. Douglas Park Bldg. Ass'n v. Roberts, 218 Ill. 454, 75 N. E. 1918.

Freehold held to be involved: Where plaintiff claimed fee of street subject to public easement, and defendant denied this and alleged that fee was in city. Wilder v. Aurora, DeK. & R. Elec. Traction Co., 216 Ill. 493, 75 N. E. 194. Where attachment is levied on land as belonging to defendant, and a third party interpleads and alleges that he, and not the attachment defendant owns the land. Ray v. Keith, 218 Ill. 182, 75 N. E. 921. In judgment of circuit court, on appeal, admitting to probate a will which does not specifically devise realty, where it sufficiently appears from the record that decedent owned realty which passed under the residuary clause of the will. Senn v. Greundling, 218 Ill. 458, 75 N. E. 1020. In suit to set aside and cancel warranty deed for fraud, and court of appeals had no jurisdiction. Hursen v. Hursen, 110 Ill. App. 345. Where the question at issue is whether particular land was dedicated as a street, and this is true whether the alleged dedication was a statutory or a common-law one. City of Mattoon v. Noyes, 113 Ill. App. 111.

Freehold held not to be involved: Bill to set side a conveyance as in fraud of creditors, or to declare premises the title to which stands in one person subject to be sold to pay the debt of another. Brockway v. Kizer, 215 Ill. 188, 74 N. E. 120. In determination of rights accruing under an ordinance authorizing a property owner to construct a platform on a sidewalk, the permission to cease at the end of ten years. Chicago Cold Storage Warehouse Co. v. People, 215 Ill. 225, 74 N. E. 133. By bill in aid of execution for the purpose of subjecting realty to the lien of a judgment and satisfying the execution, even though it seeks to have the legal title standing in the name of another person declared to be in the judgment debtor. Fairbanks v. Carle, 217 Ill. 136, 75 N. E. 360. Not necessarily involved where defendant may defeat the object of the suit, so far as it seeks to disturb his title, by paying off the claim sought to be enforced against it, as where the proceeding is one to enforce a lien. Not where order provided that plaintiff in ejectment should have the option of paying petitioner for improvements on realty a certain sum within a specified time, or in default thereof, petitioner should have the right to enter and remove them. Van Tassell v. Wakefield, 214 Ill. 205, 73 N. E. 340. It is involved in a proceeding to sell a decedent's realty to pay his debts only when some question is raised in regard to the title of the land. Not where it is admitted that decedent owned land, and that his widow is entitled to dower and homestead therein. Roberson v. Tippie, 215 Ill. 119, 74 N. E. 96. In suit to have deed absolute in form declared a mortgage and to permit a redemption therefrom, though the decree sought would necessitate the setting aside of a deed made by the grantee to a third person who took with notice. Eddleman v. Fasig, 218 Ill. 340, 75 N. E. 977. In trespass quare clausum fregit growing out of a taking possession of the premises by a receiver in foreclosure proceedings in which a plea of liberum tenementum is filed, where question of title is not necessarily involved, and case was not tried on theory that it was involved, but the sole question was as to the right to possession. Douglas Park Bldg. Ass'n v. Roberts, 218 Ill. 454, 75 N. E. 1018. In creditor's bill to collect judgment, and to that end to compel the execution of a trust established by a will. Linn v. Downing, 116 Ill. App. 454. In action of trespass quare clausum fregit to recover for alleged encroachment upon premises of plaintiff in putting down sidewalk on public street. McDowell v. Jones, 116 Ill. App. 13.

60. Colorado: Supreme court has no jurisdiction to review judgments of district court on appeal from the action of the county commissioners in refusing relief against an alleged unjust assessment, where the only thing necessary to a determination of the case is a construction of statutes. Court of appeals has jurisdiction. Board of Com'rs of Teller County v. Independence Consol. Gold Min. Co. [Colo.] 79 P. 1012.

Illinois: Before the supreme court of Illinois will take jurisdiction upon appeal or writ of error, to review the decree of a superior court, upon the ground that a construction of the constitution is involved, it must appear from the record that such question is involved, and it must be a fairly debatable one, raised in good faith. Griveau v. South Chicago City R. Co., 213 Ill. 633, 73 N. E. 309. Though it may appear that constitutional question was involved in trial court, it will not be considered by supreme court unless it is preserved in the record and the ruling of the trial court thereon is assigned as error. Id. Allegation that ordinance is unjust, unreasonable and oppressive does not raise constitutional question. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Chicago, 217 Ill. 58, 75 N. E. 439. It must appear that the constitutional question was involved. Id. Bill to restrain construction of railroad in street in front of plaintiff's premises, alleging that he was owner of fee to center of street and that defendant was about to construct road wtihout compensating him and in violation of his constitutional rights, appellant or in a manner prejudicial to his rights,[63] saved for review,[64] and assigned held to present constitutional question warranting direct appeal to supreme court. Wilder v. Aurora, DeK. & R. Elec. Traction Co., 216 Ill. 493, 75 N. E. 194. Refusal to allow amendment raising a constitutional question does not raise constitutional question. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Chicago, 217 Ill. 58, 75 N. E. 439. An ordinance is not a statute within the meaning of the Illinois statute authorizing the supreme court to take jurisdiction of appeals from the circuit court in cases where the validity of a statute is involved. Id. Illinois appellate courts have no jurisdiction to determine the validity of an act of the legislature. Village of Morgan Park v. Knopf, 111 Ill. App. 571.

Indiana: The supreme court has exclusive jurisdiction of appeals involving the constitutionality of a statute. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1337i, Acts 1901, p. 566, c. 247, § 9. Clark v. American Cannel Coal Co. [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 727. Under Acts 1901, p. 566, c. 247, § 8, cases involving the validity of a franchise, ordinance, or statute or the proper construction of a statute, which would be otherwise unappealable under § 6, are appealable directly to the supreme court, for the purpose of presenting the specified matters only. Hood v. Baker [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 608. Action for penalty for failure to release mortgage of record held to involve construction of penal statute, and transferred from appellate to supreme court. Id. § 8 of the act of 1901 is applicable to civil cases mentioned in § 6 as amended by act of 1901. Id.

Missouri: Question whether homestead was exempt from execution under judgment for alimony rendered prior to Acts 1903, p. 240, providing that no property shall be exempt from execution based on such a judgment, where execution was not issued until after such statute went into effect, certified by court of appeals to supreme court as involving a question of vested constitutional right. Myher v. Myher [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 116. In proceeding to recover fine for engaging in business as a merchant without obtaining license as required by town ordinance, Federal question properly raised so as to authorize removal from court of appeals to supreme court, where requested instruction that business was interstate commerce and hence could not be taxed was refused, and an exception to such refusal was duly saved and preserved in the bill of exceptions. Town of Canton v. McDaniel [Mo.] 86 S. W. 1092. No constitutional question raised by instruction authorizing a verdict by nine jurors, where it appears from the record that the verdict was unanimous. Shareman v. St. Louis Transit Co., 186 Mo. 323, 85 S. W. 358.

Washington: The supreme court of Washington has jurisdiction to review a judgment in an action involving the validity of a statute regardless of the amount in controversy. Const. art. 4, § 4, and 2 Bal. Ann. Codes & St. § 4650. Shook v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 509, 79 P. 1093. Of case involving validity of city ordinance. Id.

61. If previously passed upon will not sustain a direct writ of error to the superior court, unless special reasons appear for its further consideration. Griveau v. South Chicago City R. Co., 213 Ill. 633, 73 N. E. 309. An appeal having been properly taken to the supreme court on the ground that a constitutional question is involved, that court is not deprived of jurisdiction by reason of the fact that such question is thereafter determined by it in another case. State v. Hemenover [Mo.] 87 S. W. 482; Boling v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. [Mo.] 88 S. W. 35.

62. Supreme court has appellate jurisdiction where constitutional question is properly raised below and is decided against appellant, and exceptions to such decision are properly saved. Haag v. Ward, 186 Mo. 325, 85 S. W. 391. Question held sufficiently raised by exceptions to instructions. Christy v. Elliott, 216 Ill. 31, 74 N. E. 1035. Must have been invoked and denied unless such question is necessarily involved. Hutchinson & Co. v. Morris Bros. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 870. Constitutionality of Rev. St. 1899, § 4277, forbidding suits to foreclose mortgages given to secure debts barred by limitations, held not necessarily involved in controversy as to ownership of surplus arising on foreclosure. State v. Bland, 186 Mo. 691, 85 S. W. 561. Must have been squarely raised below. City of Tarkio v. Clark, 186 Mo. 285, 85 S. W. 329. Merely excepting to charge that nine jurors might render a verdict invokes no constitutional protection. Carmody v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 913. No constitutional question involved as to whether amendment authorizing verdict by nine jurors in civil cases was properly adopted, where defendant failed in any manner to refer to such amendment or to point out why it was invalid, but merely claimed in motion for new trial that court improperly authorized such a verdict, "it being contrary to the constitution of the state for a verdict to be rendered by less than all of the panel." Id. Has appellate jurisdiction where record clearly shows that defendant invoked protection of both state and Federal constitutions and pointed out specific section and article of each on which it relied, and constitutional question was decided against it. Shareman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 575. Mere allegation in pleadings that statute under which ordinance was enacted was unconstitutional and void, held insufficient, where ordinance was introduced by appellant himself to show that it was not complied with in the particular case, and trial court had no opportunity to pass on the question. City of Excelsior Springs v. Ettenson [Mo.] 86 S. W. 255. Specific constitutional question alleged to have been infringed must be pointed out, unless question is in record in such form that its decision is necessary to a decision of the case. Id. Question cannot first be raised in court of appeals. Exception to decision of trial judge that relators were lawfully appointed held to sufficiently raise question of constitutionality of statute under which appointment was made, where that question was only one considered by appellate division. People v. Houghton [N. Y.] 74 N. E. 830.

63. State v. Bland, 186 Mo. 691, 85 S. W. 561; Haag v. Ward, 186 Mo. 325, 85 S. W. 391; Shareman v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 575. Record must show that as error in the appellate court,[65] a franchise, taxes or revenues,[66] the title to a public office,[67] certain tort liabilities, and where any kind of equitable relief or cognizance is sought.[68] More often the statute simply provides what jurisdiction inferior courts shall have, impliedly excluding all else.[69] By statute, such jurisdictions as those exercised by the bankruptcy courts,[70] courts of probate and the like, often become its decision is necessary to the determination of the case, that the point was raised below, and that the protection of the constitution claimed by the losing party was denied him. Hutchinson & Co. v. Morris Bros. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 870. Mere giving of instruction that verdict might be rendered by nine jurors does not raise constitutional question unless it affirmatively appears from the record that such a verdict was in fact rendered. Id. Where verdict read, "We, the jury," etc., it will be presumed to have been unanimous, in the absence of any showing to the contrary. Id. The burden is on appellant to have the record show that it was not unanimous. Id. Under Const. § 88, where the jurisdiction of the supreme court of appeals depends solely upon the fact that the constitutionality of a law is involved, it cannot decide the case on the merits unless the contention of the appellant on the constitutional question is sustained. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Umstadter, 103 Va. 742, 50 S. E. 259. Appellants cannot invoke the presence of a constitutional question in a cause as a ground for an appeal from the circuit court of appeals to the supreme court, where, if decree disposed of any such question, it was in their favor. Empire State-Idaho Mln. & Developing Co. v. Hanley, 198 U. S. 292, 49 Law. Ed. 1056.

64. See, also, Saving Questions for Review, 4 C. L. 1368. Proper objection and exception to ruling must have been taken. City of Tarkio v. Clark, 186 Mo. 285, 85 S. W. 329; Haag v. Ward, 186 Mo. 325, 85 S. W. 391. Exception must be preserved by bill of exceptions unless point appears in record proper. City of Tarkio v. Clark, 186 Mo. 285, 85 S. W. 329.

65. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Chicago, 217 Ill. 58, 75 N. E. 439.

66. In Illinois, appeals in all cases relating to the public revenue must be taken directly to the supreme court. Practice Act, § 88. Test is whether revenue will be, or is likely to be, increased or diminished as a result of the proceeding. Sumner v. Milford, 112 Ill. App. 623. Appellate court held to have no jurisdiction of bills to enjoin levying tax for local improvements on ground that ordinance under which assessment was made is invalid. Id. Question as to the sufficiency of the cause of action as filed before a justice of the peace in an action to recover a delinquent poll tax of $3 does not involve a construction of the revenue laws so as to give supreme court appellate jurisdiction. State v. Holland, 186 Mo. 222, 85 S. W. 356. A claim that property is exempt from taxation involves the legality of a tax. Monongahela River Consol. Coal & Coke Co. v. Board of Assessors [La.] 39 So. 601.

67. Under Const. art. 109, the district court has jurisdiction in all cases where the title to office is involved, "or other public position even where no specific amount is in contest." Reynolds v. Carroll [La.] 38 So. 470. Issues arising in contest for office. McClenny v. Webb [La.] 38 So. 558. Supreme court has exclusive appellate jurisdiction in cases involving title to an office under the state. Const. art. 6, § 12. State v. Fasse [Mo.] 88 S. W. 1. Office of school director is such an office. Id. Circuit courts have no original jurisdiction of election contests or recounts, nor authority to prevent by writ of prohibition a person claiming to have been elected to an office from taking the same, and assuming and exercising its powers and duties, or the ground of invalidity of the election or ineligibility of the party claiming the office. By awarding writ in such case, judge subjects himself to writ of prohibition from supreme court. Moore v. Holt, 55 W. Va. 507, 47 S. E. 251. By its writ of prohibition a court acquires no jurisdiction of a controversy concerning the title to an office. Id.

68. Superior court has jurisdiction of exceptions of devisees and legatees to the award of arbitrators in an action against an administrator on a claim against the estate of his decedent, though the ground of exception is fraud and collusion practiced on the arbitrators by the parties. Is of legal jurisdiction. Pepper v. Pepper [Del. Super.] 62 A. 232. A city court has no jurisdiction to grant affirmative equitable relief. Ragan v. Standard Scale Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 951. The city court granting such relief its judgment will be reversed. Id. May, however, entertain jurisdiction of an equitable plea purely defensive in its nature, which, if sustained, would result simply in a general verdict in favor of defendant, as the plea of fraud in suit on note. House v. Oliver [Ga.] 51 S. E. 722. Verdict and judgment for defendant in suit on note as effectually cancels note as would a decree in equity, as suit thereon in city court will not be enjoined in order that court of equity may cancel note for fraud. Id. Court of appeals held to have appellate jurisdiction of suit in equity by a firm creditor after the death of one partner against the surviving partner for the settlement of the partnership affairs and to compel survivor to pay back money alleged to have been withdrawn by him after the other partner's death, and to subject the assets to payment of partnership debts, where defendant denied the existence of the partnership, though plaintiff's claim was less than $200. Lapp v. Clark's Adm'r [Ky.] 85 S. W. 717. Equitable action by trustee in bankruptcy to recover a preference is not within the jurisdiction of the city court of city of New York, as defined by Code Civ. Proc. § 315. Dyer v. Kratzenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 1012.

69. See § 9c, post.

70. The circuit court of appeals has no jurisdiction to determine a question of the construction or application of the Federal constitution with reference to the validity of Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, § 38, cls.

exclusive, or at least primary.[71] Special statutory jurisdictions are limited to the occasions and objects contemplated by the statutes.[72]

§ 8. Limitations resting in character or capacity of parties litigant.[73]

§ 9. Original jurisdiction. A. Exclusive, concurrent and conflicting.[74]—When by reason of any of the statutes or rules discussed in the preceding sections, only one court can act authoritatively, its jurisdiction is said to be exclusive.[75] If two or more courts have jurisdiction, either inherent or conferred, this jurisdiction is called concurrent.[76] When of two courts which have concurrent jurisdiction,

2, 4; 30 St. 555, prescribing the jurisdiction of referees in bankruptcy. In re Abbey Press [C. C. A.] 134 F. 51. Circuit court has no jurisdiction of suit in equity against a trustee in bankruptcy to require him to pay over dividends on property claimed by complainant, but sold as assets of the bankrupt estate by the defendant under an order of the court. Cannot interfere with bankruptcy court. Treat v. Wooden, 138 F. 934.

71. Chancery court has complete jurisdiction to determine all matters relating to the administration of estates, and is always open for the hearing of petitions by any one interested asking for the construction of the will of a decedent. Owens v. Waddell [Miss.] 39 So. 459. Though the ordinary jurisdiction of courts of equity over administrations has been taken away and conferred on probate courts or has become obsolete, yet there still remains an auxiliary or supplemental jurisdiction to be exercised in exceptional cases, where the jurisdiction of the probate courts is confessedly inadequate or has been found insufficient. Jurisdiction over purely equitable rights and to administer equitable remedies not taken away merely because interest, right, or remedy grows out of, or is connected with, an estate of a decedent. Lindemann v. Rusk [Wis.] 104 N. W. 119. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 3845, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 7, c. 5, providing that actions may be prosecuted in circuit court against executors when county court cannot afford as adequate or efficient remedy, determination of circuit court that it has jurisdiction will not be disturbed unless clearly erroneous. Id. Circuit court has jurisdiction of suit by executors of deceased director of corporation to wind it up, in which cross bill is filed against executors to recover, as corporate asset, a sum alleged to be due the corporation because of a conversion of its good will by deceased. Id. Circuit court has jurisdiction of bill by administrator of deceased partner against the representatives of another deceased partner, whose estate is in process of settlement in the county court, and a surviving partner, for a partnership accounting, the county court having no jurisdiction either to bring before it, or render judgment against the surviving partner, who was a necessary party. Stehn v. Hayssen [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1074.

72. See post, § 9 C.

73, 74. See 4 C. L. 335.

75. See §§ 4 to 8, ante. Allowance of widow's dower in personalty and extent of her dower in lands, and matters relating to waste and mismanagement of the estate of a decedent during the course of administration are exclusively within the jurisdiction of the probate court. Washington v. Govan [Ark.] 84 S. W. 792. Under Const. art. 6, § 5, giving the superior court original jurisdiction in all cases in equity, and of all special cases and proceedings not otherwise provided for, it has exclusive original jurisdiction of a suit by the district attorney to abate a public nuisance brought under St. 1899, p. 103, c. 88. People v. Wing [Cal.] 81 P. 1103. Under Const. art. 6, § 18, the county courts have exclusive original jurisdiction of proceedings to probate alleged lost wills, and court of equity has no jurisdiction. Beatty v. Clegg, 214 Ill. 34, 73 N. E. 383. The probate court has exclusive original jurisdiction to construe a will when such construction is necessary to the administration of decedent's estate. Appleby v. Watkins [Minn.] 104 N. W. 301. If there be a contest on the filing of an affidavit of inability to pay costs of an appeal or writ of error, and the trial court is not in session, the county judge alone can try the same, but if the trial court is in session, either it or the county judge may do so. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 1401, construed. Accousi v. Stowers Furniture Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 362, 87 S. W. 861. The creation of a tribunal within a political party to settle controversies between several conventions, each claiming to be the legal one, no provision being made for a judicial review of its decisions, necessarily makes its jurisdiction exclusive and its decisions unimpeachable except for jurisdictional defects. State v. Houser, 122 Wis. 534, 100 N. W. 964. Jurisdiction of supreme court limited to deciding whether republican state central committee was or is without jurisdiction because of bias or interest of some of its members, or whether its decision is affected by jurisdictional defects. Id. It being an administrative body, bias or prejudice of some of its members does not affect its jurisdiction. Id. A statute allowing the judge of one court at the request of another court to decide equity matters does not impair the exclusive equity jurisdiction of the latter court. P. L. 208. Morgan v. Reel [Pa.] 62 A. 253.

76. Supreme court of District of Columbia has not concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace in proceedings for the unlawful detainer of realty, and hence right of removal to supreme court by writ of certiorari exists in such case under D. C. Code, § 8. Brown v. Slater, 23 App. D. C. 51. The existence of concurrent jurisdiction in two states over a river which forms a common boundary vests in each state jurisdiction over all matters of state cognizance occurring on any part of the river. The courts of Missouri have jurisdiction of an unlawful sale of liquor on the Illinois side of the channel of the Mississippi. State v. Seagraves [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 925. Under a statute organizing a court of common pleas and giving said court concurrent original jurisdiction in all civil both assume to act, there is a conflict,[77] and the court which has first acquired jurisdiction retains the cause,[78] and it may enforce this by acting on the persons of the litigants,[79] but not by controlling the other court. A state court may entertain a actions at law with the circuit court of the county, said common pleas court has equitable jurisdiction. Oliver v. Snider, 176 Mo. 63. 75 S. W. 591. Superior court has jurisdiction of an action to establish a lost deed the record of which has also been destroyed. Remedy before the clerk under Clark's Code, § 56, not being exclusive. Jones v. Ballou [N. C.] 52 S. E. 254. Equity jurisdiction conferred upon court of common pleas by Act June 2, 1887, § 3, P. L. 310, in regard to certain water company, was for protection of public interests and to insure performance of public duty, and did not abrogate jurisdiction of law courts to adjudicate questions of damage growing out of contract between company and private individuals. Brace v. Pennsylvania Water Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 249. Where state court authorizes plaintiff to sue its receiver in any court of competent jurisdiction, it is no abuse of the rule of comity to bring the action in the Federal circuit court, it appearing from the pleadings that the jurisdictional requirements exist. James Freeman Brown Co. v. Harris [C. C. A.] 139 F. 105. Federal courts have concurrent jurisdiction with state courts to establish claims against estates of deceased persons. Schurmeier v. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 42.

77. The question of conflict between courts of concurrent jurisdiction does not arise where another division of the court first assuming jurisdiction determines another branch of the case. Byrnes v. Byrnes [La.] 38 So. 991. Under Const. 1898, art. 134, the civil district court for the parish of Orleans, though it has several divisions, is but a single court of general jurisdiction. Id. Held too late for one of the heirs who had participated in all the proceedings for the partition of succession property in division C. of the civil district court until after a sale, to bring suit to annul proceedings on ground that at time when judgment was rendered in that division the succession which had been opened in division A. had not yet been closed. Id.

78. Rule applies though second court is one of general and superior jurisdiction, and such cause cannot be transferred to the latter court by certiorari. Applies to cases in which justice and supreme court of District of Columbia have concurrent jurisdiction. Brown v. Slater, 23 App. D. C. 51. Where one has, in good faith, instituted suit for divorce in one circuit court, and process has been issued and placed in hands of sheriff for service, another circuit court cannot assume jurisdiction of another suit for divorce by defendant in former suit. Wells v. Montcalm Circuit Judge [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 301, 104 N. W. 318. Where state court had jurisdiction of parties and subject-matter of suit to wind up affairs of building association prior to a suit for same purpose in Federal court, it had jurisdiction to finally determine the same. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131. The Federal circuit court is of restricted but not of inferior jurisdiction, and if it has jurisdiction over the subject-matter of a particular case it may proceed with the cause, if the requisite facts exist to authorize it to exercise its jurisdiction. Id. Where sheriff who held levy under execution on property of one subsequently declared a bankrupt, on application to the Federal court for taxation of his poundage and charges, was disallowed poundage but allowed costs and charges for keepers, held that he could not thereafter move in state court for taxation of poundage, but his remedy was by appeal in Federal court. Is attempt to review decision of court of concurrent jurisdiction. Johnson v. Woodend, 44 Misc. 524, 90 N. Y. S. 43. Act of district judge in chambers of receiving and considering a petition for the appointment of a receiver for a corporation, held an assumption of jurisdiction over the subject-matter of the suit, and subsequent order appointing a receiver related back to the time when the judge began the consideration of the petition. Judgment of court of concurrent jurisdiction foreclosing attachment lien on property in controversy reversed. Worden v. Pruter [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 461, 88 S. W. 434.

As between state and Federal courts: Federal court having acquired jurisdiction in action at law, state court will not enjoin plaintiff from prosecuting his demands, though items of account involved are so numerous as to endanger a careful consideration by a jury. Shaw v. Frey [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 811. The court which first acquires jurisdiction of specific property by the issue and service of process in a suit to enforce a lien upon it, in which it may be necessary to obtain possession and control of it, retains jurisdiction to the end, free from the interference of any court of co-ordinate jurisdiction. Where state court has acquired jurisdiction over realty in controversy, subsequent proceedings in Federal court will be stayed before property is seized, until proceedings in state court are terminated, or ample time for their termination has elapsed. Williams v. Neely [C. C. A.] 134 F. 1. Where state court has assumed jurisdiction of suit to foreclose railroad mortgage, appointed a receiver, and has power to grant complainants relief with reference to rolling stock on which they claim a lien, etc., Federal court will not assume jurisdiction of bill to enjoin sale of such rolling stock and to protect and enforce such lien. Security Trust Co. of Camden v. Union Trust Co., 134 F. 301. Where the Federal supreme court had allowed an appeal to it from a judgment of a Federal district court denying a writ of habeas corpus asked for in a criminal case and challenging petitioner's conviction on constitutional grounds after affirmance of such judgment by the state supreme court, held, that the Federal courts were the proper tribunals to decide questions concerning custody of the accused pending the appeal and state court would not interfere on petition for writ of habeas corpus to procure a change of custodians. In re Lee Look, 146 Cal. 567, 80 P. 858.

79. Where no Federal question is involved, a state court may restrain a party litigant in a Federal court, over whose person it has bill to restrain the enforcement of a decree or judgment of a Federal court on the ground that it was procured by fraud.[80]

The pendency of another suit in all respects identical is matter of abatement[81] or stay,[82] and in equity relief may be denied or conditions imposed to avoid a possible conflict, even though the suits are distinct or not precisely identical.[83] A noncitizen stockholder may maintain a suit in the Federal courts to restrain the use of the corporate assets in an alleged ultra vires business, and have the matter adjudicated therein, notwithstanding the pendency of prior suits for similar relief in the state courts, all the suits being in personam, and there being no conflict over the proper-jurisdiction, until he shall make such discovery of evidence as the rules of equity require. May compel discovery of matters necessary to fair trial of law action in Federal court, and for that purpose restrain prosecution of latter action pending the discovery, where both parties are residents of same state. Shaw v. Frey [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 811.

80. Keith v. Alger [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 71.

81. See Abatement and Revival, 5 C. L. 1.

82. The pendency in a state court of a prior action between the same parties which involves the same subject-matter as a subsequent action in the Federal court presents no bar, and furnishes no ground for the abatement of the latter action. Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650. Cannot be pleaded in abatement. German Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Tull [C. C. A.] 136 F. 1. Though the state court has, by proper process, secured the custody or dominion of specific property, which it is one of the objects of the suit in the Federal court to subject to its judgment or decree, the latter action should not be dismissed, but it should proceed as far as may be, without creating a conflict concerning the possession of the property, and then be stayed until the proceedings in the state court have been concluded, or ample time for their termination has elapsed. Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

83. See Equity, 5 C. L. 1144.

Illustrations: A court will not entertain an action to recover property in the possession of defendant as receiver of another court unless leave to sue its receiver has been obtained from the latter court (Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 319), and the want of power in the Federal court to entertain such a suit is held to be jurisdictional (Id.). Federal court held not deprived of jurisdiction of suit against assignee of lease to cancel same by reason of the fact that the property covered thereby was in the hands of a receiver appointed by a state court in a similar action, and that leave had not been obtained from the state court to sue him, he not being a party to the action and the judgment in no way interfering with him. Id. A state court, having property in its possession through its receiver, may, in proper case and as a matter of comity, order him to turn it over to the Federal court in aid of the enforcement of its writ, but such an order in an improper case is error. Order pending appeal from judgment in action in which receiver was appointed held erroneous. Id. Purchaser of railroad under decree of foreclosure by Federal court and receiver appointed by such court can be sued in state court for death of passenger while road was being operated by receiver, where decree of foreclosure provides that purchaser shall take property subject to any liability incurred by receiver, and decree appointing receiver provides that he may be sued in any court of competent jurisdiction, particularly in view of Federal statute authorizing suits against receivers appointed by Federal courts without previous leave of court. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Gunning [Colo.] 80 P. 727. In New York the commencement of an action against a receiver without leave does not affect the jurisdiction. Merely constitutes contempt, and action is regular until proceeding is stayed or set aside by the court. Pruyn v. Black, 93 N. Y. S. 995. Action by a trustee in bankruptcy against one holding and claiming as his own money alleged to have been paid by the bankrupt in fraud of creditors may be brought in court of common pleas, since it would have had jurisdiction if bankruptcy had not intervened. Breckons v. Snyder, 211 Pa. 176, 60 A. 575. It is proper for a state court rendering judgment against a receiver appointed by a Federal court to certify such judgment to the latter court to be disposed of as it may see fit. Reardon v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 365. A state court, within the exercise of its jurisdiction over a case properly pending before it, has the power to determine the effect of a judgment and decree of a Federal court, and a conveyance made in pursuance thereof, where rights thereunder are asserted in cases pending before it. Federal court is, however, better qualified to determine these facts. Id. Plaintiff attached realty of defendant in an action in the Federal court. Pending the action, insolvency proceedings were instituted against defendant in a state court, and a receiver was appointed, who sold such attached land, the execution of a conveyance therefor, however, being deferred until final settlement of the insolvent's estate. Subsequently plaintiff recovered judgment in the Federal court, on which execution was issued, but the state court then stayed the sale of the attached property, in a suit by the receivers against the plaintiff and the marshal. Held that, in view of the fact that the attachment of realty does not give the court either actual or constructive possession thereof, the Federal court would not enjoin the receivers from further prosecuting their suit but would await the final determination thereof by the state court. Ingraham v. National Salt Co., 139 F. 684. Where pending a suit by creditors in state court to set aside conveyance as fraudulent and before a decree or pleading by the defendant therein, defendant obtained ty in custodia legis.[84] A court which has the actual custody and possession of property to which another court of concurrent jurisdiction has prior and superior right may lawfully retain the property until the latter court, through its proper officer, requests and offers to receive the actual possession and custody.[85] Where suits are pending between the same parties, which involve the same issues, in two courts of concurrent jurisdiction, it is the first final judgment, although it may be rendered in the second suit, which renders the issues res adjudicata in the other court.[86]

(§ 9) B. Ancillary or assistant.[87]—Jurisdiction having attached or being in process of acquisition by a court having jurisdiction, other courts in other places may exercise ancillary or assistant jurisdiction, and the court of principal jurisdiction may also exercise it.[88] An ancillary or assistant jurisdiction can be exercised only where there is, or can be, a principal jurisdiction.[89]

A court having jurisdiction of appeals in criminal cases has by reason thereof appellate jurisdiction of actions to enforce recognizance and appearance bonds given by the defendants in such cases,[90] but not of proceedings to revive a cost judgment against a prosecuting witness.[91]

(§ 9) C. General or inferior, limited and special jurisdiction.[92]—General jurisdiction is that which is not within the territorial bounds limited as to nature of subject-matter, amount in controversy, or character of parties.[93] The fact that a reconveyance of the property and executed a deed of homestead thereon in accordance with the state law, and was thereafter declared a bankrupt, held, that the pendency of the suit in the state court did not deprive the bankruptcy court of jurisdiction nor relieve it of the duty to determine the claim of the bankrupt to his homestead exemption, since such question was not at issue in such suit. In re Allen & Co., 134 F. 620. Where, pending action in Federal court against state bank, assignee was appointed by state court under Pub. St. N. H. 1891, c. 62, in whom assets were vested, held, that Federal court would not interpose summarily by denying execution to plaintiff which might be prejudicial to his rights, in view of the uncertainty of the rights of the parties under such statute, and the fact that defendant has clear remedy at common-law against wrongful enforcement of judgment. Anglo-American Land Mortg. & Ag. Co. v. Cheshire Provident Inst., 134 F. 152.

84. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. Quinby [C. C. A.] 137 F. 882.

85. State and Federal courts. Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

86. Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650.

87. See 4 C. L. 337.

88. Federal circuit court has no jurisdiction of bill which seeks to reach and distribute to those entitled thereto the proceeds of a sale of land to the government on the theory that it is ancillary to an action at law to recover such land from the United States, in which the rival claimants united in procuring final judgment in favor of two of their number, under an agreement that the proceeds of the sale were to be distributed by arbitration. Suit is one on contract. Stillman v. Combe, 197 U. S. 436, 49 Law. Ed. 822.

89. The superior court has no jurisdiction to condemn land for a road, where the county commissioners have no jurisdiction to establish it because of defects in the petition therefor. Chelan County v. Navarre [Wash.] 80 P. 845.

90. Since an appeal in a criminal case in which defendant is charged with a felony lies to the supreme court, proceedings by scire facias to enforce a recognizance bond given by defendant in such a case are within the appellate jurisdiction of that court regardless of the amount involved, they being regarded as merely a continuation of the criminal proceeding. State v. Epstein, 186 Mo. 89, 84 S. W. 1120. The supreme court has jurisdiction of an appeal from a judgment forfeiting an appearance bond regardless of the amount involved, if the bond was given in a criminal proceeding within its jurisdictional power. Matter of the forfeiture is regarded as attached to the prosecution, and this rule may perhaps apply in case of a proceeding to set aside a judgment of forfeiture. State v. Cox [La.] 38 So. 456. Where appearance bond for $300 is adjudged forfeited in a prosecution in which a nolle prosequi is subsequently entered, and in which it would be necessary that the maximum penalty should be imposed in order to entitle the defendant to appeal to the supreme court, no appeal lies to that court from a judgment dismissing a rule to set aside the forfeiture. Id.

91. Proceeding to revive a cost judgment against a prosecuting witness in a criminal proceeding before a justice of the peace is a civil proceeding, and no constitutional question being involved, the supreme court has no appellate jurisdiction where judgment is for less than the jurisdictional amount. State v. French [Mo.] 87 S. W. 451.

92. See 4 C. L. 338.

93. Cyc. Law Dict. "General Jurisdiction." District court has jurisdiction of suit to restrain enforcement of judgment of county court on the ground that it was obtained through fraud and conspiracy. People v. District Court of Third Judicial Dist. [Colo.] 79 P. 1024. Circuit courts of Florida are courts of most general jurisdiction, and the

the parties see fit to include two legally distinct causes of action in one cause does not make them so dependent one upon the other that jurisdiction of the supreme court over the former carries with it jurisdiction over the latter.[94] In Texas the jurisdiction of district courts in the administration of the estates of deceased persons is appellate only.[95]

Statutes conferring jurisdiction upon inferior courts are strictly construed and will not be aided by construction or extended by inference or implication beyond their express terms.[96] The jurisdiction of probate,[97] justice,[98] city,[99] municipal,[1] amount involved being sufficiently large, and the parties being before the court, all bona fide transitory actions are within its power to hear and determine. Putnam Lumber Co. v. Ellis-Young Co. [Fla.] 39 So. 193. District court has jurisdiction of quo warranto proceedings instituted by attorney general to have franchise of municipal corporation declared void, and when he exhibits information to such court it must direct writ to issue as matter of course. Has no discretion. State v. Kent [Minn.] 104 N. W. 948. Even if court has any discretion it exhausts it when it exercises it upon the preliminary application for leave to file the information, but it is not thereby deprived of the right to dismiss the proceedings if it subsequently appears that it acted improvidently or through inadvertence and under a misapprehension of the facts. Id. The district court has jurisdiction to assign dower, it being a matter of which the common law courts had jurisdiction. Swobe v. Marsh [Neb.] 102 N. W. 619.

94. F. sued C. for sum less than $1,000 for breach of warranty of title to land and made B., under whose judgment he had been evicted, a party. C. pleaded in defense, and also pleaded cause of action against B. in his own behalf for foreclosure of a lien on the lot. Held, that two causes of action were legally distinct and supreme court had no appellate jurisdiction over that between F. and C., though it had over that between B. and C. Brown v. Gates [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 179, 87 S. W. 1149.

95. Its jurisdiction only extends to determination of questions presented by the appeal. Levy v. Moody & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 205. Cannot, on appeal from order of county court removing an administrator, order a sale of the property of the estate. Id.

96. Probate court is a court of special jurisdiction which has only such powers as are expressly granted or can be reasonably and necessarily implied from some express provision. Richardson v. Daggett, 24 App. D. C. 440. The New York city court is a court of limited jurisdiction, having only such powers as have been conferred upon it by statute. Dyer v. Kratzenstein, 92 N. Y. S. 1012.

97. District of Columbia: Probate court has no power to determine question of title between the estate and persons in possession of personal property claiming ownership thereof. Richardson v. Daggett, 24 App. D. C. 440. D. C. Code, § 122, providing for proceedings in the probate court for the discovery of concealed assets, does not confer any such power. Id.

Illinois: County court is not vested with general equitable powers. Hurd's Rev. St. p. 1274, c. 95, par. 23, giving judge of county court authority to issue an order directing the county court to seize household goods covered by a chattel mortgage, does not confer jurisdiction on county court to entertain proceeding to foreclose such mortgage, but circuit court is proper place in which to bring such proceedings. Summers v. Robinson, 116 Ill. App. 489. The equitable jurisdiction of county and probate courts does not include the power to reform a written instrument under seal so as to vary or qualify the language used therein, or to declare a deed absolute upon its face to be a mortgage. Rook v. Rook, 111 Ill. App. 398.

Massachusetts: Probate court has jurisdiction to hear and determine whether inheritance tax is payable and the amount to be paid. Bradford v. Storey [Mass.] 75 N. E. 256.

Nebraska: The county court has jurisdiction to assign dower only when the right thereto is not disputed by the heirs and devisees, or any persons claiming under them or either of them. Swobe v. Marsh [Neb.] 102 N. W. 619.

New York: Surrogate has no power to construe a will in a proceeding and at a time when such construction is not incidental to any power conferred by statute. In re Burdick's Will, 98 App. Div. 560, 90 N. Y. S. 161. May do so whenever it is necessary to accomplish distribution in an accounting in the surrogate's court, though the disposal of the proceeds of realty is involved. In re Keogh, 95 N. Y. S. 191. Cannot determine the validity of a disputed assignment of an interest in the estate of a decedent. In re Losee's Estate, 46 Misc. 363, 94 N. Y. S. 1082.

Ohio: Probate court is without jurisdiction in a proceeding by a municipality to appropriate land to determine whether the preliminary resolution was passed. Erie R. Co. v. Youngstown, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 332.

Oklahoma: By the organic act all chancery power is vested in the district and supreme courts respectively, and the probate courts do not possess such power. Cannot appoint receiver. Garrett v. London & L. Fire Ins. Co. [Okl.] 81 P. 421.

Pennsylvania: Orphans' court, by virtue of its equity powers, has authority to determine title to money deposited in the name of decedent which is claimed by a third person. In re Crosetti's Estate, 211 Pa. 490, 60 A. 1081. Under Pa. Act June 16, 1836, § 19 (P. L. 792), giving orphans' court jurisdiction over all cases wherein executors may be possessed of or are in any way accountable for any real or personal estate of a decedent, that court has jurisdiction to compel a surviving partner, who is also an executor of his deceased partner's estate, to account for his deceased partner's interest in the firm.

and other inferior courts is fixed by statute, and varies in the different states.[2] The New York court of claims has jurisdiction to hear and determine any private claim against the state, filed within the proper time.[3]

Moore v. Fidelity Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 1, afg. 134 F. 489.

Texas: County court is a court of general jurisdiction with reference to probate matters, and its orders are binding on collateral attack unless the record shows want of jurisdiction to make it. Wallace v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 824, 89 S. W. 432. Proceeding to compel executor to correct his inventory of the estate so as to include property belonging to the estate alleged to be in his possession which he failed to embrace therein is not an action for debt against him so as to be beyond the jurisdiction of the county court, but was within its probate jurisdiction under Const. art. 5, § 16; Rev. St. 1895, art. 1840; Batts' Ann. Civ. St. arts. 1973-1975. Moore v. Mertz [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 312. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 24, § 557, and c. 37, § 93, county court has jurisdiction to confirm a special assessment and to entertain an application for judgment and order of sale at a probate term. People v. Brown, 218 Ill. 375, 75 N. E. 989.

98. Action against sheriff for damages for nonperformance of an official duty, and to recover penalty imposed by law, not an action on contract within Code Civ. Proc. § 66, subd. 1, fixing the jurisdiction of justices of the peace. Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695.

99. Alabama: Under Acts 1863, pp. 122, 123, city court of Montgomery has jurisdiction of summary proceedings under Code 1896, §§ 3763-3767, 3810, 3811, against an attorney residing within its territorial jurisdiction, for failure to turn over money collected by him as attorney for the state. McDonald v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 257. Facts set forth in notice and motion held to have given court jurisdiction of subject-matter for statutory purpose of a summary judgment. Id.

Georgia: City court of Americus has jurisdiction to foreclose a lien in favor of the proprietor of a sawmill on the product of the mill for work done on material furnished by another, at least where the principal of the amount claimed does not exceed the jurisdiction of the county court. Acts 1900, p. 93, § 2, and Civ. Code 1895, § 5842 construed. Chambliss v. Hawkins [Ga.] 51 S. E. 337.

1. New York municipal court has no equitable jurisdiction, except that in summary proceedings a person to or against whom a precept is issued may set up an equitable defense. Laws 1902, p. 1490, c. 580, § 2, subd. 2. Kraus v. Smolen, 92 N. Y. S. 329. Cannot reform written instruments. Id. Has no jurisdiction of equitable action to rescind contract. Bellettiere v. Lawlor, 93 N. Y. S. 471. Action by trustee in bankruptcy to recover debt alleged to be due bankrupt, in which alleged assignee of claim was substituted as defendant, held not one in equity. Reichardt v. American Platinum Works, 94 N. Y. S. 384. In action for conversion based on levy on property under execution issued against third person, held, that court did not, in view of the evidence, exercise the powers of court of equity in declaring bill of sale under which plaintiff claimed to be fraudulent, the issue as to whether sale was made in good faith being one of fact. Milella v. Simpson, 94 N. Y. S. 464. Has no jurisdiction of actions to enforce attorneys' liens. Flannery v. Geiger, 92 N. Y. S. 785. Action held one on plaintiff's retainer as for money had and received by defendant to his use, and not one to enforce his lien. Id. Has jurisdiction of actions on judgments only when they were rendered by courts not of record. Laws 1902, p. 1488, c. 580, § 1, subd. 6. Muttart v. Muttart, 93 N. Y. S. 468. Has none of action on judgment of New Jersey court of chancery. Id. Under Laws 1902, p. 1533, c. 580, § 139, has no jurisdiction of actions on contracts of conditional sale of personalty, or of hiring of personalty when title does not vest in the person hiring until the payment of a certain sum, or on chattel mortgages given to secure the purchase price of chattels. Fidelity Loan Ass'n v. Connolly, 92 N. Y. S. 252. Does not apply to chattel mortgage to secure a loan. Id. Action by vendee of piano to recover instalments paid, as authorized by Laws 1897, p. 541, c. 418, § 116, as amended by Laws 1900, p. 1624, c. 762, after vendor's assignee had recovered possession of the piano in replevin for nonpayment of instalments due, is action for money had and received and not one arising on contract of conditional sale of personalty. Woodman v. Needham Piano & Organ Co., 94 N. Y. S. 371. Has no jurisdiction of actions for assault. Laws 1902, p. 1487, c. 580, § 1, subd. 14. Rein v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 636. Action by passenger against street railway for damages for assault by conductor held action for negligence and not for assault and battery. Arkin v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 95 N. Y. S. 913. Since action for breach of contract of carriage lies for assault by conductor on passenger, plaintiff in action for assault may amend his pleadings so as to make it an action on contract, and where proof warrants recovery therefor, pleadings will on appeal be treated as so amended (Laws 1902, c. 580, §§ 166, 326), and municipal court will be held to have had jurisdiction. Rein v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 94 N. Y. S. 636. Complaint held to state cause of action for assault and battery and false imprisonment and not one for breach of contract of carriage. Busch v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 93 N. Y. S. 372.

2. Alabama: Provision of Act Dec. 5, 1900 (Acts 1900-01, p. 107), conferring jurisdiction of all cases formerly triable in county court of Walker county on the newly created Walker county court of law and equity, held germane to the title. Norvell v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 357. Even if that part of the act abolishing the county court of Walker county is not a matter referable to or embraced in the subject of the act as expressed in the title, that part of it which creates the new court is valid. Id.

Indiana: Mayor, being given the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace within the city

(§ 9) D. Original jurisdiction of courts of last resort.[4]—This includes the prerogative common-law jurisdiction necessary to the proper control and supervision of the courts below,[5] and in its more common sense includes such as the constitution and statutes enumerate.[6] Except in these cases their jurisdiction is appellate only.[7]

(Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 3497), has jurisdiction of bastardy proceedings against a resident of the city under Id. §§ 990, et seq. Evans v. State [Ind.] 74 N. E. 244. Commissioners' courts have limited powers, and only such jurisdiction as is expressly conferred by statute, or necessarily implied to enable them to carry out the powers expressly granted. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5653a, their power is restricted to tiling public open drains already constructed, and they have no power to direct the construction of a tiled drain in new territory. Kemp v. Adams [Ind.] 73 N. E. 590. It is immaterial that the want of jurisdiction relates only to a part of the proposed drain, where it was acted upon as an entirety. Id.

Kentucky: The fiscal court having no jurisdiction over the assessment of property, it has no authority to buy plats to aid the assessor in making assessment. Jefferson County v. Young [Ky.] 86 S. W. 985.

New Jersey: Small cause court has no jurisdiction to try claim of property taken under a distress warrant. P. L. 1903, p. 270, § 62, construed. Bulkley v. Wilkinson [N. J. Law] 60 A. 953.

Ohio: Common pleas court is without jurisdiction over receivers appointed by the probate court to take care of property involved in common pleas suit. American Eng. Spec. Co. v. O'Brien, 2 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 550.

3. Code Civ. Proc. § 264. Litchfield v. Bond, 93 N. Y. S. 1016. Of claim for damages due to cutting of trees by state engineer while making survey pursuant to a statute (Laws 1902, p. 1125, c. 473), though act did not authorize entry on private property, or provide for compensation for so doing. Id.

4. See 4 C. L. 339.

5. See, also, Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121, and the titles of the prerogative writs such as Mandamus, 4 C. L. 506; Prohibition, Writ of, 4 C. L. 1084; Quo Warranto, 4 C. L. 1177, etc. In the absence of apparent jurisdiction over a cause in any appellate court, the supreme court has, under its supervisory jurisdiction, the authority to instruct the court of original jurisdiction, the district court, to reinstate a case dismissed for want of jurisdiction if it is manifest that the court has jurisdiction. Reynolds v. Carroll [La.] 38 So. 470. Where the only issues submitted to the supreme court for decision on an application for a writ of prohibition and certiorari have become abstract questions, or affect, at the utmost, matters over which, presumptively, the court of appeal has appellate jurisdiction by reason of the amounts likely to be involved, the supreme court will not presently take jurisdiction over the matter. Albert Mackie Grocery Co. v. Pratt [La.] 38 So. 250. The fact that two suits for divorce, one by the husband and one by the wife, in which conflicting orders have been made, are pending in different circuit courts, is not ground for a writ of mandamus to settle the conflict in jurisdiction (Wells v. Montcalm Circuit Judge [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1001), but prohibition is the proper remedy to settle the conflict, and to vacate the orders improperly granted (Wells v. Montcalm Circuit Judge [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 301, 104 N. W. 318). In the absence of express statutory power, or a provision giving them general powers of supervision and control over inferior courts, appellate courts have no authority to issue writs of prohibition or mandamus to inferior courts or judges except in aid of appellate jurisdiction. Dunn v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 665, 88 S. W. 532. The court of civil appeals has only such appellate jurisdiction as is conferred on it by law. Id. Has no power to issue writ of prohibition to restrain defendants from asserting rights under restraining order issued by judge of district court. Const. art. 5, § 6, and Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, arts. 997, 1000, construed. Id. Has no power by mandamus to compel judge to proceed to trial of cause pending before court on motion for new trial, in absence of showing that court has been requested to act on motion or has refused to do so. Id. Provision of art. 1000 that court may issue writ to compel district judge to proceed to trial and judgment "agreeably to the principles and usages of law" refers only to procedure in appellate court. Id. The writ of mandamus cannot be made a substitute for an appeal or writ of error, particularly where the court from which it is sought is given no revisory control over that against which it is asked. Not from supreme court to court of civil appeals. Smith v. Conner [Tex.] 84 S. W. 815.

6. California: The supreme court is the only tribunal which can determine the amount of the salary of the justices of the district courts of appeal. Harrison v. Colgan [Cal.] 81 P. 1010. While the supreme court has both original and appellate jurisdiction of disbarment proceedings, it will decline to entertain the accusation as an original proceeding except when the prosecution has been instituted by a bar association, or other public body, in the public interest. Has jurisdiction under Code Civ. Proc. § 287. In re Ashley, 146 Cal. 600, 80 P. 1030. When the accuser is a private person alleging misconduct prejudicial to himself, it is more convenient and appropriate that the proceeding should be instituted and the issues tried in the superior court of the county where the misconduct is alleged to have occurred, and where it is presumed the witnesses reside. Id. District courts of appeal have exclusive power to admit persons to the bar. Act Feb. 15, 1905. Supreme court has no original jurisdiction, and contested application originating in that court will be transferred to proper district court of appeal. In re Hovey [Cal.] 80 P. 234.

Massachusetts: The supreme judicial court has power to terminate a trust in proper cases. Welch v. Trustees of Episcopal Theological School [Mass.] 75 N. E. 139.

Minnesota: The supreme court has original jurisdiction to issue writs of quo warranto subject to such regulations and conditions as it may prescribe. Const. art. 3, § 1, Gen. St. 1894, § 4823. State v. Kent [Minn.] 104 N. W. 948. An application therefor will not be granted if there is a remedy in some other court which is at all adequate, unless under special and exceptional circumstances, as where there will be great injury and inconvenience to the public by reason of the delay incident to commencing suit in the lower court and awaiting a final determination on appeal. Id. The court may exercise its discretion and refuse to order the writ to issue even in a case which comes within the conditions specified. Leave to file information will be denied, if in judgment of court application should have been made to district court. Id.

§ 10. Appellate jurisdiction[8] depends on the existence of a judgment or order of which the court below has jurisdiction[9] and which by the common law or the statutes is independently of other judgments subject to review.[10] The distribution

Missouri: The supreme court has power to interfere by certiorari to prevent the court of appeals from exceeding its jurisdiction. Const. Am. 1884, § 8. As where it attempts to enter final judgment in a case pending before it on appeal from an order dissolving a temporary injunction. State v. Smith [Mo.] 86 S. W. 867.

South Dakota supreme court has original jurisdiction of actions against the state on claims disallowed by the auditor. Michel Brewing Co. v. State [S. D.] 103 N. W. 40. If an issue of fact arises which the court shall deem necessary to be tried by jury, it is required to certify it to the circuit court for that purpose. Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 27. Id. The parties cannot, after such issues have been so certified with directions that they be tried by a jury, waive a jury, and by consent confer on the circuit court jurisdiction to try them. Id.

Washington: The supreme court has original jurisdiction to issue writs of prohibition only for the purpose of restraining unauthorized judicial and quasi judicial power. Mandatory injunction applied for to prohibit land commissioner from delivering proposed lease of public land and to compel him to advertise a lease of such land for sale at public auction, held in effect a writ of prohibition to prevent act which was neither judicial nor quasi judicial, and supreme court had no original jurisdiction to grant it. State v. Ross [Wash.] 81 P. 865.

Wisconsin: The original jurisdiction of the supreme court extends to all judicial questions affecting the sovereignty of the state, its franchises or prerogatives, or the liberties of the people. Controversy as to which of two bodies was the regular republican convention, and which of two sets of claimants was entitled to place on ballot as republican nominee. State v. Houser, 122 Wis. 534, 100 N. W. 964. Controversy held to be of so grave a character and of such public importance as to warrant court in exercising such jurisdiction. Id. In Texas the raising of an issue of fact deprives the supreme court of original jurisdiction. Gordon v. Terrell [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 320, 89 S. W. 1052.

7. Arkansas: Supreme court on appeal from a decree annulling a street railway franchise has no authority to restrain city from interfering with tracks pending proceedings to determine company's rights under an ordinance, that being a provisional relief to be awarded by the court in which such proceedings are instituted, subject to review on appeal. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. North Little Rock [Ark.] 88 S. W. 1026.

Georgia: The supreme court has no original jurisdiction, but is a court alone for the trial and correction of error. Civ. Code 1895, § 5836. In absence of any statutory provision, has no authority to try a traverse to a return of service of a bill of exceptions, or to refer to trial court the issue of fact as to truth of such return, but writ of error will not be dismissed where bill and entries thereon show jurisdiction of supreme court. Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15.

Kentucky: The jurisdiction of the court of appeals is appellate only, and it has no original jurisdiction to appoint a receiver to take charge of property involved in cases before it, or to grant restraining orders to protect the rights of parties. Dupoyster v. Ft. Jefferson Imp. Co.'s Receiver [Ky.] 89 S. W. 509. Allowance to wife's attorney in divorce suit cannot be made in the first instance by the court of appeals, but can only be reviewed by it after having been made in the circuit court. Muir v. Muir [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1070.

Missouri: On appeal from an order dissolving a temporary injunction, the jurisdiction of the court of appeals is wholly appellate, and it has no power to dispose of the whole case and direct a final judgment. That would involve an exercise of original jurisdiction. State v. Smith [Mo.] 86 S. W. 867.

8. See 4 C. L. 340. See, also, Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

9. District court, in so far as justice court is concerned, is an appellate court, and has no original jurisdiction in any action appealed from that court, and hence its jurisdiction in such case depends upon that of the justice court. Brown v. Braun [Ariz.] 80 P. 323. If justice's court has no jurisdiction of the subject-matter, district court acquires none on appeal to it. Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695. Where the objection goes to the jurisdiction of the original tribunal over the subject-matter, the judgment is void, and the appellate tribunal acquires no jurisdiction of the merits on an appeal. Bickford v. Franconia [N. H.] 60 A. 98. Proceedings may be quashed on motion or dismissed. Id. The supreme court has no jurisdiction of a case removed to it from the court of civil appeals by writ of error where the latter court had none. Because appeal bond was not filed in time. El Paso & N. E. R. Co. v. Whatley [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 186, 87 S. W. 819.

10. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 130, 146. Appellate jurisdiction is usually confined to the review of actions or proceedings. Court of appeals has no power to review order of appellate division affirming order of county court denying motion to set aside presentment of grand jury censuring board of supervisors, it not being a motion in an

of this jurisdiction as between reviewing courts is fixed by statute where there are courts of intermediate and final or limited appellate and general appellate jurisdiction, and each statute must be consulted, since no general rule can be laid down.[11] Whether the jurisdictional facts exist in the particular case and the tests thereof are considered in preceding sections.[12] Appellate jurisdiction ex ratione materiae is confined to the judgment disposing of such subject-matter and does not follow into litigation consequent on the judgment,[13] but extends to all matters involved in the appeal.[14] In certain classes of cases courts of intermediate appeals are given final jurisdiction, and as to such it is exclusive of the courts of last resort.[15]

In states which have intermediate appellate courts they are required to certify to the court of last resort causes in which their decisions are in conflict with those action or a civil or criminal proceeding authorized by any statute. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 190, 191, and Code Cr. Proc. §§ 515, 533, construed. In re Jones, 181 N. Y. 389, 74 N. E. 226.

11. California: When a case is such that an appeal from the judgment of the lower court would properly be taken to the district court of appeal, a petition to prohibit the proceeding should be addressed to that court. Petition and brief ordered transferred from supreme court. Supreme court held to have had jurisdiction if it chose to exercise it. Collins v. Superior Court [Cal.] 81 P. 509.

Georgia: The supreme court is a constitutional court of limited jurisdiction. Georgia, F. & A. R. Co. v. Lasseter [Ga.] 51 S. E. 15.

Louisiana: Acts 1904, No. 56, providing for transfer of causes from supreme court to courts of appeal, and vice versa, cannot be applied to case appealed to wrong court in which time for appeal to proper court expired before it went into effect, since party in whose favor judgment was rendered had acquired vested right therein which could not be devested by legislation. Spremich v. Maurepas Land & Lumber Co. [La.] 38 So. 827. There is no law authorizing the transfer of an appeal from the district court to the supreme court, and an appeal, so called, brought there in that way, must be dismissed. Town of Leesville v. Hadnot [La.] 38 So. 877. Case appealed to supreme court through mistake transferred to court of appeal under Acts 1904, No. 56, on application and affidavit of appellant's counsel, the amount involved being less than $2,000. Schutten v. Schaffhausen [La.] 38 So. 964.

New York court of appeals has only such appellate jurisdiction as is given it by statute. In re Jones, 181 N. Y. 389, 74 N. E. 226. Under Oswego City Charter, § 63, as amended by Laws 1902, p. 551, c. 207, authorizing mayor to remove for cause anyone appointed to office by him, and providing that accused may appeal to supreme court from judgment of conviction, an appeal lies to the special term and not to the appellate division. O'Neil v. Mansfield, 95 N. Y. S. 1009.

New Jersey: Under its constitutional and prerogative powers to review the proceedings of all special statutory proceedings, the supreme court may review by certiorari the action of the common council of a city in declaring vacant a seat of one of its members, though charter makes council sole judge of the election, return, and qualification of its members. Meachem v. Common Council of New Brunswick [N. J. Law] 62 A. 303.

North Carolina: Superior court has no jurisdiction to entertain appeal from order of county commissioners ordering clerk to make out receipt for taxes in accordance with corrected return on refusal to accept return made by taxpayer, or to enter judgment for such taxpayer for amount of taxes paid by him under protest, proper proceeding being by suit in justice court. Murdock v. Iredell County Com'rs, 138 N. C. 124, 50 S. E. 567.

Ohio: The circuit court is without jurisdiction to review on error an order of the court of common pleas removing a guardian for cause made on appeal from the probate court. North v. Smith, 5 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 495.

Texas: A judgment of reversal and remand by the court of civil appeals which practically settles that fact may be reviewed by the supreme court on writ of error when the petition for the writ alleges that fact. Where it decides that statute of limitations under which action is not barred is the one applicable. Brown v. Cates [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 179, 87 S. W. 1149. Since action for less than $1,000 for breach of warranty of title to land could have been brought in county court, decision of court of civil appeals on appeal from judgment of district court therein is final. Id.

In Washington, in an action of equitable cognizance, the jurisdiction of the supreme court does not depend on the amount in controversy. Trumbull v. Jefferson County, 37 Wash. 604, 79 P. 1105.

12. See ante, §§ 4-8.

13. Muntz v. Jefferson R. Co. [La.] 38 So. 586. Where, in a case which is appealable to the supreme court, no appeal is taken, that court has no jurisdiction of an appeal from a judgment subsequently rendered, in an injunction proceeding, on a question of costs incurred in such case in the district court, unless the amount involved exceeds $2,000, exclusive of interest. Id.

14. Constitutional provision giving court of appeals appellate jurisdiction in actions to abate nuisance gives it jurisdiction over whole and every part of the judgment in such an action, and hence, on appeal from judgment directing abatement and awarding less than $300 costs, it is not deprived of jurisdiction by the subsequent abatement of the nuisance. White v. Gaffney [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1088.

of other like courts, or with those of the court of last resort.[16] The supreme court of California has appellate jurisdiction in all matters pending before a district court of appeal which the supreme court shall order to be transferred to itself for a hearing, and has power to order any cause pending before the supreme court to be heard and determined by a district court of appeal, and vice versa in its discretion.[17] The discretionary power to order a case transferred from the district court of appeal will be exercised for the purpose of securing a proper distribution of cases, uniformity of decision of doubtful questions of law, a uniform construction of the constitution and statutes, and like purposes, but not for the purpose of revising a decision of such court as to the facts shown to exist by the record.[18]

§ 11. Federal jurisdiction. A. Generally.[19]—The supreme court of the United States has original jurisdiction of a controversy between a state and a citizen of another state.[20] A suit against state officers is not one against the state so as to deprive the Federal courts of jurisdiction thereof.[21]

15. See Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 130, 146.

A writ of error from the supreme court of Texas cannot be allowed to review a judgment of the court of civil appeals in any action appealed from a county court, or from a district court when a county court would have had jurisdiction to try it. Rev. St. 1895, art. 996. Not to review judgment on appeal from district court, where suit was for $1,000, exclusive of interest, and hence could have been brought in county court. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hall [Tex.] 85 S. W. 786. The court of civil appeals in that state, when acting in cases in which its judgments are made final, is not inferior to the supreme court, but its judgments are as final and conclusive and as much to be respected by the supreme court as are its own. Smith v. Conner [Tex.] 84 S. W. 815.

16. Missouri: Under the constitution the courts of appeal are required to certify to the supreme court for determination any cause in which any of the sitting judges deems their decision to be contrary to that of any previous decision of one of such courts or of the supreme court. Const. art. 6, as amended 1884, § 6. Ex parte Conrades, 185 Mo. 411, 85 S. W. 160. Cause may be certified when all the judges of a court of appeals regard their decision as contrary to a previous decision of another such court. Rodgers v. Western Home Town Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 186 Mo. 248, 85 S. W. 369. This provision applies to a habeas corpus proceeding instituted in the court of appeals, though the judgment of that court remanding the petitioner to custody was not determinative of his rights, and he might have thereafter made an original application to the supreme court. Ex parte Conrades, 185 Mo. 411, 85 S. W. 160. Nor is the supreme court deprived of jurisdiction to determine the matter by reason of the fact that since the certification of the cause the petitioner has become discharged by operation of law, owing to the expiration of the session of the municipal assembly by whose authority he was detained. Supreme court's jurisdiction is exercised primarily in such cases to procure uniformity of decision, and not merely to determine the rights of the parties. Id.

In Texas when one court of civil appeals fails to concur with an opinion of another such court, it is required to certify the question to the supreme court for its decision. Acts 26th Leg. p. 170, c. 98. Smith v. Conner [Tex.] 84 S. W. 815. Question decided by court of appeals held not shown to be in conflict with other decisions. Id. The act does not require the certification of questions on which there is a conflict between the opinions of the courts of appeals and those of the supreme court. Mandamus will not lie to compel certification of such questions. Id. A conflict requiring certification is not shown by mere differences in judgments as to costs, the allowance of costs being largely discretionary and depending on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. Id. The supreme court has jurisdiction of a case in which the judgment has been reversed and the cause remanded, when a court of civil appeals overrules its own decisions or those of another court of civil appeals, or of the supreme court. Rev. St. 1895, art. 941, subd. 5. Red River, T. & S. R. Co. v. McKerley [Tex.] 86 S. W. 921. It is not necessary in such case that the later decision expressly overrule the former one, but there must be an irreconcilable conflict between the two. Cases held distinguishable, and application for writ of error dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Id.

17. Const. art. 6, as amended in 1904, § 4. Order of transfer from court of appeal may be made before judgment has been pronounced therein, or within thirty days after such judgment shall have become final therein. Statute does not give a right of appeal from district to supreme court, or anything equivalent thereto. People v. Davis [Cal.] 81 P. 718.

18. People v. Davis [Cal.] 81 P. 718.

19. See 4 C. L. 343.

20. Suit by attorney for a state who was resident of the District of Columbia, against the secretary of the treasury and the governor of such state, to which the state itself was not a party, in which plaintiff asserts his right to a lien on the papers of his client, including a warrant given to him in settlement of a claim of the state against the government, and seeks to enjoin the cancellation of such warrant and the issuance of a duplicate, is not a controversy between a state and a citizen of another state. In re Commonwealth of Mas-

The Federal courts inferior to the supreme court can exercise only such jurisdiction and powers as are expressly conferred on them, and cannot take jurisdiction by mere intendment or implication.[22] Since their jurisdiction depends upon the constitution and laws of the United States, it cannot be limited or restricted by state legislation.[23] The elements of Federal jurisdiction being present, a right of action created or enlarged by the laws of a state and made enforceable in its courts of general jurisdiction is equally enforceable in the Federal courts sitting in that state;[24] but notwithstanding the procedure prescribed by the laws of the state, the enforcement in the Federal courts can be by suit in equity only where there is not a plain, adequate, and complete remedy at law according to the distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity prevailing in those courts.[25]

A Federal court, exercising a jurisdiction apparently belonging to it, may thereafter, by ancillary suit, inquire whether that jurisdiction in fact existed.[26] It may protect the title which it has decreed as against everyone a party to the original suit, and prevent such a party from relitigating the questions of right which have already been determined.[27]

The general restrictions of the constitution governing the exercise of jurisdiction by the Federal courts within the various states have no operation in the District of Columbia.[28]

The Federal circuit courts have jurisdiction of all common-law suits where the United States, or any officer thereof, under authority of any act of congress, is plaintiff, regardless of the amount involved.[29] It has, however, been held that this does sachusetts, 196 U. S. 482, 49 Law. Ed. 845.

21. Suit against a state corporation commission to enjoin enforcement of order alleged to be void as an interference with interstate commerce is not one against the state, and is within the jurisdiction of a Federal court. Southern R. Co. v. Greensboro Ice & Coal Co., 134 F. 82.

22. United States v. Barrett, 135 F. 189. The jurisdiction of the United States circuit court is limited in the sense that it has no jurisdiction except that conferred by the Federal constitution and statutes. Knight v. Lutcher & M. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 404; Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10.

23. Alice E. Min. Co. v. Blanden, 136 F. 252. Thus a nonresident creditor may establish his claim in the Federal courts against the personal representatives of his deceased debtor, the requisite amount and diversity of citizenship appearing, notwithstanding that the laws of the state of the debtor's residence limit the right to establish such claims to proceedings in the proper probate courts of the state. Id. Federal courts have concurrent jurisdiction with state courts. Schurmeier v. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 42.

24. United States Min. Co. v. Lawson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 769.

25. United States Min. Co. v. Lawson [C. C. A.] 134 F. 769. Right of action given by Utah Rev. St. 1898, §§ 2915, 3511, to quiet title to realty without any previous adjudication of the title in an action at law, and without reference to the possession, can be enforced by Federal court of equity when complainant is in possession and defendant is not, or when both parties are out of possession, because in neither case is there an adequate and complete remedy at law. Id.

26. Riverdale Cotton Mills v. Alabama & G. Mfg. Co., 198 U. S. 188, 49 Law. Ed. 1008.

27. Riverdale Cotton Mills v. Alabama & G. Mfg. Co., 198 U. S. 188, 49 Law. Ed. 1008. Where it has decreed a foreclosure in suit in which diverse citizenship was alleged and admitted, and the property was described as lying partly within the state, it may, by ancillary suit, restrain any attack on title of purchaser under the decree by a suit in a state court, brought by a party to the original suit, which proceeds on theory that, by reason of his own untruthful admission of citizenship, the Federal court assumed a jurisdiction which it did not have. Id. One of two corporations bearing the same name but incorporated in different states, will be restrained by an ancillary suit from assailing title of purchaser under decree of Federal court foreclosing a trust deed executed under the common corporate name and describing the property as lying in both states, by a suit in state courts proceeding on theory that corporation which was citizen of same state as plaintiff was real grantor and hence was not and could not have been made a defendant without ousting Federal court of jurisdiction, where purpose of double incorporation was the development of a single plant, and all the proceedings were had on the supposition that there was a single entity, which gave deed as security for its indebtedness. Id.

28. Act March 3, 1887, § 1 (24 Stat. at L. 552, c. 373, Comp. St. 1901, p. 508), providing that no civil suit shall be brought before either the circuit or district court against any person in any other district than that of which he is an inhabitant does not apply to District. Guilford Granite Co. v. Harrison Granite Co., 23 App. D. C. 1.

29. By Act March 3, 1815 (3 Stat. 245, c. 101; Rev. St. § 629, subsec. 3, Comp. St.

not apply where the United States is a mere modal or nominal party, and not a real or substantial plaintiff in the controversy out of which the action arises,[30] though there seems to be authority to the contrary.[31] The provision of the act conferring jurisdiction on the Federal district and circuit courts of certain suits against the United States that such jurisdiction shall not extend to cases brought to recover fees, salary, or compensation for official services of officers of the United States, does not apply to suits to recover disbursements made by a marshal in paying for the services of court bailiffs.[32]

In suits by or against national banks, Federal circuit and district courts have only such jurisdiction as they would have in cases between individuals of the same state.[33] Hence any legal right which a stockholder in such a bank may have to inspect its books may be enforced by mandamus in the state courts,[34] and a state court has jurisdiction to order the transfer of shares of national bank stock by an executrix to a claimant who shows that deceased held them in trust for her.[35] State courts have no jurisdiction to issue attachments against national banks before final judgment.[36]

The jurisdiction of Federal courts over questions involving trademarks is confined to the trademark as registered.[37]

Matters of pure probate, in the strict sense of the word, are not within the jurisdiction of the Federal courts.[38] Where a state law, statutory or customary, gives to the citizens of the state, in an action or suit inter partes, the right to question at law the probate of a will, or to assail probate in a suit in equity, the Federal courts, in administering the rights of citizens of other states or aliens, will enforce such remedies.[39] A Federal court has jurisdiction equally with state courts to enforce 1901, p. 503). Schofield v. Palmer, 134 F. 753. Have jurisdiction of action by receiver of national bank to collect debt due bank, he being an officer of the United States, and the action being one brought under authority of Rev. St. § 5234. Id. Of any controversy in which the United States is plaintiff or petitioner. Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866 (25 St. 433, 1 Rev. St. Supp. 1878, p. 611, Comp. St. 1901, p. 508). United States v. Barrett, 135 F. 189.

30. Does not apply to action on bond of government contractor brought under Act Aug. 13, 1894, c. 280 (28 Stat. 278, Comp. St. 1901, p. 2523) in the name of the United States for the use of one furnishing labor and materials in the prosecution of the work, and court has no jurisdiction unless requisite diversity of citizenship and amount in controversy is shown. United States v. Barrett, 135 F. 189.

31. Circuit court has jurisdiction of action under statute last cited irrespective of amount involved. United States v. Churchyard, 132 F. 82.

32. Act June 27, 1898, c. 503, § 2 (30 Stat. 494; Comp. St. 1901, p. 753). Bailiffs are not officers of the United States. United States v. Swift [C. C. A.] 139 F. 225.

33. 25 Stat. at L. 433, c. 866 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 508). See, also, Banking and Finance, 5 C. L. 347. Guthrie v. Harkness, 26 S. Ct. 4. A suit which may be brought in a circuit court by or against a citizen of a state because it arises under the constitution, laws, or treaties of the United States, may, for the same reason, be brought by or against a national bank located in the same state. George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286.

34. Guthrie v. Harkness, 26 S. Ct. 4.

35. In re Fisher's Estate [Iowa] 102 N. W. 797.

36. U. S. Rev. St. § 5242, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3517. Merchants' Laclede Nat. Bank v. Troy Grocery Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 476.

37. In suit between citizens of same state for infringement of trademark, Federal court has no jurisdiction to determine issue of unfair competition. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Broderick & B. Rope Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 571.

38. See, also, Estates of Decedents, 5 C. L. 1183. Since authority to make wills is derived from the states, and requirement of probate is but a regulation to make a will effective. Farrell v. O'Brien, 199 U. S. 89, 50 Law. Ed. —. Where surviving partner was one of the executors of the estate of his deceased partner, the settlement of which was pending in the probate court of the state, which had full equitable jurisdiction to compel an accounting between the executors and by the surviving partner of the interest of the deceased partner in the firm, bill cannot be maintained in the Federal court by a distributee under the will to compel accounting by such surviving partner, and a payment of the amount found due to the executors for distribution. Moore v. Fidelity Trust Co. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 1, afg. 134 F. 489.

39. Farrell v. O'Brien, 199 U. S. 89, 50 Law. Ed. —. By action or suit inter partes is meant an independent controversy and not a proceeding which is merely ancillary to the original probate, and allowed for the purpose of giving to the probate its ultimate and final effect. Proceeding to contest will under Bal.

liens on the interests of defendants in funds belonging to the estate of a decedent in the hands of an ancillary administrator in the state in which the suit is brought.[40] Whatever action it may take, however, is subject to that of the probate court within its proper jurisdiction.[41] It will not enjoin the local probate court from directing that the funds within its control be remitted to the court of probate of the domicile,[42] but will, on a proper showing, enjoin those whose interests are sought to be reached from receiving any portion of the estate under any order of distribution by either the local probate court or that of the domicile.[43] Its decree in such case is necessarily confined to the property localized within its jurisdiction, though personal judgments may be entered against the defendant, to which the liens are incidental.[44] In the exercise of such jurisdiction the Federal courts administer the law of the state of the debtor's residence under the same rules that control local tribunals in the adjustment of claims against the debtor's estate.[45] Short of intermeddling with the possession of a state court, or controlling the administration, the Federal court may, where the requisite diversity of citizenship exists, grant full relief to one suing to obtain the share of a decedent's estate to which he is entitled.[46] It may, if the requisite amount is in controversy, direct the disposition of trust property over which the probate court has no jurisdiction.[47]

The bankruptcy court has no power to administer exempt property, and a creditor having a claim against such property must prosecute it in the state courts, even though the bankrupt has waived his right to such exemption.[48]

In order that a court of admiralty may have jurisdiction of a suit on a contract, it must be maritime in character;[49] but if maritime in character, the court will inquire into all its breaches and all the damages suffered thereby, however peculiar they may be and whatever issues they may involve.[50] State courts have jurisdiction of an action based on a maritime contract to be performed on the high seas.[51] The Federal district court has jurisdiction to entertain petitions for salvage awards, where the government has been benefitted by the salvage service.[52]

Ann. Codes & St. Wash. §§ 6110-6114, is merely ancillary, and Federal circuit court has no jurisdiction, though there is diverse citizenship Id.

40. Ingersoll v. Coram, 136 F. 689.

41. Decree should declare that nothing therein is intended to or shall contravene any action of any probate tribunal in the state of the domicile with reference to distribution, or to any order or judgment remitting to the courts of the domicile. Ingersoll v. Coram, 136 F. 689.

42, 43. Ingersoll v. Coram, 136 F. 689.

44. In suit in Federal court under Rev. St. § 738. Ingersoll v. Coram, 136 F. 689.

45. Alice E. Min. Co. v. Blanden, 136 F. 252. Where such rules violate no right secured by Federal constitution or statutes. Schurmeier v. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 42.

46. Herron v. Comstock [C. C. A.] 139 F. 370.

47. Where powers and duties of executors under a will are severable, and, prior to the filing of a bill in the Federal court by a beneficiary under the trust, the administration of the personalty by the administrators has been completed, and nothing remains but the management and disposition of the trust, realty remaining unsold for the completion of the trust, such court has jurisdiction to decree an accounting by the trustees and direct final distribution and settlement of the trust, the probate court having no jurisdiction in that regard. Herron v. Comstock [C. C. A.] 139 F. 370. Also has authority to fix compensation of trustees and is not bound by intervening orders of probate court. Id. Ohio Rev. St. 1892, § 6328 only gives probate court authority to settle accounts of testamentary trustees, and does not apply where subject-matter of trust has been drawn into the control of the Federal court by the filing of a bill for settlement and distribution by one of the beneficiaries of the trust. Id.

48. See, also, Bankruptcy, 5 C. L. 367. Trustee in bankruptcy not entitled to exemption of $300, as against creditor who has attached same by attachment execution issued and served within four months prior to the bankruptcy, on a judgment waiving exemption. Sharp v. Woolslare, 25 Pa. Super. Ct 251.

49. See Admiralty, 5 C. L. 35; Shipping and Water Traffic, 4 C. L. 1450. Traffic agreement between railroad company and owner of steamships held not maritime. Graham v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 134 F. 454. Contract on the part of a railroad company to furnish cargoes to libelant and on the part of the libelant to carry them is maritime. Graham v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 135 F. 608.

50. Immaterial that some provisions are not maritime. Graham v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 134 F. 454.

51. Gill v. North American Transp. & Trading Co., 37 Wash. 694, 79 P. 778.

52. Under Act March 3, 1887, c. 359, §§

The circuit court has no jurisdiction of an original proceeding seeking relief by mandamus.[53]

A circuit court may, by final decree, remove any incumbrance or cloud upon the title to real or personal property within the district as against persons not inhabitants thereof, and not found therein, who do not voluntarily appear in the suit.[54] Thus the requisite amount being in controversy, it has jurisdiction of a suit in equity brought by a citizen of a state in which it sits against citizens of other states, to set aside as fraudulently obtained, judgments of a probate court allowing claims against an intestate's estate, which are a lien on his realty situated within the district and inherited by complainants.[55]

State courts have jurisdiction of actions to have declared illegal, as in restraint of trade, combinations to control the sale of copyrighted books, though it may be necessary to construe the rights of the parties under the copyright law.[56]

State courts have no jurisdiction to determine the mineral or nonmineral character of public land while the claims of the respective parties are pending before the Federal land department.[57]

When the jurisdiction of the Federal land department is once set in motion and it is engaged in determining the mineral or nonmineral character of public land, the courts are precluded from trying or determining that question, and its decision is conclusive.[58]

The Federal courts and judges have jurisdiction to discharge, on habeas corpus, prisoners restrained of their liberty in violation of the constitution of the United States under judgments of state courts;[59] but this power should not be exercised where the judgment of the state court under which the petitioner is confined is reviewable by appeal or writ of error, unless in exceptional cases as where the confinement is for an act done or omitted under the constitution or laws of the nation in pursuance of its authority, or under the laws and authority of a foreign government of which the prisoner is a subject.[60] The rule is not changed by the fact that the petition shows that the state court was without jurisdiction of the proceeding in which the judgment was rendered, or that the term of the petitioner's imprisonment will expire before a hearing can be had in the ordinary course of proceedings upon a writ of error or appeal.[61]

The Federal courts are prohibited by statute from staying by injunction proceedings in state courts,[62] except as permitted by the bankruptcy act.[63] If, however,

1-7 (24 Stat. 505, 506; Comp. St. 1901, pp. 752-755), conferring jurisdiction on them over certain claims against the United States. United States v. Cornell Steamboat Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 455.

53. Not under Act March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. at L. 552, c. 373). United States v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co., 197 U. S. 536, 49 Law. Ed. 870. Interstate Commerce Act, §§ 12, 20, does not confer such jurisdiction to compel interstate carrier to make the report which commission is authorized by that act to require. Id.

54. Act March 3, 1875, § 8 (18 Stat. at L. 472 c. 137; Comp. St. 1901, p. 513). McDaniel v. Traylor, 196 U. S. 415, 49 Law. Ed. 533.

55. McDaniel v. Traylor, 196 U. S. 415, 49 Law. Ed. 533.

56. Copyrights not attacked. Straus v. American Publishers' Ass'n, 45 Misc. 251, 92 N. Y. S. 153.

57. Le Fevre v. Amonson [Idaho] 81 P. 71. U. S. Rev. St. § 2326; Comp. St. 1901, p. 1430, in regard to adverse mining claims, confers jurisdiction on state courts only of suits by adverse claimants to same mineral land, but not to determine whether land is mineral or nonmineral, that question being for the land department, and a court has no jurisdiction of a controversy between a mining claimant and a townsite claimant. Wright v. Town of Hartville [Wyo.] 81 P. 649.

58. When protest against grant of patent is filed in land office. Le Fevre v. Amonson [Idaho] 81 P. 71.

59. See, also, Habeas Corpus, 5 C. L. 1615. In re Dowd, 133 F. 747.

60. In re Dowd, 133 F. 747.

61. In re Dowd, 133 F. 747. Petition for writ by one confined for contempt for violation of injunction issued by state supreme court denied. Id.

62. Rev. St. § 720; Comp. St. 1901, p. 581. Decree of circuit court enjoining a party from setting up any claim to the right to use a railroad switch, which the state court the court has jurisdiction by reason of diversity of citizenship and the necessary amount is involved, it may grant relief against a judgment of a state court obtained by fraud, or on other equitable grounds, in any case in which relief could be granted if the judgment were rendered by a Federal court,[64] and in such case a preliminary injunction may be issued against the defendant to prevent the collection of the judgment by execution or otherwise.[65] The act will not be construed to limit the power of Federal courts to restrain parties of whom it has jurisdiction from instituting proceedings in any court.[66] Nor does the rule apply where the Federal court has first acquired jurisdiction of the subject-matter and the parties.[67] Where the Federal court acts in aid of its own jurisdiction, and to protect title conveyed by it in foreclosure proceedings, and to render its decree effectual, it may restrain all proceedings in a state court which would have the effect of defeating or impairing its jurisdiction.[68]

Court of claims.[69]—The jurisdiction of the court of claims is fixed by statute.[70] It has original legal and equitable jurisdiction of all claims arising out of contracts for public work in the District of Columbia,[71] and for work done by the order and direction of the commissioners of the District and accepted by them for its use, purposes, or benefit.[72] Any bill, except those for pensions, providing for the payment of any claim against the United States, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, which is pending in either house of congress, may be referred to it.[73] The has held that he was entitled to use, does not violate the statute, where, since the decision of the state court, the railroad has sold the switch to a private person at whose instance the injunction was obtained. Oman v. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 64, afg. Bedford-Bowling Green Stone Co. v. Oman, 134 F. 441. Does not apply to state corporation commission, though it is made a court of record, which has many nonjudicial powers, especially where acts complained of are not judicial acts. As to them, it is a mere state agency. Southern R. Co. v. Greensboro Ice & Coal Co., 134 F. 82. Applies to prevent issuance of injunction to state court or against parties to suits therein, and prohibition extends to entire proceedings from the commencement of the suit until the execution issued on the judgment or decree is satisfied. Security Trust Co. v. Union Trust Co., 134 F. 301.

63. Court of bankruptcy has jurisdiction to enjoin the prosecution of a bankrupt fireman for neglect of duty looking to his discharge from the department, because of his nonpayment of a debt from which a pending bankruptcy proceeding will discharge him. In re Hicks, 133 F. 739.

64, 65. Lehman v. Graham [C. C. A.] 135 F. 39.

66, 67. Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F. 209.

68. May prevent attack in state court by party claiming that, by reason of his own untruthful admissions of citizenship, the Federal court assumed a jurisdiction it did not have. Riverdale Cotton Mills v. Alabama & G. Mfg. Co., 198 U. S. 188, 49 Law. Ed. 1008.

69. See 4 C. L. 345.

70. If claim for refund of Federal tax illegally collected is allowed by the commissioner of internal revenue, and payment is thereafter refused by the accounting officers, suit may be brought directly against the government in the court of claims. Edison Illuminating Co.'s Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 208. Allowance by commissioner is not simple passing of ordinary claim by an ordinary accounting officer, but an award upon which an action may be based, and which is conclusive unless impeached for fraud or mistake. Id. The appropriation act not delegating to the secretary of the interior power to determine what classes of Indians are entitled to participate in a fund appropriated to pay a judgment against the government, he may seek the aid of the court of claims for that purpose either by applying for a further decree, or by invoking the jurisdiction of the Bowman act. Oneida Indians' Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 116. Court of claims has no authority under jurisdictional act June 28, 1898 (30 Stat. at L. 490) to investigate alleged improper and fraudulent use of a national fund by the Cherokee government. Delaware Indians' Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 234. Court has no jurisdiction, on the petition of full blooded Cherokees, to adjudge and decree redress against the alleged unlawful acts of the Cherokee nation. Id. Act Jan. 9, 1883 (22 Stat. at L. p. 401, § 2), providing that claims for horses lost in the military service which are not filed in the proper department within one year after the passage of the act shall be barred and shall not be considered by any department of the government, does not limit the jurisdiction of the court of claims to claims so filed. Hardie's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 250.

71. Act June 16, 1880. Has equitable jurisdiction to reform contract for street improvements, in order to determine the amount due under the contract to claimant. District of Columbia v. Barnes, 197 U. S. 146, 49 Law. Ed. 699.

72. Act June 16, 1880. May award compensation for work done outside of the original contract. District of Columbia v. Barnes, 197 U. S. 146, 49 Law. Ed. 699.

court has no jurisdiction of any claims referred under this act unless they are claims on which the government is primarily liable.[74]

(§ 11) B. As affected by diversity of citizenship.[75]—The circuit courts of the United States have original jurisdiction of controversies between citizens of the state where the suit is brought and citizens of other states,[76] provided the requisite amount is involved.[77] A state is not a citizen within this rule.[78] The parties to the suit on one side, whether consisting of one or more persons, must have a citizenship different from that of the parties on the other side, whether consisting of one or more persons.[79] Thus a cause cannot be removed to the Federal court where one of the defendants is a citizen of the same state as the plaintiff,[80] unless there is a separable controversy as to the nonresident defendant, in which case it may be removed as to him.[81] Separate and distinct causes of action disclosed by the bill or complaint in a single suit, upon either of which a separate suit could have been maintained, and the determination of neither of which is essential to the determination of the other, constitute separate controversies.[82] In the absence of any pretense of a scheme to defeat the Federal jurisdiction, the question whether a separable controversy exists must be

73. Act March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. at L. 507, § 14). Bellah's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 396. Bill simply directing the secretary of war to investigate concerning the alleged taking or destruction of property, and not providing for the payment of a claim to any beneficiary whatever, is not covered by the act and court has no jurisdiction. Id.

74. Act does not extend to claims for Indian depredations for which tribe is primarily liable, and the government's liability is that of guarantor only. Vincent's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 456. Such claims can be disposed of only in accordance with Act March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. at L. 851). Id.

75. See 4 C. L. 346.

76. Cannot exercise its chancery powers to decide independent controversy between citizens of same state not involving a Federal question. Moore v. Fidelity Trust Co., 134 F. 489, afd. [C. C. A.] 138 F. 1. The fact that an attachment suit in aid of an action at law against a nonresident is equitable in form does not cut off the right of removal where diversity of citizenship exists. Courtney v. Pradt, 196 U. S. 89, 49 Law. Ed. 398.

77. See § 6, ante.

78. A state not being a citizen of any state, an action in which it is the real party in interest cannot be removed to a Federal court solely on the ground of diverse citizenship. Action between state and citizen or corporation of another state. Southern R. Co. v. State [Ind.] 75 N. E. 272.

79. 25 St. 434, § 2; Comp. St. 1901, p. 509. Knight v. Lutcher & M. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 404. Each plaintiff must be competent to sue, and each defendant liable to be sued in such court, or the jurisdiction cannot be maintained. Circuit court has no jurisdiction of suit against several defendants to enjoin the diversion of water from a stream by means of a ditch in which each of defendants owns an interest, where any one of them is a citizen of the same state as complainant. Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10.

80. See, also, Removal of Causes, 4 C. L. 1277. Where the petition in a tort action states a joint cause of action against a resident and a nonresident defendant, the state court has jurisdiction, and the case is not removable. Against a nonresident railroad and a resident engineer. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Proctor [Ky.] 89 S. W. 714; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Houchins [Ky.] 89 S. W. 530. The circuit court has no jurisdiction over an action for injuries brought by a citizen of the state against both a domestic and a foreign corporation, where there is any right of action or any reasonable ground to claim a right of action, against the domestic corporation, and no separable controversy is claimed to exist. Keller v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 135 F. 202.

81. See, also, Removal of Causes, 4 C. L. 1277. If either controversy is wholly between citizens of different states, and can be fully determined as between them, it is removable. Same statutes. Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650. Causes of action to avoid prior mortgages for fraud, and to foreclose junior mortgage held separable, and former, being between citizens of one state on one side and of another state on other side, is removable. Id.

82. Within Act March 3, 1887, c. 373, § 2 (24 Stat. 552), and Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, § 2 (25 Stat. 433; 1 Comp. St. 1901, p. 509). Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650. An action of tort which might have been brought against one or more of several persons but is brought against all of them jointly in a state court, contains no separate controversy which will authorize its removal to the Federal circuit court by some of the defendants, even though they file separate answers, set up separate defenses, and allege that they are not jointly liable and that their controversy is a separate one. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harris [Miss.] 38 So. 225. In action against railroad and a construction company for services under a contract made by plaintiff and the latter, where the citizenship of the latter only was diverse, and plaintiff alleged in a single cause of action that he performed services for the railroad for which the construction company acted as agent, and sought to recover against defendants jointly, held, that complaint did not state severable cause of action, and action was not removable. Lathrop, Shea & Henwood Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., determined from the face of the declaration.[83] Where the complaint does not show a separable controversy, the nonresident defendant does not acquire a right of removal by reason of the fact that, after a bona fide prosecution of the case, the court gives a peremptory instruction in favor of the resident defendant.[84] In a suit against a domestic and a foreign corporation, if the liability of the domestic corporation is fairly debatable, plaintiff has the right to a trial in the state court, unless his conduct in joining such corporation amounts to a fraudulent interference with the jurisdiction of the Federal courts.[85] A contention that the controversy is separable and hence removable cannot be considered where the petition for removal is based on other grounds.[86]

Two citizens of different states may sue a citizen of a third state in the Federal circuit court for the district of the latter's residence.[87] The rule that the circuit court has no jurisdiction on the ground of diverse citizenship where there are two plaintiffs who are citizens of and residents in different states, and the defendant is a citizen of and resident in a third state, and the action is brought in the state in which one of the plaintiffs resides, does not apply to a case involving a local action brought to enforce a claim and settle the title to real estate.[88]

Cases removable on the ground of prejudice and local influence are confined to those in which there is a controversy between a citizen or citizens of the state in which the suit is pending and a citizen or citizens of another or other states.[89]

Residence and citizenship are entirely different things within the meaning of the constitutional and statutory provisions regulating the jurisdiction of the Federal circuit courts.[90] For jurisdictional purposes a national bank is deemed a citizen of the state in which it is located,[91] and a corporation and its members citizens of the state creating it;[92] but this does not apply to partnership associations[93] or joint stock

R. Co., 135 F. 619. No separable controversy in a suit for an undivided half interest in a single tract of land alleged to be wrongfully held by the two defendants. Knight v. Lutcher & M. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 404.

83. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harris [Miss.] 38 So. 225. Declaration, in action for personal injuries against a nonresident railroad company and a resident company using its tracks, held not to show a separable cause of action against the nonresident company. Id.

84. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harris [Miss.] 38 So. 225.

85. Allegations of fraudulent interference held not sustained. Keller v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 135 F. 202.

86. Keller v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 135 F. 202.

87. Under Act March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. at L. 552, c. 373) as corrected by Act Aug. 13, 1888 (25 Stat. at L. 433, c. 866; Comp. St. 1901, p. 508), giving circuit courts original jurisdiction of suits in which there is a controversy between citizens of different states, to be brought in the district of the residence of either the plaintiff or defendant. Sweeney v. Carter Oil Co., 26 S. Ct. 55.

88. Not to suit to partition realty under Bal. Ann. Codes & St. Wash. § 5558. German Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Tull [C. C. A.] 136 F. 1.

89. Does not include cases wherein controversy is partly between citizens of the same state. Act March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. at L. 552, c. 373), as corrected by Act Aug. 13, 1888 (25 Stat. at L. 433, c. 866, § 2; Comp. St. 1901, p. 508), construed. Cochran v. Montgomery Co., 26 S. Ct. 58. It has been held that a defendant who is a citizen of a state other than that in which the suit is brought may remove it for prejudice and local influence, notwithstanding the fact that the plaintiff and some of the defendants are citizens of the state in which the action was commenced (Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650), but this case is apparently overruled by the supreme court case last cited.

90. Steigleder v. McQuesten, 198 U. S. 141, 49 Law. Ed. 986. Evidence held to show that plaintiff was a citizen of Massachusetts, and that her residence in Washington when the suit was brought was merely temporary and without any fixed intention to abandon her citizenship in the other state. Id.

91. Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, § 4 (25 Stat. 436, Comp. St. 1901, p. 514). George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286; Guthrie v. Harkness, 26 S. Ct. 4.

92. As to manner of pleading citizenship of corporations and associations see § 11 D, post. Members. Wells Co. v. Gastonia Cotton Mfg. Co., 198 U. S. 177, 49 Law. Ed. 1003. Corporation. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725. A suit is regarded as one by or against stockholders. Knight v. Lutcher & M. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 404.

NOTE. Citizenship of de facto corporations: A charter provided that a corporation should not have the power to do business until certain conditions were performed. Before having complied, the corpora-companies.[94] The presumption may be overcome by proof.[95] A corporation suing in the Federal courts on the ground of diverse citizenship must prove that it is a corporation of the state alleged, when that fact is put in issue by the answer.[96] If plaintiff is a minor suing by his guardian, his citizenship, and not that of the guardian, controls.[97]

In determining whether diversity of citizenship exists, indispensable parties only should be considered.[98] The positions assigned to the parties by the pleader are immaterial, it being the duty of the court to ascertain the real matter in dispute, to arrange the parties on opposite sides of it according to the facts, and then to determine whether a controversy exists between citizens of different states which invokes its jurisdiction.[99] An arrangement of parties which is merely a contrivance to found a jurisdiction which would not otherwise exist will not be allowed to succeed.[1] The fact that the ultimate interest of a corporate defendant may be the tion brought an action in the Federal court against the defendant for the price of goods supplied, setting forth diversity of citizenship as the ground of Federal jurisdiction. Held, the court did not have jurisdiction, as the corporation must have a de jure existence in order to be a citizen in this regard. Gastonia Cotton Mfg. Co. v. Wells Co. [C. C. A.] 128 F. 369. The question whether a de facto corporation is entitled to standing in a Federal court as a citizen does not seem to have been directly raised. In Tulare Irrig. Dist. v. Shepard, 185 U. S. 1, 46 Law. Ed. 773, and in Commissioners of Douglas County v. Bolles, 94 U. S. 104, 24 Law. Ed. 46, where the action was against the corporation, the court decided against the de facto corporation without looking into the question of jurisdiction. The principal case seems inconsistent with the above case, for if the view therein set forth be adopted, the court in these cases should have disallowed the action. The record would show the absence of jurisdiction, of which fact the court should take notice. Grace v. American Central Ins. Co., 109 U. S. 278, 27 Law. Ed. 932. This view seems to be the logical one.—5 Columbia L. R. 61.

93. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725.

94. A joint stock company, although a legal entity and suable in its own name under state laws, is not a corporation and cannot be deemed to have citizenship. Not for removal purposes. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co., 136 F. 494. Where, prior to filing a petition for removal of a cause against a joint stock company, the state court has acquired full jurisdiction over its person by service of process on its agents as authorized by the state statutes, defendant's nonresident president, on entering an appearance, is not entitled to have the suit removed. He is not the defendant and his citizenship cannot be considered. Id.

95. The presumption that stockholders are citizens of the state creating such corporation does not preclude them from asserting their actual citizenship to sustain the jurisdiction of the Federal circuit court of a suit brought by them as such stockholders. Doctor v. Harrington, 196 U. S. 579, 49 Law. Ed. 606.

96. Incorporators held to have become a corporation for purposes of suit, though there had been no compliance with charter provision allowing it to commence business when a certain proportion of capital stock was subscribed and paid for. Wells Co. v. Gastonia Cotton Mfg. Co., 196 U. S. 177, 49 Law. Ed. 1003.

97. Guardian is a mere protector of plaintiff's interest. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

98. Since all other parties may be dismissed and disregarded if their presence would oust or restrict the jurisdiction or the right. Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650. The joinder of a citizen of the same state as plaintiff as a defendant defeats jurisdiction if he is a necessary or indispensable party, but not if he is a formal party only. White Swan Mines Co. v. Balliet, 134 F. 1004. In suit to establish trust in favor of plaintiff corporation in money alleged to have been embezzled by one of its officers and deposited with defendant, officer is only a formal party. Id. Railroad companies and bank held not necessary parties for specific performance of contract. Cella v. Brown, 136 F. 439. Since under the statutes of Utah a note made payable to the cashier of a bank as trustee, the consideration for which was furnished by the bank, which is the real owner, may be sued on by the bank in its own name; the citizenship of the cashier is immaterial in determining the jurisdiction of a Federal court in an action thereon in that state. Franklin v. Conrad-Stanford Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 737.

99. Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 F. 650; City of Dawson v. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, S. D., T. & T. Co., 197 U. S. 178, 49 Law. Ed. 713.

1. City of Dawson v. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, S. D., T. & T. Co., 197 U. S. 178, 49 Law. Ed. 713. Circuit court has no jurisdiction of suit against municipality by a nonresident mortgagee of a waterworks company to enforce the latter's contract with the city, where the city and the company are citizens of the same state, the interests of the company and the mortgagee are not antagonistic, and the company is made a defendant instead of a plaintiff solely for the purpose of reopening in the Federal courts a controversy which has been decided against the company in the state courts. Id. Suit by nonresident stockholders to restrain defendants from inducing corpora-same as that of the complaining stockholders does not require that it be grouped with them for the purpose of determining whether the necessary diversity of citizenship exists, where the bill alleges that the corporation is under a control antagonistic to complainants and has been made to act in a way detrimental to their rights.[2]

The jurisdiction of the Federal court is not affected by the fact that, after judgment has been rendered, a citizen of the same state as plaintiff appears and seeks to have such judgment opened,[3] nor because, after removal of a cause from a state court on the ground of diversity of citizenship, one of the defendants removes to and becomes a citizen of the state where plaintiff resides.[4] Jurisdiction over a suit by a nonresident stockholder to enjoin the alleged use of corporate assets in an ultra vires business is not affected by the fact that plaintiff is acting with other stockholders who are citizens of the same state as the corporation, and that they contribute to the expenses of the suit.[5]

When a case has been removed on the ground of diversity of citizenship, the Federal court is entitled to pass on all questions, including that of jurisdiction over the subject-matter in the state courts, or the sufficiency of the service of mesne process to authorize the recovery of personal judgment.[6]

No Federal circuit or district court has cognizance of any suit on a promissory note or other chose in action in favor of an assignee, unless such suit might have been maintained by the assignor if no assignment had been made.[7] The act, however, does not apply to a case where the cause of action accrues to the assignee and not to the assignor,[8] nor to a bill by a nonresident stockholder of a corporation, who acquired his stock by assignment from a resident of the state where the corporation is domiciled, to restrain the directors and trustees from using the corporate assets for alleged ultra vires purposes, affecting the interests of all the stockholders,[9] nor to suits on judgments recovered in actions on assigned notes in state courts.[10] The term assignee covers anyone who, by virtue of a transfer to him, can claim the benetion's employes to strike held collusive within equity rule 94, where corporation and employes were citizens of same state, and corporation had already sued in state court. Kemmerer v. Haggerty, 139 F. 693.

2. Doctor v. Harrington, 196 U. S. 579, 49 Law. Ed. 606.

3. Where ejectment was brought in a Federal court in which the requisite diversity of citizenship appeared, and after a judgment against a tenant for a part of the land, his landlord, who was not a party to the suit, appeared and sought to have the judgment opened, the court was not ousted of jurisdiction by reason of the fact that he was a citizen of the same state as plaintiff. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198.

4. Where the requisite diversity of citizenship existed when the action was commenced and at the time of its removal. Lebensberger v. Scofield [C. C. A.] 139 F. 380.

5. Such fact does not make suit collusive within equity rule 94. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. Quinby [C. C. A.] 137 F. 882.

6. Courtney v. Pradt, 196 U. S. 89, 49 Law. Ed. 398.

7. Act March 3, 1887, c. 373, § 1 (24 St. 552), as corrected by Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866 (25 St. 433, Comp. St. 1901, p. 508). Gorman-Wright Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 134 F. 363. Suit of nonresident assignee of non-negotiable note, executed by one national bank to another, both of which were residents of Nebraska, against maker and other defendants, most of whom were also residents of that state, cannot be maintained on ground of diversity of citizenship. George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286.

8. Where, under terms of town vote granting aid to a railroad company, no cause of action therefor ever accrued to the company because it did not complete the road, but did accrue to its receiver or the assignee of his successor who furnished funds for the completion of the road under an assignment of the subscription, the fact that the corporation was of the same citizenship as the town did not deprive the assignee of the right to sue in the Federal court for the amount of such subscription. Paige v. Rochester, 137 F. 663.

9. Right of action is primarily in corporation, and suit is not one to recover the contents of a chose in action. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. Quinby [C. C. A.] 137 F. 882.

10. Judgment creditors of insolvent corporation may sue in Federal court to enforce trust against third person in property alleged to belong to corporation and to have been acquired by defendants in fraud of their rights, where diversity of citizenship appears and requisite amount is involved, though complainants' judgments were recovered in state courts in suits on assigned notes of which Federal court would not have had jurisdiction. Stanwood v. Wishard, 134 F. 959.

ficial interests of the contract.[11] A successor of a receiver is not an assignee.[12] If one of several contracts which are the basis of a suit in equity is clearly within the jurisdiction of the court, it may determine the entire controversy, though the other contracts were acquired by complainant through assignments from persons who could not have sued in such court.[13] If an assignee may sue alone in the Federal courts, he and his assignees may sue together as if no assignment had been made.[14]

(§ 11) C. As affected by existence of Federal question.[15]—A Federal question giving jurisdiction to Federal courts exists whenever a Federal statute,[16] a

11. Pledgee of stock cannot, on account of diverse citizenship existing between him and corporation, sue latter in Federal court for the appointment of receiver, where pledgor is resident of state of which corporation is a citizen. Gorman-Wright Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 134 F. 363.

12. Successor of receiver of railroad who has completed railroad and thereby become entitled to a town subscription. Paige v. Rochester, 137 F. 663.

13. Howe & Davidson Co. v. Haugan, 140 F. 182.

14. Paige v. Rochester, 137 F. 663.

15. See 4 C. L. 348.

16. The circuit courts have jurisdiction of cases arising under the constitution or laws of the United States. Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, § 1 (25 Stat. 434; Comp. St. 1901, p. 514). George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286. Including suits against insolvent national banks which have gone into voluntary liquidation, to enforce specific liens, or to enforce and judicially administer trusts previously created by contract or arising from the insolvency and liquidation proceedings (George v. Wallace [C. C. A.] 135 F. 286), and suits to enforce the liability of the stockholders of such a bank (Id.). Is a suit under the laws of the United States, and also a suit to wind up the affairs of the bank, which is expressly excepted from the Act of Aug. 13, 1888, by § 4 thereof. Id. May also be enforced by bill in nature of creditors' bill in the circuit court under Act June 30, 1876, c. 156, § 2 (19 Stat. 63, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3509). Id. Act June 30, 1876, c. 156, § 2 (19 Stat. 63; Comp. St. 1901, p. 3059), giving Federal courts original jurisdiction in equity of creditor's bill against stockholders of national bank which has gone into liquidation, held not repealed by Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, § 4 (25 St. 436; Comp. St. 1901, p. 514), providing that all national banks, for the purpose of actions by or against them, shall be deemed citizens of the states in which they are located, but such act relates exclusively to suits against or by banks themselves. Id. Nor is it repealed by Act July 12, 1882, c. 290, § 4 (22 Stat. 163; Comp. St. 1901, p. 3458), providing that the jurisdiction for suits by or against any national bank, except suits between it and the United States, shall be the same as for suits by or against state banks. Id.

Held to present Federal question: Decision of state court that statute of limitations applicable to the right to enforce the individual liability of stockholders in national banks is put in motion by delay of comptroller of the currency in making an assessment. Rankin v. Barton, 26 S. Ct. 29. Decision of state court that statute of limitations governing adverse possession of realty operated to defeat action under Federal statutes to try title to conflicting mining claims, in which defeated party relied on a relocation of forfeited claim under U. S. Rev. St. § 2324, Comp. St. 1901, p. 1426, held to involve a denial of rights under such statute, where state court treated as irrelevant evidence tending to show that premises in dispute were embraced in the forfeited location, and that possession of that claim was held and retained from a time at least contemporaneous with initiation of the conflicting locations almost up to the relocation. Lavagnino v. Uhlig, 198 U. S. 443, 49 Law. Ed. 1119. Contention, on motion for directed verdict, that cession to the United States by New Jersey (N. J. Act March 12, 1846) of strip of land at Sandy Hook vested in it exclusive legislative jurisdiction over littoral waters within the three mile limit, presents question respecting the exclusive legislative power of congress under Const. art. 1, § 8, cl. 17, which will sustain writ of error to supreme court. Hamburg-American S. S. Co. v. Grube, 196 U. S. 407, 49 Law. Ed. 529. Federal circuit court has jurisdiction of suit to enjoin assessment where question of right of taxpayer to an exemption on account of United States bonds owned by him is involved, regardless of the citizenship of the parties. People's Sav. Bank v. Layman, 134 F. 635. Federal circuit court has jurisdiction of a suit by a telegraph company, which has accepted the provisions of Rev. St. § 5263, Comp. St. 1901, p. 3579, to enjoin the threatened removal or destruction of its line by the local authorities. Ohio Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Sandusky County Com'rs, 137 F. 947. One who has acquired the right to use the water of a nonnavigable stream flowing through the public land for domestic or irrigation purposes by complying with the state statutes is protected in such right by U. S. Rev. St. §§ 2339, 2340, and the Federal circuit court has jurisdiction to determine the conflicting rights of various appropriators, even though their lands and points of diversion are in different states. Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 14.

Held not to present Federal question: The decision of a state court as to whether a conveyance by a bankrupt was made with intent to defraud creditors. Thompson v. Fairbanks, 196 U. S. 516, 49 Law. Ed. 577. Contention that congressional consent (Act June 28, 1834, 4 Stat. at L. 708, c. 126) to agreement between New Jersey and New York respecting their territorial limits and jurisdiction vested exclusive jurisdiction in the Federal government over sea adjoining the two states, there being nothing in the agreement or state statutes abdicating rights in favor of the government. Hamburg-American S. S. Co. v. Grube, 196 U. S. 407, 49 treaty, or the Federal constitution[17] is to be construed or their effect or operation is involved; but not if the question is a local one and involves only the state constitution or statutes.[18] Whether a constitutional question was raised and continues to

Law. Ed. 529. Assertion of title of realty under a patent from the United States. Bonin v. Gulf Co., 198 U. S. 115, 49 Law. Ed. 970. Judgment of state court denying the right of possession of real property under a title founded on an act of congress, which rests upon ground that adverse tax title was made good by prescription under state constitution. Corkran Oil & Development Co. v. Arnaudet, 26 S. Ct. 41. Presence of question respecting the construction and application of Federal legislation respecting swamp and overflowed lands gives no right to review judgment in ejectment holding defendant's title invalid on the independent ground, among others, of noncompliance with a state statute. Leonard v. Vicksburg, S. & P. R. Co., 198 U. S. 416, 49 Law. Ed. 1108. The mere fact that a suit is brought under the Federal statutes (Rev. St. § 2326; Comp. St. 1901, p. 1430) to try adverse rights to a mining claim does not necessarily involve a Federal question, so as to authorize a writ of error from the Federal supreme court. McMillen v. Ferrum Min. Co., 197 U. S. 343, 49 Law. Ed. 784.

17. Held to present Federal question: Action to recover damages for preventing plaintiff from exercising right to vote for a member of congress is one arising under Federal constitution, and is within jurisdiction of Federal courts where requisite amount is involved. Knight v. Shelton, 134 F. 423. Suit to restrain a state officer from collecting taxes levied under a state constitution and statutes, which it is in good faith claimed deny to complainants the equal protection of the laws, and deprive it of its property without due process of law. Is not a suit against the state. Michigan Railroad Tax Cases, 138 F. 223.

Held not to present Federal question: Mere inequality in taxation not apparently systematic and intentional does not show an unequal protection of the laws. Coulter v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 196 U. S. 599, 49 Law. Ed. 615. Decision of state court that formalities required by tax laws were fully observed, where there is no contention that such laws are unconstitutional, but merely that the manner of their observance was a denial of due process of law. French v. Taylor, 26 S. Ct. 76. Whether or not the courts of one state should, on principles of comity, permit an action to be maintained on a contract entered into in contravention of the laws of another state. Allen v. Alleghany Co., 196 U. S. 458, 49 Law. Ed. 551. Statement of claim which seeks to recover damages for acts of defendant done in his capacity as judge of a state court. Kinney v. Mitchell, 138 F. 270. Whether or not a person has waived a right which he might otherwise have had under the constitution or statutes of the United States by his acts or omissions, as where, by application of doctrine forbidding parties from assuming inconsistent positions, defendant was held to be estopped from asserting it. Leonard v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 198 U. S. 416, 49 Law. Ed. 1108. The mere refusal of a municipal corporation to perform its contract is insufficient to confer jurisdiction on a Federal circuit court on the ground that the resulting suit arises under the Federal constitution. Something else necessary to make a law impairing the obligations of a contract. City of Dawson v. Columbia Ave. Sav. Fund, S. D., T. & T. Co., 197 U. S. 178, 49 Law. Ed. 713. Decree of state court requiring defendants to vacate certain land and enjoining them from further mining thereon in accordance with the prayer of a bill proceeding on the theory that a corporation holding a lease under which defendants justified their occupation as its agents was no longer in existence, does not involve a Federal question on theory that, in determining case without making such corporation a party, it will be deprived of its property without due process of law, since, not being a party, its rights are not affected by the decree. Iron Cliffs Co. v. Negaunee Iron Co., 197 U. S. 463, 49 Law. Ed. 836. Contention that state court, in admitting nuncupative will to probate without notice, violated due process of law clause of Federal constitution, held not to give circuit court jurisdiction of suit to set aside probate, even if such notice was essential, where there was a right to assail the will and its probate after admission, even though no notice was given. Farrell v. O'Brien, 199 U. S. 89, 50 Law. Ed. —. Contention that because realty cannot pass under nuncupative will, the attempt of probate court to exert authority over property of that character by admitting will to probate deprived heirs of such property without due process of law does not give circuit court jurisdiction to pass upon construction and effect of such will, where such question is wholly subordinate to determination of another over which such court has no jurisdiction. Id. The construction by a state court of a statute of another state and its operation elsewhere does not necessarily involve such a Federal question. Whether or not a contract entered into in another state in violation of its laws in regard to foreign corporations is ipso facto void and therefore unenforceable in the state where the action is brought does not present a case under the full faith and credit clause of the Federal constitution. Allen v. Alleghany Co., 196 U. S. 458, 49 Law. Ed. 551.

18. Contention that act deprives school district of local self government guaranteed to all municipalities by the constitution (Attorney General v. Lowrey, 26 S. Ct. 27), that title of act indicates, and the act itself embraces, more than one subject (Id.), and that act is broader than the title, present strictly local questions, not reviewable by Federal supreme court (Id.). Decision of highest state court that a plea does not disclose defense that note in suit was given to foreign corporation in pursuance of business carried on in another state without compliance with the statutory conditions on which its right to do business there depends involves purely a local question. Allen v. Alleghany Co., 196 U. S. 458, 49 Law. Ed. 551. The Federal circuit court has no jurisdiction to desubsist pertains to a prior section.[19] There must be a real and substantial dispute as to the effect or construction of the constitution or of some law of the United States, upon the determination of which the recovery depends,[20] and the question must be one of law as stated in the complaint, and not one of fact.[21] If the claim that a Federal question is involved is made in good faith, the court, having acquired jurisdiction, does not lose it by deciding such question against complainant, but may retain the case for the decision of other questions arising on the record.[22]

An amendment to a complaint in the state court which transforms a nonremovable cause into a removable one, allows the suit to be removed into the Federal circuit court, if the defendant acts promptly.[23]

(§ 11) D. Averments and objections as to jurisdiction.[24]—A case is presumed to be without the jurisdiction of the Federal circuit court unless the contrary affirmatively appears.[25] An allegation of jurisdictional facts is, however, prima facie true, and the burden of the affirmative averment in a plea in abatement of facts showing such want of jurisdiction is upon the party making such averment.[26]

The facts necessary to give jurisdiction, either on the ground of diversity of termine the validity of the action of a state supreme court on a purely domestic controversy. Cannot declare judgment of state court void on ground that decision was rendered by a single justice, the others refusing to act because disqualified, where court had jurisdiction over the subject-matter and the parties. Michell Co. v. Matthues, 134 F. 493. The Federal courts have no jurisdiction to interfere in any manner with state proceedings for the execution of a sentence against a convicted criminal, except to prevent the infringement of any of his privileges or immunities under the Federal constitution. Ex parte Rogers, 138 F. 961. In the absence of the requisite diversity of citizenship and amount involved, the Federal courts have no jurisdiction of a case where the question presented relates to the interpretation to be given a state law, and the complaint is that such a law is being misinterpreted and misapplied to the injury of plaintiff in his rights of property. United States v. Bell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 336. Claim founded upon alleged malicious and unlawful acts of defendants committed by them while sitting and acting as judges of a state court and while engaged in administering state laws does not involve Federal question. Id. In a suit to enjoin the enforcement of city ordinances, Federal jurisdiction cannot be predicated on an allegation that in passing the ordinances the city exceeded its charter powers, such question being one for the determination of the state courts. Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F. 209.

19. See Ante, § 7.

20. United States v. Bell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 336. The mere averment of a constitutional question is not sufficient to give the Federal supreme court jurisdiction of an appeal from the circuit court of appeals, where the question sought to be presented is so wanting in merit as to cause it to be frivolous or without any support whatever in reason. Farrell v. O'Brien, 199 U. S. 89, 50 Law. Ed. —.

21. Thus if the facts only are in dispute, and the Federal law governing the case is uncontroverted, or has been determined by the supreme court of the United States, the Federal court cannot take jurisdiction. Action to recover for personal injuries alleged to have been received by reason of defendant's failure to equip its cars with safety appliances is not rendered removable merely by an allegation that defendant is engaged in interstate commerce, where it does not appear that there is any controversy as to the construction or effect of the Federal law. Questions of fact whether defendant is engaged in interstate commerce, and, if so, whether it has complied with the law, are not Federal questions. Myrtle v. Nevada, C. & O. R. Co., 137 F. 193.

22. People's Sav. Bank v. Layman, 134 F. 635. Jurisdiction of a Federal court having been properly invoked for relief against assessments as discriminating against complainant, and as depriving it of the equal protection of the laws though such Federal question is decided against complainant, the bill may be retained to administer relief on other grounds. Michigan Railroad Tax Cases, 138 F. 223. Where an infringement of the Federal constitution is the only ground upon which a plaintiff could come into a Federal court and that ground obviously fails, the court should be very cautious in interfering with a state's administration of its taxes upon other considerations which would not have given it jurisdiction. Coulter v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 196 U. S. 599, 49 Law. Ed. 615.

23. Myrtle v. Nevada, C. & O. R. Co., 137 F. 193.

24. See 4 C. L. 350.

25. Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10. The jurisdiction must always appear affirmatively of record. Wells Co. v. Gastonia Cotton Mfg. Co., 198 U. S. 177, 49 Law. Ed. 1003.

26. Averment in bill that business sought to be protected amounted to $5,000, exclusive of interest and costs, will be treated as prima facie true for purpose of sustaining court's jurisdiction, notwithstanding an allegation in the answer that the amount in controversy was less than $2,000, until defendant sustains burden of showing, during the progress of the case, that the requisite jurisdictional amount is wanting. Pennsylvania Co. v. Bav. 138 F. 203.

citizenship[27] or the existence of a Federal question,[28] must be distinctly alleged and not left to argument or mere inference. So too it must appear from the complaint or petition that the jurisdictional amount is in controversy.[29]

An averment in the bill that the parties are citizens of different states makes a prima facie case of jurisdiction so far as it depends on citizenship.[30] An averment that an individual is a citizen of a named state is sufficient,[31] but a mere averment of residence in a particular state is not an averment of citizenship in that state.[32] An averment that a company or association is a citizen of a particular state is insufficient, unless it is a corporation.[33] If it is a corporation, it is not enough to allege that such corporation is a citizen of a named state, but it must also be alleged that it was created by the laws of such state.[34] If it is an unincorporated association, the citizenship of the individuals composing it must be alleged.[35] When

27. In a suit to partition realty where the bill shows on its face diverse citizenship as between the parties complainant and defendant, that the jurisdictional amount is involved, and that the suit is brought in the district of the residence of either the plaintiff or the defendant, the circuit court has jurisdiction, and no rearrangement of the parties will be made with respect to a subordinate question to defeat that jurisdiction. Where any question affecting the right of plaintiff to a partition, or the rights of each and all of the parties in the land may be put in issue, tried, and determined in such action. German Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Tull [C. C. A.] 136 F. 1. Absence of sufficient averments, or of facts in the record showing such diversity, is fatal. Knight v. Lutcher & M. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 404. In suit in a Federal court to enjoin enforcement of a municipal smoke ordinance, allegation that plaintiff is a foreign corporation and that the amount involved is largely in excess of $2,000, exclusive of interest and costs, held to sufficiently show jurisdiction. Glucose Refining Co. v. Chicago, 138 F. 209.

28. Facts alleged must show nature of suit, and it must plainly appear that it arises under constitution or laws of the United States. United States v. Bell [C. C. A.] 135 F. 336. Mere allegation that defendants were liable under Rev. St. §§ 1979, 1980, prohibiting the deprivation of rights, privileges, and immunities secured by the constitution and laws, held insufficient, those sections not conferring any jurisdiction on circuit court. Id.

29. For manner of determining amount in controversy see § 6, ante. On application to Federal circuit court by shareholder in a national bank for a writ of mandamus to compel association to permit him to inspect its list of shareholders, based on U. S. Rev. St. § 5210, it must appear by the petition that the matter in dispute exceeds the value of $2,000. Large v. Consolidated Nat. Bank, 137 F. 168. Averment that plaintiff is registered owner of ten shares of stock held insufficient. Id.

30. Steigleder v. McQuesten, 198 U. S. 141, 49 Law. Ed. 986.

31. While it is not sufficient to aver that a company or association is a citizen of a particular state, an additional averment that it is a corporation being necessary, this rule does not apply to the case of an individual. Yonkerman Co. v. Fuller's Adv. Ag., 135 F. 613. Allegation that plaintiff is a citizen "of said county of Monroe, in said state of Michigan," held sufficient on appeal in view of the fact that it was accepted and acted upon below. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

32. Steigleder v. McQuesten, 198 U. S. 141, 49 Law. Ed. 986.

33. Averment that partnership association is a corporation held mere conclusion of law. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725. Partnership association organized under the laws of Michigan (2 Comp. Laws, pp. 1883, 1888, as amended by Pub. Acts 1903, pp. 398-404) held not a corporation. Id. An allegation that a joint stock company is a citizen of the state under whose laws it is organized cannot be considered as an averment which will aid the court in determining the question of jurisdiction. Saunders v. Adams Exp. Co., 136 F. 494.

34. In no other way can it be a citizen of such state for jurisdictional purposes. Allegations of petition for removal held insufficient. Knight v. Lutcher & M. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 404.

35. If a partnership association. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725.

NOTE. Unincorporated association: Suit was brought by a citizen of Michigan against "The Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University," the averment as to the citizenship being that the defendant was created and existed by virtue of the law of Ohio, had power to sue and be sued, to make contracts, hold property, have a seal, etc., and was a citizen of Ohio. Held, there was no jurisdiction, but that if there had been added allegations that all the members of the board were citizens of Ohio, there would be jurisdiction, though the individual members were not made defendants. Thomas v. Ohio State University Trustees, 195 U. S. 207, 49 Law. Ed. 160. It is commonly said that a corporation is a citizen of the state incorporating it. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 295, 30 Law. Ed. 83; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Letson, 2 How. [U. S.] 497, 11 Law. Ed. 193. Mr. Justice Story, however, declared in Muller v. Dows, 94 U. S. 444, 24 Law. Ed. 207, that a corporation was not a citizen of any state and this appears to have been the original view. Bank of U. S. v. Deveaux, 5 Cranch [U. S.] 61, 3 Law. Ed. 194. In the early cases the inquiry seems to have been as to the citizenship of the stockholders, who were nevertheless, except in very early cases (Bank of U. S. v. Deveaux, supra), conclusively presumed to be citizens of the a co-partnership sues, the citizenship of the parties composing it must be averred, and must be such as to confer the jurisdiction.[36] If the original petition contains the requisite averments as to citizenship, jurisdiction is not lost because an amended petition subsequently filed alleges plaintiff's citizenship in the present tense only.[37]

Jurisdictional as well as other averments may be inserted or reformed by amendment.[38]

Objections as to jurisdiction should be taken in accordance with the practice of the state courts.[39] An objection to the jurisdiction of the circuit court on the ground that neither the plaintiff nor the defendant is a resident of the district in which the action is brought, raised by demurrer, is not waived by appearing at the taking of depositions and cross-examining witnesses without declaring an intention to insist on such objection,[40] nor by stipulating during the taking of such depositions that copies of letters and telegrams may be used by either side in lieu of the originals.[41]

The provision of the Federal statutes that, when jurisdiction is founded on diverse citizenship, suit shall be brought only in the district in which plaintiff or defendant resides, confers a mere privilege on defendant which he may waive,[42] and he does so by removing a case to a Federal court sitting in a district in which neither of the parties resides.[43]

The circuit court of appeals may refer to the whole record to make out the conditions on which jurisdiction may rest.[44] incorporating state (Muller v. Dows, supra). In the principal case, since it is undisputed that no incorporated body can be a citizen of a state (Chapman v. Barney, 129 U. S. 677, 32 Law. Ed. 800), and since the court was unwilling to extend the rules as to presumption of citizenship of members of a corporation to members of an association, no diverse citizenship appeared. That there would be jurisdiction if the individual members were alleged to be citizens of Ohio, though they were not parties of record, seems to be deciding the case on the analogy of the early cases of corporations with the difference that no presumptions are entertained as to the citizenship of the members. The court has before determined the point of jurisdiction in cases similar to this one as it was presented in the circuit court (Chapman v. Barney, supra; Great Southern Fire Proof Hotel Co. v. Jones, 177 U. S. 449, 44 Law. Ed. 842); but it is believed that the further question is decided for the first time.—5 Columbia L. R. 246.

§ 12. Federal appellate jurisdiction. A. Inquiry into jurisdiction.[45]—The circuit court of appeals has no jurisdiction of proceedings in error which involve the single question of the jurisdiction of the circuit court to entertain the action.[46]

36. Averment that each and every member of a partnership association organized under Mich. Comp. Laws 1897, c. 160, §§ 6079, 6089, held sufficient, such associations being legal entities and quasi corporations. Not necessary to name individual members. Yonkerman Co. v. Fuller's Advertising Ag., 135 F. 613.

37. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

38. Bankruptcy proceedings. In re Plymouth Cordage Co. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 1000.

39. Under the Illinois practice, defendant may challenge an averment in the declaration, in an action against a partnership, that the members thereof are all citizens of another state by plea in abatement, unless waived by pleading to the merits. Yonkerman Co. v. Fuller's Adv. Ag., 135 F. 613. An averment of plaintiff's citizenship, in an action in the Federal court in which jurisdiction depends on diversity of citizenship, is a material allegation within the meaning of the Ohio code, and is put in issue under such code by a general denial in the answer (Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48), and a general verdict finding the issues in favor of plaintiff, followed by judgment thereon, is conclusive on such issue as against a defendant who has participated in the trial without objecting to the jurisdiction, or asking any ruling or instruction on the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence on the issue (Id.).

40. Stonega Coal & Coke Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 139 F. 271.

41. Is mere preparation for trial in order to be ready for an adverse decision on question of jurisdiction. Stonega Coal & Coke Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 139 F. 271.

42. Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, § 1 (Comp. St. 1901, p. 508). Burch v. Southern Pac. Co., 139 F. 350.

43. Burch v. Southern Pac. Co., 139 F. 350.

44. May look to original as well as amended petition. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

45. See 4 C. L. 351. See, also, Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

46. Can only be reviewed upon writ of error taken direct to the supreme court. Halpin v. Amerman [C. C. A.] 138 F. 548.

Evidence bearing on the question of the citizenship of the parties must be examined on appeal to the supreme court, though the motion to dismiss in the circuit court for want of jurisdiction did not distinctly aver the absence of diverse citizenship where that court treated the question as raised, and passed upon it.[47]

(§ 12) B. Appeals between Federal courts.[48]—An appeal or writ of error lies directly to the supreme court from the circuit court in cases in which the jurisdiction of the court is in issue, but in such cases only the question of jurisdiction can be certified to the supreme court from the court below for decision.[49] The question of jurisdiction thus to be certified is the jurisdiction of the circuit court as a court of the United States, and not in respect to its general authority as a judicial tribunal.[50] As a general rule the certificate is an absolute prerequisite to the exercise of jurisdiction by the supreme court, though exceptions have been recognized where the explicit terms of the decree or of the order allowing the appeal might properly be considered as equivalent to the formal certificate;[51] but the record must distinctly and unequivocally show that the court below sends up for consideration a single and definite question of jurisdiction.[52]

The supreme court, as a general rule and except as to cases arising under the bankruptcy law, cannot review the judgments and decrees of the supreme court of the District of Columbia directly by appeal or writ of error.[53]

The supreme court may review, by writs of error or on appeal, final decisions of the Federal district courts of Porto Rico in all cases where an act of congress is brought in question and the right claimed thereunder is denied.[54]

In cases in which the supreme court possesses neither original nor appellate jurisdiction, it cannot grant prohibition, mandamus, or certiorari as ancillary thereto.[55]

47. Steigleder v. McQuesten, 198 U. S. 141, 49 Law. Ed. 986.

48. See 4 C. L. 351. See, also, Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

49. Act March 3, 1891, § 5 (26 Stat. at L. 827, c. 517; Comp. St. 1901, p. 549). Courtney v. Pradt, 196 U. S. 89, 49 Law. Ed. 398.

50. Courtney v. Pradt, 196 U. S. 89, 49 Law. Ed. 398. Dismissal by Federal court of suit against foreign executor for want of jurisdiction in state court, from which it has been removed for diversity of citizenship, does not present a question of jurisdiction reviewable on direct appeal to the supreme court. Id. Neither does denial of a motion to remand, where motion does not, in terms, put in issue the power of the court, as a court of the United States, to hear and determine the cause. Id. Same is true of objection that attachment suit in aid of action at law was equitable in form under state statutes. Id. Question of validity of service of process on certain persons as agents of a foreign corporation involves such jurisdiction. Board of Trade of Chicago v. Hammond Elevator Co., 198 U. S. 424, 49 Law. Ed. 1111. Validity of service of subpoena upon resident treasurer of foreign corporation. Kendall v. American Automatic Loom Co., 198 U. S. 477, 49 Law. Ed. 1133.

51. Courtney v. Pradt, 196 U. S. 89, 49 Law. Ed. 398. Has jurisdiction where it clearly appears that the ground of a judgment of the circuit court, dismissing an action which had been removed from a state court, was the absence of service on defendant, and that the plaintiff denied the validity of the attempt to remove. Remington v. Central P. R. Co., 198 U. S. 95, 49 Law Ed. 959.

52. Courtney v. Pradt, 196 U. S. 89, 49 Law. Ed. 398. The writ of error will not be dismissed for irregularities in the bill of exceptions or formal certificate, where the judgment dismissing the action and prior proceedings make it clearly apparent on the record that the only questions decided by the circuit court were demurrers to pleas to the jurisdiction, and that the petition upon which the writ of error was allowed asked only for the review of the judgment which decided that the court had jurisdiction of the action. No bill of exceptions or formal certificate necessary under such circumstances. Petri v. Creelman Lumber Co., 26 S. Ct. 133.

53. Under Act Feb. 9, 1893 (27 Stat. at L. 434, c. 74), establishing the court of appeals for the District. In re Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 197 U. S. 482, 49 Law. Ed. 845.

54. Act April 12, 1900 (31 Stat. at L. 85, c. 191). Rodriguez v. U. S., 198 U. S. 156, 49 Law. Ed. 994. Overruling of a motion in arrest of judgment in which the accused asserted that the grand jurors were not selected or drawn as required by the Federal statutes presents such a case. Id. A money judgment in Porto Rico which requires that it be satisfied at a different rate of exchange than that established by the Federal statutes denies a right under such statutes and is appealable to the supreme court of the United States. Serralles' Succession v. Esbri, 26 S. Ct. 176.

55. In re Commonwealth of Mass., 197 U.

Where the jurisdiction of the circuit court rests solely on diversity of citizenship, the decision of the circuit court of appeals, on appeal to it, is final, and will not be reviewed by the supreme court.[56] If there are questions relating to the merits as well as to the jurisdiction, the circuit court of appeals may either certify the latter to the supreme court before determining the former, or may decide the whole case in the first instance.[57]

(§ 12) C. Control over state courts.[58]—Final judgments of state courts may be reviewed by the Federal supreme court on writ of error, where the validity of a state statute, or any authority exercised under any state, is called in question on the ground of repugnancy to the constitution and laws of the United States, and the decision is in favor of its validity.[59] It must, however, appear that the Federal question was raised and passed upon in the state courts at the time and in the manner required by the state practice, and the decision must have been against the right claimed.[60] It is too late where the Federal question is first raised on a second ap-

S. 482, 49 Law. Ed. 845. Cannot grant mandamus where it has neither original nor appellate jurisdiction. Rev. St. § 716; Comp. St. 1901, p. 580. In re Glaser, 198 U. S. 171, 49 Law. Ed. 1000. Not to compel circuit court to take jurisdiction of action where cause was not of such character that final judgment could be directly reviewed under Act March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. at L. 826, c. 517; Comp. St. 1901, p. 547). Id.

56. Act March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. at L. 828, c. 517, § 6; U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 550). Petitory action for real property. Bonin v. Gulf Co., 198 U. S. 115, 49 Law. Ed. 970. As in case of removal for local prejudice. Cochran v. Montgomery County, 26 S. Ct. 58.

Where the jurisdiction of the circuit court is invoked on the ground of diverse citizenship, it will not be held also to rest on the ground that the suit arose under the Federal constitution unless it really or substantially involves a dispute or controversy as to the effect or construction of the constitution, upon the determination of which the result depends, and which appears on the record by a statement in legal and logical form, such as good pleading requires. Empire State-Idaho M. & D. Co. v. Hanley, 198 U. S. 292, 49 Law. Ed. 1056. Allegation by party claiming an interest in a mining claim by virtue of a purchase from an administrator under a decree of the probate court that a subsequent decree annulling the first one was void for want of jurisdiction to render it at a subsequent term, for want of notice, and for lack of evidence, does not amount to allegation that he was deprived of his interest without due process of law. Id. If the case is not brought within this rule, the decree of the circuit court of appeals is final. Case held not appealable. Empire State-Idaho M. & D. Co. v. Hanley, 198 U. S. 292, 49 Law. Ed. 1056.

57. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

58. See 4 C. L. 353. See, also, Appeal and Review, 5 C. L. 121.

59. Rev. St. § 709; Comp. St. 1901, p. 575. Allen v. Alleghany Co., 196 U. S. 458, 49 Law. Ed. 551. A judgment reversing the decree in an equity case and remanding the cause for further proceedings in harmony with the opinion is not final within the meaning of this rule. Even though equity cases are heard de novo on appeal in state court and successful party is entitled to decree in that court if he asks for it, where no such decree was asked for or rendered, and newly discovered evidence may be introduced and the pleadings may be amended after remand. Schlosser v. Hemphill, 198 U. S. 173, 49 Law. Ed. 1000. Has exclusive final jurisdiction over the subject of the effect to be given in each state as to the records and judgments of courts of sister states. Hadacheck v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. [Neb.] 104 N. W. 878.

For discussion of what is a Federal question, see § 11 C, ante.

60. The aggrieved party must show that he claimed some right, some interest, which the Federal law recognizes and protects, and which was denied him in the state court. Allen v. Arguimbau, 198 U. S. 149, 49 Law. Ed. 990. Defense in action against maker of promissory note, given in consideration of promise to have certain cigars manufactured at Key West, that it was contemplated that cigars were to be removed from the factory without complying with U. S. Rev. St. §§ 3390, 3393, 3397, does not amount to a special assertion of a right, title, privilege, or immunity under a Federal statute, since defendant could derive no personal rights under those sections to enforce the repudiation of his note, even though it was void as against public policy. Id. The validity, under the ex post facto clause of the constitution of Florida statute, preventing collateral attacks on judgments for disqualifications of judges not appearing of record, held not to have been necessarily involved in the denial of a petition to vacate a decree entered before the act was passed on the ground of disqualification not known at the time it was rendered, and it not appearing from the record that the question was raised or passed on, supreme court had no jurisdiction. Caro v. Davidson, 197 U. S. 197, 49 Law. Ed. 723. Adequate presentation to state court sufficiently appears where record clearly shows that trial court considered that unsuccessful party was specifically claiming rights under the Federal statute authorizing an adverse of an application for a patent to mineral lands, and that the highest state court necessarily acted upon that assumption in delivering its opinion. Lavagnino v. Uhlig, 198 U. S. 443, 49 Law. Ed. 1119. That a statute alleged to deny equal protection of law is superseded by another does not make the peal,[61] or on a petition for a rehearing, unless, at least, the court grants the rehearing and then proceeds to consider the question.[62] The supreme court has no jurisdiction where the judgment of the state court rests on two grounds, one involving a Federal question and the other not,[63] or where it does not appear on which of two grounds it is based, and the ground independent of the Federal question is sufficient in itself to sustain it.[64]

The certificate on the allowance of the writ of error cannot, of itself, confer jurisdiction on the supreme court,[65] and the petition for writ of error from the supreme court and the assignments of error therein form no part of the record on which to determine whether a Federal question was decided by the state court.[66] No right of review exists where the Federal question has been so explicitly foreclosed by previous decisions of the Federal supreme court as to leave no room for controversy,[67] nor where the decision of the state court construes a state statute so as to remove any question of its repugnancy to the Federal constitution.[68]

The supreme court is not deprived of the right to review the decision of a state court sustaining the validity of a state statute claimed to impair the obligations of a contract, because such court bases its conclusion of the nonexistence of a contract upon a construction of the state constitution and statutes.[69]

§ 13. Acquisition and divestiture.[70]—Jurisdiction is acquired by process or appearance. Process includes both personal and constructive service and judicial process against the res,[71] which latter is usually, if not always, a form of constructive process. In suits strictly in rem,[72] or quasi in rem, personal service within the jurisdiction is not necessary,[73] but the decree can only extend to the matter in con-question moot unless it appears that the parties complaining were relieved of liability under the old law. Campbell v. California, 26 S. Ct. 182.

61. Where claim that service of summons was invalid under Federal constitution was first set up on the second hearing in the trial court after the case had been once appealed, state supreme court may, on second appeal, decline to reopen the question of the validity of the service, which it had upheld on first appeal, without thereby making case for review by Federal supreme court. Western Electrical Supply Co. v. Abbeville Elec. Light & Power Co., 197 U. S. 299, 49 Law. Ed. 765.

62. Too late where, in denying the motion, court made no reference to the question. McMillen v. Ferrum Min. Co., 197 U. S. 343, 49 Law. Ed. 784; Corkran Oil & Development Co. v. Arnaudet, 26 S. Ct. 41; French v. Taylor, 26 S. Ct. 76.

63, 64, 65. Allen v. Arguimbau, 198 U. S. 149, 49 Law. Ed. 990.

66. Corkran Oil & Development Co. v. Arnaudet, 26 S. Ct. 41; French v. Taylor, 26 S. Ct. 76.

67. Leonard v. Vicksburg, S. & P. R. Co., 198 U. S. 416, 49 Law. Ed. 1108.

68. As where act was construed as allowing cities to fix reasonable maximum water rates where they could do so without violating the obligations of contracts. Tampa Waterworks Co. v. Tampa, 26 S. Ct. 23.

69. Such a contention overlooks power and duty of supreme court to determine for itself the existence or nonexistence of a contract. Attorney General of Michigan v. Lowrey, 26 S. Ct. 27.

70. See 4 C. L. 355.

71. Judgment against certain defendants granting relief prayed by cross bill held erroneous, where they never appeared in original case nor answered original petition, and were not cited to answer cross bill and did not do so, or appear. Schwartzlose v. Wagner [Tex. Civ. App.] 81 S. W. 70. Suit begun in state court by attachment of property, and removed to Federal court, will not be there dismissed for want of jurisdiction because there has been no personal service on defendant, custody of the res being sufficient to give jurisdiction. Hubbard v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 135 F. 256. When a citizen does not in fact reside within the state in which the rem, or thing in action, is located, his absence does not prevent the courts having jurisdiction of the subject of the action from asserting it in the method prescribed by statute. Jurisdiction of suit to quiet title to realty held to have been regularly acquired by filing affidavit of defendant's nonresidence, and publication of summons, and judgment could only be opened within time prescribed by statute. Hollenback v. Poston, 34 Ind. App. 481, 73 N. E. 162. No valid judgment can be rendered against a defendant in any court unless it first obtains jurisdiction of his person by some of the modes prescribed by law. Fink v. Wallach, 95 N. Y. S. 872.

72. Andrews v. Guayaquil & Q. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 568.

73. Andrews v. Guayaquil & Q. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 568. Where suit is brought in a state court by attachment and is removed to a Federal court pending a motion to dissolve such attachment, the seizure of defendant's property is a sufficient basis on which to found subsequent proceedings by the Fedtroversy,[74] and there can be no adjudication in personam,[75] except as that may be said to be in personam which is at the same time limited in its effects to the res. If the proceeding is strictly in rem, public citation to the world alone is necessary, and the decree binds every one,[76] but if quasi in rem, defendant's interest alone is sought to be affected, and he must be cited to appear, and the judgment is conclusive only between the parties.[77] Constructive service must be complete to give jurisdiction.[78] Personal service or general voluntary appearance only can give jurisdiction in personam.[79] Special appearance may give what is sometimes called jurisdiction to eral court both in the principal suit and as to the attachment, though no jurisdiction of the persons of the defendants had been acquired. Lebensberger v. Scofield [C. C. A.] 139 F. 380. Such court also has jurisdiction to authorize the issuance and service of an alias summons on a nonresident defendant subsequently moving into the state. Id. Where an action begun by attachment in the state court is properly removed to the Federal court pending a motion for the dissolution of the attachment, the whole cause, including the attachment proceedings, is transferred to the Federal court, which is as fully possessed of the case as if it had been brought therein. Id.

74. Andrews v. Guayaquil & Q. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 568. Bill to compel transfer of stock of corporation as collateral security for notes made to third person and assigned to plaintiff, held quasi proceeding in rem so that decree could be made with respect to such third person's interest in the res which would bind him, even though he did not appear after giving the required notice. Id.

75. A divorce suit is regarded as a proceeding in rem in so far as it relates to a dissolution of the marital relation, but, where defendant is not served within the state and does not appear, the court cannot enter any binding decree in personam against him. Cannot decree alimony and counsel fees. Proctor v. Proctor, 215 Ill. 275, 74 N. E. 145. A personal judgment is without validity if rendered by a state court in an action upon a money demand against a nonresident proceeded against by publication, but not personally served with process within the state, and not appearing (Andrews v. Guayaquil & Q. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 568), even if the defendant has, at the time the action is commenced, property within the state upon which a levy can be made under the judgment (Id.). Act March 3, 1875, c. 137, § 8 (18 Stat. at L. 472; Comp. St. 1901, p. 513), providing for service of summons by publication in certain local suits in regard to land in the Federal circuit court, does not authorize a personal decree against a nonresident defendant who is not personally served within the jurisdiction and does not appear, and the court, in such case, has no jurisdiction of a suit in which such a decree would be necessary for complainant's relief. York Co. Sav. Bank v. Abbott, 139 F. 988. Not of suit to enforce alleged rights under a lease in which personal acts on part of nonresident defendant are necessarily elements. Id.

76. Andrews v. Guayaquil & Q. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 568.

77. State may provide any reasonable method of imparting notice, which must be complied with, or proceeding will not be due process of law. Andrews v. Guayaquil & Q. R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 568.

78. Under code, § 3535, providing that service of summons by publication must be made by publishing once a week for four consecutive weeks, and § 3536, providing that defendant shall in such case be required to appear as if personally served on the last day of the publication, court acquires no jurisdiction of person or subject-matter where notice requiring defendant to appear on April 12th was first published April 8th. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Taylor [Iowa] 105 N. W. 125. Statutes providing for service of summons by publication are intended as a substitute for personal service, and, being in derogation of the common law, must be strictly observed and fully complied with before jurisdiction is obtained. Failure to file order for publication and papers on which it is based with clerk on or before first day of publication, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 442, is jurisdictional defect. Fink v. Wallach, 95 N. Y. S. 872.

79. See Appearance, 5 C. L. 248; Process, 4 C. L. 1070. Where defendants' appearance in justice court is limited to the question of the jurisdiction of that court, and they take no further part in the trial there, the court does not thereby acquire general jurisdiction of their persons. Sinsabaugh v. Dun, 114 Ill. App. 523. Where defendant in action brought before justice of the peace appealed to circuit court by having his appeal bond approved by the clerk of that court, but did not cause plaintiff to be brought in by summons and none was issued, and plaintiff did not enter his appearance, circuit court held without jurisdiction to dismiss the suit for want of prosecution. Hecht v. Franklin, 113 Ill. App. 467. Jurisdiction of a special proceeding is not conferred merely by calling the attention of the court to the fact that an indispensable statutory foundation is wholly lacking. Not by appearing specially and showing want of jurisdiction of garnishment proceedings because they were founded on void judgment. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Stires [Neb.] 103 N. W. 660. On appeal to common pleas from judgment against railroad company for penalty, court acquires no jurisdiction of another defendant joined as such by an amendment allowed in that court, it not having been served with summons and not having appeared by attorney. Chester City v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 206. A defect in a summons commencing an action in a court of record is not waived by pleading to the merits after the overruling of a motion to quash, to which an exception has been taken and made a part of the record. Appearance not voluntary. Fisher, Sons & Co. v. Crow-determine the issues thus specially made.[80] Jurisdiction of the subject-matter cannot be conferred by consent.[81]

Acts prescribing special proceedings must be strictly complied with to give the courts exercising the jurisdiction thereby conferred authority to enter judgments under them.[82] Where a special proceeding has been provided for the prosecution of error, a reviewing court acquires no jurisdiction of proceedings brought under the general statute.[83]

Divestiture may be by ouster, termination, or suspension. Ouster of jurisdiction occurs when any plea or condition intervenes which takes away the jurisdiction, transferring it,[84] or showing reasons why it should be transferred, to some other ley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422. Jurisdiction of a foreign corporation owning no property, having no place of business, and transacting no business in the state in which the action is brought, cannot be acquired by service of process on one of its officers who is temporarily within the state on private business. Johnson v. Computing Scale Co., 139 F. 339. Defendant not having been legally served held not to have waived service by filing demurrer to petition after court's refusal, on motion, to vacate the return of service and dismiss the suit, and court had no jurisdiction to pass on the demurrer. Medical College of Georgia v. Rushing [Ga.] 52 S. E. 333.

80. See Appearance, 5 C. L. 248.

81. Baggett v. Mason [Ala.] 39 So. 728. Not by entry of appearance of the parties by answer or otherwise. Bradbury v. Waukegan & Wash. M. & S. Co., 113 Ill. App. 600. Jurisdiction to issue an attachment against a national bank cannot be conferred on a state court by consent of the parties, nor can want of it be waived by any adjudication. Merchants' Laclede Nat. Bank v. Troy Grocery Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 476. Consent of parties cannot give the court jurisdiction of the subject-matter when it has none by law. Ragan v. Standard Scale Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 951. Consent can never confer jurisdiction upon a Federal court. Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10.

82. Under Kirby's Dig. § 1294, providing that, when the chancellor is absent from the county, the circuit judge may issue writs of injunction or restraining orders, "after the action has been commenced, but not before," circuit judge has no jurisdiction to issue injunction where petition asks no other relief. Moody v. Lowrimore [Ark.] 86 S. W. 400. Since the only jurisdiction of the court to order a sale of land in partition proceedings is derived from the statute, such jurisdiction must be exercised in conformity to it. Sale under Kirby's Dig. §§ 5785, 5786, 5792, 5793, without report of commissioners showing necessity therefor, is void. Cowling v. Nelson [Ark.] 88 S. W. 913. Under Civ. Code 1895, § 4855, providing that when it becomes impossible to carry out the provisions of a will, the judges of the superior court shall, in certain cases, have power to render at chambers, during vacation, any decree that may be necessary and legal in the premises, jurisdiction of the subject-matter in such cases depends upon the written consent of all persons in interest who are sui juris that the judge may render a decree. Callaway v. Irvin [Ga.] 51 S. E. 477. Consent of married woman who was beneficiary under the will held necessary. Id. General local option liquor law (Pol. Code, 1895, § 1546) confers upon the superior court as a court jurisdiction to hear and determine a contest of an election held under the provisions of such law. Ogburn v. Elmore [Ga.] 51 S. E. 641. Proceeding is not an action at law or suit in equity, but a special statutory proceeding, and the power conferred must be exercised within the limits and by the method prescribed. Id. Acts 1898, pp. 389-395, establishing Baltimore city court and regulating practice therein. Mueller v. Michaels [Md.] 60 A. 485. A court has no original or inherent power to appoint to office, and statute conferring such power must be strictly followed. Appointment of superintendent of poor by county judge under Code 1904, p. 59, § 95, held void. Chadduck v. Burke, 103 Va. 694, 49 S. E. 976. The conditions imposed by the Indian depredation act must be complied with before the court of claims acquires jurisdiction. Under Act March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. at L. 851, § 2), court has no jurisdiction unless claim is presented to the court by petition within three years. Gallegos v. Navajos, 39 Ct. Cl. 86.

83. Wiler v. Logan Natural Gas & Fuel Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 206.

84. Where assignee for benefit of creditors brings an action in the circuit court under Ky. St. 1903, § 96, for the settlement of the estate, the county court loses jurisdiction of ex parte proceedings commenced under § 89 for the same purpose, and exceptions to the report of a sale of the land subsequently filed in the county court are properly stricken. Maupin v. Maupin's Assignee [Ky.] 89 S. W. 238. The filing of the requisite petition, accompanied by a legal and sufficient bond, instantly operates to transfer a removable cause from the state to the Federal court, and the jurisdiction of the Federal court at once attaches and that of the state court ceases. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stone [Kan.] 79 P. 655; Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen [C. C. A.] 135 P. 650. If issues of fact arise upon the averments of the petition for removal, the jurisdiction to try them is in the Federal court and not in the state court. Id. On motions to remand and for removal, the question of jurisdiction should be decided by the preponderance of the facts, the law, and the reasons which condition them, in view of the fact that the right to invoke the jurisdiction of the Federal courts is a valuable constitutional one, and an erroneous affirmance of the claim to that right may be corrected by the supreme court upon a certificate of the question of jucourt, but the face of the record must show procedure or reasons efficient to that end.[85] Termination of jurisdiction takes place when there is a final adjudication completed, and beyond the power of the court to recall or alter it,[86] except by original proceeding or what is substantially such. It may also arise from such an interruption in the proceedings as disables the court legally to resume or to effect a continuance of the proceeding.[87] Mere lapse of time does not necessarily show loss of jurisdiction previously acquired.[88]

Where the court has cognizance of the cause made by the complaint as first filed, the jurisdiction will not be ousted by an amendment averring additional matter which the court is not competent to consider, but such new matter will be disregarded as surplusage.[89]

Having acquired jurisdiction of an action to foreclose a mortgage on land situated in two counties, the court cannot lose it by any error committed in the course of the trial or by any erroneous judgment rendered by it and subsequently vacated on discovering the error.[90]

§ 14. Objections to jurisdiction, inquiry thereof and presumptions respecting it.[91]—The fundamental facts of jurisdiction must always appear, and courts will at risdiction, while an erroneous denial of the claim is remediless. Should not be determined by the existence of doubts. Id.

85. If neither the petition for removal nor any part of the record, on its face, shows a removal case, the case in law is not removed, and the state court does not lose jurisdiction nor does the Federal court acquire it. If Federal court acquires no jurisdiction because of defective averment as to citizenship, cannot allow amendment so as to cure defect. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725.

86. An expression inaptly used does not amount to final judgment when a contrary intent is plain. Where defendant in two creditors' suits asked that one in which he had filed a demurrer be dismissed or consolidated with the other, and decree was entered consolidating the two, the fact that such decree contained a statement that such demurrer was sustained cannot be taken advantage of by him on error to secure a reversal on ground that sustaining demurrer without providing for an amendment put an end to the case, it being a mere inapt expression, contrary to the plain intent of the court. Hawpe v. Bumgardner, 103 Va. 91, 48 S. E. 554.

87. Postponement of case by justice of peace to a later hour of same day, if properly entered on his docket, does not deprive him of jurisdiction, particularly where defendant had ample notice that this would be done. Henion v. Pohl, 113 Ill. App. 100. A county court does not lose jurisdiction of an action not within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace by reason of the fact that, at the time to which such action has been continued, the county judge is not present in his office and does not appear for more than an hour thereafter. Comp. St. 1903, c. 20, § 28, construed. Bussing v. Taggart [Neb.] 103 N. W. 430. A court does not lose jurisdiction of a motion for final judgment because the argument was brought on during the first judicial term of office of the judge and a reargument was heard after the commencement of his second term. Jewett v. Schmidt, 45 Misc. 471, 92 N. Y. S. 737. Proceeding to punish executrix for contempt for not paying over money to a corporation as ordered held to have abated on dissolution of corporation and appointment of permanent receiver, and surrogate had thereafter no authority to entertain the application. In re Skelly, 95 N. Y. S. 1076.

88. Where, in receivership proceedings against a bank, the court, having jurisdiction of the stockholders, made an interlocutory order determining who were creditors and who were stockholders, and the amount for which each stockholder was liable, and providing for the enforcement of such liability, retaining jurisdiction for that purpose, held, that the fact that nearly six years elapsed before the entry of final judgment against the stockholders did not show loss of jurisdiction. Childs v. Blethen [Wash.] 82 P. 405. An action in a justice's court is not discontinued from the mere fact that no orders of continuance or other orders are made on the docket therein. Where judgment in justice's court is held void on writ of prohibition, and a second judgment is thereafter rendered, fact that 18 months elapses between the two judgments without any order being made in the action does not work its discontinuance. Thomasson v. Simmons [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 740.

89. If, on appeal to the district court, it has jurisdiction of the claim made in the plaintiff's bill of particulars, jurisdiction will not be abrogated by an amendment joining a separate count with an independent prayer for relief which court is not competent to grant because of the amount involved. Anthony v. Smithson [Kan.] 78 P. 454. Where finding and verdict show that recovery was under first count only, it is immaterial, on appeal, that court undertook to investigate matters beyond its jurisdiction which were alleged in second count. Id.

90. Kent v. Williams, 146 Cal. 3, 79 P. 527. Where plaintiff had lien on land in two counties and sued in one to foreclose on the land therein and judgment was erroneously rendered for sale of that land (Const. art. 6, all stages inquire thereof or entertain objections thereto.[92] The duty of spontaneously inquiring of their own jurisdiction is particularly emphasized in the Federal courts,[93] and some of the courts of appeal,[94] but it exists in all of the courts.[95] Latent defects consisting of facts lying in proof must be pointed out by

§ 5, and Code Civ. Proc. § 726, requiring lien on both tracts to be foreclosed in single action), which was subsequently vacated, court did not lose jurisdiction to decree sale of both tracts. Id.

91. See 4 C. L. 356.

92. Question of jurisdiction may be raised at any time. State Bank of Chicago v. Thweatt, 111 Ill. App. 599. Want of jurisdiction of the subject-matter of an appeal. Hursen v. Hursen, 110 Ill. App. 345. Parties who, by their petition, present a case of which the court has no jurisdiction may dismiss the same and withdraw from the court, without awaiting the disposition of a motion to dismiss made by their adversaries. Roby v. South Park Com'rs, 215 Ill. 200, 74 N. E. 125. On direct appeal the jurisdiction of the lower court must appear on the face of the record. Where want of jurisdiction clearly appears, judgment is a nullity. Trumbull v. Jefferson County, 37 Wash. 604, 79 P. 1105. It is the duty of the Federal circuit court, at any time in the progress of a cause, to dismiss the suit if it is satisfied either that it does not really and substantially involve a dispute or controversy properly within its jurisdiction, or that the parties have been improperly or collusively made or joined, either as plaintiffs or defendants, for the purpose of creating a case cognizable or removable under the acts of congress. Steigleder v. McQuesten, 198 U. S. 141, 49 Law. Ed. 986; York County Sav. Bank v. Abbot, 139 F. 988. Act March 3, 1875. Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10. It is the duty of the circuit court to stop the proceedings and dismiss the bill, either on objection or on its own motion whenever and in whatever way it appears that jurisdiction is lacking. Under Act March 3, 1875, c. 137, § 5 (18 St. 472, Comp. St. 1901, p. 511). Pennsylvania Co. v. Bay, 138 F. 203. No particular mode is provided in which such fact may be brought to the attention of the court. Must consider affidavits showing want of jurisdiction, though filed after the taking of testimony is closed. Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10. Where defendant raises the question of jurisdiction for the first time after verdict and judgment, on the ground that there is no evidence to support the jurisdictional allegations of plaintiff's pleading, which were properly put in issue, the court may set aside the judgment and inquire into the question, with or without a jury as it may see fit, and unless lack of jurisdiction appears from the evidence or the record, may re-enter the judgment on the verdict. Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48. If a suit does not involve a dispute or controversy within the jurisdiction of the Federal circuit court, it should be dismissed on a motion for that purpose being filed. Kinney v. Mitchell [C. C. A.] 136 F. 773. Where there is no Federal question and no diversity of citizenship. Id., 138 F. 270. Judgment for want of an affidavit of defense cannot be entered while such a motion is pending. Id. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 773.

93. The court must of its own motion notice its want of jurisdiction over the subject-matter of the action. United States v. Barrett, 135 F. 189. Duty of circuit court of appeals to determine jurisdiction of court from which appeal was taken even if no objection was taken in either court. Fred Macey Co. v. Macey [C. C. A.] 135 F. 725. Where the record on appeal clearly shows want of jurisdiction for lack of diversity of citizenship, is the duty of the court to deny jurisdiction on its own motion if the question is not raised by appellant. Gorman-Wright Co. v. Wright [C. C. A.] 134 F. 363. Absence of averments or of facts in the record showing the required diversity of citizenship is fatal and cannot be overlooked by the court, even if the parties fail to call attention to the defect, or consent that it may be waived. Knight v. Lutcher & M. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 136 F. 404; Anderson v. Bassman, 140 F. 10.

94. Georgia: When the supreme court on writ of error discovers from the record that a judgment has been rendered by a court having no jurisdiction of the subject-matter, it will of its own motion reverse the judgment. Ragan v. Standard Scale Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 951. If a ruling of the lower court refusing to entertain the case is properly brought up for review, the court will, on motion or ex mero motu, dismiss the writ of error. Id.

Illinois: A court having no jurisdiction of the subject-matter of a proceeding may dismiss it on its own motion, or on the suggestion of either party or of a stranger. Roby v. South Park Com'rs, 215 Ill. 200, 74 N. E. 125. Court of its own motion may interpose the objection at any time. Bradbury v. Waukegan & W. Min. & Smelting Co., 113 Ill. App. 600. If it appears from the record that the appeal should have been taken to the appellate court instead of to the supreme court, the latter will take notice of the question of jurisdiction and dismiss the appeal of its own motion. Immaterial whether motion to dismiss has been made or not, or what action has been taken on such motion. Fairbanks v. Carle, 217 Ill. 136, 75 N. E. 360. Where appellate court only has jurisdiction. Bockway v. Kizer, 215 Ill. 188, 74 N. E. 120. Rule applied in appellate court. Hursen v. Hursen, 110 Ill. App. 345.

Louisiana: Supreme court will, ex proprio motu, take notice of its want of jurisdiction. Succession of Fullerton [La.] 38 So. 151.

Missouri: Jurisdictional questions will be considered on appeal, though not presented by the briefs. City of Tarkio v. Clark, 186 Mo. 285, 85 S. W. 329.

Montana: Code Civ. Proc. § 685. May be first raised on appeal. Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695.

North Carolina: Want of jurisdiction noticed on appeal though not raised below. Murdock v. Iredell County Com'rs, 138 N. C. 124, 50 S. E. 567.

Wyoming: Question of jurisdiction will be considered on appeal though waived be-plea,[96] and mere informalities may be waived, if not seasonably challenged by objection.[97] Jurisdiction cannot be denied by him who has invoked it.[98]

On a motion to strike out a judgment in which is alleged irregularity in the proceeding in which it was entered, the whole question of jurisdiction and whether the proper steps have been taken to justify the entry of such judgment is open.[99] Jurisdictional defects cannot be remedied by nunc pro tunc orders.[1]

Evidence and presumptions.[2]—Courts of general jurisdiction will be presumed to have acted within their jurisdiction, and unless want of jurisdiction appears on the face of the record, it cannot be shown in a collateral proceeding.[3] If the lower low. Wright v. Hartville [Wyo.] 81 P. 649.

95. Order may be collaterally attacked at any time by any one who is not estopped, where record shows on its face that it was void for want of jurisdiction. Callaway v. Irvin [Ga.] 51 S. E. 477. Want of jurisdiction apparent on the face of the record may be taken advantage of at any time and in any court where the conclusiveness of the record is the subject of judicial inquiry. Brushvalley Tp. Poor Directors v. Allegheny County Poor Directors, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 595.

96. Where want of jurisdiction in a court of general jurisdiction does not appear on the face of the record, it can only be taken advantage of by a plea in abatement. Willard v. Zehr, 215 Ill. 148, 74 N. E. 107. The presumption is in favor of jurisdiction, and there must be proper averments of facts accurately and logically stated, excluding every intendment of jurisdiction. Id. Plea held insufficient. Id. Where want of jurisdiction of the county commissioners to act in the construction of drains does not appear upon the face of the petition or the viewer's report, it can only be raised by some sort of plea. Kemp v. Adams [Ind.] 73 N. E. 590. In proceedings before the county commissioners for the tiling of public open drains, written objections, supported by affidavit, demanding that the proceedings be dismissed because part of the ditch described in the petition is not such a ditch, but the construction of an entirely new one is proposed, when presented for the first time on appeal to the circuit court, raises the jurisdictional question in such a manner as to require that court to determine it. Id.

97. Error of court in considering October term as continuing after May term had commenced and in rendering judgment during May term as of the October term held harmless and not to have affected jurisdiction over the subject-matter or the parties. Smith v. King of Arizona Min. & Mill. Co. [Ariz.] 80 P. 357. Though parties cannot by consent confer jurisdiction upon a court which has none, they may, either expressly or by their conduct, waive objections to remedies pursued in courts having jurisdiction of the subject-matter. Foster v. Phinizy, 121 Ga. 673, 49 S. E. 865. Failure to object to reopening of decree by one not a party thereto by demurrer or motion to dismiss, to insist upon such objection in court below, where case was heard and determined on its merits, held waiver of right to do so. Id. Where demurrer was based on ground of want of jurisdiction, but there was no suggestion that jurisdiction was challenged on ground that hearing was in vacation, and defendants made no objections to a continuance, took part in taking depositions, etc., and made no application for postponement on the hearing, but joined issue after overruling of their demurrer, and proceeded to trial on the merits, held, that they could not contend on appeal that they were entitled to a delay, or that chancellor was without power to entertain the proceeding and render a decree in vacation. Owens v. Waddell [Miss.] 39 So. 459.

98. One cannot at the same time deny jurisdiction and invoke its exercise. Exception to jurisdiction of one of the divisions of the civil district court, based merely on failure to allot, will be deemed waived, where a decision thereon is not insisted upon before proceeding to the hearing of other matters involving the exercise of such jurisdiction. Richardson v. Johnson [La.] 39 So. 449. Where in an action by trustee in bankruptcy to recover debt alleged to be due bankrupt, the debtor obtained an order of interpleader, substituting an alleged assignee of claim as defendant, who voluntarily appeared and joined issue with plaintiff, plaintiff could not object for first time on appeal that court had no jurisdiction because substituted defendant was foreign corporation (Reichardt v. American Platinum Works, 94 N. Y. S. 384), or that suit was one in equity, and hence municipal court had no jurisdiction (Id.). If a case is removed to a Federal court on defendant's petition, he cannot claim that such court has no jurisdiction unless the state court had none. Jurisdiction which state court acquires by attachment of property of nonresident defendant creates jurisdiction in Federal court on removal, since property is thereby brought into its custody. Wells v. Clark, 136 F. 462. Jurisdiction to remove carries with it jurisdiction to proceed (Id.), and a nonresident defendant, by removing solely on the ground of diverse citizenship an action properly commenced against him in the state court in which attachment of his property has been had, confers on the Federal court jurisdiction of his person (Id.). May proceed to render a personal judgment against him, to be satisfied from the proceeds of the attached property. Id.

99. Mueller v. Michaels [Md.] 60 A. 485.

1. Not the omission to file order for publication of summons and affidavits on which it was based in clerk's office on or before the first day of publication, as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 442. Fink v. Waliach, 95 N. Y. S. 872.

2. See 4 C. L. 357, n. 94-99.

3. See Judgments, 4 C. L. 287. In collateral proceeding it is presumed that court making a decree ordering a sale of land had jurisdiction of the parties to, and the subject-mat-court had jurisdiction of the subject-matter, it will be presumed on appeal, in the absence of a showing to the contrary, that it acquired jurisdiction over the person of the defendant.[4]

An answer in mandamus proceedings attempting to set up matters which would oust the court of jurisdiction cannot be considered on application for a writ of prohibition.[5]

Hearing and trial of objections.[6]—It is the better practice to try the issue raised by a plea to the jurisdiction separately from those raised by a plea to the merits, but the submission of both issues to the jury on the same trial is no ground ter of, the action. Kelley v. Laconia Levee Dist. [Ark.] 85 S. W. 249. Evidence held sufficient on attempt to enforce foreign judgment to show that parties were resident in state, in view of the presumption in favor of the jurisdiction of the court. Collins v. Maude, 144 Cal. 289, 77 P. 945. Transcript of judgment of circuit court not inadmissible because it shows that pleadings were filed in circuit court of another county, but it will be presumed, if necessary to sustain judgment, that venue was properly changed. Chicago & S. E. R. Co. v. Grantham [Ind.] 75 N. E. 265. The presumptions in favor of jurisdiction to render a default judgment arising from the recitals of personal service in the judgment itself and the sheriff's return is not overcome by parol evidence of the defendant and others that he was absent from the state at the time of the alleged service. Mosher v. McDonald & Co. [Iowa] 102 N. W. 837. It being shown that the person making the service was at least a de facto officer, the presumption of regularity attaches with reference to his acts without proof of his appointment by the introduction of an official record. Id. Where return of original notice issued by justice indicates that service was had on defendants in township in which the judgment was entered, their residence will, on writ of error, be presumed to have been such as to confer jurisdiction in the absence of anything to the contrary in the justice's record. Herald Printing Co. v. Walsh [Iowa] 103 N. W. 473. After expiration of fifty-nine years, and where court had jurisdiction of subject-matter in suit for divorce, and record shows that defendant entered an appearance, and subpoena was returned "served," it will be presumed that the court, when after the return day it appointed an examiner, had before it a return showing the service to be regular, or that irregularities were waived, and that court had jurisdiction of the parties. Given v. Given, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 467. Decrees invulnerable on collateral attack. Fisher, Sons & Co. v. Crowley [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 422.

Probate courts: The probate court is a court of superior jurisdiction and within its jurisdictional limits its judgments import absolute verity the same as those of other superior courts. Collins v. Paepcke-Leicht Lumber Co. [Ark.] 84 S. W. 1044. A judgment of the probate court which shows affirmatively on its face that the court was proceeding in a matter over which it had no jurisdiction, or acting beyond its jurisdictional limits, is void. Id. A confirmation of a sale of lands does not cure jurisdictional defects. Not the fact that sale was made to pay expenses of administration and not to pay debts. Id. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1330, relative to proceedings to revoke the probate of wills, contestants cannot, in such a proceeding, attack the order admitting the will on the ground of want of jurisdiction because deceased was not a resident of the county, particularly where no such issue was raised in the trial court by the pleadings or otherwise. In re Dole's Estate [Cal.] 81 P. 534. The orphans' court is a superior court of general jurisdiction and its judgments cannot be collaterally attacked. Podesta v. Binns [N. J. Eq.] 60 A. 815. Sale in orphans' court cannot be collaterally attacked where judgment decreeing it recites and petition alleges all jurisdictional facts, and it appears that every step was regular. Id. See, also, Estates of Decedents, 5 C. L. 1183.

Federal courts: Where a court's right to take jurisdiction depended on facts in pais, it is presumed, in collateral proceedings, if jurisdiction was retained, that the court itself inquired concerning the facts and adjudicated them. Even if court decides wrongly, its judgment is effectual unless set aside in a direct proceeding. Cobe v. Ricketts [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 131. Where after suit to dissolve building association between citizens of different states had been brought in Federal court, state court attempted to transfer its jurisdiction of a similar suit, and Federal court assumed jurisdiction and entered decree for sale of association's assets which was never reversed, such decree was not subject to collateral attack, though it had been previously held by the state supreme court that the order transferring state court's jurisdiction was erroneous. Id. A judgment or decree entered in a suit in a Federal court, whose jurisdiction is invoked on the ground of diverse citizenship which is alleged and admitted, is conclusive, and cannot be upset by either of the parties in any other tribunal on the mere ground that there was in fact no diverse citizenship. Cannot be collaterally attacked when jurisdiction appears on the face of the record. Riverdale Cotton Mills v. Alabama & G. Mfg. Co., 198 U. S. 188, 49 Law. Ed. 1008.

4. Where mayor has jurisdiction over bastardy proceedings against a resident of the city, it will be presumed on appeal, in the absence of a showing to the contrary, that defendant was such a resident. Evans v. State [Ind.] 74 N. E. 244. Decree in foreclosure proceedings entered in accordance with mandate of court of appeals cannot then be attacked for first time upon petition verified in the most general form, and without evidence of facts on which want of jurisdiction was claimed to rest. Cook v. Weigley [N. J. Eq.] 59 A. 1029.

5. People v. District Court [Colo.] 79 P. 1024.

6. See Abatement and Revival, 5 C. L.

for reversal, where it does not appear that any objection to that method of procedure was made at the trial.[7] On the trial of an issue of fact raised by a plea to the jurisdiction, the burden is on defendant to show that the court is without jurisdiction of the case.[8]

A plea to the jurisdiction depending upon a question of residence, in regard to which the evidence is conflicting, may be left to the jury under proper instructions.[9]

JURY.[10]

§ 1. Necessity or occasion for jury trial. A. As preserved[11] by the constitutions.[12]—In civil cases the right to a jury trial as it existed at common-law is preserved by the Federal constitution and by the constitutions of the several states.[13] The right is not a privilege or immunity which the states are forbidden by the 14th amendment to abridge.[14] The right attaches only to the trial[15] and not to dilatory pleas,[16] but extends to all the issues of fact involved.[17] Legal issues of fact in

1; Pleading, 4 C. L. 980; Trial, 4 C. L. 1708.

7. Padrosa v. High [Ga.] 50 S. E. 97.

8. Padrosa v. High [Ga.] 50 S. E. 97. In garnishment proceedings, burden is sustained by showing that creditor is a nonresident, and burden is then on plaintiff to show that rule that situs of a debt is at the place of the creditor's domicile does not apply. Id.

9. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Helm [Ky.] 89 S. W. 709.

10. Scope of topic: The custody and conduct of the jury during the trial (See Trial, 4 C. L. 1708; Indictment and Prosecution, 5 C. L. 1790), and practice at the rendition of the verdict are elsewhere treated (See Verdicts and Findings, 4 C. L. 1803).

11. As granted by statute or constitution in particular cases, see post, § 1A.

12. See 4 C. L. 358.

13. Not in proceedings to establish a drainage district. Sisson v. Buena Vista County Sup'rs [Iowa] 104 N. W. 454. The North Carolina constitution does not guarantee a jury trial for the assessment of damages for land condemned. State v. Jones [N. C.] 52 S. E. 240.

NOTE: A proceeding in rem to summarily seize and destroy gambling apparatus is not triable by jury. Glennon v. Britton, 155 Ill. 232, 40 N. E. 594; Frost v. People, 193 Ill. 635, 86 Am. St. Rep. 352; Davidson v. New Orleans, 96 U. S. 97, 24 Law. Ed. 616; Lawton v. Steele, 152 U. S. 133, 38 Law. Ed. 385; 2 Waples, Proceedings in Rem; State and Federal Control of Persons and Property, p. 826.—See note to Woods v. Cottrell [W. Va.] 104 Am. St. Rep. 1011.

14. A state cannot deprive a person of his property without due process of law, but this does not necessarily imply that all trials in the state courts affecting property rights must be by jury. It is sufficient if the trial is had according to the settled course of judicial proceedings. Gunn v. Union R. Co. [R. I.] 62 A. 118. Authorizing a verdict by three-fourths of the jury does not violate any rights under the Federal Constitution. Franklin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 87 S. W. 930.

15. Not to an arraignment and plea in a criminal case. Hollibaugh v. Hehn [Wyo.] 79 P. 1044.

16. Under (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 511), Judiciary Act 1875, § 5, 18 Stat. 472, where the question of jurisdiction, on the ground that there is no evidence to support the jurisdictional allegations, is first raised, after judgment, the court may set aside the judgment and inquire into the question either with or without a jury as it may see fit.

quo warranto to forfeit a franchise[18] and issues in garnishment[19] are triable by a jury; but cases of contempt,[20] special statutory proceedings,[21] the question of benefits in special assessments,[22] and equitable actions,[23] are not. Whether a case is triable to the court or jury is a question for the court.[24] An action triable by jury is not taken from that class because of the nature of the relief demanded.[25]

In criminal cases the right is guaranteed as to all crimes under the Federal

Toledo Traction Co. v. Cameron [C. C. A.] 137 F. 48.

17. In a criminal case, if the court improperly withdraws an issue from the jury on the ground that there is no evidence to authorize its submission to them, it is erroneous as depriving defendant of the right to trial by jury guaranteed by the constitution. State v. McPhail [Wash.] 81 P. 683.

18. In quo warranto under Kirby's Dig. §§ 6749, 6750 to forfeit a franchise of a railroad company for failure to properly maintain its equipment, the company has a constitutional right to a jury trial as to whether it had maintained its property in good repair. Louisiana & N. W. R. Co. v. State [Ark.] 88 S. W. 559.

19. In Massachusetts a claimant of property which has been garnished by trustee process is entitled to a trial by jury of the issue of his title to the fund or property garnished, under the provisions of the Declaration of Rights, art. 15. Hubbard v. Lamburn [Mass.] 75 N. E. 707.

20. One charged with contempt of court, in attempting to obstruct the administration of justice by soliciting a bribe while acting as a juror is not entitled to a trial by jury. O'Neil v. People, 113 Ill. App. 195. Laws 1893, p. 96, providing for a trial by jury in all cases where a judgment is to be satisfied by imprisonment, does not confer the right on a defendant in contempt proceedings brought to coerce the performance of a duty ordered to be performed by the court, though the court may punish such disobedience by imprisonment. O'Brien v. People, 216 Ill. 354, 75 N. E. 108.

21. In an action to determine rights to mineral in a vein which extends beyond the vertical boundaries of a mining claim, the parties are not, as a matter of right, entitled to a jury trial. Hickey v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co. [Mont.] 81 P. 806.

22. Where a special tax has been levied under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 24, § 291, for the construction of sidewalks, a property owner is not entitled to a jury trial on the question of whether his property has been benefited to the extent of the tax levied. Harris v. People, 218 Ill. 439, 75 N. E. 1012. In Illinois the Constitution requires a jury in eminent domain proceedings whenever the taking is not by the state. Stack v. People 217 Ill. 220, 75 N. E. 347; Hutchins v. Vandalia Levee & Drainage Dist., 217 Ill. 561, 75 N. E. 354, citing Juvinall v. Jamesburg Drainage Dist., 204 Ill. 106, 68 N. E. 440.

23. See Equity, 3 C. L. 1210. Shipley v. Bolduc, 93 Minn. 414, 101 N. W. 952. The determination of the right to a jury trial depends on the nature of the action at its inception. If purely equitable, the right of trial by jury did not exist; if legal in its nature at its inception, although equitable defenses might be interposed, the right of trial by jury would still remain. Where the action as originally instituted seeks equitable relief alone, the interposition of a legal defense does not secure for the defendant the right to a trial by jury of the legal defenses pleaded. Daniels v. Mutual Ben. Ins. Co. [Neb.] 102 N. W. 458. On the trial of an action to enjoin perpetually the maintenance of a common nuisance under the prohibitory liquor law, the defendant is not entitled to a jury trial as of right. Cowdery v. State [Kan.] 80 P. 953. Actions for an accounting. Demars v. Hudon [Mont.] 82 P. 952. Partnership accounting. Houston v. Polk [Ga.] 52 S. E. 83; Hogan v. Walsh [Ga.] 50 S. E. 84. Action by a trustee in bankruptcy to avoid a fraudulent conveyance. Vollkommer v. Frank, 95 N. Y. S. 324. In a suit to foreclose a statutory lien against real estate, the court exercises its equity powers and there is no error in denying a jury trial. Burck v. Davis [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 192. A plaintiff in an action to foreclose a mortgage is not entitled to a jury trial of an issue raised by an answer which prays a money judgment against plaintiff, since such action is an equitable action. Rev. Codes N. D. 1899, § 5420 does not abridge the right to trial by jury, since Comp. Laws 1887, § 5032 did not give the right to trial by jury in such an action. Avery Mfg. Co. v. Smith [N. D.] 103 N. W. 410.

Juvenile courts: A statute conferring on judges of an existing court power to exercise a guardianship over children under a specified age, and authorizing their confinement in institutions of correction, is not unconstitutional as impairing the right to trial by jury, since such jurisdiction is an equitable jurisdiction. Commonwealth v. Fisher [Pa.] 62 A. 198. In a proceeding in a probate court contesting the allowance of an administrator's account, the parties are not entitled to a jury trial. Clifford v. Gridley, 113 Ill. App. 164.

24. Where a case has under the rules of the district court been placed upon the jury calendar by counsel, the court is not concluded by this designation, but may before the beginning of the trial order the same tried to the court if its character requires that disposition. Shipley v. Bolduc, 93 Minn. 414, 101 N. W. 952.

25. Action for breach of contract is triable by jury, though an accounting is prayed for. Hoosier Const. Co. v. National Bank of Commerce [Ind. App.] 72 N. E. 473. An action for goods sold and delivered where the complaint alleges that the defendant claims certain offsets, as to which it is alleged plaintiff has no knowledge and praying an accounting, is a legal action triable by a jury. Hoosier Const. Co. v. National Bank of Commerce [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 1006.

and most state constitutions, but some do not extend it to misdemeanors or prosecutions under ordinances[26] or offenses punishable only by fine,[27] or fine below a minimum amount.[28] In Pennsylvania the right does not attach to acts declared to be offenses since the adoption of the constitution.[29] A proceeding in which only the nature of the punishment to be imposed is determined is not a trial in which one is entitled to a jury.[30]

Denial of right; conditions.—The right is not denied when it is accorded[31] or allowed on demand[32] or appeal,[33] nor is it denied by a requirement that the demandant first pay the jury fee,[34] though a contrary rule would seem to prevail in Missouri.[35] Though the jury fee be not paid, the court may call a jury.[36] Denial of the right is harmless if the court would have been required to direct a verdict.[37] The right is satisfied if allowed on appeal,[38] though an appearance bond be required.[39] The right is not denied by a statute providing that one who pleads guilty shall be committed until sentenced.[40] The requirement that a jury be called to assess the punishment on a plea of guilty in capital cases does not apply to a plea of guilty of a lesser offense under an indictment charging a capital offense.[41]

26. One arraigned in a municipal court for violation of a municipal ordinance is not entitled to a jury trial. Little v. State [Ga.] 51 S. E. 501. One not charged with a crime against the state but with a violation of a municipal ordinance has no constitutional right to a jury trial. Littlejohn v. Stells [Ga.] 51 S. E. 390.

27. Imprisonment is not part of the penalty, where it is imposed only to enforce payment of a fine and costs under a police regulation; and it follows that error does not lie to a refusal by a mayor to grant a trial by jury to one charged for the first time under section 4364-20 with allowing a saloon to remain open on Sunday. Schlagel v. State, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 429.

28. Depriving municipal offenders of a jury trial where the penalty cannot exceed $25 is not a deprivation of the constitutional right. Stone v. Paducah [Ky.] 86 S. W. 531.

29. Commonwealth v. Andrews, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 571; Id,, 211 Pa. 110. 60 A. 554.

30. Trial before a magistrate under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 2722, in which the justice could not impose any penalty after conviction but was required to transmit his record to the superior court for final disposition. State v. Packenham [Wash.] 82 P. 597.

31. 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6959, providing that a person accused of crime and acquitted on the ground that he was insane at the time the crime was committed, may be confined when it appears his going at large would be dangerous to the community, and also making it the duty of the jury where insanity is a defense to state in their verdict that the acquittal is on such ground, is not unconstitutional as depriving the defendant of the right to trial by jury. Ex parte Brown [Wash.] 81 P. 552.

32. Act April 23, 1903 (P. L. 274) does not deprive juveniles charged with crime of their constitutional right to a jury trial. Commonwealth v. Fisher, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 175.

33. If a right to a jury trial in eminent domain proceeding is guaranteed by fundamental law, it is fully protected by a right of appeal to a court where issues are tried by a jury. State v. Jones [N. C.] 52 S. E. 240.

34. Act of April 8, 1903 (P. L. p. 505), providing that unless the party demanding a jury "shall at the time of making such demand pay the cost of the venire, the demand for trial by jury shall be deemed waived," is not in contravention of the constitutional provision that the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate. Humphrey v. Eakley [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1097. The right of the legislature to provide that the expense of a venire shall in the first instance be paid by the party demanding a jury is not an infringement of his constitutional right of a trial by jury. Id.

35. The constitutional right is denied a defendant in a justice court by requiring him to make a deposit to cover the expense of the jury. Missouri statutes do not require it. Scott v. Young [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 544.

36. It is not error for the trial court, in an action to recover for personal injuries, to call a jury to try the issues, though no jury fee had been paid prior to the calling of the case for trial. Hart v. Cascade Timber Co. [Wash.] 81 P. 738.

37. Combs v. Burt & Brabb Lumber Co. [Ky.] 85 S. W. 227.

38. A provision that a police court shall have jurisdiction to try misdemeanors with a right of appeal does not deprive an accused of a jury trial. State v. Lytle [N. C.] 51 S. E. 66. Gen. St. 1901, § 2496, providing for the seizure of intoxicating liquors and property used in maintaining a common nuisance under the prohibitory law, preserves to the claimant of the property a right of appeal from the police court, hence a jury trial is not denied. Stahl v. Lee [Kan.] 80 P. 983.

39. The constitutional right in criminal cases is satisfied by a statute which allows it only on appeal with bond, for appearance, to one charged with crime in a police court. City of Topeka v. Kersch [Kan.] 80 P. 29.

40. Such plea admits the material allegations of the indictment and leaves nothing to be tried by the jury. Hollibaugh v. Hehn [Wyo.] 79 P. 1044.

41. Under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, §§ 1903, 1904, authorizing a verdict finding defendant guilty of a lesser offense than that charged in the indictment, where one charg-

The character of jury guaranteed[42] is one selected from qualified persons without discrimination on the ground of race[43] or political faith.[44]

(§ 1) B. As conferred where the common law did not give it.[45]—In many states it is provided by statute that certain specific cases are triable by a jury,[46] and that issues of fact in equity cases may be submitted[47] in the discretion of the court.[48] Any court given jurisdiction to hear cases triable by jury has power to empanel a jury.[49] In equity it has long been the practice to send issues to a jury in proper cases.[50]

(§ 1) C. Demand, loss or waiver of right.[51]—In Alabama the demand need not be signed.[52]

The right may be waived in civil cases[53] and in prosecutions for misdemeanors.[54] Whether the waiver may be oral or must be reduced to writing depends on ed with murder in the first degree is permitted with the consent of the county attorney to plead guilty to manslaughter, the case is no longer capital and therefore it is not required that jury shall be called to assess the punishment under above statutes, § 1890. State v. Morrison [Ind.] 75 N. E. 968.

42. See 4 C. L. 361.

43. The court cannot assume that a defendant in a criminal case was deprived of an impartial jury because the panel was composed largely of persons not of his race, but legally qualified to sit as jurors, though the proportion of the persons of his own race in the community was greater than the proportion of such race drawn on the panel. Miera v. Territory [N. M.] 81 P. 586.

44. The provision of the Federal constitution which prohibits a state from denying to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws entitles one charged with a crime to be tried by a jury selected from persons possessing the statutory qualifications without discrimination against those of his own political faith because of that fact. Commonwealth of Kentucky v. Powers, 139 F. 452.

45. See 4 C. L. 361.

46. A juvenile offender charged with disturbing a public school in violation of Laws 1903, p. 328, c. 156, § 12 is entitled on trial before a justice to demand a jury under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 6668. State v. Packenham [Wash.] 82 P. 597. In an action by creditors to recover unpaid subscriptions on corporate stock, the alleged stockholders are entitled to a jury trial of the issue of their subscription or ownership of the stock. McFarland v. Martin [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 639. Disputed questions of fact on appeals from the decisions of the probate court must, if either party so asks, be tried by a jury. Nowland v. Rice's Estate [Mich.] 101 N. W. 214.

Assessing damages and benefits: A statute authorizing a board empowered to make certain public improvements to determine the benefits, as well as the value of property taken or damaged and to make an assessment for the expense of the improvement on the abutting owners is, so far as it does not include an assessment of value of property taken or damaged, constitutional. Stack v. People, 217 Ill. 220, 75 N. E. 347. The Act of May 29, 1879 and the amendments thereto passed in 1885 relative to the construction of levees and ditches, so far as they authorized the assessment of damages for lands taken and of damages to lands not taken, by commissioners instead of by a jury, are unconstitutional. Hutchins v. Vandalia Levee & Drainage Dist., 217 Ill. 561, 75 N. E. 354.

47. In a case in equity for an injunction to stay waste where title is put in issue by the pleadings, it is properly triable by a jury. Lancaster v. Lee [S. C.] 51 S. E. 139. Gen. St. Conn. 1902, § 4053, which gives to either party to an action to quiet title a right to a jury trial of any issue arising upon legal, as distinguished from equitable, claims, is not unconstitutional as being in contravention of either the state or Federal constitution. Dawson v. Orange [Conn.] 61 A. 101.

48. Discretion in refusing to submit issues in an equitable action held not abused. Cochran v. Cochran [Minn.] 105 N. W. 183. In Illinois, in a suit for separate maintenance, the parties are not entitled as of right to a jury trial on the issue of whether or not the parties are married. Pike v. Pike, 112 Ill. App. 243.

49. Where the probate court has jurisdiction to determine a question of fact, it has full power to impanel a jury, if either of the parties to the proceeding is entitled to a jury. Wiler v. Logan Natural Gas & Fuel Co., 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 206.

50. See Equity, 5 C. L. 1174. Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 615, et seq.

51. See 4 C. L. 362.

52. Acts 1896-97, p. 808, § 11, requiring the demand for a jury to be indorsed on the complaint, is not mandatory, and the demand need not be signed by plaintiff or his attorney. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Merrill [Ala.] 39 So. 121. The demand is not a pleading within Rule 4, Code 1896, p. 1186. Id.

53. Prosecutions under the Illinois Bastardy Act are civil and not criminal proceedings and the defendant may waive a trial by jury of the issue of paternity. Kanorowski v. People, 113 Ill. App. 468.

54. A defendant in a misdemeanor case may waive a jury trial, whether the same be upon accusation or indictment. Moore v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 81. On an appeal by defendant in criminal proceedings from a conviction for a misdemeanor had before a magistrate, the defendant may waive a trial by jury, under Code, § 692, providing that such proceedings on appeal shall be con-statute.[55] The right being constitutional, a waiver is not to be presumed;[56] but the making it in writing, where essential, may be presumed from a record reciting waiver.[57] A waiver is binding during the life of the litigation and cannot be retracted, except as otherwise provided by law;[58] but the court may in its discretion call a jury after waiver,[59] and under the statutes of Tennessee a waiver in a chancery case does not deprive the party of a right to demand a jury on retrial.[60]

What constitutes waiver.[61]—The right may be waived by express stipulation[62] or it may be implied. Thus failure to demand a jury[63] or pay the jury fee,[64] consenting to a reference,[65] or trial to the court,[66] constitutes a waiver. Whether or not a jury is waived is to be determined by the law in force at the time the proceeding occurred.[67]

§ 2. Eligibility to and exemption from jury service.[68]—The statutes of the ducted in the same manner as proceedings before a justice. Town of Lovilia v. Cobb, 126 Iowa, 557, 102 N. W. 496. Under Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 22, a defendant in a prosecution for violation of a local option law is entitled to waive trial by jury. Otto v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 470, 87 S. W. 698.

55. Under the express provision of Alaska Civil Code (31 Stat. 363, c. 19), a jury may be waived by written consent or oral consent in open court entered on the minutes. Shields v. Mongollon Exploration Co. [C. C. A.] 137 F. 539. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 110, § 102, an oral waiver in a misdemeanor case is sufficient. Jacobs v. People, 218 Ill. 500, 75 N. E. 1034. But accused cannot be imprisoned for nonpayment of the fine unless the waiver is in writing. Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 110, § 102. Jacobs v. People, 218 Ill. 500, 75 N. E. 1034.

56. Where the plaintiff duly demanded a jury trial and after the expiration of the time within which the defendant could have demanded a jury withdrew the demand, the motion of the defendant should be granted. Allworth v. Interstate Consol. R. Co. [R. I.] 60 A. 834.

Waiver by motion for directed verdict: Under Const. S. D. art. 6, § 6, and Code Civ. Proc. § 275, where defendant at the close of plaintiff's evidence, in an action for the recovery of specific personal property, moves for a directed verdict, which motion is denied and he then introduces evidence which would have required the submission of the issue to the jury, the motion not having been renewed at the close of all the evidence, is not a waiver of the right to a jury trial, so as to authorize the discharge of the jury and the making of findings by the judge on the conflicting evidence. Albien v. Smith [S. D.] 103 N. W. 655.

57. Where the record of a court of general jurisdiction recites that the defendant waived a jury, it will be presumed that the waiver was in writing as required by statute. Kanorowski v. People, 113 Ill. App. 468.

58. Tracy v. Falvey, 102 App. Div. 585, 34 Civ. Proc. R. 189, 92 N. Y. S. 625.

59. Fleming v. Wilson [Wash.] 80 P. 1104.

60. Worthington v. Nashville, etc., R. Co. [Tenn.] 86 S. W. 307.

61. See 4 C. L. 362.

62. Where the attorneys to an action or proceeding stipulate that it is of such a nature that it was discretionary with the court to submit any issue therein to a jury, the refusal of the court to submit the issue to a jury cannot thereafter be urged as error. Pike v. Pike, 112 Ill. App. 243. A stipulation construed as a waiver of jury and an agreement for an amicable action under Act June 13, 1836 (P. L. 568). Miller v. Cambria County, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 591.

63. See 4 C. L. 363, n. 65 et seq. One entitled to a jury trial before a justice, who does not demand it, cannot, when convicted and after the matter has been certified to the superior court for sentence, complain that he was deprived of a jury trial. State v. Packenham [Wash.] 82 P. 597. If the record on appeal does not show that a jury trial was demanded, the judgment should not be reversed on the ground that it was denied. Town of Clinton v. Leake [S. C.] 50 S. E. 541. Where no jury was demanded, it cannot be urged on review that certain issues should have been submitted. West v. Bank of Caruthersville, 110 Mo. App. 490, 85 S. W. 601.

64. See 4 C. L. 363, n. 69 et seq. A party who demands a jury trial and pays the jury fee as required by Municipal Court Act, § 231 (Laws 1902, p. 1557), and thereafter the justice adjourns the case of his own motion, is required to pay a second fee in order to obtain a jury trial on the adjourned date. De Nigris v. Brill, 94 N. Y. S. 505. But he may tax the amount paid as costs, though the Act, § 238, provides that only one jury fee may be taxed. Id. Laws 1903, p. 50, c. 43, providing that a jury trial is waived unless there is an election to have a jury trial and a jury fee deposited with the clerk, applies to determination of compensation in condemnation proceedings. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5620, relative to such proceedings, not providing how a jury may be waived. Chelan County v. Navarre [Wash.] 80 P. 845.

65. The constitutional right is waived where a reference is ordered upon consent and proceeds without objection. Brooklyn Heights R. Co. v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 93 N. Y. S. 849.

66. A jury having been discharged, and a trial had before a justice, with plaintiff's consent, the trial cannot be resumed before a jury, though plaintiff was misled by a statement of the justice as to his views of the law. Simpson v. Hefter, 43 Misc. 608, 88 N. Y. S. 282.

67. Chelan County v. Navarre [Wash.] 80 P. 845.

68. See 4 C. L. 363.

several states have preseribed certain requisites; to wit: residence in the county;[60] a proper age;[70] non-service as a juror within a specified period;[71] assessment for taxes on the last assessment roll;[72] and payment of poll tax;[73] that he must be a freeholder[74] or a householder.[75] Persons to be eligible must be of good moral character.[76] Disqualification because of having been convicted of a felony may be waived.[77] A right to a jury from the vicinage is not violated by authorizing the summoning of jurors from an adjoining county if an unbiased jury cannot be obtained in the county where the prosecution is pending.[78]

§ 3. Disqualification pertaining to the particular cause.[79] Right to an unbiased and unprejudiced jury.[80]—The right to trial by an impartial jury is guaranteed, hence a partial or biased jury should be discharged.[81]

Political, religious,[82] or race prejudice[83] is not alone ground for disqualification.

Conscientious scruples against capital punishment[84] on circumstantial evidence disqualifies.[85]

Prejudice as to the class of litigants or actions,[86] such as prejudice against the particular crime, does not disqualify,[87] nor does prejudice against the plea of in-

69. Acts 1884-85, p. 726, creating divisions of the circuit court of a county, does not require that jurors live in the division, hence a qualified juror of the county may serve in any division. Nordan v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 406.

70. It is not ground for challenge that a juror is more than 60 years of age. Keeler v. State [Neb.] 103 N. W. 64.

71. Kirby's Dig. § 4529, declaring that no person serving during a jury term shall be eligible for further service during that term or succeeding term of court, disqualifies only persons who have actually served. Humphrey v. State [Ark.] 86 S. W. 431. Under Burns' St. Ind. § 1460, it is a ground of challenge to a juror who is one of the regular panel that he has previously served as a juror within a year preceding the term at which he is challenged. Brooks v. Jennings County Agricultural Joint-Stock Ass'n [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 951. Ineligibility because of previous service in the same court during the year renders a juror incompetent propter defectum and is ground for challenge, but not cause for new trial, though the fact was not known until after verdict and sentence. Hill v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 57.

72. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 198, 199, requiring assessment on the last assessment roll, one is not competent until the assessment roll for the current year is completed and certified if he was not on the last. Houghton v. Market St. R. Co. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 972. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 198, 199, making it a condition of competency that the person must have been assessed on the last assessment roll of the county, an heir of a decedent whose estate was assessed, is incompetent where it does not appear that any of the property would become his on final settlement. People v. Warner [Cal.] 82 P. 196.

73. Rev. St. 1895, art. 3139, providing that the poll tax requirement may be dispensed with when it "shall be made to appear" that the requisite number of others cannot be found, does not authorize such requirement to be dispensed with on mere belief or probability. Must be made to appear by evidence. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Lester [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 813, 89 S. W. 752.

74. A license to lay off an oyster bed in land covered by navigable waters and not subject to grant is not a freehold interest which qualifies the licensee as a juror. State v. Young, 138 N. C. 571, 50 S. E. 213.

75. Need not be a householder under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4741, amended by Laws 1901, p. 32, c. 32. McKnight v. Seattle [Wash.] 81 P. 998.

76. A person who is not of good moral character is not. Manning v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 645.

77. Where the matter is not inquired into on the voir dire examination and no objection made until after trial, the objection is deemed waived. Turley v. State [Neb.] 104 N. W. 934.

78. Moseley v. Com. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 748.

79. Objections for disqualification, see post, § 8.

80. See 4 C. L. 364.

81. See Trial (discharge of jury), 6 C. L. post. As ground for new trial, see New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 4 C. L. 810. Error in permitting an incompetent juror to sit is harmless where a verdict is directed. Walton v. Lindsay Lumber Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 670.

82. It is not ground for disqualification that veniremen are Catholics in an action by a Protestant against a Catholic eleemosynary institution. Smith v. Sisters of the Good Shepherd [Ky.] 87 S. W. 1083.

83. Prejudice against the negro race not such as will prevent a person from according a fair trial does not disqualify a venireman who has no prejudice against the prisoner personally. State v. Brown [Mo.] 87 S. W. 519.

84. See 4 C. L. 364.

85. A juror who states that he would not be willing to find a verdict of guilty on circumstantial evidence if the effect would be punishment by death is properly excused. People v. Warner [Cal.] 82 P. 196. A prejudice against capital punishment on circumstantial evidence disqualifies whether or not the case will depend on circumstantial evidence. Calhoun v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 378.

86. See 4 C. L. 364.

sanity where such plea is not interposed.[88] Freedom from prejudice is ordinarily insisted on more strictly in criminal than in civil cases.[89]

Knowledge of issues involved[90] ascertained by service at a former trial of such issues disqualifies.[91]

Opinion on issues involved[92] which will require strong evidence to remove disqualifies,[93] but a general opinion upon some abstract proposition, in accordance with reason and experience,[94] or a qualified opinion based on newspaper reports and hearsay statements, does not disqualify one who states that he can decide the case on the evidence introduced and can give defendant the benefit of a reasonable doubt.[95]

87. Murder. Franks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 740, 88 S. W. 923.

88. Franks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 740, 88 S. W. 923.

89. A juror who states that he has a prejudice against such cases which might require evidence to remove but that he knows nothing about the facts of the particular case and has no predilections concerning it or its merits, and would try the case on its merits, is not disqualified. Denham v. Washington Water Power Co. [Wash.] 80 P. 546. No bias shown in an action for libel where a juror stated that he thought such actions speculative; were often unwarranted; that he had the same opinion of any kind of damage suit; that, being a newspaper man, such opinion might create a prejudice but that he would try the case on the evidence. Graybill v. De Young, 146 Cal. 421, 80 P. 618. No bias is shown where a juror states on his voir dire that he knows neither of the parties and nothing about the case; that he would not say that his sympathies were for either, but would favor one; but his verdict would depend on the evidence. Schwarz v. Lee Gon [Or.] 80 P. 110. It is not ground for a new trial that a juror who properly qualified had on his voir dire examination in a previous trial stated that he was biased in a general way against such cases but did not condemn all such cases. Hern v. Southern Pac. Co. [Utah] 81 P. 902.

90. See 4 C. L. 364.

Note: A juror having knowledge of incidental facts or those collateral to the material issues of the case is not thereby rendered incompetent. Delaney v. Salina, 34 Kan. 632, 9 P. 271; People v. Keefer, 97 Mich. 15, 56 N. W. 105; State v. Martin, 28 Mo. 530; Dew v. McDavitt, 31 Ohio St. 139. But if he has such knowledge of material facts as will tend to bias his opinion, he is incompetent. McIntire v. Hussey, 67 Me. 493; Atkins v. State, 60 Ala. 45; Laverty v. Gray, 3 Mart. [La.] 617; Buddee v. Spangler, 12 Colo. 216, 20 P. 760. This rule has been asserted even where a juror swears that he is unbiased. Vance v. State, 56 Ark. 402, 19 S. W. 1066. The application of this rule is addressed to the sound discretion of the court. Burlington & M. R. Co. v. Beebe, 14 Neb. 463, 16 N. W. 747.—See State v. Stentz [Wash.] 63 L. R. A. 807, and note.

91. People v. Mol [Mich.] 100 N. W. 913.

Note: Where the facts sufficiently appear, the cases in which service on a former trial of another defendant has been held ground for disqualification seem regularly to fall into two classes: (1) where there was participation in the offense; (2) where the verdict in both cases depended on proof of the same material fact. Examples of the first class are a joint assault, bribery of one defendant by the other, and participation by both in the same illegal game. People v. Troy, 96 Mich. 530; Brown v. State, 104 Ga. 736; Obenchain v. State, 35 Tex. Cr. App. 490. An instance of the second class was where both defendants had sold liquor to a person of known intemperate habits. As both sales were admitted, the vendee's reputation became the only fact in issue. Smith v. State, 55 Ala. 1. In the principal case there was no participation, and the evidence of the second defendant's guilt was purely corroborative. To raise upon such facts a conclusive presumption of prejudice would seem scarcely necessary. Support is, however, lent the case by a Michigan statute, which, by prohibiting the questioning of jurors concerning their verdict, might render extremely difficult any thorough examination of a juror's professions of impartiality.—18 Harv. L. R. 229, and note to People v. Mol [Mich.] 68 L. R. A. 871.

92. See 4 C. L. 365.

93. One who had talked with jurors who served on a former trial, and with witnesses who testified therein and had formed an opinion which would require strong evidence to overthrow, is disqualified for actual bias. State v. Miller [Or.] 81 P. 363. A veniremen in a murder case who states on his voir dire that he heard part of the testimony on a former trial, had talked with some of the witnesses, and had formed an opinion that would take considerable evidence to remove, is disqualified for actual bias. Id.

94. On the trial of a convict, that he would take the testimony of a convict with distrust, but that he had no prejudice against the convict and would weigh his testimony from the manner in which it was given and surrounding circumstances. People v. Murphy, 146 Cal. 502, 80 P. 709. On the trial of a convict accused of murder committed in pursuance of a conspiracy to escape, a juror is not disqualified because he has an opinion that there was a conspiracy, and that the crime was committed in pursuance thereof, but had no opinion as to the guilt of defendant, and could act impartially. Id.

95. State v. Williams [Nev.] 82 P. 353; Funderburk v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 672; State v. Forsha [Mo.] 88 S. W. 746; Mariow v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 653. A juror who states that the fact that defendant had been held to answer would raise a presumption against him in his mind is not disqualified under a statute providing that an opinion founded on public rumor, newspaper reports, etc., shall not disqualify him if he can act fairly, especially where he states that he has no opinion

Interest[98] exists disqualifying members of an indemnity company in a case to which its client is a party,[97] but servants of an officer[98] or stockholder of a corporation party are not interested.[99]

Acquaintance or relationship[1] do not disqualify unless one is related within certain degrees of consanguinity or affinity.[2] Relationship does not disqualify where the litigant acts only in a representative capacity.[3] Mere friendly relations are not grounds of disqualification.[4]

Proof of disqualification.[5]—It is the province of the court or trier to determine the question of bias,[6] and the finding will not be disturbed unless abuse of discretion is apparent,[7] especially when based on conflicting and evenly balanced evidence.[8]

§ 4. Discretion of court to excuse juror.[9]—The court may excuse a juror who is not in fact disqualified,[10] especially if his sitting is reasonably liable to cause a party an apprehension of unfairness.[11] The sufficiency of an excuse upon which to excuse the juror rests in the sound discretion of the court.[12] on the merits and can give defendant the benefit of a reasonable doubt. People v. Warner [Cal.] 82 P. 196. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2616, an opinion founded on rumor or newspaper report does not disqualify one who states that he can render an impartial verdict on the evidence. State v. Sykes [Mo.] 89 S. W. 851. An opinion as to the guilt or innocence of a defendant in a criminal action founded entirely on newspaper accounts and mere neighborhood rumors is not a valid ground of challenge in Nebraska under Code of Cr. Proc. § 468, provided it also appears that the juror can and will try the case fairly on the evidence. Barker v. State [Neb.] 103 N. W. 71.

96. See 4 C. L. 366.

97. Persons who are members of a mutual insurance company and liable to an assessment to pay any judgment which might be rendered against it are not qualified to sit as jurors in an action against it. Martin v. Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 656.

98. In an action against a corporation, a servant of another corporation, the president of which was also president of the defendant, is not disqualified. Glasgow v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 915.

99. In an action to which a corporation is a party, a person is not disqualified because he is in the employment of a stockholder or manager of such corporation. Dimmack v. Wheeling Traction Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 101.

1. See 4 C. L. 366.

2. A venireman in a murder case who was married to the second cousin of deceased was properly excused because related within the sixth degree by affinity. State v. Byrd [S. C.] 51 S. E. 542.

3. In a suit against a county, a brother of one of the county commissioners is not disqualified where it appears that the commissioner was not interested in the result of the action otherwise than as a citizen and in defending the action acted purely in his representative capacity. Pool v. Warren County [Ga.] 51 S. E. 328.

4. Decker v. Laws [Ark.] 85 S. W. 425.

5. See 4 C. L. 366.

6. Trial court's denial of a new trial on conflicting affidavits as to a juror's false swearing on his voir dire, and bias, held not an abuse of discretion. State v. Lauth [Or.] 80 P. 660. Code 1896, §§ 5010, 5018, making it the duty of the court to ascertain a juror's qualifications, authorizing him to sustain a challenge for cause as to one who states that he has no fixed opinion against capital or penitentiary punishment, but admitted that he had sworn to the contrary the day before and that the prior statement was correct. Sanford v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 370; State v. Lauth [Or.] 80 P. 660.

7. A finding of bias by the judge is not reviewable if based on evidence. State v. Byrd [S. C.] 51 S. E. 542. The determination by the trial judge as to a juror's partiality will be interfered with on appeal only when his examination on voir dire shows bias as a matter of law. Graybill v. DeYoung, 146 Cal. 421, 80 P. 618. Misconduct manifestly prejudicial is shown where a venireman falsely states on his voir dire that he had not heard the matter discussed, did not know anything about it, and was not acquainted with any of the witnesses. State v. Lauth [Or.] 80 P. 660.

8. State v. Lauth [Or.] 80 P. 660.

9. See 4 C. L. 366.

10. People v. Lee [Cal. App.] 81 P. 969.

11. Glasgow v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo.] 89 S. W. 915. It is not an abuse of discretion in an action against a corporation to excuse the servant of another corporation the president of which was also president of defendant. Id.

12. Nordan v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 406. Under Code 1892, § 2357, exempting only persons over 60 years of age and persons who have served on the regular panel within two years, it was not error to excuse one who desired to bid farewell to his son who was departing to a distant land and another who had served a few weeks before, where defendant was not prejudiced. Brown v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 316. Accused cannot complain that the judge, in his discretion, has excused a particular juror on account of sickness, there being present a sufficient number to complete the panel. State v. Voorhies [La.] 38 So. 964. Not an abuse of discretion to excuse one to enable him in an emergency to save his property. Nordan v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 406.

§ 5. The jury list and drawing for the term.[13]—The method of selecting the jury list is now generally regulated by statute.[14] Such statutes are generally held directory and substantial compliance is all that is required.[15] At common law, jurors were selected by the sheriff at his discretion. In so doing he exercised an executive and not a judicial function;[16] but laws providing for the appointment of jury commissioners are valid.[17] A list of those to be summoned is now usually required to be made up for each jury term of court or for each year;[18] but one cannot complain of failure to provide a jury list for a day of term before his case was to be called.[19] Where jurors are drawn before quashal of an indictment and a new indictment for the same offense is preferred, it is proper to draw other jurors for trial of the second indictment.[20] A requirement that the list be revised from time to time does not render revision within any particular time after the list is made essential.[21] Official acts of a de facto commissioner are not subject to collateral attack.[22]

The names of persons who are exempt or liable to be excused may be omitted.[23] The drawing must be done by the officer designated by law[24] in the presence of

13. See 4 C. L. 367.

14. Provisions against special laws: Code Civ. Proc. § 204, prescribing the method of selecting the jury list in counties of 100,000 population, does not violate the constitutional provision against special laws regulating practice in courts. People v. Richards [Cal. App.] 82 P. 691. Acts 1892, p. 392, c. 116, if intended as a special law, violates Const. 1890, § 90, prohibiting such laws relative to empaneling and summoning juries, and the general law governs. Burt v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 233. But if it was the intention to adopt the general law and make it applicable to the two districts of Perry County, the amendments of the general law (Acts 1904, p. 208, c. 151) apply to the judicial districts of Perry County. Id.

Subject-matter in title: The title of Pub. Laws 1903, p. 37, No. 31, relative to the practice in the circuit court of Wayne County, is broad enough to cover the drawing of juries. Fornia v. Frazer [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 259, 104 N. W. 147.

15. Where statutory provisions as to selecting jurors are directory, they should be liberally construed; substantial compliance therewith is all that is required. People v. Richards [Cal. App.] 82 P. 691. Irregularity in drawing the jury at a time and place different from that prescribed by law does not render a jury so drawn illegal. State v. Teachey, 138 N. C. 587, 50 S. E. 232. Irregularities in the method of selecting the jury lists are to be deemed immaterial unless it appears probable that the person challenging was probably prejudiced thereby. Ullman v. State [Wis.] 103 N. W. 6. Evidence held not to show a prejudicial departure from the statutes in the method adopted for selecting the jurors to serve on a panel. Id.

16. State v. McNay [Md.] 60 A. 273.

17. Acts of Maryland 1904, c. 560, p. 954, authorizing the drawing of grand and petit juries by jury commissioners, is not unconstitutional as conferring on executive officers judicial powers. State v. McNay [Md.] 60 A. 273.

18. It is proper in California to select the jury from the latest available list. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 204, providing that a list of jurors shall serve for the ensuing year or until a new list shall be provided, a jury may be selected from a list returned the preceding year where the list for the current year had not been filed with the clerk as required by §§ 208, 209. People v. Richards [Cal. App.] 82 P. 691.

19. Peel v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 251.

20. Carwile v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 220.

21. Under Rev. St. 1901, par. 2787, requiring county board of supervisors to make a list of persons qualified to serve as jurors at their first regular meeting in January, and from time to time revise the same, there is no necessity of revision within 90 days after the list is made. Ubillos v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 363.

22. A person though ineligible to be a jury commissioner, if appointed and acts, is a de facto officer and the official acts of the board in which he participated cannot be collaterally attacked. Wright v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 146. When a person not eligible to the office is appointed as a jury commissioner and duly qualifies and acts as such, his official acts in selecting the jury list are those of a de facto officer filling a de jure office and do not constitute a valid ground for a plea in abatement to an indictment found by a grand jury selected from the lists made up by such grand jury, since such acts are not subject to collateral attack. State v. Sutherlin [Ind.] 75 N. E. 642.

23. The names of all persons exempted by law from jury service as well as those whose business or avocation is such that it is reasonably probable that an excuse from service would be granted, may be omitted from the list. Rawlins v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 1.

24. Pub. Acts 1903, p. 37, No. 31, requiring the county clerk of Wayne County to draw juries in place of the jury commissioners, is valid. Fornia v. Frazer [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 259, 104 N. W. 147. Pub. Acts 1903, p. 37, No. 31, § 3, provides that the county clerk of Wayne County shall draw the jury, hence a drawing by a member of the board of jury commissioners is not legal. Id.

witnesses if such requirement is essential.[25] The method of drawing must be fair.[26] An unfair selection is a denial of equal protection of the laws,[27] and is not to be presumed from the mere fact that races are not represented in the ratio their numbers bear to the population.[28] The number of names to be drawn[29] and the publication of the list is regulated by statute.[30]

§ 6. The venire and like process.[31]—It must be issued as long before court day as the statute requires.[32] Names drawn from the box may be omitted from the venire if the persons are manifestly incompetent.[33] The venire is not "civil process" as to which the serving officer must be bonded.[34] A return showing that certain veniremen were absent from the county need not show diligence to secure their attendance.[35] A return may be amended to speak the truth.[36]

§ 7. Empaneling trial jury.[37]—The veniremen are ordinarily drawn or called, accepted or challenged, and examined if challenged and then sworn.[38] A jury need not be sworn on their voir dire in a criminal case until challenged for cause.[39] Where it is provided that names shall be "drawn" from the list unless by consent drawing be waived and the panel "called," a failure to demand a drawing may be a waiver.[40] The panel should be drawn with all the names in the box,[41] and must be so drawn if the statute requires, though some are disqualified;[42] but this may be waived.[43] A full attendance is not essential unless absence prevents the selection of an impartial jury.[44] They should not be called faster than is necessary to keep the panel full.[45] Technical nonprejudicial objections to the method of empaneling are not ground for reversal,[46] and irregularities cannot be

25. Under Act No. 135 of 1898, p. 218, § 4, the presence of two or more competent witnesses at a meeting of the jury commissioners to draw jurors is essential to the validity of the proceedings. State v. Feazell [La.] 38 So. 444.

26. Where a challenge to the array on grounds tending to vitiate the scrolls in the boxes was sustained, the party making it cannot complain that in the revision of the lists for a subsequent drawing such scrolls containing the names of eligible persons were destroyed. State v. Teachey, 138 N. C. 587, 50 S. E. 232.

27. Where jury lists in three different trials of a cause contained almost exclusively the names of persons belonging to a political party hostile to defendant, though qualified veniremen in the locality numbered one-half of the same political faith as defendant. Commonwealth v. Powers, 139 F. 452.

28. Miera v. Territory [N. M.] 81 P. 586.

29. Where a general statute as to qualifications, selections, and drawing of jurors with provisions that the drawing be done by the clerk, is amended by an act restricted in title and body to the drawing by the judge, the amendment makes no change in the number of names for jurors to be drawn by the clerk. Kinchien v. State [Fla.] 39 So. 467.

30. Act No. 135, p. 216, 1898 (the general jury law), does not require the lists of jurors to be published or posted for 30 days or any other particular period. State v. Voorhies [La.] 38 So. 964.

31. See 4 C. L. 368.

32. Under Laws Pa. 1834 (P. L. 333) § 96 and Act April 18, 1876, a venire which was issued more than 30 days before the week during which the jurors are to serve is valid. Stamey v. Barkley, 211 Pa. 313, 60 A. 991.

33. It is not prejudicial error to omit from the venire a name drawn from the box where the person has removed from the state and was a brother in law of defendant's counsel. Marlow v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 653.

34. It is not ground for challenge for cause that the constable to whom the venire in a criminal case was sent for service had not given a bond to serve civil process as required by Rev. Laws, c. 25, § 88. Commonwealth v. Tucker [Mass.] 76 N. E. 127.

35. Coleman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 718, 88 S. W. 238.

36. A sheriff may be allowed to amend his return so as to speak the truth with respect to certain veniremen. Calhoun v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 378.

37. See 4 C. L. 368.

38. See 12 Enc. Pl. & Pr. 373, 515. Challenging and swearing, see post, §§ 8, 9.

39. Young v. State, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 53.

40. Failure to demand that a drawn jury be empaneled in the manner prescribed by Mansf. Dig. §§ 2221, 2222, is a waiver of a drawn jury, since the manner of drawing prescribed by § 2223 may be waived. Burroughs v. United States [Ind. T.] 90 S. W. 8.

41, 42. Oates v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 769.

43. Where parties announce themselves as ready for trial with notice that some of the jurors had been excused for an hour and proceeded to draw a jury which was suspended after five were drawn, and the names of the excused jurors put in the box, it was not error to refuse to put back the names already drawn, and draw the entire jury anew. State v. Harding, 70 S. C. 382, 50 S. E. 10.

44. Accused cannot complain that a juror duly summoned has failed to appear, where there are present a sufficient number to com-

reviewed on habeas corpus.[47] Re-examination of jurors after a change of plea may be dispensed with if proper instructions be given.[48] If an accepted juror be excused for sickness while the panel is incomplete, it is not necessary to empanel anew[49] and his place may be supplied from the box.[50]

§ 8. Arraying and challenging. A. Challenge to the array or panel.[51]—A challenge to the array is an objection to all the jurors collectively because of some defect in the panel as a whole,[52] and is not a proper method of raising an objection to the disqualifications of particular jurors,[53] nor is it any objection that provision was not made for a jury at other parts of the term, the one provided being legal.[54] The challenge must be interposed before the jury is empaneled, accepted,[55] and sworn.[56] In some states no particular form is required[57] and the lack of a form does not signify that this challenge is denied;[58] but in others it is required to be in writing,[59] and to state specifically,[60] and not as a mere conclusion or inferentialplete the panel. State v. Voorhies [La.] 38 So. 964.

45. Under Mansf. Dig. §§ 2221, 2222, after some of the panel have been disposed of by challenge, no more than the number necessary to complete the panel are to be presented for challenge at one time, whether the list is exhausted or not. Burroughs v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 90 S. W. 8.

46. Method appointed by statute not followed where after part of the evidence was in one juror was excused for sickness. Turner v. Territory [Okl.] 82 P. 650.

47. That defendant's presence in court during the empaneling and swearing of the jury was waived. In re Shinski [Wis.] 104 N. W. 86.

48. Where on the trial of a conspiracy a severance was granted and one of the defendants pleaded guilty, whereupon leave to re-examine the jurors for prejudice by reason of the change of plea, and one juror admitted prejudice, it was not error to refuse a re-examination when another changed his plea to guilty, the court having cautioned the jury that such fact should not be considered. Wong Din v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 135 F. 702.

49, 50. Sanford v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 370.

51. See 4 C. L. 369.

52. Bryan v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 298.

53. Such objection should be raised by a challenge to the polls. Bryan v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 298. That some of the persons selected do not possess the requisite qualifications is not ground for challenge to the panel. People v. Richards [Cal. App.] 82 P. 691. A challenge to the array is not a proper method of raising the disqualification of individual jurors. Rawlins v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 1. A special venire summoned to try defendant at an adjourned term cannot be quashed because some of the veniremen served as regular jurors at the regular term. Peel v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 251.

54. Under Code 1896, § 917, a venire called for the second week of an adjourned term, at which term defendant's case was set for trial, cannot be objected to by defendant because the order of adjournment made no provision for summoning jurors for the first week of the term. Peel v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 251.

55. A motion to quash a special venire is too late when made after the jury has been selected and accepted. Dunn v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 147.

56. A challenge to the panel on the ground that the jurors had not qualified as to relationship will not lie after the jury has been empaneled and sworn. Braham v. State [Ala.] 38 So. 919.

57, 58. In Wisconsin, though the statutes do not provide for a challenge or other objection to a panel, such objection may be raised, and the form in which it is raised is not important. It may be in the form of an objection to the entire panel, or by a motion to quash the return thereof, or may be in the set phrase of a challenge to the array. It is sufficient if it is stated definitely and taken down by the stenographer. Ullman v. State [Wis.] 103 N. W. 6.

59. At common law a challenge to the array was required to be made in writing stating specifically the grounds relied on. An issue of law or fact was then formed in respect thereto, which was tried by the court if one of law and by triers appointed by the court if of fact. Ullman v. State [Wis.] 103 N. W. 6.

60. The grounds of a challenge to the array should be specifically stated. The trial court has some discretion as to how specifically the grounds of the challenge should be stated; the statement should be sufficiently full and definite to inform the trial court and the adverse party reasonably of the precise departure from the legal requirements relied on. The right of challenge to the array should be exercised before commencing the empaneling of the jury, otherwise it will be deemed waived. Ullman v. State [Wis.] 103 N. W. 6. A demurrer to a challenge to the array on the bare ground "that there are a great many negroes in the county fully qualified for jury duty" was properly sustained. Bardwell v. State [Fla.] 38 So. 511. A motion to quash a venire on the ground that the sheriff had not properly executed the writ, and where the court proposed to order attachments for the defaulting jurors, the movant stated that the roads were impassable, and that a fair jury could not be obtained, was properly denied. Starr v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 104, 86 S. W. 1023. Motion to quash the venire, made up of nearly one-half of talesmen, which did not allege corruption in the selection of the talesmen, properly overruled. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Perry [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 62. A plea in abatement charging that a jury list was not properly selected by the ly,[61] the grounds relied on. A challenge resting in fact must be supported by evidence,[62] and the burden must be borne by the party who interposed it.[63] In some states the action of the trial court on the challenge is final.[64] A challenge to the array is not waived by failure to interpose a challenge to the panel.[65] Error in denying a challenge to the panel without permitting proof of the facts upon which the challenge is made is cured by a subsequent offer to permit such proof.[66]

(§ 8) B. Challenge for cause.[67]—Objections on the ground of competency must be taken before the juror is sworn.[68] Challenges to the favor must be to the individuals and not to the panel,[69] and must state the grounds of challenge.[70] Objections on the ground of bias are deemed waived if known at the time of trial,[71] but not if the venireman swore falsely[72] and a new trial will be granted.[73] A ruling on challenge for implied bias is not exceptionable in Montana.[74]

Right to list of jurors.[75]—In some states an accused is entitled to be served with a correct copy of the venire.[76]

(§ 8) C. Peremptory challenges and standing jurors aside. Peremptory challenges[77] secure the right to reject, not to select, a juror,[78] and were not allowed by the common law in the trial of misdemeanors.[79] officer or officers charged with that duty must be certain. State v. McNay [Md.] 60 A. 273.

61. Starr v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 104, 86 S. W. 1023. A motion to quash a venire on the ground that it was not drawn and summoned according to law states a mere conclusion and is insufficient. Peel v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 251.

62. A motion to quash a venire because the jury was not properly drawn must be supported by evidence. Morris v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 608.

63. Where there was no evidence before the court, a motion to discharge was properly denied. State v. Jones [Mont.] 80 P. 1095. A denial of a challenge to a panel drawn in accordance with the provisions of a statute purporting to regulate the matter, though unconstitutional, is not error, where the defendant examined the jurors and accepted them and they possessed the necessary qualifications, since such jury was at least a de facto jury. People v. Ebelt, 180 N. Y. 470, 73 N. E. 235.

64. Under Cr. Code, § 281, the decision of the trial court in the matter of the selection of a jury from an adjoining county is not subject to exception and cannot be reviewed on appeal. Moseley v. Com. [Ky.] 84 S. W. 748.

65. Where an objection to the array has been seasonably interposed and overruled, the party making the objection is not deemed to have waived it by failure to object to the trial jury impaneled as a whole. Ullman v. State [Wis.] 103 N. W. 6.

66. People v. Lee [Cal. App.] 81 P. 969.

67. See 4 C. L. 369.

68. An objection that a juror who was sworn was not on the jury list. State v. Matheson [Iowa] 103 N. W. 137. A rule that challenges must be made when a juror appears and before he is sworn is not violated where the court on excusing one of four jurors drawn from the box after eight had been sworn required another to be drawn before the three were examined. People v. Lee [Cal. App.] 81 P. 969.

69. O'Donnell v. Weiler [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1055.

70. The ground must be such that if proven would be sufficient to sustain the challenge. O'Donnell v. Weiler [N. J. Law] 59 A. 1055. "Challenged for cause" is insufficient on appeal. State v. Forsha [Mo.] 88 S. W. 746.

71. Alleged disqualification of one of the jurors who tried the case is not ground for a new trial where it does not appear that the facts were not known at the time of trial. Rhodes v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 361.

72. Nothing is waived where a juror who conceals his bias is accepted. The parties may rely on his sworn statements on his voir dire examination. Healsey v. Nichols [Wash.] 80 P. 769.

73. Where a juror swears falsely and conceals his bias on his voir dire examination the aggrieved party is entitled to a new trial as of right. Healsey v. Nichols [Wash.] 80 P. 769.

74. Under Pen. Code, § 2170, providing that in criminal cases defendant may except to the disallowance of a challenge to the panel or to an individual juror for implied bias, no exception lies to the sustaining of a challenge in the latter case. State v. Jones [Mont.] 80 P. 1095.

75. See 4 C. L. 369.

76. A defect in the copy of the venire required to be served on accused under Code 1896, § 5273, is not within § 4997, providing that no objection can be taken to any venire except for fraud, nor § 5007, declaring that a mistake in the name of a person summoned, either in the list of jurors or venire, is not ground for quashal. Carwile v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 220. Code 1896, § 5273, requiring that a copy of the venire to try the case be served on the accused, is not complied with by service of a copy containing the name of a person as a regular juror who has not been summoned. Id. Such a defect is not harmless error. Id. A venire is not defective, though made up in part of a jury filled as provided by Code 1896, § 5011, after three of the veniremen summoned failed to appear. Nordan v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 406.

77. See 4 C. L. 370.

The number allowed[80] is prescribed by statute,[81] likewise the question whether each of joint parties may challenge the full number or may do so only in the aggregate;[82] but adverse parties, though joined, are sometimes entitled to the number allowed each.[83] If two defendants each claim the full number instead of joining, the rule in Georgia is to allow the state twice as many as ordinarily.[84] The number allowed in "felonies" is not reduced because in a crime essentially a felony the accused because of his infancy is punishable unlike ordinary felons.[85] The policy of the legislation relative to the District of Columbia has been to restrict the number allowed defendant in a criminal prosecution and increase those allowed the state.[86] Error in disallowing the full number is harmless where the number allowed was not exhausted and it did not appear that an objectionable juror was permitted to sit.[87] Allowing an additional peremptory challenge for the purpose of curing error is not ground for reversal in the absence of prejudice.[88]

Time for challenge.[89]—A party cannot be required to exercise a peremptory challenge unless the panel is full;[90] but should interpose it after the voir dire examination and before another juror is called for examination,[91] and the right may be lost if it is not seasonably exercised.[92] The South Carolina rule that the solicitor should exercise the state's right before the juror is accepted by defendant has no statutory sanction, and a technical violation of it is not ground for setting aside a verdict.[93]

The order of challenges,[94] unless otherwise prescribed by law, rests in the discretion of the court;[95] but no favor may be shown either party.[96]

78. Commonwealth v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 470.

79. Commonwealth v. Evans [Pa.] 61 A. 989.

80. See 4 C. L. 370.

81. Under Cr. Code, § 55, on an indictment for forgery, the state is entitled to five peremptory challenges. State v. Murray [S. C.] 52 S. E. 189. On a prosecution for carnal abuse of a female under the age of 16 years, the defendant is entitled to only 10 peremptory challenges, as it is to be distinguished from a prosecution for rape. State v. Cannon [N. J. Law] 60 A. 177.

82. In Arizona where two or more defendants are jointly tried, only the number of peremptory challenges each would have been entitled to if tried separately are allowed. Statutes construed. Booth v. Territory [Ariz.] 80 P. 354. Under Code D. C. § 918, several defendants joined in a prosecution for an offense punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary have 10 peremptory challenges to be shared between them. Lorenz v. U. S., 24 App. D. C. 337. A statute requiring that where there are several parties on a side they must join in a challenge applies to peremptory challenges made in a condemnation proceeding, where it was sought to condemn several parcels of land belonging to different owners. San Luis Obispo County v. Simas [Cal. App.] 81 P. 972.

83. Where joint defendant carriers in an action for loss of freight both denied the loss and asserted that the other was responsible, they are adverse parties and entitled to three peremptory challenges each, under Rev. St. 1895, art. 3213. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Bingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1113.

84. Rawlins v. State [Ga.] 52 S. E. 1.

85. Under the Kansas statute the offense of rape is a felony and punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, and a boy charged with such offense, though but 16 years of age, and who therefore could not be sent to the penitentiary, is entitled to exercise six peremptory challenges. State v. Davidson [Kan.] 80 P. 945.

86. Lorenz v. U. S., 24 App. D. C. 337.

87. See Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 5 C. L. 1620; Indictment and Prosecution (Harmless Error) 5 C. L. 1790.

88. State v. Bonar [Kan.] 81 P. 484.

89. See 4 C. L. 370.

90. A party to an action cannot be required to exercise a peremptory challenge or for cause unless there are twelve jurors in the box for examination. A refusal to allow a peremptory on the ground that defendant had refused to exercise it while only eleven jurors were in the box for examination is reversible error. Chicago City R. Co. v. Fetzer, 113 Ill. App. 280.

91. Commonwealth v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 470.

92. Under Pa. Acts July 9, 1901, where a juror has been first examined by defendant and no cause for challenging discovered and no peremptory challenge interposed, and on being turned over to the state for cross-examination is accepted by the state without cross-examination, he cannot then be peremptorily challenged by the defendant. Commonwealth v. Evans [Pa.] 61 A. 989. That after trial counsel learns of facts concerning a juror which if known at the time would have caused him to exercise a peremptory challenge is not ground for new trial. Hern v. Southern Pac. Co. [Utah] 81 P. 902.

93. State v. Harding, 70 S. C. 395, 50 S. E. 11.

(§ 8) D. Examination of jurors and trial and decision of challenges. Scope of examination.[97]—The examination of jurors rests largely in the discretion of the court,[98] and while the parties have a right to ascertain whether or not a juror is interested or biased, the examination should be limited strictly to questions tending to elicit such information.[99] Questions as to partiality should be limited to the particular case and the parties thereto.[1] It is proper to ask a juror if he will consider all the testimony fairly and impartially and give it such weight as in his best judgment he deems it entitled to;[2] but not to ask if weight will be given to particular testimony.[3] Questions the sole purpose of which is to aid in the exercise of the right of peremptory challenge,[4] or questions propounded for an illegitimate purpose,[5] may be refused; but the motive of counsel in asking questions is to be considered only when such questions are incompetent.[6] The right to reject a juror is not waived by defendant where after examination he turns him over to the state for cross-examination.[7]

Review of trial of challenges.[8]—A decision that a challenge for actual bias is substantiated is reviewable on a record containing, not all the evidence, but sufficient to show that he was disqualified.[9]

Improper overruling of a challenge is not ground for reversal[10] if a right of peremptory challenge remained when the jury was finally accepted[11] and its exercise would have removed all objectionable jurors,[12] or if no obnoxious person was

94. See 4 C. L. 370.

95. He may require that the partles alternate. but failure of either to challenge shall not be a waiver of one of the number allowed by law. Commonwealth v. Brown, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 470.

96. It is error to allow the state to peremptorily challenge a juror after he has been accepted and a full panel tendered to defendant and then refused to allow the defendant to peremptorily challenge another after he had been accepted by both parties but before final acceptance of the panel. Cook v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 113.

97. See 4 C. L. 370.

98. The court is not bound to put to the juror any question which counsel may request, no challenge having been interposed, for the purpose of eliciting information to enable counsel to determine whether he shall interpose a peremptory challenge. Handy v. State [Md.] 60 A. 452. Refusal to allow a question to juror on his voir dire intended to elicit information as to whether the juror was prejudiced against the defendant is not reversible error where at the time the defendant had not exhausted any of his peremptory challenges. Such question was proper however. Chicago City R. Co. v. Fetzer, 113 Ill. App. 280. There being no general challenge of the jurors for impartiality, it is no ground for reversal that the court refused to allow three questions to be propounded to them, one of which was improper. Sullivan v. Padrosa [Ga.] 50 S. E. 142.

99. The examination should be unaccompanied by statements by court or counsel which tend to prejudice a juror. Faber v. Reiss Coal Co. [Wis.] 102 N. W. 1049. Where several prosecutions are pending against the same person, he is entitled to question jurors who have heard evidence in a prior trial if they would have an opinion if it should transpire that the evidence in the two cases were similar. Barnes v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 623, 88 S. W. 805.

1. Sullivan v. Padrosa [Ga.] 50 S. E. 142.

2. People v. Warner [Cal.] 82 P. 196.

3. Testimony of defendant in a criminal case. People v. Warner [Cal.] 82 P. 196.

4. Dimmack v. Wheeling Traction Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 101.

5. "Do you know 'J,' attorney for the Fidelity Insurance Company in this case" is erroneous. Cunningham v. Heidelburger, 95 N. Y. S. 554.

6. A question in a personal injury case "are any of the jurymen interested as agents or stockholders in any insurance company insuring corporations against liability for negligence" is proper. Grant v. National R. Spring Co., 100 App. Div. 234, 91 N. Y. S. 805.

7. Commonwealth v. Evans, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 239.

8. See 4 C. L. 371.

9. State v. Miller [Or.] 81 P. 363.

10. See 4 C. L. 371.

11. Errors in overruling challenges to jurors for cause not ground for reversal unless shown that objectionable juror was forced upon party after he had exhausted peremptory challenges. National Bank of Boyertown v. Schufelt [Ind. T.] 82 S. W. 927. Overruling a challenge for cause and compelling a party to resort to a peremptory challenge does not prejudice him, where when the jury is accepted, he still has peremptory challenges not used, but if by overruling a challenge for cause anything could be inferred in the cause prejudicial to the rights of the party interposing the challenge compelling him to exhaust a peremptory on persons liable to challenge for cause, such overruling would be error. Martin v. Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 656.

12. Where the court overrules a challenge to one of four jurors, equally disqualified to act as jurors in the cause, the fact that the party challenging does not exhaust his two in consequence forced on the party,[13] and the erroneous exclusion of a juror on the state's challenge in a criminal case is not ground for reversing a conviction.[14] It is not prejudicial to excuse a juror on the challenge of one party, though the other party concurs in the challenge.[15]

§ 9. Talesmen, special venires and additional jurors.[16]—Special venires may be issued in various emergencies.[17] They should not contain names of those who were jurors at the regular term[18] but will not be quashed for that reason,[19] and in making up an additional venire the name of a person who lives at a distance need not be summoned;[20] but in Texas, where the statute requires that the regular list be included, it is mandatory[21] and the regular and special names must all be put in the box, though some are disqualified by previous service.[22] A special venire should be seasonably issued,[23] but a mere statutory direction as to time leaves power in the court to issue it after term begun.[24] The return must show a diligent service of the venire or else facts excusing failure to serve it.[25] In Illinois the court may depute any person to summon talesmen.[26] An objection that talesmen were unfairly selected must plead the particulars of unfairness with certainty.[27]

§ 10. Special and struck juries and juries of less than twelve.[28]—Special juries may be called in cases prescribed by law.[29] They must be selected in the manner prescribed by law,[30] and the statutory rules strictly complied with.[31] remaining peremptory challenges does not constitute a waiver of his objection to the four jurors. Martin v. Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 656.

13. Decker v. Laws [Ark.] 85 S. W. 425. It is prejudicial error to overrule challenges to disqualified jurors, and ground for reversal when the trial was compelled to be had before obnoxious jurors. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Lester [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 813, 89 S. W. 752.

14. Fishburn v. Com. [Va.] 50 S. E. 443.

15. People v. Warner [Cal.] 82 P. 196.

16. See 4 C. L. 371.

17. When a defendant in homicide demanded that a venire be drawn in equal numbers from each of two judicial districts alternately, and the box for one district had become exhausted, it was proper to direct the summoning of an equal number from that district to serve on a special venire. Brown v. State [Miss.] 38 So. 316. In Texas if the list made up by the commissioners for the county court is rendered inadequate by an emergency the court may order other jurors summoned. Where, after the list had been made, a large number of indictments were returned by the grand jury. Martin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 29.

18, 19. Peel v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 251.

20. Loc. Acts 1900-01, p. 2002, § 10 authorizes the court, in a homicide case, where the jury is incomplete and the venire exhausted, to order that a person drawn who resides more than two miles from the court house be not summoned. To summon him might cause delay. Sanford v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 370.

21, 22. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 647, providing that when a special venire is ordered the names of all persons selected to do service during the term shall be used, must be followed where defendant is charged with a capital offense, though names outside the box are those of persons manifestly incompetent. Oates v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 86 S. W. 769.

23, 24. Ky. St. 1903, § 2244, providing that the judge may not more than 10 nor less than 5 days before the beginning of a special term direct the summoning of a jury, is not mandatory and the order may be entered after the beginning of the term. White v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 85 S. W. 753.

25. A recital in the sheriff's return to a special venire, showing that certain of the venire were absent from the county, recites facts rendering unnecessary any amount of diligence to secure the attendance of such persons. Coleman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 718, 88 S. W. 238.

26. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 78, § 13, the court may appoint any person whether an officer or not, to summon talesmen; the fact that the appointee is acting as a constable at the time is immaterial. Carroll County v. Durham [Ill.] 76 N. E. 78.

27. An objection to talesmen summoned after the venire is exhausted, on the ground that they were all summoned in a certain city but not showing that they all lived in such city, is insufficient. Starr v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 104, 86 S. W. 103.

28. See 4 C. L. 372.

29. Laws 1901, p. 1465, c. 602, § 5, authorizing a special jury where "important or intricate" questions are involved, applies to an action for damages to the holder of railroad bonds for breach of contract as to reorganization of the road, the measure of damages depending on the value of the road and its appurtenances as a going concern. Industrial & General Trust v. Tod, 95 N. Y. S. 44.

30. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1065, the commissioner is required to select the names in the presence of the parties or their attorneys, and where the list is selected in their absence, it may be set aside. Industrial & General Trust v. Tod, 34 Civ. Proc. R. 287, 93 N. Y. S. 725.

31. The proceeding under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1063-1069, for the selection of a special jury is special and must be strictly complied with. Industrial & General Trust v. Tod, 34

In making up a struck jury, the names must be stricken by the parties entitled.[32] Under the rule that members of a struck jury cannot be challenged for any cause except bias or interest as to the particular case, the court must upon request examine the jurors as to relationship.[33]

According to the treaties and subsequent legislation under which Alaska was incorporated into the United States, it is unconstitutional to try misdemeanors with six jurors.[34]

§ 11. Swearing.[35]—Unless controlled by statute the swearing on the voir dire may be individually or as a body.[36]

§ 12. Custody and discharge of jurors and jury.—The court must keep the jury together under such circumstances that a true and fair verdict shall be facilitated.[37] It is in some states allowable to excuse a juror for disqualifying or disabling cause and to proceed with eleven[38] or to supply another,[39] especially when all consent.[40]

§ 13. Compensation, sustenance, and comfort of jurors.[41]—The expense of a jury is properly chargeable to the county, whether they sit in a criminal[42] or a civil case,[43] and whether they be regular or special jurors.[44]

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

§ 1. The office.[1]—The organization of justices' districts,[2] the number of justices to be appointed or elected for each district,[3] their appointment[4] or election,

Civ. Proc. R. 287, 93 N. Y. S. 725. The court at special term may set aside a special jury for an irregularity in their selection which may render the proceeding a nullity. Id.

32. Where a struck jury was demanded but a regular drawing waived, the action of the court in allowing the parties to strike from a panel of 21 is not ground for error where it does not appear from the record who struck the names. Flowers v. Flowers [Ark.] 85 S. W. 242. A contestant in a will contest on an issue hostile to the proponent as well as other contestants cannot be compelled in the striking of a jury to exercise his challenges jointly with other contestants. Id.

33. Refusal to do so held not harmless error. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Ferguson [Ala.] 39 So. 348.

34. Rassmussen v. U. S., 197 U. S. 516, 49 Law. Ed. 862.

35. See 4 C. L. 372.

36. Under Mansf. Dig. § 2223, providing that by consent the drawing may be waived and "the whole panel may be sworn, examined and disposed of," the whole panel need not be sworn in the first instance; the court may call to the box the number of men necessary to fill the jury. Burroughs v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 90 S. W. 8.

37. See Trial, 4 C. L. 1708.

38. Where during a trial a juror expresses his opinion as to the weight to be attached to evidence properly received and declares that he will not consider it, it is error for the court to refuse to excuse the juror and proceed with eleven jurymen, on motion of the party introducing the evidence. Chicago City R. Co. v. Brecher, 112 Ill. App. 106. Not where it appears that he answered all questions touching his qualifications fully and fairly, though had the party moving for his discharge made diligent inquiry he would have discovered facts entitling him to a peremptory challenge. Having failed to discover such facts, all cause to complain for this reason is waived. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Allen, 113 Ill. App. 89.

39. Code 1896, §§ 5019, 5020, authorizing the court to excuse a juror for cause, authorizes him to supply a juror in place of one excused, without empaneling another jury. Sanford v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 370.

40. Irregularity in excusing one juror and proceeding with the trial with eleven by consent of all the parties cannot be reviewed on habeas corpus. In re Shinski [Wis.] 104 N. W. 86.

An objection to continuing the trial with jurors who had heard part of the evidence and their term of office,[5] is a matter of statutory regulation. A justice's right to office is not open to collateral attack,[6] nor are his judicial acts as a de facto officer.[7] His judicial acts are not reviewable by mandamus.[8] In eminent domain proceedings he acts ministerially.[9] A justice though a party to the action is not disqualified from performing purely ministerial duties in no way connected with the trial.[10] He may act as attorney for suppliants at the bar of the court over which he presides,[11] and for his services as such he is entitled to a reasonable compensation.[12] Where he tenders an unqualified resignation[13] to the proper authority and it is accepted,[14] it cannot afterwards be withdrawn though it was not to take effect until a future date and an attempt to withdraw is made prior to such date.[15]

§ 2. Compensation, duties, and liabilities.[16]—The right to fees rests entirely in legislative enactment.[17] Statutes providing for compensation must be in con-before one of their number has been excused for sickness may be waived. Turner v. Territory [Okl.] 82 P. 650.

41. See 4 C. L. 372.

42. The service they render is not solely for the state, and following an immemorial rule the cost thereof may properly be made a charge against the county wherein the crime was committed. State v. Davies, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 621.

43. The service rendered by jurors in civil cases between private litigants is not solely a private service, but is in part for the public benefit, and the provision of section 5182 for the payment of the per diem and mileage of jurors out of the county treasury is a constitutional provision as applied to civil cases. State v. Davies, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 621.

44. A juror, even though called for a special case, is not paid by the case but by the day; and the only difference between a regular juror and a juror called for a single case is that the former receives mileage and the latter does not. State v. Davies, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 621.

1. See 4 C. L. 373.

2. Rev. St. 1899, § 3805, requiring townships of more than 100,000 population to be divided into justice's districts, applies only to townships having such population at the time the law was enacted. State v. Mosman [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 75. Laws 1895, ch. 8, p. 16, reorganizing the city of East Grand Forks, did not abolish the office of justice of peace provided for by Sp. Laws 1887, ch. 45, p. 602, and such office was recognized and continued and the qualifications of justices and the commencement of their term are regulated by the later act. Kane v. Arneson Mercantile Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 218. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 1759, subds. 2, 3, a board of county commissioners has power to establish, abolish or change justices' precincts in incorporated cities. Johnston v. Savidge [Idaho] 81 P. 616. The action of a board of county commissioners with power to do so, in creating justices' precincts, can only be reviewed by appeal. Quo warranto will not lie. Id.

3. Const. art. 6, § 17, fixing the number of justices in a township as not to exceed four, and providing that the legislature may increase the number in cities, does not fix minimum number for cities. Attorney General v. Loomis [Mich.] 105 N. W. 4. Sess. Laws 1891, p. 60, providing that at each general election there shall be elected two justices in each justice's precinct, except in wards in incorporated cities, does not prohibit the board of county commissioners from establishing precincts within such cities and for the election of two justices in such precincts. Johnston v. Savidge [Idaho] 81 P. 616.

4. Acts 1905, No. 70, providing for the appointment of an associate judge of the municipal court, to have no jurisdiction except in case of vacancy or to avoid delay, and constituting him ex officio a justice of the peace, cannot be sustained as a provision for the appointment of a justice. Attorney General v. Loomis [Mich.] 105 N. W. 4.

5. The term of justices elected at the general city election, November, 1901, for the ensuing two years, began the first Monday after the first Tuesday in January, 1902, and expired on the qualification of their successors, elected in 1903. Kane v. Arneson Mercantile Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 218.

6. State v. Miller [Kan.] 80 P. 947.

7. His judicial acts are not open to collateral attack because he had prior thereto accepted the office of city attorney and was also acting in that capacity. State v. Miller [Kan.] 80 P. 947. Under the statutes of Georgia, a justice who has resigned and whose resignation has been unconditionally accepted remains a de facto officer until his successor is appointed and has qualified. Bates v. Bigby [Ga.] 51 S. E. 717.

8. The action of a committing justice in refusing to punish a witness for contempt. Farnham v. Colman [S. D.] 103 N. W. 161.

9. Hence, his actions may be controlled by mandamus. Sullivan v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 33.

10. A judgment plaintiff, on succeeding the justice who tried the case, may certify the transcript to the district court so as to make it a judgment thereof. Hass v. Leverton [Iowa] 102 N. W. 811.

11, 12. Brancecum v. Simmons, 116 Ill. App. 98.

13. Murray v. State [Tenn.] 89 S. W. 101.

14. Under Shannon's Code, § 442, providing that resignation shall be tendered to the county court, the county judge of the justice's county is the proper officer to receive and act upon a resignation. Murray v. State [Tenn.] 89 S. W. 101.

15. Murray v. State [Tenn.] 89 S. W. 101.

16. See 4 C. L. 373.

17. There is no statute in Texas authorizing a justice to receive fees for holding formity with constitutional provisions,[18] and where regulated on the basis of population it must be determined according to the last official census.[19]

For erroneous judicial acts in a cause of which he has jurisdiction, he is not personally liable,[20] nor is he liable if he had no jurisdiction where no injury was suffered in consequence of his act.[21]

§ 3. Civil jurisdiction.[22]—The court of a justice of the peace is not a court of record.[23] It is a court of limited[24] and special jurisdiction[25] which cannot be extended beyond constitutional limitations.[26] Though he may not administer in equity, the owner of an equitable title may sue in his court.[27] Jurisdiction of ancillary proceedings depends on jurisdiction of the principal action.[28]

Residence determining jurisdiction.[29]—His jurisdiction is generally limited to the county of which defendant is a resident,[30] but it is co-extensive with such county.[31]

The amount in controversy[32] is the sum demanded,[33] with interest and penalties.[34] A complaint for a certain sum "and damages" does not oust the justice of jurisdiction where it appears from the record that the sum allowed as damages did examining trials in misdemeanor cases. Ex parte Way [Tex. Cr. App.] 89 S. W. 1075.

18. St. 1897, p. 536, c. 277, is void as in violation of the constitutional provision that compensation shall be fixed in proportion to duties. Millard v. Kern County [Cal.] 82 P. 329.

19. Cothran v. Cook, 146 Cal. 468, 80 P. 699.

20. Hearing a cause for assault and fining the accused on Sunday. Kraft v. De Verneuil, 105 App. Div. 43, 94 N. Y. S. 230.

21. Under Code Civ. Proc., § 1138, no action lies against a justice who, beyond his jurisdiction, issues a search warrant and delivers it to the sheriff where no steps had been taken to enforce it. Until steps had been taken to enforce it there was no "question of difference" between the parties. De Lucca v. Price, 146 Cal. 110, 79 P. 853.

22. See 4 C. L. 374.

23. See 4 C. L. 373, n. 11. Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182. Acts April 22, 1863, June 11, 1885, and April 29, 1891, allowing costs to garnishees in attachment executions, issued out of courts of record, do not apply to writs of attachment issued by a justice. Julius King Optical Co. v. Royal Ins. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 527.

24. In West Virginia justices' courts are statutory courts of limited jurisdiction. Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182.

25. Under Const. art. 5, § 21, and Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 71, a magistrate has jurisdiction of all cases therein enumerated against all persons subject to the process of the court or who voluntarily appear. Best v. Sea Board Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 52 S. E. 223. Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 155, construed in connection with Const. art. 5, § 21, and Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 71, gives a magistrate jurisdiction of an action against a foreign corporation, having property in the state, to recover a penalty by due service of process. Id. A breach of contract to return goods held as bailment gives rise to an action ex contractu of which a justice has jurisdiction under Civ. Code 1895, § 5856. Bates v. Bigby [Ga.] 51 S. E. 717. An action against a sheriff for damages for nonperformance of an official duty and for the penalty imposed by law for such nonperformance is not an action on a contract that a justice has jurisdiction of under Code Civ. Proc. § 66, and Civ. Code, § 2090. Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695. In Georgia a justice has no jurisdiction of an action to recover property, or its value, which has been wrongfully converted. Southern R. Co. v. Born Steel Range Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 488.

26. Ex parte Fritz [Miss.] 38 So. 722.

27. Walker v. Miller [N. C.] 52 S. E. 125.

28. A justice who has no jurisdiction of a principal action because it was not brought in the county of defendant's residence acquires no jurisdiction by garnishment of a debtor of defendant resident in the county where the action was brought. Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182.

29. See 4 C. L. 375.

30. In West Virginia. Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3839, providing that the cause of action therein described may be sued on in any township in the county where defendant may be found, the return of the constable that the writ was served in the township where the action is brought is conclusive evidence that the court had jurisdiction. Kerr v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 596.

31. In South Carolina it is not limited, under Const. art. 5, § 23, to actions in the township where defendant resides. Wise v. Werts [S. C.] 51 S. E. 547.

32. See 4 C. L. 375. The statutory amount fixed by U. S. Rev. St. § 1927 (Organic Act of Colorado and Arizona) cannot be altered by local statutes. Brown v. Braun [Ariz.] 80 P. 323.

33. Reynolds v. Philips [S. C.] 51 S. E. 523. The amount claimed and not the amount due is the amount in controversy. Brunson v. Furtick [S. C.] 52 S. E. 424. Where there is evidence authorizing a recovery for an amount within or in excess of jurisdiction but the complaint demanded an amount within the jurisdiction, it was proper to refuse to dismiss. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Knight [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124.

34. A claim for interest on unliquidated damages is a part of the amount in connot make the amount in controversy exceed the jurisdiction.[35] As to whether a portion of a demand may be remitted so as to give jurisdiction, there is a conflict of authority.[36] Under a rule that jurisdiction may be extended beyond the statutory amount by consent, the extending agreement is strictly construed.[37]

Title to realty.[38]—A justice has no jurisdiction of an action in which title to real estate is involved[39] unless it is involved only incidentally.[40] The test is, will the judgment demanded by the issues affect the title.[41] An allegation as a conclusion that title will be brought in issue does not justify a removal of the cause from the justice court.[42] In Minnesota title must be brought in issue on the evidence,[43] but in Indiana a verified plea is sufficient.[44] If title is properly put in issue, the cause must be certified to a court having jurisdiction,[45] and if he refuse to certify no jurisdiction is acquired by appeal,[46] but an improper certification ousts both courts of jurisdiction.[47] troversy. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Walter Hunt & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 1168. If the demand with interest and penalties to which plaintiff is entitled exceeds the statutory amount, the justice has not jurisdiction. Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695. Interest is included in the amount involved under Rev. St. § 1927. Brown v. Braun [Ariz.] 80 P. 323.

35. Porter v. Duncan, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 58.

36. That it can be remitted: Before or at the time of rendition of judgment an amount in excess of jurisdiction may be remitted. Webb v. McPherson & Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1009. Provision for attorney's fees remitted by oral amendment to the pleadings in an action on a promissory note. Peeples v. Slayden-Kirksey Woolen Mills [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 61.

Contra: After the institution of suit the plaintiff can not remit so much of his demand as to bring the remainder within the jurisdiction of the justice. Brown v. Braun [Ariz.] 80 P. 323.

Note: It has been frequently held that a creditor may voluntarily relinquish a part of his demand for the purpose of bringing it within the jurisdiction of the justice (Carpenter v. Wells, 65 Ill. 451; Witt v. Hereth, 6 Biss. 474; Matlock v. Lare, 32 Mo. 262; Bowditch v. Salesbury, 9 Johns. [N. Y.] 366; Barber v. Kennedy, 18 Minn. 218), and that he may waive the excess over the jurisdictional limit of the inferior court and maintain an action therein for the balance (Wharton v. King, 69 Ala. 365; King v. Dougherty, 2 Stew. [Ala.] 487; Litchfield v. Daniels, 1 Colo. 268; Hapgood v. Dougherty, 8 Gray [Mass.] 373; Dalton v. Webster, 82 N. C. 279; Mabry v. Little, 19 Tex. 339). Some cases make the character of the claim the criterion as to the right to remit a part of it. That it must be unliquidated. Perkins v. Rich, 12 Vt. 595; De Camp v. Miller, 44 N. J. Law, 617; Tyler Cotton Press Co. v. Chevalier, 56 Ga. 494; Fuller v. Sparks, 39 Tex. 136; Burke v. Adoue, 3 Tex. Civ. App. 494. The rule is not applicable to actions in which the value of the property in suit is made the test the jurisdiction. Butler v. Ervie, 30 Mo. 478; Noville v. Dew, 94 N. C. 43; Shealor v. Amador County Super. Ct., 70 Cal. 564; Ballerino v. Bigelow, 90 Cal. 500. But see Henderson v. Desborough, 28 Mich. 170; Thornily v. Pierce, 10 Colo. 250. The remission of interest is allowed where remission of a portion of the principal would not be. Wood v. Lovett, 1 Penn. [Pa.] 51; Bower v. McCormick, 73 Pa. 427; Bates v. Buckley, 7 Ill. 389; Bentley v. Wright, 3 Ala. 607; Kirk v. Grant, 67 Md. 418. Contra. Van Giesen v. Van Houten, 5 N. J. Law, 822; St. Amand v. Gerry, 2 Nott. & McC. [S. C.] 487.

The earlier cases deny the right of remission. Simpson v. Rawlings, 2 Ill. 28; Moore v. Thompson, 44 N. C. 221; Ramsom v. Barrett, 50 N. C. 409; Bower v. McCormick, 73 Pa. 427.—See note to Hunton v. Luce [Ark.] 28 L. R. A. 221.

37. A stipulation on two separate notes extending the jurisdiction beyond the statutory amount does not apply where one action is brought on the two notes. Hannasch v. Hoyt [Iowa] 103 N. W. 102.

38. See 4 C. L. 376.

39. Under Code, §§ 836, 837, where title is put in issue the case is properly dismissed. Hudson v. Hodge [N. C.] 51 S. E. 955.

40. That title to realty may be incidentally involved does not oust the justice of jurisdiction. Pankey v. Modglin, 116 Ill. App. 6. He may entertain an action to recover damages for breach of covenant as to title. Id.

41. Pankey v. Modglin, 116 Ill. App. 6.

42. Code Civ. Proc. § 838, requires the facts from which such conclusion follows to be alleged. McAlister v. Tindal [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1117.

43. A justice has no power under Gen. St. 1894, § 4991, to certify a cause to the district court until title comes in issue on the evidence. That the pleadings show such issue is insufficient. Sorenson v. Torvestad [Minn.] 103 N. W. 15.

44. A complaint for possession of land from a tenant wrongfully holding over and an answer denying that defendant held as tenant, but as equitable owner and stating the source of plaintiff's claim to title puts the title in issue under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1501. Deane v. Robinson, 34 Ind. App. 468, 73 N. E. 169.

45. By statute in Indiana must certify the cause to the circuit court. Deane v. Robinson, 34 Ind. App. 468, 73 N. E. 169. That a third person should be made a party is no objection to the right of the defendant to a transfer of the cause to the circuit court, under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1501, on filing a verified answer putting title to realty in issue. Id.

Objections to the jurisdiction[48] are waived by pleading and going to trial on the merits of the cause,[49] and one who appears specially and moves to dismiss for want of jurisdiction of the person, based on specific grounds, cannot on appeal urge other grounds not presented before the justice.[50]

§ 4. Procedure in justices' courts[51] is regulated by statute.[52] A justice having jurisdiction of the subject-matter may, by consent of all the parties, hear the evidence and argument outside of the township in which he resides and for which he was elected.[53] A defendant who withdraws where his demurrer to the jurisdiction of the justice is overruled cannot object to subsequent proceedings.[54]

Postponement, continuance, and discontinuance.—He must try cases at the regular terms of his court. He has no authority to postpone a case of his own motion during vacation,[55] but a postponement from morning until afternoon does not oust him of jurisdiction, especially where the parties had ample notice that this action would be taken.[56] The granting of a continuance does not oust him of jurisdiction until the time arrives to which the case has been continued.[57] An action is not discontinued from the mere fact that no orders of continuance or other orders are made on the docket therein.[58] A discontinuance[59] deprives the justice of jurisdiction to render any judgment except one of nonsuit,[60] and entitles plaintiff to commence a new action though the judgment of nonsuit is not formally entered.[61]

46. Deane v. Robinson, 34 Ind. App. 468, 73 N. E. 169.

47. The only order the district court can make in such case is one of dismissal. Cannot remand the case for trial. Sorenson v. Torvestad [Minn.] 103 N. W. 15.

48. See 4 C. L. 376.

49. An objection to the jurisdiction because of the amount involved is waived where the party goes to trial on the merits, and on appeal to the circuit court participates in the selection of the jury and permits witnesses to be called before raising it. Thayer v. Gibbs [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 93, 103 N. W. 526. A special appeal on the ground that the justice had no jurisdiction is waived by going to trial on the merits on the general appeal after the special one was dismissed. McCall v. Van Dusen [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 340, 104 N. W. 326.

50. People v. Court of Appeals [Colo.] 79 P. 1017.

51. See 4 C. L. 376.

52. A notice of the time and place of trial to a party's attorney who notifies his client is sufficient compliance with Code Civ. Proc. § 850. Grant v. Justice's Court of Second Tp. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 263. Civ. Code 1895, § 4130, providing the mode of proof and defense in a suit on an open account does not apply to an action for loss of or damage to property by a common carrier even though the cause of action is set out in detail, attached to the summons, and verified. Lowe Co. v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 653. Under a rule that the mode of procedure shall be governed by the statutes relative to district or county courts, if not otherwise provided, a statute authorizing an application for a new trial within two years after rendition of judgment on service by publication applies to justices' courts. Brown v. Dutton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 454.

53. Stark v. Treat, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 286.

54. Cotton v. Johnson [S. C.] 51 S. E. 245.

55. Under Rev. Code 1892, § 2399, where his regular term is on July 4, and on an erroneous supposition that such day is a legal holiday, he of his own motion continues a case and enters judgment by default the following day, such judgment is void. Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Dalton [Miss.] 38 So. 285.

56. Henion v. Pohl, 113 Ill. App. 100.

57. A judgment rendered during the term at which the continuance is granted is erroneous but not void. Field v. Peel [Ga.] 50 S. E. 346. A claimant to a fund brought into court by a summons of garnishment issued on such judgment cannot question its validity so long as the same is acquiesced in by the party against whom it was rendered. Id.

58. A judgment in an action before a justice was on writ of prohibition held void. Then a second judgment was rendered. A period of 18 months during pendency of the prohibition and afterwards, elapsed between the two judgments without any order in the action. This did not work a discontinuance. Thomasson v. Simmons [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 740.

59. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 836, providing that a judgment of nonsuit with costs shall be rendered against a plaintiff, who discontinues or withdraws his action or is nonsuited at the trial, a plaintiff is entitled as of right to discontinue or submit to a nonsuit at any time before verdict. Burkart v. Blaumann [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 621, 105 N. W. 81.

60. And where after a new trial was granted plaintiff discontinued, the justice was deprived of all jurisdiction to render any judgment except one of nonsuit. Burkart v. Blaumann [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 621, 105 N. W. 81.

61. Plaintiff was thereafter entitled to commence a new action in any court having jurisdiction, though the justice neglected to formally enter the judgment of nonsuit.

The docket and other records[62] need not be kept with the particularity required in courts of general jurisdiction,[63] but statutory requirements must be complied with.[64] Facts constituting a cause of action[65] and appellate jurisdictional facts[66] must be recited, but omission to keep the docket as required by statute is a mere irregularity and does not avoid the judgment.[67] The entry of judgment on the docket is conclusive evidence of the facts therein recited.[68] An appellate court may require the docket to be corrected.[69]

Change of venue[70] to a named justice confers upon no other jurisdiction to hear the cause.[71] In Iowa a change of venue cannot be granted after the trial is commenced,[72] and error in granting it is not waived by going to trial.[73]

Transfer of causes.[74]—In New York, by statute, if a new action is commenced after an action before a justice is discontinued, only the same cause of action and defenses may be set forth in the pleadings as were made before the justice.[75]

Contempt.[76]—Statutes giving a justice power to punish for contempt are strictly construed.[77]

Attachment and garnishment[78] are fully treated in other topics.[79]

Burkart v. Blaumann [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 621, 105 N. W. 81.

62. See 4 C. L. 376.

63. Record of justice stating "Plaintiff and defendant present. Plaintiff claims adjournment until April 15, 1905. Plaintiff present. Defendant does not appear. After hearing allegations and proofs of plaintiff, etc., I hereby render judgment against defendant. Judgment entered. April 15, 1905," shows date of rendition of judgment and that it was rendered on the date adjourned to. Bowden v. Dasey [Del. Super.] 61 A. 945.

64. A record stating that the justice "heard the proofs in the case" does not comply with a statute requiring it to state that he heard "plaintiff's proofs and allegations." Patterson v. Jarmon [Del. Super.] 62 A. 8. Rev. St. 1899, § 4481, provides that if defendant in an attachment proceeding does not appear to the action at the return of the writ the justice must enter an order in his docket requiring plaintiff to give him notice by publication (Cheeseman v. Fenton [Wyo.] 80 P. 823), and the fact that defendant is out of the state does not relieve plaintiffs of the necessity of issuing summons where service is to be obtained by publication (Id.).

65. The record of a justice stating a cause of action "action on account. Plaintiff claims $7.00," sufficiently states a cause of action (Bowden v. Dasey [Del. Super.] 61 A. 945), but a statement in an action for breach of warranty on an exchange of property "This was an action to recover in the trading of a cow. Plaintiff demanded $20.00," is insufficient to state a cause of action (Warrington v. Holt [Del. Super.] 61 A. 966).

66. In order to confer jurisdiction upon the district court on appeal from a justice's judgment, his docket must affirmatively show not only that a bond was executed within the prescribed time but that it was delivered to the justice to be entered upon his records. Caster v. Scheuneman [Neb.] 104 N. W. 152.

67. Failure to enter the time when process was issued, when the parties appeared, and time of trial as required by Rev. St. 1899, § 3844. Henman v. Westheimer, 110 Mo. App. 191, 85 S. W. 101.

68. Town of Chalmers v. Tandy, 111 Ill. App. 252.

69. In Georgia the superior court may direct that an irregularity in an entry of the case on the justice's docket be corrected in accordance with the facts. Bates v. Bigby [Ga.] 51 S. E. 717. A statute authorizing the appellate court to correct any omission or mistake in the docket entries of the justice authorizes such court to supply an omission to enter an oral remittitur upon proof that such remittitur was made in order to determine the right to appeal. Henry v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 793.

70. See 4 C. L. 377.

71. Miltimore v. Hoffman [Wis.] 104 N. W. 841.

72. A trial is commenced when an issue of law raised by a motion relative to the answer is heard and determined by the court. Columbus Junction Tel. Co. v. Overholt, 126 Iowa, 579, 102 N. W. 489.

73. Change of venue erroneously granted to defendant. Columbus Junction Tel. Co. v. Overholt, 126 Iowa, 579, 102 N. W. 498.

74. See 4 C. L. 377.

75. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2957, a defendant who in the justice court pleaded facts involving title to realty and made no other defense cannot when the case was recommenced in the county court, amend so as to set up a counterclaim. Moisen v. Burr, 102 App. Div. 248, 92 N. Y. S. 435.

76. See 4 C. L. 377.

77. Under the South Dakota statutes he has no power to punish, as for contempt, the refusal of a witness to produce documents called for by a subpoena duces tecum. Farnham v. Colman [S. D.] 103 N. W. 161.

78. See 4 C. L. 377.

79. See Attachment, 5 C. L. 302; Garnishment, 5 C. L. 1574. Rev. St. 1899, § 4478, expressly provides that where a writ of attachment in an action before a justice is issued at the commencement of the action, it is required to contain the substance of the summons and no summons is necessary, but if issued after summons it must be made returnable at the same time as the summons. Cheeseman v. Fenton [Wyo.] 80 P. 823. Rev. St. 1899, § 4452, expressly provides that in civil actions, before a justice, plaintiff on certain grounds may have a writ of attachment only at or after commencement of the JUSTICES OF THE PEACE—Cont'd.

Process or appearance[80] is essential to the commencement of an action.[81] An action should not be dismissed for mere irregularities in process which can be remedied by amendment without prejudice to the substantial rights of the parties.[82]

Pleadings and issues.[83]—There must be pleadings[84] complying with statutory requirements[85] and they must be sufficient to advise the opposite party of what he is charged and to bar another action,[86] but are not required to be in any particular form[87] and are to be liberally construed.[88] It is sufficient if they are in such form as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended.[89] Technical rules of pleading do not apply.[90] Pleadings may be oral.[91] No reply is necessary.[92] In Missouri if the action is on a contract, the subject-matter of which may be stated in an account, the case may be stated as an account, the contract being evidence of it,[93] and a complaint is sufficient if it shows what the action is for, on what account it is brought, and gives enough of the particulars to enable a defense to be prepared.[94]

Trial by jury[95] as a matter of right or propriety is elsewhere treated.[96]

Verdict and judgment.[97]—A judgment rendered in a cause of which he has not jurisdiction is void,[98] though it will support an appeal triable de novo so as to confer jurisdiction on the appellate court.[99] A judgment authorized by statute may be ren-

80. See 4 C. L. 377.

81. Rev. St. 1899, § 4331, expressly provides that civil actions before a justice shall be commenced by summons or by appearance without summons. Cheeseman v. Fenton [Wyo.] 80 P. 823.

82. A summons in a justice court which contained a partnership name without showing the christian name of each partner is not a nullity but is merely irregular and may be cured by amendment. Morgridge v. Stoefer [N. D.] 104 N. W. 1112. Rev. Codes 1899, § 5297, relating to the correction of mistakes in pleading, process, or proceeding, applies to justice court. Id.

83. See 4 C. L. 378.

84. Where there appears to have been no pleadings either before the justice or in the circuit court, the judgment will be reversed and the cause remanded for proper pleadings to be filed therein and to be properly heard and determined. Longacre Colliery Co. v. Creel [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 430. In an action before a justice to justify a recovery in favor of the defendant there must be some account or claim filed by him upon which to base such recovery. Id.

85. Under Code Civ. Proc. 1895, § 5082, a plea that the justice has not jurisdiction must show that another court in the state has. Akers v. High Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 105.

86. A printed form of back tax bill used in case of personal property, changed with pen to show that the claim is for poll tax but not showing that defendant is indebted to the collector, is insufficient. Sone v. Wallendorf, 187 Mo. 1, 85 S. W. 592.

87. Koehler v. Holt Mfg. Co., 146 Cal. 335, 80 P. 73. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3852, a statement of a cause of action and an account are sufficient if they advise the opposite party of what he is charged and bar another action for the same subject-matter. Darnell v. Lafferty [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 784.

88. Koehler v. Holt Mfg. Co., 146 Cal. 335, 80 P. 73. A statement for commissions for selling separate property of a married woman that the services were for the benefit of the separate property and that the amount was reasonable sufficiently alleged those facts. Evans v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 375.

89. Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 88, subd. 5. Hall v. Sullivan, 70 S. C. 397, 50 S. E. 27. Amended complaint on a promissory note held sufficient. Brunson v. Furtick [S. C.] 52 S. E. 424. Though a defendant is entitled to have the specific acts of negligence relied on alleged, a complaint alleging negligence in general terms is good on oral demurrer made after the trial before the justice was ended and at the trial upon an appeal to the jury. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Knight [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124.

90. Conclusions may be pleaded. Koehler v. Holt Mfg. Co., 146 Cal. 335, 80 P. 73.

91. A plea of breach of warranty or recoupment to an attachment for purchase money need not be in writing. Casey v. Crane & Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 92.

92. Millington v. O'Dell [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 949.

93. Statement held sufficient under Rev. St. 1899, § 3852. Standard Scale & Foundry Co. v. Kansas City Furnace Co. [Mo. App.] 88 S. W. 108. Statement of account held sufficient to notify defendants that they were sued for the items of the account under Rev. St. 1899, § 3853. Allen v. Goodrich [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 910.

94. Complaint to recover damages for injuries to a passenger held sufficient. Barr v. St. Louis & S. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 90 S. W. 107.

95. See 4 C. L. 379.

96. See Jury, 4 C. L. 358.

97. See 4 C. L. 380.

98. Roberts v. Hickory Camp Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 182. A default judgment rendered within five days after service of summons is void. Comenitz v. Commerce [Miss.] 38 So. 35.

99. See post, § 5.

dered,[1] but if he is limited to the rendition of a specific judgment in a particular proceeding he may render no other.[2] Inconsistent judgments may not be rendered in the same cause.[3] A judgment by default against one joint defendant vitiates a joint judgment against both.[4] Judgment may be confessed by an attorney on behalf of his client in a justice court the same as in a court of record.[5] The judgment becomes a lien when enrolled in a court of record as provided by law.[6]

Unless void on its face a judgment may not be collaterally assailed,[7] and where jurisdictional facts are recited it cannot be collaterally attacked for fraud.[8] A default judgment where the justice had jurisdiction of the person is conclusive on collateral attack as to every defense that might have been properly made.[9] If jurisdiction depends on a fact which the justice is required to ascertain and settle if he has jurisdiction of the parties, the decision of the question of fact is not subject to collateral attack,[10] nor is an erroneous decision as to what facts are put in issue by the pleadings,[11] nor is a judgment erroneous because of defective service of process.[12] Where a creditor splits a claim so as to give jurisdiction and secures several judgments, such judgments cannot be collaterally assailed after the lapse of several years.[13] On collateral attack a judgment susceptible of a construction showing it to be within his jurisdiction will be so construed.[14]

Execution[15] may issue from a court of record on the justice's transcript, where execution issued by the justice is unavailing,[16] and a sale on execution cannot be collaterally attacked because the justice's execution was returned before the return day.[17] Whether a return of nulla bona must be made to execution issued by the justice prior to execution issued on a transferred judgment depends upon statute.[18]

1. Pub. Acts 1899, p. 309, No. 199, expressly provides that a justice may render judgment against one co-defendant though the other be found not liable. Wilson v. Medler [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 103, 103 N. W. 548.

2. In a proceeding under the act of April 3, 1830, the only judgment a justice is authorized to enter is one that the premises shall be delivered up to the lessor. Hickey v. Conley, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 388.

3. A justice having on the trial before him rendered judgment for plaintiff, cannot on a trial before the jury grant a nonsuit. Georgia R. & Elec. Co. v. Knight [Ga.] 50 S. E. 124.

4. Patterson v. Jarmon [Del. Super.] 62 A. 8.

5. Town of Chalmers v. Tandy, 111 Ill. App. 252.

6. Under Code 1892, § 2413, providing that after enrollment in the circuit court the judgment is a lien on all property of defendant in the county and that it may be enrolled in cases where appeal is taken, it is a lien though enrolled before the time within which appeal may be taken expires. Minshew v. Davidson & Co. [Miss.] 38 So. 315.

7. If facts which authorize the exercise of jurisdiction are alleged in the petition, jurisdiction of the subject-matter is acquired and the judgment is evidence thereof until set aside in a direct proceeding. Rice v. Travis, 216 Ill. 249, 74 N. E. 801.

8. Justice's judgment recited that defendant had been duly and legally cited to appear and that he had appeared by his attorney under appointment of the court. Defendant claimed to have been a resident of the state to plaintiff's knowledge but that summons was served by publication. Scudder v. Cox [Tex. Civ. App.] 80 S. W. 872.

9. That the value of property in a replevin suit was within his jurisdiction though not expressly found so by the judgment. Rice v. Travis, 216 Ill. 249, 74 N. E. 801.

10. Value of goods in controversy. Rice v. Travis, 216 Ill. 249, 74 N. E. 801.

11. Koehler v. Holt Mfg. Co., 146 Cal. 335, 80 P. 73.

12. The enforcement of a judgment rendered in a case where the summons gave defendant one day less within which to appear than he was entitled to will not be enjoined. Kerr v. Murphy [S. D.] 102 N. W. 687.

13. Adams v. Jennings, 103 Va. 579, 49 S. E. 982.

14. Frank v. Dungan [Ark.] 90 S. W. 17.

15. See 4 C. L. 381.

16. A return to a justice's execution "By returning this writ no other property found upon which to levy this writ" is a sufficient return nulla bona and authorizes issuance of execution from the circuit court on the justice's transcript under Rev. St. 1899, § 4019. Ables v. Webb, 186 Mo. 233, 85 S. W. 383.

17. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4019, authorizing issuance of execution from the circuit court on the justice transcript in case of a return of nulla bona on the justice's execution, an execution so issued cannot be collaterally attacked because the justice's execution was returned before the return day. Ables v. Webb, 186 Mo. 233, 85 S. W. 383.

18. Where a judgment exceeding one hundred dollars is transferred to another

Costs[19] are generally awarded to the prevailing party[20] in the court of last resort.[21]

§ 5. Appeal and error.[22]—Appeal and not error is the remedy of one aggrieved by a justice's judgment entered after trial on the merits.[23] The right to appeal is statutory[24] but is to be implied from a statute fixing the requisites of an appeal bond.[25] In granting an appeal a justice acts judicially.[26] There must be an appealable judgment[27] of an unremitted[28] amount sufficient to give the appellate court jurisdiction.[29] The appeal must be properly entitled[30] and must be taken within the prescribed period,[31] and if not so taken remedies extraordinary are not available.[32] There must be a notice of appeal conforming to statutory requirements[33] signed as required by law,[34] but that it asks more than appellant is entitled to does not ren-county it is not a necessary prerequisite to execution to show a return of "no goods" in the county where the judgment was recovered. Mougenot v. Vernon, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 165.

19. See 4 C. L. 381. See, also, Costs, 5 C. L. 842.

20. Under Rev. St. §§ 5348, 5349, the party in whose favor judgment is rendered is entitled to costs. Gordon v. Steinmetz, 71 Ohio St. 372, 73 N. E. 512. On dismissal of the action on appeal because of want of jurisdiction in the justice, costs are properly awarded against the plaintiff under Rev. St. 1898, § 2925. Miltimore v. Hoffman [Wis.] 104 N. W. 841.

21. Where plaintiff in an action for the recovery of money only recovers judgment, but on appeal defendant sets up a counter claim not due at the time of the trial in the justice's court and recovers thereon an amount in excess of the plaintiff's recovery, he is entitled to all his costs in both courts. Gordon v. Steinmetz, 71 Ohio St. 372, 73 N. E. 512. Under Shannon's Code, § 4935, a surety on an appeal bond from a justice to a circuit court is liable for all costs adjudged against his principal at any time during the progress of the cause, to the extent of the penalty of the bond. Hite v. Rayburn [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 1105.

22. See 4 C. L. 381.

23. Simmons v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 954.

24. Shannon's Code, §§ 4873, 4874, relative to appeals from the justice court was not repealed by § 4875. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tenn.] 85 S. W. 403. A statute prohibiting an appeal in certain cases on questions of fact does not prevent an appeal on questions of law. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Tompkins [Okl.] 82 P. 832.

25. Wolfer v. Hurst [Or.] 80 P. 419.

26. If the legality of his adjudication on that point is challenged in the common pleas he should be ruled to certify the facts so as to correct any imperfections or irregularities apparent in the transcript before such adjudication is reversed. Lazarus v. Martling [N. J. Law] 62 A. 188.

27. In Pennsylvania interlocutory orders are not appealable while the action remains undisposed of before the justice. United States v. Bernard, 24 App. D. C. 8. A judgment in favor of the garnishee in an attachment proceeding may be appealed from by the defendant in the original attachment proceeding. Gilray v. Metropolitan Nat. Bank, 113 Ill. App. 485.

28. Under a statute providing that no appeal lies if the amount in controversy does not exceed a specified sum, a remittitur before judgment of all claims in excess of such amount precludes appeal though judgment is entered for a sum in excess of it. Henry v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 793.

29. Where the plaintiff's claim is wholly disallowed and judgment rendered against him on a demand of defendant, the amount which determines appellate jurisdiction is the sum claimed by plaintiff plus the amount of the judgment against him. Longacre Colliery Co. v. Creel [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 430.

30. An appeal entitled the same as the action was entered on the justice's docket is responsive to the judgment from which it was taken and is sufficient. Miltimore v. Hoffman [Wis.] 104 N. W. 841.

31. An appeal not taken within the period prescribed by law should be dismissed. Guthrie v. Costello, 116 Ill. App. 500. Under Starr & C. Ann. St., c. 57, §§ 18, 19, an appeal in forcible entry must be prayed and bond filed within five days from rendition of judgment. Saxton v. Curley, 112 Ill. App. 450.

32. Where ample opportunity is had to appeal from a justice's judgment, injunction will not lie to restrain its enforcement. Henion v. Pohl, 113 Ill. App. 100. One is not entitled to a writ of review under a rule allowing it where there is no appeal nor any plain, speedy, and adequate remedy where he neglects to appeal within the time prescribed. Grant v. Justice's Court of Second Tp. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 263.

33. In Minnesota the notice of appeal must state specifically the ground upon which the appeal is taken. Merely stating that defendant appealed from the judgment and the whole thereof and that a new trial of said action was demanded in the district court is insufficient. Bule v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 103 N. W. 11. In Missouri the notice of appeal must specify the judgment appealed from. Notice held sufficient to satisfy the requirements of Rev. St. 1899, § 4074. Igo v. Bradford, 110 Mo. App. 670, 85 S. W. 618.

34. A statute requiring notices of appeal to be signed is complied with by a signing in the manner customarily employed in signing other papers. "A. & B., Attorneys for plaintiff" is sufficient. Igo v. Bradford, 110 Mo. App. 670, 85 S. W. 618.

der the entire notice inoperative.[35] It is not essential that the steps be taken in their regular order.[36] A party who has performed all acts necessary to perfect an appeal cannot be deprived of his right by the arbitrary act[37] or inadvertent omission of the justice.[38] If a party desiring to appeal is prevented from doing so by the act of the justice, an appeal may be allowed nunc pro tunc.[39] But the appellate court will not interfere if failure to enter the appeal in time was due to lack of diligence on the part of the party desiring it.[40]

Bonds.[41]—A bond or other security for costs is generally required,[42] but a judgment for costs only may be appealed from without filing a bond.[43] If the bond appear to be regular in form and execution and the surety sufficient, it is the duty of the justice to approve it without regard to captious objections raised on behalf of the opposite party.[44] The bond confers jurisdiction only upon the court to which the appeal is taken.[45] The sureties must justify if their sufficiency is objected to,[46] unless such action on their part is waived.[47] In North Dakota the service of an appeal bond on the opposite party within the statutory period is a jurisdictional prerequisite.[48]

Process or appearance[49] in the appellate court is essential to give it jurisdiction of one made a party by amendment of the record.[50]

The transcript[51] should be certified as required by law[52] and filed in the appellate

35. That the notice of appeal asked a trial de novo to which appellant was not entitled does not deprive him of an appeal on questions of law to which he was entitled. Doughty v. Picott, 105 App. Div. 339, 94 N. Y. S. 43.

36. The fact that the undertaking on appeal was presented to the clerk of the district court and his approval indorsed thereon before notice of appeal and undertaking were served is not such an irregularity as invalidates the appeal. Thompson v. Fargo Plumbing & Heating Co. [N. D.] 104 N. W. 525.

37. A party who files a sufficient appeal bond which is all he is required to do in order to perfect his appeal cannot be deprived of his right of appeal by the arbitrary refusal of the justice to indorse his approval on the bond. Redus v. Gamble [Miss.] 37 So. 1010.

38. An appellant who has done everything required of him in order to perfect an appeal cannot be deprived of his right after trial in the appellate court because of the inadvertent failure of the justice to sign the return of the appeal. Under Code § 879, the justice could have been summoned to sign the return at any time during the trial or after judgment. Hawks v. Hall [N. C.] 51 S. E. 857.

39, 40. Patterson v. Gallitzin Bldg. & L. Ass'n, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 54.

41. See 4 C. L. 382.

42. Code Civ. Proc. § 926 providing for the deposit with the justice of a sum of money in lieu of an undertaking, in all civil cases arising in a justice's court authorizes a deposit in lieu of bond for costs on appeal. Laws v. Troutt [Cal.] 81 P. 401.

43. Brown v. Dutton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 454.

44. Slight omission in the name of the surety, but it was apparent who was meant. Bundy v. U. S., 25 App. D. C. 459.

45. An appeal bond reciting that the appeal is taken to the county court is insufficient to confer jurisdiction on the district court. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Lyons [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 44; Fort Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Henry [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 591, 88 S. W. 399.

46. Where an undertaking is filed within 30 days after entry of judgment and the adverse party excepts to the sufficiency of the sureties, the appellant, under Rev. St. 1887, § 4842, may cause his original sureties or other sureties to justify before the justice within five days, and at the time of justifying other securities may execute a new undertaking and justify thereto. Snyder v. Wooden [Idaho] 81 P. 377.

47. Where respondent excepts to the sufficiency of the sureties on an appeal bond, he may thereafter waive the justification of sureties or accept a new undertaking in lieu of the original and waive justification of the new sureties. Snyder v. Wooden [Idaho] 81 P. 377.

48. Under the North Dakota statute regulating appeals from justices' courts, the undertaking must be served and service must be made within 30 days after judgment is rendered. Lough v. White [N. D.] 104 N. W. 518.

49. See 4 C. L. 383. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4075, if appellant fails to give notice of appeal, the cause may, at the option of appellee, be tried at the first term if he appears on or before the second day thereof. Where such appearance is entered, appellant is not entitled to a continuance because the case was not at issue until plaintiff appeared. Keylon v. Missouri, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 337.

50. Where on appeal an amendment to the record was allowed adding the name of another party, but such party was never summoned nor appeared, no judgment could be entered against him. Chester City v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 206.

51. See 4 C. L. 383.

court[53] within the prescribed time,[54] but if the statute is not mandatory a delayed filing is not ground for dismissal in the absence of prejudice,[55] especially where the delay is not the fault of the parties.[56] An imperfect transcript, timely filed, confers jurisdiction on the appellate court.[57] If the transcript is imperfect, either party may secure a perfect record by certiorari.[58]

The record[59] must affirmatively show jurisdictional facts.[60] If the justice had not jurisdiction an appellate court acquires none by appeal,[61] except where the case is tried de novo.[62] The record should contain everything essential to a review of the proceeding.[63] An oral amendment to the pleadings not inconsistent with the judgment may be proven by testimony of the justice.[64] The justice's statement of the evidence is no part of his return on appeal.[65] The record cannot be amended so as to make a new party subject to the judgment.[66]

Dismissal.[67]—The appellate court may dismiss the appeal for want of prosecution[68] if it has jurisdiction of the parties,[69] and should dismiss the action if the justice had not jurisdiction originally.[70]

52. A statute requiring that on appeal from a justice's judgment he shall deliver "A duly certified transcript of all the docket entries in the case" is complied with by a certificate to a return that it was a full and true copy of all the entries of the record. Marshall v. Reed [Del. Super.] 61 A. 945.

53. A justice who fails to comply with a rule requiring him in case of appeal to transmit his record to the appellate court may be enforced to do so by the appellate court. Redus v. Gamble [Miss.] 37 So. 1010.

54. Rev. Codes 1899, § 6771a, providing that the district court may dismiss an appeal from the justice court for failure on the part of the appellant to cause the transcript to be transmitted is not mandatory. De Foe v. Zenith Coal Co. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 747.

55. Where the transcript was filed before the motion to dismiss was granted and the record affirmatively showed that respondent had not been prejudiced by the delay, it was error to dismiss for failure to file the transcript in time. De Foe v. Zenith Coal Co. [N. D.] 103 N. W. 747.

56. Under a statute requiring the justice to transmit the record to the circuit court on or before the first day of the next term, where a justice died before an appeal was perfected and the statutory requirements in such case were complied with, the circuit court acquires jurisdiction if the record is transmitted by the successor of the deceased justice to the next term after he qualified. Brennan v. Straas [Miss.] 37 So. 956.

57. Woods v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Or.] 81 P. 235.

58. Brown v. Dutton [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 454. Where the appellate court has acquired jurisdiction of the appeal, it may compel the justice to amend and correct his certificate so as to show the facts. Woods v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Or.] 81 P. 235. The mere fact that the transcript sent up fails to show that a written notice of appeal signed by or on behalf of the appellant had been filed with the justice, and that the appeal bond had been filed, does not afford legal ground for dismissing the appeal. Lazarus v. Martling [N. J. Law] 62 A. 188.

59. See 4 C. L. 383.

60. Pleadings in two actions against the same defendant held to show that he was a resident of the county in which the actions were tried. Hall v. Sullivan, 70 S. C. 397, 50 S. E. 27. In a statutory proceeding. Hickey v. Conley, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 388. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3839, giving a justice of the township, in which an injury to stock by railroads happened, jurisdiction, that the injury occurred in the township where the action was brought, is jurisdictional. Shaw v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 561, 85 S. W. 611. Record held to show jurisdiction. State v. Mosman [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 75.

61. Southern R. Co. v. Born Steel Range Co. [Ga.] 50 S. E. 488; Oppenheimer v. Regan [Mont.] 79 P. 695.

62. Under the rule that an appeal on questions of law or fact must be tried de novo the appellate court acquires jurisdiction by such an appeal, though the justice rendered the judgment appealed from without having acquired jurisdiction. Armantage v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1033.

63. To enable the district court to review the proceedings before a justice, relating to a motion to quash the service of a summons made by a person specially deputed for the purpose, the summons, motion, affidavits used in support of the motion, an agreement of counsel respecting the facts, and the justice's ruling must all be preserved in the bill of exceptions. Madden v. Riedel [Kan.] 80 P. 45.

64. Peeples v. Slayden-Kirksey Woolen Mills [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 144, 90 S. W. 61.

65. Vinson v. Knight, 137 N. C. 408, 49 S. E. 891.

66. Where a judgment has been recovered against the husband alone, the record cannot be amended in the court of common pleas by adding the name of the wife as a party. Doerr v. Graybill, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 321.

67. See 4 C. L. 384.

Pleadings on appeal[71] may be filed at any time within the prescribed period.[72] Amendments not changing the cause of action but only perfecting the one originally attempted to be stated,[73] or making clear an ambiguous pleading,[74] should be allowed if filed within the statutory period,[75] but a different cause of action cannot be substituted,[76] nor can a pleading be varied or contradicted by an indorsement on its back.[77] In Pennsylvania if the statement shows a good cause of action the defendant is required to file an affidavit of defense,[78] and defects in one sufficient to bar another action for the same cause are waived by going to trial on the merits.[79]

A case is usually tried de novo where appealed[80] providing there were issues joined in the justice court,[81] hence a judgment transcending jurisdiction may be appealed from,[82] but if no trial was had in the justice court there can be no trial de novo on appeal.[83] On a trial de novo the same theory will be adopted as prevailed in the justice court.[84] The procedure is governed by the rules of the appellate court.[85] A variance between the summons and complaint cannot be availed of in the appellate

68. It is not an abuse of discretion for the circuit court to dismiss an appeal from the justice court for want of prosecution. Equitable Fire Ins. Co. v. Fishburne [S. C.] 51 S. E. 528.

69. Where an appeal is perfected but appellee is not summoned and does not appear, the appellate court is without jurisdiction of the person of appellee and cannot dismiss for want of prosecution. Hecht v. Franklin, 113 Ill. App. 467.

70. See 4 C. L. 384, n. 21 et seq. Where the appellate court has the same power to examine the cause and render the same judgment the justice should have rendered, if it is found that the justice had no jurisdiction the action as distinguished from the appeal should be dismissed. Miltimore v. Hoffman [Wis.] 104 N. W. 841. Where a justice dismissed an action because title to realty was put in issue, an appeal from the justice should likewise have been dismissed. Hudson v. Hodge [N. C.] 51 S. E. 955.

71. See 4 C. L. 385.

72. Last answer day, where the appeal is from a justice of the peace to the common pleas, is the third Saturday after the return day of the summons and a default judgment taken prior to such date is irregular. Elyria Milling Co. v. Swartz, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 251.

73. Witt v. Willis [Ky.] 85 S. W. 223. Amendment to the statement held not to be a substitution of a different cause of action. Allen v. Goodrich [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 910.

74. Where on appeal it appears that though the action is in trespass the statement was ambiguous as to whether the action was in tort or on contract, and the defendant pleaded nonassumpsit and went to trial on the merits, the appellate court will permit the statement to be amended. Brown v. Kirk, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 157.

75. Code § 4568, providing that if an appeal be taken from a default judgment defendant may before noon of the second day of the term at which the appeal is triable, file any necessary pleadings, is discretionary as to the time, and it is an abuse of discretion to refuse to permit the filing of an answer after such time but before the case was reached for hearing. Edwards Loan Co. v. Skinner [Iowa] 102 N. W. 828.

76. Rev. St. 1899, § 3853, does not authorize a statement alleging a cause of action for goods sold so as to charge a cause against a carrier for injuries to goods in transit. Adler v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 339, 85 S. W. 948.

77. A statement in the form of an account for goods sold cannot be amended on appeal to state a cause for injuries to goods in transit because of an indorsement "damages for injuries to goods in transit as per statement hereto attached." Adler v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 339, 85 S. W. 948.

78. Spetz v. Howard, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 420.

79. Where the statement on appeal is defective and would not have sustained a summary judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense, yet if defendant answers and goes to trial on the merits he waives such defects if the statement is sufficient to bar another action. Siegel v. Hirsch, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 398.

80. See 4 C. L. 385. On appeal to the superior court all litigated questions are tried de novo. Falkner v. Pilcher, 137 N. C. 449, 49 S. E. 945.

81. Code Civ. Proc. § 3068 provides that in certain cases if issue of law or fact is joined the appellant may in his notice of appeal demand a new trial in the appellate court. Held, where defendant suffered a default and no issue of law or fact was joined, he was on appeal only entitled to be heard on questions of law. Doughty v. Picott, 105 App. Div. 339, 94 N. Y. S. 43. A defendant who suffers a default and appeals from the judgment against him cannot ask a trial de novo nor a new trial in a justice court, under Code Civ. Proc. § 3064, unless there was an issue of law or fact made in the justice court. Doughty v. Picott, 105 App. Div. 339, 94 N. Y. S. 43, overruling Thorn v. Roods, 47 Hun [N. Y.] 433.

82. State v. Mosman [Mo. App.] 87 S. W. 75.

83. Clement v. Breaux [La.] 38 So. 900.

84. Jerome v. Rust [S. D.] 103 N. W. 26.

85. On appeal from the justice court the case stands for trial de novo and the procedure is governed by the practice in the appellate court. Slaughter v. Strouse [Colo. App.] 79 P. 972.

court.[86] Where the trial is not de novo the ordinary rules as to saving questions for review[87] and review of questions of fact[88] apply. Where an appeal is tried by the court a transcript of the justice's record is admissible.[89] On writ of error from the district to the justice court, issues of law only may be determined,[90] and these must appear from the record and proceedings as returned by the justice.[91] An issue of fact as to the jurisdiction of the justice may not be first raised on writ of error to the district court and there tried.[92]

Judgment.[93]—The fact that a cause originates in a justice court does not affect the conclusiveness of the judgment in an appellate court.[94] Where the justice made no ruling except to enter judgment after a hearing on the merits, the district court cannot, on dismissing a writ of error, enter judgment.[95]

Further appeal or error[96] may be had only from appealable judgments[97] and orders,[98] and the court of second appeal may not review the proceedings in the justice court.[99]

§ 6. Certiorari.[1]—Certiorari is allowable if a justice wrongfully denies an appeal,[2] but not if there is another appropriate remedy.[3] The action of an appellate court which has jurisdiction, in dismissing an appeal from the justice court cannot

86. The summons had served its purpose by bringing him into court. Jerome v. Rust [S. D.] 103 N. W. 26.

87. An irregularity in the judgment not having been taken advantage of by motion to set aside cannot be taken advantage of on a trial de novo in the appellate court (Jerome v. Rust [S. D.] 103 N. W. 26), but a motion to require a plaintiff to elect which of two causes of action for the same wrong alleged in his complaint he will pursue may be made for the first time on appeal (Harvey v. Southern Pac. Co. [Or.] 80 P. 1061).

88. A verdict based on conflicting evidence is conclusive. A verdict in a justice's court on conflicting evidence will not be set aside on certiorari (Williams v. Mangum [Ga.] 50 S. E. 110), and a judgment cannot be reversed because against the weight of evidence unless it is so palpably so that it could not have been reasonably arrived at (Brewer v. Califf, 92 N. Y. S. 627). Code Civ. Proc. § 3063, as amended by Laws 1900, p. 1277, c. 553, justifies a county court in reversing because against the weight of evidence only when so plainly so that the justice could not have reasonably reached his decision. Clinton v. Russell, 95 N. Y. S. 321.

89. Keylon v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 89 S. W. 337.

90. Herald Printing Co. v. Walsh [Iowa] 103 N. W. 473.

91. The district court cannot try the case de novo nor permit proof of facts not shown by the return to establish error relied on. Herald Printing Co. v. Walsh [Iowa] 103 N. W. 473.

92. Herald Printing Co. v. Walsh [Iowa] 103 N. W. 473. Where a return to the original notice indicated that service was had on the defendants in the township in which judgment was entered, in the absence of anything to the contrary in the justice's return to a writ of error it is presumed that their residence was such as to have conferred jurisdiction. Id.

93. See 4 C. L. 386.

94. Koehler v. Holt Mfg. Co., 146 Cal. 335, 80 P. 73.

95. The cases in which judgment may be entered, under Code § 4576, are those in which the writ has been sustained, and in such cases only where no trial is necessary to a determination of the case. Simmons v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 954.

96. See 4 C. L. 386.

97. A judgment of the court of common pleas reversing the judgment of a justice in an action of trespass is not appealable. Minogue v. Ashland Borough, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 506. A judgment of the court of common pleas on a certiorari to a justice, where the record shows that the justice had jurisdiction and that the cause of action was within the act of 1810 as amended by the act of 1879, is not appealable. Phoenix Iron Works Co. v. Mullen, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 547.

98. An order of the district court sustaining a motion to dismiss an appeal from the justice court is not appealable to the supreme court. Code Civ. Proc. § 1722. Franzman v. Davies [Mont.] 80 P. 251.

99. On appeal from the district court the supreme court cannot directly review proceedings in the cause before the justice. Simmons v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 954.

1. See 4 C. L. 386. Where a recordari is granted by the superior court as a substitute for an appeal and is not docketed at that or the succeeding term, it may at a subsequent term be docketed and dismissed. Clark's Code [3rd Ed.] p. 731. Johnson v. Grand Fountain of United Order of True Reformers, 135 N. C. 385, 47 S. E. 463.

2. If a justice deny an appeal in forcible entry after statutory requirements have been complied with, the judgment may be reviewed on certiorari. Saxton v. Curley, 112 Ill. App. 450.

3. Where the judgment of the justice determines an issue of fact only an appeal to the jury and not certiorari is the proper remedy. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Wright [Ga.] 50 S. E. 466.

be reviewed on certiorari.[4] A petition for certiorari must allege error so specifically and distinctly that the reviewing court may understand the ground of error relied on.[5] A justice's return to the writ is conclusive.[6] The recitals of the record cannot be contradicted by parol.[7] A justice's judgment clearly right, will not be disturbed on certiorari though the reasoning by which it was reached was erroneous.[8] Certiorari to compel the transmission of the transcript is not to review error, hence the bond is not required[9] and the parties are not deprived of their right of a trial de novo.[10] Final judgment may be rendered within the discretion of the court.[11] On certiorari to a justice the case may, in the discretion of the reviewing court, be finally disposed of[12] if the error complained of is one of law which must finally govern the case.[13]

§ 7. Criminal jurisdiction and procedure.[14]—The power of a justice to issue warrants, and as a committing magistrate, and the procedure looking thereto,[15] and his jurisdiction of prosecutions for crime,[16] and the procedure therein,[17] are elsewhere fully treated.

KIDNAPPING.

The taking is regarded as forcible if consent was procured by fraud or artifice or if the child was too young to consent.[18] The Georgia penal code requires that the kidnapping of a child below eighteen years should be "from its parent or guardian"[19] and the indictment must so allege or that there was neither parent nor guardian.[20] The intent to detain from its lawful custodian is essential to the crime of "child stealing."[21] Any detention with purpose of exacting money as the price of liberation is within the Iowa statute,[22] though it might also exhibit the feature of robbery.[23] No particular length of time of detention or perfection of plan is essential,[24] but the lack of plan or its nonexecution may be evidence on intent.[25] While the kidnapper must be clearly identified, yet it is for the jury, and minor discrepancies in the evidence will not overthrow the verdict.[26]

Labels; Labor Unions; Laches; Lakes and Ponds, see latest topical index.

4. Andrews v. Cook [Nev.] 81 P. 303.

5. A petition setting forth all the evidence and alleging that the verdict is contrary to the weight thereof and is without evidence to support it is sufficient. Mathews v. Parker [Ga.] 52 S. E. 322.

6. Wetmore v. Dean [Mich.] 103 N. W. 166.

7. Webb v. McPherson & Co. [Ala.] 38 So. 1009.

8. Berry v. Robinson [Ga.] 50 S. E. 378.

9, 10. Redus v. Gamble [Miss.] 37 So. 1010.

11. See 4 C. L. 388, n. 92.

12. Civ. Code of 1895, § 4807. Even though the evidence before the justice be conflicting on the controlling issues. Susong v. McKenna, 121 Ga. 97, 48 S. E. 695. See 2 C. L. 1253, n. 68.

13. Where certiorari was sustained because all the evidence submitted by defendant in certiorari on trial before the magistrate was inadmissible, it was proper to refuse to render final judgment and to remand the case for new trial. Bass Dry Goods Co. v. Electric Storage Battery Co. [Ga.] 51 S. E. 579.

14. See 4 C. L. 388.

15. See Arrest and Binding Over, 5 C. L. 264.

16, 17. See Indictment and Prosecution, 5 C. L. 1790.

18, 19, 20. Sutton v. State [Ga.] 50 S. E. 60.

21. Pen. Code, § 278. People v. Black [Cal.] 81 P. 1099. Evidence that one dissuaded girls from going unprotected into a large city and in doing so persuaded them to go to a near by summer resort where he left them free to come or go held insufficient. Id.

22, 23. Acts 29th Gen. Assem. p. 105, c. 142. State v. Leuth [Iowa] 103 N. W. 345.

24, 25. State v. Leuth [Iowa] 103 N. W. 345. Evidence held sufficient where person was lured from home by a ruse and then detained. Id.

26. State v. Leuth [Iowa] 103 N. W. 345.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.[27]

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[28]—A tenant as distinguished from a guest of an innkeeper or lodging house keeper,[29] an agent of the landowner in possession,[30] or others in or upon the land,[31] is that the tenant by terms of his letting

27. Scope of topic: "Leases" of Chattels are excluded to Bailment, 5 C. L. 342.

28. See 4 C. L. 389.

29. See 2 C. L. 608.

30. A question arises sometimes as to whether a person in possession of land under a contract with the owner is his agent or his lessee, or in other words whether the relation is that of principal and agent or landlord and tenant. This depends as in other cases upon the construction of the contract and the intention of the parties. The question may arise when it is sought to charge one or the other of the parties for repairs, improvements, and the like, made at the instance of the party in possession, and in many other cases. Hawley v. Curry, 74 Ill. App. 309; Ragsdale v. Meridian Land & Industrial Co., 71 Miss. 284.

Where a person occupied land under an agreement with the owner for a fixed period, and had the right to receive and dispose of the rents and profits as he saw fit, it was held that the relation was that of landlord and tenant, though no rent was reserved, and that the holding was not consistent with a contention that an indebtedness incurred by the party in possession for repairs, etc., was incurred by him as agent of the landowner. Hawley v. Curry, 74 Ill. App. 309. In a Mississippi case it appeared that a person claiming to be the agent of the lessee of certain land and fixtures had charge of the property at first under a power of attorney; that he remained in control of the property after the lessee had become financially embarrassed, and successfully resisted the attempt of creditors to secure possession; that he proved a claim for advances made under the rent contract against the estate of the lessor; that as compensation he received a portion of the profits derived from the business carried on upon the property; that he designated himself and the original lessee in various instruments as lessees; that on the purchase of a claim of the original lessee he was vested with authority by the latter to sue thereon in his name, and it was stipulated that the assignee should be saved harmless for the costs and damages. It was held that the relation of principal and agent did not exist, but that the alleged agent was a lessee or assignee of the term. Ragsdale v. Meridian Land & Industrial Co., 71 Miss. 284.—From Clark & Skyles, Agency, § 11.

31. See Licenses to Enter on Land, 4 C. L. 432; Tenants in Common, and Joint Tenants, 4 C. L. 1672; Life Estates, Reversions and Remainders, 4 C. L. 438. A grant to a corporation, its successors, etc., without limit of time, of "all the oil," under its agreement to drill a well on the premises within 6 months or thereafter to pay $160 annually, until such well is drilled or the property reconveyed, and a further agreement that enters and has the use and possession of the land for a period less than life, title remaining in the landlord which the tenant acknowledges.[32] The test whether an agreement is a lease or a license is whether it gives exclusive possession of the premises against the world, including the owner, in which case it is a lease; or whether it merely confers a license to occupy under the owner.[33] The word "use" when applied to the land as signifying or coupled with "benefit" imports a lease and not a license.[34] The word "grant" does not necessarily import that more than a chattel interest is given.[35] An instrument whose terms demise all coal in, under and upon a tract of land, with the unqualified right to mine and remove the same, is a sale of the coal in place, whether the purchase price is a lump sum, a certain rent or a royalty, and notwithstanding a specified time for taking out the coal.[36] But in Ohio an exclusive lease or right to enter upon, mine, and remove coal from a tract of land, was held to be a lease and not a sale of the property, and the royalties provided therein to be in fact rentals and no more.[37] Persons are not landlord and tenant who have merely agreed to make a lease.[38]

§ 2. The contract of lease and creation of tenancy. How created or established.[39]—No particular words are necessary to constitute a lease or to create the relation of landlord and tenant;[40] but any language by which possession is transferred for a limited time, for a stipulated return, creates a tenancy and is in effect a lease.[41] It is not necessary that the words "lease," "let" or "rent" should be used,[42] nor is any particular form of contract required.[43] The relation may be created by a stipulation in a contract of sale in the nature of a forfeiture for nonpayment of the purchase price.[44] Taking possession is conclusive proof of ac-

the corporation may at any time remove its property and reconvey the premises, is a lease at an annual rental of $160, after the 6 months, at the option of the lessee only. Central Ohio Nat. Gas & Fuel Co. v. Eckert, 70 Ohio St. 127, 71 N. E. 281.

Renter of desk room not a tenant. Swart v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 609, 105 N. W. 74.

32. See 2 C. L. 608; 4 C. L. 389; 1 Tiffany Real Property §§ 35, 54, 57, 60; 18 Am. & Eng. Enc. Law [2d Ed.] 163.

33. An instrument by the owner letting "his ice business and privileges in * * * with the use and benefit of his ice houses," for a certain term, held to be a lease of the ice houses and the land under them. Roberts v. Lynn Ice Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 523. A turpentine lease for value, part paid in cash and the rest afterward paid to the administratrix, which conveyed the timber and right of way for the purpose of exercising the privilege of boxing and under which parties were put into possession, could not be considered a mere license revoked by the death of the maker. Gex v. Dill [Miss.] 38 So. 193.

34. Though the word "use" is ordinarily employed when the owner contracts to give another a right to occupy as a licensee, yet the words "use and benefit of" are of wider application and mean the entire beneficial interest in the property, as granted in a lease. Roberts v. Lynn Ice Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 523.

35. "Granted and leased" meant only quiet enjoyment. Shenk v. Stahl [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 538.

36. The fact that the instrument is called a lease and the parties are described as lessor and lessee does not change the legal effect. Dorr v. Reynolds, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 139.

37. Cleveland Trust Co. v. Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron Co., 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 424.

38. Henderson v. Schuylkill Valley Clay Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 422.

Entry is necessary. Browder v. Phinney, 37 Wash. 70, 79 P. 598; Schlumpf v. Sasake, 38 Wash. 278, 80 P. 457.

39. See 4 C. L. 390.

40. Pickering v. O'Brien, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 125.

41. Granting the right to maintain bill boards on land creates the relation of landlord and tenant. Pickering v. O'Brien, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 125. A contract which "granted and leased" certain land as long as it was used for the purpose of a gas well was a lease terminable on the ceasing of the use of the property for gas. Shenk v. Stahl [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 538.

42. Merki v. Merki, 113 Ill. App. 518.

43. Any arrangement or understanding by which one party holds for or under another is sufficient. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746. But one who rents desk room of a tenant of an office is not a tenant and obtains no interest in the real estate, his right of occupancy ceasing with that of the tenant and his remaining thereafter not operating to continue the tenant's lease. Swart v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 609, 105 N. W. 74.

44. Where notes were given for several annual instalments of the purchase price, each stipulating that in case of failure to pay at maturity, $80 was to be paid as rent and the relation of landlord and tenant ceptance of the lease.[45] The lease is neither the contract nor the term, but merely the written evidence of the one and the muniment of title to the other.[46] A seal being unnecessary to a lease, if placed thereon, is immaterial and does not make the contract a specialty.[47] The term "demise" does not necessarily import a sealed instrument, but may include a parol lease as well.[48] An agreement to give a lease is not a lease unless followed by occupation,[49] and vests no estate in the proposed lessee.[50]

The lease is the best evidence,[51] but secondary proof is admissible if it be lost.[52] The parties may if their words so intend verbally work a novation of the terms.[53]

The statute of frauds[54] is satisfied by a written agreement which necessarily implies a lease,[55] and when too vague of itself an actual entry may be required to give it meaning.[56]

Parties to the lease.[57]—The owner of real estate may transfer his land by a lease executed by him alone, although the lease contains covenants to be signed and sealed by the lessee, for they may be waived by the lessor.[58] Under the Real Property Law of New York a lease of lands may be signed and executed by the lessor alone, but, if accepted by the lessee, its covenants are binding upon him.[59] Partners prosecuting the firm business[60] and properly authorized agents,[61] including should exist with all the rights and remedies to enforce collection, the effect, on default, was to create the relation of landlord and tenant. Rose & Co. v. Woods [Ala.] 39 So. 581.

45. Schlumpf v. Sasake, 38 Wash. 278, 80 P. 457.

46. The destruction of the lease as a paper by consent of the parties does not necessarily affect the term. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522.

47. Woolsey v. Henke [Wis.] 103 N. W. 267.

48. Snedecor v. Pope [Ala.] 39 So. 318.

49. Where it was sought to enforce as a lease a mere contract to lease storerooms to plaintiffs for three years it was incumbent on plaintiffs to show that they took possession thereunder to establish part performance. Browder v. Phinney, 37 Wash. 70, 79 P. 598. Where defendant contracted to lease premises from a certain date but refused to accept the premises or accept or sign the lease, the lease was not consummated. Schlumpf v. Sasake, 38 Wash. 278, 80 P. 457.

50. Henderson v. Schuylkill Valley Clay Mfg. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 422.

51. Where the parties had reduced the lease contract to writing it was error in a criminal prosecution based thereon to permit the state to prove its terms by parol. Wilson v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 776.

52. The written agreement having been destroyed or mislaid, secondary evidence of its contents was introduced. Pickering v. O'Brien, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 125.

53. An agreement to "go back to the old lease" held to simply modify the later one in respect to amount of rent and not to restore an omitted provision for termination of the lease or to effect a new lease. Security Trust & Life Ins. Co. v. Cogsweli, 96 N. Y. S. 87.

54. See 4 C. L. 390, and Frauds, Statute of, 5 C. L. 1550.

55. A written contract, conveying for a specified consideration an interest in the saloon business and fixtures, given by the lessee of a hotel, to continue for the remainder of his term, was sufficient to satisfy the statute of frauds. Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 288.

56. Where an instrument was a mere agreement to lease premises for three years which were so indefinitely described as not to be identifiable from the description itself, was not signed by lessees and did not purport to obligate them as lessees, it was necessary for plaintiffs, in order to have it construed as a lease, to show part performance of it, under the statute of frauds, by a taking possession of the premises thereunder. A mere allegation in defendant's answer that it was agreed that the tenancy which plaintiffs claimed under the instrument should be terminated was not an admission that plaintiffs took possession under the instrument. Browder v. Phinney, 37 Wash. 70, 79 P. 598.

57. See 4 C. L. 389.

58. A lease was drawn in duplicate, and the lessor executed it, but the lessee struck out the covenant requiring him to insure the buildings, with consent of the lessor and in his presence, and then executed it. Held, that the lessor waived execution of any covenants except those signed by the lessee. Braman v. Dodge [Me.] 60 A. 799.

59. Where the lessee is a corporation not yet organized, but the lease is meanwhile placed in the hands of a committee for the corporation, by which it is afterward accepted and ratified, it becomes binding on such corporation. Applying L. 1896, p. 592, c. 547, § 207. Thistle v. Jones, 45 Misc. 215, 92 N. Y. S. 113.

60. The leasing of premises in which to publish a local newspaper is within the general scope of such business and a partner has prima facie authority to bind his firm a co-tenant representing the others,[62] may make, execute and change or cancel therefor. Woolsey v. Henke [Wis.] 103 N. W. 267.

61. NOTE. Authority of Agents: Where a lease is of such a nature that it is required to be under seal, authority to make it must also be under seal; but where the lease need only be written, and is not required to be under seal, the authority to make the same may be given by parol (Lake v. Campbell, 18 Ill. 106); and where an agent is authorized to lease he may enter into an agreement to lease, which will be binding on the principal, whether such agreement be for the agent's own benefit or for the benefit of his principal, for in either case the principal would be entitled, as against the agent, to the benefit of the contract (Taylor v. Salmon, 4 Mylne & C. 138).

It is not necessary that an agent's authority to lease or rent should be given to him expressly; but it may be implied as reasonably necessary and proper for carrying out some other general power granted to him, or it may be implied from the acts of the principal in recognizing or holding the agent out as possessing such authority. Hitchens v. Ricketts, 17 Ind. 625; Amory v. Kamnoffsky, 117 Mass. 351, 19 Am. Rep. 416; Ecker v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 8 Mo. App. 223; Gillis v. Bailey, 17 N. H. 18. But see Howard v. Carpenter, 11 Md. 259, where it is held that an attorney either at law or in fact has no authority to make a lease or confirm an imperfect one, or to perfect an inchoate agreement for a lease of property of his principal or client, unless authority for such purpose is expressly given. Thus, where an agent was engaged to carry on a mercantile business, to do which it was necessary to rent a house, the principal was bound for the rent thereof, whether he expressly authorized the agent to make the contract or not, since an agent, to conduct a given business, necessarily has authority to do everything which is essential to the performance of his duty. Baldwin v. Garrett, 111 Ga. 876. So the powers of a general agent of the owner of a railroad are such as will warrant him in executing a lease of property to be used as a ticket office for the railroad. Ecker v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 8 Mo. App. 223. But the general agent of a corporation cannot, by virtue of his general authority to manage the affairs of the corporation, make a lease for the purpose of trying title to land; and the fact that he has been accustomed to make leases of lands in the possession of the corporation, without objection by the latter, is not sufficient evidence of authority to make such lease to try a disputed title. Gillis v. Bailey, 17 N. H. 18. So an authority to make a new lease or to change one already made will not be implied from a power to collect rent (Indianapolis Mfg. & Carpenters Union v. Cleveland, C., C. & I. R. Co., 45 Ind. 281; Weil v. Zodiag, 34 La. Ann. 982; Davidson v. Blumor, 7 Daly [N. Y.] 205; Tryon v. Davis, 8 Wash. 106) or from the fact that the agent had previously rented the same property or had given his receipt for rent due (Weil v. Zodiag, 34 La. Ann. 982); nor will the fact that an agent is a general one at the place where he resides and has general power to transact business relating to the principal's property give such agent power to alter the terms of a sealed lease, accepting a less amount for the rent of the property and changing the time of payment thereof (Halladay v. Underwood, 90 Ill. App. 130).

The authority of an agent authorized to lease his principal's land extends not alone to what is necessary therefor, but to that which is "proper, usual, and reasonable," as well as necessary. Durkee v. Carr, 38 Or. 189. Thus, where an agent has authority to lease he also has implied power to accept a surrender of (Amory v. Kamnoffsky, 117 Mass. 351, 19 Am. Rep. 416) or to renew, a lease (Emerson v. Goodwin, 9 Conn. 423). So such an agent may make representations or warranties as to the condition of the property which he is authorized to lease (Matteson v. Rice, 116 Wis. 328), and the fact that the agent believed the representations to be true, and had no intention of deceiving the lessor, does not affect the principal's liability. But such an authority carries no authority to cancel the lease (Faville v. Lundvall, 106 Iowa, 135) nor to surrender it, where the agent's authority was to create, convey, or assign the lease (Ramsay v. Wilkie, 36 N. Y. St. Rep. 864), where it is held that under the New York statute of frauds declaring that no estate or interest in lands, other than a lease for a year, shall be created, assigned, surrendered, or declared unless by act or operation of law, or by deed subscribed by the party creating, etc., by his lawful agent thereunto authorized by writing, the lawful agent must be specially authorized in writing to surrender the lease; nor can such an agent enter into a covenant to repair or rebuild a house which he has leased (Halbut v. Forrest City, 34 Ark. 246). Authority to lease farms and collect rents does not give the agent implied power to license telegraph companies to erect poles in the highway in front of such farms. American Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Jones, 78 Ill. App. 372. An agent to lease lands has no authority to subject the rents thereof to the lien of advancements of agricultural supplies made to the tenant, by one who believed the lands belonged to the agent, if the principal did nothing to produce such belief or otherwise mislead the parties to the transaction. Loftin v. Crossland, 94 N. C. 76.

As a general rule an agent must lease only for the period for which he is authorized (Antoni v. Belknap, 102 Mass. 193; Page v. Wight, 96 Mass. 182), and if he exceeds his authority in that respect the lease will be good only for the period for which he had the power to make it (Alexander v. Alexander, 2 Ves. Sr. 644. Compare Roe v. Prideaux, 10 East, 158). Thus a lease of land for years, given during the absence of landowner from the country by an agent having authority only to "take charge of the land while he was gone, and make it pay the best way he could," is terminable by the landowner on his return. Antoni v. Belknap, 102 Mass. 193. So an agent, authorized to negotiate for or make a lease for three years, has no authority to make one for three years with the privilege to the lessee of a renewal for two years more.

leases. Where a party, as lessor, executes a lease as the agent of an undisclosed principal, he is personally responsible thereon, unless superseded by his principal, and he may sue to recover possession and for damages for failure to quit and surrender at the expiration of the term,[63] and the rule that an undisclosed principal is liable for the contract of his agent does not apply in the case of a lessee in a lease under seal.[64] Tenants in common may by express agreement establish the relation of landlord and tenant between them;[65] but such relation will not be implied in the absence of any well-defined intention to create it.[66]

There may be a novation to the sublessee if he is party to a new lease.[67] The vendee of leased property steps into the shoes of the lessor.[68] The provisions of the New York Real Property Law, relative to the power of a trustee to make a lease of real estate during the lifetime of the beneficiary, were intended to extend rather than restrict the power.[69]

Construction of leases and proof of the terms of tenancy.[70]—A lease must describe the land at least so as to be ascertainable[71] and define the term,[72] and parol

Schumacher v. Pabst Brewing Co., 78 Minn. 50.

If, however, no limitation is put upon the time for which he may lease, he may use his discretion in the matter, and lease for such a time as all the circumstances of the particular case would seem to warrant. Thus, where such authority is given to him, without any restriction as to the period for which he is to lease, a lease for a year made by him will be binding on the principal. Babin v. Ensley, 14 App. Div. 548, 43 N. Y. S. 849. Where a person seeks to establish a lease to him by an agent, the burden of proof is on such person to show that the agent had authority to make a lease for the term which he seeks to establish. Weil v. Zodiag, 34 La. Ann. 982.

Where an agent is employed to lease property, he has no implied authority to make representations as to the title of the same (Tondro v. Cushman, 5 Wis. 279), nor can he make his nonconsenting principal a joint lessor with the agent of the latter's property (La Point v. Scott, 36 Vt. 604; Loftin v. Crossland, 94 N. C. 76). Authority to make representations respecting the leased property, however, may be expressly given to an agent; and authority to make representations to any person bearing a letter from the landlord instructing him to show the premises to the bearer also authorizes him to make such representations to one who presents himself, as a prospective purchaser, without such a letter (Briggs v. Dunne, 168 Ill. 226).—From Clark & Skyles, Agency, §§ 248-252.

Estoppel to deny agency: Where the owner authorizes an agent to lease property and receives rent therefor, he is estopped to deny the execution of the lease. Niles v. Gonzales [Cal. App.] 82 P. 212.

62. Where one of several co-owners, with the approval of another and no apparent objections by the rest, leased the premises and the lessee entered, held possession and paid rent, it was presumed that the lease was made with the knowledge and consent of all the owners. Schwartz v. McQuaid, 214 Ill. 357, 73 N. E. 582.

63. An affidavit and bond for a writ of sequestration in aid of such suit may be properly made by him. Hunter v. Adoue [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 622.

64. Where the lessee in such a lease allowed another party to carry on business in the premises, which he conducted as her agent, the landlord could not treat such third person as the undisclosed principal of the lessee in the lease and recover from her for use and occupation of the premises. Lenney v. Finley, 118 Ga. 718, 45 S. E. 593.

65. See 4 C. L. 389.

66. A bankrupt occupied premises for several years, belonging to him and his wife's father in common; the latter deeded to the bankrupt, who subsequently deeded to claimant, his wife's mother. Neither consideration for the conveyances nor any intention to change the bankrupt's actual relation to the property was apparent. Held, that there was no implied promise on his part to pay rent which would support a claim therefor against his estate. In re Miller, 132 F. 414.

67. Where rent was payable under a lease at the end of each month, the fact that a sublessee insisted that its rent was due on the 15th of each month negatived any claim that the sublessee had assumed the position of the original lessee. Wray-Austin Machinery Co. v. Flower [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 214, 103 N. W. 873.

68. Houssiere Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932.

69. Laws 1896, p. 573, c. 547, § 86. Under this section a 5 year lease with an option of a 5 year renewal is enforceable against the trustee, subject to the contingency of termination by the beneficiary's death during the term. Weir v. Barker, 93 N. Y. S. 732.

70. See 4 C. L. 391.

71. The failure to give in the body of a lease the state and county where the demised lands lie does not affect the validity of the lease, where they are duly recited at the head of the lease and the lease was acknowledged and recorded in the county so named, and the premises were otherwise identified. Gex v. Dill [Miss.] 38 So. 193.

72. Where a turpentine lease for three years did not fix the time of beginning or ending, but work was begun under it within two years, the lease was unobjectionable evidence is rejected[73] except to clear up an ambiguity.[74] Erasures, interlineations and alterations on the face of the lease may be explained and shown to have been made before execution,[75] and a seal placed upon a lease does not make it a specialty and preclude extrinsic proof that, although signed by an individual, it was signed on behalf of a partnership, of which he was a member.[76] A lease will be construed as a whole.[77] General words in the description of the premises will be restricted and limited in their operation by clauses following them.[78] Where a lease is susceptible of two constructions, the one most favorable to the lessee must prevail;[79] but this rule cannot be invoked where the intention of the parties can be determined from the language used, in connection with surrounding conditions and circumstances.[80] Courts construe with considerable strictness the provisions of oil and gas leases requiring work to be done within a certain time, as well as those provisions requiring continuous operation.[81] An independent contract, though contemporaneous, cannot be read into and made a part of a written lease, when it was not a part thereof,[82] and in the absence of fraud or mutual mistake in not including some agreement in the writing,[83] although an independent, subsequent oral agreement varying the lease may be shown.[84] A written lease may be varied by an executed oral agreement.[85]

The question as to the meaning of the description of premises in a lease[86] and whether it is a lease or a license,[87] is for the court.

The exercise by the lessee of one of two alternative options, within the time limited in his lease, bars his right to the other.[88] Where one enters into possesas tending to create a perpetuity. Gex v. Dill [Miss.] 38 So. 193. Where the vendee of a tenant, under a lease containing a forfeiture clause in case of assignment, entered into a written agreement with the landlord for the payment of an increased rent from Nov. 1, 1896, when he took possession, but designating the term as beginning May 1, 1896, it was held that that was the term contemplated by the parties and not a new term commencing Nov. 1. Spring v. Lorimer, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 340.

73. Tucker v. Bennett [Okl.] 81 P. 423; Rhodes v. Purvis [Ark.] 85 S. W. 235.

74. Parol evidence is admissible to identify land described in a written lease in general terms, provided such general description is sufficient, in the light of the parol evidence, to clearly identify the property. Wellmaker v. Wheatley [Ga.] 51 S. E. 436. Parol evidence as to what was said and done before and after the execution and delivery of a lease admitted to show intent. Parish v. Vance, 110 Ill. App. 57.

75. Landt v. McCullough, 218 Ill. 607, 75 N. E. 1069.

76. Woolsey v. Henke [Wis.] 103 N. W. 267.

77. Spring v. Lorimer, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 340.

78. A lease of the "north side" of a building, "consisting of a storeroom and five rooms on the second and third floors of the same, together with access to the same through the hallway and porch," did not give an exclusive right to a bathroom on the north side, always used by all occupants of the building. Needy v. Middlekauff [Md.] 62 A. 159.

79. Where the terms are ambiguous or self-contradictory. Henderson v. Schuylkill Valley Clay Mfg. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 422.

80. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 466, 104 N. W. 650.

81. Chapple v. Kansas Vitrified Brick Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 666.

82. Where a written lease was given and a mortgage to secure the faithful performance of its covenants, and neither one made any allusion to another contemporary contract, the latter cannot be construed as a part of the lease. Neumann v. Moretti, 146 Cal. 27, 79 P. 510. Neither the alleged features of a contract relative to the exclusive right to sell liquors in an adjoining hotel nor the violation thereof had anything to do with the question of possession under a lease of a saloon in a hotel. Quandt v. Smith, 38 Wash. 93, 80 P. 287. Where the same paper on which a lease was executed also contained a guaranty of payment of rent and an agreement of the lessor to make certain improvements, they were separate instruments and not part of the lease. Woodbury v. Sparrell Print [Mass.] 73 N. E. 547.

83. Thomas v. Brin [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 842.

84. Evidence tending to prove a subsequent agreement for erecting a building by the lessee, whose cost should be applied on the rent, erroneously excluded. Chamberlain v. Iba, 181 N. Y. 486, 74 N. E. 481.

85. Under Civ. Code, § 1698. A written reservation of all the pasture was held to have been varied by an oral agreement that tenant's cattle should be pastured free, and which had been executed by pasturing cattle thereunder until the end of the term. Hanse v. Phillips [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1127.

86. Needy v. Middlekauff [Md.] 62 A. 159.

87. Roberts v. Lynn Ice Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 523.

88. Where he was given the privilege of sion of property under a contract for a lease and refuses to accept such lease when tendered, he cannot, by cross bill, in an action against him to recover possession, claim any rights by virtue of provisions that would have been in the lease, if it had been accepted.[89]

The law of the place governs leasehold interests in land.[90]

Covenants[91] are construed with the attendant circumstances,[92] specific covenants being discussed hereafter.[93] Covenants struck out of the landlord's duplicate of the lease by consent are waived though remaining in the other copy which the tenant did not sign.[94] Where a bond is conditioned for compliance with certain covenants of a specified lease, such covenants are as much a part of the bond as if set forth therein.[95] A covenant to pay rent on the part of the lessee in a lease renewable forever runs with the land,[96] and a covenant to pay taxes, in such a case, is not a collateral covenant, but adheres to the enjoyment of the thing demised.[97] But a covenant in a lease, relating to a thing not in esse does not run with the land and does not bind the heirs and assigns of the covenantor, when they are not named therein.[98]

Deposits as security for performance.—A tenant cannot recover back a deposit to secure performance of all the covenants of the lease until the end of the term,[99] and where he alleges that he has performed all the conditions of his lease, which is denied by the landlord, the burden is on him to make prima facie proof of such performance.[1]

Reformation.[2]—A lease may be reformed for fraudulent omission of covenants.[3]

Breach of agreement to make lease.[4]—The return stipulated for in an agreement for a lease cannot be recovered as rent, but an action for a breach of the agreement may be maintained by either party against the one in default.[5] If the proposed lessee has taken possession, the action by the proposed lessor for a breach, in the absence of special damages, is substantially an action for use and occupation.[6] Where a deposit was made on a lease to be taken in the future with certain conditions, including the security of two months' rent, the deposit was made as security for the fulfillment of the agreement to take the lease, and not erecting a new store front and making other improvements, or erecting a new building to be purchased by lessor or leased to him for another term, having made the improvements and the limit having expired, he could not claim the benefit of the other option in a new lease. Martin v. Babcock & Wilcox Co., 95 N. Y. S. 1057.

89. Livesley v. Muckle [Or.] 80 P. 901.

90. Where the demised premises were located in Ohio and both lessor and lessee resided there at the time of the execution of the lease and of their death, the lease was essentially an Ohio contract. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

91. See 4 C. L. 391, n. 61 et seq.

92. Rubens v. Hill, 115 Ill. App. 565.

93. See post, §§ 5-8.

94. Braman v. Dodge [Me.] 60 A. 799.

95. McCullough v. Moore, 111 Ill. App. 545.

96. A devisee of land subject to a perpetual lease is an assignee of the lessor as to such a covenant and may, under the Ohio Code of Civil Procedure sue the lessee or his representatives for breach of the covenant. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

97. The devisee of the lessor may under the Ohio Code of Civ. Proc. sue thereon in his own name. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

98. As a covenant by the lessor to pay at the end of the term for buildings erected by the lessees during the term. Ovington Bros. Co. v. Henshaw, 93 N. Y. S. 380.

99. Mirsky v. Horowitz, 92 N. Y. S. 48.

1. Goldberg v. Freeman, 92 N. Y. S. 237.

2. See Reformation of Instruments, 4 C. L. 1264.

3. Where the landlord, either by mistake or by taking advantage of the confidence or want of education of the tenant, fails to insert in a lease prepared by himself any reservations of improvements placed by lessee on the premises, equity will reform the lease. Daly v. Simonson, 126 Iowa, 716, 102 N. W. 780.

4. See 4 C. L. 390.

5. Henderson v. Schuylkill Valley Clay Mfg. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 422. Where the owner of property merely agrees to give possession of property to a prospective tenant "as soon as vacated by the present occupants," but is unable to eject them as soon as expected, he is not liable for failure to deliver possession before such vacation. Rhodes v. Purvis [Ark.] 85 S. W. 235.

6. Henderson v. Schuylkill Valley Clay Mfg. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 422.

as liquidated damages or penalty for failure to do so;[7] and the real estate owner could retain such deposit, in case of refusal to take the lease, only where he suffered actual damages, to be pleaded and proved in an action to recover the deposit.[8] But in Washington it is held that the forfeiture of such deposit as stipulated damages is the extent of the owner's remedy for a breach of the contract.[9]

§ 3. The different kinds of tenancies and their incidents.[10] Periodical tenancies.[11]—It is the general rule that, where a tenant enters under a void lease and pays a periodical rent, a periodical tenancy is created;[12] and to determine the terms of such periodical tenancy, reference may be had to the invalid lease and its stipulations applicable to a periodical tenancy.[13] A lease for one year with the privilege of continuing it from year to year so long as the parties thereto agree creates a tenancy from year to year,[14] and the fact that the lease gives to the lessee an option of renewal will not affect its character as a lease for a fixed period.[15] Where the original letting is for one month, or where monthly payments, begun and continued without express agreement, are clearly referable to terms of that duration, a tenancy from month to month will be inferred;[16] but, when monthly payments are made under circumstances repellant to such a relationship, the court will not imply it as a matter of fact.[17] Under a statute which declares that a renting of premises for an indefinite time with a monthly rent reserved shall be a tenancy from month to month, and shall continue until terminated by notice, the tenancy is a continuous one and not a new one at the beginning of each month.[18]

At common law an estate for years, even though for a longer period than the tenant's prospect of life, is personal property; but by a statute of Ohio, personal leasehold estates renewable forever are made subject to the law of descents governing estates in fee.[19] In New York a leasehold interest in real estate for ten years is a chattel real.[20]

Tenancy at will.[21]—A tenancy at will is essentially undeterminate by its own terms, and will not end at any certain time by its own mere force.[22] Where a party enters and retains possession of premises by permission of the owner,[23] or where the minds of the parties do not meet, either on a written or on a parol lease, the tenant in possession is a mere tenant at will.[24] In Massachusetts one whose estate is created by a parol lease is a tenant at will.[25]

7, 8. Weinberg v. Greenberger, 93 N. Y. S. 530.

9. Schlumpf v. Sasake, 38 Wash. 278, 80 P. 457.

10. See 4 C. L. 392. The several kinds of tenancies discussed historically. Wolfer v. Hurst [Or.] 82 P. 20.

11. See 4 C. L. 392.

12. Lease of land owned by husband and wife and a third party, executed by the husband alone, was void as against the third party and the community of the husband and wife. Snyder v. Harding, 38 Wash. 666, 80 P. 789.

13. Division of the crops determined by stipulations contained in the invalid lease. Snyder v. Harding, 38 Wash. 666, 80 P. 789.

14. Hatfield v. Lawton, 95 N. Y. S. 451.

15. Reccius & Bro. v. Columbia Finance & Trust Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 880, 86 S. W. 1113.

16. Under a lease for one month, providing that after such term, upon breach of any condition of the lease, the lessee shall be a mere tenant at sufferance, the lessee becomes a tenant from month to month and not from year to year. Hood v. Drysdale, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 540.

17. Where a life tenant leased the premises for five years, at a yearly rental payable in equal monthly instalments, and died during the term, the mere fact that lessee continued the monthly payments first to the remaindermen and then to their grantee did not make him a tenant from month to month. Bernstein v. Demmert [N. J. Law] 62 A. 187.

18. Ward v. Hinkleman, 37 Wash. 375, 79 P. 956.

19. Swan's St. 1841, p. 289, § 1. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

20. Under the Real Property Law (Laws 1896, p. 607, c. 547, § 240), and a mortgage covering it need not be refiled as a chattel mortgage. Westchester Trust Co. v. Hobby Bottling Co., 102 App. Div. 464, 92 N. Y. S. 482.

21. See 4 C. L. 392.

22. Reccius & Bro. v. Columbia Finance & Trust Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 880, 86 S. W. 1113.

23. Hayden v. Collins [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1120.

24. Proprietors of a hotel leased space in their hotel for a branch telegraph office, but the terms were never fixed, though tenant

Tenancy at sufferance.[26]—A tenancy at sufferance is created where one enters into possession under a lawful demise, and his retention of possession after the expiration of his term is by the mere laches or neglect of the owner to take possession.[27] But a person who enters into the possession of premises under a deed, claiming title thereto in good faith, cannot be summarily evicted as a tenant at sufferance.[28]

§ 4. Rights and interests remaining in the landlord. A. Reversion,[29] seisin and right of re-entry.[30]—All the estate save that demised is the landlord's[31] and he may recover for any injury to it.[32] The tenant's possession is attracted to the landlord's title[33] to make his seisin, and hence may always be shown when the question of the landlord's possession is involved.[34] At the termination of the lease or tenancy and sooner if the lease be forfeited,[35] he may re-enter by virtue of his reversion[36] and in so doing he is in his own right not of privity to the tenant who has quit.[37]

(§ 4) B. Estoppel of tenant to deny title.[38]—During the continuance of a tenancy the lessee is estopped[39] and those in privity to him[40] from denying the landlord's title or the title of either of joint landlords[41] or attorning to a third person,[42] and consequently cannot collude with persons out of possession in order to defeat the possession of his landlord;[43] and this rule applies with full force in summary proceedings to recover possession.[44] It is not a denial to say that the occupied the space. Swart v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 609, 105 N. W. 74.

25. Pub. St. 1882, c. 120, § 3. Sheehan v. Fall River, 187 Mass. 356, 73 N. E. 544.

26. See 4 C. L. 393.

27. Sharpe v. Mathews [Ga.] 51 S. E. 706; Reccius & Bro. v. Columbia Finance & Trust Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 880, 86 S. W. 1113.

28. Sharpe v. Mathews [Ga.] 51 S. E. 706.

29, 30. See 4 C. L. 393.

31. See 2 C. L. 673; 4 C. L. 393.

32. Where land in possession of a tenant is taken by the government for a military camp and such extraordinary use impairs its value, the reversioner may recover for the damage done. Alexander's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 383. The landlord may maintain an action for a trespass on the leased property. Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976.

33. See post, § 4 B, Estoppel, etc.

34. To sustain an action of trespass vi et armis. Vanderslice v. Donner, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 319.

35. See post, § 8.

36. See post, §§ 8, 10.

37. Where a tenant and not a landlord was sued in ejectment and before execution, the tenant removed from the land, the landlord entering either personally or by another tenant, neither the landlord nor the subsequent tenant claimed through or under the first tenant, and the landlord was therefore not bound by the judgment. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198. The landlord in such a case can have a judgment opened, which was entered against the tenant by default, and be allowed to defend, where he had no knowledge of the action of ejectment in time to be made a party. Id.

38. See 4 C. L. 393.

39. Stover v. Davis [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1023; Hodges v. Waters [Ga.] 52 S. E. 161. If the tenant enters under the title of another and holds by permission or at sufferance, he is estopped to deny such title. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746. So held in a criminal prosecution under section 1761 of the North Carolina Code, making it unlawful for a tenant to injure a tenement house of his landlord. State v. Godwin, 138 N. C. 582, 50 S. E. 277.

40. When once the relation of landlord and tenant is established, it attaches to all who may succeed to the possession through or under the tenant, whether immediately or remotely, the succeeding tenant being as much bound by the acts and admissions of his predecessors as if they were his own. Stover v. Davis [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1023. Such estoppel extends to his executors. Steuber v. Huber, 95 N. Y. S. 348. Widow of tenant cannot assert homestead rights in lands occupied by husband, possession not having been surrendered to the landlord. Merki v. Merki, 113 Ill. App. 518.

41. Where a lease binds the tenant to pay rent to two persons as lessors, he cannot deny their title by showing that one had no interest in the premises, although the lease was not signed by him when executed by the tenant. Moore v. Gair, 95 N. Y. S. 475.

42. Stover v. Davis [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1023. Payment of rent by an occupant of premises to another claiming to own the same constitutes attornment. Cummings v. Smith, 114 Ill. App. 35.

43. Stover v. Davis [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1023. The character of the relation cannot be changed by an illegal attornment or a mere disclaimer, not amounting to an actual disseizin, unless the landlord elects to consider it as such. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

44. Dilks v. Kelsey [N. J. Law] 59 A. 897. In unlawful detainer a lessee who admits that he entered under a lease signed by the plaintiff as owner cannot dispute his title. Houck v. Williams [Colo.] 81 P. 800.

landlord's title was held in another's interest.[45] In order to deny a landlord's title, a tenant must surrender to him the possession which he has received from him and re-enter under some other person.[46] Where the tenant denies the landlord's title, the landlord may treat it as a diseissin and the tenancy is thereby terminated without notice to quit.[47] But the rule that a tenant cannot deny the title of his landlord applies only to the title that existed when he went into possession as tenant, and not when the landlord's title has expired, been extinguished by operation of law or his own act, or has changed for the worse since the tenant entered into the contract,[48] and while holding under one person, the tenant may, for a good consideration, agree to pay rent to another party and will be bound by the agreement, and be estopped to deny the title of either.[49] But the estoppel raised by the second contract to pay rent is no broader in its operation than the contract provides, and after the expiration thereof the tenant is no longer estopped to deny his liability to the payment of rent thereunder,[50] and when duress[51] or fraud is shown to have entered into the procurement of the lease, or where the lease has since become tainted with it, by a fraudulent sale of the premises for the purpose of ousting the tenant of his rights, the tenant may dispute his landlord's title.[52] Where the landlord assigns the lease to another party, the acceptance of a receipt for rent from such party by the tenant, without objection, operates as an attornment to him as tenant's landlord, and he cannot deny the assignee's title.[53]

The possession of the lessee is the possession of the lessor,[54] and the running of the statute of limitation in the landlord's behalf is not interrupted by any mere disclaimer on the part of his tenant, or by the tenant's negotiations with other parties;[55] but a judgment in favor of a third party against the landlord, in a contest over title to the land, does not of itself make the possession of the tenants that of such party.[56]

A tenant cannot acquire title to property occupied by him as such tenant by adverse possession.[57]

§ 5. Mutual rights and liabilities in demised premises. A. Occupation and enjoyment.[58] Right to enter.—The landlord must deliver possession[59] seasonably

45. In an action for rent, an averment in defendant's answer that plaintiff executed the lease for another party, to whom the rent had been paid up to the time of the sale of the premises to defendant's wife, and a denial that plaintiff ever was the owner of the premises, and the admission of evidence to support the answer was not in furtherance of an attempt of a tenant to dispute a landlord's title. Niles v. Gonzales [Cal. App.] 82 P. 212.

46. Hodges v. Waters [Ga.] 52 S. E. 161.

47. Schwoebel v. Fuglna [N. D.] 104 N. W. 848; Stover v. Davis [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1023, citing several authorities, Barnewell v. Stephens [Ala.] 38 So. 662. Where the lessee asserted his right to hold the premises under a quitclaim deed from the husband of his lessor, he thereby denied her title and was not entitled to notice to quit before suit for possession. Cook v. Penrod [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 676.

48. Sadler v. Jefferson [Ala.] 39 So. 380.

49. The escape from litigation is a good consideration. Hodges v. Waters [Ga.] 52 S. E. 161.

50. Hodges v. Waters [Ga.] 52 S. E. 161.

51. The evidence not being sufficient to show duress at the time of the first payment of rent and defendant having recognized plaintiff as landlord for many years by payment of rent he could not deny plaintiff's title in an action for rent. Mineral R. & Min. Co. v. Flaherty, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 236.

52. Where the lease provided that the lessor might sell, either subject to the lease or thereby terminating it, but gave the lessee the preference as purchaser, and the owner made a fictitious and collusive sale to a third person merely to deprive the lessee of his right of purchase. Ogle v. Hubbel [Cal. App.] 82 P. 217.

53. Barada-Ghio Real Estate Co. v. Heidbrink [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1109.

54. Such is the case, whatever may be the relation of the landlord to other parties or the rights of the landlord and tenants among themselves. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

55, 56. Cobb v. Robertson [Tex.] 86 S. W. 746.

57. A subsequent occupant under conveyance from such tenant cannot avail himself of their possession to establish a claim of title by adverse possession. Gill v. Malan [Utah] 82 P. 471.

58. See 4 C. L. 394.

59, 60. There is an implied contract on according to the terms agreed[60] or at least he must do nothing to hinder taking possession[61] and until all is delivered an entry is not binding.[62] For failure to do so the lessee may recover as damages the market value of the leasehold interest,[63] measured by the difference between the price he agreed to pay and the rental value.[64] Yet the tenant may, by negotiations with the one in possession, waive the landlord's implied covenant to deliver possession.[65]

Reservations and conditions of use.[66]—The lease may fix the conditions of use and enjoyment.[67] A specification in a lease that the premises are to be used for a particular purpose amounts to a covenant not to use them for any other purpose.[68] But where the restriction relates rather to the manner in which a particular business is to be conducted, the premises may then be used for any other lawful business,[69] as well as the one specified if properly conducted.[70] A forbidden business cannot be conducted in connection with some other.[71] A covenant not to increase insurable hazard may disentitle the lessee to use the premises for their designed purpose.[72] The statute of California, providing that, when a thing is let for a particular purpose and used for another, the letter may treat the contract as rescinded, is applicable to the letting of real property.[73] The right of a lessee to use the leased premises in the manner contemplated in the lease cannot be affected by a subsequent lease to another party.[74] Wholly independent of the relation of landlord and tenant the parties may contract respecting the enjoyment or use of the premises.[75] the part of the lessor to deliver the premises to the lessee at the moment he is entitled to take possession, and a breach thereof releases the lessee from the obligation to take the premises. Miller v. Innis, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 50. A tenant is justified in refusing to accept the premises, when tendered long after the stipulated time and when material changes have been made in the arrangement and condition of the building since the execution of the lease, though such changes were made by a prior tenant, unknown to the landlord. Rosenstein v. Cohen [Minn.] 104 N. W. 965.

61. A landlord is not required to place his tenant in possession, yet he should give a legal right of entry unincumbered by any act of his own. Mirsky v. Horowitz, 92 N. Y. S. 48.

62. Acceptance of a part of the premises is not a waiver of the right to abandon the lease for failure to deliver all the premises. Miller v. Innis, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 50.

63. Birch v. Wood, 111 Ill. App. 336.

64. Andrews v. Minter [Ark.] 88 S. W. 822.

65. Defendant rented premises knowing them to be in possession of a third person and made arrangements with him permitting him to remain another month, meanwhile paying the rent stipulated by himself to the landlord. Held, that the implied covenant for possession was waived. Rieger v. Welies, 110 Mo. App. 166, 84 S. W. 1136.

66. See 4 C. L. 394.

67. Agreement among railroad companies leasing terminal facilities from a union depot company, relative to the improvement of the property and the transaction of business thereon, construed. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 466, 104 N. W. 650.

68. Lease of a building for a saloon. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Keenan [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 251, 88 S. W. 197.

69. As where it was understood that the building was to be used for the purpose of "conducting a first-class saloon." San Antonio Brewing Ass'n v. Brents [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 368.

70. A provision in a lease that the premises were to be used for "conducting a first-class saloon" was a restriction on the manner of conducting the business and not a restriction of the use of the premises to saloon purposes. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n v. Brents [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 368.

71. A covenant by the lessor not to rent any portion of the building in which lessee's premises are located for the purpose of wholesaling or retailing cigars and tobacco, prevented the leasing for the purpose of carrying on such business, though conducted in connection with a general grocery business. Waldorf-Astoria Segar Co. v. Saiomon, 95 N. Y. S. 1053.

72. A covenant not to do any act which would increase insurance rates did not merely prohibit any change in the lessee's business which would have that effect, but prohibited the maintenance of vats for storing varnish, although they were there when the lease was executed and had been for many years before. King v. Murphy Varnish Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 290.

73. Civ. Code, § 1930. Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 317.

74. The leasing of terminal facilities to a railroad company by a union depot company. Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 466, 104 N. W. 650.

75. Landlord agreed to keep his oattle from tenant's fields and was held liable for breach without proof of tenancy. Gloor & Co. v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 783.

A covenant by the lessor not to let any part of his premises to any other person to carry on the same business as the lessee's will be enforced by a court of equity against the landlord and such third person if he took with knowledge of such covenant.[76] But such a covenant is not broken by a lease for another purpose, although such other tenant uses his premises for the same purpose as the first lessee.[77] To establish a waiver of an express condition in a lease, relative to leasing to other parties, the facts relied upon must show a clear intent to waive it.[78]

Whatever is necessary or essential to the proper enjoyment of the estate granted passes as an appurtenance thereto.[79] Although, in the absence of stipulations to the contrary, the lessee of a building for business purposes acquires title to the whole building, including the outer walls, which he may use for legitimate advertising purposes, yet this rule cannot apply in case of many tenants occupying rooms in the same buildings, especially where they are restricted to the use of the windows for advertising purposes, by the terms of their leases.[80] The lease will not include mining rights by bare implication.[81]

In the absence of a clearly expressed intention otherwise, a reservation from a lease is limited to some part of the lessor's estate.[82] Reservations are construed according to the fair import of their terms.[83] Where a lease of land for park purposes reserved the right to grant a right of way through the park for street railway purposes, such reserved power was not exhausted by a mere acquiescence in a prior entry of a street railway company at the instance of the lessees and the use of a part of the premises as a station.[84] But the lessors could exercise the reserved right in such location only as would not unreasonably interfere with the arrangement of the park.[85]

Condition of premises.[86]—In the absence of statute,[87] express agreement,[88] or fraudulent concealment,[89] the landlord is not answerable to the tenant for the 76. Waldorf-Astoria Segar Co. v. Salomon, 95 N. Y. S. 1053.

77. Premises were let to the first lessee for a commissary, and for a camp to the second lessee, who established a commissary in competition with the first lessee. Lucente v. Davis [Md.] 61 A. 622.

78. Where a Grange of Patrons of Industry leased its rooms to a Masonic lodge with the understanding that the rooms should not be leased to any other lodge "without a two-thirds majority of both lodges," that condition was not waived by the fact that, by common consent, the lessor allowed a "Pomona Grange" and the lessee a chapter of the "Eastern Star" to use the rooms, those being affiliated orders respectively, so as to permit the lessor to rent the rooms to the "Ladies of the Maccabees" without the consent provided for. Portage Grange v. Masonic Lodge, No. 340 [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 464, 104 N. W. 667.

79. Electric light held to be an appurtenance to the leased premises. Parish v. Vance, 110 Ill. App. 50.

80. Neither the landlord nor an advertiser on the outer wall is liable in damages to a tenant because his advertisements lack aesthetic character or, by their showiness, dimmed the luster of tenant's signs, in the absence of any showing of substantial damage to tenant's business. Fuller v. Rose, 110 Mo. App. 344, 85 S. W. 931.

81. A lease of lands without any reference to minerals, mines or quartz is a lease of the superficies of the soil only. Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 317.

82. A lease of lands with a reserved right to flood the same did not relieve defendant from damages for flooding other lands owned by the plaintiff. Stadler v. Missouri River Power Co. [C. C. A.] 139 F. 305.

83. An electric railway operated beyond the limits of a city and into a town incorporated for the mere maintenance of a park adjacent to the city was a street railway, within a power reserved in a lease of lands for park purposes to grant a right of way through the land "for street railway purposes." Montgomery Amusement Co. v. Montgomery Traction Co., 139 F. 353.

84, 85. Montgomery Amusement Co. v. Montgomery Traction Co., 139 F. 353.

86. See 4 C. L. 394, and post, §§ 5 C, 5 E.

87. In Georgia a landlord is required to keep leased premises in repair. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 3118, 3123. Veal v. Hanlon [Ga.] 51 S. E. 579; Ross v. Jackson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 578.

88. No action lies by a tenant against a landlord on account of the condition of the premises in the absence of an express warranty or of active deceit. Howell v. Schneider, 24 App. D. C. 532.

89. The declaration must allege that the defective condition was known to the landlord and concealed by him. Miles v. Tracey [Ky.] 89 S. W. 1128. While the failure by condition of the demised premises, since a rule similar to that of caveat emptor applies,[90] and there is no implied warranty that the property is suitable for the purpose intended.[91] For breach of express covenants respecting the condition of the premises, the measure of damages, in the absence of special circumstances, is the difference between the value of the use of the premises as contracted to be and their actual rental value[92] and special circumstances coming to the knowledge of the lessor after the making of the lease do not take the case out of the general rule.[93] Continued occupation may raise a presumption of continued tenantability,[94] but is not conclusive evidence thereof.[95]

A covenant for quiet enjoyment is implied from the usual words of demise,[96] which signifies that the tenant shall not be evicted by title paramount,[97] and that his possession shall not be disturbed by the acts or wrongful omissions of the lessor.[98] The lessor is bound to protect the lessee in the quiet enjoyment of the property leased, as against persons claiming a right thereto,[99] but his covenant, whether express or implied, does not protect the lessee from the act of a stranger or one holding without paramount right,[1] nor from the lawful act of the landlord in making a different use of his property not demised.[2] For wrongful eviction or breach of covenant for quiet enjoyment, a tenant may recover the damages proxithe landlord to reveal dangerous conditions may not constitute actual fraud or misrepresentation, it may in some cases amount to such culpable negligence of duty as to afford ground of action against him. Howell v. Schneider, 24 App. D. C. 532.

90. Howell v. Schneider, 24 App. D. C. 532. The doctrine of caveat emptor applies to one leasing a building that is unsafe, and the contract of a lease is entered into subject to the superior right of the state to order the building razed in the event that it becomes a menace to the public. Liebschutz v. Black, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 393. Where the lessee knowingly covenants that he has received the premises in good repair and will keep them so, he takes the premises as he finds them. Fowler Cycle Works v. Fraser, 110 Ill. App. 126.

91. Lazarus & Cohen v. Parmly, 113 Ill. App. 624; Martin v. Surman, 116 Ill. App. 232. There is no implied contract on the landlord's part that leased premises are tenantable or will remain so. Carpenter v. Stone, 112 Ill. App. 155; Siggins v. McGill [N. J. Err. & App.] 62 A. 411. The lease of a theater building was no warranty of its fitness for that purpose. Taylor v. Finnigan [Mass.] 76 N. E. 203.

92. Land was leased for the dairy business with a covenant to furnish pasture for 100 head of cattle and clear land enough to provide feed, the business being new and both parties having equal knowledge of the condition and character of the premises. Held, that damages for depreciation of cattle, expense of feeding and loss on butter and milk product were too remote in an action by tenant against landlord for breach of covenant. Kellogg v. Malick [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1116. Nor could the lessees, who remained in possession after the lessor's breach of covenant, refusing to pay rent until their eviction therefor, recover for work done on the premises after knowledge of the breach. Id.

93. Kellogg v. Malick [Wis.] 103 N. W. 1116.

94. A tenant cannot claim that the premises were rendered untenantable by a storm, when he remained in possession as tenant and occupant for twenty days after the storm. Ernst v. Wheatley, 93 N. Y. S. 1116.

95. It may be rebutted by proof to the contrary, where a lease makes specific provisions relative to rent payment in case of damage to the premises by fire, so as to make them untenantable. Weinberg v. Savitzky, 93 N. Y. S. 485.

96. The words, "granted and leased" in a contract for the use of certain lands for a gas well were merely a covenant for quiet enjoyment. Shenk v. Stahl [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 538. The landlord is under a positive duty to his tenant that he shall have quiet enjoyment of the premises. Nahm v. Register Newspaper Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 887, 87 S. W. 296.

97. Osmers v. Furey [Mont.] 81 P. 345. If the lessee is kept out of possession by one having a paramount title, the lessor is liable on his covenant for quiet enjoyment and the lessee is released from the rent charge. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522.

98. Osmers v. Furey [Mont.] 81 P. 345.

99. Lessor recovered damages for destruction of hedge and trees, and trimming other trees without his consent, while the premises were in possession of lessees, done by commissioners to improve a highway, who assumed the right to do so. Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976.

1. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522; Bright v. Bell, 113 La. 1078, 37 So. 976; Tucker v. Du Puy [Pa.] 60 A. 4. Unless it can be shown that a contemplated covenant to that effect was omitted from the lease by mistake or fraud. Thomas v. Brin [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 842.

2. The lease of the rest of the building in which plaintiff had leased offices for the practice of medicine, to be used as a hotel with a bar, did not violate any express or implied covenant of plaintiff's quiet enjoyment. Tucker v. Du Puy [Pa.] 60 A. 4.

mately resulting therefrom.[3] A tenant who has been wrongfully dispossessed under a claim of violation of his lease has an adequate remedy at law, and is not entitled to the aid of a court of equity in regaining possession of the premises.[4] The remedy by injunction lies to prevent the landlord from interfering with the premises, when the remedy at law is not adequate and complete.[5]

Eviction.[6]—An eviction may consist of the exclusion of the tenant from a substantial portion of the demised premises,[7] or of damage to the premises by fire, destroying their usefulness.[8] Entry to make repairs after the tenant has abandoned

3. Where the tenant was ejected from the leased premises by the landlord, the measure of his damages was the reasonable rental value of the land for the remainder of the term and any other loss directly caused by the eviction, such as the expense of removal to another place. Campbell v. Howerton [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 171, 87 S. W. 370. It cannot be said, as a matter of law, that a tenant, who is unlawfully evicted from a farm in January cannot recover as damages both the cost of removal to temporary quarters and to permanent quarters. McElvaney v. Smith [Ark.] 88 S. W. 981. It must appear that the rental value of the land was greater than the amount he had agreed to pay for it. Id. A charge that the measure of tenant's damages for a wrongful eviction was the reasonable market value of the crops that tenant and his family might reasonably have expected to raise, less rents due to the landlord, amounts that would have been expended for help and such an amount as he and his family earned since the eviction, was approved. Freeman v. Slay [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 664, 88 S. W. 404. Where the tenant was prevented by the landlord from clearing and grubbing lands in accordance with the terms of the contract between them, the measure of the tenant's damages was the contract price less the reasonable cost of the work to him. Campbell v. Howerton [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 171, 87 S. W. 370.

4. Complaint held not to show danger of multiplicity or financial irresponsibility of both defendants. Williams v. Mathewson [N. H.] 60 A. 687.

5. The remedy was inadequate where the threatened injury was the shutting off of the steam supply necessary in the conduct of a restaurant. Slack v. Knox, 114 Ill. App. 435.

6. See 4 C. L. 394, 402.

7. As where the lessee of the "exclusive" privilege of quarrying limestone was excluded from the premises by the grantee of the lessor who had reserved the right of taking limestone to be burned on the premises. Arkley v. Union Sugar Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 509. Entry and making of improvements in back yard held eviction. Osmers v. Furey [Mont.] 81 P. 345. Claim of eviction was based upon an alleged refusal to permit the lessee's coachman to move into sleeping rooms in the stable and put a gasoline stove there, next to the hay mow, and the alleged refusal to permit lessee to use certain appliances on the premises. Question held one of fact and jury's finding of no eviction sustained. Rubens v. Hill, 115 Ill. App. 565.

NOTE. What is disturbance or eviction: The defendant leased to the plaintiff premises partly built under the street by a license from the City of New York which owned the fee therein. Subsequently the city granted the use of the street for the purpose of a subway and the plaintiff was evicted. Held, the defendant is not liable for a breach of his covenant for quiet enjoyment, since the plaintiff was chargeable with knowledge that the defendant was a mere licensee and took the lease at his peril. Pabst Brewing Co. v. Thorley, 32 N. Y. Law J. 1707.

A covenant for quiet enjoyment merely insures against disturbances due to defects in the lessor's title. Coddington v. Dunham, 45 How. Prac. [N. Y.] 40; Knapp v. Marlboro, 34 Vt. 235. Since it does not cover premises to which the lessor notoriously claims no title (McLarren v. Spalding, 2 Cal. 510), an eviction of the lessee by the owner is no breach of the lessor's covenant (Id.). And likewise had the lessor in the principal case owned the entire premises and the lessee been evicted by the city under its police powers (Connor v. Bernheimer, 6 Daly [N. Y.] 295), or its right of eminent domain (Frost v. Earnest, 4 Wheat. [Pa.] 85), such eviction would have been no breach of the lessor's covenant.—5 Columbia L. R. 329.

Defendant leased a room to plaintiff for saloon purposes. By a city ordinance a license could be obtained only with the consent of half the abutting property owners. The defendant owned other abutting lots, and refused his consent, thus defeating the plaintiff's petition for a license. Held, this was not an eviction. Kellogg v. Lowe, 38 Wash. 293, 80 P. 452. An actual expulsion from leased premises is not necessary to constitute an eviction. Royce v. Guggenheim, 106 Mass. 201, 8 Am. Rep. 322. Any act of the landlord done with the intention and having the effect of depriving the tenant of the beneficial enjoyment of leased premises will amount to eviction. Denison v. Ford, 7 Daly [N. Y.] 384; 2 McAdam, Landlord & Tenant, § 404. Where premises were leased for a brewery and the landlord refused to give the written consent required by statute, the court found a constructive eviction. Grabenhorst v. Nicodemus, 42 Md. 236. This doctrine seems more equitable and better founded in authority than that maintained in the principal case. Silber v. Larkin, 94 Wis. 9; Duff v. Hart, 16 N. Y. S. 163. —5 Columbia L. R. 548.

8. Where a hole 3x5 was burned in the floor above the furnace, small holes cut by the firemen, but the floors, though otherwise burned, were firm, some damage done to a chimney and side wall and glass broken in a skylight, it was held that the premises were not rendered untenantable. Bowen v. Shackter [N. J. Law] 60 A. 1111.

the premises is neither an acceptance of a surrender nor an eviction.[9] Neither the entry by a landlord to make repairs required by a municipal department, after the refusal to make the same by the tenant in compliance with his covenant to do so,[10] nor the landlord's refusal to send back to the tenant the keys which he sent to the landlord, on abandoning the premises,[11] nor a sale of the premises and delivery of possession by the landlord,[12] constitutes an eviction which will relieve the tenant from the payment of rent; nor will such sale avail him as a defense to the payment of a rent note, where it was made subject to the lease and under such circumstances as to be of no damage to him.[13] To constitute a constructive eviction so as to suspend payment of rent, it must affirmatively appear that by his intentional and wrongful act the landlord has deprived the tenant of the beneficial use and enjoyment of all or a part of the leasehold.[14] Although the presence of odors rendering premises uninhabitable have been held to be a constructive eviction, yet never in a case where the tenant had full opportunity to inspect the premises before leasing and actually did so.[15] A tenant cannot claim an eviction because of the premises being made untenantable by a storm, when he occupied them as tenant for twenty days after the storm.[16]

The landlord has no more right to invade the premises of the tenant than an outsider has;[17] nor has the grantee of leased lands, for he takes only the estate of the lessor and not that of the lessee.[18] Although the landlord is not guilty of trespass in entering the premises after the end of the term, yet he may make himself liable by acts of violence or unnecessary force after he enters.[19]

Nature of tenant's estate.—A person entitled to the possession of premises under a lease from the owner may bring an action of forcible detainer for them.[20] In Massachusetts, a tenant at will under a parol lease[21] is entitled to damages to

9. Smucker v. Grinberg, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 531.

10. Markham v. David Stevenson Brewing Co., 93 N. Y. S. 684.

11. Smucker v. Grinberg, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 531.

12. Smucker v. Grinberg, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 531. A sale of part of the premises does not disturb the lessee's possession and enjoyment, but entitles the grantee to an apportionment of the rent. Stern v. Sawyer [Vt.] 61 A. 36.

13. As where the property was a summer hotel and the season was past, and instead of being valuable the property would require the expense of some one to care for it. Finch v. Mishler [Md.] 59 A. 1009.

14. An order of a building inspector requiring the lessee of a theater building to provide additional means of egress, in the absence of any covenant requiring the lessor to do so is not an eviction. Taylor v. Finnigan [Mass.] 76 N. E. 203. Where the landlord rented a room on a certain lot to be used as a saloon, but afterward, as owner of other lots, united with other lot owners in a protest against the issue of a license, whereby the tenants were prevented from carrying on the business for which they had leased the premises, the landlord's action did not constitute an eviction. Kellogg v. Lowe, 38 Wash. 293, 80 P. 458.

15. Flannery v. Simons, 93 N. Y. S. 544.

16. Ernst v. Wheatley, 93 N. Y. S. 1116.

17. Snedecor v. Pope [Ala.] 39 So. 318. Entering the premises during the tenant's possessory right and putting a lock on the door of the building did not give the landlord possession, but was an invasion of the tenant's rights. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 of Hope Tp. [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999. He cannot without the tenant's consent tear off the roof preparatory to building another story, without being responsible for consequent injury to the tenant's goods; and he is not relieved from responsibility by contracting with another to do the work. Nahm v. Register Newspaper Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 887, 87 S. W. 296. Where a landlord, during a tenant's absence and without his consent, moved the dwelling house, dug a cellar and built another house on the lot, the tenant was entitled to a verdict in an action for trespass. Maney v. Lamphere [Mich.] 102 N. W. 974. In an action of trespass by the tenant against the landlord, the measure of tenant's damages is the injury done to the leasehold and personal injuries, and not the damage to the freehold of the landlord. Snedecor v. Pope [Ala.] 39 So. 318.

18. Where lessee was granted the "exclusive" right to quarry limestone on the premises but, in another part of the lease the lessor reserved a qualified right to take limestone for burning on the premises, the grantee of the lessor could not totally exclude the lessee from the premises in the exercise of the reserved right to take limestone. Arkley v. Union Sugar Co. [Cal.] 81 P. 509.

19. Snedecor v. Pope [Ala.] 39 So. 318.

20. Floersheim v. Baude, 110 Ill. App. 536.

21. Pub. St. 1882, c. 120, § 3. Sheehan v. Fall River, 187 Mass. 356, 73 N. E. 544.

his estate by a change of street grade.[22] A tenant for 999 years can, while in possession, enjoin a third person trespassing on his easement.[23]

(§ 5) B. Assignment and sub-letting.[24]—At common law the power of assignment is incident to a leasehold estate,[25] if not denied by the terms of the lease, in which case an assignment without the assent of the landlord is not void, but voidable at the latter's option.[26] But an option of purchasing the premises, given to the lessee "but no other person" is personal and not assignable.[27] A covenant not to sell or assign a lease is not broken by an assignment by operation of law.[28] The assignee of a lease is bound by its covenants.[29] Where there is no restriction to the original lessees of the right to renew a lease, a renewal can be compelled, under the terms of the lease, by the assignee of the lessees.[30] As between assignor and assignee the latter's term is ascertained in the usual way.[31] To rescind it equity must be done or the consideration tendered back.[32] The lease may by partial assignment become firm assets.[33]

The right to underlet may be prohibited by conditions in the lease[34] or by statute.[35] The subletting of premises leased for a particular purpose, to be used

22. Under St. 1890, c. 428, § 5, amd. by St. 1891, c. 123, § 1, providing for compensation for such changes. Sheehan v. City of Fall River, 187 Mass. 356, 73 N. E. 544. Such compensation includes injuries to a building substantially annexed to the soil, which, as between the tenant and landlord, is a tenant's fixture, which may be removed; and he is not precluded from claiming compensation by a settlement made with the landowner, who asserted no title to the building. Sheehan v. Fall River, 187 Mass. 356, 73 N. E. 544.

23. Erection of a fire escape, by the owner of a theater on the other side of the alley, over the alley which plaintiff was entitled to use. Schmoele v. Betz [Pa.] 61 A. 525.

24. See 4 C. L. 395.

25. As to rent and payment in such case, see post, §§ 6, 9. A lessee in possession under a verbal lease, unrestricted as to right to assign or sublet, may give another the right to occupy the premises so long as the rent is paid pursuant to the lease. Martin v. Sexton, 112 Ill. App. 199. A contract necessarily for a longer lease than two years does not require the consent of the landlord for a transfer of the tenant's interest therein. Pierce, Cequin & Co. v. Meadows, 27 Ky. L. R. 870, 86 S. W. 1127.

26. An alleged contemporaneous parol agreement permitting subletting is not established by the evidence of the lessee, contradicted by the lessor, and when a paper attached to the lease gives the lessee the right of subletting only a portion of one story for a particular purpose. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Kohn, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 374.

27. The lessor is not estopped from asserting it to be a mere personal privilege where he warned the assignee before the latter had done anything under the assignment, but he nevertheless put in an engine and pump to remove the water from a mine on the premises. Phinney v. Foster [Mass.] 75 N. E. 103.

28. It does not apply to an assignment by a receiver appointed for the lessee. Fleming v. Fleming Hotel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 157

29. Where a lease was made by individuals for the benefit of a corporation not yet organized and was afterwards duly adopted by the corporation, the corporation was presumed to be the assignee of the lease and liable for rent thereunder. Thistle v. Jones, 45 Misc. 215, 92 N. Y. S. 113. Where the tenant assigned the lease to contractors as security for a certain contract, assignees, on taking possession, were limited in their enjoyment of the property by the terms of the lease. Pierce, Cequin & Co. v. Meadows, 27 Ky. L. R. 870, 86 S. W. 1127.

30. Blount v. Connolly, 110 Mo. App. 603, 85 S. W. 605.

31. Where the tenant was to erect a building on the leased premises to be paid for by rent instalments, and assigned his lease as security to contractors for the erection of the building, upon his default they were entitled to occupy the building long enough at the stipulated rate, to reimburse themselves. Pierce, Cequin & Co. v. Meadows, 27 Ky. L. R. 870, 86 S. W. 1127.

32. An assignment of a leasehold by a lunatic can be avoided only by payment or tender of the consideration, after proper reduction for rents and profits, where the assignee acted in good faith. Miller v. Barber [N. J. Law] 62 A. 276.

33. Under an assignment by the lessee of a hotel of a one-half interest in a buffet for the remainder of his term, the right to occupy the premises for such time became a partnership asset, and the lessee could not have recovered possession from his partner during the continuance of the lease (Lamb v. Hall [Cal.] 81 P. 288), and where the lessee afterward assigned his remaining interest to a third party, thereby dissolving the partnership, the right to occupy the premises for the rest of the term vested exclusively in the surviving partner for the purpose of closing the partnership (Id.). Such assignment was binding on the lessee's trustee in bankruptcy, and he could not recover possession as against the assignee. Id.

34. A condition against underletting is not a single condition, as it is susceptible of more than one breach during the term. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Kohn, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 374.

for an entirely different purpose affords sufficient grounds for some relief, either legal or equitable.[36] A covenant not to sublease cannot be evaded by quit-claim deeds from third parties who have no valid title.[37] A waiver of the right of re-entry on the breach of a covenant not to underlet is not a waiver of that right on a subsequent underletting; and a consent by the lessor to the occupancy of the premises by a third party for a specified business, under the lessee, is a restricted waiver applying only to such third party and to his specified business.[38] A subtenant is not liable upon the covenants of the contract between the owner and the lessee, unless he has contracted to become so.[39]

(§ 5) C. Repairs and improvements; waste.[40]—In the absence of statutory provisions[41] or express agreement, the landlord is not bound to make repairs[42] or to keep the building inhabitable.[43]

Where the lease contains an agreement by the landlord to make certain improvements in the property, he is liable for a breach of the same, the measure of damages being the difference in rental value between the property as actually constructed and as the lessor agreed to construct it,[44] or the actual cost of making the improvements.[45] An entry into possession and the payment of rent is a waiver of failure to make repairs prior to entry, as covenanted by the landlord;[46] but if the tenant, relying upon the covenant, has paid the stipulated rent, he may recover back the excess paid above the actual rental value.[47] A subsequent promise by the landlord to repair, not forming a part of the original contract and operating as an inducement for the plaintiff to take the tenement, and not accompanied by a threat by the tenant to quit if not made, was without consideration;[48] but an oral modification of a lease by a promise by the landlord to make necessary changes, though not contemplated when the lease was made and forming no inducement for its execution, if based on a good consideration is valid and enforceable.[49] A covenant to repair on the part of the landlord carries with it a right to enter and have possession for that purpose.[50] Where the lease provides that repairs shall be borne equally by both parties, and the lessor sells the annual rental to one party and the

35. Under the statutes of Texas the landlord, in case of a subletting by the tenant, may elect to treat the lease as forfeited or to let it continue. Wright v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 799.

36. Complaint alleged the leasing of premises, to be used as a Masonic hall, and the subleasing of them to a labor union, after their abandonment for Masonic purposes; held not demurrable as showing no cause of action. Independent Steam Fire Engine Co. v. Richland Lodge, 70 S. C. 572, 50 S. E. 499.

37. White v. Johnson [Idaho] 79 P. 455.

38. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Kohn, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 374.

39. Not being a party to the contract, he cannot be sued in assumpsit for rent by the landlord. James v. Kurtz, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 304.

40. See 4 C. L. 396.

41. In Georgia, by Civ. Code 1895, §§ 3118, 3123, a landlord is required to keep leased premises in repair. Veal v. Hanlon [Ga.] 51 S. E. 579. Ross v. Jackson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 578. Sections 863, 864, Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, were copied from the statutes of the territory of Dakota, and the clause "for occupation of human beings" was held not to apply to the leasing of buildings for the purpose of business or trade. Tucker v. Bennett [Okl.] 81 P. 423.

42. Lazarus v. Parmly, 113 Ill. App. 624; Martin v. Surman, 116 Ill. App. 282; Phelan v. Fitzpatrick [Mass.] 74 N. E. 326; Rhoades v. Seidel [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1025; Burke v. Hulett, 216 Ill. 545, 75 N. E. 240; Cooper v. Lawson [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 34, 103 N. W. 168; Barron v. Liedloff [Minn.] 104 N. W. 289; Tucker v. Bennett [Okl.] 81 P. 423.

43. Fowler Cycle Works v. Fraser, 110 Ill. App. 126.

44. Oliver v. Bredl, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 653; Beakes v. Holzman, 94 N. Y. S. 33; Barron v. Liedloff [Minn.] 104 N. W. 289; Gorman v. Miller, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 62.

45. Beakes v. Holzman, 94 N. Y. S. 33; Barron v. Liedloff [Minn.] 104 N. W. 289.

46. Rubens v. Hill, 115 Ill. App. 565.

47. Gorman v. Miller, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 62.

48. Bennett v. Sullivan [Me.] 60 A. 886; Fowler Cycle Works v. Fraser, 110 Ill. App. 126; Rhoades v. Seidel [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1025; Tucker v. Bennett [Okl.] 81 P. 423.

49. The benefit to the leasehold estate for the rest of the term is sufficient consideration to support such a promise by the lessor to furnish additional means of egress from a theater building, so as to comply with Rev. Laws, c. 104, § 36. Taylor v. Finnigan [Mass.] 76 N. E. 203.

50. Barron v. Liedloff [Minn.] 104 N. W. 289.

realty to another, the lessee may deduct one-half of the repairs from the annual rental before paying it over to the party entitled thereto.[51]

A tenant is bound not only to commit no waste,[52] but to make fair and tenantable repairs necessary to prevent waste and decay of the premises;[53] but he need not improve premises unless the lease so provides.[54] In the absence of any express covenant, the law implies a covenant on the part of the lessee so to treat the premises that they may revert unimpaired, except by usual wear and tear and uninjured by any willful or negligent act of the lessee.[55] He must when so agreed do what is necessary to comply with public regulations[56] under such terms as are specially agreed upon if any.[57] When the parties have by express contract fixed their duties in that respect the tenant's implied duty to keep up fences becomes immaterial.[58] Where a lease covenants for the surrender of the premises in as good condition as when received, except as to reasonable wear and tear and damage by the elements, and for compliance with municipal regulations, the tenant must make needful repairs and improvements ordered by the municipal departments.[59] But a lease limiting the tenant's liability under municipal regulations to those made for the correction, prevention and abatement of nuisances or other grievances does not make him liable for the cost of a fire escape.[60] While the ordinary measure of damages, in an action by a landlord against his tenant for removal of improvements, is the difference in the value of the land when it was delivered to the tenant and when it was surrendered by him, yet compensation will not be denied when there is no market value by which to measure damages, but some other measure will be resorted to.[61]

Where a bill in equity was maintainable to enjoin the lessee of a mine from committing waste and destroying the property as a mine, the court, to prevent a multiplicity of suits, retained the bill for further relief and to cancel the lease as a cloud on the title, quiet the title and determine the right of possession.[62] In Pennsylvania the common-law writ of estrepement still lies to stay or prevent present or threatened waste.[63]

51. Hamaker v. Manheim Light, Heat & Power Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 484.

52. The weakening and impairment of the foundation walls by cutting holes for furnace pipes and the removal of partitions that support the upper floors are substantial acts of waste. Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81.

53. Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81; Burner v. Higman & Skinner Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 802. The tenant, in the absence of an agreement by the landlord to repair, is under obligation to repair a skylight broken during his tenancy. Forrester v. O'Rourke Engineering Const. Co., 95 N. Y. S. 600.

54. A lease of a lot "to be used as a cattle feeding lot" does not require the lessee to put in cross fences, or piping, or troughs, or sheds, but merely gives him permission to do so and the right to remove them at the end of the lease. Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168.

55. Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81.

56. A covenant to comply with the orders of "municipal departments of the city of New York" included the tenement house department, although not created until a date subsequent to the execution of the lease. Palmieri v. Antinozzi, 95 N. Y. S. 865. Under a covenant by the lessee to obey all orders of the municipal departments of a city, or pay an indemnity to the lessor for any loss arising from his neglect, the lessee has not a mere option to obey such orders or pay the indemnity, but it is his duty to obey. Id.

57. Where there was a subsisting violation of the tenement house regulations a provision that the lessee would begin work at once to remove what there was and would comply with all regulations and begin work within 15 days after notice of any violation, the 15 day clause applied to future violations and not to the one pending. Solomon v. Waldstreicher, 95 N. Y. S. 551.

58. Agreement by landlord to keep cattle out of fields. Gloor & Co. v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 783.

59. And where the landlord makes repairs ordered by the building department after the tenant's refusal to do so and surrender of the premises, the landlord may recover therefor from the tenant. Markham v. David Stevenson Brewing Co., 93 N. Y. S. 684.

60. Kalman v. Cox, 92 N. Y. S. 816.

61. As to the deterioration in value of such property as houses, fences and other improvements opinion evidence is competent. Sydney Webb & Co. v. Daggett [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 743.

62. Big Six Development Co. v. Mitchell [C. C. A.] 138 F. 279.

(§ 5) D. Insurance and taxes.[64]—When adherent to the enjoyment of the land a covenant to pay taxes runs therewith.[65] Such a covenant is not one of indemnity and the cause of action to recover the same accrues to the lessor or his assigns upon the mere failure to pay the taxes.[66] The lessor may recover from the lessee for enhanced taxes paid and which were a lien on the land, the lessee having caused them by improvements to the realty which as between them were regarded as personalty.[67] A lessee with right of purchase and under covenant to pay taxes has a "different agreement" within a statute entitling him to recover for taxes paid unless there is a different agreement.[68]

(§ 5) E. Injuries from defects and dangerous condition.[69]—In general the rule of caveat emptor applies,[70] and the tenant takes the risk of safe occupancy.[71] This rule also applies to the members of his family.[72]

In the absence of a covenant to repair, the landlord is not liable for damages resulting to the tenant by reason of the premises being out of repair;[73] but a landlord is liable for injuries from fraudulently concealed defects,[74] or those which he states are not dangerous,[75] or such as he knows or should know of and are not open to the observation of the tenant,[76] as well as for those occasioned by his own negligent use or care of the premises.[77] A mere voluntary and gratuitous attempt by a land-

63. Smith v. Chappell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 81.

64. See 4 C. L. 397.

65. So of such a covenant in a perpetual lease. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

66. The fact that covenants in a lease do not contain the words "assign or assigns," in reference to the obligations of the covenantor does not make the lease any less obligatory upon his heirs or administrator. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470. Where the term was terminated for breach of conditions in September, the lessee was liable for taxes assessed in August and relating back to May 1, though not payable until October. Richardson v. Gordon [Mass.] 74 N. E. 344. And the defense was not open to the lessee that before the taxes were assessed the property had been sold for prior taxes and had not been redeemed by the lessor. Id.

67. Phinney v. Foster [Mass.] 75 N. E. 103. Note: See Contribution, 5 C. L. 751; Subrogation, 4 C. L. 1583, and notes to Lampleigh v. Braithwait, 1 Smith Lead. Cas. 277, on the principle involved.

68. Phinney v. Foster [Mass.] 75 N. E. 103.

69. See 4 C. L. 397.

70. Bennett v. Sullivan [Me.] 60 A. 886; Carpenter v. Stone, 112 Ill. App. 155; Lazarus v. Parmly, 113 Ill. App. 624; Ruhens v. Hill, 115 Ill. App. 565; Martin v. Surman, 116 Ill. App. 282; Phelan v. Fitzpatrick [Mass.] 74 N. E. 326; Flannery v. Simons, 93 N. Y. S. 544; Howell v. Schneider, 24 App. D. C. 532.

71. Miles v. Tracy [Ky.] 89 S. W. 1128. The owner of private property owes to a prospective lessee no duty to ascertain and advise him of unknown defects, where such lessee has an equal opportunity to ascertain them. Bennett v. Sullivan [Me.] 60 A. 886; Howell v. Schneider, 24 App. D. C. 532.

72. A daughter who was caused to fall from a platform by the breaking of a railing. Phelan v. Fitzpatrick [Mass.] 74 N. E. 326. A three-year old child who fell through a defective floor. Cummings v. Ayer [Mass.] 74 N. E. 336. It was assumed that the landlord owed the same duty to a child visting in a tenant's family that it did to the tenant and his family. Dalin v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 597.

73. Fowler Cycle Works v. Fraser, 110 Ill. App. 126; Carpenter v. Stone, 112 Ill. App. 155; Lazarus v. Parmly, 113 Ill. App. 624; Martin v. Surman, 116 Ill. App. 282; Siggins v. McGill [N. J. Err. & App.] 62 A. 411; Rhoades v. Seidel [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1025; Burke v. Hulett, 216 Ill. 545, 75 N. E. 240. Even if parol evidence is admissible to show an agreement to repair, not incorporated in the written lease, such agreement cannot be given the effect of a special warranty, covering the improvements made and the general safety of the premises. Howell v. Schneider, 24 App. D. C. 532.

74. Lazarus v. Parmly, 113 Ill. App. 624; Barron v. Liedloff [Minn.] 104 N. W. 289; Smith v. Donnelly, 45 Misc. 447, 92 N. Y. S. 43. This liability, however, does not rest upon the relation of landlord and tenant, but is founded upon the maxim that every person must so use his own premises as not to injure others rightfully therein. Fowler Cycle Works v. Fraser, 110 Ill. App. 126.

75. An assurance by a landlord to a tenant that a porch is all right and perfectly safe relates only to its condition at the time of the lease and does not cover a period in the future nor bind the landlord to keep it safe for the entire term. Ousley v. Hampe [Iowa] 105 N. W. 122.

76. Rhoades v. Seidel [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1025.

77. Removal of doorsteps while repairing the underpinning, without notifying the tenant. Lambert v. Hamlin [N. H.] 59 A. 941. Evidence of notice to a landlord in time to have repaired a defective roof and that a portion of the ceiling fell and injured the tenant on account of the failure to repair, presented a prima facie case of negligence for the jury. Frank v. Simon, 95 N. Y. S. 666. Lessee's servant was injured by the collapse of the roof, caused by the accumulation lord to make repairs on the leased premises is not an admission of liability and imposes none upon him;[78] nor does the fact that he has been in the habit of making all repairs, without any covenant on his part to do so.[79] A promise to repair, made subsequently to the lease, being without consideration, does not render him liable for negligence in making such repairs.[80] A landlord, however, who lets portions of a building to different tenants is responsible for the condition of such other portions of the premises as are retained in his possession and control for the common use of the tenants,[81] after he has had actual or constructive notice of their dangerous condition.[82] But the landlord is not an insurer, and he is bound to exercise only reasonable care in the construction and maintenance of those portions of the premises under his control.[83] The landlord is not liable for injuries received from the defective condition of mere conveniences which the tenant is gratuitously permitted to use,[84] or of such parts of the premises as are not intended for use by the tenants and where they are, at the most, mere licensees,[85] yet an implied invitation to use such parts of the premises may arise from long continued permission.[86] An agreement in the lease that the landlord shall not be liable for defects in an elevator maintained by him for common use by his tenants does not relieve him from liability to a tenant's servant, the latter being no party to the agreement.[87] The doctrine of assumed risk is not involved in the relations existing between a landlord and a tenant's servant.[88]

A landlord is not liable to one tenant for the negligence of a co-tenant,[89] but an of rain to the depth of two feet six inches. Judgment for plaintiff against lessor sustained. Leithman v. Vaught [La.] 38 So. 982.

78. Phelan v. Fitzpatrick [Mass.] 74 N. E. 326.

79. Weber v. Lieberman, 94 N. Y. S. 460.

80. Rhoades v. Seidel [Mich.] 102 N. W. 1025.

81. Passageways, stairways and the like. Siggins v. McGill [N. J. Err. & App.] 62 A. 411; Ryan v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 62 A. 412.

Landlord liable: Plaintiff injured by falling into an unprotected elevator shaft. Shoninger Co. v. Mann [Ill.] 76 N. E. 354. Negligence in construction and maintenance of the railing upon a stairway. Merchants Loan & Trust Co. v. Boucher, 115 Ill. App. 101. Defective condition of the carpet on the common stairway; and plaintiff's going down in the dark, knowing the carpet was ragged, was not contributory negligence as a matter of law. Lee v. Ingraham, 94 N. Y. S. 284.

Landlord not liable: A platform connected with a tenement, used for storing fuel and on which the water-closet was located, held to be a part of the premises and the landlord not required to keep it in repair, although it was connected by stairways with other tenements. Phelan v. Fitzpatrick [Mass.] 74 N. E. 326. A separate flue built into a chimney and accessible to the tenant is not an appurtenance common to the entire premises and as such wholly within the landlord's control. Tenant held negligent in not cleaning flue. Cooper v. Lawson [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 34, 103 N. W. 168. A municipal ordinance which imposed the duty of cleaning chimney flues on owner and occupant alike, whether it could be invoked by any other than the public or was purely a penal statute did not fix the duty of cleaning as between owner and occupant, so as to render the owner responsible. Id. An allegation that the landlord retained control and possession of the walls and foundations of the building did not bring the case within this rule. Miles v. Tracey [Ky.] 89 S. W. 1128.

82. Burke v. Hulett, 216 Ill. 545, 76 N. E. 240; Wright v. Perry [Mass.] 74 N. E. 328.

83. Merchants Loan & Trust Co. v. Boucher, 115 Ill. App. 101.

84. Platform connected with another tenant's part of the premises. Bennett v. Sullivan [Me.] 60 A. 886.

85. A child visiting in tenant's family was killed by a fall through a skylight in a roof where tenant's children had often played, the inclosure having been removed for repair of the roof. Dalin v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 597.

86. In view of the natural characteristics of young children, a landlord who had long permitted his tenants' children to use the tenement porches as a playground was held responsible for injuries to a child 6½ years old, who was precipitated from the porch by the breaking of a defective railing. Widing v. Penn. Mut. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 239. But neither the mere removal of inclosures in making repairs, nor the fact that children had been seen playing on a roof near a skylight constituted an invitation or permission from the landlord. Dalin v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 74 N. E. 597.

87. Shoninger Co. v. Mann [Ill.] 76 N. E. 364.

88. The tenant's servant did not assume the risk of an elevator shaft being left unguarded, which was under the control of the landlord for the common use of tenants. Shoninger & Co. v. Mann [Ill.] 76 N. E. 354.

89. Cooper v. Lawson [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 34, 103 N. W. 168. Where a landlord action will lie by one tenant against another for damages resulting from the latter's negligence.[90]

Where the landlord agrees to keep the premises in repair, he has the right of entry and possession for that purpose, and is liable to persons lawfully on the premises and not guilty of contributory negligence[91] for injuries caused by his failure to repair.[92] Even where the landlord has covenanted to make repairs and fails to do so, the tenant cannot wait an unreasonable time and enhance his damages, but is bound to use diligent effort to reduce them by making necessary repairs.[93] In Georgia, under statutory provisions, a landlord is bound to keep premises in repair which he has rented to another.[94] Hence a landlord is liable for damages to a tenant or a member of his family,[95] or to one lawfully present on the rented premises by invitation of the tenant,[96] for injuries arising from defective construction or failure to keep the premises in repair, where such defect is known to the landlord, or might have been known by the exercise of reasonable diligence;[97] or for injuries resulting from the landlord's failure to repair after notice and the lapse of a reasonable time,[98] provided that in such cases the plaintiff is himself without fault.[99] The landlord, however, is under no duty to inspect the premises while the tenant is in possession, in order to keep himself informed as to their condition; but the tenant, being entitled to exclusive occupancy during his term, must notify the landlord of the defective condition of the premises.[1] Unless the liability for a negligent condition of premises depends in some way on the relation an allegation by way of description that one was landlord followed by proof that he was a tenant is good.[2]

To stranger.[3]—Where the landlord lets premises in good repair,[4] and is not bound by the lease to keep them so, the tenant is liable to a stranger for an injury resulting from failure to repair;[5] and satisfaction made by the landlord for such leased a farm and, under the reserved privilege, leased the land for oil and gas, the landlord under the facts in the case was not liable to his first tenant for the loss of cattle that broke from their field into the premises of the other tenant, became sick and died. Brimner v. Reed, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 318.

90. Plaintiff was injured in escaping from a burning building through a window, because defendant, who occupied a lower floor, had negligently caused an obstruction of the stairway. Cohn v. May [Pa.] 60 A. 301.

91. A tenant cannot recover where he retains possession of the premises and voluntarily exposes himself to the danger. Martin v. Surman, 116 Ill. App. 282. But a tenant, injured by the fall of a part of the ceiling, was not guilty of contributory negligence in remaining in the room after she had paid her rent, although she knew the ceiling was sagging, where the landlord had been notified and promised to repair, and had had sufficient time to do so before the accident. Frank v. Simon, 95 N. Y. S. 666.

92. Barron v. Liedloff [Minn.] 104 N. W. 289. The declaration must allege the violation of an agreement to repair. Cummings v. Ayer [Mass.] 74 N. E. 336.

93. Damages caused by water coming into the premises through defective pipes. Beakes v. Holzman, 94 N. Y. S. 33. Where by an inconsiderable outlay a tenant could have provided heat for the premises, which the landlord had covenanted to heat, he could not remain in willful idleness for 17 days, and then claim damages for "loss of earning capacity." Ireland v. Gauley, 95 N. Y. S. 521.

94. Code 1895, §§ 3118, 3123. Veal v. Hanlon [Ga.] 51 S. E. 579.

95. Veal v. Hanlon [Ga.] 51 S. E. 579.

96. Ross v. Jackson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 578.

97. Accident caused by the giving way of a porch flooring, resulting in permanent injuries. Ross v. Jackson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 578.

98. Veal v. Hanlon [Ga.] 51 S. E. 579.

99. A nonsuit is proper in an action by tenant's wife for damages when it is affirmatively shown that she had knowledge of the defect in a step and might, by the exercise of ordinary care, have avoided injury. Veal v. Hanlon [Ga.] 51 S. E. 579.

1. Ross v. Jackson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 578.

2. Cohn v. May [Pa.] 60 A. 301.

3. See 4 C. L. 398.

4. Where premises have been let to a tenant for six years, it will not be presumed that a defective condition of a window existed at the time of the letting. Hirschfield v. Alsberg, 93 N. Y. S. 617.

5. The sidewalk in front of the premises. Lindstrom v. Pennsylvania Co. for Ins. on Lives & Granting Annuities [Pa.] 61 A. 940. The grating in a sidewalk in front of tenant's show window. Weber v. Lieberman, 94 N. Y. S. 460. Insufficient repairs made by a tenant to a broken floor. Mayer v. Schrumpf [Mo. App.] 85 S. W. 915. Plaintiff was struck by glass falling from a defective window on the tenant's premises. Hirschfield v. Alsberg, 93 N. Y. S. 617. A bridge from the injuries is no bar to an action against the tenant, they not being joint feasors.[6] The fact that the landlord has been in the habit of making all repairs,[7] or such as he has deemed necessary,[8] does not relieve the tenant from liability. The tenant may become liable to a stranger by negligently suffering the demised premises to become dangerous.[9] But the several lessees of a building, who use a common freight elevator under no contract obligations as to its care, are not liable for injuries to the customers or licensees of other tenants for failure to properly guard the shaft.[10] An express agreement by the landlord to keep the premises in repair must be distinctly proved.[11]

There is an exception to the general rule of the nonliability of the landlord where he retains control[12] or joint control with his tenant over that portion of the premises where the injury was sustained;[13] but there must be evidence of something more than the mere fact of joint use to render him liable.[14] Another exception to the general rule is where there is a defect in the premises, constituting a nuisance, which it is the duty of the landlord to abate, in which case the landlord is liable as author, and the tenant as continuor, of the nuisance.[15] If the nuisance existed when the premises were demised, the landlord is not discharged because the tenant has covenanted to keep in repair;[16] and this is true though the term be for 95 years without right of re-entry for condition broken, if there be other remedies for breach of covenant.[17] Where the premises are in a dangerous or unsafe condition for the avowed purpose for which they are let, especially if let for public entertainment, the landlord is liable for injuries to strangers caused thereby.[18]

(§ 5) F. Emblements and fixtures.[19]—It is waste to remove trees[20] or minerals[21] except as expressly permitted or customarily implied. If the tenancy is terminated by the tenant's own act before the crop can mature, the tenant cannot hold it as emblements;[22] and one who rents land pending foreclosure proceedings porch to the sidewalk held to be part of tenant's premises, for the condition of which the landlord was not liable. Ward v. Hinkleman, 37 Wash. 375, 79 P. 956.

6. Hirschfield v. Alsberg, 93 N. Y. S. 617.

7. Weber v. Lieberman, 94 N. Y. S. 460.

8. Ward v. Hinkleman, 37 Wash. 375, 79 P. 956.

9. Plaintiff was injured by the breaking of a defective grating in front of tenant's show window, which let her leg go through. Weber v. Lieberman, 94 N. Y. S, 460.

10. Neither the sublessees of the fourth floor nor the lessees of the first floor and basement. Burner v. Higman & Skinner Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 802.

11. Ward v. Hinkleman, 37 Wash. 375, 79 P. 956.

12. Burner v. Higman & Skinner Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 802.

13. Plaintiff, lawfully on the premises to do business with a subtenant, fell into an unguarded elevator well, controlled by the lessee, subtenant's landlord. Burner v. Higman & Skinner Co. [Iowa] 103 N. W. 802.

14. Where a faucet was physically within the portion of the premises sublet by defendants, but was used by both the sublessor's and defendants' employes, the mere happening of an overflow under such circumstances did not establish a prima facie case of negligence against defendants. Aschenbach v. Keene, 92 N. Y. S. 764.

15. Burner v. Higman & Skinner Co., [Iowa] 103 N. W. 802. Rotten eaves trough over sidewalk, which broke from sliding snow and ice and injured passerby. Keeler v. Lederer Realty Corp., 26 R. I. 524, 59 A. 855.

16, 17. Keeler v. Lederer Realty Corp., 26 R. I. 524, 59 A. 855.

18. Ward v. Hinkleman, 37 Wash. 375, 79 P. 956.

19. See 4 C. L. 398. See post, special article Fixtures as Between Landlord and Tenant.

20. An agreement that the tenant "may clear up ten acres of woodland on lot 158 each year and may have the wood cut off said ten acres and crop next year," and upon full and complete performance may have the refusal of the farm at price and privileges for three successive years, on its face gave the tenant the right to cut wood only on lot 158, and under conflicting extraneous evidence, it was no abuse of discretion to grant an injunction against waste on other lots. Jones v. Gammon [Ga.] 50 S. E. 982.

21. Any severance and removal of minerals by a tenant under a lease of the superficies of the soil only is waste. Oil is a mineral and as such is a part of the realty. Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 317.

22. Where a tenant from year to year abandoned the land before the end of the year, notifying the landlord that he would not take it another year, but reserving a and after lis pendens filed takes the same risks as if he had been a party to the action, so far as a claim to the crops planted is concerned.[23]

Manure.[24]—Where lands are rented for agricultural purposes, the manure, at the conclusion of the lease, belongs to the landlord.[25] While it is common practice in leasing farms to treat hay and straw as manure is treated at common law, that is, as a fixture of the farm, and such a provision was incorporated in the lease to the defendant, yet in construing a subsequent contract terminating the lease, the provision thereof that the defendant was to harvest his crops and remove them by December 1 must be construed as giving him the right to remove the straw.[26]

Fixtures.[27]—The rule as to the removal of trade or domestic fixtures is applicable in cases of landlord and tenant.[28] The general rule is that trade fixtures may be removed before the expiration of the term; but a tenant waives his right to remove fixtures where he takes a new lease which neither reserves nor recognizes his right to remove them under the former lease, but covenants to keep and yield up the premises in as good condition as when received.[29] This rule applies, however, only where the second lease is in writing and complete in itself, naturally indicating that all the prior agreements of the parties have been merged therein;[30] and the rule has not been followed in Iowa.[31] As a general rule, fixtures attached to the realty by a lessee must be removed before the latter yields possession to his lessor, or the right of removal by the lessee will be lost; but this rule does not apply when the lessor forcibly and violently prevents the lessee from removing them;[32] nor does the dispossession of the lessee by summary proceedings terminate his right to remove a building erected on the premises, under permission to remove the same at any time or on leaving the premises;[33] and in Iowa it is held that the tenant must ordinarily remove fixtures at least within a reasonable time after the expiration of his lease.[34] The tenant owns buildings erected by him on leased lands in furtherance of the purpose for which the premises were leased;[35] and may remove the same during his tenancy, or, if his tenancy terminates on a contingency, within a reasonable time after termination.[36] The statute of Michigan providing that no school district shall build a frame school house on any site to which it has no title in fee or a lease for 50 years, without reserving the privilege of removing the building,[37] does not intend that such building shall belong to the landowner, in the absence of such reservation, and prevent the removal thereof by the school district.[38] The question whether fixtures attached to the real estate shall be regarded as person-crop of rye he had sowed in the fall before, he could not hold it as emblements where such reservation was not assented to by the landlord. Hatfield v. Lawton, 95 N. Y. S. 451.

23. He is not entitled to a crop planted by him, under such circumstances, and standing on the premises on the day of sale. Tittle v. Kennedy [S. C.] 50 S. E. 544.

24. See 4 C. L. 398.

25. A leasing of a dwelling house and about 20 acres of land, for which the tenant agrees to pay rent in lint cotton and cotton seed, is a renting for agricultural purposes. Roberts v. Jones [S. C.] 51 S. E. 240.

26. Garrett v. Brant, 6 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 509.

27. See 4 C. L. 398. See post, special article Fixtures as Between Landlord and Tenant.

28. Gas fixtures, being easily removable and generally without injury to the freehold, may be removed by a tenant in the absence of any stipulation to the contrary. Wolff v. Sampson [Ga.] 51 S. E. 335.

29. Davis v. Carsley Mfg. Co., 112 Ill. App. 112.

30. A mere letter notifying the tenant that he might occupy the premises for 18 months longer, without imposing any new terms, does not constitute such a lease. Lynn v. Waldron, 38 Wash. 82, 80 P. 292.

31. Daly v. Simonson, 126 Iowa, 716, 102 N. W. 180.

32, 33. Miller v. Hennessy, 94 N. Y. S. 563.

34. Daly v. Simonson, 126 Iowa, 716, 102 N. W. 780.

35. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999.

36. A school district owning a schoolhouse on leased land, after the termination of the tenancy by contingency of closing the school. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999.

37. Comp. Laws 1897, § 4673. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999.

38. Hayward v. School Dist. No. 9 [Mich.] 102 N. W. 999.

alty or realty is largely governed by the intention of the contracting parties;[39] and when a house is erected on the land of another, with the distinct understanding that it is to be deemed personal property, the tenant is not bound to remove it before the expiration of his tenancy,[40] but may do so within such time thereafter as may have been agreed upon;[41] or, in the absence of such agreement, within a reasonable time after the expiration of the tenancy;[42] and a reservation of such right to remove, in a deed to a grantee of the lands with notice, is unnecessary.[43] The lessee is entitled to property placed in his lessor's building by himself during his occupancy and not forming a part of, and not attached to, the premises leased.[44] The tenant's interest in the land and buildings owned by him thereon is such as to support a mechanic's lien for work or materials contributed to such buildings.[45]

(§ 5) G. Options of purchase or sale[46] sometimes found in leases are in so far as they can be regarded as a separate contract treated elsewhere.

§ 6. Rent and the payment thereof,[47] and actionable use and occupation.—Rent can be recovered only where the conventional relation of landlord and tenant exists, by virtue of a contract express or implied.[48] There must be occupation by the tenant, actual or constructive,[49] or the assignee in his stead.[50] The statute of Massachusetts providing that tenants at sufferance, in possession, shall be liable to pay rent for such time as they may occupy or detain the premises, does not apply unless the tenant has occupied with the assent of the plaintiff or one under whom he claims.[51] While a tenant remains in possession, his obligation to pay rent reserved is absolute, unless suspended by a breach of the lessor's covenant of quiet enjoyment.[52] The lease may provide a money rent payable only on certain conditions.[53] The fact that rent was to be paid in services cannot be proved by

39. Lynn v. Waldron, 38 Wash. 82, 80 P. 292.

40, 41, 42, 43. Adams v. Tully [Ind.] 73 N. E. 595.

44. The lessee having been prevented from removing certain articles by lessor, who claimed them under the lease, as "embellishments" or "reconstructions," and they having been destroyed by fire, lessee recovered the value thereof in an action against lessor. Morris v. Pratt [La.] 38 So. 70.

45. NOTE. Interest of tenant in buildings owned by him as supporting mechanics' liens: In a note to Zabriskie v. Greater America Exposition Co. [Neb.] 62 L. R. A. 375, it is said that the theory supporting the recognition of such liens is that the tenant has an interest in the land also subject to the lien. Such a lien was allowed in the Zabriskie Case supra against a contention that the buildings were merely removable fixtures. Other cases cited in the note referred to as upholding the general rule are: Deatherage v. Sheidley, 50 Mo. App. 490; Montana Lumber & M. Co. v. Obelisk Min., etc., Co., 15 Mont. 20. 37 P. 897; Judson v. Stephens, 75 Ill. 255; Badger Lumber Co. v. Malone, 8 Kan. App. 121, 54 P. 692; Dean v. Pyncheon, 3 Chand. [Wis.] 9; McCarty v. Burnet, 84 Ind. 23; Forbes v. Mosquito Fleet Yacht Club, 175 Mass. 436, 56 N. E. 615; Ombony v. Jones, 19 N. Y. 234; Rothe v. Bellingrath, 71 Ala. 550. The right is however limited to the tenant's interest and subject to the conditions attached to it. See the cases cited 62 L. R. A. 376, 377. Various statutes pertinent to this question have been construed in cases cited 62 L. R. A. 378 et seq.

46. See Vendors and Purchasers, 4 C. L. 1769.

47. See 4 C. L. 399.

48. Matthews v. Carlton [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637; Rosenberg v. Sprecher [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1045. An oral contract which is void under Rev. Laws, c. 127, § 3, is not sufficient. Matthews v. Carlton [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637.

49. Where under an oral agreement to rent premises beginning July 1, a party during June moved some goods in, with the consent of the tenant in possession, but removed them before July 1 and notified the owner of his intention not to take the premises, held, that there was no occupation. Matthews v. Carlton [Mass.] 75 N. E. 637.

50. Where the assignment of the lease to defendants was recorded and they had paid rent to plaintiff for several years, they were in possession under the assignment and liable for rent. Landt v. McCullough, 218 Ill. 607, 75 N. E. 1069.

51. Rev. Laws, c. 129, § 3. Applied in a case where the wife owned the property occupied by her husband and herself and continued to be occupied by the husband and family after the wife left him. She gave a written lease to a third party for the purpose of collecting rent. Verdict for defendant under instruction of the court sustained. Carpenter v. Allen [Mass.] 75 N. E. 622.

52. Taylor v. Finnigan [Mass.] 76 N. E. 203.

53. A provision that no rent should be paid for a feeding lot if lessee should accept proposal to buy lessor's distillery slop held not to determine lease but to extinguish evidence that the previous tenant so paid it under a different lease.[54] Rents to be fixed by appraisal must rest on appraisal of such values as properly belong to the property.[55] Equity will make an appraisal where a nominated appraiser is dead.[56]

For many purposes the term of a lease is regarded as indivisible, and the rent also, as applying to the whole term,[57] and what has been agreed for the premises must be given if the lessee remains under the lease as an entirety,[58] yet in modern leaseholds it is frequently necessary to divide the rent.[59] In Massachusetts, where a lease is made determinable upon a contingency and such contingency happens during a rent period, the landlord is entitled to a part of the rent proportionable to the expired part of the last rent period.[60]

A tenant cannot relieve himself from liability to pay rent by vacating the premises during his term and sending the keys to his landlord.[61] But where the landlord serves notice on his tenant to vacate on or before a certain date, rent ceases when the tenant vacates.[62] A lessee is not relieved by turning possession over to another, unless his landlord assents,[63] and the mere acceptance of payments from another is not of itself a substitution of other parties.[64] Where the tenant, with full knowledge of his landlord's breach of covenant, without duress or coercion, pays his rent, he cannot recover the same, but may sue for such breach, the payment of rent being no waiver of the right to sue.[65] A landlord is not bound, in relief of his tenant who has abandoned the premises, to rent them to any one who may apply, but may rent them and hold the tenant for the difference in rent, unless he has accepted the surrender.[66] A covenant to make good any loss if the lease should be forfeited and premises released accrues when release is made.[67] Where a deposit is made as security, to be held "during the continuance of" the lease, and the land-rent for that year. Lilliard v. Kentucky Distilleries, etc., Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168.

54. Stapper v. Wolter [Tex. Civ. App.] 85 S. W. 850.

55. Where a lease provided that the lot, exclusive of buildings, should be appraised, for the purpose of fixing the rent at a certain percentage of its cash value, evidence of the net income of the buildings is not competent to show such value. Springer v. Borden, 112 Ill. App. 168.

56. Where the rental to be paid on the exercise of an option in the lease was to be determined by certain appraisers, which arrangement could not be carried out, owing to the death of one of the appraisers, equity had jurisdiction to make the determination. Weir v. Barker, 93 N. Y. S. 732.

57. Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 317.

58. Where an oil and gas company, besides paying royalties, as an additional rent covenanted to furnish lessor with natural gas for heat and light during the term of the lease, there being no forfeiture clause or stipulations as to number or depth of wells, beginning of operations or finding gas in paying quantities, the lessee could not discharge its obligation by ceasing operations when the yield of gas ceased from a single well it had drilled. Boal v. Citizens' Nat. Gas Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 339.

59. Where a lease for a term of three years, with a privilege of renewal for five years, was canceled by the lessor for an unwarranted use of the premises by the lessee, under statutory provisions therefor (Civ. Code, § 1930) the contract was treated as executed with reference to the expired period, so that it was not necessary to return the rent paid as a condition precedent to cancellation. Isom v. Rex Crude Oil Co. [Cal.] 82 P. 317.

60. Rev. Laws, c. 129, § 8. The purchase of the land by the lessee under the provisions of the lease is such a contingency. Withington v. Nichols [Mass.] 73 N. E. 855.

61. Shand v. McCloskey, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 260.

62. Plaintiff waived his right to a continued tenancy for the month by asking defendant to quit at any time before the beginning of the next month and defendant took him at his word. Cornelius v. Rosen [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 500.

63. A corporation of which lessee was manager went into possession of the premises. Shand v. McCloskey, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 260. Where the premises were occupied by a partnership composed of the lessee and others, the fact that the lessor traded with the firm on credit did not, in the absence of an agreement that his indebtedness should apply on the rent, make the partnership directly responsible and release the original lessee. Fryszka v. Prybeski [Mich.] 102 N. W. 977.

64. Hartz v. Eddy [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 251, 103 N. W. 852.

65. Oliver v. Bredl, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 653.

66. Entry to make repairs is not an acceptance. Smucker v. Grinberg, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 531.

67. Agreement by the lessee to pay the loss caused by the premises remaining unleased or being let at a lower rent, if the lease should be determined by the lessor for lessee's breach of covenant. Woodbury v. Sparrell Print [Mass.] 73 N. E. 547.

lord recovers possession for default, he cannot retain the deposit as security for any deficiency under the reletting.[68]

One who has the right of possession can sue for rent due from one holding under it and give a valid acquittance for the same.[69] In the absence of statutory provisions, rents that accrued during the lessor's lifetime are personal property and pass to the personal representatives as assets of the estate; and in the absence of statutory or testamentary provisions all subsequently accruing rents go to his heirs or devisees.[70] The lessee is discharged by payment of rent to the lessor, who is an agent of the owner, until notified of the revocation of his agency,[71] and where a notice to quit or pay rent is given by an agent of the landlord and served on the premises, the tenant has a right to treat such agent as having authority to receive the rent and discharge his obligation by making payment.[72] The retaining and cashing of a check, sent in settlement of rent due, from which the cost of certain repairs had been deducted, is an acquiescence in the settlement and a payment of the rent.[73] If a lessor accepts a sublessee's rent note, as a proportionate payment on lessee's rent note, he releases the lessee from further liability as to so much of his rent;[74] and even if the lessor accepts such rent note merely as security, and then compromises with the sublessee, he also releases his lessee from liability as indorser of the sublessee's rent note.[75]

Defenses, set-offs and reductions.[76]—Proof of a surrender of the premises and its acceptance by the landlord is a defense to an action for rent for the remainder of the term.[77] Eviction by the landlord is a complete defense to any action for rent;[78] but so long as the tenant does not abandon the premises, but remains in possession, a constructive eviction by the landlord is no defense.[79]

Where a lease provided for a reduction of rent, upon certain conditions, in case of the partial overflow of the leased premises, a substantial compliance with the conditions was sufficient.[80] Specific provisions relative to the nonpayment of rent or the termination of the lease in case of damage or destruction by fire, may supersede statutory provisions on that subject,[81] and the rent ceases while the premises are untenantable, in accordance with such provisions, though the premises are not

68. Yannuzzi v. Grape, 92 N. Y. S. 819.

69. Claim of rent for occupation of buildings by the military authorities of the United States during the war with Spain. Philippine Sugar Estates Co.'s Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 225.

70. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470. See, also, Descent and Distribution, 5 C. L. 995.

71. Strafford v. Walter, 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 498.

72. Cockerline v. Fisher [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 55, 103 N. W. 522.

73. Cornelius v. Rosen [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 500.

74, 75. Crow v. Burgin [Miss.] 38 So. 625.

76. See 4 C. L. 400.

77. Such surrender and acceptance can be shown by evidence of plaintiff's admissions in another action. Hillman v. De Rosa, 92 N. Y. S. 67.

78. Entry of landlord on the back yard without tenant's consent, excavating and constructing building, removal of steps to yard, destruction of chimney used by tenant's lodgers, and driving away lodgers by the noise and confusion, held to constitute an eviction. Osmers v. Furey [Mont.] 81 P. 345.

What is an eviction, see ante, § 5 A.

79. The breach of a valid agreement by the lessor to furnish additional means of egress from a theatre building, so as to comply with Rev. Laws, c. 104, § 36, although the premises are unfitted for use, is not a defense to an action for rent, so long as lessee remains in possession. Taylor v. Finnigan [Mass.] 76 N. E. 203.

80. Notice sent by registered letter on April 7 was a sufficient compliance with the requirement of a notice to the lessor on June 1. Lacy Bros. v. Morton [Ark.] 89 S. W. 842. If the parties could not agree upon the reduction of the rent, lessors were to receive a share of the crops and the use of a certain building and machinery. Held, that the fact that the lessees continued to use them and did not gather certain grass did not deprive the lessees of the benefit of reduced rent, but they would be responsible to lessors for such use and their share of the grass. Id. Where the evidence showed a partial overflow, damage to the crops and notice to the lessors, it was error to direct a verdict for plaintiffs in an action to recover the cash rent. Id.

81. The Real Property Law of New York (Laws 1860, p. 592, c. 345; Laws 1896, p. 589, c. 547, § 197). Weinberg v. Savitzky, 93 N. Y. S. 485.

surrendered as contemplated by the statute.[82] But even where the tenant makes the usual covenants as to delivery of the premises at the end of the term in good condition and to make all repairs required by the municipal departments, he is not deprived of the benefit of that law.[83] In an action for rent the tenant can counterclaim for damages caused by the landlord's failure to make repairs according to his covenant,[84] or to properly light and heat a building;[85] and he may set off counterclaims against the rent demanded in an action on a bond given by tenant on appeal from a judgment for possession,[86] and damages can also be recovered by the tenant under a counterclaim where it appears that plaintiff connived with another to injure the tenant in the possession and quiet enjoyment of the premises.[87] Where the lease provided that repairs should be borne equally by both parties and the lessor sold the realty and the annual rental to different parties, the lessee could deduct from the annual rent one-half the cost of repairs.[88] The lease must be valid or there is no consideration,[89] though voidability which the tenant is estopped to assert by his having entered into and held possession is no defense to an action for rent, either by himself or his executors.[90] Where the tenant defended on the ground that the lease was invalid as part of a scheme to create a monopoly, the question of whether the purpose of the parties thereto was such was properly left to the jury.[91] Mere inadequacy of the rent is not enough to render a lease null and void.[92] The adoption of the local option prohibition law in a county does not absolve a tenant from the payment of rent for premises leased for saloon purposes.[93] Judgments in actions to recover possession of land or to determine rights of parties under a lease do not bar actions for rent, unless the question of rent was involved.[94] Neither the adjudication of the lessee as a bankrupt, nor his discharge absolves him from the payment of rent accruing after the petition in bankruptcy.[95]

Actionable use and occupation[96] presupposes the relation of landlord and tenant[97] and lies on the implied covenant to pay rent. It does not lie against one

82. Weinberg v. Savitzky, 93 N. Y. S. 485.

83. Markham v. David Stevenson Brewing Co., 93 N. Y. S. 684.

84. Such counterclaim need not allege tenant's diligence to reduce the damages by making repairs himself, that being a matter of proof, rather than pleading. Beakes v. Holzman, 94 N. Y. S. 33.

85. Such a counterclaim is not established by proof of slight defects in wiring and that complaints of insufficient heating and lighting were made from time to time. Ireland v. Gauley, 95 N. Y. S. 521.

86. McMichael v. McFalls, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 256.

87. Main action was for rent. Harmont v. Sullivan [Iowa] 103 N. W. 951.

88. Hamaker v. Manheim Light, Heat & Power Co., 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 484.

89. A lease of a railroad which is ultra vires and contrary to public policy cannot be the foundation of any recovery of rentals. Cox v. Terre Haute & I. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 133 F. 371. And where the lessee operated the road without paying the rental, prior to its being placed in the hands of a receiver in a suit to which the lessor was not a party, a claim for such rental was not an equitable lien upon the earnings while in the receiver's hands, no part of the rental withheld having come into his hands. Id.

90. Steuber v. Huber, 95 N. Y. S. 348.

91. Hartz v. Eddy [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 251, 103 N. W. 852.

92. Houssiere Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932.

93. It being a contingency liable to happen under existing laws, for which lessee should have provided in his lease. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Keenan [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 251, 88 S. W. 197. Where it was understood that the premises were to be used in "conducting a first class saloon" the restriction related rather to the manner of conducting that business and the premises could be used for any other legitimate business; hence the tenant was not absolved. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n v. Brents [Tex. Civ. App.] 88 S. W. 368.

94. Where an action to recover possession of land was decided in favor of the tenant on other grounds than default of rent, the judgment is not res judicata as to a claim for rent due prior to such action. Cockerline v. Fisher [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 55, 103 N. W. 522. In certain litigation relative to rights under an oral lease, held, that there had been no adjudication barring either an action for rent or recovery on the counterclaims thereto. Harmont v. Sullivan [Iowa] 103 N. W. 951.

95. Such claims are not provable claims against his estate, and he is discharged from liability for provable claims only. Watson v. Merrill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 359.

96. See 4 C. L. 390.

97. Where the lessee in a lease under seal allowed another party to carry on business in holding over,[98] though in Kansas the fact that one holds and uses the premises after the expiration of his lease, without consent of the owner, does not prevent a recovery for use and occupation.[99] One who goes into possession of the real estate of another is presumed to be a tenant, in the absence of proof to the contrary;[1] but the mere occupancy of premises for a long time does not establish the relation between such occupant and one who, during the time, owned an interest in the premises, for the occupant may have been in adverse possession or a tenant of one claiming adversely.[2] Where the government officers in charge of a work of river or harbor improvement legally occupy private property for purposes incidental to the work, a contract in the nature of a tenancy should be implied.[3] But where there is no actual use and occupation, but merely damages caused by the illegal acts and intimidations of such officers, no such contract can be implied.[4] The rescission of a contract of purchase of lands leaves the parties thereto in the same relation as if there never had been any contract between them, and any claim for use and occupation thereof by a third party belongs to the vendor.[5]

Ground rents and perpetual leases.—A covenant to pay rent in a perpetual lease runs with the land[6] and binds the lessee personally during the term, and an assignee of the term, so long as he holds the legal estate;[7] but the assignee of a recorded mortgage on the leasehold, after payment and execution of a valid release, though not recorded, was not liable for breach of such covenant by the holder of the equity of redemption.[8] Death of the lessee does not convert the term into a life estate, but the lessor can pursue the lessee's estate for the accruing rentals so long as assets can be found subject thereto.[9] the premises, which he conducted as her agent, that did not establish the relation of landlord and tenant between the owner and such third person so as to make her liable to an action for use and occupation. Lenney v. Finley, 118 Ga. 718, 45 S. E. 593. The assignee of a lease assigned to defendant, but the defendant was not in any way recognized by the lessor, though he remained in possession for about two months, when he was locked out without notice. Benedict v. Jennings, 93 N. Y. S. 464. An action for use and occupation will not lie against a corporation on a lease executed before its organization and on which its agents are personally liable. Thistle v. Jones, 45 Misc. 215, 92 N. Y. S. 113. Defendant's sons, who only assisted her in running the farm, were not responsible with her for use and occupation. Watts v. Watts' Ex'x [Va.] 51 S. E. 359.

98. He is either a trespasser or liable under the implied renewal of the old lease. Rosenberg v. Sprecher [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1045.

99. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 3864, making an occupant without special contract liable for the rent. Benton v. Beakey [Kan.] 81 P. 196.

1. Heddieston v. Stoner [Iowa] 105 N. W. 56. Where the land of a citizen, not within the area of war is taken and occupied for a military camp, an implied contract arises. Alexander's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 383.

2. Cummings v. Smith, 114 Ill. App. 35. When title is shown in plaintiff and occupation by defendant, an obligation to pay rent is generally implied; but not if the entry was not under plaintiff or is adverse to him. Sharpe v. Matthews [Ga.] 51 S. E. 706. The relation of landlord and tenant was not created by an agreement that the mortgagors should occupy and cultivate the land, paying $300 a year, all of which over the mortgage interest and taxes was to be applied in paying the mortgage, notwithstanding such payment was called "rent." Sadler v. Jefferson [Ala.] 39 So. 380.

3. Willink's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 693.

4. As where the claimant was prevented from the use of his river frontage beyond a certain line by threats of prosecution. Willink's Case, 38 Ct. Cl. 693.

5. Graham v. Beaver Hill Coal Co., 135 F. 611. Plaintiff, while in possession of land under contract of purchase, erected buildings thereon which were occupied by defendant. Plaintiff thereafter rescinded the contract and relinquished to the vendor all the rents, issues, and profits theretofore arising from the land, and recovered from him all moneys paid by him on the contract of purchase. Held, that the profits derived from the use and occupation of the buildings belonged to the vendor, and he having demanded that defendant attorn to him therefor, plaintiff could not recover them. Id. The fact that buildings were constructed while plaintiff was defendant's manager and were paid for with defendant's money was a good defense, they being defendant's property as against plaintiff. Id.

6. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

7. An adjudication of bankruptcy in a case where there was no rent due at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy does not constitute a breach of the covenants to pay rents accruing thereafter. Watson v. Merrill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 359.

8. Horner v. Chaisty [Md.] 61 A. 283.

9. Broadwell v. Banks, 134 F. 470.

§ 7. Rental on shares.[10]—From a leasing on shares are to be distinguished cropping contracts,[11] which amount to a joint adventure in the raising of a crop. It is a general rule that where a term is created, possession given to the occupant and produce is to be paid as rent, then the instrument is to be regarded as a lease,[12] and the title to the crops remains in the landlord until he has received his due proportion;[13] but it is also a general rule that where the occupant covenants to deliver to the owner a portion of the crops, the agreement is held to be a cropping contract and the parties are tenants in common of the crops.[14] Where the tenant agrees to pay his landlord a certain share of a crop, the title to the whole is in the tenant;[15] but it is otherwise when the landlord, by express contract, reserves title in the crops, to be grown on the rented land,[16] and where the landlord has an interest in the tenant's share of the crops and the latter authorizes him to sell the whole and collect and apply the proceeds, the agency being coupled with an interest cannot be revoked at the tenant's pleasure.[17] Although the tenant enters into possession under a void lease, becoming a periodical tenant by the payment of a periodical rent, reference may be had to such lease to determine the division of crops as between tenant and landlord.[18] The lessee on shares is usually required to furnish the labor necessary to carry on the farming operations.[19]

§ 8. The term, termination of tenancy, renewals, holding over.[20]—The term is impliedly for the period for which rent is paid.[21] It may be fixed by the happening of events uncertain in time.[22]

Besides expiration of the term[23] there may be a termination[24] by rescission or

10. See 4 C. L. 400.

11. See Agriculture, 5 C. L. 94.

12. Adams v. Thornton [Cal. App.] 82 P. 215. A contract for the payment of two-thirds of the income of a farm where any produce is sold, the toll to be first deducted, and for turning over certain proportions of the milk, eggs and increase of the poultry, is a lease and establishes the relation of landlord and tenant. Cockerline v. Fisher [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 55, 103 N. W. 522.

13. Rector v. Anderson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 884; Loveless v. Gilliam, 70 S. C. 391, 50 S. E. 9.

14. Adams v. Thornton [Cal. App.] 82 P. 215. Where the owner of an orchard contracted to let defendant a house, furnish all materials, and implements for curing and marketing the fruit, new trees to replace missing ones, one-half of boxing materials and preparation of fruit for market, the second party to have one-half the crop for his labor, the contract was a mere cropping contract and not a lease, and the parties were tenants in common of the crops. Id. Parties held to be tenants in common of the crops under the contract. Rector v. Anderson [Minn.] 104 N. W. 884.

15. Where the lease provides that, when the crops are ready for division the tenant shall deliver the landlord's share at a particular place, the tenant can divide the crops and sell his share. Hill v. Page, 95 N. Y. S. 465. A tenant who cultivates a farm under an agreement that entitles him to one-half the crops raised may before division, mortgage his interest subject to the landlord's rights. Denison v. Sawyer [Minn.] 104 N. W. 305. The widow of a tenant, to whom a part of the crop had been set apart as a year's support, could recover the same in trover from one to whom the landlord delivered it in payment of a debt owed such party by the deceased, although such delivery and conversion were made before the assignment to the widow. Neal v. Smith [Ga.] 50 S. E. 922.

16. Neal v. Smith [Ga.] 50 S. E. 922.

17. The landlord's interest was founded on a verbal agreement that he should have a lien on the tenant's share of crops, for signing tenant's notes as security. Big Four Wilmington Coal Co. v. Wren, 115 Ill. App. 331.

18. Snyder v. Harding, 38 Wash. 666, 80 P. 789.

19. Where the lessee on shares was to "do the farming and all labor in good workmanship manner," the wife of the lessee could not recover from the lessor for manual labor voluntarily rendered her husband and with no expectation at the time that she was to receive compensation from the lessor. Rathbone v. Rathbone, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 297.

20. See 4 C. L. 401.

21. A provision in a lease for one month that upon breach of any condition the lessee "shall be a mere tenant at sufferance" cannot be construed to make the lessee a tenant from year to year, in such case, but from month to month. Hood v. Drysdale, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 540. See, also, cases cited ante, § 3.

22. In a unilateral agreement to lease a hotel, of which the occupancy should "commence as soon as vacated by the present occupants," there is nothing so uncertain about the commencement of the proposed tenancy as to require parol evidence for its explanation or submission to a jury. Rhodes v. Purvis [Ark.] 85 S. W. 235.

23. Where defendant worked complain-forfeiture for breach of the lease,[25] by operation of stipulated conditions therein,[26] and by the purchase of the premises by the lessee, under stipulations therefor.[27] A lease of lands for a gas well, having been terminated under its provisions by a ceasing of the flow of gas, is not revived by a subsequent discovery of gas in the well in sufficient quantities for use.[28] In New York, the statute fixing the termination of certain tenancies at May 1 applies to cases where there has been an agreement of hiring, without any particular specification of duration.[29] A subtenant's rights are measured by those of his immediate landlord, the original tenant, and the cancellation of the latter's lease under its own terms is a cancellation as to both.[30]

Surrender, abandonment and eviction.[31]—A surrender of a lease may be made by parol, although the lease is under seal,[32] by an abandonment of the premises and entry by the lessor,[33] by an executed agreement to surrender,[34] by the execution of a new lease with the tenant's consent and the entry of the new tenant, by a contract to release the old tenant and accept a new one for the rent, or by a continued ant's land for 1900 on shares, nearly the whole tract being seeded to grass with the crop of grain, at complainant's expense, and for 1901 a new arrangement was made by defendant to cut the hay, but no further arrangements were made, defendant's rights in the premises ceased after the second season and he was a trespasser in interfering thereafter. Kenney v. Apley [Mich.] 102 N. W. 854.

24. Modes of terminating the various tenancies at common law discussed. Wolfer v. Hurst [Or.] 82 P. 20.

25. See, ante, § 5 as to what is a breach, post this section as to forfeiture. The landlord cannot afterward retain the deposit made "to be held during the continuance" of the lease, to secure himself against deficiency of rent in the re-letting. Yannuzzi v. Grape, 92 N. Y. S. 819.

26. Where the lease provides that, in case of sale of the premises, the tenant will quit and surrender upon 30 days' notice, the lease is terminated by the sale. Buhman v. Nickels & Brown Bros. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 85. A lease may contain a stipulation for an amount to be paid by the lessee to terminate the lease, and, unless this is "vile" and insufficient, the lessor must resort to the courts to have the contract annulled. Houssiere Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932. Contemporaneously with a contract for the purchase of distillery slop, the purchaser leased to the distillery company a lot to be used as a "feeding lot," at an annual rent. The lease provided that the lessor should have the refusal of the slop for any year, and, in case he took it, no rent should be paid for the lot. Held, that the exercise of the option did not terminate the lease or change the relation of the parties, but exempted the lessee from rent while furnishing the slop. Lillard v. Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Co. [C. C. A.] 134 F. 168. A provision that on a certain contingency the lessee agrees to cancel the lease is equivalent to an agreement that the lease may be canceled and does not contemplate any act by the tenant to complete the cancellation. Bruder v. Geisler, 94 N. Y. S. 2.

27. In Massachusetts such a purchase is a contingency terminating the lease and, if happening during a rent period, entitles the landlord to rent for the unexpired portion of such term, under Rev. Laws, c. 129, § 8. Withington v. Nichols [Mass.] 73 N. E. 855.

28. Shenk v. Stahl [Ind. App.] 74 N. E. 538.

29. Stein v. Sutherland, 92 N. Y. S. 314. Where a lease terminated on October 15, but the tenant continued in possession with the landlord's consent, the new term so created could not be terminated prior to October 15 the following year, notwithstanding the statute. Furman v. Gaianopulo, 92 N. Y. S. 730.

30. Bruder v. Geisler, 94 N. Y. S. 2.

31. See 4 C. L. 401.

32. But a mere parol agreement to surrender his term on a certain date does not operate as such where it is not executed and the tenant remains in possession with the landlord's acquiescence. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522.

33. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522. Where a lease from year to year beginning April 1, 1901, was abandoned in March, 1904, and the landlord leased it to another party from April 1, 1904, the first lease terminated at that date. Hatfield v. Lawton, 95 N. Y. S. 451. Where the lessee who was justified in vacating the premises, notified the lessor's agent and requested him to take care of the house, he promising to do so, there was a surrender, so far as giving up the premises was concerned. Rogers v. Babcock [Mich.] 102 N. W. 636. The fact that, while serving a sentence to jail, lessee let one of his lessors have the key to the premises for the purpose of seeing that the contents of the building were intact and while in the building lessor attempted to make it more secure, did not constitute a surrender of possession under the lease. Schwartz v. McQuaid, 214 Ill. 357, 73 N. E. 582.

34. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522. An agreement, modifying somewhat the terms of a tenancy from year to year but not constituting a complete contract of leasing, and without any surrender or agreement to surrender the existing tenancy, does not have that effect or create a new tenancy. McCaw v. Cox [Neb.] 103 N. W. 76.

change of possession by the mutual consent of the parties.[35] The surrender must be the mutual and voluntary action of the parties thereto,[36] must be accepted by the lessor,[37] and must be assented to by a third party that has a beneficial interest in the contract.[38] The acceptance of a surrender of a lease terminates the relation of landlord and tenant, and is a bar to recovery for a breach of covenant.[39] The cancellation of the lease may be a sign of surrender, but it is not the surrender itself;[40] but the destruction of the lease by consent of both parties, before possession taken, is effectual as a surrender, as the lessee had no possession to surrender.[41] A lease may also be surrendered by operation of law.[42] An eviction is any act which either deprives the tenant of possession or destroys his quiet enjoyment.[43]

Destruction of premises.[44]—The destruction of a building on leased premises, without the fault of either party and in the absence of a covenant requiring the landlord to rebuild will not terminate the lease or release the tenant from his obligation to pay rent.[45] Although, unless otherwise agreed, the lessee may terminate the lease in case of destruction of the building during his term, without his fault,[46] yet the lessor cannot terminate the lease, where the building was only partially destroyed, without injury to the lessee's premises, and he continues his occupancy as before.[47]

Forfeiture.[48]—The general rule is that forfeitures are discountenanced by the courts;[49] but even equity will enforce rights dependent on a forfeiture already complete.[50] But the courts, for the sake of avoiding a forfeiture, cannot disregard the contract made by the parties, though it is harsh, where it contravenes no rule of public policy;[51] and forfeitures of gas and oil leases, for neglect to perform the conditions requiring work to begin within a certain time and continuous operation

35. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522.

36. Wray-Austin Machinery Co. v. Flower [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 214, 103 N. W. 873.

37. A tenant for years cannot relieve himself from liability by vacating the premises during the term and sending the key to the landlord. Smucker v. Grinberg, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 531. The burden of proof of assent is on the lessee. Id. Conflicting evidence of conversation between one of the defendants and one of the plaintiff's attorneys held not to show a surrender. Steuber v. Huber, 95 N. Y. S. 348.

38. Where a brewing association becamc guarantor of the payment of rent, upon consideration that no beer or malt liquors except those manufactured by the guarantor should be sold on the premises and that the building should be used for no other purpose than a saloon, guarantor had such a beneficial interest in the lease that the lessee could not surrender it without guarantor's consent. St. Louis Brewing Ass'n v. Kaltenbach, 108 Mo. App. 637, 84 S. W. 151.

39. Where, after the tenant's bankruptcy the landlord accepted a surrender, he assented to the termination of the lease by the bankruptcy proceedings, and he could not enforce a provision making rent immediately due and payable in case of breach of covenant. In re Winfield Mfg. Co., 137 F. 984.

40, 41. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522.

42. Where a tenant accepts a new lease for the same premises, as he is thereby estopped from asserting that the old one is in force. Duncan v. Moloney, 115 Ill. App. 522.

43. See cases cited ante, § 5 A.

44. See 4 C. L. 402.

45. Moran v. Bergin, 111 Ill. App. 313. The destruction by fire of ice-houses on leased premises. Roberts v. Lynn Ice Co. [Mass.] 73 N. E. 523. The razing of a building by authority of a building inspector on account of its unsafe condition is not an eviction by title paramount, and in the absence of a covenant broad enough to survive such action creates no liability against the landlord. Liebschutz v. Black, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 393.

46. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2997. Jones v. Fowler Drug Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 558, 85 S. W. 721.

47. Jones v. Fowler Drug Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 558, 85 S. W. 721.

48. See 4 C. L. 402.

49. Wright v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 799. Forfeitures are to be strictly construed in an action to resume possession and not directed toward setting aside the contract of lease. Houssiere Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932.

50. While equity will not actively interfere to enforce a forfeiture, yet where a lease had been forfeited by the conveyance by the lessee of his interest by a deed of trust, proceedings begun to foreclose and a receiver appointed, in which the lessor intervened asking cancellation of the trust deed, it was proper on certain conditions to declare the lease forfeited. Gunning v. Sorg, 214 Ill. 616, 73 N. E. 870.

51. Where a contract for a lease provided for five payments at a fixed time, which was made of the essence of the contract, with are favored,[52] and in Louisiana, although a clause reserving to lessee the right to dissolve an oil lease upon payment of a certain sum might be considered a potestative condition,[53] yet where the contract contains all the essentials of a lease, has been to some extent executed and rights and equities may have arisen under its clauses, it cannot be annulled by the effect of the potestative condition, in a mere possessory action.[54] Forfeiture cannot be effected by a landlord without rendering to the tenant that for which the lease calls in such an event.[55] To deny title is a disseisin working forfeiture,[56] and the assignment of a lease that by its terms is not assignable,[57] works a forfeiture of the lease; but a breach of an implied covenant does not forfeit a lease, unless it is expressly so provided, and a direct action must be brought to set aside such a lease.[58] Where a lease provided for re-entry in case of nonpayment of rent, and a receiver was appointed after such default, the lessor could not forfeit the lease until it appeared that the receiver was unwilling or unable to pay the overdue rent.[59] Mere delay[60] or failure to pay rent as provided will not of itself work a forfeiture.[61]

When a lease has become liable to forfeiture for breach of some condition, it nevertheless remains in force and binding upon the lessee until terminated by the lessor according to law.[62] By failing to make the requisite demand of the rent, the lessor loses his right to enforce forfeiture therefor;[63] but where the landlord had the right to re-enter for nonpayment of rent and it was the tenant's duty to yield possession on demand, the fact that the tenant was induced to leave the premises by artifice was immaterial.[64] The retaking of the premises by the lessor releases the lessee from payment of all subsequently accruing rents, unless otherwise provided in the contract.[65] A landlord may waive a forfeiture, or elect to insist upon it;[66] but he must take a stand and hold it.[67] The waiver may be either express or implied from acts inconsistent with insistence upon a forfeiture.[68] The right of waiver of certain additional sums as rent, and also that, if such payments were made, the lessee should have an option to purchase, but upon failure to make any payment both the lease and option should terminate, the payment of all the instalments was a condition precedent to the right to purchase, which, upon failure to make the last payment, was forfeited. Carpenter v. Thornburn [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1047. In such case the failure of the lessor to tender a deed was no excuse for a failure to make the last payment, for the lessor was not required to make a deed until all payments had been made. Id.

52. Chapple v. Kansas Vitrified Brick Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 666.

53. Within the terms of Louisiana Civil Code, art. 2034. Houssiere Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932.

54. Houssiere Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932.

55. Where plaintiff leased defendants for five years so much land as they might clear up, with an option after one year to take back the lands which had been cleared, upon payment of a certain sum per annum for each acre cleared, and the defendants had partially cleared a part of the land, plaintiff could not retake it without first tendering the amount to which defendants were entitled for the labor performed. Bunch v. Williams [Ark.] 88 S. W. 588.

56. See ante, § 4 B. A disclaimer and denial of the landlord's title, or the open and notorious assertion by the tenant of an adverse claim. Barnewell v. Stephens [Ala.] 38 So. 662.

57. Wray-Austin Machinery Co. v. Flower [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 214, 103 N. W. 873.

58. Houssiere-Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932.

59. Fleming v. Fleming Hotel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 157.

60. Oil lease, conditioned upon commencement of operations or payment of rent, does not annul the lease. Houssiere-Latreille Oil Co. v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 38 So. 932.

61. Parsons v. Crocker [Iowa] 105 N. W. 162.

62. Method of enforcing forfeiture. Hartford Wheel Club v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 207, citing several authorities.

63. Hartford Wheel Club v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 207.

64. Cockerline v. Fisher [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 55, 103 N. W. 522.

65. Watson v. Merrill [C. C. A.] 136 F. 359.

66. A provision in a lease for a definite term that it shall become void upon the nonpayment of rent does not create a limitation of the term, but merely a condition subsequent for the breach of which the lessor may, at his option, terminate the lease. Hartford Wheel Club v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 207.

67. Wright v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 746.

forfeiture for nonpayment of rent, before entry, belongs absolutely to the lessor, independently of any action by the tenant; but, after the lessor's election to enforce the forfeiture has been declared by entry, the lessor's right to waive the forfeiture depends upon the action of the lessee also, for he may insist upon the termination of the lease and his release from its obligations.[69]

Notice to vacate and demand of possession.[70]—No notice is necessary to terminate a tenancy for a fixed period;[71] but such tenancy may be coupled with an option for renewal, which may be conditioned that it shall not be exercised if the lessor gives notice for an agreed length of time that the tenancy is to cease, in which case such notice must be given, but it may be oral, unless otherwise stipulated.[72] Nor is notice necessary where the tenant denies the landlord's title, for that terminates the tenancy.[73] In other cases the tenant's possessory interest must be terminated by notice before written demand can be made for delivery of possession.[74] But the notice to quit, prescribed by statute for terminating a tenancy at will or by sufferance, is not an essential part of the procedure for forcible entry and detainer.[75] It is required only as a condition of legally terminating the tenancy, and may be waived by the tenant;[76] and when so waived, the action of forcible entry and detainer may be brought without any notice to quit being served upon the tenant.[77] The necessity of giving the statutory notice may also be superseded by the terms of the lease.[78] Notice before suit of the lessor's intention to re-enter is required in a case where the lease reserves a right of re-entry for the lessee's "default of a sufficiency of goods and chattels whereon to distrain for satisfaction of rent due,"[79] or where the lease provides for such a notice; but it is not required where the lease has come to an end and the lessor has become reinstated in his right to possession by agreement of the parties, upon the happening of a particular event.[80] The

68. Where the landlord demanded a share of the profits of a subletting by his tenant, he waived forfeiture of the lease by such subletting. Wright v. Henderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 86 S. W. 799. The acceptance of after accruing rent at any time before entry for non-payment, or even an unqualified demand for such rent, is a waiver. Hartford Wheel Club v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 207. Where a lease provided for a surrender of the premises at the expiration or other termination of the lease, waiving demand for rent, re-entry, notice to quit and other formalities, such waiver only authorized the lessor to commence action for possession without demand or re-entry, but did not preclude the tenant from relying upon the landlord's waiver of forfeiture by the acceptance of rent subsequently accruing. Id. But where the ground of forfeiture of a mining lease was the continued failure to work the mine in a workmanlike manner and to support the ground, and such violations continued up to the time of a temporary injunction restraining the further operation of the mine, the acceptance of rent or royalties after notice of forfeiture did not waive the forfeiture. Big Six Development Co. v. Mitchell [C. C. A.] 138 F. 279. Where a landlord withheld notice of forfeiture for failure to repair defects in drainage but procured a notice to be sent to tenant by the board of health and the tenant made the repairs, it was a waiver of the landlord's right to declare a forfeiture of the lease. Hasterlik v. Olson, 218 Ill. 411, 75 N. E. 1002.

69. Hartford Wheel Club v. Travelers' Ins. Co. [Conn.] 62 A. 207.

70. See 4 C. L. 403.

71. Reccius & Bro. v. Columbia Finance & Trust Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 880, 86 S. W. 1113. In California. Code Civ. Proc. § 1161, subd. 1. Craig v. Gray [Cal. App.] 82 P. 699. In Indiana, Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7094. Millington v. O'Dell [Ind. App.] 73 N. E. 949. In Missouri one holding over willfully and without force is not entitled to notice to quit, but proceedings for possession may be begun against him at once. Rev. St. 1899, § 3321. Barada-Ghio Real Estate Co. v. Heidbrink [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1109.

72. Barada-Ghio Real Estate Co. v. Heidbrink [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1109.

73. Schwoebel v. Fuglna [N. D.] 104 N. W. 848.

74. Code 1896, § 2127. Barnewell v. Stephens [Ala.] 38 So. 662.

75. Sec. 5755, B. & C. Comp. Wolfer v. Hurst [Or.] 82 P. 20.

76, 77. Barnewell v. Stephens [Ala.] 38 So. 662.

78. Where the lease provided that the lessee would quit and surrender the premises on 30 days' written notice in case of sale, the grantees of the lessor were not required to give in addition the three days' notice prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1161, to make the tenant guilty of unlawful detainer, but only the 30 days' notice after termination of the lease by sale. Buhman v. Nickels & Brown Bros. [Cal. App.] 82 P. 85.

79. Laws 1846, p. 369, c. 274; Code Civ. Proc. § 1505. Palmieri v. Antinozzi, 95 N. Y. S. 865.

80. The tenant's failure to comply with the orders of the tenement house department.

receipt of rent for a new term or part thereof by a landlord, after notice to quit, amounts to a waiver of his right to demand possession under the notice; but the receipt of rent for the current month pending the notice to quit cannot have that effect.[81]

A tenancy can be terminated by such notice only as provided by law.[82] A statute merely prescribing the length of notice to be given to terminate a tenancy from year to year does not otherwise change the common-law requisites of the notice.[83] The notice must be in writing[84] and should describe the premises with reasonable certainty for identification and require the tenant to remove on a specified day,[85] which must be the last day of some rental period.[86] But in the District of Columbia a thirty days' notice to quit need not specify the day of the termination of the lease, if dated and served full thirty days before the end of the term.[87] A landlord cannot, in a notice to quit, specify the rent demanded as a penalty for the further occupation of the premises.[88] The notice may be given by the landlord, or by his agent or attorney who has special authority therefor or authority to let the premises;[89] but when a demand for possession of the premises is made by an agent or attorney, the evidence should show that he was in fact the agent or attorney when the demand was made; the mere bringing of suit in his name afterward raises no such presumption.[90] A notice to quit given without authority of the landlord cannot be subsequently ratified by him, as the tenant must act upon the notice at the time it is given and it must be such a notice as he can act upon with security.[91] Where a party permits a notice to quit, signed by an agent, to be offered in evidence without objection, he admits the agent's authority;[92] but he does not thereby admit the sufficiency of the notice, which it is the province of the court to determine.[93] Where no notice to quit is produced on the trial, nor any evidence given of its contents or date, the case will be treated as if no notice was given, although defendant testifies that he received notice.[94] A conveyance of leased premises by the lessor, without reservation, carries with it, by operation of law, the grantor's right to terminate the tenancy by a notice to quit,[95] and the lessor cannot thereafter give in his own name a notice which will be effectual to terminate it;[96] but the tenant's right to have the notice issued in the landlord's name may be waived by accepting a lease containing stipulations to that effect.[97] Where a ninety-

Palmieri v. Antinozzi, 95 N. Y. S. 865. Where, in case of default in payment of rent, the lessor is empowered at his own election to declare the lease at an end and to reenter, after the demand of the due and unpaid rent, no notice is necessary to terminate the lease. Gunning v. Sorg, 113 Ill. App. 332.

81. Byrne v. Morrison, 25 App. D. C. 72.

82. A tenancy from year to year by written notice served at least sixty days prior to the end of the term. Ranson v. Ranson, 115 Ill. App. 1. A tenancy from month to month, by a tenant's giving thirty days' notice and fixing a time when he has a legal right to quit. He should name the last day of the current month. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411. In Pennsylvania a tenant from year to year is entitled to three months' notice to quit before the close of the year. Pickering v. O'Brien, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 125. A letter offering to renew a lease at an increased rent, but without any notice that if the offer was not accepted the lease would be terminated did not terminate a tenancy stipulated to continue from year to year until four months' previous notice of intention to terminate. Smucker v. Grinberg, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 531.

83. Code 1899, c. 93, § 5. Arbenz v. Exley, Watkins & Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 813.

84. B. & C. Comp. § 5756. McClung v. McPherson [Or.] 82 P. 13.

85. McClung v. McPherson [Or.] 82 P. 13.

86. A letter from the tenant to the landlord, notifying him that he has vacated and surrenders the premises, though accompanied by a vacation and a defense of a former action for rent, denying liability, does not operate as a termination of the tenancy. Arbenz v. Exley, Watkins & Co. [W. Va.] 50 S. E. 813.

87. Code, § 1219. Byrne v. Morrison, 25 App. D. C. 72.

88, 89. McClung v. McPherson [Or.] 81 P. 567.

90, 91. Barnewell v. Stephens [Ala.] 38 So. 662.

92, 93. McClung v. McPherson [Or.] 82 P. 13.

94. Barada-Ghio Real Estate Co. v. Heidbrink [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1109.

95, 96. McClung v. McPherson [Or.] 81 P. 567.

nine year lease is to be terminated under the statute for default of the lessee, it is not necessary for the lessor's wife, who executed the lease merely to release her dower, to join in the notice.[98] In ejectment a denial only that plaintiff signed the notice to quit does not put in issue the service of such notice.[99]

Under a notice to quit for nonpayment of rent, the tenancy terminates at the expiration of the time limited in the notice.[1] It is not necessary that a formal demand be made on the premises to terminate a tenancy.[2]

Renewal under express agreement.[3]—Unless otherwise provided a renewal is for the term and according to the conditions of the original agreement.[4] Where a lease secured by a surety of unquestionable solidity is renewable "upon the same terms and conditions," the lessee must furnish for renewal a surety equally as safe,[5] or the landlord is released from his agreement and may let the premises to another.[6] The deposit of a personal check in a bank is not a compliance with a condition in a lease requiring a deposit of money as a condition precedent to renewal.[7] Where premises are leased to two tenants jointly for a definite term with the privilege of an additional term, the option must be exercised jointly.[8] In the absence of any restriction of the right of renewal to the first lessees, a covenant for renewal runs to the assignees of the lessee.[9] Where by its own provisions a lease is continued in force from term to term, with all its provisions and covenants, an option of purchase contained therein is also renewed from term to term.[10]

Holding over without agreement.[11]—A holding over without a new lease is presumed to be upon the conditions of the expired agreement[12] and creates a ten-

97. Stipulations that, in case of sale of premises, the lease might be terminated by 60 days' notice, so construed. McClung v. McPherson [Or.] 81 P. 567.

98. Gunning v. Sorg, 113 Ill. App. 332.

99. Hayden v. Collins [Cal. App.] 81 P. 1120.

1. Wray-Austin Machinery Co. v. Flower [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 214, 103 N. W. 873.

2. Comp. Laws 1897, § 11,164. Cockerline v. Fisher [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 55, 103 N. W. 522.

3. See 4 C. L. 404.

4. Where the lease provided for "the privilege of two additional years on the same terms," a holding over after the term was an election to hold for the entire extended term. Henderson v. Schuylkill Valley Clay Mfg. Co. 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 422. An agreement that the tenant should continue as tenant by the month, and have one month's notice to quit, created a tenancy from month to month with the option of renewal at the beginning of each monthly period, unless one month's notice was given by the landlord. Reccius & Bro. v. Columbia Finance & Trust Co., 27 Ky. L. R. 880, 86 S. W. 1113. Where, before the expiration of a term, the lessor executed a lease for another term to begin at the expiration of the first, the lessee was entitled to continue in possession as though the first lease had been made for a term including the renewal term (Ely v. Collins, 45 Misc. 255, 92 N. Y. S. 160), and where, between the execution of the new lease and the expiration of the old one, the lessee's rights were cut off by foreclosure of a mortgage, the lessee's right to reimbursement out of the surplus on foreclosure sale was superior to the rights of the owners of the equity of redemption (Id.).

5, 6. Piper v. Levy [La.] 38 So. 448.

7. A condition precedent to the renewal of a gas and oil lease, that 25 cents per acre be deposited in a certain bank each year in advance, to the credit of lessor. Chapple v. Kansas Vitrified Brick Co. [Kan.] 79 P. 666.

8. Their intention may be expressed jointly or by both independently; or by remaining in possession; but where one refused to extend the lease jointly and so notified the owner and his co-tenant, the owner could recover possession although the other tenant decided to remain. Tweedie v. Olson Hardware & Furniture Co. [Minn.] 104 N. W. 895.

9. Where the habendum clause ran to the lessees and their assigns and they covenanted for themselves and their assigns to pay rent, a covenant by the lessor to renew could be enforced by the assignee of the lessees. Blount v. Connolly, 110 Mo. App. 603, 85 S. W. 605.

10. An option of purchase "at the end of the said term" construed to give the right of purchase at the end of each renewal term as long as the lease remained in force. Thomas v. Gottlieb Bauernschmidt Straus Brewing Co. [Md.] 62 A. 633.

11. See 4 C. L. 404.

12. City of Plattsmouth v. New Hampshire Sav. Bank [C. C. A.] 139 F. 631, citing numerous authorities. Where the tenant holds under a written lease, its terms are renewed by such holding over even to the extent of a power to confess judgment contained therein. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411. But where an accident occurred while a tenant of a ferry was holding over and the landlord, though an old man, went a long distance in the winter to the ferry to investigate and showed much concern, it justified a finding that the former tenant was then acting only as a servant of his forancy from year to year where the tenancy is recognized by the landlord.[13] But this is only a rule of presumption, which is rebutted by proof of a different agreement or of facts inconsistent with the presumption.[14] The landlord has an election to treat one holding over as a tenant or a trespasser, and such election is conclusive against both parties.[15] But this rule has no application where the lease makes provision for continuing the tenancy from year to year for a specified number of years, on terms more favorable to the tenant, and he exercises the power by remaining in possession,[16] nor does it apply where a subsequent agreement is made modifying the terms of the original agreement.[17] Where the tenant retains possession wrongfully after the termination of his tenancy, he is liable, not merely for the rent under his terminated lease but for the value of the use and occupation of the premises.[18] A holding over by a subtenant beyond the tenant's term is a holding over by the tenant, and subjects the tenant to the statutory penalty of double rent.[19] Although the landlord may treat a subtenant so holding over as his own tenant and proceed against him as such, either for rent or possession, yet he is not compelled to do so, but may still look to the person with whom he dealt as his mer landlord and not as a tenant. Wilson v. Alexander [Tenn.] 88 S. W. 935.

13. West v. Lungren [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1057. Under sec. 5528, Ball. Ann. Codes & St. Snyder v. Harding, 38 Wash. 666, 80 P. 789. Notwithstanding the provisions of the statute limiting the duration of indefinite tenancies in New York City. Furman v. Galanopulo, 92 N. Y. S. 730. The payment and receipt of rent after holding over creates a tenancy for one year at least. Evidence held not to rebut the presumption that the holding over was on the same terms as the original lease. Weber v. Powers, 114 Ill. App. 411. Where a lease expired on March 1 and a summons in unlawful detainer was issued and served on the 28th day of the same month, there was no holding over from year to year. Barada-Ghio Real Estate Co. v. Heidbrink [Mo. App.] 86 S. W. 1109. One who has the right to maintain billboards on land for one year, if he holds over becomes a tenant from year to year. Pickering v. O'Brien, 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 125. Under a lease for a definite term, with a covenant to surrender possession at the end thereof, upon breach of the covenant, a judgment in ejectment may be entered, notwithstanding a further provision that a lawful continuance of the tenancy beyond the term should be deemed a renewal for one year, for there could be no lawful continuance without consent of the lessor. Sweeney v. McDonnell, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 69.

14. Rosenberg v. Sprecher [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1045; West v. Lungren [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1057. Where a lease was terminated by the lessee in the manner provided in the lease and he held over under an agreement for a new lease which the landlord failed to execute, he did not become a tenant from year to year, but, having paid the rent up to the time of his leaving the premises, the landlord had no further claim upon him. Henderson v. Schuylkill Valley Clay Mfg. Co., 24 Pa. Super. Ct. 422. A mere notification by the tenants that they would occupy the premises after their term only as tenants from month to month is not enough to rebut the presumption; there must be some showing of assent on the part of the landlord. Abeel v. McDonnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 87 S. W. 1066. Where the conduct of the tenant is such as to induce the plaintiff to believe that he will keep the premises, he is liable for another year. Id. Where the conduct of the landlord's agent is such as to induce the tenant to believe that his demand for certain improvements will be complied with, the tenant's continued occupancy for a reasonable time, awaiting the agent's action, will not bind them for another year. Id. The agent's acquiescence in the tenant's notification that he would hold only from month to month, unless improvements were made, and in the demand for improvements, may be inferred from his acceptance of the first month's rent with such notification. Id. Where the defendant in unlawful detainer defended on the ground of an alleged parol extension of the lease for an indefinite term, an instruction that, unless a new lease was entered into for one year, plaintiff was entitled to recover, was not error, for it was based on defendant's own claim. Houck v. Williams [Colo.] 81 P. 800. Proofs held to show a subsequent new agreement between the parties. West v. Lungren [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1057.

15. Rosenberg v. Sprecher [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1045. This is so, regardless of an increased rent. Stein v. Sutherland, 92 N. Y. S. 314. The right of the landlord to elect to continue the tenancy is not affected by the fact that the tenant has refused to renew the lease and has given notice that he has hired other premises. Stover v. Davis [W. Va.] 49 S. E. 1023.

16. City of Plattsmouth v. New Hampshire Sav. Bank [C. C. A.] 139 F. 631.

17. Where the evidence shows that the tenant agreed to remain in case the heating appliances were made good and he received assurances to that effect, which were not carried out, he was relieved from paying further rent on leaving the premises for that reason. Rogers v. Babcock [Mich.] 102 N. W. 636.

18. Schwoebel v. Fugina [N. D.] 104 N. W. 848.

19. The tenant cannot evade this penalty by any arrangement by which the possession tenant.[20] Where a tenant had been given notice to quit, the service on him of a further notice that rental of $20 per day would be charged and collected if he continued to occupy the premises did not create a new tenancy from year to year.[21]

§ 9. Landlord's remedies for recovery of rent. Parties and procedure generally.[22]—To sustain a distress warrant proceeding,[23] or an action for the recovery of rent,[24] the relation of landlord and tenant must be shown to exist. Where the landlord, upon obtaining restitution of the premises, has an election to recover their rental value in a suit on defendant's appeal bond to the circuit court, or to sue defendant in trespass or case to recover treble damages for the unlawful detainer,[25] an election of the remedy on the bond prevents a resort to the action for treble damages.[26] When forfeiture as of a certain day is declared on, the recovery of rent if any must be limited to that time.[27] Neither rents which the bankrupt had agreed to pay at times subsequent to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, nor damages for breach of payment thereof, are favorable claims against the bankrupt's estate.[28] Under a provision that in case of the bankruptcy of the lessee, the rent for the entire term shall become due and payable and the landlord may proceed as in case of a breach, the landlord has no priority for his claim of rent for the unexpired portion of the term, under the Federal bankruptcy law, although he might under the state insolvency laws.[29] In an action for rent, where it appeared that all of defendant's dealings were with plaintiff, an amendment was allowed, striking from the record words following plaintiff's name, indicating that it was the lessee of another corporation.[30]

Stipulated right to relet.[31]—Where the lessor has the right, under the lease, in case of breach of covenants, to terminate the contract or to relet the premises at the risk of the lessee who is to be liable for the rent for the entire term, the lessor is bound to manifest such election within a reasonable time and exercise reasonable care in reletting.[32]

Distress.[33]—In general, at common law, all goods and chattels upon the premises were liable to distress for rent.[34] Distress for rent will lie only where the rela-is not actually in him, but in another claiming under him. Fletcher v. Fletcher [Ga.] 51 S. E. 418.

20. Fletcher v. Fletcher [Ga.] 51 S. E. 418.

21. McClung v. McPherson [Or.] 81 P. 567.

22. See 4 C. L. 405.

