CURRENT LAW

A COMPLETE ENCYCLOPÆDIA
OF NEW LAW

VOLUME VIII.

HARMLESS ERROR TO WITNESSES

GEORGE FOSTER LONGSDORF, EDITOR
WALTER A. SHUMAKER, ASSOCIATE

ST. PAUL, MINN.
THE KEEFE-DAVIDSON COMPANY
1907

TOPICAL INDEX.

Use the index in your latest number. Ignore all previous indexes in volumes and numbers. The latest index cites by volume and page to the latest treatment of any subject.

You do not have to study classification. This index contains the name of every subject you are familiar with and not merely the titles of our articles.

The page citation at the beginning of each article directs to the particular subdivision wanted. There you can find its latest treatment and also a volume and page citation to the same points in earlier volumes.

Black figures refer to volumes; light figures to pages.

This index is revised and reprinted every month. Remember to start with the latest index and you cannot go astray or miss anything.

A.

ABANDONMENT, see the topic treating of that which is the subject of abandonment, e. g., Easements, 7, 1211; Highways, etc., 8, 56; Discontinuance, etc. (of an action), 7, 1159; Property, 8, 1473; Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1903; Infants, 8, 267.

ABATEMENT AND REVIVAL, 7, 1.

ABBREVIATIONS, see Contracts, 7, 791; Pleading, 8, 1355; Indictments, etc., 8, 189; Names, etc., 8, 1082, and the like.

ABDUCTION, 7, 7.

ABETTING CRIME, see Criminal Law, 7, 1013.

ABIDE THE EVENT, see Costs, 7, 958; Payment into Court, 8, 1337; Stay of Proceedings, 8, 1999; Stipulations, 8, 2001.

ABODE, see Domicile, 7, 1194.

ABORTION, 7, 8.

ABSCONDING DEBTORS, see Attachment, 7, 301; Civil Arrest, 7, 653; Bankruptcy, 7, 387; Limitation of Actions, 8, 768.

ABSENTEES, 7, 9.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE, 7, 9.

ABUSE OF PROCESS, see Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 8, 797; Process, 8, 1467.

ABUTTING OWNERS, see Highways and Streets, 8, 70, 78; Eminent Domain, 7, 1276; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1070.

ACCEPTANCE. Titles treating of the subject of an acceptance should be consulted. See Contracts, 7, 766; Deeds, etc., 7, 1103, and the like.

ACCESSION AND CONFUSION OF PROPERTY, 7, 9.

ACCESSORIES, see Criminal Law, 7, 1013.

ACCIDENT—in equity, see Mistake and Accident, 8, 1020—resulting in legal injury, see Master and Servant, 8, 849; Negligence, 8, 1090; Carriers, 7, 557; Damages, 7, 1029; Insurance, 8, 377.

ACCOMMODATION PAPER, see Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1140.

ACCOMPLICES, see Criminal Law, 7, 1414; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 189; Evidence, 7, 1566.

ACCORD AND SATISFACTION, 7, 10.

ACCOUNTING, ACTION FOR, 7, 19. See, also, Estates of Decedents, 7, 1462; Guardianship, 7, 1912; Partnership, 8, 1280; Trusts, 8, 2198.

ACCOUNTS STATED AND OPEN ACCOUNTS, 7, 22.

ACCRETION, see Riparian Owners, 8, 1746.

ACCUMULATIONS, see Trusts, 8, 2169; Perpetuities and Accumulations, 8, 1348.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS, 7, 25.

ACTIONS, 7, 28. Particular subjects of practice and procedure are excluded to separate topics. See headings describing them.

ACT OF GOD, see Carriers, 7, 538, 567; Contracts, 7, 813; Insurance, 8, 377; Negligence, 8, 1093.

ADDITIONAL ALLOWANCES, see Costs, 7, 970.

ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTIONS AFTER RETIREMENT OF JURY [Special Article], 4, 1718.

ADEMPTION OF LEGACIES, see Wills, 8, 2345.

ADJOINING OWNERS, 7, 28. See, also, Fences, 7, 1654.

ADJOURNMENTS, see Courts, 7, 1000; Continuance and Postponement, 7, 757.

ADMINISTRATION, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386; Trusts, 8, 2188.

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW, see Officers and Public Employees, 8, 1191.

ADMIRALTY, 7, 30.

ADMISSIONS, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 212; Evidence, 7, 1558; Pleading, 8, 1428; Trial, 8, 2166.

ADOPTION OF CHILDREN, 7, 35.

ADULTERATION, 7, 38.

ADULTERY, 7, 39.

ADVANCEMENTS, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1485; Wills, 8, 2336; Trusts, 8, 2182.

ADVERSE POSSESSION, 7, 41.

ADVICE OF COUNSEL, see Attorneys, etc., 7, 319; Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 8, 802, and other torts involving malice; Witnesses (as to privileged nature of communications), 8, 2362.

AFFIDAVITS, 7, 58.

AFFIDAVITS OF MERITS OF CLAIM OR DEFENSE, 7, 59.

AFFIRMATIONS, see Witnesses, 8, 2347; Jury, 8, 617.

AFFRAY. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 5, 64.

AGENCY, 7, 61; with Special Articles, Agency Implied From Relation of Parties, 3, 101; Revocation of Agency By Operation of Law, 4, 1295.

AGENCY IMPLIED FROM RELATION OF PARTIES [Special Article], 3, 101.

AGISTMENT, see Animals, 7, 123; Liens, 8, 755.

AGREED CASE, see Submission of Controversy, 8, 2040; Appeal and Review, 7, 128; Stipulations, 8, 2001.

AGRICULTURE, 7, 94.

AIDER BY VERDICT, ETC., see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 189; Pleading, 8, 1413.

AID OF EXECUTION, see Creditors' Suit, 7, 1007; Supplementary Proceedings, 8, 2046.

ALIBI, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 219.

ALIENS, 7, 98.

ALIMONY, 7, 104.

ALTERATION OF INSTRUMENTS, 7, 115.

AMBASSADORS AND CONSULS. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol 7. See 5, 113.

AMBIGUITY, see those parts of titles like Contracts, 7, 791; Statutes, 8, 1987; Wills, 8, 2326, which treat of interpretation.

AMENDMENTS, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 200; Pleading, 8, 1392; Equity, 7, 1358, and procedure titles generally.

AMICUS CURIAE. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 5, 113.

AMOTION, see Associations and Societies, 7, 294; Corporations, 7, 862.

AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY, see Appeal and Review, 7, 128; Jurisdiction, 8, 584; Costs, 7, 961.

ANCIENT DOCUMENTS, see Evidence, 7, 1567.

ANIMALS, 7, 120.

ANNUITIES, 7, 126.

ANOTHER SUIT PENDING, see Abatement and Revival, 7, 1; Stay of Proceedings, 8, 1999; Jurisdiction, 8, 592.

ANSWERS, see Equity, 7, 1365; Pleading, 8, 1391.

ANTENUPTIAL CONTRACTS AND SETTLEMENTS, see Husband and Wife, 8, 126.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS, see Combinations and Monopolies, 7, 661.

APPEAL AND REVIEW, 7, 128.

APPEARANCE, 7, 251.

APPELLATE COURTS AND JURISDICTION, see Appeal and Review, 7, 151; Jurisdiction, 8, 597.

APPLICATION OF PAYMENTS, see Payment and Tender, 8, 1331.

APPOINTMENT, see Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1197; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1395; Trusts, 8, 2187, and the like; Powers, 8, 1447.

APPORTIONMENT LAWS, see Elections, 7, 1230; Officers, etc., 8, 1191; States, 8, 1971.

APPRENTICES, 7, 254.

ARBITRATION AND AWARD, 7, 254.

ARCHITECTS, see Building and Construction Contracts, 7, 489.

ARGUMENT AND CONDUCT OF COUNSEL, 7, 257.

ARMY AND NAVY, see Military and Naval Law, 8, 981.

ARRAIGNMENT AND PLEAS, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 201.

ARREST AND BINDING OVER, 7, 265.

ARREST OF JUDGMENT, see New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 8, 1166.

ARREST ON CIVIL PROCESS, see Civil Arrest, 7, 653.

ARSON, 7, 271. See, also, Fires, 7, 1657.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY, 7, 274; with Special Article, Liability of Master For Assault by Servant, 5, 275.

ASSIGNABILITY OF LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES [Special Article], 4, 235.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS, see Appeal and Review, 7, 195; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 261.

ASSIGNMENTS, 7, 277.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS, 7, 286.

ASSISTANCE, WRIT OF, 7, 293.

ASSOCIATIONS AND SOCIETIES, 7, 294. See Special Article, By-Laws—Amendment as Affecting Existing Membership Contracts, 5, 496.

ASSUMPSIT, 7, 296.

ASSUMPTION OF OBLIGATIONS, see Novation, 8, 1179; Guaranty, 7, 1891; Frauds, Statute of, 7, 1829, also Mortgages, 8, 1037.

ASSUMPTION OF RISK, see Master and Servant, 8, 896.

ASYLUMS AND HOSPITALS, 7, 297.

ATTACHMENT, 7, 300.

ATTEMPTS, see Criminal Law, 7, 1011, and specific titles like Homicide, 8, 108; Rape, 8, 1668.

ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS, 7, 319.

ATTORNEYS FOR THE PUBLIC, see Attorneys and Counselors, 7, 345.

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS, 7, 347.

AUDITA QUERELA, see Judgments, 6, 259.

AUSTRALIAN BALLOTS, see Elections, 7, 1230.

AUTOMOBILES, see Highways and Streets, 8, 61.

AUTREFOIS ACQUIT, see Criminal Law, 7, 1010.

B.

BAGGAGE, see Carriers, 7, 600; Inns, Restaurants, etc., 8, 318.

BAIL, CIVIL, 7, 348.

BAIL, CRIMINAL, 7, 348.

BAILMENT, 7, 353.

BANK COLLECTIONS OF FORGED OR ALTERED PAPER [Special Article], 3, 428.

BANKING AND FINANCE, 7, 358; and see Special Article, 3, 428.

BANKRUPTCY, 7, 387.

BASTARDS, 7, 430.

BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATIONS, see Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 7, 1777, also Associations, etc., 7, 294; Corporations, 7, 862.

BENEFICIARIES, see Insurance, 8, 415; Trusts, 8, 2183; Wills, 8, 2305; Fraternal, etc,. Associations, 7, 1798.

BETTERMENTS, see Ejectment, etc., 7, 1221.

BETTING AND GAMING, 7, 434.

BIGAMY, 7, 442.

BILL OF DISCOVERY, see Discovery and Inspection, 7, 1167.

BILLS AND NOTES, see Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124; Banking and Finance, 7, 358.

BILLS IN EQUITY, see Equity, 7, 1354; and the titles treating of special relief such as Cancellation of Instruments, 7, 517; Injunction. 8, 279; Judgments, 8, 548; Quieting Title, 8, 1570.

BILLS OF LADING, see Carriers, 7, 533; Sales, 8, 1751; Negotiable Instruments, 8,. 1124.

BILLS OF SALE, see Sales, 8, 1751; Chattel Mortgages, 7, 634; Fraudulent Conveyances, 7, 1841.

BIRTH REGISTERS, see Census and Statistics, 7, 606; Evidence, 7, 1554.

BLACKMAIL, 7, 442.

BLENDED PROPERTIES, see Accession and Confusion of Property, 7, 9; Conversion as Tort, 7, 846; Conversion in Equity, 7, 854; Trusts, 8, 2169; Wills, 8, 2305.

BOARD OF HEALTH, see Health, 8, 38.

BOARDS, see Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1191, also see various titles like Counties, 7, 984, 998; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1060.

BODY EXECUTION, see Civil Arrest, 7, 654.

BONA FIDES, see Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1141; Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1169.

BONDS, 7, 443. See, also, Municipal Bonds, 8, 1046; Counties, 7, 992; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1076; States, 8, 1970.

"BOTTLE" AND "CAN" LAWS, see Commerce, 3, 717.

BOTTOMRY AND RESPONDENTIA, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1906.

BOUGHT AND SOLD NOTES, see Frauds, Statute of, 7, 1826; Brokers, 7, 465; Factors, 7, 1642.

BOUNDARIES, 7, 446.

BOUNTIES, 7, 456.

BOYCOTT, see Conspiracy, 7, 682; Injunction 8, 300; Threats, 6, 1697; Trade Unions, 8, 2142.

BRANDS, see Animals, 7, 126; Commerce, 3, 717; Forestry and Timber, 7, 1737; Trade Marks and Trade Names, 8, 2137.

BREACH OF MARRIAGE PROMISE, 7, 457.

BREACH OF THE PEACE, see Disorderly Conduct, 7, 1173; Surety of the Peace, 8, 2050.

BRIBERY, 7, 458.

BRIDGES, 7, 460.

BROKERS, 7, 465.

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS, 7, 480.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS, 7, 500.

BUILDINGS AND BUILDING RESTRICTIONS, 7, 507.

BULK SALES, see Fraudulent Conveyances, 7, 1844; Constitutional Law, 7, 691.

BURDEN OF PROOF, see Evidence, 7, 1515.

BURGLARY, 7, 512.

BURNT RECORDS, see Restoring Instruments and Records, 8, 1743.

BY-LAWS, see Associations and Societies, 7, 294; Corporations, 7, 911.

BY-LAWS—AMENDMENT AS AFFECTING EXISTING MEMBERSHIP CONTRACTS [Special Article], 5, 496.

C.

CALENDARS, see Dockets, etc., 7, 1192.

CANALS, 7, 616.

CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS, 7, 517.

CANVASS OF VOTES, see Elections, 7, 1247.

CAPIAS, see Civil Arrest, 7, 653; also (capias as a bench warrant), see Contempt, 7, 746; Witnesses, 8, 2347.

CAPITAL, see Corporations, 7, 892; Partnership, 8, 1269; Banking and Finance, 7, 358.

CARLISLE TABLES, see Damages, 7, 1076; Death by Wrongful Act, 7, 1086; Evidence, 7, 1570.

CARRIERS, 7, 522.

CARRYING WEAPONS, see Constitutional Law, 7, 745; Weapons, 8, 2302.

CAR TRUSTS, see Railroads, 8, 1590.

CASE, ACTION ON, 7, 603.

CASE AGREED, see Appeal and Review, 7, 173; Submission of Controversy, 8, 2040.

CASE CERTIFIED, see Appeal and Review, 7, 131, 151, 240.

CASE SETTLED, see Appeal and Review, 7, 173.

CASH, see Payment and Tender, 8, 1329.

CATCHING BARGAIN, see Assignments, 7, 277; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1483; Life Estates, Reversions and Remainders, 8, 764; Fraud and Undue Influence, 7, 1813.

CAUSES OF ACTION AND DEFENSES, 7, 603.

CEMETERIES, 7, 605.

CENSUS AND STATISTICS, 7, 606.

CERTIFICATE OF DOUBT, see Appeal and Review, 5, 146; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 253, 254.

CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT, see Banking and Finance, 7, 373; Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124.

CERTIORARI, 7, 606.

CHALLENGES, see Jury, 8, 629.

CHAMBERS AND VACATION, see Courts, 7, 1000; Judges, 8, 526.

CHAMPERTY AND MAINTENANCE, 7, 621.

CHANGE OF VENUE, see Venue, etc., 8, 2240-2244.

CHARACTER EVIDENCE, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 212; Witnesses, 8, 2375.

CHARITABLE AND CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTIONS, see Asylums and Hospitals, 7, 297. Compare 1 Curr. L. 507.

CHARITABLE GIFTS, 7, 624.

CHARTER PARTY, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1908.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES, 7, 634.

CHATTELS, see titles treating of various rights in personalty other than choses in action. Distinction between chattels and realty, see Property, 8, 1471.

CHEATS, see False Pretenses, etc., 7, 1648; Deceit, 7, 1093; Fraud, etc., 7, 1813, and the like.

CHECKS, see Banking, etc., 7, 373; Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124.

CHILDREN, see Parent and Child, 8, 1225; Infants, 8, 267; Descent and Distribution, 7, 1137; Wills, 8, 2305.

CHINESE, see Aliens, 7, 101-103.

CITATIONS, see Process, 8, 1449; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386; Appeal and Review, 7, 154.

CITIZENS, 7, 653.

CIVIL ARREST, 7, 653.

CIVIL DAMAGE ACTS, see Intoxicating Liquors, 8, 517.

CIVIL DEATH, see Convicts, 7, 857.

CIVIL RIGHTS, 7, 656.

CIVIL SERVICE, see Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1195.

CLEARING HOUSES, see Banking and Finance, 7, 358.

CLERKS OF COURT, 7, 656.

CLOUD ON TITLE, see Covenants for Title, 7, 1004; Quieting Title, 8, 1575; Vendors and Purchasers, 8, 2216.

CLUBS, see Associations and Societies, 7, 294.

CODICILS, see Wills, 8, 2305.

COGNOVIT, see Confession of Judgment, 7, 675.

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES, 7, 657.

COLLISION, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1914.

COLOR OF TITLE, see Adverse Possession, 7, 50.

COMBINATIONS AND MONOPOLIES, 7, 661.

COMMERCE, 7, 667.

COMMERCIAL PAPER, see Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124.

COMMITMENTS, see Arrest and Binding Over, 7, 270; Contempt, 7, 754; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 246; Fines, 7, 1656.

COMMON AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS, see Schools and Education, 8, 1851.

COMMON LAW, 7, 674.

COMMUNITY PROPERTY, see Husband and Wife, 8, 134.

COMPARATIVE NEGLIGENCE, see Negligence, 8, 1104.

COMPLAINT FOR ARREST, see Arrest and Binding Over, 7, 268.

COMPLAINTS IN PLEADING, see Pleading, 8, 1372.

COMPOSITION WITH CREDITORS, 7, 674.

COMPOUNDING OFFENSES, 7, 674.

COMPROMISE AND SETTLEMENT, see Accord and Satisfaction, 7, 10; Releases, 8, 1714; Discontinuance, Dismissal, and Nonsuit, 7, 1155.

CONCEALED WEAPONS, see Weapons, 8, 2302.

CONCEALING BIRTH OR DEATH. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 5, 608.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS, see Eminent Domain, 5, 1119, 1132.

CONDITIONAL SALES, see Chattel Mortgages, 7, 635; Fraudulent Conveyances, 7, 1841; Sales, 8, 1816.

CONFESSION AND AVOIDANCE, see Pleading, 8, 1384.

CONFESSION OF JUDGMENT, 7, 675.

CONFESSIONS, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 213.

CONFISCATION, see Constitutional Law (due process), 7, 724; Fish and Game Laws, 7, 1662.

CONFLICT OF LAWS, 7, 677.

CONFUSION OF GOODS, see Accession and Confusion of Property, 7, 9.

CONNECTING CARRIERS, see Carriers, 7, 529; Railroads, 8, 1590.

CONSIDERATION, see Contracts, 7, 771.

CONSOLIDATION (of actions), see Trial, 8, 2161; (of corporations), see Corporations, 7, 888.

CONSPIRACY, 7, 681.

CONSTABLES, see Sheriffs and Constables, 8, 1897.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 7, 691.

CONSULS, see Ambassadors and Consuls, 8, 113.

CONTEMPT, 7, 746.

CONTINUANCE AND POSTPONEMENT, 7, 757.

CONTRACT LABOR LAW, see Aliens, 7, 101.

CONTRACTS, 7, 761; and see Special Article, 3, 861.

CONTRACTS OF AFFREIGHTMENT, see Carriers, 7, 533; Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1908.

CONTRACTS OF HIRE, see Bailment, 7, 353.

CONTRACTS VOID BECAUSE INTERFERING WITH THE PUBLIC SERVICE [Special Article], 3, 861.

CONTRIBUTION, 7, 844.

CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE, see Negligence, 8, 1101.

CONVERSION AS TORT, 7, 846.

CONVERSION IN EQUITY, 7, 854.

CONVICTS, 7, 857.

COPYRIGHTS, 7, 859.

CORAM NOBIS AND CORAM VOBIS, see Appeal and Review, 7, 131. The various statutory substitutes for the remedy by writ Coram Nobis are usually considered as part of the law of judgments. See Judgments, 8, 554.

CORONERS, 7, 860.

CORPORATIONS, 7, 862.

CORPSES AND BURIAL, 7, 953.

CORPUS DELICTI, see Criminal Law, 7, 1010; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 219.

CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 219; Witnesses, 8, 2382; Trial (exclusion of cumulative evidence), 8, 2166; Divorce, 7, 1183; Seduction, 8, 1872; Rape, 8, 1674.

COSTS, 7, 956; and see Special Article, 3, 954.

COSTS IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS [Special Article], 3, 954.

COUNTERFEITING, 7, 976.

COUNTIES, 7, 976.

COUNTS AND PARAGRAPHS, see Pleading, 8, 1372.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OR SUPERVISORS, see Counties, 7, 979; Highways and Streets, 8, 58; Towns; Townships, 8, 2130.

COUNTY SEAT, see Counties, 7, 978.

COUPLING CARS, see Master and Servant (injuries to servants), 8, 876; Railroads (statutory regulations), 8, 1590.

COUPONS, see Bonds, 7, 443; Municipal Bonds, 8, 1046, and titles relating to public or private corporations which customarily issue bonds (interest coupons); Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124; Carriers (coupon tickets), 7, 563; Corporations, 7, 862.

COURT COMMISSIONERS, see Courts, 7, 999; Judges, 8, 522.

COURTS, 7, 999.

COVENANT, ACTION OF. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol 7. See 5, 876.

COVENANTS, see titles relating to instruments, wherein covenants are embodied, e. g., Contracts, 7, 761; Deeds of Conveyance, 7, 1113; Landlord and Tenant (leases), 8, 662; Vendors and Purchasers (land contracts), 8, 2224; see Buildings, etc. (covenants restrictive), 7, 509.

COVENANTS FOR TITLE, 7, 1004.

COVERTURE, see Husband and Wife, 8, 122.

CREDIT INSURANCE, see Indemnity, 8, 173; Insurance, 8, 377.

CREDITORS' SUIT, 7, 1007.

CRIMINAL CONVERSATION, see Husband and Wife (civil liability), 8, 148; Adultery (crime), 7, 39; Divorce (ground), 7, 1177.

CRIMINAL LAW, 7, 1010.

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 189.

CROPS, see Agriculture, 7, 95; Emblements and Natural Products, 7, 1275; Landlord and Tenant (renting for crops), 8, 684; Chattel Mortgages (mortgages on crops), 7, 636.

CROSS BILLS AND COMPLAINTS, see Equity, 7, 1359; Pleading, 8, 1391.

CROSSINGS, see Highways and Streets, 8, 40; Railroads, 8, 1590.

CRUEL AND UNUSUAL PUNISHMENTS, see Constitutional Law, 7, 736; Criminal Law, 7, 1015.

CRUELTY, see Animals, 5, 120; Divorce, 7, 1179; Infants, 8, 272; Parent and Child, 8, 1225.

CUMULATIVE EVIDENCE, see Trial (reception and exclusion of evidence), 8, 2164; New Trial, etc. (newly-discovered cumulative evidence), 8, 1160.

CUMULATIVE PUNISHMENTS, see Criminal Law, 7, 1015.

CUMULATIVE VOTES, see Corporations, 7, 912.

CURATIVE ACTS, see Statutes, 8, 1996.

CURTESY, 7, 1016.

CUSTOMS AND USAGES, 7, 1016.

CUSTOMS LAWS, 7, 1019.

D.

DAMAGES, 7, 1029. See Special Article, Mental Suffering, 6, 629.

DAMNUM ABSQUE INJURIA, see Causes of Action, etc., 7, 603; Torts, 8, 2125; compare Negligence, 8, 1090.

DAMS, see Navigable Waters, 8, 1083; Riparian Owners 8, 1744; Waters and Water Supply 8, 2276.

DATE, see titles treating of the various instruments as to the necessity and effect of a date; see Time, 8, 2123, as to computation.

DAYS, see Holidays, 8, 92; Sunday, 8, 2045; Time, 8, 2123.

DEAD BODIES, see Corpses and Burial, 7, 953.

DEAF MUTES. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 5, 944.

DEATH AND SURVIVORSHIP, 7, 1082.

DEATH BY WRONGFUL ACT, 7, 1083.

DEATH CERTIFICATES, see Census and Statistics, 7, 606; Fraternal, etc., Associations, 7, 1803; Insurance, 8, 377.

DEBENTURES, see Corporations, 7, 862; Railroads, 8, 1612.

DEBT, see titles descriptive of the various instruments and agreements predicated on debt or evidencing debt (Accounts Stated, etc., 7, 22; Contracts, 7, 761; Bonds, 7, 443; Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124; Chattel Mortgages, 7, 634; Mortgages, 8, 1022; Implied Contracts, 8, 155, and the like), also titles relating to proceedings for liquidation of affairs of persons or corporations (Bankruptcy, 7, 387; Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, 7, 286; Corporations, 7, 862; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1422; Partnership, 8, 1261, and the like), titles relating to transfer or discharge of debt (Assignments, 7, 277; Accord and Satisfaction, 7, 10; Novation, 8, 1179; Releases, 8, 1714, and titles relating to specific kinds of debt or security), also titles descriptive of remedies for collection of debts (Assumpsit, 7, 296; Creditors' Suit, 7, 1007; Forms of Action, 7, 1769, and code remedies as applied in substantive titles already enumerated), also titles relating to corporations or associated persons, or to classes of persons not sui juris (Associations, etc., 7, 294; Partnership, 8, 1261; Corporations, 7, 862; Infants, 8, 274; Husband and Wife, 8, 122; Insane Persons, 8, 325; Guardianship, 7, 1899; Trusts, 8, 2169, and the like).

DEBT, ACTION OF, 7, 1092.

DEBTS OF DECEDENTS, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1422.

DECEIT, 7, 1093. See Special Article, 1, 873.

DECLARATIONS, see Evidence, 7, 1558-1567; Pleading, 8, 1372.

DECOY LETTERS, see Postal Law, 8, 1441.

DEDICATION, 7, 1098.

DEEDS OF CONVEYANCE, 7, 1103.

DEFAULTS, 7, 1122.

DEFINITE PLEADING, see Pleading, 8, 1355; Equity, 7, 1354.

DEL CREDERE AGENCY, see Agency, 7, 90; Factors, 7, 1642.

DEMAND, see titles treating of particular rights or remedies of which demand may be an element. Compare Payment and Tender, 8, 1329; Payment into Court, 8, 1337.

DEMURRAGE, see Carriers, 7, 552; Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1933.

DEMURRERS, see Pleading, 8, 1386; Equity, 7, 1361.

DEMURRER TO EVIDENCE, see Directing Verdict, etc., 7, 1154.

DENTISTS, see Medicine and Surgery, 8, 972.

DEPARTURE, see Pleading, 8, 1355.

DEPOSITIONS, 7, 1129.

DEPOSITS, see Warehousing and Deposits, 8, 2258; Banking, etc., 7, 371-380; Payment into Court, 8, 1337.

DEPUTY, see Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1211, also titles relating to particular offices as Sheriffs, etc., 8, 1899.

DESCENT AND DISTRIBUTION, 7, 1137.

DETECTIVES, see Municipal Corporations (police organizations), 8, 1060; Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1191; Licenses (private detectives), 8, 734, and as to their credibility as witnesses, see Witnesses, 8, 2368; Divorce, 7, 1183.

DETERMINATION OF CONFLICTING CLAIMS TO REALTY, see Quieting Title, 8, 1570.

DETINUE, 7, 1145.

DEVIATION, see Carriers, 7, 522; Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1903.

DILATORY PLEAS, see Abatement and Revival, 7, 1; Pleading, 8, 1355.

DIRECTING VERDICT AND DEMURRER TO EVIDENCE, 7, 1146.

DISCLAIMERS, see Causes of Action and Defenses, 7, 603; Costs, 7, 956; Pleading, 8, 1355.

DISCONTINUANCE, DISMISSAL AND NONSUIT, 7, 1155.

DISCOVERY AND INSPECTION, 7, 1167.

DISCRETION, see articles treating of procedure or relief resting in discretion. Review or control of discretion, see Appeal and Review, 7, 225; Mandamus, 8, 810; Prohibition, Writ of, 8, 1467; Certiorari, 7, 606.

DISFRANCHISEMENT, see Elections, 7, 1230.

DISMISSAL AND NONSUIT, see Discontinuance, etc., 7, 1155.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT, 7, 1173.

DISORDERLY HOUSES, 7, 1174.

DISSOLUTION, see Corporations, 7, 885; Partnership, 8, 1276.

DISTRESS, see Landlord and Tenant, 8, 692.

DISTRICT ATTORNEYS, see Attorneys and Counselors, 7, 346.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, see Territories and Federal Possessions, 8, 2122.

DISTURBANCE OF PUBLIC ASSEMBLAGES, 7, 1175.

DITCHES, see Sewers and Drains, 8, 1882; Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2285; Ditch and Canal Rights [Special Article], 3, 1112.

DIVIDENDS, see Corporations, 7, 898; Bankruptcy, 5, 399; Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, 7, 291; Insolvency, 8, 329.

DIVISION OF OPINION, see Appeal and Review, 7, 239; Judgments, 8, 536; Stare Decisis, 8, 1965.

DIVORCE, 7, 1175.

DOCKETS, CALENDARS AND TRIAL LISTS, 7, 1192.

DOCUMENTS IN EVIDENCE, see Evidence, 7, 1567; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 217.

DOMICILE, 7, 1194.

DOWER, 7, 1197.

DRAINS, see Sewers and Drains, 8, 1882; Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2274; Public Works, etc., 8, 1506.

DRUGS; DRUGGISTS, see Medicine and Surgery, 8, 980; Poisons, 8, 1440.

DRUNKENNESS, see Intoxicating Liquors, 6, 208; Habitual Drunkards, 7, 1919; Incompetency, 8, 169.

DUELING. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 3, 1147.

DUE PROCESS, see Constitutional Law, 7, 724.

DUPLICITY, see Pleading, 8, 1355.

DURESS, 7, 1201.

DYING DECLARATIONS, see Homicide, 8, 115.

E.

EASEMENTS, 7, 1203.

EAVESDROPPING, see Disorderly Conduct, 7, 1174.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW, see Religious Societies, 8, 1718.

EIGHT-HOUR LAWS, see Master and Servant, 8, 845; Constitutional Law, 7, 710; Public Works, etc., 8, 1532; Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1211.

EJECTMENT (and Writ of Entry), 7, 1212.

ELECTION AND WAIVER, 7, 1222.

ELECTIONS, 7, 1230.

ELECTRICITY, 7, 1258.

ELEVATORS, see Buildings, etc., 7, 511; Carriers, 7, 523; Warehousing and Deposits, 8, 2258.

EMBEZZLEMENT, 7, 1267.

EMBLEMENTS AND NATURAL PRODUCTS, 7, 1275.

EMBRACERY. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 5, 1097.

EMINENT DOMAIN, 7, 1276; see Special Article, 3, 1112.

EMPLOYER'S LIABILITY, see Master and Servant, 8, 849.

ENTRY, WRIT OF, see Ejectment, etc., 7, 1212.

EQUITABLE ASSIGNMENTS, see Assignments, 7, 281.

EQUITABLE ATTACHMENT, see Attachment, 7, 300.

EQUITABLE DEFENSES, see Equity, 7, 1323.

EQUITY, 7, 1323.

ERROR CORAM NOBIS, see Judgments, 8, 554.

ERROR, WRIT OF, see Appeal and Review, 7, 128.

ESCAPE AND RESCUE, 7, 1383.

ESCHEAT, 7, 1384.

ESCROWS, 7, 1384.

ESTATES OF DECEDENTS, 7, 1386.

ESTATES TAIL, see Real Property, 8, 1678.

ESTOPPEL, 7, 1489.

EVIDENCE, 7, 1511.

EXAMINATION BEFORE TRIAL, see Discovery and Inspection, 7, 1170.

EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES, 7, 1598.

EXCEPTIONS AND OBJECTIONS, see Saving Questions for Review, 8, 1822; Equity, 7, 1368; Masters and Commissioners, 8, 953; Reference, 8, 1706.

EXCEPTIONS, BILL OF, see Appeal and Review, 7, 167.

EXCHANGE OF PROPERTY, 7, 1612.

EXCHANGES AND BOARDS OF TRADE, 7, 1613.

EXECUTIONS, 7, 1614. See, also, Civil Arrest, 7, 653.

EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386.

EXEMPLARY DAMAGES, see Damages, 7, 1032.

EXEMPTIONS, 7, 1631. See, also, Homesteads, 8, 93.

EXHIBITIONS AND SHOWS, 7, 1636.

EXHIBITS, see Pleading, 8, 1367; Equity, 7, 1323; Trial (reception of evidence), 8, 2164; Appeal and Review (inclusion in record), 7, 162.

EXONERATION, see Guaranty, 7, 1891; Suretyship, 8, 2052; Indemnity, 8, 173; Marshaling Assets, etc., 8, 838; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1433.

EXPERIMENTS, see Evidence, 7, 1592.

EXPERT EVIDENCE, see Evidence, 7, 1577.

EXPLOSIVES AND INFLAMMABLES, 7, 1637.

EX POST FACTO LAWS, see Constitutional Law, 7, 736; Criminal Law, 7, 1011.

EXPRESS COMPANIES, see Carriers, 7, 522; Railroads, 8, 1590; Corporations, 7, 862.

EXTORTION, 7, 1639. See, also, Blackmail, 7, 442; Threats, 6, 1697.

EXTRADITION, 7, 1639.

F.

FACTORS, 7, 1642.

FACTORS' ACTS, see Factors, 7, 1642; Pledges, 8, 1431; Sales, 8, 1751.

FALSE IMPRISONMENT, 7, 1643.

FALSE PERSONATION. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 5, 1415.

FALSE PRETENSES AND CHEATS, 7, 1646.

FALSE REPRESENTATIONS, see Deceit, 7, 1094, 1095; Fraud and Undue Influence, 7, 1813; Estoppel, 7, 1492; Sales (warranties), 8, 1774; Insurance (warranties), 8, 402, 427, and all contract titles.

FALSE SWEARING, see Perjury, 8, 1344.

FALSIFYING RECORDS, see Records and Files, 8, 1702.

FAMILY SETTLEMENTS, see Estates of Decedents, 5, 1281.

FEDERAL PROCEDURE, see Admiralty, 7, 30; Appeal and Review, 7, 128; Courts, 7, 999; Equity, 7, 1323; Jurisdiction, 8, 579; Removal of Causes, 8, 1722. Consult the particular titles treating of that matter of procedure under investigation.

FELLOW-SERVANTS, see Master and Servant, 8, 884.

FENCES, 7, 1654. See, also, Adjoining Owners, 7, 28.

FERRIES, 7, 1655.

FIDELITY INSURANCE, see Insurance, 8, 377; Indemnity, 8, 173.

FILINGS, see Pleading, 8, 1420; Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1174; Records and Files, 8, 1697, and titles treating of matters in respect of which papers are or may be filed.

FINAL JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS, see Appeal and Review, 7, 137.

FINDING LOST GOODS, see Property, 8, 1473.

FINDINGS, see Verdicts and Findings, 8, 2249.

FINES, 7, 1656.

FIRES, 7, 1657.

FISH AND GAME LAWS, 7, 1659.

FIXTURES, 7, 1664.

FIXTURES AS BETWEEN LANDLORD AND TENANT [Special Article], 6, 388.

FOLIOING PAPERS, see Motions and Orders, 8, 1043; Pleading, 8, 1355.

FOOD, 7, 1670.

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND UNLAWFUL DETAINER, 7, 1671.

FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGES ON LAND, 7, 1678.

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS, 7, 1725.

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS TO DO BUSINESS OUTSIDE OF DOMICILE [Special Article], 3, 1459.

FOREIGN JUDGMENTS, 7, 1734.

FOREIGN LAWS, see Conflict of Laws, 7, 680; Evidence, 7, 1511.

FORESTRY AND TIMBER, 7, 1737.

FORFEITURES, see Penalties and Forfeitures, 8, 1340.

FORGERY, 7, 1744.

FORMER ADJUDICATION, 7, 1750.

FORMER CONVICTION OR ACQUITTAL, see Criminal Law, 7, 1013.

FORMER DETERMINATION OF TITLE IN DISTRIBUTION DECREES [Special Article], 3, 1489.

FORMS OF ACTION, 7, 1769.

FORNICATION. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 7. See 5, 1518.

FORTHCOMING AND DELIVERY BONDS, see Attachment, 7, 308; Executions, 7, 1621; Replevin, 8, 1736.

FORWARDERS, see Carriers, 7, 536.

FRANCHISES, 7, 1771.

FRATERNAL MUTUAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATIONS, 7, 1777. See Special Article, By-Laws—Amendment as Affecting Existing Membership Contracts, 5, 496.

FRAUD AND UNDUE INFLUENCE, 7, 1813.

FRAUDS, STATUTE OF, 7, 1826.

FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES, 7, 1841.

FREEMASONS, see Associations and Societies, 7, 294; Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 7, 1777.

FRIENDLY SUITS, see Causes of Action, etc., 7, 603; Pleading, 8, 1355; Appeal and Review, 7, 130.

FRIEND OF THE COURT, see Amicus Curiae, 5, 113.

FUNDS AND DEPOSITS IN COURT, see Payment into Court, 8, 1337.

FUTURE ESTATES, see Life Estates, etc., 8, 762.

G.

GAMBLING CONTRACTS, 7, 1858.

GAME AND GAME LAWS, see Fish and Game Laws, 7, 1659.

GAMING, see Betting and Gaming, 7, 434; Gambling Contracts, 7, 1858.

GAMING HOUSES, see Betting and Gaming, 7, 435; Disorderly Houses, 7, 1174.

GARNISHMENT, 7, 1862.

GAS, 7, 1875.

GENERAL AVERAGE, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1940.

GENERAL ISSUE, see Pleading, 8, 1421.

GIFTS, 7, 1878.

GOOD WILL, 7, 1882.

GOVERNOR, see States, 8, 1971; Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1191.

GRAND JURY, 7, 1884.

GROUND RENTS, see Landlord and Tenant, 8, 684.

GUARANTY, 7, 1891.

GUARDIANS AD LITEM AND NEXT FRIENDS, 7, 1896.

GUARDIANSHIP, 7, 1899.

H.

HABEAS CORPUS (AND REPLEGIANDO), 7, 1916.

HABITUAL DRUNKARDS, 7, 1919.

HABITUAL OFFENDERS. No cases have been found during the period covered.

HANDWRITING, PROOF OF, see Evidence, 7, 1570.

HARBOR MASTERS, see Navigable Waters, 8, 1083; Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1903.

HARMLESS AND PREJUDICIAL ERROR, 8, 1.

HAWKERS AND PEDDLERS, see Peddling, 8, 1338.

HEALTH, 8, 36.

HEARING, see Appeal and Review, 7, 216; Equity, 7, 1376; Motions and Orders, 8, 1043; Trial, 8, 2161.

HEARSAY, see Evidence, 7, 1548; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 212.

HEIRS, DEVISES, NEXT OF KIN AND LEGATEES, see Descent and Distribution, 7, 1137; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386; Wills, 8, 2305.

HERD LAWS, see Animals, 7, 124.

HIGHWAYS AND STREETS, 8, 40.

HOLIDAYS, 8, 92.

HOMESTEADS, 8, 93.

HOMICIDE, 8, 106.

HORSE RACING, see Betting and Gaming, 7, 436.

HORSES, see Animals, 7, 120; Sales (warranty), 8, 1774.

HOSPITALS, see Asylums and Hospitals, 7, 297.

HOUSES OF REFUGE AND REFORMATORIES, see Charitable, etc., Institutions, 1, 507.

HUSBAND AND WIFE, 8, 122.

I.

ICE, see Riparian Owners, 8, 1744; Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2271.

ILLEGAL CONTRACTS, see Implied Contracts, 8, 155; Contracts, 7, 778.

IMMIGRATION, see Aliens, 7, 101; Domicile, 7, 1194.

IMPAIRING OBLIGATION OF CONTRACT, see Constitutional Law, 7, 718.

IMPEACHMENT, see Officers, etc., 8, 1203; Witnesses, 8, 2368; Examination of Witnesses, 7, 1600; Evidence, 7, 1598.

IMPLIED CONTRACTS, 8, 155.

IMPLIED TRUSTS, see Trusts, 8, 2177.

IMPLIED WARRANTIES, see Sales, 8, 1775.

IMPOUNDING, see Animals, 7, 124.

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT, see Civil Arrest, 7, 653; Constitutional Law, 7, 711.

IMPROVEMENTS, see Accession and Confusion of Property, 7, 10; Ejectment, etc., 7, 1221; Implied Contracts, 8, 159; Landlord and Tenant, 8, 670; Partition, 8, 1246; Public Works and Improvements, 8, 1506; Trespass (to try title), 8, 2157; Cancellation of Instruments (relief obtainable), 7, 517.

INCEST, 8, 167.

INCOMPETENCY, 8, 169.

INDECENCY, LEWDNESS AND OBSCENITY, 8, 171.

INDEMNITY, 8, 173.

INDEPENDENT CONTRACTORS, 8, 176.

INDEPENDENT CONTRACTORS UNDER EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY ACTS [Special Article], 3, 1704.

INDIANS, 8, 179.

INDICTMENT AND PROSECUTION, 8, 189.

INDORSING PAPERS, see Motions and Orders, 8, 1043; Pleading, 8, 1355.

INFAMOUS CRIMES, see Criminal Law, 7, 1011, 1015; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 192; Witnesses, 8, 2350, 2376.

INFANTS, 8, 267.

INFORMATIONS, see Indictment and Prosecution (accusation of crime), 8, 192; Quo Warranto, 8, 1582.

INFORMERS, see Penalties and Forfeitures, 8, 1339.

INJUNCTION, 8, 279.

INNS, RESTAURANTS, AND LODGING HOUSES, 8, 317.

INQUEST OF DAMAGES, see Damages, 7, 1081; Defaults, 7, 1128; Equity, 7, 1323; Judgments, 8, 530; Trial, 8, 2161.

INQUEST OF DEATH. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 8. See 6, 33.

INSANE PERSONS, 8, 319.

INSOLVENCY, 8, 329.

INSPECTION, see Discovery and Inspection, 7, 1168.

INSPECTION LAWS, 8, 332.

INSTRUCTIONS, 8, 333, see Special Article, Additional Instructions after Retirement, 4, 1718.

INSURANCE, 8, 377; see Special Articles, Proximate Cause In Accident Insurance, 4, 232; Assignability of Life Insurance Policies, 4, 235.

INTEREST, 8, 472.

INTERNAL REVENUE LAWS, 8, 478.

INTERNATIONAL LAW. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 8. See 6, 163.

INTERPLEADER, 8, 483.

INTERPRETATION, see titles treating of the various writings of which an interpretation is sought, as Contracts, 7, 791.

INTERPRETERS, see Examination of Witnesses, 7, 1600.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE, see Commerce, 7, 667. Compare Carriers, 7, 522.

INTERVENTION, see Parties, 8, 1243.

INTOXICATING LIQUORS, 8, 486.

INTOXICATION, see Incompetency, 8, 169; Intoxicating Liquors, 6, 208.

INVENTIONS, see Patents, 8, 1285.

INVESTMENTS, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1406; Trusts, 8, 2190; also as to investment institutions, see Banking and Finance, 7, 372.

IRRIGATION, see Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2278, 2289; Riparian Owners, 8, 1744; also see Special Article, 3, 1112.

ISLANDS, see Boundaries, 7, 453; Navigable Waters, 8, 1083; Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2262; Riparian Owners, 8, 1744.

ISSUE, see Wills (interpretation), 8, 2326.

ISSUES TO JURY, see Equity, 7, 1323; Jury, 8, 617.

J.

JEOFAIL, see Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 8, 1; Pleading, 8, 1413, and like titles.

JEOPARDY, see Criminal Law, 7, 1013; Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 201.

JETTISON, see Shipping, etc., 8, 1903.

JOINDER OF CAUSES, see Pleading, 8, 1375.

JOINT ADVENTURES, 8, 520.

JOINT EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386; Trusts, 8, 2169.

JOINT LIABILITIES OR AGREEMENTS, see Contracts, 7, 761, and like titles; Torts, 8, 2125.

JOINT STOCK COMPANIES, 8, 521.

JOINT TENANCY, see Tenants in Common and Joint Tenants, 8, 2114.

JUDGES, 8, 522.

JUDGMENT NOTES, see Confession of Judgment, 7, 676.

JUDGMENTS, 8, 530.

JUDICIAL NOTICE, see Evidence, 7, 1512; Pleading, 8, 1355.

JUDICIAL SALES, 8, 574.

JURISDICTION, 8, 579.

JURY, 8, 617.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE, 8, 635.

JUSTIFICATION, EXCUSE, AND MITIGATION OF LIBEL AND SLANDER [Special Article], 6, 430.

K.

KIDNAPPING, 8, 656.

L.

LABELS, see Commerce (unlabeled goods), 7, 667; Food (unlabeled food products), 7, 1670; Trade Marks and Trade Names, 8, 2137.

LABOR UNIONS, see Trade Unions, 8, 2142; Associations and Societies, 7, 294; Conspiracy (boycotting), 7, 682; Injunction, 8, 300.

LACHES, see Equity, 7, 1347.

LAKES AND PONDS, see Navigable Waters, 8, 1083; Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2270.

LANDLORD AND TENANT, 8, 656. See Special Article, Fixtures of Tenants, 6, 388.

LAND PATENTS, see Public Lands, 8, 1486.

LARCENY, 8, 699.

LASCIVIOUSNESS, see Indecency, Lewdness and Obscenity, 8, 172.

LATERAL RAILROADS, see Eminent Domain, 7, 1276; Railroads, 8, 1590.

LATERAL SUPPORT, see Adjoining Owners, 7, 29.

LAW OF THE CASE, see Appeal and Review, 7, 235, 245.

LAW OF THE ROAD, see Highways and Streets, 5, 1668.

LEASES, see Landlord and Tenant, 8, 656; Bailment (hiring of chattels), 7, 353; Sales (conditional sale and lease), 8, 1816.

LEGACIES AND DEVISES, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1466, 1483; Wills, 8, 2305 et seq.

LEGAL CONCLUSIONS, see Pleading, 8, 1355.

LEGATEES, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1466, 1483; Wills, 8, 2305.

LETTERS, see Postal Law, 8, 1441; Evidence (letters as evidence), 7, 1567; Contracts (letters as offer and acceptance), 7, 766.

LETTERS OF CREDIT, see Banking and Finance, 3, 418; Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124.

LEVEES, see Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2275; Navigable Waters, 8, 1083.

LEWDNESS, see Indecency, Lewdness and Obscenity, 8, 171.

LIABILITY OF MASTER FOR ASSAULT BY SERVANT [Special Article], 5, 275.

LIBEL AND SLANDER, 8, 713. See Special Article, Justification, 6, 430.

LIBRARIES, see Schools and Education, 8, 1869; Charitable Gifts, 7, 624.

LICENSES, 8, 734.

LICENSES TO ENTER ON LAND, 8, 753.

LIENS, 8, 755. Particular kinds of liens usually accorded a separate treatment are excluded to topics like Chattel Mortgages, 7, 644; Judgments, 8, 566; Mortgages, 8, 1035; Taxes, 8, 2078.

LIFE ESTATES, REVERSIONS AND REMAINDERS, 8, 762.

LIFE INSURANCE, see Fraternal Mutual Benefit Ass'ns, 7, 1777; Insurance, 8, 377.

LIGHT AND AIR, see Adjoining Owners, 7, 28; Easements, 7, 1203; Injunction, 8, 296; Nuisance, 8, 1180.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS, 8, 768.

LIMITED PARTNERSHIP, see Partnership, 8, 1284; Joint Stock Companies, 8, 521.

LIQUIDATED DAMAGES, see Damages, 7, 1031; Penalties and Forfeitures, 8, 1339.

LIS PENDENS, 8, 791.

LITERARY PROPERTY, see Property, 8, 1472; Copyrights, 7, 859.

LIVERY STABLE KEEPERS, see Animals, 7, 120; Bailment, 7, 353; compare Health, 8, 36; Licenses, 8, 734; Nuisance, 8, 1180.

LIVE STOCK INSURANCE, see Insurance, 8, 377.

LLOYD'S, see Insurance, 8, 377.

LOAN AND TRUST COMPANIES, see Banking and Finance, 7, 372; Corporations, 7, 862.

LOANS, see Bailment, 7, 353; Banking and Finance, 7, 381; Implied Contracts, 8, 159; Mortgages, 8, 1022; Usury, 8, 2211.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS AND ASSESSMENTS, see Public Works and Improvements, 8, 1535.

LOCAL OPTION, see Intoxicating Liquors, 8, 488.

LOGS AND LOGGING, see Forestry and Timber, 7, 1739.

LOST INSTRUMENTS, see Restoring Instruments and Records, 8, 1742.

LOST PROPERTY, see Property, 8, 1473.

LOTTERIES, 8, 795.

M.

MAIMING; MAYHEM, 8, 796.

MALICE, see Criminal Law, 7, 1010; Homicide, 8, 106; Torts, 8, 2125.

MALICIOUS ABUSE OF PROCESS, see Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 8, 797.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF, 8, 796.

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION AND ABUSE OF PROCESS, 8, 797, supplementing special article, 4, 470.

MANDAMUS, 8, 810.

MANDATE, see Bailment, 7, 353; Appeal and Review, 7, 245.

MARINE INSURANCE, see 2, 792, and topic Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1940.

MARITIME LIENS, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1906.

MARKETS, see Municipal Corporations, 8, 1068.

MARKS, see Animals, 7, 126; Commerce, 7, 667; Food, 7, 1670; Forestry and Timber, 7, 1737; Trade Marks and Trade Names, 8, 2137.

MARRIAGE, 8, 833.

MARRIAGE SETTLEMENTS, see Husband and Wife, 8, 122.

MARSHALING ASSETS AND SECURITIES, 8, 838.

MARSHALING ESTATE, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386.

MARTIAL LAW [Special Article], 2, 800. Cf. 4, 640.

MASTER AND SERVANT, 8, 840. See Special Article, Liability of Master For Assault by Servant, 5, 275.

MASTERS AND COMMISSIONERS, 8, 951.

MASTERS OF VESSELS, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1904.

MECHANICS' LIENS, 8, 954.

MEDICINE AND SURGERY, 8, 972.

MENTAL SUFFERING AS AN ELEMENT OF DAMAGES [Special Article], 6, 629.

MENTAL SUFFERING AS AN ELEMENT OF DAMAGES IN TELEGRAPH CASES, 6, 1678.

MERCANTILE AGENCIES, 8, 981.

MERGER IN JUDGMENT, see Former Adjudication, 7, 1750.

MERGER OF CONTRACTS, see Contracts, 7, 808.

MERGER OF ESTATES, see Real Property, 8, 1679.

MILITARY AND NAVAL LAW, 8, 981.

MILITIA, see Military and Naval Law, 6, 642.

MILLS, 8, 985.

MINES AND MINERALS, 8, 985.

MINISTERS OF STATE, see Ambassadors and Consuls, 5, 113.

MINUTES, see Judgments, 8, 538.

MISJOINDER, see Parties, 8, 1246; Pleading, 8, 1355; Equity, 7, 1352, 1355.

MISTAKE AND ACCIDENT, 8, 1020.

MISTRIAL, see Discontinuance, Dismissal and Nonsuit, 7, 1155; New Trial and Arrest of Judgment, 8, 1153.

MONEY COUNTS, see Assumpsit, 7, 296.

MONEY LENT, see Implied Contracts, 8, 159; Assumpsit, 7, 296.

MONEY PAID, see Implied Contracts, 8, 159; Assumpsit, 7, 299.

MONEY RECEIVED, see Implied Contracts, 8, 159; Assumpsit, 7, 297.

MONOPOLIES, see Combinations and Monopolies, 7, 663, 667.

MORTALITY TABLES, see Damages, 7, 1076; Evidence, 7, 1570.

MORTGAGES, 8, 1022.

MOTIONS AND ORDERS, 8, 1043.

MULTIFARIOUSNESS, see Equity, 7, 1355.

MULTIPLICITY, see Equity, 7, 1336.

MUNICIPAL AIDS AND RELIEFS, see Municipal Bonds, 8, 1046; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1076; Railroads, 8, 1599.

MUNICIPAL BONDS, 8, 1046. See Special Article, Recitals of Law in Municpal Bonds, 4, 717.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 8, 1056.

MUNICIPAL COURTS, see Courts, 7, 999; Judgments, 8, 530; Jurisdiction, 8, 579.

MURDER, see Homicide, 8, 106.

MUTUAL ACCOUNTS, see Accounting, Action for, 7, 19; Accounts Stated, etc., 7, 22.

MUTUAL INSURANCE, see Fraternal Mutual Benefit Ass'ns, 7, 1777; Insurance, 8, 377.

N.

NAMES, SIGNATURES, AND SEALS, 8, 1082.

NATIONAL BANKS, see Banking and Finance, 7, 365.

NATURAL GAS, see Gas, 7, 1875; Mines and Minerals, 8, 985.

NATURALIZATION, see Aliens, 7, 103.

NAVIGABLE WATERS, 8, 1083.

NE EXEAT, 8, 1090.

NEGLIGENCE, 8, 1090.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS, 8, 1124.

NEUTRALITY, see War, 8, 2257.

NEW PROMISE, see Limitation of Actions, 8, 786; Bankruptcy, 7, 426.

NEWSPAPERS, 8, 1151.

NEW TRIAL AND ARREST OF JUDGMENT, 8, 1153.

NEXT FRIENDS, see Guardians ad Litem and Next Friends, 7, 1896.

NEXT OF KIN, see Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386; Wills, 8, 2330.

NON-NEGOTIABLE PAPER, 8, 1167.

NONRESIDENCE, see Absentees, 7, 9; Aliens, 7, 98; Citizens, 7, 653; Domicile, 7, 1194; Attachment, 7, 301; Process, 8, 1449.

NOTARIES AND COMMISSIONERS OF DEEDS, 8, 1168.

NOTES OF ISSUE, see Dockets, Calendars and Trial Lists, 7, 1192.

NOTICE, see Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1169, and like titles treating of the subject-matter in respect to which notice is imputed.

NOTICE AND RECORD OF TITLE, 8, 1169.

NOTICE OF CLAIM OR DEMAND, see Causes of Action, etc., 7, 603; Highways and Streets, 8, 84; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1080; Master and Servant, 8, 854; Negligence, 8, 1090; Railroads, 8, 1590; Carriers, 7, 546, 587.

NOTICES, see titles treating of the subject-matter whereof notices are required. Compare Process, 8, 1449.

NOVATION, 8, 1179.

NUISANCE, 8, 1180.

O.

OATHS, 8, 1191.

OBSCENITY, see Indecency, Lewdness and Obscenity, 8, 172.

OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE, 8, 1191.

OCCUPATION TAXES, see Licenses, 8, 734; Taxes, 8, 2095.

OFFER AND ACCEPTANCE, see Contracts, 7, 766.

OFFER OF JUDGMENT, see Confession of Judgment, 7, 675; Judgments, 6, 215.

OFFICERS AND PUBLIC EMPLOYES, 8, 1191.

OFFICERS OF CORPORATIONS, see Corporations, 7, 911.

OFFICIAL BONDS, see Bonds, 7, 443; Indemnity, 8, 173; Officers, etc., 8, 1218; Suretyship, 8, 2050.

OPENING AND CLOSING, see Argument and Conduct of Counsel, 7, 257.

OPENING JUDGMENTS, see Judgments, 8, 543.

OPINIONS OF COURT, see Appeal and Review, 7, 245; Former Adjudication, 7, 1750; Stare Decisis, 8, 1965.

OPTIONS, see Contracts, 7, 770; Gambling Contracts, 7, 1858; Vendors and Purchasers, 8, 2218.

ORDER OF PROOF, see Trial, 8, 2165. Compare Examination of Witnesses, 7, 1598.

ORDERS FOR PAYMENT, see Non-Negotiable Paper, 8, 1167.

ORDERS OF COURT, see Motions and Orders, 8, 1043; Former Adjudication, 7, 1750.

ORDINANCES, see Municipal Corporations, 8, 1064; Constitutional Law, 7, 691.

OYSTERS AND CLAMS, see Fish and Game Laws, 7, 1663.

P.

PARDONS AND PAROLES, 8, 1224.

PARENT AND CHILD, 8, 1225.

PARKS AND PUBLIC GROUNDS, 8, 1233, supplementing special article, 4, 876.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW, 8, 1236.

PAROL EVIDENCE, see Evidence, 7, 1536.

PARTIES, 8, 1236.

PARTITION, 8, 1246.

PARTNERSHIP, 8, 1261.

PARTY WALLS, 8, 1284.

PASSENGERS, see Carriers, 7, 557.

PATENTS, 8, 1285.

PAUPERS, 8, 1324.

PAWNBROKERS AND SECONDHAND DEALERS, 8, 1327.

PAYMENT AND TENDER, 8, 1329.

PAYMENT INTO COURT, 8, 1337.

PEDDLING, 8, 1338.

PEDIGREE, see Evidence, 7, 1552.

PENALTIES AND FORFEITURES, 8, 1339.

PENSIONS, 8, 1343.

PEONAGE, see Slaves, 8, 1945. Compare Charitable and Correctional Institutions, 1, 507; Convicts, 7, 857.

PERFORMANCE, see Contracts, 7, 808; and other contract titles.

PERJURY, 8, 1344.

PERPETUATION OF TESTIMONY, see Equity, 5, 1174; Depositions, 7, 1129.

PERPETUITIES AND ACCUMULATIONS, 8, 1348.

PERSONAL INJURIES, see Highways and Streets, 8, 65, 72; Master and Servant, 8, 849, 944; Negligence, 8, 1090; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1078; Damages, 7, 1075; Carriers, 7, 566; Railroads, 8, 1590; Street Railways, 8, 2015, and other like titles.

PERSONAL PROPERTY, see Property, 8, 1472, and the titles dealing with transactions concerning personalty, e. g., Bailment, 7, 353; Sales, 8, 1751.

PERSONS, see topics describing classes of persons, e. g., Husband and Wife, 8, 122; Infants, 8, 267.

PETITIONS, see Equity, 7, 1354; Motions and Orders, 8, 1043; Pleading, 8, 1372.

PETITORY ACTIONS, 8, 1353.

PEWS, see Religious Societies, 8, 1718; Real Property, 8, 1676.

PHOTOGRAPHS, see Evidence, 7, 1593.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION, see Discovery and Inspection (before trial), 7, 1173; Damages, 7, 1076; Evidence, 7, 1511.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, see Medicine and Surgery, 8, 972.

PILOTS, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1933.

PIPE LINES AND SUBWAYS, 8, 1354.

PIRACY, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1903.

PLACE OF TRIAL, see Venue and Place of Trial, 8, 2236.

PLANK ROADS, see Toll Roads and Bridges, 8, 2123.

PLATE GLASS INSURANCE, see Insurance, 8, 377.

PLEADING, 8, 1355.

PLEAS, see Equity, 7, 1364; Pleading, 8, 1381.

PLEDGES, 8, 1431.

POINTING FIREARMS, see Homicide, 8, 108; Weapons, 8, 2302.

POISONS, 8, 1440.

POLICEMEN, see Municipal Corporations, §§ 5, 10, 8, 1060, 1068; Officers and Public Employes, 8, 1191; Sheriffs and Constables, 8, 1897. Compare Arrest and Binding Over (arrest beyond bailiwick), 7, 269.

POLICE POWER, see Constitutional Law, 7, 706; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1068.

POLLUTION OF WATERS, see Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2267.

POOR LAWS, see Paupers, 8, 1328.

POOR LITIGANTS, see Costs (in forma pauperis), 7, 957.

POSSE COMITATUS, see Arrest and Binding Over, 7, 269.

POSSESSION, WRIT OF, 8, 1441.

POSSESSORY WARRANT, 8, 1441.

POSTAL LAW, 8, 1441.

POSTPONEMENT, see Continuance and Postponement, 7, 757.

POWERS, 8, 1445.

POWERS OF ATTORNEY, see Agency, 7, 61; Attorneys and Counselors, 7, 341; Frauds, Statute of, 7, 1826.

PRAECIPE, see Process, 8, 1451; Witnesses (subpoena), 8, 2389.

PRAYERS, see Equity, 7, 1357; Pleading, 8, 1381.

PRECATORY TRUSTS, see Trusts, 8, 2169; Wills, 8, 2341; Charitable Gifts, 7, 624.

PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION, see Arrest and Binding Over, 7, 270.

PRELIMINARY SUITS, see Causes of Action and Defenses, 7, 603; Discontinuance, Dismissal and Nonsuit, 7, 1155; Pleading, 8, 1355.

PRESCRIPTION, see Adverse Possession, 7, 41; Easements, 7, 1206; Limitation of Actions, 8, 768.

PRESUMPTIONS, see Evidence (civil), 7, 1515; Indictment and Prosecution (criminal), 8, 207.

PRINCIPAL AND AGENT, see Agency, 7, 61.

PRINCIPAL AND SURETY, see Suretyship, 8, 2050.

PRIOR APPROPRIATION, see Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2278.

PRIORITIES BETWEEN CREDITORS, see Liens, 8, 755, and titles there referred to.

PRISONS, JAILS, AND REFORMATORIES, 8, 1448.

PRIVACY, RIGHT OF, see Torts, 8, 2125.

PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL LAW, see Conflict of Laws, 7, 677.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS, see Colleges and Academies, 7, 658.

PRIVATE WAYS, see Easements, 7, 1208.

PRIVILEGE, see Libel and Slander, 8, 719; Arrest and Binding Over, 7, 268; Civil Arrest, 7, 653; Witnesses, 8, 2385.

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS, see Libel and Slander, 8, 713; Witnesses, 8, 2362.

PRIZE, see War, 8, 2257.

PRIZE FIGHTING. No cases have been found during the period covered by volume 8. See 4, 1070.

PROBATE, see Wills, 8, 2318.

PROCESS, 8, 1449.

PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS, see Discovery and Inspection, 7, 1168; Evidence, 7, 1576.

PROFANITY AND BLASPHEMY, 8, 1467.

PROFERT, see Pleading, 8, 1367.

PROFITS A PRENDRE, see Real Property, 8, 1676; Easements, 7, 1203.

PROHIBITION, WRIT OF, 8, 1467.

PROMOTERS, see Corporations, 7, 871, also compare Contracts, 7, 761; Fraud and Undue Influence, 7, 1813.

PROPERTY, 8, 1471. Particular kinds, rights or transfers of property or subjects of property are excluded to separate topics. See headings describing them.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEYS, see Attorneys and Counselors, 7, 346.

PROSTITUTION, see Disorderly Conduct, 7, 1173; Disorderly Houses, 7, 1174; Fornication, 5, 1518; Indecency, Lewdness and Obscenity, 8, 171.

PROXIES, see Corporations, 7, 912; Agency, 7, 61.

PROXIMATE CAUSE IN ACCIDENT INSURANCE [Special Article], 4, 232.

PUBLICATION, see Newspapers, 8, 1151; Process, 8, 1457; Libel and Slander, 8, 718.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND PLACES, see Highways and Streets, 8, 40; Parks and Public Grounds, 8, 1233; Public Works, etc., 8, 1506; Buildings and Building Restrictions, 7, 507. Also see Counties, 7, 976; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1073; States, 8, 1970; United States, 8, 2207; Postal Law, 8, 1441.

PUBLIC CONTRACTS, 8, 1473.

PUBLIC LANDS, 8, 1486.

PUBLIC POLICY, see Contracts, 7, 781; Constitutional Law, 7, 691.

PUBLIC WORKS AND IMPROVEMENTS, 8, 1506.

PUIS DARREIN CONTINUANCE, see Pleading, 8, 1384, 1392.

PURCHASE-MONEY MORTGAGES, see Mortgages, 8, 1022; Vendors and Purchasers, 8, 2216.

PURCHASERS FOR VALUE, see Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1170; Fraudulent Conveyances, 7, 1841.

Q.

QUARANTINE, see Descent and Distribution (rights of widow), 7, 1143; Health, 8, 36; Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1903.

QUASI CONTRACT, see Implied Contracts, 8, 155.

QUESTIONS OF LAW AND FACT, 8, 1566.

QUIETING TITLE, 8, 1570.

QUORUM, see Corporations, 7, 912; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1064; Statutes (validity of passage), 8, 1977.

QUO WARRANTO, 8, 1582.

R.

RACING, 8, 1589. Compare Betting and Gaming, 7, 436.

RAILROADS, 8, 1590.

RAPE, 8, 1667.

RATIFICATION, see Agency, 7, 81.

REAL ACTIONS. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 8. See 6, 1247.

REAL COVENANTS, see Covenants for Title, 7, 1004; Buildings, etc., 7, 607; Easements, 7, 1203.

REAL ESTATE BROKERS, see Brokers, 7, 465.

REAL PROPERTY, 8, 1676. Particular rights and estates in real property and actions pertaining thereto are separately treated in topics specifically devoted to them. See headings describing same.

REASONABLE DOUBT, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 189.

RECAPTION, see Assault and Battery, 7, 274; Trespass, 8, 2147; Replevin, 8, 1732.

RECEIPTORS, see Attachment, 7, 308; Executions, 7, 1621.

RECEIPTS, see Payment, etc, 8, 1329; Evidence, 7, 1536, 1558. See also for particular kinds of receipts Warehousing, etc. (warehouse receipts), 8, 2259; Banking, etc. (certificates of deposits), 7, 373; Executions (forthcoming receipts), 7, 1621.

RECEIVERS, 8, 1679.

RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS, 8, 1696.

RECITALS, see Estoppel, 7, 1489; Municipal Bonds, 8, 1053; Statutes, 8, 1987.

RECITALS OF LAW IN MUNICIPAL BONDS [Special Article], 4, 717.

RECOGNIZANCES, 6, 1268.

RECORDARI, see Justices of the Peace, 8, 635.

RECORDING DEEDS AND MORTGAGES, see Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1174.

RECORDS AND FILES, 8, 1697.

REDEMPTION, see Executions (sales), 7, 1626; Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 7, 1719; Judicial Sales, 8, 574; Mortgages, 8, 1041.

RE-EXCHANGE, see Negotiable Instruments, 8, 1124; Banking, etc., 7, 358.

REFERENCE, 8, 1702.

REFORMATION OF INSTRUMENTS, 8, 1708.

REFORMATORIES, see Charitable and Correctional Institutions, 1, 507.

REGISTERS OF DEEDS, see Counties, 7, 979; Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1174; Officers, etc., 8, 1191.

REGISTRATION, see Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1178.

REHEARING, see Appeal and Review, 7, 248; Equity, 7, 1380; New Trial, etc., 8, 1153.

REINSURANCE, see Insurance, 8, 444.

REJOINDERS, see Pleading, 8, 1355.

RELATION, see topics treating of various legal acts to which the doctrine of relation may be applied, such as Contracts, 7, 761; Deeds, etc., 7, 1103; Trespass, 8, 2147.

RELEASES, 8, 1714.

RELIEF FUNDS AND ASSOCIATIONS, see Fraternal, etc., Associations, 7, 1777; Master and Servant, 8, 840; Railroads, 8, 1590.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES, 8, 1718.

REMAINDERS, see Life Estates, etc., 8, 762; Perpetuities, etc., 8, 1348; Wills, 8, 2330.

REMEDY AT LAW, see Equity, 7, 1329.

REMITTITUR, see Appeal and Review, 7, 241; Judgments, 8, 534; New Trial, etc., 8, 1153; Damages, 7, 1063.

REMOVAL OF CAUSES, 8, 1722.

RENDITION OF JUDGMENT, see Judgments, 8, 538; Justices of the Peace, 8, 635.

REPLEADER, see Pleading, 8, 1355.

REPLEGIANDO, see Habeas Corpus, etc., 7, 1916.

REPLEVIN, 8, 1732.

REPLICATION, see Pleading, 8, 1384.

REPORTED QUESTIONS, see Appeal and Review, 7, 131.

REPORTS, see Records and Files, 8, 1697.

REPRESENTATIONS, see Deceit, 7, 1094, 1095; Estoppel, 7, 1492; Sales (warranty), 8, 1808.

REPRIEVES, see Pardons and Paroles, 8, 1224; Homicide, 8, 106.

RES ADJUDICATA, see Former Adjudication, 7, 1750.

RESCISSION, see Contracts, 7, 819; Sales, 8, 1758, 1787, 1799; Vendors and Purchasers, 8, 2225; Cancellation of Instruments, 7, 517; Reformation of Instruments, 8, 1708.

RESCUE, see Escape and Rescue, 7, 1383.

RES GESTAE, see Evidence (civil), 7, 1554; Indictment and Prosecution (criminal), 8, 214. Compare titles relating to that whereof the res gestae is offered.

RESIDENCE, see Absentees, 7, 9; Aliens, 7, 98; Citizens, 7, 653; Domicile, 7, 1194; Attachment, 7, 301; Process, 8, 1449.

RESISTING OFFICER, see Obstructing Justice, 8, 1191.

RESPONDENTIA, see Shipping, etc., 8, 1906.

RESTITUTION, see Forcible Entry, etc., 7, 1671; Replevin, 8, 1732.

RESTORING INSTRUMENTS AND RECORDS, 8, 1742.

RESTRAINT OF ALIENATION, see Perpetuites and Accumulations, 8, 1348.

RESTRAINT OF TRADE, see Contracts, 7, 787; Combinations, etc., 7, 663.

RETRAXIT, see Discontinuance, etc., 3, 1100; Pleading, 8, 1355.

RETURNABLE PACKAGE LAWS, see Commerce, 7, 667.

RETURNS, see Process, 8, 1461, and compare titles treating of mesne and final process, e. g., Attachment, 7, 308; Executions, 7, 1625. See, also, Elections (election, canvass and return), 7, 1247.

REVENUE LAWS, see Taxes, 8, 2058; Internal Revenue Laws, 8, 478; Licenses, 8, 734.

REVERSIONS, see Life Estates, etc., 8, 762; Wills, 8, 2305.

REVIEW, see Appeal and Review, 7, 216; Certiorari ("writ of review"), 7, 606; Equity (bill of review), 7, 1380; Judgments (equitable relief), 8, 548.

REVIVAL OF JUDGMENTS, see Judgments, 8, 568.

REVIVOR OF SUITS, see Abatement and Revival, 7, 1; Equity, 7, 1370.

REVOCATION, see Agency, 7, 70; also Special Article, 4, 1295; Licenses, 8, 734; Wills, 8, 2316, 2323.

REVOCATION OF AGENCY BY OPERATION OF LAW [Special Article], 4, 1295.

REWARDS, 8, 1743.

RIGHT OF PRIVACY, see Torts, 8, 2125.

RIGHT OF PROPERTY, see Replevin, 8, 1732. Compare Attachment, 7, 313; Executions, 7, 1622, as to claims by third persons against a levy.

RIGHT OF STOCKHOLDERS TO INSPECT BOOKS AND PAPERS [Special Article], 5, 834.

RIOT, 8, 1744.

RIPARIAN OWNERS, 8, 1744.

ROBBERY, 8, 1749.

RULES OF COURT, see Courts, 7, 1002. Compare titles treating of practice to which rules relate, e. g., Appeal and Review, 7, 128.

S.

SAFE DEPOSITS, see Warehousing and Deposits, 8, 2258; Banking and Finance, 7, 373.

SALES, 8, 1751.

SALVAGE, see Shipping, etc., 8, 1936.

SATISFACTION AND DISCHARGE, see Accord and Satisfacton, 7, 17; Contracts, 7, 808; Judgments, 8, 570; Mortgages, 8, 1039; Payment and Tender, 8, 1329; Releases, 8, 1714.

SAVING QUESTIONS FOR REVIEW, 8, 1822.

SAVINGS BANKS, see Banking, etc., 7, 371.

SCANDAL AND IMPERTINENCE, see Equity, 7, 1354; Pleading, 8, 1355.

SCHOOL LANDS, see Public Lands, 8, 1486.

SCHOOLS AND EDUCATION, 8, 1851.

SCIRE FACIAS, 8, 1870.

SEALS, see Names, Signatures, and Seals, 8, 1083. Compare titles relating to instruments whereof seal is required.

SEAMEN, see Shipping, etc., 8, 1905.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE, 8, 1870.

SEAWEED, see Waters and Water Supply, 8, 2262.

SECONDARY EVIDENCE, see Evidence, 7, 1529.

SECRET BALLOT, see Elections, 7, 1230.

SECURITY FOR COSTS, see Costs, 7, 956.

SEDUCTION, 8, 1871.

SELF-DEFENSE, see Assault and Battery, 7, 274; Homicide, 8, 108, 113.

SENTENCE, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 244.

SEPARATE PROPERTY, see Husband and Wife, 8, 134.

SEPARATE TRIALS, see Trial (civil), 8, 2161; Indictment and Prosecution (criminal), 8, 189.

SEPARATION, see Divorce, 7, 1175.

SEQUESTRATION, 8, 1874.

SERVICE, see Process, 8, 1449.

SET-OFF AND COUNTERCLAIM, 8, 1875.

SETTLEMENT OF CASE, see Appeal and Review, 7, 173.

SETTLEMENTS, see Accord, etc., 7, 10; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1462; Guardianship, 7, 1912; Trusts, 8, 2169.

SEVERANCE OF ACTIONS, see Pleading, 8, 1355; Trial, 8, 2161.

SEWERS AND DRAINS, 8, 1882.

SHAM PLEADINGS, see Pleading, 8, 1355.

SHELLEY'S CASE, see Real Property, 8, 1677; Deeds of Conveyance, 7, 1103; Wills, 8, 2330.

SHERIFFS AND CONSTABLES, 8, 1897.

SHERIFF'S SALES, see Executions, 7, 1624; Judicial Sales, 8, 574.

SHIPPING AND WATER TRAFFIC, 8, 1903.

SIDEWALKS, see Highways and Streets, 8, 75.

SIGNATURES, see Names, etc., 8, 1083.

SIMILITER, see Pleading, 8, 1421.

SIMULTANEOUS ACTIONS, see Election and Waiver, 7, 1222.

SLANDER, see Libel and Slander, 8, 731.

SLAVES, 8, 1945.

SLEEPING CARS, see Carriers, 7, 522; Railroads, 8, 1590; Taxes, 8, 2059.

SOCIETIES, see Associations and Societies, 7, 294.

SODOMY, 8, 1946.

SOLICITATION TO CRIME, see Criminal Law, 7, 1010, and topics treating of the crime solicited.

SPANISH LAND GRANTS, see Public Lands, 8, 1503.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS AND TAXES, see Public Works and Improvements, 8, 1506.

SPECIAL INTERROGATORIES TO JURY, see Verdicts and Findings, 8, 2246.

SPECIAL JURY, see Jury, 8, 617.

SPECIAL VERDICT, see Verdicts and Findings, 8, 2246.

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE, 8, 1946.

SPENDTHRIFTS, see Incompetency, 8, 169; Guardianship, 7, 1899; Trusts (spendthrift trusts), 8, 2172; Wills (spendthrift conditions), 8, 2305.

STARE DECISIS, 8, 1965.

STATE LANDS, see Public Lands, 8, 1492, 1501.

STATEMENT OF CLAIM, see Pleading, 8, 1355; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1422; Counties, 7, 995; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1080.

STATEMENT OF FACTS, see Appeal and Review, 7, 173, 197.

STATES, 8, 1970.

STATUTES, 8, 1976.

STATUTORY CRIMES, see Criminal Law, 7, 1010, also the topics denominating the analogous common-law crimes, e. g., Larceny, 8, 701.

STATUTORY PROVISOS, EXCEPTIONS AND SAVINGS [Special Article], 4, 1543.

STAY LAWS, see Executions, 7, 1616; Judicial Sales, 8, 574; Foreclosure of Mortgages on Land, 7, 1678.

STAY OF PROCEEDINGS, 8, 1999.

STEAM, 8, 2001.

STENOGRAPHERS, 8, 2001.

STIPULATIONS, 8, 2001.

STOCK AND STOCKHOLDERS, see Corporations, 7, 892; Foreign Corporations, 7, 1734.

STOCK EXCHANGES, see Exchanges and Boards of Trade, 7, 1613.

STOCK YARDS, see Warehousing, etc., 8, 2258; Railroads, 8, 1590; Carriers, 7, 554; Food (live stock inspection), 7, 1670; Exchanges and Boards of Trade, 7, 1613.

STOPPAGE IN TRANSIT, see Sales, 8, 1789; Carriers, 7, 536-541.

STORAGE, see Warehousing and Deposits, 8, 2260.

STORE ORDERS, see Master and Servant, 8, 840; Payment, etc., 8, 1329.

STREET RAILWAYS, 8, 2004.

STREETS, see Highways and Streets, 8, 40.

STRIKES, see Conspiracy, 7, 681; Constitutional Law, 7, 691; Master and Servant, 8, 840; Trade Unions, 8, 2142. Compare Building, etc., Contracts (impossibility of performance), 7, 485; Injunction, 8, 300.

STRIKING OUT, see Pleading, 8, 1355; Trial, 8, 2161.

STRUCK JURY, see Jury, 8, 635.

SUBMISSION OF CONTROVERSY, 8, 2040.

SUBPOENA, see Witnesses, 8, 2389; Equity, 7, 1323; Process, 8, 1449.

SUBROGATION, 8, 2041.

SUBSCRIBING PLEADINGS, see Pleading, 8, 1355; Equity, 7, 1354.

SUBSCRIPTIONS, 8, 2044.

SUBSTITUTION OF ATTORNEYS, see Attorneys and Counselors, 7, 325.

SUBSTITUTION OF PARTIES, see Abatement and Revival, 7, 7; Parties, 8, 1242.

SUBWAYS, see Pipe Lines and Subways, 8, 1354.

SUCCESSION, see Descent and Distribution, 7, 1137; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386; Taxes (succession taxes), 8, 2092; Wills, 8, 2305.

SUICIDE, 8, 2045.

SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS, see Landlord and Tenant, 8, 656.

SUMMARY PROSECUTIONS, see Indictment and Prosecution, 8, 265.

SUMMONS, see Process, 8, 1449.

SUNDAY, 8, 2045.

SUPERSEDEAS, see Appeal and Review, 7, 160.

SUPPLEMENTAL PLEADINGS, see Equity 7, 1358; Pleading, 8, 1405.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROCEEDINGS, 8, 2046.

SUPPORT AND MAINTENANCE, see Alimony, 7, 104; Husband and Wife, 8, 122; Infants, 8, 267; Insane Persons, 8, 321; Parent and Child, 8, 1229; Guardiansbip, 7, 1903.

SURCHARGING AND FALSIFYING, see Accounting, Action for, 7, 19; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1462; Trusts, 8, 2169.

SURETY OF THE PEACE, 8, 2050.

SURETYSHIP, 8, 2050.

SURFACE WATERS, see Waters, etc, 8, 2271; Highways, etc, 8, 55; Railroads, 8, 1609.

SURPLUSAGE, see Equity, 7, 1323; Pleading, 8, 1355.

SURPRISE, see New Trial, etc., 8, 1159; Defaults, 7, 1122; Mistake and Accident, 8, 1020.

SURROGATES, see Courts, 7, 999; Estates of Decedents, 7, 1386; Wills, 8, 2305.

SURVEYORS, see Counties, 7, 976; Boundaries, 7, 450, 455.

SURVIVORSHIP, see Death and Survivorship (presumptions), 7, 1082; Deeds, etc. (interpretation), 7, 1103; Wills, 8, 2305.

SUSPENSION OF POWER OF ALIENATION, see Perpetuities and Accumulations, 8, 1349.

T.

TAKING CASE FROM JURY, see Directing Verdict, etc., 7, 1146; Discontinuance, Dismissal and Nonsuit, 7, 1155; Questions of Law and Fact, 8, 1566.

TAXES, 8, 2058.

TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES, 8, 2096.

TENANTS IN COMMON AND JOINT TENANTS, 8, 2114.

TENDER, see Payment and Tender, 8, 1329.

TERMS OF COURT, see Courts, 7, 1000; Dockets, Calendars and Trial Lists, 7, 1192.

TERRITORIES AND FEDERAL POSSESSIONS, 8, 2121.

TESTAMENTARY CAPACITY, see Wills, 8, 2307.

THEATERS, see Buildings and Building Restrictions, 7, 507; Exhibitions and Shows, 7, 1636.

THEFT, see Larceny, 8, 701.

THREATS. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 8. See 6, 1697.

TICKETS, see Carriers, 7, 563.

TIDE LANDS, see Public Lands, 8, 1486; Waters, etc., 8, 2262.

TIME, 8, 2123.

TIME TO PLEAD, see Pleading, 8, 1419.

TITLE AND OWNERSHIP, see Property, 8, 1471, and topics treating of particular property and of the transfer thereof.

TITLE INSURANCE, see Insurance, 8, 414.

TOBACCO. No cases have been found during the period covered by Vol. 8. See 6, 1698.

TOLL ROADS AND BRIDGES, 8, 2123.

TONTINE INSURANCE, see Insurance, 8, 377.

TORRENS SYSTEM, see Notice and Record of Title, 8, 1178.

TORTIOUS INTERFERENCE WITH ANOTHER'S CONTRACT [Critical Note], 6, 1704.

TORTS, 8, 2125.

TOWAGE, see Shipping, etc., 8, 1933.

TOWNS; TOWNSHIPS, 8, 2130.

TRADE MARKS AND TRADE NAMES, 8, 2137.

TRADE SECRETS, see Property, 8, 1472; Master and Servant, 8, 848.

TRADE UNIONS, 8, 2142.

TRADING STAMPS, see Betting and Gaming, 7, 434; Gambling Contracts, 7, 1858. See, also, Licenses, 8, 734.

TRANSFER OF CAUSES, see Dockets, etc., 7, 1193; Removal of Causes, 8, 1722.

TRANSITORY ACTIONS, see Venue and Place of Trial, 8, 2236.

TREASON. No cases have been found during the period covered.

TREASURE TROVE, see Property, 8, 1471.

TREATIES, 8, 2146.

TREES, see Emblements, etc., 7, 1275; Forestry and Timber, 7, 1737.

TRESPASS, 8, 2147.

TRESPASS ON THE CASE, see Trespass, 8, 2147.

TRESPASS TO TRY TITLE, see Trespass, 8, 2157.

TRIAL, 8, 2161; with Special Article, 4, 1718.

TROVER, see Conversion as Tort, 7, 846; Assumpsit (waiver of tort), 7, 296; Implied Contracts (waiver of tort), 8, 164.

TRUST COMPANIES, see Banking and Finance, 7, 372.

TRUST DEEDS, see Foreclosure, etc., 7, 1678; Mortgages, 8, 1029; Trusts, 8, 2169.

TRUSTS. 8, 2169.

TURNPIKES, see Highways and Streets, 8, 40; Toll Roads and Bridges, 8, 2124.

TURNTABLES, see Railroads, 8, 1590.

U.

ULTRA VIRES, see Corporations, 7, 877; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1056.

UNDERTAKINGS. No cases have been found during the period covered by volume 8. See 4, 1760.

UNDUE INFLUENCE, see Fraud and Undue Influence, 7, 1813; Wills, 8, 2307.

UNFAIR COMPETITION, see Trade Marks and Trade Names, 8, 2139.

UNION DEPOTS, see Railroads, 8, 1602, 1617; Eminent Domain, 7, 1276.

UNITED STATES, 8, 2207.

UNITED STATES COURTS, see Courts, 7, 999. As to procedure and jurisdiction, consult the appropriate title for the particular procedure under investigation.

UNITED STATES MARSHALS AND COMMISSIONERS, 8, 2210.

UNIVERSITIES, see Colleges and Academies, 7, 657; Schools and Education, 8, 1869.

UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLY. No cases have been found during the period covered.

USAGES, see Customs and Usages, 7, 1016.

USE AND OCCUPATION, see Landlord and Tenant, 8, 679; Implied Contracts, 8, 164.

USES, 8, 2211.

USURY, 8, 2211.

V.

VAGRANTS, 8, 2215.

VALUES, see Evidence, 7, 1520, 1585; Damages, 7, 1029.

VARIANCE, see Pleading, 8, 1423.

VENDITIONI EXPONAS, see Attachment, 7, 307; Executions, 7, 1617.

VENDORS AND PURCHASERS, 8, 2216.

VENDORS' LIENS, see Sales, 8, 1751; Vendors and Purchasers, 8, 2234.

VENUE AND PLACE OF TRIAL, 8, 2236.

VERBAL AGREEMENTS, see Contracts, 7, 761; Frauds, Statute of, 7, 1826.

VERDICTS AND FINDINGS, 8, 2245.

VERIFICATION, 8, 2255.

VETO, see Statutes, 8, 1976; Municipal Corporations, 8, 1056.

VIEW, see Trial, 8, 2168; Eminent Domain, 7, 1309; Mines and Minerals (statutory right of view), 8, 985.

VOTING TRUSTS, see Corporations, 7, 862; Trusts, 8, 2169.

W.

WAIVER, see Election and Waiver, 7, 1225-1230.

WAR, 8, 2257.

WAREHOUSING AND DEPOSITS, 8, 2258.

WARRANT OF ATTORNEY, see Confession of Judgment, 7, 675.

WARRANTS, see Arrest and Binding Over, 7, 265; Search and Seizure, 8, 1870.

WARRANTY, see Covenants for Title, 7, 1006; Sales, 8, 1774, 1808.

WASTE, 8, 2261.

WATERS AND WATER SUPPLY, 8, 2262; with Special Article, 3, 1112.

WAYS, see Easements, 7, 1206-1208; Eminent Domain 7, 1276.

WEAPONS, 8, 2302.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES, 8, 2304.

WHARVES, 8, 2304.

WHITE-CAPPING, see Threats, 6, 1697.

WILLS, 8, 2305.

WINDING UP PROCEEDINGS, see Corporations, 7, 885; Partnership, 8, 1276.

WITHDRAWING EVIDENCE, see Trial, 8, 2161; Harmless and Prejudicial Error, 8, 1.

WITHDRAWING PLEADINGS OR FILES, see Pleading, 8, 1420; Records and Files, 8, 1697.

WITNESSES, 8, 2347.

WOODS AND FORESTS, see Forestry and Timber, 7, 1737.

WORK AND LABOR, see Assumpsit, 5, 299; Implied Contracts, 8, 156; Master and Servant, 8, 840.

WORKING CONTRACTS, see Building and Construction Contracts, 7, 480.

WRECK, see Shipping and Water Traffic, 8, 1940.

CURRENT LAW

(Copyright, 1907, by The Keefe-Davidson Company.)

VOLUME VIII. MARCH, 1907. NUMBER 1

HARMLESS AND PREJUDICIAL ERROR.

§ 1. The General Doctrine (1).
§ 2. Triviality Constituting Harmlessness (9).
§ 3. Errors Cured or Made Harmless by Other Matters (26).

§ 1. The general doctrine.—Generally speaking, a judgment will not be reversed or a verdict set aside or other proceeding overthrown because of error of which it can be said that no harm resulted to the complaining party,[1, 2] even though

1, 2. See 5 C. L. 1620. Dunham v. McMichael, 214 Pa. 485, 63 A. 1007; King v. Davis, 137 F. 198; Flack v. Moore, 117 Ill. App. 551; Roy v. E. St. Louis & S. R. Co., 119 Ill. App. 313; Ruprecht v. Galt, 119 Ill. App. 478; Merry v. Colvin, 122 Ill. App. 459; Palmer v. Cowie, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 46; Board of Com'rs of Morgan County v. Crone, 36 Ind. App. 283, 75 N. E. 826; Equitable Trust Co. v. Torphy [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 639; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Simons [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 883; Glos v. Ault, 221 Ill. 562, 77 N. E. 939; Hindley v. Manhattan R. Co. [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 276; Link v. Campbell [Neb.] 104 N. W. 939; Teetzel v. Davidson Bros. Marble Co. [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1068; Pinch v. Hotaling [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 841, 106 N. W. 69; Chambers v. Chambers [Neb.] 106 N. W. 993; Milton v. Biesanz Stone Co. [Minn.] 109 N. W. 999; Ennis Brown Co. v. Hurst, 1 Cal. App. 752, 82 P. 1056; Linderman v. Nolan, 16 Okl. 352, 83 P. 796; Berentz v. Belmont Oil Min. Co., 148 Cal. 577, 84 P. 47; Lowe v. Ozmun [Cal. App.] 86 P. 729; Creech v. Aberdeen [Wash.] 87 P. 44; James v. Ayer, 124 Ga. 862, 53 S. E. 103; Garmany v. Lawton, 124 Ga. 876, 53 S. E. 669; McBride v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co., 125 Ga. 515, 54 S. E. 674; Kessler v. Pearson [Ga.] 55 S. E. 963; Armour Packing Co. v. Vietch-Young Produce Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 680; Ryan v. Young [Ala.] 41 So. 954; Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Texas Land & Mortg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 183, 90 S. W. 197; Miller v. Nuckolls [Ark.] 91 S. W. 759; German Ins. Co. v. Goodfriend [Ky.] 97 S. W. 1098. No prejudice without injury. Conde v. Dreisam Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 825. No reversal where there is no error affecting substantial rights. Frepons v. Grostein [Idaho] 87 P. 1004. When substantial justice has been done. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Stevenson, 122 Ill. App. 654; Herrin v. Bowsher, 122 Ill. App. 565; Henrietta Coal Co. v. Martin, 122 Ill. App. 354. When result is correct and no advantage will accrue to litigant from reversal. Corbin v. Hill [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 377. Rulings upon evidence. Bancroft v. Godwin, 41 Wash. 253, 83 P. 189; My Laundry Co. v. Schmeling [Wis.] 109 N. W. 540; Van Burg v. Van Engen [Neb.] 107 N. W. 1006. Admission of evidence. Colorado Springs Elec. Co. v. Soper [Colo.] 88 P. 165; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Block [Ark.] 95 S. W. 155; Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 S. C. 379, 53 S. E. 639; Loverin & Browne Co. v. Bumgarner [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 1000. Admission of evidence which, if effective at all, could not injure complaining party and might help him. Hadley v. Passaic County Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1132. Admission of evidence of care given children by husband when intoxicated in action by wife for selling liquor to husband. Mathre v. Story City Drug Co. [Iowa] 106 N. W 368. Introduction of policeman's record on trial before police commissioner harmless, since commissioner had right to refer to such record and to use the information thus acquired in reaching a determination. People v. Lewis, 111 App. Div. 375, 97 N. Y. S. 1057. Question in form calling for an answer seemingly stating an opinion as to the land held harmless where witness was fully examine on the facts and the court properly instructed the jury on the point. Sibley v. Morse [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 878, 109 N. W. 858. Admission of nonprofessional, expert testimony. Kolleen v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 72 Kan. 426, 83 P. 990. Plaintiff not injured by evidence that defendant was man of wealth. Security Trust Co. v. Robb [C. C. A.] 142 F. 78. Judgment not reversible merely because some or all of witnesses stated damages to land instead of value where the damages depended wholly upon difference in value before and after the injury. Schmoe v. Cotton [Ind.] 79 N. E. 184. It is not reversible error to admit an amended ordinance regulating the speed of street cars, although it would have been more formal to introduce the original ordinance. Knoxville Traction Co. v. Brown, 115 Tenn. 323, 89 S. W. 319. Evidence to explain an unfavorable inference which might have arisen from defendant's conduct as shown by the undisputed evidence held harmless to plaintiff. Tuttle v. Moody [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 763, 94 S. W. 134. Exclusion of

he has properly saved his objection and excepted to the ruling[3] and has regularly preserved it in the "record."[4]

evidence. Court of Honor v. Dinger, 221 Ill. 176, 77 N. E. 557; Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Willis [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 560. On objection to report of administrator, exclusion of question as to property other than that in issue was harmless where the estate was left open without prejudice to the right of the heirs to a further examination of the administrator. In re Smith's Estate [Iowa] 109 N. W. 196. Instructions and evidence. Railton v. Chicago Title & Trust Co., 224 Ill. 485, 79 N. E. 600. Instructions. Hartford Life Ins. Co. v. Sherman [Ill.] 78 N. E. 923. Failure to charge the rule under Civ. Code 1895, § 3712, that rescission of a contract will be allowed only when the parties can be placed in statu quo, was harmless to defendant where no case for rescission was made out. Williams v. Walden, 124 Ga. 913, 53 S. E. 564. Where court correctly adjudged that land in controversy belonged to one of the parties, there was no prejudicial error in cancelling certain deeds held by the other party and constituting a cloud on the title. Williams v. Hays [Ky.] 93 S. W. 1063. Refusal to require defendant to give additional certiorari bond where original bond was in substantial conformity with the requirements of the code. Giddens & Co. v. Rutledge [Ala.] 40 So. 759. Making opinion of circuit judge part of record of case. Stover v. Stover [W. Va.] 54 S. E. 350. Failure to pay jury fees by successful party as provided in Gen. St. 1901, § 3056, is not such an irregularity as affects substantial rights of parties and reviewable on appeal, especially when the attention of the trial court was not challenged as to that point on motion for new trial. City of Ottawa v. Green, 72 Kan. 214, 83 P. 616. Failure of appellate court to make formal order of transfer of papers back to trial court harmless on second trial where such papers were actually present in the trial court on such second trial and were used thereon. In re Burnett [Kan.] 85 P. 575.

So provided by statute: Rev. Codes 1899, § 5300. Vidger Co. v. Great Northern R. Co. [N. D.] 107 N. W. 1083. Code Civ. Proc. § 2545, relating to review of decisions of surrogate. In re Brower's Will, 112 App. Div. 370, 98 N. Y. S. 438. No reversal unless substantial rights are affected. Code Civ. Proc. § 475. Sherwood v. Wallin, 1 Cal. App. 532, 82 P. 566; Bird v. Utica Gold Min. Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 256; McKee v. Cunningham [Cal. App.] 84 P. 260. Mills' Ann. Code § 78. Jackson v. McFall [Colo.] 85 P. 638. Civ. Code Prac. 134. Bell v. Hatfield, 28 Ky. L. R. 515, 89 S. W. 544; Ross-Paris Co. v. Brown, 28 Ky. L. R. 813, 90 S. W. 568. Code § 3601. Himmelman v. Des Moines Ins. Co. [Iowa] 110 N. W. 155; Jordan v. Markham [Iowa] 107 N. W. 613; Olson v. Brison, 129 Iowa 604, 106 N. W. 14. Clark's Code § 276. Wright v. Teutonia Ins. Co., 138 N. C. 488, 51 S. E. 65. Rev. St. 1898, § 2829. Mash v. Bloom, 126 Wis. 385, 105 N. W. 831; Coe v. Rockman, 126 Wis. 515, 106 N. W. 290; Alft v. Clintonville, 126 Wis. 334, 105 N. W. 561; Owen v. Portage Tel. Co., 126 Wis. 412, 105 N. W. 824. No reversal except for error materially affecting merits. Rev. St. 1899, § 865. Mockowik v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 196 Mo. 550, 94 S. W. 256; Levels v. St. Louis & H. R. Co., 196 Mo. 606, 94 S. W. 275; Beier v. St. Louis Transit Co., 197 Mo. 215, 94 S. W. 876; Gibson v. Swofford [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 1007; Bragg v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 192 Mo. 331, 91 S. W. 527; Daggs v. Smith, 193 Mo. 494, 91 S. W. 1043. No reversal except for error affecting substantial rights. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 659, 865. Peterson v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 97 S. W. 860. Under Code § 3601, an action against an insurance company for conversion cannot be changed on appeal to an action on a policy. Himmelman v. Des Moines Ins. Co. [Iowa] 110 N. W. 155. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 401, 670, errors as to instructions not reversible when there has been fair trial and a correct result reached. Posey County Fire Ass'n v. Hogan [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 670; Princeton Coal & Min. Co. v. Gilmore [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 787. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 344, error in overruling demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action is not ground for reversal. Boonville Nat. Bank v. Blakey [Ind.] 76 N. E. 529. Under Burns' Ann. St. Ind. 1901, § 394, variance between complaint and evidence deemed immaterial unless defendant actually misled to his prejudice. Indianapolis Traction & T. Co. v. Lawson [C. C. A.] 143 F. 834. Under statute failure to submit special issue, where such submission is not requested, is not reversible error where the finding of the court on such issue is correct. Warren v. Osborne [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 851. The supreme court of South Carolina cannot reverse on appeal from a judgment of a circuit court overruling or sustaining exceptions and defects which do not affect the merits. Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 368. Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 73 S. C. 292, 53 S. E. 481.

Right decision on wrong ground. Smith v. Manlove [Ariz.] 85 P. 1066; Brown v. Yarraham Gold Min. Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 744; Barbee v. Morris, 221 Ill. 382, 77 N. E. 589; Pennsylvania Co. v. Rossett, 116 Ill. App. 342; Princeton Coal & Min Co. v. Gilmore [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 787; Kipp v. Clinger [Minn.] 106 N. W. 108; Rosenbaum Bros. Co. v. Ryan Bros. Cattle Co. [Mont.] 84 P. 1120; Brown v. Daly [Mont.] 84 P. 883; Ruzcoski v. Wibrodt [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 783, 94 S. W. 142. The general rule is that if an order of the court can be sustained on any grounds, irrespective of those specified by the court, it will be done. Boca & L. R. Co. v. Sierra Valleys R. Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 298; Milella v. Simpson, 47 Misc. 690, 94 N. Y. S. 464. The appellate court is not bound by any reason for his finding or judgment expressed by the trial judge in a written opinion. Grand Cent. Min. Co. v. Mammoth Min. Co., 29 Utah, 490, 83 P. 648. A decree in equity will be sustained where correct, though the lower court decided it upon the wrong reason. Harris Banking Co. v. Miller, 190 Mo. App. 640, 89 S. W. 629. Exclusion of evidence. Wightman v. Catlin, 98 N. Y. S. 1071; Bunner v. Ison, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 260. Admission of evidence and instruction as to damages on wrong theory harmless where same result would be reached by application of correct theory. Abbott v. Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Co., 126 Wis. 634, 106 N. W. 523. Sustaining demurrer. Gaynor v. Bauer [Ala.] 39 So. 749; Lewisohn v. Stoddard, 78 Conn. 575, 63 A. 621; Newton v. Hamden [Conn.] 64 A. 229; Crow v. Florence Ice & Coal Co., 143 Ala. 541, 39 So. 401. Sustaining demurrer harmless where reply to defendant's special plea was bad. Jolly v. Miller [Ky.] 98 S. W. 326. Amendment of answer. Peterman v. Pope [S. C.] 54 S. E. 569. Dismissal. Aspley v. Hawkins [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 213, 89 S. W. 972. Nonsuit. Carter v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 S. C. 430, 53 S. E. 539. Nonsuit on ground of insufficient evidence held improper but not reversible where plaintiff's claim was barred by limitations. Cherry v. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co., 140 N. C. 422, 53 S. E. 138. Instruction for defendant on ground that petition was insufficient was harmless where the evidence was insufficient. Siewerssen v. Harris County [Tex. Civ. App.] 91 S. W. 333. Setting aside verdict. Anderson v. Wood, 99 N. Y. S. 474. Direction of verdict. Latting v. Owasso Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 148 F. 369; Bank of Havelock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 522. See post § 2, Triviality Constituting Harmlessness. Granting new trial. Bresee v. Los Angeles Traction Co. [Cal.] 85 P. 152; Thompson v. California Const. Co., 148 Cal. 35, 82 P. 367; Houghton v. Market St. R. Co., 1 Cal. App. 576, 82 P. 972; Martin v. Markarian & Co., 1 Cal. App. 687, 82 P. 1072; Weisser v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 148 Cal. 426, 83 P. 439; Scott v. Stone, 72 Kan. 545, 84 P. 117; Boca & L. R. Co. v. Sierra Valleys R. Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 298; Beasley v. Berry [Mont.] 84 P. 791; Case v. Kramer [Mont.] 85 P. 878; Fournier v. Coudert [Mont.] 87 P. 455; Metropolitan Lead & Zinc Min. Co. v. Webster, 193 Mo. 351, 92 S. W. 79; Deschner v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 737. Refusal of new trial. Rountree v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 73 S. C. 268, 53 S. E. 424. Error as to time at which value should be computed harmless where it appeared that there had been no change of value. Whitworth v. Pool [Ky.] 96 S. W. 880. Only exception to rule that appellate court in reviewing order for new trial is not confined to reasons assigned by trial judge is where the question is as to sufficiency of the evidence and the evidence is conflicting. Weisser v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 148 Cal. 426, 83 P. 439. Nor does this principle apply where plaintiff is allowed to introduce secondary evidence without laying foundation therefor and judgment is rendered for the defendant on other grounds. In such case the judgment will not be affirmed regardless of other errors, but will be reversed and the plaintiff thus be given a chance to lay the foundation for his evidence. Boynton v. Ashabraner [Ark.] 88 S. W. 1011.

Result reached was the only one sustainable. In re Dolbeer's Estate [Cal.] 86 P. 695; Campbell v. McCrellis [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1129; King v. Davis, 137 F. 198; Cunningham v. Cunningham's Estate, 220 Ill. 45, 77 N. E. 96. Admission of evidence. Turner v. Osgood Art Colortype Co., 223 Ill. 629, 79 N. E. 306; Stackpole v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 740; In re Nelson's Estate [Neb.] 106 N. W. 326. Verdict only one sustainable. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Brown [Miss.] 39 So. 531. When another trial would result in like result. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Stevenson, 122 Ill. App. 654. When verdict is one which the court might have properly directed, errors committed by the court are harmless. Stallings v. Gilbreath [Ala.] 41 So. 423. If on the undisputed facts the case is plainly for the defendants, errors committed by the court on the trial are harmless to plaintiff. Jeffrey v. Lemon, 58 W. Va. 662, 52 S. E. 769. Where judgment is necessarily against the party upon a decisive issue, error in connection with other issues is harmless. Kosower v. Sandler, 49 Misc. 443, 98 N. Y. S. 65. Where defendant was entitled to affirmative charge, plaintiff was not injured by errors of trial court. Leatherbury v. Spotswood, Turner & Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 588. Submitting issue to jury which should have been decided as a matter of law harmless where verdict is right. Mockowik v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 196 Mo. 550, 94 S. W. 256; Nelson v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 933. Rulings on special pleadings and evidence are immaterial where the verdict is one which the court might have directed. Bailey v. Gary, Kennedy & Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 672. Where amount of recovery would not be changed by striking out item of damages allowed in recoupment. Streeter v. Sanitary Dist. [C. C. A.] 143 F. 476. Erroneous finding where judgment correct. Metcalf v. Central Vermont R. Co., 78 Conn. 614, 63 A. 633. Where result reached was only one sustainable, errors in admission of evidence and in instructions were harmless. San Jacinto Oil Co. v. Culberson [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 110. Where judgment necessarily went against a party on his pleadings he was not injured by admission of testimony. Simmons v. Sharpe [Ala.] 42 So. 441. Where answer fails to state defense and admits plaintiff's cause of action, defendant not harmed by errors in regard to evidence and instructions. Miller v. Loverne & Browne Co. [Neb.] 105 N. W. 84. Errors in admission of evidence and in instructions harmless where verdict was sustained by the evidence. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sharrock [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 158. Errors in instructions and in admission and rejection of evidence on trial of traverse of affidavit in attachment harmless where jury could not have legally rendered a different verdict. Peace River Phosphate Min. Co. v. Singleton [Fla.] 41 So. 594. Erroneous evidence held harmless in will case. Jacobs v. Button [Conn.] 65 A. 150. Admission of incompetent evidence. Heagany v. National Union [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 943, 106 N. W. 700. When plaintiff failed to prove his complaint he could not complain of error in sustaining demurrer thereto. Yates v. Huntsville Hoop & Heading Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 647. Denial of right to jury trial not reversible error where defendant against whom the judgment was rendered had no defense whatever. Bedford v. Stone [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1086. Where defendant had no defense whatever, judgment against him would not be reversed because it was rendered by a special judge while the regular judge was holding court. Id. Evidence held sufficient to sustain the judgment, but not such as to require the affirmance of the judgment regardless of errors of law. John Silvey &

The party must affirmatively show error apparent on the "record."[5] It must

Co. v. Tift, 123 Ga. 804, 51 S. E. 748. Exclusion of evidence offered by defendant held not reversible error where evidence for plaintiff demanded verdict for full amount of note sued on, and offered evidence would not have authorized any other verdict. Riggins v. Boyd Mfg. Co., 123 Ga. 232, 51 S. E. 434. Rejection of lease offered in support of counterclaim for damages harmless where no damages proved. Pollock v. Talcott, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 622. Where no case for damages was made out, evidence as to amount of damages was immaterial and its exclusion harmless. Merrill v. Milliken [Me.] 63 A. 299. Erroneous instruction harmless where verdict is right. Baker v. Oughton [Iowa] 106 N. W. 272; Regan v. McCarthy, 119 Ill. App. 578; Quatt v. Ross [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1044; Ramold v. Clayton [Neb.] 108 N. W. 980; Bradner v. Rockdale Powder Co., 115 Mo. App. 102, 91 S. W. 997; Carr v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 195 Mo. 214, 92 S. W. 874; Mockowik v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 196 Mo. 550, 94 S. W. 256; Peterson v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 97 S. W. 860. Errors in instructions will not be considered where verdict is only one sustainable under the evidence. Morrow v. Laverty [Neb.] 109 N. W. 150. Error in instruction when no other verdict could be expected. Regan v. McCarthy, 119 Ill. App. 578. Instruction that defendant was charged with absolute duty harmless where evidence was such as to require a finding of negligence. Kopper v. Yonkers, 110 App. Div. 747, 97 N. Y. S. 425. Verdict for defendant will not be set aside for erroneous instruction where plaintiff had no cause of action. Lomax v. Southwest Missouri Elec. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 95 S. W. 945. Where evidence conclusively shows that plaintiff cannot recover, verdict for defendant will not be disturbed on account of erroneous instructions. Smith v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 1007. Where upon the findings in a trial by the court plaintiff was entitled to the judgment rendered, error in a declaration of law in that it ignored a certain defense was harmless to defendant, it appearing from the other declarations of law that the said defense was duly considered by the court. Wheless v. Serrano [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 108. Where a peremptory instruction for plaintiff would have been justified, defendant was not harmed by instructions. First Nat. Bank v. Leeper [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 636. Refusing instructions requested by defendant harmless where court might have properly given an affirmative instruction for plaintiff. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Whitson [Ala.] 41 So. 405. Erroneous instruction harmless where appellant could not have prevailed under any phase of the proof. Hover v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 57, 89 S. W. 1084. Error in imputing negligence of servant to master harmless where evidence showed negligence of another party who did represent the master. Dakan v. Chase & Son Mercantile Co., 197 Mo. 238, 94 S. W. 944. Submission of case on erroneous theory harmless where verdict is correct. Dealy v. Coble, 112 App. Div. 296, 98 N. Y. S. 452. Presumption of prejudice from improper remarks of counsel does not prevail where the verdict is sustained by the evidence. Mullen v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 963, 92 S. W. 1000.

Held prejudicial: Disregarding inadmissible evidence which might have been rendered admissible by amendment of the party's pleadings is error prejudicial to such party where the result is a judgment against him. Ewald v. Poates, 107 App. Div. 242, 94 N. Y. S. 1106.

3. See Saving Questions for Review, 6 C. L. 1385.

4. See Appeal and Review, 7 C. L. 138.

5. Smith v. Manlove [Ariz.] 85 P. 1066; Goddykoontz v. Omes [Colo.] 85 P. 839; Worth v. Emerson [Cal. App.] 85 P. 664; Gatlin v. Street [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 318. See supreme court rule 22, cl. 5 [55 N. E. vi.]. Springer v. Bricker, 165 Ind. 532, 76 N. E. 114. Error never presumed. Hoyt v. Hart [Cal] 87 P. 569; Van Burg v. Van Engen [Neb.] 107 N. W. 1006. Error must be manifest in the record, and this cannot be unless the point is saved below. State v. Marshall County Election Com'rs [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1016. Court will not go beyond appellant's brief to search for errors, but will search the whole record for matter upon which the judgment may be sustained. Id. Misconduct of counsel. Renshaw v. Dignan, 128 Iowa, 722, 105 N. W. 209. Remarks of court must be shown to have been made in presence of jury. Coulter v. Barker's Estate [Minn.] 107 N. W. 823. Refusal of instruction as to weight of evidence the materiality of which was not shown. Van Burg v. Van Engen [Neb.] 107 N. W. 1006. Error cannot be predicated upon allowance of amendment where contents of amendment are not stated in record. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1133. Complaining party must show error in exclusion of evidence. Merrill v. Milliken [Me.] 63 A. 299. Record must show excluded evidence. In re Angle's Estate, 148 Cal. 102, 82 P. 668; Magnolia Metal Co. v. Gale, 191 Mass. 487, 78 N. E. 128; Fleener v. Johnson [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 366; Stevens v. Citizens' Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1090. Record must show testimony sought to be elicited by excluded question. International Harvester Co. v. McKeever [S. D.] 109 N. W. 642. Evidence complained of must be in record. De Coster v. Herzog Co., 97 N. Y. S. 295; Sullivan v. Fugazzi [Mass.] 79 N. E. 775. Admission of testimony cannot be held reversible error where previous testimony of witness does not appear. Kinney v. Brotherhood of American Yeomen [N. D.] 106 N. W. 44. Admission of testimony as to extract from conversation with defendant not reversible error where neither subject-matter of conversations nor what was said therein was in record. Green v. Dodge [Vt.] 64 A. 499. It will be presumed that testimony on re-examination was rendered admissible by the cross-examination where the contrary does not appear. Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453. Error cannot be predicated upon admission of impeaching evidence where the record does not show the materiality of the testimony of the impeached witness. Texarkana & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Frugia [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep.

harm him rather than a co-party,[6] and must be one which he has not invited[7] and which he can assail without inconsistency to his contentions made on the trial.[8]

724, 95 S. W. 563. Error in excluding testimony is not ground for reversal in absence of statement of the facts, unless the bill of exceptions shows prejudice. Gatlin v. Street [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 318. Materiality of excluded evidence must appear of record. Tempie v. Phelps [Mass.] 79 N. E. 482. Record must be "quoted" in order to show error in excluding evidence. Creachen v. Bromley Bros. Carpet Co., 214 Pa. 15, 63 A. 195. Error cannot be predicated upon the insufficiency of the surety on an indemnity bond given in a suit to cancel a deed where the record does not contain the facts. Romine v. Howard [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 347, 93 S. W. 690. Objections to jurors on account of relationship to parties will not be considered where the degree or character of the relationship does not appear. Jones v. Lossiter [Ky.] 93 S. W. 657. Where expression of opinion alleged to have been made by juror was not shown to have made by a juror, and it did not appear that remarks in the jury's presence were understood by any of jury or what the remarks were. Lyman v. Brown, 73 N. H. 411, 62 A. 550. Failure of a court to take action because of failure to show injury from certain conduct of the jury will not be ground for reversal, even though such conduct might in fact have been injurious. Fields v. Dewitt, 71 Kan. 676, 81 P. 467.

6. Commonwealth v. Louisville Trust Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 547, 89 S. W. 599; People v. Rea [Cal. App.] 83 P. 165; Worth v. Emerson [Cal. App.] 85 P. 664; Nealon v. McGargill [Neb.] 108 N. W. 170; Dwight v. Lawrence, 111 App. Div. 616, 98 N. Y. S. 76; Muller v. Whelen, 99 N. Y. S. 618. Instructions. People's State Bank v. Ruxer [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 337. Admission of evidence. Cochran v. Cochran, 96 Minn. 523, 105 N. W. 183. Judgment against codefendants who were not liable. Riverside Heights Water Co. v. Riverside Trust Co., 148 Cal. 457, 83 P. 1003. Judgment against one of two joint defendants harmless to other defendant. McKee v. Cunningham [Cal. App.] 84 P. 260. Errors as to parties not appealing. Fulton v. Methow Trading Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 117. Directing verdict for codefendant and refusal to allow appellant to file cross petition against such codefendant not reviewable where the codefendant is not a party to the appeal. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Wiley, 28 Ky. L. R. 770, 90 S. W. 557. Appellant from a motion cannot object on appeal that his codefendants who have not sought to appear or be heard on appeal were not served with notice. Simonson v. Lauck, 105 App. Div. 82, 93 N. Y. S. 965. Where appellee did not appeal from a judgment denying him a lien, the sufficiency of his pleadings and the evidence to entitle him to such a lien cannot be raised by appellant. Harris v. Cain [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 327, 91 S. W. 866. In a suit against a county and its treasurer to recover fees, plaintiff being found not entitled to such fees, cannot complain of a judgment against the county in favor of the treasurer. Benefield v. Marion County [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 777, 95 S. W. 713. Party held not entitled to office could not complain that opposing candidate was not adjudged to be entitled. Tinkle v. Wallace [Ind.] 79 N. E. 365; Gilbert v. Washington Endowment Ass'n, 21 App. D. C. 344. Where one party on an appeal from an auditor's report in several consolidated causes withdraws his exceptions, a party to another of these causes cannot be heard to object to such withdrawal. Defendant cannot complain that petition of intervener was stricken from files. Andrews v. Ragel, 119 Ill. App. 51. Party not injured by award of cost out of fund in which he was not interested or by disposition of bill of interpleader relating to such fund. Brueggemann v. Brueggemann, 119 Ill. App. 112. Defendant in action for death cannot complain of distribution of amount of recovery among relatives of deceased. United Breweries Co. v. O'Donnell, 221 Ill. 334, 77 N. E. 547. Failure to serve properly by publication certain defendants who defaulted is not available to another defendant appealing. O'Laughlin v. Covell, 222 Ill. 162, 78 N. E. 59. Defendant in accounting not interested in disposition of fund for which he has been adjudged liable. Miller v. Russell, 224 Ill. 68, 79 N. E. 434. A plaintiff appealing because a new trial was awarded cannot urge error in refusing to submit to the jury certain questions of damages. Thrush v. Graybill, 128 Iowa, 406, 104 N. W. 472. A joint appellant may urge errors not common to both appellants, but cannot assume a position antagonistic to his coappellant. Anderson v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 85 P. 854. See Appeal and Review, 7 C. L. 128.

In action for tort defendant is not injured by finding in favor of codefendant where there is no right of contribution between defendants. Forsythe v. Los Angeles R. Co. [Cal.] 87 P. 24. Joint tort feasor cannot complain of errors affecting codefendant alone or of failure to render verdict against such codefendant. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Murphy's Adm'r [Ky.] 97 S. W. 729. Where statute makes joint tort feasors liable to contribution, a judgment against two such tort feasors will be reversed for error as to one. Mulderig v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 655, 94 S. W. 801.

7. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Teeters [Ind.] 77 N. E. 599. Party cannot complain of admission of evidence to which he has opened the door. American Foundry & Furnace Co. v. Settergren [Wis.] 110 N. W. 238. When counsel stated he would not object to certain evidence. Chicago City R. Co. v. Lowitz, 119 Ill. App. 360. Evidence as to facts as to which party has already introduced evidence. Jaegel v. Johnson, 148 Cal. 595, 84 P. 175. Evidence similar to that introduced by party himself. Lutcher v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 149, 95 S. W. 572; Mathre v. Devendorf [Iowa] 106 N. W. 356; Vette v. Sacher, 114 Mo. App. 353, 89 S. W. 350; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Udalle [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 668, 91 S. W. 330. Evidence introduced by appellant subject to any proper objection which she might thereafter urge was harmless as to her where its rejection would have left her without any evidence at all. Wells v. Baker [Colo.] 88 P. 152. Testimony elicited by party himself. King v. Southern R. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 639. Where defendant elicited certain statements as to certain papers by interrogating plaintiff in regard to the papers, he could not complain that the jury were misled by plaintiff's statements. Latson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 192 Mo. 449, 91 S. W. 109. Evidence brought out by party's cross-examination. New Orleans Furniture Mfg. Co. v. Hill Furniture Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 731, 94 S. W. 148; Pacific Exp. Co. v. Needham [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 288, 94 S. W. 1070. Where court was led by conduct of counsel to allow jury to separate without admonition. Fields v. Dewitt, 71 Kan. 676, 81 P. 467.

The majority of courts presume prejudice from error, once it is shown to exist,[9] and require the party defending against errors to show that no harm resulted.[10]

Instructions. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347; Indiana Union Traction Co. v. Jacobs [Ind.] 78 N. E. 325; City of Pana v. Broadman, 117 Ill. App. 139. Instruction similar to one given at party's own request. Patterson v. Frazer [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 78, 93 S. W. 146; Louisiana & Tex. Lumber Co. v. Meyers [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 779, 94 S. W. 140; Habig v. Parker [Neb.] 107 N. W. 127; Davis v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 107 N. W. 374; Chicago City R. Co. v. Pural, 224 Ill. 324, 79 N. E. 686. Instructions given at party's own request. Hales' Adm'rs v. Gilbert, 28 Ky. L. R. 1314, 91 S. W. 721; Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Williams [Miss.] 39 So. 489. Submitting wrong issue at party's own request. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Fisher [Ark.] 97 S. W. 279. Plaintiff cannot complain of defendant's instruction following the charge in the petition. Masterson v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 504. Party at whose instance the greater number of the instructions were given could not complain on account of the number given. Peterson v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 97 S. W. 860. Party cannot complain of an instruction submitting the case upon a theory in which he has acquiesced on the trial. Bragg v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 192 Mo. 331, 91 S. W. 527. Party cannot complain that a correct instruction conflicts with an erroneous one given at his own request. Hammer v. Crawford [Mo. App.] 93 S. W. 348. Party cannot complain of a modification of an erroneous instruction given at his request so as to limit the scope of the instruction and thus limit the error. Woodbury v. Winestine [Conn.] 64 A. 221.

8. Frick v. Kansas City, 117 Mo. App. 488, 93 S. W. 351; Ellis v. National City Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 892, 94 S. W. 437; Willis v. Weeks, 129 Iowa, 525, 105 N. W. 1012; Camplin v. Jackson [Colo.] 83 P. 1017. As to materiality of evidence in condemnation proceedings. Yellowstone Park R. Co. v. Bridger Coal Co. [Mont.] 87 P. 963. Where matter was stricken from answer on appellee's motion, he could not thereafter contend that proof of such matter was properly stricken because the matter should have been pleaded. Grand Valley Irr. Co. v. Fruita Imp. Co. [Colo.] 86 P. 324. Party cannot complain of finding in which he has acquiesced. Daggs v. Smith, 193 Mo. 494, 91 S. W. 1043. Party cannot complain of submission of case without argument where he acquiesced in such submission. Tenzer v. Gilmore, 114 Mo. App. 210, 89 S. W. 341. Plaintiff could not complain of submission of whole case to jury notwithstanding defendant's admissions eliminating certain matters from the issues, plaintiff, however, having treated such matters as in issue. Harding v. Kohl [Iowa] 108 N. W. 233. Where a pleading has been treated by both parties as filed, error cannot be predicated upon failure to enter it upon the appearance docket in proper time. Foley v. Cedar Rapids [Iowa] 110 N. W. 158. Where the parties treat the issues as made up they cannot thereafter object on account of failure to make up issue before hearing. Bader v. Schult & Co., 118 Mo. App. 22, 94 S. W. 834; Bank of Havelock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 522. A party cannot complain of admission of testimony which is incompetent only when taken together with other testimony to which he did not object. Mississippi Cent. R. Co. v. Hardy [Miss.] 41 So. 505. A decree entered upon final hearing on plaintiff's motion to perpetuate an injunction will not be reversed at plaintiff's instance because of the pendency of a rule against defendant for violating the injunction. Pence v. Carney, 58 W. Va. 296, 52 S. E. 702. Party who has objected to admission of testimony on ground that fact sought to be proved was admitted by pleadings cannot subsequently assert that such fact was not proved. Mitau v. Roddan [Cal.] 84 P. 145.

9. See 5 C. L. 1623. In re Dean's Estate [Cal. App.] 87 P. 13; Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall, 165 Ind. 574, 76 N. E. 400; Englander v. Fleck, 101 N. Y. S. 125; Dunn v. Currie [N. C.] 53 S. E. 533; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 847, 96 S. W. 1037; Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453. Where ruling indicates radically wrong theory of case, prejudice will be presumed. Booneville Nat. Bank v. Blakey [Ind.] 76 N. E. 529.

Rulings on evidence: Admission of incompetent evidence presumed prejudicial. Fountain v. Wabash R. Co., 114 Mo. App. 683, 90 S. W. 395; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Courtney [Ark.] 92 S. W. 251; Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bott, 104 Va. 615, 52 S. E. 258. Where evidence is improperly admitted the prima facie presumption is that it was considered by the jury in reaching a verdict. Johnson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [N. C.] 53 S. E. 362. Admission of illegal evidence raises presumption of injury and requires reversal unless the remaining evidence is without conflict and is sufficient to support the judgment. Florence Wagon Works v. Trinidad Asphalt Mfg. Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 49. Improper exclusion of evidence presumed prejudicial. Inman Bros. v. Dudley & D. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 146 F. 449. Prejudice presumed from exclusion of evidence as to damages in action sounding in tort, and court cannot look into evidence to determine whether there has been prejudice. City of Valparaiso v. Spaeth [Ind.] 76 N. E. 514.

Rulings as to pleadings: Prejudice pre-

Errors which favor the party objecting are of course not ground for reversal,[11] nor are such as may be corrected without resort to a new trial.[11a] sumed from striking out a defense where it does not appear from the record that the judgment would have been the same had the defense been considered. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 888, 97 S. W. 106. Error in sustaining demurrer to one count of complaint presumed prejudicial though other counts remained sufficient to sustain a judgment. Henderson v. Berry Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 662.

Instructions: Erroneous instruction presumed prejudicial. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Parish [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 334, 93 S. W. 682; Southern R. Co. v. Forgey [Va.] 54 S. E. 477; Smith v. Perham [Mont.] 83 P. 492; Ferrell v. Ellis, 129 Iowa, 614, 105 N. W. 993. Inconsistent instructions. American Tobacco Co. v. Polisco, 104 Va. 777, 52 S. E. 563. Submission of issue as to which there is no evidence is presumptively prejudicial. Fothergill v. Fothergill, 129 Iowa, 93, 105 N. W. 377. Refusal of instruction. Prescott & N. W. R. Co. v. Weldy [Ark.] 97 S. W. 452.

In matters of procedure error presumed harmless until contrary shown. Farmer v. Norton, 129 Iowa, 88, 105 N. W. 371.

Limitations of doctrine that prejudice is presumed from error will be found under the doctrine of Triviality Constituting Harmlessness, § 2.

10. Englander v. Fleck, 101 N. Y. S. 125; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Parish [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 334, 93 S. W. 682. It is only when it is clear that no prejudice resulted or could have resulted that the judgment may be affirmed. Bank of Havelock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 522. See post § 2, Directed Verdict. Presumption of error must be excluded beyond reasonable doubt. Inman Bros. v. Dudley & D. Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 146 F. 449; Armour & Co. v. Russell [C. C. A.] 144 F. 614. Exclusion of material evidence is reversible error unless it appears beyond a reasonable doubt that such exclusion was harmless. Central Trust Co. v. Culver [Colo.] 83 P. 1064. Where it is impossible to ascertain whether the jury were influenced by the incompetent evidence, its admission calls for reversal. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Courtney [Ark.] 92 S. W. 251; Colonial Trust Co. v. Getz, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 619. Where a demurrer to an insufficient paragraph of a complaint is overruled, plaintiff must show that verdict in his favor rested exclusively on good paragraphs. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McFall, 165 Ind. 574, 76 N. E. 400; Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. v. Barnes [Ind.] 76 N. E. 629. Presumption of prejudice in failing to limit degree of skill required of physician to that ordinarily possessed by physicians practicing in similar localities not rebutted where no physician from same or similar locality testified. Ferrell v. Ellis, 129 Iowa, 614, 105 N. W. 993.

11. See 5 C. L. 1623. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Helm, 28 Ky. L. R. 603, 89 S. W. 709; Yellowstone Park R. Co. v. Bridger Coal Co. [Mont.] 87 P. 963. Objection that complaint does not state cause of action is not available to respondent on plaintiff's appeal from an order denying a new trial. County Bank of San Luis Obispo v. Jack, 148 Cal. 437, 83 P. 705. Defendant cannot complain of overruling of demurrer to his plea. Odom v. Moore [Ala.] 41 So. 162. Plaintiff cannot complain of granting of defendant's motion to strike one of his own pleas. Grimmer v. Nolen [Ala.] 40 So. 97. Allowing too many peremptory challenges. Freiberg v. South Side El. R. Co., 221 Ill. 508, 77 N. E. 920. Where result of applying wrong rule as to interest on disbursements of guardian was more favorable to him than if correct rule had been applied. Abrams v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 127 Wis. 579, 106 N. W. 1091. Defendant cannot complain of overruling motion for new trial by one of several plaintiffs. Beaumont Traction Co. v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 94 S. W. 352.

Evidence: Admission of evidence favorable to complaining party. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Texas Land & Mortg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 183, 90 S. W. 197; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Block [Ark.] 95 S. W. 155; Shannon v. Tacoma, 41 Wash. 220, 83 P. 186. Admission of evidence of custom of partnerships in signing notes. Third Nat. Bank v. Fults, 115 Mo. App. 42, 90 S. W. 755. Defendant in action for injuries not harmed by evidence that plaintiff had visited different places for her health where it appeared that her health was improved by such visits. Latson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 192 Mo. 449, 91 S. W. 109. Where defendant denied liability on note sued on, error in admitting testimony of his discharge in bankruptcy and that he had filed the note as one of his liabilities was harmless, since it merely tended to establish the validity of the note. Lovell & Co. v. Sneed [Ark.] 95 S. W. 157. Presumption, in absence of evidence, being that a bridge will be of such character as to do most injury to remaining property of landowner, erroneous admission of plan of bridge was harmless to freeholders. Hadley v. Passaic County Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1132. Striking only part of answer, all of which was admissible, harmless to moving party. Kirby Lumber Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 913, 95 S. W. 607. Refusal to exclude evidence. Wallace v. North Alabama Traction Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 89. Error in placing burden of proof upon other party. Louisiana & Tex. Lumber Co. v. Meyers [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 779, 94 S. W. 140. Ruling as to burden of proof in quo warranto. Dunton v. People [Colo.] 87 P. 540. Error in placing burden of disproving revocation of will upon propounder harmless to contestant. In re Shelton's Will [N. C.] 55 S. E. 705.

Submission of issues: Defendant not harmed by submitting issue involving defense not available. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Gibson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 153, 96 S. W. 469. Party cannot complain of form of submission of issue found in his own favor. Davis v. Keen [N. C.] 55 S. E. 359. Refusal to submit issue which might have been found against appellant. Carr v. Prudential Ins.

Co., 101 N. Y. S. 158. Defendant not harmed by submission to jury of question resolvable against him as a matter of law. Shields v. Norton [C. C. A.] 143 F. 802; Emblen v. Bicksler [Colo.] 83 P. 636. Submitting question of contributory negligence to jury held favorable to appellant. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Deason [Ky.] 96 S. W. 1115. Defendant in action for breach of warranty cannot complain that by the submission of issues the case was made to depend on proof of only a part of the warranty. San Antonio Mach. & Supply Co. v. Josey [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 176, 91 S. W. 598. Defendant railroad company not injured by instruction submitting the case upon the theory of care required by common law instead of the theory under speed ordinances. Latson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 192 Mo. 449, 91 S. W. 109.

Instructions. De Laval Separator Co. v. Sharpless, 129 Iowa, 114, 105 N. W. 384; Pierce v. Doolittle [Iowa] 106 N. W. 751; Carr v. Prudential Ins. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 158; Bourke v. Butte Elec. & Power Co. [Mont.] 83 P. 470; Webster v. Sherman [Mont.] 84 P. 878; Barfield v. Coker & Co., 73 S. C. 181, 53 S. E. 170; Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Birchfield [Va.] 54 S. E. 879; Supreme Lodge K. P. v. Lipscomb [Fla.] 39 So. 637; Equitable Mfg. Co. v. Howard [Ala.] 41 So. 628; Texas Midland R. R. v. Byrd [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 401, 90 S. W. 185; Schmitt v. St. Louis Transit Co., 115 Mo. App. 445, 90 S. W. 421; International, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 709; Matfield v. Kimbrough [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 927, 90 S. W. 712; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 671, 91 S. W. 375; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Avis [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 519, 91 S. W. 877; Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Spotts [Ark.] 92 S. W. 249; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dooley [Ark.] 92 S. W. 789; El Paso & S. R. Co. v. Darr [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 145, 93 S. W. 166; City of Paducah v. Johnson [Ky.] 93 S. W. 1035; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Stubbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 210, 94 S. W. 1083; Dean v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 97 S. W. 910. Where contradictory charge is in favor of appellant. Mott v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 363; Donovan-McCormick v. Sparr [Mont.] 85 P. 1029. Error in manner of giving instructions which complaining party was not entitled to. O'Dea v. Michigan Cent. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 718, 105 N. W. 746. Instruction placing greater burden on plaintiff than that imposed by law was harmless to defendant. Phelan v. Granite Bituminous Pav. Co., 115 Mo. App. 423, 91 S. W. 440; Muncie Pulp Co. v. Hacker [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 770; Indianapolis & N. W. Traction Co. v. Henderson [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 539; Sherwood v. Home Sav. Bank [Iowa] 109 N. W. 9. Defendant not injured by error in placing burden of negativing contributory negligence upon plaintiff. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Connolly [Neb.] 109 N. W. 368. Instruction that if plaintiff contributed in any material degree to the injury he could recover nothing was harmless to defendant. Bowman v. Humphrey [Iowa] 109 N. W. 714. Charging defendant with duty of exercising less care than required by law. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch [Tenn.] 94 S. W. 671. Stating that the court was not at liberty to say whether there was any evidence of willfulness was harmless to defendant where there was such evidence. Talbert v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 138. Use of word "directly" in charging that plaintiff could not recover if his actions contributed "directly" to his injury was harmless to defendant. Ruffin v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 86. Annexing to verbal stipulations relative to a written contract qualifications not required by law was harmless to party asserting the invalidity of such stipulations. Smith Premier Typewriter Co. v. Rowan Hardware Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 417. Instruction that the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur has no application to the case must be deemed correct on defendant's appeal. Dolan v. New York Sanitary Utilization Co., 104 App. Div. 14, 93 N. Y. S. 217. Instruction as to amount of brokerage due broker held favorable to broker. Yore v. Meshew [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 672, 109 N. W. 35.

Verdicts and findings: Awarding plaintiff less than he was entitled to was harmless to defendant. Brunson v. Blair [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 926, 97 S. W. 337; Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Bickford [Va.] 52 S. E. 1011; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Thomas [Miss.] 40 So. 257. Defendant cast by judgment cannot object that the verdict was too small even if it was also illogical. Morgan v. McCaslin, 114 Ill. App. 427. Defendant not harmed by verdict for less than evidence demanded. Pullman Co. v. Schaffner [Ga.] 55 S. E. 933. Defendant cannot complain that a verdict for plaintiff for a portion of the property sued for valued such portion at a sum equal to the value of all of the property as stated in the complaint. Phoenix Furniture Co. v. Jaudon [S. C.] 55 S. E. 308. Granting only compensatory damages in action for willful wrong was harmless to defendant. Wilson Lumber Co. v. Alderman & Sons Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 447. Findings in favor of defendant harmless as to him. Bader v. Ferguson, 118 Mo. App. 34, 94 S. W. 836. Finding giving party more land than claimed by him. Harris County Irr. Co. v. Hornberger [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 771, 94 S. W. 145.

Judgment: Judgment in party's favor. Commissioners of Union Drainage Dist. No. 3 v. Virgil & Cortland Com'rs, 220 Ill. 176, 77 N. E. 71. Judgment more favorable than appellant entitled to. Lawrence Bros. v. Heylman, 111 App. Div. 848, 98 N. Y. S. 121. Defendant cannot complain that judgment is for less than verdict. Kessel v. Mayer, 118 Ill. App. 267. Defendant cannot complain that plaintiff was awarded less than he was entitled to. Deaton v. Lawson, 40 Wash. 486, 82 P. 879; Arnold v. McBride [Ark.] 93 S. W. 989; Burns v. Burns, 109 App. Div. 98, 95 N. Y. S. 797. That damages without injunction awarded harmless to defendant. Sadler v. New York [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 272. Party enjoined from using trade name in certain territory cannot complain that the injunction was not without geographical limitation. Cohen v. Nagle, 190 Mass. 4, 76 N. E. 276. Defendant cannot complain of dismissal of mandamus proceedings against him without judgment. McCormick v. State, 165 Ind. 639, 76 N. E. 293. Defendant in action on replevin bond cannot complain that judgment was for amount for which property was held where such amount was less than value of property. Martin v. Hertz, 224 Ill. 84, 79 N. E. 558. Seller, on being denied right to sue on purchase-money draft, cannot complain of failure to require return of a cash deposit made by the buyer. Biescar v. Pratt [Cal. App.] 87 P. 1101. Plaintiff in replevin not injured by failure to enter judgment against his sureties on the delivery bond nor by fact that judgment failed to order plaintiff to return the property or pay its assessed valuation, nor by failure to adjudge him to pay damages for taking and detention. Absher v. Franklin [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 1002. Defendant in suit to enforce assessment for street improvements cannot complain that no personal judgment was rendered against him or that only part of the property was ordered to be sold, it not appearing whether the lien covered the whole property or that the part ordered sold would not pay the debt. Lindsey v. Brawner [Ky.] 97 S. W. 1.

§ 2. Triviality constituting harmlessness.—An error is harmless if too trivial in its nature or consequences to have substantially influenced the result.[12] The weight or strength of the evidence may affect the importance of error.[13]

11a. Roy v. E. St. Louis Suburban R. Co., 119 Ill. App. 313. Error in form of judgment. Id. See Appeal and Review, 7 C. L. 138. See, also, post § 3, Errors Cured or Made Harmless by Other Matters.

12. See 5 C. L. 1625. Irresponsive answers not of sufficient importance to warrant reversal. In re Dunahugh's Will [Iowa] 107 N. W. 925. Error in admitting certain evidence of bias of witness held too trivial to justify reversal. Levy v. Wolf [Cal. App.] 84 P. 313. Error involving trifling sum of money. Chany v. Hotchkiss [Conn.] 63 A. 947. A judgment will not be reversed because of error where the amount involved in the error is trivial compared to the costs of a new trial. Gates v. Davis, 28 Ky. L. R. 490, 89 S. W. 490. Erroneous instruction resulting in recovery of only $10 too much in action involving $350. Weick v. Dougherty, 28 Ky. L. R. 930, 90 S. W. 966. Failure of decree in an injunction suit to give plaintiff judgment for $1 damages awarded by jury held too trifling to require even a modification of the decree. Hoyt v. Hart [Cal.] 87 P. 569. Doubt as to whether judgment was for 18 cents too much. Neal v. Gray, 124 Ga. 510, 52 S. E. 622. Damages excessive to the amount of only $2.81. Spunner v. Roney, 122 Ill. App. 19. Doctrine of de minimis, etc., applied when error involved only $12 while case involved $500,000. McDougal v. Fuller, 148 Cal. 521, 83 P. 701. No reversal on account of instruction resulting in only nominal damages. Diamon v. Taylor [Minn.] 109 N. W. 1133. As general rule no reversal for failure to allow nominal damages. Clark v. American Exp. Co. [Iowa] 106 N. W. 642. Failure to award nominal damages harmless unless some right other than the right to damages is involved. Swift & Co. v. Newport News [Va.] 52 S. E. 821; Green v. Macy, 36 Ind. App. 560, 76 N. E. 264.

Held prejudicial: Rule that failure to give nominal damages is not reversible error not applicable in action for trespass where defendant's acts were such that if continued they might give rise to a claim of title by adverse possession. Wing v. Seske [Iowa] 109 N. W. 717. Recovery of nominal damagee may be prejudicial error where such recovery amounts to an adjudication of valuable rights. Harvey v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa, 465, 105 N. W. 958.

13. Erroneous instruction harmless where evidence conclusive and verdict in accord therewith. Williams v. Supreme Ct. of Honor, 221 Ill. 152, 77 N. E. 542. Where only conflict was as to inferences to be drawn from testimony, instruction as to credibility of witnesses harmless. Dillman v. McDanel, 222 Ill. 276, 78 N. E. 591. Where court might properly have taken question from jury and found as they found, erroneous instructions harmless. Berlin v. Belle Isle Scenic R. Co., 141 Mich. 646, 12 Det. Leg. N. 573, 105 N. W. 130. Where party's right of action is defeated by undisputed evidence, he is not harmed by erroneous instructions. Morris v. Jacks [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 764, 96 S. W. 637; Walker v. Rein [N. D.] 106 N. W. 405. Erroneous instruction with reference to counterclaim not sustained by evidence harmless to defendant. Cuatt v. Ross [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1044. Incomplete instruction as to burden of proof on plaintiff harmless where defendant introduced no evidence. Barrie v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 233. Erroneous instruction as to burden of proof as to assumption of risk harmless when evidence conclusively disproved any such assumption. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Nicholas, 165 Ind. 679, 76 N. E. 522. Instruction assuming facts conclusively proved, harmless. McManus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 110, 92 S. W. 176. Where evidence conclusively negatived certain acts of negligence, an instruction in regard to such negligence became immaterial. Smith's Adm'r v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 439, 89 S. W. 694. Where evidence showed negligence beyond controversy, instruction imposing too onerous duty of care harmless. City of Gibson v. Murray, 120 Ill. App. 296; Kopper v. Yonkers, 110 App. Div. 747, 97 N. Y. S. 425. Erroneous instruction as to what constituted notice of adverse possession harmless where undisputed evidence showed notice. Yarborough v. Mayes [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 785, 91 S. W. 624. Where the evidence conclusively showed a want of ordinary care, an instruction charging defendant with duty of exercising too high degree of care was harmless. Pullman Co. v. Norton [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 869, 91 S. W. 841. Where it was apparent that plaintiff was injured by negligence for which defendant was liable, defendant was not injured by erroneous instruction as to proximate cause. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Paschall [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 709, 92 S. W. 446. Where it was shown without conflict that wife had no independent means of support, instruction casting burden on husband to show that she had such means was harmless. Baker v. Oughton [Iowa] 106 N. W. 272. Improper argument outside of record ground for reversal when evidence was conflicting. Texas, Cases applying these principles to errors or irregularities in process or appearance,[14] parties,[15] pleadings and formation of issues,[16] provisional and interlocuetc., R. Co. v. Harrington [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 653. Admission of improper testimony prejudicial when evidence is conflicting. Lee v. Salt Lake City [Utah] 83 P. 562. When the evidence is conflicting, admission of incompetent evidence is of more consequence than when the evidence supporting the verdict is uncontradicted. Levels v. St. Louis & H. R. Co., 196 Mo. 606, 94 S. W. 275. Incompetent evidence prejudicial where evidence was conflicting. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Plumlee [Ark.] 95 S. W. 442. Opinion evidence held prejudicial where the evidence was conflicting. Lee v. Salt Lake City [Utah] 83 P. 562. When evidence as to ownership of property was conflicting it was reversible error to allow witness to testify to his personal impression or understanding as to such ownership. Continental Ins. Co. v. Cummings [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 279, 95 S. W. 48. Instruction as to negligence of which there was no evidence was not harmless where evidence as to other acts of negligence was not conclusive. Stevens & Citizens' Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1090. Erroneous instruction reversible error where evidence conflicting. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly, 221 Ill. 498, 77 N. E. 916.

14. Failure to issue warrant for arrest in contempt proceedings and bringing in the parties by notice or citation was not reversible error. State v. Thompson [Iowa] 106 N. W. 515. Improper service by publication upon persons, merely nominal parties to the proceeding, will not be ground for reversal. O'Laughlin v. Covell, 222 Ill. 162, 78 N. E. 59.

15. Error in reviving suit upon death of unnecessary party. Tainter v. Abrams [Neb.] 107 N. W. 225. Allowing disinterested party to participate in proceedings for appointment of administrator. In re McClellan's Estate [S. D.] 107 N. W. 681. Refusal to make a person a party who does not show that he has any defense. See Rev. St. 1898, § 2829. Mash v. Bloom, 126 Wis. 385, 105 N. W. 831. Misjoinder of parties plaintiff in an action for tort is harmless where the costs are not increased thereby. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Heard [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 617, 91 S. W. 371.

16. Rulings on pleadings are unimportant where a general charge for defendant is properly given. Williams v. Central of Georgia R. Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 143. Indefiniteness and uncertainty in complaint. Creighton v. People [Colo.] 83 P. 1057. Appellant not prejudiced by technical error in denominating an attorney's petition for fees as a cross petition. Proctor Coal Co. v. Tye [Ky.] 96 S. W. 512. The fact that the petition claimed an item which did not figure in the adjudication against defendant or in the demand asserted against him did not injure him. Ragley v. Godley [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 153, 90 S. W. 66. In absence of stipulation to contrary, technical errors in pleading waived by reporting case. Hurd v. Chase, 100 Me. 561, 62 A. 660. Failure to plead tender of return of property purchased where it appeared that such a tender would have been unavailing. Olson v. Brison, 129 Iowa, 604, 106 N. W. 14. Failure to dispose of issue made by replication where latter has been rendered immaterial by an amended replication. Ray v. Keith, 218 Ill. 182, 75 N. E. 921. Reference before answer filed and hearing by referee without such answer harmless where plaintiff had notice of contents of answer and time to meet the same. Bader v. Schuet & Co., 118 Mo. App. 22, 94 S. W. 834. Submission of issue already found by the court held harmless. Turner v. Wabash R. Co., 114 Mo. App. 539, 90 S. W. 391. Irregularity in making up issues harmless where the case was tried on its merits and there was no dispute about the facts. Meehan v. Peck, 28 Ky. L. R. 446, 89 S. W. 491.

Variance: Immaterial variance. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 349, 93 S. W. 686. Disregarding variance curable by amendment, harmless. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Lawson [C. C. A.] 143 F. 834. Variance curable by amendment harmless. See Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4950. Irby v. Phillips, 40 Wash. 618, 82 P. 931; Collins v. Denny Clay Co., 41 Wash. 136, 82 P. 1012; Coe v. Rockman, 126 Wis. 515, 106 N. W. 290. Complaint considered as amended to conform to proof. Lang v. Crescent Coal Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 261; Schwaninger v. McNeeley & Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 514. In action for injury to crops a variance as to the description of a part of the land is harmless where the identity of the crops is fully made out. Williamson v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 115 Mo. App. 72, 90 S. W. 401. Allowing evidence of consideration in action to reform contract where complaint failed to allege consideration. First Nat. Bank v. Bacon, 98 N. Y. S. 717. Variance between affidavit and accusation in contempt proceedings harmless where defendant had ample notice of and time to prepare his defense against the charge in the accusation. State v. McCarley [Kan.] 87 P. 743.

Sustaining demurrer; Demurrer to insufficient pleading. City of Huntington v. Amiss [Ind.] 79 N. E. 199. Demurrer to unnecessary allegations. Miller v. Taggart, 36 Ind. App. 595, 76 N. E. 321. Informal demurrer to bad answer. Board of Com'rs of Morgan County v. Crone, 36 Ind. App. 283, 75 N. E. 826. Demurrer to plea or answer stating facts provable under general denial on file at time of ruling. Swing v. Hill [Ind.] 75 N. E. 658; Shetterly v. Axt [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 901; City of Valparaiso v. Spaeth [Ind.] 76 N. E. 514; City of Covington v. Ferguson [Ind.] 78 N. E. 241; American Exp. Co. v. Southern Ind. Exp. Co. [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1021; American Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1029; American Exp. Co. v. State [Ind.] 79 N. E. 352; Western R. Co. v. Mitchell [Ala.] 41 So. 427; Little v. Marx [Ala.] 39 So. 517; Chandler Bros. v. Higgins [Ala.] 39 So. 576; Western R. Co. v. Stone [Ala.] 39 So. 723. But not when general denial is not filed until after the demurrer has been sustained to the special pleading. Swing v. Hill [Ind.] 75 N. E. 658. Demurrer to plea setting up matter contained in another plea. Forbes v. Davidson [Ala.] 41 So. 312; Springfield v.

tory proceedings,[17] continuances, adjournments, dismissal before trial, and the like,[18]

Hurley [Ala.] 41 So. 942. Demurrer to paragraph of answer harmless where facts set up therein are provable under another paragraph. People's State Bank v. Ruzer [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 337. Demurrer to special replication setting up matter available under general reply. State v. Porter [Ala.] 40 So. 144; Gates v. O'Gara [Ala.] 39 So. 729. Demurrer to cross complaint where substantially same facts were provable under the answer. Coyne v. Baker [Cal. App.] 84 P. 269. Treating a demurrer as a motion to make more specific and sustaining it was harmless error where party refused to amend, though defects in the pleading were not strictly grounds for demurrer. Cook v. Jones [Ark.] 96 S. W. 620. Sustaining demurrer harmless where party is given benefit of his pleading. See post § 3, Errors Cured or Made Harmless by Other Matters.

Held prejudicial: Error in sustaining general demurrer ground for reversal though special demurrers were properly sustained and the pleading was not amended. Bigham Bros. v. Port Arthur Canal & Dock Co. [Tex.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 4, 97 S. W. 686. Error in sustaining demurrer to complaint which stated cause of action not harmless because same questions presented by exceptions to conclusions of law. Warner v. Jennings [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 1013.

Overruling demurrer: Overruling of demurrer to plea to a certain count of the complaint harmless where plaintiff fails to sustain such count. Hooks v. Huntsville R., Light & Power Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 273. Overruling special demurrer to portion of petition harmless where the issue raised by such portion was not submitted to jury. Jackson v. Poteet [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 45, 89 S. W. 980. Error in overruling special demurrer to portion of petition for indefiniteness harmless where the case made was provable under portions that were sufficiently definite. Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. v. McAllister [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 388, 90 S. W. 933. Overruling demurrer to count abandoned by plaintiff and eliminated from the case by instructions. Blankenship v. Decker [Mont.] 85 P. 1035. When demurrer is sustained on certain grounds and the pleading is not amended, overruling other grounds is harmless. Henry v. Southern R. Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 87. Overruling demurrer for misjoinder of causes. See Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 344. Boonville Nat. Bank v. Blakey [Ind.] 76 N. E. 529. Overruling demurrer to paragraph of reply where matter set up therein provable under general denial. Indiana Union Traction Co. v. McKinney [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 203. Overruling demurrer to one paragraph of complaint harmless where it plainly appears that judgment rests entirely on another paragraph. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Ind.] 79 N. E. 442; Bedford Quarries Co. v. Turner [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 58. Error in overruling demurrer to complaint to enforce laborer's lien on mining claims for failure to allege that claim was for more than $1,000 and was recorded, harmless to owner of claim. Berentz v. Belmont Oil Min. Co., 148 Cal. 577, 84 P. 47.

Held prejudicial: Overruling demurrer to one paragraph of complaint not harmless where it does not appear that judgment rests upon other paragraphs. City of Decatur v. McKean [Ind.] 78 N. E. 982.

Rulings on exceptions: Sustaining exception to part of answer asserting a defense which had been waived by defendant. Shearer v. Gaar, Scott & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 146, 90 S. W. 684. Overruling exception to portion of plaintiff's petition which was not sustained by evidence. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 886. Overruling exception by one defendant to answer of other defendant seeking judgment over against former harmless where no such judgment was rendered. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 600, 93 S. W. 1107. Overruling special exception to part of petition harmless where court did not submit the issue tendered by such part. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Trump [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 903.

Ruling on motion to strike. Bosler v. Coble [Wyo.] 84 P. 895. Overruling motion to strike is harmless since the objection may again be raised by objection to the evidence and by requests for instructions excluding such evidence. Brownell v. Salem Flouring Mills Co. [Or.] 87 P. 770. Sustaining motion to strike plea where same matter is available under general issue. Little v. Marx [Ala.] 39 So. 517. Where subject-matter of stricken plea in abatement was incorporated in answer and was thus fully litigated. Simmons v. Kelsey [Neb.] 107 N. W. 122. Striking demise alleged in declaration in ejectment harmless where plaintiff did not by his proof connect himself with such demise. Wilson v. Hammond [Ala.] 40 So. 343. Striking amendment harmless where same issues were raised by another amendment. Murphy v. Hiltibridle [Iowa] 109 N. W. 471.

Amendment: Filing of unnecessary amendment. Miller v. Tjexhus [S. D.] 104 N. W. 519. Allowing amendment bringing in facts admitted. Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 944, 94 S. W. 365. Where prejudice is not apparent from allowance of amendment. Florence Oil & Refining Co. v. Oil Well Supply Co. [Colo.] 87 P. 1077. Failure to make formal ruling on motion for leave to amend harmless where court clearly indicated that the motion would be denied. Hewel v. Hogin [Cal. App.] 84 P. 1002. Filing amendment in vacation harmless, especially where it was not necessary. Bramblett v. Deposit Bank, 28 Ky. L. R. 1228, 92 S. W. 283. Refusing to allow amendment which was merely a repetition of matter contained in the original complaint. Huggins v. Southern R. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 856. Amendment to conform pleadings to proof harmless where the evidence was admissible under the original pleadings. Carmichael v. Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 48 Misc. 386, 95 N. Y. S. 587. Unauthorized amendment of claim for damages against city as regards date of accident. Kleyle v. Oswego, 109 App. Div. 330, 95 N. Y. S. 879. Unauthorized amendment of clerical error in misstating venue of affidavit harmless. Kleyle v. Oswego, 109 App. Div. 330, 95 N. Y. S. 879. Substantive right not affected by the trial and course and conduct of the same,[19] formation and selection of the jury,[20] and rulings on demurrers to evidence and motions for directed verdicts and nonsuits,[21] are cited below.

correction of clerical error in petition. See Rev. St. 1898, § 2829. Alft v. Clintonville, 126 Wis. 334, 105 N. W. 561.

Ruling on motion for more specific allegation: Ruling on motion to make one paragraph of complaint more specific harmless where it is apparent that verdict is grounded on another paragraph. City of Indianapolis v. Keeley [Ind.] 79 N. E. 499. Refusal to require specific allegation of contents of trunk harmless where defendant was already informed and the trunk was in its possession. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Weatherby [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 809, 92 S. W. 58.

Election: Requiring an election harmless where the plaintiff had at the time completed his proofs and had introduced no evidence to sustain the cause against which the enforced election was made. Wilson v. Tye [Ky.] 92 S. W. 295. Error in failing to compel plaintiff to elect between actual and statutory damages harmless where only one kind of damages was allowed. Galbraith v. Carmode [Wash.] 86 P. 624. Where case submitted on single theory and each party permitted to introduce all his evidence, refusal to require election between counts was harmless. Tuffree v. Binford [Iowa] 107 N. W. 425.

17. Master's report. Matthews v. Whitethorn, 220 Ill. 36, 77 N. E. 89. Overruling demurrer to paragraph of reply to exceptions to receiver's report harmless, the issues presented thereby being determinable upon the report and exceptions thereto. Polk v. Johnson [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1139. Where a second ground for change of venue was comprehensive enough to include the third, and all the evidence available to prove the third was admitted to prove the second, sustaining exception to third ground was harmless. Jones v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 971, 92 S. W. 1010. Granting of injunction ineffective because of failure to give bond. Bosler v. Coble [Wyo.] 84 P. 895.

18. Continuances. Bratt v. Sparks [Ark.] 96 S. W. 1057. Denial of continuance asked for on account of absence of witnesses harmless where their testimony on a former trial was admitted and covered all the facts which were sought to be proved by the absent witnesses. Carp v. Queen Ins. Co., 116 Mo. App. 528, 92 S. W. 1137. No reversal for refusal of continuance on account of absence of witness where adverse party admitted the evidence which witness would have given. Florence Oil & Refining Co. v. Oil Well Supply Co. [Colo.] 87 P. 1077. Refusal of continuance not reversible error where discretion not abused. Dorais v. Doll [Mont.] 83 P. 884. Dismissal without notice as to time of trial as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 594. In re Dean's Estate [Cal.] 87 P. 13. Plaintiff moving for dismissal not prejudiced by failure of court to include in a judgment for defendant all the property involved in the suit, such failure being in effect a dismissal pro tanto. Subera v. Jones [S. D.] 108 N. W. 26.

19. Order of trial. Linderman v. Nolan 16 Okl. 352, 83 P. 796. Submission of issues Starkweather v. Emerson Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 719. Allowing security for costs to be given after return day. Charles Bakrow & Co. v. Totten [Mich.] 109 N. W. 31. Ruling as to burden of proof. Pratt v. Davis, 224 Ill. 300, 79 N. E. 562. Departure from form of court rule not reversible error where substance of rule observed. In re Logan's Assigned Estate, 213 Pa. 218, 62 A. 843. The giving of special interrogatories by the court on its own motion is not reversible error where no prejudice results therefrom. Chicago City R. Co. v. Jordan, 116 Ill. App. 650. Ruling that plaintiff might show certain damages harmless where no such damages are shown. Gulf & C. R. Co. v. Hartley [Miss.] 41 So. 382.

20. Errors in formation of jury harmless where no question of fact arose on trial. Associated Presbyterian Congregation of Hebron v. Hanna, 98 N. Y. S. 1082. Overruling challenge. Williams v. Supreme Ct. of Honor, 120 Ill. App. 263. Overruling challenge not reversible error where it appears that party had fair trial. Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 254, 94 S. W. 1074. Overruling peremptory challenges where challenges allowed by court were not exhausted and it did not appear that any objectionable juror was allowed on the jury. International, etc., R. Co. v. Bingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1113. Refusal to allow a party his statutory number of challenges not ground for reversal unless it appears from record that appellant was probably injured by such ruling, and no such injury appears where it does not appear that any objectionable juror was chosen or that the party would have used the additional challenges if they had been allowed to him. Sweeney v. Taylor Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 696, 92 S. W. 442. Allowing additional peremptory challenge not reversible error in absence of showing of injury. Creech v. Aberdeen [Wash.] 87 P. 44. Sustaining objection to juror. Ives v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 74. Allowing challenge harmless where other party did not exhaust his peremptory challenges. Hodgin v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 413. Ruling as to competency of juror was harmless where direction of verdict was properly made. Walton v. Lindsay Lumber Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 670.

Held prejudicial: Error in overruling challenge for cause presumed prejudicial regardless of whether the party has exhausted his peremptory challenges. Theobald v. St. Louis Transit Co., 191 Mo. 395, 90 S. W. 354. Disallowing challenge for cause held prejudicial where peremptory challenges were exhausted. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hooser [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 27, 97 S. W. 708. Prejudice presumed from error in overruling challenge to juror for cause. Theobald v. St. Louis Transit Co., 191 Mo. 395, 90 S. W. 354. Denial of positive statutory right to have juror excluded was prejudicial. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Lester [Tex.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 813, 89 S. W. 752. Injury presumed from error in failing to sustain a challenge for cause where an objectionable juror is thus forced to be accepted. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hooser [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 27, 97 S. W. 708.

The admission[22] or exclusion[23] of evidence which cannot have been efficient to

21. Demurrer to evidence: The general rule is that the improper admission of evidence, which may have been prejudicial, constitutes reversible error, and this is true even though it be doubtful whether in fact such evidence was or was not prejudicial, but the general rule is subject to the exception that if in such case there is a demurrer to the evidence and an alternative verdict, and after disregarding upon such demurrer such illegal evidence and treating the balance of the evidence as is proper under the rules applicable to demurrers to evidence, there is plainly enough evidence to sustain a judgment for the demurrant, the admission of the illegal evidence will not reverse. Lane Bros. & Co. v. Bott, 104 Va. 615, 52 S. E. 258.

Direction of verdict: Verdict properly directed but on wrong grounds. Latting v. Owasso Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 148 F. 369. When a verdict is directed on specific, but untenable, grounds, it may not be affirmed on other grounds, unless it is clear beyond doubt that the new grounds could not have been obviated if they had been called to the attention of the defeated party at the time the verdict was rendered. Bank of Havelock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 522. But, when the defeated party has introduced at the trial all the legal evidence he offered and has rested his case, he has thereby estopped himself from denying that he can do no more to overcome the objection that the evidence is insufficient to sustain a verdict in his favor, and if the bill of exceptions contains all the evidence, and it is clear beyond doubt that it would not sustain a verdict in his favor, an instruction by the court to return a verdict against him upon some other, but untenable, ground is error without prejudice and no ground for reversal. Id.

Note: "When a verdict is directed on limited, but untenable grounds, it may not stand on other grounds, unless it is clear beyond doubt that the new grounds could not have been obviated if they had been called to the attention of the defeated party at the time the motion was made. Peck v. Heurich, 167 U. S. 624, 42 Law. Ed. 302; Currier v. Dartmouth College [C. C. A.] 117 F. 44. But where parties have produced all their evidence, and the court has received it, and they have rested their case at the trial, they have thereby admitted, and in that way estopped themselves from denying, that they can do no more to overcome the objection that the evidence is insufficient to sustain a verdict in their favor, because the question of the sufficiency of the evidence always arises in every case before its submission to a jury, and it is the province and duty of the court to determine it. Cole v. German Savings & Loan Soc. [C. C. A.] 124 F. 113, 122, 63 L. R. A. 416; Brady v. Chicago & G. W. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 114 F. 100, 105, 57 L. R. A. 712; Railway Co. v. Belliwith [C. C. A.] 83 F. 437, 441; Commissioners v. Clark, 94 U. S. 278, 284, 24 Law. Ed. 59; North Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 123 U. S. 727, 733, 31 Law. Ed. 287; Railway Co. v. Converse, 139 U. S. 469, 35 Law. Ed. 213. In W. B. Grimes Dry Goods Co. v. Malcolm, 164 U. S. 483, 491, 41 Law. Ed. 524; Id. [C. C. A.] 58 F. 670, 671, the trial court directed a juror to consent to a verdict because he had once agreed to it, although he protested that it was not his verdict before the court had received it. But the supreme court and this court held that the error was not prejudicial, and affirmed the judgment, because the record clearly showed that the evidence warranted a peremptory instruction and would not have sustained any other verdict, although that question had not been presented to the trial court by motion or suggestion, and it had submitted the case to the jury. When a defeated party has been permitted to present, and has introduced, all the legal evidence which he offered, has rested his case, and the court has instructed the jury to return a verdict against him upon a specified, but untenable ground, its action is error without prejudice, and will not warrant a reversal of the judgment, where it is clear beyond doubt from a bill of exceptions, which contains all the evidence, that it would not sustain any other verdict. Smiley v. Barker [C. C. A.] 83 F. 684, 687; Moffat v. Smith [C. C. A.] 101 F. 771; Baker v. Kaiser [C. C. A.] 126 F. 317, 319."—See Bank of Havelock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 522.

Nonsuit: Granting motion for nonsuit after announcing, before argument of the motion, that it would be denied, held not reversible error. Brown v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 1053. Refusal to grant nonsuit harmless where defendant's evidence supplies requisite proof. Levy v. Wolf [Cal. App.] 84 P. 313.

22. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Ala.] 41 So. 984; Smith v. Dubost, 148 Cal. 622, 84 P. 38; Sierra Land & Cattle Co. v. Bricker [Cal. App.] 85 P. 665; Pullman Co. v. Chicago, 224 Ill. 248, 79 N. E. 572; Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369; In re Wiltsey's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 776; Vette v. Sacher, 114 Mo. App. 363, 89 S. W. 360; Lyman v. Brown, 73 N. H. 411, 62 A. 650; Hindley v. Manhattan R. Co. [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 276; In re Shelton's Will [N. C.] 55 S. E. 705. Hearsay. Kinney v. Brotherhood of American Yeomen [N. D.] 106 N. W. 44; Nickles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 255 Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington [Tex. Civ App.] 98 S. W. 653; Sullivan & Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 690; Jackson v Mercantile Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wash.] 88 P 127. Evidence having no probative force Barnett v. Pepper, 114 Mo. App. 216, 89 S. W. 345. Evidence too insignificant in its effect to require reversal. Beier v. St. Louis Transit Co., 197 Mo. 215, 94 S. W. 876. Evidence having no tendency to establish contested issue: Barnes v. Squier [Mass.] 78 N. E. 731. Evidence the exclusion of which would not have changed result. In re Angle's Estate, 148 Cal. 102, 82 P. 668; Loyerin & Browne Co v. Bumgarner [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 1000; Bank of Yolo v. Bank of Woodland [Cal. App.] 86 P. 820; Simmons v. Sharpe [Ala.] 42 So. 441. Evidence not considered in deciding case. Veatch v. Gray [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 316, 91 S. W. 324. Findings showed that erroneous evidence was not con-the result is harmless.[24] For example, evidence which tended to prove a fact not sidered. Cox v. Odell, 1 Cal. App. 682, 82 P. 1086. Admission of evidence on part of defendant harmless where verdict shows that jury did not believe plaintiff had sustained his burden of proof. Rappaport v. New York City R. Co., 99 N. Y. S. 539. Expert testimony so complicated and unsatisfactory as to be of comparatively small force. In re McClellan's Estate [S. D.] 107 N. W. 681. Expert testimony of such a character that the jury could not make a finding based thereon until it had found other facts which alone authorized recovery. Goddard v. Enzler, 222 Ill. 462, 78 N. E. 805. Incompetent evidence which did not add any additional support to the finding supported by uncontradicted evidence. Campbell v. McClellis [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1129. Rules regulating speed of cars, where such rules did not impose higher degree of care than that imposed by law. Blumenthal v. Union Elec. Co., 129 Iowa, 322, 105 N. W. 588. Reproduction of sounds made by railroad trains in proximity to defendant's hotel not reversible error, if error at all, in proceedings by railroad company for right to use street for its road. Boyne City, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 739, 109 N. W. 429. Where running of limitations was dependent on defendant's ability to pay, evidence of inability at such a time as would not bar the action was harmless. Porter v. Magnetic Separator Co., 100 N. Y. S. 888. Admission of evidence affecting only amount of recovery harmless where there is no complaint that verdict is excessive. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Lynch [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 237, 90 S. W. 511. Declaration of witness that his evidence on former trial was, to the best of his recollection, true, was harmless where the transcript was in evidence and he had already testified that independently of the transcript he had no recollection of his former testimony. Phillips v. Hazen [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1096. Evidence of a custom where the parties themselves had construed the contract in conformity with such custom. Mitau v. Roddan [Cal.] 84 P. 145. Testimony as to construction of contract where such construction conformed to the court's own construction. Strother v. McMullen Lumber Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 34.

Immaterial and irrelevant evidence. Colonial Trust Co. v. Getz, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 619; Wood v. Holah [Conn.] 64 A. 220; Wilmot v. McPadden [N. J. Err. & App.] 65 A. 157; Security Trust Co. v. Robb [C. C. A.] 142 F. 78; Renshaw v. Dignan, 128 Iowa, 722, 105 N. W. 209; Tozer v. Ocean Acc. & Guarantee Corp. [Minn.] 109 N. W. 410; Escondido Lumber, Hay & Grain Co. v. Baldwin [Cal. App.] 84 P. 284; Martin v. Corscadden [Mont.] 86 P. 33; Conde v. Dreisam Gold Min. & Mill. Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 825; Davis v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 88 P. 2; Crawford v. Masters, 140 N. C. 205, 52 S. E. 663; Roberts v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 S. C. 520, 53 S. E. 985; Bussey v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 163; Armour & Co. v. Ross [S. C.] 55 S. E. 316; Jones v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 318; Ard v. Crittenden [Ala.] 39 So. 675; Gates v. O'Gara [Ala.] 39 So. 729; Stoker v. Hodge Fence & Lumber Co., 116 La. 926, 41 So. 211; Saunders v. Tuscumbia Roofing & Plumbing Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 982; Adair v. Stovall [Ala.] 42 So. 596; Smithers v. Lowrance [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 88, 91 S. W. 606; Walker v. Dickey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 934, 98 S. W. 658. Irrelevant evidence. McGowan v Bowman [Vt.] 64 A. 1121. Evidence on totally immaterial issue. Bank of Yolo v. Bank of Woodland [Cal. App.] 86 P. 820. Evidence not purporting to affect the only contested issue. Brown v. White, 219 Ill. 632, 76 N. E. 833. Evidence tending to show that engineer was drunk harmless where other evidence showed that accident was caused by his negligence. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Boyles [Ark.] 95 S. W. 783. Testimony by plaintiff in trespass to try title as to consideration given by her for the land. Cobb v. Bryan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 12, 97 S. W. 513. Immaterial evidence not inconsistent with the contentions of the complaining party. Carlisle v. Gibbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 405, 98 S. W. 192. Statement that contents of paper which defendant tried to get defendant to identify were not true, harmless to defendant where papers were not introduced Latson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 192 Mo. 449, 91 S. W. 109. Evidence on issue withdrawn by failure of court to submit it. St. Louis etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 376, 90 S. W. 926. Evidence incompetent under Code Civ. Proc. § 829, relating to evidence of transactions with decedents. In re King, 100 N. Y. S. 1089. That petitioner owned all property in vicinity of that sought to be condemned. Pullman Co. v. Chicago, 224 Ill. 248, 79 N. E. 572. Evidence of fact not sought to be proved. Kirby Lumber Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 913, 95 S. W. 607. Evidence excusing negligence where no evidence of negligence. Murphy v. Metropolitan Nat. Bank, 191 Mass. 159, 77 N. E. 693. Admission of contract stipulating against liability for negligence harmless to plaintiff where there was no evidence of negligence. Marable v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 355. Evidence in rebuttal as to payment where there was no evidence in chief on such matter. Mullenary v. Burton [Cal. App.] 84 P. 159.

Admission of ordinance in action for negligence where no violation of ordinance was shown. Mulderig v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 655, 94 S. W. 801. Statement of counsel as to fact conceded and which had no probative force in regard to the contested issue. Lyman v. Brown, 73 N. H. 411, 62 A. 650. Evidence that conversation was had with defendant without showing what was said. Green v. Dodge [Vt.] 64 A. 499. Evidence as to number of children plaintiff in action for injuries had. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Steckman, 224 Ill. 500, 79 N. E. 602. Evidence as to amount of capital stock of defendant corporation could not have affected issue as to compensation due plaintiff as an employe. McCowan v. Northeastern Siberian Co., 41 Wash. 675, 84 P. 614. Admission, in action by administrator for death, of evidence showing that deceased spent a portion of his earnings on a certain person who was not a distributee. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alexander [Ala.] 40 So. 424. Error in necessary to the party's case,[25] or one conclusively disproved by other evidence,[26] or admitting evidence or in the legal effect given to evidence admitted concerning acts held adequate to interrupt the course of the fifteen-year prescription, harmless where the appellate court decided that a longer period of prescription controlled concerning which the evidence admitted was wholly irrelevant, though defendant might have interposed other defenses if he had not relied on the certainty of reversal on account of the erroneous admission of the evidence. Royal Ins. Co. v. Miller, 199 U. S. 353, 50 Law. Ed. 226. In action for malicious prosecution evidence of a division of the jury on its first vote was harmless to plaintiff where plaintiff was finally acquitted. Gaither v. Carpenter [N. C.] 55 S. E. 625.

Held prejudicial: Immaterial evidence tending to prejudice jury against defendant is not harmless as to him. Chicago City R. Co. v. Heydenburg, 118 Ill. App. 387.

23. Dunham v. McMichael, 214 Pa. 485, 63 A. 1007; Horner v. Buckingham [Md.] 64 A. 41; Court of Honor v. Dinger, 221 Ill. 176, 77 N. E. 557; Roberge v. Bonner [N. Y.] 77 N. E. 1023; McDonough v. Boston El. R. Co., 191 Mass. 509, 78 N. E. 141; Pringle v. Burroughs [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 150; Owen v. Portage Tel. Co., 126 Wis. 412, 105 N. W. 924; Meyer v. Arends, 126 Wis. 603, 106 N. W. 675; Smith v. Glenn, 40 Wash. 262, 82 P. 605; Shepard v. Mace, 148 Cal. 270, 82 P. 1046; People v. Davidson [Cal. App.] 83 P. 159; Smith v. Dubost, 148 Cal. 622, 84 P. 38; Jackson v. Mercantile Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 127; Riggins v. Boyd Mfg. Co., 123 Ga. 232, 51 S. E. 434; Wallace v. North Alabama Traction Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 89; Hudson v. Vaughn [Ala.] 40 So. 757; Winans v. McCabe [Tex. Civ. App.] 92 S. W. 817; Luhn v. Luhn [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 732, 93 S. W. 525; Taylor v. Industrial Mut. Deposit Co.'s Receiver [Ky.] 96 S. W. 462. Cumulative evidence which would have added no weight. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neal [Ark.] 98 S. W. 958; Evidence rendered inefficient by other evidence showing defendant's liability without regard to the evidence objected to. Brown v. Sierra Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 1010. Where the rejection of certain ballots would not have changed result of election, error in counting them was harmless. Pledge v. Griffith [Mont.] 83 P. 392. Rejection of evidence that defendant was not in possession of part of property sued for in unlawful entry and detainer, where party in possession was not a party to the action. Camden v. West Branch Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 409. Exclusion of evidence of the drawing of a deed under which party claimed was harmless where it was not claimed or proved that the deed was delivered. Fox v. Spears [Ark.] 93 S. W. 560. Where excluded question would obviously have elicited same answer already given. Daug v. North German Lloyd S. S. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 65 A. 199. Exclusion of evidence to impeach witness on immaterial matters. Bialy v. Krause [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 702, 105 N. W. 149. Photograph which would have thrown no light on the issues. Ness v. Escanaba [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 753, 105 N. W. 879. Exclusion of admission contrary to fact claimed to be admitted thereby and made long after the commencement of the suit. In re Tisdale, 110 App. Div. 857, 97 N. Y. S. 494. Exclusion of evidence of actual damages in action for liquidated damages. Neblett v. McGraw [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 496, 91 S. W. 309. Exclusion of deed under which plaintiff claimed was harmless where no title was shown in the party under whom plaintiff claimed. Moore v. Kempner [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 330, 91 S. W. 336. Evidence the value of which is dependent upon an affirmative finding upon a certain issue where a negative finding is made. San Antonio Machine & Supply Co. v. Josey [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 176, 91 S. W. 598. Exclusion of evidence of decrease in value of cattle, harmless where it was not proposed to show that such evidence would reduce the value testified to by other party's witness. Harris v. Quincy, etc., R. Co., 115 Mo. App. 527, 91 S. W. 1010. Smallness of verdict indicated that excluded evidence of mitigating circumstances was harmless. Carty v. Boeseke-Dawe Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 267.

24. Where answer states no defense. Miller v. Loverne & Browne Co. [Neb.] 105 N. W. 84. Where liability is admitted and there is no controversy as to amount of recovery, errors as to admissibility of evidence harmless. Indianapolis & M. Rapid Transit Co. v. Reeder [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 816.

Held prejudicial: In cases sounding in tort the amount of the damages must be left to the jury upon all the evidence, and the court cannot, as it may sometimes do in cases on contract, look into the evidence to determine whether the complaining party has suffered from the exclusion of his evidence. City of Valparaiso v. Spaeth [Ind.] 76 N. E. 514.

25. Evidence admitted. Ennis Brown Co. v. Hurst, 1 Cal. App. 752, 82 P. 1056; Bivings v. Gosnell [N. C.] 53 S. E. 861; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 349, 93 S. W. 686. Evidence of facts presumed under rule of law. Willis v. Weeks, 129 Iowa, 525, 105 N. W. 1012; Ivey v. Bessemer City Cotton Mills [N. C.] 55 S. E. 613. Where evidence in libel suit added nothing to presumption jury were entitled to make from nature of the libel. New York Evening Journal Pub. Co. v. Simon [C. C. A.] 147 F. 224. Evidence tending to show voluntary assumption of duty imposed by law. Southern R. Co. v. Morris, 143 Ala. 628, 42 So. 17. Evidence of liability through another where facts were admitted showing primary liability. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111. Evidence of a custom among other railroads which was shown to have been followed at one time by defendant itself. Lee v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 195 Mo. 490, 92 S. W. 614. Witness' conclusion as to effect of conversations fully given in testimony. Fitzgerald v. Benner, 219 Ill. 485, 76 N. E. 709. Where petitioner was entitled upon the transcript alone to be released from imprisonment under execution, admission of extraneous evidence showing lack of malice in cause of action against him was harmless to the plaintiff in the principal action. Petition of Wm. H. Mansfield, 120 Ill. App. 511. Where it appeared that defendant tele-evidence erroneously admitted, tending to prove a fact admitted or sufficiently proved by other competent evidence.[27] Likewise the rejection of evidence of facts graph company's operator knew of the importance of the message which was delayed, admitting an interpretation of the cipher in which the message was couched was harmless. Western Union Tel. Co. v. McGown [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 117, 93 S. W. 710. Where positive negligence is proved, evidence of appliances which would have prevented the accident but which were not used by the defendant was harmless. Spencer Medicine Co. v. Hall [Ark.] 93 S. W. 985.

Evidence rejected. Court of Honor v. Dinger, 221 Ill. 176, 77 N. E. 557; Morris v. Jacks [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 764, 96 S. W. 637. Evidence to show liability fixed by statute. See Laws 1897, p. 734, c. 612, § 114. Far Rockaway Bank v. Norton [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 709. Evidence of defendant's negligence where plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. Stackpole v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 740. Exclusion of evidence that part of work did not entitle complainant to mechanic's lien harmless where general payments had been made sufficient to pay for such work. Barbee v. Morris, 221 Ill. 382, 77 N. E. 589.

26. Hall v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 65 A. 278.

27. Florence Wagon Works v. Kalamazoo Spring & Axle Co., 144 Ala. 598, 42 So. 77; Virginia Bridge & Iron Co. v. Jordan, 143 Ala. 603, 42 So. 73; Gates v. O'Gara [Ala.] 39 So. 729; Roach v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 685; Bratt v. Sparks [Ark.] 96 S. W. 1057; Walnut Ridge Mercantile Co. v. Cohn [Ark.] 96 S. W. 413; Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. Burrows [Ark.] 96 S. W. 336; Dondero v. O'Hara [Cal. App.] 86 P. 985; Vindicator Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Firstbrook [Colo.] 86 P. 313; Moynahan v. Perkins [Colo.] 85 P. 1132; Sheridan v. Patterson [Colo.] 82 P. 539; Upchurch v. Mizell [Fla.] 40 So. 29; Chicago City R. Co. v. Pural, 224 Ill. 324, 79 N. E. 686; Prather v. Chicago Southern R. Co., 221 Ill. 190, 77 N. E. 430; Simpson v. Danielson, 118 Ill. App. 615; Comer v. McDonnell, 117 Ill. App. 450; Haish v. Dreyfus, 111 Ill. App. 44; Swygart v. Willard [Ind.] 76 N. E. 755; Phillips v. Hazen [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1096; McBride v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 618; McKee v. Mouser [Iowa] 108 N. W. 228; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 28 Ky. L. R. 772, 90 S. W. 567; McDonald v. City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 252, 108 N. W. 85; Kern v. Gerzema [Minn.] 106 N. W. 962; Cochran v. Cochran, 96 Minn. 523, 105 N. W. 183; Bonds v. Lipton Co., 85 Miss. 209, 37 So. 805; Hammer v. Crawford [Mo. App.] 93 S. W. 348; Lindsay v. Kansas City, 195 Mo. 166, 93 S. W. 273; Day v. Emery-Bird-Thayer Dry Goods Co., 114 Mo. App. 479, 89 S. W. 903; Fike v. Ott [Neb.] 107 N. W. 774; City of Portland v. Cook [Or.] 87 P. 772; Hall v. New York, etc., R. Co. [R. I.] 65 A. 278; Young v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 225; Pacific Exp. Co. v. Needham [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 889, 94 S. W. 1070; Keller v. Faickney [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 541, 94 S. W. 103; Rice v. Dewberry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 193, 93 S. W. 715; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Warner [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 530, 93 S. W. 489; Howard v. Fabj [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 666, 93 S. W. 225; McKay v. Elder [Tex. Civ. App.] 92 S. W. 268; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bryson [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 656, 91 S. W. 829; Southern Pac. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 921, 91 S. W. 820; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Tullis [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 478, 91 S. W. 317; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Stanfield Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 301, 90 S. W. 517; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Felker [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 308, 90 S W. 530; Smith v. Dow [Wash.] 86 P. 555; Shannon v. Tacoma, 41 Wash. 220, 83 P. 186; Boyle v. Robinson [Wis.] 109 N. W. 623; Crichfield v. Julia [C. C. A.] 147 F. 65. Evidence of facts agreed upon. Fleener v. Johnson [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 366. Facts admitted. Mansfield v. Johnson [Fla.] 40 So. 196. Facts admitted in pleadings. Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Jones [N. D.] 106 N. W. 688. Evidence of facts judicially noticed. Wabash R. Co. v. Campbell, 219 Ill. 312, 76 N. E. 346. Statement of counsel as to fact admitted. Lyman v. Brown, 73 N. H. 411, 62 A. 650. Facts not controverted. Malott v. Woods, 119 Ill. App. 90; Camp v. League [Tex. Civ. App.] 92 S. W. 1062; Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co. v. Sally [Mo.] 96 S. W. 1030. Facts already proved by other party. Jaegel v. Johnson, 148 Cal. 695, 84 P. 175. Admission of evidence offered by one party harmless to other party where latter's own witness testified to same facts. Sheldon Canal Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 279, 90 S. W. 206. Admitting cumulative evidence in violation of Civ. Code Prac. § 606, subsec. 3, providing that no person shall testify for himself in chief after introducing other testimony for himself in chief. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 98 S. W. 308. Expert testimony as to facts otherwise proved. Colorado & S. R. Co. v. Webb [Colo.] 85 P. 683. Improper expert testimony harmless where same fact was testified to by witness as of his personal knowledge. Bach v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 109 App. Div. 654, 96 N. Y. S. 321. Secondary evidence as to matters proved by other evidence. Nixon v. Goodwin [Cal. App.] 85 P. 169; Hoffman Heading & Stave Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 597; Stephens v. Faus [S. D.] 106 N. W. 56; Summerford v. Davenport [Ga.] 54 S. E. 1025. Admission of copies of bills of lading, the originals being in evidence and admitted as correct. Campbell v. McCrellis [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1129. When there is no conflict between undisputed evidence and exhibits erroneously admitted. Vidger Co. v. Great Northern R. Co. [N. D.] 107 N. W. 1083. Admission of affidavit to an account otherwise proved to be correct. Barlow v. Frederick Stearns & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 43, 98 S. W. 455. Admitting medical books to prove contagious nature of certain disease of cattle sold where the contagious nature of such disease was otherwise proved. Harper, Brooks & Co. v. Weikel, 28 Ky. L. R. 650, 89 S. W. 1125. Admission of conclusion of witness as to facts fully established by other evidence. Wilder v. Great Western Cereal Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 789; Tutwiler Coal, Coke & Iron Co. v. Farrington [Ala.]

otherwise established,[28] unless prejudice plainly appears.[29] Error in evidence is 39 So. 898. Conclusion of witness as to legal effect of signature to proposition of sale as bearing on date of sale where date otherwise proved. Tuffree v. Binford [Iowa] 107 N. W. 425. Declarations of decedent as to facts not within his personal knowledge. Putnam v. Harris [Mass.] 78 N. E. 747. Hearsay to prove admitted fact. Clifford Banking Co. v. Donovan Commission Co., 195 Mo. 262, 94 S. W. 527. Hearsay to prove fact not controverted. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Stites [Ark.] 95 S. W. 1004. Hearsay as to facts proved. Beddow v. Bagley [Ala.] 39 So. 773. Admission of list of articles contained in trunk where witness testified to same effect. Graham & Morton Transp. Co. v. Young, 117 Ill. App. 257. Admitting declarations of engineer as part of res gestae harmless where there was other evidence sufficient to show negligence. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Osborn [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 248. Incompetent evidence of value placing same no higher than competent evidence also received. Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Woods [Neb.] 107 N. W. 858. Admission on issue of forgery of checks subsequently written for purpose of comparison harmless where forgery was abundantly established by other evidence. Greenwald v. Ford [S. D.] 109 N. W. 516. Where there was other uncontradicted evidence warranting direction of verdict for party offering the evidence objected to. Chittenden v. King Shoe Co. [Colo.] 88 P. 183. Testimony as to conditions several days after accident harmless where it did not materially vary the testimony as to conditions immediately after the accident. Davis v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 88 P. 2. Erroneous admission of deeds harmless where certified copies were admitted without objection. Bivings v. Gosnell [N. C.] 53 S. E. 861. Where plaintiff and defendant claim through a common source, error in admitting evidence of the title of the common grantor is harmless. Mansfield v. Johnson [Fla.] 40 So. 196. Allowing buyer to testify that broker phoned him that seller would be at his office at a certain time harmless where it was undisputed that broker accompanied seller to such office at such time. Ross v. Moskowitz [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 381, 95 S. W. 86. Where specific authority of agent was proved, admission of evidence of general authority was harmless. International Harvester Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 653, 96 S. W. 93. Admission of telegram containing no statement not testified to by witnesses. Smith v. Jefferson Bank [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 247. General statements as to corners of survey harmless where undisputed testimony showed the corners to be where stated. Warner v. Sapp [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 892, 97 S. W. 125. Experiments with litmus paper to show contamination of water of stream harmless where such contamination was otherwise fully proved. Crabtree Coal Min. Co. v. Hamby's Adm'r, 28 Ky. L. R. 687, 90 S. W. 226. Admission in action of ejectment of probate of will the execution of which had already been proved by uncontradicted witnesses. Young v. Norris Peters Co., 27 App. D. C. 140.

Held prejudicial: Where there is not enough competent evidence to sustain the judgment, admission of incompetent evidence is reversible error. Hindley v. Manhattan R. Co. [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 276.

28. Armour Packing Co. v. Vietch-Young Produce Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 680; Stewart v. Whittemore [Cal. App.] 84 P. 841; Carlton v. King [Fla.] 40 So. 191; Chicago City R. Co. v. Shaw, 220 Ill. 532, 77 N. E. 139; Stevens v. Citizens' Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1090; Wheeler v. Anglim [Mass.] 79 N. E. 810; Anternoitz v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 789; Pinch v. Hotaling [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 841, 106 N. W. 69; Wightman v. Catlin, 98 N. Y. S. 1071; Becker & Co. v. First Nat. Bank [N. D.] 107 N. W. 968; Buchanan v. Randall [S. D.] 109 N. W. 513; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ames [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 298, 94 S. W. 1112; Camp v. League [Tex. Civ. App.] 92 S. W. 1062; Mullen v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 963, 92 S. W. 1000; Flynt v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 648, 91 S. W. 864; Gatlin v. Street [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 318; Knudson-Jacob Co. v. Brandt [Wash.] 87 P. 43; Taylor v. Modern Woodmen of America, 42 Wash. 304, 84 P. 867. Evidence of bias of witness. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Birchfield [Va.] 54 S. E. 879. Where substantially same evidence had already been admitted. Smith v. Cashie & C. R. & Lumber Co. [N. C.] 54 S. E. 788. Exclusion of record of judgments against alleged fraudulent seller where amount and existence of judgments against seller had been agreed upon. Hart v. Brierley, 189 Mass. 598, 76 N. E. 286. Rejection of evidence tending to show basis of testimony received. Guinn v. Iowa & St. L. R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 209. Testimony of witness at former trial as to facts fully established by other witnesses on second trial. Laubaugh v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 247. Sustaining objection to question already sufficiently answered. Packham v. Ludwig [Md.] 63 A. 1048; Southern Kan. R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 254, 94 S. W. 1074. Exclusion of part of witness' answer harmless where the facts stated therein were fully stated in the part admitted. International Harvester Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 653, 96 S. W. 93. Exclusion of unsworn declarations by party in own interest harmless where party testifies to same facts. Samaha v. Mason, 27 App. D. C. 470. Rejection of expert testimony as to value of services otherwise proved. Sanford v. Hoge, 118 Ill. App. 609. Exclusion of opinion of testamentary capacity where the facts constituting the basis for such opinion had already been received. In re Brower's Will, 112 App. Div. 370, 98 N. Y. S. 438. Rejection of photographs harmless where the testimony was sufficiently explicit to enable the jury to understand what the photographs were intended to show. Kansas City So. R. Co. v. Morris [Ark.] 98 S. W. 363.

29. Where it does not appear that result would not have been changed by admitting the testimony, its erroneous exclusion is reversible error. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Boyer [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 1070. Exclusion of evidence as to damages in condemnation proceedings held prejudicial though there was other evidence on the subject. Lewis v. Englewood El. R. Co., 223 Ill. 223, 79 N. E. 44.

innocuous in a trial of facts by the court where it may be supposed that the decision was founded solely on proper proofs.[30] Likewise where the case is tried de novo on appeal.[31] An improper mode of questioning or an erroneous ruling on a proper question may be harmless because of the answer given[32] or the lack of an answer.[33] Application of these doctrines to direct,[34] redirect,[35] and cross-examina-

30. Where the judgment or decree is sustained by proper evidence, it will be presumed that the improper evidence was not considered. California Development Co. v. Yuma Valley Union Land & Water Co. [Ariz.] 84 P. 88; Strayhorn v. McCall [Ark.] 95 S. W. 455; Pratt v. Davis, 224 Ill. 300, 79 N. E. 562; Telford v. Howell, 220 Ill. 52, 77 N. E. 82. Admission of incompetent evidence where judgment sustained by competent evidence. Ray v. Hunter, 122 Ill. App. 466; Lloyd v. Simons [Minn.] 105 N. W. 902; Rule v. Rule [Miss.] 39 So. 782; Citizens' Ins. Co. v. Herpolsheimer [Neb.] 109 N. W. 160; Rose v. New York & H. R. Co., 108 App. Div. 206, 95 N. Y. S. 711; State v. Harris [N. D.] 105 N. W. 621; City of Portland v. Cook [Or.] 87 P. 772; In re McClellan's Estate [S. D.] 107 N. W. 681; Sprague v. Lovett [S. D.] 106 N. W. 134; Kirby v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [S. D.] 105 N. W. 95; Godfrey v. Faust [S. D.] 105 N. W. 460; Lutcher v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 149, 95 S. W. 572; Gage v. Hunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 1104; Stublefield v. Hanson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 36, 94 S. W. 406; Dreeben v. First Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 917, 93 S. W. 510; Erickson v. Modern Woodmen of America [Wash.] 86 P. 584; Ekstrand v. Barth, 41 Wash. 321, 83 P. 305. Allowing witness to testify as to his conclusions. Illinois Steel Co. v. Preble Mach. Works Co., 219 Ill. 403, 76 N. E. 574. Findings showed that incompetent evidence was not considered. Lowe v. Ozmun [Cal. App.] 86 P 729. Whether an equity decree will be reversed for admission of incompetent evidence will depend upon the peculiar circumstances of each case. Russell v. Sharp, 192 Mo. 270, 91 S. W. 134. Admission of transcript of justice's record on an appeal tried by the court. Keylon v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 114 Mo. App. 66, 89 S. W. 337. Rulings on evidence which do not affect the judgment not ground for reversal. New York Water Co. v. Crow, 110 App. Div. 32, 96 N. Y. S. 899; Olmstead v. Rawson, 110 App. Div. 809, 97 N. Y. S. 239. Admission of irrelevant evidence in suit in equity harmless where it did not affect the findings. Shaffer v. Detie, 191 Mo. 377, 90 S. W. 131. Where incompetent evidence was eliminated by the court in arriving at its conclusion. Llewellyn v. Cauffiel [Pa.] 64 A. 388. In quo warranto proceedings. Foltz v. People, 118 Ill. App. 557. Admission of a judgment in evidence harmless where a judgment reviewing it was also in evidence and contained everything of importance covered by the first judgment. Taylor v. Doom [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 172, 95 S. W. 4. Where jury waived and cause tried under Rev. Codes 1899, § 5630, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 277, c. 201, admission of incompetent testimony not reversible error. More v. Burger [N. D.] 107 N. W. 200.

Held prejudicial: Incompetent evidence will be presumed prejudicial where the judgment is against the weight of the competent evidence. Trammell & Lane v. Guffey Petroleum Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 492, 94 S. W. 104; Bruce v. Bruce [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 435. Reversal will follow where it affirmatively appears that the incompetent evidence was considered by the court. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Brashears [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 139, 91 S. W. 594.

31. Traynor v. White [Wash.] 87 P. 823; Teater v. King, 41 Wash. 134, 83 P. 8. All improper testimony in equity case disregarded by appellate court. Winsor v. Hanson, 40 Wash. 423, 82 P. 710; McCormick v. Parsons, 195 Mo. 91, 92 S. W. 1162.

32. Nixon v. Goodwin [Cal. App.] 85 P. 169. Answer so indefinite and unsatisfactory that it could not have been prejudicial. Logan v. Field, 192 Mo. 54, 90 S. W. 127. Question and answer held not prejudicial as appealing to religious prejudice against witness. Sibley v. Morse [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 878, 109 N. W. 858. Answer showing lack of knowledge of matter sought to be proved. Stewart v. Whittemore [Cal. App.] 84 P. 841; Theodore Land Co. v. Lyon [Ala.] 41 So. 682. Answer that witness did not know and could not answer. Marcy v. Parker, 78 Vt. 73, 62 A. 19. Negative answer to improper question seeking affirmative answer. Kerr v. Grand Forks [N. D.] 107 N. W. 197; Lindsley v. McGrath [Mont.] 87 P. 961; Colorado Canal Co. v. McFarland [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 848, 94 S. W. 400; Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. Burrows [Ark.] 96 S. W. 336; Gates v. Morton Hardware Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 509. Question improper in form to elicit opinion rendered harmless by immaterial answer. Wilmot v. McPadden [Conn.] 65 A. 157. Improper form of question calling for expert testimony rendered harmless by answer. McGuire v. J. Neils Lumber Co. [Minn.] 107 N. W. 130. Improper cross-examination rendered harmless. Kinney v. Brotherhood of American Yeomen [N. D.] 106 N. W. 44. Improper cross-examination harmless where it elicited no damaging evidence. Sakolski v. Schenkel, 98 N. Y. S. 190. Where improper question on cross-examination elicited nothing but witness' inability to remember. Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453. Error in sustaining objection to question harmless where question is fully answered, notwithstanding the objection. Tutwiler Coal, Coke & Iron Co. v. Farrington [Ala.] 39 So. 898.

33. Where objection to question sustained. Austin v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 289. Where objection overruled but question not answered. Id. Lack of answer and substitution of proper question. Hasper v. Wietcamp [Ind.] 79 N. E. 191; Colorado Farm & Live Stock tion,[36] and to the order of taking proof,[37] the burden of proof,[38] the reception of affidavits and depositions,[39] opinion,[40] and expert testimony,[41] admission of secondary evidence,[42] and rulings on motions to strike evidence,[43] are cited below. A

Co. v. York [Colo.] 88 P. 181; Gates v. Morton Hardware Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 509; Forbes v. Davidson [Ala.] 41 So. 312.

34. Refusal to allow answer to question already answered. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Ala.] 41 So. 984; Packham v. Ludwig [Md.] 63 A. 1048; Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 254, 94 S. W. 1074. Examination of expert. Chicago City R. Co. v. Pural, 224 Ill. 324, 79 N. E. 686. Ruling relating to qualifications of expert. Bird v. Utica Gold Min. Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 256. Persistence in seeking to elicit testimony already excluded but relating to immaterial facts which were nearly all established by other evidence. McDonald v. City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 252, 108 N. W. 85. Where witness' former answer showed that he had no knowledge of the matter sought to be elicited by the excluded question. Stokes' Adm'x v. Southern R. Co., 104 Va. 817, 52 S. E. 855. Permitting leading questions. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Calvert [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 642, 91 S. W. 825. Allowing leading question to be answered harmless where witness has already testified, without leading or objection, to the fact elicited by the leading question. McCaffery v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 192 Mo. 144, 90 S. W. 816.

35. McGuire v. Neils Lumber Co. [Minn.] 107 N. W. 130.

36. Prather v. Chicago So. R. Co., 221 Ill. 190, 77 N. E. 430; Swygart v. Willard [Ind.] 76 N. E. 755; Regester v. Regester [Md.] 64 A. 286. Exclusion of answer to question already answered. Borden v. Lynch [Mont.] 87 P. 609; Bundy v. Sierra Lumber Co. [Cal.] 87 P. 622. Sustaining objection to question already answered. Alabama Great So. R. Co. v. Sanders [Ala.] 40 So. 402; Schmoe v. Cotton [Ind.] 79 N. E. 184. Refusal to allow continuation of cross-examination as to certain facts as to which enough had already been brought out. Fitzgerald v. Benner, 219 Ill. 485, 76 N. E. 709; Chicago, B. & D. R. Co. v. Kelly, 221 Ill. 498, 77 N. E. 916. Exclusion of question without prejudice to renewal thereof where witness was recalled and question was not renewed. Pascieszny v. Boydell Bros. White Lead & Color Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 726, 109 N. W. 417. Bringing out matters not properly the subject of cross-examination was harmless where such matters could have been brought out by a direct examination. Niemeyer v. Washington Water Power Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 103. Striking out of question a mere assertion of fact which counsel had no right to assume as true though an improper way of reaching the defect was harmless. Syson Timber Co. v. Dickens [Ala.] 40 So. 753. Exclusion of question designed to test witness' memory. Chicago City R. Co. v. Pural, 224 Ill. 324, 79 N. E. 686. Exclusion of question as to plaintiff's knowledge of discrepancy between his testimony on former and second trial harmless where witness fully examined in this regard and testimony on former trial was in evidence. Creachen v. Bromley Bros. Carpet Co., 214 Pa. 15, 63 A. 195.

37. Wheeler v. Reynolds Land Co., 193 Mo. 279, 91 S. W. 1050; Aultman, Miller & Co. v. Jones [N. D.] 106 N. W. 688; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lowe [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 265, 97 S. W. 1087. Admitting evidence in surrebuttal. Newell v. Taylor [S. C.] 54 S. E. 212. Admitting evidence out of its logical order. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Nicholas, 165 Ind. 679, 76 N. E. 522. Allowing new evidence to be introduced after commencement of argument. Watson v. Barnes, 125 Ga. 733, 54 S. E. 723.

38. Error in placing burden of proof as to matters not put in issue. Waxahachie Cotton Oil Co. v. Peters [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 98, 94 S. W. 431.

39. Affidavit. Bowers v. Ocean Acc. & Guarantee Corp., 110 App. Div. 691, 97 N. Y. S. 485. Informality in manner of eliciting witness' answers held harmless. Gulf etc., R. Co. v. Luther [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 195, 90 S. W. 44. Admitting deposition the envelope of which was opened in appellant's absence and without notice to him. Jackson v. Mercantile Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 127. Admission of deposition over objection that it had been taken before but not introduced held harmless in absence of showing of abuse of court's discretion in the premises to prejudice of appellant. Davis v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 286, 98 S. W. 198. Refusal to consider interrogatory in deposition as taken for confessed held harmless in absence of any showing of injury or abuse of court's discretion in the premises. Id. Consideration of counter affidavits on motion for probate appeal after time allowed by law harmless where laches was practically undisputed and appeal was denied. In re O'Hara's Will, 127 Wis. 258, 106 N. W. 848.

40. Opinion or conclusion of witness where facts on which opinion is based are given. Sun Ins. Office v. Western Woolen-Mill Co., 72 Kan. 41, 82 P. 513; Jersey Island Dredging Co. v. Whitney [Cal.] 86 P. 691; City of Iola v. Farmer, 72 Kan. 620, 84 P. 386. Correct conclusion of witness from facts stated harmless. Davis v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. [Utah] 88 P. 2. Admission of opinion of witness which on the facts predicated in the question the jury were as competent to give as the witness was harmless. Alabama Great So. R. Co. v. Sanders [Ala.] 40 So. 402.

41. Allowing expert witness in action for injury to child while playing on defendant's street car to testify to various kinds of mechanical devices used on defendant's cars in general. Denver City Tramway Co. v. Nicholas [Colo.] 84 P. 813.

42. In re McClellan's Estate [S. D.] 107 N. W. 681; Sennett v. Melville [Neb.] 107 N. W. 991. Failure to lay foundation for admission of copy of letter harmless where addressee denied having received the letter. Leidigh & Havens Lumber Co. v. Clark [Ark.] 94 S. W. 686.

43. Southern R. Co. v. Cothran [Ala.] 42 So. 100. Refusal to strike evidence of facts fully established by other evidence. Chicago & J. Elec. R. Co. v. Patton, 219 Ill. 211, few illustrative cases wherein errors respecting evidence have been held prejudicial are collected.[44]

Improper argument,[45] or conduct of counsel[46] or party,[47] or interference with 76 N. E. 381. Refusal to strike answer as not responsive where same testimony could have been brought out by another question. Bird v. Utica Gold Min. Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 256. Refusal to exclude immaterial voluntary statement of witness. Driver v. King [Ala.] 40 So. 315. Not reversible error to overrule motion to exclude, directed against evidence some of which is admissible. Stotler v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 509. Where no objection is made to the reception of evidence, subsequent refusal to exclude will not be ground for reversal unless the prejudice from the ruling can be judicially seen and felt. Id. Refusal to strike out conclusions bearing on mental capacity, habits, etc., where full opportunity given to bring out details on cross-examination. Swygart v. Willard [Ind.] 76 N. E. 755. Refusal to strike general matters brought out in preliminary examination of expert. Id. Evidence improperly adduced on cross-examination. Prather v. Chicago So. R. So., 221 Ill. 190, 77 N. E. 430. Denial of motion by party to strike answers to his own questions where it did not appear that such answers constituted a material ground upon which verdict was based. De Coster v. Herzog Co., 97 N. Y. S. 295. Striking evidence of facts proved. Richardson v. Nelson, 221 Ill. 254, 77 N. E. 583. Striking out evidence of immaterial or undisputed facts. Mossteller v. Holborn [S. D.] 108 N. W. 13. Where rebuttal evidence which was stricken was not materially different from evidence in chief. Boulder & White Rock Ditch Co. v. Leggett Consol. Ditch & Reservoir Co. [Colo.] 86 P. 101. Delay in striking evidence harmless in trial by court. Smith v. Smith [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 237, 107 N. W. 894.

Held prejudicial: Striking evidence as to issue afterwards submitted to jury. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Burchard [Colo.] 86 P. 749. Granting motion to strike all evidence on ground of insufficiency was prejudicial where some of the evidence was relevant and admissible. Metz v. Willitts [Wyo.] 85 P. 380.

44. Admission of evidence involving collateral issues. Stout v. Columbia, 118 Mo. App. 439, 94 S. W. 307. Corroborative hearsay evidence. Tracey v. Reid, 111 App. Div. 396, 97 N. Y. S. 1074. Exclusion of cumulative evidence held prejudicial where it related to the main issue the decision of which turned on the weight of the evidence. Grath v. Mound City Roofing Tile Co. [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 812. Refusal of offer of competent evidence is reversible error though the evidence offered might have been insufficient. Hoban v. Boyer [Colo.] 85 P. 837. Admission of incompetent evidence which was commented on and allowed to go to the jury without restriction. Capital Construction Co. v. Holtzman, 27 App. D. C. 125. Admission of incompetent evidence is reversible error where the appellate court has no way to determine its effect. Fountain v. Wabash R. Co., 114 Mo. App. 683, 90 S. W. 395. Testimony of unqualified witness as to speed of automobile. Wright v. Crane [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 794, 106 N. W. 71. In controversy between two parties claiming under same seller, exclusion of evidence that one of the parties admitted that the sale to him was a sham was reversible error. Chandler Bros. v. Higgins [Ala.] 39 So. 576. Where the complaint was insufficient but leave to amend was given on condition that the evidence was sufficient, and the evidence was rendered insufficient by the improper exclusion of evidence and plaintiff was driven to a nonsuit, the exclusion of the evidence was reversible error. Bonner v. Stotesbury, 139 N. C. 3, 51 S. E. 781. Where the evidence consists principally of the testimony of the parties, it is substantial error to exclude any testimony having a legitimate bearing upon the weight to be given to the testimony of the parties respectively relating to their claims. Broadwell v. Conover [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 402. Declarations of defendant's mother in suit for slander based on charge that plaintiff mistreated his mother. Earley v. Winn [Wis.] 109 N. W. 633. In action for slander based on charge that defendant committed certain act, evidence of other similar acts was prejudicial. Id. Where verdict shows that it is founded on incompetent evidence. Roth v. Spero, 48 Misc. 506, 96 N. Y. S. 211. General verdict for defendant did not show that admission of evidence upon an unavailable defense was harmless where other defenses were interposed. Ergenbright v. Henderson, 72 Kan. 29, 82 P. 524. Where judge commended incompetent evidence to jury and jury based verdict thereon. Roth v. Spero, 48 Misc. 506, 96 N. Y. S. 211.

45. Grayson-McLeod Lumber Co. v. Carter [Ark.] 98 S. W. 699; Miller v. Nuckolls [Ark.] 91 S. W. 759; Denver City Tramway Co. v. Nicholas [Colo.] 84 P. 813; McDonald v. City Elec. R. Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 252, 108 N. W. 85; Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369; Beaumont Traction Co. v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 94 S. W. 352; Horr v. Howard Co., 126 Wis 160, 105 N. W. 668. Irrelevant and nonprejudicial remarks. Beckman v. Hampton [N. H.] 65 A. 254. As to damages in condemnation proceedings. City of Detroit v. Little Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 803, 109 N. W. 671. Improper remarks on motion for nonsuit. Brown v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 1053. An unauthorized assumption that defendant had suppressed evidence. Montanye v. Northern Electrical Mfg. Co., 127 Wis. 22, 105 N. W. 1043. Improper reference to conduct of adverse party. Bradford v. National Benefit Ass'n, 26 App. D. C. 268. Abuse of defendant's conductor whose conduct gave rise to the action held harmless. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Zink [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 299, 92 S. W. 812. Characterization of defendant upon assumption that evidence proved his misconduct, there being evidence, however, tending to prove such misconduct. Bushey v. Northrup, 78 Vt. 430, 62 A. 1015. Going outside record where objection promptly sustained. Richardson v. Nelson, 221 Ill. 254, 77 N. E. 583;

the right to open and close,[48] may be disregarded if without material effect on the result. The same is true of remarks by the court.[49]

Error in instructing the jury or refusing to do so is ground for reversal when the jury has been misled or it was efficient to the result declared in the verdict,[50]

Henrietta Coal Co. v. Martin, 221 Ill. 460, 77 N. E. 902. Argument outside record held improper but harmless. Hammock v. Tacoma [Wash.] 87 P. 924. Harmlessness indicated by amount of verdict. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. McMillan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 596, 98 S. W. 421; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Zink [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 299, 92 S. W. 812. Statement of result of former trial held harmless under the peculiar circumstances of the case and in view of the verdict of the jury. Culbertson v. Alexander [Okl.] 87 P. 863. Argument of plaintiff's counsel was improper in that it referred to the effect upon plaintiff's children of an adverse decision, but this was not ground for reversal. Wells, Fargo & Co. Exp. v. Boyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 98 S. W. 441. Statement of counsel to jury that "he wished he was at liberty to inform them of certain admissions made by representatives of the defendant" harmless where the admissions were not stated and it appeared that the reason why counsel could not state them was because the court had ruled them out as incompetent. Campbell Turnpike Road Co. v. Maxfield, 28 Ky. L. R. 1198, 91 S. W. 1135. Statement that in nine cases out of ten a robbery of a guest at a hotel is committed by a servant or agent of the house held harmless in view of evidence that the robbery in question was so committed. Kerlin v. Swart [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 924, 106 N. W. 710. Statements justified by the evidence are not ground for reversal though made as of the attorney's personal knowledge. Hammock v. Tacoma [Wash.] 87 P. 924. Reading of decisions in presence of jury held harmless in view of admonitions of court and counsel that jury was not to consider such decisions. Rice v. Dewberry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 193, 93 S. W. 715.

Held prejudicial. Beaumont Traction Co. v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 94 S. W. 352. Referring to client's character as of attorney's own knowledge. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Harrington [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 653.

46. Hannestad v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 718. Stating object of certain evidence in response to inquiry of court as to object thereof. Walker v. Dickey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 934, 98 S. W. 658.

Held prejudicial: Where defendant's counsel was commenting upon plaintiff's failure to introduce certain evidence in his possession, an offer of plaintiff's counsel thereupon to introduce the evidence was ground for reversal, though such conduct was rebuked. Levels v. St. Louis & H. R. Co., 196 Mo. 606, 94 S. W. 275.

47. Remarks in presence of jury held not prejudicial. Third Nat. Bank v. Fults, 115 Mo. App. 42, 90 S. W. 755.

48. Presumed harmless in absence of showing to contrary. Farmer v. Norton, 129 Iowa, 88, 105 N. W. 371. Irregularity in order of argument. Whiting Foundry Equipment Co. v. Hirsch, 121 Ill. App. 373.

49. Fitzgerald v. Benner, 219 Ill. 485, 76 N. E. 709; Hannestad v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 718; Willis v. Western Union Tel. Co., 73 S. C. 379, 53 S. E. 639. Remarks held not to impute bad faith to counsel. McFern v. Gardner [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 972. Remark held not prejudicial as assuming improper conduct of defendant's conductor. Hirte v. Eastern Wis. R. & Light Co., 127 Wis. 230, 106 N. W. 1068. Remarks reflecting on counsel but not affecting merits. Chicago City R. Co. v. Shaw, 220 Ill. 532, 77 N. E. 139. Remarks not shown to have been made in presence of jury. Coulter v. Barker's Estate [Minn.] 107 N. W. 823. Harmless where peremptory instruction is properly given. Wilson v. Johnson [Fla.] 41 So. 395. Harmless to plaintiff where he failed to prove his complaint. Yates v. Huntsville Hoop & Heading Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 647.

50. East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. Meeker, 119 Ill. App. 27; Muncie, etc., R. Co. v. Ladd [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 790; Bryce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa, 342, 105 N. W. 497; Smith v. Nixon [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 569, 108 N. W. 971; Wiese v. Gerndorf [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1025; Stantial v. Union R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 662; Miller v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 439; Brixey v. New York, 145 F. 1016. Instruction as to damages. Corn Exch. Bank v. Peabody, 111 App. Div. 553, 98 N. Y. S. 78. Instruction as to negligence and contributory negligence. Damsky v. New York City R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 579. Conflicting instructions as to defendant's liability for negligence. Anderson v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 85 P. 884. Reference to amount claimed in declaration. Illinois C. R. Co. v. Becker, 119 Ill. App. 221. Charge upon weight of evidence. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 484, 91 S. W. 312. Instruction based upon assumption that fact was proved merely because testimony in regard thereto was uncontradicted. Colonial Trust Co. v. Getz, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 619. Commenting upon matters of fact in presence of jury. See Const. art. 4, § 16. Patten v. Auburn, 41 Wash. 644, 84 P. 594. Misleading as to burden of proof. Reiter-Conley Mfg. Co. v. Hamlin [Ala.] 40 So. 280. Instruction that jury might consider plaintiff's failure to call physician who attended him held prejudicial, though not pertinent. Rowe v. Whatcom County R. & Light Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 921. Misleading charge on issues substantially variant from those raised by the pleadings. Pensacola Elec. Terminal R. Co. v. Haussman [Fla.] 40 So. 196. Misleading by reason of abstractness and because contrary to evidence. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. Goerner [Ark.] 95 S. W. 1007. Instruction not sustained by evidence. Dakan v. Chase & Son Mercantile Co., 197 Mo. 238, 94 S. W. 944; Stevens v. Citizens' Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W.

and not otherwise.[51] The verdict and findings may indicate whether an erroneous 1090; Lewis, Hubbard & Co. v. Montgomery Supply Co. [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 1017; American Surety Co. v. Ashmore [Kan.] 86 P. 453. Submission of issues as to damages not within the evidence. International, etc., R. Co. v. Gonzales [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 823, 91 S. W. 597. Instruction submitting issues not covered by the evidence held misleading. Smith v. Jefferson Bank [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 247. Instruction submitting issue the evidence of which had been excluded, and defendant being thus deprived of introducing evidence on such issue. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Burchard [Colo.] 86 P. 749. Charge authorizing finding not supported by evidence was reversible error though the findings were based on immaterial averments of complaint. Pullman Co. v. Krauss [Ala.] 40 So. 398. Instruction going outside of issues and evidence. Landers v. Quincy, etc., R. Co., 114 Mo. App. 655, 90 S. W. 117. Modification contrary to evidence. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. Goerner [Ark.] 95 S. W. 1007.

Right to complain: Where defendants sued jointly were not jointly liable one of the defendants had the right to complain of an instruction erroneously detracting from the effect of its evidence, regardless of whether such instruction was given at the instance of the respondent or of a codefendant or on the court's own motion. Connelly v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 616.

51. In re Dolbeer's Estate [Cal.] 86 P. 695; Clements v. Mutersbaugh, 27 App. D. C. 165; Seaboard Air Line R. v. Bradley, 125 Ga. 193, 54 S. E. 69; Railton v. Chicago Title & Trust Co., 224 Ill. 485, 79 N. E. 600; Hartford Life Ins. Co. v. Sherman [Ill.] 78 N. E. 923; Dillman v. McDanel, 222 Ill. 276, 78 N. E. 591; Harvey v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 221 Ill. 242, 77 N. E. 569; Prather v. Chicago Southern R. Co., 221 Ill. 190, 77 N. E. 430; Schultz v. Reed, 122 Ill. App. 420; Harris v. Gaunt, 122 Ill. App. 290; City of Gibson v. Murray, 120 Ill. App. 296; Regan v. McCarthy, 119 Ill. App. 578; City of Pana v. Broadman, 117 Ill. App. 139; Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson, 116 Ill. App. 609; Falender v. Blackwell [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 393; Wabash River Traction Co. v. Baker [Ind.] 78 N. E. 196; Muncie Pulp Co. v. Hacker [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 770; Springer v. Bricker, 165 Ind. 532, 76 N. E. 114; Blumenthal v. Union Elec. Co., 129 Iowa, 322, 105 N. W. 588; Tozer v. Ocean Acc. & Guaranty Corp. [Minn.] 109 N. W. 410; Dalby v. Lauritzen [Minn.] 107 N. W. 826; Jones v. Minnesota & M. R. Co. [Minn.] 106 N. W. 1048; Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Williams [Miss.] 39 So. 489; Missouri Real Estate Syndicate v. Sims [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 783; Sanders v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. 114 Mo. App. 655, 90 S. W. 117; Donovan-McCormick v. Sparr [Mont.] 85 P. 1029; Gammel Book Co. v. Paine [Neb.] 106 N. W. 777; Miller v. Loverne & Browne Co. [Neb.] 105 N. W. 84; Campbell v. Everhart, 139 N. C. 503, 52 S. E. 201; Kerley v. Germscheid [S. D.] 106 N. W. 136; Davis v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 286, 98 S. W. 198; Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Nicolini [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 663, 96 S. W. 84; Matfield v. Kimbrough [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 927, 90 S. W. 712; Sheldon Canal Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 279, 90 S. W. 206; Barrett v. Banner Shingle Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 919; Schwaninger v. McNeeley & Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 514; Horr v. Howard Co., 126 Wis. 160, 105 N. W. 668. In order to constitute reversible error it must appear that appellant's rights have been prejudiced. Cresent Hosiery Co. v. Mobile Cotton Mills, 140 N. C. 452, 53 S. E. 140. Instruction substantially correct. Ross-Paris Co. v. Brown, 28 Ky. L. R. 813, 90 S. W. 568. An instruction given substantially as requested with slight amendments by the court may not be complained of. Anderson v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 85 P. 884. Erroneous rule of damages harmless where effect of the application of such rule gives same damages as would the statement and application of correct rule. Abbott v. Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Co., 126 Wis. 634, 106 N. W. 523. Use of phrase "fair preponderance of evidence" criticized but held not prejudicial. Link v. Campbell [Neb.] 104 N. W. 939. Erroneous, superfluous instruction. Webster v. Sherman [Mont.] 84 P. 878. Unnecessarily enjoining jury to do what they were bound under their oath to do was harmless. Scott v. Commonwealth [Ky.] 93 S. W. 668. Instruction not strictly applicable but not unfavorable to complaining party. Hartford Life Ins. Co. v. Sherman [Ill.] 78 N. E. 923. Irrelevancy in charge not reversible error unless appellant can show prejudice. Jackson v. Southern R. Carolina Division, 73 S. C. 557, 54 S. E. 231. Instruction on irrelevant matters. Nickles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 255. Instruction on theory not sustained by evidence. Gloyd v. Stansberry, 15 Okl. 259, 81 P. 428. Instruction correct but not sustained by evidence. Ruffin v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 86. Submitting as element of damage the effect of "noise, dust, smoke and cinders" held harmless though there was no evidence of the emission of cinders by defendant's trains. Cane Belt R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 927, 97 S. W. 1066. Instruction inapplicable but harmless. Southern R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1039. Instruction on immaterial issue. Ford v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 448; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 349, 93 S. W. 686. If instruction sets forth the rule of law, it is immaterial what language is used so long as it is intelligible to the jury. Alfriend v. Fox, 124 Ga. 563, 52 S. E. 925. Clerical errors harmless where meaning is clearly apparent. Day v. Emery-Bird-Thayer Dry Goods Co., 114 Mo. App. 479, 89 S. W. 903. Verbal inaccuracies not affecting substantial meaning of instruction. City of Louisville v. Caron, 28 Ky. L. R. 844, 90 S. W. 604. Designating plaintiffs as "defense" in instruction where error palpably exposed by context. Chany v. Hotchkiss [Conn.] 63 A. 947. Erroneous instruction on nonessential feature of defense. Eubanks v. Alspaugh, 139 N. C. 520, 52 S. E. 207. Erroneous instruction on uncontested issue. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Yarus, 221 Ill. 641, 77 N. E. 1129. Assumption of undisputed facts as proved. Bradford v. Nation-instruction was effective.[52] If, as in equitable issues, the verdict is merely advisory, al Ben. Ass'n, 26 App. D. C. 268; Helland v. Colton State Bank [S. D.] 106 N. W. 60. Instruction assuming that a special assessment was lawful not harmful where jury was not required to pass upon the lawfulness of such assessment. Lingle v. West Chicago Park Com'rs, 222 Ill. 384, 78 N. E. 794. Where car was standing still immediately before accident, instruction as to rate of speed harmless. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Hackney [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1048. Assumption that seller had overcharged buyer harmless to seller where it appeared that he had given buyer credit for alleged overcharge. Bordeaux v. Hartman Furniture & Carpet Co., 115 Mo. App. 556, 91 S. W. 1020. Erroneous instruction that there was no evidence of a contract harmless where there was conclusive evidence that the contract had been abrogated by the parties. Sheldon Canal Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 279, 90 S. W. 206. Instruction as to denunciation of witnesses harmless where appellant's counsel did not denounce any witness and where instruction did not assume such denunciation and applied to both parties. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Brien, 117 Ill. App. 183. Instructions as to capacity held harmless where question was not controverted and was not an issue in the case. Compher v. Browning, 219 Ill. 429, 76 N. E. 678. Instruction authorizing recovery notwithstanding immaterial variance between pleadings and proof. McManus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 110, 92 S. W. 176. Assuming that defendant had assumed the liability of another where facts were admitted showing primary liability for same act. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111. Instruction as to effect of payments on statute of limitations harmless where debt was not barred. Hammer v. Crawford [Mo. App.] 93 S. W. 348. Instruction as to authority of holder of note to fill up blank indorsement of guarantor harmless where ratification of guaranty was proved. Lloyd & Co. v. Matthews, 223 Ill. 477, 79 N. E. 172. Instruction not reversible error as allowing recovery of damages not proximately resulting from injury where there was no evidence of such damages. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Core, 223 Ill. 58, 79 N. E. 108. Party who offers no evidence to rebut a presumption raised by the evidence not harmed by instruction stating such presumption in effect to the jury. Jones v. Minnesota & M. R. Co. [Minn.] 106 N. W. 1048. Instruction that plaintiff in action for slander was presumed from pleadings to be innocent of acts charged as constituting the alleged slander was harmless where there was no evidence that he was guilty of such acts. Schultz v. Guldensteln [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 348, 108 N. W. 96. Appellant not harmed by instruction as to validity of contract where his own testimony showed that it had been ratified and the invalidity thus cured. School Dist. No. 47 v. Goodwin [Ark.] 98 S. W. 696. Failure to give defendant asserting adverse possession the benefit of tacking his possession to that of his predecessors under whom he claimed was harmless where there was no evidence that such predecessors ever had any possession. Hughes v. Owens [Ky.] 92 S. W. 595. Failure to limit risks assumed by plaintiff to those actually known where the facts were such as to charge him with knowledge of all the risks. Mullen v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 963, 92 S. W. 1000. Where employment of skillful physician was proved. Instruction that damages would not be affected by failure to employ such a physician was harmless. Renfro v. Fresno City R. Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 357. Instruction precluding recovery upon certain theory harmless where there was no evidence to sustain such theory. Forge v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 386, 90 S. W. 1118. Charge requiring proof of facts which were in fact fully proved was harmless to plaintiff. Smith's Adm'r v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 723, 90 S. W. 254. Placing too great a burden of care upon defendant harmless where he was guilty of negligence as a matter of law. Hansen v. Seattle Lumber Co., 41 Wash. 349, 83 P. 102. Instruction that a "high" degree of care was required of defendant railroad company. Whittacker v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 110 App. Div. 767, 97 N. Y. S. 414. Defendant not harmed by instruction as to effect of negligence in regard to safety and comfort of passengers where the action was for unlawful injury to passenger by defendant's servants for which defendant was absolutely liable. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Luther [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 195, 90 S. W. 44. Where plaintiff asserted that the accident would have been averted by the slightest degree of care on part of defendant's servants and defendant asserted that the highest degree of care would not have averted the accident, errors in instructing as to the degree of care required were harmless. Hovarka v. St. Louis Transit Co., 191 Mo. 441, 90 S. W. 1142. Where defendant pleaded assumption of risk to every ground of recovery alleged by defendant, a charge comprehending other risks was harmless to plaintiff, since he could in no event recover upon a ground not alleged. Bryan v. International, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 455, 90 S. W. 693. Where a sleeping car company was liable to the carrier for failure to keep a car in repair, it could not complain that an instruction in an action by a passenger against both companies for injuries caused by the car being out of repair, placed too great a burden of care upon it, where the liability of the carrier was established. Pullman Co. v. Norton [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 869, 91 S. W. 841. Instruction ignoring issue. Indiana Union Traction Co. v. Jacobs [Ind.] 78 N. E. 325. Submitting issue of tender where tender affected only interest and no issue of interest in case. Berlin v. Belle Isle Scenic R. Co., 141 Mich. 646, 12 Det. Leg. N. 573, 105 N. W. 130. Instruction outside of pleading and evidence. Haines v. Neece, 116 Mo. App. 499, 92 S. W. 919. Instruction too broad in that it authorized recovery upon proof of facts not alleged harmless where no such facts were proved and the evidence sustained the allegations made. Miller v. Nuckolls [Ark.] 91 S. W. 759. Incorporation of pleadings in instruction held not reversisuch error is presumptively harmless.[53] Defects and irregularities in the verdict, ble error, pleadings consisting of merely a short petition and a general denial. Kamm & Co. v. Sloan & Co. [Kan.] 83 P. 1103. Instruction erroneously referring to matter as stated in complaint harmless where such matter was established by the evidence. Kabat v. Moore [Or.] 85 P. 506. Instruction erroneously stating certain facts as appearing from the pleadings harmless where the facts were proved. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 784. Not always reversible error to refer to amount claimed in declaration. Illinois C. R. Co. v. Becker, 119 Ill. App. 221. Argumentative and abstract instruction not necessarily reversible error. Birmingham R. & Elec. Co. v. Mason [Ala.] 39 So. 590. Argumentative instruction as to plaintiff's appearance as result of injury by defendant harmless where jury saw plaintiff and heard his testimony. Cole v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 42 Wash. 462, 85 P. 3. Indefiniteness in defining duties of defendant's conductor to passengers harmless where defendant's liability turned solely upon issue as to whether plaintiff was a passenger. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. Goerner [Ark.] 95 S. W. 1007. Inaccuracy in definition of insolvency in that it was not sufficiently broad harmless where it applied to case on trial. Rex Buggy Co. v. Ross [Ark.] 97 S. W. 291. Erroneous definition of contributory negligence harmless to defendant in absence of evidence of such negligence. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 150, 93 S. W. 184. Abstract instruction held harmless. Haines v. Neece, 116 Mo. App. 499, 92 S. W. 919; Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Baron, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 633. Abstractness in charge as to damages harmless where plaintiff's evidence was offered according to rule stated and verdict was evidently based on such evidence. Dexter Sulphite Pulp & Paper Co. v. McDonald [Md.] 63 A. 958. Abstractness in stating duty of defendant without stating consequences of failure to perform such duty harmless to defendant. Nephler v. Woodward [Mo.] 98 S. W. 488. Instruction erroneous in the abstract but correct in effect owing to the peculiar facts of the case. McMurray v. Dixon [Va.] 54 S. E. 481. Instruction as to weight of evidence and credibility of witnesses. McCowan v. Northeastern Siberian Co., 41 Wash. 675, 84 P. 614. Instruction as to credibility of witnesses held harmless though erroneous in that it stated the names of the witnesses and was too specific in its application. Mahoney v. Dixon [Mont.] 87 P. 452. Instruction as to credibility of witnesses in general without reference to witnesses on either side. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Brien, 117 Ill. App. 183. Giving undue prominence to parts of evidence. Southern R. Co. v. Bradford [Ala.] 40 So. 100. Instruction excluding defense not sustained by any evidence was harmless. Serrano v. Miller & T. Commission Co., 117 Mo. App. 185, 93 S. W. 810. Where court used word "important" to qualify word "fact" in instructions for both parties. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 87 P. 1036. Correction of erroneous charge held harmless. Corbet Buggy Co. v. Dukes, 140 N. C. 393, 52 S. E. 931. Giving instruction after all others had been given and jury was about to retire. Harvey v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 221 Ill. 242, 77 N. E. 569. Instruction leaving to the jury the meaning of the characters "Rel. Val. Ltd. 5 C. W. T.," on a bill of lading, harmless to defendant. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Harman, 104 Va. 501, 52 S. E. 368. Refusal of instruction. Keroes v. Weaver, 27 App. D. C. 384; Turner v. Osgood Art Colortype Co., 223 Ill. 629, 79 N. E. 306. Refusal of instruction upon matter not in issue. Smith v. Hockenberry [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 684, 109 N. W. 23. Refusal of instructions harmless where affirmative instruction for plaintiff is given. Bennett & Co. v. Brooke [Ala.] 41 So. 149. Failure to instruct as to damages as to which there was no evidence harmless to defendant. Cody v. Market St. R. Co., 148 Cal. 90, 82 P. 666. Refusal of instruction as to exemplary damages harmless where plaintiff not entitled to recover any damages at all. Johnson v. Johnson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 655, 108 N. W. 1011. No injury from failure to instruct that material allegations of complaint were denied when jury must have so understood. Schwaninger v. McNeeley & Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 514. Not reversible to refuse to charge converse of propositions given for plaintiff. Cohankus Mfg. Co. v. Rogers' Guardian [Ky.] 96 S. W. 437. Refusal to instruct that certain matters of defense not relied on by defendant and not submitted to jury could not be inferred from certain facts was harmless to plaintiff. Smith v. Hockenberry [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 684, 109 N. W. 23. Failure to submit question of agency to jury. Copeland v. Boston Dairy Co., 189 Mass. 342, 75 N. E. 704. Failure to submit undisputed issue. Bradford v. National Benefit Ass'n, 26 App. D. C. 268. Striking from instruction theoretical proposition of law. Bishop v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 84 P. 718.

52. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Sharrook [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 158. Erroneous instruction as entered harmless where no interest allowed. Regester v. Regester [Md.] 64 A. 286. Special finding showing that general verdict was not founded on certain theories advanced by the court. Milton v. Biesanz Stone Co. [Minn.] 109 N. W. 999. Where jury did not find conditional fact on which instruction was based. Woodbury v. Winestine [Conn.] 64 A. 221. Error in instructing jury that some of them must make concessions was harmless where they reported their inability to agree and did not reach a verdict until further instructions had been given. O'Neal v. Richardson [Ark.] 92 S. W. 1117. Error in authorizing recovery upon conditions not alleged harmless where no such conditions are found. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Udalle [Tex Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 668, 91 S. W. 330. Where verdict showed that connecting carrier was not held liable for any injury to the property prior to its actual delivery to such carrier, an erroneous instruction as to what constituted delivery to connecting carrier was harmless. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Horne [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 124, 95 S. W. 97. Elaborate statement of allegations of petition which was highly inflammatory in its charges shown to be harmless by size of verdict.

findings, and conclusions of law are not ground for reversal where no harm results,[54] and the same is true as to the judgment and record.[55] Thus, a wrong de-

Western Union Tel. Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 349, 93 S. W. 686. Absence of prejudice from instruction authorizing damages not shown by evidence indicated by size of verdict. Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Ely [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 605, 91 S. W. 887. Reference to amount claimed in pleadings shown to have been harmless by size of verdict Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 58, 98 S. W. 222; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 721, 95 S. W. 640; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1133. Instruction as to measure of damages shown to have been harmless. Bell v. Hatfield, 28 Ky. L. R. 515, 89 S. W. 544. Instruction upon measure of damages harmless where damages allowed were properly allowable without regard to such instruction. Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Honaker [Ark.] 96 S. W. 361; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Fisher [Ark.] 97 S. W. 279; City of Pana v. Broadman, 117 Ill. App. 139; Chicago City R. Co. v. Nelson, 116 Ill. App. 609; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moseley [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 129. Error in refusing instruction harmless where the rule contended for in instruction was applied in the findings and judgment. Contaldi v. Errichetti [Conn.] 64 A. 211. Finding for plaintiff indicated that he was not harmed by refusal to charge that certain acts constituting a defense could not be inferred from certain facts in case. Smith v. Hockenberry [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 684, 109 N. W. 23.

Held prejudicial: Prejudice shown. Corn Exch. Bank v. Peabody, 111 App. Div. 553, 98 N. Y. S. 78. Prejudice shown by verdict for an amount which could have been found only by following the erroneous instruction. Starkweather v. Emerson Mfg. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 719. Erroneous instruction as to measure of damages shown to be prejudicial by verdict which was excessive under the evidence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 847, 96 S. W. 1087.

53. Bouton v. Pippin, 192 Mo. 469, 91 S. W. 149; In re Peterson [Neb.] 107 N. W. 993; Grand Cent. Min. Co. v. Mammoth Min. Co., 29 Utah, 490, 83 P. 648; Lellman v. Mills [Wyo.] 87 P. 985. When court does not adopt verdict of jury. Lewis v. Snyder, 72 Kan. 671, 83 P. 621.

54. Failure of verdict to show substitution of one administrator for another as plaintiff held harmless. Gibson v. Swofford [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 1007. Failure of jury to follow instruction excepted to by appellant was not prejudicial to him. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dooley [Ark.] 92 S. W. 789. Disregard of instruction too favorable to appellant not reversible error where verdict sustained by evidence. Campbell v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 571. Disregard of erroneous charge is harmless where the verdict is sustainable on grounds not affected by such charge. Bancroft v. Godwin, 41 Wash. 253, 83 P. 189. Correction of clerical error in findings when it did not appesr that findings were not waived and the judgment therefore needed no findings to support it. Ladd v. Myers [Cal. App.] 87 P. 1110. Immaterial findings. King v. Davis, 137 F. 198; Ward v. Eastwood [Cal. App.] 86 P. 742; In re Tuohy's Estate [Mont.] 83 P. 486. Errors in regard to unnecessary findings. People v. Davidson [Cal. App.] 83 P. 181. Finding that defendant's bell was out of order and did not sound as its train approached crossing harmless where defendant failed to negative an averment in the complaint to same effect. Metcalf v. Central Vt. R. Co., 78 Conn. 614, 63 A. 633. Submission of interrogatories for special findings without notice. Fisk v. Chicago Water Chute Co., 119 Ill. App. 536. Erroneous answers to special interrogatories where the different answers supposable would not necessarily conflict with general verdict. Inland Steel Co. v. Smith [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 852. Defendant in accounting not injured by finding upon which no judgment is rendered against him. Miller v. Russell, 224 Ill. 68, 79 N. E. 434. Plaintiff in whose favor judgment was rendered for the amount of an alleged tender cannot complain that the jury rendered a general verdict for defendant. New Orleans Furniture Mfg. Co. v. Hill Furniture Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 731, 94 S. W. 148. Finding of damages to crops and land separately was harmless to defendant. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Dickson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 51, 93 S. W. 481. Plaintiff not harmed by allowance of statutory instead of actual damages where there was no evidence that latter exceeded former. Galbraith v. Carmode [Wash.] 86 P. 624. Variance between findings and complaint harmless where correct result is reached. Longmont Farmers' Milling & Elevator Co. v. Aldridge [Colo.] 85 P. 687. Failure to make findings harmless where case is tried de novo on appeal. Williams v. Husky, 192 Mo. 533, 90 S. W. 425. Appellant not injured by failure to find when any finding that could have been made would have been adverse to him. Bank of Yolo v. Bank of Woodland [Cal. App.] 86 P. 820.

Held prejudicial: A verdict could not be sustained where it is impossible to discover upon what theory it was rendered without reaching the conclusion that it was contrary to the instructions. Connelly v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 616. Refusal to find that easements interfered with by defendant's railroad had only a nominal value aside from consequential damages. Schmitz v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 111 App. Div. 308, 97 N. Y. S. 791. Disregard of erroneous instruction may be reversible error. Bancroft v. Godwin, 41 Wash. 253, 83 P. 189. But see ante § 1, first subdivision, note' Result Reached Only One Sustainable.

55. Formal errors harmless. May v. Vaughn, 28 Ky. L. R. 1088, 91 S. W. 273. Irregularities not affecting substantial rights. Collins v. Denny Clay Co., 41 Wash. 136, 82 P. 1012. Irregularity in judgment for costs. Kaufer v. Stumpf [Wis.] 109 N. W. 561. Clerical error in entering judgment in favor of all defendants on an injunction bond, whereas only one of the defendants was interested in such damages was harmless to injunction plaintiff. Sutliff v. Montgomery, 115 Mo. App. 592, 92 S. W. 515. Form cision when no substantial right exists,[56] or when substantially equivalent to a right decision,[57] is harmless.

§ 3. Errors cured or made harmless by other matters.—Error is also harmless if some subsequent condition has rectified it or has averted its prejudicial effect.[58] This may be done by allowing the injured party opportunity to obviate of judgment correctible by entry in proper form in appellate court. Roy v. East St. Louis & Suburban R. Co., 119 Ill. App. 313. Erroneous naming of a party as defendant who was not such was merely clerical error which could be treated as surplusage or corrected at any time on motion. Sioux Falls Elec. Light & Power Co. v. Sioux Falls [S. D.] 108 N. W. 488. Where special finding in special verdict would not have sustained judgment for plaintiff, entering judgment for defendant non obstante without setting aside special verdict was harmless. Woodard v. German American Ins. Co. [Wis.] 106 N. W. 681. Judgment in action under Rev. St. 1898, § 3186, failed to determine expressly that plaintiff had an interest in or title to the land or that defendant's tax deeds constituted a cloud, but such matters were expressly set out in findings. Coe v. Rockman, 126 Wis. 515, 106 N. W. 290. Entering judgment in favor of attorney for attorney's fees instead of taxing them as costs, harmless. Chambers v. Chambers [Neb.] 106 N. W. 993. Rendering judgment against one only of two joint defendants in an action on contract. McKee v. Cunningham [Cal. App.] 84 P. 260. Failure of judgment to follow verdict in merely formal matter. Jackson v. McFall [Colo.] 85 P. 638. Form of judgment for plaintiff where plea of tender was sustained. Birmingham Paint & Roofing Co. v. Crampton [Ala.] 39 So. 1020. Error in decreeing that devised lands should be sold if necessary to pay costs of administration and debts of estate, harmless where evidence showed that the assets primarily liable were sufficient to pay such costs and debts. West v. Bailey, 196 Mo. 517, 94 S. W. 273. Rendering personal judgment for amount due under mortgage in suit to set aside foreclosure where plaintiff admitted liability for such amount and alleged tender thereof. Daggs v. Smith, 193 Mo. 494, 91 S. W. 1043. Amendment of judgment at subsequent term so as to make it expressly direct what was otherwise clearly implied. Johnston v. Fraser [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 80, 92 S. W. 49. Correct order not invalidated by erroneous but unnecessary and separable order. Pavlicek v. Roessler, 121 Ill. App. 219. Unnecessary order amending original order denying injunction. Adair v. Atlanta, 124 Ga. 288, 52 S. E. 739.

56. No prejudicial error in setting aside absolutely void decree. Camplin v. Jackson [Colo.] 83 P. 1017.

57. Greer-Wilkinson Lumber Co. v. Steen [Ind App.] 77 N. E. 673. See ante § 1, note Right Decision on Wrong Ground.

58. See 5 C. L. 1637. Court will search whole record for curative matter. State v. Marshall County Election Com'rs [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1016. All errors waived by refiling case by agreement in district court after the papers have been certified to such court. Greeley v. Greeley, 16 Okl. 325, 83 P. 711. Where plaintiff after having been allowed to establish the fact sought to be proved by the excluded evidence failed to prove his case in other respects. Hawes v. Bank of Elberton, 124 Ga. 567, 52 S. E. 922. Improper testimony as to value held harmless where court properly limited amount recoverable and the verdict was less than half the value testified to. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Green [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 1, 97 S. W. 531. Irregularity of auditor in refusing a demand for an issue instead of reporting demand and evidence to court cured where court reviewed whole matter and confirmed result arrived at by auditor. In re Logan's Assigned Estate, 213 Pa. 218, 62 A. 843. Admitting in evidence note without revenue stamp cured by subsequent affixing of stamp, since note could have been withdrawn and the stamp affixed and then reintroduced. Beem v. Farrell [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1044. Refusal to vacate reference rendered harmless by resignation of referee and appointment of a new one. My Laundry Co. v. Schmeling [Wis.] 109 N. W. 540. Failure of administrator to give bond cured by giving of bond after objection raised to the authority of the administrator to act as such in a legal proceeding. In re Wiltsey's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 776. Failure to rule on objection to evidence cured by ruling on motion to strike such evidence. Doe v. Allen, 1 Cal. App. 560, 82 P. 568. Want of notice of order correcting judgment entry cured by subsequent hearing of application to restore the judgment to its original form, though the application was refused. Christisen v. Bartlett [Kan.] 84 P. 530. Informality in decree in condemnation proceedings for a way for an irrigating ditch in not providing that money should be paid before beginning of work on ditch was cured by actual payment of money into court. Fulton v. Methow Trading Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 117. Error in instruction cured by striking out erroneous portion. Scott v. Com. [Ky.] 93 S. W. 668. Withdrawal of pleading after demurrer erroneously sustained. Starkey v. Starkey [Ind.] 76 N. E. 876. Error in overruling exception to portion of petition harmless where such portion was ignored by the court as surplusage and no damages were asked upon the theory suggested thereby. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 653. Sustaining demurrer to pleading harmless where party is allowed the benefit of the matter set up therein. Herren v. Tuscaloosa Waterworks Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 55; Alabama Consol. Coal & Iron Co. v. Turner [Ala.] 39 So. 603; Roach v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 685; First Nat. Bank v. Chandler [Ala.] 39 So. 822; Lookout Mountain Iron Co. v. Lea [Ala.] 39 So. 1017; Wellden v. Witt [Ala.] 40 So. 126; Georgetown Water, Gas, Elec. & Power Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 97 S. W. 1119; Gilliland v. Martin [Ala.] 42 So. 7; Virginia Bridge & Iron Co. v. Jordan, 143 Ala. 603, 42 So. 73. Striking plea or answer harmless the effect of the error,[59] by trial de novo on intermediate appeal,[60] by withdrawal or abandonment of issues,[61] by pleadings and rulings thereon,[62] by the admission of evidence,[63] by striking out or excluding evidence,[64] by reinstating it,[65] by with-where party is allowed benefit of defense set up therein. Moore v. Lanier [Fla.] 42 So. 462; Bennett & Co. v. Brooke [Ala.] 41 So. 149; In re Pike Street, 42 Wash. 551, 85 P. 45. Improper argument rendered harmless by withdrawal of same by counsel upon objection. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. McMillan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 596, 98 S. W. 421. Remarks of counsel rendered harmless by withdrawal by counsel and by instruction of court. Covington & C. Bridge Co. v. Smith, 28 Ky. L. R. 529, 89 S. W. 674. Sustaining objection to remark of counsel and directing jury not to consider it cures error. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Yarus, 221 Ill. 641, 77 N. E. 1129. Going outside of record cured by sustaining objection and reproving counsel. Springfield Boiler & Mfg. Co. v. Parks, 222 Ill. 355, 78 N. E. 809. Argument rendered harmless by sustaining of objection and withdrawal. International, etc., R. Co. v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 408, 95 S. W. 660; McKenzie v. Boutwell [Vt.] 65 A. 99. Error in requiring proof of certain facts cured where the facts are fully proved. Smith's Adm'r v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 723, 90 S. W. 254.

Not cured: Where evidence of an essential fact is admitted upon a promise to connect it, failure to furnish the connecting evidence before the taking of a nonsuit rendered necessary by the erroneous exclusion of other evidence does not cure the error in such exclusion. Malone v. La Croix [Ala.] 41 So. 724. Error in refusing to compel plaintiff to elect between a common law cause of action for negligence and a cause of action under a speed ordinance was not cured by striking out the allegations as to violation of the ordinance where other allegations of ordinance negligence were allowed to remain in the petition and evidence of such negligence was introduced. Claucy v. St. Louis Transit Co., 192 Mo. 615, 91 S. W. 509. Where defendant's counsel was commenting on failure of plaintiff to introduce certain evidence, and the latter's counsel thereupon offered to introduce it, a mild rebuke from the court was not sufficient to prevent reversal. Levels v. St. Louis & H. R. Co., 196 Mo. 606, 94 S. W. 275. Quere whether any rebuke could have obviated error. Id.

59. Admission of testimony possibly based on opinion cured by failure of other party to take advantage of chance to show by cross-examination whether the testimony was opinion or not. Stamets v. Mitchenor, 165 Ind. 672, 75 N. E. 579. Exclusion of evidence cured by subsequent opportunity to introduce it, though it be not introduced in fact. Merrill v. Milliken [Me.] 63 A. 299.

Not cured: Fact that effect of improper testimony could have been obviated by cross-examination does not cure the error. Couson v. Wilson [Cal. App.] 83 P. 262. Sustaining of general demurrer is not rendered harmless by failure to amend after the sustaining of special exceptions or demurrers, since such amendment would, under the ruling on the general demurrer, be unavailing. Bigham Bros. v. Port Arthur Canal & Dock Co. [Tex.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 4, 97 S. W. 686.

60. Error in adjustment of property and debts of territory detached from one school district and attached to another immaterial on appeal to supreme court where case was tried de novo on appeal to circuit court. Independent School Dist. No. 2, Turner County v. District No. 37, Clay County [S. D.] 106 N. W. 302.

61. Exclusion of evidence on certain issue cured by withdrawal of issue. Kirby Lumber Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 913, 95 S. W. 607. Evidence as to certain damages rendered harmless by subsequent abandonment of all claims to such damages. Mobile Light & R. Co. v. Walsh [Ala.] 40 So. 560. Erroneous evidence as to certain issue harmless where such issue is eliminated by sustaining demurrer to pleading raising it and by an instruction. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. Dobbins [Ark.] 95 S. W. 788. Error in overruling exception to petition on account of certain claims cured by dismissal of such claims and withdrawing same from consideration of jury. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Terhune [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 16, 94 S. W. 381.

62. Overruling demurrer to petition on ground of lack of certain allegations cured by answer admitting the matters not alleged in the petition. Davis v. Big Horn Lumber Co. [Wyo.] 85 P. 980. Indefiniteness and uncertainty in complaint cured by pleading over or trial on merits. Creighton v. People [Colo.] 83 P. 1057. Failure of complaint to state plaintiff's readiness to perform contract cured where such issue was raised by the answer and the reply. Catlin v. Jones [Or.] 85 P. 515. Error in overruling motions to strike, make more definite, and elect, cured by party subsequently pleading to merits and going to trial. Dakam v. G. W. Chase & Son Mercantile Co., 197 Mo. 238, 94 S. W. 944. No injury from sustaining demurrer to plea where demurrer overruled as to amended plea setting up same defense. Haines' Ex'rs v. Haines [Md.] 64 A. 1044. Sustaining demurrer to original complaint harmless where demurrer to amended complaint overruled. Yates v. Huntsville Hoop & Heading Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 647. Filing amended complaint after sustaining of demurrer to original complaint renders ruling on demurrer harmless. Syson Timber Co. v. Dickens [Ala.] 40 So. 753.

Not cured: Error in sustaining demurrer to special reply not cured by subsequent filing of general denial under which the special matter was provable, since the general denial not being on file at the time of the ruling such ruling had the effect of restricting the proof. Swing v. Hill [Ind.] 75 N. E. 658.

63. Cure of rulings on pleadings: Denial of amendment cured by receipt of proof as though issue tendered by the amendment had been raised. Seifen v. Racine [Wis.] 109 N. W. 72. Admitting evidence to prove drawal of objections,[86] by proceeding with trial of issues of fact after overruling of affirmative matter contained in an answer cured error in sustaining demurrer to such affirmative matter. Whitworth v. Pool [Ky.] 96 S. W. 880. Error in sustaining demurrer to answer harmless where evidence was admitted to prove the facts set up therein and the finding was against the defendant. Id.

Cure of exclusion of evidence: Exclusion of question seeking affirmative answer cured by subsequent testimony showing that the answer would have been in the negative. Nelson v. Hunter, 140 N. C. 598, 53 S. E. 439. Exclusion of testimony as to purpose for which injured property was used harmless when witness afterwards testified that his opinion as to value of property was not affected by purpose for which property was used. Baltimore Belt R. Co. v. Sattler, 102 Md. 595, 62 A. 1125. Excluded evidence afterwards admitted. Smith v. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 307; Gadsden Grocery & Feed Co. v. McMahen [Ala.] 40 So. 87; Smith v. Dubost, 148 Cal. 622, 84 P. 38; Bashore v. Mooney [Cal. App.] 87 P. 553; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Steckman, 224 Ill. 500, 79 N. E. 602; Helm v. Anchor Fire Ins. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 605; Austin v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 289; Mier v. Phillips Fuel Co. [Iowa] 107 N. W. 621; Dalby v. Lauritzen [Minn.] 107 N. W. 826; Alabama & V. R. Co. v. Harz [Miss.] 42 So. 201; Locke v. Independence, 192 Mo. 570, 91 S. W. 61; Butte Elec. R. Co. v. Mathews [Mont.] 87 P. 460; In re Berry's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 136; Anternoitz v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 789; Jennings v. Oregon Land Co. [Or.] 86 P. 367; Strickland v. Phillips [S. C.] 55 S. E. 453; Peeples v. Slayden-Kirksey Woolen Mills [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 144, 90 S. W. 61; Grieb v. Koeffler, 127 Wis. 314, 106 N. W. 113; Lellman v. Mills [Wyo.] 87 P. 985. Substantially same testimony subsequently received. Buchanan v. Randall [S. D.] 109 N. W. 513; Sanguinetti v. Pelligrini [Cal. App.] 83 P. 293; Providence Mach. Co. v. Browning, 72 S. C. 424, 52 S. E. 117. Substantially same matter received in response to subsequent question to same witness. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Connolly [Neb.] 109 N. W. 368; Rowe v. Whatcom County R. & Light Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 921; Upchurch v. Mizell [Fla.] 40 So. 29; Kessler v. Pearson [Ga.] 55 S. E. 963; Gates v. Morton Hardware Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 509. Same witness subsequently allowed to testify fully upon same matter. Holcomb-Lobb Co. v. Kaufman [Ky.] 96 S. W. 813; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex.] 98 S. W. 240. Where witness subsequently testified fully as to matters excluded on his cross-examination. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Deck, 102 Md. 669, 62 A. 958. Evidence excluded on cross-examination subsequently admitted on direct examination of same witness by the cross-examiner. Dewey v. Komar [S. D.] 110 N. W. 90. Proof on subject of inquiry subsequently admitted. Carroll v. Griffith [Tenn.] 97 S. W. 66. Fact sought to be proved by excluded evidence afterwards proved. Hilliker v. Allen, 128 Iowa, 607, 105 N. W. 120. Error in refusing to allow witness in will contest who had testified as to testator's soundness of mind to be cross-examined as to his previous opportunities of forming an opinion on the subject harmless where witness was afterwards fully examined on the subject. In re Nichols v. Wentz, 78 Conn. 429, 62 A. 610. Exclusion of nonexpert opinion as to handwriting rendered harmless by subsequent admission of witness' opinion after he had qualified as an expert. Yarborough v. Banking Loan & Trust Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 296.

Not cured: A party cannot insist that error in refusing to permit a certain fact to be proved was cured by subsequent evidence of such fact, since to allow such an effect to the subsequent evidence would imply the right of the jury to disregard the ruling of the court. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Mathews [Tex.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 957, 93 S. W. 1068. Exclusion of evidence not cured by its subsequent admission for another purpose. Stoner v. Royar [Mo.] 98 S. W. 601. Exclusion of statement that a person was drunk not cured by admission of evidence of the talk and acts of such person. Kuhlman v. Wieben, 129 Iowa, 188, 105 N. W. 445. Exclusion of evidence negativing contributory evidence not cured by evidence of a warning which it did not appear affirmatively that plaintiff heard. Smith v. Milwaukee Elec. R. & Light Co., 127 Wis. 253, 106 N. W. 829. The erroneous exclusion of a deed in the presence of the jury on the ground that it is immaterial is not cured by a subsequent introduction by the opposing party. Whitman v. McComas [Idaho] 83 P. 604. Rejection of record of judgment not cured by testimony that execution had been issued on the judgment and levied on defendant's property, plaintiff being entitled to have the whole record admitted. Allison's Ex'r v. Wood, 104 Va. 765, 52 S. E. 559. Exclusion of evidence of adverse possession by defendant not cured by proof of better title by plaintiff under deeds from same source but covering only portion of the property in controversy. Janney v. Robbins [N. C.] 53 S. E. 863. Evidence of bias of witness. Salzman v. Mandel, 98 N. Y. S. 825. Evidence of damages in condemnation proceedings. Lewis v. Englewood El. R. Co., 223 Ill. 223, 79 N. E. 44. Subsequent question held not to cover subject-matter of question excluded. Rowe v. Whatcom County R. & Light Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 921.

Admitted evidence cured by later evidence: Same or similar evidence subsequently admitted without objection. Whitridge v. Baltimore [Md.] 63 A. 808; Lindsay v. Kansas City, 195 Mo. 166, 93 S. W. 273; Lewis v. Susmilch [Iowa] 106 N. W. 624; Bussey v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 163; Davis v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 107 N. W. 374; International Harvester Co v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 653, 96 S. W. 93. Subsequent explanation of testimony by same witness. Hilliker v. Allen, 128 Iowa, 607, 105 N. W. 120. Admitted evidence rendered immaterial by later evidence. Security Trust Co. v. Robb [C. C. A.] 142 F. 78. Subsequent evidence connecting the evidence objected to which was irrelevant at the time of its admission. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Tritton [Ala.] 39 So. 585. Admission of evidence for plaintiff rendered harmless demurrer to evidence,[67] by instructions,[68] by verdict or findings,[69] by judgment,[70] by remittitur of damages,[71] or by statute.[72]

HAWKERS AND PEDDLERS, see latest topical index.

where defendant's own witness testified to same facts. Sheldon Canal Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 279, 90 S. W. 206; Mathre v. Devendorf [Iowa] 106 N. W. 366. Admission of secondary evidence is harmless where best evidence is subsequently introduced. McCreary v. Jackson Lumber Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 822; Dorough v. Harrington [Ala.] 42 So. 557; Union Foundry & Mach. Co. v. Lankford [Ala.] 39 So. 765; Pass Packing Co. v. Torsch [Miss.] 40 So. 228. Testimony as to contents of deposition rendered harmless by subsequent introduction of the deposition. Elliott v. Howison [Ala.] 40 So. 1018. Error in admitting secondary evidence cured by subsequent competent evidence proving the fact in issue. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Texas Land & Mortg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 183, 90 S. W. 197. Admitting altered note without explanation of alteration cured by evidence in rebuttal showing that note was in same condition when endorsed by defendant. Colonial Trust Co. v. Getz, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 619. Improper admission of bills of lading upon issue as to amount of sand shipped defendant cured by subsequent testimony that bills had been exhibited to defendant and that he had admitted that they were correct. Campbell v. McCrellis [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1129. Allowing witness to be questioned as to contradictory statements made to a certain party was harmless where such party on being called as a witness testified that witness had made no such statements to him. Birmingham R. & Elec. Co. v. Mason [Ala.] 39 So. 590. Admission of affidavit without proof of affiant's authority to make it for defendant cured by subsequent proof of authorization or ratification by defendant. Shannon v. Sims [Ala.] 40 So. 574.

Not cured: Evidence as to elements of damage not properly allowable not rendered harmless by mere fact that after eliciting such evidence plaintiff continued the examination on proper lines. Jones v. Cooley Lake Club [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 82. Admission of evidence of offer of compromise not cured. Franklin v. Hoadley, 101 N. Y. S. 374. Error in admission of evidence not cured by subsequent admission without objection of evidence not coextensive with that admitted over objection. Southern R. Co. v. Simmons [Va.] 55 S. E. 459. Admission of heareay not cured by subsequent admission of original evidence on same point. Bryce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa, 342, 105 N. W. 497. Subsequent evidence held insufficient to cure error in admitting secondary evidence without proper foundation. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 829, 94 S. W. 173.

64. Driver v. King [Ala.] 40 So. 315; McBride v. Des Moines R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 618; Blumenthal v. Union Elec. Co., 129 Iowa, 322, 105 N. W. 588; Fowles v. Rupert [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 946, 106 N. W. 873; Stout v. Columbia, 118 Mo. App. 439, 94 S. W. 307; Harrison v. Kansas City Elec. Light Co., 195 Mo. 606, 93 S. W. 951; Parrott v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 140 N. C. 548, 53 S. E. 432; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 122, 98 S. W. 440; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 92 S. W. 1033; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Bath [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 117, 90 S. W. 55. Error in admission of testimony is generally cured by subsequently striking it out. Croft v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 723. Excluding evidence by written instruction after retirement of jury. Long v. Kendall [Okl.] 87 P. 670. The withdrawal of the evidence should be explicit. Southern R. Co. v. Simmons [Va.] 55 S. E. 459. Where incompetent evidence is withdrawn from jury, the verdict will not be set aside for the error in admitting it in the first instance. Scharff v. Southern Ill. Const. Co., 115 Mo. App. 157, 92 S. W. 125. Evidence not going to fundamental right of action but merely incidental. Baker v. Oughton [Iowa] 106 N. W. 272. Admission of declarations of defendant's mine examiner as to knowledge of danger which resulted in accident, cured. Athens Min. Co. v. Carnduff, 221 Ill. 354, 77 N. E. 571. Improper evidence of value of property in condemnation proceedings. Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Walsh, 197 Mo. 392, 94 S. W. 860. Admission of evidence in personal injury case that plaintiff had a family cured by instruction excluding such evidence from the consideration of the jury. Southern R. Co. v. Steele, 23 Ky. L. R. 764, 90 S. W. 548.

Not cured. Viles v. Barre & M. Traction & Power Co. [Vt.] 65 A. 104. Error in admitting testimony that plaintiff when killed by defendant's train had a pass with certain conditions thereon was not cured by sustaining objection to copy of pass. Tingley v. Long Island R. Co., 109 App. Div. 793, 96 N. Y. S. 865. Erroneous admission of testimony as to damages by persons not qualified to give opinion not cured by striking out. Davis v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [Pa.] 64 A. 774.

65. Ordering copies of deeds and receipts reported by master as having been taken from record, to be attached to report, cured error in making such statement in first report. Matthews v. Whitehorn, 220 Ill. 36, 77 N. E. 89.

66. See 3 C. L. 1589, n. 54.

Not cured: Exclusion of proper question not cured by withdrawal of objection where court persists in the erroneous ruling. Edmunds Mfg. Co. v. McFarland, 118 Ill. App. 256.

67. Introducing evidence after reservation of ruling in motion for nonsuit. Franklin v. Burris [Colo.] 84 P. 809. When after denial of his motion for a nonsuit defendant introduced evidence supplying the defects in plaintiff's proofs. Lyon v. United Moderns, 148 Cal. 470, 83 P. 804.

68. Improper argument and remarks of counsel. Robinson v. Duvall, 27 App. D. C. 535. Improper argument rendered harmless by rebuke in presence of jury. Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Nuttall [Ky.] 96 S. W. 1131; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sander's Adm'r [Ky.] 92 S. W. 937; Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033; Overton v. White, 117 Mo. App. 576, 93 S. W. 363; Leesville Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Wood & Iron Works [S. C.] 55 S. E. 768; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. McMillan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 596, 98 S. W. 421; Collins v. Chipman [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 411, 95 S. W. 666; Beaumont Traction Co. v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 94 S. W. 352; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Brisenio [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 961, 92 S. W. 998; Thomson v. Issaquah Shingle Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 588; Taylor v. Modern Woodmen of America, 42 Wash. 304, 84 P. 867. Improper argument as to damages recoverable. City of Detroit v. Little Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 803, 109 N. W. 671. Argument outside of issues rendered harmless by instruction confining jury to issues Monte Ne R. Co. v. Phillips [Ark.] 96 S. W. 1060. Argument upon matters rendered immaterial by instruction. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Avis [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 519, 91 S. W. 877. Merely sustaining objection to the argument is sufficient to obviate error in absence of request for special instruction. Jones v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 971, 92 S. W. 1010. Remarks of counsel. Miller v. Nuckolls [Ark.] 91 S. W. 759; McKenzie v. Boutwell [Vt.] 65 A. 99.

Improper cross-examination. Bennett v. Susser, 191 Mass. 329, 77 N. E. 884. Improper statements of counsel on cross-examination rendered harmless by instruction to disregard the irrelevant matter. Carpenter v. Hammer [Ark.] 87 S. W. 646.

Rulings on pleadings: Overruling exception to portion of petition setting up certain ground of recovery rendered harmless by submission of case solely upon another issue. International, etc., R. Co. v. Cruseturner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 987, 98 S. W. 423. Defendant not injured by ruling on demurrer to complaint where an affirmative charge is given for him. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Clarke [Ala.] 41 So. 829. Plaintiff not injured by overruling of demurrer to plea of set-off setting up matter available only in recoupment where the court restricted the plea to its legitimate scope as one in recoupment and there was no judgment over against plaintiff. Adams Mach. Co. v. Thomas [Miss.] 39 So. 810. Objections to amendment of reply and rulings on motions against amended reply cured by charge. Fike v. Ott [Neb.] 107 N. W. 774.

Not cured: Allowing amendment on appeal triable de novo raising amount in controversy beyond jurisdiction of trial court was not cured by appellate court's failure to include in its charge the items embraced in the amendment. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hughes [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 318, 98 S. W. 415.

Curing erroneous evidence. Frepons v. Grostein [Idaho] 87 P. 1004; Renshaw v. Dignan, 123 Iowa, 722, 105 N. W. 209; Fowles v. Rupert [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 946, 106 N. W. 873; McGunnegle v. Pittsburg & L. E. R. Co., 213 Pa. 383, 62 A. 988; Colorado Canal Co. v. McFarland [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 848, 94 S. W. 400. Instruction considered in reaching conclusion that immaterial evidence was harmless. Security Trust Co. v. Robb [C. C. A.] 142 F. 78. Evidence rendered immaterial by instruction defining the real issue. Pacific Exp. Co. v. Needham [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 889, 94 S. W. 1070. Error in answer to hypothetical question cured by instruction. Smith v. Manhattan R. Co., 112 App. Div. 202, 98 N. Y. S. 1. Evidence as to damages not properly recoverable rendered harmless by instruction properly limiting the damages recoverable. Standley v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 244; Frick v. Kansas City, 117 Mo. App. 488, 93 S. W. 351; Camden Interstate R. Co. v. Stein [Ky.] 97 S. W. 394; Tingle v. Kelly [Ky.] 92 S. W. 303. Instruction confining jury to proper issue to exclusion of the immaterial issue as to which evidence was improperly admitted. Stotler v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 509. Evidence of demand for proofs upon driver harmless where court instructed that there could be no recovery unless there was demand upon mine manager. Henrietta Coal Co. v. Martin, 221 Ill. 460, 77 N. E. 902. Testimony of facts not proper to be considered as probative of main fact in issue rendered harmless by exclusion from consideration of jury. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bailey, 222 Ill. 480, 78 N. E. 833. Evidence as to personal acquaintance between servants harmless where court instructed that fellow-servant rule was not dependent upon such acquaintance. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Kimmel, 221 Ill. 547, 77 N. E. 936. Evidence of another accident rendered harmless by instruction not to consider unless conditions were identical. Indianapolis Water Co. v. Harold [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 542. Testimony as to changed conditions after the accident held harmless in view of explanatory and restrictive instructions. Barrett v. Bannen Shingle Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 919.

Not cured. Capital Construction Co. v. Holtzman, 27 App. D. C. 125. Error in admission of evidence cannot be cured by instruction to disregard it. Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453. Testimony not admissible for any purpose not rendered harmless by instruction merely limiting its effect to a certain purpose. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 58, 98 S. W. 222. Admission of improper evidence bearing on damages not cured by instruction giving correct measure of damages but not explicitly withdrawing the evidence. Southern R. Co. v. Simmons [Va.] 55 S. E. 459; Jones v. Cooley Lake Club [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 82. In suit for malicious prosecution of plaintiff for embezzlement admission of evidence that plaintiff had right to retain certain items of funds charged to have been embezzled was not cured by an instruction that certain of such items were not chargeable against defendant by plaintiff. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Bryant [Va.] 54 S. E. 320.

Rejection of evidence: Rejection of evidence of common law of sister state cured by instruction embodying such law as part of case. Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Woods [Neb.] 107 N. W. 858.

Curing other parts of charge. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Plumlee [Ark.] 95 S. W. 442; American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Antram [Miss.] 41

So. 257; McKee v. Crucible Steel Co., 213 Pa. 333, 62 A. 921; La Fitte v. Southern R. Co., 73 S. C. 467, 53 S. E. 755; Stewart v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co., 124 Ga. 224, 52 S. E. 331. Instruction expressly correcting previous instruction as to evidence. Coles v. Interurban St. R. Co., 49 Misc. 246, 97 N. Y. S. 289. Instruction must be construed as a whole. Reiter-Conley Mfg. Co. v. Hamlin [Ala.] 40 So. 280; Mullenary v. Burton [Cal. App.] 84 P. 159; Southern R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1039; Hartford Life Ins. Co. v. Sherman [Ill.] 78 N. E. 923; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Kimmel, 221 Ill. 547, 77 N. E. 936; Fitzgerald v. Benner, 219 Ill. 486, 76 N. E. 709; Harris v. Gaunt, 122 Ill. App. 290; Springer v. Bricker, 165 Ind. 532, 76 N. E. 114; Blumenthal v. Union Elec. Co., 129 Iowa, 322, 105 N. W. 588; Mississippi Cent. R. Co. v. Hardy [Miss.] 41 So. 505; Forrester v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 37, 91 S. W. 401; City of Lexington v. Fleharty [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1056; Colonial Trust Co. v. Getz, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 619; Davis v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 107 N. W. 374; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 721, 95 S. W. 640; Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Sage [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 254, 94 S. W. 1074; Niemyer v. Washington Water Power Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 103; Glettler v. Sheboygan Light, Power & R. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 973. Entire series of instructions considered together showed no reversible error. City of Gibson v. Murray, 120 Ill. App. 296. Charge as to measure of damages for death not rendered erroneous by mere remark that deceased might have contributed more to a deaf mute child than he ordinarily would to other children. Delahunt v. United Tel. & T. Co. [Pa.] 64 A. 515. All instructions given must be considered. Schultz v. Reed, 122 Ill. App. 420. Where all instructions not in record erroneous instructions presumed corrected. People's State Bank v. Ruxer [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 337. Error in instruction for one party cured by instruction for other party. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 505, 98 S. W. 898; Chicago City R. Co. v. Shaw, 220 Ill. 532, 77 N. E, 139; Indianapolis Northern Traction Co. v. Dunn [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 269. Omissions in instructions for plaintiff cured by those given for defendant. Austin v. St. Louis Transit Co., 115 Mo. App. 146, 91 S. W. 450. Mere omissions cured. Colorado & S. R. Co. v. Webb [Colo.] 85 P. 683. Withdrawal of charge as to eliminated counts. Reiter-Conley Mfg. Co. v. Hamlin [Ala.] 40 So. 280. Excluding certain portion of instruction by written instruction after retirement of jury. Long v. Kendall [Okl.] 87 P. 670. Charge inapplicable to issues cured by charge that the erroneous charge has no application to the case. Southern R. Co. v. Holbrook, 124 Ga. 679, 53 S. E. 203. Where other portions of the instruction precluded a recovery under the erroneous portion. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Cruseturner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 987, 98 S. W. 423. Giving undue prominence to certain facts and omitting others cured by subsequently calling jury's attention to such omitted facts. Western Underwriter's Ass'n v. Hankins, 221 Ill. 304, 77 N. E. 447. Charge that certain fact was condonation by master of misconduct by servant rendered harmless by instruction that condonation was a question for the jury. Murray v. O'Donohue, 109 App. Div. 696, 96 N. Y. S. 335. References to amount claimed in declaration cured by proper limitation of the effect of such claim. McDermott v. Severe, 202 U. S. 600, 50 Law. Ed. 1162. Technical inaccuracy cured by other parts of charge. Tozer v. Ocean Accident & Guaranty Corp. [Minn.] 109 N. W. 410. Inaccuracy in instruction as to contributory negligence cured. Harvey v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 221 Ill. 242, 77 N. E. 569. Instruction as to contributory negligence of child rendered harmless. United Breweries Co. v. O'Donnell, 221 Ill. 334, 77 N. E. 547. Inaccuracy as to measure of damages cured. Richardson v. Nelson, 221 Ill. 254, 77 N. E. 583. When true measure of damages was clearly stated to jury, reading to jury erroneous instructions by another court for purpose of pointing out that such instructions were erroneous held harmless. Brown v. Forest Water Co., 213 Pa. 440, 62 A. 1078. Using word "defendant" instead of "plaintiff" in an instruction cured by other instructions. National Enameling & Stamping Co. v. McCorkle, 219 Ill. 557, 76 N. E. 843. Incomplete instruction on burden of proof cured by other instructions. Barrie v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 233. Instruction that evidence must be "conclusive" cured by other instruction charging jury to find according to preponderance of evidence. Roberge v. Bonner [N. Y.] 77 N. E. 1023. Incompleteness cured. Southern R. Co. v. Cullen, 122 Ill. App. 293. Incomplete definition of proximate cause cured by subsequent instruction. Rice v. Dewberry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 193, 93 S. W. 715. Use of word "sole" as synonymous with proximate rendered harmless by proper instruction as to proximate cause. Gila Valley, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 27 S. Ct. 145. Failure to define an express warranty cured by instruction substantially giving such definition. Haines v. Neece, 116 Mo. App. 499, 92 S. W. 919. Failure to define negligence cured by instruction defining the degree of care with which defendant was chargeable. Rattan v. Central Elec. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 735. Jury not misled by charge that plaintiff should recover if defendant was negligent where subsequent charge made the case depend on contributory negligence. Walsh v. Yonkers R. Co., 100 N. Y. S. 278. Erroneous instruction as to negligence cured by subsequent instruction fully defining the extent of defendant's liability. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rhoads, 28 Ky. L. R. 692, 90 S. W. 219. Failure to limit liability to negligence the danger of which defendant might have reasonably foreseen cured by subsequent instruction. Nephler v. Woodward [Mo.] 98 S. W. 488. Failure to submit issue cured. Deschner v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 737; Waples-Painter Co. v. Bank of Commerce [Ind. T.] 97 S. W. 1025.

Not cured: Village of Lockport v. Licht, 221 Ill. 35, 77 N. E. 581. Erroneous instruction not cured by subsequent correct instruction in conflict therewith. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson-Hailey Co. [Ark.] 94 S. W. 707; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Muscat [Ala.] 41 So. 302; Miller v. Nuckolls [Ark.] 91 S. W. 759; Bayles v. Daugherty [Ark.] 91 S. W. 304; McKinnon v. Western Coal & Min. Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 485; Wilson v. Atlantic Coast Line [N. C.] 55 S. E. 257. When it cannot be determined which instruction jury followed. Smith v. Perham [Mont.] 83 P. 492. Wrong rule in charge not cured by fact that right rule also given. Armour & Co. v. Russell [C. C. A.] 144 F. 614. Erroneous statement of facts which would justify verdict not curable. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Schell, 122 Ill. App. 346. Erroneous statement of law not cured by other instructions. Southern R. Co. v. Cullen, 122 Ill. App. 293. Error in charge not cured by remarks made in refusing another charge and relating solely to the latter charge. Murphy v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 110 App. Div. 717, 97 N. Y. S. 483. Erroneous instruction as to degree of care owed by defendant to employees not cured by correct instruction in regard thereto. Anderson v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 85 P. 884. Instruction that certain act constituted negligence not cured by instruction submitting question of negligence to jury. American Tobacco Co. v. Polisco, 104 Va. 777, 52 S. E. 563. Failure to charge that if plaintiff failed to show negligence by defendant verdict should be for latter not cured by charge that contributory negligence would bar recovery. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Burchard [Colo.] 86 P. 749. Erroneous instruction purporting to state facts which would justify a verdict not curable by other instructions in series, since it cannot be determined whether jury based verdict entirely on erroneous instruction. Osner v. Zadek, 120 Ill. App. 444. Erroneous specific instructions held not cured by general instruction. Damsky v. New York City R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 579. Instruction as to interest of witnesses as affecting credibility not cured by general instruction that credibility is for the jury, the jury being also instructed that they must take the law from the court. Muncie, etc., R. Co. v. Ladd [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 790. Error in instructing that permitting use of hand car with defective brake was negligence not cured by submission of interrogatory as to whether it was negligence to permit use of the car under the circumstances. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Stroble [Ark.] 96 S. W. 116.

Curing refusal to charge: Refusal of instruction harmless where subject-matter is substantially covered by subsequent instructions. Gilliland & Son v. Martin [Ala.] 42 So. 7; Cody v. Market St. R. Co., 148 Cal. 90, 82 P. 666; Bowen v. Sierra Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 1010; Vindicator Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Firstbrook [Colo.] 86 P. 313; Robinson v. Duvall, 27 App. D. C. 535; Kerves v. Weaver, 27 App. D. C. 384; Southern R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1039; City of Evanston v. Richards, 224 Ill. 444, 79 N. E. 673; Dillman v. McDane, 222 Ill. 276, 78 N. E. 591; Court of Honor v. Dinger, 221 Ill. 176, 77 N. E. 557; Hancheft v. Haas, 219 Ill. 546, 76 N. E. 845; Home Ins. Co. v. Gagen [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 927; Elbert v. Mitchell [Iowa] 109 N. W. 181; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 98 S. W. 308; Magnolia Metal Co. v. Gale, 191 Mass. 487, 78 N. E. 128; Smith v. Nixon [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 569, 108 N. W. 971; Mississippi Cent. R. Co. v. Hardy [Miss.] 41 So. 505; Wellmeyer v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 95 S. W. 925; Koenig v. Union Depot R. Co., 194 Mo. 564, 92 S. W. 497; Latson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 192 Mo. 449, 91 S. W. 109; Barrie v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 233; Sprinkle v. Wellborn, 140 N. C. 163, 52 S. E. 666; Wilson & Co. v. Levi Cotton Mills, 140 N. C. 52, 52 S. E. 250; Creachen v. Bromley Bros. Carpet Co., 214 Pa. 15, 63 A. 195; Banks v. Southern Express Co., 73 S. C. 211, 53 S. E. 166; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch [Tenn.] 94 S. W. 671; Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Nicolini [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 663, 96 S. W. 84; Hickey v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 88, 95 S. W. 763; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 408, 95 S. W. 660; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 524, 95 S. W. 714; Jones & Co. v. Gammel-Statesman Pub. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 191; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Dickson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 51, 93 S. W. 481; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 150, 93 S. W. 184; International, etc., R. Co. v. Brisenio [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 961, 92 S. W. 998; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Lynch [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 237, 90 S. W. 511; Niemeyer v. Washington Water Power Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 103; Hirte v. Eastern Wis. R. & Light Co., 127 Wis. 230, 106 N. W. 1068. See Instructions, 6 C. L. 43. Refusal of instructions covered by other harmless, though rejected instructions were refused in presence of jury. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. State [Md.] 64 A. 304. Refusal to charge as to certain alleged acts of negligence harmless to defendant where case was submitted solely upon another issue. International, etc., R. Co. v. Cruseturner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 987, 98 S. W. 423. Refusal of special instruction withdrawing an issue harmless where the issue was not submitted and the plaintiff's right to recover was restricted to grounds presented by other issues. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Ames [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 298, 94 S. W. 1112. Refusal of instruction and then giving it in modified form harmless where the instruction as given was substantially same as asked. Morrison v. Fairmont & C. Traction Co. [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 669. Refusal of specific instruction as to contributory negligence cured by general charge where the only kind of contributory negligence in issue was the kind referred to in the specific instruction. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lost Springs Lodge, No. 494, I. O. O. F. [Kan.] 85 P. 803.

Not cured: American Hardwood Lumber Co. v. Dent [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 814. Failure to charge as to interest of witness in case not cured by general charge that jury were judges of credibility of witnesses and weight of testimony. Denver City Tramway Co. v. Norton [C. C. A.] 141 F. 599. Refusal to charge not rendered harmless by reading excerpts from judicial opinion, which, without its context, tended to mislead rather than to instruct. Schmidt v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 49 Misc. 255, 97 N. Y. S. 390.

69. No reversible error when verdict does substantial justice. Henrietta Coal Co. v. Martin 122 Ill. App. 354. See ante § 1, first subdivision, note Result Reached Only One Sustainable. Where damages found were not excessive improper argument as to damages was harmless. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Avis [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 519, 91 S. W. 877. Correct verdict cures error in overruling challenge to juror. Williams v. Supreme Ct. of Honor, 120 Ill. App. 263. Striking out a negative and substituting an affirmative answer to an interrogatory as to actual fraud in suit to set aside a deed was harmless where the answers to other issues showed fraud in law. Sprinkle v. Wellborn, 140 N. C. 163, 52 S. E. 666. Failure to submit evidence rendered harmless by verdict involving finding of other facts rendering such evidence immaterial. Allison v. Wall, 121 Ga. 822, 49 S. E. 831. Failure to make findings cured by finding upon decisive issue. Ward v. Eastwood [Cal. App.] 86 P. 742. Dismissal as to one defendant harmless when on trial as to other defendant a finding was made that there was no cause of action against either. Kolbe v. Boyle [Minn.] 108 N. W. 847. Failure to require jury to make specific answer to interrogatory as to choice of ways rendered harmless by finding of lack of knowledge of danger. City of Indianapolis v. Keeley [Ind.] 79 N. E. 499. Ignoring instructions on certain issue cured by finding against complaining party on such issue where such finding sustained by evidence. Baum v. Palmer, 165 Ind. 513, 76 N. E. 108. Errors in relation to issues of contributory negligence and fellow-servants harmless where jury finds against defendant on issue of unsafe place to work and defective appliances. Hairston v. U. S. Leather Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 847. Where upon defendant's exception to commissioners to assess damages the case was submitted to a jury who found in defendant's favor for a certain sum, defendant could not complain of the manner in which the commissioners were appointed. Southern Ill. & M. Bridge Co. v. Stone, 194 Mo. 175, 92 S. W. 475.

Cure of rulings on pleadings: Where there is a special finding of facts, overruling demurrer is immaterial. Elsman v. Whalen [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 514. Error in overruling demurrer to complaint for uncertainty in alleging a certain charge cured by finding for demurrant on such charge. Wilkerson v. Wilkerson [Cal. App.] 84 P. 784. Where verdict is for defendant he is not injured by erroneous instructions. Elbert v. Mitchell [Iowa] 109 N. W. 181. Finding of kind of negligence charged in complaint cures error in instruction broadening the issues as to negligence. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lost Springs Lodge No. 494, I. O. O. F. [Kan.] 85 P. 803. Amendment to answer as to assumption of risk and fellow-servants harmless to plaintiff where finding against him is based solely on his contributory negligence. Brown v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 1053. Erroneous ruling as to paragraph of complaint rendered harmless by answer to special interrogatory eliminating such paragraph from the case. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Ind.] 79 N. E. 442. Defective statement of good cause of action cured by verdict. Anderson Art Co. v. Greenburg, 118 Ill. App. 220. Verdict based entirely on one count renders harmless rulings as to other counts. Boyett v. Standard Chemical & Oil Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 756. Refusal to make a plea in reconvention an issue harmless where the ground of such plea was negatived by the verdict. Guffy Petroleum Co. v. Hamill [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 458. Appellant cannot complain of overruling of exception to cross action in which the finding is for him. City of Victoria v. Victoria County [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 873, 94 S. W. 368. A correct finding of title under ten year limitation renders harmless the overruling of exceptions to pleas setting up shorter periods of limitation. Id.

Not cured: Special finding of facts does not render sustaining demurrer immaterial. Elsman v. Whalen [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 514.

Curing exclusion of evidence. My Laundry Co. v. Schmeling [Wis.] 109 N. W. 540. By finding in excepting party's favor. Hodgin v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 413; Locke v. Independence, 192 Mo. 570, 91 S. W. 61; Bryson v. Boyce [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 651, 92 S. W. 820; Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347. Finding for plaintiff, though for less than amount claimed, cures error in exclusion of evidence going merely to question of liability for any amount at all. Pinch v. Hotaling [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 841, 106 N. W. 69. Evidence in action of claim and delivery as to price for which property sold at sheriff's sale harmless to defendant where verdict fixed value of property according to defendant's own testimony. Webster v. Sherman [Mont.] 84 P. 878. Proper description of case on one decisive issue renders harmless exclusion of evidence on another issue. Reed v. Bank of Ukiah, 148 Cal. 96, 82 P. 845. Exclusion of evidence of negligence harmless where plaintiff found guilty of contributory negligence. Owen v. Portage Tel. Co., 126 Wis. 412, 105 N. W. 924. Where in action of unlawful entry and detainer the jury found that the entry was not by force or under any contract with plaintiff or those under whom he claimed, the exclusion of a memorandum of service of a notice to quit was harmless. Fowler v. Prichard [Ala.] 41 So. 667. Plaintiff in action to recover subscription not injured by exclusion of evidence as to its relation to party who secured the subscription where jury found that defendant was not bound by the subscription. American Life Ins. Co. v. Meicher [Iowa] 109 N. W. 805. Exclusion of evidence of measure of damages harmless where jury finds that there are no damages at all. McBride v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co., 125 Ga. 515, 54 S. E. 674. Wallace v. North Alabama Traction Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 89. Exclusion of evidence affecting damages only harmless where finding is for defendant upon the main issue. Albin v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 270, 95 S. W. 589. Exclusion of evidence that plaintiff claimed only a certain amount harmless where verdict did not exceed such amount. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dodson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep 109, 97 S. W. 523. Exclusion of evidence as to market value of land in controversy harmless where jury finds that there are no damages at all. Andrew v. Carithers, 124 Ga. 515, 52 S. E. 653. Verdict negativing entire charge of slander renders harmless the exclusion of evidence as to special damages. German Sav. Bank v. Fritz [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1008. Finding against validity of lien renders harmless exclusion of evidence as to amount. Knudson-Jacob Co. v. Brandt [Wash.] 87 P. 43.

Not cured: Verdict, though small, did not cure admission of evidence of damages not allowable. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Tucker [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 598, 98 S. W. 909.

Admitted evidence cured. Fowles v. Rupert [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 946, 106 N. W. 873. By finding in excepting party's favor. Hodgin v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 413; Gadsden Distilling Co. v. Kennedy Stava & Cooperage Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 622; Gould v. Cates Chair Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 676. Where findings show that evidence was not considered. Young v. Milan, 73 N. H. 552, 64 A. 16. Finding contrary to erroneous evidence renders latter harmless. Weitzel v. Fowler [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 90, 107 N. W. 451. Estimate of damages not adopted by master or by court harmless. New York Bank Note Co. v. Kidder Press Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 463. Harmlessness of evidence as to amount of damages shown by amount of verdict. McKenzie v. Boutwell [Vt.] 65 A. 99; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Woods [Neb.] 107 N. W. 858; Western Coal & Min. Co. v. Honaker [Ark.] 96 S. W. 361; Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 944, 94 S. W. 365. Where damages in condemnation proceedings were assessed as required by statute and were within the limits of the competent testimony. Yellowstone R. Co. v. Bridger Coal Co. [Mont.] 87 P. 963. Admission of contract limiting liability for negligence harmless where no negligence is found. Cane Hill Cold Storage & Orchard Co. v. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 362, 95 S. W. 751. Evidence as to one act of negligence rendered harmless by finding of another act sufficient to render defendant liable. Knott v. Cape Fear & N. R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 150. Error in admission of testimony as to reasonable value of work cured by judgment based entirely on an express contract. City of Houston v. Potter [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 691, 91 S. W. 389. Admission of evidence of an express contract not covered by the pleadings rendered harmless by finding of liability for the amount covered by such contract upon grounds covered by the pleadings. Ruzeoski v. Wilrodt [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 783, 94 S. W. 142. Where case was submitted upon right of conductor to eject plaintiff and the finding on such issue was for defendant, error in admitting testimony as to manner of ejection was harmless. Albin v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 270, 95 S. W. 589. When jury found it necessary for petitioning railroad to occupy street, evidence that road might be built on another route was harmless. Boyne City, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 739, 109 N. W. 429.

Curing errors in charge: When substantial justice done between the parties. Harris v. Gaunt, 122 Ill. App. 290. Erroneous instruction harmless where verdict in accordance with evidence. Williams v. Supreme Ct. of Honor, 221 Ill. 152, 77 N. E. 542. Erroneous instruction cured by answers to interrogatories. Muncie Pulp Co. v. Hacker [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 770. Instruction as to issue rendered immaterial by finding. Home Ins. Co. v. Gagen [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 927. Where verdict is in manifest disregard of instruction. Merry v. Calvin, 122 Ill. App. 459. The fact that the jury disregarded an erroneous instruction, provided they found a verdict which was justified by the evidence, furnishes no ground for a new trial. Gallgan v. Woonsocket St. R. Co., 27 R. I. 363, 62 A. 376. Leaving question of law to jury harmless where they decide it correctly. Jonesboro, etc., R. Co. v. United Iron Works Co., 117 Mo. App. 153, 94 S. W. 726; Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453; Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Nicolini [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 663, 96 S. W. 84. Error in submitting interpretation of written instrument to jury contrary to B. & C. Comp. § 136, harmless where finding of jury thereon is correct. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 87 P. 1036. Submission of mixed question of law and fact harmless where verdict was correct regardless of whether it was based upon the issue of law or the issue of fact. Clem v. Quincy, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 226. Submission of question which should have been decided as matter of law in defendant's favor cured by finding for defendant upon such issue. Goodfellow v. Shannon, 197 Mo. 271, 94 S. W. 979. Error in submitting issue proposed by appellant cured by finding in his favor. Davis v. Keen [N. C.] 55 S. E. 359. Erroneous instruction on particular issue cured by finding in favor of appellant on such issue. Logan v. Field, 192 Mo. 54, 90 S. W. 127. Instruction ignoring issue harmless where issue found in appellant's favor. Rink v. Lowry [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 967. Inconsistency in instruction relative to affirmative answer to interrogatory cured by negative answer. Horr v. Howard P. Co., 126 Wis. 160, 105 N. W. 668. Errors of omission harmless where it appears the jury considered omitted matters. Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 944, 94 S. W. 365. Errors in charge as to contributory negligence cured by correct verdict against complaining party on such issue. Pittsburgh etc., R. Co. v. Higgs, 165 Ind. 694, 76 N. E. 299. Erroneous instruction on one issue rendered harmless by finding on another and decisive issue. Ft. Smith Light & Traction Co. v. Carr [Ark.] 93 S. W. 990; Moerman v. Clark-Rutka-Weaver Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 648, 108 N. W. 988; Abilene Cotton Oil Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 91, 91 S. W. 607; McKenzie v. Barrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 641, 98 S. W. 229. Erroneous instruction as to damages harmless where verdict not excessive. Town of Sellersburg v. Ford [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 220. Errors in instruction as to measure of damages rendered harmless by finding of no cause of action. Corwin v. Young [Ky.] 92 S. W. 930; Tucker v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 154. Uncertainty and vagueness as to measure of damages harmless to plaintiff where verdict gave him all he could legally recover under the evidence. Knoepker v. Redel, 116 Mo. App. 62, 92 S. W. 171. Instruction authorizing interest harmless where no interest was allowed. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Batte [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 561, 94 S. W. 345; Fitzgerald v. Benner, 120 Ill. App. 447. Failure to limit the amount recoverable upon a counterclaim rendered harmless by a finding for an amount less than was recoverable upon such counterclaim. Knoxville Woolen Mills v. Wallace, 28 Ky. L. R. 885, 90 S. W. 563. Erroneous instruction relating to fellow-servant doctrine harmless where such issue was eliminated by special finding. New Castle Bridge Co. v. Doty [Ind.] 79 N. E. 485. Error in instruction as to form of verdict cured by verdict in correct form. Waples-Painter Co. v. Bank of Commerce [Ind. T.] 97 S. W. 1025.

Instruction authorizing recovery on fraudulent mortgage cured by finding that mortgage was not fraudulent. Curtiss v. Curtiss [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 126, 107 N. W. 323. Error in authorizing a verdict against the defendants either separately or collectively cured by finding against all the defendants. Costet v. Jsantet, 108 App. Div. 201, 96 N. Y. S. 638. Erroneous instruction as to certain defense cured by finding of estoppel to assert the defense. Fishblate v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 140 N. C. 589, 53 S. E. 364.

Not cured: Where evidence not preserved in record, erroneous instruction not cured by verdict. Turner v. Righter, 120 Ill. App. 131. Erroneous instruction not cured where it does not appear that verdict was not caused thereby. Weierhauser v. Cole [Iowa] 109 N. W. 301; Stevens v. Citizens' Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1090. Erroneous instruction authorizing a recovery where none could be legally had, not cured by verdict for less than amount sued for. Meyer v. Home Ins. Co., 127 Wis. 293, 106 N. W. 1087. Charge that plaintiff could not recover unless defendant was guilty of gross negligence not cured by finding in favor of plaintiff for small amount. Pendley v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 1324, 92 S. W. 1.

Curing refusal to charge: By finding in party's favor. Gates v. O'Gara [Ala.] 39 So. 729; Jones & Co. v. Gammel-Statesman Pub. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 191. Refusal to charge as to damages harmless where jury finds no cause of action. Earley v. Winn [Wis.] 109 N. W. 633. Refusal to charge as to exemplary damages harmless where jury finds plaintiff entitled to no damages at all. Johnson v. Johnson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 655, 108 N. W. 1011. Refusal of instructions as to contributory negligence, assumption of risk and fellow-servants rendered harmless by finding for defendant on issue of negligence where such finding was sustained by evidence. Denny v. Kleeb, 40 Wash. 634, 82 P. 920. Refusal of instruction as to contributory negligence cured by finding of contributory negligence. Edwards v. Carolina & N. W. R. Co., 140 N. C. 49, 52 S. E. 234. Failure to instruct as to contributory negligence where jury found that defendant by exercising due care could have avoided the accident notwithstanding plaintiff's negligence. Glettler v. Sheboygan, Light, Power & R. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 973.

70. No reversible error where judgment does substantial justice. Henrietta Coal Co. v. Martin, 122 Ill. App. 354; Herrin v. Bowsher, 122 Ill. App. 565. Correct decree cures errors in rulings of chancellor. Barbee v. Morris, 221 Ill. 382, 77 N. E. 589. Errors as to instructions cured by correct result. See Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 401, 670. Posey County Fire Ass'n v. Hogan [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 670. Where the judgment rests upon one issue, error in regard to other issues is harmless. Kosower v. Sandler, 49 Misc. 443, 98 N. Y. S. 65; In re Wharton's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 492. Finding not supported by evidence is harmless where decision rests upon another finding which is not attacked in the specifications of error. Fitzhugh v. Mason [Cal. App.] 83 P. 282. When party is granted all relief he is entitled to. Taylor v. Hunter [Neb.] 107 N. W. 571; Equitable Trust Co. v. Torphy [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 639. Error in overruling demurrer to answer cured by judgment for plaintiff. Equitable Trust Co. v. Torphy [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 639. Where no judgment was rendered awarding the appellee affirmative relief on his cross complaint, any ruling as to such complaint could not afford the appellant any grounds of objection. Baum v. Palmer, 165 Ind. 613, 76 N. E. 108. Where no allowance was made on a claim objected to, error in admitting testimony as to the claim was harmless Flynn v. Seale [Cal. App.] 84 P. 263. Lack of interest in subject-matter on part of a plaintiff harmless to defendant when judgment rendered against such plaintiff. Cross v. Hendry [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 631. Sustaining demurrer of garnishee harmless where judgment rendered for defendant in principal action. Tippecanoe Loan & Trust Co. v. Carr [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 1043. Evidence as to certain damages harmless where no such damages allowed. Over v. Dehne [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 664. Where judgment in action by assignee is sufficient to bind assignor failure to prove the assignment is harmless. Jordan v. Markham [Iowa] 107 N. W. 613. Where the decree in proceedings under U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1430, to determine adverse claim to mining claim, showed that a deed executed by the claimant pending his application for a patent was considered only as having its proper legal effect in constituting claimant a trustee for his grantee, the admission of the deed in evidence was erroneous but harmless. Slothower v. Hunter [Wyo.] 88 P. 36.

71. Allowance of a specific unauthorized item of damages may be cured by remittitur. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Stewart, 125 Ga. 88, 54 S. E. 197. Erroneous excess in judgment cured by remitting excess. Craig v. Dowie [Cal. App.] 87 P. 260; Wilder v. Great Western Cereal Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 789. Error in allowing damages for a certain item cured by remittitur of the greatest sum which the jury could have found upon such item. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Seale [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 48, 89 S. W. 997. Error in allowing too much costs cured by remittitur of excess. American Fruit Product Co. v. Ward, 99 N. Y. S. 717. Error of court in computing interest on note sued on instead of allowing jury to do so as required by Rev. St. 1899, §§ 721, 726, cured by remittitur of the interest. Locher v. Kuechenmiester [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 92. Where all the jurors were agreed as to allowing a certain sum, error in reaching a larger sum by drawing straws was cured by remittitur of the excess above the sum originally agreed upon. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Gentry [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 860, 98 S. W. 226. Verdict in excess of amount claimed in complaint cured by striking the excess. Mossteller v. Holborn [S. D.] 108 N. W. 13. Failure of judgment to make allowance for coinsurance cured by remittitur of proportionate amount. Western Underwriters Ass'n v. Haukins, 221 Ill. 304, 77 N. E. 447. Error in admission of evidence as to damages cured by remittitur. Brown v. Blaine, 41 Wash. 287, 83 P. 310. Remittitur of punitive damages cures error in instruction in regard thereto. Roundtree v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 72 S. C. 474, 52 S. E. 231. Overruling of demurrer to counterclaim cured by dismissal of main action and remittitur of damages found on the counterclaim. Smith v. Alvord [Utah] 88 P. 16. Error in submitting

HEALTH.

§ 1. Validity and Construction of Health Regulations (36).
§ 2. Health Boards and Officers (38).
§ 3. Care and Control of Sanitation and Disease (38). Enforcement of Health Regulations (39). Liability for Expenses (39). Negligence (40).

§ 1. Validity and construction of health regulations.[73]—The preservation of public health is a police power and cannot be surrendered,[74] though the exercise of it may be delegated to municipal bodies,[75] but, in so far as it involves legislation, not to the executive department.[76] In the promotion of public health reasonable regulations,[77] such as excluding unvaccinated children from the public schools,[78] prohibiting the sale of impure milk,[79] requiring burial permits,[80] and prescribing conditions for the issuing of the same,[81] are valid. Boards of health may adopt rules and regulations within the scope of their statutory authority[82] which have the issue as to damages not covered by evidence may be cured by remittitur where the damages allowed under such issue are separable. Colorado Canal Co. v. Sims [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 944, 94 S. W. 365.

Not cured: Error as to damages cannot be cured by remittitur where the erroneous damages cannot be separated. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 139, 90 S. W. 65. Offer to release portion of damages erroneously allowed on condition that judgment be affirmed does not cure error where defendant refuses to accept offer. Farrar v. Wheeler [C. C. A.] 145 F. 482. Where the effect of erroneous evidence cannot be entirely eliminated by a remittitur of the amount directly based on such evidence, the error cannot be cured by remittitur of such amount. Butler v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 117 Mo. App. 354, 93 S. W. 877. Where the court instructed the jury to find the value of plaintiff's property at place of delivery uninjured and to subtract the value in its damaged condition, and to deduct the advance charges and freight rates, but the jury assessed the damages at a certain sum plus the freight rates, the error could not be cured by a remittitur of the freight rates. Connelly v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 616.

72. Judgment will not be reversed for misjoinder of parties where a statute authorizing such joinder has gone into effect since the trial. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 600, 93 S. W. 1107. Admission of certified copies of legislative journals rendered harmless by Laws 1906, c. 240, passed pending the appeal, and rendering such copies harmless. In re Stickney's Estate [N. Y.] 77 N. E. 993.

73. See 5 C. L. 1641.

74. City of Portland v. Cook [Or.] 87 P. 772. Hence an ordinance granting the right to construct a slaughter house at a particular place is only a license and not a contract within the protection of the Federal constitution (Id.), and if it imperils the public health may be enjoined though it is a legitimate business (Id.).

75. City of Portland v. Cook [Or.] 87 P. 772. A statute denouncing certain contents of cesspools does not inhibit to municipalities the adoption of cesspools as a part of its sanitation system. Logan v. Childs [Fla.] 41 So. 197.

76. Laws 1901, p. 662, c. 479, § 4, subd. "b," authorizing the commissioner of agriculture, with the consent of the board, to establish and maintain cattle districts and quarantine lines, does not delegate legislative power to the Board of Agriculture, a branch of the executive department. State v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 54 S. E. 294.

77. An order prohibiting brick companies from digging clay except upon their own lands, the purpose being to avoid the stagnation of water in the excavations, is not a reasonable exercise of the power to regulate offensive businesses conferred by Rev. Laws, c. 75, § 91 (Inhabitants of Belmont v. New England Brick Co., 190 Mass. 442, 77 N. E. 504), nor is a rule requiring such companies to give a bond to refill the excavations, since it may deprive one of the use of his land (Id.).

78. Act of June 18, 1895 (P. L. 203), upheld as a valid exercise of the police power (Stull v. Reber [Pa.] 64 A. 419), and not objectionable as special legislation, though it applies only to municipalities and not to the country districts (Id.), nor as trespassing upon the reserved rights of the individual in that vaccination is the infliction of a disease upon the patient (Id.), nor does it contravene Const. art. 10, § 1, requiring the maintenance of schools wherein all children above six years of age may be educated (Id.).

79. People v. Department of Health, 51 Misc. 190, 100 N. Y. S. 788. A resolution of a board of health providing that milk above fifty degrees Fahrenheit shall be confiscated and destroyed is not unconstitutional. Kaiser v. Walsh, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 507. If, in fact, the milk is not injurious to the health, the members of the board refusing a permit are liable to the same extent as anyone else interfering with a lawful business. People v. Department of Health, 51 Misc. 190, 100 N. Y. S. 788.

80. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3058, authorizing city councils to establish quarantine laws and regulations to prevent the spread of contagious diseases, and to secure the general health, a city may pass an ordinance requiring a burial permit as a condition of interment. Meyers v. Duddenhauser [Ky.] 93 S. W. 43.

81. Conditions must be reasonable. Meyers v. Duddenhauser [Ky.] 93 S. W. 43. A regulation requiring the attending physieffect and force of a statute,[83] but they cannot re-delegate any of their powers.[84] Incidental damage to property arising out of health laws is not a taking of property without due process of law.[85] The motive of a city council in passing a health regulation is not open to judicial investigation in passing upon the validity of the same.[86] The application and construction of particular statutes are treated in the notes.[87] A use of property detrimental to public health may be enjoined,[88] or, in some states, suppressed by a special procedure.[89] cian's certificate as to the cause of death held reasonable. Id.

82. An order of a board of health prohibiting a brick company from digging clay except on its own land, having for its purpose the doing away with stagnant pools which result, is not authorized by §§ 65, 67, of Rev. Laws, c. 75, since those sections leave the manner of abatement to the landowner responsible for the condition. Inhabitants of Belmont v. New England Brick Co., 190 Mass. 442, 77 N. E. 504. Order requiring a bond to refill held void, there being no statute authorizing the imposition of such a condition. Id.

83. Under Code § 2565, conferring on the board of health power to make rules and regulations for the preservation of public health, a rule so made has the force and effect of a statute. Pierce v. Doolittle [Iowa] 106 N. W. 751. In Massachusetts a board of health of a town may declare that certain employments by the manner in which they are conducted are injurious to the health of the community and should be entirely prohibited or regulated, or that they constitute a nuisance, and such regulations until revoked, modified, or declared void have the force of law. Inhabitants of Belmont v. New England Brick Co., 190 Mass. 442, 77 N. E. 504.

84. Rev. Laws, c. 75, § 113, if it authorizes the board of health to make a regulation requiring parties cutting ice from the water supply pond to obtain a permit, does not authorize them to delegate the granting of the permit to the water board. Commonwealth v. Staples, 191 Mass. 384, 77 N. E. 712.

85. An ordinance abating water closets and privies in blocks having cesspools. Logan v. Childs [Fla.] 41 So. 197.

86. In a prosecution for violating a garbage ordinance alleged to be void, evidence that the ordinance was enacted with a fraudulent intent of creating a monopoly is inadmissible. People v. Gardner [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 936, 106 N. W. 541.

87. Second-hand clothing. Georgia: Pen. Code 1895, § 490, relating to the sale of second-hand clothing, is only applicable to imported clothing. Smith & Co. v. Evans, 125 Ga. 109, 53 S. E. 589. And hence a special plea in an action for goods sold attempting to set up the illegality of the transaction but which fails to allege importation is defective. Id.

Unvaccinated children, schools. Pennsylvania: Section 12 of Act of June 18, 1895 (P. L. 203), excluding unvaccinated children from the public schools, is applicable to districts where small-pox does not exist, notwithstanding § 11, relating to the vaccination of adults, is only applicable to small-pox districts. Stull v. Reber [Pa.] 64 A. 419.

State board supervision. Florida: Art. 15, § 3, of the constitution conferring "supervision" of matters of health upon the state board, has no bearing upon the validity of an ordinance where the board refuses to interfere. Logan v. Childs [Fla.] 41 So. 197.

Manufacture of cigarettes. Nebraska: The word "manufacture" as used in the statute prohibiting the manufacture of cigarettes does not include the rolling of a cigarette for the maker's own use. Dempsey v. Stout [Neb.] 107 N. W. 235.

Barns in cities. Massachusetts: Under St. 1893, p. 1135, c. 407; St. 1894, p. 11, c. 4; St. 1894, p. 283, c. 288, and St. 1894, p. 575, c. 483, giving to the park commissioners complete control over the parks and boulevards, contractors constructing a boulevard may erect a temporary stable for the horses so employed where necessary without a license from the board of health as required by Rev. Laws c. 102, § 69. Teasdale v. Newell & Snowling Const. Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 504.

Cattle districts. North Carolina: Laws 1901, p. 662, c. 479, § 4, subd. "b," authorizing the commissioner of agriculture, with the consent of the board, to establish and maintain cattle districts and quarantine lines, confers power to prohibit transportation across the established lines. State v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 54 S. E. 294. Acts imposing penalties upon carriers for refusing to transport freight do not repeal Laws 1901, p. 662, c. 479, § 4, subd. "b," prohibiting the transportation of cattle across quarantine lines, since the former will be construed as applying only where the offered shipment was entitled to be transported. Id.

Reporting of contagious diseases. D. C.: Act of Congress of Dec. 20, 1890, requiring a physician to report cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria "in his charge," does not require a physician in charge of a dispensary which does not treat such diseases, who examines a prospective patient and rejects the same on ascertaining that she has diphtheria, to report the case, since it was not in his charge. Johnson v. District of Columbia, 27 App. D. C. 259.

Powers of school board. Pennsylvania: Act Mar. 30, 1903 (P. L. 115), authorizing cities of the third class to establish hospitals for contagious diseases outside the city limits, does not repeal Act April 11, 1899 (P. L. 38), giving school boards certain powers over matters relating to the public health and the spread of contagious diseases through the schools. City of Allentown v. Wagner, 214 Pa. 210, 63 A. 697.

88. Where an injunction has been granted restraining the use of certain property for cemetery purposes because of its polluting effect upon the neighboring wells, an ordinance leaving it "discretionary" with the health commissioner to require the graves to be cemented at the bottom and sides does not so remove the cause as to justify a

§ 2. Health boards and officers.[90]—The Nebraska act creating the state board of health is valid.[91] While the fixing of the salaries of local health officers in Kentucky is left to the fiscal court, the allowance must be reasonable[92] and is subject to appellate review.[93] Neither the Georgia state board of health nor its individual members has capacity to maintain actions to enforce its rules and regulations.[94] Where the members of a municipal board of health are exceeding their jurisdiction, an action to enjoin them is properly brought against them individually.[95]

§ 3. Care and control of sanitation and disease.[96]—The duty[97] and manner of providing a place for the care of the sick is largely statutory.[98] A statute conferring the power to build hospitals impliedly confers the power to acquire by purchase or otherwise sites for such hospitals.[99] The county commissioners of Montana cannot of their own motion acquire property for the erection of a permanent detention hospital.[1] Members of health boards are not liable for negligence in locating in obedience to statute a hospital for contagious diseases,[2] but they have no power to take private property for hospital purposes without proceeding according to statute or obtaining the owner's consent,[3] and are liable for so doing.[4] dissolution of the injunction, since the commissioner may not require the cementing. Lowe v. Prospect Hill Cemetery Ass'n [Neb.] 106 N. W. 429. The United States may enjoin the maintenance of a fertilizer manufacturing plant so situated as to affect the health and comfort of patients and attendants in a Federal quarantine hospital. United States v. Luce, 141 F. 385.

89. In an action to suppress a business as offensive under Rev. Laws c. 75, § 91, the order of prohibition must be served upon the occupant or person in charge of the premises; notice by publication or mail is insufficient. Inhabitants of Belmont v. New England Brick Co., 190 Mass. 442, 77 N. E. 504.

90. See 5 C. L. 1643.

91. Act 1891 (Laws 1891, p. 280, c. 35) held not unconstitutional although it provides for the compensation of its secretaries by fees which are not required to be accounted for to or paid into the state treasury. Munk v. Frink [Neb.] 106 N. W. 425.

92. Acts 1904, p. 106, c. 35, construed. Butler County v. Gardner [Ky.] 96 S. W. 582.

93. And the salary fixed is not conclusive but subject to review under Ky. St. 1903, § 978. Butler County v. Gardner [Ky.] 96 S. W. 582.

94. Act 1903 (Acts 1903, p. 72) creating the board held not to confer upon the board or its members capacity to sue. Rules must be enforced by the state. Woodward v. Westmoreland, 124 Ga. 529, 52 S. E. 810.

95. Need not be brought against the municipality. Woodward v. Westmoreland, 124 Ga. 529, 52 S. E. 810.

96. See 5 C. L. 1643.

97. Rev. Laws c. 75, § 42, providing that if a disease dangerous to the public health breaks out in a "town" the board of health shall provide a hospital therefor, is applicable to cities. Barry v. Smith, 191 Mass. 78, 77 N. E. 1099.

98. Act March 30, 1903 (P. L. 115), entitled "An act amending cl. 22, of § 3, art. 5, of the act of May 23, 1889 (P. L. 290), entitled 'An act providing for the incorporation and government of cities of the third class,' approved 23d day of May, 1889," and authorizing the establishment of hospitals for infectious diseases beyond the city, is sufficient as to title, though it does not expressly give notice of the power to so locate to those who may be affected thereby. City of Allentown v. Wagner, 214 Pa. 210, 63 A. 697. This statute in authorizing the establishment of hospitals within the limits of the city or "within the county adjacent" does not in the use of the word adjacent apply to the site or location of the hospital but to the county in which it and the city are situated. Id. The word "municipalities" as used in Laws 29th Gen. Assem. 1902, p. 68, c. 108; Code Supp. 1902, § 2575, providing that in the case of a controversy between municipalities as to the location of a pest house reference shall be made to the president of the state board of health, etc., includes "townships." Hanson v. Cresco [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1109.

99. Yegen v. Yellowstone County Com'rs [Mont.] 85 P. 740.

1. The title to Laws 1901, p. 80, having reference only to the creation of a state board of health and its powers, held insufficient to include a provision granting the "county commissioners" power to construct detention hospitals. Yegen v. Yellowstone County Com'rs [Mont.] 85 P. 740. Pol. Code § 2864, empowering the county board of health to provide for the temporary detention of persons suffering from a contagious disease, confers no authority on the county commissioners as such though they with a physician constitute the board of health. Id. Pol. Code § 4230, subds. 5-7, 9, authorizing the erection of hospitals for the "indigent" sick, etc., does not authorize the erection of a general detention hospital (Id.), and the phrase "and such other buildings as may be necessary" does not enlarge the purposes for which they may be erected (Id.).

2. Rev. Laws c. 75, § 42. Barry v. Smith, 191 Mass. 78, 77 N. E. 1099. One cannot complain that a hospital for contagious diseases is located too near a dwelling in an adjoining town contrary to Rev. Laws c. 75, § 37, where he lives in the town in which it is located. Id.

3. Barry v. Smith, 191 Mass. 78, 77 N. E. 1099; Sallinger v. Smith [Mass.] 78 N. E. 479. Where after the board has taken possession

Enforcement of health regulations.—A municipality is not civilly liable for injury resulting from the nonenforcement of health regulations.[5] The legislature may provide for the punishment of violation of rules and regulations of the state board of health.[6] In New Jersey the justice court proceeding to recover a penalty for the violation of a health ordinance is a civil action in the court of small causes.[7]

Liability for expenses.[8]—There is no common-law duty upon a county to care for persons afflicted with a contagious disease,[9] and, therefore, a county is liable only when made so by statute.[10] While a county in Kentucky is liable for expenses incurred by a city in maintaining a quarantine for small-pox,[11] it is liable only for lawful expenses[12] actually incurred in preventing the spread of the disease.[13] A board of health is bound to afford to quarantined persons such means of communication as will enable them to obtain supplies,[14] and to furnish necessary supplies,[15] if such persons cannot with reasonable effort obtain the same.[16] A third person furnishing supplies to a quarantined family can recover of the borough only when furnished at the request of one having authority to bind the borough,[17] unless it is subsequently ratified.[18] In Michigan the board of health must and used private property the owner executes a lease and accepts rent thereunder, consent is given and renders a statutory action unnecessary. Sallinger v. Smith [Mass.] 78 N. E. 479. In an action by the owner for the original occupancy of a building taken for hospital purposes which was subsequently leased, evidence that she did not know when she executed the lease that she was signing away her right to recover for the original occupation and that the house has since been known as the pest house is inadmissible. Id.

4. Encroached upon private premises in maintaining a smallpox hospital. Barry v. Smith, 191 Mass. 78, 77 N. E. 1099.

5. Failed to enforce ordinance relating to the maintenance of hog-pens and privies. Hull v. Roxboro [N. C.] 55 S. E. 351. Where a citizen fails to prosecute his neighbor for violation of a city ordinance regulating the maintenance of hog-pens and privies and to take steps to abate the nuisance, he cannot complain of the default of the city in enforcing the ordinance. Id.

6. Pierce v. Doolittle [Iowa] 106 N. W. 751. Code § 2573, providing for the punishment of violations of rules and regulations of the state board of health, is not unconstitutional as delegating legislative power to such board to determine what acts shall constitute a punishable offense. Id.

7. Penalty prescribed by Gen. St. p. 1638, § 18. Board of Health of Woodbury v. Cattell [N. J. Law] 64 A. 144. And hence the only matter reviewable by certiorari is lack of jurisdiction, and, in an action for recovery of a penalty for failing to make sewer connections after notice, want of such notice is not a jurisdictional defect but goes to the merits. Id.

8. See 5 C. L. 1643.

9. Martin v. Fond du Lac County, 127 Wis. 586, 106 N. W. 1095.

10. Rev. St. 1898, § 1416, providing that if any person be infected with a dangerous disease the proper board of health shall make provisions for him, etc., imposes the care on the municipality wherein the case arises and § 1512 imposing the care of paupers on the county is inapplicable. Martin v. Fond du Lac County, 127 Wis. 586, 106 N. W. 1095. Code § 2570, providing for the care of infected persons and for the payment of the expenses thereof, does not impose a duty on the county to care for a quarantined person's crop. Beeks v. Dickenson County [Iowa] 108 N. W. 311. And hence the local board of health could create no county liability by promising that the county would care for the crop, since no such duty was imposed by law. Id.

11. The action of the county board of health in diagnosing a case as smallpox and directing a quarantine to be established by a city is conclusive as to the latter and the fiscal court of the county. City of Bardstown v. Nelson County, 28 Ky. L. R. 710, 90 S. W. 246.

12. Not liable for money paid to a councilman for the construction of a guard house, since a contract between a municipality and an officer for city work is illegal and void. City of Bardstown v. Nelson County, 28 Ky. L. R. 710, 90 S. W. 246.

13. City of Bardstown v. Nelson County, 28 Ky. L. R. 710, 90 S. W. 246.

14. Borger v. Alliance Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 407.

15. The discretion of determining what are reasonably necessary is vested in the board of health (Borger v. Alliance Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 407), and the court cannot say as a matter of law that the borough is bound to furnish such supplies to all quarantined persons (Id.).

16. Borger v. Alliance Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 407.

17. Where furnished at the request of an employe of the board of health, it must be shown that the board of health as a body conferred such authority, indefinite remarks by individual members being insufficient. Borger v. Alliance Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 407.

18. Where a merchant furnishes supplies to several houses and keeps a separate and distinct account, he must show a ratification furnish or certify an itemized statement of services rendered in the care of contagious diseases,[19] and the supervisors must audit the same[20] before recovery can be had.

Negligence.[21]—Members of boards of health are liable for maintaining hospitals in such manner as to make them a nuisance where the negligence is a misfeasance as distinguished from nonfeasance.[22] Where a discretionary power is conferred upon a board of health,[23] failure to act[24] or a mistake in exercising the power[25] creates no liability in the absence of corrupt motive. In the absence of a statute imposing a liability, a municipality is not liable for the negligence of its officers in executing health regulations, since it occurs in the discharge of a governmental function.[26]

HEARING; HEARSAY; HEIRS, DEVISEES, NEXT OF KIN AND LEGATEES; HERD LAWS, see latest topical index.

HIGHWAYS AND STREETS.[27]

§ 1. Definitions and Classifications (40).
§ 2. Establishment by Dedication, Prescription, or User (41). Highway by Prescription (43).
§ 3. Establishment by Statutory Proceedings (44). Occasion or Necessity for Road (44). Application or Petition (45). Jurisdiction and Notice (45). Viewing, Locating, and Assessing, or Recovery of Damages (46). The Order Locating a Road (47). Discontinuance and Dismissal (47). Appeal or Other Review (49). Injunction and Other Relief (50).
§ 4. Boundaries and Extent of Way, Ascertainment and Resurvey (50).
§ 5. Alterations and Extensions (50).
§ 6. Change of Grade (51).
§ 7. Improvement and Repair (53).
§ 8. Abandonment and Diminution (56).
§ 9. Vacation (56).
§ 10. Street and Highway Officers and Districts (58).
§ 11. Fiscal Affairs (59).
§ 12. Control by Public and Public Regulations (61).
§ 13. Rights of Public Use (65).
§ 14. Rights of Abutters (70). Ownership of Fee (71).
§ 15. Defective or Unsafe Streets or Highways (72).
A. Liability of Municipalities in General (72).
B. Notice of Defect (74).
C. Sidewalks (75).
D. Barriers, Railings and Signals (76).
E. Snow and Ice (77).
F. Defects Created or Permitted by Abutting Owners and Others (78).
G. Persons Entitled to Protection (81).
H. Remote and Proximate Cause of Injury (81).
I. Contributory Negligence of Person Injured (82).
J. Notice of Claim for Injury and Extent to Sue (84).
K. Actions (85).
§ 16. Injury to, Obstructions of, or Encroachment on, Street or Highway (89). Civil Liability (91). Crimes (91).

§ 1. Definitions and classifications.[28]—The meaning of the term highway as used in statutes depends largely upon the legislative intent,[29] but in the broad sense by the board of health as a body of each item. Borger v. Alliance Borough, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 407.

19. Where a board of health refuses to furnish such statement, mandamus to compel performance is the appropriate remedy and not an action against the municipality. Sawyer v. Manton [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 470, 108 N. W. 644.

20. By Pub. Acts 1903, p 124, No 101, the provision that the board of health shall audit all fees and charges of persons employed to execute the health laws was amended by the addition of the words "except as hereinafter provided in § 15 thereof with regard to dangerous communicable diseases," and § 15, as amended by Pub. Acts 1903, p. 6, No. 7, provides for auditing by the supervisors. Sawyer v. Manton [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 470, 108 N. W. 644. But the supervisors cannot pass upon whether the disease was a dangerous, communicable one. Thomas v. Ingham County Sup'rs [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 731, 105 N. W. 771. Where the board of health submits an account of services rendered with a statement that they were not rendered under an order of the board, it is the supervisor's duty to pass upon the same (Dows v Board of Health of Monroe [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 741, 109 N. W. 433), notwithstanding a change in the membership of the board of health (Id.).

21. See 5 C. L. 1645.

22. Barry v. Smith, 191 Mass. 78, 77 N. E. 1099.

23. Comp. Laws § 4424, as amended by Pub. Laws 1903, p. 6, No. 7, leaves it to the board of health to decide whether a nurse it is any way open to the general public for purposes of travel[30] and includes streets, alleys, etc.[31] It is the right of the public to use the way,[32] and not the size thereof or the number of people using the same which determines its highway character.[33]

§ 2. Establishment by dedication, prescription, or user.[34]—Highways may be created by legislative authority, by dedication, or by prescription.[35] In order to create a highway or street by dedication, there must be both[36] an offer with intent to dedicate[37] and an acceptance thereof[38] before withdrawal[39] and within a reason-should be employed to care for the confined person. Rohn v. Osmun [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 920, 106 N. W. 697.

24. Failed to provide a nurse. Rohn v. Osmun [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 920, 106 N. W. 697.

25. Quarantined a family for smallpox when no such case existed, resulting in a loss of crops for lack of care. Beeks v. Dickinson County [Iowa] 108 N. W. 311.

26. Quarantined for smallpox where no case existed. Beeks v. Dickinson County [Iowa] 108 N. W. 311. Furthermore, health officers elected in a township pursuant to a state statute to discharge duties imposed by statute are not strictly county officers. Id.

27. The scope of this topic, while broadly including all questions pertinent to the law of highways, excludes that of Dedication (7 C. L. 1098); Easements (7 C. L. 1203); Eminent Domain (7 C. L. 1276); Public Works and Improvements (6 C. L. 1143); and Taxes (6 C. L. 1602).

28. See 5 C. L. 1645.

29. No fixed rule in regard to its meaning can be given. Southern R. Co. v. Combs, 124 Ga. 1004, 53 S. E. 508. The word road in its generic sense means all kinds of ways, whether they be carriageways, driftways, bridleways, or footways, but in the narrower statutory use of the term in Virginia it signifies a turnpike, state road, or county road, and contemplates a suitable way in width and grade for the convenient passage of vehicles, hence there is no authority for proceedings to establish a bridleway "for horseback travel" alone. Terry v. McClung, 104 Va. 599, 52 S. E. 355.

30. Under § 850 Rev. St. 1887, highways are roads, streets, alleys, and bridges, laid out or erected by the public, or, if laid out or erected by others, dedicated or abandoned to the public. Palmer v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Idaho] 83 P. 947. The term "highway" in its popular sense, is a road or way open to the use of the public. A way open to all the public is a highway. It is not essential that every highway should be a thoroughfare. A road which leads only to the residence of a single individual may be a highway. Southern R. Co. v. Combs, 124 Ga. 1004, 53 S. E. 508.

31. Alleys in the city of Baltimore, obtained by dedication or condemnation, are public highways. City of Baltimore v. Rosenthal, 102 Md. 298, 62 A. 579. An alley, duly dedicated and accepted as such, becomes a public way and abutting premises are invested with an appurtenant easement therein. Schlemmer Co. v. Steinman-Meyer Furniture Co., 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 468.

32. The private right of individuals to demand a way of necessity over lands of other individuals confers no right on a municipality to claim such way as a public street. Town of Como v. Pointer [Miss.] 40 So. 260.

33. Johnston v. Lonstorf [Wis.] 107 N. W. 459.

34. See 5 C. L. 1646.

35. Southern R. Co. v. Combs, 124 Ga. 1004, 53 S. E. 508.

36. Intention to dedicate and an acceptance must clearly appear. Healey v. Atlanta, 125 Ga. 736, 54 S. E. 749; Dickerman v. Marion, 122 Ill. App. 154; Falter v. Packard, 219 Ill. 356, 76 N. E. 495.

Facts held to show a dedication and acceptance: Opening and grading of a street pursuant to a petition of the owner. Terrell v. Hart, 28 Ky. L. R. 901, 90 S. W. 963. Intentional building of fences and planting of trees by adjoining landowners so as to leave a space for travel by the public and user by the public for many years. Cassidy v. Sullivan [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1027.

To constitute a valid common-law dedication it is not necessary that the legal title to the streets should have passed by the plat out of the owner. It is sufficient that the owner of the title has clearly manifested an intention to set apart for public use the strip of land and that the public have enjoyed the use in such a manner and for such a time as that the public and private rights will be materially affected by an interruption of that enjoyment. Nelson v. Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914.

37. Intent to dedicate must clearly appear. Healey v. Atlanta, 125 Ga. 736, 54 S. E. 749. Mere use of one's property by a small portion of the public, even for an extended period of time, will not amount to a dedication, unless it clearly appears that there was an intention to dedicate. Id. The intention to dedicate need not be shown by an express declaration to that effect; such intent may be inferred from an acquiescence by the owner in the use of his property by the public. The use must be of such a character as to clearly indicate that the public has accepted the dedication. Id. Determining whether a dedication has been made is a conclusion of fact to be drawn from the circumstances of each particular case, the question being whether there is sufficient evidence of an intention on the part of the owner to dedicate the land to the public as a highway. Terrell v. Hart, 28 Ky. L. R. 901, 90 S. W. 953. Evidence held not to show a dedication. Town of Como v. Pointer [Miss.] 40 So. 260.

38. Watson v. Carver, 27 App. D. C. 555; McLean v. Llewellyn Iron Works [Cal. App.] 89 P. 1082; Fleck v. Collins, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 113; City of Mobile v. Fowler [Ala.] 41 So. 168. A private contract whereby it is agreed able time.[40] The dedication may be express[41] or may be implied from acts clearly manifesting an intent to dedicate,[42] and, likewise, there may be a formal acceptance by the proper authorities[43] or it may be implied from their acts.[44] User by the public constitutes an acceptance.[45] To work a statutory dedication all the essential provisions of the statute must be complied with,[46] though an attempted statutory dedication may result in a common-law dedication,[47] or the parties may that a certain street shall be opened, while it may create a private right of way, cannot create a public street without an acceptance by the public. Fleck v. Collins, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 443. Although only one-half of a platted street is within the city limits, the city may accept and improve that portion and the township authorities the other (Backman v. Oskaloosa [Iowa] 104 N. W. 347), and a trespasser cannot complain of such acceptance and improvement (Id.). In Virginia a dedication must be accepted by the county court upon its records. Terry v. McClung, 104 Va. 599, 52 S. E. 355.

39. Where platted property is still owned by the dedicators and the streets and alleys have not been thrown open to the public, they may revoke the same (Dickinson v. Arkansas City Imp. Co. [Ark.] 92 S. W. 21), and such revocation may be accomplished by an abandonment of the scheme under which it was platted (Id.). Where property was platted with the intention of making it a part of the incorporated city and of selling the same, but for 20 years no further steps were taken, the streets having never been thrown open to the public but used with the lots for farming purposes, there is a revocation of offered dedication. Id.

40. Acceptance of a dedication of streets by filing of a plat must be made within a reasonable time or the delay will be deemed an abandonment of an intention to accept. What is a reasonable time depends on the circumstances of each particular case. Burroughs v. Cherokee [Iowa] 109 N. W. 876.

41. Under Code 1873, § 561, the acknowledgment and recording of a plat is equivalent to a deed in fee simple to the municipality of that part set aside for street purposes. Burroughs v. Cherokee [Iowa] 109 N. W. 876. Acceptance by the municipality is necessary, however, to cast on the city the burden of caring for and being responsible for the safety of the highway so dedicated. Id.

42. Where the owner of land plats the same showing streets and alleys thereon and thereafter conveys lots by reference to the plat, he is deemed to have dedicated the streets and alleys to public use (Incorporated Town of Hope v. Shiver [Ark.] 90 S. W. 1003; Weida v. Hanover Tp., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 424; Garvey v. Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., 213 Pa. 177, 62 A. 778; Flournoy v. Breard, 116 La. 224, 40 So. 684; City of Mobile v. Fowler [Ala.] 41 So. 468; McGourin v. De Funiak Springs [Fla.] 41 So. 541), and such dedication cannot be revoked (Brewer v. Pine Bluff [Ark.] 97 S. W. 1034; In re S. W. State Normal School, 213 Pa. 244, 62 A. 908; Garvey v. Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., 213 Pa. 177, 62 A. 778), as a private right of way exists in favor of the purchasers (Van Duyne v. Knox Hat Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 149). Where property owned by tenants in common is platted and the lots and blocks divided among the tenants, the dedication is as effectual inter se as if sales had been made to third persons. Dickinson v. Arkansas City Imp. Co. [Ark.] 92 S. W. 21. The subdivision of land and recording of a map showing streets reserved only for future purchasers is not a sufficient offer of general dedication to the public. McLean v. Llewellyn Iron Works [Cal. App.] 83 P. 1082. Under Code Iowa, § 916, in platting land the owner thereof where it is divided into blocks which are not subdivided into lots is not bound to lay out and dedicate to the public use alleys through the blocks. Giltner v. City Council of Albia, 128 Iowa, 658, 105 N. W. 194. Where the owner of land plats it showing blocks and streets and files the plat and sells lots with reference to the plat, title to the streets shown by the plat vests in the city. City of Tyler v. Boyette [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 833, 96 S. W. 935.

The intention to dedicate should be considered in determining the existence and character of a dedication of land to public use. McGourin v. De Funiak Springs [Fla.] 41 So. 541.

43. Fleck v. Collins, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 443; City of Mobile v. Fowler [Ala.] 41 So. 468.

44. As where work is performed upon or money expended in the improvement of streets dedicated by the owner (Weida v. Hanover Tp., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 424), or an ordinance is passed providing for the laying of sewers and pipes therein (Burroughs v. Cherokee [Iowa] 109 N. W. 876).

45. Fleck v. Collins, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 443; City of Mobile v. Fowler [Ala.] 41 So. 468; Weida v. Hanover Tp., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 424; Cassidy v. Sullivan [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1027. And it is not necessary that such use continue for a time sufficient to create a way by prescription. Brewer v. Pine Bluff [Ark.] 97 S. W. 1034; Healey v. Atlanta, 125 Ga. 736, 54 S. E. 749. A street may be an irrevocable public highway by dedication and general public use without official acceptance by the city. Owner could not restrain laying of gas mains. Palmer v. East River Gas Co., 101 N. Y. S. 347.

46. Watson v. Carver, 27 App. D. C. 555. Where a municipal order requires all public alleys to be 10 feet wide, the admission of record of a plat showing a five foot alley does not constitute an acceptance. Id. Where the statute provides that a plat shall be made and certified in a particular manner, as by the county surveyor, a plat not so made is insufficient to create a statutory dedication. Nelson v. Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914.

47. Where lots have been sold with reference to a recorded plat which is not sufficient to constitute a statutory dedication, a common-law dedication exists. Nelson v.

be estopped to deny the legal existence of the streets.[48] Though a street may never have been so accepted as to give it an official status,[49] or may have lost the same,[50] if used by the public, it may be formally accepted or the acceptance renewed at any time. After a road has been dedicated and accepted, the rights of the public and of the dedicator in respect thereto are determined by principles relating to highways generally.[51] Equity will not enjoin the removal of obstructions wrongfully placed in a dedicated street by the dedicator though the city has not accepted the same in the manner prescribed by statute.[52]

Highway by prescription.[53]—A notorious, exclusive, continuous, and adverse user of a definite way, without substantial change by the general public for the statutory period, creates a highway by prescription[54] of the way actually used.[55] Mere use of land, however, is not sufficient,[56] as among other things it must be adverse[57] as well as continuous.[58] Statutory prescriptive roads arise from the use

Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914. A common-law dedication does not require that there shall be a grantee or some well-defined body politic for whose benefit the dedication is made. The public is an ever-existing grantee, capable of taking dedications for public uses, and its interests are a sufficient consideration to support them. Id.

48. Where after platting land the owner conveys with reference to the streets therein described, both he and his grantees are estopped to deny the legal existence of such streets, although there is not a sufficient statutory dedication. Lins v. Seefeld, 126 Wis. 610, 105 N. W. 917.

49. Though a street used by the public generally may not be official so as to obligate the city to keep it in repair, the city may by formal acceptance or official act make it official at any time. Maintenance of street lamps and granting gas company permission to lay mains held act of acceptance. Palmer v. East River Gas Co., 101 N. Y. S. 347.

50. Though streets may have lost their official status by the city's failure to work them, yet so long as they are used by the public the city may renew its acceptance by official user. Palmer v. East River Gas Co., 101 N. Y. S. 347.

51. The town has a right to dispose of surface water coming onto the road only in such manner as it might in properly maintaining and repairing a public highway. Rudnyai v. Harwinton [Conn.] 63 A. 948.

52. Not accepted by ordinance as required by Kirby's Digest, § 5531, but lots had been sold with reference thereto. Brewer v. Pine Bluff [Ark.] 97 S. W. 1034.

53. See 5 C. L. 1647.

54. Nelson v. Sneed [Neb.] 107 N. W. 255; Kansas City & O. R. Co. v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 713; Falter v. Packard, 219 Ill. 356, 76 N. E. 495. 10 years of user. Dow v. Kansas City So. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 555, 92 S. W. 744. 20 years of user. Healey v. Atlanta, 125 Ga. 736, 54 S. E. 749; Whetstone v. Hill [Iowa] 105 N. W. 193. Used and worked for 20 years. Southern R. Co. v. Combs, 124 Ga. 1004, 53 S. E. 508. Where the public actually used a road as a public highway for the prescriptive period, failure of the county to work the same does not affect prescriptive right. Dow v. Kansas City So. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 555, 92 S. W. 744. Where the owners of land abutting on an alley have recognized it as an alley and used it as such, and it has been used by them and the public as an alley for over 20 years, this constitutes it an alley by prescription. Milwaukee Boiler Co. v. Wadhams Oil & Grease Co., 126 Wis. 32, 105 N. W. 312. Evidence that a road was laid out in 1889 on plaintiff's land while owned by his predecessors to reach a certain race track, and work was done thereon on various occasions without objection by plaintiff until 1900, the road being used in the meanwhile, held to create a road by prescription and dedication. Haan v. Meester [Iowa] 109 N. W. 211.

Use by public: The prescriptive right is not dependent upon the amount of travel but whether it is open and used by all having an occasion to use it. Dow v. Kansas City So. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 555, 92 S. W. 744.

55. Where a road created by prescription was only used for one rod on each side of the section line, a decree establishing a road four rods wide is erroneous. Haan v. Meester [Iowa] 109 N. W. 211. Building that had stood for 50 years held monument establishing street line in absence of evidence that land covered by it had been used by public. Lighton v. Syracuse, 48 Misc. 134, 96 N. Y. S. 692.

56. Haan v. Meester [Iowa] 109 N. W. 211; City of McCook v. Parsons [Neb.] 108 N. W. 167; Terry v. McClung, 104 Va. 599, 52 S. E. 355. Although it may constitute prima facie proof of an easement. Falter v. Packard, 219 Ill. 356, 76 N. E. 495.

57. Where the owner of wild and unfenced land allows persons to pass over his land, such use is permissive and not adverse, and where from time to time by fencing, he changes such places of travel to other locations, no presumption of dedication by the owner and acceptance by the public of a highway arises. Potter v. Magruder [Ky.] 97 S. W. 732.

In Virginia: A mere permission to the public by the owner of land to pass over a road upon it is without more a mere license and revocable at the pleasure of the owner. Terry v. McClung, 104 Va. 599, 52 S. E. 355. A finding that a road had been traveled by the public for 14 years and was regarded as a public road, without any showing as to the character of country, whether the road was worked or not, or any notice to the in the manner and for the time prescribed by the particular statutes.[59] A vacated street may be re-established by prescription.[60] The mere fact that the public uses a road over public lands will not create prescriptive rights therein.[61]

§ 3. Establishment by statutory proceedings.[62]—Municipalities[63] and public officials[64] have only such powers relative to the establishment of highways as are conferred upon them by statute. Proceedings commenced before one board may be continued and completed before their successors.[65] In New Jersey highways over public lands can only be laid with the consent of the legislature.[66] A point in a turnpike maintained by a duly incorporated company may be made the terminus of a public road.[67] The repeal of statutes relating to the establishment of highways nullifies proceedings pending thereunder.[68]

Occasion or necessity for road.[69]—A highway can only be established when it will be of public utility,[70] though it need not be an absolute necessity[71] and may owners of the land than that the public had traveled the road, does not show a road by prescription. Rice v. Pershall, 41 Wash. 73, 82 P. 1038.

58. Dickerman v. Marion, 122 Ill. App. 154. Evidence held insufficient to show such continuous and uninterrupted use as is required to establish a public highway. Falter v. Packard, 219 Ill. 356, 76 N. E. 495.

59. A road constructed by private parties as a logging road and kept in repair by them, across which a gate is maintained, is not a public highway under Rev. St. 1887, § 851, as amended by Sess. Laws 1893, p. 12, providing that all roads used as highways for five years are highways by prescription if worked and kept up at public expense. Palmer v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Idaho] 83 P. 947. Under Gen. St. 1894, § 1832, a road which has been used and kept in repair and worked continuously for six years or more as a highway is a legal highway although the landowner and the public authorities may have been mistaken as to the true location of a section line which they believed to have been the center of the highway as used. Meyer v. Petersburg [Minn.] 109 N. W. 840. Under § 851, Rev. St. 1887, five years' use of a road or highway constitutes a public highway (Town of Juliaetta v. Smith [Idaho] 85 P. 923), but by the amendment by Sess. Laws 1893, p. 12, it must be worked by the proper authorities during that period to create a highway by prescription (Id.).

60. Though an alley has been legally vacated, its use by the public for 10 years with the knowledge and consent of the city and abutting owners will constitute it a public alley again. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111.

61. Will be presumed to be permissive, though the federal government by Rev. St. § 2477 provides that the right of way for the construction of highways over public lands not reserved for public use is thereby granted. Cross v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 875.

62. See 5 C. L. 1648. See, also, Eminent Domain, 7 C. L. 1276.

63. Act (P. L. 1889, p. 206) authorizing cities on or near the ocean to lay out a street along the beach is not unconstitutional as a special act regulating the internal affairs of cities. Classification held proper. Johnson v. Ocean City [N. J. Law] 64 A. 987. The word "maintenance" as used in Const. art. 8, § 9, authorizing an additional ad valorem tax and the enactment of local laws for the maintenance of public highways, includes the original construction of the same, and hence Acts 24th Leg. (Laws 1895) p. 213, c. 132, creating a local road system for Dallas county, is valid. Dallas County v. Plowman [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 848, 91 S. W. 221. And such system being inconsistent with the general road law, it controls as to the method of condemnation and awarding of damages. Id. A petition for the appointment of commissioners to assess damages for the taking of land for a road, describing the land as upon the "Beach" front, shows that the road was between high and low water mark so as to be authorized by P. L. 1889, p. 206. Johnson v. Ocean City [N. J. Law] 64 A. 987.

64. Where commissioners reported in favor of a proposed highway and that the probable cost would be $1,000, the sole highway commissioner of the town was not authorized by Highway Laws 1890, p. 1197, c. 568, § 98, to contract for the construction of such highway at an expense of $6,000 for the payment of which there was no provision in the statute and for which no means had been provided by the town. In re Niland, 99 N. Y. S. 914.

65. Terms of the councilmen and aldermen before whom the proceedings were pending expired before completion. Taintor v. Thurston [Mass.] 78 N. E. 545.

66. Ludlam v. Swain [N. J. Law] 62 A. 192. A taxpayer can object, in certiorari proceedings to review the action of the public officers in laying out a road which is to traverse state lands, that the consent of the legislature has not been obtained. Id.

67. Derry Township Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 538. The fact that a turnpike company may be put to the extra expense of maintaining new toll gates does not prevent the public from opening new public roads into the turnpike. Id.

68. Unless there is a saving clause. Terry v. McClung, 104 Va. 599, 52 S. E. 355.

69. See 5 C. L. 1648.

70. Which must be determined by a tribunal acting officially. Aspinwall v. Boston, 191 Mass. 441, 78 N. E. 103. Where an order recited that public convenience and necessity required the laying out of a street, and hearings after notice were had by the council even be designed principally to accommodate one who has no other access.[72] In Pennsylvania the determination of this question lies with the viewers[78] subject to review de novo by the court of quarter sessions.[74]

Application or petition.[75]—Where the application or petition is jurisdictional, it must substantially comply with the statute,[76] but the fact that it was inadvertently addressed to the wrong court is not fatal where it was filed in the proper court and all proceedings thereunder were had in such court.[77] In some states a denied application cannot be renewed within a prescribed period.[78]

Jurisdiction and notice.[79]—A petition, conforming to the statute,[80] is a prerequisite to jurisdiction,[81] unless the authorities may act of their own initiative.[82] In Washington personal service may be made on defendants out of the state in proceedings for condemnation of property for street purposes.[83] Where jurisdiction has been acquired, all subsequent proceedings are presumed to have been done in a lawful manner,[84] especially upon collateral attack.[85] on the application, its adoption of the order for laying out the street is an adjudication of the necessity. Taintor v. Thurston [Mass.] 78 N. E. 545. An order of commissioners of highway in laying out and ordering a new highway, not based on considerations beneficial to the public, but on the other hand based on considerations of benefit or convenience to individuals, is invalid and will not be enforced. State v. Ryan, 127 Wis. 599, 106 N. W. 1093. A unilateral contract offering a city favorable terms as to land damages, as an inducement for the laying out of the street, may be considered by the board charged with the duty of laying out the street and may be accepted and made binding by performance of that which is referred to therein as the consideration. Aspinwall v. Boston, 191 Mass. 441, 78 N. E. 103.

71. Reasonable necessity is sufficient. State v. Superior Ct. of Pierce County [Wash.] 87 P. 521. Evidence that city had used a portion of land adjoining proposed alley held properly excluded. Id.

72. Under § 6044, Gen. St. 1901, a road may be legally established by the board of county commissioners if the proceedings prescribed for the establishment of highways generally are followed, and such road is established as a public highway. Board of Com'rs of Johnson County v. Minnear, 72 Kan. 326, 83 P. 828.

73. Where the report states unequivocally that the proposed road is necessary, a recital therein of an offer by a certain company to construct it without cost raises no presumption that they were thereby influenced to report favorably. East Whiteland Tp. Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 211. Such offer being a proper element of consideration when the report came up for confirmation, it was not a fatal error to include it in the report. Id.

74. The determination of the necessity of a public road in Pennsylvania rests within the discretion of the court of quarter sessions and will not be reversed unless there is an abuse of discretion. Derry Township Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 538.

75. See 5 C. L. 1648.

76. State v. Clyde Sup'rs [Wis.] 109 N. W. 985.

Description of road: The mere fact that the word privats is used in the petition and other proceedings to describe a road established under § 6044, Gen. St. 1901, authorizing the laying out of a road 16½ feet wide on petition of one whose land is completely surrounded by other lands so that he has no access to any public highway, does not affect the validity of the road. Board of Com'rs of Johnson County v. Minnear, 72 Kan. 326, 83 P. 828.

77. Addressed to the court of common pleas instead of to the quarter sessions. Union Township Road, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 573.

78. Rev. St. 1898, § 1283, providing that an application to lay out a highway shall not be made where a previous application made within twelve months next preceding such application has been denied, has no application when the previous application was not a valid one, i. e., one on which a legal highway could be laid out. State v. Clyde Sup'rs [Wis.] 109 N. W. 985.

79. See 5 C. L. 1649.

80. Number of petitioners: Under Gen. Laws 1897, c. 199, authorizing the county commissioners to establish a highway on petition of 24 freeholders, the commissioners have no jurisdiction to lay out a highway on a petition signed by less than the number specified in the statutes. Johnson v. Clontarf [Minn.] 108 N. W. 521.

81. Under Acts 1903, c. 145, the presentation of a petition praying for the improvement and proof of posting of notice of the application substantially as required by the statute is a prerequisite to the jurisdiction of the board of commissioners to appoint viewers to lay out the road petitioned for in case they are of the opinion it will serve the public. Todd v. Crail [Ind.] 77 N. E. 402.

82. The jurisdiction of the council in a city of the fourth class is not affected by the fact that a petition for the establishment of an alley is not signed by a majority of the property owners in the district since the city has authority to open alleys and streets for public use on its own initiative without any petition. State v. Superior Ct. of Pierce County [Wash.] 87 P. 521.

83. Laws 1905, c. 55, § 5, providing for service of process as in civil actions, and Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4875, authoriz-

A notice complying substantially with the statute,[86] and duly posted in the manner prescribed,[87] is necessary to give jurisdiction. One who has actual notice of proceedings to lay out a highway across his lands may waive the formal notice.[88] A recital in a decree of a board of commissioners establishing a highway that notices were duly posted is not conclusive in a direct attack.[89]

Viewing, locating, and assessing, or recovery of damages.[90]—The viewing, locating, and assessing of damages must be by the persons designated by statute,[91] and where it is to be done by a specific number, they must all meet and deliberate, though a majority may decide.[92] In Pennsylvania the viewing commissioners need not be especially sworn,[93] and where viewers appointed at one term fail to act, they may be reappointed at the next term under the same petition.[94] The highway laid out must be definite[95] and must conform substantially to that described in the petition, order, and notice,[96] and in Texas it must be described by metes and bounds in their report.[97] The report of viewers must be confirmed or approved in the manner prescribed,[98] but in Pennsylvania, where the court has the report and exceptions thereto in its hands, it need not mark the case continued to carry the same over to succeeding terms.[99] The return of surveyors appointed to lay out a highway is a judicial record and not subject to collateral attack.[1] Where, after an ing such service in civil actions. State v. Superior Court for Whatcom County, 42 Wash. 521, 85 P. 256.

84. Bigelow v. Ritter [Iowa] 108 N. W. 218.

85. Where the board of commissioners are authorized to lay out new or improve existing highways on presentation of a petition and notice of the application, it will be presumed, on collateral attack, that all the prerequisite facts essential to the doing of the acts were complied with. Todd v. Crail [Ind.] 77 N. E. 402.

86. In statutory proceedings for laying out a highway a notice is jurisdictional and must substantially comply with the statute in order to authorize action by the supervisors. State v. Clyde Sup'rs [Wis.] 109 N. W. 985.

87. Where not so posted absence of fraud or presence of actual notice to complainant does not give validity to the proceedings. Williams v. Routt County Com'rs [Colo.] 84 P. 1109. A notice posted a mile from the proposed highway is not a sufficient compliance with Mills' Ann. St. § 3934, requiring the posting of notices "along" a road proposed to be established (Id.), and the fact that it was in one of the "most public places" is of no avail as it must be in the "most public places along" the road, i. e., both must concur (Id.).

88. As by acquiescing in such proceedings. Young v. Milan, 73 N. H. 552, 64 A. 16.

89. Williams v. Routt County Com'rs [Colo] 84 P. 1109. In an action to enjoin the obstruction of a public road, an answer attacking the legality and validity of the proceedings establishing such road is a direct attack on the judgment of the commissioners. Id.

90. See 5 C. L. 1650.

91. The Act of Mar. 24th, 1892 (P. L. p. 255), providing for permanent commissioners of assessment in cities of the first class, applies to an assessment of damages for taking of land for street purposes in the city of Newark and is not rendered inapplicable to that city by the passage of the general condemnation act of 1900 (P. L. p. 79), the charter of Newark bringing that city within the exception contained in the 17th section of Act of 1902. Morris v. Newark [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1005.

92. One of the three viewers was absent. Pike Township Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 644. Rev. Laws c. 48, § 94, does not require that a "view" of a proposed street should be made by the entire membership of a council; a view by the street committee is sufficient. Taintor v. Thurston [Mass.] 78 N. E. 545. The fact that only two viewers signed the report is not a ground for setting aside the proceedings three years after the final confirmation, especially where the objectors had notice of the defect during such time. Union Township Road, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 573.

93. Under Act of March 30, 1846, P. L. 199, the general oath of office is sufficient. Pike Township Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 644.

94. Union Township Road, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 573.

95. Location of termini held not so indefinite as to authorize the setting aside of the proceedings, especially in view of the fact that it had been opened and used for years by the public. Union Township Road, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 573.

96. A substantial variance is fatal. Ludlam v. Swain [N. J. Law] 62 A. 192. Where the report of road viewers locates the terminus 142 feet from the terminus designated in the petition and order, it must be set aside. Union Tp. Road, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 179.

97. Isham v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 698, 92 S. W. 808.

98. Order of county court "approving" report of viewers in proceedings to establish a county road held compliance with Laws 1903, p. 262, § 11, requiring report to be "adopted." Miller v. Union County [Or.] 86 P. 3.

99. Act of June 13, 1836, P. L. 551, § 3, ordinance had laid out a street some of the owners dedicated the land taken, it is not necessary that the order appointing commissioners to assess damages particularly describe the land remaining to be assessed.[2] In North Carolina the township trustees and the county commissioners are entitled to notice of proceedings to assess damages.[3] In Oregon damages may be finally determined before the road is declared a public highway.[4] The usual rules of evidence apply in the assessment of damages.[5]

The order locating a road.[6]—An order locating a road will be deemed sufficient upon collateral attack if its meaning and purpose is ascertainable by aid of the records, though it is technically inaccurate.[7] While the order must be by a lawfully constituted board, the fact that the supervisors of adjoining towns met together upon the site of a continuous road does not invalidate an order establishing the same made thereafter through separate action.[8] In Wisconsin the supervisors may vary the route petitioned for if the change does not create a materially different route.[9] In Washington cities of the fourth class may establish alleys upon motion without a formal ordinance or resolution.[10] An order of the court of common pleas of New Jersey establishing a highway is not open to collateral attack.[11]

Discontinuance and dismissal.[12] Taking and compensation.[13]—The general principles of eminent domain and the cases illustrating the same are elsewhere treated.[14] Since private property cannot be taken except for public use, the purposed highway must be for the public.[15] The proceeding for condemnation of land for highway purposes is frequently prescribed by statute[16] and must conform there-is only applicable when the viewers fail to report. Barr Tp. Road, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 203.

1. Central R. Co. v. Seabright [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 131.

2. Johnson v. Ocean City [N. J. Law] 64 A. 987.

3. In a proceeding under Laws 1901, c. 50, § 5, as amended by Laws 1905, c. 770, § 1, to assess the damages of a landowner whose land has been taken for road purposes, the township trustees and county commissioners are entitled to notice of the proceedings, though not specifically required by the statute, since otherwise it would not be due process. In re Wittkowsky's Land [N. C.] 55 S. E. 617.

4. County court may, before such time, adopt report of viewers as to damages and time within which to appeal runs from time of such adoption. Miller v. Union County [Or.] 86 P. 3.

5. Opinion evidence as to the damage resulting to plaintiff's farm from the establishment of a road, is incompetent. Bell County v. Flint [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 256, 91 S. W. 329. See Damages, 7 C. L. 1029; Eminent Domain, 7 C. L. 1276.

6. See 5 C. L. 1651.

7. Todd v. Crail [Ind.] 77 N. E. 402.

8. State v. Clyde Sup'rs [Wis.] 109 N. W. 985.

9. And in the absence of a showing to the contrary it will be presumed that the variation was reasonable and required by public interest. State v. Clyde Sup'rs [Wis.] 109 N. W. 985.

10. Under 1 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 1011, granting cities of the fourth class power to establish alleys, no formal ordinance or resolution is necessary, a motion amounting to a resolution being sufficient. State v. Superior Ct. of Pierce County [Wash.] 87 P. 521.

11. That there were other roads crossing a railroad track and parallel therewith within the distance prohibited by statute, and hence equity will enjoin the railroad from fencing up such road so established. Central R. Co. v. Seabright [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 131.

12, 13. See 5 C. L. 1651.

14. See Eminent Domain, 7 C. L. 1276.

15. The common council cannot create a street for the especial benefit of a given number of people, and no use of it can be granted inconsistent with the use of the general public (In re Twenty-First St. [Mo.] 96 S. W. 201), and hence it cannot take land for the establishment of a street to be used by a railroad to the exclusion of the public (Id.), and evidence is admissible in the condemnation proceedings to show such real purpose (Id.). The taking of property for a public street is for a public use though the street ends in a cul-de-sac on either side of property belonging to the city. State v. Superior Ct. for Whatcom County, 42 Wash. 521, 85 P. 256.

16. Laws 1893, p. 135, c. 62, providing for the procedure in condemnation proceedings by cities of the fourth class is not an amendment of 1 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 1017, and so is not unconstitutional for failure to set out the section as it would read as amended. State v. Superior Ct. of Pierce County [Wash.] 87 P. 521. Laws 1893, p. 135, c. 62, empowering cities to condemn property for corporate uses includes streets or alleys as well as property to be used by the corporation itself. Id.

to.[17] Such statutes must afford due process of law[18] and provide a tribunal for the assessment of damages, though not necessarily a jury.[19] As a rule the land may be taken before payment,[20] but where it cannot be so taken, the property owner cannot complain that the municipality is exceeding its debt limit.[21] The Federal grant of a right of way for public roads along all section lines of lands of the United States not reserved for public use[22] became effective in the different states as of the date of the grant upon its acceptance by the legislatures.[23] It did not apply to odd numbered sections which had previously been granted to railroad companies[24] but only to even numbered ones if not reserved for public use and no homestead or preemption rights had attached thereto.[25] In Texas presentment of claim to the commissioners' court for allowance is a condition precedent to the right to sue the county,[26] which presentment may be made any time after a definite intent to appropriate has been manifested.[27] In some states benefits are deducted from the assessed damages.[28] Right to damages may be waived by the parties entitled thereto.[29] The general rules of pleading[30] and evidence[31] apply.

17. City of Durham v. Rigsbee [N. C.] 53 S. E. 531. A complaint in an action to condemn land for a highway which shows that a hearing was had upon notice, that owner was present, that the report of the viewers was adopted and damages awarded, that the auditor was ordered to and did set apart the amount and draw his warrant on the same, and that the owner refused to accept the same, is sufficient under Pol. Code §§ 2688, 2689, and Code Civ. Proc. § 1963, subds. 15-20. Mendocino County v. Peters [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1122.

18. A charter provision requiring the appointment of appraisers, one of whom is to be appointed by the owner of the land to be taken for street purposes, sufficiently provides for notice of the proceedings to fix compensation, the landowner being entitled to an appeal to the courts from the decision of the appraisers. State v. Jones, 139 N. C. 613, 52 S. E. 240.

19. State v. Jones, 139 N. C. 613, 52 S. E. 240.

20. Act (P. L. 1889, p. 206) held not unconstitutional for allowing the land to be first taken. Johnson v. Ocean City [N. J. Law] 64 A. 987. Where a city has appropriated land for a street under its power of eminent domain and initiated proceedings which will result in the awarding and determining of the owner's compensation, it may take possession of the land without awaiting the payment of damages. State v. Jones, 139 N. C. 613, 52 S. E. 240.

21. State v. Superior Ct. for Whatcom County, 42 Wash. 521, 85 P. 256. And, moreover, where the ordinance providing for the street authorized a benefit assessment and the city took a penal bond from interested property owners conditioned to hold the city harmless from any debt, there could be no violation of the constitutional debt limit. Id.

22. Act Cong. July 26, 1866, c. 262, § 8 (14 Stat. 233; U. S. Rev. St. § 2477 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1567]). Walbridge v. Russell County Com'rs [Kan.] 86 P. 473.

23. In Russell county, Kansas, upon passage of Laws 1873, p. 55, c. 22, declaring all section lines in that county public roads. Walbridge v. Russell County Com'rs [Kan.] 86 P. 473.

24. Plaintiff could have damages for land taken for road. Walbridge v. Russell County Com'rs [Kan.] 86 P. 473.

25. Walbridge v. Russell County Com'rs [Kan.] 86 P. 473.

26. Rev. St. 1895, art. 790. Bell County v. Flint [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 256, 91 S. W. 329. Presentation of a claim for $1,000 and two stock gaps is insufficient where the petition for $1,960 was composed of various enumerated items. Id.

27. Rev. St. 1895, art. 790, does not require that the claim be presented only after an actual appropriation. Bell County v. Flint [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 256, 91 S. W. 329.

28. Act (P. L. 1889, p. 206) authorizing a deduction for benefits in assessing damages for the taking of land for street purposes is constitutional. Johnson v. Ocean City [N. J. Law] 64 A. 987.

29. Where the owners of land over which it is proposed to establish a highway agree to donate the land for the purpose and waive their claim for damage if the county would establish the road, they cannot thereafter claim the county commissioner's court had no jurisdiction to open and establish the road because of its failure to comply with statutory requirements and sue for damages for taking their land. Patterson v. Hill County [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 182, 95 S. W. 39.

30. In a proceeding to condemn land for a public road, a denial upon want of information and belief, touching the report of the reviewers, the notice of hearing, etc., is insufficient as the means of ascertaining the truth of these matters is within defendant's reach. Mendocino County v. Peters [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1122.

31. In proceedings to condemn land for road purposes the auditor's warrant is admissible under Code Civ. Proc. § 1870, subd. 1, to show offer of payment of reviewer's reward. Mendocino County v. Peters [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1122. In a proceeding to condemn land for street purposes, the petition to the board of supervisors praying for the Appeal or other review.[32]—By statute in most states an appeal from final orders[33] in highway proceedings[34] is allowed the parties thereto[35] if a sufficient bond is given[36] and the appeal is timely taken.[37] Appeals from the action of the county commissioners in establishing or altering highways in North Carolina are controlled by rules relating to appeals from justice's court.[38] In some states a review is allowed only in particular cases.[39] The matters reviewable depend on the nature of the review, not on what it is called.[40] New issues, however, cannot be raised on appeal.[41] A record statement of a fact found by the judge controls the "case" of counsel in conflict therewith.[42] Exceptions are not necessary where the sole purpose of the appeal is to submit the question of damages to a jury.[43] Where one appealing from an award of damages made by the county commissioners files an unnecessary petition, he is bound by the facts alleged therein.[44] Rules relating to the assignment of errors must be complied with.[45] The power given to the court alteration and the report thereon are admissible as primary evidence under Code Civ. Proc. § 1829, as the best evidence. Id.

32. See 5 C. L. 1652.

33. An order in a proceeding under Act May 24, 1878 (P. L. 129), giving the petitioner and borough authorities the right to apply to the court for the appointment of viewers to assess petitioner's damages if they fail to agree upon the viewers, is an interlocutory order from which no appeal can be taken. Washington St., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 542.

34. In North Carolina a right of appeal exists on the part of a landowner from an order laying out a "cart way." Cook v. Vickers [N. C.] 53 S. E. 740.

35. One who in proceedings to establish a highway files a claim for damages and asks for the appointment of commissioners to assess the same may appeal from the assessment of damages but not from the order establishing the highway. A notice of appeal held to be a notice of appeal from the assessment of damages. In re Dugan, 129 Iowa, 241, 105 N. W. 514.

36. Bond required by Ann. Code 1892, § 3896, on appeal from assessment of damages for land taken by board of supervisors for a highway, held void where not filed until after adjournment of the board and where it had not been approved by the president of the board nor been made payable to the county as required by the statute. Evans v. Sharkey County [Miss.] 42 So. 173.

37. In proceedings to establish a county highway under Laws 1903, p. 262, § 11, an appeal from an award of damages to a landowner must be made within 20 days from the time the report of the viewers is approved by the county court as to the damages, and an appeal within 20 days after order declaring the road a public highway may be too late. Miller v. Union County [Or.] 86 P. 3. Under Acts 1901, p. 175, c. 28, § 2, an appeal under Code § 2039 should be taken and returned to the next term of the superior court, though it is a criminal term. Blair v. Coakley, 136 N. C. 405, 48 S. E. 804.

38. Under Code § 2039 providing that such appeals shall be taken "as provided in other cases of appeal," the rules of appeal from justices' court will control as being the most analogous. Blair v. Coakley, 136 N. C. 405, 48 S. E. 804. Hence appellant must put the clerk under obligation to send up the proceedings by a tender of the transcript fees (Id.), and under Act 1889, p. 423, c. 443, if not timely brought up, the appellee may docket the case and dismiss the appeal. (Id.), which is equivalent to an affirmance, but the court need not go into the merits (Id.).

39. In Colorado appeal lies only from the assessment of damages and neither appeal nor certiorari will reach irregularities which are negatived by the record, as the lack of notice recited to have been given. Williams v. Routt County Com'rs [Colo.] 84 P. 1109. Act of April 13, 1868, P. L. 1004, is broad enough to permit an appeal where the local commissioners of Bradford county have "refused to vacate an old road." Pike Township Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 644.

40. An appeal under Act of June 2, 1887, P. L. 306. from the overruling of exceptions to the report of the jury of reviewers, all bearing upon the propriety of condemning a turnpike, is in fact a certiorari and only the regularity of the proceedings below can be reviewed. Morrison's Cove Turnpike Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 51.

41. Where commissioners appointed by a county court to lay out a highway report to the court and thereafter are allowed to amend their report, landowners who have been awarded damages by such commissioners, after appealing from the award of damages to the circuit court, cannot for the first time on appeal from the circuit court raise the objection that some of the commissioners were not appointed by the county court. Chamberlaine v. Hignite [Ky.] 97 S. W. 396.

42. Held to show that the motion to dismiss the cass was made after the dismissal of the appeal from the county commissioners altering a public road. Blair v. Coakley, 136 N. C. 405, 48 S. E. 804. Hence motion was too late. Id.

43. Under Ann. Code 1892, § 3896, providing for an appeal from proceedings of the board of supervisors in laying out roads, a bill of exceptions is required only when it is sought to review matters of law arising on the face of the proceedings. Evans v. Sharkey County [Miss.] 42 So. 173.

44. Though by reason of its former action the board of commissioners could not plead such facts as a defense. Walbridge v. Russell County Com'rs [Kan.] 86 P. 473.

of common pleas to set aside road proceedings "in whole or in part" does not authorize it to confirm a part dependent upon the part rejected.[46] In Pennsylvania a city vacating a newly opened street pending an appeal by an abutting owner from the award of damages is liable for the costs incurred in the quarter sessions and in the court of common pleas.[47]

Injunction and other relief.[48]—At the instance of the owner equity will enjoin the establishment of a highway over uncondemned lands[49] or vacate irregular proceedings if the complainant acts timely.[50]

§ 4. Boundaries and extent of way, ascertainment and resurvey.[51]—Where a railway takes a public highway for a right of way under the Pennsylvania statute and substitutes another therefor, it is bound to furnish one of equal width.[52] In resurveying and replatting the road districts under its jurisdiction the fiscal court has power to let the work to the lowest bidder and is not bound to employ the county surveyor.[53]

§ 5. Alterations and extensions.[54]—In the absence of constitutional restrictions the legislature may delegate to municipalities power to change and alter streets,[55] but they have only such powers as are expressly conferred or which may be fairly and reasonably implied from powers expressly granted.[56] The advisability of widening a city street is one exclusively for the determination of the city council to which it is confided[57] and is the exercise of political power.[58] A petition for an alteration of an existing road must state the desired change.[59] The New York statutory notice to the highway commissioner of application for a commission to determine the necessity of a proposed change may be waived.[60] A city is liable for the damages resulting from a widening of a street.[61]

45. An assignment that "the court erred in dismissing the exceptions and confirming the report of reviewers" violates rule 14 requiring that each error be separately assigned, there being nine exceptions below. Barr Tp. Road, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 203.

46. Where the purpose was to vacate an existing road and to open a more convenient one, it is error to set aside that portion of the report vacating the old road and confirming the opening of a new one, especially where it is not probable that the reviewers would have opened a new road unless the old one was vacated. Pike Township Road, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 644.

47. Sensenig v. Lancaster County, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 224.

48. See 5 C. L. 1653.

49. McGourin v. De Funiak Springs [Fla.] 41 So. 541; Johnson v. Clontarf [Minn.] 108 N. W. 521.

50. A party objecting at all times to the establishment of a road under proceedings of a county board is not guilty of laches precluding her from having the proceedings vacated in equity. Williams v. Routt County Com'rs [Colo.] 84 P. 1109.

51. See 5 C. L. 1653.

52. Taken under Act Feb. 19, 1849. And if it has no title to land within the boundaries of such new road of such width, an injunction will lie at the suit of the state to enjoin encroachments thereon by the railroad. Commonwealth v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. [Pa.] 64 A. 417.

53. Kennedy v. Kenton County, 28 Ky. L. R. 927, 90 S. W. 969.

54. See 5 C. L. 1654.

55. And even to obstruct or vacate. Patton v. Rome [Ga.] 52 S. E. 742.

56. Walter v. Macfarland, 27 App. D. C. 182. The power to make regulations for keeping the streets in repair conferred by § 77, D. C. Rev. St., does not imply the power to change the width of an established street (Id.), and the fact that the power has been exercised without challenge will not prevent its denial when challenged (Id.). Section 225, D. C. Rev. St., seems to indicate an intention of congress that streets in the city of Washington shall be at least 35 feet wide, thus limiting the municipal authorities in narrowing streets. Id. Where the charter of a city gives it power "to open, lay out, widen, straighten, or to otherwise change streets," the city has power to diminish the area of a street, especially where so doing will tend to straighten the street and to sell the land so withdrawn from use for street purposes. Patton v. Rome [Ga.] 52 S. E. 742.

57, 58. City of Durham v. Rigsbee [N. C.] 53 S. E. 531.

59. Where the purpose and intent can be gathered from the language used, it is sufficient though not clearly stated. Wisner v. Barber County Com'rs [Kan.] 85 P. 288.

60. The highway commissioner may waive the five days' notice of application for commission to determine the necessity of proposed highway alterations required by Highway Law § 813 (Laws 1890, p. 1193, c. 568, as amended by Laws 1894, p. 256, c. 334, and Laws 1897, p. 259, c. 344, § 1) by appearing in the proceedings without objection. In re Wood, 111 App. Div. 781, 97 N. Y. S. 871.

In Missouri no appeal can be taken from an order of the county court changing the course of a highway by persons whose lands have not been taken.[62]

§ 6. Change of grade.[63]—A municipality has only such power to change an established grade as the legislature has conferred upon it,[64] and where authority is given to change to the full width,[65] it is not exhausted by a partial exercise.[66] A change of grade must be reasonable[67] and made in the manner prescribed by law.[68]

At common law municipal corporations are not liable to abutting owners for consequential damages arising from a change of grade,[69] but under the constitutions[70] and statutes[71] of most states recovery can be had for the impairment or destruction of the means of ingress and egress,[72] the diminution of the value of the abutting property,[73] and damage to the buildings thereon,[74] if not waived,[75] but not for the temporary inconvenience experienced during the progress of the work.[76] No recovery, however, can be had for the physical change in bringing a street to the established grade,[77] and in some states municipalities may establish

61. Evidence in an action by a life tenant for damages occasioned by the taking of a part of the land in which he had such estate for widening the street held to justify a verdict that he had not been damaged, it appearing that the improvement increased the rental value. Himes v. Pittsburg, 213 Pa. 362, 63 A. 126.

62. Howe v. Callaway [Mo. App.] 95 S. W. 974.

63. See 5 C. L. 1655. Whether change of grade is a taking for public use, see Eminent Domain, 7 C. L. 1276.

64. The word "alter" as used in Attica City Charter, tit. 6, § 1, as amended by Laws 1890, p. 1006, c. 560, does not include a change of grade. Rogers v. Attica, 98 N. Y. S. 665.

65. The construction of a state statute by the highest court of the state as a legislative change of the grade of a street for the full width is conclusive on the federal court in passing on the question whether it impairs the obligation of a contract. Mead v. Portland, 200 U. S. 148, 50 Law. Ed. 413.

66. Mead v. Portland, 200 U. S. 148, 50 Law. Ed. 413.

67. An order of the board of railroad commissioners for a change of a highway crossing a railroad at grade to an undercrossing, which would render the highway impassable for considerable portions of the year on account of overflow, and the only relief afforded would be a proposed grade crossing maintained by the railroad, which it would permit the public to use at its will, is improper. In re Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 9.

68. Where several ordinances had been passed establishing the grade of a certain street but no change in fact had been made upon the surface of the ground and an abutting owner had incurred no expense in improving the property with reference to the grade, the fact that the grade was re-established and improved without a petition of abutting owners as required by the city's charter (Laws 1896, p. 974, c. 747, § 148), in case of a change of an "established grade," did not invalidate an assessment against the owner first mentioned. People v. Common Council of Kingston, 99 N. Y. S. 657.

69. Swift & Co. v. Newport News, 58 Va. 119, 52 S. E. 821.

70. Under Va. Const. art. 1, § 6, and art. 4, § 58 (Va. Code 1904, pp. ccix, ccxxii), prohibiting the "taking or damaging" of private property for public use, compensation must be made (Swift & Co. v. Newport News [Va.] 52 S. E. 821), but under S. C. Const. art. 1, § 23, merely prohibiting the "taking," it need not be made (Kendall v. City Council of Columbia [S. C.] 54 S. E. 777).

71. N. J. Road Act of March 27, 1874, §§ 70, 72, 73, 74, and 75, as amended by Act May 8, 1905, awarding damages to unimproved property, does not apply to cities whose charters provide for assessing and paying compensations to persons injured by change of grades in streets. Manufacturers' Land & Improvement Co. v. Camden [N. J. Law] 63 A. 5.

72. City of East Rome v. Lloyd, 124 Ga. 852, 53 S. E. 103. The construction of an approach to a bridge in front of plaintiff's property so as to shut off access thereto by driving, the approach being an embankment which is above the level of plaintiff's lot and the original grade, is a taking of private property for public use entitling the plaintiff to compensation. Ranson v. Sault Ste. Marie [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 113, 107 N. W. 439.

73. City of Louisville v. Caron, 28 Ky. L. R. 844, 90 S. W. 604.

74. The measure of damages for injury to a building resulting from a change of grade is limited to the damage done to the building by the change, under New York Charter, Laws 1901, p. 411, c. 466, § 980, providing that the commissioners of estimate and assessment shall make an equitable estimate of the damage to buildings not required to be taken. In re Vyse St., 95 N. Y. S. 893. Improvements on abutting property are not necessarily damaged in the same proportion as the property itself by a change of grade. Spokane Traction Co. v. Granath, 42 Wash. 506, 85 P. 261.

75. A petition by an abutting property owner to have the street paved does not constitute a waiver of damages resulting from a change of grade. Town of New Decatur v. Scharfenberg [Ala.] 41 So. 1025.

76. Under Shannon's Code § 1988, no recovery can be had for such inconvenience. Acker v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 973.

77. Unless done negligently. Leiper v. Denver [Colo.] 85 P. 849. Though a street has been open and used for many years and property owners have built thereon with reference to paper grades of which abutting owners must take notice,[78] but this right does not in Pennsylvania extend to turnpike companies.[79] Municipalities are not liable for unauthorized changes.[80] The law existing at the time the change is actually made controls and not that in force when the change is ordered.[81] A statute awarding damages in force when property is conveyed to a village for street purposes becomes a part of the contract and is not subject to legislative change,[82] and when the village becomes an incorporated city and assumes the obligations of the former, it is bound thereby.[83] In some states a claim for damages must be timely presented to the appropriate officers.[84] In valid proceedings[85] for a change of grade one has no remedy for injuries sustained except that provided by the statute under which the proceedings are conducted.[86] The measure of damages is the difference in the value of the property before and after the change[87] less special benefits,[88] and in the natural grade, where it appears that the change was a reasonable one. Taber v. Bowling Green, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 385. Where a street of a particular grade is dedicated but not actually opened, though accepted and the abutting property is sold, after which the street is opened at a new grade, the purchaser can recover only damages for the change of grade, not for the entire grade made. Uhle v. Philadelphia, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 480. Where a sixty foot road had been established at a particular grade and a turnpike company establishes a forty-foot road at a lower grade, the establishment of such grade does not change the grade of the lateral ten-foot strips so as to relieve the borough from liability when it reduces to the level of the turnpike. Harp v. Glenolden Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 116.

78. Under Laws 1890, p. 965, c. 545, as amended by Laws 1893, p. 929, c. 443, maps showing a proposed change of grade of a street are binding upon the property owners when filed and damages cannot be awarded for parcels of land on which buildings are constructed after the filing, though at the time of such filing complete maps had not been filed. In re Vyse St., 95 N. Y. S. 893.

79. Hence the establishment of a particular paper grade by a turnpike company does not relieve the borough from damages for cutting down the rest of the highway to such grade. Harp v. Glenolden Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 116.

80. Where a street commissioner without lawful authorization by the city changes the grade of a street to the injury of an abutting owner, the latter cannot recover against the city but only against the commissioner. Graden v. Parkville, 114 Mo. App. 527, 90 S. W. 115. In Missouri cities of the second class are not liable for unauthorized acts of one with whom it has contracted for the grading of one of its streets, hence, where a contractor in grading a street appropriates land not described in the ordinance directing the improvement, the city is not liable, though the contractor is liable for the damages. Calvert v. St. Joseph, 118 Mo. App. 503, 95 S. W. 308.

81. Change in the constitution allowing damages. Swift & Co. v. Newport News [Va.] 52 S. E. 821.

82, 83. Lawton v. New Rochelle, 51 Misc. 184, 100 N. Y. S. 771.

84. The presentation of a claim for damages on account of a change of grade, as required by Rev. St. § 2315, as it stood at the time the improvement in this case was made, is a prerequisite to the right to recover damages because of such change. Taber v. Bowling Green, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 385. Fulton City Charter, Laws 1902, p. 166, c. 63, § 63, subd. 3, requiring claims for damages from a change of grade to be presented to the board of public works within 60 days after the change of grade is completed, does not apply where the damage is a continuing nuisance recurring whenever there are heavy rains. Lamay v. Fulton, 109 App. Div. 424, 96 N. Y. S. 703. Laws 1902, p. 219, c. 63, § 230, providing that no action to enforce any claim against a city shall be brought until 30 days after the claim has been presented for audit, held inapplicable. Id.

85. These proceedings are presumed valid until the contrary appears. Hence one who seeks to recover damages by independent action must affirmatively show that the authorities did not comply with the statute. Bernstein v. Mt. Vernon, 109 App. Div. 899, 96 N. Y. S. 458.

86. Laws 1892, c. 182, §§ 168, 187, provide for compensation to owners in proceedings thereunder. Bernstein v. Mt. Vernon, 109 App. Div. 899, 96 N. Y. S. 458.

87. City of East Rome v. Lloyd, 124 Ga. 852, 53 S. E. 103; Swift & Co. v. Newport News [Va.] 52 S. E. 821; In re Sixty-Second St., 214 Pa. 137, 63 A. 426; Warren County v. Rand [Miss.] 40 So. 481; City of Louisville v. Caron, 28 Ky. L. R. 844, 90 S. W. 604; McMillan v. Columbia [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 953. Shannon's Code, Tenn. § 1988. Acker v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 973. Difference between the market value just before it became generally known that the improvement was to be made and just after it was completed. City of Henderson v. Crowder, 28 Ky. L. R. 1255, 91 S. W. 1120.

88. And where the assessment is to be paid by the abutting owner, he is not entitled to have the cost of the improvements deducted from the special benefits before the same are charged against the damages recoverable by him. Widman Inv. Co. v. St. Joseph, 191 Mo. 459, 90 S. W. 763. Where by the construction of a bridge and the grading of the approaches adjacent to defendant's property access is furnished to and from the business portions of the city, the benefits are special (Spokane Traction Co. v. Granath, 42 Wash. 506, 85 P. 261), and may be offset against the damages though the

some states general benefits.[89] However, where the cost of bringing the property to the grade of the new street is less than the diminution in value, such cost is usually taken as the measure of damages,[90] and the fact that the grade of the lot was first changed is immaterial if made in contemplation of the street change.[91] Where the adjudication[92] and payment[93] of damages is a condition precedent to the right to make the change, an abutting owner, unless estopped by his acts,[94] may enjoin the city from making the improvement until payment is made[95] or a cash deposit and bond are given,[96] and if the work has commenced may have the street restored to its former condition.[97]

An applied theory of damages will be adhered to on appeal.[98] The Pennsylvania statute making the report of the viewers prima facie evidence on appeal of the benefits and damages is not applicable to proceedings had under a prior act.[99]

§ 7. Improvement and repair.[1]—The power of cities to improve its streets depends upon statute.[2] A city council can only direct the improvement of streets when it has jurisdiction of the subject-matter,[3] as upon proper petition,[4] due no-improvement is made by a street railway company, it being done under the direction of the city and for its benefit as well as that of the railway company (Id.).

89. That is the increase common to all property in the same square. City of Louisville v. Kaye [Ky.] 92 S. W. 554.

90. Stroker v. St. Joseph, 117 Mo. App. 350, 93 S. W. 860. Where it became necessary to fill a lot adjoining two streets because of a change of grade in one which necessitated a retaining wall, the cost of such wall was recoverable under Const. art. 2, § 21. Id. Court's remarks held to amount to an exclusion of evidence as to the necessity of a retaining wall and not a mere colloquy. Id. Where a street was lowered 2 to 4½ feet for the length of plaintiff's lot, which necessitated a retaining wall or a terracing, $400 damage was not excessive. City of Henderson v. Crowder, 28 Ky. L. R. 1255, 91 S. W. 1120.

91. Witwer Bros. v. Cedar Rapids [Iowa] 107 N. W. 604.

92. Graden v. Parkville, 114 Mo. App. 527, 90 S. W. 115.

93. In New York a village being authorized to change the grade of a street without limitation, it is not bound to pay damages sustained by an abutting property owner before making the change, such damages being recoverable by an action under Laws 1897, p. 420, c. 414, § 159. Rogers v. Attica, 98 N. Y. S. 665.

94. Where an abutting property owner upon being informed of a proposed change, requests the city to proceed and in reliance thereon the city incurs expense in preparing to make the change and in commencing the work, he cannot thereafter enjoin the work on the ground that he had not been compensated. Town of New Decatur v. Scharfenberg [Ala.] 41 So. 1025.

95. In Alabama it may be enjoined irrespective of its solvency or the fact that the property owner has an adequate remedy at law. Town of New Decatur v. Scharfenberg [Ala.] 41 So. 1025.

96. An injunction restraining the city from changing the grade of a street until it has compensated the abutting property owners should be dissolved upon the making of a cash deposit and the giving of a bond to cover the probable cost. Town of New Decatur v. Scharfenberg [Ala.] 41 So. 1025.

97. Town of New Decatur v. Scharfenberg [Ala.] 41 So. 1025. And the fact that the city has not been negligent does not affect the right to have it restored. Id.

98. In an action to recover damages for change of grade where the case was tried on the theory that plaintiff was entitled to recover the difference in the market value just before and just after the change of grade, but if the benefit to the lots, if any, by the change of grade, more than compensated for the damages, if any, then there could be no recovery, the plaintiff on appeal cannot predicate error on the ground that, in reducing damages, only those benefits which are peculiar and special to the property in question and not common or general to properties generally can be considered. Fuess v. Kansas City, 191 Mo. 692, 90 S. W. 1029.

99. Act of April 2, 1903 (P. L. 127), held not applicable to Act of May 16, 1891 (P. L. p. 76). Carson v. Allegheny City, 213 Pa. 537, 62 A. 1070.

1. See 5 C. L. 1656.

Note: The matter described in this section is more particularly treated in Public Works and Improvements, 6 C. L. 1143.

2. Rev. St. 1889, § 1592, as amended by Laws 1893, c. 107, authorizing cities to grade, reconstruct, and pave its streets, authorizes it to contract for curbing a street proposed to be paved and to issue tax bills therefor. City of Excelsior Springs v. Ettenson [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 701. The Act of April 4, 1900, relating to the improvement of streets in cities of the second class and fourth grade, is unconstitutional for lack of uniformity of operation. But a petition, evidently drawn with reference to the provisions of this act, is still good against demurrer when its allegations bring it within the provisions of the general laws on that subject. State v. Mt. Vernon, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 317.

3. The facts giving council jurisdiction are, filing of a petition for the improvement with a statement as to the material to be used, publication of notice, a hearing before council, and a finding that the petition was signed by the requisite number of abutting owners and that the improvement is necessary. State v. Mt. Vernon, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 317.

4. The county commissioners have power to grade and improve a road only in case a tice[5] to the proper persons, etc.,[6] if required.[7] The authority and power granted to cities to grade and pave streets[8] and to regulate the construction of sidewalks[9] cannot be delegated, though if the work is subsequently accepted by the council such acceptance constitutes the entire proceeding so as to render it valid.[10] In Ohio a summary procedure is provided for the construction of sidewalks by municipalities.[11] In New Jersey[12] and Missouri[13] a city must proceed by ordinance to provide for street improvements. A special ordinance for the construction of a specific sidewalk is not necessary where there is a general ordinance.[14] A city has large discretion with reference to the character and quality of its sidewalks,[15] and under some statutes an order for any street improvement must designate the kind, nature, and extent of the proposed improvement.[16] A municipal council may provide petition therefor is presented, signed by a majority of the "resident owners" of real estate within a mile of the road to be improved. A "resident owner" is one living in the county and owning land within a mile of the road proposed to be improved. Alexander v. Baker [Ohio] 78 N. E. 366.

5. An executor of a will, residing in the county and entitled to a written notice of the adoption of a resolution providing for a street improvement, is bound by a notice addressed to the heirs of the testator, where it appears that the notice was left at his residence and was actually received and examined by him and was submitted by him to his attorney. Roberts v. St. Bernard, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 422. Failure to give the notice of the approval of an ordinance for the making of street improvement as is required by Act of May 16, 1891 (P. L. 79), does not invalidate the ordinance but merely operates to give interested parties the right to contest the fact of the petition for the improvement having been signed by a majority in interest and owners of the abutting property. Duquesne Borough v. Keeler, 213 Pa. 518, 62 A. 1071.

6. Executors under a will which directs them to hold and manage real estate for a term of fifteen years, pay the taxes, etc., and at the end of said term sell and convey the same and distribute the proceeds of sale, are the "owners of the land" upon whom service of notice should be made. Roberts v. St. Bernard, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 422.

7. Act April 12, 1899 (Laws 1899, p. 78), authorizing improvements without petition and the issuing of special tax bills, is not unconstitutional as a taking of private property for public use without just compensation. Hund v. Rackliffe, 192 Mo. 312, 91 S. W. 500.

8. The authority granted to a city council to grade and pave streets is legislative so that the fixing of the amount of the improvement, its kind and character, cannot be delegated. Harton v. Avondale [Ala.] 41 So. 934. Ordinance authorized the city street committee to have the streets "graded, guttered, curbed and macadamized," and left the specification and selection of material to the committee. Id.

9. Under Kansas City charter art. 9, p. 137, conferring power on the city council to construct sidewalks "to such extent, of such dimensions, and in such manner" as may be prescribed by ordinance, prescribing the width is a legislative function which cannot be delegated. Ramsey v. Field, 115 Mo. App. 620, 92 S. W. 350. Under an ordinance providing that the width of the sidewalk shall "not be less than five feet, laid so that the outer edge shall be as directed by the city engineer," since the contract must be let in the language of the ordinance and contractors will bid on the minimum width, there is no delegation. Id. Where there is a distance of 11 feet between the property lines and the curb and the sidewalk prescribed is only 5 feet wide, an ordinance leaving it to the engineer to locate it within those limits is an unlawful delegation of the power (Id.), and the fact that much of the walk has been constructed does not give validity to the ordinance so as to render tax bills issued thereunder valid (Id.). Nor can the ordinance be rendered valid by the rejection of the invalid section, since there would be left no provision whatever for the width or location of the walk. Id.

10. Assessments held valid because of such ratification. Harton v. Avondale [Ala.] 41 So. 934.

11. In the construction of sidewalks, municipalities are not confined to the mode of procedure provided under Rev. St. § 1536-210 of the municipal code, but they may proceed in the summary manner provided in Rev. St. § 1536-232. Westenhaver v. Hoytsville, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 284.

12. Under P. L. 1897, p. 301, and P. L. 1899, p. 171, a city has no authority to require the construction or repair of a sidewalk by resolution but must proceed by ordinance, and an assessment for work done pursuant to a resolution is invalid and will be set aside. Sproul v. Stockton [N. J. Law] 62 A. 275.

13. Rev. St. Mo. 1899, §§ 5954, 5955. Graden v. Parkville, 114 Mo. App. 527, 90 S. W. 115.

14. Westenhaver v. Hoytsville, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 284.

15. Marshall v. People [Ill.] 76 N. E. 70.

16. Under Acts 1903, c. 145, where the report of the viewers, in proceedings for the improvement of a highway, contains the plans and specifications for the proposed improvement, stating the kind, width, and extent of the improvement, and is made a part of the order for the improvement, the order is sufficient as stating the kind and extent of the improvement. Spaulding v. Mott [Ind.] 76 N. E. 620.

for the pavement of streets with a patented substance when the bidders can obtain such material at a known fixed price.[17] In Indiana the board of commissioners have power to improve a highway though assessments therefor cannot be levied over the full district.[18] Where the owner deeds land to a city for street purposes on condition that it be macadamized, the city need macadamize only so much thereof as it was accustomed to do in the adjoining streets.[19]

In the absence of statute, neither the city[20] nor the contractor[21] is liable for consequential injuries to abutters from street improvements, but water cannot be collected and discharged in large quantities upon adjacent land,[22] and if so collected there is an absolute duty to find a safe means of discharge.[23] Where, however, without negligence it diverts water upon the adjoining lands, the owner cannot recover in trespass but must have his damages assessed by a statutory proceeding.[24] An abutting owner who dedicates property for street purposes is not entitled to damages for the original establishment of a grade where the grade is reasonable and the work is properly done.[25] In assessing damages it is competent for the jury, while disregarding the general benefits which may result to the property, to consider an incidental benefit which is blended with an incidental injury.[26] In many states a municipality may construct sidewalks and assess the cost of the same to the abutting owner after due notice to such owner to construct the sidewalk within specified time.[27] A city is liable for the wrongful acts of its servants while constructing and improving its streets though they exceed their authority.[28] Claims

17. Bye v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 64 A. 1056.

18. Under Acts 1903, c. 145, the board of commissioners have power to order the improvement of a highway which runs parallel with the county line and within less than two miles thereof, though the act provides that the cost of so doing shall be assessed on the lands benefited and within two miles of the road and the board is without power to assess land within two miles and lying in the adjoining county. Spaulding v. Mott [Ind.] 76 N. E. 620.

19. City of Versailles v. Brown [Ky.] 96 S. W. 1108.

20. Rudnyai v. Harwinton [Conn.] 63 A. 948. Discharge of surface water without negligence. Strauss v. Allentown [Pa.] 63 A. 1073. Damages resulting from the negligent construction of a ditch in the highway in the improvement thereof is not a taking or injury for which recovery can be had of the county. Zavalla County v. Akers [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 176, 91 S. W. 245.

21. In the absence of negligence. Linton Pharmacy v. McDonald, 48 Misc. 125, 96 N. Y. S. 675. Contractor engaged in excavating tunnel held to exercise proper care and skill in excavating from west side of street and elevating a street railway track to allow excavation underneath, where such elevation could have been avoided but would have entailed increased risks, expense, and delay. Id.

22. City of Valparaiso v. Spaeth [Ind.] 76 N. E. 514; Roe v. Howard County [Neb.] 106 N. W. 587. Especially where by a moderate expenditure it could be carried into a natural drainage course, nor is such a discharge authorized by Pub. Acts 1881, c. 65. Rudnyai v. Harwinton [Conn.] 63 A. 948. Cities and towns in the construction of streets may deal with surface water in a reasonable way. They may erect barriers to keep it from coming onto the street from adjacent land and they may turn it from the streets onto abutting lands if they do it in such a way as to cause no unreasonable damage, but they have no right to discharge a large quantity in volume onto adjoining land where it must stand and become a nuisance. Daley v. Watertown [Mass.] 78 N. E. 143.

23. The city is not excused by ordinary care. City of Houston v. Richardson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 107, 94 S. W. 454. The city is bound to furnish means for discharging the ordinary accumulations of surface water into natural drainage ways or otherwise care for it so it will not injure others, but it is not liable for failing to provide for extraordinary rain falls. City of Valparaiso v. Spaeth [Ind.] 76 N. E. 514.

24. Robinson v. Norwood Borough [Pa.] 64 A. 539.

25. Fletcher v. Seattle [Wash.] 86 P. 1046.

26. Carlisle v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 46.

27. Under an ordinance authorizing a city to construct walks in front of property of nonresidents and assess the cost against the abutting property, in case the owner fails to do so within a certain time after publication of a notice, a notice which stated that the city would construct if the owner did not within a certain time is sufficient though the time stated in the notice is less than that required by statute, when the construction was not done until after the expiration of such time, so as to assess the cost on the abutting owner. State v. Several Parcels of Land [Neb.] 107 N. W. 566.

28. Agent grading and paving street assaulted lessee of street railroad who at-for damages arising from improvements have been held to be such as require statutory presentment.[29]

§ 8. Abandonment and diminution.[30]—While, as a general rule, title to a highway cannot be acquired by adverse possession,[31] the public may lose the same by estoppel[32] or by abandonment.[33] Mere nonuser, however, is not sufficient to constitute an abandonment.[34] Except as empowered by the legislature, municipal authorities cannot abandon or release the right of the public in a highway.[35] The New York statute providing that every dedicated highway not opened and worked or laid out within six years shall cease to be a highway does not apply to those becoming and remaining highways by general public use.[36] A statute empowering a court to establish or vacate a street does not give it power to narrow it.[37]

§ 9. Vacation.[38]—A highway can be vacated only in the manner provided by statute,[39] and after due service of notice upon the persons entitled thereto.[40] Usually a petition signed by a majority of abutting property owners is a jurisdictional requisite,[41] but where only a portion of a street is to be vacated, a petition signed by a majority of those abutting on that portion is sufficient.[42] The power tempted to remove gravel from tracks. City liable for injuries by assault. Barree v. Cape Girardeau, 197 Mo. 382, 95 S. W. 330.

29. Seattle Charter, art. 4, § 29, allowing 30 days within which to present claims against the city, is applicable to such damages. Postel v. Seattle, 41 Wash. 432, 83 P. 1025. Provision valid. Id.

30. See 5 C. L. 1658.

31. Rapp v. Stratton, 41 Wash. 263, 83 P. 182; Oliver v. Synhorst [Or.] 86 P. 376; Bigelow v. Ritter [Iowa] 108 N. W. 218; City of Eldora v. Edgington [Iowa] 106 N. W. 503; Central R. Co. v. Seabright [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 131. Acquiescence for a long time by the city of an abutting owner's occupancy of land under a claim that it is his own and not a part of the street is evidence of the location of the true line. City of Eldora v. Edgington [Iowa] 106 N. W. 503.

Contra. Seese v. Maumee, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S. 497. Where the exclusion is entire for twenty-one years, the fact that the barrier was frail and unsubstantial does not prevent the possessor from successfully asserting title, and the public loses its rights both in and to the street. Id. The remark incidentally made by one who had fenced in a parcel of land that the street was included within the fence does not amount to a declaration on his part that the right of the public is superior to his own in the strip once platted as a street which has been enclosed. Id.

32. Permitting use of portion of unopened street in good faith for over 13 years. Oliver v. Synhorst [Or.] 86 P. 376. Allows persons asserting title thereto to build thereon and expend money in the belief that the city has abandoned the street as a highway. The city will be estopped to assert that it is a street. City of Peoria v. Central Nat. Bank, 224 Ill. 43, 79 N. E. 296.

33. City of Eldora v. Edgington [Iowa] 106 N. W. 503. Acquiescence by the public in the adverse use of a highway for a long period of time raises a presumption of abandonment. Nelson v. Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914. Statutory period. Burroughs v. Cherokee [Iowa] 109 N. W. 876. Mere interruption or interference temporarily with the public use is not sufficient to extinguish the easement. Nelson v. Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914.

34. Burroughs v. Cherokee [Iowa] 109 N. W. 876. The mere nonuser of a part of the street does not operate as a surrender or abandonment of the same for the purposes of a public street. Lins v. Seefeld, 126 Wis. 610, 105 N. W. 917.

35. Central R. Co. v. Seabright [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 131.

36. Laws 1890, p. 1177, c. 568. Palmer v. East River Gas Co., 101 N. Y. S. 347.

37. Dorsch v. Beaumont Glass Co. [Ohio] 78 N. E. 215.

38. See 5 C. L. 1658.

39. The mere passage of an ordinance declaring a public alley vacated is not sufficient to accomplish such object. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111. A recital in the records of the city council showing that the petition for the vacation of an alley was referred to the committee on streets and received a favorable report, which on motion was granted, does not show compliance with Hill's Ann. Codes & St. §§ 752, 749, in regard to notice, etc. Rapp v. Stratton, 41 Wash. 263, 83 P. 182.

40. In Michigan the commissioner of highways has no jurisdiction to discontinue a highway through land without serving notice of the proceedings on the occupants of the land. A life tenant in possession must be served. The fact that the person not served makes no complaint does not validate the proceedings. Hatt v. Township Board of Napoleon Tp. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 236, 107 N. W. 1058.

41. Where land, through which are streets which have been dedicated but not opened, is purchased by husband and wife and is therefore presumptively community property, management and control of which is given the husband by Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4491, the petition of the husband for vacation of the streets is presumptively in behalf of the community. Unzelman v. Snohomish, 40 Wash. 588, 82 P. 911.

42. So held under Sess. Laws 1901, p. 175, c. 84, § 1 (Ponischil v. Hoquiam Sash & Door Co., 41 Wash. 303, 83 P. 316), and under Comp.

given to the New Hampshire board of railroad commissioners to "change the location" of a highway for the purpose of avoiding or improving a crossing of the highway by the railroad does not authorize a discontinuance.[43] A charter provision authorizing a sale of the land included in streets frees the city of any special trust and it may vacate the same.[44] An ordinance pursuant to the Oklahoma statute granting the right to a railroad to occupy streets and alleys does not vacate the same.[45] A highway cannot be vacated by occasional acts of trespass.[46] In Ohio one securing a vacation of an alley without the consent of the other abutters cannot close the same.[47] A petitioner cannot invoke equitable estoppel by erecting permanent improvements in the street after submission but before the granting of his petition.[48] Streets and alleys upon being vacated revert to the abutting owners.[49]

A city cannot vacate a street without compensating the abutting owners,[50] but in the absence of constitutional[51] or statutory provisions, those not abutting on the closed portion are not entitled to damages unless they suffer special injury.[52]

The exercise of the power conferred upon municipalities to vacate highways is usually deemed a legislative function and hence not subject to judicial review,[53] in the absence of a showing of collusion or fraud.[54] but an order of an Indiana board of county commissioners vacating the streets and alleys of a tract disannexed from a town or city is reviewable,[55] and an appeal may be taken by a party to the proceeding, though not joined by the other remonstrators,[56] without filing an affidavit of interest and aggrievance.[57]

Charter, St. Paul, 1905, § 117 (State v. Common Council of St. Paul [Minn.] 107 N. W. 1129).

43. Pub. St. 1901, c. 159, § 14. Except as such discontinuance results from a change in location. The new route must serve substantially the same public need as the old and accommodate with greater or less convenience the same travel, otherwise it is a new highway. Blake v. Concord & M. R. Co. [N. H.] 64 A. 202.

44. Greater New York Charter, Laws 1901, p. 80, c. 466, § 205, empowering the commissioners of the sinking fund to sell the city title to lands within a closed street, frees the city of any special trust imposed by § 990 providing that the title acquired by the city to lands required for a street shall be in trust. Reis v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 291.

45. An ordinance of a town incorporated under the laws of this territory granting to a railroad the right to occupy streets and alleys under § 1035, St. 1893, does not vacate such streets or alleys so as to allow the land to revert to abutting lot owners. Tonkawa Milling Co. v. Tonkawa, 15 Okl. 672, 83 P. 915. Ordinance considered and held to be one merely giving a railroad the right to occupy and use a certain alley and not an ordinance vacating such alley. Id.

46. Especially when such acts cover only a period of three or four years. Eldridge v. Collins [Neb.] 105 N. W. 1085.

47. Notwithstanding the nonconsenting owner has access to the front of his lot. Schlemmer Co. v. Steinman-Meyer Furniture Co., 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 468.

48. Unzelman v. Snohomish, 40 Wash. 588, 82 P. 911.

49. See post, § 14.

50. Johnston v. Lonstorf [Wis.] 107 N. W. 459.

51. Under the constitutional provision that private property shall not be taken or damaged for public use, one whose right of ingress and egress to and from his property is impaired by the vacation of a street by a city is entitled to compensation for the depreciation in the value of his property, though his property does not abut on the vacated portion. Vanderburgh v. Minneapolis [Minn.] 108 N. W. 480.

52. Ponischil v. Hoquiam Sash & Door Co., 41 Wash. 303, 83 P. 316. One whose access is in no way interfered with and whose only inconvenience is being compelled to take a longer route to reach points beyond the closed portion suffers no special damages. Id.; Ruscomb St., 50 Pa. Super. Ct. 476. Under authority of Greater New York Charter, Laws 1901, p. 199, c. 466, § 442, the board of estimate and apportionment may close a portion of a street without compensation to the owner of lots not abutting on the portion closed where there is other access to the lots of such owner, though not as direct from certain points. Reis v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 291.

53. Necessity and expediency not reviewable. Otto v. Conroy [Neb.] 107 N. W. 752. Power conferred by Laws 1901, p. 175, c. 84, is a political power and not reviewable. Ponischil v. Hoquiam Sash & Door Co., 41 Wash. 303, 83 P. 316.

54. The fact that a petitioner will be benefited by the vacation is not sufficient proof or abuse of discretion on the part of the city as to authorize a court of equity to declare a vacating ordinance void. Ponischil v. Hoquiam Sash & Door Co., 41 Wash. 303, 83 P. 316.

55. A judicial and not a legislative act. MacGinnitie v. Silvers [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1013.

56. Joined in a single document of re-

§ 10. Street and highway officers and districts.[58]—For a determination of the powers[59] and duties of highway officers one must consult the local statutes.[60] Power to grant a franchise to lay and maintain water pipes under a public highway can be granted only by the legislature or by some local or municipal authority empowered to confer it.[61] The fiscal court of Kentucky cannot appoint more than one supervisor for the free turnpikes of the county.[62] Mandamus will lie to compel a road supervisor to take charge of and put in repair a road which it is his duty to care for,[63] but not where a duty is discretionary[64] or is imposed upon some other board.[65] A highway officer may render himself civilly liable for trespass upon abutting property,[66] and in Alabama a road overseer may be proceeded against criminally for neglect of duty.[67] A municipality is not liable for the negligent monstration which set out their respective interests separately. MacGinnitie v. Silvers [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1013.

57. Where one appears before the commissioners and files a remonstrance setting out his interest and how affected, he becomes a party to the proceeding and need not file an affidavit of interest and show aggrievance on appeal. MacGinnitie v. Silvers [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1013.

58. See 5 C. L. 1660.

59. Under Acts 1904, c. 274, and an ordinance of the city of Baltimore, the commissioners for opening streets were invested with the authority by the first act provisionally conferred on the annex improvement commissioners to pave and improve streets in the annex portion of the city of Baltimore. City of Baltimore v. Flack [Md.] 64 A. 702. Highway commissioners held empowered under R. S. c. 121, §§ 18, 62, 64, 86, 87, to contract with a railroad company for a right of way for a highway through an embankment of the railroad, and where the railroad company had fully performed and the public had accepted the benefits, such contract was enforceable despite certain irregularities in the method of procedure. Illinois C. R. Co. v. Road Dist. No. 1, 119 Ill. App. 251. Act April 24, 1894 (P. L. 1894, p. 128), abolishing public road boards and vesting their powers and duties in the boards of chosen freeholders, is not unconstitutional as a special law, though it transferred the special powers of the Essex public road board upon the board of chosen freeholders of that county. Bowman v. Essex County Chosen Freeholders [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 1010.

60. Where a public road has been laid out and the assessment for damages paid, it is the duty of the township committee to open the road notwithstanding the inhabitants of the township have failed to provide money for the purpose. The committee is to call out the inhabitants to do the work under § 56 of the general road law (Gen. St. p. 2818), having first apportioned the labor required among the inhabitants of the town according to the provisions of § 52 of the same act, Kinmouth v. Township Committee of Wall Tp. [N. J. Law] 63 A. 861.

61. State v. Monroe, 40 Wash. 545, 82 P. 888. Under a statute authorizing a board to lay out, discontinue, or alter roads or highways and to do all other necessary acts, the board has no power to grant a franchise to lay and maintain water mains or pipes along or under public highways. 1 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 342, construed. Id. Doctrine of estoppel or ratification could not be invoked to defeat defense of ultra vires. Id.

62. Ky. St. 1903, §§ 4306, 4313, 4344, 4748b, held not to authorize the appointment of six supervisors. Fleming County Fiscal Ct. v. Howe, 28 Ky. L. R. 458, 89 S. W. 225. The fiscal court may maintain the free turnpikes under rules adopted for such purpose as provided by the statute relating thereto and avail itself of the general road statutes to appoint a supervisor. Id.

63. Rodenbarger v. State, 165 Ind. 685, 76 N. E. 398.

64. Mandamus will not lie to compel the county court to open a public road, though the petitioners offer to pay all the damages incident to the opening, as the county court is vested with discretion as to the public utility, taking into consideration the expense of maintaining the road. State v. McCutchan [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 251.

65. Under P. L. 1891, p. 137, the duty of opening highways is placed on the township committee (State v. Wall [N. J. Law] 63 A. 863; Kinmouth v. Township Committee of Wall Tp. [N. J. Law] 63 A. 861), and hence mandamus will not lie to compel the overseers to open a public road (State v. Wall [N. J. Law] 63 A. 863).

66. In an action of trespass against a highway officer for removing a fence from plaintiff's land, an order previously given by the officer to plaintiff stating that the fence encroaches on the highway and directing plaintiff to remove it is not proof of the facts stated therein, and in absence of proof as to location of road is no justification for the trespass. Labo v. Asam [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 892, 106 N. W. 281.

67. An overseer of a particular road is properly called "overseer of a road precinct." Indictment following form 75, Code 1896, and charging failure of overseer to perform his duties, held correct. Ward v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 923. The fact that the apportioner failed to furnish defendant with a correct written list of hands apportioned to him was not a defense where apportioner at the time of giving him his commission called over a list of hands whom he could use to work the road. Id. That the roads in the county generally were in bad condition should have been excluded from the jury. Id. Defendant would have been entitled to a charge of acquittal if he worked the road within a reasonable time had it not been asked along with the general charge to which he was not entitled. Id.

acts of a highway officer in performing acts to remove an obstruction in a street.[68] The Missouri act authorizing the voters of a district to vote on the question of the organization of a special road district has no application to counties which have adopted the Township Organization Law.[69]

§ 11. Fiscal affairs.[70]—Many questions relating to revenue for highway purposes are controlled by rules applicable to fiscal matters involved in public improvements generally,[71] or by the ordinary principles of taxation,[72] a few illustrative cases being cited herein. Power to levy assessments or special taxes is conferred entirely by statute.[73] In condemnation proceedings by a city for the ex-

68. Wheeler v. Gilsum, 73 N. H. 429, 62 A. 597.

69. Rev. St. 1899, c. 151, art. 10. The Organization Law is Rev. St. 1899, c. 168. State v. Gordon, 197 Mo. 55, 94 S. W. 987.

70. See 5 C. L. 1661.

71. See Public Works and Improvements, 6 C. L. 1143; Public Contracts, 6 C. L. 1109. See, also, Counties, 7 C. L. 976; Municipal Corporations, 6 C. L. 714. Mandamus will not lie to compel the board of supervisors of a town to appropriate money to erect a bridge where it has no funds on hand for the purpose and it cannot borrow money for the reason that it has already reached its debt limit. Board of Sup'rs of Town of Phillips v. People [Ill.] 78 N. E. 13. In Pennsylvania the county commissioners are not bound to accept the lowest bid for the making of road improvements but may reject the low bid if in their opinion the bidder is not responsible. LeMoyne v. Washington County, 213 Pa. 123, 62 A. 516.

Letting contracts: One who unites in a petition to the council requesting the letting of a contract for improving a street to a third person thereby waives his right to object to the assessment for the expense because the contract was let before he himself was given an opportunity to do the work as provided by statute. People v. Clarke, 110 App. Div. 28, 96 N. Y. S. 1051. Where a statute authorizes the sale of county bonds to raise funds to improve particular roads, taxpayers whose taxes will be thereby increased may enjoin the expenditure on roads not authorized to be improved. Pope v. Dykes [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 85.

72. See Taxes, 6 C. L. 1602. Under Laws 1901, c. 466 (Charter Greater N. Y. § 995), where land owned by the city, purchased with funds raised by general taxation, is taken for street purposes, the city is entitled to compensation therefor and the abutting or adjoining owners are liable for a special assessment to pay such damage, since otherwise they would receive a benefit for which the general public had been taxed. In re Van Cortlandt Ave. [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 952. A percentage levy of road taxes based on the assessment roll of the previous year is valid. Rev. Codes 1895, § 1122. Need not be levied in a specific amount. Beggs v. Paine [N. D.] 109 N. W. 322. It is not essential to a valid assessment of a road tax on lands in unincorporated places that the commissioner should specifically, in terms, assert in their record and certificate of assessment (1) that the divisions they made of the townships and tracts "were equitable, conforming as nearly as was convenient to known divisions or ownerships," or (2) that the sum assessed was "proportionate to the value thereof," or (3) that it was not burdensome on the landowners to assess all the repairs on them, instead of part on the county. It is enough if findings to such effect can be inferred from their action. Greene v. Martin [Me.] 63 A. 814. In Massachusetts towns have an interest in shade trees in the public highways which warrants the expenditure of public money for their protection and preservation. Hixon v. Sharon, 190 Mass. 347, 76 N. E. 909.

73. Statutes construed: Sess. Laws 1887-88, p. 224, c. 126, authorizing municipalities to grade, etc., streets, etc., at the expense of occupants of adjacent lots by necessary inference confers upon municipalities power to create assessment districts. State v. Moss [Wash.] 86 P. 1129. Laws 1887-88, p. 16, c. 13, conferring power to create special assessment districts for public improvements, applies only to towns having a population of 6,000 or more. Id. Under Act N. J. 1897 (P. L. 46), § 48, clause 3, the council of a city has power to assess the cost and expense of grading and improving a street on the owners of the property benefited. Tusting v. Asbury Park [N. J. Law] 62 A. 183. Under Gen. Acts 1903, p. 307, authorizing the county commissioners to levy special taxes for any liability then existing "or that may hereafter be created" for the construction of roads, the commissioners could levy a special tax in advance of the creation of any liability for repairs on a public road. Southern R. Co. v. Cherokee County, 144 Ala. 579, 42 So. 66. Where a proceeding for the improvement of a public road was initiated by a petition under the eighth section of the road improvement act of March 22, 1895, before the passage of the Act of April 1, 1903, the right to assess land bordering on the road 10 per cent of the cost, which the act of 1895 conferred, was not revoked by the Act of 1903. Haines v. Burlington County Freeholders [N. J. Law] 62 A. 186. Act of April 18, 1899, providing that where a street has been graded, paved, or otherwise improved under an invalid ordinance such improvement is valid, operates to validate an ordinance for an improvement so as to authorize the assessment of the cost on abutting owners. In re Marshall Ave., 213 Pa. 516, 62 A. 1085. Laws 1902, p. 589, c. 219, amending Port Chester Charter, tit. 5, § 4, relative to the opening of streets, by authorizing the trustees to inaugurate the improvement without a petition of one-third of the property owners, and, in case a petition is presented, to allow the improvement notwithstanding a protest, should be construed together with the amended section so that the provisions for assessment apply though an tension of a street, public school property may be assessed together with other property on the theory of special benefits,[74] and a constitutional exemption from taxation is inapplicable.[75] Equipment and fixtures within the area of an assessment, owned and used by public service corporations under their rights and franchises, cannot be assessed for benefits.[76] A special indebtedness for a street improvement incurred by a municipality created under a void statute cannot after a legal reincorporation of the city be so ratified by it as to convert it into a general liability enforceable against all the taxpayers.[77] Where a statute authorizing the issue of county bonds to improve certain roads vests discretion in the road commissioners as to how the fund will be expended,[78] a court of equity cannot interfere in the absence of fraud or corruption.[79] A street assessment being payable by instalments, limitations will run against each instalment separately.[80] In a proceeding to assess and enforce a tax to pay for a street improvement, the taxpayer cannot defeat the assessment on the ground that the contract by the city with the contractor was voidable, the work having been completed in accordance with the contract.[81] The burden of proving an estoppel against a property owner as to a street assessment is upon the treasurer seeking to enforce the collection.[82] As to improvement is inaugurated by the trustees. In re Locust Ave. in Village of Port Chester, 110 App. Div. 774, 97 N. Y. S. 508. State Aid Law 1895, providing for the assessment on abutting owners of 10 per cent of the cost of improving a public road, is repealed by Act of April 1, 1903, so as to exempt such abutting owners from assessment as to improvements contracted for before the passage of the last act but as to which no actual work was done until after its enactment. Cortelyou v. Anderson [N. J. Law] 63 A. 1095. The levy of a tax for road purposes is for a "necessary" purpose within the meaning of a statute prohibiting a levy for other than necessary purposes without a vote of the people. Crocker v. Moore, 140 N. C. 429, 53 S. E. 229. A statute which provides that the board of road commissioners shall ascertain and decide as to the amount needed for working the roads and the rate necessary to raise that sum and report to the county commissioners, who shall levy the taxes, is not unconstitutional for the reason that the commissioners may report a sum which would require a levy in excess of the limitation, since in such case it could be reduced. Id. The Sidewalk Act of 1875 does not authorize an ordinance which provides for the laying of sidewalks on different streets, and hence a tax levied under an ordinance which ordered a construction on several disconnected streets cannot be sustained. Glos v. Cannata, 121 Ill. App. 215. One who has made a voluntary conveyance of land on the line of a street under Greater New York Charter as amended by Laws 1901, p. 1184, c. 466, § 992, is not entitled to have the land entirely excluded from proceedings for appointment of commissioners of estimate and assessment, his abutting land being still liable under such section for the fair proportion of the awards that may be made for buildings. In re Ave. L. in New York City, 107 App. Div. 581, 95 N. Y. S. 245. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 3706, the trustees of a city of the sixth class have power in their discretion to impose the cost of cross walks at street intersections on the abutting property or to charge it to the street improvement fund. Morton v. Sullivan [Ky.] 96 S. W. 807.

74. Under Sess. Laws 1893, p. 189, c. 84, though school lands are not specially mentioned in the act. In re Howard Ave. North [Wash.] 86 P. 1117.

75. In re Howard Ave. North [Wash.] 86 P. 1117. Not exempt by art. 8, § 11, subd. 8, of Seattle charter, providing that assessments on lands of school districts shall be paid by the city. Id.

76. In re West Farms Road, 47 Misc. 216, 95 N. Y. S. 894.

77. State v. Moss [Wash.] 86 P. 1129. Where a municipality created by a void statute created an assessment district for a street improvement and the larger part of the assessments were paid by the abutting owners and warrants were issued on the special fund for the balance of the cost, evidence held to show that the parties intended to rely on the special assessments, and there could be no general liability against the city even if it had been legally created. Id.

78. Acts 1903, p. 815, c. 290, designating eight roads upon which the improvements were to be spent, held not to require them to be completed in the order named. Pope v. Dykes [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 85.

79. No jurisdiction to require certain roads to be first improved, the statute vesting the discretion in the commissioners. Pope v. Dykes [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 85.

80. The bar of the statute against a municipality as to the collection of a street assessment, levied prior to the act of April 25, 1904, does not begin to run on the several instalments until each of said instalments becomes due and payable. Bell v. Norwood, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 435.

81. In re Brighton Road, 213 Pa. 521, 63 A. 124.

82. Bell v. Norwood, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 435. Estoppel against contesting the validity of a street assessment will not be inferred in the case of a grantee who purchased subsequent to the levying of the assessment, unless the language of the deed fairly warrants the conclusion that the grantee re-offsets,[83] an abutting owner is not entitled to damages sustained by reason of subsequent and independent proceedings.[84]

In Mississippi a municipality the streets of which are worked by municipal authority is entitled to one-half of taxes levied by a county for road purposes on property within the city.[85] A resident of an incorporated town or city who pays a street tax thereto is not liable for a road tax while temporarily sojourning elsewhere.[86]

In New York a town is not liable for the price of a road machine purchased by its highway commissioner for the use of the town.[87] In Indiana a public road must be accepted by the county commissioners before a contractor is entitled to his final payment.[88]

§ 12. Control by public and public regulations.[89]—The state has the primary control over streets and highways[90] and may in the exercise of its police power, regulate their use.[91] It may delegate its power in this respect to local, administrative, or legislative officers or boards under appropriate provisions of law.[92] The served from the purchase money an amount sufficient to satisfy the lien. Waldschmidt v. Bowland, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 411.

83. An abutting owner, upon whose property a street assessment was levied prior to the passage of the Municipal Code, is entitled to be credited with his proportion of the premium received from the sale of bonds to meet the cost of the improvement, but this credit can only be made upon the interest payable on the deferred instalments of his assessment. Mudge v. Evanston, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 197.

84. In an action to recover benefits accruing to defendant's property by grading, curbing, and paving the street in front thereof, the defendant cannot set off damages sustained by reason of the widening of the street pursuant to an ordinance passed subsequent to the one pursuant to which the paving and grading were done, where as to the widening separate proceedings were had. Duquesne Borough v. Keeler, 213 Pa. 518, 62 A. 1071.

85. Under Ann. Code Miss. § 3931, the city of Brookhaven held entitled to one-half of the tax levied by the county for road purposes on property within the city, since its streets are cared for and worked by "municipal authority," though no special tax is levied by it to defray the expense of so doing. Lincoln County v. Brookhaven [Miss.] 41 So. 449.

86. Taylor v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 776.

87. Under Laws 1890, cc. 568 and 569 and Laws 1896, c. 987. Acme Road Machinery Co. v. Bridgewater [N. Y.] 77 N. E. 879.

88. Act 1895, c. 21, § 5. Board of Com'rs of Jackson County v. Branaman [Ind.] 76 N. E. 1030.

89. See 5 C. L. 1663.

90. In the absence of constitutional restrictions and subject to the property rights of the abutting owners, the legislature has paramount authority over public ways and places. Scovel v. Detroit [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 681, 109 N. W. 20. Loc. Acts 1901, p. 413, § 33, No. 417, authorizing the commissioner to set aside a speedway on the boulevard, held valid, thus authorizing the construction of such way if the commissioner did not already have such power. Id.

91. A statute providing that persons using the highways for the hauling of unusually heavy loads shall be required to pay a license tax is a valid exercise of governmental powers by the legislature. State v. Holloman, 139 N. C. 642, 52 S. E. 408. Pub. Laws N. J. 1905, p. 484, requiring the licensing of automobiles, being an exercise of the police power of the state, is not in contravention of the Const. of New Jersey or of the United States. Unwen v. State [N. J. Law] 64 A. 163. Under Laws 1905, c. 86, § 4, a traction engine is entitled to registration and its operator to a license. Where an automobile, traction engine, or other vehicle described in the act is owned by a corporation or partnership, it should be registered in the name of the owner, but the license should be issued only to an individual. Emerson Troy Granite Co. v. Pearson [N. H.] 64 A. 582. The law relating to the establishment of grade crossings (97 O. L. 546) relates exclusively to steam railroads, and in the case of an application to the common pleas court under this act by a railroad for permission to lay its tracks at grade over street crossings, and to prescribe what gates, signals, etc., shall be maintained, if the court find from the testimony that such railroad is not a steam railroad, it is without jurisdiction in the premises. In re Avon Beach & So. R. Co., 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 561. In the case of steam railroads the court, under 97 O. L. 546, may grant permission to construct a grade crossing conditional upon the acquirement by the company, either by agreement with the municipal or other officers in charge of the road or street, or by condemnation, of the right to do so. Such agreement or condemnation need not precede the permission granted by the court. Id. Under Railroad Law, Laws 1890, p. 1087, c. 565, § 11, a railroad company cannot extend its road over the streets of a village without an order of the court or notice to the trustees of the village. And in order to obtain such order it must at least be shown that the interests of the road or the public will be promoted thereby. In re Keeseville, etc., R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 237.

92. Wilcox v. McClellan, 47 Misc. 465, 95 N. Y. S. 941. Laws 1905, pp. 1533, 1548, 1550, powers of local authorities being thus delegated, municipalities have only such control as is granted them by the legislature.[93] This, however, ordinarily includes power to regulate the use of hacks[94] and automobiles,[95] to permit the erection of

cc. 629-631, transferring from the board of aldermen to the board of estimate and apportionment the authority to consent to the use of the public streets by corporations having franchises therefor, subject to the consent of the local authorities, merely extend the powers of the board of estimate and apportionment as given by previous laws and do not constitute a legislative appointment of the board of estimate and apportionment to office to perform new functions not germane to the duties of the board when elected, in violation of Const. art. 10, § 2, when construed with Const. art. 8, § 1, authorizing the enactment of special laws for municipalities. Wilcox v. McClellan, 110 App. Div. 378, 97 N. Y. S. 311; Id., 47 Misc. 465, 95 N. Y. S. 941. Do not contravene Const. art. 3, § 18, authorizing legislature to pass general laws providing for construction and operation of street railroads on consent of local authorities. Id. Statute not rendered invalid by Const. art. 3, §§ 26, 27, authorizing the transfer of the power of the board of supervisors in the counties comprising Greater New York to the "municipal assembly," etc., "or legislative body of the city," and authorizing legislature to confer further powers of legislation and administration on boards of supervisors. Id.

The control of the streets of the city of Washington for the purpose of protecting them from unlawful encroachments is vested in the district commissioners, whether the fee title be in the United States, the city, or in the abutting owners (Guerin v. Macfarland, 27 App. D. C. 478), and they may maintain an action to enjoin the maintenance of a projecting building in their own names (Id.).

93. Legislature may authorize use of streets for public purpose, in absence of constitutional provision, without consent of municipality. Village of Carthage v. Central New York Tel. & T. Co., 48 Misc. 423, 96 N. Y. S. 917. In the absence of express charter provision authorizing it to do so, a city has no power to grant a permanent easement to a railroad company to lay tracks in and operate its trains on such tracks in a city street. State v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 53 S. E. 290. In the absence of authority from the legislature a municipality has no power to require a railroad to maintain gates at a grade crossing where its tracks cross a street at the expense of the railroad company. Statutory authority to make such ordinances as they shall deem necessary for the good order and government of the municipality will not support such an ordinance. In re Pennsylvania R. Co., 213 Pa. 373, 62 A. 986. The right or privilege of a telephone company to erect and maintain its telephone poles and wires in the streets of a city is not a franchise. It can be granted by the city only in pursuance of legislative authority and the right to hold the license or privilege may be questioned by quo warranto. People v. Chicago Tel. Co., 220 Ill. 238, 77 N. E. 245. The sidewalks of the city of Washington which are wholly subject to municipal control extend from the curb line to the building line of the houses, and the fact that a portion of these sidewalks are set apart as parking does not diminish in any manner the control of the municipal authorities over them. Dotey v. District of Columbia, 25 App. D. C. 232.

94. Section 7, art. 10, police regulations of the District of Columbia, prohibiting hack drivers for hire from maintaining them except at public stands, is a valid exercise of the power conferred upon the commissioners by Congress. Barnes v. District of Columbia, 27 App. D. C. 101. Automobiles used for hire for which the owner has a public hack license, are vehicles within these regulations. Gassenheimer v. District of Columbia, 26 App. D. C. 557. One permitting them to stand in front of a particular hotel at which there was no stand to be let to the public generally is guilty though he maintained an agent in the hotel to contract with guests. Id. Prosecution under this regulation is not limited to the driver but extends to the master (Id.), nor is it necessary that the driver solicit business while the vehicle is loitering in order to constitute a violation (Id.). The rule that a hotelkeeper may maintain hacks for his guests which may stand in front of the hotel, notwithstanding § 7, art. 10, of the police regulations, is limited to the number reasonably necessary for the exclusive use of the guests (Barnes v. District of Columbia, 27 App. D. C. 101), and if this rule is erroneous it does not aid one who does not come thereunder (Id.). A hack driver standing in front of a hotel at the request of regular customers, guests of the hotel, if he has no actual engagement, is guilty. Id. The fact that others have violated the regulation with impunity is no defense to one being prosecuted. Id.

95. In a prosecution for driving an automobile at a speed in excess of the speed limit, the fact that the automobile was registered with the Massachusetts highway commission in defendant's name warranted a finding that he was the owner of it or had a special property in it which gave him control of it, and if he was riding in it though not driving, he is prima facie guilty of participating in its being run at an unlawful speed. Commonwealth v. Sherman, 191 Mass. 439, 78 N. E. 98. Such prima facie case may be rebutted. Id. An ordinance prohibiting the driving of an automobile on the street at a greater speed than six miles an hour is valid though Sess. Laws 1905, p. 293, c. 154, provides that no automobile shall be driven in the thickly settled portion of a city at a greater speed than one mile in five minutes, and that cities shall have no power to require of any operator of an automobile any license to use their streets, or to prohibit any automobile the "free use" of the streets. City of Bellingham v. Cissna [Wash.] 87 P. 481. Act of April 19, 1905, relating to licensing of automobiles, held not so inconsistent with a city ordinance of the city of Philadelphia as to supersede the ordinance.

awnings,[96] to license or restrict the placing of building material,[97] the moving of buildings,[98] or the transaction of business in streets,[99] and generally to make needful and reasonable regulations touching their use.[1] Cities and towns are generally also given power to authorize the use of their streets by public service corporations[2] on prescribed conditions,[3] but street franchises are construed against the grantee[4]

Brazier v. Philadelphia [Pa.] 64 A. 508. An ordinance prescribing the speed of automobiles at "crossings" means street crossings. A limitation of speed to six miles per hour between crossings and four miles per hour at crossings is not unreasonably low rate. Eichmann v. Buchheit [Wis.] 107 N. W. 325. Authority to a city to regulate the speed at which an automobile may be driven over its streets does not authorize an ordinance allowing automobiles to use a designated street on a designated day for speed contests by designated persons and such a use is unlawful notwithstanding such permission, but one who attended the races for the purpose of deriving entertainment therefrom could not recover for injuries sustained by reason of one of the cars leaving the road and striking her, in the absence of evidence of negligence on the part of the defendants, and absence of contributory negligence of plaintiff. Johnson v. New York [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 715.

96. Under Acts 1898, c. 123, § 10, as amended by Acts 1900, p. 117, permission to erect an awning extending over the walks in the city of Baltimore can only be granted by the board of estimate and a former ordinance vesting such power in the building inspector was repealed. Preston v. Likes, Berwanger & Co. [Md.] 62 A. 1024.

97. Where a permit gave the right to use one-third of the width of a street as a place for building material, but also provided that no material should be placed within two feet of any railroad track the contractor could not place material in any part of the street within two feet of a railroad track. Mulvey v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 1114.

98. The common-law right of an owner to use the streets for the purpose of removing buildings may be restricted to a reasonable intent by the municipality. Hinman v. Clark, 51 Misc. 252, 100 N. Y. S. 1068.

99. Selling fruits and vegetables from a push cart held to be a violation of an ordinance prohibiting any person from carrying on a business in a street without a license. State v. Barbelais [Me.] 64 A. 881.

1. Merced Falls Gas & Elec. Co. v. Turner [Cal. App.] 84 P. 239.

2. The authority of the city of Chicago under Ill. acts of Feb. 14, 1859, and Feb. 21, 1861, to fix the conditions upon which street railroads chartered by those acts could occupy the streets, includes the power to fix the term of occupation. Blair v. Chicago, 201 U. S. 400, 50 Law. Ed. 801. The power to control streets and highways conferred upon the board of trustees of the town of Lakeview by Ill. act of March 5, 1867, § 7, includes the right to authorize street railways to occupy the streets. Id. In Illinois a railroad incorporated under Rev. St. c. 114, can cross any highway outside of cities and villages without further condition than that it shall not unnecessarily impair the usefulness of the highway, but it cannot construct its railroad on or across any street in any city or village without the consent of the municipality. City of Chicago v. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co., 121 Ill. App. 197. Persons who have signed a petition for the granting by a city council of authority to a railroad to use a street pursuant to a statute requiring a petition from the owners of a majority of the frontags on the street proposed to be used as a condition precedent to the granting of such authority may withdraw their names from such petition before it is acted on by the council. People v. Decatur, etc., R. Co., 120 Ill. App. 229. Under Rev. St. 1903, § 1536-185 (Municipal Code § 30), requiring the consent of the abutting owners as a condition precedent to the right of the council to grant a franchise to a street railroad company to lay its tracks in a street, and also providing the franchise shall be granted to the company agreeing to give service at lowest fare, a property owner cannot consent to the granting of the right to construct tracks to any particular company excluding all others. Forest City R. Co. v. Day [Ohio] 76 N. E. 398. See 6 Columbia L. R. 367. The granting of a license, privilege, or franchise to a street railway in the streets of a city, town, or village is an exercise of the police power of the city as a subordinate division of the state. It is not reviewable by certiorari. Wheeling & E. G. R. Co. v. Triadelphia, 58 W. Va. 487, 52 S. E. 499.

See, also, Franchises, 7 C. L. 1771.

3. Where a city grants to a street railroad company a franchise to lay tracks in its streets on a condition specified, its unjustifiable failure to comply with the condition operates as a forfeiture of the grant. Blocki v. People, 220 Ill. 444, 77 N. E. 172. Where a street railroad was granted a license to lay its tracks in a city street on condition that it build and operate the same within a specified time, the fact that it was enjoined from building a part of the line is no excuse for not having built the other parts thereof where it does not appear that the part enjoined was so connected with the balance of the line as to make it undesirable or inconvenient to build one without the other. Id. Where a telephone company fails to perform a condition precedent in a contract with a borough to complete its lines within a specified time, the borough may treat the poles and wires erected in the streets as a nuisance and remove them as such. Keystone State Tel. & T. Co. v. Ridley Park Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 635. Where a street railroad company accepts the conditions of an ordinance granting it a franchise and requiring it to pave the street or a part of it over which its tracks are to be laid, the obligation to pave devolves upon its successor in interest, though it has not expressly assumed such burden. Borough of Rutherford v. Hudson River Traction Co. [N. J. Law] 63 A. 84. Mandamus will lie. Id.

and conferred and accepted subject to the police power of the city.[5] Regulations must be reasonable,[6] special ordinances being generally prohibited,[7] but the burden

4. And are regarded as licenses. Blocki v. People, 220 Ill. 444, 77 N. E. 172. Grants by a municipal corporation to railroads of the right to construct and maintain railroad tracks on or across its streets are strictly construed in favor of the grantor. City of Chicago v. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co., 121 Ill. App. 197.

5. State v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 53 S. E. 290.

Railways: A municipal corporation having control over its streets may require a railroad which has laid tracks in one of its streets to change the location thereof when such change is necessary for the commerce and welfare of the public. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Cordele, 125 Ga. 373, 54 S. E. 155. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5172a, a city can by mandamus compel a railroad company to plank a crossing of one of its streets, though the city has enacted an ordinance which requires the railroad company to do so and also provides that in case of the railroad's failure to do so such work may be done by the city and the cost thereof collected from the railroad. Vandalia R. Co. v. State [Ind.] 76 N. E. 980. In granting a franchise to use its streets, alleys, or public places, the city exercises its delegated legislative powers and for that purpose could not by contract barter away its future legislative control over such highways. Id.

A street railway company holds its franchise to operate its line in the streets of a city subject to the power of the city to regulate the use of the streets. People v. Geneva, etc., Traction Co., 112 App. Div. 581, 98 N. Y. S. 719. Geneva City Charter, Laws 1897, p. 444, c. 360, § 65, as amended by Laws 1905, p. 1032, c. 462, providing that upon the paving, alteration, etc., of a street a street railway company may be compelled by the board of public works to change its grade and line to conform to the alteration or improvement, does not impair the contract rights of a street railroad operating its line under a franchise from the city, though the change would necessitate a large expenditure on the part of the company. Id. An ordinance requiring a street railway to keep in good repair all that part of a street occupied by its tracks includes additional tracks to be laid as well as those already under operation. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Though a city has no power to impose on a street railroad the burden of repaving the street between its tracks and a certain distance to each side thereof, yet where the company agrees to do so in consideration of the grant to it of the franchise of operating its cars over such streets, the agreement is enforceable against it. Inhabitants of City of Trenton v. Trenton St. R. Co., 72 N. J. Law, 317, 63 A. 1. Agreement not ultra vires. Id. Not a tax on the corporation and so not affected by a subsequent law imposing a tax in lieu of all other taxes. Id.

Telegraphs and telephones: The right of a telegraph company to occupy the streets of a city is subordinate to the public use for travel. City could require removal of poles. Ganz v. Ohio Postal Tel. & Cable Co. [C. C. A.] 140 F. 692. The use of the streets and alleys of a city to carry the pole lines and wires necessary to the operation of a telephone exchange is a proper and legal use, but the right to such use is subject to regulation by the city and with it the power to impose a gross earnings charge as a condition to the enjoyment of such use. Such charge is not a tax but is in the nature of rent. City of Lancaster v. Briggs, 118 Mo. App. 570, 96 S. W. 314. The city of Memphis has power to exact rentals of telegraph companies occupying and using its public streets. Acts Tenn. 1879, c. 11, § 3, p. 16, held to confer such power (City of Memphis v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 602), which was not nullified by Acts Tenn. 1885, c. 66, p. 120, § 1, authorizing telegraph companies to construct lines along public highways and streets (Id.). In New York telegraph and telephone companies derive their right to erect poles and string wires thereon in the streets of a city or village from the state, and while a village has power to regulate the placing of poles in its streets, it has no power to prohibit their erection and require the telephone company to put its wires in underground conduits. Village of Carthage v. Central New York Tel. & T. Co. [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 165, rvg. 110 App. Div. 625, 96 N. Y. S. 919.

Gas companies: The right of municipal corporations to improve and change the grade of streets for public purposes is fundamental, and where it changes the grade of a street to avoid a dangerous grade crossing it does so under its police power, and a gas company having pipes in the street the grade of which is changed cannot recover damages caused by changing its pipes. Scranton Gas & Water Co. v. Scranton, 214 Pa. 586, 64 A. 84. That by a city's permission a company erects poles or other obstructions in the streets under a franchise does not give the company an absolute right to maintain such obstructions for all time in the identical place where they were first located. Gas and electric company. Merced Falls Gas & Elec. Co. v. Turner [Cal. App.] 84 P. 239. That complainant had a constitutional franchise to use the streets did not prevent the proposed regulation where the constitution made such franchise subject to the supervision of the city authorities. Id.

6. Power to regulate the movement of teams and vehicles in a street does not imply power to prohibit such movement. Under Greater New York charter, Laws 1901, p. 127, c. 466, §§ 300, 315, police commissioner could not prohibit, by general rule, the movement of any teams or vehicles in parts of certain streets. Peace v. McAdoo, 110 App. Div. 13, 96 N. Y. S. 1039. Power to regulate the planting and protection of shade trees in the city's streets does not authorize an ordinance requiring the owner of a tree in a street to cut it down within ten days after notice from the city so to do. Nor does statutory power to prevent and remove all obstructions or encroachments on a street authorize the summary cutting down and removal of a growing tree without notice to the owner. Such trees are not necessarily of establishing the unreasonableness of a rule is upon the party asserting it.[8] In the absence of express authority a city cannot delegate its legislative power of control over streets.[9]

Fire apparatus may be given the right of way when responding to an alarm.[10] Under the New York ordinance relative to the right of way for vehicles, those going in an easterly or westerly direction are required to stop and allow others to pass only when there is apparent danger of collision.[11] Horse racing on a public road is prohibited by statute in Indiana.[12]

An officer charged with the care of streets may be compelled by mandamus to allow one to lawfully excavate in a street in a proper manner and with suitable safeguards,[13] but plaintiff in such case must have an undoubted right to excavate.[14]

§ 13. Rights of public use.[15]—The general public has the right to use every portion of a highway including the space between street car tracks when not needed for the cars.[16] Pedestrians and operators of automobiles[17] and other common ve-an encroachment and the owner is entitled to a judicial determination that it is an encroachment before it can be destroyed. Sproul v. Stockton [N. J. Law] 62 A. 275. An ordinance requiring a water company to obtain permission from the city council before excavating in any street for the purpose of laying water pipes is not unreasonable. Beaver Valley Water Co. v. Conway Borough, 213 Pa. 225, 62 A. 844. The question of whether an ordinance relative to the use of a city street is unreasonable and oppressive is one of law for the court. Ordinance prohibiting the carrying on of any business in a public street not unreasonable or oppressive. State v. Barbelale [Me.] 64 A. 881.

7. Special ordinance permitting automobile club to conduct speed trials and suspending other ordinances regulating speed held to confer no authority to conduct such trials, and city, club, and others connected therewith held liable for injuries sustained by plaintiff. Johnson v. New York, 109 App. Div. 821, 96 N. Y. S. 754. Council could not by special resolution stop removal of a building already in the street. Hinman v. Clark, 51 Misc. 252, 100 N. Y. S. 1068.

8. Though a city may be without power to impose unreasonable restrictions or conditions on a grant by it to a street railway of the right to use its streets, the reasonableness of the restrictions is a question of fact and the burden of proving that they are not is on a person asserting that they are unreasonable. Borough of Rutherford v. Hudson River Traction Co. [N. J. Law] 63 A. 84. If reasonable such restrictions are not ultra vires the municipality. Id. One who seeks to restrain a city from regulating the use of streets must show that the proposed regulation is unreasonable and unnecessary. Injunction to prevent removal of poles. Merced Falls Gas & Elec. Co. v. Turner [Cal. App.] 84 P. 239.

9. Common council could not delegate to department of works power to regulate the right of an owner to move buildings in the streets. Hinman v. Clark, 51 Misc. 252, 100 N. Y. S. 1068. Power to regulate construction of sidewalks cannot be delegated. Ramsey v. Field, 115 Mo. App. 620, 92 S. W. 350. Where an ordinance establishing the grade of streets is definite in its requirements, the fact that it provides for notice by the president or clerk of the village to one who violates it before proceedings to impose the penalty for its violation does not make it an attempted delegation of legislative power. Village of Hampton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 118 Ill. App. 621.

10. An ordinance giving fire apparatus the right of way controls a prior ordinance giving in general terms the street cars the right of way over vehicles, etc. (McBride v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 618), and the fact that they are republished together does not alter the rule (Id.). Under Greater New York Charter, Laws 1897, p. 260, c. 378, § 748, as amended by Laws 1900, p. 255, c. 155, giving the fire insurance patrol right of way in the streets over all vehicles except those carrying mail, it is abstractly the duty of a motorman of a street car to stop the car to give the street to a patrol truck, if it is seen, or by the exercise of reasonable care could be seen in time to stop the car. Duffghe v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 109 App. Div. 603, 96 N. Y. S. 324. Law constitutional. Id.

11. Armour & Co. v. Carlas [C. C. A.] 142 F. 721. Evidence that plaintiff attempted to cross the street, which was only 28 feet wide when defendant was 80 feet distant, does not show negligence as a matter of law. Id. The facts being such as to call for the application of a municipal ordinance prescribing rights of way at street intersections, it was error for the court to leave it for the jury to determine whether the ordinance was applicable. McCarragher v. Proal, 114 App. Div. 470, 100 N. Y. S. 208.

12. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2280, one who acts as a rider in a horse race held on a public road is guilty of an offense, as is also the owner of the horse who knowingly allows his horse to run in such a race. State v. New, 36 Ind. App. 521, 76 N. E. 181.

13. French v. Jones, 191 Mass. 522, 78 N. E. 118.

14. One who has purchased rails imbedded in a street from a railway company has no absolute right to dig up the street for the purpose of removing the rails, and mandamus will not lie to compel the street overseer to permit the digging up of the street for that purpose. French v. Jones, 191 Mass. 522, 78 N. E. 118.

hicles have equal rights to the use of public streets.[18] One who operates a street railway or railroad car,[19] steam roller,[20] automobile or motor car,[21] or other vehicle,[22]

15. See 5 C. L. 1665.

16. Pedestrians have a right to use any part of a highway, but the question of whether a particular use is such as a reasonably prudent person would make must depend on the attendant circumstances. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347. Street railways have no greater or superior right to use of streets than that enjoyed by general public and must use reasonable care. Dulaney v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 65 A. 45; United R. & Elec. Co. v. Watkins, 102 Md. 264, 62 A. 234; Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347. Where a city authorizes the laying of a temporary track in one of its streets, the street is not deprived of its character as a public street and one going thereon when the tracks are laid is not a trespasser. The railroad company in running cars on such track is bound to use reasonable care not to injure others who might choose to use the street. Keller v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 214 Pa. 82, 63 A. 413. Street railroads do not have an exclusive right to that portion of a highway covered by their tracks, but they do have the right of way over such portions and it is the duty of other travelers using the tracks to yield them to the cars on their approach. Daniels v Bay City Traction & Elec. Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 15, 107 N. W. 94.

17. The owners of automobiles have the same rights in the streets and highways that the drivers of horses have. Wright v. Crane [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 794, 106 N. W. 71; Hannigan v. Wright [Del.] 63 A. 234. The running of an automobile on a highway is a lawful use of the road and the owner or person using it is not liable for injuries caused by its frightening horses, unless it appears that he operated it at a time, or in a manner, or under circumstances, inconsistent with a proper regard for the rights of others. McIntyre v. Orner [Ind.] 76 N. E. 750.

18. The relative rights of pedestrians crossing a street and drivers of vehicles are equal and reciprocal. Neither is called on to anticipate negligence on the part of the other. The question of whether either one or the other has been negligent is for the jury, taking into consideration all the circumstances of the particular case. Stallman v. Shea [Minn.] 109 N. W. 824. A traveler on foot has the same right to the use of the public streets of a city as a vehicle of any kind. Hannigan v. Wright [Del.] 63 A. 234.

19. Keller v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 214 Pa. 82, 63 A. 413. A street railway company and the public are bound to use reasonable care and caution to prevent collisions and accidents. Garrett v. People's R. Co. [Del.] 64 A. 254. Servants of a street railway are bound to use diligent and constant watchfulness for persons on or crossing its tracks, and when the car is operated at a high rate of speed a high degree of vigilance is required. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347. Where a railroad has been given permission to lay its tracks temporarily in a public street, an engineer running a train thereon is not bound to continuously ring the bell as a warning to persons who may come onto the track, nor is he bound to presume that one walking on a sidewalk in such street would leave the walk and go onto the track so as to require the giving of warning signals. Keller v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 214 Pa. 82, 63 A. 413. It is negligence for a railroad company to stand a train of cars in a street where its tracks cross the street so as to leave only a small opening between the two parts of the train for the passage of pedestrians, and it is guilty of negligence in so doing where it attempts to connect the two parts of the train without warning, as the pedestrians have a right to cross the tracks in such roadway. Edwards v. Carolina & N. W. R. Co., 140 N. C. 49, 52 S. E. 234.

See, also, full collection of cases, Railroads, 6 C. L. 1194; Street Railways, 6 C. L. 1556.

20. Frightening horse by permitting steam roller to puff and whistle. Phelen v. Granite Bituminous Pav. Co., 115 Mo. App. 423, 91 S. W. 440. Operator of steam roller held liable for damages caused by failure to warn persons of its approach. Runaway. Laws 1890, p. 1205, c. 568, § 155 construed. Buchanan's Sons v. Cranford Co., 112 App. Div. 278, 98 N. Y. S. 378. In an action for injuries caused by the frightening of a horse by the operation of a steam roller on a highway, evidence of the usable value of the horse during the period its owner was deprived of its use by reason of the injuries sustained is admissible. Id.

21. Driver of automobile bound to use reasonable care in view of means of locomotion employed. Wright v. Crane [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 794, 106 N. W. 71; McFern v. Gardner [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 972; Hannigan v. Wright [Del.] 63 A. 234. It is the duty of the driver of an automobile to keep a lookout ahead for the purpose of ascertaining whether the automobile is about to frighten horses attached to approaching vehicles. If it so appears it is his duty to diminish the speed or stop the car or do whatever is reasonably required to diminish the danger. McIntyre v. Orner [Ind.] 76 N. E. 750. Under St. 1903, c. 473, § 7, requiring that the driver of an automobile approaching a horse drawn vehicle shall operate it in such a manner as to exercise every reasonable precaution to prevent frightening the horses of the other vehicle, one approaching a horse drawn vehicle from the rear is "approaching" it and it is for the jury to say whether failure to sound the horn or bell is negligence on the part of the driver of the automobile. Gifford v. Jennings, 190 Mass. 54, 76 N. E. 233. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 121, § 4, in action to recover injuries sustained by reason of plaintiff's horse becoming frightened by an automobile, the plaintiff makes out a prima facie case by showing that he has been injured and that defendant was running his machine in excess of 15 miles an hour. Ward v. Meredith, 220 Ill. 66, 77 N. E. 118. One negligently driving an automobile upon the curb either through recklessness or inexperience and injuring a or who drives a horse[23] or leaves him unattended,[24] is bound to act with due regard for the safety of others lawfully using the highway,[25] the care to be exercised being commensurate with the dangers reasonably[26] to be apprehended[27] in view of the cir-pedestrian is liable. May v. Allison, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 50. Evidence sufficient to support verdict for plaintiff who was struck by automobile. Spina v. New York Transp. Co., 96 N. Y. S. 270. Whether it is negligence to run an automobile at night without a light is for the jury. Wright v. Crane [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 794, 106 N. W. 71. In an action against the owner of an automobile to recover for injuries caused by plaintiff's horse becoming frightened, it being alleged that defendant was operating his machine at a high rate of speed, the question of defendant's negligence is for the jury. Weiskopf v. Ritter [Ky.] 97 S. W. 1120. One running an automobile past a team at the rate of four or five miles an hour with the engine shut off, clearing by five or six feet, and receiving no signal to stop, is not guilty of negligence, there being nothing to indicate that the team was frightened. Davis v. Maxwell, 108 App. Div. 128, 96 N. Y. S. 45. Where, in an action for personal injuries to plaintiff by her horse becoming frightened at defendant's automobile, the court instructed that if defendant drove his machine down towards plaintiff in the manner claimed by her the jury might determine whether he was negligent, but did not instruct as to defendant's evidence, a new trial should be granted, it being likely that the jury concluded that, though he passed as he testified, he was negligent in not stopping, which would not be true. Id. Declaration in action for injuries caused by defendant's negligent operation of an automobile held to state a cause of action. Hughes v. Connable [Del.] 64 A. 72. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 121, § 2, it is the duty of one driving a motor car to stop it whenever a horse being driven or ridden shows indication of fright on its approach. The driver of the motor car must use reasonable care and diligence to ascertain if an approaching horse is about to become frightened and if he is to stop the car. Ward v. Meredith, 220 Ill. 66, 77 N. E. 118. In an action to recover damages because of plaintiff's horse becoming frightened by a motor car, it is not error to permit a witness to testify that a horse became frightened and showed fright, as such is a statement of fact and not a conclusion of the witness. Id. The fact that a motor car otherwise operated lawfully emitted sounds or by its appearance frightened horses, if the sounds and appearance were ordinary, the owner of the machine is not guilty of negligence. Eichmann v. Buchheit [Wis.] 107 N. W. 325.

22. Bound to reasonably look out for others using street. Robinson v. Huber [Del.] 63 A. 873; American Tobacco Co. v. Polisco, 104 Va. 777, 52 S. E. 563. Looking backwards while driving a vehicle rapidly in a street and running over another held negligence. Charters v. Palmer, 98 N. Y. S. 887. Evidence that defendant's wagons are of a particular kind and bear a peculiar mark, and that such a wagon so marked produced plaintiff's damage, held sufficient to sustain a finding that the wagon belonged to defendant (Hennessey v. Baugh & Sons Co., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 310), and proof of ownership raises an inferencs that the party in charge thereof was defendant's agent (Id.). In an action for injuries caused by the alleged negligence of defendant, a city ordinance which defendant was violating at the time the injury was sustained is not admissible where the violation complained of had no causal connection with the injury sustained. Shaffer v. Roesch [Pa.] 64 A. 511. Whether negligence was proximate cause is for the jury. American Tobacco Co. v. Polisco, 104 Va. 777, 52 S. E. 563.

23. In an action to recover damages caused by defendant's servant negligently driving against plaintiff's intestate, evidence held not to show that injuries were the proximate result of the collision. De Maet v. Fidelity Storage, Packing & Moving Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 1045. Evidence held for the jury whether defendant was negligent in attempting to make his horse stand near a track while an approaching train passed. West v. Woodruff, 112 App. Div. 133, 97 N. Y. S. 1054. Where the declaration alleges that the defendant's team ran into plaintiff's team, and the proof is that both teams were in motion up to the instant of collision, the fact that defendant's team was much slower in motion than the team of plaintiff does not constitute a fatal variance between the allegation and the proof. Neal v. Rendall, 100 Me. 574, 62 A. 706.

24. It is negligence to leave a horse standing in the street unhitched and unattended. Acker v. Stern, 49 Misc. 650, 97 N. Y. S. 1041. Where a pedestrian was injured by a runaway horse and it appeared that the strap with which the horse was tied was weak, was tied low, and was broken before the horse took fright, evidence held sufficient to show that the weak strap was the cause of the accident. Kern v. Snider [C. C. A.] 145 F. 327. Where the cause of a horse's fright is not shown but it was clear that he had broken loose before he was frightened, an instruction that, if the fright was so great that no strap such as an ordinary person would have used could have held him, defendant was not liable is properly refused as misleading in that the jury might conjecture that the fright first occurred as the result of some act not shown. Id.

25. The right of drivers of vehicles and of persons on foot to use the public streets must be exercised by each with due regard to the rights of the other and the right of each must be exercised in a reasonable and careful manner so as not unreasonably to abridge or interfere with the rights of the other. Robinson v. Huber [Del.] 63 A. 873. All persons bound to use reasonable care. Hannigan v. Wright [Del.] 63 A. 234.

26. A person using a public street is not guilty of negligence in failing to provide against a contingency which ordinary care and foresight would not have foreseen, to-wit, the forcing open of a gate on the rear end of a wagon by the force of wind caused by an approaching street car. Shaffer v. Roesch [Pa.] 64 A. 511.

27. Hannigan v. Wright [Del.] 63 A. 234.

cumstances of the case.[28] As in other cases contributory negligence defeats recovery[29] and the question of such negligence is generally for the jury.[30]

A municipality holds its streets in trust for the general public, to be used, 28. Robinson v. Huber [Del.] 63 A. 873.

29. Attempt to cross street 75 feet ahead of a team held not negligence as a matter of law. Gerber v. Boorstein, 99 N. Y. S. 1091. Evidence insufficient to show plaintiff's freedom from contributory negligence in action for injury from collision with automobile. McCarragher v. Proal, 114 App. Div. 470, 100 N. Y. S. 208. The violation of an ordinance regulating traffic in a street is not of itself contributory negligence. Ordinance prescribing rights of way at street intersections. Id.

Pedestrians: A person crossing a public street is required to make a reasonable use of all his senses to observe an impending danger. This means such use as an ordinarily prudent and careful person would have used under like circumstances. Hannigan v. Wright [Del.] 63 A. 234. One walking on a street car track has a right to assume that street cars thereon will not run at an excessive speed and that an approaching car will give warning. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347. There is no rule of law requiring a pedestrian when lawfully using the public highway to be continuously looking or listening to ascertain if autocars are approaching under penalty that, on failing to do so, if he is injured his negligence must be conclusively presumed. He has a right to presume that other persons using the highway with him will exercise a proper degree of care to avoid injuring him. Hennessey v. Taylor, 189 Mass. 583, 76 N. E. 224. Pedestrians in going from one side of a street to the other are not confined to the regular crossing at the intersections, but may cross at any point according to their convenience, but in so doing they are bound to exercise care according to the circumstances, and especially bound to the alert and watchful performance of the duty of all travelers on highways to look where they are going. McIlhenney v. Philadelphia, 214 Pa. 44, 63 A. 368. A telephone wire hung so low that when charged with electricity it is dangerous to one who comes in contact with it is not such a danger as to which he assumes the risk in crossing at a place other than a regular crossing. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Howell, 124 Ga. 1050, 53 S. E. 577. A passenger in alighting from a car is not guilty of negligence as a matter of law in failing to look both ways so as to preclude a recovery for injuries received from a collision with an automobile. Question is one of fact under all the circumstances for the jury. Garside v. New York Transp. Co., 146 F. 588. The fact that plaintiff suddenly stepped back to avoid one automobile and was struck by another is not such contributory negligence as to preclude recovery where defendant saw the situation in time to avoid the accident by the exercise of reasonable care. Id.

Drivers: One who drives onto a track in front of an approaching car without looking to see if he can safely do so is guilty of contributory negligence. Daniels v. Bay City Traction & Elec. Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 15, 107 N. W. 94; Brennan v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [N. J. Law] 62 A. 177. One driving on street railroad tracks to pass obstruction in the night held not guilty of contributory negligence for failing to look and listen before driving on tracks. Palmer v. Larchmont Horse R. Co., 112 App. Div. 341, 98 N. Y. S. 567.

Where a child is using a highway it is bound to use only such degree of care as under like conditions would have been exercised by the ordinarily prudent child of his years. Burns v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 740. The presence of a young child in a street unattended is prima facie evidence of the negligence of the child's custodian, but may be rebutted by evidence that the child had evaded the custody of its custodian under such circumstances as to show that the latter was not negligent. Norris v. Anthony [Mass.] 79 N. E. 258. In an action for injury to child from the falling of a pole cut down by a telephone company in a street, an instruction that due care in a child eight years old is such care as its capacity, mental and physical, fits it for exercising in the actual circumstances of the occasion and situation and is determined by the jury; such care as the capacity of the particular child enables it to use naturally and reasonably is what the law requires on the part of the child,—held not error. Stewart v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co., 124 Ga. 224, 52 S. E. 331. A child 5 years old is too young to be charged with contributory negligence. American Tobacco Co. v. Polisco, 104 Va. 777, 52 S. E. 563. The burden of proving contributory negligence is on defendant. Standard Oil Co. v. Hartman, 102 Md. 563, 62 A. 805. Where an injury results in death, the rule with respect to the evidence of freedom from contributory negligence is not so rigid as otherwise. Charters v. Palmer, 98 N. Y. S. 887.

30. Contributory negligence for the jury. Hennessey v. Taylor, 189 Mass. 583, 76 N. E. 224; Minnich v. Wright, 214 Pa. 201, 63 A. 428; Burns v. Worcester Consol. Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 740; Mathers v. Interurban St. R. Co., 112 App. Div. 397, 98 N. Y. S. 433; Charters v. Palmer, 98 N. Y. S. 887. One who is injured by the negligence of the driver of a vehicle can recover though at the time he was violating an ordinance of the city with reference to the use of the streets, where the acts constituting the violation did not contribute to the causing of the injury. Star Brewery Co. v. Houck, 222 Ill. 348, 78 N. E. 827. One who when confronted with imminent danger of collision on a street turns his vehicle to the left instead of to the right in an endeavor to avoid the collision is not as a matter of law guilty of contributory negligence. McFern v. Gardner [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 972.

Whether boy nine years old who in crossing a street was struck by a team was sui juris and capable of being guilty of contributory negligence. Gerber v. Boorstein, 99 N. Y. S. 1091. Whether a twelve year old boy playing ball in the street and injured by principally, as thoroughfares.[31] Hence, though it may permit the maintenance of certain semi-private structures therein which tend to facilitate the public enjoyment of them as highways and interfere but slightly with travel,[32] it has no power to authorize either corporations or individuals to so use them as permanently to exclude the public therefrom,[33] and one cannot claim the right to such use.[34] Public highways must admit of new methods of use whenever it is found that the general benefit requires them.[35] One who buys a building has a common-law right to make a reasonable use of the streets of a city for the purpose of moving it.[36]

The fact that one makes a lawful and temporary use of a street as a place for building material does not deprive others of the right to use it.[37] an automobile was guilty of contributory negligence. Turner v. Hall [N. J. Law] 64 A. 1060.

31. State v. Vandalia [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 1009.

32. Such as electric or cable railways. State v. Vandalia [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 1009. It may authorize coal holes in the walks which interfere but slightly with travel. Id. A city may grant to private persons a license to use its streets for the purpose of holding a carnival therein where such use is temporary and does not materially interfere with their use by the public for purposes of travel. State v. Stoner [Ind.] 79 N. E. 399. The city may allow the abutting owners to use the street in a manner not inconsistent with the use thereof by the public. Thus where the street is occupied by a bridge as an approach to a bridge over tracks, the city may allow the abutting owner to use the space under the bridge for his individual purposes. Adair v. Atlanta, 124 Ga. 288, 52 S. E. 739.

33. Cannot authorize use for purely private purpose. Kuhl v. St. Bernard Rendering & Fertilizing Co. [La.] 41 So. 361; City of Chicago v. Verdon, 119 Ill. App. 494; State v. Vandalia [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 1009. And such an occupancy is none the less a nuisance when sanctioned by the city officials or governing body. Id. City could not authorize laying of waterpipes in street for private use. Van Duyne v. Knox Hat Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 149. The power of a city to grant the right to a railroad to use a street does not carry with it the power to authorize the company to obstruct the street so as to deprive the public and adjacent property owners of its use, even where the fee is in the city. Chicago etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. App. 306; Id., 222 Ill. 427, 78 N. E. 790. A permanent structure in a street may be a purpresture though it does not wholly deprive the public of the use of the street. Id., 120 Ill. App. 306. The power of a city to authorize the placing of obstructions in the street is not absolute but must be exercised for the public welfare, and private structures which are inconsistent with the primary use or which wholly destroy it cannot be licensed. Morie v. St. Louis Transit Co., 116 Mo. App. 12, 91 S. W. 962. A switch placed in the street under a license issued by the city under the power conferred by Rev. St. 1899, § 1187, and Mun. Code 1901, p. 220, on St. Louis to license and regulate railroad tracts in the street is prima facie a lawful occupation of the street and no liability exists for resulting injuries if due diligence is used in the selection and care of the same, unless the inconvenience is so great as to constitute a nuisance. Id. The fact that it is so constructed as to be "liable to catch and hold vehicles" does not of itself show that it is an obstruction which cannot be licensed. Id. Section 3337-1 is a statute penal in its nature and the maxim expressio uniue est exciusio alterius cannot be invoked in order to derive therefrom power vesting in the municipal corporation the right to grant to railroads the exclusive use of the public streets. City of Cincinnati v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 217. But even if the power were lodged by the statutes in the council to grant some use of the city streets to railroads for placing piers, posts, or supports therein, the power could not be abused by council, and if it is abused in such a way as to interfere with the ordinary rights of the public in and to the ordinary use of such streets, a court of equity will interpose by injunction. Id. In Illinois a city council has no power to authorize a railroad to lay its tracks in a public street except on petition of the owners of land representing more than one-half the frontage of the street, where the use of the street by the railroad would be exclusive of the general public. Chicago etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 427, 78 N. E. 790. An ordinance imposing a penalty for hindering or delaying the cars of a street railroad company will be construed to prohibit only an unreasonable hindrance. An abutting owner has a right to make a reasonable use of the street though so doing hinders or delays the cars. Dulaney v. United R. & Elec. Co. [Md.] 65 A. 45. There is an entire absence of power in council under the statutes as they exist today to authorize the erection of any structure, abutment, or support in a public way which will necessarily prevent a joint use by the public of the part so occupied. City of Cincinnati v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 217.

34. On the ground that others are doing the same thing without interference. Could not require city to grant permit to use portion of sidewalk for sale of goods. City of Chicago v. Verdon, 119 Ill. App. 494.

35. McCarter v. Ludlum Steel & Spring Co. [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 761. The use of a steam traction engine for purposes of hauling goods in trailers attached thereto is not per se a nuisance at common-law. Id.

36. Hinman v. Clark, 51 Misc. 252, 100 N. Y. S. 1068.

37. Not trespassers so as to lessen the care which such persons must exercise for

§ 14. Rights of abutters.[38]—An abutting owner may temporarily use a street for private purposes provided he does so in a reasonable manner,[39] but he may not put any part of the street to any such use as will injuriously affect his neighbor.[40] He also has a right of view up and down the street as well as immediately in front of his property.[41] An owner may enjoin a city from in bad faith tearing up a sidewalk which is in good repair, there being no intention to replace it,[42] and the fact that he refuses to pay for a sidewalk in front of his premises does not authorize a city officer to remove it.[43] Ordinarily he has such an interest in shade trees near his property as will entitle him to damages for their unlawful cutting.[44] He may enjoin the unauthorized manner of use of a street by a railway company if his property rights are injured thereby,[45] and also recover damages caused by such use.[46] While a city may take stone from one portion of a street for the purpose of repairing other portions,[47] it cannot do so without compensating an abutting owner who is injured thereby,[48] but abutting owners are not entitled to recover for slight injuries or temporary inconvenience incidental to a duly authorized public improvement.[49] A township in building an embankment to carry a road over a ravine has no right to place any part of the embankment on the land of an adjoining owner.[50] The use of a public road for the purpose of carrying a sewer beyond the limits of their safety. Compty v. Starke Dredge & Dock Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 650.

38. See 5 C. L. 1669.

39. May maintain obstructions in a street incident to the erection or repair of buildings provided he does not unreasonably interfere with the rights of the public to use the street or the rights of adjoining owners. Culbertson v. Alexander [Okl.] 87 P. 863. Whether building material remained in a street an unreasonable length of time and whether reasonable care was exercised to prevent interference with property or business of adjacent owner held questions for the jury under all the circumstances. Id. Evidence that the owner of a carriage repository left a carriage standing in front of his repository and that his brother refused to remove it upon a request of an officer does not show unnecessary obstructing of a street within police regulations of Dist. of Columbia, art. 10, § 14. Probey v. District of Columbia, 26 App. D. C. 1. Evidence held to sustain a finding that defendant lawfully piling lumber in the street did so in a negligent manner. Addls v. Hess, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 505.

40. A sidewalk in a street is a part of the street and an abutting owner has no right to put that part of it which fronts his property to a private use which operates injuriously to the property of his neighbor. Could not maintain stairway landing on line of adjoining lot. Perry v. Castner [Iowa] 107 N. W. 940.

41. First Nat. Bank v. Tyson [Ala.] 39 So. 560.

42. Nichols v. Sadorus, 120 Ill. App. 70.

43. A city officer who acting under direction of the city council removes a sidewalk from in front of plaintiff's premises, which plaintiff had refused to pay for, is guilty of trespass though the fee of the street is in the city. Jordan v. Thorp [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 463, 105 N. W. 1113, citing Rogers v. Randall, 29 Mich. 41.

44. One who plants trees along a street by acquiescence of the city has a sufficient interest in them to entitle him to damages against a telephone company wrongfully cutting them down, though his title does not include any part of the street. Osborne v. Auburn Tel. Co., 111 App. Div. 702, 97 N. Y. S. 874. Shade trees are not necessarily an encroachment, and power to remove encroachments or regulate the planting and protection of shade trees does not authorize the city council to summarily cut them down. Sproul v. Stockton [N. J. Law] 62 A. 275. Even if an abutting owner is entitled to compensation for the cutting of trees in the highway in the construction of a telephone system, his remedy is at law and not for an injunction. Hobbs v. Long Distance Tel. & T. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 1003. A declaration charging that it was the duty of the city and its contractor in digging up the streets for a sewerage system to furnish support to plaintiff's gas pipes laid therein "under competent and legal authority," failing to state facts showing such duty, is demurrable. Millville Gaslight Co. v. Sweeten [N. J. Law] 64 A. 959.

45. Edwards v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co. [Pa.] 64 A. 798.

46. Where a street railroad authorized only to carry passengers uses its tracks for freight traffic, an abutting property owner can recover damages to his property caused by the unauthorized use of the street for freight traffic, and when the use threatens to be permanent, the depreciation in the market value of plaintiff's property is the measure of damages. Rockford & Interurban R. Co. v. Keyt, 117 Ill. App. 32.

47, 48. Graden v. Parkville, 114 Mo. App. 527, 90 S. W. 115.

49. An abutting property owner cannot maintain trespass against a city for injuries to the walk in front of his premises caused by the making of a public improvement, whether the street was created by a common-law or statutory dedication. Nor for temporary interference with ingress or egress. City of Chicago v. Noonan, 121 Ill. App. 185.

50. Schneider v. Brown Tp. [Iowa] 12 Det. Leg. N. 622, 105 N. W. 13.

a city to a watercourse cannot be interfered with by an adjacent owner where the use of the sewer is restricted to surface or storm water.[51] In Massachusetts failure of the highway commission to award damages to landowners injuriously affected by their action is equivalent to an adjudication that there are none.[52]

Ownership of fee.[53]—In most jurisdictions the fee of public streets is in the abutting owners subject only to the public easement,[54] and such owners hold to the center of the street[55] with a reversion on vacation.[56] In Illinois, however, the presumption of law is that the fee of a city street is in the city.[57] In case of a common-law dedication and acceptance the fee remains in the dedicator, but the city may improve and use it for all legitimate purposes as a street.[58] A statutory dedication being insufficient to vest the fee of the streets in a city, the fee is not vested by estoppel on the ground of subsequent conduct.[59] A city has no title to ore underneath a street within the meaning of a statute giving it a fee of the streets.[60] The fact that a railroad company wrongfully supports a bridge upon a street does not give the owner of the fee therein title to the bridge so as to entitle him to rent for its use by the railroad company.[61] If an additional burden is thrown upon the property of an abutting owner by reason of the construction of a railroad, he may recover damages therefor from the company though he does not own the fee of the street,[62] but if he has no title in the street he cannot recover from the city.[63]

51. And its construction has been duly authorized by the city council with the approval of the state board of health and the county commissioners. Whitney v. Toledo, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 577.

52. Under Rev. Laws Mass. c. 47, § 9, it is the duty of the highway commission to take notice of cases in which their action causes damages to landowners and to make assessments of these damages without waiting for an application by the injured party, and its failure to award damages is to be treated as an adjudication that there are none and the party can apply to the court for the assessment of his damages. Hafey v. Com., 189 Mass. 540, 76 N. E. 208.

53. See 5 C. L. 1671.

54. Van Duyne v. Knox Hat Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 149; Adair v. Atlanta, 124 Ga. 288, 52 S. E. 739. The general rule both in England and in this state, is that the fee of the soil of the highway is presumed to belong to the adjoining owners and that a person holding land bounded on a highway between two estates is prima facie the owner to the center of such highway, subject to the easement of the public to the right of way, but such presumption can be rebutted by an express provision in a deed to the effect that the fee to the highway was not intended to be conveyed. Van Winkle v. Van Winkle, 184 N. Y. 193, 77 N. E. 33.

55. The owner of a lot bounded by a street within a recorded plat owns to the center of the street subject to the public easement. Lins v. Seefield, 126 Wis. 610, 105 N. W. 917. Both as to lots bounded by streets and those bounded by public alleys. Johnston v. Lonstorf [Wis.] 107 N. W. 459. The abutting owner in a town or city owns the fee to the center of the street, hence the abutting owner is the owner of a shade tree standing between the walk and roadway and can recover for the destruction thereof by a telephone company where it does not appear that it was necessary to do so to construct the telephone line. Betz v. Kansas City Home Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 207.

56. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111; Dickinson v. Arkansas City Imp. Co. [Ark.] 92 S. W. 21.

57. Rockford & I. R. Co. v. Keyt, 117 Ill. App. 32. Where the owner of land plats the same showing streets and records the same as provided by statute, the fee of the streets becomes vested in the city as trustee for the use of the public. City of Chicago v. Noonan, 121 Ill. App. 185.

58. City of Chicago v. Noonan, 121 Ill. App. 185.

59. Only a common-law dedication can result. City of Leadville v. Coronado Min. Co. [Colo.] 86 P. 1034. That owner used the word "convey" on the plat did not transfer the fee. Id.

60. "Street" within Gen. Laws 1877, c. 100, § 6, includes the surface and such depth as is necessary for street purposes. City of Leadville v. Bohn Min. Co. [Colo.] 86 P. 1038.

61. Coatsworth v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 100 N. Y. S. 504. Where a railroad company under municipal authority constructed a bridge over a street, plaintiff, the fee owner therein, was not entitled to relief unless he suffered substantial damages by the obstruction of his right of way appurtenant to adjoining land. Id.

62. Acker v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 973. Interfering with his ingress. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Greer [Ark.] 96 S. W. 129. In an action by abutting owner to recover damages caused by the construction of a railroad in front of his premises without paying him compensation, as is required by Laws 1897, § 6234, subd. 5, the plaintiff can recover only such damages as are reasonably permanent in their character and such as arise from the proper operation of the road in the usual way. Where plaintiff does not own the fee he cannot recover on account

A use beyond that charged on the street when it was acquired or dedicated is an additional burden.[64]

§ 15. Defective or unsafe streets or highways. A. Liability of municipalities in general.[65]—A municipality is bound to exercise reasonable care to maintain its public highways in a reasonably safe condition for ordinary travel[66] throughout the entire year[67] for infirm as well as strong travelers.[68] This duty extends to all thoroughfares used as public highways and recognized by the municipality as such[69] and to the entire width thereof;[70] and if a municipality wrongfully main-of any interest in the soil. Keyser v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 653, 105 N. W. 143.

63. Acker v. Knoxville [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 973.

64. See Eminent Domain, 7 C. L. 1276.

65. See 5 C. L. 1671.

66. Oklahoma City v. Reed [Okl.] 87 P. 645; Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 52 S. E. 309; Finkle v. Valatie, 99 N. Y. S. 715; Kopper v. Yonkers, 110 App. Div. 747, 97 N. Y. S. 425; Herrington v. Macon, 125 Ga. 58, 54 S. E. 71; City of Louisville v. Romer [Ky.] 97 S. W. 348; Anders v. West Union [Iowa] 108 N. W. 226; City of Gibson v. Murray, 120 Ill. App. 296; City Council of Montgomery v. Reese [Ala.] 40 So. 760; Green v. Council of Newark [Del.] 62 A. 792; Town of Normal v. Bright, 223 Ill. 99, 79 N. E. 90; Eaton v. Weiser [Idaho] 86 P. 541. Liable for injury from charged sagged electric wire across street. Eaton v. Weiser [Idaho] 86 P. 541. And is liable for injuries sustained by reason of failure to do so provided the injured party exercised reasonable and ordinary care to avoid injury. City of Stillwater v. Swisher, 16 Okl. 585, 85 P. 1110. City liable to one who without fault drove into electric wire negligently left in street, though horse had become frightened so as to be beyond control. City of Emporia v. White [Kan.] 86 P. 295. In an action for injuries caused by a defective walk, it is error to charge that if the city had ordered an officer to make repairs it had a right to rest on the presumption that the repairs had been made. Lorf v. Detroit [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 502, 108 N. W. 661. A city which allows another to erect a dangerous structure in a street and after knowledge of its dangerous qualities allows it to remain there it is liable for damages sustained by one injured thereby. Farrell v. Dubuque, 129 Iowa, 447, 105 N. W. 696. Under Code Iowa, § 422, subd. 18, giving to counties power to provide for the erection of bridges and to keep the same in repair, a county is liable for damages resulting from its negligence either in the erection or in failing to repair a bridge. Wilson v. Wapello County, 129 Iowa, 77, 105 N. W. 363.

Only reasonable care required: Where street was properly constructed, city held not liable for accident from cave-in as a team was passing over it after a rain, there being nothing to indicate the defect. Farrell v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 947. The true test of a city's liability for injuries caused by a defective walk is "would a person of ordinary prudence, knowing of the particular defect shown, have repaired the same, believing that, if the same was continued, it was likely to produce injury?" City of Rockwall v. Heath [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 230, 90 S. W. 514. City not liable for injury from slight slagging of planks temporarily placed over opening in sidewalk. City of Rock Island v. Littig, 118 Ill. App. 643. Municipal authorities are not responsible for latent defects in sidewalks which are not observable. They are liable only for the existence of defects which would become known to them in the exercise of reasonable supervision. Murdaugh v. Oxford Borough, 214 Pa. 384, 63 A. 696.

Need only maintain in reasonably safe condition: In an action to recover for injuries caused by an alleged defective walk, an instruction which allows the jury to determine whether or not the walk was in as good a condition as it ought to have been is erroneous, since the municipality is bound only to keep its walks in a reasonably safe condition. Reed v. Tarentum Borough, 213 Pa. 357, 62 A. 928. A city can only be found guilty of negligence where the defect in a street is such that a reasonably prudent man should anticipate some danger to persons passing over it. City of Chicago v. Boston, 117 Ill. App. 430. A street or sidewalk is defective when it is not in a reasonably safe condition for the use for which it is intended. Wheeler v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1057.

For ordinary travel only: County not liable for accident due to wagon being driven on to a bridge with front end of tongue sliding on the ground so that it caught in the planking, it being bound only to keep the highway reasonably safe for ordinary travel. Dignan v. Spokane County [Wash.] 86 P. 649. A city is not required to light its streets so that obstructions of which it had no notice could be seen. No evidence that the lights were not sufficient for ordinary purposes. Hazelrigg v. Frankfort Councilmen [Ky.] 92 S. W. 584. When large crowd attending auction congregate on walk, breaking it down, city not liable. Zipkie v. Chicago, 117 Ill. App. 418.

67. The fact that walks are in such shape as to be safe during the summer but unsafe in winter does not relieve the city if it has notice of the condition. Short v. Spokane, 41 Wash. 257, 83 P. 183.

68. The city is charged with knowledge that the infirm and lame use the streets. Short v. Spokane, 41 Wash. 257, 83 P. 183.

69. Proof that a street or road is used by the public and that the county or city authorities have recognized it as a public street or road by performing work, even though slight, on it, is prima facie proof of its character as a public street or road so as to charge the county or city with liability for its defective condition. Campbell v. Elkins, 58 W. Va. 308, 52 S. E. 220. A municipality is liable for injuries resulting from the de-

tains an obstruction in its highway, thereby compelling the public to use a temporary road over private premises, it will be held liable for injuries resulting from obstructions subsequently placed in the temporary road of which it has notice and of which it fails to warn the public.[71] It is not an insurer of the safe condition of its highways[72] and so is not liable unless negligent,[73] but if the maintenance of a certain condition in a street is negligence in itself, a city cannot defend on the ground that it had no knowledge of any negligence on the part of those in charge.[74] Where a city owns land abutting upon a public highway it is liable, like an individual owner, for injuries to travelers resulting from the maintenance of those things fective condition of a street not formally opened where it is being used by the public with its knowledge. Cady v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 402, 85 P. 19. Where a city extends its boundaries so as to include a part of a state road, which it thereafter allows the public to use, such acts convert it into a city street and the city is liable in damages for an injury sustained by its negligence in allowing the road to become out of repair. Foster v. Kansas City, 114 Mo. App. 728, 90 S. W. 751. Evidence held sufficient to show that the city had undertaken to keep the sidewalk in repair and had thereby invited pedestrians to use it. Dinsmore v. St. Louis, 192 Mo. 255, 91 S. W. 95. In a suit for personal injuries resulting from a fall on a defective board walk located on what is designated in the petition as Sycamore street, to which only a general denial was interposed, the existence of such a street is sufficiently established where it appears from the evidence that the way had long been used as a street and that it was known as Sycamore street, and houses were built upon it, and no evidence was offered and no suggestion made that it had not been accepted, notwithstanding as a matter of fact it was not an accepted and dedicated street. City of Toledo v. Fuller, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 598. Some act of acceptance by the municipality must be shown before it can be held liable for failure to keep in repair a street dedicated to the public use by the owner of the land over which it runs. Downing v. Coatesville Borough, 214 Pa. 291, 63 A. 696. A city is not liable for an injury caused by a defective walk on private property, though it constituted an approach to a public street. City of McCook v. Parsons [Neb.] 108 N. W. 167. The city of New York is charged with the care of streets and sidewalks in front of school property. Plaintiff injured by slipping on ice on the sidewalk in front of school property, which accumulation resulted from a leakage in the water system of the school. Pymm v. New York, 111 App. Div. 330, 97 N. Y. S. 1108.

70. To entire width of street. City Council of Montgomery v. Reese [Ala.] 40 So. 760.

71. That accident happened on private premises, no defense. Finkle v. Valatie, 99 N. Y. S. 715.

72. Village of Lockport v. Licht, 221 Ill. 35, 77 N. E. 581; Carr v. Degnon Contracting Co., 48 Misc. 531, 96 N. Y. S. 277; Martin v. Butte [Mont.] 86 P. 264; Scott v. District of Columbia, 27 App. D. C. 413. Nor is it bound so to construct its streets that accidents cannot happen. White v. Chicago, 120 Ill. App. 307. Whatever the season or whatever the cause which renders them dangerous. Campbell v. New Haven, 78 Conn. 394, 62 A. 665

73. Scott v. District of Columbia, 27 App. D. C. 413. Evidence held insufficient to show that the district was negligent in maintaining the sewer covering upon which plaintiff fell. Id. A village is not liable in allowing a street railroad to excavate in its streets for the purpose of laying tracks unless it permitted the railroad company after notice to do so in an unusual and negligent manner. Village of Lockport v. Licht, 221 Ill. 35, 77 N. E. 581. The fact that excavations for a street railway rendered a roadway on a slant, as a result of which a driver was hit by a barrel rolling on his wagon and seriously injured, is not proof of negligence on the part of the village. Id. City not negligent in allowing accumulation of strip of snow and ice four or five feet wide on outer edge of sidewalk 19 feet wide. Kleyle v. Oswego, 109 App. Div. 330, 95 N. Y. S. 879. In an action to recover damages resulting from plaintiff's horse becoming frightened at an obstruction placed in a city street and by the city allowed to remain there after reasonable notice, it must be alleged not only that plaintiff's horse was ordinarily roadworthy but that the obstruction was one reasonably probable to frighten an ordinarily roadworthy horse, otherwise a mere showing that such a horse was frightened and ran away does not prove negligence in allowing the obstruction to exist. Town of Royal Center v. Bingaman [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 811.

Question for the jury: Whether or not a city has been negligent in allowing a walk constructed partly of glass and alleged to be slippery to be used and remain in such condition. Moynihan v. Holyoke [Mass.] 78 N. E. 742. Whether or not a city was negligent in leaving a flagstone 3½ inches thick on a walk for a long time. Wedderburn v. Detroit [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 319, 108 N. W. 102.

In West Virginia a municipality is liable for an injury caused by a defective street or sidewalk, irrespective of the question of whether the municipality has been guilty of negligence, provided the plaintiff is free from contributory negligence, but a walk is not regarded as defective if it is in such condition that it can be safely used by a person exercising care and prudence. A city is liable for an injury caused by a latent defect which the plaintiff could not have discovered by the use of ordinary care. Campbell v. Elkins, 58 W. Va. 308, 52 S. E. 220.

74. City held negligent in maintaining large opening on much traveled sidewalk covered by iron doors so that to open them at all was a constant menace to pedestrians. Hayes v. Seattle [Wash.] 86 P. 852.

upon the property which are likely to render travel upon the highway unsafe.[75] If danger to a traveler is not in the nature of an obstruction but proceeds from the negligence of a third person using the highway for a purpose authorized by law, a municipality should not be held liable unless it has notice thereof or the condition is apparent or the danger obvious.[76] Where street improvement is being done under the general supervision and control of city officials, the city is liable for injuries resulting from an unsafe temporary crossing,[77] but if a city is deprived of control over a street pending the prosecution of works therein under legislative authority, it cannot be held liable for injuries resulting therefrom.[78] A statute which merely gives the taxpayers an opportunity to repair roads if they so desire does not relieve a municipality from liability for failure to repair.[79] In New York towns are not liable for damages resulting from the breaking of a bridge by a vehicle and load together weighing four tons or more.[80]

Though the law authorizes the construction of electric light lines, power lines, telephone lines, and similar structures along streets and highways, this does not relieve a municipality from its duty to see that the streets and highways are kept reasonably safe and secure for the persons using them.[81] Principally the duty of a municipality is to see that its streets and highways are kept safe and secure for passage over the surface,[82] and it must therefore always be alert to prevent or guard obstructions.[83] But the obligation of the municipality is not coextensive with that of the company which maintains the line.[84] The company is primarily liable for its negligent or defective condition in these respects and should be solely so unless in cases of obvious danger or exceptional circumstances.[85]

(§ 15) B. Notice of defect.[86]—As a general rule a municipality is not liable for damages occasioned by defective streets or sidewalks until after notice to it,[87]

75. Failure to guard highway near artificial lake. City Council of Augusta v. Dozier [Ga.] 55 S. E. 234.

76. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116.

77. Barker v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 765, 109 N. W. 427.

78. Under Rapid Transit Act § 34 (Laws 1891, p. 18, c. 4, as amended by Laws 1896, p. 719, c. 729), authorizing the board of rapid transit commissioners to enter into a contract for the construction of a road in cities of over 1,000,000 inhabitants, a city is not liable for injuries from an explosion of dynamite kept in a street in pursuance of such a contract. Carpenter v. New York, 101 N. Y. S. 402.

79. Act June 12, 1893, did not relieve township of obligation to repair bridge. Wagner v. Hazle Tp. [Pa.] 64 A. 405.

80. Under Highway Law, Laws 1890, p. 1205, c. 568, § 154, the weight of the front wheels of a buckboard fastened to a stone wagon by a chain and on a bridge when it fell must be considered in determining the weight transported. Kelly v. Saugerties, 110 App. Div. 561, 97 N. Y. S. 177. Evidence held to show load more than four tons in welght. Id.

81, 82, 83. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116.

84. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116. A municipality may well be held to the same degree of responsibility with regard to electric light poles, telephone poles, and the like, that is imposed upon it with reference to awnings, gratings, and similar incumbrances on the street, and so, also, as to fallen or hanging wires obstructing the street and likely to strike or come in contact with the traveler. Id. To go further, however, and impose upon a municipality the duty of inspecting the insulation of the wires, the position in which they are strung, and similar matters involving technical knowledge unless in the case of an obvious danger or exceptional occurrence, would place upon it a very onerous and unfair burden. Id. Held error to place duty of inspection on municipality. Id.

85. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116. See Electricity, 7 C. L. 1258; Telegraphs and Telephones, 6 C. L. 1665.

86. See 5 C. L. 1674.

87. Demurrer should be sustained to petition for damages from defective sidewalk where it fails to state that city had notice of the defect prior to injury. City of La Harpe v. Greer [Kan.] 85 P. 1015. Since a city is only responsible for a negligent breach of duty, it is not enough to show a defect and injury. It must be further shown that the officers knew or by reasonable diligence might have known of the defect, and that the character of the defect was such that injuries to travelers therefrom might reasonably be anticipated. Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 52 S. E. 309. Where the dangerous character of an obstruction on the sidewalk is the gravamen of a petition for damages on account of injuries sustained in walking thereon, the testimony must establish that the city had notice actual or constructive of the dangerous condition of the either actual or constructive,[88] of the defects complained of, but where a city issues a permit to do an act which may render the street unsafe, it is charged with the absolute duty to see that it is kept in a safe condition.[89] Ordinarily the question of notice is for the jury.[90] To charge a city with notice a defect must be of such a character as would be apparent by ordinary inspection.[91]

(§ 15) C. Sidewalks.[92]—Sidewalks like other portions of a street must be kept reasonably safe,[93] and in the case of plank walks ordinary diligence requires walk in time to remedy it, and that the obstruction was one it was the city's duty to remove, and having received such notice, it failed to remove it. Schneider v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 57. Evidence that a trench was dug in a city walk pursuant to permit issued by city officers at a place four or five squares from city hall held sufficient to sustain a presumption that the officers having charge of the streets had notice of it in time to erect or have barriers erected around it by evening. Bennett v. Everett, 191 Mass. 364, 77 N. E. 886. Evidence that the superintendent of works had been told by R. a week before an accident that the latter had just fallen on the sidewalk and that its condition was worse than at a certain other place held insufficient to show actual notice that the sidewalk was obstructed with snow and ice as required by the charter of Oswego. Kleyle v. Oswego, 109 App. Div. 330, 95 N. Y. S. 879. Notice of a defect given to a street commissioner whose duty it is to repair walks under the direction of the city council is notice to the municipality, though the statute does not expressly make it the duty of the commissioner to communicate to the council notice of defects which come to his knowledge. Weitzel v. Fowler [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 90, 107 N. W. 451. In an action to recover for injuries caused by an obstruction of a public street not placed there by the city or for its use or by its permission or authority, the plaintiff must allege and prove that the city had reasonably sufficient notice of the dangerous condition of the street to have removed the obstruction. Town of Royal Center v. Bingaman [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 811.

88. A municipality is chargeable with notice where a defect has existed for such a length of time that by the exercise of reasonable diligence it could have been discovered in time for repair. City of Bowling Green v. Duncan, 28 Ky. L. R. 1177, 91 S. W. 268; Pfeffer v. Cedar Rapids [Iowa] 108 N. W. 313; York v. Everton [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 604; Central City v. Morquis [Neb.] 106 N. W. 221; Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 52 S. E. 309; Short v. Spokane, 41 Wash. 257, 83 P. 183; Johnson v. Fargo [N. D.] 108 N. W. 243. Evidence held not to show that defect in sidewalk had existed so long that village was chargeable with notice thereof. Benjamin v. Tupper Lake, 110 App. Div. 426, 97 N. Y. S. 512. To charge a borough with constructive notice of an obstruction. Munley v. Sugar Notch Borough [Pa.] 64 A. 377. In an action to recover for injuries sustained by reason of a defective walk, evidence is admissible to the effect that it had been out of repair for several months as showing constructive notice to the city. Ness v. Escanaba [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 753, 105 N. W. 879. To charge the city with constructive notice it is not necessary that all people who passed should have seen the defective condition. It is sufficient if it is such that it would be noticeable to those who consciously looked at it. Goff v. Philadelphia, 214 Pa. 172, 63 A. 431. The existence of a pile of rock in the street for three hours held not to charge the city with notice of the obstruction. Hazelrigg v. Frankfort Councilmen [Ky.] 92 S. W. 584. An instruction that it would be negligence for a city to allow a defect to exist for an unreasonable time and that if it had existed for 10 days it would be an unreasonable time held not erroneous. Brown v. Durham [N. C.] 53 S. E. 513. A city is bound to inspect the sidewalks and its duty is not fulfilled by taking such notice of their condition as an ordinary person in walking over the same would take. Short v. Spokane, 41 Wash. 257, 83 P. 183. Constructive notice cannot be based upon temporary conditions of recent operation. Schneider v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 57.

89. Held liable without regard to notice for injuries received from a defective temporary bridge where it issued a permit to an abutter to excavate under the sidewalk, thus necessitating the bridge. Parks v. New York, 111 App. Div. 836, 98 N. Y. S. 94.

90. Question of constructive notice. Brewster v. Elizabeth City [N. C.] 54 S. E. 784. Where depression in a walk had existed six or seven days. Goff v. Philadelphia, 214 Pa. 172, 63 A. 431; Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 52 S. E. 309. An instruction that fixes any time during the existence of which the defect existed as charging the city with constructive notice is erroneous. Hendershott v. Grand Rapids [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 666, 105 N. W. 140. Of actual notice. Parks v. New York, 111 App. Div. 836, 98 N. Y. S. 94. Where a condition has existed for a long time it may be said as a matter of law that the city had notice of it. In case of doubt it is a proper question to submit to the jury. Johnson v. Fargo [N. D.] 108 N. W. 243.

91. City of Omaha v. Kochem [Neb.] 105 N. W. 182. A city is not required to search for defects in its walks where it has no reason to believe that defects exist, nor is it charged with notice of a latent defect because of the existence of an obvious defect in the same walk which did not contribute to the injury. Id.

92. See 5 C. L. 1675. For responsibility of abutting owners or others for unsafe condition of sidewalks see post, Defects Created or Permitted by Abutting Owners and Others.

93. The maintenance of a spike in the sidewalk two inches high is a nuisance. Wile v. Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Cal. App.] 83 P. 271. Evidence that by reason a city to make examinations with reasonable frequency in order to detect defects due to natural decay.[94] The fact that one occupies as a tenant premises abutting on a sidewalk does not relieve the city from liability for injuries to him caused by defects in the walk not due to any act on his part.[95] A statute exempting a city from liability for injuries caused by a defective sidewalk, as to injuries sustained after its passage, is not unconstitutional as taking property without due process of law.[96]

(§ 15) D. Barriers, railings, and signals.[97]—It is the duty of a city to exercise reasonable care to maintain proper guards or signs near dangerous places in its streets[98] where such guards are reasonably necessary,[99] and if a city maintains a dangerous place near a highway on land owned by it, it is bound to properly guard the highway;[1] but a municipality need not so barricade a place as to en-of light coating of snow plaintiff slipped on a sloping stone in sidewalk and stumbled against next stone elevated about half an inch held insufficient to show negligence in maintenance of sidewalk. Rodrigues v. Ossining, 111 App. Div. 297, 97 N. Y. S. 742. Evidence as to character of defect in sidewalk held to warrant verdict in favor of injured pedestrian. Harris v. Mt. Vernon, 41 Wash. 444, 83 P. 1023. A city is not negligent in permitting a depression of 1⅞ inches in the center of a 10 foot cement sidewalk. Bennett v. St. Joseph [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 794, 109 N. W. 604. Where, in the sidewalk of a public and much traveled street, one flagstone rests upon another and is raised three inches above the walk, it constitutes such a dangerous condition on a dark night as to warrant a recovery on behalf of a person who stumbles and falls over the same receiving serious injury. Mullins v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 183 N. Y. 129, 75 N. E. 1112. Evidence insufficient to show that sidewalk was uneven and that nails were sticking up so as to cause plaintiff's injury. City of East Dubuque v. Brugger, 118 Ill. App. 421. In action for injuries from falling on defective sidewalk, evidence held to show that entire flagging had been removed so that there was no defect from which an injury could have occurred. Henry v. New York, 97 N. Y. S. 89. Verdict for plaintiff for injuries from defective sidewalk held against the weight of the evidence. Benjamin v. Tupper Lake, 110 App. Div. 426, 97 N. Y. S. 512. In action for injuries from defective sidewalk evidence of numerous prior accidents caused by the defect held to require submission of case to jury. Corson v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 921. The District of Columbia as a municipality is liable for injuries to a pedestrian arising from the unsafe condition of a walk leading from the front door of a dwelling house through a parking to the sidewalk, in the absence of contributory negligence. Dotey v. District of Columbia, 26 App. D. C. 232.

94. Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 52 S. E. 309.

95. Hendershott v. Grand Rapids [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 666, 105 N. W. 140.

96. Williams v. Galveston [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 178, 90 S. W. 505.

97. See 5 C. L. 1676.

98. A city is liable for injuries resulting from a negligent failure to properly guard and light an excavation in the street. Lindsay v. Kansas City, 195 Mo. 166, 93 S. W. 273. Evidence held to show that it was so dark at the time plaintiff was injured that it was negligence for the city to leave a ditch in a street unguarded. City of Rock Island v. Gingles, 118 Ill. App. 410. Petition for damages from falling into unguarded and unlighted ditch held sufficient against general demurrer. City of Iola v. Farmer, 72 Kan. 629, 84 P. 386. If a city negligently permits obstructions or excavations in one of its public sidewalks to remain after actual notice, or being charged with notice thereof, without proper guard or other protection, it is liable for a resulting injury, unless the injured person is prevented by reason of his own negligence. Herrington v. Macon, 125 Ga. 58, 54 S. E. 71. A city is bound to erect barriers and place lights around an unprotected trench in a public street of the existence of which it has notice, and if it chooses to rely on the person digging the trench doing so, it is liable for his failure to place them. Bennett v. Everett, 191 Mass. 364, 77 N. E. 886. In an action for personal injuries received by being precipitated into an excavation in the street, evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that the excavation was not guarded by lights or barriers. Lindsay v. Kansas City, 195 Mo. 166, 93 S. W. 273.

99. A city is bound to maintain railings or barriers on the side of roads where the road or walk runs along a precipitous declivity or deep water or other unusually hazardous places, where reasonable care requires the maintenance of such railings or barriers. Cutting v. Shelburne [Mass.] 78 N. E. 752. Where municipal authorities in the reasonable exercise of their discretion believe guards unnecessary, no liability exists for injuries resulting from their absence. Evidence held sufficient to support the finding of the jury that failure to erect guards on the brink of a precipice some 20 or 30 feet deep could not be due to a reasonable belief that they were unnecessary. City of Paducah v. Johnson [Ky.] 93 S. W. 1035. Under Laws 1893, c. 59, § 1, a municipality is not liable for failure to maintain a railing on the side of steps in a street leading from the grade of one of two intersecting streets to the grade of another, where such railing is not necessary to protect pedestrians from a dangerous embankment, but which if it existed would be useful only as a hand rail to prevent slipping on snow or tirely preclude injury,[2] a plain warning of danger being sufficient,[3] nor is it bound to protect one who leaves the highway for a private purpose at a place where it could not reasonably anticipate that one would wander off.[4] Where a city permits an owner to place building material in a street, it is not liable for failure to guard the place until after notice of the owner's failure to do so.[5]

(§ 15) E. Snow and ice.[6]—Municipalities are not liable for damages resulting from smooth and even natural accumulations of ice and snow on sidewalks.[7] Liability attaches only when such snow and ice are allowed to remain until by various causes the surface becomes rough, rounded, or slanting so as to render it unsafe for the ordinary traveler.[8] In such case the city is liable,[9] even though abutting owners may also be liable.[10] A city must so construct its walks as not to render them unusually unsafe when covered with ice or snow,[11] and the grade of a street being steep, an increased duty is imposed upon a city to prevent accumulations of ice or snow on its walks.[12] A charter provision relieving a municipality from liability for injuries resulting from ice and snow upon the streets and sidewalks, except where it had "written notice" of such accumulation and is thereafter negligent, is void.[13] In the case of artificial accumulations a city is liable for injuries ice which might accumulate on the steps. Wentworth v. Pittsfield, 73 N. H. 358, 62 A. 218.

Question of necessity for the jury: McMahon v. Boston, 190 Mass. 388, 76 N. E. 957. In an action to recover for injuries caused by plaintiff's driving into a trench in a street at night, it is for the jury to say whether or not it was negligent for the city to not put both lights at and barriers around the excavation. It cannot be said as a matter of law that it was its duty to do both, nor that the placing of lights alone was due care. Keithley v. Independence [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 733. Question of city's negligence in failing to erect barriers to prevent children from falling from the sidewalk into a pool of water impregnated with acid. Weida v. Hanover Tp., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 424.

1. City liable for failure to guard highway near an artificial lake maintained on its land near highway. City Council of Augusta v. Dozier [Ga.] 55 S. E. 234.

2. Karrer v. Detroit [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 765, 106 N. W. 64. A trench dug transversely across a sidewalk is a defect, though dug with permission of defendant city, but the city would not be liable therefor if it used proper care to protect the public by barriers. Bennett v. Everett, 191 Mass. 364, 77 N. E. 886.

3. Karrer v. Detroit [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 765, 106 N. W. 64.

4. Rev. St. Ohio § 4941-1 et seq., requiring counties to construct guard rails on all bridges, approaches, etc., imposes no liability in case above stated. Schimberg v. Cutler [C. C. A.] 142 F. 701.

5. A permit by a city to use part of a street for the placing therein of building material for use in the construction of a building on adjoining property is the mere regulation of a right of the property owner to make such use thereof and is not a license to do an act which would be unlawful but for such license, and the city is not charged with seeing that the place is guarded by barriers and lights and is liable for damages only in case it is negligent in having the obstruction guarded after notice express or implied of the owner's failure to do so. City of Columbus v. Penrod [Ohio] 76 N. E. 826.

6. See 5 C. L. 1677.

7. Evans v. Concordia [Kan.] 85 P. 813. Though slippery because of smooth surface. Tobin v. Waterloo [Iowa] 107 N. W. 1031. Where condition due solely to actions of elements. City of Norwalk v. Tuttle [Ohio] 76 N. E. 617. Mere slipperiness of a sidewalk from ice or snow does not render a city liable, there being no obstruction. City of East Dubuque v. Brugger, 118 Ill. App. 421.

8. Tobin v. Waterloo [Iowa] 107 N. W. 1031.

9. Evidence sufficient to show that accident was occasioned by a ridge of ice negligently maintained by the city on a sidewalk and not by snow for which city was not responsible. Kopper v. Yonkers, 110 App. Div. 747, 97 N. Y. S. 425. In an action to recover for injuries caused by falling on a walk which it is alleged was defective because of the accumulation of rough and uneven snow and ice, where the evidence showed that at least a part of the walk was not rough but merely slippery, the burden was on plaintiff to show that he fell on the part of the walk where the snow and ice were uneven and because thereof. Tobin v. Waterloo [Iowa] 107 N. W. 1031. Charge that city was obliged to keep its streets in safe condition held not erroneous in view of charge that jury should determine whether ice on sidewalk had remained so long that city should have known of it, that nothing unreasonable was required of city and that jury should consider sudden changes of weather. Kopper v. Yonkers, 110 App. Div. 747, 97 N. Y. S. 425.

10. Bucher v. Sunbury Borough [Pa.] 64 A. 906.

11. Cross walk improperly constructed. Heether v. Huntsville [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 239.

12. Kopper v. Yonkers, 110 App. Div. 747, 97 N. Y. S. 425.

13. Section 30 of the charter of the city of resulting if it negligently maintains them on its sidewalks.[14] The question whether a municipality was negligent in not removing the snow and ice is generally one for the jury.[15]

(§ 15) F. Defects created or permitted by abutting owners and others.[16]—If a city permits the maintenance of a nuisance in a street it is liable for injuries caused thereby.[17] The fact that a city licenses the lawful digging of a trench in a street does not render it liable for negligence on the part of the contractor of the licensee.[18] Though a city may render itself liable for injuries resulting from negligence on its part in not properly barricading holes or excavations allowed by it to remain on private property so near a sidewalk as to render the use of the highway dangerous to travelers,[19] it owes no duty to the public with reference to the condition of a private drain beneath the surface of the earth on adjoining land,[20] neither is it liable for injuries caused by obstructions on private property near sidewalks over which it has no control.[21] A city is not liable for allowing a sign to be suspended over a sidewalk in violation of an ordinance where the sign is not a nuisance in itself but injury results solely from the negligence of another.[22] A statute granting to a gas company the right to lay pipes in public highways does not relieve the township from the duty of keeping the highways in safe condition.[23] An abutting owner is liable for negligent acts making a street or highway unsafe,[24]

Middletown (Laws 1902, p. 1367) held void under the 14th amend. to the Federal Const MacMullen v. Middletown, 112 App. Div. 81, 98 N. Y. S. 145.

14. Maintenance by city during summer and fall months of leaky hydrant forming pool on sidewalk, convertible into ice, held negligence. Walsh v. New York, 109 App. Div. 541, 96 N. Y. S. 540.

15. Barry v. Akron, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 575. Where the testimony goes to show that a plaintiff was injured by a fall in the nighttime upon a sidewalk on which ice had accumulated, and that the condition was peculiar to this place in the sidewalk and not general throughout the city, and that the city, through its officers, had knowledge of the condition of the walk while he was ignorant of its condition, a case is presented for the jury. Id.

16. See 5 C. L. 1678.

17. The public right goes to the width of the street and extends indefinitely upward. A wire stretched over a street on which an acrobat is to perform is a nuisance and the city is liable to one on whom the acrobat falls. Wheeler v. Ft. Dodge [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1057.

18. City which granted permit for the digging of trench for making of a sewer connection not liable for injury caused by contractor's failure to guard the trench. Levenite v. Lancaster [Pa.] 64 A. 782.

19. Hoffman v. Maysville [Ky.] 97 S. W. 360.

20. And is not liable to one who falls into it by reason of the board covering thereof breaking through and injuring plaintiff. Hoffman v. Maysville [Ky.] 97 S. W. 360.

21. Not where bill board was blown against pedestrian. Temby v. Ishpeming [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 667, 108 N. W. 1114.

22. Where sign fell solely because of negligence of one who attempted to lower it for change of words thereon. Loth v. Columbia Theatre Co., 197 Mo. 328, 94 S. W. 847.

23. Act of May 29, 1885 (P. L. 29). Township authorities liable for negligence in allowing a dangerous obstruction caused by the laying of such pipes to exist. Lamb v. Pike Tp. [Pa.] 64 A. 671.

24. Question of negligence for the jury in action for defective walk. Towner v. Public Ledger Co. [Pa.] 64 A. 787. If defendant piled up snow on any part of the walk in such an accumulated mass as essentially to interfere with travel thereon, or, by means of the operation of natural causes which he ought to have foreseen, to create danger by its melting and freezing, plaintiff could maintain an action against him for personal injury caused by such conduct. Dahlin v. Walsh [Mass.] 77 N. E. 830. One who allows water to flow from his property onto a public road where it freezes and becomes dangerous to persons using the road is guilty of maintaining a nuisance. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Com. [Ky.] 96 S. W. 467. An abutting owner who places any object calculated to frighten horses in proximity to the highway and allows it to stay there an unreasonable length of time is guilty of maintaining a nuisance and is liable to one who is injured by his horse becoming frightened thereby. Horr v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 776. Where a city ordinance prohibits the placing of a sign above a street or projecting from the side of a building into the street, the council cannot by resolution grant to a person a permit to place a sign in violation of the ordinance. One who unlawfully maintains such a sign is liable to one who is injured by its falling irrespective of whether he has been negligent in putting it up. Hearst's Chicago American v. Spiss, 117 Ill. App 436. Where an owner of a building in process of erection caused a temporary shed to be built over the sidewalk, in accordance with his building permit, the falling of the roof of the shed raises a presumption of negligence of the owner. Scheller v. Sibermintz, 98 N. Y. S. 230. Where the roof fell and where a duty is imposed by ordinance or license,[25] or a defect results directly from the act done, it is not a defense that the work was performed by an independent contractor.[26] He is bound only to exercise ordinary care to maintain his property in such condition as will prevent injury to travelers,[27] and the rule that one creating a dangerous condition on his own property, but so near a sidewalk as to imperil pedestrians, must exercise commensurate care, has no application to a case where a pedestrian deliberately leaves the walk and trespasses upon private property.[28] A sign attached to a building and extending over the sidewalk is not necessarily a nuisance though there is no ordinance authorizing it.[29] A city charter making it the duty of abutting owners to keep sidewalks in repair or pay the expense incurred by the municipality in doing so does not impliedly make such owners or occupants liable to pedestrians for injuries occasioned by the walks being out of repair.[30] An abutting owner whose premises are in the possession of a ten-after its completion the principle of delegating work to an independent contractor had no application. Id. Where a person who owns and occupies a building permits a perforated covering over a coal vault, constructed under a sidewalk in a municipality, and maintained for his own benefit, to remain unfastened below, and it can be easily displaced by lifting it from the rim in which it is placed either by inadvertence or design, and it is so displaced, and a footman lawfully walking upon the sidewalk after dark steps upon the covering after it is displaced, which tilts and throws him into the coal hole, thereby seriously injuring him, held that such owner is guilty of negligence, although such covering would not be displaced by ordinary travel over it, and that such negligence is the proximate cause of the injury. First Nat. Bank v. Gillen, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 33. In an action for injuries to one tripped by a spike in a plank on the sidewalk to admit the approach of teams to defendant's building it will be presumed that the driveway belongs to defendant and that the plank and spike are maintained by him with knowledge. Wile v. Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Cal. App.] 83 P. 271. And the question whether the testimony of defendant's manager and two or three employes that they did not place the boards there and did not know who placed them there is one for the court in the first instance. Id. A city ordinance authorizing planks to be placed on the sidewalks to create a driveway to a building being constructed is no defense to one negligently permitting a spike to project, resulting in injury. Id.

25. No defense that sign was erected by independent contractor contrary to ordinance. Hearst's Chicago American v. Spiss, 117 Ill. App. 436. The duty of an owner of a building to use reasonable care in erecting and maintaining a reasonably safe temporary shed over the sidewalk, in compliance with the requirements of a building permit, cannot be evaded by the employment of an independent contractor. Scheller v. Silbermintz, 98 N. Y. S. 230.

26. An abutting owner who employs an electric sign company to lower periodically an electric sign which extends over the street and changes the words thereon is liable to one injured by the falling of the sign because of the negligence of the employes of the contractor. Loth v. Columbia Theatre Co., 197 Mo. 328, 94 S. W. 847. The owner of a building in the course of construction is liable for injuries from planks negligently placed on the sidewalk by his independent contractor for a driveway, if his manager knew or ought to have known of the fact. Wile v. Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Co. [Cal. App.] 83 P. 271. Question whether defendant's agents in the exercise of ordinary care ought to have known of the spike, held for the jury under the facts. Id. While an abutting owner is not bound to keep the sidewalk in repair unless by virtue of statutory requirements, and is not responsible to travelers for defects therein not caused by himself (Mullins v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 183 N. Y. 129, 75 N. E. 1112), yet if he employs others to work for him and the work itself creates a dangerous condition or injury, he is liable in damages, though the actual doing of the work was intrusted to independent contractors (Id.). Abutting owner held liable where flagging in sidewalk was disturbed and displaced by reason of heavily laden wagons and trucks belonging to an independent contractor doing work on the premises passing over the same. Id.

27. Presumption of negligence from the falling of a piece of stone out of a window sill above sidewalk held rebutted by defendant's evidence that no crack had been seen, etc. Papazian v. Baumgartner, 49 Misc. 244, 97 N. Y. S. 399. A property owner who has a lawful right to expose an object on or along a public highway, within view of passing horses for a temporary purpose, is bound only to take care that it shall not be calculated to frighten an ordinarily gentle and well trained horse. Town of Royal Center v. Bingaman [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 811.

28. Johnson v. Paducah Laundry Co. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 330.

29. Where attached at such height as not to interfere with use of highway by public and perfectly safe in its structure. Loth v. Columbia Theatre Co., 197 Mo. 328, 94 S. W. 847. An ordinance prohibiting the erection of a sign which shall extend more than a certain distance out from the building line and over the sidewalk does not authorize a sign which does not exceed the prescribed distance, and a priori has no application to one which extends beyond the distance so specified. Id.

ant is not liable for failure to repair a sidewalk without proof of obligation to repair and notice of the necessity therefor,[31] and a tenant of premises abutting on a sidewalk owes no duty to a pedestrian to keep the walk clear of ice and snow coming thereon from natural causes or to guard against the risk of accident by scattering ashes or using any other like precautions.[32] Corporations or individuals using a street or highway for building operations or the making of other improvements are required to use reasonable care[33] to prevent injuries to the public,[34] and to this end must erect and maintain proper signs and guards near dangerous places when such are reasonably necessary.[35] While a street railway company is charged with

30. Hay v. Baraboo, 127 Wis. 1, 105 N. W. 654. Under Rev. St. Wis. 1898, § 1339, and the charter of the city of Baraboo, an abutting owner is not liable for injuries caused by a sidewalk which has become out of repair. For injuries resulting from the active wrongdoing of the abutting owner, he is primarily and the city only secondarily liable. Id.

31. Chroust v. Acme Bldg. & Loan Ass'n 214 Pa. 179, 63 A. 595.

32. Whether or not any public duty was imposed on him by ordinance. Dahlin v. Walsh [Mass.] 77 N. E. 830.

33. A telephone company or any other person lawfully doing work in a street is not guilty of negligence in failing to provide against improbable dangers. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Clark's Adm'r [Va.] 52 S. E. 1010. A contractor who improves a street for a city is not required to exercise any greater care for the safety of travelers than that required of the city itself. Carr v. Degnon Contracting Co., 48 Misc. 531, 96 N. Y. S. 277. Contractor engaged in public work and lawfully replacing sidewalk with temporary planks held as a matter of law not negligent in leaving a plank projecting only one and one-half inches above general level of walk against which pedestrian stumbled. Id. That a company placed planking four inches thick over a hole which it had lawfully made in the pavement at some distance from the place where pedestrians usually crossed and at a point where there was heavy traffic, the street being well lighted, did not render it liable to one who stubbed her toe against the planking. Derby v. Degnon-McLean Contracting Co., 112 App. Div. 324, 98 N. Y. S. 592. When a contractor completes and covers up excavations in a street as required by the contract, his obligation to the public with respect to keeping the covers in position is no greater than that of any other member of the community, even though his work as a whole has not yet been accepted by the municipality. Handy v. Barber Asphalt Co., 117 La. 637, 42 So. 193.

34. Irrespective of ordinance, when a street railway takes possession of a portion of a street for the purpose of building and operating its line, it necessarily assumes a duty to the public to keep in a safe condition the part of the street occupied. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. The fact that the city engineer is overlooking work done by a street railway in a public street in repair of its tracks does not relieve the railway of the duty to keep such part of the street in a safe condition. Id. An allegation that a telephone company while engaged in stretching a wire along a public street permitted it to sag while charged with electricity, or to become heavily charged with electricity while thus sagging, at a place where it was likely to injure pedestrians, and gave no warning of the danger arising from the electricity, states facts showing negligence of the company. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co. v. Howell, 124 Ga. 1050, 53 S. E. 577. Contractor held liable for negligence of its employes in either displacing the lid of a drain pool in a sidewalk or covering it with sand after it had been displaced by others, where pedestrian was injured by falling into the pool. Handy v. Barber Asphalt Co., 117 La. 637, 42 So. 193. Building material placed in portion of street not covered by a permit held to constitute a nuisance. Mulvey v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 1114.

35. One who has contracted with a city to do certain work requiring excavating in the streets is under obligation to the city and the public to barricade the excavations so as to prevent persons using the highway from falling into the excavations, and is primarily liable for an injury so caused, and the city by giving the contractor notice can require him to defend the action. If not so notified and a recovery was had against the city it could recover over against the contractor, but in such case the judgment against the city would not be conclusive against the contractor. Fleming v. Anderson [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 266. Defendant held guilty of actionable negligence for maintaining only a single light at night near trenches dug by him in a street where plaintiff was injured. Carty v. Boeseke-Dawe Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 267. Street railway held liable for death of one who drove into unguarded excavation at night. Evarts v. Santa Barbara Consol. R. Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 830. That a street railway is required by ordinance to keep in repair that part of a street over which its track passes does not make it less liable for negligence in leaving an excavation made by it in such street without the usual safeguards. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. One lawfully placing building material in the street must use reasonable diligence in providing warning signals during darkness. Christman v. Meierhoffer, 116 Mo. App. 46, 92 S. W. 141. Not excused by the fact that the city usually lighted its streets early enough to disclose the obstruction. Id. The Boonville ordinance authorizing the piling of building material in the streets by one constructing any "new building or in the removal, repair or alteration of any building" upon obtaining the duty of knowing the condition of the highway along its right of way and the probable necessity of vehicles going onto the track,[36] a railroad company obligated to repair a crossway in a street when requested to do so by the common council cannot be held liable for injuries to pedestrians arising from disrepair until after it has been called upon to repair.[37] A telephone company is liable for injuries resulting from the negligent obstruction of a street or highway with its poles and wires.[38] Persons who use a street or sidewalk for other private purposes are charged with care commensurate with the danger to travelers incident thereto.[39] Persons placing obstructions on the sidewalk must have regard for the instincts of children to play therewith.[40] One who negligently places an explosive in a street is liable for resulting injuries.[41]

(§ 15) G. Persons entitled to protection.[42]—Children playing in a street are not trespassers precluded from recovering for injuries.[43] Whether an animal loose upon a highway is a "traveler" within the Vermont statute or an estray depends upon whether it is there through the negligence of the owner.[44]

(§ 15) H. Remote and proximate cause of injury.[45]—The general principle of proximate cause is applicable to cases of defective highways.[46] The cause of an injury is for the jury on conflicting evidence.[47]

a permit and requiring an artificial light to be placed thereon at night is applicable to the construction of a sidewalk. Id. An abutting lot owner erecting a retaining wall to retain a road grade, if done with the consent of the county commissioners, is under no obligation to construct a guard rail. If one is necessary, the duty rests upon the county. Schimberg v. Cutler [C. C. A.] 142 F. 701.

36. Poles with red lights projecting onto the highway on a dark night. Palmer v. Larchmont Horse R. Co., 112 App. Div. 341, 98 N. Y. S. 567.

37. Ross v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 104 App. Div. 378, 93 N. Y. S. 679.

38. Louisville Home Tel. Co. v. Gasper [Ky.] 93 S. W. 1057. The anchoring of a guy wire of a telephone pole to a block of wood 18 inches within the side line of a public alley constitutes negligence, especially where the wire is of the same color as the wall and therefore almost indiscernible. Id.

39. Evidence sufficient to show negligence on part of defendant in leaving a coal hole in a sidewalk uncovered. Manney v. Curtiss, 99 N. Y. S. 288. One who has control of a sidewalk for a temporary use must maintain it in a reasonably safe condition during such use. Building operations. Lubelsky v. Silverman, 49 Misc. 133, 96 N. Y. S. 1056. Could not delegate duty to independent contractor. Id. One engaged in opening a trap door under a public sidewalk is required to use the greatest care to prevent injury to persons lawfully passing on the walk. Bowley v. Mangrum [Cal. App.] 84 P. 996. Evidence held to justify finding that operator of trap door elevator under a sidewalk was negligent in mistaking plaintiff's step on the trap door for the signal of his assistant to start, or that he was negligent in using the "tap of the foot" as a signal for which a pedestrian's step might readily be mistaken. Id. Held proper to refuse to charge that defendant could not be presumed negligent from the happening of the accident. Id. Gas company maintaining a gas plug projecting over four inches above traveled portion of street held liable for injury sustained by one who drove against the plug. Perry v. People's Gas Light Co., 119 Ill. App. 389. Where gas company had bought the plug as a part of the general plant and had maintained it in its place a long time, it was no defense that it had never been used by the company. Id. That the company had a license to maintain the plug in the traveled portion of the street did not relieve it from liability. Id. Evidence held to show that an open space in a town was a landing only and not a street, so that it was not per se negligence for defendant to leave machinery there over night against which a boy ran and was injured. Mayronne v. Keegan, 117 La. 661, 42 So. 212. Defendant not required to place a lamp or other signal at the place. Id.

40. One piling barrels on the sidewalk knowing that children would probably climb thereon is liable if he piles them in an unsafe manner. Kreiner v. Straubmuller, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.

41. Where injuries resulted from defendant's act in placing an explosive in a public alley, it was immaterial how long it remained in such alley. Wells v. Gallagher [Ala.] 39 So. 747.

42. See 5 C. L. 1680.

43. A child touching an apparatus being operated by a telephone crew in stringing cable, distinguished from those cases where the child plays with an apparatus left on the highway, and his own trespass sets in motion the agencies which produce the injury. O'Leary v. Michigan State Tel. Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 752, 109 N. W. 434. Could exact reasonable and ordinary care for its safety of one lawfully using the street for the storage of building material. Compty v. Starke Dredge & Dock Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 650.

44. V. S. 3490. Blind horse escaping from a meadow and injured by falling off a bridge. Howrigan v. Bakersfield [Vt.] 61 A. 1130.

45. See 5 C. L. 1630.

(§ 15) I. Contributory negligence of person injured.[48]—As in negligence cases generally, negligence of the party injured will defeat recovery,[49] but such negligence must be a proximate cause of the injury and not a mere condition.[50] Since persons using a highway or street have a right to assume, in the absence of actual knowledge,[51] that it is in a reasonably safe condition for travel,[52] for the entire width if paved,[53] the mere use thereof[54] and the failure to look for defects[55] do not constitute negligence. Nor is one guilty of negligence as a matter of law in using a highway known to be defective,[56] but he must exercise care com-

46. Proof that the sidewalk was defective and that plaintiff was injured while walking along it is insufficient to warrant recovery. Shannon v. Tacoma, 41 Wash. 220, 83 P. 186. Where plaintiff knew of a defect in a walk but at the time she approached it her attention was diverted by a boy running in front of her so as to startle her and her foot slipped into the hole, the defective condition is the proximate cause of the injury. Van Camp v. Keokuk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 933. Where a traveler attempted to drive a horse over the edge of an embankment so as to tie him to a telephone pole, the horse falling and injuring plaintiff, the absence of a guard rail was not the proximate cause of the accident. Morford v. Sharpsville Borough, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 544. Where the defendant telephone company negligently placed a guy wire in a public alley and one was injured by being caught under a wagon overturned by it, the fact that the wagon was negligently driven does not render defendant's negligence any less the proximate cause. Louisville Home Tel. Co. v. Gasper [Ky.] 93 S. W. 1057. Defendant's negligence in leaving a bomb in a public alley was the proximate cause of injuries to a boy under 14 years old, whether the bomb was exploded in the alley or carried by the boy to an adjacent yard and there exploded by him. Wells v. Gallagher [Ala.] 39 So. 747. Where a city permits an acrobat to stretch a wire across a street for the purpose of performing thereon, and while so performing a part of his apparatus breaks, precipitating the performer onto one beneath, the wrongful act of the city in allowing the performer to exhibit over the street is the proximate cause of the injury. Wheeler v. Fort Dodge [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1057.

47. In an action against the city and the owner of a lot for injuries received from the tipping over of a pile of lumber in the street. Snydor v. Arnold, 28 Ky. L. R. 1250, 92 S. W. 289.

48. See 5 C. L. 1681.

49. Clark v. Torrington [Conn.] 63 A. 657. One driving among show paraphernalia when he might have taken another street cannot recover. Bechtel v. Mahanoy City Borough, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 135. One voluntarily walking on a known defective walk when he could without inconvenience avoid it cannot recover for resulting injuries. White v. Chicago, 120 Ill. App. 607; Dwyer v. Port Allegheny Borough [Pa.] 64 A. 854; City of Norwalk v. Tuttle [Ohio] 76 N. E. 617. Whether one is guilty of negligence in stepping upon an accumulation of ice on the sidewalk depends upon the extent of the ice and the obviousness of the danger. Wertz v. Girardville Borough, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 260. Where recent excavation in street was improperly lighted, plaintiff held not guilty of contributory negligence in walking into it. Carty v. Boeseke-Dawe Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 267. Allegations of complaint held to show contributory negligence of a conductor struck by a pole while leaning out of car. Moore v. East Tennessee Tel. Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 963. Instruction as to the care required of plaintiff held correct. Buchholtz v. Radcliffe, 129 Iowa, 27, 105 N. W. 336; City of Stillwater v. Swisher, 16 Okl. 585, 85 P. 1110. Instructions held not open to objection that they did not require of pedestrian on sidewalk ordinary care. Id. If an intoxicated person is capable of exercising and does exercise the care which the law requires of a sober person, the fact of intoxication becomes immaterial. Epelett v. Saulte Ste. Marie [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 319, 108 N. W. 360.

50. Short v. Spokane, 41 Wash. 257, 83 P. 183.

51. Knew of the condition. Cassaday v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 95 S. W. 948.

52. Elliott v. Kansas City [Mo.] 96 S. W. 1023; Perry v. People's Gas Light & Coke Co., 119 Ill. App. 389; Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757; Mullins v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 183 N. Y. 129, 75 N. E. 1112; Green v. Newark [Del.] 62 A. 792; City Council of Montgomery v. Reese [Ala.] 40 So. 760; Central City v. Morquis [Neb.] 106 N. W. 221; Stout v. City of Columbia, 118 Mo. App. 439, 94 S. W. 307; Machacek v. Hall [Iowa] 105 N. W. 690. May assume that is safe for travel by night as well as by day. City of Stillwater v. Swisher, 16 Okl. 585, 85 P. 1110; City of Dalias v. McCullough [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 348, 95 S. W. 1121; City of Indianapolis v. Mullally [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1132.

53. Bicyclist riding near the edge. Christman v. Meierhoffer, 116 Mo. App. 46, 92 S. W. 141.

54. Dinsmore v. St. Louis, 192 Mo. 255, 91 S. W. 95. The use of a street when there is a safer one which might have been used is not of itself sufficient to constitute negligence. Cady v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 402, 85 P. 19.

55. Failure to give attention to sidewalk not contributory negligence on part of pedestrian who fell into coal hole on dark night. Manney v. Curtiss, 99 N. Y. S. 288. Tripped by loose board. Barker v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 765, 109 N. W. 427. For the jury to say from all the facts whether failure to watch was negligence. Machacek v. Hall [Iowa] 105 N. W. 690; Johnson v. Fargo [N. D.] 108 N. W. 243.

56. Elliott v. Kansas City [Mo.] 96 S. W. 1023; Diamond v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 492; City of Mattoon v. Faller, 117

mensurate with the known danger.[57] One is not guilty of negligence as a matter of law in crossing a street where there is no sidewalk.[58] One voluntarily leaving the public highway for private purposes is usually precluded from recovery.[59] Children are not held to the same degree of care as adults but must exercise care commensurate with their capacity.[60] While the negligence of a parent may preclude a recovery by him for injuries sustained by a child,[61] in most states such negligence is not imputed to the child so as to defeat its rights.[62] While one may be guilty of negligence as a matter of law where the danger is obvious,[63] the question of negligence is usually for the jury to be determined from all the facts and circumstances of the particular case.[64] In some states disproving contributory negli-

Ill. App. 65; City of Indianapolis v. Mullally [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1132; City of Garnett v. Smith, 72 Kan. 664, 83 P. 615. Fact of knowledge is a circumstance to be considered by the jury in determining the question of negligence. Elliott v. Kansas City [Mo.] 96 S. W. 1023; Pyke v. Jamestown [N. D.] 107 N. W. 359; Village of Gardner v. Paulson, 117 Ill. App. 17; Clark v. Torrington [Conn.] 63 A. 657; Shannon v. Tacoma, 41 Wash. 220, 83 P. 186. Using street known to be closed for repairs. McMahon v. Boston, 190 Mass. 388, 76 N. E. 957.

57. City of Garnett v. Smith, 72 Kan. 664, 83 P. 615; City of Mattoon v. Faller, 117 Ill. App. 65; Diamond v. Kansas City [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 492; Clark v. Cedar Rapids, 129 Iowa, 358, 105 N. W. 651; Van Camp v. Keokuk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 933; Steck v. Allegheny, 213 Pa. 573, 62 A. 1115. Question whether he has exercised such care is for the jury. City of Indianapolis v. Mullally [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1132. An affirmative answer of an uneducated plaintiff to the question on cross-examination if she used the same degree of care she would have used if she had known the walk to be safe held not to show negligence. City of Toledo v. Fuller, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 598. Must exercise the care of an ordinarily prudent man under the same circumstances. Green v. Newark [Del.] 62 A. 792; City of Toledo v. Fuller, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 598. Must look for the defect and avoid it. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Where a person using a highway is injured by an obstruction of which he knew, the presumption of want of reasonable care on his part raised thereby may be rebutted by evidence showing that he was not wanting in care, as that the accident occurred at night, that it was dark, and that plaintiff thought he had driven by the obstruction. Coppins v. Jefferson, 126 Wis. 578, 105 N. W. 1078. A pedestrian is guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law in walking upon the edge of a sidewalk knowing that the boards were loose and would fly up, and using no extra care, there being nothing to divert his attention. Hodge v. St. Louis [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 749, 109 N. W. 252.

58. Action for wrongful death caused by contact with fallen electric wire. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116.

59. A pedestrian leaving the highway at an unknown place on a dark night for a private purpose and falling over an unguarded embankment held guilty of contributory negligence. Schimberg v. Cutler [C. C. A.] 142 F. 701. The rule that one who voluntarily leaves the traveled part of a highway and then comes in contact with some obstruction causing injury is guilty of contributory negligence has no application where the injury is caused by an obstruction so near the traveled part of the highway that a momentary deviation from the traveled part of the road or the shying of the horse would result in a collision. Coppins v. Jefferson, 126 Wis. 578, 105 N. W. 1078. Question of plaintiff's negligence in leaving the beaten path on the sidewalk in an attempt to find a less slippery way in the street held under the facts for the jury. Wertz v. Girardville Borough, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 260.

60. Mental and physical. Herrington v. Macon, 125 Ga. 58, 54 S. E. 71. Child of five years held not guilty of contributory negligence in climbing on barrels unlawfully piled on the sidewalk. Kreiner v. Strauhmuller, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 609.

61. Father held not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law in permitting the deceased child to play upon the sidewalk, it appearing that he was a workman and unable to exercise direct control and that the child was with several others at the time. Addes v. Hess, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 505. Mother held not guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law in permitting her child of tender years to escape from the house to the street while she was about her household duties. Weida v. Hanover Tp., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 424.

62. Herrington v. Macon, 125 Ga. 58, 54 S. E. 71.

63. Where the dangerous character is so obvious that reasonable minds would agree that the injured one could not have exercised reasonable care, he is guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law. Pyke v. Jamestown [N. D.] 107 N. W. 359. One taking a known slippery walk which could have been easily avoided is guilty of negligence justifying a directed verdict. Schneider v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 57. Walking over trap elevator doors in a sidewalk is not negligence per se. Bowley v. Mangrum [Cal. App.] 84 P. 996. Evidence that plaintiff knew of paths at the side of the walk and that she had been tripped by a wire some time before held not to show contributory negligence as a matter of law in using the sidewalk without watching for holes. Lewis v. Marshall [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 798, 109 N. W. 663.

64. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116; Gaffka v. Detroit United R. Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 44, 106 N. W. 1121; Cutting v. Shelburne [Mass.] 78 N. E. 752; gence is a part of plaintiff's case,[65] but it is usually a matter of defense to be shown by defendant.[66]

(§ 15) J. Notice of claim for injury and intent to sue[67] is a prerequisite to the maintenance of an action where required by statute.[68] It must be properly presented or served[69] within the time fixed by statute or ordinance,[70] and failure to so present it cannot be waived by the municipality.[71] Statutory provisions relative to notice should be liberally construed,[72] and ordinarily a notice is sufficient if it

Keithley v. Independence [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 733. The question of contributory negligence is for the jury, unless it clearly appears from uncontradicted evidence that plaintiff was negligent. Van Camp v. Keokuk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 933.

Question of negligence held for the jury: Riding on a high spring seat, plaintiff being thrown by a jolt. Milliren v. Sandy Tp., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 580. Collision with building material unlawfully placed in the street. Mulvey v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 1114; Pack v. New York, 99 N. Y. S. 867. Putting a blind horse in pasture without closing the bars, thus allowing it to escape onto the highway. Howrigan v. Bakersfield [Vt.] 64 A. 1130. Question whether a hole in the street was so visible as to render plaintiff negligent in driving into it. Cody v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 402, 85 P. 19. Negligence of one falling into an excavation, the evidence as to the extent of his knowledge and as to the existence of warning signals being conflicting. Guild v. Pringle [C. C. A.] 145 F. 312. Bicyclist riding without light. Christman v. Meierhoffer, 116 Mo. App. 46, 92 S. W. 141. Negligence in using a street known to be closed for repairs. McMahon v. Boston, 190 Mass. 388, 76 N. E. 957. Using an icy walk. Walsh v. New York, 109 App. Div. 541, 96 N. Y. S. 540. Where a defective street can be used with safety by the exercise of reasonable care, it is for the jury to determine whether the injured party was using such care. Steck v. Allegheny, 213 Pa. 573, 62 A. 1115. Evidence that while plaintiff had some knowledge of the condition of the sidewalk she had frequently passed over the same, and in doing so earlier in the evening had noticed nothing unusual. Jordan v. Philadelphia, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 502. Question of plaintiff's negligence in not driving onto the guarded portion of the road some 20 feet farther upon seeing the approaching train instead of stopping and trying to hold the horse by the head at an unguarded point. Fetterman v. Rush Tp., 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 77.

65. Buchholtz v. Radcliffe, 129 Iowa, 27, 105 N. W. 336. Where one knows of the unsafe condition of a sidewalk some proof of exercise of ordinary care is essential to recovery. City of Highland Park v. Gerkin, 122 Ill. App. 149. Under Code § 1347, one who seeks to recover for an injury caused by a defective highway must show that he is free from such contributory negligence as would constitute a proximate cause of the injury. An instruction that plaintiff must show that he did not, through any negligence, contribute in any way to his injury imposes a greater burden on plaintiff than the law requires. Duncan v. Greenville County, 73 S. C. 254, 53 S. E. 367.

66. City of Indianapolis v. Mullally [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1132; Town of Royal Center v. Bingaman [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 811; Oklahoma City v. Reed [Okl.] 87 P. 645. In Indiana by statute the burden is on the defendant. Town of Sellersburg v. Ford [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 220.

67. See 5 C. L. 1683.

68. Notice to the council of want of repair and injury is a prerequisite to the creation of a right to compensation. Hay v. Baraboo, 127 Wis. 1, 105 N. W. 654. Statutes requiring the giving of notice to a city of an injury sustained by reason of a defective street within a specified time after the injury is mandatory and a complaint which does not allege the giving of such notice is demurrable. High v. Jacksonville [Fla.] 40 So. 1032.

69. Under Code N. D. §§ 2172 and 2173, providing that notice of injury shall be given to the mayor and common council within 60 days after the injury, a notice served on the mayor and the city auditor, the latter being charged with the keeping of the records of the council, is a service on the mayor and council and it makes no difference that the notice was served on or given to the auditor at place other than his office where he accepts it at such other place. Pyke v. Jamestown [N. D.] 107 N. W. 359.

70. Miller v. Birmingham [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 567, 108 N. W. 1015. Under Laws 1898, p. 438, c. 182, § 461, requiring notice to be served on common council within three months of accident, where fatal accident occurred August 1st, letters being issued October 19th, notice served by administratrix on president of common council October 22, and delivered by president to council at first meeting, held sufficient compliance though there was no meeting between October 1st and November 5th. Blount v. Troy, 110 App. Div. 609, 97 N. Y. S. 182. Where plaintiff was rendered mentally incompetent by injury received, notice of injuries served within three months after removal of mental incapacity held timely within Oswego Charter requiring notice of claim within three months after injury. Forsyth v. Oswego, 99 N. Y. S. 1022. Notice given within time permitted by charter was not given so long after injury that condition of sidewalk might have changed. Mulligan v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 264, 84 P. 721. Where an injury is caused by a broken plank, the fact that there was ice or snow thereon does not require that the notice be given within the time prescribed for injuries resulting from ice or snow. Short v. Spokane, 41 Wash. 257, 83 P. 183.

71. Miller v. Birmingham [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 567, 108 N. W. 1015.

72. Hammock v. Tacoma, 40 Wash. 539, 82 P. 893.

points out with reasonable certainty the place and character of a defect[73] and the nature of the injuries sustained.[74] Mere clerical errors may be disregarded[75] and failure to state the date of the injury may be waived by an examination of the plaintiff by the city.[76] In the absence of statute the court has no authority to permit amendments to the claim for injury.[77] Recovery will be limited to the amount set forth in the notice of claim.[78] A municipality has no power in the absence of statutory authority to enact an ordinance requiring the presentation of claims for allowance as a condition precedent to suing thereon.[79]

(§ 15) K. Actions.[80]—The Connecticut statute giving a cause of action to one injured by means of a defective road or bridge is not a penal statute in such sense that a right of action thereon does not survive the death of the person injured.[81]

Pleading.[82]—The ordinary rules of pleading apply.[83] Reasonable certainty is all that is required in describing the place of the accident[84] or the nature of the injury.[85] While a mere allegation of notice does not under strict rules of pleading

73. Johnson v. Fargo [N. D.] 108 N. W. 243; Beyer v. North Tonawanda, 183 N. Y. 338, 76 N. E. 214. Under a charter requiring that claims for damages owing to a defect in a sidewalk shall "accurately" locate and describe the defect. Mulligan v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 264, 84 P. 721. Notice stating that injuries were caused by a fall on the walk near the northeast corner of certain named streets held sufficient to enable city to locate the place. City of Ottawa v. Green, 72 Kan. 214, 83 P. 616. And so that the investigating officer can find it from the description aided by a reasonable inquiry. Notice that injury occurred "on J. street, between Forty-first and Forty-second streets," held sufficient, the injury having taken place on J. street between Forty-first and Forty-third streets, Forty-second street not having been extended through to J. street. Hammock v. Tacoma, 40 Wash. 539, 82 P. 893.

74. A notice of injury which states the facts in regard to an injury so far as claimant knows them is sufficient provided it gives the information which the statute reasonably contemplates. Notice of unsafe condition of highway by reason of elevated rails held sufficient as to place and cause of accident considering allegation of complaint that particulars were stated so far as they reasonably could be stated. Blount v. Troy, 110 App. Div. 609, 97 N. Y. S. 182. Under Comp. Laws 1897, providing that a notice of injury must substantially set forth the extent of the injury so far as known, the notice should be sufficiently specific to give the municipality information as to what the injury complained of was. Notice held not sufficiently specific. Miller v. Birmingham [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 567, 108 N. W. 1015.

75. Error in venue should be disregarded and so also error of one day in stating date of accident where not discovered until trial was nearly finished. Kleyle v. Oswego, 109 App. Div. 330, 95 N. Y. S. 879.

76. Full examination of plaintiff by city before committee of claims. Forsyth v. Oswego, 99 N. Y. S. 1022.

77. Authority not given by Code Civ. Proc. § 723, the claim not being a proceeding in an action. Kleyle v. Oswego, 109 App. Div. 330, 95 N. Y. S. 879.

78. Van Camp v. Keokuk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 933.

79. City of Bowling Green v. Duncan, 28 Ky. L. R. 1177, 91 S. W. 268.

80. See 5 C. L. 1684.

81. Gen. St. Conn. 1902, § 2020. Elson v. Waterford, 140 F. 800.

82. See 5 C. L. 1684.

83. It is unnecessary to aver in terms a duty implied of law. Law implies duty not to leave a bomb or other explosive in a public alley. Wells v. Gallagher [Ala.] 39 So. 747. The complaint must show a causal connection between the alleged negligence and the injury sustained. City of Crawfordsville v. Van Cleave [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1149. In action against street railway for injuries from falling into excavation made by it in a street, certain counts in complaint held not demurrable as charging disjunctively two causes of action. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Where a complaint for personal injuries alleges that the street was "regularly dedicated" as a public highway and the answer does not deny the allegation, the city cannot assert that the street was not dedicated. City of Louisville v. Hall, 28 Ky. L. R. 1064, 91 S. W. 1133.

84. Not necessary that the complaint should describe the place where the injury occurred with mathematical exactness, but only with such definiteness as to apprise the defendant of the place. Spaulding v. Edina [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 545. A petition alleging that on a certain street and along the south side thereof and on the north side of a designated lot and block was a certain sidewalk in which there was a loose board which tripped plaintiff, etc., sufficiently locates the place of injury. City of Garnett v. Smith, 72 Kan. 664, 83 P. 615. Where the notice filed with the city stated a claim for injuries caused by "a fall on the walk near the northeast corner," etc., there was no variance between it and the petition where the place was referred to as a "crosswalk." City of Ottawa v. Green, 72 Kan. 214, 83 P. 616.

85. Petition sufficiently definite where it set forth in plain and concise language how plaintiff was hurt by falling on defective crosswalk without a needless recital of details. City of Ottawa v. Green, 72 Kan. 214, 83 P. 616. Held not error to refuse to re-support proof of constructive notice,[86] an allegation of knowledge of a defect is sustained by proof of notice actual or constructive.[87] Where the city by its own acts creates the defect charged, it is not necessary to allege notice.[88]

Evidence.[89]—The burden of proving negligence is on the plaintiff.[90] In an action against a city the evidence must show that the injury occurred within the corporate limits and that the place was one which the city was bound to maintain in a safe condition.[91] On the question of notice or knowledge evidence is admissible which shows the general bad condition of a road or sidewalk in the vicinity of the place of injury,[92] or which shows the condition of the place a short time before or after the accident,[93] and on the same issue evidence of efforts to induce the city authorities to repair,[94] of statements of a sidewalk inspector,[95] and that a councilman had quire plaintiff to make his petition more definite as to nature of internal injuries sustained by reason of falling into an unguarded ditch in a city where the petition stated all the information which plaintiff probably had. City of Iola v. Farmer, 72 Kan. 620, 84 P. 386.

86. Schneider v. Cincinnati, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 57.

87. An allegation "which condition of said walk, and which defects in said sidewalk were known to defendant, or by the exercise of ordinary care might have been known to defendant in time to have repaired the same before the injury," held to properly charge notice, actual or constructive. Spaulding v. Edina [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 545. That the defect was "well known to defendant and its officers" sustained by proof of constructive knowledge. Dinsmore v. St. Louis, 192 Mo. 255, 91 S. W. 95. That the city "knew the dangerous and unsafe condition of said sidewalk and negligently neglected to nail down said planks" is broad enough to admit evidence of constructive notice. Brown v. Blaine, 41 Wash. 287, 83 P. 310.

88. A petition alleging that defendant opened up a certain street to the brink of a precipice and left the same unguarded is not defective for failing to allege notice. City of Paducah v. Johnson [Ky.] 93 S. W. 1035.

89. See 5 C. L. 1684.

90. Green v. Newark [Del.] 62 A. 792.

91. City of Topeka v. Cook, 72 Kan. 595, 84 P. 376. The court cannot take judicial notice that an alley between two designated streets is within the corporate limits of the city of Topeka. Id. Cities of the first class being given authority outside the corporate limits in regard to abating nuisances, the fact that a city may have caused the removal of a manure pile from a certain place does not of itself show that such place was in the city. Id.

92. Weitzel v. Fowler [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 90, 107 N. W. 451; City of Rockwall v. Heath [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. 230, 90 S. W. 514. Evidence is admissible as to the general bad condition of the walk for a reasonable distance on each side of the place of injury. Harris v. Mt. Vernon, 41 Wash. 444, 83 P. 1023. In an action to recover for injuries caused by the falling of a timber from a structure in a street, evidence that there were other similar structures on the street and that they were in a dangerous condition was admissible. Farrell v. Dubuque, 129 Iowa, 447, 105 N. W. 696. Where defendant's notice had been called to the condition of a certain walk, held not error to admit evidence of the condition of the walk at places other than the place of the injury. Hunter v. Ithaca, 141 Mich. 539, 12 Det. Leg. N. 571, 105 N. W. 9.

93. Where the alleged negligence consisted of permitting boards to remain loose in a temporary crossing testimony of a witness that the boards were loose the next day was not too remote. Barker v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 765, 109 N. W. 427. Not error to allow a witness to testify to the condition of the street two or three days after the accident when it appears that there had been no change in its condition. City of Dallas v. McCullough [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 348, 95 S. W. 1121. "That testimony of the condition of the walk for a considerable time before the accident may be given for the purpose of showing notice to the city, and that such testimony may relate to the walk in the immediate vicinity or to a stretch of walk as a whole is settled." Epelett v. Sault Ste. Marie [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 319, 108 N. W. 360. Evidence of the condition of a walk during previous winters is admissible where it appears from the evidence that the surrounding conditions were the same each year and tended to accumulate ice and snow at the point as bearing on the question of notice. Hanousek v. Marshalltown [Iowa] 107 N. W. 603. Under an allegation that the city knew of the defective condition of the walk, evidence that the defect had existed for such a length of time before the injury complained of that the proper authorities of the municipality could have discovered it by the use of reasonable diligence is admissible and supports the allegation. Village of Gardner v. Paulson, 117 Ill. App. 17. Not error to admit evidence of the condition of a walk on the following day to the effect that the boards were obviously rotten and loose. Clark v. Cedar Rapids, 129 Iowa, 358, 105 N. W. 651.

94. Evidence of efforts of the street commissioner to induce the council to repair the sidewalk where plaintiff was injured is admissible (City of Lexington v. Fleherty [Neb.] 104 N. W. 1056), though not complaints of the condition of the streets generally (Id.).

95. In an action to recover for injuries caused by the falling of a timber from a structure erected over the walks of a city, statements by a sidewalk inspector as to the dangerous condition of the structure is admissible. Farrell v. Dubuque, 129 Iowa, 447, 105 N. W. 696.

passed the place several times,[96] is also admissible; but the declaration of an officer or agent of a municipality made after the accident and relating to his previous knowledge is inadmissible to show notice or knowledge.[97] Evidence of other accidents caused by the same defect is generally not admissible[98] except as bearing on the question of notice;[99] nor can a previous similar accident at another place be shown.[1] In an action for injuries caused by a defective walk, an ordinance requiring a certain officer to see that the streets are kept in a good safe condition is not admissible against the city,[2] nor can plaintiff introduce a notice from the city to a contractor who created the defect calling upon him to defend.[3] The sufficiency of a light maintained near an excavation,[4] or the difficulty to be experienced in riding a bicycle over a depression in a sidewalk, is not a proper subject of expert testimony.[5] Applications of other general principles of evidence are collected in the note.[6] Failure of proof against one defendant does not necessarily affect the cause of action.[7]

96. In an action against a city to recover for injuries caused by a trench in the street dug by a private person, evidence that one of the city councilmen passed the place several times each day held admissible. Keithley v. Independence [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 733.

97. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116.

98. Where excavation in street was inadequately lighted. Carty v. Boeseke-Dawe Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 267. Evidence that other persons had fallen into unguarded areaway in a walk not admissible. Stout v. Columbia, 118 Mo. App. 439, 94 S. W. 307. A condition in a street or sidewalk being unsafe, the fact of the non-occurrence of previous accidents does not bar relief. Morroney v. New York, 49 Misc. 307, 97 N. Y. S. 642.

99. Admissible on question of notice. City of Dallas v. McCullough [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 348, 95 S. W. 1121.

1. Not in an action for death caused by a fallen electric wire. Fox v. Manchester, 183 N. Y. 141, 75 N. E. 1116.

2. City of Gibson v. Murray, 120 Ill. App. 296.

3. Keithley v. Independence [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 733.

4. Carty v. Boeseke-Dawe Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 267.

5. Lee v. Salt Lake City [Utah] 83 P. 562. And an answer "It was not very much of a thing, if not going fast; that it was not bad; that a person could ride over it in pretty fair shape in going 4 or 5 miles per hour," is improper as argumentative. Id.

6. In an action against a municipal contractor for the death of a pedestrian by falling into a hole in the street, evidence of the chairman of the street committee as to the construction placed on an ordinance respecting the use of a covering, etc., at such holes is inadmissible. Guild v. Pringle [C. C. A.] 145 F. 312. Evidence that children were in the habit of playing in an alley held admissible as showing wantonness in leaving a bomb therein. Wells v. Gallagher [Ala.] 39 So. 747. Where in an action against an abutting owner for injuries caused by a defective sidewalk it was stipulated that previous to the injuries work had been done on the premises by independent contractors, who furnished their own teams, etc., held the stipulation was properly admitted in evidence over an objection that it had not been connected with defendant and did not show that defendant was responsible for the acts mentioned therein. Mullins v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 183 N. Y. 129, 75 N. E. 1112. In an action for injuries received from a defective crossing, witnesses are not rendered incompetent by the fact they were not produced before the committee on claims, it appearing that the evidence there produced was collected by the husband of plaintiff, she being confined to her bed, and he did not know of the witnesses. Barker v. Kalamazoo [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 765, 109 N. W. 427. Where an ordinance permits an abutting property owner to pile building material in the street upon obtaining a permit, and requires him to place a light thereon at night, the admission of such ordinance, where defendant is charged with negligence in not having such light, is not erroneous in that the jury may find against defendant for not having a permit, as defendant could have asked an instruction limiting the finding. Christman v. Meierhoffer, 116 Mo. App. 46, 92 S. W. 141. In an action for personal injuries caused by loose boards in a sidewalk, a question "What, if anything, do you know about the boards being loosened from the nails and fastenings," held properly allowed. Brown v. Blaine, 41 Wash. 287, 83 P. 310.

In Connecticut, where a witness in an action to recover for injuries sustained by reason of a defective walk has testified as to its condition, he may be required to state whether or not it was in a reasonably safe condition for travel, and such evidence is not inadmissible as calling for the opinion of the witness. Campbell v. New Haven, 78 Conn. 394, 62 A. 665.

7. Where in an action for personal injuries against a railroad company and the city it is alleged that the former negligently removed and failed to replace boards from the bridge and that the latter negligently permitted the bridge to become unsafe by allowing boards to become and remain loose, failure of proof against the railroad company does not affect the cause of action

Questions for the jury and instructions.[8]—Where reasonable minds may differ as to the nature of a defect,[9] the question of ordinary care,[10] the possibility of the happening of an accident,[11] or the result of an injury,[12] the question is for the jury.

Instructions are governed by the ordinary rules,[13] including those relating to inconsistent[14] or misleading instructions,[15] and those requiring them to conform against the city since the negligence charged is independent. City of Louisville v. Hall, 28 Ky. L. R. 1064, 91 S. W. 1133.

8. Many holdings though nominally relating to jury questions or instructions really involve the existence of disputed facts or matters of substantive law and will be found in the sections of this article dealing with the particular subject-matter to which they pertain.

9. In an action to recover for injuries caused by a defective sidewalk, the fact that plaintiff's witnesses do not agree as to the nature and extent of the defect does not authorize the dismissal of the case where some of them testify to the existence of a dangerously defective condition. Goff v. Philadelphia, 214 Pa. 172, 63 A. 431. Where reasonable minds may differ as to whether a condition is such as to require the city to anticipate accident the question is for the jury. Where pedestrian's foot was caught and held fast in hole under flagstone in sidewalk. Morroney v. New York, 49 Misc. 307, 97 N. Y. S. 642.

10. The question of ordinary care on the part of the person injured must be left to the jury if it is open to a difference of opinion. Perry v. People's Gas Light & Coke Co., 119 Ill. App. 389. Where a city has notice of the defective condition of a walk, though not of the particular defect which caused the injury, it cannot be said as a matter of law that it exercised reasonable care in that one charged with repairing it walked over it in a casual way and did not discover the defect. When the city has notice it is bound to make a more minute inspection and it is for the jury to say whether it has used reasonable care. Hunter v. Ithaca, 141 Mich. 539, 12 Det. Leg. N. 571, 105 N. W. 9.

11. Where in an action for injuries alleged to have been caused by a defective road there is nothing in plaintiff's testimony making the accident physically impossible, the fact that defendant's witnesses testified to facts rendering it impossible does not justify a binding instruction. Newman v. Bullskin Tp., 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 170.

12. In action for injury from defective sidewalk, whether the injury was the cause of plaintiff's physical condition was for the jury. Harris v. Mt. Vernon, 41 Wash. 444, 83 P. 1023.

13. In an action to recover for injuries caused by an excavation in a street, an instruction which permits the jury to take into consideration their personal knowledge of the locus in quo and the use ordinarily made of the street is erroneous. Karrer v. Detroit [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 765, 106 N. W. 64. The judgment being clearly right, an instruction that it was the duty of the city to keep its streets in a reasonably safe condition held not reversible error. City of Rock Island v. Gingles, 118 Ill. App. 410. In an action against an abutting owner, instruction as to liability held properly refused, the court having previously given a substantially similar charge. Mullins v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 183 N. Y. 129, 75 N. E. 1112. Held not error to charge that the testimony of witnesses who passed over a walk to the effect that they did not see the defect is not of as much weight as is the testimony of witnesses that they saw the defective condition. Alft v. Clintonville, 126 Wis. 334, 105 N. W. 561. In an action for personal injuries received by plaintiff's horse becoming frightened at defendant's steam roller, an instruction that if by "reasonable exertion" defendant could have stopped the puffing, etc., construed to mean by the exercise of "reasonable care." Phelan v. Granite Bituminous Pav. Co., 115 Mo. App. 423, 91 S. W. 440. Instruction that jury should consider plaintiff's knowledge of the condition of a sidewalk, the nature of the defect, etc., and then "determine in the light of all the circumstances" whether plaintiff exercised ordinary care, held not erroneous for failing to include the elements of time, light, locality, etc. City of Ottawa v. Green, 72 Kan. 214, 83 P. 616. Where in an action for death resulting from a collision between a street car and a hose cart an ordinance is introduced giving the cart the right of way, it is not error to instruct as to the legal effect of such ordinance. McBride v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 618. Not error to refuse to define the word "reasonable." York v. Everton [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 604. Instruction that plaintiff had a "perfect right," "while in the exercise of ordinary care," to use that portion of a street in which defendant's car tracks were laid, held not to assume that plaintiff was exercising ordinary care, or imply that defendant had no special or superior right of way upon its tracks. Chicago City R. Co. v. Rohe, 118 Ill. App. 322.

14. In an action against a railroad for obstructing a public alley, an instruction that plaintiff should be awarded such sum as would compensate him for "whatever damages he has sustained" is not in conflict with an instruction that the measure of damages is the difference in value of plaintiff's property before and after the construction of the road. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111. First part of an instruction that plaintiff was required to exercise care commensurate with the increased danger due to his physical infirmity, the darkness of the night, etc., held not inconsistent with the latter part, that he was not negligent if he exercised the care of an ordinarily prudent person under similar circumstances. City of Stillwater v. Swisher, 16 Okl. 585, 85 P. 1110. Not error to refuse an instruction that if the jury find that there was a loose plank in the walk and that plain-to the law.[16] The court should not assume facts not in evidence[17] but should instruct as to all issues properly raised.[18]

§ 16. Injury to, obstructions of, or encroachment on, street or highway.[19]—A public highway is for the use of the general public and no part thereof can be permanently appropriated to private use to the impairment of its primary purpose.[20] A city, however, may authorize[21] the maintenance of a reasonable obstruction in the streets or on the sidewalks,[22] but it has no power to permit an unreasonable use by private individuals.[23] An abutting property owner while building thereon,[24] or the city while repairing a highway or laying a sewer therein, may tiff was injured thereby, still the defendant is not liable if the walk was in a reasonably safe condition for travel in the ordinary modes. York v. Everton [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 694.

15. In an action against street railway for injuries from falling into excavation in a street, charge properly refused as confusing, and liable to the construction that the court had already charged that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Charge properly refused as leading jury to believe that greater care was required of plaintiff when off the sidewalk than when upon it. Id. Instruction as to plaintiff's duty to look out and detect excavation held properly refused as confusing. Id.

16. An instruction that the city is not negligent unless a person of ordinary prudence and diligence would reasonably believe that the defect complained of would injure a person in the manner claimed, while such person was exercising ordinary care, is erroneous, since the test is whether a person of ordinary prudence and diligence would reasonably believe the defect would produce not the particular injury but some such injury as alleged. City of Rockwall v. Heath [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 230, 90 S. W. 514. An instruction held to properly define "proximate cause" as applied to the evidence in an action for injuries received from the alleged defective condition of a city street. City of Dallas v. McCullough [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 348, 95 S. W. 1121. In an action for injuries received through a defective road, an instruction that if there were two other safe roads which plaintiff might have taken no recovery can be had held properly refused as leaving out the question of his knowledge of such roads. Fetterman v. Rush Tp., 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 77. In action for injuries from a bomb left in a public alley, requested instructions held erroneous as pretermitting consideration of due care on part of defendant's servant in ascertaining the dangerous character of the bomb. Wells v. Gallagher [Ala.] 39 So. 747.

17. Where in an action for injuries received by plaintiff's horse becoming frightened at defendant's steam roller there was no evidence that it was making more noise than usual, an instruction that if defendant negligently ran the roller with "unusual noise," etc., is erroneous. Phelan v. Granite Bituminous Pav. Co., 115 Mo. App. 423, 91 S. W. 440. Where evidence was uncontradicted that plaintiff was on the regular crossing, requested charge that if travelers go off the cross walks they must use reasonable care, etc., was abstract. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Where the undisputed evidence showed that plaintiff was injured while in the public highway by an obstruction therein, it is not error to refuse to submit the issue whether plaintiff was trespassing upon defendant's property. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 489, 92 S. W. 259. Where in an action for personal injuries caused by an obstruction in the public highway there is no conflict of evidence as to its highway character, it is not error to assume such fact in an instruction. Id.

18. Where in an action for personal injuries plaintiff's evidence tended to show that his horse became frightened by defendant's negligent operation of a steam roller, while that of defendant was that he was frightened by the wagon striking a gravel cart through plaintiff's negligent driving, the latter issue should have been submitted. Phelan v. Granite Bituminous Pav. Co., 115 Mo. App. 423, 91 S. W. 440.

19. See 5 C. L. 1685.

20. First Nat. Bank v. Tyson [Ala.] 39 So. 560. The law against obstructions in a highway is not confined to the beaten track but embraces the entire width of the road. Sweet v. Perkins, 101 N. Y. S. 163. Farmer liable for leaving manure pile extending to within four feet of beaten track where a team frightened by an automobile ran against it and injured driver. Id.

21. Ordinances Nos. 2273, 2387, enacted by the city of Portland, construed not to give plaintiffs a contract right within the protection of the Federal Constitution to occupy Morrison street for wharfage purposes. Mead v. Portland, 200 U. S. 148, 50 Law. Ed. 413.

22. The city has the same power to authorize obstructions on the sidewalks as in the streets. Pickup v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 631. An abutting property owner cannot enjoin the construction of a watch box partly on his sidewalk where defendant has the consent of the city and the boxes are constructed in the proper manner and leave ample room for pedestrians. Id.

23. Though a city charter gives it power to regulate the use of its street, it has no power to grant the use of its streets for private purposes, or to permit the erection of permanent advertising signs thereon, or to grant to another the right to use the whole or any part of a street in such a manner as to unreasonably interfere with its public use, or render it unsafe and dangerous. Loth v. Columbia Theatre Co., 197 Mo. 328, 94 S. W. 847.

temporarily place obstructions in the highway,[25] and the latter may even temporarily close the same,[26] but an obstruction so placed in the street must be done in a reasonable manner[27] and removed within a reasonable time.[28] A reservation of "wharves and wharfing privileges" in the dedication of land for an addition to a city does not include the right to occupy the streets with such wharves.[29] An obstruction which materially impedes travel is a nuisance,[30] notwithstanding space is left for public travel,[31] as is also the illegal exaction of tolls.[32] One maintaining an obstruction in a public highway cannot acquire a prescriptive right to continue it.[33] An unlawful and unauthorized[34] occupation and use of a public highway[35] by obstructions placed therein[36] may be enjoined in equity[37] by a suit in behalf of the public[38] or by a private party[39] suffering special damages,[40] if he has no ade-

24. See § 14, Rights of Abutters.

25. Dirt piled in the street while constructing a sewer. Frick v. Kansas City. 117 Mo. App. 488, 93 S. W. 351.

26. Building a bridge over railroad tracks. Adair v. Atlanta, 124 Ga. 288, 52 S. E. 739. And where the railroad agrees to build the bridge, may close it while the railroad is building it. Id.

27. City is liable where it unnecessarily closed the way of ingress and egress and so piled the dirt as to back water upon plaintiff's adjoining lot in large quantities. Frick v. Kansas City, 117 Mo. App. 488, 93 S. W. 351.

28. Liable where it negligently failed to remove the dirt for nearly 9 months. Frick v. Kansas City, 117 Mo. App. 488, 93 S. W. 351.

29. At least to so occupy as to require the city to render compensation upon destroying the same. Mead v. Portland, 200 U. S. 148, 50 Law. Ed. 413.

30, 31. Bischof v. Merchant's Nat. Bank [Neb.] 106 N. W. 996.

32. And may be restrained by injunction. State v. Louisiana, B. G. & A. Gravel Road Co., 116 Mo. App. 175, 92 S. W. 153.

33. Purpresture. State v. Vandalia [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 1009. Poles of gas and electric company. Merced Falls Gas & Electric Co. v. Turner [Cal. App.] 84 P. 239.

34. Where consent to a railroad's occupation of a street is given upon condition such occupation is unauthorized after condition broken. Edwards v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co. [Pa.] 64 A. 798.

35. On the issue of whether land on which it was sought to erect an encroachment was part of the public street, an ancient deed and map of the village were properly admitted in evidence to identify defendant's premises and the practical location of the line of the street. Village of Oxford v. Willoughby, 181 N. Y. 155, 72 N. E. 677. Finding that a city had no rights on a railroad right of way on which it claimed a building had been erected so as to obstruct a street held not erroneous where it could be based either on the fact that a deed of the property was delivered before a plat was recorded or on the fact that the plat showed that the streets were not intended to cross the right of way. City of Cheney v. Anderson, 72 Kan. 696, 84 P. 137.

36. A purpresture in a highway is a grievance of sufficient importance to justify its abatement at the instance of the state. State v. Vandalia [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 1009.

37. Dickinson v. Arkansas City Imp. Co. [Ark.] 92 S. W. 21. A county court may maintain a suit in equity to abate an obstruction of one of its public highways and to enjoin the defendant from obstructing such highway. Franklin County v. Huff [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 974, 95 S. W. 41.

38. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. App. 306. Action by attorney general to enjoin one so using a highway as to injure the roadbed. McCarter v. Ludlum Steel & Spring Co. [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 761. The attorney general or the law officer of a county may maintain a suit in equity to abate a nuisance caused by an unlawful obstruction of a city street (State v. Vandalia [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 1009), independent of statute (Id.), on the relation of a private person or without it, and if on the relation of a private person he may be charged with costs if the suit fails (Id.).

39. When the owner of land plats it and sells lots according to such plat, one who purchases lots with reference thereto can enjoin the maintenance of an obstruction by another grantee of the owner. Mere silence of the plaintiff in allowing defendant to encroach on the street does not estop him to maintain a suit to abate the obstruction. Garvey v. Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., 213 Pa. 177, 62 A. 778.

40. Bischof v. Merchants' Nat. Bank [Neb.] 106 N. W. 996; McLean v. Llewellyn Iron Works [Cal. App.] 83 P. 1082; Nelson v. Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914; Edwards v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co. [Pa.] 64 A. 798. When the evidence as to special injury is conflicting, it is a question for the jury. Evans v. Scott [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 885, 97 S. W. 116.

Held to constitute special injury: Projecting building cutting off view of plaintiff's building by passing pedestrians. Bischof v. Merchants' Nat. Bank [Wis.] 106 N. W. 996. Compelled by the dumping of slag in the street to take a circuitous route in going to and from his property. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Johnson [Ala.] 41 So. 907. An abutting property owner whose use of his own premises is interfered with by an obstruction of a city street or alley suffers such a special injury as authorizes a suit by him to abate the obstruction. Milwaukee Boiler Co. v. Wadhams Oil & Grease Co., 126 Wis. 32, 105 N. W. 312. Erection of stone columns from 22 to 26 inches beyond building line and on to sidewalk on lot adjoining quate remedy at law.[41] In some states actions to abate unlawful obstructions in the streets may be maintained by cities[42] and villages.[43] It is not essential to the maintenance of an action by the county to enjoin the unlawful appropriation of streets that the city consent thereto.[44] The fact that abutting owners are joined as parties plaintiff in an action by a public officer does not affect the right to grant relief.[45]

Civil liability.[46]—Persons unlawfully placing obstructions in a highway, or a way actually used by the public as such,[47] or negligently maintaining lawful obstructions therein,[48] are liable for injuries proximately resulting therefrom,[49] especially where they constitute public nuisances.[50] Where the city has full control of the streets and supervision of work being done therein, it is liable for permitting dirt to be so piled as to constitute a private nuisance, irrespective of negligence,[51] and though the nuisance[52] be placed there by a third person, the municipality is liable if it has actual or constructive knowledge of such obstruction.[53] A railroad constructing its road through a public alley is liable as a trespasser to the abutting property owners.[54] The Massachusetts statute providing that the aldermen shall designate polling places does not authorize the placing of the booth in the traveled portion of a public street.[55] Where ingress and egress are completely cut off by work preparatory to the construction of a bridge, an action therefor is not premature if the completion of the bridge will not better conditions.[56]

Crimes.[57]—In many states one willfully[58] obstructing a public highway[59] may complainant's held such obstruction of complainant's view as to justify relief, though he proved no actual damages. First Nat. Bank v. Tyson [Ala.] 39 So. 560. That complainant proved only one of several grounds of special injuries alleged did not deprive him of relief. Id.

Held insufficient: An abutting owner cannot restrain obstruction opposite his premises where it does not interfere with his means of access. Ruthstrom v. Peterson, 72 Kan. 679, 83 P. 825. Petition showing obstruction of 20 feet opposite the land of an abutting owner held not to show interference with his right of access where the highway was 40 feet wide. Id. That plaintiffs had mutual interest in the common use of the streets and were interested in keeping them open was not sufficient. Thorpe v. Clanton [Ariz.] 85 P. 1061.

41. An abutting property owner who is compelled to take a circuitous route in going to and from his property because of the dumping of slag in the street has no adequate remedy at law. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Johnson [Ala.] 41 So. 907.

42. A city can maintain a suit to abate a purpresture in its streets. City of New Orleans v. New Orleans Jockey Club, 115 La. 911, 40 So. 331.

43. A village may maintain an action to enjoin an encroachment on a public street under Laws 1890, p. 1131, c. 568, § 15, conferring the right on highway commissioners to maintain such action in the name of the town, and the village law (Laws 1897, p. 414, c. 414, § 141) giving the board of trustees of a village exclusive control over the streets. Village of Oxford v. Willoughby, 181 N. Y. 155, 73 N. E. 677.

44. People v. Decatur, etc., R. Co., 120 Ill. App. 229.

45. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. App. 306.

46. See 5 C. L. 1687.

47. Immaterial whether a prescriptive highway had been established as against the owner (San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 489, 92 S. W. 259), and such issue need not be submitted to the jury (Id.).

48. Where an obstruction or excavation is made with the consent of the municipal authorities having power to grant it, the rule of liability is less severe and rests on the ordinary principles of negligence. In such case the abutting owner is not liable in the absence of negligence on his part. Mixer v. Herrick, 78 Vt. 349, 62 A. 1019.

49. Liability for obstructions rendering the highway unsafe for travel is treated in § 15.

50. Mixer v. Herrick, 78 Vt. 349, 62 A. 1019.

51. Shut off ingress and egress and backed water upon the adjacent land in large quantities. Frick v. Kansas City, 117 Mo. App. 488, 93 S. W. 351.

52. Whether or not such a pole is dangerous to the public or a nuisance is a question for the jury to be determined under proper instructions from the court and all the circumstances of the case. City of Norwalk v. Jacobs, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 229.

53. City of Norwalk v. Jacobs, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 229.

54. Alley not legally vacated. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111.

55. Rev. Laws c. 11, § 186, held liable to person injured thereby. Haberlil v. Boston, 190 Mass. 358, 76 N. E. 907.

56. Star & Crescent Mill. Co. v. Sanitary Dist. of Chicago, 120 Ill. App. 555.

57. See 5 C. L. 1688.

be prosecuted criminally, especially where the obstruction constitutes a public nuisance.[60] Such statutes and ordinances do not extend to streets and highways not duly laid out and opened.[61] In Georgia a prosecution for obstructing a registered public road cannot be sustained unless the road has been registered in the book known as the "Public Road Register."[62] Where an indictment for maintaining a nuisance alleges facts showing the obstruction to be a nuisance per se, it need not conclude "to the common nuisance of all citizens of the commonwealth."[63] Hearsay evidence is inadmissible to establish the character of the road.[64] Where the court instructs as to how a road may be established, it is error to refuse a requested instruction as to what the jury's report should contain.[65]

HOLIDAYS.[66]

Legal holidays have no legal sanctity other than that conferred by statute,[67] hence acts not prohibited by statute remain lawful.[68] The holidays created by the Indiana Act of March 4, 1905, are legal holidays for all purposes and not merely for the presentment and payment of commercial paper.[69] A local holiday has no extraterritorial effect.[70] Service of legal process on holidays when such service is prohibited is void.[71] A holiday counts as one of the three days allowed for filing a motion for a new trial, unless the holiday is the last of the three days.[72]

58. A railroad which allows a freight car to stand across a public road, it not being alleged that it was placed there willfully, is not guilty of violating Crim. Code § 5388. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 991. Evidence held insufficient to show a willful obstruction. Isham v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 698, 92 S. W. 808.

59. Criminal Code Ill. par. 221, subd. 5, does not authorize a prosecution for obstructing a "private highway," nor can an allegation charging the obstruction of a "private highway" sustain a conviction for obstructing a private way. Gilbert v. People, 121 Ill. App. 423. Evidence insufficient to show the existence of a public highway where appellant built a wall. Dickerman v. Marion, 122 Ill. App. 154.

60. The fact that Ky. St. 1903, § 4335, imposes a penalty for obstructing the public highway, recoverable in a civil action, does not prevent prosecution by indictment for maintaining a nuisance. Commonwealth v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 944.

61. Obstruction of an alley which had never been opened, used, or worked by the city held not to be a violation of an ordinance of the city of Detroit. People v. McNamara [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 919, 106 N. W. 698. One cannot he convicted of obstructing a road where the obstruction was placed before the statutory proceedings for laying out the road had been complied with. Green v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 831, 90 S. W. 1098.

62. McGowan v. State, 124 Ga. 422, 52 S. E. 738.

63. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Com. [Ky.] 96 S. W. 467.

64. In a prosecution for obstructing a public highway, a witness having no personal knowledge cannot testify that the road is a public highway. Isham v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 698, 92 S. W. 808.

65. Isham v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 698, 92 S. W. 808.

66. See 5 C. L. 1688. See, also, Sunday, 6 C. L. 1584.

67. Michel v. Boxholm Co-operative Creamery, 128 Iowa, 706, 105 N. W. 323. They are creatures of statute. State v. Shelton [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1052.

68. The appearance and answer contemplated by Code § 3541, providing that no person shall be held to "appear and answer" on certain designated legal holidays, is a submission to the jurisdiction of a court in response to the service of the original notice, and a trial is not forbidden. Michel v. Boxholm Co-operative Creamery, 128 Iowa, 706, 105 N. W. 323.

69. Hence sale of liquor on Labor Day violated Act March 10, 1905 (Laws 1905, p. 721, c. 169, § 579), prohibiting sale of liquor on certain days "or on any legal holiday." State v. Shelton [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1052.

70. The Saturday afternoon half holiday in the city of Shreveport is a local holiday and does not apply to the district court for the parish of Caddo, which is a court for the entire parish, sitting in Shreveport only because the place is the parish seat. State v. Westmoreland, 117 La. 958, 42 So. 440.

71. Under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 1180, prohibiting issuance or service of process on any legal holiday except in cases of injunction, etc., service without the state of process in action to try title on February 22, a legal holiday in Texas, is void. Norvell v. Pye [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 666.

72. Oberer v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 93.

HOMESTEADS.[73]

§ 1. The Right to the Homestead in General (93).
§ 2. Persons Entitled (93).
§ 3. Properties and Estates in Which Homestead May be Claimed (94). As Dependent on Nature of Claimant's Title (94). As Dependent on Use of Premises (94). As Dependent on Whether Lands are Rural or Urban (95). As Dependent on Whether Property is Realty or Personalty (95). Amount of Rent (95).
§ 4. Claiming, Selecting, and Setting Apart of Homesteads (95).
§ 5. Liabilities Superior or Inferior to Homestead (97).
§ 6. Alienation and Incumbrance (98). Necessity of Consent of Wife to Conveyance or Joinder Therein (99). Acknowledgment of Conveyance (101). Contracts to Convey (101).
§ 7. Loss or Relinquishment (101).
§ 8. Rights of Surviving Spouse, Children, Heirs or Dependents of Homestead Tenant (102). Nature of Survivor's Homestead Estate (103). Loss of Survivor's Right (103). Partition and Assignment Out of Decedent's Estate (104). Election (104). Rights of Divorced Parties (105).
§ 9. Exemption of Proceeds of Homestead or of Substituted Properties (105).
§ 10. Remedies and Procedure by Creditors (105). Remedies of Creditors Against Excess (105). Decrees, and Judicial and Execution Sales (105).

§ 1. The right to the homestead in general.[74]—Homestead statutes should be liberally construed in favor of the claimant.[75]

Nature of homestead estate.[76]—A wife's interest in her husband's homestead during his life is not a freehold interest[77] and is not subject to alienation.[78] She is entitled to the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of the same and one disturbing her therein is liable in trespass.[79] Where any member of a family occupying a homestead acquires a tax title to the same, it operates as a mere payment or redemption.[80] In California community property ceases to be such upon the acquisition of a valid homestead therein.[81]

§ 2. Persons entitled.[82]—This depends on the statute.[83] In some states the right to acquire a homestead exists only in favor of a "family"[84] or "householder and head of a family."[85] Under the Louisiana constitution a wife supporting the family[86] may claim an exemption.[87] Cessation of family relationship does not always divest the right.[88]

An abandoned wife or family[89] may under statute have the homestead exemption in the husband's lands,[90] and she need not immediately or continuously re-

73. As to the personal or general property exemptions, see Exemptions, 7 C. L. 1631. Homestead entries and "claims," see Public Lands, 6 C. L. 1126.

74. See 5 C. L. 1689.

75. In re Thompson, 140 F. 257.

76. See, also, post §§ 2-9.

77. Taylor v. Taylor, 223 Ill. 423, 79 N. E. 139. Hence an appeal involving her rights lies to the appellate court of Illinois and not to the supreme court. Id.

78. At least not to one who does not own the fee. Joplin Brewing Co. v. Payne, 197 Mo. 422, 94 S. W. 896.

79. Lesch v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 106 N. W. 955.

80. Holds legal title in trust for the head of the family. First Congregational Church v. Terry [Iowa] 107 N. W. 305. Irrespective of any fraud between a life tenant and his wife occupying an estate as a homestead, the latter cannot acquire a tax title and defeat the remaindermen. Id.

81. Yardley v. San Joaquin Valley Bank [Cal. App.] 86 P. 978. See, also, Stockton Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Saddlemire [Cal. App.] 86 P. 723.

82, 83. See 5 C. L. 1689.

84. A father living with and supporting an illegitimate daughter is such a family as may have homestead rights. Rutherford v. Mothershed [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 620, 92 S. W. 1021.

85. A husband living with his family is the "householder and head of the family" contemplated by Hurd's St. 1903, c. 52, p. 943, § 1, and the homestead exists in him and only vests in the wife when he dies or abandons her. Taylor v. Taylor, 223 Ill. 423, 79 N. E. 139.

86. Where the only property of the spouses is the separate property of the wife which she uses as a residence and store, the fact that the husband also devotes his time to the business does not alter the fact that the family is dependent upon the wife. Ginsberg v. Groner [La.] 41 So. 569.

87. Const. art. 244, giving exemptions to every person having a person or persons dependent upon "him" or "her" for support. Ginsberg v. Groner [La.] 41 So. 569.

88. Dewees v. Dewees, 28 Ky. L. R. 726, 90 S. W. 256. See, also, post § 7.

89. See 5 C. L. 1690.

90. Where a husband separates from or abandons his wife, the homestead exemption continues in favor of the wife. Montgomery v. Dane [Ark.] 98 S. W. 715. Where a husside there,[91] but in Missouri she does not acquire a title thereto, as where she succeeds on his death.[92]

§ 3. Properties and estates in which homestead may be claimed.[93]—The constitutional homestead exemption of North Carolina is only applicable to lands within the state.[94] The fact that the land is separated from the dwelling house is not conclusive of its nonhomestead character,[95] nor does the fact that a cabin on the land is small and dilapidated show that it is not a homestead.[96] Ungathered crops growing upon a homestead are exempt.[97] In Kentucky one inheriting land may establish a homestead therein as against preexisting debts,[98] and has a reasonable time within which to convert the inheritance into a homestead.[99]

As dependent on nature of claimant's title.[1]—While as a general rule some interest in the claimant is necessary to support a homestead, an equitable title,[2] a leasehold interest,[3] a curtesy consummate,[4] and a fee simple with condition subsequent,[5] have been held sufficient. In Illinois, if the claimant is in actual possession of the land as a residence, his title therein is immaterial.[6] In California a homestead cannot be selected or claimed in lands held as a tenant in common or as a joint tenant.[7] Under a homestead statute which gives merely a protected occupancy as against creditors, a homestead exemption can exist only in lands in which the debtor has a present right of occupancy.[8]

As dependent on use of premises.[9]—Under a statute requiring that a homestead claimant must occupy the land, it is not necessary that he actually reside thereon,[10] or that it be adjacent to the residential piece.[11] "Use in connection" band abandons his family without cause, the wife becomes entitled to the use and profits of the homestead, and under Rev. St. 1899, § 3620, she may maintain possession as against a grantee of the husband. Metz v. Schneider [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 187.

91. See Montgomery v. Dane [Ark.] 98 S. W. 715.

92. Abandonment of the family and homestead by the husband does not vest the homestead in the widow and children under Rev. St. 1879, c. 39, § 2693, providing that the homestead shall so vest upon the "death" of the husband. Joplin Brewing Co. v. Payne, 197 Mo. 422, 94 S. W. 896.

93. See 5 C. L. 1690.

94. Const. art. 10, § 2, exempting from execution the homestead "owned and occupied by any resident of this state," does not authorize a bankruptcy court to set off a homestead in lands in Maryland. In re Owings 140 F. 739.

95. But may be considered with the other evidence. Gibbs v. Adams [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1008. The actual use of a contiguous tract as a part of the homestead farm is sufficient to impress it with the homestead character, if the aggregate of the two farms does not exceed the homestead limit. Cowley v. Spradlin [Ark.] 91 S. W. 550. Where one owns a tract of land contiguous to that upon which he lives, he may select enough thereof to make a homestead of 160 acres provided it does not exceed $2,500 in value. Cowley v. Thompson [Ark.] 91 S. W. 552.

96. Gibbs v. Adams [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1008.

97. Nunn-Weldon Dry Goods Co. v. Haden [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 318, 95 S. W. 73.

98. Roberts v. Adams [Ky.] 96 S. W. 554.

99. What is a reasonable time is a question of fact. Roberts v. Adams [Ky.] 96 S. W. 554. Where the land inherited is not suitable for homestead purposes, or where he owns only an undivided interest and a division is infeasible, such reasonable time includes time to effect a judicial sale and divide the proceeds. Id.

1. See 5 C. L. 1690.

2. Stowell v. Kerr, 72 Kan. 330, 83 P. 827; Tracy v. Harbin [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 53, 89 S. W. 999. Where a father agreed to give a married son a lot if he would build and live thereon, which he did, such lot becomes a homestead though the legal title has not been transferred. Holliday v. Mathewson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 816, 109 N. W. 669.

3. Iowa. In re Ring's Estate [Iowa] 109 N. W. 710.

4. Wisconsin: Under the exemption statute of Wisconsin, providing that "such exemption shall extend * * * to any estate less than a fee held by any person by lease, contract or otherwise," a tenant by the curtesy consummate is entitled to an exemption. In re Kaufmann, 142 F. 898.

5. Tracy v. Harbin [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 53, 89 S. W. 999.

6. Daughters v. Christy, 223 Ill. 612, 79 N. E. 292.

7. Schoonover v. Birnbaum, 148 Cal. 548, 83 P. 999.

8. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1702 et seq., a remainderman has no homestead exemption during the life term. In re Sale [C. C. A.] 143 F. 310. And it is immaterial that he is in the actual occupancy of the land, as where remainderman and life tenant, husband and wife, are living thereon. Id.

9. See 5 C. L. 1690.

10. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Reesor, 28 Ky. L. R. 1308, 91 S. W. 717.

with his place of residence must be more than merely occasional.[12] Buildings situated on and used as a part of the homestead may be claimed under some statutes as a part thereof.[13]

As dependent on whether lands are rural or urban.[14]—In Texas a homestead must be exclusively urban or rural.[15]

As dependent on whether property is realty or personalty.[16]

Amount exempt.[17]—In Mississippi a homestead in a town or village is measured by its value,[18] while in Arkansas, if in an incorporated town, by its territorial extent,[19] but the fact that the property exceeds the exemption limit does not prevent homestead rights from arising therein.[20]

§ 4. Claiming, selecting, and setting apart of homesteads.[21]—A mere intention to occupy land at some future time as a home is insufficient to impress it with a homestead character,[22] unless it is accompanied by overt acts clearly manifesting such intent,[23] and is followed by an actual occupation within a reasonable time, in which case the homestead character relates back and prevents liens from attaching in the meantime.[24] In the absence of statutory provisions prescribing the mode of setting out the homestead, occupation[25] of land with a bona fide intent to use it as a home[26] is sufficient to impress it with that character,[27] but in some states a written

11. Where a resident of a village uses land two miles distant as a part of the homestead and the two pieces do not exceed the limit allowed, such land may be claimed as a homestead. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Reesor, 28 Ky. L. R. 1308, 91 S. W. 717.

12. A 12 acre lot in a city owned by a saloonkeeper, which was detached from the residence and leased on shares or occasionally used as a pasture, is not a part of the homestead, since the use was merely incidental. Levy & Co. v. Lacour [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 380.

13. A storehouse on the homestead lot is exempt as "appurtenant" within Ky. St. 1903, § 1702, though leased, if the value of the lot and building do not exceed the maximum amount. Green & Sons v. Pennington [Ky.] 97 S. W. 766. Under Code § 2978, allowing "a" shop or other building situated on the homestead and actually used and occupied by the tenant in the prosecution of his business as appurtenant to the homestead, does not permit him to maintain several buildings. Shaffer Bros. v. Chernyk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 801.

14. See 5 C. L. 1691.

15. Hence one occupying an urban lot as a homestead cannot claim as a part thereof a disconnected tract outside of town. Parker v. W. L. Moody & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 650.

16. See 3 C. L. 1633.

17. See 5 C. L. 1691.

18. May claim up to $2,000 in value irrespective of territorial extent. Stevens v. Wilbourn [Miss.] 41 So. 66.

19. The constitution limits the homestead to one acre. Gibbs v. Adams [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1008.

20. Rev. Codes 1899, § 3605, construed not as a definition of the term "homestead" but as a limitation of the homestead exemption. Calmer v. Calmer [N. D.] 106 N. W. 684.

21. See 5 C. L. 1691. See, also, post § 8, Partition, etc.

22. An intention to occupy land after repairs does not exempt it from a lien of attachment. Gibbs v. Adams [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1008.

23. Where a debtor in failing circumstances decided to give to his creditors the house in which he was living and to move upon a farm as a homestead, the latter did not become impressed with a homestead character, since there was no overt act manifesting the intent. Bush & Co. v. Adams, 72 Kan. 556, 84 P. 122.

24. Where one acquires property with intent to live thereon and take possession within a reasonable time, the homestead rights attach as of the time of purchase. Home Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. McKay, 118 Ill. App. 586. Therefore the lien of an existing judgment cannot attach. Stowell v. Kerr, 72 Kan. 330, 83 P. 827.

25. The clearing and planting of a portion and the moving of corn onto land intended for a home, where the house is yet incomplete, is not such occupation as to give it a homestead character. Shell v. Young [Ark.] 95 S. W. 798.

26. Where the wife of an absconded debtor moves a few household goods into a dilapidated cabin which creditors are about to seize, the court must consider all the circumstances to determine whether the claim of homestead is made in good faith or as a shield against creditors. Gibbs v. Adams [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1008. Where one upon separation from his wife gives her the house in which they are living and attempts but fails to buy out a tenant upon his farm and thereafter attempts to sell the same, no homestead is established in the farm. Swift v. Kleckner [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 690, 109 N. W. 34.

27. Where a wife owns a house and lot of the value of $750 and lives thereon, and neither she nor her husband owns any other lands in the state, she has a homestead right therein though unassigned. Ex parte Miley, 73 S. C. 325, 53 S. E. 535. Being of less value than $1,000, it was not subject to judgment liens. Id.

declaration, describing the land[28] and stating the value thereof,[29] is required. These declarations must be made by the proper party[30] and in the particular mode if any appropriate to the party claiming,[31] and state all facts required by the statute to entitle such claimant as distinguished from others,[32] but defects in the execution of a declaration which clearly manifests an intent to claim as a homestead lands which are thereafter occupied and used as such will not defeat the homestead rights.[33] In Texas the joinder of the wife is not necessary to a valid declaration by the husband.[34] In Michigan, where a debtor occupies three lots in one inclosure in an incorporated village as a homestead, such lots in the execution of a levy should be treated as a single tract and the statutory proceeding taken to set out the homestead therein.[35] In North Dakota where a homestead estate is decreed in the county court in land which exceeds the limit in value and is indivisible, the decree should show the amount of excess and the fact of indivisibility.[36] Some statutes allow the debtor to select which of available lands he will have,[37] which in Texas must include the mansion house, the appurtenant lands, and the improvements used therewith,[38] and need not be of unincumbered land available equally with that chosen.[39] The selection must be made in good faith.[40] In North Carolina, to allot homestead without according him opportunity to select is error.[41] Where parents die without having made the selection, the right inures in Arkansas to the minor children,[42] but not being sui juris the selection must be made through a commission appointed by the chancery court upon application;[43] and where minor

28. Under Civ. Code § 1263, a declaration describing a homestead as "lying in B County * * * being with other land * * * (describing land in a designated township) and all lands owned by" the husband of the declarant "in said township," is insufficient, as declarant evidently intended to claim lands in addition to that specifically described. Jones v. Gunn [Cal.] 87 P. 577.

29. Where a declaration contains a specific description of certain lands and a reference to other undescribed lands and an estimated value of them all, a disregard of the reference to make the description sufficient renders the declaration of value insufficient under Civ. Code § 1263. Jones v. Gunn [Cal.] 87 P. 577.

30, 31. Civ. Code §§ 1266-1269, prescribing the manner of declarations of "homestead of other persons," relates to persons other than a husband, wife, or head of a family whose rights to a homestead are prescribed by §§ 1262, 1263, and hence a wife cannot make a declaration thereunder. Hansen v. Union Sav. Bank, 148 Cal. 157, 82 P. 768.

32. A declaration by a wife which does not state that her husband has not made a declaration and that she is making it for their joint benefit is insufficient under Civ. Code § 1263. Hansen v. Union Sav. Bank, 148 Cal. 157, 82 P. 768.

33. McGaughey v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 92 S. W. 1003.

34. Under Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. 1897, arts. 2403-2405, it is not necessary that the wife join in or acknowledge the designation or that she have knowledge of the same. McGaughey v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 92 S. W. 1003.

35. Proceedings should have been had under Comp. Laws 1897, §§ 10,364-10,366. Averill v. Benzie County State Sav. Bank [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 1011, 106 N. W. 865.

36. Calmer v. Calmer [N. D.] 106 N. W. 684.

37. Where one entitled to a homestead is residing on a tract of more than the allowed amount and has so used the entire tract as to impress it with a homestead character, he may select the particular tract therein which shall be his homestead. McGaughey v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 92 S. W. 1003.

38. McGaughey v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 92 S. W. 1003.

39. A homestead may be designated upon mortgaged property notwithstanding the designator has other unincumbered property which might be designated. At least such designation is not invalid as a matter of law. McGaughey v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 92 S. W. 1003.

40. Must be made to secure to himself and family the benefits of the exemption law and not to evade the law prohibiting the mortgaging of the homestead. McGaughey v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 92 S. W. 1003. Letters containing admissions by defendant as to the land designated as a homestead in a larger tract are admissible in an action to foreclose a deed of trust on other lands in the same tract in which he attempts to assert a homestead interest. Id.

41. Under Const. art. 10, § 12, and Revisal 1905, §§ 688, 693, a debtor must be given an opportunity to make his own selection and an allotment by appraisers during his absence is void. McKeithen v. Blue [N. C.] 55 S. E. 285.

42. Const. art. 9, § 10. Cowley v. Spradlin [Ark.] 91 S. W. 550; Cowley v. Thompson [Ark.] 91 S. W. 552.

children bring two actions to redeem separate tracts from a tax sale as homestead property and the aggregate exceeds the constitutional amount, the court should compel them to elect which tract they will redeem or require the defendant in one case to be made a party to the other and allow a redemption of a portion of each.[44]

In North Carolina the regularity of an allotment by appraisers may be raised by exceptions seasonably taken in the manner prescribed by statute.[45] Exceptions to an official allotment of homestead, though defective, may be heard as a motion to vacate it when void on its face.[46]

§ 5. Liabilities superior or inferior to homestead.[47]—In all states the homestead is to a limited extent exempt and is usually not subject to debts contracted[48] and judgments entered subsequent to its acquisition,[49] unless there be a loss or relinquishment of the right,[50] though liable for preexisting debts.[51] A homestead is usually liable for debts incurred in the improvement thereof, but in some states, in order to create a lien, the contract for improvement must be signed by the wife,[52] though in Michigan her omission to sign merely prevents the lien from attaching to the lot,[53] while it attaches to the building,[54] though constructed on a lot not owned by the contracting party.[55] In Texas the renewal of a note secured by a mechanic's lien on the homestead by the husband without the wife's consent destroys the lien.[56] As a general rule a homestead is not exempt from obligations incurred in the purchase thereof,[57] but where a vendor's lien is only upon an undivided half, the owner may claim his exemption in the other half.[58] The execution of a mortgage on the homestead does not destroy the exemption against creditors generally.[59] Judgment liens attach upon the termination of the homestead

43. Cowley v. Spradlin [Ark.] 91 S. W. 550.
44. Cowley v. Thompson [Ark.] 91 S. W. 552.
45. Under Revisal 1905, § 699, authorizing a debtor within 10 days after the filing of the return to notify the adverse party and file exceptions attached to a transcript of the return, exceptions filed with the clerk and attached to the return of the appraisers on file, of which no notice was given, and the filing of additional exceptions after the 10 days had expired, are insufficient. McKeithen v. Blue [N. C.] 55 S. E. 285.
46. Though exceptions to appraiser's selection of homestead are irregular as exceptions within the statute prescribing a remedy for persons "dissatisfied with the allotment," yet where they call the court's attention to the fact that the debtor's constitutional right of selection had not been observed and the necessary parties were before the court and the facts found, the proceedings may be treated as a rule upon the sheriff to show cause why the appraisement should not be set aside. McKeithen v. Blue [N. C.] 55 S. E. 285.
47. See 5 C. L. 1693.
48. Griffin v. Dunn [Ark.] 96 S. W. 190.
49. Meikle v. Cloquet [Wash.] 87 P. 841. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 671, 690. Yardley v. San Joaquin Valley Bank [Cal. App.] 86 P. 978.
50. See post § 7.
51. Porter v. Hart County Deposit Bank & Trust Co. [Ky.] 96 S. W. 832. A homestead purchased with the proceeds of another homestead is exempt as against a debt incurred after the acquisition of the first homestead but before that of the latter, although a homestead is not exempt against prior debts. Green v. Pennington [Ky.] 97 S. W. 766.
52. The contract for improvements may be embodied in a deed of trust executed on the homestead (Walker v. Woody [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 957, 89 S. W. 789), but such deed must show all the elements required of a separate instrument, and where the material consisted of fruit trees, a deed failing to show that the trees were to be used on the homestead or the consideration of the contract is insufficient under Const. art. 16, § 50 (Id.).
53. Holliday v. Mathewson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 816, 109 N. W. 669.
54, 55. Comp. Laws 1897, § 10,712. Holliday v. Mathewson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 816, 109 N. W. 669.
56. Sudduth v. Du Bose [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 329, 93 S. W. 235.
57. While the constitutional exception making a homestead liable for obligations incurred in the purchase thereof must be strictly construed, the term must not be so restricted as to render it nugatory. Platt v. Platt [Fla.] 39 So. 536. The meaning of the word "obligations" as used in Const. art. 10, § 1, is any debt contracted to be paid or a duty assumed as the consideration of the purchase. Id.
58. Where the owner of an undivided half purchases the other and acquires a homestead in the whole, upon a sale under a vendor's lien, the owner may claim one-half of the proceeds as exempt. Iberia Cypress Co. v. Christen, 116 La. 53, 40 So. 529. The words "any part thereof" in the exception to the homestead exemption in favor of "the purchase price or any part thereof" re-character while the land is still owned by the debtor,[60] and in Louisiana the land passes upon sale subject to judicial mortgages inscribed against the vendor.[61] The lien of a judgment revived by scire facias is inferior to existing homestead rights, though the lien of the original judgment was superior.[62] In Iowa the homestead of a pensioner purchased with pension money becomes subject, upon his death, to debts incurred before its acquisition.[63] In Wisconsin a homestead is exempt though purchased with unexempt funds after insolvency.[64] In Nebraska a judgment does not become a lien upon the homestead unless the debtor has a clear interest therein in excess of the exempted amount.[65] One may acquire by subrogation enforceable rights against the homestead.[66]

Application of payments to protect homestead.—Where no directions are given, payments on a debt should be so applied by the court as to preserve the homestead.[67]

§ 6. Alienation and incumbrance.[68]—A homestead is subject to sale and transfer by a properly executed instrument,[69] but where it is exempt from execution, it cannot be the subject of a fraudulent conveyance,[70] and a gift to the wife of a part of the proceeds of a loan thereon, to secure her signature to the mortgage, fers to the purchase price and not the land. Id.

59. Hobson v. Noel [Ky.] 97 S. W. 388.

60. Business homestead. Bradley v. Janssen [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 914, 93 S. W. 506.

61. Abbeville Rice Co. v. Shambaugh, 115 La. 1047, 40 So. 453.

62. Misener v. Glasbrenner, 221 Ill. 384, 77 N. E. 467.

63. Code § 4010 exempts such homestead from debts incurred prior to its acquisition only during the life of the pensioner. Beatty v. Wardell [Iowa] 105 N. W. 357.

64. Held no such fraud upon the creditors as will enable them to reach the property. In re Wood, 147 F. 877.

65. Hence, where one mortgage is discharged with the proceeds of another, each mortgage being sufficient to reduce the clear interest of the mortgagor below $2,000, an existing judgment never becomes a lien. Goble v. Brenneman [Neb.] 106 N. W. 440.

66. NOTE. Subrogation to rights against the homestead: "One may, under proper circumstances, be subrogated to rights which can be enforced against a homestead. Gilbert v. Neely, 35 Ark. 24; Luck v. Atkins, 53 Ark. 303, 13 S. W. 1097; Ayres v. Probasco, 14 Kan. 198; Markillie v. Allen, 120 Mich. 360, 79 N. W. 568; Roy v. Clark, 75 Tex. 28, 12 S. W. 845; Denecamp v. Townsend [Tex. Civ. App.] 33 S. W. 254. But see First Nat. Bank v. Browne, 128 Ala. 557, 29 So. 552, 86 Am. St. Rep. 156. Money advanced to pay a mortgage for the purchase price of a homestead is held equivalent to so much purchase money, and the second mortgagee is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the first. Carr v. Caldwell, 10 Cal. 380, 70 Am. Dec. 740. And where one pays off a mortgage and his title afterward fails, he may be subrogated to the mortgagee's rights, although the property is a homestead. Murphy v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 50 S. W. 1040. If a third person loans a vendee money with which to pay the purchase price of land, taking from the vendor a conveyance of the title as security, he is subrogated to the rights of the vendor, and the vendee's rights, homestead or otherwise, are subject to his lien for the money loaned. Heyderstadt v. Whalen, 54 Minn. 199, 55 N. W. 958. And it is said that one who discharges a vendor's lien upon land—even the homestead—either by paying as surety, or at the request of the debtor, or at a judicial sale which fails to convey the title, is entitled to be subrogated to the lien of the creditor to the extent of the payment so made. Faires v. Cockrill, 88 Tex. 428, 31 S. W. 190, 626, citing McDonough v. Cross, 40 Tex. 251; Burns v. Ledbetter, 54 Tex. 374; Texas, etc., Loan Co. v. Blalock, 76 Tex. 85, 13 S. W. 12. See, also, Hicks v. Morris, 57 Tex. 658; Pioneer Loan Co. v. Paschall, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 613, 34 S. W. 1001; Dixon v. National Loan, etc., Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 40 S. W. 541; Ivory v. Kennedy, 57 F. 340; Western Mtg. Co. v. Gazner, 63 F. 647. If money is advanced to pay a purchase-money note, and the amount advanced is secured by a trust deed, it has been held that the person making the loan may be subrogated to the vendor's lien as against the homestead right of the borrower. Pridgen v. Warn, 79 Tex. 588, 15 S. W. 559."—From American Bonding Co. v. National Mechanics' Bank [Md.] 99 Am. St. Rep. 489.

67. Applied so as to discharge that part of the debt incurred before the homestead rights attached. Shaffer Bros. v. Chernyk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 801.

68. See 5 C. L. 1695.

69. Johnston v. Fraser [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 80, 92 S. W. 49.

70. South Omaha Nat. Bank v. Boyd [Ark.] 97 S. W. 288; Dewees v. Dewees, 28 Ky. L. R. 726, 90 S. W. 256. Immaterial that it was made to defeat creditors. Hobson v. Noel [Ky.] 97 S. W. 388. A bona fide conveyance of a homestead to the wife is not rendered fraudulent as to creditors by a subsequent abandonment. Commercial State Bank v. Kendall [S. D.] 106 N. W. 53. The fact that on the day prior to a sale the vendor shipped certain goods to his future residence, and stayed that night at a neighbor's house, did not constitute an abandonment of the homestead before sale so as to render it fraudulent as to creditors to defeat whom he made the sale. Hobson v. Noel [Ky.] 97 S. W. 388.

is not a fraud on the creditors.[71] Where a homestead has been set aside to the head of a family under the Georgia Constitution of 1868, he may dispose of his interest therein.[72] Since in Colorado a tenant may voluntarily mortgage his homestead, an equitable lien created by a contract to execute a deed of trust will attach despite its homestead character.[73] In Louisiana, where the owner sells the property, recorded judgments follow it into the purchaser's hands.[74]

Necessity of consent of wife to conveyance or joinder therein.[75]—It is now almost a universal rule that a homestead cannot be conveyed or incumbered without the consent of the wife,[76] and in many states a joint deed is necessary to pass an interest therein[77] and estoppel will not supply such defect.[78] A statute imposing greater restrictions upon the right of the homestead tenant to convey is not objectionable as depriving the tenant of vested rights.[79] Where assent simply is required a wife may estop herself from denying that it was given.[80] In Texas a husband whose wife has abandoned him without cause[81] may convey the homestead by his separate deed, but under the Minnesota statute, declaring a deed not joined in by the wife void, such abandonment followed by adultery does not make the husband's deed valid,[82] nor does the termination of the homestead character give it validity.[83] Where a deed must be joined in by the husband and wife to be effective, a deed executed by a husband individually and as guardian of his wife,[84] or under a power

71. Becomes her separate property and cannot be reached. Yardley v. San Joaquin Valley Bank [Cal. App.] 86 P. 978.

72. Although he cannot defeat the rights of the minor children. Waters v. Waters, 124 Ga. 349, 52 S. E. 425.

73. Under Mills' Ann. St. § 2137, the entry of the word "homestead" on the margin of a decree awarding certain lots does not prevent the equitable lien created by a contract to execute a deed of trust to the same from attaching. Patrick v. Morrow, 33 Colo. 509, 81 P. 242.

74. Abbeville Rice Mill v. Shambaugh, 115 La. 1047, 40 So. 453.

75. See 5 C. L. 1696.

76. Metz v. Schneider [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 187.

77. Cushman v. Davis [Vt.] 64 A. 456. Rev. Codes § 5052. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Collin [N. D.] 110 N. W. 81. Under Comp. St. 1903, c. 36, § 4 (Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 6203), the instrument must be executed and acknowledged by both husband and wife. Weatherington v. Smith [Neb.] 109 N. W. 381. Under the Michigan constitution the wife must join in the same instrument, and two separate deeds pursuant to an oral contract of the husband to convey is insufficient. Lott v. Lott [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 883, 109 N. W. 1126. An agreement by a purchaser of land already occupied as a homestead that the title should be held by a third person advancing the purchase money as security therefor and for other indebtedness, which agreement is not joined in by the wife, is void as to all except the purchase-money indebtedness. Blake v. Lowry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 728, 93 S. W. 521. Incapacity of either renders the incumbrance void. Husband insane. Stafford v. Tarter [Ky.] 96 S. W. 1127. A lease for two years is void unless joined in by the wife (Haile v. Haile [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 796, 93 S. W. 435), and cannot be sustained as a valid lease for one year, granting that the husband could make such a lease without the wife's consent (Id.).

78. Weatherington v. Smith [Neb.] 109 N. W. 381. Where at the time of executing a trust deed a tract covered thereby was in the actual possession of the grantor and wife and was being used as a homestead previously designated by them from a larger tract, a recital therein that the tract was not used as a homestead did not estop the grantor's wife from claiming it as a homestead. McGaughey v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 92 S. W. 1003.

79. Rev. Codes 1899, § 3608 (Rev. Codes 1905, § 5052), requiring the wife's signature, though a nonresident, which was not required when the homestead character was impressed upon the land. Gaar, Scott & Co. v. Collin [N. D.] 110 N. W. 81. The right of individual conveyance is waived by imposing a homestead character upon the land, and it becomes subject to existing laws regulating its conveyance. Id.

80. Where a lease of the homestead must be assented to by the wife which might be oral, and the husband and wife stand by and see the lessee make extensive improvements in reliance on the lease, they are estopped to assert the invalidity of the lease for lack of the wife's assent, especially where they have abandoned the homestead in the meantime. Shay v. Bevis Rock Salt Co., 72 Kan. 208, 83 P. 202. Where a wife recognizes the validity of notes secured by a mechanic's lien on the homestead by securing extension of time for payment and a bona fide purchaser acquires them in reliance thereon, she is estopped to assert that they were improperly delivered by the trustee to the contractor. Roane v. Murphy [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 24, 96 S. W. 782.

81. Evidence held to show an unjustifiable abandonment, and hence the husband's subsequent deed conveys title. Dugat v. Means [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 557, 91 S. W. 363.

of attorney from her,[85] is void. In Illinois a deed insufficient to convey the homestead because improperly subscribed by the wife becomes effectual if possession is given.[86] Where a homestead can be alienated only with the joint consent of the husband and wife, nothing can be done by one to affect the title while the other lives,[87] though the estoppel may operate after the other's death.[88] In Nebraska an executory contract of sale of the homestead not joined in by the wife is void as to the whole without regard to its value,[89] but where it includes other lands it is valid as to them.[90] Renewed contracts of purchase need not be signed by the vendee's wife, though the property has become a homestead in the meanwhile.[91] Courts will scrutinize transactions in which a wife's assent to a disposition of a homestead is secured, yet she will not be relieved from the consequences of her own acts which she understood or should have understood.[92] Heirs seeking to recover land in the possession of a mortgagee under a mortgage void as an incumbrance on the homestead not joined in by the wife need not tender payment of the debt.[93]

Where a homestead can only be conveyed by the joint act of the husband and wife, the latter cannot, by separating from her husband, partition the homestead in which she has an undivided half interest.[94]

82, 83. Murphy v. Renner [Minn.] 109 N. W. 593.

84. 2 Hill's Ann. St. & Codes § 483. Curry v. Wilson [Wash.] 87 P. 1065.

85. Under Code § 2974. Keeline v. Clark [Iowa] 106 N. W. 257.

86. Possession is given "pursuant to a conveyance" within the Exemption Act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 52), § 4, when the conveyance is the moving cause, and need not be immediately given, for where husband gave deed to wife, and subsequently moved away, the wife thereafter renting the same, there is sufficient possession. Coon v. Wilson, 222 Ill. 633, 78 N. E. 900.

87. Where a wife is insane no act of the husband will work an estoppel during her life. Withers v. Love, 72 Kan. 140, 83 P. 204.

88. Where one upon return from prison accepts the proceeds of a sale of the homestead by his attorney which was wholly void because of the insanity of the wife, and permits improvements to be made, he is not estopped where the facts are as well known to the purchaser as to him. Withers v. Love, 72 Kan. 140, 83 P. 204.

89. Neither an action for specific performance or for damages for breach of it will lie. Lichty v. Beale [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1018.

90. Johnson v. Higgins [Neb.] 108 N. W. 168.

91. Vendor retained title, which was to be conveyed upon the payment of the purchase price, which contract was several times renewed. Clifton Land Co. v. Davenport [Iowa] 106 N. W. 365.

92. Where the wife joins in a mortgage on the homestead to secure a note of the husband alone and she so understood or should have, a recital therein that it is given to secure a note signed by the wife in connection with the husband may be reformed. Bastin v. Schafer, 15 Okl. 607, 85 P. 349.

93. The equitable rule that he who seeks equity must do equity is inapplicable. Woods v. Campbell [Miss.] 40 So. 874.

94. Grace v. Grace, 96 Minn. 294, 104 N. W. 969.

NOTE. Right of a wife having an undivided interest in homestead to partition: "Defendant, in order to compromise a suit for divorce, deeded to his wife an undivided half of the homestead. Later she left because of his cruel treatment and brought an action for partition of the homestead. Held, that partition could not be decreed. Grace v. Grace [Minn.] 104 N. W. 969. The court held that even though all the homestead rights were in the husband's undivided half, the wife could not make a valid sale or conveyance destroying the homestead, under the statute which provided that the wife could not convey the homestead or any interest therein unless her husband joins with her in the conveyance. To allow the wife by leaving her husband to acquire the right to compel partition of the homestead in which she had an undivided half interest would be to allow her to do indirectly by partition what she could not do directly by sale or conveyance. Mitchell v. Mitchell, 101 Ala. 183, 13 So. 147; Brooks v. Hotchkiss, 4 Ill. App. 175; Ehrck v. Ehrck, 106 Iowa, 614, 76 N. W. 793, 68 Am. St. Rep. 330. By the weight of authority a conveyance of the property in which a homestead exists may be made by the husband alone to the wife, either directly or indirectly, though the statute provides that the homestead cannot be conveyed without the signature of both. Kindley v. Spraker, 72 Ark. 228, 105 Am. St. Rep. 32; Furrow v. Athey, 21 Neb. 671; Lynch v. Doran, 95 Mich. 395, 54 N. W. 882. The husband may have a homestead right in land owned in common by the husband and wife. Lozo v. Sutherland, 38 Mich. 168. The principal case seems in line with the reason of the homestead exemption since it is a law for the benefit of the family and the husband does not cease to be the head of a family, in the eye of the law, by reason of the desertion of the wife. Gates v. Steele, 48 Ark. 539; Brown v. Brown, 68 Mo. 388; Pardo v. Bittorf, 48 Mich. 275. The wife, however, is not left without a remedy. By an absolute divorce the homestead would be terminated. Kern v. Field, 68 Minn. 317, 71 N. W. 393, 64 Am. St. Rep. 479. "That the

Acknowledgment of conveyance.[95]—Conveyances and incumbrances on the homestead defective because not acknowledged by the wife may be cured by legislative act.[96]

Contracts to convey.[97]—A contract to convey the homestead must as a general rule be joined in by the wife.[98]

§ 7. Loss or relinquishment.[99]—The right to acquire a homestead may be lost by destruction or cessation of some one or more of the requisite conditions before claim is made,[1] or a homestead acquired may be alienated[2] or lost by the bar of limitation,[3] which begins from the time of abandonment.[4] A sale of land does not preclude the vendor from asserting his homestead exemption therein when set aside as fraudulent.[5] In Kentucky the destruction of the family does not terminate an existing homestead.[6]

To constitute an abandonment there must be a departure with an intent to abandon;[7] a mere temporary absence, as for health, to afford educational advantages legislature has not provided relief for her under such circumstances as would justify her in leaving her husband, though not necessarily entitling her to a divorce, does not alter the letter and spirit of the homestead law.' Grace v. Grace [Minn.] 104 N. W. 969." —From 4 Mich. L. Rev. 402.

95. See 5 C. L. 1696. See, also, Acknowledgments, 7 C. L. 25, and as to acknowledgment of waiver, see post § 7.

96. A defective mortgage on the homestead, because not acknowledged by the wife, executed Jan. 21, 1899, was cured by Kirby's Dig. § 785. Rhea v. Planters' Mut. Ins. Co. [Ark.] 90 S. W. 850.

97. See 5 C. L. 1696.

98. A contract for the sale of the homestead not joined in by the wife is wholly void under Rev. Codes 1899, § 3608 (Rev. Codes 1905, § 5052). Silander v. Gronna [N. D.] 108 N. W. 544.

99. See 5 C. L. 1696.

1. See ante §§ 2-4.

2. See ante § 6.

3. Rev. St. 1899, § 4262, providing that no action for the recovery of lands shall be commenced unless plaintiff or his predecessors have been seised or possessed within 10 years, is applicable to land claimed as a homestead. Joplin Brewing Co. v. Payne, 197 Mo. 422, 94 S. W. 896. Ann. Code 1892, § 2732, limiting the time in which to maintain an action to recover property in possession of a mortgagee after condition broken, has no application where the mortgage was void for nonjoinder of the wife. Woods v. Campbell [Miss.] 40 So. 874. In Arkansas the statute of limitations for the recovery of the homestead does not run against the heirs during the occupancy of the widow. Griffin v. Dunn [Ark.] 96 S. W. 190.

4. An attempted alienation of the homestead by the widow constitutes an abandonment. Griffin v. Dunn [Ark.] 96 S. W. 190.

5. Guinan v. Donnell [Mo.] 98 S. W. 478; In re Thompson, 140 F. 257. Especially where recovered by trustee in bankruptcy in view of the Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, §§ 67e, 70a, (4), 30 Stat. 564, 566 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, pp. 3449, 3451], vesting title to such property in the trustee "except in so far as it is to property which is exempt." Id.

6. A husband's homestead right is not affected by the death of his wife, leaving him without a family. Dewees v. Dewees, 28 Ky. L. R. 726, 90 S. W. 256.

7. Held to show an intent to abandon: Making a homestead entry on public land and executing the required affidavit that he intended the land as a home. Tracy v. Harbin [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 53, 89 S. W. 999. Leased the land for a term of years and thereafter offered it for sale. Ungers v. Chapman [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 896, 109 N. W. 1124. Removal to neighboring town where he engaged in the practice of his profession and became a registered voter, though he expressed a desire to keep the old place for the children. McGregor v. Kellum [Fla.] 39 So. 697. Quits locality because of a lack of work and seeks employment elsewhere, and thereafter attempts to sell. Hollins v. Cropper, 115 La. 987, 40 So. 378. Leased farm, sold off his implements, and moved his family to the city where he purchased a house and lot, leaving only a few articles of furniture on the farm for which he had no room in the city. Swift v. Kleckner [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 690, 109 N. W. 34. Where the holder of a business homestead because of financial embarrassment closes out the business, leases the store, removes to and engages in business in another town, there is an abandonment of the homestead, notwithstanding he retains an office therein, it not appearing that he transacts any business there. Bradley v. Janssen [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 914, 93 S. W. 506.

Held no abandonment: The positive testimony of homestead tenant that he left the farm with intent to return as soon as he could make a living thereon as against declarations to the contrary held sufficient to sustain the finding of the lower court that there was no abandonment. Lawson v. Hammond [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 313. Where a homesteader, upon the destruction of the house, goes to live in a house of a son until such time as she can rebuild and leases the land for five years with the right to resume occupancy at any time by paying for the improvements, and frequently rejected offers of sale on the ground that she intended to rebuild, held no abandonment. Cazzola v. Savage [Ark.] 96 S. W. 981. Where a homesteader moves his family into a house owned to children,[8] or under force of circumstances[9] comes short of it, especially where possession is retained through a tenant.[10] But where property is quitted with no intention of returning, it is immaterial that the departure was compelled by force of circumstances.[11] It is not essential to an abandonment of a homestead that the husband and wife should simultaneously leave the same,[12] or that a new homestead should be acquired.[13] It is not an abandonment of her right for a deserted wife to temporarily lease the homestead till she can occupy it.[14] It is not lost as to other creditors by executing a mortgage to one.[15] As a rule neither spouse can abandon the homestead for the other without his or her consent,[16] though where the husband establishes a new homestead the duty of the wife to conform thereto works an abandonment of the old.[17] A debtor waives his homestead by removing with his family to another state.[18] In most states[19] a homestead exemption may be waived,[20] but in Louisiana an express stipulation joined in by the wife is necessary,[21] though it is not essential to a renunciation of the homestead that the wife be examined out of the presence of her husband,[22] nor is it even necessary that there be a formal renunciation before a notary.[23]

§ 8. Rights of surviving spouse, children, heirs, or dependents of homestead tenant.[24]—The succession to the homestead in nearly every state differs from that of other real property and is almost wholly statutory.[25] The statute in force at the

by the wife, intending to return to the homestead as soon as a nearby saloon could be abated, renting it in the meantime but keeping tools, furniture, and chickens thereon, held that there was no intent to abandon. Victor v. Grimmer, 118 Mo. App. 592, 95 S. W. 274.

8. Where the owner of a farm upon the destruction of the house thereon moved his family into a house on adjoining land leaving stock on the farm, and shortly thereafter moved to a city for the winter to give his children school advantages, intending in the meanwhile to return, there is no abandonment. In re Thompson, 140 F. 257.

9. A homestead occupied by a husband and children while the wife is confined in an insane asylum is not abandoned by the husband's sentence and confinement in the penitentiary and the removal of the minor children. Withers v. Love, 72 Kan. 140, 83 P. 204.

10. Dewees v. Dewees, 28 Ky. L. R. 726, 90 S. W. 256. Committed to the insane hospital for treatment. Weatherington v. Smith [Neb.] 109 N. W. 381; Curry v. Wilson [Wash.] 87 P. 1065.

11. Buildings destroyed by fire. Cushman v. Davis [Vt.] 64 A. 456.

12. Wife continued to occupy for sometime after the desertion of the husband Cushman v. Davis [Vt.] 64 A. 456.

13. Especially under V. S. 2179, which requires that the property must be "used and kept" as a homestead in order to preserve its character. Cushman v. Davis [Vt.] 64 A. 456.

14. Where a wife separated from her husband is compelled to leave the homestead because she cannot live there alone, but intends to return, which she finally does, leasing it in the meantime, there is no abandonment so as to subject it to the husband's debts. Montgomery v. Dane [Ark.] 98 S. W. 715.

15. Hobson v. Noel [Ky.] 97 S. W. 388.

16. Where the husband is in the insane asylum for treatment, an abandonment by the wife does not effect an abandonment for the husband since he has no capacity to consent. Weatherington v. Smith [Neb.] 109 N. W. 381.

17. Where no facts are shown which authorize a wife to acquire a homestead while living apart from her husband, the establishment of another residence by the husband and the duty of the wife to conform thereto as imposed by Rev. Codes 1899, §§ 2764, 2740, subd. 8, terminate a prior homestead though she continues there. Currie v. Look [N. D.] 106 N. W. 131.

18. People's Independent Rice Mill Co. v. Benoit [La.] 42 So. 480.

19, 20. See 5 C. L. 1698 and earlier volumes. Failure of a bankrupt to make specific claim of a homestead in his schedule through ignorance does not constitute a waiver of the exemption. In re Kaufmann, 142 F. 898.

21. Iberia Cypress Co. v. Christen, 116 La. 53, 40 So. 529.

22. And hence not necessary that the deed of renunciation show such fact. Cormier v. Hoyt, 116 La. 602, 40 So. 912.

23. Cormier v. Hoyt, 116 La. 602, 40 So. 912.

24. See 5 C. L. 1699.

25. Alabama: The second section of the Alabama Act of 1885, giving the widow an interest in the homestead as if the estate had been regularly declared insolvent, was repealed by failure to adopt it into the Code of 1886 or otherwise preserve it. Bailes v. Daly [Ala.] 40 So. 420. Under Code 1896, § 2071, providing that title to a homestead set apart to a widow shall vest in her, the husband's interest in a homestead under a contract of sale passes to her. McWhorter v. Stein [Ala.] 39 So. 617.

Arkansas: Under Const. art. 9, §§ 4, 10, the homestead vests upon the death of the parents in the minor children. Cowley v. Spradlin [Ark.] 91 S. W. 550.

Florida: Chapter 4730, p. 119, of Laws of 1899, providing that where a homestead tenant dies without children but leaving a widtime of the homestead tenant's death determines the interest of the surviving spouse therein[26] and gives a vested right to all parties acquiring any interest which cannot be destroyed by subsequent legislation.[27] In California, upon the petition of the guardian of minor children,[28] the court may set aside a homestead for them, though they have no living parent,[29] in any lands of the deceased parent suitable for such purpose though he might not have been entitled to such rights,[30] and the temporary absence of the children from the state when the petition is heard does not deprive them of their right to have a homestead set apart or the court of power to make the order.[31] In Iowa where a homestead tenant devises it to one of his children it passes subject to the devisor's debts.[32]

Nature of survivor's homestead estate.[33]—Until a widow's homestead interest has been assigned[34] she cannot sell or lease the same.[35] The homestead interest of minor children of a deceased tenant is sufficient to authorize a redemption from tax sale of the entire fee.[36]

Loss of survivor's right.[37]—The right is by some statutes made to terminate on cessation of widowhood, minority, occupancy of premises, or other fact ingredient in it,[38] and is lost by alienation[39] or by abandonment,[40] which loss if by sale in ignorance of law is irremediable.[41] ow it shall descent to her unaffected by any device, is not in conflict with Const. 1885, art. 10, § 4, providing that nothing therein shall be construed to prevent a homestead tenant without children from disposing of it by will "in a manner prescribed by law" (Thomas v. Williamson [Fla.] 40 So. 831; Saxon v. Rawls [Fla.] 41 So. 594), nor is it violative of art. 10, § 1, art. 3, § 16, of the Const. of 1885, or of § 1 of the 14th amend. to the Federal Const. (Saxon v. Rawls [Fla.] 41 So. 594).

Iowa: Under Code 2985, the homestead of a deceased tenant from year to year passes to the widow, and hence the administrator has no interest in crops planted thereafter. In re Ring's Estate [Iowa] 109 N. W. 710.

Kentucky: Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1707, unmarried minor children have a right of joint occupancy with the widow, and it is immaterial whether they were living with the decedent or not at the time of his death. Potter v. Redmon's Guardian [Ky.] 96 S. W. 529. If the widow abandons the homestead and a sale thereof works an abandonment (Davidson v. Marcum, 28 Ky. L. R. 562, 89 S. W. 703), the children acquire the immediate right to the sole use thereof until the youngest becomes of age [Ky. St. 1903, § 1707] (Id.).

26. Bailes v. Daly [Ala.] 40 So. 420. Not affected by any subsequent change. Perkins v. Perkins, 122 Ill. App. 370.

27. Where on the death of the tenant the homestead vests in the heirs subject to a life estate in the surviving spouse, the legislature can not thereafter enact a statute giving it to her in fee. Bailes v. Daly [Ala.] 40 So. 420.

28. Guardian held to have authority to petition. In re Pohlmann's Estate [Cal. App.] 84 P. 354.

29. Code Civ. Proc. § 1465. In re Pohlmann's Estate [Cal. App.] 84 P. 354.

30. Code Civ. Proc. § 1465 held to authorize a homestead for minor children in lands upon which the deceased parent had never resided. In re Pohlmann's Estate [Cal. App.] 84 P. 354.

31. In re Pohlmann's Estate [Cal. App.] 84 P. 354.

32. The exemption of Code § 2985 is applicable only when the issue takes by descent. Rice v. Burkhart [Iowa] 107 N. W. 308.

33. See 5 C. L. 1700.

34. An agreement between the surviving spouse and heirs as to a division of the "rents" held not an assignment of homestead interest. Chicago, B. & D. R. Co. v. Kelly, 221 Ill. 498, 77 N. E. 916.

35. Lease. Chicago, B. & D. R. Co. v. Kelly, 221 Ill. 498, 77 N. E. 916.

36. Cowley v. Spradlin [Ark.] 91 S. W. 550.

37. See 5 C. L. 1700, n. 58 et seq.

38. A childless widow's exemption in her deceased husband's homestead ceases upon remarriage, and it becomes subject to decedent's debts though the marriage does not occur until the estate has been closed (In re Emmons' Estate [Mich.] 105 N. W. 758), but proceedings to subject the same to his debts must be brought within a reasonable time (Id.). An unexcused delay of six years held to bar the same. Id. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 1707, providing that the homestead shall be for the use of the widow "so long as she occupies the same," a remarriage followed by a permanent removal to the home of the husband terminates her homestead interest therein. Bloch v. Tarrents' Adm'r, 28 Ky. L. R. 1066, 91 S. W. 275; Nelson v. Nelson [Ky.] 96 S. W. 794.

39. Sale by surviving widow works abandonment as to her. Davidson v. Marcum, 28 Ky. L. R. 562, 89 S. W. 703.

40. Where a widow testifies positively that she is living on certain premises, and that they are suitable for a residence, evidence that the house was small and lacked the usual conveniences and that she was away during a greater part of the day time attending to business in an adjoining town is insufficient to show abandonment. Smith v. Ferry [Wash.] 86 P. 658. Where a widow in ignorance of her homestead rights in cer-

Partition and assignment out of decedent's estate.[42]—Heirs cannot force a partition which would be destructive of homestead in survivors.[43] Though a widow in Missouri elects to take a child's interest and thereby acquires a specific undivided interest in fee, neither she nor her grantee can partition the homestead during the minority of the children.[44] In Mississippi, so long as a homestead is actually occupied and used by the widow, the heirs cannot have a partition thereof nor an accounting.[45] Under a statute giving to the widow the right to enjoy "the homestead," where dower has never been admeasured to her, she may either occupy or lease the property[46] and is under no obligation to pay rent.[47] A homestead where not subject to a decedent's debts may be partitioned before the debts are paid.[48] In Washington no appraisement is necessary in an action to set aside the widow's homestead where the value does not exceed $1,700.[49] The Alabama statute authorizing the homestead to be set apart to the widow before administration is only applicable where the estate does not exceed the exempt amount,[50] and the fact that she claims dower and thereby sufficiently reduces the acreage is immaterial.[51] A judgment under the California statute providing that if one of the spouses owning a homestead dies anyone interested may file a verified statement of the facts, and if, upon hearing, it shall appear that "such homestead * * * vested in the survivor, the court shall make a decree to that effect," merely establishes the fact of death and that if the petitioner has any rights they have accrued, but does not determine that any rights exist.[52]

Election.[53]—In Nebraska a life estate in the homestead descends to the surviving spouse absolutely,[54] and an attempted devise, being wholly nugatory, does not present an election.[55] Where lands descend to the surviving spouse and grandchildren, the former cannot thereafter acquire a homestead therein and defeat a partition.[56] tain property quitclaims it to the holder of a tax title and, upon being advised, repurchases, such conveyance whether before or after selection does not constitute an abandonment of her homestead interest. Id.

41. A surviving spouse releasing her homestead rights in ignorance thereof, the mistake being one of law, cannot set the same aside. Accepted a money award in lieu. Daniels v. Dean [Cal. App.] 84 P. 332.

42. See 5 C. L. 1700, n. 61.

43. Under Const. art. 16, § 52, community property used as a homestead upon the death of the wife descends equally to the husband and children, but so long as he continues to use it as a homestead no partition can be made (Cox v. Oliver [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 790, 95 S. W. 596), and upon his death, if he remarries and is still occupying it, the children by the first wife may partition off the one-half inherited from their mother but the widow has a life estate in one-third of the other half, with remainder in the children, the two-thirds vesting in them absolutely, but not subject to partition so long as she occupies it as a homestead (Id.). Until partition, such surviving wife is entitled to occupy the entire tract in conjunction with the children of the deceased first wife (Id.), and under said article her rights are not limited to mere occupancy but extends to the management and use (Id.), and where one in the interest of the children takes charge of things generally and proceeds to cultivate without her consent, she may maintain an action under Rev. St. 1895, art. 2049, subd. 4, to recover possession (Id.). A guardian of the minor children and their estate, if so authorized by the probate court, has the right to occupy jointly with her. Id. A widow ceasing to occupy and use a homestead set aside to her by the probate court loses all interest therein. Mecaskey v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1085. The surviving widow and minor children are entitled to a homestead estate to the extent limited by the statute though the property owned and occupied by decedent exceeds in value the prescribed limit (Calmer v. Calmer [N. D.] 106 N. W. 684), and where the homestead is not capable of division, they are entitled as against the heirs to hold the entire premises (Id.).

44. Quail v. Lomas [Mo.] 98 S. W. 617.

45. Stevens v. Wilbourn [Miss.] 41 So. 66.

46, 47. Lloyd v. Turner [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 771.

48. Hild v. Hild, 129 Iowa, 649, 106 N. W. 159.

49. Smith v. Ferry [Wash.] 86 P. 658.

50, 51. Dake v. Sewell [Ala.] 39 So. 819.

52. Code Civ. Proc. § 1723. Hansen v. Union Sav. Bank, 148 Cal. 157, 82 P. 768.

53. See 5 C. L. 1701.

54. Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 6216. Brichacek v. Brichacek [Neb.] 106 N. W. 473.

55. Brichacek v. Brichacek [Neb.] 106 N. W. 473.

56. Oliver v. Sample, 72 Kan. 582, 84 P. 138.

Rights of divorced parties.[57]

Claim to reimbursement for expenditures.[58]

§ 9. Exemption of proceeds of homestead or of substituted properties.[59]—In many states the proceeds of a homestead are exempt[60] for a reasonable time if held for reinvestment in a homestead.[61] Where a homestead is sold at a judicial sale for a debt as against which it is not exempt, any resulting surplus is exempt,[62] and a claim interposed before the purchaser has paid out the money is timely asserted.[63] Under a statute exempting a new homestead to the same extent as the old, it is immaterial that the latter did not enter into the former.[64]

§ 10. Remedies and procedure by creditors. Remedies by suit or action.[65]—Where a mortgage covers the homestead and other lands,[66] or the value exceeds the amount exempt,[67] the unexempt property must first be resorted to. One claiming a homestead exemption in property sought to be subjected to the payment of debts must allege[68] and show[69] facts sufficient to impress it with such character. An allegation of waiver of the homestead exemption and the extent thereof is sufficient under the Alabama statute requiring waiver to be alleged in all actions wherein it is sought to be enforced.[70]

Remedies of creditors against excess.[71]—Where the homestead exceeds the statutory amount,[72] the creditors are entitled to the excess, but such right is lost by failure to exercise it before the tenant disposed of the homestead.[73] Where the homestead is indivisible, other available assets must be exhausted before the excess can be applied.[74]

Decrees, and judicial and execution sales.[75]—A judicial sale of land in which a homestead is claimed without proceeding according to statute to set the same off

57. See 5 C. L. 1701.

58. See 3 C. L. 1642.

59. See 5 C. L. 1701.

60. The homestead exemption under Rev. St. § 5441 includes the proceeds of a sale of the homestead by the debtor before judgment and execution. Warns v. Reeck, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 401.

61. Iowa. Campbell v. Campbell, 129 Iowa, 317, 105 N. W. 583.

Washington: Under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 5247, providing that in case of the sale of a homestead any subsequent homestead acquired with the proceeds thereof shall be exempt, the money due is exempt where there is an intent to reinvest. Becher v. Shaw [Wash.] 87 P. 71.

Minnesota: The proceeds of a homestead prior to Rev. Laws 1905 were not exempt though the defendant intended to reinvest in another homestead within a year. Fred v. Bramen [Minn.] 107 N. W. 159.

62. Johnson v. Agurs, 116 La. 634, 40 So. 923. Unless the statute expressly or by implication negatives such exemption. Mortgage foreclosure. In re Barrett's Estate, 140 F. 569.

63. Johnson v. Agurs, 116 La. 634, 40 So. 923.

64. Code § 2981. Shaffer Bros. v. Chernyk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 801.

65. See 5 C. L. 1701.

66. A sale of the entire property in disregard of a demand that the other lands be first sold is not void but voidable. Weber v. McCleverty [Cal.] 86 P. 706. Hence where in an action by the purchaser to acquire possession from the widow of the grantor she files no cross complaint and does not ask that the sale be vacated, she was not entitled to relief. Id.

67. In a foreclosure of a mortgage on real estate wherein a homestead interest exists, the proceeds in excess of the homestead interest must be exhausted before the latter can be resorted to. Perkins v. Perkins, 122 Ill. App. 370. Surviving spouse's homestead need not contribute pro rata to the discharge of the debt though she joined in the mortgage. Id.

68. In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to reach lands alleged to belong to the bankrupt but in the name of his wife, an answer by the wife claiming the property by purchase is insufficient to raise an issue as to a homestead exemption. Currie v. Look [N. D.] 106 N. W. 131.

69. Gibbs v. Adams [Ark.] 89 S. W. 1008.

70. Code 1896, §§ 2106, 2017, do not require that the complaint allege in detail all facts necessary to a valid waiver, as that the party is unmarried, etc. (Story Mercantile Co. v. McClellan [Ala.] 40 So. 123), nor need it particularize the lands (Id.).

71. See 5 C. L. 1702.

72. In determining the value of the property no deduction can be made for incumbrances. Calmer v. Calmer [N. D.] 106 N. W. 684. The enhanced value of land resulting from improvements necessary to the enjoyment of the same as a homestead is not considered in ascertaining the homestead exemption. Stable, sidewalk, fences, well, and pump excluded. Shaffer Bros. v. Chernyk [Iowa] 107 N. W. 801.

73. Meikle v. Cloquet [Wash.] 87 P. 841.

is void.[76] Where a trust deed was executed on property on which a homestead was subsequently declared and on other lands, possession of the widow of the grantor as executrix was consistent with the right of sale under the trust deed and did not give notice of a homestead claim therein.[77] A deed of trust given to secure a debt is not a "lien or incumbrance" within the California statute requiring the holder of a debt secured by a lien or incumbrance on a homestead to present the same for allowance against the estate of a deceased debtor as a condition to the right to foreclose.[78] A court of equity may declare a judgment in a cause accruing after the administration of a decedent's estate a lien upon the homestead, notwithstanding the constitutional provision that the homestead shall not be subject to the lien of any judgment or decree.[79]

HOMICIDE.

§ 1. Elements of Crime in General and Parties Thereto (106).
§ 2. Murder (106). Degrees (107).
§ 3. Manslaughter (107).
§ 4. Assault with Intent to Kill or do Great Bodily Harm (108).
§ 5. Justification and Excuse (108).
§ 6. Indictment or Information (109).
§ 7. Evidence (110).
A. Presumptions and Burden of Proof (110).
B. Admissibility in General (111). Justification (113).
C. Dying Declarations (115).
D. Sufficiency (115).
§ 8. Trial and Punishment (117).
A. Conduct of Trial in General (117).
B. Instructions (117).
C. Verdict (122).
D. Punishment (122).

Matters of procedure not strictly peculiar to the crime of homicide are elsewhere treated.[1]

§ 1. Elements of crime in general and parties thereto.[2]—Though malice is essential to some degrees of homicide,[3] motive is immaterial,[4] except as evidence of malice or as tending to connect accused with the offense.[5] The injury must be the proximate cause of death, but it is immaterial that the wound would not have been fatal had prompt medical attendance been procured.[6]

§ 2. Murder[7] is the unlawful killing of a human being with malice aforethought,[8] express or implied.[9] Intent to kill is essential,[10] but the intent need not be to kill the person actually slain.[11]

74. Calmer v. Calmer [N. D.] 106 N. W. 684.

75. See 3 C. L. 1695.

76. Where an execution includes the homestead which had been set off to the debtor under a former execution and no reallotment is made, a sale thereunder is void. Gulnan v. Donnell [Mo.] 98 S. W. 478. A sale on execution of land in which a homestead exemption is duly claimed without having it appraised, etc., as provided by Sess. Laws 1895, p. 109, c. 64, is absolutely void (Waldron v. Kineth, 41 Wash. 459, 84 P. 16), and under Sess. Laws 1899, p. 87, c. 53, § 6, requiring a court to confirm an execution sale unless it shall satisfactorily appear that there were substantial irregularities detrimental to the party objecting, it is proper to refuse to confirm the sale (Id.). A levy in disregard of a wife's homestead rights is not void but subject to her right if she timely asserts the same. Gilcreast v. Bartlett [N. H.] 64 A. 767.

77. Weber v. McCleverty [Cal.] 86 P. 706.

78. Code Civ. Proc. § 1475. Weber v. McCleverty [Cal.] 86 P. 706.

79. The same to be sold, however, only after the termination of the widow's and minor children's homestead interest therein. Scoggin v. Hudgins [Ark.] 94 S. W. 684.

1. See Indictment and Prosecution, 8 C. L. ——.

2. See 5 C. L. 1702.

3. See post § 2.

4. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274.

5. See post § 7 B.

6. Bonner v. State, 125 Ga. 237, 54 S. E. 143. Where it is not disputed that the wound inflicted by defendant caused death, evidence that by different surgical treatment death might have been averted is immaterial. State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511.

7. See 5 C. L. 1703.

8. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127. Malice is the intent unlawfully to take life in cases where the law neither justifies nor mitigates such killing. Mann v. State, 124 Ga. 760, 53 S. E. 324. Where two agree to meet and fight with deadly weapons, and on their meeting by chance before the appointed time one shoots

Degrees.[12]—Murder is ordinarily divided by statute into degrees, murder in the first degree including premeditated homicide in general,[13] and specifically such murders as from their nature indicate premeditation[14] and also homicide committed in the perpetration of certain other offenses.[15] Murder in the second degree is usually defined as willful killing with malice aforethought but without premeditation.[16]

§ 3. Manslaughter[17] as defined by statute usually includes all unlawful, intentional killing without malice aforethought,[18] and unintentional killing by culpable negligence or recklessness.[19] Thus it is manslaughter if the killing was on sudden quarrel or mutual combat,[20] or in the heat of passion[21] induced by legally adequate the other without new provocation, it is murder. Bundrick v. State, 125 Ga. 753, 54 S. E. 683. Malice is not restricted to personal malignity towards the person slain, but includes that general malignity and reckless disregard of human life which proceed from a heart devoid of a just sense of social duty and fatally bent on mischief. State v. Tilghman [Del.] 63 A. 772.

9. If homicide is deliberate or without adequate cause, malice is presumed. State v. Tilghman [Del.] 63 A. 772. Malice presumed from use of deadly weapon. Id.; State v. Collins [Del.] 62 A. 224; State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929; Kennedy v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 658. The rule as stated in Colorado is that the jury are at liberty to find malice aforethought from deliberate shooting, but it is not proper to tell them that there is a presumption to that effect. Covington v. People [Colo.] 85 P. 832. Whether a small pocket knife is a deadly weapon from the use of which malice is to be presumed is for the jury. Benjamin v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 739.

10. Intent may be inferred from unlawful shooting. State v. Bennett, 128 Iowa, 713, 105 N. W. 324. Intentional shooting is presumed murder. State v. Prolow [Minn.] 108 N. W. 873. Though accused began an altercation without intent to kill, if he formed such intent later and killed in pursuance thereof it is murder. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 979.

11. Killing of one by shot fired with intent to kill another is murder. State v. Briggs, 58 W. Va. 291, 52 S. E. 218. If two persons willingly fight with firearms in a public place and a bystander is killed, both are guilty of murder. State v. Lilliston [N. C.] 54 S. E. 427.

12. See 5 C. L. 1704.

13. State v. Collins [Del.] 62 A. 224; State v. Wilson [Del.] 62 A. 27. Need be no appreciable interval between formation of intention and act of killing. State v. Prolow [Minn.] 108 N. W. 873; State v. Tilghman [Del.] 63 A. 772. Premeditated design may be inferred from circumstances. People v. Mahatch, 148 Cal. 200, 82 P. 779. Premeditated design to kill if interfered with presumed from carrying of weapon by burglar. Conrad v. State [Ohio] 78 N. E. 957. If the purpose is weighed long enough for the formation of a fixed design, it is murder in the first degree, but if the intent to kill is formed simultâneously with the act of killing, it is not. Instant killing of officer on his announcing purpose to arrest defendant held murder in first degree. State v. Barrett [N. C.] 54 S. E. 856.

14. Homicide by poisoning is only presumptively murder in the first degree. State v. Matthews [N. C.] 55 S. E. 342.

15. Homicide caused by blowing up of gate in effort to escape from prison held murder. Miller v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 47. Killing of police officer in resistance of arrest for misdemeanor is not murder in the first degree unless there was premeditation. Melbourne v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 189. Where two engage in the commission of a felony and contemplate forcible resistance of arrest, if one kill in such resistance it is murder in both. Conrad v. State [Ohio] 78 N. E. 957. Killing by burglar in resistance of arrest after flight and pursuit from premises held to be in perpetration of burglary. Id. Where a homicide occurs within the res gestae of the felony, it is committed "in the perpetration" of such felony, though the felony was consummated before the homicide. Id. One who being detected in the commission of burglary, fled and to escape arrest killed his pursuer some distance from the scene of the burglary, held not engaged in commission of burglary at time of homicide. People v. Huter, 184 N. Y. 237, 77 N. E. 6. Where one kills a police officer to prevent arrest, the resistance of arrest merges in the homicide so that the homicide is not committed while engaged in the perpetration of another felony. Id.

16. State v. Wilson [Del.] 62 A. 227; State v. Collins [Del.] 62 A. 224; Miller v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 47.

17. See 5 C. L. 1704.

18. Unlawful killing of a human being without malice aforethought. State v. Collins [Del.] 62 A. 224.

19. A killing by an intentional shooting without intent to kill is not "involuntary" within the definition of involuntary manslaughter. Johnson v. State [Wis.] 108 N. W. 55. Manslaughter in second degree is the unlawful involuntary killing of a human being. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Evidence of reckless shooting held to show negligent manslaughter. State v. McGinnis [Idaho] 85 P. 1089. Express intent is not essential to manslaughter, negligent and reckless indifference to life being sufficient. Negligent driving. State v. Moore, 129 Iowa, 514, 106 N. W. 16. Evidence that accused engaged in a struggle for the possession of a pistol known by him to be loaded without warning the other person thereof warrants inference of criminal intent from gross negprovocation,[22] and before the lapse of reasonable cooling time.[23] What particular facts will reduce the degree of homicide to manslaughter usually arises in connection with the propriety of submitting that offense to the jury.[24]

§ 4. Assault with intent to kill or do great bodily harm.[25]—In most states the offense consists of an assault with the specific intent to kill[26] or to do great bodily harm, while in a few it is more narrowly defined as assault with intent to murder,[27] and in others as an assault with a deadly weapon.[28] Assault must have been of such character that had death ensued it would have been murder.[29] Kindred offenses consisting of unlawful wounding[30] or attempt to wound,[31] willful administration of poison,[32] etc., have been created by statute in some jurisdictions.

§ 5. Justification and excuse.[33]—Homicide is justifiable as committed in self-defense where defendant, without having provoked the difficulty,[34] is assaulted in ligence. State v. Clardy, 73 S. C. 340, 53 S. E. 493.

20. While an assault is essential to mutual combat, mutual blows are not. Findley v. State, 125 Ga. 579, 54 S. E. 106.

21. Voluntary killing under influence of violent passion induced by adequate provocation is voluntary manslaughter. Wall v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 484. Heat of passion does not imply an unconsciousness of what one is doing and a definition requiring temporary dethronement of reason is error. Heat of passion defined. Johnson v. State [Wis.] 108 N. W. 55.

22. Mere words not sufficient provocation. Dow v. State [Ark.] 92 S. W. 28; Raines v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 932; Kennedy v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 658. Provocation must be so great as to produce transport of passion. State v. Tilghman [Del.] 63 A. 772. Provocation by discovery of deceased and defendant's wife in adultery discussed. O'Shields v. State, 125 Ga. 310, 54 S. E. 120. A statute providing that certain acts "or equivalent circumstances" constitute provocation makes it a question of fact what are such circumstances. Pen. Code 1895, § 65. Findley v. State, 125 Ga. 579, 54 S. E. 106. The circumstances which will constitute provocation need not necessarily be in the nature of an assault or an attempt to injure accused. Rumsey v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 167. Provocation by third person not sufficient. Dow v. State [Ark.] 92 S. W. 28.

23. Sufficiency of cooling time is for the jury. Should be submitted though two hours elapsed between provocation and killing. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 302, 54 S. E. 108. Fifteen minutes during which the parties were not in each other's presence held sufficient cooling time. State v. Williams [N. C.] 53 S. E. 823.

24. See post § 8 B.

25. See 5 C. L. 1706.

26. Intent to kill is essential in the statutory crime of assault and robbing with intent to kill if resisted. People v. Scofield [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 654, 105 N. W. 610. Intent essential. State v. Wilson [Del.] 62 A. 227. Malicious intent to kill essential. Letcher v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 922. Deliberate shooting and wounding is presumptive evidence of intent to kill. Odom v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 182. Intent may be inferred from the use of a deadly weapon or from other attendant circumstances. Ray v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 519. A statute making killing with a concealed weapon murder does not dispense with proof of specific intent to murder in a prosecution for assault committed with a concealed weapon. Id. Though the shooting was for the purpose of robbery, it is none the less assault "with intent to kill." Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 592, 95 S. W. 1044.

27. Intent to murder may be circumstantially proved. State v. Brown [Del.] 63 A. 328. Malice aforethought necessary. Elements of offense stated. Hibbler v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 896.

28. Pointing unloaded pistol is assault with deadly weapon in North Carolina. Laws 1899, c. 527. State v. Atkinson [N. C.] 53 S. E. 228. Pointing of pistol at another is an assault with a deadly weapon, though it is not exposed to his view. Pointed in coat pocket. Id. Weapon must be deadly under circumstances of use. If a gun, the charge and the distance from which fired are to be considered. Hibbler v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 896. In order to sustain a conviction of assault with intent to murder by excessive resistance to an assault, not only intent to kill but malice aforethought must appear. Cunningham v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 531.

29. State v. Brown [Del.] 63 A. 328. The offenses of murder and manslaughter not being defined by statute but only the several degrees of each, Crimes Act § 42 relating to the infliction of bodily harm under circumstances such that had death ensued it would have been "murder or manslaughter" refers to those crimes as defined by common law. State v. Ireland, 72 Kan. 265, 83 P. 1036.

30. One who unnecessarily shoots at an officer attempting to make an illegal arrest is guilty of the offense of unlawfully shooting at another not in his own defense. Porter v. State, 124 Ga. 297, 52 S. E. 283.

31. Drawing revolver, with threats, held sufficient to constitute offense. State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1, 84 P. 401.

32. Under a statute against administering poison with intent to kill which poison shall be "actually taken," the word "taken" means taken into the system in any manner. State v. Stuart [Miss.] 40 So. 1010.

33. See 5 C. L. 1706.

34. Since resistance of an officer is a misdemeanor, one who kills an officer in resistance of arrest is not justified, though the officer in attempting the arrest unlawfully such manner that he in good faith believes[35] and has reasonable ground to believe that he is in imminent danger[36] of death or great bodily harm, or such other bodily injury as is not disproportionate to the manner of resistance,[37] and that no reasonably safe means of avoiding the same is open to him except the killing of his assailant,[38] and under the same limitations the right is extended to the defense of others,[39] and to the defense of home and family if the threatened wrong is proportioned to the force used in repelling it.[40] Some cases hold that one assailed must, unless upon his own premises,[41] retreat if he may safely do so,[42] but the better rule is that one need not retreat from a felonious assault.[43] Command of a parent is ordinarily no justification.[44]

Accidental homicide[45] is excusable though it results from the drawing by defendant of a deadly weapon in anger.[46]

§ 6. Indictment or information.[47]—An indictment for murder must ordinarily conform in substance to the statute defining the offense,[48] and must allege willful-menaces the life of accused. State v. Durham [N. C.] 53 S. E. 720. One who engages by preappointment in a fight with fists cannot urge self-defense even though he reasonably apprehended resort by his adversary to a deadly weapon, unless he manifested a desire to withdraw from the combat. State v. Whitnah, 129 Iowa, 211, 105 N. W. 432. If the aggressor be pursued after clearly manifesting a desire to withdraw, his right of self-defense is revived. Collock v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Though deceased was the aggressor and drew a weapon, if defendant took it from him and then shot him as he was retreating it is not self-defense. Outler v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 460. To deprive one of the right of self-defense because of having provoked the difficulty he must have acted with such intent. His intent and not how his acts were regarded by deceased is to be considered. Sprinkle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 323, 91 S. W. 787. That defendant sought deceased for the purpose of provoking a difficulty does not deprive him of the right of self-defense if he in fact did nothing to provoke it. Leito v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 537, 92 S. W. 418. Evidence held not to suggest provocation of difficulty by accused. Reese v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 39, 91 S. W. 583. One who uses language calculated to provoke an altercation and manifests willingness to enter into it cannot justify. Stallworth v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 184.

35. Danger need not be actual. Weston v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1014.

36. Need not wait until an impending blow is struck. State v. Wilson [Del.] 62 A. 227. Peril must appear to be urgent and pressing. Tolbirt v. State, 124 Ga. 767, 53 S. E. 327. Mere words will not justify an attack with a deadly weapon. Mathews v. State, 125 Ga. 50, 54 S. E. 196.

37. Where the killing was by a blow with the fist, it is not necessary to justification that death or great bodily harm be apprehended. Weston v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1014.

38. It is sufficient if it appeared to accused in the exercise of a reasonable judgment under all the circumstances that there was no other safe means of avoiding danger. Austin v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1087, 91 S. W. 267. Must have been no other reasonably safe means of escape. State v. Andrews, 73 Ga. 257, 53 S. E. 423. Evidence of resistance with knife to assault with fists held to require charge on self-defense. State v. Hill [N. C.] 53 S. E. 311.

39. Killing to save life of defendant's brother is justified though the brother was the aggressor, unless his aggression was with a deadly weapon and an apparent intent to kill. Little v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 165. Case where accused interfered in altercation on behalf of his brother without reasonable present ground to believe the brother's life in danger held to present no issue of self-defense. Untreiner v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 285.

40. Right to kill in defense of property is restricted to the domicile. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649. Where both defendant and deceased were members of the household, the rules as to rights of householder against intruder have no application. House belonged to defendant's wife and deceased was her son by former marriage. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 213 Pa. 432, 62 A. 1064. Must be within curtilage. Dawson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 803.

41. No duty to retreat when assaulted on own premises. State v. Bennett, 128 Iowa, 713, 105 N. W. 324.

42. Need not retreat if assault is so fierce that equal danger would be thereby incurred. State v. Wilson [Del.] 62 A. 227. Bound to retreat unless there was reasonable ground for believing that danger would be thereby increased. Patterson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 157; Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621.

43. Austin v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1087, 91 S. W. 267; People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. See note 5 C. L. 1707.

44. Command of father does not justify killing by boy 17 years old. State v. Thrailkill, 73 S. C. 314, 53 S. E. 482.

45. See 3 C. L. 1649.

46. Though one produce a weapon in the heat of passion with intent to kill, he is not guilty of manslaughter if it be accidentally discharged in a struggle for its possession. Suttle v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 552.

47. See 5 C. L. 1710.

48. The averments of a common-law indictment will sustain an information under the Montana statute. State v. Lu Sing [Mont.] 85 P. 521. Indictment as principal ness, malice, and intent,[49] designate the deceased with reasonable certainty[50] and show that he was a living human being,[51] allege an assault,[52] and describe the manner and means thereof.[53] It need not designate the offense by name.[54] Indictment for manslaughter alleging failure to furnish "proper and necessary" medicines and medical aid is insufficient for failure to allege the act or omission causing death.[55] Under an indictment charging murder by several jointly, proof of conspiracy and killing by one pursuant to it is admissible.[56] An indictment for assault[57] must allege the assault[58] and the prescribed intent, but need designate only by name the offense intended[59] and need not allege malice aforethought unless the statute makes it an element.[60] If no motion be made to particularize an averment of assault with a "dangerous weapon," proof is admissible of assault with any weapon which the jury might find to be dangerous.[61] Unlike an indictment for assault with intent, an indictment for assault and battery with intent to commit murder need not aver present ability.[62] An indictment for assault with intent to kill is not vitiated by an unnecessary averment that it was with a deadly weapon.[63]

§ 7. Evidence. A. Presumptions and burden of proof.[64]—The burden is on the prosecution to prove every material fact as laid,[65] and on the accused to prove excuse or justification.[66] Killing with deadly weapon is, however, when proved, in second degree sustained. Newton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 19.

49. Averment of killing willfully and with malice aforethought sufficiently alleges intent to kill. Smith v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 475. The giving of the mortal wound must be charged to have been with premeditated design (Daniels v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 609), but an indictment alleging shooting with premeditated design "thereby and by thus" inflicting the mortal wound satisfies this requirement (Id.). Indictment not directly alleging intent to kill sustained. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3.

50. Indictment charging murder of a "certain man" whose name is unknown and thereafter referring to him as "such person" is sufficiently certain. Morgan v. Territory, 16 Okl. 530, 85 P. 718.

51. An indictment charging defendant with the murder of an infant "born to" defendant and his wife sufficiently charges that said infant was born alive. People v. Eldridge [Cal. App.] 86 P. 832.

52. Indictment for murder in the second degree held to sufficiently charge assault and killing. State v. Whitnah, 129 Iowa, 211, 105 N. W. 432. An averment that defendant "did an assault" is sufficient, the word "an" being surplusage. Hase v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 253.

53. Must be some description of weapon and the manner of its use. "Did assault with certain pieces of iron" insufficient. Walker v. State, 124 Ga. 440, 52 S. E. 738. Indictment held not defective for failure to allege that gun was discharged "at" deceased. State v. Flute [S. D.] 108 N. W. 248. Averment of killing with an unknown "instrument" sustained by proof of killing with rock. Williams v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 405.

54. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3.

55. People v. Quimby, 99 N. Y. S. 330.

56. McLeroy v. State, 125 Ga. 240, 54 S. E. 125.

57. Indictment held sufficient. Abbott v. State [Ark.] 91 S. W. 754. Indictment for assault with intent to kill by shooting held sufficient. McHugh v. Territory [Okl.] 86 P. 433.

58. An averment of assault and battery with intent to kill a certain person but not alleging upon whom the assault was committed is fatally defective. Padgett v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 663.

59. Indictment for assault with intent to murder need only describe the crime intended by name. State v. Hopkins, 115 La. 786, 40 So. 166. Indictment for act done with intent to commit a crime need not allege the elements of the intended crime. Shooting while lying in wait with intent to murder. State v. High, 116 La. 79, 40 So. 538.

60. People v. Wright [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 280, 108 N. W. 92. An information under Rev. St. § 1848 need not allege malice aforethought, as is required of one under section 1847. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 228, 92 S. W. 494. An indictment for assault with intent to murder need not allege the requisites of the contemplated crime. Willfulness and malice aforethought. People v. Wright [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 280, 108 N. W. 92.

61. State v. Stewart [La.] 41 So. 798.

62. Guy v. State [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 855.

63. People v. Owens [Cal. App.] 86 P. 980.

64. See 5 C. L. 1711.

65. The plea of not guilty puts in issue the name of deceased and the burden is on the state to prove it as laid beyond a reasonable doubt. Stallworth v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 184. The state must affirmatively prove every essential averment of the indictment but need not negative justification except so far as it is necessary, excluded by proof of unlawful and malicious killing. Blanton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 789.

66. State v. Dillard [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 117. Where the killing is proved the burden of mitigation or excuse is on the accused. Parsons v. People, 218 Ill. 386, 75 N. E. 993. Burden of adducing evidence of justification is on accused unless justification appears from the evidence which shows the homicide. McCurley v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 1022. In Alabama the burden of showing reasonable presumed to be murder in second degree,[67] if the facts and circumstances show that it was intentional,[68] malice being presumed from the intentional killing.[69] Reasonable doubt as to degree must be resolved in defendant's favor.[70]

(§ 7) B. Admissibility in general.[71]—Threats by defendant[72] but not by third persons, unless conspiracy be shown,[73] are admissible, as are previous difficulties,[74] preliminary arming,[75] declarations and conduct shortly before the homicide showing general malice,[76] the relation of the parties and the state of feeling between them,[77] any facts legitimately tending to show motive,[78] and to explain the cir-appearance of necessity to kill is on defendant. Kennedy v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 658. Burden is on state to show that death resulted from the wound. Daniel v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 472.

67. State v. Minor, 193 Mo. 597, 92 S. W. 466. Malice presumed from killing with deadly weapon. State v. Worley [N. C.] 53 S. E. 128.

68. State v. Minor, 193 Mo. 597, 92 S. W. 466.

69. Mann v. State, 124 Ga. 760, 53 S. E. 324; State v. Trail [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 17; State v. Henderson [S. C.] 55 S. E. 117.

70. Miller v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 47.

71. See 5 C. L. 1712.

72. Threats are admissible though no person is named. State v. Rosa, 72 N. J. Law, 462, 62 A. 695. Threats immediately before attack by defendant's companion admissible. State v. Jarrell [N. C.] 53 S. E. 127. Threatening remark by accused at the time of borrowing a gun a few minutes before the homicide admissible. Graham v. State, 125 Ga. 48, 53 S. E. 816. A threat by defendant is not admissible where the witness knew only by hearsay that it applied to deceased. State v. Trueman [Mont.] 85 P. 1024. Where accused was killed by mistake in an attempt to shoot one who had killed defendant's brother, general threats by defendant at the brother's funeral are admissible. Ward v. Com. [Ky.] 91 S. W. 700.

Remote threats are admissible in connection with evidence of repetition from time to time until shortly before the alleged offense (People v. Johnson [N. Y.] 77 N. E. 1164), and friendly relations between the parties after the making of threats will not necessarily make the threats inadmissible (Id.). Defendant unsuccessfully tried by both threats and kindness to induce his wife to live with him. Id. Remoteness of threats in point of time goes to their weight but not to their admissibility. Two weeks before homicide. State v. Rosa, 72 N. J. Law, 462, 62 A. 695. Three months before homicide not too remote. Graham v. State, 125 Ga. 48, 53 S. E. 816.

73. After proof of killing by co-conspirator, proof of declaration by acused of intent to kill is admissible. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Threats by a third person in the presence of defendant are inadmissible unless conspiracy is shown. State v. Quen [Or.] 86 P. 791.

74. Not only prior assaults on deceased but assaults on the mother of deceased are admissible when connected and growing out of the same animus. People v. Dinser, 49 Misc. 82, 98 N. Y. S. 314.

75. Purchase of revolver shortly before assault and determined resistance of arrest afterward are admissible to show intent. People v. Haxer [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 303, 108 N. W. 90. Borrowing of a pistol half an hour before the homicide. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727.

76. Declaration of defendant before meeting deceased that he was "a straight shot and a game man" and witness would find it out is admissible to show general malice. State v. Feeley, 194 Mo. 300, 92 S. W. 663. Threatening conduct of accused toward the children of deceased immediately before the homicide though not in the presence of deceased is admissible. Smith v. Com. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 610. Ambiguous remarks by defendant about deceased shortly before homicide admissible to show his state of mind. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Violent and turbulent conduct of defendant, including an assault on a third person shortly before the homicide, is admissible. State v. Miller, 73 S. C. 277, 53 S. E. 426. That accused was drunk and firing off his gun shortly before the homicide. State v. Smalls, 73 S. C. 516, 53 S. E. 976.

77. Ill feeling between the parties and previous aggravated trespasses by accused on the premises of deceased are admissible. State v. Crump, 116 La. 978, 41 So. 229. Fact of litigation is admissible without proof of accompanying ill will. Maloy v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 791. Ill feeling between the parties. Id. On trial for murder of wife who was living separate from defendant, evidence that separation was caused by his abuse of her held admissible. Dow v. State [Ark.] 92 S. W. 28. State of feeling between defendant and person assailed may be shown but not details of quarrels. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 837, 40 So. 239. Evidence that deceased had been recently informed of the killing of his brother by defendant is admissible. State v. Thrailkill, 73 S. C. 314, 53 S. E. 482. Evidence that deceased was criminally intimate with the wife of a third person and that such fact had been communicated to defendant is irrelevant where the altercation grew out of a wholly disconnected subject. State v. Stukes, 73 S. C. 386, 53 S. E. 643. On trial for wife murder evidence of ill treatment of the wife at a time reasonably near the homicide or part of a course of ill treatment extending to such time is admissible. Green v. State, 125 Ga. 742, 54 S. E. 724. Not necessary that all such facts be proved by one witness. Id. Evidence that accused had insulted the daughter of the person assailed on the previous day admissible to show intent. State v. Weisenburger, 42 Wash. 426, 85 P. 20. Declarations of good will toward deceased not admissible to rebut threats. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 837, 40 So. 239.

78. Letter of defendant held material to cumstances leading to the fatal meeting.[79] The entire res gestae of the homicide may be shown, and it is generally deemed to include all that happened from the time the parties came into each other's presence until the killing.[80] Subsequent acts and declarations not part of the res gestae[81] are generally inadmissible except so far as they tend to identify accused as the perpetrator of the crime,[82] or consist of incriminating declarations.[83] Relevant conditions at the scene of the homicide show his improper relations with wife of deceased. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43. Pendency of prosecution against defendant for prior attempt to kill deceased. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771. On trial of a wife for murder of her husband, proof of defendant's adultery is admissible. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545. Evidence that deceased testified against defendant on a former prosecution and the fact of conviction therein admissible to show motive. Hays v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 809. That defendant and deceased were in love with the same woman admissible. State v. Andrews, 73 S. C. 257, 53 S. E. 423. A son of twenty-one living with his father is presumed to have such knowledge of the extent of his father's wealth as to make proof thereof admissible on trial of the son for murder of his father. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Seduction by defendant of deceased's daughter and threats by deceased to prosecute therefor. State v. Martin [Or.] 83 P. 849.

79. Where defendant interfered in an altercation on behalf of his brother, the entire difficulty may be shown. Untreiner v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 285. Where it appears that defendant, an officer, was attempting to arrest deceased for certain offenses, details of such offenses are not admissible. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. A statement of defendant that he had been told that a certain woman had tried to persuade deceased to marry her rather than defendant's daughter is admissible to explain why defendant went to the house of deceased. Kennedy v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 658. A previous offense by defendant authorizing arrest by deceased may be shown. Carpenter v. Com. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 553. Statement of defendant to third person before the homicide that deceased was to come to his house on a certain peaceful mission admissible. Bondman v. State [Ala.] 40 So. §5. Expressed intention of accused in going to the house where the homicide occurred to break up a dance there. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Remark of deceased on starting to place where homicide occurred, indicative of his purpose in going, is admissible. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Where it appears that defendant on going to the place where deceased was immediately challenged him to fight, evidence tending to show that defendant did not go there for the purpose of seeking deceased is immaterial. State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511. Where it appears that deceased went to defendant's house late at night and insistently sought entrance, it is admissible to show that he had an appointment with a woman residing therein and that she was of immoral character. Rumsey v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 167.

80. That some of the shot from defendant's gun went through the clothes of a witness is part of the res gestae. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. Declaration of child immediately after the killing "you have shot mama" part of res gestae. Grant v. State, 124 Ga. 757, 53 S. E. 334. A remark of defendant from which the quarrel started. Wall v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 815. The entire transaction from the time the parties came together until the homicide is admissible. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Though in a prosecution for assault with intent to murder the fact that the weapon was concealed is immaterial, yet it being part of the res gestae it is not error to admit it. Ray v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 519. Shooting of another person in same altercation part of res gestae. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. What occurred between accused and deceased on their way to the scene of the homicide is part of the res gestae. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274.

81. Narrative by defendant five minutes afterwards not admissible. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Declaration of accused 15 minutes after the homicide to one who was dressing wounds which he received in the altercation are not admissible. Cole v. State, 125 Ga. 276, 53 S. E. 958. That on the day after receiving the wounds from which he afterwards died deceased stated to defendant that he, deceased, was alone to blame, not admissible. Id. Conduct of injured person after the offense irrelevant. Morgan v. State, 124 Ga. 442, 52 S. E. 748. Exclamation "He has shot me" in presence of accused and immediately on being shot part of res gestae. Smith v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 959.

82. That one of two persons seen running from the scene of the homicide addressed his companion by the name of the codefendant and said that he had killed a man. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Finding in defendant's possession of property of deceased several months after homicide admissible. State v. Barnes [Or.] 85 P. 998. Conduct of defendant which might be deemed unnatural and unfeeling, after the murder of his entire family, is admissible. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. That defendant had two months after the homicide a pistol of caliber corresponding with that of the bullet found in the body of deceased is admissible. State v. Green, 115 La. 1041, 40 So. 451.

83. On prosecution for assault with intent, declaration of defendant on the following day that he came near killing the person assailed is admissible to show intent. State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1, 84 P. 401. Inconsistent declarations of defendant as to whereabouts of deceased admissible. State v. Barnes [Or.] 85 P. 998. Expression of satisfaction by accused on being told of the death of deceased. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Declaration of accused ten minutes after homicide, to intent to kill every one bearing the name of deceased, admissible. Id.

are admissible,[84] as are the nature and extent of the wounds received by deceased.[85] It is prejudicial error to allow proof that deceased had a wife where that fact was immaterial.[86] Where it appears that defendant lay in wait near the residence of deceased, it is error to exclude his testimony that his intention was to retake his child who had been kidnapped.[87] Where there was no evidence implicating anyone other than defendant in an assault with intent to kill and there was direct evidence of his guilt, evidence that other men had been criminally intimate with the prosecuting witness is too remote to show motive in others.[88] Testimony that two persons of the same general appearance as deceased and his companion seen near the place of the homicide were drunk is admissible.[89] On trial for homicide by negligent driving, a speed ordinance is admissible.[90] Where dissatisfaction of deceased with the manner in which defendant kept certain trust accounts is shown, evidence of defendant that they were correctly kept is inadmissible.[91] On trial for murder by arsenical poisoning, evidence that arsenic was found in the body of one who died in defendant's house before the homicide charged is not admissible to show that there was arsenic in the house.[92]

Justification.[93]—Where self-defense is urged the reputation of deceased is in issue,[94] but specific acts are inadmissible,[95] unless they were by way of previous Declarations after homicide showing animus not inadmissible because deceased was not named. Id. Threats immediately after an assault with a deadly weapon admissible to show intent. Miller v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 342.

84. Tracks behind a building near the scene of the homicide indicating that some one had lain in wait. Harrison v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 57. Cartridges found on the person of defendant bearing same brand as empty shells found at the scene of the homicide are admissible. Fuller v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 774. Bullets fired from a weapon found on the premises are admissible for comparison with those taken from the body of deceased. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Finding of bloody clothing a mile from the scene of the murder is inadmissible unless defendant is connected therewith. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 213 Pa. 607, 63 A. 134.

85. Evidence as to how long person assailed and wounded was under doctor's care, while of doubtful competency, is not prejudicial. State v. Weisenberger, 42 Wash. 426, 85 P. 20. Though the indictment alleges murder by poisoning, evidence of wounds on the body of deceased is admissible in connection with other evidence to show that death was not from suicide. Green v. State, 125 Ga. 742, 54 S. E. 724. Character and appearance of wounds may be shown. Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621. Wounds in body of deceased may be described. Harrison v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 57.

86. Melbourne v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 189.

87. Mathison v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 801.

88. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 837, 40 So. 239.

89. Barden v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 948.

90. State v. Moore, 129 Iowa, 514, 106 N. W. 16.

91. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237.

92. People v. Collins [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg N. 178, 107 N. W. 1114.

93. See 5 C. L. 1716.

94. Bad character of deceased. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. Evidence held sufficient to show that defendant knew that deceased was intoxicated and that he was reputed to be dangerous when in that condition. People v. Lamar, 148 Cal. 564, 83 P. 993. Where evidence leaves it in doubt who was aggressor, evidence of reputation of deceased for violence is admissible. Id. Evidence that deceased was intoxicated sufficient to admit evidence of his reputation for violence when in that condition. Id. Where so much of a prior altercation between deceased and a witness as related to threats by deceased against defendant was admitted, it was not reversible error to exclude other details. Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451. Where it appears that deceased was under the influence of cocaine at the time of the homicide, evidence of his character at such times is admissible. Moseley v. State [Miss.] 41 So. 384. As bearing on self-defense, intoxication of deceased at the time of the homicide may be shown but not his habits in that respect. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Habits of person assaulted as to drunkenness not admissible, it not appearing that he was drunk at the time of the assault. Teague v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 312. Evidence held to open door for proof of good character of deceased for peace and quiet. State v. Lejeune, 116 La. 193, 40 So. 632. Though defendant's evidence was confined to the dangerous character of deceased when drinking, the prosecution may show his general reputation for peace and quiet. State v. Feeley, 194 Mo. 300, 92 S. W. 663. General reputation of deceased for claiming property of others not admissible though the homicide grew out of conflicting claims to certain property. Maloy v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 791.

95. Bad character of deceased cannot be proved by specific acts. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Particular acts of deceased not connected with the homicide on trial so as to in some manner enter into defendant's contemplation not admissible. State v. Andrews, 73 S. C. 257, 53 S. E. 423.

difficulty with accused,[96] or unless it be shortly before the homicide and known to accused.[97] Threats by deceased may be shown[98] if communicated to defendant,[99] and if deceased at the time of the homicide committed some overt act threatening violence,[1] and uncommunicated threats have been held admissible when the evidence leaves it in doubt who was aggressor.[2] Threats by deceased are admissible though no hostile demonstration by him is shown to rebut the presumption of malice from arming by accused.[3] Evidence of previous assaults by deceased are inadmissible unless his conduct at time of homicide threatened repetition thereof.[4] Threats by third person not connected with deceased irrelevant.[5] Evidence as to how the appearance of deceased when drunk would impress a stranger is admissible.[6] Declarations of person assailed shortly after the assault that he intended to kill defendant and was sorry he had not is admissible on the question who was the aggressor.[7] Where the question who was aggressor is doubtful, proof that deceased under color of official authority had a warrant for defendant's arrest is admissible to show intent.[8] Whether defendant usually carried a gun is immaterial on the issue of self-defense.[9] The health and strength of deceased may be shown,[10] as may the fact that he was

That deceased had been tried for murder must, if admissible, be shown by the record. Id.

96. Where self-defense is claimed, evidence of other difficulties is not to be excluded because it tends to prove malice and the indictment is for manslaughter only. State v. Crump, 116 La. 978, 41 So. 229. Details of previous difficulty properly excluded. Stallworth v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 184. Particulars of previous difficulty properly excluded. Patterson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 157. Evidence of previous difficulty between the parties and as to how long there had been ill feeling between them admissible. Shirley v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 269. An assault by deceased on defendant shortly before is admissible. McHugh v. Territory [Okl.] 86 P. 433. Previous difficulties between the parties may be shown in such detail as to determine who was the aggressor therein. Brown v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 737; Brown v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 1009. Where it appears that previous difficulties were about a certain woman, defendant may show where she was at the time of the homicide. Brown v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 737.

97. An unprovoked assault by deceased on a third person shortly before the homicide is, when witnessed by defendant, admissible to show defendant's knowledge of deceased's violent disposition. Sneed v. Territory, 16 Okl. 641, 86 P. 70.

98. Threats by deceased. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. A statement of deceased that defendant would have to walk over his dead body to get his mother's property is not a threat. State v. Roupetz [Kan.] 85 P. 778. Declaration of deceased held, in view of past difficulty, a threat and not a mere idle statement. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Remoteness in point of time does not render threats inadmissible. 17 days. State v. Rodriguez, 115 La. 1004, 40 So. 438. Threats by deceased several weeks before are admissible in connection with others made on the day of the homicide. State v. Beckner, 194 Mo. 281, 91 S. W. 892.

99. Declaration of deceased of evil intention against members of defendant's family not admissible unless communicated to defendant. State v. Trail [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 17.

1. Hostile demonstration before threats. Martin v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 275. In Louisiana the proof of such hostile demonstration is regarded as foundation testimony, and it must be proved to the satisfaction of the trial judge. State v. Feazell, 116 La. 264, 40 So. 698. Assault by deceased on defendant and threats by him are admissible to explain the purpose of deceased in entering the sleeping room of defendant the following day. State v. Rideau, 116 La. 245, 40 So. 691. Preliminary question of hostile demonstration as foundation for proof of threats addressed to discretion. State v. Rambo [La.] 41 So. 359.

2. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Uncommunicated threats by deceased are admissible where there is doubt as to who was aggressor. Sinclair v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 522.

3. State v. Stockett, 115 La. 743, 39 So. 1000.

4. Previous indecent assaults by deceased held inadmissible. State v. Tolla, 72 N. J. Law, 515, 62 A. 675. See 4 Mich. L. R. 482. If the conduct of deceased at the time of the homicide threatened no injury to defendant, evidence of previous assaults by deceased is inadmissible to explain why defendant armed himself. State v. Tolla [N. J. Err. & App.] 62 A. 675.

5. State v. Mitchell [Iowa] 107 N. W. 804.

6. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178.

7. Shields v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 1010. Declaration by deceased as to past difficulty, not containing any threat, inadmissible. State v. Worley [N. C.] 53 S. E. 128.

8. Shields v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 1010.

9. Elliott v. Com. [Ky.] 91 S. W. 1136.

10. Where it appears that deceased had no weapon, the prosecution may show that he was a cripple. Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621. The cause of his crippled condition and that it existed from infancy may be shown. Id. The shoes which he wore may be introduced to show the condition of his feet. Id. Where defendant has shown disor was not armed[11] and that he had carried the weapon several hours in apparent search for accused,[12] but not ordinarily his habit of carrying weapons,[13] unless defendant's knowledge thereof is shown so that it properly enters into his apprehensions of violence.[14]

(§ 7) C. Dying declarations.[15]—To admit dying declarations it must appear prima facie[16] that they were made in expectation of imminent death and after all hope of recovery had been abandoned.[17] Dying declarations are admissible if deceased was rational at time of making it though delirious before and after.[18] It is no objection to the admissibility of a dying declaration that it does not identify the perpetrator of the homicide.[19] That several questions were asked of declarant does not make the declaration involuntary,[20] nor is it material that the taking of the declaration was interrupted for several hours, it not appearing that declarant's condition or apprehension changed in the meantime.[21] It is sufficient if the witness can state the substance of the declaration.[22] Declarant may state all the res gestae of the homicide.[23] Statements after a dying declaration are inadmissible to corroborate it,[24] but inconsistent statements by the declarant are admissible to impeach a dying declaration.[25]

(§ 7) D. Sufficiency.[26]—In the foot notes are grouped cases dealing with sufficiency of evidence to show the corpus delicti,[27] to show conspiracy or other par-

parity of size between himself and deceased, the state may show that deceased was in poor health. State v. Beckner, 194 Mo. 281, 91 S. W. 892.

11. Where it appears that deceased approached defendant in a threatening manner, evidence as to what weapons he had is admissible. People v. Cook, 148 Cal. 334, 83 P. 43. That on a search of deceased's body immediately after the homicide no weapon was found is admissible. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178.

12. Where deceased struck defendant with a club, evidence that he had been carrying such club around during the day is admissible as tending to show that he sought the encounter. State v. Trueman [Mont.] 85 P. 1024.

13. Deceased's habit of carrying weapons not admissible without proof that defendant knew it. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178.

14. Deceased's habit of carrying weapons not admissible unless defendant's knowledge thereof is shown. Rogers v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 572.

15. See 5 C. L. 1719.

16. Question for court or jury. The admissibility of a dying declaration is in the first instance a question of law for the court. Willoughby v. Territory, 16 Okl. 577, 86 P. 56. A prima facie case is all that is necessary to admit the declarations, the question whether they were made under conviction of impending death being thereafter for the jury. Findley v. State, 125 Ga. 579, 54 S. E. 106. As to whether it should be submitted for the ultimate decision of the jury the authorities are in conflict. Willoughby v. Territory, 16 Okl. 577, 86 P. 56, discussing but not deciding the question. In any event it is harmless to submit it. Id.

17. Evidence held to sufficiently show belief in impending death. Pryor v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 1012; Asher v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1342, 91 S. W. 662; Newton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 19; Park v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 489; Brennan v. People [Colo.] 86 P. 79; Willoughby v. Territory, 16 Okl. 577, 86 P. 56. That the declarant was informed by his doctor that he was about to die and stated that he realized it is sufficient foundation. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251. Condition of injured person and nature of wounds may be considered. Brennan v. People [Colo.] 86 P. 79. Declaration of deceased that he knew he was going to die sufficient predicate. Moore v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 345. Repeated declarations of deceased that he was going to die held a sufficient predicate. Smith v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 957. Statement of deceased that he was going to die sufficient predicate. Walker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 878.

18. Keith v. Com. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 599.

19. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251.

20, 21, 22. Park v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 489.

23. Walker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 878.

24. Walton v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 689.

25. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251. Where statements inconsistent with a dying declaration are being proved, the witness may be asked generally what was said at a time and place specified and it is error to require the alleged statements to be categorically put to the witness. Id.

26. See 5 C. L. 1720.

27. The corpus delicti of murder consists of death as the result and criminal agency as the means. Evidence of criminal agency as cause of death held insufficient to support confession. People v. Frank [Cal. App.] 83 P. 578. Circumstantial evidence held insufficient against claim that deceased died of heart disease. Allen v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 744. Evidence sufficient. Man found dead from gun shot wound. People v. Grill [Cal. App.] 86 P. 613. Corpus delicti may be shown by circumstantial evidence. State v. Gillis, 73 S. C. 318, 53 S. E. 487. Corpus delicti may be proved by circumstantial evidence. Evidence held sufficient in case where ticipation by accused in a killing by another,[28] to identify accused as the perpetrator of the offense,[29] and to sustain generally convictions of murder,[30] manslaughter,[31] and assault with intent to kill and kindred offenses.[32] skeleton and some articles of clothing were found. State v. Barnes [Or.] 85 P. 998. The precise manner of killing need not be proven. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237. Evidence of corpus delicti of arsenical poisoning held sufficient. Hoch v. People, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356. Proof of corpus delicti of infanticide held insufficient. People v. Eldridge [Cal. App.] 86 P. 832. Evidence of corpus delicti of wife poisoning held insufficient. People v. Staples [Cal.] 86 P. 886.

28. Evidence of participation by accused in killing by his codefendant held sufficient. State v. Jarrell [N. C.] 53 S. E. 127. Evidence held sufficient to show conspiracy between several persons who all fired at deceased. McLeroy v. State, 125 Ga. 240, 54 S. E. 125. Evidence held to show that homicide was committed in pursuance of a conspiracy to escape from prison and that defendant was a party thereto. People v. Eldridge, 147 Cal. 782, 82 P. 442.

29. Evidence of an altercation in which shots were fired by several in a public place held to sustain a finding that the shot which killed a bystander was fired by defendant. State v. Lilliston [N. C.] 54 S. E. 427. Evidence that several persons fired at deceased and that two shots took effect is insufficient to convict any one in the absence of proof of conspiracy or concert. McLeroy v. State, 125 Ga. 240, 54 S. E. 125; Davis v. State, 125 Ga. 299, 54 S. E. 126. Evidence held sufficient to identify defendant as the perpetrator of murder of one who sought to protect the victim of rape. Boles v. People [Colo.] 86 P. 1030. Evidence of identity of defendant held sufficient. State v. Rogers, 129 Iowa, 229, 105 N. W. 455; White v. State, 125 Ga. 256, 54 S. E. 188. Circumstantial evidence of murder of old couple and burning of house to conceal crime held sufficient. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237. Evidence held sufficient as to identity of defendant, though the great preponderance in number of witnesses was with defendant. People v. Cascone [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 287. Circumstantial evidence of murder of defendant's parents, brothers, and sister held sufficient against evidence of alibi. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Circumstantial evidence of murder of old man with axe for robbery held sufficient. State v. Shepherd, 129 Iowa, 705, 106 N. W. 190.

30. Motive need not be shown if malice otherwise appear. State v. Thrailkill, 73 S. C. 314, 53 S. E. 482; Campbell v. State, 124 Ga. 432, 52 S. E. 914. Evidence held to sustain conviction of murder in first degree. Keith v. Com. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 599. Evidence of assassination pursuant to conspiracy held sufficient. Moore v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 345. Evidence of instant killing of officer on his announcing purpose of arresting defendant held to sustain conviction of murder in the first degree. State v. Barrett [N. C.] 54 S. E. 856. Evidence of premeditation held sufficient. State v. Prolow [Minn.] 108 N. W. 873. Evidence of killing after altercation held to sustain conviction of murder in second degree. Johnson v. State [Wis.] 108 N. W. 55. Conviction of murder sustained against claim of accident. People v. Smith, 98 N. Y. S. 905. Evidence held sufficient to sustain conviction in first degree. People v. Mahatch, 148 Cal. 200, 82 P. 779. Circumstantial evidence of murder for robbery and destruction of body of deceased held sufficient. State v. Barnes [Or.] 85 P. 998. Corroboration of accomplice held sufficient to sustain conviction. Hargrove v. State, 125 Ga. 270, 54 S. E. 164. Evidence as to killing with a rock held not to show intent to kill or the deadly character of the weapon from which such intent might be inferred. Jordan v. State, 124 Ga. 780, 53 S. E. 331. Confession and corroborating circumstances held sufficient. Milner v. State, 124 Ga. 86, 52 S. E. 302. Evidence of killing by one endeavoring to force entrance to house where his wife was, held to sustain conviction of murder in first degree. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100. Corroboration of accomplice held sufficient to warrant conviction of murder of husband of defendant's paramour. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43. Evidence held to sustain a conviction of murder in the second degree as against claim of manslaughter. Willoughby v. Territory, 16 Okl. 577, 86 P. 56. Evidence held not to suggest mutual combat. Reese v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 39, 91 S. W. 583. Evidence held to sustain conviction against claim of self-defense. Samaniego v. Territory [Ariz.] 85 P. 721; State v. Prolow [Minn.] 108 N. W. 873; State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929; State v. Dillard [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 117. Evidence held insufficient to sustain conviction as against claim of self-defense. Lucas v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 976. Evidence held to show homicide in commission of robbery as against claim of acute alcoholic mania. People v. Pekarz [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 294. Evidence of insanity held such that conviction could not stand. People v. Merincola, 99 N. Y. S. 357. Evidence of momentary lapse of consciousness at time of shooting held insufficient to disturb conviction. State v. Williams, 96 Minn. 351, 105 N. W. 265. Evidence held to show unprovoked stabbing of wife. Jones v. State, 125 Ga. 307, 54 S. E. 122. Evidence of unprovoked shooting of wife held to sustain conviction in first degree. People v. Johnson [N. Y.] 77 N. E. 1164. Evidence of wife murder held sufficient against claim of accident. Parsons v. People, 218 Ill. 386, 75 N. E. 993. Evidence of murder of wife in conflict for possession of child held sufficient. State v. Hinchman [Kan.] 87 P. 186. Circumstantial evidence of wife poisoning held sufficient. Hoch v. People, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356; State v. Woodard [Iowa] 108 N. W. 753; Rains v. Com. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 276. Circumstantial evidence of murder of husband held sufficient. Campbell v. State, 124 Ga. 432, 52 S. E. 914. Evidence of wife murder held insufficient as against claim of accident. Montgomery v. State [Wis.] 107 N. W. 14.

31. Evidence held to sustain conviction of manslaughter by abortion. State v. Finley,

§ 8. Trial and punishment. A. Conduct of trial in general.[33]

(§ 8) B. Instructions.[34]—The court must give, at least on proper request,[35] instructions as to such and only such issues,[36] defenses,[37] and aspects thereof,[38] and 193 Mo. 202, 91 S. W. 942. Evidence held to sustain conviction of voluntary manslaughter against claim of accident. Brown v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1335, 92 S. W. 542. Evidence of killing in drunken quarrel held to sustain conviction of manslaughter. Hudson v. State [Ark.] 91 S. W. 299. Defendant's own testimony held to show manslaughter and negative self-defense. Clingan v. State [Ark.] 91 S. W. 12. Evidence held sufficient to sustain conviction of voluntary manslaughter. Wall v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 484. Evidence held to sustain conviction of manslaughter as against claim of self-defense and temporary insanity. State v. Mitchell [Iowa] 107 N. W. 804. Evidence held to sustain conviction of manslaughter as against claim of self-defense. Larrance v. People, 222 Ill. 155, 78 N. E. 50; People v. Gallanar [Cal. App.] 86 P. 814; State v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 115. Evidence of negligent driving held to sustain conviction of manslaughter. State v. Moore, 129 Iowa, 514, 106 N. W. 16. Evidence as to manslaughter by carelessness in struggle over loaded pistol held sufficient as to one defendant and insufficient as to another. State v. Clardy, 73 S. C. 340, 53 S. E. 493. Verdict of manslaughter set aside where evidence showed either murder or justification. Robinson v. State, 124 Ga. 787, 53 S. E. 99.

32. Conviction of assault sustained against contention of defendant that he acted only as peacemaker. State v. Stuart, 116 Mo. App. 327, 92 S. W. 345. Evidence of intent to do great bodily harm held sufficient. State v. Cummings, 128 Iowa, 522, 105 N. W. 57. Evidence held to sustain conviction of unlawful wounding by reckless shooting in public place. State v. Groves, 194 Mo. 452, 92 S. W. 631. Evidence held to sustain conviction of assault with intent to kill without malice. State v. Heimberger, 194 Mo. 362, 92 S. W. 479. Verdict that assault with rock the size of a man's fist did endanger life sustained. State v. Ireland, 72 Kan. 265, 83 P. 1036. Evidence of declarations and motive held to identify defendant as person who committed assault with intent to kill. State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241, 83 P. 1. Evidence of assault with intent to disfigure, by throwing lye in woman's face, held sufficient. State v. Brown [Iowa] 106 N. W. 379. Evidence of assault with intent to stab street car conductor held sufficient. Smith v. State, 125 Ga. 300, 54 S. E. 124. Evidence of assault on railroad conductor with pistol held to show intent to kill. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 235, 54 S. E. 186. Where the weapon is alleged to be such a knife as was likely to produce death, the deadly character thereof must be shown. Evidence held insufficient. Paschal v. State, 125 Ga. 279, 54 S. E. 172. Where evidence requires either acquittal or conviction of murder, verdict of manslaughter will be set aside. Herrington v. State, 125 Ga. 745, 54 S. E. 748; Lester v. State, 125 Ga. 747, 54 S. E. 749. Evidence held to make a question for the jury whether an assault with deadly weapon was committed within the jurisdiction. State v. Barrington [N. C.] 53 S. E. 663. Evidence on charge of unlawfully shooting at another held to negative accident. Ridgley v. State, 124 Ga. 454, 52 S. E. 761. Evidence of intent held sufficient to sustain conviction of assault with intent to kill. People v. Owens [Cal. App.] 86 P. 980. Evidence of intent insufficient. Simmons v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 660.

33. See 5 C. L. 1722. See Indictment and Prosecution, 8 C. L. — .

34. See 5 C. L. 1723.

35. See Indictment and Prosecution, 5 C. L. 1790.

36. Instruction as to deadliness of pistol when used to strike with properly refused when there was no evidence of intent to so use it. People v. Owens [Cal. App.] 86 P. 980. Evidence held sufficient to warrant submission of conspiracy between defendants. Crawford v. State, 125 Ga. 793, 54 S. E. 695. Evidence held to warrant instruction as to principal in second degree. Brown v. State, 125 Ga. 281, 54 S. E. 162. Evidence held not to justify an instruction that the fact of killing was not disputed. Young v. State, 125 Ga. 584, 54 S. E. 82. That the corpus delicti is proved by circumstantial evidence does not render improper an instruction as to presumption of malice from killing. Campbell v. State, 124 Ga. 432, 52 S. E. 914. Instruction that firing by person assailed after the assault was made constituted no defense is proper though accused did not rely on it as a defense. Adams v. State, 125 Ga. 11, 53 S. E. 804. Evidence held to show personal aggression by police officer rather than attempt to arrest defendant so that charge on homicide in resisting arrest was error. Melbourne v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 189. Evidence held to present no issue as to homicide in resisting unlawful arrest. McPhay v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 17. Evidence of the deadly character of knife held so slight that court was not required to submit question to jury. Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795. Instruction that proof of a general felonious intent is insufficient on a charge of assault with a specific intent properly refused where there is no evidence of general felonious intent. People v. Owens [Cal. App.] 86 P. 980. An instruction that every man is presumed to intend the natural and ordinary consequences of his acts is proper only where the intent which it is sought to impute was actually accomplished. An instruction that every person is presumed to intend the natural and ordinary consequences of his acts is error on prosecution for assault with intent to kill where death did not result (State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241, 83 P. 1), but is proper on a prosecution for assault with intent to do great bodily harm where such harm was inflicted (Id.). No evidence calling for instruction as to shooting with intent to frighten. Millender v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 664.

37. Evidence held not to require submission of self-defense. Deceased threw iron at defendant. Defendant with threat went for weapon and killed deceased before latter such included offenses[39] as are presented by the evidence.[40] In Louisiana the court is required to submit the issue of manslaughter in every prosecution for murder, made any other demonstration. State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511. Instruction as to self-defense held properly refused as ignoring evidence of conspiracy of defendant and another to kill deceased. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. That deceased drew a gun after a deadly assault had been made on him by defendant does not warrant submission of justification. Bowden v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 499. Instruction as to accidental killing held properly refused as inapplicable to the evidence. Covington v. People [Colo.] 85 P. 832. Where the evidence shows without conflict that accused brought on the combat and that he could with safety have retreated, self-defense need not be submitted. Gray v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 621. Evidence that deceased went to defendant's house at night on appointment with an immoral woman domiciled therein and sought admission did not require an instruction on defense of habitation. Rumsey v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 167. Evidence held to show that homicide was outside curtilage so as not to call for charge on defense of dwelling house. Dawson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 803. Must submit accidental homicide where there is evidence thereof. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545. Evidence held to require instruction on intoxication as affecting capacity to form intent. Brennan v. People [Colo.] 86 P. 79. Evidence that after deceased had been in defendant's house and had shot at defendant the latter took his gun and went out to see if deceased was gone, and being fired on shot and killed deceased, entitles him to instruction on self-defense. State v. Williams [N. C.] 53 S. E. 823

38. General threats made by deceased held not to authorize charge on threats. Leito v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 537, 92 S. W. 418. Giving of instructions as pursuit of retreating adversary is error if there is no evidence on which to base them. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. It is error to submit aggression by accused where there is no evidence thereof. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 302, 54 S. E. 108. Evidence held to justify submission of theory that accused sought out deceased for the purpose of provoking an altercation. Brandenburgh v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1050, 91 S. W. 269. Evidence tending to support accidental killing held capable of no interpretation making it proper to submit criminal carelessness as an exception to excuse by accident. State v Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545. Instruction on self-defense ignoring evidence that accused willingly entered the altercation properly refused. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Evidence held to warrant instruction on provoking difficulty. State v. Feeley, 194 Mo. 300, 92 S. W. 663; Parker v. State [Neb.] 108 N. W. 121; Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451; Miller v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1372, 91 S. W. 710. Charge on provoking difficulty is error if there is no evidence to sustain it. Leito v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 537, 92 S. W. 418. Evidence held not to warrant instruction on provocation of difficuty. Sprinkle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 323, 91 S. W. 787.

39. Where the proof is by eye witnesses, only those degrees which the evidence will sustain should be submitted. Territory v. Hendricks [N. M.] 84 P. 523. Error to submit degree not shown. Herrington v. State, 125 Ga. 745, 54 S. E. 748. Circumstantial evidence of killing with axe held to justify submission of lower degrees. State v. Shepherd, 129 Iowa, 705, 106 N. W. 190. Failure to instruct as to lower degrees held error. Newton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 19. Refusal to submit a lower degree than the jury found is harmless as tending to produce acquittal. People v. Brown [Cal. App.] 84 P. 670.

Murder: Error to submit first degree where only evidence of malice is presumption from use of deadly weapon. State v. Minor, 193 Mo. 597, 92 S. W. 466. That a burglar carried a revolver indicates an intent to use it against any person who should attempt to apprehend him, and accordingly justifies submission of premeditation in an indictment for killing police officer in effort to escape. People v. Huter, 184 N. Y. 237, 77 N. E. 6. Evidence as to intent to steal held sufficiently doubtful so that second degree as well as homicide in the perpetration of larceny should be submitted. State v. Rogers, 129 Iowa, 229, 105 N. W. 455. Evidence held to sustain charge as to murder by firing into a crowd with reckless indifference to life. Smith v. State, 124 Ga. 213, 52 S. E. 329. Evidence held not to justify submission of murder in the third degree. Territory v. Hendricks [N. M.] 84 P. 523.

Manslaughter: Where the state's evidence shows murder and the defendant's shows innocence, an instruction on manslaughter need not be given. Pinkerton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 224; Greer v. State, 124 Ga. 688, 52 S. E. 884; Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820; Devereaux v. State, 125 Ga. 740, 54 S. E. 666; Davis v. State, 125 Ga. 299, 54 S. E. 126. Evidence held to warrant submission of voluntary manslaughter. Green v. State, 124 Ga. 343, 52 S. E. 431. Held to require charge on involuntary manslaughter. Killing with weapon not deadly as a matter of law. Dorsey v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 479. Evidence held not to require submission of involuntary manslaughter. State v. Woodrow, 58 W. Va. 527, 52 S. E. 545. Where it clearly appears that the killing was intentional and unlawful, involuntary manslaughter need not be submitted. Ware v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 181. Held to require instruction on manslaughter. Ellington v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 403; Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 302, 54 S. E. 108. Evidence held not to require instruction on manslaughter. Dow v. State [Ark.] 92 S. W. 28; Hannah v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 855; Hicks v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 807. Where there is evidence that accused was angry at the time of the homicide and of adequate provocation, testimony of accused that he was not angry does not preclude him from asking submission of manslaughter. Montgomery v. State [Wis.] 107 N. W. 14. Evidence held not to require a charge on adultery of deceased and defendant's wife "just over or about to begin." O'Shields v. State, 125 Ga. 310, 54 S. E. 120. Evidence of shooting without new provocation the day after a quarrel which had terminated in an agreement to fight a duel held not to warrant submission of manslaughter. Bundrick v. State, 125 Ga. 753, 54 S. E. 683. Evidence which strictly presented only murder or justifiable homicide held to admit of such influences that it was not improper to submit manslaughter. Jones v. State, 125 Ga. 254, 54 S. E. 144. Evidence of altercation between defendant and deceased who was bartender in a saloon held to warrant submission of manslaughter. People v. Gallanar [Cal. App.] 86 P. 814. Evidence held to justify charge on mutual combat. Moss v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 481. Evidence held to warrant submission of charge made by deceased against defendant's sister as provocation. Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795. Evidence of deliberate killing for robbery mitigated only by evidence of intoxication does not require submission of manslaughter. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3. Evidence of homicide in escaping from prison held not to require submission of manslaughter. Miller v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 47.

irrespective of the state of the evidence,[41] but it is not error to say to the jury in that connection that they are to be governed by the evidence.[42] The instructions must not intimate an opinion on the facts[43] or assume facts not proven,[44] nor must they impliedly exclude any defense or issue.[45] Cautionary instructions should, however, be given.[46] In the foot notes are grouped holdings as to the form and correctness of instructions relating to the issues and burden of proof generally,[47] presumptions,[48] the definition and elements of the crime charged or included offenses.[49] self-defense,[50] accident,[51] intoxication.[52]

Assault: Where the assault was with a pistol and a shot was fired, simple assault need not be submitted. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 235, 54 S. E. 186. Where a deadly weapon was used, simple assault need not be submitted. State v. Kapelino [S. D.] 108 N. W. 335. Evidence of deliberate shooting and wounding held to warrant instruction on intent to kill. Odom v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 182. Where the evidence shows infliction of a wound with a deadly weapon, assault and battery need not be submitted. State v. Johnson, 116 La. 30, 40 So. 521.

40. Defendant's testimony alone requires charge on included offenses. State v. Richardson, 194 Mo. 326, 92 S. W. 649.

41. Instruction held a sufficient statement of the right to convict of manslaughter. State v. Parks, 115 La. 765, 40 So. 39. Even in a prosecution for homicide by poisoning. State v. Cook [La.] 41 So. 434.

42. State v. Parks, 115 La. 765, 40 So. 39.

43. Instruction held not to intimate an opinion that deceased was killed while fleeing. State v. Sudduth [S. C.] 54 S. E. 1013.

44. Instruction held to improperly assume that malice of a codefendant was not participated in by accused. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Instruction held to improperly assume that first degree was shown. Commonwealth v. Frucci [Pa.] 64 A. 879.

45. An instruction that if the weapon used was not calculated to produce death the offense would be manslaughter is error as excluding justification. Cress v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 491. An instruction that "the defense" is justifiable self-defense is error as narrowing the issue. State v. Morris, 128 Iowa, 717, 105 N. W. 213.

46. Not error to refuse to charge that because of the danger of mistake, the infirmity of memory, and the possible failure of accused to express his own mind, evidence of threats should be received with great caution. Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820. Instruction that dying declarations are testimony to be considered with all the other testimony in the case not error. Findley v. State, 125 Ga. 579, 54 S. E. 106. As to credibility of dying declarations must be requested. Hall v. State, 124 Ga. 649, 52 S. E. 891. Instruction that relation of husband and wife indicated an affection which created a strong presumption against wife murder properly refused. Montgomery v. State [Wis.] 107 N. W. 14. A cautionary instruction respecting dying declarations should be given where such declarations have been introduced. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251.

47. An instruction that the prosecution must by "affirmative proof" exclude justification properly refused. Blanton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 789. An instruction that where it is shown that one has taken human life the law requires of him a strict account is not error. State v. Jones [S. C.] 54 S. E. 1017.

48. Instruction as to presumption of malice from use of deadly weapon sustained. State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929; White v. State, 125 Ga. 256, 54 S. E. 188; Nail v. State, 125 Ga. 234, 54 S. E. 145; Commonwealth v. Combs [Pa.] 64 A. 873. Instruction as to presumption of malice from use of deadly weapon should not be given in prosecution for assault. Adams v. State, 125 Ga. 11, 53 S. E. 804. An unqualified instruction that malice is presumed from killing with deadly weapon is not error where there is no issue of justification or excuse. Id. Instruction that unlawful act is presumed to be intentional misleading where defense is accident. People v. Grill [Cal. App.] 86 P. 613. Instruction as to inference of criminal intent from gross carelessness approved. State v. Clardy, 73 S. C. 340, 53 S. E. 493. An instruction that it was presumed that defendant intended to kill and that the law would not hold him guiltless unless the contrary appeared is error where there is evidence of self-defense. People v. Solani [Cal. App.] 83 P. 281. An instruction that from the firing of a revolver at another intent to kill is to be presumed is correct. State v. Bennett, 128 Iowa, 713, 105 N. W. 324. Instruction as to presumption of malice from use of deadly weapon held properly refused in view of evidence of willful and intentional killing. Ledbetter v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 618. Not error to refuse to charge that there is a special presumption of innocence in case of a charge of wife murder growing from the relation of the parties. State v. Le Blanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105.

49. Instruction held not to state what would constitute aiding and abetting by one present at homicide with sufficient fullness. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Instruction defining with specific reference to facts in the case assault with intent to kill held not to assume facts or single out particular evidence. Odom v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 182. Instruction as a whole held to correctly define murder in first degree though statutory word "purposely" is omitted. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649. Charge as to the necessity of overt act to assault held to sufficiently require that it be an actual physical act. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 235, 54 S. E. 186. In defining murder and manslaughter the court is not confined to the terms of the statute but may use common-law definitions so far as they are applicable. State v. Stukes, 73 S. C. 386, 53 S. E. 643. Instruction that defendant cannot be convicted of "murder" unless certain elements peculiar to one degree of murder coexist properly refused. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545. Instruction as to aiding and abetting approved. State v. Worley [N. C.] 53 S. E. 128. In a prosecution under Kansas Crimes Act § 42, for infliction of bodily harm under such circumstances that had death ensued it would have been "murder or manslaughter," it is sufficient to define those offenses as at common law and the degrees thereof under the statutes need not be defined. State v. Ireland, 72 Kan. 265, 83 P. 1036.

Malice and premeditation: Instruction as to right to find malice aforethought from deliberate shooting sustained. Covington v. People [Colo.] 85 P. 832. Instruction defining malice aforethought approved. State v. Wetter [Idaho] 83 P. 341, citing 2 Blashfield, Instructions, 611. Instruction that while interval of premeditation may be short the jury are to take into consideration the shortness of such interval in determining whether the act should not be attributed to passion rather than deliberation approved. People v. Gallanar [Cal. App.] 86 P. 814. [This instruction is distinctly argumentative in defendant's favor. It is probable that the real cause of objection to it was that it tended toward a conviction of manslaughter, which defendant contended should not have been submitted on the evidence. Ed.] Instruction that malice aforethought was manifested by an unlawful act done intentionally and without legal cause or excuse, and does not imply pre-existing enmity, approved. People v. Fallon [Cal.] 86 P. 689. An instruction that it is necessary that the killing "be preceded by" a concurrence of will, deliberation, and premeditation without stating that it must be "the result of" such concurrence is error. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. Instruction held not erroneous as confusing malice and wickedness. State v. Miller, 73 S. C. 277, 53 S. E. 426. Instructions held to properly define malice. Mann v. State, 124 Ga. 760, 53 S. E. 324. Instructions relating to specific as distinguished from general intent to kill are properly made inapplicable to murder in the second degree. State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511. Instruction omitting malice aforethought sustained in view of other instructions. State v. Houk [Mont.] 87 P. 175. Instruction for acquittal if malice of codefendant was not participated in by accused properly refused as excluding issue as to manslaughter. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Definition of malice aforethought as predetermination to kill is error for not requiring absence of legal excuse. Hill v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1320, 91 S. W. 1123. Instructions that premeditation need only be momentary sustained. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 979. Instruction that to convict the jury must believe that the offense was committed willfully, deliberately, and with premeditation properly refused where the evidence warranted submission of second degree. Id.

Manslaughter: Error in definition of heat of passion harmless where jury convicted of murder in first degree. State v. Fuller [Mont.] 85 P. 369. Instruction as to manslaughter on sudden combat approved in the absence of request for specific explanation of some of its clauses. Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451. An instruction defining voluntary manslaughter as killing upon sudden quarrel "and" heat of passion is error. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. Instruction as to mutual combat held sufficient. State v. Andrews, 73 S. C. 257, 53 S. E. 423. Instruction to convict of manslaughter if killing was in heat of passion "and" on sudden affray is error. Smith v. Com. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 610. Instruction as to heat of passion held improperly refused. Miller v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 342.

50. Instruction on self-defense held fully covered by those given. State v. Smith, 115 La. 801, 40 So. 171. Instructions on self-defense approved. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649; Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795. Instruction that father may kill in defense of his son whenever he would have a right to kill in his own defense properly refused for failure to state the elements of self-defense. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Where it appears that the first shot was not fired in self-defense and there is much evidence that the second was, an instruction on self-defense based on the hypothesis that the deceased was not killed by the first shot should be given. Mathison v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 801. An instruction requiring that defendant should have armed himself for his own defense is erroneous as the purpose of aiming is immaterial if he acted in self-defense. Instruction held harmless in view of others. Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795. Inaccurate charge on self-defense held not misleading under the evidence. Little v. Com. [Ky.] 91 S. W. 1131. Instruction as to careful consideration of past relation of parties, on an issue of self-defense, held not to direct jury to resort to speculations outside the evidence. People v. Gallanar [Cal. App.] 86 P. 814. The sections of the statute relating to self-defense on sudden attack and self-defense in mutual combat should not be given in such conjunction as to confuse the jury. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Instruction that threats did not justify killing held error as withdrawing such threats from consideration on issue of reasonableness of defendant's apprehension. Clay v. State, 124

Ga. 795, 53 S. E. 179. If the law of self-defense is fully given, failure to refer to it while charging on manslaughter is not error. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 265, 54 S. E. 167. Answer to question by jury as to whether accused was justified if person assailed fired first held too vague and general. Mathews v. State, 125 Ga. 50, 54 S. E. 196. Instruction to look to fact that deceased was armed and had made threats in determining whether he made a hostile demonstration, argumentative. Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621. Instruction that threats by deceased were to be considered only in determining who was aggressor and the reasonableness of defendant's apprehensions held proper. Long v. State [Ark.] 91 S. W. 26. Instruction held erroneous as excluding from consideration previous threats of deceased. Stevenson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 526. Instruction for acquittal on reasonable doubt whether the killing was in self-defense properly refused for failure to state the elements of self-defense. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274; Miller v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 342; Allen v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 624. Definition of justifiable homicide in the language of the statute is not error. Parsons v. People, 218 Ill. 386, 75 N. E. 993. Instruction on self-defense that the fact that one is in his own dwelling serves as a warning against intrusion properly refused as argumentative. Pearson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 733.

Freedom from fault: Instruction on self-defense must hypothesize defendant's freedom from fault. Smith v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 957; Patterson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 157; Outler v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 460; Kennedy v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 658. Must hypothesize that accused did not willingly enter into the altercation. Patterson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 157. Where defendant entered into an altercation in support of his wife, an instruction on self-defense should hypothesize not only his freedom from fault but his wife's. Williams v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 405. Instruction that defendant must show that he was free from fault in bringing on the difficulty error as shifting burden of proof. Brown v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 719. Requested instruction as to defendant's freedom from fault in bringing on the difficulty held to ignore evidence. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 979.

Provocation of difficulty: Instruction that if defendant was the aggressor and deceased having reasonable ground to believe his life in danger fired, defendant was not justified in returning the fire, approved. Von Haller v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 233. Instruction as to aggression by defendant, who was shown to have armed himself and sought out deceased, approved. Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451. Instruction that one who with intent to kill provokes a conflict and kills therein cannot justify the killing held erroneous for not requiring that the killing be in pursuance of the original intention. Herring v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 230. An instruction on provocation of difficulty requiring that defendant should have armed himself for the purpose of killing deceased, while erroneous, is not prejudicial to defendant. Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795. Instruction as to apparent danger must negative willingness of accused to enter into the altercation. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. The charge on provocation of difficulty should not be introduced into the instruction which presents the right of self-defense. Sprinkle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 323, 91 S. W. 787. It is error to single out an act of defendant which is of ambiguous character in an instruction on provocation of difficulty. Id. Instructions on self-defense held properly refused as failing to negative encouragement of the altercation by defendant and willingness to enter into it. Raines v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 932.

Actual or apparent danger: Instruction held erroneous as making justification dependent on actual danger. Weston v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1014; People v. Wright [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 280, 108 N. W. 92; State v. Morris, 128 Iowa, 717, 105 N. W. 213; State v. Mount [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 124. Instruction held not erroneous as requiring necessity to be actual. State v. Miller, 73 S. C. 277, 53 S. E. 426. Instruction that danger must be such as to create apprehension in person of "ordinary courage, judgment and observation" approved. Von Haller v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 233. Use of the words "sound reason" and "honest belief" in reference to defendant's apprehension of danger is not erroneous. Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451. Instruction that defendant was justified if immediate and great bodily harm "would be the apparent consequence" of waiting for the assistance of the law is correct. State v. Lilliston [N. C.] 54 S. E. 427. Charge that "bare fear" of the perpetration of a felony on defendant's person was not sufficient not error. Campbell v. State, 125 Ga. 752, 54 S. E. 666. Instructions as to reasonable appearance of danger sustained. State v. Houk [Mont.] 87 P. 175. Instruction held to sufficiently present right of accused to act on honest belief of danger. Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 592, 95 S. W. 1044. Instruction on apparent danger held properly refused because not requiring appearances to be reasonably sufficient. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. An instruction that it was not enough that defendant believed himself in danger unless facts showing reasonable cause for such belief appeared is proper. State v. Beckner, 194 Mo. 281, 91 S. W. 892. Where after an altercation deceased followed defendant and began another quarrel ending in the homicide, an instruction on self-defense confining defendant's grounds for apprehension to what took place at the second altercation is error. Moseley v. State [Miss.] 41 So. 384. Instructions on self-defense properly modified by inserting requirement that defendant must have acted from reasonable present fear. Regan v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 1002. Instruction omitting requirement that overt acts of deceased might reasonably induce and did induce fear of imminent death or injury properly refused. Id. Instruction as to self-defense held properly refused as tending to mislead the jury into believing that it was not necessary that accused should believe himself in danger. Ledbetter v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 618. Must hypothesize defendant's belief that he was in imminent peril. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178. Instruction hypothesizing brandishing of ax by deceased and threat to kill but not apparent im-

(§ 8) C. Verdict.[53]

(§ 8) D. Punishment.[54]—Where a witness stood within a few feet of accused at the time of the homicide, the case is not one of circumstantial evidence within a statute forbidding the death penalty on such evidence, though the witness was not looking at accused when the shot was fired.[55]

HORSE RACING; HORSES; HOSPITALS; HOUSES OF REFUGE AND REFORMATORIES, see latest topical index.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.[56]

§ 1. Disabilities of Coverture in General; Statutory Relaxations (122).
§ 2. Mutual Duties, Obligations, and Privileges (124).
A. Inherent in the Relationship (124).
B. Contracts or Other Dealings (125). Gifts (125). Antenuptial Contracts (126). Agreements for Separation and for Separate Support (127). Conveyances, Mortgages, and Contracts Concerning Realty (128).
§ 3. Property Rights Inter Se (128).
A. In General (128).
B. Rights of Husband in Wife's Property (129).
C. Rights of Wife in Husband's Property (129).
D. Estates in Common, Jointly, and by the Entireties (131).
E. Wife's Separate Property (132). Trusteeship of Husband (132).
§ 4. Property Rights Under the Community System (134).
A. What Law Governs (134).
B. What Property is Community and What Separate (134).
C. Rights and Powers as to, and Liability of, Community Property (135).
D. Rights and Powers as to, and Liability of, Separate Property (135).
E. Succession to and Administration of the Community (136). Rights and Powers of Survivor (136). Accountability to Heirs and Creditors (136). Community Debts and Claims (137).
F. Dissolution of Community (137).
§ 5. Liability for Necessaries (137).
§ 6. Contract Rights and Liabilities of Husband as to Third Persons (139). Agency of Wife for Husband (139).
§ 7. Contract and Property Rights of Wife as to Third Persons (139).
A. Agency of Husband for Wife (139).
B. Contracts in General (140).
C. Contracts of Suretyship (142).
D. Conveyances, Mortgages, Contracts to Convey, Powers (143).
E. Rights of Creditors (144). Of Wife (144). Of Husband (145). Fraudulent Conveyances (146).
F. Estoppel (146).
§ 8. Torts by Husband or Wife or Both (146).
§ 9. Torts Against Husband or Wife or Both (147).
A. Wrongs to the Person (147).
B. Criminal Conversation and Alienation of Affections (148).
§ 10. Remedies and Procedure Generally as Affected by Coverture (149). Right of Action; Parties (150). Limitations (151).
§ 11. Proceedings to Compel Support of Wife (151). Procedure (153). Relief Obtainable (154). Effect of Decree (155).
§ 12. Crimes and Criminal Responsibility (155).

§ 1. Disabilities of coverture in general; statutory relaxations.[57]—The common-law disabilities of married women, arising from the doctrine of the unity of minence of danger properly refused. Patterson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 157. Instruction properly modified to require that the attack afford reasonable ground for apprehension. State v. Lejeune, 116 La. 193, 40 So. 632. Instruction on self-defense held properly refused because not hypothesizing impending necessity. Smith v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 957. Instruction authorizing defense only against unlawful "and violent" assault is error. Sprinkle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 323, 91 S. W. 787. Not hypothesizing that apprehension of injury was reasonable properly refused. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727.

Withdrawal or retreat: Instruction ignoring right of aggressor to act in self-defense after attempt to withdraw held cured by other instructions. Clingan v. State [Ark.] 91 S. W. 12. Instruction that one attacked in his dwelling house need not retreat held properly refused because assuming that defendant was attacked. Pearson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 733. Instructions on withdrawal from combat must hypothesize actual withdrawal and good faith. Collock v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Must have reasonably believed that he had no other means of escape from death or great bodily harm. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 213 Pa. 432, 62 A. 1064. An instruction as to the duty of defendant to "decline further struggle" is misleading where the evidence shows sudden assault on him. Flynn v. People, 222 Ill. 303, 78 N. E. 617. Instruction as to right of accused to act in self-defense, though he was the original aggressor, held not to state with sufficient fullness the withdrawal which is pre-husband and wife, have been largely removed by modern legislation.[58] Where the unity of legal identity and property in the husband has, by statute, been replaced by the equality of each in legal identity and ownership of property, the power of contracting with others and with each other is a necessary consequence.[59] The power to contract being thus created includes or involves the right to an appropriate remedy for violation of contract.[60] Property rights may also be enforced by the requisite to such right. McCurley v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 1022. Instructions ignoring duty to retreat properly refused. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178. Instruction requiring that there be "no means" of avoiding danger is error. Austin v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1087, 91 S. W. 267.

Extent of force used or warranted: An instruction that an assault without a deadly weapon "did not justify defendant in shooting at" his assailant is error where defendant's testimony was that he fired only to frighten. Cunningham v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 531. An instruction that defendant had the right to use such force as was necessary to avert the real or apparent danger "and no more" is error. Carroll v. Com. [Ky.] 92 S. W. 308. An instruction that defendant had no right to use a deadly weapon to eject a trespasser is not erroneous for failing to contain the qualification, given elsewhere in the charge, that he might use such weapon if the trespasser resisted by felonious assault. State v. Mitchell [Iowa] 107 N. W. 804.

51. Instruction to acquit if the homicide was accidental unless it was due to "criminal carelessness" should define criminal carelessness. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545. Instruction as to right to discharge a gun for pleasure on one's own premises held sufficiently favorable to defendant. People v. Sauer [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 999, 106 N. W. 866.

52. Instructions on effect of intoxication approved. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3. Instruction in language of statute on effect of intoxication on intent held sufficient. State v. Kapelino [S. D.] 108 N. W. 335. Instruction on effect of drunkenness on capacity to form intent should be given. Brennan v. People [Colo.] 86 P. 79. Instruction that intoxication is no defense or excuse, without referring to its effect on capacity to form intent, error. State v. Bennett, 128 Iowa, 713, 105 N. W. 324.

53. See 5 C. L. 1730. See Indictment and Prosecution, 8 C. L.

54. See 5 C. L. 1730.

55. Mills' Ann. St. § 1176. Covington v. People [Colo.] 85 P. 832.

56. Scope of title: The relationship created by marriage. and the rights and liabilities arising therefrom, are here treated. The formation of the relation (Marriage, 6 C. L. 515), its dissolution (Divorce, 7 C. L. 1175), annulment (Marriage, 6 C. L. 515), and suit money in such proceedings or support by way of alimony (Alimony, 7 C. L. 104), are specifically treated in other articles. See, also, Parent and Child, 6 C. L. 877 (custody of children).

57. See 5 C. L. 1731. See, also, post §§ 2 B, 3 C, 3 D, 3 E, and §§ 7 and 10.

58. Act April 20, 1877, destroys unity and makes spouses equal in legal identity and ownership of property. Mathewson v. Mathewson [Conn.] 63 A. 285. On effect of Kansas statutes in changing common law and placing married women on equality with others, see Harrington v. Lowe [Kan.] 84 P. 570.

59. Mathewson v. Mathewson [Conn.] 63 A. 285. See, also, § 2 B.

60. Under Act April 20, 1877, husband may give valid promissory note to wife and she may sue thereon. Mathewson v. Mathewson [Conn.] 63 A. 285.

NOTE. Effect of modern legislation on rights of married women: The following excerpt from the opinion in Mathewson v. Mathewson [Conn.] 63 A. 285, illustrates the change that has taken place in many of the states:

"In 1877 (when the reform act of Connecticut took effect) the law defining the legal status of married persons stood thus: By force of the marriage the husband acquired a life estate (under some circumstances during the wife's life only) in all property, real or personal, then owned or subsequently acquired by the wife. He acquired the control of the fee or reversion of all this property so that it could not be disposed of without his consent. He retained his own legal identity, the absolute ownership and control of his own property, and all the civil rights and powers belonging to an unmarried man; but, by reason of the merger of the wife's legal identity in his own, he could not contract with her. He became legally charged (so far as they might be enforced through law) with those duties of support and affection inherent in the relation of man and wife. By force of the marriage the wife acquired a right to support by her husband, but no right to charge his estate with this support unless through an agency, real or fictitious. Her capacity to own or acquire property became suspended. The management, income, and profits of her property vested solely in her husband. Her legal identity was lost in his, and therefore she had no power to make a contract with anyone, except a contract of necessity by which she might, with the consent of her husband, dispose of the fee or reversion of her property, and like him, she became charged with the duties of affection and assistance inherent in the marriage relation. When, however, the beneficial interest in property came to a married woman under the protection of a trustee, her rights in respect to such property came within the jurisdiction of equity, and, in entering that court in pursuance of that jurisdiction, man and wife alike dropped the legal status, and the incidents flowing from that status ceased to exist. In equity they were not one person, but two distinct persons, each capable of owning, enjoying, and disposing of property within equity jurisdiction, and consewife in a court of equity even as against the husband, and though neither the common law nor any statute provides such a remedy.[61] Statutes repealing the disabilities of coverture are not retroactive.[62]

§ 2. Mutual duties, obligations, and privileges. A. Inherent in the relationship.[63]—The husband has the exclusive right to select the matrimonial domicile, and the wife is bound to follow him wherever he chooses to reside.[64] But the rule that the domicile of the wife is that of the husband does not apply where the wife has been wrongfully deserted by the husband;[65] in such case she may have a domicile in a state other than that in which the husband resides.[66] The status of the husband as head of the family is not affected by the fact that the family resides on premises owned by the wife.[67] The duty of the husband to support his wife and family, and the enforcement of that duty, are treated in a succeeding section.[68] quently each capable within that jurisdiction of making contracts with all the world, and with each other, and of suing and being sued.

"The quasi equitable status recognized in courts of equity remains, within its prescribed and rapidly lessening limits, substantially unchanged. The foundation of the legal status, namely, the unity in the husband of his own and his wife's legal identity and capacity to own property, was removed, and a new foundation, namely, equality of husband and wife in legal identity and capacity of owning property, was laid by the act approved April 20, 1877 (Pub. Acts 1877, p. 211, c. 114; Revision 1902, §§ 4545, 4546, 391, 392). This legislation is remedial, not as ameliorating an existing evil, but as eradicating that evil. It is in the nature of fundamental legislation involving all of the results necessarily flowing from the principle established. The equal capacity to own property and the equal identity necessarily involve an equal power of making contracts and a power of contracting with each other. Such result has followed a similar radical change in other jurisdictions. May v. May, 9 Neb. 16, 2 N. W. 221, 31 Am. Rep. 399; Wilson v. Wilson, 36 Cal. 447, 95 Am. Dec. 194; Harrell v. Harrell, 117 Ind. 94, 19 N. E. 621; Wilson v. Wilson, 113 Ind. 415, 15 N. E. 513; Hamilton v. Hamilton, 89 Ill. 349; Bea v. People, 101 Ill. App. 133; Clark v. Clark, 49 Ill. App. 163; Thomas v. Mueller, 106 Ill. 36; Snell v. Snell, 123 Ill. 403, 14 N. E. 684, 5 Am. St. Rep. 526; Going v. Orns, 8 Kan. 85; Crater v. Crater, 118 Ind. 521, 21 N. E. 290, 10 Am. St. Rep. 161; Wood v. Wood, 83 N. Y. 575; Minier v. Minier, 4 Lans. [N. Y.] 421; White v. White, 58 Mich. 546, 25 N. W. 490; Howland v. Howland, 20 Hun [N. Y.] 472; McKendry v. McKendry, 131 Pa. 24, 18 A. 1078, 6 L. R. A. 506; Small v. Small, 129 Pa. 366, 18 A. 497. In the cases cited, and others that might be cited, courts differ somewhat in the application of the rule, owing mainly to the different legislative processes by which the change in status has been partially or fully accomplished, but all are consistent with the unquestionable proposition that, where the unity of legal identity and property in the husband has been replaced by the equality of each in legal identity and ownership of property, power of contracting with others and with each other is a necessary consequence."

The precise question passed upon by the court in the case of Mathewson v. Mathewson had never before been before the court. Numerous Connecticut cases are cited, however, which tend to support the position taken, that a wife may contract with her husband and sue him for a breach of such contract.

Coverture, as affecting capacity to be principal or agent, see Clark & Skyles, Agency, pp. 47, 62, 68. Effect to revoke agency, see Clark & Skyles, Agency, p. 450.—Special article, 4 C. L. 1295.

61. P. L. 1893, 158, prohibiting actions by married woman against husband, did not apply to suits in equity. Heckman v. Heckman [Pa.] 64 A. 425. Wife may maintain bill to set aside deed of separate property procured by husband on ground of fraud, undue influence, and want of consideration. Id.

62. In North Carolina adverse possession could not be counted against a married woman prior to February 13, 1899. Norcum v. Savage, 140 N. C. 472, 53 S. E. 289.

63. See 5 C. L. 1731.

64. No abandonment by husband where wife refused to come to home fixed by him. Birmingham v. O'Neil, 116 La. 1085, 41 So. 323. It is wife's duty to accept such residence as the husband may, without unwarranted parsimony or stubbornness, select. Klein v. Klein [Ky.] 96 S. W. 848. It is the right and privilege of the husband to fix in good faith a domicile for himself and wife, and when he does so it is the duty of the wife to follow her husband to such domicile and live with him there as his wife. Price v. Price [Neb.] 106 N. W. 657. A mere asylum at the sufferance of a stranger is not a home. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff, 26 App. D. C. 520.

65. Gordon v. Yost, 140 F. 79. Matrimonial domicile remains unchanged when husband abandons wife without justification. It does not follow that of husband. State v. Morse [Utah] 87 P. 705. See, also, Divorce, 7 C. L. 1175.

66. Where husband deserted wife and lived in another state with a paramour, federal court had jurisdiction of her action against the paramour for alienating her husband's affections. Gordon v. Yost, 140 F. 79. Where parties lived in Utah and husband deserted wife, her domicile, for purposes of bringing action for divorce, remained unchanged and did not follow that of the husband. State v. Morse [Utah] 87 P. 705.

67. That a married woman allows her husband to keep dogs on their home premises, which she owns, does not make her the "owner" of the dogs within the meaning of

(§ 2) B. Contracts or other dealings.[69]—The common-law rule that husband and wife cannot contract with each other still prevails in some jurisdictions,[70] and in some states contracts made through a third person are also void.[71] Statutes removing the disabilities of coverture have, however, in many jurisdictions, enabled the spouses to make valid contracts with each other directly.[72] In Massachusetts a promissory note made by a husband to his wife is void and cannot be enforced against the husband by any subsequent holder,[73] but if the wife indorses it to a holder in due course, she is bound by her contract of indorsement and may be compelled to pay it.[74] A statutory right to elect against a jointure does not apply to release a wife from a family settlement not intended to make provision in lieu of marital rights.[75]

Unlike antenuptial contracts, marriage is not a consideration sufficient to support a post-nuptial contract.[76] A post-nuptial contract providing merely that each spouse is to hold as his or her separate property the property each possessed before the marriage, and that the survivor is to have no claim to or interest in the property of the other, unaccompanied by mutual transfers of property or releases of marital rights, is not binding upon either.[77] Either spouse may, notwithstanding such agreement, repudiate a testamentary disposition of the other and claim marital rights in such other's estate conferred by law.[78]

Gifts.[79]—A gift from husband to wife, not made in prejudice of creditors, evidenced by a deed duly executed and recorded, is valid, and needs no consideration other than the marital relation to support it.[80] Where the husband buys property, placing title in the wife, the presumption is that he intended it as a provision for her.[81] In Louisiana interspousal donations are always revocable save as against third persons acquiring title by prescription of ten years.[82] Donations made by one spouse to the other before marriage are within the Louisiana statute providing Code § 2340, making such owner liable for damage done by dogs. Burch v. Lowary [Iowa] 109 N. W. 282.

68. See § 11, post.

69. See 5 C. L. 1732.

70. Husband and wife cannot contract between themselves. Such a contract would be void. Spurlock v. Spurlock [Ark.] 96 S. W. 753. Husband cannot make valid note to wife for loan. Caldwell v. Nash, 190 Mass. 507, 77 N. E. 515.

71. Note from husband to son, indorsed by son to wife immediately, for loan from wife to husband, held void. Caldwell v. Nash, 190 Mass. 507, 77 N. E. 515.

72. In Missouri husband and wife have full power and authority to contract with each other concerning property rights during coverture. Agreement by husband to convey to wife certain property in full satisfaction of all claims for dower, alimony, or maintenance, upheld. O'Day v. Meadow, 194 Mo. 588, 92 S. W. 637. Under law of May, 1899, husband and wife could contract with each other respecting property rights. Joint and mutual wills held enforceable. Bower v. Daniel [Mo.] 95 S. W. 347. A married woman may assign directly to her husband her right of action against a carrier for loss of her personal baggage. Rossier v. Wabash R. Co., 115 Mo. App. 515, 91 S. W. 1018. Under Act April 20, 1877, creating equality of husband and wife, note of husband to wife is valid and wife may sue thereon. Mathewson v. Mathewson [Conn.] 63 A. 285.

73. Middleborough Nat. Bank v. Cole, 191 Mass. 168, 77 N. E. 781.

74. Firm of which husband was manager made a note and husband indorsed it and procured indorsement of wife, and he then negotiated it to bank. Wife was liable as accommodation indorser under Rev. Laws c. 73, §§ 82, 83. Middleborough Nat. Bank v. Cole, 191 Mass. 168, 77 N. E. 781.

75. A certain family settlement held not a jointure within Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 2663, 2665, so as to entitle the wife to repudiate it on the ground that she had a right of election after the death of the husband, where the husband had only a life estate in certain land at the time of its execution. Case v. Collins [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 781.

76, 77, 78. Unger v. Mellinger [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 814.

79. See 5 C. L. 1732.

80. Deed of gift, made when there were no creditors, held valid. Savage v. Savage [C. C. A.] 141 F. 346.

81. Siling v. Hendrickson, 193 Mo. 365, 92 S. W. 105. See, also, 5 C. L. 1732, n. 10. Where the title to real estate is in a wife, evidence that the funds for its purchase and improvement were furnished by the husband does not afford ground for declaring that she holds in trust for him and his heirs. Bernhardt v. Bernhardt, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 517.

82. Title by prescription held good. Construing together Civ. Code articles 1749 and 3478. Leverett v. Loeb [La.] 41 So. 584.

that a spouse who marries a second time forfeits to the children of the first marriage all property acquired by donation from the deceased spouse.[83]

Antenuptial contracts.[84]—Antenuptial contracts executed without fraud and with full knowledge, settling the property rights of the parties, are not contrary to public policy[85] but are valid and enforceable according to their terms,[86] even where rights of the parties under such contract differ from those conferred by law.[87] Marriage is a sufficient consideration to support such a contract.[88] If, however, the provision made by such contract for the intended wife is disproportionate to the means of the intended husband, there is a presumption in her favor that the execution of the agreement was induced by a designed concealment of his means by the intended husband,[89] and the burden is upon him, or those claiming under him, to show that she had full knowledge, at the time, of the nature, character, and value of the intended husband's property, or that the circumstances were such that she reasonably ought to have had such knowledge.[90] The facts that the parties were well acquainted and lived near each other, and that the intended husband was reputed wealthy, do not charge the intended wife with such knowledge,[91] nor is the fact that a relative knew the financial condition of her intended husband sufficient.[92] What property is included within the scope of an antenuptial contract depends upon the intention of the parties as shown by the language of the contract and the surrounding facts and circumstances.[93] An antenuptial contract does not bar the right to a widow's award where it does not specifically release the same nor employ words capable of such construction,[94] but a contract whereby each party renounces

83. Civ. Code, art. 1753. Didlake v. Cappel, 116 La. 844, 41 So. 112.

84. See 5 C. L. 1733. Also note, "Antenuptial conveyance by husband in fraud of wife's marital rights," 5 C. L. 1736.

85. Kroell v. Kroell, 219 Ill. 105, 76 N. E. 63.

86. Antenuptial contracts settling and adjusting the property rights of the parties are valid and enforceable (Watson v. Watson [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 355), when free from fraud and imposition and when they contain no provisions contrary to public policy (Id.). Parties who contemplate marriage may by an antenuptial contract, if there is a full knowledge on the part of the intended wife of all that materially affects the agreement, settle their property rights in each other's estates. Murdock v. Murdock, 219 Ill. 123, 76 N. E. 57. Where by antenuptial contract each party released all claims on the other's property except as to any testamentary provision that might be made by one for the other, and the husband, dying, left $100,000 by will to his widow and left $60,000 undisposed of, she was not entitled to the property not disposed of. In re Birkbeck's Estate [Pa.] 64 A. 536. An antenuptial contract provided that wife should receive, in lieu of dower, the interest on a sum named. Held taxes on such sum were payable out of the interest. Dulaney's Adm'r v. Dulaney [Va.] 54 S. E. 40.

87. An antenuptial agreement will be effective to control the marital rights of each spouse in the property of the other, though the law may provide a different rule. Unger v. Mellinger [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 814.

88. Antenuptial settlement. Unger v. Mellinger [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 814; Kroell v. Kroell, 219 Ill. 105, 76 N. E. 63; Savage v. Savage [C. C. A.] 141 F. 346. Where each party waived and quitclaimed all rights in the property of the other, the marriage and the mutual covenants constituted a sufficient consideration. Kroell v. Kroell, 219 Ill. 105, 76 N. E. 63. When a woman, capable of contracting marriage, and who assumes that the man with whom she contracts is also capable of doing so, agrees to marry him, her promise is a sufficient consideration to support an agreement by him to make a marriage settlement. Hosmer v. Tiffany, 100 N. Y. S. 797.

89. Provision disproportionate where wife was given life estate in homestead and $1,500, and husband owned life estate in large estate and was worth $35,000 at his death. Murdock v. Murdock, 219 Ill. 123, 76 N. E. 57.

90. Murdock v. Murdock, 219 Ill. 123, 76 N. E. 57. An antenuptial contract will be set aside where it appears that the affianced husband did not fully and fairly acquaint his future wife with the means at his disposal. Murdock v. Murdock, 121 Ill. App. 429.

91. Murdock v. Murdock, 219 Ill. 123, 76 N. E. 57.

92. Knowledge of son-in-law, uncommunicated to her, did not bind her. Murdock v. Murdock, 219 Ill. 123, 76 N. E. 57.

93. Kleb v. Kleb [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 396. Antenuptial contract made in Germany, at a time when neither party owned any property, by the terms of which the surviving spouse was made the sole heir of the predeceased spouse, held applicable to land in New Jersey, acquired by husband several years after the marriage. As to such land in New Jersey the contract was enforceable by the widow against the husband's heirs. Id.

94. Pavlicek v. Roessler, 121 Ill. App. 219.

and releases all rights in or claims to the property of the other constitutes a release by the wife of the right to a widow's award after the death of the husband and bars such right where there are no minor children surviving.[95] A contract between parties who had been divorced, whereby the divorced wife releases property of the husband from the lien of a decree for alimony, and the husband agrees to pay an annuity for life, in lieu of alimony, made upon contemplation of a remarriage, is valid.[96]

Agreements for separation and for separate support.[97]—Mere contracts for separation[98] and contracts looking to and tending to promote separation[99] are void as against public policy and do not bar the enforcement of legal marital rights.[1] But where a separation exists as a fact and is not produced or occasioned by the contract, an agreement that the parties will continue to live apart and that the husband will pay a certain sum for the maintenance of his wife and children is valid and enforceable[2] according to its terms.[3] Such a contract is sometimes made through a trustee,[4] but may be made by the parties directly without the intervention of a trustee.[5] A contract between a husband and wife for separation and a conveyance of the wife's property to the husband will be cancelled at the suit of the wife unless it clearly appears to be fair, just, equitable, and wholly free from exception.[6] Where parties who have separated and made a separation agreement become reconciled and enter into a new agreement, the entire separation contract falls.[7] An agreement between husband and wife whereby he agrees to convey certain lands to her in satisfaction of all

95. Kroell v. Kroell, 219 Ill. 105, 76 N. E. 63.

96. Savage v. Savage [C. C. A.] 141 F. 346.

97. See 5 C. L. 1733.

98. A mere contract between a husband and wife, then living together, to separate and live apart in the future, is contrary to public policy and void. Effray v. Effray, 110 App. Div. 545, 97 N. Y. S. 286.

99. An antenuptial contract stipulating that in case of a separation the husband should pay the wife a certain sum, and that all other rights and claims of the parties should be waived, is contrary to public policy and void. Watson v. Watson [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 355.

1. Contract fixing property rights in case of separation held not to bar wife's right to alimony in divorce action by her. Watson v. Watson [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 355.

2. Effray v. Effray, 110 App. Div. 545, 97 N. Y. S. 286. While divorce suit by wife was pending, parties became reconciled and a contract was entered into whereby it was agreed that if the wife should be compelled by the husband's conduct to leave him again he should pay her $50 a month in lieu of her contingent interest in his property. Held the contract was valid and not contrary to public policy, since parties were living apart when it was made and it allowed the wife no more than the court would have allowed in a suit for alimony without divorce. Woodruff v. Woodruff, 28 Ky. L. R. 757, 90 S. W. 266. Wife cannot recover attorney's fee in action to enforce above contract. Woodruff v. Woodruff, 28 Ky. L. R. 1082, 91 S. W. 265, denying a rehearing.

3. Where contract provided that wife should be paid for boarding husband's daughter, he was liable for such board after the daughter reached her maturity. Effray v. Effray, 110 App. Div. 545, 97 N. Y. S. 286. Husband gave certain securities and agreed to see that she had an income of $1,000 and to make up the deficiency if securities did not produce that sum. Held, no accounting was necessary to determine husband's liability. Id. Where husband assigned one-half the income of a trust fund to his wife for her support and that of the children, no mention being made of wife's representatives, it was held that after the wife's death the children had no interest in the fund, but the husband then became solely entitled thereto. Wright v. Leupp [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 464.

4. An agreement by a husband to pay a regular allowance to a trustee for the support of his wife, the trustee and the wife agreeing to hold him harmless from any other liability for her support, is valid. Domestic Relations Law (Laws 1896, p 220, c. 272, § 21), prohibiting contracts to alter or dissolve the marriage, or to relieve the husband from liability for support, does not render such contract invalid. Reardon v. Woerner, 111 App. Div. 259, 97 N. Y. S. 747.

5. Effray v. Effray, 110 App. Div. 545, 97 N. Y. S. 286.

6. Hartigan v. Hartigan, 58 W. Va. 610, 52 S. E. 720. Contract provided for perpetual separation, for conveyance of property of wife worth $10,000 or $12,000 to husband, that wife should have custody of 5 children and should support them, that husband should have certain rooms in the house and pay $50 a month to the wife, the agreement to continue until youngest child reached majority. Agreement set aside. Id.

7. As a part of a separation agreement a wife assigned to her husband her interest in a policy of insurance on his life. They were later reconciled. Held the assignment of the policy fell with the consideration, though claims for dower, alimony, and maintenance is not rescinded by a suit for divorce and alimony by the wife wherein the husband makes no defense, and the court awards alimony without regard to the terms of the executed contract between them.[8] An agreement by one spouse not to defend an action by the other for a divorce is contrary to public policy and void.[9] A husband, who by written agreement receives money from his wife and agrees that she may take the children, leave, and obtain a divorce at her pleasure, cannot maintain an action against those whom he charges with carrying out said agreement and procuring such divorce.[10]

Conveyances, mortgages, and contracts concerning realty.[11]—Where by an oral agreement between the husband and wife the wife is to convey a portion of certain land to the husband in consideration of his agreement to join her in a deed of the remainder to her children, and the wife conveys, a court of equity will specifically enforce the agreement of the husband to convey to the children.[12] Where a husband conveys property to his wife who has been estranged from him upon her promise to renew marital relations with him and she fails to keep her promise, the husband is entitled to a cancellation of the deed.[13] It is held in Indiana that an oral agreement of the wife to hold land purchased by the husband and conveyed to the wife in trust for him, prior to the married woman's act, does not create a constructive trust in favor of the husband.[14] In Georgia it is held that a transfer by a married woman to her husband of a bond for titles, upon the consideration that he carry out her obligations as to the payment of the debt therein referred to, is a sale by the married woman of her separate property and is invalid, in the absence of an order of the superior court of her domicile allowing the same.[15] The payment by the husband of the debt referred to in the bond under such circumstances is a mere voluntary payment and will not entitle him to be subrogated to the rights of the creditor.[16]

§ 3. Property rights inter se. A. In general.[17]—The general rule is that the husband or wife cannot, while living together and in the joint possession of real estate, acquire title one against the other by prescription.[18] In such case both are presumed to occupy the premises in subordination to the title under which possession was taken in whichever of the parties it may be, and not in hostility to such title.[19] The inchoate interest of one spouse in the lands of another is not an estate which can be separately conveyed.[20] Conveyance of the real estate of the parties must be by joint deed where the law so requires.[21] Usually contracts to convey, or deeds the reconciliation agreement did not mention it. Dudley v. Fifth Ave. Trust Co., 100 N. Y. S. 934.

8. O'Day v. Meadow, 194 Mo. 588, 92 S. W. 637.

9. A contract whereby a wife agrees to give her husband a note in consideration of his agreement not to defend an action for divorce by her is void as against public policy. Johnson v. Johnson's Committee, 28 Ky. L. R. 937, 90 S. W. 964. The parties thereto have the rights fixed by law prior to the execution of such contract. Id.

10. MacBride v. Gould, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 469.

11. See 5 C. L. 1734.

12. The marital relation does not bar relief in a court of equity. Kittredge v. Kittredge [Vt.] 65 A. 89. The contract is taken out of the statute of frauds by the wife's performance. Id. The fact that Acts 1896, p. 42, No. 49, authorizing a court of equity to empower a wife, on her petition, to convey by separate deed, is unconstitutional, as depriving the husband of his property without due process, is not relevant to this suit. Id.

13. Held that wife intended to defraud husband and to renew relations with her paramour, as she did after the conveyance to her. Jennings v. Jennings [Or.] 85 P. 65.

14. Agreement prior to Acts 1881, p. 527, c. 60. Shipley v. Shipley [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 965.

15, 16. Webb v. Harris, 124 Ga. 723, 53 S. E. 247.

17. See 5 C. L. 1735.

18. McPherson v. McPherson [Neb.] 106 N. W. 991.

19. Husband living on land with his wife claimed under tax title void on its face. Later he quitclaimed to his wife through a third person. Before his wife had acquired title by prescription he acquired the patent title but did not record it nor assert it in

of, the homestead, must be joint, or at least consented to by both parties,[22] and this is especially true of homestead, dower and curtesy.[23] A wife has an interest in the homestead of herself and husband, though the legal title is in him, and is entitled to the peaceful and quiet enjoyment thereof, and any unlawful invasion of such right is a legal wrong against her for which she may maintain an action.[24]

(§ 3) B. Rights of husband in wife's property.[25]—The subject of curtesy is elsewhere discussed.[26] In the absence of any consent or agreement, either expressed or implied, on the part of the husband that the earnings of the wife shall be retained by her as her separate estate, they belong to him.[27] Statutes vesting in a married woman all earnings acquired by her in carrying on any separate or independent business or in performing any labor or services on her sole and separate account[28] do not change the common-law rule that earnings acquired by the wife as such for services rendered about her household duties, or when assisting the husband in his business, belong to the husband.[29] Prior to 1894, in Kentucky, the husband acquired by marriage a right to all the personalty of the wife, which right was perfected by reducing the property to his possession.[30] But he could waive this right and allow the wife to own and control such property as her separate estate.[31] Since 1894 the husband does not acquire by the marriage any interest in property of the wife possessed before the marriage or acquired by her thereafter;[32] hence the reduction to possession of a note or chose in action does not give him any rights therein.[33] If he secures and disposes of a note belonging to her during the existence of the marriage relation, she may recover it, or its equivalent, after the parties have been divorced.[34] In New Jersey a husband is entitled to the administration of the wife's estate and also to all the net personalty of such estate.[35]

(§ 3) C. Rights of wife in husband's property.[36]—The widow's dower and homestead rights are elsewhere fully treated.[37] A wife has no vested interest in the personal estate of the husband.[38] He may dispose of it during his lifetime as he sees fit.[39] A gift of such property to his children during his lifetime after mak-hostility to her. Held wife acquired title by prescription. McPherson v. McPherson [Neb.] 106 N. W. 991.

20. Unger v. Mellinger [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 814.

21. In Missouri, prior to the act of 1889, and under Rev. St. 1865, p. 109, § 2, an executory contract of a husband and wife to convey real estate devised to the wife in remainder was absolutely void. The statute only authorized a conveyance by joint deed. O'Reilly v. Kluender, 193 Mo. 576, 91 S. W. 1033.

22. In Minnesota neither husband nor wife can dispose by sale or conveyance of a homestead right without the express consent of the other (Grace v. Grace, 96 Minn. 294, 104 N. W. 969), nor can either effect this result indirectly as by sale on partition (Id.). In Nebraska an executory contract for the sale of a homestead made by either husband or wife without joinder of the other is void as to the whole homestead tract without regard to value. Lichty v. Beale [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1018. Such a contract will not be specifically enforced nor will breach of it afford a cause of action for damages. Id.

23. See titles treating of those estates.

24. Where defendant's servants entered plaintiff's home without right and searched the premises, she could maintain an action and recover damages for injuries resulting from fright. Lesch v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 106 N. W. 955.

25. See 5 C. L. 1735.

26. See Curtesy, 7 C. L. 1016.

27. Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Tice, 124 Ga. 459, 52 S. E. 916. Husband's rights in realty during coverture, see Tiffany Real Prop., p. 410.

28. Act June 8, 1893 (P. L. 344). Standen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 214 Pa. 189, 63 A. 467.

29. Standen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 214 Pa. 189, 63 A. 467.

30. Boldrick v. Mills [Ky.] 96 S. W. 524.

31. As where husband at all times recognized wife's right to certain live stock and the proceeds thereof. Boldrick v. Mills [Ky.] 96 S. W. 524.

32. Ky. St. 1903, § 2127. Johnson v. Johnson's Committee, 28 Ky. L. R. 937, 90 S. W. 964.

33. Johnson v. Johnson's Committee, 28 Ky. L. R. 937, 90 S. W. 964.

34. Construing Civ. Code Prac. § 425, and Ky. St. 1903, § 2127. Johnson v. Johnson's Committee, 28 Ky. L. R. 937, 90 S. W. 964.

35. Wright v. Leupp [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 464.

36. See 5 C. L. 1736.

37. See Dower, 7 C. L. 1197; Homestead, 8 C. L. 93.

38. Robertson v. Robertson [Ala.] 40 So. 104.

39. A gift of bonds to a trustee to pay the income to the donor for life and then to give the bonds to certain named persons held a gift inter vivos valid against the wife and

ing provision for her by will is not a fraud upon her.[40] A voluntary conveyance[41] made in contemplation of marriage, and with intent to deprive the spouse of her marital rights, is invalid so far as it affects such rights.[42] If the intent to defraud actually exists,[43] it is immaterial that there is no treaty of marriage existing with a particular person at the time of the conveyance;[44] but the fact that there existed no treaty of marriage and that no negotiations for a marriage were pending is a strong circumstance tending to disprove fraud.[45] The general rule that a voluntary conveyance made in contemplation of marriage will be declared fraudulent has a well settled exception in the case of conveyances to children by a former wife. Such conveyances are not necessarily invalid where no false representations are made to the prospective wife and only reasonable provision is made for such children.[46] If a deed by the husband is made and recorded prior to the institution of a suit for divorce by the wife, it is not void as against the rights of the wife.[47] To invalidate the deed the wife must show that it was recorded subsequent to the filing of her petition.[48] A conveyance by the husband pending a suit for maintenance by the wife, with intent to defraud her, is void where the grantee had notice of her rights and of the intent of the grantor.[49] The wife's right to maintenance is held within the protection of the California statute declaring void transfers intended to delay or defraud creditors.[50] But a transfer by a father to his child will not be held void as against the wife unless it has affected his power to provide for her.[51] The fact that the husband represented that he was worth a certain amount before the marriage is not a ground for declaring a trust in the land conveyed in favor of the wife.[52] Under the South Carolina statute, giving a wife and children a cause of action to recover property conveyed by the husband to a concubine or bastard issue, the cause of action accrues when the gift or conveyance takes effect and the wrong is discovered.[53] Such a conveyance may be set aside during the husband's life, but in such case he takes nothing by the action.[54] In Indiana, where, at a judicial sale of realty, a wife's inchoate interest therein is not directed by the judgment to be sold or barred, the wife's interest becomes absolute as upon death of the hus-not a testamentary disposition. Robertson v. Robertson [Ala.] 40 So. 104. A wife has no vested interest in nonexempt personalty of the husband during his lifetime, and her assent is not necessary to enable him to dispose of it. Trabbic v. Trabbic [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 782, 105 N. W. 876.

40. Mortgage in favor of husband was canceled and a new one made running to a son with an agreement that proceeds were to be divided with others. Held a completed gift inter vivos and valid as against wife. Trabbic v. Trabbic [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 782, 105 N. W. 876.

41. Conveyance to son held not voluntary where grantee assumed mortgages nearly equal to expressed consideration and father retained life estate. Beechley v. Beechley [Iowa] 108 N. W. 762.

42. Beechley v. Beechley [Iowa] 108 N. W. 762.

43. Evidence insufficient to prove fraud intended by grantor who was wealthy and retained life estate in lands conveyed, and had sufficient property to provide for future wife. Beechley v. Beechley [Iowa] 108 N. W. 762.

44. If grantor intends to marry if he can find some person willing to marry him, and intends to defraud such person, the conveyance is fraudulent as to the wife selected, though no selection had been made at the time of the conveyance. Beechley v. Beechley [Iowa] 108 N. W. 762.

45. Beechley v. Beechley [Iowa] 108 N. W. 762.

46. The question in such cases is, was there an actual intent to defraud? Beechley v. Beechley [Iowa] 108 N. W. 762. Evidence held insufficient to prove fraud on part of son, or an estoppel, where father conveyed land to him prior to his third marriage. Id.

47. Rev. St. 1895, art. 2983. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 506, 90 S. W. 485.

48. Where deed and petition were filed the same day, wife must show that petition was filed first. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 506, 90 S. W. 485.

49. Ky. St. 1903, § 2126. Zumbiel v. Zumbiel [Ky.] 96 S. W. 542.

50. Civ. Code § 3439. Kessler v. Kessler [Cal. App.] 83 P. 257.

51. Husband conveyed land to daughter but had ability to earn wages and carry on business. Held wife had no interest in land conveyed. Kessler v. Kessler [Cal. App.] 83 P. 257.

52. Kessler v. Kessler [Cal. App.] 83 P. 257.

53. Limitations run from that time. Williams v. Halford, 73 S. C. 119, 53 S. E. 88.

band when by virtue of the sale the husband's title vests in the purchaser.[55] Under the statute which so provides, it is held that where a decree of foreclosure of a mortgage, in which the wife joined, orders sold only two-thirds of the realty, the wife's title to one-third becomes absolute when the purchaser acquires absolute title to the amount sold, and the wife's interest vests in her not only against the creditors but against her husband.[58] The statute thus construed is held not invalid as depriving the husband of his property, since if he redeems from the sale, as he may, the wife acquires nothing.[57]

(§ 3) D. Estates in common, jointly, and by the entireties.[58]—At the common law, circumstances making a joint tenancy generally, as to husband and wife, make them tenants by the entireties[59] differing from joint tenancies in that there is no right of severance terminating the right of survivorship.[60] The common-law rule still prevails in some states, and in these a conveyance to husband and wife creates a tenancy by the entirety[61] to which the same incidents attach as at common law.[62] Thus, upon the death of either spouse, the survivor takes the whole estate[63] regardless of any attempted testamentary disposition of the decedent.[64] The husband alone may maintain an action for damages to land held by the husband and wife by the entirety.[65] The husband may, by deed in which the wife does not join, convey or mortgage an estate so held, so as to entitle the grantee to the rents and profits during the life of the grantor,[66] but neither spouse can alone encumber or convey it so as to destroy the right of the survivor to receive the land unimpaired.[67] Thus, a conveyance by the husband alone does not give the grantee the right to cut timber on the land,[68] though by such deed both spouses are estopped to interfere with the possession of the grantee during their joint lives.[69] A mistake solely between the grantee husband and wife in taking a deed to the entirety instead of one in common was held reformable.[70]

Where the husband conveys land owned by him, the wife joining, to secure payment of a loan, and the grantee reconveys to the husband and wife as such, by quitclaim deed, the latter does not create an estate by the entireties.[71] The effect of the transaction is to release the mortgage and merge the title in the owner of the equity.[72]

54. Having parted with all his interest. Williams v. Halford, 73 S. C. 119, 53 S. E. 88.

55. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 2669. Green v. Estabrook [Ind.] 79 N. E. 373.

56. The opinion cites authorities and discusses holdings under statute fully. Green v. Estabrook [Ind.] 79 N. E. 373.

57. Green v. Estabrook [Ind.] 79 N. E. 373.

58. See 5 C. L. 1736.

59, 60. Bassler v. Rewodlinski [Wis.] 109 N. W. 1032.

61. Bynum v. Wicker [N. C.] 53 S. E. 478; West v. Aberdeen & R. F. R. Co., 140 N. C. 620, 53 S. E. 477; Joerger v. Joerger, 193 Mo. 133, 91 S. W. 918; Oliver v. Wright [Or.] 83 P. 870.

62. Bynum v. Wicker [N. C.] 53 S. E. 478; West v. Aberdeen & R. F. R. Co., 140 N. C. 620, 53 S. E. 477.

63. Oliver v. Wright [Or.] 83 P. 870. Land was to husband and wife jointly, making them tenants by the entirety. A judgment was entered against the husband. He then conveyed his interest, described as a one-half interest, to the wife. Judgment of revival was obtained against the husband with notice to the wife as terre-tenant. Held, on death of the husband, the wife took title to the whole as survivor, free from the lien of the judgment, since the lien disappeared with the husband's estate. Hetzel v. Lincoln [Pa.] 64 A. 866. Act June 8, 1893 (P. L. 344), relating to rights of married women, had no effect where conveyance to husband and wife jointly was prior to the act. Id.

64. Land held by husband and wife as tenants by the entirety, at the death of one passes to the survivor, regardless of any attempt of the decedent to dispose of it by testamentary devise. Young v. Biehl [Ind.] 77 N. E. 406.

65. West v. Aberdeen & R. F. R. Co., 140 N. C. 620, 53 S. E. 477.

66, 67, 68, 69. Bynum v. Wicker [N. C.] 53 S. E. 478.

70. Marshall v. Lane, 27 App. D. C. 276.

71. Haak Lumber Co. v. Crothers [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 957, 109 N. W. 1066.

72. Grantor in quitclaim deed never owned entire estate, since husband had the equity of redemption, essentially a legal estate in the land. Haak Lumber Co. v. Crothers [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 957, 109 N. W. 1066.

In some states, where at common law husband and wife became tenants by the entireties, they now become joint tenants[73] or common tenants.[74] A married woman as joint tenant is under all the disabilities of any joint tenant at common law and has the same rights as though she were unmarried.[75] She cannot devise property held in joint tenancy so as to defeat the husband's right of survivorship.[76] In Massachusetts a conveyance to a husband and wife makes them tenants in common, but the statute which so provides expressly excepts mortgages, and as to these the common-law rule applies.[77]

By a divorce a tenancy by entirety is destroyed and the parties become tenants in common.[78]

(§ 3) E. Wife's separate property.[79]—Property inherited by the wife, or acquired by her through gift or conveyance, becomes her separate property.[80] A married woman may make any disposition of her separate estate which she desires to make even though her husband be deprived of his distributive share upon her death.[81] Where the husband takes out an endowment policy of insurance, payable to his wife in case of his death before the expiration of the period named, the wife acquires a vested interest in the policy which is not affected by a decree of divorce.[82] The interest in the policy, being her separate property, is not affected by an agreement to release all claims and rights in the husband's property in consideration of the provision made for her by such agreement.[83] Her earnings do not lose their separate character, though the husband's labor contributes thereto.[84]

Trusteeship of husband.[85]—Whenever the husband acquires the separate property of his wife, with or without her consent, he must be deemed to hold it in trust for her benefit, in the absence of any direct evidence that she intended to make a gift of it to him.[86] As long as the husband is in possession of the property, using it for the wife's benefit and recognizing her ownership, no lapse of time will bar

73. Since revision of 1878, this is law of Wisconsin. Bassler v. Redwodlinski [Wis.] 109 N. W. 1032.

74. Prior to D. C. Code § 1031, a conveyance to husband and wife and their heirs gave a tenancy by the entirety, but now it creates a common tenancy. Marshall v. Lane, 27 App. D. C. 276.

75. The statute destroying common-law disabilities of married women does not give her greater rights as a joint tenant than she would have if unmarried. Bassler v. Redwodlinski [Wis.] 109 N. W. 1032.

76. Husband sold property held in joint tenancy and wife devised to husband subject to $200 payment to others. Held husband's grantees took free from wife's devise. Bassler v. Redwodlinski [Wis.] 109 N. W. 1032.

77. A note and mortgage to husband and wife and their heirs creates, as at common-law, an estate by the entirety, and after the husband's death the widow may collect as against her husband's executor. St. 1885, p. 679, c. 237. Boland v. McKowen, 189 Mass. 563, 76 N. E. 206.

78. Joerger v. Joerger, 193 Mo. 133, 91 S. W. 918.

79. See 5 C. L. 1737.

80. Land inherited by wife, and proceeds thereof, are wife's separate property until reduced to husband's possession with wife's written consent. Under Rev. St. 1879, §§ 3295, 3296. Reed v. Sperry, 193 Mo. 167, 91 S. W. 62. In Ohio a policy of life insurance is not assignable to a married woman under the first clause of Rev. St. § 3629, for the reason that this clause has relation to a married woman simply. Without any qualifying words expressing the assignor's intention, such assignment is presumptively intended to make provision for a married woman and her children jointly. Reakirt v. Besuden, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 646. But an assignment to a wife and her assigns, with a reversion back to her husband in case of her prior death, creates an estate solely for her use, and is valid under the second clause or exception of the statute. Id.

81. In Maine, prior to June 1, 1903, when P. L. 1903, c. 160, p. 124, took effect, a married woman might make such disposition by gift, voluntary conveyance, or otherwise of her personalty during her lifetime as she wished, even if her husband was thereby deprived of his distributive share upon her death, and though she intended that he should be deprived thereof. Wright v. Holmes, 100 Me. 508, 62 A. 507.

82. Wallace v. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 106 N. W. 84.

83. Contract of parties settling property rights in divorce action held not to affect her interest in the policy. Wallace v. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. [Minn.] 106 N. W. 84.

84. Martin v. Davis, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 59. Antenuptial earnings and profits of keeping boarders after marriage. Id.

85. See 5 C. L. 1737.

86. Barber v. Barber, 125 Ga. 226, 53 S.

the wife from asserting her title or calling the husband to an accounting.[87] The statute of limitation does not run against the wife's right to an accounting until there has been an account rendered, accompanied by an offer to settle; a refusal upon demand to settle, a notice of adverse claim, an express repudiation of the fiduciary relation, such a change of circumstances of the parties as would be reasonably calculated to put the wife on notice that the relation was no longer recognized, or something to indicate to a reasonably prudent person that the relation had ceased.[88] Where the husband takes title to land bought with funds of the wife, there is a resulting trust in her favor.[89] Such a trust, however, can be established only by clear and strong proof.[90] Money raised by mortgage on the wife's separate real estate becomes her separate property, though the husband joins in the note,[91] and where the husband invests the money in land under an agreement to place title in the wife, and instead takes title in himself, he holds the land in trust for her to the extent of her investment.[92] To enforce her equity in such lands against persons holding under the husband she must prove that they were not bona fide purchasers.[93] They may be compelled to account for payments made after notice of her rights.[94] To recover from the husband's grantee on the ground of complicity in a scheme to defraud her, she must establish her rights against her husband and prove that his grantee joined with the husband in the scheme to defraud her.[95] The husband must account to the wife for her interest in all the lands; the husband's grantee must account for the value of the land received by him.[96] Where a husband buys land with his wife's money, taking title in his own name, and then conveys to a trustee for the use of his wife and her heirs, and the trust deed recites that she furnished the consideration, the wife takes absolute title and may alienate it.[97]

A husband may waive whatever marital rights he has in his wife's estate and settle it upon her to her separate use, and an agreement to this effect will be upheld in equity without the intervention of a trustee.[98] Thus, where proceeds of the wife's property is turned over to the husband under an agreement to hold them for her, and the agreement is recognized as a subsisting obligation by the husband during his lifetime, it will be enforced against his representative and heirs.[99] Such an agreement is based upon a valid consideration, and since it constitutes an express

E. 1017. Money of married woman received by her husband, but which is her separate property, under state laws, is presumably held by him as her agent. In re Cole [C. C. A.] 144 F. 392.

87. Barber v. Barber, 125 Ga. 226, 53 S. E. 1017.

88. Barber v. Barber, 125 Ga. 226, 53 S. E. 1017. A surrender by the husband of a portion of the property, being all that was then in his possession, a failure to account for the balance and an abandonment of all further control or management of the property, would be sufficient to indicate that the husband treated the fiduciary relation as at an end; and the statute would begin to run in his favor after the lapse of a reasonable time after such event. Id.

89. Reed v. Sperry, 193 Mo. 167, 91 S. W. 62. Wife's property was exchanged for real estate, husband taking title in himself. Held he held as trustee for her and her heirs. Siling v. Hendrickson, 193 Mo. 365, 92 S. W. 105.

90. Evidence insufficient. Reed v. Sperry, 193 Mo. 167, 91 S. W. 62. Evidence held insufficient to prove that land deeded to husband and wife was paid for with wife's funds. Joerger v. Joerger, 193 Mo. 133, 91 S. W. 918. Evidence held not to show that property deeded to wife was bought with her money or was her separate property. Coleman v. Jaggers [Idaho] 85 P. 894.

91, 92. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 506, 90 S. W. 485.

93. Held that grantees of husband's grantee acted in good faith as to a portion of their payments. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 506, 90 S. W. 485.

94. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 506, 90 S. W. 485.

95. By taking deed from husband and conveying to others. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 506, 90 S. W. 485.

96. Sparks v. Taylor [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 506, 90 S. W. 485.

97. Griffith v. Eisenberg [Pa.] 64 A. 368.

98. Bohannon v. Bohannon's Adm'x [Ky.] 92 S. W. 597.

99. Agreement enforced 30 years after it was made. Bohannon v. Bohannon's Adm'x [Ky.] 92 S. W. 597.

trust relating to personalty it may be established by parol.[1] Under such agreement the widow is entitled to the trust fund out of the residue of the estate, after payment of debts, in preference to distributees of the deceased husband.[2]

§ 4. Property rights under the community system.[3] A. What law governs.[4]

(§ 4) B. What property is community and what separate.[5]—The presumption is that property acquired during the existence of the marriage relation is community property,[6] but this presumption is rebuttable[7] by proof that it was paid for wholly or in part by separate funds of one of the spouses.[8] In the absence of contrary evidence, property held by husband and wife at the dissolution of the marriage or death of one of them is presumed to be community property.[9] Where the wife consented to sign a mortgage on the homestead on condition that a part of the proceeds of the loan should be invested in corporate stock in her name, the stock so bought became her separate property.[10] In the case of public lands entered as a homestead they become community property if the community continues to exist when the estate vests,[11] though the title be not made till after dissolution;[12] but in the case of an adverse possession by the wife, ripened into title after marriage, it is hers separately.[13]

1, 2. Bohannon v. Bohannon's Adm'x [Ky.] 92 S. W. 597.

3. See Tiffany Real Property, 383.

4. See 3 C. L. 1676.

5. See 5 C. L. 1738.

6. Where ring was purchased by wife during coverture, it was presumptively community property. Sweeney v. Taylor Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 696, 92 S. W. 442. Homestead acquired during existence of marriage relation, and at least 10 years after the marriage, is presumptively community property, and one asserting the contrary must prove it by clear and satisfactory evidence. Smith v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 933, 91 S. W. 815. Action to quiet title, plaintiffs claiming under deed from husband and defendants as heirs of wife. Evidence held to support finding that land was community property and was not purchased with funds of the wife. Jaegel v. Johnson, 148 Cal. 695, 84 P. 175.

7. Presumption that land bought during marriage was community property is rebuttable by proof to the contrary. Letot v. Peacock [Tex. Civ App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 345, 94 S. W. 1121.

8. Where husband furnished $1,500 of purchase price of land from his separate estate, the land was to that extent his separate estate. Letot v. Peacock [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 345, 94 S. W. 1121.

9. In the absence of contrary evidence it may be presumed that property left by a decedent was acquired during the marriage. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 2969, that effects of a husband and wife at time of dissolution of marriage may be regarded as common effects. Stein v. Mentz [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 4, 94 S. W. 447. In the absence of evidence to show how property held by husband and wife at the death of the husband was acquired, it will be presumed that it was community property. Rev. St. 1895, art. 2969. Cope v. Blount [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 99, 91 S. W. 615. Effects of husband and wife when marriage is dissolved are presumed to belong to the community and burden is on one claiming contrary to prove his contention. Edelstein v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 338, 95 S. W. 1126.

10. Not liable for husband's debts, nor was there any fraud on his creditors in the transaction. Yardley v. San Joaquin Valley Bank [Cal. App.] 86 P. 978.

11. Where parties were divorced at a time when the husband had entered upon public lands, before they were surveyed or thrown open for settlement and when he had a mere right of occupancy with a preference right to enter and acquire title under the homestead laws, the divorced wife acquired no interest in the lands, title to which was subsequently acquired by her former husband. Parties divorced in 1896, lands thrown open for settlement in 1898, and divorced husband made final proof in 1899, after five years' residence. Hall v. Hall, 41 Wash. 186, 83 P. 108. Where the husband enters upon lands under the homestead laws and resides thereon with his wife until her death, and thereafter commutes, makes final proof, and receives a patent, the land becomes his separate property not subject to a testamentary disposition of the wife. Wife had devised a one-half interest on the theory that it was community property. Cunningham v. Krutz, 41 Wash. 190, 83 P. 109.

12. The homestead acquired under the Federal homestead laws becomes the joint property of the husband and wife, if the community of acquets and gains existed between them at the time of entry, even though proofs were made and certificate and patent issued after dissolution of the community by death of the wife. Crochet v. McCamant, 116 La. 1, 40 So. 474.

13. Where land is conveyed to a woman before marriage and she begins assertion of ownership at once, and she and her husband take and hold possession for a sufficient time to perfect title by limitation, the land becomes the wife's separate property. Alford Bros. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 778, 91 S. W. 636.

(§ 4) C. Rights and powers as to, and liability of, community property.[14]—The husband has the right to the control and disposition of the community property,[15] which includes the right to sell or pledge such property[16] or to maintain an action for its recovery.[17] His general right to control community property ceases when it becomes a valid homestead.[18]

A contract to convey community property is binding on both parties only when both join therein or ratify each other's acts.[19] In Texas a married woman may, with the authority and assent of her husband, make a valid conveyance of community real estate.[20] A partition deed of community property signed by the wife is effective though her name does not appear in the body of the instrument.[21] The right of an abandoned wife to dispose of community property to provide for her support, upon default of her husband, is not exclusive as against the husband.[22] The husband does not forfeit his rights in the property by abandoning the wife but may sell it to pay community debts, and this right extends to personalty exempt from forced sale.[23]

Community property is liable for a community debt[24] or for a debt created by the husband for the benefit of the community.[25] Thus it is liable for an obligation of suretyship incurred by the husband in behalf of a corporation in which he is a stockholder when the stock belongs to the community.[26] Community property is not liable for a debt created by the tort of either spouse,[27] or one which is not for the benefit of the community.[28]

In an action of trespass to try title, a judgment against the husband binds the interest of the wife, unless she has a defense growing out of her homestead rights.[29] The wife is not a necessary party unless the fact that the land is a homestead is available as a defense.[30]

(§ 4) D. Rights and powers as to, and liability of, separate property.[31]

14. See 5 C. L. 1739.

15. Schaadt v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 249.

16. Sweeney v. Taylor Bros. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 696, 92 S. W. 442.

17. That note and mortgage to secure loan of community funds were payable to wife did not affect husband's right to sue. Husband and wife need not litigate question of ownership. Mortgagor could cause them to interplead if he was in doubt as to whom to pay. Brenneke v. Smallman [Cal. App.] 83 P. 302.

18. Yardley v. San Joaquin Valley Bank [Cal. App.] 86 P. 978.

19. Where wife conducted most of the negotiations for the sale of community realty, but husband sent one telegram in answer to one received and joined wife in deed sent to trust company for delivery, held each ratified acts of the other and husband as well as wife was bound by contract to convey, constituted by correspondence. Stevens v. Kittredge [Wash.] 87 P. 484.

20. Evidence held to show authorization by husband. Roos v. Basham [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 851, 91 S. W. 656.

21. Brown v. Humphrey [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 742, 95 S. W. 23.

22, 23. King v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 936, 91 S. W. 633.

24, 25. Floding v. Denholm, 40 Wash. 463, 82 P. 738.

26. So held where part of stock was bought with community funds against the protest of the wife. Floding v. Denholm, 40 Wash. 463, 82 P. 738.

27. Floding v. Denholm, 40 Wash. 463, 82 P. 738.

Contra: The community property is liable for a judgment founded on the wife's tort, including a judgment for exemplary damages. Patterson v. Frazer [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 78, 93 S. W. 146.

28. Floding v. Denholm, 40 Wash. 463, 82 P. 738.

29. Brown v. Humphrey [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 742, 95 S. W. 23. That occupants claimed property as community homestead held no defense in trespass to try title where claim was based only on adverse possession. Breath v. Flowers [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 614, 95 S. W. 26.

30. Brown v. Humphrey [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 742, 95 S. W. 23. Judgment against husband held bar against wife where occupant's claim to land as homestead constituted no defense, though wife was not a party. Breath v. Flowers [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 614, 95 S. W. 26. In trespass to try title the only possession had by married woman when suit was commenced was by occupancy by herself and husband. Hence, she was not a necessary party, since any title she could acquire by limitation would inure to community, and community would be bound by judgment against husband. Hamilton v. Blackburn [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 721, 95 S. W. 1094.

31. See 5 C. L. 1739.

(§ 4) E. Succession to and administration of the community.[32]—Where no children survive the community estate vests in the surviving spouse.[33] Where there are children the surviving spouse usually takes one-half.[34] This interest, in Washington, passes immediately on death of the other spouse.[35]

Rights and powers of survivor.[36]—In Texas, a widow who is made independent executrix represents both the separate and community property.[37] Her control as survivor of the community does not exist while the estate is in her hands as such executrix.[39] A surviving second wife, entitled to one-sixth of the personalty which was community property of the decedent and his first wife, cannot, as against children of the first wife, recover more than her proportionate share or be restored to the enjoyment thereof jointly with the guardian of the children until partition of the property.[39] A sale by the surviving husband of land of the community will be presumed a valid sale to pay community debts where no objections are raised at the time nor for a long period thereafter.[40] In Louisiana the property of the community, dissolved by death of the wife, can be sold in the succession of the wife,[41] since the surviving husband would be left without remedy if he did not have the right to bring about the sale of the property.[42] The rule is different if the husband is dead and the wife survives or if both are dead.[43] The surviving father can represent the minors and have property of the community sold to pay debts of the community.[44] A family meeting can be held in the interest of minors and the sale ratified.[45]

Accountability to heirs and creditors.[46]—In Texas the surviving husband may administer regularly on his deceased wife's estate or may take charge as community administrator and survivor.[47] In either case one-half the community property vests in the children upon death of the wife.[48] Their title is not devested by the giving of a bond by the husband conditioned for administration of the community and payment of debts.[49] Where the husband has given such bond and committed devastavit and died, a right of action on the bond at once accrues to the creditors and the children.[50] Minor heirs of the deceased wife are not barred by limitations from such action, though the administrator of the community of the deceased husband and wife is barred.[51] Where it is sought to hold a widow liable for a debt of her deceased husband on the ground that there has been no administration of his estate and that she is in possession thereof, a petition stating such facts does not authorize a personal judgment against the widow for any sum where it does not also

32. See 5 C. L. 1740.

33. Evidence held to show that no children survived. Stein v. Mentz [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 4, 94 S. W. 447.

34. Since usufructuary is entitled to fruits and revenues from day to day, held that, where husband died before expiration of lease, the succession was entitled to so much of the rental as had been earned at the date the succession was opened, though rent was not due until the end of the term, and widow was not entitled to the whole amount as usufructuary. Gaspard v. Coco, 116 La. 1096, 41 So. 326.

35. Under 1 Ball. Ann. Codes & St., on death of an owner of real estate it descends immediately to the heirs. Hence, where wife owned individually one-half of the realty and gave a deed of all her interest after her husband's death, the deed conveyed three-fourths of the property, subject to outstanding mortgages. Sawyer v. Vermont Loan & Trust Co., 41 Wash. 524, 84 P. 8.

30. See 5 C. L. 1740.

37. Judgment against her as such executrix, with execution, reaches property of both kinds. Hartz v. Hausser [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 141, 90 S. W. 63.

38. A judgment against her as survivor by a creditor of the estate is invalid. Hartz v. Hausser [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 141, 90 S. W. 63.

30. Cox v. Oliver [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 790, 95 S. W. 596.

40. Sale in 1835, 2 years after wife's death, presumed valid. Milby v. Hester [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 495, 754, 94 S. W. 178.

41, 42, 43, 44, 45. Elizardi v. Kelly, 115 La. 712, 39 So. 851.

46. See 5 C. L. 1741.

47, 48. Belt v. Cetti [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 3, 93 S. W. 1000.

49. Bond required by Rev. St. 1895, art. 2225. Belt v. Cetti [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 3, 93 S. W. 1000.

50, 51. Belt v. Cetti [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct.

state the amount or value of the estate which she has received.[52] In such action a judgment against the widow for the sum demanded is a personal judgment, although it awards execution against the community, and such judgment cannot be sustained.[53] Where one spouse dies intestate or becomes insane, leaving no child or children and no separate property, the common property passes to the survivor charged with community debts and no administration is necessary.[54] Under the statute which so provides, in order that creditors may maintain an action against the surviving widow for a debt of the husband, facts must be alleged showing that no administration was necessary.[55]

Community debts and claims.[56]—A community estate passes charged with the debts against it.[57] The survivor cannot sell property of the deceased to pay community debts in disregard of other creditors or of the children's allowance.[58] When notes evidencing a community debt are sued on, the surviving widow is properly joined with the administrator as a defendant,[59] but a judgment on the notes is a lien on the community property without any adjudication against her.[60]

(§ 4) F. Dissolution of community.[61]—Where a husband has so commingled his separate property with the community as to be unable to identify it, he cannot at the dissolution of the marriage charge the community estate with the value of his separate estate.[62]

§ 5. Liability for necessaries.[63]—A debt incurred for necessaries of a married woman is presumably the debt of the husband when they are living together,[64] and, if incurred by the wife, it is presumed that she is acting as the agent of her husband,[65] unless it affirmatively appears that she intended to charge her separate estate.[66] The presumption of the wife's agency to pledge her husband's credit for necessaries exists so long as there is no open separation.[67] It does not obtain when they are living separate and apart by agreement,[68] and it does not appear that he has failed to supply her with necessaries.[69] The mere fact that she has the bill therefor sent to the husband does not make the husband liable nor relieve her.[70]

Rep. 3, 93 S. W. 1000, rvg. Id. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 739, 91 S. W. 1098.

52. Breck v. Coffield [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 823, 91 S. W. 594.

53. Judgment against her would be enforceable by execution against her separate estate, notwithstanding such provision in the judgment. Breck v. Coffield [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 823, 91 S. W. 594.

54. Rev. St. 1895, art. 2220. Whitmire v. Farmers' Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 18, 97 S. W. 512.

55. Allegations that husband left no separate property, and that widow had taken possession of common property, held insufficient. Whitmire v. Farmers' Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 18, 97 S. W. 512.

56. See 5 C. L. 1741.

57. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1697. Belt v. Cetti [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 3, 93 S. W. 1000.

58. Latham v. Dawson [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 675, 89 S. W. 315.

59, 60. Dashiell v. Moody & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 843.

61. See 5 C. L. 1741.

62. Edelstein v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 338, 95 S. W. 1126.

63. See 5 C. L. 1742.

64. Necessary clothing. Feiner v. Boynton [N. J. Law] 62 A. 420. In the absence of evidence to show whether credit was given to the wife or husband, the presumption is that it was given the husband. Medical services. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 757.

What are necessaries: Set of "Stoddard's Lectures" held not necessaries for which, when purchased by wife, the husband would be liable by reason of the marital relation. Shuman v. Steinel [Wis.] 109 N. W. 74.

65. Feiner v. Boynton [N. J. Law] 62 A. 420.

66. Wife held not liable for clothing bought by her though she had previously given checks on a fund set apart for her by her husband. Feiner v. Boynton [N. J. Law] 62 A. 420. Married woman bought two-thirds of goods sued for and executed a joint and several note with her husband in payment of the same. Held her separate estate was properly charged, it appearing sufficiently that goods were used by herself and family and that she promised to pay. Hild v. Hellman [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 31, 90 S. W. 44.

67. Ball v. Lovett, 98 N. Y. S. 815.

68. Husband cannot be held for necessaries for the wife where they are living separate and apart by agreement. Civ. Code § 175. McKee v. Cunningham [Cal. App.] 84 P. 260.

69. Husband not liable for wife's clothing when parties had separated. Hass v. Brady, 49 Misc. 235, 96 N. Y. S. 449.

The presumption of the wife's agency to bind the husband also obtains when she is living apart from him as a result of his wrongful desertion, and he refuses to furnish her with adequate support.[71] But in an action to recover for necessaries under such circumstances, plaintiff must prove that the husband is the deserter.[72] A husband who has driven his wife from his home is liable for the cost of her support, regardless of the cause of his act,[73] and in an action against him for necessaries supplied to her, he cannot prove justification for his act to defeat the claim.[74] An offer of reconciliation by him is also immaterial, unless it is unconditional.[75] In an action under the California statute to recover the reasonable value of goods furnished the wife of one who has neglected to support her, it must appear both that the goods supplied were necessaries and that the husband has failed to provide adequate support.[76]

Since a married woman living with her husband, and not engaged in business, cannot contract a debt for board,[77] there can be no legal lien therefor upon her separate property,[78] though there might under certain circumstances be an equitable lien or charge enforceable in a court of equity.[79]

In Iowa family expenses are a charge upon the property of both husband and wife.[80] This statutory liability of the wife cannot be enlarged by any act of the husband nor should it be extended by judicial construction.[81] The wife's liability depends upon and follows the original debt for such expenses. A note given by the husband therefor is not conclusive on the wife as to the existence or the amount of such debt.[82] To constitute a family expense within the meaning of the statute the thing for which the expense was incurred must be used or kept for use in the family.[83] In Washington family expenses are chargeable on the property of both husband and wife or either of them, and in relation thereto they may be sued jointly or separately.[84] Hence, where the family status continues to exist up to the time of the husband's death,[85] the wife is chargeable with medical and hospital expenses incurred in his last illness.[86] Under the Colorado statute making family expenses chargeable on the property of both husband and wife, domestic servants are held to constitute a part of the family, and for supplies for their use both husband and wife are liable.[87] In an action against the husband and wife to recover

70. Hass v. Brady, 49 Misc. 235, 96 N. Y. S. 449.

71. Clothier v. Sigle [N. J. Law] 63 A. 865.

72. Finding that husband was deserter held warranted by evidence. Clothier v. Sigle [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 865.

73. Baker v. Oughton [Iowa] 106 N. W. 272.

74. Husband is liable for wife's support until such questions are litigated and settled by decree of divorce. Baker v. Oughton [Iowa] 106 N. W. 272.

75. Evidence of an offer to allow wife to return if she would agree to refrain from certain alleged misconduct held inadmissible. Baker v. Oughton [Iowa] 106 N. W. 272.

76. Complaint under Civ. Code § 174 insufficient because failing to allege that husband had failed to provide adequate support. Hoey v. Hechtman [Cal. App.] 83 P. 85.

77. Where husband and wife boarded together, husband alone was liable. Chickering-Chase Bros. Co. v. White, 127 Wis. 83, 106 N. W. 797.

78. No lien under inn-keepers lien law. Chickering-Chase Bros. Co. v. White, 127 Wis. 83, 106 N. W. 797.

79. Chickering-Chase Bros. Co. v. White, 127 Wis. 83, 106 N. W. 797.

80. Code § 3165. McCartney & Sons Co. v. Carter, 129 Iowa, 20, 105 N. W. 339.

81. McCartney & Sons Co. v. Carter, 129 Iowa, 20, 105 N. W. 339.

82. Where suit was on husband's note, wife should have been allowed to show state of account for family expenses. McCartney & Sons Co. v. Carter, 129 Iowa, 20, 105 N. W. 339.

83. Feed for horse used by husband in his business only is not a family expense and the wife's property is not liable therefor. Martin Bros. v. Vertres [Iowa] 106 N. W. 516.

84. Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4508. Russell v. Graumann, 40 Wash. 667, 82 P. 998.

85. Family status held to continue where husband was ill in a hospital in Washington and wife was in Pennsylvania, and she corresponded with him and assisted him, and after his death procured a decree awarding his estate to her. Russell v. Graumann, 40 Wash. 667, 82 P. 998.

86. These are "family expenses" within Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 4508. Russell v. Graumann, 40 Wash. 667, 82 P. 998.

for supplies furnished the family, the burden is on defendants to prove that the supplies were used in part outside the household.[88] In Missouri the husband is primarily liable for family expenses, including the hire of domestic servants, and the wife cannot be held in the absence of a special contract by her.[89] In Texas the tuition of a child in a commercial school has been held a necessary for which the mother could contract, the father being absent.[90] But it was held that the wife could not adopt a child during the husband's absence and contract for the business education of such adopted child so as to bind her.[91]

§ 6. Contract rights and liabilities of husband as to third persons.[92]—If a wife contracts on her own credit the mere promise of the husband to pay is a promise to answer for the debt of another, without consideration, and is unenforceable.[93] Such a contract could not be ratified by the husband so as to make him liable,[94] but if the wife assumes to act as the husband's agent, as by signing his name to a contract, he may be made liable by ratification.[95] A mortgage signed only by the husband is enforceable against him though it cannot bar the wife's inchoate right of dower.[96]

Agency of wife for husband.[97]—Whether the wife acted as the husband's agent in a given transaction is usually a question of fact.[98] If a husband absents himself from home, keeping his whereabouts unknown and leaving his property wholly under the care of his wife, she is his agent by implication of law to do those things which customarily are delegated to wives having charge of property.[99] Beyond that the wife cannot bind the husband as his general agent.[1] The authority of the wife as the agent of her husband by implication of law does not in any case extend to selling and conveying his real estate.[2] The rule that a husband ratifies acts of his wife while assuming to act as his agent when he does not, within a reasonable time, disavow them does not apply when the benefit therefrom comes to the wife.[3] In such case ratification by some affirmative act with knowledge of the facts recognizing the wife as having had authority to act is necessary to bind the husband.[4]

§ 7. Contract and property rights of wife as to third persons. A. Agency of husband for wife.[5]—Agency of the husband for the wife will not be presumed, but

87. Mills' Ann. St. Rev. Supp. § 3021a. Perkins v. Morgan [Colo.] 85 P. 640.

88. Where supplies were used by servants, burden was on defendants to prove that servants lived outside and were not a part of the household. Perkins v. Morgan [Colo.] 85 P. 640.

89. Wife not liable for hire of servant employed by husband and induced by him to remain over wife's protests. Woods v. Kauffman, 115 Mo. App. 398, 91 S. W. 399.

90. Wife's note for tuition for a year held valid where husband was absent on a long visit and wife was managing affairs, and it was expected that daughter would assist mother in business. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 2970. Haas v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 985, 94 S. W. 439. Where the note was given for a year's instruction in the future and the sum agreed to be paid was reasonable, and the commercial course was to fit a daughter to assist her mother in business, the contract was held reasonable and proper and enforceable within Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 2971. Id.

91. Haas v. American Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 985, 94 S. W. 439.

92. See 5 C. L. 1743.

93, 94. Shuman v. Steinel [Wis.] 109 N. W. 74.

95. Question whether wife assumed to act as agent in buying books should have been submitted to jury. Shuman v. Steinel [Wis.] 109 N. W. 74.

96. Lowe v. Walker [Ark.] 91 S. W. 22.

97. See 5 C. L. 1743.

98. Evidence held sufficient to show that wife had authority, as agent, to sign husband's name to contract for sale of realty. Whitworth v. Pool [Ky.] 96 S. W. 880.

99. Wife held to have authority to make proofs of loss where property of which she was in charge burned. Evans v. Crawford County Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 952.

1. Regardless of whether her acts be judicious or not from a business standpoint. Evans v. Crawford County Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 952. Fraud of the wife in making proofs of fire loss is not binding on the husband unless he ratifies her act. Id.

2, 3, 4. Evans v. Crawford County Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 952.

5. See 5 C. L. 1743. See special article Agency Implied from Relation, 3 C. L. 101.

must be proved.[6] The wife is bound by acts of the husband which she has authorized[7] or ratified.[8]

(§ 7) B. Contracts in general.[9]—In most states, at the present time, married women may own and control property[10] and engage in business[11] as though unmarried. Hence their contracts with reference to such separate property or business are valid and enforceable.[12] Under the present law in Pennsylvania her contract is binding, unless of the kinds or for such objects as she is disabled to make.[13]

6. Husband of woman capable of consenting has no legal authority to authorize performance of surgical operation on wife. Pratt v. Davis, 118 Ill. App. 161. In an action to restrain a husband and wife from breaking a contract not to engage in a certain business, the contract having been signed by the husband for himself and wife, the burden is on complainants to prove that the husband had authority or that the wife ratified his contract. Sanders v. Brown [Ala.] 39 So. 732. While it may be presumed that husband was agent of the wife as to certain property of which he took charge, it cannot be presumed that he was her agent in buying other property of like kind. Du Bose v. Gladden [S. C.] 55 S. E. 152. Not implied from the marital relation alone (Rheam v. Martin, 26 App. D. C. 181), nor from the fact alone that the contract made will benefit her (Id.).

7. In action against husband and wife to recover for materials for house, evidence held sufficient to take issue of wife's liability, through agency of husband, to jury. Heidritter v. Wolf, 97 N. Y. S. 27. Wife's jewelry had been pawned in husband's name, with her consent, and she authorized him to redeem it but did not give him money enough. He had authority to procure another to redeem it and to hold it as security for the necessary advancement. Lesser v. Steindler, 110 App. Div. 262, 97 N. Y. S. 255. Wife was owner of business about which work was done and materials furnished, and her husband was her managing agent. She was liable as undisclosed principal on promise of her husband to pay. Keller v. Haug, 96 N. Y. S. 1058. Where husband signs wife's name to a mortgage purporting to be executed by her, in her immediate presence and by her express request and direction, the effect of such signature is the same as if she had signed the mortgage herself. Hawes v. Glover [Ga.] 55 S. E. 62. Married woman sold certain realty and accepted purchase-money mortgage which contained a waiver of priority in favor of a mortgage executed the same day by the purchaser, under an agreement between her husband and the mortgagee in the other mortgage. Held she was bound by the waiver, her husband having authority to act for her. Thomas v. Equitable Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Pa.] 64 A. 531. Loan broker took and transferred notes and securities in his wife's name with her permission. She was therefore bound by his act in taking a nonnegotiable note in payment and in transferring the same. Barry v. Stover [S. D.] 107 N. W. 672. Where wife authorized husband to use certain proceeds of her lumber to buy merchandise, she could not thereafter recover a portion thereof. Alford Bros. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 778, 91 S. W. 636.

8. Husband of owner of land made agreement as to boundary with adjoining owner and wife lived on the land and claimed up to the line agreed upon. Held she thus ratified her husband's agreement and original authorization was immaterial. Matthews v. French, 194 Mo. 553, 92 S. W. 634.

9. See 5 C. L. 1744. Subscription by married woman for corporate stock, see Helliwell, Stock and Stockholders, § 68.

10. In Missouri a married woman can hold in her own right the possession of both real and personal property, and as to the latter she can act as a feme sole. Barnes v. Plessner [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 626.

11. In Indiana a married woman may become a partner of her husband. Construing Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6967, making a married woman liable for debts incurred in carrying on a separate business or as partner of another, etc. Anderson v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 811. In Michigan husband and wife cannot, by contract between themselves, become copartners so as to bind the wife for firm debts. Hackley Nat. Bank v. Jeannot [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 7, 106 N. W. 1121.

12. By Sess. Laws 1903, p. 345, a married woman has absolute control of her separate property and estate, and has the unqualified right to contract with reference to such property and may sell or dispose of the same without the consent or approval of her husband. Bank of Commerce v. Baldwin [Idaho] 85 P. 497. A married woman possessed of a separate estate or business, or who is rendering personal services to some person other than her husband, may make all contracts necessary or convenient for the management or enjoyment of the estate or carrying on of the business, or relating to her personal services, and such contracts will be enforceable at law. Merrell v. Purdy [Wis.] 109 N. W. 82. A contract by married women providing for the support and maintenance of their mother, thereby relieving them from liability under the statute for her support, operated to the benefit of their separate estates and was therefore binding upon them in law. Payne v. Payne [Wis.] 109 N. W. 105. In Alabama, capacity of a married woman to contract is the rule and incapacity the exception. She can make all contracts, agreements, and conveyances in regard to her separate estate "except as otherwise provided by law," and the only prohibition upon her is that she cannot "directly or indirectly become the surety for her husband." Code 1896, §§ 2526, 2529. Sample v. Guyer, 143 Ala. 613, 42 So. 106. In Indiana a married woman may contract as a feme sole, except as expressly forbidden by

Usually married women are not authorized to make contracts of suretyship.[14] Where such is the law, to hold them upon their contracts it must be made to appear that such contracts were in fact made by them[15] for their separate benefit,[16] but where a contract is made by a married woman on her own credit, it is binding upon her, regardless of her intention as to the use of the property thereby obtained,[17] and regardless of the actual use which she afterwards makes of it.[18] Under the present law in the District of Columbia a married woman's contract for other than necessaries is presumptively for her separate estate,[19] and the retention of the husband's common-law liability for necessaries does not exclude her liability for such as she buys by her separate contract.[20] Liability to pay for property which has passed into her separate estate cannot be avoided in equity without return of property or proceeds thereof.[21] A married woman living in community with her husband may be held liable on contracts made by her, which inure to her separate benefit, when to hold otherwise would enable her to perpetrate a fraud.[22] In some states one seeking to hold a married woman upon a contract must show affirmatively that the contract is one which she is empowered by statute to make.[23] In Kansas it is held that coverture affords no ground for declaring invalid a married woman's contract, even though she possesses no separate estate or separate trade or business.[24] In Kentucky an assignment by a married woman, in which her husband joins, of her interest in a life insurance policy as beneficiary, to one having an insurable interest in the life of the insured, is valid.[25]

A general statute imposing an individual liability upon shareholders of corporastatute. She cannot become a surety and her right to convey and mortgage her real estate is restricted. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 6960, 6961, 6962, 6963. Anderson v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 811.

13. Purchase of land on her own credit held binding though she then had no separate estate. Act June 3, 1887 (P. L. 352). Crosby v. Waters, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 559.

14. See post, § 7 C.

15. Though contract was signed with husband's name, evidence was competent to show that it was the wife's contract, and if she signed his name she would be liable, if it was in fact her contract. Wuertz v. Braun, 99 N. Y. S. 340. In action for work done on a house owned by the wife, evidence held to show contract was with wife; hence action could not be successfully maintained against husband. McClelland v. Lynch, 98 N. Y. S. 640.

16. Where a married woman joins her husband in a note, she cannot be held thereon in an action at law unless the note was necessary or convenient to the use and enjoyment of her separate property, or in carrying on her separate business, or in the performance of personal services for another than her husband. Bailey v. Fink [Wis.] 109 N. W. 86. Mere intention to charge her separate estate, or the existence of equitable grounds for charging it, is insufficient in law, though it may be good in equity. Id. Wife not liable in action at law on note in which she joined husband for sole purpose of releasing chattel mortgage on his property. Id.

17. A married woman, whether possessed of a separate estate or not, may purchase property, real or personal, and give her obligation for the purchase price, which obligation will bind her at law as if she were a feme sole, provided the title to the property purchased passes to her, and this she may do regardless of the purpose to which she intends to devote such property. Merrell v. Purdy [Wis.] 109 N. W. 82.

18. If a married woman purchases personal property on her own credit, she binds herself personally to pay for it, though the goods may be delivered at the matrimonial residence. Under Gen. St. 1860, c. 108, §§ 1, 3. Caldwell v. Blanchard, 191 Mass. 489, 77 N. E. 1036. To render a married woman liable for money borrowed by her it is only necessary that it should pass to her as her own property. It is immaterial whether she actually uses it for her own benefit or not. It becomes her separate property and she may do what she likes with it and still remain liable for it. Arnold v. McBride [Ark.] 93 S. W. 989.

19. 31 Stat. at L. 1374, c. 854. Dobbins v. Thomas, 26 App. D. C. 157.

20. 31 Stat. at L. 1377, c. 854. Dobbins v. Thomas, 26 App. D. C. 157.

21. Crosby v. Waters, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 559.

22. Ackerman v. Larner, 116 La. 101, 40 So. 581.

23. As in Kentucky, in 1891, that it was for necessaries. Gilbert v. Brown [Ky.] 97 S. W. 40. A married woman's note being void as for a purpose not authorized by law, a renewal note given after she became discovert is also void. Id.

24. Note held enforceable against married woman who had no separate estate or business. Harrington v. Lowe [Kan.] 84 P. 570.

25. Such assignment was valid even before, the married woman's act of 1894. Doty v. Dickey [Ky.] 96 S. W. 544.

tions includes married women in the absence of an express exemption by reason of coverture.[26]

The liability of married women for necessaries and family expenses has already been discussed.[27]

(§ 7) C. Contracts of suretyship.[28]—In many jurisdictions married women cannot make binding contracts of suretyship[29] or bind themselves to pay their husband's debts.[30] Where this is the law a joint obligation of the husband and wife is enforceable against the wife only to the extent that she was benefited.[31] The wife's disability to bind herself for the payment of her husband's debts may be urged even after judgment,[32] but her claim must be timely urged and must be supported by sufficient proof.[33] She cannot assert her disability to the prejudice of innocent third persons.[34] Where a note and mortgage are signed by both husband and wife, the burden is upon the wife to show that she signed only as surety.[35] If she makes

26. Dickinson v. Traphagan [Ala.] 41 So. 272. Where married woman owned stock in corporation as her separate property and was president of the corporation, she was freed from the disabilities of coverture in regard thereto and was personally liable for debts of the corporation, having failed to file the annual statement required by Kirby's Dig. §§ 848, 859. Arkansas Stables v. Samstag [Ark.] 94 S. W. 699.

27. See supra, § 5.

28. See 5 C. L. 1745.

29. Gen. St. p. 2017, § 5. People's Nat. Bank v. Schepflin [N. J. Law] 62 A. 333. Note given by wife for accommodation of husband, she receiving no benefit therefrom and exercising no control over the proceeds held unenforceable against her, regardless of the form of the transaction by which the money was turned over to the husband by the bank. Id. Such note being unenforceable under Gen. St. p. 2017, § 5, is not made enforceable by Neg. Inst. Law (P. L. 1902, p. 583) providing that every negotiable instrument is deemed prima facie to have been given for a valuable consideration, etc. Id. Married woman cannot become a surety. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6963. Anderson v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App] 76 N. E. 811. In Alabama a married woman cannot directly or indirectly become the surety for her husband. Code 1896, §§ 2526, 2529. Sample v. Guyer, 143 Ala. 613, 42 So. 106. A married woman cannot bind herself personally for the payment of a debt that was not contracted for her own use, or for the use or benefit of her separate estate, or in connection with the control and management thereof, or in carrying on or conducting business therewith. Sess. Laws 1903, p. 345, gives full contractual rights only with respect to her own property or business. She cannot bind herself on a debt of her husband. Bank of Commerce v. Baldwin [Idaho] 85 P. 497.

30. Where husband applied for loan to pay taxes and grocers' bills, and there was no evidence as to the amount of either, and the check was made out to the husband, the note given therefor was for a debt of the husband though signed by the wife. Gilbert v. Brown [Ky.] 97 S. W. 40. Married woman was sued with her husband on a joint and several promissory note, and wife answered that she was an accommodation signer only and that note was without consideration as to her, being for a preexisting debt of her husband. Held answer stated a good defense as against demurrer. Hover v. Magley, 48 Misc. 430, 96 N. Y. S. 925.

31. Where wife joined husband in note and gave a mortgage of her own property as security, the note and mortgage could be enforced against her property only to the extent that she was benefited by the loan. Equitable Trust Co. v. Torphy [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 639. Wife procured conveyance of husband's lands to herself and gave note and mortgage, signed by herself and husband, for money borrowed to pay off incumbrances on the land. Held the transaction was for her benefit, since she took title; hence she was liable on the note. Scott v. Collier [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 666, afd. [Ind.] 78 N. E. 184.

32. Beasley v. Jenkins, 117 La. 577, 42 So. 145.

33. Wife urged disability in original suit but failed to prove the debt was her husband's and that she was surety. Held she was entitled to no relief by way of enjoining execution where she showed no further proof of her claim. Beasley v. Jenkins, 117 La. 577, 42 So. 145.

34. While the wife cannot be held as surety for the payment of her husband's debts, if she does not avail herself of the protection afforded and chooses to dispose of her property in his interest she cannot have the sale or other disposition made annulled to the prejudice of persons who have without notice dealt with the husband on the faith of recorded deeds. Clark v. Whitaker [La.] 41 So. 580. Wife sold home which belonged to her, to her son, taking a note and vendor's lien in part payment. The note was negotiated by the husband and came into the possession of bona fide holders. Held the note and securities could not be annulled to the prejudice of such third persons. Id. Married woman indorsed in blank, in New Jersey (where married women cannot become accommodation indorsers), her husband's promissory note without indicating that the indorsement was made in New Jersey. The note was discounted in New York, in good faith, without notice. Held indorser was estopped to deny that her contract of indorsement was a New York contract. Chemical Nat. Bank v. Kellogg, 183 N. Y. 92, 75 N. E. 1103.

35. Evidence held to show that loan was a mortgage reciting an indebtedness of her own the presumption is that it speaks the truth.[36] It has been held that a married woman's note, given by her as surety for her husband's debt, though invalid, is sufficient as a moral consideration to support a renewal note given by her after her husband's death.[37]

The wife may, however, in some jurisdictions pledge or mortgage her own property for a debt of her husband.[38] While in Alabama a married woman cannot directly or indirectly become a surety for her husband,[39] she has the right to convey her property in absolute payment of her husband's debts, or on the consideration of the transfer to her of the obligation of her husband, and she can mortgage her property for these considerations.[40] In Georgia a married woman cannot bind her separate property by a contract of suretyship, nor by an assumption of her husband's debts, nor can she sell her property to pay his debts;[41] but the mere fact that she intends to use the proceeds of a loan to pay an indebtedness of her husband, and that this fact is known to the lender, does not invalidate her contract, if the party to be paid is not the creditor of the husband and he is not a party to a scheme between the husband and wife whereby the husband's debts are to be paid by the wife.[42] In Massachusetts, where a married woman becomes a surety for her husband, executing a note with him and giving a mortgage of her real estate as security, her estate is entitled to exoneration out of the estate of the deceased husband.[43]

(§ 7) D. Conveyances, mortgages, contracts to convey, powers.[44]—Married women may convey or mortgage their separate property, statutory requirements regarding the instrument of conveyance being duly complied with.[45] In some states the wife may convey alone;[46] in others joinder of the husband is essential,[47] unless procured by husband as agent for wife and that wife signed instruments as a principal. Gibson v. Wallace [Ala.] 41 So. 960.

36. Where woman gave mortgage and had husband's note transferred to her, she became the principal debtor, not a surety. Sample v. Guyer, 143 Ala. 613, 42 So. 106.

37. Immaterial that note was antedated prior to husband's death, there being no fraud. Rathfon v. Locher [Pa.] 64 A. 790.

38. In Pennsylvania a wife has power to mortgage her separate estate to secure her husband's debt. This power is not taken away by the act of June 8, 1893 (P. L. 344). Righter v. Livingston, 214 Pa. 28, 63 A. 195. A married woman may by proper instrument charge her separate property for any obligation, even for her husband's debt, but this charge is only enforceable in equity. Merrell v. Purdy [Wis.] 109 N. W. 82. In Michigan a married woman may pledge her separate property to secure a debt of her husband's. Hackley Nat. Bank v. Jeannot [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 7, 106 N. W. 1121. Hence, when a married woman has engaged in business as her husband's partner and has joined him in a chattel mortgage to secure a firm debt, she binds her separate property, even though she cannot, by direct contract with her husband, become his partner. Id.

39, 40. Sample v. Guyer, 143 Ala. 613, 42 So. 106.

41. Rood v. Wright, 124 Ga. 849, 53 S. E. 390.

42. Answer held not to state a defense to an action on notes given by a married woman, the proceeds of which were used to pay his debts. Rood v. Wright, 124 Ga. 849, 53 S. E. 390.

43. Browne v. Bixby, 190 Mass. 69, 76 N. E. 454.

44. See 5 C. L. 1746. Power of married women to convey, see Tiffany, Real Prop. 1144.

45. A deed properly acknowledged by a married woman in which her husband joins passes title to the property, and, like any other instrument, its execution may be proved in any mode known to the common law. Lamberida v. Barnum [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 434, 90 S. W. 698. A mortgage by a married woman of her separate statutory property to secure a loan for the benefit of a business carried on by her, in which her husband joins and wherein he covenants to pay the loan, is valid (Mercantile Exch. Bank v. Taylor [Fla.] 41 So. 22) when it appears to have been made in good faith for a valuable consideration, and not for the purpose of hindering, delaying, or defrauding other creditors (Id.). Mortgage on $18,000 worth of property to secure debt of $4,400, giving mortgagee right to take immediate possession and sell, held valid. Id.

46. In Nebraska, where a married woman owns real estate in her own right, except when such real estate is a homestead, she may convey good title thereto without joining her husband in the conveyance. Jordan v. Jackson [Neb.] 106 N. W. 999.

47. A married woman cannot mortgage her separate estate except by an instrument the wife has been permanently abandoned by him.[48] A married woman may accept, hold, and execute a trust relating to real estate and has power, in the execution of the trust, to convey the real estate without the concurrence of her husband or his joinder in the conveyance,[49] and this rule extends to trusts in which the husband of the trustee is the beneficiary and to conveyances made in its execution directly to him.[50] All transactions in which the joinder or assent of the wife is obtained in or to any disposition of the homestead will be closely scrutinized by the courts,[51] but this doctrine will not be carried to the extent of relieving her from the consequences of her own acts which she clearly understands or should have understood.[52] The statutes of Nebraska only authorize a married woman to contract with reference to and upon the faith and credit of her separate property.[53] In that state a married woman cannot bind her after-acquired property by covenants in a joint mortgage made by herself and her husband upon property in which she had only a life estate.[54] Such mortgage binds her separate property only to the extent of such life estate.[55] Her covenants do not, therefore, estop her from claiming an interest in the property covered by the mortgage, lawfully acquired by her after the date of the mortgage freed from its lien.[56] In Pennsylvania a wife who joins her husband in a warranty deed for the purpose of releasing her dower is bound by the covenants in the deed.[57] It is held in Kentucky that a married woman is not liable upon a covenant of warranty in a deed signed by her even in conveying her own estate.[58] In Texas a married woman can make a verbal partition of her real estate; hence her deed may be effective for that purpose though not acknowledged.[59] In North Carolina a married woman may make contracts affecting her separate property only with the written consent of her husband.[60] A contract for the improvement of her separate real estate, consented to by her husband, she being privately examined apart from him, is valid[61] and forms the basis for an enforceable mechanic's lien on the property.[62]

(§ 7) E. Rights of creditors. Of wife.[63]—The contract of a married woman can only be enforced against the separate estate which she possesses at the time of the contract.[64] For labor and materials furnished for improvements on a married woman's separate property with her knowledge or consent,[65] or under contract with in which the husband joins. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 6962. Starkey v. Starkey [Ind.] 76 N. E. 876.

48. In North Carolina a deed by a married woman after she has been permanently abandoned by her husband is valid. Pardon v. Paschall [N. C.] 55 S. E. 365. Under Revisal 1905, § 2117, making women who have been abandoned free traders as to their right to contract concerning their separate estate. Id.

49. Insurance Co. v. Waller [Tenn.] 95 S. W. 811.

50. Code 1858, § 2076, requiring joinder of husband, does not apply. Insurance Co. v. Waller [Tenn.] 95 S. W. 811.

51. Bastin v. Schafer, 15 Okl. 607, 85 P. 349.

52. Bastin v. Schafer, 15 Okl. 607, 85 P. 349. A mortgage given by both husband and wife to secure a note upon sufficient consideration running to the husband alone is valid against the wife without any consideration moving to her separately. Id.

53. Statutes and decisions of Nebraska reviewed. Burns v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 140 F. 273.

54. Burns v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 140 F. 273.

55. Since it was not made in relation to or upon the faith of her separate property, except such life estate. Burns v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 140 F. 273.

56. Burns v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 140 F. 273.

57. She cannot acquire title in proceedings under mortgage which existed at the date of the deed and set it up against the grantee of the deed. George v. Brandon, 214 Pa. 623, 64 A. 371.

58. Bell v. Bair, 28 Ky. L. R. 614, 89 S. W. 732.

59. Cowan v. Brett [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 776, 97 S. W. 330.

60. Code § 1826. Ball v. Paquin, 140 N. C. 83, 52 S. E. 410.

61, 62. Ball v. Paquin, 140 N. C. 83, 52 S. E. 410.

63. See 5 C. L. 1747.

64. Parratt v. Hartsuff [Neb.] 106 N. W. 966.

65. Where a married woman has knowledge of improvements being made upon her house under contract with her husband, those furnishing labor and materials have a valid mechanic's lien upon her house and lot. McGeever v. Harris [Ala.] 41 So. 930. House and premises owned by married wo-her husband as her authorized agent,[66] a valid mechanic's lien may be acquired. The estate of a married woman who dies leaving separate property is primarily liable for her funeral expenses.[67] The contract of the husband to pay the wife an annuity secured by deed of trust makes the wife a creditor of the husband on the same footing as other creditors.[68] The plea of coverture is a personal privilege available only to the feme covert or her privies in blood or estate;[69] hence a mere creditor of a married woman, even in case of her insolvency, cannot attack a mortgage executed by her upon the ground that it was given to secure the debt of her husband and son.[70] It is usually desirable in making sale of a bankrupt's real estate, if the wife will consent, to sell free from her inchoate right of dower and to compensate her by a fair allowance out of the proceeds for her release of that right.[71]

Of husband.[72]—Separate property of the wife is not liable for debts of the husband.[73] The husband may render services in the management of his wife's property without rendering such property subject to the claims of his creditors.[74] Property sold by the husband to the wife is not liable for his debts, in Texas, if there is a delivery and change of possession.[75] The Massachusetts statute making man held liable to mechanic's lien for furnace put in with her knowledge and necessary to the premises though charged to the husband. Work and materials were furnished with her consent as owner, within Lien Law § 3. Schummer v. Clark, 107 App. Div. 207, 95 N. Y. S. 836.

66. Property of married woman is subject to mechanic's lien if work and materials were furnished under contract with her husband acting as her authorized agent, whether or not she consented to repairs which were made. Saunders v. Tuscumbia Roofing & Plumbing Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 982.

67. Rev. St. 1898, § 3852, applies to estates of married women. Schneider v. Breier's Estate [Wis.] 109 N. W. 99. Where undertaker furnished labor and materials solely on the credit of the separate property of the deceased wife, her estate was primarily liable though the husband ordered the labor and materials to be furnished. Id.

68. Savage v. Savage [C. C. A.] 141 F. 346.

69, 70. Hawes v. Glover [Ga.] 55 S. E. 62.

71. Savage v. Savage [C. C. A.] 141 F. 346.

72. See 5 C. L. 1747.

73. Notes by husband for oil stock, not being for necessaries, held unenforceable against wife's property under statutes of Montana. Mantle v. Dabney [Wash.] 87 P. 122. Though the ordinary services of a wife with respect to the family household inure to the benefit of the husband, she may enter into an arrangement with her husband to perform other duties in connection therewith for compensation. Bodkin v. Kerr [Minn.] 107 N. W. 137. Money so acquired becomes her separate property and is not subject to her husband's debts. It is not impressed with a trust in favor of her husband's creditors. Id. Where husband was sheriff and he arranged with his wife to board prisoners and others, and the money paid by the county for such purpose was turned over to her, it was not held by her in trust for her husband's creditors, and property bought by the fund so accumulated was not subject to his debts. Id. Evidence held sufficient to sustain finding that wife acquired title to land in good faith for a valuable consideration, paid out of her own funds, from third persons who acquired it through foreclosure, and there was no fraud on husband's creditors. Id. It is error to enter judgment against husband and wife on a note signed only by the husband. Kossuth County State Bank v. Richardson [Iowa] 106 N. W. 923. Where a husband turns over to his wife his exempt wages to pay family expenses and she accumulates therefrom a fund which she invests in land in her own name, such fund is not subject to the husband's debts (Ehlers v. Blumer 129 Iowa, 168, 105 N. W. 406), and a fund acquired by the wife by keeping boarders on her own account and with her husband's consent and similarly invested, is also exempt as to his debts (Id.).

74. Foreman v. Citizens' State Bank, 128 Iowa, 661, 105 N. W. 163. Where land was set aside as the wife's homestead and the husband worked that and other land and stored all the crops so raised on the wife's homestead, where she lived, the burden was on the creditors of the husband to prove that such crops belonged to the husband. Id. The mere fact that the husband acts as the wife's agent in managing land purchased by her is not conclusive evidence of fraud but is entirely consistent with her ownership and possession. Bodkin v. Kerr [Minn.] 107 N. W. 137. Cotton raised on land owned by wife, mostly through her efforts and those of her children, held not liable for debts of husband though he also gave his labor and assisted in raising the cotton. Dollar v. Busha, 124 Ga. 521, 52 S. E. 615. Hay grown on wife's land belongs prima facie to the wife though seeded and harvested by her husband. Webster v. Sherman [Mont.] 84 P. 878.

75. Husband sold cattle to his wife together with the brand used by him, causing the transfer of the brand to appear of record. Held there was a sufficient delivery and change of possession so that sale was not void as to creditors, under Civ. Code § 4491, and property was not liable for huspersonal property of the wife employed by her in business liable to attachment as property of the husband, unless a certain certificate is filed by the wife or husband, makes the wife's property liable for the husband's debts, no certificate being filed, only while such property is employed in business.[76]

Fraudulent conveyances.[77]—Whether a transfer from one spouse to another shall be deemed a fraud upon creditors depends upon the facts of the particular case.[78] Marriage is a sufficient consideration to support a conveyance from husband to wife,[79] and such a conveyance made pursuant to an oral promise made before the marriage will not be set aside at the suit of one who became a creditor of the husband after the conveyance.[80] A payment by a husband for his wife, at a time when he was indebted to her but had no other creditors, is not fraudulent as to one who became a creditor of the husband after such transaction.[81] Where the husband pays for land conveyed to the wife at a time when he is free from debt, the transaction is presumptively a voluntary settlement upon the wife, and one who asserts a resulting trust has the burden of proving the assertion.[82] As against the husband's creditors a post-nuptial settlement in consideration of the relinquishment of dower is good only to the extent of the dower relinquished.[83] While a wife who collected moneys on a contract assigned to her by an invalid post-nuptial settlement must answer to creditors for such moneys,[84] she will not be charged interest until demand where she acted in good faith.[85] At common law as well as under the Virginia practice, in equity, an answer alone will not suffice to prove that a post-nuptial settlement by an insolvent was on valuable consideration.[86]

(§ 7) F. Estoppel.[87]—A married woman is bound by an estoppel in pais the same as any other person.[88] To create an estoppel by deed against a married woman and those claiming under her, it is essential that she should be guilty of some positive act of fraud, or an act of concealment or suppression equivalent thereto.[89]

§ 8. Torts by husband or wife or both.[90]—At common law a tort committed by the wife in the presence of her husband is presumed to be the result of coercion on his part and his coercion excuses her from liability; and this rule still prevails band's debts. Webster v. Sherman [Mont.] 84 P. 878. Held also that his creditors did not deal with him on the credit of such property of the wife. Id.

76. Under Rev. Laws c. 153, § 10, where a business of the wife was not continued after her death, her property was not liable to attachment for a debt of her husband in an action brought after her death. Allen v. Clark, 190 Mass. 556, 77 N. E. 691.

77. See 5 C. L. 1749.

78. Wife collected proceeds of tontine policy on life of husband and afterwards invested the same, with an additional sum, in improvements of homestead. She also advanced $2,000 to a company in which he was interested and which he guaranteed. Held a conveyance of his real estate to her before maturity of complainant's claim against husband was not fraudulent as to his creditors. Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Carhart [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 756. Wife borrowed money from husband to carry on her business, agreeing to build a house, out of proceeds, and convey to him. Some years later she carried out her agreement. Held the transaction was not fraudulent as to her creditors, though both knew of claims of creditors at the time of the conveyance by the wife. Clarke v. Black, 78 Conn. 467, 62 A. 757.

79. Welch v. Mann, 193 Mo. 304, 92 S. W. 98.

80. Transfer held not fraudulent as to creditors. Welch v. Mann, 193 Mo. 304, 92 S. W. 98.

81. Boldrick v. Mills [Ky.] 96 S. W. 524.

82. In re Foss, 147 F. 790.

83. Moore v. Green [C. C. A.] 145 F. 472.

84, 85, 86. Vashon v. Barrett [Va.] 54 S. E. 705.

87. See 5 C. L. 1750.

88. Representations of married woman that she was her husband's partner and that she was borrowing money with him to carry on their business held binding on her. Anderson v. Citizens' Nat. Bank [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 811. One who rendered services without objection, knowing no pay except support was expected to be given could not recover therefor. Smith v. Sisters of Good Shepherd [Ky.] 96 S. W. 549. A married woman possessing separate property may bind herself at law by estoppel. But it was held that wife was not estopped in this case to deny liability on note. Merrell v. Purdy [Wis.] 109 N. W. 82.

89. Since all who deal with married woman are chargeable with knowledge of disabilities and that she can convey only in the statutory manner. Kopke v. Votaw in some states.[91] Usually the husband is not liable for torts committed by the wife in which he did not participate;[92] but in some jurisdictions he is liable for torts of the wife to the same extent as she is.[93] She is jointly liable for a wrongful discharge of surface water from her land due to her husband's act which she fails to rectify.[94]

§ 9. Torts against husband or wife or both. A. Wrongs to the person.[95]—For injuries to a married woman, she or her husband, or both, may sue.[96] In an action by the husband, he may recover for loss of the society of his wife[97] and for loss of her services, not only in the household[98] but also as his business assistant, when such assistance was being rendered at the time of her injury without any agreement for, or expectation of, compensation.[99] He may recover for loss of her services without showing that he employed another to take her place.[1] He is also entitled to recover his expenditures for medical care and attention.[2] The wife may also maintain an action for her injuries,[3] and the damages recovered by her are her separate property.[4] A recovery by the wife for personal injuries does not bar an action by the husband against the same defendant for expenses to which he has been put and for his loss of consortium.[5] Each spouse has a separate and distinct cause of action.[6] The wife may recover for medical expenses incurred by her upon [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 316, 95 S. W. 15.

90. See 5 C. L. 1750.

91. Emmons v. Stevane [N. J. Law] 64 A. 1014.

92. Where evidence did not show that husband aided wife in blocking a road or encouraged her he was not liable merely by reason of the marital relation or because he did not by force restrain her. Sweezy v. Fisher [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 713, 105 N. W. 749.

93. Husband liable in exemplary damages for slanderous words of wife. Patterson v. Frazer [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 78, 93 S. W. 146.

94. He made ditch on land whereof she later acquired title. Miller v. McGowan, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 71.

95. See 5 C. L. 1750.

96. See 5 C. L. 1750, notes 62, 63, 64.

97. Loss of society of wife is a proper element of damages in an action by husband for injuries caused by a third person's negligence. Lyons v. New York City R. Co., 97 N. Y. S. 1033. Municipal court of New York has jurisdiction to award such damages. Construing Laws 1902, p. 1489, c. 580, § 1, subd. 14. Id.

98. Statutes enlarging the rights and privileges of married women do not affect the right of the husband to maintain an action for loss of her society and services as wife, as an action for injuries to her resulting in such loss to him. Construing Pub. St. 1901, c. 176, § 2. Booth v. Manchester St. R. Co., 73 N. H. 529, 63 A. 578.

Statutory exception: In an action by a married woman against a city for personal injuries, it is error to instruct that only her husband could recover for her services and medical expenses, since under the statute in an action of this kind, there can be a recovery only for bodily injuries. Lorf v. Detroit [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 502, 108 N. W. 661. See, also, Roberts v. Detroit, 102 Mich. 64, 60 N. W. 450, 27 L. R. A. 572.

99. In a joint action by the husband and wife to recover damages for injuries suffered by the wife, the husband may recover for loss of the services of the wife in his business. Her earnings as his assistant in his business belong to him. Standen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 214 Pa. 189, 63 A. 467. In action by husband for injuries to wife, he may recover not only for loss of services in the household but also for the value of her services rendered in his business, when she was rendering such services at the time of her injury without any contract or expectation of being paid therefor. Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Tice, 124 Ga. 459, 52 S. E. 916.

1. If he paid another he could recover his expenditure as an item of his damage, but not as the measure. Garside v. New York Transp. Co., 146 F. 588.

2. Husband may recover for expenditures made in the effort to cure his wife of sickness and injuries caused by third person. Booth v. Manchester St. R. Co., 73 N. H. 529, 63 A. 578. Since the husband is liable for medical expenses incurred in treating wife's injuries, he may recover damages therefor from the person liable, and any sum paid in settlement of the claim of the wife and husband on account of such expense is the property of the husband. Indiana Union Traction Co. v. McKinney [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 203.

3. Engle v. Simmons [Ala.] 41 So. 1023; Duffee v. Boston El. R. Co., 191 Mass. 563, 77 N. E. 1036. Woman may sue though person causing her injuries was trespassing in the home which was the husband's property. Engle v. Simmons [Ala.] 41 So. 1023.

4. Under Code 1896, § 2523, damages recoverable are her separate property. Engle v. Simmons [Ala.] 41 So. 1023. Under the present law of Louisiana, damages resulting from personal injuries to the wife inure to her separate benefit. Act No. 68, p. 95, of 1902. Martin v. Derenbecker, 116 La. 495, 40 So. 849.

5, 6. Duffee v. Boston El. R. Co., 191 Mass. 563, 77 N. E. 1036.

her individual contract.[7] Since services of the wife belong to the husband, she cannot recover for any diminution in her ability to perform them in an action by her.[8] In Alabama the action for the recovery of damages to the wife should be brought by the wife with the usual authorization by the husband or the court,[9] but where the action is brought by the husband and wife jointly, and the wife's testimony is excluded on the theory that the action should have been brought by the husband alone, and judgment is rendered for him, such judgment may be affirmed, with the reservation that the proceeds are to be collected by, and are to inure to the separate benefit of, the wife.[10] "Personal injuries," within the meaning of the statute, includes injuries to the feelings resulting from abuse, slander, or libel.[11]

(§ 9) B. Criminal conversation and alienation of affections.[12]—By weight of modern authority a married woman may maintain in her own name an action for damages for the alienation of her husband's affections.[13]

Defenses.—The motive moving a parent to interfere with the marital relations of a child is always of the essence of an action against the parent for inducing a separation between the child and his or her spouse, since the law recognizes the parental right to advise a child.[14] Where a parent and another are sued jointly, a conspiracy being charged, intention and co-operation in causing the separation must be made to appear.[15] In such case, if the conduct of the parent is justifiable, the law will also excuse the codefendant.[16]

Connivance on the part of the husband, when properly established, bars an action for criminal conversation.[17] The conduct of the husband must be such, when subjected to the test of reasonable human transactions, as to show an intention to connive.[18] Passive as well as active connivance constitutes a bar, provided the intention to connive be found.[19] Connivance is not proven as an independent fact but is usually established as a conclusion from the line of conduct pursued by the husband.[20] The question is usually one of fact for the jury,[21] but if but one reasonable conclusion can be drawn from the facts, the question becomes one of law for the court.[22]

Pleading and proof; admissibility of evidence.[23]—Evidence tending to show defendant's wrongful conduct or interference,[24] the motive therefor,[25] the effect of

7. Though the husband is ordinarily chargeable with medical bills of the wife, she may contract for such services and bind herself therefor, and may therefore recover the same of defendant. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347.

8. Instruction that she could recover for diminution in ability to perform "ordinary duties" held too broad. Norfolk R. & Light Co. v. Williar, 104 Va. 679, 52 S. E. 380.

9. Martin v. Derenbecker, 116 La. 495, 40 So. 849.

10. Result would have been the same if case had been tried on the proper theory, and the testimony of both spouses admitted. Martin v. Derenbecker, 116 La. 495, 40 So. 849.

11. Action for slander, damages inure to wife's benefit. Martin v. Derenbecker, 116 La. 495, 40 So. 849.

12. See 5 C. L. 1751.

13. Nolin v. Pearson, 191 Mass. 283, 77 N. E. 890. Evidence sufficient to sustain verdict for plaintiff in action against father-in-law for alienating her husband's affections. King v. King, 122 Ill. App. 284.

Note: In Nolin v. Pearson, 191 Mass. 283, 77 N. E. 890, the common-law status of the wife and the changes wrought by modern statutes are discussed, and the authorities cited and reviewed, especially as relating to the rights of each spouse to the conjugal society of the other. See authorities cited, pro and con, on proposition stated in the text, also 5 C. L. 1751, n. 75.

14. Barton v. Barton [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 574.

15. Barton v. Barton [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 574. In action against mother and sister of plaintiff's husband for inducing husband to separate from plaintiff, held there was evidence to support a verdict and judgment for plaintiff. Id.

16. Barton v. Barton [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 574.

17, 18, 19, 20, 21. Kohlhoss v. Mobley, 102 Md. 199, 62 A. 236.

22. Conduct of husband who knew of wife's wrongful conduct held, as matter of law, to amount to an implied consent or connivance so as to bar his action. Kohlhoss v. Mobley, 102 Md. 199, 62 A. 236.

23. See 5 C. L. 1752.

24. Certain evidence tending to show im-such conduct in inducing separation,[26] and lack of justification[27] is admissible in an action for alienation of affections. In an action for criminal conversation, an alleged confession by the wife, who is not a party, not made in the presence of the husband or defendant, and relating to past events, is inadmissible.[28] In an action by a husband for damages for criminal conversation with an alienation of his wife's affections, positive proof of a legal marriage is required.[29] It must be proof of identity of person and not of name merely,[30] and plaintiff must establish the identity though not requested by the defendant to do so.[31]

Damages.[32]—Evidence to show that no affection existed between the husband and wife prior to the alleged wrongful act of defendant is admissible in mitigation of damages in an action for alienation of affections,[33] but not as a bar to the action.[34] The bad character of the plaintiff may also be shown in mitigation, when pleaded, in an action by the wife.[35] Evidence of the earning capacity and financial condition of the husband is admissible as affecting the quantum of damages recoverable for loss of support.[36] Proof that the wife had assisted in supporting the family is admissible on the issue of loss of support.[37] The wife's physical and financial condition after her husband's separation from her may be shown.[38] In an action for criminal conversation it may be shown in mitigation of damages that the plaintiff cohabited with his wife after her alleged misconduct.[39] Evidence of the previous unchastity and bad character of the wife is admissible on the same issue.[40] proper visits by defendant to plaintiff's wife held admissible in action for alienation of affections. Dow v. Bulfinch [Mass.] 78 N. E. 416. Evidence that a suit for divorce had been commenced and dismissed by plaintiff's husband admissible, the inference being that defendant had instigated and participated in such suit. Hardwick v. Hardwick [Iowa] 106 N. W. 639.

§ 10. Remedies and procedure generally as affected by coverture.[41]—The ef-

25. To show a motive for defendant's interference between plaintiff and her husband, evidence that defendant served a notice to quit on plaintiff and her husband, who were living at defendant's home, was admissible. Hardwick v. Hardwick [Iowa] 106 N. W. 639. But instructions on this evidence should make it material only in case the notice was served with the desire to cause a separation. Id.

26. Acts and declarations of husband admissible in action by wife for alienating his affections to show effect on husband of defendant's alleged efforts to bring about a separation, but such evidence should be limited in its effect to such issue. Hardwick v. Hardwick [Iowa] 106 N. W. 639.

27. Evidence that wife's health had been impaired after going to live with her husband's father admissible to show that the father's, defendant's, interference between plaintiff and her husband was without cause or justification. Hardwick v. Hardwick [Iowa] 106 N. W. 639.

28. Kohlhoss v. Mobley, 102 Md. 199, 62 A. 236.

29. Snowman v. Mason, 99 Me. 490, 59 A. 1019.

30. A marriage certificate containing the names of the parties is insufficient without proof aliunde of identity. Snowman v. Mason, 99 Me. 490, 59 A. 1019.

31. It is one of the elements of proof in this class of cases. Snowman v. Mason, 99 Me. 490, 59 A. 1019.

32. See 5 C. L. 1752. Verdict for $1,500 in action for alienation of wife's affections held not excessive and supported by evidence. Korby v. Chesser [Minn.] 108 N. W. 520.

33, 34. Morris v. Warwick, 42 Wash. 480, 85 P. 42.

35. In an action by a wife for alienating her husband's affections and causing a separation, the bad character of the plaintiff was pleaded in mitigation of damages. Proof of the allegation was competent under Code § 3593, and the evidence should not be limited in its effect to the credibility of plaintiff as a witness. Hardwick v. Hardwick [Iowa] 106 N. W. 639.

36. Harvey v. Harvey [Neb.] 106 N. W. 660.

37. In action for alienation of husband's affections, wife having shown amount required to support her family in the style to which they were accustomed, defendant was properly allowed to show that husband had not supported family alone, but that wife had contributed from her own means. Dunham v. McMichael, 214 Pa. 485, 63 A. 1007.

38. Evidence of plaintiff's ill health and of necessary assistance given her by neighbors after her husband had been induced to separate from her admissible to show her loss. Hardwick v. Hardwick [Iowa] 106 N. W. 639.

39. Smith v. Hockenberry [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 684, 109 N. W. 23.

40. As that wife had been criminally intimate with other men and had associated with lewd women. Smith v. Hockenberry [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 684, 109 N. W. 23. Evidence tending to show that the alleged act of intercourse was brought about by the wife, and that she arranged for a discovery, fect of the marriage relation on the competency of the parties thereto as witnesses is fully treated elsewhere.[42]

Right of action; parties.[43]—The right of action for injuries to the wife, and for criminal conversation and alienation of affections, and the procedure in such cases have already been treated.[44] In many jurisdictions a married woman may now sue or be sued as a feme sole[45] in respect to her separate property, business or individual earnings.[46] Where such is the law the husband cannot in his own name prosecute a right of action possessed by the wife.[47] Both must sue where the right of action is joint.[48] The husband is not a proper party to an action for damages to a married woman with respect to her separate property.[49] He is a proper party to an action for a tort to the wife personally.[50] A declaration containing a count for damages to the wife with respect to her separate property, and a count for a personal tort to the wife, is demurrable.[51] Ordinarily the wife is not a proper party in an action to recover community property;[52] but in an action for false imprisonment of the wife, though damages recoverable are community property, she is properly joined.[53] If the husband sues with the wife, when she neither must nor may be joined, the error is fatal.[54] The husband should sue alone for the support in his household of a third person, even though the wife performed most of the services,[55] unless there is an express contract to compensate the wife.[56] The wife, though a proper party, is not indispensable in a suit to cancel a conveyance to the husband of land occupied by them as a homestead.[57] The wife of a mortgagor in a purchase-money mortgage in which she did not join is not a necessary party in the suit to foreclose.[58] Where husband and wife commence an action for injuries to property, and the action is dismissed as to the husband, it may be continued by the wife to judgment.[59] In an action against a husband and wife, a defense common to both inures to the benefit of the wife though pleaded only by the husband.[60] In Texas, where the husband refuses to join the wife in a suit to protect her separate property, she may sue alone.[61] In North Carolina a justice court has jurisdiction of a was also admissible to show her bad character. Id.

41. See 5 C. L. 1752.

42. See Witnesses, 6 C. L. 1975.

43. See 5 C. L. 1752.

44. See §§ 9 A, 9 B.

45. Rev. Laws, c. 153, § 6, permits married women to sue and be sued as if unmarried. Duffee v. Boston El. R. Co., 191 Mass. 563, 77 N. E. 1036.

46. Not necessary to join husband in action to enforce liability of wife as president of a corporation, for its debts, where she failed to file the annual statement required by Kirby's Dig. §§ 848, 859. Arkansas Stables v. Samstag [Ark.] 94 S. W. 699. In Delaware a married woman may maintain an action for wages for her personal labor performed for other persons than her own family. Lodge v. Fraim [Del.] 63 A. 233.

47. Ky. St. 1903, § 2128, authorizes married women to make contracts and sue and be sued as though unmarried. Hence the husband of a woman who made a settlement with her father of rights in his property could not, in his own name, sue to set the agreement aside. McGregor v. Overton's Ex'rs [Ky.] 96 S. W. 1114.

48. Husband sold hay which was wife's separate property under agreement with buyers to pay part of the proceeds to the creditors of the husband and wife. Upon failure of buyers to do as agreed, there was a cause of action enforceable by husband and wife jointly, but not by husband alone. Ives v. Sanguinetti [Ariz.] 85 P. 480.

49, 50. Ricardo v. News Pub. Co. [N. J. Law] 62 A. 301.

51. Misjoinder of separate causes of action. Ricardo v. News Pub. Co. [N. J. Law] 62 A. 301.

52. Gomez v. Scanlan [Cal. App.] 84 P. 50.

53. This class of cases forms an exception to the general rule. Gomez v. Scanlan [Cal. App.] 84 P. 50.

54, 55. Oakley v. Emmons [N. J. Law] 62 A. 996.

56. Evidence insufficient to show express contract to pay wife for support of third person, hence error to join wife in action by husband. Oakley v. Emmons [N. J. Law] 62 A. 996.

57. Since the wife's inchoate homestead and dower rights would not be affected, she not being made a party, and she has no right of possession of the homestead which would be disturbed by a decree. Mash v. Bloom, 126 Wis. 385, 105 N. W. 831.

58. Harrow v. Grogan, 219 Ill. 228, 76 N. E. 350.

59. Butler v. Boynton, 117 Mo. App. 462, 94 S. W. 723.

60. Defense of usury in foreclosure action. Lowe v. Walker [Ark.] 91 S. W. 22.

suit against a married woman for a debt due by her, or on a contract made by her before marriage, or for a debt contracted by her as a free trader after marriage.[62] In South Carolina a married woman who is also a minor can prosecute an action only by a guardian ad litem, even though her husband is properly joined with her as coplaintiff.[63]

As a general rule neither spouse can, during the existence of the marriage relation, sue the other at law[64] except as authorized by statute.[65] In Pennsylvania a wife may maintain a bill in equity to protect her separate property and enforce her property rights against her husband.[66]

That a judgment against a husband and wife does not specifically authorize execution against the wife's separate property does not invalidate it or prevent satisfaction thereof out of her separate property.[67] In Arkansas an erroneous judgment against a married woman may be modified or vacated where her coverture does not appear in the record nor the error in the proceedings.[68] This statute does not authorize vacation or modification of a valid judgment against a married woman merely because her coverture does not appear until a motion for a new trial is made.[69] In Florida a deficiency decree or judgment, though entered in a court of equity consequent upon a foreclosure sale, is not a "charging in equity of a married woman's separate estate."[70] Such a decree when entered against a married woman in ignorance of the fact of coverture may be vacated upon the petition of both spouses in the absence of laches or the intervention of rights of third parties.[71]

Limitations.[72]—At common law limitations do not run against married women,[73] but this rule has been abrogated by statute in many states[74] where the common-law disabilities of coverture have been removed. But a married woman who acquires the right to enter into possession of real estate prior to the enactment of such a statute is not within its operation.[75]

§ 11. Proceedings to compel support of wife.[76]—It is the duty of the husband to provide for the reasonable support and maintenance of his wife during the con-

61. Suit to restrain sale of her property for debt of husband. Western Bank & Trust Co. v. Gibbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 754, 96 S. W. 947.

62. A justice's judgment is not void unless the record shows that the cause of action is one over which the court had no jurisdiction as against a married woman. McAfee's Estate v. Gregg, 140 N. C. 448, 53 S. E. 304.

63. Construing Code Civ. Proc. 1902, §§ 135, 136. Hiers v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 457.

64. Muller v. Witte, 78 Conn. 495, 62 A. 756. In Minnesota a married woman cannot maintain a civil action against her husband for a personal tort committed by him against her during coverture. Strom v. Strom [Minn.] 107 N. W. 1047.

65. Muller v. Witte, 78 Conn. 495, 62 A. 756. Under Act April 20, 1877, wife may sue on note given her by her husband. Mathewson v. Mathewson [Conn.] 63 A. 285. Where court found that wife had not been abandoned by her husband, she could not maintain an action against him, under Gen. St. 1902, § 4543, permitting an abandoned wife to sue as a "feme sole." Muller v. Witte, 78 Conn. 495, 62 A. 756.

66. Under married woman's act, P. L. 1848, § 536. Heckman v. Heckman [Pa.] 64 A. 425. Bill to set aside conveyance of wife's separate property to her husband on ground of fraud, undue influence, and want of consideration. Id.

67. Love v. McGill [Tex. Civ. App.] 91 S. W. 246.

68. Kirby's Dig. § 4431. Arkansas Stables v. Samstag [Ark.] 94 S. W. 699.

69. Arkansas Stables v. Samstag [Ark.] 94 S. W. 699.

70. Rice v. Cummings [Fla.] 40 So. 889.

71. Decree vacated four years after rendition. Rice v. Cummings [Fla.] 40 So. 889.

72. See 5 C. L. 1753.

73. In North Carolina adverse possession could not be counted against a married woman prior to February 13, 1899, when the disabilities of coverture were repealed. Norcum v. Savage, 140 N. C. 472, 53 S. E. 289.

74. The common-law rule of the unity of interest between husband and wife, preventing the application of the statute of limitations to claims existing in favor of the wife against the husband during coverture, on grounds of public policy, has been abrogated in Ohio by statute. Liggett v. Estate of Liggett, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 518.

75. A married woman who acquires a right to enter into possession of real estate prior to Acts 1899, p. 209, c. 78, which removes disabilities of coverture, is not within the provisions of that act. Cherry v. Cape Fear Power Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 287.

76. See 5 C. L. 1754.

tinuance of the marriage relation.[77] This duty is enforceable by the wife in an action for support and maintenance,[78] or for alimony, without divorce,[79] or by means of a criminal prosecution of the husband. It is also held that a court of equity has inherent power, independent of statute, to enforce this duty of the husband in cases where no application for divorce is made.[80] To warrant a judgment against the husband in such a proceeding, the facts required by law must be made to appear;[81]

77. Price v. Price [Neb.] 106 N. W. 657. Husband is only bound to provide for the wife such a reasonably comfortable home as is consistent with his means and their station in life. Jones v. People, 119 Ill. App. 49. It is the duty of the husband and father to provide for the support of his wife and minor children, in necessitous circumstances, at the matrimonial domicile. In re Baurens [La.] 41 So. 442.

78. When husband fails to support wife without just cause, she may maintain action against him for reasonable maintenance. Price v. Price [Neb.] 106 N. W. 657.

79. In some states a wife may sue for and obtain alimony without praying for a divorce of any kind. Breen v. Breen, 28 Ky. L. R. 1216, 91 S. W. 251.

80. A court of equity has inherent power, independent of statute, to grant a wife a separate maintenance because of abandonment, failure to provide, cruelty, or other breach of marital duty by the husband justifying withdrawal by the wife, in cases where no application is made for divorce. Cureton v. Cureton [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 608.

NOTE. Equity jurisdiction: "There is a conflict of authority upon the question whether a court of equity has inherent power to grant a wife a separate maintenance out of her husband's estate, because of his abandonment of her, or his failure to provide, or his cruelty, or other breaches of marital duty, whereby she is forced to withdraw from his home and custody, in cases where no application for divorce is made (2 Am. & Eng. Enc. of Law [2nd Ed.] 93, 94; 14 Cyc. 744, 745); many of the authorities referred to, in their notes, holding that in the absence of statutes conferring the power it does not exist. However, there are other authorities, represented by decisions in the courts of last resort in Alabama, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, South Dakota, and Virginia, and also in the District of Columbia, which hold that the power exists. 2 Am. & Eng. Enc. of Law [2nd Ed.] 94, 95, n. 2; 14 Cyc. pp. 744, 745, n. 14. And with these latter courts must be ranked our own. Nicely v. Nicely, 3 Head [Tenn.] 184; Swan v. Harrison, 2 Cold. [Tenn.] 543; Corley v. Corley, 8 Baxt. [Tenn.] 7, 10.

"In Nicely v. Nicely, 3 Head [Tenn.] 184, the court said: 'The argument against the jurisdiction of a court of equity * * * is based upon the English authorities. The doctrine held there is that the obligation of the husband to provide a suitable maintenance for his wife is not a duty of which courts of equity will decree the specific performance, by requiring him to furnish a separate maintenance; that the remedy is in the courts of common law, by action against the husband, in favor of any one who may, under such circumstances, have supplied the wife with necessaries suitable to her station in life; that the jurisdiction of decreeing alimony belongs to the spiritual court, and can be properly exercised in that court as incidental to a decree of divorce only, and is not within the jurisdiction of a court of equity. Fonbl. Eq. 103, 104, n. n; 2 Story's Eq. [5th Ed.] § 1422. Such seems to be the general doctrine of the English cases, though the cases upon this subject do not altogether agree. But in some of the American courts a more reasonable doctrine has prevailed; and the jurisdiction of a court of equity, in such cases, has been maintained upon general principles, and especially upon the ground of the utter inadequacy of the remedy at law. See 2 Story's Eq. 1423, a, 4 Hen. & M. 507, and other American cases cited in Fonbl. Eq. 62, 63, and note; Id., 103, 104 and note.'"—From opinion by Neil, J., in Cureton v. Cureton [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 608.

81. In Iowa separate maintenance is allowed only on a showing which would authorize the court to grant an absolute divorce. Hancock v. Hancock [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1009. The act of the husband in finally separating himself from his wife and neglecting to support her constitutes an abandonment under the New Jersey statute, though the wife has recovered a decree of separation and separate maintenance in another state. Construing P. L. 1902, p. 508, § 20. Freund v. Freund [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 756. Under the Connecticut statute there can be no recovery against a husband for neglect to support his wife, unless his neglect antedates the action. No recovery under Gen. St. 1902, § 2499, where husband, prior to action, was paying wife $50 a month, which she accepted without complaint. Lathrop v. Lathrop, 78 Conn. 650, 63 A. 514. Where husband procured apartments for himself and wife and she voluntarily left him and refused to return, and the evidence did not show mistreatment by him, nor that she was liable to become a public charge, a conviction for abandonment, and an order to support the wife (Laws 1901, c. 466), was not sustained. People v. Demos, 100 N. Y. S. 968. Husband, after marriage by Jewish rabbi in Austria, left his wife and went to New York. He never sent for her. She found him and prosecuted him for nonsupport and he denied the validity of the marriage, but there was no proof of laws of Austria except statement of counsel. Held he was properly found a disorderly person for failure to support his wife. People v. Rosenzweig, 47 Misc. 584, 96 N. Y. S. 103. Refusal of the husband to support his wife is not per se ground for a divorce or separation from bed and board in Louisiana, and in such case the wife cannot sue for alimony (Van Horn v. Arantes, 116 La. 130, 40 So. 592), but she may procure necessaries at the expense of the husband, or may have him prosecuted for nonsupport (Id.). Act No. 34, p. 42, of 1902, in general, it must be shown that he has abandoned the wife without legal cause and has failed to provide adequately for her support,[82] or, if the wife has left the husband, that she was justified in so doing.[83] A wife who voluntarily and without justification abandons the matrimonial domicile,[84] or who is guilty of some other act wholly inconsistent with her duty as his wife,[85] forfeits her right to maintenance.

Procedure[86] in actions by the wife,[87] and in criminal prosecutions,[88] or in actions upon bonds given in such cases,[89] is largely statutory.

A bill in equity for separate maintenance is not objectionable for alleging facts which, if proved, would warrant the granting of a decree of divorce.[90] Residence in the state for the period required of one who seeks a divorce is not essential to the right to maintain a bill for separate maintenance where complainant and defendant were married and formerly resided in the state.[91] makes desertion or willful neglect to provide for wife and family a misdemeanor. Id.

82. Wife held not to have consented to husband's leaving her so as to bar her right to limited divorce on ground of abandonment. Curtin v. Curtin, 111 App. Div. 447, 97 N. Y. S. 771. Evidence insufficient to prove charges of desertion, nonsupport, and cruelty in action by wife for separate maintenance. Bill dismissed. Faller v. Faller [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 691, 109 N. W. 47. Proof that husband turned his wife out of doors and neglected to support her warrants a finding of abandonment without means of support, and a decree compelling him to pay a weekly allowance to her. People v. Shrady, 47 Misc. 333, 95 N. Y. S. 991.

83. Evidence held to show wife was justified in leaving husband on account of his cruel treatment, and to sustain decree for separate maintenance. Kurz v. Kurz [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 242. Husband's obligation is not discharged where the wife is compelled by his cruel treatment to find shelter with her children at the residence of her father in another parish (In re Baurens [La.] 41 So. 442), and no change of venue as to the offense of neglecting to provide for his family results from such conditions, under Act No. 34, p. 42, of 1902 (Id.). A wife may justifiably refuse to follow the husband to a place where he provides no dwelling except a license of habitation at another's sufferance. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff, 26 App. D. C. 520.

84. Bill for permanent alimony by wife dismissed where wife left husband without cause and refused to return at his request unless an orphan girl whom they had adopted should be sent away. Hilton v. Hilton [Miss.] 41 So. 262. To defeat a wife's claim for maintenance on the ground of voluntary abandonment of the husband's domicile, the fact of such abandonment must be established by cogent proof. Evidence insufficient to show abandonment by wife. Price v. Price [Neb.] 106 N. W. 657.

85. Price v. Price [Neb.] 106 N. W. 657. In California, when a wife abandons her husband and his home without justification, he is under no duty to solicit her return, and unless she offers to return he is under no duty to support her. Civ. Code § 175. Wife held to have deserted husband without cause, her charge of cruelty being unfounded. Kessler v. Kessler [Cal. App.] 83 P. 257. In New York, adultery of the wife, established in an action against her by her husband for divorce, wherein he was denied relief because of his own act of adultery, is not such misconduct of the wife as will bar her suit for separation. Hawkins v. Hawkins, 110 App. Div. 42, 96 N. Y. S. 804.

86. See 5 C. L. 1755.

87. In action for alimony, without divorce, wife may be allowed her costs including reasonable attorney's fees. Breen v. Breen, 28 Ky. L. R. 1216, 91 S. W. 251. But attorney's fee cannot be allowed in an action to enforce a contract fixing property rights of parties in case of separation. Woodruff v. Woodruff, 28 Ky. L. R. 1082, 91 S. W. 265. In New Jersey, where a suit by the wife for separate maintenance is found to be frivolous and without foundation, costs may be decreed against her. Construing P. L. 1902, pp. 508, 509, §§ 20, 21. Harris v. Harris [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 703.

88. Instructions construed and criticised in prosecution for abandonment and failure to support family. Hopkins v. State, 126 Wis. 104, 105 N. W. 223.

Evidence: Where an information drawn under Rev. St. 1898, § 4587c, charged that husband abandoned his wife and children on a certain date and thereafter unreasonably refused and neglected to provide for them, evidence was admissible to show that he had unreasonably refused and neglected to support his family from the date mentioned to the time the information was filed. Hopkins v. State, 126 Wis. 104, 105 N. W. 223. In prosecution for wife abandonment it may be shown that husband had married wife to escape prosecution for seduction, and that he had said in effect that he would not live with her. State v. Jeffries, 117 Mo. App. 569, 92 S. W. 501. Evidence sufficient to sustain conviction. Id.

89. Bond given by one convicted as disorderly person to secure payments for support of wife is not invalid because it lacks a seal. Tully v. Lewitz, 98 N. Y. S. 829. A misdescription of the official payee in such bond does not invalidate it, as the payee designated by law will be presumed to have been intended. Id. In New York city, police magistrates have jurisdiction generally over proceedings against alleged disorderly persons; hence facts showing jurisdiction need not be alleged in an action on a bond given by one convicted to secure support of his abandoned wife. Id.

90. Cureton v. Cureton [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 608.

Suit money may be allowed in a proper case,[92] but the right to defend should not be conditioned on payment upon an ex parte showing.[93] Additional allowance will not be made for attorney's fees where needless cost has been incurred.[94] The allowance may be vacated if suitable support and a home be offered which she rejects.[95]

In an action to compel the husband to provide support for the wife, he cannot impeach the validity of a decree of divorce from a former wife obtained by himself in another state.[96] A foreign decree of maintenance by a court having jurisdiction, pleaded by plaintiff, is conclusive evidence of the husband's abandonment from the date fixed in the decree.[97]

Relief obtainable.[98]—The amount of the allowance to be awarded the wife depends upon the circumstances and condition of the parties.[99] A decree for separate maintenance, requiring monthly payments by the husband, should provide for its continuance within the discretion of the court until a reconciliation may be effected or the husband shall return to his marital duties.[1] In a suit for separate maintenance, without a divorce, provision may be made for the custody of the children.[2] In a suit for separate maintenance the wife cannot recover as additional relief an amount due under a decree for maintenance rendered by a foreign court.[3] In a suit for separation and maintenance, where the validity of a conveyance by the husband is made an issue, the court has no power to declare the conveyance void except as against the wife.[4]

In Louisiana the pendency, on appeal, of an action by the husband for separation from bed and board cannot affect execution of a sentence imposed on the husband in a prosecution for failure to provide for his wife and children.[5] A previous

91. Where wife had been in Tennessee only 20 days before bringing suit but was married there and forced to return by husband's acts, she could maintain the bill. Cureton v. Cureton [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 608.

92. Allowance of alimony pendente lite held improper in suit for maintenance where complainant's financial condition was superior to defendant's and serious charges were made against complainant. Steller v. Steller, 115 Ill. App. 323. Order for $75 temporary alimony proper in suit for separate maintenance where petition alleged desertion without cause, no means of support for wife and child except personal earnings, and ill health of wife, and that husband had an interest in land and $500 in personal property. Hancock v. Hancock [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1009. By analogy to the divorce statutes suit money is allowable in Missouri to a wife who sues for separate maintenance. Behrle v. Behrle [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 1005.

93. Where in a suit for separate maintenance the only showing as to defendant's property is that made by the petition and amendments and the application for temporary alimony, it is error to order that defendant may not defend until he has complied with the order for temporary alimony. Hancock v. Hancock [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1009.

94, 95. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff, 26 App. D. C. 520.

96. People v. Shrady, 47 Misc. 333, 95 N. Y. S. 991.

97. New York decree held sufficient proof of abandonment in suit in New Jersey. Freund v. Freund [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 756.

98. See 5 C. L. 1755.

99. Where wife separated from husband wholly on account of his unjustifiable acts, and in an action for alimony it appeared he had a reversionary interest in a farm worth $1,500 or $2,000, subject to a life estate in his mother, who was 70 years old, and that she kept a small store, an allowance of $1,250 to her was not inequitable. Breen v. Breen, 28 Ky. L. R. 1216, 91 S. W. 251. Wife was granted limited divorce from husband and permitted to use the dwelling house. Husband was 61 years old and received as wages $30 a week. He paid taxes and interest on mortgage, which rentals did not pay. Wife was life tenant and received $41 a month from property. Held an allowance of $10 a week from his wages should be reduced to $7.50. Curtin v. Curtin, 111 App. Div. 447, 97 N. Y. S. 771.

1. Cureton v. Cureton [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 608.

2. Decree awarding custody of children, aged 2 and 4, to wife, providing for visitation by husband, held proper. Such decree should not provide that the husband may take children out of the jurisdiction on giving a bond. They should be kept within the jurisdiction of the court. Cureton v. Cureton [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 608.

3. Separate action on New York decree held necessary. Freund v. Freund [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 756.

4. Zumbiel v. Zumbiel [Ky.] 96 S. W. 542.

5. A fortiori is this true where, by the judgment appealed from, the demand for separation was rejected. In re Baurens [La.] 41 So. 442.

conviction is not a bar to a prosecution for neglect to provide for the family during a period not covered by the previous conviction.[6]

Effect of decree.[7]—A decree for future alimony subject to future modification by the court rendering it is not a final judgment within the meaning of the full faith and credit clause of the constitution.[8]

§ 12. Crimes and criminal responsibility.[9]—Proceedings to compel the husband to provide support for his wife and family have already been discussed.[10] The law presumes that the participation of the wife in a crime of the husband or the act of the wife in the commission of a crime in the presence of the husband is the result of coercion on his part,[11] and she is not legally chargeable with guilt until that presumption has been removed by evidence tending to show that she acted of her own will and accord.[12]

ICE; ILLEGAL CONTRACTS; IMMIGRATION; IMPAIRING OBLIGATION OF CONTRACT; IMPEACHMENT, see latest topical index.

IMPLIED CONTRACTS.

§ 1. Definitions and Distinctions (155).
§ 2. Work and Labor or Services and Material Furnished (156). Services and Material Furnished by Member of Family (158). Right to Recover for Improvements Made on Lands of Another (159).
§ 3. Moneys Had and Received and Money Paid (159).
§ 4. Use and Occupation (164).
§ 5. Torts Which May be Waived and Sued as Implied Contracts (164).
§ 6. Remedies and Procedure (165).

This article includes only quasi contracts implied in law. Contracts implied in fact, being real contracts, are treated elsewhere.[13]

§ 1. Definitions and distinctions.[14]—A contract may be express or implied. An express contract is one whose terms were openly and fully declared by the parties at the time of entering into it.[15] An implied contract in fact arises where the intent of the parties to contract is manifested only by indirect evidence, as by acts, conduct, etc.[16] A quasi contract, or contract implied of law, exists independently of the intention of the parties and is a fiction of law founded upon the doctrine of unjust enrichment.[17] The existence of an express contract excludes an implied contract covering the same subject-matter at the same time.[18]

6. In re Baurens [La.] 41 So. 442.
7. See 5 C. L. 1755.
8. Freund v. Freund [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 756.
9. See 5 C. L. 1755.
10. See ante § 11. Proceedings to Compel Support of Wife.
11, 12. State v. Harvey [Iowa] 106 N. W. 938.
13. See Contracts, 7 C. L. 761.
14. See 5 C. L. 1756.
15. Turner v. Owen, 122 Ill. App. 501. A petition alleging that plaintiff and one Elliott had acquired certain land options, that defendant had agreed to pay plaintiff the sum sued for if he would procure an assignment of Elliott's interest, that the assignment was procured, and praying for recovery, held to set up an express contract. Ragley v. Godley [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 153, 90 S. W. 66.
16. Turner v. Owen, 122 Ill. App. 501.
17. Thus, where an architect failed to draw plans of a building which could be constructed for the specified sum and, while not accepted, the city receives actual benefits thereunder, a recovery quantum meruit may be had. Horgan v. New York, 100 N. Y. S. 68. One furnishing labor and material in clearing and improving a tract of land under a contract of purchase which is nonenforceable because of indefiniteness may recover for the work done and labor furnished. Buck v. Pond, 126 Wis. 382, 105 N. W. 909. Where a city donated negotiable bonds, which were void for want of power, to a railroad to reimburse it for depot grounds already purchased and paid for by it, subsequent holders are not entitled to recover quantum meruit, since the railroad and not the city received the benefit of the money paid. Swanson v. Ottumwa [Iowa] 106 N. W. 9.
18. Beggs v. Hanley Brewing Co., 27 R. I. 385, 62 A. 373; Schiml v. Edgeworth, 118 Ill. App. 332; Ballard v. Shea, 121 Ill. App. 135. Where one who had guaranteed another, about to make a loan, against mechanics' liens, pays to such person the amount of such liens with the understanding that he should bid in the property at the sale for the amount of the liens and his loans and repay the advancement if the property was redeemed, the money cannot be recovered if no redemption is made. Stone v. Mulvaine, 119 Ill. App. 443. Instructions predicating a right of recovery on an implied contract are erroneous where the subject-matter is covered by an express contract. Ballard v. Shea, 121 Ill. App. 135.

§ 2. Work and labor or services and material furnished.[19]—Where beneficial services are rendered and accepted the law will imply a promise to pay their reasonable value,[20] and especially if rendered upon request.[21] Such services, however, must be rendered with an expectation of compensation[22] and must be accepted with knowledge, actual or constructive, that they are so rendered,[23] though if performed under a mistaken belief that they are a part of regular duties and accepted with full knowledge of the mistake, the law will imply a contract to pay for the same.[24] Since an express contract negatives an implied one, no recovery quantum meruit for services rendered or material furnished thereunder can be had,[25] though if the contract does not fix the amount of the compensation a promise to pay their reasonable value will be implied.[26] Where beneficial services are rendered or material is furnished under a void or nonenforceable contract, a recovery will be allowed,[27]

19. See 5 C. L. 1757.

20. Morrison v. New Haven & Wilkerson Min. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 611; Dunn v. Currie [N. C.] 53 S. E. 533; Moriarty v. Board of Education of New York, 112 App. Div. 837, 98 N. Y. S. 251. The measure of recovery is such sum as the services are reasonably worth and not a sum which would reasonably compensate the party rendering them. Green's Adm'r v. Teutschmann [Ky.] 97 S. W. 7.

21. Snowden v. Snowden [Ky.] 96 S. W. 922. Where plans were made for decedent at his request and were at his disposal, the law will imply a promise to pay for the same. Buckler v. Kneezell [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 800, 91 S. W. 367. Evidence held sufficient to show request. Id. One rendering services for another without a request or a reasonable occasion therefor cannot recover. Friedlander v. Lehman, 101 N. Y. S. 252. A request is necessary, but may be implied from facts and circumstances (Ice v. Maxwell [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 859), and if one sees beneficial services being rendered for him and does not object, he is estopped to deny that they were rendered at his request (Id.).

22. Sullivan & Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 690. The presumption of contract which the law implies from the rendition of services does not arise where they are merely such offices as one friend would perform for another. Dallman v. Frank, 1 Cal. App. 541, 82 P. 564. Evidence held to sustain a finding that services rendered to decedent were those of a friend and given without expectation of pay. Id. No inference that services were rendered with expectation of compensation can be drawn from an agreed statement of facts. Mathie v. Hancock, 78 Vt. 414, 63 A. 143. Board and money held to have been furnished testator with the expectation that it was to create a liability on his part for its repayment, and with understanding on testator's part that it was not a mere gratuity, and plaintiff's right to recover it was not taken away by fact that he expected that his actual reimbursement would come through his wife's inheritance from testator. Wirth v. Kuehn, 191 Mass. 51, 77 N. E. 641. Question whether the services were rendered with expectation of pay held under the facts for the jury. Bradner v. Rockdale Powder Co., 115 Mo. App. 102, 91 S. W. 997.

23. One rendering services knowing that they are accepted in consideration of support cannot recover. Smith v. Sisters of Good Shepherd [Ky.] 96 S. W. 549. Where one does work on demised premises under a contract with the tenant, the mere fact that the landlord has seen the workmen engaged thereon does not create an implied contract. Goode v. Illinois Trust & Sav. Bank, 121 Ill. App. 161.

24. A mail clerk whose only duty was to carry the mail to and fro between the trains and the post office transferred mail from one train to another. Blowers v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 368.

25. Where there was an express contract that an attorney employed to collect back taxes should have 10 per cent of the amount collected as compensation, he cannot recover quantum meruit after a rightful dismissal. City of Wilmington v. Bryan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 543. Where one receives specific compensation for services, there can be no implied promise to pay an additional sum from the fact of rendition. Lucas v. Boss, 110 App. Div. 220, 97 N. Y. S. 112.

26. Chandler v. Baker, 191 Mass. 579, 78 N. E. 387; McGrew's Ex'r v. O'Donnell, 28 Ky. L. R. 1366, 92 S. W. 301. Where care and board are furnished and no price is agreed upon, the law will imply a promise to pay their reasonable value. Schuchler v. Cooper [Del.] 62 A. 261. Not such sum as will reasonably compensate the person rendering the services. McGrew's Ex'r v. O'Donnell, 28 Ky. L. R. 1366, 92 S. W. 301. Value of recipient's estate immaterial and an allegation with reference thereto should be stricken. Id. The value placed thereon, especially by the party accepting them, may be considered as evidence. Chandler v. Baker, 191 Mass. 579, 78 N. E. 387.

27. Contract between attorney and client void as restricting the latter's right to compromise the claim. Papineau v. White, 117 Ill. App. 51. Contract nonenforceable as within the statute of frauds and the party for whom rendered refuses to perform his part. Cozad v. Elam, 115 Mo. App. 136, 91

but the reasonable value of the services and material and not the contract price controls.[28] And again, if services are rendered under an entire contract,[29] which is abandoned before completion by the employer, an action quantum meruit will lie,[30] but if the employe wrongfully abandons the same, no recovery can be had[31] if no substantial benefits have resulted to the other party.[32] So, too, where there has been no abandonment but the work falls short of substantial performance, a recovery may be had for labor performed and materials furnished[33] if accepted by the other party to the contract.[34] Where services are rendered under an express understanding that they are to be compensated by a testamentary provision, an action quantum meruit will lie upon failure of such provision.[35] An unauthorized person acting as an agent or volunteer cannot recover[36] unless his acts are subsequently ratified.[37] Where an abutting owner has no interest in or control over the streets, no quantum meruit recovery can be had for benefits resulting from improving the same.[38] The law will usually imply a promise to pay for materials furnished and accepted; but in Kentucky no recovery may be had for board furnished by one other than the keeper of a tavern or house of private entertainment in

S. W. 434. City contract for lighting void because let without due advertisement as required by Const. § 164. City of Providence v. Providence Elec. Light Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 1015, 91 S. W. 664. Where recovery is allowed upon an executed contract void as being ultra vires, the relief granted is not upon the unlawful contract but upon quantum meruit (White Star Line v. Star Line of Steamers, 141 Mich. 604, 12 Det. Leg. N. 586, 105 N. W. 135), and will not be extended so as to affirmatively enforce the contract in regard to contribution for damages paid for injuries to a third person (Id.), especially where it is also illegal, as in violation of the Sherman Act (Id.).

28. Where services have been rendered under a contract whereby they were to be paid for in land, and the recipient refuses to convey on the ground that the contract is within the statute of frauds, the measure of recovery is the value of the services not of the land. Cozad v. Elam, 115 Mo. App. 136, 91 S. W. 434.

29. A contract by a daughter to remain with and care for her father until his death in consideration of a testamentary provision is entire and indivisible. Tussey v. Owen, 139 N. C. 457, 52 S. E. 128.

30. Plaintiff had contracted to sink a shaft 80 feet deep or until he struck coal, defendant to furnish appliances and material, which defendant refused to do after the shaft was partly completed. Davis v. Brown County Coal Co. [S. D.] 110 N. W. 113. Where a civil engineer contracts to draw the plans for a water works system and to install the same for 5% of the cost, and the project was abandoned by the city after satisfactory plans had been submitted and adopted, he may recover for the work actually done. Jenks v. Terry [Miss.] 40 So. 641. Where a daughter who had contracted to remain with and care for her father until his death left and married, the fact that he thereafter did not wish her to return is not a prevention of performance authorizing a quantum meruit recovery. Tussey v. Owen, 139 N. C. 457, 52 S. E. 128. Where plaintiff entered into a contract to furnish the material and to paper defendant's house for a specific sum and is prevented by defendant from carrying out the contract in full, he may recover that portion of the stated sum as the work done and material furnished bears to the whole. Limerick v. Lee [Okl.] 87 P. 859. Where plaintiff was to haul all the wood on a certain lot at $1 per cord, the wood to be cut by defendant, he may recover quantum meruit for the amount hauled if defendant fails to cut so as to enable him to haul all continuously. Bailey v. Marden [Mass.] 79 N. E. 257.

31. In North Carolina, where a contract is entire and indivisible, a party thereto failing without cause to fully perform cannot recover for the part performed. Tussey v. Owen, 139 N. C. 457, 52 S. E. 128.

32. Plaintiff voluntarily abandoned a well partially drilled under a contract which required that it be finished and accepted by defendant's engineer as a condition of recovery. Miller v. Mason City & Ft. D. R. Co. [Iowa] 108 N. W. 302.

33. Higgins Mfg. Co. v. Pearson [Ala.] 40 So. 579.

34. Where plaintiff was to furnish and fit window screens and the house owner expressly notified him to remove the same, the fact that the owner did not remove them does not constitute an acceptance. Higgins Mfg. Co. v. Pearson [Ala.] 40 So. 579.

35. Was to receive a child's share for the care of decedent's mother. Bunting v. Dobson, 125 Ga. 447, 54 S. E. 102.

36. Where plaintiff after the death of his employer continued to feed and exercise his horses until they were taken by the administrator, it not being necessary for him so to do, he is a mere volunteer and cannot recover. Mathie v. Hancock, 78 Vt. 414, 63 A. 143. Nor was there any duty resting upon the administrator at the time the services were rendered and food furnished, he not having been yet appointed. Id.

37. Ice v. Maxwell [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 899.

38. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Loughlin [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 554, 98 S. W. 948.

the absence of an express contract.[39] A quantum meruit recovery for services cannot be had where no contractual relation exists.[40]

Services and material furnished by member of family.[41]—Since family life abounds in mutual favors rendered without expectation of pay, the general rule that a promise of compensation is implied from the rendition and acceptance of beneficial services does not obtain.[42] Accordingly, services rendered or support furnished by a parent to a child,[43] by a child to a parent[44] or one in loco parentis,[45] or between other near relatives,[46] living together as a family,[47] are presumed gratuitous. The fact that the child is illegitimate[48] or has attained his majority[49] does not destroy the presumption. This presumption, however, is not conclusive and will not be indulged where the surrounding facts and circumstances disclose a contrary intent,[50] nor is it applicable where the services are rendered without legal

39. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2178, the law will imply no promise to pay for board furnished. Snowden v. Snowden [Ky.] 96 S. W. 922.

40. Plaintiff discovered property belonging to defendants which had been sold for taxes and advised them of the fact. Being unable to agree upon the compensation to be allowed to clear the title defendants employed another who effected a settlement suggested by plaintiff. Held no quantum meruit recovery can be had. Franck v. McGilvray [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 154, 107 N. W. 886.

41. See 5 C. L. 1762.

42. Key v. Harris [Tenn.] 92 S. W. 235. For liability of a husband for necessaries furnished the wife, etc., see Husband and Wife, 8 C. L. 122.

43. Mother rendering services for son. Begin v. Begin [Minn.] 107 N. W. 149.

44. Daughter caring for and supporting father. In re Bishop's Estate [Iowa] 106 N. W. 637. Where a son resides with and cares for his aged mother, there is no implied contract for compensation. Wallace v. Denny's Adm'r, 28 Ky. L. R. 978, 90 S. W. 1046.

45. Patteson v. Carter [Ala.] 41 So. 133.

46. Sister-in-law caring for brother-in-law. Lodge v. Fraim [Del.] 63 A. 233. There is no presumption that services rendered by a daughter-in-law, after the death of husband, for her father-in-law, is gratuitous, especially where she was maintaining a household of her own. Koebel v. Beetson, 112 App. Div. 639, 98 N. Y. S. 408. Question whether she expected compensation and whether he expected to pay held for the jury, under the facts of the case. Id. Where plaintiff, his wife and children rendered services for decedent, the fact that plaintiff's wife was decedent's daughter does not rebut an implied contract. Dunn v. Currie [N. C.] 53 S. E. 533. Where services are rendered by a stepdaughter for the stepfather, the question whether the circumstances justify reasonable expectation of compensation, is for the jury. Brown v. Cummings, 27 R. I. 369, 62 A. 378.

47. A family is a collective body of persons living under one roof and under one head or management. In re Bishop's Estate [Iowa] 106 N. W. 637. Where plaintiff was a widowed daughter living on her own farm with her sons and the decedent came to live with her, furnishing his own bed clothing, declining to do any work, and recognizing no headship in the family, the question whether he was a member of the family was for the jury. Id. A statement by decedent to plaintiff's mother that if plaintiff would come and live with her she would do a good part with her, is not conclusive that plaintiff was taken as a member of the family. McMorrow v. Dowell, 116 Mo. App. 289, 90 S. W. 728.

No presumption if not living together as a family: Services of an adult child. Winkler v. Killian [N. C.] 54 S. E. 540. Stepdaughter not residing with stepfather. Brown v. Cummings, 27 R. I. 369, 62 A. 378.

48. Services of illegitimate children rendered while living with the father in ignorance of their illegitimacy will be presumed gratuitous. Williams v. Halford, 73 S. C. 119, 53 S. E. 88.

49. Where he continues a member of the family. In re Milligan's Estate, 112 App. Div. 373, 98 N. Y. S. 480.

50. Brown v. Cummings, 27 R. I. 369, 62 A. 378. In order to rebut the presumption that services rendered by a child to the parents are gratuitous, it is not necessary to show an express contract, but an understanding to the contrary may be inferred from the circumstances. Fry v. Fry [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 990. Where one of two sisters was almost an idiot and for a number of years practically helpless and was cared for and supported by her sister, held to create an implied contract. Key v. Harris [Tenn.] 92 S. W. 235. Compensation also allowable on the ground of necessaries. Id. Where a father and married daughter lived together, he furnishing the house and some garden truck and she boarding and nursing him, which arrangement continued for several years without complaint by the daughter of his failure to pay board, no recovery can be had. Conway v. Cooney, 111 App. Div. 864, 98 N. Y. S. 171. Declaration of decedent held sufficient to support a finding that she intended to pay and that plaintiff expected compensation for her services. McMorrow v. Dowell, 116 Mo. App. 289, 90 S. W. 728. A statement by decedent of what she wished plaintiff to have after her death tends to show that the services were gratuitous rather than the contrary. Patteson v. Carter [Ala.] 41 So. 133.

Evidence held admissible: Declaration by decedent in the presence of one of the plaintiffs as to the meritorious nature of their services, their right to be paid, and his pur-obligation under coercive circumstances,[51] or where the benefits of the family relationship are entirely unilateral.[52] In some states it must be overcome by an express contract.[53] Where a son has been compensated in advance for the care of his mother, the presumption that her services are gratuitous is less strong than if she was wholly dependent upon him.[54] The fact that a parent pays for board raises no presumption that it included compensation for care.[55]

Right to recover for improvements made on lands of another.[56]—The Washington betterment law authorizing recovery for improvements by one holding land in good faith and under color of title is not retroactive.[57]

§ 3. Moneys had and received and money paid.[58]—Where one has money which in equity and good conscience belongs to and ought to be paid to another, an action for money had and received will lie for its recovery,[59] though there be no pose to do so, as showing an understanding that they were not gratuitous. Fry v. Fry [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 990. Statements by the person for whom rendered with reference to her intention to give certain property are admissible as showing an understanding that they were to be paid for, but not as a measure of value. McGrew's Ex'r v. O'Donnell, 28 Ky. L. R. 1366, 92 S. W. 301.

51. It is the general rule of law that no allowance should be made to either father or mother out of the estate of a deceased minor child for past maintenance and support (Spink v. Spink, 7 Ohio C. C. [N. S.] 89), but where a mother who furnished support had little or no estate or an estate trifling in comparison with that of the minor, and the support was furnished under conditions which were coercive upon the mother and compelled her to assume a burden which was not naturally and legally hers alone, recovery may be had (Id.).

52. A sister performing unpleasant menial services for her brother at her home where his presence was an actual detriment, may recover for the same. Mark's Adm'r v. Boardman, 28 Ky. L. R. 455, 89 S. W. 481.

53. No liability for care rendered by a sister-in-law for her brother-in-law in the absence of an express contract. Lodge v. Fraim [Del.] 63 A. 233. A child can recover for services rendered to a parent only upon proof of an express contract (Griffith v. Robertson [Kan.] 85 P. 748), which may be established by conversations and declarations of the deceased parent (Id.). Evidence held sufficient. Id.

54. Compensated by the will of the father. Begin v. Begin [Minn.] 107 N. W. 149.

55. Fry v. Fry [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 990.

56. See 5 C. L. 1763. See, also, Ejectment, etc., 7 C. L. 1212; Accession, etc., of Property, 7 C. L. 9.

57. Laws 1903, p. 262, c. 137, held not applicable to improvements made before its enactment. Barton v. Wickizer, 41 Wash. 293, 83 P. 312. As most of these statutes are by their terms only applicable to actions of ejectment, the rights of the parties thereunder are treated in that topic. See 7 C. L. 1221.

58. See 5 C. L. 1764.

59. Smith v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Cal. App.] 84 P. 348.

Recovery allowed: Where the holder of a second mortgage assigns it to the first mortgagee to be foreclosed therewith and the proceeds to be used for the satisfaction of the mortgages, and the assignee, who has secretly become the owner of the property, discharges the mortgages of record and sells the land, he is liable as for money had and received, the second mortgagee's remedy not being limited to the pursuit of the mortgages taken in payment of the purchase price. Wagner v. Wedell [Cal. App.] 85 P. 126. Plaintiff's assignors entered into an agreement with a brewing company through defendant whereby they were to furnish $1,500 and the company the balance to build a saloon. The money was paid to the brewing company. Later defendant falsely represented to plaintiff's assignors that $500 more was required and procured the same. He also secured the $1,500 from the company upon a representation that the builders desired the money until the building was commenced. Recovery allowed on implied contract. Lefkowitz v. Reich, 98 N. Y. S. 695. Fees received by the city from the probate clerk in the mistaken belief that the statute putting the probate judge on a salary basis was valid, the judge protesting its invalidity and claiming such fees. Henderson v. Koenig, 192 Mo. 690, 91 S. W. 88. Where an employe of a bank by forged drafts drawn in favor of defendant caused money deposited with another bank by plaintiff's assignor to be paid to defendant, of which sum defendant was not a bona fide holder, recovery for money had and received will lie. Clifford Banking Co. v. Donovan Com. Co., 195 Mo. 262, 94 S. W. 527. Where bankers issue letters of credit to importers under an agreement whereby the goods together with the bill of lading and invoice are sent directly to them, and possession only given to the importers in trust to sell and apply the proceeds, and the goods are sold under a contract whereby the purchaser was to pay $1 per ton plus original cost, freight, etc., and by misrepresentation as to the freight an overcharge is made, recovery allowed of the bankers. Moors v. Bird, 190 Mass. 400, 77 N. E. 643. Where a lessee pays rent to the assignee of the lease, who turns the money over to the assignor as a part of the consideration for the assignment, and is subsequently held for rent by a prior assignee, he may recover of the lessor the money received by him. Egan v. Abbett [N. J. Law] 64 A. 991. Where a bank by mistake pays express promise,[60] but there may be deducted, however, disbursements which the same equitable considerations require plaintiff in his turn to pay.[61] But the money must have been actually received by defendant,[62] unless he is estopped to deny its receipt,[63] and hence, where a debtor through the fraud of the creditor is led to believe a larger amount due than actually is and pays the same to a third person at his request, the action lies against the creditor and not such third person.[64]

Money extorted by unlawful means,[65] procured by duress or compulsion,[66] or money of a depositor to one not entitled thereto through the order of a person of the same name, and the party receiving it knew or was charged with notice of the mistake, recovery may be had (Merchants' Bank v. Superior Candy & Cracker Co., 41 Wash. 653, 84 P. 604), though a note is accepted from the person on whose order it was paid and payments have been made thereon (Id.). Where plaintiff paid money to defendants to the account of G. & Co. at the direction of L. & Sohn, believing that the latter had been authorized by G. & Co. to so order, but in reality such money was intended to discharge an indebtedness of L. & Sohn to defendant guaranteed by G. & Co., such money may be recovered, the mistake of plaintiff being excusable under the ambiguity of the order. Kessler v. Herklotz, 101 N. Y. S. 418. Where defendant, manager and secretary of a corporation, drew a check in the name of the corporation, payable to himself, knowing that there were no funds to meet it, and deposited it with another bank for presentment, which check was inadvertently paid after being twice refused, such money may be recovered from the defendant, and it is immaterial that it was negotiable since he was not a bona fide holder. Iowa State Bank v. Cereal Refund & Brokerage Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 719.

Held not inequitable to retain it: Where a surety on a forthcoming bond pays a judgment rendered thereon against him, and it is subsequently ascertained that the court rendering the judgment had no legal existence, he cannot recover as for money paid under a mistake of law, it not appearing that the money was not rightfully due. Strange v. Franklin [Ga.] 55 S. E. 943. Held under the facts of the case that it was not inequitable for defendant association to retain the money paid by plaintiff for shares reissued to him. Foresters' Bldg. & L. Ass'n v. Quinn, 119 Ill. App. 572. Especially in view of the fact that he has estopped himself by voting such shares and accepting dividends thereunder. Id.

60. The law will imply such promise. Clifford Banking Co. v. Donovan Commission Co., 195 Mo. 262, 94 S. W. 527.

61. In an action for money had and received by the receiver of the board of metropolitan police to recover of the city taxes imposed and collected for the benefit of the board, recovery cannot be had for the percentage allowed the sheriff for assuming all costs of collection. Hubert v. New Orleans, 116 La. 507, 40 So. 853. Where a city, erroneously believing a statute changing the office of probate judge from a fee to a salary basis valid, receives the fees and pays the salaries of clerks and assistants, a deduction for money so paid may be made in an action by the judge to recover the fees. Henderson v. Koenig, 192 Mo. 690, 91 S. W. 88.

62. A recital in a check payable to a third person that it is given in payment of plaintiff's note does not of itself charge plaintiff with the amount. Sheldon Canal Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 279, 90 S. W. 206. Where defendant reinsured an insurance company in which plaintiff held a policy and defaulted, plaintiff could not elect to treat the contract as forfeited and sue for money had and received to recover premiums paid the original company. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Jaffe [Ala.] 40 So. 47. In assumpsit for money had and received under an agreement to invest, evidence held to show that it was never delivered to defendant by the messenger entrusted with it. Brady v. Messler, 27 R. I. 373, 62 A. 511. A creditor sent a claim to an attorney for collection, who in the seltlement of a claim of the debtor against a third person was credited with a deposit which plaintiff claims was to pay his debt. Held, under the evidence, that it was a question for the jury whether the money was so received. Millhiser & Co. v. Leatherwood, 140 N. C. 231, 52 S. E. 782.

63. Where the secret owner of property secures the assignment of a mortgage thereon for the purpose of foreclosing the same, and after discharging it of record sells the land, he is liable for money had and received though in fact he received only notes. Wagner v. Wedell [Cal. App.] 85 P. 126. Where the owner of a half interest in certain patents sells the entire interest with the coowner's consent and requests the purchaser to retain one-half of the price as he did not recognize plaintiff's interest, he cannot allege nonreceipt in an action for money had and received. Owens v. Goldie, 213 Pa. 579, 62 A. 1117.

64. Moors v. Bird, 190 Mass. 400, 77 N. E. 643.

65. Where a bricklayers' and plasterers' union secured $100 from a brick manufacturer by threats to refuse to handle his bricks, which sum was imposed as a penalty for having furnished bricks to an "unfair boss," it is in violation of Gen. St. 1902, § 1296 (March v. Bricklayers' & Plasterers' Union No. 1 [Conn.] 63 A. 291), and cannot be justified on the ground that the union had a right to decline to lay plaintiff's brick (Id.), nor as the exercise of the right of fair trade competition (Id.).

66. Where one deposits collateral to secure a debt due, the fact that such collateral was in danger of sale in case of default does not constitute duress in making the payment where there was no threat to sell in violation of the pledge agreement. Buck v. Houghtaling, 110 App. Div. 52, 96 N. Y. S. 1034 through fraud and deceit,[67] if it is against equity and good conscience that it be retained,[68] may be recovered as for money had and received.

Generally, money paid under a mistake of a material fact may be recovered,[69] though where a particular criterion is adopted as the basis for ascertaining the amount due, an overpayment resulting from an inaccuracy therein cannot be recovered.[70] Money voluntarily[71] paid, with full knowledge of all the facts,[72] cannot Money paid as a condition to the right to continue an existing business has been held to be paid under duress. American Brewing Co. v. St. Louis, 187 Mo. 367, 86 S. W. 129. An allegation that plaintiff was entirely dependent upon the city waterworks for its water supply and that the ordinance required it to pay in advance for water used is sufficient as against a demurrer to show that the license was paid as a condition of continuing business. Id.

67. Where a debtor in ignorance of the amount due relies on misstatements of the creditor and pays an amount in excess of the real debt, he may recover such excess. Dotterer v. Scott, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 553. Under Comp. Laws, § 10,421, one induced to enter into an option contract to purchase a manufacturing plant by false representations as to authority to sell may recover the money paid thereunder (Gubbins v. Ashley [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 844, 109 N. W. 841), and the fact that he demanded performance after discovering the fraud does not work an estoppel, the defendant having not been misled (Id.).

68. Payment under legal compulsion does not authorize a recovery if it is not against equity that it be retained. City of Chicago v. Malkan, 119 Ill. App. 542. Where one running two saloons under a single license pays a license fee under a threat of the city collector to close both if he does not, the fact that he paid the money under protest and shortly thereafter closed the saloon does not authorize a recovery. Id.

69. Money paid under the belief that a contract to furnish electric power had commenced to run when in fact it had not. Hudson River Water Power Co. v. Glens Falls Portland Cement Co., 107 App. Div. 548, 95 N. Y. S. 421. Where an electric company is bound to furnish service without discrimination, and one pays an excessive rate in ignorance that others pay less, there is a mistake of a material fact and recovery may be had. Armour Packing Co. v. Edison Elec. Illuminating Co., 100 N. Y. S. 605. And the fact that the payment was pursuant to contract is immaterial, the contract being a part of the unlawful discrimination. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show an overpayment of rent through a mistake as to the number of acres. Connerly v. Inman [Ark.] 95 S. W. 138.

70. Assignee of mining leases was to pay 7 cents per gross ton for ore of a certain quality found in the property, the same to be ascertained by making certain drills, assuming that the ore for a radius of 100 feet was the same as that revealed by the hole. No recovery for overpayment due to such erroneous assumption or to the fact that the test did not reveal the actual quality of the ore, as laconite was not revealed. Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. v. East Itaska Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 146 F. 232.

71. Held voluntary: Where property was assessable and the taxpayer paid the taxes without appearing before the board of review and without being forced by a threatened levy and without making a statutory protest, such payment is voluntary despite the words "Paid under protest" were entered on the tax roll and tax receipt. Traverse Beach Ass'n v. Elmwood Tp. [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 626, 105 N. W. 30. Payment of the amount of an execution to the marshal about to levy by one not liable thereunder and with full knowledge of the facts. Herald Square Cloak & Suit Co. v. Rocca, 48 Misc. 650, 96 N. Y. S. 189, Where a building association intentionally paid money to a stockholder as interest at the rate of six per cent, it cannot afterward recover a part of it back on the theory that it was a payment of a dividend mistakenly computed at 6 per cent instead of 5 per cent. Kellenberger v. Oskaloosa National Bldg. L. & Inv. Ass'n, 129 Iowa, 582, 105 N. W. 836. Payment of agreed price then in default for convict labor under a threat of the state authorities to discontinue such labor. Mills Co. v. State, 110 App. Div. 843, 97 N. Y. S. 676. A payment of taxes and rent upon a leasehold by one having no interest therein, no fraud or deceit being practiced upon him. Sire v. Long Acre Square Bldg. Co., 50 Misc. 29, 100 N. Y. S. 307. Where a surety on a forthcoming bond against whom a judgment has been rendered pays the same upon being informed that a fi. fa. was about to issue, it appearing that the court rendering judgment had no legal existence. Strange v. Franklin [Ga.] 55 S. E. 943.

Held involuntary: A county in which a smallpox patient is stricken paying the expense of quarantine may recover of the county legally charged, since under Comp. Laws § 4424, such payment is not voluntary but obligatory in the first instance. Board of Sup'rs of Arenac Co. v. Iosco County Sup'rs [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 121, 107 N. W. 725. The payment of a back water rate which the lot owner was under no legal duty to pay, induced by a threat to shut off the water unless paid. City of Chicago v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co., 120 Ill. App. 497. A payment of illegal taxes under protest to prevent a threatened seizure. District of Columbia v. Glass, 27 App. D. C. 576. Where one arrested to compel the payment of an illegal license deposits such license under protest to procure his release and it is subsequently paid to county by the depositary to prevent his rearrest, the payment is involuntary notwithstanding he could have secured an acquittal on trial. Wheeler v. Plumas County [Cal.] 87 P. 802. Where a contractor secured by pledged bonds be recovered.[73] While money paid to avoid litigation is usually deemed voluntary,[74] the payment of an illegal demand to protect a right where no opportunity to test its legality exists is not so considered.[75] The rule as to voluntary payment does not apply to a payment by public officials of a claim contracted without authority of law.[76]

Money paid for the use and benefit of defendant[77] may be recovered if paid upon an actual or implied request,[78] though a mere voluntary payment is insufficient.[79] Where one pays money which another in equity and good conscience ought to pay,[80] especially if done to protect himself,[81] he may recover the same under a promise implied of law.

sublets the contract and deposits the bonds to be repledged for advancements used in the work and they are repledged for money partly used for other purposes, a redemption by the contractor to preserve his security is not voluntary so as to preclude recovery for the money paid to redeem from the unauthorized pledge. Interurban Const. Co. v. Hayes, 191 Mo. 248, 89 S. W. 927.

72. Where sureties on a debtor's bond to take the poor debtor's oath are called upon to pay the same, notwithstanding the oath has been taken, and do so without consulting the debtor who is in their employ, they cannot recover. Ash v. McLellan [Me.] 62 A. 598.

73. American Brewing Co. v. St. Louis, 187 Mo. 367, 86 S. W. 129; Ash v. McLellan [Me.] 62 A. 598; Foresters' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Quinn, 119 Ill. App. 572. Fees paid the secretary of state for filing certificates of corporate consolidation under mistaken construction of the law, no notice of reservation being given. Alton Light & Traction Co. v. Rose, 117 Ill. App. 83. A vendee voluntarily paying the full purchase price with knowledge of a shortage in acreage. Fields v. Fields [Va.] 54 S. E. 888. A tenant voluntarily paying rent in excess of the amount due. Connerly v. Inman [Ark.] 95 S. W. 138. One paying, by mistake, taxes on real estate not owned by but assessed to him. Bateson v. Phelps' Estate [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 626, 108 N. W. 1079. A volunteer caring for and furnishing feed for stock of a deceased person until the adminstrator is appointed cannot recover upon the theory of unjust betterment. Mathie v. Hancock, 78 Vt. 414, 63 A. 143.

74. Especially after he has had time to deliberate and consult counsel or friends. Ash v. McLellan [Me.] 62 A. 598. A payment made by a lessee under a threat by the lessor to foreclose his landlord's lien if it was not paid is voluntary. Paulson v. Barger [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1081.

75. Where a clerk refuses to file an executor's inventory without the payment of an illegal fee, and a failure to file would render the executor liable to removal from office and other penalties, a payment under protest is not voluntary notwithstanding he might have resorted to mandamus. Lewis v. San Francisco [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1106.

76. Hunt v. Fronizer, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 303.

77. Where it is customary for a carrier to advance the freight charges of the preceding carrier and to collect of the shipper, money paid in advance by the shipper to meet such charges is paid for his own benefit and not of the carrier. Neville v. Pennsylvania & W. V. Co., 99 N. Y. S. 270.

78. Where one owing a debt induces another to pay it, an obligation to repay arises. Held to create a debt so that an absolute deed given as security will be construed a mortgage. Shreve v. McGowin, 143 Ala. 665, 42 So. 94. Where one party pays an obligation which another ought to pay in part, an implied promise to repay arises. Cosurety paying note. Caldwell v. Hurley, 41 Wash. 296, 83 P. 318.

79. An instruction that if plaintiff purchased stock for defendant and others and held in trust for them defendant is bound to pay his proportion of the price is erroneous as it ignores a request therefor. Donovan-McCormick v. Sparr [Mont.] 85 P 1029. One paying out money for another without a request or reasonable occasion therefor cannot recover. Friedlander v. Lehman, 101 N. Y. S. 252.

80. Where a member of a firm negotiates loans for the firm on notes and mortgage of a third person issued for that purpose, he becomes bound to pay such person or the debt and is liable for money had and received. Jones v. Jones [Me.] 64 A. 815.

81. Mortgagee paid taxes which were a lien upon the property and also a personal obligation of the mortgagor. Stone v. Tilley [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 583, 95 S. W. 718. Immaterial whether the debt is a personal obligation of such other person or merely a lien upon his property. Phinney v. Foster, 189 Mass. 182, 75 N. E. 103. As where by the terms of a lease the buildings constructed by the tenant were to remain the personal property of the tenant, but were taxed as a part of the realty, which taxes the lessor paid to save his property. Id.

NOTE. Recovery of taxes paid for the benefit of another: "Under a lease of land, without buildings, the lessor covenanted to save the lessee harmless for all taxes upon 'said premises.' The lessee subsequently erected buildings, which were to be his own property. The lessor paid the tax, assessed as an entire tax, on land and buildings, and sought to recover from the lessee the proportion assessed against the latter's buildings. Held, that he can recover. Phinney v. Foster, 189 Mass. 182. The court interpreted the covenant to save harmless to apply only to the lot, so that, as between lessor and lessee, the tax on the buildings was intended to be borne by the lessee. Yet, since the tax was

One receiving money for a particular purpose and failing to so apply it is liable as for money had and received to the party entrusting him therewith.[82] Likewise, money deposited as a guaranty which is fulfilled,[83] or to be paid to a third person upon a contingency which never happened,[84] may be recovered. Where trust funds[85] are paid to another who receives the same with knowledge of the facts,[86] he takes them for the use and benefit of the true owner[87] and they may be recovered if the cestui que trust is not estopped.[88] An action for money had and received will lie to recover money held under a constructive trust.[89] In Missouri an action for money had and received will lie against a guardian de son tort for the value of services rendered by the ward.[90]

A party to a contract refusing to perform[91] cannot recover the money paid thereunder,[92] though the other party thereto may recover what he has parted with.[93] not apportionable, the latter resisted the claim because no legal liability towards the city existed against him. But payment of the tax released the lien on the lessee's buildings—his property was bound, though not he personally. Mass. R. L. c. 12, § 60, and c. 13, § 35. McGee v. Salem, 149 Mass. 238. The plaintiff thus brought himself within two well recognized doctrines of quasi-contracts,—recovery for satisfaction of the defendant's obligation (here a real one) to redeem the plaintiff's property from an encumbrance referable to the defendant's non-payment; and secondly, for payment of a claim which in justice, as between the parties, was owing from the defendant. Keener, Quasi-Contracts, c. 9. So, recovery has been allowed for taxes for which the defendant was not personally liable but which he expressly agreed to pay. See Lageman v. Kloppenburg, 2 E. D. Smith [N. Y.] 126. And similarly, in an analogous case, when there was no statutory provision for apportionment of taxes between the tenant by dower and the reversioner, an equitable apportionment has been enforced. Graham v. Dunigan, 2 Bosw. [N. Y.] 516; see, also, Linden v. Graham, 34 Barb. [N. Y.] 316. Of course, payment of taxes by a volunteer gives no right to reimbursement."—From 19 Harv. L. Rev. 337.

82. Money paid to a mortgagee to be applied on the final decree of foreclosure. Brady v. Franklin Sav. Inst. [N. J. Law] 62 A. 277. And the fact that plaintiff applied to a court of chancery for his share of the excess proceeds of a subsequent sale does not estop him from such recovery. Id. One paying money to another in consideration of an agreement to secure him a liquor license may recover the money if he fails to secure the license (Richards v. Holford [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 18, 94 S. W. 911), though he engages in the business without the license and is unmolested (Id.). Evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that plaintiff paid money to defendant to be used to satisfy a judgment and that it was not so used. Shackleford v. Williams [Ark.] 96 S. W. 350. Evidence held to show that certain amounts paid by one partner to another as his share of the purchase price of certain property was not in fact so applied. Merino v. Munoz, 99 App. Div. 201, 90 N. Y. S. 985.

83. Where a grantor deposited with an agent of the grantee a certain sum to guaranty payment of the taxes by the grantor, he is entitled to recover upon paying the taxes, notwithstanding the grantee has sold the land subject to taxes and turned over the money for the payment of them if his grantor fails, and though his grantee refuses to refund. Cornet v. Boyle, 116 Mo. App. 430, 92 S. W. 725.

84. $4,200 deposited with defendant bank by prospective vendees to be paid to the vendor upon the execution of a deed and upon securing the division of a blanket mortgage. Held that, upon the inability of the vendor to convey, the vendees became entitled to the money. Schiffer v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 146 F. 457.

85. Tax deposits drawn upon by the sheriff. State v. Jahraus [La.] 41 So. 575.

86. Where a sheriff drawing on tax funds signs the checks with "T. C." after his name, payee is put on his guard. State v. Jahraus [La.] 41 So. 575.

87. Plaintiff delivered milk and cream to one McKerlie, who was to make butter therefrom, sell the same, and after deducting a specific amount for his labor pay the balance to plaintiff. Balance was deposited with defendant who had full knowledge. Smith v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Cal. App.] 84 P. 348.

88. Failure of the auditor to promptly notify the county attorney of the sheriff's neglect to make due returns of his collections will not estop the state recovering tax funds paid to another. State v. Jahraus [La.] 41 So. 575.

89. Clifford Banking Co. v. Donovan Com. Co., 195 Mo. 262, 94 S. W. 527.

90. Zeldeman v. Molasky, 118 Mo. App. 106, 94 S. W. 754.

91. Where the purchaser of calves notified the seller that he could not receive them on designated day of delivery and was ready and willing to receive them later, he does not forfeit the advance payment. Trauerman v. Nebraska Land & Feeding Co. [Neb.] 109 N. W. 379.

92. The other party being ready and willing to perform. Trauerman v. Nebraska Land & Feeding Co. [Neb.] 109 N. W. 379.

93. Upon a rescission of a contract to convey land by the vendee after the vendor's refusal to convey, money paid thereunder may be recovered as for money had and received. Miller v. Shelburn [N. D.] 107 N. W. 51. Plaintiff made application for insurance

Likewise, where one party to a contract rescinds,[94] the other may recover the consideration paid therefor.[95]

Money paid under an executory illegal contract, void as malum prohibitum, can be recovered,[96] especially if such statute is for the protection of plaintiff,[97] but if it be fully executed,[98] or is malum in se and the parties are in pari delicto,[99] as a rule it cannot be recovered. Where an implied contract is separate and distinct from the illegal contract which is a part of the same transaction, it will be enforced.[1] Though an action for money had and received is technically an action at law, it partakes of the nature of a bill in equity, and it is no objection that equitable principles are to be applied or that the money sought to be recovered is impressed with a trust.[2]

§ 4. Use and occupation.[3]—Since the right to recover for the use and occupation of real estate involves the relation of landlord and tenant, it is treated in that topic.[4] One continuing to occupy space for storage purposes with knowledge that the owner expects pay therefor is liable for the reasonable value of such space.[5]

§ 5. Torts which may be waived and sued as implied contracts.[6]—The tort action for the conversion of goods,[7] or the wrongful appropriation of money,[8] may and for appointment as special agent, the latter being the inducement for the former, and when the appointment came it contained substantially different terms than those orally agreed should be therein. Held that plaintiff could rescind and recover the premium paid. Urwan v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co., 125 Wis. 349, 103 N. W. 1102.

NOTE. Recovery of money paid under a contract void as within the statute of frauds: "The money paid by a vendee on a parol contract for the sale of land may be recovered back in an action of assumpsit for money had and received, when the vendor declines or is unable to perform the contract on his part. Allen v. Booker, 2 Stew. [Ala.] 21, 19 Am. Dec. 33; Hunt v. Sanders, 8 Ky. [1 A. K. Marsh.] 552; Bedinger v. Whittamore, 25 Ky. [2 J. J. Marsh.] 552. The recovery is not upon the parol contract, but for the money had and received by the vendor for which he has returned no consideration through his refusal to perform. Allen v. Booker, 2 Stew. [Ala.] 21, 19 Am. Dec. 33; Bedell v. Tracy, 65 Vt. 494, 26 A. 1031. It is well to note, in this connection, that the mere payment of the purchase money, in whole or in part, does not take the contract out of the operation of the statute of frauds and make it obligatory upon the vendor, and if the vendee cannot recover such payment when the vendor repudiates the agreement, he is remediless. Nelson v. Shelby Mfg., etc., Co., 96 Ala. 515, 11 So. 695, 38 Am. St. Rep. 116; Cooper v. Colson, 66 N. J. Eq. 328, 58 A. 337, 105 Am. St. Rep. 660. Where a vendee brings a suit for specific performance of a contract to convey land, and the vendor admits the making of an unwritten agreement and sets up the statute of frauds, the vendee, under his prayer for general relief, may be allowed to recover the amount he has paid. Wilkie v. Womble, 90 N. C. 254."—From note to Durham v. Wick [Pa.] 105 Am. St. Rep. 796.

94. Where one party to an entire contract refuses to fully perform, the other may treat his acts as a rescission (Timmerman v. Stanley, 123 Ga. 850, 51 S. E. 760), as where a teacher undertakes for a specific sum to give instructions until the pupil reaches a certain proficiency and abandons the contract (Id.).

95. Timmerman v. Stanley, 123 Ga. 850, 51 S. E. 760.

96. Premium paid on an insurance contract illegal as granting special favors to the insurant may be recovered where he rejects the written contract as not containing the term which was orally agreed should be therein. Urwan v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co., 125 Wis. 349, 103 N. W. 1102.

97. A premium paid on an insurance contract void under Rev. St. 1898, § 1955a, as granting special favors to the insurant, may be recovered. Urwan v. Northwestern Nat. Life Ins. Co., 125 Wis. 349, 103 N. W. 1102.

98. Hirer of convict labor paid under a per diem system while Laws 1889, p. 531, c. 382, § 3, provided for piece work. Mills Co. v. State, 110 App. Div. 843, 97 N. Y. S. 676.

99. Plaintiff agreed to pay $10 per month for a liquor license issued to another and for defendant's services in procuring police protection. Walthier v. Weber [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 728, 105 N. W. 772.

1. Where a debtor conveyed property to a trustee with authority to convert it into cash and to pay the creditors, he verbally agreeing to settle the indebtedness as cheaply as possible, the illegal verbal agreement is distinct from the first undertaking, and the implied contract to return a balance to debtor may be enforced. Haswell v. Blake [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 394, 90 S. W. 1125.

2. As that it is necessary to examine deceased's accounts and show the course of dealing with the vendors in the particular transaction (Merino v. Munoz, 99 App. Div. 201, 90 N. Y. S. 985), or that the money sought to be recovered is impressed with a trust (Id.).

3. See 5 C. L. 1770.

4. See Landlord and Tenant, 6 C. L. 345.

5. Head v. Pryor [Ky.] 96 S. W. 465.

be waived[9] and recovery had on an implied contract. Where the manager of a natural gas company wrongfully turns gas into the line of another company of which he is president, the latter may be held on an implied contract for the value thereof.[10] In Rhode Island an action for money had and received where based upon facts constituting a crime will not lie until a complaint has been made to a magistrate and process issued thereon.[11]

§ 6. Remedies and procedure.[12]—The action upon implied contract must be brought within the time prescribed by statute.[13]

An agent may maintain an action in his own name for the recovery of his principal's money paid by him through mistake,[14] and in an action by the principal against one receiving money from the agent with knowledge of the character of the money, the agent is not a necessary party.[15]

One suing for the return of the consideration of a contract on the theory of rescission cannot join therewith an action for damages,[16] nor can one suing for damages join a count for quantum meruit for services rendered.[17] In Virginia the implied contractual liability for conversion of goods may be pleaded as a set-off to an action on a liquidated claim.[18]

A complaint in an action for money had and received must allege all facts essential to a recovery,[19] among others, facts showing that defendant is not entitled to retain the money,[20] that he received it for plaintiff's use, etc.,[21] and, as in actions

6. See 5 C. L. 1770.

7. Tidewater Quarry Co. v. Scott [Va.] 52 S. E. 835.

8. Where one intrusted with the collection of a note and the reinvestment of the proceeds fraudulently issues a new note in the name of the company through which he is transacting private business, secured by wholly inadequate collateral, he may be charged as for money had and received. Donovan v. Purtell, 119 Ill. App. 116.

9. Notwithstanding the plaintiff used language in his pleading which would be appropriate to describe a tort, if he sues, not for damages but for money actually received by the defendant and belonging to the plaintiff and for no more, it is a waiver of the tort and an election to sue upon the implied contract. Kirchner v. Smith, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 22. Where a pledgor demanded an accounting by the pledgee not only of the proceeds derived from the use of the property but also of the sale price and sues for the sum found, he waives the tort in converting the property. Demars v. Hudon [Mont.] 82 P. 952.

10. McCullough v. Ford Natural Gas Co., 213 Pa. 110, 62 A. 521.

11. Gen. Laws 1896, c. 233, § 16. Brady v. Messler, 27 R. I. 373, 62 A. 511.

12. See 5 C. L. 1770.

13. The right of contribution among cosureties is an implied contractual liability arising out of a written contract, within Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 4798, subd. 2, prescribing six years for bringing such actions. Caldwell v. Hurley, 41 Wash. 296, 83 P. 318. Where deceased promised to devise certain real estate to plaintiff in consideration of his services, which promise was within the statute of frauds but was never repudiated, the statute of limitations does not begin to run until her death, and hence, she having failed to so devise, recovery quantum meruit may be had for services rendered more than six years before bringing the suit. Goodloe v. Goodloe [Tenn.] 92 S. W. 767. Action for money had and received held barred. Jones v. Jones [Me.] 64 A. 815.

14. Purchasing agent overpaid. Parks v. Fogleman [Minn.] 105 N. W. 560. And it is not necessary to allege his agency, since he sues in his own right. Id.

15. Smith v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank [Cal. App.] 84 P. 348.

16. Cannot treat the contract as rescinded and as in force. Timmerman v. Stanley, 123 Ga. 850, 51 S. E. 760.

17. Where a complaint alleges plaintiff's employment to perform services for defendant that she refused to permit him to perform whereby he was damaged, etc., he cannot join therewith a count charging that defendant is indebted to plaintiff for services rendered and money spent of the reasonable value, etc. Weil v. Fineran [Ark.] 93 S. W. 568.

18. Under Va. Code 1904, § 3298, not objectionable as unliquidated. Tidewater Quarry Co. v. Scott [Va.] 52 S. E. 835.

19. A complaint alleging that defendant, as agent for plaintiff, sold plaintiff's note and mortgage for a certain sum for and on plaintiff's account, and though demanded has not paid the same, states a cause of action. Wagner v. Wedell [Cal. App.] 85 P. 126.

20. In an action to recover money paid to secure the release of certain stolen bonds which had been pledged for such sum, a complaint failing to allege facts showing that defendants were not bona fide holders is insufficient. Lawyer's Title Ins. & Trust Co. v. Jones, 98 N. Y. S. 871.

21. Under B. & C. Comp. §§ 64, 67, abolishing forms of pleading and providing that the complaint shall contain a concise statement of the cause, a complaint alleging that defendant received, "as agent of plaintiff, cergenerally, mere conclusions are insufficient.[22] And likewise, in an action for money paid, the complaint must allege facts showing that plaintiff is entitled to the money.[23] Several causes of action must not be set up in a single statement of facts.[24] Amendments not changing the cause of action are permissible.[25]

In an action to recover money alleged to have been paid under a mistake of fact,[26] duress,[27] or procured by false representations,[28] the plaintiff has the burden of establishing such facts as well as showing facts rendering its retention inequitable.[29] A plaintiff suing for services rendered to a member of his family has the burden of proving that he was to be compensated,[30] while if rendered to a stranger the law will presume such fact and the defendant must show that they were gratuitous.[31] And likewise, in an action to recover quantum meruit for services rendered or material furnished, plaintiff has the burden of showing the value thereof.[32] Where plaintiffs rely on a payment to their assignors to take the case from out of the statute of limitations, which payment is denied, defendant may cross-examine as to why the assignment and complaint were for the original amount.[33] In an action to establish a claim for services against a decedent's estate, evidence of his reputation for paying his debts is not admissible.[34] In an action for money retain money," etc., sufficiently states a cause of action for money received, as it will be implied from the words "as agent" that the money was for plaintiff's use, especially where objection is raised on the admission of evidence. Keene v. Eldriedge [Or.] 82 P. 803.

22. An allegation that money was involuntarily paid, being an ultimate fact, is insufficient, and hence probative facts must be pleaded. Lewis v. San Francisco [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1106. A complaint of a vendee to recover money paid under a contract to convey land after the same had been rescinded upon the refusal of the vendor to convey as per contract held to sufficiently plead the fact of rescission and not merely a conclusion. Miller v. Shelburn [N. D.] 107 N. W. 51.

23. In an action to recover money paid under a judgment subsequently reversed, an allegation of payment and of the reversal of the judgment, without allegations showing that plaintiff is entitled to the money, does not state a cause of action. Horton v. Hayden [Neb.] 104 N. W. 757.

24. A complaint alleging that plaintiff rendered labor as a miner and as a foreman and paid out money for defendant, all at his request, is not objectionable as setting up several causes of action in a single statement of facts (Nelson v. Henrichsen [Utah] 87 P. 267), nor is it demurrable for failing to state each item more specifically, defendant's remedy being a bill of particulars if he wished more definite information (Id.).

25. Where a petition alleges an overpayment in that interest was charged from the date of the notes instead of the time advancements were actually made, an amendment alleging that the payment also included interest to a date six days after the payment does not state a new cause of action. Sullivan & Co. v. Owens [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 690. In an action for material furnished and work done for the recovery of the contract price, plaintiff may amend his petition, stating no new facts constituting a new cause of action, so as to recover for material actually furnished and labor done upon quantum meruit. Limerick v. Lee [Okl.] 87 P. 859.

26. Morrison v. Morrison [Me.] 63 A. 392. Petition to recover excessive water rates held to fail to show that they were paid under a mistake of facts. American Brewing Co. v. St. Louis, 187 Mo. App. 367, 86 S. W. 129.

27. Buck v. Houghtaling, 110 App. Div. 52, 96 N. Y. S. 1034.

28. Where there is evidence of admissions of defendant of the falsity of the statements, if made, plaintiff need not directly prove such fact. Rosenblum v. Liener, 49 Misc. 559, 98 N. Y. S. 836. As where the alleged false statement was that the property rented for $1,300 when as a fact it rented for only $1,200, and there is evidence that when defendant was confronted with the fact he denied making the statement and claimed that he said that it could be rented for $1,300. It is error to dismiss because plaintiff did not prove that it was not rented for that sum. Id.

29. Morrison v. Morrison [Me.] 63 A. 392.

30, 31. McMorrow v. Dowell, 116 Mo. App. 289, 90 S. W. 728.

32. In an action to recover quantum meruit for services rendered in selecting a site for a powder magazine, the value of such services is not a matter of common knowledge so that a judgment may be sustained without evidence of value. Bradner v. Rockdale Powder Co., 115 Mo. App. 102, 91 S. W. 997. There can be no recovery quantum meruit without proof of the value of the work done or materials furnished. Flanders v. Rosoff, 111 App. Div. 1, 97 N. Y. S. 514. A judgment for services rendered cannot be sustained on the theory of quantum meruit where there is no evidence of any contract except to procure a loan, nor of the value of any services short of actual procurement. Stone v. Goodstein, 49 Misc. 482, 97 N. Y. S. 1035.

33. Lefkowitz v. Reich, 98 N. Y. S. 695.

34. Especially where there is no evidence of an established system of business between ceived, evidence that it was paid to defendant at plaintiff's request is admissible if the complaint alleges facts from which the law will imply a promise to pay.[35] The general rule as to the inadmissibility of hearsay evidence is applicable.[36] There must be no variance between the cause pleaded and proven.[37]

Instructions must not submit issues not raised by the pleadings,[38] nor exclude issues properly raised.[39] While an instruction stated in the negative is improper, it is not prejudicial where it imposes no additional burdens.[40]

Recovery quantum meruit cannot be had in an action on an express contract,[41] though such contract is void under the statute of frauds.[42] If, however, both special and common counts are pleaded, recovery may be had under the latter if proof of the contract fails.[43] The recovery must correspond to the case made.[44]

IMPLIED TRUSTS; IMPLIED WARRANTIES; IMPOUNDING; IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT; IMPROVEMENTS, see latest topical index.

INCEST.[45]

The crime[46] is purely statutory[47] and distinct from statutory rape,[48] being founded on relationship between the parties.[49] The Louisiana statute defining incest to be marriage or cohabitation by persons within the degrees of consanguinity avoiding marriage applies to such persons only as were forbidden to marry when the criminal statute was adopted,[50] and the crime is not enlarged by a civil statute extending the incapacity to marry.[51] An illegitimate person may be "stepdaughter" to accused within the terms of the statute.[52] Each of the pair is guilty of a separate crime.[53] them. Hammer v. Crawford [Mo. App.] 93 S. W. 348.

35. Specific allegation of a promise is not necessary. Keene v. Eldriedge [Or.] 82 P. 803.

36. In an action on an implied contract for services rendered decedent, a letter written by plaintiff's daughter to decedent without plaintiff's knowledge is inadmissible to show that the services are without expectation of compensation. Hammer v. Crawford [Mo. App.] 93 S. W. 348.

37. Evidence that plaintiff conveyed a farm to defendant to be sold, the proceeds to be applied to pay a debt due defendant and the balance to be paid plaintiff, is not a variance under a complaint for money received "as plaintiff's agent." Keene v. Eldriedge [Or.] 82 P. 803.

38. Where the complaint alleges that plaintiff purchased stocks for defendant at his special instance and request, the submission of the question whether the stocks were not purchased for plaintiff injected no new issue, since defendant could have shown that fact under the general denial. Donovan-McCormick v. Sparr [Mont.] 85 P. 1029.

39. In an action to establish a claim against decedent's estate, an instruction that if the jury found that plaintiff rendered services for decedent, for which he knowingly received the benefit, the jury should take such services into consideration in making up their verdict, was not erroneous as excluding an implied contract. Hammer v. Crawford [Mo. App.] 93 S. W. 348.

40. Where in an action for money spent in the purchase of stock for defendant at his request the burden is on plaintiff to show that it was purchased for defendant, an instruction that the burden is on plaintiff to show that it was not purchased for itself, while stated in the negative and not to be commended, is not prejudicial. Donovan-McCormick v. Sparr [Mont.] 85 P. 1029.

41. Services. Walker v. Dickey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 934, 98 S. W. 658. Paving of street in front of defendant's premises. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. v. Loughlin [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 554, 98 S. W. 948.

42. Ballantine v. Yung Wing, 146 F. 621.

43. Richards v. Richman [Del.] 64 A. 238.

44. Where in an action for money had and received it appeared that plaintiff's attorney was entitled to one-half of the adjustment, a judgment for the full amount is excessive. Neu v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 99 N. Y. S. 290.

45. See 5 C. L. 1774.

46. See 5 C. L. 1774, n. 80-87.

47. State v. Judd [Iowa] 109 N. W. 892; State v. Freddy [La.] 41 So. 436. The Nebraska statute is held to sufficiently define it. Crim. Code § 204. Cordson v. State [Neb.] 109 N. W. 764.

48, 49. Former acquittal of statutory rape does not bar incest. State v. Learned [Kan.] 85 P. 293.

50, 51. Not applicable to first cousins forbidden, by act No. 120, p. 188, of 1900, to marry. State v. Couvillion, 117 La. 935, 42 So. 481.

Though the contrary is sometimes implied from the words of the statutes, they are not generally such as to make consent of both parties essential.[54] The woman need not have reached puberty,[55] and, even in those states where mutual consent is essential,[56] a woman below the "age of consent" may give it.[57] Scienter is not essential in Iowa.[58] Emission is not essential to carnal knowledge.[59] The word "cohabit" in the Louisiana statute means to have intercourse.[60]

The statute declaring generally the criminality of attempts permits conviction of attempted incest under an indictment for incest.[61] Acts which if consummated would have been incest may constitute an attempt.[62]

Indictment.[63]—An accusation in the words of the statute suffices if it contains all the elements of the crime.[64] An averment of "sexual intercourse" is equivalent to adultery or fornication,[65] and "girl" may be used as equivalent to "woman."[66] In Louisiana the indictment accusing the parties of "cohabiting" need not add the statutory words "without marriage."[67] In Iowa it need not be stated that the act was feloniously done,[68] and being surplusage, proof of knowledge of the relationship is not essential.[69]

Evidence.[70]—Prior acts of undue intimacy or intercourse are admissible,[71] though they occurred outside the venue laid.[72] The medical condition of the woman may be admissible[73] when not too remote from the offense.[74] Complaints made by a child who was the nonconsenting victim are admissible[75] when not tardily made,[76] and such are not limited to the res gestae of the intercourse.[77] The question eliciting such complaints should refer to accused by name and not assume the relationship by designating accused as a relative.[78] The addressing of the other party's kin by terms of relationship may be proved as admissions on the question of relationship.[79] Corroboration of the positive testimony of a party is not neces-

52. Lipham v. State, 125 Ga. 52, 53 S. E. 817.

53. Dismissal as to one to qualify her as witness is not a bar as to the other. State v. Learned [Kan.] 85 P. 293.

54. Not essential in Utah. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433. Not usually essential except where the act is described as committed "together" or "with each other." Id., citing many cases. Not essential in Louisiana. State v. Freddy [La.] 41 So. 436, collecting cases pro and con. The word "cohabit" held to carry no implication of mutual consent. Id.

55. Dixon v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 734.

56. So in Kansas. State v. Learned [Kan.] 85 P. 293.

57. Statutes construed as merely withdrawing consent as defense in rape but not as incapacitating her to consent. State v. Learned [Kan.] 85 P. 293.

58. State v. Judd [Iowa] 109 N. W. 892.

59. Penetration completes the crime. State v. Judd [Iowa] 109 N. W. 892, reviewing the cases on this doctrine.

60. State v. Spurling, 115 La. 789, 40 So. 167; State v. Freddy [La.] 41 So. 436.

61. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433.

62. Proof of physical contact with some penetration held to show an attempt. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433.

63. See 3 C. L. 1695.

64. Cordson v. State [Neb.] 109 N. W. 764.

65. Indictment sustained. State v. Learned [Kan.] 85 P. 293. Not necessary to particularize in the words of the statute that it was "incestuous adultery." Lipham v. State, 125 Ga. 52, 53 S. E. 817.

66. Dixon v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 734.

67. State v. Spurling, 115 La. 789, 40 So. 167.

68, 69. State v. Judd [Iowa] 109 N. W. 892.

70. See 5 C. L. 1774, n. 88 et seq. Discovery of the pair in unfrequented woods at night with impressions in the soil as of a recent act of intercourse coupled with pregnancy of the woman at the time held not sufficient in view of the absence of available evidence which must either have corroborated or weakened the case. Cude v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 144, 97 S. W. 485.

71. State v. Judd [Iowa] 109 N. W. 892. So notwithstanding they prove other acts of incest barred by limitations. Adams v. State [Ark.] 92 S. W. 1123.

72. Lipham v. State, 125 Ga. 52, 53 S. E. 817.

73. Inflammation observed by physician after alleged offense. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433.

74. Five or six days not too remote. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433.

75, 76. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433.

77. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433. But when not of the res gestae, other and collateral statements made by the victim to the witness should be excluded. Id.

78. Error to ask if she complained of her "father." State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433.

79. Not secondary evidence. State v. Judd [Iowa] 109 N. W. 892.

sary in Iowa,[80] and when necessary it need only "tend" to prove the charge.[81] If the woman submits, though unwillingly, but with the same intent and purpose as the man, she is an accomplice within the rule requiring corroboration.[82] The fact that a witness was of kin to both, when elicited solely to affect credibility should be limited to that, if tending also to prove the relationship between the parties.[83]

INCOMPETENCY.

§ 1. Mental Weakness Sufficient to Constitute Incapacity (169).
§ 2. Effect of Incompetency on Contracts (170).
§ 3. Remedies and Procedure (171).

Scope of topic.—This topic treats only of incompetency to contract. Incompetency to execute a will is discussed in another article.[84]

§ 1. Mental weakness sufficient to constitute incapacity[85] must be such as to render the person incapable of understanding the nature and terms of the contract.[86]

80. State v. Perry [Iowa] 105 N. W. 507.
81. State v. Mungeon [S. D.] 108 N. W. 552. Debased family life and demeanor of accused in presence of persons while arranging for care of incestuous child held corroborative. Id.
82. Gillesple v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 68, 93 S. W. 556.
83. State v. Judd [Iowa] 109 N. W. 892.
84. See Wills, 6 C. L. 1880.
85. See 5 C. L. 1775.
86. Swartwood v. Chance [Iowa] 109 N. W. 297. Proof must establish that the party was without understanding sufficient to know the consequences of his own act. Allen's Adm'rs v. Allen's Adm'rs [Vt.] 64 A. 1110.

To avoid a contract on the ground of intoxication one must have been so completely intoxicated as to be incapable of knowing what he was doing or of understanding the consequences of his acts. Cook v. Bagnell Timber Co. [Ark.] 94 S. W. 695. As not to have been able to understand the effect of the transaction. Kuhlman v. Wieben, 129 Iowa, 188, 105 N. W. 445; Spoonheim v. Spoonheim [N. D.] 104 N. W. 845. Court inclined to view that plaintiff was not within the rule. Spoonheim v. Spoonheim [N. D.] 104 N. W. 845. Evidence insufficient to show intoxication sufficient to authorize setting aside purchase of timber. Cook v. Bagnell Timber Co. [Ark.] 94 S. W. 695. Mere inadequacy or excessiveness of consideration coupled with partial intoxication will not authorize the avoidance of a contract. Id. In order to make a valid contract the minds of the parties must meet, and if one mind is so weak, unsound, or diseased that the party is incapable of understanding the nature and quality of the act to be performed or its consequences he is incompetent to make a valid contract whether such state of his mind be the result of sickness, accident, or voluntary intoxication. Instruction too favorable to plaintiff as imposing too great a burden upon defendant. Hauber v. Leibold [Neb.] 107 N. W. 1042.

Test of capacity to execute a deed is ability to understand the nature and effect of the transaction. Chadwell v. Reed [Mo.] 95 S. W. 227. In order to overcome the legal presumption of mental capacity in a grantor, the evidence must show that he did not have sufficient understanding to clearly comprehend the nature of the business he was transacting. Teter v. Teter [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 779. Whether grantor at the time fully understood, realized, and appreciated the probable results and consequences of the transaction. Corporation of Members of Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day-Saints v. Watson [Utah] 83 P. 731.

Evidence held insufficient to show mental incapacity in a grantor. Reese v. Shutte [Iowa] 108 N. W. 525; Critchfield v. Easterday, 26 App. D. C. 89; Chadwell v. Reed [Mo.] 95 S. W. 227; Boyle v. Robinson [Wis.] 109 N. W. 623. An infirm and old grantor who suffered from strokes of paralysis. Teter v. Teter [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 779. To show that parents were incompetent to make a deed to two children to the exclusion of others. Kamin v. Kamin [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 580, 108 N. W. 1077. To establish by clear and convincing proof the mental incapacity of a wife of advanced years at the time of executing a deed, on its face duly executed and acknowledged, to her husband, in order that he might dispose of the property by will. Willis v. Baker [Ohio] 79 N. E. 466. To establish insanity or mental incapacity of landowner at time of making a mortgage and at time of foreclosure so as to justify setting aside the sale. Goerz v. Barstow [C. C. A.] 148 F. 562. To sustain finding that the transfer of a note was void within Civ. Code § 38, declaring that a person entirely without understanding is without power to contract, though sufficient to render the transfer voidable under § 39, providing that the contract of a person of unsound mind but not entirely without understanding, made before his incapacity has been judicially determined is subject to rescission. Maionchi v. Nicholini, 1 Cal. App. 690, 82 P. 1052. In suit to have a deed declared a mortgage, evidence that grantor grieved over the loss of her children and acted curiously held not to show incapacity to consummate the contract. Hamilton v. Holmes [Or.] 87 P. 154. That primary purpose of a deed was to pass all the grantor's realty to his wife raised no presumption of his incapacity. Chadwell v. Reed [Mo.] 95 S. W. 227.

Mere infirmity of mind and body,[87] or a showing that one was the subject of delusions or in other respects mentally weak, is not sufficient;[88] but while mere mental weakness is not sufficient to authorize the cancellation of a contract, it may justify equitable interference where coupled with inadequacy of consideration.[89]

§ 2. Effect of incompetency on contracts.[90]—Contracts entered into by incompetent persons are generally held voidable,[91] though there are authorities which treat them as absolutely void.[92] A deed regular on its face and properly executed and delivered by a grantor who had not been adjudged incompetent is presumed valid in ejectment until set aside for the grantor's incompetency by a decree in equity.[93] An incompetent's agreement beneficial to him may be upheld in certain cases where of such a character that a court of chancery would have approved it.[94] One who seeks to establish a contract as against a person of mental weakness standing in a confidential relation to him has the burden of showing mental capacity in such person at the time the transaction took place;[95] and the fact that a grantee had notice of his grantor's incapacity raises a presumption of fraud.[96]

Evidence held to show capacity to make a deed. Corporation of Members of Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day-Saints v. Watson [Utah] 83 P. 731; Spicer v. Holbrook [Ky.] 96 S. W. 571. Though grantor was suffering from blood poisoning. Hermann v. Zachow, 126 Wis. 441, 105 N. W. 950. Deed of all of one's property to his housekeeper. Boggianna v. Anderson [Ark.] 94 S. W. 51. To show that injured passenger was rational at time of executing release for damages. McLoughlin v. Syracuse Rapid Transit R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 196.

Evidence held sufficient to show incapacity in grantor. Sprinkle v. Wellborn, 140 N. C. 163, 52 S. E. 666; Peck v. Bartelme, 220 Ill. 199, 77 N. E. 216; Long v. Garey Inv. Co. [Iowa] 110 N. W. 26; Benson v. Raymond [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 769, 105 N. W. 870. Grantor 60 years of age who had suffered from stroke of apoplexy. Bidwell v. Piercy [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 261. In action involving validity of deeds by grantor over 80 years of age, evidence held to show that disposition of property made by the deeds was not such as grantor would have made if competent to understand nature of transaction and left to exercise his own judgment. Koger v. Koger [Ky.] 92 S. W. 961. Evidence held to justify finding that maker of a note and trust deed was insane and that payee had notice. Amos v. American Trust & Sav. Bank, 221 Ill. 100, 77 N. E. 462. Evidence held not to show that a brother was "mentally sound and fully competent" to ratify a sale of stock made to his older brother. Shevlin v. Shevlin, 96 Minn. 398, 105 N. W. 257.

87. Not sufficient to overcome legal presumption of capacity in grantor. Teter v. Teter [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 779.

88. Swartwood v. Chance [Iowa] 109 N. W. 297. An act sought to be invalidated by reason of insanity must be the direct result thereof, and the fact that one is the subject of an insane delusion does not alone render him incompetent to make a deed, unless such delusion extended to the subject out of which the conveyance grew and thus affected his business capacity. Reese v. Shutte [Iowa] 108 N. W. 525. One affected by a progressive disease such as softening of the brain may have periods of complete comprehension so as to be able to execute a deed. Critchfield v. Easterday, 26 App. D. C. 89.

89. Evidence held to sustain finding that certain deeds and a power of attorney were obtained by reason of grantor's mental incapacity and undue influence exerted by his wife. Allen's Adm'rs v. Allen's Adm'rs [Vt.] 64 A. 1110. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 5 C. L. 1541.

90. See 5 C. L. 1775.

91. A deed is voidable if at the time of its execution the grantor was so intoxicated as to be incapable of understanding the nature and effect of the transaction. Spoonheim v. Spoonheim [N. D.] 104 N. W. 845. An executed contract may be avoided on the ground of mental incapacity of a party thereto where the other party may be put in statu quo. Swartwood v. Chance [Iowa] 109 N. W. 297. This seems to be the rule whether the other party knew of the insanity or not and regardless of the fairness of the transaction. Id. In an action by an executrix for the proceeds of a life insurance policy in which defendant set up a general release executed by decedent, plaintiff could show that at the time the release was executed decedent was mentally incompetent by reason of the use of drugs and liquors. Gould v. Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 99 N. Y. S. 833. An injured passenger may disaffirm a release for damages if by reason of mental incapacity he was unable to understand its import. McLoughlin v. Syracuse Rapid Transit R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 196. The deed of a lunatic is binding upon him if not disaffirmed when the disability is removed. Spicer v. Holbrook [Ky.] 96 S. W. 571.

92. A deed executed when the grantor is mentally unbalanced, has no intelligent comprehension of the act being performed, and is incapable of transacting any business, is absolutely void. Cason v. Cason [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 89.

93. Smith v. Ryan, 101 N. Y. S. 1011.

94. Where by compromise of contest of will of incompetent's father she retained more property than she would have received had will been avoided, and it was necessary under circumstances to save to her as much as possible. Sprigg v. Sprigg's Trustee, 28 Ky. L. R. 944, 90 S. W. 985.

§ 3. Remedies and procedure.[97]—One who seeks to avoid a contract on the ground of incompetency must act within a reasonable time after removal of his disability,[98] and the transaction being fair and having occurred before office found, it is ordinarily essential that the other party be placed in statu quo.[99] Sales made by a spendthrift who is under guardianship may be set aside.[1] In so doing it is not necessary to tender to the grantee taxes paid by him.[2] An adjudication that one is a spendthrift may be made by a probate court in Illinois,[3] and it is not excluded from jurisdiction by provision for trying it in the county court and certifying the result.[4] The burden of proving incapacity is upon the party asserting it. One who attacks the validity of a deed on the ground of the incompetency of the grantor has the burden of proving his incapacity.[5] A witness may testify that a certain person was drunk at a certain time and that he acted drunk.[6] A studied declaration as to one's own past mental condition is not admissible.[7] The conduct and conversations of a person having been given by a witness, it is for the court to draw inferences as to his ability to converse intelligently.[8] An expert opinion which assumes the point in dispute is valueless.[9]

INDECENCY, LEWDNESS, AND OBSCENITY.

Prostitution.[10]—Under a statute making it a crime for one to connive at, consent to, or permit the placing of his wife in a house of prostitution, all of the enumerated acts may be charged conjunctively.[11] The defendant's knowledge of the

95. Where aged grantor who had suffered from apoplexy conveyed land to wife of intimate friend. Bidwell v. Piercy [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 261. Of showing that the infirm person acted intelligently and with full knowledge of the amount of her property and the effect of the contract. Assignment of mortgage as a gift by aged and infirm woman. In re Plankinton's Estate, 212 Pa. 235, 61 A. 888.

96. Evidence sufficient to sustain finding that grantee had notice. Sprinkle v. Wellborn, 140 N. C. 163, 52 S. E. 666. See Fraud and Undue Influence, 7 C. L. 1813.

97. See 5 C. L. 1776.

98. Unexplained delay of nearly seven years before seeking to set aside a deed on ground of intoxication held unreasonable, especially where land had increased in value. Spoonheim v. Spoonheim [N. D.] 104 N. W. 845. Complainant not guilty of laches in bringing suit to cancel deed executed when she was mentally unbalanced by reason of threats of her son's prosecution. Cason v. Cason [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 89.

99. Fair conveyance by one not judicially declared incapable will be set aside only on return of consideration of which grantor has had the benefit. Peck v. Bartelme, 220 Ill. 199, 77 N. E. 216. Interest was also included where grantee had never received rents. Id. Where one was not a bona fide mortgagee, refunding of money paid by him, except taxes, was not necessary. Id. If one while incompetent executes a release for injuries sustained he is bound, upon discovering that he has been victimized, to promptly rescind the agreement and offer to restore the consideration. McLoughlin v. Syracuse Rapid Transit R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 196. But where one knew that the maker of a note and trust deed was insane, and the maker had squandered the consideration, the note and deed could be canceled without return of the money to the lender. Amos v. American Trust & Sav. Bank, 221 Ill. 100, 77 N. E. 462. Evidence held not to show that defendant had paid taxes and insurance out of part of the money lent the insane person so as to be entitled to a lien for that amount. Id.

1, 2, 3, 4. Ure v. Ure, 223 Ill. 454, 79 N. E. 153.

5. Chadwell v. Reed [Mo.] 95 S. W. 227. Suit to set aside deed. Burden upon complainant. Peck v. Bartelme, 220 Ill. 199, 77 N. E. 216. Suit by son to set aside for mental incapacity deeds of deceased father made while aged, infirm, and feeble minded, granting entire estate to wife and children to exclusion of others of mature age. Teter v. Teter [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 779. Action by guardian to set aside deed executed by ward. Reese v. Shutte [Iowa] 108 N. W. 525. Where incompetency of grantee at time of conveyance was not clearly established and price was not materially excessive, grantee's guardian appointed two weeks after sale held not entitled to set it aside, no fraud being charged. Fehr v. Edwards, 129 Iowa, 61, 105 N. W. 349.

6. Error to exclude as opinion evidence. Kuhlman v. Wieben, 129 Iowa, 188, 105 N. W. 445. See, also, Evidence, 7 C. L. 1511.

7. In suit to set aside deed, answer of grantor in another suit not admissible. Ames v. Ames [Neb.] 106 N. W. 584.

8. Ames v. Ames [Neb.] 106 N. W. 584.

9. Where facts assumed insanity. Ames v. Ames [Neb.] 106 N. W. 584.

10. See 5 C. L. 1776.

11. See Laws 1903, p. 280, c. 128, § 1. State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629, 82 P. 873.

character of the house need not be expressly alleged,[12] nor is it necessary to expressly instruct the jury that such knowledge is an essential element of the offense.[13] Evidence of general reputation is admissible to prove that the house was a house of prostitution.[14] Protests against the wife's remaining in the house do not constitute a defense unless they were made in good faith.[15] Under a statute making it crime for the keeper of a house of prostitution or assignation to allow any unmarried female under a certain age to live in such house, the questions of the virtue of the female[16] and the knowledge of her age on the part of the keeper of the house[17] are both immaterial.

Obscene words or publications.[18]—A boarding house is not per se a public place within a statute relating to the use of obscene, vulgar, or indecent language in a public place.[19] The offense of uttering and that of exposing indecent matter to view may be charged in separate counts,[20] but it is not esssential to the validity of the indictment that they should be so charged,[21] and when they are so charged proof of either offense will sustain a general verdict of guilty.[22] The indictment need not contain a copy of the alleged indecent matter.[23] In Georgia it is an offense to use profane, vulgar, or obscene language in the presence of a female without provocation or excuse.[24] An indictment under this statute need not allege that the language was used of or to another.[25] That the party in whose presence the language was used was a female may sufficiently appear by inference.[26] The character of the female is immaterial.[27]

Lascivious conduct.[28]—Under a statute relating to indecent exposure of the person in a public place, the place of exposure is a public one if it be such that the exposure is likely to be seen by a number of casual observers.[29] Under the California statute relating to lewd and lascivious acts which tend to arouse the sexual desires of any child under a certain age, the sex of the child is immaterial[30] and need not be alleged.[31] Where defendant under indictment for taking indecent liberties with a child was allowed to testify that the presence of the child in his room was required by his sickness, it was not error to exclude evidence of the cause of his sickness.[32] Under a constitutional provision requiring the subject of a legislative act to be expressed in its title, an act making lascivious conduct a felony but which does not indicate the degree of the offense in its title is unconstitu-

12. Charge that defendant did "connive at, consent to, and permit" the placing of his wife in a house of prostitution sufficiently charged, by inference, defendant's knowledge of the character of the house. State v. Barker [Wash.] 86 P. 387.

13. In prosecution under Laws 1903, p. 280, c. 123, § 1, relating to the placing or leaving of a wife in a house of prostitution, an instruction held sufficiently explicit on question of necessity of defendant's knowledge of the character of the house. State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629, 82 P. 873.

14, 15. State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629, 82 P. 873.

16, 17. Maguire v. People, 219 Ill. 16, 76 N. E. 67.

18. See 5 C. L. 1777.

19. Huffman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 547, 92 S. W. 419.

20. State v. Hill [N. J. Law] 62 A. 936.

21. The two offenses under Acts 1898, p. 808, § 53, may be charged in a single count. State v. Hill [N. J. Law] 62 A. 936.

22. Evidence held sufficient to support charge of exposing pictures to view of another but not a charge of uttering. State v. Hill [N. J. Law] 62 A. 936.

23. A description of the matter is sufficient to sustain an indictment for the offense described in Rev. St. 1892, § 7027. State v. Zurhorst [Ohio] 79 N. E. 238.

24. Pen. Code 1895, § 396. Finch v. State, 124 Ga. 657, 52 S. E. 890. Evidence held sufficient to sustain conviction. Id.

25. Kelly v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 482.

26. Fact inferred from reference of witnesses to the party as "Mrs.," "she," and "her." Kelly v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 482.

27. Kelly v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 482.

28. See 5 C. L. 1777.

29. Store with glass windows and doors held a public place as a matter of law. State v. Goldstein, 72 N. J. Law, 336, 62 A. 1006.

30, 31. People v. Zuell [Cal. App.] 82 P. 1128.

32. People v. Harris [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 139, 107 N. W. 715.

tional.[33] Clerical misprisions in the statute are not necessarily fatal to its validity.[34]

INDEMNITY.

§ 1. Definition and Distinctions (173).
§ 2. The Contract (173).
§ 3. Interpretation and Effect of Contract (173).
§ 4. Actions on Contract (175).
§ 5. Defenses (175).
§ 6. Measure of Recovery (176).

§ 1. Definition and distinctions.[35]—An indemnity contract is an agreement by one person to indemnify and save another harmless from loss or damage in connection with some transaction or from the claims of third persons.[36] A bond given to a mortgagee and conditioned that the mortgagor shall complete improvements on the mortgaged premises is not a guaranty of the mortgage debt,[37] and a surety on such bond is not entitled to the benefit of the mortgage.[38] Forthcoming and other bonds,[39] and the equitable right of indemnity as between co-obligors,[40] are discussed in their appropriate titles. Indemnity against a class of casualties or for protection of specific property is usually called insurance.[41]

§ 2. The contract. Requisites and validity.[42]—The agreement must be supported by a sufficient consideration[43] but need not be in writing.[44]

§ 3. Interpretation and effect of contract.[45]—The contract should receive a reasonable construction according to the intention of the parties.[46] A fidelity bond

33. Laws 1905, p. 188, relating to the taking of indecent liberties with children, held unconstitutional under Const. 1870, art. 4, § 13. Milne v. People, 224 Ill. 125, 79 N. E. 631.

34. Pen. Code § 288, providing against lewd or lascivious acts other than those constituting other crimes provided for in "part II" of the Code, is not unintelligible merely because of a clerical error in inserting the characters "II" for the character "I" in such section. People v. Bradford, 1 Cal. App. 41, 81 P. 712.

35. See 5 C. L. 1777.

36. See 16 Am. & Eng. Enc. L. [2d Ed.] 168. For distinction between indemnity and guaranty, see 5 C. L. 1777.

37. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Progressive Permanent Bldg. Loan & Sav. Ass'n, 101 Md. 323, 61 A. 199.

38. The fact that after failure of the mortgagor to complete the buildings the mortgagee accepted payments on the debt and released certain lots from the operation of the mortgage did not discharge the surety. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Progressive Permanent Bldg. Loan & Sav. Ass'n, 101 Md. 323, 61 A. 199. Surety on bond conditioned on completion of certain buildings by a mortgagor held liable, on default of principal, for any loss sustained by mortgagee because buildings were not completed within the time limited. Id.

39. See Attachments, 7 C. L. 300; Bonds, 7 C. L. 443; Executions, 7 C. L. 1614; Injunction, 6 C. L. 6; Replevin, 6 C. L. 1301, and the like.

40. See Contribution, 7 C. L. 844; Suretyship, 6 C. L. 1590; Torts, 6 C. L. 1700.

41. See Insurance, 6 C. L. 69; Fraternal Mutual Benefit Associations, 7 C. L. 1777.

Laws regulating casualty and indemnity companies are discussed in the title Insurance, 6 C. L. 69.

42. See 5 C. L. 1777.

43. Agreement by a contractor to pay a property owner all loss from injury to underground pipes dus to the construction of a sewer held supported by sufficient consideration where it imposed upon the contractor a greater liability than that imposed by his contract with the city. Hoffman v. St. Louis Refrigerator & Cold Storage Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 619. An insured, after a loss, gave a bond to indemnify the insurer against claims made or to be made against former. Later the insurer was garnished and thereafter the insured received ths amount of the loss. Held the bond was supported by a sufficient consideration and insurer could recover thereon the judgment in garnishment. Western Assur. Co. v. Walden, 117 Mo. App. 438, 94 S. W. 725.

44. Attachment plaintiff promising to save officer harmless from liability for damages to property in custody of plaintiff's servant held "the principal debtor," within Civ. Code § 2794, subd. 21, and promise was not void because not written. Burr v. Cross [Cal. App.] 86 P. 824.

45. See 5 C. L. 1778.

46. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Woodson County Com'rs [C. C. A.] 145 F. 144.

Contracts construed: Bond held to show that the parties intended that the obligors should bind themselves to indemnify a county against defalcations of a bank which had been designated as a depository of county funds, whether it was a private or a corporate institution, despite certain recitals therein to the contrary. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Woodson County Com'rs [C. C. A.] 145 F. 144. Where indemnity bond provided that it should not lapse at ths end of the term if rsnewed, but that the liability of the surety should not be cumulative, the total liability for both the original and being in legal effect analogous to a policy of insurance[47] should be construed in favor of the indemnitee,[48] and declarations or statements by the insured should be regarded as representations and not warranties, unless the contract makes them so.[49] So also, unless otherwise expressly provided, warranties will be deemed to refer to material matters calculated to affect the risk and not to unimportant ones.[50] A warranty that the books of a cashier will be examined monthly does not require an examination at any fixed date in each month,[51] nor an examination by expert accountants.[52] A provision requiring immediate notice to the indemnitor of any fraudulent act on the part of an employe does not require the employer to report mere suspicions,[53] but after suspicion is aroused reasonable diligence must be used in inquiring as to the facts.[54] Unless the lapse of time is so long as clearly to show noncompliance with the contract the question of timely notice is for the jury.[55] Where by agreement the contract is continued in force to a certain date, there is no ground for a contention that it should continue for a reasonable time only.[56] A contract of absolute indemnity against loss on a purchase of stock passes to the estate of the indemnitee, though it contains no words of succession.[57] A continuing bond being given by a state officer, he is liable for the premium thereon until release is obtained by the furnishing of another bond or by returning the property in his possession to the state, or turning it over to his successor in office after he has been duly qualified.[58] One who gives a bond to indemnify a sheriff in making an unlawful seizure renewal periods was limited to the amount specified in the bond. American Bonding Co. v. Morrow [Ark.] 96 S. W. 613. A bond was conditioned on the repayment to plaintiff of all of its deposits in a bank and contained no provisions limiting the amount of the deposits to the amount of the penalty of the bond. Held the bond secured plaintiff for any unpaid balance to the extent of the penalty of the bond in case of insolvency of the bank. Buffalo German Ins. Co. v. Title Guaranty & Trust Co., 99 N. Y. S. 883. A bond being conditioned that an insurance agent should deliver property belonging to the company to such person as the company or its representatives should direct, the agent's failure to deliver the property to the company's receiver constituted a breach. Urquhart v. Saner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 20, 94 S. W. 902. Where a contractor assigned to his surety such plant as he might have in case he should be unable to complete his contract, the surety's right to the property depended upon the facts existing at the time when the right was given and not when possession was taken, as against the contractor's trustee in bankruptcy. Wood v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 143 F. 424. The word "plant" held to include lumber and other building material, together with horses, carts, etc. Id. The liability of sureties on the bonds of public officers must be determined from the terms of the bond, which cannot be extended beyond their reasonable meaning, construed with reference to the purpose for which the bond was required. Bond conditioned that a constable should faithfully perform his duties did not render sureties liable because the constable unlawfully collected from the county excessive fees. Jennings v. Bobe [Fla.] 40 So. 194.

47. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Burke [Colo.] 85 P. 692.

48. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Burke [Colo.] 85 P. 692. Bond to be construed most strongly against insurer. American Bonding Co. v. Morrow [Ark.] 96 S. W. 613.

49. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Burke [Colo.] 85 P. 692; Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Guthrie Nat. Bank [Okl.] 87 P. 300. Ky. St. 1903, § 639, providing that all statements in any application or policy of insurance shall be deemed representations and not warranties and shall not prevent recovery unless material or fraudulent, applies to fidelity contracts. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Western Bank [Ky.] 94 S. W. 3.

50. Where employer warranted that employe was not engaged in any other business, the fact that he wrote a little fire insurance and was secretary of a local board did not amount to a breach. American Bonding Co. v. Morrow [Ark.] 96 S. W. 613.

51. Monthly examinations sufficient. American Bonding Co. v. Morrow [Ark.] 96 S. W. 613.

52. Examination by auditing committee as warranted, sufficient. American Bonding Co. v. Morrow [Ark.] 96 S. W. 613.

53. Even though strong enough to justify in his opinion a discharge of employe. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Western Bank [Ky.] 94 S. W. 3. Not necessary to give notice of each item or false entry appearing during the examination of a defaulting employe's account. Id.

54. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Western Bank [Ky.] 94 S. W. 3.

55. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Western Bank [Ky.] 94 S. W. 3. Where a fraudulent item was discovered April 7, but no notice given till April 20, there could be no recovery as to that item. Id.

56, 57. Plummer v. Emery, 191 Mass. 183, 77 N. E. 690.

58. Notice to bonding company that he no longer required bond, notwithstanding and sale of personal property thereby renders himself jointly and severally liable with the sheriff for conversion.[59]

§ 4. Actions on contract.[60]—There can be no recovery unless a loss is sustained[61] by the indemnitee,[62] nor if plaintiff himself contributes to a loss.[63] One against whose claim an indemnity agreement is made cannot enforce the contract as against a person not a party thereto.[64] The right of a defendant to call another in warranty does not depend upon any privity between the warrantor and plaintiff in the main action,[65] but as a basis for the exercise of such right there must be a contract of warranty between such defendant and the person so called.[66] As in other cases the pleadings must be reasonably definite and certain.[67] Where one is responsible over to another and is notified of the pendency of a suit involving the subject-matter of the indemnity, the judgment rendered in such suit is admissible in evidence against him in an action on the contract of indemnity,[68] and his liability is conclusively fixed thereby.[69]

§ 5. Defenses.[70]—A material misrepresentation avoids the contract.[71] An employer on making application for a fidelity bond must not only state what he honestly believes but before answering questions must use reasonable care to acquaint himself with the facts,[72] but if representations are made in good faith the fact that

Officer of Ohio National Guard. American Bonding Co. v. Bryant, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 399.

59. At suit of mortgagee in possession. Sloan v. National Surety Co., 111 App. Div. 94, 97 N. Y. S. 561.

60. See 5 C. L. 1779.

61. Not where it was agreed that loss should be deemed to have been sustained if certain money was not recovered within one year, and the money was recovered after the year had expired. Robinson v. Pierce [Colo.] 83 P. 624. Loss is not established within an agreement to reimburse a vendee if he lost the land, by evidence that a company informed the vendee that the land belonged to it, and that he was advised by an attorney that the company owned it, and that the company executed a deed purporting to convey the land to him. Funk v. Church [Iowa] 109 N. W. 286.

62. A bond to indemnify an assignee in insolvency on account of the assignment and reassignment of the property was assigned by him to his surety in consideration of advancements to be made by the surety to the principal as assignee. Held the surety could not recover on the bond advancements made by him after the assignment on account of expenses and disbursements by the assignee. Dunham & Co. v. McCann, 110 App. Div. 157, 97 N. Y. S. 212.

63. Release of security. Robinson v. Pierce [Colo.] 83 P. 624.

64. Where on a sale of real estate a third person agrees to indemnify the vendor against any claim of a broker for commissions, the broker cannot enforce the contract of indemnity against the vendee. Kayser v. Silverberg, 98 N. Y. S. 222.

65. Muntz v. Algiers & G. R. Co., 114 La. 437, 38 So. 410.

66. Muntz v. Algiers & G. R. Co., 114 La. 437, 38 So. 410. A stipulation pour autrui when accepted may establish the contract required. Id. Railroad sued for negligence could call sublessee who had undertaken to defend, though railroad was not a direct party to the contract. Id.

67. In an action on a treasurer's bond for his failure to turn over certain interest on a deposit, affidavit of defense that it was agreed that the treasurer should keep the interest as compensation for his services, and that in part the interest was derived from money belonging to the treasurer held insufficient. Harp Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Sheehan, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 382. Declaration in action on sheriff's indemnity bond in attachment held sufficient after verdict to support judgment for plaintiff as against objection that it failed to show title to the property in the person who recovered judgment against the sheriff. Meyer v. Purcell, 214 Ill. 62, 73 N. E. 392.

68. Meyer v. Purcell, 214 Ill. 62, 73 N. E. 392. Evidence held to show notice. Id. In an action on a contract conditioned that a contractor shall save plaintiff harmless from claims on account of work done or not done by him, the records of judgment against plaintiff in actions on such claims are relevant. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co. v. West End Trust & Safe Deposit Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 41.

69. Especially where he participates in the defense. Meyer v. Purcell, 214 Ill. 62, 73 N. E. 392. In an action on a contractor's agreement to indemnify the owner against claims on account of the work, judgments against plaintiff in actions on such claims are conclusive on defendant so far as based on work done or omitted to be done by the contractor (Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co. v. West End Trust & Safe Deposit Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 41), and the extent to which they are so based may be shown by extrinsic evidence as to whether the contractor was in sole charge of the work at the time the injuries sued for occurred (Id.).

70. See 5 C. L. 1781.

71. And when made in response to a specific inquiry and relied upon the question of good faith is immaterial. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Burke [Colo.] 85 P. 692.

they are not literally correct will not vitiate;[73] and the fact that a city pays the premium on the bond of its treasurer pursuant to a resolution of its council, as authorized by statute, does not render the bond invalid as against the surety company on account of false statements made by the treasurer in his application for the bond.[74] An employer who obtains the services of an examiner to determine the state of his employe's accounts prior to making application for a fidelity bond is chargeable only with ordinary care in selecting the examiner,[75] and if such care is exercised is not affected by the examiner's negligence.[76] An employer's statement may be made the basis of a fidelity bond by agreement of the parties, though made after execution and delivery of the bond.[77] The fact that an indemnitee has made himself responsible to third persons is not a defense where such responsibility is covered by the contract of indemnity.[78]

§ 6. Measure of recovery.[79]—The indemnitee having been cast in judgment, counsel fees in supplementary proceedings are ordinarily not recoverable.[80]

INDEPENDENT CONTRACTORS.[81]

Generally speaking, an independent contractor is one who exercises an independent occupation, being responsible to his employer only as to the results of his work and not as to manner and means of accomplishing it.[82] While the contractor False answers to inquiries as to the correctness of an employe's accounts, etc., held to avoid fidelity bond. Id.

72. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Western Bank [Ky.] 94 S. W. 3.

73. Where employe had not kept his accounts correctly and did not have on hand securities with which to settle, as represented by employer's answer in his application. Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Guthrie Nat. Bank [Okl.] 87 P. 300. Where it was agreed that any material misstatement or suppression of fact by the employer or the fact that the employe within the knowledge of the employer had defaulted during his term of service should avoid the contract, the term "misrepresentation" referred to statements known to be untrue, or stated as true without knowledge, or made under circumstances calling for knowledge. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Western Bank [Ky.] 94 S. W. 3.

74. Resolution to "furnish" the bond held in effect a resolution merely to pay the premium, so that all the city did was merely to accept the bond. Aetna Indemnity Co. v. Haverhill [C. C. A.] 142 F. 124.

75, 76. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Western Bank [Ky.] 94 S. W. 3.

77. Where statement contained agreement that it should be deemed the basis of the bond, answers therein contained were material to the execution of the bond. American Bonding & Trust Co. v. Burke [Colo.] 85 P. 692.

78. Where contractor caused damages to a landowner by obstructing certain ditches, that plaintiff failed to reopen them was no defense. Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co. v. West End Trust & Safe Deposit Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 41.

79. See 5 C. L. 1782.

80. Where defendant had agreed to save plaintiff harmless from partnership debts. Ogilby v. Munro, 101 N. Y. S. 753.

81. See 5 C. L. 1782.

82. Engler v. Seattle, 40 Wash. 72, 82 P. 136.

Illustrations: A stevedore who is paid per ton for unloading vessels and who hires, pays, discharges, and has control of the men engaged in the work. Sullivan v. New Bedford Gas & Edison Light Co., 190 Mass. 288, 76 N. E. 1048. One procuring timber for a mining company at a stipulated price per piece, the company retaining no supervision over the work or control of the manner of doing it, the contractor employing and paying his own men. Anderson v. Tug River Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 713.

Evidence held for the jury: Credence of the witness as to whether the owner of the house being shingled surrendered such control over the work as to constitute the party doing the work an independent contractor. Northrup v. Hayward [Minn.] 109 N. W. 241. Whether defendant who had undertaken to construct a building had given his codefendant such control over the work of erecting the walls as to constitute him an independent contractor. Decola v. Cowan, 102 Md. 551, 62 A. 1026. Whether defendants directed or controlled the person employed as to the method of doing the work and as to whether he submitted to their control and adopted their suggestions. Falender v. Blackwell [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 393.

An allegation that defendants "employed and contracted with him to do and perform the work" does not show that such person was an independent contractor. Falender v. Blackwell [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 393.

Admissibility of evidence: Evidence that the person employed to break up machinery with dynamite exploded it in the same manner as he did for other parties is inadmissible as tending to show that he was an independent contractor. Falender v. Blackwell [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 393. As bearing upon the issue as to whether one doing street repair work was a servant of defendant or an independent contractor, evidence that the must be free to choose the means of obtaining the desired results, the mere fact that he is required to conform to plans and specifications,[83] or submit to the supervision of an architect or engineer who has power to discharge incompetent workmen,[84] does not render him any the less an independent contractor. While it is the province of the jury to determine the facts, the facts being undisputed the question whether the contractor is engaged in an independent employment is for the court.[85]

The doctrine of respondeat superior is inapplicable to the relation, and generally speaking the employer is not liable to third persons for negligent acts of the contractor or his servants.[86] There are, however, some important exceptions to this rule, thus the employer is liable where the work to be done is a nuisance or is intrinsically dangerous,[87] or where the injury is the direct result of the acts called for and made necessary by the contract,[88] and not from acts merely collateral to the contract.[89] Likewise, positive duties owed to a third person or to the public cannot be delegated, and the employer is liable for a failure to discharge the same though the negligence of the contractor causes the damage.[90] An employer accepting work with knowledge that converted material has been used therein is liable.[91] To relieve the employer from liability, however, the work must be let to the contractor in good faith and not for the purpose of escaping liability,[92] nor is the employer relieved where in fact he undertakes to do the work.[93] permit was obtained by one stated to be defendant's manager is admissible. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Evidence that the employer told the witness on the morning of the accident that he would be away during the day is not admissible as a part of the res gestae as bearing upon the issue whether the party doing the work was an independent contractor. Falender v. Blackwell [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 393. Inadmissible as self-serving. Id. As to distinctions between agents and independent contractors, see Clark & S. on Agency, 13.

83. One erecting a building according to his own methods, hiring and discharging his employes, and subject to the control of the employer except as to the finished result, is an independent contractor though he is required to conform to the plans, specifications, and supervision of the architect, Scharff v. Southern Ill. Const. Co., 115 Mo. App. 157, 92 S. W. 126.

84. Engler v. Seattle, 40 Wash. 72, 82 P. 136.

85. Anderson v. Tug River Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 713.

86. An independent contractor cutting wood for props above a mining camp negligently permitted a log to roll down into the camp, injuring one of the miners. Anderson v. Tug River Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 713. Contractors negligently left the chimney of the house which they were moving standing without guards. Wilmot v. McPadden, 78 Conn. 276, 61 A. 1069.

87. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Heavy blasting near a public street according to the terms of the contract. Falender v. Blackwell [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 393. Evidence of the destructive effect of the blasting is admissible as tending to show the intrinsically hazardous nature of the work. Id. Injury to a pedestrian while a heavy sign was being lowered from its position over the street. Loth v. Columbia Theatre Co., 197 Mo. 328, 94 S. W. 847.

88. An abutting owner letting construction work to an independent contractor, which necessitated heavy teaming over the sidewalk, is liable for defects created in such walk. Mullins v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 183 N. Y. 129, 75 N. E. 1112.

89. Injury due to the negligent manner of constructing the temporary walk and not as the direct result of the work called for in the contract. Massey v. Oates, 143 Ala. 248, 39 So. 142.

90. A general employer charged with the duty of keeping a sidewalk in a reasonably safe condition while temporarily occupying it for a private purpose is liable to a pedestrian injured by the falling of a shed temporarily erected over the street by an independent contractor. Lubelsky v. Silverman, 49 Misc. 133, 96 N. Y. S. 1056. A landlord remodeling a leased building through an independent contractor is liable to the tenant for damage to his goods through the negligence of the contractor, though the liability grows out of the contractual relation and is not an ordinary tort liability. Bancroft v. Godwin, 41 Wash. 253, 83 P. 189. Duty of a street railway to keep that portion of the street occupied by its tracks in a reasonably safe condition cannot be escaped by doing repair work through an independent contractor. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. A municipality by granting a permit to an abutting property owner to put in a new sidewalk, reserving control of the work through its engineer, does not impose any duty upon the abutter which cannot be dele-

While a municipality is not liable for the negligent acts of an independent contractor improving its streets,[94] it is not relieved of the duty of keeping the streets in a reasonably safe condition and may become liable for its own negligence though the defect was created by an independent contractor.[95]

An independent or subcontractor is liable to third persons for damages resulting from his negligence,[96] providing it occurs before the work is completed and accepted by the general employer.[97] A principal or original contractor is not liable for the negligence of a subcontractor.[98] The general employer must exercise reasonable care to avoid injuring the servants of the contractor,[99] and since they are not trespassers,[1] nor even mere licensees,[2] he must see that the premises where the work is to be done are in a reasonably safe condition,[3] though his liability is limited to the original condition and does not extend to defects produced by the contractor or his servants.[4] The servants of the employer and those of the contractor, though working together, are not fellow-servants,[5] and hence the employer is liable for negligent acts of his servants resulting in injury to the latter.[6] gated. Massey v. Oates, 143 Ala. 248, 39 So. 142.

91. Nature of the contract and evidence in the case held to raise a presumption that appellant railroad company had knowledge of respondent's claim for conversion of ties which was not met. Jones v. Minnesota & M. R. Co. [Minn.] 106 N. W. 1048.

92. A corporation undertaking construction work cannot escape liability by creating an irresponsible corporation under the control of its members and contracting with it for the performance of the work. Holbrook, C. & R. Corp. v. Perkins [C. C. A.] 147 F. 166. The separate corporate entity is not conclusive but the identity of its members may be investigated. Id.

93. Although defendant sublet the construction work to an independent contractor, who was to furnish the materials, etc., if as a fact the contract was not complied with but defendant purchased the materials and caused it to be delivered, it is liable for injuries occurring during delivery. Holbrook, C. & R. Corp. v. Perkins [C. C. A.] 147 F. 166.

94. Contractor employed by a property owner to lay a sewer negligently permitted the ditch to remain unguarded. Levenite v. Lancaster [Pa.] 64 A. 782. Unless it was negligent in not discovering and remedying the defect. Massey v. Oates, 143 Ala. 248, 39 So. 142. And hence, when it grants a permit to an abutting owner to make the repair, it imposes no special duty to keep the sidewalk in a safe condition which cannot be delegated to an independent contractor. Id.

95. Municipality not relieved from liability for injuries resulting from a defective sidewalk of which it has constructive knowledge. Goff v. Philadelphia, 214 Pa. 172, 63 A. 431.

96. A subcontractor engaged in constructing a public improvement is liable for a trespass to property and for negligence. Subcontractor in excavating for Rapid Transit Subway in New York negligently blasted near and broke a water main from which the water flowed over plaintiff's premises. Held subcontractor liable. Wheeler v. Norton, 92 App. Div. 368, 86 N. Y. S. 1095.

97. Independent contractor loading a vessel negligently fastened the hatches which resulted in injury to a third person after the work was accepted. Held not liable. Young v. Smith & Kelly Co., 124 Ga. 475, 52 S. E. 765.

98. Tenant's goods damaged during the remodeling of the building. Bancroft v. Godwin, 41 Wash. 253, 83 P. 189.

99. Servant of an independent contractor run down while working in defendant's railroad yards. Caffi v. New York, etc., R. Co., 49 Misc. 620, 96 N. Y. S. 835; Loehring v. Westlake Const. Co., 118 Mo. App. 163, 94 S. W. 747. Question whether such care had been used in the construction of a girder plate for the support of a swinging scaffold, but which was frequently used by workmen in passing from one beam to another, held for the jury. Id.

1. A servant of an independent contractor employed to repair the depot of appellant is not a trespasser in leaving the immediate vicinity of his work and going upon other premises of appellant to secure a lifting jack, though nothing in the contract authorized the independent contractor to use such jack. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Cozatt [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 534.

2. There of lawful right, and hence the employer does not discharge his duty by simply refraining from wantonly injuring him. Lookout Mountain Iron Co. v. Lea [Ala.] 39 So. 1017.

3. The proprietor of a mill in which an independent contractor is installing machinery must keep the premises in a reasonably safe condition for the servants of such contractor. Insufficient lights. Dallas Mfg. Co. v. Townes [Ala.] 41 So. 988.

4. City held not liable to one injured from not being given a safe place to work while digging sand. Engler v. Seattle, 40 Wash. 72, 82 P. 136. Labor Law, Laws 1897, p. 467, c. 415, § 18, does not impose upon one erecting a building through an independent contractor any duty to see that a scaffolding erected by the latter's servants is safe (Antes v. Watkins, 112 App. Div. 860, 98 N. Y. S. 519), and the mere fact that he warned them that the scaffolding which they were building was unsafe is not an assumption of control creating a liability (Id.).

A general employer furnishing tools and machinery owes the same duty in respect thereto as masters generally.[7] Likewise, a contractor owes to the servants of a subcontractor the duty to exercise reasonable care to avoid exposing them to danger from defects existing in the premises.[8] The right to direct and control a workman determines his master.[9]

INDIANS.

§ 1. Who Are Indians and What is Their Legal Status (179).
§ 2. Federal and State Government of Indians and Their Habitat (180).
§ 3. Tribal Government Subject to Federal Dominion (181).
§ 4. Indian Lands and Properties (182).
§ 5. Rights and Liabilities of Others in Indian Country Dealing With Indians (187).
§ 6. Crimes and Offenses by and Relating to Indians (187).
§ 7. Indian Depredations (188).

§ 1. Who are Indians and what is their legal status.[10]—Where an Indian nation has a treaty right to determine who are citizens of such nation, its decision in this regard is conclusive upon the courts,[11] and where one whose claim to such citizenship has been rejected by the nation subsequently claims citizenship therein under a subsequent act of congress, he cannot deny the power of congress to prescribe the manner in which his citizenship shall be determined.[12] So also, judgments of citizenship rendered by a commission appointed by congress and by territorial courts, though conclusive upon the parties in the absence of subsequent legislation and final when rendered, are voidable and reviewable under subsequent acts of congress enacted before the acquisition of vested rights thereunder.[13]

5. Lookout Mountain Iron Co. v. Lea [Ala.] 39 So. 1017.

6. Relation of master and servant not necessary. Working in the same mine. Lookout Mountain Iron Co. v. Lea [Ala.] 39 So. 1017. General employer held liable for negligently attempting to transfer a heavy timber by hand instead of by available appropriate machinery. Carlson v. White Star S. S. Co., 39 Wash. 394, 81 P. 838.

7. So at common law and not changed by Rev. Laws c. 106, § 76. Sullivan v. New Bedford Gas & Edison Light Co., 190 Mass. 288, 76 N. E. 1048. Not liable for assumed risks. Id. See Master and Servant, 6 C. L. 537.

8. Principal contractors in possession and control of a building owe the same duty as the owner. Steele v. Grahl-Peterson Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 882. Ordinarily the liability will be limited to the condition of the premises when the subcontractor begins and not extended to defects produced by the subcontractor or his servants. Id. Evidence held to sustain a finding of negligence. Id.

9. One working under the direction and control of an independent contractor is his servant and not that of the general employer, though hired and paid by him. Dallas Mfg. Co. v. Townes [Ala.] 41 So. 988. Hence liability for injury cannot be based upon the relation of master and servant. Id.

10. See 5 C. L. 1785.

11. Prior to the act of June 10, 1896, the right and the power to determine who were the citizens of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations was vested in those tribes. It was one of the fast disappearing attributes of the domestic dependent nationality of the Choctaws and Chickasaws, which was vested exclusively in their nations and was guaranteed to them by treaties with the United States. 7 Stat. 333, 334, art. 4; 11 Stat. 611, 613, art. 8. Wallace v. Adams [C. C. A.] 143 F. 716.

12. As the determination of this question of citizenship was a purely legislative and administrative function, and not a judicial one, congress necessarily had the authority under the constitution at any time before an allotment of land under its previous acts had been finally made to the defendant, and his right to the land had thereby become vested, to repeal its previous legislation, to change its method of determining the issue, to strike down any decision that had been made under its previous acts, to prescribe a new method of deciding the question, or to refuse to determine it altogether and leave the claim of the defendant as it found it, conclusively barred by its rejection by the nation. Wallace v. Adams [C. C. A.] 143 F. 716.

13. Such judgments might be rendered reviewable by another court at any time before allotments of land thereunder. Wallace v. Adams [C. C. A.] 143 F. 716. Since the United States courts in the territories and the supreme court in reviewing their decisions do not exercise the judicial power granted by article 3 of the Constitution, but a jurisdiction conferred upon them by the legislative department of the government by virtue of the sovereignty of the nation and the authority granted to congress by section 3, art. 4, of the Constitution, to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory belonging to the United States, the power conferred upon the Dawes Commission and the United States courts in the Indian Territory by Act June

The ruling of the land department as to whether a person is an Indian is not always conclusive,[14] but the decision of the secretary of the interior in the exercise of judicial functions as to who are members of an Indian tribe is not controllable by mandamus.[15] Presumptively a person apparently of mixed blood, residing on an Indian reservation, drawing rations, and on the rolls as an Indian, is in fact an Indian.[16] An Indian nation may adopt a person of mixed blood as a member of the nation.[17] Under general powers to deal with Indians, the secretary of the interior may require that an adoption by an Indian tribe of a person not an Indian must be approved by such secretary or by the commissioner of Indian affairs.[18] The question of citizenship in connection with the right to share in the allotments of Indian lands or the distribution of the funds of Indian nations is treated elsewhere.[19]

Indians are the wards of the nation,[20] and while under the General Allotment Act Indian allottees are emancipated from Federal control for most intents and purposes and become citizens of the several states,[21] their civil and political status does not condition the power, authority, or duty of the United States to protect them in their rights and to faithfully discharge its legal and moral obligations to them.[22]

§ 2. Federal and state government of Indians and their habitat.[23]—The United States cannot retain its police power over lands which it has allotted to Indians in severalty where the effect of such allotment is to make the allottees citizens of a state,[24] nor can such power be retained as to lands ceded by Indians to the United States but patented by it to individuals or municipal corporations.[25] Where a state exercises exclusive sovereignty over an Indian reservation, the validity of its laws in regard to such reservation are not affected by the constitution and statutes of the United States;[26] but the courts of a state have no jurisdiction of controversies over 10, 1896, c. 398, 29 Stat. 339, 340, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 430, and upon the supreme court by Act July 1, 1898, c. 545, 30 Stat. 591, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 467, to determine who were citizens of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations, was legislative and not judicial, and judgments thereunder were subject to any subsequent legislation of the United States respecting the question of citizenship, which was enacted before allotments of lands were made to successful litigants. Id. Claimants of citizenship who secured judgments in their favor, which were final under these acts when they were rendered, and took possession of and demanded suitable lands as their allotments, before their judgments were made reviewable, acquired no vested rights therein against subsequent legislation enacted before the lands were allotted to them. Id. The Act July 1, 1902, c. 1362, 32 Stat. 641, whereby a citizenship court was created and empowered to review the final judgments of the courts of the United States under Act June 10, 1896, c. 398, 29 Stat. 339, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 430, which had been affirmed by the supreme court, was constitutional and valid against successful litigants who had not procured allotments before its passage. Id.

14. Not conclusive as to who are Indians within Act March 2, 1889, c. 405, 25 Stat. 892, providing for cession of Sioux Indian lands in Dakota. Waldron v. U. S., 143 F. 413.

15. Under agreement of June 4, 1891, with the Wichita Indians, ratified by Act March 2, 1895, the secretary of the interior had authority to determine who were members of the tribe either by nativity or by adoption and as such entitled to allotments of land. United States v. Hitchcock, 26 App. D. C. 290. Denial of application for enrollment as member of tribe was equivalent to a decision that applicant was not a member of the tribe either by nativity or adoption. Id.

16. Waldron v. U. S., 143 F. 413.

17. Person of five-sixteenths blood held to be a Sioux Indian within Act March 2, 1889, c. 405, 25 Stat. 892. Waldron v. U. S., 143 F. 413.

18. United States v. Hitchcock, 26 App. D. C. 290.

19. See post § 4, Indian Lands and Properties.

20. United States v. Thurston County [C. C. A.] 143 F. 287. Tribal Indians are the wards of the nation. Peano v. Brennan [S. D.] 106 N. W. 409.

21. Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, 24 Stat. 388, 390, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 492, 496. Ex parte Dick [C. C. A.] 141 F. 5; Moore v. Nab-con-be, 72 Kan. 169, 83 P. 400.

22. United States v. Thurston County [C. C. A.] 143 F. 287. See, also, post § 2, Federal and State Government of Indians and their Habitat.

23. See 6 C. L. 1786.

24. Allotment under Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, 24 Stat. 388, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 492, deprived United States of police power under Rev. St. § 2139, as amended by Act Jan. 30, 1897, c. 109, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 382, 384, relating to introduction of intoxicating liquors

Indian lands where jurisdiction over such lands has been relinquished to the Federal government in the act admitting the state and the constitution of the state accepting such act.[27] State courts cannot interfere with the allotment or patenting of lands the title to which is still in the United States, the jurisdiction over such lands being within the exclusive cognizance of the land department.[28] A suit against the secretary of the interior or the commissioner of the general land office to restrain the allotment or patenting of Indian lands is a suit against the United States and cannot be maintained without its consent.[29] The authority of a state to tax Indian lands is treated elsewhere.[30]

In New York the right to the custody of an Onondaga Indian child as between its parents residing in the Onondaga reservation may be determined by the state courts.[31]

§ 3. Tribal government subject to Federal dominion.[32]—Congress has power to establish citizenship courts in an Indian nation.[33] A marriage between Indians according to the customs or usages of the Indians is valid[34] and will be enforced after the parties have become citizens of a state and the United States,[35] but either marriage or divorce thereafter must be according to the laws of the state in which the parties reside.[36]

State courts will not interfere with the exclusive jurisdiction conferred by statute upon Indian courts.[37] The Seneca nation is not within the administrative provisions of the constitution of the state of New York, and its internal government is controlled to a great extent by itself and by special legislative provisions,[38] and hence when such nation adopted a revised constitution providing for the creation of a surrogate's court it was acting within the recognized limits of its powers[39] and the legislature in ratifying and confirming such constitution did not transgress any into Indian lands. Ex parte Dick [C. C. A.] 141 F. 5.

25. No police power over such lands under Rev. St. § 2139, as amended by Act Jan. 30, 1897, c. 109, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 382, 384, relating to introduction of intoxicating liquors into Indian lands. Ex parte Dick [C. C. A.] 141 F. 5.

26. The state of New York exercises exclusive sovereignty and jurisdiction over the Seneca nation of Indians. Jemison v. Bell Tel. Co. [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 728. Laws 1902, p. 853, c. 296, relating to erection of telephone poles on the Tonawanda reservation of Seneca Indians, is not, therefore, in conflict with U. S. Rev. St. 2116, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 373, or Act March 3, 1901, c. 832, 31 Stat. 1058, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 515, relating to grants from Indians and construction of telephone poles on their lands. Id. Such law does not impair the obligation of contracts. Id.

27. Jurisdiction over South Dakota Indians and their lands relinquished to the United States by act admitting the state, Act Feb. 22, 1890, c. 180, 25 Stat. 676, 7 Fed. Stat. Ann. 121, and the State Const. art. 22. Peano v. Brennan [S. D.] 106 N. W. 409.

28. Swamp lands which have never been patented. State of Oregon v. Hitchcock, 202 U. S. 60, 50 Law. Ed. 935.

29. State of Oregon v. Hitchcock, 202 U. S. 60, 50 Law. Ed. 935, dist'g Minnesota v. Hitchcock, 185 U. S. 373, 46 Law. Ed. 954, on the ground that the consent of the United States was given in such case.

30. See post § 4, Indian Lands and Properties.

31. Under Laws 1896, p. 222, c. 272, § 4, authorizing the use of the writ of habeas corpus to determine the right to the custody of a child as between undivorced parents living in a state of separation. People v. Rubin, 98 N. Y. S. 787.

32. See 5 C. L. 1786.

33. Wallace v. Adams [C. C. A.] 143 F. 716. See ante § 1, Who are Indians and What is Their Legal Status.

34. Laws 1849, p. 577, c. 420, §§ 3, 4, 2 Cumming and Gilbert's General Laws, p. 1686, § 3, Laws 1892, p. 1574, c. 679, § 3. People v. Rubin, 98 N. Y. S. 787. Agreement to live together as man and wife if carried out until by mutual consent or otherwise a separation occurs is a valid marriage according to customs of Onondaga Indians. Id.

35. Common-law marriage of Indians recognized. Moore v. Nab-con-be, 72 Kan. 169, 83 P. 400.

36. Moore v. Nab-con-be, 72 Kan. 169, 83 P. 400.

37. Since Laws 1892, p. 1585, c. 679, §§ 47, 51, confer exclusive jurisdiction of disputes between individual Indians residing upon the Allegany and Cattaraugus reservations as to the title to real estate in such reservations upon the Peacemakers' court of such reservations, with an appeal to the council of the Seneca nation, whose decree shall be conclusive, the state courts have no jurisdiction to enjoin a decree of the Peacemakers' court on the ground that it has been reversed by the council of the nation. Jones v. Gordon, 99 N. Y. S. 958. A state court of equity will not interfere with a decree of the Seneca nation's surrogate's of the provisions of the state constitution with reference to the creation of surrogates' courts.[40]

§ 4. Indian lands and properties.[41]—The courts of a state will take judicial notice of treaty stipulations with regard to Indian lands within the state.[42] An act providing for the cession of the lands of an Indian nation subject to the approval and acceptance of such nation is not, for the purpose of construction, an ordinary act of congress, but, so far as the Indians are concerned, is a treaty or contract with the Indians and must be construed as such,[43] and the question whether a person is an Indian within the meaning of such act will be determined not according to the common law but according to the laws and usages of the Indians,[44] nor will the ruling of the Federal land department on such question be followed where such ruling is contrary to the usage of the Indians and to their interpretation of the act at the time of its acceptance.[45] The right to water for the purpose of irrigating lands reserved to Indians under a treaty may arise by implication from the terms and purposes of the treaty and the act ratifying the same.[46]

Where the secretary of the interior is clothed with the sole power of controlling the allotment of Indian lands and the designation of town sites thereon,[47] his ac-court established pursuant to the constitution of such nation adopted Nov. 15, 1898, and ratified by Laws 1900, p. 506, c. 252, the remedy being by appeal to the council of the nation. Jimeson v. Lehley, 101 N. Y. S. 215.

38, 39. Jimeson v. Lehley, 101 N. Y. S. 215.

40. Laws 1900, p. 506, c. 252, ratifying such constitution, is not in violation of Const. art. 3, § 16, because it does not refer in its title to surrogates' courts. Jimeson v. Lehley, 101 N. Y. S. 215.

41. See 5 C. L. 1787.

42. That such lands have been set apart as a reservation and have not been subdivided or allotted in severalty but belong to the Indians as a tribe. Peano v. Brennan [S. D.] 106 N. W. 409.

43. Act March 2, 1889, c. 405, 25 Stat. 892, providing for the cession of the lands of the Sioux nation in Dakota, now South Dakota. Waldron v. U. S., 143 F. 413. See Treaties, 6 C. L. 1720.

The agreement for the purchase of the Cherokee Outlet reopened all the previous deals with the Cherokee nation from the treaty of 1817 down. See treaty May 3, 1836, 7 Stat. 488, Act March 3, 1893, c. 209, 27 Stat. 641. United States v. Cherokee Nation, 202 U. S. 101, 50 Law. Ed. 949. The United States was liable for the amount shown by an account taken pursuant to such agreement, transmitted to the secretary of the interior, and by him transmitted to the Cherokee nation and accepted by them. Id. Under such agreement interest was properly allowed on the amount found due. Id. The fund recovered was properly directed to be paid to the secretary of the interior for distribution. Id. The only parties entitled to share in such distribution were the eastern Cherokees, that is those domiciled east of the Mississippi at the time of the making of the treaty of 1835-1836, the great body of whom moved to lands west of the Mississippi in 1838. Id. The eastern emigrant Cherokees, residing in Georgia, North Carolina, Alabama, and Tenneseee, and a portion who went west, composing the eastern band of Cherokee Indians of North Carolina, were not entitled to distribution as a band, but only per capita with the other eastern Cherokees. Id. The "old settlers," that is those Cherokees who moved to the west of the Mississippi prior to May 23, 1836, were not entitled to share in the recovery, their claims having been previously adjudicated and disposed of. Id. In view of the jurisdictional acts July 1, 1902, § 68, and March 3, 1903, conferring jurisdiction on the court of claims in the premises, and of the various treaties and acts of congress and of the Cherokee councils, the award of costs to the Cherokee nation by the court of claims was not disturbed, though under acts June 7, 1897, June 28, 1898, 30 Stat. 62, 495, chaps. 3, 517, and July 1, 1902, the Cherokee nation was practically incapable of acting as a trustee, and by the Cherokee Allotment Act, c. 1375, § 63, 32 Stat. 725, it was provided that the tribal government of the Cherokee nation should not continue longer than March 4, 1896, Act March 2, 1906, however, continuing such relation until property rights have been disposed of. Id.

44. Nationality of mother controlled nationality of child of white father and Indian mother according to usage of Sioux nation. Waldron v. U. S., 143 F. 413.

45. Person of mixed blood held entitled to an allotment of land under Act March 2, 1889, 25 Stat. 892, though such person was held by the land department not to be an Indian. Waldron v. U. S. 143 F. 413.

46. The treaty of May 1, 1888, with the Montana Indians, Act May 1, 1888, c. 213, 25 Stat. 113 et seq., having in view the improvement of the condition of the Indians and their settlement in a pastoral and agricultural condition, and one of the boundaries of the reservation allowed to them under such treaty being the middle of the channel of the Milk River, and the lands so reserved being unfit for pastoral and agricultural purposes without irrigation, it was held that the Indians had the right to the waters of such river for the purpose of irrigating their lands, and that subsequent appropriators of tions in the premises are not subject to review by the courts in the absence of a violation of the law in the exercise of such power.[48] So also, where under a treaty with Indians the secretary of the interior is charged with the duty of prescribing the rules and regulations in regard to sales of the lands of the Indians, they are entitled to the benefit of his judgment and discretion in the regulation of such sales,[49] and a regulation as to fees and compensation of officers in connection with such sales[50] is binding upon an officer accepting his position after the adoption of such regulation.[51] The United States courts in Indian Territory have jurisdiction of an action of ejectment brought by an Indian allottee against one in possession of his allotment,[52] and in a suit by Indians to determine their right to an allotment of lands alleged to have been wrongfully allotted to defendants the circuit court has power to appoint a receiver for the lands involved,[53] but such power is discretionary and will not be exercised where it does not appear that the appointment will be of any benefit.[54] The United States courts in the Indian Territory also have jurisdiction in equity to charge the legal title to land evidenced by a certificate of allotment issued by the Dawes Commission under the direction of the secretary of the interior with a trust in favor of the rightful claimant, either on account of an error of the commission in the construction of the law or its misapprehension of the facts induced through fraud or gross mistake.[55] The jurisdiction of the Dawes Commission, under the direction of the secretary of the interior, and the effect of its action in the allotment of lands of the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations, are the same as the jurisdiction and the effect of the action of the land department of the United States in the disposition by patent of the public lands within its control.[56] such waters under the Desert Land Act of March 3, 1877, c. 107, 19 Stat. 377, as amended by Act March 3, 1891, c. 561, 26 Stat. 1096, 1 Supp. Rev. St. 137, acquired their rights subject to the rights of the Indians. Winters v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 143 F. 740; Winters v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 148 F. 684.

47. Secretary of interior was clothed with such power by the Creek Agreement, approved March 1, 1901, 31 Stat. c. 676. Capital Townsite Co. v. Fox [Ind. T.] 90 S. W. 614.

48. Capital Townsite Co. v. Fox [Ind. T.] 90 S. W. 614. Where the secretary of the interior is authorized to determine to whom allotments shall be made and what lands are subject to allotment, his actions in the premises are not controllable by mandamus. Such authority was given by agreement of June 4, 1891, with the Wichita Indians ratified by Act March 2, 1895. United States v. Hitchcock, 26 App. D. C. 290.

49. Under Osage Indian Treaty of Sept. 29, 1865. Stewart's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 321.

50. The court of claims has jurisdiction of a claim by a receiver or register of the United States land office in Kansas for services in connection with sales of lands of the Osage Indians, ceded, held in trust, or reserved under the treaty of Sept. 29, 1865, with such Indians. Act March 3, 1903, 32 Stat. pt. 1, p. 1010. Stewart's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 321.

51. Stewart's Case, 39 Ct. Cl. 321.

52. Under Act June 7, 1897, c. 3, 30 Stat. 83, 7 Fed. Stat. Ann. 243, and Act June 28, 1898, c. 517, § 3, 30 Stat. 496, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 439. Wallace v. Adams [C. C. A.] 143 F. 716. Mansfield's Dig. Ark. § 4476, Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, § 2943, providing that no action for the recovery of real property, when the plaintiff does not claim title to the land, shall be maintained when the plaintiff or his testator or intestate has been five years out of possession, held applicable in an action of ejectment between two members of an Indian nation for the recovery of land the title to which was in such nation. Gooding v. Watkins [C. C. A.] 142 F. 112.

53. Under Act Aug. 15, 1894, c. 290, 28 Stat. 286-305, as amended by Act Feb. 6, 1901, c. 217, 31 Stat. 760, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 503. Smith v. U. S., 142 F. 225.

54. Application for receiver refused when it appeared that secretary of interior had forbidden the leasing of the land until the termination of the controversy. Smith v. U. S., 142 F. 225.

55. Wallace v. Adams [C. C. A.] 143 F. 716.

56. Note: "The Commission under the direction of the Secretary constitutes a special tribunal vested with the judicial power to hear and determine the claims of all parties to allotments of these lands and to execute its judgments by the issue of the allotment certificates which constitute conveyances of the right to the lands to the parties who it decides are entitled to the property. This tribunal undoubtedly has exclusive jurisdiction to determine such claims and to issue such a conveyance. The allotment certificate when issued, like a patent to land, is dual in its effect. It is an adjudication of the special tribunal, empowered to decide the question, that the party to whom it issues is entitled to the land, and it is a conveyance of the right to this title to the allottee. U. S. v. Winona & St. Peter R. Co. [C. C. A.] 67 F. 948, 955. Like a patent it is impervious to collateral attack. But, as in the case of a patent, if the Commission or the Secretary has been induced to issue the allotment certificate

Nature of title.[57]—A title in fee simple may pass to Indians by treaty without the aid of a patent or an act of congress.[58] As a general rule, however, Indians hold only a qualified interest in lands patented to them.[59] Restrictions upon alienation in government patents are not invalid as being inconsistent with a grant in fee[60] or contrary to public policy,[61] but where an absolute fee has been granted such restrictions cannot be imposed.[62] Where lands are allotted to Indians under allotment acts containing restrictions upon alienation, the United States holds such lands in trust for the allottees,[63] notwithstanding that such allotment emancipates the allottee from Federal control for certain intents and purposes;[64] and the sale of such lands by the heirs of the allottee pursuant to authority granted by act of congress[65] does not terminate the trust so long as the United States withholds possession of the proceeds of such sale from the persons equitably entitled thereto,[66] and hence where the United States assumes to control and direct the disposition of such proceeds[67] they are not subject to state taxation[68] nor to assignment by the beneficiary contrary to the rules prescribed for their disposition.[69] So also, where lands are allotted to an Indian with restrictions upon alienation pursuant to authority given by treaty, restrictions may be imposed on the disposition of the proto the wrong party by an erroneous view of the law, or by a gross or fraudulent mistake of the facts, the rightful claimant is not remediless. He may avoid the decision and charge the legal title to the lands in the hands of the allottee, as he may that of the grant to a patentee, with his equitable right to it either on the ground that upon the facts found, conceded, or established without dispute at the hearing before the special tribunal, its officers fell into an error in the construction of the law applicable to the case which caused them to refuse to issue the certificate to him and to give it to another, or that through fraud or gross mistake it fell into a misapprehension of the facts proved before it which had a like effect. James v. Germania Iron Co. [C. C. A.] 107 F. 697, 600."—See Wallace v. Adams [C. C. A.] 143 F. 716.

57. See 5 C. L. 1787.

58. Such title held to have passed to a certain Indian by treaty of September 24, 1819, with the Chippewa nation. Francis v. Francis, 27 S. Ct. 129.

59. A member of the five civilized tribes of Indian Territory cannot convey his land to a citizen of the United States and the latter can acquire no title under such a conveyance. Capital Townsite Co. v. Fox [Ind. T.] 90 S. W. 614. An attempted conveyance to a white man will not affect the validity of a subsequent conveyance to an Indian, as where plaintiff's grantor who had previously conveyed to white man had reconveyed to such grantor prior to conveyance to plaintiff. Blocker v. McClendon [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 166.

60. Guyatt v. Kantz, 41 Wash. 115, 83 P. 9; Nelson v. John [Wash.] 86 P. 933.

61. Nelson v. John [Wash.] 86 P. 933.

62. The President had no authority as such to impose restrictions upon alienation of lands patented to Indians pursuant to the treaty of September 24, 1819, with the Chippewa nation under which an absolute fee to such lands had passed. Francis v. Francis, 27 S. Ct. 129.

63. Allotments under Act Aug. 7, 1882, c. 434, § 6, 22 Stat. 342, and Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, § 5, 24 Stat. 388, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 492. United States v. Thurston County, 140 F. 456; Id. [C. C. A.] 143 F. 287; National Bank of Commerce v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 147 F. 87.

64. The granting of citizenship under the Dawes Act (Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 496), does not affect the character of the title to lands allotted to the Indian, nor is the restriction against alienation inconsistent with citizenship. National Bank of Commerce v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 147 F. 87; United States v. Thurston County [C. C. A.] 143 F. 287, rvg. 140 F. 456; Tomkins v. Campbell [Wis.] 108 N. W. 216; Williams v. Steinmetz, 16 Okl. 104, 82 P. 986; Nelson v. John [Wash.] 86 P. 933.

65. Act May 27, 1902, c. 888, § 7, 32 Stat. 245, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 505, authorizing such sale with consent of the secretary of the interior.

66. United States v. Thurston County [C. C. A.] 143 F. 287, rvg. 140 F. 456; National Bank of Commerce v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 147 F. 87.

67. In order to carry out the purpose of Act May 27, 1902, c. 888, § 7, 32 Stat. 245, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 505, authorizing the sale with the consent of the secretary of the interior, such officer had power to condition his consent upon the placing of the proceeds in a bank designated by the commissioner of Indian affairs and to limit the power of the beneficiary to check upon such deposit. See Amended Rules of Interior Department relating to Indian Affairs, approved Oct. 4, 1902, § 1, p. 1, as amended in Sept., 1904, and March, 1905. National Bank of Commerce v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 147 F. 87; United States v. Thurston County [C. C. A.] 143 F. 287, rvg. 140 F. 466, where, however, the question of the secretary's power to promulgate such rules was left undecided.

68. United States v. Thurston County [C. C. A.] 143 F. 287, rvg. 140 F. 456.

69. National Bank of Commerce v. Anderson [C. C. A.] 147 F. 87.

ceeds of sales of timber on such lands.[70] A patent to an Indian, subject to defeasance for breach of conditions, conveys a base or qualified fee[71] which, upon removal of the restrictions or conditions, ripens into an absolute fee.[72] Acts removing the restrictions on alienation do not operate to validate a conveyance prior to the enactment of such acts.[73] The interest of an allottee with restrictions on alienation is not a chattel real but an interest in real estate[74] and descends as such.[75]

A state court will not take judicial notice of the laws and customs of an Indian tribe as to the descent of real estate,[76] and hence, in the absence of proof of such laws and customs, the rules of descent under the state laws will be applied to the lands of an Indian patentee, although the tribal relations still existed at the time of his death,[77] and in determining what rule will be followed the intents and purposes of the patent will be considered.[78] When an Indian becomes a citizen of a state his lands descend according to the laws of such state.[79]

Lands allotted to a Seneca Indian of the Tonawanda reservation are not subject to the control of the national council of the Seneca nation.[80] The title to school lands ceded by the United States to a state is subject to any prior right of occupancy by Indians which the United States has previously stipulated to recognize.[81] Where the decisions of a state court as to the title to Indian lands in such state have become a rule of property therein, they will not be disturbed by the Federal courts unless clearly erroneous.[82]

Citizenship by adoption does not necessarily carry with it any property rights or interests in the property of the nation.[83] Where a tribal fund is intended for

70. Lands allotted under provisions of treaty of Sept. 30, 1854, with the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi. Tomkins v. Campbell [Wis.] 108 N. W. 216. The fact that under Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 496, the allottee became a citizen and was emancipated from Federal control for certain intents and purposes, did not take away the power to impose such restrictions. Id.

71. Guyatt v. Kautz, 41 Wash. 115, 83 P. 9.

72. Act March 3, 1903, c. 1816, 32 Stat. 565, and Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. Supp. § 4553, removed the restrictions upon the allotments and patents issued under treaty with the Puyallup Indians. Guyatt v. Kautz, 41 Wash. 115, 83 P. 9.

73. Sess. Laws 1889-90, p. 499, and Act March 3, 1893, c. 209, 27 Stat. 633, do not have this effect. Nelson v. John [Wash.] 86 P. 933.

74. Reese v. Harlan [Neb.] 109 N. W. 762.

75. The widow of an allottee of Omaha Indian lands under Act Aug. 7, 1882, c. 434, is entitled to a life estate in the equitable interest of her husband with remainder over to the issue of the marriage, or if no issue survive her, to the father or mother of the husband. Reese v. Harlan [Neb.] 109 N. W. 762.

76, 77. Guyatt v. Kautz, 41 Wash. 115, 83 P. 9.

78. Land patented to an Indian under treaty with Puyallup Indians held, in view of the manifest purpose that the land was for the benefit of the patentee's family, to be subject to the law of descent applicable to community property. Guyatt v. Kautz, 41 Wash. 115, 83 P. 9.

79. Such was the effect of Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, 24 Stat. 388, 390, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 492, 496, as to lands held by a Puyallup Indian by descent from the original patentee, the latter dying before and the former after the enactment of such act. Guyatt v. Kautz, 41 Wash. 115, 83 P. 9.

80. Under Heydecker's Gen. Laws, p. 268, c. 5, § 56, providing that the lands of the Seneca Indians on the Tonawanda reservation, except such lands as have been allotted by the national council, shall be subject to the control of such council, and Laws 1902, p. 853, c. 296, providing that telephone companies desiring to place poles on allotted lands must agree with the allottees as to the damages or otherwise have the land condemned in the regular way, the national council had no authority to grant permission for the construction of telephone poles on allotted lands. Jemison v. Bell Tel. Co. [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 728.

81. Under the treaties of 1842, 1843, Act March 23, 1843, 7 Stat. 592, with the Chippewa Indians, their right to occupy the Bad River, La Pointe, and Flambeau reservations subsequently set aside for them under treaty of Sept. 30, 1854, Act Jan. 29, 1855, 10 Stat. 1119, was superior to the rights of the state of Wisconsin to such lands under the provisions of Act Aug. 6, 1846, authorizing the formation of such state and setting aside certain lands as school lands. State of Wisconsin v. Hitchcock, 201 U. S. 202, 50 Law. Ed. 727.

82. Decisions as to titles under treaty of September 24, 1819, with the Chippewa Indians. Francis v. Francis, 27 S. Ct. 139.

83. Such white persons residing in the Cherokee nation as became Cherokee citizens the purchase of land, the right to maintain an action for the conversion of such fund is not dependent upon the designation of any particular land to be purchased,[84] or upon any demand upon defendant to pay over the money for the purchase of any particular land.[85] Individual members of an Indian tribe who are directed by the tribe, according to the usage thereof, to act as custodians of a tribal fund may maintain an action for the conversion of such fund outside of the reservation,[86] and the fact that one of the defendants was formerly a member of the tribe and one of the custodians will not defeat the action where he has severed his tribal relation and removed from the reservation;[87] and where the conversion took place outside of the Indian reservation, the state courts have jurisdiction.[88]

Leases.[89]—A lease of an Indian allotment is valid where it is in conformity with the act authorizing it,[90] but otherwise is absolutely void.[91] A lease to an Indian of land occupied by an Indian but not allotted under the Curtis Act was good until the allotment took place.[92] The provisions of this act for allowances for improvements placed on Indian lands by an occupant thereof under an invalid agreement gave rise to an equitable claim, but in a jurisdiction where equitable defenses might be interposed in an action at law such defense when so interposed did not carry the case into equity.[93]

under the Cherokee laws by intermarriage with Cherokees by blood prior to Nov. 1, 1875, are equally interested in and have per capita rights with Cherokee Indians by blood in the lands constituting the public domain of the Cherokee nation and are entitled to be enrolled for that purpose, but such intermarried whites acquired no rights and have no interest or share in any funds belonging to the Cherokee nation, except where such funds were derived by lease or sale of or otherwise from the lands of such nation conveyed to it by the United States by the patent of Dec., 1838; and the rights and privileges of those white citizens who intermarried with Cherokee citizens subsequent to Nov. 1, 1875, on which date a law of the Cherokee national council took effect, expressly providing that citizenship by intermarriage shall confer no property rights on white persons, do not extend to the right of soil or any interest in the vested funds of the Cherokee nation, and such persons are not entitled to share in the allotment of the lands or the distribution of the funds belonging to such nation, and are not entitled to be enrolled for that purpose. Red Bird v. U. S., 27 S. Ct. 29. White persons who intermarried with Delaware or Shawnee citizens of the Cherokee nation, either prior or subsequent to Nov. 1, 1875, acquired no property interests and are not entitled to share in the allotment of the lands or distribution of the funds of the nation. Id. Nor are white persons entitled to enrollment for the purpose of allotment and distribution, who, having become citizens by intermarriage, upon becoming widows or widowers, remarried outside of the nation, though not deprived of their citizenship by procedure under the Cherokee statute in the nature of the common-law procedure of office found. Id. White men who deserted their Cherokee wives were not entitled to such enrollment. Id. White persons who married Delaware or Shawnee citizens of the Cherokee nation did not become citizens and were not entitled to share in the Cherokee allotment and distribution. Id.

84, 85, 86, 87. Ain-Dus-Oke-Shig v. Beaulieu [Minn.] 107 N. W. 820.

88. District court. Ain-Dus-Oke-Shig v. Beaulieu [Minn.] 107 N. W. 820.

89. See 5 C. L. 1789.

90. A lease for five years, providing for possession at a future date on which rents shall commence, begins on the date of the lease, and hence is not contrary to Act June 30, 1902, c. 1323, 32 Stat. 504, authorizing the Creek Indians to lease their lands for terms not exceeding five years. Blackburn v. Muskogee Land Co. [Ind. T.] 91 S. W. 31.

91. Allotment under treaty of June 4, 1891, § 4, which provided for allotments pursuant to provisions of Act Feb. 8, 1887, c. 119, § 5, 24 Stat. 389, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 492 et seq., can be leased only with the consent of the secretary of the interior. Williams v. Steinmetz, 16 Okl. 104, 82 P. 986. Act Feb. 28, 1891, c. 383, § 3, 23 Stat. 794, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 500, does not authorize the leasing of the lands embraced within the allotment unless it is made to appear to the secretary of the interior that the allottee cannot, by reason of age or other disability, personally and with benefit to himself, occupy or improve his allotment or any part thereof. Id. Granting of citizenship to the allottee by the act of 1887 does not authorize him to lease the land. Id.

92. Under the proviso to section 16 of the Curtis Act, 30 Stat. 501, c. 517, to the effect that when an Indian citizen was in possession of only such amount of land as would be his just portion he might continue to occupy same or receive rents thereon until the allotment was made to him. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Bond [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 335.

93. Under the Curtis Act, approved June 28, 1898, § 3, such a claim could be interposed as a defense in an action of forcible detainer. Sharrock v. Kreiger [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 161. See Equity, 7 C. L. 1323. Where the Actions against intruders.[94]

§ 5. Rights and liabilities of others in Indian country dealing with Indians.[95]

§ 6. Crimes and offenses by and relating to Indians.[96]—Indians committing crimes outside of a reservation are subject to the state laws the same as white men,[97] and in some instances Federal statutes make state criminal laws applicable in Indian country.[98] Carrying or introducing intoxicating liquor into Indian country is a crime under the Federal statutes,[99] and the mere possession of such liquors within such country raises a presumption of guilt,[1] which presumption, however, may be overcome by any evidence which will raise a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury.[2] Where the rule obtains that an indictment need not follow the exact language of the statute, an indictment charging the "introduction" of liquor into a certain territory is sufficient under a statute prohibiting the "carrying" of liquor into such territory.[3] A party soliciting orders for intoxicating liquors is guilty of selling or furnishing them,[4] and where the statute makes it a crime to sell or furnish liquor a sale may be charged in one count and furnishing in another, the person with whom both transactions were had being the same.[5] The Federal courts have jurisdiction to punish an Indian for arson committed within an Indian reservation, regardless of whether the owners or occupants of the building were white persons or Indians.[6] Larceny, where neither the offender nor the owner of the property is an Indian, does not come within the Federal statutes relating to crimes parties tried the case as one in equity, they could not on appeal insist that it should have been tried as an action at law. Id. But section 3 of the Curtis Act having been repealed by Act Sept. 25, 1902, c. 1362, § 67, 32 Stat. 656, without any saving clause as to pending actions, a case of forcible detainer which was tried as an equity case on account of a claim under the Curtis Act should have been retransferred to the law docket. Id.

94, 95, 96. See 5 C. L. 1789.

97. Comp. Laws § 4655. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3.

98. United States v. Buckles [Ind. T.] 97 S. W. 1022. Under Act March 1, 1895, c. 145, § 4, 28 Stat. 695, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 422, providing that the provisions of Mansfield's Digest of Arkansas shall be applicable in Indian Territory in criminal matters, where a maximum punishment is fixed by the statute defining a crime, such as selling or furnishing liquor within the Territory, the defendant has the right to have the punishment to be fixed by the jury within the limit prescribed by the act. Taylor v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 123. Act Feb. 2, 1903, c. 351, 32 Stat. 793, U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 719, giving Federal courts for South Dakota jurisdiction to punish for larceny and certain other crimes committed on Indian reservations within the state, is not invalid because it adopted the punishment then fixed by the state legislation for the same crimes, since it does not purport to give the state the right to fix the punishment under the Federal laws in the future. Hollister v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 773.

99. Act March 1, 1895, c. 145, § 8, 28 Stat. 697, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 424, making it a crime to "carry" liquor into the "Indian Territory," was not repealed by Act Jan. 30, 1897, c. 109, 29 Stat. 506, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 384, making it an offense to "introduce" liquor into the "Indian Country." United States v. Buckles [Ind. T.] 97 S. W. 1022.

1. Ellis v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 97 S. W. 1013.

2. Ellis v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 97 S. W. 1013. It was error to instruct that possession of liquor within the Indian Territory was prima facie evidence of having introduced it therein, but the court should have instructed that if the jury found beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant was in possession of whiskey within such Territory the law presumed him guilty of having introduced it, unless by a reasonable, truthful explanation he could show that he obtained it in a lawful manner Id.

3. Under Mansfield's Digest, §§ 2119, 2120, Ind. T. Ann. St. 1899, §§ 1462, 1463, an indictment charging the "introduction" of liquor into the "Indian Territory" was sufficient under Act March 1, 1895, c. 148, § 8, 28 Stat. 697, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 424, prohibiting the "carrying" of liquor into such Territory, notwithstanding the existence of Act Jan. 30, 1897, c. 109, 29 Stat. 506, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 384, prohibiting the "introduction" of liquor into "Indian country," it being manifest that the crime intended to be charged was that defined by the former statute. United States v. Buckles [Ind. T.] 97 S. W. 1022.

4. Under Act March 1, 1895, c. 145, § 8, 28 Stat. 697, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 424. Taylor v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 123.

5. Act March 1, 1895, c. 145, § 8, 28 Stat. 697, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 424, prohibiting the sale or furnishing of liquor in Indian Territory. Taylor v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 123.

6. Rev. St. § 2143, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 386, relating to arson by Indians within reservations and confining the offense to cases where the building is owned or occupied by white persons, was repealed by implication by Act March 3, 1885, c. 341, § 9, 23 Stat. 385, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 388, in so far as the ownership or occupancy of the building is concerned. United States v. Cardish, 145 F. 242.

by or against Indians,[7] but the offense is indictable in the Federal courts under other statutes covering such cases, though the reservation be within the boundaries of a state[8] or territory,[9] the assumption of jurisdiction in such cases being fairly within the power of congress as an instrumentality employed in the discharge of the national duty towards the Indians,[10] especially where such jurisdiction is assumed with the consent of the state.[11]

Presentation by an Indian agent of a false voucher to the commissioner of Indian affairs constitutes a presentation of a false claim against the United States[12] and may be prosecuted[13] in the state where the voucher was made, though it was sent by mail to the commissioner at Washington.[14]

§ 7. Indian depredations.[15]—The owner of an Indian depredation claim cannot lawfully contract to pay, out of the sum collected, for expenses and as fees for prosecuting the claim, an amount in excess of the amount allowed for such purposes by the court of claims and the Indian Depredation Act,[16] nor can the personal representative of the claimant bind his estate therefor.[17]

7. In such a case Act March 3, 1885, c. 341, § 9, 23 Stat. 385, 3 Fed. Stat. 388, has no application. Hollister v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 773; Brown v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 146 F. 975.

8. Act Feb. 2, 1903, c. 351, 32 Stat. 793, U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 719, giving Federal circuit and district courts for South Dakota jurisdiction to punish larceny and certain other crimes committed by any person within any Indian reservation in that state. Hollister v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 773.

9. Rev. St. § 2145, 23 Stat. c. 341, § 9, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 387, extending the general laws of the United States as to crimes in places within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States to the Indian country, extended the operation of Rev. St. § 5356, 4 Fed. Stat. Ann. 789, relating to larceny, to the Indian Reservations in the territory of Oklahoma, so that the district courts of Oklahoma could take cognizance of such offense while exercising the jurisdiction vested in the Federal circuit and district courts which was vested in the territorial courts by 26 Stat. c. 182, § 9, 7 Fed. Stat. Ann. 238. Brown v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 146 F. 975. Rev. St. 2145, 23 Stat. c. 341, § 9, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 387, was not rendered inapplicable to the Indian reservations in the territory of Oklahoma by 26 Stat. c. 182, §§ 1, 6, 7 Fed. Stat. Ann. 278, 282, organizing such territory and extending its legislative power to all rightful subjects of legislation not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States. Id.

10. Hollister v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 773.

11. Act Feb. 2, 1903, c. 351, 32 Stat. 793, U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1905, p. 719, was enacted pursuant to a cession of jurisdiction by the state of South Dakota by Sess. Laws 1901, p. 132, c. 106, relinquishing to the United States exclusive jurisdiction to punish all persons who might commit upon any Indian reservation within the state any offense that might be denounced by congress. Hollister v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 773. Since Act Feb. 2, 1903, ex vi termini, became inoperative so far as any particular reservation was concerned upon the extinguishment of the Indian title, and since such title is rapidly being extinguished, the cession of jurisdiction by the state may be considered as a mere temporary expedient which was fairly within the general legislative power of the state. Id. Tested by the method prescribed by South Dakota Const., articles 22, 26, as construed by Rev. Code 1903, Pol. Code, p. 3, for securing the consent of the people of the state in kindred matters, the act of the legislature ceding criminal jurisdiction over Indian reservations to the United States sufficiently expressed the consent of the people to such cession. Id.

12. Under Rev. St. 463, 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. p. 337 et seq., p. 262, and subsequent sections, regulations of 1894 of Indian Department, §§ 61-63, 265, 268, 269, the commissioner is authorized and required to pass upon all claims and vouchers connected with Indian affairs. Bridgeman v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577. See 6 C. L. 1770.

13. Assignment of falsity contained in indictment held sufficient. Bridgeman v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577. No direct allegation of intent to defraud the government is necessary. Id. The false vouchers or claims need not be set out in haec verba in the indictment. Id. The particular place within the state where the crime was committed need not be alleged, it being sufficient if the allegations are sufficient to fix the venue. Id. A count charging both the making and the presenting of the false claim is not bad for duplicity. Id. Falsity of claim on which voucher was founded held sufficiently alleged. Id. Indictment need not allege to whom the false voucher was presented or in what manner it was used. Id. Evidence of custom of other Indian agents to send in their accounts without reading them over was inadmissible. Id. The date when the alleged claim was made and presented was not an essential part of the description of the offense, and only substantial proof of same was necessary. Id.

14. See U. S. Rev. St. § 731, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 585, relating to offenses begun in one circuit and completed in another. Bridgeman v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577. See Indictment and Prosecution, 8 C. L. 189.

15. See 5 C. L. 1789.

16. Friend v. Boren [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex Ct. Rep. 54, 95 S. W. 711.

17. Hence administrator was not entitled to allowance for payments made pursuant to such a contract. Friend v. Boren [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 54, 95 S. W. 711.

INDICTMENT AND PROSECUTION.

§ 1. Limitation of Time to Institute (190).
§ 2. Jurisdiction (190). Transfer (191).
§ 3. Place of Prosecution and Change of Venue (191). Change of Venue (191).
§ 4. Indictment and Information (192).
A. Necessity of Indictment (192).
B. Finding and Filing and Formal Requisites (192). Indictment (192). Information (193). Presentment (194).
C. Requisites and Sufficiency of the Accusation (194). General Rules (194). Certainty (194). Bad Spelling and Ungrammatical Construction (195). Intent or Knowledge (195). Venue (195). Surplusage (195). Time (195). Duplicity (195). Designation and Characterization of Offense (196). Statutory Crimes (196). Exceptions and Provisos (196). Setting Forth Written or Printed Matter (196). Designation of Persons (196). Description and Ownership of Property (197). Description of Money (197).
D. Issues, Proof, and Variance (197). Names (198). Time (198).
E. Defects, Defenses, and Objections (198).
F. Joinder, Separation, and Election (200).
G. Amendments (200).
H. Conviction of Lesser Degrees and Included Offenses (201).
§ 5. Arraignment and Plea (201). Pleas in Abatement and Special Pleas (202).
§ 6. Preparation For, and Matters Preliminary to, Trial (203). Preliminary Inquest as to Sanity (204).
§ 7. Postponement of Trial (204). Continuance Should Also be Granted for the Absence of a Witness (204). The Application (206).
§ 8. Dismissal or Nolle Prosequi Before Trial (206). Pendency of Another Indictment (206).
§ 9. Evidence (206). Judicial Notice (206). Presumptions and Burden of Proof (207). Relevancy and Competency in General (207). Acts Disclosing Consciousness of Guilt (209). Remoteness (210). Other Offenses, Convictions, and Acquittals (210). Character and Reputation (212). Hearsay (212). Admissions and Declarations (212). Confessions (213). Acts and Declarations of Co-conspirators (214). Res Gestae (214). Expert and Opinion Evidence (215). Best and Secondary Evidence (217). Documentary Evidence (217). Demonstrative Evidence and Experiments (218). Evidence at Preliminary Examination or at Former Trial (218). Quantity Required and Probative Effect (218).
§ 10. Trial (220).
A. Conduct of Trial in General (220). Order of Proof (220). Conduct and Remarks of Judge (221). Consolidation (222). Severance (222). Appointment of Counsel (222). Production, Examination, and Supervision of Witnesses (222). Prisoner's Statement Under Georgia Practice (223). Accused Must be Present (223). Absence of Judge (223).
B. Argument and Conduct of Counsel (224).
C. Questions of Law and Fact (226).
D. Taking Case From Jury (226).
E. Instructions (227). Necessity and Duty of Charging (227). Submission of Charge (229). Form of Instructions in General (230). Invading Province of Jury or Charging on the Facts (231). Submission of Questions of Law (232). Form and Propriety of Particular Charges (232). The Charge is to be Construed as a Whole (237).
F. Custody of Jury, Conduct and Deliberations (237).
G. Verdict (239). Receiving Verdict (240).
§ 11. New Trial, Arrest of Judgment, and Writ of Error Coram Nobis (240). Newly-Discovered Evidence (241). A Motion in Arrest of Judgment (242). Motion to Set Aside the Judgment (242). A Writ of Error Coram Nobis (242). Practice on Motion (242).
§ 12. Sentence and Judgment (244).
§ 13. Record or Minutes and Commitment (245).
§ 14. Saving Questions for Review (246). Necessity of Objection, Motion, or Exception (246). Sufficiency of Objection or Motion (248).
§ 15. Harmless or Prejudicial Error (249). Trivial or Immaterial Error (250). Cure of Error (251).
§ 16. Stay of Proceedings After Conviction (253).
§ 17. Appeal and Review (253).
A. Right of Review (253).
B. The Remedy for Obtaining Review (254).
C. Adjudications Which May be Reviewed (254).
D. Courts of Review and Their Jurisdiction (255).
E. Procedure to Bring Up the Cause (255).
F. Perpetuation of Proceedings in the "Record" (256).
G. Practice and Procedure in Reviewing Court (261).
H. Scope of Review (262). Law of the Case (263). Rulings on Matters Within the Discretion of the Trial Court (263). On Questions of Fact (263).
I. Decision and Judgment of the Reviewing Court (264).
J. Proceedings After Reversal and Remand (266).
§ 18. Summary Prosecutions and Review Thereof (265).

Scope of topic.—This topic includes general criminal procedure from indictment to final judgment. The substantive law of crimes[18] and procedure before indictment[19] are elsewhere treated, and matters of indictment, evidence, and procedure peculiar to particular crimes are treated under topics dealing with such crimes.[20]

Sources of the criminal procedure.—Aside from the inherent and common-law powers of court, procedure in criminal cases is regulated by the statutes in force at the time the prosecution is begun.[21] Statutes relating to civil procedure have no application,[22] even to prosecutions under city ordinances when regarded as civil in their nature.[23]

§ 1. Limitation of time to institute.[24]—The period of limitation is fixed by statutes and is sometimes varied according to the nature of the crime or the extent of punishment possible.[25] The statutory period runs until the commencement[26] of a valid prosecution;[27] but in Alabama where an indictment is quashed and record entry is made thereof, the time of its pendency is to be deducted.[28]

§ 2. Jurisdiction.[29]—A state court has no jurisdiction of offenses in another state.[30] Statutes cannot confer jurisdiction in derogation of the constitutional jurisdiction of another court.[31] The jurisdiction of municipal and other inferior courts is usually limited according to the penalty authorized,[32] which is measured by the penalty for any single offense charged and is not ousted by joining a number of distinct offenses in separate counts.[33] In order to give the county court of 18. See Criminal Law, 7 C. L. 1010.

19. See Arrest and Binding Over, 7 C. L. 265.

20. See Homicide, 8 C. L. 106; Larceny, 6 C. L. 402, and like topics.

21. Laws 1901, p. 146, relating to indeterminate sentences. Behnke v. People, 222 Ill. 540, 78 N. E. 889. Right to file amended affidavit on quashal. State v. Clark [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 649. Act March 10, 1905, relating to original bill of exceptions. State v. Thompson [Ind.] 78 N. E. 328. Act March 10, 1905, relating to time to file motion for new trial. Miller v. State, 165 Ind. 566, 76 N. E. 245.

22. Act 1903, c. 193, civil only. State v. Thompson [Ind.] 78 N. E. 328. Act of 1903 relating to modification of requested instructions. Guy v. State [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 855.

23. People v. Smith [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 1068, 109 N. W. 411.

24. See 5 C. L. 1791.

25. An offense which may be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary is governed by the period of limitations fixed for offenses punished by such imprisonment. Schaumloeffel v. State, 102 Md. 470, 62 A. 803.

26. Filing of affidavit and issuance of warrant is commencement of prosecution. State v. Simpson [Ind.] 76 N. E. 544. Begun at return of indictment, not at issue of warrant thereon, if the latter is done within the statutory time. State v. Smith, 72 Kan. 244, 83 P. 832.

27. Return of justices' warrant not found renders it functus officio and no prosecution is thereafter pending. Ex parte Broadhead [Kan.] 86 P. 458. An indictment which is set aside does not toll the statute. State v. Disbrow, 130 Iowa, 19, 106 N. W. 263. Amendments of information which under statute are matter of right do not terminate the prosecution. State v. Simpson [Ind.] 76 N. E. 544.

28. Davis v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 663.

29. See 5 C. L. 1791.

30. Locality of offense of selling property without the consent of the owner discussed. Hylton v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 64, 91 S. W. 696.

31. San Francisco Freeholders Charter, § 2, relating to the jurisdiction of misdemeanors of the city police court, is void as infringing the constitutional jurisdiction of the superior court. Robert v. Police Ct. of San Francisco, 148 Cal. 131, 82 P. 838.

32. District court has no power to try indictment for liquor nuisance, since penalty may exceed $500 fine. State v. Collins, 27 R. I. 419, 62 A. 1010. Evidence held to show that value of stolen property exceeded $50, so that prosecution was not within jurisdiction of city court. Toliver v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 478. New York court of special sessions has jurisdiction of the offense of obtaining money by fraudulent draft. People v. Huggins, 110 App. Div. 613, 97 N. Y. S. 187. The municipal court of Portland has jurisdiction of embezzlement of an amount not exceeding $35. State v. Browning, 47 Or. 470, 82 P. 955. Municipal court of Minneapolis has jurisdiction to try all criminal cases arising in the city where the punishment cannot exceed $100 fine or 90 days' imprisonment. State v. Marciniak, 97 Minn. 355, 105 N. W. 965. The statute conferring on such court the jurisdiction previously had by justices does not limit them to offenses created before the enactment. Id. Municipal court of Minneapolis has jurisdiction to try all offenses committed in Hennepin county which under the general law are within jurisdiction of a justice. Keeping "blind pig." State v. Dreger, 97 Minn. 221, 106 N. W. 904. Magistrate has no jurisdiction of offense of sell-

Texas jurisdiction to try a proceeding on indictment, there must be an order transferring the case from the district court.[34]

Transfer.[35]—That civil rights of accused are denied by the manner of summoning jurors does not, in the absence of a state statute allowing it, authorize transfer of the case to a Federal court under Rev. St. § 641,[36] nor does the denial of effect to a pardon pleaded in bar.[37] The judge of the district court in transferring to the county court an indictment not within the jurisdiction of the district court acts in a ministerial capacity, and hence the fact that the district judge is related to accused does not invalidate the transfer.[38]

§ 3. Place of prosecution and change of venue.[39]—By statute, an offense against the United States commenced in one district and completed in another may be prosecuted in either.[40] Under a statute allowing offenses within half a mile of the county line to be prosecuted in either county, offenses on an island in the stream which is the boundary may be prosecuted in either county, regardless of which is nearer.[41] The venue of cheating[42] or obtaining money by false pretenses should be laid where the money or property was obtained, not where the pretenses were made,[43] though by statute in Iowa it may be laid in either county.[44] Conspiracy may be prosecuted where the agreement is made and an overt act committed.[45] Prosecution of seller for using counterfeit union label may be had in a county to which he shipped goods under an agreement that title should not pass until they reached the purchaser.[46] If county boundaries are changed pending a prosecution, the trial must be in the county which embraces the situs of the crime,[47] but where an act changing county boundaries is unconstitutional, venue should be laid according to the original boundary.[48] Statutes providing for trial in the county to which an unorganized county is attached look to the condition at the time of trial, and if the county where the offense was committed was then organized, the trial is properly had there.[49]

Change of venue.[50]—Under a statute not restricting the privilege to defendant, a change of venue may be had on application of the state,[51] and a statute allowing change of venue on application of the state, if fair trial cannot be otherwise had, does not infringe the constitutional right to a trial by a jury of the county where the offense was committed.[52] An application for change of venue for local prejudice presents an issue of fact[53] addressed to the discretion of the court,[54] and ing property subject to lien where a single article sold was worth more than $20. State v. Pinckney [S. C.] 54 S. E. 606.

33. State v. Denhardt, 129 Iowa, 135, 105 N. W. 385.

34. Bird v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 322, 91 S. W. 791.

35. See 5 C. L. 1793.

36, 37. Commonwealth v. Powers, 201 U. S. 1, 50 Law. Ed. 633.

38. Oxford v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 229, 94 S. W. 463.

39. See 5 C. L. 1794.

40. Rev. St. § 731. False claim prepared in Montana and from there transmitted to the city of Washington. Bridgeman v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577. Prosecution of United States senator for agreeing to receive compensation for services before Federal department may be had in district where acceptance of his offer was mailed. Burton v. U. S., 202 U. S. 344, 50 Law. Ed. 1057.

41. Patterson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 157.

42. Dyas v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 488.

43. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 13 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838.

44. Code, § 5157. State v. Gibson [Iowa] 106 N. W. 270.

45. To defraud one in another county. People v. Murray, 95 N. Y. S. 107; People v. Summerfield, 48 Misc. 242, 96 N. Y. S. 502.

46. Commonwealth v. Meads, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 321.

47. Pope v. State, 124 Ga. 801, 53 S. E. 384; Bundrick v. State, 125 Ga. 753, 54 S. E. 683.

48. Kline v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 952.

49. In re Moran, 27 S. Ct. 25.

50. See 5 C. L. 1794.

51, 52. State v. Durflinger, 73 Ohio St. 154, 76 N. E. 291.

53. Montgomery v. State, 128 Wis. 183, 107 N. W. 14; State v. Crouch, 130 Iowa, 478, 107 N. W. 173.

54. State v. Mizis [Or.] 85 P. 611; Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31. A trial judge a ruling on conflicting affidavits will not ordinarily be disturbed,[55] but if prejudice appears there is no discretion as to granting the change.[56] A motion based on prejudice of the judge is addressed to discretion,[57] and the fact that the judge made erroneous rulings on the trial does not show that a motion for change of venue for his prejudice was improperly denied.[58] One applying for a change of venue at the first term after reversal on account of prejudice of the judge need not state in his affidavit that the ground of motion was not before known to him.[59] No certificate is required to original papers transferred.[60] Transmission of two original indictments for the same offense does not prevent acquirement of jurisdiction where it clearly appears on which the change of venue was had.[61] Selection of county to which venue is changed for local prejudice rests in discretion,[62] and the case need not be sent to an adjoining county.[63]

§ 4. Indictment and information. A. Necessity of indictment.[64]—A formal accusation is essential to a valid prosecution for crime.[65] In the Federal courts and in some states infamous crimes may be prosecuted only by indictment,[66] while other states have dispensed with this requirement.[67] That the grand jury on investigation of a transaction indicted for a misdemeanor does not prevent a prosecution by information for felony based on the same transaction.[68]

(§ 4) B. Finding and filing and formal requisites. Indictment.[69]—The indictment is usually required to be indorsed and signed by the foreman[70] and district attorney[71] and returned into open court[72] at a lawful term,[73] such indorsement is not without discretion in the matter of granting a change of venue in a criminal case upon the filing of affidavits that a fair trial cannot be had in the county, but he must determine from the affidavits whether or not a change of venue should be granted. Lingafelter v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 537.

55. State v. Smith, 47 Or. 485, 83 P. 865; State v. McCarver, 194 Mo. 717, 92 S. W. 684. Motion for change of venue for local prejudice held properly denied. Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31; State v. Pointdexter, 117 La. 380, 41 So. 688; Butler v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 1005. An abuse of discretion on the part of the trial judge in overruling a motion for a change of venue is not shown where the record discloses that but one juror was examined on his voir dire and he was challenged for cause. Lingafelter v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 537. Change of venue for local prejudice produced by newspaper reports held properly denied on the facts. State v. Brown, 130 Iowa, 57, 106 N. W. 379. Where it appears without contradiction that many sensational publications have been circulated and that an association has been formed for the purpose of securing defendant's conviction, it is error to deny a change of venue. State v. Hillman, 42 Wash. 615, 85 P. 63. Change of place of trial for local prejudice held improperly denied. People v. Jackson, 100 N. Y. S. 126.

56. Lucas v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 976.

57. That judge's brother was president of an organization for the prosecution of offenses such as that charged and the principal witness for the state does not require change. State v. Strodemier, 40 Wash. 608, 82 P. 915.

58. State v. Strodemier, 40 Wash. 608, 82 P. 915.

59. Rev. St. 1898, § 4680. State v. Williams, 127 Wis. 236, 106 N. W. 286.

60, 61. Thompson v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 899.

62. Discretion held not abused though case was not sent to nearest county where fair trial could be had. Murphy v. District Ct. [N. D.] 105 N. W. 728.

63. Murphy v. District Ct. [N. D.] 105 N. W. 728.

64. See 5 C. L. 1795.

65. County court of Elmore county cannot try without indictment one bound over by a justice of the peace. Ware v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 152.

66. The Federal courts hold that any offense punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary is infamous (In re Claasen, 140 U. S. 200, 35 Law. Ed. 409), while many state courts confine the term to those offenses involving moral turpitude. Making an overcharge for prosecuting a pension claim is not. Garitee v. Bond, 102 Md. 379, 62 A. 631.

67. Offenses not capital may be prosecuted by either indictment or information. State v. O'Malley, 115 La. 1095, 40 So. 470.

68. State v. Roberts [Ind.] 77 N. E. 1093. The decision was based largely on a progressive statutory enlargement of prosecution by information and a corresponding derogation of the importance of the grand jury system.

69. See 5 C. L. 1795.

70. Endorsement of indictment not essential to its validity. State v. Sultan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 841. "Davey" and "David" as given name of foreman of grand jury idem sonans. Lamb v. People, 210 Ill. 399, 76 N. E. 576. An indictment endorsed "true bill" and presented in open court is sufficient though not signed by the foreman. State v. Abbott [Del.] 63 A. 231.

71. Signature of indictment by special counsel appointed in absence of solicitor is sufficient. It is the signature by the fore-and return being presumptive evidence that the requisite number of grand jurors concurred in the finding.[74] The indorsement in the indictment of the style of the case is no part of the indictment and abbreviations therein are no ground of quashal.[75] Where preliminary information is requisite, the indictment must not be substantially variant therefrom.[76] Though each count is in form a complete indictment and signed by the district attorney, if they are fastened together and endorsed it is sufficient.[77] To warrant quashal of an indictment because found on the testimony of a witness whose name was not indorsed on the indictment, it must appear that the witness was sworn before the grand jury and not in open court.[78] The common-law strictness with respect to the caption[79] and conclusion[80] have been greatly relaxed. Documents used by the prosecuting attorney in examining witnesses before the grand jury need not be filed with the indictment under the Iowa statute.[81] Court has inherent common-law power to replace by a copy an indictment lost after verdict.[82] If the record shows the filing of an indictment, the court may permit its loss to be supplied by a copy.[83]

Information.[84]—Information by prosecuting attorney may be verified on information and belief.[85] It is no objection to an information that it was verified before one as notary who had been employed to procure evidence for the prosecution;[86] and mere identity of names raises no presumption that the notary before whom the accusation was verified was the solicitor who signed the accusation.[87] An information for murder not stating that its averments were on the oath of the prosecuting attorney is insufficient in Missouri,[88] but such recital is not required in informations for other crimes.[89] The "term" succeeding commitment at which an information must be filed means a jury term.[90] Filing of information in place of one lost is a continuation of the first prosecution, though given a new file number and though accused pleads anew.[91] After new trial granted a new information may be allowed,[92] and such filing may be allowed by nunc pro tunc order after plea in abatement to second information for pendency of first.[93] A file mark not stating in what county the information was filed is prima facie sufficient.[94] man of the grand jury which imparts efficacy. Teague v. State, 144 Ala. 42, 40 So. 312.

72. Delivery to the clerk during a recess is not return into open court. Sampson v. State, 124 Ga. 776, 53 S. E. 332.

73. Where the indictment was returned at a term fixed by an unconstitutional law, it is invalid. McDaniel v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 919; Brewer v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 927.

74. Guy v. State [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 855.

75. State v. Pointdexter, 117 La. 380, 41 So. 688.

76. Information charging conspiracy with named persons held to support indictment for conspiracy with such persons and others. Commonwealth v. Zayrook, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 111.

77. Commonwealth v. Nailor, 29 Pa. Super Ct. 275.

78. Commonwealth v. Edmiston, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 54.

79. Caption of indictment need not show that court was held at proper place in the county. It is sufficient if the record shows it. Coleman v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 230. Omission of the word "county" after the name of the county is not ground for quashal. State v. Douglass, 72 Kan. 673, 83 P. 621. Caption of indictment held to show that grand jury was empaneled from the proper district. Coleman v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 230.

80. And so the prosecuting attorney aforesaid "on his oath" doth say. State v. Hinchman [Kan.] 87 P. 186.

81. State v. Mulhern, 130 Iowa, 46, 106 N. W. 267.

82. State v. Strayer, 58 W. Va. 675, 52 S. E. 862.

83. State v. McCarver, 194 Mo. 717, 92 S. W. 684.

84. See 5 C. L. 1796.

85. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 2477, 2479. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869.

86. McNulty v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 547.

87. Shuler v. State, 125 Ga. 778, 54 S. E. 689.

88. State v. Minor, 193 Mo. 597, 92 S. W. 466.

89. State v. Platner, 196 Mo. 128, 93 S. W. 403.

90. Rev. Code, § 8497. State v. Foster [N. D.] 105 N. W. 938.

91. State v. McFadden, 42 Wash. 1, 84 P. 401.

92, 93. State v. Williams [Wash.] 85 P. 847.

94. Franklin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92

Presentment.—Signature of presentment by twelve grand jurors is sufficient in Tennessee.[95]

(§ 4) C. Requisites and sufficiency of the accusation. General rules.[96]—The forms of indictment may be prescribed by statute if constitutional requirements are not violated,[97] but an information will not be upheld because in a form prescribed by statute or ordinance if it lacks certainty.[98] Public local acts need not be alleged.[99] A former conviction to aggravate the penalty must be alleged,[1] but it need not be alleged that it is a first offense, though found in a court having jurisdiction only of first offenses,[2] nor need an indictment state that it is for a first offense merely because increased punishment is authorized for a second.[3] The words of the statute need not be employed if equivalent words are used.[4] The averments of an information cannot be aided by intendment,[5] and though surplusage may be stricken, nothing can be interpolated.[6] A count is good if the matter therein and in other counts aptly referred to states an offense,[7] and abandonment of the count referred to does not impair the reference.[8] If one offense is well averred, the indictment is not bad because another is defectively averred in the same count.[9] A long established and uniform practice as to form of indictment is an authority of but little, if any, less weight than an adjudication to the same effect.[10] The allowance of a bill of particulars rests in discretion.[11]

Certainty.[12]—The indictment must be direct and certain as to the offense charged,[13] but where the indictment clearly avers all the elements of the offense, accused is not entitled to a particular averment of means;[14] and statutes in some states provide that where it clearly identifies the offense it shall not be held deficient for technical deficiencies of averment.[15] A charge in the alternative is bad for uncertainty,[16] though there is a statutory exception in North Dakota as to the means of committing the crime.[17]

S. W. 414; Bennett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 515, 92 S. W. 415; Bennett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 508, 92 S. W. 417.

95. Shannon's Code, § 7055. McCampbell v. State [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 100.

96. See 5 C. L. 1797.

97. Form of indictment for perjury held to apprise defendant of nature and cause of accusation. State v. Webber, 78 Vt. 463, 62 A. 1018.

98. Wong Sing v. Independence, 47 Or. 231, 83 P. 387.

99. State v. Piner [N. C.] 53 S. E. 305.

1. Paetz v. State [Wis.] 107 N. W. 1090. Indictment referring to former "judgments" instead of "convictions," sufficient. State v. Smith, 129 Iowa, 709, 106 N. W. 187.

2. Petit larceny in court of special sessions. People v. Johnston, 112 App. Div. 812, 99 N. Y. S. 411.

3. State v. Dawson [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 352.

4, 5, 6. Hase v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 253.

7, 8. People v. Lewis, 111 App. Div. 558, 98 N. Y. S. 83.

9. State v. Dawson [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 352.

10. State v. Ridgway, 73 Ohio St. 31, 76 N. E. 95.

11. Bill giving time and place of murder properly refused. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771.

12. See 5 C. L. 1798.

13. Indictment charging murder of a "certain man" whose name was unknown and thereafter referring to him as "such person" is sufficiently certain. Morgan v. Territory, 16 Okl. 530, 85 P. 718. An indictment for presenting a false voucher is sufficiently certain as to place where it alleges that the offense was committed at a certain Indian agency in a state and district named. Bridgeman v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577.

14. Indictment of United States senator for agreeing to receive compensation for services before Federal department. Burton v. U. S., 202 U. S. 344, 50 Law. Ed. 1057.

15. Liberal rules for construction of indictment under Nevada statutes stated. State v. Lovelace [Nev.] 83 P. 330.

16. Publishing "or" causing to be published a libel. State v. Singer, 101 Me. 299, 64 A. 586. Fraudulently appropriating "or" secreting. State v. Lonne [N. D.] 107 N. W. 524. "Spirituous and malt liquors or spirituous or malt liquors" uncertain. Wong Sing v. Independence, 47 Or. 231, 83 P. 387. Charge of gaming at a certain gaming table "or" bank is bad, and is not aided by a further description, "to-wit, a pool table." Taylor v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 580, 95 S. W. 119.

17. Rev. Codes 1899, § 8042. Averments in indictment for embezzlement held not of "means" within the statute. State v. Lonne [N. D.] 107 N. W. 524.

Bad spelling[18] and ungrammatical construction[19] do not vitiate an indictment where the meaning is apparent.

Intent or knowledge.[20]—Averment that timber was cut "maliciously" held after verdict sufficient to negative consent of owner.[21]

Venue.[22]—The indictment must allege that the offense was committed within the jurisdiction of the court,[23] the use of the words "then and there" being ordinarily sufficient if there is a preceding recital of place,[24] but not where the only averment of place was in recital of the official character of the informing officer.[25]

Surplusage.[26]—Words which if stricken out leave the offense well charged and which do not tend to negative any essential averment may be rejected as surplusage.[27]

Time.[28]—Though the date of the offense need not be proved precisely as laid, it must be specifically alleged,[29] and use of the words "then and there" in the charging part is insufficient if two dates have been before stated.[30] An indictment charging the offense as committed at a date after the finding of the indictment is bad,[31] but that the information in one place charged the offense as committed after the filing of the information is not fatal if it obviously is mere clerical error.[32]

Duplicity.[33]—A charge of two separate and distinct offenses in one count is bad,[34] and two persons cannot be charged in one count with crimes severally com-

18. See 5 C. L. 1799. "Offince" for "offense" and "bulet" for "bullet" held not to vitiate indictment. Gaither v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1345, 91 S. W. 1124. "Commission" instead of "commissioner" in description of officer in indictment for evading inspection of animals. State v. Asbell [Kan.] 86 P. 457. "Deliberatedly" for "deliberately" immaterial. State v. Lu Sing [Mont.] 85 P. 521.

19. See 5 C. L. 1799. The fact that a pronoun designed to refer to deceased is in the first person, while the name of deceased in apposition thereto is in the objective case, is immaterial. Covington v. People [Colo.] 85 P. 832.

20. See 5 C. L. 1799. See also topics relating to crimes to which specific intent is essential, such as Homicide, 8 C. L. 106; Rape, 6 C. L. 1237, and the like.

21. Whim v. State [Tenn.] 94 S. W. 674.

22. See 5 C. L. 1799.

23. State v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376.

24. An information alleging that accused being in a certain county "then and there" set fire to a certain structure sufficiently alleges that such structure was in the county named. State v. McLain [Wash.] 86 P. 388.

25. State v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376.

26. See 5 C. L. 1799.

27. Hase v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 253; State v. Ameker, 73 S. C. 330, 53 S. E. 484; State v. Piner [N. C.] 53 S. E. 305.

28. See 5 C. L. 1800.

29. "On or about" a certain date insufficient. Morgan v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 828. In the nighttime of said day "or thereabout" not fatally defective. State v. Lovelace [Nev.] 83 P. 330.

30. Indictment for perjury alleging orginal and adjourned date of hearing and perjury "then and there" committed. Commonwealth v. Nailor, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

31. Commonwealth v. Nailor, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 271; Wright v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 256.

32. State v. Roland, 11 Idaho, 490, 83 P. 337.

33. See 5 C. L. 1801. See, also, post, this section, as to misjoinder of counts.

34. Held double: An indictment charging in one count receipt of deposits from several persons, with knowledge of insolvency, and without notifying such depositors thereof, is bad. State v. Walker [Miss.] 41 So. 8. Larceny as bailee of several articles delivered to defendant at different times and for different purposes cannot be charged in one count. Trask v. People [Colo.] 83 P. 1010.

Held not double: Indictment for breaking and entering with intent to steal, and thereupon taking and stealing, not bad. Berry v. State, 124 Ga. 825, 53 S. E. 316. Indictment alleging the making of a contract with intent to defraud, and the subsequent doing of an act by which the fraud was accomplished, not double. Johnson v. State, 125 Ga. 243, 54 S. E. 184. Indictment for obstruction of railroad track held not double, as charging also an attempt to wreck a railroad train. Alsobrook v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 805. The statute prohibiting school director to act as agent "or" dealer in school books, and indictment charging one with acting as agent "and" dealer is not double. State v. Wick, 130 Iowa, 31, 106 N. W. 268. Indictment for taking at one time property of two persons not double. State v. Butte, 42 Wash. 455, 85 P. 33. An indictment is not double because the acts alleged might constitute another offense besides that charged. Johnson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 678. Indictment alleging that defendant took, stole, and carried away money in his possession as officer, and also that he embezzled and converted it, held to state but one offense. State v. Shuman [Me.] 63 A. 665. Making and pre-mitted.[35] Though either of two connected acts is a distinct crime, they may be alleged in one count as a single offense,[36] and several statutory means may be charged in the conjunctive[37] but not in the disjunctive.[38]

Designation and characterization of offense.[39]—In the absence of statute,[40] the offense charged need not be designated by name,[41] and an erroneous characterizing of the offense is immaterial if the averments of the facts constituting it are sufficient.[42]

Statutory crimes.[43]—Statutory crime must be charged substantially in language of the statute,[44] and where the statutory description is certain, averment in the language of the statute is sufficient,[45] but not where the statute defines the offense in generic terms.[46]

Exceptions and provisos.[47]—Exceptions in the descriptive clause of the statute must be negatived,[48] but exceptions and provisos in distinct clauses[49] or sections[50] need not.

Setting forth written or printed matter.[51]—A written instrument may ordinarily be described according to its legal effect.[52]

Designation of persons.[53]—One may be designated by an assumed name if it is that by which he is commonly known,[54] and the omission of additions,[55] or even their use in some parts of the indictment and omission in others,[56] is not error.

senting false claim to government. Bridgeman v. United States [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577.

35. An indictment charging two persons in the same count with perjury is double. State v. Wilson, 116 Tenn. 725, 91 S. W. 195.

36. Irvin v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 785. An indictment of a police officer for nonfeasance in failing to arrest the keepers of bawdy houses is not double because it enumerates several whom he failed to arrest. State v. Boyd, 196 Mo. 52, 94 S. W. 536. Indictment charging police officer with neglect of duty in permitting intimidation of several voters charges but one offense. State v. Flynn, 119 Mo. App. 712, 94 S. W. 543.

37. People v. Bunkers, 2 Cal. App. 197, 84 P. 364, 370; Territory v. Neatherlin [N. M.] 85 P. 1044. Forcibly seize and inveigle in indictment for kidnapping. State v. White [Or.] 87 P. 137. Conniving at, consenting to, and permitting wife to reside in house of prostitution. State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629, 82 P. 873; State v. Dawson [Ind. App.] 78 N. E 352. Where a statute makes criminal any one of several related acts, all may be charged in a single count. State v. Hill [N. J. Law] 62 A. 936.

38. Must be conjunctively charged, though the statute is in the disjunctive. State v. Hill [N. J. Law] 62 A. 936. If charged in disjunctive, uncertain. State v. Singer [Me.] 64 A. 586.

39. See 5 C. L. 1802.

40. See 5 C. L. 1802, n 63.

41. Lipham v. State, 125 Ga. 52, 53 S. E. 817; State v. Spurling, 115 La. 789, 40 So. 167; State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3.

42. Offense designated "Sabbath breaking" but facts alleged showed wrongful sale of liquors. Harrington v. State, 77 Ark. 480, 91 S. W. 747.

43. See 5 C. L. 1802.

44. Commonwealth v. Nailor, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 275.

45. False entries by officer of corporation. Commonwealth v. Dewhirst, 190 Mass. 293, 76 N. E. 1052. Keeping of intoxicating liquors for sale. State v. Paige, 78 Vt. 286, 62 A. 1017.

46. Obtaining money by false pretenses must aver ownership. Territory v. Hubbell [N. M.] 86 P. 747.

47. See 5 C. L. 1803.

48. That weapon was not used in military service. State v. Ring, 77 Ark. 139, 91 S. W. 11.

49. State v. Davis [Wash.] 86 P. 201. Indictment for illegal fishing. Richardson v. State, 77 Ark. 321, 91 S. W. 758. Unless an exception is so incorporated in the enactment as to form a material part of the description of the offense it need not be negatived. Need not allege that liquor sold was not of the kind excepted. State v. Paige, 78 Vt. 286, 62 A. 1017.

50. Exceptions enumerated in a separate section of the statute need not be negatived. State v. Doerring, 194 Mo. 398, 92 S. W. 489.

51. See 5 C. L. 1803. See, also, Forgery, 7 C. L. 1744.

52. An indictment for presenting a false voucher need not set out the voucher in haec verba. Bridgeman v. United States [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577.

53. See 5 C. L. 1803, n. 84-92.

54. One may be designated by an assumed name or one acquired by reputation, if it is that by which he is commonly known. Stallworth v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 184.

55. Failure of the indictment to use the word "junior" in describing the person assailed, it appearing that his father bore the same name, is not ground for quashal, it not appearing that such person was commonly or ever known by such addition. Teague v. State, 144 Ala. 42, 40 So. 312.

56. The addition "Sr." to the name of the injured person is mere matter of description, and that it is sometimes used and sometimes not is no objection to the infor-

Deceased may be designated by different names in separate counts.[57] If property is laid in one by a name not appropriate to a natural person, the capacity must be alleged.[58] Where the name of accused as written in the indictment may be correctly read, the fact that it may equally well be read as another name is no objection.[59]

Description and ownership of property.[60]—Property must be described with reasonable certainty as to its nature[61] and value,[62] and in crimes against property, ownership must be laid.[63] Where the facts on which it is predicated are set out and are insufficient, an averment of ownership is unavailing.[64]

Description of money.[65]—Money may be described generally as current or lawful money,[66] and an averment that it was current under the laws of a particular state may be rejected as surplusage.[67] The amount must be laid with reasonable certainty, but an averment of a certain sum will ordinarily sustain proof of a less sum,[68] as will an averment of "about" a stated sum,[69] or of a stated sum "or more."[70]

(§ 4) D. Issues, proof, and variance.[71]—The plea of not guilty puts in issue every material averment.[72] While every essential averment must be proved substantially as laid,[73] unnecessary allegations need not,[74] and immaterial variance may in any event be disregarded.[75] If the evidence shows the offense charged, it is no mation. State v. Simpson [Ind.] 76 N. E. 544.

57. Walker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 878.

58. Burrow v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 987.

59. State v. Pointdexter, 117 La. 380, 41 So. 688.

60. See 5 C. L. 1804. See, also, topics dealing with crimes against property, such as Larceny, 6 C. L. 402.

61. Property need not be so described as to distinguish it from other property of the same class. "Brass of the value of $25" sufficient. Miller v. State, 165 Ind. 566, 76 N. E. 245.

62. An indictment for obtaining by false pretences "about 180 head of cattle" worth "about $15,000" is uncertain. State v. Jackson, 128 Iowa, 543, 105 N. W. 51.

63. "Building commonly known as the storehouse of P" does not lay ownership. Davis v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 179.

64. Funds were bequeathed as follows, to-wit: "All the rest and residue of my estate, I give, devise and bequeath to the directors in trust and their successors in office of the Lorain County Infirmary, to be used by them to the best interests in caring for the poor and inmates of said infirmary." Held that said funds did not become the property of Lorain County, and that an indictment which set forth the above bequest and charged the infirmary directors with embezzlement of said funds as funds of Lorain County did not properly allege ownership of the property, and that a demurrer to such indictment should be sustained. State v. Forbes, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 394.

65. See 5 C. L. 1804.

66. "Good and lawful money of the value of $100 a better description of which is unknown" held sufficient. State v. Quackenbush [Minn.] 108 N. W. 953. "One bill of the lawful currency of the United States," the property of a person named, is sufficient. Knight v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 592. "Two nickels of the lawful coin of the United States" sufficient. Barddell v. State, 144 Ala. 54, 39 So. 975. Specified sum in lawful money sufficient without alleging the kind of coin. People v. Howard [Cal. App.] 84 P. 462. Specified sum in current money sufficient. Brewin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 534, 92 S. W. 423.

67. State v. Quackenbush [Minn.] 108 N. W. 953.

68. Averment of embezzlement of stated sum sustained by proof of less sum. Robinson v. Com., 104 Va. 888, 52 S. E. 690.

69. Indictment for larceny of "about $80" charges larceny of an amount exceeding $50. People v. Peltin, 1 Cal. App. 612, 82 P. 980.

70. Todd v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 473, 93 S. W. 631.

71. See 5 C. L. 1804.

72. That the offense was not committed in the state may be shown under a plea of not guilty. State v. Barrington [N. C.] 53 S. E. 663.

73. Variance as to property obtained by false pretences held fatal. State v. McWhirter [N. C.] 53 S. E. 734. An averment of breaking into a "banking house owned and occupied by" a certain bank is not supported by proof of breaking into a part of the building occupied by tenants of the bank. Greenwood v. People [Colo.] 83 P. 646.

74. And see ante this section, Surplusage. Unnecessary averment that defendant was legally licensed to sell liquor in prosecution for keeping open on Sunday. State v. Grant [S. D.] 105 N. W. 97.

75. Averment of property in a named company is supported by proof of property in a firm of different name doing business in the name alleged. State v. Bartlett, 128 Iowa, 518, 105 N. W. 59. Averment of shooting in "stomach and body" not variant from proof of shooting in the lower part of the stomach. Freeman v. State, 50 Fla. 38, 39 So. 785. Proof of a half interest in one is not fatally variant from an indictment for larceny laying title in him. State v. Cotter-variance that it also shows another,[78] and where several prohibited acts are properly charged in the conjunctive, proof of any one warrants conviction.[77] Under an indictment charging several jointly with a crime, commission by one in the presence of the others pursuant to a conspiracy may be shown,[78] and under a general indictment, defendant may be shown to have been a principal in the second degree.[79]

Names.[80]—The name of the injured person must be proved substantially as laid,[81] but the doctrine of idem sonans applies.[82] There is no variance between an indictment designating the injured female by the name by which she was commonly known and proof that she was married to a man of different name.[83]

Time,[84] unless an essential ingredient of the offense, is not material except to avoid the statute of limitations, and to show that the offense was committed before the finding of the indictment; and accordingly, while a specific averment of date is essential,[85] it need not ordinarily be proved as laid,[86] but if there is a variance of date, defendant is entitled to show that the offense proved is not the one as to which the grand jury heard evidence.[87]

(§ 4) E. Defects, defenses, and objections.[88]—Defects in the finding of an indictment[89] or formal defects apparent on its face[90] are ordinarily required to be raised by motion to quash or by plea in abatement before pleading to the merits,[91] el [Idaho] 86 P. 527. Technical variance as to crime for which prisoner was held, on prosecution for aiding escape held immaterial. People v. Fox, 142 Mich. 528, 12 Det. Leg. N. 792, 105 N. W. 1111. Amount of money obtained by false pretenses need not be proved precisely as laid. State v. Gibson [Iowa] 106 N. W. 270. Proof of obtaining check not variant from averment of obtaining money. Id. Proof of obtaining check which was subsequently cashed not variant from averment of receiving money. Schaumloeffel v. State, 102 Md. 470, 62 A. 803. Averment of embezzlement of ward's money by guardian is supported by evidence of investment of money in note and conversion of note. State v. Disbrow, 130 Iowa, 19, 106 N. W. 263. Variance between alleged false report of financial condition of association as set out in indictment and original report as introduced held immaterial. Johnson v. People [Colo.] 84 P. 819. Variance between $53 alleged to have been stolen and proof of $50 immaterial. Todd v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 473, 93 S. W. 631.

76. Unlawful branding shown as part of circumstantial case of larceny of range cattle. State v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 56, 84 P. 409.

77. State v. Hill [N. J. Law] 62 A. 936.

78. McLeroy v. State, 125 Ga. 240, 54 S. E. 125; Davis v. State, 125 Ga. 299, 54 S. E. 126.

79. Lowe v. State, 125 Ga. 55, 53 S. E. 1038.

80. See 5 C. L. 1805.

81. Averment of owner's name by initial of given name not variant from proof of full given name. Knight v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 911.

82. "Matt" and "Max" not idem sonans. Vincendeau v. People, 219 Ill. 474, 76 N. E. 675. Variance between averment of robbery of "Frank Rex" and proof of name as "Frank Rock" is fatal. State v. Lee [Mont.] 83 P. 223. "Lydia" and "Liddie" idem sonans. Caldwell v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 473. "Rigley" and "Rigby" idem sonans. State v. Pointdexter, 117 La. 380, 41 So. 688. "Vester" and "Vister" idem sonans. Gaither v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1345, 91 S. W. 1124.

83. Perez v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 520, 94 S. W. 1036.

84. See 5 C. L. 1805.

85. Morgan v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 828.

86. Time of the offense need be only substantially proved. Presenting false claim to government. Bridgeman v. United States [C. C. A.] 140 F. 577. The precise date named in an information for selling liquor without a license is not essential. People v. Dieterich, 142 Mich. 527, 12 Det. Leg. N. 798, 105 N. W. 1112. Variance as to time immaterial on indictment for obtaining money by false pretenses. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838.

87. Lee v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 677.

88. See 5 C. L. 1805.

89. The authenticity of the indictment must be raised by plea in abatement or motion to quash. State v. Sharpe, 119 Mo. App. 386, 95 S. W. 298.

90. Ambiguity of averment of property in goods stolen must be raised by demurrer or motion to quash. State v. Philips, 72 S. C. 236, 53 S. E. 370. Defect in verification of information waived by failure to move to quash. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869.

91. A statute requiring objection to an indictment for any defect apparent on its face to be made before the jury is sworn precludes objection for first appeal. State v. Sharkey [N. J. Law] 63 A. 866. It is discretionary whether motion to quash shall be allowed after plea. State v. Burnett [N. C.] 55 S. E. 72. Objection to want of preliminary examination waived by pleading. People v. Harris, 144 Mich. 12, 13 Det. Leg. N. 139, 107 N. W. 715. Motion to quash must be made before plea. Smith v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1254, 91 S. W. 742.

or at least before verdict,[92] while substantial deficiency of averment may be raised at any time,[93] and pleas in abatement are waived by going to trial on the merits before they are passed on.[94] Vagueness in the indictment is cured by reception of evidence without objection,[95] and where some counts are deficient or unproven, a general verdict will be referred to the good count,[96] or that sustained by the evidence.[97] After verdict nolle prosequi may be entered to one count and sentence imposed on that remaining.[98] An indictment charging an offense substantially in the language of the statute cannot be assailed on habeas corpus after plea of guilty.[99] Whether want of or defects in a preliminary examination or information,[1] or defects in the organization,[2] or proceedings[3] of the grand jury, or lack of evidence before the grand jury,[4] or particular defects in the indictment itself,[5] are grounds for quashing the indictment depends largely on local statutes. Where the statute prescribes the grounds for quashing an indictment, the statutory grounds are exclusive.[6]

92. Duplicity of indictment must be raised before verdict. Irvin v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 785; State v. Hill [N. J. Law] 62 A. 936. Formal objection to complaint or warrant cannot be raised after conviction. People v. Huggins, 110 App. Div. 613, 97 N. Y. S. 187. Motion to quash after verdict is too late. State v. Summerlin, 116 La. 449, 40 So. 792. A motion to quash after plea to the merits is addressed to the discretion of the court and should be granted only on clear and substantial grounds. State v. Rester, 116 La. 985, 41 So. 231. Want of preliminary examination cannot be first raised after verdict. State v. Le Blanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105.

93. See post, §§ 11, 14. Failure to allege venue is not a defect in matter of form within statutes allowing such defects to be disregarded, but is a defect of substance. State v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376.

94. McCampbell v. State [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 100.

95. Vagueness cured by judgment where evidence on both sides was introduced without objection. State v. Maloney, 115 La. 498, 39 So. 539.

96. White v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 570; Grant v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 80; State v. Sheppard [N. C.] 55 S. E. 146.

97. Moran v. State, 125 Ga. 33, 53 S. E. 806.

98. State v. Perry, 116 La. 231, 40 So. 686.

99. Robbery. In re Myrtle, 2 Cal. App. 383, 84 P. 335.

1. That a witness refused at the preliminary examination to answer certain questions on cross examination held not to so deprive accused of a legal preliminary examination that the information should be set aside. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43. Where an indictment is found after preliminary hearing on the information, motion to quash the indictment for insufficiency of the information is too late. Commonwealth v. Mallini, 214 Pa. 50, 63 A. 414. Termination of authority of the notary before whom the information was verified by accepting another office cannot be raised by attack on the information. McNulty v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 547.

2. That some members of the grand jury were irregularly drawn does not affect the validity of the indictment if they were duly qualified. State v. Cambron [S. D.] 105 N. W. 241. An objection to the indictment for disqualification of a grand juror imposes on defendant the burden of showing that he did not know of the facts before indictment. Parris v. State, 125 Ga. 777, 54 S. E. 751. Where there was a legal number of qualified grand jurors, a plea that one was disqualified must negative the presumption that the presentment was found by the qualified members on evidence adduced and not on the information of a grand juror. McCampbell v. State [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 100. Defects in organization of grand jury no ground for quashal. Raines v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 982. By statute in Iowa, objections because of the organization of the grand jury are not available to a defendant who has been held to answer before indictment. State v. Wheeler, 129 Iowa, 100, 105 N. W. 374. Exemption of grand jurors by reason of previous service within the year is personal and that exempt jurors served is no ground for quashal. State v. Hopkins, 115 La. 786, 40 So. 166.

3. That defendant was called as a witness before the grand jury is no ground for setting aside the indictment. State v. Sherherd, 129 Iowa, 705, 106 N. W. 190. Under a statute authorizing vacation of indictment if any person "not required or permitted by law" is present in the grand jury room, if a county attorney disqualified to act in the case appears, the indictment will be set aside. Code, § 5319. State v. Rocker, 130 Iowa, 239, 106 N. W. 645. An indictment will not be set aside because accused was a witness before the grand jury where it appears that the district attorney advised the grand jury that they must not consider his evidence in deciding whether to indict him, and it does not appear but that this instruction was regarded. People v. Hummel, 96 N. Y. S. 878.

4. Will not look to the sufficiency of the evidence before the grand jury. State v. Woodrow, 58 W. Va. 527, 52 S. E. 545.

5. Misnomer not ground for quashal. State v. Strayer, 58 W. Va. 676, 52 S. E. 869. Failure to indorse names of witnesses not ground of quashal. State v. Sultan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 841. Failure of indictment to show that witnesses before grand jury were sworn is not fatal. Id.

6. Neither failure to return exhibits with indictment nor failure of witnesses to sign

Under a statute providing that the only pleadings by defendant shall be either a demurrer or a plea, a motion to strike out part of an indictment is not allowable.[7] Demurrer for misjoinder must specify the offenses which it is claimed the indictment improperly joins.[8] Testimony of grand jurors and of the prosecuting attorney are inadmissible to impeach indictment.[9]

(§ 4) F. Joinder, separation, and election.[10]—Subject to a few exceptions,[11] distinct offenses cannot be joined in the same count.[12] Counts on separate misdemeanors of the same nature may be joined.[13] An offense which under the Florida constitution may be tried by a jury of five may be joined with one triable by a jury of twelve.[14] Where two independent offenses are shown, the prosecution should be required to elect,[15] but there need be no election between distinct though related offenses charged in separate counts,[16] nor between several counts charging the same offense and not necessarily inconsistent.[17] Where there were several counts for illegal sale and one for maintaining a liquor nuisance, an election respecting the counts for sale and silent as to the count for nuisance is not an abandonment of the latter.[18] An election when necessary must be made at or before the time when the state rests, but whether it shall be required before such time is discretionary.[19] Election made is conclusive at second trial.[20]

(§ 4) G. Amendments.[21]—Though amendment seems to be allowed in a few states without reference to statute,[22] an indictment ordinarily can be amended only by virtue of a statute,[23] except to conform to the proof.[24] Statute permitting minutes of testimony. State v. O'Malley [Iowa] 109 N. W. 491. That too many persons were drawn to serve on grand jury not ground. Redgers v. State, 144 Ala. 32, 40 So. 572. Failure of jury commissioners to take prescribed oath not. Sims v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 413. Under Code 1896, § 5269, that grand jury was organized without authority of law and that there was no order for the venire not grounds for quashal. Bentley v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 649. Reception of hearsay evidence by grand jury in violation of Wilson's Ann. St. 1903, § 5339, is not. Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451. Too many grand jurors drawn. Stevenson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 526; Untreiner v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 285; Sanders v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 466. Failure to file at term succeeding commitment not ground. State v. Foster [N. D.] 105 N. W. 938. Under Code § 5269, defects in the formation of the grand jury such as failure to appoint a foreman are not ground for quashal. Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 35, 40 So. 269.

7. B. & C. Comp. § 1355. State v. Conklin, 47 Or. 509, 84 P. 482.

8. Sowell v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 916. Field v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 502.

9. State v. Hopkins, 115 La. 786, 40 So. 166.

10. See 5 C. L. 1808. Joinder and severance in trials, see post, § 10.

11. Burglary and larceny may be joined in the same count. Bernal v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 581, 95 S. W. 11[illegible]. Burglary and larceny may be joined either in the same count or in separate counts. State v. Perry, 116 La. 231, 40 So. 686.

12. Indictment charging in one count conspiracy to injure in person and in another conspiracy to destroy property charges two offenses. State v. Caine [Iowa] 105 N. W. 1018. Abduction and enticement of child beyond the limits of the state based on same transaction. State v. Burnett [N. C.] 55 S. E. 72.

13. Practicing medicine without license. Counts based on treatment of different persons. Kettles v. People, 221 Ill. 221, 77 N. E. 472.

14. State v. Perry, 116 La. 231, 40 So. 686.

15. Liquor nuisance. State v. Poull [N. D.] 105 N. W. 717. Where several acts are proved, it is error to refuse to compel an election. Jamison v. State [Tenn.] 94 S. W. 675. Evidence of successive ravishment by several defendants held to show such cooperation that no election was necessary. Barrett v. People, 220 Ill. 304, 77 N. E. 224.

16. Illegal sale of liquor. Untreiner v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 170.

17. State v. Ricksecker [Kan.] 85 P. 547.

18. State v. Bailey [Kan.] 87 P. 189.

19. State v. Poull [N. D.] 105 N. W. 717. Where several counts charge the same act as committed under different circumstances, it is proper to refuse to require an election until the state's evidence is in. Sutton v. State, 124 Ga. 815, 53 S. E. 381.

20. Counts for rape and incest. Elliott v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 247, 93 S. W. 742.

21. See 5 C. L. 1809.

22. Misnomer may be cured by amendment during the trial. State v. Strayer, 58 W. Va. 676, 52 S. E. 862. Allowance at beginning of trial of amendment as to name of person assailed sustained. State v. Johnson, 116 La. 30, 40 So. 521.

23. In New Jersey indictment may be amended on trial to conform to evidence as to name of person injured. Laws 1898, p. 378. State v. Tolla, 72 N. J. Law, 515, 62 A. 675.

amendment on trial as to name of person injured is constitutional.[25] An information can ordinarily be amended at any time as to form or substance.[26]

(§ 4) H. Conviction of lesser degrees and included offenses.[27]—Conviction may be had of any offense included in that charged,[28] or of an attempt to commit the offense charged,[29] or of any lesser degree of the offense charged,[30] but not of an offense containing elements not included in that charged.[31] The most frequent illustration of this rule is in conviction of assault on indictment for felonies involving the use of force.[32] Assault with intent to kill is included in an indictment for murder,[33] but not in one for manslaughter.[34] When, and only when, an indictment for assault with intent to kill avers that it was without considerable provocation, a conviction of assault without considerable provocation with intent to do great bodily harm can be had.[35] Where burglary and theft are joined in one count, conviction may be had of either.[36]

§ 5. Arraignment and plea.[37]—A formal plea is prerequisite to trial on the merits[38] and is not waived by failure of accused to demand arraignment.[39] Where the arraignment and the swearing of the jury were practically simultaneous, it is immaterial that the jury was sworn before defendant was arraigned.[40] Where the information is amended by adding a verification after arraignment, defendant need not be rearraigned.[41] Reading of indictment by solicitor general at trial, and entry of plea of not guilty, is sufficiently formal arraignment in misdemeanor case.[42] De-

24. Amendment allowed to conform to proof as to state in which land to which false pretenses related was situated. People v. Langley, 114 App. Div. 427, 100 N. Y. S. 123.

25. State v. Tolla, 72 N. J. Law, 515, 62 A. 675.

26. Correction of misnomer of accused at his own suggestion not available as error. Kilcoyne v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 36. May be so amended as to charge the offense as committed in the county instead of in a particular division thereof. State v. Abrams [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1041. Verification may be added. State v. Speyer, 194 Mo. 459, 91 S. W. 1075.

27. See 5 C. L. 1809.

28. Under indictment for shooting with intent to kill, conviction may be had for unlawful wounding by reckless shooting in a public place. State v. Groves, 194 Mo. 452, 92 S. W. 631.

29. Under an indictment for statutory rape, defendant may be convicted of an attempt. State v. Marrselle [Wash.] 86 P. 586. Attempt to commit rape is included in an indictment for statutory rape. People v. Ah Lung, 2 Cal. App. 278, 83 P. 296. On an indictment for incest, conviction may be had of an attempt to commit the same. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433.

30. Conviction of murder in the second degree may be had under indictment for murder by poisoning. State v. Matthews [N. C.] 55 S. E. 342. Manslaughter by negligence is included in an indictment for murder. State v. Moore, 129 Iowa, 514, 106 N. W. 16.

31. On indictment for assault by one armed with a dangerous weapon with intent to rob, conviction of robbery cannot be had. People v. Scofield, 142 Mich. 221, 12 Det. Leg. N. 654, 105 N. W. 610. Exhibition of dangerous weapon in angry and threatening manner not included in indictment for assault with intent to murder. State v. Campbell, 40 Wash. 480, 82 P. 752.

32. Assault and battery is included in indictment for rape. State v. Barkley, 129 Iowa, 484, 105 N. W. 506. Assault under indictment for assault with intent to murder. State v. Brown [Del.] 53 A. 328. Simple assault under indictment for assault with intent to murder. State v. Wilson [Del.] 60 A. 227. Conviction of assault with intent may be had on indictment for rape. People v. Murphy [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 602, 108 N. W. 1009. On indictment for assault with intent to murder, there may be a conviction of aggravated assault. Freeman v. State, 50 Fla. 38, 39 So. 785.

33. To warrant a conviction of assault with intent to kill on an indictment for murder, the assault must be connected with and a part of the killing alleged. Letcher v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 922. Conviction of assault with intent to kill may be had under indictment for murder which, while not alleging in terms intent to kill, alleged that the killing was willful and with malice aforethought. Smith v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 475.

34. People v. Huson, 99 N. Y. S. 1081.

35. State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241, 83 P. 1.

36. Bernal v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 581, 95 S. W. 118.

37. See 5 C. L. 1810.

38. Hamilton v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 940; Sims v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 34, 91 S. W. 579.

39. Sims v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 34, 91 S. W. 579.

40. Elliott v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 48, 91 S. W. 1136.

41. State v. Speyer, 194 Mo. 459, 91 S. W. 1075.

fendants jointly indicted need not be jointly arraigned.[43] In Indiana a plea of guilty of an included offense can only be received by consent of the prosecuting attorney.[44] A plea of guilty will not be set aside because interposed in reliance on an assurance of the county attorney that the minimum penalty would be imposed;[45] but where defendant pleaded guilty without being fully informed of his right to counsel and after sentence makes oath that he was not guilty and that the plea was induced by the officers having him in charge, the sentence should be set aside;[46] and where on being examined after a plea of guilty defendant denies entertaining an intent which is essential to the crime charged a plea of not guilty should be entered.[47] Plea of guilty admits all that is well charged but does not preclude objection for defect of substance.[48] Defendant may at any time before trial move for leave to withdraw his plea and demur,[49] but such motion is addressed to the discretion of the court,[50] and being denied cannot be renewed of right.[51]

Pleas in abatement and special pleas.[52]—Former conviction must be raised by special plea.[53] Leave to withdraw a general plea and plead specially rests in discretion.[54] Plea of former acquittal failing to show sufficient facts may be adjudged bad on demurrer.[55] A general demurrer to a plea in abatement for that it "does not state facts sufficient to abate the action" is good.[56] A demurrer to a plea in abatement does not search the record.[57] A plea in abatement must exclude all supposable matters which might be alleged to defeat it,[58] though pleas in general terms are sometimes authorized by statute.[59] A plea in bar to a criminal charge does

42. Fears v. State, 125 Ga. 739, 54 S. E. 667.

43. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771.

44. Where the statute provides that dismissal or nolle prosequi shall only be granted on motion of the prosecuting attorney, the court has no power against the objection of the prosecuting attorney to receive a plea of an included offense. State v. Morrison, 165 Ind. 461, 75 N. E. 968.

45. State v. Wyckoff [Iowa] 107 N. W. 420. The rule safeguarding the rights of a prisoner, which applies to extra-judicial confessions, should not necessarily be applied to a confession made in court, and were this not true, it would not follow that it should be applied where intelligent and shrewd business men, flanked by lawyers among the best in the state, have speculated for weeks as to the best thing to do, have consulted with the prosecutor, and, after turning the matter over in every possible light, conclude to plead guilty and throw themselves on the mercy of the court. State v. Hygeia Ice Co., 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S) 361. What the court said and did during the trial of this case did not mislead the defendants into withdrawing their pleas of not guilty and entering pleas of guilty, or to the taking of other action to the prejudice of their rights; they were surprised, not by any wrong or unfair thing which the court did, but by the severity of the sentence imposed, and in the entire absence of any promise or intimation of leniency, the misjudgment of the defendants and of their attorneys as to the attitude of the court with reference to the nature of the offense committed and the degree of punishment which should be imposed is not ground for vacation of the sentences which were pronounced. Id.

46. State v. Allen, 41 Wash. 63, 82 P. 1036.

47. People v. Scofield, 142 Mich. 221, 12 Det. Leg. N. 654, 105 N. W. 610.

48. Klawanski v. People, 218 Ill. 481, 75 N. E. 1028.

49. People v. Staples [Cal.] 86 P. 886.

50. Held properly denied where no ground of attack on the indictment was shown. People v. Staples [Cal.] 86 P. 886.

51. Leave to renew held properly denied. People v. Staples [Cal.] 86 P. 886.

52. See 5 C. L. 1810.

53. Logan v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 323.

54. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

55. Failure to aver that two homicides resulted from same act. State v. Rosa, 72 N. J. Law, 462, 62 A. 695.

56, 57. State v. Roberts [Ind.] 77 N. E. 1093.

58. Plea that grand juror was disqualified by having served before within two years held bad for not alleging that such previous service was not as a special or struck juror. State v. Waterman, 78 Vt. 379, 62 A. 1016. Pleas in abatement for mere irregularities must be drawn with great strictness obviating every supposable special answer. Colson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 183. Plea of having testified before grand jury held bad for failure to show that testimony was given under compulsion. State v. Duncan, 78 Vt. 364, 63 A. 225.

59. Plea of former conviction in general terms as allowed by Cr. Code Prac. § 164, is sufficient. Standard Oil Co. v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1369, 91 S. W. 1127. A plea in bar which merely sets forth that the defendant has been previously put upon trial on an accusation of the same offense, and does not set forth the indictment on which he was tried or even allege that it was a valid in-not present an issue solely for the jury. Such a plea may be examined by the court as to its sufficiency, and if it be found that it is insufficient as a matter of law it may be so adjudged and the jury discharged without prejudice to a further prosecution for the same offense.[60] The burden of proving plea of former acquittal or conviction,[61] or of special matter in abatement,[62] is on defendant, and where the facts are not controverted the court may direct a verdict against defendant.[63] Separate trial of a special plea in bar is properly ordered unless it appears that the special plea cannot be intelligently heard except in connection with all the evidence.[64]

§ 6. Preparation for, and matters preliminary to, trial.[65]—Service of a copy of the indictment on accused a specified number of days before the trial[66] is usually required, but want of such service is waived by failure to demand it,[67] or by announcing ready for trial.[68] In most states a certain length of time after indictment must, if demanded, be allowed for preparation.[69] In like manner accused is entitled in some jurisdictions, if he shall demand it,[70] to a substantially correct copy[71] of the venire or jury panel,[72] and this is held not to include a list of the talesmen summoned on the exhausting of the regular venire.[73] A list of the state's witnesses is sometimes allowed,[74] and it must likewise be demanded.[75] A copy[76] of the minutes of the grand jury is allowed in Iowa. If counsel is misled into failure to obtain it, his remedy is by motion to postpone.[77] Mandamus will not issue to compel the clerk to deliver a copy of the testimony at the preliminary examination where it is not in his possession.[78] dictment, is insufficient in law and presents no issue for the jury. Horner v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 441.

60. Horner v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 441.

61. State v. Williams [Wash.] 86 P. 847; Kilcoyne v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 36.

62. Spencer v. State, 125 Ga. 255, 54 S. E. 144.

63. Commonwealth v. Brown, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 296.

64. State v. Murphy, 128 Wis. 201, 107 N. W. 470.

65. See 5 C. L. 1812.

66. The two days before trial required by Rev. St. § 992, relating to service of copy of information and venire, need not be judicial days. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 837, 40 So. 239. Not entitled to copy of indictment before arraignment. Dix v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 924.

67. Fears v. State, 125 Ga. 739, 740, 54 S. E. 661, 667. Right to copy of indictment waived by failure to demand it before trial. Howard v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 301.

68. State v. Dilley [Wash.] 87 P. 133.

69. The two days time allowed by statute to prepare for trial cannot be first demanded after the jury has been selected. Counts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 142, 94 S. W. 220.

70. Discretionary to deny copy of venire when not demanded within statutory time. Rev. Code 1892, § 1408. Hannah v. State, 87 Miss. 375, 39 So. 855.

71. Slight variance in one of defendant's aliases in the address of the copy of the venire served on him is immaterial. Banks v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 921. Technical defects in the jury list furnished immaterial. Stoudenmire v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 48.

72. The statutes of Washington changing the method of drawing jurors so that several departments select from the same panel abrogated the right of accused to have the jury selected from the list required by Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 6879, to be served on him. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251. Order for service of jury list held erroneous as requiring service of list for week preceding that for which trial was set. Walker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 878. List containing names of several persons drawn but not summoned, insufficient. Id. Names of persons not regularly drawn but summoned to fill vacancies on the venire need not be on the list served on accused. Smith v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 957.

73. Not entitled to list of talesmen. Untreiner v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 285; State v. Thompson, 116 La. 829, 41 So. 107.

74. Accused not entitled to list of state's witnesses. Baker v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 673.

75. Fears v. State, 125 Ga. 739, 740, 54 S. E. 661, 667.

76. Where defendant is furnished with a copy of the minutes of the testimony before the grand jury, it is immaterial that the county attorney took the original from the clerk's files and kept it some time. State v. McClain, 130 Iowa, 73, 106 N. W. 376.

77. That defendant's counsel was misled into failing to obtain a copy of the minutes of testimony before the grand jury by a statement of the county attorney that he did not intend to use the witnesses who were before the grand jury should be availed of by motion to continue, and is not ground for the exclusion of witnesses who were before the grand jury. State v. McClain, 130 Iowa, 73, 106 N. W. 376.

78. Clerk had delivered it to prosecuting

Preliminary inquest as to sanity.[79]—Refusal to appoint a medical board to examine into the sanity of accused is harmless where the physicians whose appointment was requested did examine accused and testified on the trial that he was sane.[80] To authorize a commitment to the asylum for present insanity the commission must report that accused is insane, report of mental impairment being insufficient.[81]

§ 7. Postponement of trial.[82]—An application for postponement is, particularly in case of a second application,[83] addressed to the discretion of the court[84] to an even greater extent than in civil cases by reason of the greater temptation to seek mere delay,[85] but this rule must not be so administered as to impair the constitutional guaranty of compulsory process.[86] Postponement should be allowed for lack of time for preparation[87] or for absence of counsel[88] or illness of accused.[89] Grant of continuance for absence of official stenographer is discretionary.[90] Where accused asked a continuance of the term instead of a postponement for want of preparation, denial will not be disturbed.[91]

Continuance should also be granted for the absence of a witness[92] where it appears what his testimony will be,[93] that the witness is competent[94] and that his testimony is competent and material,[95] credible,[96] necessary,[97] not merely cumulative attorney and could not get it back. Gray v. Lindsey [Ala.] 39 So. 927.

79. See 4 C. L. 21, n. 38.

80. State v. Douglas, 116 La. 524, 40 So. 860.

81. People v. Sheriff of New York County, 100 N. Y. S. 193.

82. See 5 C. L. 1812.

83. Kegans v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 569, 95 S. W. 122.

84. Raines v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 932; State v. Mizis [Or.] 85 P. 611; State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869; Stoudenmire v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 48. Not entitled of right to continuance to next term after indictment. State v. Sultan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 841.

85. Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385; Clements v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 432.

86. Rogers v. State, 144 Ala. 32, 40 So. 572.

87. Two hours' time for preparation after employment of counsel held sufficient. Jones v. State, 125 Ga. 49, 53 S. E. 583. Postponement to allow further time for preparation held properly denied. Defendant's counsel did not know that papers on change of venue had been transmitted until two days before trial. State v. Steers [Idaho] 85 P. 104. That 15 days elapsed between arraignment and trial shows prima facie ample time for preparation. State v. Pointdexter, 117 La. 380, 41 So. 688. Allowance of four hours to prepare for trial held not an abuse of discretion. State v. Sultan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 841. After adjournment at request of defendant, held that he was allowed ample time for preparation. Commonwealth v. Hine, 213 Pa. 97, 62 A. 369.

88. Where accused has several attorneys, motion based on illness of one of them must show that he is the leading counsel and that the motion is in good faith and that the defendant expects to secure his services at the next term. Wall v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 815. Denial of continuance to allow time to obtain counsel sustained where accused was represented at the trial by the counsel whom he desired the time to procure. Carpenter v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 107, 92 S. W. 552.

89. Rests in discretion. Rowland v. State, 125 Ga. 792, 54 S. E. 694.

90. Odom v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 182.

91. State v. Mizis [Or.] 85 P. 611.

92. See 5 C. L. 1812. Denial of continuance to permit of production of alibi evidence held error where evidence of identification was very unsatisfactory. Leach v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 310, 91 S. W. 1088. Continuance to obtain testimony of defendant's wife to threats by deceased held improperly denied. Ware v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 1093. Where there was no time for preparation, it is an abuse of discretion to deny a postponement to permit the summoning of witnesses. Cremeans v. Com., 104 Va. 860, 52 S. E. 362. Where accused was brought to trial the day after the indictment was returned and made a proper showing as to an absent witness, it is error to deny a continuance on a showing that the prosecution had been unable to find such witness. Rumsey v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 167.

93. Must show names of witnesses and the testimony to be given by each separately. King v. State, 125 Ga. 35, 36, 53 S. E. 807. Court may require showing of what is to be proved by absent witness. State v. Stewart, 117 La. 476, 41 So. 798. Failure to show testimony of absent witness fatal. Raines v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 932. Affidavit of testimony of absent witness as to defendant's residence during time he was alleged to be living in adultery held too indefinite. Counts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 142, 94 S. W. 220.

94. Continuance not granted for absence of witness disqualified by conviction of felony. McIntyre v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 544, 94 S. W. 1048.

95. Continuance for absence of witness properly denied when proposed testimony is inadmissible. State v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224. Testimony that witness saw third person going rapidly from scene of homicide not material. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 129, 93 S. W. 726. To show the materiality of testimony of anor impeaching;[98] and the whereabouts of the witness,[99] the exercise of diligence to procure his attendance,[1] and the probability of his attendance at the postponed trial,[2] are shown. Continuance may be sometimes avoided by an admission that the witness will testify as stated,[3] but in some states such an admission is no answer to a first application for a continuance.[4] Where the state admits to avoid a continuance that an absent witness would have testified as stated in the affidavit, it may rebut such testimony.[5] Admission that witness would testify as alleged does not preclude objection to the admissibility of the evidence.[6] cestral insanity there must be a showing that defendant was insane at the time of the offense charged. Clements v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 432. Third application for continuance for absence of witness to prove whereabouts of accused during a small part of the time during which the crime might have been committed properly refused. Kegans v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 569, 95 S. W. 122. Showing of cogency of testimony as to defendant's insanity held insufficient to make it error to deny a continuance to procure the same. State v. Wetter, 11 Idaho, 433, 83 P. 341.

96. Denial sustained where in view of evidence at trial testimony of absent witness was improbable. Holley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 509, 92 S. W. 422. Denial of continuance of affidavit of belief that absent witnesses would testify that they were guilty and defendant innocent, sustained. State v. De Moss [Kan.] 85 P. 937. Denial of continuance not disturbed where defendant's testimony negatived that of absent witness as to whereabouts of defendant. Boyd v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 94 S. W. 1053. Denial of continuance not disturbed where several witnesses testified in direct contradiction of proposed testimony. McIntyre v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 544, 94 S. W. 1048. Where the cross-examination of the state's witnesses did not suggest either the presence of an alleged absent witness or the fact to which it was claimed he would testify, denial of a continuance will not be disturbed. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869.

97. Continuance for absence of witness to testify to age of prosecutrix properly denied where it did not appear that he had any special knowledge with respect thereto. Hust v. State, 77 Ark. 146, 91 S. W. 8. Affidavits held to show that there were other witnesses by whom the facts could be as well proved. Jones v. State, 125 Ga. 307, 54 S. E. 122. Testimony of absent witness at coroner's inquest held to clearly indicate that defendant did not want his testimony. State v. Douglas, 116 La. 524, 40 So. 860.

98. Refusal of continuance for absence of impeaching witness not error. Powell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 544. Denial of continuance for absence of impeaching witness not ground for new trial when no foundation was laid for impeachment. State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929. Denial of a continuance for absence of impeaching evidence will not be disturbed where it does not appear that the state's witness was examined about the matter on which it was proposed to impeach him. Gaut v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1034.

99. Affidavit not showing where absent witness was and only an opinion as to his expected testimony, insufficient. Carpenter v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 107, 92 S. W. 552. Application for continuance must state the residence of the absent witness. Donald v. State [Miss.] 41 So. 4.

1. Counts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 142, 94 S. W. 220. No diligence shown. State v. Tucker, 72 Kan. 481, 84 P. 126. Where the affidavit shows no attempt to communicate with absent witnesses and no effort to procure their attendance other than the issue of a subpoena, continuance is properly denied. State v. Freshwater [Utah] 85 P. 447. Where no effort was made to secure a witness except telephoning for him, refusal of an adjournment will not be reviewed. Jackson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 250, 91 S. W. 788. Where it does not appear where the witness was or that any effort was made to take his deposition, no sufficient diligence is shown. Gaut v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1034. Showing of diligence insufficient. Jones v. State, 125 Ga. 307, 54 S. E. 122. Seven days' delay in issuing subpoenas after return of presentment held lack of diligence making proper denial of continuance. Fitzgerald v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 482. Extraordinary diligence must be shown on second application for continuance for absence of a witness. Melbourne v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 189. Sickness of absent witness held insufficiently shown to excuse lack of diligence in failure to subpoena. Weatherford v. State [Ark.] 93 S. W. 61. Defendant is not entitled to rely on the appearance of a witness because he is subpoenaed by the state. State v. Campbell [Kan.] 85 P. 784.

2. Should show that witness can probably be procured if continuance is granted. Weatherford v. State [Ark.] 93 S. W. 61. Where the absent witness is beyond the jurisdiction, motion must show some probability of his return. Wall v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 815.

3. Not an abuse of discretion to put defendant to a showing and refuse continuance on admission of the facts alleged as expected to be proved. Stallworth v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 184. If testimony of absent witness is conceded, denial of continuance is not error. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 129, 93 S. W. 726. Denial of continuance not error where state admitted showing of what absent witness would testify to. Stoudenmire v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 48.

4. Defendant held entitled to continuance at first term for absence of witness, notwithstanding admission that witness would testify as stated. Walton v. State, 87 Miss. 296, 39 So. 689.

The application must be promptly made,[7] must show that it was not made for delay,[8] and must show the requisite facts specifically and not by statement of bare conclusions.[9]

§ 8. Dismissal or nolle prosequi before trial.[10]—Nolle prosequi may be entered before plea.[11] An assistant prosecuting attorney is not amenable to a charge of contempt for refusing to obey an order of court to prepare and present a nolle prosequi in a specified case. Such an order should be directed to the prosecuting attorney.[12] In many states defendant is entitled to a dismissal if without good cause[13] he is not brought to trial within a certain time after indictment.[14] Where accused has become entitled to discharge because not put on trial within four months, dismissal of the pending indictment and finding of another for the same offense does not affect his right to discharge.[15] Where an indictment is nolled and a new one found, the three terms within which accused must be put on trial are counted from the finding of the new indictment.[16]

Pendency of another indictment for the same offense,[17] or one included in that charged,[18] does not ordinarily work an abatement.

§ 9. Evidence. Judicial notice.[19]—Judicial notice is taken of the political subdivision of the state[20] and of the names of public officials therein,[21] of facts of common knowledge,[22] though not of conditions transitory in their nature,[23] of the coin of the realm,[24] and of conditions established by public proclamation.[25] A municipal court judicially notices ordinances but no other court can do so.[26]

5. Funderburk v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 672.

6. State v. High, 116 La. 79, 40 So. 538.

7. Application eleven days after filing of information and after beginning of trial properly denied. Clements v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 432.

8. Jones v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 171.

9. General statement that due diligence had been used insufficient. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869.

10. See 5 C. L. 1813.

11. Mitchell v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 931.

12. Ex parte Froome Morris, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 212.

13. Where a case was continued on a proper showing by the prosecution of absence of witness, the court will not on review consider a claim that such continuance was unavailing because there was no legal jury at the term before the testimony of such witness could have been heard. Quinn v. People, 220 Ill. 28, 77 N. E. 121. Failure to put accused on trial within the time required is justified only by the existence of one of the statutory exceptions and accordingly he is entitled to discharge where the term was not held because of the death of the judge. Newlin v. People, 221 Ill. 166, 77 N. E. 529. The terms of court which intervene pending an appeal by the state from the quashal of the indictment are not to be counted. State v. Campbell [Kan.] 85 P. 784. A term at which accused failed to object to a continuance is not to be counted. State v. Dewey [Kan.] 85 P. 796. No right to discharge at second term where case was continued at first for absence of a witness for the state. State v. Pratt [S. D.] 107 N. W. 538.

14. Lapse of two terms held to entitle accused to discharge. Dublin v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 487.

15. Newlin v. People, 221 Ill. 166, 77 N. E. 529.

16. State v. Wigger, 196 Mo. 90, 93 S. W. 390.

17. Pendency of one indictment does not abate a second, though accused has been tried on the first and a new trial granted. Pride v. State, 125 Ga. 750, 54 S. E. 688.

18. Pendency of a prosecution for assault and battery does not abate a prosecution for assault and battery with intent to murder based on the same transaction. State v. Roberts [Ind.] 77 N. E. 1093.

19. See 5 C. L. 1814.

20. Location of county seat with respect to range and township lines within the county. State v. Arthur, 129 Iowa, 235, 105 N. W. 422. That a certain city is within the county in which the court sits. Commonwealth v. Salawich, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 330. That certain territory was part of that transferred by a change of county boundaries. Moore v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 327; Parker v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 329. Of the number of counties in a judicial district and the terms of court fixed by law therein. State v. Lu Sing [Mont.] 85 P. 521.

21. Names of circuit judges. Brunson v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 569.

22. That whiskey is intoxicating. Wilcoxson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 33, 91 S. W. 581. That whiskey is a spirituous liquor. Fears v. State, 125 Ga. 140, 54 S. E. 661. That draw poker is a gambling game. City of Shreveport v. Bowen, 116 La. 522, 40 So. 859.

23. Judicial notice will not be taken of the bad condition of public roads in the county where the court sits. Ward v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 923.

24. That a "nickel" is lawful coin of the United States. Barddell v. State, 144 Ala. 54, 39 So. 975.

25. Where the classification of a city has been fixed by proclamation of the governor

Presumptions and burden of proof.[27]—The plea of not guilty puts in issue every essential fact, including the identity of accused, and the burden is on the prosecution to establish every essential fact beyond a reasonable doubt,[28] but this strictness of proof does not extend to the rebuttal of mere evidentiary presumptions.[29] Though by statute no inference of guilt is to be drawn from defendant's failure to testify,[30] the jury is warranted in taking most strongly against him the circumstances which if innocent he might have explained.[31] The burden is on the state to show that the offense was committed within the period limited for commencing the prosecution,[32] but it has been held that the burden of proving that the offense was committed in another state is on defendant.[33] In Georgia defendant must prove alibi to reasonable satisfaction of jury,[34] but the general rule is otherwise.[35] The burden of adducing evidence to bring the case within an exception in the statute is on accused, but a reasonable doubt on the whole case acquits.[36] The burden of adducing evidence of insanity is always on accused, but there is a conflict as to the burden of proof.[37]

Relevancy and competency in general.[38]—Every fact which is relevant to the issue as bearing on the circumstances of the crime, the identity of accused as the perpetrator thereof[39] or his motive or intent therein, or his mental capacity at the time of the offense,[40] and every fact relevant to facts in issue, either by way of substantiation[41] or disproof,[42] are admissible, irrespective of its weight if it has any under a statute, it will be judicially noticed. State v. Ricksecker [Kan.] 85 P. 547.

26. Hill v. Atlanta, 125 Ga. 697, 54 S. E. 354; Ex parte Luening [Cal. App.] 84 P. 445.

27. See 5 C. L. 1814.

28. People v. Wong Sang Lung [Cal. App.] 84 P. 843. Nature of conclusive and rebuttable presumptions discussed. Id.

29. The presumption of good character does not stand until disproved beyond a reasonable doubt. State v. Roupetz [Kan.] 85 P. 778.

30. See post, § 10E, for instructions.

31. People v Smith, 114 App. Div. 513, 100 N. Y. S. 259.

32. Stelle v. State, 77 Ark. 441, 92 S. W. 530.

33. State v. Barrington [N. C.] 53 S. E. 663.

34. Ryals v. State, 125 Ga. 266, 54 S. E. 168.

35. Evidence of alibi need only raise a reasonable doubt. Barton v. Territory [Ariz.] 85 P. 730. The adduction of proof of an alibi does not shift the burden. Hatch v. State, 144 Ala. 50, 40 So. 113.

36. Richardson v. State, 77 Ark. 321, 91 S. W. 758. Under an ordinance prohibiting saloonkeeper from allowing any woman to remain in a saloon, but making it a defense if such woman is of good repute, the burden of establishing such defense is on accused. Commonwealth v. Price, 29 Ky. L. R. 593, 94 S. W. 32.

37. When insanity of accused is a defense in a criminal proceeding, the burden of proving insanity to the satisfaction of the jury by a preponderance of the evidence is on the defendant. Fults v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 458, 98 S. W. 1057. Reasonable doubt as to sanity acquits. State v. Wetter, 11 Idaho, 433, 83 P. 341.

38. See 5 C. L. 1816.

39. Evidence that defendant was without money before the homicide and had money afterward is admissible in connection with proof that money was stolen at the time of the homicide. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127. Where there was no eye witness and the description of the offender in a dying declaration was vague, the fact that another person than accused was first arrested is not admissible for impeachment, and it is not admissible for any other purpose. People v. Gray, 148 Cal. 507, 83 P. 707. Where a witness to the purchase of a weapon by defendant testified to his clothing, evidence that defendant wore such clothing at that time is admissible in corroboration. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Clothing worn by accused on the day of the alleged crime is admissible for purpose of identification. Boyd v State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 94 S. W. 1053.

40. Evidence that carpenter work by defendant shortly before the homicide was well done is admissible to rebut insanity. Barnett v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 778. Letters of defendant exhibiting mental weakness are admissible on an issue of sanity. State v. Speyer, 194 Mo. 459, 91 S. W. 1075.

41. Corroborative evidence is relevant though addressed to a circumstance not essential to the offense. Where the prosecuting witness in incest testified that the intercourse was by force, evidence of a physical examination showing evidence of force is admissible. State v. Winslow [Utah] 85 P. 433. The opinion of the person to whom a dying declaration was made that another person than accused answered the description therein is inadmissible. People v. Gray, 148 Cal. 507, 83 P. 707. Where the fact of search for property is relevant, it is proper to show that it was made in consequence of certain information, but such testimony is not to be considered as proof of the facts noted. Cody v. State, 124 Ga. 446, 52 S. E. 750. Where the defense is that accused went to the probative force;[43] but all such facts must, unless part of the res gestae of the crime,[44] be in some manner connected with the accused.[45] Evidence otherwise irrelevant may be admissible to explain or rebut similar evidence received.[46] Competent facts are not excluded by the fact that information leading thereto was derived from privileged sources,[47] and property found on illegal search of defendant's premises is admissible.[48] Evidence relating to a codefendant not on trial is admissible so far as it is inseparable from that relevant against defendant.[49] Where defendant lives and with whom he associates is relevant though it establishes that he is a person of lewd habits.[50] Taking of defendant's shoe for comparison with footprints was held not to violate prohibition against self-crimination,[51] and the result of such comparison is admissible;[52] that the comparison was made by putting the shoe into the tracks going to its weight, not to its admissibility.[53] To admit proof of trailing by bloodhounds, it must first be shown that the dogs were trained to track wrong house by mistake, it is error to exclude testimony that he was drunk. Garrett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 263, 91 S. W. 577. Proof of the date of an occurrence by which a witness fixes a relevant date is relevant. Curry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 566, 94 S. W. 1058. Where it appeared that the difficulty started because accused said that a statement by prosecutor was a lie, the truth or falsity of such statement is irrelevant. Coleman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 697, 91 S. W. 783. Where accused testified that he was joking when he made an insulting remark, it is proper to exclude evidence that he was in the habit of making joking remarks. Cross v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 701, 91 S. W. 223.

42. Where defendant claimed duress from fear of a secret society, proof that he was a member thereof is admissible in rebuttal. Commonwealth v. Campolla, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 379. On trial for arson where insurance is shown, defendant may show that the property was not overinsured. State v. Harvey, 130 Iowa, 394, 106 N. W. 938. Evidence that a witness who testified to recognizing accused at considerable distance was very near sighted should be admitted. Mathison v. State, 87 Miss. 739, 40 So. 801. Evidence of the sale by accused of another animal not alleged to have been stolen held admissible for the purpose of identification. State v. Walker, 194 Mo. 253, 92 S. W. 659.

43. Where it appears that the fatal wounds must have been inflicted with a certain kind of weapon, evidence that before the homicide defendant had such a weapon in his possession is admissible, though the weapon was of a very common kind. Ordinary pocket knife. Morgan v. Ter., 16 Okl. 530, 85 P. 718. Testimony will not ordinarily be stricken merely because it is insufficient to prove the fact in question if it has some probative tendency. Maloy v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 791.

44. See post, this section. On trial for arson evidence of loss of life in the fire held irrelevant and prejudicial. State v. Harvey, 130 Iowa, 394, 106 N. W. 938.

45. Evidence of a declaration made by some one not named held error where there was evidence of killing pursuant to conspiracy, since the jury might make the unauthorized inference that it was by a conspirator. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Articles of personal wear found at the scene of the crime are not admissible unless connected with accused. Testimony that one of a different given name than accused wore a pin like that found held insufficient. Field v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 502. On an issue whether defendant wrote certain typewritten letters, evidence that they were written on a machine in the town where defendant resided is relevant, though there is no showing of use of such machine by defendant. State v. Freshwater [Utah] 85 P. 447.

46. Where defendant testifies to his version of an interview, he cannot object to contradictory testimony as irrelevant. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805. Though a conversation proved by the state is not relevant, accused has the right to give his version of it. Ray v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 519. Where the arresting officer has testified to a declaration by defendant, it is error to refuse to allow defendant to state his version thereof. Briggs v. People. 219 Ill. 330. 76 N. E. 499. Where prosecution proves statement, accused may show all that was said at that time but not what was said on another occasion. State v. Thompson, 116 La. 829, 41 So. 107.

47. Plan of house admissible though draftsman obtained information from defendant's wife and finding of cartridges admissible though found from information derived from defendant. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 213 Pa. 432, 62 A. 1064.

48. State v. Sulter, 78 Vt. 391, 63 A. 182. Property unlawfully taken from the person of defendant on his arrest is none the less admissible in evidence. Lawrence v. State [Md.] 63 A. 96; Duren v. Thomasville, 125 Ga. 1, 53 S. E. 814. Where officers making a search of defendant's premises did not act under a warrant which they had, the fact that their search was illegal does not exclude property found by them. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

49. Krens v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 27.

50. Osborn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 900.

51. State v. Graham, 116 La. 779, 41 So. 90; Moss v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 340.

52. Identification of shoes as those taken from defendant held sufficient to admit evidence of comparison of tracks. Krens v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 27.

human beings.[54] Testimony as to a conversation is not to be excluded because the witness did not hear it all,[55] nor because he did not see the parties at the time.[56] Evidence on a trial for arson that the fire department had the premises watched for some days after the fire is not admissible.[57] It is not error to allow the prosecutrix in a rape case to testify that, being deserted by her husband, she supported herself.[58] Evidence of the argument of the prosecuting attorney on a former trial tending to show a change of theory is inadmissible.[59] On the issue whether deceased, a negro, had assumed the name by which he was designated in the indictment, evidence that many of the negroes on the plantation where he lived adopted such name is inadmissible.[60] Where it is doubtful whether an act shown under an indictment for a continuing offense was committed before or after the finding of the indictment, the court may admit the evidence and leave the question to the jury.[61]

Acts disclosing consciousness of guilt,[62] such as flight,[63] resistance of arrest,[64] false statements as to his knowledge of the offense,[65] attempt to escape from custody,[66] tampering with witnesses or attempt to suppress the prosecution,[67] are admissible; but attempts by a third person to bribe witnesses must be connected with accused,[68] and defendant is not entitled to prove that a third person attempted to suppress the prosecution.[69] Where flight is shown, defendant may prove that he voluntarily surrendered himself,[70] or that he fled from fear of violence,[71] or that he was insane,[72] but where no proof of flight has been offered, accused cannot prove that he made no effort to escape.[73]

53. State v. Graham, 116 La. 779, 41 So. 90.

54. Little v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 674. Trailing by dogs after proof of their training. Richardson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 82. Evidence of training of bloodhounds held sufficient. Hargrove v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 972.

55. State v. Crump, 116 La. 978, 41 So. 229.

56. State v. Stukes, 73 S. C. 386, 53 S. E. 643.

57. People v. Brown, 110 App. Div. 490, 96 N. Y. S. 957.

58. People v. Murphy [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 602, 108 N. W. 1009.

59. People v. Darr [Cal. App.] 84 P. 457.

60. Stallworth v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 184.

61. Levan v. State, 125 Ga. 278, 54 S. E. 173.

62. See 5 C. L. 1818.

63. Allen v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 624. That defendant fled and was pursued by a crowd is admissible (Benjamin v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 739), but not that the pursuing crowd cried "murder" (Id.). Statements of accused that he intended to go away admissible to show preparation for flight. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409. Testimony of flight is admissible in case of open as well as secret crimes. State v. Nash, 115 La. 719, 39 So. 854. Where defendant was and what he was doing relevant in connection with proof of flight. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 979.

64. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Evidence of resistance of arrest is admissible where defense is temporary insanity. People v. Haxer, 144 Mich. 575, 13 Det. Leg. N. 303, 108 N. W. 90.

65. Denial of identity or false explanation of incriminating circumstances admissible. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 979. That accused under an unlawful "sweating" process by the police denies all knowledge of the crime creates no inference against him, though on his trial he admits the killing and claims self-defense. Flynn v. People, 222 Ill. 303, 78 N. E. 617.

66. State v. Barnes, 47 Or. 592, 85 P. 998. Letter of defendant indicating intention to break jail. Bradford v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 462.

67. Evidence that prosecuting witness was offered money to stop the prosecution without evidence connecting defendant with the offer is error. People v. Long, 144 Mich. 585, 13 Det. Leg. N. 318, 108 N. W. 91. Offers to compromise cannot be shown. Sanders v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 466.

68. That defendant's father attempted to bribe a witness not admissible unless defendant is connected therewith. Sims v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 413.

69. Chamblees v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 145, 94 S. W. 220.

70. Allen v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 624. Where the evidence shows that accused surrendered himself and was released, no charge being made against him, proof that he was subsequently arrested outside the state is not such proof of flight as to admit self-serving declarations as to readiness to appear at any time. Sneed v. Ter., 16 Okl. 541, 85 P. 70.

71. People v. Easton, 148 Cal. 50, 82 P. 840. Turbulence and rioting after the homicide may be shown to rebut the inference from flight. Brown v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 737. Evidence that some one had threatened to shoot defendant not admissible to rebut inference from flight. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409.

72. No presumption from flight where de-

Remoteness[74] ordinarily goes to the weight of testimony rather than its admissibility.[75]

Other offenses, convictions, and acquittals.[76]—Other distinct offenses are ordinarily inadmissible.[77] Exception is made, however, of necessity, where the offenses are so blended that the proof of one necessarily involves the proof of the other,[78] or where evidence otherwise admissible incidentally tends to show another offense,[79] or when necessary to rebut an inference from a fact in evidence;[80] but where the evidence of a distinct crime has only a remote bearing on any issue in the case and its prejudicial effect is great, it is error to admit it.[81] Evidence of other fendant was insane. People v. Easton, 148 Cal. 50, 82 P. 840.

73. Lingerfelt v. State, 125 Ga. 4, 53 S. E. 803.

74. See 5 C. L. 1818.

75. Finding of property of deceased in defendant's possession some months after homicide is admissible. State v. Barnes, 47 Or. 592, 85 P. 998. On a trial for murder by strychnine poisoning, a declaration by defendant several years before that he always kept strychnine on hand is admissible. State v. Woodard [Iowa] 108 N. W. 753.

76. See 5 C. L. 1818.

77. That accused made a business of stealing chickens not admissible, on trial for larceny of other property. Reagan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 239, 93 S. W. 733. It is error to allow prosecution for another crime twenty years before to be shown on cross-examination of accused. Ware v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 1093; Bryan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 33, 91 S. W. 581. Another disconnected sale inadmissible on prosecution for violating local option law. Swalm v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 321, 91 S. W. 575. Independent offense not similar in incidents to that on trial not admissible to prove system. Illegal sale of liquor. Lane v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 882, 92 S. W. 839. That accused was actually guilty of a charge not admissible on trial for bribery of an officer with respect thereto. Haynes v. Com., 104 Va. 854, 52 S. E. 358. Subsequent assault on same person not admissible. Nesbit v. State, 125 Ga. 51, 54 S. E. 195. Similar previous assault on another person inadmissible in prosecution for rape. Nickolizack v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 895. Larceny from another some months previous to that charged. People v. Sekeson, 111 App. Div. 490, 97 N. Y. 917. In a trial for arson, proof that in past years other property of defendant was destroyed by fire. People v. Brown, 110 App. Div. 490, 96 N. Y. S. 957. Evidence that defendant in a homicide case lives on the earnings of a prostitute is incompetent. That a witness was cross-examined by defendant as to her prostitution does not make admissible evidence that defendant maintained her. People v. Cascone, 185 N. Y. 317, 78 N. E. 287.

78. Letter confessing another crime besides that on trial may go to the jury as a whole where they are so blended that the part relating to the offense on trial cannot be separately submitted. Taylor v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1348, 92 S. W. 292. Shooting of another in same altercation. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. Where one was both cut and shot by the same person, proof of the shooting is admissible though the information charges only the cutting. State v. Romano, 41 Wash. 241, 83 P. 1. Other property taken at same time. Bradford v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 452; Echols v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 298; Territory v. Livingston [N. M.] 84 P. 1021. On a trial for larceny, other property found on defendant's person and stolen at the same time as that described in the indictment is admissible. People v. Peltin, 1 Cal. App. 612, 82 P. 980. Killing of another person in same altercation. People v. McClure, 148 Cal. 418, 83 P. 437. Where defendant was accused of murder committed while in the perpetration of burglary, a confession is not inadmissible because it also tends to show the burglary. State v. Dalton [Wash.] 86 P. 590.

79. Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385. Evidence, merely, that accused while on the way to the court house with the sheriff asked a certain person to go on his bond, does not show a previous offense. Counts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 142, 94 S. W. 220. Evidence that witness became acquainted with accused while acting as guard at a convict camp Hammock v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 905, 93 S. W. 549. That prosecutor on the day after the alleged assault assaulted a third person is not admissible to refute his testimony as to injuries received. Honeycutt v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 533, 92 S. W. 421. Testimony as to how long a witness has known defendant is not to be excluded because the witness is a prostitute. People v. Salas, 2 Cal. App. 537, 84 P. 295. Killing of officer in resistance of arrest. State v. High, 116 La. 79, 40 So. 538. No objection to declaration of accused that it incidentally appears that at the time of making it he was under arrest for other offenses. State v. Poole, 42 Wash. 192, 84 P. 727. Evidence of warden of foreign penitentiary that he had known defendant "three years and six months less good time" admissible to show absence of defendant to toll statute of limitations. State v. Moran [Iowa] 109 N. W. 187. Photograph of defendant in prison garb may be used for identification where it was alleged that at the time of the offense accused was smooth shaven. Id.

80. To rebut an inference that failure of officer to take down statement of prosecutrix was due to lack of belief therein, he may testify that it was because there were other girls making similar charges against accused. State v. Hummer, 72 N. J. Law, 328, 62 A. 388.

offenses is also admissible to show motive,[82] to prove knowledge or intent,[83] or where the several offenses form part of a single system,[84] and occasionally as part of a circumstantial case.[85] In crimes whose gravamen is voluntary sexual intercourse, other acts of the parties not too remote[86] are admissible to show inclination,[87] but not offenses by accused with other women.[88] Except for the purpose of impeachment,[89] or where the fact of conviction is in some manner relevant,[90] former convictions are not admissible, and in no event are the particulars of the former offense admissible merely because the fact of conviction is.[91] Previous indictment on which defendant was acquitted cannot be shown.[92] Where defendant was

81. On trial for murder by arsenical poisoning evidence that arsenic was found in the body of one who died in defendant's house, before the murder charged, offered ostensibly to show that there was arsenic in the house. People v. Collins, 144 Mich. 121, 13 Det. Leg. N. 178, 107 N. W. 1114.

82. Uttering of other forged notes. People v. Dolan [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 569. Evidence of incestuous relations of defendant and his daughter is admissible on a trial for murder in connection with proof that he was extremely jealous of deceased's attention to her. People v. Cook, 148 Cal. 334, 83 P. 43. On a trial for murder, evidence as to how many times defendant had visited a certain house of prostitution is admissible where jealousy over an inmate was the motive alleged. People v. Easton, 148 Cal. 50, 82 P. 840. Seduction of deceased's daughter and threats by deceased to prosecute him therefor. State v. Martin, 47 Or. 282, 83 P. 849.

83. Shooting at same person two hours later. State v. High, 116 La. 79, 40 So. 538. Other false pretenses. State v. Gibson [Iowa] 106 N. W. 270. To show that place where gambling occurred was public place. Winston v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 174. Other sales of liquor admissible to show defendant's authority on the premises. Untreiner v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 170. Where the crime charged is the making of a false receipt for the payment of money with intent to defraud, evidence of similar offenses or similar transactions by the same defendant is competent as tending to show the motive or intent with which the receipt in question was made, altered, or forged, and its use in connection with other instruments forged by the defendant. Lingafelter v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 537. Proof of other forgeries held too remote to be admissible on scienter. People v. Dolan, 111 App. Div. 600, 97 N. Y. S. 929. Other debts than that alleged in prosecution for changing name with intent to defraud. Morris v. State, 144 Ala. 81, 39 So. 973. Similar false pretenses. State v. Briggs [Kan.] 86 P. 447. Obtaining money from others by similar false pretenses held not admissible to show intent. State v. Oppenheimer, 41 Wash. 630, 84 P. 588. Prior assaults admissible to show malice. People v. Dinser, 49 Misc. 82, 98 N. Y. S. 314. Possession of other stolen property on trial for receiving stolen goods. Beuchert v. State, 165 Ind. 523, 76 N. E. 111.

84. Other sales of liquor without license. State v. Peterson [Minn.] 108 N. W. 6. Other forgeries. Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385. Operations of club designed to evade liquor laws. Walker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 216, 94 S. W. 230. Must have been a connection in the mind of the author linking them together or it must be essential to identify the person by proving that the perpetrator of the offense shown must also have committed that on trial. Alsobrook v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 805. Unsuccessful attempts to rob, pursuant to a conspiracy, are admissible on trial of one conspirator for a robbery subsequently committed in pursuance of the same conspiracy. People v. Zimmerman [Cal. App.] 84 P. 446. Uttering of several forged notes drawn in the names of different persons held to be part of common plan. People v. Dolan [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 569.

85. On trial for theft of cattle, proof that hides of other cattle were found buried on defendant's land held admissible. Watters v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 524, 94 S. W. 1038.

86. Former acts at remote time held inadmissible in incest. Gillespie v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 68, 93 S. W. 556.

87. Adams v. State [Ark.] 92 S. W. 1123. Other acts of incest. Lipham v. State, 125 Ga. 52, 53 S. E. 817. Subsequent acts between same parties inadmissible in prosecution for rape. People v. Brown, 142 Mich. 622, 12 Det. Leg. N. 852, 106 N. W. 149. Prior and subsequent acts admissible on trial for statutory rape. People v. Morris [Cal. App.] 84 P. 463. Indecent liberties shortly previous to those charged may be shown. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805.

88. In a prosecution of statutory rape, evidence tending to show a like offense with another girl is inadmissible. State v. Marselle [Wash.] 86 P. 586. On trial for adultery prior intercourse with woman not identified as the one named in the indictment on trial, inadmissible. Commonwealth v. Shanor, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 358.

89. See Witnesses, 6 C. L. 1975. Previous convictions cannot be proved unless defendant testifies. Code Cr. Proc. § 513, allows only proof of general bad character. People v. Gibson, 99 N. Y. S. 1052.

90. Former conviction of accused for gambling admissible on trial for murder where it appears that such conviction was procured on testimony of deceased. Hayes v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 809.

91. Prior conviction may be shown on cross-examination, but not particulars of the offense. State v. Mount [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 124. Where admissions made by defendant while testifying in former prosecutions against him are offered as original evidence, it is error to permit proof of the fact of such prosecutions, but the admissions separately indicted for killing two persons in a single altercation, the record of his acquittal on one is not admissible on trial for the other.[93]

Character and reputation.[94]—Defendant is entitled to show his general reputation in the community[95] before the offense[96] with respect to the traits involved in the charge made.[97]. Unless he shall do so, the prosecution is not entitled to prove his reputation.[98] Repute as to sanity is not admissible.[99] Testimony that witness knows defendant's reputation, and that it is good, is not to be stricken because he admits that he never heard it discussed.[1] Character being in the nature of a collateral issue, the court may, in its discretion, limit the number of witnesses thereon.[2]

Hearsay.[3]—Unsworn statements of third persons are inadmissible,[4] aside from a few well known exceptions.[5]

Admissions and declarations.[6]—Self-serving declarations by the accused are not admissible,[7] but incriminating declarations and admissions are whether made before[8] or after the commission of the offense,[9] including those implied from silence should be shown without more. State v. Strodemier, 40 Wash. 608, 82 P. 915.

92. People v. Cascone, 185 N. Y. 317, 78 N. E. 287.

93. State v. Rosa, 72 N. J. Law, 462, 62 A. 695.

94. See 5 C. L. 1820.

95. Must be proved by general repute and not by particular acts. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178. That defendant had never been charged with crime is not admissible as part of proof of his good character for peace and quiet. Banks v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 921. Character cannot be proved by specific acts. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Cross-examination of one witness as to whether he knew of specific acts does not admit proof of such acts by another witness. Id.

96. What was said after the homicide as to defendant's reputation before is inadmissible. State v. Viscome, 78 Vt. 485, 63 A. 877.

97. Carter v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 82.

98. State v. Beckner, 194 Mo. 281, 91 S. W. 892. Evidence on a prosecution for vagrancy that defendant is reputed to be a pickpocket is error. State v. Stone, 96 Minn. 482, 105 N. W. 187.

99. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649.

1. Sinclair v. State, 87 Miss. 330, 39 So. 522; Johnson v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 324.

2. Limitation of character witnesses to six held reasonable. State v. Rodriguez, 115 La. 1004, 40 So. 438.

3. See 5 C. L. 1820.

4. Conversation between third persons not in presence of accused. Smart v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 694, 92 S. W. 810; Marks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 414. Admissions of victim of crime are not admissible as original evidence. State v. Hummer, 72 N. J. Law, 328, 62 A. 388. That one "claimed to be married," hearsay and inadmissible to support indictment for adultery. Tison v. State, 125 Ga. 7, 53 S. E. 809. A statement which might have been of the knowledge of the witness will not be presumed to be hearsay. That prosecutor had lost certain property. Nixon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 59, 93 S. W. 555. Inconsistent statements of witness not admissible as original evidence. Bishop v. State, 125 Ga. 29, 53 S. E. 807. Ex parte statements by physicians, since deceased, as to mental condition of defendant, are not admissible. Barnett v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 778. Declarations of codefendant when arrested inadmissible to corroborate his testimony in favor of defendant. Lewis v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 928. Statements of the injured person after the offense are not original evidence. Brown v. State, 127 Wis. 193, 106 N. W. 536. Ex parte declaration of third person of his own guilt inadmissible. State v. Bailey [Kan.] 87 P. 189. On indictment of public officer for assisting third person to wrongfully obtain certain public money, declaration of such third person out of court to receipt of such money is hearsay. State v. Mickler [N. J. Law] 64 A. 148. On an issue whether a certain payment was made to defendant, evidence that the person who testified to making the payment was credited therewith by the person on whose behalf he made it is hearsay. State v. Newman [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1008.

5. One may testify to his own age. Curry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 566, 94 S. W. 1053. Hearsay may be allowed as to a matter merely introductory. That witness started dogs on the trail at what he was told was the place of the homicide, the place being fully identified. Richardson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 82. Family Bible kept by grandfather admissible. State v. Hazlett [N. D.] 105 N. W. 617.

6. See 5 C. L. 1821.

7. State v. Mitchell, 130 Iowa, 697, 107 N. W. 804. Letters of accused before homicide showing affection for deceased not admissible. State v. Speyer, 194 Mo. 459, 91 S. W. 1075. Exculpatory statement by accused five minutes after homicide not admissible. Little v. State, 87 Miss. 512, 40 So. 165.

8. General declaration of intent to commit a crime such as that charged, admissible on trial for assault with intent to rape. Bawcom v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 222, 94 S. W. 462.

9. Admission of offense similar to that charged, admissible though it does not state time or place. Cook v. State, 124 Ga. 653, 53 S. E. 104. Ambiguous declaration under accusation.[10] Declarations of third persons in the presence of defendant are not in themselves admissible. It is the conduct of defendant in respect thereto which alone is evidence.[11] That the witness did not understand all of a declaration by defendant does not exclude what he did understand.[12] Testimony as to a conversation between accused and his wife by one who overheard it is not inadmissible because the wife is incompetent to testify.[13] If defendant being subpoenaed before the grand jury voluntarily answers, his statements are not privileged.[14] The privilege against self-crimination extends only to testimonial crimination and does not exclude the result of a comparison of footprints with shoes taken from accused without his consent.[15] A sworn statement of defendant taken before his arrest and in a proceeding instituted wholly without authority is not privileged.[16] An affidavit for continuance made by defendant, in which he stated that a witness would testify to certain facts, is admissible against him where the witness when produced testified to the contrary.[17] It cannot be shown that defendant compromised a civil suit based on the same facts as the charge on trial.[18]

Confessions.[19]—Confessions of guilt are, if voluntary,[20] admissible, though ac-admissible if in connection with other evidence it has an incriminating tendency. Allred v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 178. Declarations of defendant while under arrest not amounting to confession held not objectionable as unfairly obtained. Hoch v. People, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356. Admission of defendant that he had "put on a little" on the check is admissible on a prosecution for raising a check. State v. Spiker [Iowa] 108 N. W. 233.

10. A remark of a codefendant to accused importing that their guilt was equal is admissible in connection with the failure of accused to reply. Finch v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 187, 92 S. W. 940. Statements in defendant's presence tending to incriminate him and not answered by him. Commonwealth v. Dewhirst, 190 Mass. 293, 76 N. E. 1052. Statements in defendant's presence are admissible, it being a question for the jury whether he heard them. State v. Rosa, 72 N. J. Law, 462, 62 A. 695. Defendant's silence when accused said "you will die some day and have to answer for this." State v. Sudduth [S. C.] 54 S. E. 1013. It must affirmatively appear that the statement was heard by accused and was of such a nature as to call for a denial by him. Lumpkin v. State, 125 Ga. 24, 53 S. E. 810 Accusations by deceased shortly before his death and the silence of accused. That accused was under arrest at the time held immaterial. People v. Sullivan [Cal. App.] 86 P. 834. Statements of third persons in presence of accused and his conduct with respect thereto. People v. Ah Lung, 2 Cal. App. 278, 83 P. 296.

11. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Exclamation of bystander in presence of defendant shortly after homicide, admissible. Raine v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 66, 92 S. W. 276. Statements by third person in defendant's presence, which he promptly denies, are not admissible. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 213 Pa. 607, 63 A. 134. The admissibility of incriminating declarations in the presence of defendant depends on the theory that his silence is an admission, and accordingly it must clearly appear that he understood what was being said. Answer of injured person held inadmissible because it did not appear that defendant understood the questions. People v. Cascone, 185 N. Y. 317, 78 N. E. 287.

12. State v. Lu Sing [Mont.] 85 P. 521.

13. Ford v. State, 124 Ga. 793, 53 S. E. 335.

14. State v. Campbell [Kan.] 85 P. 784.

15. State v. Fuller [Mont.] 85 P. 369, collating the authorities. Result of comparison of defendant's footprints with those near the scene of the crime, where defendant made no objection to the comparison. State v. Arthur, 129 Iowa, 235, 105 N. W. 422.

16. Statement taken by justice to determine necessity of holding inquest. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545.

17. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838.

18. State v. Campbell, 129 Iowa, 154, 105 N. W. 395.

19. See 5 C. L. 1822.

20. Statements made by defendant while under arrest to a person with whom he was confronted for the purpose of identification, no threats or promises having been made, are admissible. Clay v. State [Wyo.] 86 P. 17. Whether accused was at the time of making a confession still under the influences which had induced a previous involuntary one held for the jury. Milner v. State, 124 Ga. 86, 52 S. E. 302. Confession induced by advice of employe of prosecutor held inadmissible. Smith v. State, 125 Ga. 252, 54 S. E. 190. Where it appeared that defendant was a weak minded person, a confession made while he was in custody in response to questions assuming his guilt is inadmissible, though no threats or promises were made. Peck v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 759. Confession held not to have been made under fear of mob violence. State v. High, 116 La. 79, 40 So. 538. Where the chief of police told defendant that it would be better for him if he made a certain statement and that he was liable to be hung, a confession is inadmissible. Maxwell v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 615. Confession made in response to a promise that witness would go to the solicitor and see what could be done held voluntary. State v. Perry [S. C.] 54 S. E. 764. Statement of officer that it would be better for cused was at the time in custody.[21] In Texas, however, where accused was in custody, it must appear that he was warned that whatever he might say would be used against him.[22] Finding of stolen property at place indicated by confession is admissible even though the confession is not.[23] There should be a preliminary showing that the confession was voluntary,[24] or at least an absence of anything suggesting that it was not,[25] the sufficiency of the predicate being for the court[26] and resting largely in discretion.[27] Where it subsequently appears that a confession was procured by duress, it should be withdrawn.[28] Strict rules of proof require that the corpus delicti be first proved before a confession is admissible.[29] Several confessions at different times may be shown.[30] Transcript of shorthand notes of confession, verified by testimony of stenographer, is admissible.[31] Prosecution may contradict part of confession.[32]

Acts and declarations of co-conspirators[33] in furtherance of the conspiracy, not after object of conspiracy is completed,[34] are admissible after a preliminary showing of the fact of conspiracy.[35] Declarations of accused to a conspirator are admissible without preliminary proof of the conspiracy.[36] Testimony of a conspirator directly to the fact is not within the rule that conspiracy cannot be proved by declarations of a co-conspirator.[37]

Res gestae.[38]—Exclamations or other statements made at the time of the offense or so soon thereafter as to proceed from impulse rather than reflection are admissible,[39] whether made by the accused,[40] the person injured,[41] or third persons.[42] accused if he confessed does not affect a confession to another officer several hours later. Pearsall v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 222, 92 S. W. 589.

21. Not necessarily involuntary because accused was in custody. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 773, 40 So. 42; State v. Henderson [S. C.] 55 S. E. 117; Hamilton v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 940.

22. Incriminating acts under arrest are within the rule requiring warning. Lasister v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 67, 94 S. W. 233. Confession to another than the person warning accused is admissible if in such proximity to warning that accused may be presumed to have had it in mind. Stephens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 937, 93 S. W. 545. Warning that any statement "might" be used sufficient. Garrett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 263, 91 S. W. 577. A confession is admissible, though after the statutory warning an officer told accused that he would die within an hour from a wound he had received. Jackson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 250, 91 S. W. 788.

23. State v. Moran [Iowa] 109 N. W. 187.

24. The rule as to preliminary proof of voluntariness applies to confessions and not to declarations of accused having only a circumstantially incriminating tendency. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Statements designed to be exculpatory are not confessions within the rule requiring preliminary proof of voluntariness. State v. Campbell [Kan.] 85 P. 784. Formal predicate held sufficient. Richardson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 82.

25. Confessions admissible in absence of showing that they were involuntary. Carpenter v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 107, 92 S. W. 552.

26. Admissibility of confession is for court. Pearsall v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 222, 92 S. W. 589.

27. State v. Henderson [S. C.] 55 S. E. 117.

28. State v. Willing, 129 Iowa, 72, 105 N. W. 355.

29. Proof of corpus delicti of murder held sufficient to admit confessions. People v. Fallon [Cal.] 86 P. 689.

30, 31. Lowe v. State, 125 Ga. 55, 53 S. E. 1038.

32. State v. Tilghman [Del. O. & T.] 63 A. 772.

33. See 5 C. L. 1823.

34. State v. Phillips, 73 S. C. 236, 53 S. E. 370; State v. Wells [Mont.] 83 P. 476. Fabrication of defense after arrest held within scope of conspiracy. State v. Dilley [Wash.] 87 P. 133.

35. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Predicate held sufficient. State v. Brown, 130 Iowa, 57, 106 N. W. 379. Proof of conspiracy to rob held sufficient. State v. Dilley [Wash.] 87 P. 133; Lawrence v. State [Md.] 63 A. 96. Preliminary evidence of conspiracy to commit burglary held insufficient. State v. Arthur, 129 Iowa, 235, 105 N. W. 422. Preliminary proof of conspiracy to assault held insufficient. State v. Wheeler, 129 Iowa, 100, 105 N. W. 374. Sufficiency of the prima facie proof rests largely in discretion. State v. White [Or.] 87 P. 37. May be proved by the declarations of defendant alone. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. May be inferred from acts and circumstances. Id. Preliminary proof of conspiracy to defraud held sufficient. Lawrence v. State [Md.] 63 A. 96.

36. People v. Bunkers, 2 Cal. App. 197, 84 P. 364, 370.

37. People v. Zimmerman [Cal. App.] 84 P. 446.

38. See 5 C. L. 1823.

39. Quarrel just prior to homicide at which deceased was present but took no part

An exclamation which is part of the res gestae is not to be excluded because made by an eye witness who is too young to testify.[43] Determination of what is part of res gestae rests largely in discretion.[44]

Expert and opinion evidence.[45]—Ordinarily, it is inadmissible for a witness to testify to a bare conclusion of fact.[46] An opinion or conclusion is admissible, however, where the nature of the facts on which it is founded makes their adequate statement impossible,[47] or where the matter is one involving such special knowledge that it is not to be supposed that the jury can unaided draw a proper inference therefrom.[48] As to such matters, any person shown to be of special learning and not part of res gestae. State v. Kapelino [S. D.] 108 N. W. 335. On prosecution for larceny of check given to defendant as part of contribution to joint adventure, a check for the balance of such contribution given two days later held part of res gestae. People v. Hart, 99 N. Y. S. 758.

40. Resistance to persons endeavoring to separate accused and deceased is part of the res gestae. Powers v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 277, 92 S. W. 975. Self serving declaration of accused five minutes after the homicide no part of res gestae. Park v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 489. Narrative by defendant five minutes afterward no part of the res gestae, particularly where his mind has been diverted by another transaction since the homicide. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. Any statement of accused when first called on to explain the possession by him of stolen goods. Lanier v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 496. Statements of defendant some minutes after homicide while on his way to surrender himself not part of res gestae. Johnson v. State [Wis.] 108 N. W. 55.

41. Complaint by prosecutrix of aggravated assault made immediately after accused left the premises held part of the res gestae. Chambless v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 145, 94 S. W. 220. Remark of deceased in presence of defendant immediately after being shot held part of the res gestae. Smith v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 959. Statement that defendant had a pistol made by the person assailed during the altercation to persons who had come to his assistance, part of the res gestae. Simmons v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 660. Declarations of victim of abortion before going to see defendant held not part of res gestae. State v. Bly [Minn.] 108 N. W. 833. Statements by prosecutrix the day after a rape no part of the res gestae. In re Kelly, 28 Nev. 491, 83 P. 223. Statement by prosecutrix to a physician examining her the day after the alleged rape is not part of the res gestae. Brown v. State, 127 Wis. 193, 106 N. W. 536.

42. Frightened exclamation of bystander seeing defendant about to shoot part of res gestae. Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 35, 40 So. 269. Evidence that after the homicide several persons got guns and started after defendant is not part of the res gestae. Teague v. State, 144 Ala. 42, 40 So. 312. Declaration of third person mortally wounded in same affray that defendant shot him and deceased held admissible as part of the res gestae. State v. Williams, 96 Minn. 351, 105 N. W. 265.

43. Grant v. State, 124 Ga. 757, 53 S. E. 334.

44. Johnson v. State [Wis.] 108 N. W. 55; State v. Kapelino [S. D.] 108 N. W. 335.

45. See 5 C. L. 1824.

46. Held conclusions: Whether appearance of accused when asleep was such as to indicate that he had recently committed offense. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 837, 40 So. 239. That one was "gambling." Fleming v. State, 125 Ga. 17, 53 S. E. 579. Whether witness would have seen an exchange of weapons had it been made. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. Statement of witness that he would not have made the mistake in brands which accused alleged in defense. Bryan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 33, 91 S. W. 581. Opinion of express agent that package consigned to defendant contained whiskey. McNeely v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 516, 92 S. W. 419. That witness ceased attending church because of disturbance by accused. Deskin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 742. Whether certain words operated to the terror of bystanders. Shuler v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 496. Defendant is not entitled to state for what purpose he carried a pistol. Smith v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 957.

Held not conclusions: Whether witness was close enough to have heard a remark had it been made. Hill v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 387. Whether a third person was joking when he made a certain statement. Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621. Evidence of comparison of footprints. Krens v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 27. That article purchased "looked like a bottle of wine." Dillard v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 584. That minor to whom liquor was sold did not look to be twenty-one years old. Ferguson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 572, 95 S. W. 111.

47. May state whether one was intoxicated. Henderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 570, 91 S. W. 569. Opinion as to identity when resting on facts known to witness is admissible. State v. James, 194 Mo. 268, 92 S. W. 679. Nonexpert may state whether a person was conscious. Walker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 878. Any person may give an opinion of the time elapsing between two occurrences observed by him. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237. Nonexpert may state the character of the wounds found by him in the body of deceased. Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621.

48. Man familiar for many years with firearms competent to state opinion that report was that of a pistol. State v. Graham, 116 La. 779, 41 So. 90. Opinion of owner of dogs as to reason why they left the trail inadmissible. Richardson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 82. Improper to allow witness to express experience may express his opinion;[49] and some matters, such as sanity,[50] value of articles in ordinary use,[51] and other similar facts based on general observation,[52] are deemed subjects of nonexpert opinion in connection with the facts observed by him on which it is based.[53] When counsel states that he does not seek to examine a witness as an expert, questions proper only to an expert are properly excluded.[54] As hypothetical questions may assume any state of facts which might be found from the evidence, the latitude to be allowed in the framing of such questions rests in discretion.[55, 56] An expert may, as showing his qualification and familiarity with the subject, state that he has made experiments, but whether he shall be allowed to state the nature and detail of such experiments depends on the nature of the subject-matter and rests in the discretion of the court.[57] On an issue of handwriting, any properly authenticated writings may be received as standards for comparison.[58] The rule that standards of comparison must be proved by direct proof or other equivalent evidence means no more than that they cannot be proved by opinion or coman opinion as to course of bullet in plank which is before the jury. State v. Gallo, 115 La. 746, 39 So. 1001. Points of entrance and exit of fatal bullet where body is not before jury. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. How a loghouse would burn is not a subject of expert evidence. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237. An expert in typewriting machines may testify that letters were written on a particular machine. State v. Freshwater [Utah] 85 P. 447. Whether a certain article is the one shown by a photograph is not a subject of expert testimony, the article and the photograph being before the jury. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127. Error to allow chief of fire department to express opinion that opening certain windows would produce a strong draft. People v. Brown, 110 App. Div. 490, 96 N. Y. S. 957.

49. One who has several times seen a person write is competent to express an opinion whether an instrument is in his handwriting. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43; Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385. A witness who has seen a person write but once may testify that a letter is in his writing. State v. Freshwater [Utah] 85 P. 447. One who has corresponded with a person is competent as to his handwriting, though never having seen him write. State v. Goldstein, 72 N. J. Law, 336, 62 A. 1006. The fact that letters have been the subject of conversation between recipient and alleged sender does not qualify the recipient to state by whom these and other letters in the same hand were written. State v. McBride [Utah] 85 P. 440. One who has been for years a merchant is competent as to the value of goods. Echols v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 298. One who has been a practicing physician for seventeen years is prima facie competent to express an opinion as to the cause of the physical condition of one examined by him. State v. White [Or.] 87 P. 137.

50. A lay witness may characterize acts observed by him as rational or irrational but may not state his conclusion as to the sanity of the person. People v. Pekarz, 185 N. Y. 470, 78 N. E. 294. A nonexpert cannot express an opinion as to defendant's ability to distinguish right and wrong. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649. Nonexpert held competent to express opinion on sanity. State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929.

51. Nonexpert opinion as to value of shoes. Moss v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 340.

52. Witness who states that he knows the smell of carbolic acid may state that the clothing of deceased smelled thereof. Green v. State, 125 Ga. 742, 54 S. E. 724. One not an expert may state whether a book before him shows certain entries. Lawrence v. State [Md.] 63 A. 96.

53. The mere personal appearance of a person as distinguished from his acts is not a sufficient basis of observation to admit a nonexpert opinion. People v. Pekarz, 185 N. Y. 470, 78 N. E. 294. Where a nonexpert has given an opinion with his reason therefor, repetition of the opinion without the reason is not error. People v. Easton, 148 Cal. 50, 82 P. 840. Lay witness to insanity may state facts on which opinion is based. State v. Speyer, 194 Mo. 459, 91 S. W. 1075. Nonexpert should not be allowed to state opinion on sanity without stating facts on which it is based. Henderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 76, 93 S. W. 550. Nonexperts cannot give an opinion as to an accused's mental condition on a prosecution for crime unless they state the facts on which the opinion is based. Fults v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 458, 98 S. W. 1057.

54. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237.

55, 56. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127. Assumptions in hypothetical question as to health of deceased before alleged poisoning and as to subsequent symptoms held sustained by evidence. Hoch v. People, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356.

57. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

58. On trial for forgery, signature of accused to motion for continuance held admissible as standard for comparison. Gaut v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1034. Writings not proven and writings made at the trial for that purpose cannot be used as standards of comparison. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409. Evidence that certain sales slips were in defendant's writing held sufficient to admit them as standards for parison and does not preclude circumstantial proof.[59] Expert may be allowed to use a photograph of an article in illustrating his testimony, though the article itself is in evidence.[60] The competency of an expert is regarded as a subordinate issue, and, accordingly, he may be examined on collateral matters bearing thereon.[61] Non-expert opinions are entitled to little or no weight unless supported by good reasons based on facts,[62] and the jury should consider an expert's qualifications and the reasons which he gives for his conclusions.[63]

Best and secondary evidence. Parol evidence to vary writings.[64]—The rule excluding parol evidence of the contents of a writing[65] or record,[66] except where it is but collaterally involved,[67] or the writing is lost or destroyed,[68] applies to criminal cases, as does the parol evidence rule and its well known exceptions.[69]

Documentary evidence,[70] if properly authenticated,[71] is admissible under the same rules as apply in civil cases.[72] A statute making certified copies of certain records admissible does not preclude proof of an examined copy as at common law,[73] and the copy need not have been taken by the custodian of the records.[74] comparison. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

59, 60. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

61. People v. Pekarz, 185 N. Y. 470, 78 N. E. 294.

62. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649.

63. State v. Collins [Del. O. & T.] 62 A. 224.

64. See 5 C. L. 1825.

65. Parol evidence of a letter shown to be in the possession of a known person not admissible. McCullough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1056. Secondary evidence of rent contract in prosecution based on violation thereof, error. Wilson v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 776. Parol evidence as to contents of insurance policy is inadmissible. State v. Harvey, 130 Iowa, 394, 106 N. W. 938. Original filed at sending office and not copy retained at delivery office is best evidence of telegram. Young v. People, 221 Ill. 51, 77 N. E. 536. Secondary evidence of contents of letters without accounting for original is error. Id.

66. Testimony of one that he was in occupation and control of burglarized premises is not secondary because he was agent of a corporation the minutes of which contained some entries as to his appointment. Calloway v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 902. That deceased had been tried for murder must be proved by the record. State v. Andrews, 73 S. C. 257, 53 S. E. 423.

67. Collateral fact may be proved by parol. Marriage of prosecutrix in rape case. Perez v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 520, 94 S. W. 1036. Description of accused as contained in notices published to secure his apprehension. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 979. Public officer may testify to his official character. Bank examiner whom defendant was indicted for deceiving. State v. Twining [N. J. Law] 62 A. 402.

68. Designation of election officer may be proved by letter press copy if original is lost. People v. Ellenbogen, 99 N. Y. S. 897. Secondary evidence of the contents of letters sent to accused is admissible after demand on him to produce the originals. State v. Freshwater [Utah] 85 P. 447. Testimony of bank officers, based not on recollection but on the ordinary course of business, that certain papers had been delivered to accused ,held, in connection with notice to him to produce, foundation for secondary evidence. People v. Dolan [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 569.

69. Parol evidence is admissible to identify property as that covered by a chattel mortgage. State v. Jackson, 128 Iowa, 543, 105 N. W. 51. Receipt for money subject to demand of payor held ambiguous and subject to explanation by parol on prosecution for embezzlement. Stephens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 937, 93 S. W. 545.

70. See 5 C. L. 1826.

71. The prosecution need not, preliminary to the introduction of a letter written by accused, show how it came into their possession. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43. A letter signed with defendant's initials and relating to the charge against him, found on his person, is admissible without proof that it is in his writing. State v. Smith, 47 Or. 485, 83 P. 865. Where a letter is shown to be in defendant's writing and it and others relate to the same matter and are responsive to letters mailed to defendant, all are admissible. State v. Freshwater [Utah] 85 P. 447. Unsigned letter relating to fabrication of defense, apparently intended for defendant's alleged accomplices, which fell directly from his cell window, is admissible without proof of handwriting. State v. Dilley [Wash.] 87 P. 133.

72. Books of express company held admissible to show delivery of package. Jackson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct, Rep. 572, 91 S. W. 574. An alteration in a writing signed by accused does not render it inadmissible. Application by defendant for gas on certain premises offered to show his ownership thereof. State v. Schaeffer [Kan.] 86 P. 477. Judgment against defendant in civil suit is not admissible to show facts therein adjudicated. Decree of divorce on ground of prior existing marriage not admissible on prosecution for bigamy. State v. Sharkey [N. J. Law] 63 A. 868. Railroad records made up from reports of car inspectors are Demonstrative evidence and experiments.[76]—Objects connected with the offense,[76] and photographs[77] or reproductions[78] of such objects, are admissible. The allowance of experiments rests largely in discretion.[79]

Evidence at preliminary examination or at former trial.[80]—The information and affidavits are inadmissible as original evidence,[81] but if a witness be dead or absent from the jurisdiction, statutes in many states authorize the reception of his testimony on a former hearing of the case.[82] Ex parte declarations of absent witness are not within the rule.[83] Defendant's testimony at the inquest is not excluded by the fact that he was in custody at the time.[84] Testimony at coroner's inquest may be proved by the testimony of witnesses who heard it,[85] and the stenographer having testified to the correctness of his notes may read the same.[86]

Quantity required and probative effect.[87]—The evidence must establish every material averment of the indictment,[88] including the venue[89] and the time of the offense so far as that is material.[90] To warrant conviction on circumstantial evidence the circumstances must be consistent with each other and inconsistent with any rational hypothesis except guilt.[91] Affirmative evidence of good character is entitled to weight and in a close case may alone be sufficient to raise a reasonable not admissible to show the result of such inspection. Commonwealth v. Berney, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 61.

73. State v. Schaeffer [Kan.] 86 P. 477.

74. State v. Nippert [Kan.] 86 P. 478.

75. See 5 C. L. 1826.

76. Bullets fired from a weapon found on the premises are admissible for comparison with those taken from the body of deceased. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Witness may use shoes of accused which are in evidence and describe tracks by reference to their peculiarities. State v. Langford [S. C.] 55 S. E. 120.

77. Photographs from which a party has been identified or from which a witness has been unable to identify him are admissible in evidence. State v. Rogers, 129 Iowa, 229, 105 N. W. 455. Photograph of article may be admitted though article itself is in evidence. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127. Photograph of scene of homicide with objects placed on ground where similar articles belonging to deceased were found is admissible. People v. Mahatch, 148 Cal. 200, 82 P. 779. A picture of the scene of the crime with a body representing that of deceased taken by a person who did not see the original situation is not admissible. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. Photograph of deceased after death showing condition of body. Young v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 235, 92 S. W. 841. Changes in location of furniture not sufficient to exclude photograph of scene of crime taken several days after. State v. Rogers, 129 Iowa, 229, 105 N. W. 455.

78. A structure built in reproduction of the porch on which deceased was shot is admissible. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187.

79. Experiment as to power of child to fire pistol held proper. State v. Woodrow, 58 W. Va. 527, 52 S. E. 545.

80. See 5 C. L. 1827.

81. People v. Wolf, 183 N. Y. 464, 76 N. E. 592.

82. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. That a witness was absent from the county but within the state does not authorize use of testimony on former trial. Taylor v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 474. Testimony that one was a nonresident shortly before, though witness did not know where he was at the time of the trial, held sufficient to admit testimony at preliminary examination. Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 35, 40 So. 269. Deposition before examining magistrate may be received where witness cannot be found, though prosecution might have bound him over to appear. People v. Flannery [Cal. App.] 84 P. 461.

83. Weatherford v. State [Ark.] 93 S. W. 61.

84, 85. Green v. State, 124 Ga. 343, 52 S. E. 431.

86. Morawitz v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 880, 91 S. W. 227.

87. See 5 C. L. 1827.

88. See, also, ante, § 4D, as to variance; ante, this section, as to burden of proof.

89. Miller v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 405; Walker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 176; Odom v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 824. Venue of embezzlement held a question for jury. State v. Roland, 11 Idaho, 490, 83 P. 337. Testimony that the offense was committed "in the edge of" the City of T. sufficiently shows the jurisdiction of the city court of T. Lewis v. State, 124 Ga. 62, 52 S. E. 81. That the offense was committed at "Poncede Leon Park" not sufficient. Edwards v. Atlanta, 124 Ga. 78, 52 S. E. 297.

90. Where the accusation was filed January 9th, evidence that the offense was committed "in January" is insufficient to show that it was before the filing of the accusation. Lightner v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 477. See ante, § 4D, as to how far time is material.

91. Evidence of arson insufficient. State v. Morney, 196 Mo. 43, 93 S. W. 1117; State v. Sweizewski [Kan.] 85 P. 800. Must produce conviction beyond any reasonable doubt and the facts must be inconsistent with any other reasonable conclusion than guilt. State v. Collins [Del. O. & T.] 62 A. 224; State v. Tilghman [Del. O. & T.] 63 A. 772; State v. Hutchings [Utah] 84 P. 893. Discussion of theory and probative effect of circumstantial evidence. Dunn v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 198.

doubt of guilt, but the presumption of good character is a mere negation and not for the consideration of the jury.[92] Though only one witness testified for prosecution and six for defense, the question is for the jury.[93] Where the evidence for the state fixes the time of the offense as coincident with another occurrence, proof of an alibi need cover only the same time.[94] Testimony of an accomplice[95] is not ordinarily deemed sufficient unless corroborated by evidence tending in some manner to connect accused with the offense,[96] though in some states conviction may be had on uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice.[97] Corroborative evidence need not be beyond reasonable doubt.[98] A confession is not, unless made in open court,[99] sufficient to sustain a conviction unless there be independent proof of the corpus delicti;[1] and in Kentucky proof to corroborate confession must go to connection of accused with offense.[2] An admission coupled with a justification is not a confession.[3] Corpus delicti need not be established by proof entirely independent of the confession.[4] While entire confession is to be considered, jury may reject that which makes for defendant and credit that which incriminates him.[5] Statutes in some states require corroboration of the prosecuting witness[6] or testimony of more

92. People v. Pekarz, 185 N. Y. 470, 78 N. E. 294. Should be considered with the other evidence and given such weight as the jury may deem it justly entitled to. State v. Collins [Del. O. & T.] 62 A. 224.

93. Glover v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 91 S. W. 41.

94. Fortson v. State, 125 Ga. 16, 53 S. E. 767.

95. Whether a detective was an accomplice held a question for the jury. People v. Bunkers, 2 Cal. App. 197, 84 P. 364, 370. Giving and receiving bribes being separate offenses under the statutes of California, the giver is not an accomplice of the receiver. Id. One falsely registering held not an accomplice of defendant who swore to the residence of such person. Prosecution for false oath before election officer. People v. Ellenbogen, 99 N. Y. S. 897. The fact that a witness is jointly indicted with defendant and has pleaded guilty does not as a matter of law make him an accomplice. Hargrove v. State, 125 Ga. 270, 54 S. E. 164. Owner who offers not to prosecute if goods are returned not an accomplice. Holley v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 509, 92 S. W. 422. One who merely knew that the crime was to be committed is not an accomplice. Best v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 137, 92 S. W. 555. Female not actively resisting is accomplice in incest. Pate v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 55, 93 S. W. 556; Gillespie v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 68, 93 S. W. 556. That an eye witness testified falsely in defendant's interest at the inquest does not make him an accomplice. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 129, 93 S. W. 726. An officer administering an oath is not an accomplice to perjury therein because he knows at the time that the statement is false. Wilson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 939, 93 S. W. 547.

96. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43. It is sufficient if standing alone it tends to connect defendant with the crime. People v. Bunkers, 2 Cal. App. 197, 84 P. 364, 370. Must be on some material fact which standing alone tends to connect defendant with the crime. State v. Knudtson, 11 Idaho, 524, 83 P. 226. Corroboration of accomplice held sufficient on prosecution for receiving stolen goods. Sexton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 325, 92 S. W. 37. Evidence that defendant assisted in shipping stolen horses out of the state held sufficient corroboration of testimony of accomplice to his participation in larceny. Byrd v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 712, 93 S. W. 114.

97. State v. Wigger, 195 Mo. 90, 93 S. W. 390.

98. Lasater v. State, 77 Ark. 468, 94 S. W. 59.

99. Confession in justice court is not in the district court on appeal a "confession in open court" dispensing with independent proof of the corpus delicti. State v. Abrams [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1041.

1. Blacker v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 302; Hubbard v. State, 77 Ark. 126, 91 S. W. 11; People v. Frank, 2 Cal. App. 283, 83 P. 578. Evidence that death was by criminal agency held insufficient. Id. Arson. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 741, 54 S. E. 651. Statutory rape. State v. Marselle [Wash.] 86 P. 586. Corpus delicti of infanticide held not proved. People v. Eldridge [Cal. App.] 86 P. 832. Corpus delicti of larceny of coal from railroad tracks held sufficiently proved to admit proof of confession. Daniels v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 525. Evidence of corpus delicti of rape held sufficient to support conviction on confession. State v. Lee [Mont.] 83 P. 223. Conviction may be had on confession and proof of corpus delicti. Bradshaw v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 149, 94 S. W. 223.

2. Corroborative evidence wanting on prosecution for forgery. Commonwealth v. Burgees, 28 Ky. L. R. 1128, 91 S. W. 266.

3. Admission of carrying concealed weapon with assertion of right as peace officer. State v. Abrams [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1041.

4. Hubbard v. State, 77 Ark. 125, 91 S. W. 11.

5. State v. Tilghman [Del. O. & T.] 63 A. 772. Evidence of admissions by accused is to be received with great caution, especially in a close case. State v. Hutchings [Utah] 84 P. 893.

6. Where corroboration of the injured than a single witness in particular crimes.[7] Conviction may be had on the uncorroborated testimony of a member of a society for enforcement of the law under which the prosecution is had.[8]

§ 10. Trial. A. Conduct of trial in general.[9]—The regulation of proceedings rests largely in discretion, and appellate courts will rarely interfere with the decision of the trial judge on such matters as what persons not connected with the trial shall be allowed in the court room,[10] how many spectators shall be admitted,[11] where persons engaged in the trial shall sit in the court room,[12] allowing additional counsel to come into the case,[13] requiring repetition of testimony,[14] or permitting a witness to testify through an interpreter.[15] Where accused is deaf and dumb, the court should provide in some proper manner for the communication to him of the state's evidence.[16] Bringing of accused into court in irons is not ground of new trial.[17] Defendant is not entitled to be brought into court in company with other persons to guard against fabricated identification.[18] It is not improper for judge to call witness to the bench and converse with him in presence of jury but not in their hearing.[19] The court may allow use of magnifying glass in examining photograph in evidence.[20] Allowance of a view is discretionary,[21] but exhibition in court of clothing worn by accused on the day of the alleged crime is not a "view" within regulating statutes.[22]

Order of proof[23] is discretionary and the court may receive evidence out of order;[24] or reopen the case for additional evidence after argument has begun.[25] person is required generally, it must extend to all the elements of the offense and connect defendant therewith. Pen. Code, § 283. People v. Smith, 114 App. Div. 513, 100 N. Y. S. 259. See, also, Rape, 6 C. L. 1237; Seduction 6 C. L. 1439.

7. One witness and corroborative circumstances to convict of false pretenses. Conduct of defendant when accusatory remark was made in his presence held a corroborating circumstance. People v. Smith [Cal. App.] 84 P. 449. See, also, Perjury, 6 C. L. 1000.

8. Practicing dentistry without a license. People v. Stein, 112 App. Div. 896, 97 N. Y. S. 923.

9. See 5 C. L. 1829.

10. Whether a codefendant not on trial shall be allowed to remain in the court room rests in discretion. Krens v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 27.

11. No reversal because spectators were permitted to overcrowd court room. Young v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 235, 92 S. W. 841. A rule of court which excludes from the court room all of the world, except officers of the court, witnesses, certain relatives, newspaper men, and those having special permission from the court to enter, is in violation of the guarantee of a public trial found in section 10 of article 1 of the State Constitution. Fields v. State, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 401.

12. It is not error to refuse to allow defendant to stand near the prosecuting witness while she is being examined as to her qualifications as a witness. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805.

13. That additional counsel for the state was permitted to come into the case after several jurors had been selected is not error where defendant was permitted to examine such jurors as to their relation to the attorney. State v. Flute [S. D.] 108 N. W. 248.

14. The court may require evidence to be repeated if it appears that a juror has not heard it, but the fact must clearly appear to require the court to do so of its own motion. Haddix v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 781.

15. No abuse of discretion in allowing interpreter where witness had but partial familiarity with English. People v. Salas, 2 Cal. App. 537 84 P. 295.

16. Requiring defendant's counsel to write down and exhibit to his client gist of the testimony as it was given, held not an abuse of discretion. Ralph v. State, 124 Ga. 81, 52 S. E. 298. Due process of law is not denied by failure to provide for reading of testimony to accused who was so deaf that he could not hear the witnesses. Felts v. Murphy, 201 U. S. 123, 50 Law. Ed. 689.

17. Burks v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 515, 94 S. W. 1040; State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 228, 92 S. W. 494; State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869.

18. Boyd v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 94 S. W. 1053.

19. Young v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 235, 92 S. W. 841.

20. State v. Wallace, 78 Conn. 677, 63 A. 448.

21. Thompson v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 899.

22. Boyd v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 94 S. W. 1053.

23. See 5 C. L. 1829, n. 60. Crose v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 875; Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127; Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385. Admission of alleged forged check before proof of forgery. People v. Tollefson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 481, 108 N. W. 751. It is error to exclude evidence for want of foundation and then ex-

The court may properly refuse to receive hearsay testimony near the close of the trial, though the prosecuting attorney waives objection thereto.[26] That a witness was allowed to read from a book in evidence is not error in the absence of a showing that he read falsely.[27]

Conduct and remarks of judge.[28]—While the judge should avoid intimation of an opinion on the merits,[29] or needless interruption,[30] or reflection upon counsel,[31] it is not error for him to state the reasons for his rulings,[32] to characterize an objection as frivolous if it plainly is so,[33] to suggest to the prosecuting attorney that he supply certain proof,[34] to examine witnesses[35] though he should in so doing be careful to intimate no opinion on their credibility,[36] to give needful cautions to an ignorant or immature witness,[37] to reprimand[38] or fine for contempt[39] counsel or clude the foundation when offered as repetition. People v. Harper [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 440, 108 N. W. 689.

24. Miller v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 35, 91 S. W. 582. Admitting in rebuttal evidence proper in chief rests in discretion. State v. Smith, 115 La. 801, 40 So. 171; Whitehead v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 404; State v. Douglas, 116 La. 524, 40 So. 860.

25. Fordham v. State, 125 Ga. 791, 54 S. E. 694; Thomas v. State, 125 Ga. 286, 54 S. E. 182. Receiving evidence in rebuttal after argument has commenced discretionary. McIntyre v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 544, 94 S. W. 1048. Held not an abuse of discretion. Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 592, 95 S. W. 1044. Discretionary to allow state to reopen case for further testimony. State v. Constatine [Wash.] 86 P. 384. Refusal to open case for further evidence, argument had begun, sustained. Bundrick v. State, 125 Ga. 753, 54 S. E. 683.

26. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805.

27. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838.

28. See 5 C. L. 1831.

29. Statement by court "the evidence is" that defendant did certain acts is error. Briggs v. People, 219 Ill. 330, 76 N. E. 499. Statement by court in ruling that witness had positively denied a certain statement error where witness only said he did not remember. Id.

30. Repeated, hostile, and unnecessary interruptions by the trial judge of cross-examination by defendant, held ground for reversal. State v. Hazlett [N. D.] 105 N. W. 617.

31. Reflections on good faith of counsel for defendant held improper but not ground for reversal. Miller v. Territory, 15 Okl. 422, 85 P. 239.

32. Statement in answer to request for charge that the evidence did not warrant it not an improper expression of opinion. Campbell v. State, 124 Ga. 432, 52 S. E. 914. It is not improper for the court in ruling out immaterial testimony to say that it is improper and has no bearing on the case. State v. Roland, 11 Idaho, 490, 83 P. 337. Remark of court in properly striking out an answer based on a report that the report itself would prove nothing is not error where the report was never offered. People v. Smith [Cal. App.] 84 P. 449. Remark of court in admitting testimony that it was admitted "for what it is worth" not ground for reversal. State v. Fuller [Mont.] 85 P. 369. It is not error for the court to state that a certain document has been destroyed, where he is passing on the admissibility of secondary evidence. Hoch v. People, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356. That court in striking out testimony called attention to the fact that other testimony to the same issue remained not error. Commonwealth v. Combs [Pa.] 64 A. 873. Court may in presence of jury bind over witness on charge of perjury. Commonwealth v. Salawich, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 330. Not error for court in allowing leading questions to state in presence of jury that witness is unwilling. State v. Cambron [S. D.] 105 N. W. 241. Where there is a controversy between counsel as to whether there is evidence of a fact, it is not error for the court to say that a certain witness testified thereto. Raven v. State, 125 Ga. 58, 53 S. E. 816.

33. Sawyer v. U. S., 202 U. S. 150, 50 Law. Ed. 972.

34. Perez v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 520, 94 S. W. 1036.

35. Miller v. Territory, 15 Okl. 422, 85 P. 239; People v. Dinser, 49 Misc. 82, 98 N. Y. S. 314.

36. State v. Hazlett [N. D.] 105 N. W. 617; Komp v. State [Wis.] 108 N. W. 46. Examination of witness on insanity held error. O'Shea v. People, 218 Ill. 352, 75 N. E. 981. Examining witness for defendant in hostile manner and then ordering him into custody is error. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241.

37. It is not error for the court to tell a little girl, prosecuting witness on a trial for indecent assault, that she need not be afraid of defendant or anyone else. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805. Where a witness was asked on cross-examination how she saw certain things in view of other conditions testified to by her, it is not reversible error for the court to tell her that if she did in fact see them to say so. Boles v. People [Colo.] 86 P. 1030.

38. Where witness looked continually at defendant and, on the latter shaking his head, refused to answer, it is not error to admonish him and on his persistence to punish him for contempt. State v. Dalton [Wash.] 86 P. 590. Reprimand of defendant's attorney for persisting in improper questioning is not error. State v. Drake, 128 Iowa, 539, 105 N. W. 54.

39. Fining defendant's counsel in open witnesses if just cause therefor be given, or to suggest to a witness the consequence of perjury,[30a] or to admonish officers of the court.[40] Where the court understands the foreign language in which a witness speaks, it is not error for him to suggest an alternative translation, the interpreter admitting its correctness.[41]

Consolidation[42] of several indictments may be made with defendant's consent.[43]

Severance[44] rests largely in discretion,[45] antagonism of defenses being the principal reason for its grant.[46] Motion for severance on ground that defenses are antagonistic must be verified or otherwise supported by proof.[47] Severance cannot be demanded of right after the jury is empaneled,[48] and, after entering on a joint trial, one defendant cannot rest on the state's evidence and demand that his case be submitted to the jury thereon before the evidence for the codefendant is heard.[49]

Appointment of counsel.[50]—Assistance of counsel being a constitutional guaranty, it is generally provided under legislative regulation[51] that, at defendant's request,[52] counsel may be appointed in case of inability to employ,[53] and an attorney may be appointed to assist one employed by the accused.[54] It is not ground for reversal that one of three attorneys appointed for defendant was permitted to withdraw.[55] When the attorney for a defendant has abandoned his client on the day of trial, it is proper for the court to appoint counsel for the defendant, if he has no means to employ a lawyer. This action of the court does not, however, discharge the paid attorney from the case.[56] Private counsel may appear to assist in the prosecution.[57]

Production, examination, and supervision of witnesses.[58]—The state need not call the prosecuting witness,[59] nor all the eye witnesses,[60] nor every witness whose court for improper argument in defiance of admonition not ground for new trial. Spears v. People, 220 Ill. 72, 77 N. E. 112. Where a rule excluding witnesses was violated with defendant's knowledge and consent, he cannot complain of the commitment of a witness for contempt in the presence of the jury. Miller v. Territory, 15 Okl. 422, 85 P. 239. Punishment of witness for accused for flagrant contempt not error. Sims v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 413.

39a. People v. Soeder [Cal.] 87 P. 1016.

40. Public admonition to jury commissioners to draw no more jurors who would make affidavits impeaching their verdicts not harmful to one moving for a new trial on such affidavits, where the affidavits on which he relied were made before the admonition was given. Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795.

41. Hoch v. People, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356.

42. See 5 C. L. 1831.

43. Lucas v. State, 144 Ala. 63, 39 So. 821.

44. See 5 C. L. 1831.

45. State v. Barrett [N. C.] 54 S. E. 856; State v. Carrawan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 1002. Grant of separate trials to persons jointly indicted for misdemeanor is discretionary. State v. Sederstrom [Minn.] 109 N. W. 113.

46. Refusal of severance held harmless where neither defendant testified and no antagonism of interest developed. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771. Grant of severance is discretionary and the fact that defenses may be antagonistic or that the defendants may disagree as to the challenge of jurors does not make the denial an abuse of discretion. State v. Johnson, 116 La. 855, 41 So. 117.

47. State v. Simon, 115 La. 732, 39 So. 971.

48. State v. Bush, 41 Wash. 13, 82 P. 1024.

49. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3. It is intimated that a defendant against whom the evidence has practically failed might claim such a severance. Id.

50. See 5 C. L. 1832.

51. Though the constitution guaranties to every person accused of crime the assistance of counsel, the legislature may make reasonable regulations as to appointment. Korf v. Jasper County [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1031.

52. Counsel can be appointed only at defendant's request (Korf v. Jasper County [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1031), but a request for appointment of an assistant made by defendant's employed counsel will be presumed to be made by defendant (Id.).

53. The order of appointment is conclusive on the county as to the propriety thereof. Korf v. Jasper County [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1031.

54. Korf v. Jasper County [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1031.

55. State v. Briggs, 58 W. Va. 291, 52 S. E. 218.

56. State v. Shay, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 657.

57. State v. Steers [Idaho] 85 P. 104.

58. The general rules relating to the interrogation of witnesses are found in the topic Examination of Witnesses, 7 C. L. 1598.

59. Prosecutrix was wife of accused. McCrear v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 899.

60. State v. Stewart, 117 La. 476, 41 So. 798; State v. Kapelino [S. D.] 108 N. W. 335.

name is indorsed on the indictment.[61] Counsel has no absolute right to a private interview with a person in custody who is subpoenaed as a witness for defendant.[62] Admitting the testimony of witnesses whose names are not indorsed on the indictment rests in discretion,[63] and the rule does not apply to rebuttal witnesses.[64] In Iowa, a witness is not confined to the matters as to which he was examined before the grand jury.[65] Where the prosecuting attorney refuses to make a preliminary examination of a witness in the absence of the jury as to the competency of a dying declaration, defendant should be permitted to examine him.[66] It is discretionary to exclude witnesses from the court room until they have testified,[67] or to allow the testimony of a witness who has violated a rule of exclusion,[68] or who has not been placed under it.[69]

Prisoner's statement under Georgia practice.—The prisoner in making his statement is not to be hampered by strict rules of evidence,[70] but cannot introduce inadmissible extrinsic matters to corroborate himself.[71]

Accused must be present[72] at all times during the trial,[73] at return of verdict,[74] but need not be present at proceedings preliminary to trial.[75] In a prosecution for misdemeanor accused may waive his right to be present at the return of the verdict,[76] and a holding by a state court that accused might in a felony case waive the right to be present at the examination of a juror does not deny due process of law.[77]

Absence of judge[78] from court room during argument is fatal.[79]

Where an alleged eye witness was not produced, it is error for the court to call such witness at the close of all the testimony where defendant's testimony tended to implicate such witness. People v. Harper [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 440, 108 N. W. 689.

61. State v. Campbell [Kan.] 85 P. 784.

62. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771.

63. Error in given name of witness as indorsed on information not ground for excluding the witness where it is clear accused was not misled thereby. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649. Admitting witnesses whose names are not on indictment rest in discretion and such witnesses are to be ordinarily excluded only where it appears that the state sought to conceal the identity of the witness. State v. Cambron [S. D.] 105 N. W. 241. Court may permit examination of witnesses not endorsed on indictment or named in bill of particulars. Schaumloeffel v. State, 102 Md. 470, 62 A. 803.

64. No objection lies to the admission in rebuttal of a witness whose name was not on the indictment. State v. Whitnah, 129 Iowa, 211, 105 N. W. 432.

65. State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511.

66. State v. Minor, 193 Mo. 697, 92 S. W. 466.

67. State v. Dalton [Wash.] 86 P. 590; McCullough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1056. Discretionary to excuse a witness from the rule. Brooks v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 156.

68. Benjamin v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 739; State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629, 82 P. 873; Green v. State, 125 Ga. 742, 54 S. E. 724. Refusal to exclude the testimony of a witness for violation of the rule held not an abuse of discretion where he testified only on a collateral issue and was the only witness thereon. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771.

69. Watters v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 524, 94 S. W. 1038. Not abuse of discretion to exclude testimony of expert who had not been placed under the rule. McCullough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1056.

70. Nero v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 404.

71. Properly prevented from reading letters. Nero v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 404.

72. See 5 C. L. 1832.

73. Brief voluntary absence of accused during argument on motion not fatal. State v. McGinnis [Idaho] 86 P. 1089. It is error to deny the defendant the right to be present at a view if requested, and it is doubtful if he can waive such right. Id. Criticising State v. Reed, 3 Idaho, 754, 36 P. 706, as to the right to waive.

74. Dix v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 924; Wells v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 630.

75. That preliminary conference leading to announcement of ready for trial was had in absence of accused not material. Wooten v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 574, 94 S. W. 1060. Need not be present when the case is set down for trial. State v. LeBlanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105. Accused need not be present during the ordering, drawing and calling of a venire. Colson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 183.

76. Wells v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 630. A statute requiring defendant to be present in all cases "on the trial" is not inconsistent with one providing that his presence is unnecessary at the reception of the verdict in misdemeanor cases. Wyatt v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 148, 94 S. W. 219.

77. Howard v. Com., 200 U. S. 164, 50 Law. Ed. 421.

78. See 5 C. L. 1833.

79. Powers v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 332. Absence in adjoining room beyond hearing

(§ 10) B. Argument and conduct of counsel.[80]—While the offer of inadmissible evidence is not necessarily improper,[81] it is misconduct if persisted in after adverse rulings or is obviously done to get inadmissible matters before the jury.[82] It is ground for new trial that a private attorney of the prosecuting witness advised her by signals during her testimony without the knowledge of either defendant or prosecution.[83] Defendant cannot complain of a change of theory from the preliminary examination, though the theory advanced on the trial was first stated in the closing argument.[84]

Opening address.[85]—The prosecution is not required to make an opening statement, and, if one be made, need not outline all its proposed evidence,[86] but if such outline is attempted, evidence of doubtful admissibility should not be discussed,[87] but a narration of proper evidence in the opening does not become error on failure to produce it.[88]

In summing up[89] counsel may refer to any matter proved,[90] draw legitimate inferences from the testimony,[91] invite proper experiments by the jury,[92] and indulge in pertinent illustrations,[93] and may in illustration of argument make such arrangement of articles in evidence as he sees fit.[94] He should not state matters not during argument is fatal. Miller v. State, 73 Ohio St. 195, 76 N. E. 823.

80. See 5 C. L. 1833.

81. Not misconduct to state in good faith the purpose for which testimony is offered, in answer to objection to its admission. Walker v. State, 124 Ga. 97, 52 S. E. 319. Repetition of offer of proof of prejudicial facts held not misconduct where the question of admissibility was a doubtful one. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100.

82. Offering a record which is plainly inadmissible with a statement of its contents, is misconduct. People v. Wolf, 183 N. Y. 464, 76 N. E. 592. Making repeated offer of proof of plainly inadmissible facts as to previous offense by defendant is ground for new trial. Nickolizack v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 895; People v. Collins, 144 Mich. 121, 13 Det. Leg. N. 178, 107 N. W. 1114. Improper for prosecutor to ask a witness for the state if he had been summoned by defendant, as this could not add to or detract from the weight of his testimony. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Insulting language to witness and efforts to prove that deceased left a widow and children after it had been ruled to be improper held prejudicial misconduct. State v. Trueman [Mont.] 85 P. 1024.

83. State v. Barker [Wash.] 86 P. 387.

84. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671.

85. See 5 C. L. 1833.

86. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671.

87. People v. Wolf, 183 N. Y. 464, 76 N. E. 592. Opening statement stating acts of others with respect to prosecutrix not connected with defendant held error. Id. Conviction set aside for improper statements in opening, notwithstanding instruction to disregard. Id. Statement that deceased had been a witness in a murder case growing out of a quarrel in defendant's saloon not error. Tended to show ill will between defendant and deceased. People v. Smith, 113 App. Div. 396, 99 N. Y. S. 118. May refer to another offense by defendant where proof thereof is admissible as bearing on motive. State v. Martin, 47 Or. 282, 83 P. 849.

88. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

89. See 5 C. L. 1834, n. 26 et seq.

90. Reference to other offenses shown by the evidence is permissible. State v. Cason, 115 La. 897, 40 So. 303. Where the jury have been allowed to examine a photograph with a magnifying glass, counsel may state what such examination will show. State v. Wallace, 78 Conn. 677, 63 A. 448.

91. Where it appears that several persons committed the crime in concert and that two of them spent a week together shortly before, it is proper to assert in argument that the conspiracy was then formed. Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 35, 40 So. 269. Where the evidence justified an inference that the person assaulted was dead, it is proper to state in argument that he was. Id. Failure to produce a witness who is shown to be cognizant of material facts is proper subject of comment. Morgan v. State, 124 Ga. 442, 52 S. E. 748. That a knife found near the body of the deceased was accidentally dropped in drawing out a handkerchief. State v. Lee, 116 La. 607, 40 So. 914. Argument that the fact that the exact price was paid indicated that a transaction was a sale of liquor held not ground for reversal, though there was no evidence of the current price. Choran v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 508, 92 S. W. 422.

92. Not error to invite jury to experiment with a gun in evidence to see if the firing pin makes the same mark on shells as that on those found at the scene of the homicide. Fuller v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 774.

93. Reference by way of illustration to possibility of drunkenness being urged in extenuation of rape, held not error though the public mind was inflamed over a recent rape under the circumstances stated. State v. Bush, 117 La. 463, 41 So. 793. Statement that woman would know a man who assaulted her, made by way of illustration of an argument in a prosecution for forgery that one witness to identity was sufficient, not improper. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409.

94. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671.

proved,[95] assert his personal belief as to the merits,[96] invoke the personal knowledge of jurors as to facts in issue,[97] discuss the question of punishment where the jury does not fix it,[98] refer to the possibility of pardon,[99] draw inferences which as a matter of law are unwarranted,[1] use abusive epithets,[2] or appeal to prejudice,[3] but warranted characterization of acts shown by the evidence is not improper.[4] Argument otherwise improper is sometimes excusable by reason of provocation by argument for accused.[5] Direct or indirect reference to the failure of the accused to

95. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Accusing defendant's counsel of fabricating defense and stating matters outside the record as to their conduct. Miller v. State, 73 Ohio St. 195, 76 N. E. 823. Statement by prosecuting attorney that defendant's employer was related to defendant's attorney, though improper, is harmless. White v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 544. Assumption without evidence of illicit relations between defendant and the wife of deceased held ground for reversal. State v. Williams, 116 La. 61, 40 So. 531. Statement that deceased's three orphan children were left to charity improper. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Statement in argument that a previous conviction had been reversed on a bare technicality is ground for new trial. Whit v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 324. Statement of matters not in record held improper but not ground for reversal. State v. Burke, 11 Idaho, 420, 83 P. 228. Where incestuous relation between defendant and his daughter is proved as motive for murder of one paying attention to her, a statement in argument that defendant had caused to be sent to prison a man who was engaged to another daughter is error. People v. Cook, 148 Cal. 334, 83 P. 43. Inadvertent statement in argument of fact not in evidence cured by withdrawal and admonition. State v. Gordon, 115 La. 571, 39 So. 625. Error to relate previous case in which one convicted on similar evidence had confessed. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 129, 93 S. W. 726. Though an accomplice testified to his own guilt, reference in argument to a confession by him not shown by the evidence is error. State v. Wigger, 196 Mo. 90, 93 S. W. 390. Where the affidavit on motion for continance is received as the testimony of an absent witness, it is ground for new trial for counsel to state that the witness if present would not have so testified. Carroll v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 33, 92 S. W. 308.

96. Statement of district attorney that he had investigated the case and believed accused guilty held not error in a case where the district attorney had testified to his investigations. State v. Gallo, 115 La. 746, 39 So. 1001. While the prosecuting attorney should not express a belief of defendant's guilt, it is entirely proper for him to assert a belief that the evidence shows guilt. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Likewise, statement by district attorney that it was his habit to ask for conviction only in cases where he believed the accused guilty are not proper, in a homicide case (Cross v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 701, 91 S. W. 223) but would not be ground for reversal, especially in the absence of a requested written instruction and refusal of the same (Id.).

97. Reference to matter in issue as within the personal knowledge of the jurors is error. Ward v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 923.

98. Held harmless. People v. Salas, 2 Cal. App. 537, 84 P. 295.

99. Territory v. Neatherlin [N. M.] 85 P. 1044.

1. A prosecuting attorney in his argument to the jury should not refer to refusal of a witness to testify as to her relations with the defendant as an admission of guilt. Powers v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 332.

2. It is error to refer to defendant as an assassin. Ware v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 1093.

3. Denunciation of mulattoes of whom defendant was one held ground for new trial. Hampton v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 545. Statement that the blood of deceased called for a conviction and that the jury should be exiled unless they had the courage to render it. Patterson v. State, 124 Ga. 408, 52 S. E. 534. Reference to certain witnesses as "white men" held merely for identification and not an appeal to race prejudice. State v. Lee, 116 La. 607, 40 So. 914.

4. Evidence held to warrant statement that accused had "gone wrong" and "established a reputation as a gun man." Covington v. People [Colo.] 85 P. 832. Reference to defendant's testimony as "lies" not ground for reversal. State v. James County, 117 La. 419, 41 So. 702. Characterization of accused as a "white winged angel of peace with a Winchester rifle" not improper. State v. Cason, 115 La. 897, 40 So. 303. Statement that evidence showed that accused was a "monster" not improper on prosecution for incest. State v. Spurling, 115 La. 789, 40 So. 167. Argument reflecting on defendant's temper and suggesting intoxication held not ground for reversal. State v. Feazell, 116 La. 264, 40 So. 698. Where defendant testified, assertion in argument that he had added perjury to his other crimes not improper. People v. Salas, 2 Cal. App. 537, 84 P. 295. Defendant's testimony in a rape case such that it was not ground for reversal to refer to him in argument as a "thing" and a "brute." People v. Lambert, 144 Mich. 578, 13 Det. Leg. N. 299, 108 N. W. 345. Denunciation of witness not altogether unwarranted by evidence held not ground for reversal in view of instruction. Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 592, 95 S. W. 1044.

5. To justify improper argument as provoked by opponent, record must show alleged provocation. Flynn v. People, 222 Ill. 303, 78 N. E. 617. Statement by district attorney that if defendant had gone on stand it would have been shown that he had been previously convicted improper but not ground for reversal where provoked by improper argument of defendant's attorney and with-testify is error.[6] The control of the argument[7] and the limitation of the time allowed therefor[8] rest largely in discretion, as does the question whether the reading of reported decisions shall be permitted.[9]

Defendant's counsel[10] is not entitled to refer to an informer's interest in the conviction where there is no evidence that any witness was the informer against defendant.[11]

Necessity of ruling and exception to preserve the objection to improper argument,[12] and effect of instructions and admonitions to cure improper argument,[13] are elsewhere treated.

(§ 10) C. Questions of law and fact.[14]—Questions of fact preliminary to the admission of evidence are for the court in the first instance, but should be submitted to the jury with instructions to reject the evidence if they find against its admissibility.[15] The competency of a witness of impaired mentality is for the court, his credibility for the jury.[16] Whether a witness is an accomplice is a question of fact.[17]

(§ 10) D. Taking case from jury.[18]—No material fact or issue should be taken from the jury if there is evidence supporting it;[19] but, in a prosecution for misdemeanor where the facts are all admitted, conviction may be directed.[20] Ordinarily, defendant is not entitled of right to a directed acquittal;[21] and in Idaho the court is not authorized to direct an acquittal but may so advise, which advice the drawn at direction of court. State v. Suiter, 78 Vt. 391, 63 A. 182. Improper argument in answer to like argument for defendant not ordinarily ground of reversal. Mash v. People, 220 Ill. 86, 77 N. E. 92. Defendant's counsel having argued that if the state had proved the allegations in the indictment it was not entitled to a conviction because the indictment did not state an offense against the law, a statement in the argument of prosecuting attorney that the motion to quash the indictment had been overruled was justified. White v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 554. Improper argument by defendant's attorney does not justify counsel for the prosecution in stating a fact not in evidence. People v. Cook, 148 Cal. 334, 83 P. 43. In reply to improper statements. Denial of statement by defendant's counsel that only burglars who entered saloons were ever arrested. Jackson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 250, 91 S. W. 788.

6. The prohibition of comment "during trial" on failure of accused to testify applies to remarks to the court in the presence of the jury as well as in argument to jury (State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511), but not to statement to the court not in the presence of the jury. (Id.). Where all the eye witnesses except defendant testified, a statement that no one had denied that defendant killed deceased is a reference to defendant's failure to testify. Smith v. State, 87 Miss. 627, 40 So. 229. Explanation of absence of district attorney by his assistant that he had gone to the telephone, because he expected that one of the defendants would go on the stand no ground for reversal, the jury being properly instructed. State v. Thompson, 116 La. 829, 41 So. 107. Statement in answer to objection to secondary evidence of writing that the original was in defendant's possession is not a reference to defendant's failure to testify. Counts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 142, 94 S. W. 220. Statement on trial for theft of cattle that accused was bound to explain the fact that he and a large family were prospering on a fifteen acre place held not a reference to defendant's failure to testify. Watters v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 524, 94 S. W. 1038. Statement that certain incriminating circumstances were unexplained held not a reference to defendant's failure to testify. Wooten v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 574, 94 S. W. 1060. Comment on failure of accused to make a statement is ground for reversal. Caesar v. State, 125 Ga. 6, 53 S. E. 815.

7. State v. Carrowan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 1002.

8. On a trial for murder where over twenty witnesses were examined, a restriction to one and one-half hours for argument is error. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251.

9. Chambless v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 145, 94 S. W. 220.

10. See 5 C. L. 1835.

11. Duke v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 170.

12. See post, § 14.

13. See post, § 15.

14. See 5 C. L. 1835.

15. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127. To determine whether witnesses are unwilling so as to allow leading questions. State v. Cambron [S. D.] 105 N. W. 241.

16. State v. Simes [Idaho] 85 P. 914.

17. Clay v. State [Wyo.] 86 P. 17.

18. See 5 C. L. 1836.

19. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274; State v. Koch [Mont.] 85 P. 272; State v. Hill [N. C.] 53 S. E. 311.

20. Ligon v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 662; People v. Neal, 143 Mich. 271, 12 Det. Leg. N. 972, 106 N. W. 857; People v. Gardner, 143 Mich. 104, 12 Det. Leg. N. 936, 106 N. W. 541.

21. Leaptrot v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 616.

jury is not bound to follow,[22] but it has been held that where there is an entire failure of proof, it is the duty of the court to direct an acquittal.[23] An instruction in the nature of demurrer to evidence will be denied where there is any substantial evidence to show guilt.[24] Mistrial and continuance properly ordered on discovery of disqualification of juror.[25]

(§10) E. Instructions. Necessity and duty of charging.[26]—It is the duty of the court, if requested[27] in due time[28] and in writing if the rules so require,[29] to give proper instructions on the law relating to the case. Where a request is necessary, it may ordinarily be refused if erroneous,[30] though it has frequently been held the duty of the court to correct it.[31] Even as to those matters upon which the court

22. State v. Wright [Idaho] 85 P. 493.

23. State v. Miller, 47 Or. 562, 85 P. 81.

24. Indictment for assault with intent to kill. State v. Stuart, 116 Mo. App. 327, 92 S. W. 345.

25. Armor v. State, 125 Ga. 3, 53 S. E. 815.

26. See 5 C. L. 1836.

27. If defendant desires a special instruction or to have one given made more specific, he must present a request therefor. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241; Randall v. State, 124 Ga. 657, 52 S. E. 889; Thomas v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 813; State v. Worley [N. C.] 53 S. E. 128. Where the justification claimed was an assault on defendant while he was endeavoring to recover his hat, it is not error for the court to fail to charge of its own motion on his right to retake the hat. State v. Groves, 194 Mo. 452, 92 S. W. 631. Submission of included offense must be requested, at least when it is doubtful whether the evidence justifies its submission. Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451. Definition of offense in language of statute sufficient in absence of request. People v. Castile [Cal. App.] 86 P. 746. Defensive matters shown only by the prisoner's statement need not be specially charged in the absence of a request. Young v. State, 125 Ga. 584, 54 S. E. 82; Jackson v. State, 125 Ga. 277, 54 S. E. 167; Crawford v. State, 125 Ga. 793, 54 S. E. 695. Definition of reasonable doubt must be requested. Commonwealth v. D'Angelo, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 378. Instruction as to power to recommend that accused be punished for misdemeanor, without stating that the court could disregard such recommendation, is not error in the absence of a request. Lingerfelt v. State, 125 Ga. 4, 53 S. E. 803.

Instructions as to weight and effect of evidence must be requested: Instruction that two witnesses or equivalent needed to convict of perjury must be requested. Scott v. State, 77 Ark. 455, 92 S. W. 241. Not as to credibility of witnesses unless requested. Graham v. State, 125 Ga. 48, 53 S. E. 816; Lewis v. State, 125 Ga. 48, 53 S. E. 816. As to credibility of dying declarations must be requested. Hall v. State, 124 Ga. 649, 52 S. E. 891. No reversal for failure to charge without request as to weight of prisoner's statement unless prejudice appears. Culver v. State, 124 Ga. 822, 53 S. E. 316. If a more specific instruction as to alibi than a mere definition is desired, it should be requested. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Instruction limiting evidence to purpose for which it was admitted must be requested. People v. Castile [Cal. App.] 86 P. 745. Charge that animus of witness might be considered must be requested. Fears v. State, 125 Ga. 740, 54 S. E. 661; Coody v. State, 125 Ga. 295, 54 S. E. 180. Specific instruction as to credibility of accomplice need not be given unless requested. State v. Heir, 78 Vt. 488, 63 A. 877. Instruction on credibility of expert testimony need not be given unless requested. State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929. Charge on weight of confession must be requested. Nail v. State, 125 Ga. 234, 54 S. E. 145; Patterson v. State, 124 Ga. 408, 52 S. E. 534. Instruction on character need not be given unless requested. Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31; State v. Smith, 47 Or. 485, 83 P. 865. Instruction limiting effect of evidence must be requested. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Effect of impeachment of witnesses. Cress v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 491. Though it is good practice to give an instruction on circumstantial evidence in every case where the evidence demands it, it is not error to fail to do so in the absence of a request. State v. Bartlett, 128 Iowa, 518, 105 N. W. 59.

28. Requests not presented before argument as required by rule. State v. Gordon, 115 La. 571, 39 So. 625. Request first made when jury return for additional instructions on another question is too late. State v. Smith, 47 Or. 485, 83 P. 865.

29. Though a judge has customarily received oral requests, he cannot be put in error by the refusal of one. Campbell v. State, 124 Ga. 432, 52 S. E. 914.

30. Court may, but is not required to, modify an incorrect request. People v. Wong Sang Lung [Cal. App.] 84 P. 843. In a prosecution for misdemeanor, the court need not correct a request. Shaw v. State [Tex Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 403, 91 S. W. 1087. Request containing omissions which destroy the sense. McCurley v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 1022. Request using the word "defendant" for "deceased" properly denied. Banks v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 921. Instruction as to intoxication disabling from formation of specific intent need not be given if it ignores evidence that the intent was formed before accused became intoxicated. State v. Dillard [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 117. Request using "acquit" instead of "convict." Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 135, 40 So. 269. The Indiana Act of 1903 relating to the modification of requested instructions does not apply to criminal cases. The title indicates that it is a regulation of civil procedure only. Guy v. State [Ind App.] 77 N. E. 855.

31. In prosecutions for serious crimes, reshould charge without request, accused cannot complain that no charge other than a request by him was given.[32] All the instructions desired on the subject of defendant's character should be embraced in a single request.[33] Several instructions asked together are properly refused if any one is incorrect.[34] It is sufficient if requests are substantially given.[35] Requests adequately covered by the instructions given are properly refused,[36] but a brief, general, and colorless instruction limiting effect of evidence of other offenses has been held not to justify refusal of request.[37] An instruction need not be given unless there is evidence on which to predicate it,[38] and the matter is in issue.[39] Thus, while an instruction on circumstantial evidence should ordinarily be given where such evidence alone is relied on,[40] it need not be given if there is direct evidence as well.[41] On joint trial where the evidence is direct as to one defendant and circumstantial as to the other, the court may charge as circumstantial evidence as to one and refuse such charge as to the other.[42] Instructions should be given on the elements of the offense charged,[43] and all included offenses of which quested instructions should not be refused for slight inaccuracy, but should be corrected and given. Montgomery v. State, 128 Wis. 183, 107 N. W. 14.

32. Walker v. State, 124 Ga. 97, 52 S. E. 319.

33. People v. Birnbaum, 114 App. Div. 480, 100 N. Y. S. 160.

34. Clover v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 354.

35. State v. Burnett [N. C.] 55 S. E. 72.

36. Stats v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224; Mash v. Peopls, 220 Ill. 86. 77 N. E. 92; Spears v. People, 220 Ill. 72, 77 N. E. 112; Hoch v. Peopls, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356; Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274; Sims v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 413; Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621; Hainey v. Stats [Ala.] 41 So. 968; Stats v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 66, 84 P. 409; People v. Smith [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 714, 108 N. W. 1072; People v. Cook, 148 Cal. 334, 83 P. 43; People v. Eldridge, 147 Cal. 782, 82 P. 442; State v. Roland, 11 Idaho, 490, 83 P. 337; State v. Shour, 196 Mo. 202, 95 S. W. 405; White v. State, 125 Ga. 256, 54 S. E. 188; Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820; People v. Castille [Cal. App.] 86 P. 745; Robinson v. Com., 104 Va. 888, 52 S. E. 690; Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451; State v. Cotteral [Idaho] 86 P. 527; Blanton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 789; Counts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 142, 94 S. W. 220; State v. Davis, 194 Mo. 485, 92 S. W. 484; State v. Valle, 196 Mo. 29, 93 S. W. 1115. Request as to presumptions and burden of proof held embraced in instructions given. Parsons v. People, 218 Ill. 386, 75 N. E. 993. Where a general instruction is given to disregard all testimony stricken out, refusal of an instruction applicable to particular testimony is not error. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Request as to circumstantial evidence held covered by instructions given. Parsons v. People, 218 Ill. 386, 75 N. E. 993. Instruction as to effect of single fact inconsistent with guilt on circumstantial case held not covered by instructions given. Dunn v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 198. If the requests are substantially covered by the charge, it is sufficient though the language used is not so emphatic. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649.

37. People v. Cook, 148 Cal. 334, 83 P. 43.

38. Knight v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 734. Requests not based on evidence properly refused. People v. Trebilcox [Cal.] 86 P. 684. Unless the proof of an alibi covers the very time of the offense, an instruction on the subject need not be given. Barbs v. Territory, 16 Okl. 562, 86 P. 61. Evidence that accused was a boy of less than average intelligence held not to require submission of insanity. Kirby v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 73, 93 S. W. 1030. Statement held to show defendant guilty as principal in the second degree and accordingly to warrant charge on confessions. Lowe v. State, 125 Ga. 55, 53 S. E. 1038.

39. Where defendant's intent was obvious from his undisputed acts, it need not be submitted. Assault. Crowe v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 12, 91 S. W. 663. Not error to refuse an instruction to acquit unless name of prosecutrix was as alleged where the evidence as to her name was clear and undisputed. Coker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 303.

40. Lasister v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 67, 94 S. W. 233.

41. Smith v. State, 125 Ga. 296, 54 S. E. 127; Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820; Gaut v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1034; State v. Gereke [Kan.] 86 P. 160; Rosenthal v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 497; State v. Gordon, 115 La. 571, 39 So. 625; Garrett v. Stats [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 263, 91 S. W. 577; Nixon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 59, 93 S. W. 556; Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 129, 93 S. W. 726. Where stolen property is found in defendant's possession and the only issue is as to the truth of his explanation of such possession, a charge on circumstantial evidence is not necessary. State v. Overson [Utah] 83 P. 557. Where a witness stood within a few feet of defendant at the time of the homicide, the case is not one of circumstantial evidence because he was not looking at defendant the instant that the shot was fired. Covington v. People [Colo.] 85 P. 832. Implied admission of guilt by accused held to make charge on circumstantial evidence unnecessary. McElroy v. State, 125 Ga. 37, 53 S. E. 759. Where thers is proof of a confession, need not charge on circumstantial evidence. Smith v. State, 125 Ga. 296, 54 S. E. 127.

42. Rosenthal v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 497.

conviction might be had,[44] and on every defensive issue raised by the evidence[45] as well as on the burden of proof and presumption of innocence;[46] but it has been held that reasonable doubt need not be defined,[47] and it is ordinarily held not error to refuse instructions on the weight and effect of particular evidence,[48] nor as to the consequences of acquittal or conviction.[49] It is reversible error to refuse to charge that defendant's failure to testify creates no presumption against him.[50] Defendant is not entitled to an instruction that his presumptive good character is to be considered. It is only when affirmative evidence of good character is given that the jury need be instructed to consider it.[51] An instruction to disregard testimony which has been stricken out on the trial is superfluous.[52]

Submission of charge.[53]—In some states it is required that instructions be in writing[54] unless they are taken down by a stenographer,[55] while in other jurisdictions it is optional.[56] Instruction on presumption of innocence is sufficiently given where the court overlooks it until the jury are about to retire and then recalls them and gives it in due form.[57] The court may without request give additional instructions after the retirement of the jury and if such instructions are fair and correct they will not be presumed to have coerced the verdict.[58] Inquiry by jury may be answered by reading the part of the charge that bears thereon and the court need not read the whole charge nor answer the question categorically.[59] The court should only answer questions of jury as to matters of law.[60]

43. "Malice" and "willfulness" should be defined where they are elements of the crime. State v. Harvey, 130 Iowa, 394, 106 N. W. 938. Where an offense is not divided into degrees, the court need instruct as to what would constitute such offense, only as the evidence requires. State v. Kapelino [S. D.] 108 N. W. 335.

44. Included offense of which conviction might be had under the evidence must be fully and fairly submitted. Newton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 19. Because the jury found the defendant guilty of an included offense, it does not follow that instructions submitting the crime charged were inapplicable. Haddix v. State [Neb.] 107 N. E. 781.

45. Accident. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545.

46. When requested a specific instruction as to the presumption of innocence should be given. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251. Instruction for acquittal, if evidence can be reconciled on any reasonable hypothesis other than guilt, should be given. Larrance v. People, 222 Ill. 155, 78 N. E. 50.

47. Nash v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 405.

48. Court is not required to instruct as to weight of accomplice testimony. Commonwealth v. Phelps [Mass.] 78 N. E. 741. Evidence as to the reputation of a witness is not ordinarily susceptible of improper use and accordingly it is not error to refuse an instruction limiting it to purposes of impeachment. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 247, 94 S. W. 227. It is not error to refuse to instruct that no inference against defendant is to be drawn from the failure of his codefendants to testify. State v. White [Or.] 87 P. 137. Need not charge that positive testimony should be given more weight than negative. State v. Green, 115 La. 1041, 40 So. 451.

Improperly refused: Failure to instruct in the terms of the statute as to the weight of the defendant's statement is ground for new trial. Vinson v. State, 124 Ga. 453, 52 S. E. 761. Where confession is principal evidence and there is testimony that it was involuntary, it is error not to instruct as to rejection of involuntary confessions. People v. Maxfield [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 680, 108 N. W. 1087. An instruction that the jury should consider the appearance of witnesses, manner of testifying, apparent candor or lack thereof, and their means of knowledge, should be given. State v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376.

49. Jury need not be instructed as to imposition of costs in case of acquittal. Commonwealth v. Clymer, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 61.

50. People v. Provost, 144 Mich. 17, 13 Det. Leg. N. 136, 107 N. W. 716, collating and analyzing the cases.

51. People v. Pekarz, 145 N. Y. 470, 78 N. E. 294.

52. State v. Roupetz [Kan.] 85 P. 778.

53. See 5 C. L. 1841.

54. Statement that definition of reasonable doubt given in argument is probably correct is not an instruction which must be in writing. State v. Logan [Kan.] 85 P. 798. Admonition to disregard improper argument coupled with a statement as to the presumption of innocence is not an instruction which must be in writing. State v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 115.

55. The stenographer whose presence will excuse the court from instructing in writing under Laws 1903, c. 81, § 1, must be an official stenographer. State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540, 85 P. 251.

56. Though it is better practice to instruct in writing, oral instructions are not error. State v. Woodrow, 58 W. Va. 527, 52 S. E. 545.

57. Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820.

Form of instructions in general.[61]—It is proper to read the information to the jury in connection with the charge;[62] or to instruct that proof of all the allegations of the indictment warrants conviction is proper where such averments adequately describe the offense.[63] It is proper to frame the general charge on the evidence alone and instruct separately as to the prisoner's statement.[64] A charge correctly presenting one theory is not objectionable for failure to refer to another presented by a separate instruction.[65] Instructions correcting the effect of misstatement of law by defendant's counsel may be given.[66] It is improper in Kentucky to give an instruction reciting in brief the facts relating to the offense charged.[67] The instructions must be based on the evidence[68] and responsive to the issues,[69] and must not ignore any part thereof[70] nor so single out any particular matter as to give it undue prominence.[71] Elliptical phrases should be avoided.[72] Instructions must be consistent with each other[73] and free from vagueness,[74] misleading expressions,[75] and argumentation.[76]

58. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838.

59. Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820.

60. Question as to whether one juror could hang jury by refusal to agree on question of penalty alone should not be answered. Wilkerson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 880, 91 S. W. 228.

61. Sec 5 C. L. 1841.

62. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187.

63. Walker v. State, 124 Ga. 97, 52 S. E. 319.

64. Toibirt v. State, 124 Ga. 767, 53 S. E. 327.

65. Bell v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 476.

66. In answer to argument that jurymen find verdict in defiance of law and evidence. People v. Smith [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 714, 108 N. W. 1072.

67. Farmer v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1168, 91 S. W. 682.

68. Though instructions must be based on the evidence, it is sufficient if they are based on any state of facts which might be found therefrom. Instruction as to presumption from flight proper though there was some testimony that defendant feared mob violence. People v. Easton, 148 Cal. 50, 82 P. 840. Giving of an instruction which has no basis in the evidence is reversible error. Instruction on confession when none was proved. State v. Smith, 129 Iowa, 709, 106 N. W. 187. Error to give instructions not applicable to the evidence. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. Instruction on the nature of crime in general held so abstract as to be properly refused. Spears v. People, 220 Ill. 72, 77 N. E. 112.

69. It is proper to charge that certain matters shown by the evidence are no defense though accused does not rely on them. Adams v. State, 125 Ga. 11, 53 S. E. 804. Where there is some evidence of insanity it is proper to charge thereon unless accused announces that he does not rely on it. Patterson v. State, 124 Ga. 408, 52 S. E. 534.

70. Instruction ignoring evidence properly refused. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Instructions on prosecution for conspiracy to bribe held erroneous in not presenting defendant's theory. State v. Messner [Wash.] 86 P. 636. Instruction to convict on finding of certain facts is error if a defense which there is evidence to support is ignored. Prosecution for carrying concealed weapon. Defense that defendant's life had been threatened. State v. Venable, 117 Mo. App. 501, 93 S. W. 356.

71. Commonwealth v. Meads, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 321; Whatley v. State, 144 Ala. 68, 39 So. 1014. General instruction on effect of impeachment not erroneous because only one witness had been impeached. State v. Feeley, 194 Mo. 300, 92 S. W. 663. One act of defendant referred to as provocation of difficulty. Sprinkle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 323, 91 S. W. 787. Instruction that though accused is a competent witness the jury are the judges of the weight of his testimony held not error in connection with instruction as to interest, etc., made general as to all witnesses. Territory v. Livingston [N. M.] 84 P. 1021. Instruction that in considering credibility of defendant jury might consider the fact if it was a fact that he had been contradicted by other witnesses is proper. Maguire v. People, 219 Ill. 16, 76 N. E. 67.

72. "Before the jury is entitled to render a verdict of guilt, the state must prove his guilt to a moral certainty," properly refused. Little v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 674.

73. Weston v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1014.

74. An instruction that the mere possession of "any article whether it can or cannot be used in the perpetration of crime" is insufficient to convict is too general and vague and is properly refused. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671.

75. Instruction that the "aspect" of the evidence which will lead to acquittal should be adopted properly refused as misleading. Parsons v. People, 218 Ill. 386, 75 N. E. 993. An instruction on trial of two that there could be no conviction unless "defendants or one of them" committed the acts constituting the crime is error. State v. Harvey, 130 Iowa, 394, 106 N. W. 938. Giving of entire statutory definition of principal in second degree not error though part of it was not applicable to the evidence. Brown v. State, 125 Ga. 281, 54 S. E. 162. Instruction to disregard statements of accused after the crime, if he was found to be insane, misleading as warranting disregard of such statements in determining issue of sanity.

Invading province of jury or charging on the facts.[77]—Instructions must not invade the province of the jury[78] or assume the existence of disputed facts,[79] though People v. Fallon [Cal.] 86 P. 689. Instruction requiring prosecution to prove every element necessary to conviction without stating what the elements were is properly refused. Whatley v. State, 144 Ala. 68, 39 So. 1014. Instruction to acquit in case of irreconcilable conflict in testimony is misleading. Little v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 674. A written instruction that the jury are to consider all testimony given by the witnesses is not misleading because not excepting testimony which had been orally stricken. State v. Roupetz [Kan.] 85 P. 778. Giving parts of statute not applicable to facts is harmless where other instructions correctly limited the prosecution. Brewin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 534, 92 S. W. 420.

76. Instruction referring to accomplice as self-confessed felon properly denied. State v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224. Instruction that indictment is not to be considered as showing either guilt or innocence, argumentative. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Charge that of two persons present one might see an object and the other not see it and testify accordingly, yet both tell the truth, held argumentative. Crittendon v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 217. Instruction in abduction case inquiring for what purpose the parties went to a certain place and whether there was any evidence of a proper purpose sustained. People v. Smith, 100 N. Y. S. 259. Instructions in rape case calculated to arouse sympathy for prosecutrix and referring to the improbability that she would falsely confess intimacy with a negro held error. People v. Brown, 142 Mich. 622, 12 Det. Leg. N. 852, 106 N. W. 149. Instruction in prosecution for illegal sale of intoxicants, "Where did the bottle of whiskey come from? Miracles don't happen now," held not argumentative. State v. Bryant, 97 Minn. 8, 105 N. W. 974. Instruction that the people should be protected against crime and that every citizen should be protected against improper conviction not error. People v. Lambert, 144 Mich. 578, 13 Det. Leg. N. 299, 108 N. W. 345. Argumentative instructions pointing out particular circumstances which should be considered properly refused. People v. Trebilcox [Cal.] 86 P. 684. Long argumentative charge warning jury against influence of public sentiment properly refused. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100. Instruction that the fact that accused left the community shortly after the crime was only a circumstance, and that the fact that he afterward returned was a circumstance in favor of innocence, properly refused. Young v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 656. Instruction that defendant's failure to offer his clothing in evidence on the preliminary examination created no inference against him, argumentative. Barden v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 948. Requests which are mere argumentative refutations of statements in the argument for the prosecution are properly denied. That there was no evidence that defendant was going around like a roaring lion seeking whom he might devour. Whatley v. State, 144 Ala. 68, 39 So. 1014. Instruction that jury might conscientiously believe defendant guilty and yet not be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt properly refused. Regan v. State, 87 Miss. 422, 39 So. 1002. Instruction that "justice and humanity alike demand" acquittal on certain statements of proof properly refused. Banks v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 921. Instruction that no afflicted insane person should be convicted of any crime is argumentative and properly refused. Barnett v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 778. Instruction that there is no presumption of sanity from the fact that defendant was not sent to the asylum properly refused. Id. Instruction that certain testimony was undisputed and singling it out for special consideration on that account properly refused. Id. Instruction that defendant's failure to make a statement at the coroner's inquest is not to be considered against him properly refused as argumentative. Ledbetter v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 618. Instruction on sacredness of life and importance of discovery and punishment of murder held not error. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237.

77. See 5 C. L. 1843.

78. Where a dying declaration named the assailant, and it appears that there are several persons of that name in the vicinity, an instruction that identity of person is presumed from identity of name is error. People v. Wong Sang Lung [Cal. App.] 84 P. 843. An instruction that statements by defendant against his interest are presumed true is error. Clay v. State [Wyo.] 86 P. 17. An instruction that absence of motive "affords a strong presumption" of innocence is properly refused. State v. Lu Sing [Mont.] 85 P. 521. Instruction to consider the interest of witnesses, their temper, feeling, or bias, if any, and their manner of testifying, does not invade the province of the jury. State v. Trail [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 17. Instruction that by the undisputed evidence defendant's character is good invades the province of the jury. Allen v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 624. Instruction that absence of motive might generate reasonable doubt properly refused. Glass v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. Instruction as to age of consent held not to invade province of jury. Curry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 566, 94 S. W. 1058. Instruction that defendant's presence at the homicide and the fact of a previous difficulty with deceased raised no presumption against him properly refused as invading province of the jury. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Instruction that "if you find from the evidence as you are instructed you must" that defendant is guilty held not an instruction for conviction, but, as interpreted in connection with other instructions, merely limited the jury to the evidence. State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511.

79. Instruction on alibi not objectionable because of reference to "the scene of the crime." Adams v. State, 125 Ga. 11, 53 S. E. 804. Instruction beginning "while no eyes but those of defendant and the slain woman may have looked upon the tragedy" error where the presence of defendant was a crucial fact in the case. Walton v. State, 87 conceded facts may be assumed.[80] In many states the court is forbidden to charge on the weight of evidence or intimate an opinion on the facts.[81]

Submission of questions of law[82] is error. An instruction that the jury are at liberty to consider whether the prosecution is to vindicate the criminal law or to collect a debt is error.[83] The statute providing for submission of propositions of law does not apply to criminal cases.[84]

Form and propriety of particular charges.[85]—Holdings as to the form and sufficiency of instructions as to the burden and degree of proof,[86] presumption of inno-

Miss. 296, 39 So. 689. Instruction as to corroboration of accomplice held not to assume truth of his testimony. Gillespie v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 68, 93 S. W. 556. Instruction held not to assume the making by accused of a certain false affidavit. Adams v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 699, 91 S. W. 225. Instruction that lapse of time between offense and arrest was immaterial is error where delay in making the arrest was urged as impairing the credibility of an eye witness. Clark v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 808. Charge held to assume that accused was present aiding and abetting. Brown v. State, 125 Ga. 281, 54 S. E. 162. Instruction to lay aside resentment against defendant for killing a public officer error where there was evidence that defendant did not do the killing. Melbourne v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 189.

80. Not error to assume fact as to which there is no dispute. State v. Watson, 47 Or. 543, 85 P. 336. Where there is no question as to the law under which the prosecution is had being in force, it is not error for the court to so state. Roberson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 264, 91 S. W. 578. Where defendant admits and justifies the killing, assumption thereof in the charge is not error. State v. Mitchell, 130 Iowa, 697, 107 N. W. 804.

81. An instruction that one who has testified falsely is not a credible witness is properly refused as on the weight of the evidence. Slayton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 541, 94 S. W. 901. Instruction as to necessity of corroborative confession held not error. Griffin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 213, 93 S. W. 732. In Texas it is error to instruct that a certain witness is an accomplice and must be corroborated. Reagan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 239, 93 S. W. 733. Instruction limiting effect of evidence of other offenses is not on the weight of the evidence. Byrd v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 712, 93 S. W. 114; Hammock v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 906, 93 S. W. 549. Instruction that verbal admissions are to be received with great caution though on the weight of the evidence is favorable to accused. Griffin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 213, 93 S. W. 732. Instruction that confession cannot be considered unless voluntary held not on the weight of evidence. Id. Under a statute restricting the court to instruction on the law, an instruction as to the weight and effect of evidence of an alibi is properly refused. Smith v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 17, 91 S. W. 1130. Instruction that certain evidence should only be considered for a specified purpose held on the weight of the evidence. Mickey v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 321, 91 S. W. 587. Instruction stating rule of evidence is not a comment on the facts. State v. Philips, 73 S. C. 236, 53 S. E. 370. An instruction that it is more probable that a man of bad character would commit a crime than that one of good character would do so is properly refused. Long v. State, 76 Ark. 493, 89 S. W. 93, 91 S. W. 26. Attention of jury may be directed to the salient features of the evidence on any point if they are instructed that the decision thereon is for them. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237. Instructions commenting on the conduct of defendant held not to indicate an opinion. Id. Statement that prosecutrix had answered questions well though severely examined held not error. People v. Smith, 100 N. Y. S. 259. Correction of a misstatement of the testimony by counsel is not within a prohibition of instruction on the facts. State v. Lane, 47 Or. 526, 84 P. 804. Statement of the main circumstances relied on for conviction held not a charge on the facts. State v. Langford [S. C.] 55 S. E. 120. May express opinion as to degree of crime if decision is left to jury. Commonwealth v. Frucci [Pa.] 64 A. 879. In Pennsylvania may express opinion on facts if fairly given and decision is left to jury. Commonwealth v. Meads, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 321. May call attention to the character of evidence required if the question whether that in the present case meets the prescribed standard is left to the jury. Commonwealth v. Salawich, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 330. That confessions are "entitled to great weight," error. State v. Willing, 129 Iowa, 72, 105 N. W. 355.

82. See 5 C. L. 1845. Charge for acquittal if jury had reasonable doubt that accused killed deceased "unlawfully" properly refused. Kennedy v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 658.

83. State v. Jackson, 128 Iowa, 543, 105 N. W. 51.

84. Jacobs v. People, 218 Ill. 500, 75 N. E. 1034.

85. See 5 C. L. 1845.

86. It is proper to instruct that if the jury find all the elements of the offense proven beyond a reasonable doubt they shall convict. Guy v. State [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 855. Instruction that if any conclusion other than guilt could be drawn from circumstantial evidence "it is not safe to convict" is not erroneous for not requiring acquittal. State v. Langford [S. C.] 55 S. E. 120. An instruction that jury must be convinced to a reasonable and moral certainty is not erroneous for failing to state that they must be so convinced by the evidence. Field v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 502. Instruction for accence,[87] presumption from failure of accused to testify,[88] presumption from failure to call witnesses,[89] definition and description of crime charged[89a] and included offenses,[90] responsibility of principals and accessories,[91] definition of reasonable quittal if evidence raises a probability of innocence should be given. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274. Instruction requiring guilt to be proved beyond "all doubt" properly refused. Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 35, 40 So. 269. Instruction that evidence must satisfy "to the exclusion of every probability of innocence," error. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Instruction to acquit if there is "any doubt" properly refused. Carter v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 82. Use of phrase "if for any reason you believe the defendant not guilty" held not error in connection with full and correct instructions as to burden of proof. Territory v. Livingston [N. M.] 84 P. 1021. Instruction that proof must be beyond a "doubt" properly refused. People v. Reiss, 99 N. Y. S. 1002. Instruction for acquittal "if you are satisfied from the evidence or if the evidence raises in your mind a reasonable doubt" of facts constituting justification not error. Von Haller v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 233. It is bad practice to charge as to the law of preponderance of evidence. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 302, 54 S. E. 108. It is not error to modify an instruction as to the presumption of innocence by striking out a direction to acquit if it was not overcome where such matter was fully covered by other instructions. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Instruction that "independent of evidence" defendant is presumed innocent is erroneous as not stating that the presumption obtains till rebutted beyond a reasonable doubt. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. Instruction for acquittal unless the testimony of specified witnesses is believed properly refused. Barden v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 948. Instruction for acquittal on a "reasonable possibility" of innocence properly refused. Id. Instruction for acquittal if on consideration of the whole evidence it or any part thereof generates a well founded doubt of guilt is correct. Patterson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 157. Instruction that accused is entitled to the benefit of all the evidence in his favor is not erroneous as depriving him of benefit of lack of evidence. State v. Miller, 73 S. C. 277, 53 S. E. 426. Where there is no affirmative defense no charge for acquittal is necessary other than an instruction that the elements of the offense must be found beyond reasonable doubt. Wright v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 935, 93 S. W. 548. Instruction on alibi held not to put burden of proof on defendant. State v. Bateman, 196 Mo. 35, 95 S. W. 413. Instruction requiring accused to "clearly" prove insanity by a preponderance of evidence is error (McCullough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1056), or at least such instruction should be accompanied by one that proof beyond a reasonable doubt is not necessary (Stanfield v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1057). Charge for acquittal on "probability" of innocence properly refused. Baker v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 673.

87. Instruction as to presumption of innocence approved and its refusal held error. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Instruction that presumption of innocence continues throughout the entire trial properly refused as not stating that it may be overcome by evidence. Williams v. State, 144 Ala. 14, 40 So. 405. Instruction that defendant is presumed innocent "until" the introduction of evidence showing guilt beyond a reasonable doubt is error, for defendant is entitled to the benefit of such presumption throughout the trial. Flynn v. People, 222 Ill. 303, 78 N. E. 617, overruling People v. Dinser, 49 Misc. 82, 98 N. Y. S. 314.

88. It is not error for the court of its own motion to instruct that no presumption is to be drawn from defendant's failure to testify. People v. Murphy [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 602, 108 N. W. 1009. In a charge "Defendant has not taken the stand and you must not pay any attention to that. We are not here to save fools from the consequences of their folly," the last sentence construed as relating to victim of fraud charged and not to defendant's failure to testify. People v. Langley, 114 App. Div. 427, 100 N. Y. S. 123. Instruction that defendant may but need not testify and that the fact that he does not is not to be used to his prejudice not improper. State v. Fuller [Mont.] 85 P. 369.

89. Not entitled to instruction that failure to call eye witness raised presumption that his testimony would have been unfavorable to prosecution, but only that the jury might consider such failure. People v. Smith, 113 App. Div. 396, 99 N. Y. S. 118. Instruction that failure to use a witness subpoenaed raises a presumption that he would not have supported the contention is properly refused. State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929. Instruction correctly stating that no presumption arose from failure of accused to call a witness but thereafter stating the rule as in civil cases and that it "applied to both parties" is error. Long v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 906.

89a. Definition of offense may be in language of statute where its terms are clear. State v. Stevenson [Kan.] 85 P. 797. The offense need not be defined in the language of the statute, and unless its words are plain it is better practice not to do so. State v. Ireland, 72 Kan. 265, 83 P. 1036. Omission of word "feloniously" in defining larceny harmless. People v. Snyder, 110 App. Div. 699, 97 N. Y. S. 469.

90. Instruction for acquittal unless "the charge in the indictment" was made out properly refused where a lower degree might be found. Moore v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 345.

91. Instruction held erroneous as open to the construction that knowledge that crime was contemplated amounted to participation. State v. Bartlett, 128 Iowa, 518, 105 N. W. 59. An instruction that one who aids or abets the keeping of a house of prostitution is guilty as principal is not misleading in a prosecution for allowing a minor to dwell in such a house, as intimating that aiding and abetting the keeping of the doubt,[92] the issues of insanity,[93] intoxication,[94] self defense,[95] alibi,[96] as to variance between indictment and proof,[97] consideration to be given to argument of counsel,[98] rules for considering evidence in general[99] and of particular kinds of evidence, such house would alone warrant conviction. Nash v. People, 220 Ill. 86, 77 N. E. 92. Evidence held to show such concert in purpose and action between defendants in respect to successive ravishments as to justify court in instructing as to principals and accessories. Barrett v. People, 220 Ill. 304, 77 N. E. 224. Instruction that one is not an aider or abettor if he gave no assistance "or" uttered no word is properly refused. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274.

92. Instructions on reasonable doubt approved. Carter v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 82. Substantial doubt founded on the evidence and not a mere possibility of innocence. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869. "To a reasonable and moral certainty" sustained in view of other instructions. Cole v. State, 125 Ga. 276, 53 S. E. 958. "Doubt which would satisfy a reasonable man" error. Vaughn v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 881. Charge that it is a doubt arising out of the evidence for which a reason can be given as distinguished from a mere possibility misleading but not ground for reversal. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. Must be substantial and founded on the evidence and not a mere possibility of innocence. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 228, 92 S. W. 494. "Which leads one to entertain a conscientious belief that there is an absence of necessary proof of guilt" sustained when given in connection with instructions on burden and degree of proof. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838. Instruction on reasonable doubt must require jury to acquit if it exists. Commonwealth v. Rider, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 621. Not a mere imaginary, whimsical, or possible doubt, but such a real and substantial doubt as intelligent and impartial men would reasonably entertain on a careful consideration of the relevant facts proven in the case. State v. Wilson [Del.] 62 A. 227. Not a vague, fanciful, or merely possible doubt, but such a real and substantial one as intelligent and impartial men may reasonably entertain upon a careful consideration of all the evidence. State v. Truitt [Del.] 62 A. 790. Reasonable doubt must grow out of the evidence and be of such a character as to prevent the jury from reaching an honest conclusion of guilt. State v. Collins [Del.] 62 A. 224. "Doubt for which juror can give a reason" sustained in view of other parts of charge. State v. Grant [S. D.] 105 N. W. 97.

93. Instruction as to ability to distinguish between right and wrong as test of sanity approved. State v. Wetter, 11 Idaho, 433, 89 P. 341. Series of instructions on insanity approved. State v. Mitchell, 130 Iowa, 697, 107 N. W. 804. Instructions held to sufficiently cover insanity caused by fear, etc. State v. Speyer, 194 Mo. 459, 91 S. W. 1075.

94. The qualification "when sane and responsible" should be included in an instruction that intoxication is no defense. People v. Trebilcox [Cal.] 86 P. 684. Instruction in language of statute as to effect of intoxication on intent held sufficient. State v. Kapelino [S. D.] 108 N. W. 335. Instruction that intoxication is no defense or excuse without referring to its effect on capacity to form specific intent is error. State v. Bennett, 128 Iowa, 713, 105 N. W. 324.

95. Charge that a person of bad character has equal rights of self-defense is not harmful though defendant's character is not put in issue where it appears by plain inference that she is a woman of immoral life. Green v. State, 124 Ga. 343, 52 S. E. 431. Instruction postulating that defendant did not act in self-defense and not defining self-defense properly refused. Banks v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 921. An instruction that "the defense is justifiable self-defense" is error as narrowing the issue to the defense. State v. Morris, 128 Iowa, 717, 105 N. W. 213.

And see Homicide, 8 C. L. 106.

96. Instruction to the effect that the precise hour was not material misleading where the evidence narrowed the time to a specific hour and the defense was an alibi. People v. Morris [Cal. App.] 84 P. 463. Instruction that alibi was to be proved by a preponderance of evidence or to create a reasonable doubt of defendant's presence is contradictory and misleading. Id. Instruction that evidence of alibi to be satisfactory must cover the whole time of the transaction so as to render it impossible that defendant could have committed the act is error, both as casting the burden of proof on defendant and requiring that it make guilt "impossible." Briggs v. People, 219 Ill. 330, 76 N. E. 499. Instruction putting burden of proof of alibi on defendant but requiring acquittal in case of reasonable doubt on the whole case, including alibi, sustained. State v. Hier, 78 Vt. 488, 63 A. 877.

97. Where an alleged variance as to name of injured person was submitted to the jury on conflicting evidence as to his name, an instruction referring to the point as an "extreme technicality" is error. Vincendeau v. People, 219 Ill. 474, 76 N. E. 675.

98. Instruction that argument of counsel was to be used to aid the jury in "understanding the law" does not tend to mislead the jury into rejecting impressions produced by argument on the evidence. Mann v. State, 124 Ga. 760, 53 S. E. 324.

99. That no testimony should be rejected unless found to be in irreconcilable conflict with other testimony believed to be true, error. Von Haller v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 233. An instruction that the jury can look to certain evidence in determining a certain issue properly refused as tending to preclude consideration of other evidence. Shackleford v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 665. Instruction authorizing acquittal if testimony of a certain witness is disbelieved misleading where the other testimony would justify conviction. Outler v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 460. Instruction that nothing was to be considered except the law, the evidence, and the prisoner's statement, not improper. Moss v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 481. It is error to charge without qualification that positive as circumstantial evidence,[1] expert and opinion evidence,[2] evidence of character of defendant,[3] testimony[4] or statement[5] of defendant, testimony of accomplices,[6] con-testimony is entitled to more weight than negative. Such instruction should be given only in connection with the other rules by which the weight and credit of testimony is determined. Warrick v. State, 125 Ga. 133, 53 S. E. 1027. As instruction that the jury are not to consider their "personal opinions as to the facts proven" is misleading and properly refused. State v. Kremer [Mont.] 85 P. 736. An instruction that if conflicting evidence has two tendencies it is the duty of the jury to accept that which leads to acquittal properly refused. McCurley v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 1022. Instruction on impeachment not erroneous for use of pronoun "he," though female witnesses were impeached. Marek v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 229, 94 S. W. 469. Instruction limiting the use of another offense committed at the same time held sufficiently favorable to accused. People v. McClure, 148 Cal. 418, 83 P. 437.

1. Charge that circumstantial evidence should be received with great caution properly refused. State v. Le Blanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105. There is no conflict between instructions that each circumstance must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt and one for conviction if whole evidence established guilt. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. An instruction on circumstantial evidence in a case where there is direct evidence should be hypothesized on disbelief of the direct evidence. Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820. Instruction on circumstantial evidence held not argumentative. Parsons v. People. 218 Ill. 386, 75 N. E. 993. An instruction that each "link" must be proved beyond reasonable doubt is properly refused. Dunn v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 198. An instruction that if one fact inconsistent with the hypothesis of guilt is established to the satisfaction of the jury it breaks the chain of proof is proper. Dunn v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 198. Instruction that "evidence" instead of "proof" of good character may in connection with other evidence raise a reasonable doubt properly refused. Teague v. State, 144 Ala. 42, 40 So. 312. Several instructions as to circumstantial evidence considered. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Instruction disparaging circumstantial evidence is properly refused. State v. Foster [N. D.] 105 N. W. 938.

2. An instruction that the jury are to determine the value of nonexpert opinions largely from the reasons given for them is proper. Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649.

3. Instruction to acquit if evidence of good character convinces the jury that the other evidence is false is error, since defendant is entitled to have the evidence considered in the light of ths character evidence. Culver v. State, 124 Ga. 822, 53 S. E. 316. It is proper to charge that in determining whether character evidence is sufficient to raise a reasonable doubt it should be considered in connection with the other evidence. Fordham v. State, 125 Ga. 791, 54 S. E. 694. An instruction that proof of good character is not to raise doubts but only to assist in solving them is error. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805. Instruction that jury "have a right" to act on defendant's testimony not misleading. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3. Instruction on character held sufficient though it did not state that character evidence alone might raise a doubt. People v. Birnbaum, 114 App. Div. 480, 100 N. Y. S. 160, citing Remsen v. People, 43 N. Y. 8, which lays down the rules as to instructions on this subject. An instruction that evidence of good character removes the presumption from possession of stolen goods is properly refused. People v. Peltin, 1 Cal. App. 612, 82 P. 980. While it is true that evidence of defendant's good character may raise a doubt when none would otherwise have existed, an instruction to that effect is properly refused as singling out particular testimony. Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31. Instruction on effect of proof of defendant's bad moral character as bearing on credibility approved. State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929.

4. Instruction that defendant's testimony is to be considered in the light of his interest, proper. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. Instruction intimating that testimony of accused is to be given the same weight as that of a disinterested witness properly refused. Blanton v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 789. Instruction that defendant's testimony was not to be arbitrarily disregarded or blindly received, but was to be weighed with the other testimony and given such weight as it was entitled to, approved. Hudson v. State, 77 Ark. 334, 91 S. W. 299. An instruction that in determining defendant's credibility the influences and inducements of his situation are to be considered is error. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187, in which the court declares that it will hereafter consider the giving of such instructions ground for reversal. Error to instruct that jury should remember the interest which defendant necessarily has in the result. Keigans v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 886. Not error to instruct that interest of accused may be considered in weighing his testimony. State v. Bursaw [Kan.] 87 P. 183. Proper to instruct that jury may in weighing testimony of accused consider his interest. Weatherford v. State [Ark.] 93 S. W. 61.

5. The charge on the prisoner's statement should be in substantially the language of the Code and should in no way disparage its credibility. Instruction to consider the evidence "with such part of the statement as you believe if you believe any of it" held error. Field v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 502. It is not error to say at the end of a correct charge as to defendant's statement that it is not under oath and he incurs no penalty for falsity. Ryals v. State, 125 Ga. 266, 54 S. E. 168. Charge as to prisoner's statement held not erroneous as authorizing jury to arbitrarily disregard it. Adams v. State, 125 Ga. 11, 53 S. E. 804. Instruction as to prisoner's statement in language of statute is sufficient. Grant v. State, 124 Ga. 757, 53 S. E. 334.

6. Instruction in language of Cr. Code Prac. § 241, held sufficient as to accomplice fessions,[7] credibility of witnesses and effect of impeachment,[8] necessity of unanimity of jury and effect of dissenting views,[9] form of verdict,[10] and nature and extent of the punishment,[11] are collated in the notes. The jury may be given testimony. Henderson v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1212, 91 S. W. 1141. It is the better practice to define an accomplice and leave it to the jury whether a particular witness is within the definition. Clay v. State [Wyo.] 86 P. 17. An instruction as to right to act on uncorroborated testimony of accomplice held misleading where there was corroborative evidence. Id. Instructions held to sufficiently define the extent of corroboration of an accomplice required. Id. Instruction leaving to jury whether witness was accomplice held cured by one stating that he was an accomplice. State v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224. Instruction on corroboration of accomplice sustained. State v. Knudtson, 11 Idaho, 524, 83 P. 226. Instruction that any testimony other than that of an accomplice could be considered in corroboration of accomplice proper in answer to question whether testimony of accused could be so considered. Morawitz v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 880, 91 S. W. 227.

7. Refusal of instruction to disregard confession if defendant was found insane harmless where there was an instruction for acquittal in such event. People v. Fallon [Cal.] 86 P. 689.

8. A question by the jury as to their right to accept part of the testimony of a witness is properly answered by an instruction that the credibility of the witnesses is exclusively for the jury. Slayton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 541, 94 S. W. 901. Instruction that impeaching evidence was to aid the jury in determining the credibility "or otherwise" of the witness is not misleading. Marek v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 229, 94 S. W. 469. Instruction as to falso in uno not authorizing jury to believe part and reject part is error. Little v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 674. Instruction directing instead of authorizing disregard of testimony of witness impeached by proof of bad character is error. Funderburk v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 672. An instruction that if the jury do not believe that certain inconsistent statements were made then the witness is not impeached should be given. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. Instruction that jury might disregard testimony of a witness if he had exhibited such bias as to convince the jury that he had not testified truly should be given. Id. Instruction that if the proof of the good character of a witness was sufficient to overcome impeaching testimony the jury should weigh his testimony along with the other evidence should be given. Id. Instruction on falsus in uno rule should require evidence to be "entirely" rejected. Garland v. State, 124 Ga. 832, 53 S. E. 314. That instruction on impeachment was confined to a single method is not error where no witness was impeached in any other manner. McGirt v. State, 125 Ga. 269, 54 S. E. 171. Instruction that jury are sole judges of credibility of witnesses properly modified by adding injunction against arbitrary disregard of testimony. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545. Charge on rule falsus in uno without using the word "material" sustained. People v. Dinser, 49 Misc. 82, 98 N. Y. S. 314. Instruction as to rule falsus in uno not requiring falsity to have been intentional properly refused. Hamilton v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 940. Instruction to disregard testimony of witnesses found not to be credible held erroneous as pretermitting possibility of corroboration, Id. Instruction on falsus in uno rule not requiring falsity to be in material matter properly refused. Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621. Instruction requiring jury to disregard testimony of witness who has sworn falsely in part is error. Commonwealth v. Ieradi [Pa.] 64 A. 889. Instruction that witness testifying to a confession was not discredited by disproof of a statement in the confession held not error. State v. Rosa, 72 N. J. Law, 462, 62 A. 695. An instruction that the jury "must" consider previous inconsistent testimony as affecting the credibility of the witness is properly refused. Id. Instruction on falsus in uno rule approved. Titterington v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 421. Instruction that if witness is contradicted in material matter his entire testimony should be rejected is error. Commonwealth v. Pearl, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 307.

9. Modification of instruction that "defendant" was entitled to the independent judgment of each juror so as to state that "each side" is so entitled is not error. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Instruction for acquittal if any juror has doubt of guilt properly refused. Outler v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 460. An instruction as to the individual duty of each juror silent as to his duty to consult with his fellow jurors is properly refused. State v. Logan [Kan.] 85 P. 798. It is not error to charge that the jury cannot acquit unless every juror has a reasonable doubt. Whatley v. State, 144 Ala. 68, 39 So. 1014. "Unless each of the jurors were so convinced that they would act on their decision in matters of high concern and importance to their own interest," properly refused. Banks v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 921.

10. Proper to instruct as to form of verdict. Keigans v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 886.

11. Instruction that while jury may recommend mercy the court is not bound to observe the recommendation not erroneous as intimating that the present case is a bad one. State v. Jones [S. C.] 54 S. E. 1017. If any instruction is given as to the fact that the court must impose the death penalty unless the jury impose imprisonment, defendant must be given the full benefit of the law as to the discretion of the jury. Evans v. State, 87 Miss. 459, 40 So. 8. Under the Mississippi statute by which if the jury do not fix the penalty at imprisonment the court must impose the death penalty, it is error to instruct as to the consequences of a failure to fix the penalty and then charge that if the jury find the defendant guilty of murder they should return a verdict of "guilty as charged." Mathison v. State, 87 written forms of the different verdicts authorized by the charge,[12] and, where proper instructions are given, the submission of a form of verdict of guilty is not error as misleading the jury to think such a verdict is directed.[13]

The charge is to be construed as a whole[14] and omissions in one part may be supplied by statements elsewhere.[15] For like reason the burden and degree of proof need not be reiterated in connection with each instruction,[16] even in additional instructions given after the jury have retired.[17] An erroneous statement, however, is not cured by a correct one elsewhere made, for it cannot appear which the jury heeded.[18]

(§ 10) F. Custody of jury, conduct and deliberations.[19]—While it is discretionary to allow the jury to separate during the trial,[20] after an order is made for their confinement, it is error to allow them to separate,[21] though whether it is ground for new trial depends on the circumstances.[22] In California the admonition required by statute should be given at each adjournment.[23] Reading of news-

Miss. 739, 40 So. 801. An instruction that the jury had discretionary power to fix the penalty or return a general verdict is not erroneous for failing to explain the nature of such discretion. Grant v. State, 124 Ga. 757, 53 S. E. 334.

12. Park v. State [Ga.] 55 N. E. 489.

13. State v. Davis, 194 Mo. 485, 92 S. W. 484.

14. See 5 C. L. 1842, n. 25, 27.

15. Britten v. State, 124 Ga. 783, 53 S. E. 99; State v. Lillliston [N. C.] 54 S. E. 427; Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 265, 54 S. E. 167; Ward v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 177; People v. Johnson, 185 N. Y. 219, 77 N. E. 1154. Instruction apparently inadvertent putting burden on defendant to prove the allegations of the indictment is harmless where other instructions clearly state the burden of proof. White v. State [Ind. App.] 75 N. E. 554. Sufficient if good as a whole though excerps may be erroneous. Commonwealth v. D'Angelo, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 378. Instruction not to convict on testimony of accomplice unless satisfied of its truth, but without mentioning the necessity of corroboration, held cured by instructions as to nature and extent of corroboration required. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43. Omission of the words "feloniously" and "unlawfully" from one instruction harmless where they were used in others. Ward v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 62, 91 S. W. 700. Omission in one instruction of an ingredient of offense not material where it is supplied by another instruction. Sexton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 325, 92 S. W. 37. Failure to mention alibi evidence in an instruction recapitulating the evidence rebutting presumption from possession of stolen goods is cured by an instruction on alibi. State v. Walker, 194 Mo. 253, 92 S. W. 659.

16. The doctrine of reasonable doubt need not be repeated in connection with every instruction. Cress v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 491; Steinkuhler v. State [Neb.] 109 N. W. 395; State v. Crouch, 130 Iowa, 478, 107 N. W. 173; State v. Calkins [S. D.] 109 N. W. 515; Nance v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 932; State v. Houk [Mont.] 87 P. 175; Davis v. State, 125 Ga. 399, 54 S. E. 126; Smith v. State, 124 Ga. 213, 52 S. E. 329.

17. That perjury must be proved by two witnesses. State v. Smith, 47 Or. 485, 83 P. 855.

18. Instruction misstating the law is not cured by a correct one on the same subject. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187. Instruction that defendant's statements against his interest are presumed true not cured by one that their weight is for the jury. Clay v. State [Wyo.] 86 P. 17. Where an instruction plainly operates to exclude a defense, other instructions submitting it do not cure the error. Cress v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 491. Instruction to convict on finding of certain facts and ignoring a defense is not cured by another submitting such defense. State v. Venable, 117 Mo. App. 501, 93 S. W. 356. Correct instruction does not cure former erroneous one if there is nothing to indicate which shall be followed. Weston v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1014. Instruction ignoring self-defense held not cured by other instructions. People v. Solani, 2 Cal. App. 225, 83 P. 281. Assumption that disputed fact was conceded in one instruction not cured by the fact that other instructions did not contain such assumption. Garland v. State, 124 Ga. 832, 53 S. E. 314. Instruction assuming that weapon was deadly cured by one leaving it to jury. State v. Seery, 129 Iowa, 259, 105 N. W. 511.

19. See 5 C. L. 1848.

20. In cases not capital, it is discretionary to allow the jury to separate. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 773, 40 So. 42. Whether the jury in a capital case should be permitted to separate rests in discretion. Allowance of separation sustained. State v. Williams, 95 Minn. 351, 105 N. W. 265; People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187.

21. Part of jury kept in custody and others allowed to go to their homes. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187.

22. Where the jury are ordered kept together, it is misconduct requiring a new trial for one juror, accompanied by a bailiff, to go to a saloon and take a drink. State v. Strodemier, 41 Wash. 159, 83 P. 22. A showing merely that the jurors momentarily separated without more is not sufficient. State v. Stevenson [Kan.] 85 P. 797. Momentary separation of juror from his fellows, during papers,[24] taking of notes by a juror,[25] use of intoxicants,[26] an unauthorized visit by jurors to the scene of the crime,[27] and communication with third persons during the trial,[28] while improper, have all been deemed harmless, and the same rule has been applied to improper entry of jury room by judge or bailiff.[29] That a verdict carrying the death penalty was returned in 15 minutes shows no misconduct.[30] Quotient verdict is ground for new trial only where jury agree beforehand to be bound by the result.[31] If not of right it is at least in the discretion of the court to allow the jury to take out the written testimony of a nonresident witness,[32] and the jury may be allowed to take out a magnifying glass to examine photograph in evidence.[33] That the jury took out exhibits without consent, while improper, is not ground of reversal unless prejudice appears.[34] Coercion of verdict by the court is fatal.[35] That a juror asked defendant when he was on the stand an improper question based on an assumption of guilt does not show such prejudice as to warrant a new trial.[36] Where jury, having asked to have certain testimony including defendant's read to them, express themselves as satisfied before the end of defendant's testimony, the court need not compel them to hear it all.[37] Defendant is not entitled during the trial to interrogate jurors as to whether they had been reading newspaper reports of the case.[38] Discussion by jurors during their deliberations of matters outside the evidence and operating to the prejudice of accused is in some states ground for new trial.[39] The jury should not be discharged before verdict which time he spoke to no one about the case, not ground for new trial. Powell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 544.

23. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187.

24. A bare showing that the jury read newspaper reports of the trial without showing what they were, or that they had any effect, is insufficient to require a new trial. People v. Fernandez [Cal. App.] 86 P. 899. Prejudice from reading of newspaper by jury must be shown. Newspaper articles held not such as to show prejudice from reading. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100.

25. While the taking of notes by a juror is not a commendable practice, it is not as a matter of law error. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

26. Moderate use of intoxicants by juror during adjournment no ground for new trial. State v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 115.

27. That some of the jurors went to the scene of the crime not ground for reversal, unless it appears that the verdict was thereby affected. State v. Crouch, 130 Iowa, 478, 107 N. W. 173.

28. Trivial remark of bystander to juror as the jury passed through the court room properly disregarded. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771. Exchange of playful gestures between juror and prosecuting attorney held not such misconduct as to justify reversal. Trombley v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 976.

29. That officers in charge of jury looked through the key hole to see what the jury were doing, and that the jury knew of and commented on this, is not ground for reversal in the absence of proof that the action of the jury was thereby affected. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838. That the bailiff entered the jury room several times during the deliberations of the jury and in answer to a question referred them to the forms of verdict submitted, held not ground for new trial. Graves v. Ter., 16 Okl. 538, 86 P. 521. Not ground for reversal that judge went into jury room, where he merely referred them to the dictionary in answer to a question as to the meaning of a word. Denison v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 248, 93 S. W. 731. If it is desired to correct or withdraw an instruction after the jury have retired, the jury should be recalled and the correction made in the presence of accused. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274.

30. State v. Le Blanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105.

31. Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795.

32. Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 35, 40 So. 269.

33. State v. Wallace, 78 Conn. 677, 63 A. 448.

34. People v. Dolan [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 569.

35. Repeated declaration that jury would be kept together till they agreed held to have coerced verdict. State v. Place [S. D.] 107 N. W. 829. Not ground for new trial that judge left county, sending letter to jury that he would not return until they agreed, where it does not appear that deliberations of jury were in any manner affected. Wilkerson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 880, 91 S. W. 228. Facts held to show that two jurymen were by illness and desire to escape prolonged confinement coerced into agreement. Brown v. State, 127 Wis. 193, 106 N. W. 536.

36. State v. Rideau, 116 La. 245, 40 So. 691.

37. People v. Smith [Cal. App.] 84 P. 449.

38. People v. Fernandez [Cal. App.] 86 P. 899.

39. That the jurors discussed the question of looking at a copy of the statutes which was in the jury room but decided they had no right to do so is not prejudicial miscon-

except for manifest necessity,[40] and should not be discharged without asking them as to their ability to agree, though the court is entitled to accept their statement as to inability.[41]

(§ 10) G. Verdict.[42]—The verdict must clearly identify the case in which it is rendered[43] and the crime of which it convicts.[44] A general verdict on an indictment in several counts is good whether it charges one[45] or several offenses.[46] Age of accused should be found if a reformatory sentence is to be imposed.[47] An unauthorized fixing of the penalty,[48] or one fatally defective in form,[49] may be rejected as surplusage. A recommendation to mercy does not qualify the verdict but is mere surplusage.[50] While the court has power to order the jury to eliminate a recommendation to mercy and either fix the penalty at imprisonment or find defendant guilty without more, if he receives such a verdict, the death penalty cannot be imposed.[51] A verdict is not vitiated by the fact that it follows the indictment in adding an unnecessary element to the description of the offense.[52] Verdict is not insufficient because using the word "say" instead of "find" and not naming the defendant.[53] Where the indictment alleges value of the property stolen, verdict guilty "as charged" is a sufficient finding of value.[54] A verdict convicting of assault does not negative guilty intent by finding that it was "without design to effect death and without duct. State v. Stevenson [Kan.] 85 P. 797. No impropriety in jurors discussing the fact that during the trial they had observed defendant use gestures described by witness as a means of identification. People v. Mullen, 49 Misc. 289, 99 N. Y. S. 227. Not misconduct for jurymen during deliberations to draw from memory of the testimony any chart of scene of crime. People v. Gallanar [Cal. App.] 86 P. 814. Reference by a juror to defendant's failure to testify is not ground for new trial, unless it clearly appears that the jury were influenced thereby. State v. Brooks [Kan.] 85 P. 1013. It is prejudicial misconduct for a juror to state to his fellows any fact which it would be reversible error to admit in evidence. Morawitz v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 880, 91 S. W. 227. Statement by juror that accused was convicted and received certain sentence on former trial is misconduct. Id. Statement of juror to his fellows as to sentence of codefendant ground for new trial. Tutt v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 38, 91 S. W. 584. Discussion of matters outside of evidence and coercion of dissenting juror held to require new trial. Gilford v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 513, 92 S. W. 424. Not ground for new trial that one juror asked why defendant did not go on the stand, to which another answered that that was not to be considered. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 129, 93 S. W. 726.

40. Allen v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 593. Prosecution for misdemeanor withdrawn from jury to permit institution of prosecution for felony on same facts. Ingram v. State, 124 Ga. 448, 52 S. E. 759. Discharge of juror on suspicion of corruption based on ex parte investigation held abuse of discretion. People v. Parker [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 581, 108 N. W. 999.

41. People v. Parker [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 581, 108 N. W. 999.

42. See 5 C. L. 1850.

43. Verdict against "August Hase" not fatally variant from indictment against "Augustus Hays." Johnson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 678.

44. Where the offense found by name is the same as that charged, reference to the indictment is implied. Hence value of stolen goods need not be found. State v. James County, 117 La. 419, 41 So. 702. "Guilty of harboring thieves" insufficient. State v. Modlin, 197 Mo. 376, 95 S. W. 345. "Guilty as charged" is sufficient. State v. Shour, 196 Mo. 202, 95 S. W. 405. A statute requiring the jury to find the degree does not apply when only one degree could be found under the indictment. Maxwell v. Territory [Ariz.] 85 P. 116. A verdict sufficiently specifies the degree if it states the acts constituting the offense and the section of the statute defining it, so that the court may from the verdict alone determine the degree. State v. Ireland, 72 Kan. 265, 83 P. 1036.

45. General verdict is sufficient on indictment in several counts charging the same offense in different ways. State v. Rickseckker [Kan.] 85 P. 547.

46. Where separate offenses are properly joined, a general verdict is a conviction on each and every count. Washington v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 765.

47. A verdict providing for imprisonment in the reformatory but not finding that accused is under sixteen years of age is defective. Watson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 72, 92 S. W. 807. Age of defendant need not be found if jury are unable to determine it. Beuchert v. State, 165 Ind. 523, 76 N. E. 111.

48. Genie v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 573; Moss v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 830.

49. State v. King, 194 Mo. 474, 92 S. W. 670.

50. State v. Cook, 117 La. 114, 41 So. 434.

51. Avant v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 483.

52. Assault "with a deadly weapon" with intent to kill. People v. Owens [Cal. App.] 86 P. 980.

53. Freeman v. State, 50 Fla. 38, 39 So. 785.

malice aforethought."[55] On a joint trial there may be a separate verdict as to each defendant,[56] or one verdict with separate clauses relating to each.[57] On a special verdict finding facts constituting the offense, judgment of conviction is properly rendered though the verdict contained a clause that the jury, "upon their opinion of the law," find defendant not guilty.[58]

Receiving verdict.[59]—The verdict must be returned in open court in the presence of accused.[60] If defective in form, the jury may be sent back to amend it[61] if they have not dispersed.[62] Defendant has the right to poll the jury, whether the trial is for felony or misdemeanor.[63] In case of misdemeanor, however, it may be waived.[64] The polling of the jury should be done by the clerk and it is proper to refuse to allow accused to do it.[65] It is proper to refuse to allow the jury to be interrogated further after polling.[66]

§ 11. New trial, arrest of judgment, and writ of error coram nobis.[67]—New trial should be granted where the substantial rights of accused have been so violated that a fair trial was not had.[68] Under a statute providing for a new trial if the verdict is contrary to the evidence, new trial may be granted if the evidence fails to sustain the charge, but not for mere insufficiency of evidence.[69] The New York court of general sessions has no inherent power to grant a new trial and is confined to statutory grounds,[70] but the county court has such power.[71]

54. Territory v. Neatherlin [N. M.] 85 P. 1044.

55. State v. Ireland, 72 Kan. 265, 83 P. 1036.

56. Where on a trial of several the jury returned separate verdicts, such verdicts are not invalidated by being entitled as if the defendant against whom it was found was the only one. State v. Cotterel [Idaho] 86 P. 527.

57. A verdict on the trial of several defendants consisting of a number of paragraphs each containing a finding against one defendant and the whole signed by the foreman is sufficient. State v. Kleinfield, 72 Kan. 674, 83 P. 831.

58. State v. Scott [N. C.] 55 S. E. 270.

59. See 6 C. L. 1851.

60. Wells v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 630. Return of verdict in recess during absence of prisoner and dispersal of jury cannot be cured by reconvening the jury. Id. If, however, the verdict is not received and read, it does not amount to an acquittal but is ground for new trial. Cowart v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 631.

61. Jury properly sent back to correct verdict by inserting alias of defendant. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771. On return of a verdict for "assault and battery with intent to kill," the jury are properly sent back to amend their verdict. Thompson v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 545.

62. Where the jury seal their verdict and separate and the verdict is a nullity, the jury cannot be directed to amend it. Koch v. State, 126 Wis. 470, 106 N. W. 531.

63, 64. Cowart v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 631.

65. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178.

66. As to their reasons or motives. Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178.

67. See 5 C. L. 1851.

68. Coercion of verdict by judge is within Code Cr. Proc. § 430, "when the verdict has been decided by lot or by any means other than a fair expression of opinion on the part of the jurors." State v. Place [S. D.] 107 N. W. 829. That a juror was ineligible because of service at the preceding term while cause for challenge is not ground for new trial. Jackson v. State, 125 Ga. 277, 54 S. E. 167. That the district attorney was prejudiced against defendant is no ground for new trial. People v. Birnbaum, 114 App. Div. 480, 100 N. Y. S. 160.

Misconduct of the jury in which accused participates is no ground for new trial. State v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 56, 84 P. 409. Discretion of court in denying new trial because juror took notes during trial held properly exercised. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127.

Relationship of juror to accused not ground of new trial though not known till after verdict. McCrimmon v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 481.

Surprise: Failure of sheriff to subpoena a witness for defendant is not ground for new trial where the evidence is beyond question on the point as to which the witness would have testified. State v. Brown, 130 Iowa, 57, 106 N. W. 379. That accused was deceived by the prosecutor as to the whereabouts of a witness and the likelihood of his attendance not ground for new trial where no continuance was asked at the time. Rubio v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 576, 95 S. W. 120. That a witness did not testify as he said he would is not such surprise as requires a new trial, though accused, in reliance on the witness' statement, failed to summon other witnesses. Hope v. State, 124 Ga. 438, 52 S. E. 747; Duggan v. State, 124 Ga. 438, 52 S. E. 748.

Excessive sentence not ground for motion. Truitt v. State, 124 Ga. 657, 57 S. E. 890; Mayson v. State, 124 Ga. 789, 53 S. E. 321; Guthrie v. State, 125 Ga. 291, 54 S. E. 180; Fears v. State, 125 Ga. 740, 739, 54 S. E. 661, 667.

69. De Tarr v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 897.

70. The statute giving such court power

Newly-discovered evidence.[72]—A motion based on newly-discovered evidence is addressed to discretion.[73] In North Carolina the court has no power to grant new trials on such ground except in civil cases.[74] To warrant a new trial for newly-discovered evidence it must appear that the proposed evidence is competent, credible,[75] not merely cumulative or impeaching[76] but such as to probably affect the result,[77] that the evidence can be produced on the new trial, and that it could not, by the exercise of proper diligence, have been procured at the trial.[78] Retraction by to grant a new trial after judgment only for newly-discovered evidence, the court has no power to grant it on any other ground. Prohibition issued. People v. Ct. of General Sessions of the Peace, 185 N. Y. 504, 78 N. E. 149.

71. People v. Mullen, 49 Misc. 289, 99 N. Y. S. 227.

72. See 5 C. L. 1852.

73. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100.

74. State v. Lilliston [N. C.] 54 S. E. 427.

75. Affidavit of possession by third person of weapon at time when testimony for prosecution shows it was sold to accused held to present so many suspicious circumstances that trial court was justified in disbelieving it. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671.

76. Watkins v. State, 125 Ga. 143, 53 S. E. 1024; Johnson v. State, 124 Ga. 656, 52 S. E. 880; Cole v. State, 125 Ga. 35, 53 S. E. 807; Walker v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 483; Rawlins v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 924; State v. Lilliston [N. C.] 74 S. E. 427; Slade v. State, 125 Ga. 788, 54 S. E. 760; Todd v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 473, 93 S. W. 631. Evidence impeaching or conflicting with that introduced on the trial. Jones v. State, 125 Ga. 254, 54 S. E. 144. Testimony of physician that wound could not have been inflicted by one standing in the position in which eye witnesses placed accused. Bonner v. State, 125 Ga. 237, 54 S. E. 143. As to threats by deceased held cumulative. Park v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 489. As to intoxicated condition of accused held cumulative. Commonwealth v. Hine, 213 Pa. 97, 62 A. 369. Newly-discovered evidence as to whether witness for defendant was in fact present at scene of crime held cumulative. State v. King, 194 Mo. 474, 92 S. W. 670. Denial of new trial for newly-discovered evidence tending to show defendant's ownership of alleged stolen property sustained. Hurst v. Territory, 16 Okl. 600, 86 P. 280. Declarations of prosecutor that he bribed witness and testimony of attempt by him to bribe other witnesses not ground for new trial. Duggan v. State, 124 Ga. 438, 52 S. E. 748. Testimony of disinterested eye witness is not cumulative to similar testimony by one jointly indicted with defendant. People v. O'Brien, 110 App. Div. 26, 96 N. Y. S. 1045.

77. Evidence that no license was issued to parents of prosecutrix in statutory rape during the year when they testified that they were married held immaterial, the parties being negroes. Curry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 566, 94 S. W. 1058. Newly-discovered evidence on prosecution for violation of local option law held not to show that it related to the transaction on which the prosecution was based. Roberson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 264, 91 S. W. 578. New trial for newly-discovered evidence of declarations by prosecuting witness not only impeaching him but corroborating defendant's version of altercation held improperly denied. McHugh v. Ter. [Okl.] 86 P. 433. Newly-discovered evidence of finding in wall of room where deceased was killed a bullet fired from a different direction from those which entered his body held not of sufficient importance to warrant new trial. State v. Bond [Idaho] 86 P. 43. New trial on conflicting affidavits as to ownership by defendant of animals similar to those alleged to have been stolen by him held properly denied. State v. Williams [Idaho] 86 P. 53. Newly-discovered evidence of a highly credible person contradicting evidence of detectives on an important circumstance held ground for new trial. Johnson v. Com., 104 Va. 881, 52 S. E. 625. Though a witness to the purchase of a revolver by defendant stated that he remembered the transaction because it was the only such revolver in his store, newly-discovered evidence that at about the same time a third person bought such a revolver of him is not ground for new trial. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Newly-discovered evidence to support an alibi held so inconsistent with defendant's statement that it probably would not affect the result. Battise v. State, 124 Ga. 866, 53 S. E. 678. Newly-discovered evidence that witness for prosecution was suborned held not convincing. People v. Birnbaum, 114 App. Div. 480, 100 N. Y. S. 160. Evidence of finding of weapon near scene of homicide not sufficient where the fact that deceased had such weapon at the time of the homicide was shown at the trial. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100. Alleged newly-discovered evidence of insanity of accused held not ground for an extraordinary motion. Rawlins v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 924.

78. State v. Lilliston [N. C.] 54 S. E. 427; Hurst v. Territory, 16 Okl. 600, 86 P. 280. Diligence in ascertaining date of marriage license of prosecutrix in statutory rape held insufficient. Curry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 566, 94 S. W. 1058. Alibi evidence which must necessarily have been known to accused before trial. Wyatt v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 148, 94 S. W. 219. Where it is apparent that accused must have known at the trial that the witness would testify as alleged, a denial that he did know of it is insufficient to show diligence. Todd v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 473, 93 S. W. 631. New trial not granted to prove additional matters by one who testified at the trial. State v. King, 194 Mo. 474, 92 S. W. 670. Where affidavit of newly-discovered evidence was made on the day the verdict was rendered and affiant was present in court during the trial, lack of diligence appears. Id. It is not an abuse of discretion to refuse a new trial for evidence a witness of his testimony against accused,[79] affidavit of a codefendant since convicted that he alone is guilty,[80] acquittal of a codefendant,[81] and indictment of another person for the same offense,[82] have all been held insufficient.

A motion in arrest of judgment[83] lies only to defects apparent on face of the record,[84] and when the defect alleged is in the indictment it must be substantial.[85] Defects in form of verdict are not ground for arrest of judgment.[86]

Motion to set aside the judgment[87] is not the proper remedy where the indictment is void.[88]

A writ of error coram nobis[89] will not ordinarily issue to review a question which has been adjudicated.[90] A petition for a writ of error coram nobis based on matter outside the record verified only by attorney is insufficient, at least when brought after affirmance on appeal.[91]

Practice on motion.[92]—The motion must be made within the time limited by rule or statute,[93] must specifically state the grounds relied on,[94] and be supported by which could not have been discovered until the exact day of the offense was disclosed at the trial, where no postponement was then asked. Harrington v. State, 77 Ark. 480, 91 S. W. 747. New trial for newly-discovered evidence granted notwithstanding lack of diligence of defendant's attorney. People v. O'Brien, 110 App. Div. 26, 96 N. Y. S. 1045. Must appear that facts were not known to accused at time of trial. Logan v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 323. No inquiry made before trial of person known by accused to have been present at the homicide. Park v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 489.

79. Inconsistent declarations by a witness since the trial not sufficient. Collins v. State, 124 Ga. 788, 53 S. E. 193. Declarations by witness for state that his testimony was false not ground for new trial. Jordan v. State, 124 Ga. 417, 52 S. E. 768. New trial on affidavit of accomplice that he had testified falsely against accused held properly denied. State v. Morse [Idaho] 86 P. 53. Affidavit of prosecuting witness that he was mistaken in his identification of accused requires new trial. Green v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 39, 91 S. W. 585. Affidavit of prosecuting witness impeaching her own evidence held not ground for new trial, where it appeared to have been procured by undue influence and was subsequently retracted. State v. Jeffries, 117 Mo. App. 569, 92 S. W. 501. Court refused in the exercise of its supervisory power to order a new trial to one defendant on an affidavit by the other assuming the sole guilt. State v. Johnson, 116 La. 855, 41 So. 117.

80. Where a father and his sons were jointly convicted of murder, an affidavit of the father that he alone was guilty is not ground for an extraordinary motion. Rawlins v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 924. Denial of new trial on affidavit of codefendant previously convicted that defendant had nothing to do with the crime sustained. People v. Sullivan [Cal. App.] 86 P. 834.

81. Mere statement that one indicted for the same crime as principal had been acquitted without showing how such acquittal could inure to the benefit of accused not insufficient. Morales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 95 S. W. 125.

82. That another has been since indicted for the same offense is no ground for new trial. Nero v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 404.

83. See 5 C. L. 1853.

84. State v. Maloney, 115 La. 498, 39 So. 539. Variance between indictment and proof not ground for arrest. Freeman v. State, 50 Fla. 38, 39 So. 785; Commonwealth v. Zayrook, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 111. Matter dehors the record cannot be considered on motion in arrest. State v. Summerlin, 116 La. 449, 40 So. 792. Error in the charge not ground. State v. Le Blanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105.

85. Lack of particularity of averment is not ground of arrest of judgment. Failure to describe "dangerous weapon" used. State v. Stewart, 117 La. 476, 41 So. 798. Information for assault with intent to kill a certain person without alleging on whom the assault was committed fatally defective. Padgett v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 663. Failure to indorse names of witnesses on indictment not ground for arrest of judgment. State v. Sultan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 841. Vagueness of the indictment is not ground for arrest of judgment unless such as to mislead defendant or to afford no protection against second prosecution. Johnson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 678.

86. Freeman v. State, 50 Fla. 38, 39 So. 785.

87. See 5 C. L. 1853.

88. McDonald v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 235.

89. See 5 C. L. 1853.

90. Whether a juror swore falsely on his voir dire. State v. Armstrong, 41 Wash. 601, 84 P. 584.

91. State v. Armstrong, 41 Wash. 601, 84 P. 584.

92. See 5 C. L. 1853.

93. Motion for new trial cannot be made in vacation. Perkins v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 501. Motion for new trial at term after judgment is too late. Act March 10, 1905, did not apply to prosecutions for offenses committed before its passage. Miller v. State, 165 Ind. 566, 76 N. E. 245. Defendant is entitled of right to make a motion for a new trial at any time within four days after verdict and during the term, and this right is not lost by imposition of sentence. Massey v. State, 50 Fla. 109, 39 So. 790. New trial cannot be granted except for want of jurisdiction after term at which judgment entered. Sentence and not appointment of date for execution is judgment. State v.

affidavit as to all matters of fact involved.[95] However devoid of merit a court may regard a motion to set aside a verdict, it is the duty of such court to grant a hearing on the motion.[96] Under a statute providing that proof on motion for new trial shall be made by affidavit, if the power to call witnesses for oral examination exists at all it arises only on a full and clear showing of the impossibility of obtaining their affidavits.[97] Where the alleged misconduct of the jury consisted of disclosure by some jurors of alleged attempts to bribe them to acquit, the moving papers must deny complicity in such bribery.[98] Affidavits of jurors are not admissible to impeach their verdict except as allowed by express statute,[99] nor are their statements after trial admissible for that purpose,[1] but jurors may testify to sustain the verdict against claim of improper communication with jury.[2] Counter affidavits may be allowed,[3] and the sufficiency of the proof is for the court.[4] While it is better practice to allow an amendment to the motion and then overrule it if insufficient, it is not error to refuse to permit an amendment which presents no ground for new trial.[5] Demurrer to the state's written objections to a motion for new trial is un-

Tolla [N. J. Law] 63 A. 338. Motion cannot be made after judgment. People v. Court of General Sessions of the Peace, 112 App. Div. 424, 98 N. Y. S. 557; State v. Hayden [Iowa] 107 N. W. 929.

Prohibition against consideration of motion after judgment granted. People v. Court of General Sessions of the Peace, 112 App. Div. 424, 98 N. Y. S. 557, overruling People v. Goff, 49 Misc. 72, 98 N. Y. S. 66.

94. Ground that entire charge was not clear, accurate, or impartial, is too general. Adams v. State, 125 Ga. 11, 53 S. E. 804. Ground that verdict is contrary to the charge equivalent to statement that it was contrary to law. Milner v. State, 124 Ga. 86, 52 S. E. 302. Ground of motion, "for other good and sufficient reasons apparent by the record," presents nothing. Douberly v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 675. Motion held insufficient to raise correctness of an additional instruction. Williams v. State, 124 Ga. 782, 53 S. E. 98. That court erred "in not charging the law of voluntary manslaughter" too general. Smith v. State, 125 Ga. 300, 54 S. E. 124. Motion for new trial stating ground generally as error in refusing to instruct as requested by defendant is insufficient. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805. General averments of error in the part of the charge relating to specified subjects is too indefinite Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 214, 93 S. W. 726. It is of right to file an amendment to the motion for a new trial at any time during the term. Cowan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 553. Where the ground of motion does not set forth the evidence objected to but refers to the brief of evidence therefor, the objection will not be considered. Langley v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 821. Motion for new trial must point out errors in charge. Norton v. State [Wis.] 109 N. W. 531. A motion for new trial on the ground that the verdict is contrary to law will permit review on the ground that the evidence falls as a matter of law to establish the charge. De Tarr v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 897. If ground is specifically stated as ground of new trial, it is sufficient though not stated in the language of the statute. State v. Place [S. D.] 107 N. W. 829. General averment of error in motion for new trial insufficient where no exceptions to refusal of charges. State v. King, 194 Mo. 474, 92 S. W. 670. Ground of motion for new trial that the court failed to fully charge the law applicable to the case raises no question for review. Henderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 706, 95 S. W. 131.

95. Motion based on newly-discovered evidence must be supported by affidavit of accused. State v. King, 194 Mo. 474, 92 S. W. 670. Motion on ground of newly-discovered evidence must be accompanied by affidavits of witnesses or good excuse for failure to produce them. State v. Clifford, 58 W. Va. 681, 52 S. E. 864. Affidavits must state facts showing diligence, general averment insufficient. Comoli v. State, 78 Vt. 423, 63 A. 186.

96. Fields v. State, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 401.

97. Showing of impossibility held insufficient. State v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 56, 84 P. 409.

98. State v. Wilson, 42 Wash. 56, 84 P. 409.

99. Pen. Code, § 2192, allows them only when the verdict was reached by resort to chance. State v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376. Juror cannot make affidavit to his own incompetency or misconduct or that of his fellows. Bowden v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 499.

1. Hearsay and violation of rule forbidding impeachment by jurors. People v. Birnbaum, 114 App. Div. 480, 100 N. Y. S. 160.

2. Nunnery v. State, 87 Miss. 542, 40 So. 431.

3. Where motion is on ground of newly-discovered evidence, the state may be allowed time to procure counter affidavits. Collins v. State, 124 Ga. 788, 53 S. E. 193.

4. Evidence held to make prima facie case of improper communication with jury not overcome by testimony of three jurors that they were not communicated with. Nunnery v. State, 87 Miss. 542, 40 So. 431 On conflicting affidavits as to false answer by juror on voir dire, denial of new trial sustained. People v. Hoffmann, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. 805, 105 N. W. 838. Ex parte affidavit as to unfairness of interpreter held not sufficient. State v. Lee, 116 La. 607, 40 So. 914. Evidence of relationship of juror to prosecutrix held insufficient. Watkins v. State, 125 Ga. 142, 52 S. E. 1024.

known to the practice and the ruling thereon presents no question.[6] A statute allowing new trials in criminal cases in like manner and for like causes as in civil cases operates only so far as is consistent with other rules of law,[7] and, owing to the immunity of the state from suit, the remedy by action to secure a new trial is not applicable in criminal cases.[8]

§ 12. Sentence and judgment.[9]—Sentence may be pronounced at any time after verdict unless delay is required by statute.[10] Court may in its discretion suspend imposition of sentence for such time as it sees fit,[11] but has ordinarily no power to suspend sentence during good behavior.[12] In the absence of statutory enactments to the contrary, the power of a police judge to revoke the suspension of a sentence on his own motion continues after the term in which it was pronounced.[13] The court should fix the penalty[14] according to the statute in force at the time of trial,[15] unless it has been fixed by the verdict.[16] It is in the discretion of the court to act upon a recommendation of the jury that accused be punished as for misdemeanor.[17] The court may properly state its reasons for the sentence imposed.[18] On conviction by single verdict of two separate offenses jointly charged, the court may either impose separate sentences or treat the conviction as one for the highest offense charged and sentence therefor.[19] The sentence should definitely state the punishment imposed[20] and the alternative, if any.[21] Where the sentence contains two conflicting provisions as to the time within which a fine may be paid, both are nugatory and a reasonable time may be allowed as if the sentence were silent.[22] Under an indeterminate sentence law providing for imprisonment not less than the minimum or more than the maximum fixed by law, a provision in the sentence fixing a maximum less than that provided by law is surplusage.[23] While it is the proper practice to ask a defendant if he has anything to say why he should not be sentenced, the omission so to do is not ground for reversal in a case not capital.[24]

5. Walker v. State, 125 Ga. 30, 53 S. E. 807.
6. Miller v. State, 165 Ind. 566, 76 N. E. 245.
7. Crim. Code, § 210. State v. Appleton [Kan.] 84 P. 753.
8. State v. Appleton [Kan.] 84 P. 753.
9. See 5 C. L. 1855.
10. Pen. Code, § 2210, providing that sentence shall be deferred two days after verdict if the court intends to remain in session that long and "if not then at as remote a time as can be reasonably allowed," does not require sentence at the next term if the court does not remain in session two days, but only as remote a time as can reasonably be allowed in the present term. State v. Lu Sing [Mont] 85 P. 521.
11. Rev. St. c. 29, § 62, held directory. Ex parte St. Hilaire [Me.] 64 A. 882.
12. Gordon v. Johnson [Ga.] 55 S. E. 489. Contra: In the absence of a statutory enactment to the contrary, the power of a court to suspend execution of sentence during good behavior, or to revoke such suspension, is not impaired or limited by the passing of the term in which the suspension was made. In re Clara Lee, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 533.
13. Schaefer v. State, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 292.
14. The act of congress providing that persons convicted of robbery in the Indian Territory shall be punished "at the discretion of the court," punishment is to be fixed by the court and not by the jury as provided by the Arkansas Statutes. Act Congress, Feb. 15, 1888, c. 10, § 2. Glover v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 91 S. W. 41.
15. One convicted before the taking effect of Laws 1901, p. 146, relating to indeterminate sentence, is not entitled to the benefit of its provisions. Behnke v. People, 222 Ill. 540, 78 N. E. 889.
16. Where a plea of guilty of an included offense is received on indictment for murder, the statute requiring punishment to be assessed by the jury on plea of guilty of a capital crime does not apply. State v. Morrison, 165 Ind. 461, 75 N. E. 968.
17. Guthrie v. State, 125 Ga. 291, 54 S. E. 180.
18. State v. Farrington [N. C.] 53 S. E. 954.
19. Washington v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 765.
20. The sentence must state the number of days' imprisonment required to work out the costs. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409.
21. Sentence held not to impose imprisonment on nonpayment of fine. Ex parte Patterson [Nev.] 87 P. 2. Where the sentence is for imprisonment on default of payment of fine, a reasonable time is to be allowed to pay the fine, unless the sentence fixes the time for payment. Dunaway v. Hodge [Ga.] 55 S. E. 483.
22. Dunaway v. Hodge [Ga.] 55 S. E. 483.
23. In re Duff, 141 Mich. 623, 105 N. W. 138.

Judgment.[25]—When the verdict was indorsed on the information, a record entry of the verdict without the signature of the foreman is sufficient.[26] There should be an adjudication on the verdict,[27] but it has been held that entry of sentence on the verdict without a formal adjudication of guilt is sufficient.[28] Judgment in misdemeanor need not recite eo nomine the crime of which conviction was had.[29] Judgment of fine need not recite alternative of imprisonment if statute fixes it.[30] Slight verbal errors in the recital of the verdict are immaterial.[31] An unauthorized provision for imprisonment to enforce a fine is severable.[32] Judgment of conviction with indeterminate sentence must show the offense so that the maximum penalty can be certainly ascertained therefrom.[33] Sentence cannot be modified after commitment.[34]

§ 13. Record or minutes and commitment.[35]—The record must show every essential step, including drawing of jury and service of venire,[36] arraignment and plea,[37] the constitution of the court,[38] the impaneling and swearing of the jury,[39] presence of accused in court when the day for his trial is fixed[40] and during the entire trial,[41] that statutory admonition was given to jury,[42] the reasons for a discharge of the jury,[43] and that defendant was asked before sentence if he had anything to say.[44] Minute entries must be made during the term,[45] but error of the clerk in making entry of the sentence can be corrected at a subsequent term.[46]

24. Lamb v. People, 219 Ill. 399, 76 N. E. 576.

25. See 5 C. L. 1856. Order respecting costs held not a judgment. State v. French, 118 Mo. App. 15, 93 S. W. 295.

26. State v. Warren, 117 La. 84, 41 So. 361.

27. Pearson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 733.

28. Shirley v. State, 144 Ala. 35, 40 So. 269. It is not necessary that the judgment contain a finding of defendant's guilt, sentence on the verdict being sufficient. Judgment held sufficient. Hoch v. People, 219 Ill. 265, 76 N. E. 356.

29. Klefel v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 228, 94 S. W. 463.

30. Bartlett v. Paducah, 28 Ky. L. R. 1174, 91 S. W. 264.

31. State v. McLain [Wash.] 86 P. 388.

32. In re Sullivan [Cal. App.] 84 P. 781.

33. Showing conviction of "grand larceny" insufficient when different acts defined as constituting grand larceny were subject to different penalties. In re Howard, 72 Kan. 273, 83 P. 1032.

34. In re Sullivan [Cal. App.] 84 P. 781.

35. See 5 C. L. 1856.

36. Record must show drawing of jury, order for service of venire, and service of a copy thereof on accused. Lomineck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 676. Record held to sufficiently show that names were drawn from jury box by judge. Gray v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 621. The record should show an order on the sheriff to serve accused with a copy of the venire. Allen v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 624. The record must affirmatively show compliance with a statute requiring the judge in open court to draw from the jury box a specified number of names. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274.

37. Entry that defendant was "duly arraigned" means arraigned according to law. Clements v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 432. Record held to sufficiently show arraignment. Knight v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 911. Record recital that defendant "stood mute" imports that he was requested to plead and refused. People v. Fisher, 144 Mich. 570, 13 Det. Leg. N. 346, 108 N. W. 280. Must show plea. Hamilton v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 940. Mere recital of overruling of certain pleas not sufficient. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409.

38. It is sufficient if the record shows that the court was in session and the names of its officers then present need not appear. Lamb v. People, 219 Ill. 399, 76 N. E. 576.

39. Recital of swearing of jury held sufficient. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869.

40. Lomineck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 676.

41. That accused was in court when verdict was returned. Wells v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 630. Showing of presence of defendant at preliminary proceedings the same day the trial commenced held sufficient to show that he was present at the beginning of the trial. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 237, 92 S. W. 869. If the record shows that defendant was present when the jury was sworn, presence at subsequent stages of the trial will be presumed. State v. Temple, 194 Mo. 228, 92 S. W. 494. Record affirmatively showing presence of accused at beginning of trial and at sentence held sufficient. People v. Fisher, 144 Mich. 570, 13 Det. Leg. N. 346, 108 N. W. 280. Must affirmatively show presence of accused at return of verdict. Dix v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 924. Recital of defendant's presence at beginning and end of trial held to imply continuous presence. Id.

42. The record should show that the jury were admonished at each adjournment. People v. Maughs [Cal.] 86 P. 187.

43. Record entry of discharge of jury held to sufficiently show inability to agree. State v. Keerl [Mont.] 85 P. 862.

44. A record statement "and now neither the said defendant nor his counsel for him saying anything further why the judgment of the court should not now be pronounced against him" imports that defendant was

Commitment[47] under indeterminate sentence must show the offense of which accused was convicted with such particularity that the maximum punishment therefor can be ascertained with certainty from the statute.[48] Commitment must show conviction[49] of an offense within the jurisdiction of the court,[50] and in New York must show the time and place of the offense.[51]

§ 14. Saving questions for review. Necessity of objection, motion, or exception.[52]—The case will be reviewed on the theory mutually adopted below,[53] and, so far as accused is entitled to waive irregularities,[54] errors once waived will not be considered.[55] If opportunity for revising a ruling is offered below and not availed of, the ruling cannot be questioned on appeal.[56] Invited error cannot be complained of; thus an answer responsive to a question by accused[57] or an instruction asked or similar to one asked by him[58] is not available as error. If a request is modified if becomes the court's instruction and is subject to exception by defendant.[59] Where defendant's counsel states his view of the rule of evidence, questions within such rule and not objected to cannot be assailed on appeal.[60] Aside from objections to the jurisdiction[61] and to the failure of the indictment to state an offense,[62] prompt objection and exception in the trial court is necessary to preserve the right to a re-asked before sentence if he had aught to say. Lamb v. People, 219 Ill. 399, 76 N. E. 576.

45. Adjourned term held part of term within rule. Coker v. State, 144 Ala. 28, 40 So. 516.

46. Tyler v. State, 125 Ga. 46, 53 S. E. 818.

47. See 5 C. L. 1856.

48. Where two different punishments are provided for grand larceny, judgment and commitment reciting conviction of grand larceny and commitment until discharged by due course of law is uncertain. In re Howard, 72 Kan. 273, 83 P. 1032. And the commitment cannot be sustained as for the shorter of the statutory periods. Id.

49. "Having thereupon pleaded guilty," substantial compliance with statutory form "having been thereupon convicted upon a plea of guilty." People v. Pitts, 111 App. Div. 912, 97 N. Y. S. 511.

50. Where the commitment of a court having jurisdiction only of misdemeanors shows conviction of an "assault" without showing the degree, defendant will be discharged. People v. Jacobs, 51 Misc. 71, 100 N. Y. S. 734.

51. Certificate of conviction stating the offense as "petit larceny" without stating time or place is sufficient. People v. Pitts, 111 App. Div. 319, 97 N. Y. S. 509.

52. See 5 C. L. 1857.

53. State v. McWhirter [N. C.] 53 S. E. 734. Matters assumed on trial without question cannot be raised on appeal. People v. Stein 112 App. Div. 896, 97 N. Y. S. 923. Admissibility of evidence of facts to which accused testified. State v. Lamont, 115 La. 568, 39 So. 602. Where an order striking out testimony was by inadvertence not broad enough but no objection was made and it was treated by both sides as eliminating all the objectionable testimony, there is no available error. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671.

54. In all matters of procedure, accused may waive statutory provisions designed for his protection. State v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 115.

55. Objection to testimony as to defendant's character is not waived by offering testimony to contradict it. State v. Beckner, 194 Mo. 281, 91 S. W. 892. That the prosecution was conducted by unsworn private counsel is no ground of reversal if defendant consented thereto. State v. Cato, 116 La. 195, 40 So. 633. Where defendant moves for discharge of the jury on improper argument in the state's opening, and then withdraws the motion and indicates willingness to proceed, all objection to the argument is waived. State v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 115.

56. Where a motion is denied with leave to renew, it is waived if not renewed. People v. Staples [Cal.] 86 P. 886. No error is available on the denial of a motion where counsel refuses a subsequent offer of the court to grant it. Langley v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 821. Where the court offers to withdraw a remark and defendant objects that it is too late to do so, the case stands as if it were withdrawn. Barddell v. State, 144 Ala. 54, 39 So. 975.

57. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761; State v. Weisenberger, 42 Wash. 426, 85 P. 20; Smith v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1254, 91 S. W. 742.

58. Sparks v. Territory, 16 Okl. 127, 83 P. 712; State v. Morrison [Mont.] 85 P. 738. Defendant cannot complain of an instruction similar to one requested by him. Clay v. State [Wyo.] 86 P. 17.

59. People v. Wong Sang Lung [Cal. App.] 84 P. 843.

60. People v. Lambert, 144 Mich. 578, 13 Det. Leg. N. 299, 108 N. W. 345.

61. Jurisdiction of the trial court and insufficiency of the indictment to support a judgment may be presented for the first time on appeal, but errors occurring on the trial must be excepted to and presented by motion for a new trial. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241. Want of power to hear motion for new trial after affirmance and remand. State v. Adams, 73 S. C. 435, 53 S. E. 538.

62. Failure of the information to lay the view of the ruling complained of.[63] This rule has been applied to formal defects in the indictment,[64] arraignment and plea,[65] variance between the indictment and the information on which it is based,[66] qualification of jurors,[67] objections to manner of summoning jury,[68] conduct of trial and reception of evidence,[69] ruling on application to give time to prepare affidavit as to testimony of absent witness,[70] examination of witnesses,[71] admission[72] or exclusion of evidence,[73] conduct and remarks of judge,[74] instructions,[75] refusal to instruct,[76] and manner of giving instructions,[77] objection to fairness of interpreter and to the legality of the appointment of the minute clerk,[78] objection that unauthorized person acted as clerk of court,[79] variance between indictment and proof,[80] failure to swear officer to take charge of jury,[81] misconduct of juror,[82] defects in verdict.[83] Prompt objection must be made venue may be raised for the first time after verdict. State v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376. Failure of indictment to state facts sufficient to constitute an offense may be raised after plea of guilty. Klawanski v. People, 218 Ill. 481, 75 N. E. 1028. Insufficiency of affidavit may be first raised on appeal. Telheard v. Bay St. Louis, 87 Miss. 580, 40 So. 326.

63. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241; Bowles v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 165. Objection not ruled on is not available. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241. Constitutionality of statute cannot be raised for first time on appeal. Griggs v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 179; Moore v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 327.

64. Authenticity of indictment cannot be first raised after verdict. State v. Sharpe, 119 Mo. App. 386, 95 S. W. 298. Objection that date of offense as alleged is after the finding of the indictment must be taken before the jury is sworn. State v. Weaver [S. C.] 54 S. E. 615. The objection that references in one count to matter in another was destroyed by withdrawal of the latter cannot be first raised after verdict. People v. Lewis, 111 App. Div. 558, 98 N. Y. S. 83. Correctness of a copy ordered filed to replace a lost indictment must be questioned below. State v. Strayer, 58 W. Va. 676, 52 N. E. 862.

65. Failure of accused to demand arraignment does not waive error in putting him on trial without a plea. Sims v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 34, 91 S. W. 579.

66. Commonwealth v. Zayrook, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 111.

67. Disqualification of a juror known to accused during the trial cannot be raised after the verdict. Robinson v. Territory, 16 Okl. 241, 85 P. 451. Incompetence of a juror cannot be raised after verdict. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237. That a juror was disqualified because of having acted on a former trial, being a fact within the knowledge of defendant's counsel and a matter of public record, it is not ground for objection after verdict, though counsel had forgotten the facts. State v. Langford [S. C.] 55 S. E. 120.

68. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 213 Pa. 432, 62 A. 1064.

69. That a witness, recalled after submission to restate his testimony, varied therefrom, must be objected to at the time. Harper v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 585, 95 S. W. 125. Impeachment by state of its own witness must be objected to below. McGirt v. State, 125 Ga. 269, 54 S. E. 171. Hostile demonstration by spectators in presence of jury, known to accused at the time, cannot be first urged after verdict. State v. High, 116 La. 79, 40 So. 538.

70. State v. Douglass, 72 Kan. 673, 83 P. 621.

71. Scope of cross-examination. Maloy v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 791.

Answer expected must be shown by offer of proof. Martin v. State, 144 Ala. 8, 40 So. 275; State v. Rester, 116 La. 985, 41 So. 231.

72. Objection to evidence waived, unless made when it is offered. State v. Bateman, 198 Mo. 212, 94 S. W. 843; Coker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 303. If objection is not made to question laying foundation for impeachment because time and place of alleged inconsistent statement is not given, it cannot be objected that the foundation is insufficient in that respect. State v. Brown [Del. Gen. Sess.] 63 A. 328.

73. Striking out of evidence. State v. Walker, 194 Mo. 253, 92 S. W. 659.

74. Hostile examination by court of defendant's witness, followed by ordering him into custody, is not such a fundamental error as will be reviewed in the absence of objection and exception. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241.

75. Objection to charge cannot be first made after verdict. State v. Le Blanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105; Brown v. State, 127 Wis. 193, 106 N. W. 536; Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385; Commonwealth v. Chartiers R. Co., 28 Pa. Super. St. 173; State v. Bush, 117 La. 463, 41 So. 793; Sparks v. Territory, 16 Okl. 127, 83 P. 712.

76. Failure to instruct as to all the law of the case must be raised by specific and timely objection. State v. McCarver, 194 Mo. 717, 92 S. W. 684.

77. Timely objection must be made to failure to instruct in writing. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1360, 92 S. W. 299.

78. State v. Lee, 116 La. 607, 40 So. 914.

79. State v. Baudoin, 115 La. 773, 40 So. 42.

80. Miller v. State, 165 Ind. 566, 76 N. E. 245.

81. Lamb v. People, 219 Ill. 399, 76 N. E. 576.

82. Where defendant has knowledge, during the trial, of misconduct of a juror, he cannot object for the first time after verdict. Trombley v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 976.

83. Failure of verdict to find value must be objected to when it is returned. State v. James County, 117 La. 419, 41 So. 702.

to alleged improper argument[84] and a ruling thereon procured,[85] and, unless the impropriety is obviously and necessarily hurtful,[86] an admonition to the jury to disregard it must be asked.[87] It must have clearly appeared that a juror failed to hear certain testimony to put the court in default for failure of its own motion to have it repeated.[88] Where a poll of the jury was not requested until the court had commenced to pronounce sentence, defendant cannot complain that in sentencing the court expressed an opinion on the facts though the poll revealed a disagreement and the jury were sent out again.[89]

A motion to strike[90] is essential to raise lack of responsiveness of an answer,[90a] and where evidence is admitted out of order, a motion to strike out is necessary to present error, on failure to supply the connection.[91] All errors committed on the trial, except rulings on evidence, must be pointed out on the motion for new trial or they will not be considered on appeal.[92]

Sufficiency of objection or motion.[93]—Objection must be made when the matter arises[94] and must state the specific ground,[95] general objection to evidence being unavailing if it is admissible for any purpose,[96] the objector being held on appeal

84. State v. High, 116 La. 79, 40 So. 538; Regan v. State, 87 Miss. 432, 39 So. 1002; Mash v. People, 220 Ill. 86, 77 N. E. 92; State v. Walker, 194 Mo. 253, 92 S. W. 659; People v. Owens [Cal. App.] 86 P. 980.

85. Objection to argument cannot be considered unless there was a ruling adverse to defendant. State v. Jeffries, 117 Mo. App. 569, 92 S. W. 501.

86. Improper argument, obviously hurtful, is ground for reversal, though no charge was asked. Jenkins v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 129, 93 S. W. 726. Unless argument is palpably improper, a request for an instruction is necessary to save error thereon. Wright v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 935, 93 S. W. 548.

87. To save error on remarks of counsel, an instruction to disregard must be asked. State v. Clifford, 58 W. Va. 681, 52 S. E. 864.

88. Haddix v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 781.

89. Battise v. State, 124 Ga. 866, 53 S. E. 678.

90. See 5 C. L. 1859, n. 35.

90a. State v. Bateman, 198 Mo. 212, 94 S. W. 843.

91. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass. 457, 76 N. E. 127; Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385.

92. Thompson v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1137, 91 S. W. 701. Where a notice of intention to move for a new trial is treated below as a motion, the appellate court will so regard it. State v. Wright [Idaho] 85 P. 493.

93. See 5 C. L. 1859.

94. Objection to competency of witness must be made when he is offered. State v. O'Malley [Iowa] 109 N. W. 491. Irregularities in proceedings before examining magistrate must be made before plea. State v. Calkins [S. D.] 109 N. W. 515. Objection to testimony must be made when it is given and motion to strike after close of direct examination is too late. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 S. 979. No objection except to instructions may be made for the first time in the motion for new trial. Thompson v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1137, 91 S. W. 701. Mental incompetency of juror may be urged after verdict if not sooner known. Wall v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 484. That juror's name was not in jury box must be urged at the time he is offered. Id.

95. Simmons v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 479. General objection to question does not raise indefiniteness as to time and place. Davis v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 663. Objection for want of foundation must point out wherein it is deficient. People v. Lamar, 148 Cal. 564, 83 P. 993. "Incompetent and immaterial" too general. Sparks v. Territory, 16 Okl. 127, 83 P. 712. Objection to competency of testimony of an expert does not raise the question of his qualifications. State v. Martin, 47 Or. 282, 83 P. 849. Objection that question is leading and calls for a conclusion does not raise competency of evidence. Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31. Objection that evidence is irrelevant does not raise question that it is hearsay. State v. Wells [Mont.] 83 P. 476. Objection to testimony does not raise competency of witness. State v. Mizis [Or.] 85 P. 611. Objection to dying declaration as "hearsay" and "self-serving" does not reach the objection that parts of it are not confined to the circumstances of the homicide. State v. Crump, 116 La. 978, 41 So. 229. Objection to parol proof of part of a letter held not to raise the question whether it could be received without proof of the whole. Lasater v. State, 77 Ark. 468, 94 S. W. 59. Objection that evidence tended to show another distinct offense does not raise question whether it was part of res gestae of crime charged. Schweir v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 559, 94 S. W. 1049. Objection that evidence that prosecutrix in rape had never had intercourse with any other man was "immaterial" raises no question for review. Curry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 566, 94 S. W. 1058.

96. Campbell v. State, 124 Ga. 432, 52 S. E. 914; State v. Lu Sing [Mont.] 85 P. 521; Lawrence v. State [Md.] 63 A. 96; State v. Finley, 193 Mo. 202, 91 S. W. 942; Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385; Brooks v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 156; Harrison v. State, 125 Ga. 267, 53 S. E. 958. As to whether accused was under indictment for burglary committed near scene of crime charged. Boyd v. State to specific ground of objection presented below.[97] Objection to introduction of "any evidence" made after some evidence is in raises no question.[98] A motion to strike is properly denied if any part of the evidence covered thereby is admissible.[99] Where a motion for a new trial is essential, the error sought to be raised must be distinctly stated as a ground of the motion.[1]

Sufficiency of exceptions.[2]—Exceptions must be promptly taken[3] and be specifically addressed to the matter complained of.[4] Exceptions to the instructions are sometimes required to state the ground.[5]

§ 15. Harmless or prejudicial error.[6]—In respect to some matters of procedure, notably argument and conduct of counsel[7] and custody and conduct of the jury,[8] the rulings usually blend the propriety of particular acts and their harmful effect in such manner that separate statement would be misleading, and sections of this article dealing therewith should be consulted in connection with the holdings which clearly present a proposition of harmless error. Error is presumptively prejudicial,[9] doubt as to its harmful effect being resolved in favor of accused.[10] Harmful effect of error is emphasized by the closeness of the case on the evidence,[11] and by the use made of it in argument.[12] The rule that errors occurring during a trial shall not be considered as ground for reversal of the resulting judgment, unless they are of such a character as to be material or prejudicial, is not applicable to an error in-

[Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 94 S. W. 1053. Objection to entire testimony of witness properly overruled if part is admissible. Park v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 489.

97. Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385.

98. State v. Calkins [S. D.] 109 N. W. 515.

99. State v. Crouch, 130 Iowa, 478, 107 N. W. 173; Freeman v. State, 50 Fla. 38, 39 So. 785; Johnson v. State, 125 Ga. 243, 54 S. E. 184; Thompson v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 899.

1. Smith v. State, 125 Ga. 300, 54 S. E. 124; Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805; Douberly v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 676; Williams v. State, 124 Ga. 782, 53 S. E. 98; Adams v. State, 125 Ga. 11, 53 S. E. 804; Milner v. State, 124 Ga. 86, 52 S. E. 302; Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 214, 93 S. W. 726; Cowan v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 553; Langley v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 821; State v. King, 194 Mo. 474, 92 S. W. 670; State v. Place [S. D.] 107 N. W. 829; Norton v. State [Wis.] 109 N. W. 531; De Tarr v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 897; Henderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 706, 95 S. W. 131. As to sufficiency of particular motions, see ante, § 11.

2. See 5 C. L. 1859.

3. Exceptions to charge must be taken at time. State v. Finley, 193 Mo. 202, 91 S. W. 942. Exception to remarks of prosecuting attorney must be taken at the time they are made. State v. Spurling, 116 La. 789, 40 So. 167.

4. The part of the charge excepted to must be bad as a whole. Sims v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 413. General exception to entire charge unavailing. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805. Exception to each distinct part of the charge unavailing. Untreiner v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 286. General exception to the charge will not avail if any part thereof is correct. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241. General exception to refusal to give several instructions insufficient if any one was good. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805. General exception to denial of motion for new trial on several grounds insufficient. Koch v. State, 126 Wis. 470, 106 N. W. 531.

5. Exception to charge as irrelevant must state wherein it was prejudicial. State v. Simmons, 73 S. C. 234, 53 S. E. 286. Exception to instruction as erroneous will not support contention that it is not warranted by the evidence. Graham v. State, 125 Ga. 48, 53 S. E. 816. To review error in particular statements of an instruction, there must be specific objection and exception or a motion for a new trial specifically pointing out the defect. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805.

6. See 6 C. L. 1860.

7. See ante, § 10B.

8. See ante, § 10F.

9. State v. Wheeler, 129 Iowa, 100, 105 N. W. 374. If substantial error is committed on the trial of a criminal case, the natural tendency of which is to prejudice the defendant, it will be ground for a new trial unless it affirmatively appears from the whole record that defendant could not have been prejudiced. State v. Williams, 96 Minn. 351, 105 N. W. 265. The presumption of prejudice from the unauthorized separation of a juror from his fellows cannot be rebutted by proof that he was the last to agree to a conviction. State v. Strodemier, 41 Wash. 159, 83 P. 22. Erroneous admission of evidence is presumptively prejudicial. McCullough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1056. Unless it can be said that it could by no possibility have harmed defendant. People v. Brown, 110 App. Div. 490, 96 N. Y. S. 957.

10. Haynes v. Com., 104 Va. 854, 52 S. E. 358.

11. People v. Cascone, 185 N. Y. 317, 78 N. E. 287.

12. Lawrence v. People, 222 Ill. 155, 78 N.

volving the deprivation of a constitutional right. The law presumes in such a case that an injury has been suffered.[13]

Trivial or immaterial error.[14]—The rule that reversal will not ordinarily be had for errors in no manner affecting the result[15] has been applied to permitting amendment of indictment,[16] denial of change of venue,[17] denial of continuance,[18] selection of jury,[19] conduct and remarks of court,[20] admission of evidence,[21] exclusion of evidence,[22] examination of witnesses generally,[23] cross-examination of

E. 50. And see People v. Cascone, 185 N Y. 317, 78 N. E. 287.

13. Fields v. State, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 401.

14. See 5 C. L. 1860.

15. See, for strong general statement of policy to ignore technical error State v. Nelson, 91 Minn. 143, 97 N. W. 652; State v Crawford, 96 Minn. 95, 104 N. W. 768, 822.

16. Propriety of adding a count to the indictment after arraignment not considered where conviction was on another count. Denlson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 248, 93 S. W. 731.

17. Denial of change of venue for local prejudice is shown to be harmless by failure of defendant to exhaust his peremptory challenges. Regan v. State, 87 Miss. 422, 39 So. 1002.

18. Denial of postponement to allow summoning of witnesses harmless where it appears that there were no such persons as the alleged witnesses. Cremeans v. Com., 104 Va. 860, 52 S. E. 362.

19. Erroneous overruling of challenge for cause harmless where competent jury was secured and undisputed evidence showed guilt. Sullins v. State [Ark.] 95 S. W. 159. Overruling of challenge for cause where juror was challenged peremptorily. State v. Sultan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 841. No error can be predicated on the excusing of a juror where the panel was completed without exhausting defendant's peremptory challenges. State v. Gereke [Kan.] 86 P. 160. Errors in summoning jury held fatal. Hoback v. Com., 104 Va. 871, 52 S. E. 575.

20. Derogatory comment during trial on evidence which did not bear on any issue. Haddix v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 781. Remark of court derogatory to witness harmless where all his testimony was unfavorable to accused. People v. Fernandez [Cal. App.] 86 P. 899. Improper remarks of court not ground for reversal if proof of guilt is clear. Mash v. People, 220 Ill. 86, 77 N. E. 92. The refusal of the trial judge to permit the first wife to testify against defendant on trial for bigamy, on the ground that her testimony is incompetent on account of her relationship to the defendant, will not be regarded as prejudicial to the defendant where accompanied by an explicit statement by the court to the jury that no fact with reference to the first marriage is thereby determined by the court. State v. Bates, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 502.

21. Evidence in prosecution for statutory rape that prosecutrix had never had intercourse with any other man held harmless. Curry v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 566, 94 S. W. 1058. Parol proof of letter of accused held prejudicial to him on issue of sanity. McCullough v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1056. Evidence of the age of the children of prosecutrix in rape held not prejudicial. Boyd v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 94 S. W. 1053. Admission of evidence of previous disconnected offense ground for reversal. People v. Sekeson, 111 App. Div. 490, 97 N. Y. S. 917. Evidence that accused was in the habit of cursing. State v. Smalls, 73 S. C. 516, 53 S. E. 976. Proof of one inadmissible statement which adds nothing to another admitted without objection is harmless. People v. Cook, 148 Cal. 334, 83 P. 43. Declaration of injured person, a negro, that prosecution would be futile because defendant was a white man held harmful as injecting race prejudice. Talkington v. State, 87 Miss. 510, 40 So. 163. Admission of evidence that defendant's disposition was good when he was sober but bad when he was drunk is harmless where he admitted the killing and sought by proof of intoxication to reduce the degree. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3. Secondary evidence of ownership of burglarized premises harmless where possession was abundantly proven. Peck v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 759. Where a document is received in evidence, exclusion of identifying evidence relevant only to make the document admissible is harmless. Schwantes v. State, 127 Wis. 160, 106 N. W. 237. Admission of witness to conclusion harmless where such conclusion is obvious and inevitable from documents in evidence. People v. Hoffman, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838.

22. Exclusion of testimony of one witness to good reputation of accused harmless where two other witnesses testified thereto and there was no testimony to the contrary. Demaree v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1374, 91 S. W. 1131. Exclusion of testimony impeaching a witness to identify held not ground for reversal where there was positive identification by four other witnesses. People v. Murphy, 113 App. Div. 363, 99 N. Y. S. 110. Exclusion of cumulative evidence not harmless unless the fact to which it is addressed is abundantly proved. State v. Trueman Mont.] 85 P. 1024.

23. Allowing prosecutor to testify in answer to a leading question that he gave up money because of fear harmless where the facts admitted of no other interpretation. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 247, 94 S. W. 227. Where a date was shown by several witnesses, error in permitting one to refresh his memory thereon is harmless. Hammock v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 906, 93 S. W. 549. Judgment reversed where conviction rested on suspicious evidence and cross-examination was unduly limited. People v. Meyers, 113 App. Div. 409, 99 N. Y. S. 308. Requiring witness to state that he had been several times arrested for gambling harmless. Hen-accused,[24] argument and conduct of counsel,[25] submission to jury of question for court which court has decided against defendant,[26] instructions[27] and refusal to instruct,[28] misconduct of jurors[29] or of officers in charge of jury,[30] and conviction of lower degree than evidence warrants.[31]

Cure of error.[32]—Error in admitting evidence may be cured by striking it out derson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 570, 91 S. W. 669. Permitting district attorney to examine his own witness as hostile harmless where the witness in no manner varied his story under such examination. Dodd v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 545. Requiring the form of a question to be changed harmless where the answer given is that which the original question sought. Chandler v. State, 124 Ga. 821, 53 S. E. 91. Allowing improper question harmless when witness answers that he does not know. Hill v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 621.

24. Permitting accused to be asked as to other offenses harmless where he denies them and no effort is made to contradict him. Sawyer v. U. S., 202 U. S. 150, 50 Law. Ed. 972. Permitting question to accused as to another offense held harmless where he denied it. Borck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 580. Asking of improper question of accused harmless where objection was sustained and jury were told that no inference was to be drawn from failure to answer. Harding v. Com. [Va.] 52 S. E. 832. Allowing defendant to be asked if he had ever before been in trouble is harmless where he answers in the negative and the matter is dropped there. People v. Lambert, 144 Mich. 578, 13 Det. Leg. N. 299, 108 N. W. 345.

25. Improper argument held harmless where proof of guilt was clear. People v. Froelich, 110 App. Div. 873, 96 N. Y. S. 488. Exchange of pleasantries between juror and prosecuting attorney held harmless. Trombley v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 976.

26. Commonwealth v. Tucker, 189 Mass 457, 76 N. E. 127.

27. Misstatement of maximum penalty harmless where punishment assessed is within the statute. Choran v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 508, 92 S. W. 422. Error in form of instruction based on state's evidence harmless where defendant was guilty if the state's evidence was believed, while if his evidence was believed he was not guilty under any interpretation of the charge. Beattie v. State, 77 Ark. 247, 95 S. W. 163. Instruction inaccurately stating burden of proof on insanity held harmless where evidence of insanity was very slight. Stanfield v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 94 S. W. 1057. Submission of a ground of manslaughter which the evidence does not authorize is harmless. Goodman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 252, 91 S. W. 795. Faulty statement of rule falsus in uno disregarded where evidence of guilt was clear. State v. Fuller [Mont.] 85 P. 369. Error in instruction on murder harmless where conviction was for manslaughter. Brown v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1335, 92 S. W. 542. Erroneous instruction on self-defense harmless where there was no evidence requiring submission of that defense. Clingan v. State, 77 Ark. 141, 91 S. W. 12. Stating the maximum penalty and not the minimum is harmless where the jury awarded the minimum. Abbott v. State, 77 Ark. 337, 91 S. W. 754. Where the jury correctly fixed the punishment, error in stating the number of the instruction to which they were referred for directions in respect thereto is harmless. Ward v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 62, 91 S. W. 700. Instruction invading the province of the jury held prejudicial and not to be disregarded on the assumption that a correct result was reached. Clay v. State [Wyo.] 86 P. 17. Submitting to the jury admissibility of testimony against defendant when court ruled in first instance it was admissible. Willoughby v. Territory, 16 Okl. 577, 86 P. 56. Error in instruction as to the manner in which corroboration of accomplice should connect accused with the crime is harmless where accused admitted the killing and claimed justification. Morgan v. Territory, 16 Okl. 530, 85 P. 718. Erroneous definition of murder harmless where jury found manslaughter. Id. Erroneous instruction as to burden of proof of insanity held harmless where defendant failed to produce any evidence sufficient to go to the jury on that issue. State v. Wetter, 11 Idaho, 433, 83 P. 341. Inadvertent omission of the word "not" in an instruction that it is for the jury to find what has been proven and what has not been proven is harmless. White v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 554. Error in the definition of assault is harmless where defendant admits the assault and claims justification. State v. Cummings, 128 Iowa, 522, 105 N. W. 57.

28. Harmless to refuse instruction on corroboration of accomplice where defendant as witness admitted everything to which the accomplice testified. Finch v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 187, 92 S. W. 940. Refusal of instruction that no juror should agree to conviction because the majority favor it harmless where proof of guilt is beyond all question. Lawson v. State, 87 Miss. 562, 40 So. 325.

29. See, also, ante, § 10F. That jury took out exhibits without consent not ground of reversal unless prejudice appears. People v. Dolan [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 569. Misconduct of jurors in going to the scene of the crime where it does not appear that what they saw was referred to in the jury room or affected the verdict. State v. Crouch, 130 Iowa, 478, 107 N. W. 173. Conversation between juror and third person held not ground for new trial. State v. Clifford, 58 W. Va. 681, 52 S. E. 864. Reading by jurors of a newspaper account of an occurrence on the trial of a capital charge held harmless. State v. Williams, 96 Minn. 351, 105 N. W. 265.

30. Misconduct of officers in charge of jury not shown to have affected the verdict. People v. Hoffman, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838.

31. State v. Feeley, 194 Mo. 300, 92 S. W. 663; State v. Barkley, 129 Iowa, 484, 105 N. W. 506.

and instructing the jury to disregard it,[33] or by other proper evidence subsequently admitted,[34] and particularly by testimony of accused admitting the fact shown.[35] Exclusion of evidence is cured by its subsequent admission[36] or the admission of other evidence of like effect,[37] but permitting accused to testify to a fact does not cure exclusion of testimony of a disinterested witness thereto.[38] Error in instructions may be cured by the rendition of a verdict which such instructions could not have affected,[39] and a like rule applies to rulings at the trial.[40] Putting defendant

32. See 5 C. L. 1862.

33. Subsequent exclusion of evidence and instruction to disregard cures error. Coleman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 697, 91 S. W. 783. Error in admitting testimony of a prejudicial character is not cured by its subsequent exclusion. Narrative by prosecutrix in rape cured by withdrawal. State v. Bateman, 198 Mo. 212, 94 S. W. 843. Volunteering of prejudicial statements by witness held cured by striking out and admonition. State v. McGinnis [Idaho] 85 P. 1089. It is only testimony of a very prejudicial kind, the erroneous admission of which is not cured by striking out. Morgan v. Territory, 16 Okl. 530, 85 P. 718. Striking out and instruction to disregard held to cure erroneous admission of admission of guilt by defendant. People v. Tollefson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 481, 108 N. W. 751. Withdrawal by charge held to cure admission of declarations by prosecutrix in rape case. People v. Harris, 144 Mich. 12, 13 Det. Leg. N. 139, 107 N. W. 715. Evidence in homicide case as to feeble appearance of deceased. State v. Mitchell, 130 Iowa, 697, 107 N. W. 804. Statement of deceased. People v. Smith, 113 App. Div. 150, 98 N. Y. S. 905. Refusal to strike out hearsay when given cured by subsequently striking it out and admonishing jury to disregard it. State v. Fuller [Mont.] 85 P. 369. Confession obtained under promise of immunity. State v. Moran [Iowa] 109 N. W. 187. Retention of evidence based on insufficient proof of conspiracy is not cured by instruction that it is not to be considered unless conspiracy is proved. State v. Wheeler, 129 Iowa, 100, 105 N. W. 374. Admission of a confession made without warning is harmless where it was withdrawn by instructions and a confession made after warning was in evidence. Griffin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 213, 93 S. W. 732.

34. Error in admitting evidence sustaining the reputation of a state's witness before such reputation is attacked is harmless where attacking evidence is subsequently introduced. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 247, 94 S. W. 227. Opinion from wound as to caliber of bullet harmless where bullet was produced. People v. Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 671. Admission of declaration of third person cured by subsequent testimony connecting defendant therewith. People v. Murphy [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 602, 108 N. W. 1009. Admission of evidence without proper foundation is cured by the supplying of the foundation. Letter not shown when admitted to have been written by defendant. State v. Smith, 47 Or. 485, 83 P. 865. Admission of declarations of deceased harmless where same statements were contained in a dying declaration. State v. Smith, 115 La. 801, 40 So. 171. Admission of incompetent evidence on point abundantly proved by competent evidence. Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31.

35. Erroneous admission of evidence harmless where accused voluntarily testified to the same facts. State v. Nash, 115 La. 719, 39 So. 854. Admission of involuntary confession cured when defendant on stand admits the truth of all statements therein. State v. Johnny [Nev.] 87 P. 3; Loyd v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 678. Admission of secondary evidence is cured by admission of fact by accused in his statement. McCoy v. State, 124 Ga. 218, 52 S. E. 434. Where former imprisonment was properly proved on cross-examination of accused, error in previously permitting proof thereof is cured. State v. James, 194 Mo. 268, 92 S. W. 679. Allowing incompetent witness to testify where accused subsequently admits the facts. Henry v. State, 77 Ark. 453, 92 S. W. 405.

36. State v. Falsetta [Wash.] 86 P. 168. Sustaining objection to proper question cured by subsequently allowing witness to answer it. State v. Porter, 130 Iowa, 690, 107 N. W. 923.

37. Mash v. People, 220 Ill. 86, 77 N. E. 92; Reed v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 649. Testimony that witness heard all that was said does not cure exclusion of question whether he was close enough to have heard a certain other remark had it been made. Hill v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 387.

38. Allen v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 624.

39. Instruction complained of for tendency to produce conviction of murder instead of manslaughter harmless where the conviction was for manslaughter. Raines v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 932. Error in instructions as to murder not prejudicial where conviction was of manslaughter and all the evidence plainly required such verdict. O'Shields v. State, 125 Ga. 310, 54 S. E. 120. That an instruction assumed intent to kill harmless where the verdict was for an offense into which such intent did not enter. Shockley v. State, 125 Ga. 778, 54 S. E. 692. Instructions on murder harmless where conviction was of manslaughter. Neilson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 221. Error in charge on first degree harmless where conviction was of second. Pinkerton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 224. Erroneous definition of malice harmless where verdict was for manslaughter. Morris v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 274.

40. Error in an instruction the tendency of which is to produce a conviction of the offense charged is harmless where the jury convict of an included offense as to which correct instructions were given. State v. Morris, 128 Iowa, 717, 105 N. W. 213. Rulings on evidence as to premeditation harmless where conviction was for murder in the second degree. State v. Worley [N. C.] 53

on trial on an information containing a count as to which he had no examination is cured by withdrawing such count from the jury.[41] Sentence on good count only cures conviction on both.[42] Improper argument is frequently held to be cured by withdrawal by counsel[43] or by instruction to disregard it,[44] and a prohibition of instructions on the facts does not prevent a correction by the court of misstatements of fact by counsel.[45] On trial by the court, erroneous admission of evidence is cured by disregarding it.[46] Refusal to allow law to be read to jury is cured by subsequently permitting it.[47] Denial of continuance for absence of witness is harmless where the witness appeared and testified,[48] or the facts sought to be proved are shown by other witnesses without contradiction.[49] Absence of judge during argument is not cured by allowing on his return a brief adjournment in which exceptions to improper argument might be presented in writing.[50] Trial together of several indictments is not reversible error where any one would sustain the verdict and sentence.[51]

§ 16. Stay of proceedings after conviction.[52]—Certificate of reasonable doubt should be granted where any question of law is raised sufficient for the consideration of the appellate court.[53]

§ 17. Appeal and review. A. Right of review.[54]—Though the right of appeal is guaranteed by the constitution, the legislature may regulate the time and manner of procedure to secure it.[55] In New York appeal is not a constitutional right but rests wholly on legislation,[56] the Code of Criminal Procedure supplanting all former regulations.[57] Right of appeal from special sessions is the same as that allowed by law from general sessions.[58] Appeal by the state is authorized in some jurisdictions, but statutes allowing such appeals are strictly construed.[59] Though the

S. E. 128. Evidence applicable only to one degree is rendered harmless by conviction of a lower degree. Evidence of penetration where defendant was convicted of attempt to rape. People v. Ah Lung, 2 Cal. App. 278, 83 P. 296. Verdict negativing specific intent cures exclusion of evidence and error in instructions bearing thereon. Guy v. State [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 855.

41. People v. Harris, 144 Mich. 12, 13 Det. Leg. N. 139, 107 N. W. 715.

42. Burrow v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 987.

43. Withdrawal and apology ordinarily cures improper remark in argument. Sawyer v. U. S., 202 U. S. 150, 50 Law. Ed. 972.

44. Allusion to failure of accused to produce witnesses at preliminary examination held cured by admonition. State v. Wong Tung Hee, 41 Wash. 623, 84 P. 596. Erroneous statement of law corrected by the court. Robinson v. Com., 104 Va. 888, 52 S. E. 690. Comment in argument on extent of punishment possible held harmless in view of admonition. People v. Salas, 2 Cal. App. 537, 84 P. 295. Instruction to disregard cures abusive argument. State v. Clifford, 58 W. Va. 681, 52 S. E. 864.

Contra: Reference to defendant's failure to testify fatal though jury are promptly instructed to disregard it. People v. Morris [Cal. App.] 84 P. 463.

45. State v. Lane, 47 Or. 526, 84 P. 804.

46. Where the case is tried without a jury, statement of the judge that certain testimony did not enter into his conclusion must be accepted where the record does not show the connection of such testimony with the case. State v. O'Malley, 115 La. 1095, 40 So. 470.

47. Young v. State, 25 Ga. 584, 54 S. E. 82.

48. Franklin v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 979.

49. Lucas v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 976. Denial of continuance for absence of witness to prove declaration of prosecutrix harmless when prosecutrix admitted making it. State v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224.

50. Miller v. State, 73 Ohio St. 195, 76 N. E. 823.

51. Lucas v. State, 144 Ala. 63, 39 So. 821.

52. See 5 C. L. 1864.

53. Charge on accomplice testimony and argument of district attorney held to raise doubt. People v. Hummel, 49 Misc. 136, 98 N. Y. S. 713.

54. See 5 C. L. 1865.

55. State v. White, 40 Wash. 428, 82 P. 743.

56. People v. Reardon, 112 App. Div. 866, 98 N. Y. S. 399.

57. People v. Reardon [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 860.

58. People v. Markham, 99 N. Y. S. 1092.

59. Cr. Code 1896, § 4315, allowing an appeal by the state where the act on which the prosecution is founded is declared to be unconstitutional, does not authorize such appeal where the act creating the court in which the prosecution was had was declared unconstitutional. State v. Morris [Ala.] 39 So. 589. A statute allowing appeal from the sustaining of a demurrer to an "indictment" does not authorize an appeal from the sustaining of a demurrer to an "information" despite a statute that practice on information shall be the same as on indictment. State v. Adams, 193 Mo. 196, 91 S. W. 946; statute does not so require, as a general rule the supreme court of Ohio will not allow review by the prosecution until after final judgment.[60] The review of rulings adverse to the state authorized in Wyoming is based on the filing of a bill of exceptions, and a writ of error is not authorized.[61] Dismissal of proceedings may be an acquittal from which state cannot appeal.[62] The state is not entitled to a review of rulings at the trial if the indictment was insufficient to support a conviction.[63] Dismissal of an appeal on technical grounds does not preclude a second appeal.[64]

(§ 17) B. The remedy for obtaining review.[65]—The statutory remedies by appeal or error should where applicable be pursued,[66] and not certiorari,[67] prohibition,[68] mandamus,[69] injunction,[70] or habeas corpus.[71] Though the facts may warrant discharge on habeas corpus, the supreme court will not, when a case is brought up by attempted appeal from an unappealable order, exercise its original jurisdiction by habeas corpus to decide the case.[72]

(§ 17) C. Adjudications which may be reviewed.[73]—Appeal or error ordinarily lies only to a final judgment,[74] though in some states appeal from orders

State v. Ross, 119 Mo. App. 401, 94 S. W. 842. Appeal by people being authorized only from sustaining of demurrer or arrest of judgment, no appeal lies from dismissal of the indictment. People v. Dundon, 113 App. Div. 369, 98 N. Y. S. 1048.

60. State v. Dickerson, 73 Ohio St. 193, 76 N. E. 864.

61. Rev. St. §§ 5378-5381. State v. Cornwell, 14 Wyo. 526, 85 P. 977.

62. State v. Ivey, 73 S. C. 282, 53 S. E. 428.

63. State v. Jackson, 128 Iowa, 543, 105 N. W. 51.

64. Porter v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 421.

65. See 5 C. L. 1865.

66. Rev. Code Cr. Proc. § 479, providing that review in criminal actions shall be by writ of error, prevents appeal in prosecution for misdemeanor. State v. Cram [S. D.] 105 N. W. 99. Error lies from a judgment of conviction in circuit court of violation of city ordinance. People v. Smith [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 1068, 109 N. W. 411.

67. No appeal being provided from a city recorder's court, the remedy is by "writ of review." Wong Sing v. Independence, 47 Or. 231, 83 P. 387. Certiorari will lie in Nevada to review proceedings of the district court without jurisdiction on appeal from justice court (Chapman v. Justice Ct. of Tonopah Tp. [Nev.] 86 P. 552), and the fact that the remedy by appeal has been suffered to lapse confers no right to certiorari (Id.). That the justice is without jurisdiction because the statute under which the conviction was had is unconstitutional is not ground for certiorari. Remedy by appeal to district court adequate. Id. While the supreme court of Louisiana has a very broad supervisory power by certiorari, it will be exercised only to prevent obvious miscarriage of justice. State v. Summerlin, 116 La. 449, 40 So. 792. The supreme court will not under its supervisory power revise the decision of an inferior court on a mere question of law. Dismissal of prosecution because affidavit was not verified. State v. Hunter, 117 La. 294, 41 So. 578.

68. Prohibition will not lie to prevent proceeding with the trial of a charge alleged to be barred. Kinard v. Police Ct. of Oakland, 2 Cal. App. 179, 83 P. 175. Prohibition not allowed where there is adequate remedy by appeal. People v. Trial Term, Part I (Crim. Branch), 184 N. Y. 30, 76 N. E. 732. If the trial court is about to exceed its powers by granting a new trial, prohibition will lie. People v. Court of General Sessions of the Peace, 185 N. Y. 504, 78 N. E. 149. Prohibition will not lie to prevent trial involving second jeopardy. State v. Williams, 117 Mo. App. 564, 92 S. W. 151.

69. Held by divided court that mandamus would not issue to compel lower court to try a case of which it erroneously declines cognizance. Commonwealth v. McCann, 29 Ky. L. R. 707, 94 S. W. 645.

70. Prosecution under invalid ordinance will not be enjoined, remedy by appeal being adequate. Thompson v. Tucker, 15 Okl. 486, 83 P. 413.

71. Habeas corpus reviews only jurisdiction. State v. Pratt [S. D.] 107 N. W. 538.

72. State v. Sloan [Iowa] 109 N. W. 190.

73. See 5 C. L. 1866.

74. A petition in error lies only to a final judgment. State v. Cornwell, 14 Wyo. 526, 85 P. 977. Final judgment is prerequisite to the appeal allowed to the state from refusal to set aside an acquittal in a revenue case. State v. Peyton, 58 W. Va. 380, 52 S. E. 393. Judgment contingent on performance of certain acts by accused not final. State v. Peralta, 115 La. 529, 39 So. 550. Judgment by confession for a fine is not a "conviction" from which appeal will lie. Mayers v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 658; Collins v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 672. An order refusing to enter a verdict which the jury were directed to enter but inadvertently failed to do is not appealable. State v. Hill [S. C.] 54 S. E. 614. No appeal may be taken while sentence is suspended. People v. Markham, 99 N. Y. S. 1092. An order denying a motion in arrest of judgment is not appealable. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100. No appeal lies from order denying motion in arrest under Pen. Code, § 2272, allowing appeal from judgment, order denying new trial and orders after judgment affecting substantial rights. State before[75] and after[76] judgment is authorized. The reviewability of orders of or in particular courts,[77] and the finality of decisions of courts of intermediate appeal,[78] is usually made to depend on the nature of the questions involved. Where the indictment is insufficient to support the conviction, the appeal must be dismissed.[79]

(§ 17) D. Courts of review and their jurisdiction.[80]—Consent cannot confer appellate jurisdiction.[81] Jurisdiction of Federal courts to review state decisions depends on the existence of a Federal question.[82] In Rhode Island it is only a court which has jurisdiction to try the case which may certify constitutional questions to the supreme court.[83]

(§ 17) E. Procedure to bring up the cause.[84]—A constitutional provision that writs of error shall not be prohibited does not prevent a reasonable limitation of the time for suing out the same,[85] and such limitations are usually made.[86] Proceedings for review are usually initiated by notice of appeal[87] or summons in error.[88] If one appeal is taken from two convictions of distinct offenses, defendant must elect or the appeal will be quashed.[89] A petition for certiorari is not defective in leaving blank the date of the judgment if it allege that the petition was presented within thirty days,[90] but if it appear on the answer that such averment is untrue, the proceeding falls.[91] Abstract questions should not be certified.[92] Ju-

v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376. No appeal lies from an order refusing discharge for failure to prosecute at first term. State v. Sloan [Iowa] 109 N. W. 190.

75. Order denying change of place of trial in supreme court appealable. People v. Jackson, 100 N. Y. S. 126. In New York an appeal may be taken from an order denying a motion to dismiss the indictment, under Code Cr. Proc. § 517, allowing appeals from certain intermediate orders to be taken in connection with appeal from final judgment. People v. Trial Term, Part I (Crim. Branch), 184 N. Y. 30, 76 N. E. 732. Provision in Michigan for review on exceptions before sentence does not apply to prosecutions for violation of city ordinance. People v. Smith [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 1068, 109 N. W. 411.

76. Refusal to consider a timely motion for a new trial is an order affecting a substantial right and error lies thereto. Massey v. State, 50 Fla. 109, 39 So. 790. One may appeal from both the judgment of special sessions and the commitment thereunder. People v. Jacobs, 51 Misc. 71, 100 N. Y. S. 734.

77. Constitutional question confers jurisdiction on supreme court in criminal as in civil cases. State v. Kumpfert, 115 La. 950, 40 So. 365. Question as to legality of ordinance authorizes appeal to supreme court from mayor's court. Town of Homer v. Brown, 117 La. 425, 41 So. 711. The jurisdiction of the court of appeals being limited to cases where the fine exceeds $50, an appeal from a $50 fine will be dismissed. Bailey v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 105, 92 S. W. 545.

78. No appeal lies from order of circuit court of appeals affirming conviction. Whitney v. Dick, 202 U. S. 132, 50 Law. Ed. 963. No appeal lies from an order of the district court on appeal from the mayor's court. Town of Many v. Franklin, 115 La. 638, 39 So. 740; Id., 115 La. 641, 642, 39 So. 741.

79. McDaniel v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 919.

80. See 5 C. L. 1866.

81. Wong Sing v. Independence, 47 Or. 231, 83 P. 387; People v. Dundon, 113 App. Div. 369, 98 N. Y. S. 1048.

82. A writ of error will lie from the federal supreme court to review a denial of a federal right specially claimed if under the statutes of the state such court is the highest state court authorized to pass on such claim. Commonwealth of Kentucky v. Powers, 201 U. S. 1, 50 Law. Ed. 633. The question of former jeopardy in a capital case is a federal one. State v. Keerl [Mont.] 85 P. 862. See the topic Jurisdiction, 6 C. L. 267, where this question is fully treated.

83. District court, having power only to transmit prosecution for liquor nuisance to superior court for trial, cannot certify. State v. Collins, 27 R. I. 419, 62 A. 1010.

84. See 5 C. L. 1866.

85. O'Donnell v. State, 126 Wis. 599, 106 N. W. 18.

86. In Wisconsin writ of error must be sued out within two years from entry of judgment. O'Donnell v. State, 126 Wis. 599, 106 N. W. 18. Service of notice of appeal more than 60 days after denial of new trial is ineffectual. People v. Salas, 2 Cal. App. 537, 84 P. 295. In Ohio there is no limitation on the time within which error must be brought in criminal cases, Rev. St. 1906, § 6723, applying only to civil cases. Miller v. State, 73 Ohio St. 195, 76 N. E. 823.

87. Notice of appeal from special sessions held to appeal from commitment as well as judgment. People v. Jacobs, 51 Misc. 71, 100 N. Y. S. 734.

88. Failure to make timely service on the attorney general of summons in error is ground for dismissal. Foree v. State, 14 Wyo. 296, 83 P. 596. Acceptance of service of brief does not waive failure to serve summons in error. Id.

89. Commonwealth v. Pilnik, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 285.

90, 91. Evans v. Forsyth [Ga.] 55 S. E. 490.

92. Whether plea in bar and general plea should be tried together on review of generrisdiction of the proceeding authorized by the Wyoming statutes to review rulings adverse to the state is conferred by the filing of a bill of exceptions[93] which must be sealed[94] and entitled as in the court below, not as an independent proceeding in the appellate court,[95] neither petition in error nor summons in error being authorized.[96] In Maine, if exceptions are certified to be frivolous, it is mandatory that they be transmitted to the chief justice for an immediate hearing, and exceptions so certified but without an order for transmission will not be considered.[97] Affidavit is usually prerequisite to appeal in forma pauperis.[98] Where the recognizance does not state that appellant was convicted of a misdemeanor nor the amount of the penalty, the appeal will be dismissed.[99] Sending up of a bond on certiorari to the county court is equivalent to an approval.[1] The bond on certiorari to the county court must be conditioned for the appearance of accused to abide the judgment.[2] An appeal bond approved by the lower court will confer appellate jurisdiction though it has no sureties as the statute requires.[3]

(§ 17) F. Perpetuation of proceedings in the "record."[4]—All that is properly part of the record proper must appear thereby[5] and it is insufficient that such matters appear by the bill of exceptions,[6] nor should the record proper be contained in the bill of exceptions.[7] Matters not part of the record proper cannot be reviewed unless brought into the record by bill of exceptions or its equivalent.[8] Whether the information was supported by a proper complaint not appearing of record, absence of such complaint must be shown by bill of exceptions.[9] al verdict after they were tried separately. State v. Murphy, 128 Wis. 201, 107 N. W. 470.

93. Rev. St. §§ 5378-5381. State v. Cornwell, 14 Wyo. 526, 85 P. 977.

94, 95, 96. State v. Cornwell, 14 Wyo. 526, 85 P. 977.

97. State v. Edminister [Me.] 64 A. 611.

98. Affidavit in general terms held sufficient to support appeal in forma pauperis. McCoy v. State, 124 Ga. 218, 52 S. E. 434. Want of averment of good faith in affidavit for appeal without bond is fatal. State v. Atkinson [N. C.] 53 S. E. 228.

99. Weil v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 231. Recognizance on appeal from conviction of misdemeanor must show punishment. Ehlert v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 40.

1, 2. Brown v. State, 124 Ga. 411, 52 S. E. 745.

3. City of Ottawa v. Johnson [Kan.] 84 P. 749.

4. See 5 C. L. 1867.

5. Transcript must show arraignment and plea. State v. Sharpe, 119 Mo. App. 386, 95 S. W. 998. The transcript must show that accused is confined or has entered into a recognizance. Shrewder v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 580. Statement of facts on conviction of local option law must show that the law was in force. Young v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 589. Record of conviction in county court on indictment must show order for transfer from district court where the indictment was found. Bird v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 322, 91 S. W. 791. Record must show taking of appeal. State v Davis [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1056; People v. Brown, 148 Cal. 743, 84 P. 204. Motion to quash must appear by record proper. Johnson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 678. Ruling on motion in arrest must be shown by record proper. Grant v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 80. Demurrer to indictment must appear by record proper. Broadhead v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 216. Motion for new trial must appear by record proper. Wurfel v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 535; Wurfel v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 567. The facts justifying a discharge of a juror must be placed in the record. People v. Parker [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 581, 108 N. W. 999. Though the record must show evidence sufficient to sustain the conviction, the fact that the identification by some witnesses does not appear of record because they identified defendant by gesture is immaterial if there is other evidence of identification. State v. Smith, 40 Wash. 615, 82 P. 918.

6. Matters pertaining to the record proper cannot be supplied by bill of exceptions. Lomineck v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 676. Demurrer. Woodall v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 718. Motion in arrest. Massey v. State, 50 Fla. 109, 39 So. 790. Verdict and judgment must appear by record proper and insertion in bill of exceptions is insufficient. Melbourne v. State, 50 Fla. 113, 39 So. 593.

7. Record proper included in bill of exceptions instead of being certified by clerk will not be considered. State v. Farriss [Mont.] 87 P. 177; State v. Morrison [Mont.] 85 P. 738.

8. Denial of continuance must be presented by bill of exceptions. Harper v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 585, 95 S. W. 125; Perez v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 520, 94 S. W. 1036. Sustaining of a demurrer to the indictment cannot be reviewed without a bill of exceptions. People v. Druffel [Cal. App.] 86 P. 907. Demurrer must appear, showing merely of action thereon being insufficient. Bradford v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 471.

9. Quillen v. Com. [Va.] 54 S. E. 883. A

Exceptions must be in the bill.[10] The verdict is part of the record proper and unresponsiveness or uncertainty thereof arise on the record.[11] Affidavits filed on the motion for new trial are in Texas part of the record though no notice of filing was given.[12] Verdict being part of record proper, no exception is necessary to bring it up for review.[13]

Plea of former acquittal and proceedings thereon are part of record proper.[14] The bill of exceptions being jurisdictional to review rulings adverse to the state under the Wyoming statute, rulings apparent of record cannot be reviewed in the absence of a bill.[15]

Making, settling, and approval.[16]—The bill of exceptions or like memorial must be approved by the judge[17] under seal[18] in such manner as to verify the contents[19] in term[20] and within the time limited by statute or rule,[21] or an extension motion to dismiss the indictment is part of the judgment roll. People v. Trial Term, Part I (Crim. Branch), 184 N. Y. 30, 76 N. E. 732. Errors in drawing of jury held presentable only by bill of exceptions. Dix v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 924. Alleged improper argument must be presented by bill of exceptions. Wright v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 935, 93 S. W. 548; State v. Valle, 196 Mo. 29, 93 S. W. 1115; State v. McCarver, 194 Mo. 717, 92 S. W. 684; State v. James, 194 Mo. 268, 92 S. W. 679.

Misconduct of counsel cannot be shown by affidavit unless the court unwarrantably refuses to sign the bill of exceptions. State v. Feeley, 194 Mo. 300, 92 S. W. 663; Butler v. State [Miss.] 39 So. 1005. Rev. St. 1906, § 7352, allowing misconduct of counsel to be presented by affidavit is not exclusive, and it may be presented by bill of exceptions. Miller v. State, 73 Ohio St. 195, 76 N. E. 823. Facts as to failure to swear officer to take charge of jury must appear by bill of exceptions, mere failure of the record to show that it was done being insufficient. Lamb v. People, 219 Ill. 399, 76 N. E. 576.

Instructions must be made part of record by bill of exceptions. Miller v. State, 165 Ind. 566, 76 N. E. 245.

Affidavit filed in the appellate court with reference to the motion for new trial cannot be considered. Lara v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 555, 95 S. W. 1083. Affidavits used on motion for new trial are no part of record proper. State v. Dalton [Wash.] 86 P. 590. Affidavits not part of record unless included in bill of exceptions. Loar v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 229.

Motion for new trial must be presented by bill of exceptions. State v. Kremer [Mont.] 85 P. 736; People v. Harris, 144 Mich. 12, 13 Det. Leg. N. 139, 107 N. W. 715; People v. Frank, 2 Cal. App. 283, 83 P. 578. Denial of motion for new trial not reviewed unless grounds appear in record. State v. Simmons, 73 S. C. 234, 53 S. E. 286.

10. Koch v. State, 126 Wis. 470, 106 N. W. 531; Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805.

11. State v. Modlin, 197 Mo. 376, 95 S. W. 345.

12. Lara v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 555, 95 S. W. 1083.

13. State v. King, 194 Mo. 474, 92 S. W. 670.

14. State v. Morrison, 165 Ind. 461, 75 N. E. 968.

15. State v. Cornwell, 14 Wyo. 526, 85 P. 977.

16. See 5 C. L. 1868.

17. Dunn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 224; Sykes v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 95 S. W. 110. Bill not signed will not be considered. State v. Collins, 196 Mo. 87, 93 S. W. 1117.

18. The right of defendant under Rev. St. § 5377, to file unsealed bills, does not authorize such bills to review rulings adverse to the state under § 5378. State v. Cornwell, 14 Wyo. 526, 85 P. 977.

19. Where the bill states certain objections as grounds of objection and does not certify them as facts, they cannot be considered. Harris v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 247, 94 S. W. 227. Certification of an objection does not verify the facts on which it is based. Adams v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 699, 91 S. W. 225. Entry that amendment to motion for new trial was "allowed" does not sufficiently approve the stated grounds. Pollard v. State, 125 Ga. 270, 54 S. E. 171. If the note to a ground of the motion does not approve it, such ground cannot be considered. Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820. Bill of exceptions must be certified to be true (Blnyard v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 498), and mere permission to file is not equivalent to such a certificate (Id.).

20. That a motion in arrest was continued till the next term does not extend the time to file bill of exceptions to the denial of a new trial. State v. Goehler, 193 Mo. 177, 91 S. W. 947. Bill signed in vacation without order or agreement extending time. Ray v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 224; Watts v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 90.

21. Diligence in preparation of bill of exceptions held insufficient to warrant consideration of bill filed out of time. Walker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 245, 91 S. W. 229. Judgment and order allowing 30 days to file bill of exceptions being dated March 31, 1895, bill of exceptions dated May 24, 1905, will be disregarded. Brunson v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 569. Bill signed after time allowed by order. Collins v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 726. A rule of the trial court that bills of exceptions shall be presented for signature not later than the day following their reservation is not unreasonable. State v. Lee, 116 La. 607, 40 So. 914. The statutory period for signature is not affected by the fact that it extends into the next term, but where it does so extend additional thereof properly allowed[22] and before the appeal is lodged in supreme court,[23] and must show such facts.[24] The making of skeleton bills[25] and the annexation of papers to the bill[26] is sometimes allowed, but the matter inserted or annexed must be well identified.[27] Where record entries are directed during the trial, it is incumbent on counsel to see that they are so made as to preserve his objection.[28] Defendant is not entitled to have cross-examination made part of the bill of exceptions unless it appears that it is material to the bill.[29] Certificates of evidence[30] with or without bills time cannot be allowed by agreement. Dix v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 924. Time for filing of bill of exceptions begins to run on entry of judgment of dismissal of motion for new trial, not from date of the dismissal. Walker v. State, 124 Ga. 440, 52 S. E. 738. Bill signed more than 30 days after expiration of term not considered. State v. Strayer, 58 W. Va. 676, 52 S. E. 862. A nunc pro tunc order will not make of record evidence transcribed more than 30 days after the expiration of the term. Id. Under a statute limiting allowance of time to file bills of exceptions to 60 days, a bill filed after such time, though within a longer time allowed by the court, cannot be considered. Stieler v. State [Ind.] 77 N. E. 1083. The exception to the statute requiring a finding to be applied for within two weeks "unless the decision is filed in the months of July or August" does not do away with the limitation in case of decisions so filed but merely eliminates such months in computing the time. State v. Dobkin, 78 Conn. 642, 63 A. 349. Bill held filed too late. Dorsey v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 584.

22. Statutory time for filing bill of exceptions cannot be extended. State v. White, 40 Wash. 428, 82 P. 743. Not error to refuse extension of time to file bill of exceptions where it does not appear that it could not have been filed in term. Denison v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 248, 93 S. W. 731. Where counsel left the bill of exceptions with the judge for signature and later took it from the judge's desk and filed it on the supposition that it had been signed, there was such negligence as to preclude relief. Haskell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 324, 92 S. W. 36. Where 30 days was allowed to file bill of exceptions an extension granted on the 31st day is unavailing though the 30th day is Sunday. Norman v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 295. Signature at succeeding term under agreement made at such term is of no effect. Davis v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 298. An order extending the time for filing bill of exceptions over the term must be express, and an order extending until a time to be fixed by five days' notice by either party is ineffective after the term. State v. Cole [Kan.] 85 P. 807. Where the statute provides for extension by the judge, an extension by the court is nugatory. Keith v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 953. Extension must be made during term. Ray v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 224; Johnson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 86. Agreement extending time must be made before the expiration of the time allowed. Adams v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 85. An extension of time to file bill of exceptions granted without the notice and affidavit required by Pen. Code, §§ 1171, 1174, is nugatory. People v. Ellis [Cal. App.] 84 P. 676.

23. State v. Ruffin, 117 La. 357, 41 So. 647.

24. Must show approval. Ryans v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 92 S. W. 413. Statement of facts not showing approval and signature will not be considered. Powell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 787. Bill not showing that it was filed below not considered. State v. Walker, 194 Mo. 367, 91 S. W. 899. Bill of exceptions presumed to have been signed the day it was filed. Dorsey v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 584. The record must affirmatively show that the statutory notice of presentation of bill of exceptions for settlement was given. State v. Kremer [Mont.] 85 P. 736; State v. Morrison [Mont.] 85 P. 738. Record held to show that bill of exceptions was filed in term time. Sanders v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 466. Recital in bill of extension in open court unavailing where no order appears and there was no term at the time of the alleged extension. Johnson v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 86. Recital in record held to sufficiently show the filing of the bill of exceptions. Cameron v. State [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 1021.

25. Instruction in skeleton bill to clerk to insert orders of commissioners' court for local option election is unauthorized. Davis v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 313, 92 S. W. 39. That the clerk without direction copied instructions into the bill of exceptions does not make them part of the record. State v. Ruck, 194 Mo. 416, 92 S. W. 706. A statement of facts with instructions to the clerk to copy into it certain omitted orders is insufficient. Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 879, 91 S. W. 588. A skeleton bill calling for the insertion of testimony which is not filed in but accompanied by a transcript will not be considered. State v. Walker, 194 Mo. 367, 91 S. W. 899.

26. Papers attached at the end of the bill of exceptions and before the certificate are sufficiently identified. Taylor v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 474. Failure of the clerk to attach the statement of facts to the bill of exceptions to which it relates will not prevent consideration where the connection between them is clear. State v. Williams, 116 La. 61, 40 So. 531.

27. Original documents sent up without an order therefor and not in any way referred to or identified by the certificate will not be considered. Schweir v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 559, 94 S. W. 1049. The instructions in the transcript must be identified by the bill of exceptions. Commonwealth v. Campbell, 28 Ky. L. R. 1354, 91 S. W. 1128.

28. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771.

29. State v. Green, 115 La. 1041, 40 So. 451.

30. Certificate of stenographer that transcript contains all "oral" evidence insufficient. Commonwealth v. Campbell, 28 Ky. L. R. 1354, 91 S. W. 1128. Certificate held to of exceptions identifying them are authorized in some states.[31] If a bill of exceptions is taken in the statement of facts, the evidence explanatory thereof must appear in immediate connection therewith and the court will not search the entire statement.[32] While the perpetuation of evidence in the form of question and answer is authorized by statute, the narrative form is likewise proper and is ordinarily the better practice.[33] Service of proposed bill and notice of settlement is usually required.[34] The special bill of exceptions authorized by statute must be complete in itself without reference to the regular bill.[35] Bill of exceptions is construed against exceptor.[36] To support a bill attested by bystanders it must appear by the bill or the record that the judge refused to approve it.[37]

Form, transmission, and filing.—Bill of exceptions should state the facts and not inferences or the judge's conclusions.[38] In Louisiana it is proper for the judge to state in his per curiam any matters rendering harmless the ruling stated in the bill,[39] but the statements in a bill of exception made with the approval of the court at the time of its reservation prevail over the per curiam.[40] The bill or transcript must be prepared in a legible manner[41] with indexes and marginal notes[42] served[43] and filed within the time limited.[44] The docket entries should be printed in the paper book.[45] The Indiana statute relating to consideration of original bills certified up has no application to a prosecution commenced prior to such statute.[46] Supreme court will order return without payment of clerk's fees if defendant is unable to pay.[47]

Sufficiency of "record" to present particular questions.[48]—Since every presumption favors the correctness of the ruling below,[49] it is necessary to present error that the record show not only the ruling complained of, and objection and exception thereto,[50] but sufficient of the evidence and proceedings to affirmatively establish make of record stenographer's notes of testimony taken by court on preliminary issue of competence of evidence. State v. May [Conn.] 64 A. 833.

31. A certificate of evidence and a separate bill of exceptions referring thereto and making it part of the record is sufficient to bring in the evidence. State v. Legg [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 545.

32. Stephens v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 937, 93 S. W. 545; Schweir v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 559, 94 S. W. 1049.

33. St. Clair v. State [Tex. Cr. App] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 236, 92 S. W. 1095.

34. A bill sufficiently showing the facts will be considered though it does not appear that it was submitted to the district attorney before signature. State v. Stockett, 115 La. 743, 39 So. 1000. Service of proposed bill of exceptions does not satisfy requirement of notice of presentation for settlement. State v. Kremer [Mont.] 85 P. 736. The requirement of two days' notice of presentation of bill of exceptions for settlement under Pen. Code § 2171, and Acts 1903, c. 34, § 1, is mandatory. State v. Kremer [Mont.] 85 P. 736; State v. Morrison [Mont.] 85 P. 738.

35. Colson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 183.

36. Moore v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 345.

37. Weatherford v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 591.

38. State v. Rodriguez, 115 La. 1004, 40 So. 438.

39. State v. Goodson, 116 La. 388, 40 So. 771.

40. State v. Williams, 116 La. 61, 40 So. 531.

41. A dim carbon copy of the bill of exceptions will not be considered. Teston v. State, 50 Fla. 137, 138, 39 So. 787.

42. Case involving sufficiency of evidence will not be considered if rule requiring index and marginal notes in transcript is not complied with. Tisdale v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 324.

43. Brief and transcript must be served on the attorney general. State v. Miles, 11 Idaho, 784, 83 P. 697.

44. Parties are not entitled to rely on the mails in transmission of bills of exceptions. Walker v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 245, 91 S. W. 229. Filing of transcript within prescribed 60 days is jurisdictional. Commonwealth v. Barbour, 29 Ky. L. R. 622, 94 S. W. 634.

45. Commonwealth v. Plinik, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 285.

46. State v. Thompson [Ind.] 78 N. E. 328.

47. Laws 1903, c. 333, § 10, not applicable. State v. Fellows [Minn.] 107 N. W. 542.

48. See 5 C. L. 1869.

49. Presumed that special judge presiding was properly appointed. Reese v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 678. It will be presumed that a conflicting term had been so adjourned that the court lawfully sat on a day when proceedings in the cause were had. State v. Cotterel [Idaho] 86 P. 527. It will be presumed that documents put in evidence were that error was committed. Where there is no bill of exceptions or statement of facts, only error apparent of record can be considered.[51] read to the jury. People v. Wolf, 183 N. Y. 464, 76 N. E. 592.

50. Norton v. State [Wis.] 109 N. W. 531; State v. Briggs [W. Va.] 52 S. E. 218. A statement in the record at the end of a cross-examination that during its progress objections were made and exceptions taken is insufficient. Grabowski v. State, 126 Wis. 447, 105 N. W. 805. Must show what objection was made to evidence. Jones v. State, 125 Ga. 307, 54 S. E. 122. Must show that the exceptions were taken in due time. Moore v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 345. Recital after ruling that defendant "accepted it" does not show an exception. Bondman v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 85.

51. State v. White, 40 Wash. 428, 82 P. 743; Kelly v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 795.

Validity of ordinance cannot be considered unless it is in the record. Ferlita v. Jones [Fla.] 39 So. 593. Unless the record shows that a special plea was brought to the attention of the court and evidence introduced in support of it, it will be presumed to have been abandoned. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409.

Plea of former conviction not reviewed without statement of facts. Bennett v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 508, 92 S. W. 417. Neither refusal of continuance nor denial of new trial will be reviewed in the absence of a statement of facts. State v. Bush, 41 Wash. 13, 82 P. 1024. Record must show motion for continuance and what was expected to be proved by absent witnesses. Rogers v. State, 144 Ala. 32, 40 So. 572.

Selection of jury: A bill of exceptions to the refusal of the county court to allow a panel of more than six must show that there were more than that many names in the jury box. Hackleman v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 91 S. W. 591.

Motion to quash not considered where motion is not in the record unless the information is bad on its face. State v. Finley, 193 Mo. 202, 91 S. W. 942.

Motions based on matter dehors the record and not presented by bill of exceptions cannot be reviewed. Morrow v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 765.

Ruling on demurrer not in record not reviewed. Bentley v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 649. Defects of the indictment which by statute must be raised by special exception are not available on a record showing that a demurrer was entered but not the grounds thereof. Coleman v. State [Miss.] 40 So. 230.

Admission of evidence: Admission of evidence not reviewed unless the evidence admitted is in the record. State v. Cook, 117 La. 114, 41 So. 434. Objection to admission of ordinance cannot be considered where the ordinance is not set out and an attempted explanation appended by the court does not supply the defect. Vann v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 251, 94 S. W. 224. Bill of exceptions to admission of evidence of acts between accused and a woman held not to show that it was not the woman with whom the indictment charged adultery. Counts v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 142, 94 S. W. 220. It will be presumed that the instructions limited the use of evidence to the purpose for which it was admissible. Farmer v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1168, 91 S. W. 682. Whether the admissibility of proof of the giving of certain information to accused depended on whether it was given before or after a certain transaction, a bill to the admission of such proof which fails to show when the information was given is insufficient. Henderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 570, 91 S. W. 569. Where the record shows only the admission of confessions, it will be presumed that the court properly ascertained that they were voluntary. Whatley v. State, 144 Ala. 68, 39 So. 1014. Where the record shows only that a witness of tender years was permitted to testify without oath, it will be presumed that the trial court was satisfied on proper examination that he was incapable of appreciating the meaning of an oath. People v. Johnson, 185 N. Y. 219, 77 N. E. 1164; People v. Donohue, 100 N. Y. S. 202.

Exclusion of evidence: Exclusion of evidence will not be reviewed where foundation is necessary and record does not contain all the evidence. State v. Conklin, 47 Or. 509, 84 P. 482. Bill of exceptions to exclusion of evidence that certain property near that stolen was not taken held not to show that such property was so necessarily visible to the thief that the evidence could be relevant. Bernal v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 581, 95 S. W. 118. Bill to exclusion of testimony must show purpose for which it was offered. Cranfill v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 404, 92 S. W. 846. Bill to overruling of objection to question must show the answer. State v. Le Blanc, 116 La. 822, 41 So. 105; Holmes v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 569; Commonwealth v. Joy, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 445. Assignment on rejection of document not printed not considered. Commonwealth v. Pearl, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 307. Record showing merely that witnesses whose names were not on information were sworn as witnesses for the people does not import that they gave material testimony against defendant. People v. Fisher, 144 Mich. 570, 13 Det. Leg. N. 346, 108 N. W. 280. Where an overt act by deceased was shown but not its relation in time or circumstance to the homicide, exclusion of evidence of threats cannot be reviewed. State v. Warren, 117 La. 84, 41 So. 361.

Sufficiency of evidence not reviewed unless there is a statement of facts. State v. Sikes [Ala.] 41 So. 777; Henderson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 794; Morales v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 95 S. W. 125. Unless bill of exceptions purports to set it all out. Pearson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 733. Where neither the evidence nor the instructions are in the record, it will be presumed that the evidence sustained the verdict and that the case was properly submitted to the jury. Clements v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 432.

Variance: That an alleged forged writing was variant from the indictment cannot be considered where the writing is not in the record. Bolton v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 409.

Judicial notice will not be taken of the adjournment of terms of the trial court.[52]

Amendment and correction.—After filing in supreme court, record can only be changed by leave of court.[53] Supplemental statement of facts if properly filed will be considered.[54] The supreme court has no power to require additional facts not appearing by the bill of exceptions to be certified up.[55] Where the minute entries are deficient, the court may remand the case for correction or a certiorari may issue.[56]

(§ 17) G. Practice and procedure in reviewing court.[57]—Where there is no appearance or brief, the court will not examine the record for errors of law except in a capital case.[58] Exceptions to bring up rulings adverse to the state is a "criminal case" in which the attorney general is authorized to appear.[59] A single justice of the supreme court has no power to permit defendant in charge of an officer to examine the records of the court below that he may act as his own attorney on appeal.[60]

Assignments, briefs, etc.[61]—Assignment of the specific errors complained of is generally required[62] and an assignment to several rulings is unavailing if any one is good.[63] Assignments of error cannot be supplied by amendment of the bill of exceptions in the supreme court.[64] Assignment of error on admission of evidence

Remark of court: Whether the court erred in saying to a witness that he was asked only for his opinion cannot be determined unless the record shows the subject-matter of the inquiry. Lingerfelt v. State, 125 Ga. 4, 53 S. E. 803. Must set out testimony in respect to which it is objected that improper argument was made. Scott v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 81 S. W. 47. If the record shows improper argument by prosecuting attorney, it need not negative provocation thereof by defendant's counsel. Flynn v. People, 222 Ill. 303, 78 N. E. 617.

Instructions presumed to be supported by evidence when evidence is not in the record. Von Haller v. State [Neb.] 107 N. W. 233. Instructions not reviewed when evidence is not in the record. Sly v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 576. Bill must contain sufficient statement of facts to show pertinency of charges whose refusal is complained of. State v. Cook, 117 La. 114, 41 So. 434. Instructions refused not reviewed where evidence is not in the record. Stoudermire v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 48. Record showing that refusal was endorsed on requests for instructions sufficiently shows that the requests were in writing. Carter v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 82. Record held not to show that there was any evidence requiring charge of self-defense. State v. Williams, 116 La. 61, 40 So. 531. Refusal of instructions not reviewed unless evidence appears. Colson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 183; Dunn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 91 S. W. 224. Instructions alleged to have been erroneously refused must appear either in the motion for new trial or in the bill of exceptions. Freeman v. State, 50 Fla. 38, 39 So. 785. Requests for instructions not in bill of exceptions not considered. Woodall v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 718. Refusal of an instruction as to circumstantial evidence will not be reviewed in the absence of the evidence. State v. Kremer [Mont.] 85 P. 736. Where error is claimed in not deferring sentence two days after verdict, the record must show that the court remained in session that long. State v. Lu Sing [Mont.] 85 P. 521.

Motion for new trial: Matters which must be saved by motion for new trial cannot be considered unless the motion is preserved by bill of exceptions. Instructions and evidence. State v. Modlin, 197 Mo. 376, 95 S. W. 345. Denial of motion for new trial cannot be reviewed where there is neither bill of exceptions nor statement of facts. Ferrell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 538.

Motion in arrest not considered where neither motion nor ruling thereon is in record. State v. Finley, 193 Mo. 202, 91 S. W. 942.

52. State v. Cotterel [Idaho] 86 P. 527.
53. State v. Feeley, 194 Mo. 300, 92 S. W. 663.
54. Wolf v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 742.
55. Evans v. Forsyth [Ga.] 55 S. E. 490.
56. State v. Lee, 116 La. 607, 40 So. 914.
57. See 5 C. L. 1871.
58. People v. Sing, 2 Cal. App. 731, 84 P. 242.
59. Rev. St. 1899, § 99. State v. Cornwell, 14 Wyo. 526, 85 P. 977.
60. People v. Collins [Cal.] 86 P. 895.
61. See 5 C. L. 1871.
62. Assignments of error in instructions not setting out the instructions complained of in full as required by rule will not be considered. State v. Morrison [Mont.] 85 P. 738. Assignment to admission of evidence must show the objection. Smoot v. State, 125 Ga. 30, 53 S. E. 809.
63. Perdue v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 820. Assignment of error to refusal of several chargee not considered if any one is properly refused. Maloy v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 791. Where error is assigned on the denial of a motion based on several grounds, only those grounds which are argued will be considered. Colson v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 183.

must point out the page and line of the transcript where the ruling is shown.[65] Errors not specified in the reasons of appeal and inconsistent with those specified not considered.[66] Except as to fundamental errors[67] the brief must specifically point out[68] and argue[69] the error complained of, and assignments not argued are deemed to be waived.[70] Case involving sufficiency of evidence will not be considered if rule requiring statement of facts in brief is not complied with.[71]

Dismissal,[72] if timely moved for,[73] is the proper remedy in case of failure or delay in taking and perfecting the appeal[74] or fatal defect in the record.[75] Where the time for appealing has not expired, the court will dismiss rather than affirm for failure to comply with rule as to form of record and briefs.[76] Appeal abates on defendant's death.[77] Where the exceptions are in proper form, whether they present only questions of fact will not be determined on motion to dismiss.[78] Where an appeal was abandoned with full knowledge of the facts, it will not be reinstated.[79]

Rehearing[80] will not be allowed merely to reargue points decided.[81]

(§ 17) H. Scope of review.[82]—The supreme court cannot entertain a motion for a new trial for newly-discovered evidence.[83] The hearing will not be suspended to allow a motion for new trial below for newly-discovered evidence unless it is clear that the ends of justice require it.[84] An order denying a motion in arrest is reviewable on appeal from the judgment.[85] Abstract question will not be decided,[86] nor will the constitutionality of a statute be passed on if the case can be otherwise decided.[87] Where the evidence and not the facts are certified, the case stands as on demurrer to the evidence.[88]

64. Winn v. State, 124 Ga. 811, 53 S. E. 318.

65. Miller v. State, 165 Ind. 566, 76 N. E. 245.

66. State v. May [Conn.] 64 A. 833.

67. Insufficiency of information will be considered though not pointed out by counsel. State v. James, 194 Mo. 268, 92 S. W. 679.

68. Brief failing to point out the specific ruling complained of will not be considered. State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629, 82 P. 873.

69. A general statement in the brief that all the instructions requested by appellant were erroneously refused is not sufficient argument to call for an examination of the instructions. People v. Howard [Cal. App.] 84 P. 462. Where the sufficiency of the indictment is not questioned, a general statement in defendant's brief of the nature of the charge is sufficient. State v. Roberts [Ind.] 77 N. E. 1093. Assignments of error restated but not argued in the brief will not be examined further than to read the part of the record pertaining thereto to see if it presents patent error. Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385.

70. Trombley v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 976; State v. Wetter, 11 Idaho, 433, 83 P. 341; Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31; Cameron v. Territory, 16 Okl. 634, 86 P. 68; Mayson v. State, 124 Ga. 789, 53 S. E. 321.

71. Tisdale v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 324.

72. See 5 C. L. 1872.

73. Where certiorari was issued without hearing reserving the right to question the appropriateness of the remedy, objection at the hearing is timely. Chapman v. Justice Ct. of Tonopah Tp. [Nev.] 86 P. 552.

74. Failure to make timely service of summons in error is properly raised by motion to dismiss, not by demurrer to the petition in error. Force v. State, 14 Wyo. 296, 83 P. 596. Attorney general held not estopped to move for dismissal of writ of error not sued out in time. O'Donnell v. State, 126 Wis. 599, 106 N. W. 18. Failure to serve brief and transcript on attorney general ground for dismissal. State v. Miles, 11 Idaho, 784, 83 P. 697. If the case is brought up in a manner subject to limitation of time, it is no answer to a motion to dismiss for failure to proceed within such limitation that a method not subject thereto might have been chosen. Force v. State, 14 Wyo. 296, 83 P. 596.

75. Failure of transcript to show service of notice of appeal. People v. Brown, 148 Cal. 743, 84 P. 204.

76. Tisdale v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 324.

77. Commonwealth v. Crowley, 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 618. Appeal by the state will be dismissed on proof of the death of defendant. State v. Rogers, 117 La. 155, 41 So. 477.

78, 79. State v. Johnson [S. C.] 54 S. E. 601.

80. See 5 C. L. 1872.

81. People v. Patrick, 183 N. Y. 52, 75 N. E. 963.

82. See 5 C. L. 1872.

83. State v. Lilliston [N. C.] 54 S. E. 427.

84. State v. Johnson [S. C.] 54 S. E. 601.

85. People v. Feld [Cal.] 86 P. 1100. An order denying a motion in arrest is an intermediate order reviewable on appeal from the judgment. State v. Beeskove [Mont.] 85 P. 376.

86. Appeal by state from order quashing jury panel, it appearing that accused cannot in any event be tried before such panel. State v. Henderson, 73 S. C. 201, 53 S. E. 170.

87. Constitutionality of the statute on

Law of the case.[89] — Matters decided on a former appeal will not be again considered,[90] and decision of the United States supreme court on a Federal question is binding on the state court in future consideration of the case.[91] The ruling on demurrer to the indictment is the law of the case and rulings at the trial based on the same view of the law will not be reviewed.[92]

Rulings on matters within the discretion of the trial court,[93] such as rulings on motion for change of venue[94] or continuance,[95] ordering trial at special term,[96] refusal to quash the indictment,[97] rulings on qualification of jurors,[98] conduct of trial in general,[99] competency[1] and examination of witnesses,[2] rulings on the primary admissibility of evidence,[3] imposition of costs,[4] and in some states rulings on motion for new trial,[5] will be disturbed only for abuse of such discretion; and the Kentucky rule that ruling on motion for new trial will not be reviewed applies to all objections first made on the motion for new trial.[6]

On questions of fact,[7] the finding of the trial judge is conclusive unless plainly erroneous.[8] In like manner, the verdict of the jury will be sustained if there is which the prosecution is based will not be considered where the information is fatally defective. Pressley v. State, 124 Ga. 446, 52 S. E. 750.

88. Johnson v. Com., 104 Va. 881, 52 S. E. 625.

89. See 5 C. L. 1876, n. 59.

90. Rawlins v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 924. Decision on former appeal that indictment is sufficient. State v. Campbell [Kan.] 85 P. 784.

91. State v. Keerl [Mont.] 85 P. 862.

92. Matthews v. State, 125 Ga. 248, 54 S. E. 192.

93. See 5 C. L. 1873.

94. Regan v. State, 87 Miss. 422, 39 So. 1002; Sweet v. State [Neb.] 106 N. W. 31. As to existence of local prejudice requiring change of venue. Lucas v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 976; Young v. State, 125 Ga. 584, 54 S. E. 82. Selection of county to which venue is changed. Murphy v. District Ct. [N. D.] 105 N. W. 728.

95. State v. Sultan [N. C.] 54 S. E. 841; State v. Wetter, 11 Idaho, 433, 83 P. 341. Will not be disturbed unless it works injustice. State v. Johnson, 116 La. 30, 40 So. 521.

96. Finding that an emergency existed under Ky. St. 1903, § 964, so that a criminal case should be tried at a term not devoted to criminal business, not disturbed in the absence of abuse of discretion. Powers v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 277, 92 S. W. 975.

97. Refusal to quash an indictment is subject to review but will be set aside only for abuse of discretion. Commonwealth v. Edmiston, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 54.

98. McCrimmon v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 481; Leigh v. Territory [Ariz.] 85 P. 948; Leaptrot v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 616.

99. Order of proof. Pittman v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 385. Discharge of juror. People v. Parker [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 581, 108 N. W. 999; Jones v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 592, 95 S. W. 1044. Allowing separation of jury. State v. Williams, 96 Minn. 351, 105 N. W. 265.

1. Competency of youthful witness. Young v. State, 125 Ga. 584, 54 S. E. 82.

2. Allowing leading questions. State v. Cambron [S. D.] 105 N. W. 241; State v. Bateman, 198 Mo. 212, 94 S. W. 843. Discretion held abused. State v. Hazlett [N. D.] 105 N. W. 617.

3. Ruling that no hostile demonstration is shown as foundation for proof of threats not disturbed in the absence of abuse of discretion. State v. Rambo, 117 La. 78, 41 So. 359; State v. Feazell, 116 La. 264, 40 So. 698.

4. Setting aside imposition of costs against defendant on acquittal. Commonwealth v. Chartier's R. Co., 28 Pa. Super. Ct. 173.

5. Brown v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1335, 92 S. W. 542; Frederick v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 915; Jackson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 178; Dawson v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 803; Grant v. State [Ala.] 40 So. 80; Coker v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 303. On conflicting affidavits as to misconduct of juror, the finding of the trial court will not ordinarily be disturbed. Trombley v. State [Ind.] 78 N. E. 976. Ruling on motion for new trial for prejudice of jurors. Hall v. State, 124 Ga. 649, 52 S. E. 891.

6. Elliott v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 48, 91 S. W. 1136.

7. See 5 C. L. 1874.

8. Finding on conflicting evidence as to misconduct of bailiff. Tolbirt v. State, 124 Ga. 467, 53 S. E. 327. Proof of venue is a matter of fact within the rule that decision on matters of fact will be reluctantly interfered with. State v. Crowley [S. D.] 108 N. W. 491. Finding on conflicting affidavit that juror did not make declaration showing prejudice. State v. Smith [Iowa] 109 N. W. 115. Conflicting affidavits as to misconduct of juror. State v. Storm [Kan.] 86 P. 145. Ruling on motion for new trial involving only issues of fact cannot be reviewed. State v. Warren, 117 La. 84, 41 So. 361; State v. Ashworth, 117 La. 212, 41 So. 550. Conflicting affidavits as to false answer by juror on voir dire. People v. Hoffman, 142 Mich. 531, 12 Det. Leg. N. 805, 105 N. W. 838. Finding on conflicting affidavits that attorney assisting prosecution was qualified. People v. Harris, 144 Mich. 12, 13 Det. Leg. N. 139, 107 N. W. 715. The denial of a new trial will be taken as a finding against defendant, on conflicting affidavits as to misconduct of the prosecuting attorney. State v. Campbell [Kan.] 85 P. 784. An order granting a new trial will not be reversed on appeal by the any evidence to support,[9] or where the evidence is conflicting,[10] or its determination involves the credibility of witnesses,[11] though the greater number of witnesses supported defendant's contention;[12] appellate courts being generally without power to review questions of fact.[13] Where there is no evidence of guilt, denial of new trial is error of law.[14] Stronger case must be made to reverse grant than denial of new trial.[15] Where only written evidence was submitted below, it may be reviewed de novo.[16] In Alabama the findings of the county court sitting without a jury cannot be reviewed.[17] The Alabama Act of 1898, providing that findings of the Clay county court without a jury shall be reviewed by the supreme court without any presumption in favor of the finding, applies only where all the testimony is before the supreme court.[18]

(§ 17) I. Decision and judgment of the reviewing court.[19]—The supreme court of the Philippine Islands has power to reverse and convict of a higher degree than was found below.[20] Where it appears that there was no judgment below, the submission will be set aside and the case remanded for entry of judgment.[21] Where the only error is an unauthorized sentence, the case will be remanded for resentence.[22] Where the judgment is void, the court will remand for entry of a proper one.[23] A conviction of an offense not included in the indictment cannot be sustained.[24] Neither costs nor disbursements can be taxed either for or against the state on appeal.[25] On reversal of a sentence entered on a plea of guilty, a new trial will be ordered as on other reversals.[26] Where a former reversed conviction of manslaughter precludes conviction of any greater offense, a conviction of murder will be sustained as one for manslaughter, and the case remanded with direction to sentence for the latter offense.[27] state where the ground does not appear and it might have been proved to have granted it on the evidence. State v. Driskell [Idaho] 85 P. 499. Whether the evidence conformed to the bill of particulars, held a question of fact not open to review. State v. Rabb, 115 La. 733, 39 So. 971.

9. Where there is evidence reasonably tending to support the verdict, the supreme court will not weigh the evidence or consider the credibility of witnesses. Huff v. Territory, 15 Okl. 376, 85 P. 241. Only when no evidence to support. People v. Mahatch, 148 Cal. 200, 82 P. 779. Where there is any substantial evidence. Territory v. Neatherlin [N. M.] 85 P. 1044; Hestand v. Com., 28 Ky. L. R. 1315, 92 S. W. 12; State v. Maloney, 115 La. 498, 39 So. 539; Hill v. State, 124 Ga. 141, 52 S. E. 322; Adkins v. State, 124 Ga. 437, 52 S. E. 656; Johnson v. State, 124 Ga. 437, 52 S. E. 656; Spivey v. State, 124 Ga. 437, 62 S. E. 656; Mahoney v. State, 124 Ga. 794, 53 S. E. 102; Dunham v. State, 124 Ga. 652, 52 S. E. 890; Givins v. State, 124 Ga. 655, 52 S. E. 890; Grant v. State, 125 Ga. 281, 54 S. E. 182; Flowers v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 811; Young v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 477; Stocks v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 478; Wright v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 167. Evidence wholly insufficient. Forrester v. State, 125 Ga. 28, 53 S. E. 767; Brown v. State, 125 Ga. 8, 53 S. E. 767. Failed to show whether sale of liquor was before finding of indictment. Bragg v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 232.

10. State v. Mulhólland [Iowa] 105 N. W. 111; Lamps v. State [Fla.] 40 So. 180. Conflicting evidence as to place of crime. People v. Lipp, 111 App. Div. 504, 98 N. Y. S. 86.

11. State v. Pingel, 128 Iowa, 515, 105 N. W. 58. Cannot reverse where there is any evidence to sustain the verdict, though the preponderance may be against the verdict. Powers v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 277, 92 S. W. 975.

12. Miller v. Territory, 15 Okl. 422, 85 P. 239. Though only one witness for prosecution and six for defense. Glover v. U. S. [Ind. T.] 91 S. W. 41.

13. State v. Johnson [S. C.] 54 S. E. 601; In re Baurens, 117 La. 136, 41 So. 442; State v. Dartez, 117 La. 213, 41 So. 653.

14. State v. Clardy, 73 S. C. 340, 53 S. E. 493.

15. State v. Crowley [S. D.] 108 N. W. 491.

16. Proceeding to bind over to keep the peace. Fitzpatrick v. People [Colo.] 86 P. 650.

17. Mayhall v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 290.

18. Holmes v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 569.

19. See 5 C. L. 1875.

20. Trono v. U. S., 199 U. S. 521, 50 Law. Ed. 292.

21. State v. Clapper, 196 Mo. 42, 93 S. W. 384.

22. Irvin v. State [Fla.] 41 So. 785.

23. Insufficient statement of nature of conviction. In re Howard, 72 Kan. 273, 83 P. 1032.

24. People v. Huson, 99 N. Y. S. 1081.

25. State v. Tetu [Minn.] 108 N. W. 470. Defendant's appeal costs held taxable against state. State v. Rutledge, 40 Wash. 9, 82 P. 126.

26. This may be done when the case is up on error and certiorari or even on cer-

(§ 17) J. Proceedings after reversal and remand.[28]—The court below has no power before remand[29] and no discretion with respect to matters embraced by the mandate.[30] Where on appeal from the judgment it is reversed without ordering new trial, defendant cannot be discharged without a showing as to the disposition of an appeal taken from the order denying a new trial.[31] Under a statute providing that on reversal without ordering new trial the appellate court shall direct defendant's discharge, the lower court has no power to so direct.[32] The decisions are conflicting as to whether after reversal of conviction of manslaughter on indictment for murder a higher offense can be found on retrial.[33] Accused cannot after release on habeas corpus recover back costs paid.[34]

§ 18. Summary prosecutions and review thereof.[35]—Prosecution for violation of city ordinance is deemed civil in Michigan.[36] The legislature may provide for the summary trial of petty offenses,[37] and, unless the jurisdiction of constitutional courts is interfered with, may create courts for the trial thereof.[38] Justice of the peace in New Jersey has no power to act as borough recorder and conviction before him as acting recorder is void.[39] A justice of the peace cannot hold court outside of the township in which he resides and was elected, and such authority is not conferred by consent of the accused.[40] Trial by one magistrate of a person bound over to appear for trial before another, without order for transfer of the case, is a nullity.[41] The practice in the criminal court of Atlanta is not governed by the act relating to city courts.[42] Whether change of venue is allowed depends on local statutes.[43] Summary prosecutions are usually initiated by affidavit or complaint, and while these have been held to be within the guaranteed right to be informed of the nature of the accusation,[44] much liberality is exercised as to their form and sufficiency.[45] Prosecution before justice abates on his death.[46] The provision in tiorari alone. People v. Scofield, 142 Mich. 221, 12 Det. Leg. N. 654, 105 N. W. 610.

27. People v. Farrell [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 777, 109 N. W. 440.

28. See 5 C. L. 1876.

29. All proceedings before remand, void. Edwards v. State, 125 Ga. 5, 53 S. E. 579.

30. After affirmance the court below has no power to entertain a motion for new trial for newly-discovered evidence. State v. Adams, 73 S. C. 435, 53 S. E. 538.

31, 32. Ex parte Ballard [Cal.] 84 P. 832.

33. That conviction for higher degree cannot be had. Ex parte Vickery [Fla.] 40 So. 77; People v. Farrell [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 777, 109 N. W. 440. Contra. State v. Matthews [N. C.] 55 S. E. 342.

34. Tribble v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 183.

35. See 5 C. L. 1876.

36. People v. Smith [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 1068, 109 N. W. 411.

37. Pearson v. Wimbish, 124 Ga. 701, 52 S. E. 751.

38. Legislature may create city police courts and give them exclusive jurisdiction of local misdemeanors. State v. Baskerville [N. C.] 53 S. E. 742. Section 6454, Revised Statutes, giving the probate court in certain counties concurrent jurisdiction with the common pleas in all misdemeanors and proceedings to prevent crime, is not unconstitutional for lack of uniform operation. Oberer v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 93.

39. Borough of Vineland v. Kelk [N. J. Law] 63 A. 5.

40. Ex parte Boswell, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 555.

41. State v. Spray [S. C.] 54 S. E. 600.

42. Mitchell v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 931.

43. Mayor issuing warrant for destruction of intoxicants held to be acting under Acts 1899, p. 11, and not under Kirby's Dig. § 5586, and, accordingly, change of venue is not allowed. Betts v. Ward [Ark.] 95 S. W. 148. One is entitled to change of venus for bias of police judge. City of Sioux Falls v. Neeb [S. D.] 105 N. W. 735.

44. Constitutional provision that accused shall have the right to demand the nature of the accusation applies. Telheard v. Bay St. Louis, 87 Miss. 580, 40 So. 326.

45. A summons defectively charging an offense against a municipal ordinance may be amended. Commonwealth v. Price, 29 Ky. L. R. 593, 94 S. W. 32. An ordinance providing that trials before the recorder should be conducted in the same manner as cases before a justice of the peace does not adopt the requirement that informations be verified by the prosecuting attorney. City of Kirksville v. Munyon, 114 Mo. App. 567, 91 S. W. 57. A verification of a criminal complaint on information and belief is sufficient for every purpose except the issuing of the warrant for arrest (Cameron v. Territory, 16 Okl. 634, 86 P. 68), and an appearance and pleading to the merits waives such defect (Id.). Preliminary affidavit under Alabama practice need not be signed. Holman v. State [Ala.] 39 So. 646. Ordinances need not be alleged by title and date of passage where the prosecution is in a court taking judicial notice of ordinances. Ex parte Luening [Cal. App.] 84 P. 445. Where the information

Georgia for "committal trials" looks only to binding over the accused and it cannot be demanded at the time set for a trial of the merits.[47]

Review.[48]—The right of appeal[49] and the courts having cognizance thereof[50] depend on statute, as do the proceedings to obtain review, the requisites of the record,[51] and the extent of review.[52]

In Georgia the decisions of the city courts are reviewed by certiorari.[53]

INDORSING PAPERS; INFAMOUS CRIMES, see latest topical index.

does not show sufficient facts and the deposition of the informant was not taken, accused should be discharged. Ex parte Connor [Cal. App.] 84 P. 999. Accusation of violation at a specified time and place of an ordinance designated by number and section insufficient. Telheard v. Bay St. Louis, 87 Miss. 580, 40 So. 326. Accusation in the name of the "Citizens" instead of the "State" of Georgia held good. Mitchell v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 931. While it is better practice for the accusation to show that it is based on affidavit, it is sufficient if the affidavit appears on the record. Id. Complaint by police officer in municipal court of Milwaukee held sufficient under statute, though ordinance provides for complaint by prosecuting attorney. Morgenroth v. Milwaukee [Wis.] 105 N. W. 47. The act of 1891, requiring accusations in the city court of Atlanta to be signed by the "solicitor general," means the solicitor of such court and not the solicitor general of the superior court. Mitchell v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 931. It is not necessary that the information required under Rev. St. § 6455 in prosecutions before the probate court shall be sworn to, and the preliminary affidavit is sufficient to carry the matter through all the courts. Oberer v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 93.

46. State v. Miesen, 96 Minn. 466, 105 N. W. 555.

47. Mitchell v. State [Ga.] 54 S. E. 931. Complaint in criminal court of Atlanta can be verified before notary public. Id.

48. See 5 C. L. 1877.

49. Proceeding for statutory trespass held criminal, so that appeal lies from justice to circuit court irrespective of the amount of the fine. Jernigan v. Com., 104 Va. 850, 52 S. E. 361. Allowance of appeal discretionary. Commonwealth v. Yocum, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 428. Statute denying appeal where fine of $10 or less is imposed held valid. City of Chattanooga v. Keith, 115 Tenn. 588, 94 S. W. 62.

50. If averments of petition for appeal are sufficient to give jurisdiction, allowance thereof will be sustained. Commonwealth v. Ralston, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 426.

51. Magistrate is bound to file in appellate court a written report of his proceedings. State v. Spray [S. C.] 54 S. E. 600. The record must show a conviction. Record held not to show conviction. City of Bridgeton v. Pierce [N. J. Law] 64 A. 693.

52. Acts 1896-97, p. 330, § 12, providing that the decision of the city court without a jury on evidence shall be reviewed without any presumption in its favor applies to criminal cases (Tony v. State, 144 Ala. 87, 40 So. 388), but on such review the decision will not be disturbed unless it is plainly erroneous (Id.). Where the mayor has final jurisdiction, the evidence will be reviewed on error. Koch v. State, 73 Ohio St. 131, 76 N. E. 868. Supreme court will not set aside conviction supported by legal evidence. Harris v. Atlantic City [N. J. Law] 62 A. 995. Correction of docket entry as to style of case held harmless. Blodgett v. McVey [Iowa] 103 N. W. 239. The judgment of a mayor upon an issue presented by a plea in bar may, under the authority of § 6565, Rev. Statutes, be reviewed independently of the other issues of the case where presented upon a bill of exceptions containing the evidence upon this issue alone. Whitman v. State, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 334. Certified transcripts attached to a bill of exceptions, but not referred to in or made a part of the bill, cannot be considered by a reviewing court as a part of the bill. Id.

53. Defendant has three months from the dismissal of exceptions from the city court of Savannah to file certiorari to the superior court. Winn v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 178. Unless the act creating a city court prescribes the procedure for certiorari to the superior court, the procedure established by Civ. Code 1895, § 4637, is to be followed. Miller v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 405. Must appear that offense was within corporate limits. Martin v. Gainesville [Ga.] 55 S. E. 499. An accusation in the city court of Bainbridge being required to be founded on affidavit without providing before whom it shall be taken, it may be taken before a notary public. Shuler v. State, 125 Ga. 778, 54 S. E. 689. The requirement of an affidavit that accused has not had a fair trial as condition precedent to grant of certiorari to county court is mandatory. Blassingame v. State, 125 Ga. 293, 54 S. E. 180. Since superior courts do not judicially notice ordinances, the petition for certiorari must set out the ordinance on which the prosecution is based. Hill v. Atlanta, 125 Ga. 697, 54 S. E. 354. Petition for certiorari held to sufficiently show giving of bond. Stallworth v. Macon, 125 Ga. 250, 54 S. E. 142. Points made in a petition for certiorari not verified by the answer present nothing. Brown v. Gainesville, 125 Ga. 238, 53 S. E. 1002; Cooper v. Gainesville, 125 Ga. 240, 53 S. E. 1002; Manning v. Gainesville, 125 Ga. 239, 53 S. E. 1002. Where certiorari was dismissed on the petition, an amendment of the record by sending up the answer will not be ordered. Evans v. Forsyth [Ga.] 55 S. E. 490.

INFANTS.

§ 1. Status and Disabilities in General (267).
§ 2. Custody, Protection, Support, and Earnings (267).
§ 3. Statutes for the Protection of Infants (271). Crimes Against Children (272). Juvenile Courts (272).
§ 4. Property and Conveyances (272).
§ 5. Contracts (274).
§ 6. Torts (275).
§ 7. Crimes (276).
§ 8. Actions by and Against (276).

§ 1. Status and disabilities in general.[1]—Rights and duties as beween parent and child,[2] powers and proceedings of guardians,[3] and guardians ad litem,[4] are elsewhere treated, also the application to infants of the doctrines of contributory negligence[5] and assumption of risk.[6] Until the full time of their majority[7] or by statute till a female infant marries,[8] infants are the wards of chancery, both as regards their custody[9] and their property,[10] and are not sui juris. An infant cannot estop himself by contract[11] nor by mere silence[12] unless his conduct has been intentional and fraudulent,[13] nor will the acts of a guardian, without authority and in excess of his powers, with reference to his ward's estate, operate as an estoppel against infant wards.[14] Infancy is a personal privilege to be taken advantage of by the infant alone,[15] and cannot be exercised by assignees or privies in estate,[16] and may not be used to work a wrong.[17] The domicile of an infant's father at the time of the father's decease determines the domicile of the infant when his mother is living and no change in the status of the infant's mother after the death of the father occurs.[18] Infancy of a particular person at a particular time is a question of fact.[19] Disabilities cannot be cumulated one upon another.[20]

§ 2. Custody, protection, support, and earnings.[21]—The custody of children is primarily in the father if living[22] but the power to dispose of this right by will to the exclusion of the surviving mother no longer exists in New York.[23] The

1. See 6 C. L. 1.
2. See Parent and Child 6 C. L. 877.
3. See Guardianship, 7 C. L. 1899.
4. See Guardians Ad Litem and Next Friends, 7 C. L. 1896.
5. See Negligence, 6 C. L. 748.
6. See Master and Servant, 6 C. L. 521.
7. The fact that an infant is near full age renders him none the less a ward of the court. In re Stevens, 99 N. Y. S. 1070.
8. Marriage of an infant female emancipates her from the disability of minority (Lawder v. Larkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 809, 94 S. W. 171), but does not revoke a power coupled with an interest executed by her during infancy (Id.). Deed of trust containing power of sale held a power coupled with an interest. Id.
9. See post, § 2. See, also, Guardianship, 7 C. L. 1899.
10. See post, § 4.
11. Headley v. Hoopengarner [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 744.
12. Headley v. Hoopengarner [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 744; Harper v. Utsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 17, 97 S. W. 508.
13. Harper v. Utsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 17, 97 S. W. 508. When an infant has reached that stage of maturity which indicates that he is of full age and enters into a contract falsely representing himself to be of age, accepting the benefits of the contract, he will be estopped to deny that he is not of age when the obligation of the contract is sought to be enforced against him. Commander v. Brazil [Miss.] 41 So. 497.
14. Headley v. Hoopengarner [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 744.
15. Riley v. Dillon [Ala.] 41 So. 768. Stranger holding and asserting a hostile title to an infant held not entitled to assert the infant's privilege of infancy. Shaffer v. Detie, 191 Mo. 377, 90 S. W. 131.
16. Riley v. Dillon [Ala.] 41 So. 768.
17. Cole v. Manners [Neb.] 107 N. W. 777.
18. Nunn v. Robertson [Ark.] 97 S. W. 293.
19. Evidence held to establish attainment of majority by alleged infant at time of making contract. Lansing v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 143 Mich. 48, 12 Det. Leg. N. 912, 106 N. W. 692. Evidence held to show attainment of majority of alleged infant at time of execution of deed in question. Bryant v. McKinney, 29 Ky. L. R. 951, 96 S. W. 809.
20. Disability of infancy of parent of infant held not cumulative with the disability of such infant. Robinson v. Allison, 192 Mo. 366, 91 S. W. 115.
21. See 6 C. L. 1.
22. So now by statute (Laws 1896, c. 272) in New York. In re Kellogg, 110 App. Div. 472, 96 N. Y. S. 965.
23. In re Kellogg, 110 App. Div. 472, 96 N. Y. S. 965. An attempt to do so held not supportable as a trust over property of the children. Id.

father, however, has no proprietary right or interest in or to the custody of his children,[24] nor can he by arbitrarily or capriciously yielding their custody to another deprive the mother of her rights as such.[25] As between parents the mother is generally entitled to the custody of children of tender years, other things being equal,[26] and as against any other than the putative father, the mother of an illegitimate child has the natural right to its custody.[27] The rights of a parent to the custody and control of infant children may be forfeited by misconduct or voluntary relinquishment.[28] A parent's agreement to relinquish the custody of minor children is not, however, absolute and irrevocable,[29] but when a contention arises, much will depend on the character of the parties, the length of time elapsed, and the circumstances of the particular case.[30]

The courts of chancery generally have power to superintend the affairs of infants[31] and to provide permanently for their custody.[32]

In determining the right to the custody of a child, that which is for the best interest of the child will control,[33] but neither the rights of parents nor the rights and interests of those to whom the care and custody of infants have been surrendered will be ignored.[34] A court will not exercise its power to remove an infant citizen from the country by awarding it to the custody of a foreigner unless the proof is clear and satisfactory that the best interests of the child so require.[35] As

24. Maternal grandparent of ten-year old child held entitled to retain custody against claim of child's father. Coulter v. Sypert [Ark.] 95 S. W. 457.

25. Mother of infants held entitled to custody thereof as against a brother of their father in whose care they had been placed by the father with directions not to deliver to their mother. Ex parte Cannon [S. C.] 55 S. E. 325.

26. Mother held entitled to custody of nine months' old baby against claim of father under Rev. Codes 1899, § 2817. Michels v. Fennell [N. D.] 107 N. W. 53.

27. Mother of illegitimate child held not to have forfeited right to its custody. Hesselman v. Haas [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 165. Persons procuring possession of illegitimate child by answering advertisement offering it for adoption held not to have acquired any right to its possession as against the mother. Id.

28. Robertson v. Bass [Fla.] 42 So. 243. A mother having articled her children in Georgia to a stranger who has maintained them decently and lovingly, on a contest over their possession in Florida, the court need not inquire whether the Georgia statute governing apprenticeships has been strictly complied with, when the maternal right only is involved. Id.

29. Robertson v. Bass [Fla.] 42 So. 243.

30. Mother of infants held estopped to deny effect of her deed of them in apprenticeship. Robertson v. Bass [Fla.] 42 So. 243.

31. Hesselman v. Haas [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 165.

32. Hesselman v. Haas [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 165; Churchill v. Jackson, 125 Ga. 385, 53 S. E. 960. The jurisdiction of the question of the custody of a child on a writ of habeas corpus is of an equitable nature (Andrino v. Yates [Idaho] 87 P. 787), and courts have large discretion in the matter (Id.). In passing on questions raised in a habeas corpus case for the possession of minor children, the discretion given by the law is to the trial judge. Weathersby v. Jordan, 124 Ga. 68, 52 S. E. 83.

33. Mahon v. People, 218 Ill. 171, 75 N. E. 768; Weathersby v. Jordan, 124 Ga. 68, 52 S. E. 83; White v. Richeson [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 202. The court will have regard to natural relationship. Hesselman v. Haas [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 165. A parent who by conduct abandons or forfeits the legal right to custody of a child is equitably estopped from asserting the legal right. Andrino v. Yates [Idaho] 87 P. 787. Mother of infant held "unsuitable" for possession of child within Rev. St. 1887, § 5774, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 302. Id. Legal right of mother held abandoned, forfeited, or surrendered. Id. The question of education and wealth are proper matters for the consideration of the court in determining with whom the custody of a child shall vest as between persons having no vested interest in it (Mahon v. People, 218 Ill. 171, 75 N. E. 768), but they are not controlling (Id., rvg. 119 Ill. App. 497).

Evidence held to show that the best interests of a child whose custody was sought in habeas corpus proceedings by its foster parents, who had placed it in the custody of respondents with the ostensible purpose of leaving it with them permanently, required that it be allowed to remain with respondents. White v. Richeson [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 202.

34. In a controversy between a parent and a person to whom an infant child has been apprenticed by such parent, the rights of the parent, the rights and interests of the person to whom the care and custody of the infant has been intrusted, and the welfare of the child, are to be considered. Robertson v. Bass [Fla.] 42 So. 243.

35. Evidence held to show that the best interest of the child would be subserved by denying its custody to a foreign relative as against the claim of a citizen stranger. Ma-to the effect of and the authority of the courts to consult the predilections of infants concerning their custody, the decisions are inharmonious, some courts holding that the wishes of the child should be considered,[36] but in some jurisdictions this is denied.[37] It is held in Texas that the adoption of a child does not give the person adopting the child the right to custody thereof.[38] To constitute such abandonment by a parent as will deprive him of the right to prevent the adoption of his child, there must be some conduct on his part which evinces a settled purpose to forego all parental duties.[39]

A statutory provision for the award of the children of a marriage annulled on the ground of fraud or force to the innocent parent is inapplicable to marriages void ab initio.[40] Jurisdiction of custodial proceedings is at the place of the child's habitation.[41] Where a statute requires notice to parents of the surrender of a child to the court for disposition, both parents are included,[42] and the surrender of a child by its mother without notice to the father is a void act as to him, even though the complaint of the mother averred an abandonment of the child by the father.[43] A father cannot be deprived of his child without an adjudication by a court of competent jurisdiction that he has abandoned or deserted it or is unfit to have its custody and control,[44] the legislature having no power to deprive the father of all right or dominion over his child without an opportunity to be heard.[45] It is held in Illinois that habeas corpus for the custody of a child is a civil proceeding,[46] that an order of a court of competent jurisdiction therein disposing of the custody of a child is a final order,[47] and that persons charged with unlawfully withholding the custody of a child from petitioners in habeas corpus proceedings for the possession of the child are not only proper but necessary parties to the proceeding[48] who, on an adverse ruling, are entitled to have the record made against them in the trial court reviewed by writ of error.[49] The burden is on the claimant not of the blood or of kin seeking to remove the child from hon v. People, 218 Ill. 171, 75 N. E. 768, rvg. 119 Ill. App. 497. That a six year old girl is surrounded by working people, that she attends the public schools, and that it may become necessary for her to work in order to support and educate herself, does not show that her environment is un-American (Id.) or furnish any sound reason why her domicile should be changed by awarding her custody to an aunt residing in England whose only claim of benefiting the child is that she will be afforded better educational advantages and more flattering prospects of inheriting wealth (Id.).

36. It is a proper practice to consult a child as to its wishes and desires in regard to who should have custody thereof as between claimants (Andrino v. Yates [Idaho] 87 P. 787), not that the wishes of the child should control but that the court may more wisely exercise its discretion (Id.). Where a child is old enough to exercise judgment, its wishes should be considered in determining the question of the right to its custody. Louisiana Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children v. Tyler, 116 La. 425, 40 So. 784.

37. Child ten years of age. Hesselman v. Haas [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 165.

38. White v. Richeson [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 202.

39. Infant held not abandoned by father. State v. Wheeler [Wash.] 86 P. 394. Merely permitting the child to remain for a time undisturbed in the care of others is not such an abandonment. Id.

40. Marriage held void ab initio, within Rev. Codes 1899, § 2734, because of woman having living husband undivorced at time. Michels v. Finnell [N. D.] 107 N. W. 53.

41. Where a child is placed by a court in the custody of a society as the court's agent to find a home for the infant and it is placed by such society in the custody of another out of the court's jurisdiction, the courts of the place where the child is in custody are authorized to decide the question of the right to its custody. Louisiana Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children v. Tyler, 116 La. 425, 40 So. 784.

42, 43. Acts 1903, p. 60, c. 49, § 2, construed. State v. Wheeler [Wash.] 86 P. 394.

44. Surrender of child by mother to charitable institution held invalid as against claim of father. State v. Wheeler [Wash.] 86 P. 394.

45. Acts 1903, c. 49, § 1, subd. "b," construed. State v. Wheeler [Wash.] 86 P. 394. Where an order of court purporting to adjudicate the surrender of a child to the court for disposition shows on its face that the father was not served with notice and that no sufficient time for service on him elapsed, it is void as to the father and, therefore, subject to collateral attack. Id.

46, 47, 48, 49. Mahon v. People, 218 Ill. 171, 75 N. E. 768.

another stranger.[50] Laws of the jurisdiction to which a claimant of the child would remove it are relevant to show capacity to serve the child's best interests.[51] A decree for commitment to an asylum will not be construed into one for custody[52] and a provision as to visits need not fix the exact time when they are allowable.[53] Custody decrees are binding on the parents,[54] but may be amended to attain certainty[55] or if conditions change.[56]

Parents are bound to support their children and are liable for expenses incurred in their maintenance,[57] and as a consequence parents are entitled to the earnings of their infant children;[58] but on the question whether the father suing as next friend for injuries to his minor child may recover for loss of the child's earnings or impairment of earning capacity, the decisions are inharmonious, some courts holding that he cannot[59] unless the minor has been emancipated,[60] while in other jurisdictions it is held that he is thereby estopped from making such claims as parent and is, therefore, entitled to recover.[61] It is the general rule of law that no allowance should be made to either father or mother out of the estate of a deceased minor child for past maintenance and support, except in special cases.[62] The wrongful impairment by a third person of the right to be supported is in some circumstances actionable.[63]

50. In habeas corpus proceedings to obtain possession of a foster child which had been placed by relators in the custody of respondents with the ostensible purpose of leaving it with them permanently, the burden was on relators to show that the best interests of the child would be conserved by taking it from respondents. White v. Richeson [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 202.

51. The trial of the issue on habeas corpus for the possession of a child being to the court, it may receive evidence as to the laws of a sister state as to the capacity of a married woman to contract, even though such laws may not have been strictly complied with by the party offering the evidence. Robertson v. Bass [Fla.] 42 So. 243.

52. Where an order of court went only to the extent necessary to place a child in a home, the court's agent for the purpose has no absolute right to take the child from the custody of one to whom its custody had been given. Louisiana Soc. for Prevention of Cruelty to Children v. Tyler, 116 La. 425, 40 So. 784.

53. A decree providing that a child should be allowed to visit a certain relative once a month is not fatally defective for indefiniteness as to the length of such visits. Churchill v. Jackson, 125 Ga. 385, 53 S. E. 960.

54. A decree awarding the exclusive custody and control of infant children to one of the parents in a divorce proceeding is binding as between the parents in their future relations to the children. State v. Wheeler [Wash.] 86 P. 394.

55. Amendable to cure any indefiniteness regarding the length of visits. Churchill v. Jackson, 125 Ga. 385, 53 S. E. 960.

56. The continuing jurisdiction which is vested in the court of common pleas with reference to the custody of children for the purpose of modifying orders in divorce proceedings does not authorize a rehearing of a matter theretofore submitted and determined but is only to be called into exercise when a substantial change in the condition of the parties requires a modification of the former order. Graviese v. Graviess, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 135.

57. Hence an infant suing by next friend cannot recover for expenses of medical services paid by his father on account of the injuries which are the basis of the cause of action. Butler v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 117 Mo. App. 354, 93 S. W. 877. Admission of testimony of father of infant as to amount of bill for medical services rendered the plaintiff and paid by witness held reversible error. Id.

58. Creditors of the father of infant children have the same right to look to the earnings of the children and to the property in which they are invested as to any other effects of their debtor. Harper v. Utsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 17, 97 S. W. 508.

59. Farrar v. Wheeler [C. C. A.] 145 F. 482; Comer v. Ritter Lumber Co. [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 906; Gallagher v. Public Service Corp. [N. J. Law] 64 A. 978.

60. Formal emancipation is not required to be shown, but the establishment of circumstances reasonably sufficient to justify the inference that an emancipation in fact actually existed will suffice. Harper v. Utsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 17, 97 S. W. 508. The earnings of an infant are his property when the parent permits him to make his own contracts, collect his wages, and appropriate them to his own use (Vance v. Calhoun, 77 Ark. 35, 90 S. W. 619), and in such case the infant is entitled to recover them (Id.).

61. Louisville R. Co. v. Esselman, 29 Ky. L. R. 333, 93 S. W. 50.

62. Spink v. Spink, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 89. A special case warranting an exception to this rule is presented where a mother who has furnished such support had little or no estate or an estate trifling in comparison with that of the minor, and the support was furnished to the minor for the benefit of the minor under conditions which were coercive upon the mother and compelled her to assume a burden which was not naturally and legally hers alone. Id. When such a claim is presented to the probate court under Rev. St. § 6100, there is drawn to that court the chancery jurisdiction necessary to a complete exercise of the jurisdiction specially conferred by the statute. Id.

§ 3. Statutes for the protection of infants.[64]—The state stands in the position of parens patriæ and may exercise unlimited supervision and control over their contracts, occupation, and conduct, and the liberty and right of those who assume to deal with them.[65] They are peculiarly entitled to legislative protection and form a class to which legislation may be exclusively directed.[66] The legislature may decide what employment is inimical to children's welfare,[67] and what protection is required,[68] and to what classes of children it shall apply,[69] and, unless its decision is manifestly unreasonable, it is binding on the courts.[70] Such legislation has been held void when coupled with an attempted regulation of the labor of adults.[71] Such statutes must be reasonably construed to meet the protective purpose of the statute.[72] Ignorance that a servant is a minor does not necessarily absolve the master from compliance with regulations of this character.[73] The abandonment of children by parents is criminal in Georgia only when they are left destitute.[74] Knowledge of infancy is not necessarily essential to guilt under statutes for the protection of infants.[75]

63. See Death by Wrongful Act, 7 C. L. 1083; Intoxicating Liquors, 6 C. L. 204, 206, n. 36 (note "Rights of afterborn child").

64. See 6 C. L. 2.

65. State v. Shorey [Or.] 86 P. 881. This is a power which inheres in the government. Id.

66. Child-labor law (St. 1905, p. 11, c. 18) held not repugnant to Const. art. 1, § 21, prohibiting special privileges to any class of citizens. Ex parte Spencer [Cal.] 86 P. 896. The child-labor law (St. 1905, p. 11, c. 18, § 2), restricting the employment of children under fourteen years of age in certain places and occupations held not discriminatory against other trades. Id. Also held not undue restraint on minor's choice of trade. Id. Forbidding night work upheld. Id. Exception in favor of orphans and those deprived of parental support, sustained. Id. Exception that upon certificate public school children may work during vacation held valid. Id. Proviso upheld that no child shall work for gain during public school hours, save those who can read and write simple English or those who attend night school. Id. Exception upheld as to domestic labor and farming during the time the public schools are not in session or during other than school hours. Id. In Michigan the legislature has power to determine by rules and definitions the class or classes of children requiring state supervision and to impose it. Hunt v. Wayne Circuit Judges, 142 Mich. 93, 12 Det. Leg. N. 673, 105 N. W. 531. The Oregon statute, making the employment of children under sixteen years of age for more than ten hours a day a penal offense, is valid. Gen. Laws 1905, p. 343, § 5, held not repugnant to Const. U. S. amend. 14 (State v. Shorey [Or.] 86 P. 881), nor Const. Cal. art. 1, § 1, which declares that all men when they form a social compact are equal in rights (Id.). Section 2 of Act of May 13, 1903 (P. L. 359), relating to boys in bituminous coal mines, held defective in its title. Commonwealth v. Shulte, 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 95.

67. It is competent for the state to forbid the employment of children in certain callings merely because it believes such prohibition to be for their best interest, though the employment does not involve a direct danger to morals, decency, or to life or limb. State v. Shorey [Or.] 86 P. 881. The power to forbid the employment of infants in certain occupations and not in all depends on the questions whether any appreciable number of children are employed in the callings not forbidden (Ex parte Spencer [Cal.] 86 P. 896), and whether those callings are injurious to them or less injurious than those forbidden (Id.).

68. Ex parte Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 809.

69. Ex parte Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 809. Penal Code, §§ 272, 273 (St. 1905, p. 759, c. 568), applicable only to children under sixteen years of age, held valid. Id.

70. Penal Code, §§ 272, 273, forbidding employment to infant in certain lines, but permitting their employment as musicians, held valid. Ex parte Weber [Cal.] 86 P. 809.

71. The New York statute forbidding the employment in factories at night of women and infants under eighteen years of age has been declared unconstitutional. Laws 1903, p. 439, c. 184, § 77, held void as to employment of females of any age in factories at night. People v. Williams, 101 N. Y. S. 562.

72. The doctrine ejusdem generis held inapplicable in the construction of Act May 16, 1903, § 1, to prevent employment on machine included only in general description from falling within the meaning of the statute. Swift & Co. v. Rennard, 119 Ill. App. 173.

73. The fact that the infant conceals his true age does not relieve an employer from liability for injuries to an infant under the statutory age at which infants can be employed under Act May 16, 1903, § 11, prohibiting employment of infants at particular work. Swift & Co. v. Rennard, 119 Ill. App. 173.

74. Williams v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 480.

Crimes against children.—The New York statute making it criminal to sell, pay for, or furnish cigarettes or tobacco to any child actually or apparently under the age of sixteen years does not apply when the child is agent of another to the knowledge of accused.[76] The New York statute making junk dealers criminally liable for purchasing or receiving junk from a child under sixteen years of age warrants a conviction irrespective of whether the property was stolen,[77] and this construction of the statute does not render it unconstitutional.[78] As in other classes of offenses a conviction under a statute for the protection of the health and morals of infants is not warranted where the evidence of guilt is unsatisfactory.[79]

Juvenile courts for the protection and redemption of delinquent and incorrigible minors are not for the trial of crime[80] and, when properly enacted[81] within other constitutional limitations,[82] the legislature may create them. The acts apply to such minors only as are described,[83] but an erroneous decision that one committed was within the statute does not avoid the commitment.[84] The required affidavit or information is essential to jurisdiction[85] and notice to parents when required by statute,[86] but the ordinary procedure in case of crimes is not a part of "due process of law,"[87] and there is no right to a jury trial.[88]

§ 4. Property and conveyances.[89]—Chancery has inherent[90] power to super-

75. Rev. St. 1899, § 2193, forbidding pool selling or betting with minors, construed. State v. Delmar Jockey Club [Mo.] 92 S. W. 185. Not necessary under Acts 1905, p. 105, c. 75, relating to pool halls. Rainboldt v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 93 S. W. 737.

76. Pen. Code, § 290, subd. 5, construed. People v. Zabor, 183 N. Y. 242, 76 N. E. 17. Evidence held to show that child was agent. Id.

77. Penal Code, § 290, construed. People v. McGuire, 113 App. Div. 631, 99 N. Y. S. 91.

78. People v. McGuire, 113 App. Div. 631, 99 N. Y. S. 91. On a prosecution for violation of the statute (Pen. Code, § 290), no presumption will be indulged that a boy under sixteen years of age from whom a junk dealer purchases or receives junk was the agent of another who had a lawful right to sell the junk. Id.

79. Evidence held insufficient to sustain conviction under Pen. Code, § 289, on a charge of endangering the health and morals of a girl. People v. Donohue, 100 N. Y. S. 202.

80. Act April 23, 1903 (P. L. 274), does not offend against the constitution in classifying infants, since it is not for the punishment of offenders but for the salvation of children. Commonwealth v. Fisher, 213 Pa. 48, 62 A. 198.

81. Pennsylvania Act held not repugnant to Const. art. 3, § 3, relating to titles of acts. Commonwealth v. Fisher, 213 Pa. 48, 62 A. 198.

82. Pennsylvania Act does not create a new court, but merely gives different powers to the court of quarter sessions from those previously exercised. Commonwealth v. Fisher, 213 Pa. 48, 62 A. 198. The legislature has not power to confer on circuit court commissioners the powers required by the Act of 1905 (for the establishment of juvenile courts) to be exercised. Act Sept. 13, 1905 (Acts 1905, p. 485, No. 313), held repugnant to Const. Mich. Hunt v. Wayne Circuit Judges, 142 Mich. 93, 12 Det. Leg. N. 673, 105 N. W. 521.

83. St. 1905, p. 806, c. 610, § 2, subsec. 1, and p. 81, c. 84, § 3, held applicable only to children under sixteen years of age. Ex parte Lewis [Cal. App.] 86 P. 996.

Married female is not within the class known as children and minors amenable to the statute. Commitment of married female held invalid under St. 1905, p. 81, c. 84, § 3, and p. 806, c. 610, § 2, subsec. 1. Ex parte Lewis [Cal. App.] 86 P. 996. Fact that child is without guardianship is only material on question of its depending under St. 1905, c. 43, § 1, as applied to one found wandering. Ex parte Mundell [Cal. App.] 86 P. 833.

84. Habeas corpus held unavailable to procure release of married female infant from industrial school for girls committed under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 8273, 6180, as amended by Acts 1903, p. 91, c. 35. Ryan v. Rhodes [Ind.] 76 N. E. 249.

85. Under the Juvenile Court Act of California (St. 1905, p. 44, c. 43), the court does not obtain jurisdiction of a dependent child in the absence of an affidavit showing dependency within the definition of the statute. Ex parte Mundell [Cal. App.] 86 P. 833. Complaint held insufficient under St. 1905, p. 81, c. 84, § 3, and p. 806, c. 610, § 2, subsec. 1. Ex parte Lewis [Cal. App.] 86 P. 996.

86. Mother as petitioner in habeas corpus held entitled to be awarded custody of child committed under Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, p. 264, without notice to petitioner. People v. Lynch, 223 Ill. 346, 79 N. E. 70.

87. By providing no process to bring a child into custody it does not violate the constitutional guaranty that no one charged with a criminal offense shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. Commonwealth v. Fisher, 213 Pa. 48, 62 A. 198. A minor taken into court under the act is not deprived of his liberty without due process of law by commitment to a house of refuge. Id.

88. Since it is not for the trial of a child, it is not repugnant to the Bill of Rights provision that the right of trial by jury shall intend the property affairs of infants[91] and to protect the same,[92] but no power save by statute to dispose of their real estate.[93] A statute investing the courts with power to sell for reinvestment has been held remedial[94] and subject to liberal construction to give effect to the act and enhance the remedy,[95] but a statute will not authorize exchange of the real estate of infants unless its terms bear that meaning.[96] A statute prohibiting the sale of real estate of infants in contravention of a will or deed under which their estate is created has no application where there are adult tenants in common who have an immediate right to the possession of their shares,[97] but when such statute has application another statute giving infants the right to institute partition, on leave of court, by showing they will be benefited, has no application.[98] In some states the mortgaging of an infant's real estate, when promotive of the infant's interest in the property, is permitted under order of court,[99] and when such mortgage is authorized, the court may properly direct redemption from a sale for delinquent taxes out of the proceeds of a loan secured thereby.[1] By statute in Kentucky a vested estate in possession in which infants are interested may be sold when indivisible without material impairment.[2]

In case of sale for reinvestment, the proceeds or what they purchase fall under the same trusts and limitations as the land,[3] but one is not a trustee who receives proceeds with neither right nor privity to the infant's estate.[4] A sale of land impressed with a trust in favor of an infant to the trustees will be carefully scrutinized in the interest of the infant.[5] A grantee who prior to taking a conveyance from an infant, knowing of the infancy, procures the infant to make an affidavit that he has attained majority, cannot predicate fraud on the giving of the affidavit.[6] remain inviolate. Commonwealth v. Fisher, 213 Pa. 48, 62 A. 198.

89. See 6 C. L. 2.

90. In re Stevens, 99 N. Y. S. 1070, but see In re Adderley, 50 Misc. 189, 100 N. Y. S. 421. Inherent power of supreme court may be applied where in a case appealed from surrogate it appears that surrogate's decree abused infant's rights. In re Stevens, 99 N. Y. S. 1070.

91. Hesselman v. Haas [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 165.

92. In re Stevens, 99 N. Y. S. 1070.

93. Anderson v. Anderson [Ky.] 98 S. W. 281. Courts of equity possess no inherent power, as guardians of infants, to sell their real estate for the purpose of reinvestment. Rhea v. Shields, 103 Va. 305, 49 S. E. 70. Supreme court has no inherent jurisdiction over the "real estate" of an infant. Order of sale refused except as warranted by Code Civ. Proc. § 2348. In re Adderley, 50 Misc. 189, 100 N. Y. S. 421.

94. Code 1887, § 2616 (2 Va. Code 1904, § 2616), construed. Rhea v. Shields, 103 Va. 305, 49 S. E. 70.

95. Rhea v. Shields, 103 Va. 305, 49 S. E. 70.

96. Code Civ. Proc. § 2348, held not to authorize an exchange for partition. In re Adderley, 50 Misc. 189, 100 N. Y. S. 421.

97. Laws 1785, c. 39, construed. O'Donaghue v. Smith, 184 N. Y. 365, 77 N. E. 621.

98. O'Donaghue v. Smith, 184 N. Y. 365, 77 N. E. 621.

99. Mortgage to secure loan to pay mortgage debt held within Laws 1899, c. 300, p. 525. In re Lueft [Wis.] 109 N. W. 652.

1. In re Lueft [Wis.] 109 N. W. 652.

2. Sale of real estate in which infant was interested, by partition proceeding under Civ. Code Prac. § 490, subsec. 2, held to confer on purchaser a good title. Harting's Ex'x v. Milward's Ex'r, 28 Ky. L. R. 776, 90 S. W. 260.

3. Under the Virginia statute investing courts of equity with power as guardians of infants to sell their real estate for the purpose of reinvestment, the practice is to sell or exchange the absolute estate—in place of which the proceeds of sale or the subject in which they are invested, or for which the property is exchanged, are held on the same trusts and subject to the same limitations as the original estate. Construction of Code 1887, § 2616 (2 Va. Code 1904, § 2616), held controlled by the rule of stare decisis. Rhea v. Shields, 103 Va. 305, 49 S. E. 70.

4. Where an infant's lands are sold, the proceeds can only be paid over for the purpose of investment into the hands of some person on special bond being given for the care of the same, under Code 1904, § 2622. Hence, one having no right to receive the fund as guardian de jure cannot be held liable for it as guardian de facto, nor can it be a preferred debt against his estate. Pope v. Prince's Adm'r [Va.] 52 S. E. 1009.

5. Sale for $16,000 of property appraised at $21,200 held void. Johnson v. Buck, 220 Ill. 226, 77 N. E. 163.

6. Reply in proceeding to recover land conveyed by infant held not obnoxious to demurrer. Pace v. Cawood [Ky.] 97 S. W. 412.

Infants may acquire title to realty by adverse possession[7] if the disseisin be by them or in their behalf.[8] It cannot be so acquired against them,[9] but an infant's property rights are barred by knowing failure to assert them within a reasonable time after majority.[10] Also whenever the statute of limitations is a bar to the recovery of real estate by one of several joint owners, it operates against the others notwithstanding they are infants,[11] and when the statute is put in motion against infant joint tenants by the attainment of majority by one of the female tenants, its running is not interfered with by the disability of coverture on marriage.[12] One is not relieved of liability to infants by being judicially required to account to a third person therefor who in no way represents the infants.[13] One who purchases at judicial sale to pay decedent's debts is not a bona fide purchaser as against infants not bound by the decree.[14] Infant heirs of one holding land in trust inherit the same charged with the trusts.[15] The deed of an infant is not void but only voidable[16] and subject to be defeated by timely disaffirmance,[17] or may be ratified on attaining majority.[18]

§ 5. Contracts.[19]—The contract of an infant, except for necessaries,[20] is voidable at his option[21] within a reasonable time after majority,[22] and he may rescind an executed contract at will by restoring or offering to restore what he received thereunder,[23] unless he has received nothing to offer back.[24] He may recover

7. Adverse possession of land by infants through administrator of their mother's estate, their guardian and agent for fourteen years from the death of their parents, held to give title to them thereto by adverse possession. Killebrew v. Mauldin [Ala.] 39 So. 575.

8. The father of infant children will not be presumed to have entered land in their behalf, when there is no evidence that he professed to do so, and none that the children had any title, but at most only color of title, which would make his entry a trespass from the start. Barrett v. Brewer [N. C.] 55 S. E. 414.

9. Ten year prescription does not run against minors. Civ. Code, § 3522. Scoveli v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co., 117 La. 459, 41 So. 723.

10. Five years held laches. Wenger v. Thompson, 128 Iowa, 750, 105 N. W. 333.

11, 12. Cameron v. Hicks [N. C.] 53 S. E. 728.

13. Hence he may justly complain of the error. McNeely v. South Penn. Oil Co., 58 W. Va. 438, 52 S. E. 480.

14. Parties to an action to sell a decedent's property to procure assets to pay debts, when the estate has assets for the purpose, are presumed to know the illegal method used in depriving infants affected by the sale of their land. Davidson v. Marcum, 28 Ky. L. R. 562, 89 S. W. 703. Purchaser held not a bona fide purchaser within Code § 391, authorizing infants to show cause against a judgment, but providing that the vacation of such judgment shall not affect the title of a bona fide purchaser. Id.

15. Cameron v. Hicks [N. C.] 53 S. E. 728.

16. Shaffer v. Detie, 191 Mo. 377, 90 S. W. 131; Robinson v. Allison, 192 Mo. 366, 91 S. W. 115; Lawder v. Larkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 809, 94 S. W. 171.

17. Disaffirmance held too late to be available. Robinson v. Allison, 192 Mo. 366, 91 S. W. 115; Lawder v. Larkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 809, 94 S. W. 171. Where property is conveyed to an infant absolutely, who conveys it, but promptly disaffirms the reconveyance on coming of age, the title is not lost to the quondam infant. Seed v. Jennings, 47 Or. 464, 83 P. 872.

18. Acceptance of balance of purchase price after attaining majority held a ratification of a conveyance made by an infant. Damron v. Ratliff [Ky.] 97 S. W. 401. An absolute conveyance for a valuable consideration does not relate back to and ratify a deed to another person executed while under the disability of infancy. Allen v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 343, 96 S. W. 54.

19. See 6 C. L. 3.

20. Mauldin v. Southern Shorthand & Business University [Ga.] 55 S. E. 922.

21. Sale of judgment to attorney who procured same for infant held voidable by infant. Vance v. Calhoun, 77 Ark. 35, 90 S. W. 619. Note executed by minor in part payment for buggy and harness held voidable by the minor. Heffington v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 646, 96 S. W. 108.

22. Disaffirmance of release of liability for personal injuries within two years after attaining majority held valid under Hurd's St. 1903, p. 1207, § 14. Chicago Tel. Co. v. Schulz, 121 Ill. App. 573.

23. Mutual Milk & Cream Co. v. Prigge, 112 App. Div. 652, 98 N. Y. S. 458. Infant held entitled to rescind contract for erection of house and recover amount paid less expense of tearing down old structure. Thornton v. Holland, 87 Miss. 470, 40 So. 19.

24. Though a statute makes the contract of a minor voidable only by disaffirmance on restoring what he received, a contract from which he can derive no advantage may be avoided merely by disaffirmance. Contract of suretyship held disaffirmed with Civ. Code § 17. Helland v. Colton State Bank [S. D.] 106 N. W. 60.

what he gave though it was a gift to him.[25] To determine whether a particular item is a necessary for an infant it is essential that the state, degree, and condition in life of the infant be shown,[26] and that it affirmatively appear that the guardian of such infant has failed or refused to furnish it.[27] Where goods are sold to an infant as a merchant without reservation of title in the seller, the infant acquires title on delivery in the absence of fraud in the transaction,[28] and the fact that he neglects or refuses to pay for them after attaining his majority does not revest the title in the vendor,[29] nor does the fact that he sells them after coming of age render him liable to an action by the vendor either in tort or for money had and received.[30] The general rule that a valid defense as to one of two joint obligors inures to the benefit of both is subject to the exception that when such defense is infancy, the infant may be discharged and a recovery had as to his co-obligor,[31] and this exception applies though the obligee knew of the infancy when he took the obligation.[32]

An infant's promise to pay money for services of value is a contract[33] and such contract is ratified by continuing the payments after the promisor attains majority.[34] Such payments have that effect if at the promisor's instance though not made from his own funds.[35] By statute in Maine the contracts of a minor other than for necessaries and the purchase of realty are unenforceable unless ratified in writing after attaining majority.[36] The doctrine that one may not repudiate a contract and at the same time claim under it is inapplicable where an infant employe suing for injuries disaffirms an agreement to abide the defendant's rules, the violation of which is pleaded in defense as the proximate cause of the injuries.[37] When the situation does not admit of restoration, injunction lies to prevent a breach of the contract by him[38] where it would work an irremediable fraud.[39]

§ 6. Torts.[40]—A fraudulent act, to charge an infant in tort, must be wholly

25. Where one contracts with an infant and gives his receipt to the infant for the money paid as consideration, taking it as the infant's money, the fact that a third person gave the money to the infant does not affect the infant's right to rescind and recover the consideration. Thornton v. Holland, 87 Miss. 470, 40 So. 19.

26. Shorthand course held not to have been proven a necessity. Mauldin v. Southern Shorthand & Business University [Ga.] 55 S. E. 922. Buggy and harness held not necessaries for infant. Heffington v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 646, 96 S. W. 108. Legal services rendered in connection with will contest on behalf of an infant held not necessaries. McIsaac v. Adams, 190 Mass. 117, 76 N. E. 654.

27. Mauldin v. Southern Shorthand & Business University [Ga.] 55 S. E. 922.

28, 29, 30. Lamkin v. Ledoux [Me.] 64 A. 1048.

31, 32. Cole v. Manners [Neb.] 107 N. W. 777.

33. Dwelling with an infant and rendering service as companion and otherwise are a consideration which give to the infant's promise to pay money and payment of it the nature of a contract and not a voluntary gift. Parsons v. Teller, 111 App. Div. 637, 97 N. Y. S. 803.

34, 35. Parsons v. Teller, 111 App. Div. 637, 97 N. Y. S. 808.

36. Signing of bond to release goods attached held not a ratification of a contract within Rev. St. c. 113, § 2. Lamkin v. Ledoux [Me.] 64 A. 1048.

37. Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Bonner [Ala.] 39 So. 619.

38. Mutual Milk & Cream Co. v. Prigge, 112 App. Div. 652, 98 N. Y. S. 458. Where an infant has acquired knowledge while in another's employ as to his employer's customers and has become acquainted with them, equity will enjoin him after leaving his employer's service from using the information to the injury of his former employer in violation of the contract between them. Id.

39. Though infancy may protect one from the terms of a contract, it is not a license to use the advantage obtained by virtue of a contract to commit torts and inflict injuries on the obligee for which the law affords no adequate remedy. Injunction against infant lessee held properly granted. Cole v. Manners [Neb.] 107 N. W. 777. While an infant is in possession under a lease his plea of infancy is not available in a suit brought to restrain him from making use of his possession to inflict irreparable injuries on his landlord. Id.

40. See 6 C. L. 4. The topics Master and Servant, 6 C. L. 521; Negligence, 6 C. L. 743; Death by Wrongful Act, 7 C. L. 1083; Parent and Child, 6 C. L. 877, treat of phases of the law of torts as affected by the infancy of some of the persons involved; and topics like Assault and Battery, 7 C. L. 274; Seduction, 6 C. L. 1439; Trespass, 6 C. L. 1721, which tortious,[41] and a matter arising ex contractu though infected with fraud cannot be changed into a tort, to charge the infant in trover or case, by a change in the form of the action.[42] An action for false representations by an infant as to his age, whereby plaintiff was misled to his injury into making a contract with the infant is for breach of contract,[43] and the fact that it is called one of tort in an action therefor does not alter its legal aspect.[44]

§ 7. Crimes.[45]—The age of criminal responsibility is fixed by statute in some states,[46] and in some, statutes provide for confinement of persons convicted of crime in early infancy in reformatories instead of in penitentiaries.[47] No command by a parent will justify a criminal act by a child mentally capable.[48] A minor who has arrived at the age of criminal responsibility is subject to punishment criminally for violation of the Georgia act penalizing fraudulent intent in contracting for services.[49] An infant's plea of guilty to a criminal charge is valid.[50]

§ 8. Actions by and against.[51]—In Louisiana district judges are vested with great discretion in the matter of taking steps to protect the interest of minors, when they are threatened with loss and have no legally qualified representative to guard their rights.[52]

Ordinarily infants, even though so young as to be unable to understand the nature of legal proceedings, must be regularly served with process to validate pro-treat of particular torts, should also be consulted.

41. Brooks v. Sawyer, 191 Mass. 151, 76 N. E. 953. False representations by an infant as to his age, whereby another is, by reliance thereon, misled, to his injury, into making a contract with the infant, are not tortious. Id.

42. Where an infant by false representations as to his age procures another to pay him a sum of money for an option on the infant's realty, the injured person cannot recover as damages, for failure of the infant to carry out the agreement, the sum paid for the option. Brooks v. Sawyer, 191 Mass. 151, 76 N. E. 953.

43. Brooks v. Sawyer, 191 Mass. 151, 76 N. E. 953.

44. Hence there can be no recovery as for a tort. Brooks v. Sawyer, 191 Mass. 151, 76 N. E. 953.

45. See 6 C. L. 4.

46. A statutory provision (Pen. Code 1895, art. 34) that there shall be no conviction of an infant for crime committed before reaching the age of thirteen except where the state has proved that defendant had discretion sufficient to understand the nature and illegality of the act constituting the offense does not authorize a conviction on proof merely that defendant knew right from wrong (Price v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 545, 94 S. W. 901), but he must have a clear mental conception of the nature and illegality of the act (Id.). Under Pen. Code, art. 34, the state must show that the accused when under thirteen years of age understood the nature and illegality of the particular act constituting the crime. Simmons v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 380, 97 S. W. 1052. The fact that accused knows good from evil, or right from wrong, or that he is possessed of intelligence of ordinary children of the same age, does not permit of conviction under Pen. Code, art. 34, when the accused is under thirteen years of age. Id. A minor under the age of sixteen years cannot be convicted of vagrancy in Georgia. Under Acts 1905, p. 109, subsec. 8. Johnson v. State, 124 Ga. 421, 52 S. E. 737.

47. Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 1145, held to require verdict finding accused, who has been sentenced to the reformatory, to be not more than sixteen years of age (Watson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 72, 92 S. W. 807; Simmons v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 380, 97 S. W. 1052), and a statement in the verdict as to whether confinement shall be in the reformatory or penitentiary (Watson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 72, 92 S. W. 807). Habeas corpus held not proper remedy to procure release of infant under sixteen years of age from confinement in penitentiary on plea of guilty. Ex parte White [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 816, 98 S. W. 850.

48. Homicide by infant between seventeen and eighteen years of age held not excused by coercion of father. State v. Thrailkill, 73 S. C. 314, 53 S. E. 482.

49. Infant eighteen years of age held subject to conviction under Acts 1903, p. 90, making it illegal for any person to procure money or other thing of value on a contract to perform services with intent to defraud. Vinson v. State, 124 Ga. 19, 52 S. E. 79. Fact that minor told his employer that he had yielded to the command of a stranger held no excuse for violation of Acts 1903, p 90. Anthony v. State [Ga.] 55 S. E. 479.

50. Ex parte White [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 816, 98 S. W. 850.

51. See 6 C. L. 4.

52. District judge held authorized to set aside executory proceedings up to point where a duly qualified representative of minors became necessary to give the proceedings validity against the minors, and to stay the proceedings until a legal representative has been qualified to represent them and been duly made a party. Gates v. Bank of Patterson, 116 La. 539, 40 So. 891.

ceedings in which they are interested,[53] but in some jurisdictions service of summons on very young infants has been dispensed with by statute.[54] Service of process on nonresident infants is not required to be made in a different manner from that used in serving nonresident adults under the statutes of Oregon,[55] and the same is true in New York as to known nonresident infants in partition suits.[56]

An answer by a guardian on behalf of his infant ward is not an appearance of the ward when the ward has not been served with process as required;[57] but where a resident ward temporarily absent from the state has been constructively served as a nonresident, the filing of an answer by his domiciliary guardian on behalf of the infant confers jurisdiction over the infant.[58] A married female infant cannot prosecute an action without a guardian ad litem even though her husband is joined with her as plaintiff.[59] The vacation of appointment of an attorney for minor heirs in probate proceedings is within the discretion of the district court.[60] Where the judgment in a proceeding must be satisfied from the estate of an infant, the infant is a necessary party.[61] One cannot be both plaintiff in one right and defendant representing infants in the same action.[62] In Louisiana co-owners of property are entitled to institute suit for partition thereof against minors who own it with them, without the prior sanction of a family meeting, authorizing the minors to stand in judgment,[63] nor is the right affected by the failure of the representatives of the minors to call for or obtain the fixing by a family meeting of the terms of sale so far as the interests of the minors are concerned;[64] but the sole duty of the plaintiff is to see that the minors are properly represented in the suit,[65] and when the representatives of the minors fail to have the terms fixed by a family meeting, the court itself is authorized to order the sale to be made for cash.[66]

By statute in some states no valid judgment can be rendered against an infant

53. An infant two months old cannot be divested of real estate, in which he owns the fee simple title, by a judicial proceeding to which he was not a party, of which he had no notice, and in which he was not represented by guardian or otherwise (Crapster v. Taylor [Kan.] 87 P. 1138), but in such case the lands may be recovered in an action for that purpose commenced within two years after the owner attains his majority (Id.). Appointment of guardian ad litem for infant defendants held void for want of valid service on infants. Wright v. Hink, 193 Mo. 130, 91 S. W. 933.

54. On application for sale of infant's property and reinvestment by guardians of proceeds, infants under fourteen years of age are not required to be served in Georgia. Civ. Code 1895, § 4987, construed. Furr v. Burns, 124 Ga. 742, 53 S. E. 201.

55. Mailing of copy of complaint and summons to person with whom infant resided in another state held not essential to valid service under B. & C. Comp. §§ 55, 56, 57. Cohen v. Portland Lodge No. 142, B. P. O. E., 144 F. 266.

56. Rev. St. [1st Ed.] pt. 3, c. 5, tit. 3, § 12, and Code Proc. § 448, held to authorize service on a known nonresident infant personally without publication by summons and complaint. O'Donaghue v. Smith, 184 N. Y. 365, 77 N. E. 621.

57. Nunn v. Robertson [Ark.] 97 S. W. 293. Where an infant is sought to be brought into court on service by publication, the answer of a guardian ad litem will not operate as an appearance for the infant when the guardian was appointed before service had been perfected. Laflin v. Gato [Fla.] 42 So. 387. The acts of a guardian ad litem appointed prematurely on a defective constructive service cannot bind the infant for whom the appointment is made. Answer held not an appearance by infant. Id.

58. Nunn v. Robertson [Ark.] 97 S. W. 293.

59. Code Civ. Proc. 1902, §§ 135, 136, construed. Hiers v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 457.

60. Hence writ of review does not lie, but a petition for a writ of supervisory control may be proper remedy. State v. District Court of Second Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 87 P. 614.

61. Driscoll v. Pierce, 117 La. 264, 41 So. 568. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 442, a judgment against a minor may be set aside on a slight showing of defense, where application is made for that purpose within one year after attaining twenty-one years of age. McCreary v. Creighton [Neb.] 107 N. W. 240.

62. A father cannot legally represent his minor children as defendants in a partition suit, where he is joined with his wife as plaintiff in the suit, authorizing and assisting her in her demand against the infants. Succession of Becnel, 117 La. 744, 42 So. 256.

63, 64, 65. Succession of Becnel, 117 La. 744, 42 So. 256.

66. Civ. Code art. 1314, construed. Succession of Becnel, 117 La. 744, 42 So. 256.

until after a defense by a guardian;[67] but in the absence of fraud or collusion a decree of mortgage foreclosure is not vitiated by failure of guardian ad litem to file an answer in the case,[68] nor does the fact that no guardian ad litem is shown to have been appointed for an infant interested in partition proceedings for the sale of land, who at the time was without a guardian, render the proceedings void under the Texas statute.[69] Generally allegations in a petition or cross-petition against persons under disability must be proved though not traversed.[70] When minors are plaintiffs in a cause of action and the suit is brought and prosecuted in good faith for their benefit they will be bound by the judgment the same as adults would be.[71] It is held in Iowa that although defendant is an infant and a judgment is rendered against him without appointment of or a defense by guardian, it is not void,[72] and is, therefore, not ground for a new trial[73] in the absence of a showing of a valid defense in addition thereto.[74] A decree made in conformity with an unauthorized compromise of an infant's rights, by guardian, but neither approving nor disapproving the compromise, and without investigation as to whether the guardian should have made the compromise, is without jurisdiction and void.[75] An infant who is interested in mortgaged land is not bound by a foreclosure of the mortgage in proceedings to which he was not made a party.[76] Where a mortgage on land of infants is foreclosed without notice to them, it is a proper proceeding for the mortgagee, in an action by such infants to establish their rights in disregard of the mortgage, to answer the complaint, setting up the mortgage and proceedings had[77] thereunder, alleging itself to be a mortgagee in possession, and praying for a foreclosure against the infants,[78] and on foreclosure being decreed against the infants, the mortgagee is entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee pursuant to a provision of the mortgage therefor in case of foreclosure.[79] It will not be presumed that a grandparent suing did so as next friend of an infant.[80]

It is provided by statute in some states that a judgment rendered against infants may for cause shown be vacated or modified by proceeding before or after the infant attains majority[81] and the procedure must be such as the statute prescribes.[82]

67. Judgment against infants on cross-complaint held void under Kirby's Dig. § 6023, for failure of guardian ad litem to answer the cross complaint. Sexton v. Crebbins [Ark.] 98 S. W. 116.

68. Gravelle v. Canadian & American Mortgage & Trust Co., 42 Wash. 457, 85 P. 36.

69. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, arts. 2155, 2156, construed. Rye v. Guffey Petroleum Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 739, 95 S. W. 622.

70. Decree for sale of infant's land and division of proceeds held invalid under Code, § 126, subsec. 1. Anderson v. Anderson [Ky.] 98 S. W. 281. Judgment against infants held void under Code Civ. Proc. § 126, for failure to prove allegations of petition. Choats v. Long, 29 Ky. L. R. 942, 96 S. W. 554.

71. McCreary v. Creighton [Neb.] 107 N. W. 240. After this period has expired practically the same showing must be made to set aside a judgment rendered against a minor as is required when the judgment is rendered against an adult. Id.

72. Reints v. Engle, 130 Iowa, 726, 107 N. W. 947.

73. Under Code §§ 4049, 4096, Reints v. Engle, 130 Iowa, 726, 107 N. W. 947.

74. See, also Guardians Ad Litem and Next Friends, 7 C. L. 1896.

75. Rankin v. Schofield [Ark.] 98 S. W. 674.

76, 77, 78, 79. Gravelle v. Canadian & American Mortgage & Trust Co., 42 Wash. 457, 85 P. 36.

80. Where a grandparent was shown to have prosecuted a suit in relation to land in which his interest was not disclosed, no presumption arises that he prosecuted the suit as next friend of an infant grandchild of which he was not the guardian. Lutcher v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 149, 95 S. W. 572.

81. Code Civ. Prac. §§ 391, 518, subsecs. 8, 520, held to authorize proceeding by petition only. Leaveli v. Carter, 29 Ky. L. R. 920, 96 S. W. 597. Suit to vacate decree against infants for errors held authorized by Kirby's Dig. §§ 4431 (subd. 8), 6248, within 12 months after attaining majority (Jones v. Pond & Decker Mfg. Co. [Ark.] 96 S. W. 756), but a female over eighteen years of age at the time of its rendition is not within the benefit of the statute (Id.), nor is the statute applicable when the error appears in the proceedings and is, therefore, capable of being corrected on appeal or other form of review (Id.). Kirby's Dig. § 6248, held to authorize recovery of real and personal property passing under void decree

In order to be available the cause for reversing a decree must have existed at the time of entry thereof.[83] In equity an infant aggrieved by a decree in equity may file an original bill to impeach the decree for fraud or error appearing on its face[84] without asking for a rehearing or filing a bill of review,[85] or after attaining majority may exercise the right within the time during which he could prosecute a writ of error to reverse the decree.[86]

INFORMATIONS; INFORMERS, see latest topical index.

INJUNCTION.

§ 1. Nature of Remedy and Grounds Therefor (279).
§ 2. Particular Occasions for Injunction; Who and What May be Enjoined (284).
A. In General (284).
B. Actions or Proceedings (285).
C. Public, Official, and Municipal Acts (288).
D. Enforcement of Statutes and Ordinances (290).
E. Exercise of Right of Eminent Domain (291).
F. Acts Affecting Rights in Highways and Public or Quasi Public Places (291.)
G. Acts of Quasi Public and Private Corporations or Associations (292).
H. Breach or Enforcement of Contract or Trust (293).
I. Interference with Property, Business, or Comfort of Private Persons (295). Trade and Firm Name (295). Copyrights, Trade Secrets, Literary Property, and the Like (296). Waste (296). Incorporeal Property (296). Easements and Rights of Way (296). Nuisances (297). Trespass (298). Conspiracies by Labor Unions (300).
J. Crimes (300.)
§ 3. Suits or Actions for Injunction (301). Necessity of Suit or Action (301). Jurisdiction (301). Parties (302). Pleading and Evidence (304). Trial (305). Appeals (305).
§ 4. Preliminary Injunction (306).
A. Issuance and Grounds (306). Notice of Application (307).
B. Bonds (308).
C. Dissolution, Modification or Continuance; Reinstatement (308).
D. Damages on Dissolution and Liability on Bond (310).
E. Appeal and Review (312).
§ 5. Decree, Judgment, or Order for Injunction (313).
§ 6. Violation and Punishment (315).
§ 7. Liability for Wrongful Injunction (317).

§ 1. Nature of remedy and grounds therefor.[87]—Its province is to restrain the doing of acts which are wrongful,[88] and ordinarily it will not issue to disturb an existing status;[89] but a temporary order will protect the status quo[90] providing there be a suit pending in relation thereto.[91]

Equity courts take jurisdiction of injunction proceedings independent of stat-rendered during infancy. Rankin v. Schofield [Ark.] 98 S. W. 674. In West Virginia infants are by statute given the right to show cause against an order or decree in a chancery suit against them at any time during minority or within six months thereafter. Code 1906, c. 132, § 7. Poling v. Poling [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 993. Quondam infants against whom during infancy a decree in chancery was rendered held barred from attacking decree by failure to commence proceedings within six months after attaining majority as required by Code 1906, c. 132, § 7. Id.

82. A motion to redocket the cause will not authorize the relief. Leavell v. Carter, 29 Ky. L. R. 920, 96 S. W. 597. Under Code 1896, c. 132, § 7, may proceed by original bill, bill of review, supplemental bill in the nature of a bill of review, petition or answer, and perhaps by other forms of procedure. Poling v. Poling [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 993.

83. Poling v. Poling [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 993.

84. Johnson v. Buck, 220 Ill. 226, 77 N. E. 163. Infants by next friend held entitled under Code 1906, c. 132, § 7, to maintain original bill attacking decree in chancery suit against them. Poling v. Poling [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 993.

85, 86. Johnson v. Buck, 220 Ill. 226, 77 N. E. 163.

87. See 6 C. L. 6.

88. Graden v. Parkville, 114 Mo. App. 527, 90 S. W. 115.

89. The office of an injunction being merely to restrain and to compel the performance of an act, it is error for the court at the suit of one not in possession to enjoin one in possession of land, claiming title, from interfering with the use and enjoyment of the premises by the one not in possession, since in effect such an order would be an eviction. Beacham v. Wrightsville & T. R. Co., 125 Ga. 362, 54 S. E. 157.

90. Against payment of money when necessary to preserve subject-matter of litigation. Indian depredation allowance was claimed by personal representative and also by trustee in bankruptcy. Bryan v. Curtis, 26 App. D. C. 95.

ute,[92] but the legislature of a state may create a new ground for the issuance of an injunction by its own courts,[93] and authorize the institution of a suit by a private person which was previously maintainable only by a public law officer.[94] The granting of an injunction is a matter of sound discretion[95] and it will not be granted where it will operate oppressively,[96] or where it is not the appropriate remedy,[97] or where it may work immediate mischief.[98] An injunction acts only on a wrong in fieri[99] and issues only when the act sought to be enjoined is actually threatened.[1] Mere apprehension or possibility that it may be done is not, ordinarily, sufficient; there must be at least a showing of a reasonable probability of wrongful action by respondent.[2] That respondent has done similar acts in the past is not sufficient.[3] It will issue only for the protection of a property right or a right in the nature thereof,[4] hence it does not issue to protect a purely political right,[5] or to enforce a mere moral obligation,[6] or to prevent the doing of immoral or criminal acts which do not affect property rights.[7] It will not issue to restrain

91. See post, § 3, as to necessity of suit to support order.

92. McWilliams v. Burnes, 115 Mo. App. 6, 90 S. W. 735.

93. The legislature of a state may create a new ground of injunction cognizable and enforceable in a court of the state, and a state court may proceed to the granting of an injunction on such ground alone. In such case the relief is not granted by virtue of the equity powers of the court. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Newman, 141 F. 449. The legislature has power to create new grounds for the issuance of injunctions, nor does such a statute, at least in states where the code system is in force, deprive the party proceeded against of a right to a trial by jury, since the questions of fact in such jurisdiction could be submitted to a jury. Ex parte Allison [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 687, 90 S. W. 870; Id. [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 409, 90 S. W. 492.

94. Ex parte Allison [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 687, 90 S. W. 870. An act providing that any citizen may maintain a suit to enjoin the maintenance of a public nuisance, such as a public gaming house, is not unconstitutional as depriving the party proceeded against of "due process." Id.

95, 96, 97, 98. Rabinovich v. Reith, 120 Ill. App. 409.

99. United States v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 142 F. 176. An interlocutory injunction will not be denied merely because the defendant has at the time of the application partly done the thing sought to be enjoined. Brown v. Atlantic & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 55 S. E. 24.

1. Maine Product Co. v. Alexander, 100 N. Y. S. 709. An injunction will not issue to restrain the commission of an alleged illegal act where it is not alleged that defendant is threatening to do the act sought to be enjoined. McCaskill v. Bower [Ga.] 54 S. E. 942.

2. Hurd v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 84 P. 553. The mere apprehension of fears of a complainant, unsustained by facts, do not constitute a sufficient ground for the interference of equity by injunction. The complaint must show facts from which the court can determine that a wrong is about to be committed which will be irreparable before the relief will be granted. Spurgeon v. Rhodes [Ind.] 78 N. E. 228. The bill must show facts which will convince the court that an injury is threatened. Carswell v. Swindell, 102 Md. 636, 62 A. 956.

3. A court of equity will not enjoin the doing of certain acts where it is not shown that the doing of such acts is threatened or probable, though it appears that defendant has done similar acts in the past. Davis v. Hartwig, 195 Mo. 380, 94 S. W. 507.

4. Van Der Plaat v. Undertakers' & Liverymen's Ass'n [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 453.

Rights based on equitable estoppel: Right of tenant based on equitable estoppel to crops after expiration of lease may be protected by injunction. Carmine v. Bowen [Md.] 64 A. 932.

5. The right to vote at an election is a political right pure and simple and equity does not interfere to protect or enforce political rights which are unconnected with any individual or property rights. Shoemaker v. Des Moines, 129 Iowa, 244, 105 N. W. 520. A court of equity will not by injunction undertake to supervise the acts and management of a political party for the protection of a purely political right. McDonald v. Lyon [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 67. A taxpayer cannot enjoin the use of ballot machines at an election. United States Standard Voting Mach. Co. v. Hobson [Iowa] 109 N. W. 458.

6. Healy v. Smith, 14 Wyo. 263, 83 P. 583; Marshall v. Marksville, 116 La. 746, 41 So. 57.

7. McDonald v. Lyon [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 67. While a court of equity will not enjoin the commission of a crime as such, it will enjoin acts which would be a crime when property rights are involved. Ex parte Allison [Tex. Cr. App.] 44 Tex. Ct. Rep. 409, 90 S. W. 492. An illegal act will not be enjoined merely because it is illegal. County of Henry v. Stevens, 120 Ill. App. 344. The mere fact that the acts sought to be enjoined are unlawful or criminal is not sufficient unless they injure property or property rights. Van Der Plaat v. Undertakers' & Liverymen's Ass'n of Passaic County [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 453. The jurisdiction of courts of equity are purely civil and they are powerless to enjoin the commission of threatened crimes or to restrain threatened prosecutions for the commission of alleged crimes, even though the statute or ordinance violated is void and the prosecutions would a judicial officer from doing any act which falls within his jurisdiction even though he threatens to act corruptly.[8] It will not issue where the title or property right sought to be enforced and protected is not clear and certain.[9] An infant may be enjoined from acts constituting breach of a lease where if disaffirmed the landlord's damage would be irreparable by any legal remedy.[10]

The relative consequences of granting the injunction and of refusing it will be considered,[11] and, ordinarily, an injunction that bears heavily on the defendant without benefiting the plaintiff will be withheld as oppressive,[12] but the relatively greater inconvenience to defendant while highly persuasive against the injunction is not controlling.[13] So too where it would cause serious injury to an individual or the community at large and a relatively slight benefit to the party asking for it, injunctive relief will be denied and the parties left to their action at law.[14] It has been said, however, that this doctrine is applicable only on an application for a preliminary and not for a permanent injunction.[15] lead to a multiplicity of actions and irreparable injury to complainant. City Council of Montgomery v. West [Ala.] 40 So. 215. An injunction will not be granted for the purpose of preventing a criminal act nor to restrain a criminal proceeding, but where a right of private property is involved and is about to be invaded, by acts which are criminal in their nature, equity will interfere by injunction to protect such right and prevent the commission of the criminal act. Huxford v. Southern Pine Co., 124 Ga. 181, 52 S. E. 439. See, also, next succeeding section, What May Be Enjoined.

8. Grossman v. Davis, 117 Ill. App. 354.

9. Fox v. Lynch [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 439; Smith v. Alexander, 146 F. 106; New Idea Pattern Co. v. Whitner [Pa.] 64 A. 518; Hobbs v. Long Distance Tel. & T. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 1003; Savidge v. Merrill [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 946. Not enough that there is evidence of his right where there is evidence to the contrary. Andreas v. Steigerwalt, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 1. The denial of an application for a temporary injunction, to restrain the violation of the restrictive covenants of a lease, is authorized where the affidavits presented in opposition to the motion make it doubtful as to whether the acts sought to be restrained would constitute a breach of the covenants. Grimm v. Krahmer, 112 App. Div. 489, 98 N. Y. S. 523. Evidence held insufficient. McCarthy v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. & Coal Co., 147 F. 981. Partnership relation held not clearly established in action to enjoin interference with plaintiff's participation in partnership affairs. Collier v. Dasher [Fla.] 41 So. 269.

No substantial dispute where plaintiff's right is clear and defendant's denial is based on evidence insufficient to warrant submission of question to jury if case were at law. Andreas v. Steigerwalt, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

10. Cole v. Manners [Neb.] 107 N. W. 777.

11. Injunction requested by complainants representing large farming interests against extensive mining operations, involving not only interests of operators but of over ten thousand employees, refused. McCarthy v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. & Coal Co., 147 F. 981.

12. McClure v. Leaycraft, 183 N. Y. 36, 75 N. E. 961. Where the injury to plaintiff from a threatened act will be slight and the injury to defendant by the issuance of an injunction would be considerable and the defendant is solvent and responsible, equity will refuse to grant an injunction and relegate plaintiff to an action at law. Mann v. Parker [Or.] 86 P. 598.

13. Cleveland v. Martin, 218 Ill. 73, 75 N. E. 772.

14. Mt. Morris Bank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 50 Misc. 417, 100 N. Y. S. 544. That an injunction restraining the use of his property by the defendant so as to work a substantial injury to plaintiff will result in requiring defendant to close down a factory in which he has a large sum of money invested and throw many employees out of work is no reason for denying an injunction. When, however, the injury to plaintiff is comparatively small and only occasional, a court of equity may deny relief and relegate plaintiff to his actions for damages. Bentley v. Empire Portland Cement Co., 48 Misc. 457, 96 N. Y. S. 831. Whether a court of equity will interfere by injunction to prevent a continuance of an unlawful act rests in the discretion of the court, and in exercising such discretion the court may consider the actual injury sustained by plaintiff together with the resulting injury of an injunction to the defendant and the public. Knoth v. Manhattan R. Co., 109 App. Div. 802, 96 N. Y. S. 844. In a suit to enjoin the carrying on of a lawful business, smelting, on the ground that it is a nuisance and injurious to the property of adjoining owners, the court will consider the comparative convenience or inconvenience of the parties resulting from the issuance of the injunction. Mountain Copper Co. v. U. S., 142 F. 625. A court of equity is not bound to enjoin a public work authorized by statute until compensation is paid where no property is directly appropriated, especially where the damage is difficult of ascertainment at the time and a reasonable provision is made by the law for compensation. Manigault v. Springs, 199 U. S. 473, 50 Law. Ed. 274.

15. The doctrine of the comparative convenience or injury which would result from the issuance of an injunction, applicable on an application for a preliminary injunction, has no application on final hearing on full proofs. United States v. Luce, 141 F. 385.

One of the well known grounds of equitable jurisdiction is the want of an adequate remedy at law. Where injunction will afford relief such ground is sufficient to justify the court in taking jurisdiction.[16] It will not issue where there is an adequate remedy at law for the redress of the wrong threatened, or enforcement of the right relied on,[17] or that they have been unsuccessfully exhausted.[18] To preclude a court of equity from granting the injunction, the relief at law must be as complete and efficient as that which may be afforded by a court of equity.[19]

Whether or not an injunction will issue to prevent multiplicity of suits depends upon the circumstances of each particular case and upon whether the injunction is necessary to discountenance useless litigation or to prevent irreparable injury.[20] That the adjudication of the rights of the parties, in an injunction suit, 16. Kester v. Schuldt, 11 Idaho, 663, 85 P. 974.

17. Fox v. Lynch [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 439; Hobbs v. Long Distance Tel. & T. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 1003; Carswell v. Swindell, 102 Md. 636, 62 A. 956; Mohat v. Hutt [Neb.] 106 N. W. 659; Thompson v. Tucker, 15 Okl. 486, 83 P. 413; Babcock v. Leonard, 111 App. Div. 294, 97 N. Y. S. 861; General Elec. Co. v. Westinghouse El. & Mfg. Co., 144 F. 458; Carstarphen Warehouse Co. v. Fried, 124 Ga. 544, 52 S. E. 598; Schumacher v. Wright County Com'rs, 97 Minn. 74, 105 N. W. 1125; Continental Hose Co. v. Mitchell [N. D.] 105 N. W. 1108. Thus equity will not enjoin the prosecution of a legal action for a reason that can be set up as a defense to such action. Murray v. Barnes [Ala.] 40 So. 348. See, also, next succeeding section, Who and What May be Enjoined.

Held adequate: It will not enjoin the garnishment of exempt moneys since defendant in garnishment can assert his exemption in that proceeding. Sturges v. Jackson [Miss.] 40 So. 547. Legal remedy for injury to farm lands from pollution of stream by mining operations held adequate. McCarthy v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. & Coal Co., 147 F. 981. Where parties have a remedy by appeal from the action of a public board with reference to a particular matter, equity will not ordinarily intervene to enjoin the board from taking action thereon. Board of Com'rs of La Porte County v. Wolff [Ind.] 76 N. E. 247. Hence will not issue at instance of county court to enjoin refusal to allow inspection of records which the county court could compel respondent to allow to be inspected by its own order. McWilliams v. Burnes, 115 Mo. App. 6, 90 S. W. 735. The circuit court has no jurisdiction of a suit for a mandatory injunction directing a person who has the unlawful custody of an apprentice to surrender him to the master, the statutes affording the master a remedy therein provided. Brock v. Whittaker, 29 Ky. L. R. 477, 93 S. W. 623. Forcible entry and detainer and not injunction proper remedy where tenant wrongfully withholds possession after landlord's election to cancel lease pursuant to condition subsequent. Mitchell v. Hannah, 121 Ill. App. 597. For violation of covenant not to engage in certain business in certain place. Rice v. O'Neal, 120 Ill. App. 259. Equity will not restrain defendant from electing to waive a will, the probate court having power to afford ample relief. Clark v. Peck [Vt.] 65 A. 14. Where party in possession of estate with consent of executors is wasting it, remedy is by proceedings under V. S. 2380, 2384, and not by injunction to restrain waste, even though there is conspiracy between parties to rob estate. Id. Building of line fence on disputed boundary. Watkins v. Childs [Vt.] 65 A. 81. The proper remedy for one unlawfully arrested and whose vessels and fixtures are about to be seized for alleged unlawful sale of intoxicants under the "Jones Law" is in a petition in error, or a suit against the officials and their bondsmen for damages, or for a writ of habeas corpus, and not in an action for an injunction. Schmidt v. Brennan, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 239. Corrupt exercise of jurisdiction by justice of peace. Grossman v. Davis, 117 Ill. App. 354. In South Carolina injunction will not lie to enjoin the change of the grade of a street on the ground that it will cause plaintiff irreparable injury where the statute provides a mode for the assessment of damages, since there is an adequate remedy at law. Kendall v. City Council of Columbia [S. C.] 54 S. E. 777.

Held inadequate: Legal remedy of abutting owners for removal of sidewalk held inadequate. Nichols v. Sadorus, 120 Ill. App. 70. Conversion of railroad on a street into switch yard. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 47, 93 S. W. 177. Quo warranto is not adequate in case of the unlawful collection of tolls on a highway, the damages being not therein recoverable. State v. Louisiana, etc., Gravel Road Co., 116 Mo. App. 175, 92 S. W. 153.

18. One seeking to enjoin the collection of a tax on the ground that the valuation is excessive and that the proceedings incident to the levy of the tax were not in accordance with law must show that he has unsuccessfully availed himself of all the remedies afforded by the tax laws for the correction of the errors complained of. Humbird Lumber Co. v. Thompson, 11 Idaho, 614, 83 P. 941.

19. Ozark-Bell Tel. Co. v. Springfield, 140 F. 666. That the legislature has given to a defendant in an action at law the privilege at his election of asserting in defense thereof matters which were formerly cognizable only in equity does not deprive the defendant of his right to enjoin such an action pending the determination of his claims in a court of equity. Harvey v. Ryan [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 7.

20. Adams v. Oberndorf, 121 Ill. App. 497.

would prevent a multiplicity of actions is a persuasive but not conclusive reason for the taking of jurisdiction by a court of equity.[21] Jurisdiction will not be entertained on such ground where the court would have power to consolidate the actions,[22] or in a case not more subject to multiplied suits than others of its class.[23]

In some cases the books assert that one seeking an injunction must show that he will suffer great[24] or irreparable injury[25] if its relief is not extended. In such case the jurisdiction would be justified by the inadequacy of the remedy at law. But it has been said that insolvency of the person sought to be enjoined is never of itself a sufficient ground for the exercise of the extraordinary power. That there must be some other equitable ground with insolvency,[26] that the threatened wrong could not be adequately compensated for in damages, and that it would be impossible or difficult to measure them by any pecuniary standard, would alone seem to constitute irreparable injury justifying the jurisdiction, though the cases generally join with the foregoing elements the insolvency of the defendant.[27] An injunction will not issue at the request of a stranger to prevent conspiracy from coercing another unless irreparable injury to the stranger from such coercion is shown.[28] If the injury is irreparable and complainant is otherwise entitled to the relief, it is error to deny it on condition that defendant give bond to pay damages.[29] An injunction may be granted to enjoin the doing of acts of a continuous nature,[30] and under some circumstances the court may decree that the relief shall be afforded only in case the respondent fails or refuses to pay damages assessed by the court.[31]

21. Ozark-Bell Tel. Co. v. Springfield, 140 F. 666. Equity will not enjoin the breach of a contract which is of such a character that it cannot decree its specific performance merely because from time to time complainant would have successive cause of action for damages on the ground that the injunction would prevent a multiplicity of actions. General Electric Co. v. Westinghouse El. & Mfg. Co., 144 F. 458. Equity will enjoin one engaged in the business of "ticket scalping" from buying and selling nontransferable railroad tickets for the reason that doing so would prevent a multiplicity of suits and that it would be difficult to detect each offense and determine the pecuniary injury suffered by the railroad company. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bitterman, 144 F. 34.

22. Equity will not enjoin the collection of alleged illegal taxes because the tax is levied on several separate tracts for the purpose of preventing a multiplicity of statutory proceedings to contest the validity of the tax where the court has power to consolidate such proceedings. City of Gainsville v. Dean, 124 Ga. 750, 53 S. E. 183.

23. Jurisdiction to enjoin waste of decedent's estate cannot be sustained on ground of prevention of multiplicity of suits where no special reason for such jurisdiction is urged which might not be urged in regard to every testate estate. Clark v. Peck [Vt.] 65 A. 14.

24. It is not necessary that irreparable injury should be threatened before equity will grant relief by injunction, but it is enough if it is shown that the party will suffer great injury. Brugh v. Denman [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 349.

25. Brown v. Atlantic & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 55 S. E. 24. Remedy should never be allowed except in clear case of irreparable injury. County of Henry v. Stevens, 120 Ill. App. 344. In an action to enjoin a threatened trespass the bill must show that the complainant will suffer irreparable injury and that defendant is insolvent. Carswell v. Swindell, 102 Md. 636, 62 A. 956. An injury is irreparable when it is of such a character that it cannot be measured by money value, as where the property threatened with injury has a value aside from its intrinsic value. East Lake Lumber Co. v. East Coast Cedar Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 304. Held no irreparable injury from millinery trimmer employed by plaintiff engaging in employment with others during life of her contract with plaintiff. Rabinwich v. Reith, 120 Ill. App. 409. Repeated daily refusal to perform duty as common carrier at request of a stockyards company held irreparable. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Stockyards Co. [Ky.] 97 S. W. 778.

26. Gossard Co. v. Crosby [Iowa] 109 N. W. 433; Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597. The mere fact that one of three joint trespassers is insolvent does not show that the injury is irreparable or that the remedy at law is inadequate. Bledsoe v. Robinett [Va.] 54 S. E. 861.

27. Cole v. Manners [Neb.] 107 N. W. 777.

28. Leonard v. Abner Drury Brew. Co., 25 App. D. C. 161.

29. Hart v. Lewis, Shore & Co. [Ga.] 55 S. E. 189.

30. Equity will enjoin the doing of acts of a continuous nature injurious to complainant and for which he has no adequate remedy at law and the complainant will not be required to apply for an injunction each time a wrong of such nature is threatened. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bitterman, 144 F. 34.

31. In a suit for injunction the right of a court of equity to assess damages for the continuance of acts by defendant which con-

Injury must be substantially harmful, particularly to warrant mandatory injunction.[32]

Equity will not enjoin the doing of anything which the respondent has a lawful right to do,[33] and being equitable it will not aid one engaged in a dishonest or immoral business in carrying on such business,[34] nor to one who is himself guilty of the unlawful practices he seeks to enjoin[35] or other inequity.[36]

Laches in asserting a right may,[37] though it does not necessarily,[38] defeat the right to injunctive relief.

§ 2. Particular occasions for injunction; who and what may be enjoined. A. In general.[39]—Every injunction is grounded on general rules growing out of the nature of the remedy[40] and the main principles of equity.[41] Statutory injunctions are allowable in particular situations or for the protection of particular rights.[42] The question who may be enjoined is usually reducible to one of parstitutes a continuous injury to complainant and order an injunction to issue only in case the damages are not paid does not depend on the consent of the complainants. Where the party suffering from a nuisance brings an action for damages, inducing the belief that the nuisance can be continued in case damages are paid and the defendant thereafter expends money in extending his business on such assumption and complainant is not diligent in applying for an injunction, equity will on an application for injunction assess damages for the continuance of the nuisance and issue an injunction only in case defendant refuses to pay. McCleery v. Highland Boy Gold Min. Co., 140 F. 951.

32. Mandatory injunction to compel replacing of drain where it had been refused because relocation was benefit and not detriment. Dunn v. Youmans, 224 Ill. 34, 79 N. E. 321.

33. Thus will not restrain garnishment of workman's wages, though exempt and though employer enforces rule to discharge employees having wages garnished. Sturges v. Jackson [Miss.] 40 So. 547. The fact that the plaintiff in ejectment intends to make an unlawful disposition of the premises, if recovered, does not constitute a ground for enjoining the action of ejectment by the defendant therein. Murray v. Barnes [Ala.] 40 So. 348. Equity will not enjoin railroads from altering their route or condemning land for that purpose when necessary or desirable for the purpose of erecting and using a union depot as required by Revisal 1905, § 1097, subd. 3. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line [N. C.] 55 S. E. 292.

34. Toledo Computing Scale Co. v. Computing Scale Co., 142 F. 919.

35. A complainant who has himself by fraud obtained knowledge of a secret process for manufacturing an article cannot enjoin another who has similarly by fraud obtained such secret from him from using such process. Vulcan Detinning Co. v. American Can Co. [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 881.

36. Interference with construction of line fence will not be restrained where plaintiff destroyed previous fence in order to erect another and to charge defendant with one-half cost thereof. Auman v. Cunfer, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 368. See Equity, 7 C. L. 1323.

37. Johnson v. Oldham [Ala.] 40 So. 213. See, also, Kenneweg v. Allegany County Com'rs, 102 Md. 119, 62 A. 249. The complainant in a bill to enforce by injunction the restrictive covenants of a deed must apply promptly for the relief. If he is guilty of delay and the respondent has expended money in reliance on complainant's apparent acquiescence in the violation of the covenant, relief will be denied. Island Heights Ass'n v. Island Heights Water Power, Gas & Sewer Co. [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 773. Where the owner of land has failed to seasonably assert his right to an injunction to prevent a trespass by overflowing his premises by the construction of a dam and has stated his willingness to accept damages and the dam has been built in reliance on such position, equity will refuse a mandatory injunction to compel the removal of the dam but will relegate the party to his action for damages. Andrus v. Berkshire Power Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 76. A mandatory injunction to require defendant to restore a way to the condition in which it was before defendant had unlawfully made excavations therein will not issue where it appears that it would be inequitable or oppressive to do so and that complainant has delayed an unreasonable time in seeking to enforce his right and the injury is not serious and can be compensated in damages. Levi v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 853. Delay of representatives of farming lands in seeking injunction against pollution of stream by mining operations until extensive improvements had been made in such operations. McCarthy v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. Co., 147 F. 981.

38. Delay in applying for injunctive relief, while not conclusive as to a continuing nuisance, is properly a matter for consideration in connection with other equities. Knoth v. Manhattan R. Co., 109 App. Div. 802, 96 N. Y. S. 844. Mere delay in asserting a right will not necessarily preclude relief, there must also be shown a change in the situation of the parties whereby the one has been put in a worse position by the delay of the other. Bishop v. Merchants' Nat. Bank [Neb.] 106 N. W. 996.

39. See 6 C. L. 10.

40. See ante, § 1.

41. See Equity, 7 C. L. 1328.

42. See topics treating of such rights, e. g. Corporations, 7 C. L. 862; Intoxicating Liquors, 6 C. L. 165.

ties[43] or one of the nature of the remedy[44] or one of the nature of the particular wrong.[45]

(§ 2) B. Actions or proceedings.[46]—Injunctive power is not designed to supplant another jurisdiction.[47] Because of the remedy at law an action will not be restrained where the equity relied on is available as a defense at law,[48] but only where the defense involves some equitable element which cannot be applied in the action at law,[49] or the party seeking it is entitled to some relief which cannot be afforded in the action at law.[50] Hence, where the courts possess both law and equity jurisdiction, they will not enjoin an action to enable the defendant therein to establish an equitable right, since it may be set up by answer in the action sought to be enjoined.[51] Actions jeopardizing the status quo may be restrained till rights therein are determined[52] but not to protect a fabricated and collusive bill of interpleader.[53]

43. See post, § 3.
44. See ante, § 1.
45. See post, § 2B-I.
46. See 6 C. L. 11.
47. Equity may use its restraining power to assist probate court in giving full relief but not to restrict or supplant the latter's jurisdiction. Clark v. Peck [Vt.] 65 A. 14.
48. Standard Roller Bearing Co. v. Crucible Steel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 546; Fraley & Carey Co. v. Delmont, 110 App. Div. 468, 97 N. Y. S. 408; Ray v. Anderson, 125 Ga. 502, 54 S. E. 356; Waters v. Waters, 124 Ga. 349, 52 S. E. 425. A suit in equity to enjoin the prosecution of an action at law will not lie where the bill merely traverses the truth of the allegations of the complaint in the action at law. Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 140 F. 337.
49. Equity will enjoin the prosecution of an action of forcible entry and unlawful detainer where the interposition of a court of equity is necessary to first establish their title. Butler v. Topkis [Del.] 63 A. 646. Equity will enjoin the prosecution of an action at law on promissory notes pending the determination of an accounting between the parties to ascertain how much is owing on the notes where the making of a defense in the action at law requires the defendant to state under oath the sum actually due on them. Horner v. Nitsch [Md.] 63 A. 1052. Where all the parties are not before the court or where the issues involved cannot be disposed of in the action at law, its prosecution may be stayed and the issues determined in an equity action. Fraley & Carey Co. v. Delmont, 110 App. Div. 468, 97 N. Y. S. 408. A court of equity may enjoin an action in ejectment where it appears the complainant while in possession of the premises with the acquiescence of defendant made valuable improvements thereon. South & N. A. R. Co. v. Alabama G. S. R. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 307. Equity has jurisdiction to restrain the prosecution of an action at law to recover on a guardian's bond where the wards, for years after reaching their majority, failed to demand an accounting and moved only after the death of the guardian and one of the sureties and by their laches the defendant is unable to find evidence of the guardian's transactions. Clark v. Chase [Me.] 64 A. 498. Equity will enjoin the prosecution of a mandamus proceeding against a corporation by a majority stockholder of a corporation whereby he seeks to compel an issue of stock to him in violation of his contract with complainants in the injunction suit, the corporation not being a party to the contract and hence unable to assert such contract as a defense to the mandamus proceeding. Hladovec v. Paul, 222 Ill. 254, 78 N. E. 619.
50. Standard Roller Bearing Co. v. Crucible Steel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 546. Whether or not a court of equity will enjoin an action at law brought on a contract alleged to have been procured by fraud depends on the circumstances of the particular case and is within the discretion of the circuit judge. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Blain, 144 Mich. 218, 13 Det. Leg. N. 145, 107 N. W. 877.
51. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. McKelgue, 126 Wis. 574, 105 N. W. 1030. Under the judicial system in vogue in Louisiana, where the courts possess equally law and equity powers, an injunction will not issue to restrain the prosecution of a suit by defendant pending an action by complainant concerning the same subject-matter. Lewis v. D'Albor, 116 La. 679, 41 So. 31. In Georgia, since the passage of the uniform procedure act of 1887, a plaintiff, in one action, may seek both legal and equitable relief, but in such an action he is not entitled to an interlocutory injunction under circumstances which are such that interlocutory relief could not be obtained prior to that act. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [Ga.] 54 S. E. 929.
52. In Virginia and West Virginia a purchaser of real estate may enjoin an action to collect the unpaid purchase price where he is in possession under a deed with covenants of general warranty and his title has been questioned by suit prosecuted or threatened or the title is clearly shown to be defective. Harvey v. Ryan [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 7. Where a school board has taken possession of land under an attempted exercise of the power of eminent domain, which, however, is void, and erected valuable improvements thereon, equity may enjoin the issuance of a writ of ouster against the board in an action brought by the lot owner where the board have commenced new condemnation proceedings. Aldridge v. Board of Education of Stillwater, 15 Okl. 354, 82 P. 827.
53. An injunction to restrain an action of replevin against one holding property

Multiplicity will support injunction where harassing suits are concertedly brought,[54] or where there are threatened successive actions on a cause of action resisted on a ground which would defeat, if successful, a recovery on any one of them,[55] or where the cause of action is already determined in favor of defendant,[56] or where an action is brought in a distant state for the purpose of harassing the defendant,[57] but disconnected actions will not be forbidden merely because they are numerous.[58] An injunction will not be granted to stay proceedings in another equitable suit, either on application of the parties to the proceeding to be restrained, their privies, or of strangers thereto, when the relief sought is procurable in the suit sought to be enjoined.[59] The Federal statutes expressly prohibit the Federal courts from enjoining actions in the state courts,[60] but this does not prevent Federal courts from enjoining acts concerning which actions are pending in the state courts at the suit of persons not parties to the actions sought to be enjoined.[61] claimed by another, pending the determination of a bill of interpleader, will be dissolved where it is shown that it was procured by the collusive action of the defendant in replevin and the claimant and that the interpleader stood in collusion to the claimant. Mossman v. Thorson, 118 Ill. App. 574.

54. Granted against suits on false demands instructed by different parties pursuant to conspiracy to harass complainant. Adams v. Oberndorf, 121 Ill. App. 497.

55. A court of equity may enjoin the commencement of successive actions for the collection of instalments owing under a contract where in the first action the defendant therein disputed the plaintiff's right to recover at all on the contract, and an appeal from a judgment in favor of plaintiff is pending and undetermined. Fraley & Carey Co. v. Delmont, 110 App. Div. 468, 97 N. Y. S. 408. In an action to restrain successive actions for instalments accruing under a contract, where it appears that defendant in the first action brought has interposed a defense going to the right to collect anything under the contract sued on, the court should enjoin the commencement of new actions if security is given, but should not attempt to determine the merits of the action pending when the injunction order is issued. Id. A Federal court may enjoin the prosecution of separate actions at law instituted before it against the same defendant by different plaintiffs involving the same subject-matter so as to enable the defendant to make his defense thereto, though some of the parties defendant in the injunction suit may be citizens of the same state as plaintiff, since such suit is ancillary to the actions at law. South Penn Oil Co. v. Calf Creek Oil & Gas Co., 140 F. 507.

56. A state court will not enjoin the prosecution of vexatious litigation in a Federal court commenced before the filing of the bill. Lyons v. Importers' & Traders' Nat. Bank, 214 Pa. 428, 63 A. 827.

57. Equity may enjoin the prosecution of actions in distant states, evidently brought for the purpose of harassing defendant therein by requiring him to produce evidence and records a long distance from its main place of business on condition complainant will appear to an action in the courts of its domicile. Standard Roller Bearing Co. v. Crucible Steel Co. [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 546. A citizen can be enjoined by the courts of the state of which he is a resident from instituting a suit in another state where the institution of the foreign suit would embarrass the courts of the state of the defendant's domicile and they have jurisdiction of the subject-matter and defendant can assert all his rights therein. In re Williams' Estate, 130 Iowa, 552, 107 N. W. 608. A court of equity may enjoin a creditor of a decedent, who is a resident within its jurisdiction, from instituting probate proceedings in another jurisdiction where it appears that probate proceedings were properly commenced in the territorial jurisdiction of the court granting the injunction. Id.

58. Multiplicity not available as ground for injunction to restrain assignee of wages from suing employer in successive actions as wages become due. Independent Credit Co. v. South Chicago City R. Co., 121 Ill. App. 595. Equity will not enjoin an action on a contract to recover money due thereunder merely because many creditors of the plaintiff have garnished the defendant in the law action. Plaintiff has a right to trial by jury of which he will not be deprived. Deepwater R. Co. v. Motter & Co. [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 705.

59. Hence injunction will not issue at suit of an attorney to restrain his client from dismissing an action instituted by the attorney, and which it is alleged he fraudulently settled or is about to settle with intent to deprive the attorney of his lien, since the attorney can by giving notice continue the suit against the defendant to recover his fees. Jackson v. Stearns [Or.] 84 P. 798.

60. Rev. St. U. S. § 720, does not prohibit a Federal court from enjoining proceedings in a state court where such injunction is ancillary to a decree rendered in a suit over which the Federal court has jurisdiction. Gunter v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 200 U. S. 273, 50 Law. Ed. 477.

61. Rev. St. U. S. § 720, providing that the Federal courts shall not enjoin the prosecution of actions in the state courts, does not preclude a nonresident from bringing suit to enjoin a railroad from occupying its property, though it has commenced condemnation proceedings to which complainant is not a party. It will not, however, enjoin the prosecution of condemnation proceedings against

Equity has no jurisdiction to enjoin the prosecution of a criminal proceeding, even though the prosecution is based on a void or unconstitutional ordinance or statute,[62] unless some property or property right of the defendant will be injured thereby.[63]

A court of equity does not interfere with judgments at law unless the complainant has an equitable defense of which he could not avail himself at law, or had a good defense at law which he was prevented from availing himself of by fraud or accident, unmixed with negligence of himself or his agents.[64] It will not issue for a reason which would have constituted a defense to the action in which the judgment was rendered,[65] nor where after knowledge of the facts the judgment debtor had a complete and adequate remedy by appeal.[66] One seeking to enjoin the the defendant. Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 141 F. 898. U. S. Rev. St. § 720, prohibiting Federal courts from enjoining actions in the state courts, has no application and does not preclude the issuance of an injunction by the Federal courts to restrain certain acts, though the right to performance of such acts is involved in an action in the state courts in which the parties are not the same and other and different relief is sought. New York Cotton Exch. v. Hunt, 144 F. 511.

62. Littleton v. Burgess, 14 Wyo. 173, 82 P. 864; City of Chicago v. Chicago City R. Co., 222 Ill. 560, 78 N. E. 890; Smiser v. Cynthiana, 29 Ky. L. R. 1244, 97 S. W. 35. A prosecution for violating a municipal ordinance will not be enjoined on the ground the ordinance is illegal since the illegality is available as a defense to the prosecution. Thompson v. Tucker, 15 Okl. 486, 83 P. 413.

63. Courts of equity will in proper cases enjoin an attempt to enforce a law or ordinance making certain acts a criminal offense and imposing a punishment, where the law or ordinance is invalid and its enforcement will injure or destroy plaintiff's property or property rights, but it will not interfere where the law is valid and the defense is available in the criminal action. Sullivan v. San Francisco Gas & Elec. Co., 148 Cal. 368, 83 P. 156. Ordinarily, equity will not interfere by injunction with criminal proceedings. If, however, a statute concerning which an arrest or criminal prosecution is threatened affects civil property rights, equity in protecting the property right may enjoin the criminal proceeding; also where a suit is pending in equity and a criminal prosecution is instituted for the purpose of testing the same right the equity court may, as a condition of affording the party relief, require that he abandon the criminal proceeding. Flaherty v. Fleming, 58 W. Va. 669, 52 S. E. 857. Ordinarily a court of equity has no jurisdiction to restrain the prosecution of a criminal proceeding unless such proceeding is instituted by a party to a suit already pending in equity to try the same right in issue in such suit. But where the ordinance or statute under which the prosecutions are had is clearly void and irreparable injury to property rights may result from their enforcement, equity may enjoin the prosecution. Cain v. Daly [S. C.] 55 S. E. 110.

64. Emerson v. Gray [Del.] 63 A. 768. Equity will enjoin the enforcement of a judgment entered against complainant by his excusable neglect, but where he admits that he owes a part of the debt on which the judgment was entered will dissolve the injunction so far as it restrains the enforcement of the judgment to the extent of the admitted indebtedness. Kirk v. Gover, 29 Ky. L. R. 1046, 96 S. W. 824. Refused where plaintiff neglected chance in scire facias to revive judgment to assert claim that it was fraudulent. McCormick v. McCormick [Md.] 65 A. 54.

Injunction allowed against enforcement of judgment based on forfeiture for breach of conditions where valid tender of performance was made after breach but before judgment was obtained. Ordway v. Farrow [Vt.] 64 A. 1116. To restrain collection of judgment by assignees thereof who were themselves equitably bound to pay it. Haas v. Holt [Ala.] 40 So. 51. Execution of a writ of habere facias at the suit of one in possession claiming title and who was not a party to the suit in which the writ was issued. Bennett v. Preston [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 562. Sale on execution of property which stands in the name of the debtor but which in fact and equity is the property of another. Neeley v. Bank of Independence, 114 Mo. App. 467, 89 S. W. 907. Collection of certain judgments by one to whom the claims on which the judgments are based was assigned with intent to defraud the creditors of the assignor pending a suit by a receiver of the latter to have the claims and judgments adjudged to him. Fine v. Rabinbauer, 49 Misc. 437, 99 N. Y. S. 896. Execution sale on a judgment in an action in which he was not served with a summons and in which he did not appear, irrespective of the solvency of the judgment creditor. Robinson v. Carlton, 29 Ky. L. R. 876, 96 S. W. 549.

65. Equity will not enjoin the enforcement of judgment for reasons which would have been a defense to the action in which the judgment was rendered and which the complainant was not prevented from pleading by any act of the judgment creditor. Wilson v. Cook [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 144, 91 S. W. 236. Equity will not enjoin the enforcement of a judgmsnt in an ejectment suit on the ground that the defendant in such suit against whom the judgment was rendered had acquired title by adverse possession, since such defense was available in the ejectment proceeding. Johnson v. Oldham [Ala.] 40 So. 213.

66. Church v. Gallic, 75 Ark. 507, 88 S. W.

enforcement of a judgment rendered without service of process must allege and prove facts showing that he has a good defense to the action in which the judgment was rendered.[67] An allegation simply that he has a good defense to such action is insufficient.[68] In the absence of a showing of lack of jurisdiction to enter the judgment complained of, injunction will not lie to prevent the levy of execution on a foreign judgment.[69]

(§ 2) C. Public, official, and municipal acts[70] may be restrained when illegal and irremediable at law or when within some recognized head of equitable cognizance, as where they constitute a nuisance or continuing trespass.[71] Acts which are wholly nugatory and harmless will not be enjoined.[72] The discretionary powers of officers will not be controlled[73] nor will the function of mandamus be assumed.[74]

Injunction should not issue to compel the admission of one not in possession of a public office to the enjoyment thereof,[75] nor can one who has not a prima facie

67. Equity will not enjoin the collection of a judgment of which complainant had notice in time to appeal where the bill does not allege any circumstance of fraud, accident, or mistake which prevented him from so doing, the remedy by appeal being complete. Groesman v. Davis, 117 Ill. App. 354. Equity will not enjoin the enforcement of a judgment entered by reason of his excusable default where he failed to avail himself of the remedy by appeal, he having an opportunity to do so. Hoskins v. Nichols, 48 Misc. 465, 96 N. Y. S. 926. A court of equity will not enjoin the enforcement of a judgment obtained without due service of process so long as there remains open to the aggrieved party an adequate remedy by appeal or writ of error or certiorari. Lasher v. Annunziata, 119 Ill. App. 653.

67. To enjoin a judgment as void on account of want of service of process, there being no appearance to the action, it is necessary to allege and prove that he has a meritorious defense to the action in which the judgment was rendered. Meyer v. Wilson [Ind.] 76 N. E. 748. By virtue of the Illinois statute and independently thereof a court of equity will not enjoin the enforcement of a judgment on the ground that the court did not lawfully acquire jurisdiction of the person of the debtor, unless it is alleged that complainant has a valid defense to the cause of action on which the judgment was entered. Young v. Deneen, 220 Ill. 350, 77 N. E. 193.

68. In a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a judgment the complainant must allege facts and circumstances which show that his defense to the action at law was good and sufficient; an allegation that he has and had a good defense is not sufficient. Emerson v. Gray [Del.] 63 A. 768. Equity will not enjoin the enforcement of a judgment even though rendered without service of summons on the judgment debtor, where the bill does not show that he has a good defense on the merits, by setting out the matter in controversy and the facts constituting his defense thereto or at least alleging ignorance of the basis of the plaintiff's claim. Lasher v. Annunziata, 119 Ill. App. 653.

69. Howard v. Kinney Co., 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 568.

70. See 6 C. L. 14.

71. Equity will by injunction require a city to so care for surface water collected on its streets that it shall not be thrown or conducted onto plaintiff's premises in a greater quantity than it would have been but for its accumulation by the city improvements. Cromer v. Logansport [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 1045. The provisions of a city charter requiring one asserting a claim against the city to present a verified claim. and for the appointment of commissioners to appraise the damages, as a prerequisite to the right to maintain an action therefor against the city, has no application to a suit to enjoin the maintenance by the city of a continuing nuisance, though incidentally damages for past injuries are asked for. Lamay v. Fulton, 109 App. Div. 424, 96 N. Y. S. 703.

72. An injunction restraining the mayor of a city from approving the grant of a franchise by the city council will be vacated where it is claimed that the grant is illegal since the mayor's approval of an illegal act will not give it any validity. Smith v. Buffalo, 99 N. Y. S. 986.

73. A mandatory injunction will not lie to compel a municipal corporation to do acts as to the doing of which it is vested with discretionary powers. City of Vicksburg v. Vicksburg Waterworks Co., 202 U. S. 453, 50 Law. Ed. 1102.

74. Where an officer refuses to perform a plain duty, unmixed with discretion, the remedy is by mandamus and not mandatory injunction. Mandamus is always issued after a trial and never in vacation by a judge. Hager v. New South Brewing Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 895, 90 S. W. 608. Where a school board has enacted an alleged unlawful requirement for admission to the public schools, the remedy of a parent whose child has been denied admission is by mandamus and not by injunction to restrain the enforcement of the requirement. McCaskill v. Bower [Ga.] 54 S. E. 942; Harley v. Lindemann [Wis.] 109 N. W. 570. The effect of filing affidavits of prejudice and bias against a common pleas judge is to disqualify him from presiding at the trial of the cause, and a declaration by the judge in open court of his intention to proceed with the trial, notwithstanding the filing of the affidavit, is sufficient ground for a proceeding in mandamus and injunction. State v. Dirlam, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 457.

title to an office enjoin another from exercising the duties thereof,[76] but where one peacefully in possession of an office is forcibly dispossessed he may have an injunction to compel his restoration and peaceable possession pending an orderly adjudication of his title.[77] So too, one in peaceable possession may restrain another from exercising the functions of the office or interfering with his doing so.[78] Violation of trust and abuse of power by municipal authorities may be enjoined,[79] and one may be protected who under proper permission has lawfully begun to move buildings on streets from an official withdrawal of permission.[80]

Unlawful disposition of the public moneys is remediable by injunction,[81] also the incurring of an unauthorized indebtedness to be paid out of public funds when it appears that the doing so will be prejudicial to complainant.[82]

Equity will enjoin the assessment and collection of an illegal tax or assessment[83] if there is, in addition to its illegality, some equitable ground for the interposition

75. Blain v. Chippewa Circuit Judge [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 394, 108 N. W. 440. The title to a public office and the right to exercise the functions thereof by a person claiming the title thereto cannot be determined in an action for injunction. Will not lie to restrain teacher from teaching under contract with de facto school board. School Dist. No. 77 v. Cowgill [Neb.] 107 N. W. 584; Hill v. Anderson, 28 Ky. L. R. 1032, 90 S. W. 1071.

76. One who has not a prima facie title to a public office cannot maintain a suit in equity to enjoin another from exercising the duties thereof or from obtaining the books, records, and paraphernalia belonging to it. Quo warranto is the proper remedy. Hubbell v. Armijo [N. M.] 85 P. 1046.

77. Blain v. Chippewa Circuit Judge [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 394, 108 N. W. 440.

78. Even a de facto officer may maintain such a proceeding. Callaghan v. Tobin [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 269, 90 S. W. 328; Callaghan v. Irwin [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 289, 90 S. W. 335. Injunction is the proper remedy where municipal authorities threaten to unlawfully appoint a successor of a municipal officer and to dispossess him of his office. Callaghan v. McGown [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 280, 90 S. W. 319. A teacher who has entered into a valid contract to teach a certain school can enjoin another who also claims the right to teach such school from interfering with or molesting the complainant in teaching the school. Treadway v. Daniels' Adm'r, 29 Ky. L. R. 33, 92 S. W. 981.

79. Unauthorized adoption of resolution for removal of sidewalk and threatened removal of same held abuse of power and violation of trust to wanton injury of property rights. Nichols v. Sadorus, 120 Ill. App. 70. Where county commissioners have wrongfully interfered with the judicial duties of a township board relative to schools, and the illegality of their action does not appear on the face of the record of their proceedings but is shown by evidence contrary to what appears on the record, injunction is the proper remedy for the township board. Board of Education of Wayne Tp. v. Shaul, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 483.

80. Hinman v. Clark, 51 Misc. 252, 100 N. Y. S. 1068.

81. Allen v. Milwaukee, 128 Wis. 678, 106 N. W. 1099. A taxpayer may enjoin the appropriation of public moneys to the payment of illegal claims against the municipality or any board or department thereof. Lindblad v. Board of Education of Normal School Dist., 221 Ill. 261, 77 N. E. 450. Equity at the suit of the attorney general will enjoin a board of county commissioners from paying out county funds under a void contract. Brown v. State [Kan.] 84 P. 549. An alderman of a city may in his individual capacity join with other taxpayers to enjoin an ultra vires act of the municipality. Gillespie v. Gibbs [Ala.] 41 So. 868. A suit to enjoin the officers of a municipal corporation from appropriating corporate funds for an ultra vires purpose, the corporation being under the control of the officers engaged in the unlawful act, may be maintained by taxpayers but in such case the corporation should be joined as a party defendant. Id.

82. Unlawful disposition of public money. Shoemaker v. Des Moines, 129 Iowa, 244, 105 N. W. 520. Evidence held not to show that complainant would be injured in his business or his property subjected to an unlawful assessment by reason of municipal corporation engaging in buying and selling of coal so as to confer jurisdiction on the superior court to restrain such business under Pub. Acts 1903, p. 260. Baker v. Grand Rapids, 142 Mich. 687, 12 Det. Leg. N. 879, 106 N. W. 208. That a contract entered into by a school board is null and void does not of itself afford a reason for the issuance of an injunction by a taxpayer where it does not appear that plaintiff is prejudiced in any way by its being performed. Lindblad v. Board of Education of Normal School Dist., 221 Ill. 261, 77 N. E. 450; Id., 122 Ill. App. 617. A private corporation which is a taxpayer may enjoin a municipality from entering into any contract which would entail a misappropriation of the city's funds, where the circumstances are such that an individual taxpayer could do so, irrespective of the fact that its motive in doing so is to prevent competition with its own business. Owensboro Waterworks Co. v. Owensboro, 29 Ky. L. R. 1118, 96 S. W. 867.

83. Campbell v. Bryant, 104 Va. 509, 53 S. E. 638; Arnold v. Knoxville, 115 Tenn. 195, 90 S. W. 469; City of Atlanta v. Jacobs, 125 Ga. 528, 54 S. E. 534.

of such relief[84] and there is no statutory method for contesting its validity;[86] and if the injunction will protect and not complicate rights.[86]

Equity will enjoin the holding of an election which is in violation of the laws and constitution of a state[87] at the suit of a resident and taxpayer of the district in which the election is to be held.[88] That a contract imposes an ill advised indebtedness is not alone a ground for injunction[89] and it will not issue against performance of a contract on the sole ground that it is ultra vires[90] or that there is a suffered illegality which the contract does not require.[91] Complainant must have an interest to be affected by a threatened illegal contract.[92]

(§ 2) D. Enforcement of statutes and ordinances.[93]—A court of equity may enjoin a public officer from attempting to enforce an unconstitutional statute by confiscation of complainant's property where its enforcement would result in a multiplicity of suits and irreparable injury which could not be redressed in an action at law.[94] Ordinarily it will not enjoin the prosecution of criminal proceedings under alleged illegal statutes or ordinances,[95] though such relief has been granted on the ground that such action would prevent numerous arrests and prosecutions.[96]

84. In California injunction will not lie to restrain the collection of a tax merely on the ground that it is illegal; it must appear that there is no adequate remedy at law for the protection of complainant's property rights. If the act sought to be enjoined would cloud complainant's title and the tax is illegal the injunction will issue. Crocker v. Scott [Cal.] 87 P. 102.

Federal courts of equity will not enjoin the levy or collection of a tax on the single ground of illegality, but there must be some special circumstance, such as the avoidance of a multiplicity of suits, or some injury that cannot be remedied by an action of law or some other equitable ground, in addition to its illegality. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Newman, 141 F. 449. Equity will not enjoin the collection of a tax levied by municipal authorities pursuant to law unless it appears that the officers charged with making the levy have acted fraudulently to complainant's prejudice. National Tube Co. v. Shearer [Del.] 62 A. 1093.

85. Equity will not enjoin the collection of taxes because of the alleged illegality of the levy where the taxpayer has a statutory remedy for contesting the validity. City of Gainesville v. Dean, 124 Ga. 750, 53 S. E. 183.

86. Injunction against collection in a city of taxes to pay county bonds alleged to be for debts chargeable only on that portion of the county outside the city refused because tending to complicate bondholders' rights. Slutts v. Dana [Iowa] 109 N. W. 794.

87. Will not interfere unless it is so. Conner v. Gray [Miss.] 41 So. 186.

88. Residents of a parish, but not within the limits of a municipality situate therein and having no property therein, have no right to an injunction restraining the citizens and inhabitants of the city from enacting ordinances touching local option and holding elections in the city. Marshall v. Mansura, 116 La. 743, 41 So. 56.

89. In a taxpayer's action to restrain the performance of a contract, equity will not grant relief unless the public officers are acting without authority or are guilty of fraud. That the contract is ill advised is not alone sufficient. Walter v. McClellan, 48 Misc. 215, 96 N. Y. S. 479. Though a court of equity may enjoin a municipal corporation at the suit of a taxpayer from applying money raised by taxation to illegal or unauthorized uses, it cannot enjoin from carrying out a legal contract though such contract be an ill advised one. Cox v. Jones, 73 N. H. 504, 63 A. 178.

90. It must appear that the public revenues will be affected injuriously. County of Henry v. Stevens, 120 Ill. App. 344.

91. Permitting students in Normal school to teach in public school without certificate, contract being silent as to that. Lindblad v. Board of Education of Normal School Dist., 122 Ill. App. 617.

92. Complainant cannot enjoin a municipality from reletting a contract which he has voluntarily forfeited by failure to commence to perform within the time fixed for its completion. Brown & Co. v. Pottawattamie County Sup'rs, 129 Iowa, 533, 105 N. W. 1019.

93. See 6 C. L. 16.

94. Jewett Bros. v. Small [S. D.] 105 N. W. 738. Equity may enjoin the enforcement of an invalid ordinance where complainant has no adequate remedy at law. Angle v. Stroudsburg Borough, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 601. In the absence of statutory authority the United States cannot maintain a suit in equity to enjoin a violation of the Sherman interstate commerce act prohibiting the giving of rebates, though giving of such rebates is clearly violative of the policy of the government. United States v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 142 F. 176. A bill will lie to enjoin a city and its officers from taking any proceedings under an unconstitutional statute to annex a smaller contiguous city. Sample v. Pittsburg, 212 Pa. 533, 62 A. 201.

95. Salter v. Columbus, 125 Ga. 96, 54 S. E. 74. Will not restrain a threatened prosecution for a nuisance (keeping hogs) at the instance of one who has not established the lawfulness of such keeping and is not threatened with multiplied suits. City of Tyler v. Story [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 402, 97 S. W. 856.

(§ 2) E. Exercise of right of eminent domain.[97]—A quasi public or municipal corporation may be enjoined from taking land under its power of eminent domain where the land is exempt from the exercise of such power,[98] or it is not proceeding to condemn the land in the manner provided by statute,[99] or is taking under a false assumption of a right acquired.[1] If the defendant has no power to take land under such power it will be enjoined from maintaining proceedings purporting to do so.[2]

(§ 2) F. Acts affecting rights in highways and public or quasi public places.[3]—Where an obstruction of a street will amount to a public nuisance it may be restrained[4] at the suit of the city or public law officer,[5] but not at the suit of a private person unless it appears that he will sustain some special injury aside from that sustained by the public.[6] The opening of a street will not be enjoined for one who has no interest in it.[7] In otherwise proper cases there may be injunction to enjoin the vacation of a street,[8] the laying of water pipes therein by a private corporation,[9] the habitual use thereof by a traction engine and trailers,[10] the unlawful collection of tolls by a turnpike company,[11] the maintenance of a free bridge within prohibited

96. The enforcement of a city ordinance "which has not been held invalid" may be enjoined where its validity is attacked and issuing of the injunction will prevent numerous arrests for its violation. Kappes v. Chicago, 119 Ill. App. 436.

97. See 6 C. L. 16.

98. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 4708 et seq., a railroad can be enjoined from taking any part of the land used and occupied by a cemetery for cemetery purposes, even though the land proposed to be taken is not actually occupied by graves. In such case it is immaterial whether the title to such land is held by an association or by individuals in trust for an association. McCann v. Trustees of Mt. Gilead Cemetery [Ind.] 77 N. E. 1090. A street railroad company can enjoin a railroad from entering on and appropriating a right of way previously located by it, though it has not yet purchased or condemned said right of way where it is proceeding to do so, and it may enjoin the defendant from proceeding to condemn land over which plaintiff has already located its right of way. Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen & R. R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 345.

99. A property owner in a city may enjoin a city from taking his property for a permanent public street where the city has not exercised its power of eminent domain in the manner specified by the statutes, irrespective of the solvency of the city and the ability of the plaintiff to recover damages in an action at law. Town of Syracuse v. Weyrick [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 559. A court of equity has jurisdiction to enjoin a municipal corporation and its officers from opening up and using as a public street, without the owner's consent, land which has not been condemned, dedicated, or used as a street or highway. McGourin v. De Funiak Springs [Fla.] 41 So. 541. In Alabama a property owner may enjoin a municipal corporation from injuring his property by change in the grade of a street on which his property abuts without first compensating him for such injury, irrespective of the solvency of the corporation and the fact he could recover damages in an action at law. Town of New Decatur v. Scharfenberg [Ala.] 41 So. 1025.

1. It is within the jurisdiction of a court of equity to restrain highway officers from trespassing on the lands of plaintiff under the claim that it is a public highway. Lawrence v. Kirby [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 497, 108 N. W. 770.

2. Columbia Water Power Co. v. Nunamaker, 73 S. C. 550, 53 S. E. 996.

3. See 6 C. L. 16.

4. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. App. 306.

5. Elevated railroad. Thornton v. Stevens Coal Co., 117 Ill. App. 376.

6. Bischof v. Merchants' Nat. Bank [Neb.] 106 N. W. 996; Ruthstrom v. Peterson, 72 Kan. 679, 83 P. 825. Property owner may enjoin abutting owner from encroaching beyond building line of street. First Nat. Bank v. Tyson, 144 Ala. 457, 39 So. 560. Any unlawful obstruction of a street which to a substantial degree cuts off the view to the front of an adjoining business store, rendering it less valuable for the display of goods and advertising purposes, is a damage which is peculiar to the owner of such adjoining building and independent of the injury to the public. Bischof v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, [Neb.] 106 N. W. 996. Owner of property abutting on street sustains special injury from obstruction of street. Nichols v. Sadorus, 120 Ill. App. 70.

7. Will not issue to prevent opening of a platted but unaccepted street at the suit of one who claims but has no right to obstruct it. Brewer v. Pine Bluff [Ark.] 97 S. W. 1034.

8. A lot owner cannot enjoin the vacation of a part of a street which is in front of his lot if such vacation does not cut off his means of ingress and egress therefrom, though it make a cul de sac of the street. Ponischil v. Hoquiam Sash & Door Co., 41 Wash. 303, 83 P. 316.

9. The owner of the fee in a street can enjoin a private corporation from laying water pipes therein for its private use. Van Duyne v. Knox Hat Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 149.

10. Equity may enjoin the use of a traction engine and trailers on public streets if it appears that the use is a public nuisance.

distance of toll bridge, the establishment of a grade crossing over a railroad,[12] and the granting of a franchise to use a public street.[13]

(§ 2) G. Acts of quasi public and private corporations or associations.[14]—Equity has jurisdiction to enjoin public service corporations from committing acts, resulting in private injury, violative or in excess of their franchise rights or obligations.[15] A public franchise may be protected[16] and a franchised corporation may

The attorney general is a proper person to institute such proceedings. McCarter v. Ludlum Steel & Spring Co. [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 761.

11. Under Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 3649, an injunction will lie to enjoin a turnpike company from collecting tolls on a certain road where it has forfeited its right to tolls by failure to keep the road in repair, though quo warranto would also lie to oust it from exercising such power, since the latter form of action is not adequate remedy in that damages are not recoverable. State v. Louisiana, etc., Gravel Road Co., 116 Mo. App. 175, 92 S. W. 168. Equity will enjoin the unlawful exaction of toll on a toll road where such exactions are of daily occurrence and actions at law to recover the same would result in multiplicity of suits. Id.

12. It may be that the crossing of a railroad at grade might, under certain circumstances, be absolutely destructive of the franchise to operate a railway, and the damage so resulting irreparable at law. In such a case equity might enjoin the establishment of the crossing but it will not do so unless there is a threatened taking of property for the purpose which was forbidden by the statute as necessary to the enjoyment of the road's general franchise. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Morgan County [C. C. A.] 143 F. 798.

13. In New York the courts may at the suit of a taxpayer enjoin a park board from consenting to the granting of a franchise to use a public street under its control where it has not given notice, as required by law, of its intention to pass on the matter. Smith v. Buffalo, 99 N. Y. S. 986.

14. See 6 C. L. 17.

15. City of Madison v. Madison Gas & Elec. Co. [Wis.] 108 N. W. 65. Equity will enjoin a water company from cutting off the complainant's water supply to his premises because of the nonpayment of arrearages of water rent due from a former owner, where complainant is not obligated to pay same and the water company by its franchise is bound to furnish water to residents. McDowell v. Avon-by-the-Sea Land & Improvement Co. [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 13. Where a telephone company had been charging plaintiff more for service than it charged other persons for like service and had discontinued service to plaintiff on his refusal to pay the excessive charges, equity will issue a mandatory injunction to compel it to furnish services at a reasonable rate to be fixed by the court. Wright v. Glen Tel. Co., 112 App. Div. 745, 99 N. Y. S. 85; Brown v. Atlantic & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 55 S. E. 24. Persons living along the line of a railroad and doing business at stations thereon who will suffer special damages, not merely as members of the public but by reason of their having located and invested money on the faith of the continuance of the existence of the railroad, can maintain a suit to enjoin the railroad from changing its location so as to leave them without service. Repeated daily refusals to switch complainant's cars as required by law of a common carrier held enjoinable. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Stockyards Co. [Ky.] 97 S. W. 778.

NOTE. Power to control common carriers by injunction: In order to authorize issue of injunction it is not necessary that complainant's identical right must have been settled by a court of law, but the precise principle on which such right depends must have been settled; and in New Jersey no principle has been settled determinative of duty of a railroad company not to discontinue stations at certain points in absence of charter or statutory provisions in regard to such question. Right to control railroad company in this particular would logically imply right to control it in all matters not regulated by statute or charter and render discretion of directors reviewable by court in all unregulated matters. Courts will compel completion of railroad if charter clearly imposes such duty on company. They will also compel operation of road or any other duty clearly imposed. Spelling on Injunctions and Other Extraordinary Remedies [2d Ed.] par. 1593, p. 1377 et seq. See also note to 24 L. R. A. p. 564. Right of courts to determine duty of common carriers in unregulated matters finds some support in opinions in "Granger Cases" beginning with Munn v. Illinois, 94 U. S. 118, 24 Law. Ed. 77, but such power is clearly denied in later cases by same court. Tex. & Pac. R. Co. v. Marshall, 136 U. S. 393, 34 Law. Ed. 385; N. P. R. Co. v. Washington ex rel. Dustin, 142 U. S. 492, 35 Law. Ed. 1092; Jones v. Newport News Co. [C. C. A.] 65 F. 738; C., C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. People, 177 U. S. 514, 44 Law. Ed. 868; L. S. & M. S. R. Co. v. Ohio, 173 U. S. 285, 43 Law. Ed. 702; Interstate Commerce Com. v. C. N. & T. R. Co., 162 U. S. 184, 40 Law. Ed. 935; Id., 167 U. S. 479, 42 Law. Ed. 243. In some jurisdictions there seems to be an inclination in default of positive legislation to draw to court power to regulate and enforce duties of common carriers in these unregulated matters. State v. Republican Valley R. R. Co., 17 Neb. 647, 34 N. W. 329, 52 Am. Rep. 424; Grinsfelder v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., 19 Wash. 518, 53 P. 719, 67 Am. St. Rep. 739, 41 L. R. A. 515; R. R. Com'rs v. P. & O. R. R. Co., 63 Me. 269, 18 Am. Rep. 208; State v. H. & N. H. R. R. Co., 29 Conn. 538; Concord & M. R. R. Co. v. Boston & M. R. R. Co. [N. H.] 41 A. 263. Illinois courts have not been consistent. See Ohio & M. R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. 200, 11 N. E. 347; People v. C. & A. R. Co., 130 Ill. 175, 22 N. E. 867; Id., 152 Ill. 230, 38 N. E. 662, 26 L. R. A. 224; People v. St. L., etc., R. Co., 176 Ill. 512, 52 N. E. 292, 35 L. R. A. 656. A territorial court in Washington (N. P. R. Co.

sue as a taxpayer to redress the assumption of a public service without a franchise though its own is not exclusive.[17] It may enjoin the holding of a stockholders' meeting until the right to vote certain stock has been determined,[18] and may issue at the instance of a corporate director to prevent his unauthorized removal from office.[19] It will not enjoin a private corporation from performing an ultra vires contract at the suit of one who has accepted pecuniary benefits under such contract.[20]

(§ 2) H. Breach or enforcement of contract or trust.[21]—The restraining of a breach of contract[22] is a negative specific performance of the contract and depends on the same principles.[23] Ordinarily it will not lie to prevent a breach of a contract which cannot be specifically enforced.[24] There are exceptions to this rule, however, as where adequate damages cannot be ascertained for its breach,[25] but the contract right for which protection is prayed must be clear and plain.[26] Services of a special,

v. Territory, 3 Wash. 303, 13 P. 604) affirmed power of the court; but this case was reversed in United States supreme court, sub nom. N. P. R. Co. v. Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 35 Law. Ed. 1092. In other jurisdictions opposite view is taken and power or authority of the court is denied. N. P. R. Co. v. Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 35 Law. Ed. 1092; Texas & Pac. R. Co. v. Marshall, 136 U. S. 393, 34 Law. Ed. 385; Knight v. Helena P. & L. Co. [Mont.] 56 P. 685, 44 L. R. A. 692; People v. A. & V. R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295; People v. N. Y., L. E. & W. R. Co., 104 N. Y. 58, 9 N. E. 856, 58 Am. Rep. 484 (see note); People v. B. H. R. Co., 172 N. Y. 90, 64 N. E. 788 (see note to this case); Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Florida [Fla.] 12 So. 103, 20 L. R. A. 419; San Antonio R. Co. v. Texas [Tex.] 39 S. W. 926, 59 Am. St. Rep. 834, 35 L. R. A. 662; State v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 205, 25 So. 129; Jones v. Newport News Co., 65 F. 738, 13 C. C. A. 95, 31 U. S. App. 92; Commonwealth v. Fitchburg R. R. Co., 12 Gray [Mass] 180; Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. R., 25 Wis. 167, 3 Am. Rep. 47. It is therefore evident that duty to maintain station and power of court to compel such maintenance is not, in absence of charter or statutory regulation, so clear as to authorize injunction against discontinuing such station.—From Jacquelin v. Erie R. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 18.

16. Police jury may enjoin operation of free bridge within prohibited distance from a public toll bridge in which parish is joint owner with another municipality. Police Jury of Lafourche v. Robichaux, 116 La. 286, 40 So. 705.

17. Merchants' Police & Dist. Tel. Co. v. Citizens' Tel. Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 512, 93 S. W. 642.

18. Villamil v. Hirsch, 143 F. 654.

19. Laughlin v. Geer, 121 Ill. App. 534.

20. A stockholder in a corporation cannot enjoin the corporation from carrying into effect a contract theretofore entered into by it on the ground that such contract is ultra vires, but which is neither mala prohibitum nor mala per se, where he has accepted pecuniary advantages from the operation of the contract complained of. Wormser v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 184 N. Y. 83, 76 N. E. 1036.

21. See 6 C. L. 17.

22. A notice in a copyrighted book restricting the sale of the book to a price named in the notice held not a contract and hence injunction would not lie to prevent a breach. Bobbs-Merrill Co. v. Straus [C. C. A.] 147 F. 15.

23. Gossard Co. v. Crosby [Iowa] 109 N. W. 483. See Specific Performance, 6 C. L. 1498. As a working rule injunction will issue only when the contract would be affirmatively specifically enforceable in the particular constituting the threatened breach. Cleveland v. Martin, 218 Ill. 73, 75 N. E. 772.

24. Where a contract covers a period of time requiring continual supervision of the court to specifically enforce it, specific performance will not be decreed, and where such is the case equity will not enjoin the breach of the contract by one of the parties thereto since such relief would be indirectly specific enforcement and remedy lacking in mutuality. General Elec. Co. v. Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co., 144 F. 458. Under Civ. Code Cal. § 3423, equity will not enjoin the breach of a contract the performance of which cannot be specifically enforced, but if equity would decree specific performance a breach may be enjoined. Farnum v. Clarke, 148 Cal. 610, 84 P. 166.

25. Thus it will enjoin a breach of a contract to purchase all the electric energy required by defendant in operating certain premises where defendant threatens to purchase from another. Beck v. Indianapolis Light & Power Co., 36 Ind. App. 600, 76 N. E. 312. Equity will lie to restrain a publisher from issuing a book inferior in printing, paper, etc., to the grade which he had agreed with the author to use, since the author's injury would be impossible of computation. Martin v. Cleveland, 119 Ill. App. 516. In an action to enjoin the breach of a contract it is not necessary to allege actual injury to plaintiff already consummated. It is enough to allege that unless the threatened breach is enjoined it will cause an injury to plaintiff not remediable at law. My Laundry Co. v. Schmeling [Wis.] 109 N. W. 540.

26. Will not issue where the terms of the contract are vague or uncertain. Sanders v. Brown [Ala.] 39 So. 732. A contract held not so clearly to require that defendant sell plaintiff's patterns exclusively as to authorize an injunction restraining him from selling other makes. New Idea Pattern Co. v. Whitner [Pa.] 64 A. 518. A contract construed and held not an agreement for the unique or intellectual quality[27] are not measurable in money value, and hence an agreement not to withdraw from such services and render them to another will be protected.[28] Where facts arising subsequent to the making of a contract and not within the contemplation of the parties at the time would make it inequitable to enforce it by injunction, equity will refuse to interfere and relegate the parties to their action at law for damages.[29] Equity will enjoin the malicious interference by a third person with the contract rights of parties to the contract.[30] It will not enjoin the breach of a contract at the suit of persons not parties thereto or in privity with such parties.[31] Equitable rights growing out of contract will be protected by injunction.[32] In the case of bills and notes a payment[33] or transfer[34] may be restrained to protect the equities. The defense of infancy is unavailing when the infant has received the benefits of the other's performance and restoration is impossible.[35] Thus a lease voidable for infancy of defendant may be protected against breach destructive of the landlord's property.[36] Ordinarily an action will not lie to enforce by injunction the right to possession under a lease,[37] though it will lie to restrain an unauthorized use of demised premises,[38] or the breach of the restrictive covenants of a deed[39] or a lease,[40] unless it would be inequitable to do so.[41] In-exclusive sale of plaintiff's goods, hence injunction will not issue to restrain sale of competing goods by defendant. Butterick Pub. Co. v. Boynton, 191 Mass. 175, 77 N. E. 705.

27. Services of millinery trimmer are not within rule that contracts for certain kinds of services may be enforced by injunction. Rabinovich v. Reith, 120 Ill. App. 409.

28. Ordinarily contract for personal service cannot be specifically enforced, but one who has agreed not to render services to another during the period of his employment may be enjoined from so doing where his services are of special, unique, or intellectual quality, the loss of which cannot be reasonably or adequately compensated in damages. If the services are not of such extraordinary character injunction will not lie to restrain the breach. Gossard Co. v. Crosby [Iowa] 109 N. W. 483. Whether American courts will act injunctively when there is no negative agreement seems increasingly doubtful. See Rabinovich v. Reith, 120 Ill. App. 409.

29. McClure v. Leaycraft, 183 N. Y. 36, 75 N. E. 961.

30. Dr. Miles' Medical Co. v. Platt, 142 F. 606. Thus it will enjoin a sale of a patent medicine at a cut price by one who has purchased it from one who purchased from complainant under a contract whereby he agreed not to sell to any dealer who had not agreed with complainant to sell at a stipulated price, where it appears defendant knew of said contract and resorted to subterfuges to avoid it. Wells & Richardson Co. v. Abraham, 146 F. 190.

31. Where individuals enter into a contract for the publication of the literary products of another by a corporation which they propose to form, the corporation acquires no right which it can enforce by injunction. Pennell v. Lothrop, 191 Mass. 357, 77 N. E. 842.

32. Equitable right of tenant to crops after expiration of lease enforceable by injunction. Carmine v. Bowen [Md.] 64 A. 932.

33. In a suit to recover from bank moneys deposited by plaintiff's agent, it was proper on showing of agent's insolvency and indorsee's nonresidence to restrain payment of check against such fund. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Summers [N. C.] 55 S. E. 522.

34. It may enjoin the transfer of a note at the suit of an endorser thereof, who alleges his endorsement was procured by fraud, where it is held by defendant as collateral and complainant offers to purchase the debt for which it is held as security. Detwiler v. Patrick Hirsch Co., 49 Misc. 311, 99 N. Y. S. 207.

35. Mutual Milk & Cream Co. v. Prigge, 112 App. Div. 652, 98 N. Y. S. 458.

36. Cole v. Manners [Neb.] 107 N. W. 777.

37. Goldman v. Corn, 111 App. Div. 674, 97 N. Y. S. 926.

38. Waldorf-Astoria Segar Co. v. Salomon, 109 App. Div. 65, 95 N. Y. S. 1053. An unauthorized use of demised premises may be enjoined where the use to which the premises are sought to be appropriated is inconsistent with the purpose for which they were let and when the change will operate to the injury of the lessor. Jalageas v. Winton, 119 Ill. App. 139.

39. Equity will enjoin the violation of restrictive covenants in a deed, relative to the sale of liquor on the premises conveyed, at the suit of one who has taken title to adjacent property under similar restrictions from a common grantor. De Lima v. Mitchell, 49 Misc. 171, 98 N. Y. S. 811.

40. Covenant that landlord be allowed to put "to rent" sign on premises enforced by injunction against removal of such sign. Stafford v. Swift, 121 Ill. App. 508.

41. Equity will not enjoin a breach of the restrictive covenants of a deed relative to the character of buildings which may be erected on land where subsequent to the making of the covenant buildings of the prohibited character have been placed on adjacent land not restricted, and the erection of such a building on the restricted land would not further injure complainant, but will relegate the party to his action for dam-

junctions have been granted to restrain violations of agreements not to manufacture certain articles,[42] or not to engage in a certain business at a specified place,[43] or not to solicit business from complainant's customers after quitting his employment,[44] or to maintain the general offices and shops of a railroad at a certain place,[45] or not to sell individual holdings of stock in a corporation until after the treasury stock has been sold.[46]

(§ 2) I. Interference with property, business, or comfort of private persons.[47] Trade and firm name.[48]—Equity will enjoin the unlawful use of a trade name or trade mark by another at the suit of the owner[49] as well as restrain the ages. McClure v. Leaycraft, 183 N. Y. 36, 75 N. E. 961.

42. Jarvis Adams Co. v. Knapp, 213 Pa. 567, 62 A. 1112.

43. Wolverton v. Bruce [Ind. T.] 89 S. W. 1018; Rice v. O'Neal, 120 Ill. App. 259. In such case intention to commit future breaches of covenant will be implied from repeated breaches in past. Id. Equity will enjoin a breach of a contract by one who has sold a business and the good will thereof not to engage in a similar business for a specified time. My Laundry Co. v. Schmeling [Wis.] 109 N. W. 540; American Ice Co. v. Meekel, 109 App. Div. 93, 95 N. Y. S. 1060. Breach of partnership agreement to same effect. Sanford Dairy Co. v. Sanford, 100 N. Y. S. 270. A covenant not to grind fire clay in the state for eight years held a negative one and coupled with financial irresponsibility of the promisor calling for injunction against his transferee. Lanyon v. Garden City Sand Co., 223 Ill. 616, 79 N. E. 313.

NOTE. Power to enjoin agreements in restraint of trade: Right of attorney general to enjoin insurance companies from carrying out agreement for establishment of rates seems to be without support in common-law precedent. Some states have statutes condemning combinations between certain kinds of companies, including insurance companies, and congress has enacted an act to protect interstate commerce against restraint and monopoly, but decisions under these statutes are not precedents in state having no such statute. Distinction between insurance and commerce suggested in Paul v. Virginia, 8 Wall. [U. S.] 168, 19 Law. Ed. 357, and cases following it, is important in its relation to the Federal Commerce Clause, but otherwise unimportant in state courts. Principle condemning such agreements is applied not only to strictly trade and commerce transactions but to others, such as agreements between physicians (Mandville v. Harman, 42 N. J. Eq. 185, 7 A. 37), attorneys and their articled clerks (Nicholls v. Stretton, 10 Q. B. 346), manufacturers relative to workmen's wages (Hilton v. Eckersley, 6 E. B. & Bl. 47), and stenographers (More v. Bennett, 140 Ill. 69, 29 N. E. 888, 33 Am. St. Rep. 216, 15 L. R. A. 361). But at common law such agreements are not illegal in ordinary sense but are only unenforceable. Mitchel v. Reynolds, 1 P. Wms. 181, Sm. L. C. *417, decided in 1711; Mogul Steamship Company v. McGregor, App. Cas. 1892, p. 39; United States v. Addyson Pipe & Steel Co., 85 F. 271, 29 C. C. A. 147, 46 L. R. A. 122; Ellicott v. Chamberlain, 38 N. J. Eq. 604, 48 Am. Rep. 327. Such agreements, therefore, not being illegal in any positive sense, no injunction will lie against them at instance of attorney general. Fact that they are against public policy is insufficient to give equity jurisdiction. Nor does jurisdiction attach where parties are private corporations, the rule in case of public or quasi public corporations as expounded in Atty. Gen. v. Central R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 A. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97, and Atty. Gen. v. Amer. Tobacco Co., 55 N. J. Eq. 352, 366, 36 A. 971, 977, being inapplicable to private corporations.—From McCarter v. Firemen's Ins. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 61 A. 705.

44. Equity will enjoin one who has sold the good will of his business and agreed to remain in the employ of the purchaser for a certain time from, during such time, conducting a competing business and soliciting business from old customers of the business sold. Acker, Merrall & Condit Co. v. McGaw, 144 F. 864. An infant 19 years of age will be restrained from violating an agreement entered into by him as a condition of his employment by plaintiff to the effect that he would not after quitting plaintiff's employ solicit business from any of plaintiff's customers. The defense of infancy is unavailing, the contract being executed and it being impossible for defendant to restore what he had received, to wit, knowledge of plaintiff's business. Mutual Milk & Cream Co. v. Prigge, 112 App. Div. 652, 98 N. Y. S. 458.

45. A court of equity may enjoin a railroad from removing its general offices, round house, and machine shops from a city where they have contracted to keep them located, and by such writ practically compel a specific performance of the contract. City of Tyler v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 839, 91 S. W. 1.

46. Evidence held to warrant an injunction to restrain certain promoters of a mining corporation from selling their individual holdings of stock until after treasury stock had been sold in accordance with agreement between promoters where defendants are insolvent. Brown v. Bracking, 11 Idaho, 678, 83 P. 950.

47. See 6 C. L. 18.

48. See 6 C. L. 19.

49. Cohen v. Nagle, 190 Mass. 4, 76 N. E. 276; Saxlehner v. Eisner [C. C. A.] 147 F. 189.

Hotel name: Equity will enjoin the unlawful use by defendant of a name for his hotel which is the same as that used by plaintiff and which name was first appropriated by plaintiff, even though such name be made up in part of the name of the place where the inn is kept, if such use by defend-imitation of complainant's style of packing his goods.[50] It will enjoin the dissemination of false statements concerning goods manufactured by complainant where the wrongful acts threaten to be continuous on the ground that otherwise it would require numerous suits to redress the wrong.[51] The remedy will not restrain a mere libel consisting in the use of one's name.[52]

Copyrights, trade secrets, literary property, and the like.[53]—Equity may enjoin the unlawful receiving and using of stock quotations issued by a stock exchange.[54]

Waste.[55]—Injunction lies to prevent waste[56] or to prevent the cutting down or destruction of trees on complainant's land,[57] where it will result in irreparable injury to the land and defendant is insolvent,[58] or by reason of infancy might defeat action on a lease under which he entered.[59] So too it will lie to prevent the unlawful removal of buildings from land.[60]

Incorporeal property[61] may be protected, such as a right of fishery,[62] but the writ will not issue against a high fence on defendant's land not built in malice.[63]

Easements and rights of way.[64]—A court of equity has jurisdiction, by injunction, to prevent a continuing material interference with the enjoyment of an easement,[65] as well as the doing of acts which in time would ripen into an easement or adverse right.[66] It lies to prevent the wrongful obstruction of a private way[67] and to enforce the removal of such an obstruction.[68] ant tends to mislead the public. Busch v. Gross [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 754.

50. On an application for a preliminary injunction to enjoin defendant from putting up and selling his goods in a package resembling one used by complainant, it should be made to clearly appear that the complainants have established an exclusive right to pack and dress their goods in the way they assert and which the defendant is imitating. Lamont, Corliss & Co. v. Hershey, 140 F. 768. A preliminary injunction will not issue to enjoin defendant from using a style of package similar to that used by plaintiffs for containing its goods where it is not clear that plaintiff has not used his style of package to mislead the public as to quality and place of manufacture of its contents. National Starch Co. v. Koster, 146 F. 259. See, also, Trade Marks, Etc., 6 C. L. 1713.

51. Toledo Computing Scale Co. v. Computing Scale Co., 142 F. 919.

52. Falsely giving name of physician as attached to hospital in bad standing. Christian Hospital v. People, 223 Ill. 244, 79 N. E. 72.

53. See 6 C. L. 20.

54. New York Cotton Exch. v. Hunt, 144 F. 511; Board of Trade of Chicago v. McDearmott Commission Co., 143 F. 188.

55. See 6 C. L. 20.

56. Brugh v. Denman [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 349; Webster v. De Bardeleben [Ala.] 41 So. 881; Hall v. Bowman, 28 Ky. L. R. 1004, 90 S. W. 1051.

57. Mountain Copper Co. v. U. S., 142 F. 629. In an equitable action the court, on adjudging that plaintiff and defendant are tenants in common of land and that each is threatening to cut timber therefrom, may issue an injunction restraining each of them from doing so pending a partition of the land. Baxter & Co. v. Camp [Ga.] 54 S. E. 1036.

58. An injunction to restrain the cutting of timber on land will not issue when it neither alleged or provided that cutting the timber would result in irreparable injury to the land nor that defendant is insolvent. Haggart v. Chapman & Dewey Land Co., 77 Ark. 527, 92 S. W. 792.

59. See Cole v. Manners [Neb.] 107 N. W. 777.

60. Where a person is in possession of a building standing partly on his own land and partly on the land of an adjoining owner, equity will enjoin the removal of the building at the suit of the latter pending the determination of an action of ejectment instituted by him. Cromwell v. Hughes, 144 Mich. 3, 13 Det. Leg. N. 107, 107 N. W. 323.

61. See 6 C. L. 20.

62. The owner of a fishing trap set in the public waters may enjoin another from unlawfully setting another within the distance from the one first set prohibited by statute of Washington. Johansen v. Mulligan, 41 Wash. 379, 83 P. 417.

63. Equity will not enjoin the erection of a fence on one's own land, though it interfere with the access of light and air to the premises of an adjoining owner where it does not appear that it was erected with a malicious intent to injure the property of such adjoining owner and that it serves no useful purpose for the person erecting it. Metz v. Tierney [N. M.] 83 P. 788.

64. See 6 C. L. 20.

65. Johnson v. Gould [W. Va.] 53 S. E. 798. Equity will enjoin an interference with the enjoyment by a railroad of an easement over the land of another acquired by it for a right of way, irrespective of the solvency of the defendant, on the ground of public policy. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive [N. C.] 55 S. E. 263. Right to use of alley under deed may be protected by injunction as against grantor. Andreas v. Steigerwalt, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

66. Kenilworth Sanitarium v. Kenilworth, 220 Ill. 264, 77 N. E. 226. "It is the settled law of this state that, irrespective of other Nuisances.[69]—A court of equity has jurisdiction to enjoin a continuing nuisance and compel its abatement[70] at the suit of one in superior right.[71] The acts of several persons may together constitute a nuisance which the court will restrain, though the damage occasioned by the acts of any one of them, taken alone, would be inappreciable.[72] The government, in the absence of a plain, adequate and complete remedy at law, has a right to maintain a suit for an injunction to restrain a nuisance materially and injuriously affecting the occupancy of government property.[73] Where the thing complained of is not a nuisance per se but may become so according to circumstances and the injury apprehended is eventual or contingent, equity will not interfere. The presumption is that defendant will do the threatened acts in a proper way and so as not to constitute a nuisance.[74] That the abatement of a nuisance by injunction will deprive respondent of the use of a large amount of invested capital is not alone a sufficient reason for denying the relief.[75] Cases discussing the relief as applied to nuisances caused by blasting,[76] the construction and operation of railroad tracks[77] in close proximity to complainant's premises, as well as in cases of the illegal sale of liquors,[78] pollution of waters,[79] and the operation of factories which emit noisome odors,[80] are referred to in the notes.

damage, an injunction will be granted to enjoin the continuance of wrongful acts that obstruct the complainant in the free use and enjoyment of his land where such action, if continued, will ripen into an easement." Winslow v. Vallejo, 148 Cal. 723, 84 P. 191.

67. Llewellyn v. Cauffiel [Pa.] 64 A. 388; Flaherty v. Fleming, 58 W. Va. 669, 52 S. E. 857. A party seeking an injunction to restrain the closing of an alley must show a clear title or at least a prima facie title and that irreparable or serious injury will result in case it is not granted. Where the title asserted by complainant is not clear, injunction will not issue until after it has been established in a court of law, unless it appears that irreparable injury is liable to be suffered pending litigation. Bernei v. Sappington [Md.] 62 A. 365. Injunction lies at instance of grantee or his successors to restrain grantor from obstructing alley called for by deed. Andreas v. Steigerwalt, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

68. A mandatory injunction will issue to compel one who has wrongfully obstructed a private way to remove the obstruction; another person who has placed another and independent obstruction in such way is not a necessary party to such suit. Hershman v. Stafford, 58 W. Va. 459, 52 S. E. 533.

69. See 6 C. L. 20.

70. Nixon v. Boling [Ala.] 40 So. 210; Ex parte Allison [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 409, 90 S. W. 492. The jurisdiction is said to be founded on the ability of equity to prevent irreparable mischief and vexatious litigation and to furnish a more complete remedy than can be had at law. State v. Louisiana, etc., Gravel Road Co., 116 Mo. App. 175, 92 S. W. 153.

71. Injunction against mining operations refused where defendants had commenced operations before plaintiff's rights in land injured were acquired, and had done everything possible to prevent injury complained of. McCarthy v. Bunker Hill & S. Min. & Coal Co., 147 F. 981.

72. United States v. Luce, 141 F. 385; Warren v. Parkhurst [N. Y.] 78 N. E. 579. Where several factories together contribute to the creation of noisome odors which amount to a nuisance to the owners of the adjoining property, the owners of any or all may be enjoined from conducting their business so as to create such odors. United States v. Luce, 141 F. 385.

73. United States v. Luce, 141 F. 385. The United States may maintain a suit to enjoin the operation in the vicinity of a U. S. hospital of fish rendering establishments which emit noisome odors and collect flies which come onto the premises occupied by the hospital. Id.

74. Davis v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 102 Md. 371, 62 A. 572.

75. Equity will enjoin the use by one person of his own premisee in such a manner as to work a substantial injury to the land and premises of another, though so doing will prevent the party enjoined from carrying on a business in which a large amount of capital is invested. (Discharge of sulphur fumes from smelter on vegetation of complainant's land). McCleery v. Highland Boy Gold Min. Co., 140 F. 951.

76. Equity will enjoin blasting which throws rocks and dirt onto plaintiff's premises, though the work of blasting be not negligently done. Central Iron & Coal Co. v. Vanderheurk [Ala.] 41 So. 145.

77. Davis v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 102 Md. 371, 62 A. 572. A property owner cannot maintain a suit to enjoin a railroad company from constructing a freight house and tracks on its own land and operating trains on such tracks where the railroad company's land is separated from complainant's by a 60 foot street, such use by the railroad not depriving complainant of access to his land. Walther v. Chicago & W. I. R. Co., 117 Ill. App. 364. Will enjoin railroad company from ringing bells and sounding whistles unnecessarily and also standing of stock cars unreasonable length of time in residence section of city. Colgate v. New York, etc., R. Co., 100 N. Y. S. 650. Converting railroad on street in a city into switching yards consti-

Trespass.[81]—Injunction will issue to restrain a trespass,[82] if the nature and frequency of the threatened trespass is such as to prevent the substantial enjoyment of the right of possession and property in the land.[83] So too it will issue where it appears that frequent acts of trespass or a continuing trespass is threatened on the ground that it would require a multiplicity of suits to redress the wrong,[84] and in cases where the injury threatened is irreparable,[85] or where complainant has not an adequate remedy at law.[86] Possession may be kept in statu quo pending a determination of right.[87] The mere fact that a trespass has been committed on comtuting a nonpublic use and hence a nuisance. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 47, 93 S. W. 177.

78. An injunction, without order for abatement, is properly awarded for the suppression of the illegal sale and giving away of intoxicating liquor, as such acts constitute a nuisance. McCracken v. Miller, 129 Iowa, 623, 106 N. W. 4. Under Code Iowa, c. 6, title 12, the court has jurisdiction to issue temporary injunctions restraining the maintenance of a liquor nuisance at the suit of the attorney general in vacation. Young v. Preston [Iowa] 108 N. W. 463.

79. Injunction will lie to restrain the pollution of the waters of a stream above plaintiff's land when such pollution renders it unfit for use in watering his cattle and for domestic purposes. Brown v. Gold Coin Min. Co. [Or.] 86 P. 361. Equity will restrain the pollution of the water of a stream or open drain, where the pollution threatens to be continuous, where the defendant has no legal right to discharge sewerage into it, though the plaintiff could only recover nominal damages at law. Kenilworth Sanitarium v. Kenilworth, 220 Ill. 264, 77 N. E. 226. The use by a city of a sewer emptying into a creek, for sewerage purposes, as distinguished from the draining of surface water, even in a slight degree, would be in derogation of the rights of an abutting landowner whose property would be traversed by the stream into which the sewer empties; and unless the right has been acquired by appropriation, such use may be enjoined by a landowner thus situated without waiting until the threatened injury has resulted in material damage. Whitney v. Toledo, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 577.

80. Injury resulting from noisome odors, producing personal discomfort, is not susceptible of compensation in damages according to any approximately accurate measure, and from its recurrence would lead to a multiplicity of suits and hence affords ground for equitable intervention by injunction. United States v. Luce, 141 F. 385.

81. See 6 C. L. 21.

82. Akin v. Jaudon, 124 Ga. 494, 52 S. E. 768. Equity will protect a land owner in possession from any unauthorized interference therewith. Town of Syracuse v. Weyrick [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 559.

83. Sillasen v. Winterer [Neb.] 107 N. W. 124.

84. Musselshell Cattle Co. v. Woolfolk [Mont.] 85 P. 874; Huxford v. Southern Pine Co., 124 Ga. 181, 52 S. E. 439; Sadlier v. New York, 185 N. Y. 408, 78 N. E. 272; Martin v. Patillo [Ga.] 55 S. E. 240. Equity will enjoin the continuance of a trespass where it appears that the complainant has not an adequate remedy by an action at law, or would require numerous actions to redress the wrong. Coleman v. Elliott [Ala.] 40 So. 666. An injunction will not issue to restrain the commission of an ordinary trespass where the injury flowing from it is not irreparable and where an adequate remedy may be had in the recovery of damages against a solvent party. It will issue though where the injury threatened is continuous or would require a multiplicity of suits. Strother v. American Cooperage Co., 116 Mo. App. 518, 92 S. W. 758.

85. Brassington v. Waldron, 143 Mich. 364, 12 Det. Leg. N. 1011, 107 N. W. 100. When a bill to enjoin a trespass alleges facts showing that irreparable damage will result if not enjoined, it is not necessary to allege or prove the insolvency of the defendant. McConnell Bros. v. Jones Naval Stores Co., 125 Ga. 376, 54 S. E. 117. In order to sustain an injunction against an act of trespass on the ground that the injury occasioned thereby is irreparable, the facts constituting such irreparable injury must be alleged and proved. Pence v. Carney, 58 W. Va. 296, 52 S. E. 702. In ordinary cases of trespass the remedy at law is adequate and injunction to restrain a trespass will not lie except under special circumstances, hence the complaint ought to make out a clear case for equitable relief as the courts of law ought not otherwise to be deprived of jurisdiction. The complaint should allege facts showing that without equitable relief complainant will suffer irreparable injury or that his remedy at law is not adequate. Bledsoe v. Robinett [Va.] 54 S. E. 861.

86. Will not issue when adequate remedy at law in an action for damages. Musselshell Cattle Co. v. Woolfolk [Mont.] 85 P. 874. Injunction will not lie to restrain an ordinary trespass where injury resulting from it would not be irreparable, and where an adequate remedy may be had in a recovery of damages against a solvent party, but it will lie where acts threatened are ruinous to the property trespassed on or of a character to impair its just enjoyment in the future. Graden v. Parkville, 114 Mo. App. 527, 90 S. W. 115. When one stockgrower threatens to exclude the cattle of another from the public lands where both have an equal right to graze their cattle, equity will not enjoin such threatened exclusion where it does not appear defendant is insolvent, since plaintiff would have an adequate remedy by an action for damages. Anthony Wilkinson Live Stock Co. v. McIlquam, 14 Wyo. 209, 83 P. 364.

87. Where there is a dispute whether the wall of a building stands wholly on the land of the owner of the building or in part on the land of the adjoining owner, equity will enplainant's land is not a sufficient ground for issuing an injunction where it does not appear that a repetition thereof is threatened,[89] though under some circumstances a mandatory injunction will issue to compel the restoration of the land to the condition in which the trespasser found it.[90] In such a suit the complainant must show that he has title[90] or possession and the entire right to possession as against the defendant,[91] and he must be free from laches.[92] Possession under color of title is sufficient.[93] Mere possession of public lands is not sufficient,[94] though one in possession under claim of right will be protected in his possession pending a proceeding before a government department to determine his claim.[95] Cases discussing the propriety of the granting of relief under various circumstances which constitute a trespass, such as cutting trees off of complainant's land,[96] navigating join such adjoining owner from using the wall as a party wall pending the determination of the disputed fact by the courts when the owner of the building is in peaceable possession. Mathis v. Strunk [Kan.] 85 P. 590. Where a plaintiff is in possession of property which the defendant claims by adverse title, and the defendant is threatening acts which will tend to the destruction of the estate, the prayer of the plaintiff for an injunction will be granted until such time as the defendant establishes his title by an action at law. Harding v. Perin, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 533.

88. Healy v. Smith, 14 Wyo. 263, 83 P. 583; Hull v. Harker, 130 Iowa, 190, 106 N. W. 629.

89. Where a party trespasses on another's land and digs a ditch thereon which obstructs and is injurious to plaintiff's use of the land, equity will issue a mandatory injunction requiring defendant to fill the ditch and restore the land to its former condition. McRae v. Blakeley [Cal. App.] 84 P. 679.

90. Equity will not enjoin a trespass unless it appears that plaintiff has title to the land on which the trespass is threatened, unless it is sought to establish the title in an action at law and the injunction is sought pending its determination, nor unless the threatened injury is irreparable. East Lake Lumber Co. v. East Coast Cedar Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 304. In Virginia complainant in a suit to enjoin a trespass, where he claims under a paper title, should generally exhibit his title papers or copies thereof, or such of them at least as will make out a prima facie title. An allegation that he is the owner of the land is insufficient. If he relies upon possession to make out his title he should state facts on which he bases his claim of possession so that the court can see from the title papers filed and the facts stated that he has a prima facie title. Bledsoe v. Robinett [Va.] 54 S. E. 861.

Dowress may enjoin before assignment of dower. Delaney v. Manshum [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 876, 109 N. W. 1051.

91. One tenant in common cannot maintain such a suit against another tenant in common. Country Club Land Ass'n v. Lohbauer, 97 N. Y. S. 11. Before one claiming ownership of land can maintain a suit to enjoin the cutting of timber thereon, he must show that he has title or is in possession; if he relies only on possession he must show actual possession of that part of the land on which the cutting is threatened to be made. Downing v. Anderson [Ga.] 55 S. E. 184.

92. If a trespasser is permitted to expend a large sum of money in the erection of a permanent building without protest from the owner of the land, or any attempt by the owner to assert his rights for a long period, equity will not favor a late assertion of such stale rights by injunction, but will leave the parties to their remedy at law, or if estoppel is pleaded will lean favorably toward such a defense. McCleery v. Alton, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 481.

93. A railroad company in possession of a tract of land under color of title can restrain another from forcibly taking possession of it and tearing up its tracks; the latter's remedy if it claims title is by ejectment. Donora Southern R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 213 Pa. 119, 62 A. 367. One in the lawful and peaceable possession of real estate, especially if it be his dwelling, may enjoin repeated and riotous acts of invasion and trespass until the title and right of possession can be determined in some regular and orderly way. Heaton v. Wireman [Neb.] 105 N. W. 634.

94. Clemmons v. Gillette [Mont.] 83 P. 879. One stock grower cannot enjoin another from pasturing his stock on public lands, though he had first occupied it for pasturage purposes. Healy v. Smith, 14 Wyo. 263, 83 P. 583.

95. Where two claimants of land under alleged homestead entries are litigating their rights in the tribunals having exclusive jurisdiction (Fed. Land Office), the state courts have jurisdiction to enjoin one of them from forcibly ousting the other from possession pending the determination of their rights before the land office officials. Zimmerman v. McCurdy [N. D.] 106 N. W. 125.

96. Equity will not enjoin the cutting of timber unless it is shown that an irreparable injury to the property will result, that the destruction of the timber will render the freehold less susceptible of enjoyment, or the acts of trespass are of a nature to constitute a nuisance, or unless it is shown that the defendant is insolvent and cannot be compelled to respond in damages. Thus it will issue where the market value of the timber would not compensate plaintiff, he having built a saw mill to saw it. Hall v. Wellman Lumber Co. [Ark.] 94 S. W. 43. Under Acts N. C. 1885, p. 684, c. 401, in an application for an injunction to restrain the outting of timber trees, it is not necessary boats over complainant's oyster beds so as to injure them,[97] the removal of property constituting a part of complainant's land therefrom,[98] the imposition by a railroad of a greater servitude in its use of a track than was authorized by the grant of the right of way,[99] the appropriation and use by one railroad company of another's right of way,[1] the use of plaintiff's land on the bank of a river for storing logs,[2] are referred to in the notes.

Conspiracies by labor unions.—Equity will enjoin unlawful acts threatened in furtherance of a conspiracy by a labor union intended to ruin plaintiff's business unless he "unionizes" his place of business or accedes to demands made,[3] but not to restrain defendant from expressing his opinions when not accompanied by acts of intimidation.[4]

(§ 2) J. Crimes.[5]—Equity will not enjoin the commission of a crime as such.[6] If, however, the threatened criminal acts will interfere with the liberties, rights, and privileges of citizens, the state not only has the right but it is its duty to enjoin the commission thereof.[7] So too such a proceeding may be maintained by a private person where he would be injured in his property rights by the unlawful acts sought to be enjoined.[8] Equity will not interfere to prevent the enforcement of the to allege and prove insolvency. Under Revisal 1905, § 808, if each of the parties in good faith asserts title both will be enjoined pending determination of title. Under § 809, if one party in the opinion of the trial judge asserts title in good faith and the other is not asserting title in good faith, the court may refuse an injunction against the former on his giving bond. East Lake Lumber Co. v. East Coast Cedar Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 304.

97. Cain v. Simonson [Ala.] 39 So. 571.

98. An injunction will lie to restrain the removal of property from the plaintiff's land which has been attached thereto so as to become a part thereof by one claiming title to it by a bill of sale from the former owner of the land. Plaintiff is not confined to his remedy at law. State Security Bank v. Hoskins, 130 Iowa, 339, 106 N. W. 764.

99. Where the grant permitted the laying of a spur-track across the land of the grantor with the condition and limitation that the track can be used only for certain specified business, injunction will lie to prevent the carrying of a greatly increased business over this track without compensation to the owner. Collins v. Craig Shipbuilding Co., 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 350. The fact that the owner of the land in such a case might tender a deed and demand compensation for the land occupied by the track is no defense to an action to enjoin the railroad company from unlawfully continuing its use and possession of the property. Id.

1. Where one railroad company has adopted and taken possession of a right of way on which it proposes to locate its road bed, equity will enjoin another railroad from using or interfering with plaintiff's use of such right of way. Arizona & C. R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co. [N. M.] 84 P. 1018. Equity will enjoin one railroad from entering on the right of way of another road and building a track thereon pending the determination of an action of ejectment. Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 141 F. 898.

2. Mitchell v. Lea Lumber Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 405.

3. Purvis v. Local No. 500 United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, 214 Pa. 348, 63 A. 585; New York & L. I. R. Co. v. O'Brien, 50 Misc. 13, 100 N. Y. S. 316. An employer may maintain a suit to enjoin a labor union and its members from intimidating and bribing his nonunion employes to induce them to quit his service. Everett Waddey Co. v. Richmond Typographical Union No. 90 [Va.] 53 S. E. 273. Equity will enjoin persons who have conspired to boycott plaintiff and who picket his place of business and intimidate customers from entering such place of business. Goldberg, Bowen & Co. v. Stablemen's Union [Cal.] 86 P. 806.

4. An injunction in an action to enjoin a labor union from boycotting plaintiff and from picketing his place of business and intimidating prospective customers from entering such place of business, so far as it enjoins defendants from at any time or place expressing an opinion about plaintiff or his methods of business, is too broad and to that extent without the jurisdiction of the court and should be stricken from the decree. Goldberg, Bowen & Co. v. Stablemen's Union [Cal.] 86 P. 806.

5. See 6 C. L. 22.

6. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 224; Levy v. Kansas City [Kan.] 86 P. 149.

7. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 224. The attorney general of the United States may maintain a suit to enjoin violations of the Elkins Act. United States v. Milwaukee Refrigerator Transit Co., 145 F. 1007.

8. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 224. Equity may enjoin the doing of acts which would constitute a crime where such acts will affect property rights. United States v. Milwaukee Transit Co., 145 F. 1007. That the Anti-Trust Act makes a conspiracy in restraint of trade a crime and provides a penalty does not necessarily impair the ordinary jurisdiction of equity where the criminal acts work irreparable injury to property. Being but declaratory of the common criminal laws,[9] nor will it enjoin the police from interfering with one who is about to commit a crime.[10] Hence it will not enjoin police officers from maintaining an espionage over suspected places,[11] or from entering and remaining in such suspected places,[12] unless it appears that they are acting willfully, ignorantly, or maliciously.[13] Any police espionage or picketing which does not amount to a trespass will not be enjoined under any circumstances.[14]

§ 3. Suits or actions for injunction.[15] Necessity of suit or action.—A judge has no power to issue an order for an injunction except in a pending suit,[16] and one cannot be summarily issued against a person not a party to the pending suit.[17] A second injunction will not be granted while the first is in force, even though at the suit of another party, if acting in the same interest,[18] nor should one be issued on a cause of action already determined in favor of respondent.[19] An ancillary injunction necessarily falls with the main suit.[20]

Jurisdiction.[21]—In some instances the appellate courts have original jurisdiction of certain classes of suits for injunction.[22] The jurisdiction may be dependent on the amount in controversy,[23] as is the case in the Federal courts,[24] unless the in-law under which any one might invoke equitable jurisdiction in case of such conspiracies to prevent irreparable injuries. Leonard v. Abner-Drury Brew. Co., 25 App. D. C. 161.

9. Delaney v. Flood, 183 N. Y. 323, 76 N. E. 209.

10. Though he claims to be doing so under a municipal license, since such license is void. Levy v. Kansas City [Kan.] 86 P. 149.

11. Stevens v. McAdoo, 112 App. Div. 458, 98 N. Y. S. 553. Will not enjoin police officers from standing outside a place having a liquor tax certificate when they suspect it of being a disorderly house and warning people about to enter that it is liable to be raided at any time as such and that persons found therein are liable to arrest. Delaney v. Flood, 183 N. Y. 323, 76 N. E. 209.

12. Cleary v. McAdoo, 113 App. Div. 178, 99 N. Y. S. 60.

13. The courts will not by injunction interfere to prevent arrests or the enforcement of the criminal laws by the police so long as they keep within their proper sphere, but will do so when they act without their authority and are either willfully, ignorantly, or maliciously committing or threatening to commit trespasses by posting officers in plaintiff's premises, where there is no evidence that the law has been or is about to be violated. Burns v. McAdoo, 113 App. Div. 165, 99 N. Y. S. 51. Police officers may be restrained from trespassing on complainant's premises, for the purpose of detecting unlawful acts which they bona fide suspect of being carried on there, where their suspicions are not founded on any recent act of complainant. Levy v. Bingham, 118 App. Div. 424, 99 N. Y. S. 258; McGorie v. McAdoo, 118 App. Div. 271, 99 N. Y. S. 47, rvg. 49 Misc. 601, 99 N. Y. S. 1107; Hagan v. McAdoo, 113 App. Div. 506, 99 N. Y. S. 255.

14. Hence officers will not be enjoined from standing in the approaches to plaintiff's premises where it appears he has no right therein other than an easement of access to his premises. Burns v. McAdoo, 113 App. Div. 165, 99 N. Y. S. 51.

15. See 6 C. L. 22.

16. Where immediately after the signing of the order the petition is filed with the clerk so as to institute the action, the two acts will be deemed to have been done simultaneously and the order issued in a pending action. Barnett v. Schad [Kan.] 85 P. 411.

17. State v. District Ct. of First Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 85 P. 525. An injunctional order cannot have any effect on persons who are not directly or indirectly parties to the bill in the action in which it is issued. Richman v. Consolidated Gas Co., 114 App. Div. 216, 100 N. Y. S. 81.

18. Police Jury of Avoyelles v. Mansura, 116 La. 1043, 41 So. 251. Citizens and taxpayers of a city cannot institute a suit for an injunction to restrain action by a water company under the terms of an ordinance of the city, where the city itself has already commenced a similar suit on the same cause of action, since in such matters the city represents the taxpayers. Griffith v. Vicksburg Waterworks Co. [Miss.] 40 So. 1011.

19. The district court has no power or authority to again issue in the same case an injunction which has, on appeal, been dissolved by the supreme court. Kerns v. Morgan, 11 Idaho, 572, 83 P. 954.

20. Day v. Bailey, 117 La. 154, 41 So. 448.

21. See 6 C. L. 23, n. 75.

22. The supreme court of Colorado has jurisdiction to issue, in the first instance, an injunction to restrain the carrying out of a conspiracy to do acts which would result in the fraudulent perversion of the elective rights of citizens and the casting and counting of illegal votes at an election. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 224.

23. Under Gen. Laws Md. 1904, art. 16, § 102, a court of equity has no jurisdiction to issue an injunction to restrain the collection of a tax amounting to less than twenty dollars. Kenneweg v. Allegany County Com'rs, 102 Md. 119, 62 A. 249. In Texas the district courts have power to issue injunctions, in cases in which a court of chancery under the settled rules of equity would have power to issue them, without reference to the amount in controversy. Callaghan junction is sought for the protection or enforcement of its jurisdiction in another suit.[25] A state court will not entertain a bill for an injunction where prior to the application to the state court a bill has been filed in the Federal courts on the same cause of action.[26] The Federal courts will not interfere with the management of a corporation organized under the laws of a state other than that in which it sits except on the clearest and most cogent grounds.[27] If the injunction is ancillary to other proceedings it may properly be brought in the court having jurisdiction of such proceedings.[28] Two or more courts may have concurrent jurisdiction.[29]

Parties.[30]—Anyone in interest may enjoin an unlawful act which operates to his prejudice and the wrongdoer cannot complain that another having a joint or common interest has not been joined as a party plaintiff.[31] Parties seeking relief against the same injury on same ground may join as complainants, though their interests are several.[32] The United States can maintain such a suit and can sue, not in its sovereign capacity, but as a property owner, when its property rights are affected, under the same circumstances as could a private person or corporation.[33] The commissioners of the District of Columbia may maintain a bill in their official capacity against nuisances in the streets though the fee of the streets is in the United States.[34] An injunction will not be granted at the suit of a private citizen to protect public interests,[35] unless he has suffered or is threatened with some damage peculiar to himself.[36] Thus, where a nuisance sought to be enjoined is of a public nature, the action

v. Tobin [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 269, 90 S. W. 328.

24. A bill filed in the U. S. circuit court to enjoin the scalping of nontransferable railroad tickets held to show that the amount in controversy exceeded two thousand dollars and hence the court had jurisdiction. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bitterman [C. C. A.] 144 F. 34.

25. An injunction to sustain the jurisdiction of a court already rightfully acquired and held is not forbidden by U. S. Stat. § 720. Railroad Commission v. Texas & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 144 F. 68. A Federal court has jurisdiction, though there be no Federal question involved, nor diversity of citizenship, to enjoin an action, judgment, or proceeding of which the court has jurisdiction where equitable grounds for such intervention exist. In the absence of some such equitable ground the action at law will not be enjoined. Campbell v. Golden Cycle Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 610.

26. Griffith v. Vicksburg Waterworks Co. [Miss.] 40 So. 1011.

27. Gaines v. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum, 140 F. 978.

28. In South Carolina a suit to enjoin condemnation proceedings should be brought in the court of common pleas, as such a suit is regarded as ancillary to the condemnation proceedings. Columbia Water Power Co. v. Nunamaker, 73 S. C. 550, 53 S. E. 996. Civ. Code Prac. Ky. 285, does not require that a suit to enjoin an execution sale should be brought in the court in which the judgment was rendered where such suit is instituted by a person not a party to the action in which the judgment was rendered. Robinson v. Carlton, 29 Ky. L. R. 876, 96 S. W. 549.

29. Under Laws 29th Leg. c. 153, the district court has jurisdiction to enjoin the maintenance of a gambling house, though the county court has concurrent jurisdiction. Ex parte Allison [Tex. Cr. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 409, 90 S. W. 492.

30. See 4 C. L. 111.

31. Police Jury of Lafourche v. Robichaux, 118 La. 288, 40 So. 705. A lessee of a railroad has such an interest therein as will support a suit in equity to enjoin another road from unlawfully crossing its tracks. Pennsylvania Co. v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 146 F. 446. Stockholders in a corporation may maintain a suit for injunction to protect the property of the corporation where the officers refuse or fail to act. Starr v. Shepard [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 528, 108 N. W. 709. Heirs need not be joined by dowress suing before assignment to restrain trespass. Delaney v. Manshum [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 876, 109 N. W. 1051.

32. Owners in severalty of property abutting on street may join in suit to restrain interference with street. Nichols v. Sadorus, 120 Ill. App. 70.

33. Mountain Copper Co. v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 625.

34. They have control and regulation of streets and as such may sue. Guerin v. Macfarland, 27 App. D. C. 478. Query whether it could be maintained in the name of the district. Id.

35. Ruthstrom v. Peterson, 72 Kan. 679, 83 P. 825. Private person cannot maintain a suit to enjoin a state board from doing certain alleged unlawful acts where the injury which they would suffer does not differ in kind from that which would be suffered by the people at large. Such a suit could be maintained only by the state. Duncan v. Heyward [S. C.] 54 S. E. 780.

36. Will not enjoin holding political convention at inconvenient distance from petitioner's residence. McDonald v. Lyon [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 67. To authorize an injunction to abate a public nuisance at the suit of a private person it must appear that should be instituted by the appropriate public law officer,[37] but the fact that abutting owners are joined as complainants will not affect such attorney's right to maintain the suit.[38] Persons who suffer some special injury therefrom, aside from and independent of the general injury sustained by the public, can maintain such a suit. To be special the injury must differ in kind and not merely in extent and degree from that sustained by the public.[39] A private plaintiff must show that a public nuisance is specially injurious to him.[40] The attorney general[41] or a taxpayer may enjoin an unlawful disposal of public moneys,[42] but a private individual complainant must show special injury.[43] A taxpaying corporation may stand as plaintiff.[44] In some instances the statutes expressly authorize the maintenance of certain classes of injunction suits by taxpayers.[45] The performance of a public contract, though technically illegal, will not be restrained at the instance of a citizen who suffers no special injury or detriment.[46]

All persons whose rights would be affected by the granting of the relief should be joined as parties defendant.[47] It is not necessary to join a municipal corporation as a party defendant where relief is sought against one of its servants threatening an unlawful and unauthorized act,[48] nor when the officers who alone have power to do the act sought to be enjoined are made parties.[49]

he will be injured in some peculiar and special manner other than the general public. Davis v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 102 Md. 371, 62 A. 572. One seeking to enjoin an unlawful use by another of public land must show that he will suffer some special damage different and greater than that suffered by the public. Thus an obstruction of a lake shore in front of the land of a riparian owner which depreciates the value of complainant's property is such special damage as will authorize the suit by such owner. Davies v. Epstein, 77 Ark. 221, 92 S. W. 19.

37. State v. Louisiana, etc., Gravel Road Co., 116 Mo. App. 175, 92 S. W. 153. Obstruction of street may be enjoined at the instance of the state's attorney on behalf of the public. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. App. 306.

38. Regardless of right of such owners to maintain such suit. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. App. 306.

39. Anthony Wilkinson Live Stock Co. v. McIlquam, 14 Wyo. 209, 83 P. 364. One who is prevented from traveling in a direct route to and from his residence sustains such special damage from obstruction of a highway as will authorize maintenance of suit by him. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Johnson [Ala.] 41 So. 907.

In Illinois an abutting property owner cannot enjoin a railroad company from laying a switch track in or elevated over a public street of a city. The right of action is vested solely in the state or city and should be instituted by the attorney general or the city. Thornton v. Stevens Coal Co., 117 Ill. App. 376.

40. Ruthstrom v. Peterson, 72 Kan. 679, 83 P. 825; Bischof v. Merchants' Nat. Bank [Neb.] 106 N. W. 996; First Nat. Bank v. Tyson, 144 Ala. 457, 39 So. 560.

41. Brown v. State [Kan.] 84 P. 549.

42. Allen v. Milwaukee, 128 Wis. 678, 106 N. W. 1099; Lindblad v. Board of Education, 221 Ill. 261, 77 N. E. 450; Shoemaker v. Des Moines, 129 Iowa, 244, 105 N. W. 520. Officer may sue as individual taxpayer (Gillespie v. Gibbs [Ala.] 41 So. 868) but city should be joined (Id.). Taxpayers and residents of a county can enjoin the illegal expenditure of the county funds. Lamar v. Croft, 73 S. C. 407, 53 S. E. 540.

43. Competition due to city's engaging in complainant's line of merchandising. Baker v. Grand Rapids, 142 Mich. 687, 12 Det. Leg. N. 879, 106 N. W. 208.

44. Owensboro Water Works Co. v. Owensboro, 29 Ky. L. R. 1118, 96 S. W. 867.

45. Under Code Civ. Proc. S. C. 1902, § 138, taxpayers may maintain a bill to enjoin the illegal expenditure of county funds without joinder of the county as a party plaintiff. Lamar v. Croft, 73 S. C. 407, 53 S. E. 540. In N. Y. under Laws 1881, c. 531, p. 709, a taxpayer upon an assesement exceeding $1,000 may maintain a suit to enjoin a municipality from issuing bonds for the erection of a municipal light plant, it not having taken the prerequisite steps to make such issue lawful. Potsdam Electric Light & Power Co. v. Potsdam, 49 Misc. 18, 97 N. Y. S. 190.

46. Agreement that students in state school of pedagogy shall teach in public schools held to divert local funds to state uses and hence enjoined. Lindblad v. Board of Education, 221 Ill. 261, 77 N. E. 450, rvg. 122 Ill. App. 617. The allegation that local school funds are being paid for trainers or critics for such student teachers supports the bill. Id. See, also, ante, § 2C.

47. An action against a municipal corporation to enjoin the payment of warrants issued by it is defective for want of parties defendant where the owners of the warrants are not joined as parties defendant. State v. Gormley, 40 Wash. 601, 82 P. 929. In an action by a taxpayer to enjoin the performance of a contract entered into by a municipal corporation on the ground the officers acting for the corporation are without authority, the contractor should on his application be joined as a party defendant. Walter v. McClellan, 48 Misc. 215, 96 N. Y. S. 479.

Pleading and evidence.[50]—In a suit for injunction the pleadings must allege clearly and definitely the facts on which complainant relies for the relief prayed.[51] It must allege facts and not opinions or legal conclusions,[52] thus, an allegation that the doing of the threatened acts will work an "irreparable injury" to complainant is insufficient.[53] So too, an allegation that complainant "has not an adequate remedy at law" is an allegation of a conclusion.[54] Plaintiff must aver an interest in the subject-matter or plead his liability to injury if the threatened act be done.[55] General allegations of threatened harm are insufficient.[56] An injunction will not issue to restrain the breach of a contract on a ground and for a reason not assigned in the bill seeking it,[57] nor will such relief be afforded when not asked for in the bill.[58] There must be a well pleaded cause of action to support injunction pendente lite.[59] A bill for an injunction is not multifarious where the several acts of the several de-

48. A city should not be joined as a party defendant in a suit to enjoin a trespass by one of its officers, since it is not doing the act and can in no way authorize another to do an unlawful act. Quinn v. Schneider, 118 Mo. App. 39, 94 S. W. 742.

49. In a suit to enjoin the collection of an illegal tax by a municipality it is not necessary to join the city as a party defendant when the council and mayor have been made parties. Campbell v. Bryant, 104 Va. 503, 52 S. E. 638.

50. See 6 C. L. 22-24.

51. Shulman v. Star Suburban Realty Co., 113 App. Div. 759, 99 N. Y. S. 419. Complainant must allege in his bill every fact clearly and definitely that is necessary to entitle him to the injunction. Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597.

52. Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597; Montgomery Light & Water Power Co. v. Citizens' Light, Heat & Power Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 981. An allegation in a suit to enjoin an officer purporting to act under a municipal ordinance, to restrain the officer from trespassing on complainant's property for the purpose of opening a street, that the ordinance is invalid is not sufficient but should allege the facts and circumstances which make it invalid. Quinn v. Schneider, 118 Mo. App. 39, 94 S. W. 742. Where an injunction is sought to enjoin a public board from accepting and paying for public work on the ground that they have fraudulently and collusively agreed to accept work not in accordance with the contract, the facts constituting the fraud must be alleged and proven. Board of Com'rs of La Porte County v. Wolff [Ind.] 76 N. E. 247.

53. Rabinovich v. Reith, 120 Ill. App. 409; Merced Falls Gas & Elec. Co. v. Turner, 2 Cal. App. 720, 84 P. 239. A mere general averment that the damages resulting from a wrongful act would be irreparable, being only a conclusion of the pleader, is generally not sufficient. It is necessary that the pleadings set forth the facts so that the court may determine whether the damages would be of that character. Huxford v. Southern Pine Co., 124 Ga. 181, 52 S. E. 439; Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate v. Heywood Oil Co., 117 La. 586, 42 So. 136. In a suit to enjoin another from maintaining an alleged nuisance on his own premises which will be injurious to plaintiff's occupancy of his residence, the bill must particularly allege facts showing how and to what extent the value and use of his premises will be impaired. Proximity of railroad siding as a private nuisance discussed. Davis v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 102 Md. 371, 62 A. 572.

54. Where inadequacy of the remedy at law is alleged as a ground for injunctive relief in a court of equity, the bill must allege the facts showing that the remedy at law will be inadequate; a mere allegation that it will not is insufficient. Illinois Life Ins. Co. v. Newman, 141 F. 449. In a bill for an injunction to restrain the alleged unlawful sale of certain collateral held by defendant, an allegation "that the plaintiff would be irreparably damaged by the sale and that he has no adequate remedy at law" is an allegation of a conclusion, since it does not allege facts showing that defendant is insolvent and hence not amendable in an action for damages. Ehrich v. Grant, 111 App. Div. 195, 97 N. Y. S. 600.

55. Bill to restrain transfer of notes but failing to allege that complainants were liable on the notes. Leeds v. Illinois State Medical & Surgical Inst., 122 Ill. App. 650.

56. General allegation that executors in making settlement colluded with third party not sufficient to raise any question as to validity of settlement. Clark v. Peck [Vt.] 65 A. 14. General allegation that executors' account was misleading, untrue, and in fraud of petitioners' rights held insufficient to raise any question as to validity of account. Id. Bill held sufficient to plead a purposed sale of corporate stock to effect a monopoly. Dunbar v. American Tel. & T. Co., 224 Ill. 9, 79 N. E. 423. Bill to restrain disconnection of telephones held sufficient though general and vague in its allegations. Pekin Tel. Co. v. Farmers' Tel. Co., 120 Ill. App. 292.

57. Miles v. Pennsylvania Coal Co., 214 Pa. 544, 63 A. 1032. Injunction against disconnection of telephone lines was sought on contractual grounds. It could not be granted on grounds resting upon general nature and purpose of defendant company. Pekin Tel. Co. v. Farmers' Tel. Co., 120 Ill. App. 292.

58. N. Y. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 603-4 do not authorize the issuance of an injunction in an action for damages for breach of the covenants of a lease where the complaint does not ask for such relief. Leonard v. Schmidt, 103 App. Div. 549, 96 N. Y. S. 491.

59. Hollister v. Wohlfeil, 100 N. Y. S. 907.

fendants sought to be enjoined are parts of a conspiracy.[60] Ambiguity in the bill may be cured by admissions in the answer,[61] but the absence of necessary averments cannot be cured by an unresponsive answer.[62] Amendments may be allowed which do not change the character or substance of the bill.[63] The prayer for process should pray for an injunction.[64] An objection to a bill for an injunction that complainant has an adequate remedy at law should be taken before answering to the merits.[65] A bill for an injunction alleging the ownership of an island and of fishing rights pertaining thereto, and an answer admitting them, make a prima facie case for an injunction restraining trespass.[66] The officer of a corporation[67] or the agent or attorney of the complainant may verify,[68] but if so it must appear from the verification that he knows the contents of the bill. In Illinois the verification must be positive except as to matters peculiarly within defendant's knowledge,[69] and matter of positive verification should be distinguished from the other.[70]

Intention to commit injuries in the future may be implied from injuries of same kind in the past.[71] The effect of an allegation on information and belief may be destroyed by an antagonistic positive allegation.[72] Where the answer is responsive and denies the allegations of the bill, the burden is on complainant to establish its allegations.[73]

Trial.—In suits to enjoin a nuisance the defendant has no constitutional right to a jury trial of the issues of fact.[74] In a suit for injunction a court of equity will not undertake to determine in advance whether or not vessels and fixtures are being used for the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor, as alleged by municipal officers who are about to seize and destroy them under authority found in 98 Ohio Laws, page 12.[75]

Appeals.—The general law of appeals,[76] and that relating specially to appeals from temporary injunctions,[77] are separately treated. Appeal must be by a party aggrieved[78] and the findings are reviewed as in chancery cases.[79]

60. Adams v. Oberndorf, 121 Ill. App. 497.
61. Admission that land embraced in ordinance granting defendant right to use its streets and public grounds was part of street obstruction of which was sought to be enjoined. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. App. 306.
62. County of Henry v. Stevens, 120 Ill. App. 344.
63. Striking out unnecessary averments permissible. Rice v. O'Neal, 120 Ill. App. 259.
64. Lasher v. Annunziata, 119 Ill. App. 653.
65. Toledo Computing Scale Co. v. Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 219.
66. Saginaw Lumber & Salt Co. v. Griffore [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 505, 108 N. W. 681.
67. A verification by the treasurer of an incorporated religious society suffices under standing rule 5, at least when first questioned on appeal. First Baptist Soc. v. Dexter [Mass.] 78 N. E. 342.
68. Baltimore Bargain House v. St. Clair, 55 W. Va. 565, 52 S. E. 660.
69. Leeds v. Illinois State Medical & Surgical Inst., 122 Ill. App. 650.
70. Christian Hospital v. People, 223 Ill. 244, 79 N. E. 72.
71. Breach of negative covenant in trade agreement. Rice v. O'Neal, 120 Ill. App. 259.
72. Allegation on information and belief that defendant was in possession of decedent's estate negatived by positive allegation that executors had possession. Clark v. Peck [Vt.] 65 A. 14.
73. Cain v. Simonson [Ala.] 39 So. 571.
74. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 224. Where in an equitable action to restrain waste and trespass the complainant has asked for treble damages for past acts of defendants in cutting timber, the frame of the bill being such as to indicate that the injunctive relief is the principal relief sought, the court will disregard the claim for damages and refuse defendant's motion for a jury trial. Page v. Herkimer Lumber Co., 109 App. Div. 391, 96 N. Y. S. 272.
75. Schmidt v. Brennan, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 289.
76. See Appeal and Review, 7 C. L. 128.
77. See post, § 4E.
78. A board of supervisors which has been enjoined from paying certain claims against their county which they had audited cannot maintain an appeal where the claimants were parties. The trial court should not, however, have taxed costs against the board, there being no substantiation of the allegation that they had acted fraudulently. Fitch v. Hay, 112 App. Div. 786, 98 N. Y. S. 1080.
79. While the findings of fact in injunction cases are not conclusive on appeal, still there is a presumption that the judgment and proceedings in the trial court are correct and the burden is on appellant to show error. Hyatt v. De Hart, 140 N. C. 270, 52 S. E. 781.

§ 4. Preliminary injunction. A. Issuance and grounds.[80]—A preliminary injunction is not a matter of right but rests in legal discretion,[81] and the exercise of such discretion will not be disturbed on appeal unless clearly erroneous.[82] It will not issue except where the complainant's bill and moving papers present a case clearly entitling him to the remedy.[83] On the other hand it is not necessary that he should make a showing which would entitle him to an injunction on final hearing.[84] A probable right and a probable danger that such right will be defeated in case the injunction is not issued is sufficient.[85] The relative hardships attendant upon granting or refusing the injunction will be considered.[86] The only purpose and effect of a temporary injunction is to preserve the existing status until the cause can be fully heard and determined.[87] It should not issue where its effect will be to deprive the defendant of the possession and use of his property.[88] Ordinarily a mandatory tem-

80. See 6 C. L. 24. See, also, ante, §§ 1, 2. For terms of order, see post, § 5.

81. Railroad Commission v. Texas & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 144 F. 68; Suwanee & S. P. R. Co. v. West Coast R. Co., 50 Fla. 609, 612, 39 So. 598; Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597; Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 141 F. 898; Interborough Rapid Transit Co. v. New York, 47 Misc. 221, 95 N. Y. S. 886; Hurd v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 84 P. 558; Hooks v. Brown, 125 Ga. 122, 53 S. E. 583. See, also, Ironclad Mfg. Co. v. Sugar Loaf Dairy Co., 140 F. 108; Isdale v. Hanson, 124 Ga. 393, 52 S. E. 618; McConnell Bros. v. Jones Naval Stores Co., 125 Ga. 376, 54 S. E. 117. In New York a court of equity has no inherent, absolute power to grant an interlocutory injunction, but only in such cases as is authorized by the Code of Civil Procedure. Bachman v. Harrington, 184 N. Y. 458, 77 N. E. 657. The granting or withholding of a preliminary injunction rests largely within the sound discretion of the trial court and will not be disturbed unless the court has erred in applying the legal principles which should have guided it. Where grave questions of law and disputed questions of fact, which the court must decide before rendering a final decree, are involved, it is within the discretion of the trial court to preserve the existing status until the final hearing, espscially where plaintiff gives bond. Railroad Commission v. Texas & P. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 144 F. 68. While a temporary injunction involves discretion, a permanent injunction does not, where the facts conclusively show that it would be inequitable and unjust. McClure v. Leaycraft, 183 N. Y. 36, 75 N. E. 961.

82. Currey v. McCurdy, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 287; Gossard Co. v. Crosby [Iowa] 109 N. W. 483; Green v. Freeman [Ga.] 55 S. E. 45. Unless there has been a plain disregard of the facts or of the settled principles of equity applicable thereto, the exercise of discretion will not be disturbed on appeal. Vogel v. Warsing [C. C. A.] 146 F. 949. Decision of trial judge refusing temporary injunction will be reversed where it clearly appears from undisputed evidence that plaintiff is entitled to injunctive relief. Brown v. Atlantic & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 55 S. E. 24.

83. Star Co. v. Colver Pub. House, 141 F. 129. Where the plaintiff's right to the equitable relief sought is involved in doubt, the court will not grant an injunction pendente lite containing the same relief that would ultimately be granted if the plaintiff succeeded on the merits. Butterick Pub. Co. v. Typographical Union No. 6, 50 Misc. 1, 100 N. Y. S. 292. In granting a preliminary injunction great caution should be exercised. It ought not to be awarded merely for a tentative purpose but only in a case where it is shown that there is an impending injury or urgent necessity which demands the immediate interposition of a writ of injunction. City of Laporte v. Scott [Ind.] 76 N. E. 878. The supreme court will not issue a restraining order pending an appeal to preserve existing conditions where to do so would be inequitable and it appears from the record that appellant will not be entitled to the relief sought. State v. Newton County Com'rs [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 308. The allegations of a bill seeking an injunction must be clear, direct and certain, and to authorize an injunction pendente lite allegations of the bill on information and belief must be substantiated by the affidavit of the person or persons having direct knowledge of the facts alleged. Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597. Injunction to restrain waste of decedent's estate and destruction of papers relating thereto refused on ground that bill did not show that estate was in defendant's possession but showed that it was in possession of executors. Clark v. Peck [Vt.] 65 A. 14.

84. City of Laporte v. Scott [Ind.] 76 N. E. 878.

85. Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 141 F. 898.

86. Rose v. Smith, 121 Ill. App. 591. See, also, ante, § 1.

87. Rose v. Smith, 121 Ill. App. 591. To restrain defendant from disposing of corporate stock given him by complainant pending suit to rescind gift. Swift v. McCormick, 121 Ill. App. 556; Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 898; Ford v. Taylor, 140 F. 356. In Georgia a mandatory interlocutory injunction will not issue if the substantial relief sought thereby is affirmative. Brown v. Atlantic & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 55 S. E. 24. Injunction allowed against sale of copyrighted book before certain date contrary to contract with owner of copyright. Authors & Newspapers Ass'n v. O'Gorman Co., 147 F. 616.

88. State Road Bridge Co. v. Saginaw Circuit Judge, 143 Mich. 337, 12 Det. Leg. N. 1015, 106 N. W. 394. Defendant not substantially harmed by being restrained from selling copyrighted book at a loss for ad-porary injunction will issue only where some act on the part of defendant is necessary to preserve the existing status and the doing of such act is not the one sought to be coerced by the final decree.[89] A temporary injunction or restraining order can only be issued in a pending suit.[90] To authorize the issuance the bill or complaint should allege facts entitling complainant to injunctive relief.[91] If the allegations of the bill are on information and belief, such allegations should be corroborated by the affidavit of some person having personal knowledge of the facts.[92] A preliminary injunction will not be granted where the proofs leave the court in serious doubt respecting the plaintiff's right, or where it is not apparent that the ultimate determination of the suit in plaintiff's favor is reasonably probable.[93]

Notice of application.[94]—The granting or refusing of a temporary injunction without notice to the party sought to be enjoined rests largely in the discretion of the trial court.[95] Ordinarily it will issue without notice only where the exigency is extreme and the giving of notice would accelerate the doing of the threatened injury before the court would be able to act.[96] In some jurisdictions the statutes prohibit issuance without notice except where it appears that complainant will be unduly prejudiced unless it is issued without notice.[97] In such cases the bill or accompanying affidavits must allege facts showing the existence of the exigency, an allegation that plaintiff will be unduly prejudiced or that irreparable damage will be sustained if not issued without notice is insufficient,[98] and the bill or proofs must be verified.[99] vertising purposes and for purpose of competing with owner of copyright. Authors & Newspapers Ass'n v. O'Gorman Co., 147 F. 616.

89. Mandatory injunction: Where the complaint presents a case showing or tending to show that affirmative action by the defendant of a temporary character is necessary to preserve the status quo, then a mandatory temporary injunction may issue, but if the act sought to be enforced is not continuous in its character, but solely the one sought to be decreed by final judgment, then the issuing of a mandatory temporary injunction is without authority. Bachman v. Harrington, 184 N. Y. 458, 77 N. E. 657. In a suit to enjoin the erection of a bow window extending beyond a certain line into the street in violation of the terms of an agreement, it is not proper for an injunction pendente lite to require the taking down of the structure completed at the time of the commencement of the suit, since such relief is the purpose of the suit and should be granted only on the final hearing. Williams v. Silverman Realty & Const. Co., 111 App. Div. 679, 97 S. W. 945.

90. Under Bal. Codes § 4869, an action is commenced by service of a summons or by the filing of a complaint, provided defendants are served within 90 days, hence an action is commenced by filing of a complaint so as to authorize the issuance of a restraining order in a suit for injunction. State v. Nicoll, 40 Wash. 517, 82 P. 895. See, also, ante, § 3.

91. Under N. Y. Code, § 603, an injunction pendente lite is not authorized unless the complaint sets up facts which would entitle complainant to injunctive relief; it is not enough that the facts are set up in affidavits presented in support of the motion. Goldman v. Corn, 111 App. Div. 674, 97 N. Y. S. 926.

92. Spurgeon v. Rhodes [Ind.] 78 N. E. 228. But an injunction issued on notice will not be reversed on appeal, though the averments of the bill were made on information and belief and without the affidavit of any person having personal knowledge, where the averments of the bill were not denied by respondent. Id.

93. Injunction to restrain breach of contract refused. Empire Circuit Co. v. Jermon, 147 F. 532.

94. See 6 C. L. 26, n. 21.

95. State v. Nicoll, 40 Wash. 517, 82 P. 895. Whether a court has abused its discretion in issuing an injunction pendente lite without notice to respondent must of course be determined from the circumstances of the particular case. Anderson v. Hultberg, 117 Ill. App. 231.

96. The summary issuance of a mandatory injunction in vacation by a judge should not be done unless the exigency is extreme, the threatened danger practically certain, and the consequent irremediable injury imminent. If these conditions do not exist the injunction should issue only after a trial of the facts. Hager v. New South Brewing Co., 28 Ky. L. R. 895, 90 S. W. 608.

97. A temporary injunction against a municipal corporation should not be issued without notice except in a very clear case of urgency. City of Chicago v. Farson, 118 Ill. App. 291. An injunctional order at the suit of an abutting owner to restrain the corporation from levying an improvement assessment, and the issuance of certificates based on such assessments, cannot be considered as having the effect to stop the ordinary business of the corporation within the meaning of Code § 4359, and hence may issue without notice to the municipality. Wingert v. Snouffer [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1035.

98. Elser v. Gross Point, 223 Ill. 230, 79 N. E. 27; South Park Com'rs v. Farson, 119

Objection for want of notice of application for injunction is waived by appearance and motion to dissolve,[1] or by appearing and resisting an application for an injunction.[2]

(§ 4) B. Bonds.[3]—In most jurisdictions the giving of a bond is a condition precedent to the issuance of a preliminary injunction.[4] Failure to exact the prerequisite undertaking as required by a long established rule of court ousts the jurisdiction and voids the order.[5] Appearing to the suit does not waive this objection unless knowingly ignored.[6] Statutory requirements as to execution and justification of sureties on the bond must be complied with.[7] A motion to dissolve for inadequacy of the bond should not be granted without giving complainant an opportunity to give additional security.[8]

(§ 4) C. Dissolution, modification or continuance; reinstatement.[9]—The continuance, modification, or dissolution of a temporary injunction is largely within the discretion of the court issuing it.[10] It follows that the defendant is not entitled to a dissolution, as a matter of course, even though the answer denies all the equities of the bill.[11] The appellate courts will interfere only in case it clearly appears that there has been an abuse of such discretion.[12] A preliminary injunction once grant-

Ill. App. 337. An allegation that irreparable damage will be suffered if not issued without notice is a mere conclusion and insufficient. City of Chicago v. Farson, 118 Ill. App. 291. To authorize the issuance of an injunction without notice to respondent the bill or affidavit should state facts showing how and why the giving of notice would accelerate or precipitate the injury apprehended and sought to be enjoined. It is not enough to allege that such would be the case. Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597. Under Rev. St. c. 69, § 3, in order to authorize issuance of injunction without notice, either bill or affidavits must contain such allegations of fact under oath as will lead court to reasonable conclusion that otherwise complainant will be "unduly prejudiced." Rose v. Smith, 121 Ill. App. 590; Pepper Distributing Co. v. McLeod, 121 Ill. App. 592. Where tenant in violation of covenants in year's lease had twice removed "to rent" sign and only one month of term was unexpired, injunction without notice was authorized under R. S. c. 39, § 3, on ground that otherwise complainant would be "unduly prejudiced." Stafford v. Swift, 121 Ill. App. 508.

99. Verification of allegations on which injunction sought is essential in order to authorize issue of injunction without notice. Pepper Distributing Co. v. McLeod, 121 Ill. App. 592.

1. Adams v. Oberndorf, 121 Ill. App. 597.

2. Smith v. Miller, 28 Ky. L. R. 1205, 91 S. W. 1140.

3. See 6 C. L. 27.

4. Summers v. First Nat. Bank [Fla.] 40 So. 622. Under Rev. St. Ill. c. 69, § 8, a temporary injunction to restrain the enforcement of a judgment should not issue without a bond from complainant. Grossman v. Davis, 117 Ill. App. 354.

5. Such a rule (rule 42) held not suspendable at will. Drew v. Hogan, 26 App. D. C. 55.

6. Drew v. Hogan, 26 App. D. C. 55.

7. Potsdam Elec. Light & Power Co. v. Potsdam, 49 Misc. 18. 97 N. Y. S. 190.

8. Wingert v. Snouffer [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1035.

9. See 6 C. L. 27.

10. Wilder v. Alderman & Sons Co. [S. C.] 53 S. E. 950. The general rule is that when the injunctive relief sought is not merely ancillary to the principal relief demanded in the action, but is itself the main relief, the court will continue it to the hearing on the merits. If, however, the injunction tends to interfere with matters which would seriously inconvenience the public, it will be dissolved. Hyatt v. De Hart, 140 N. C. 270, 52 S. E. 781. The interests of the general public have weight. Suwanee, etc., R. Co. v. West Coast R. Co., 50 Fla. 609, 612, 39 So. 538. The dissolution of a preliminary injunction restraining trespass rests in the discretion of the trial judge and may be denied though there is a direct conflict in the affidavits presented on the motion to dissolve, especially where complainant might suffer irremediable injury in case of dissolution. McKenzie v. McCrory [Miss.] 40 So. 483. Whether a pendente lite order shall be continued is largely discretionary with the chancellor. Bryan v. Curtis, 26 App. D. C. 95.

11. Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597.

Where a dissolution would be practically a denial of the relief to which the complainant might show himself entitled on final hearing, although the equity of the bill may be fully answered, the court will continue the injunction to the final hearing, if the dissolution would work a greater injury than the continuance of the process. Ford v. Taylor, 140 F. 356. A restraining order will be discontinued where the answer denies the facts which would entitle the complainant to an injunction, and the party securing the order for a long time delays to procure and present any affidavits in support of the bill. In re Latimer, 141 F. 665. When the allegations of a bill upon which its equity depends are fully, directly, and completely denied in the answer, and none appear by the case made why the injunction should be retained, it ed cannot be arbitrarily dissolved,[13] or where the complainant will be injured by a dissolution and the defendant will not be injured by a refusal to dissolve, though the case made by the complainant is contradicted by that made by the defendant.[14] A preliminary injunction granted to protect an important public service will not be dissolved on mere affidavits attacking the franchise for such service.[15] A dissolution should not be granted on an answer which is evasive as to any material allegations of the bill,[16] nor where the facts on which the right to a dissolution is based are disputed.[17] Where the complainant has himself violated the spirit of an injunction, the court may grant its dissolution unless the complainant restores the status he disturbed.[18] A bond for damages to procure a dissolution will not avail where injunction issued because of impossibility of estimating damage.[19]

Except as provided by statute,[20] application to vacate should be made to the court issuing the writ or the one to which the case has been transferred.[21] A motion to dissolve an injunction granted upon a bill for injunction only is in effect a demurrer[22] and will be denied if a supplemental bill has cured the defect.[23] On motion to dissolve on bill and answer the responsive allegations of the answer are taken as true[24] so far as they are responsive,[25] and if the equity of the bill is sworn away by the answer the injunction will be dissolved,[26] and other proofs supporting the bill will not be heard except on notice given[27] or after hearing of the motion,[28] should be dissolved. Webster v. De Bardeleben [Ala.] 41 So. 831.

12. Godwin v. Phifer [Fla.] 41 So. 597; Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate v. Heywood Oil Co., 117 La. 536, 42 So. 126. On an appeal from an order granting a restraining order pending an action to enjoin the enforcement of an alleged unconstitutional statute, the appellate court ordinarily will consider only the question of whether there has been an abuse of discretion. Jewett Bros. v. Smail [S. D.] 105 N. W. 738. If the injury to defendant was slight and that of plaintiff considerable, if the injunction be not issued and the plaintiff ultimately prevail and there is a strong probability that plaintiff may prevail and it appears the court has not, in dissolving the injunction, applied the correct legal principles to the case, its action will be reversed and an injunction pendente lite ordered issued. Miocene Ditch Co. v. Jacobsen [C. C. A.] 146 F. 680.

13. Humphry v. Buena Vista Water Co., 2 Cal. App. 540, 84 P. 296.

14. Pekin Tel. Co. v. Farmers' Tel. Co., 120 Ill. App. 292.

15. New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 50 Misc. 13, 100 N. Y. S. 316.

16. Ford v. Taylor, 140 F. 356.

17. Village of Carthage v. Central New York Tel. & T. Co., 110 App. Div. 625, 96 N. Y. S. 919.

18. Suwanee, etc., R. Co. v. West Coast R. Co., 50 Fla. 609, 612, 39 So. 538.

19. Where it appears that plaintiff will suffer irreparable damage from a trespass which he seeks to enjoin and that his damages would not be susceptible of computation or proof, it is error to dissolve a temporary injunction on the defendant's giving bond to pay damages, since such order deprives plaintiff of the relief which could only be obtained by the injunction. Wethington v. Baxter, 124 Ga. 1024, 53 S. E. 505.

20. Under Gen. St. Kan. 1901, § 1924, a district judge has power to vacate a temporary restraining order issued by a probate judge. Hurd v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 84 P. 553.

21. In New York: When the time for appealing has expired and a change of venue has been taken, so that application cannot be made to the judge who granted it, application to vacate an injunction may properly be made to the supreme court of the branch to which it has been removed. McGorie v. McAdoo, 49 Misc. 601, 99 N. Y. S. 1107.

22. Marks v. Chicago Yacht Club, 121 Ill. App. 308.

23. An order dissolving a temporary injunction granted on a bill which was demurrable is erroneous where at the time of making the order dissolving the temporary injunction there was a supplemental bill on file which stated facts entitling plaintiff to injunctive relief and such facts were not controverted. Farnum v. Clarke, 148 Cal. 610, 84 P. 166.

24. McCormick v. McCormick [Md.] 65 A. 54.

25. New matter in an answer not responsive to the bill cannot be considered on a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction. Town of New Decatur v. Scharfenberg [Ala.] 41 So. 1025.

26. Injunction against judgment dissolved. McCormick v. McCormick [Md.] 65 A. 54.

27. On a motion to dissolve the court should not consider the merits on affidavits. Wingert v. Snouffer [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1035. It is not competent for the complainant on hearing of a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction based on a sworn answer to support the averments of the bill by ex parte affidavits and documentary proof, especially where no notice was given the adverse party that such proof would be offered. Roman v. Long Distance Tel. & T. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 292.

though in Iowa practice such motion may be on affidavits and counter affidavits.[29] A motion based on bill and answer should await the answering of all defendants, excepting in a proper case formal parties defendant.[30]

On the hearing of a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction the court has no jurisdiction to dismiss the suit.[31] In Colorado the verified answer is not conclusive on the complainant and hence the suit should not be dismissed when the temporary injunction is dissolved on the bill and answer,[32] though in other jurisdictions it is held the suit may be dismissed on hearing of a motion to dissolve, on sustaining a demurrer to the bill for want of equity,[33] or where it appears on such a motion that there is no ground for granting the relief on the merits.[34]

(§ 4) D. Damages on dissolution and liability on bond.[35]—The failure of a plaintiff to prosecute an action for an injunction, where a temporary restraining order has been granted and bond given, is a confession by him that he has no case to try, and that his interference with the rights of the defendant by injunction was without warrant, and the surety is liable, whether the action is dismissed at the request of the plaintiff or because of his neglect to prosecute.[36] A superseded permanent decree does not dissolve the undertaking.[37] In an action on an injunction bond the obligors are liable only for such damages as fall within the conditions of the bond,[38] and are the necessary and proximate result of the wrongful issuance of the

28. It is not error for a trial court on an application for a preliminary injunction to refuse to allow the reading of further affidavits on a day subsequent to that on which arguments were made and the cause was submitted, though he has not filed a decision, no reason being given for failure to present them at the hearing. Green v. Freeman [Ga.] 55 S. E. 45.

29. Under Code Iowa, § 4361 a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction may be made on affidavits and before filing of an answer, and the affidavits are to be given the same effect as a sworn answer. Gossard Co. v. Crosby [Iowa] 109 N. W. 483.

30. As a general rule, to authorize the dissolution of an injunction when the same is heard upon a motion to dissolve, all of the defendants must have answered, and to give effect to the answers they should be under oath, but the rule that all defendants must have answered is subject to the exception that the court may in its discretion entertain such a motion where the parties who have not answered are merely formal parties or are infants or nonresidents, and whose answers cannot be material in regard to the facts on which the injunction is sought. Davis v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 102 Md. 371, 62 A. 572.

31. Lively v. Hunter, 124 Ga. 516, 52 S. E. 544; Welch v. Sheaffer, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 619.

32. A dismissal of a suit for injunction on a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction, where the motion is based on the pleadings, is erroneous, though the answer is verified, since a verified answer is not conclusive on the plaintiff, but he should be afforded an opportunity to prove his case on the merits. Spar Consol. Min. Co. v. Casserleigh, 34 Colo. 454, 83 P. 1058.

33. Where an injunction is the only relief sought and it is dissolved on motion on a demurrer to the bill for want of equity, the order of dissolution is a final disposition of the case authorizing a dismissal of the bill. Fry v. Radzinski, 219 Ill. 526, 76 N. E. 694. When the only relief sought by a bill is an injunction, a motion to dissolve for want of equity on the face of the bill operates as a demurrer to the bill admitting the truth of its allegations, and when such motion is allowed the case is virtually at an end and in such case complainant can dismiss his own bill and appeal. Carroll v. Barry Brothers Transp. Co., 118 Ill. App. 230.

34. Where the injunction asked for is not ancillary but the primary and principal relief prayed for, there is no reason for retaining the bill if upon hearing upon bill, answer, and deposition, on motion to dissolve the injunction, it appears there is no ground for granting the injunction on the merits. Davis v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 102 Md. 371, 62 A. 572.

35. See 6 C. L. 28.

36. Machold v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 273.

37. It continues till decision on the appeal and in case of reversal of the permanent decree is in force. Cortelyou v. Houghton, 27 App. D. C. 188.

38. State v. Crislip, 58 W. Va. 414, 52 S. E. 476. When a sheriff has been enjoined from selling on execution property of a debtor pending the determination of a bankruptcy proceeding against the debtor and a bond is filed, the bankrupt cannot recover, on dissolution of the injunction on dismissal of the bankruptcy proceeding, the damages authorized by section 3 E of the Bankruptcy Act as recoverable on a bond given pursuant to said section. In re Hines, 144 F. 147. The costs and expenses of opposing a motion made on an order to show cause why an injunction pendente lite should not be granted, where the temporary restraining order is limited to expire on the hearing of the motion, are not recoverable as damages because of the pre-injunction,[38] including a reasonable attorney's fee for procuring a dissolution of the injunction.[40] In the absence of a statute attorney's fees are not recoverable as damages in suits brought in the Federal courts.[41] In some jurisdictions the court may on dissolution of a temporary injunction award damages to the defendant in the writ[42] without notice to the sureties.[43] In the absence of such a statute the sureties can be charged only in an action on the bond.[44] Among the items of damage allowable to the defendant on dissolution are a reasonable attorney's fee for services in procuring its dissolution,[45] or a reversal on appeal from an order grant-liminary injunction. The motion on the order to show cause being denied there was no preliminary injunction for which the bond is responsible. Sargent v. St. Mary's Orphan Boys' Asylum, 112 App. Div. 674, 98 N. Y. S. 632. Damages sustained by the granting of an injunction on a bond given pursuant to Code of Civ. Proc. § 620 cannot be assessed until after the final determination of the suit, since the condition of such bond refers to the final termination of the action and not a dissolution of a temporary injunction. Slingerland v. Albany Typographical Union No. 4, 100 N. Y. S. 569.

39. Thus, where the injunction restrained defendant from interfering with the cutting of timber which a trial on the merits showed belonged to defendant in an action on the bond, defendant can recover the value of timber cut and carried away by plaintiff and with which defendant could not interfere. Miller v. Smyths, 29 Ky. L. R. 242, 92 S. W. 964.

Loss of wages: In an action on an injunction bond to recover for the wrongful issue of an injunction which prevented plaintiff from teaching a school pursuant to a contract, he can recover only the difference between what he would have earned and what he did earn during the time he was restrained or what by reasonable diligence he could have earned. Shepherd v. Gambill, 29 Ky. L. R. 1163, 96 S. W. 1104. Where the postal authorities are restrained from exacting a higher class postage rate, the measure is the difference in rates collected. Cortelyou v. Houghton, 27 App. D. C. 188.

40. Thompson v. Benson, 41 Wash. 70, 82 P. 1040; Sutliff v. Montgomery, 115 Mo. App. 592, 92 S. W. 515. Where the cutting of timber is enjoined and is vacated on the defendant's given bond and subsequently dissolved on the merits, attorney's fees and other expenses relating distinctly to the bonding of the injunction are recoverable as damages. Martin v. Tellotte, 111 La. 769, 40 So. 41.

Held not allowable: In an action on an injunction bond the defendant cannot recover for fees paid an attorney for an unsuccessful attempt to dissolve the injunction, though complainant thereafter voluntarily dismissed the injunction. Thompson v. Benson, 41 Wash. 70, 82 P. 1040. Where the injunction is the relief sought in the action and in fact gives the relief, if sustained, the defendant cannot recover attorney's fees in an action on the bond. Shepherd v. Gambill, 29 Ky. L. R. 1163, 96 S. W. 1104. In an action on a bond given as a condition precedent to the issuance of a restraining order the sureties are not liable for attorney's fees expended in resisting an application for an injunction pendente lite. White Pine Lumber Co. v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 42 Wash. 569, 85 P. 52.

41. In the Federal courts, in the absence of a statute authorizing it, attorney's fees for procuring a dissolution of an injunction are not recoverable in an action on the bond. Hence not allowable in suit in Alaska Territorial court. Lindeberg v. Howard [C. C. A.] 146 F. 467; Sullivan v. Cartier [C. C. A.] 147 F. 222. On dissolution of an injunction issued by the Federal courts, the defendant cannot recover attorney's fees in addition to the costs allowed to the successful defendant by Equity Rule 34. In re Hines, 144 F. 147.

42. Cameron & Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 1129. Where a motion for the dissolution of an injunction is granted, the party at whose instance it was issued in a proceeding for assessment of damages cannot assert that its issuance was not wrongful, nor is it material that a writ was not actually issued pursuant to the order therefor. Brown v. Peterson, 117 Ill. App. 401. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 69, p. 1042, § 12, providing that "when an injunction is dissolved * * * the court shall * * * assess damages," when dissolution was refused by circuit court and granted by appellate court, the former court had authority to assess damages. Fry v. Radzinski, 121 Ill. App. 303. Where injunction dissolved on interlocutory appeal trial court had authority to assess damages without waiting for mandate from appellate court. Id. Damages not assessed prior to final hearing where single order assesses damages and dismisses bill. Id.

43. Rev. St. Mo. 1899, § 3640. Sutliff v. Montgomery, 115 Mo. App. 592, 92 S. W. 515. Rev. St. 1899, § 3639, does not require that such damages shall be assessed at the term during which the injunction was dissolved; it is sufficient if the proceedings be commenced during such term. Id.

44. Costs and damages cannot be awarded on an injunction bond until the final determination of the action on its merits, and then they cannot be summarily assessed in the injunction suit but must be by a separate action against the sureties on the bond. Dougal v. Eby, 11 Idaho, 789, 85 P. 102. A complaint in an action on a bond held to state a cause of action. Henderson v. Roy [Ala.] 40 So. 59.

45. Mossman v. Thorson, 118 Ill. App. 574; Kingsbury v. Andrews, 119 Ill. App. 35. $150 sustained on dissolution on motion. Leeds v. Illinois State Medical & Surgical Inst., 122 Ill. App. 650. Under Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1908, c. 69, § 12, if an injunction is the primary relief sought and a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction is made, a reasonable attorney's fee for procuring the dissolution may be allowed as a part of the ing a temporary injunction,[46] or for both,[47] but it is disallowed in Iowa where the injunction was sought as ancillary relief.[48] In fixing a counsel fee as damages it is good practice to inquire what if any fee was agreed.[49] The finding of the chancellor as to the amount of damages allowable will not be disturbed unless clearly erroneous,[50] but a reviewing court will not defer to the trial court's conclusion when the entire predicate for such conclusion is in the record.[51]

The successor of one restrained in a purely official capacity may sue for the damage and account to the public.[52] The personal representatives and not the heirs of a deceased obligee are the proper parties plaintiff, though the injunction was issued to prevent waste.[53] In Alabama, one not a party to the injunction suit may maintain an action on the bond,[54] but one who voluntarily obeys an injunction not directed to or binding on him cannot recover damages sustained thereby.[55]

Where in an action on a bond the damages are itemized, the recovery should be limited to the items alleged.[56]

(§ 4) E. Appeal and review.[57]—In many jurisdictions the statutes provide that an order granting a temporary injunction,[58] as well as one dissolving[59] or denying a motion to dissolve[60] a temporary injunction, shall be appealable.[61] An order enlarging a temporary injunction is not appealable.[62] Where the point in dispute and on which the right to an injunction must turn is a question of law, the supreme damages. The fees can be allowed only for such services as pertained to the dissolution. Marks v. Columbia Yacht Club, 219 Ill. 417, 76 N. E. 582. Such counsel fees may be allowed as are necessarily incurred in procuring a dissolution, though such services might be equally applicable upon a demurrer going to the merits. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 69, § 12, providing for assessment of such damages as nature of case may require and to equity appertain, counsel fees for services on motion to dissolve injunction granted on bill for injunction only are allowable, regardless of whether such services might have been applicable on a demurrer to merits, there being no distinction in effect in such case between a motion to dissolve and a demurrer. Marks v. Chicago Yacht Club, 121 Ill. App. 308.

46. Fry v. Radzinski, 219 Ill. 526, 76 N. E. 694. Under 2 Starr & C. Ann St. Ill. c. 69, § 12, on the reversal of an interlocutory injunction by the court of appeals, damages sustained by the defendant, if any, are to be assessed by the circuit court, nor is it necessary that a mandate should have been filed in the circuit court preliminary to such assessment. Id. Allowance on appeal of $30 the same as on the order reduced to $15, one-half the fee at trial. Curphy v. Terrell [Miss.] 42 So. 235.

47. Attorneys' fees on dissolution and also on appeal from the order of dissolution may be allowed. Curphy v. Terrell [Miss.] 42 So. 235.

48. Where an injunction is the sole relief sought, its dissolution entitles the party enjoined to recover his attorney's fees in procuring the dissolution, but where the injunction sought is merely collateral to the principal controversy, and its maintenance is not decisive of the question at issue, an attorney's fee is not recoverable. Weierhauser v. Cole [Iowa] 109 N. W. 301.

49. Mossman v. Thorson, 118 Ill. App. 574.

50. Marks v. Chicago Yacht Club, 121 Ill. App. 308.

51. Cortelyou v. Houghton, 27 App. D. C. 188.

52. Injunction against exaction of higher class postage rates. Cortelyou v. Houghton, 27 App. D. C. 188.

53. Miller v. Smythe, 29 Ky. L. R. 242, 92 S. W. 964.

54. Where an injunction bond is given pursuant to Code Ala. § 788, a person not an obligee therein nor a party to the suit can recover thereon for damages resulting to him from the direct effects of the injunction. In a suit on such a bond the plaintiff, if not a party to the suit nor the obligee named in the bond, must allege facts showing that he has been damaged. An allegation of breach of the bond and dissolution is insufficient. Marengo County v. Matkin, 144 Ala. 574, 42 So. 33.

55. An assignee of a contract for the construction of a court house is not bound by an injunction issued against his assignor, the county and certain of its officers subsequent to the assignment, enjoining them from performing the contract, and hence cannot recover damages on the bond sustained by reason of his voluntary discontinuance of construction. Marengo County v. Matkin, 144 Ala. 574, 42 So. 33.

56. Sullivan v. Cartier [C. C. A.] 147 F. 222.

57. See 6 C. L. 29.

58. Lamar v. Croft, 73 S. C. 407, 53 S. E. 540.

59. Dougal v. Eby, 11 Idaho, 789, 85 P. 102.

60. Baltimore Bargain House v. St. Clair, 58 W. Va. 565, 52 S. E. 660; Lasher v. Annunziata, 119 Ill. App. 653.

61. See, also, Appeal and Review, 7 C. L. 128.

62. National Hollow Brake Beam Co. v. Leigh, 119 Ill. App. 344.

court in Michigan may compel its dissolution by mandamus.[63] Expiration of the right sought to be protected before the appeal is taken will cause dismissal of the appeal at appellant's cost.[64] In proper cases an injunction may be continued by order of court pending appeal.[65] One may appeal without superseding the injunctional order.[66] A supersedeas continuing a dissolved order ceases when the dissolution is affirmed.[67] On appeal from an order granting a temporary injunction the appellate court will not consider matters not shown by the record to have been passed on by the trial court.[68] The appellate court will respect, but is not bound by, the findings of fact made by the trial court.[69] It will not reverse a denial of an injunction based on a right which expired before the hearing on appeal.[70] The assignment of errors must be specific.[71]

§ 5. Decree, judgment, or order for injunction.[72]—A decree in an injunction suit should be definite and certain in its description of the acts inhibited,[73] and the terms must be so narrowed to the acts of wrong threatened as not to forbid the doing of acts not complained of.[74] It should be within the issues raised by the pleadings[75] and within the relief asked for in the bill.[76] A decree timed to operate from the period when defendant states that an unavoidable nuisance will be rectified by him is unobjectionable to defendant.[77]

63. Blain v. Chippewa Circuit Judge [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 394, 108 N. W. 440. A motion to dissolve an injunction is a necessary prerequisite to an application for a writ of mandamus from the supreme court to compel its dissolution. Id.

64. An order dissolving a temporary injunction which restrained the appellant from revoking a license which had expired by operation of law, at the time of the order dissolving the injunction, will not be reversed on appeal. Costs taxed against appellant. Syfer v. Spence [Md.] 68 A. 256.

65. Where on a supplemental bill, in the nature of a bill of review, a bill on which an injunction was granted is dismissed, the court has no jurisdiction to continue the injunction, in force pending an appeal from the decree dismissing the first bill. Kelley Bros. v. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co., 142 F. 868.

66. Failure to file a supersedeas bond does not deprive one against whom an injunction was issued of the right to appeal and his performance of the mandate of the court pending an appeal without a supersedeas bond does not entitle the appellee to a dismissal of the appeal, since in such case performance is not to be regarded as voluntary. Nixon v. Boling [Ala.] 40 So. 210.

67. Where on a dissolution of an injunction the complainant appeals and files a supersedeas bond, an affirmance by the appellate court works a dissolution of the injunction which the supersedeas bond continued in force. Zimmerman Mfg. Co. v. Wilson [Ala.] 40 So. 515.

68. Hammond Elevator Co. v. Board of Trade of Chicago [C. C. A.] 143 F. 292.

69. Toledo Computing Scale Co. v. Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 919.

70. On appeal, one who claims the right to maintain a lunch stand in a street pursuant to a license, which expired before the hearing of the appeal, is not entitled to a reversal of an order refusing to enjoin the police from requiring him to remove his lunch wagon. Spencer v. Mahon [S. C.] 55 S. E. 321.

71. An exception to a judgment denying an interlocutory injunction and an assignment of his refusal to grant it as error is sufficiently specific to preclude dismissal of an appeal, especially where it appears he passed on conflicting evidence in so determining. Kirkland v. Atlantic & B. R. Co. [Ga.] 55 S. E. 23.

72. See 6 C. L. 29.

73. A decree in a suit to enjoin members of a labor union from intimidating patrons of plaintiff's restaurant held sufficiently definite and certain to inform defendants of what acts they are to refrain from doing. Jordahl v. Hayda, 1 Cal. App. 696, 82 P. 1079. To authorize punishment as for contempt the acts enjoined must be clearly and definitely defined, so as to leave the party enjoined in no reasonable doubt or uncertainty as to what specific thing or act is prohibited. United States v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 142 F. 176.

74. Injunction to protect agreement to refrain from a certain business in name of the "Harder Knitting Co." held too broad in forbidding use of "Harder Manufacturing Co." in different business. Union Mills v. Harder, 101 N. Y. S. 309.

75. A decree cannot be entered in a suit for injunction which is without the issue made by the pleadings. Tuckfield v. Crager, 29 Utah, 472, 82 P. 860.

76. In an action to enjoin trespass on certain premises, when that is the only relief sought, a judgment dismissing the bill and adjudging the title to be in defendant is, so far as it adjudges title, not authorized by the pleadings. Country Club Land Ass'n v. Lohbauer, 97 N. Y. S. 11. Acts cannot be enjoined as to which no injunction is prayed for. Maine Produot Co. v. Alexander, 100 N. Y. S. 709.

77. Using railroad as a switch yard pending improvements which it is promised will remove such use of tracks. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 47, 93 S. W. 177.

Where equitable grounds for an injunction are lacking, the court cannot proceed to award damages which it is averred arose on the equitable action,[78] though in New York it has been held that the court may deny the relief on condition that defendant will pay such damages as are assessed by the court.[79] If, however, the court has jurisdiction on equitable grounds other than those relied on for the issuance of an injunction, it may, though denying injunctive relief, assess damages to plaintiff for the wrongful acts already committed.[80]

A mandatory injunction will not issue to compel the erection of a structure of a specific character.[81] The power of a court of equity to issue an injunction on final hearing is in no wise dependent on whether or not a temporary injunction has been granted, since the right to a temporary injunction is no part of complainant's cause of action.[82]

A court of equity has power to modify or vacate an injunction issued by it[83] for reasons arising subsequent to the decree,[84] and the injunction may be granted in general terms subject to the right to apply for such modification as may be equitable and proper,[85] but the decree is res adjudicata as to issues passed on at the time the injunction was issued.[86]

An interlocutory injunction will be construed in accordance with the bill and proof on which it is issued.[87] A temporary restraining order becomes binding on the party enjoined from the time he has notice of its issuance, though no formal notice is given him or the order is not personally served on him.[88]

Where a court has issued an injunction it has power to enforce it, not only by

78. American Ice Co. v. New York, 51 Misc. 114, 100 N. Y. S. 748; Rauch v. Bruckmann Brewing Co., 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 460. In a suit for an injunction, where the court is of the opinion that the complainant has lost his right to an injunction by laches, the court is powerless to render damages as alternative relief where there is no other ground for equity jurisdiction. In such case his damages are recoverable in an action at law. Beers v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 141 F. 957.

79. In a suit for injunction where all the parties submit the controversy to the court, the court has power to deny the injunction on condition that defendant pay such damages as are fixed by the court, leaving to the complainant the option of accepting the same or instituting an action at law for his damages. Knoth v. Manhattan R. Co., 109 App. Div. 802, 96 N. Y. S. 844.

80. In a suit for injunction the court on denying the relief may provide for the ascertainment of the damages which plaintiff has or may suffer by reason of the wrongful acts of defendant and decree their payment by defendant. Andrus v. Berkshire Power Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 76. In a suit for injunction the court may retain the cause for assessment of damages, though it denies the injunction. Levi v. Worcester Consol. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 853. In an injunction suit, the court having found the existence of the primary right involved in favor of plaintiff, may not only enjoin future breaches of the contract but may award damages for prior breaches. My Laundry Co. v. Schmeling [Wis.] 109 N. W. 540.

81. Rauch v. Bruckmann Brewing Co., 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 460.

82. Columbia Water Power Co. v. Nunamaker, 73 S. C. 550, 53 S. E. 996.

83. The district court, in the exercise of its general equity powers, is authorized and possesses jurisdiction to modify or vacate an order for a perpetual injunction which it has allowed, after the term at which rendered and at any time when the cause for which it was granted has ceased to exist and the danger to plaintiff's rights no longer exists. The burden is on defendant to show that the danger has been certainly removed, not that it possibly may have been. Lowe v. Prospect Hill Cemetery Ass'n [Neb.] 106 N. W. 429.

84. Where subsequent to a final order for injunction events have transpired which render it inequitable to enforce the decree, it may be modified or vacated on motion and in a summary proceeding, provided the facts are not disputed. Lowe v. Prospect Hill Cemetery Ass'n [Neb.] 106 N. W. 429.

85. General injunction granted against sale of copyrighted books contrary to restrictive stipulations in contract of purchase, subject to right of modification so as to include such books as were purchased by defendant from parties who purchased from plaintiff without notice of such restrictions. Authors & Newspapere Ass'n v. O'Gorman Co., 147 F. 616.

86. A question tried and determined in the action in which a perpetual injunction is allowed cannot be relitigated on a motion to modify or vacate the order for injunction. Lowe v. Prospect Hill Csmetery Ass'n [Neb.] 106 N. W. 429.

87. Hammond Elevator Co. v. Board of Trade of Chicago [C. C. A.] 143 F. 292.

88. Blake v. Nesbet, 144 F. 279.

punishing persons violating its terms, but to make such additional remedial orders as may be necessary to give full effect to the injunction.[89]

§ 6. Violation and punishment.[90]—If the court issuing an injunction had jurisdiction of the subject-matter and person of the party enjoined, the fact that it was erroneously issued is no justification for its violation.[91] It must be obeyed until dissolved or reversed on appeal.[92] If on the other hand the court was without jurisdiction of the person or subject-matter of the suit,[93] or a jurisdictional bond was lacking,[94] the person attempted to be enjoined cannot be found guilty of contempt for not obeying it.[95] The fact that the court exceeded its jurisdiction as to some of the acts prohibited does not justify disobedience as to matters within its jurisdiction.[96] Payment by a public officer of funds in his possession to a receiver appointed by a Federal court is not a violation of an injunction of a state court restraining him from paying them over to the plaintiffs in the suit in the Federal court.[97]

Punishment for violation.—A court having jurisdiction to issue an injunction has the inherent power to punish for contempt those who violate its mandates.[98] In contempt proceedings for violation of an injunction there is no right to a trial by jury,[99] nor is the respondent entitled to be confronted with the witnesses against

89. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 229.

90. See 6 C. L. 30.

91. State v. District Ct. of Redwood County [Minn.] 107 N. W. 963; Huttig Sash & Door Co. v. Fuelle, 143 F. 363; Ex parte Breeding [Tex. Cr. App.] 90 S. W. 634. It is contempt to violate an order erroneously made but not one void for lack of power to make it. Christian Hospital v. People, 223 Ill. 244, 79 N. E. 72; Saginaw Lumber & Salt Co. v. Griffore [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 505, 108 N. W. 681. The fact that there was a defect of parties plaintiff to a bill does not render an injunction issued thereon void so as to exempt one violating it from punishment. Franklin Union, No. 4 v. People, 220 Ill. 355, 77 N. E. 176. Defects in the manner of bringing the injunction suit which are remediable by amendment will not affect the power to punish for contempt in violating the injunction. Franklin Union No. 4 v. People, 121 Ill. App. 647. In contempt proceedings for violation of a temporary injunction, the defendant cannot purge himself by showing that the injunction was erroneously issued or that on final hearing it would have been dissolved. Blake v. Nesbet, 144 F. 279. In trying a proceeding for contempt for violating an order of injunction the court will not inquire as to whether the order was erroneously made. Smith v. Miller, 28 Ky. L. R. 1205, 91 S. W. 1140. Where the court has jurisdiction of the persons and subject-matter, the fact that the injunction is broader than is justified by the bill does not exempt from contempt proceedings one who violates its terms. Franklin Union, No. 4 v. People, 220 Ill. 355, 77 N. E. 176.

92. Must be obeyed pending appeal when not superseded. Lytle v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 344, 90 S. W. 316. A restraining order has all the force of an injunction until vacated or modified and a defendant is bound to obey it. If he is in doubt as to what he may do without violating it he should ask for a modification or construction of its terms. Warner v. Martin, 124 Ga. 387, 52 S. E. 446.

93. Disobedience of an injunction issued in a suit of which the court issuing it had no jurisdiction of the subject-matter is a nullity and one adjudged guilty of contempt for its violation may be released on habeas corpus. Ex parte Robinson [C. C. A.] 144 F. 835. A defendant in an injunction can be punished for a violation thereof, though it was erroneously awarded, provided the court has jurisdiction to make the order, but he cannot be punished, at least in civil contempt proceedings, for a violation of an injunction which the court had no power to make. Bachman v. Harrington, 184 N. Y. 458, 77 N. E. 657.

94. No undertaking to support order disobeyed. Drew v. Hogan, 26 App. D. C. 55.

95. Blake v. Nesbet, 144 F. 279. A void order of injunction will not sustain a judgment for contempt for its violation, but where the court has jurisdiction to make the order it must be respected, though the party enjoined would be entitled to a dissolution on motion or on a hearing on the merits. Miles v. State [Neb.] 105 N. W. 301.

96. State v. District Ct. of Redwood County [Minn.] 107 N. W. 963.

97. Where a treasurer of a county has been enjoined by a state court from paying out funds in his hands in discharge of bond coupons at the suit of the county commissioners, his payment of such funds to a receiver appointed by a Federal court in a suit instituted by the coupon owners against the county is not a violation by him of the injunction order of the state court. Board of Com'rs of Onslow County v. Tollman [C. C. A.] 145 F. 753.

98. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 224.

99. Ex parte Alleson [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 687, 90 S. W. 870. The right of trial by jury does not extend to charges for contempt. If such violation constitutes a crime the court, by punishing for contempt, is not executing the criminal laws, but only securing to suitors the rights to which it has adjudged them entitled. People v. Tool [Colo.] 86 P. 224.

him.[1] The court on its own motion may issue an order to show cause against one whom it has reason to think has violated its injunction,[2] though the usual practice is for the interested parties to present the facts to the court by affidavits.[3] Such affidavits may be on information and belief.[4] Up to the time the party charged is found guilty of contempt the papers should be entitled in the suit in which the injunction was issued.[5] A sworn answer by the respondent in the contempt proceedings is not conclusive.[6] The party cited cannot be found guilty of any violations other than those specifically set forth in the moving papers,[7] nor can other violations be investigated,[8] unless notice be given.[9] An objection that the proceeding is not conducted by a public law officer is waived by a failure to make timely objection.[10] The burden of establishing a violation of an injunction is on the person instituting the contempt proceedings.[11] If it is instituted solely for the purpose of vindicating the affronted dignity of the court, it is regarded as a criminal contempt proceeding,[12] and the accused is entitled to the benefit of any reasonable doubt as to his willful disobedience or as to whether the acts charged constitute a violation.[13] If the con-

1. In proceedings to punish for contempt in violating an injunction, the accused is not entitled to be confronted by the witnesses against him. It is not a trial and under Rev. Codes 1899, § 5942, the court or judge may consider the affidavits on which the warrant was issued as well as other affidavits. State v. Harris [N. D.] 105 N. W. 621. In contempt proceedings for violation of a restraining order, affidavits are admissible against the accused; he is not entitled to be confronted with the witnesses. Warner v. Martin, 124 Ga. 387, 52 S. E. 446.

2. Employers' Teaming Co. v. Teamsters' Joint Council, 141 F. 679.

3. Employers' Teaming Co. v. Teamsters' Joint Council, 141 F. 679. In a prosecution for violation of an injunction, it is not necessary that the complaining party file a petition. It is sufficient if the facts are presented by affidavit. Franklin Union No. 4 v. People, 220 Ill. 355, 77 N. E. 176. In a prosecution for violation of an injunction, the affidavits on which the warrant is issued take the place of the complaint and must state facts showing the offense complained of as an offense. State v. Harris [N. D.] 105 N. W. 621. Though the statute provides that a contempt committed without the presence of the court can only be prosecuted by affidavit setting forth the facts, an attorney for a city, in a contempt proceeding against other city officers for violation of a restrain-order, who admits that the violation charged was committed by them by his direction, may be fined for contempt, though no affidavit showing his connection has been filed. State v. Nicoll, 40 Wash. 517, 82 P. 895.

4. Employers' Teaming Co. v. Teamsters' Joint Council, 141 F. 679.

5. Where contempt proceedings are instituted against one not a party to the bill on which the injunction was ordered, the proper practice is to entitle the application for a rule to show cause in the civil action, and if the respondent is found guilty thereafter all orders should be entitled as in a suit by the government. Employers' Teaming Co. v. Teamsters' Joint Council, 141 F. 679.

6. A sworn answer of a respondent in contempt proceedings in a court of equity is not conclusive but may be traversed; this applies both to persons who were parties to the bill and others not specifically named. Employers' Teaming Co. v. Teamsters' Joint Council, 141 F. 679.

7. In a proceeding to punish for contempt, the party cited cannot be found guilty for any other violations than those specifically set forth in the motion or petition which should be treated as an information in a criminal proceeding. Huttig Sash & Door Co. v. Fuelle, 143 F. 363.

8. Under Rev. Codes N. D. 1899, § 5942, providing for the propounding of interrogatories to a person charged with contempt for violation of injunctional order, unless he admits his guilt, the interrogatories must relate to the facts of the contempt charged and not to any other offense or contempt. State v. Harris [N. D.] 105 N. W. 621.

9. Hearing evidence of other violations than that charged in the affidavit is not error where the contemnor was fully apprised and given time to meet each offense by proof or excuse. Liquor nuisance injunction. State v. McCarley [Kan.] 87 P. 743.

10. An objection, in contempt proceedings for violation of an injunction, that the proceedings were not conducted by public law officer as required by Laws N. D. 1901, c. 178, § 9, is waived by failure to object at the time the proceedings are had and cannot be thereafter urged on appeal from a conviction. State v. Harris [N. D.] 105 N. W. 621.

11. General Elec. Co. v. McLaren, 140 F. 876.

12. Contempts arising out of injunction issued in a suit by the United States against a railroad company to prevent rebates in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, the U. S. not having any pecuniary interest in the suit but having instituted it pro bono publico, is of the class known as a "criminal contempt" to vindicate the dignity of the court. United States v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 142 F. 176. Contempts are criminal in their nature and must be tried in the county where committed. State v. District Ct. of Ninth Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 86 P. 798.

tempt charged is of the class known as civil, it is not necessary to prove the guilt of respondent beyond a reasonable doubt. If it clearly appears, a conviction is authorized.[14] Persons not parties to the injunction suit may be adjudged in contempt for doing acts in violation of its mandate after notice of its terms,[15] as may also persons who aid and abet its violation.[16] A private corporation can be punished for violation of an injunction by the imposition of a fine.[17] The court cannot inflict a cruel and unusual punishment,[18] and in many jurisdictions the maximum punishment is fixed by statute.[19] Costs may be taxed against the respondent where he is found guilty.[20] For a violation pending an appeal from an injunction which has not been superseded, the appellate court may punish as for contempt.[21] That the violation has ceased before the hearing in the contempt proceedings may be taken into consideration by the court.[22]

§ 7. Liability for wrongful injunction.[23]—Malicious prosecution of an injunction or abuse of the writ is elsewhere treated.[24]. One who has voluntarily obeyed an injunction issued without the giving of a bond cannot maintain an action for damages against the plaintiff in the injunction suit, though the injunction was erroneously issued.[25] The liability on the bond has already been discussed.[26]

INNS, RESTAURANTS, AND LODGING HOUSES.

Definitions.[27]—An innkeeper is one who regularly keeps open a public house

13. United States v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 142 F. 176.

14. State v. Harris [N. D.] 105 N. W. 621. On a motion for an attachment for contempt on account of the violation of an injunction issued to restrain the infringement of a patent it must appear clearly and indisputably that the infringement continues. General Elec. Co. v. McLaren, 140 F. 876. Evidence held insufficient to show violation of an injunction against representing that complainant was head of defendant's hospital staff, complainant's name having been partially effaced from defendant's stationery and patrons having been informed of the facts though disingenuously. Christian Hospital v. People, 223 Ill. 244, 79 N. E. 72.

15. An agent of one against whom an injunction has been issued, who with knowledge of the decree and that an act done by him would be a violation of it, violates the injunction, is guilty of contempt and may be punished. Lytle v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 344, 90 S. W. 316. Under Rev. St. U. S. 1878, § 725, a court of equity has power to punish for contempt one who knowingly violates an injunction in a suit to which he was not joined as a party, where the writ is directed to the defendants named in the bill and all other persons "whomsoever after they have knowledge of the writ." Employers' Teaming Co. v. Teamsters' Joint Council, 141 F. 679. Generally speaking an injunction operates only in personam and affects only the parties to the action, and no one can be punished for contempt for a violation of it except parties having notice of it. To this rule there are exceptions, as where it runs against the agents, servants, employees, or grantees of a party, or where third persons act in collusion with a party in violating it. The injunction did not run against grantees of a party. They may nevertheless be held in contempt for violating it where it appears they had theretofore asserted rights under it as grantees of the property with reference to which it was issued. State v. District Ct. of Ninth Judicial Dist. [Mont.] 86 P. 798.

16. The court which has issued an injunction has power to punish as for contempt persons not named in the injunction who with knowledge of it, aid, abet, and assist the persons named in violating it. Huttig Sash & Door Co. v. Fuelle, 143 F. 363.

17. Franklin Union No. 4 v. People, 220 Ill. 355, 77 N. E. 176. Violation of injunction by strikers. Id., 121 Ill. App. 647.

18. A fine of $250, or in the alternative imprisonment not exceeding 6 months, held not an excessive fine or cruel and unusual punishment for violation of an injunction, as prohibited by Const. Minn. State v. District Ct. of Redwood County [Minn.] 107 N. W. 963.

19. Under Civ. Code Ga. 1895, § 4320, the superior courts cannot impose a fine exceeding $200 for contempt in violating a restraining order. Warner v. Martin, 124 Ga. 387, 52 S. E. 446.

20. Warner v. Martin, 124 Ga. 387, 52 S. E. 446.

21. Lytle v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 344, 90 S. W. 316.

22. A motion to punish for contempt for violating an injunction was properly denied where it appeared that the violation complained of had ceased before the hearing of the motion and in no way prejudiced or impaired the rights of the moving party. Jones v. Burgess, 109 App. Div. 888, 96 N. Y. S. 873.

23. See 6 C. L. 31.

24. See Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, 6 C. L. 490, 4 C. L. 470.

for lodging and entertaining transient comers for hire.[28] The fact that an innkeeper also conducts a separate bathhouse on the seashore for the use of the general public as well as his guests does not create the relation of innkeeper and guest between him and persons resorting to such bathhouse.[29]

Public regulation.[30]—The power to license inns and taverns is generally vested in municipalities.[31]

Duty to receive guests.[32]

Liability for safety of guests.[33]—An innkeeper is bound to exercise reasonable care for the safety of his guests.[34] Contributory negligence will defeat the right of a guest to recover for personal injuries.[35]

Liens.[36]—There must be a debt due from the boarder to the boarding house keeper.[37] A pledge of property to secure a board debt does not constitute a statutory lien.[38] The lien of an innkeeper attaches to property in the possession of a guest, though title is in another, provided the innkeeper has no notice of the rights of the third person.[39]

Liability for effects.[40]—By statute in some states an innkeeper may be relieved of his strict common-law liability by maintaining a suitable safe for effects belonging to his guests.[41] The guest is of course required to exercise reasonable prudence on his own part.[42]

25. Batson v. Paris Mountain Water Co., 73 S. C. 368, 53 S. E. 500.

26. See ante, § 4D.

27. See 4 C. L. 123, and note.

28. Walpert v. Bohan [Ga.] 55 S. E. 181.

29. Not liable as innkeeper for goods lost at bathhouse. Walpert v. Bohan [Ga.] 55 S. E. 181.

30. See 6 C. L. 31.

31. The city council of Atlantic City has authority to license inns and taverns. Conover v. Atlantic City [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 146.

32. See 6 C. L. 31.

33. See 6 C. L. 31. Assaults by employes, see special article, 5 C. L. 275.

34. Evidence held to require submission to jury of question whether proprietor of hotel knew of defect in stairway. Braman v. Stewart [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 639, 108 N. W. 964. Whether a stairway in a hotel was defective becauee brass strips fastened to the front edge of the steps were raised up from ¼ to ⅜ of an inch should have been left to the jury. Id.

35. Innkeeper not liable for injuries from falling down steps while groping through dark passageway. Dailey v. Distler, 100 N. Y. S. 679.

36. See 6 C. L. 32.

37. No lien under Rev. St. 1898, § 3344, on separate property of wife living at boarding house with her husband for board bill due from husband for their board. Chickering-Chase Bros. Co. v. White, 127 Wis. 83, 106 N. W. 797.

38. Where in replevin for a piano defendants claimed title solely by virtue of a boarding house keeper's lien, under Rev. St. 1898, § 3344, the fact that a wife had pledged the piano for a board debt due from her husband for their board did not show such lien. Chickering-Chase Bros. Co. v. White, 127 Wis. 83, 106 N. W. 797.

39. Note: An innkeeper has a lien on goods of a third party brought by a guest (York v. Grenaugh, 2 Ld. Raym. 866; Turrill v. Crawley [1840] 13 Q. B. 197; Kellogg v. Sweeney, 1 Lans. [N. Y.] 397), even if the goods were tortiously taken, provided the innkeeper has no knowledge of the tort (Johnson v. Hill, 3 Stark. 172). Some courts confine the lien to cases in which the innkeeper is ignorant as to the true ownership. Broadwood v. Granara, 10 Exch. 417; Singer Mfg. Co. v. Miller, 52 Minn. 516; Cook v. Prentice, 13 Or. 482. But if the innkeeper must receive all proper goods brought by the guest, irrespective of ownership, so creating a liability which gives rise to a co-extensive lien (Robinson v. Walter, 3 Buls. 269. But see Threfall v. Borwick, L. R. 10 Q. B. 210), it would seem the knowledge of ownership is immaterial (Robins & Co. v. Gray [1895] 2 Q. B. 501). And see Manning v. Hollenbeck, 27 Wis. 202.—See 5 Columbia L. R. 549.

40. See 6 C. L. 32.

41. Under Comp. Laws, § 5316, exempting innkeepers who maintain safes from liability for loss of valuables not therein deposited except for such amount of money or valuables as is usually common and prudent for a guest to retain in his rooms, a witness of experience in such matters could testify whether it was customary for guests to place property like that stolen from plaintiff in the safe or in their rooms. Kerlin v. Swart, 143 Mich. 228, 12 Det. Leg. N. 934, 106 N. W. 710.

42. Where defendant contended that loss of property was due to plaintiff's failure to close a window and the room had been robbed a month before, held, after giving a certain instruction as to the degree of care required of plaintiff, it was proper for the court to further instruct that defendant's failure to inform plaintiff that the room had been robbed before might be considered in

Offenses.[43]

INQUEST OF DAMAGES, see latest topical index.

INQUEST OF DEATH.[44]

INSANE PERSONS.

§ 1. Existence and Effect of Insanity in General (319).
§ 2. Inquisitions (320).
§ 3. Custody, Guardianship, and Support (321).
§ 4. Commitment to Asylums (323).
§ 5. Property and Debts (324).
§ 6. Contracts and Conveyances (325).
§ 7. Torts (327)
§ 8. Crimes (327)..
§ 9. Actions by or Against (327).

§ 1. Existence and effect of insanity in general.[45]—Sanity is presumed[46] and evidence of insanity should be clear and convincing,[47] but when insanity is shown to have existed its continuance is presumed,[48] this presumption being rebuttable.[49] It will not be presumed to have been existent at a time when official acts would thereby have been made illegal.[50] The general disposition of the alleged lunatic is not relevant,[51] and if so is not the subject of expert opinion.[52] His own self-serving declaration that he was insane at a stated time also is incompetent.[53] Opinion testimony should not assume the insanity,[54] and if nonexpert must be given with the facts which are its basis.[55] A physician may state whether a condition of mind observed by him might have arisen from a particular injury,[56] and the admission of one who dealt with the incompetent may be received.[57] The mere administration of medical treatment appropriate to insanity does not prove it.[58] determining whether plaintiff was reasonably prudent. Kerlin v. Swart, 143 Mich. 228, 12 Det. Leg. N. 924, 106 N. W. 710.

43. See 6 C. L. 33.

44. No cases have been found for this subject since the last article. See 6 C. L. 33.

45. See 6 C. L. 34.

46. One claiming under a deed is not bound to prove the sanity of the person making it. Chadwell v. Reed, 198 Mo. 359, 95 S. W. 227. The mere fact that a deed was executed for the primary purpose of vesting the title of the property thereby conveyed in the grantor's wife raises no presumption of incapacity to make the deed (Id.), but the burden of proving the unsoundness of mind and incapacity of the grantor at the time of its execution rests with the party seeking to impeach it (Id.).

47. Willis v. Baker [Ohio] 79 N. E. 466. Rule of preponderance stands aside. Id.

Sufficiency of evidence: Capacity to contract. Stafford v. Tarter, 29 Ky. L. R. 1184, 96 S. W. 1127; Smith's Committee v. Forsythe, 28 Ky. L. R. 1034, 90 S. W. 1075; Chadwell v. Reed, 198 Mo. 359, 95 S. W. 227; Spicer v. Holbrook, 29 Ky. L. R. 865, 96 S. W. 571; Saffer v. Mast, 223 Ill. 108, 79 N. E. 32; Willis v. Baker [Ohio] 79 N. E. 466. See, also, Incompetency, 8 C. L. 169.

Need for guardian or committee. Wood v. Wood, 129 Iowa, 255, 105 N. W. 517; In re Colt [Pa.] 64 A. 597.

48. Stafford v. Tarter, 29 Ky. L. R. 1184, 96 S. W. 1127.

49. Beard v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 505. Evidence of witnesses and appearance, actions, and talk of insane held not to show recovery. Johnson v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 65 A. 333.

50. Where the record on habeas corpus to obtain the release of a prisoner does not show that he was insane when he was guilty of insubordination for which he was deprived of good time, the legal presumption is that insanity thereafter found to exist arose subsequent to the insubordination. In re Terrill [C. C. A.] 144 F. 616.

51, 52. Simmons v. Kelsey [Neb.] 107 N. W. 122.

53. An answer filed by deceased in his life time in an action to which he was a party averring himself to have been mentally incompetent at the time of the execution of a deed is inadmissible in a suit by his representatives after his death to set the same deed aside. Ames v. Ames [Neb.] 106 N. W. 584.

54. Ames v. Ames [Neb.] 106 N. W. 584.

55. Stafford v. Tarter, 29 Ky. L. R. 1184, 96 S. W. 1127. Question held not error though calling for general conclusion. Beard v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 505.

56. Physician who, from having treated plaintiff, knew the conditions, was properly permitted to testify that in his opinion the fall described by plaintiff would produce the mental condition in which he found him (Beard v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 505), and that a blow on the "outer skull," leaving no sign, might be sufficient to break the "inner skull," giving his reasons and describing the effect on the mind of a person sustaining such an injury, there being no controversy regarding the manner in which plaintiff sustained the injury (Id.).

Insanity is generally cause for removing a prisoner from a penal institution.[59] Insanity, however, does not relieve from the duty to pay taxes.[60]

§ 2. Inquisitions[61] of lunacy being governed by statute require such notice, if any, as it prescribes,[62] and the presence of the alleged incompetent or such proof as the statute exacts to dispense therewith.[63] Even in the absence of statutory requirement the person alleged to be non compos must have reasonable notice of the proceedings[64] and opportunity afforded him to contest the truth of the allegations in the petition,[65] and must be produced before the jury,[66] unless the court, for sufficient reasons shown, as in cases of dangerous madness, absence from the state, impracticability, or inconvenience and injury to the afflicted person, dispenses with personal notice and attendance.[67] Inquisition is ordinarily had where the lunatic is found.[68] An incompetent cannot stipulate away his statutory rights for a hearing nor waive jurisdictional defects.[69] Incompetency arising from old age, loss of memory and understanding, are included in the word "lunacy" by statute in New York.[70] Hence a petition for an inquiry into one's mental capacity is not rendered insufficient by the omission of the word lunacy.[71] An inquisition to establish a property guardianship is void if there is no property.[72] An adjudication of incompetency procured by fraud is a nullity[73] and may be attacked collaterally in another state.[74] The adjudication concludes only such matters as were investigated.[75] The inquiry as to competency is limited to the time of the hearing by statute in New York.[76] Medical examiners in lunacy proceedings are usually entitled to compensation for their services,[77] and the omission to procure the fixing of the fees by the officer required to be the moving party in the proceedings does not necessarily deprive an examiner of his right to compensation.[78]

57. The statement of a mortgagee that a few days prior to the execution of the mortgage he thought the mortgagor was bordering on insanity was admissible as against interest in a suit to foreclose the mortgage. Stafford v. Tarter, 29 Ky. L. R. 1184, 96 S. W. 1127.

58. Attending physician prescribed drugs which are used in the treatment of mental disorders. Ames v. Ames [Neb.] 106 N. W. 584.

59. St. Okl. 1893, § 5485, authorizing removal of a prisoner for specified reasons "or other necessity," permits removal in case of insanity irrespective of the applicability of the specified reasons. In re Terrill [C. C. A.] 144 F. 616.

60. De Hatre v. Edmunds [Mo.] 98 S. W. 744.

61. See 6 C. L. 35.

62. Code Alaska, § 896, providing for notice to the supposed insane person on filing of application for appointment of a guardian, contemplates personal notice (Martin v. White [C. C. A.] 146 F. 461), and public notice in a newspaper or by posting in public places will not validate proceedings against a resident who did not appear at the hearing (Id.).

63. Ky. St. 1903, § 2157, requiring presence of alleged incompetent at the inquest or affidavits showing that his condition is such that it would be dangerous to bring him into court, held mandatory. Tipton v. Tipton's Committee [Ky.] 97 S. W. 413. Affidavits under Ky. St. 1903, § 2157, purporting to show condition of alleged incompetent rendering his presence at sanity inquest dangerous, held insufficient. Id.

64, 65, 66, 67. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Nicholson [Md.] 65 A. 320.

68. In Kansas, where an insane person escapes from the county of his residence and is apprehended and tried for insanity in another county the adjudication of insanity is conclusive. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 3941, 3945, 3948, 3977, 3978, construed. Foran v. Healy [Kan.] 85 P. 751; on rehearing, 86 P. 470.

69. An adjudication of incompetency made by the court prior to the hour fixed for the hearing and so heard on the stipulation of the alleged insane person acting without counsel, presents an irregularity on the face of the record (In re Ray [Neb.] 109 N. W. 496) of which the next of kin of the incompetent may complain (Id.).

70. Statutory construction law, § 7 (Laws 1892, p. 1487, c. 677). In re Preston's Will, 113 App. Div. 732, 99 N. Y. S. 312.

71. In re Preston's Will, 113 App. Div. 732, 99 N. Y. S. 312.

72. Carter v. Bolster [Mo. App.] 98 S. W. 105. Bequest of annuity in trust held not property of incompetent within Rev. St. 1899, § 3650, as amended by Laws 1903, p. 200. Id.

73, 74. In re Bergmann, 110 App. Div. 588, 97 N. Y. S. 346.

75. A statutory proceeding for the sole purpose of securing the custody of the person of an alleged insane person in an asylum has no effect on his property rights and cannot therefore be made the basis of an order superseding the inquisition. In re Ellis [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 702.

In Maryland it is held that the court has power to set aside the inquisition, return, and order of confirmation of a finding of mental incapacity, though the order of confirmation is enrolled before the petition to quash is filed,[76] and that a petition to quash is the proper procedure to procure the setting aside of a finding of mental incapacity on the execution of the writ de lunatico inquirendo.[80] It is held in New Jersey that orders superseding the inquisition in lunacy and directing restoration of the lunatic's property are appropriate only when the proceedings against the lunatic are such as to divest him of the title to his property.[81]

§ 3. Custody, guardianship, and support.[82]—To warrant appointment of a committee there need not be proved utter lack of reason for all persons having an incapacitating unsoundness of mind are non compos mentis,[83] and because of the presumptive continuance of insanity these reasons are stronger when it is sought to discharge a committee,[84] but committees of persons who are merely weak minded should be appointed with great caution.[85] In New York a committee of an alleged incompetent resident can be appointed only after the issuing of a commission and the determination of a jury,[86] except where application is made in behalf of the state authorities and the incompetent is in a state hospital.[87] Justices of the peace do not generally have jurisdiction to appoint a committee for a person of unsound mind or to adjudicate finally as to insanity.[88] Except as limited by statute, probate courts in Kansas have the same power over the persons and estates of incompetents as that formerly possessed by the English courts of chancery,[89] and in the absence of statutory requirement no notice is necessary to confer authority on a probate court to appoint a guardian for a resident who has been adjudged incompetent.[90] In some jurisdictions a committee may be appointed for an insane convict.[91] In Louisiana a curator is not appointed pending appeal from an interdiction.[92]

Jurisdiction depends on the residence or presence of the alleged incompetent where his person is to be committed;[93] and statutes in Kansas provide that a guardi-

76. Code Civ. Proc. § 2335. In re Preston's Will, 113 App. Div. 732, 99 N. Y. S. 312.

77. New York City held liable to examiner under Insanity Law (Laws 1896, c. 545, § 64). Strong v. New York, 110 App. Div. 188, 96 N. Y. S. 1083.

78. Strong v. New York, 110 App. Div. 188, 96 N. Y. S. 1083.

79, 80. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Nicholson [Md.] 65 A. 320.

81. In re Ellis [N. J. Eq.] 62 A. 702.

82. See 6 C. L. 35.

83, 84. Johnson v. Safe Deposit & Trust Co. [Md.] 65 A. 333.

85. Act June 25, 1895 (P. L. 300), as amended June 19, 1901 (P. L. 574), held to authorize appointment of guardian of weak minded person. In re Colt [Pa.] 64 A. 597.

86. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2327. In re Bergmann, 110 App. Div. 588, 97 N. Y. S. 346.

87. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2223a. In re Bergmann, 110 App. Div. 588, 97 N. Y. S. 346. A statutory provision authorizing the appointment of a committee in the state to manage an incompetent's property therein, when a committee has been appointed for a nonresident incompetent, applies only where the alleged incompetent is a nonresident and where a committee has been duly appointed at the domicile of the alleged incompetent. Code Civ. Proc. § 2326, construed. Id.

88. A justice's order finding that a person is insane but leaving him freedom of person until the appointment of a committee, and then committing him to the custody of such committee, is not admissible as evidence of insanity in a proceeding to appoint a committee. Karnes v. Johnston, 58 W. Va. 595, 52 S. E. 658.

89, 90. Foran v. Healy [Kan.] 85 P. 751, on rehearing 86 P. 470.

91. Laws 1889, p. 550, c. 401, § 1, held not repealed by Laws 1895, p. 650, c. 824, as amended by Laws 1897, p. 58, c. 149, and Laws 1904, p. 1278, c. 509 (Code Civ. Proc. § 2323a). Trust Co. of America v. State Safe Deposit Co., 109 App. Div. 665, 96 N. Y. S. 585. A provision authorizing the appointment of a committee of an incompetent person when he has been committed to a state institution and is an inmate thereof has no application in the case of a life convict sane when convicted but who has been transferred to the state hospital for insane convicts without a formal determination of mental capacity. Code Civ. Proc. § 2323a. Id.

92. A judgment of interdiction is to be provisionally executed pending an appeal except in respect to the appointment of a curator. Civ. Code arts. 395, 404, and Code of Proc. art. 580, construed. In re Jones, 116 La. 776, 41 So. 89.

93. In Kansas jurisdiction to appoint a guardian over the person and estate of an incompetent belongs exclusively to the probate court of the county where such incom-an may be appointed in his home county when an adjudication made where he was found is certified to it.[94] Notice is commonly required to be given to the alleged lunatic or his kin or custodians,[95] and likewise presence of the alleged incompetent at the hearing[96] if the person is to be committed. Where a guardian for property of a nonresident lunatic is asked by verified petition notice by publication may be ordered in Washington without affidavit to the nonresident.[97] Statutes often designate persons entitled to make or resist the application.[98] The right to a jury on demand satisfies a guaranty of right of jury trial.[99] Public policy will not permit one who institutes proceedings for the appointment of a guardian of an alleged incompetent to make the prosecution or abandonment thereof a source of personal profit.[1] Where appeal is allowed and is yet available, no equitable review will be made,[1a] and an appeal from the annulment of the appointment will not accomplish the same result.[1b] Acceptance by a special guardian of an incompetent of an allowance from the estate for his services does not deprive the special guardian of the right to appeal in behalf of the incompetent,[2] and on motion to dismiss an appeal in such case the presumption will be indulged that the special guardian is acting within the line of his duty in behalf of the incompetent.[3]

The committee of a person adjudged to be a lunatic takes no title to the real property belonging to the lunatic[4] but is a mere bailiff to take charge of his property and to administer it subject to the direction of the court.[5] An incompetent's guardian who executes a mortgage of his ward's property under a decree in equity has the same right to apply to the court for instructions and authority nec-petent has a permanent residence. Foran v. Healy [Kan.] 85 P. 751, on rehearing 86 P. 470. That an alleged incompetent had not been a resident of the county for more than a year prior to application being filed therein for appointment of a guardian was fatal to the court's jurisdiction to appoint under the Washington statutes. State v. Superior Ct. of Lincoln County, 41 Wash. 450, 83 P. 726.

94. Where an adjudication of insanity by the probate court of a county in which an incompetent is found after escaping from his home county is recorded in the county of his residence, it gives the probate court power to appoint a guardian to take possession of his property and represent his interests therein without notice to the incompetent. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 3941, 3945, 3948, 3977, 3978, construed. Foran v. Healy [Kan.] 85 P. 751, on rehearing 86 P. 470.

95. The Washington statute is mandatory in the requirement that one for whom it is sought to have a guardian appointed on the ground of incompetency (State v. Superior Ct. of Lincoln County, 41 Wash. 450, 83 P. 726), as well as that those having the care, custody, and control of the alleged incompetent, shall have notice (Id.), and want of such notice deprives the court of jurisdiction (Id.).

96. It is also essential that the alleged incompetent be present at the hearing, if able to attend, under the Washington statute. State v. Superior Ct. of Lincoln County, 41 Wash. 450, 83 P. 726.

97. If the fact appears from the verified petition affidavit is needless. Laws 1903, p. 242, c. 130, § 1. Coleman v. Cravens, 41 Wash. 1, 82 P. 1005. Notice by publication is the only notice required in such cases. Laws 1903, p. 242, c. 130, § 5. Id.

98. Petition held sufficient under Laws 1903, p. 242, c. 130, § 1, to show eligibility of petitioner. Coleman v. Cravens, 41 Wash. 1, 82 P. 1005. In a proceeding on a petition for the appointment of a guardian for an alleged incompetent, his next of kin are proper parties (In re Ray [Neb.] 109 N. W. 496), and may appear in court and oppose the granting of the petition (Id.).

99. In re Colt [Pa.] 64 A. 597.

1. Dismissal by a child of proceedings instituted by her to have guardian appointed for her mother as an incompetent held no consideration for promise by the mother. Simmons v. Kelsey [Neb.] 107 N. W. 122.

1a. A review of an order by the probate court in Michigan, finding one incompetent and appointing a guardian, can only be had on an appeal therefrom as provided by statute (Jacqueth v. Benzie Circuit Judge, 142 Mich. 174, 12 Det. Leg. N. 664, 105 N. W. 148), hence the court obtains no jurisdiction by the filing of a proceeding to annul the appointment of the guardian within the time provided for the granting of an appeal (Id.).

1b. Notwithstanding the probate court hears the proceeding and denies the relief, the circuit court obtains no jurisdiction on appeal from the order therein. Jacqueth v. Benzie Circuit Judge, 142 Mich. 174, 12 Det. Leg. N. 664, 105 N. W. 148.

2, 3. In re Edwards, 110 App. Div. 623, 97 N. Y. S. 185.

4. Schribner v. Young, 111 App. Div. 814, 97 N. Y. S. 866; Ward v. Rogers, 51 Misc. 299, 100 N. Y. S. 1058.

5. Ward v. Rogers, 51 Misc. 299, 100 N. Y. S. 1058. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 2339, committee held to have no authority to authorize cutting of timber on lunatic's land (Schribner v. Young, 111 App. Div. 814, 97 N. Y. S.

essary in the execution of his trust as is accorded to other trustees.[6] Hence, until confirmed by the court, the sale is not complete and confers no rights, whether the the sale is public or private.[7] Where the property of an incompetent intended to be mortgaged was never designated by a decree of court, but the selection was left to the guardian, the mortgage was void in the absence of confirmation by the court.[8] Interference with the primary right of a person to control and dispose of his own estate should not be allowed except in clear cases for the benefit of a person unable to care for his property.[9] In Arkansas probate courts have exclusive original jurisdiction of the estates of insane persons and the settlement of the accounts of guardians of such persons,[10] and when the settlements have been confirmed the orders of confirmation have the effect of judgments,[11] which, if erroneous, may be corrected by appeal;[12] but courts of equity may interfere to correct fraud, or relieve against accident, or on some other ground of equity jurisdiction to prevent irremediable mischief,[13] and when fraud is the ground for impeaching such settlements, actual or constructive fraud will suffice when specifically alleged and proved.[14] Orders passed affecting the duties and liabilities of the committee are generally binding on the committee's sureties.[15]

Ordinarily one having the custody of an incompetent is entitled to recover the value of the services rendered from the incompetent's estate,[16] which, as a claim against a decedent's estate, should be such an amount as the incompetent would have accorded therefor had the incompetent acquired full mental faculties before death and had possessed an ordinary sense of justice.[17] The claim of a relative of an incompetent for services in caring for the incompetent may be sustainable on the ground of necessaries.[18] Where the law requires the presence of the alleged incompetent at the inquest, it will be presumed, in an action for services in caring for him, that he was present at the inquest,[19] but if he was not present that is a proper matter to be set up by plea.[20] An independent estate of an incompetent sufficient for her support will not deprive her of the beneficial enjoyment of a trust created by will directing that the income or so much thereof as may be necessary shall be used for the incompetent's comfortable maintenance and support.[21]

§ 4. Commitment to asylums.[22]—An appeal usually suspends a judgment ordering an alleged incompetent to be committed to an asylum,[23] and it is held in 866), nor to ratify authority given therefor by lunatic's husband and son (Id.), nor an alleged settlement between the persons cutting the timber and the lunatic's husband and son (Id.).

6, 7. Montgomery v. Perryman & Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 838.

8. And it could not be made the basis of a suit for reformation and correction of an error therein. Montgomery v. Perryman & Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 838.

9. In re Colt [Pa.] 64 A. 597.

10. Under Const. art. 7, § 34, and Kirby's Dig. § 4002. Nelson v. Cowling, 77 Ark. 351, 91 S. W. 773.

11, 12, 13, 14. Nelson v. Cowling, 77 Ark. 351, 91 S. W. 773.

15. Order removing committee and requiring him to pay a certain sum into court held prima facie binding on sureties on committee's bond. Grafflin v. State [Md.] 63 A. 373.

16. Evidence held to show $20 per week for care of incompetent during illness was not an unreasonable claim. Ball v. Lindsey, 29 Ky. L. R. 653, 94 S. W. 630.

17. Key v. Harris [Tenn.] 92 S. W. 235.

18. Sister of incompetent held entitled to allowance from estate of incompetent for care of incompetent. Key v. Harris [Tenn.] 92 S. W. 235.

19, 20. Porter v. Eastern Kentucky Asylum, 28 Ky. L. R. 796, 90 S. W. 263.

21. Minnich v. People's Trust, Savings & Deposit Co., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 334.

22. See 6 C. L. 36.

23. Reagan v. Powell, 125 Ga. 89, 53 S. E. 580. Pending an appeal from the judgment of the ordinary, entered on the return of a committee appointed under the provisions of Civ. Code 1895, § 2573, to inquire whether a person alleged to be of unsound mind is a fit subject for commitment to the state sanitarium, such person cannot legally be confined therein (Id.), unless a guardian has been duly appointed for him or his mental condition becomes such as to justify recourse to the summary proceeding authorized by section 2581, whenever a person without a guardian is violently insane or, for other good and sufficient reason, should not be longer

Georgia that a superior court judge has not, on habeas corpus, discretionary power to commit an alleged incompetent to the custody of the superintendent of the state sanitarium or anyone else.[24] Justices of the peace may by statute have limited jurisdiction to inquire into the sanity of persons for the purpose of commitment to hospitals for the insane.[25] In some states town selectmen may commit persons to an insane asylum,[26] and where the original commitment is illegal they are sometimes authorized to recommit to cure the error.[27] The town where an indigent insane person has a settlement is on notice usually liable for the support of such person when committed to an asylum in a different town.[28] Asylums are generally entitled to compensation for the care of insane persons officially committed to them[29] and the rate is fixed by statute in Kentucky, but their charges may be affected by the value of services rendered by the incompetent where in the absence of a legal commitment recovery on quantum meruit is sought.[30]

§ 5. Property and debts.[31]—The involuntary absence of an insane person does not affect his homestead rights.[32] The trustee of an insane person is entitled to administer on an estate of which such insane person is entitled to the residue under a statute giving the right to administer to one entitled to the residue of an estate.[33]

Statutes generally permit the sale of an incompetent's lands when advantageous[34] and to pay debts.[35] The sale of a lunatic's property when allowed is usually required to be by public auction,[36] and a sale for a particular purpose can-left at large (Id.), and the superintendent of the state sanitarium cannot successfully rely on a judgment which is appealed as authorizing the confinement of the appellant in that institution whilst the appeal remains undisposed of in the superior court (Id.).

24. Reagan v. Powell, 125 Ga. 89, 53 S. E. 580.

25. The appointment by a county court of a committee for a person as insane on a finding by a justice that such person is insane on an inquisition under Code 1899, c. 58, § 9, without notice to the alleged incompetent is void. Karnes v. Johnston, 58 W. Va. 595, 52 S. E. 658.

26. Under Rev. St. c. 144, § 17, requiring evidence of at least two reputable physicians to establish the fact of insanity as a prerequisite to commitment to an asylum by town selectmen, a commitment without such evidence is void. Inhabitants of Rockport v. Searsmont [Me.] 63 A. 820.

27. Rev. St. c. 144, § 42, providing for the recommitment of a person illegally committed to an insane hospital and authorizing the recovery of expenses of both commitments and for support under the original commitment, is valid. Inhabitants of Rockport v. Searsmont [Me.] 63 A. 820.

28. Proceedings under Rev. St. c. 144, with respect to expenses and support of a person committed to an insane hospital by the town committing, and not the pauper residence of such person, held within the purview of chapter 27 with reference to the notice required by one town to another in case of furnishing pauper supplies (Inhabitants of Rockport v. Searsmont [Me.] 63 A. 820); that is, the plaintiff town having given notice to the defendant town, under a recommitment, was entitled to recover for expenses and support either under the original or the new commitment only three months prior to giving such notice (Id.).

29. Porter v. Eastern Kentucky Asylum, 28 Ky. L. R. 796, 90 S. W. 263. Where it is not shown what would be a reasonable allowance for keeping an incompetent at an asylum nor any facts from which it may be determined, no recovery can be had on a quantum meruit. Id.

30. If the inquest was not void and if the incompetent was regularly committed to the asylum, then the statute regulates the measure of compensation to be allowed for his keeping and no deduction can be made for his labor (Porter v. Eastern Kentucky Asylum, 28 Ky. L. R. 796, 90 S. W. 263), but if the inquest was void and a recovery is had on a quantum meruit, then his labor at the asylum may be considered in determining what should be paid the asylum for keeping him (Id.).

31. See 6 C. L. 36.

32. Curry v. Wilson [Wash.] 87 P. 1065.

33. Boyd v. Cloud [Del.] 62 A. 294.

34. Under Rev. Laws, c. 145, § 26, c. 146, § 9, c. 148, § 4, sale of dower and homestead rights of insane widow to owner of fee before being set off held valid on finding that such sale would be advantageous (Robinson v. Dayton, 190 Mass. 459, 77 N. E. 503), and it is not necessary to have the widow's interest in her husband's real estate ascertained, paid over, and used for her maintenance before the real estate can be sold (Id.).

35. A domestic guardian is authorized by the statutes of Washington to sell the real estate of a nonresident incompetent to pay debts, under 1 Hill's Ann. St. & Codes §§ 3070, 3076, and Laws 1893, p. 286, c. 120, §§ 1-5. Coleman v. Cravens, 41 Wash. 1, 82 P. 1005.

36. In Louisiana it is only where the pur-not without judicial sanction be enlarged to affect or divest titles extraneous thereto.[37] The title to the real estate of an incompetent is not in the guardian but in the ward,[38] and in case of a sale thereof, under a decree, the court is the vendor.[39] A mortgage of an incompetent's property depends for its efficacy on the transfer of title which must be by antecedent judicial decree or subsequent confirmation.[40] A statute authorizing persons aggrieved by a probate decree to appeal therefrom includes the heirs presumptive of an incompetent whose lands a probate decree has directed to be sold.[41]

The trustees of an incompetent will not be authorized to borrow money for his maintenance to be repaid when sale of his property is made when they have cash on hand belonging to the incompetent sufficient and capable of being used for the purpose.[42] An incompetent's guardian represents the incompetent's creditors in so far as the incompetent's property is needed to pay debts,[43] and as the creditors of a mortgagor are not estopped to deny the validity of a mortgage executed by the mortgagor,[44] neither is the guardian of an incompetent mortgagor, who executed the mortgage while sui juris in fraud of his creditors, estopped to deny the validity of the mortgage,[45] since a mortgagee having a claim against the mortgagor that is not included in the mortgage indebtedness cannot apply the mortgaged property in satisfaction of it without the mortgagor's consent.[46] The established practice with respect to the enforcement of claims against an incompetent for whom a committee has been appointed is to present a petition to the court praying that the claim be allowed and paid, or, in the alternative, that leave be granted to sue thereon.[47] Generally the property of an insolvent incompetent is applied pro rata in the payment of claims,[48] but it is otherwise when, prior to the adjudication of incompetency and appointment of the committee, the creditor has in good faith obtained a lien or acquired a right of property by contract or otherwise.[49]

§ 6. Contracts and conveyances.[50]—As a general rule the contract of a person of unsound mind is voidable only, not void,[51] and whether it will be avoided at the instance of the committee depends on the circumstances of the case.[52] In some jurisdictions the fact that lunacy has not been found is made the basis of the application of the rule.[53] For necessaries furnished to the lunatic and his family a pose is to effect a partition by the sale of the whole property that the interest of an interdict can be alienated by private sale [Act No. 25, p. 47, of 1878] (Gallagher v. Lurges, 116 La. 755, 41 So. 60), otherwise it must be sold at public auction [Civ. Code, arts. 341, 415] (Id.).

37. One authorized to represent an interdict as guardian in and for the purpose of a partition is without authority to represent him in a proceeding to devest the interdict alone of his interest in property held in division and to transfer it by illegal methods for an inadequate price, and mainly at his expense, to one of the other litigants and co-owners. Gallagher v. Lurges, 116 La. 755, 41 So. 60. A proceeding which has for its purpose only the private sale, to one of the plaintiffs, of the interest of an interdict in property held in common is ineffectual to devest the title of the interdict, though there be included in such proceeding a family meeting recommending the sale and a judgment homologating the same. Hence, one agreeing to purchase the property from the grantor, subject to examination of title, is not bound to comply with his agreement, when the title is to be derived through such proceeding. Id.

38, 39, 40. Montgomery v. Perryman & Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 838.

41. Robinson v. Dayton, 190 Mass. 459, 77 N. E. 503.

42. Dulaney v. Devries, 102 Md. 349, 62 A. 743.

43, 44, 45, 46. Brigham v. Madden [N. H.] 64 A. 723.

47, 48, 49. Grant v. Humbert, 114 App. Div. 462, 100 N. Y. S. 44.

50. See 6 C. L. 36. See ante, § 5, as to contracts of indebtedness by guardians and sales by decree.

51. Smith's Committee v. Forsythe, 28 Ky. L. R. 1034, 90 S. W. 1075.

52. Mortgages of incompetent held unenforceable. Smith's Committee v. Forsythe, 28 Ky. L. R. 1034, 90 S. W. 1075.

53. A deed by an incompetent to good faith grantees for a good and valuable consideration, prior to lunacy having been duly recovery of their value will be allowed, even though his condition was known by the other party.[54] One seeking to hold an incompetent liable for merchandise furnished in part to a third person, and who was put on inquiry as to the incompetent's mental condition, has the burden of showing how much of it went to the benefit of the incompetent or his family and its reasonable value.[55]

In some states the statutes make a distinction as to the effect of a contract by a person of unsound mind and one without understanding, declaring the contract voidable in the one case and void in the other.[56] Placing the person dealing with an incompetent in statu quo is generally a prerequisite to the avoidance of his executed contract.[57] To avoid a contract or deed on the ground of insanity it must be satisfactorily shown that the party was incapable of transacting the particular business in question,[58] or, as is sometimes stated, that his insanity was of such character that he had no reasonable perception or understanding of the nature and terms of the contract,[59] it not being enough to show that he was subject to delusions not affecting the subject-matter of the transaction,[60] nor that he was in other respects mentally weak.[61] The relation of principal and agent does not exist between an insane person and his guardian,[62] and as all persons are presumed to know the law, one leasing defective premises from the guardian of an incompetent is presumed to know that the guardian cannot bind the incompetent by agreement.[63] Contracts of an incompetent executed during a lucid interval are valid,[64] especially in the absence of undue influence.[65] The deed of a lunatic is binding on him if not promptly disaffirmed when his disability is removed.[66] In the absence of statute a found, is not void but only voidable. Miller v. Barber [N. J. Law] 62 A. 276.

54. Smith's Committee v. Forsythe, 28 Ky. L. R. 1034, 90 S. W. 1075.

55. Smith's Committee v. Forsythe, 28 Ky. L. R. 1034, 90 S. W. 1075. Evidence held sufficient to show that one dealing with incompetent was put on inquiry as to incompetent's mental condition. Id.

56. Civ. Code, §§ 38, 39. Evidence held to show mere unsoundness of mind within Civ. Code, § 39. Maionchi v. Nicholini, 1 Cal. App. 690, 82 P. 1052.

57. Swartwood v. Chance [Iowa] 109 N. W. 297; Miller v. Barber [N. J. Law] 62 A. 276. Before an inquisition of lunacy, contracts of the lunatic founded on adequate consideration of which the lunatic had the benefit, and made by the other party without fraud or undue influence and in good faith, in ignorance of the mental condition of the lunatic, will be upheld where the parties cannot be placed in statu quo. Smith's Committee v. Forsythe, 28 Ky. L. R. 1034, 90 S. W. 1075.

58, 59, 60. Swartwood v. Chance [Iowa] 109 N. W. 297.

61. Swartwood v. Chance [Iowa] 109 N. W. 297; Saffer v. Mast, 223 Ill. 108, 79 N. E. 32. The legal test of mental capacity to make a deed is the capacity of the grantor to understand the nature and effect of the transaction. Chadwell v. Reed, 198 Mo. 359, 95 S. W. 227.

62. Reams v. Taylor [Utah] 87 P. 1089. Where plaintiff leased premises of an incompetent from the guardian, exacting a promise from the guardian to repair a certain defect and the repair not having been made as promised plaintiff fell and sustained injuries caused by the defect, she could not recover damages therefor in an action against the insane person as for breach of covenant. Id. See, also, Agency, 7 C. L. 61.

63. Reams v. Taylor [Utah] 87 P. 1089. The tenant of an insane person's real estate knowingly leased from the incompetent's guardian has no right to go on the assumption that the estate of the incompetent would be liable for injuries resulting from the guardian's failure to repair defects known to the tenant (Id.), but as against the estate of the incompetent it is the tenant's duty to guard against injury from such source (Id.).

64. Critchfield v. Easterday, 26 App. D. C. 89. Testimony of a larger number of witnesses as to mental unsoundness of a grantor, not showing actual insanity, is not conclusive as to the grantor's incapacity when there is testimony of unimpeached witnesses who were personally present at the time of execution that the deeds were executed knowingly and with a complete understanding of their purpose and effect. Id.

65. The fact that one, though not insane, was in such an infirm mental condition as to be dependent on her husband and subject to his superior will is immaterial on the question of setting aside deeds to her husband when no undue advantage was taken of her by her husband in procuring the deeds. Critchfield v. Easterday, 26 App. D. C. 89. Where property had been bought by the husband and the title placed in the wife, undue advantage of the wife is not shown to have been taken by the husband, in their extreme old age, procuring her to deed the property to him and he in turn making a will giving her, through a trustee, the absolute right to use it all for her support and maintenance during life. Id.

66. Lapse of ten years after removal of husband as guardian of his insane wife has no authority to mortgage her interest in their property.[67] A valid joint mortgage by husband and wife being required to waive or convey the homestead in Kentucky, the insanity of one spouse at the time of joining in a mortgage of their homestead renders the mortgage void as to both.[68] Purchasers of an incompetent's property from a grantee of the incompetent cannot hold the property as innocent purchasers where they knew or were charged with knowledge of the incompetency.[69] In such case the purchasers, on being required to reconvey, are not chargeable with rents where they erected improvements on the land sufficient in value to compensate for the use of the land,[70] but where the grantee knows that the person with whom he is dealing is laboring under mental disability and overreaches him, he is not entitled to reimbursement or indemnity on account of the price paid on cancellation of the contract,[71] though the rule is otherwise where he deals fairly with the person under disability without knowledge of his misfortune, in which case the purchaser must usually be placed in statu quo.[72]

§ 7. Torts.[73]—A lunatic is liable for compensatory damages for a tort where intent is not material to its commission,[74] but is not liable for the negligence of his committee in the management of his real property,[75] nor is the committee liable therefor in his representative capacity.[76] An incorporated insane asylum with power to sue and be sued, but maintained by the state as a purely eleemosynary institution, is not liable for the tort of a lunatic in its charge.[77] A lunatic being liable for torts not partaking of a specific intent or scienter,[78] it is proper in an action to ignore an allegation that the act was wrongfully done.[79]

§ 8. Crimes.—One cannot be compelled to answer to or defend against crime when by reason of an insane mental condition he is unable to do so in a rational manner.[80]

§ 9. Actions by or against.[81]—An insane person must be prosecuted and defended by committee or guardian ad litem.[82] A statute requiring guardians ad litem incompetency held fatal to right to disaffirm. Spicer v. Holbrook, 29 Ky. L. R. 865, 96 S. W. 571.

67. A statute authorizing the mortgage of a homestead but providing that no mortgage shall be valid against the wife of the mortgagor unless she shall sign and acknowledge the same does not authorize the execution of a mortgage by a husband as guardian of his insane wife. 2 Hill's Ann. St. & Codes, § 483, construed. Curry v. Wilson [Wash.] 87 P. 1065. This is shown by legislative construction in the subsequent enactment of a statute expressly authorizing mortgages of homesteads in case of the hopeless insanity of a spouse. Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 5239. Id.

68. Stafford v. Tarter, 29 Ky. L. R. 1184, 96 S. W. 1127.

69, 70. Rush v. Handley [Ky.] 97 S. W. 726.

71, 72. Jackson v. Counts [Va.] 54 S. E. 870.

73. See 4 C. L. 129.

74. Assault and battery. Feld v. Borodofski, 87 Miss. 727, 40 So. 816.

75, 76. Ward v. Rogers, 51 Misc. 299, 100 N. Y. S. 1058.

77. Asylum held not liable for personal injuries to employe caused by lunatic starting machinery on which plaintiff was working. Leavell v. Western Kentucky Asylum, 28 Ky. L. R. 1129, 91 S. W. 671.

78, 79. Feld v. Borodofski, 87 Miss. 727, 40 So. 816.

80. Finding of insanity by probate court held binding on city court of Wichita under Gen. St. 1905, c. 60 (Ex parte Wright [Kan.] 86 P. 460), rendering void the preliminary examination of defendant charged with crime (Id.), as well as his commitment by the city court (Id.).

81. See 6 C. L. 37. An action on behalf of an incompetent against the estate of one who has willed to the incompetent all she has left cannot be maintained. Sprigg v. Sprigg's Trustee, 28 Ky. L. R. 944, 90 S. W. 985.

82. See 6 C. L. 38, n. 81, also Guardians Ad Litem and Next Friends, 7 C. L. 1896. An incompetent suing by next friend may maintain a suit to set aside his parent's will. Holland v. Couts [Tex.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 113, 98 S. W. 236, afg. on certificate [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 254, 98 S. W. 233. A judgment rendered on service of process merely on the guardian of an incompetent in any suit or proceeding in which his estate in the county of his residence is involved, as the forclosure of a mortgage, is binding on the incompetent though he is confined in an asylum in another county on a finding of incompetency there. Gen. St. 1901, §§ 3941, 3945, 3948, 3977, 3978, construed. Foran v. Healy [Kan.] 85 P. 751, on rehearing 86 P. 470.

of insane persons to prosecute and defend in actions by and against their wards is inapplicable where there has been no inquest,[83] nor is the fact in such case that knowledge of the insanity of one of several coplaintiffs first comes to defendant at the trial ground for suspending the proceedings on defendant's suggestion until a guardian ad litem has been appointed for the incompetent.[84] Leave of court is, in some jurisdictions, essential to the right to maintain an action against an incompetent.[85] As the committee of an incompetent has only such authority as is conferred by statute or order of court,[86] the appearance and answering for an incompetent by his committee and putting the case on the calendar is not a waiver of objection to the failure of plaintiff to obtain leave of court for the prosecution of the action,[87] especially where it did not appear whether the committee voluntarily defended or whether the answer was interposed by direction of the court.[88] It has been held in Virginia that suits may be commenced and prosecuted by the next friend of an incompetent without previous appointment or formal order of admission,[89] and hence the question of the validity of the appointment of committees is immaterial when it involves merely the right of the committee to maintain an action on behalf of the alleged incompetent.[90] By statute in Georgia the guardian appointed by the ordinary may be made a party to the record in the supreme court when it is made to appear that a party has been formally adjudged insane since the signing of the bill of exceptions.[91] Where the statute provides that the summons to an incompetent defendant must be served on him and others specified in a given order of precedence,[92] compliance therewith is a condition precedent to valid service. Whether one has mental capacity to maintain an action for personal injuries has been held to be a question proper to be submitted to the jury.[93] Appointment of a committee does not under the codes stay or abate an action.[94] Subsequent insanity does not avoid an attor-

An insane defendant's rights were sufficiently guarded where the hearing was on the merits participated in by his solicitors, who produced witnesses in his defense, and his subsequently appointed guardian ad litem was present and assisting in the defense as a witness. Eggert v. Eggert, 144 Mich. 182, 13 Det. Leg. N. 219, 107 N. W. 920.

83. Rev. St. 1899, § 3667, construed. Koenig v. Union Depot R. Co., 194 Mo. 564, 92 S. W. 497.

84. Koenig v. Union Depot R. Co., 194 Mo. 564, 92 S. W. 497.

85. An order by a single justice of the supreme court permitting service of summons on an inmate of an insane asylum, not intended as leave of court to bring action, cannot be construed as granting such leave, assuming leave to be essential to the right to maintain the action (Grant v. Humbert, 114 App. Div. 462, 100 N. Y. S. 44), but leave of court is not essential to the maintenance of an action against an incompetent prior to the appointment of a committee (Id.). Where a party has been declared an incompetent and the supreme court has appointed a committee of his person and estate and an accounting proceeding is brought in the surrogate's court relative to property in which the incompetent as well as others is interested (Meeks v. Meeks, 100 N. Y. S. 667), it is not necessary to apply to the supreme court for permission to serve the citation (Id.). Where an action has been properly commenced against an incompetent, authority to prosecute it to judgment may be granted before the discharge of the committee (Grant v. Humbert, 114 App. Div. 462, 100 N. Y. S. 44), but if leave should not be granted and the claim should not be paid in full, the plaintiff could, after the discharge of the committee, continue the action for any unpaid balance, and his right in due time to obtain a judgment on his cause of action could thus be preserved without the statute of limitation becoming a bar (Id.).

86, 87, 88. Grant v. Humbert, 114 App. Div. 462, 100 N. Y. S. 44.

89. Jackson v. Counts [Va.] 54 S. E. 870.

90. It would in no way affect their rights to prosecute the suits, as the court would simply treat them as next friends of persons under disabilities whom they have undertaken to represent and permit the suits to proceed. Jackson v. Counts [Va.] 54 S. E. 870.

91. Under Civ. Code 1895, § 2570 et seq., guardian of incompetent defendant in error substituted as party. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Harper, 124 Ga. 836, 53 S. E. 391.

92. Service of summons on father of incompetent without mentioning incompetent held not a compliance with Civ. Code Prac. § 53. Porter v. Eastern Kentucky Asylum, 28 Ky. L. R. 796, 90 S. W. 263.

93. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Harper, 124 Ga. 836, 53 S. E. 391.

94. An action at law commenced against an incompetent prior to the appointment of a committee need not necessarily be stayed after the appointment until the committee is discharged on further order of the court

ney's contract authority to prosecute an action or proceeding[95] or suspend the cause of action,[96] and, as to a matter quasi in rem, such as probate of a will, the insane client will be bound[97] even without the substitution of a guardian or committee, there having been no judicial finding or commitment.[98] Prior to 1905 a judgment rendered against an insane person on personal service made after he had been adjudged insane and before a guardian had been appointed was void under the Kansas statutes.[99] A judgment against an incompetent can only be enforced by application to the court while the estate is in the custody of the court,[1] but on recovery of the incompetent or discharge of the committee the judgment is enforceable by execution.[2] The right to contest a judgment rendered against an incompetent may be lost by lapse of time where the circumstances disclose that the rights of the incompetent were protected.[3] But a statute limiting the time after removal of disability in which action may be brought to set aside a judgment rendered against a person of unsound mind has no application when the action is brought during continuance of the disability.[4] Relief in equity may be obtained against the enforcement of a judgment at law against an incompetent,[5] and injunction lies to prevent vexatious litigation against an incompetent where the remedy at law is not plain and adequate.[6]

A compromise in the interest of an incompetent such as a court of chancery would have approved, if submitted to it, will be upheld.[7]

INSOLVENCY.

§ 1. Effect of Federal Bankruptcy Act on State Insolvency Laws (330).
§ 2. Procedure and Parties to Adjudicate Insolvency (330).
§ 3. Property Passing to the Assignee (330).
§ 4. Administration of Insolvent Estate (330).
§ 5. Rights and Liabilities Affected by Insolvency and Discharge of Insolvent (332).

This article treats only of the general law of insolvency and insolvency pro-

(Grant v. Humbert, 114 App. Div. 462, 100 N. Y. S. 44), but may properly be prosecuted to judgment to enable the plaintiff to have his claim liquidated before applying to the court to have it paid by the committee (Id.).

95. As to all matters included in the original contract of employment, it was not affected by the commitment of the client to an insane hospital without the appointment of a guardian, in the absence of any other adjudication of insanity. McKenna v. Garvey, 191 Mass. 96, 77 N. E. 782. Hence, service of notice of appeal on the attorney, under statutes expressly providing for service on attorneys, gave the appellate court jurisdiction, notwithstanding the commitment of the client. Id.

96. Insanity of defendant in a divorce proceeding arising subsequent to the commission of the acts alleged to constitute the ground for divorce will not justify the court in refusing to proceed with the trial during the continuance of the insanity. State v. Murphy [Nev.] 85 P. 1004.

97. Incompetent was acting in a representative capacity in attempting to procure the probate of a will. McKenna v. Garvey, 191 Mass. 96, 77 N. E. 782.

98. Failure to substitute some one in place of incompetent held a mere informality which did not affect the result. McKenna v. Garvey, 191 Mass. 96, 77 N. E. 782.

99. Compliance with Gen. St. 1901, § 3958, requiring service on guardian of insane person, held jurisdictional prior to its repeal by Laws 1905, p. 450, c. 299. Marquis v. Wiren [Kan.] 87 P. 1135.

1, 2. Grant v. Humbert, 114 App. Div. 462, 100 N. Y. S. 44.

3. Where, in an accounting proceeding brought in the surrogate's court relative to property in which an incompetent, as well as others, is interested, the rights of the incompetent were cared for by his committee, an eminent lawyer, represented by learned counsel, there is nothing in the case which calls for action by the supreme court, after the lapse of 13 years to interfere with the surrogate's decree. Meeks v. Meeks, 100 N. Y. S. 667.

4. Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 5156, construed. Curry v. Wilson [Wash.] 87 P. 1065.

5. Where the statute of limitations was a bar to an action against an insane person, equity has jurisdiction after his death, at the suit of his representatives, to vacate a judgment rendered against him therein, no guardian ad litem having been appointed and the court not having been advised of his mental incapacity. Godde v. Marvin, 142 Mich. 518, 12 Det. Leg. N. 786, 105 N. W. 1112.

6. Incompetent held not to have an ads-cedure and settlement. Matters pertinent to bankruptcy,[8] assignments for the benefit of creditors,[9] the appointment, rights, and duties of receivers,[10] the discharge of insolvents from imprisonment for debt,[11] the marshaling of assets,[12] and composition with creditors, are elsewhere treated.[13]

§ 1. Effect of Federal bankruptcy act on state insolvency laws.[14]—State statutes are suspended only as to persons who can be made subject to the Federal bankruptcy act.[15]

§ 2. Procedure and parties to adjudicate insolvency.[16]—Insolvency denotes the insufficiency of the entire property and assets of an individual to pay his debts,[17] and is to be determined by a comparison of resources with liabilities.[18] Solvency is presumed.[19] In Minnesota a duly certified copy of an order appointing a receiver of an insolvent, filed in the office of the register of deeds, is notice of the fact of the receivership to all who thereafter deal with lands of the insolvent situated in the county.[20]

§ 3. Property passing to the assignee.[21]—Ordinarily a trustee in insolvency is entitled to enforce against property claimed by others any rights which could be enforced by the creditors.[22] In Pennsylvania an insolvent debtor cannot waive the benefit of the exemption act.[23] A prior attachment of realty in a Federal court does not prevent a receiver in subsequent insolvency proceedings in a state court from taking possession of the property.[24]

§ 4. Administration of insolvent estate.[25]—Illegal demands are properly expunged.[26] The right of a creditor to priority generally depends upon the character of his claim.[27] As soon as a court determines that a corporation is insolvent and quate remedy at law against threatened suits on notes and sales of collateral alleged to have been procured from the incompetent by undue influence. Heath v. Capital Sav. Bank & Trust Co. [Vt.] 64 A. 1127.

7. Where by the compromise of a contest of her father's will, and a deed executed by him, an alleged incompetent retained more of her father's estate than she would have received had the deed and will been set aside, the compromise was in the incompetent's interest. Sprigg v. Sprigg's Trustee, 28 Ky. L. R. 944, 90 S. W. 985.

8. See Bankruptcy, 7 C. L. 387.

9. See Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, 7 C. L. 286.

10. See Receivers, 6 C. L. 1250.

11. See Civil Arrest, 7 C. L. 653.

12. See Marshaling Assets and Securities, 6 C. L. 520.

13. See Composition with Creditors, 7 C. L. 674.

14. See 6 C. L. 38.

15. Pennsylvania Act of June 4, 1901 (P. L. 404), is in force as to farmers. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Gass, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 125. Where an assignee petitioned the court to set aside a writ of execution issued prior to assignment on ground that assignor was a farmer, held not error to refuse application where it was denied that assignor was a farmer and answer was not met by countervailing proof. Charles v. Smith, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 594.

16. See 6 C. L. 39.

17. Rogers v. Odgen Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n [Utah] 83 P. 754.

18. Not alone from amount of money on hand or coming in. Rogers v. Ogden Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n [Utah] 83 P. 754.

19. Rogers v. Ogden Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n [Utah] 83 P. 754.

20. Gen. St. 1894, § 4228. Noyes v. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co., 97 Minn. 38, 105 N. W. 1126.

21. See 6 C. L. 39.

22. Not limited to rights of insolvent. Wilson v. Griswold [Conn.] 63 A. 659.

23. Under express provision of Act June 4, 1901 (P. L. 404, § 33), relating to creditors who do not participate in distribution of assigned estate, such creditors may not levy upon exempt property. Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Gass, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 125.

24. Federal court would not enjoin state receivers from proceeding in a suit to enjoin sale under Federal process and attack validity of Federal attachment. Ingraham v. National Salt Co., 139 F. 684.

25. See 6 C. L. 39.

26. Note given by husband to wife for money borrowed from her held not an equitable liability provable aganst his insolvent estate. Caldwell v. Nash, 190 Mass. 507, 77 N. E. 515. Where by a composition agreement the creditors were given notes for their respective claims, and at the time of expunging plaintiff's illegal claim her note therefor had not been fully paid and the assignees had not sufficient money in their hands to pay it, after making necessary deductions, the conditions had not so changed as to make the erroneous proof immaterial, and the claim was therefore properly expunged. Id.

27. An attorney who at the instance of all the creditors recovers for their benefit restrains it from disposing of its property, it in effect takes possession of the property as a trust fund for the benefit of all its creditors,[28] and the fact that thereafter, but before the appointment of a receiver, a general creditor recovers a judgment and levies an execution thereon, does not entitle him to priority.[29] A seizure of property by a creditor must be lawful in order to give him priority.[30]

Payments to creditors can be made only when authorized by the court[31] and according to the legal priority of claims.[32] In Louisiana, unauthorized payments having been made, the creditors aggrieved may oppose the final account of the syndic and obtain a personal judgment against him where the claims cannot be satisfied out of funds in his hands.[33] If the assets of a corporation prove sufficient to pay all demands in full, the creditors are entitled to interest on their claims pending liquidation.[34]

An unlawful preference made by the insolvent may be recovered by the assignee.[35] If any part of the purpose of a transfer is fraudulent, the whole is void,[36] funds belonging to an insolvent is entitled to have the reasonable value of such services preferred against the funds (Butler v. Conwell, 14 Wyo. 166, 82 P. 950), whether recovered before or after appointment of a receiver (Id.), and it is immaterial to the validity of the claim whether it is presented for allowance by the creditor or by the attorney himself (Id.). Complaint sufficient as against general demurrer. Id. A mere voluntary loan to a going concern used to pay claims entitled to a preference does not entitle the lender to a preference by subrogation on the subsequent insolvency of the concern. Bank of Commerce v. Lawrence County Bank [Ark.] 96 S. W. 749. Evidence held not to constitute a ground for declaring a preference against the receiver of an insolvent bank in favor of a creditor of another insolvent or of the receiver of such other insolvent. State v. Corning State Sav. Bank, 128 Iowa, 597, 105 N. W. 159.

28. Squier v. Princeton Lighting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 474.

29. Rule not affected by Laws 1896, p. 299, c. 185, § 68, divesting an insolvent corporation of title to its property upon appointment of receiver. Squier v. Princeton Lighting Co. [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 474.

30. No preference where officers of corporation turned over property to a creditor without authority. Jones v. Northern Pacific Fish & Oil Co., 42 Wash. 332, 84 P. 1122.

31. Zeigler v. Creditors, 116 La. 250, 40 So. 693.

32. Where syndic paid in full claims subordinate in rank to complainants' claims and thereby also threw upon complainants costs and expenses of administration. Zeigler v. Creditors, 116 La. 250, 40 So. 693.

33. Were not bound to proceed against creditors who had received the unauthorized payments as provided by Civil Code, art. 1188, where payments were made without "authorization of the judge." Zeigler v. Creditors, 116 La. 250, 40 So. 693. Not bound to proceed as per arts. 1055, 1056, Code of Prac., by obtaining order from court directing syndic to pay the claims, making demand, and issuing execution on failure of syndic to respond. Id. Complaint held to charge maladministration. Id.

34. See, also, Interest, 6 C. L. 157. Allowed to depositors of trust company declared insolvent. People v. Merchants' Trust Co., 101 N. Y. S. 255. Assuming possession of the property of a trust company by the state through temporary receivers dispenses with any formal demand by depositors for the payment of their deposits as a condition to recovery of interest. Id. Depositor held entitled to payment of interest after dissolution only upon balance which would have been due him had he accepted the several instalments of principal at the time they were respectively paid to creditors by receivers. Id.

Rules given as to the time and rate of interest in favor of depositors having interest contracts and those not having such contracts, and in favor of holders of certificates of deposit and of certified checks. People v. Merchants' Trust Co., 101 N. Y. S. 255.

35. To recover a preference under Pub. St. c. 157, § 96, an assignee need show only that the debtor was insolvent; that the transfer was made within six months of the filing of the petition in insolvency and with a view to give a preference; that the creditor had reasonable cause to believe the debtor insolvent; and that the transfer was made in fraud of the insolvency laws. Bolster v. Graves, 189 Mass. 301, 75 N. E. 714. Evidence sufficient to authorize judgment for assignee for money paid and goods converted. Id. Evidence insufficient to sustain action by assignee for conversion of tobacco. Jaquith v. Davenport, 191 Mass. 415, 78 N. E. 93. If sale was not to defendant but to another, the fact that it was not in the usual course of business was immaterial. Id. Transaction between insolvent and son-in-law in form of cash sale of realty followed shortly after by payment of unsecured note by vendor to vendee held a preference. New Orleans Acid & Fertilizer Co. v. Gulliory & Co., 117 La. 821, 42 So. 329. The right of an individual creditor to be paid by preference out of individual assets must be enforced in the bankruptcy proceedings, and is not a defense to an action in a state court by partnership creditors to set aside a sale as an undue preference. Id. On the issue of a debtor's insolvency at the time of making an alleged preference, evidence of the state of the money market at the time the payments were and an agent's knowledge of its character is binding upon the creditor.[37] A transaction which does not diminish the insolvent's estate is not a preference.[38]

The assignee is ordinarily required to seasonably file an account with the court,[39] and generally he is allowed a reasonable compensation for his services.[40] Parties who appear and contest the issues before a master are not as a rule entitled to a jury trial after his determination.[41] The right of review is governed by statute.[42]

§ 5. Rights and liabilities affected by insolvency and discharge of insolvent.[43] —In New Jersey the affidavit of the assignee is not an essential preliminary to an order of discharge.[44]

INSPECTION, see latest topical index.

INSPECTION LAWS.[45]

Commodity inspection laws promotive of public safety are to be construed as remedial statutes so as reasonably to accomplish their end,[46] and, accordingly, oil once inspected is not subject to reinspection when again entered into the state.[47] Whether each container of oil must be separately inspected depends on the terms of the statute[48] and is not to be implied from mere authority to reinspect.[49] The Missouri statutes do not require official weighing of grain except where official in-made was inadmissible. Bolster v. Graves, 189 Mass. 301, 75 N. E. 714.

36. Jaquith v. Davenport, 191 Mass. 415, 78 N. E. 93. Evidence held to require the giving of an instruction to this effect. Id. Other evidence held not to require it. Id.

37. Jaquith v. Davenport, 191 Mass. 415, 78 N. E. 93. Certain state of facts considered and some held to require the giving of this ruling and others not. Id. Where transfer was a fraudulent preference so far as securing a pre-existing debt, creditor held not entitled to a lien to the amount of loans made on faith thereof after transfer. Bolster v. Graves, 189 Mass. 301, 75 N. E. 714.

38. Swapping and payment of notes releasing collateral. Jaquith v. Davenport, 191 Mass. 415. 78 N. E. 93.

39. Under Pub. St. 1882, c. 157, § 59, requiring assignees to render accounts, where the duties of the assignees were to continue after the confirmation of the composition and discharge of the debtor, and the assignees had assets of the estate in their hands, their account was not filed too late. Caldwell v. Nash, 190 Mass 507, 77 N. E. 515.

40. Assignees who by terms of composition continued to discharge duties after its confirmation held entitled to compensation under Pub. St. 1882, c. 157, § 56, allowing reasonable compensation to assignees in discretion of judge. Caldwell v. Nash, 190 Mass. 507, 77 N. E. 515.

41. Are limited to presenting objections to master, and, on his failure to correct the findings, to require him to certify the evidence with his report for review of court. San Jacinto Oil Co. v. Culbertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 110.

42. See, also, Appeal and Review, 7 C. L. 128. Under the present Connecticut statute a single appeal will not lie to contest the claims of two or more creditors held in severalty. In re Merwin's Estate [Conn.] 63 A. 784. The fact that an appeal is now allowed from the doings of commissioners generally without the qualifying words "in allowing or rejecting a claim," used in earlier statutes, does not authorize a single appeal. Revision 1902, § 409. Id. Insolvent Debtor's Act (Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 72), § 26, providing for appeal to the circuit court from order of county court refusing to discharge an insolvent debtor, was repealed by § 8 of the act creating the appellate court (Hurd's Rev. St. 1903, c. 37, § 25), providing for appeals to that court from final judgments, orders, etc., of county courts, and hence such appeal must be taken to the appellate court and not to the circuit court. Groszglass v. Von Bergen, 220 Ill. 340, 77 N. E. 195. Where a bill to wind up the estate of a decedent as insolvent is brought in the county court under Shannon's Code, §§ 4066, 4102, instead of adopting the special procedure prescribed by §§ 4070-4101, an appeal from the decree of the county court lies directly to the supreme court under § 4907. Key v. Harris [Tenn.] 92 S. W. 235. Question not affected by Acts 1873, p. 100, c. 64 (Shannon's Code, §§ 4067, 6028), providing for concurrent jurisdiction in the county courts to sell real estate of decedents, etc. Id.

43. See 6 C. L. 41.

44. Under Insolvent Debtor's Act, § 22, requiring the oath to be made immediately after assignment is made. Stokes v. Hardy [N. J. Law] 62 A. 1002. Recital by court in order discharging debtor that assignment executed by debtor was filed before making of order held not overcome by file mark of clerk. Id.

45. See 6 C. L. 42.

46. Oil inspection. Richardson-Gay Oil Co. v. Ashton [Okl.] 87 P. 662.

47. Richardson-Gay Oil Co. v. Ashton [Okl.] 87 P. 662.

spection is required[50] and when the grain comes to or from a public warehouse.[51] In Tennessee a suit to restrain the oil inspector is a suit against the state or one of its officers tending to reach its property in the fees, and hence fails.[52]

INSTRUCTIONS.

§ 1. Object and Purpose (333).
§ 2. Province of Court and Jury (333).
§ 3. Duty of Instructing (335). Requests for Instructions (335). Limiting Number of Instructions (339). Form and Sufficiency of Request (339). Time of Making Request (340). Disposition of Requests (340). Repetition (341).
§ 4. Assumption of Facts (344).
§ 5. Charging with Respect to Matters of Fact or Commenting on the Weight of Evidence (347).
§ 6. Form and General Substance of Instructions (350).
§ 7. Relation of Instructions to Pleading and Evidence (357).
§ 8. Stating Issues to the Jury (364).
§ 9. Ignoring Material Evidence, Theories, and Defenses (366).
§ 10. Giving Undue Prominence to Evidence, Issues, and Theories (367).
§ 11. Definition of Terms Used (369).
§ 12. Rules of Evidence; Credibility and Conflicts (370). Falsus in Uno, Falsus in Omnibus (371).
§ 13. Admonitory and Cautionary Instructions (372).
§ 14. Necessity of Instructing in Writing (372).
§ 15. Presentation of Instructions (372).
§ 16. Additional Instructions After Retirement (373).
§ 17. Review (373). Objections and Exceptions Below (373). The Record on Appeal (373). Invited Error (374). Harmless Error (374). Instructions Must be Considered as a Whole (374). Curing Bad Instructions (376).

The scope of this topic is confined to instruction in civil cases. Instructions in criminal prosecutions are treated elsewhere.[1]

§ 1. Object and purpose[2] of instructions is to state and explain the law applicable to the case[3] and not to direct the jury to disregard evidence received without objection.[4]

§ 2. Province of court and jury.[5]—It is the exclusive province of the jury to determine all issues of fact,[6] the credibility of witnesses,[7] the weight to be given their testimony,[8] and to find the ultimate facts from all the evidence introduced.[9]

48, 49. In Jefferson County, Alabama, there need not be reinspection when oil inspected in tanks is drawn into barrels and sold. Construing Local Act, Feb. 27, 1901 (Acts 1900-01, p. 1262). Hawkins v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 40 So. 293.

50. The practice of inspecting at places not official does not require weighing there. State v. Goffee, 192 Mo. 670, 91 S. W. 486.

51. State v. Goffee, 192 Mo. 670, 91 S. W. 486. Whether warehouse is public is not open on motion for judgment on pleadings in quo warranto where the private character of warehouses stands admitted. Id.

52. General Oil Co. v. Crain [Tenn.] 95 S. W. 824.

1. See Indictment and Prosecution, 5 C. L. 1836.

2. See 6 C. L. 43.

3. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Brien, 219 Ill. 303, 76 N. E. 341.

4. El Paso & S. R. Co. v. Darr [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 145, 93 S. W. 166.

5. See 6 C. L. 43.

6. It is error to take from the jury the determination of a material question of fact. Merry v. Calvin, 122 Ill. App. 469. Instructions taking from the jury a question of fact relative to fraud held erroneous. McDonough v. Williams [Ark.] 92 S. W. 783. As to whether failure of a brake valve to work would have averted an accident was controverted and under the evidence was a question for the jury and it was error for the court to withdraw it from their consideration. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bohan [Tenn.] 94 S. W. 84. It is error to charge that there is no evidence of certain material facts when there is evidence sufficient to require the submission of the question of the existence of such facts. Wiese v. Gerndorf [Neb.] 106 N. W. 1025. Request withdrawing from the jury an essential element of an oral contract supported by evidence properly refused. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 587, 88 S. W. 499. Where a tax deed declared by statute to constitute prima facie evidence has been introduced, the court should instruct on the effect of evidence introduced to show that it was void. Ropes v. Minshew [Fla.] 41 So. 538.

7. See post § 12.

8. See post § 12. Whether one class of testimony is entitled to greater weight is a question of fact, and it is not the province of the court to instruct as to which class should be preferred. Coulter v. Thompson Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 706.

9. It is error to instruct that the jury may make concessions, providing their verdict is based on the law and evidence. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 97, 90 S. W. 164.

Consequently, if the evidence is conflicting,[10] even though it preponderates heavily one way[11] or is all oral,[12] or if different minds acting within the limitations prescribed by law might draw different conclusions[13] or inferences therefrom,[14] it should be submitted; but where facts are undisputed,[15] and only one inference can be drawn from them, a question of law is presented.[16]

It is the province of the court to determine questions of law and it is error to submit them to the jury.[17] The construction of written instruments is a question of law.[18]

10. Where there is evidence upon which to base a finding either way, the court properly refuses to take the question from the jury. Matfield v. Kimbrough [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 927, 90 S. W. 712. It is an invasion of the province of the jury to direct a verdict when there is a conflict of evidence relative to a material issue. Logan v. Meade [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 158, 98 S. W. 210. On conflicting evidence an instruction that the evidence shows a certain fact invades the province of the jury. Calvert Bank v. Katz & Co., 102 Md. 56, 61 A. 411. Where evidence is conflicting a verdict should not be directed. Bishop Co. v. Shelhorse [C. C. A.] 141 F. 643.

11. The jury should not be instructed to disregard defenses alleged unless there is no proof bearing thereon. Haney v. Blandino [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 967, 89 S. W. 1108.

12. Where evidence is all oral, no matter how strong and convincing and though there may be no countervailing evidence, it must be submitted. McReynolds v. Quincy, etc., R. Co., 115 Mo. App. 676, 91 S. W. 446.

13. Should not suggest conclusions of fact to be drawn from the evidence. Home Ins. Co. v. Gagen [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 927. If ordinary minds may draw different conclusions from the evidence it should be submitted. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Demsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 961, 89 S. W. 786. It is error to instruct that from one fact proved the plaintiff had a right to presume another material fact. Standard Cotton Mills v. Cheatham, 125 Ga. 649, 54 S. E. 650.

14. It is not the province of the court to tell the jury what it may or may not infer from certain facts proved. Wood v. Oison, 117 Ill. App. 128. If diverse inferences of fact are warranted, the case should be submitted though the evidence is uncontradicted. Allen v. American Beet Sugar Co. [Neb.] 106 N. W. 469. Where there is evidence and inferences to be drawn from establishing a certain fact, the question should be submitted to the jury. Western Underwriters Ass'n v. Hankins, 221 Ill. 304, 77 N. E. 447. Inference to be drawn from letters which did not constitute a compact between the parties, but mere evidence was for the jury and not the court. Carp v. Queen Ins. Co., 116 Mo. App. 528, 92 S. W. 1137.

15. Deschner v. St. Louis & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 737.

16. Whether they constitute negligence is a question of law. Isley v. Virginia Bridge & Iron Co. [N. C.] 53 S. E. 841. In an action on an insurance policy upon an issue as to whether the actual value of the insured's interest exceeded the loan value of the policy, where the only witness on the point testified that there was an excess, it was proper to so charge. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Mills [Fla.] 41 So. 603.

17. Held questions of law: The evidence being undisputed, the question whether one had conveyed his title is one of law and it is error to submit it to the jury. Anniston City Land Co. v. Edmondson [Ala.] 40 So. 505. The question as to what constitutes "ownership" is one of law and should not be submitted. Ware v. Souders, 120 Ill. App. 209. It is error to permit the jury to determine what are the material allegations of a complaint. Peoria & P. Terminal R. Co. v. Hoerr, 120 Ill. App. 65. It is error to charge the jury that they are the judges of the law and facts submitted to them. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Bowen, 125 Ga. 460, 54 S. E. 105. A charge that a bill of lading constitutes the contract between the parties and conflicting parol evidence cannot be considered is properly refused as it leaves to the jury to review the rulings of the court in admitting such testimony and decide whether any evidence conflicted with such bill of lading. Norfolk & W. P. Co. v. Harman, 104 Va. 501, 52 S. E. 368. Request authorizing the jury to construe the legal effect of a letter properly refused. Ellis v. Littlefield [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 514, 93 S. W. 171. Should not be left to determine what act was "outside and beyond the command of a writ." Taylor v. Crowe, 122 Ill. App. 518. Whether statements claimed to be a part of the res gestae are really such is a question of law and should not be submitted. Southern R. Co. v. Brown [Ga.] 54 S. E. 911. Instruction submitting whether a horse was lawfully in a certain field. Carpenter v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 95 S. W. 985. As to what constitutes a contract. Turner v. Owen, 122 Ill. App. 501. Authorizing a verdict on a finding of adverse possession without defining the term. Chambers v. Morris [Ala.] 42 So. 549. Instruction that if the jury believed that a contract was broken by a certain act. Jones Co. v. Gammel-Statesman Pub. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 191. Leaving the jury to determine what are the "material" allegations of a declaration. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hicks, 122 Ill. App. 349.

Not a question of law: Instruction that if it is believed that plaintiff in a personal injury action has proved her allegations by a preponderance of evidence she can recover does not submit a question of law. Chicago & J. Elec. R. Co. v. Patton, 219 Ill. 214, 76 N. E. 381. An instruction that plaintiff was entitled to recover if the material allegations of his complaint were proven does not submit a question of law because not stating

§ 3. Duty of instructing.[19]—Each party is entitled to instructions presenting his theory of the case,[20] when such theory is presented and supported,[21] and he is entitled to have such instructions made specific[22] and correct,[23] and if the court's attention is called to a material omitted issue, he should instruct thereon.[24] In equity cases it is not proper to give instructions on the law.[25] In some jurisdictions the court is required to instruct of its own motion as to the general features of the law applicable to the case,[26] but in other jurisdictions the court is not required to instruct except upon request.[27] Under the latter rule, if the court instructs of its own motion, the instructions must be correct.[28]

Requests for instructions.[29]—The court in instructing is not required to see that what such material allegations are. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033. It is not error to set out an ordinance in an instruction where the jury are told the legal effect of it. McBride v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 618. Instructions construed together and held not to submit a question of law. Steinmann v. St. Louis Transit Co., 116 Mo. App. 673, 94 S. W. 799. Instruction not erroneous as submitting a question of law. Hartman v. Thompson [Md.] 65 A. 117.

18. See 6 C. L. 44. The construction of written instruments is for the court. Upchurch v. Mizell [Fla.] 40 So. 39. It is the duty of the court to construe a written contract and advise the jury as to its legal effect. Blair v. Baird [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 59, 94 S. W. 116. Construction of a written contract. Standard Mfg. Co. v. Slaughter, 122 Ill. App. 479.

19. See 6 C. L. 44.

20. Chicago Consol. Traction Co. v. Schritter, 222 Ill. 364, 78 N. E. 820.

21. Hauber v. Leibold [Neb.] 107 N. W. 1042. A party has a right to have his theory of the case submitted when it is supported by evidence. Colgrove v. Pickett [Neb.] 106 N. W. 453. If there is evidence to support a party's contentions, they should be submitted. Horne v. Consolidated R. Light & Power Co. [N. C.] 53 S. E. 858. Where there is evidence of a defense, it is error to refuse to instruct as to it. Levenson v. Arnold, 100 N. Y. S. 1021.

22. One who tries his case on a certain theory is entitled to have such theory, including the evidence in support thereof, specifically submitted. Walsh v. Taitt [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 651, 105 N. W. 544. Where the court charges in general terms on contributory negligence, the defendant is entitled to have given an instruction grouping the facts and leaving the jury to determine whether such facts existed. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Cotts [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 602. Where the court gives a general charge on an issue raised by the evidence, a party is entitled to have a special charge grouping the facts in evidence upon such issue given. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Rose [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 604, 93 S. W. 1105. Though instructions predicate a right to recover on the cause of action alleged, a party is entitled to a specific instruction that there can be no recovery for a cause not alleged. Prescott & N. W. R. Co. v. Weldy [Ark.] 97 S. W. 462.

23. A party has a legal right to have the rule governing his action stated correctly. Judgment founded upon improper instructions cannot be upheld. Stantial v. Union R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 662.

24. Defective instruction held sufficient to require a charge on the subject. Ray v. Pecos & N. T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 582, 88 S. W. 468.

25. White v. Black, 115 Mo. App. 28, 90 S. W. 1158.

26. Failure to instruct the principles of law essential to a determination of the case is reversible error. Ball v. Interurban St. R. Co., 49 Misc. 129, 96 N. Y. S. 739. It is the duty of the court to instruct on subjects within the evidence without request. Schwaninger v. McNeeley & Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 614. In Texas a trial judge is required by statute to charge the jury generally, though no proper charges are requested. Wallace v. Shapard [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 735, 94 S. W. 151. Independent of request the court must charge rules of law essential to the determination of the case. Overhouser v. American Cereal Co., 128 Iowa, 680, 105 N. W. 113. It is the duty of the court to charge on the facts pleaded and proved as a basis for recovery, and to charge on the law arising on the facts pleaded and proved as a defense. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Connally [Tex. Civ. App.] 93 S. W. 206. In law it is the duty of the court to instruct, especially when so requested. White v. Black, 115 Mo. App. 28, 90 S. W. 1153.

27. In Kentucky the court is only required to instruct on issues relative to which instructions are requested. In an action against two persons for assault, failure to charge that the jury might assess either joint or several damages as provided by Ky. St. 1903, § 12, is not reversible error where no request was made. Beavers v. Bowen [Ky.] 93 S. W. 649. In Kentucky it is not the duty of the court to instruct unless desired instructions are tendered. Pilcher Mfg. Co. v. Teupe's Ex'x [Ky.] 91 S. W. 1125. It is the duty of the court upon request to specifically submit a charge presenting the negligence pleaded and proved. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Huber [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 154, 95 S. W. 568.

28. Under the rule that the court is only required to give instructions upon request, if he instructs of his own motion, it is his duty to see that the instructions are correct. South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Core [Ky.] 96 S. W. 562. In an action for negligence, though neither party asked for specific instructions as to the measure of damages, it is reversible error if those given are manifestly erroneous. Wilkinson v. Northeast Borough [Pa.] 64 A. 734.

instructions cover every feature of the case; an error of omission is not ground for reversal in the absence of a request supplying it.[30] If an instruction is not as full as desired[31] or omits reference to particular issues,[32] subjects,[33] defenses,[34] or

29. See 6 C. L. 46.

30. Omissions cannot be complained of in the absence of a request. De Blois v. Great Northern R. Co. [Minn.] 108 N. W. 293; Thomas v. Boston & M. Consol. Copper & Silver Min. Co. [Mont.] 86 P. 499; Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 587, 88 S. W. 499; Oneal v. Welsman [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 503, 88 S. W. 290; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fitzpatrick [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 790, 91 S. W. 356; International Harvester Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 653, 96 S. W. 93. Where evidence is conflicting, a party cannot complain of lack of instruction as to the weight of the testimony of interested and disinterested witnesses where he did not make a request therefor. Standen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 214 Pa. 189, 63 A. 467. In the absence of a request it is not reversible error to fail to charge as to the weight to be given certain testimony. Sutton v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 214 Pa. 274, 63 A. 791. Where a court only stated its memory concerning certain evidence and charged that "the whole thing" was a matter for the jury, the fact that some evidence was overlooked or that some was mistakenly stated is not error. Green v. Dodge [Vt.] 64 A. 499. Omits to fully explain the doctrine of "res ipsa loquitur." Lyles v. Brannon Carbonating Co., 140 N. C. 25, 52 S. E. 233. Where the doctrine of "res ipsa loquitur" applies a party entitled to the benefit thereof can avail himself of it only by requesting an appropriate instruction at the proper time. Isley v. Virginia Bridge & Iron Co. [N. C.] 58 S. E. 841. Where instructions confined the delivery of a bond to the time of actual delivery, a party who did not request an instruction that prior conversations be included could not complain. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 87 P. 1036. Omits to charge that there is no evidence to sustain a verdict for punitive damages. Roundtree v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 72 S. C. 474, 52 S. E. 231. Failure to charge on the subject of burden of proof is not error in the absence of a request. Coppins v. Jefferson, 126 Wis. 578, 105 N. W. 1078. Failure to instruct as to the proximate cause of an injury to a servant by reason of dangerous place in which to work and defective machinery. Rice v. Lockhart Mills [S. C.] 55 S. E. 160. If a party conceives himself prejudiced by an omission, he should request an explanatory charge. Anthony v. Seed [Ala.] 40 So. 577. Instruction on discovered peril correct so far as it went but omitted to say that defendant would not be liable if plaintiff could have avoided the accident after discovering his peril. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 886. Not error to fail to submit to jury question of alleged indignities to a passenger in absence of request. Peok v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 534, 91 S. W. 323. Cannot complain of mere nondirection in the absence of request. Mills v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo.] 94 S. W. 973. Omission to mention a special phase of a contract. Louisiana & Texas Lumber Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 265, 93 S. W. 714. Upon an issue as to whether a partnership or a corporation which succeeded it is liable for goods purchased, failure to specifically point out the issue of partnership dissolution. Weise v. Gray's Harbor Commercial Co., 111 Ill. App. 647. If in an action for negligence a party desires to have submitted whether or not the negligence caused or contributed to the injury, he must request it. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Josey [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 585, 95 S. W. 688. If in summarizing the evidence the court omits important details, if counsel desires them brought to the attention of the jury he should so request. Horr v. Howard Co., 126 Wis. 160, 105 N. W. 668.

31. Pooler v. Smith, 78 S. C. 102, 52 S. E. 967. If an instruction is good as far as it goes but does not fully cover the subject it is the duty of counsel to ask additional instructions. Price v. Huddleston [Ind.] 79 N. E. 496. Instructions cannot be complained of as inadequate to cover the issues in the absence of a written request for further instructions. Van de Bogart v. Marinette & Menominee Paper Co., 127 Wis. 104, 106 N. W. 805. If he deems the charge insufficient on assumed risk. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Paschall [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 709, 92 S. W. 446. If not as full as desired on a particular theory or contention. Savannah Elec. Co. v. Mullikin [Ga.] 55 S. E. 945. If a fuller and more specific instruction is desired. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Parrott [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 879, 96 S. W. 950. If not as full and complete as a party deems they should be. Belknap v. Belknap [S. D.] 107 N. W. 692. If a party desires fuller instructions than those given and that the attention of the jury be specifically directed to any part of the testimony, he should respond to the suggestion of the court and request such detailed instruction as he desires. Grossbaum Ceramic Art Syndicate v. German Ins. Co., 218 Pa. 506, 62 A. 1107. "Transferred" on an issue relative to the gift of notes did not exclude the idea of delivery, and if a fuller instruction was desired it should have been requested. Crawford v. Hord [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 71, 89 S. W. 1097. If he desires an instruction that the jury might consider the age of a boy in determining the degree of care required of him, where the court in the instructions given had treated him as possessing the discretion of an adult. Tiffin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Ark.] 99 S. W. 564.

32. An instruction stating all the elements of contributory negligence conjunctively in the language of the complaint is not error where no request was made for a special charge submitting that less than all the facts stated would amount to contributory negligence. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Mohrmann [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 649, 98 S. W. 1090. If he desires a special issue submitted. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Box [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 998, 98 S. W. 134. If they do not fully state the issues.

theories,[35] or is deemed ambiguous[36] or misleading,[37] or not sufficiently explicit,[38] specific,[39] or definite,[40] or if amplification of a charge is desired[41] or a statement is Hardesty v. Largey Lumber Co. [Mont.] 86 P. 28. Failure to charge on any particular phase of the case. Wolff v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 420, 94 S. W. 1062. Omission to charge on certain issues raised by pleadings and evidence is not ground for reversal in absence of request to charge on such issues. Beaty v. El Paso Elec. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 628, 91 S. W. 365. Where parties requested the submission of the case on special issues, they should prepare a charge submitting issues deemed essential, and, having failed to do so, issues not submitted should be resolved in favor of the judgment. Johnston v. Fraser [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 80, 92 S. W. 49. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 1331, provides that where a cause is submitted on special issues, failure to submit an issue cannot be complained of in the absence of written request. Edelstein v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 338, 95 S. W. 1126. Omission to submit an issue which a party deems raised. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Holyfield [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 545, 91 S. W. 353. Failed to request the submission of a certain issue of negligence. Ramm v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 866, 92 S. W. 426. Fails to state all the issues. Waxahachie Cotton Oil Co. v. Peters [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 98, 94 S. W. 431. If he fails to submit issues. Smith v. Newberry, 140 N. C. 335, 53 S. E. 234. Under Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. § 1331, where a case is submitted on special issues, failure to request the submission of the issues on substantially proper form precludes the basing of error thereon. Moore v. Pierson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 219, 93 S. W. 1007. Omission to charge any of the contentions of a party. Gaither v. Carpenter [N. C.] 55 S. E. 625. As to the duty of a master to furnish a safe place for his servant to work in. Johnson v. Smith Lumber Co. [Minn.] 109 N. W. 810.

33. Where on an issue as to the location of a boundary line no instructions were requested directing the jury as to the location of the line. Patterson v. Moss Tie Co. [Ky.] 97 S. W. 379. Omits to charge on a particular subject. Marable v. Southern R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 355; Brickman v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 553. Where the court struck out objectionable parts of a request and made additions thereto, it was the duty of the party making the request, if he desired an instruction on a point embraced in the request but not in the instruction as modified, to request a specific instruction. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Baskins [Ark.] 93 S. W. 757. If the court omits to instruct upon special phases of the case. Judy v. Buck, 72 Kan. 106, 82 P. 1104. A party cannot complain of failure to instruct with reference to items set up in his amended complaint when he requested no instructions. Thomas v. Stickler [Ky.] 93 S. W. 648.

34. Where an instruction is correct so far as it goes, the fact that it omits a defense is not reversible error in the absence of a request covering the point. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Fowler [Tex. Civ. App.] 93 S. W. 484. If a defendant desires to have the question of assumption of risk submitted, he should so request. Smith v. Fordyce, 190 Mo. 1, 88 S. W. 679. Failure to submit a separate question in the special verdict covering assumption of risk in addition to the general question covering contributory negligence is not error in the absence of a request. Johnson v. St. Paul & W. Coal Co., 126 Wis. 492, 105 N. W. 1048. Failure to charge that an employe takes the ordinary risk incident to the employment. Southern R. Co. v. Holbrook, 124 Ga. 679, 53 S. E. 203.

35. If the court does not properly present a party's theory, its attention should be called to the omission. Otherwise error cannot be predicated thereon. Proulx v. Bay City [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 56, 107 N. W. 273. Omission to instruct on a certain theory. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Baskins [Ark.] 93 S. W. 757.

36. If there is any ambiguity a correction should be requested. New Castle Bridge Co. v. Doty [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 557. If the instructions lack clearness and completeness. Indianapolis & N. W. Traction Co. v. Henderson [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 539.

37. If he considers it misleading. Reiter-Conley Mfg. Co. v. Hamlin [Ala.] 40 So. 280. If the definition of a technical term is misleading. Negligence. Id. Authorizing recovery for such future suffering as was found to "result" from the injuries instead of "naturally and directly" result. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Paschall [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 709, 92 S. W. 446.

38. More explicit. Hanley v. Ft. Dodge Light & Power Co. [Iowa] 107 N. W. 593. If not as clear as desired an explanatory instruction should be requested. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. v. Oden [Ala.] 41 So. 129. If the language used by the court is not as clear and explicit as desired, a request should be made in express terms. An exception to an instruction that it expressed an erroneous idea is not sufficient. People v. Waters, 100 N. Y. S. 177.

39. If he deems it too general. Simmons v. Davenport, 140 N. C. 407, 53 S. E. 225; Gamache v. Johnston Tin Foil & Metal Co., 116 Mo. App. 596, 92 S. W. 918; Barrow v. Barrow [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 951, 97 S. W. 120; Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 29, 94 S. W. 394. If he desires a more particular charge he should request it. Davis v. Holy Terror Min. Co. [S. D.] 107 N. W. 374. If a party desires a more specific instruction of his contentions as to the constituent elements of the alleged negligence. Stewart v. Southern Bell Tel. & T. Co., 124 Ga. 224, 52 S. E. 331. If not sufficiently specific in its application to the case. Ramm v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 866, 92 S. W. 426; Holland v. Williams [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1023; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Fanning [Tex. Civ. App.] 91 S. W. 344; Murphy v. Hiltibridle [Iowa] 109 N. W. 471. On the question of proximate cause. Northern Tex. Traction Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 48, 95 S. W. 708. If a party desires a more specific statement of his contentions. Foote v. Kelley [Ga.] 55 S.

erroneous,[42] a suitable instruction should be requested.[43] So also a party may not complain of failure to define technical terms,[44] nor of an unsatisfactory definition[45] in the absence of a request, nor can he complain of omission to state the elements[46] or measure of damages.[47] If he desires evidence admitted for a special purpose limited to such purpose he must make a request,[48] especially when so limited when admitted.[49] If an instruction is deemed too restrictive,[50] or if one desires improper

E. 1045. If he desires an explanation of the meaning of the word "tender." Cave v. Osborne [Maes.] 79 N. E. 794. As to what constitutes ordinary care. Rattan v. Central Electric R. Co. [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 735. Failure to charge on a matter except indirectly cannot be complained of in the absence of a request. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Kivlin [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 115, 93 S. W. 709. An instruction that the verdict should be for defendant if it found that a bill of sale was without consideration is not objectionable as being too general in the absence of any request for special instructions. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 784.

40. If he deems them indefinite and uncertain. Hain v. Mattes [Colo.] 83 P. 127. If not as definite and certain as desired. Texas Midland R. Co. v. Byrd [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 401, 90 S. W. 185. If he desires that they state in greater detail the elements of damage. Forrester v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 37, 91 S. W. 401. If an instruction is deemed insufficient because not stating a detailed statement of the grounds of negligence. Louisiana & Tex. Lumber Co. v. Meyers [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 779, 94 S. W. 140. If he desires it made more definite or specific. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 721, 95 S. W. 640. If he desires more definite instructions on a particular issue. Ives v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 74.

41. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Udalle [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 668, 91 S. W. 330. If not as elaborate as desired. Southern R. Co. v. Brown [Ga.] 54 S. E. 911. If a general instruction is unsatisfactory. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Booth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 948, 97 S. W. 128. Where recovery is authorized only upon proof of all acts of negligence alleged, one cannot complain, conceding that proof of any of such acts would warrant a recovery, where he made no request. De Castillo v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 481, 95 S. W. 547.

42. Error in stating the issues to the jury. Brickman v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 558. Slight inaccuracies in the charge. Waxahachie Cotton Oil Co. v. Peters [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 98, 94 S. W. 431. If the pleadings are slightly misstated. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 784. If not technically correct. Instruction on proximate cause. Virginia Bridge & Iron Co. v. Jordon, 143 Ala. 603, 42 So. 73. Instruction on matter not in issue is not reversible error where the court's attention was not called to it. Nickles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 255. If the trial court's attention is not called to the fact that a refused instruction is marked "given," a party cannot complain. Fowler v. Prichard [Ala.] 41 So. 667.

43. An exception to a portion of a charge is not a request for a modification of it. Regling v. Lehmaier, 98 N. Y. S. 642.

44. See, also, in this connection, post, § 11. Louisville & E. R. Co. v. Vincent [Ky.] 96 S. W. 898. "Itinerant," "consideration," "fraud." Bugg v. Holt [Ky.] 97 S. W. 29. "Negligence" or "diligence." Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cecil, 28 Ky. L. R. 830, 90 S. W. 585. Failure to define "notice" in an action on a note. Collins v. Kelsey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 955, 97 S. W. 122. Not error in the absence of a request to fail to define "specie," "in kind," and "for consumption," used in statutes read to the jury. Foote v. Kelley [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1045. Omission to define "compensatory damages." Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fowler [Ky.] 96 S. W. 568. If a definition of "agency" is desired where the question whether one was an agent has been submitted. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Craven [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 819, 95 S. W. 633. "Probable cause." Ramsay v. Meade [Colo.] 86 P. 1018. In the absence of a request an instruction on "domicile" is not erroneous for failure to distinguish between "actual residence" and "legal residence." Forlaw v. Augusta Naval Stores Co., 124 Ga. 261, 52 S. E. 898. Failure to define "negligence." Colorado & S. R. Co. v. Webb [Colo.] 85 P. 683.

45. Proximate cause. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Paschall [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 709, 92 S. W. 446.

46. If a party desires the elements of damages given. Smith v. Fordyce, 190 Mo. 1, 88 S. W. 679. In an action for wrongful death, failure to instruct that recovery could be had for loss of society and companionship. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Currie [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 18, 91 S. W. 1100.

47. Must request a charge on the subject of reducing damages because of contributory negligence. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Skipper, 125 Ga. 368, 54 S. E. 110. In an action for slander, if the defendant is not satisfied with a general instruction on compensation and punitive damages because it leaves out of view the plea of mitigation, he should request an instruction. Yager v. Bruce [Mo. App.] 93 S. W. 307. If the court omits to charge as to the plan or standard to be adopted in estimating damages. Bourke v. Butte Elec. & Power Co. [Mont.] 83 P. 470. Failure to give the measure of damages. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moseley [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 129; Houston. etc., R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 92 S. W. 1033.

48. Stewart v Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 53 S. E. 877.

49. Corroborative testimony. Liles v. Fosburg Lumber Co. [N. C.] 54 S. E. 795.

50. On assumed risk. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Pope [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 32, 97 S. W. 534.

argument of counsel disregarded,[51] or if he desires comment where evidence erroneously admitted is stricken,[52] or an instruction limited,[53] or an instruction defining the issues,[54] a suitable instruction should be requested, and if it is desired to make an application of certain facts, the rule to which they apply should be stated.[55] But where an instruction given is incorrect, the fact that no request was made does not preclude the injured party from asserting error on appeal.[56]

Limiting number of instructions.[57]

Form and sufficiency of request.[58]—A requested instruction should be strictly correct[59] and should not be too long[60] or involved.[61] It is not ground for refusal of an instruction that the paper on which it is written bears the name of a party's attorney,[62] and an instruction on the reverse side of a paper should not be overlooked.[63] Under some circumstances the request should relate to particular issues.[64] A desired instruction is not properly requested when contained only in a requested instruction which covers other propositions and is refused on other grounds.[65] Where a party requests more than one instruction covering the same issue, he cannot complain that the court gave the more general one and refused to give the other.[66] A requested instruction which is incorrect, if sufficient to call the court's attention to the issue, requires the giving of a correct instruction,[67] but this rule does not require the court to reduce inaccurate requests to proper form.[68]

51. Miller v. Nuckolls [Ark.] 91 S. W. 759.
52. Croft v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 723.
53. Knoxville Woolen Mills v. Wallace, 28 Ky. L. R. 885, 90 S. W. 563.
54. If a party desires instructions defining the issues, he should prepare and submit them; the court is not required to. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033.
55. Barclay v. Coman [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 915, 110 N. W. 49.
56. South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Core [Ky.] 96 S. W. 562.
57, 58. See 6 C. L. 46.
59. Request partly erroneous is properly refused. Fisher v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 95 S. W. 917. Partly correct and partly erroneous, properly refused. McManus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 110, 92 S. W. 176. One cannot complain of refusal to give instruction when part of those submitted were erroneous and the court offered to give the correct ones if counsel would separate them, which he refused to do. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 671, 91 S. W. 375. Requests not stating correct propositions applicable to the case may be refused. Moore v. Lanier [Fla.] 42 So. 462.
60. Where a cause was submitted on special issues, a request covering six pages, general in its application to all the issues and requiring general findings, was properly refused. Moore v. Pierson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 219, 93 S. W. 1007. Request containing 2,000 words and covering three and one-half pages of printed matter properly refused. Maryland Steel Co. v. Engleman, 101 Md. 661, 61 A. 314.
61. It is proper to refuse requests so involved as to be confusing. Hanstad v. Canadian Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 832.
62. That the requests given at the request of the successful party were on paper bearing the name of one of his attorneys is not ground for reversal. Anthony v. Seed [Ala.] 40 So. 577.
63. The fact that a request is on the reverse side of the paper on which requests were written and was overlooked does not obviate the error of omission to give it. Hodge v. Hudson, 189 N. C. 358, 51 S. E. 954.
64. Where more than one question of fact is involved, and a directed verdict is requested by each party, a motion by the unsuccessful party for a submission of the cause without stating any particular issue may be denied. Murphy v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 110 App. Div. 717, 97 N. Y. S. 483.
65. Cowan v. Brett [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 776, 97 S. W. 330.
66. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Haney [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 19, 94 S. W. 386. Where several instructions on the same point are requested the court need give but one, and the party cannot complain that the one least favorable to him was given. National Enameling & Stamping Co. v. McCorkle, 219 Ill. 557, 76 N. E. 843. Where two instructions embodying the same proposition are requested, it is not error to refuse the one considered most important where the other is given. City of Evanston v. Richards, 224 Ill. 444, 79 N. E. 673.
67. Requested charge, though erroneous, held to suggest the issue raised by the evidence as to engineer's gross negligence in disobeying orders, and, there being no reference thereto in the main charge, to require correct instructions on that point. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Fowler [Tex. Civ. App.] 93 S. W. 484. Where a request is defective in form and substance, the court should prepare or direct to be prepared a proper instruction on the point covered by the request. South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Corre [Ky.] 96 S. W. 582.
68. It is not the duty of the court to reduce inaccurate requests to proper form though they are sufficient to direct atten-

Time of making request.[69]—The time within which requested instructions should be presented is generally regulated by statute,[70] but in some jurisdictions rests in the discretion of the court,[71] which is to be exercised fairly and liberally.[72] A rule requiring requests to be submitted before argument does not preclude receiving and passing on requests thereafter and allowing an exception to the aggrieved party.[73] To entitle a party to have requests considered which are presented after the court has concluded its charge, they must be made necessary by something the court has already charged or omitted to charge.[74]

Disposition of requests.[75]—A party is entitled to a distinct and positive ruling on his requests if they are properly drawn.[76] Where an instruction submitted contains an abstract proposition of law upon an assumed fact, it should be given or refused without qualification.[77] Ordinarily the court is not bound to give an instruction in the exact language of the request;[78] requests may be modified.[79] This rule, tion to the question involved. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Minter [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 40, 93 S. W. 516.

69. See 6 C. L. 47.

70. Under Code §§ 414, 415, requests may be made at any time before commencement of the argument. Craddock v. Barnes [N. C.] 54 S. E. 1003. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1023, a statement of facts which a party deems proved, in order to require the court to pass upon them, must be presented before the case is finally submitted after completion of the testimony and argument. Hartmann v. Schnugg, 99 N. Y. S. 33. Requests must be presented at or before the close of the evidence and before the beginning of the argument. Dunne v. Jersey City Galvanizing Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 1076.

71. The time within which instructions should be requested is within the discretion of the court which should be exercised fairly and liberally with a view to a full hearing and trial. Craddock v. Barnes [N. C.] 54 S. E. 1003.

72. Code § 414, requiring that a request to put the instructions in writing shall be made at or before the close of the evidence, and § 415, providing that counsel shall reduce their prayers for special instructions to writing, relate to different subjects, and refusal to give requests because made too late, when made the day following the day on which the evidence closed, is error. Craddock v. Barnes [N. C.] 54 S. E. 1003.

73. Robertson v. Boston & N. St. R. Co., 190 Mass. 108, 76 N. E. 613. Rule requiring requests to be presented before argument does not mean that leave must be obtained to present them later but that requests presented later cannot be entertained without leave of court. Id. The act of the court in receiving and refusing requests after argument is in effect giving of special leave to present such requests at the time they were presented. Id.

74. Dunne v. Jersey City Galvanizing Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 1076.

75. See 6 C. L. 47.

76. Sutton v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 214 Pa. 274, 63 A. 791.

77. Where evidence is clear and unequivocal, it is error to qualify an affirmance of a point by "If you believe any of the witnesses who testify believe that they know what they are talking about." Lingle v. Scranton R. Co., 214 Pa. 500, 63 A. 890.

78. The court is not required to give an instruction in the language of the request. Stubbs v. Boston & N. St. R. Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 795; Southern R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ga.] 56 S. E. 1039. An instruction correctly stating the law is not erroneous because not in the exact language of the request. McGowan v. Court of Probate of Newport, 27 R. I. 394, 62 A. 571. It is sufficient if requests are given in substance. Smith v. Michigan Lumber Co. [Wash.] 86 P 653. Where the law is properly stated the court is not bound to change the language of written requests, though they were quoted from reported opinions. Crotty v. Danbury [Conn.] 65 A. 147. It is not essential that the charge be in the language of the written requests. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Skipper, 125 Ga. 368, 54 S. E. 110. A court is under no duty to notice requests specifically. It is the better practice for the court to instruct in his own language and make a simple, orderly, and clear statement. McGarry v. Healey, 78 Conn. 365, 62 A. 871.

79. An instruction that a case between a private citizen and a corporation should be considered the same as if it was between two private citizens is not rendered erroneous by modification eliminating the nature of the business the corporation was engaged in. Star Brewery Co. v. Houck, 222 Ill. 348, 78 N. E. 827. It is not error for the court to strike from an instruction words which are merely descriptive of the manner of doing the substantive act of negligence alleged. Chicago City R. Co. v. Heydenburg, 118 Ill. App. 337. Where there was no evidence on which to predicate a request it was proper to modify it and give it as modified. Fisher v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 95 S. W. 917. Modification of an instruction that the jury should not infer from the giving of it that plaintiff had been injured so as to charge that the jury should not understand that the court intended to express an opinion held not erroneous. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Yarus, 231 Ill. 641, 77 N. E. 1139. Where giving of an instruction rested in the discretion of the court, the fact that it was marked "refused" and afterwards given as the jury were about to retire was harmless error. Harvey v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 221 Ill. 242, 77 N. E. 569.

however, is not universal.[80] A requested instruction which is correct and applicable and not adequately covered by other instructions should be given.[81] Refusal to give it is reversible error unless it affirmatively appears that no prejudice resulted.[82] If an instruction is erroneous the court is not required to correct and give it,[83] and if one of several requests is incorrect, all may be refused,[84] or those that are correct may be given and erroneous ones eliminated.[85] A request which adds nothing more than elaboration or emphasis,[86] or is merely for the purpose of answering an argument of counsel, may be refused.[87] Rejection of requests in the presence of the jury is not prejudicial because leading the jury to believe that the hypothesis contained therein was not included in certain proper instructions given.[88]

Repetition.[89]—A requested instruction substantially covered by the charge already given may be refused,[90] though correct and applicable to the case,[91] and con-

80. A party is entitled to have an instruction given in the language of the request if it is correct and not obscure or confusing. Morrison v. Fairmont & C. Traction Co. [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 669.

81. A party is entitled to have his whole case presented, and a requested instruction should be given where not covered by other instructions. Tully v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 97 S. W. 417. Where evidence tends to establish a particular theory which if established constitutes a defense, the party is entitled to have such theory submitted. Sorenson v. Townsend [Neb.] 109 N. W. 749; Frazier v. Poindexter [Ark.] 95 S. W. 464; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McCarty [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 805; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Criswell [Tex. Civ. App.] 18 Tex. Ct. Rep. 356, 88 S. W. 373. Error in refusing an appropriate instruction is not cured by an instruction not fully covering the matter contained in the request. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 167, 97 S. W. 1039. Refusal of a correct charge not covered is error. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 224, 93 S. W. 195. It is error for the court to refuse an instruction limiting the effect of evidence to the purpose for which it was admitted. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex Ct. Rep. 29, 97 S. W. 712. Error in refusing a proper instruction not cured by giving one which did not cover the request. Truschel v. Dean [Ark.] 92 S. W. 781. Voluntary intoxication as bearing on the issue of contributory negligence not submitted by other instructions. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 170, 90 S. W. 918. A request presenting an issue disconnected from other issues in the case and not covered by other instructions should be given. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Green [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 133, 95 S. W. 694. Instruction in personal injury action held not to be covered by charges given. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Clarke [Ala.] 41 So. 829. Plea held broad enough to cover a request on contributory negligence and it was error to refuse it. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Hutchinson [Ala.] 40 So. 114.

82. Prescott & N. W. R. Co. v. Weldy [Ark.] 97 S. W. 452.

83. A request, though correct except for the concluding sentence, may be refused instead of correcting and giving it. Anderson v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 85 P. 884. Use of "plaintiff" for "defendant" in a request need not be corrected by the court but the instruction may be refused. Western R. Co. v. Stone [Ala.] 39 So. 723. Where a requested instruction contained a statement which entirely vitiated it, the court was not required to modify and give it in proper form. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moseley [Ind. T.] 98 S. W. 129. An instruction not strictly correct may be refused where the court has charged on the issue sought to be submitted. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Morrow [Tex. Civ. App.] 93 S. W. 162.

84. A request to give a number of instructions may be refused unless all are correct. Southern R. Co. v. Bradford [Ala.] 40 So. 100. When special charges are asked in bulk the entire series may be refused if one is erroneous. Williamson Iron Co. v. McQueen [Ala.] 40 So. 306. When several instructions were submitted on the same sheet of paper and some were improper, all may be refused. The court is not required to select and give the proper ones. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Garrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 560, 98 S. W. 657.

85. Where a request consists of several subdivisions defining as many distinct conditions of facts to be found before verdict could be rendered for a party, and one of such subdivisions is not the law, the court may eliminate it and give the balance of the charge. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 600, 93 S. W. 1107.

86. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Brisenio [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 961, 92 S. W. 998.

87. Moss v. Mosley [Ala.] 41 So. 1012.

88. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. State [Md.] 64 A. 304.

89. See 6 C. L. 48.

90. Requests may be refused where the court has sufficiently stated the issues and principles of law to the jury. McGarry v. Healey, 78 Conn 365, 62 A. 671; Creachen v. Bromley Bros. Carpet Co., 214 Pa. 15, 63 A. 195; Dillman v. McDanel, 222 Ill. 276, 78 N. E. 591; Rubinovitch v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 77 N. E. 895; Roedler v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 88; Koenig v. Union Depot R. Co., 194 Mo. 564, 92 S. W. 497; Stark v. Burke [Iowa] 109 N. W. 206; Perjue v. Citizens' Elec. Light & Gas Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 280; West Chicago St. R. Co. v. McCafferty, 220 Ill. 476, 77 N. E. 158; Heinmiller v. Winston Bros. [Iowa] 107 N.

tain a repetition of the law of the case.[92] Requests merely stating in different lan-

W. 1102; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Sloan [Tex. Civ. App.] 91 S. W. 243; El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 83 S. W. 718; Allen v. Field [C. C. A.] 144 F. 840; Ward v. Meredith, 220 Ill. 66, 77 N. E. 118; Home Ins. Co. v. Gagen [Ind. App. 76 N. E. 927; Hancheft v. Haas, 219 Ill. 546, 76 N. E. 845; Indianapolis Northern Traction Co. v. Dunn [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 269; Springer v. Bricker, 165 Ind. 532, 76 N. E. 114; Hanstad v. Canadian Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 832; Latson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 192 Mo. 449, 91 S. W. 109; Saunders v. Tuscumbia Roofing & Plumbing Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 982; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 489, 92 S. W. 259; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Batte [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 581, 94 S. W. 345; Holcomb-Lobb Co. v. Kaufman [Ky.] 96 S. W. 813; Lexington R. Co. v. Herring [Ky.] 96 S. W. 558; Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Jackson, 217 Ill. 404, 75 N. E. 508; Salmon v. Helena Box Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 408; Magnolia Metal Co. v. Gale, 191 Mass. 487, 78 N. E. 128; Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Osborn [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 248; Mississippi Cent. R. Co. v. Hardy [Miss.] 41 So. 505; Ousley v. Hampe, 128 Iowa, 675, 105 N. W. 122; Kline v. Huie [Iowa] 107 N. W. 310; Ladd v. Germain [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 443, 108 N. W. 679; Schwaninger v. McNeeley & Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 514; Elbert v. Mitchell [Iowa] 109 N. W. 181; Sibley v. Morse [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 878, 109 N. W. 858; Brown v. Weaver Power Co., 140 N. C. 333, 52 S. E. 954; Curtis v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 345; Forlaw v. Augusta Naval Stores Co., 124 Ga. 261, 52 S. E. 898; Moss v. Mosley [Ala.] 41 So. 1012; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Selman [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 88, 89 S. W. 1101; Savannah Elec. Co. v. Bell, 124 Ga. 663, 53 S. E. 109; Smith v. Nixon [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 569, 108 N. W. 971; Buckler v. Kneezell [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 800, 91 S. W. 367; Ellis v. Littlefield [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 514, 93 S. W. 171; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Haney [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 19, 94 S. W. 386; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Brannon [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 844, 96 S. W. 1095; Gharst v. St. Louis Transit Co., 115 Mo. App. 403, 91 S. W. 453; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wynne [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 600, 91 S. W. 823; Tiffin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Ark.] 93 S. W. 564; Lang v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. 115 Mo. App. 489, 91 S. W. 1012; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 150, 93 S. W. 184; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Houlihan [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 559, 93 S. W. 495; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Tomlinson [Ark.] 94 S. W. 613; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Dean [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 989, 89 S. W. 797; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Glover [Tex. Civ. App.] 18 Tex. Ct. Rep. 268, 88 S. W. 515; Hubbard City Cotton Oil & Gin Co. v. Nichols [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 1, 89 S. W. 795; Lexington R. Co. v. Fain, 28 Ky. L. R. 743, 90 S. W. 574; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 170, 90 S. W. 918; May v. Hahn [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 902, 97 S. W. 182; Bryan v. International & G. N. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 455, 90 S. W. 693; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 886; Widman Inv. Co. v. St. Joseph, 191 Mo. 459, 90 S. W. 763; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Groves [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 895, 97 S. W. 1084; Southern R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1039; Eckhard v. St. Louis Transit Co., 190 Mo. 593, 89 S. W. 602; Jones & Co. v. Gammel-Statesman Pub. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 191; Southern R. Co. v. Branyon [Ala.] 39 So. 675; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Bath [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 117, 90 S. W. 55; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Lynch [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 237, 90 S. W. 511; City of Bowling Green v. Duncan, 28 Ky. L. R. 1177, 91 S. W. 268; Yarborough v. Mayes [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 785, 91 S. W. 624; Yellow Pine Oil Co. v. Noble [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep 750, 97 S. W. 332; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Parrott [Tex.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 648, 92 S. W. 795; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Bryant [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 239, 92 S. W. 813; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Dumas [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 538, 93 S. 493; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Connally [Tex. Civ. App.] 93 S. W. 206; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Saunders [Ark.] 94 S. W. 709; Southern Exp. Co. v. Hill [Ark.] 98 S. W. 371; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 813, 94 S. W. 162; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Bump [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 577, 95 S. W. 29; City of Dallas v. McCullough [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 348, 95 S. W. 1121; Roche v. Dale [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 832, 95 S. W. 1100; Wood v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 95 S. W. 946; Hickey v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 88, 95 S. W. 763; Wellmeyer v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 95 S. W. 925; Sprinkle v. Weliborn, 140 N. C. 163, 52 S. E. 566; Banks v. Southern Exp. Co., 73 S. C. 211, 53 S. E. 166; Parlin & Orendorff Co. v. Vawter [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 47, 88 S. W. 407; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 702; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex Ct. Rep. 524, 95 S. W. 714; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Lowe [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 265, 97 S. W. 1087; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lucas' Adm'r [Ky.] 98 S. W. 308; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Cruseturner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 987, 98 S. W. 423; McCarley v. Glenn-Lowry Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 56 S. E. 1; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Dickson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 51, 93 S. W. 481; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hagan [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 825, 93 S. W. 1014; Goff v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 49; Eirk's Adm'r v. Louisville R. Co. [Ky.] 98 S. W. 293; Bradford v. Malone [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 706; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Dixon [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 782, 91 S. W. 626; Hirte v. Eastern Wisconsin R. & Light Co., 127 Wis. 230, 106 N. W. 1068; Cownie Glove Co. v. Merchants' Dispatch Transp. Co. [Iowa] 106 N. W. 749; Winchel v. Goodyear, 126 Wis. 271, 105 N. W. 824; Coppins v. Jefferson, 126 Wis. 578, 105 N. W. 1073; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hubbard [Ala.] 41 So. 814; Armour & Co. v. Carlas [C. C. A.] 142 F. 721; Electric R., guage a proposition already stated,[93] or which state a proposition in negative form,[94]

Light & Ice Co. v. Brickell [Kan.] 85 P. 297; Pooler v. Smith, 73 S. C. 102, 52 S. E. 967; Hoyle v. Mann [Ala.] 41 So. 835; King v. Gilson, 191 Mo. 307, 90 S. W. 367; City of Highland Park v. Gerkin, 122 Ill. App. 149; Crotty v. Danbury [Conn.] 65 A. 147; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Whitehill [Md.] 64 A. 1033; Reiter-Conley Mfg. Co. v. Hamlin [Ala.] 40 So. 280; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Massenburg-Bankhead Dry Goods Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 180, 90 S. W. 68; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Wester [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 783, 96 S. W. 769; Bowen v. Sierra Lumber Co. [Cal. App.] 84 P. 1010; Gilliland v. Martin [Ala.] 42 So. 7; Jacksonville Elec. Co. v. Sloan [Fla.] 42 So. 516; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 408, 95 S. W. 660; Smith v. Hubbell [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 860, 106 N. W. 547; Hughes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 126 Wis. 525, 106 N. W. 526; Vindicator Consol. Gold Min. Co. v. Firstbrook [Colo.] 86 P. 313; Newport News Pub. Co. v. Beaumeister, 104 Va. 744, 52 S. E. 627; Marks v. Herfen [Or.] 83 P. 385; Hannah v. Anderson, 125 Ga. 407, 54 S. E. 131; Farrell v. Dubuque, 129 Iowa, 447, 105 N. W. 596. Refusal of request concerning certain statutes was not error when they were explained substantially in accordance with such request. Whitney v. Com., 190 Mass. 531, 77 N. E. 516. Where the issue of estoppel raised by the reply is fully instructed upon, it was not error to fail to refer to it in all other instructions given. Baum v. Palmer, 165 Ind. 513, 76 N. E. 108. The defendant could ask for no stronger instruction than was given to the effect that, if the breaking of the plaintiff's millrace bank was caused by the joint or concurrent negligence of the plaintiff in not caring for the water and regulating its flow in the race and of the defendant in constructing a cofferdam therein, which improperly impeded and obstructed the flow of the water, then the verdict should be for the defendant. Northern Ohio R. Co. v. Akron Canal & Hydraulic Co., 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 69. Where the law of contributory negligence has been charged, it is not necessary to repeat it in another instruction. Alft v. Clintonville, 126 Wis. 334, 105 N. W. 561. A request that the evidence will not support a verdict on a certain count is covered by an instruction refusing to give the jury the law on such count for the reason that the evidence would not support a verdict. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Birchfield [Va.] 54 S. E. 879. Where instructions aptly state the law, it is proper to refuse others. Tevis v. Carter, 28 Ky. L. R. 749, 90 S. W. 264. Where a party's theory of defense is fully presented, he cannot complain of refusal to give other instructions. Gilroy v. St. Louis Transit Co., 117 Mo. App. 663, 92 S. W. 1152. Where the jury were charged that they were the judges of the credibility of witnesses and in passing thereon might consider all facts in evidence, it is proper to refuse to instruct that the fact that a witness had been an inmate of a house of ill fame could be considered. Beasley v. Jefferson Bank, 114 Mo. App. 406, 89 S. W. 1040. Instruction defining "negligence" rendered unnecessary other like instructions. Baker & L. Mfg. Co. v. Clayton [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 299, 90 S. W. 519. Covered so far as they state correct propositions and are called for. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Schuttee [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 725, 91 S. W. 806. Where a court charges what elements may enter into the ascertainment of damages to the exclusion of all others, he need not even upon request enumerate and particularize certain of the elements which are necessarily excluded from consideration by the language or import of the instruction. Gottlieb v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 72 N. J. Law, 480, 63 A. 339. Where issues tried were sufficiently instructed upon, it was not error to refuse an instruction, in substance a copy of the pleadings. Nephler v. Woodward [Mo.] 98 S. W. 488. Where the court has charged that plaintiff must prove every allegation essential to his recovery, it is not error to refuse to instruct that he must prove his case by a preponderance of evidence. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Nicolini [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 663, 96 S. W. 84. Where the law of contributory negligence is charged with substantial accuracy, it is not error to refuse requests stating in separate paragraphs portions of the law, etc. Hull v. Douglass [Conn.] 64 A. 351. Special interrogatories may be refused where the general ones cover every material point involved. City of Lawton v. McAdams, 15 Okl. 412, 83 P. 429. Where combined causes as a ground for recovery were submitted, a charge submitting the various causes as distinct grounds for recovery was not objectionable as a repetition. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Harrington [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 653. Under the testimony of this case it was not error to refuse a request for a charge to the jury to the effect that, if they found the defendant was guilty of negligence, but that the plaintiff under all the facts and circumstances of the case, which were known or should have been known to him, did not exercise reasonable and ordinary care to prevent the breaking of the bank of his millrace and overflow of adjacent property, then negligence on his part contributed proximately to the injury, and he cannot recover from the defendant the damages in which he has been compelled to respond on account of their joint negligence. Northern Ohio R. Co. v. Akron Canal & Hydraulic Co., 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 69.

91. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reuter, 228 Ill. 387, 79 N. E. 166; Town of Normal v. Bright, 223 Ill. 99, 79 N. E. 90; West Chicago St. R. Co. v. McCafferty, 220 Ill. 476, 77 N. E. 153; Sovereign Camp, Woodmen of the World v. Welch, 16 Okl. 188, 83 P. 547; Blackwell v. Speer [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 511, 98 S. W. 903; Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Leach, 117 Ill. App. 169; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Coughlin [C. C. A.] 145 F. 37; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reuter, 119 Ill. App. 232; Coulter v. Thompson Lumber Co. [C. C. A.] 142 F. 706; City of Garnett v. Smith, 72 Kan. 664, 83 P. 615.

92. North v. Woodland [Idaho] 85 P. 215.

may be refused, but it is not sufficient that a proper instruction is given inferentially;[95] and where instructions given are very general, it is error to refuse requests which are specific.[96] Where the court instructs correctly without undertaking to state the theory of either party, it may refuse requests embracing the theory of one party though the propositions therein embodied are sound.[97]

§ 4. Assumption of facts.[98]—The court in instructions may not assume the existence or nonexistence of controverted facts,[99] or facts not sustained,[1] but un-

93. Hanousek v. Marshalltown [Iowa] 107 N. W. 603.

94. Proper to refuse a like instruction in negative form. McCaffery v. St. Louis & M. R. Co., 192 Mo. 144, 90 S. W. 816.

95. Where negligence charged was breaking of a chain because it had become crystallized, an instruction that defendant was not guilty if the jury found that the chain had not become crystallized should be given. Isley v. Virginia Bridge & Iron Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 416.

96. Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Moore [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 29, 94 S. W. 394.

97. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch [Tenn.] 94 S. W. 671.

98. See 6 C. L. 50.

99. Turner v. Righter, 120 Ill. App. 131; Foster, Waterbury & Co. v. Peer, 120 Ill. App. 199; Faulkner v. Birch, 120 Ill. App. 281; Springfield Consolidated R. Co. v. Gregory, 122 Ill. App. 607; Shickle-Harrison & Howard Iron Co. v. Beck, 112 Ill. App. 444. That a proposed ditch would reclaim wet lands. Beery v. Driver [Ind.] 76 N. E. 967. Instruction assuming that a wagon was driven across the street car track held erroneous where the testimony as to whether it was or not was conflicting. Dallas Consol. Elec. St. R. Co. v. Ely [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 605, 91 S. W. 887. In an action for breach of contract to furnish water for irrigation, it should not be assumed that there were a certain number of acres planted when the evidence of such point is conflicting. Barstow Irr. Co. v. Cleghon [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 218, 93 S. W. 1023. Assuming that one walking along the railroad track was a trespasser, when it was a question of fact whether he was a trespasser or licensee. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 886. A request assuming a fact when there was evidence that it was not a fact held erroneous. Doe ex dem. Anniston City Land Co. v. Edmondson [Ala.] 40 So. 505. Where the evidence as to contributory negligence was conflicting, the jury could not be limited to the consideration of any assumed state of facts, though such assumption was supported. Dodge v. Lamont [Iowa] 107 N. W. 948. Where alleged negligence consisted of having a "low place" in the track which was denied, it was error to assume the existence of such "low place." Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Hattaway [Ga.] 55 S. E. 21. Assuming the existence of a contract in dispute. Frasier v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 73 S. C. 140, 52 S. E. 964. Where the evidence warrants a certain conclusion, it is proper to refuse an instruction assuming such conclusion. Lyon v. United Moderns, 148 Cal. 470, 83 P. 804. Erroneous as assuming that an assignee of a chattel mortgage had paid value therefor. Lindsley v. McGrath [Mont.] 87 P. 961. Assuming the place where lights in a street were located, such location disputed. Karrer v. Detroit [Mich.] 12 Det. Leg. N. 765, 106 N. W. 64. Assumption of controverted fact held harmless. Bordeaux v. Hartman Furniture & Carpet Co., 115 Mo. App. 556, 91 S. W. 1020.

Rule violated: Where a special contract was denied, an instruction that it was ratified by acts. Frasier v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 73 S. C. 140, 52 S. E. 964. In an action for injuries resulting to a passenger while alighting, an instruction was held erroneous as assuming that running the train past the platform was negligence. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Johnson, 221 Ill. 42, 77 N. E. 592. Instruction in an action for injuries resulting from defective street held erroneous because assuming the existence of barriers and their sufficiency. McMahon v. Boston, 190 Mass. 388, 76 N. E. 957. Held erroneous as assuming that alleged negligence was the proximate cause of the injury and that defendant's officers had constructive notice of defective condition of a bridge. Brewster v. Elizabeth City [N. C.] 54 S. E. 784. Instruction held improper as assuming that an injured person was guilty of contributory negligence and did not look and listen. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. State [Md.] 64 A. 304. A fact is not assumed which is left to the jury to be found from the evidence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Box [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 998, 93 S. W. 134. In an action for injuries to cattle in transit it was error to assume that the cattle were shipped under a written contract where such question was disputed. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Batte [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 581, 94 S. W. 345. Instructions in an action for injuries to cattle in transit held erroneous as assuming that a certain act was negligence. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Felker [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 466, 93 S. W. 477. In an action against a street railway for killing a dog, an instruction was held erroneous as assuming that the dog was on the track some time before he was run over. Klein v. St. Louis Transit Co., 117 Mo. App. 691, 93 S. W. 281. Where evidence required the submission of contributory negligence to the jury, an instruction that if a certain fact existed the injured person was guilty of contributory negligence assumes a fact. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Evans [Ark.] 96 S. W. 616. Held erroneous as assuming that a check was not paid because the amount was not credited to the person presenting the check. Burns v. Yocum [Ark.] 98 S. W. 956. Held erroneous as assuming that a promise to pay a check if the drawee did not constituted a waiver of presentment. Id. In an action on services where a counterclaim on notes was pleaded, instruction held controverted facts,[2] admitted facts,[3] facts established by uncontroverted evidence,[4]

erroneous as assuming that the amount due for services was greater than the amount of the notes. McGrew's Ex'r v. O'Donnell, 28 Ky. L. R. 1366, 92 S. W. 301. Held erroneous as assuming an injury and that it was caused by the defendant's negligence. Brewster v. Elizabeth City [N. C.] 54 S. E. 784. Erroneous as assuming that the condition of the place where a passenger alighted was fully known to her. Mobile Light & R. Co. v. Walsh [Ala.] 40 So. 560. Held erroneous as assuming that a carrier failed to provide proper means for passengers to alight and that the conductor failed to assist a passenger to alight. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wolf [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 52, 89 S. W. 778. Assuming that a certain act constituted negligence was not error. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Bussong [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 189, 90 S. W. 73. An instruction that if plaintiff was guilty of any of the negligent acts charged in the answer he could not recover assumes that acts charged were negligent. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 408, 95 S. W. 660. Held to assume that one traveler was entitled to the right of way in the street as against another. May v. Hahn [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 902, 97 S. W. 132. In an action for goods sold a third person who was running a business in his own name and the evidence was conflicting as to whether he bought the goods for defendant, an instruction that if defendant ratified the acts of such third person he was liable assumes that the goods were bought for him. Hotel Cliff Ass'n v. Peterman [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 349, 98 S. W. 407. Instruction that in estimating damages the jury might consider expenses paid or incurred in effecting a cure, and care and nursing during such period assumes that such expenses had been incurred. York v. Everton [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 604. Request properly refused as assuming agency. Nesser v. Walton [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct, Rep. 396, 92 S. W. 1037. Erroneous as assuming that there was negligent or rough handling of cattle. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Burns [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 181, 90 S. W. 688. Held erroneous as assuming certain facts. Hanson v. Cresco [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1109. An instruction that if an injured person was at fault in doing a certain act he could not recover was erroneous as assuming that the act contributed to his injury. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 40 So. 91.

Rule not violated: Instruction that one had a right to assume that a street was in a reasonably safe condition held not erroneous as assuming that the street was in a safe condition. City of Indianapolis v. Mullally [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1132. Instruction does not assume negligence where the jury is required to find such negligence from the evidence. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Bovard, 223 Ill. 176, 79 N. E. 128. Instruction that "if you believe from the evidence" certain facts held not to assume such facts. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Ray [Ind.] 78 N. E. 978. On an issue of mental capacity an instruction that drunkenness at other times would not invalidate the will did not invade the province of the jury by assuming that drunkenness was some evidence of insanity, there being evidence of excessive use of intoxicants by deceased. Swygart v. Willard [Ind.] 76 N. E. 755. Instruction reciting certain facts and stating "If you believe them," etc., is not an assumption of such facts. Fitzgerald v. Benner, 219 Ill. 485, 76 N. E. 709. Instruction speaking of one as "advancing for the purpose of getting on the boat as a passenger" and holding the carrier to provide a reasonably safe approach does not assume the existence of the relation of passenger and carrier. Burke v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 981. Did not assume that a car was stopped or any attempt made to stop it before the collision. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Smith [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1140. Where one was injured by collision with a street car, an instruction did not assume that the car could have been stopped. Id. Instruction that if at the time of an accident from a hole in the street the hole was full of water such fact might be considered on the question of due care was not objectionable as assuming that the hole was a "dangerous" one. City of Indianapolis v. Mullally [Ind. App.] 77 N. E. 1132. Instructions as a whole held not to assume a controverted fact. Brayton v. Boomer [Iowa] 107 N. W. 1099. Instruction that if A was the widow of B she would not be in unlawful possession of certain property does not assume that she was a widow in lawful possession. Pooler v. Smith, 73 S. C. 102, 52 S. E. 967. Held not objectionable as assuming that employes of a train had notice of the peril of a brakeman. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Hays [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 605, 98 S. W. 911. Instruction that "where" the negligence of two unite in causing an injury it is no defense for one to show that the other was to blame was not misleading because the word "where" instead of "if" assumes negligence on the part of two. Frank Parmelee Co. v. Wheelock, 224 Ill. 194, 79 N. E. 652. Instruction in an action for injuries received by reason of a defective sidewalk stating the care required and following an instruction specifying the circumstances requisite to a recovery does not assume a fact. Elliott v. Kansas City [Mo.] 96 S. W. 1023. An instruction that damages are claimed for breach of "an alleged oral contract" does not assume that such contract was in fact made. Lindblom v. Fallett [C. C. A.] 145 F. 805. Charge that no recovery could be had if deceased failed to exercise ordinary care in looking out for his own safety, which contributed to his injury, does not assume that deceased was negligent. Ramm v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 866, 92 S. W. 426. In an action for death caused by a grounded wire where it was admitted that the current was not dangerous unless two "grounds" existed, instructions were held not to assume the existence of two "grounds." Harrison v. Kansas City Elec. Light Co., 195 Mo. 606, 93 S. W. 951. Held not to assume that a certain act was negligent. Phippin v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 196 Mo. 321, 93 S. W. 410. Instruction that if the jury find facts warranting a finding for plaintiff, followed may be assumed. Facts may not be assumed, though undisputed, if ambiguous, and of such a nature that different conclusions may be drawn from them.[5] by the measure of damages to be allowed, does not assume that the jury will find for plaintiff. Gray Tie Co. v. Clark [Ky.] 98 S. W. 1000. Held not to assume controverted facts in an action for the death of a street car passenger. Troll v. United R. Co. [Mo.] App.] 97 S. W. 234. Instructions in condemnation proceedings do not assume that property had been damaged because of failure to repeat in other instructions the words "if any" used in the first. Southern Missouri & A. R. Co. v. Woodard, 193 Mo. 656, 92 S. W. 470. An instruction in an action to recover land that a tenant cannot deny the title of his landlord does not assume that defendant held as tenant. Anthony v. Seed [Ala.] 40 So. 577. Instruction in an action for ejection of a passenger held not to assume facts. Southern Pac. Co. v. Balley [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 921, 91 S. W. 820. An instruction merely stating the issues made by the pleadings is not an assumption of the proof of any of the issues. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Kyser [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 891, 95 S. W. 747. Held not to assume that the manner of grinding a tool on an emery wheel was negligent. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Archambault [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 293, 94 S. W. 1108. Held not to assume that a handhold on a car was insecurely fastened. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Box [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 998, 93 S. W. 134. Instruction held not to assume that a rail was defective. Moore v. St. Louis Transit Co., 193 Mo. 411, 91 S. W. 1060. Instructions on the measure of damages held not to assume proof or existence of disputed facts. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stibbs [Okl.] 87 P. 293. In an action on an insurance policy instruction held not objectionable as assuming that there was certain evidence. Virginia Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Hogue [Va.] 54 S. E. 8.

1. Facts not sustained may not be assumed. Interstate Coal & Iron Co. v. Clintwood Coal & Timber Co. [Va.] 54 S. E. 593. Request assuming facts contrary to the evidence properly refused. American Cent. Ins. Co. v. Antram [Miss.] 41 So. 257. Should not assume matters not appearing in the evidence. Johnson v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 117 Mo. App. 308, 93 S. W. 866. An instruction assuming a fact not shown by the evidence to exist may be refused. Blackwell v. Speer [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 511, 98 S. 903. On an issue of fraud where there was nothing to show that a false representation influenced or misled, it was error to assume that it was material. Weil v. Fineran [Ark.] 93 S. W. 568. Error to assume facts in controversy. Papineau v. White, 117 Ill. App. 51.

2. Roberts v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 838. Uncontroverted fact may be. De Castillo v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 481, 95 S. W. 547; Hartford Life Ins. Co. v. Sherman [Ill.] 78 N. E. 923; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Bath [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 117, 90 S. W. 55; Town of Normal v. Bright, 223 Ill. 99, 79 N. E. 90. No issue raised as to the fact that there had been an accident, therefore it was held proper to assume it. Commercial Tel. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 645, 96 S. W. 939. No conflict in the testimony as to there being a highway at the point in question. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Wood [Tex. Civ. App.] 92 S. W. 259. Where it was not denied that property levied on was of a certain value, and the evidence showed that it was more, a charge that such was its value was justified. Craig v. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. [Colo.] 87 P. 1143. Where a fact is not disputed it may be assumed. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Moers [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 400, 97 S. W. 1064. Well established and uncontroverted facts may be. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Becker, 119 Ill. App. 221. It was undisputed that there was time and space for a motorman to give warning of approach to a pedestrian and it was not error to assume such fact. Deschner v. St. Louis & M. R. Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 737. In an action for obstructing an alley by running a railroad through it, it was not error to assume that the alley was obstructed. Mitchell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 81, 92 S. W. 111. No conflict in the evidence as to plaintiff's injuries, pain, and suffering, etc. Town of Sellersburg v. Ford [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 220. Facts as to which there is no controversy may be. Murphy v. Hiltibridle [Iowa] 109 N. W. 471.

3. An instruction in an action of trespass de bonis was not objectionable for failure to include the fact of plaintiff's possession being rightful, where such fact was admitted. Chicago Title & Trust Co. v. Core, 223 Ill. 58, 79 N. E. 108. Instruction that question of soundness of mind was not in the case held proper where counsel admitted, and uncontradicted evidence showed conclusively, that testatrix was of sound mind. Compher v. Browning, 219 Ill. 429, 76 N. E. 678. Fact admitted by the pleadings may be. Trabue v. Wade [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 591, 95 S. W. 616.

4. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 75, 91 S. W. 622; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hubbard [Ala.] 41 So. 814. A fact as to which all witnesses are agreed. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Simmons [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 349, 93 S. W. 686. It is not error to fail to submit a fact which is established by clear and uncontroverted testimony. Parker v. Citizens' R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 718, 95 S. W. 38. Where in an action for deceit the uncontroverted evidence established scienter, it was not error to refuse to submit it. Serrano v. Miller & Teasdale Commission Co., 111 Mo. App. 185, 93 S. W. 810. Facts proved by uncontradicted evidence may be. McManus v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 110, 92 S. W. 176. That a scaffold fell by reason of moving a car to which it was attached. Louisiana & Tex. Lumber Co. v. Meyers [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 779, 94 S. W. 140. Where a fact is established it is proper to refuse to submit it. City of Dallas v. McCullough [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 348, 95 S. W. 1121.

5. Roedler v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 88. It is error to invite the jury

§ 5. Charging with respect to matters of fact or commenting on the weight of evidence.[6]—As a general rule trial courts are prohibited from charging with respect to matters of fact or commenting on the evidence,[7] or expressing or intimating an to build up an inference of fact upon other inferences of fact which have no substantial basis in the proof. Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Walker [Conn.] 65 A. 132.

6. See 6 C. L. 51.

7. Request on the weight of evidence properly refused. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bunn [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 721, 95 S. W. 640; Hardesty v. Largey Lumber Co. [Mont.] 86 P. 29.

Rule violated: Instruction that a certain act constituted contributory negligence properly refused where such question was for the jury. McMahon v. Boston, 190 Mass. 388, 76 N. E. 957; Texas & P. R. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 843, 96 S. W. 1089; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Bingham [Tex. Civ. App.] 89 S. W. 1113; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 484, 91 S. W. 312; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Strickel [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 395, 94 S. W. 427; Moore v. Northern Tex. Traction Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 354, 95 S. W. 652. An instruction that a certain act does not constitute negligence invades the province of the jury. Rubinovitch v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 77 N. E. 895. A charge that the testimony of a witness was uncertain in that he did not recollect certain matters. Holman v. Calhoun [Ala.] 40 So. 356. Charge that it is not negligence for one to drive along and near a street railway track where the evidence shows that the horse was unruly and unmanageable. Loofborrow v. Utah Light & R. Co. [Utah] 88 P. 19. Held erroneous as a charge on the effect of evidence in violation of Code 1896, § 3326. Theodore Land Co. v. Lyon [Ala.] 41 So. 682. Even in a case where the doctrine of "res ipsa loquitur" is applicable, it is erroneous to instruct that a given state of facts either constitutes or affords a prima facie proof of negligence where such is not so declared by statute. Augusta R. & Elec. Co. v. Weekly, 124 Ga. 384, 52 S. E. 444. Under Const. art. 6, § 19, prohibiting the charging with respect to matters of fact, it is error to instruct that a certain act does not constitute negligence. Wyckoff v. Southern Pac. Co. [Cal. App.] 87 P. 203. Instruction that a certain act did not constitute delivery of goods sold. Elliott v. Howison [Ala.] 40 So. 1018. An instruction that a certain act constituted negligence violates Const. art. 6, § 19, prohibiting the court from charging as to matters of fact. Manning v. App Consol. Gold Min. Co. [Cal.] 84 P. 657. In an action for goods sold a third person who was running a business in his own name and the evidence was conflicting as to whether he bought the goods for defendant, an instruction that if the defendant ratified the acts of the third person he was liable. Hotel Cliff Ass'n v. Peterman [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 349, 98 S. W. 407. Where there was evidence that it was customary for shippers to ride on the engine, an instruction that the conductor had no authority to waive the provision in the contract requiring shippers to ride in the caboose. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Avis [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 519, 91 S. W. 877. In a drainage case it is error for the court to instruct that any particular physical facts or state of facts constitutes benefits. Perdue v. Big Four Drainage Dist., 117 Ill. App. 600. Where in an action between the finder of money and the alleged owner the latter produces strong evidence of title which is practically unopposed, no instructions predicated on a conflict of evidence can be given. Kuykendall v. Fisher [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 48. In a boundary dispute where the true location of a corner was for the jury, an instruction that a call for an unmarked prairie line was not such a call for an artificial object as would control course and distance was on the weight of evidence because tending to make the jury believe that a call for course and distance was of greater weight than a call for a corner to be at a certain point. Clawson v. Wilkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 662, 93 S. W. 1086. In an action for injuries to the shipper of a horse, a charge that the undisputed evidence showed a certain fact was not on the weight of evidence where such fact was alleged and the testimony relative to it undisputed. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Wilkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 247, 98 S. W. 202. It is erroneous to instruct as to what facts constitute negligence. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hicks, 122 Ill. App. 349. Instruction that the jury might give such weight to a receipt as it was entitled to, that they were not required to accept it as conclusive and if they believed the evidence preponderated against it they might so find, held to discredit such receipt. Connelly v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 616. That living together as husband and wife, that holding out that each is the lawful spouse of the other, execution of deeds as husband and wife, are not proofs of marriage but are circumstances to be considered. Edelstein v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 328, 95 S. W. 1126. Where evidence as to contributory negligence was conflicting, a request that the jury should consider all the surrounding circumstances in evidence before determining the question. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 524, 95 S. W. 714. In an action for injuries to cattle in transit, an instruction that defendant would be liable for overloading the cattle. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Cage Cattle Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 52, 95 S. W. 705. Held to assume that a sale was authorized in an action to recover the difference between the proceeds of a sale of mortgaged property and the amount of the debt. Ullman v. Devereux [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 470, 93 S. W. 472. Where a passenger was injured by derailment of a train, a charge that the company was liable unless it showed that the accident could not have been avoided by the utmost care and foresight reasonably compatible with the prosecution of its business. Davis v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 989, 93 S. W. 222. In an action for an animal killed at a crossing in a district where stock was prohibited from running at large, opinion as to its weight,[8] but this rule is not universally followed,[9] and it does not it was held on the weight of evidence to instruct that it was negligence for the company to fail to blow the whistle, and if the company was guilty of gross negligence plaintiff could recover Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Scofield [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 319, 98 S. W. 435. In an action for injuries to property by reason of the maintenance of a railroad, stock pens, etc., a charge that if the company reduced the market value of the property as alleged and shown by the evidence it was liable. Dallas, etc., R. Co. v. Langston [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 316, 98 S. W. 425. Where on an issue as to the location of a survey there was evidence to establish the theory of plaintiff's on which the survey might be located, it was on the weight of evidence to charge that the survey might be located by certain courses and distances in effect in accordance with plaintiff's theory instead of charging that if the jury found from the evidence that the survey could be located as claimed. Thomson v. Kelley [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 637, 97 S. W. 326. In an action for delay in transmitting a telegram, an instruction that if the company were notified of the importance of the message and of certain facts relative thereto and damages claimed were in the contemplation of the parties, plaintiff could recover. Wolff v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 420, 94 S. W. 1062. Held erroneous as calculated to make the jury believe a fact in issue. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Startz [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 384, 94 S. W. 207. Instruction in an action for injuries to cattle in transit. Texas & P. R. Co. v Felker [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 466, 93 S. W. 477. Where it was a question of fact whether one was lawfully on the railroad track, an instruction assuming that he was a trespasser. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. O'Donnell [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 886. Instructions that certain facts are no proof of negligence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Lynch [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 237, 90 S. W. 511. Court may properly refuse a request to charge directing the jury to consider certain particular facts in reaching a conclusion on an ultimate fact in issue. Eckhard v. St. Louis Transit Co., 190 Mo. 593, 89 S. W. 602. Instruction authorizing a verdict for one party unless the adverse party has satisfied the jury by a preponderance of evidence of the existence of a particular fact requires too high a degree of proof, it being necessary to satisfy the jury only. Lawrence v. Alabama State Land Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 612. Request taking from the jury a matter which was for their determination properly refused. Anniston Elec. & Gas Co. v. Elwell, 144 Ala. 317, 42 So. 45. Where evidence is conflicting it is proper to refuse to instruct that a certain fact is uncontroverted. Alabama Great So. R. Co. v. Sanders [Ala.] 40 So. 402. It is proper to refuse an instruction to find for a party against the preponderance of evidence. Coker v. Payne [Ala.] 39 So. 1025. "If you believe from the evidence you cannot find" certain facts invades the province of the jury. Wells v. Gallagher [Ala.] 39 So. 747. Requests charging upon the facts are properly refused. Such instructions are forbidden by Rev. St. 1892, § 1088. Supreme Lodge K. P. v. Lipscomb [Fla.] 39 So. 637. An instruction that receiving through the mails an application for an insurance policy and filing it in the office may or may not be an acceptance of it. McGrath v. Piedmont Mut. Ins. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 218. Charge that if a pass on which an injured person was riding was issued pursuant to telegrams in evidence it was issued without consideration was on the facts. Nickles v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 255. Held on the weight of evidence where there was one witness whose character for truth was impeached and the court charged as to the province of the jury relative to the weight to be given testimony. Tyler Ice Co. v. Tyler Water Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 114, 95 S. W. 649. Instruction in an action for fraud that if a person had knowledge of a certain fact he was put on inquiry as to the truth of the representations. Collins v. Chipman [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 411, 95 S. W. 666. On an issue as to whether an absolute deed is a mortgage, it is on the weight of evidence to instruct that the party alleging it must prove it by clear and satisfactory proof. Irvin v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 343, 98 S. W. 405. Held on the weight of evidence in an action for damages to live stock in transit. Fort Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Hamm [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 202, 93 S. W. 215. An instruction intimating a doubt on the part of the court as to the right of the plaintiff to recover any amount. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Dickson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 51, 93 S. W. 481. When evidence as to whether a railroad waiting room was comfortable was conflicting, an instruction that it was the duty of the company to heat it. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 224, 93 S. W. 195. It is error to charge that a certain act of a passenger rendered it necessary for the conductor to eject him. Nashville, etc., R. v. Moore [Ala.] 41 So. 984. It is an invasion of the province of the jury to instruct that there is no evidence of a certain fact. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. A charge that there was no evidence of a certain fact properly refused as invading the province of the jury. Alabama Great So. R. Co. v. Bonner [Ala.] 39 So. 619. That certain acts constitute negligence. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Skipper, 125 Ga. 368, 54 S. E. 110. The exception to this rule is where such acts are so declared by statute. Id. Statement by the court that there was no evidence of a certain fact held to violate Const. art. 4, § 16, prohibiting judges to charge with respect to matters of fact or to comment thereon. Patten v. Auburn, 41 Wash. 644, 84 P. 594. Charge that an oral contract was not in force properly refused as on the weight of evidence where a written contract under which defendant claimed was shown to have been abrogated. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 587, 88 S. W. 499. An instruction in an action on a promissory note that if there is anything in the circumstances to cast suspicion on the character of the instrument the holder will be deemed to have taken it in bad faith.

prevent the judge from referring to parts of the evidence nor to lines of evidence and making concrete applications of the law to them.[10]

Harrington v. Butte & B. Min. Co. [Mont.] 83 P. 467.

Rule not violated: An instruction stating the legal conclusion which would result from the establishment of certain facts. Kean v. Landrum, 72 S. C. 556, 52 S. E. 421. Held not on the weight of evidence. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Brice [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 1005, 97 S. W. 461; Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Wilkins [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 247, 98 S. W. 202; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Box [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 998, 93 S. W. 134. An instruction that the delivery of a deed need not be manual is not a charge on the facts in violation of Const. art. 5, § 26. Moss v. Smith, 73 S. C. 231, 53 S. E. 284. Held not objectionable as on the weight of evidence in that they led the jury to believe that the court was of the opinion that certain issuable facts had been proved. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Morrow [Tex. Civ. App.] 93 S. W. 162. Instruction on a tax collector's bond held not to assume that the bond was left with the collector without restriction as to delivery. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 87 P. 1036. Instruction in suit to establish will that under the statutes of descent estate would go to testatrix's next of kin, naming them, held proper where beneficiaries were others than such kin. King v. Gilson, 191 Mo. 307, 90 S. W. 367. Held not a comment on the weight of evidence in an action for injuries to an employe because of the fall of a scaffold. Louisiana & Tex. Lumber Co. v. Meyers [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 779, 94 S. W. 140. In an action for injuries caused by the collapse of a scaffold in consequence of moving a car to which it was attached. Id. An instruction to consider facts in evidence in determining whether a fire was due to a specified cause. Murray v. Llewellyn Iron Works Co. [Cal. App.] 87 P. 202. An instruction that certain facts constitute negligence is not an invasion of the province of the jury where it pertains to the rights and duties of the parties under a contract for the sending of a telegram. Campbell v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 571. An instruction that if the evidence showed that one bought a ticket and the company failed to stop its train he could decline to use the ticket and demand his money "because the railroad failed to keep its contract with him." Caldwell v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 55 S. E. 131. When there is no evidence of a certain fact it is proper to so instruct. Huggins v. Southern R. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 856. Charge that jury may say that failure to repair a roadbed after knowledge of its defects was wanton disregard of the duties to an employe held not an instruction that such facts constituted wantonness. Brickman v. Southern R. Co. [S. C.] 54 S. E. 663. An instruction submitting undisputed matters. Pacific Exp. Co. v. Walters [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 549, 93 S. W. 496. In an action for injuries, an instruction reciting facts relative to a surgical operation, pain, and suffering. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hagan [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 325, 93 S. W. 1014. Not on the weight of evidence in an action for failure to deliver a telegram. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Carter [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 657, 94 S. W. 205. Instruction defining the measure of damages and reciting that it was applicable only in the event that the jury previously found that there was failure to exercise ordinary care in handling stock in transit. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Garrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 53. Instructions as to warranties of a manufacturer. Braun & Ferguson Co. v. Paulson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 95 S. W. 617. It is not a charge on the facts to construe the statute of a foreign state. Frasier v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 73 S. C. 140, 52 S. E. 964. That the preponderance of evidence is that which carries conviction with it depends on the character of the witness, his intelligence, opportunity for knowledge, and not necessarily on the number of witnesses. Montgomery v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 73 S. C. 503, 53 S. E. 987. It is not error to charge that a certain act constitutes negligence if it is so declared by statute. Wilson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 257. Instruction as to the duty of a master to furnish a safe place and proper appliances for a servant. Rice v. Lockhart Mills [S. C.] 55 S. E. 160. To set forth the acts of negligence charged and refer to them as alleged. Id. To assume that goods in controversy had some value where such fact is conceded. Stewart v. Jacob Sachs & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 845, 96 S. W. 1091. In an action for injuries caused by a defective stirrup on a box car, an instruction that it was the duty of the company to maintain the stirrup in a reasonably safe condition, was not on the weight of evidence as intimating that the court was of the opinion that the stirrup was defective. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Parish [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 334, 93 S. W. 682. Where there was an ordinance prescribing the rate of speed, an instruction leaving the jury to determine whether the ordinance had been violated, and if so declaring it to be negligence, and requiring the jury to determine whether it was the proximate cause of the injury. Texarkana & Ft. S. R. Co. v. Frugia [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 724, 95 S. W. 563. Leaving the jury to determine whether facts embraced in the charge exist before they could find as therein directed. Roche v. Dale [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 832, 95 S. W. 1100. Instruction that a traveler had a right to travel on a street and in the absence of notice of its defective condition might presume that it was in a reasonably safe condition for travel. City of Dallas v. McCullough [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 348, 95 S. W. 1121. Instruction in an action for ejection of a passenger. Southern Pac. Co. v. Bailey [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 921, 91 S. W. 820.

8. Request containing intimation of opinion of the court properly refused. Insurance Co. v. Leader, 121 Ga. 260, 48 S. E. 972.

Rule violated: Instruction that the jury could find for plaintiff in no greater sum than demanded, though they might think he was entitled to a great deal more, intimates

§ 6. Form and general substance of instructions.[11]—It is not essential that the entire law of the case be stated in a single instruction.[12] All instructions given are to be considered as a series,[13] but an instruction intended to cover the entire case,[14] or a particular phase of it,[15] and upon which a finding is predicated, should an opinion of the judge on the proof. Proctor v. Pointer [Ga.] 56 S. E. 111. Instruction that one injured by fire spreading from a railroad right of way cannot recover because the engine was in good repair, carefully managed by a competent engineer, etc. Williams v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 140 N. C. 623, 53 S. E. 448. An instruction that certain testimony establishes a certain fact is an expression of opinion in violation of Civ. Code 1895, § 4334. Albany & N. R. Co. v. McArthy, 125 Ga. 205, 54 S. E. 193. In an action for injuries to property because of the maintenance of a railroad, stock pens, etc., in the vicinity, instructions held erroneous as leading the jury to infer that in the opinion of the court the property was injuriously affected. Dallas, etc., R. Co. v. Langston [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 316, 98 S. W. 425. In an action for assault and battery an instruction that fines imposed on account of such assault should be considered in mitigation of exemplary damages is an intimation of opinion that the case was one for the allowance of such damages. Holland v. Williams [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1023. Instruction that if there was an absence of slight care exemplary damages might be awarded as punishment for acts done with indifference to safety of life or limbs of others is improper as impressing the jury with the belief that the court thought the punishment ought to be great. Southern R. Co. v. Scanlon's Adm'r [Ky.] 92 S. W. 927. An opinion of the court on the evidence is harmless where the evidence conclusively establishes the fact. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 671, 91 S. W. 375.

Rule not violated: Instructions construed together and held not an expression of opinion on the facts in violation of Revisal 1905, § 535. Gilliand v. Board of Education & School Committee of Buncombe County [N. C.] 54 S. E. 413. Held not to intimate any opinion of the court that a railroad track was in bad condition. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 671, 91 S. W. 375. In condemnation proceedings the court directed the jury to consider "generally all matters owing to the peculiar location of the railroad over the land as might in the judgment of the jury affect the convenient enjoyment of the same." Held that use of the word "peculiar" did not intimate that the court was of the opinion that there was something peculiar in the location of the road. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Brick Co. [Mo.] 96 S. W. 1011. Instruction in a personal injury action that if plaintiff has suffered mental anguish in view of the dark days to come to his wife and little child such suffering cannot be considered is not on the facts as intimating a belief that injuries are permanent. Montgomery v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 73 S. C. 503, 53 S. E. 987. Instruction that the verdict must be found under the evidence and instructions combined does not intimate that the court is of the opinion that the defendant is chargeable with the negligence alleged. Kellyville Coal Co. v. Strine, 117 Ill. App. 115.

9. Where the court submits the issues without any direction as to how the facts should be found, the fact that it directly or inferentially expressed an opinion on the facts is not error in the absence of abuse of discretion. Crotty v. Danbury [Conn.] 65 A. 147. Instruction held not to go beyond the reasonable discretion of the court in commenting on the weight of evidence. Shupack v. Gordon [Conn.] 64 A. 740. In Minnesota the court may express its opinion on the facts provided the ultimate determination thereof is left to the jury. Bonness v. Felsing [Minn.] 106 N. W. 909. If a party be apprehensive that the jury will be unduly influenced he should request an instruction that the jury are the sole judges of the facts. Id.

10. Haines v. Goodlander [Kan.] 84 P. 986.

11. See 6 C. L. 53.

12. An instruction which does not authorize the basing of a verdict on the facts therein hypothesized, and when it is to be considered in connection with other instructions, need not sum up the entire case. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Reuter, 119 Ill. App. 232. Instruction summarizing the facts on which one party is entitled to recover and so charging unless the jury find for the other party on other instructions is not erroneous. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Connally [Tex. Civ. App.] 93 S. W. 206. It is not necessary that each paragraph of the charge contain the limitations and modifications of the general rules announced. It is sufficient if they are contained in other instructions. Hammock v. Tacoma [Wash.] 87 P. 924.

13. See post § 17, Instructions are to be Considered as a Whole.

14. An instruction given as covering the entire case should embrace materially all points in the case. Hatton v. Mountford [Va.] 52 S. E. 847. Failure to hypothesize knowledge of fraud and facts necessary to constitute adverse possession properly refused. Fowler v. Prichard [Ala.] 41 So. 667. Where a request disregarded a material issue it was properly refused. Scanlan v. Gulick [Mo.] 97 S. W. 884. Instructions held to cover every element of the case. Helland v. Colton State Bank [S. D.] 106 N. W. 60. An instruction hypothesizing certain facts and making a finding depend thereon must contain all the facts essential to such finding. Tennessee Coal, Iron & R. Co. v. Bridges [Ala.] 39 So. 902. A charge of court as to the right of a purchaser to return a horse not coming up to the warranty should specify that the return must have been made within a reasonable time and under circumstances which placed the vendor in statu quo. Palmer v. Cowie, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 46. It is error to instruct a finding based on a partial view of the evidence. Vaughan Mach. Co. v. Stanton Tanning Co. [Va.] 56 S. E. 140. Failure to hypothesize contributory negli-embrace all the necessary elements involved. The instructions should be stated in as simple, orderly, clear, and precise manner as is possible under the circumstances[16] and should contain only a single proposition.[17] If the rule is correctly stated it is not essential that it be in the exact language of the code.[18] The language should be intelligible,[19] clear,[20] free from ambiguity,[21] and not misleading.[22] The meaning gence. Moss v. Mosley [Ala.] 41 So. 1012. An instruction which sets out a state of facts and authorizes a verdict on the finding thereof is erroneous unless it includes every fact necessary to sustain such verdict, unless the omitted facts are conclusively established. Standard Distilling & Distributing Co. v. Harris [Neb.] 106 N. W. 582. It was error to state to the jury that the petition contained the allegation that the ways and means for putting air into the tunnel and getting the gas out were insufficient and known to be so by the defendants, but unknown to the deceased, without adding the instruction that each and every fact contained in this averment was essential to constitute negligence. Gawne Co. v. Fry, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 317.

15. Instruction on contributory negligence properly refused as not postulating any acts of negligence averred in the pleas. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hubbard [Ala.] 41 So. 814. Held erroneous for failing to hypothesize negligence. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 40 So. 91.

16. It is sufficient if the charge embraces every phase of the case and clearly sets forth the issues in simplified though collective form. Kelly-Goodfellow Shoe Co. v. Sally, 114 Mo. App. 222, 89 S. W. 889. Instruction as to negligence while open to criticism held not prejudicial. Olwell v. Skobis, 126 Wis. 308, 105 N. W. 777. It is erroneous to submit certain premises without stating what conclusions may be drawn therefrom. Harrington v. Butte & B. Min. Co. [Mont.] 83 P. 467. Instruction construed as an explanation of the complaint and an analysis of the allegations and not to take from the jury the question in issue. Early v. Early [S. C.] 54 S. E. 827. Terms of a purely technical or scientific character should be avoided where the questions are susceptible of being presented in plain and practical language. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Finch [C. C. A.] 147 F. 388.

17. In an action for libel a request to hold that a cut was libelous, that it constituted libel per se, and only the question of damages was for the jury, was properly refused as containing more than a single proposition. Klaw v. Life Pub. Co. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 184.

18. Alfriend v. Fox, 124 Ga. 563, 52 S. E. 925.

19. An unintelligible instruction is properly refused. Marx v. Ely [Ala.] 41 So. 411. Instruction in condemnation proceeding held incomprehensible and misleading. Magee v. Oklahoma City & T. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1092.

20. Request which tends to confuse the jury may be refused. Home Ins. Co. v. Gagen [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 927. Properly refused as confusing. Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 39 So. 757. Held confusing and misleading in an action on a note and to foreclose a chattel mortgage. Williams & Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 916. Confusing and misleading. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fowler [Ky.] 96 S. W. 568. Properly refused as confusing. Romano v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. [Miss.] 40 So. 150. Properly refused as confused and misleading. McConnell v. Adair [Ala.] 41 So. 419. Must not be involved as confusing or misleading. Armour Packing Co. of Louisiana v. Vietch-Young Produce Co. [Ala.] 39 So. 680. Instruction that an engineer is not bound "to keep a lookout for animals beyond the light thrown from his engine; that is, on the outsides of the track," properly refused as obscure and misleading. Western R. Co. v. Stone [Ala.] 39 So. 723. Held not misleading or confusing in an action on a contract of employment. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Nicolini [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 663, 96 S. W. 84.

21. Instruction on the question of negligence held ambiguous. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Melrose [Ind.] 78 N. E. 190. Instructions as to warranties of a manufacturer held not ambiguous or misleading. Braun & Ferguson Co. v. Paulson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 564, 95 S. W. 617.

22. Held misleading. Cone v. American Elec. Fuse Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 637, 108 N. W. 991; Lawrence v. Ala. State Land Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 612; Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Smith [Ala.] 40 So. 91; Mobile Light & R. Co. v. Walsh [Ala.] 40 So. 560; Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Harrington [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 653. And confusing. Southern R. Co. v. Forgey [Va.] 54 S. E. 477. To charge the jury to consider evidence as circumstantial when it is direct. Bryce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa, 342, 105 N. W. 497. Instruction in an action for injuries sustained in alighting from a car held misleading because not confining the opportunity to alight to the interval between when the passenger started to alight and when the car started. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. McCafferty, 220 Ill. 476, 77 N. E. 153. Where negligence is sought to be proved by circumstantial evidence, it is error to instruct to subject each circumstance to the test of due care since all the circumstances taken together may be negligence. Bryce v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa, 342, 105 N. W. 497. Instruction in eminent domain proceedings. Newport News & O. P. R. & Elec. Co. v. Lake [Va.] 54 S. E. 328. Instructions in an action on a note given for a patent right. Clark Co. v. Rice, 127 Wis. 451, 106 N. W. 231. Instructions stating in immediate connection with each other, without proper explanation, two distinct rules of law, the latter qualifying the former, are erroneous. Macon R. & Light Co. v. Streyer, 123 Ga. 279, 51 S. E. 342. Instruction in an action for injuries caused by the premature starting of a train that alighting from a moving train was not negligence unless the then conditions and circumstances made it so. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Booth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 948, 97 S. W. 128. In an action for injuries to horses in transit, an instruction that plaintiff must prove that of instructions is to be determined by what ordinary men and jurors would understand them to mean under the evidence and circumstances of the trial.[23] Language used in an opinion of the supreme court in discussing facts is not always appropriate.[24] Instructions should state propositions of law[25] applicable to the issues as de-there was an established market for the horses at their destination is misleading because of the word "established." St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Berry [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 600, 93 S. W. 1107. That a certain case superseded another on a certain principle. Gilliland v. Martin [Ala.] 42 So. 7. It is error to give two instructions as to the burden of proof, one of which is correctly qualified and the other not. Vermillion v. Parsons, 118 Mo. App. 260, 94 S. W. 298. Held misleading because introducing a new issue. Smith v. Jefferson Bank [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 247. Held prejudicial and misleading where not based on evidence. Brixey v. New York, 145 F. 1016. Held misleading in an action for damages for injuries caused by a runaway horse because inapplicable to the facts or to any reasonable inferences from such facts. Kern v. Snider [C. C. A.] 145 F. 327. To instruct that the burden to prove contributory negligence is on the plaintiff, since it is proper to look to the evidence adduced by both parties. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Groves [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 895, 97 S. W. 1084. Submitting an issue whether a grantee failed to disclose other material facts necessary to understand the situation after authorizing a verdict on finding of facts alleged. White v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 134, 95 S. W. 733. On an issue as to the validity of a release of damages for pereonal injuries, an instruction that if the injured person was ignorant of its contents when he signed it, or was in such mental condition as not to know what he was doing, he was not bound was calculated to mislead the jury to believe that ignorance alone was sufficient to avoid it. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Craig [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 547, 98 S. W. 907. Instruction that a conductor may remove a disorderly passenger is erroneous if it omits the degree of force he may use. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Moore [Ala.] 41 So. 984. An instruction on assumed risk without explaining that it is a form of contributory negligence. Anderson v. Chicago Brass Co., 127 Wis. 273, 106 N. W. 1077.

Misleading requests may be refused. Ainsfield Co. v. Rasmussen [Utah] 85 P. 1002. Properly refused as misleading. Holman v. Calhoun [Ala.] 40 So. 356; Gates v. O'Gara [Ala.] 39 So. 729. An instruction which is liable to mislead the jury as to which party must sustain the burden of proof is properly refused. Fuller v. Stevens [Ala.] 39 So. 623. Interrogatories which are calculated to mislead or confuse the jury may be refused. City of Lawton v. McAdams, 15 Okl. 412, 83 P. 429.

Misleading instruction not ground for reversal. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. v. Ryan [Ala.] 41 So. 816; Kelly v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 870. It is not generally ground for revereal that instructions are misleading and confusing. Smith v. Birmingham R., Light & Power Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 307.

Not misleading. Houston v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 484, 94 S. W. 560; International & G. N. R. Co. v. Muschamp [Tex. Civ. App.] 90 S. W. 706; Allyn v. Burns [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 686. In an action for negligence. Liles v. Fosburg Lumber Co. [N. C.] 54 S. E. 795. As imposing on the defendant the burden of proving part of the plaintiff's case. Ramsay v. Meade [Colo.] 86 P. 1018. Instruotion that the jury should receive the law from the instructions does not mislead the jury to disregard requested instructions given. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Hays [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 805, 98 S. W. 911. An instruction which states that the burden to prove contributory negligence is on defendant is not open to the objection that the jury might have been misled when none of the plaintiff's evidence tends to prove contributory negligence. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Johnson [Kan.] 86 P. 156. An instruction that manual delivery of a deed is very strong evidence of delivery. Moss v. Smith, 73 S. C. 231, 53 S. E. 284. Instruction in an action for death in a collision relative to the system of signals and rules in use at the time. Stewart v. Raleigh & A. Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 53 S. E. 877. An instruction that the preponderance of evidence is not necessarily determined by the greater number of witnesses, and that weight must be given to those whom they most believe, is not misleading though one witness was contradicted by two who stood unimpeached. McCowan v. Northeastern Siberian Co., 41 Wash. 675, 84 P. 614. On the question of testamentary capacity. Dillman v. McDanel, 222 Ill. 276, 78 N. E. 591.

23. Instruction on the burden of proof does not involve the character of evidence necessary to discharge such burden and is not bad for failing to state that circumstantial as well as direct evidence may be considered. New Castle Bridge Co. v. Doty [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 557. The test as to what an instruction means is as to what ordinary men and jurors understand it to mean. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. Lowenrosen, 222 Ill. 506, 78 N. E. 813. Instruction that the jury might increase their verdict by the addition of interest is not erroneous for failure to state the rate, as it is presumed the jury understood that the legal rate would prevail. Hardwood Mfg. Co. v. Wooten [Ga.] 54 S. E. 814. Instructions are to be construed as meaning what ordinary men and jurors would take them to mean. Cook v. Smith-Lowe Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 798. In an action on a note to which the defense of forgery was set up, an instruction as to the effect of failure to affix a revenue stamp did not mislead the jury, as they must have understood that such failure did not relate to the issue of validity. Beem v. Farrell [Iowa] 108 N. W. 1044.

24. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Skipper, 125 Ga. 368, 54 S. E. 110.

25. Instruction that the evidenoe shows that intestate was a bright boy of his age

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

Missing Page

evidence and make concrete applications of the law to them.[6] Mere memorandum forming no part of the instruction does not accentuate the memorandum.[7] Giving undue prominence to part of the facts is not reversible error.[8]

§ 11. Definition of terms used.[9]—Technical terms employed in the instructions should be defined.[10] The definition given should be correct.[11] Failure to give such definitions is generally held not reversible error[12] unless requested,[13] or unless prejudice results.[14] Technical words need not be defined if the same used in the instructions as a whole are made definite and intelligible.[15] Where a term is once defined it is not necessary to define it a second time when it is again employed.[16] Terms in common use need not be defined.[17]

87 P. 452. Instruction enumerating certain facts but not telling the jury to make their verdict depend on them held not to give undue prominence where the jury were charged that their verdict must depend on all the evidence introduced. Indianapolis & E. R. Co. v. Bennett [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 389. Instruction in an action against a railway company for backing its train into the train of another company did not give undue prominence to one feature of the case. Baltimore & O. S. R. Co. v. Kleespies [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 1015. Instruction in an action for ejection from a train that if the conductor told the passenger something about getting off, etc., held not objectionable as abstract or singling out a portion of the testimony. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Quinn [Ala.] 39 So. 616. Instruction correctly stating plaintiff's claims without expressing any opinion as to their justice or legality is proper. Richards v. Richman [Del.] 64 A. 238.

3. An instruction must not single out one particular issue where there are several important ones. Jacksonville Elec. Co. v. Adams [Fla.] 39 So. 183.

4. Haines v. Goodlander [Kan.] 84 P. 986.

5. Instruction inviting undue attention to a particular part of the evidence is erroneous. Drake v. Holbrook, 28 Ky. L. R. 1319, 92 S. W. 297.

6. Haines v. Goodlander [Kan.] 84 P. 986.

7. In a charge relative to rules and regulations of a master, the number of two rules were written underneath the charge. De Witt's Adm'r v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ky.] 96 S. W. 1122.

8. Southern R. Co. v. Bradford [Ala.] 40 So. 100.

9. See 6 C. L. 63.

10. Error to fail to define "actual notice" where such failure is likely to be misleading. Ware v. Souders, 120 Ill. App. 209. "Proximate cause" should be defined. Mulderig v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 655, 94 S. W. 801. A special charge is properly refused where it holds plaintiff to the exercise of proper care and caution, without defining what would constitute proper care and caution under the circumstances of the case under consideration. Breuer v. Frank, 3 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 581. Where in an action for injuries to a passenger on a freight train the court instructed as to the risks assumed and used the term "in a proper manner," it was proper to give an instruction explaining the meaning of the expression. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Cruseturner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 997, 98 S. W. 423. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1317, requiring the court to so frame its charge as to distinctly separate the questions of law from the questions of fact, it was held erroneous to fail to define "conversion." Davis v. Hardwick [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 947, 94 S. W. 359.

11. Requested instruction defining "reasonable" as "in a reasonable manner; consistent with reason; in a moderate degree; tolerable," was properly refused. York v. Everton [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 604. It is not erroneous to define "knowingly" in the language of the statute providing for an action against a public officer for knowingly collecting illegal fees. Skeen v. Chambers [Utah] 86 P. 492. Definition of "ordinary care" and "proximate cause" held proper. Roedler v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 109 N. W. 88. Definition of ordinary care of a boy held correct. Anderson v. Chicago Brass Co., 127 Wis. 273, 106 N. W. 1077. Definition of "prepondsrance of evidence" held proper. Dale v. Colfax Consol. Coal Co. [Iowa] 107 N. W. 1096. Instruction on the preponderance of evidence, while inaccurate, held not ground for reversal. Royal Trust Co. v. Overstrom, 120 Ill. App. 479. Erroneous definition of "preponderance of evidence" as the greater number of witnesses held prejudicial error. Heald v. Western Union Tel. Co., 129 Iowa, 326, 105 N. W. 588.

12. Not error to fail to define "flying switch." Lange v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 115 Mo. App. 582, 91 S. W. 989. Omission to define "riot" or "rout" not misleading. Louisville & E. R. Co. v. Vincent [Ky.] 96 S. W. 898. Failure to define "properly assist" as applied to a conductor assisting a passenger to alight held not misleading. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wolf [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 52, 89 S. W. 778.

13. It is error to refuse to define "ordinary or reasonable care" where an issue pertaining thereto is submitted. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Norgate [C. C. A.] 141 F. 247. Failure to define "burden of proof" is not error in the absence of a request. Howard v. Beldenville Lumber Co. [Wis.] 108 N. W. 48.

14. Failure to define "city" so that it would include the city, the speed ordinance of which was alleged to have been violated. Stotler v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [Mo.] 98 S. W. 509. Failure to define "independent contractor" held reversible error. Overhouse v. American Cereal Co., 128 Iowa, 580, 105 N. W. 113.

15. White v. Madison, 16 Okl. 212, 83 P. 798.

16. Where "ordinary" care is once defined, it is not necessary to define it when used in § 12. Rules of evidence; credibility and conflicts.[18]—The credibility[19] of witnesses[20] and the weight to be given their testimony are questions for the jury,[21] but it is proper to instruct that the interest of a witness[22] or his susceptibility of being influenced[23] may be considered, that expert testimony may be considered in the light of common observation and experience[24] to call attention to the means of knowledge of the witnesses,[25] and the relative weight to be given positive and negative testi-connection with another circumstance in a subsequent instruction. Nephler v. Woodward [Mo.] 98 S. W. 488.

17. Not necessary to define negligence in an action for injuries to cattle caused by delay. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. West [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 552, 88 S. W. 426. Not error to fail to define "tenant" and "rented." Pilcher Mfg. Co. v. Teupis' Ex'x [Ky.] 91 S. W. 1125.

18, 19. See 6 C. L. 64.

20. Where on an issue as to whether an insurance agent had knowledge of the ownership of property there is testimony that the true ownership was known by general reputation, it is error to instruct the jury to disregard such testimony though other witnesses have testified that there was no such general reputation. Continental Ins. Co. v. Cummings [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 279, 95 S. W. 48. It is error to charge that testimony concerning verbal statements of others should be received with great caution, that repetition of oral statements is subject to imperfection and should be scanned closely, and that where a witness testifies to what he thinks was the substance of what was said, the weight to be given such testimony depends on the strength of memory and intelligence of the witness. Ellis v. Republic Oil Co. [Iowa] 110 N. W. 20. Where a party's testimony on a former trial differed only in immaterial respects from his testimony on the second trial, and it does not appear that there was a deliberate misstatement made at either trial, an instruction that a deliberate misstatement was an admission that his claim was wrongful was properly refused. Bennett v. Susser, 191 Mass. 329, 77 N. E. 884. Instruction that an interested witness will not be as honest, candid and fair as a disinterested one is error. Muncie, etc., R. Co. v. Ladd [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 790. Instruction that an interested witness will not be as fair, candid, and honest as a disinterested one is not rendered harmless by the fact that the party to the suit was the only interested witness. Id. It is error to instruct that the denunciation of a witness by counsel should not influence the jury to disregard his testimony if unimpeached. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Brien, 219 Ill. 303, 76 N. E. 341.

21. It is error to charge that if two witnesses of equal credibility testify directly opposite to each other the party holding the affirmative has the burden of proof. Holmes v. Horn, 120 Ill. App. 359. Instruction that when witnesses are otherwise credible and their testimony otherwise entitled to equal weight greater weight should be given to those whose means of information are superior invades the province of the jury. Muncie, etc., R. Co. v. Ladd [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 790. An instruction that if the jury believed the testimony of certain lawyers who testified as to their opinion concerning the law of another state they should find accordingly deprives the jury of the right to determine for themselves the weight to be given such testimony. Hancock v. Western Union Tel. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 82. An instruction that where the testimony of witnesses is in all respects entitled to equal weight the verdict should be in harmony with the greater number of witnesses invades the province of the jury. Indianapolis & E. R. Co. v. Bennett [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 389.

22. Instruction that plaintiff in personal injury action is a competent witness, but that his interest may be considered in determining the weight to be given his testimony, and that the jury are the judges of his credibility, is proper. Hancheft v. Haas, 219 Ill. 546, 76 N. E. 845. Where plaintiff in a personal injury action testifies in regard to his injuries in contradiction to other witnesses, the jury should be instructed to consider his interest. Denver City Tramway Co. v. Norton [C. C. A.] 141 F. 599. This rule is not satisfied by a general charge that the jury are the judges of credibility of witnesses. Id. It is proper to charge that a witness' interest may be considered. Henrietta Coal Co. v. Martin, 221 Ill. 460, 77 N. E. 902.

23. It is not an invasion of the province of the jury to instruct them that the testimony of a boy nine years old, who had talked the matter over with his mother, should be given such weight as in their judgment it was worth, where the transaction occurred a year before. Banks v. Connecticut R. & Lighting Co. [Conn.] 64 A. 14.

24. It is not erroneous to instruct to consider expert evidence in the light of common observation and experience. Hayes v. Wagner, 220 Ill. 256, 77 N. E. 211. An instruction that opinions of nonexpert witnesses based on personal knowledge should be given weight according to the knowledge upon which they were based should confine such opinions to such as were based on matters detailed by the witnesses who gave them as basis for their conclusion. In re Jones' Estate, 130 Iowa, 177, 106 N. W. 610. Instructions relative to the consideration of expert testimony held proper. Pritchett v. Moore, 125 Ga. 406, 54 S. E. 131.

It is erroneous to instruct that the jury may apply their observation and experience in life because they can apply only their common observation and experience. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. v. Hutchinson [Ala.] 40 So. 114.

25. Instruction that greater weight is to be given to testimony of witnesses whose means of knowledge are superior and those who testify affirmatively rather than those who testify negatively is not erroneous where all witnesses swore affirmatively.

mony,[26] but it is erroneous to instruct that an unimpeached witness has testified truly.[27] The jury may be instructed to scan admissions[28] and that a deposition is not to be believed any more than if the witness had testified in court.[29] The jury should not be led to disregard any testimony.[30] It is proper to instruct as to what constitutes the preponderance of evidence,[31] but not to charge that the number of witnesses has nothing to do with it.[32] It is error to instruct the jury to reconcile conflicting evidence if possible.[33] It is proper to instruct that it is the duty of the jury to reconcile the evidence of all the witnesses consistently with the truthfulness of all if it could be done reasonably.[34]

Falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus[35] should be given when justified by law,[36] but not unless a witness is shown to have sworn falsely.[37] In charging this doctrine it is proper to use the terms "willfully and corruptly,"[38] "palpably,"[39] and "worthy of no credit whatever."[40] The word "willfully" must be used.[41]

Dillman v. McDanel, 222 Ill. 276, 78 N. E. 591. It is not error to instruct that the jury may consider the special knowledge or want of knowledge of a witness, where they are instructed that they are the sole judges of the weight to be given testimony. Indianapolis Northern Traction Co. v. Dunn [Ind. App.] 76 N. E. 269. Instruction that where witnesses are otherwise equally credible and their testimony entitled to equal weight greater weight should be given to those with superior means of information, and to those who testify affirmatively to a fact rather than to those who testify negatively, invades the province of the jury. Muncie Pulp Co. v. Keesling [Ind.] 76 N. E. 1002. An instruction in condemnation proceedings to disregard testimony of witness on the question of damages if it was not based on stipulations of the railroad company to do certain things not required of it did not invade the province of the jury. Prather v. Chicago Southern R. Co., 221 Ill. 190, 77 N. E. 430.

26. It is not error to instruct that witnesses, otherwise equally credible, who testify negatively, are entitled to less weight than those who testify affirmatively, where it is not shown that they had as good means of knowledge. In re Wharton's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 492. Instruction as to the consideration of the testimony of witnesses held proper. Russell v. Stewart [Ark.] 94 S. W. 47.

27. There is no such presumption and such charge invades the province of the jury. Chicago Union Traction Co. v. O'Brien, 219 Ill. 303, 76 N. E. 341.

28. It is not error to instruct that it is the duty of the jury to scan admissions, but that so scanning them they should be given such weight as the jury believe them entitled to. McBride v. Georgia R. & Elec. Co., 125 Ga. 515, 54 S. E. 674.

29. Johnson County Sav. Bank v. Walker [Conn.] 65 A. 132.

30. The jury should not be misled to believe that good character of a witness is not evidence to be considered by them. Peterman v. Henderson [Ala.] 40 So. 756.

31. Instruction as to what constitutes preponderance of evidence held correct. Quiggle v. Vining, 125 Ga. 98, 54 S. E. 74. Instructions as to burden of proof where the cause of action alleged was admitted, except so far as it might be defeated by facts pleaded, and evidence was admitted to disprove, the defense should go no farther than that admissions relieved the plaintiff of proving his allegations. Walker v. Dickey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 934, 98 S. W. 658. It is not error to tell the jury to return a verdict for a party if they believe his witnesses. Weir v. Union R. Co., 112 App. Div. 109, 98 N. Y. S. 268.

32. Dupuis v. Saginaw Valley Traction Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 767, 109 N. W. 413.

33. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Stubbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 210, 94 S. W. 1083.

34. Parulo v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 145 F. 664.

35. See 6 C. L. 64.

36. "Falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" held proper. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Warring [Colo.] 86 P. 305; United Breweries Co. v. O'Donnell, 221 Ill. 334, 77 N. E. 547; Williamson Iron Co. v. McQueen [Ala.] 40 So. 306.

37. It is error to authorize the jury to disregard the testimony of a witness not shown to have willfully sworn falsely, and in regard to a material matter. Geringer v. Novak, 117 Ill. App. 160.

38. It is not misleading to use "willfully and corruptly" in charging the doctrine of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus. Hancheft v. Haas, 219 Ill. 546, 76 N. E. 845.

39. Where one requests the charge of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus he cannot complain of another instruction that it is only where it is "palpablo" that a witness has intentionally and willfully sworn falsely that his testimony may be wholly disregarded. Chicago City R. Co. v. Shaw, 220 Ill. 532, 77 N. E. 139.

40. Instruction that if the jury should conclude that any witness had willfully sworn falsely in regard to any fact his testimony as to other material facts was "worthy of no credit whatever," that they might disregard it all, properly applied the maxim "falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus." Shupack v. Gordon [Conn.] 64 A. 740.

41. "Willfully" must be used in charging "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus." Bordeaux v. Hartman Furniture & Carpet Co., 115 Mo. App. 556, 91 S. W. 1020.

§ 13. Admonitory and cautionary instructions.[42]—The giving of cautionary instructions rests in the discretion of the court.[43] Courts have a reasonable discretion in urging an agreement,[44] but such discretion should not be abused,[45] nor should the jury be encouraged to disagree[46] or led to believe that a verdict should be returned in favor of one of the parties.[47]

§ 14. Necessity of instructing in writing.[48]—In some states it is required by statute that the instructions be in writing.[49] This rule does not apply to a mandatory direction to return a verdict,[50] nor to additional instructions,[51] nor to a recapitulation of the testimony.[52]

§ 15. Presentation of instructions.[53]—All instructions should be given in open court,[54] but instructions as to the form of verdict and which do not affect the sub-

42. See 6 C. L. 65.

43. Where a cautionary instruction, embodying a number of propositions is asked, it may be refused entirely where the court has properly determined to refuse it upon any one of the propositions enumerated. Springfield Elec. Light & Power Co. v. Mott, 120 Ill. App. 39. Instruction warning the jury not to be influenced by newspaper articles is cautionary and may be refused in the absence of an abuse of discretion. Beyer v. Martin, 120 Ill. App. 50.

44. Trial judges are allowed reasonable discretion in controlling the deliberation of jurors after a cause has been submitted and can refuse to discharge them when they fail to agree, and it is not error to urge them to endeavor to agree. Scarlotta v. Ash, 95 Minn. 240, 103 N. W. 1025.

45. A statement to a jury who have reported to the court they could not agree that it is necessary "for all of you, or some of you, to make concessions, I hope you will go out now with a view of getting a verdict," is improper. O'Neal v. Richardson [Ark.] 92 S. W. 1117. It is error to instruct that the amount involved is small and the case has already cost the county more than was involved to either of the litigants, and it was the desire of the court that the jury decide the case if they could do so without giving up their honest convictions. Little Rock R. & Elec. Co. v. Newman [Ark.] 92 S. W. 864. Instructions on sending a jury back to try and agree, as to their duty to reach a verdict, held erroneous Texas Midland R. Co. v. Byrd [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 401, 90 S. W. 185.

It is not error to refuse to instruct that it is the duty of the jury to find a verdict from the evidence under the instructions; that all instructions have application to the facts in controversy; that instructions must not be disregarded nor find a verdict by chance, nor consent to one which does not meet the approval of his conscience, etc. Springfield Consol. R. Co. v. Farrant, 121 Ill. App. 416. Instruction that the jury have no right to compromise their verdict; * * * that they must not reach a verdict by lot or chance; and no juror should consent to a verdict which does not meet with the approval of his conscience after deliberation with his fellow jurors, is properly refused. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Kirkland, 120 Ill. App. 272.

46. A clause "no juror should consent to a verdict which does not meet with the approval of his own judgment and conscience after due deliberation with his fellow jurors, and after considering all the evidence and law as given in the instructions," is properly stricken as tending to encourage disagreement. City of Evanston v. Richards, 224 Ill. 444, 79 N. E. 673.

