CYCLOPEDIA

OF

LAW AND PROCEDURE

WILLIAM MACK, LL.D.
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

VOLUME XXXIII

NEW YORK
THE AMERICAN LAW BOOK COMPANY
LONDON: BUTTERWORTH & CO., 12 BELL YARD
1909

J. B. LYON COMPANY
PRINTERS AND BINDERS
ALBANY, N. Y.

To

CHARLES WALTER DUMONT

more than to any other man is due the existence of the Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure. His was the idea; his was the plan; and his has been the business ability and energetic management, as organizer and president of The American Law Book Company, which have made possible the successful publication of these volumes, which are therefore respectfully dedicated to him.

William Mack.

TABLE OF TITLES, EDITORS, AND CONTRIBUTORS

CITE THIS VOLUME

33 Cyc.

FOLLOWED BY PAGE.

RAILROADS

By James A. Gwyn * and Henry H. Skyles †

* Author of "Escheat," 16 Cyc. 537; "Estates," 16 Cyc. 595; "Ferries," 19 Cyc. 491; "Juries," 24 Cyc. 82. Joint author of "Easements," 14 Cyc. 1134; "Forcible Entry and Detainer," 19 Cyc. 1108.

† Author of "Fires," 19 Cyc. 977; "Fish and Game," 19 Cyc. 986; "Fornication," 19 Cyc. 1433; "Improvements," 22 Cyc. 1; "Informations in Civil Cases," 22 Cyc. 716; "Joint Tenancy," 23 Cyc. 482; "Liens," 25 Cyc. 655. Joint author of "Gaming," 20 Cyc. 873; and of a treatise on the "Law of Agency."

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Matters Relating to:
Condemnation Proceedings, see EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 543.
Constitutionality of Legislation Affecting Railroads, see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 695.
Corporation generally, see CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1.
Interstate Commerce, see COMMERCE, 7 Cyc. 407.
Railroad Company:
As Common Carrier, see CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 352.
As Employer, see MASTER AND SERVANT, 26 Cyc. 941.
Street Railroad see STREET RAILROADS.
Taxation of Railroad in General, see TAXATION.

I. DEFINITION, NATURE, AND REGULATION.*

A. Definition and Nature — 1. DEFINITION — a. Of Railroad.[1] A railroad has been defined as a road specially laid out and graded, having parallel rails of iron or steel for the wheels of carriages or cars, drawn by steam or other motive power, to run upon.[2] The terms "railroad" and "railway" are used interchange-

1. Lateral or branch roads see infra, IV, B, 2, b.
Street railroads see STREET RAILROADS.

2. Rapalje & L. L. Dict. [quoted in Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Tamplin, 156 Ill. 285, 294, 40 N. E. 960].
Other definitions are: "A graded road or way on which rails of iron or steel are laid for the wheels of cars to run upon, carrying heavy loads, usually propelled by steam." Funk v. St. Paul City R. Co., 61 Minn. 435, 437, 63 N. W. 1099, 52 Am. St. Rep. 608, 29 L. R. A. 208.
"A road graded and having rails of iron or other material for the wheels of railroad cars to run upon." Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in State v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 208 Mo. 622, 641].
"A road or way on which iron rails are laid for wheels to run on, for the conveyance of heavy loads in vehicles." Webster Dict. [quoted in Dinsmore v. Racine, etc., R. Co., 12 Wis. 649, 657].
"A way upon which trains pass by means of rails." Doughty v. Firbank, 10 Q. B. D. 358, 359, 48 J. P. 55, 52 L. J. Q. B. 480, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 530.
"The legal signification of the term 'railroad' is not only a road or way on which iron rails are laid, but a road as incident to the possession or ownership of which important franchises and rights affecting the

* By James A. Gwyn.

ably and are ordinarily regarded as synonymous,[3] unless the connection in which they are used shows that a distinction as to the character of the road is intended,[4] although more commonly the term "railroad" is used with reference to ordinary commercial railroads, and the word "railway" in connection with the word "street" to designate street railways.[5] The term "railroad" has no definite and precise signification either as to the character of the road,[6] or the width, character, or amount of the structure, land, or property included.[7] This must be determined from the connection in which the term is used,[8] the proper construction, purpose, and intention of the statute,[9] or of the contract, instrument, or conveyance in which it appears.[10] The term "railroad" is broad enough to include street railroads,[11] and may, or may not, according to the purpose and intention of the statutes;[12] but standing alone it usually refers to ordinary commercial railroads public are attached." Gibbs v. Drew, 16 Fla. 147, 149, 26 Am. Rep. 700.

3. Georgia.— Davis v. State, 105 Ga. 808, 23 S. E. 158.

Minnesota.— State v. Brin, 30 Minn. 522, 16 N. W. 406.

Pennsylvania.— Old Colony Trust Co. v. Allentown, etc., Rapid Transit Co., 192 Pa. St. 596, 44 Atl. 319; Millevale Borough v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369; Hestonville, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 89 Pa. St. 210.

Texas.— Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Weaver, (Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 846.

United States.— Massachusetts L. & T. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

The terms are treated as synonymous in the application of statutes referring in terms to the one or the other (Millevale Borough v. Evergreen R. Co., 121 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369; Hestonville, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 89 Pa. St. 210) and as affecting questions of variance between pleadings and proof (Davis v. State, 105 Ga. 808, 32 S. E. 158; State v. Brin, 30 Minn. 522, 16 N. W. 406) or between a summons and complaint (Central, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 68 Tex. 49, 3 S. W. 457; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Donahue, 56 Tex. 166).

A distinction which has been suggested as proper and useful is that "the word railroad . . . should be confined to the highway in which the railway is laid, and the word railway to the rails when laid," but the court also said that "we all know, however, that in common parlance these words are used interchangeably." Munkers v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 334, 338.

4. Gyger v. Philadelphia City R. Co., 136 Pa. St. 96, 20 Atl. 339.

5. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville City R. Co., 2 Duv. (Ky.) 175; Scott v. Farmers, etc., Bank, 97 Tex. 31, 75 S. W. 7, 104 Am. St. Rep. 835.

6. Bloxham v. Consumers' Electric Light, etc., Co., 36 Fla. 519, 18 So. 444, 51 Am. St. Rep. 44, 29 L. R. A. 507; Riggs v. St. Francois County R. Co., 120 Mo. App. 335, 96 S. W. 707; Massachusetts L. & T. R. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

"The term 'railroad,' as employed in our general legislation, relates to institutions of a quasi-public character; to highways or roads constructed by the authority of the state, with fixed metallic rails upon which public carriers may propel their carriages or cars speedily in the transportation of passengers and freight. Any way or road having these characteristics is a railroad. It is the mode of construction and chartered use, and not the motive power that determines the character of a railroad." McCleary v. Babcock, 169 Ind. 228, 235, 82 N. E. 453.

7. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Postal Tel. Co., 173 Ill. 508, 51 N. E. 382; Lake Superior, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 93 U. S. 442, 23 L. ed. 965.

8. Bloxham v. Consumers' Electric Light, etc., Co., 36 Fla. 519, 18 So. 444, 51 Am. St. Rep. 44, 29 L. R. A. 507; Riggs v. St. Francois County R. Co., 120 Mo. App. 335, 96 S. W. 707.

9. Bloxham v. Consumers' Electric Light, etc., Co., 36 Fla. 519, 18 So. 444, 51 Am. St. Rep. 44, 29 L. R. A. 507; Holland v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 144 Mass. 425, 11 N. E. 674; Funk v. St. Paul City R. Co., 61 Minn. 435, 63 N. W. 1099, 52 Am. St. Rep. 608, 29 L. R. A. 208; Massachusetts L. & T. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

10. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Tamplin, 156 Ill. 285, 40 N. E. 960; Munkers v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 334.

11. Bloxham v. Consumers' Electric Light, etc., Co., 36 Fla. 519, 18 So. 444, 51 Am. St. Rep. 44, 29 L. R. A. 507; Shreveport Traction Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 119 La. 759, 44 So. 457; Massachusetts L. & T. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

12. Bloxham v. Consumers' Electric Light, etc., Co., 36 Fla. 519, 18 So. 444, 51 Am. St. Rep. 44, 29 L. R. A. 507; Holland v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 144 Mass. 425, 11 N. E. 674; Funk v. St. Paul City R. Co., 61 Minn. 435, 63 N. W. 1099, 52 Am. St. Rep. 608, 24 L. R. A. 208; Massachusetts L. & T. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

In Pennsylvania it is held that either the word "railroad" or the word "railway" which are used interchangeably and regarded as synonymous will be held to apply to both steam railroads and street railroads unless there appears from the title of the act its purpose or context, something to indicate that a particular kind of road is intended. Philadelphia v. Philadelphia Traction Co., 206 Pa. St. 35, 55 Atl. 762.

for the transportation of both freight and passengers,[13] which in their main purposes and functions are essentially different from street railroads,[14] and it is the former class only to which this article applies.[15] Whether a road is properly a railroad does not depend entirely upon its length;[16] its location, course, or direction;[17] the kind of motive power used;[18] its position with reference to the surface of the ground;[19] the character of its traffic;[20] or whether it is owned by a railroad company.[21] The term "railroad" may be so used as to mean the completed road ready for use as distinguished from a merely graded roadway or partly constructed railroad,[22] or from a franchise to construct a railroad.[23] The term may also be used to designate merely the track or road-bed upon which the rails are laid;[24] or it may include the entire right of way;[25] or it may refer merely to the road-bed or right of way with its superstructure exclusive of rolling stock and other property;[26] or it may include various kinds of property both real and personal,[27] and so may 13. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville City R. Co., 2 Duv. (Ky.) 175; State v. Duluth Gas, etc., Co., 76 Minn. 96, 78 N. W. 1032, 57 L. R. A. 63; Funk v. St. Paul City R. Co., 61 Minn. 435, 63 N. W. 1099, 52 Am. St. Rep. 608, 29 L. R. A. 208; Scott v. Farmers, etc., Bank, 97 Tex. 31, 75 S. W. 7, 104 Am. St. Rep. 835; Massachusetts L. & T. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

14. State v. Duluth Gas, etc., Co., 76 Minn. 96, 78 N. W. 1032, 57 L. R. A. 63.

The distinction between ordinary commercial railroads and street railroads is clearly defined in following cases: Bloxham v. Consumers' Electric Light, etc., Co., 36 Fla. 519, 18 So. 444, 51 Am. St. Rep. 44, 29 L. R. A. 507; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville City R. Co., 2 Duv. (Ky.) 175; Massachusetts L. & T. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

It is difficult in some cases, owing to the fact that street railway companies have been gradually extending the sphere and character of their operations, to determine in what class a particular road belongs, but it does not obliterate the inherent difference between the main purposes and functions of the two classes. State v. Duluth Gas, etc., Co., 76 Minn. 96, 78 N. W. 1032, 57 L. R. A. 63.

15. Street railroads see STREET RAILROADS.

16. Georgia.— Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909.

Kansas.— State v. Martin, 51 Kan. 462, 33 Pac. 9.

Minnesota.— State v. Eleventh Judicial Dist. Ct., 54 Minn. 34, 55 N. W. 816.

Missouri.—State v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 208 Mo. 622, 106 S. W. 1005.

New Jersey.— National Docks, etc., R. Co. v. State, 53 N. J. L. 217, 21 Atl. 570, 26 Am. St. Rep. 421.

Pennsylvania.—Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 212 Pa. St. 105, 61 Atl. 881.

17. Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. 909; Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

18. McCleary v. Babcock, 169 Ind. 228, 82 N. E. 453; Massachusetts L. & T. Co. v. Hamilton, 88 Fed. 588, 32 C. C. A. 46.

19. Lieberman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. 141 Ill. 140, 30 N. E. 544; Beekman v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 Hun (N. Y.) 14, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 84; Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 212 Pa. St. 105, 61 Atl. 881.

20. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155, holding that if required to do a general railroad business both as to freight and passengers, the fact that the principal part of the business of the road will be the transfer of loaded and empty cars from one railroad to another, and that passengers may rarely if ever pass over the line, does not deprive it of its character as a railroad.

21. State v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 208 Mo. 622, 106 S. W. 1005; Doughty v. Firhank, 10 Q. B. D. 358, 48 J. P. 55, 52 L. J. Q. B. 480, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 530.

22. Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 86 N. Y. 107; Manice v. Hudson River R. Co., 3 Duer (N. Y.) 426; Miller v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 36 Vt. 452.

23. Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. (Pa.) 94.

24. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Tamplin, 156 Ill. 285, 40 N. E. 960; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, 127 Ind. 156, 26 N. E. 759.

25. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Postal Tel. Co., 173 Ill. 508, 51 N. E. 382; Com. v. Haverhill, 7 Allen (Mass.) 523; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Anthony, 1 Lea (Tenn.) 516; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Cook, 98 Fed. 281, 39 C. C. A. 86.

26. Beardsley v. Ontario Bank, 31 Barb. (N. Y.) 619; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 93 U. S. 442, 23 L. ed. 965.

A grant by the government of land in aid of a railroad providing that "said railroad shall be, and remain, a public highway for the use of the government of the United States, free from all toll or other charge, for the transportation of any property or troops of the United States" grants to the government only a free use of the track and not of the company's engines, cars, and equipment, and does not entitle the government to require the company to transport its troops or property without charge for the transportation. Lake Superior, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 93 U. S. 442, 23 L. ed. 965.

27. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 67 Kan. 569, 70 Pac. 939, 73 Pac. 899; Knevals v. Flor'da Cent., etc., R. Co., 66 Fed. 224, 13 C. C. A. 410; Chamberlain v. Walter, 60 Fed. 788.

include all the lands, depots, shops, buildings, structures, and appurtenances incidental to the operation of the road and the transaction of the business of the company.[28] The term "railroad" is also sometimes used as meaning railroad company,[29] but properly speaking there is a clear distinction between the terms "railroad" and "railroad company."[30]

b. Of Railroad Company. A railroad company has been defined as the corporation which lays out, constructs, maintains, or operates a railroad operated by steam power,[31] although the term "railroad company" does not necessarily import a corporation,[32] or that its road shall be operated by steam as a motive power,[33] nor is it essential to the idea of a railroad company that it should both construct and operate a railroad,[34] or that it should own rolling stock.[35] The determination as to whether a particular company is to be regarded as a railroad company or within the application of statutes relating in terms to such companies should be governed chiefly by the fact of engaging in the railroad business,[36] and not by the name of the company,[37] or the primary purpose for which it was incor-

"In common parlance, a railway consists of 'the road' and 'the rolling stock.' The former includes everything that is immovable or affixed to the soil,— such as station-houses, round-houses, platforms, water-tanks and machine-shops." U. S. v. Chaplin, 31 Fed. 890, 895, 12 Sawy. 605.

28. Connecticut.—State v. Railroad Com'rs, 56 Conn. 308, 15 Atl. 756.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 67 Kan. 569, 70 Pac. 939, 73 Pac. 899.

Maine.— State v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 100 Me. 202, 60 Atl. 901.

New Mexico.— U. S. Trust Co. v. Territory, 8 N. M. 673, 47 Pac. 725.

United States.— U. S. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 151 U. S. 1, 14 S. Ct. 11, 37 L. ed. 975; Rock Creek Tp. v. Strong, 96 U. S. 271, 24 L. ed. 815; U. S. v. Chaplin, 31 Fed. 890, 12 Sawy. 605.

Property not included.— Dwelling-houses and lots for the accommodation of the employees of the railroad company are not necessary appendages of a railroad or of a transportation business, and do not fall within an exemption from taxation. State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

The phrase "road with its appendages" has been held, under a statute relating to taxation, to mean simply the road and such appendages as depots, car-houses, shops, and other realty, and not to include the equipment, cars, engines, and other personal property. State Treasurer v. Somerville, etc., R. Co., 28 N. J. L. 21.

29. Calhoun v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,309, 2 Flipp. 442, 8 Reporter 395.

30. International, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson County, 59 Tex. 654, 664, where the court said: "The words 'railroad company' do not mean the same thing as the word 'railroad.' The former may exist without the latter, and even the latter without the former. The one applies to the agency which may construct or own; the other to the thing constructed or owned."

Under the Arkansas statute providing that "All railroads . . . shall be responsible for all damages to persons and property done or caused by the running of trains," the word "railroads" does not mean railroad companies, but the roads owned or operated by them, and a judgment against the lessee of a railroad may be enforced by seizure and sale of the leased road. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Daniels, 68 Ark. 171, 56 S. W. 874.

Railroad company defined see infra, I, A, 1, b.

31. Holland v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 144 Mass. 425, 427, 11 N. E. 674.

Other definitions are: "A railroad corporation is an artificial person, created by positive law, and invested with franchises involving specific powers and privileges, conferring some of the attributes of sovereignty, to be exercised primarily for the benefits and advantages of the public." Bradley v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 78 Fed. 387, 389.

The term "railroad company" "applies to the agency which may construct or own" a railroad. International, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson County, 59 Tex. 654, 664.

32. State v. Mead, 27 Vt. 722.

In their popular sense the words "railroad corporations" are used "as denoting any party engaged in the operation of railroads." Union Pac. R. Co. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 304, 20 Pac. 752, 13 Am. St. Rep. 221, 3 L. R. A. 350.

33. Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 36, 62 Atl. 109, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 138; Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 212 Pa. St. 105, 61 Atl. 881.

Motive power see, generally, infra, VI, L.

34. Davenport First Nat. Bank v. Davies, 43 Iowa 424, 433, where the court said: "That there can be a railroad company which does nothing but construct the road, and a railroad company which does nothing but operate the constructed road, cannot be doubted. It is not essential to the idea of a railroad company that it should both construct and operate a railway."

35. State v. Wiggins Ferry, Co., 208 Mo. 622, 106 S. W. 1005.

36. Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909; Union Trust Co. v. Kendall, 20 Kan. 515.

37. Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127

porated,[38] or the right or title by which the property is held,[39] and as used in a statute relating to taxation the terms "railroad company" or "railroad corporation" should be construed as designating the character of the property rather than of its ownership.[40] So certain statutes applicable in terms to railroad companies or railroad corporations have been held to apply to a receiver operating a railroad,[41] or a mortgagee or trustee under a mortgage in possession,[42] or to a trust company operating a road for the benefit of bondholders.[43] A company authorized to construct and operate a railroad for the transportation of persons and property is none the less a railroad company because also authorized to conduct some other business, as that of a coal, mining, or manufacturing company;[44] and, although incorporated primarily for some other purpose, if it is also authorized to and does construct and operate a railroad, not only for the transportation of its own product but as a public railway for the conveyance of freight and passengers, it is a railroad company;[45] but a company incorporated as a lumber company, with authority to construct tram roads or railroads and operate locomotives thereon in connection with and for the purposes of its own business, and without any authority to conduct a transportation business for the public generally, is not a railroad company,[46] nor is a union depot company a railroad company.[47]

2. Nature and Status — a. Of Railroad. Railroads may properly be termed public highways,[48] whether constructed by the government itself or by the agency of corporations or individuals under legislative authority,[49] and in some jurisdic-

Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909, where the court said that if it were a question of doubt as to what was the real character of a corporation, its name might be considered as having some evidential bearing upon the question, but that the fact that a company is called a "terminal company" cannot change its character if it is a railroad company within the meaning of the law.

38. Union Trust Co. v. Kendall, 20 Kan. 515; Kentucky Imp. Co. v. Slack, 100 U. S. 648, 25 L. ed. 609.

39. Union Trust Co. v. Kendall, 20 Kan. 515.

40. Dubuque v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 196; State v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 208 Mo. 622, 106 S. W. 1005.

41. Wall v. Platt, 169 Mass. 398, 48 N. E. 270, holding that a receiver is within the application of a statute making "every railroad corporation" liable for damages by fire communicated by its locomotives.

Penal statutes are strictly construed, and the term "railway company" as used in a statute prescribing a penalty for discrimination in freight rates by railroad companies does not include a receiver operating a railroad. Bonner v. Franklin Co-operative Assoc., 4 Tex. Civ. App. 166, 23 S. W. 317.

42. Daniels v. Hart, 118 Mass. 543, holding that a trustee under a mortgage who is in possession and operating a railroad is within the application of the statute making every "railroad corporation" liable for damages by fire communicated by locomotives.

43. Union Trust Co. v. Kendall, 20 Kan. 515, holding that such trust company is within the application of a statute making "every railway company or corporation" liable for injuries to stock.

44. Randolph County v. Post, 93 U. S. 502, 23 L. ed. 957.

45. Kentucky Imp. Co. v. Slack, 100 U. S. 648, 25 L. ed. 609, holding that such a company is a railroad company within the application of a statute relating to taxation.

46. Ellington v. Beaver Dam Lumber Co., 93 Ga. 53, 19 S. E. 21, holding further that at least in so far as its own employees are concerned this fact is not altered because on some occasions the company did transport passengers and freight for hire.

47. People v. Cheeseman, 7 Colo. 376, 3 Pac. 716, holding that a corporation organized for the purpose of building and maintaining a union depot for railroads in a certain city and constructing such lines of railroad within the city limits as may be necessary for the accommodation and use of railroads making such city a point for the delivery of freight and passengers is not an ordinary railroad company.

48. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109; White River Turnpike Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 21 Vt. 590; Cherokee Nation v. Southern Kansas R. Co., 135 U. S. 641, 10 S. Ct. 965, 34 L. ed. 295; Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678, 21 L. ed. 382.

A railroad constructed and used for private purposes exclusively would not be a public highway even in the sense that the term is applied to railroad companies (see Murch v. Concord R. Corp., 29 N. H. 9, 61 Am. Dec. 631); and a constitutional provision that railroads are hereby declared to be public highways and shall be free to all persons for the transportation of their persons and property under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, does not apply to a private switch from a railroad to coal lands not owned by the railroad company and for the private use of the owner of such lands (Koelle v. Knecht, 99 Ill. 396).

49. Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678, 21 L. ed. 382.

tions are expressly declared to be such by constitutional or charter provisions.[50] A railroad is not, however, a highway in the same sense as a wagon road,[51] and is not a thoroughfare which may be used by pedestrians,[52] nor is it a highway in the sense that the public may use upon it their own vehicles, cars, or motive power as upon a turnpike or canal,[53] although this seems to have been the early conception of the character of a railroad;[54] but as to their purpose, which is the transportation of persons and property for the general public, they are distinctly highways,[55] and they are none the less such because tolls or fares are charged for transportation,[56] or because the public may not use upon them their own cars or motive power.[57]

b. Of Railroad Company. Railroad companies as to their exact status have been said to be in a class by themselves,[58] being neither strictly private nor strictly public corporations.[59] They are, technically speaking, private corporations,[60] as distinguished from municipal or other strictly public corporations,[61] while on the other hand they are essentially different from strictly private corporations,[62] and,

50. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Pence, 68 Ill. 524; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Louisiana Western R. Co., 116 La. 178, 40 So. 627, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 512; Hyde v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 110 Mo. 272, 19 S. W. 483; McLucas v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 67 Nebr. 603, 93 N. W. 928, 97 N. W. 312.

Tracks included.—A constitutional provision declaring all railroads to be public highways and all railroad companies common carriers applies not only to the main tracks but all subsidiary tracks used for the purposes of railroad traffic. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Louisiana Western R. Co., 116 La. 178, 40 So. 627, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 512.

51. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Pence, 68 Ill. 524.

Railroads are not common highways in the sense that they are under the control and management of municipalities (Sun Printing, etc., Assoc. v. New York, 152 N. Y. 257, 46 N. E. 499, 37 L. R. A. 788 [affirming 8 N. Y. App. Div. 230, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 607]); and a railroad track is not a public highway within the application of a statute making it a misdemeanor to use abusive, insulting, or vulgar language "upon the public highway" (Comer v. State, 62 Ala. 320).

52. Hyde v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 110 Mo. 272, 19 S. W. 483.

53. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Pence, 68 Ill. 524; Beekman v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 3 Paige (N. Y.) 45, 22 Am. Dec. 679.

54. See Western New York, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 193 Pa. St. 127, 44 Atl. 242; Camblos v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Brewst. (Pa.) 563; Thorne v. Taw Vale R., etc., Co., 13 Beav. 10, 51 Eng. Reprint 4.

In Pennsylvania the act of 1834 authorized individuals to place their own cars upon the Columbia and Philadelphia railroad and attach them to the motive power belonging to the state for transportation (Miller v. Canal Com'rs, 21 Pa. St. 23); Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Canal Com'rs, 21 Pa. St. 9); and under the charter of the Pennsylvania railroad company, Pa. Laws (1846), the road was made a public highway which might be used by persons owning their own cars, the company furnishing the motive power (Trunick v. Smith, 63 Pa. St. 18); and in a recent case it is said that the statutes show "the survival as late as 1849 of the primitive conception of a railroad as simply an improved highway," such as a toll-road on which persons might use their own carriages, subject to the payment of toll and getting their motive power from the company (see Western New York, etc., Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 193 Pa. St. 127, 142, 44 Atl. 242).

55. Sun Printing, etc., Assoc. v. New York, 152 N. Y. 257, 46 N. E. 499, 37 L. R. A. 788 [affirming 8 N. Y. App. Div. 230, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 607]; Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678, 21 L. ed. 382.

56. Sun Printing, etc., Assoc. v. New York, 152 N. Y. 257, 46 N. E. 499, 37 L. R. A. 788 [affirming 8 N. Y. App. Div. 230, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 607].

57. Beekman v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 3 Paige (N. Y.) 45, 22 Am. Dec. 679; Olcott v. Fond du Lac County, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 678, 21 L. ed. 382.

58. Talcott v. Pine Grove Tp., 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,735, 1 Flipp. 120 [affirmed in 19 Wall. 666, 22 L. ed. 227].

59. Leavenworth County Com'rs v. Miller, 7 Kan. 479, 12 Am. Rep. 425; Swan v. Williams, 2 Mich. 427.

60. Illinois.— Wabash River v. Houston, 71 Ill. 318.

Massachusetts.—Hale v. Hampshire County Com'rs, 137 Mass. 111.

New York.— Waterloo Presb. Soc. v. Auburn, etc., R. Co., 3 Hill 567.

Pennsylvania.— Pierce v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 150; Timlow v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 99 Pa. St. 284; Lippincott v. Mine Hill, etc., R. Co., 2 Leg. Chron. 337.

United States.— Adams v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 1 Fed. Cas. No. 47, Holmes 30, 4 Nat. Bankr. Reg. 314.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 4.

61. Wabash River v. Houston, 71 Ill. 318; Leavenworth County Com'rs v. Miller, 7 Kan. 479, 12 Am. Rep. 425.

62. Leavenworth County Com'rs v. Miller, 7 Kan. 479, 12 Am. Rep. 425; Swan v. Williams, 2 Mich. 427; Talcott v. Pine Grove Tp., 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,735, 1 Flipp. 120 [affirmed in 19 Wall. 666, 22 L. ed. 227].

owing to the character of their functions, the powers with which they are invested, and the duties which they owe to the public,[63] they are usually termed quasi-public corporations.[64]

B. Right to Construct and Operate Railroad — 1. In General. The right to construct, maintain, and operate a railroad and receive tolls or fare for the transportation of freight and passengers is a franchise which can be exercised only by legislative authority;[65] but while, as a matter of common knowledge, practically all railroads are now operated through the agency of corporations,[66] they need not necessarily be so operated but the right may be conferred upon individuals,[67] or unincorporated associations of individuals,[68] or in the absence of any constitutional restriction the right may be conferred upon a municipal corporation.[69] The unauthorized construction of a railroad may be enjoined by a company having a legal right to construct a railroad upon the same location,[70] or another railroad company or property-owner who will be injured thereby.[71]

2. Determination as to Necessity For Road. In some jurisdictions it is required

The object of undertaking these enterprises is probably always the private emolument of the incorporators, but it is none the less true that the object of the government in creating them is public utility, and it is the object designed by the legislature rather than that sought by the company which determines the character of the corporation. Swan v. Williams, 2 Mich. 427.

63. Stewart v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 17 Minn. 372; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Fed. 993, 9 C. C. A. 659.

64. Leavenworth County Com'rs v. Miller, 7 Kan. 479, 12 Am. Rep. 425; Stewart v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 17 Minn. 372; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Fed. 993, 9 C. C. A. 659; McCoy v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 13 Fed. 3; Talcott v. Pine Grove Tp., 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,755, 1 Flipp. 120 [affirmed in 19 Wall. 666, 22 L. ed. 227].

It has been said to be a misnomer to attach even the name "quasi-public corporation" to a railroad company, since while its road may be called a quasi-public highway the company itself is a private corporation and nothing more. Pierce v. Com., 104 Pa. St. 150.

65. Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am. Rep. 345; New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [reversed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755]; Talcott v. Pine Grove Tp., 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,735, 1 Flipp. 120 [affirmed in 19 Wall. 666, 22 L. ed. 227].

Ownership of right of way.— It has been stated that while legislative authority is necessary in order to condemn private property for railroad purposes, yet if a private person owned or could procure without condemnation proceedings the land necessary, he might, without legislative authority, construct and operate a railroad and receive compensation or tolls for its use. See Moran v. Ross, 79 Cal. 159, 21 Pac. 547; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 95 Ill. 571.

A land and mining company authorized to hold land and mine the same and to construct a railroad or railroads from any of its land to connect with any railroad or navigable stream, cannot build a railroad independent of its own lands for the mere accommodation of the public and for the pecuniary profit arising from general travel. Warren, etc., R. Co. v. Clarion Land, etc., Co., 54 Pa. St. 28.

Opening line for traffic.— The English statute of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 55, provided that a railroad company could not open a line of railway or a portion thereof without notice to the board of trade so that it might be duly inspected (Atty.-Gen. v. Great Western R. Co., L. R. 7 Ch. 767); and the board was authorized to order the opening for traffic to be postponed upon a report by its officers or inspectors that an opening of the line would be dangerous to the public by reason of the incompleteness of the work (Atty.-Gen. v. Great Western R. Co., 4 Ch. D. 735, 46 L. J. Ch. 192, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 921, 25 Wkly. Rep. 330); and the violation of such an order would be restrained by injunction at the suit of the attorney-general without reference to the facts upon which the order was based (Atty.-Gen. v. Oxford, etc., R. Co., 2 Wkly. Rep. 330).

66. See Union Pac. R. Co. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 20 Pac. 752, 13 Am. St. Rep. 221, 3 L. R. A. 350.

67. Moran v. Ross, 79 Cal. 159, 21 Pac. 547; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Forty-Second St., etc., R. Co., 50 Barb. (N. Y.) 309, 32 How. Pr. 481. See also Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am. Rep. 345.

The power to exercise the right of eminent domain may be conferred by the state upon private individuals (see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 575), provided the road for which the land is to be condemned is not for private use (see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 591).

68. Moran v. Ross, 79 Cal. 159, 21 Pac. 547.

69. Sun Printing, etc., Assoc. v. New York, 152 N. Y. 257, 46 N. E. 499, 37 L. R. A. 788 [affirming 8 N. Y. App. Div. 230, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 607]; Walker v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 21 Ohio St. 14, 8 Am. Rep. 24.

70. Warren, etc., R. Co. v. Clarion Land, etc., Co., 54 Pa. St. 28.

71. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [reversed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755].

as a condition precedent to the exercise of the powers conferred upon railroad companies and the beginning of the construction of the road that it shall be determined by some tribunal designated for that purpose, whether the public convenience and necessity require the construction of the road proposed.[72] In New York this decision is made by the board of railroad commissioners,[73] and upon such application it is the duty of the commissioners to inquire into the prior proceedings to ascertain and determine whether the company is of a character such as the law recognizes and to which it is required that the certificate should be granted, and if it is not the certificate should be refused.[74] The commissioners are not to determine merely whether the public convenience and necessity require any railroad between the points in question, but are to make their decision with reference to the specific road proposed in the articles of incorporation;[75] and while the statute authorizes a finding that only a part of the proposed road is necessary, and the issuing of a certificate for the construction of that part,[76] the decision must be made with reference to the particular route proposed, and the commissioners cannot issue a certificate on condition that the road shall be constructed upon a different route;[77] and if on the hearing the company asks for permission to construct upon a route different from that proposed in the articles of incorporation, the certificate should be denied.[78] Priority of organization does not give a particular company any right to such certificate as against another company desiring to construct a road between the same points;[79] and where rival companies make application at the same time the commissioners have jurisdiction to decide whether a certificate shall be issued to both or only to one, and if only to one, to which one.[80] Whether the public convenience and necessity requires the construction of the proposed road is a question of fact depending upon a great variety of facts and circumstances;[81] but if such necessity is shown 72. Milford, etc., R. Co.'s Petition, 68 N. H. 570, 36 Atl. 545; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 160 N. Y. 202, 54 N. E. 697 [affirming 40 N. Y. App. Div. 559, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 94]; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 126, 87 N. Y. Suppl. 334; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 259, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 528, 861.

The object of the requirement is to restrict the building of railroads not actually needed in order to protect not only existing railroads but also citizens from investing in alluring but profitless enterprises. Matter of Amsterdam, etc., R. Co., 86 Hun (N. Y.) 578, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 1009.

In New Hampshire the decision is made by the board of railroad commissioners or by three referees appointed by the court, and the provision that they shall "find and report the facts bearing upon the petition" contemplates that they shall find whether the public good requires the proposed road and not merely evidential facts from which the court can determine that question. Milford, etc., R. Co.'s Petition, 68 N. H. 570, 36 Atl. 545.

The refusal of the legislature to grant a charter for a railroad on the ground that the public good did not require it does not bar the applicants from petitioning for a determination of that question, under N. H. Pub. St. c. 156. Milford, etc., R. Co.'s Petition, 68 N. H. 347, 44 Atl. 483.

73. See People v. Railroad Com'rs, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 126, 87 N. Y. Suppl. 334; and cases cited supra, note 72.

74. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 105 N. Y. App. Div. 273, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 584 (where the certificate of incorporation was invalid because not properly acknowledged); Matter of Kings, etc., R. Co., 6 N. Y. App. Div. 241, 39 N. Y. Suppl. 1004 (where the incorporation was invalid because ten per cent of the capital stock had not been paid in in cash as required by law).

Publication of articles of association.— Where the articles of association of a railroad company were published in the counties in which the proposed road extended for three weeks before any hearing was had upon an application to the railroad commissioners for a certificate of public necessity, such publication was sufficient. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 101 N. Y. App. Div. 251, 91 N. Y. Suppl. 977 [affirmed in 184 N. Y. 563, 76 N. E. 110].

75. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 259, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 528, 861.

76. See People v. Railroad Com'rs, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 126, 87 N. Y. Suppl. 334.

77. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 126, 87 N. Y. Suppl. 334.

78. Matter of Ticonderoga Union Terminal R. Co., 116 N. Y. App. Div. 56, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 107.

79. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 81 N. Y. App. Div. 237, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 26 [affirmed in 176 N. Y. 577, 68 N. E. 1123]; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 259, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 528, 861; Matter of Depew, etc., R. Co., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 406, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 991.

80. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 4 N. Y. App. Div. 259, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 528, 861.

81. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 81 N. Y.

a certificate should not be denied because of a doubt as to whether the road would be a paying one,[82] nor is the fact that there is already adequate provision for through traffic sufficient reason for denying such certificate to another company, if there is not adequate provision for local traffic.[83] The commissioners have a very wide discretion in determining what evidence they will or will not hear on such applications.[84] The decision of railroad commissioners as to whether the proposed road is necessary is the exercise of a judicial function which may be reviewed on certiorari;[85] but their decision will not be reversed unless it clearly appears to have been based upon erroneous legal principles or is contrary to the clear weight of evidence.[86] The statute also provides in cases where the certificate is refused for a certification of the record made before the commissioners and an application to the appellate division of the supreme court, who may in their discretion order the commissioners to issue the certificate.[87] This proceeding applies only where the certificate is refused,[88] and has been held to be not in the nature of a review of the decision of an inferior tribunal where the burden is upon the petitioner to show affirmatively that the commission erred, but in the nature of an original application to be decided by the court upon the record made before the commissioners or upon such further evidence as the court may deem necessary,[89] the decision of the court as to matters of law being reviewable by the App. Div. 242, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 20 [affirmed in 175 N. Y. 516, 67 N. E. 1088].

Sufficiency of showing as to necessity.— The following cases the facts of which it is impracticable to set out at length are illustrative as to what facts and circumstances are sufficient to show a necessity for the construction of a proposed railroad and authorize the issuing of a certificate to that effect (In re Rochester, etc., Traction Co., 118 N. Y. App. Div. 521, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 1112; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 99 N. Y. App. Div. 85, 91 N. Y. Suppl. 375; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 53 N. Y. App. Div. 61, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 597 [affirmed in 164 N. Y. 572, 58 N. E. 1091]; Matter of Long Lake R. Co., 11 N. Y. App. Div. 233, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 125); or are insufficient for such purpose so that the certificate should be denied (People v. Railroad Com'rs, 160 N. Y. 202, 54 N. E. 697 [affirming 40 N. Y. App. Div. 559, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 94]; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 124 N. Y. App. Div. 47, 108 N. Y. Suppl. 288 [affirmed in 192 N. Y. 47, 84 N. E. 583]; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 103 N. Y. App. Div. 123, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 58 [affirmed in 184 N. Y. 575, 77 N. E. 1194]; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 95 N. Y. App. Div. 38, 88 N. Y. Suppl. 522; Matter of Auburn, etc., R. Co., 37 N. Y. App. Div. 162, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 895; Matter of Kings, etc., R. Co., 6 N. Y. App. Div. 241, 39 N. Y. Suppl. 1004; Matter of Amsterdam, etc., R. Co., 86 Hun (N. Y.) 578, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 1009; Matter of New Hamburgh, etc., R. Co., 76 Hun (N. Y.) 76, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 664).

82. Matter of Ticonderoga Union Terminal R. Co., 116 N. Y. App. Div. 56, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 107.

83. Matter of Rochester, etc., Traction Co., 118 N. Y. App. Div. 521, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 1112.

84. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 81 N. Y. App. Div. 237, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 26 [affirmed in 176 N. Y. 577, 68 N. E. 1123], holding that their discretion is much broader than that permitted to a court where the parties have a right to insist upon the strict rules of evidence being administered, and that unless it appears that the commissioners have utterly misconceived the real inquiry before them they should be at liberty to reject such evidence as they do not care to hear.

85. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 160 N. Y. 202, 54 N. E. 697 [affirming 40 N. Y. App. Div. 559, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 94].

Evidence to be returned.— The commissioners should return all the evidence taken before them material to the question as to whether the public convenience and necessity require the proposed road, but not matters which they may have heard but which are foreign to this question, such as statements made to them in regard to the financial backing of the company or its ability to complete the road. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 76 N. Y. App. Div. 302, 79 N. Y. Suppl. 1143 [affirming 39 Misc. 1, 78 N. Y. Suppl. 750].

86. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 53 N. Y. App. Div. 61, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 597 [affirmed in 164 N. Y. 572, 58 N. E. 1091]; Matter of Auburn, etc., R. Co., 37 N. Y. App. Div. 162, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 895; Matter of Kings, etc., R. Co., 6 N. Y. App. Div. 241, 39 N. Y. Suppl. 1004.

87. Matter of Rochester, etc., Traction Co., 118 N. Y. App. Div. 521, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 1112; Matter of Depew, etc., R. Co., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 406, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 991; Matter of New Hamburgh, etc., R. Co., 76 Hun (N. Y.) 76, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 664.

88. Matter of Depew, etc., R. Co., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 406, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 991, holding that on such a proceeding instituted by a company whose application was refused, the court cannot consider and determine the propriety of the action of the commissioners in granting a certificate to a rival company.

89. Matter of Rochester, etc., Traction Co., 118 N. Y. App. Div. 521, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 1112. See also In re Wood, 181 N. Y. 93, 73 N. E. 561, 34 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 127 [affirming court of appeals, it being a final order in a special proceeding and therefore reviewable as a matter of right.[90]

3. License Fees and Taxes.[91] The business of railroad companies is one which may properly be subjected to the payment of an occupation privilege or license-tax,[92] which is a tax for the license or privilege of doing business as distinguished from a tax on property,[93] and the fact that the property of a railroad company is taxed on an ad valorem basis will not prevent the requirement of a privilege or license-tax,[94] nor will an exemption from ad valorem taxation exempt the company from privilege taxation.[95] In the absence of any constitutional restriction such a tax may be imposed by the legislature itself,[96] or the legislature may delegate such power to a municipal corporation.[97] Pursuant to such authority a license-tax for doing business within their limits may be imposed by a county,[98] or a city;[99] and although a railroad company is compelled by its charter or statute to operate its road through and do business in a certain city, it may still be required

99 N. Y. App. Div. 334, 91 N. Y. Suppl. 225]. Contra, Matter of New Hamburgh, etc., R. Co., 76 Hun (N. Y.) 76, 27 N. Y. Suppl. 664.

90. In re Wood, 181 N. Y. 93, 73 N. E. 561, 34 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 127 [affirming 99 N. Y. App. Div. 334, 91 N. Y. Suppl. 225].

91. Organization tax see infra, II, D.

Assessment of railroad property for public improvements see Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 1118.

Licenses in general see Licenses, 25 Cyc. 593.

Taxation in general see Taxation.

Taxation by municipal corporations see Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 1682.

92. Knoxville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 99 Tenn. 684, 43 S. W. 115, 53 L. R. A. 921; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Suffolk, 103 Va. 498, 49 S. E. 658.

As interference with interstate commerce see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 482, 484.

93. Anniston v. Southern R. Co., 112 Ala. 557, 20 So. 915; Knoxville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 99 Tenn. 684, 43 S. W. 115, 53 L. R. A. 921.

94. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Suffolk, 103 Va. 498, 49 S. E. 658.

95. Knoxville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 99 Tenn. 684, 43 S. W. 115, 53 L. R. A. 921.

96. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Columbia, 54 S. C. 266, 32 S. E. 408; Knoxville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 99 Tenn. 684, 43 S. W. 115, 53 L. R. A. 921; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 132 Wis. 364, 112 N. W. 522; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 132 Wis. 345, 112 N. W. 515.

Enforcement of payment.— Under a statute approved Nov. 12, 1889, imposing a license-tax on railroad companies for sleeping cars drawn over their roads, and providing that if it is not paid before the first day of October in each year execution may issue against the company, a company cannot be in default under the statute prior to Oct. 1, 1890, and an execution issued prior thereto for failure to pay the license-tax for 1889 is void. Wright v. Central R., etc., Co., 85 Ga. 649, 11 S. E. 1031.

A company using the track of another company under a lease or traffic contract is liable for such a tax. Jefferson County v. Commonwealth Bd. of Valuation, etc., 117 Ky. 531, 78 S. W. 443, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1637.

97. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Attalla, 118 Ala. 362, 24 So. 450; York v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 56 Nebr. 572, 76 N. W. 1065; Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Columbia, 54 S. C. 266, 32 S. E. 408; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Suffolk, 103 Va. 498, 49 S. E. 658. See also, generally, Licenses, 25 Cyc. 600.

98. Santa Clara County v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 66 Cal. 642, 6 Pac. 744.

99. Alabama.—Anniston v. Southern R. Co., 112 Ala. 557, 20 So. 915.

California.— Los Angeles v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 61 Cal. 59.

Louisiana.— New Orleans v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 40 La. Ann. 587, 4 So. 512.

Nebraska.— York v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 56 Nebr. 572, 76 N. W. 1065.

South Carolina.— Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Columbia, 54 S. C. 266, 32 S. E. 408.

Virginia.— Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Suffolk, 103 Va. 498, 49 S. E. 658.

Canada.— Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Quebec, 30 Can. Sup. Ct. 73 [affirming 8 Quebec Q. B. 246].

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 9.

Statutory authority.— The operation of a railroad is a "business" within the application of a statute authorizing the imposition of a license-tax (New Orleans v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 40 La. Ann. 587, 4 So. 512); and authority to impose a license-tax upon "any business or avocation . . . within the limits of the city" includes the business of operating a railroad and does not require that it should be carried on exclusively within the city (Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Columbia, 54 S. C. 266, 32 S. E. 408).

Separate taxes for different lines.— Under an ordinance requiring every railroad company to pay a certain license-tax "for each main line of railroad" used by it within the city, a company operating two main lines formerly belonging to different companies must pay a separate tax for each line (Anniston v. Southern R. Co., 112 Ala. 557, 20 So. 915); but where a railroad company owns and operates two connecting lines under individual names but under one management, and having but one agent in the city into which both run, the company is liable for only one occupa-to take out a license for so doing and pay a license-tax therefor.[1] A municipal corporation may also require a license-tax as a police regulation;[2] but while a municipality may be authorized by statute to impose a license-tax for purposes of revenue,[3] it cannot impose a license-tax for purposes of revenue as a police regulation or under a general power to license and regulate,[4] although if the sum required is a reasonable charge for a license as a police regulation, its incidental operation as increasing the receipts of the city treasury will not invalidate it.[5] A railroad company may become liable for the payment of a license-fee by constructing its road under a municipal consent required by statute and granted subject to the condition of paying such fee;[6] but in such case the obligation rests in contract and in an action to enforce the same the statute of limitations may be pleaded.[7] Where by statute railroad companies are divided into different classes, and a privilege tax imposed varying according to the classification of the roads to be made by the railroad commissioners, the making of such classification is a condition precedent to the right to collect the tax,[8] and the commissioners cannot make a back classification so as to subject a railroad company to an additional privilege tax for past years for which it would not be liable under the former classification.[9]

C. Regulation and Control — 1. Power to Regulate and Control.[10] There is a very important distinction between public and private corporations with respect to governmental control;[11] and the unlimited right of control which the state may exercise over strictly public corporations does not apply to railroad companies,[12] which in this regard are to be considered as private corporations whose charters constitute contracts with the state which the legislature cannot violate.[13] But since railroad companies are created by the state for quasi-public purposes and are thereby affected by a public interest, the legislature may to the extent of such interest regulate and control them except in so far as it is restricted by the contract obligation imposed by the charter or statute under which the companies are incorporated,[14] and subject of course to the constitutional restriction tax, under an ordinance requiring every corporation to pay a license-tax for carrying on business (Southern R. Co. v. Greenville, 45 S. C. 602, 23 S. E. 952).

1. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Columbia, 54 S. C. 266, 32 S. E. 408; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Suffolk, 103 Va. 498, 49 S. E. 658.

2. See Johnson v. Philadelphia, 60 Pa. St. 445; and, generally, Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 745.

3. San Jose v. San Jose, etc., R. Co., 53 Cal. 475.

4. North Hudson County R. Co. v. Hoboken, 41 N. J. L. 71; New York v. Third Ave. R. Co., 33 N. Y. 42; New York v. Second Ave. R. Co., 32 N. Y. 261 [affirming 34 Barb. 41]. See also, generally, Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 749.

5. Johnson v. Philadelphia, 60 Pa. St. 445.

6. Jersey City v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co., 41 N. J. L. 360, 57 Atl. 445.

7. Jersey City v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co., 71 N. J. L. 367, 59 Atl. 15.

8. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 83 Miss. 306, 36 So. 144.

9. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 85 Miss. 772, 38 So. 348.

10. Constitutionality of statutes imposing regulations in regard to railroads see Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 871, 874, 972, 1069, 1099, 1116.

Validity of regulations as to rates and charges see Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 874, 900, 969, 970, 1066, 1067, 1117–1119.

11. See Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 966; Corporations, 10 Cyc. 157.

12. Tinsman v. Belvidere Delaware R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 148, 69 Am. Dec. 565.

13. Tinsman v. Belvidere Delaware R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 148, 69 Am. Dec. 565; Whiting v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 167, 3 Am. Rep. 30.

14. Kansas.— State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 76 Kan. 467, 92 Pac. 606.

Minnesota.— Jacobson v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 71 Minn. 519, 74 N. W. 893, 70 Am. St. Rep. 358, 40 L. R. A. 389; Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am. Rep. 345.

New York.— Beekman v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 3 Paige 45, 22 Am. Dec. 679.

North Carolina.— Efland v. Southern R. Co., 146 N. C. 135, 59 S. E. 355.

United States.— Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 128 U. S. 174, 9 S. Ct. 47, 32 L. ed. 377; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois, 108 U. S. 541, 2 S. Ct. 839, 27 L. ed. 818; Ruggles v. Illinois, 108 U. S. 526, 2 S. Ct. 832, 27 L. ed. 812; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cutts, 94 U. S. 155, 24 L. ed. 94 [affirming 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,666]; McCoy v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 13 Fed. 3.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 5.

tions against the impairment of vested rights,[15] denial of the equal protection of the laws,[16] or due process of law.[17] Railroad charters are also taken subject to any constitutional provisions existing at the time authorizing the alteration or repeal of railroad charters,[18] or authorizing the legislature to pass laws prescribing certain regulations,[19] and subject to existing general laws relating to railroad companies.[20] Many regulations may also be sustained under a power expressly reserved to the legislature to repeal, alter, or amend the charter of the company,[21] or under the general police power of the state.[22] The legislature may exercise its power of regulation through the instrumentality of some inferior tribunal, such as a railroad or corporation commission,[23] or it may delegate to municipal corporations the power of making regulations as to matters within their corporate limits.[24]

2. Judicial Supervision. In some cases particular courts are invested by

In Canada railroads declared to be works for the general advantage of Canada are under the control of the dominion legislature (Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Hamilton Radial Electric R. Co., 29 Ont. 143); and a railroad declared by a dominion act to be of this character, although incorporated under an act of a provincial legislature, is thereby removed from the provincial authority as if it had been originally incorporated by the Dominion of Canada (Atty.-Gen. v. Vancouver, etc., R. Co., 9 Brit. Col. 338); but such a declaration must be made with reference to a particular road by name, and in the absence of such declaration if the road is located entirely within a particular province it is under the control of that province (Garneau v. Quebec, etc., R. Co., 12 Quebec K. B. 205); and it is also held that while the dominion legislature has the exclusive right to make regulations in regard to the construction, repair, and alteration of railroads subject to its control, a regulation not affecting the structure of a railroad but merely requiring the company to keep railroad ditches cleaned out so as to prevent the overflow of lands is one which it is competent for a provincial legislature to make (Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Notre Dame Parish, [1899] A. C. 367, 68 L. J. P. C. 54, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 434).

15. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Commission, 19 Fed. 679. See also, generally, Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 894 et seq.

16. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota, 134 U. S. 418, 10 S. Ct. 462, 702, 33 L. ed. 970 [reversing 38 Minn. 281, 37 N. W. 782]; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Commission, 19 Fed. 679. See also, generally, Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 1066.

17. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota, 134 U. S. 418, 10 S. Ct. 462, 702, 33 L. ed. 970 [reversing 38 Minn. 281, 37 N. W. 782]; Clyde v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 57 Fed. 436; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Commission, 19 Fed. 679. See also, generally, Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 1116, 1117.

18. Peik v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 94 U. S. 164, 24 L. ed. 97 [affirming 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,138, 6 Biss. 177].

19. Wellman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 83 Mich. 592, 47 N. W. 489.

20. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Connersville, (Ind. 1908) 83 N. E. 503. See also Iron R. Co. v. Lawrence Furnace Co., 49 Ohio St. 102, 30 N. E. 616.

21. Com. v. Eastern R. Co., 103 Mass. 254, 4 Am. Rep. 555; U. S. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 50 Fed. 28 [reversed in 59 Fed. 813, 8 C. C. A. 282 (reversed in 160 U. S. 1, 16 S. Ct. 190, 40 Fed. 319)].

Extent of power of legislature.— Under a reservation of the right to alter, amend, or repeal charters see Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 964.

Under an act of congress providing that a railroad company aided by the government should pay to government directors of the company a per diem compensation to be fixed by the company, and their actual traveling expenses, and reserving a right to alter, amend, or repeal the act, a later act fixing ten dollars per day as their compensation and ten cents for each mile of travel is a reasonable regulation which may legally be made. Brewer v. Union Pac. R. Co., 31 Hun (N. Y.) 545 [affirmed in 101 N. Y. 647].

22. Florida.— State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 Fla. 650, 44 So. 213, 13 L. R. A. N. S. 320.

Illinois.— Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. People, 175 Ill. 359, 51 N. E. 842.

Indiana.— Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Connersville, 170 Ind. 316, 83 N. E. 503.

Vermont.— Thorpe v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 140, 62 Am. Dec. 625.

Wisconsin.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 97 Wis. 418, 72 N. W. 1118.

United States.— Missouri v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 32 Fed. 722.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 5.

Validity of particular regulations affecting railroad companies as a proper exercise of the police power of the state see Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 871, 874.

Operation of road.—Most of the police regulations involve the question of the public safety and relate more particularly to the operation of the road and are treated in a subsequent section of this article. See infra, X, B, 1, a.

23. See infra, I, C, 3, a.

24. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Nebr. 549, 66 N. W. 624, 53 Am. St. Rep. 557, 41 L. R. A. 481. See also, generally, Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 839, 866.

statute with jurisdiction to make certain regulations in regard to railroads,[25] or to enforce the orders of some other tribunal, such as a railroad or corporation commission.[26] In the absence of statute the courts cannot impose upon railroad companies duties not required of them by law;[27] but in case of a failure to perform the duties which they do owe to the public the courts may, at the instance of the proper parties or public authorities, intervene to compel the performance of such duties.[28] While the state has a right to institute proceedings to forfeit the charter or annul the corporation for failure to perform its public duties,[29] it is not thereby precluded from the right to invoke the powers of the courts to compel a performance of such duties.[30] Where there is a clear legal duty its performance may be enforced by mandamus,[31] whether such duty is imposed in express terms or by implication from the general nature of the duties of such companies,[32] unless there is some other adequate remedy for the enforcement of such duty,[33] or in a proper case such relief may be afforded by courts of equity.[34] The exercise of purely discretionary powers on the part of railroad companies cannot be controlled or interfered with by the courts unless manifestly abused.[35]

3. Regulation by Commissioners or Other Public Officers — a. In General.[36] The power of the legislature to create such bodies as railroad or corporation commissions and through them to exercise its power of regulation over railroads has been repeatedly sustained,[37] subject to the limitations that they cannot be invested

25. In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., R. Co., (N. J. 1896) 35 Atl. 387; People v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 164 N. Y. 289, 58 N. E. 138; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780; In re Railroad Com'rs, 79 Vt. 266, 65 Atl. 82.

Jurisdiction and powers of courts: To require establishment of stations see infra, IV, G, 1. To authorize the crossing of streets and highways by railroads see infra, VI, D, 1, a. To regulate mode of crossing other railroads see infra, VI, C, 3, b.

26. See infra, I, C, 3, e.

27. Alabama.— Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401.

Louisiana.— State v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 200, 25 So. 126.

North Carolina.— Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 805, 18 L. R. A. 393.

Virginia.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 105 Va. 297, 54 S. E. 331.

United States.— Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 283, 35 L. ed. 1092 [reversing 3 Wash. Terr. 303, 13 Pac. 604].

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 11.

28. State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 Fla. 650, 44 So. 213, 13 L. R. A. N. S. 320; People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 28 Hun (N. Y.) 543; McCoy v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 13 Fed. 3.

29. See infra, II, J, 2.

30. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 28 Hun (N. Y.) 543.

31. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 37 Conn. 153; State v. Atlantic Coast Line Co., 53 Fla. 650, 44 So. 213, 13 L. R. A. N. S. 320; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 130 Ill. 175, 22 N. E. 857; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 90 Minn. 277, 96 N. W. 81. See also, generally, Mandamus, 26 Cyc. 365.

32. State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 Fla. 650, 44 So. 213, 13 L. R. A. N. S. 320; People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 28 Hun (N. Y.) 543.

33. State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 Fla. 650, 44 So. 213, 13 L. R. A. N. S. 320.

34. McCoy v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 13 Fed. 3.

35. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315; Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221; Park's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Union R. Co., 116 Tenn. 500, 95 S. W. 1019.

Widening roadway.— Under the Pennsylvania statute authorizing railroad companies to widen their roadways "whenever in the opinion of the board of directors the same may be necessary to secure the safety of persons or property and increase the facilities of traffic thereon," the question as to the time and mode of such widening is one exclusively for the board of directors and not subject to review by the court except when exercised corruptly or capriciously. Lodge v. R. Co., 1 Leg. Gaz. (Pa.) 131.

36. Interstate commerce commission see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 485 et seq.

37. Florida.— Storrs v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 29 Fla. 617, 11 So. 226; McWhorter v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 24 Fla. 417, 5 So. 129, 12 Am. St. Rep. 220, 2 L. R. A. 504.

Georgia.— Georgia R. Co. v. Smith, 70 Ga. 694.

Illinois.— People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 223 Ill. 581, 79 N. E. 144; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 149 Ill. 361, 37 N. E. 247, 41 Am. St. Rep. 278, 24 L. R. A. 141.

Kansas.— State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 76 Kan. 467, 92 Pac. 606.

Louisiana.— Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214.

Maine.— Railroad Commission v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 63 Me. 269, 18 Am. Rep. 208.

with strictly legislative,[38] or judicial powers,[39] and that their powers and proceedings must be within the constitutional restrictions relating to due process of law, and equal protection of the laws,[40] and that a state cannot authorize a railroad commission to regulate interstate commerce.[41] So a railroad commission legally constituted is an administrative body,[42] and not legislative,[43] or a court,[44] although they do in some cases exercise some functions of a judicial character,[45] nor are their decisions judgments in the ordinary sense of the term.[46] So also an order

North Carolina.— Corporation Commission v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 140 N. C. 239, 53 S. E. 941; Corporation Commission v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 51 S. E. 793; Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 865, 18 L. R. A. 393.

United States.— Reagan v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 154 U. S. 362, 14 S. Ct. 1047, 38 L. ed. 1014; Stone v. Farmers L. & T. Assoc., 116 U. S. 307, 6 S. Ct. 334, 388, 29 L. ed. 636.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 13. See also, generally, CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 834.

In Canada the Railway Act of 1903 established a board of railway commissioners which is invested with the powers and duties previously exercised by the railway committee of the privy council. Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 12 Ont. L. Rep. 320.

38. Georgia R. Co. v. Smith, 70 Ga. 694; State v. Great Northern R. Co., 100 Minn. 445, 111 N. W. 289, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 250.

39. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota, 134 U. S. 418, 10 S. Ct. 462, 702, 33 L. ed. 970 [reversing 38 Minn. 281, 37 N. W. 782]. See also, generally, CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 809, 858.

40. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota, 134 U. S. 418, 10 S. Ct. 462, 702, 33 L. ed. 970 [reversing 38 Minn. 281, 37 N. W. 782]; Mercantile Trust Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 51 Fed. 529; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Com'rs, 19 Fed. 679.

41. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Sessions, 28 Fed. 592.

The Illinois statute requiring all railroad companies doing business within the state to make annual reports to the railroad and warehouse commission applies to foreign railroad companies engaged in interstate commerce as well as domestic companies, and the act is not in conflict with the provisions of the federal constitution or laws relating to interstate commerce. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 223 Ill. 581, 79 N. E. 144.

42. Connecticut.—State v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 43 Conn. 351.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 149 Ill. 361, 37 N. E. 247, 41 Am. St. Rep. 278, 24 L. R. A. 141.

Kansas.— State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 76 Kan. 467, 92 Pac. 606.

Louisiana.— Morgans, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214.

Minnesota.— State v. Great Northern R. Co., 100 Minn. 445, 111 N. W. 289, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 250.

North Carolina.— State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

United States.— Reagan v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 154 U. S. 362, 14 S. Ct. 1047, 38 L. ed. 1014.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 13.

43. Storrs v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 29 Fla. 617, 11 So. 226; Georgia R. Co. v. Smith, 70 Ga. 694; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 149 Ill. 361, 37 N. E. 247, 41 Am. St. Rep. 278, 24 L. R. A. 141; Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 805, 18 L. R. A. 393.

44. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 38 Ind. App. 439, 78 N. E. 338, 79 N. E. 520; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901]; Mississippi R. Commission v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 203 U. S. 335, 27 S. Ct. 90, 51 L. ed. 209.

In North Carolina the railroad commission was by the statute of 1891 made a court of record, but it is held to be merely an administrative and not a judicial court, somewhat like a board of county commissioners (State v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 877, 29 S. E. 334); and that the object of the act, which added nothing to the powers and duties of the commission, was merely to give authenticity to its records and proceedings (State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554).

The Pacific Railway Commission is not a judicial body and possesses no judicial powers under the acts of congress of March 3, 1887 (24 U. S. St. at L. 488), creating it, and can determine no rights of the government or the corporations whose affairs it is appointed to investigate. In re Pacific R. Commission, 32 Fed. 241, 12 Sawy. 559.

45. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 38 Ind. App. 439, 78 N. E. 338, 79 N. E. 520; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

46. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351 (holding that since a decision of the railroad commissions granting a railroad company permission to discontinue a station is not a judgment, a statute requiring the company to restore it is not void as an attempt to annul or reverse a judgment of a judicial tribunal); State v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., 85 Iowa 516, 52 N. W. 490 (holding that an order of the board of railroad commissioners is not a judgment or conclusion which binds the parties, but merely the basis of an action wherein the rights of the parties are of a permissive character made by railroad commissioners is not a contract which will bind the state with regard to future legislation.[47] The powers and duties of railroad commissioners vary to such an extent under the statutes of the different jurisdictions that any enumeration thereof based upon the decided cases would be impracticable, and the statutes should be consulted;[48] but it may be stated as investigated and determined by the prescribed rules of judicial inquiry).

47. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351, holding that an order of the railroad commissioners permitting the discontinuance of a station upon certain conditions does not constitute a contract with the state which will prevent the legislature from subsequently requiring it to be reëstablished.

48. See the statutes of the different states; and the following cases:

Alabama.— State v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., (1905) 39 So. 984; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401.

Iowa.— State v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., 85 Iowa 516, 52 N. W. 490.

Kansas.— State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 76 Kan. 467, 92 Pac. 606.

Louisiana.— Railroad Commission v. Kansas City Southern R. Co., 111 La. 133, 35 So. 487; Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Railroad Commission, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214.

Massachusetts.— Providence, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 138 Mass. 277.

Mississippi.— State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263.

Nebraska.— State v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 22 Nebr. 313, 35 N. W. 118.

North Carolina.— Corporation Com'rs v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 140 N. C. 239, 52 S. E. 941; Corporation Commission v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 51 S. E. 793; Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 805, 18 L. R. A. 393.

Oregon.— Railroad Com'rs v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 17 Oreg. 65, 19 Pac. 702, 2 L. R. A. 195.

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 99 Tex. 332, 89 S. W. 961 [affirming (Civ. App. 1905) 86 S. W. 16].

Virginia.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Interstate R. Co., 107 Va. 225, 57 S. E. 654.

England.— Didcot, etc., R. Co. v. Great Western R. Co., [1897] 1 Q. B. 33, 66 L. J. Q. B. 33, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 401, 45 Wkly. Rep. 282; Reg. v. Railway Com'rs, 22 Q. B. D. 642, 53 J. P. 533, 58 L. J. Q. B. 233, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 606, 6 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 108, 37 Wkly. Rep. 446; Reg. v. Midland R. Co., 19 Q. B. D. 540, 51 J. P. 550, 56 L. J. Q. B. 585, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 619, 5 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 267, 36 Wkly. Rep. 270; South-Eastern R. Co. v. Railway Com'rs, 6 Q. B. D. 586, 45 J. P. 388, 50 L. J. Q. B. 201, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 203; Toomer v. London, etc., R. Co., 2 Ex. D. 450, 47 L. J. Exch. 276, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 161, 26 Wkly. Rep. 31; Cowan v. North British R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 96; Pidcock v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 9 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 45; Solway Junction R. Co. v. Caledonian R. Co., 8 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 177.

Canada.— Canadian Northern R. Co. v. Robinson, 37 Can. Sup. Ct. 541.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 13.

Companies and persons subject to regulation.— It has been held that a constitutional provision providing for a railroad commission for the regulation and control of "railroad and other transportation companies" applies to all persons engaged in transportation, whether as corporations or individuals (Moran v. Ross, 79 Cal. 159, 21 Pac. 547); but that a statute which in express terms gives railroad commissioners jurisdiction over "railroads operated by steam" by implication denies their power over railroads operated by electricity (Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 73 Kan. 168, 84 Pac. 755).

Classification of freight.— Under the Missouri statute providing for the appointment of railroad commissions and the division of freights into certain classes, and fixing of maximum rates at so much per "car load" for each class, where the commissioners construed the term "car load" in the light of existing usage to mean ten tons instead of all that a car could safely carry, it was held that such construction, being reasonable and just, would be upheld, especially where it had been so long acted upon as to have become a rule. Pugh v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 118 Mo. 506, 24 S. W. 440; Ross v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 111 Mo. 18, 19 S. W. 541.

Powers with respect to particular matters. — Powers of railroad commissioners with regard to determining necessity for railroad see supra, I, B, 2. With regard to stations see infra, IV, G, 4. Rights in and use of road or property of one company by another company see infra, V, J, 4. Crossings of one railroad by another railroad see infra, VI, C, 3, a. Crossings of highways by railroads see infra, VI, D, 6, a. Abolition or removal of grade crossings see infra, VI, D, 6, c. Connections and facilities for transfers between different railroads see infra, X, B, 3, d. Regulation of rates and charges for transportation see the following cases: Storrs v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 29 Fla. 617, 11 So. 226; Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 70 Ga. 694; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 149 Ill. 361, 37 N. E. 247, 41 Am. St. Rep. 278, 24 L. R. A. 141; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 594, 58 N. W. 1060; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 40 Minn. 267, 41 N. W. 1047, 12 Am. St. Rep. 730, 3 L. R. A. 238; State v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 23 Nebr. 117, 36 N. W. 305; State v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 22 Nebr. 313, 35 N. W. 118; Merrill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 63 N. H. 259; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota, 134 U. S. 418, 10 S. Ct. 462, 702, 33 L. ed. 870 [reversing 38 Minn. 281, 37 N. W. 782]; Winsor Coal Co. v. Chicago, etc., R.

a general rule that since such bodies are statutory tribunals of limited jurisdiction,[49] they can exercise only such powers as they are authorized to exercise by the statutes,[50] and that state railroad commissioners have no jurisdiction over interstate commerce.[51] So also the province and duty of railroad commissioners is to make regulations affecting the interests and safety of the public,[52] and they cannot determine controversies or enforce contracts of a private character between railroad companies and individuals,[53] while on the other hand railroad companies cannot by contracting with other railroad companies or persons restrict the power of railroad commissioners to make orders within their jurisdiction affecting the interests of the public.[54] Under some statutes or with respect to certain matters the powers and duties of railroad commissioners are merely advisory.[55] It has been held that as to matters within the jurisdiction of the railroad commissioners action on their part is necessary, before resort can be had to other adversary proceedings against the railroad company;[56] but the rule is otherwise where the Co., 52 Fed. 716; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dey, 38 Fed. 656; Mansion House Assoc. v. London, etc., R. Co., [1896] 1 Q. B. 273, 65 L. J. Q. B. 209, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 463, 9 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 174; Reg. v. Railway Com'rs, 22 Q. B. D. 642, 53 J. P. 533, 58 L. J. Q. B. 233, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 606, 6 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 108, 37 Wkly. Rep. 446; Great Western R. Co. v. Central Wales, etc., Junction R. Co., 10 Q. B. D. 231, 52 L. J. Q. B. 211, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 234, 315, 4 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 110, 31 Wkly. Rep. 321; Great Western R. Co. v. Railway Com'rs, 7 Q. B. D. 182, 46 J. P. 35, 50 L. J. Q. B. 483, 45 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, 29 Wkly. Rep. 901; Watson v. Midland R. Co., 9 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 90. Power of railway and canal commissioners under the Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1894, § 4, to hear and determine disputes between railroad companies and shippers and to grant an allowance or rebate see Vickers v. Midland R. Co., 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 665, 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 249; Crompton v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 285; Cowan v. North British R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 271; Gilstrap v. Great Northern R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 265; Girardot v. Great Eastern R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 244; Huntington v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., 17 T. L. R. 458, 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 237.

49. Eastern R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 47 N. H. 108; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 S. D. 517, 94 N. W. 406.

50. Alabama.— Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401.

Mississippi.— State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263.

Nebraska.— State v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 23 Nebr. 117, 36 N. W. 305.

New Hampshire.— Merrill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 63 N. H. 259; Eastern R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 47 N. H. 108.

North Carolina.— Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 805, 18 L. R. A. 393.

Oregon.— Railroad Com'rs v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 17 Oreg. 65, 19 Pac. 702, 2 L. R. A. 195.

South Carolina.— Railroad Com'rs v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 26 S. C. 353, 2 S. E. 127.

England.— Reg. v. Railway Com'rs, 22 Q. B. D. 642, 53 J. P. 533, 58 L. J. Q. B. 233, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 606, 6 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 108, 37 Wkly. Rep. 446; Great Western R. Co. v. Waterford, etc., R. Co., 17 Ch. D. 493, 50 L. J. Ch. 513, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 723, 29 Wkly. Rep. 826; Great Western R. Co. v. Halesowen R. Co., 52 L. J. Q. B. 473, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 710, 4 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 224; Cowan v. North British R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 96.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 13.

The railway committee of the privy council under the former Canadian statute could exercise only such powers as were conferred upon it by the statute. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Toronto, 32 Ont. 120.

Railway and dock company.— Railway commissioners have no jurisdiction to determine complaints against a railway and dock company for any inequality of dues levied in respect to a dock forming a distinct part of their undertaking, although such company be also owners of other docks not distinct from but connected with their railway. East India, etc., Dock Co. v. Shaw, etc., Co., 39 Ch. D. 524, 57 L. J. Ch. 1038, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 142, 6 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 94.

51. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 40 Minn. 267, 41 N. W. 1047, 12 Am. St. Rep. 730, 3 L. R. A. 238; Sternberger v. Cape Fear, etc., R. Co., 29 S. C. 510, 7 S. E. 836, 2 L. R. A. 105; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Sessions, 28 Fed. 592; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Commission, 19 Fed. 679.

Exclusive power of congress to regulate interstate commerce see COMMERCE, 7 Cyc. 420–422.

52. Toronto v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 4 Can. R. Cas. 62.

53. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901]; Toronto v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 4 Can. R. Cas. 62.

54. Niagara, etc., R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 3 Can. R. Cas. 256.

55. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401; State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 55 Kan. 708, 41 Pac. 964, 49 Am. St. Rep. 278, 29 L. R. A. 444; State v. Kansas Cent. R. Co., 47 Kan. 497, 28 Pac. 208.

56. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Nebr.

statute in regard to the railroad commission provides that the remedies provided thereby shall not limit or exclude any other remedies existing by virtue of other statutes or common law.[57]

b. Qualifications, Appointment, and Removal. The legislature may prescribe the qualifications for office of railroad commissioners,[58] and in particular cases it seems that the general rule in regard to such public officers [59] would disqualify a railroad commissioner from passing upon questions in which he was personally interested.[60] The mode of electing or appointing railroad commissioners and their term of office is regulated by the statutes,[61] and under a statute providing that the railroad commissioners shall hold office for a certain term "and until their successors are elected and qualified," a failure of the legislature to elect a successor at the expiration of the term of office of a railroad commissioner does not create a vacancy in the office.[62] Where the office of railroad commissioners is of legislative origin, the legislature may reserve the right of removal,[63] and may confer upon the governor the right of suspending a railroad commissioner from office.[64] Under a statute authorizing an executive council to remove railroad commissioners at any time and elect others to fill the vacancy, the exercise of such power is discretionary and cannot be prevented or interfered with by the courts,[65] and a statute authorizing the governor without judicial proceedings to suspend a railroad commissioner who becomes interested in a railroad, and report such fact and the reasons therefor to the legislature for final action, is not unconstitutional as denying such commissioner the equal protection of the laws or depriving him of property without due process of law.[66]

c. Salaries, Assistants, and Expenses. The statutes in some cases provide that the salaries of railroad commissioners shall be paid in the same manner as those of other state officers,[67] or that their salaries and expenses shall be borne by the several railroad companies,[68] and also provide for the appointment of 476, 27 N. W. 434; People v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 172 N. Y. 90, 64 N. E. 788 [affirming 69 N. Y. App. Div. 549, 75 N. Y. Suppl. 202]; Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Perrault, 36 Can. Sup. Ct. 671.

57. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. State, 69 Kan. 552, 77 Pac. 286, holding that under such a provision an application for mandamus to compel a railroad company to restore a highway to its former condition may be maintained without any previous action or order in regard thereto by the railroad commissioners.

58. State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554. See also, generally, OFFICERS, 29 Cyc. 1375.

59. See OFFICERS, 29 Cyc. 1435.

60. Southern Pac. Co. v. California R. Com'rs, 78 Fed. 236, holding, however, that the interest of one of the commissioners as a shipper of grain will not invalidate a rate regulation which was adopted by a unanimous vote.

61. See the statutes of the several states; and the following cases: State v. Mitchell, 50 Kan. 289, 33 Pac. 104, 20 L. R. A. 306 (quoting Kansas statute of 1883, providing for the election of railroad commissioners by the executive council to hold office for three years from the date of election); Eddy v. Kincaid, 28 Oreg. 537, 41 Pac. 156, 655 (holding that the Oregon statute providing that the railroad commissioners shall be chosen biennially by the state legislature is not unconstitutional); Savage v. Pickard, 14 Lea (Tenn.) 46 (quoting the Tennessee statute of 1883, providing for the appointment of three competent persons as railroad commissioners by the governor of the state to hold office until Jan. 1, 1885).

62. Eddy v. Kincaid, 28 Oreg. 537, 41 Pac. 156, 655. See also, generally, OFFICERS, 29 Cyc. 1399, 1400.

63. State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

Removal of officers generally see OFFICERS, 29 Cyc. 1406 et seq.

64. State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

65. State v. Mitchell, 50 Kan. 289, 33 Pac. 104, 20 L. R. A. 306.

66. State v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

67. Savage v. Pickard, 14 Lea (Tenn.) 46, holding that under a statute providing that the railroad commissioners shall receive a salary of two thousand dollars each, to be paid as the salaries of other state officers "unless restrained by law from the performance of their duties," their salaries did not cease upon the suing out of temporary injunctions at the instance of several railroad companies from performing their duties as far as those companies are concerned, and which had never been made perpetual by final decrees.

68. People v. Chapin, 106 N. Y. 265, 12 N. E. 595; Charlotte, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbes, 27 S. C. 385, 4 S. E. 49; Columbia, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbes, 24 S. C. 60.

certain secretaries, clerks, or assistants and the salaries which they are to receive.[69]

d. Procedure and Orders. As to matters within their jurisdiction railroad commissioners may act either upon the complaint of a person aggrieved or upon their own motion.[70] The procedure to be followed by the commissioners in the determination of questions of which they have jurisdiction is ordinarily regulated by the statutes and must be complied with;[71] but a power expressly conferred to hear and determine certain matters is not to be denied because all the details of procedure are not prescribed, since the commissioners have inherent power to make such rules not inconsistent with the law as are necessary to the exercise

Rule of apportionment.— Under a statute providing that the salaries and expenses of railroad commissioners shall be borne by the several railroad companies according to their means, to be apportioned one half in proportion to the net income and one half in proportion to "the length of the main track or tracks on road," the length, where there are two or more parallel tracks between two terminal points, is the distance between those points and not the number of miles of rail. People v. Chapin, 106 N. Y. 265, 12 N. E. 595.

69. State v. Clausen, 44 Wash. 437, 87 Pac. 498, holding that under a statute authorizing the commissioners to appoint a secretary and clerks and fix their salaries within certain limits, and also to employ such "experts as may be necessary to perform the duties that may be required of them," the commissioners also have power to fix the salary of such experts which in the absence of fraud cannot be reviewed.

In North Dakota the statute of 1889 providing for the appointment of a "secretary" for the commissioners at one thousand five hundred dollars a year is repealed by the statute of 1890, providing for a "clerk" for the railroad commissioners and fixing his salary at one thousand dollars a year, and repealing all previous laws in conflict with it. State v. Currie, 3 N. D. 310, 55 N. W. 858.

70. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 641, 53 N. W. 323.

In England in case of an increase of rates a complaint may be made to the railway commissioners by a trader's association without proof that there has been any complaint to the association by any particular traders or that the association represents individuals who are aggrieved. Mansion House Assoc. v. Great Western R. Co., [1895] 2 Q. B. 141, 64 L. J. Q. B. 434, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 523, 9 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 58, 14 Reports 429.

Joinder of respondents.— Where a complaint is made under section 1 of the English Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1894 that a rate increased by a railway company jointly with other railway companies is unreasonable, the complainant must join all the railway companies concerned as respondents. Mapperley Colliery Co. v. Midland R. Co., 65 L. J. Q. B. 272, 9 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 147.

71. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 594, 58 N. W. 1060; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 641, 53 N. W. 323; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 S. D. 517, 94 N. W. 406; In re Rutland R. Co., 79 Vt. 53, 64 Atl. 233.

Noticing and hearing.— Under the Iowa statute an order of railroad commissioners fixing a schedule of maximum rates, if it is a new and independent schedule and not merely a revision of a former schedule, is not binding unless the notice of intention to fix such rates was given as required by the statute (State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 594, 58 N. W. 1060); and under the Vermont statute which provides by section 3987 for an investigation of the cause of a railroad accident by railroad commissioners on notice, and section 3989 as amended by the act of 1902, which declares that when, in the judgment of the commissioners, after investigation and hearing, on reasonable notice, it appears that any change in the manner of operating a railroad is reasonable and expedient to facilitate the public safety the commissioners shall order the same, it is held that where the commissioners gave notice of an investigation of an accident, under section 3987, but no notice was served that proceedings would be taken under section 3989, an order as to the mode of subsequently operating trains was without jurisdiction and void (In re Rutland R. Co., 79 Vt. 53, 64 Atl. 233).

Costs.— The railroad commissioners have no jurisdiction, under the English Regulation of Railways Act of 1873, to order a railway company, in whose favor they have decided upon an application to them against such company, to pay any costs to the unsuccessful applicant (Foster v. Great Western R. Co., 8 Q. B. D. 515, 51 L. J. Q. B. 233, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 74, 4 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 58, 30 Wkly. Rep. 398); but under section 2 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1894, which provides that in proceedings before the commissioners other than disputes between two or more companies, the commissioners shall not have power to award costs on either side unless they are of the opinion that the claim or defense was frivolous and vexatious, it is held that this section applies only to costs of the case itself, and does not take away the power of the commissioners under section 19 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1888, to deal with the costs of and incidental to other proceedings, such as interlocutory applications (Rickett v. Midland R. Co., [1896] 1 Q. B. 260, 65 L. J. Q. B. 274, 9 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 107).

of the powers conferred upon them.[72] The orders of the railroad commissioners must be definite and specific as to what is required to be done by the railroad company.[73]

e. Enforcement of Orders. Where an order of railroad commissioners is merely of a permissive character, authorizing a railroad company to do or refrain from some act, nothing further is necessary to make it effective;[74] but if it is of a mandatory character and is a valid order and has not been complied with, it may be enforced by the courts,[75] and usually the statutes make express provision as to the manner of enforcing such orders.[76] In the absence of other provision mandamus is a proper remedy to enforce valid orders of railroad commissioners.[77] The courts will not enforce an order which the commissioners had no authority to make,[78] or which under the circumstances of the particular case is unreasonable or unjust,[79] or involving a matter as to which the powers of the commissioners are merely advisory,[80] or where the order was based upon a complaint filed by some third person which did not state facts sufficient to justify the order.[81] On a proceeding by mandamus to enforce an order of the commissioners they must bring themselves within the terms of the statute and allege performance of any conditions precedent,[82] and the order itself must be definite and certain as to 72. Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 463, 16 S. E. 393, 32 Am. St. Rep. 805, 18 L. R. A. 393.

73. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 S. D. 517, 94 N. W. 406.

74. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

75. Railroad Com'rs v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 63 Me. 269, 18 Am. Rep. 208; Railroad Com'rs v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 71 S. C. 130, 50 S. E. 641.

76. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401; State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 Fla. 650, 44 So. 213, 13 L. R. A. N. S. 320; State v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 22 Nebr. 313, 35 N. W. 118; People v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 172 N. Y. 90, 64 N. E. 788 [affirming 69 N. Y. App. Div. 549, 75 N. Y. Suppl. 202].

In Iowa the statute gives the district courts of the state jurisdiction to enforce orders and regulations made by the railroad commissioners affecting public rights, the proceeding to be by an equitable action (Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 202, 53 N. W. 128; State v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., 85 Iowa 516, 52 N. W. 490); which is not to be instituted by the commissioners in their own names but in the name of the state and prosecuted by the attorney-general (State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 594, 58 N. W. 1060; Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra).

In Kansas the statute provides for the enforcement of orders of the railroad commissioners by mandamus. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 76 Kan. 467, 92 Pac. 606.

In New York the statute of 1890 gives the supreme court at special term jurisdiction to enforce orders of the railroad commissioners by mandamus. People v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 32 N. Y. App. Div. 120, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 850 [affirmed in 165 N. Y. 362, 59 N. E. 138, and distinguishing People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 104 N. Y. 58, 9 N. E. 856, 58 Am. Rep. 484, decided prior to the enactment of this statute].

In South Carolina it was held that under Gen. St. § 1539, as amended by the act of 1882, the railroad commissioners could not maintain an action for the enforcement of their orders, but that the remedy was by an action for the penalty prescribed by the statute to be brought by the attorney-general in the name of the state upon the request of the railroad commissioners (Railroad Com'rs v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 26 S. C. 353, 2 S. E. 127); but under Code (1902), § 2119, it is expressly provided that the orders of the railroad commissioners may be enforced by mandamus issued by a justice of the supreme court or circuit judge on application of the commissioners (Railroad Com'rs v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 71 S. C. 130, 50 S. E. 641).

77. State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 48 Fla. 114, 37 So. 652; State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 76 Kan. 467, 92 Pac. 606; Railroad Com'rs v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 63 Me. 269, 18 Am. Rep. 208; State v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 22 Nebr. 313, 35 N. W. 118. See also MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 372.

The existence of a different statutory remedy will not preclude the remedy by mandamus to enforce orders of railroad commissioners. State v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 22 Nebr. 313, 35 N. W. 118.

78. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401; State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263.

79. State v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 644, 54 N. W. 461; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 304, 53 N. W. 253; State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263.

80. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401; State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 55 Kan. 708, 41 Pac. 964, 49 Am. St. Rep. 278, 29 L. R. A. 444; State v. Kansas Cent. R. Co., 47 Kan. 497, 28 Pac. 208.

81. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 641, 53 N. W. 323.

82. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 S. D. 517, 94 N. W. 406.

what the railroad company is required to do.[83] Under the Louisiana constitution railroad commissioners may impose a penalty for non-compliance with their orders and sue for its recovery.[84]

f. Judicial Interference With or Review of Orders. In some cases the statutes give a right of appeal from orders of railroad commissioners,[85] or authorize the railroad company to bring an action against the commissioners to have the regulation, order, or finding vacated,[86] with a right of appeal from the judgment there rendered to the supreme appellate court,[87] and the orders of railroad com-

83. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 16 S. D. 517, 94 N. W. 406.

84. Railroad Com'rs v. Kansas City Southern R. Co., 111 La. 133, 35 So. 487.

85. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 38 Ind. App. 439, 78 N. E. 338, 79 N. E. 520; Corporation Com'rs v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 139 N. C. 126, 51 S. E. 793; and cases cited infra, this note.

Under the Indiana statute of 1905, authorizing a railroad company to appeal directly to the appellate court from any "rate, classification, rule, charge, or general regulation" adopted by the railroad commission, no appeal lies directly to the appellate court from an order of the commission requiring the installation of an interlocking device at a crossing, but if any appeal may be taken it should be in the first instance to the circuit or superior court. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 38 Ind. App. 657, 78 N. E. 358.

Under the Minnesota statute of 1887, it is held that the right of appeal given by section 15 does not apply to purely administrative orders made under section 10, relating to the manner of operating the road, but only to orders made under sections 13 and 14 upon the complaint of some person charging the company with a violation of duty resulting in damage or injury to him, and that as to orders of the former class objection can be made only by way of defense to an action brought to enforce them. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad, etc., Com'rs, 44 Minn. 336, 46 N. W. 559.

In North Carolina the statute allows an appeal from the decision of the railroad commission to the superior court and from that court to the supreme court. The further provision of the statute authorizing an appeal from the railroad commission direct to the supreme court "where no exception is made to the facts as found by the commission" has been held to be in conflict with the provisions of the constitution. State v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 877, 29 S. E. 334.

In England under the Regulation of Railways Act of 1873, it was provided that the railway commissioners should, in cases arising under certain sections, and might in all other proceedings, state a case in writing for the opinion of a superior court on questions of law, under which provision the commissioners might state a case arising under section 15, although the statute provided that their decision under that section should be binding on all courts and in all legal proceedings (Hall v. London, etc., R. Co., 15 Q. B. D. 505, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 345, 5 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 28); and the Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1888 provided for an appeal from the railway commissioners to a superior court on questions of law (North Eastern R. Co. v. North British R. Co., 10 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 82).

In Canada the Railway Act of 1903 provides that the decision of the railroad commissioners as to matters of fact shall be binding and conclusive but authorizes an appeal to the supreme court on questions of law upon leave granted to appeal by the board or by a justice of the supreme court (Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 12 Ont. L. Rep. 320); but it is held that no appeal can be taken from the order of a justice granting or refusing leave to appeal from the decision of the commissioners (Williams v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 36 Can. Sup. Ct. 321, 4 Can. R. Cas. 302).

Appeal as supersedeas.— The appeal from an order of the railroad commissioners to the superior court given by the Connecticut statute is an independent proceeding before the superior judge, and therefore the provision of the statute that the appeal shall operate as a supersedeas does not come into operation until the court takes jurisdiction of the appeal, and a decision by it that it has no jurisdiction thereof shows that there was no supersedeas. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Cockcroft, 49 Fed. 3.

Costs of appeal.— In England on an appeal from a decision of the railway commissioners, in a dispute other than between two or more companies, the court of appeals has power to give the costs of the appeal to the successful party, notwithstanding section 2 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1894. Mansion House Assoc. v. Great Western R. Co., [1895] 2 Q. B. 141, 64 L. J. Q. B. 434, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 523, 9 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 58, 14 Reports 429.

86. See Railroad Com'rs v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 71 Kan. 193, 80 Pac. 53; Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214.

87. Railroad Com'rs v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 71 Kan. 193, 80 Pac. 53 (holding that on the appeal to the supreme court that court cannot pass upon the weight and credibility of evidence as in an original proceeding); Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214 (holding that on such appeal the supreme court acts as a judicial tribunal and not as a mere administrative board supervisory of the acts of the railroad commission).

missioners may also be reviewed on certiorari;[88] but on appeal the court will not reverse an order of the commissioners unless clearly erroneous.[89] So also in an action or proceeding to enforce an order of the railroad commissioners the court may inquire into whether the commissioners have exceeded their jurisdiction,[90] or whether the order of the commissioners is under the circumstances unreasonable or unjust,[91] and upon an affirmative finding in either case refuse to enforce the order.[92] Courts of equity also have jurisdiction to prevent illegal or improper acts on the part of the railroad commissioners,[93] and so a court of equity may enjoin proceedings or the enforcement of orders of railroad commissioners where they are acting under a statute which is unconstitutional,[94] or in making the order they have exceeded their jurisdiction,[95] or the order is under the circumstances unreasonable or unjust;[96] but in so doing the court cannot fix and determine what would be reasonable or enjoin the commissioners from making a different order,[97] and it is not a violation of an injunction against putting in force a certain schedule of rates for the commissioners to establish a different 88. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 85 Miss. 772, 38 So. 348; People v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 172 N. Y. 90, 64 N. E. 788 [affirming 69 N. Y. App. Div. 549, 75 N. Y. Suppl. 202]; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901]. See also, generally, CERTIORARI, 6 Cyc. 750 et seq.

89. Jacobson v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 71 Minn. 519, 74 N. W. 893, 70 Am. St. Rep. 358, 40 L. R. A. 389; International, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 86 S. W. 16 [affirmed in 99 Tex. 332, 89 S. W. 961]; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Interstate R. Co., 107 Va. 225, 57 S. E. 654.

The burden is upon the appellant to show that the order was unauthorized or improper. Jacobson v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 71 Minn. 519, 74 N. W. 893, 70 Am. St. Rep. 358, 40 L. R. A. 389; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Interstate R. Co., 107 Va. 225, 57 S. E. 654.

90. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401.

91. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 304, 53 N. W. 253.

Under the Iowa statute on a proceeding in the district court to enforce an order of the railroad commissioners, the court, in passing upon the reasonableness of the order, acts only upon the record made before the commissioners, and the order cannot be sustained by showing that it is reasonable because of the existence of other grounds not presented to or considered by the commissioners. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 641, 53 N. W. 323; State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 76 Kan. 467, 92 Pac. 606.

92. See supra, I, C, 3, e.

93. Mississippi R. Commission v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 203 U. S. 335, 27 S. Ct. 90, 51 L. ed. 209, holding further that a suit by a railroad company against a railroad commission is not a suit against the state, and that since a railroad commission is not a court an injunction granted by a federal court is not a stay of proceedings in a state court.

94. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Stone, 20 Fed. 270; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Commission, 19 Fed. 679.

Who may sue.— Mortgage bondholders of certain railroads in Texas, alleging that the full interest on the bonds was not being paid or earned, that in most cases the earnings were insufficient to pay expenses, and that the companies were willing to meet their obligations but were prevented from exercising their discretion in making remunerative rates by the state railroad commissioners, under pain of the penalties prescribed by the Texas statute of 1891, show a sufficient interest to entitle them to maintain suits to enjoin the commission from putting into effect a schedule of rates and to restrain them and the attorney-general from suing for penalties or enforcing the act on the ground that it was in violation of the constitution of the United States. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 51 Fed. 529.

95. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Sessions, 28 Fed. 592; Reg. v. Railway Com'rs, 22 Q. B. D. 642, 53 J. P. 533, 58 L. J. Q. B. 233, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 606, 6 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 108, 37 Wkly. Rep. 446.

The Thurman Act of May 7, 1878, 20 U. S. St. at L. 59 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3570], gave to the United States government such a substantial interest in the revenues of the Union and Central Pacific Railroad companies as to authorize an intervention by the government, in a proceeding involving the validity of an order made by state railroad commissioners reducing the rates chargeable by one of such companies. Southern Pac. Co. v. California R. Com'rs, 71 Fed. 437.

96. Reagan v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 154 U. S. 362, 14 S. Ct. 1047, 38 L. ed. 1014; Southern Pac. Co. v. California R. Com'rs, 78 Fed. 236; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dey, 35 Fed. 866, 1 L. R. A. 744.

A preliminary injunction should not be granted to restrain the enforcement of a rate schedule alleged to be unreasonable, where the evidence is conflicting and the effect of such schedule is doubtful with a probability that it will prove compensatory, and the amount of business to be affected thereby is comparatively small. In such cases the courts may well wait for the test of experience to determine its reasonableness. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dey, 38 Fed. 656.

97. Reagan v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., 154 U. S. 362, 14 S. Ct. 1047, 38 L. ed. 1014.

schedule.[98] A shipper does not stand in the same position as the railroad company and cannot enjoin railroad commissioners from putting into effect a new schedule of rates on the ground that it will injuriously affect him.[99]

II. FORMATION, POWERS, AND DISSOLUTION OF RAILROAD COMPANY.[1]*

A. Formation in General. A railroad company's right to corporate existence can be derived only from a legislative enactment,[2] or, in the territories within the jurisdiction of the United States, from an act of congress.[3] In the absence of a constitutional provision to the contrary, a railroad corporation may be created by a special act or charter.[4] But in some jurisdictions provision is made for the creation of railroad companies under general corporation or railroad laws,[5] and under the constitutions, or amendments thereof, in some of these jurisdictions, a railroad company can be created only under the general laws, and not by special statute.[6] But such a constitutional provision does not affect a company created, prior to its enactment, by special act.[7] Although a railroad company is created 98. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dey, 38 Fed. 656.

99. Railroad Com'rs v. Symns Grocer Co., 53 Kan. 207, 35 Pac. 217.

1. Consolidation of railroads see infra, VII, E.

Collateral attack on validity of incorporation generally see CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 256 et seq.

Incorporation in different states see CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1070.

2. Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio St. 21; Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155; Griffin v. Clinton Line Extension R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,816.

Commissioners appointed under New York Rapid Transit Law (1875), c. 606, as distinguished from the general railroad laws to determine routes of steam railways have power to organize but a single company to operate all the railways whose construction they may authorize, and have no power to organize a separate corporation to operate each road. People v. Hoe, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 26.

3. People v. Central Pac. R. Co., 127 U. S. 1, 8 S. Ct. 1073, 32 L. ed. 150; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Lincoln County, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,378, 1 Dill. 314.

4. See Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663 (under the act of Jan. 12, 1853); Quinlan v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 356, 34 S. W. 738 (construing Spec. Act, Nov. 5, 1866, incorporating the Waco Tap Railroad Company); Grand Junction R. Co. v. Peterborough County, 6 Ont. App. 339 [reversing 45 U. C. Q. B. 302, and affirmed in 8 Can. Super. Ct. 76].

Creation of corporations by special act or charters generally see CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 201 et seq.

5. State v. Wapello County, 13 Iowa 388, holding that a railroad corporation in this state is not created by a special charter granted directly from the legislature but is a voluntary association, self-organized under a general incorporation act. And see the statutes of the several states.

Organization of corporations under general laws generally see CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 219 et seq.

Construction of Wis. St. (1898) §§ 1862, 1863, providing for two distinct kinds of corporations: Street railway corporations, and electric or interurban railway corporations see Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 342, 112 N. W. 672; In re Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

That a commercial steam railway will be only about three miles in length and will have a considerable part of its cars lying within the corporate limits of a city, and that it will connect with other steam railways at the outer terminus, does not prevent it from falling within the general laws for incorporating railroad companies. Volberg v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 537, 56 S. E. 991; Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909.

6. Maine.— Farnsworth v. Lime Rock R. Co., 83 Me. 440, 22 Atl. 373.

Minnesota.— First Div. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Parcher, 14 Minn. 297.

New Jersey.— New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [recersed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755].

Ohio.— Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio St. 21; State v. Roosa, 11 Ohio St. 16.

Wisconsin.— Atty.-Gen. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 35 Wis. 425.

United States.— Griffin v. Clinton Line Extension R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,816.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 26, 27. And see the statutes of the several states; and Stimson Am. St. Laws, § 441.

7. Farnsworth v. Lime Rock R. Co., 83 Me. 440, 22 Atl. 373 (although amended by special act afterward); First Div. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Parcher, 14 Minn. 297.

* By Henry H. Skyles.

by special act, the general railroad laws apply thereto except so far as modified by the provisions of the special act.[8] General laws providing for the incorporation of railroad companies are to be liberally construed.[9] A general statute for the incorporation of railroad companies does not authorize the incorporation of such company for private purposes, but only where it is for the public good.[10] The right of corporate existence of a railroad company cannot be divided up and made applicable to the different divisions of the railroad.[11]

B. Incorporation, Organization, and Existence — 1. In General. In the absence of special statutory provisions, the formation and organization of a railroad company is governed by the rules regulating the organization of corporations generally.[12] In organizing and incorporating a railroad corporation, whether under a general or special statute, it is essential, in order that there may be a corporation de jure as distinguished from a corporation de facto,[13] that there should be at least a substantial compliance with all conditions precedent prescribed by the statute,[14] and the courts have no power to dispense with the statutory requirements or to supply statutory provisions, whatever may be the benefit, convenience, or necessity,[15] since what the statute requires to be done in order to complete the organization of a railroad company as a body politic is mandatory and essential, and unless they are all substantially done the charter is void and the incorpora-

In Ohio, the special act passed prior to the adoption of the constitution of 1851, authorizing commissioners therein named to open books, receive subscriptions to capital stock and thereupon to organize a railroad company under it, was not repealed by the act to create and regulate railroad companies passed May 1, 1852, as the latter act is by its terms limited to companies to be organized under its provisions and has no reference to the formation of companies under preëxisting laws except that existing corporations are authorized to accept certain of its provisions if they desire to do so, and contains no express repeal of former grants of corporate powers. State v. Roosa, 11 Ohio St. 16.

While the Missouri constitution of 1865 prohibited the creation of private corporations by special laws, the legislature could by special act amend a special charter previously enacted. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Shambaugh, 106 Mo. 557, 17 S. W. 581.

8. Mt. Pleasant Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 6 Lack. Leg. News (Pa.) 1, construing act 1849.

9 Union R. Co. v. Canton R. Co., 105 Md. 12, 65 Atl. 409.

A railroad company organized under the Illinois General Railroad Act (Hurd Rev. St. (1905) p. 1564, c. 114) should be deemed a commercial railroad, notwithstanding its articles of incorporation called its line of railroad, to run through and between certain cities, a street railroad, as the statute under which it was organized would control as to its charter powers rather than the statements found in its charter as to the objects of its organization. Bradley Mfg. Co. v. Chicago, etc., Traction Co., 229 Ill. 170, 82 N. E. 210.

10. In re Pittsburg Transfer R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 411, construing the act of April 4, 1868, and the acts supplemental thereto.

An application for a charter for a railroad to connect two manufacturing establishments is for a private rather than for a public use and properly refused. In re Pittsburg Transfer R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 411.

11. State v. Morgan, 28 La. Ann. 482. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1087.

12. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 201 et seq., 219 et seq.

13. Distinction between corporation de jure and corporation de facto generally see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 252 et seq.

14. Southern Kansas, etc., R. Co. v. Towner, 41 Kan. 72, 21 Pac. 221; Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio St. 21; Com. v. Central Pass. R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 506; Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

Where the act of incorporation does not of and in itself confer corporate capacity but provides for the doing of certain things upon the doing of which the company shall become a body corporate, the performance of such things constitutes conditions precedent and until performed the company has no corporate existence. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Shambaugh, 106 Mo. 557, 17 S. W. 581.

Where the charter of a railroad company confers corporate powers in terms importing an immediate grant with a proviso "that said persons shall commence operations upon said road within two years after the passage of this act, and complete the same within five years," the requirements of such proviso are not conditions precedent to a corporate existence. Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Garland, 14 S. C. 63; Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. White, 14 S. C. 51.

Where the form of the charter is prescribed that form must be followed. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

Where in the organization of a railroad company all the requirements of the charter are observed, although not in the order prescribed, the organization is sufficient. Eakright v. Logansport, etc., R. Co., 13 Ind. 404.

15. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

tion is incomplete.[16] Thus, in order that there may be a corporation de jure, there must be a substantial compliance with conditions precedent relative to the time within which the company must be organized,[17] and to the subscription and payment of capital stock,[18] and with provisions requiring that there shall be a minimum number of persons who may unite to form the corporation,[19] although it is not necessary that such corporators should be residents of and dwellers in the state.[20] But although there may have been some defects or irregularities in the organization of the company, these may be cured by a subsequent legislative enactment recognizing or authorizing its corporate existence.[21] A failure to comply with a condition subsequent in a statute creating or authorizing the incorporation of a railroad company does not affect the validity of its organization or its existence, although it may give the state the right to have its franchises forfeited.[22] Where a statute creates certain individuals a body corporate for the purpose of taking over the rights and franchises of an existing company, irregularities in the organization of the latter company are not necessarily fatal to its existence as the organization is but the creation of an agency by which it can act, and presupposes its existence,[23] and directions in the statute in regard to such organization are not conditions of its being, and not following them will at most work a forfeiture and enable the commonwealth to retake the franchises.[24] The existence of a railroad company, formed under general laws, ordinarily dates from the time of the filing of its charter.[25] Where a railroad company is not legally organized, proceedings may be commenced by the attorney-general by way of information for an injunction to restrain its incorporators and officers from making use of the name or exercising the powers of the company, so far as public interests are involved.[26]

2. Subscriptions to and Payment of Stock as Condition to Organization.[27] In the absence of a constitutional or statutory provision to that effect, neither a subscription of the entire amount of the capital stock nor of any portion or percentage thereof, is essential to the coming into existence of a railroad corporation.[28] Under some statutes, however, it is a prerequisite to the valid organization of a

16. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

17. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263, holding, however, that the failure of a railroad company to organize under an act authorizing its organization within the time prescribed therein does not prevent a valid organization thereafter, unless a forfeiture has been declared in proceedings instituted by the state.

18. See infra, II, B, 2.

19. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [reversed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755]; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Sullivant, 5 Ohio St. 276.

20. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [reversed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755].

21. People v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 440; Cayuga Lake R. Co. v. Kyle, 64 N. Y. 185 [affirming 5 Thomps. & C. 659]; Smith v. Spencer, 12 U. C. C. P. 277. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 241, 242.

Illustration.— Thus an act of the legislature confirming an ordinance of a city granting permission to a railroad company chartered by special act to locate a track on and over certain streets within the city limits and authorizing the company to build a bridge over a river, the giving of which privileges had been accepted by the company, was a legislative recognition that the company then had a corporate existence and had taken corporate action in carrying out the purposes of its charter. McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611. So where the state has sold a railroad company to individuals requiring them to form themselves into a corporation, and the legislature has in several subsequent acts recognized the existence of the corporation, its existence cannot be questioned by third parties and such recognition dispenses with other evidence of the fact. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315].

22. See Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. White, 14 S. C. 51; and infra, II, J, 2.

23. Com. v. Central Pass. R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 506.

24. Com. v. Central Pass. R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 506.

25. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stafford County, 36 Kan. 121, 12 Pac. 593.

Existence under special act see infra, II, B, 5.

26. Atty.-Gen. v. Bergen, 29 Nova Scotia 135.

27. Subscription and payment of capital stock as a condition to organization of corporations in general see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 230, 232.

28. Waterford, etc., R. Co. v. Dalbiac, 6 Exch. 443, 20 L. J. Exch. 227, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 753, 4 Eng. L. & Eq. 455.

railroad company that shares to a certain amount shall be subscribed,[29] and a certain per cent be paid thereon in good faith.[30] It is not necessary under such statute that the per cent required be paid upon each subscription at the time of making the same or previous to the filing of the articles of association; but it is sufficient if the cash payments, by whomsoever made, amount in the aggregate to a sum equal to the required percentage of the required capital stock.[31] Subscriptions, within the meaning of such provisions, must be unconditional; and conditional subscriptions made before organization cannot be considered in determining whether the requisite amount of stock has been subscribed to authorize the organization.[32]

3. Articles of Incorporation and Charter. There must also be at least a substantial compliance with the requirement that the incorporators prepare and subscribe a certificate or articles of association or incorporation,[33] and acknowl-

29. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 20 N. Y. 157; Lake Ontario, etc., R. Co. v. Mason, 16 N. Y. 451; Kingston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913. See also Moore v. Murphy, 11 U. C. C. P. 444.

30. Lake Ontario, etc., R. Co. v. Mason, 16 N. Y. 451; People v. Public Service Commission, 122 N. Y. App. Div. 283, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 968, construing Laws (1890), c. 565, § 59, as amended by Laws (1892), c. 676.

Under the North Carolina code which requires articles of association of a railroad company to state "the length of such road as near as may be," and section 1933, providing that such articles shall not be filed and recorded "until at least $1,000 of stock for every mile of proposed railroad is subscribed and five per cent thereon paid in good faith," articles stating the length of the proposed road as sixty miles and reporting only thirty-two thousand dollars of stock as subscribed and one thousand six hundred dollars paid in are void on their face. Kingston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

A payment "in cash" within the meaning of a statute requiring a certain per cent of the amount of the subscription to be paid in cash before the articles of association can be filed is sufficiently complied with by giving to one of the directors, or other officer authorized to receive such payment, a certified check on a solvent bank which then holds funds belonging to the subscriber sufficient in amount to pay the check. People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 45 Cal. 306, 13 Am. Rep. 178; In re Staten Island Rapid Transit R. Co., 37 Hun (N. Y.) 422. So where the per cent required is deposited with a bank to the credit of the railroad company subject to be drawn out by check signed by the officers of the company, and the bank, although interested in the company, is absolutely responsible, it is a sufficient compliance with the statute requiring such payment in cash. Matter of Wood, 99 N. Y. App. Div. 334, 91 N. Y. Suppl. 225 [affirmed in 181 N. Y. 93, 73 N. E. 561, 34 N. Y. Civ. Proc. 127]. The treasurer of a company about to form a railroad corporation may receive from the subscribers payment of the ten per cent required by law to be paid to him in bank checks drawn by the subscribers and payable in præsenti provided they are drawn against a sufficient fund in the bank to pay the checks on presentation and the same are drawn in good faith and with no intention to evade the law. People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 45 Cal. 306, 13 Am. Rep. 178.

The 4th section of the New York Railroad Act requiring every subscriber to pay the ten per cent in money and forbidding the reception of any subscription without such payment relates exclusively to subscriptions for filling up the stock by means of new subscribers after the articles have been filed and the company has assumed an authorized corporate existence. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Frost, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 541.

Under the Indiana general law of 1852, where an incipient organization has been effected and fifty thousand dollars or more of the capital stock subscribed and articles of association duly executed and a copy thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state, the company acquires a competent legal existence with all the rights and powers conferred upon it by that law. Hoagland v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. 452.

31. Lake Ontario, etc., R. Co. v. Mason, 16 N. Y. 451; Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Frost, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 541; Spartenburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ezell, 14 S. C. 281.

32. Fairview R. Co. v. Spillman, 23 Oreg. 587, 32 Pac. 688.

33. See cases cited infra, this note.

Where a person in subscribing articles of association of a railroad company signs an incomplete paper in which the names of the directors are left blank, the instrument is incomplete and inoperative as against him; and where there is no implied consent upon his part to the insertion of the names of any persons as directors, the instrument is not made binding upon him by the insertion of such names without his consent. Dutchess, etc., R. Co. v. Mabbett, 58 N. Y. 397.

Seals.— In Ohio, it is essential to the creation of a railroad company that seals be annexed to the names of the incorporators subscribed to the certificate, which is required to be filed in the office of the secretary of state. Warner v. Callender, 20 Ohio St. 190; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Sullivant, 5 Ohio St. 276; Griffin v. Clinton Line Extension R. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,816.

Partnership.— The provision in the New York General Railroad Act requiring each subscriber to the articles of association to edge, and support the same by affidavit,[34] and file the same, usually in the office of the secretary of state;[35] and with requirements relative to the registration of the charter.[36] There should also be a substantial compliance with the requirement that the certificate or articles of incorporation specify the object and purposes of the company,[37] the length of the road,[38] the name assumed by the company and by which it shall be known,[39] the names of the directors,[40] and other like matters.[41] The provisions of the certificate or articles of association or incorsubscribe thereto "his name, place of residence and amount by whom subscribed" does not call for an individual personal subscription by all the members of a partnership firm. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Frost, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 541. A subscription in the partnership name is a compliance with the act; especially where it appears that the subscription was made by one of the partners in the name of both, and the other subsequently ratified and confirmed it. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Frost, supra.

34. People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 45 Cal. 306, 13 Am. Rep. 178; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 75 N. Y. App. Div. 106, 77 N. Y. Suppl. 380, construing Laws (1890), c. 565, § 2, Laws (1892), c. 677, and Laws (1896), c. 547, in respect to the acknowledgment of such a certificate.

A certificate, the execution of which was defective because it was not properly signed and acknowledged, does not constitute the persons signing the same a corporation, and this objection may be raised by another railroad company in opposition to an application, made by the corporation attempted to be created by the certificate, to the railroad commissioners, for a certificate on the ground that public convenience and necessity require the building of its road. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 75 N. Y. App. Div. 106, 77 N. Y. Suppl. 380.

An incorporator of a railroad company has no power in his capacity as a notary public to take the acknowledgment of another incorporator to the certificate of incorporation, and an acknowledgment so taken is a nullity. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 105 N. Y. App. Div. 273, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 584.

An affidavit that there has been a bona fide subscription of a certain amount of the capital stock, and a payment of a certain per cent thereof, is required, in support of the articles or certificate of incorporation, under some statutes. People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., 45 Cal. 306, 13 Am. Rep. 178 (construing St. (1861) p. 607); Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 20 N. Y. 157, holding that the statement in such an affidavit that "ten per cent has been paid in cash on said subscription" is sufficient without adding that it was paid to the directors and in good faith. The affidavit of three directors that eighty-four thousand one hundred dollars has in good faith been subscribed to the capital stock, annexed and referring to the articles which state the termini of the road and that its length is about seventy-five miles is sufficient evidence that at least one thousand dollars of stock for every mile of road proposed is subscribed. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, supra. A statute relating to the formation of a railroad company is substantially complied with where the only defect in the papers necessary to constitute a corporation is the omission of the words "in good faith" in that portion of the affidavit attached to the certificate relating to the payment of ten per cent. People v. Stockton, etc., R. Co., supra.

35. Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913, holding that the filing and recording by the secretary of state of the articles of association of a proposed railroad company, if not such as allowed by law, is a nullity.

Where the papers filed by which a railroad company is sought to be created are colorable, but so defective that in a proceeding on the part of the state against it it would for that reason be dissolved, yet by acts of user under such organization it becomes a corporation de facto as against a subscriber to its capital or other third persons. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Cary, 26 N. Y. 75.

Parol evidence is admissible to show the date of the filing of the articles of association of a railroad company organized under Ind. Gen. St. (1852) in the office of the secretary of state. Johnson v. Crawfordsville, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 280.

36. Anderson v. Railroad Co., 91 Tenn. 44, 17 S. W. 803, construing the act of 1865, section 26, and holding that where a company is organized to run a railroad through several counties, the county where its charter has been registered shall be deemed to have been determined on as the location of the principal office, and holding a directors' and stockholders' meeting in another county will not change such fact.

37. Bay City Belt-Line R. Co. v. Hitchcock, 90 Mich. 533, 51 N. W. 808.

38. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Hatch, 20 N. Y. 157 (holding that such provision in the Laws of 1850, chapter 140, requires only such proximate estimate of the proposed road as may be made in good faith without an actual survey and location thereof); Kinston, etc., R. Co. v. Stroud, 132 N. C. 413, 43 S. E. 913.

39. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Sullivant, 5 Ohio St. 276.

40. Eakright v. Logansport, etc., R. Co., 13 Ind. 404.

Where the charter requires that the directors shall be named in the articles of association, such requirement is sufficiently complied with by adopting the articles at the time of electing the directors and such requirement is only directory. Eakright v. Logansport, etc., R. Co., 13 Ind. 404.

41. See the cases cited infra, this note.

poration of a railroad company organized under a general law constitute the charter of the company in so far as such provisions are authorized by the statute under which the company is formed,[42] and such charter is a contract, at least after interest has become vested under it, within the meaning of that clause of the United States constitution which prohibits a state from passing any law impairing the obligations of a contract.[43] The filing of the articles of incorporation or association is no part of such articles but is a fact separate from and independent of them.[44] The indorsement of such articles is not the filing thereof; at most it is no more than prima facie evidence of the time of the filing.[45] Under some statutes informalities or defects in the articles or certificate of incorporation may be cured by amendment.[46]

4. Specification of Termini and Principal Place of Business. There must also be a substantial compliance with the requirement that its charter or other certificate or articles of association or incorporation designate the proposed termini of the road,[47] and the county or counties, city or cities through which it will

Payments on stock.—A statutory requirement that the charter of a corporation must declare "the time when and the manner in which" payment on the stock subscribed shall be made is substantially complied with where the charter declares "that the stock shall be paid for in cash" at such times and in such amounts and with such notices to the subscribers as the managers and directors shall deem best for all parties in interest. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Frank, 39 La. Ann. 707, 2 So. 310; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 37 La. Ann. 883.

42. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cutts, 94 U. S. 155, 24 L. ed. 94.

43. Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cutts, 94 U. S. 155, 24 L. ed. 94.

44. Johnson v. Crawfordsville, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 280.

45. Johnson v. Crawfordsville, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 280.

46. See the statutes of the several states. N. Y. Gen. Corp. Law, § 7 (Laws (1890), c. 565, as amended by Laws (1892), c. 676, and Laws (1895), c. 545), authorizing the filing of an amended certificate of incorporation correcting an informality or defect existing in the original or amended or supplemental certificate of incorporation does not authorize the filing by a railroad corporation of an amended certificate of incorporation which was intended to effect a change in the proposed route and terminus of the railroad, nor can such amended articles of incorporation be deemed a sufficient compliance with section 13 of the railroad law authorizing a railroad company to change its route, where it appears that the certificate of change, together with the survey and map, was not filed in the county clerk's office as required by this section. Matter of Riverhead, etc., R. Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 514, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 938.

47. Illinois.— Gillette v. Aurora R. Co., 228 Ill. 261, 81 N. E. 1005.

Indiana.— State v. Bailey, 19 Ind. 452; Eakright v. Logansport, etc., R. Co., 13 Ind. 404.

Maryland.—Piedmont, etc., R. Co. v. Speelman, 67 Md. 260, 10 Atl. 77, 293.

Nebraska.— Trester v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 33 Nebr. 171, 49 N. W. 1110.

New Jersey.— Atty.-Gen. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 27 N. J. Eq. 631.

New York.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 819, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 909 [affirmed in 192 N. Y. 558, 85 N. E. 1113], holding that the provision in Laws (1850), c. 140, that the certificate of incorporation of a railroad shall state the places from which and to which the road is to be constructed, is satisfied by naming the towns, villages, or cities which are the termini of the road.

Ohio.— Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 11 Ohio St. 516; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Sullivant, 5 Ohio St. 276.

Tennessee.— Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155, construing Shannon's Code, § 2412.

West Virginia.— Deepwater R. Co. v. Lambert, 54 W. Va. 387, 46 S. E. 144.

A named station used in a railroad charter to designate a railroad's terminus should be held to mean a locality and not a fixed and definite point. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

In Wisconsin, under the statute of 1898, sections 1863, 1772, it has been held that to incorporate a suburban railway corporation under section 1863 it is not a prerequisite that the articles of incorporation designate the termini of the road, or that the cities, villages, or towns through which it is to run shall be named, but that articles of incorporation stating that the purpose of the incorporation is to construct and operate street railways in a city named elsewhere in the state, and to extend its lines into and through any village or town, sufficiently states its business or purpose to entitle it to incorporate as an interurban railway under that section. Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 342, 112 N. W. 672; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

Public character.— The articles of association of a railroad company must designate the termini of the road, such as cities, towns, or villages which shall indicate its public pass,[48] and its principal place of business.[49] The requirement that the termini shall be specified in the articles of incorporation means only that the railroad shall have such termini definitely ascertained and fixed so as to indicate its general direction and location;[50] and where the law does not in terms require that the termini shall be at or in a town, village, or city, the statute is sufficiently complied with where the places or points of the termini are definitely designated and fixed.[51] As a general rule the charter of a commercial railroad, as distinguished from a street railroad, need not contain any description of the route, but only of the termini.[52] Its route may be generally, but need not be definitely, stated in the charter;[53] but the route of a commercial railroad through a city as well as that of a street railway, must be designated in its charter where the statute so requires, in order that it may obtain permission or concession from the city to occupy the streets over which it is intended to build the road.[54]

5. Acceptance of Charter. Where a railroad company is formed by a special charter, the incorporation is not complete until the charter is accepted by the corporators.[55] But in the absence of statutory requirements to that effect a formal acceptance is not required,[56] but acceptance may be implied from the circumstances,[57] as from the fact of its organization pursuant to the provisions of the character, and an application for a charter for a railroad indicating its termini from a point on or near the premises of one manufacturing establishment to or near the premises of another manufacturing establishment in the same city indicates a private rather than a public use and the charter should be refused. In re Pittsburg Transfer R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 411.

Branch lines.— Nebr. Comp. St. (1873) which requires the certificate of organization of a railroad company to state the names of the termini of the road and the county or counties through which the road shall pass applies only to the main line of the company; and hence it is not necessary for the certificate to specify the termini of branch lines or the counties through which they will pass. Trester v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 33 Nebr. 171, 49 N. W. 1110.

"At or near."— A description in a statutory certificate of parties organizing as a railroad corporation of one terminus of their proposed road as "at or near" a place named in the certificate and on the line of a specified road terminating at that place is sufficiently certain. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [reversed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755]; Warner v. Callender, 20 Ohio St. 190. Compare Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

48. Piedmont, etc., R. Co. v. Speelman, 67 Md. 260, 10 Atl. 77, 293; Callender v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 11 Ohio St. 516; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Sullivant, 5 Ohio St. 276.

The names of townships through which a proposed railroad is to be extended are not required to be set forth in the articles of incorporation under the corporation laws of Ohio (Rev. St. § 3237); the counties only are required to be mentioned and the naming of townships is mere surplusage, which fact does not limit the company to such townships nor prevent it from extending its road into other townships of counties named in the articles. Hayes v. Toledo R., etc., Co., 26 Ohio Cir. Ct. 395 [affirmed in 70 Ohio St. 425, 72 N. E. 1165].

49. Canon City, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,387 [reversed on other grounds in 99 U. S. 463, 25 L. ed. 438], holding that a certificate of incorporation designating the company's principal place of business, and setting forth that its principal business would be carried on in certain counties named, in which its line was to be located, is a substantial compliance with the Colorado act of 1876 (11th Sess. Laws, p. 41), requiring such a certificate to designate the principal office, and name of the county in which the principal business of the corporation is to be carried on.

50. Union R. Co. v. Canton R. Co., 105 Md. 12, 65 Atl. 409.

51. Union R. Co. v. Canton R. Co., 105 Md. 12, 65 Atl. 409.

52. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

53. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

54. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

55. Farnsworth v. Lime Rock R. Co., 83 Me. 440, 22 Atl. 373; Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263; Quinlan v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 356, 34 S. W. 738. And see. generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 203.

Although the rights under a legislative charter may not be complete because of nonacceptance of the charter in the manner required by the statute, the state cannot treat the company as a mere trespasser on a right of way of public lands under a land grant, and as owing rent therefor. State v. New Orleans City, etc., R. Co., 104 La. 685, 29 So. 312.

56. Quinlan v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 356, 34 S. W. 738.

57. Farnsworth v. Lime Rock R. Co., 83 Me. 440, 22 Atl. 373; Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.

charter,[58] and without an organization there can be no acceptance.[59] A sufficient acceptance may also be inferred from the fact that the act creating it was passed at the request of the directors designated in the charter;[60] from the exercise of corporate powers or other unequivocal acts on the part of the company;[61] from the fact that the company had constructed and operated a part of its road;[62] or from the fact that the company afterward obtained amendments to its charter.[63] As a general rule, when a charter is granted, whether it be one of creation, or an amendment to a preëxisting charter, it must either be accepted or rejected as offered and without condition.[64] In accepting the privileges conferred by a charter, the railroad company will be required to perform all conditions imposed;[65] but if the charter confers corporate capacity without any conditions precedent, acceptance of the charter is all that need be shown to prove corporate existence.[66] It has been held that the acceptance of such a special act vesting designated persons with corporate powers and declaring them to be a corporation eo instante creates a corporation.[67]

C. Duration and Termination of Corporate Existence. The duration and termination of the corporate existence of a railroad company is usually governed by the terms of its charter, or of the statute under which it is incorporated.[68] Where the charter or governing statute fixes a definite period of time during which its corporate life shall continue, the corporation is ipso facto dissolved at the end of such period.[69] But in the absence of such limitation, a railroad company, like other corporations, may have the capacity of perpetual existence.[70] A railroad company may also cease to exist by voluntary surrender of its corporate franchises,[71] by a consolidation with other companies,[72] or by a forfeiture of its franchises being enforced by the state.[73] Under some statutes a railroad company may continue to exist as a corporate body for a specified period after its charter has expired or been annulled for the purpose of suing and being sued and

58. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263; Quinlan v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 356, 34 S. W. 738.

59. Quinlan v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 356, 34 S. W. 738.

60. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Shambaugh, 106 Mo. 557, 17 S. W. 581.

61. Lyons v. Orange, etc., R. Co., 32 Md. 18; St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Shambaugh, 106 Mo. 557, 17 S. W. 581.

Meeting of directors.—Acceptance of the charter of a corporation, if any is necessary where the charter creates a corporation in præsenti and appoints a board of directors, is sufficiently shown by the meeting and proceedings of the directors under the charter, although had without the limits of the state creating the corporation. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. McPherson, 35 Mo. 13, 86 Am. Dec. 128.

62. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Shambaugh, 106 Mo. 557, 17 S. W. 581.

63. Farnsworth v. Lime Rock R. Co., 83 Me. 440, 22 Atl. 373.

64. Lyons v. Orange, etc., R. Co., 32 Md. 18.

65. Lyons v. Orange, etc., R. Co., 32 Md. 18.

66. Roosa v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 114 Mo. 508, 21 S. W. 1124; St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Shambaugh, 106 Mo. 557, 17 S. W. 581.

67. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663.

68. See Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 6 Cush. (Mass.) 424.

69. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 15 Fla. 637; People v. Anderson, etc., R. Co., 76 Cal. 190, 18 Pac. 308; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans, 34 La. Ann. 429; La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420. See Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 6 Cush. (Mass.) 424, holding that an act incorporating a railroad company with a proviso that after twenty years the commonwealth may, in a certain contingency, purchase the franchise of the road, the company is not, by virtue of such provision, expressly limited as to its duration, within the act of 1830, chapter 81 (Rev. St. c. 44, § 23) relating to the amendment of acts of incorporation.

70. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1271.

Where the corporate existence of a railroad company is by its original charter limited to fifty years, but by an amendatory act it is provided that at the expiration of each subsequent term of ten years the state shall have the right at its election to take all the property, etc., and if this election is not made within twelve months then the charter of the company shall be continued for another term of ten years, the company has a capacity of perpetual existence, unless the election to purchase is exercised. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140.

71. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1299 et seq.; and infra, II, J, 2.

72. See infra, VII, E, 6, a.

73. See infra, II, J, 2.

closing up its business at the end of which period it ceases to exist entirely.[74] But the corporate existence of a railroad company, even when it has ceased entirely, may be revived by an act of the legislature;[75] or the corporate existence of one company may be continued by an act of the legislature into a new company under a new name.[76]

D. Organization Tax. Under some statutes, a railroad company is required, for the privilege of organization and doing business in the state, to pay, usually to the state treasurer, an organization tax consisting usually of a specified per cent upon the amount of the capital stock which the company is authorized to have,[77] and some of these statutes apply to foreign companies doing business in the state.[78] These statutes apply only where there is a creation or renewal of corporate powers,[79] as where the property and franchises of a railroad company are sold under foreclosure and a new company formed;[80] and do not apply where

74. Maine Short Line R. Co. v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 92 Me. 476, 43 Atl. 113; Ford v. Delta, etc., Land Co., 43 Fed. 181 [affirmed in 164 U. S. 662, 17 S. Ct. 230, 41 L. ed. 590].

75. See cases cited infra, this note.

Minn. Spec. Laws (1862), c. 19, which granted, transferred, and continued in certain persons named, and also designated by the name and style of the Winona and St. Peter Railroad Company all the rights, benefits, privileges, property, franchises, and interests of the Transit Railroad Company which had been previously acquired by the state, did not revive the Transit Railroad Company but transferred its franchises, etc., to the Winona and St. Peter Railroad Company. Hilbert v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 11 Minn. 246; Huff v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 11 Minn. 180. And for a similar construction of Laws (1862), c. 17, see Fitz v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 11 Minn. 414.

76. See Wilson v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 21 Gratt. (Va.) 654, construing Sess. Acts (1866–1867), p. 705, c. 280, § 15.

77. See Opinion of Justices, 65 N. H. 673, 23 Atl. 620 (construing Gen. Laws, c. 13, § 5, in connection with Laws (1887), c. 304); Muehlenbeck v. Babylon, etc., R. Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 136, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 1023; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Tod, 94 Tex. 632, 64 S. W. 778. And see the statutes of the several states.

Under N. Y. Laws (1886), c. 143, § 1, providing that "every joint-stock company or association incorporated by or under any general or special law of this state, having capital stock divided into shares, shall pay to the state treasurer for the use of the state, a tax of one-eighth of one per centum upon the amount of capital stock which said corporation . . . is authorized to have," and Laws (1869), c. 917, as amended by Laws (1881), c. 685, authorizing the consolidation of railroad companies organized under the laws of this or any other state, it has been held "that where two or more domestic corporations are so consolidated, the resulting entity may properly be said to be a corporation incorporated by and under a general and special law of this state" within the meaning of Laws (1886), requiring an organization tax and so subject to the tax imposed by said act; but where the consolidation is of a domestic corporation with a corporation of another state whose legislature has sanctioned such a consolidation as a new corporation, it owes its existence not to the state law alone but to the legislation of the two states, and is not liable to such tax. People v. Fitchburg R. Co., 129 N. Y. 654, 29 N. E. 959 [reversing 61 Hun 619, 15 N. Y. Suppl. 644]; People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 129 N. Y. 474, 29 N. E. 959, 15 L. R. A. 82 [reversing 61 Hun 66, 15 N. Y. Suppl. 635].

78. See cases cited infra, this note. But see State v. Tompkins, 48 S. C. 49, 25 S. E. 982.

Mo. Rev. St. (1889) § 1025 (Laws (1891), p. 75), providing that foreign corporations shall not be permitted to do or continue business in the state without paying on the proportion of the capital stock represented by their property or business in the state, incorporation taxes or fees equal to those required from similar domestic corporations, except that this shall not apply to railroad companies "which shall heretofore build their lines of railway into or through the state," applies to a foreign railroad corporation which had prior to 1891 merely constructed a part of its proposed road within the state. State v. Cook, 171 Mo. 348, 71 S. W. 829. But the above statute is to be considered in connection with Const. art. 10, § 21, and Rev. St. (1879) § 764, and such company is liable to the payment of the incorporation fee on that part of its capital stock employed in the state calculated on a basis of ten thousand dollars for each mile of road proposed by its charter to be constructed in the state, less the sum expended in the construction of that part of its road which was constructed before the enactment of Rev. St. (1899). State v. Cook, supra.

79. See Opinion of Justices, 65 N. H. 673, 23 Atl. 620.

The consolidation of three railroad companies is the formation of a new company within Mo. Const. art. 10, § 21, providing that no corporation shall be organized without the payment of certain fees on or before the filing of the articles of incorporation, although the three companies had previously paid the fees for their incorporation. State v. Lesueur, 145 Mo. 322, 46 S. W. 1075.

80. People v. Cook, 110 N. Y. 443, 18

there is merely a purchase of the property and franchises of one company by another company,[81] or where there is an amendment of a company's charter which does not increase its capital stock.[82]

E. Capital and Stock.[83] The capital and stock of a railroad company is governed by the rules regulating the capital and stock of corporations generally, except where there are special constitutional or statutory provisions regulating the same.[84] Under some statutes a railroad company is required to expend a certain per cent of its capital stock upon the road within a specified time.[85]

F. Reorganization.[86] In the absence of special statutory provisions otherwise, the reorganization of a railroad company is governed by the rules applicable to the reorganization of corporations in general.[87]

N. E. 113 [affirming 47 Hun 467, and affirmed in 148 U. S. 397, 13 S. Ct. 645, 37 L. ed. 498, 154 U. S. 512, 14 S. Ct. 1150, 38 L. ed. 1073].

Constitutionality.— N. Y. Act, April 16, 1886, c. 143, imposing such a tax on a company so organized, after the passage of the act, by purchasers who purchased at a foreclosure sale made before its passage, violates no contract of the state and is no violation of the constitution of the United States. People v. Cook, 154 U. S. 512, 14 S. Ct. 1150, 38 L. ed. 1073, 148 U. S. 397, 13 S. Ct. 645, 37 L. ed. 498 [affirming 110 N. Y. 443, 18 N. E. 113 (affirming 47 Hun 467)].

81. Opinion of the Justices, 65 N. H. 673, 23 Atl. 620.

82. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Tod, 94 Tex. 632, 64 S. W. 778, construing Rev. St. art. 2439.

83. Subscriptions to and payment of stock as condition to organization see supra, II, B, 2.

84. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 364 et seq.

Power of railroad commissioners to authorize or prohibit the issuance of stock certificates or annul them when once issued and delivered see Davis v. San Antonio, etc., R. Co., 92 Tex. 642, 51 S. W. 324 [reversing (Civ. App. 1898) 44 S. W. 1012], construing Rev. St. art. 4585*g*.

Increase of capital stock see State v. Great Northern R. Co., 100 Minn. 445, 111 N. W. 289, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 250 (construing Rev. Laws (1905), § 2872); In re Chartiers Connecting R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 270. And see, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 538 et seq. Tenn. Act (1875), c. 142, § 5, providing that a corporation may by its by-laws fix the amount of capital stock, is restricted by section 6 which relates to railroad companies and the manner of increasing their capital and stock, and hence does not apply to a railroad corporation organized and operated under the latter section, the charter of which incorporated such section as a part thereof. Union R. Co. v. Sneed, 99 Tenn. 1, 41 S. W. 364, 47 S. W. 89.

Interest on stock.— Under Ky. Acts (1850–1851), c. 505, § 5, which provides that a certain railroad "shall allow to all subscribers and holders of stock under the company, interest on the same from the time of paying for said stock" up to the time of making the first dividend, interest did not begin to run on the stock from the date on which a county subscribing therefor issued bonds in payment thereof, but from the date of the delivery of the bonds to the company, although the bonds bore date anterior to their delivery. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hart County, 116 Ky. 186, 75 S. W. 288, 77 S. W. 361, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 395.

Sale of lands taken for stock as required by Ind. Act (1852), § 2 (1 Rev. St. p. 427), as being a question of fact see Taber v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 15 Ind. 459.

Payment for stock.— The provision of Ill. Const. art. 11, § 13, that no railroad company shall issue any stock or bonds except for money, labor, or property actually received and applied to the purposes for which such corporation was organized, and that all stock dividends and other fictitious increase of the capital stock of any such corporation shall be void, does not render invalid stock issued by a railroad company directly or indirectly in payment for the construction of its road; nor can a court hold it invalid on a determination that the consideration so received was not equal to the par value of the stock. Lake St. R. Co. v. Ziegler, 99 Fed. 114, 39 C. C. A. 431. And the issuance of stock by a railroad company in violation of such provision is ultra vires, and the stock void in the hands of all holders, and the company cannot maintain a suit against the person to whom it was issued to require an accounting for its proceeds. Lake St. R. Co. v. Ziegler, supra.

85. Thornburgh v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 14 Ind. 499 (holding also that it cannot be proved collaterally that the company has not expended the required per cent within the required time); Rio Grande Western R. Co. v. Telluride Power, etc., Co., 16 Utah 125, 51 Pac. 136 (holding Comp. Laws (1888), § 2358, requiring railroad companies building roads in that state to expend ten per cent of their capital stock within two years after filing their articles of incorporation, to apply to a consolidated company); Ontario, etc., R. Co. v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 14 Ont. 432.

86. Reorganization by purchasing bondholders see infra, VIII, B, 15.

Reorganization by purchasers at foreclosure sale see infra, VIII, B, 16.

87. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 281 et seq.

A bill of discovery will lie to compel a defendant railroad company organized by force

G. Stock-Holders and Subscriptions to Stock.[88] In the absence of special statutory provisions, the law applicable to corporations generally governs questions relative to the status, rights, and liabilities of stock-holders in railroad companies,[89] and subscriptions to stock therein.[90] Under some statutes the stock-holders of a railroad company are liable for all debts owing to laborers or servants for services performed for the company.[91] In the absence of any proof statute, to disclose to a mortgage bondholder the plan of reorganization. Midland R. Co. v. Hitchcock, 24 N. J. Eq. 278.

Ascertaining liabilities of old company.— Where an agreement was entered into between a trust company and the holders of the various classes of mortgages on a railroad, by which the trust company, for the purpose of reorganizing the railroad company, was to obtain control of all the outstanding mortgages on the property, provide for the issue of new stock, ascertain what the floating debt of the old company and the expense of carrying out the plan of reorganization would be, and fix the amount to be paid by the stock-holders of the old company to enable it to take shares in the new corporation, the judgment of the trust company as to what should be taken into account in ascertaining such debt and liability to the old company, if honestly and fairly exercised upon any doubtful or disputed question, should not be reversed. Gernsheim v. Central Trust Co., 61 Hun (N. Y.) 625, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 127.

Laches.— The holder of an unliquidated claim of a railroad company will be held barred by laches from the right to charge a reorganized company succeeding to the property with liability thereon, on the ground that it issued bonds and stock to the old company, where with ample opportunity he neglected to assert such claim against the company until after the transaction had been completed and the bonds and stock delivered. Wenger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 105 Fed. 796.

88. Consent of stock-holder: To lease of road see infra, VII, C, 1, e. To consolidation of road see infra, VII, E, 2, e.

Right of original stock-holder to take stock after foreclosure see infra, VIII, B, 16, b.

Right of stock-holders: On lease of road see infra, VII, C, 4. On consolidation of road see infra, VII, E, 6, f. On purchase by bondholders at foreclosure sale see infra, VIII, B, 15, c.

Subscriptions in aid of road in general see infra, III, B.

89. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 364 et seq., 538 et seq., 649 et seq.

Management of road.— The provision in the Union Pacific charter for government directors did not take the corporation out of the general rule, that except in cases where the charter imposes a limitation, the stock-holders are the proper parties to take final action in the management of the railroad's affairs. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265. Under Ga. Civ. Code (1895), § 2163, conferring the management of the affairs of railroad companies on their boards of directors, where stock-holders attend the regular annual meeting of the stock-holders of a railroad company, they may transact the business of the meeting and elect officers, although a majority in interest or in number of the stock-holders are not present. Sylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Hoge, 129 Ga. 734, 59 S. E. 806.

Stock-holders in a railroad company are debtors to the company for any unpaid balance upon their subscriptions for stock, and are answerable as such debtors to the company upon a proceeding in aid of execution in the nature of a creditors' bill, and may be called to answer in the county in which the judgment debtor is lawfully proceeded against, although they may reside in a different county. Ewin v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 198. And see, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 653 et seq.

90. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 380 et seq.

Subscription to or purchase of stock by one railroad in another company see infra, VII, B, 1, c.

A breach of contract of subscription by either party renders him liable in damages to the other party. Scarce v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 17 Ind. 193.

Mutuality of contract.— Where the commissioners appointed to receive subscriptions to the stock of a railroad company are empowered to reject such subscriptions before the organization of the company but do not do so, the contract entered into by subscribing for stock is sufficiently mutual to make it valid. Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Bailey, 24 Vt. 465, 58 Am. Dec. 181.

Power of commissioners appointed to take subscriptions, to give assurances as to the line of location that will be adopted for the road under the charter of the North Carolina Railroad Company see North Carolina R. Co. v. Leach, 49 N. C. 340.

91. Aikin v. Wasson, 24 N. Y. 482 (holding that a contractor for the construction of part of a railroad is not a laborer or servant within such a statute); Boutwell v. Townsend, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 205, holding that section 102 of the General Railroad Act of 1850, rendering stock-holders of railroad companies liable for all debts owing to laborers or servants for services performed for the company, is intended to secure the daily earnings of the workmen and operatives of the road, and not the claims of all persons who performed labor and services for the company.

Pleading.—A complaint setting forth that a railroad company was indebted to plaintiffs for work, labor, and services done by them vision in the railroad charter or governing statute to the contrary, stock subscriptions may be made payable upon such terms as are agreed upon between the corporation and the stock-holders.[92] A railroad company by receiving and expending county subscriptions of stock is estopped to deny that its charter authorized the company to take such subscriptions.[93] Where a person makes a valid subscription for the capital stock of a railroad company without being induced to do so by fraud, he assumes the risk of the value of the stock and cannot defend an action to recover the amount of the subscription by showing that the stock subscribed for is valueless.[94]

H. Officers and Agents[95] — 1. In General. Except in so far as they are regulated by special statutory or charter provisions, the law applicable to officers and agents of corporations in general covers questions relating to the directors,[96] and other officers and agents of a railroad company,[97] as in respect to what authority and powers may be exercised by the directors,[98] or may be exercised by the must expressly show that the cause of action was due and owing to a laborer or servant of the company for services performed for the company. Boutwell v. Townsend, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 205.

92. Portage County v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 121 Mass. 460 (holding that a railroad company having under its charter a right to construct its road between two places by a circuitous route and intending to apply to the legislature for authority to construct a more direct route between these places may, before such authority is obtained or any location thereof is made, make a valid contract for a sale of its stock conditioned upon the building of the latter route); Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Garland, 14 S. C. 63; Montpelier, etc., R. Co. v. Langdon, 45 Vt. 137; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 12 Wis. 340 (holding that a subscription for stock is not invalid because it contained conditions that it should not be payable until needed for the construction of a certain portion of the railroad, and that the amount paid should be applied solely to the construction of such portion of the road and should draw interest until a certain portion of the road should be completed. See also Port Whitby, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 31 U. C. Q. B. 170.

Promise of a contract for the construction of the road as a consideration for a subscription see Bullivant v. Manning, 41 U. C. Q. B. 517; Wilson v. Ginty, 3 Ont. App. 124; Newman v. Ginty, 29 U. C. C. P. 34.

A railroad is not "finished" within the terms of a stock subscription note not maturing until its completion, so long as its cars are transferred across a river by ferry, pending the completion of a bridge contracted for. Garner v. Hall, 122 Ala. 221, 25 So. 187.

93. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Wisdom, 5 Heisk. (Tenn.) 125.

94. Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 57 Wis. 430, 15 N. W. 743, 825.

95. Mortgagees and trustees see infra, VIII, A, 7, f.

Regulations as to employees see infra, X, B, 3, f.

Admissions by officers and agents as evidence see Evidence, 16 Cyc. 1021 et seq. And see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 947 et seq.

Authority of agent of railroad to receive goods for transportation see Carriers, 6 Cyc. 415.

Power of officer or agent to employ medical or surgical aid for injured person see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 926; Master and Servant, 26 Cyc. 1050; and, generally, Principal and Agent, 31 Cyc. 1399 et seq.

96. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 736 et seq.

Qualification.— The employees of a freight despatch company are not for that reason alone ineligible to act as directors of a railroad company. Devou v. Cincinnati Interterminal R. Co., 29 Ohio Cir. Ct. 113.

The directors of a railroad company act as trustees for the public as well as for the company. Pueblo, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 6 Colo. 1, 45 Am. Rep. 512. And see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 789.

In 2 N. Y. Rev. St. p. 587, § 60, the provision fixing a penalty for the non-performance by "any public officer, body or board" of a public duty does not apply to the directors of a railroad company. People v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 76 N. Y. 294.

97. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 903 et seq.

Execution under Ga. Code, §§ 981, 996, against defaulting officers of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company see Scofield v. Perkerson, 46 Ga. 325, 350.

98. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 758 et seq.

Construction of road.— A railroad company is not bound by a contract for the construction of its roadway, by one of its directors without authority, even though he owns a majority of the stock of the company. Allemong v. Simmons, 124 Ind. 199, 23 N. E. 768. A contract of the managing director for construction "acting on behalf of the company" does not require the common seal of the company to render it binding on the company. Whitehead v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 7 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 351.

Appointment of agents.— The directors of a railroad company may appoint necessary officers and agents of the company and provide for the manner of their payment. Allen v. Ontario, etc., R. Co., 29 Ont. 510 (holding that the employment by provisional directors president,[99] vice-president,[1] superintendent,[2] and other subordinate officers and of an agent to do certain work on behalf of the company in advertising and promoting its undertaking is binding on the company); Falkiner v. Grand Junction R. Co., 4 Ont. 350. And see, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 767. And the directors particularly have this power where they are authorized to do so by a special act. Reynolds v. Whitby R. Co., 26 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 519, holding that where a special act incorporating a railroad company enacted that the board of directors might "employ one or more of their number as paid director or directors" and by a resolution under seal of the company the board of directors appointed one of their number as a paid director or manager at a fixed salary, such director was entitled to recover the amount agreed upon for his services although under Gen. R. Act, C. S. C., c. 66, a director could not hold any office under the company. So also where the directors of a railroad company pass a by-law enacting that the salary of a solicitor of the company shall be so much per annum, the shareholders cannot by repealing the by-law undo the arrangement in respect to past services of the solicitor received by them. Falkiner v. Grand Junction R. Co., 4 Ont. 350. But the provisional directors of a railroad company, who have not the full power of directors elected by shareholders, cannot appoint one of their number, without his resigning from office, as provisional secretary and treasurer. Michie v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 26 U. C. C. P. 566.

Directors rightfully entitled to office, although not in actual possession thereof, may maintain against mere intruders an action for money had and received as fees. Howerton v. Tate, 70 N. C. 161.

99. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 903 et seq.

Where by by-law the president is made the chief officer and head of the company and empowered to supervise all other officers and departments of the road in every respect, the president has authority to direct a consulting engineer who has been appointed by a resolution of the board of directors, to perform his services with reference to a contemplated extension of the line. Bogart v. New York, etc., R. Co., 118 N. Y. App. Div. 50, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 1093.

Construction of road.— The president of a railroad company has no power, by virtue of his office merely, to let a contract for the construction of its road. Griffith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Iowa 85, 36 N. W. 901; Templin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Iowa 548, 35 N. W. 634. See also Risley v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 62 N. Y. 240 [reversing 1 Hun 202, 4 Thomps. & C. 13]. But where the railroad charter authorizes its president and directors to exercise all rights and powers necessary to the construction and repair of the road, they have power in their discretion to expend any part of the corporation's revenues for the reconstruction of the road. State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Gill (Md.) 363.

In Indiana under Burns Rev. St. (1894) §§ 5145, 5147 (Rev. St. (1881) §§ 3895, 3897) the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer of a railroad company selected by it through its board of directors and invested with ostensible authority are general officers and may make any contract within the scope of the corporation. Bedford Belt R. Co. v. McDonald, 17 Ind. App. 492, 46 N. E. 1022, 60 Am. St. Rep. 172.

Approval of directors.— The president of a railroad company under general authority to manage the business of the company subject to the approval and direction of the board of directors or its chairman or committee cannot lawfully fix the route and terminals of the road and proceed with condemnation proceedings without the approval of the directors. Volberg v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 537, 56 S. E. 991; Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909. And where a notice as to the commencement of a condemnation proceeding is given by the direction of the president without lawful authority, and the time has expired under its terms for the appointment of an assessor by the landowner, the directors cannot, by ratifying the act of the president, cause the ratification to relate back and give the notice the same effect that it would have had if it had been legal when given. Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909.

1. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 922, 923.

Appointment of agent.— Under Tex Rev. St. (1879) art. 4131, providing that there shall be a president and such other subordinate officers as a railroad company by its by-laws may designate, who shall perform such duties of the corporation as its by-laws shall require, the first vice-president of a railroad company has no power to bind the company by a contract of employment except as expressly authorized by the by-laws. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Faulkner, 88 Tex. 649, 32 S. W. 883 [reversing (Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 543]. And where a by-law provides that the first vice-president shall have general charge of the passenger and freight traffic and appoint and remove at pleasure the officers of those departments, and that is his sole source of authority, he has no power to appoint for a fixed period a general passenger and ticket agent whose duty it is to take entire charge of all passenger matters. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Faulkner, 88 Tex. 649, 32 S. W. 883 [reversing (Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 543].

2. See cases cited infra, this note.

Fencing.— The general superintendent of a railroad company may make a binding contract for fencing the track. New Albany, etc., R. Co. v. Haskell, 11 Ind. 301.

Sale.— Under N. H. Gen. Laws, c. 148, § 3, vesting the power to alienate the property of a railroad company in its directors, a sale by a superintendent of a railroad without agents of the company.[3] Thus the officers and directors of a railroad company cannot bind the company by mere parol declarations and promises to guarantee the bonds of another company;[4] nor can they bind the company to supervise the construction of a railroad for another company,[5] or make it be responsible for wasteful and extravagant expenses in connection therewith.[6] The conductor of a railway train has no authority, by virtue of his position merely, to employ servants or agents for the company.[7] But in emergencies, requiring additional service for the proper management, operation, or protection of his train, the conductor is invested by law and from necessity with an implied authority to employ such agents and servants, and for such time only as are required by the particular circumstances.[8] authority from the directors is void. Bowen v. Mt. Washington R. Co., 62 N. H. 502.

Employment.— A division superintendent has no implied authority to bind the company by an agreement to give life employment to an employee of the company in settlement of a claim for personal injuries, and the fact that the injured employee is subsequently hired by the company's agent to perform services which he is capable of rendering is not sufficient to show a ratification by the company of an alleged contract continuing him permanently in its employ. Maxson v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 117 Mich. 218, 75 N. W. 459.

Under Ga. Code, § 971, while the Western Atlantic Railroad Company was the property of the state, its superintendent had no power to make contracts involving more than three thousand dollars without the written approval of the governor. Tappan v. Western, etc., R. Co., 62 Ga. 198.

3. See, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 933 et seq.

Cashier.— A cashier has no authority to release a debtor by substituting another in his place unless authorized to do so by the company's charter or by its by-laws. Clinton, etc., R. Co. v. Kernan, 10 Rob. (La.) 174.

The secretary of a railroad company has no power to bind the company by a contract to pay costs in order to avert a seizure of part of its property. Hamilton, etc., R. Co. v. Gore Bank, 20 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 190.

Claim agent.— The scope of the authority of a claim agent and assistant claim agent of a railroad company is not defined by law, and if put in issue in an action must be proved as a matter of fact, even though the conduct of the officials named may appear inexplicable except on the supposition that they have authority. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Daugherty, 72 Kan. 678, 83 Pac. 821. But a railroad company is bound by the contracts made by its general claim agent where the person with whom he contracted had no knowledge of any limitation on his power. Southwest Missouri Electric R. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 300, 85 S. W. 966.

Where a general railroad attorney has power to employ local attorneys, he is a general agent, and his act of employing a local attorney at a yearly salary will be binding on the company, although he had private instructions to make no such contract, where the local attorney had no knowledge of such instructions. Cross v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 141 Mo. 132, 42 S. W. 675.

A local station agent has no implied authority to hire one to carry mail between the station and post-office (Silver v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 125 Mo. App. 402, 102 S. W. 621); nor can such an agent extend the liability of his company beyond its own line, unless authority therefor has been expressly conferred on him or may be implied from the course of business (Hoffman v. Cumberland Valley R. Co., 85 Md. 391, 37 Atl. 214). Nor is a station agent presumed to be an agent of the company to buy cotton. Summer v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 78 N. C. 289.

Laborer.— A railroad laborer cannot bind the company by a contract to construct cow gaps in the absence of any showing as to his authority. Kentucky Union R. Co. v. Forkner, 40 S. W. 462, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 378.

4. Dows v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,048.

5. Dows v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,048.

6. Dows v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,048.

7. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ginley, 100 Tenn. 472, 45 S. W. 348.

8. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ginley, 100 Tenn. 472, 45 S. W. 348.

Where the only regular brakeman on a train is absent, the conductor has authority to supply his place, and for the time being the person so engaged is an employee of the company. Fox v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 368, 53 N. W. 259, 17 L. R. A. 289.

Where a freight train engaged in switching "broke in two," and the rear portion, comprising several cars, was running backward, unattended, down grade, at such a rate of speed as to greatly imperil the detached cars by derailment at a switch, or by collision with stationary cars on the track, unless sooner arrested, there existed such an emergency as authorized and justified the conductor, in the absence of sufficient and available regular servants, to employ for the company any bystander to aid in arresting the cars. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ginley, 100 Tenn. 472, 45 S. W. 348.

Whether, in the particular case, such emergency exists as to confer implied authority upon the conductor to employ servants for the company is a question of fact for the jury, and the appellate court will not disturb their decision, if it can be sustained by taking as true that legitimate view of the evidence most favorable to the successful party. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ginley, 100 Tenn. 472, 45 S. W. 348.

2. Rights and Liabilities. The above rules, in connection with the law of principal and agent,[9] also apply in determining the rights and liabilities of the various parties, growing out of acts or transactions for or with a railroad company, by its directors,[10] president,[11] and other officers and agents of a railroad company.[12] As a general rule all persons dealing with the officers and agents of a railroad company are charged with notice of the fact that they act under charters, general

9. See, generally, Principal and Agent, 31 Cyc. 1430 et seq.

10. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 787 et seq.

Redress for fraudulent acts on the part of the directors and managers of the Union Pacific Railroad Company in breach of their duty to the shareholders cannot be obtained in a suit brought by the United States under the act of March 3, 1873 (17 U. S. St. at L. 509), but must be obtained by a suit brought by the company or, if it refuses to sue, by the shareholders. U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,598, 11 Blatchf. 385 [affirmed in 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143].

Directors as holders of bonds secured by a mortgage on the property of the road are entitled to the same rights as other creditors, where they have acted in good faith and for the best interests of the company. Claflin v. South Carolina R. Co., 8 Fed. 118, 4 Hughes 12.

Liability of director on personal bond given under an arrangement between him and another director to secure the payment of notes on which they raised money and advanced it to the company see Richardson v. Hadley, 117 Mass. 379.

Purchase of land.— Where a railroad director bought land from the owner thereof, after the latter had refused to give it to the company, and a project of changing the route of the road so as to cross such land had for that reason been abandoned, and the other directors repudiated at the time all participation in the purchase, declaring that he must consider it his personal purchase, which he agreed to, and afterward the route of the road was changed, as at first proposed, so as to cross this land and part of it was staked out for the use of the road at the price agreed upon, and in the several reports of the directors of outstanding liabilities for land damages such director's claim was included, such director could not be held to be a trustee of the remaining land for the company. Sandy River R. Co. v. Stubbs, 77 Me. 594, 2 Atl. 9.

Liability for debts.— Railroad directors authorized by N. H. Laws (1871), c. 83, to contract debts for construction and equipment are not liable under Gen. St. c. 135, § 5, for debts so contracted, although they exceed one-half the capital stock and assets. Niagara Bridge Works v. Jose, 59 N. H. 81. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 878 et seq.

11. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 918 et seq.

Where the president of a railroad company enters into a secret partnership with railroad contractors for the construction of the road, no action can be maintained by him against his partners to enforce such contract. Macdonald v. Riordon, 30 Can. Sup. Ct. 619 [affirming 8 Quebec Q. B. 555].

An ex-president of a railroad company may claim as a bona fide purchaser of bonds, where he did not purchase such bonds while in office. Duncomb v. New York, etc., R. Co., 84 N. Y. 190.

12. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 951 et seq.

A freight agent who was appointed by a railroad company under a printed contract by which agents who furnish a warehouse rent free to the company are entitled to retain certain charges cannot maintain an action for rent of a warehouse on an implied contract against the company, if he has retained such charges. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Brisbin, 1 Walk. (Pa.) 67.

Assumpsit will lie against a conductor of a railroad to recover the amount of extra fares omitted to be collected by him from each person paying in the cars, although such neglect has occurred with the consent of the superintendent but without the knowledge of the directors. Concord R. Co. v. Clough, 49 N. H. 257. So assumpsit will also lie to recover of an agent profits made by him in buying and selling with like consent of the superintendent, but without the knowledge of the directors, joint tickets issued by other roads under a contract with the road employing him. Concord R. Co. v. Clough, supra.

Railroad police.—A policeman commissioned by the governor of the state upon the application of a railroad company under the Pennsylvania act of Feb. 27, 1865 (Pub. Laws (1865), p. 225), section 1, is a private officer and is not entitled to costs in a criminal prosecution from the county as if he were duly and legally elected a constable, but his compensation must be paid by the company, for which he has been appointed in such sum as may be agreed upon between them; but he may, however, receive proper compensation from the county for the service of subpœnas on witnesses. Hamlin v. Berks County, 8 Pa. Co. Ct. 462.

Torts.— A railroad company is liable for the act of a station agent charged with the duty of not allowing "bums" around the station, who, while plaintiff was asleep on a bench, poured benzine on the bench with the intent of firing said benzine "to have some fun with plaintiff," which benzine was fired, however, by another. Meade v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 92.

statutes, by-laws, or usages which more or less define the extent of their authority; and therefore such persons must in doubtful cases acquaint themselves with the extent of that authority; [13] but such persons are not bound to take notice of private instructions, if the agent has been put forward as a general agent.[14]

I. Franchises and Powers Generally [15] — 1. In General. The franchises of a railroad corporation are rights or privileges which are essential to the operations of the corporation and without which its road and works would be of little value,[16] such as the franchise to run cars,[17] to appropriate earth and gravel for the bed of its road,[18] or water for its engines.[19] They are positive rights or privileges without the possession of which the road of the company could not be successfully worked.[20] Like other corporations, a railroad company possesses such powers only as are conferred upon it by its charter or governing statute, together with such powers as are necessary and incidental thereto; [21] and such a company cannot, except with the consent of the state, disable itself from the discharge of the functions, duties, and obligations which it has assumed, whether this be

13. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Faulkner, 88 Tex. 649, 32 S. W. 883 [reversing (Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 543]; Langdon v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 53 Vt. 228. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 940 et seq.

14. Cross v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 141 Mo. 132, 42 S. W. 675; Southwest Missouri Electric R. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 300, 85 S. W. 966. And see, generally, Principal and Agent, 31 Cyc. 1327 et seq.

15. Power to acquire and hold land see infra, V, A.

Sales, leases, traffic contracts, and consolidation see infra, VII, B, C, D, E.

Indebtedness, securities, liens, and mortgages see infra, VIII.

Making and indorsing negotiable instruments see infra, VIII, A, 3.

Power to operate street railroads see Street Railroads.

16. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860.

Immunity from taxation is not one of such franchises. Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860. And see, generally, Taxation.

17. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860.

18. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860.

19. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860.

20. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860.

21. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 464]; Great North West Cent. R. Co. v. Charlebois, [1889] A. C. 114, 68 L. J. P. C. 25, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 35 [modifying 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 221]; Atty.-Gen. v. Great Eastern R. Co., 5 App. Cas. 473, 44 J. P. 648, 49 L. J. Ch. 545, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 810, 28 Wkly. Rep. 769; Yorkshire R. Wagon Co. v. Maclure, 21 Ch. D. 309, 51 L. J. Ch. 857, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 290, 30 Wkly. Rep. 761; Atty.-Gen. v. Niagara Falls International Bridge Co., 20 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 34. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1096 et seq.

Purchase of stock.—A railroad company organized under the laws of Ohio cannot purchase the stock of a mining company. Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Burke, 10 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 136, 19 Cinc. L. Bul. 27. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1107.

Power to locate and construct a railroad, open books of subscription, etc., confers by implication the power to make all contracts and agreements as the execution and management of the work and the convenience and interests of the company in the construction of the road may require so far as the same are not forbidden by any restrictive clause. Scotland Western Bank v. Tallman, 17 Wis. 530.

In Iowa it is held that a railroad company formed under the general incorporation act is invested with the ordinary privileges and franchises which belong to other private joint stock companies. State v. Wapello County, 13 Iowa 388.

In New Jersey the act of March 17, 1870, granting certain powers and franchises to the Erie Railroad Company in connection with other railroads therein mentioned, although expressed in broad terms, does not allow the company to possess and enjoy the franchise of any company with which it does not unite. McGregor v. Erie R. Co., 35 N. J. L. 115.

Sale or pledge of note and mortgage.—Power to construct and maintain a railway and also "to make such covenants, contracts, and agreements with any person . . . as the execution and management of the work, and the convenience and interests of the company" might require, authorizes the company to sell a note and mortgage executed to it or pledge them as security for its own bonds. Uncas Nat. Bank v. Rith, 23 Wis. 339.

attempted by contract of lease, sale, or otherwise.[22] And, as in the case of other corporations, grants of franchises to railroads involving rights of the public are to be liberally construed in favor of the public, and strictly against the company.[23] Thus a railroad company is bound to apply all its moneys and property for the purposes directed and provided for by its charter or governing statute, and any application of or dealing with its corporate property in a manner not authorized is illegal and may be restrained in equity.[24] Thus it is improper and wrong for a railroad company to embark its funds in other railroad undertakings without authority to do so;[25] but it has been held not ultra vires for a railroad company whose road is in process of construction to apply penalties due from contractors in payment of interest on shares issued at the request of the contractors.[26]

2. Exclusive and Conflicting Grants. Where a grant of franchises to a railroad company is not in its terms exclusive, the legislature may subsequently grant the same or similar franchises to another company, although the latter greatly impairs the value of the former.[27] The legislature may, however, make its grant of franchises to a railroad company exclusive,[28] as for a limited period;[29] and

22. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265.

The general rule is that a contract by which a railroad company renders itself incapable of performing its duties to the public or attempts to absolve itself from those obligations without the consent of the state, or a contract made by a corporation beyond the scope of its powers, express or implied, on a proper construction of its charter, cannot be enforced, or rendered enforceable by the application of the doctrine of estoppel; but where the subject-matter of the contract is not foreign to the purposes for which the corporation is created, a contract embracing whatever may fairly be regarded as incidental to, or consequential upon, those things which the legislature has authorized, ought not, unless expressly prohibited, to be held by judicial construction to be ultra vires. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265.

23. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 98 Minn. 380, 108 N. W. 261. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1088 et seq.

24. Munt v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 13 Beav. 1, 15 Jur. 26, 20 L. J. Ch. 169, 51 Eng. Reprint 1; Salomons v. Laing, 12 Beav. 339, 14 Jur. 279, 471, 19 L. J. Ch. 225, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 289, 303; Bagshaw v. Eastern Union R. Co., 2 Hall & T. 201, 47 Eng. Reprint 1655, 14 Jur. 491, 19 L. J. Ch. 410, 2 Macn. & G. 389, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 169, 48 Eng. Ch. 389, 42 Eng. Reprint 151; Simpson v. Denison, 10 Hare 51, 16 Jur. 828, 44 Eng. Ch. 50, 68 Eng. Reprint 835; Vance v. East Lancashire R. Co., 3 Kay & J. 50, 69 Eng. Reprint 1018; Mathias v. Wilts, etc., Canal Nav. Co., 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 346.

The inability of railroad companies under their charters to expend their funds in paying an award is no ground for setting aside the award. Matter of Barrie, 22 U. C. Q. B. 25.

25. Logan v. Courtown, 13 Beav. 22, 20 L. J. Ch. 347, 51 Eng. Reprint 9; Great Western R. Co. v. Preston, etc., R. Co., 17 U. C. Q. B. 477.

26. Alcoy, etc., R. Co. v. Greenhill, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 257.

27. Florida.— Florida, etc., R. Co. v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 10 Fla. 145.

Illinois.— East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. East St. Louis Union R. Co., 108 Ill. 265.

Maine.— State v. Noyes, 47 Me. 189.

Maryland.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. State, 45 Md. 596.

New Jersey.— Raritan, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 18 N. J. Eq. 546.

New York.— Thompson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Sandf. Ch. 625.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 40. And see Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 966 et seq.

Illustration.—A clause in a railroad charter that "no person, body politic or corporate, shall in any way interfere with, molest, disturb, or injure any of the rights or privileges thereby granted, or that would be calculated to detract from or affect the profits of said corporation," does not relinquish the right of the state to charter any other company whose improvement would be in competition with said railroad company, nor the right to take the franchise of said company for the public use; but such clause restrains such other company from committing any unauthorized illegal injuries. Newcastle, etc., R. Co. v. Peru, etc., R. Co., 3 Ind. 464.

28. Pontchartrain R. Co. v. Orleans Nav. Co., 15 La. 404; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. National R. Co., 23 N. J. Eq. 441, holding that the franchise of the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Transportation Company to perfect an expeditious line of communication between the cities of Philadelphia and New York, and build across the state a railroad to be part of that line, is exclusive against all but the state.

29. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Salem, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 1, holding that St. (1830) c. 4, incorporating the Boston and Lowell Corporation, and providing that no other railroad within thirty years should be authorized to be made leading from Boston, Charlestown, or Cambridge to Lowell, and allowing the legislature to regulate tolls to a

in such case the legislature cannot impair the obligation of the contract involved in the preceding exclusive grant by granting the same or similar franchises to another company;[30] nor can it grant to a railroad company franchises which impair rights and privileges previously granted to other corporations,[31] such as to a ferry company.[32] But this rule does not prevent subsequent grants which do not impair or prejudice the exclusive rights previously granted.[33]

3. Engaging in Other or Accessorial Business.[34] A railroad company may engage in any business authorized by its charter or governing statute,[35] and in any business that is incidental or auxiliary to the powers granted, and which may become necessary and expedient in the care and management of its main business.[36] Thus it has been held that in the absence of a legislative prohibition a railroad company may lease and maintain a summer hotel at its seaside terminus,[37] or engage in the accessorial business with horse-power, of collecting freight which is to be transported upon its own road, and delivering freight at the places of destination.[38] But it cannot engage in a business which is not specially authorized or incidental to the business for which it was created.[39] certain extent, and purchase the franchise upon certain terms, confers upon the corporation the exclusive right for the period named.

30. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 60 Md. 263.

31. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 58 S. W. 799, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 658.

32. McRoberts v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 108 (construing Laws Extra Sess. (1857) c. 3, § 10); Aikin v. Western R. Corp., 20 N. Y. 370 [reversing 30 Barb. 305]. And see, generally, Ferries, 19 Cyc. 501.

33. Georgia.— Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 96 Ga. 562, 23 S. E. 501.

Massachusetts.— Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 5 Cush. 375.

Michigan.— Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Michigan Southern R. Co., 4 Mich. 362.

Nevada.— Lake v. Virginia, etc., R. Co., 7 Nev. 294.

North Carolina.— McRee v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 47 N. C. 186.

United States.— Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Louisa R. Co., 13 How. 71, 14 L. ed. 55.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 40.

New Jersey.— The act of 1832 and the supplementary act of 1854, entitled "An act relative to the Delaware and Raritan Canal and Camden and Amboy Railroad and Transportation Companies," granting certain privileges to these corporations, operates to protect from competition the through business from New York to Philadelphia, and not the business between the intermediate places and over any and every part of the route between these cities; the franchise being exclusive only in regard to passengers and merchandise transported over the entire route. Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 15 N. J. Eq. 13, 16 N. J. Eq. 321. And the fact that roads of other companies are being constructed and connected without lawful authority furnishes no ground of equitable relief at the instance of one of the above companies in the absence of a showing that such company's rights will be prejudiced. Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 15 N. J. Eq. 13.

34. Contracts for control of other railroads or incidental facilities see infra, VII, D.

Power to establish relief funds and hospitals for the benefit of sick and injured employees see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1143.

35. See Rogers v. Oxford, etc., R. Co., 2 De G. & J. 662, 59 Eng. Ch. 662, 44 Eng. Reprint 1146, holding that where a railroad company is authorized by a private act to purchase a canal and to exercise all the rights, powers, and privileges which the canal company might before the sale have exercised under any statute relating to the canal, the railroad company after the purchase becomes a canal company and is entitled to avail itself of the powers given to canal companies.

36. Com. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 235; Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. ed. 515; Camblos v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,331, 4 Brewst. 563, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 411.

37. Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. ed. 515, holding that the laws of Florida do not render ultra vires a contract by a railroad company to lease a hotel at the terminus of its road situated on the beach, distant from any town.

Covenants to insure.—A company having power to lease a hotel may, in consideration of the lessor's obligation to rebuild in case the hotel should be destroyed, covenant to keep the premises insured. Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. ed. 515.

38. Camblos v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,331, 4 Brewst. 563, 39 Phila. (Pa.) 411.

39. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582; Macon v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 7 Ga. 221, holding that where a company is given by charter the exclusive right to transport produce, etc., over its road from one point to another, the charter does not give it the right to engage in transporting produce through the terminal city and across the bridge of a river from its depot to an-

Thus if not expressly authorized a railroad company cannot carry on an express business,[40] or operate stages from its termini to distant towns,[41] or act as a warehouseman of goods and merchandise not received by it under and from shipments over its road,[42] nor deal in notes or bills of exchange.[43] A railroad company may own and control steamboats for the purpose of transporting its freight and passengers across navigable waters on the line and constituting a part of its route, and those lying at the end of its road separating it from the ostensible and substantial termini of its route;[44] but unless expressly authorized it cannot run a steamboat on waters not connected with its termini and forming no part of its route.[45] Nor where authorized to operate a ferry for the transportation of its passengers and freight can it engage in a general ferry business, but other depot for the accommodation of its customers.

Power to lay, build, and make a road includes the power to maintain and sustain it, which has reference to keeping it in repair, supplying it with machinery, and such like acts, but does not extend to projects for extending its business or schemes and enterprises not contemplated and expressed in clear and unambiguous terms. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582.

A railroad company may be restrained at the information of a relator from carrying on a trade not authorized by the act constituting the company. Atty.-Gen. v. Great Northern R. Co., 6 Jur. N. S. 1006, 29 L. J. Ch. 794, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 653, 8 Wkly. Rep. 556.

The question whether a railroad company can conduct the business of a market house cannot be raised by the former owner of the land on which the market house is located in an action for trespass against the company, but it can be raised only by the state or a stock-holder by quo warranto. Hilt v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 43 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 429.

40. Dinsmore v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 2 Fed. 465, 2 Flipp. 672.

41. Hood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 1. But see Buffett v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 40 N. Y. 168 [affirming 36 Barb. 420], holding that a company authorized to construct a railroad is estopped to deny the validity of a contract to transport a passenger by a stage line created by the directors from a village to one of the railroad stations, where the stage line has been run a long time without objection by the stockholders.

42. State v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1822, 28 So. 372. Compare Smith v. Nashua, etc., R. Co., 27 N. H. 86, 59 Am. Dec. 364, holding that, although no such express power is given to a railroad company it may contract and assume the liability of a depositary of goods which it has carried to the point of destination. And see, generally, CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 454 et seq.

The storage of goods for hire in its warehouses by a railroad company is not incidental to its business, when it is made either under an express or implied special or general agreement with shippers or consignees either before or at the time of shipment or receipt of goods, that they should be received and held for storage or hire either for a fixed period or at the will of shippers and consignees. State v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1822, 28 So. 372.

License.—A railroad company is not authorized to receive, as being for purposes incidental to its business as a common carrier, a license under La. Act of 1886, No. 156, providing for the issuance of a license to a warehouseman, since the license granted thereunder contemplates a permanence in the storage received, which is inconsistent with the regular and legitimate business of a common carrier. State v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1822, 28 So. 372.

43. Goodrich v. Reynolds, 31 Ill. 490, 83 Am. Dec. 240, holding that a railroad company cannot, as a branch of its business, deal in notes and bills of exchange, but can only make such papers subservient to its general business.

44. Wheeler v. San Francisco, etc., R. Co., 31 Cal. 46, 89 Am. Dec. 147; Shawmut Bank v. Plattsburgh, etc., R. Co., 31 Vt. 491; Forrest v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 30 Beav. 40, 7 Jur. N. S. 887, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 666, 9 Wkly. Rep. 818, 54 Eng. Reprint 803; South Wales R. Co. v. Redmond, 10 C. B. N. S. 675, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 619, 9 Wkly. Rep. 806, 100 E. C. L. 675.

45. Central R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 76 Ala. 572, 52 Am. Rep. 353; McRoberts v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 108; St. Joseph v. Saville, 39 Mo. 460; Hoagland v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. 451 (holding that a railroad company has no power unless conferred by its charter, nor have its officers or agents any authority by law, to run a line of steamers beyond the terminus of the road as part of the company's line of transportation); Starin v. New York, 42 Hun (N. Y. 549 [reversed on other grounds in 112 N. Y. 206, 19 N. E. 670] (holding that under the act of 1884, chapter 193, authorizing any railroad company incorporated under the New York law and with a terminus in New York harbor to purchase or lease steamboats and to operate a ferry over New York harbor to any point distant not more than ten miles from the terminus, a railroad company may not lease a ferry route having no connection with the terminus of its road). See also Colman v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 10 Beav. 1, 11 Jur. 74, 16 L. J. Ch. 73, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 513, 50 Eng. Reprint 481.

is limited to the conveyance of its own passengers and freight.[46] A steam railroad operating under a charter authorizing a steam railroad may be extended as a steam railroad, but cannot be extended as a street railroad.[47]

4. Charges For Transportation. It is one of the essential franchises of a railroad company that it have the vested right to demand and receive tolls or charges for the transportation of freight and passengers.[48] This right, however, is subject to the right of the state to regulate the rate of such charges by legislative enactment,[49] and although the legislature may give to the railroad company the power to fix such rates, this power authorizes it to make only reasonable charges,[50] and the limits of such power may be fixed by a subsequent statute,[51] and in many jurisdictions the legislature may fix the maximum rate that may be charged.[52] A charter giving a railroad company the exclusive right of transportation or conveyance of persons, merchandise, and produce, providing the charge shall not exceed a certain rate does not guarantee that the company shall always have right to charge the maximum rates named.[53]

J. Amendment, Revocation, or Forfeiture of Charter or Franchise and Dissolution[54] — 1. Amendment or Revocation of Charter — a. In General. In the absence of special statutory or constitutional provisions regulating such matters, the alteration or amendment of a charter of a railroad company is governed by the rules applicable to the alteration or amendment of corporate charters in general.[55] In accordance with those rules the state cannot, after a railroad charter has been accepted, make alterations or amendments of such charter, materially affecting rights thereunder, without the consent of the company,[56]

46. Fitch v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 31 Conn. 38; McRoberts v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 108; Aikin v. Western R. Corp., 20 N. Y. 370 [reversing 30 Barb. 305]; The Maverick, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,316, 1 Sprague 23.

47. Cincinnati Incline Plane R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 562, 7 Ohio N. P. 541.

48. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265; Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am. Rep. 345; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860. And see Carriers, 6 Cyc. 491 et seq., 547 et seq.

49. Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am. Rep. 345. And see the statutes of the several states.

Granting a railroad a franchise between specified points on condition that only one fare shall be charged on said road has no application to charges made on other portions of the system of roads operated by the same company. Byars v. Bennington, etc., R. Co., 99 N. Y. App. Div. 34, 90 N. Y. Suppl. 736 [affirmed in 184 N. Y. 554, 76 N. E. 1090].

Charges for conveyance of timber and measurement of the timber see Great Western R. Co. v. Lowe, 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 152.

50. Ruggles v. People, 91 Ill. 256.

U. S. Act, Feb. 24, 1871, authorizing the Union Pacific Railroad Company to levy tolls upon its Omaha bridge, and making it governed "for the use and protection of said bridge" by the act of July 25, 1866, which prohibited a bridge company to charge the government more than the rate per mile paid for transportation over the railroads leading to the bridge, does not apply to the rate to be paid by the government for transportation of its passengers over the Omaha bridge, since when the bridge was built it became subject to an act providing that transportation for the government should be at fair and reasonable rates, and not exceeding those paid by private parties for the same kind of service. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 20 Ct. Cl. 70.

Justification of increase of rates under the English Railroad and Canal Traffic Act (1894), § 1, see Black v. Caledonian R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 176, 18 T. L. R. 11; Smith v. London, etc., R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 156. To justify a permanent increase of rate, changes affecting only the temporary cost of working are not sufficient. Black v. Caledonian R. Co., supra.

Reduction of rate under English Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1888, § 29, subs. 3, see In re Taff Vale R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 89.

51. Ruggles v. People, 91 Ill. 256; Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am. Rep. 345.

52. See the statutes of the several states.

Constitutionality of statutes fixing maximum rates see Constitutional Law, 8 Cyc. 874 text and note 22, 969 text and note 65, 1066, 1116.

53. Georgia R. Co. v. Smith, 70 Ga. 694.

54. Removal or abandonment of stations see infra, IV, G, 3.

Abandonment of road or portion thereof as violation of duty to operate see infra, X, A, 1, b.

55. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 206 et seq.

56. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Clifford, 113 Ind. 460, 15 N. E. 524; Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104.

unless the power to do so is expressly reserved either in the charter itself,[57] or in a general statute,[58] or constitutional provision,[59] or unless the amendment is made in the exercise of the police power of the state,[60] or in the exercise of the right of eminent domain;[61] and under a reserved power in a general statute a charter cannot be amended if the charter itself provides otherwise.[62] But until there has been an acceptance of the original charter, it is within the control of the legislature and may be amended or revoked at any time;[63] and where there is no organization of the company under the original act incorporating it, a subsequent amendment of such act is merely a revival of the right to form a corporation.[64] If the railroad company accepts its charter subject to such reserved power, it is bound by any reasonable alteration or amendment the legislature may see fit to make,[65] provided the amendment does not go beyond regulation, supervision, and control of the company;[66] and such power includes authority both to withdraw powers granted to the company,[67] and to confer new powers or duties on it and require their exercise.[68] Thus, within such rules, a railroad

57. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351; Macdonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 23 R. I. 558, 51 Atl. 578.

58. Snook v. Georgia Imp. Co., 83 Ga. 61, 9 S. E. 1104; McCandless v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 38 S. C. 103, 13 S. E. 429, 18 L. R. A. 440.

A lease of the road does not affect the reserved right of the legislature to amend the charter of the railroad company. Worcester v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 109 Mass. 103.

59. See Palmes v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 19 Fla. 231.

Fla. Const. (1839) art. 13, § 2, providing that the legislature shall not alter an act of incorporation unless notice is published three months preceding the session at which the alteration is applied for, does not apply to railroads assisted by the state in furtherance of a system of internal improvements pursuant to Const. art. 11, § 2. Palmes v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 19 Fla. 231.

A constitutional provision that charters under which organization shall not have taken place or which shall not have been in operation within a specified time from the time the constitution takes effect shall thereafter have no effect or validity does not apply to the charter of a railroad company which was in operation at the time the constitution took effect. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663; McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611, construing Const. (1870) art. 11, § 2.

60. See CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 207 text and note 37.

61. See CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 207 text and note 38.

A perfected railroad franchise, especially when followed by construction and operation, is a property right which cannot afterward be taken away or diminished either by a subsequent constitutional amendment or by legislative or municipal action except in the exercise of the police power or the right of eminent domain. Blume v. Interurban St. R. Co., 41 Misc. (N. Y.) 171, 83 N. Y. Suppl. 989.

62. Scotland County v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 65 Mo. 123; Columbia, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbes, 24 S. C. 60, holding, however, that where a railroad company holding such charter is sold out under orders of the court and the purchasers form a new company under a general law permitting it in such cases, with all the rights, immunities, etc., possessed by the old company previous to the sale under its charter and amendments thereto and of other laws of the state, the new company becomes subject to all the laws on the statute book applicable to railroads at the date of its organization.

63. Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., 161 U. S. 646, 16 S. Ct. 705, 40 L. ed. 838 [reversing 73 Fed. 933].

Where the original and the amendatory acts are passed at the same session of the legislature with only a brief interval between, during which there is no acceptance of the provisions of the original act and no rights are acquired thereunder, the amendatory acts are valid. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Clifford, 113 Ind. 460, 15 N. E. 524.

64. Quinlan v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 82 Tex. 356, 34 S. W. 738.

65. Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 6 Cush. (Mass.) 424.

66. Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 565, 10 West. L. J. 399; Charlotte, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbes, 27 S. C. 385, 4 S. E. 49.

67. Central R., etc., Co. v. State, 54 Ga. 401; Worcester v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 109 Mass. 103; Atty.-Gen. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 35 Wis. 425; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 12 Wis. 340.

Compensation.—The Georgia act of 1840, incorporating the Union Branch Railroad Company, provide that in case of its repeal just compensation should be made to the company for its "work, investments and improvements" upon the road, and consequently after the enactment of the repealing act of 1847, it had a claim for the same upon the state. Union Branch R. Co. v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 14 Ga. 327.

68. Worcester v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 109 Mass. 103; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 12 Wis. 340.

charter may be amended so as to give the company the right and power to extend its road over new and additional routes,[69] to change the termini,[70] or the name of the company;[71] or so as to require the company to change its route,[72] construct fences,[73] or carry intersecting highways over the railroad by means of bridges;[74] or so as to require the establishment or maintenance of a station at a particular place,[75] or that certain companies shall unite in a passenger depot and extend their tracks to the same,[76] or that the expenses of a railroad commission shall be paid by the railroad companies of the state.[77] An amended charter in order to be valid must comply with all statutory requirements,[78] although defects in an amendment may be cured by a subsequent statute.[79]

b. Acceptance of Amendment. As in the case of amendments to corporate charters in general, in order that the amendment may be binding on the company, it ordinarily must be consented to or accepted by the company,[80] unless the amend-

69. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

Extensions generally see infra, IV, C, 3.

A railroad company desiring to extend its line beyond that originally authorized should prepare and file supplemental and amended articles of incorporation which shall contain the essential requisites specified in the statute. Vollmer v. Schuylkill River East Side R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301.

70. Anderson v. Railroad Co., 91 Tenn. 44, 17 S. W. 803.

Change of termini generally see infra, IV, E, 1, c.

71. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 12 Wis. 340.

72. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Gibson, 85 Ga. 1, 11 S. E. 442, 21 Am. St. Rep. 135.

The insertion of a proviso in a railroad charter by way of amendment thereto that under certain conditions the road shall pass through a particular intermediate point is not void as being repugnant to the purview of the charter. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Gibson, 85 Ga. 1, 11 S. E. 442, 21 Am. St. Rep. 135.

73. Durand v. New Haven, etc., Co., 42 Conn. 211, holding a general statute requiring all railroad companies to maintain fences along their roads, where running within the limits of any highway, to be an amendment of a charter which required only such construction of the road, with reference to the safety of travel upon a highway, as should be approved by a committee.

74. Montclair v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 N. J. Eq. 436, 18 Atl. 242.

Mode of crossing highways generally see infra, VI, D, 2.

Abolition of grade crossings after construction of railroad see infra, VI, D, 5, b.

75. Com. v. Eastern R. Co., 103 Mass. 254, 4 Am. Rep. 555.

76. Worcester v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 109 Mass. 103.

77. Charlotte, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbes, 27 S. C. 385, 4 S. E. 49; Columbia, etc., R. Co. v. Gibbes, 24 S. C. 60.

78. Anderson v. Railroad Co., 91 Tenn. 44, 17 S. W. 803, holding that where a charter is amended so as to change the starting point of a railroad, the change will not be effected unless such amendment is registered in the county where the charter was originally registered.

79. Tennessee Cent. R. Co. v. Campbell, 109 Tenn. 655, 73 S. W. 112, holding that an amendment to a railroad charter originally defective because acknowledged before a notary public is validated by the express provisions of Acts (1891), c. 118, amending Acts Extra Sess. (1890) c. 17.

80. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351; Goodin v. Evans, 18 Ohio St. 150; Macdonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 23 R. I. 558, 51 Atl. 578; Mulloy v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 8 Lea (Tenn.) 427. And see, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 208 et seq.

Acceptance held sufficient.— Under the Rhode Island act of June 23, 1836, section 2, amending the charter of the New York, etc., Railroad Company, providing that the company shall be liable to property-owners for all damages by fire communicated from its engines, and section 10 providing that the company may relocate its road provided it signifies in writing to the secretary of state its assent to the requirements of the amendment, a relocation of the road under such section sufficiently shows its acceptance of the amendment with all its liabilities. Macdonald v. New York, etc., R. Co., 23 R. I. 558, 51 Atl. 578. So where the charter of two railroad companies did not authorize a contract of lease to be made between them, but Comp. St. c. 26, § 66, did, the exercise of this power by the stock-holders in authorizing the contract at a meeting held for that purpose without any objection on the part of any one of them, is a sufficient ground for the presumption that the corporations as such had accepted such power as part of their organic law and that the stock-holders had all concurred in the action taken and assented thereto. Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1. Under Swan & C. St. Ohio, § 24, authorizing a railroad company organized in pursuance of law to lease or purchase connecting lines constructed by other companies, and section 71, providing that all companies now incorporated within this state and actually doing business may accept any provision of this act, railroad companies leasing their roads to other companies or taking leases of the roads of other companies are to be regarded as thereby accepting the provisions ment is made in the exercise of the police power of the state.[81] And although there is no reserved power applicable to the particular railroad, as where it was organized before the passage of the statutory or constitutional provision reserving such power to the legislature, it may bring itself within a subsequent amendatory act by accepting or assenting to the same,[82] and that assent may be manifested in at least three ways: (1) By asking the legislature to make the amendment;[83] (2) by expressly accepting an amendment enacted without a request;[84] and (3) by acting upon and acquiescing in an amendment enacted without request.[85] Where the amendments are fundamental, radical, or vital,[86] as where they in fact constitute a separate and distinct charter, creating a new company,[87] the unanimous consent of the stock-holders to their acceptance is essential, and dissenting corporators, shareholders, or members are released, provided their dissent is given before the rights of third persons intervene.[88] But where the change or alteration is a trivial or immaterial one, unanimous consent is not required, nor are dissenting stock-holders released, where a majority thereof assent to the amendment.[89]

2. Forfeiture of Franchise and Dissolution in General.[90] The dissolution, forfeiture, and winding up of a railroad company is governed by the rules applicable to the dissolution and winding up of corporations in general except in so far as regulated by special constitutional, charter, or statutory provisions.[91] Thus it of the statute and relinquishing all rights under their charters inconsistent with such provisions. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cole, 29 Ohio St. 126, 23 Am. Rep. 729.

A resolution adopted by a unanimous vote of the stock-holders reciting that amendments to the charter of a railroad had been made and empowering the board of directors to take the action authorized by such amendment is such an acceptance and ratification of the amendment by the stock-holders as legally makes the amendment part of the charter of the company. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315.

A provision that "this act shall take effect at its passage" simply means that if duly accepted it shall thus take effect by relation; and such due acceptance of the act and the filing of an attested copy thereof with the secretary of state are required to give it effect. Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. Wagner, 73 Conn. 506, 48 Atl. 218.

81. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351.

82. Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104.

Ala. Code (1896), § 1170, authorizing a domestic railroad company to contract for the operation of its road by a foreign company, etc., in providing that holders of a majority in value of the stock in each company must assent to the arrangement is for the benefit of the stock-holders, who may waive compliance therewith and who only may object to non-compliance; and hence in quo warranto proceedings to oust a foreign railroad company from the operation of a domestic road, the state may not object that the stock-holders of the domestic company which made such a contract with the foreign company did not give the assent required by such section. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, (1907) 45 So. 296.

83. Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104.

84. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, (Ala. 1907) 45 So. 296; Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104.

85. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, (Ala. 1907) 45 So. 296; Smead v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 11 Ind. 104.

Under Ala. Const. (1875) art. 14, § 25, permitting a railroad company chartered before the adoption of the article which subjects corporate charters to repeal or amendment to enjoy the benefit of future legislation by accepting the provisions of the article, no express or formal acceptance is necessary; and a railroad company chartered before such constitution by accepting the benefits of the code of 1896, sections 1170, 1171, enacted after the charter was granted, brings itself within such statute. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, (1907) 45 So. 296.

86. Alexander v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 108 Ga. 151, 33 S. E. 866 (construing Civ. Code, §§ 1840, 2170); Snook v. Georgia Imp. Co., 83 Ga. 61, 9 S. E. 1104. See also, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 208.

87. Youngblood v. Georgia Imp. Co., 83 Ga. 797, 10 S. E. 124; Snook v. Georgia Imp. Co., 83 Ga. 61, 9 S. E. 1104; Carlisle v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 6 Ind. 316.

88. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 208.

A change in the terminus of the road is a fundamental alteration which releases a subscriber to stock before the change is made, if made without his consent. Snook v. Georgia Imp. Co., 83 Ga. 61, 9 S. E. 1104.

89. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 210 et seq.

90. Forfeiture of right of way or other interests in land see infra, V, L.

Consolidation as dissolving constituent companies see infra, VII, E, 6, a.

91. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1270 et seq.

The infidelity or misconduct of some or even of all the trustees or managers of a may be ground for forfeiting the franchises and dissolving the company that it has made wilful and repeated misuse or non-use of its franchises with respect to matters which are of the essence of the contract between the company and the state,[92] as where it makes a material departure from the points designated in the charter for the location of the road,[93] or where the management makes discriminations clearly showing an intention to exclude from the benefits of the road all except its principal stock-holders for the purpose of preventing competition.[94] But where the misuser or non-user is in respect to a matter which is not a material condition which concerns the public, but is confined to the company, it is not ground for a forfeiture of the company's franchises.[95] And unless its charter so provides, a railroad company is not ipso facto dissolved by a mere misuser or non-user of its franchises, although such misuser or non-user may be sufficient ground for forfeiture by judicial proceeding.[96] Nor does an isolated case of non-user or misuser, which produces no injurious consequences to any one, and is not persisted in, entitle the state to demand a forfeiture of its charter;[97] nor is it ground for forfeiture that at some future time the company intends to neglect the performance of its full duty to the public;[98] or that the company has obtained a charter from another state;[99] or that it has purchased a street railway franchise from a city through whose streets a portion of its route passes.[1] A railroad company, like other corporations, may also be dissolved by reason of some act or omission on its part made a cause of forfeiture by its charter or governing statute,[2] as for a breach of some substantial condition subsequent prescribed in the charter or statute;[3] or it may be dissolved by a voluntary surrender of its franchises except in so far as its public duties may limit this power,[4] and the legislature may railroad company affords no ground for taking away the rights of the shareholders who constitute the company, either by dissolving it or taking away its management and placing it in the hands of an officer of the court; but in such a case the principles of remedial or preventive justice go no further than to enjoin or forbid the misconduct, or remove the unfaithful officer. Belmont v. Erie R. Co., 52 Barb. (N. Y.) 637.

92. Arkansas.— Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Cross, 20 Ark. 443.

Maine.— Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 Atl. 1001, 66 L. R. A. 387.

Mississippi.— Harris v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 51 Miss. 602.

North Carolina.—Atty.-Gen. v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co., 28 N. C. 456.

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 129.

Texas.— East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690; State v. Rio Grande R. Co., 41 Tex. 217.

See 41 Cent. Lig. tit. "Railroads," § 63.

93. Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Cross, 20 Ark. 443.

94. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 Atl. 1001, 66 L. R. A. 387.

95. Harris v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 51 Miss. 602.

96. Atty.-Gen. v. Superior, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 604, 67 N. W. 1138.

97. Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 129.

98. State v. Martin, 51 Kan. 462, 33 Pac. 9; Com. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 26.

99. Com. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 26.

1. Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Jefferson, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 1605, 26 So. 278.

2. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Ark. 435, 88 S. W. 559; State v. Rio Grande R. Co., 41 Tex. 217.

Failure of the president or vice-president and the majority of the directors to reside in the state after June 19, 1858, was a ground for forfeiture of the charter and franchise under act of 1857. State v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 24 Tex. 80.

3. Brown v. Wyandotte, etc., R. Co., 68 Ark. 134, 56 S. W. 862; La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420.

4. Matter of New Platz, etc., R. Co., 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 451, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 247 [affirmed in 42 N. Y. App. Div. 622, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 1111]; Lauman v. Lebanon Valley R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 42, 72 Am. Dec. 685; Combes v. Keyes, 89 Wis. 297, 62 N. W. 89, 46 Am. St. Rep. 839, 27 L. R. A. 369, holding that where a railroad company has by judicial sales been divested of all its property and for twenty-six years thereafter has not owned any property or done any business or elected any officers or kept any office in the state, it has voluntarily surrendered its corporate franchise and ceased to exist. See also In re Exmouth Docks Co., L. R. 17 Eq. 181, 43 L. J. Ch. 110, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 573, 22 Wkly. Rep. 104. And see, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1299 et seq.

Costs.— On the dissolution of a railroad company in proceedings brought by its trustees, the cost of dissolution consisting of printing and advertising expenses and of attorney, referee, and stenographer's fees constitute a lien on the funds in the hands of the receivers prior to the first mortgage release it from this limitation.[5] The voluntary dissolution of a railroad company is not a corporate act but the act of the members of the corporation;[6] and its officers in effecting such an arrangement act as trustees of the members, and not as corporate functionaries.[7]

3. Sale, Lease, or Other Transfer of Railroad. The mere lease,[8] sale,[9] or other transfer by a railroad company of all its property or of a portion thereof does not of itself work such a dissolution of the company as disables it from thereafter exercising its corporate powers or so as to relieve it from its debts and obligations;[10] and this is true in the case of a judicial sale;[11] but such a sale of all the corporate property may be deemed a dissolution of the company for the purpose of protecting and enforcing the rights of third parties;[12] and in case of a judicial sale of all the corporate property and franchises of the company the court may be justified in administering the assets of the company as if a legal dissolution had occurred.[13] Where, however, the sale or lease is accompanied by acts made a cause of forfeiture by statute,[14] or by acts or omissions which amount to a wilful misuser or non-user of the corporate franchises, it may constitute grounds on which the state may have a forfeiture declared.[15] bondholders. Matter of New Paltz, etc., R. Co., 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 451, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 247 [affirmed in 42 N. Y. App. Div. 622, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 1111].

5. Lauman v. Lebanon Valley R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 42, 72 Am. Dec. 685.

6. Lauman v. Lebanon Valley R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 42, 72 Am. Dec. 685.

7. Lauman v. Lebanon Valley R. Co., 30 Pa. St. 42, 72 Am. Dec. 685.

8. State v. Omaha, etc., R., etc., Co., 91 Iowa 517, 60 N. W. 121; Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Kerr, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 581; U. S. v. Little Miami, etc., R. Co., 1 Fed. 700.

9. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140; Bruffett v. Great Western R. Co., 25 Ill. 353; State v. Rives, 27 N. C. 297.

Under Minn. Spec. Laws (1881), c. 228, authorizing the sale and conveyance by the St. Paul and Sioux City Railroad Company to another company named of all its railroads and the appurtenances thereof, and franchises and corporate rights necessary to the use of the property, but expressly excepting other franchises and powers which had been conferred on the company, such sale and conveyance and the consequent suspension by it of all its business as a railroad company does not operate as a forfeiture of its corporate franchises. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 222, 28 N. W. 245.

10. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156; U. S. v. Little Miami, etc., R. Co., 1 Fed. 700.

11. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156.

Where under a decree of the United States court a company's railroad and all its rights, privileges, immunities, and franchises exclusive of those granted by the state are sold to satisfy a mortgage, and the legislature subsequently incorporates the purchasers and vests them with all the right, title, and interest in the property, possession, claims, and demands at law or in equity of, in, or to such road, with its appurtenances and with all the rights, powers, immunities, privileges, and franchises of the corporation, the act does not revoke the charter of the railroad company. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Downward, (Del. 1888) 14 Atl. 720.

12. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140.

13. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 96 Fed. 784, 37 C. C. A. 587, 95 Fed. 497, 36 C. C. A. 155 [modifying 82 Fed. 642, and 86 Fed. 929].

A sale of a railroad in a proceeding to enforce a lien reserved to the state operates as a dissolution of the company since it totally destroys the end and object for which it was created. Moore v. Whitcomb, 48 Mo. 543.

14. See the cases cited infra, this note.

Ark. Acts (1901), p. 368, § 1 (Kirby Dig. § 1649), providing for a forfeiture on certain grounds of the franchise and all charter rights of any railroad in and to all railroad property, and the right to operate the same acquired by it under a lease not made in conformity with the statute governing the making of such leases, are applicable to a foreign railroad company operating in the state under a lease; and hence a suit against such company may be maintained under section 2 of such act providing for the enforcement of the forfeiture by information in the nature of quo warranto or other proper suit. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Ark. 435, 88 S. W. 559. This act, however, is not retrospective and does not apply to a lease made before its enactment. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra. And the fact that the company's right in the state authorizes a contract or lease cannot alter its status, as a contract made under a franchise cannot reach beyond the rights acquired by the franchise itself, and afford immunity from public duties. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra.

15. State v. Omaha, etc., R., etc., Co., 91 Iowa 517, 60 N. W. 121; State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246, 30 N. W. 816.

When a railway company violates the constitution of the state by making a transfer and sale of its property and franchises in a

4. Construction and Maintenance of Road. In the absence of a charter or statutory provision to that effect the mere fact that a railroad company fails to begin construction or to complete its road within the time specified in its charter or governing statute does not of itself work a dissolution of the company,[16] although it may constitute ground for which a forfeiture may be declared in a direct proceeding by or on behalf of the state;[17] but the legislature may provide that such a failure will constitute a forfeiture or dissolution without the intervention of the courts or any action on the part of the state, and in some cases it has been so provided.[18] But even though the failure to construct within the time prescribed might have the legal effect to at once terminate the existence of the company, in the absence of evidence from which such failure could be inferred, the presumption of compliance must be indulged.[19] Under some statutes the forfeiture is restricted to that portion of the road which has not been constructed within the time limited.[20] The above rules also apply to a failure to comply with other manner forbidden by that instrument, and afterwards wilfully persists for a long period in a non-user of its franchises, a cause for forfeiture of its franchises exists. East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690.

Where a company without authority of law leases its road to another company with all its rights, property, and franchises for a long period of time, it thereby abandons the operation of its road and is subject to forfeiture. State v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 24 Nebr. 143, 38 N. W. 43, 8 Am. St. Rep. 164.

The acts of a domestic railroad company in surrendering possession, control, and use of its corporate property and franchises to a rival company under a lease in perpetuity, and in acquiescing in the destruction of a portion of its road and other property by the lessee in order to destroy competition, are sufficient grounds to authorize a forfeiture of its franchises and a dissolution of the company and a judgment of ouster against the lessee. Eel River R. Co. v. State, 155 Ind. 433, 57 N. E. 388.

16. Hughes v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. 106, 9 Sawy. 313.

17. In re Brooklyn El. R. Co., 125 N. Y. 434, 26 N. E. 474 [affirming 57 Hun 590, 11 N. Y. Suppl. 161]; In re Atty.-Gen., 2 N. Y. Suppl. 684 [affirmed in 50 Hun 511, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 464]; Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 129; State v. International, etc., R. Co., 57 Tex. 534; Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1.

18. Minnesota.— State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 222, 28 N. W. 245.

Missouri.— Ford v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 52 Mo. App. 439, construing Rev. St. (1889) § 2664.

New York.— Farnham v. Benedict, 107 N. Y. 159, 13 N. E. 784 [reversing 39 Hun 22]; Brooklyn Steam Transit Co. v. Brooklyn, 78 N. Y. 524 (construing Laws (1871), c. 940, and Laws (1873), c. 61, § 4); In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245; New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 819, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 909 [affirmed in 192 N. Y. 558, 85 N. E. 1113]; Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 Code Rep. 89 [reversed on other grounds in 12 Barb. 460 (affirmed in 12 N. Y. 121)].

Tennessee.— La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. 420.

Texas.— Bywaters v. Paris, etc., R. Co., 73 Tex. 624, 11 S. W. 856 (construing Rev. St. art. 4278); Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 2 Tex. Civ. App. 650, 22 S. W. 107, 23 S. W. 1012.

Virginia.— Silliman v. Fredericksburg, etc., R. Co., 27 Gratt. 119.

Canada.— Montreal Park, etc., R. Co. v. Chateauguay, etc., R. Co., 13 Quebec K. B. 256.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 65.

19. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 23 App. Cas. (D. C.) 587.

20. Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 2 Tex. Civ. App. 650, 22 S. W. 107, 23 S. W. 1012; Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879; Montreal Park, etc., R. Co. v. Chateauguay, etc., R. Co., 13 Quebec K. B. 256.

Under Minn. Spec. Laws (1864), c. 1, subs. 2, § 5, and Laws (1865), c. 15, § 4, attaching to the grant of franchises thereby made to a railroad company the condition that it shall construct and equip its road and branches within a fixed time, and that upon failure to do so all unbuilt portions thereof shall be absolutely forfeited, etc., such failure to construct one of its branches is not a cause of forfeiture of its corporate franchise, or of its franchises to maintain and operate the constructed portion of its road; but the forfeiture is restricted to the unbuilt portion. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 222, 28 N. W. 245.

Tex. Rev. St. art. 4558, providing that any railroad company which shall fail to equip at least twenty miles of its right of way every year after the second of its incorporation until the whole is completed shall forfeit its corporate existence, and that its powers shall cease so far as relates to the portion of the road then unfinished, does not apply to a failure to occupy a short portion of a right of way granted in a street connecting with another line, the road having been built into the city along such street in due time after the grant. Denison v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 96 Tex. 233, 72 S. W. 161 [affirming 30 Tex. Civ. App. 474, 72 S. W. 201].

prescribed conditions as to construction.[21] Where the condition is that the company make an expenditure of a certain amount of its capital stock within a specified time, the fact that the company has granted to another company the privilege of laying tracks on parts of its route will not avail to retain its corporate existence without making the prescribed expenditures;[22] nor will a reservation of a right in the lessor to run cars over part of the track laid by the lessee on payment of the sum specified for such use avail to give the lessor the benefit of expenditures by the lessee.[23] Independently of statutory provisions, a railroad charter may be dissolved by reason of its wrongful misuse or non-use of its corporate powers relative to the construction of the road,[24] as where it delays for a long time to construct the line provided in its charter, and constructs a road wholly unsuited to the wants of the public.[25]

5. Suspension of Operation of Road or Business. Where a railroad company voluntarily abandons its road, and does or suffers to be done acts which destroy the end and objects for which it was incorporated, it is sufficient ground to authorize an annulment of its charter upon the suit of the state.[26] But unless the lapse of time is so long as to amount to an abandonment, a railroad company does not forfeit its charter by the suspension of its work and operations for a limited time,[27] especially where the project is not intended to be abandoned but the contemplated road is extended and built as soon as funds therefor are procured.[28] A railroad company, however, cannot incur a forfeiture at its own pleasure and in disregard of the rights of others; and the mere abandonment of the railroad and the removal of its track and its entire disuse is not enough to deprive the company of the privileges of its franchises or to absolve it from maintaining and keeping its road in repair.[29] Under some statutes a suspension of the maintenance and operation of the road for a specified time is ground for a forfeiture of the franchises;[30] but under such statutes a non-user for less than the specified period is no ground for a dissolution.[31] Under some statutes an abandonment of a part of its line operates

21. State v. Omaha, etc., R., etc., Co., 91 Iowa 517, 60 N. W. 121, holding that where a railroad company is granted power by a city to build tracks therein on condition that it shall conform to the street grades and shall pay for the paving between its tracks, its failure to comply with such conditions is not ground for declaring a forfeiture of its charter.

22. In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 81 N. Y. 69.

23. In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 81 N. Y. 69.

24. State v. Hazelton, etc., R. Co., 40 Ohio St. 504.

25. State v. Hazelton, etc., R. Co., 40 Ohio St. 504, holding that where a railroad company for five years fails to construct a line provided in its charter, but condemns private property and constructs a road wholly unsuited to the wants of the public, and for the benefit only of mines owned by the principal stock-holders of the road, it is a misuse of its corporate powers for which it may be dissolved.

26. People v. Pittsburgh R. Co., 53 Cal. 694, holding that where the stock-holders of a coal company incorporate a railroad company with articles declaring its purpose to be the transportation of freight and passengers, but the corporation refuses to run passenger cars, such refusal is ground for annulling the charter.

27. Com. v. New York, etc., Coal, etc., Co., 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 129; Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

28. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

29. People v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 37 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 427.

30. State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246, 30 N. W. 816 (construing Gen. St. (1878) c. 76, § 11); People v. Northern R. Co., 53 Barb. (N. Y.) 98 [affirmed in 42 N. Y. 217] (holding that the law providing for forfeiture of the charter of a railroad company which has suspended its ordinary and lawful business for more than a year admits of no excuse or explanation of such suspension); Atty.-Gen. v. Superior, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 604, 67 N. W. 1138.

Under Iowa Code, § 1079, which provides that a corporation shall cease to exist by the non-user of its franchise for two years at any time, a railroad company which was incorporated in 1883 and did not begin its road until 1886, but money was expended and continuous efforts were made during that time to procure additional means to construct it, did not lose its franchise by non-user. Young v. Webster City, etc., R. Co., 75 Iowa 140, 39 N. W. 234.

31. People v. Atlantic Ave. R. Co., 125 N. Y. 513, 26 N. E. 622 [affirming 57 Hun 378, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 907].

The omission of a railway company for five days to run its trains is not sufficient to authorize a forfeiture under N. Y. Code Civ.

to work a forfeiture of the entire line.[32] But it has been held that, where there is no such statute, it is no cause for forfeiture that the company discontinues unprofitable trains;[33] and it has also been held that a forfeiture will not be declared for a failure or refusal to run trains to a certain place, where there is no injury to the public and a forfeiture would not redress the grievance complained of.[34]

6. Waiver or Release of Forfeiture. The state may waive or lose its right to have the franchises of a railroad company forfeited,[35] as by enacting a statute, after the cause of forfeiture has arisen, recognizing the company and authorizing the construction or operation of the road,[36] or by extending the time for the completion of the road,[37] or by expressly releasing the company from the effect of a forfeiture, or reviving it;[38] or the state may waive such right by acquiescing, after the cause of forfeiture, for an unreasonable time in the construction and operation of the road.[39] A waiver on condition may be revoked upon a breach of the condition.[40]

7. Operation and Effect of Forfeiture. The operation and effect of a forfeiture of railroad franchises is ordinarily governed by the rules applicable to the dissolution of corporations in general, except in so far as it is regulated by

Proc. § 1785, providing for the dissolution of a corporation "where it has suspended its ordinary and lawful business for at least one year"; nor is such omission an "abuse of its powers" within the meaning of section 1798, which authorizes an action for dissolution for abuse of corporate powers. People v. Atlantic Ave. R. Co., 125 N. Y. 513, 26 N. E. 622 [affirming 57 Hun 378, 10 N. Y. Suppl. 907].

32. Brownell v. Old Colony R. Co., 164 Mass. 29, 41 N. E. 107, 49 Am. St. Rep. 442, 29 L. R. A. 169; People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295.

33. Com. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 12 Gray (Mass.) 180.

34. Atty.-Gen. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 55 Mich. 15, 20 N. W. 696, holding that the charter of a railroad company will not be declared forfeited for the failure and refusal to continue to run its trains into and use as a station a village not named as a station in the charter, although injury to the inhabitants of such village is thereby done, where such discontinuance is brought about by the use of another route by the lessee of the company to facilitate the transfer of passengers and freight to a through line of railroad, and the public at large are not injured.

35. Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Cross, 20 Ark. 443; State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246, 30 N. W. 816; Montreal Park, etc., R. Co. v. Chateauguay, etc., R. Co., 13 Quebec K. B. 256.

36. Illinois.— People v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 440.

Minnesota.— State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246, 30 N. W. 816.

North Carolina.—Atty.-Gen. v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co., 28 N. C. 456.

Texas.— East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690.

Wisconsin.— Atty.-Gen. v. Superior, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 604, 67 N. W. 1138.

Canada.— Port Dover, etc., R. Co. v. Grey, 36 U. C. Q. B. 425; Toronto v. Crookshank, 4 U. C. Q. B. 309.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 67.

37. Brooklyn Steam Transit Co. v. Brooklyn, 78 N. Y. 524 (construing Laws (1879), c. 350); In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245; La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420; Bywaters v. Paris, etc., R. Co., 73 Tex. 624, 11 S. W. 856, construing Rev. St. art. 4278, Laws (1885), p. 54.

38. Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Cross, 20 Ark. 443; Brooklyn Steam Transit Co. v. Brooklyn, 78 N. Y. 524 (holding, however, that Laws (1875), c. 593, relieving from forfeiture railroad companies then in default for non-construction of their roads, does not apply to a railroad that was not in default at the time of the passage of that act); Com. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 26 (construing the act of April 11, 1856).

Minnesota act of March 10, 1862, held not to revive certain railroad companies see Fitz v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 11 Minn. 414; Hilbert v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 11 Minn. 246; Huff v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 11 Minn. 180.

39. State v. Bailey, 19 Ind. 452 (holding that where the articles of association of a railroad company, defective in not specifying with certainty the terminus of its road, are properly filed in the office of the secretary of state, it is notice to the state of the defect and its right to take advantage thereof is lost by eight years of acquiescence without endeavoring to have the same amended); Brownell v. Old Colony R. Co., 164 Mass. 29, 41 N. E. 107, 49 Am. St. Rep. 442, 29 L. R. A. 169.

40. La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. (Tenn.) 420, holding that where the legislature incorporates a railroad and thereafter extends the time in which to complete the road, provided the same is not sold and transferred to a certain party named, a sale of such road is a revocation of the waiver by the state of its right to enforce a forfeiture of the charter of the original road for failure to complete the road within the time specified in the act of incorporation.

special charter or statutory provisions.[41] Thus the forfeiture or dissolution of a railroad company operates to divest the officers of the company of all their powers as such,[42] except that under some statutes they may continue to exercise powers necessary to wind up the company.[43] And under some statutes the property rights of the company survive for the benefit of those who may have a right to or just claim against its assets.[44] It has been held that a railroad, although there has been a forfeiture or repeal of the company's charter remains a public highway subject to the management and control of the state.[45]

8. Proceedings For Forfeiture or Dissolution. Although under some statutes a railroad company's franchises may become ipso facto forfeited and the company dissolved by reason of its failure to comply with certain statutory conditions,[46] as a general rule a railroad company's right to corporate existence cannot be questioned in a collateral proceeding instituted by a private individual or corporation, but it may be deprived of its franchises and a dissolution decreed, only in a direct judicial proceeding, in the nature of a quo warranto, instituted by or on behalf of the state for that purpose;[47] and where a pleading in a collateral

41. See Silliman v. Fredericksburg, etc., R. Co., 27 Gratt. (Va.) 119; and, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1310 et seq.

42. Ford v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 52 Mo. App. 439.

43. Ford v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 52 Mo. App. 439.

44. Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 2 Tex. Civ. App. 650, 22 S. W. 107, 23 S. W. 1012.

45. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Casey, 26 Pa. St. 287.

46. See New York, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 196; Bywaters v. Paris, etc., R. Co., 73 Tex. 624, 11 S. W. 856; and the statutes of the several states.

The burden of proving such forfeiture is upon the party who asserts it and in the absence of evidence a forfeiture cannot be assumed. Edwards v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 82 Mo. App. 96.

47. Arkansas.— Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Ark. 435, 88 S. W. 559; Brown v. Wyandotte, etc., R. Co., 68 Ark. 134, 56 S. W. 862, holding that a ground of forfeiture cannot be taken advantage of in a proceeding by the company to condemn land.

Illinois.— Bruffett v. Great Western R. Co., 25 Ill. 353.

Indiana.— State v. Bailey, 19 Ind. 452. Under Rev. St. (1881) §§ 1131, 1132, it is provided that the mode of procedure to have declared a forfeiture of a railroad company's rights, privileges, and franchises is by information on the relation of the prosecuting attorney in the circuit court of the proper county. Logan v. Vernon, etc., R. Co., 90 Ind. 552.

Maine.— Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 Atl. 1001, 66 L. R. A. 387.

Minnesota.— State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246, 30 N. W. 816.

New York.— People v. Ulster, etc., R. Co., 128 N. Y. 240, 28 N. E. 635 [affirming 58 Hun 266, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 303, 54 Hun 639, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 149]; In re Brooklyn El. R. Co., 125 N. Y. 434, 26 N. E. 474 [affirming 57 Hun 590, 11 N. Y. Suppl. 161] (holding that the company cannot be attacked for a default by way of answer or defence in condemnation proceedings instituted by it); In re Atty.-Gen., 2 N. Y. Suppl. 684 [affirmed in 50 Hun 511, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 464].

Pennsylvania.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Petition, 187 Pa. St. 123, 40 Atl. 967; Chestnut Hill, etc., R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 12, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 441.

Tennessee.— La Grange, etc., R. Co. v. Rainey, 7 Coldw. 420.

United States.— Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879.

Whether or not a railroad company has done or failed to do anything which would result in a forfeiture of its franchise can only be inquired into by a proceeding appropriate for that purpose, such as an information in the nature of quo warranto instituted by the proper authorities on behalf of the state. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 Atl. 1001, 66 L. R. A. 387.

But whether or not the company intends in good faith to carry out the declared objects of its organization cannot be inquired into in quo warranto proceedings. State v. Martin, 51 Kan. 462, 33 Pac. 9.

Pleading.— An information, filed by the attorney-general for the purpose of having the charter of a corporation declared to be forfeited, need not be expressed in technical language, but it must set out the substance of a good cause of forfeiture in its essential circumstances of time, place, and overt acts. Atty.-Gen. v. Petersburg, etc., R. Co., 28 N. C. 456. In proceedings by the state in the nature of a quo warranto against a domestic railroad company to declare a forfeiture of its franchises on the ground that it has ceased to engage in the business for which it was organized, and has surrendered its corporate property and franchises to a rival company in order to destroy competition, the information need not aver that the acts complained of were prohibited by statute, or that public injury resulted therefrom. Eel River R. Co. v. State, 155 Ind. 433, 57 N. E. 388.

Parties.— In a proceeding on the part of the state to forfeit the charter of a railway proceeding seeks to set up the fact of such forfeiture, it must allege that the forfeiture has been judicially declared in a suit for that purpose.[48] Where, in proceedings by or on behalf of the state, facts clearly bring the case within the terms of the statute providing for a forfeiture, it is mandatory upon the court to declare a forfeiture.[49]

III. PUBLIC AID.*

A. In General [50] — 1. Requisites and Validity of Grants of Aid in General. In order that a grant of public aid to a railroad company may be valid, it is requisite that all the requirements of the statute, ordinance, or constitution authorizing such aid be at least substantially complied with.[51] The fact that a railroad company is authorized to construct and operate a telegraph line in connection with and as incidental to the operation of its road will not invalidate a grant of public aid in the construction of the road.[52]

2. Indemnity or Security by Railroad Company. The constitutional or statutory provisions authorizing the granting of public aid to a railroad company usually provide that the municipality, county, or state granting such aid shall be entitled to security or indemnity for the credit loaned by it to the company, by indorsing or guaranteeing the bonds of the latter,[53] or by loaning bonds of the city, county, or state to the railroad company,[54] or for the repayment of advances made to the company,[55] the nature and character of the security required depending upon the terms of the particular statute. Thus, under the various statutes, this company on account of a sale of its corporate franchises, rights, and privileges to a railway company chartered by another state, the purchasing company is not a necessary party. East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690.

48. Logan v. Vernon, etc., R. Co., 90 Ind. 552.

49. State v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 36 Minn. 246, 30 N. W. 816.

50. Grant of right of way or other interests in land see infra, V.

Loss or waiver of lien for public aid granted see infra, VIII, A, 6, c, (II).

Lien for public aid granted see infra, VIII, A, 6, h.

Foreclosure of lien for public aid granted see infra, VIII, B, 2, a.

Constitutionality of statute: Authorizing municipal aid to railroad see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 891. Authorizing railroad aid as an exercise of eminent domain or police power see EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 562. Restricting the right of a railroad company to receive public aid see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 972.

Constitutional guarantee: Against impairing obligation of contract by municipal corporation for aid to a railroad see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 948 note 93. Against impairment of vested right of railroad company to municipal aid see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 904. Against deprivation of property as applied to municipal aid to railroad see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 1104.

Extent, mode, and validity of exercise of power in granting aid to railroad: By counties see COUNTIES, 11 Cyc. 518 et seq., 560. By municipal corporations see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 1553 et seq., 1579. By state see STATES. By towns see TOWNS.

Grants of public lands in aid of railroads see PUBLIC LANDS, 32 Cyc. 937 et seq.

Retrospective operation of statute validating unauthorized aid to railroad see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 1024.

51. See People v. Logan County, 45 Ill. 162; Com. v. Allegheny County, 37 Pa. St. 237, holding railroad aid bonds issued in payment of a subscription by a county required to be made by an act of assembly on the recommendation of the county commissioners valid, although the officers of the railroad company were permitted to urge the recommendation at a meeting of the grand jury. And see COUNTIES, 11 Cyc. 420 et seq.; MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 1559; STATES; TOWNS.

52. Snell v. Leonard, 55 Iowa 553, 8 N. W. 425.

53. Cunningham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,483, 3 Woods 418.

Appropriation of money raised.—A bond or security may be required of the railroad company, under some statutes, that the money raised upon the bonds of the company guaranteed by a city shall be appropriated to the construction of the road. Sinking Fund Com'rs v. Northern Bank, 1 Metc. (Ky.) 174, holding that such a provision in a statute confers a privilege to the city, and not an obligation upon it, to require such bond, and that a mortgage to the city is not vitiated by its failure to require the bond.

54. Raleigh, etc., Air-Line R. Co. v. Jenkins, 68 N. C. 499, 502; Cincinnati v. Morgan, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 275, 18 L. ed. 146.

55. Com. v. Williamstown, 156 Mass. 70, 40 N. E. 472.

* By Henry H. Skyles.

security has been required to be in the form of a mortgage or pledge of stock of the company,[56] a mortgage on the property of the railroad company,[57] or such other lien or security, real or personal, as the parties may mutually agree upon.[58]

3. Negotiation and Sale of Securities.[59] Where they are negotiable in form, a railroad company may negotiate and sell state, county, or municipal aid bonds or other securities, which it has received, the same as other like instruments,[60] and may guarantee such bonds or securities;[61] and may also negotiate and sell its own bonds indorsed by a state, county, or municipality.[62] The holders of such bonds or securities are entitled to all the rights, privileges, and immunities attaching to negotiable instruments, as against the state, county, or municipality.[63] Thus an innocent holder thereof is not affected by any fraud or mistake in their issue;[64] but a purchaser or holder who has notice, actual or constructive, of irregularities or informalities in the bonds or securities takes subject thereto,[65] and if the bonds are fraudulently issued, it is incumbent upon a holder thereof to show that he is

The Mississippi act of April 8, 1873, providing that certain advances from the state in aid of the Vicksburg & Nashville R. Co., should be made as portions of the road should be completed, entitled the legislature to judge of the sufficiency of the security at any time, and to require additional security from the company of any character even after the executive had ordered payment of one instalment of the advances, on a satisfactory showing that the company had become entitled to receive it. Hemmingway v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 52 Miss. 16.

56. Cincinnati v. Morgan, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 275, 18 L. ed. 146.

57. Sinking Fund Com'rs v. Northern Bank, 1 Metc. (Ky.) 174; Com. v. Williamstown, 156 Mass. 70, 30 N. E. 472; Cunningham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,483, 3 Woods 418.

58. Cincinnati v. Morgan, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 275, 18 L. ed. 146.

59. Rights of holders of public aid bonds and securities generally see Counties, 11 Cyc. 565; Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 1610; States; Towns.

60. Bartholomew County v. Bright, 18 Ind. 93 (holding that Local Acts (1849–1850), § 6, prohibiting a railroad company from selling its bonds at a greater discount than ten per cent did not restrain it from selling other bonds than its own at a greater discount); Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 392, 19 L. ed. 117; Evans v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,557, 5 Phila. (Pa.) 512; Brock Tp. v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 17 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 425.

61. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 392, 19 L. ed. 117; Evans v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,557, 5 Phila. (Pa.) 512, holding that a railroad company has power to guarantee punctual payment of coupons attached to municipal bonds issued in aid of such company. And see infra, VIII, A, 5.

62. State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127.

Numbers on bonds.—Ala. Act, Nov. 17, 1868, providing for the indorsement of certain railroad bonds, did not require that the bonds should be numbered, that they should be indorsed in numerical order, or that they should be sold or negotiated by the company in any particular order, and the numbers on several bonds did not indicate anything as to the time when they were issued or negotiated. State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127.

63. Curtis v. Butler County, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,500.

64. Gilman v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 72 Ala. 566 (holding that where a state indorses bonds of a railroad pursuant to a statute contemplating that the bonds shall be used only for the further construction of the road after the completion of the first twenty miles, but the company delivers them to the contractor in payment of the first twenty miles, the state is liable as an accommodation indorser to a bona fide holder for value in the usual course of business); State v. Cobb, 64 Ala. 127 (holding that where bonds indorsed by the state are negotiable and regular on their face, and recite in the indorsement a compliance by the company with the conditions of the statute, an innocent holder for value is not affected by any fraud or mistake in their overissue). Compare Com. v. Haupt, 10 Allen (Mass.) 38, holding that the state is entitled to recover against contractors for money had and received from the sale of an excess of scrip issued.

65. Gilman v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 72 Ala. 566, holding that the state is not liable on indorsed bonds as an accommodation indorser, while the bonds remain in the hands of any person chargeable with knowledge of the misapplication of the bonds in violation of statute.

Where negotiable county aid railroad bonds recite the act under which they were issued, the purchasers of such bonds are presumed to have notice of all provisions therein, and hence are presumed to know of a provision therein to the effect that the obligee of the railroad company has no authority to put them in circulation or sell them at less than their par value, and in case they were so issued, such holder can recover from the county only the amount which the railroad company receives for them. But where the bonds were first put out by the company at their par value, the fact that they were again received by the company at less than a bona fide holder for value.[66] Scrip issued by a state, county, or municipality in aid of a railroad may be assigned by the company.[67] The company may also make a general assignment of its right to avail itself of a standing offer of public aid.[68]

4. Commissioners or Other Officers Having Control of Grant. The statutes providing for public aid to railroad companies usually place the control of the grant in a board of commissioners or certain other officers;[69] and the railroad company has no right to aid voted to it until such board or officers have acted in their favor,[70] as until after they have determined that all the statutory conditions have been complied with,[71] and made an appropriation or donation of the money voted,[72] which can be done only after it is collected.[73] Where the exercise of the board's power is dependent upon the performance of certain conditions by the railroad company, such board has no authority to act until such conditions have been performed.[74] Such commissioners or officers, while they continue to hold office, cannot transfer their official rights or divest themselves of their official duty;[75] and on the other hand, they cannot perform any official acts after they cease to hold office.[76] It is the duty of such commissioners to exchange or otherwise dispose of the capital stock of a railroad company received on subscription thereto, in the manner authorized by statute,[77] and to account for the proceeds thereof to the proper county, state, or municipal authorities.[78] Such commispar does not affect the right of a subsequent bona fide purchaser to recover upon them. Curtis v. Butler County, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,500.

66. Curtis v. Butler County, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,500.

67. Com. v. Haupt, 10 Allen (Mass.) 38.

68. State v. Hastings, 24 Minn. 78 (holding this to be true, although the company had not complied with certain terms and conditions upon which the offer was made, at the time of such assignment); Crogster v. Bayfield County, 99 Wis. 1, 74 N. W. 635, 77 N. W. 167 (holding that a county cannot avoid liability on bonds voted in aid of a railroad, "its successors and assigns," merely by reason of the assignment to another company of its interest in such bonds to be earned on completion of the road).

69. Demaree v. Bridges, 30 Ind. App. 131, 65 N. E. 601 (construing Burns Rev. St. (1901) §§ 5340, 5341, 5369); Biddlecom v. Newton, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 582 (power of issuing bonds in board of commissioners).

Power of determining compliance with conditions.— Minn. Spec. Laws (1889), c. 205, providing for municipal aid to a railroad company and that bonds issued pursuant thereto should be delivered by commissioners to the company upon the completion of the road, does not give the commissioners the power of determining conclusively the fact as to whether the conditions upon which the bonds were voted have been complied with. McManus v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 51 Minn. 30, 52 N. W. 980.

70. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

The rule that in the absence of malicious or fraudulent motives a judicial officer is not liable in damages for an erroneous application of the law is applicable to the quasi-judicial acts of township trustees in refusing to issue to a railroad company a certificate of compliance with conditions upon which a tax was voted in aid of the construction of the road, and the trustees are not liable in damages for such refusal unless they act wilfully or corruptly. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

71. Demaree v. Bridges, 30 Ind. App. 131, 65 N. E. 601.

72. State v. Clinton County, 166 Ind. 162, 76 N. E. 986.

Appropriation necessary.— Railroad companies have no legal rights to subsidies levied and collected for their aid from townships under Ind. Act (1869), p. 292, until an appropriation thereof is made by the proper board of commissioners. State v. Clinton County, 166 Ind. 162, 76 N. E. 986.

73. State v. Clinton County, 166 Ind. 162, 76 N. E. 986.

74. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Falconer, 103 U. S. 821, 26 L. ed. 471.

75. Biddlecom v. Newton, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 582.

76. Biddlecom v. Newton, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 582, holding an attempt to transfer bonds pending a writ of certiorari to review the proceedings appointing commissioners and which proceedings were afterward reversed and the application ordered dismissed, to be null and void.

77. People v. Edcy, 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 80; People v. Burnside, 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 74.

78. Griggs v. Griggs, 56 N. Y. 504 [affirming 66 Barb. 287], holding that in an action against railroad commissioners of a town to require them to account for moneys received by them on the sale of railroad stock belonging to the town, if it appears that the commissioners have retained a portion of the funds and have undertaken to appropriate it to their own use, they are properly chargeable with interest on the amount so retained.

An action for an accounting may be brought by the supervisor of a municipality in his sioners may be removed by an order of the proper court for unlawful or wilful non-feasance in office.[79]

5. Revocation, Forfeiture, Termination, or Avoidance. Ordinarily the termination of a railroad's right to public aid granted to it is controlled by the terms of the statute authorizing or granting such aid.[80] A grant of public aid may be avoided, if procured by fraud or misrepresentation.[81] A railroad company may forfeit its right to taxes voted and collected if it does not claim the same within the prescribed time,[82] or if it fails to perform the conditions precedent, upon which the grant is made;[83] but such right is not forfeited by a temporary suspension of the work on the road,[84] or by an omission to make compensation to a landowner for land taken;[85] nor where the railroad company has expended money in construction on the faith of a voted tax is its right thereto taken away by a subsequent repeal of the statute authorizing the tax, although no levy is made until after the repeal;[86] nor where the road has been completed before the tax is levied will an omission to state in the levy the time when the road was to be completed defeat the tax.[87] And no parol contract, stipulation, or limitation can be set up to defeat a tax so voted,[88] except to establish fraud.[89] A public subscription once made in aid of a railroad is not invalidated by an amendment to its charter changing the name of the road,[90] or by any other change not a fundamental one.[91] Nor where a railroad company has substantially performed the conditions upon which it becomes entitled to certain bonds is its right to demand the bonds affected by its subsequent misconduct in operating the road.[92] own name as supervisor, and it is not necessary for the continuance of the action that his successor be substituted as plaintiff. Griggs v. Griggs, 56 N. Y. 504 [affirming 66 Barb. 287].

79. People v. Eddy, 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 80; People v. Burnside, 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 74.

80. See West Branch Canal Co. v. Elmira, etc., R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 180, holding that where a state undertakes to pay to a railroad company yearly all tolls received on a canal belonging to the state with the proviso that the privilege shall cease if the net proceeds of the road, after defraying necessary expenses for motive power and superintendence, shall exceed six per cent per annum on the capital stock, the grant by its terms expires when the net receipts in any year after paying expenses are more than six per cent on the capital stock alone, although less than six per cent on the capital stock and funded debt.

81. Prettyman v. Tazewell County Sup'rs, 19 Ill. 406, 71 Am. Dec. 230; Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33; Sinnett v. Moles, 38 Iowa 25.

Estoppel.— That work on a railroad has been performed and money expended without objection from the taxpayers does not estop them from subsequently denying the validity of a tax voted to aid in its construction, on discovery that the vote had been procured by fraud. Sinnett v. Moles, 38 Iowa 25.

Misrepresentation.— Where the electors of a town vote for an issue of bonds to be used in the construction of a railroad, under representations by the officers of such railroad that it is to be entirely independent of a railroad previously constructed, and immediately after the election such officers voluntarily transfer the control of the road to the company owning the preëxisting road, there is such misrepresentation as will justify an injunction to restrain the proposed bond issue. Nash v. Baker, 37 Nebr. 713, 56 N. W. 376.

82. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Elseffer, 84 Iowa 510, 51 N. W. 27, two years under Act (1876), p. 110, § 7, and also holding that such statute was not repealed by Acts (1880), c. 192.

That the railroad company did not know that the money was in the treasury and that it erroneously believed the tax levy to be invalid does not relieve it from a forfeiture under such a statute. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Elseffer, 84 Iowa 510, 51 N. W. 27.

83. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786. And see infra, III, C, 2.

84. Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61.

Estoppel.— The company would not be estopped to collect the tax because it advised, when the work temporarily ceased, that the collection of the tax should be suspended. Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61.

85. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Keene, 62 N. H. 81.

86. Cantillon v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 78 Iowa 48, 42 N. W. 613, 5 L. R. A. 776; Burges v. Mabin, 70 Iowa 633, 27 N. W. 464.

87. Burges v. Mabin, 70 Iowa 633, 27 N. W. 464.

88. Harwood v. Quinby, 44 Iowa 385; Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

89. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

90. Reading v. Wedder, 66 Ill. 80; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stafford County, 36 Kan. 121, 12 Pac. 593. And see Counties, 11 Cyc. 529 note 35.

91. See Reading v. Wedder, 66 Ill. 80.

92. Hodgman v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 153.

6. Enforcement of Grants. Where all preliminary steps and conditions requisite to an issuance of bonds or collection of money voted in aid of a railroad company have been taken and the company has a clear right thereto, the usual remedy to enforce the performance of such grant is a writ of mandamus.[93] Where a bill in equity has been instituted to enjoin the issuance of such bonds, the railroad company may seek to enforce their issuance by a cross bill.[94] It has been held that where the granting of such aid is provided for by a municipal by-law, such by-law is in the nature of a contract with the railroad company, and that the latter can sue for and recover the bonus granted by an action of debt on the by-law.[95] A judgment creditor of a railroad company may proceed in equity to compel the company to assign its rights against a county or municipality which has subscribed to its stock;[96] but such creditor cannot proceed in equity to compel the county or municipality to issue its subscription bonds to him after the assignment, since the obligation to issue the bonds is merely statutory and not capable of being pleaded as a pure money indebtedness,[97] and the proper remedy in such case is by writ of mandamus.[98] Where a state holds railroad bonds issued in exchange for public aid granted, which bonds constitute a statutory lien on the road and the trustees of the bonds are merely the agents of the state, the state has such a direct interest in the road as will give it a standing in court when the public aid fund is brought into court to file an original bill to protect its interests.[99]

7. Grant of Aid by National Government.[1] Grants of public aid to railroad companies by loaning money or bonds, or granting public lands, have also been made upon certain conditions by the national government, through acts of congress, as in the case of the "Pacific Railroad Acts,"[2] the rights and liabilities of the parties thereunder being controlled by the terms of such acts.[3] Thus, under the "Pacific Railroad Acts," it has been held that the grants made by such acts to

93. See, generally, Mandamus, 26 Cyc. 303, 304.

Evidence.— Evidence of speeches made by officers of a railroad company at the time of an election to vote aid to it as being admissible in mandamus proceedings to compel the issuance of bonds see Illinois Midland R. Co. v. Barnett, 85 Ill. 313. The fact of the appropriation of a tax in aid of a railroad and of the corporate existence of the company may be shown by the record of the proceedings of the county board where the necessary jurisdiction appears. Caffyn v. State, 91 Ind. 324.

94. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Mallory, 101 Ill. 583.

The burden of proof is upon the railroad company asking the enforcement of the issuing of bonds, to show that the bonds were authorized to be issued by a vote of the people had pursuant to a law providing therefor. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Mallory, 101 Ill. 583.

95. Grand Junction R. Co. v. Peterborough County, 8 Can. Sup. Ct. 76 [affirming 6 Ont. App. 339].

96. Smith v. Bourbon County, 127 U. S. 105, 8 S. Ct. 1043, 32 L. ed. 73.

97. Smith v. Bourbon County, 127 U. S. 105, 8 S. Ct. 1043, 32 L. ed. 73, holding also that the equitable nature of the complainant's rights against the railroad company furnishes no ground for the support of such a bill in equity against the county.

98. Smith v. Bourbon County, 127 U. S. 105, 8 S. Ct. 1043, 32 L. ed. 73.

99. Florida v. Anderson, 91 U. S. 667, 23 L. ed. 290, holding that it is competent for a state in seeking equitable relief against citizens of another state for the protection of its interests to file an original bill.

1. Compensation of land grant railroads for carrying mails see Post-Office, 31 Cyc. 994.

2. 12 U. S. St. at L. 489; 13 U. S. St. at L. 356.

3. See the cases cited infra, this note; and notes 4–13.

Reports and accounts.— The act of congress of June 19, 1878 (U. S. Rev. St. Suppl. 194), requiring certain reports prescribed by the auditor of railroad accounts to be made by railroads to which the United States have granted any loan of credit or subsidy in bonds or lands or which have received from the United States lands granted to them to aid in the construction of their roads, does not apply to railroads which are incorporated by the several states and have received from them the grants of land made to such states to procure the construction of railroads. U. S. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Fed. 732, 23 C. C. A. 430 [affirming 69 Fed. 89].

State corporations accepting the provisions of the Pacific railroad acts are subject to all the provisions thereof. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 3 Fed. 721, 1 McCrary 581.

The act of congress of July 1, 1862, 12 U. S. St. at L. 489, incorporating the Union Pacific Railroad Company and pledging the support of the government, embodies in itself both the Central Pacific Railroad Company were precisely the same in character and amount as those made to the Union Pacific;[4] that the Union Pacific was under an obligation to build and operate a telegraph line along its right of way,[5] and to transport mail, passengers, supplies, etc., for the government at a fair and reasonable rate not to exceed that paid by private parties for the same kind of service,[6] or at a certain per cent of the rates charged the general public,[7] a certain portion of such compensation to be applied on the government bonds and interest;[8] that a certain per cent of the net earnings of the road should be applied to the payment of bonds and interest;[9] that the United States has no claim against the stock-holders of the Central Pacific on account of the aid bonds issued to that company;[10] that under such acts the United States sustains two distinct relations to the Union Pacific Railroad Company, namely, that of the government creating it and exercising legislative and visitatorial powers, and that growing out of the contract contained in the charter and its amendment;[11] but that it did not thereby become a trustee vested with power to enforce the proper use of the property and franchises granted for the benefit of the public, since there were no cestuis que trustent.[12] Where a grant of public aid is made for the construction of a railroad, except as to such portion for which the construction has already been provided, the fact that the railroad company has contracted merely for the grading and fencing of a certain portion of the road does not disentitle it to such aid as to that portion.[13]

B. Private Subscriptions or Contributions[14] — 1. In General. Public a charter and a compact; and those provisions which bind the government to do something and cause distinct obligations upon it and make it take a financial part in the enterprise are something distinct from a charter and are to be liberally construed. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 10 Ct. Cl. 548.

4. U. S. v. Stanford, 69 Fed. 25 [affirmed in 161 U. S. 412, 16 S. Ct. 576, 40 L. ed. 751].

5. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 3 Fed. 721, 1 McCrary 581, holding that, on the face of the acts of congress of 1862 and 1864, the obligation of the Union Pacific Railroad Company and its branches to build and operate for the public a telegraph line along its right of way was an obligation which they could not abandon.

6. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 20 Ct. Cl. 70, holding that, under the provision relating to the transfer of passengers for the government, the government is not entitled for local passengers to rates which the road receives in division with other companies for transportation over its own and other roads.

The roads are entitled only to the quantum meruit and not to a rate to be fixed in the first instance by the company within the limits prescribed. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 117 U. S. 355, 6 S. Ct. 772, 29 L. ed. 920.

7. U. S. v. Astoria, etc., R. Co., 131 Fed. 1006, holding that Act Cong. July 2, 1864, c. 217, § 11 (13 U. S. St. at L. 370), requiring land grant railroads to carry freight for the army at not exceeding fifty per cent of the tariff rates charged the general public, does not entitle the government to a reduced rate for the carriage of freight between two points by a railroad company which received no land grant, merely because its trains run for a part of the distance over the track of a land grant road.

8. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 10 Ct. Cl. 548, holding that under the acts of July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864, providing that one half of such earnings shall be retained and applied on the bonds, if the earnings thus designated exceed the advances for interest on the bonds, the loss ad interim will be the company's; if they fall short of such advances, the loss will be on the government; and that in an action by a company for the remainder of its earnings, the government's demand for interest advanced on the fund must be asserted by a counter-claim in the nature of a cross action, and also that if the government could have augmented the company's earnings by furnishing more transportation, it cannot set up a counter-claim for interest advanced by it in such action.

9. See Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 20 Ct. Cl. 70; and infra, III, C, 6, 7.

The words "necessary expenses in operating," within the meaning of the Thurman Act of 1878, § 1 (20 U. S. St. at L. 56) [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3569], defining the phrase "net earnings" as used in the act of 1862 extend to the expenses of operating the road in accordance with the demands of the business coming to it, but limit them to such as are conducive to that end and exclude those that are not. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 20 Ct. Cl. 70.

10. U. S. v. Stanford, 161 U. S. 412, 16 S. Ct. 576, 40 L. ed. 751 [affirming 69 Fed. 25].

11. U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143.

12. U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143 [affirming 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,598, 11 Blatchf. 385]. See Hereford R. Co. v. Reg., 24 Can. Sup. Ct. 1.

13. McRae v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 22 U. C. C. P. 1, construing 34 Vict. c. 2, § 3.

14. Subscriptions: In general see SUB-aid may also be given to a proposed railroad or railroad extension by private voluntary subscriptions or contributions by individuals or corporations.[15] Such subscriptions or contributions are not affected by statutory provisions relating to subscriptions to stock.[16]

2. Requisites and Validity of Contracts. The requisites and validity of a contract of subscription in aid of a railroad company are governed by the rules regulating contracts generally,[17] and also by the general rules of agency when procured by an agent or committee.[18] Such voluntary subscriptions or contributions are usually made in consideration of the benefits that will accrue to the subscribers or contributors by the construction and operation of the railroad;[19] and are usually made, and held valid when so made, upon condition that the proposed railway be constructed and put in operation,[20] to a specified place

SCRIPTIONS. To corporate stock in general see CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 380 et seq. To railroad stock see supra, II, B, 2.

15. See Wright v. Irwin, 35 Mich. 347.

16. Wright v. Irwin, 35 Mich. 347, holding that it is no defense to an action upon a note given as a voluntary contribution in aid of a proposed railroad to show that the municipal and individual aid and stock subscriptions to the road did not amount to a certain sum per mile, within the meaning of Comp. Laws (1891), § 2298, as such requirement is merely a qualification of the right to levy and collect assessments upon the stock subscribed.

17. See, generally, CONTRACTS, 9 Cyc. 213.

Substitution of contract.—Where a railroad company agrees to a subscription of a certain amount to build a depot in a certain place, and after part of the required sum has been subscribed the company notifies the subscribers that it requires, in lieu of such general subscription, assumption by two or three responsible persons of the payment of the sum required, and thereupon certain persons promise by parol to assume it, after which a canvass is made for further subscriptions, and subscriptions obtained for a larger sum, the subscribers intending to put such persons in funds, the persons assuming such payment are the contracting parties and they alone can be sued for a breach of the contract. Lamoille Valley R. Co. v. Marsh, 49 Vt. 37.

Release — void.—An arrangement between the officers of a railroad company and a portion of its subscribers that if the town in which they reside votes a certain amount for municipal aid, such subscribers, upon paying a certain per cent of their subscriptions, shall be released from the balance is in effect an agreement to release a portion of the subscribers without authority and is therefore void. Swartwout v. Michigan Air Line R. Co., 24 Mich. 389.

18. See, generally, PRINCIPAL AND AGENT, 31 Cyc. 1414 et seq., 1566 et seq., 1597 et seq.

Discretionary powers.— Where subscribers authorize their agents "to make and enter into a contract with said railroad company, in their discretion and upon such terms as they . . . may deem most for our interest," such agents are empowered to bind their principals to furnish depot grounds and right of way free of charge as a condition precedent to the performance of the contract by the company. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Stewart, 25 Iowa 115.

A committee or agents acting for subscribers offering money cannot go beyond their instructions; and where authorized to make a suitable contract with the company and to provide therein for the manner of collecting the subscriptions, and all other details as to the location of depots and whatever else may be of interest to the town in making the same, the committee has no power to make a contract binding the subscribers to procure and pay for the right of way, and to construct the grade, and binding the railroad company only in case the right of way should be obtained and the grade completed by persons who contracted with the railroad to do this in consideration of the subscriptions. Darnell v. Lyon, 85 Tex. 455, 22 S. W. 304, 960 [affirming (Civ. App. 1892) 19 S. W. 506]. A direction to an agent to subscribe a specified sum in aid of a railroad payable upon the location and erection of certain improvements at a given point does not authorize such subscription to be made payable on the "location" of the improvements there. Drover v. Evans, 59 Ind. 454.

Where a special agent, to whom a subscription in aid of a railroad has been intrusted to be delivered upon certain conditions, delivers it in disregard of his instructions, his principals, the subscribers, are not bound thereby. Saginaw, etc., R. Co. v. Chappell, 56 Mich. 190, 22 N. W. 278.

Ratification.— Where the incorporators of a railroad issue "freight receipts" obligating the company to transport freight or passengers in consideration of subscriptions used in the construction of the road, without authority, but such subscriptions are applied in payment of the company's construction contracts, and are subsequently ratified by its officers, they thereby become binding obligations on the company. Branson v. Oregonian R. Co., 10 Oreg. 278.

19. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239.

20. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239.

or along a specified route,[21] within a certain time,[22] or that a station be located at a specified point.[23] The fact that a company was organized to build the road at the time that the contract was made,[24] or that in the absence of such contract the road would have been built anyhow, will not defeat the promise.[25] Where a number of persons sign a subscription paper in aid of a railroad, the contract of each subscriber is usually several and distinct;[26] and a condition annexed to one subscriber's signature is in no wise affected by the fact that other subscribers annex different conditions to their signatures.[27]

3. Acceptance, Performance, and Breach of Conditions — a. In General. A contract of subscription becomes binding and the railroad company entitled to the money or other aid subscribed when, and only when, it has accepted the contract,[28] and at least substantially performed all the conditions precedent prescribed therein,[29] unless the performance of such conditions has been waived;[30]

21. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Tygard, 84 Mo. 263, 54 Am. Rep. 97; Miller v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 659.

Construction of contract.— Where a contract of subscription is made payable when the road shall be completed and in operation from a certain place to another specified place by a certain time, and it appears that there is a large township by the latter name containing about as much as forty ordinary townships, and a village of the same name which has a well-known existence, although not incorporated, the village and not the township of that name is meant in the condition. Ogden v. Kirby, 79 Ill. 555.

22. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Tygard, 84 Mo. 263, 54 Am. Rep. 97.

23. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Tygard, 84 Mo. 263, 54 Am. Rep. 97; Kennedy v. Cotton, 28 Barb. (N. Y.) 59 (holding that an agreement in consideration that a railroad company will construct a certain station, to pay fifty dollars to aid in its construction, imports a request to the company to construct the station and a compliance with such request is a sufficient consideration for the parties' undertaking); Miller v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 659.

24. Stevens v. Corbitt, 33 Mich. 458.

25. Stevens v. Corbitt, 33 Mich. 458.

26. Miller v. Preston, 4 N. M. 314, 17 Pac. 565; McFarland v. Lyon, 4 Tex. Civ. App. 586, 23 S. W. 554.

Several undertaking.—A subscription paper containing an offer to induce the construction, etc., of a railroad which contains the words, "We, the undersigned, hereby promise and agree," and a further provision that "each subscriber shall be liable only for the amount opposite his name" is a several obligation and each subscriber can be separately sued. Darnell v. Lyon, 85 Tex. 455, 22 S. W. 304, 960.

27. Miller v. Preston, 4 N. M. 314, 17 Pac. 565.

28. Smith v. Davidson, 45 Ind. 396; Northern Cent. Michigan, etc., R. Co. v. Eslow, 40 Mich. 222.

Demand of payment and suit for its recovery are not evidence of acceptance, where a subscription is otherwise invalid. Northern Cent. Michigan, etc., R. Co. v. Eslow, 40 Mich. 222.

29. Cook v. McNaughton, 128 Ind. 410, 24 N. E. 361, 28 N. E. 74; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239; Michigan Midland, etc., R. Co. v. Bacon, 33 Mich. 466; Williams v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 82 Tex. 553, 18 S. W. 206; Miller v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 659.

Illustration.—An action may be maintained to recover a subscription to a railroad company, payable when the sum required to purchase a specified site for the depot is subscribed thereto, although a portion of such sum has been paid in without subscription. Springfield St. R. Co. v. Sleeper, 121 Mass. 29. The mere fact that the committee to whom the subscription list had been intrusted, with instructions to turn it over to the company whenever they became satisfied that the latter had complied with its conditions, did in fact deliver it in the exercise of their discretion, does not render the contract binding upon the subscriber. Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. O'Connor, 40 Iowa 477.

30. Crane v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 59 Ind. 165, holding, however, that the fact that the complaint alleges that two dollars and fifty cents were paid on the contract without disclosing the circumstances under which the payment was made, is not sufficient as tending to show an admission of performance or waiver thereof.

Illustrations.— If, before the expiration of the time of performance, the subscriber says that he is satisfied with a modification of the contract and then promises payment notwithstanding the modification, it may be regarded by the company as a waiver of the conditions. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Whitney, 43 Iowa 113. Where a party agrees to subscribe to a grant of aid to a railroad company on condition that the road shall be constructed on a particular location and the company maintain a station at the town in which he lives, and afterward, before the construction of the road, agrees that he will pay the railroad company five hundred dollars in advance instead of the amount for which he would be liable under the original subscription contract, the latter agreement does not abrogate the former and does not constitute a waiver of the conditions contained therein. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Fitch, 2 Tex. Unrep. Cas. 257.

and when it has made a demand therefor, where the contract so requires,[31] and has acted in good faith.[32] But ordinarily it is immaterial whether the conditions are performed by one company or another so long as there is a substantial performance.[33] Where there has been a sufficient performance on the part of the railroad company, the other parties to the contract cannot invoke the doctrine of ultra vires in defense, on the ground that the company had no power to make such contract,[34] or claim want or inadequacy of consideration to defeat the contract;[35] or otherwise withdraw the subscription.[36] Where the promise of aid is made to someone necessarily connected with or interested in the work being done for the benefit of the company that has begun or is about to undertake the work, then, upon completion of the work, or upon the performance of the conditions upon which the promise was made, the liability of the promisor becomes complete;[37] and in some cases where expense is incurred or an obligation created, upon the faith of such promise, a like liability will follow, the fair inference in such cases being that the work was done or the expense or liability incurred in reliance upon the promise.[38] But where the railroad company has failed to comply with the conditions or otherwise broken the subscription contract,[39] it cannot hold the subscribers liable thereon,[40] and it makes no difference that the latter have derived some benefit from the road as constructed.[41] But on the other hand the subscriber may thereupon withdraw his promise,[42] and treat the contract as terminated and sue on it for damages for the breach,[43] or treat it as rescinded and recover back the money he has advanced.[44] Under some statutes, where a railroad has been abandoned and no reasonable provision made for traffic between the points abandoned, those who have contributed to its construction are entitled to have their contributions refunded with interest;[45] or if rights of way have been granted in payment of the subscriptions, to have a reconveyance thereof.[46]

31. Miller v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 659.

32. Miller v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 659, holding that a railroad company cannot maintain an action against citizens of a town on their subscriptions in aid of a railroad, where it has not acted in good faith.

33. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 55 Mich. 456, 21 N. W. 888.

34. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239; Doherty v. Arkansas, etc., R. Co., 5 Indian Terr. 537, 82 S. W. 899, especially where the contract is within the general scope of the powers conferred upon the railroad company.

35. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Derkes, 103 Ind. 520, 3 N. E. 239; Wright v. Irwin, 35 Mich. 347.

36. Buchel v. Lott, (Tex. Civ. App. 1890) 15 S. W. 413.

37. Stevens v. Corbitt, 33 Mich. 458.

38. Stevens v. Corbitt, 33 Mich. 458.

39. Reusens v. Mexican Nat. Constr. Co., 22 Fed. 522, 23 Blatchf. 19.

40. Carlisle v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 6 Ind. 316; Miller v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 65 Tex. 659.

41. Carlisle v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 6 Ind. 316.

42. Michigan Midland, etc., R. Co. v. Bacon, 33 Mich. 466.

43. Reusens v. Mexican Nat. Constr. Co., 22 Fed. 522, 23 Blatchf. 19.

44. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Fitch, 2 Tex. Unrep. Cas. 257; Reusens v. Mexican Nat. Constr. Co., 22 Fed. 522, 23 Blatchf. 19.

45. Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Rich, 91 Mich. 293, 51 N. W. 1001, 105 Mich. 289, 63 N. W. 303, construing Pub. Act (1891), No. 125, in connection with Laws (1887), Act No. 275.

Prior to the passage of Mich. Act No. 125, Pub. Acts (1891), those who contributed to the construction of a railroad had no right of action against the company for abandoning and taking up its track. That act makes the taking up of the track unlawful, unless by virtue of proceedings in court, where a decree is to be granted only upon condition that the company pay back all moneys received as a bonus. Williams v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 116 Mich. 392, 74 N. W. 641. Where therefore after application made by the company for leave to abandon, a contributor files a petition, upon behalf of himself and such others as may choose to avail themselves of the proceeding, for the appointment of a time and place at which all parties who have contributed to the road may be notified to appear and prove the amount of their several contributions, and an order is entered thereon that all contributors shall prove their claims before a commissioner upon a certain day, which order is published, as directed by the court, in a county paper, contributors who fail to appear and make proof of their claims will be deemed to have waived their right to reimbursement. Williams v. Flint, etc., R. Co., supra.

46. In re Flint, etc., R. Co., 105 Mich. 289, 63 N. W. 303, holding that where contributors gave their notes, and afterward paid them by granting rights of way, the company should not, in refunding contributions on abandonment of the line, be compelled to re-

b. Construction, Maintenance, and Equipment. The above rules apply to conditions contained in a subscription contract relative to the construction, maintenance, and equipment of the road,[47] such as that within a reasonable or specified time, or on or before a specified date, the road shall be made ready for the operation of trains,[48] completed and in operation,[49] or be built and equipped,[50] to a certain place or between certain points,[51] and that a train of cars be run between pay the notes, as the statute requires a reconveyance of the right of way.

47. See the cases cited infra, this note; and notes 48–59.

Non-compliance.—A condition that the company shall have completed its road to a certain place within a certain time, and that one half the grading between that point and the intersection of the proposed road with another road shall have been done, is not sufficiently performed by constructing its road between the point of intersection with the other at a specified time, without also constructing its road in the other direction. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Whitney, 43 Iowa 113. So a condition that the company complete and put in operation its railroad of standard gauge and steel rails is not sufficiently complied with where part of the road is not constructed with steel rails. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Levy, 17 Mo. App. 501.

Partial compliance.— Where a subscription is payable, one half if the road is graded to a certain point within a year and one half if completed to such point in two years, and the road is not graded in the year but is completed in two years, the latter half of the subscription only is collectable, since both provisions are conditions precedent to the payment and unless each is complied with, the company cannot recover the amount dependent on both. Johnson v. College Hill Narrow Gauge R. Co., 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 466, 3 Cinc. L. Bul. 410.

48. Persinger v. Bevill, 31 Fla. 364, 12 So. 366.

49. See Courtright v. Deeds, 37 Iowa 503; Sickels v. Anderson, 63 Mich. 421, 30 N. W. 78; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 55 Mich. 456, 21 N. W. 888.

Illustration.— Where the contract of subscription describes the road upon the completion of which the subscription is payable, the road described in the contract must be built and it is not sufficient that a railroad has been built. Low v. Studabaker, 110 Ind. 57, 10 N. E. 301. If a subscription is subject to a condition that a railroad shall be completed and in operation between two certain points by a day named, it will be sufficient to show performance of those conditions, and it is not necessary that the road should on that day furnish such facilities for receiving and discharging freight and passengers as could be expected of an established railroad, to make the party liable on his subscription. Ogden v. Kirby, 79 Ill. 555. And such a condition is not necessarily not performed, as a matter of law, from the fact that a depot was not built, and a station agent appointed for such place by the day named, and proof of such facts will not necessarily defeat a recovery by the company on the contract of subscription. Ogden v. Kirby, 79 Ill. 555.

Completion of the whole road is not a condition precedent where the subscription is made on the condition that the road shall be permanently located and constructed through a certain place, and also provides that the subscription shall be applied only toward paying the damages and expenses which shall be incurred in acquiring the right of way or lands therefor and depot grounds in a specified town. Berryman v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 14 Bush (Ky.) 755. So the fact that the road was not completed at the time stated does not release the obligor from payment where the subscription contract merely is to pay a sum of money when the cars of the company shall be run between designated points. Davis v. Cobban, 39 Iowa 392.

50. Paris, etc., R. Co. v. Henderson, 89 Ill. 86.

51. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Whitney, 43 Iowa 113.

Compliance.— A condition that the road shall be completed and put into operation to a certain town by a certain day is substantially complied with where the road is graded to the point by the appointed time, but is not fully completed until four months later, and in the meantime the company uses about a mile of another railroad in operating its road to such town. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Tygard, 84 Mo. 263, 54 Am. Rep. 97. So a condition that the road shall be completed to a certain village is sufficiently complied with when it is constructed to the suburbs of such village in such a manner as to bear daily trains to it carrying all the freight and travelers that offer, although some portion of the work is intended to be replaced with other and better material. O'Neal v. King, 48 N. C. 517.

Non-compliance.—A condition that the company shall "construct or secure a continuous line of railway," between certain points, contemplates that the company shall have the road under its own control covering the entire distance, and is not sufficiently complied with by constructing the road for part of the distance, and for the remainder using the road of another company under an arrangement which subordinates its use to that of the company owning the road. Brown v. Dibble, 65 Mich. 520, 32 N. W. 656. The leasing of a part of a railroad between two points is not a compliance with a contract to construct a road between said points, in consideration of a subscription in aid of the road. Lawrence v. Smith, 57 Iowa 701, 11 N. W. 674.

specified points.[52] A condition that the road shall be completed to a point within a stated time does not require the completion of the road to that point within such time in complete running order for carrying passengers and freight, but it is sufficient if the road be completed to such place so as to allow trains to be operated thereon and it appears that the company is engaged in the business of placing the track in condition for carrying passengers.[53] And a condition that the road shall be completed and put in operation is complied with when it is so far completed that it is used and operated for the transportation of persons and property,[54] and it is not essential thereto that the company building the road shall own the rolling stock by which it is operated.[55] A condition that the road shall be equipped means that it shall have thereon the necessary engines, cars, and other appliances for its ordinary use;[56] and a condition that it shall be running requires more than the passage of one train over the road, where it is in an unfinished state.[57] Where a party promises to contribute in aid of a proposed railroad, it may be implied as a condition in the absence of an express condition, that the road shall be constructed and operated;[58] and upon this being done within a reasonable time, where no time is fixed, the promise becomes operative and binding, and the party making it cannot thereafter repudiate it.[59]

c. Location of Road, Termini, and Stations. The same rules also apply to conditions relative to the location of the constructed road,[60] and termini, or stations.[61]

Law and fact.— When a railroad is to be regarded as completed and in operation to a given point is not a question of law, but purely one of fact, to be determined by the jury from the evidence. Ogden v. Kirby, 79 Ill. 555.

52. See Moore v. Campbell, 111 Ind. 328, 12 N. E. 495.

Compliance.— A condition that the road shall be constructed and a train running to within one mile of a specified place at a specified time is sufficiently complied with by building the road at the time named and locating a depot within one mile of such place and on the day specified running a passenger train to within two hundred yards of the depot. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schewe, 45 Iowa 79. So a condition under which a note is payable ten days after cars shall be run to a stated place, provided they are so run within a specified time, is sufficiently complied with where the track is laid from one terminus to this point, within the time, and construction trains are moved daily, although it is not open to freights and passengers until some months after the time specified. Pontiac, etc., R. Co. v. King, 68 Mich. 111, 35 N. W. 705.

Non-compliance.— A condition under which a subscription is to be payable upon the arrival at D from I of the first train of cars over the proposed track is not sufficiently complied with where the road is built from D to within one and a half miles of I, but by a different route; and from that place the track of another road is used into I. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Holmes, 101 Ind. 348.

The completion of the whole road is not a condition precedent where the subscription is made payable after the first cars run over the road from one specified point to another, inside the contemplated termini. Gardner v. Walsh, 95 Mich. 505, 55 N. W. 355; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 55 Mich. 456, 21 N. W. 888.

53. Jackson v. Stockbridge, 29 Tex. 394, 94 Am. Dec. 290.

54. Courtright v. Deeds, 37 Iowa 503; Tower v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 34 Mich. 328.

55. Courtright v. Deeds, 37 Iowa 503.

56. Paris, etc., R. Co. v. Henderson, 89 Ill. 86.

57. Paris, etc., R. Co. v. Henderson, 89 Ill. 86.

58. Stevens v. Corbitt, 33 Mich. 458.

59. Stevens v. Corbitt, 33 Mich. 458.

60. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 38 Ind. 64; Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. O'Connor, 40 Iowa 477; Williams v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 82 Tex. 553, 18 S. W. 206.

Non-compliance.— A condition that the track "run on said Crane's east line" is not complied with by constructing it "upon, or near as practicable upon, the east line of the lands owned by" C, and at all points within fifty feet of said line. Crane v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 59 Ind. 165.

Estoppel.— The makers of a note conditioned that the payee shall construct a railroad into a town are not estopped from canceling the same because they suffered it to build the road several miles from the town without protest. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pittman, 4 Tex. Civ. App. 167, 23 S. W. 318.

Withdrawal of promise.— Where there is such a change in the location of the line of the road that it is apparent that the promisor will lose the advantages which he expected would accrue to him in building the road, he is warranted in withdrawing his promise. Michigan Midland, etc., R. Co. v. Bacon, 33 Mich. 466.

61. Carlisle v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 6 Ind. 316; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Fitch, 2 Tex. Unrep. Cas. 257.

Illustration.— Where a private donation is made to a railroad company payable "at

Where a railroad company has received from individuals payments of money, and in consideration thereof has engaged to lay out its road in a specified place and to allow them certain advantages in connection with the railroad, the company will not be allowed to change the line of its road or do by indirection what is equivalent thereto without compensation to such individuals.[62]

4. Rights and Remedies of Parties, Assignees, or Privies. Where the promise is to an existing company, its successors or assigns, the completion of the road by its successor, to whom it has assigned all its franchises and property, including such subscription, will enable the latter to enforce the promise in its own name,[63] unless the assignor company has not accepted or acted upon the contract.[64] But in the absence of such a provision, a new and independent company cannot recover upon such a contract unless the subscriber has consented to the change.[65] Interest on the subscription may be recovered if the amount subscribed is not paid at the proper time.[66] In an action on a subscription contract any competent evidence is admissible to explain the meaning of the contract and the conditions upon which it was made;[67] except that the parol evidence is not admissible to vary any time within two years that said line of railway may be constructed" and operated between given points provided the depot at C is permanently located not farther east than the center of C such proviso is a condition precedent to the right of the company to collect the donation. Elder v. Bellaire, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 256, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 140.

Compliance.—A condition that the company shall build a depot, and open its road to a point within one mile of the post-office of a certain town, is substantially complied with by the building of a side-track which it operated as such, and a depot at a point within the distance stipulated, although the main track of the road is not within the distance. Cedar Falls, etc., R. Co. v. Rich, 33 Iowa 113. A condition that a depot shall be located within three quarters of a mile of the corporate limits of a certain town is complied with by locating a depot within that distance from the corporate limits, without regard to buildings or improvements, measuring by a straight line, although the side-track and switches are not. Courtwright v. Strickler, 37 Iowa 382.

Non-compliance.— A condition of payment when the road intersects with another at a specified point, and has been permanently located to and within the limits of such place with a station at the same, is not complied with by the construction of a road through the town, and of a depot just outside of its limits. Davenport, etc., R. Co. v. O'Connor, 40 Iowa 477. So a condition that at a specified time the company shall have its road completed, and have "erected a regular station for passengers and freight" at a specified place, is not complied with by erecting a small building at the place designated at which there is no side-track, no facilities for receiving or shipping freight, no ticket office, or station agent, and at which trains do not stop except when signaled. Port Huron, etc., R. Co. v. Richards, 90 Mich. 577, 51 N. W. 680.

A station for passengers and freight within the meaning of such a provision would include the usual and necessary incidents of a station for the convenience of passengers, and for the reception of freight intended to be shipped to and from such place. Port Huron, etc., R. Co. v. Richards, 90 Mich. 577, 51 N. W. 680.

Where the contract expressly provides that the grounds for a depot shall be selected by the company, one of the subscribers cannot, in the absence of fraud, defend an action for contribution of his share by showing that at the time he signed the contract it was the intention to establish the depot at a place more advantageous to him. Faires v. Cockerill, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 29 S. W. 669.

Line of measurement.— Where a contract for subscription to a railroad is made on the condition that it will locate its depot within a specified distance of a certain point, as a court-house, and nothing is said as to the manner of measurement, the distance is to be measured by a straight line and not by the traveled route. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Tygard, 84 Mo. 263, 54 Am. Rep. 97. See also Courtwright v. Strickler, 37 Iowa 382.

62. Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 6 Ohio St. 119, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 565, 10 West. L. J. 399.

63. Smith v. Hollett, 34 Ind. 519; Michigan Midland, etc., R. Co. v. Bacon, 33 Mich. 466. See Smith v. Davidson, 45 Ind. 396.

A statement in the assignment by the railroad company that it had abandoned the construction of the road does not prevent a recovery by the assignee. Smith v. Hollett, 34 Ind. 519.

64. Smith v. Davidson, 45 Ind. 396; McFarland v. Lyon, 4 Tex. Civ. App. 586, 23 S. W. 554.

65. Van Buren Div., etc., R. Co. v. Lamphear, 54 Mich. 575, 20 N. W. 590.

66. Stevens v. Corbitt, 33 Mich. 458.

67. Lawrence v. Smith, 57 Iowa 701, 11 N. W. 674 (holding that in an action upon a subscription note conditioned to be binding upon the completion of a certain railroad, other subscription papers and statements of the road's agent are admissible to show that the contract.[68] Persons who subscribe in aid of a railroad company are not, as regards each other, trustees of money raised thereby to carry out the contract, so as to require a complainant in an action by one for reimbursement for money paid in excess of his share to give a full account of the money so raised and the manner of its disbursement.[69] Where several persons agree to pay certain amounts to whomsoever will execute a bond to a railroad company to induce it to build through a certain place, and a number of the subscribers having executed the bond are compelled to pay more than their proportion of the bond through the default of others, the fact that some of the obligors were not original subscribers does not render an agreement between the overpaying obligors to pro rate the amount paid in excess of their proportion according to the subscription of each, invalid as against the original subscribers.[70]

C. Rights and Liabilities Under Grants of Public Aid — 1. In General. Railroad aid laws and contracts, since they impose a burden on the public and deprive owners of the full control and disposition of their property, should be strictly construed in favor of the rights of property.[71] Subject to such construction, the rights and liabilities arising out of a grant of public aid depend upon the terms of the particular statute or grant.[72] Where a subscription is duly made and accepted and all the conditions performed by the railroad company, it becomes a binding contract and the railroad company is entitled to the money or bonds,[73] to the exclusion of another road to which a subsequent subscription is made, although the latter road performs its conditions first;[74] and thereafter the legislature cannot by a subsequent statute forbid the issuance of the bonds or tax.[75] But until the subscription is actually made, there is no vested right in the railroad company,[76] and until then the legislature may alter the method by which such subscription is to be made without infringing any right.[77] Under some statutes a mere vote of the public to issue bonds or levy a tax in aid of a railroad is not sufficient to entitle the company to the aid voted, but there must also be an agreement between the company and the county or municipality, fixing the conditions on which the money or bonds are to be delivered.[78] Where the money is to be it was to be built between certain points); Freeman v. Muth, 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 555, 3 Cinc. L. Bul. 914.

68. Low v. Studabaker, 110 Ind. 57, 10 N. E. 301; Blair v. Buttolph, 72 Iowa 31, 33 N. W. 349; Freeman v. Muth, 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 555, 3 Cinc. L. Bul. 914.

69. Faires v. Cockerill, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 29 S. W. 669.

70. Morris v. Davis, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 850.

71. Demaree v. Johnson, 150 Ind. 419, 49 N. E. 1062, 50 N. E. 376.

72. See Hereford R. Co. v. Reg., 24 Can. Sup. Ct. 1; Eldon Tp. v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 24 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 396, right of township to preferential bonds of railroad company.

Where the money is to be paid to the railroad company in instalments of a given amount, the last instalment should be paid when due notwithstanding it is less than such given amount. State v. Ashmore, 10 Rich. (S. C.) 248.

73. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Osage County, 38 Kan. 597, 16 Pac. 828; Red Rock v. Henry, 106 U. S. 596, 1 S. Ct. 434, 27 L. ed. 251.

Contract.— A petition for a municipal election to issue bonds in aid of a railroad and to take stock in return therefor, the notice of the election and an affirmative vote, upon the faith of which the money is expended and the railroad built, taken together constitute a contract between the railroad company and the municipality. People v. Holden, 82 Ill. 93.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Osage County, 38 Kan. 597, 16 Pac. 828.

75. Red Rock v. Henry, 106 U. S. 596, 1 S. Ct. 434, 27 L. ed. 251.

76. State v. Garroutte, 67 Mo. 445.

77. State v. Garroutte, 67 Mo. 445.

78. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. Collins' Railroad Com'rs, 5 Hun (N. Y.) 485 (holding that there is no legal obligation upon a municipality to issue its bonds for stock in a railroad company, before subscription to the stock is made); Pope v. Lake County, 51 Fed. 769 (holding also that in Indiana the tax must be levied and collected). But see Augusta v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 97 Ky. 145, 30 S. W. 1, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 890.

Until the tax is levied and collected and a legal and valid subscription has been made, no contract relation exists between the county or township and the railroad company; and there is nothing more than a proposition on the part of the public, which can only be made binding and effective by such mutual acceptance as gives rise to a contract. Pope v. Lake County, 51 Fed. 769.

paid over to the railroad company "when ordered by the court," the company has no lien on money collected but not ordered to be paid over, and until so ordered the money may be recalled from the agent holding it.[79] Where the treasurer of a railroad executes instruments in the form of advance receipts for taxes voted by a town in aid of the company, providing that they shall be receivable by the company from the county treasurer in payment of the aid voted, neither the railroad issuing them, nor the indorser thereof, is liable thereon until after a demand that they be received by the county treasurer in payment of the railroad tax, and his refusal so to receive them.[80] A tax voted in aid of a railroad company, after it has been collected by the proper officers, may be assigned by the company.[81] So where the right to assign has been unconditionally granted to a railroad company, the company may assign to private individuals its right to the avails of a tax voted in aid of the railroad, and such assignment is not an abandonment of the tax, and it is no concern of the town voting it or of the taxpayers whether such assignment has been with or without consideration.[82] The term "donation" as used in a statute authorizing municipal aid in the construction of railroads means an absolute gift or grant without any condition or consideration;[83] and where such donation is made on the condition or in consideration that the company perform certain acts, the donation is void and the company cannot enforce it, although it has performed such acts on the faith of the donation.[84]

2. Acceptance and Performance of Conditions — a. In General. Where a railroad company accepts[85] a grant or subscription of public aid it accepts it with all its terms and conditions,[86] and is estopped from asserting that such terms or conditions are void or unreasonable;[87] and in order that the company may become entitled to the aid granted, and compel the collection of the tax, or the issue of bonds, as the case may be, it must have at least substantially performed on its part all the conditions precedent on which the grant or subscription was made,[88]

Under Minn. Sp. Laws (1876), c. 55, a mere vote of a town does not entitle the railroad company to the issuance of the bonds voted; but the agreement between the company and such town, contemplated by section four of such act, fixing the conditions on which the bonds are to be delivered, is essential. State v. Roscoe, 25 Minn. 445. Compare State v. Lime, 23 Minn. 521, construing Sp. Laws (1869), c. 46.

79. Henry County v. Allen, 50 Mo. 231.

80. Lisle v. Iowa, etc., R. Co., 54 Iowa 499, 6 N. W. 696.

81. Manning v. Mathews, 70 Iowa 303, 30 N. W. 749; Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61.

82. Arkansas Southern R. Co. v. Wilson, 118 La. 395, 42 So. 976.

83. Indiana North, etc., R. Co. v. Attica, 56 Ind. 476, construing 1 Rev. St. (1876) p. 299.

84. Indiana North, etc., R. Co. v. Attica, 56 Ind. 476, holding that where a city, under such a statute, makes a donation to a railroad company on the condition that the company shall maintain its shops in the city and that it shall refund to the city the money supplied if such shops are removed, the fact that the company has built its road on the faith of such conditional donation does not entitle it to enforce the engagement against the city.

85. Macon v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 82 Ga. 501, 9 S. E. 1127, holding that the question of acceptance is usually one of fact for the jury.

86. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

87. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786; Haldimand County v. Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 27 U. C. C. P. 228.

88. Illinois.— People v. Holden, 91 Ill. 446.

Louisiana.— Atkins v. Shreveport, etc., R. Co., 106 La. 568, 31 So. 163; Guillory v. Avoyelles R. Co., 104 La. 11, 28 So. 899, holding that where the taxpayers of a parish vote to grant a tax in aid of a railroad enterprise, substantial compliance on the part of the grantee with the terms and conditions of the grant suffices to entitle it to its benefits.

Maine.— Bucksport, etc., R. Co. v. Brewer, 67 Me. 295.

Minnesota.— Birch Cooley v. Minneapolis First Nat. Bank, 86 Minn. 385, 90 N. W. 789; State v. Roscoe, 25 Minn. 445.

West Virginia.— West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

England.— Grand Junction, etc., R. Co. v. Peterborough, 13 App. Cas. 136 [affirming 13 Ont. App. 420].

Canada.— In re Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 39 U. C. Q. B. 93; In re Stratford, etc., R. Co., 38 U. C. Q. B. 112, 140.

See 41 Cent Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 88. And see Counties, 11 Cyc. 528 et seq.; Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 1559 et seq.

Running boats.— Where a railroad company unless the performance of such conditions has been waived,[89] or is sufficiently excused.[90] In determining whether such conditions have been complied with, the language used in the conditions should be considered according to its ordinary and popular meaning, that is, as it would be understood by the voters or public generally.[91] If the railroad company performs all the conditions precedent, there is a valid and binding obligation on the part of the municipality or county to collect and deliver the tax or to issue the bonds in accordance with the terms of the grant,[92] and this is true irrespective of the company's financial ability,[93] and although the company has issued its own bonds in excess of the statutory limit;[94] nor is the company's right to such aid affected by its non-compliance with additional conditions in a subsequent statute,[95] or by independent conditions which are to be performed after the company is entitled to the aid.[96] But, until the conditions have been performed, the court has no power to issue bonds under a subscription, and place them in the hands of a third party to be delivered to the stipulates to run a line of tow boats in connection with its road in consideration of aid from a parish, it fails to earn the aid when it fails to perform the conditions. Atkins v. Shreveport, etc., R. Co., 106 La. 568, 31 So. 166. And a stipulation to operate tow boats with convenient barges in connection with its road for the benefit of a part of the parish living on a river front is not fulfilled by a contract with a boat already in the river and making regular trips. Atkins v. Shreveport, etc., R. Co., supra.

Where by agreement a town or municipality agrees to pass a by-law granting a bonus to a railroad company in aid of the construction of its road subject to the performance of certain specified conditions and such by-law as subsequently passed does not contain all the conditions of the agreement, title to the debentures for such bonus does not depend upon the prior performance of the conditions in the agreement not included in the by-law, but only upon the performance of those in the by-laws and where the latter have been complied with, the debenture should issue (Bickford v. Chatham, 16 Can. Sup. Ct. 235 [affirming 14 Ont. App. 32]); although such debenture should be withheld until the damages for non-performance of the conditions in the agreement are paid or secured (Bickford v. Chatham, supra). Specific performance is not an appropriate remedy in such a case as the municipality could only claim damages for non-performance and this may be disposed of by way of counter-claim in an action by the company to compel the delivery of the debentures. Bickford v. Chatham, supra.

89. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 24 Kan. 170, facts held not to constitute waiver.

90. See State v. Daviess County Ct., 64 Mo. 30.

91. People v. Clayton, 88 Ill. 45.

92. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 36 Ala. 371; State v. Lake City, 25 Minn. 404; State v. Lime, 23 Minn. 521.

Future conditions.—A railroad company that has complied with all the conditions precedent, stated in a by-law, to the issuing and delivery of debentures granted by a municipality, is entitled to the debentures free from any declaration on their face of conditions mentioned in the by-law to be performed in the future. St. Cesaire Parish v. McFarlane, 14 Can. Sup. Ct. 738 [affirming 2 Montreal Q. B. 160].

Estoppel.—Where bonds are issued with the proper recitals showing compliance with conditions upon which the subscription was made the state or county is estopped as against bona fide purchasers from asserting that its authorities acted wrongly in issuing the bonds. Columbus v. Dennison, 69 Fed. 58, 16 C. C. A. 125. And see, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 1603.

93. Whitney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 133 Iowa 508, 110 N. W. 912, holding that where a tax is voted in aid of railroad construction under a notice providing that the tax should be paid on the road being put in operation between two certain points, the tax is earned when the road is in actual operation between those points, regardless of the financial ability of the company to extend it further.

94. Whitney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 133 Iowa 508, 110 N. W. 912.

95. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 36 Ala. 371, construing Acts Feb. 17, 1854, Feb. 24, 1860.

Under Kan. Laws (1887), c. 183, which amended Act (1876), § 1, which authorized incorporated cities to subscribe in aid of railroads, providing that the total county, township, and municipal subscriptions did not exceed four thousand dollars per mile of road constructed in the county, by reducing the amount to two thousand dollars per mile, with a proviso that the amendment should not affect accrued rights or any aid voted or election pending prior thereto, the limitation of two thousand dollars per mile did not apply to a subscription which had been voted where the railroad company was engaged in constructing the road pursuant to the terms thereof prior to the amending act. Ætna L. Ins. Co. v. Burrton, 75 Fed. 962.

96. Zorger v. Rapids Tp., 36 Iowa 175, holding that the fact that the railroad company, prior to an election for taxation in aid of the road, caused to be published in a newspaper an agreement or proposition that it would, within a certain time, expend a sum company on compliance, in advance of such compliance,[97] and the deposit in escrow does not enlarge the company's rights, or give it any vested rights in advance of compliance with the conditions.[98] Where the condition is that the subscription is not to be paid until the company shall run its first locomotive over the projected line of road between certain points, the running of the company's trains along the road of another company for a part of the distance under a lease from the latter, liable to be terminated by either party on notice, is not a substantial compliance,[99] although it would be otherwise if the performance was under a perpetual lease,[1] or a purchase.[2] Where the railroad company fails to fully perform the conditions precedent or otherwise breaks them in a material sense, the municipality or county granting the aid has a cause of action against the company on common-law principles to recover the money or bonds delivered to it, or the value thereof.[3]

b. Construction, Maintenance, and Equipment. In accordance with the above rules, a railroad company's right to taxes or bonds voted or subscribed in its aid depends upon whether or not it has sufficiently performed conditions precedent relative to the construction, maintenance, and equipment of the road,[4] as that within a given time,[5] and between designated points or to a designated place,[6] the road be constructed or completed and in operation,[7] in the manner specinamed in the erection of machine shops, etc., and that the company did not expend the amount stated, does not invalidate the tax, nor authorize an injunction to restrain its collection, as such condition is an independent one, to be performed after the tax becomes due or might become due.

97. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

98. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

99. People v. Clayton, 88 Ill. 45.

1. People v. Clayton, 88 Ill. 45.

2. People v. Clayton, 88 Ill. 45.

3. See Hinckley v. Kettle River R. Co., 70 Minn. 105, 72 N. W. 835; Luther v. Wood, 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 348.

4. In re Canada Cent. R. Co., 35 U. C. Q. B. 390.

Not condition precedent.— Where the terms of the subscription in aid of the construction of a railroad contain a stipulation that the money shall be paid "in installments of five per cent so long as the work shall be in actual progress" and that if the railroad company shall fail to construct the road then the amount subscribed shall be paid on the same terms and conditions to any other company which will grade and tie a railroad between the points designated, the grading and tying are not conditions precedent to the payment of the subscription. Iowa Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Bliobenes, 41 Iowa 267. Under W. Va. Code (1891), c. 54, § 57, the provision that if a railroad company fails to construct its road according to its charter, subscriptions thereto shall be void, does not make the completion a condition precedent to the delivery of bonds under such subscriptions. Neale v. Wood County Ct., 43 W. Va. 90, 27 S. E. 370.

5. See infra, III, C, 2, c.

6. See People v. Clayton, 88 Ill. 45; Lamb v. Anderson, 54 Iowa 190, 3 N. W. 416, 6 N. W. 268; Shell v. Carter Tp., (Tenn. Ch. App. 1896) 42 S. W. 78 (construing Act (1887), c. 3, §§ 2, 11); Grattan Tp. v. Chilton, 97 Fed. 145, 38 C. C. A. 84.

Illustrations.— Where an ordinance authorizing the issue of municipal bonds to aid in the construction of a railroad provides that the bonds shall not be issued until the road is completed to a point of junction with a railroad leading to Milwaukee and Chicago, the words "a railroad leading to Milwaukee and Chicago" should not be restricted to a road whose line reaches to those places, but construed as embracing a road connected either directly or by the way of other railroads with one whose line reaches to those points. State v. Hastings, 24 Minn. 78. A condition that the road should be completed from the south line of the county of H by way of G to a connection with a named railroad sufficiently shows to what point the road should be completed before the tax becomes payable. Burges v. Mabin, 70 Iowa 633, 27 N. W. 464. Where the articles of incorporation of a railroad declare its object to be the acquisition, maintenance, and operation of a railroad from a certain point through other points to a particular point, the construction of the road to that point is necessary to entitle the company to a tax voted in aid of the railroad by that township. Lamb v. Anderson, 54 Iowa 190, 3 N. W. 416, 6 N. W. 268.

7. Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Hartford, 58 Me. 23; Townsend v. Lamb, 14 Nebr. 324, 15 N. W. 727; Pontiac County v. Ross, 17 Can. Sup. Ct. 406.

The word "built" as used in an agreement under which a tax is voted in aid of a railroad applies to a road so far progressed as to be in a condition to be operated, although not completed. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

Second donation.— Where, after a donation is made, considerably more than such donation is expended upon the road, but it is yet fied,[8] and that a depot or station be constructed and maintained at a specified place.[9] The road need not be perfect in every respect; but it must be so far completed that it may be properly and regularly used for the purpose of transporting freight and passengers,[10] and must be in as reasonably fit condition, and as safe and convenient for public use, as new roads usually are in similar localities.[11] In the absence of anything in the agreement or grant to the contrary, the road need not be constructed in any other manner or be of any other character than that which is contemplated by its charter, and is the usual and ordinary manner of other railroads under like circumstances,[12] and unless the terms of the grant describe the kind of road, the conditions thereof are complied with by constructing any road which is capable of doing the business of the country through which it passes, even though it be a narrow gauge road.[13] But a construction in such an incomplete and imperfect manner that the ordinary business of the company cannot be transacted thereon is not a sufficient compliance.[14] Where the condition is that the railroad company shall, within a given time, construct its road to a designated place, a construction of the road to that place is essential to entitle the company to the aid granted, and it has been held that the construction of the road for part of the distance, and the purchase of another line of road, thereby completing the connection to such place, is not a sufficient compliance.[15] But the better rule seems to be that where the road as completed accomplishes the incomplete, and a second donation is made to aid in the construction, the subsequent completion of the road already laid is a sufficient construction within the meaning of the second donation. Barner v. Bayless, 134 Ind. 600, 33 N. E. 907, 34 N. E. 502.

8. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 24 Kan. 170.

9. Townsend v. Lamb, 14 Nebr. 324, 15 N. W. 727; Bickford v. Chatham, 16 Can. Sup. Ct. 235 [affirming 14 Ont. App. 32].

Compliance.—Where a note given as a bonus to a railroad company stipulates that a part of the consideration is the continuous maintaining of a depot within the town by the company, and the company maintains for some months a freight and passenger depot in the town, and subsequently passenger traffic is transferred to the depot of another company in the town and the former depot is maintained as a freight depot, there is a compliance with the stipulation. Fayetteville Wagon, etc., Co. v. Kenefick Constr. Co., (Ark. 1905) 88 S. W. 1031. The construction of a well built building adapted to the purpose and sufficiently large for all present needs is a sufficient compliance with a condition precedent to the collection of a tax in aid of the railway, that it will build and permanently establish and maintain a freight and passenger depot. Whitney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 133 Iowa 508, 110 N. W. 912.

Non-compliance.— Where the company covenants to erect and maintain a permanent freight and passenger station at a specified point and shortly afterward the road is leased with notice of this agreement to defendant, who discontinues such depot as a regular station, having no officer of the company to sell tickets or make arrangements for discharging or receiving freight, but merely stopping there when there are any passengers to let down or be taken up, the erection of the station is not a fulfilment of the covenant. Wallace Tp. v. Great Western R. Co., 3 Ont. App. 44 [affirming 25 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 86]. A condition to construct a freight and passenger station with all necessary accommodations, connected by switches, sidings, or otherwise with the main road, is not complied with by the erection of a station building not used or intended to be used, and for which the proper officers, such as station-master, ticket agent, etc., are not appointed. Bickford v. Chatham, 16 Can. Sup. Ct. 235 [affirming 14 Ont. App. 32]. The words "all necessary accommodation" in such a condition require that grounds and yards sufficient for freight and passenger traffic in case the station is used shall be provided. Bickford v. Chatham, supra.

10. Brocaw v. Gibson County, 73 Ind. 543; De Graff v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 144.

A condition that the road shall be "constructed and operated" to a depot at a certain place by a given time is sufficiently complied with by the construction of the road to the given point by the time specified and the continuous operation of it thereafter even though the road is not fully completed and the depot is only a temporary one and the service thereat not first class. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Shea, 67 Iowa 728, 25 N. W. 901.

11. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Keen, 62 N. H. 81.

12. Hodgman v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 153.

13. Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523; Meader v. Lowry, 45 Iowa 684.

14. Cox v. Forest City, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 289, 22 N. W. 672.

15. Iowa, etc., R. Co. v. Schenck, 56 Iowa 628, 10 N. W. 215 (holding this to be true, although the constructed portion extends through the township in which the tax or main purpose for which the aid was granted, in making connection between designated points, the fact that another road is purchased or used for an inconsiderable part of the distance does not forfeit the company's right to the aid.[16] In the absence of anything in the grant to the contrary, the maintenance and operation of the road during the life of the railroad company as fixed by its charter or articles of incorporation is ordinarily by clear implication, either a condition of or the consideration for the grant of aid, and if during that time the company abandons the operation of its road the municipality granting the aid has a right of action against it on common-law principles.[17] Where it is understood or agreed that the road may be built by the railroad company's assignee or successor it is not essential that the road be completed by the original company in order that the aid granted may be earned.[18]

c. Time For Commencement and Completion of Construction. In the absence of an express provision in the statute or grant specifying the time for the performance of the conditions relative to the construction of the road, the law implies a reasonable time;[19] and where there is an amendment to the charter of the company before the issue of bonds voted requiring the road to be completed within a specified time, such time will be regarded as the time within which the conditions must be performed.[20] But where the contract or grant expressly prescribes a time within which the road or a particular part thereof shall be commenced, or constructed, or completed, such time is of the essence of the contract and the company is entitled to the aid granted only upon its commencing the work of construction,[21] or constructing and completing the road,[22] within the time pre-aid is voted); Meeker v. Ashley, 56 Iowa 188, 9 N. W. 124; Lamb v. Anderson, 54 Iowa 190, 3 N. W. 416, 6 N. W. 268.

16. Stockton, etc., R. Co. v. Stockton, 51 Cal. 328; People v. Holden, 82 Ill. 93; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Makepeace, 44 Kan. 676, 24 Pac. 1104; State v. Clark, 23 Minn. 422.

Purchase of narrow gauge road.— Where a special tax has been voted by a few wards in a parish in aid of the construction of a standard gauge railroad to traverse the state and connect with roads beyond its limits, the fact that the aided company buys a narrow gauge road already in existence covering an insignificant portion of the whole distance and converts it pro tanto into a standard gauge road to be built will not defeat the right of such company to the tax. Bradley-Ramsay Lumber Co. v. Perkins, 109 La. 317, 33 So. 351.

17. Hinckley v. Kettle River R. Co., 70 Minn. 105, 72 N. W. 835; St. Thomas v. Credit Valley R. Co., 15 Ont. 673.

18. Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 57 Wis. 430, 15 N. W. 743, 825.

19. Green v. Dyersburg, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,756, 2 Flipp. 477.

Where there is no limit fixed in a contract by which a town subscribes to the stock of a railroad company within which the company shall complete its road, and no notice is given by the town that the aid will not be furnished if the road is not completed within a reasonable time, the company does not lose its right under the contract by lapse of time or statute of limitations. Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 57 Wis. 430, 15 N. W. 743, 825.

20. Green v. Dyersburg, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,756, 2 Flipp. 477.

21. Sellers v. Beaver, 97 Ind. 111; Lowell v. Washington County R. Co., 90 Me. 80, 37 Atl. 869; Canada Atlantic R. Co. v. Ottawa, 12 Ont. App. 234 [affirming 8 Ont. 183, 201]; In re London, etc., R. Co., 36 U. C. Q. B. 93.

In Indiana, under 3 St. p. 389, § 18, providing that a railroad company to which grants of public aid have been made shall commence the construction of the road within one year from the time of the levy of the tax therefor, unless additional time has been given, the time for commencement begins one year from the time when the order levying the tax is made by the board of county commissioners and not from the time when the levy is placed on the tax duplicate. State v. Wheadon, 39 Ind. 520.

22. Minnesota.— McManus v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 51 Minn. 30, 52 N. W. 980 (holding it to be a non-compliance where the road is not completed until two weeks after the time specified); De Graff v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 144.

New Hampshire.— Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Keene, 62 N. H. 81.

West Virginia.— West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

United States.— Grattan Tp. v. Chilton, 97 Fed. 145, 38 C. C. A. 84.

Canada.— Canada Atlantic R. Co. v. Ottawa, 12 Ont. App. 234 [affirming 8 Ont. 183, 201]; Luther v. Wood, 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 348; Brock Tp. v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 17 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 425; In re Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 39 U. C. Q. B. 93.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 90.

Illustrations.— Where the provisions are that one half of the bonds shall be delivered when the first twelve miles of the road shall

scribed, and bonds issued to the company thereafter become void in the hands either of itself or of its agents;[23] and a court of equity will not relieve the company from the forfeiture,[24] unless the failure to comply with the conditions within the time specified is caused by the town, county, or municipality granting the aid.[25] Under some statutes the running of the period for the performance of such conditions is stayed during such time as performance is prevented by an injunction,[26] but such a statute is not retroactive.[27] Nor is a delay excusable which results from the company's negligence in taking the steps necessary to secure the right to cross the lines and road of another ompany;[28] and it has been held that a compliance with the conditions after the time specified is not excused by rains and floods which prevent a compliance by the designated time.[29] Commencement of

be completed, the other one half when the remainder of the road shall be completed, provided that the second half of the bonds shall never be delivered unless the road shall be completed before a certain date, upon the grading and bridging of the first twelve miles of the road, the company becomes entitled to the first instalment of the bonds, although such grading and bridging is not completed until after the date specified. State v. Lime, 23 Minn. 521. So where the subscription is that a certain amount of bonds shall be paid when the road is completed to E, another certain amount when completed to the J county line, and another amount when the branch is completed to N county, the company is entitled to the first instalment when the road is completed to E, although at that time it is manifestly impossible that the road can be completed within the time specified either to the J or U county lines. Shell v. Carter Tp., (Tenn. Ch. App. 1896) 42 S. W. 78. So where a subscription is on a condition that the road shall be completed to a certain point within twenty-four months from the date of the subscription, and after an election resulting in favor of the proposition, a resolution of the city council is passed on Aug. 15, 1901, directing the mayor to subscribe for the stock, but no subscription is actually made until April 15, 1902, the subscription is not completed until the latter date. From which date the time within which the railroad company is bound to complete its line begins to run, and not from the date of the pasage of the resolution. Red River Furnace Co. v. Tennessee Cent. R. Co., 113 Tenn. 697, 87 S. W. 1016.

Non-compliance.—A condition that the railroad company shall, within the time limited, complete its road ready for the passage of cars thereon into and through a certain town, is not complied with by completing the road into the town and to a point within five hundred feet from the outward boundary thereof, and not continuing the road out of the town until eighteen months after the expiration of the time limited. Birch Cooley v. Minneapolis First Nat. Bank, 86 Minn. 385, 90 N. W. 789.

Under Ind. Rev. St. (1881) §§ 4045, 4062, aid voted by a township to a railroad is forfeited by a non-compliance with the conditions expressed in the petition that the road shall be completed and a depot erected thereon by a certain date, and thereupon the township may vote aid to another railroad. Irwin v. Lowe, 89 Ind. 540.

Refunding.— Where the condition is that if the company shall fail to construct the road within the following year it will refund to the town certain money with interest, the company is bound to construct the road within the following year or refund. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Marseilles, 84 Ill. 145, 643.

Evidence that the company, after the date specified, shipped all of its heavy freight over another line under its control is admissible upon the issue as to whether it had fully constructed and equipped its road for the carriage of freight by a certain date. Hodgman v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 23 Minn. 153.

Mistake in record.— Where a town voted aid to a railroad provided that it build a road before a certain date, but the clerk failed to record such provision as to time, and the road was completed by a later date, a subsequent amendment of the record by inserting the condition as to time within which the road must be completed will not be allowed to defeat the railroad's claim. Sawyer v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 62 N. H. 135, 13 Am. St. Rep. 541.

A reasonable limit of time for the completion of a railroad in a subscription is valid and is of the essence of the subscription and compliance with it is essential to entitle the company to the subscription. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

A county court making a subscription to the construction of a railroad may insert a limit of time for its completion, or any terms and conditions reasonable and prudent to protect the public, not contravening anything in the vote of the people or in the statute. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

23. Farnham v. Benedict, 107 N. Y. 159, 13 N. E. 784 [reversing 39 Hun 22].

24. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison County Ct., 47 W. Va. 273, 34 S. E. 786.

25. People v. Holden, 82 Ill. 93.

26. McManus v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 51 Minn. 30, 52 N. W. 980.

27. McManus v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 51 Minn. 30, 52 N. W. 980.

28. McManus v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 51 Minn. 30, 52 N. W. 980.

29. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 24 Kan. 170.

work upon the railroad within the meaning of such conditions relates to the time of the beginning of the work of construction,[30] and not to the acquiring of the right of way,[31] or letting contracts for the construction of the road.[32] Under some statutes the failure of a railroad company to commence work or complete the road within the specified time does not operate as a forfeiture of the aid voted unless there is a declaration of forfeiture by the proper board or officers and in the manner prescribed.[33]

d. Location of Road, Termini, Offices, and Stations. The above rules also apply to conditions relative to the location of the road,[34] its offices,[35] termini and stations,[36] and repair shops and roundhouses,[37] as that they shall be located within a certain distance of a designated point.[38] In accordance with such rules such conditions precedent must be complied with unless performance has been waived,[39] or unless the change in location is authorized by law,[40] or was contem-

30. State v. Wheadon, 39 Ind. 520.

31. State v. Wheadon, 39 Ind. 520.

32. State v. Wheadon, 39 Ind. 520.

33. Nixon v. Camphell, 106 Ind. 47, 4 N. E. 296, 7 N. E. 258; Marion County v. Center Tp., 105 Ind. 422, 2 N. E. 368, 7 N. E. 189 (construing Act (1873), p. 84, which repealed Act (1869), Spec. Sess. p. 22, and criticizing Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Tyston County, 70 Ind. 385); Sellers v. Beaver, 97 Ind. 111. Compare State v. Wheadon, 39 Ind. 520, under the act of 1869. And see COUNTIES, 11 Cyc. 529 text and note 29.

34. See Winona v. Thompson, 24 Minn. 199; McRoberts v. Southern Minn. R. Co., 18 Minn. 108 (construing Spec. Laws (1864), c. 1); Oswego County Sav. Bank v. Genoa, 66 N. Y. App. Div. 330, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 786 [affirming 28 Misc. 71, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 829, and affirmed in 172 N. Y. 635, 65 N. E. 1120] (construing Laws (1871), c. 298); Platteville v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 43 Wis. 493; Pompton Tp. v. Cooper Union, 101 U. S. 196, 25 L. ed. 803; In re Stratford, etc., R. Co., 38 U. C. Q. B. 112, 140.

Non-compliance.—A condition that the road shall be constructed into and through a certain township is not complied with where no part of the road is built in such township. Midland Tp. v. Gage County, 37 Nebr. 582, 56 N. W. 317. Under Milliken & V. Code Tenn. § 1282, which provides that before an application can be made to a municipality to subscribe for railroad stock, the proposed road must have been surveyed and substantially located by designating the termini and approximating the general direction thereof and an estimate of the grading, embankment, and masonry made by an engineer under oath, filed with the application, a subscription voted by the municipality cannot be enforced, where the road is not constructed pursuant to the profile and estimates submitted with the application, although it is constructed on another route submitted with the same application, but without the profile and estimates. State v. Morristown, 93 Tenn. 239, 24 S. W. 13. A condition that the road be located satisfactorily to the selectmen of a certain town is not shown to have been sufficiently complied with by proof that the road was located wisely, prudently, and judiciously for the interest of the town without showing that the location was satisfactory to the selectmen. Buckport, etc., R. Co. v. Brewer, 67 Me. 295.

Condition subsequent.—A condition that the road shall be built through a town on the line as run by the engineer, with a suitable depot for the convenience of the public, is a condition subsequent and does not defeat an action for the amount subscribed, although it is not performed when the action is commenced. Belfast, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, 60 Me. 568.

35. State v. Minneapolis, 32 Minn. 501, 21 N. W. 722 (non-compliance); Whitby v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 1 Ont. L. Rep. 480 [reversing 32 Ont. 99].

36. McGregor, etc., R. Co. v. Foley, 38 Iowa 588, holding that where a contract between a township and a railroad company makes certain money not payable until said company shall have erected a depot within one mile of the village of N in said N township, the words "N township" are merely descriptive, and it is a sufficient compliance if the depot is erected within one mile of the village.

37. Bradley-Ramsay Lumber Co. v. Perkins, 109 La. 317, 33 So. 351, holding that an agreement to the effect that the company will construct and maintain at a particular place its repair shop and roundhouse does not mean that it shall construct and maintain but one repair shop and one roundhouse on its line, and in such case the character of the repair shop and roundhouse called for by the contract is to be determined by the requirements of the road.

38. Whitney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 133 Iowa 508, 110 N. W. 912; State v. Daviess County Ct., 64 Mo. 30.

That the non-compliance was at the request of the inhabitants of a town is no excuse for non-compliance with a condition that the road be constructed within a certain distance of such town. State v. Daviess County Ct., 64 Mo. 30.

39. Bucksport, etc., R. Co. v. Brewer, 67 Me. 295 (holding that the silence of the inhabitants of a town cannot be construed as a waiver of the condition that the road shall be located satisfactorily to the selectmen); Stewart v. Little Miami R. Co., 14 Ohio 353.

40. Lowell v. Washington County R. Co., plated by the municipality or county when it made its subscription.[41] Where the road is completed and accomplishes the main purposes of the grant, in making connection between designated points, the fact that an inconsiderable change is made by the company in the route originally proposed, the original route being generally followed, does not forfeit the company's right to the aid,[42] such as alterations in the line of the road which do not change the terminal points, nor materially affect the general route;[43] and the fact that there is some deviation from the original route as set forth in the company's articles of incorporation does not effect a forfeiture where it does not appear that the location of the road upon such route is a condition upon which the aid is to be given.[44] Where it is apparent from the statutes authorizing public aid that the road should be constructed through a certain township or county as it was when the vote of the aid was taken, the right to such aid is forfeited by constructing the road through other territory,[45] although, subsequently to the vote, the township or county is enlarged by the annexation of the territory through which the road is built.[46] The survey of a line of a railroad before voting a tax to aid in its construction does not constitute a representation respecting the location of the line of the road, which is binding upon the company or upon which a taxpayer is authorized to rely;[47] and where at the time the proposition to grant aid is submitted to the voters there has been no location of the road, the fact that the road as subsequently located does not follow a route which may have been contemplated by the public does not affect the company's right to such aid.[48] But where at the time of submitting such proposition the route of such road was located, it will be presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that such location was a part of the proposition;[49] and if after the vote is taken the location is materially changed to a route entirely different from the original one, the right to such aid will be presumed to have been abandoned.[50]

e. Amount or Value of Work Done. A condition that the aid granted shall not be delivered until an amount of work shall have been done on the railroad equal to the amount of the bonds[51] embraces not earth work alone, but all that 90 Me. 80, 37 Atl. 869, holding that an authorized change in the location of a railroad approved by the railroad commissioners does not release a county from its liability under its original subscription, and that a second subscription is unnecessary.

Where the road is actually built in accordance with the conditions of the subscription, the validity of bonds donated to the company under such subscription is not affected by the fact that by a subsequent act a change of route of the road is authorized which would leave the city off the line of the road. Columbus v. Dennison, 69 Fed. 58, 16 C. C. A. 125.

41. Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 57 Wis. 430, 15 N. W. 743, 825.

42. Stockton, etc., R. Co. v. Stockton, 51 Cal. 328.

43. Marion County v. Center Tp., 105 Ind. 422, 2 N. E. 368, 7 N. E. 189, holding that where a railroad is constructed through the same counties, between the same terminal points, and upon the same general line as projected, it is not a material departure so as to work a forfeiture of township aid voted, although several towns on the line projected are left from five to twelve miles off the new line.

44. Cantillon v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 78 Iowa 48, 42 N. W. 613, 5 L. R. A. 776; Lowell v. Washington County R. Co., 90 Me. 80, 37 Atl. 869.

45. Alvis v. Whitney, 43 Ind. 83.

46. Alvis v. Whitney, 43 Ind. 83.

47. Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61.

48. See Ravenswood, etc., R. Co. v. Ravenswood, 41 W. Va. 752, 41 S. E. 597, 56 Am. St. Rep. 906.

49. Ravenswood, etc., R. Co. v. Ravens wood, 41 W. Va. 752, 41 S. E. 597, 56 Am. St. Rep. 906.

50. Ravenswood, etc., R. Co. v. Ravenswood, 41 W. Va. 752, 41 S. E. 597, 56 Am. St. Rep. 906, holding this to be true, even though the authorities of the road should by leave obtain the privilege of running trains over the track of another road in full operation and extending through the municipality offering the aid on a different route and in a different direction.

51. People v. Waynesville, 88 Ill. 469, holding that building a railway through an incorporated town at a cost of forty-one thousand dollars is not a substantial compliance with a municipal subscription of fifty thousand dollars payable on a condition imposed in the railroad charter, that work shall be done on the road in the town or on such part of the line as the authorities of the town shall designate "equal in value to the amount" of the bonds.

enters into the construction of the road-bed complete for the transportation of cars.[52] But although the railroad company has not expended enough in a city or township to entitle it to the whole tax voted in aid of the road, it may be entitled to collect the part earned.[53]

f. Expenditure of Aid. Where the terms of the grant so prescribe, the money or other aid granted to a railroad company must be expended by the company in the manner prescribed,[54] and must be applied on that part of the road which the grant prescribes.[55] But unless the statute or grant so requires,[56] it is not necessary that it should be expended within the limits of the particular county or municipality granting it.[57]

g. Determination of Question of Performance. Under some statutes a certificate of the proper municipal or county board or officers that the railroad company has complied with the terms and conditions of the grant is essential before the money or bonds voted will be delivered to the railroad company,[58] and in the absence of fraud the decision of such board or officers is final.[59]

3. Agreements in Consideration of Grant of Aid. Agreements or contracts entered into between a county or municipality and a railroad company in support of a grant of public aid are regulated by the rules governing contracts generally,[60]

52. Illinois Midland R. Co. v. Barnett, 85 Ill. 313.

53. Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523.

54. Biddlecom v. Newton, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 582, payment of coupons.

Where the condition is that the money shall be expended "when found necessary," on work of the road within the county, in procuring the right of way, in grading and in necessary masonry for the road-bed, the railroad company is to determine what is necessary for the purposes named, and is at liberty to use the remainder for other purposes, acting in such matters as trustee, and being bound to exercise a reasonable judgment. Marion County v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 78 S. W. 437, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1600.

55. People v. Morgan, 65 Barb. (N. Y.) 473, 1 Thomps. & C. 101 [reversed on other grounds in 55 N. Y. 587]; Port Dover, etc., R. Co. v. Grey, 36 U. C. Q. B. 425.

56. Lamb v. Anderson, 54 Iowa 190, 3 N. W. 416, 6 N. W. 268; Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips County, 25 Kan. 261; People v. Morgan, 65 Barb. (N. Y.) 473, 1 Thomps. & C. 101 [reversed on other grounds in 55 N. Y. 587].

57. Brocaw v. Gibson County, 73 Ind. 543.

58. Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523; Rome Bank v. Rome, 19 N. Y. 20, 75 Am. Dec. 272; Grand Junction, etc., R. Co. v. Peterborough, 15 App. Cas. 136 [affirming 13 Ont. App. 420].

Sufficiency.— A statutory provision that the township trustees shall, in order that a railroad company may obtain aid voted by the county, certify that the company has in all respects complied with the statutes is sufficiently complied with by a certificate that the company "has so complied with the act as to entitle it to draw" a certain sum. Casady v. Lowry, 49 Iowa 523.

Validity.—A certificate of township trustees that a railroad has been constructed as contemplated in the notice of a township election at which a vote was had in aid of the construction of the road is not invalidated by the mere fact that it was signed at a place outside of the township. Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Herron, 46 Iowa 701; Meader v. Lowry, 45 Iowa 684. That the certificate of compliance by the company with the conditions of the tax was not executed in accordance with any order of the trustees, made at a meeting thereof, has been held not to invalidate the tax where the certificate has been duly signed. Merrill v. Welsher, 50 Iowa 61.

59. Demaree v. Bridges, 30 Ind. App. 131, 65 N. E. 601; Lowell v. Washington County R. Co., 90 Me. 80, 37 Atl. 869, holding that under Spec. Act (1895), c. 91, authorizing a county to subscribe for stock in a railroad company and authorizing the county commissioners to pass upon the sufficiency of a guaranty required to be given by contractors for the faithful performance of their contract to build the road, the commissioners act judicially in approving the bond and their decision is final; the court having no authority in the absence of fraud to revise their judgment.

60. See Fayetteville Wagon, etc., Co. v. Kenefick Constr. Co., (Ark. 1905) 88 S. W. 1031; and, generally, Contracts, 9 Cyc. 213.

Consideration.— Under Wis. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 943–945, which provide that a proposition for railroad aid bonds shall be obligatory on both parties when accepted by the municipality, and that the bonds shall be deposited in escrow and shall not be delivered until the road is completed and in operation, the issuing of shares of its stock by a railroad company and depositing the same in escrow, and its agreement to construct a railroad in sections indicated in its proposal, is a good consideration for issuing and agreeing to pay the bonds so deposited. Crogster v. Bayfield County, 99 Wis. 1, 74 N. W. 635, 77 N. W. 167.

Severable contract.—Where a railroad company proposes to a county to construct a railroad in six distinct sections, and upon the completion of each section the county is then, or when the next succeeding section is except in so far as they are regulated by special statutory provisions.[61] Where by agreement a county is to issue bonds in payment for stock in a railroad company, the county to receive for each bond as issued a certificate for the same amount of stock in the railroad company, the delivery of stock certificates is not a condition precedent to the issue or delivery of the bonds;[62] all that is necessary being a readiness and willingness to issue the certificates when the bonds are delivered.[63]

4. Right to Stock on Payment of Subscription.[64] There is a clear distinction between public appropriations in aid of a railroad company by way of donations and by way of taking stock in the company; and where such appropriation is made by way of taking stock, the railroad company has no right to demand the money or other aid as a donation,[65] but must exchange therefor stock of the company, in the manner and upon the terms prescribed by the grant or statute authorizing it,[66] and thereupon the county, municipality, or taxpayer becomes completed, to deliver its bonds in return for an equal amount of stock, the contract is severable and not entire. Crogster v. Bayfield County, 99 Wis. 1, 74 N. W. 635, 77 N. W. 167.

Construction of several instruments.—Where a city issues bonds for the benefit of a railroad company and the company issues to the city an equal amount of its stock which it guarantees shall yield annual dividends of a certain per cent to be secured by rent under a lease of the property to another company, and the lessee guarantees to the lessor the payment of dividends, the contracts and lease should be construed as constituting only one contract. Marklove v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 48 Misc. (N. Y.) 258, 96 N. Y. Suppl. 795.

Guaranty of dividends.— Where a city issues bonds for the benefit of a railroad company, which issues stock to the city to the amount of the bonds, and contracts that the stock shall pay a certain annual dividend, the contract being secured by rentals under a lease to another railroad, a guaranty by the latter company of the payment of the dividends at a rate fixed is within the power of such company and valid, and where it has been acted upon for a considerable length of time, it can be enforced by the city, although it is not a party to the contract. Marklove v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 48 Misc. (N. Y.) 258, 96 N. Y. Suppl. 795. And upon a sale of stock by the city its transferee is entitled to the benefit of the guaranty contract. Marklove v. Utica, etc., R. Co., supra.

Avoidance.— Where the proposition submitted to a county contains a condition that, if the county becomes a stock-holder in the company, the township subscription is to be null and void, the latter is not avoided by the action of the company to enforce a pretended subscription of the county, which is invalid for want of power in the county to make. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Jefferson County, 21 Kan. 309.

61. See Crogster v. Bayfield County, 99 Wis. 1, 74 N. W. 635, 77 N. W. 167.

Under Wis. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 943–948, relating to the issue of municipal bonds to pay for a subscription to a railroad, and providing that there shall be "a definite proposition in writing" specifying when the bonds shall be delivered with reference to the time of the complete construction of such railroad, and within what time such road shall be constructed so as to be entitled to such bonds, and that no such bonds shall be delivered until the road shall have been completed and in operation by the passage of cars from one terminus to such points as the company shall have agreed to construct the same, a proposal to construct a railroad in six distinct sections, for which, upon the completion of each section or the next succeeding one, the county is to deliver its bonds in return for stock, is within the contemplation of such provisions. Crogster v. Bayfield County, 99 Wis. 1, 74 N. W. 635, 77 N. W. 167.

62. State v. Wapello County Judge, 9 Iowa 288.

63. State v. Wapello County Judge, 9 Iowa 288.

64. Rights and liabilities of public owning railroad stock see supra, II, G.

65. Hamilton County v. State, 115 Ind. 64, 4 N. E. 589, 17 N. E. 855.

66. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Allegheny County, 79 Pa. St. 210.

Under Ky. Acts (1851–1852), c. 429, § 15, which provides that a certain railroad shall, on the date of the first dividend, and thereafter on presentation and surrender at the company's office of tax receipts for taxes paid to defray interest on bonds given by a county in payment of corporate stock, issue to the holders of tax receipts stock for the same, and under Acts (1855–1856), c. 20, § 4, which declares that the holders of stock issued to such taxpayers shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of stock-holders, except that such stock shall not bear interest, a taxpayer paying taxes to defray interest on county bonds issued in payment of corporate stock is entitled to an amount of stock equal to the tax receipt, together with all cash and stock dividends declared on such stock. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hart County, 116 Ky. 186, 75 S. W. 288, 77 S. W. 361, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 395, 1152.

Time of delivery of bonds.— Evidence that counties as subscribers to stock in a railroad corporation frequently delivered their bonds in payment of stock subscriptions after the

a stock-holder of the company, entitled to the rights and privileges, and subject to the liabilities of such a stock-holder.[67] A provision in a railroad charter that a certain per cent of its stock shall be paid in cash does not apply to aid extended by a county to the construction of the railroad by an exchange of the bonds of the county for stock.[68]

5. Effect of Sale, Lease, or Consolidation of Road — a. In General. The general effect of sales, leases, or consolidations of railroads or railroad property is treated elsewhere in this article.[69] But where there has been a grant of public aid, the effect of such transfers upon the rights and liabilities of the parties in respect to such aid depend upon the terms of the particular statute or grant,[70] in connection with the instrument or proceedings under which the transfer is made.[71] Where the grant provides that the conditions precedent shall be com-time the bonds bore date tends to overcome the presumption that bonds issued by a particular county in payment of stock subscribed by it were delivered to the corporation the day they were dated. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hart County, 116 Ky. 186, 75 S. W. 288, 77 S. W. 361, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 395, 1152.

67. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Allegheny County, 79 Pa. St. 210.

Rights and liabilities: Of county as stock-holder see Counties, 11 Cyc. 530 et seq. Of municipal corporation as stock-holder see Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 1560.

68. Austin v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 45 Tex. 234.

69. Rights and liabilities: Of purchasers on sale of railroad see infra, VII, B, 4. Of lessor and lessee of railroad see infra, VII, C, 6.

Operation and effect of consolidation of railroad see infra, VII, E, 6.

70. See Washington, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 83 Va. 246, 2 S. E. 746; Toronto v. Ontario, etc., R. Co., 22 Ont. 344.

Transfer of railroad stock by town.— Where the railroad commissioners of a town that has issued railroad aid bonds and received stock of the company agree to transfer the stock to a second company to induce it to run and operate the first road, and subsequently the second company contracts for the lease of the first road, the contract reciting that the stock is to be transferred to the second company, to be held by it so long as it shall continue to perform the conditions of the lease, and that when it ceases so to do the stock shall be retransferred, the title passes subject to the provisions of the lease contract, although the commissioners transfer the stock absolutely (Mt. Morris v. Thomas, 158 N. Y. 450, 53 N. E. 214 [affirming 8 N. Y. App Div. 495, 40 N. Y. Suppl. 709]); and where there was no fraud and the transfer has been acquiesced in for a number of years, even though the transfer of the town's stock was unauthorized, a court of equity will be justified in refusing to grant to the town the relief of compelling the company to retransfer the stock or to account for the dividends received thereon (Mt. Morris v. Thomas, supra).

Under Tenn. Act, Dec. 21, 1870, which provides for the enforcement of the lien of the state on certain railroads, to which the credit of the state had been loaned in bonds, a purchaser of the state's interest in the railroad under a sale directed by the court should not be compelled to accept in payment of freight and passage tax certificates under Act (1851), c. 117, which provided that the taxpayers of the county subscribing to aid in the construction of the railroad should receive certificates which might be used in payment of freight or passage on the road. State v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 7 Lea 15.

Statutory mortgage.— The Pacific railroad act of 1862 (12 U. S. St. at L. 489, §§ 5, 9), provided for a loan of government bonds to the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company and imposed on the road a statutory mortgage to secure the loan, and the act of March 3, 1869 (15 U. S. St. at L. 324, § 1), authorized said company to transfer to the Denver Pacific Railroad Company its right of way between Denver and Cheyenne, such portion of the line not having been completed, and "all the rights and privileges, subject to all the obligations, pertaining to said part of its line." It was held that the Denver road was not subject to the mortgage. Denver Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 12 Ct. Cl. 237. And after the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company became consolidated with the Union Pacific Railroad, the act of May 7, 1878 (20 U. S. St. at L. 58 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3569]), enacted two years before the consolidation, and providing for the retention by the United States of part of the earnings of certain roads, had no application to earnings of that part of the Union Pacific formerly belonging to the Kansas Pacific as such statute relates only to the Union and Central Pacific railroads. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 16 Ct. Cl. 353.

71. Morgan County v. Thomas, 76 Ill. 120, holding that where a trust deed executed by a railroad company, covering its road, franchises, and property, present and prospective, to secure the payment of its bonds, does not mention corporate subscriptions made to its capital stock, the purchasers thereunder acquire no claim to county bonds issued pursuant to a county subscription to the capital stock of the company.

Under Ind. Act (1869), Spec. Sess. p. 92, § 14, authorizing townships to aid a railroad company by taking stock therein, where the property of such company is sold on foreclosure and bought in by a new company, such new company cannot by mandamus compel the levy of a tax for the purpose of payplied with by the grantee company, and it transfers to another company without doing so, the latter company is not entitled to the aid granted, although it complies with such conditions.[72] But where a railroad company to which a tax has been voted has, upon the faith thereof, constructed its road and put it in operation, it thereby becomes entitled to the tax, and this right is not forfeited by a subsequent alienation of the road to another company;[73] nor is it forfeited by a perpetual lease of the road made in good faith to another company;[74] and, after the collection and payment into the county treasury of the taxes voted, the county cannot set up the defense that the railroad company had sold and disposed of its property and franchises before the taxes became due,[75] although such defense might have been a good one for the taxpayers in resisting the payment of the tax;[76] and where such tax is expended in paying the ordinary county indebtedness, and loses its identity as a railroad aid fund, the county is liable for the amount to an assignee of the railroad company.[77] So where at the time a corporate subscription to a railroad company is voted, the law authorizes such company to purchase other roads connecting with it, the subsequent exercise of this power will not defeat the subscription so voted.[78] Where the aid has been earned by the original company, subsequent purchasers at a foreclosure sale or persons claiming under them are not bound by conditions or stipulations in the grant which do not constitute a charge on the property,[79] although it is otherwise where they constitute a charge upon the road or its earnings.[80] Where it is the object and purpose of a railroad company to build a road from a certain point to a certain other point and it causes a portion of its road to be built, and transfers the right to operate the part completed to another company, still retaining all its rights and franchises to the other portion of the road, there is not such a fundamental and radical change in the character of the original purpose and object of the company as to release a town from its subscription to the stock of the ing them the amount voted to be paid for stock in the original company. Hamilton County v. State, 115 Ind. 64, 4 N. E. 589, 17 N. E. 855. And Rev. St. (1881) § 3945, providing that on the sale of a railroad under a mortgage the purchasers may form a corporation to operate the railroad, etc., and section 3947, providing that such corporation shall possess all the rights in respect to said railroad which were possessed by the corporation formerly owning it, and may assume any liabilities of the former corporation and make such adjustment and settlement with any stock-holder or creditor of the former corporation as may be deemed expedient, provided that all subscribers to the original stock of the company shall, by the acceptance of this act by the purchasers of any such railroad, be released from all their unpaid subscriptions, etc., although enacted before any law was in existence authorizing townships to vote aid to railroad companies, such statutes apply to a town subscribing to the stock of a railroad, and release such township from liability on its unpaid subscription. Hamilton County v. State, supra.

72. Midland Tp. v. Gage County Bd., 37 Nebr. 582, 56 N. W. 317.

73. Parsons v. Childs, 36 Iowa 108.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Shea, 67 Iowa 728, 25 N. W. 901.

75. Merrill v. Marshall County, 74 Iowa 24, 36 N. W. 778.

76. Merrill v. Marshall County, 74 Iowa 24, 36 N. W. 778.

77. Merrill v. Marshall County, 74 Iowa 24, 36 N. W. 778.

78. Illinois Midland R. Co. v. Barnett, 85 Ill. 313.

79. People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 120 Ill. 48, 10 N. E. 657 (holding that the lessees of the purchaser of a consolidated railroad at a foreclosure sale are not bound by the stipulations in a contract between the county and the companies, binding them to stop all trains at the depot at the county-seat, although the consideration of the contract was the gift by the county to the companies of large sums of money, and the vote of the money by the people of the county was conditioned upon such accommodations); Elizabethtown v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 94 Ky. 377, 22 S. W. 609, 15 Ky. L. Rep. 313; Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 125 U. S. 109, 8 S. Ct. 762, 31 L. ed. 615 [affirming 18 Fed. 344, 5 McCrary 597].

80. See Tompkins v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 125 U. S. 109, 8 S. Ct. 762, 31 L. ed. 615 [affirming 18 Fed. 344, 5 McCrary 597].

Statutory lien.— Where by statute a county is authorized to issue its bonds in aid of a railroad, and by the same act a lien is created in favor of the county on the earnings of the road to the extent necessary to pay the interest on such bonds, on foreclosure and sale of the road on a subsequent mortgage the lien is enforceable not only against the fund in the hands of the receiver making the sale, but also against the purchaser under the decree, and whomsoever company, although the town does not assent to such change,[81] and this is especially true where the town, at the time of the subscription, contemplated that a change would be made in the objects and purposes of the company.[82] Under statutes which give taxpayers an interest in the railroad property upon the payment of the tax voted in its aid, as by giving them a right to stock in the company, an absolute sale or its equivalent of the road before completion and after the taxes have been voted, works a forfeiture of the tax,[83] except where the transfer provides that stock of the new company, which is of equal or greater value than the stock of the old, shall be issued to taxpayers in return for the aid voted.[84] So where a tax is voted on condition that the road be built by a certain day, a sale of the road before its completion by the corporation in whose favor the tax was voted, with the reservation that the vendor shall complete the road-bed and collect the tax, will not defeat the right to the tax after the road is completed, although such sale amounts to a voluntary dissolution of the company.[85] Where, prior to the levy of a tax in aid of a railroad, the statute authorizing it is repealed, and the company in whose favor the tax was voted has not, prior to such repeal, expended any money in reliance upon the tax and has never constructed the road but has transferred it by a perpetual lease to another company which does construct it, there is no assignment or transfer of the tax to such other company and if it does not appear that the latter company constructed the road relying upon the tax, it is not entitled to have such tax collected.[86]

b. Consolidation or Merger. As a general rule the right granted to a railroad company by its charter to receive public subscriptions to its capital stock, payable in bonds, is a right and privilege that upon its consolidation with another company passes to the consolidated company;[87] and where a railroad company accepts a public subscription or donation upon certain conditions and afterward consolidates with other railway companies under articles requiring the new company to perform such conditions, such original company and each of the new companies which by means of the consolidation succeed to the ownership of the original road will thereby become bound to perform all the conditions so imposed.[88] Thus where at the time bonds or other aid is voted in favor of a railroad company, there is a general law authorizing the railroad company to consolidate or merge with other lines, such law must be considered as a silent factor in such contract of subscription, and a subsequent consolidation or merger of such company with another company will not release the municipality, county, or township, but will transfer its obligation to the new company,[89] except where there is an express may hold the road or have the custody of its earnings. Ketcham v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 101 U. S. 306, 25 L. ed. 999 [affirming 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,740, 4 Dill. 87].

81. Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 57 Wis. 430, 15 N. W. 743, 825.

82. Lynch v. Eastern, etc., R. Co., 57 Wis. 430, 15 N. W. 743, 825.

83. State v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 71 Iowa 410, 32 N. W. 409, 60 Am. Rep. 806; Blunt v. Carpenter, 68 Iowa 265, 26 N. W. 438; Manning v. Mathews, 66 Iowa 675, 24 N. W. 271.

84. Cantillon v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 78 Iowa 48, 42 N. W. 613, 5 L. R. A. 776, (1887) 35 N. W. 620.

85. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38 Iowa 33.

86. Barthel v. Meader, 72 Iowa 125, 33 N. W. 446.

87. Lewis v. Clarendon, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,320, 5 Dill. 229, 6 Reporter 609.

88. People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 120 Ill. 48, 10 N. E. 657.

89. Illinois.— Edwards v. People, 88 Ill. 340; Niantic Sav. Bank v. Douglas, 5 Ill. App. 579 [affirmed in 97 Ill. 228].

Indiana.— Scott v. Hansheer, 94 Ind. 1.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips County, 25 Kan. 261.

Texas.— Morrill v. Smith County, 89 Tex. 529, 36 S. W. 56.

United States.— Livingston County v. Portsmouth First Nat. Bank, 128 U. S. 102, 9 S. Ct. 18, 32 L. ed. 359; Chickaming Tp. v. Carpenter, 106 U. S. 663, 1 S. Ct. 620, 27 L. ed. 307; New Buffalo Tp. v. Cambria Iron Co., 105 U. S. 73, 26 L. ed. 1024; Menasha v. Hazard, 102 U. S. 81, 26 L. ed. 83; Wilson v. Salamanca Tp., 99 U. S. 499, 25 L. ed. 330; Henry County v. Nicolay, 95 U. S. 619, 24 L. ed. 394; East Lincoln v. Davenport, 94 U. S. 801, 24 L. ed. 322; Scotland County v. Thomas, 94 U. S. 682, 24 L. ed. 219; Pope v. Lake County, 51 Fed. 769.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 98.

Compare New Jersey Midland R. Co. v. Strait, 35 N. J. L. 322, holding that where, provision to the contrary.[90] But where the aid granted is in return for stock of the company, a new company cannot assume any claim to the fund when it has not tendered its stock therefor, and has no stock which it may legally tender.[91] So where at the time of the consolidation there has been no subscription made to the old company or an acceptance by it, there is no vested right to the aid which will pass to the new company.[92] Where a city is authorized to issue bonds in aid of a named railroad company which by an act of the legislature becomes merged in a new company which is substantially the same as the old one, the city may vote to issue the bonds for the benefit of the new company and may deliver them to it.[93] Where county bonds issued in aid of a railroad recite an order of the county court directing their issuance to one railroad company while the bonds are made payable to another railroad company with which the former company has been consolidated, the bonds are invalid on their face.[94] Where a statute authorizes a town to subscribe a stated amount to each of two proposed railroads, their consolidation entitles the new company to the benefit only of such donation as the town could make to either of the former companies.[95]

6. Liability of Railroad Company For Interest on Securities. The liability of a railroad company for interest on securities issued or indorsed by a county, municipality, or state in its aid is controlled by the terms of the particular statute or grant.[96]

after a subscription for bonds of a corporation, the company, pursuant to legislative authority, consolidated with two other companies, the consolidated company could not recover on the subscription on tendering bonds issued by it.

Under Ind. Act, Jan. 30, 1873, which provides that there can only be a forfeiture when the county board, on a proper application, shall make an order canceling the donation, where a donation is voted to a railroad company, and a trust deed covering such donation is foreclosed, the bondholders buying in all the rights and property of the company, and forming a company which is afterward consolidated with another under a new name, the last named company having completed the work before a forfeiture is declared, is entitled to the money voted by the original company, it having been in the county treasury at the time of the foreclosure and sale. Marion County v. Center Tp., 105 Ind. 422, 2 N. E. 368, 7 N. E. 189.

A special tax voted in favor of a railroad company in aid of the construction by it of a certain railroad inures to the benefit of a company resulting from the consolidation of that company with another, and such consolidation has no effect on the legality of the tax. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Scott, 52 La. Ann. 512, 27 So. 137.

Where the vote contemplates the construction of the road which the consolidated company builds, there is no diversion from the purpose contemplated by the vote by the fact that the stock is subscribed and the bonds issued to the consolidated company. Livingston County v. Portsmouth First Nat. Bank, 128 U. S. 102, 9 S. Ct. 18, 32 L. ed. 359.

90. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Halton County, 21 Can. Sup. Ct. 716 [affirming 19 Ont. App. 252].

91. Pope v. Lake County, 51 Fed. 769.

92. Wagner v. Meety, 69 Mo. 150; State v. Garroutte, 67 Mo. 445; Dix v. Shaver, 14 Hun (N. Y.) 392; Harshman v. Bates County, 92 U. S. 569, 23 L. ed. 747.

93. Savings Soc. v. New London, 29 Conn. 174.

94. Bates County v. Winters, 97 U. S. 83, 24 L. ed. 933.

95. Pana v. Lippincott, 2 Ill. App. 466 [affirmed in 92 Ill. 24].

96. See Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 36 Ala. 371 (construing the act of Feb. 17, 1854); Gibbes v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 13 S. C. 228; and the statutes of the several states.

Under the Pacific Railroad Act (1862), § 6, providing for the issue of bonds by the government to pay for the construction of the road, requiring the company to pay the bonds at maturity, and to allow the government to retain compensation due the company for transportation and to apply it on the bonds "and interest," and to pay to the government five per cent of the net earnings to be applied on bonds "and interest," the company cannot be required to pay the interest before the maturity of the bonds. U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 91 U. S. 72, 23 L. ed. 224. See also Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 13 Ct. Cl. 401.

Estoppel.— Where a city corporation issued its bonds in aid of a railroad, taking a mortgage thereon as security, the railroad company agreeing to pay a certain rate of interest into the city treasury at certain times, and subsequently congress by the two acts of 1862 and 1864 (12 U. S. St. at L. 469; 13 U. S. St. at L. 284), imposed a tax of three per cent upon all sums of money due by railroad companies, requiring them to withhold such tax from their payments and providing that payment over to the United States should operate as a discharge from the creditors to the amount of the tax, etc.,

7. Payment or Redemption by Railroad Company of Securities. The payment or redemption by a railroad company of securities issued or indorsed by a state, county, or municipality in aid of a railroad is usually provided for by the statute or agreement authorizing or granting such aid;[97] and the time,[98] and mode, manner, and terms[99] of paying such securities or interest are governed by the terms of

and the company, after notifying the city and formally protesting against the collection of the tax, paid it, and withheld that amount from the interest it had agreed to pay into the city treasury, and the city neglected to test the legality of the tax after notice from the company of the demands made by the United States, it cannot recover the amount from the railroad company. Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 10 Wall. (U. S.) 543, 19 L. ed. 1043.

97. See Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. State, 29 Ala. 573, holding that under the act of Jan. 12, 1856, providing for the renewal of a state loan to a railroad company, and the act of Feb. 14, 1856, providing that before extending any loan by virtue of the provisions of the act under which the application is made for a loan or extension, the company must accept the provisions of the act of Feb. 14, and providing as a condition of renewal that it must consent to a forfeiture of its charter in default of payment of the loan, the second statute applies to an application for an extension under the first.

98. See the cases cited infra, this note.

Under the act of congress of July 1, 1862, section 5, providing that the government bonds issued in favor of the Union Pacific Railroad Company are issued on condition "that said company shall pay such bonds at maturity" and that all compensation which shall be due to such company for services rendered for the government shall be applied to the payment of such bonds and interest, until the whole amount is fully paid, and under the act of July 2, 1864, providing that one half of the compensation due to such company for services performed for the government shall be retained and applied on such indebtedness, the railroad company is not required to pay the interest upon such bonds until the principal becomes due, and therefore the secretary of the treasury is not authorized to retain the whole of such compensation on the ground that matured interest on such bonds has not been paid by the railroad company. U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 91 U. S. 72, 23 L. ed. 224.

Completion of road.— Within the meaning of the act of July 1, 1862, providing that the Union Pacific railroad shall make a payment of five per cent of its net earnings after the road is completed, the road was completed when it was reported, and the president of the United States accepted it as completed for the purpose of issuing the bonds provided for by said act, although the acceptance was provisional, and security was required that all deficiencies in construction should be supplied; and the company having obtained the bonds, and agreed in regard to the security, was estopped from denying that the road was then completed. U. S. v. Central Pac. R. Co., 99 U. S. 449, 25 L. ed. 287; Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 99 U. S. 402, 25 L. ed. 274; Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 13 Ct. Cl. 401, holding that the road was completed so as to render the company liable for the five per cent when the last section was reported on and the report accepted. And the president had no authority under the agreements with the company to fix a later date as the time when the road was completed. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 13 Ct. Cl. 401.

99. See Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Bartlett, 123 Mass. 15; Rolston v. Crittenden, 120 U. S. 390, 7 S. Ct. 599, 30 L. ed. 721 [modifying 10 Fed. 254, 3 McCrary 332] (holding that where, in pursuance of an act providing for the redemption by a railroad of state bonds issued in aid thereof, and in immediate expectation of payment, another act was passed directing that all moneys in the state treasury not otherwise required should be used to redeem state bonds as soon as due, and meanwhile be invested in state or United States bonds, an acceptance of money under the former act after the latter's passage bound the state to comply with its terms, and the amount payable, in order to save the state from loss, must be computed accordingly, and also that the payment must be in amount equal to the face value of the bonds, with accrued interest, and such further amount as would enable the state to cancel the amount of its outstanding indebtedness); U. S. v. Stanford, 69 Fed. 25 [affirmed in 161 U. S. 412, 16 S. Ct. 576, 40 L. ed. 751] (holding that the proviso in the act of congress of July 1, 1862, which provides that the issuance and delivery of the bonds shall constitute a first mortgage on the Union Pacific railroad and its appurtenances, and for forfeiture to the United States on default in payment of the bonds provided that this section shall not apply to any part of the road now constructed, when construed with section 6 of such statute providing that repayment may be made "wholly or in part in the same or in other bonds, treasury notes, or other evidences of debt against the United States" does not limit the United States in enforcing repayment to the road and its appurtenances).

Under the act of congress of May 7, 1878 (20 U. S. St. at L. 58 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3570]), neither the debt of the Union Pacific Railroad Company nor that of the Central Pacific Railroad Company to the United States is paid by depositing and investing the sinking fund in the manner prescribed by such statute; and retaining in the fund the one half of the earnings for services rendered to the government by such companies respectively, which by the act of July 2, 1864, was to be paid them, does not such statute or agreement. Even though there is no express covenant by the railroad company receiving such securities to repay the amount thereof, the law may imply from the statute and its acceptance an absolute promise for repayment.[1] But the city or county cannot be compelled to accept payment before maturity,[2] nor can the railroad company make the payment in a manner not contemplated by the statute.[3] Under some statutes, if a railroad company fails to pay such securities when due, the municipality or county issuing them may take possession of the road,[4] provided it does so in the manner prescribed by the statute.[5]

IV. LOCATION OF ROAD, TERMINI, AND STATIONS.*

A. Designation and Determination of Location — 1. In General. The location of a railroad consists in the selection and adoption of the particular line or route upon which it is to be constructed.[6] A mere survey is not a loca-release the government from such payment; and although kept in the treasury, the fund is owned by those companies and they will be entitled to the securities whereof it consists which remain undisposed of when the debt chargeable upon it shall be paid. Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 99 U. S. 700, 25 L. ed. 496. And under such act, section 2 (20 U. S. St. at L. 58 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3569]), providing that "the whole amount of compensation which may from time to time be due to said several railroad companies respectively for services rendered for the government, shall be retained by the United States," etc., the government is entitled to retain payment only for services rendered over that portion of the road in the construction of which it has aided. U. S. v. Central Pac. R. Co., 118 U. S. 235, 6 S. Ct. 1038, 30 L. ed. 173; Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 16 Ct. Cl. 353.

Under the act of July 1, 1862, section 6, the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company is not liable to the United States for five per cent of the net earnings of that portion of the road west of the one hundredth meridian (U. S. v. Kansas Pac. R. Co., 99 U. S. 455, 25 L. ed. 289), and hence the Denver Pacific Railway and Telegraph Company is not liable for a debt incurred by the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company on account of subsidy bonds; and although it is bound to perform the government service stipulated by the Pacific Railroad Acts at the rates therein prescribed, and is subject to their provisions so far as they are applicable to it, no part of the compensation due it for such services can be retained by the United States (U. S. v. Denver Pac. R., etc., Co., 99 U. S. 460, 25 L. ed. 291).

Under Fla. Int. Impr. Act, Jan. 6, 1855, §§ 2, 3, 12, the per cent which the railroad company or purchasers at a foreclosure sale must pay annually to the trustees of the sinking fund therein provided for is to be calculated upon the amount of bonds still uncanceled, and not upon the whole amount of the original issue. Vose v. Florida R. Co., 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,007.

In North Carolina a railroad company may take up its bonds deposited with the public treasurer by substituting in lieu thereof coupon bonds of the state or other indebtedness of the state, except that the treasurer is not bound to accept in exchange any state bonds issued after the passage of the statute or ordinance authorizing such exchange (Raleigh, etc., Air-Line R. Co. v. Jenkins, 68 N. C. 502), nor is he bound to deliver railroad bonds in exchange for special tax bonds (Raleigh, etc., Air-Line R. Co. v. Jenkins, 68 N. C. 499).

Where a railroad company issues bonds to a city to secure the payment of city scrip of equal value that is delivered to the company at various times, and the statute authorizing the city loan provides that the payment of coupons on the scrip by the company shall require the city treasurer to cancel and surrender an equal amount of coupons on the bonds, and the company pays coupons when the scrip falls due and delivers the same to the city treasurer, this operates as a payment and cancellation of an equal amount of interest coupons on the bonds; and where upon a sale and reorganization of the road the city demands shares in the new company, it cannot make such demand for the amount which has been so paid and canceled. Lincoln Nat. Bank v. Portland, 82 Me. 99, 19 Atl. 102.

1. U. S. v. Stanford, 69 Fed. 25 [affirmed in 161 U. S. 412, 16 S. Ct. 576, 40 L. ed. 751], construing the act of congress of July 1, 1862, section 6 (12 U. S. St. at L. 489).

2. Portland v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 74 Me. 241.

3. Portland v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 74 Me. 241, construing the act of 1868, chapter 601.

4. Bath v. Miller, 51 Me. 341, construing St. (1869) c. 450, § 6.

5. Bath v. Miller, 51 Me. 341.

6. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

The successive steps to complete the location and vest title to the right of way in the railroad company ordinarily are: (1) A

*By James A. Gwyn.

tion,[7] but to constitute a valid location there must be an adoption of a particular line or survey by the company itself,[8] and until it has done so it has no right to condemn lands,[9] nor has the landowner any right to recover damages as for a taking of his lands.[10] There is, however, a valid location whenever the railroad company has adopted a particular line or survey,[11] and filed a map or profile thereof if the statute so requires,[12] although actual construction is not begun until years afterward;[13] which location invests the railroad company with title as against third persons or rival companies.[14] As against the landowner such location invests the railroad company with an inchoate title which constitutes an encumbrance upon the title of the landowner,[15] and gives the company the right to proceed to condemn the lands,[16] and the landowner a right to recover damages,[17] although its title as against the landowner is not complete until compensation has been made or secured.[18]

2. Statutory and Charter Provisions. In the absence of any constitutional or charter restrictions as to the length or direction of a railroad, a railroad company may be authorized to construct a road lying entirely in one county,[19] or town or city,[20] or having a circular or polygonal route beginning and terminating at the same place;[21] and the legislature, under a power reserved to alter or amend the charter, may, after the road has been located but before it is constructed, limit a discretion previously vested in the company as to the selection of the route and require that it be located through a certain point.[22] In so far as the location of a road is regulated by a statutory or charter provision, the company preliminary entry upon the lands of private owners for the purpose of exploration, which is made by surveyors and engineers, who run or mark out one or more experimental lines and report their work, with such maps and profiles as may be necessary, to the company. (2) The selection and adoption of a line or one of the lines so run as and for the location of the proposed road, which is done by the corporation itself and constitutes a fixed and definite location, and an appropriation of the land. (3) Payment to the owner for what is taken and the consequences of the taking or security that it shall be made when the amount due him is legally ascertained. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

7. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 210 Pa. St. 440, 60 Atl. 2; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

8. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 210 Pa. St. 440, 60 Atl. 2; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

A legal location of land by a railroad company must be a designation by a competent authority of a lien or route which is binding upon the company and which fixes its liability to the owner for damages whether construction follows or not. Arthur v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 27 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 237.

9. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

10. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 210 Pa. St. 440, 60 Atl. 2.

11. Johnston v. Callery, 184 Pa. St. 146, 39 Atl. 73; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

12. See infra, IV, D, 2.

13. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192.

14. Johnston v. Callery, 184 Pa. St. 146, 39 Atl. 73; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

Conflicting locations see infra, IV, F, 1.

15. Johnston v. Callery, 184 Pa. St. 146, 39 Atl. 73.

16. Johnston v. Callery, 184 Pa. St. 146, 39 Atl. 73.

17. Davis v. Titusville, etc., R. Co., 114 Pa. St. 308, 6 Atl. 736; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192.

18. Johnston v. Callery, 184 Pa. St. 146, 39 Atl. 73; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

19. State v. Martin, 51 Kan. 462, 33 Pac. 9.

20. Long Branch Com'rs v. West End R. Co., 29 N. J. Eq. 566.

21. State v. Martin, 51 Kan. 462, 33 Pac. 9; Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

22. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Gibson, 85 Ga. 1, 11 S. E. 135, 21 Am. St. Rep. 135, holding that a statute is not unconstitutional which requires that in case the company locates its road through a certain county within five miles of a certain town, it shall locate it through such town, particularly where the additional cost is to be paid by the town; and further that this right of the must comply therewith;[23] but indefinite terms of description as to the route or points along it, such as "at," "near," "at or near," and the like, should be so construed as to vest in the company a reasonable discretion as to the exact location,[24] and where the terminal points are fixed, indefinite terms of direction must be construed with reference thereto.[25] A provision authorizing a railroad company to construct a railroad "along" a river does not authorize the company to locate it in or upon the river,[26] but where the company is authorized to locate its road through certain towns it need not pass through such towns in the order named in the statute.[27] Under a charter provision authorizing a railroad company to construct its road on the most practicable route "passing near" a particular place, it may construct the road through such place;[28] and where two different routes are authorized the fact that a certain place is specified as a necessary intermediate point on one route does not necessarily prevent its being made an intermediate point on the other if the latter be adopted.[29] So also where a railroad company is authorized to construct a railroad between certain points, the route not being specifically designated, and to construct a lateral road from the main line to an intermediate point, it may construct the main line through such point if the location is made in good faith and does not show an abuse of discretion.[30] An authority to construct a double track road should be construed to mean two tracks essentially upon the same location to enable cars to run in opposite directions without detention or collision, and not two essentially different routes such as would be occupied by parallel roads.[31]

3. Discretion of Railroad Company.[32] Where the exact location of a railroad legislature is not affected by the existence of executory construction contracts with respect to the route already selected.

23. Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 197 Mo. 669, 95 S. W. 881, 114 Am. St. Rep. 790; Stevens v. Erie R. Co., 21 N. J. Eq. 259; Com. v. Franklin Canal Co., 21 Pa. St. 117.

Sufficient compliance with statute.— Under a statute authorizing a railroad company to locate its road "commencing at some convenient point on the Norfolk County railroad . . . thence through the southerly part of Dedham; thence through or near the westerly part of the towns of Canton and Milton," a location commencing at a point on the Norfolk County railroad in South Dedham, and not departing from that road at once, but running northerly upon it for more than two miles, and then approaching within two hundred rods of the northwesterly corner of Canton, and running near the westerly boundary of Milton, is authorized by the statute. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Midland R. Co., 1 Gray (Mass.) 340. Under a statute authorizing the construction of a railroad in a city from a given point "extending by a curved line" to another specified point, passing over certain streets by suitable bridges, if the general course of the route selected is a curve, although a small portion thereof taken by itself is straight, the course is a curved line within the meaning and application of the statute. Worcester v. Railroad Com'rs, 113 Mass. 161.

Designation of townships in articles of incorporation.— The fact that the charter of a railroad company designates the townships through which it is to pass does not limit the railroad company thereto with respect to the county in which such townships are situated, since the mention of the townships being unnecessary, and not required by statute, and not serving any useful purpose, may be treated as surplusage and as wholly immaterial. Hayes v. Toledo R., etc., Co., 26 Ohio Cir. Ct. 395 [affirmed in 70 Ohio St. 425, 72 N. E. 1165].

24. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Midland R. Co., 1 Gray (Mass.) 340; Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

Where the route is designated as passing "through or near" the westerly part of a certain town, a location within about two hundred rods of the westerly limits of such town is authorized. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Midland R. Co., 1 Gray (Mass.) 340.

25. Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909.

26. Stevens v. Erie R. Co., 21 N. J. Eq. 259, holding that the word "along" will not be construed as meaning "upon" unless the context clearly shows that it is used in the sense of "upon and along."

27. Com. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 8 Cush. (Mass.) 240.

28. Hill v. Southern R. Co., 67 S. C. 548, 46 S. E. 486.

29. State v. Wilton R. Co., 19 N. H. 521.

30. Bonaparte v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,617, Baldw. 205.

31. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 73, 26 How. Pr. 44, holding that this construction is particularly applicable where the right of granting to other persons or corporations an authority to construct parallel roads was expressly reserved to the legislature by the same statute.

32. Under statutory and charter provisions see supra, IV, A, 2.

is not prescribed by a statutory or charter provision, the location between the termini named or within the limits of the general description given rests in the discretion of the railroad company,[33] subject to any restrictions which a municipality may lawfully impose under statutory authority.[34]

4. Mode of Determination and Review. The final determination as to the location of a railroad must be the corporate act of the company itself,[35] and cannot be made by an engineer.[36] If the statute expressly provides by whom and in what manner the company shall act, the requirements must be complied with.[37] Ordinarily the location should be determined by the directors of the company,[38] but in the absence of a statute so requiring it has been held that the formal action of the directors of the company is not essential to a valid location.[39] In so far

33. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 100 Ill. 110.

Indiana.— Newcastle, etc., R. Co. v. Peru, etc., R. Co., 3 Ind. 464.

Massachusetts.— Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen 221.

Minnesota.— Southern Minnesota R. Co. v. Stoddard, 6 Minn. 150.

Montana.—State v. Meagher County Tenth Judicial Dist. Ct., 34 Mont. 535, 88 Pac. 44, 115 Am. St. Rep. 540.

New York.— Hentz v. Long Island R. Co., 13 Barb. 646.

Ohio.— Walker v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 8 Ohio 38; Baldwin v. Hillsborough, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 532, 10 West. L. J. 337.

Pennsylvania.— Frankford, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 54 Pa. St. 345, 93 Am. Dec. 708.

Tennessee.— Tennessee Cent. R. Co. v. Campbell, 109 Tenn. 655, 73 S. W. 112.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 102.

Most direct route.— Where a railroad company is authorized to construct a road between two designated points, no intermediate point being named, and different routes between said points are equally feasible, the most direct will be deemed to have been contemplated, but where there is a difference in the feasibility of routes, a reasonable discretion must be allowed in the selection of the one to be followed. Newcastle, etc., R. Co. v. Peru, etc., R. Co., 3 Ind. 464.

All railroad charters which do not directly express the contrary must be taken to allow the exercise of such a discretion in the location of the route as is incident to an ordinary practical survey of the same, made with reference to the nature of the country to be passed over, and the obstacles to be encountered or avoided. Southern Minnesota R. Co. v. Stoddard, 6 Minn. 150.

Location across public lands or places.— A railroad company may, in locating its road between the points or along the route authorized, locate it across lands belonging to the state (Indiana Cent. R. Co. v. State, 3 Ind. 421); or across "public ground" under control of the legislature within an unincorporated town if not already appropriated to a particular public use or a public use with which such location would be inconsistent (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, 79 Ill. 25).

"Most expedient and advantageous" route. — Although a statute authorizes the road to be constructed between the terminal points "by such route as the said company shall deem most expedient and advantageous," this does not authorize the company in the location of the road to consult merely its own advantage but the advantage of the route as a route between the points designated must be considered. Com. v. Franklin Canal Co., 21 Pa. St. 117.

34. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 100 Ill. 110, holding, however, that the fact that a city has by statute the power to provide for the location of railroads within its limits is no limitation upon the right of the railroad company to determine the location of its road, in the absence of any provision by the city relating thereto.

35. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 210 Pa. St. 440, 60 Atl. 2; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

36. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

37. Weidenfeld v. Sugar Run R. Co., 48 Fed. 615, holding that where the statute requires the location to be made by the president and directors of the company, the duty cannot be delegated to an executive committee appointed under the by-laws to have "a general supervision of the operations and policy of the company."

38. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 210 Pa. St. 440, 60 Atl. 2; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 21 L. R. A. 220; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

39. Tennessee Cent. R. Co. v. Campbell, 109 Tenn. 655, 73 S. W. 112, holding that, in the absence of any statutory requirement that the location shall be made by the directors of the company, a valid location may be made by its president upon the recommendation and advice of its general manager and engineers. Compare Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909, holding, however, that the directors may ratify and confirm a location which has been previously selected by the president.

as the location is discretionary with the railroad company,[40] the courts will not attempt to control or interfere with the exercise of such discretion unless it is clearly shown that it has been abused,[41] nor can persons whose lands may be taken or affected by the location selected object that a different route might have been adopted,[42] unless they are authorized by statute to make such objection and have the propriety of the location selected reviewed.[43] Under a statute providing that the location selected by the railroad company shall be approved by the court upon view of a jury, the company may waive its right to select the location in the first instance and permit the jury to do so.[44]

5. Contracts as to Location.[45] A railroad company may for a valuable consideration agree to locate its road within the authorized limits upon a particular route or through a particular place, provided the contract is made in good faith in the interest of the company, and no public rights or duties are thereby violated.[46] Such contracts are not void as against public policy,[47] and may be enforced by [48] or against[49] the railroad company, provided they are entered into by the proper

40. See supra, IV, A, 3.

41. Massachusetts.— Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen 221.

New York.— Hentz v. Long Island, etc., R. Co., 13 Barb. 646.

Ohio.— Walker v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 8 Ohio 38; Baldwin v. Hillsborough, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 532, 546, 10 West. L. J. 337, 356.

Tennessee.— Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Union R. Co., 116 Tenn. 500, 95 S. W. 1019.

United States.—Bonaparte v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,617, Baldw. 205.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 106, 107.

42. State v. Meagher County, 34 Mont. 535, 88 Pac. 44, 115 Am. St. Rep. 540; Hentz v. Long Island R. Co., 13 Barb. (N. Y.) 646; Walker v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 8 Ohio 38; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Union R. Co., 116 Tenn. 500, 95 S. W. 1019.

43. Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21].

In New York a railroad company must file a map of its proposed location and give notice thereof to all owners and occupants of lands through which it passes, who may within fifteen days thereafter apply to the court for the appointment of commissioners to consider the route proposed by the railroad company and the substitute therefor proposed by the petitioner and determine which shall be adopted (Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21]; Norton v. Wallkill Valley R. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 476, 42 How. Pr. 228); the proceedings under which statute are considered in a subsequent section (see infra, IV, E, 1, b).

44. In re Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 6 Whart. (Pa.) 25, 36 Am. Dec. 202.

45. Conditions in contract for subscription to aid construction see supra, III, B, 3, c.

Conditions in conveyance of right of way see infra, V, G, 5.

Contracts as to location of stations see infra, IV, G, 2.

46. Illinois.— Pixley v. Gould, 13 Ill. App. 565.

Iowa.— Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Spofford, 41 Iowa 292.

Kentucky.—Berryman v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 14 Bush 755.

Ohio.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Ralston, 41 Ohio St. 573.

Pennsylvania.— Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Baab, 9 Watts 458, 36 Am. Dec. 132.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 105.

Construction of contract.— Where in consideration of certain grants and donations by a city a contract was entered into which recited that it was "the intention of the parties to the agreement, among other things, to secure to the city of Wheeling the practical benefits of the terminus of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, according to the provisions of said law," which law authorized the railroad company to construct branches without restriction as to location, the company having made such city the terminus of its road, is not precluded by the contract from constructing a branch connecting with another road at a point other than such city. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeling, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 40.

47. Pixley v. Gould, 13 Ill. App. 565; Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Spafford, 41 Iowa 292; Berryman v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 14 Bush (Ky.) 755; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Baab, 9 Watts (Pa.) 458, 36 Am. Dec. 132. But see Dix v. Shaver, 14 Hun (N. Y.) 392.

Validity of contracts see, generally, Contracts, 9 Cyc. 498.

48. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Spafford, 41 Iowa 292; Berryman v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 14 Bush (Ky.) 755; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Baab, 9 Watts (Pa.) 458, 36 Am. Dec. 132.

49. Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 559, 10 West. L. J. 391.

Rights on breach of agreement.— If a railroad company fails to comply with the condition of a contract with a city requiring it to make the city the end of a division, the city may recover whatever is paid as a consideration for such condition. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Ft. Scott, 15 Kan. 435.

authorities.[50] Such a contract is, however, void if made by officers, agents, or directors of the company for their individual benefit,[51] and this without regard to the propriety of the route agreed upon or the effect of its selection upon the company or the public.[52] Where a railroad company has by a valid contract bound itself to a particular location it cannot subsequently change the same,[53] but the mere adoption of a particular route through a city after a controversy in respect thereto does not amount to a contract which will preclude the railroad company from subsequently, by legislative authority, changing the location,[54] nor will a specific contract for a particular location prevent the railroad company from subsequently exercising a power conferred upon it to make a shorter and cheaper route, provided the road already located pursuant to the contract is continued in use with proper facilities for traffic.[55]

6. Remedies and Proceedings. Where a railroad company is expressly required by a statutory or charter provision to locate its road so as to pass through a particular town or city, the citizens of such place have a special interest in the requirement which entitles them to sue in equity to compel compliance therewith.[56] The construction of a railroad upon an unauthorized location may also be enjoined at the suit of a person who will be specially injured thereby;[57] but if the railroad has already been constructed the court will not ordinarily enjoin the continued operation of trains thereon, which would result in inconvenience to the public, but will leave plaintiff to his action at law.[58] So also if the location of the road is not specifically designated by the statute or charter the company will not be enjoined at the suit of a private landowner from constructing its road upon the route selected unless it is clearly shown that the discretion of the company has been abused, but plaintiff will be left to his action at law.[59] The fact that a railroad company has violated a provision of its charter as to the location of its road cannot be set up by a subscriber to stock as a defense in an action by the company to recover the amount of the subscription.[60]

B. Parallel, Lateral, and Branch Roads — 1. Parallel Roads. The mere grant of a right to construct a railroad between certain points does not prevent the state from subsequently authorizing the construction of another parallel and competing line,[61] and no monopoly will be presumed to have been intended in the enactment of a general law for the formation of railroad companies.[62] So also where the statutes require as a condition precedent to the con-

50. Central Mills Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 127 Mass. 537, holding that an agreement as to the location of a railroad made by an officer or agent who was not authorized to make the same and without the knowledge or assent of the directors is not binding upon the company.

51. Linder v. Carpenter, 62 Ill. 309; Bestor v. Wathen, 60 Ill. 138; Holladay v. Davis, 5 Oreg. 40; Woodstock Iron Co. v. Richmond, etc., Extension Co., 129 U. S. 643, 9 S. Ct. 402, 32 L. ed. 819.

52. Bestor v. Wathen, 60 Ill. 138.

53. Chapman v. Mad River R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 559, 10 West. L. J. 391.

54. Milnor v. New Jersey R. Co., 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,620, 3 Wall. appendix 782, 16 L. ed. appendix 1.

55. Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 565, 10 West. L. J. 399.

56. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Gibson, 85 Ga. 1, 11 S. E. 442, 21 Am. St. Rep. 135.

57. Stevens v. Erie R. Co., 21 N. J. Eq. 259; Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 373.

58. Stevens v. Erie R. Co., 21 N. J. Eq. 259.

59. Bonaparte v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,617, Baldw. 205.

60. Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Cross, 20 Ark. 443, where the court said that the state might proceed to forfeit the franchises or the stock-holder might sue to enjoin the company from violating the provisions as to the route, or if the charter was amended so as to make a material change in the route he might be released from his subscription, but that a violation by the company of its charter could not be shown in defense to a collateral suit.

61. East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. East St. Louis Union R. Co., 108 Ill. 265; Lafayette Plankroad Co. v. New Albany, etc., R. Co., 13 Ind. 90, 74 Am. Dec. 246.

Neither company can claim damages merely upon the ground that the roads run parallel and mutually diminish the business of each other. Lafayette Plankroad Co. v. New Albany, etc., R. Co., 13 Ind. 90, 74 Am. Dec. 246.

62. East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. East St. Louis Union R. Co., 108 Ill. 265.

Exclusive and conflicting grants see supra, II, I, 2.

struction of a railroad that the railroad commissioners shall determine that the public convenience and necessity require it, the mere fact that it will be parallel to another railroad is not sufficient ground for refusing a certificate to this effect.[63] One railroad company may also, in the absence of any legislation to the contrary, be authorized to build a second railroad parallel with its own road.[64] In some cases the construction of parallel railroads within a certain distance of an existing railroad is prohibited by the charter of the first company,[65] or a general statute,[66] in which case a railroad company which has already constructed or located its road may enjoin another company from constructing a road within the limits prohibited by the statute;[67] but exclusive grants of this character will be construed strictly and not extended further than their terms require.[68]

2. Lateral or Branch Roads — a. In General.[69] While a railroad company has an implied authority to construct such switches, turnouts, and sidings as may be necessary for the proper operation of the road and conduct of its business,[70] it cannot construct lateral or branch roads without legislative authority.[71]

63. Matter of Rochester, etc., Traction Co., 118 N. Y. App. Div. 521, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 1112; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 53 N. Y. App. Div. 61, 65 N. Y. Suppl. 597 [affirmed in 164 N. Y. 572, 58 N. E. 1091].

64. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Union R. Co., 116 Tenn. 500, 95 S. W. 1019.

65. Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 96 Ga. 562, 23 S. E. 501; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Michigan Southern R. Co., 4 Mich. 362, each, however, holding that the proposed road was not within the prohibition of the particular charter provision.

66. Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909. See also Macon, etc., R. Co., v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 86 Ga. 83, 13 S. E. 57.

The Georgia statute (Civ. Code, § 2176) provides that if a railroad is "already constructed or route selected and chartered" between certain points "the general direction and location" of a new railroad between such points shall be "at least ten miles from the railroad already constructed or laid out," except within ten miles from either terminus (Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909); but the statute applies only to railroads between the same terminal points and does not prevent the construction of a railroad parallel with a branch of another railroad and touching only one terminus of such branch (Hawkinsville, etc., R. Co. v. Waycross Air-Line R. Co., 114 Ga. 239, 39 S. E. 844); and it applies only to railroads chartered by the state to act as common carriers, and does not prevent a purely private corporation, such as a lumber company, from constructing a road upon its own land, for its own exclusive use, parallel with an existing railroad (Waycross Air-Line R. Co. v. Southern Pine Co., 111 Ga. 233, 36 S. E. 641); nor does the statute prevent the construction of a parallel road which is only about three miles in length, within ten miles of a railroad already constructed (Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., supra).

67. Georgia Northern R. Co. v. Tifton, etc., R. Co., 109 Ga. 762, 35 S. E. 104.

68. Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 96 Ga. 562, 23 S. E. 501; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Michigan Southern R. Co., 4 Mich. 362. See also Florida, etc., R. Co. v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 10 Fla. 145.

A statute providing that no railroad company shall have power to construct a railroad "parallel to the line" of a certain railroad will be construed as applying only to a road which is substantially parallel with the entire line of the railroad named and will not prevent the construction of a railroad between different points which may run parallel with only a part of such line. Wheelwright v. Com., 103 Va. 512, 49 S. E. 647.

69. Time for construction see infra, VI, A, 3, b.

70. See infra, VI, A, 2, b.

71. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 149 Ill. 272, 37 N. E. 91; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wiltse, 116 Ill. 449, 6 N. E. 49; Baltimore, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Union R. Co., 35 Md. 224, 6 Am. St. Rep. 397; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa. Dist. 73; Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211.

Statutes not authorizing construction.—A provision in the charter of a railroad company which authorizes "all railroad companies upon equal terms, to run their locomotives and cars over the tracks of" the railroad chartered does not authorize such company to construct lateral railroads in every direction connecting with other railroads (Baltimore, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Union R. Co., 35 Md. 224, 5 Am. St. Rep. 397); and a statute authorizing railroad, canal, and slack water navigation companies to straighten, widen, and otherwise improve their lines, and among other things to "make new feeders," does not authorize a railroad company to build branch railroads, as the words "new feeders" apply to canal companies only (Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa. Dist. 73).

The fact that a company might have constructed its road through a certain place between its termini does not authorize it after it has located and constructed its line so as to pass more than a mile therefrom, to construct a branch from the road so located to such place. Brigham v. Agricultural Branch R. Co., 1 Allen (Mass.) 316.

Such authority is frequently granted by charter or general statutory provisions,[72] but when so granted, any conditions precedent to the exercise of the right must be complied with,[73] and any limitation as to the length, character, or location of such roads must be observed.[74] Except, however, in so far as expressly restricted, the railroad company has a broad discretion in determining not only the necessity

Incorporation of separate company.—Where a railroad company has no authority to condemn a right of way for a lateral line, there is no fraud upon landowners in its organizing another company of its own stock-holders with such authority, although it is the intention that the road when completed shall be leased to the parent company. Lower v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 59 Iowa 563, 13 N. W. 718.

72. Illinois.— Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273.

Maryland.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326.

Missouri.— Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315].

Pennsylvania.— Volmer's Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 166, 8 Atl. 223 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301].

Virginia.— Blanton v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 86 Va. 618, 10 S. E. 925.

West Virginia.— Wheeling Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. Camden Consol. Oil Co., 35 W. Va. 205, 13 S. E. 369.

Canada.— Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. James Bay R. Co., 36 Can. Sup. Ct. 42.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 110.

Construction of statutes.— The Florida Internal Improvement Act, providing that no branch road from a certain railroad shall be made until a certain part of the main line is complete between two certain places, does not prohibit the construction of a branch road before the entire line of the main road is completed (Florida, etc., R. Co. v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 10 Fla. 145); and where a charter authorized a railroad company to maintain and operate a railroad already completed to Morgan City, and to continue the road from such place to Texas, and the power was given to construct such branch roads as the directors might deem necessary, the power to construct branch roads applies not only to the extension authorized, but also to the road already constructed. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. Barton, 51 La. Ann. 1338, 36 So. 271.

Right of purchasing company.— Where a railroad company which is authorized by its charter to construct lateral or branch roads purchases another railroad under a statute providing that the purchasing company shall hold the same under the provisions of its own act of incorporation, the purchasing company may construct lateral or branch roads from the line purchased. Duncan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 7 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 551.

Subsequent impairment of right.— Where a railroad company is authorized by its charter to construct lateral or branch roads without restriction, and there is no power reserved to alter or repeal the charter, a subsequent statute prohibiting the construction of any railroad within a certain territory which is not required by the public interest generally, and therefore not within the police power, is unconstitutional. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326.

73. Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211, where the statute provided that before building the branch road the company should by resolution of its directors, to be entered in the record of its proceedings, designate the route of such branch, and file a certified copy of such record in the office of the secretary of state.

But a condition incident to "extending" a railroad need not be complied with in order to authorize the construction of a branch road under a different statute which does not impose such condition. Vollmer v. Schuylkill River, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301 [affirmed in 115 Pa. St. 166, 8 Atl. 223].

Finding as to public convenience and necessity.— In Connecticut the statute requires as a condition to the construction of a branch road that it shall first be found by a judge of the superior court that the public convenience and necessity requires it (Shepaug Voting Trust Cases, 60 Conn. 553, 24 Atl. 32); but the statute does not apply to or abridge any special franchises previously granted for the construction of branch roads (Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. Wagner, 73 Conn. 506, 48 Atl. 218).

Necessity for resolution of stock-holders.— Under the Virginia statute of 1897–1898, providing that the directors of a railway company may construct branch roads not exceeding five miles each way in length, and under a resolution adopted in general meeting by a two-thirds vote of the stock-holders, may construct branch roads not exceeding twenty miles in length, the requirement to construct by resolution has no application where the branch road does not exceed five miles in length. Zircle v. Southern R. Co., 102 Va. 17, 45 S. E. 802, 102 Am. St. Rep. 805.

In Alabama the statute authorizes the construction of branch roads, but their construction must be first ordered by a resolution of the board of directors and then approved by a majority in value of the stock-holders. Arrington v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 434, 11 So. 7.

74. Works v. Junction R. Co., 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,046, 5 McLean 425, holding that under an authority "to construct branched roads from the main route, to other towns or places in the several counties through which the road might pass," the entire branch must be within the limits of one county.

for the proposed branch, but also such matters as its location, length, direction, and termini,[75] which, unless manifestly abused, will not be interfered with by the courts,[76] or restrained at the instance of persons whose lands may be taken or affected thereby.[77] So where a railroad company is authorized to construct lateral or branch roads, it is, except in so far as restricted by statute, invested with the same power and authority as it possesses and can exercise in the construction of its main line,[78] including the power to acquire and condemn lands,[79] and subject to the same rules in regard to the occupation or use of streets and highways.[80] A railroad company authorized to construct a branch road may begin at a point remote from the main line,[81] provided it is the bona fide intention of the railroad company to continue it to a connection with the main line;[82] but a company authorized to construct a main line and certain branches cannot abandon the construction of the main line and retain the right to construct the branches,[83] and if authorized to construct only a particular branch it cannot construct any other.[84] A statute authorizing railroad companies to extend their lines upon certain conditions does not repeal or affect a previous statute authorizing the construction of branch roads.[85] Under the lateral railroad statutes of Pennsylvania private owners of lands, mills, quarries, mines, or lime-kilns, in the vicinity of any railroad, canal or slack water navigation are authorized to construct lateral railroads,[86] and to acquire wharves and landings where such roads connect with a canal or other navigation;[87] but such roads are only authorized in connection with a public improvement, railroad, or highway of some 75. Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326; Price v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. St. 81, 58 Atl. 137; Volmer's Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 166, 8 Atl. 223 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301]; McAboy's Appeal, 107 Pa. St. 548; Pittsburgh v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 48 Pa. St. 355; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeling, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 40.

76. Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273; Price v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. St. 81, 58 Atl. 137; Pittsburgh v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 48 Pa. St. 355; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa. Dist. 73.

So long as the directors act in good faith in determining whether the construction of a branch line is advisable, their determination is conclusive and not subject to review by the court. Ulmer v. Lime Rock R. Co., 98 Me. 579, 57 Atl. 1001, 66 L. R. A. 387.

77. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326; Price v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 209 Pa. St. 81, 58 Atl. 137; Rudolph v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 166 Pa. St. 430, 31 Atl. 131; Volmer's Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 166, 8 Atl. 223 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301]; French v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 13 Phila. (Pa.) 187.

Who may object.— Where a railroad company is expressly authorized to construct such branches "as it may deem necessary to increase its business and accommodate the trade and travel of the public," if the branch is not constructed in good faith for the purposes specified, the state, and not the individual over whose lands it is constructed, is the proper party to complain. Rudolph v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 166 Pa. St. 430, 31 Atl. 131.

If a railroad company has no right to construct a branch road, its construction may be enjoined at the suit of a person whose lands will be taken or injured thereby (Goelet v. Metropolitan Transit Co., 48 Hun (N. Y.) 520, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 74); or of a turnpike company whose road will be crossed by the proposed branch (Baltimore, etc., Turnpike Co. v. Union R. Co., 35 Md. 224, 6 Am. Rep. 397).

78. Pittsburgh v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 48 Pa. St. 355.

79. Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273; French v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 13 Phila. (Pa.) 187.

Condemnation of property for lateral or branch roads see EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 500.

80. McAboy's Appeal, 107 Pa. St. 548.

81. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Petty, 63 Ark. 94, 37 S. W. 300.

82. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Petty, 57 Ark. 359, 21 S. W. 884, 20 L. R. A. 434.

83. Goelet v. Metropolitan Transit Co., 48 Hun (N. Y.) 520, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 74.

84. Boca, etc., R. Co. v. Sierra Valleys R. Co., 2 Cal. App. 546, 84 Pac. 298; Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211.

85. Volmer's Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 166, 8 Atl. 223 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301].

86. Waddell's Appeal, 84 Pa. St. 90; Hays v. Risher, 32 Pa. St. 169; Shoenberger v. Mulhollan, 8 Pa. St. 134; Harvey v. Lloyd, 3 Pa. St. 331.

87. Hays v. Briggs, 74 Pa. St. 373 [reversing 3 Pittsb. 504], holding, however, that the "landing" contemplated by the statute is a place for loading and unloading boats, and not a harbor for them whether loaded or empty, and further, that under the statute a description.[88] There is a similar English statute authorizing the construction of railroads leading to mines.[89] A contract on the part of a railroad company to build a branch or spur track from its main line to a mill or other private enterprise is not contrary to public policy.[90]

b. What Constitutes Lateral or Branch Road. A lateral railroad is an offshoot from a main line [91] proceeding from some point on such line between its termini,[92] and is but another name for a branch road.[93] The determination as to what is a branch road does not depend upon either its length or direction.[94] but the term implies the existence of a main line [95] and that the branch shall be constructed from some point thereon,[96] although a lateral or branch road may be constructed from a point on the main line in the same general direction as the main line.[97] So also a branch road may be constructed from one of the terminal points of the main line,[98] and extend in the same general direction so as to constitute in effect an extension thereof; [99] and the character of the road as a lateral or branch road is not affected by the fact that it will connect with the road of another company,[1] or with another road or branch of the same com-landing cannot be allotted to a person desiring to build a lateral railroad where the owner in good faith requires the land for his own use.

88. Waddell's Appeal, 84 Pa. St. 90; Keeling v. Griffin, 56 Pa. St. 305.

89. Bishop v. North, 12 L. J. Exch. 362, 11 M. & W. 418, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 459, holding that under a statute authorizing the "owners or proprietors of any mines of coal" within certain parishes to make railways to convey their coals to a canal over the lands of any person or persons upon paying or tendering satisfaction for the damage occasioned, this power is not limited to persons who were proprietors at the time of the passage of the act but extends to other persons who have become so subsequently, and that such owners or proprietors are empowered to make railroads to be traversed by locomotive engines.

90. Butler v. Tifton, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 817, 49 S. E. 763.

Contract to maintain branch.— Where a branch road is constructed to a mine under a contract providing that the mine owner shall construct the substructure and the railroad company "maintain and operate" the branch, if a bridge constituting a part of such substructure is washed away, it is the duty of the railroad company, under its contract to "maintain," to reconstruct it, although under the contract it will be the property of the mine owner. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. U. S. Iron Co., 118 Tenn. 194, 101 S. W. 414.

91. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326; Blanton v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 86 Va. 618, 10 S. E. 925.

92. Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326.

93. Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273. But see Florida, etc., R. Co. v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 10 Fla. 145.

94. McAboy's Appeal, 107 Pa. St. 548; Vollmer v. Schuylkill River East Side R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301 [affirmed in 115 Pa. St. 166, 8 Atl. 223].

An elevated track running from the original terminus of a railroad in a city, along a wharf, is a branch road. McAboy's Appeal, 107 Pa. St. 548.

A road running at right angles from the main line at an intermediate point between its termini is neither a lateral road nor an extension, but a branch road. Florida, etc., R. Co. v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co., 10 Fla. 145.

95. Goelet v. Metropolitan Transit Co., 48 Hun (N. Y.) 520, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 74; Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211; Hodder v. Kentucky, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. 793.

96. Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211.

A disconnected road is an independent line and not a branch. A branch is an offshoot of the trunk, and cannot exist independently of it. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Petty, 57 Ark. 359, 21 S. W. 884, 20 L. R. A. 434.

97. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315]; Blanton v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 86 Va. 618, 10 S. E. 925.

98. McAboy's Appeal, 107 Pa. St. 548; Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155; Delabole Slate Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 6 North Am. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 337; Howard County v. Boonville Cent. Nat. Bank, 108 U. S. 314, 2 S. Ct. 689, 27 L. ed. 738.

99. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315]; McAboy's Appeal, 107 Pa. St. 548; Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155.

1. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326; Blanton v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 86 Va. 618, 10 S. E. 925.

A branch need not run from a terminus of the main line when constructed to form a connection with another railroad. Baltimore etc., R. Co. v. Wheeling, 13 Gratt. (Va.) 40.

Under the New Jersey statute which expressly authorizes the construction of a branch road for the purpose of forming a connection with another road, the branch pany,[2] or a union depot in the same city as one of its original termini.[3] A branch road may also, in the absence of any provision to the contrary, be constructed which is of greater length than the main line,[4] or a branch may be constructed from a branch, or two branches have a common stem leading to the main line, provided neither exceeds the length prescribed by statute from such main line.[5]

C. Termini, Connections, and Extensions — 1. Termini — a. In General. In the absence of any constitutional or statutory restrictions a railroad company may be authorized to construct a railroad having both of its termini in the same town, city, or village.[6] If the statute or charter under which a railroad is constructed specifies its termini, such provision must be complied with;[7] but where the legislature does not undertake definitely to fix the termini or one of the termini of a railroad, a reasonable discretion should be allowed the company as to the location,[8] which, unless clearly abused, will not be interfered with.[9] This rule applies where the terminus is designated by terms of indefinite description such as "at," "near," and the like,[10] or as being on a state or county line without fixing the may be constructed in the form of a loop, leaving the main line on one side of the connection and returning to it on the other. Greenville, etc., R. Co. v. Grey, 62 N. J. Eq. 768, 48 Atl. 568 [reversing 59 N. J. Eq. 372, 46 Atl. 638].

2. Glick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 19 D. C. 412; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Waters, 105 Md. 396, 66 Atl. 685, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 326.

3. State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 3 Mo. App. 180.

4. Volmer's Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 166, 8 Atl. 223 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 301].

5. Wheeling Bridge, etc., Co. v. Camden Consolidated Oil Co., 35 W. Va. 205, 13 S. E. 369.

6. National Docks R. Co. v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 32 N. J. Eq. 755.

Under a statutory provision that the termini of the road shall be stated in the charter or articles of incorporation, it is not required that the termini shall be in different towns, cities, or villages, and a railroad company may be authorized to construct a road for the purpose of forming a connection between two other roads having both of its termini in the same town (Long Branch Com'rs v. West End R. Co., 29 N. J. Eq. 566); or to construct a road in a circular form having both of its termini in the same place (Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155); and under a statute authorizing a railroad company to construct and operate a road between the points named in the articles of incorporation "commencing at or within, and extending to or into any city, village, town, or place named as a terminus," a road may be constructed having both of its terminal points within the same city (State v. Union Terminal R. Co., 72 Ohio St. 455, 74 N. E. 642).

7. Com. v. Franklin Canal Co., 21 Pa. St. 117; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Hall, 91 U. S. 343, 23 L. ed. 428 [affirming 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,601, 4 Dill. 479].

Terminus on state line bounded by river.— Where the eastern terminus of a railroad is designated as a point "on the western boundary" of a certain state, and the legal boundary of the state is the mid-channel of a river between the state named and another state, the terminus must be on the shore of the river in the state named. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Hall, 91 U. S. 343, 23 L. ed. 428 [affirming 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,601, 4 Dill. 479].

8. Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221; Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, 100 Wis. 39, 75 N. W. 1079.

9. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315; Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221; Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, 100 Wis. 39, 75 N. W. 1079.

10. Georgia.— Bridwell v. Gate City Terminal Co., 127 Ga. 520, 56 S. E. 624, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 909; Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 43 S. E. 315.

Massachusetts.— Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen 221.

North Carolina.— Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741.

Pennsylvania.— Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137.

Tennessee.— Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 113.

Applications of rule.— Where a company is authorized to construct a road from a certain point to "a point on" a certain river "in or near" a certain city, the location of its terminus at a point on the river named and about three miles from the city named is authorized. Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 94 Va. 291, 26 S. E. 943. A railroad company authorized to construct a road from a point "at or near" its present terminus may construct it by starting at a point two thousand four hundred and seventy-five feet from such terminus, where the existing conditions indicate that it thereby exercises a sound judgment, and such point need not be in any particular direction from the present terminus of the road. Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221. Where one terminus is designated as such a point on another railroad "at" a certain city "as shall be found most practicable," particular point.[11] Where a railroad company is authorized to construct a road to one or the other of two cities named, it may select either of such places as its terminus.[12]

b. Construction Into Cities, Towns, and Villages. An authority to construct a railroad "to" or "from" a certain city, town, or village is not restricted to the corporate limits;[13] but authorizes the company to construct its road from a point within,[14] or to a point within the place named as a terminus,[15] particularly where the company is authorized by its charter to acquire property within such place;[16] and in the absence of any restriction, express or implied, the company may, so the location of the terminus at a point on such railroad one thousand yards outside of the city limits and at the most practicable point is thereby authorized. Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741. Where the terminus of a railroad is designated by its charter as "a point on" a certain railroad, "at or near" a certain town, the selection of a point on the railroad one and one-half miles from the town is authorized. Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137. Where the westerly terminus of a tunnel was defined as being on the "western shore of the Hudson River, and within or near Jersey City or Hoboken," the word "shore" is not used in its strictest sense as meaning land between the limits of high and low water, but in the popular sense as that Jersey City is built upon the western shore of the Hudson river. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Hudson Tunnel R. Co., 38 N. J. L. 548. A charter provision authorizing a company to construct a railroad "to connect with any railroad constructed or to be constructed at any point on the northern boundary of Erie or Warren county" grants power to terminate the road at any point on the boundary the company may select, and does not limit the terminus to another railroad. Com. v. Cross Cut R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 62. Under a statute authorizing the construction of a railroad "beginning at a point on Lake Superior, in the state of Minnesota or Wisconsin" westward to "some point on Puget Sound," the point on Lake Superior at which the company is to start and which is to be the eastern terminus is left to the discretion of the company, and is not necessarily confined to a single point, and the company having touched at a point on Lake Superior does not transcend its powers by selecting its eastern terminus at another point further east. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, 100 Wis. 39, 75 N. W. 1079. The words "at or near McGee station," when used in a railroad charter as a designation of one terminus of the railroad, should be held to mean a locality and not as having reference to a fixed and definite point. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

11. Com. v. Cross Cut R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 62.

12. Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 94 Va. 291, 26 S. E. 943.

13. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Union Springs, etc., R. Co., 144 Ala. 639, 39 So. 473, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 144; Moses v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 21 Ill. 516; Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596; Rio Grande R. Co. v. Brownsville, 45 Tex. 88. Contra, North Eastern R. Co. v. Payne, 8 Rich. (S. C.) 177.

In Pennsylvania railroad companies are expressly authorized by statute to extend their roads into any city, town, or village named in their charters as a terminal point, subject to the consent of the municipal authorities of incorporated cities as to the use of the streets, lanes, and alleys thereof. Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155.

14. Illinois.— McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 589.

Pennsylvania.— Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155.

Tennessee.— Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head 596.

United States.— Colorado, Eastern R. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 41 Fed. 293.

Canada.— In re Bronson, 1 Ont. 415.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 114.

Contra.— North Eastern R. Co. v. Payne, 8 Rich. (S. C.) 177.

A difference in phraseology with regard to the different termini as "from" one city to "any point in" another city does not affect the application of the rule, and the company may construct its road from a point within the first city. McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.

15. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Union Springs, etc., R. Co., 144 Ala. 639, 39 So. 473, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 144; Waycross Air-Line R. Co. v. Offerman, etc., R. Co., 109 Ga. 827, 35 S. E. 275; Moses v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 21 Ill. 516; Rio Grande R. Co. v. Brownsville, 45 Tex. 88.

Occupancy of streets and public places.— While the legislature may authorize the construction and operation of a railroad through a city or town and upon its streets, even without the consent of the municipality, such authority must be conferred expressly or by necessary implication, and an authority to construct its road "to" a town or city does not authorize it arbitrarily to appropriate and occupy any street or public place which it may choose without regard to the injury or inconvenience which may result to the public or to private individuals. Ruttles v. Covington, 10 S. W. 644, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 766.

16. Moses v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 21 Ill. 516.

far as the state is concerned, fix its terminus at any point within such place.[17] A railroad company may also construct its road into a certain place where the charter designates its terminus as being "at," [18] or "at or near" such place; [19] and where a statute authorizes the construction of a railroad "between" two places, such places are not excluded and the road may be constructed into them.[20] Under a charter authorizing the construction of a railroad "to" or "from" a certain town or city, the company is not, however, obliged to construct its road into such place but may stop at the corporate limits,[21] or if it goes within the corporate limits is not obliged to establish its terminal at any particular point within such limits;[22] but when authorized to construct its road from a certain place it cannot stop at a point neither on nor within but entirely outside of the corporate limits.[23]

2. CONNECTIONS — a. With Other Railroads.[24] Where a railroad company is authorized to construct its road so as to connect with another railroad,[25] if the

17. Georgia.— Waycross Air-Line R. Co. v. Offerman, etc., R. Co., 109 Ga. 827, 35 S. E. 275.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 589.

Missouri.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hannibal Union Depot Co., 125 Mo. 82, 28 S. W. 483.

Pennsylvania.— Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155.

United States.— Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 41 Fed. 293.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 114.

Crossing other railroad.—A railroad company authorized to cross any other railroad "at any point in its route" may cross another railroad to reach the point in a city selected by it as its terminal point, although it might have selected a different terminal in the city which would not have necessitated a crossing. Waycross Air-Line R. Co. v. Offerman, etc., R. Co., 109 Ga. 827, 35 S. E. 275.

Where a railroad is constructed by the state under a statute providing for its construction from one city to another, the fund commission having control of its construction may, in the absence of any express restriction, select the point within such city for the terminus of the road, and the acceptance of a donation of certain lots by the state will not bind it to locate the terminal thereon. Taylor v. Whitney, 5 Ill. 61.

18. Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 373.

19. Mohawk Bridge Co. v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 6 Paige (N. Y.) 554; Ottawa v. Canada Atlantic R. Co., 33 Can. Sup. Ct. 376 [affirming 4 Ont. L. Rep. 56, 1 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 349 (affirming 2 Ont. L. Rep. 336)].

20. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 31 N. J. L. 205.

21. People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (Ill. 1886) 5 N. E. 379. Compare Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

22. People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (Ill. 1886) 5 N. E. 379.

Town and village of same name.— Where a railroad company is authorized to construct its road "from Amherst" to a certain point, without specifying the village of Amherst, it may locate its terminus at any point within the town and outside of the village of Amherst. Hastings v. Amherst, etc., R. Co., 9 Cush. (Mass.) 596.

23. Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471, holding further that the location must be according to the corporate limits as they existed at the time of the act of incorporation, and that a construction from a point within the corporate limits as subsequently extended, which is entirely outside of the original limits as existing at the time of the act of incorporation, is not a compliance with the charter.

24. Statutory provisions in regard to connections and interchange of traffic and facilities for transfers see infra, X, B, 3, d.

25. See the cases cited infra, this note and notes 26–32.

Construction of statute.— Where by one section of the charter a railroad company is authorized to construct and use a railroad along a certain line "and to connect their railroad" with another, and by another section is empowered to purchase a railroad already laid on said line, the privilege to connect is given to "their railroad," and it is immaterial whether it is purchased or built. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Erie, 27 Pa. St. 380. Where a statute authorizes a company to construct a railroad to connect with any railroad constructed or to be constructed at any point on the northern boundary of certain counties, the gauge of "said road" not to exceed a certain width, the reference is to the company incorporated and not to the road with which it may connect. Com. v. Cross Cut R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 62. Where a railroad company is authorized to connect its railroad with another railroad "legally authorized to come within the limits of Erie," any railroad actually located within such limits is legal within the meaning of the act so long as it is not removed by law, and its legal title to be where it is cannot be inquired into collaterally in a suit by the railroad company to enjoin the authorities of the municipality from interfering with such connection. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Erie, 27 Pa. St. 380.

Abandonment of line designated as terminus.—A railroad company has a right to carry on its railroad according to the plan laid statute or charter does not definitely specify the point of connection, a reasonable discretion should be allowed the company as to its selection,[26] which unless manifestly abused will not be interfered with,[27] as where the point of connection is indefinitely designated as "at" or "at or near" a certain place.[28] Under a general authority to connect with another railroad the connection need not be made in a city, town, or village;[29] but on the contrary an authority to connect with another railroad does not in the absence of express provision authorize a railroad company to construct its road through an incorporated city without the consent of the municipal authorities for the purpose of forming such a connection;[30] and a statute merely authorizing a municipality to permit connections between railroad companies within its limits merely invests it with a discretionary power and does not require that it should do so.[31] Where a railroad company is authorized to extend its road to any point in a certain county and to connect with any other railroad, if such county is on the border line of the state the company may connect with a road of another state at the state line.[32]

b. With Private Tracks or Switches.[33] In the absence of statute or agreement the owners of adjacent property have no right to connect private tracks or switches with a railroad without the consent of the railroad company.[34] Where the right to such a connection is secured by contract, the rights of the parties depend upon a proper construction of the agreement,[35] which must also be deemed to have been made subject to any existing statutes under which the company may be required to change or elevate the grades of its tracks in the interest of public safety or to abolish grade crossings,[36] and a personal agreement between a railroad company and a landowner, permitting such a connection, does not pass to a lessee of the property.[37] Under the constitutional and statutory provisions in some states, however, the owners of lands, mills, warehouses, mines, and the like have an absolute right to connect private tracks or switches with down in its act, although a junction contemplated in the procuring of such act may be frustrated by the abandonment of the line with which it was the original intention of the company to unite. Clarence R. Co. v. Great North. of England, etc., R. Co., 6 Jur. 269, 2 R. & Can. Cas. 763.

26. Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741; Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137.

27. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315; Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137.

28. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315; Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137.

Application of rule.—Authority to connect with another railroad "at" a certain city does not require that the connection should be made at a point within the city, but authorizes a connection at a point one thousand yards beyond the city limits (Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741); and where a railroad company is authorized to connect with another railroad "at or near" a certain town, the connection may be made at a point one and one-half miles from such town (Parke's Appeal, 64 Pa. St. 137).

29. Long Branch Com'rs v. West End R. Co., 29 N. J. Eq. 566.

30. Augusta v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 74 Ga. 658.

31. Augusta v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 74 Ga. 658.

32. Com. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 26.

33. Duty to maintain and operate see infra, X, A, 1, c.

34. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Ill. 436. See also Vincent v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Ill. 33; Lancashire Brick, etc., Co. v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., [1902] 1 K. B. 651, 71 L. J. K. B. 431, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 176, 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 138, 18 T. L. R. 330.

Effect of custom.—Where it is sought to compel a railroad company to permit an individual to connect side-tracks with the road on the ground of an alleged custom among companies whose lines concentrate at the place indicated, the custom must be clearly shown to have existed so long as to have the force of law. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Ill. 436.

The mere occupancy and use of a switch connecting with a railroad for a period of seventeen years does not amount to an irrevocable license to use it for all time without compensation or control regardless of the public duties and business necessities of the company. Heyl v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 51 Pa. St. 469 [affirming 6 Phila. 42].

35. Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 28 N. J. Eq. 100 [affirmed in 28 N. J. Eq. 593].

36. Swift v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 66 N. J. L. 34, 57 Atl. 456.

37. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Ill. 436.

railroads in their vicinity,[38] which right cannot be defeated by any contract between the railroad company and a third party.[39]

3. Extensions.[40] A railroad company cannot, without legislative authority, extend its road beyond the termini originally authorized,[41] but the legislature may authorize it to do so,[42] and to construct an extension longer than the original

38. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Suffern, 129 Ill. 274, 21 N. E. 824 [affirming 27 Ill. App. 404].

Pennsylvania.— Reeser v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 136, 64 Atl. 376; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 95 Pa. St. 426.

Wisconsin.— Bartlett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Wis. 335, 71 N. W. 598.

United States.— Olanta Coal Min. Co. v. Beech Creek R. Co., 144 Fed. 150.

England.— See Bell v. Midland R. Co., 10 C. B. N. S. 287, 7 Jur. N. S. 273, 30 L. J. C. P. 273, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 293, 9 Wkly. Rep. 612, 100 E. C. L. 287; Bell v. Midland R. Co., 3 De G. & J. 673, 60 Eng. Ch. 673, 44 Eng. Reprint 1429.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 118.

Obstruction of highway.—A statute providing that a railroad company shall not prevent any adjacent landowner from constructing a lateral road and connecting it with the railroad in such manner as not to interfere with its use does not authorize such an adjacent owner to lay railroad tracks upon a public highway. Com. v. Greyhill, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 514.

Expense of interlocking device.— Where a landowner has a statutory right to a switch connection with a railroad, and the switch has been constructed and the connection made, if the railroad subsequently makes an alteration in its line and is required to put in an interlocking device at the point of connection, it must do so at its own expense and permit the owner of the switch to continue to use it as altered. Woodruff v. Brecon, etc., R. Co., 28 Ch. D. 190, 54 L. J. Ch. 620, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 69, 33 Wkly. Rep. 125.

Compelling company to restore connection. — Where a railway company has wrongfully taken up and removed the rails forming a connection between its line and a siding belonging to plaintiff, the company may be compelled by mandatory injunction at its own expense to restore the connection. Portway v. Colne Valley, etc., R. Co., 7 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 102.

Under the English statutes it is held that the right given by section 76 of the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act of 1845 to the owner of lands adjoining a railway, to lay down collateral branches of railway and require the railway company to connect such branches with their railway, is not an absolute right apart from any question as to the mode of dealing with the connection, and that the statute does not confer any right to a connection for a mere private switch (Lancashire Brick, etc., Co. v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., [1902] 1 K. B. 651, 71 L. J. K. B. 431, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 176, 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 138, 18 T. L. R. 330); and the statute further provides that the railway company shall not be bound to make such connections in any place which they have set apart for a specified purpose with which such communication will interfere (Richard v. Great Western R. Co., 11 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 133).

39. Reeser v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 136, 64 Atl. 376.

40. Under power to build branch lines see supra, IV, B, 2, h.

41. Greenwich, etc., R. Co. v. Greenwich, etc., Electric R. Co., 172 N. Y. 462, 65 N. E. 278 [affirming 75 N. Y. App. Div. 220, 78 N. Y. Suppl. 24].

42. Rice v. Rock Island, etc., R. Co., 21 Ill. 93; Cross v. Peach Bottom R. Co., 90 Pa. St. 392. See also Ex p. South Carolina R. Co., 2 Rich. (S. C.) 434, holding that under a legislative authority to extend a railroad the company has the same power to acquire lands of private individuals either by purchase or condemnation as for the construction of its original line.

Necessity for consent of stock-holders to amendments authorizing extensions of road see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 209, 211.

Construction of statutes.—A grant to a railroad company of the right to extend and unite with any other railroad in the state gives a general authority to extend to any other road it may select within the prescribed limits (Belleville, etc., R. Co. v. Gregory, 15 Ill. 20, 58 Am. Dec. 589); and a charter authorizing the construction of a railroad "to the place of shipping lumber" on a tide water river, gives the right of extending the road across the flats and over tide water to a point at which lumber may be conveniently shipped (Peavey v. Calais R. Co., 30 Me. 498).

Extension by municipal consent.— Where a railroad company is authorized with the permission of the authorities of a city to extend its road through such streets as the authorities "might from time to time permit," the power is a continuing one and not exhausted by a single grant of permission for a particular extension. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 73, 26 How. Pr. 44.

Designation of termini.— If it be necessary for a statute authorizing an extension to designate its termini this is sufficiently done by a statute authorizing an extension from a given point to intersect another railroad at such point thereon as the company making the extension shall select. Newcastle, etc., R. Co. v. Peru, etc., R. Co., 3 Ind. 464.

Under the Tennessee statute of 1897 providing that corporations organized under the statute of 1875 or amendments thereto may line;[43] and where the right to extend is given by the statute under which the company is incorporated no specific amendment of the charter is necessary to authorize an extension.[44] What is in effect an extension may also be made under an authority to construct branch roads,[45] and a power to extend a road beyond its original terminus includes the power to acquire the use of the road of another company beyond such point;[46] but a statute authorizing an alteration in the route or termini for the purpose of improving the line does not authorize an extension of the line beyond the one of the original termini.[47] Any requirements or conditions imposed by the statute authorizing the extension must be complied with.[48] Where a railroad company is authorized to extend its road, the extension must be from a point on the road already built and not a separate and independent road,[49] and the extension must be from one of the original termini and not a departure from an intermediate point,[50] and it must be substantially in the same general direction as the road already constructed.[51] So also where a railroad amend their charters in the manner prescribed by such statute, which prescribes the form for an amendment for the purpose of obtaining power to construct a railroad "over the following routes, which are in addition to the route already granted to it by its charter," a railroad company may obtain the power to extend its road over new and additional routes by procuring an amendment to its charter describing such additional routes with reasonable particularity and giving the termini of each. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

43. Laconia St. R. Co.'s Petition, 71 N. H. 355, 52 Atl. 458, construing the provisions of the New Hampshire statutes as showing an intention on the part of the legislature to authorize the building of extensions and branches of such a nature as to change the original purposes of the corporation.

44. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 43 Fla. 359, 31 So. 259, holding that under the Florida statute of 1874, a railroad company may extend its line by a resolution of the board of directors, designating the route of the proposed extension in the manner prescribed and filing and recording the same in the office of the secretary of state, without any specific amendment of the charter or action on the part of the stock-holders of the company.

45. See supra, IV, B, 2, b.

46. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mason City, etc., R. Co., 128 Fed. 230, 64 C. C. A. 348 [affirming 124 Fed. 409, and affirmed in 199 U. S. 160, 26 S. Ct. 19, 50 L. ed. 134].

47. Greenwich, etc., R. Co. v. Greenwich, etc., Electric R. Co., 172 N. Y. 462, 65 N. E. 278 [affirming 75 N. Y. App. Div. 220, 78 N. Y. Suppl. 24].

48. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co. v. Long Island R. Co., 72 N. Y. App. Div. 496, 76 N. Y. Suppl. 777, holding that where a railroad company incorporated under a statute requiring it to begin and complete its road within a certain period under penalty of forfeiting its corporate existence is authorized to construct an extension by a statute providing that the new grant shall be subject to all of the conditions of the act under which the company was organized, the conditions as to the time of beginning and completing the road apply to the extensions.

Filing certificate of location.— Under a statute authorizing a company to extend its road, provided that before so doing it shall file in the office of the secretary of state "a certificate stating the point at or near which such extension in this state shall commence and terminate," a certificate is sufficient which fixes one terminus at a specified point and the other at a point on the state line not definitely stated but which can be determined from the description given of the route of the extension. Deepwater R. Co. v. Lambert, 54 W. Va. 387, 46 S. E. 144.

49. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Shiels, 33 Ga. 601; Atty.-Gen. v. West Wisconsin R. Co., 36 Wis. 466.

Authority to extend a road "from any point" in a city to another specified point will be construed as meaning from any point within the city which is upon the road as already constructed. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Shiels, 33 Ga. 601.

50. Leverett v. Middle Georgia, etc., R. Co., 96 Ga. 385, 24 S. E. 154; People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 73, 26 How. Pr. 44; Atty.-Gen. v. West Wisconsin R. Co., 36 Wis. 466; Works v. Junction R. Co., 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,046, 5 McLean 425.

A railroad company cannot "side-track" a town which was one of its original termini by constructing an extension from an intermediate point, leaving a part of the original line as a spur track from the new main line to such town. Leverett v. Middle Georgia, etc., R. Co., 96 Ga. 385, 24 S. E. 154.

If the company is expressly authorized to extend its road "from a point at or near the present terminus" of its track in a certain city, an extension starting at a point two thousand four hundred and seventy-five feet from the terminus of its track is not unauthorized. Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221.

51. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 73, 26 How. Pr. 44, holding that while the extension need not pursue company is authorized to extend its road to a specified point, the statute will be construed as contemplating the most direct eligible route considered with reference to facility of construction;[52] but it is entirely within the discretion of the company as to where the work of construction shall begin,[53] provided it is upon the line authorized by the statute or charter.[54]

D. Survey or Record of Location — 1. Survey. A railroad company when authorized to lay out and construct a railroad may enter upon private property for the purpose of exploration and preliminary surveys, without being guilty of a trespass or actionable wrong,[55] and such entry and survey, if no unnecessary damage be done, does not constitute a taking of the property for which compensation must be made.[56] The company may make any number of experimental surveys at pleasure before finally locating its route,[57] but it has no right to institute experimental condemnation proceedings along the different surveys before making a final selection in order to ascertain which would be the cheapest route.[58]

2. Filing Map, Profile, or Record. It is frequently required by general statutes or charter provisions that a railroad company shall file a map, profile, or description of the location of its road in the counties through which it passes,[59] the same precise direction as the portion of the road to which it is attached, it must have the same general direction and not a direction to opposite or widely divergent points of the compass.

52. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Shiels, 33 Ga. 601.

Feasibility of route.— If the routes between the points named in the statute as the termini of an extension are equally feasible, the most direct would be contemplated, but if there is a difference in their feasibility a reasonable discretion should be allowed the railroad company. Newcastle, etc., R. Co. v. Peru, etc., R. Co., 3 Ind. 464.

53. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Speer, 56 Pa. St. 325, 94 Am. Dec. 84.

54. Com. v. Franklin Canal Co., 21 Pa. St. 117.

55. Burrow v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 107 Ind. 432, 8 N. E. 167; Ward v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 553, 10 West. L. J. 365.

56. See Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 658.

57. Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 2 Grant (Pa.) 137.

Effect of preliminary survey: As constituting a location see supra, IV, A, 1. As affecting right to change location see infra, IV, E, 1, a. In cases of conflicting locations see infra, IV, F, 1.

58. Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 2 Grant (Pa.) 137.

59. Indiana.— Caffyn v. State, 91 Ind. 324.

Maine.— Nicholson v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 97 Me. 43, 53 Atl. 839.

Massachusetts.— Housatonic R. Co. v. Lee etc., R. Co., 118 Mass. 391; Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray 574.

Michigan.— Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. East Saginaw, etc., R. Co., 72 Mich. 206, 40 N. W. 436.

Missouri.— Kansas City Interurban R. Co., v. Davis, 197 Mo. 669, 95 S. W. 881, 114 Am. St. Rep. 790.

New York.— Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119 [reversing 61 N. Y. App. Div. 612, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 1149].

West Virginia.— Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 121.

Where the location is fixed by charter.— Under the New York statute which requires the filing of a map of the proposed location, and notice thereof to persons through whose land it passes, who may thereafter institute proceedings to have the location changed, it is held that if the location is fixed by the legislature so that it could not be changed at the instance of such landowners, it is not necessary to file the map or give the notice required by the statute. In re Coney Island, etc., R. Co., 12 Hun (N. Y.) 451.

Filing map of part of route.—A statute requiring a railroad company before constructing any part of its road to file a profile map in the office of the county clerk of the route intended to be adopted in that county is not satisfied by the filing of a map of a part or section of the route in the county. Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 197 Mo. 669, 95 S. W. 881, 114 Am. St. Rep. 790.

Effect of filing map.— Under the New York statute requiring a railroad company before constructing its road to file a map of its route, it is held that while the filing of the map and giving the notice required will constitute a prior right as against another railroad company or other corporation seeking to condemn the same property, it does not constitute any interest in or lien upon the land which will prevent the state itself from acquiring such location for a different public use without compensation to the railroad company. Adirondack R. Co. v. People, 176 U. S. 335, 20 S. Ct. 460, 44 L. ed. 492 [affirming 160 N. Y. 225, 54 N. E. 689 (reversing 39 N. Y. App. Div. 34, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 869)].

Effect of failure to record map.— The mere or with the secretary of state,[60] or corporation commission;[61] and there are similar requirements in regard to branch roads,[62] extensions,[63] and changes of location.[64] Branches constituting a part of the proposed road and designated and surveyed at the same time as the main line may be included in the map filed of the survey thereof;[65] but where a railroad company is authorized to construct branches before or after the completion of its main line, a survey for a branch line need not be filed with the survey of the main line but may be filed separately.[66] The object of these requirements is to furnish permanent record evidence of the true and exact location and boundaries of the road,[67] and to fix and determine the failure on the part of the railroad company to record in a certain county the maps of the lands taken by it, as required by statute, is not of itself fatal to a recovery by the company in an action of ejectment. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 45 Mo. 443.

Under the English statutes a railroad company is required to deposit certain plans of its proposed road and cannot, without the consent of adjoining landowners, deviate therefrom further than the limits of deviation provided by the general statutes or special act (Beardmer v. London, etc., R. Co., 1 Hall & T. 161, 47 Eng. Reprint 1367, 13 Jur. 327, 18 L. J. Ch. 432, 1 Macn. & G. 112, 47 Eng. Ch. 112, 41 Eng. Reprint 1205, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 728; Wrigley v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., 4 Giffard 352, 9 Jur. N. S. 710, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 267, 66 Eng. Reprint 742); which distance varies according to the nature of the locality, as where the road passes through a town (Elliott v. South Devon R. Co., 2 Exch. 725, 17 L. J. Exch. 262, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 500); the vertical deviation being measured not from the surface level but from the datum line (North British R. Co. v. Tod, 12 Cl. & F. 722, 10 Jur. 975, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 449, 8 Eng. Reprint 1595); and the lateral deviation from center to center of the authorized width of road-bed without regard to slopes and embankments (Doe v. Bristol, etc., R. Co., 9 L. J. Exch. 232, 6 M. & W. 320, 2 R. & Can. Cas. 75). Tunnels must be constructed at the place designated upon the plan without any deviation (Little v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 12 C. B. 752, 17 Jur. 209, 22 L. J. C. P. 39, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 280, 1 Wkly. Rep. 81, 74 E. C. L. 752); and where the road is constructed upon an arch or viaduct such arch or viaduct must be constructed not only at the place but in the particular manner and of the dimensions shown upon the plan deposited (Atty.-Gen. v. Tewkesbury, etc., R. Co., 1 De G. J. & S. 423, 9 Jur. N. S. 951, 32 L. J. Ch. 482, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 682, 66 Eng. Ch. 423, 46 Eng. Reprint 168). The restriction as to deviation applies only to the line of railroad itself (Doe v. North Staffordshire R. Co., 16 Q. B. 526, 15 Jur. 944, 20 L. J. Q. B. 249, 71 E. C. L. 526); and does not prevent the company from taking such other land as may be necessary for collateral purposes outside of the lines of deviation provided it is included in the plans and books of reference deposited (Finck v. London, etc., R. Co., 59 L. J. Ch. 458, 44 Ch. D. 330, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 881, 38 Wkly. Rep. 513; Doe v. North Staffordshire R. Co., supra); and land within the limits of deviation in the deposited plans but not actually taken in the first instance may be subsequently taken for the purposes of sidings (In re Yorkshire, etc., R. Co., 1 Jur. N. S. 975). An unauthorized deviation may be enjoined at the suit of a landowner (Wrigley v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., 4 Giffard 352, 9 Jur. N. S. 710, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 267, 66 Eng. Reprint 742); provided he will sustain such special and substantial damage as to entitle him to such relief (Dover Harbour v. London, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. F. & J. 559, 7 Jur. N. S. 453, 30 L. J. Ch. 474, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 387, 9 Wkly. Rep. 523, 64 Eng. Ch. 559, 45 Eng. Reprint 995; Holyoake v. Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co., 5 R. & Can. Cas. 421); but the parties are bound by what is represented on plans deposited pursuant to orders of the house of parliament only in so far as they are incorporated in or referred to by the act (Beardmer v. London, etc., R. Co., 1 Hall & T. 161, 47 Eng. Reprint 1367, 13 Jur. 327, 18 L. J. Ch. 432, 1 Macn. & G. 112, 47 Eng. Ch. 112, 41 Eng. Reprint 1205, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 728; North British R. Co. v. Tod, 12 Cl. & F. 722, 10 Jur. 975, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 449, 8 Eng. Reprint 1595).

60. Mercer County Traction Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 574, 56 Atl. 897 [reversed on other grounds in 68 N. J. Eq. 715, 61 Atl. 461]; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

61. See Fayetteville, etc., R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

62. Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211.

Branch roads generally see supra, IV, B, 2.

63. See Mercer County Traction Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 574, 56 Atl. 597 [reversed on other grounds in 68 N. J. Eq. 715, 61 Atl. 461].

Extensions generally see supra, IV, C, 3.

64. Vail v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 21 N. J. L. 189; Matter of Riverhead, etc., R. Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 514, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 938.

Right to change location see infra, IV, E, 1.

65. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. East Saginaw, etc., R. Co., 72 Mich. 206, 40 N. W. 436.

66. Greenville, etc., R. Co. v. Grey, 62 N. J. Eq. 768, 48 Atl. 568 [affirming 60 N. J. Eq. 153, 46 Atl. 636].

67. Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 574; Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119. See also rights of the railroad company and others interested or affected by such location,[68] and the filing should be done by authority of the directors of the company.[69] Any express provisions of the statute as to what the map or location filed shall show must be complied with,[70] and in any case a mere general designation of the location is insufficient,[71] but the exact location and limits thereof must be shown.[72] A requirement that the company shall file a "survey" of its route does not necessarily require a map or profile but may be complied with by designating the location by words and figures,[73] but there must be sufficient data in some form from which the exact and true location may be ascertained.[74] Where a railroad company is required to file the "location" of its road, a definite reference in the written description to a map or plan is a part of the description and may be referred to to explain or make certain the terms of such description;[75] but not to modify or control the written description of the location,[76] and a map or plan not referred to in the written description cannot be used to supply defects therein.[77] So also the map filed cannot in any way control or modify the charter of the company and when the two conflict the latter must control.[78] It is not essential that the location when filed should bear any date;[79] and where the statute requires the location to be filed with the county commissioners "approved by them and

Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Cheseboro, 74 Mich. 466, 42 N. W. 66.

Under the New York statute one object of requiring the map to be filed is for the information of the owners and occupants of the land through which the proposed route passes who within a certain time after notice thereof may propose a different route and have a commission appointed to pass upon the merits of the routes proposed. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 11 Abb. N. Cas. 386.

68. Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 574.

69. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Doherty, 100 Wis. 39, 75 N. W. 1079, holding that where the president of a railroad company files with the secretary of the interior a map showing the proposed route of the road as provided in the act of incorporation, without authority of the board of directors, and the map is rejected by the secretary, it is a nullity. See also Nicholson v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 97 Me. 43, 53 Atl. 839, holding that if the president's communication accompanying the act of filing the location stating that he is acting by the authority of the directors is not sufficient evidence of his authority, it is immaterial where that board of directors and subsequent boards acquiesce in the action of the president for a period of nearly thirty years.

70. Housatonic R. Co. v. Lee, etc., R. Co., 118 Mass. 391; Mercer County Traction Co. v. United New Jersey, etc., R. Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 574, 56 Atl. 897 [reversed on other grounds in 68 N. J. Eq. 715, 61 Atl. 461].

71. Conver's Appeal, 18 Mich. 459.

It is not necessary to specify in the plans deposited by a railroad company the particular works which the company may propose to make upon the land to be taken. It is sufficient if the works are referred to generally. Weld v. South-Western R. Co., 32 Beav. 340, 19 Jur. N. S. 510, 33 L. J. Ch. 142, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 13, 1 New Rep. 415, 11 Wkly. Rep. 448, 55 Eng. Reprint 133.

72. Conver's Appeal, 18 Mich. 459; Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119.

Sufficiency of map.—A map on which the proposed road is marked by a single red line without any indication whether the line is the center or exterior line of the route, or of its width or of the amount of land to be taken, is insufficient (Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119; New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 11 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 386); but where the map filed shows the location of the center line of the track, it is not insufficient because it fails to state or show the gauge or width between the rails, where the charter provides for a standard gauge road the width of which is so well known that the courts and everyone else will take notice thereof (Bay City Belt-Line R. Co. v. Hitchcock, 90 Mich. 533, 51 N. W. 808); and where the map filed shows a single line running along a road, and a notice thereon states that the center line of the railroad track is eighteen feet from the westerly line of the road, it is sufficiently certain as to the location of the railroad and the land to be taken (In re Coney Island, etc., R. Co., 12 Hun (N. Y.) 451).

73. Atty.-Gen. v. Stevens, 1 N. J. Eq. 369, 22 Am. Dec. 526.

74. Conver's Appeal, 18 Mich. 459.

75. Grand Junction R., etc., Co. v. Middlesex County Com'rs, 14 Gray (Mass.) 553.

76. Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 574.

77. Housatonic R. Co. v. Lee, etc., R. Co., 118 Mass. 391.

78. Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 373.

79. Nicholson v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 97 Me. 43, 53 Atl. 839, holding further that the subsequent insertion by mistake of an erroneous date cannot affect the validity of the filing as of the date when the location was actually filed.

recorded," the approval of the location need not be signed by the different members of the board, but it is sufficient if attested by the clerk who is the recording officer of the commissioners as a court.[80] Under some of the statutes the filing of the map and survey or location is a condition precedent to the right to institute condemnation proceedings,[81] and some of the statutes expressly require that it shall be done before any part of the road is constructed,[82] but under others it may be done after the road is constructed,[83] or located,[84] and is not an essential step in effecting a valid location.[85]

3. Evidence of Location. In order to prove that a location was made it is not necessary for the railroad company to produce the engineers who made the survey to tes ify to their work, but the plan or map of the survey is the best evidence of what was done.[88] In case of a controversy between rival companies as to priority of location, if there is no statute requiring a record of the location adopted, the action of the company must be proved by other evidence, but when proved it has the same effect as though it had been recorded and settles the date of appropriation and the exact location;[87] and where the statute requires a map to be filed but permits it to be done after the road is located, the filing of a map of its survey, if authorized by the company, while not conclusive is prima facie proof of its adoption a the location of the road.[88] The map or location filed by the railroad company pursuant to a statutory requirement is conclusive evidence against the railroad company as to what has been taken.[89] A certified copy of the record of the location of a railroad from the records of a town is admissible to prove the location;[90] and in a proceeding to enforce a tax in aid of a railroad, the permanent location of the road is sufficiently shown by the map and profile filed by it as required by statute, together with proof that the road has been actually constructed upon the line indicated thereon.[91]

E. Change or Abandonment of Location — 1. Change of Location — a. In General. While it has been stated as a general rule that after a railroad company has definitely adopted a particular location for its road it cannot change it without legislative authority,[92] the decisions are not uniform as to what con-

80. Nicholson v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 97 Me. 43, 53 Atl. 839.

81. See Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 817.

82. See Caffyn v. State, 91 Ind. 324; Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 197 Mo. 669, 95 S. W. 881, 114 Am. St. Rep. 790; Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119.

83. Fayetteville, etc., R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

84. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

85. Fayetteville, etc., R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

86. Johnston v. Callery, 184 Pa. St. 146, 39 Atl. 73.

87. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

88. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

89. Hazen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 574, holding that if the company constructs its road outside of the limits of the location as filed, it is liable in trespass.

90. Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 28 Vt. 142.

91. Caffyn v. State, 91 Ind. 324.

92. Georgia.— Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24.

Illinois.— Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Woodyard, 226 Ill. 331, 80 N. E. 882.

Mississippi.— Lusby v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 73 Miss. 360, 19 So. 239, 36 L. R. A. 501.

New York.— Erie R. Co. v. Steward, 170 N. Y. 172, 63 N. E. 118 [affirming 61 N. Y. App. Div. 480, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 698]; People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. 73, 26 How. Pr. 44; Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. 373; Hudson, etc., Canal Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 9 Paige 323.

Ohio.— Little Miami R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 Ohio St. 235, 59 Am. Dec. 667; Moorhead v. Little Miami R. Co., 17 Ohio 340; Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 565, 10 West. L. J. 399.

Pennsylvania.— Neal v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 2 Grant 137; Lippincott v. Mine Hill, etc., R. Co., 2 Leg. Chron. 310.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 123.

The effect of a designation by the directors of the line of the road is the same as if it had been specifically designated in the charter, and where the company has located the line between its terminal points it is concluded by that location and no change of route can thereafter be made without legislative authority. Erie R. Co. v. Steward, 170 N. Y. 172, 63 N. E. 118 [affirming 61 N. Y. App. Div. 480, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 698].

The successor of one railroad company canstitutes a location within the application of the rule.[93] A mere survey not adopted by the directors of the company is not a location which will prevent a subsequent survey and adoption of a different route,[94] and a mere shifting of the position of the tracks within the limits of the right of way is not a change of location.[95] So also if the first location as shown by the map filed is not such as is authorized by the charter of the company it cannot control the charter and will not prevent a second location which is so authorized,[96] and contracting for the construction of a road upon a particular route will not prevent the company from changing the route if it has never been actually adopted by the directors of the company in the manner prescribed.[97] The authorities are practically uniform to the effect that after the road has been located and actually constructed no change can be made without legislative authority,[98] even where the object of the change of location is to straighten curves and reduce grades, and if made would be a benefit to the public;[99] and while there is some conflict as to the right to change the location after it has been selected but before the road is constructed, the better rule would seem to be that after a particular location has been definitely adopted the company cannot, without legislative authority, change it merely from motives of convenience, expediency, or economy,[1] or to avoid an unsatisfactory assessment of damages;[2] but that such changes may be made as are necessary to correct errors in engineering or to avoid obstacles which would defeat or interfere with a proper construction of the road,[3] the railroad company being liable for the damages already actually sustained by landowners by reason of the prior location.[4] In some cases it has been held that no change can be made after the assessment of damages,[5] but that a change may be made after the adoption of a location and before the assessment;[6] and in others that it may be made after assess-not change the location made by its predecessor without legislative authority. Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24.

The construction of a connecting track between the line of one railroad and another for the purpose of exercising a right of passage over the latter road as secured by a lease is not a relocation of the main line of such road but is merely a side-track, the construction of which is included in the general power to build the road. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 149 Ill. 272, 37 N. E. 91.

93. See Williams v. Odessa, etc., R. Co., 7 Del. Ch. 303, 44 Atl. 821; Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24.

94. Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 2 Grant (Pa.) 137; Baldwin v. Hillsboro, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 546, 10 West. L. J. 356.

A resolution to locate on a particular survey may be reconsidered unless acts have been done giving rights under it and this may be done by the directors without any action on the part of the stock-holders of the company. Baldwin v. Hillshoro, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 546, 10 West. L. J. 356.

95. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 211 Ill. 352, 71 N. E. 1017; Dougherty v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 19 Mo. App. 419.

96. Mason v. Brooklyn City, etc., R. Co., 35 Barb. (N. Y.) 373.

97. Hudson, etc., Canal Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 9 Paige (N. Y.) 323; Baldwin v. Hillsboro, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 546, 10 West. L. J. 356.

98. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Kirkland, 129 Ga. 552, 59 S. E. 220; Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24; Leverett v. Middle Georgia, etc., R. Co., 96 Ga. 385, 24 S. E. 154; Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Woodyard, 226 Ill. 331, 80 N. E. 882; State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277; Lusby v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 73 Miss. 360, 19 So. 239, 36 L. R. A. 510 [disapproving Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Devaney, 42 Miss. 555, 2 Am. Rep. 608]; Little Miami R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 Ohio St. 235, 59 Am. Dec. 667; Moorhead v. Little Miami R. Co., 17 Ohio 340. Compare Ex p. South Carolina R. Co., 2 Rich. (S. C.) 434.

No matter how necessary the change of location may be it cannot be made after the road is constructed without legislative authority. Moorhead v. Little Miami R. Co., 17 Ohio 340.

99. Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Woodyard, 226 Ill. 331, 80 N. E. 882.

1. Lusby v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 73 Miss. 360, 19 So. 235, 36 L. R. A. 510.

2. Beale v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 86 Pa. St. 509; Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 31 Pa. St. 19. But see Gear v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 20 Iowa 523, 89 Am. Dec. 550.

3. Hagner v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 154 Pa. St. 475, 25 Atl. 1082.

4. Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437; Gear v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 20 Iowa 523, 89 Am. Dec. 550; Hagner v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 154 Pa. St. 475, 25 Atl. 1082.

5. Beale v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 86 Pa. St. 509; Neal v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 31 Pa. St. 19.

6. Hagner v. Pennsylvania St. R. Co., 154 Pa. St. 475, 25 Atl. 1082.

ment,[7] at any time before actual construction.[8] A railroad company may change the location of its road if expressly authorized to do so by a statutory or charter provision,[9] and the authority for such change need not be given in the charter or by an amendment thereto but may be given by a special enactment or general railroad law,[10] or it may be implied from a statute providing for the establishment and use of union depots.[11] Any conditions precedent imposed by the statute must be complied with,[12] and in some cases the statutes provide that changes of location within cities, towns, or villages shall not be made after the road is constructed without the consent of the municipal authorities.[13] Statutes authorizing changes in the location of railroads are strictly construed,[14] and if the authority is to change the location for certain causes or on certain conditions the right is limited accordingly.[15] So also a statute authorizing a change in the location

7. Williams v. Odessa, etc., R. Co., 7 Del. Ch. 303, 44 Atl. 821; Gear v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 20 Iowa 523, 89 Am. Dec. 550.

8. Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437; Gear v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 20 Iowa 523, 89 Am. Dec. 550.

9. Eel River, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 67 Cal. 429, 7 Pac. 814; Hewett v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 226, 28 N. W. 255; In re New York, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. 279 [affirming 25 Hun 556]; Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 565, 10 West. L. J. 399.

Under a Massachusetts statute providing that any railroad company "after having taken land" for any portion of the road may vary the direction provided they do not locate any part thereof "without the limits prescribed by their act of incorporation," the filing of the location as required by statute is a taking of land, and the company may at any time within the time limited for the completion of the road file a new location which location need not be within the limits of the land previously taken but may be upon any route which the company was originally authorized to adopt between the designated termini. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Midland R. Co., 1 Gray (Mass.) 340.

Under the New York statute authorizing a railroad company by a vote of two thirds of its directors to change the location of the road a resolution adopting a new location through a specified county need not designate the exact line upon which the road is to be constructed. This may be done by subsequent proceedings. In re New York, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. 279 [affirming 25 Hun 556].

Under the Ohio statute authorizing the directors of a railroad to change the location or termini, but providing that no change shall be made which will involve the abandonment of the road either partly or completely constructed, it is held that where a company under its resolution for building a branch line had a discretion as to the location of its terminus and after building a track to certain mines established the terminal station about a mile from the end of such track that part of the track beyond the station was not a part of its line of road to which the statute applied but merely a spur or switch track. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 90 Fed. 148.

Statute not authorizing change.— The general corporation law of New York providing for the correction of mistakes, informalities, and defects in articles of incorporation does not apply to amendments seeking to change the route of a railroad where no mistake in the original location is shown. Matter of Riverhead, etc., R. Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 514, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 938.

10. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292. See also McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.

11. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

12. Vail v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 21 N. J. L. 189 (holding that, under the New Jersey statute requiring that a change of location must be first approved by a suitable inspector, the certificate of whose appointment shall accompany the return of the alteration and be recorded with the secretary of state, any variation of the location as previously recorded is invalid if not accompanied by such certificate or recorded with the secretary of state); Matter of Riverhead, etc., R. Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 514, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 938 (holding that under the New York statute the filing of a certificate of the proposed change with a survey and map thereof in the office of the county clerk is an essential condition precedent which must be complied with).

13. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Warthen, 98 Ga. 599, 25 S. E. 988; North Missouri R. Co. v. Lackland, 25 Mo. 515; Erie R. Co. v. Steward, 170 N. Y. 172, 63 N. E. 118 [affirming 61 N. Y. App. Div. 480, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 698].

The North Carolina statute prohibiting changes in railroad routes in cities except with the sanction of a two-thirds vote of the aldermen is held to apply only where the railroad company of its own volition contemplates a change of route and not where the change is required by order of the corporation commission acting within its legislative authority. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

14. Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24.

15. Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24; Moorhead v. Little Miami R. Co., 17 Ohio 340; Works v. Junction R. Co., 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,046, 5 McLean 425.

or route of a railroad does not authorize a change in the road after it has been constructed,[16] and a statute authorizing a railroad company after beginning the construction of its road to make all necessary changes in its course or direction does not authorize any change after the road is completed,[17] nor will a mere prohibition against making any change of location within a town or city after the road has been constructed impliedly authorize a change of location after construction at points outside of a town or city;[18] but where a railroad company is authorized to change the route of the road it seems that such change may be made at any time before construction,[19] and a change of location may be made after the road is constructed under an authority to change the location of and "reconstruct" the road,[20] or to acquire such lands as the company might find necessary for the site of the road "or to vary the plans thereof;"[21] and where a railroad company is authorized to change the location after construction a limitation upon the time for the completion of the construction of the road applies only to the original construction and will not prevent a relocation.[22] Where a change of location is authorized on account of difficulty of construction it may be made after the road has been partly constructed at any time before its construction is complete at the place where the change is made,[23] but not after the road is finally completed.[24]

b. On Application of Landowner. In New York the statute requires a railroad company to make and file a map or profile of the proposed location of its road and give notice thereof to every occupant of land through which the route passes;[25] and within fifteen days after such notice any owner or occupant of such lands aggrieved by the proposed location may apply to a justice of the supreme court for the appointment of commissioners to examine the route proposed by the railroad company and the substitute therefor suggested by the petitioner.[26] No owner or occupant can make the application except one whose lands have not been acquired by the railroad company and after the service on him of the notice provided for,[27] and the court cannot appoint the commission until the fifteen days allowed for the filing of such petitions has elapsed,[28] and all persons entitled to notice of the application have been served.[29] The justice to whom the appli-

16. Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24; Little Miami R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 Ohio St. 235, 59 Am. Dec. 667; Moorhead v. Little Miami R. Co., 17 Ohio 340, in each of which cases the wording of the statute or the causes specified as authorizing the change was held to show a legislative intent that the change should be made only before the construction of the road.

17. State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

18. Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24.

19. Northern Missouri R. Co. v. Lackland, 25 Mo. 515, holding that the change may be made after instituting condemnation proceedings and before a final judgment therein.

20. Hewett v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 226, 28 N. W. 255.

21. Ex p. South Carolina R. Co., 2 Rich. (S. C.) 434.

22. Hewett v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 226, 28 N. W. 255.

23. Atkinson v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio St. 21.

24. Moorhead v. Little Miami R. Co., 17 Ohio 340.

25. Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21].

26. Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21]; Norton v. Wallkill Valley R. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 476, 42 How. Pr. 228.

Form of petition.— The petition for the appointment of commissioners must set out the objections of the petitioner to the route selected by the railroad company (People v. Tubbs, 59 Barb. (N. Y.) 401 [affirmed in 49 N. Y. 356]); and must be accompanied with a map and profile of the route designated by the company and of the proposed alteration thereof (Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21]).

27. People v. Tubbs, 59 Barb. (N. Y.) 401 [affirmed in 49 N. Y. 356].

28. In re Long Island R. Co., 45 N. Y. 364.

29. In re Long Island R. Co., 45 N. Y. 364; People v. Lockport, etc., R. Co., 13 Hun (N. Y.) 211.

Notice to railroad company.— Under the original statute of 1850 it was held that no notice to the railroad company was necessary of the application to appoint commissioners, cation is made cannot pass upon the merits of the case but merely appoint the commission,[30] one of whom must be a civil engineer.[31] All owners and occupants of land to be affected by the proposed location, as well as the railroad company, are entitled to notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard.[32] The commissioners can only adopt the route proposed by the railroad company or the substitute proposed by the objecting party, and cannot reject both and select a different route.[33] The statute contemplates that one commission shall hear and determine all objections to the proposed location within the county;[34] but if the appointment of the first commission was premature and unauthorized and its proceedings void, a second commission may be appointed.[35] On appeal from the decision of the commissioners, the appellate court can consider only questions of law,[36] and cannot substitute its judgment for that of the commission as to the merits of the proposed routes;[37] and if errors of law have been committed, all that the appellate court can do is to send back the report.[38] If it appears that the commissioners have gone beyond the scope of their powers their decision will be set aside.[39]

c. Change of Termini.[40] Where a railroad company has once selected and made valid location of its termini it cannot change the location without legislative authority,[41] and an authority to change the location of the route of the road applies only to the route between the termini and does not authorize a change of the termini;[42] but a railroad company on constructing its road to or into a place named as a terminus may temporarily use a particular point as a terminal without losing the right to establish its permanent terminal at a different point within such but only of the subsequent proceedings before them (Matter of Hartman, 9 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 124); but that a copy of the petition for the appointment of commissioners should be served upon the company as a part of the notice of the hearing (People v. Tubbs, 59 Barb. (N. Y.) 401 [affirmed in 49 N. Y. 506]); but under the statute as since amended a notice to the company of the application for the appointment of commissioners is required (see Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21]).

Service of notice.— The statutory notice on an application for a change of the proposed route of a railroad must be personally served. People v. Lockport, etc., R. Co., 13 Hun (N. Y.) 211.

30. Norton v. Wallkill Valley R. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 476, 42 How. Pr. 228.

31. Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21]; Norton v. Wallkill Valley R. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 476, 42 How. Pr. 228.

No change can be made without the concurrence of the civil engineer. In re Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 442.

32. People v. Tubbs, 49 N. Y. 356 [affirming 59 Barb. 401]; In re Long Island R. Co., 45 N. Y. 364; Norton v. Wallkill Valley R. Co., 63 Barb. (N. Y.) 77.

Lands affected.— Where the center line of the railroad as proposed to be changed will pass within twelve feet of the land of a certain owner and within twenty feet of his dwelling-house he is a person affected by the proposed alteration and is entitled to notice and an opportunity to be heard. Norton v. Wallkill Valley R. Co., 63 Barb. (N. Y.) 77.

33. Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21], holding, however, that the action of the commissioners in affirming the route proposed by the company on condition that it should narrow the right of way from four rods to twenty feet is not a violation of the statute.

The commissioners are not limited to the lands of the petitioner in making the location, but may and should make such location beyond his lands as are necessitated by the changes thereon so as to preserve and complete the continuity of the line. People v. Tubbs, 49 N. Y. 356 [affirming 59 Barb. 401].

34. People v. Tubbs, 49 N. Y. 356 [affirming 59 Barb. 401]; In re Long Island R. Co., 45 N. Y. 364.

35. In re Long Island R. Co., 45 N. Y. 364.

36. In re New York, etc., R. Co., 99 N. Y. 388, 2 N. E. 35; In re Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 442.

37. Matter of Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power, etc., Co., 68 Hun (N. Y.) 391, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 31 [affirmed in 143 N. Y. 669, 39 N. E. 21].

38. In re Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 442.

39. People v. Tubbs, 59 Barb. (N. Y.) 401 [affirmed in 49 N. Y. 356].

40. Extension of road beyond original termini see supra, IV, C, 3.

41. People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 120 Ill. 48, 10 N. E. 657; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., (Minn. 1903) 95 N. W. 297; Atty.-Gen. v. West Wisconsin R. Co., 36 Wis. 466.

42. Atty.-Gen. v. West Wisconsin R. Co., 36 Wis. 466.

place.[43] The company may change the location of its termini if expressly authorized by statute to do so,[44] and a change within a particular place may be impliedly authorized by a statute providing for the construction and use of union depots.[45]

2. Abandonment of Location.[46] In the absence of any statutory provision on the subject the question as to whether a railroad company has abandoned a particular location is largely one of intention,[47] and in the absence of other facts showing such intention a mere lapse of time without constructing a railroad upon the location adopted will not constitute an abandonment thereof;[48] but a railroad company authorized to construct a single road cannot have more than one location in full force at the same time,[49] and if a company which has adopted one location subsequently adopts another it thereby abandons the former;[50] and if a railroad company is given an alternative right to construct a single railroad upon one of several specified routes its adoption of one constitutes an abandonment of the others.[51] A railroad company incorporated to construct a road between certain points has no right to abandon a portion of the chartered route and construct only the remainder,[52] nor in the absence of statutory authority can a railroad company after constructing its road upon a particular location abandon it and reconstruct the road upon another.[53] A railroad company may abandon a portion of its road after it has been constructed if authorized by statute to do so,[54] provided it complies with any conditions imposed by the statute.[55] In some 43. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Union Springs, etc., R. Co., 144 Ala. 639, 39 So. 473, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 144; Colorado Eastern R. Co. v. Union Pacific R. Co., 41 Fed. 293.

44. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Union R. Co., 116 Tenn. 500, 95 S. W. 1019, holding that under an authority to "change either terminus of its line of railroad at any time before the final location of the same" a company which having started at one terminus and located and acquired the right of way for a part of its line but which has in no manner located the remainder of the line may change the other terminus.

45. State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 3 Mo. App. 180; Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

46. Loss, abandonment, or forfeiture of right of way or other interests in lands see infra, V, L.

47. Stannard v. Aurora, etc., R. Co., 220 Ill. 469, 77 N. E. 254; Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 101 Fed. 757, 42 C. C. A. 570.

48. Stannard v. Aurora, etc., R. Co., 220 Ill. 469, 77 N. E. 254; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 129 Mo. 62, 31 S. W. 451; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155; Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 101 Fed. 757, 42 C. C. A. 570.

A failure to keep the line staked after the survey and to begin construction for five years is not sufficient to establish an abandonment of the location. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155.

49. Hagner v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 154 Pa. St. 475, 25 Atl. 1082.

50. Hagner v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 154 Pa. St. 475, 25 Atl. 1082; Stacey v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 39.

51. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville City R. Co., 2 Duv. (Ky.) 175, holding that in such a case the railroad company cannot enjoin another company from subsequently adopting and constructing a railroad upon one of the routes abandoned or claim compensation for such use.

52. Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 197 Mo. 669, 95 S. W. 881, 114 Am. St. Rep. 790; Dumvile v. Birkenhead, etc., Junction R. Co., 12 Beav. 444, 50 Eng. Reprint 1130; Cohen v. Wilkinson, 12 Beav. 125, 138, 13 Jur. 641, 18 L. J. Ch. 378, 411, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 741, 50 Eng. Reprint 1008, 1013.

Remedies see infra, IV, E, 3.

53. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Kirkland, 129 Ga. 552, 59 S. E. 220; Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24; State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277; Lusby v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 360, 19 So. 239, 36 L. R. A. 510.

Right to change location see supra, IV, E, 1.

54. Northern R. Co. v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 66 N. H. 560, 31 Atl. 17, where two railroad companies were authorized to unite their roads and to discontinue such portions of either as were unnecessary by reason of the union.

55. Williams v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 116 Mich. 392, 74 N. W. 641.

In Michigan the statute of 1891 provides that upon the abandonment of a road or portion thereof all parties who have contributed to the construction of the discontinued road shall be entitled to have refunded the amount of their contribution with interest (In re Flint, etc., R. Co., 105 Mich. 289, 63 N. W. 303; Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Rich, 91 Mich. 293, 51 N. W. 1001); and the statute not providing any method for ascertaining who are claimants and bringing them before the court it is held that while all claimants are entitled to notice and opportunity to be heard jurisdictions railroad commissioners have jurisdiction to prevent a railroad company from abandoning a portion of its road,[56] but the enforcement of their orders by the court will depend upon whether under the circumstances they are equitable and just.[57]

3. Remedies and Proceedings.[58] A railroad company may be restrained by injunction from making an unauthorized change of location,[59] and any person who will sustain a special injury by such change which is of an irreparable character or cannot be adequately compensated in damages may maintain the suit.[60] Where a railroad company has made an unauthorized change of location it will be liable for a resulting injury to property caused by the new location, although such location does not actually touch plaintiff's property.[61] Where a location has been surveyed and adopted the question of abandonment can be raised only by the state and not by a rival company seeking to appropriate the same location.[62] Where a railroad company is authorized by statute to change its route it cannot be compelled to bridge or fill up a cut on the abandoned location if the statute authorizing the change did not impose such condition.[63] Where a company authorized to construct a certain line of railroad resolves to abandon a portion of the authorized route and construct a road only upon the remainder, a landowner may resist the condemnation of his land for such purpose,[64] or if done by the directors without the consent of the stock-holders the latter may sue to enjoin such action or the application of funds of the corporation to such purpose,[65]

notice by publication is sufficient and that claims must be seasonably presented for adjudication or be forever barred (Williams v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 116 Mich. 392, 74 N. W. 641).

56. Railroad Com'rs v. Kansas City Southern R. Co., 111 La. 133, 35 So. 487, holding that under the Louisiana constitution the railroad commission can prevent the removal or abandonment of a spur track already constructed and in which the public is interested but that in the particular case the track was not in such use as rendered it improper for the company under the circumstance to remove it.

57. State v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 84 Iowa 419, 51 N. W. 38, holding that where a railroad company having constructed a road into a certain place subsequently abandoned six miles of track and ran its trains into such place over a leased line running parallel with the track abandoned and the service so furnished was adequate and the cost of restoring and maintaining the abandoned track would be a great burden upon the company without substantial benefits to the public an order of the railroad commissioners for its restoration and maintenance was, under the circumstances, unreasonable and would not be enforced.

58. Application for change of location by a landowner and proceeding thereunder see supra, IV, E, 1, b.

59. Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24.

60. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Kirkland, 129 Ga. 552, 59 S. E. 220; Brown v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 126 Ga. 248, 55 S. E. 24.

The citizens of a town which was designated by the legislature as one of the objective points on the railroad may enjoin a change of location which would side-track the town, although the company leaves a spur track leading thereto from the main line as relocated. Leverett v. Middle Georgia, etc., R. Co., 96 Ga. 385, 24 S. E. 154.

61. Little Miami R. Co. v. Naylor, 2 Ohio St. 235, 59 Am. Dec. 667.

62. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155.

63. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Brandon, (Miss. 1893) 14 So. 438.

64. Kansas City Interurban R. Co. v. Davis, 197 Mo. 669, 95 S. W. 881, 114 Am. St. Rep. 790.

65. Dumvile v. Birkenhead, etc., Junction R. Co., 12 Beav. 444, 50 Eng. Reprint 1130; Hodgson v. Powers, 12 Beav. 392, 529, 14 Jur. 906, 965, 19 L. J. Ch. 356, 418, 50 Eng. Reprint 1111, 1163; Cohen v. Wilkinson, 12 Beav. 125, 138, 13 Jur. 641, 18 L. J. Ch. 378, 411, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 741, 50 Eng. Reprint 1008, 1013.

Discretion of court.— If the work has been partly completed circumstances may be shown which will induce the court not to interfere by injunction (see Hodgson v. Powers, 12 Beav. 392, 529, 14 Jur. 906, 965, 19 L. J. Ch. 418, 50 Eng. Reprint 1111, 1163); or the court may properly refuse to interfere on the ground of acquiescence on the part of plaintiff (Graham v. Birkenfeld, 2 Hall & T. 450, 47 Eng. Reprint 1760, 14 Jur. 494, 24 L. J. Ch. 445, 2 Macn. & G. 147, 48 Eng. Ch. 146, 42 Eng. Reprint 57 [modifying 12 Beav. 460, 50 Eng. Reprint 1136]); and where, on the hearing of an application for injunction to restrain the construction of only a part of the road, it appeared that since the filing of the bill the whole undertaking had been abandoned, the court, while of the opinion that if the case had remained as it was at the time of filing the bill an injunction should have been granted, refused it on the ground that such relief was unnecessary by reason of the unless such stock-holders have lost their right to equitable relief by laches or acquiescence.[66]

F. Conflicting Locations — 1. In General. In the case of conflicting grants of a specific location to different companies, the prior grant will control;[67] but if no specific route is granted to either of two companies, no right to any particular route accrues to either until it has determined upon a location.[68] In such cases where the exact route is to be selected by the company, the prior right will attach to that company which first definitely locates its line,[69] without regard to the dates of their respective charters,[70] or dates of entry upon the property or preliminary surveys or work of construction;[71] and in the absence of statutory regulations to the contrary, the first location belongs to the company which first defines and marks out its route and adopts the same for its permanent location by authoritative corporate action.[72] To constitute a valid location for such purpose a mere preliminary survey is not sufficient,[73] but there must be an adoption of a particular line or survey as a corporate act of the company itself;[74] and if after such survey but before its adoption another company surveys and adopts the same location, the latter company will acquire the prior right thereto.[75] While alteration in the existing circumstances (Logan v. Courtown, 13 Beav. 22, 20 L. J. Ch. 347).

66. Graham v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 2 Hall & T. 450, 47 Eng. Reprint 1760, 14 Jur. 494, 20 L. J. Ch. 445, 2 Macn. & G. 146, 48 Eng. Ch. 146, 42 Eng. Reprint 57.

67. See Chesapeake, etc., Canal Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 4 Gill & J. (Md.) 1; Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635.

68. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635.

69. New Jersey.— Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635.

New York.— Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 110 N. Y. 128, 17 N. E. 680 [affirming 44 Hun 206].

North Carolina.— Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Pennsylvania.— Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

Vermont.—Barre R. Co. v. Montpelier, etc., R. Co., 61 Vt. 1, 17 Atl. 923, 15 Am. St. Rep. 877, 4 L. R. A. 785.

West Virginia.— Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

Wisconsin.— Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

United States.— Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Alling, 99 U. S. 463, 25 L. ed. 438; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 131 Fed. 657, 66 C. C. A. 601; Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 Fed. 770.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 127.

70. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

71. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 131 Fed. 657, 66 C. C. A. 601; Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879.

72. North Carolina.— Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

West Virginia.— Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

Wisconsin.— Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

United States.— Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 127.

73. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

74. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890; Milwaukee Light, etc. Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663; Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879.

Location by improper authority.— Under a statute imposing upon the president and directors of a railroad company the duty of locating its road, this duty cannot be delegated, and a location made by an executive committee is void as against a subsequent location on the same ground made by the directors of another company. Weidenfeld v. Sugar Run R. Co., 48 Fed. 615.

A survey followed by actual occupancy for purposes of construction is a final appropriation of a right of way granted by an act of congress and is good as against a company making a subsequent survey and seeking to occupy the same location. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Alling, 99 U. S. 463, 25 L. ed. 438.

75. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635; Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl.

ordinarily the requisites of a valid location as against another company consist in a preliminary survey followed by its adoption by the railroad company,[76] it seems that if there is a definite line or survey marked out which may be adopted, it is not material when or by whom it was made;[77] and so it has been held that a company may without a survey by engineers acquire a valid location as against another company by staking out a line upon the abandoned road-bed of another company,[78] or by adopting a survey made by promoters for the benefit of the company prior to its incorporation.[79] Where the statute or charter requires a railroad company before constructing its road or instituting condemnation proceedings to file a map or survey of its route, that company acquires the prior right which first selects and adopts a location and files the map or survey required,[80] but if the statute authorizes this to be done after the road is located or constructed, it is not essential to a valid location.[81] The institution of condemnation proceedings or acquisition of title to the property is not essential to a location,[82] and where priority of right has been secured by priority of location

645, 12 L. R. A. 220; Milwaukee Northern R. Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 342, 112 N. W. 672; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663; Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879. But see Cumberland R. Co. v. Pine Mountain R. Co., 96 S. W. 199, 28 Ky. L. Rep. 574, holding that a company which has begun at the end of its line and is proceeding with its survey and acquiring by purchase and condemnation the land along the route surveyed, although without any express action on the part of its directors affirming the same, has a prior right to the location as against another company which with notice of what has been done starts at an intermediate point and makes a survey along the same route and adopts it by action of its directors.

76. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

77. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

78. Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

79. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663. Compare New Brighton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 105 Pa. St. 13.

But the adoption does not relate back to the date of the preliminary survey made by the promoters of the company, and if prior to its adoption another company surveys and adopts the same location, the latter will secure a prior right thereto. New Brighton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 105 Pa. St. 13.

80. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635; Barre R. Co. v. Montpelier, etc., R. Co., 61 Vt. 1, 17 Atl. 923, 15 Am. St. Rep. 877, 4 L. R. A. 785.

A survey may be adopted before the map is made if the map is made subsequently and filed before another company has done so. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635.

Under the New York statute it is held that the mere filing of a map of the proposed route does not constitute a valid location as against another company, since notice thereof must be given to occupants of the lands through which it passes, upon whose application within a certain time the location may be reviewed by commissioners and changed (New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 11 Abb. N. Cas. 386); but that where the company has made and filed a map and survey of the route it intends to adopt and has given the required notice and no change is made in the location so designated as the result of any proceedings instituted by any owner or occupant of lands affected, it thereby acquires a right to construct its road upon such location which is exclusive as against any other railroad company (Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 110 N. Y. 128, 17 N. E. 680 [affirming 44 Hun 206]).

Under the Kentucky statute which requires the filing of a map of the route it is held that where one company has begun at the end of its route and is proceeding in an orderly way surveying its line, a second company cannot with notice of what has been done begin at an intermediate point and race with the first company in continuing the survey, and by first filing its map of the survey made acquire a prior right to the location as against the first company. Cumberland R. Co. v. Pine Mountain R. Co., 96 S. W. 199, 28 Ky. L. Rep. 574.

81. Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890; Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee Mountain R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

82. Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., 12 Phila. (Pa.) 642; Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890; Milwaukee Light, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663.

it cannot be defeated by a rival company agreeing with the owners and purchasing the property,[83] or instituting condemnation proceedings in advance of such proceedings by the company first completing its location,[84] for while the location does not give title as against the landowner, it fixes the prior right as between companies to acquire such title.[85] If a railroad company has marked out the line of its location it need not as against a rival company be exact as to the width of the right of way or other matters of mere detail,[86] such as the marks for grades, slopes, cuts, and fills necessary for the actual construction of the road,[87] and where a company has surveyed, marked out, and adopted its location, it is not necessary that it should maintain the stakes and keep them in position in order to hold such location against another company.[88] A railroad company may also prior to a survey of its entire line locate and hold as against another company a particular section or portion thereof,[89] so long as it proceeds in good faith and with reasonable diligence in the prosecution of the work contemplated by its organization.[90]

2. Remedies and Proceedings. As a general rule a court of equity will not interfere to protect an unlocated or indefinite right of way,[91] and a company which has merely made a preliminary survey but never adopted the same has no standing in equity to enjoin another company from surveying and adopting the same location;[92] but when one railroad company by first making a valid location has secured a prior right thereto, another railroad company will be enjoined from interfering therewith,[93] notwithstanding the latter company has expended a large

83. New Jersey.— Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635.

North Carolina.— Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

Pennsylvania.— Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., 12 Phila. 642.

Vermont.—Barre R. Co. v. Montpelier, etc., R. Co., 61 Vt. 1, 17 Atl. 923, 15 Am. St. Rep. 877, 4 L. R. A. 785.

United States.— Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 Fed. 770.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 127.

An unrecorded agreement by the owner made prior to the recording of the first company's survey, but of which such company had no notice, to convey the land to a second company, does not give the deed executed in pursuance thereof but executed subsequently to such recording of the survey any priority over the rights of the first company. Barre R. Co. v. Montpelier, etc., R. Co., 61 Vt. 1, 17 Atl. 923, 15 Am. St. Rep. 877, 4 L. R. A. 785.

The effect of a conveyance to a rival company is merely to put such company in the position of any other landowner and liable to have the lands purchased taken by the company first locating its route upon making compensation therefor. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Blair, 9 N. J. Eq. 635; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 Fed. 770.

84. Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345; Milwaukee Light, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee-Northern R. Co., 132 Wis. 313, 112 N. W. 663; Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 131 Fed. 657, 66 C. C. A. 601.

85. Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345; Sioux City, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 Fed. 770.

86. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890. See also Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155.

87. Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., 12 Phila. (Pa.) 642; Wilkesbarre, etc., R. Co. v. Danville, etc., R. Co., 29 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 373.

88. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155.

89. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890. See also Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Alling, 99 U. S. 463, 25 L. ed. 438.

To deny this right would give a short railroad an immense advantage over a long one and make the location of a long line a very difficult feat to perform if rival companies were disposed to obstruct the work by the location of short lines along the same route. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

90. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Deepwater R. Co., 57 W. Va. 641, 50 S. E. 890.

91. Marion County Lumber Co. v. Tilghman Lumber Co., 75 S. C. 220, 55 S. E. 337.

92. Williamsport, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 141 Pa. St. 407, 21 Atl. 645, 12 L. R. A. 220.

93. Kentucky.— Cumberland R. Co. v. Pine Mountain R. Co., 96 S. W. 199, 28 Ky. L. Rep. 574.

New York.— Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 110 N. Y. 128, 17 N. E. 680 [affirming 44 Hun 206].

North Carolina.— Fayetteville St. R. Co. v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 423, 55 S. E. 345.

sum of money in grading.[94] Such cases are, however, governed by the general rules relating to the granting of injunctions,[95] and a preliminary injunction will not ordinarily be granted where the right of plaintiff is not clear, as where the validity of its location is in dispute,[96] and it does not appear that any great or irreparable injury can result from denying an injunction until final hearing.[97]

G. Stations — 1. Location and Establishment.[98] The legislature may require the establishment and maintenance of stations at particular places either under the police power,[99] or a power reserved to repeal, alter, or amend a railroad charter;[1] and where a railroad company is required by statute to establish such stations as "shall be necessary" the courts may determine the question of necessity and require the establishment of a station at any place where such necessity is shown to exist;[2] but in the absence of statute railroad companies have a large discretion as to the location of their stations,[3] and it has been held that in the absence of statute the courts cannot compel a railroad company to establish a station at a particular place.[4] In some cases, however, it is held that this discretion is not arbitrary but is to be exercised with due regard to the interests of both the company and the public,[5] and that the court may require the establishment

Pennsylvania.— Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., 12 Phila. 642.

United States.— Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 131 Fed. 657, 66 C. C. A. 601; Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879; Weidenfeld v. Sugar Run R. Co., 48 Fed. 615.

Canada.— Ontario, etc., R. Co. v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 14 Ont. 432; Montreal Park, etc., R. Co. v. Chateauguay, etc., R. Co., 13 Quebec K. B. 256.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 129.

A stock-holder of a company having a prior right to a location may sue to enjoin its appropriation by a rival company, where the officers and directors of the company having such prior right wrongfully and by collusion with the other company refuse to resist such appropriation. Weidenfeld v. Sugar Run R. Co., 48 Fed. 615.

The lapse of a railroad company's construction powers by expiration of the time limited in its charter for the completion of the road before the road is completed will not, if it has once utilized its construction powers and still remains in the use of its constructed work or any part of it, prevent the company from suing to enjoin the construction of a road on its location by a rival company, since the forfeiture of its construction powers may be waived by the state and cannot be invoked by any individual or other railroad company. Montreal Park, etc., R. Co. v. Chateauguay, etc., R. Co., 13 Quebec K. B. 256.

94. Titusville, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, etc., R. Co., 12 Phila. 642.

95. Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879. See also, generally, Injunctions, 22 Cyc. 746 et seq.

96. Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879. See also Kanawha, etc., R. Co. v. Glen Jean, etc., R. Co., 45 W. Va. 119, 30 S. E. 86.

97. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 11 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 386.

98. Duty of constructing and maintaining station houses, depots, waiting rooms, and other accommodations and facilities incident thereto see infra, X, A, 1, d; X, B, 3, a.

99. State v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 32 Fed. 722.

Limitation of power.— While the legislature undoubtedly has the power to require the establishment of a station at a particular place, it is equally true that the power must be exercised reasonably and with due regard to the rights of the company, and as the legislature cannot confiscate or deprive the company of its property it cannot require it to establish and maintain a station at a point where it could be done only at a loss, and where the public convenience and necessity do not require it. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, 85 Ark. 12, 106 S. W. 960.

1. Com. v. Eastern R. Co., 103 Mass. 254, 4 Am. Rep. 555.

2. State v. Republican Valley R. Co., 18 Nebr. 512, 26 N. W. 205.

3. Florida Cent. R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482, 13 So. 103, 34 Am. St. Rep. 30, 20 L. R. A. 419; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 152 Ill. 230, 38 N. E. 562, 26 L. R. A. 224; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 74 Nebr. 77, 103 N. W. 1087; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 283, 35 L. ed. 1092 [reversing 3 Wash. Terr. 303, 13 Pac. 604].

The exact location of a station should always be left to the discretion of the railroad company, subject only to the condition that it shall be so located as to be reasonably subservient to the convenience of the public to be accommodated thereby. Florida, etc., R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482, 13 So. 103, 34 Am. St. Rep. 30, 20 L. R. A. 419.

4. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401; State v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 200, 25 So. 126; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 283, 35 L. ed. 1092 [reversing 3 Wash. Terr. 303, 13 Pac. 604].

5. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 130 Ill. 175, 22 N. E. 857.

of a station at a place where a failure on the part of the railroad company to establish one shows a manifest disregard of its duties to the public,[6] but that this discretion unless clearly abused will not be interfered with by the courts.[7] A railroad company is not necessarily obliged to establish a station at every town or village through which the road passes,[8] or at a place constituting a suburb of another larger place at which it maintains a station,[9] or in case it establishes a station at a certain place to establish it within the corporate limits of such place.[10] In one jurisdiction the power to require the establishment of stations at particular places is expressly vested by statute in the supreme court;[11] and where the legislature has invested no other tribunal with the power of locating railroad stations, the supreme court may determine the location of a union depot which the public good requires.[12] A statute prohibiting any depot or station within a certain distance of a particular place is not violated by stopping trains and taking on or letting off passengers within the prohibited limits.[13]

2. Contracts as to Location or Maintenance.[14] In some cases the question as to the location or maintenance of stations at particular places is governed by contract;[15] but a railroad company should always be free to locate and relocate

The rule in regard to the location of stations has been stated as follows: "The company can not be compelled, on the one hand, to locate stations at points where the cost of maintaining them will exceed the profits resulting therefrom to the company, nor allowed, on the other hand, to locate them so far apart as to practically deny to communities on the line of the road reasonable access to its use." Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556.

6. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 130 Ill. 175, 22 N. E. 857.

7. Florida, etc., R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482, 13 So. 103, 34 Am. St. Rep. 30, 20 L. R. A. 419; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 152 Ill. 230, 28 N. E. 562, 26 L. R. A. 224; State v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 644, 54 N. W. 461; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 74 Nebr. 77, 103 N. W. 1087.

8. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 152 Ill. 230, 38 N. E. 562, 26 L. R. A. 224.

9. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 152 Ill. 230, 38 N. E. 562, 26 L. R. A. 224.

10. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 152 Ill. 230, 38 N. E. 562, 26 L. R. A. 224.

The location of a union depot at the terminus of an important and much frequented street, two hundred and ten feet from the corporate line, within four blocks of the former depot in the city and within the police jurisdiction of the city, the location being ordered by the corporation commission, will not be restrained at the instance of citizens and property-owners because of its being beyond the city limits. Dewey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 142 N. C. 392, 55 S. E. 292.

11. In re Railroad Com'rs, 79 Vt. 266, 65 Atl. 82.

12. Concord, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 67 N. H. 464, 41 Atl. 263, in which case it was conceded that the public good required a union depot in a certain city and it was desired by all of the railroad companies concerned, but they were unable to agree as to its location.

13. Eaton College v. Great Western R. Co., 3 Jur. 163, 1 R. & Can. Cas. 200.

14. Conditions in contracts of subscription in aid of road see supra, III, B, 3, c.

Conditions in conveyance of right of way see infra, V, G, 5.

15. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Crandell, 75 Ark. 89, 86 S. W. 855, 112 Am. St. Rep. 42; Houston, etc., R. Co. Co. v. Molloy, 64 Tex. 607.

Performance or breach of contract.—A contract to locate a depot at a certain place within six months from the date of the contract is complied with by staking off the ground, building a platform, and actually using the premises for depot purposes within the time limited, although the depot is not erected within such time. Waldron v. Marcier, 82 Ill. 550. Where a company agrees to locate a depot at the nearest practicable point within one mile of the court house the word "practicable" is not synonymous with "possible" and the company is only bound to locate it at the nearest point within one mile at which it can be done at a reasonable cost with reference to all the circumstances and the objects and purposes of the contract. Wooters v. International, etc., R. Co., 54 Tex. 294. A contract to establish a depot "at" a specified town is complied with by locating it at a convenient distance from the business portion of the town and is controlled more by the buildings composing the town than by the corporate limits as defined in the terms of the charter. Frey v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 6 Tex. Civ. App. 29, 24 S. W. 950. Where a railroad company enters into a contract agreeing not to "build or allow but one other depot between" certain points, a station at a coal bank where trains stop only to take or leave cars for purposes connected with this trade is not a "depot" within the meaning of the contract. Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437.

Stations constructed by one company on land of another.— Where defendant company constructs, under agreement with plaintiff, a depot building on plaintiff's land for the joint its stations according as the interests and necessities of the public require,[16] and the validity of contracts relating thereto is governed by considerations of public policy.[17]

3. Relocation, Removal, or Abandonment. The rule previously stated in regard to changing the location of a railroad [18] does not apply to the power of locating and changing the location of stations,[19] which from its very nature is a continuing one,[20] and in the absence of statute the duty of maintaining or continuing stations at particular places is governed largely by the same principles as relate to their original establishment and location.[21] The company cannot consult merely its own convenience but must consider its duties to the public;[22] but the mere fact that a station has been maintained at a particular place will not prevent a change of location,[23] and a change may be made if it is done in good faith with due regard to the interests of both the company and the public, and the new location furnishes proper accommodation to the public,[24] or under similar circumstances a company having two stations in the same place may discontinue the use of one of them.[25] In such cases where no improper motive or abuse of discretion is shown, the courts will not attempt to interfere with its exercise,[26] use of both companies and the business increases so that it is not adequate for both, plaintiff has the right to resume possession after giving defendant ample time to remove its building with the right reserved to defendant to expropriate land of plaintiff for its depot in accordance with the rights of all parties. McCormick v. Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 109 La. 764, 33 So. 762.

16. Florida Cent. R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482, 13 So. 103, 34 Am. St. Rep. 30, 20 L. R. A. 419; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556.

17. Butler v. Tifton, etc., R. Co., 121 Ga. 817, 49 S. E. 763; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Robards, 60 Tex. 545, 48 Am. Rep. 268.

Validity of contracts.— While there is a conflict of authority as to the validity and enforceability of contracts to locate and maintain stations at particular places, the weight of authority is that such contracts are not void per se and that they are enforceable so long as they do not conflict or interfere with the duties of the railroad company to the public, but that where the rights of the public conflict with those of the contracting party under his contract the latter must yield, and that such contracts must be deemed to have been made with reference to such a contingency. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Camp, 130 Ga. 1, 60 S. E. 177, 15 L. R. A. N. S. 594. See also, generally, Contracts, 9 Cyc. 499.

18. See supra, IV, E, 1.

19. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556.

The power of election in the location of the line of a railroad results from the franchise granted by the charter to exercise the right of eminent domain, and is therefore totally different from the power of locating stations which from its nature is a continuing one. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556 [distinguishing People v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 120 Ill. 48, 10 N. E. 657].

20. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784.

21. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 74 Nebr. 77, 103 N. W. 1087; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 283, 35 L. ed. 1092 [reversing 3 Wash. Terr. 303, 13 Pac. 604].

The company cannot be compelled to maintain or continue a station at a point where the welfare of the company and of the community in general require that it should be changed to some other point. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556.

22. State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 90 Minn. 277, 96 N. W. 81, holding that if the company has established and maintained a station at a place where there is a proper demand for one, it should not be permitted to abandon it or so change its location as to deprive the public at the old location of proper accommodations.

23. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784.

24. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556; State v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 644, 54 N. W. 461; State v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 68 Miss. 653, 9 So. 469.

Equality in convenience and facilities at the new location is not necessarily essential in order to justify a change of location. Reasonableness and not equality is the proper test. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784.

25. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784.

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; State v. Des Moines, and although it appears that the original change of location was improper, the court will not require the reëstablishment of a station at its original location after conditions have so changed that the general public is better accommodated by the new location and the conditions do not warrant the maintenance of a station at both places.[27] The right to change the location of a station in a particular case cannot be controlled or prevented by contract,[28] or by the fact that private citizens in the expectation of the continuance of a station at a particular place have made donations of land or money to the railroad company,[29] or purchased property or established business enterprises in the vicinity of the original location.[30] In some cases the statutes prohibit the abandonment of a station without the consent of the railroad commissioners,[31] or the consent of the legislature;[32] but statutory provisions prohibiting the abandonment of a station without legislative authority and permitting a change of location with the permission of the railroad commissioners and the municipal authorities of the place where the station is located are not necessarily conflicting,[33] and it is not an abandonment of a station to change its location from one point to another in the same vicinity,[34] or to consolidate two stations in the same vicinity into one by relocating each at a single intermediate point, although the number of stations is thereby reduced.[35]

4. Powers and Proceedings of Railroad Commissioners. In some jurisdictions the regulation of questions relating to the establishment, location, maintenance, removal, or abandonment of stations is vested by statute to a greater or less extent in boards of railroad commissioners,[36] whose orders are reviewable by the etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 644, 54 N. W. 461; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 74 Nebr. 77, 103 N. W. 1087.

Agents at stations.—A railroad company will not be required to continue the service of a station agent at an unincorporated village of only forty persons, where the business does not justify the expense and the stoppage of trains is not discontinued, and there are other regular stations within a few miles of the place in question. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 74 Nebr. 77, 103 N. W. 1087.

27. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 283, 35 L. ed. 1092 [reversing 3 Wash. Terr. 303, 13 Pac. 604].

28. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556.

29. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556.

30. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784.

31. See infra, IV, G, 4.

32. Atty.-Gen. v. Eastern R. Co., 137 Mass. 45.

33. Cunningham v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 Mass. 104, 32 N. E. 959.

No general rule of law can be laid down applicable to all cases as to what change of a station will constitute an abandonment or a relocation. Every relocation of a station involves in one sense an abandonment of the old station, but it was not the intention of the legislature to prohibit all changes in the location of stations. Atty.-Gen. v. Eastern R. Co., 137 Mass. 45.

34. Atty.-Gen. v. Eastern R. Co., 137 Mass. 45.

35. Cunningham v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 Mass. 104, 32 N. E. 959.

36. See the statutes of the several states; and the following cases:

Alabama.— Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401.

Louisiana.— Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214.

Mississippi.— State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263; State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

Nebraska.— State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Nebr. 476, 27 N. W. 434.

New York.— People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

Vermont.— In re Railroad Com'rs, 79 Vt. 266, 65 Atl. 82.

England.— Southeastern R. Co. v. Railway Com'rs, 6 Q. B. D. 586, 45 J. P. 388, 50 L. J. Q. B. 201, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 203.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 136.

Necessity for action by railroad commissioners.— Where railroad commissioners are vested with jurisdiction of such matters, any person seeking to compel any action on the part of the railroad company in regard to the establishment, location, or change of stations must first secure the action of the railroad commissioners before the court will grant a mandamus. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Nebr. 476, 27 N. W. 434.

Designating location of new station.— Under the Mississippi statute depots must be located with due regard to the interests of the railroad company and the public convenience, and the railroad commission may designate the location of a new station in case the site selected by the railroad officials is inconvenient or inaccessible. State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

courts,[37] but will not be reversed unless clearly erroneous.[38] The powers and duties of these commissioners vary according to the provisions of the different statutes, and they can make only such orders as they are authorized to make by the statute,[39] which as to matters in derogation of the common-law rights of railroad companies will be strictly construed.[40] In some cases the statutes expressly provide that a railroad company shall not abolish or abandon a station or one which has been maintained for a certain length of time without the consent of the railroad commissioners,[41] under which statutes the commissioners may authorize the discontinuance of a station,[42] or a change of location.[43] Railroad commissioners have no power or jurisdiction to enforce contracts between railroad companies and private individuals as to the maintenance of stations,[44] and on an application for permission to discontinue a station the existence of such contracts should not enter into or affect their determination.[45] So also on an

37. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

38. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901 [affirmed in 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163].

39. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401; State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263; Railroad Com'rs v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 26 S. C. 353, 2 S. E. 127; Southeastern R. Co. v. Railway Com'rs, 6 Q. B. D. 586, 45 J. P. 388, 50 L. J. Q. B. 201, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 203.

Powers of railroad commissioners.— Under the Alabama statutes prescribing the powers of railroad commissioners they have no power to require a railroad company to change the location of a station or to establish a station in a town of less than one thousand inhabitants, where the statute does not require the maintenance of a station. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401. The Mississippi statute authorizing the railroad commission to designate the location of any new station house where the site selected by the railroad company is inconvenient does not empower the commission to require a railroad company to maintain two separate depots for freight and for passengers in the same town. State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263. Under the Vermont statutes the power of the railroad commissioners is limited to the making of additions, changes, and alterations in station buildings, where a station is already established, and the power of requiring the establishment of a station at a particular place is vested in the supreme court. In re Railroad Com'rs, 79 Vt. 266, 65 Atl. 82. Under the English statute the railway commissioners have no jurisdiction to order a railroad company to rebuild and reopen for passenger traffic a station which the company has lawfully closed and pulled down, the reasonable facilities for traffic which by section 2 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1854 a railway company is required to afford, having no application to stations that are not in use. Darlaston Local Bd. v. London, etc., R. Co., [1894] 2 Q. B. 694, 63 L. J. Q. B. 826, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 461, 8 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 216, 9 Reports 712, 43 Wkly. Rep. 29 [overruling Winsford Local Bd. v. Cheshire Line Committee, 24 Q. B. D. 456, 59 L. J. Q. B. 372, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 268, 7 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 72, 38 Wkly. Rep. 511].

40. State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263.

41. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 37 Conn. 153; State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

What constitutes a station.— The word "station" as used in a statute forbidding a railroad company to abandon a station without the consent of the railroad commissioners does not apply to a mere platform at which certain trains sometimes stop to take on or leave passengers, but at which no office or agent is kept or tickets sold and which is not treated by the company as a station or designated as such upon its time-tables or lists of stations. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 41 Conn. 134.

Changing the site of a depot from one place to another in the same town is not abolishing it within the meaning of a statute prohibiting the abolition or disuse of any depot when once established without the consent of the railroad commissioners. State v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 68 Miss. 653, 9 So. 469.

Right of lessor to abolish station established by lessee.— Where on the expiration of a railroad lease the property reverts to the lessor, the latter is bound by the establishment of a station made by the lessee and cannot abandon such station except as provided by the statute with the approval of the railroad commissioners. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 37 Conn. 153.

42. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

43. Cunningham v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 Mass. 104, 32 N. E. 959; Atty.-Gen. v. Eastern R. Co., 137 Mass. 45.

44. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

45. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

application for permission to abandon a station the commissioners are only to determine the issue as to whether it shall be abandoned and cannot impose conditions.[46] The abandonment of a station with the consent of the railroad commissioners, as authorized by statute, and the construction of a new station at a different place, does not constitute a contract with the state which will prevent the legislature from subsequently requiring the reëstablishment of the station abandoned.[47] Where an order of the railroad commissioners is merely permissive to the company, nothing further is necessary to make it effective;[48] but if it is mandatory, requiring affirmative action on the part of the company, it may be enforced by the courts,[49] except as to matters concerning which the powers of the commissioners are merely advisory.[50] The courts will not enforce orders of the commissioners which are not within the powers conferred upon them,[51] or orders within the scope of their powers which under the circumstances of the particular case are unreasonable or unjust.[52]

5. Remedies and Proceedings. Where the right to such a relief is clear mandamus is a proper remedy to compel the railroad company to establish a station,[53] or to restore one which has been abandoned or removed from its former location,[54] as where abandoned without the consent of the railroad commissioners, as required by statute;[55] but in such cases the general rule applies that mandamus will not be granted unless the right to have the thing done which is sought is clearly established,[56] and the burden is upon the relator to prove a case authorizing the issuing of the writ.[57] So also mandamus will not be granted to enforce a private

46. Chester v. Connecticut Valley R. Co., 41 Conn. 348.

Order not objectionable as conditional.— Where a railroad company applies for permission to abandon two stations and establish a new station at an intermediate point, an order authorizing their abandonment when the new station is provided is not invalid as imposing a condition. State v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 42 Conn. 56, holding that the provision as to the new station, although termed in the order a "condition," is merely a limitation as to the time when the order shall take effect.

47. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 43 Conn. 351.

48. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 158 N. Y. 421, 53 N. E. 163 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 158, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 901].

49. People v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 32 N. Y. App. Div. 120, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 850 [affirmed in 165 N. Y. 362, 59 N. E. 138].

Under the South Carolina statute it is held that the railroad commissioners cannot maintain a suit to compel compliance with their orders, but that the remedy is by an action for the penalty prescribed by the statute, to be brought by the attorney-general upon the request of the railroad commissioners. Railroad Com'rs v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 26 S. C. 353, 2 S. E. 127.

50. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401.

51. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 137 Ala. 439, 34 So. 401; State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263.

52. State v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 644, 54 N. W. 461; State v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 87 Miss. 679, 40 So. 263.

But an order is not unreasonable which requires the establishment of a station at a particular place where a demand for such station exists merely because the maintenance of that station will not be remunerative to the company, but regard should be had to the financial ability of the company in view of its entire business to establish and maintain such station. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 109 La. 247, 33 So. 214.

53. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 130 Ill. 175, 22 N. E. 857; State v. Republican Valley R. Co., 18 Nebr. 512, 26 N. W. 205, 17 Nebr. 647, 24 N. W. 329, 52 Am. St. Rep. 424.

54. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 37 Conn. 153; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 90 Minn. 277, 96 N. W. 81.

55. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 37 Conn. 153.

56. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 396, 78 N. E. 784; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556; State v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 200, 25 So. 126; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 74 Nebr. 77, 103 N. W. 1087; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Washington Territory, 142 U. S. 492, 12 S. Ct. 283, 35 L. ed. 1092 [reversing 3 Wash. Terr. 303, 18 Pac. 604]. See also, generally, Mandamus, 26 Cyc. 151.

A railroad company will not be required by mandamus, in the absence of statute, to establish new or additional stations where the cost of maintaining them would exceed the profits to the company, and the public is already reasonably provided for by the stations established. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 152 Ill. 230, 38 N. E. 562, 26 L. R. A. 224.

57. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. People, 132 Ill. 559, 24 N. E. 643, 22 Am. St. Rep. 556.

contract relating to the establishment or maintenance of a station,[58] or to compel a railroad company to establish a station at a particular point within a certain town or city.[59] Where there is a valid contract in regard to the location or maintenance of a station an action may be maintained for damages for a breach thereof,[60] or to recover the value of the land conveyed as the consideration for the agreement.[61] But the specific performance of such contracts is discretionary with the court,[62] and performance will not be decreed when it will result in great hardship to the railroad company, without any considerable benefit to the other party,[63] or where the interests of the public would be prejudiced thereby,[64] or the terms of the contract are vague and indefinite.[65]

V. RIGHT OF WAY AND OTHER INTERESTS IN LAND.*

A. Capacity to Acquire and Hold Land — 1. IN GENERAL. In the absence of restrictions in its charter or governing statute a railroad company which is a properly going corporation [66] has power to acquire, hold, and use necessary real estate for the construction and maintenance of its road; [67] and generally this power is expressly given and regulated by statute.[68] This power is not exhausted

58. Florida, etc., R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482, 13 So. 103, 34 Am. St. Rep. 30, 20 L. R. A. 419.

59. Florida, etc., R. Co. v. State, 31 Fla. 482, 13 So. 103, 34 Am. St. Rep. 30, 20 L. R. A. 419.

60. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Crandell, 75 Ark. 89, 86 S. W. 855; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Camp, 130 Ga. 1, 60 S. E. 177; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. St. Rep. 719; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Robards, 60 Tex. 545, 48 Am. St. Rep. 268; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Daws, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 36 S. W. 497.

Measure of damages.— In an action by a landowner for breach of an agreement to build or maintain a station on or near his land the measure of damages is the difference between what the land would have been worth if the station had been built and what it is worth without the station (Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Whipps, 87 S. W. 298, 27 Ky. L. Rep. 977; Brooklyn Hills Imp. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 80 N. Y. App. Div. 508, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 187 [affirmed in 178 N. Y. 593, 70 N. E. 1096]); and if the evidence is conflicting and there is evidence that no actual damage has been sustained a verdict for nominal damages only will not be set aside as inadequate (Brooklyn Hills Imp. Co. v. N. Y., etc., R. Co., supra). When a person purchases land from a railroad company adjacent to its station under an agreement that the station shall be maintained at such place, he may, in case the station is removed, recover the depreciation in the value of his property and is entitled to show the diminution in rental value and injury to his hotel business but can recover only for such diminution as results from the removal of the station. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Molloy, 64 Tex. 607.

Pleading.— In an action by a landowner for damages for failure to locate a station on plaintiff's land brought against the successor of the company with which the contract was made the complaint does not state a cause of action against defendant if it fails to allege any transaction with or acts establishing contractual relations between plaintiff and such company. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Newman, 128 Ga. 281, 57 S. E. 514.

61. International, etc., R. Co. v. Dawson 62 Tex. 260.

62. Conger v. New York, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Y. 29, 23 N. E. 983.

63. Conger v. New York, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Y. 29, 23 N. E. 983.

64. Marsh v. Farbury, etc., R. Co., 64 Ill. 414, 16 Am. Rep. 564; Conger v. New York, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Y. 29, 23 N. E. 983.

65. Wilson v. Northampton, etc., Junction R. Co., L. R. 9 Ch. 279, 43 L. J. Ch. 503, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 147, 22 Wkly. Rep. 380.

66. Greenwood Lake, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 5 Silv. Sup. (N. Y.) 305, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 26 [affirmed in 134 N. Y. 335, 31 N. E. 874], holding that since a corporation organized under Gen. R. Act (2 Rev. St. 7th ed. p. 1569) ceases to exist within five years after its articles of association are filed, unless it begins the construction of its road, a grant to such a corporation ten years after its organization and before it has constructed any road conveys no title.

67. Blackburn v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,467, 2 Flipp. 525; Reg. v. Smith, 43 U. C. Q. B. 369.

68. Alabama.— Georgia Pac. R. Co. v. Wilks, 86 Ala. 478, 6 So. 34, construing the act of March 8, 1876, which repealed the act of Dec. 29, 1868.

Illinois.— Lake St. El. R. Co. v. Carmichael, 184 Ill. 348, 56 N. E. 372 [affirming 82 Ill. App. 344].

New York.— Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. 107, construing Laws (1850), c. 140, § 28, subd. 3, § 49.

* By Henry H. Skyles.

by the company's acquiring as much real estate as it at the time needs, but it may afterward acquire such additional property as its needs require.[69]

2. Foreign Railroad Companies. In accordance with the rules regulating the power of foreign or non-resident corporations generally, to acquire and hold land in another state,[70] a railroad company organized under the laws of one state may acquire and hold land for railroad purposes in another state, provided its charter and the governing laws of its state permit it to do so, and provided it is not prohibited from doing so by the laws of such other state.[71] This power, however, is subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be imposed by the laws of the latter state;[72] and a non-resident company may be prohibited from acquiring and holding land within the state unless it is specially authorized by the local legislature,[73] or becomes a corporation under the local laws.[74] But where a non-resident railroad company is not absolutely prohibited from acquiring and holding land within a state, but is required only to perform certain conditions, a conveyance to such a railroad company which has not complied with the statute is not void, but passes title as against the grantor and others, and can be attacked, if at all, only by the state;[75] and a title may be acquired by it by adverse posses-

Pennsylvania.— Jarden v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 3 Whart. 502.

South Carolina.— South Carolina R. Co. v. Blake, 9 Rich. 228.

Texas.— Smail v. McMurphy, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 409, 32 S. W. 788.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 137.

Whether or not the limit of the amount of land that a railroad company may acquire for the construction and operation of its road has been overstepped is a proper subject of judicial investigation where the controversy before the court arises from an alleged encroachment by another railroad company; but every reasonable intendment must be made in favor of the corporation that was first to acquire title. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. 858.

69. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 17 Ill. 123 (holding that the power of acquiring land for work-shops is not exhausted by the apparent completion of the road if an increase of business demands more); South Carolina R. Co. v. Blake, 9 Rich. (S. C.) 228.

That a city grants a right of way in an alley to a railroad company does not prevent the company from acquiring by purchase a private right of way in addition thereto on lands adjoining the alley. Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 113 Iowa 561, 85 N. W. 902.

70. See, generally, Foreign Corporations, 19 Cyc. 1240 et seq.

71. Thompson v. Waters, 25 Mich. 214, 12 Am. Rep. 243; Myers v. McGavock, 39 Nebr. 843, 58 N. W. 522, 42 Am. St. Rep. 627; State v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 25 Vt. 433. But see Holbert v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 45 Iowa 23.

Real estate for debt.—A railroad company organized under the laws of the state of Indiana and competent to take the title to real estate therein in payment of or security for debts due it is competent to exercise the same powers in the state of Michigan, since the legislature of Michigan has not adopted any policy or enacted any statute which restricts the courts from applying the usual principles of comity to such corporation. Thompson v. Waters, 25 Mich. 214, 12 Am. Rep. 243.

Transfer by domestic to foreign company. — The fact that a railroad company, organized under the laws of one state and carrying on its business therein, has leased and transferred for the term of its corporate existence its road and business to a foreign railroad corporation, and that the latter has taken possession of the road and is managing and conducting the business thereof, does not prevent the domestic corporation from applying to acquire the title to lands necessary to be used in carrying on the business. In re New York, etc., R. Co., 35 Hun (N. Y.) 220 [affirmed in 99 N. Y. 12, 1 N. E. 27].

72. See Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 66 Fed. 809, 14 C. C. A. 116.

73. Com. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 114 Pa. St. 340, 7 Atl. 756 (construing the act of April 26, 1855, section 5); New York, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 33 Pa. St. 175.

74. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 66 Fed. 809, 14 C. C. A. 116.

Under Nebr. Const. art. 11, § 8, no power of eminent domain or power to acquire a right of way or real estate for depot or other uses can be acquired by a foreign corporation unless it is organized as a corporation under the laws of Nebraska. Koenig v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 27 Nebr. 699, 43 N. W. 423; Trester v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 23 Nebr. 242, 36 N. W. 502; State v. Scott, 22 Nebr. 628, 36 N. W. 121.

75. Hanlon v. Union Pac. R. Co., 40 Nebr. 52, 58 N. W. 590; Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 66 Fed. 809, 14 C. C. A. 116.

Under the Pennsylvania act of April 26, 1855, which forbids a foreign corporation to acquire and hold real estate, a deed of conveyance of land to such a company is not void but passes the title and a company may hold the land subject to the commonwealth's right of escheat. Hickory Farm Oil Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 32 Fed. 22.

sion which will be good against all but the state.[76] But even where a non-resident company has power to hold land in the state, it cannot acquire it by eminent domain without the assent of the local legislature,[77] although this assent may be gathered by implication from a series of acts of the legislature.[78] A provision prohibiting a foreign corporation from acquiring land by condemnation proceedings does not prevent it from acquiring land by agreement with any citizen having the right to contract.[79]

3. Purposes For Which Land May Be Acquired.[80] Except in so far as restricted by its charter or governing statute,[81] a railroad company may acquire and hold such real estate as is reasonably necessary to enable it to carry out any purpose authorized by its charter; or in other words, it may acquire such real estate as is reasonably necessary to enable it to perform its corporate duties and functions in constructing and operating a railroad,[82] as for the construction of necessary appurtenances without which the road could not be successfully operated,[83] such as depot grounds and approaches,[84] freight platforms and warehouses,[85] car and engine houses,[86] water tanks,[87] repairing or work shops,[88] houses for bridge and switch tenders,[89] coal and wood yards;[90] or lands reasonably necessary to procure

76. Hanlon v. Union Pac. R. Co., 40 Nebr. 52, 58 N. W. 590.

77. Abbott v. New York, etc., R. Co., 145 Mass. 450, 15 N. E. 91; Gray v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 81 Mo. 126; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Foltz, 52 Fed. 627. And see, generally, Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 573 et seq.

78. Abbott v. New York, etc., R. Co., 145 Mass. 450, 15 N. E. 91.

79. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Foltz, 52 Fed. 627, construing Ark. Const. art. 12, § 11.

80. Purposes for which land may be taken by a railroad company by condemnation proceedings see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 587 et seq.

81. Case v. Kelly, 133 U. S. 21, 10 S. Ct. 216, 33 L. ed. 513, holding that a railroad company cannot use lands for purposes not specified in the act of incorporation.

82. Alabama.—Morgan v. Donovan, 58 Ala. 241.

Connecticut.— Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Coffin, 50 Conn. 150.

Indiana.— Pfaff v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 108 Ind. 144, 9 N. E. 93; Taber v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 15 Ind. 459.

Missouri.— Pacific R. Co. v. Seely, 45 Mo. 212, 100 Am. Dec. 369.

United States.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. 858.

England.— Dodd v. Salisbury, etc., R. Co., 1 Giffard 158, 5 Jur. N. S. 782, 65 Eng. Reprint 867.

Canada.— In re Columbia, etc., R. Co., 8 Brit. Col. 415, for branch lines.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 139.

Presumption.— Under a provision that a railroad corporation may purchase such real estate as may be necessary for the construction of its road, it will be presumed that lands deeded to it are acquired for that purpose. Chouteau v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 122 Mo. 375, 22 S. W. 458, 30 S. W. 299; Yates v. Van de Bogert, 56 N. Y. 526. The actual appropriation of land for such purposes by the successor of the company that acquired it, soon after such acquisition and continuously thereafter, affords a reasonable presumption that it was acquired for those purposes. Chouteau v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., supra. A railroad company, prior to the Indiana law of Jan. 20, 1852, authorizing railroad companies to receive lands in payment of subscriptions to stock, had no power primarily to acquire title to land other than for the immediate purposes of the road; and where defendants were estopped to deny that the company did acquire title to the land, it must be presumed that such title was acquired for such purposes. Taber v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 15 Ind. 459.

83. Lawrence v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 39 La. Ann. 427, 2 So. 69, 4 Am. St. Rep. 265.

84. Illinois.— Carmody v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 111 Ill. 69.

Missouri.— Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Muder, 49 Mo. 165.

Nevada.— Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 5 Nev. 358.

New Jersey.— State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

New York.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Kip, 46 N. Y. 546, 7 Am. Rep. 385.

North Carolina.— Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 137 N. C. 189, 49 S. E. 202, holding that taking title to land in trust for the purpose of a public square around a depot for the common use of both the railroad and the town is not ultra vires.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 139.

85. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Kip, 46 N. Y. 546, 7 Am. Rep. 385.

86. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Muder, 49 Mo. 165; State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

87. State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

88. Low v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 18 Ill. 324 (paint shop); Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 17 Ill. 123; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Muder, 49 Mo. 165.

89. State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

90. State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

materials or for the economical construction and maintenance of the road,[91] such as land for the purpose of getting cross ties and firewood,[92] or from which to obtain gravel to keep its road-bed in repair;[93] or real estate may be acquired and held even as security for debts.[94] And in the absence of statute otherwise it is ordinarily a question for the railroad company, when acting in good faith, to decide what lands are reasonably necessary for the purposes of its road,[95] except where the question arises in a proceeding by a creditor against the company, to subject lands which are superfluous or not necessary for the use of the company to the payment of his claim, in which case the court is the proper authority to determine this point.[96] But in the absence of a provision in the statute either general or special, a railroad company cannot acquire and hold real estate indefinitely without regard to the uses to be made of it.[97] It cannot acquire land for speculation only;[98] nor, unless authorized by statute, can it acquire lands which are a mere matter of convenience and not reasonably necessary to carry into effect some power for which it was created,[99] such as for the purpose of erecting dwelling-houses for employees,[1] or car or locomotive factories,[2] or for purposes of mining.[3]

B. Modes of Acquiring Land or Rights Therein[4] — 1. In General. As a general rule a railroad company may acquire real estate or an interest therein for the construction, maintenance, and operation of its road by grant,[5] or pur-

91. Overmyer v. Williams, 15 Ohio 26.

92. Mallett v. Simpson, 94 N. C. 37, 55 Am. Rep. 595.

93. Smail v. McMurphy, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 409, 32 S. W. 788. See Watson v. Northern R. Co., 5 Ont. 550.

94. Thompson v. Waters, 25 Mich. 214, 12 Am. Rep. 243; Blunt v. Walker, 11 Wis. 334, 78 Am. Dec. 709 (holding that a proviso in a railroad charter that it shall not hold, purchase, or deal in land other than that required for the location of the road does not prohibit it from exercising the power incident to all corporations of taking real securities for debts growing out of transactions within its general corporate powers); Blackburn v. Selma, etc., R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,467, 3 Flipp. 525.

95. Hull v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 70 Nebr. 756, 98 N. W. 47; Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Great Western R. Co., 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 43. And see, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 636 et seq.

96. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Great Western R. Co., 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 43.

97. Case v. Kelly, 133 U. S. 21, 10 S. Ct. 216, 33 L. ed. 513.

98. Pacific R. Co. v. Seely, 45 Mo. 212, 100 Am. Dec. 369. See Case v. Kelly, 133 U. S. 21, 10 S. Ct. 216, 33 L. ed. 513.

99. Alabama.— Wilks v. Georgia Pac. R. Co., 79 Ala. 180; Morgan v. Donovan, 58 Ala. 241.

Indian Territory.— Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Bond, 6 Indian Terr. 515, 98 S. W. 335.

Minnesota.— Olson v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 419, 37 N. W. 953, holding that Act (1857), § 1, subd. 1, does not give a railroad company a right to dig a ditch three miles long at right angles to its track to carry off the water accumulating along the road-bed.

New Jersey.— State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

Wisconsin.— Waldo v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 14 Wis. 575.

England.— Dodd v. Salisbury, etc., R. Co., 1 Giffard 158, 5 Jur. N. S. 782, 65 Eng. Reprint 867; Eversfield v. Mid-Sussex R. Co., 1 Giffard 153, 65 Eng. Reprint 865 [affirmed in 3 De G. & J. 286, 5 Jur. N. S. 776, 28 L. J. Ch. 107, 7 Wkly. Rep. 102, 60 Eng. Ch. 286, 44 Eng. Reprint 1278], holding that a railroad company, under its compulsory powers, cannot acquire the fee simple in land for the mere purpose of excavating soil in order to construct an embankment.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 139.

1. State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

2. State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

3. Wilks v. Georgia Pac. R. Co., 79 Ala. 180; State v. Mansfield Tp., 23 N. J. L. 510, 57 Am. Dec. 409.

4. Modes by which corporations generally may acquire land see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1126 et seq.

5. McClure v. Missouri River, etc., R. Co., 9 Kan. 373.

Grants of mining lands in aid of railroads see Mines and Minerals, 25 Cyc. 547.

Grant of public lands for right of way or in aid of railroad see Public Lands, 32 Cyc. 937 et seq.

A railroad right of way is an easement which can be acquired by grant, either from the owner or from the state through the exercise of the right of eminent domain. Clark v. Wabash R. Co., 132 Iowa 11, 109 N. W. 309.

Excess land.—An easement on land claimed to have been donated for railroad purposes in excess of the company's charter right of way will not be sustained where the land is not necessary for its proper operation and where the only evidence of the donation is a map made by one of the prior owners and the company's engineer, and it does not chase,[6] or other contract;[7] by completing a road over the lands and thereby exposing the company to liability for compensation when such right and liability are provided by statute;[8] by a statutory dedication,[9] adverse possession or prescription,[10] or estoppel;[11] or by the exercise of the power of eminent domain.[12] Under some statutes a railroad company may receive a grant of land in advance of its organization, and after it has been organized, ratify and make it obligatory on the grantor.[13] A statute providing that companies incorporated to construct buildings and tracks for the use of railroad companies may acquire such rights of way as the railroad commissioners shall deem necessary does not apply to railroad companies; and hence the consent of the railroad commissioners is not necessary under such a statute to a railroad company's acquiring a right of way.[14] Where the provisions of a statute to authorize the formation of railroad companies, and to regulate the same as to the mode in which a company may acquire title to land for the purposes of its road, are inconsistent with the provisions of the charter of a company incorporated before its passage, such company may acquire title in the manner prescribed by its charter.[15]

2. Adverse Possession or Prescription. A railroad company may acquire an easement for a right of way, or other interests in land, by adverse possession or prescription,[16] by remaining in the adverse and uninterrupted possession of the appear that the other owners assented to a donation outside of the right of way or that the company ever assumed any title or claim to such property until after suit brought to restrain encroachments on the right of way. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. McReynolds, (Tenn. Ch. App. 1898) 48 S. W. 258.

6. McClure v. Missouri River, etc., R. Co., 9 Kan. 373; Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913.

Purchase from another railroad company see Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 129 Mo. 62, 31 S. W. 451.

A railroad company authorized to build a bridge for its railroad across a river is authorized to buy for the same purpose a bridge, at or near the place, which is already built. Thompson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 625.

Where a railroad contracts to buy land and is notified by third persons not to pay any money to its vendor and thereupon files a bill for payment into court and interpleader, and the decree adjudges the title to be in such vendor and orders the money paid to him, the company takes title by purchase and not by condemnation. Chamberlain v. Northeastern R. Co., 41 S. C. 399, 19 S. E. 743, 44 Am. St. Rep. 717, 25 L. R. A. 139.

7. Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913; Scott v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 94 Fed. 340, 36 C. C. A. 282; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Foltz, 52 Fed. 627.

Where the title under a contract is sufficient, the fact that the company did not for the statutory period adversely occupy its entire right of way is not material (Scott v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 94 Fed. 340, 36 C. C. A. 282); and evidence of a partial occupancy to show that there was not an adverse holding of the remainder is not admissible in a suit, which at its inception was one for damages for occupancy of the entire right of way in violation of the contract by which it was acquired (Scott v. Texas, etc., R. Co., supra).

Under lease.— Where a railroad company acquires no right to lay tracks in a projected street, shown on a plat of certain real estate, under a lease of a portion thereof authorizing the laying of tracks in another street, it can only acquire such right by condemnation or by agreement with the owners of the land. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Canton Co., 104 Md. 682, 65 Atl. 337.

8. Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913.

9. See Dedication, 13 Cyc. 448, 449.

But under a statute empowering a railroad company to take land by voluntary grant or by condemnation, it cannot acquire land by dedication. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Marble, 112 Mich. 4, 70 N. W. 319.

10. See infra, V, B, 2.

11. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Rayl, 69 Ind. 424; Matter of Rochester, etc., R. Co., 4 Silv. Sup. (N. Y.) 92, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 279. And see Estoppel, 16 Cyc. 768.

12. See Piedmont, etc., R. Co. v. Speelman, 67 Md. 260, 10 Atl. 77, 293; Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913; and, generally, Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 543.

Resolutions.— Where the charter of a railroad company authorizes it to take land not exceeding a certain width for a right of way and land beyond that limit "which the directors shall, by resolution adopted by them, declare to be necessary for the use of said company," the resolution mentioned must be adopted at a meeting of the directors at which a quorum is present. Stringham v. Oshkosh, etc., R. Co., 33 Wis. 471.

13. Bravard v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 1, 17 N. E. 183.

14. Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 113 Iowa 561, 85 N. W. 902.

15. Clarkson v. Hudson River R. Co., 12 N. Y. 304.

16. Ohio River R. Co. v. Johnson, 50 W. Va. 499, 40 S. E. 407. And see, generally, Adverse Possession, 1 Cyc. 968.

premises, with color of title, for longer than the statutory period,[17] or for a long period of time, usually twenty years or more.[18] Thus an easement by prescription may be acquired by a railroad company by its adverse possession and continuous use of a strip of land for eighteen years as a right of way,[19] or by ten years' adverse occupancy and use.[20] But the erection, maintenance, and operation of a telegraph line by a railroad company does not constitute an appropriation of the strip of land between the poles and the line of the railroad so as to give the company title thereto after twenty years.[21]

3. Rights and Remedies of Private Owners. Where a railroad company seeks to appropriate land and fails to take all the necessary steps, the proper remedy of the owner for compensation and damages is, under some statutes, to compel an appropriation or condemnation;[22] and it has also been held that where a party having knowledge of the possession and use of land by a railroad company afterward takes a lease of coal beneath, his only remedy, if any, is under the statute for damages.[23] A landowner may maintain an injunction to restrain a railroad company from taking possession of his property without first having acquired the legal right to do so and without making compensation therefor;[24] or if a

17. Clark v. Wabash R. Co., 132 Iowa 11, 109 N. W. 309; Blair v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Fed. 539. See Jessup v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 28 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 583. But see Narron v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 856, 29 S. E. 358, 40 L. R. A. 415, holding that since a railroad company can obtain an easement for a right of way through the exercise of its right of eminent domain without the owner's grant or consent, it cannot obtain title to such right of way by prescription.

Possession and use of right of way must be adverse see Texas Western R. Co. v. Wilson, 83 Tex. 153, 18 S. W. 325. And the mere construction, maintenance, and occasional use by a railroad company, which has no conveyance of the land, of an ordinary railroad track across a platted street while it still remains unimproved and unfit for public use and before public convenience or necessity requires it to be opened and improved for use as a street does not constitute adverse possession as against the public. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Duluth, 73 Minn. 270, 76 N. W. 35, 43 L. R. A. 433. Occupancy of land confined to the laying and use of tracks is not sufficient to establish adverse possession beyond the road-bed and track or necessary right of way. Brinker v. Union Pac., etc., R. Co., 11 Colo. App. 166, 55 Pac. 207.

Although a right of way of a certain width is not all occupied by tracks or any other structure, a right of way to that extent may be acquired by prescription where the character and extent of possession and acts of the railroad company considered with reference to the nature of railroads are such as clearly indicate an adverse claim to such right of way. Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 185 Ill. 154, 56 N. E. 1050.

Possession and use must be continuous see Texas Western R. Co. v. Wilson, 83 Tex. 153, 18 S. W. 325.

18. Fortune v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 58 S. W. 711, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 749; McCutchen v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 118 La. 436, 43 So. 42; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mossman, 90 Tenn. 157, 16 S. W. 64, 25 Am. St. Rep. 670; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 128 Fed. 1, 63 C. C. A. 1; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Scott, 77 Fed. 726, 23 C. C. A. 424, 37 L. R. A. 179.

Purchasing from adverse holder.— Where a railroad company having the right of eminent domain takes land as a purchaser from one holding adverse possession, its title becomes good when the combined adverse possession of the railroad company and its grantor exceeds twenty-one years. Covert v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 204 Pa. St. 341, 54 Atl. 170 [reversing 18 Pa. Super. Ct. 541].

19. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 266.

20. Welch v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Mo. App. 127.

21. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Beck, 152 Ind. 421, 53 N. E. 439.

22. Hatry v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 426, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 238 [affirmed in 23 Cinc. L. Bul. 281], construing Rev. St. § 6448. See also Todd v. Meaford, 6 Ont. L. Rep. 469, 2 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 12,779; Clarke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 35 U. C. Q. B. 57; Welland County v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 31 U. C. Q. B. 539 [affirming 30 U. C. Q. B. 147]; and, generally, Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 979 et seq.

Where the true owner was absent, and the railroad company, having a right by statute to take possession of the land, agreed to purchase the land for the purposes of its road, without arbitration, from the owner's brother, believing him to be, as he professed to be, the owner, and paid him the full value therefor, and was by him let into possession, the true owner cannot maintain ejectment, but must look to the company for compensation under the statutes. McLean v. Great Western R. Co., 33 U. C. Q. B. 198.

23. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 604.

24. Collins v. Craig Shipbuilding Co., 27 Ohio Cir. Ct. 802; Lyon v. Green Bay, etc., R. Co., 42 Wis. 548; Diedrichs v. Northwestern Union R. Co., 33 Wis. 219. See, generally, Injunctions, 22 Cyc. 835; Emiconveyance has been obtained by fraud, he may maintain a suit in equity to have it canceled.[25]

C. Agreements, Licenses, and Implied Grants — 1. Agreements as to Right of Way or Use of Land in General. Agreements entered into by a railroad company in respect to the acquisition of land for a right of way or other railroad purposes and the rights and liabilities of the parties under such agreements are controlled by the rules regulating contracts generally,[26] including agreements to convey or secure conveyances to the railroad company,[27] and agreements

NENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 989 text and notes 8 and 9.

Wis. Laws (1861), c. 175, providing that no injunction shall be granted to prevent the occupancy of land by a railroad company in certain cases applies only to cases where land has been actually occupied by the company with its tracks or depots and with either the express or implied consent of the owner; it does not apply to a case where the company entered by force against the owner's protest and commenced preparing the land as a road. Bohlman v. Green Bay, etc., R. Co., 30 Wis. 105.

It is no defense to an action to enjoin a railroad company from unlawfully continuing its possession and use of private property that the owner might tender a deed to, and demand compensation from, the company for the land in question. Collins v. Craig Shipbuilding Co., 27 Ohio Cir. Ct. 802.

25. Grundy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 98 Ky. 117, 32 S. W. 392, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 669, holding, however, that the landowner could not have the conveyance canceled merely because, after the right of way was procured, it was conveyed to another company pursuant to a previous agreement to construct the road, in consideration of a right of way through the county and a specified amount as a bonus. And see, generally, CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS, 6 Cyc. 282.

26. St. Louis, etc., Electric R. Co. v. Van Hoorebeke, 191 Ill. 633, 61 N. E. 326; Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Bond, 6 Indian Terr. 515, 98 S. W. 335 (as to right to recover part of purchase-price retained on performance of contract); Semple v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 172 Pa. St. 369, 33 Atl. 564; Lippincott v. Mine Hill, etc., R. Co., 2 Leg. Chron. (Pa.) 310 (agreement that owner of land might mine coal beneath surface); Albert v. Tidewater R. Co., 107 Va. 256, 58 S. E. 575 (requiring the company to pay one hundred dollars per acre for new land acquired and to reconvey that portion of the old right of way not used). And see, generally, CONTRACTS, 9 Cyc. 213; VENDOR AND PURCHASER.

An agreement for a railroad right of way cannot rest partly in writing and partly in parol, and if so made the written contract supersedes the oral. Waldron v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 55 Mich. 420, 21 N. W. 870.

Consent of tenant.—Where a proposed right of way extends through demised premises, the lessee is a necessary party to the negotiations and contracts leading up to the procurement of the right of way. Thompson v. Erie R. Co., 96 N. Y. App. Div. 539, 89 N. Y. Suppl. 92. But a railroad company building a road on another's land to a quarry thereon cannot justify under authority from a lessee who had only a license to quarry and a right of way to remove the rock. Snell v. Wasatch, etc., Valley R. Co., 3 Utah 192, 2 Pac. 193.

Presumption.— There is a presumption that a contract by a railroad company in obtaining a right of way was not intended to barter away its right to exercise any of its functions, such as the making of necessary improvements. Lilley v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 247, 62 Atl. 852.

An option contract to purchase a right of way is not waived by the mere fact that the railroad company continues its proceedings to condemn the right of way, after having obtained such contract from the legal owner of the premises. Starnes v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 131 Wis. 85, 109 N. W. 100, 925, 111 N. W. 62.

A written contract which releases and quitclaims to certain persons, in consideration of benefits to accrue, a right of way for railroad purposes, in trust for a railroad company, is not a power of attorney, but it invests the persons named with an immediate right to the real estate described. Burrow v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 107 Ind. 432, 8 N. E. 167.

27. Illinois.— Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. 584, 76 N. E. 840; Turpin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 11.

Iowa.— Wetherell v. Brobst, 23 Iowa 586.

Michigan.— Wilson v. Muskegon, etc., R. Co., 132 Mich. 469, 93 N. W. 1059, holding that an instrument providing that the grantor for a consideration agrees to convey to defendant railroad company a strip across certain land described, on the request of the railroad company, at any time within a year from the date of the agreement, when construed in connection with Comp. Laws, § 6234, does not constitute a conveyance of a right of way across the land described, or give the railroad company a right of possession of such right of way as against a subsequent grantee, although the company has constructed its road over the line and maintained possession for several years.

New Jersey.— Huntington v. Headley, (Ch. 1898) 41 Atl. 670.

South Carolina.— Williams v. Oliver, Cheves 115.

Wisconsin.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. H. W. Wright Lumber Co., 123 Wis. 46, 100 N. W. 1034.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 147.

Right of entry.— A written agreement to sell land to a railroad company for a speci-for the ascertainment and payment of compensation.[28] Such agreements to be valid must be for a sufficient consideration,[29] and must not be contrary to public fied price within a certain time and a tender of the amount within such time and a refusal to accept it will not authorize the company to enter upon the land afterward and locate its road upon the same. Whitman v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 3 Allen (Mass.) 133. So where an owner of land agrees to convey to a railroad company within a specified time a right of way with the unrestricted right and privilege to enter on, locate, and construct a railroad, and the consideration for the contract is a nominal sum and the advantage of the location of the line through the owner's property, the company has no implied right to enter upon the land and build a railroad prior to the execution of the deed. Boring Lumber Co. v. Roots, 49 Oreg. 569, 90 Pac. 487.

Estate or interest.—An obligor in a bond to a railroad company to sell only such lands owned by him as shall be required for the road is not bound to convey any greater estate in the land than the company justly requires for its legitimate uses under its charter. Hill v. Western Vermont R. Co., 32 Vt. 68.

Where the agreement is prepared by the railroad company any doubt as to its true meaning should be construed adversely to the company, and not construed most favorably to the grantee under the general rule. Lockwood v. Ohio River R. Co., 103 Fed. 243, 43 C. C. A. 202.

Recordation.—A contract to convey a strip of land to a railroad for a right of way upon certain conditions is a contract relating to real estate within Hurd Rev. St. (1903) § 28, providing that deeds, mortgages, and other instruments relating to or affecting the title to real estate shall be recorded. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523.

Where an owner of land agrees by parol with an agent of a railroad company, without knowing his principal, to sell certain land for a fixed sum, he is not estopped twenty months thereafter, to refuse on demand to convey the property to the company for the price named, although the price named is a reasonable one, and the one subsequently demanded by the owner is unreasonable and exorbitant. Weigold v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 208 Pa. St. 81, 57 Atl. 188.

28. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Murphy, 19 Minn. 500 (holding that where a railroad was built over certain land with the owner's consent and with the understanding that the question of damages should be settled after the road was built, the understanding was that in the absence of gift or purchase such damage should be determined by special statutory proceedings for condemnation); Lehigh Valley Terminal Co. v. Currie, 54 N. J. Eq. 84, 33 Atl. 824 [affirmed in 54 N. J. Eq. 700, 37 Atl. 1117].

An agreement providing for the assessment of damages for a right of way when the road shall be "located" requires the assessment to be made when the road-bed is located and constructed on the land, and not when the final line has been duly adopted by the directors. Hoffman v. Bloomsburg, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 174, 27 Atl. 564.

A railroad company may dispense with the assessment by commissioners of damages for laying its track over private property by promising to pay such damages; and the landowner may recover on the special promise. Plott v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 65 N. C. 74.

Time of payment.—Where a landowner agrees to refer to arbitrators the question of damages to be paid by the company for a right of way, and there is no express agreement that time shall be given for paying the damages, they must be paid before the right of way can vest in the company. Stewart v. Raymond R. Co., 7 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 568.

29. See Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 Pac. 1124.

Prospective advantages, probable in their attainment, may be considered as well as the immediate benefit to be derived by the landowner from the construction of the road, in determining the reasonableness of a contract for the sale of a railroad right of way. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 Pac. 1124. Thus where a landowner, with a number of other landowners, agrees to donate land as a railroad right of way, and it appears that it is three and one-half miles from his residence to the nearest depot and that the new railroad is to provide a depot within a mile and a half, the necessary increase in the value of his land is a sufficient consideration for his agreement. Cadiz R. Co. v. Roach, 114 Ky. 934, 72 S. W. 280, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 1761.

Detriment to promisee.—The partial building of a railroad in reliance on a promise to donate a right of way is a sufficient detriment to the promisee to constitute a good consideration for the promise. Cadiz R. Co. v. Roach, 114 Ky. 934, 72 S. W. 280, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 1761. But a contract by a railroad company in consideration of a conveyance of a right of way to construct certain drains and sewers not rendered necessary by the construction of the road, and having no relation thereto, is void. Morgan v. Michigan Air-Line R. Co., 57 Mich. 430, 25 N. W. 161, 26 N. W. 865.

Release of groundless claim.—The desistence of a person from further opposition to the building of a railroad on certain land owned by the railroad company, but in possession of such person, is not a sufficient consideration for the company's agreement to pay him all damages which the county commissioners may assess for the building policy.[30] Where a bond is given to a railroad company conditioned to secure land for a right of way and depot grounds, etc., it requires that a good title be secured and that the land be paid for by the obligor before the condition is performed.[31] In the absence of specific provisions in its charter to the contrary, the power of making or receiving contracts as to the right of way may be exercised by the president of the railroad company.[32]

2. License, Acquiescence, or Consent. In the absence of a statutory provision otherwise, a railroad company may also acquire a license to construct its right of way over, or otherwise use, lands by the consent of the owner or other person entitled to give such consent.[33] This consent may be express, and in writing,[34] or, unless a statute provides otherwise,[35] it may be implied from the acts of acquiescence on the part of the owner, as where with full knowledge on his part he of the road. Botkin v. Livingston, 21 Kan. 232 [overruling Botkin v. Livingston, 16 Kan. 39].

Estoppel.— Where a landowner agrees to donate land to a railroad company for a right of way and thereafter the company commences work upon the road and grades the road-bed to a point near the grantor's land, and he then for the first time repudiates his grant, he is estopped from denying the obligations of his agreement on the ground that it was without consideration. Cadiz R. Co. v. Roach, 114 Ky. 934, 72 S. W. 280, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 1761.

30. Kettle River R. Co. v. Eastern R. Co., 41 Minn. 461, 43 N. W. 469, 6 L. R. A. 111 (holding that an agreement which, by its terms, gives an exclusive right of way to a railroad company in or through a certain tract of land in so far as it attempts to exclude other railroad corporations from acquiring a right of way over the same tract upon land not appropriated or acquired for its use, is against public policy and void); Lippincott v. Mine Hill, etc., R. Co., 2 Leg. Chron. (Pa.) 310 (holding, however, that where defendant railroad, in consideration of not paying damages for its right of way, agrees to permit the owner of adjoining land to mine coal under the road-bed providing that such owner, when ready to do so, shall give notice to defendant and defendant shall take proper care to secure its road or change its location, such agreement is not against public policy).

Not against public policy.—A contract to convey real estate to a railway company for the purpose of aiding it "in the construction, maintenance, and accommodation of its railway," provided it build a railway to a certain place, and locate its depot within a certain town, is not in contravention of public policy, or void. McClure v. Missouri River, etc., R. Co., 9 Kan. 373.

Discrimination toll to landowners.—A railroad company cannot contract with a landowner to lay a public switch over his land on condition that he be allowed to exact toll from shippers served by such switch, since the railroad company must so acquire its rights that it can impartially serve all of its customers; but public policy does not preclude the railroad company from contracting to construct a private switch on private land, and the landowner has a right to charge a rental for the privilege of passing over that part of the switch which is located on his land. Richards v. Ferguson Implement Co., 125 Mo. App. 428, 102 S. W. 606.

31. Frey v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 6 Tex. Civ. App. 29, 24 S. W. 950.

The construction of a depot is not a condition precedent to a railroad company's right to recover on a bond to secure a right of way and depot grounds for the company. Frey v. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co., 6 Tex. Civ. App. 29, 24 S. W. 950.

32. Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 137 N. C. 189, 49 S. E. 202.

33. See Tutt v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 28 S. C. 388, 5 S. E. 831.

Under S. C. Gen. St. § 1550, providing that notice shall be given to the owner of land that a right of way is required, and for his consent thereto, the consent of a life-tenant in possession will pass a license in the right of way as against the remaindermen, the company holding by force of its charter and not of the owner's deed. Tutt v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 28 S. C. 388, 5 S. E. 831.

Over canal lands.— In New York, although Const. (1894) art. 7, § 8, prohibits the legislature from selling or leasing the Erie canal, yet under Laws (1894), c. 338, § 25, giving the superintendent of public works supervisory power over these lands and of any railroad within ten rods of the canal, a license may be given to a railroad company to construct its track and operate its cars upon such land under the direction of the state authorities. McCarty v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 73 N. Y. App. Div. 34, 76 N. Y. Suppl. 321.

In Maryland a right of way cannot be acquired by a mere license, but only in the mode authorized by statute, that is, by a deed executed and recorded. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Algire, 63 Md. 319.

34. See Maginnis v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 112 Wis. 385, 88 N. W. 300, 88 Am. St. Rep. 986, 69 L. R. A. 833.

35. Hetfield v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 29 N. J. L. 571 [reversing 29 N. J. L. 206], holding that where a railroad company is authorized to take land with the consent of the owner, the consent required must be a legal consent which can be evidenced only by writing.

permits or acquiesces in the railroad company's taking possession of his land and expending large sums of money in constructing its road-bed.[36] Where the license is given upon certain conditions the railroad company cannot compel specific performance of the license without performing such conditions.[37] A purchaser of land over which railroad tracks are in operation at the time of the sale is chargeable with notice of a license granted by the landowner to the railroad company to lay and operate such tracks.[38] But where a railroad company constructs its tracks upon land without a legal right to do so, as without filing a written location or presenting a plan, or paying or tendering damages or taking other proper steps, it cannot enter upon the land except as a trespasser,[39] even for the purpose of removing rails laid or structures placed upon the land,[40] unless the tracks or structures were constructed with the consent or acquiescence of the owner;[41] and even though such consent has been given by one who holds an equitable title to the land, as by a mortgagor in possession, it cannot avail as against one holding the legal title, such as a title derived from the foreclosure of the mortgage.[42]

3. Implied Grants. A grant to a railroad company of land for its right of way or other uses may be implied from the owner's permitting it to take possession and use the land for a long time.[43] But the mere fact that a railroad company has entered on land, constructed its road, and occupied it for several years raises no presumption that the owner has sold the right of way to the company.[44] Under some statutes the presumption of a conveyance to a railroad company arises from its taking possession and completing the road and the failure of the landowner to take steps to have his damages assessed within a specified time thereafter.[45]

36. Snyder v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 527, 20 S. W. 885; Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 28 N. J. Eq. 27.

Where there is a written agreement defining the rights of the parties, the doctrine that if a railroad company takes possession of land for a public way, the owner thereof not objecting, the latter will be presumed to have consented thereto and impliedly agreed to accept a just compensation therefor and consented to rely on the statutory method of obtaining the sum, has no application. Maginnis v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 112 Wis. 385, 88 N. W. 300, 88 Am. St. Rep. 986, 69 L. R. A. 833.

37. Rome, etc., R. Co. v. Gleason, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 530, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 647.

38. Merchants' Union Barb-Wire Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 79 Iowa 613, 44 N. W. 900, holding that where a license is granted by a lot owner to a railroad company to lay and operate tracks on the street in front of his lots and the tracks are in operation when the lots are sold, the purchaser is charged with notice of the license.

39. Meriam v. Brown, 128 Mass. 391. But see Preston v. Sabine, etc., R. Co., 70 Tex. 375, 7 S. W. 825.

40. Meriam v. Brown, 128 Mass. 391.

41. Meriam v. Brown, 128 Mass. 391; Omaha Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. Whitney, 68 Nebr. 389, 94 N. W. 513, 99 N. W. 525, holding that where a company having no estate in land places upon it, with the consent of the owner, an embankment, ties, and rails, and uses such tracks without objection from the owner, it remains the property of the railroad company by an implied agreement.

42. Meriam v. Brown, 128 Mass. 391.

43. Paterson, etc., R. Co. v. Kamlah, 42 N. J. Eq. 93, 6 Atl. 444 [affirmed in 47 N. J. Eq. 331, 21 Atl. 954] (holding that where a company has been permitted by the owner of land to take possession of it for the purposes of its railroad and to occupy it accordingly, and with the necessary expenditure of money, adapt it to such uses, and has permitted it so to occupy it and use it for a long time, the facts are evidence of an agreement that the company should have the property upon making proper compensation); Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 6 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 273, 4 Ohio N. P. 127 (holding that where the owner of land permits a railroad to be constructed over it without objection, or large expenditures to be made upon the faith of his apparent acquiescence, he cannot then reclaim the land or enjoin its use by the railroad company, his only right being to compensation).

Where the terms of a grant are general or indefinite, its location and use by the grantee acquiesced in by the grantor will have the same legal effect as if it had been duly described under the terms of the grant. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Reid, 6 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 273, 4 Ohio N. P. 127.

44. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Darst, 61 Ill. 231.

45. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263 (construing Priv. Acts (1862–1863), c. 26, § 9); Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 137 N. C. 189, 49 S. E. 202.

Under N. C. Laws (1854–1855), c. 228, § 29, raising a presumption of title to its right of way in a railroad, unless the owner shall apply for an assessment of the value of the lands within two years after the location of the road, the burden of showing when the railroad was located and built is upon the

But this presumption does not arise where a deed from the owner of the land to the railroad company is made within such time.[46]

4. Persons Entitled to Benefit of Contract or Grant. Where an agreement between a landowner and a railroad company for the conveyance of a right of way has been acted upon and the railroad constructed, the provisions of the agreement are binding upon the landowner and his grantee with notice.[47] Where a railroad company appropriates land for its road-bed and track without the consent of the owner of the land and without condemning the land under its charter, the owner has a right of action upon an implied promise to pay for the value of the land.[48] But such right of action does not accrue to a subsequent purchaser, who was not the owner at the time of the appropriation;[49] nor can such purchaser sustain an action for the use and occupation of the right of way as on an implied promise to pay him therefor.[50] Where one of two tenants in common grants a right of way through their premises to a railroad company upon certian conditions, and the grantee enters but fails to fulfil the conditions, the granting tenant can recover for a breach of the contract,[51] and the other tenant, where the entry is without his consent, for the trespass.[52] The successor of a railroad company is entitled to the protection which the original company had under a contract with the landowner.[53] An assignee of an easement in railroad tracks has the same right to use the tracks as his assignor had.[54]

5. Rescission or Avoidance. Ordinarily a license to enter on land and construct and maintain tracks is revocable at the option of the licensor,[55] unless the company claiming title to the lands by virtue of the statute. Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 137 N. C. 189, 49 S. E. 202. The location of a railroad within the meaning of such statute is its physical location by the laying of its track. Hickory v. Southern R. Co., supra. The railroad company acquires a valid title to its right of way as its track is completed under such statute. Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741.

46. Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 137 N. C. 189, 49 S. E. 202.

47. Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 185 Ill. 154, 56 N. E. 1050.

A purchaser of land with notice of a railroad company's right of way across the same cannot complain of laches of the railroad company, which has been waived by permitting the company to enter under a contract. Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 185 Ill. 154, 56 N. E. 1050.

48. McLendon v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 54 Ga. 293; Roberts v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 158 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 756, 39 L. ed. 873.

49. McLendon v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 54 Ga. 293; Hatry v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 426, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 238 [affirmed in 23 Cinc. L. Bul. 281].

50. McLendon v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 54 Ga. 293.

51. Rush v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 57 Iowa 201, 10 N. W. 628.

52. Rush v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 57 Iowa 201, 10 N. W. 628.

53. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Stanley, 35 N. J. Eq. 283, holding that where the owners of land permit the construction of a railroad on the consideration of the company's building a depot thereon and running its trains according to certain arrangements, the successor of the company which originally constructed the road is entitled to protection against ejectment by the owners of the land brought on account of non-performance of the agreement, to the same extent as the original company would have been entitled to such protection.

54. Minneapolis Mill Co. v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 55 Minn. 371, 57 N. W. 64.

55. Stratton v. Midland Terminal R. Co., 32 Colo. 493, 77 Pac. 247; Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Marble, 112 Mich. 4, 70 N. W. 319 (holding that a parol license to a railroad company to enter upon land and construct its road is revocable at the will of the owner); Wood v. Michigan Air Line R. Co., 90 Mich. 334, 51 N. W. 263; Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265; Johanson v. Atlantic City R. Co., 73 N. J. L. 767, 64 Atl. 1061 (holding that where a railroad company builds its road on the land of another under a parol license from the owner, the latter may ordinarily revoke it at any time and sue to recover possession). And see, generally, Licenses, 25 Cyc. 645 et seq. But compare Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Sweatt, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 543, 50 S. W. 162, holding that the license to a railroad company which results when a landowner permits its line to be constructed without objection cannot be revoked after the track has been constructed, so long as it is used in the operation of the railroad.

Illustration.—A clause in a railroad charter authorizing a company to construct a road "in such direction as they shall deem best to connect with the termination of the city railroad" is a revocable license and not a contract which is infringed by the taking up of a portion of the track of the city railroad so as to prevent the connection. Southwark R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 47 Pa. St. 314. But where a railroad company license is coupled with an interest or is necessary to the possession or enjoyment of a right or title arising from the act or contract of the person who creates the license,[56] or unless there is an agreement that the license shall continue for a definite period of time.[57] Where the license is granted on certain conditions and the railroad company fails to perform such conditions, the licensor may revoke the license.[58] The failure of a railroad company to perform conditions subsequent, however, contained in the agreement, furnishes no ground for the revocation of the license under which it entered and constructed its road, where complete indemnity in damages is recoverable therefor in an action at law,[59] and in such a case the landowner therefore cannot recover possession of the right of way or other land in an action of ejectment for the breach of such conditions.[60] But even where a party has a right to rescind a license for delay in the construction of a railroad, good faith would require him to give notice of such intention before the company takes possession of the land and constructs its road so that it may adopt another location or take proceedings to condemn before rendering itself otherwise liable.[61] Where a conveyance to a railroad company is made by persons not having proper authority, it may be afterward repudiated by persons having the authority to convey.[62]

6. Remedies of Landowner. Where a railroad company constructs its road over land to which it has acquired no requisite title by condemnation, conveyance, or license, express or implied, it is a mere trespasser and ejectment will lie against it.[63] And it has been held that the mere fact that an owner of land permits a railroad company to enter upon and construct its road without making compensation therefor does not estop the owner from maintaining an action of ejectment to recover possession of the property,[64] or from maintaining an injuncis informed by letter of the conditions under which it may lay its tracks through the lands of a person living on the line of the road and the company accepts the proposition and locates its road-bed accordingly but fails to comply with the condition, which was to open a certain street, the opening of such street is not a condition precedent to the right to locate the road and the proposition is not a license revocable at will. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Battle, 66 N. C. 540. So where, after a city addition had been platted, but before the streets therein had been accepted, a railroad company was permitted by plaintiff's predecessors in title to lay a switch track on what subsequently became a street in such addition by acceptance by the city, which track was authorized by an act of the legislature, and subsequently by a city ordinance, the railroad's right to maintain the switch is not a mere license, revocable at the will of the licensor. Koch v. Kentucky, etc., R., etc., Co., 80 S. W. 1133, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 216.

56. Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265.

Where the railroad company enters into possession and expends money on the right of way under such an agreement, the agreement is not a naked license subject to be revoked at will by the grantors; and a deed to a third party, operating as a mortgage, executed after such possession by the company, does not operate as a revocation of such agreement. Illinois Southern R. Co. v. Borders, 201 Ill. 459, 66 N. E. 382.

57. See Stratton v. Midland Terminal R. Co., 32 Colo. 493, 77 Pac. 247.

58. Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. 584, 76 N. E. 840.

Waiver.— The failure of a landowner who has licensed a company to build a railroad over his land under certain conditions and within a certain time, to declare a forfeiture of the license contract at the expiration of the time fixed for the performance is not a waiver of the right to insist upon a performance of the conditions at some future time, and in lieu of such performance to declare a forfeiture for non-performance. Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. 584, 76 N. E. 840.

59. Morris v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 522.

60. Morris v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 76 Ill. 522.

61. Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

62. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Riggs, 87 Ga. 158, 13 S. E. 312, holding that a deed from certain members of a church who had no authority to make the same, purporting to convey to a railroad company a right of way over land belonging to the church, does not authorize the company to take such land for the purpose designated in the deed, where the transaction is afterward repudiated by the church and the consideration paid by the company is returned to it.

63. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Arapahoe County School-Dist. No. 22, 14 Colo. 327, 23 Pac. 978; Dodd v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 581, 18 S. W. 1117; Walker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 275; Lyon v. Green Bay, etc., R. Co., 42 Wis. 548.

64. Conger v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 41

tion to restrain the railroad company from using the right of way until compensation therefor is made.[65] By the weight of authority, however, if a landowner, knowing that a railroad company has entered upon his land and is engaged in constructing a road thereon, encourages or permits it to do so, he and subsequent purchasers from him will be estopped from maintaining either trespass [66] or ejectment to recover possession of the land; [67] nor can he maintain an injunction to restrain the company from using the road so constructed.[68] Acquiescence in the Iowa 419; Allegheny Valley R. Co. v. Colwell, (Pa. 1888) 15 Atl. 927.

65. Hibbs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Iowa 340; Coombs v. Salt Lake, etc., R. Co., 9 Utah 322, 34 Pac. 248. See also McNail v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 3 Tenn. Cas. 580.

66. Pollard v. Maddox, 28 Ala. 321 (holding a landowner estopped from bringing trespass, although the instrument by which he had conveyed the right of way was inoperative as a deed); Roberts v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 158 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 756, 39 L. ed. 873.

67. Alabama.— Hendrix v. Southern R. Co., 130 Ala. 205, 30 So. 596, 89 Am. St. Rep. 27.

Georgia.— Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Barker, 105 Ga. 534, 31 S. E. 452.

Illinois.— Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

Kansas.— Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Gano, 47 Kan. 457, 28 Pac. 155.

Missouri.— Snyder v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 527, 20 S. W. 885; Dodd v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 581, 18 S. W. 1117; Kanaga v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 207; Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265; Provolt v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 256. Compare Walker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 275.

Wisconsin.— Taylor v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Wis. 327, 24 N. W. 84.

United States.— Roberts v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 158 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 756, 39 L. ed. 873; Pryzbylowicz v. Missouri River R. Co., 17 Fed. 492. 3 McCrary 586.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 151.

A county which has made a gift or donation of land to a railroad company, and which for years has stood by and permitted the company to construct its road and appurtenances, and has accepted from it large sums as taxes upon such land, would seem to be estopped from interfering with the possession of the company as to those parts of the land actually needed and used for railroad purposes, even though its original grant was made without authority. Roberts v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 158 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 756, 39 L. ed. 873.

Illustrations.— Thus a landowner is estopped from maintaining ejectment against a railroad company, where he has never objected to an ordinance granting a right of way which was passed more than three years before the commencement of the action of ejectment, and has allowed the railroad company to construct its tracks, depots, etc., and operate its road without objection (Reichert v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 51 Ark. 491, 11 S. W. 696, 5 L. R. A. 183); where he permits a railroad under a parol license, to expend its money and build its road over his land, for a period of twenty years, during which the possession of the company has been open and continuous, even though he has received no compensation (Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Nye, 113 Ind. 223, 15 N. E. 261); where he appears before commissioners appointed in a proceeding to condemn lands for a right of way, and endeavors to increase the amount of their finding, and also appears in court and objects to the award because it is insufficient, but makes no objection to the construction of the road, nor any attempt to prevent it (Gray v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 81 Mo. 126); where he conveys a portion of his land to a railroad company for the purpose of constructing a road-bed upon it, and with full knowledge permits the company to construct the road through other portions of his land also and allows sixteen years to elapse after the completion of the road before making any objection thereto (Dodd v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 581, 18 S. W. 1117); or where he sees employees of a railroad company laying a track over his land, and does not forbid it, but negotiates with an agent of the company and on assurance of future compensation waives prepayment therefor and suffers the work to go on (Scarritt v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 127 Mo. 298, 29 S. W. 1024). But where lands are granted to a school-district to be used for school purposes and a railroad company, under a supposed license from its grantor, enters and begins constructing its road upon such land, and shortly afterward the school trustees protest that the school-district owns the land and attempts to settle the matter with the railroad company, and failing therein builds a fence around it and notifies the contractor not to enter, and the fence is torn down and the grading completed, there is no acquiescence by the school-district to estop it from bringing ejectment. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. School-Dist. No. 22, 14 Colo. 327, 23 Pac. 978.

Where a railroad company as assignee of a lease which authorizes the construction of a railroad track across the leased land and provides for forfeiture of the lease in default of the payment of rent, enters on the land and constructs its tracks thereon and afterward fails to pay rent, the lessor may maintain ejectment against it, although he acquiesces in the building of the track; and he is not restricted to an action for the value of the ground taken or for damages for breach of conditions of the lease or for a suit in equity to compel compliance with its terms. Avery v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 113 Mo. 561, 21 S. W. 90.

68. Mitchell v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., building of a railroad, however, is not of itself sufficient to show that a landowner waived his right to be ultimately compensated for his land;[69] although in such a case the landowner will be restricted to an action for compensation by way of damages for the value of the land taken and for injuries done by the construction and operation of the road,[70] or he may maintain a suit for specific performance of the contract under which the entry was made.[71] A fortiori one afterward buying the lands from the owner with notice can neither maintain ejectment nor trespass against the company nor obtain affirmative relief against it.[72] But conduct which would estop the landowner will not necessarily estop a mortgagee or beneficiary under a deed of trust.[73] Where a railroad company has constructed its road with the consent of the owner but without paying therefor, the latter may seek his remedy in an ordinary action for damages,[74] or if the road has been transferred to another, the landowner may maintain an equitable action for damages against such transferee.[75] In those jurisdictions which hold that a right of way cannot be acquired by a mere license, an entry by a railroad under such a license is no defense to an action of trespass by the owner of the land.[76] Where a party seeks relief on a contract against a railroad company which necessarily implies a right of eminent domain in the company, he cannot, in the same suit, object to an additional taking of land on the ground that the company is not invested with such right.[77]

7. Remedies of Railroad Company. Where a railroad company has performed

41 La. Ann. 363, 6 So. 522; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Strauss, 37 Md. 237; Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 18 Ohio St. 169, 98 Am. Dec. 95; Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 17 Am. Dec. 518; Bell v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 2 Pittsb. L. J. (Pa.) 42.

69. Hendrix v. Southern R. Co., 130 Ala. 205, 30 So. 596, 89 Am. St. Rep. 27.

70. Indiana.— Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Nye, 113 Ind. 223, 15 N. E. 261.

Kansas.— Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Gano, 47 Kan. 457, 28 Pac. 155.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Stephens, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 919.

Missouri.— Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265. See Ragan v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 111 Mo. 456, 20 S. W. 234.

Ohio.— Goodin v. Cincinnati, etc., Canal Co., 18 Ohio St. 169, 98 Am. Dec. 95.

United States.— Roberts v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 158 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 756, 39 L. ed. 873.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 151.

71. Lane v. Pacific, etc., R. Co., 8 Ida. 230, 67 Pac. 656; Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265; Gloe v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 Nebr. 680, 91 N. W. 547; Sanderson, etc., R. Co. v. Cockermouth, 2 Hall & T. 327, 19 L. J. Ch. 503, 47 Eng. Reprint 1708 [affirming 11 Beav. 497, 50 Eng. Reprint 909]; Paterson v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 17 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 521. And see, generally, Specific Performance.

72. Roberts v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 158 U. S. 1, 15 S. Ct. 756, 39 L. ed. 873.

Illustration.— Where one in possession of land under an executory contract for purchase quitclaims to a company a right of way thereon, and afterward assigns his interest under the contract, and after several mesne assignments the holder, knowing of the right of way deed and that the railroad has been run on such right of way nearly ten years without objection, takes a deed to the land, he cannot maintain ejectment against the company. Stratton v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 37 Nebr. 477, 55 N. W. 1058.

73. Snyder v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 527, 20 S. W. 885.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hall, 135 Ind. 91, 34 N. E. 704, 23 L. R. A. 231; Le Roy, etc., R. Co. v. Small, 46 Kan. 300, 26 Pac. 695; Hatry v. Painesville, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 426, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 238 [affirmed in 23 Cinc. L. Bul. 281].

Abandonment of contract.— Where a contract made between a landowner and a railroad company in settlement of damages for a railroad right of way has been partially but not fully performed by the railroad company, and after the lapse of nearly fifteen years the contract is abandoned by the railroad company, the landowner may institute suit on the basis of a permanent appropriation of the land by the railroad company for railroad uses at that time, and recover damages as upon a proceeding by condemnation for such purpose. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Yount, 67 Kan. 396, 73 Pac. 63.

Determination of damages.— Where a contract granting a railroad right of way and providing for the payment of damages is not fully performed by the railroad company and is abandoned, in an action for damages, it is proper to ask a judicial determination of the fact that the contract no longer measures the rights of the parties. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Yount, 67 Kan. 396, 73 Pac. 63.

75. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hall, 135 Ind. 91, 34 N. E. 704, 23 L. R. A. 231; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Stanley, 34 N. J. Eq. 55 [affirmed in 35 N. J. Eq. 283].

76. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Algire, 63 Md. 319.

77. Coe v. Aiken, 61 Fed. 24.

its part of a contract for the purchase of land, it may maintain an action for specific performance against the landowner to compel a conveyance to it,[78] and to enjoin the prosecution of an action of ejectment for the possession of the land,[79] or it may maintain an action to quiet the title.[80]

D. Conveyances To or For Railroad Company[81] — 1. Requisites and Validity. The requisites and validity of a conveyance to a railroad company is ordinarily governed by the rules regulating conveyances generally, particularly those relating to conveyances to corporations.[82] Where a railroad company has complied with that part of a contract for a right of way which constitutes the substantial consideration, the equitable title to the property passes to it, although the whole consideration agreed upon has not been paid or performed.[83] A statute providing that streets, alleys, and public grounds so designated on a town plat, when properly certified, acknowledged, and recorded, shall operate as a convey-

78. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 Pac. 1124; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Van Hoorebeke, 191 Ill. 633, 61 N. E. 326; Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127; Jackson v. Jessup, 5 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 524.

Defenses.— Where the state waives its right to forfeit a railroad company's charter, for failure to begin or complete the road within the time limited, such delay is no defense in an action against a third person to compel specific performance of his contract to the company. Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

Sufficiency of evidence as to the inducement for a contract for the sale of a railroad right of way see Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 Pac. 1124.

79. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Van Hoorebeke, 191 Ill. 633, 61 N. E. 326; Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127; Jackson v. Jessup, 5 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 524.

80. Cherokee, etc., R. Co. v. Renken, 77 Iowa 316, 42 N. W. 307.

Evidence.— Where on the issue whether defendant agreed to give a right of way to a railroad company, one of the company testifies that defendant told him before the construction of the road that he would not then sign a contract to give the right of way but would give it, and three others testify that defendant said he would give the right of way if the road was built and show that the securing of the right of way was a condition of the location of the road, and defendant unsupported by other evidence denies having made the promise, a judgment against defendant should be sustained. Cherokee, etc., R. Co. v. Renken, 77 Iowa 316, 42 N. W. 307.

81. Conveyance or release by railroad company see infra, V, K.

82. See, generally, Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1020 et seq.; Deeds, 13 Cyc. 505.

An unrecorded agreement by a landowner to relinquish to a railroad company a right of way through his lands in consideration of the advantage to be derived from the construction of the road does not vest the title to the right of way in the company, where it puts up a grade only, and then abandons work for twenty-five years; and the company cannot claim such title under a statute, providing that a railroad company shall not be barred of its real estate, right of way, easements, etc., "which may have been condemned or otherwise 'obtained'" by any statute of limitation or adverse occupancy. Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913.

Mistake in grantee's name.— It is immaterial that the wrong corporation is named in the deed as the grantee, where defendant company accepts the deed and enjoys the land. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 119 Ind. 269, 21 N. E. 751.

A title bond duly acknowledged and recorded, conveying a full and free right of way to a railroad company for railroad purposes without reservation, is a sufficient grant of such right of way. Ohio River R. Co. v. Johnson, 50 W. Va. 499, 40 S. E. 407.

A conveyance in fee to a railroad company authorized to acquire an easement only is valid until assailed in a direct proceeding by the government, and cannot be collaterally attacked by private persons. Askew v. Smith, 109 Wis. 532, 85 N. W. 512.

Invalid grant — equity.— Where a railroad company constructs its road in good faith on certain lands under a grant by persons without authority to make it, and subsequently the devisees of the owner of the land file a bill to compel the removal of the road, and the evidence shows that the real object of the bill is to compel defendant company to permit certain crossings of the railway necessary for the purpose of marketing coal underlying the land, and that the company has obligated itself to permit such crossing and the evidence also shows that the construction of the railroad has increased the value of the land and that a majority of the parties to the bill are estopped by their conduct, an injunction will be denied but the court will retain the bill to enforce the agreement of the railroad company as to the crossings. McClane v. McClane, 213 Pa. St. 286, 62 Atl. 861.

83. Matson v. Port Townsend Southern R. Co., 9 Wash. 449, 37 Pac. 705, holding that where a railroad company has complied with that part of a contract for a right of way which required it to construct its road within two years and it appears that the construction and operation of the road was the substantial consideration, the equitable title passes and is unaffected by the fact that it ance in fee to the public, does not apply in favor of individuals or corporations, and hence a deed to a third person reserving a strip for railroad purposes according to a diagram showing the railroad company's name will not operate as a conveyance to the company or as a dedication.[84]

2. Persons Entitled to Convey. The owner of the land is ordinarily the proper person to convey it to a railroad company for a right of way or other purposes;[85] and this he may do notwithstanding he has previously leased rights thereon to a third person under a lease which conveys no interest in the land,[86] although the lessee is entitled to be protected in his rights.[87] Under some statutes a conveyance of land may be made to a railroad company by a tenant for life.[88] Where the charter of a railroad uses the word "owner," in providing for voluntary relinquishments of property for railroad purposes, such owner is the only party, with the exception of the curator of minors, with whom the company need treat in negotiating a purchase.[89]

3. Construction and Operation in General — a. Effect as Waiver of Damages. A conveyance of land to a railroad company for an agreed consideration presumptively embraces in such consideration all reasonably necessary damages to adjoining land, which have already been caused or which may be caused by the construction and maintenance of the road, and which might have been recovered in condemnation proceedings; and therefore in the absence of any showing to the contrary, such conveyance relieves the company from all liability for such damages,[90] and from other damages which the terms of the instrument or the attendant has not paid a consideration of one dollar and the expenses of the deed of such right of way, as provided in the contract.

84. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 85 Ill. 211.

85. See Ohio Oil Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio Cir. Ct. 210, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 505.

86. Ohio Oil Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio Cir. Ct. 210, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 505, holding that where a landowner grants a right to bore for oil and a right of way for access to the premises and reserves the right to farm the land and subsequently grants a right to operate a railroad across such land, the company is not obliged to condemn the lessee's right, since such a lease grants no interest in the land and the owner, notwithstanding the lease, can grant a right to operate a railroad across the same. See Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

87. Ohio Oil Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio Cir. Ct. 210, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 505.

88. See cases cited infra, this note.

Under Canadian statutes a conveyance of the fee simple of land required for the use of a railroad company may be made by a tenant for life, but the company is not warranted in paying him the full amount of the compensation agreed upon, but must pay to the remainderman or into court a portion of the purchase-money representing the remainderman's interest. Midland R. Co. v. Young, 22 Can. Sup. Ct. 190 [affirming 19 Ont. App. 265 (affirming 16 Ont. 738)] (construing C. S. C. c. 66, § 11, as amended by 24 Vict. c. 17, § 1); Owston v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 28 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 428, 431; Cameron v. Wigle, 24 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 8. Compare Re Dolsen, 13 Ont. Pr. 84, construing Can. Railroad Act, § 36, 51 Vict. c. 29.

89. Chouteau v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 122 Mo. 375, 22 S. W. 458, 30 S. W. 299, holding that such a charter provision impliedly makes it unnecessary for the wife of an owner to join in the conveyance by reason of her inchoate right of dower, and that it makes no difference if the husband does not convey directly to the railroad company but by mesne conveyances.

90. Illinois.— St. Louis, etc., Electric R. Co. v. Van Hoorebeke, 191 Ill. 633, 61 N. E. 326; Chicago Sanitary Dist. v. Alderman, 113 Ill. App. 23; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 110 Ill. App. 626; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 73 Ill. App. 621.

Kentucky.— Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Dillon, 7 Ky. L. Rep. 607.

Louisiana.— Kirk v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 667, 25 So. 457, holding that claims which would have been within and would have gone to make up the original damages or compensation which would have been assessed against and paid by the railroad company as a condition precedent to the condemnation of a right of way in an expropriation proceeding, must be held to have been considered and included by the party as being within the consideration agreed upon when they balanced advantages and disadvantages.

Massachusetts.— Cassidy v. Old Colony R. Co., 141 Mass. 174, 5 N. E. 142.

Minnesota.— McCarty v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 31 Minn. 278, 17 N. W. 616.

Missouri.— Edwards v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 82 Mo. App. 96.

Nebraska.— Moseley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Nebr. 636, 78 N. W. 293.

New Jersey.— Perrine v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 72 N. J. L. 398, 61 Atl. 87.

New York.— Conabeer v. New York Cent., circumstances expressly or impliedly show to have been included in the compensation paid.[91] Such a conveyance, however, does not relieve the railroad company from liability for damages which are caused by its negligence in designing, constructing, and maintaining the road,[92] nor for damages resulting from improper encroachments upon land outside the right of way;[93] nor does it relieve the com-etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 474, 51 N. E. 402 [affirming 84 Hun 34, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 6].

Pennsylvania.— North, etc., Branch R. Co. v. Swank, 105 Pa. St. 555, holding that if a landowner sells "the right of way" for a fixed sum all damages are supposed to be compensated by that sum unless otherwise expressly stipulated.

Vermont.— Norris v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 28 Vt. 99.

United States.— Hodge v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 39 Fed. 449, holding the company not liable to the former owner for damages arising from the operation of the road where it has exercised reasonable skill and judgment in designing and constructing such road.

Canada.— Wallace v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 551.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 155.

Illustrations.— Thus a person who grants land to a railroad company cannot recover damages caused to the rest of his land by structures necessary and incident to the railroad which he knew or had good reason to know would be built (Tinker v. Rockford, 137 Ill. 123, 27 N. E. 74 [reversing on other grounds 36 Ill. App. 460]); or damages caused by the maintenance and operation of a defective bridge constructed before the execution of the conveyance (McDonald v. Southern California R. Co., 101 Cal. 206, 35 Pac. 643, 646); or damages caused to a dwelling-house on the track by the careful blasting of rock in the construction of the road (Watts v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 39 W. Va. 196, 19 S. E. 521, 45 Am. St. Rep. 894, 23 L. R. A. 674); or damages occasioned by the removal of timber or other obstructions situated in the line of the designated right of way (Delsol v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., 4 Ida. 456, 40 Pac. 59; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McKinney, 55 Tex. 176).

91. Alabama Midland R. Co. v. Williams, 92 Ala. 277, 9 So. 203 (holding, however, that a sale of a strip along one side of plaintiff's land extending from one street to another, to defendant as a right of way for a railroad did not include compensation for damages caused by excavating the land so that both street levels abutting on plaintiff's lot were cut down beneath the grade of defendant's road, so as to authorize an affirmative charge to be made by the court on defendant's behalf); St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hurst, 14 Ill. App. 419.

Diversion of watercourse.— Where a grant of a right of way authorizes a railroad company to change a watercourse, the company is not liable for damages resulting from the change unless it be unnecessary or negligently or unskilfully made. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 47 Ark. 330, 1 S. W. 545.

Unconditional grant.— Where a railroad company by a contract whereby plaintiff grants to it an unconditional right of way over his land obligates itself not to damage a spring thereon, it must be presumed that ditches and drains which produce injury thereto are necessary to the construction, and continue to be necessary for the maintenance of the road, and that any interference with them would be a violation of the unconditional grant of the right of way. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Goodin, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 622.

Change of grade.— Where the grade at which the road is to be built is not fixed by the contract, the railroad company may, without incurring liability for resulting damages not caused by negligence, change its grade from time to time as the exigencies of traffic and public necessity may require. Liedel v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 89 Minn. 284, 94 N. W. 877.

92. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 47 Ark. 330, 1 S. W. 545.

Georgia.— Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 84 Ga. 256, 10 S. E. 730, holding that a railroad company is liable for damages to crops resulting from its tearing down a fence, although it has purchased the right of way over the land from the landlord of the owner of the crops.

Illinois.— Chicago Sanitary Dist. v. Alderman, 113 Ill. App. 23; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 110 Ill. App. 626; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hurst, 25 Ill. App. 98.

Indiana.— Roushlange v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 106, 17 N. E. 198.

Missouri.— Edwards v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 82 Mo. App. 96.

United States.— Hodge v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 39 Fed. 449.

Canada.— Miner v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 9 U. C. C. P. 280; Vanhorn v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 9 U. C. C. P. 264.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 155.

Illustrations.— Thus one who has conveyed a right of way to a railroad company may recover of such company for injury to his crops by the negligent building of its road so that surface water accumulates and is precipitated on his land (Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 91 Ill. 500; Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Watts, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 289), even though he has allowed the company to dig a ditch on his premises which proves ineffectual (Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, supra). So such an owner may recover for injuries for deposits of rock by the company on the residue of his land, unless they are removed within a reasonable time. Watts v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 39 W. Va. 196, 19 S. E. 521, 45 Am. St. Rep. 894, 23 L. R. A. 674.

93. Roushlange v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 106, 17 N. E. 198.

pany from such damages as from the terms of the instrument are not to be presumed to have been in contemplation of the parties at the time of the sale,[94] or which were expressly reserved.[95]

b. Effect on Duty to Maintain Crossings, Fences, and Cattle-Guards. Upon the same principle a conveyance of a right of way relieves the railroad company from damages for additional fence building required,[96] and from the duty of constructing and maintaining stock gaps or bridges,[97] or private crossings,[98] unless such duty is imposed upon it by the conditions or stipulations contained in the conveyance,[99] or by statute.[1]

4. Location of Way or Land Conveyed. The rights of a railroad company under a contract to convey or a conveyance which describes the land conveyed in the terms of the location of the right of way depends upon the terms of the instrument as construed by the ordinary rules of construction for such instruments.[2] The terms of the contract may be such as to require a conveyance of Damages to other land of the same owner distinct from and not connected with the land conveyed caused by acts of a railroad company not done on the land conveyed, although rendered necessary by its occupation, held not in contemplation of law to be considered as being included in the compensation agreed upon in such conveyance see Longworth v. Meriden, etc., R. Co., 61 Conn. 451, 23 Atl. 827.

94. Alabama Midland R. Co. v. Williams, 92 Ala. 277, 9 So. 203; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hurst, 14 Ill. App. 419; Perrine v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 72 N. J. L. 398, 61 Atl. 87, holding that the company is relieved from damages arising from the construction of the road upon the strip conveyed, but not such damages as result from work elsewhere constructed by the company for the general benefit of the railroad.

95. North, etc., Branch R. Co. v. Swank, 105 Pa. St. 555; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McKinney, 55 Tex. 176.

96. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 47 Ark. 330, 1 S. W. 545.

97. Cook v. North, etc., R. Co., 50 Ga. 211.

98. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 21.

99. Cook v. North, etc., R. Co., 50 Ga. 211. And see infra, V, G, 6.

1. Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co., 63 N. Y. 58 (construing Laws (1850), c. 140, § 44); Clark v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 350.

Under N. H. Act (1850), c. 593, § 5, requiring a railroad company to make and maintain all necessary cattle-guards, cattle-passes and farm crossings for the safety and convenience of landowners along the side of the road, and providing that such provision shall not apply in any case where the company shall settle with the landowner in relation to such guards, passes, and crossings, a clause in a deed requiring "said corporation to fence the land and prepare a crossing with cattle guards, at the present travelled path, on a level with the track" is not a settlement between the parties in relation to such crossings. White v. Concord R. Co., 30 N. H. 188.

2. See the cases cited infra, this note.

Illustrations.— Under a grant to a railroad company of "the right to enter upon any land I own which lies on the line of such company's road . . . and the right to run in curves and around the line in the final construction of such railroad over said land, and to hold and use a strip thereof to be selected by the engineer . . . as long as may be necessary" the right is to be exercised at the final location of the road and cannot be exercised afterward. Warner v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 39 Ohio St. 70. So a conveyance to a railroad company of a right of way eighty feet wide "which said eighty feet is to include . . . road on the west where said road is contiguous to said railroad" must be construed as including eighty feet measuring eastwardly from the west side of the road and including the whole road, although the grantor as an abutting property-owner had but a reversionary right in such road and such other rights as he would have in its use as a public way. Belmer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 45, 10 Cinc. L. Bul. 232. So where a grant of a right of way calls for a certain fixed and determined center line, the construction of the track on either side of such center line will not shift it to the center of such track, and thus shift such right of way without the consent of the owner. Ohio River R. Co. v. Johnson, 50 W. Va. 499, 40 S. E. 407.

Uncertainty.— After the construction by a railroad company of its tracks across land, a conveyance to the company by the landowner of a "right of way" across the land without further description refers to the road as constructed and is not void for uncertainty. Olive v. Sabine, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

Parol evidence.— Where a deed conveying a right of way to a railroad company fails to describe the exact situation of the land, parol evidence is admissible to assist in ascertaining the true location of the land conveyed; and such evidence is not governed by the rule relating to the reformation of written instruments by parol evidence of what occurred at the time of their execution. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Pearsol, 173 Pa. St. 496, 34 Atl. 226, holding certain evidence sufficient to overcome the presumption that the center of a right of way over a certain tract wherever the company may choose to establish its road;[3] or the instrument may convey only the land as it was located at the time of the conveyance.[4] But in the absence of any designation of the route in the deed, the occupancy of a particular route by the grantee company, with the grantor's consent, will identify and locate the route granted.[5]

E. Extent of Way or Land Acquired[6] — 1. In General. Where land for a right of way or other uses is conveyed to a railroad company, the extent of way or land acquired under such conveyance is ordinarily governed by a proper interpretation of the terms of the description or limitations employed in the instrument.[7] The ordinary signification of the term "right of way," when used to describe land which a railroad corporation owns or is entitled to use for railroad purposes, is the entire strip or tract it owns or is entitled to use for this purpose, and not any specific or limited part thereof upon which its main track or other specified improvements are located,[8] and includes lands and lots acquired for necessary side-tracks and turn-outs, and the improvements thereon in the way of coal sheds, freight houses, water-tanks, repair shops, roundhouses, and the the right of way granted was the center of plaintiff's tract of land.

The location and use by the grantee acquiesced in by the grantor of a railroad right of way, the terms of the grant of which are general and indefinite, have the same legal effect as though it had been definitely described. Warner v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 39 Ohio St. 70.

3. Chidester v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Ill. 87.

Right of company to select location.— Where the contract for a right of way releases a strip of land of a certain width through a certain tract of land, and nothing more definitely, it vests in the railroad company the right to select the particular location. Burrow v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 107 Ind. 432, 8 N. E. 167.

4. Owensboro, etc., R. Co. v. Barker, 37 S. W. 848, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 706 (holding that where a railroad company had surveyed and marked a line through plaintiff's land, a conveyance to it of a strip of ground "lying along and including the established line of railway to be constructed by such company" referred only to the line as thus surveyed and not to a line that might be thereafter established); Hall v. Pickering, 40 Me. 548 (holding the company to have no right under the deed except in a strip of land originally surveyed and staked out); Wood v. Michigan Air Line R. Co., 90 Mich. 334, 51 N. W. 263; King v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 90 Va. 210, 17 S. E. 868.

5. Gaston v. Gainesville, etc., Electric R. Co., 120 Ga. 516, 48 S. E. 188.

6. Acquisition under the power of eminent domain see EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 636 et seq.

7. See Waycross Air-Line R. Co. v. Southern Pine Co., 111 Ga. 233, 36 S. E. 641; Lexington, etc., R. Co. v. Ormsby, 7 Dana (Ky.) 276; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covington, etc., R., etc., Transfer, etc., Co., 58 S. W. 577, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 722; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Canton Co., 104 Md. 682, 65 Atl. 337; Hughes v. Wellington, etc., R. Co., 119 N. C. 688, 25 S. E. 717.

The limits embraced in a conveyance of a right of way for a railroad are to be determined by the calls in the deed, and evidence is not admissible to extend the same by showing an actual survey of the boundary beyond the limits called for. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 36 Tex. Civ. App. 121, 81 S. W. 781.

A conveyance of a right of way "as now located, to the terminus of the road," on, over, and along certain land, may be construed as conveying no title beyond the point on said land to which the right of way had been legally located by surveying and staking out the center line thereof for the purpose of constructing and operating the road, as required by statute, even though, for the convenience of the grantor, the company had, before such conveyance, extended, or permitted the grantor to extend, a spur track beyond the terminus to which the right of way had been so legally located. Schneider v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 119 Wis. 171, 96 N. W. 542.

Additional land.— Where a right of way is granted "with right to use such additional land as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance" of the road, the necessity for taking additional land is to be determined by ordinary care in constructing the road. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Richards, 83 Tex. 203, 18 S. W. 611.

Improvements.—A road-bed or embankment built out of the soil, and with riprap for its protection, on which ties and rails are laid for use as a railway track, by a railroad company on the land of another, is not an improvement placed upon land in the nature of a trade fixture, but is a part of the land itself, and where there are no exceptions or reservations, will pass by a deed as does the real estate on which it is constructed. Omaha Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. Whitney, 68 Nebr. 399, 389, 99 N. W. 525, 94 N. W. 513.

8. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 98 Ill. 350; Pfaff v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 108 Ind. 144, 9 N. E. 93; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 152 Fed. 849, 81 C. C. A. 643.

like;[9] and where the railroad company acquires the fee it is for the company, and not for the adjacent landowner, to determine how much land is reasonably necessary for depot grounds and right-of-way purposes.[10] But in the absence of a paper title or condemnation proceedings, or title by adverse possession, a railroad company is generally confined to the land actually taken and occupied by it;[11] and if it seeks to go beyond its previously occupied land, it must show title outside of its present occupancy, either by the record of condemnation proceedings, or the production of a deed or written muniments of title, or by proof showing the actual delivery of the land as ascertained by landmarks, fences, etc.[12] Thus a title to a right of way acquired by prescription by a railroad company is limited to so much of the strip as it actually used by adverse possession, and does not extend beyond its line of fence on either side of the roadway.[13] Under a contract to convey such lands as shall be required for the road, an owner is not bound to convey more land than the company fairly requires for its legitimate uses under its charter.[14]

2. Width of Right of Way. In probably most jurisdictions, the width of the strip of land which the railroad company may acquire for its right of way is expressly limited by statute.[15] Where in such jurisdictions there has been no conveyance or the conveyance of land to a railroad company does not specify the width of the land granted, the company may ordinarily occupy any width it chooses not exceeding that allowed by statute,[16] with this limitation in some jurisdictions, however, that it does not take more than is reasonably necessary for the convenient use and maintenance of the road in the customary mode;[17] and under some statutes it may acquire even more than the statutory width, when necessary for the successful operation of the road.[18] Under some statutes limiting the width of the land which a railroad company may acquire for a right of way, it is held that, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, the company's occupancy and use of a strip of land without a conveyance or under a conveyance which does not specify the width granted is presumed to be of the full width allowed by its charter or governing statute and not merely of the width actually

9. Pfaff v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 108 Ind. 144, 9 N. E. 93.

10. Hull v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 70 Nebr. 756, 98 N. W. 47.

11. Hendrix v. Southern R. Co., 130 Ala. 205, 30 So. 596, 89 Am. St. Rep. 27; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hoag, 90 Ill. 339; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 85 Ill. 211 (holding that where a railway company constructs its track over the land of another, and erects buildings thereon, without any written evidence of title, and does not inclose the same, its possession will be limited to the ground actually occupied); Ryan v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 62 Miss. 162; Goddard v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Del. Co. (Pa.) 337, 2 Lanc. L. Rev. 265.

Where a railroad company makes a cut through a hill, the presumption after thirty years is that it originally took possession of all the space occupied by the cut; but this possession is restricted to the space occupied by the original excavation, and does not widen with the enlargement of the excavation by the gradual washing in of the sides of the cut. Youree v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 110 La. 791, 34 So. 779.

12. Goddard v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Del. Co. (Pa.) 337, 2 Lanc. L. Rev. 265.

13. Floyd v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 80 S. W. 204, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2147.

14. Hill v. Western Vermont R. Co., 32 Vt. 68.

15. See the statutes of the several states; and cases cited infra, this note and notes 16–24.

Lands for depots or side-tracks.— A charter authorizing a railroad company to take a strip of land not exceeding a certain width has reference to a right of way and has been held not to prohibit the company from acquiring more lands for depot grounds and side-tracks. Carmody v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 111 Ill. 69. But under New Jersey Revision, p. 925, providing that any railroad constructed under this act shall not exceed one hundred feet in width, it has been held that the term "railroad" is not limited to the road-bed and tracks but includes all necessary appurtenances. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Hudson Terminal R. Co., 46 N. J. L. 289.

16. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Rayl, 69 Ind. 424.

17. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Hammond, 104 Ala. 191, 15 So. 935; Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Bonnell, 34 N. J. L. 474; Day v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 41 Ohio St. 392; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Central Land Co., (Tenn. Ch. App. 1897) 48 S. W. 110.

18. Bubenzer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., (Del. 1905) 61 Atl. 270, construing Corporation Act (1903) (22 Del. Laws c. 394) §§ 82, 91.

used.[19] Under other statutes, however, it is held in such cases that in the absence of proof that the company acquired the full statutory width, it will be presumed to have acquired only the strip occupied and used,[20] unless it has acquired title to an additional width by adverse occupancy,[21] or unless it has entered upon the land and occupied it under such circumstances that the owner is estopped from reclaiming possession.[22] Where the company has accepted a conveyance expressly limiting the right of way to a specified width, less than the statutory width, it cannot thereafter, in the absence of a further grant, claim a greater width.[23] A grant of so much and no more than the company could acquire under its right to condemn for a right of way is a grant of the statutory width, and not only of the land occupied.[24]

F. Title, Estate, or Interest Acquired[25] — 1. In General. The interest

19. Hargis v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. 210, 13 S. W. 680; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. McReynolds, (Tenn. Ch. App. 1898) 48 S. W. 258 (holding that where a company is empowered by its charter to obtain a right of way to the width of two hundred feet, it will be presumed in the absence of a contract restricting it, that the right of way acquired was of the charter width); Olive v. Sabine, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

An entry and construction of a road without taking any steps to condemn the land will be regarded, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, as an appropriation of so much land as the law authorizes. Duck River Valley Narrow Gauge R. Co. v. Cochrane, 3 Lea (Tenn.) 478.

The presumption that a railroad company acquired the full statutory width, one hundred feet, is overcome by proof that a third person as grantee in a deed conveying land adjacent to the railroad right of way, erected a fence thirty feet from the center of the company's main track and occupied the land up to the fence for more than twenty-five years without objection from the company. Cedar Rapids Canning Co. v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 120 Iowa 724, 95 N. W. 195.

20. Jones v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 141 Ala. 388, 37 So. 677; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 141 Ala. 335, 37 So. 490 (holding that where a railroad company authorized by its charter to acquire land for the track of such road not to exceed one hundred and fifty feet wide built its road over the land by mere permission of the owner, the company acquired no rights in the land outside of the embankment of the road-bed); Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Hammond, 104 Ala. 191, 15 So. 935; Ft. Wayne, etc., R. Co. v. Sherry, 126 Ind. 334, 25 N. E. 898, 10 L. R. A. 48 (holding that a deed to a railroad company of "the right of way for its railroad and the right to construct said railroad agreeably to, and in accordance with, the laws of the state" did not vest in the grantee title to land six rods in width, that being the quantity which the company could acquire under the statutes, but only the quantity actually taken and used by it); Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Rickards, 38 Nebr. 847, 57 N. W. 739 (holding that where a railroad company takes possession of the real estate of another for a right of way without color of title, its rights acquired by prescription are limited to the land actually occupied); Leidigh v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 342, 64 Atl. 539; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Obert, 109 Pa. St. 193, 1 Atl. 398; Goddard v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Lanc. L. Rev. (Pa.) 265.

Boundaries.— Where there are no monuments upon the ground to indicate the boundaries of a railroad company's right of way and there is no survey on record or elsewhere to define such boundaries, the extent of the actual occupancy must determine the limits of the right of way. Zahn v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 184 Pa. St. 66, 39 Atl. 34.

21. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Michener, 117 Ind. 465, 20 N. E. 254.

22. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Michener, 117 Ind. 465, 20 N. E. 254; Prather v. Western Union Tel. Co., 89 Ind. 501, holding that where a railroad company constructs its road across the land of a certain owner and maintains it for nearly twenty years without instituting condemnation proceedings, or any objection or claim for damages being ever made by such owner, it thereby acquires title to a strip of the full width allowed by its charter.

Where a railroad company enters upon land with leave and license of the owner and constructs and runs its road on the faith of such license, it will be presumed as against one claiming under the licensor in the absence of any limitation to the contrary that the right of way thus acquired extended to the full statutory width. Campbell v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 110 Ind. 490, 11 N. E. 482.

23. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Michener, 117 Ind. 465, 20 N. E. 254; Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119.

Estoppel to claim additional width see Joplin, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 549, 37 S. W. 540.

Where the contract as to the width of the right of way is general or ambiguous, the intention of the parties may be shown by parol evidence of their contemporaneous acts and declarations. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 116 Ind. 356, 19 N. E. 141.

24. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263.

25. Under conveyance from railroad see infra, V, K, 2.

in a railroad right of way is ordinarily the same whether granted or condemned;[26] and while a railroad company, although created for a limited period, may acquire a fee simple in land by purchase,[27] unless restrained by a charter or statutory provision,[28] as a general rule the right which a rai'road acquires in lands purchased for its right of way amounts to an easement only,[29] and this is also generally true where the land is acquired without condemnation proceedings and without any contract with the owner,[30] as where it is acquired by adverse possession.[31] The easement acquired by a railroad company in its right of way is not an easement in the strict technical sense of the term, which is a right in common with the owner, but is rather in the nature of an interest in the land which continues in the railroad company as long as it uses the land for railroad purposes.[32]

2. Under Conveyance From Owner. Where there has been a grant or conveyance of land to a railroad company, the question as to what estate or interest is thereby acquired by the company must be determined from the intention of

Under condemnation proceedings see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 1018 et seq.

26. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Van Hoorebeke, 191 Ill. 633, 61 N. E. 326; Smith v. Hall, 103 Iowa 95, 72 N. W. 427; Shepard v. Suffolk, etc., R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137; Harman v. Southern R. Co., 72 S. C. 228, 51 S. E. 689, holding that a deed granting to a railroad company a right of way with a right to use the earth, stone, and timber within the tracks for the construction or extension of the road conveys such rights as the railroad company would be presumed to have acquired under its charter granting it the right of eminent domain.

A conveyance of a strip of land to a railroad company, "for the term of fifty years, and so long thereafter as its charter shall continue," when the company has the capacity of perpetual existence, on default by the state to exercise a right of election to purchase its property, and also has power to condemn lands for a right of way under a writ of ad quod damnum, conveys the same interest and estate that would have been acquired by a judgment of condemnation under such writ. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140.

27. Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121 [affirming 12 Barb. 460]; Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 107 (under Laws (1850), c. 140, § 28, subd. 3); Canada Midland R. Co. v. Young, 22 Can. Sup. Ct. 190 [affirming 19 Ont. App. 265] (holding that a tenant for life is authorized by Railroad Act, 24 Vict. c. 17, § 1, to convey to a railroad company in fee but that the company must pay to the remaindermen or in court the proportion of the purchase-money representing the remaindermen's interest).

A charter providing that when a company shall have procured the right of way "as hereinbefore provided they shall be seized in fee simple of the right of said land" is not in effect a conveyance of the land in fee simple. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Coburn, 91 Ind. 557.

28. See the statutes of the several states. And see Smith v. Hall, 103 Iowa 95, 72 N. W. 427.

Under N. Y. Laws (1850), c. 140, § 28, subd. 3, and § 49, providing that a railroad company may purchase, hold, and use such real estate as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of the road, such company has a fee simple for the purpose of alienation, although only a determinable fee for purposes of enjoyment. Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 107.

29. Raleigh, etc., Air Line R. Co. v. Sturgeon, 120 N. C. 225, 26 S. E. 779.

30. Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. American Plate Glass Co., 162 Ind. 393, 68 N. E. 1020; Boyce v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 168 Mo. 583, 68 S. W. 920, 58 L. R. A. 442; Raleigh, etc., Air Line R. Co. v. Sturgeon, 120 N. C. 225, 26 S. E. 779; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Telford, 89 Tenn. 293, 14 S. W. 776, 10 L. R. A. 855, construing charter of East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., Act Jan. 27, 1848, § 23. See also Lawrence's Appeal, 78 Pa. St. 365.

A "right of way," in its legal and generally accepted meaning in reference to a railway, is a mere easement in the lands of others, obtained by lawful condemnation to public use, or by purchase. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co., 51 W. Va. 106, 41 S. E. 340; Williams v. Western Union R. Co., 50 Wis. 71, 5 N. W. 482. The term "right of way" has also been defined as a servitude imposed as a burden on the land. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wachter, 70 Ohio St. 113, 70 N. E. 974.

31. Capps v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 21 Tex. Civ. App. 84, 50 S. W. 643.

32. Boyce v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 168 Mo. 583, 68 S. W. 920, 58 L. R. A. 442.

"The easement is not that spoken of in the old law books, but is peculiar to the use of a railroad, which is usually a permanent improvement, a perpetual highway of travel and commerce, and will rarely be abandoned by non-user. The exclusive use of the surface is acquired, and damages are assessed, on the theory that the easement will be perpetual; so that ordinarily the fee is of little or no value, unless the land is underlaid by quarry or mine." Smith v. Hall, 103 Iowa 95, 96, 72 N. W. 427.

the parties as shown by the whole instrument,[33] taken in connection with the railroad company's charter or governing statutes.[34] Thus where such appears to be the intention of the parties a fee in the land and not a mere easement will be conveyed,[35] although the instrument is entitled "deed of right of 33. Alabama.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Boykin, 76 Ala. 560, held to pass freehold.

Indiana.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Geisel, 119 Ind. 77, 21 N. E. 470.
Kentucky.— Floyd v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 80 S. W. 204, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 2147 (such interest as the grantee at the time had in the land); Ballard v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 5 S. W. 484, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 523.
New York.— Colgate v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 51 Misc. 503, 100 N. Y. Suppl. 650.
Tennessee.— McLemore v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 111 Tenn. 639, 69 S. W. 338.
Virginia.— Hope v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 79 Va. 283, held to acquire life-tenant's rights only.
Canada.— See Massawippi Valley R. Co. v. Reed, 33 Can. Sup. Ct. 457; Reg. v. Smith, 43 U. C. Q. B. 369.
See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 163.

"Floating right."—A deed of a certain strip of land which may be hereafter established by said company for the route of their railroad, over and across certain described land, conveys a mere floating right, which can only be rendered effectual and made to operate as a conveyance of title to any part by the actual location of the route of the road across such tract of land; and until such location the title to the whole tract will remain in the grantor. Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Forbes, 30 Mich. 165.

License.— An agreement to convey land to a railroad company providing it shall construct its road through a certain village within a given time and promising to deliver a deed when the road is complete and in operation prior to which time the railroad may enter on the premises for the purpose of constructing and operating its road is a mere license to the railroad to enter upon the land, construct its road, and operate its trains, and gives the railroad company a mere right to the possession of the land, and confers on it no title. Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. 584, 76 N. E. 840.

Option.— Where a grant of a railroad right of way for a given period provides that the grantee after such period may retain the right of way as long as it desires upon the payment of a stipulated amount, it confers a mere option not affecting rights already given. Alderman v. Wilson, 71 S. C. 64, 50 S. E. 643.

Possession of a railway road-bed will be presumed in ejectment to have followed the title until the dispossession by defendant took place, where the railway tracks were on the land and plaintiff railway company claims under a series of deeds purporting to convey the property. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 199 U. S. 247, 23 S. Ct. 25, 50 L. ed. 175 [affirming 23 App. Cas. (D. C.) 587].

Assignment to railroad.— Where a right of way for a railroad has been granted to a private individual without the power of appropriation, the railroad company succeeding to such right of way acquires no greater right than was held by him. Collins v. Craig Shipbuilding Co., 27 Ohio Cir. Ct. 802.

34. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Rayl, 69 Ind. 424. See also Her Majesty's Secretary of State v. Great Western R. Co., 13 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 503; Nelson v. Cook, 12 U. C. Q. B. 22.

The nature and quality of the interest taken and conferred is necessarily limited and fixed by the legislature, and whether only an easement or a full fee title is purely for its determination. Smith v. Hall, 103 Iowa 95, 72 N. W. 427.

35. Ballard v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 5 S. W. 484, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 523; Breckinridge v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1895) 33 Atl. 800 (holding that a conveyance by the words "give, grant, bargain, sell, convey and confirm" to a railroad company and its successors and assigns forever, etc., creates a fee); Yates v. Van de Bogert, 56 N. Y. 526; Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 107; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Obert, 109 Pa. St. 193, 1 Atl. 398 (holding that a railroad takes a fee in its original location under a deed conveying all the land on which the said "railroad is located and about being constructed").

In England a railroad company purchasing land for the railroad acquires an absolute fee simple, but such fee simple is acquired solely for the purposes of constructing and using the railroad. Norton v. London, etc., R. Co., 9 Ch. D. 623, 47 L. J. Ch. 859, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 25, 27 Wkly. Rep. 352 [affirmed in 13 Ch. D. 268, 41 L. T. Rep. N. S. 429, 28 Wkly. Rep. 173].

A company receiving a warranty deed to a strip of land for its track acquires a title in fee subject at most to forfeiture for nonuser or misuser, and not a mere easement. Askew v. Smith, 109 Wis. 532, 85 N. W. 512.

Right of way across non-navigable stream. —Although the state has an easement in the bed of a non-navigable stream and its citizens may use such stream for the purposes of navigation, the abutting owners are possessed in fee to the middle of the stream, and a conveyance from them to a railroad company of a right of way across the stream transfers such fee to the company, and the use of the bed of the stream for a purpose not relating to navigation, such as the laying of pipes beneath the water, may be restrained by the railroad company as a way";[36] and where land so conveyed is no longer needed for railroad purposes, the company may sell and convey the same.[37] Where a conveyance of the fee conveys for the uses and purposes of a railroad, it has been held that it creates a determinable fee and transfers the whole title from the grantor so long as the land is used for railroad purposes.[38] As a general rule, however, if the deed purports to convey only a right of way, it does not convey the land itself but the fee remains in the grantor, and the railroad company acquires a mere easement in perpetuity in the land, for railroad purposes,[39] although the conveyance is in the usual form of a full warranty deed.[40] The easement which a railroad company acquires under such conveyance is an interest which is absolute for the purposes for which the land is conveyed so long as it is used for those purposes, even though the language of the deed falls short of conveying the fee in the land.[41] trespass. Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 107.

If the conveyance is of the fee on condition, it amounts to a fee both in the surface and in regard to underlying coal or other minerals. Rice v. Clear Spring Coal Co., 186 Pa. St. 49, 40 Atl. 149.

36. Ballard v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 5 S. W. 484, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 523.

37. Yates v. Van de Bogert, 56 N. Y. 526.

38. U. S. Pipe Line Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 62 N. J. L. 254, 41 Atl. 759, 42 L. R. A. 572; Buffalo Pipe Line Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 10 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 107.

39. Alabama.— Odum v. Rutledge, etc., R. Co., 94 Ala. 488, 10 So. 222.

Arkansas.— Graham v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 69 Ark. 562, 65 S. W. 1048, 66 S. W. 344.

Illinois.— Walker v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 215 Ill. 610, 74 N. E. 812.

Indiana.—Smith v. Holloway, 124 Ind. 329, 24 N. E. 886; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Geisel, 119 Ind. 77, 21 N. E. 470; Douglas v. Thomas, 103 Ind. 187, 2 N. E. 563; Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Zicbarth, 6 Ind. App. 228, 33 N. E. 256.

Iowa.— Vermilya v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 606, 24 N. W. 234, 55 Am. Rep. 279; Henry v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 2 Iowa 288.

Nebraska.— Blakely v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 46 Nebr. 272, 64 N. W. 972.

Ohio.— Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wachter, 70 Ohio St. 113, 70 N. E. 974, holding that an instrument whereby the owner of a tract of land releases to a railroad company a right of way through the land, leaving a portion thereof on each side of the right of way, conveys an easement in the land for railroad purposes leaving the fee subject to such servitude in the grantor.

Pennsylvania.— Rice v. Clear Spring Coal Co., 186 Pa. St. 49, 40 Atl. 149. See Peach Bottom R. Co. v. McAlister, 11 York Leg. Rec. 75.

South Carolina.— Williams v. Oliver, Cheves, 115, holding that a written agreement by an owner of land, not under seal, with a railroad company that if it will build its road through or contiguous to his land he will convey to it a strip of a certain width with the right to clear the timber one hundred feet on each side thereof, and enter on and use the land without molestation for the purposes of its road, is an agreement to grant an easement for a right of way and not for a conveyance of a fee.

Tennessee.— McLemore v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 111 Tenn. 639, 69 S. W. 338; Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. McReynolds, (Ch. App. 1898) 48 S. W. 258.

Washington.— Reichenbach v. Washington Short Line R. Co., 10 Wash. 357, 38 Pac. 1126.

West Virginia.— Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co., 51 W. Va. 106, 41 S. E. 340.

United States.—South Penn Oil Co. v. Calf Creek Oil, etc., Co., 140 Fed. 507; Lockwood v. Ohio River R. Co., 103 Fed. 243, 43 C. C. A. 202.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 163.

Illustrations.— Thus a contract to lease to a railroad company a right of way of an indefinite size and location, through certain lands, and agreeing to convey a strip of land by metes and bounds, by deed in fee simple, when desired, is a contract for the conveyance of an easement merely, and not for the fee in the strip. Ottumwa, etc., R. Co. v. McWilliams, 71 Iowa 164, 32 N. W. 315. A deed to a railroad company conveying "a free and perpetual right of entry, right of way and easement," etc., to and upon lands conveys the easement only and not the fee. Beasley v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 145 N. C. 272, 59 S. E. 60 [modified and affirmed in 147 N. C. 362, 61 S. E. 453]. So where a railroad company, empowered by a charter to acquire a right of way of a certain width, acquires such right of way by donation, but limited to its actual needs, and reserving to the owners the title and right to cultivate the land up to the right of way actually occupied, it does not acquire an exclusive right of possession in a right of way of the width specified but an easement therein commensurate with its needs. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. McReynolds, (Tenn. Ch. App. 1898) 48 S. W. 258.

40. Jones v. Van Bochove, 103 Mich. 98, 61 N. W. 342. But see Askew v. Smith, 109 Wis. 532, 85 N. W. 512.

41. Walker v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 215 Ill. 610, 74 N. E. 812 (holding that a deed to a railroad company of a right of way for the purpose of constructing, maintaining,

Under some statutes a deed to a railroad company and its successors conveys an estate in fee if the grantor has such an estate, although no words of perpetuity are used.[42] Under other statutes, however, an easement only is conveyed, although the instrument purports to convey the fee.[43]

3. Rights in Adjoining Lands. The grant of a railroad right of way confers the right to make a reasonable use of the adjoining land, for the purposes expressed in the deed,[44] and for such other purposes as may be reasonably necessary for the enjoyment of the grant or license,[45] such as the widening and deepening of streams on adjoining land so as to secure the railroad and the adjoining land from damage by washing,[46] or the making of carefully constructed ditches and culverts for draining water from the right of way,[47] subject, however, to the limitation that it is done without negligence and unnecessary injury to the adjoining land.[48] But it does not give the company the right to use the adjoining land for purposes not expressed in the grant, nor reasonably necessary thereto.[49] Thus a grant "for all purposes connected with the construction, use, and occupation" of the right of way confers no right to take sand therefrom for the construction of a roundhouse without compensating the owner of the land therefor;[50] nor in the absence of agreement has the company a right to go outside its right of way and take sand or other material for the construction of its road;[51] nor has it the right to deposit large quantities of earth, rock, and waste matter from other portions of its right of way on land beyond the line of the slope or embankment contemplated by the owner's grant.[52] Where a railroad company in good faith, under a supposed charter or statutory authority, enters upon and uses adjoining and operating a single or double track railroad, with all necessary appurtenances and for all uses and purposes connected with its construction, repair, or maintenance, etc., does not convey the fee to the strip but only the right to use it perpetually for right-of-way purposes); Junction R. Co. v. Ruggles, 7 Ohio St. 1 (holding that where a landowner grants a right of way to a railroad company organized under a charter in perpetuity, and the grant contains no limit as to time, the easement will be perpetual, unless terminated by release or abandonment).

42. Yates v. Van de Bogert, 56 N. Y. 526; Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121 [affirming 12 Barb. 460]. See Norton v. London, etc., R. Co., 9 Ch. D. 623, 47 L. J. Ch. 859, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 25, 27 Wkly. Rep. 352 [affirmed in 13 Ch. D. 268, 41 L. T. Rep. N. S. 429, 28 Wkly. Rep. 173].

43. Chouteau v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 122 Mo. 375, 22 S. W. 458, 30 S. W. 299, under Laws (1849), p. 219, and Laws (1851), p. 272.

44. Vermilya v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 606, 24 N. W. 234, 55 Am. Rep. 279.

45. Babcock v. Western R. Corp., 9 Metc. (Mass.) 553, 43 Am. Dec. 411.

46. Babcock v. Western R. Corp., 9 Metc. (Mass.) 553, 43 Am. Dec. 411.

47. Babcock v. Western R. Corp., 9 Metc. (Mass.) 553, 43 Am. Dec. 411; Parks v. Southern R. Co., 143 N. C. 289, 55 S. E. 701, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 680. But see Earhart v. Cowles, 122 Iowa 194, 97 N. W. 1085 (holding that a grant of a right of way to a company for its tracks does not carry, as incident thereto, any right on the part of the company to discharge on to the land surface water collected by it from drainage); Childers v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 74 S. W. 241, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 2375.

48. Parks v. Southern R. Co., 143 N. C. 289, 55 S. E. 701, 12 L. R. A. N. S. 680. See McArthur v. Northern, etc., Junction R. Co., 17 Ont. App. 86 [modifying 15 Ont. 733].

49. McCord v. Doniphan Branch R. Co., 21 Mo. App. 92 (holding that a grant to a company of a right of way across land with the privilege of "borrowing or wasting earth in the construction or operation of the railway" does not give the right to waste the land outside of the right of way by heaping earth upon it); Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Richards, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 95, 32 S. W. 96.

50. Vermilya v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 606, 24 N. W. 234, 55 Am. Rep. 279.

51. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 209 Pa. St. 256, 58 Atl. 486, 103 Am. St. Rep. 1005; Brock Tp. v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 37 U. C. Q. B. 372; Pew v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 17 U. C. Q. B. 282.

Limitation of actions for damages so caused see Beard v. Credit Valley R. Co., 9 Ont. 616; Brock Tp. v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 37 U. C. Q. B. 372.

52. Bigham v. Pittsburg Constr. Co., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 86.

Trespass may be maintained by the owner in such a case, and in his action he may elect to treat the injury as permanent in its nature and ask that his entire damages be assessed accordingly. Bigham v. Pittsburg Constr. Co., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 86. And in such action plaintiff may show what deposits were made for a change in the grade under a subsequent agreement, and that the deposit complained of was not made in the execution of the grade contemplated land for the purpose of cutting timber, but without a right to do so, it will be liable for the actual damage sustained by the landowner,[53] but not for a statutory penalty of treble damages.[54] Under some statutes a railroad company or contractor may enter upon and use adjoining lands for temporary structures while constructing the road.[55]

4. Priority of Right.[56] Where a railroad company acquires title by purchase, it is governed by the same principles as private individuals, in acquiring title to the land and making improvements thereon.[57] The possession by a railroad company of its right of way is notice to all subsequent purchasers or encumbrancers of its rights in the premises.[58] The right or title of a railroad company in a right of way acquired by it is superior to that of a lessee of the land whose lease has expired, although such lessee purchases the land before the expiration of the lease, but after the grant of the right of way;[59] or to a lease made subsequent to its entry with the owner's consent;[60] or to a subsequent dedication of a part of the right of way for the purposes of a street;[61] or to subsequent purchasers with notice from the landowner.[62] But a private conveyance to a railroad company for a right of way conveys it subject to existing inchoate rights and liens.[63] It has been held that where the owner of the fee of land encumbered for purchase-money conveys a right of way over it to a railroad company which takes possession and constructs its road under such conveyance, the lienor can claim his full when the original grant was made. Bigham v. Pittsburg Contsr. Co., supra.

Measure of damages.— In the absence of sufficient evidence relating to the depreciation in value of the land, the jury is to be instructed as to the measure of damages in such case that subject to their finding as to the relation of the part occupied by the deposit complained of to the rest of the lot, the cost of removing the material wrongfully deposited on the land and putting it in as good condition as if the railroad company's right as to the slope had not been exceeded would be the proper measure of damages, provided that such cost would not be greater than the value of the land injuriously affected, and that in the latter case the value of such land would be the measure. Bigham v. Pittsburg Constr. Co., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 86.

53. Lindell v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 25 Mo. 550. See also McArthur v. Northern, etc., Junction R. Co., 17 Ont. App. 86 [modifying 15 Ont. 733].

54. Lindell v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 25 Mo. 550.

55. Lauderbrun v. Duffy, 2 Pa. St. 398.

Temporary tramway.— Where a railroad company proposes to take temporary possession of a piece of land adjoining its railroad in course of construction for the purpose of laying thereon a tramway for carrying materials for its new line, which materials could be brought by the high road, although at a greater expense, such temporary occupation is not "necessary for the construction" of the railway within the meaning of Railways Clauses Consolidation Act (1845), § 32. Morris v. Tottenham, etc., R. Co., [1892] 2 Ch. 47, 61 L. J. Ch. 215, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 585, 40 Wkly. Rep. 310.

56. Conflicting locations see supra, IV, F.

57. Fulkerson v. Taylor, 102 Va. 314, 46 S. E. 309.

58. Illinois Southern R. Co. v. Borders, 201 Ill. 459, 66 N. E. 382.

The actual possession by a railway company of a tract of land, under a verbal contract for a conveyance, to be made upon the performance of certain conditions, is notice to any subsequent purchaser from the party with whom the verbal contract was made, of all such rights as the company may have in the premises. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Boyd, 118 Ill. 73, 7 N. E. 487.

Entering upon and clearing the right of way and commencing grading and bridge work is such possession as to give notice of the company's rights in the premises to a subsequent grantee. Illinois Southern R. Co. v. Borders, 201 Ill. 459, 66 N. E. 382.

59. Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139, holding that where a lessor during the lease conveys a right of way across the land to a railroad company and the lessee erects buildings on the right of way, and afterward, before the expiration of the lease, purchases the land, the title of the company to the right of way after the expiration of the lease is superior to that of the lessee and that therefore it may compel the removal of the buildings.

60. Caststeel v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 81 Ark. 364, 99 S. W. 540.

61. Nalley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 177 Pa. St. 117, 35 Atl. 638.

62. Alderman v. Wilson, 71 S. C. 64, 50 S. E. 643.

63. Farrow v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 109 Ala. 448, 20 So. 303. See Harty v. Appleby, 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 205.

Adverse right of way.—A railroad company acquiring for a right of way land over which individuals exercise and claim a right of way adverse to and by recognition of the compensation for the land appropriated, but he is not entitled to sell the land with the improvements thereon in satisfaction of his lien.[64] Where a railroad company has acquired a portion of its right of way by a defective title, of which it had constructive notice, the court may decree that the land be sold with the portion of the road-bed thereon to satisfy a judgment against the company's vendor.[65]

G. Exceptions, Reservations, Covenants, and Conditions — 1. Exceptions and Reservations.[66] A railroad company may accept a conveyance of land subject to certain exceptions or reservations contained therein, in accordance with the rules regulating exceptions or reservations in deeds generally.[67] If a company accepts and holds under such deed, it is bound by the exceptions or reservations contained therein,[68] not withstanding it has otherwise acquired an absolute right to use the lands.[69] Under such a grant the railroad company has title to the land subject to the exceptions or reservations specified, and is entitled to use and enjoy the land conveyed in all lawful ways not inconsistent with the rights excepted or reserved;[70] and on the other hand the grantor must exercise the owner is chargeable with notice of the rights of the individuals. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Slaughter, 104 S. W. 293, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 894; Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Slaughter, 104 S. W. 291, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 913.

64. Gadsden First Nat. Bank v. Thompson, 116 Ala. 166, 22 So. 668. But see Flanary v. Kane, 102 Va. 547, 46 S. E. 312, 681.

A court of equity in which a suit is brought to enforce such lien has power to ascertain and decree the amount to be paid as damages or compensation. Gadsden First Nat. Bank v. Thompson, 116 Ala. 166, 22 So. 668.

65. Fulkerson v. Taylor, 102 Va. 314, 46 S. E. 309.

Waiver of defect in title.— If the value of land appropriated by a railroad company is submitted to arbitration and an award made and the company enters for the purposes of its road, its act in taking possession waives all right to object to a defect in the title, existing at the time a deed was tendered, but which was removed a few days afterward. Viele v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 184 [affirming 21 Barb. 381].

66. In agreements as to right of way or use of land see supra, V, C.

In conveyance from railroad company see infra, V, K, 3.

67. See Tift v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 103 Ga. 580, 30 S. E. 266; Porter v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 422, 77 S. W. 582; and, generally, Deeds, 13 Cyc. 672 et seq.

An exception may be created by words of reservation.— White v. New York, etc., R. Co., 156 Mass. 181, 30 N. E. 612.

The intention to except certain property included in the grant must be expressed in clear and certain terms. Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. 584, 76 N. E. 840.

Whether, in a given case, the language in a deed shall be construed to create an exception or reservation will depend upon the situation of the property and the surrounding circumstances, in the absence of a declaration by the parties in the deed of their intention. White v. New York, etc., R. Co., 156 Mass. 181, 30 N. E. 612.

Right of way not excepted.—Where a property-owner authorizes a railroad company to enter upon a strip of land and construct its road thereon and promises to give a deed if the road shall be constructed and in operation within a certain time, a subsequent deed providing that the conveyance is made subject to the agreement for the right of way and including a reversionary right to the portion of the land used by the company in case it should give up its rights aforesaid, does not except from the grant the right of way Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. 584, 76 N. E. 840.

An undertaking, to remove a barn and sheds, in consideration of the giving of a deed, cannot be construed to be an exception or reservation from the operation of the deed, in the absence of any showing of the actual location of the route of the railroad, or that it was so located as to include the ground where the barn and sheds stood; nor is such undertaking required to be in writing. Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Forbes, 30 Mich. 165.

68. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 45 Fla. 559, 34 So. 884; White v. New York, etc., R. Co., 156 Mass. 181, 30 N. E. 612.

Notice.— A written notice to a railroad company to remove its right of way in accordance with an agreement in a deed giving the right is a sufficient notice under a clause of the deed to the effect that should the grantor desire to remove the right of way, the railroad company should, on notice, remove the tracks to adjoining land, where the company on receipt of the notice never requested a more specific one. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 45 Fla. 559, 34 So. 884.

69. White v. New York, etc., R. Co., 156 Mass. 181, 30 N. E. 612.

70. Matthews v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 20 Hun (N. Y.) 427.

Cannot interfere with reserved right.— A railroad company acquiring a right of way over a person's land subject to the reserved right of the landowner to a way over the railroad right of way cannot obstruct its right of way so as to materially interfere with the landowner's reserved right. Porter rights reserved so as not to interfere with the railroad, unless the right to do so is reserved by express words or necessary implication.[71] Subject to these rules, grants have been made reserving an easement to the grantor,[72] such as to the use and occupancy of a spring or stream,[73] or the cultivation of the outside portion of the right of way,[74] or reserving a passway over and across the railroad.[75] It has been held that a reservation of the right to pass over property conveyed gives the grantor no right to pass over the railroad except at a definite place to be selected.[76] So a conveyance of land subject to all rights of way over said property does not include a portion of said track claimed by the railroad company as depot grounds.[77]

2. Covenants and Conditions in General. As a general rule a railroad company may accept a conveyance of land upon any conditions or covenants that are reasonable and possible to be performed,[78] which conditions and covenants are to be construed according to the rules regulating covenants and conditions in conveyances generally.[79] If the grant is upon conditions precedent, the company cannot claim title or assert any rights under the deed until such conditions have been performed.[80] Grants of land are also frequently made to a railroad company upon conditions subsequent, for a breach of which the grant may be defeated at the election of the grantor or his heirs or devisees.[81] No precise technical

v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 422, 77 S. W. 582.

Defense.— The fact that the railroad company acquired a right of way over certain lands and paid for the value of the land acquired and the damages sustained to the remaining land constitutes no defense to a claim for damages growing out of the company's obstructing a right of way reserved to the landowner over the railroad right of way. Porter v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 422, 77 S. W. 582.

71. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 45 Fla. 559, 34 So. 884.

72. Matthews v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 20 Hun (N. Y.) 427.

73. Smith v. Holloway, 124 Ind. 329, 24 N. E. 886; Matthews v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 20 Hun (N. Y.) 427; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Haas, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 167.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wood, 30 Ind. App. 650, 66 N. E. 923.

75. Claflin v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 157 Mass. 489, 32 N. E. 659, 20 L. R. A. 638; White v. New York, etc., R. Co., 156 Mass. 181, 30 N. E. 612; Bean v. French, 140 Mass. 229, 3 N. E. 206; Porter v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 103 Mo. App. 422, 77 S. W. 582; Lakenan v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. App. 363.

76. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, 98 S. W. 1042, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 426.

77. Mead v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 112 Iowa 291, 83 N. W. 979.

78. Taylor v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 54 Fla. 635, 45 So. 574, 16 L. R. A. N. S. 307; Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 15 S. C. 10, holding that public policy does not forbid a railroad corporation from accepting land for its road-bed upon such conditions.

79. See, generally, Deeds, 13 Cyc. 683 et seq.

As covenants running with the land see, generally, Covenants, 11 Cyc. 1080 et seq.

80. Littlejohn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 219 Ill. 584, 76 N. E. 840 (holding that where a property-owner agrees to convey land to a railroad company provided it shall construct and operate its road through a certain village within a certain time, the conditions of the conveyance are conditions precedent and the company cannot contend that it is seized of an estate upon conditions subsequent); New York, etc., R. Co. v. Providence, 16 R. I. 746, 19 Atl. 759 (holding that where a city grants to a railroad company certain depots and bridges on condition that it will fill in certain land, the filling of the land by the railroad company is a condition precedent to its right to occupy it).

Compromise agreement.—Where condemnation proceedings are compromised by an agreement providing that the landowner shall deed the land and that the railroad company shall, within one year, change the channel of a certain creek and shall, upon the opening of a certain street, erect a bridge in a stipulated manner, the building of the bridge is not a condition precedent to the passing of title and the failure to build it at the required time does not entitle the grantor to recover the land but merely gives him a right of action for damages. Bright v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 87 S. W. 780, 27 Ky. L. Rep. 1052.

81. Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 190 Ill. 320, 60 N. E. 515, 52 L. R. A. 645; Kenner v. American Contract Co., 9 Bush (Ky.) 202; Maison v. Montreal Park, etc., R. Co., 19 Quebec Super. Ct. 484.

Building embankment.— A grant to a railroad company on the condition that it will build and maintain a water-tight embankment or dam over a certain brook crossing the land conveyed as a part of its line of road, etc., is a condition subsequent. Underhill v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 455. Compare Chapin v. Harris, 8 Allen (Mass.) 594.

words are required to make a condition precedent or subsequent; it is always a question of the intention of the parties as construed from the terms of the instrument;[82] although conditions subsequent, especially when relied upon to work a forfeiture, must be created by express terms or clear implication,[83] and if it appears that during the time necessary for the performance of the condition it is not contemplated that the company shall be prevented from taking possession of the land or delayed in the construction of the road, it is a condition subsequent.[84] Thus grants have been made on a condition subsequent that the railroad company shall stop certain trains at a depot on the right of way granted,[85] or where such appears to be the intention of the parties from the provisions of the deed that if the land ceases to be used for railroad purposes it shall revert to the grantor,[86] and such condition is a continuing obligation which cannot be satisfied by the operation of the road on the land conveyed for a limited period only.[87] Such a condition does not require that the company shall at once use all parts of the land conveyed;[88] nor is a temporary non-user a breach of the condition.[89] The

82. Underhill v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 455.

83. Behlow v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 130 Cal. 16, 62 Pac. 295.

84. Underhill v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 455.

85. Taylor v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 54 Fla. 635, 45 So. 574, 16 L. R. A. N. S. 307; Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 189 Ill. 400, 59 N. E. 950; Burnett v. Great North of Scotland R. Co., 10 App. Cas. 147, 54 L. J. Q. B. 531, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 507.

Passenger train.—That a train carries milk as well as passengers does not deprive it of its character as a passenger train within a provision of a deed that passenger trains shall stop at a certain station. Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 189 Ill. 400, 59 N. E. 950.

Accommodation train.— Whether or not a train loses its character as an accommodation train within the meaning of such provision and becomes a through train by reason of the fact that it passes several stations without stopping before arriving at its destination is a question for the jury. Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 189 Ill. 400, 59 N. E. 950.

Continuing obligation.— A condition that the company should stop all its accommodation passenger trains at the point on the right of way where its passenger depot was then located on the premises, continues so long as the grantee holds and uses the land and is not a condition which may be satisfied by a performance for a number of years. Gray v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 189 Ill. 400, 59 N. E. 950.

86. Georgia.— Moss v. Chappell, 126 Ga. 196, 54 S. E. 968.

Illinois.— Bonne v. Clark, 129 Ill. 466, 21 N. E. 850, 5 L. R. A. 276, holding that a grant for the purpose of building, constructing, maintaining and using thereon a railroad is on condition subsequent. Compare Noyes v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., (1889) 21 N. E. 487.

Missouri.— Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Frowein, 163 Mo. 1, 63 S. W. 500.

Washington.—Mouat v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 16 Wash. 84, 47 Pac. 233, holding that a general warranty deed to a railroad company containing a condition that in case the land shall cease to be used for railroad purposes, it shall revert to the grantors, their heirs and assigns, vests in the company an estate on a condition subsequent and not on a conditional limitation.

Wisconsin.— Horner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Wis. 165.

The term "for railroad purposes only," as used in such a condition, means any railroad purpose, and the grantor cannot obtain a cancellation of the conveyance on the ground that it was understood that defendant would use the land in connection with a main line through the town where the land was situated and that the company had only built a branch. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Kamper, 88 Miss. 817, 41 So. 513.

Regularity of trains.— A condition subsequent in a deed to a railway company that, if the land conveyed is not used for railroad purposes only, it is to revert to the grantors, without limiting or defining the extent of the use, or the character or frequency of trains to be operated over it, is not broken by an irregular use of the land for railroad purposes, ranging from daily use to use at intervals of several months. Behlow v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 130 Cal. 16, 62 Pac. 295.

87. Taylor v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 54 Fla. 635, 45 So. 574, 16 L. R. A. N. S. 307; Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 190 Ill. 320, 60 N. E. 515, 2 L. R. A. 645.

88. Graham v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 69 Ark. 562, 65 S. W. 1048, 66 S. W. 344, holding that where, in procuring the right of way for a road, depot grounds, etc., a railroad company purchased such right in a larger tract of land than it had immediate use for "to have and to hold . . . so long as said lands are used for the purpose of a railroad, and no longer," it did not lose its right to the land by permitting the grantor to use so much as the company was not using until the company should need it.

89. Hickox v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 78 Mich. 615, 44 N. W. 143, 94 Mich. 237, 53 N. W. 1105; Mouat v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 16 Wash. 84, 47 Pac. 233.

grant, however, may contain merely a covenant or limitation, a breach of which does not invalidate the deed but merely entitles the grantor to damages.[90] Thus a covenant in such a conveyance has been held to be created by a provision that the grantor and others shall have free passage on the trains of the road,[91] or that other railroads shall have the right to run a parallel track on or along the right of way.[92] Where the language used in the deed is ambiguous and may import a condition subsequent or a covenant, it will be construed to be the latter in preference to the former.[93]

3. Time For Construction of Road. In accordance with the above rules a proviso in a grant of a right of way that the road or a certain portion thereof shall be constructed and operated within a certain time, as construed from the language

90. Bain v. Parker, 77 Ark. 168, 90 S. W. 1000 (holding that a deed in consideration of the building of a railroad to be completed by a certain time does not impose as a condition subsequent to the grant that the railroad shall be completed by the date named, but merely imports a covenant by the grantee to complete the road by the date specified); Detroit Union R., etc., Co. v. Fort St. Union Depot Co., 128 Mich. 184, 87 N. W. 214; Hastings v. North Eastern R. Co., [1898] 2 Ch. 674, 63 J. P. 36, 65 L. J. Ch. 590, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 812, 47 Wkly. Rep. 59 [affirmed in [1899] 1 Ch. 656, 68 L. J. Ch. 315, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 217, 15 T. L. R. 247].

Dependent covenants.— A covenant in an agreement to convey a right of way to a railroad company to execute and acknowledge a deed to the company conveying the land in fee simple, being a dependent covenant and the estate or interest conveyed by the agreement being limited to an incorporeal hereditament, the operation of such covenant is necessarily restricted by the granting clause and cannot require the conveyance of a greater estate. Uhl v. Ohio River R. Co., 51 W. Va. 106, 41 S. E. 340; Lockwood v. Ohio River R. Co., 103 Fed. 243, 43 C. C. A. 202.

An obligation to use water from a spring on the grantor's land and pay him therefor by the month, given in consideration of a conveyance of a right of way, continues as long as the company uses the right of way, although it ceases to use the water. Howe v. Harding, 84 Tex. 74, 19 S. W. 363.

91. Dodge v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 154 Mass. 299, 28 N. E. 243, 13 L. R. A. 318; Bettridge v. Great Western R. Co., 3 Grant Err. & App. (U. C.) 58.

A condition that the right of free passage should remain as long as the land and appurtenances described should be used as a railroad for railroad purposes is but a limitation on the road and does not perpetuate the right to the descendants of the grantor. Dodge v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 154 Mass. 299, 28 N. E. 243, 13 L. R. A. 318.

The word "family" as used in a condition that the grantor and his family shall have free passage over the road on the cars of the company means those living in the grantor's house and under his management and does not extend so as to include the grantor's granddaughter or other members of the family who do not live with him. Dodge v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 154 Mass. 299, 28 N. E. 243, 13 L. R. A. 318; Mitchell v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 488, 6 Am. L. Rec. 265. Compare Ruddick v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. 25, 22 S. W. 499, 38 Am. St. Rep. 570.

92. South, etc., R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 117 Ala. 395, 23 So. 973.

Compensation.—Such provision permits such use by another company without compensation. South, etc., R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 117 Ala. 395, 23 So. 973.

Such provision contemplates that the grantee may acquire the right to the exclusive use of all the right of way in case of sufficient growth of its business, so that in an action by another railroad company to enforce such provision, the bill of such other company, in order to have its right to construct thereon declared, should show that there is space on the right of way on which to build its track. South, etc., R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 117 Ala. 395, 23 So. 973.

Mere lapse of time and increase of business of the railroad to which a land company gives a right of way will not prevent the enforcement of a provision in the deed that any other railroad running into or through a certain city shall have the right to run a parallel track on or along the same right of way. South, etc., R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 117 Ala. 395, 23 So. 973.

Such provision may be enforced at the suit of another railroad company, although it was not in existence at the time the deed was made. South, etc., R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 117 Ala. 395, 23 So. 973.

93. Arkansas.— Bain v. Parker, 77 Ark. 168, 90 S. W. 1000.

Florida.— Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 45 Fla. 559, 34 So. 884.

Michigan.— Waldron v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 55 Mich. 420, 21 N. W. 870.

Minnesota.— Hamel v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 97 Minn. 334, 107 N. W. 139.

Ohio.— Monnett v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 26 Ohio Cir. Ct. 469.

A provision, as a further consideration of the grant, to place two stations at a location to be selected by the grantor, at which all trains must stop, is not a condition upon which the estate is granted, and is not available to defeat the estate created by the grant, but is merely a personal covenant on the part employed, may be either a condition precedent,[94] or a condition subsequent,[95] or a mere covenant.[96] As a general rule a substantial compliance with such a condition is sufficient.[97] Thus where the grant is on a condition providing for a reversion to the grantor if work is not commenced on the road within a specified time, the construction and operation of any part of the road will satisfy the condition.[98] But where the provision is for a reversion on the grantee's failure to construct its road across the premises within a specified time, a completion of about one-half of the grading is not a substantial compliance with the condition.[99] Where the performance of such condition is dependent upon the grantor's selection of the route, the time specified does not begin to run against the company until the grantor has made such selection.[1] Where the grant provides that the right of way shall revert if the company ceases to use it as a railroad but specifies no time within which the road is to be constructed, there is an implied obligation on the part of the grantee to construct the road within a reasonable time.[2] Where the condition is that the license shall be void unless the road is constructed within a certain time, the licensor may enjoin the further extension of the road over the line after such time has elapsed.[3]

4. Mode of Construction in General. A grant may also be made upon condition that the road-bed be constructed and maintained in a particular mode,[4] such of the grantee. Behlow v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 130 Cal. 16, 62 Pac. 295.

94. Peterson v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 120 Ga. 967, 48 S. E. 372, holding where the grant contains a provision that in consideration of a certain sum paid the grantor will give the company the exclusive privilege to build a railroad over lands owned by the grantor provided the railroad is built to the land by a certain date, the right of way is dependent upon the building of a railroad to the land by the time named in the deed and on a failure so to do the right to locate a right of way is lost.

95. Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121 (holding that a conveyance on the condition that the company shall construct its railroad within the time prescribed by the act of incorporation is a grant on a condition subsequent and not precedent); Reichenbach v. Washington Short Line R. Co., 10 Wash. 357, 38 Pac. 1126 (holding that where a grant for so long as the land shall be used for the operation of a railroad provides that the grantee shall complete the road on or before Jan. 1, 1888, the agreement to build was a condition subsequent and not a mere covenant); Rannels v. Rowe, 145 Fed. 296, 74 C. C. A. 376.

A clause "this right of way to be exclusive for one year" as contained in a grant of land to a railroad company does not impose upon the company the duty of entering within a year under penalty of a reversion of the grant but merely gives to the company an exclusive right for one year to a way over the grantor's land, after which the grantor is at liberty to grant other rights of way to other companies. Virginia, etc., R. Co., v. Crow, 108 Tenn. 17, 64 S. W. 485.

A condition that the company shall construct a certain length of road within a given time, and on its failure to do so, that the granted estate shall revert to the grantor, is a condition subsequent, for breach of which the grantor may enter upon the land and repossess himself of it; and, in case of his doing so, the land is not subject to attachment thereafter for debts of the company, contracted while the land was in its possession. Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 152 U. S. 444, 14 S. Ct. 647, 38 L. ed. 507.

96. Bain v. Parker, 77 Ark. 168, 90 S. W. 1000; Krueger v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 185 Mo. 227, 84 S. W. 898, holding that a grant on condition that the construction of the road be fully completed and the road be in operation in or before the year 1900 is a covenant and not a condition.

97. Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 729, 57 S. E. 523.

98. Lester v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 90 Ga. 802, 17 S. E. 113.

99. Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 729, 57 S. E. 523.

1. Waldron v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 55 Mich. 420, 21 N. W. 870.

2. Pollock v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 103 Ky. 34, 44 S. W. 359, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1717, holding therefore that the right is forfeited by a delay of thirty-four years before constructing the road.

Where, besides great physical obstacles hindering the construction of a road, the company is also affected by a financial panic which was unforeseen at the time the contract for the right of way was made, the fact that two and one-half years is expended in building about five miles of road, the construction of which required a large expenditure, is not so unreasonable as to constitute a breach of a covenant to construct the line with reasonable speed. Bell v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 144 Cal. 560, 77 Pac. 1124.

3. Detroit, etc., Plank Road Co. v. Detroit Suburban R. Co., 103 Mich. 585, 61 N. E. 880; McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 721, 57 S. E. 520.

4. Hills v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 18 N. H. 179 (holding, however, that a clause "said as that it be so constructed as not to interfere with the landowner's water-power;[5] or that the company construct and maintain in a proper condition necessary culverts, drains, and ditches to carry off surplus water, and drain the adjoining land.[6] But where, in compliance with such condition or covenant, the company has constructed its road-bed so as to drain the land to the best advantage, it cannot afterward be compelled to change its road-bed because natural changes have made the drainage insufficient.[7] Where the diversion of a watercourse is expressly authorized by the terms of the deed of a right of way, the company is not liable for the consequential damages resulting therefrom unless the work is done negligently or the damage is unnecessary.[8] But such authority does not give the company a right to flood the grantor's land with the waters of streams which before did not touch it; and if the company has the right to bring such streams on the grantor's land, it must prepare a proper channel.[9]

5. Location of Road, Termini, and Stations. A railroad company may also accept a conveyance of land subject to a condition or covenant that it will locate its road, termini, or stations on the land conveyed,[10] and if there is any doubt as to the meaning of the terms employed in the grant as to the location of the right of way, it should be solved in favor of the grantee, particularly where the probabilities of the case favor such a conclusion.[11] Thus a covenant requiring a railroad company to erect a depot at a certain place in consideration of a grant of a right of way is a valid covenant for a breach of which the company will be liable in dam-corporation to make us a culvert or pass for cattle to pass under said road" does not justify the company in digging a ditch on the adjoining land of the grantor to drain the passway); Unangst's Appeal, 55 Pa. St. 128; Jones v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 11 Pa. Super. Ct. 202.

Interference with buildings.—A conveyance of land to a company for the purpose of constructing a railroad upon it, "provided the same does not interfere with buildings on said land," will be so construed as to prevent the construction of the road so near to the buildings as to endanger their safety or destroy their usefulness. Rathbone v. Tioga Nav. Co., 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 74.

5. Unangst's Appeal, 55 Pa. St. 128.

6. Madden v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 46; Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 15 S. C. 10; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Sutor, 56 Tex. 496; Mills v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 10 Wash. 520, 39 Pac. 246. See Great North of Scotland R. Co. v. Fife, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 425, holding, however, that the obligation to preserve the drainage is not of unlimited duration, but is subject to the limitation prescribed by the Railway Clauses (Scotland) Act (1845), § 65.

A culvert or drain is duly provided by any structure or ditch that fairly accomplishes the purpose of drainage, although it is not an arched waterway of masonry. Oursler v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 60 Md. 358.

Damages.—A breach of such condition holds the company liable for damages approximately resulting from its failure to maintain sufficient ditches, but not for damages from an increased flow of water caused by the ditches from another railroad. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Sutor, 56 Tex. 496.

7. Harrelson v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 151 Mo. 482, 52 S. W. 368.

One who contracts with a railroad company to construct its embankment and trestles on his land in a certain way, his purpose being to provide a way for leading off the natural waters of a branch, cannot afterward invoke the powers of an equity court to compel the company to remove the obstruction caused by the embankment and trestles constructed according to the contract, even though the natural elements have wrought such a change in the conditions as to cause the waters to overflow his lands. Harrelson v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 151 Mo. 482, 52 S. W. 368.

8. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 47 Ark. 330, 1 S. W. 545; Oursler v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 60 Md. 358.

9. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 47 Ark. 340, 1 S. W. 609; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ussery, (Ark. 1886) 1 S. W. 873.

10. See the cases cited infra, this note and notes 11-23.

Contracts as to location in general see supra, IV, A, 5.

A first-class station within the meaning of a covenant by a railroad company that it will use a certain piece of land purchased for a first-class station does not require that the company shall erect a larger station than had been used for many years, and which had not been objected to, and at which the passengers were not numerous, but it does require that the company shall stop at such station as many trains as stopped at other stations between the termini of the road, excepting mail, express, and special trains. Hood v. North Eastern R. Co., L. R. 5 Ch. 525, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, 18 Wkly. Rep. 473 [affirming L. R. 8 Eq. 666, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 970, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1085].

11. Kirby v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 109 Ill. 412.

ages.[12] Where it appears from the terms of the condition that it was intended by the parties that if the land was not used for station purposes it should revert to the grantor, it is a condition subsequent for a breach of which the estate may be forfeited.[13] The character of the station to be maintained under such condition is to be determined by the needs of those who use it, and of the public, as construed in connection with the terms of the grant,[14] although a substantial compliance with such a condition or covenant is sufficient,[15] and no restriction or limitation will be enforced against the company which is not in the terms of the deed and which cannot fairly or necessarily be inferred from its terms.[16] Likewise a rail-

12. Georgia Southern R. Co. v. Reeves, 64 Ga. 492; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 106 Ind. 600, 5 N. E. 414; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Baskett, 104 S. W. 695, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 1035; Ramsey v. Edgefield, etc., R. Co., 3 Tenn. Ch. 170.

13. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Coburn, 91 Ind. 557 (holding that a conveyance of a right of way in consideration of the maintenance of a depot on land adjoining is a conveyance on condition subsequent); Close v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 64 Iowa 149, 19 N. W. 886 (holding that a grant in consideration of one dollar "and the permanent location of a depot on the grounds conveyed" is on condition subsequent); Blanchard v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 31 Mich. 42, 18 Am. Rep. 142; Hamel v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 97 Minn. 334, 107 N. W. 139.

Not conditional estate.— A deed to a railroad company in consideration of its agreement to maintain a station thereon, and providing that the same shall be used only in connection with the railroad and its business does not create an estate on condition that a station shall be erected and maintained, and a failure to do so does not work a forfeiture where the property is used by the railroad company in its business and for no other purpose. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Baskett, 104 S. W. 695, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 1035.

14. Arkansas Cent. R. Co. v. Smith, 71 Ark. 189, 71 S. W. 947 (holding that a condition in a deed of a right of way reciting that "for and in consideration of a depot at Spring Hill," etc., is not fulfilled by merely building a side-track and stopping trains for the reception of passengers and freight, no building or platform being erected); Hamel v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 97 Minn. 334, 107 N. W. 139; Caldwell v. East Broad Top R., etc., Co., 169 Pa. St. 99, 32 Atl. 85.

"Station purposes."— Where a right of way is conveyed by the owner of a farm with a strip of land for "station purposes," such term refers to a regularly operated railroad station at which business may be conducted by the railroad company as at its other stations. Hamel v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 97 Minn. 334, 107 N. W. 139.

15. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Rose, 24 Ohio St. 219; Geauyeau v. Great Western R. Co., 3 Ont. 412 [reversing 25 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 62]; Schliehauf v. Canada Southern R. Co., 28 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 236.

Illustrations.— Thus a condition "that the said company shall make Chillicothe a station" is complied with by making Chillicothe a station, although the depot is located one quarter of a mile from the town plat. Jenkins v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 29 Iowa 255. So a condition for the erection of a station, the character of which is not specified, is complied with by the erection of a board shed without the placing of an agent there, where it is in structure and management like most of the stations on the road. Caldwell v. East Broad Top R., etc., Co., 169 Pa. St. 99, 32 Atl. 85. But the erection of a small building called a depot for temporary purposes until the grantee could build a permanent structure is not a compliance with such a condition, and where neither the grantee nor the company which purchased its property and franchises have ever erected a permanent structure, the purchaser must respond in damages for the breach thereof. Ecton v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., 59 S. W. 864, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1133.

Under Tex. Rev. St. (1895) arts. 4492, 4493, 4519, 4521, a railroad company under a conveyance in consideration of the establishment of a depot and side-tracks, upon the property deeded is required not only to maintain a depot building but to keep an agent there, and the grantor is entitled to recover damages for its failure so to do, although the operation of the station is unprofitable. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Martin, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 379, 86 S. W. 25. But under Rev. St. (1895) arts. 4376, 4367, a railroad company is free to change the location of its shops and offices when occasion so requires, notwithstanding the conveyance to the railroad company is in consideration of the location and perpetual maintenance of shops and offices on the land conveyed. Tyler v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., (Civ. App. 1905) 87 S. W. 238.

A railroad company is not bound to keep up a depot forever under such a conveyance, on the grantor's land; if it maintains it for a considerable length of time and until the company's interest and public convenience require its abandonment it is a substantial compliance with the covenant. Jeffersonville, etc., R. Co. v. Barbour, 89 Ind. 375; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Scott, 77 Fed. 726, 23 C. C. A. 424, 37 L. R. A. 94; Jessup v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 7 Ont. App. 128 [reversing 28 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 583].

16. Southard v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 13.

road company may agree to a provision in a deed that in consideration of a grant of certain land it will locate, construct, and operate its road over or through such land,[17] in substantial compliance with a specified or contemplated line,[18] although a substantial compliance with such condition is sufficient.[19] Where such provision is in the form of a covenant, its breach does not entitle the grantor to a cancellation of the deed but only to an action for damages.[20] Where the grant provides that the right of way shall be located by the chief engineer of the state, the boundary, as designated by him or by his assistant under his authority or direction, is binding on the grantor and his privies,[21] particularly where considerable time has been allowed to elapse after such location has been made.[22] Where under statutory authority a railroad has come into the control of the state, and it accepts lots as a donation for the purpose of erecting depots and turnouts thereon, the state does not obligate itself thereby to fix on such lots as a terminus, although if a terminus is erected elsewhere a reconveyance of the lots may be enforced.[23]

6. Crossings, Fences, and Cattle-Guards. Where a railroad company accepts a conveyance,[24] and occupies a right of way granted therein, it is bound by a covenant or condition imposed by the terms of the grant that it will erect and maintain a fence along its roadway upon the premises conveyed,[25] or construct and maintain cattle-guards or a private or farm crossing thereon;[26] and the rail-

17. Morrill v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 96 Mo. 174, 9 S. W. 657; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Garrett, 52 Tex. 133.

18. Iowa.— Crosbie v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 62 Iowa 189, 17 N. W. 581, holding that no right of way can be claimed under such deed by a corporation running an independent line and in a different direction.

Missouri.— Jasper County El. R. Co. v. Curtis, 154 Mo. 10, 55 S. W. 222, construction so as to leave certain space between the right of way and the grantor's lands.

Ohio.— Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 6 Ohio St. 119, holding that where a railroad company has received a donation of land in consideration of its placing its road in a specified place, it will not be allowed to change the line of its road or to do by indirection the equivalent thereto without compensating the donor.

Tennessee.— Knoxville, etc., R. Co. v. Beeler, 90 Tenn. 548, 18 S. W. 391.

Wisconsin.— Hutchinson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 37 Wis. 582.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 171.

19. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Cook, 98 Fed. 281, 39 C. C. A. 86.

20. Moseley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Nebr. 636, 78 N. W. 293; Minard v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 153 Fed. 578, 82 C. C. A. 586 [affirming 129 Fed. 60].

21. Dougherty v. Western, etc., R. Co., 53 Ga. 304.

22. Dougherty v. Western, etc., R. Co., 53 Ga. 304.

23. Taylor v. Whitney, 5 Ill. 61.

24. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666, holding the evidence to be sufficient to show the acceptance by a company of a conveyance of land for a right of way which contained a covenant to erect and maintain a farm crossing.

25. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 106 Ind. 600, 5 N. E. 413; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719; Hull v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 Iowa 713, 22 N. W. 940.

26. Illinois.— Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hobbie, 61 Ill. App. 396.

Indiana.— Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Lee, 14 Ind. App. 328, 41 N. E. 1058, holding that where a deed of a right of way to a railroad company provides for a private way on the grantor's farm under the railroad, and the grantor has, with the consent of the company, elected to accept such way over and on a public highway, the company cannot close it without liability for damages.

Iowa.— Hull v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 Iowa 713, 22 N. W. 940.

Kentucky.— Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043; Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Ford, 50 S. W. 1112, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 129.

Louisiana.— Eatman v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 35 La. Ann. 1018.

Michigan.— Stewart v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 89 Mich. 315, 50 N. W. 852, 17 L. R. A. 539.

Missouri.— Gratz v. Highland Scenic R. Co., 165 Mo. 211, 65 N. W. 223; Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265; Stilwell v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 39 Mo. App. 221.

New York.— Aikin v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 26 Barb. 289.

Canada.— Canada Southern R. Co. v. Erwin, 13 Can. Sup. Ct. 162 [reversing 11 Ont. App. 306]; Canada Southern R. Co. v. Clouse, 13 Can. Sup. Ct. 139 [reversing 11 Ont. App. 287, which modified 4 Ont. 28].

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 172.

"An adequate crossing" within the meaning of a conveyance with the proviso that the company shall construct such a crossing over the road is not complied with by the construction of a crossing with heavy slide gates as in such case the grantor is entitled to an open crossing. Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119.

road company cannot avoid this duty on the ground that, since the conveyance and reservation were made, it has made such changes in its tracks, etc., that the erection and maintenance of such crossing would be a great embarrassment to it in operating its road,[27] or on the ground that the building of the crossing at the particular place designated would be at a considerable expense;[28] nor can it exonerate itself from such duty by a statutory condemnation of the right of way.[29] Where the performance of such condition is dependent upon the grantor's selecting the places at which the crossings are to be erected, damages for a failure to perform such condition can be recovered only upon a showing that the grantor designated the places.[30] A covenant by a railroad company to erect and maintain a farm crossing or fences is one that runs with the land and is available for the protection of the grantor or his remote grantee against a company claiming under the conveyance,[31] and may be enforced against a grantee of the railroad com-

The filing of a location which contains no mention of the crossing and with no showing of an intention to abrogate the crossing does not extinguish the landowner's right to a crossing under a conveyance requiring the company to construct a suitable road crossing. Hamlin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 166 Mass. 462, 44 N. E. 444.

Right to covenant.— Where an agreement for the purchase of a right of way provides that the company shall construct and maintain a crossing over the right of way, the owner has a right to incorporate in his deed to the company a covenant that the grantee shall maintain a crossing for the grantor, his heirs and assigns. Hall v. Clearfield, etc., R. Co., 168 Pa. St. 64, 31 Atl. 940.

Whether a covenant contemplates the maintenance as well as the making of a crossing is to be determined from the nature of the subject-matter of the contract and the construction placed thereon by the parties. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666; Cameron v. Wellington, etc., R. Co., 28 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 327 [reversing 27 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 95], bound to maintain crossing, but not to keep it free from snow. Thus a covenant that the company will "make and maintain" a wire fence on both sides of the land conveyed and also make a farm crossing in pursuance of which the company does supply, maintain, and keep in repair a crossing for a number of years, obligates the company, not only to make but also to maintain the crossing. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666.

Duty to erect approaches.— A covenant in which the railroad company agrees to make a farm crossing imposes on it the duty of erecting approaches to the crossing. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666.

Farm crossing.— Where a strip through a farm is conveyed to a company for a right of way and the company covenants to provide the grantor with a convenient road crossing, and one of the severed portions of the farm is intersected by a road, but there is no method of egress from the other portion except over the railroad crossing and through the intersected portion of the road, a farm crossing only is meant, and the grantor and his grantees have a right to use it only for farm purposes. Speer v. Erie R. Co., (N. J. 1907) 65 Atl. 1024 [reversing 70 N. J. Eq. 318, 62 Atl. 943].

Where the sole condition in the conveyance is the establishment of an under crossing on the grantor's land, no action lies for damages caused by the construction of a station and switch near such crossing, whereby the traffic at that point is largely increased. Perry v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 9 Misc. (N. Y.) 515, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 140.

Power of solicitor.— In treating with landowners for the right to cross their lands by a railroad, or in proceedings before arbitrators, the solicitor acting for the company at the arbitration is not qualified to enter into any special agreement binding the company to construct and maintain a crossing. Wood v. Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 25 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 135.

The word "necessary" within a provision requiring a railroad company to make such roads, ways, and slips for cattle as might be necessary must receive a reasonable interpretation, and has been held to mean "such roads, ways and slips for cattle, as might be necessary and proper for convenient communication between the severed portions" of the owner's land. Sanderson v. Cockermouth, etc., R. Co., 11 Beav. 497, 50 Eng. Reprint 909.

27. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hobbie, 61 Ill. App. 396.

28. Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043.

29. Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119; Stafford v. Big Sandy R. Co., 105 S. W. 389, 32 Ky. L. Rep. 154, condemning new right of way no defense.

30. Hull v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 Iowa 713, 22 N. W. 940. But see Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Killen, 50 S. W. 1108, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 122.

31. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666; Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Griffin, (Ind. App. 1899) 53 N. E. 1042; Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Killen, 50 S. W. 1108, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 122; Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 50

pany.[32] Unless the conveyance specifies the time within which such crossings, cattle-guards, or fences are to be constructed,[33] the company's duty is to comply with such duty within a reasonable time after it takes possession;[34] and if it fails to do so within the time specified or within a reasonable time, an action will lie against it for a breach thereof in which recovery may be had for the reasonable cost of erecting the fences or constructing the crossings or cattle-guards,[35] although plaintiff has not first done such work,[36] together with such damages as may have resulted up to the time of trial from the inconvenience of not having the fence or crossing,[37] and together with special damages caused, such as the value of cattle killed,[38] damage to crops, and the like.[39] It has also been held that the measure of damages in such a case is the difference in the rental value of the land.[40] In

S. W. 1105, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 128; Scowden v. Erie R. Co., 26 Pa. Super. Ct. 15.

Where under a covenant the grantee undertakes to maintain two passways over its road, and the grantor divides his land and sells the several parts to different persons, each of his vendees is entitled to the benefit of the covenant and may recover damages against the railroad company to the extent that his part of the land has been injured by the failure of the company to furnish the required passways. Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Killen, 50 S. W. 1108, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 122.

32. Kelly v. Nypano R. Co., 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 177 (holding that a grantee of a railroad company is bound to erect a fence under such a covenant, although there was no fence on the land at the time it took title); Edinburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 157, 4 Macq. H. L. 450.

33. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 61 Ind. 290 (holding that a conveyance in consideration that the company shall fence the road "in six months' time" does not oblige the company to fence until six months after the completion of the road); Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. McClellan, 59 Ind. 440 (holding that the word "completion" within the meaning of a provision that the company shall make a conveyance along its roadway on such premises within a reasonable time after the completion of the road refers to that part of the road extending across the owner's land and not to the whole line of the railroad).

34. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Koons, 105 Ind. 507, 5 N. E. 549.

35. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 119 Ind. 269, 21 N. E. 751; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 106 Ind. 600, 5 N. E. 413; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719; Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Koons, 105 Ind. 507, 5 N. E. 549; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666; Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043; Stafford v. Big Sandy R. Co., 105 S. W. 389, 32 Ky. L. Rep. 154.

Leave to construct the crossing within a reasonable time may be granted by the court, in such a case, in lieu of paying plaintiff the amount that it would reasonably cost him to construct. Stafford v. Big Sandy R. Co., 105 S. W. 389, 32 Ky. L. Rep. 154.

36. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Koons, 105 Ind. 507, 5 N. E. 549; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666.

37. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 34 Ind. App. 324, 72 N. E. 666; Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043; Stafford v. Big Sandy R. Co., 105 S. W. 389, 32 Ky. L. Rep. 154.

38. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 119 Ind. 269, 21 N. E. 751; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 106 Ind. 600, 5 N. E. 413; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719.

Injuries to animals generally by failure to fence see infra, X, H, 4.

39. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 119 Ind. 269, 21 N. E. 751; Eatman v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 35 La. Ann. 1018.

The amount of damage in such case should be the value of the growing crop at the time of the breach of the covenant, to be established by the then existing facts, and the judgment of men applied to them, as if the inquiry had been made the day the crop was destroyed, without admitting proof of any after-occurring fact (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ward, 16 Ill. 522); but in such a case it is proper to permit a party to prove what the crop would have been worth at its maturity, taking as the measure of damages the relative value of the growing crop for a series of antecedent years, to establish the value of the crop destroyed at the time of its destruction; or, what would a prudent man have given for the crop destroyed, at the time, provided he should have it secured from trespass, and have the right to cultivate and secure it (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ward, supra); and it is also proper to show how much the land would yield each season, and the market value of the crops at harvest season, from which should be deducted the cost of tillage, harvesting, and marketing, to ascertain the true measure of damage (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ward, supra).

40. Hull v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 Iowa 713, 22 N. W. 940; Varner v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 55 Iowa 677, 8 N. W. 634.

The actual loss in rental value resulting from a breach of an agreement by a railroad company in consideration of a grant of a right of way to build and maintain a sufficient stock fence, although the only damage shown, is recoverable. Lake Erie, order to sustain an action for compensatory damages against a railroad company for failure to build fences and cattle-guards in breach of covenants in its right-of-way grant, there must be an actual loss from such failure as its proximate cause.[41] A failure to make crossings and fences as agreed does not make a railroad company liable as a trespasser for running on the right of way secured from the landowner, for if liable at all it is liable on its agreement and not as a trespasser.[42]

7. Damages From Construction and Maintenance.[43] A stipulation in a grant to a railroad company releasing it from damages caused or to be caused by the location, construction, maintenance, and operation of the road, releases the company from liability for such damages as are a necessary result of the location, construction, maintenance, and operation of the road in a legal and proper manner;[44] and protects the company from liability to a subsequent purchaser of the land, with notice;[45] but it does not release the company from such damages as are the result of its negligence or unskilfulness.[46] A recital in a deed granting a right of way that the grantor has been fully paid for the damage done or which may be done to his property by the location and construction of the roadway does not preclude the grantor's right to have his damages assessed according to law, where the railroad company has not fulfilled a condition in the deed requiring it to complete the road within a specified time.[47] A release from damages arising "by reason of the location or construction" of a railroad does not release the grantor's right to a way of necessity across the land conveyed unless facts are shown which favor such a construction.[48]

8. Successors or Grantees of Parties to Grant. Notwithstanding a railroad company procures the premises indirectly through a third person employed by it, it is bound to perform all conditions and undertakings in the deed conveying such premises if it constructs and operates its road under such conveyance.[49] A successor of a railroad company is bound by all conditions and covenants in a etc., R. Co. v. Griffin, (Ind. App. 1899) 53 N. E. 1042.

Evidence.— In an action for a violation by a railroad company of covenants, in a deed of a right of way, to provide the grantor with private ways over and under the railroad, evidence of what his land was worth without the crossings and what it would have been worth with them is admissible. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Lee, 14 Ind. App. 328, 41 N. E. 1058.

41. Douglass v. Ohio River R. Co., 51 W. Va. 523, 41 S. E. 911, holding that a railroad company is not liable in compensatory damages for breach of a covenant to construct cattle-guards where the landowner fences off his remaining land on both sides of the right of way and the land between such fences is not used for stock, and the division line between the land of the grantor and the adjoining owner is partly unfenced so as to allow cattle to pass from the adjoining land to the land occupied by the right of way, and it is not shown that cattle have passed along the railroad either way through the division line.

Compensatory damages cannot be recovered for breach of a covenant to fence the tracks where the land through which the railroad passes is used only for cropping, and no damages are shown otherwise than from the omission of the owner to graze stock on his land because of fear of possible injury thereto. Douglass v. Ohio River R. Co., 51 W. Va. 523, 41 S. E. 911.

42. Mt. Sterling Coal Road Co. v. Beatty, 4 Ky. L. Rep. 365.

43. Effect of conveyance independent of stipulations see supra, V, D, 3, a.

44. Burrow v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 107 Ind. 432, 8 N. E. 167; McMinn v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 147 Pa. St. 5, 23 Atl. 325; Updegrove v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co., 132 Pa. St. 540, 19 Atl. 283, 7 L. R. A. 213, holding that such a release is a bar to a recovery for injuries caused by a ditch and culvert constructed by the railroad company on its right of way subsequently to the original location and construction of the road. See also Hoffeditz v. Southern Pennsylvania R., etc., Co., 129 Pa. St. 264, 18 Atl. 125.

45. Burrow v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 107 Ind. 432, 8 N. E. 167.

46. McMinn v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 147 Pa. St. 5, 23 Atl. 325; Spencer v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 10 R. I. 14, holding that the fact that the grantor has released all claims for damages which might be awarded by commissioners will not preclude the recovery of damages caused to his land by the negligent or improper construction by the company of a bridge on the land conveyed.

47. Bredin v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 165 Pa. St. 262, 31 Atl. 39.

48. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 162 Mass. 81, 38 N. E. 27.

49. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 89 Ga. 708, 15 S. E. 626, purchase through a construction company.

conveyance to the original company which run with the land,[50] such as a covenant to furnish the grantor with an annual pass and on condition that a failure to do so will work a forfeiture of the grant,[51] or a covenant to permanently maintain a depot upon the premises,[52] or to construct and maintain crossings or cattle-guards;[53] and such covenants are available to the heirs, grantees, or devisees of the original grantor.[54] But a succeeding company is not bound by a parol agreement with its predecessor, the consideration for which is a claim for damages which is not a lien on the land, where the burden imposed by the agreement is junior to a trust deed under which the succeeding company acquires title, and is not necessary for the proper construction and operation of the road;[55] nor is a subsequent purchaser from the grantor, bound by written agreements of which he had no notice, actual or constructive, at the time of the purchase.[56]

9. Excuses For Failure to Perform Conditions. Excuses for the non-performance or breach of conditions in a grant of land to a railroad company are governed by the rules regulating excuses for breaches of the performance of conditions in deeds generally.[57] Thus a railroad company cannot excuse its failure to perform conditions or covenants contained in a grant on the ground of financial embarrassment,[58] or on the ground that it concentrated its force on some other part of its line;[59] nor can it be released from the performance of such conditions by a city ordinance.[60]

10. Rights and Remedies of Parties[61] — a. In General. Where a railroad company fails to comply with the covenants or conditions upon which a grant was made to it, the proper remedy against it ordinarily is an action for the damages sustained by reason of the breach;[62] but in some cases a bill for a specific

50. Kenner v. American Contract Co., 9 Bush (Ky.) 202; Ruddick v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. 25, 22 S. W. 499, 38 Am. St. Rep. 570; Fortescue v. Lostwithiel, etc., R. Co., [1894] 3 Ch. 621, 64 L. J. Ch. 37, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 423, 8 Reports 664, 43 Wkly. Rep. 138.

51. Ruddick v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. 25, 22 S. W. 499, 38 Am. St. Rep. 570.

52. Georgia Southern R. Co. v. Reeves, 64 Ga. 492.

53. See supra, V, G, 6.

54. Ramsey v. Edgefield, etc., R. Co., 3 Tenn. Ch. 170, holding that where the deed provides that a depot shall be located on the lands, the heirs of a grantor may recover damages for failure to locate such depot.

As to construction and maintenance of fences, crossings, and cattle-guards see supra, V, G, 6.

55. Hunter v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 76 Iowa 490, 41 N. W. 305.

56. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Bosworth, 46 Ohio St. 81, 18 N. E. 533, 2 L. R. A. 199 [affirming 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 69, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 42].

An unrecorded written agreement by the grantor to fence the right of way on each side through his lands will not affect the right of a subsequent purchaser without notice of the agreement to require the company to fence its road in accordance with the statute (Rev. St. §§ 3224, 3225), where the purchase was made without actual or constructive notice of the existence of such agreement (Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Bosworth, 46 Ohio St. 81, 18 N. E. 533, 2 L. R. A. 199 [affirming 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 69, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 42]); since if such agreement is not recorded the mere use and occupation by the company and its successors for the purposes of the road will not constitute constructive notice of the agreement (Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Bosworth, supra).

57. See, generally, Deeds, 17 Cyc. 1703 et seq.

Excuses for failure to perform condition as to fences, cattle-guards, and crossings see supra, V, G, 6.

58. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Providence, 16 R. I. 746, 19 Atl. 759.

59. McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 721, 57 S. E. 520, holding that upon failure to perform the condition that its line of road shall be completed within five years, equity will not relieve against a forfeiture upon the ground that defendant, pursuant to a statute affecting its construction, concentrated its force on some other part of its line.

60. Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 190 Ill. 320, 60 N. E. 515, 52 L. R. A. 645, holding that where a right of way over land in a certain town is granted to a railroad company on conditions subsequent requiring it to operate and maintain a road over such way, the town cannot release the company from the performance of such condition by ordinance.

61. Reformation of conveyance to the railroad company see Jewett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 45 Mo. App. 58; and, generally, Reformation of Instruments.

62. California.—Southern California R. Co. v. Slauson, 138 Cal. 342, 71 Pac. 352, 94 Am. St. Rep. 58, (1902) 68 Pac. 107.

performance of the condition or covenant may be maintained,[63] or an injunction issue to restrain the railroad company from breaking the covenants or conditions;[64] or in case of a breach of a condition subsequent, an action of ejectment may be maintained,[65] or proceedings may be instituted to recover the land or its value together with such other considerations as passed.[66] But the grantor cannot sue both for the land and for damages for its taking.[67] Where, through the representations of a railroad company's attorney, a grantor omits in his deed to reserve the privilege of having the company construct and maintain crossings in conformity to its charter, the company is estopped from setting up such deed as a defense to an action by the grantor for expenditures made by him in building a crossing upon the company's refusal to do so, as it was required by its charter to do.[68]

b. Damages.[69] As a general rule, the measure of damages for a breach of conditions or covenants by a railroad company is the actual damage sustained by the landowner by reason of such breach,[70] and this has been held in some cases

Florida.— Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 45 Fla. 559, 34 So. 884.

Illinois.— Conger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 15 Ill. 366.

Indiana.— See Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hall, 135 Ind. 91, 34 N. E. 704, 23 L. R. A. 231.

Kansas.— Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Hopkins, 18 Kan. 494.

Kentucky.— Bright v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 87 S. W. 780, 27 Ky. L. Rep. 1052; Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Killen, (1899) 50 S. W. 1108.

Michigan.—Lane v. Michigan Traction Co., 135 Mich. 70, 97 N. W. 354.

Missouri.— Ruddick v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. 25, 22 S. W. 499, 38 Am. St. Rep. 570.

Nebraska.— Moscley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Nebr. 636, 78 N. W. 293.

New York.— See Rich v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 87 N. Y. 382, 89 Hun 604, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 1146 [affirmed in 154 N. Y. 733, 49 N. E. 1103].

Texas.— Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman, 74 Tex. 265, 11 S. W. 1094; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Martin, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 379, 86 S. W. 25.

United States.— Minard v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 153 Fed. 578, 82 C. C. A. 586 [affirming 139 Fed. 60].

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 177.

Compare Close v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 64 Iowa 149, 19 N. W. 886; Mills v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 10 Wash. 520, 39 Pac. 246; Dickson v. Covert, 17 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 321.

63. Taylor v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 54 Fla. 635, 45 So. 574, 16 L. R. A. N. S. 307; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523; Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200; Aikin v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 26 Barb. (N. Y.) 289. See also Fortescue v. Lostwithiel, etc., R. Co., [1894] 3 Ch. 621, 64 L. J. Ch. 37, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 423, 8 Reports 664, 43 Wkly. Rep. 138; Bettridge v. Great Western R. Co., 3 Grant Err. & App. (U. C.) 58. But see Close v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 64 Iowa 149, 19 N. W. 886; Dickson v. Covert, 17 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 321.

Specific performance will not be decreed where it will result in great hardship and injustice to the railroad company without any considerable gain or utility to the grantor or where it will prejudice public interests. Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539]; Conger v. New York, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Y. 29, 23 N. E. 983 [affirming 45 Hun 296] (refusal to decree specific performance of a condition to erect a depot and stop trains); Murdfeldt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 703, 7 N. E. 404 [affirming 34 Hun 632].

64. Lloyd v. London, etc., R. Co., 2 De G. J. & S. 568, 11 Jur. N. S. 380, 34 L. J. Ch. 401, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 363, 13 Wkly. Rep. 698, 67 Eng. Ch. 568, 46 Eng. Reprint 496.

65. See infra, V, L, 7.

66. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman, 74 Tex. 265, 11 S. W. 1094; Tyler v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 87 S. W. 238.

67. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman, 74 Tex. 265, 11 S. W. 1094.

68. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Green, 15 N. J. Eq. 469.

69. Stipulations respecting damages see supra, V, G, 7.

For breach of covenant to construct fences, crossings, cattle-guards, etc., see supra, V, G, 6.

70. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 119 Ind. 269, 21 N. E. 751; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Baskett, 104 S. W. 695, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 1035 (holding that the measure of damages for a failure to establish and maintain a station according to agreement, if it is eventually performed, is the benefit which the grantor would have derived therefrom to the time of performance); Donisthorpe v. Fremont, etc., R. Co., 30 Nebr. 142, 46 N. W. 240, 27 Am. St. Rep. 387; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dunman, 74 Tex. 265, 11 S. W. 1094, 85 Tex. 176, 19 S. W. 1073.

The measure of damages for breach of an agreement to remove its track from a right of way to adjacent lands on written notice, if phosphate deposits should be found on the right of way and the grantors desire to remove them, is the value of the phosphates that to be the difference in the rental value of the land before and after the breach.[71] Thus the measure of damages for a breach of a condition to erect a depot on the land conveyed is the actual value of the land and an amount equal to the depreciation of plaintiff's adjacent land, together with the amount in which the adjacent land would have been increased in value by the building of the depot,[72] with interest,[73] and without set-off for any enhancement occasioned by the building of the road.[74] So where a railroad company violates its contract in constructing and maintaining an insufficient culvert or ditches by reason of which adjacent land is flooded, the amount to which plaintiff is entitled is the actual damages sustained,[75] and the measure of actual damages to growing crops within this rule has been held to be the difference in value of such crops immediately before the injury and their value immediately after.[76] So the measure of damages for injury to plaintiff's unplanted ground would be the cost and expense of restoring the land to its former condition, and the loss occasioned by being deprived of the use of the same, with interest.[77]

H. Use of Land or Rights Acquired[78] — 1. In General. As a general rule, land acquired by a railroad company for a right of way, either by condemnation or by purchase or grant from the owner, is the company's private property, although charged with a public use;[79] and unless restrained by the terms of the grant,[80] or by its charter or governing statute,[81] it may, in general, use the right could not be mined without letting down the tracks or injury to the surface of the right of way. Silver Springs, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 45 Fla. 559, 34 So. 884.

71. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Malott, 135 Ind. 113, 34 N. E. 709.

72. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Neafus, 93 Ky. 53, 18 S. W. 1030, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 951; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Baskett, 104 S. W. 695, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 1035; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Stanley, 35 N. J. Eq. 283; Watterson v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 74 Pa. St. 208.

73. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Stanley, 35 N. J. Eq. 283.

74. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Neafus, 93 Ky. 53, 18 S. W. 1030, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 951; Watterson v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 74 Pa. St. 208.

75. Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Joachimi, 58 Tex. 456; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Sutor, 56 Tex. 496; Moorman v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 8 Wash. 98, 35 Pac. 596.

76. Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Joachimi, 58 Tex. 456. And see, generally, Damages, 13 Cyc. 153 et seq.

The inquiry as to the value of the crops is to be confined to the very time of the destroying flood and the very place where it occurred and should not extend to the date of the maturity of the crop, or to the place where it would usually find a market, nor can any account of loss or profits by a consequent delay in getting the crop to market enter into the estimate. Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Joachimi, 58 Tex. 456.

77. Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Joachimi, 58 Tex. 456.

78. Of land acquired by eminent domain see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 1023, 1025.

Rights in and use of adjoining land by railroad company see supra, V, F, 3.

79. Elyton Land Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 631, 10 So. 270; Currie v. Natchez, etc., R. Co., 61 Miss. 725; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Greenbush, 5 Lans. (N. Y.) 461 [affirmed in 52 N. Y. 510].

80. Elyton Land Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 631, 10 So. 270.

81. See Bostock v. North Staffordshire R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 584, 64 Eng. Reprint 1253, 2 Jur. N. S. 248, 25 L. J. Ch. 325, 3 Smale & G. 283, 65 Eng. Reprint 661, 4 Wkly. Rep 336. And see the statutes of the several states.

Tex. Rev. St. art. 4216, which forbids railroad companies to use or occupy any part of the right of way over which their respective roads pass for any other purpose than the construction and keeping in repair of their roads, and which is part of an act conferring on railroad companies the power to take and hold the fee in lands (arts. 4211, 4212) and providing (art. 4206) that the right of way acquired by condemnation shall not be so construed as to include the fee, does not apply to land owned by a railroad company in fee, although its road is built thereon. Calcasieu Lumber Co. v. Harris, 77 Tex. 18, 13 S. W. 453.

A deed of an easement for the purpose of constructing a tramway is not adequate, as a matter of law, for its use as a railroad dedicated to the public, under the law of public highways. Beasley v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 145 N. C. 272, 59 S. E. 60 [modified and affirmed in 147 N. C. 362, 61 S. E. 453].

In North Carolina a deed to a company organized under Code (1883), art. 677, providing for the creation of corporations except for railroad purposes, which recites that the company contemplates "building a tram or railroad" and which grants to it a right of way on which to locate its "road . . . depots . . . etc., necessary . . . for . . . operating . . . said road," conveys only a right of way for of way acquired, for any purpose incident to its business, which contributes to the safe and efficient construction, maintenance, and operation of the road and for which a right of way may be lawfully used,[82] and which does not materially interfere with the rights of property pertaining to the adjacent land;[83] and the right of way may be used by the company or its assigns for the purposes for which it was taken or granted even after the time limited by the charter of the company for its corporate existence has expired;[84] nor does the mere fact that the company has not occupied or made use of the right of way to its full width abridge such right.[85] Thus, unless restrained by statute or by the terms of the grant,[86] a railroad company may use land acquired by it for a right of way for the erection of a freight depot,[87] telegraph lines,[88] water-tanks,[89] necessary side-tracks and switches,[90] or turn-tables,[91] and other structures or buildings necessary or proper for the transaction of its ordinary business,[92] the making of cuts and embanka tramway, the word "railroad" meaning such a road as the company was authorized to construct, although in general use it signifies a road constructed of cross-ties on which iron rails are placed, dedicated to public use. Beasley v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 145 N. C. 272, 59 S. E. 60 [modified and affirmed in 147 N. C. 362, 61 S. E. 453].

82. Alabama.— Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Karthaus, 150 Ala. 633, 43 So. 791; Elyton Land Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 631, 10 So. 270.

Idaho.— Delsol v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., 4 Ida. 456, 40 Pac. 59.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 73 Ill. App. 621.

Pennsylvania.— Mt. Pleasant Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 6 Lack. Leg. N. 1.

Texas.—Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 179.

Well.— A railroad company to which is deeded "the right of way over and through the land for all purposes connected with the construction, use, and occupation of its railway" has the legal right to dig a well upon such right of way and to use the water supplied by percolation for railroad purposes, although such use may materially diminish the supply of water in a spring upon the grantor's land. Hougan v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 35 Iowa 558, 14 Am. Rep. 502.

83. Elyton Land Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 631, 10 So. 270; Childers v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 74 S. W. 241, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 2375; Ludlow v. Hudson River R. Co., 6 Lans. (N. Y.) 128.

Lateral support.— Where a railroad company makes excavations on its right of way without shoring up the sides in consequence of which the adjacent owner's lot caves into the excavation, such owner is entitled to recover damages without proof of negligence on the part of the railroad company. Mosier v. Oregon Nav. Co., 39 Oreg. 256, 64 Pac. 453, 87 Am. St. Rep. 652.

84. Henry v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 2 Iowa 288.

85. Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 185 Ill. 154, 56 N. E. 1050; Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263; Mt. Pleasant Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 1.

86. See infra, V, H, 2.

87. Elyton Land Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 631, 10 So. 270.

88. Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 225, 45 S. E. 572; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lilly Borough, 207 Pa. St. 180, 56 Atl. 412 (holding that where a railroad company has the right to construct a line of road over the land in a borough, on a bill by the company to restrain any interference by the borough with the construction of the line of telegraph poles, the purpose of the company in erecting the telegraph line is immaterial); Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

Permission to others to erect telegraph lines see infra, V, H, 4 text and notes 31–34.

89. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. French, 100 Tenn. 209, 43 S. W. 771, 66 Am. St. Rep. 752.

90. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 73 Ill. App. 621; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Telford, 89 Tenn. 293, 14 S. W. 776, 10 L. R. A. 855; Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

Under the act of congress of July 4, 1884, granting the Southern Kansas Railroad Company a right of way through the Indian Territory, the company has a right to maintain turnouts and sidings on the right of way through the territory as well as upon such grounds as have been specially granted for the purpose of stations and depot grounds. Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Oklahoma City, 12 Okla. 82, 69 Pac. 1050.

91. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 73 Ill. App. 621.

92. Alabama.— Elyton Land Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 631, 10 So. 270.

Massachusetts.— Boston Gaslight Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 14 Allen 444, holding that a railroad company may erect a building for the purposes of its business within the limits of its location, although a private way over the land on which the building stands is obstructed thereby; and Gen. St. c. 63, § 46, providing that if a railroad is laid across a turnpike road or other way, it shall be so made as not to obstruct the same, does not apply to such a case.

New York.— Townsend v. New York Cent.,

ments,[93] taking material for its necessary building purposes,[94] the inclosure of the track with fences,[95] and for otherwise keeping its premises in proper and safe condition for the prosecution of its business,[96] as by removing trees or other things placed or growing on the right of way which the company may deem necessary to remove to insure the safe management of its road,[97] changing the grade of the road and making other changes in the tracks, from time to time as the exigencies of traffic and public interest require,[98] although neither the railroad company nor its successor can afterward change the tracks so as to acquire other land of the grantor without compensation or so as to deprive him of his consideration under the original grant,[99] or so as to shut out those having a right to cross them.[1] In the exercise of its right to thus use its right of way a railroad company may etc., R. Co., 56 Misc. 253, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 381.

Texas.— Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

England.— Dover Harbor v. South Eastern R. Co., 9 Hare 489, 21 L. J. Ch. 886, 41 Eng. Ch. 489, 68 Eng. Reprint 603, custom-house for the examination of the luggage of passengers.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 179.

Permission to others to erect buildings on right of way see infra, V, H, 4, text and note 30.

93. Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

94. Preston v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 11 Iowa 15 (holding that a railroad company has the right to take and remove only so much timber as may be necessary for the construction and repair of the road and its appurtenances); Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

Extent of use.— A railroad company may use, without further compensation, all suitable material except timber on the right of way which it has acquired for the construction of its road through the property of the landowner, whether such materials are above or below the grade of the road. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 209 Pa. St. 256, 58 Atl. 486, 103 Am. St. Rep. 1005. But this right to take materials extends no further as against the landowner than the boundaries of his own land which has been subjected to a servitude for the construction and maintenance of the railroad, and therefore does not extend for construction or maintenance through any other land. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., supra. Where the railroad company takes material for its own use from a point outside of the limits of its right of way, it is liable to the landowner for the value thereof. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., supra.

Statutory penalty.— A railroad company cannot be charged with the statutory penalty prescribed by a statute, providing that if any person or corporation shall take materials from the land of another without the consent of the owner, he shall be liable for double the value thereof, for taking common or mixed sand for grading from land over which it has the right of way. Hendler v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 209 Pa. St. 256, 58 Atl. 486, 103 Am. St. Rep. 1005.

95. Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

The construction of a fenced lane across the right of way of a railroad company and beneath a bridge carrying the tracks, so as to provide a subway for the passage of live stock, is not so foreign to the purposes of a grant of land for railroad purposes that the grantor can complain thereof as an abandonment of the right of way granted or as a trespass upon his reversionary rights. Reichert v. Keller, 58 Nebr. 178, 78 N. W. 381.

96. Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

97. Brainard v. Clapp, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 6, 57 Am. Dec. 74 (holding that the proprietors of a railroad have a right to cut trees growing upon the strip of land which they have taken for their road, whether such trees are for shade, ornament, or fruit, or whether such cutting be at the time of laying out their track or afterward); Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Brevoort, 62 Fed. 129, 25 L. R. A. 527; Booth v. McIntyre, 31 U. C. C. P. 183; Foran v. McIntyre, 45 U. C. Q. B. 288.

There is no burden of proof on the company to show, in its justification, that the trees are cut for the purposes of their road. Brainard v. Clapp, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 6, 57 Am. Dec. 74.

98. Illinois.— Kotz v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 188 Ill. 578, 59 N. E. 240.

Massachusetts.— Cassidy v. Old Colony R. Co., 141 Mass. 174, 5 N. E. 142.

Minnesota.— Liedel v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 89 Minn. 284, 94 N. W. 877.

Montana.— Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Boston, etc., Min. Co., 20 Mont. 533, 22 Pac. 375.

New York.— Townsend v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 56 Misc. 253, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 381.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 179.

A landowner has no cause of action by reason of slight alterations of the grade of the track and roadway, making the approach to certain crossings on his land a trifle more difficult. Townsend v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 56 Misc. (N. Y.) 253, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 381.

99. Wysor v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 143 Ind. 6, 42 N. E. 353.

1. Townsend v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 56 Misc. (N. Y.) 253, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 381.

abate a private nuisance on adjoining property,[2] as by trimming a hedge extending over and obstructing the right of way.[3] But as a general rule a railroad company has no right to make such use of the land acquired as is not incident to the construction, maintenance, and operation of the road,[4] such as the cutting of ice from its right of way for commercial purposes;[5] nor can it erect buildings, machinery, etc., not necessarily connected with the use of its franchise, within the limits of its right of way;[6] nor can it, without the owner's permission, remove stone or other material from the land, which are not used in the construction of the road;[7] nor can a railroad company erect stock pens on its right of way or make other improvements which in themselves would constitute a nuisance to persons residing in proximity to their location.[8]

2. Construction and Effect of Conveyance in General. Where one sells to a company a right of way through his property, it must be assumed, in the absence of express limitations or restrictions, that he contemplated such use as would render it practicable for the purposes for which it was intended, and therefore cannot complain unless the company has failed to exercise proper care to avoid unnecessary injury.[9] But where the conveyance contains words of restriction and limitation to the effect that the land granted shall be used only for certain specified purposes, it cannot be lawfully used by the company for other purposes.[10] Thus

2. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Green, 67 Ill. 199.

3. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Green, 67 Ill. 199, holding also that such act will not alone be presumed to establish a purchase.

4. Julien v. Woodsmall, 82 Ind. 568.

5. Julien v. Woodsmall, 82 Ind. 568.

6. Lance's Appeal, 55 Pa. St. 16, 93 Am. Dec. 722.

7. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Karthaus, 150 Ala. 633, 43 So. 791 (holding that the company has no right to excavate sand in the right of way or sell it); Chapin v. Sullivan R. Co., 39 N. H. 564, 75 Am. Dec. 237.

8. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Mott, 98 Tex. 91, 81 S. W. 285, 70 L. R. A. 579, under Rev. St. (1895) art. 4483.

A voluntary conveyance of lands to a railroad company for its right of way gives it no greater right in the matter of erecting buildings, stock-pens, etc., thereon to the detriment of other property than it would have acquired under a condemnation of the same. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Mott, 98 Tex. 91, 81 S. W. 285, 70 L. R. A. 579.

9. Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Dillon, 7 Ky. L. Rep. 607.

10. Georgia.— Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Macon, 86 Ga. 585, 13 S. E. 21, holding that a condition in a grant to a railroad company that the land should be used "for shops, depots and other conveniences and fixtures necessary for said company" is not complied with by a use of the land for the building and maintenance thereon of a track or tracks for the purpose of conveying freight cars to private parties or for the storage of cars or other like uses.

Louisiana.— Franklin, etc., R. Co. v. Monnot, 52 La. Ann. 1026, 27 So. 543.

Michigan.— Pontiac, etc., R. Co. v. Reed, 130 Mich. 661, 90 N. W. 658; Backus v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 71 Mich. 645, 40 N. W. 60, holding that where the use of a railroad right of way is restricted to certain purposes, its more general use resulting in damages to the grantor is actionable.

New Jersey.— Breckinridge v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., (Ch. App. 1895) 33 Atl. 800.

New York.— Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Greenbush, 5 Lans. 461 [affirmed in 52 N. Y. 510].

England.— Bostock v. North Staffordshire, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 584, 64 Eng. Reprint 1253, 2 Jur. N. S. 248, 25 L. J. Ch. 325, 3 Smale & G. 283, 4 Wkly. Rep. 336, 65 Eng. Reprint 661.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 180.

Conditions in a deed to use the premises solely for purposes of a railroad depot and not to use other premises within a mile for similar purposes, or to erect any public house, or any other building except for the ordinary purposes of a railroad depot, and for accommodating, victualing, and lodging passengers and others, and for the sole accommodation of the railroad company, are not broken by selling refreshments and lodging passengers on the premises, or by permitting merchants in the village to load and unload their own goods upon their own premises on the line of the road. Southard v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 13.

Use of side-track.— Where a contract between a mill-owner and a railroad company requires the latter to construct a side-track on the land of the former and entitles the mill owner to require the removal of the tracks at any time, but contains a clause authorizing the company to use the track for its own purposes as long as it does not interfere with or discommode the mill owner, the railroad company has the right to use the track for any purpose which does not discommode the mill owner as long as the latter allows the track to remain. Pontiac, etc., R. Co. v. Reed, 130 Mich. 661, 90 N. W. 658.

A right of way granted as subsidiary to mining rights cannot be used for the business of carrying passengers and freight generally. Bing v. Big Sandy, etc., R. Co., 63 W. Va. 345, 60 S. E. 140; Jackson v. Big Sandy, etc., R. Co., 63 W. Va. 18, 59 S. E. 749.

where the land is acquired for the passage of trains only, it cannot be lawfully used for switching and making up trains.[11] It has been held that the construction of a hotel or eating house on the land is a legitimate railroad purpose within the meaning of a grant for all legitimate railroad and depot purposes.[12] A grant absolute in form to a railroad company conveys all privileges and appurtenances, such as the privilege of drawing water from other portions of the grantor's land which were then in use as appurtenant to the land conveyed.[13]

3. Exclusiveness of Use. As a general rule a railroad company has practically the right to the uninterrupted and exclusive possession and control of the land between the lines of its location, necessary for conducting its business,[14] except where it is built on a public highway or over public crossings;[15] and the former owner has no right to occupy the land conveyed in any mode or for any purpose without the company's consent,[16] as for the purpose of cultivating crops on the right of way,[17] unless such rights or privileges are conceded by the company or reserved by the grantor;[18] and statutes have been passed to prevent encroachments upon the railroad right of way.[19] Nor can the owner of the fee so use his adjoining land as to interfere with the company's use of its right of way;[20] and a railroad

11. Backus v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 71 Mich. 645, 40 N. W. 60.

In Texas, under Sayles Annot. St. (1897) arts. 4445, 4483, a grant of land to a railroad company to be used as a "right of way" authorizes the use of the land as a track only and not for the purposes of a switch yard. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 36 Tex. Civ. App. 121, 81 S. W. 781. A mere conveyance of a right of way for a railroad over the grantor's land carries only such rights as would be acquired by condemnation under article 4445, and authorizes the construction thereon of main and necessary sidetracks, but not of machine or repair shops or switching yards. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, supra.

12. Abraham v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 37 Oreg. 495, 60 Pac. 899, 82 Am. St. Rep. 779, 64 L. R. A. 391, 41 Oreg. 550, 69 Pac. 653.

Where land is granted to a railroad company for all legitimate railroad and depot purposes and a hotel and eating-house is erected on the land as an incident to the operation of the road, the fact that accommodations are granted to the general public apart from strictly railroad business does not render the use of the land repugnant to the grant (Abraham v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 37 Oreg. 495, 60 Pac. 899, 82 Am. St. Rep. 779, 64 L. R. A. 391, 41 Oreg. 550, 69 Pac. 653); nor does the fact that there is another eating-house or hotel near by, ample to accommodate passengers and employees, render such use repugnant to the grant (Abraham v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., supra).

13. Vermont Cent. R. Co. v. Hills, 23 Vt 681.

14. Kansas.— Kansas, etc., R. Co. v. Burns, 70 Kan. 627, 79 Pac. 238; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spaulding, 69 Kan. 431, 77 Pac. 106, 105 Am. St. Rep. 175, 66 L. R. A. 587.

Michigan.— Williams v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 2 Mich. 259, 55 Am. Dec. 59.

Mississippi.— Paxton v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 76 Miss. 536, 24 So. 536; Wilmot v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 76 Miss. 374, 24 So. 701.

Missouri.— Boyce v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 168 Mo. 583, 68 S. W. 920, 58 L. R. A. 442.

Nebraska.— Hull v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 70 Nebr. 756, 98 N. W. 47.

New York.— See Townsend v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 56 Misc. 253, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 381.

Pennsylvania.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Skinner, 19 Pa. St. 298, 57 Am. Dec. 654; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 6 Pa. Dist. 269.

Vermont.— Jackson v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 25 Vt. 150, 60 Am. Dec. 246.

United States.— Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Brevoort, 62 Fed. 129, 25 L. R. A. 527.

The road must be located and constructed before the right of way may be claimed to be exclusive. Goldsboro Lumber Co. v. Hines Bros. Lumber Co., 126 N. C. 254, 35 S. E. 458.

15. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spaulding, 69 Kan. 431, 77 Pac. 106, 105 Am. St. Rep. 175, 66 L. R. A. 587. And see infra, V, I, 2, c.

16. Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Baugh, 14 Ill. 211 (holding that the landowner cannot build a cattle-guard across the road without the owner's consent); Jackson v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 25 Vt. 150, 60 Am. Dec. 246.

17. Paxton v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 76 Miss. 536, 24 So. 536; Wilmot v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 76 Miss. 374, 24 So. 701.

18. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Boston, etc., Min. Co., 20 Mont. 533, 22 Pac. 375.

19. Downing v. McFadden, 18 Pa. St. 334, construing the act of April 8, 1838, section 11, prohibiting the construction of any building on the banks or excavation of the Philadelphia and Columbia railroad without permission, under the authority of the canal commissioners.

20. Cairo, etc., R. Co. v. Brevoort, 62 Fed. 129, 25 L. R. A. 527, holding that a riparian proprietor who has conveyed to a railroad company his interest in land which could have been acquired by condemnation has no right to construct along a river bank over such right of way a levee which will raise the water flowing in the stream at times of company will be protected by injunction against such interference without regard to the solvency of the persons interfering therewith.[21] In some jurisdictions, however, this rule is so modified as to permit the owner of the fee to enter on and use the land in any manner not inconsistent or interfering with its use by the railroad company,[22] as for agricultural purposes;[23] but this right of the owner of the fee does not extend to one who is not such owner or who does not claim under him.[24] Where a railroad company acquires the fee of lands for its tracks, it is entitled to enjoy, in the discharge of its duties as common carrier, the exclusive use and control of the right of way, relieved from any rights therein of adjoining owners to the same extent as a private person would be,[25] and there is no valid right in adjoining landowners or others to occupy as against the railroad company portions of the land not actually used by the company, and one attempting to take possession of such portion is a trespasser.[26] The fact that the road is constructed through a tunnel or archway does not impair this exclusive right or give the original owner any right to the ground above.[27]

4. Permitting Use by Third Persons. A railroad company may permit third persons to use a portion of its right of way or other lands for purposes not inconsistent with its charter or the terms of the grant, or contrary to public policy,[28] as ordinary floods so as to endanger the banks or other structures of the railroad, and will also throw such water upon the land on the opposite side of the river, thereby subjecting the railroad company to suits for damages.

21. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Olive, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263.

The owner of coal lands over which a railroad company passes will be enjoined from working out the coal under the road-bed so as to cause the ground to subside and thus jeopardize the lives of passengers. Lippincott v. Mine Hill, etc., R. Co., 2 Leg. Chron. (Pa.) 310.

22. Indiana.— Smith v. Holloway, 124 Ind. 329, 24 N. E. 886, holding the grant not to affect the right of the grantor to the use of a stream of water flowing over the land.

Iowa.— Vermilya v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 606, 24 N. W. 334, 55 Am. Rep. 279, taking sand from right of way.

Kentucky.— Maysville, etc., R. Co. v. Beyersdorfer, 43 S. W. 254, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 1212, removal of stone.

Ohio.— Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Wachter, 70 Ohio St. 113, 70 N. E. 974.

Tennessee.— East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Telford, 89 Tenn. 293, 14 S. W. 776, 10 L. R. A. 855.

Texas.— Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139.

It is a question of fact and not of law whether the necessities of the railroad demand exclusive occupancy for its purposes and what use of the property by the owner is a detriment to or interference with the rights of the road. Smith v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 26 Ohio Cir. Ct. 44.

The erection of buildings on land over which a right of way has been conveyed to a railroad company by the owner in fee is inconsistent with the rights of the company, although it has no specific use to which it expects to put such land. Olive v. Sabin, etc., R. Co., 11 Tex. Civ. App. 208, 33 S. W. 139

23. Roberts v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., 73 Nebr. 8, 102 N. W. 60, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 272.

24. Kansas, etc., R. Co. v. Burns, 70 Kan. 627, 79 Pac. 238.

25. Kotz v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 188 Ill. 578, 59 N. E. 240; Junction R. Co. v. Boyd, 8 Phila. (Pa.) 224.

Light, air, etc.—A railroad right of way is not a public highway in the sense that an adjoining lot owner may have an easement of light, air, and view therein, and hence no damages are recoverable for an injury to the latter resulting from the elevation of the company's tracks. Kotz v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 188 Ill. 578, 59 N. E. 240.

26. Junction R. Co. v. Boyd, 8 Phila. (Pa.) 224.

27. Junction R. Co. v. Boyd, 8 Phila. (Pa.) 224.

28. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Richardson, 91 U. S. 454, 21 L. ed. 356; Foster v. London, etc., R. Co., [1895] 1 Q. B. 711, 64 L. J. Q. B. 65, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 855, 14 Reports 27, 43 Wkly. Rep. 116. See Consumers' Gas Trust Co. v. American Plate Glass Co., 162 Ind. 393, 68 N. E. 1020; Mt. Pleasant Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 1. Compare Wilczinski v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 66 Miss. 595, 6 So. 709 (holding that the company cannot permit private individuals to erect a building on land in which to collect seed for shipment); Blakely v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 34 Nebr. 284, 51 N. W. 767 (holding that where plaintiff conveys land of a certain width to a railroad company "its successors and assigns for a right of way and for operating its railroad only" and an assignee of the company conveys to another railroad company a certain portion of its right of way across plaintiff's land making two roads upon such right of way, the second railroad is an additional burden on the land for which plaintiff is entitled to recover); Re Metropolitan Dist. R. Co., 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 482.

by permitting another railroad company to run its trains over the road,[29] or by permitting the erection of buildings or platforms thereon for convenience in delivering and receiving freight.[30] A railroad company may also consent or give a right to maintain a telegraph line anywhere within the limits of the right of way,[31] so far as such line is reasonably necessary for the operation of the road,[32] but it has been held that it cannot authorize the erection and maintenance of such a line for general commercial purposes;[33] nor can it grant the exclusive right to construct and maintain telegraph lines along its road to a single company.[34] Nor can a railroad company grant an easement along its right of way, for the purpose of laying water pipes, not intended to be used for purposes of the road.[35]

I. Rights in and Use of Highways and Public Places[36] — 1. In General — a. Legislative Grant or Authorization. A railroad company has no absolute right to construct its road across or along public streets or highways, or other public places;[37] such right, if it exists at all, can be acquired only by virtue of a legislative enactment, either directly or indirectly,[38] even though the company

A lease of a portion of the right of way for business purposes with a view to securing freight is not contrary to public policy. Detroit v. C. H. Little Co., 146 Mich. 373, 109 N. W. 671.

Lease of refreshment rooms at a station to another, and covenant to stop certain trains thereat for the refreshment of passengers see Phillips v. Great Western R. Co., L. R. 7 Ch. 409, 41 L. J. Ch. 614, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 157, 20 Wkly. Rep. 562; Rigby v. Great Western R. Co., 1 Coop. t. Cott. 3, 10 Jur. 488, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 175, 47 Eng. Reprint 715.

Chapel.— Where part of an estate which is subsequently developed as a building estate has been compulsorily taken by a railroad company for the purposes of their undertaking, the temporary letting of a small portion of the lands not required for the immediate purposes of the railroad, for the erection of a chapel, is not an unreasonable user of the land nor inconsistent with the purposes for which the railroad company has been formed; and this would be the case even though it were shown that some damage was likely to accrue to the owners of the building estate from such a user. Onslow v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 64 L. J. Ch. 355, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 256.

29. Holbert v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 315. And see infra, V, J, 3.

30. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Wathen, 17 Ill. App. 582 (holding that a railroad company may permit its customers to erect elevators, corn-cribs, etc., which facilitate its business); Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Richardson, 91 U. S. 454, 23 L. ed. 356 (holding further that a license by the company to other parties is admissible to show its consent to the occupation of its premises in the case in question); Southern R. Co. v. Blunt, 155 Fed. 496 (holding that a contract by a railroad company, granting the right to another to build a platform on its right of way from which to load cotton for shipment over its lines on condition that the builder shall indemnify it for any loss or damage it may sustain by reason of such structure is not contrary to the public policy of Alabama).

Adverse possession.— Occupancy by an individual of parts of the right of way of a railroad with elevators and similar structures used in carrying on his business with the railroad company for convenience in handling his shipments is not adverse unless actual notice is brought home to the company or the conduct of the individual is such as to constitute such notice. Roberts v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., 73 Nebr. 8, 102 N. W. 60, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 272. And in the absence of notice of an adverse claim the erection and maintenance of elevators on a right of way without express agreement will be regarded as with the license of the company and subject to its right to resume possession whenever necessary for its business. Roberts v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., supra.

31. Prather v. Western Union Tel. Co., 89 Ind. 501.

32. Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 225, 45 S. E. 572.

33. Hodges v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 225, 45 S. E. 572.

34. Pacific Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 50 Fed. 493. Contra, Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 17 Can. Sup. Ct. 151.

35. Canada Southern R. Co. v. Niagara Falls, 22 Ont. 41.

36. Plan and mode of construction see infra, VI, B, 3.

Right to cross streets and highways see infra, VI, D, 1.

Duty of railroad to maintain highway as exonerating public from maintaining the same see STREETS AND HIGHWAYS.

Exercise of power of eminent domain see EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 587 et seq. 626 et seq.

37. Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973.

38. Georgia.— Athens Terminal Co. v. Athens Foundry, etc., Works, 129 Ga. 393, 58 S. E. 981; Daly v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 80 Ga. 793, 7 S. E. 146, 12 Am. St. Rep. 286, holding that a railroad company using steam power cannot lay its tracks longitudinally upon the streets of a town or city, without the sanction of the legislature. See also Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Mann, 43 Ga. 200.

owns the fee in the land in the public street or highway;[39] and this right or authority must be given, by the legislature, either in express terms or by necessary implication.[40] It may be given directly by the legislature, as by the charter of the railroad company or by a general statute,[41] without the consent of the municipal Iowa.— Stanley v. Davenport, 54 Iowa 463, 2 N. W. 1064, 6 N. W. 706, 37 Am. Rep. 216, holding that Laws (1874), c. 47, providing that railway companies may "cross over or under" any highway with their railways, impliedly withdraws the power granted them by Code, § 1262, to occupy the streets of cities with their tracks.

Louisiana.— Hepting v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 36 La. Ann. 898.

Michigan.— Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973.

New Jersey.— Newark v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 196, 7 Atl. 123; Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark, 10 N. J. Eq. 352.

New York.— Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 53 N. E. 44 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510], 158 N. Y. 478, 53 N. E. 533; People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 75. The prohibition of the Railroad Act of 1892 (section 123) that "no such railroad" shall be constructed in or on certain streets does not apply to a railroad incorporated under the act of 1850, being, as a matter of context, limited to railroads incorporated under the rapid transit act. Beekman v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 Hun 14, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 84.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 514, 5 Atl. 872; In re Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 93 Pa. St. 150; Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 73 Pa. St. 29; Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471; Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579; Yost v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 29 Leg. Int. 85.

Tennessee.— Mississippi, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 10 Heisk. 496.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 183, 184. And see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 868 text and note 58.

Power of legislature to authorize the laying of tracks across or along streets or highways see EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 626 et seq.

In Washington city a railroad company may use the streets only by act of congress. Glick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 19 D. C. 412; Edmonds v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 114 U. S. 453, 5 S. Ct. 1098, 29 L. ed. 216.

Notwithstanding the forfeiture of the charter of a turnpike road company, yet when the road continues to be used as a public highway by the public, and has not been vacated by any legal proceedings, a railroad company cannot treat it as abandoned, and it cannot lay its tracks thereon without incurring the obligation imposed by law for the taking and occupying of a public highway. Railroad Co. v. Com., 1 Lanc. L. Rev. (Pa.) 310.

The legislature may authorize the building of a railroad across or lengthwise of streets or alleys of an incorporated town or city, and the right of occupancy of such streets or alleys by a railroad may be granted by special legislation, especially where the railroad enters such a town or city with the consent of the municipal authorities empowered to give such consent. Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864.

N. Y. Laws (1860), c. 10, prohibiting the laying of a railroad in any street of New York city except under authority and subject to restrictions thereafter granted, wherever the railroad shall commence or end, did not affect the right to construct a railroad on Long Island or under the East river. New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 819, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 909 [affirmed in 192 N. Y. 558, 85 N. E. 1113].

39. Western R. Co. v. Alabama Grand Trunk R. Co., 96 Ala. 272, 11 So. 483, 17 L. R. A. 474 (holding that conveyances to a railroad company of rights of way over and the fee in lands abutting on and included in a public road vests in such company no exclusive or other right to use said public road for railroad purposes, nor can it acquire such right without authority from the state); Stickle v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 386 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 530].

40. Daly v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 80 Ga. 793, 7 S. E. 146, 12 Am. St. Rep. 286; Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 63; Hoboken Land, etc., Co. v. Hoboken, 35 N. J. L. 205; Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 514, 5 Atl. 872; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Speer, 56 Pa. St. 325, 94 Am. Dec. 84; Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 1 Montg. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 129.

Necessary implication may result either from the language of the act, or from its being shown by an application of the act to the subject-matter that the railroad cannot by reasonable intendment be laid in another line. Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 63.

Certainty required.— A permission to occupy a public street with railroad tracks must plainly appear, and not be left to be derived from doubtful implication, from the generality of the language used, which does not unmistakably manifest the intention to give such permission. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 121 Ill. 176, 11 N. E. 907.

41. Athens Terminal Co. v. Athens Foundry, etc., Works, 129 Ga. 393, 58 S. E. 981; Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark, 10 N. J. Eq. 352 (holding that the legislature may authorize the concurrent use of a highway by a railroad and by the public, if it be for public benefit; and of that they are the judges); People v. Railroad Com'rs, 175 or other local authorities;[42] or certain state, county, or municipal boards or officers may be authorized to give such authority.[43] The legislature may discriminate and enact that railway tracks may be laid on streets in smaller cities if the municipal authorities deem it safe to grant such permission, while in more densely populated cities tracks may be laid only by direct authority of the legislature.[44]

b. Construction of Grants in General. Such a grant by the commonwealth or by a municipal corporation under authority derived from the commonwealth is to be taken most strongly against the railroad company, and nothing is to be taken by implication against the public, except what necessarily flows from the nature and terms of the grant;[45] and no legislation will be construed to take away public rights unless such purpose is plainly expressed.[46] The construction of such legislation, however, must be reasonable, and if a literal construction leads to a consequence which the legislature could not have intended, such literal construction cannot obtain.[47] Thus where a railroad company is empowered by charter to enter a city, this power of necessity gives the right to locate the road somewhere, and, if need be, upon a street or alley;[48] but authority under a general law, to cross, occupy, use, or change public roads gives a railroad company no authority to construct its road through streets, which are under the supervisory

N. Y. 516, 67 N. E. 1088 [affirming 81 N. Y. App. Div. 242, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 20] (construing Laws (1890), c. 565 [which repealed Laws (1875), c. 606; Laws (1880), c. 583; and Laws (1884), c. 252], as giving authority for the construction of railroads in New York city, without reference to Laws (1860), c. 10); Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596. See Com. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 3 Cush. (Mass.) 25.

New York Rapid Transit Act (Laws (1891), c. 4) applies only to roads to be built exclusively within New York city, and is not intended to exclude the application of Railroad Law (Laws (1890), p. 1082, c. 565) to the city. People v. Railroad Com'rs, 81 N. Y. App. Div. 242, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 20 [affirmed in 175 N. Y. 516, 67 N. E. 1088].

42. In re Prospect Park, etc., R. Co., 67 N. Y. 371 [affirming 8 Hun 30] (holding that, after the legislature has located a railroad on an avenue or highway, there is no necessity for notice and agreement with the commissioners of highways); Philadelphia v. River Front R. Co., 173 Pa. St. 334, 34 Atl. 60.

Under Iowa Revision, § 1321, a railroad company has a right, subject to proper equitable and police regulations, to pass over a street in a city without consent of the city authorities, and without previous payment to the city of the damages occasioned by such occupation. Hine v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 636; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Newton, 36 Iowa 299.

43. State v. Cincinnati Cent. R. Co., 37 Ohio St. 157. And see infra, V, I, 1, c.

Ohio Rev. St. §§ 3283, 7691, authorizing railroad companies, when necessary in the location of their lines, to agree with public authorities upon the terms of occupation of public lands, streets, alleys, ways, or grant of any kind, and providing that the board of public works shall have charge of the public works of the state, with power to render useful, maintain, and protect the same, and to make improvements as they may think proper for such purposes, do not authorize a railroad company to agree with such board for the use by the former of the berme bank of a public canal for a right of way, in view of the policy of the state to foster canals, and of the fact that elsewhere the word "canal" is used wherever it is referred to in the statute, and especially where no absolute necessity is shown. State v. Cincinnati Cent. R. Co., 37 Ohio St. 157.

44. Burlington v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 56 N. J. Eq. 259, 38 Atl. 849 [affirmed in 58 N. J. Eq. 547, 43 Atl. 700].

45. Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 99; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 139 Ill. 355, 28 N. E. 1069; Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 42, 27 Atl. 683; Burns v. Multnomah R. Co., 15 Fed. 177, 8 Sawy. 543.

Public carriers.— Statutes referring to the construction of railroads on public streets and highways embrace only railroads which act as public carriers and are of a public character. Bradley v. Pharr, 45 La. Ann. 426, 12 So. 618, 19 L. R. A. 647.

Land of educational institution.— Where the legislature has authorized a railroad company to construct a railroad between two designated points, it has a right to occupy any land, although purchased by the state for the use of a deaf and dumb educational institution, between those points on the authorized route, which may be necessary for their purposes. Indiana Cent. R. Co. v. State, 3 Ind. 421.

Right to place tracks on public levee under Minn. Sp. Laws (1872), c. 93, see St. Paul v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Minn. 330, 63 N. W. 267, 65 N. W. 649, 68 N. W. 458, 34 L. R. A. 184.

46. Newark v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 196, 7 Atl. 123.

47. People v. Craycroft, 111 Cal. 544, 44 Pac. 463.

48. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596.

control of the municipal authorities.[49] The right to construct tracks across or in streets, under a legislative authority, is not interfered with by a municipal power to regulate the use of locomotives within the city and to control the location of tracks.[50] So a statute requiring the sale of railroad franchises in the streets of a city to the highest bidder must be construed as applying only to cases of street railroads where bona fide competition is possible, and not to the extension of a steam railroad through the city en route between its termini, in which there can be no bona fide competition.[51] Authority to construct a railroad between designated points, the exact location along such route being left to the company's discretion, gives an implied authority to cross public highways which said route may intersect,[52] and such crossings cannot be prevented by municipal corporations through which the road is laid;[53] but it does not prima facie confer the right to occupy longitudinally streets or highways lying in the general route of the road,[54] as the right to so occupy streets and highways must be given to a railroad company expressly or by necessary implication.[55]

49. Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Witherow, 82 Ala. 190, 3 So. 23, holding that under Code (1876), § 1782, the streets of an incorporated town being under the supervisory control of its municipal authorities, a railroad company can derive no license to construct its road through such streets by virtue of section 1842, conferring upon railroad companies the right to use and occupy public roads; the provisions of that section apply only to such public works or highways as are under the control of the board of county commissioners.

A charter giving authority to construct its road to and into a city, with power to cross any road or highway on the route, does not operate as a grant of a use of the city's streets for the purpose of the railroad, where the city authorities are vested with the exclusive control and regulation of the streets, etc. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 121 Ill. 176, 11 N. E. 907.

50. In re Milwaukee Southern R. Co., 124 Wis. 490, 102 N. W. 401.

51. People v. Craycroft, 111 Cal. 544, 44 Pac. 463.

The consent of local authorities being obtained by plaintiff to the building of a railroad and a tunnel under the streets of New York, and having been confirmed by amendment, Laws (1892), p. 1450, c. 702, to § 16, c. 565, p. 1089, of the Railroad Law of 1890, the contention that plaintiff's franchise was invalid because the requirements of Laws (1886), p. 919, c. 642, providing that such franchises be sold at public auction, had not been satisfied, is untenable; that act having been repealed, by Railroad Law (Laws (1890), p. 1082, c. 565). New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 50 Misc. (N. Y.) 13, 100 N. Y. Suppl. 316 [affirmed in 121 N. Y. App. Div. 819, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 909 (affirmed in 192 N. Y. 558, 85 N. E. 1113)].

52. Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561; Thompson v. Ocean City R. Co., 60 N. J. L. 74, 36 Atl. 1087; Stickle v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 386 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 530].

53. Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561.

54. Davis v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 87 Ga. 605, 13 S. E. 567 (holding that the charter of a railroad company, which authorizes it to construct its road between two given cities, and to connect with any other roads built into such cities, does not, by necessary implication, authorize the company to construct and operate its railroad longitudinally on the streets of such cities, in view of Code, § 719, which declares that public highways shall not be appropriated to railroads in the absence of express authority in their charters); Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 63; Thompson v. Ocean City R. Co., 60 N. J. L. 74, 36 Atl. 1087; Burlington v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 56 N. J. Eq. 259, 38 Atl. 849 [affirmed in 58 N. J. Eq. 547, 43 Atl. 700]; Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 514, 5 Atl. 872.

55. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Mann, 43 Ga. 200; Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 63; Thompson v. Ocean City R. Co., 60 N. J. L. 74, 36 Atl. 1087; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Speer, 56 Pa. St. 325, 94 Am. Dec. 84 (holding that where a railroad company had authority under its charter to continue its road through the borough of Manchester to Pittsburg on the most direct and least expensive route, it had authority to enter upon any particular street in such borough and construct its road, and make and maintain switches thereon); Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 2 Walk. (Pa.) 291.

If a railroad company be authorized to build a railroad by a straight line between two designated points, the right by implication is conferred to run upon, along, or across all the streets or roads which lie in the course of the line. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596.

A grant will not be implied to construct a railroad upon or along a highway, unless it be necessary for the route as authorized. Stickle v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 386 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 530].

c. Grant or Consent by Municipal or Other Local Authorities. Authority to construct a railroad upon or along public streets and highways may be given by the legislature through municipal or other local authorities as its agents,[56] as by certain courts.[57] But the municipal or other authorities can grant or consent to such right or use only as the power to do so is given to them, either expressly or by necessary implication, by an act of the legislature,[58] and this consent or 56. Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342 (holding that a grant by a city ordinance to a railroad company, whose charter authorizes it to build its track "through any street or highway," of the right to build a track along a city street, is a franchise in the proper sense of the term, as the authority to exercise such right in fact comes from the legislature through the corporate authority of the city as agent of the state); Buswell v. Southern Pac. Co., 114 Cal. 445, 46 Pac. 291 (construing the act of May 20, 1861).

Lands "belonging to the people of this state, or to any of the counties or towns," which may be granted to railroads by the general assembly or the county or town officers, as provided in Act Nov. 25, 1849, § 26, has application only to lands which belong to the counties and towns as owners thereof, and not to lands in which they hold the nominal title only, for a prescribed public use, such as a street or highway. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Reich, 101 Ill. 157.

57. Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 28 Tex. Civ. App. 551, 67 S. W. 525, commissioners' court of a county.

An application to the court under N. Y. Laws (1890), c. 565, § 11, which prohibits the construction of a railroad on a village street without an order of the court on notice to the trustees of the village, should not be granted where the railroad company shows nothing in its favor and it is opposed by the village authorities. Matter of Keeseville, etc., R. Co., 116 N. Y. App. Div. 72, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 237.

County court.— When a railroad company enters upon and occupies a highway by permission of, and under contract with, the county court, its possession is not adverse to the public. Turney v. Southern Pac. Co., 44 Oreg. 280, 75 Pac. 144, 76 Pac. 1080.

58. Alabama.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 124 Ala. 162, 26 So. 895, holding an ordinance, under Acts (1894–1895), p. 382, § 4, granting a franchise to a railroad company, to construct its track on streets of the city to be void.

Georgia.— Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Woodruff, 86 Ga. 94, 13 S. E. 156.

Illinois.— McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611, holding that where a railroad company lays its track in a street of a city, having the right to construct a track for passenger cars only, the city, under article 5, cl. 90, § 62, of the general law, has no power afterward to grant the use of the track for the operation of freight cars upon it, except upon a petition of property-owners upon the street as required by the statute.

Minnesota.— St. Paul v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Minn. 330, 63 N. W. 267, 65 N. W. 649, 68 N. W. 458, 34 L. R. A. 184.

Missouri.— Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315].

Pennsylvania.— Philadelphia v. River Front R. Co., 173 Pa. St. 334, 34 Atl. 60.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 185. And see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 866 et seq.

Condemnation unnecessary.— Where a city vacates streets for the purpose of giving the land to a railroad company for depot purposes, in consideration of the company's abolishing certain grade crossings, the action of the city is not invalid because no steps were taken under a statute (Iowa Code, §§ 885, 886), declaring the proper proceedings for a city to pursue to condemn or purchase land to donate to a railroad company; the city having the land already, and the grant being made for a consideration. Spitzer v. Runyan, 113 Iowa 619, 85 N. W. 782.

In New York, under Railroad Laws (1890), c. 565, § 16, which took effect May 1, 1891, and embodied the Tunnel Act of 1880 (Laws (1880), c. 582), and corrected the unconstitutional feature thereof, allowing a substitute for the consent of the local authorities, but made provisions applicable only to corporations thereafter incorporated; and under Laws (1890), c. 565, § 181, providing that the repeal by it of prior laws specified including the act of 1880 should affect no right acquired prior to 1891; and section 16 of the laws of 1890 which was amended by Laws (1892), c. 702, and made retroactive so as to include corporations organized under the Laws (1850), c. 140, an ordinance adopted Dec. 31, 1890, permitting the construction of a tunnel under New York city streets, is valid. New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 819, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 909 [affirmed in 192 N. Y. 558, 85 N. E. 1113].

Consent of dock department.— Under N. Y. Laws (1870), c. 137, § 99, as amended by Laws (1871), c. 574, § 6, subd. 10, providing for the conveyance to New York city of certain land under water to be used for docks, etc., which was afterward made; and notwithstanding subdivision 2 and subsequent acts give the department of docks exclusive control of all wharf property belonging to the city, the title to such property being in the city and it having power to convey it in so far as it was not needed for docks, etc., permits given by the board of aldermen to a railroad to construct a tunnel under the land, the use being one which would not interfere with the use of the land for commerce, cannot be revoked after the railroad has acted on them and expended a large sum of money in grant must be given or made in the manner prescribed,[59] although any doubt as to the existence of the right of a railroad company under its charter or municipal grant to lay its tracks in a municipality may be removed by a subsequent act of the legislature recognizing and ratifying such right.[60] Where it is provided that a railroad company shall obtain a grant from or the consent of certain local authorities before it can construct its road upon or along a city street or highway, such provision is in the nature of a condition precedent which must be complied with before the company can acquire a right to use the street or highway.[61] constructing the tunnel, on the ground that the dock department's permission had not been obtained. New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 819, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 909 [affirmed in 192 N. Y. 538, 85 N. E. 1113].

59. See the cases cited infra, this note.

By resolution, ordinance, or by-law see Montreal St. R. Co. v. Montreal Terminal R. Co., 36 Can. Sup. Ct. 369; Liverpool, etc., R. Co. v. Liverpool, 33 Can. Sup. Ct. 180; Pembroke Tp. v. Canada Cent. R. Co., 3 Ont. 503; In re Day, 15 U. C. Q. B. 126; Reg. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 15 U. C. Q. B. 121. Under Utah Rev. St. (1898) § 206, as amended by Sess. Laws (1901), p. 133, c. 124; and § 207, Rev. St. (1898), providing that the power of a city council to grant franchises to railroad companies to maintain tracks in a street can only be exercised by ordinance duly passed, or resolution or by-law, enacted in the same way, a resolution conferring the right, to be valid, must be passed in accordance with the formalities provided by law. Cereghino v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 26 Utah 467, 73 Pac. 634, 99 Am. St. Rep. 843.

By vote see People v. Stanford, 77 Cal. 360, 18 Pac. 85, 19 Pac. 693, 2 L. R. A. 92 (construing the act of 1861 as amended by the act of May 6, 1862, requiring a two-thirds vote of the supervisors or common council of the city and county or city to entitle railroad companies to use the streets of municipal corporations); Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Woodruff, 86 Ga. 94, 13 S. E. 156.

In Tennessee, where a commercial railroad is to pass over the streets of a city, the consent of the city must be obtained, and the route of the road must be defined, in order to obtain that consent. Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155.

60. McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611; Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 40 S. W. 916, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 449, holding that where, after a railroad was constructed in a street of a city without authority, an ordinance was passed authorizing its construction, and subsequently legislative authority was conferred on the city to grant the power to construct railroads in its streets, and the city then passed an ordinance reciting the former ordinance and granting the company the right to construct double tracks under the same restrictions, the effect was to legalize the construction and operation of the railroad. See also Wetmore v. Story, 22 Barb. (N. Y.) 414, 3 Abb. Pr. 262.

61. California.— People v. Stanford, 77 Cal. 360, 18 Pac. 85, 19 Pac. 693, 2 L. R. A. 92.

Georgia.— Athens Terminal Co. v. Athens Foundry, etc., Works, 129 Ga. 393, 58 S. E. 981, holding that Civ. Code (1895), par. 5, confers on a railroad company incorporated under the general railroad law power to construct its track longitudinally in the streets of a city for lawful use with the written consent of the municipal authorities.

New York.— Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Oswego, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 551, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1027.

Pennsylvania.— Chester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 217 Pa. St. 402, 66 Atl. 654; Pittsburg v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 205 Pa. St. 13, 54 Atl. 468; Philadelphia v. River Front R. Co., 173 Pa. St. 334, 34 Atl. 60; Com. v. Central Pass. R. Co., 52 Pa. St. 506; Knickerbocker Ice Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 15 Phila. 48.

Rhode Island.— Taber v. New York, etc., R Co., 28 R. I. 269, 67 Atl. 9.

Tennessee.— Collier v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 96, 83 S. W. 155; Tennessee Brewing Co. v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864.

Texas.— Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, (Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 27 [reversed on other grounds in 90 Tex. 398, 39 S. W. 96, 36 L. R. A. 33], holding that the provision of Rev. St. (1895) art. 4438, requiring the consent of the municipal authorities to authorize a railroad company to construct its road in the streets of a city, is a lawful and valid exercise of legislative power.

Canada.— Pembroke Tp. v. Canada Cent. R. Co., 3 Ont. 503. See also Toronto v. Metropolitan R. Co., 31 Ont. 367.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 185.

Repeal of statutes.— The provision of N. Y. Laws (1896), c. 825, that the commissioner of the department of city works of Brooklyn shall grant permits to open the surface of streets to all persons who may otherwise lawfully perform such work, did not repeal a city ordinance providing that no permit shall be granted to a railroad company for sidings, switches, or turnouts in the streets except upon consent of the common council, Irvine v. Atlantic Ave. R. Co., 23 N. Y. App. Div. 112, 48 N. Y. Suppl. 465. Pa. Act, April 4, 1868, § 12 (Pamphl. Laws 62), prohibiting the occupation of a street by a railway without municipal consent, is not repealed by Const. (1874) art. 17, § 1, providing that any association organized for that purpose shall have the right to construct a railroad between any points within the state, and connect at the state line with railroads of other states. Pittsburg v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 205 Pa. St. 13, 54 Atl. 468.

Where general authority over streets is in the municipality, and there is no statutory provision authorizing a railroad company to use them, they cannot be subjected to the use of a railroad without the consent of the municipality.[62] Under some statutes consent of the local authorities is required only where the railroad is to be constructed along or lengthwise of a street or highway.[63] It has been held that a general power to control its streets is not sufficient to authorize a municipality to grant to a railroad company the privilege of laying its tracks along its streets;[64] but on the other hand it has been held that municipal corporations under their general powers have authority to grant railroad companies the right to lay their tracks longitudinally upon a street, provided the use does not destroy or unreasonably impair the street as a highway for the general public,[65] and that a general statutory power in a railroad company to construct its road upon or across any highway which it intersects does not give it a right to construct its road longitudinally on streets without the consent of the municipality or over its objection.[66] Under some statutes, if a city refuses a railroad company a right of way, the company may call upon certain state officers, such as the state engineer, to designate the streets it may use.[67] A railroad company may acquire the right to maintain and operate its road across city streets or other public grounds by prescription,[68] or the municipality may be estopped from objecting to such occupation.[69]

Independently of the limitations upon the power of municipal authorities to permit obstructions to be placed in streets by railroads, a railroad company cannot maintain a structure, elevated or otherwise, across a street, as against the municipality, in the absence of clear proof of consent on the part of the municipal authorities to the construction of the identical structure in question. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 53 N. E. 44 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 510], 159 N. Y. 478, 53 N. E. 533.

Contract.— Since a railroad company has implied power to contract for its right of way, as one of the incidents necessary to carry out the purposes of the charter, an agreement by it with a municipality, whereby the railroad company, in consideration of being granted a right of way through the municipal streets, agrees to extend its road a certain distance beyond the municipality, is not ultra vires, although at the time the railroad company could procure the right of way through the municipality by application to the state engineer, who is, on receiving such application, required by statute to designate a route through the town. Indianola v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 56 Tex. 594.

62. Donnaher v. State, 8 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 649; Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark, 10 N. J. Eq. 352.

63. Cook County v. Great Western R. Co., 119 Ill. 218, 10 N. E. 564, holding that under the Illinois General Railroad Act of 1872 (Rev. St. c. 114, § 20, par. 5), providing for the crossing and bordering of streams, highways, etc., by railroads, it is only in a case where the railroad is to be constructed along or lengthwise of a highway that the consent of the local authorities must first be obtained. And see the statutes of the several states.

64. Daly v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 80 Ga. 793, 7 S. E. 146, 12 Am. St. Rep. 286; Tallon v. Hoboken, 60 N. J. L. 212, 37 Atl. 895 (holding that the power conferred upon the city of Hoboken by its charter, to regulate its streets, does not authorize it to permit the construction and operation of a railroad upon its streets by a corporation organized under the general railroad law); Thompson v. Ocean City R. Co., 60 N. J. L. 74, 36 Atl. 1087.

A legislative grant of authority to a city council "to permit the connection by common depots, tracks, or otherwise, of all railroads in said city, or any of them, upon such terms and conditions as may be fixed and agreed on between the city council and them," does not give to the municipal authorities the power to confer upon any railroad company using steam locomotives the right to construct and operate a railway longitudinally along and over the streets of the city. Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta, 100 Ga. 701, 28 S. E. 126.

65. New Castle v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 155 Ind. 18, 57 N. E. 516.

66. New Castle v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 155 Ind. 18, 57 N. E. 516.

67. Indianola v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 56 Tex. 594, holding that where a railroad company has the right, in case a city refuses it a right of way, to call upon the state engineer to designate the streets it may use with a due regard to the commercial interests and convenience of the city, a contract by the company with the city, whereby it secures the right of way it desires by the execution of a bond to construct a portion of its road within a certain time, is not illegal.

68. New Castle v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 155 Ind. 18, 57 N. E. 516, holding that a railway company's construction of its tracks in a street, and their continued and peaceable use for thirty years with the knowledge and acquiescence of the municipality, raise a conclusive presumption of a grant.

69. Chicago v. Union Stock-yards, etc., Co.,

d. Grant, Consent, or Remonstrance of Abutting Owners. Under some statutes, the assent of a certain proportion of the abutting owners must be given before the street in front of their properties can be used for railroad purposes.[70] As a general rule the fee of the land over which a public street or highway passes is in the abutting owner,[71] and ordinarily a railroad company cannot occupy such part of a street or highway without making compensation to him therefor;[72] and where a railroad has been constructed in the street or highway, without lawful authority, such owner may, notwithstanding the public interest in the operation of the road, recover his land, or otherwise dispute the right of the company to use it,[73] unless he has by his conduct estopped himself;[74] and the mere fact that he acquiesced in the building of the road until it was completed and put into operation does not amount to an estoppel.[75] But where a railroad company has rightfully built its road on a strip of land dedicated as a highway by the owner, 164 Ill. 224, 45 N. E. 430, 35 L. R. A. 281 (holding that a city is estopped to deny authority of a company to lay its tracks across streets where it has acquiesced for twenty years in such use of its streets, and has required the company to expend considerable sums in the improvement of the crossings, authorized it to construct depots, and passed many resolutions mentioning the tracks as established monuments, in fixing street grades, etc.); Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, 79 Ill. 25; Pembroke Tp. v. Canada Cent. R. Co., 3 Ont. 503.

A town cannot be estopped by the act of its commissioners of highways in contracting to surrender a certain highway to a railroad company, although the latter has expended money in consequence of such surrender, when the commissioners had no authority to make such a contract, and this was known to the railroad company. Rice v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 30 Ill. App. 481.

Notice.— Where the charter of a railroad company contemplates that the persons interested shall have notice of the application and opportunity to resist it, a grant cannot arise from the acquiescence of the council without such notice, and so ordinances requiring the erection of safety gates and the keeping of flagmen along tracks which have been constructed without authority do not operate as grants of rights of way. Klosterman v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 56 S. W. 820, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 192.

70. Wetmore v. Story, 22 Barb. (N. Y.) 414, 3 Abb. Pr. 262; New York, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 50 Misc. (N. Y.) 13, 100 N. Y. Suppl. 316 (holding that where, prior to constructing its tunnels in any street, road, or public place, plaintiff railroad company procured, as required by the statute then in force, consent of property-owners of one half in value of the property bounded on the line of such street or road, a contention that it should obtain the consent of the property-owners along every street on its route before constructing in any street is without weight); Wilkins v. Gaffney City, 54 S. C. 199, 32 S. E. 299 (holding that under Acts (1894), p. 1002, § 14, authorizing the town council of Gaffney city to close up, widen, or alter a street by condemnation in case the abutters refuse consent, the council has no authority to permit a railroad company to lay its tracks in a street, where consent was refused, without condemnation and compensation).

In Illinois, 1 Starr & C. Annot. St. p. 472, providing that the city council shall not grant the use of, or right to lay railway tracks in streets to any company, except on petition of owners of frontage, applies to natural persons seeking to lay railway tracks in the streets (Chicago Dock, etc., Co. v. Garrity, 115 Ill. 155, 3 N. E. 448), and a petition, under the statute, to a common council, for leave to construct a track along a public street, is sufficiently signed by owners of one half of the frontage of that part of the street to be used (Schuchert v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 10 Ill. App. 397).

A statute requiring such assent to "any street or horse railroad company" does not apply to a regular steam railroad. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. East St. Louis Union R. Co., 107 Ill. 450, construing the charter of East St. Louis (1 Priv. Laws (1869), p. 904).

71. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Liebfried, 92 Ky. 407, 17 S. W. 870, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 645. And see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 845, 846.

72. Bond v. Pennsylvania Co., 171 Ill. 508, 49 N. E. 545 [reversing 69 Ill. App. 507]. But see Souch v. East London R. Co., L. R. 16 Eq. 108, 42 L. J. Ch. 477, 21 Wkly. Rep. 590. See also EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 672 et seq.

73. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Liebfried, 92 Ky. 407, 17 S. W. 870, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 645.

Sufficiency of owner's title.— The occupation of premises on the line of a highway for a period of twenty years or more without any paper title affords no presumption as a matter of law that the possessor's title extends beyond the limits of his actual possession or to the center of a highway, so as to permit him to dispute the right of a railroad company to construct its road in the street. Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 28 Vt. 142.

74. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Liebfried, 92 Ky. 407, 17 S. W. 870, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 645; Wolfard v. Fisher, 48 Oreg. 479, 84 Pac. 850, 87 Pac. 530, 7 L. R. A. N. S. 991.

75. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Liebfried, 92 Ky. 407, 17 S. W. 870, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 645, holding that mere acquiescence in the construction and operation of a railroad in a its use thereof cannot be prevented by the abutting owner because the part of the strip next to complainant's land was never actually used as a highway.[76] While an abutting owner is entitled to a right of ingress and egress to and from his property over the railroad right of way in a street or public highway,[77] he is not entitled to such right over a railroad on a strip of land which has never been dedicated and accepted as a highway, and which was unconditionally conveyed to the railroad company.[78] A conveyance to a railroad company by an abutting owner of a right of way over a highway or street in front of certain described premises is a grant only of the right of way in front of the premises described.[79] A grant by an abutting owner of a right of way through a street or highway over his land releases the company from any incidental damages, resulting from a reasonable use and operation of the road,[80] and such a grant is binding on subsequent grantees of the remaining property.[81] A release in the conveyance, of all damages sustained by the grantor by reason of the construction of the road on the street or highway, etc., is limited to the damages sustained by the construction and operation of the road in front of the premises described.[82]

e. Covenants and Conditions in Grants. A grant or consent to a railroad company to use a street or highway may be made on reasonable covenants or conditions, essential for the protection of the public, and if the railroad company accepts the grant the parties are bound thereby;[83] as in the case of conditions that compensation shall be paid for the use of the highway,[84] or that the company shall construct its road to a certain terminus,[85] or fix its terminus at a certain public highway until it becomes a common carrier will not prevent the abutting owner from recovering possession of the highway as against the railroad company.

76. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Ferris, 93 Cal. 263, 28 Pac. 828, 18 L. R. A. 510.

77. Fulton v. Short Route R. Transfer Co., 85 Ky. 640, 4 S. W. 332, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 291, 7 Am. St. Rep. 619. And see, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 863 et seq.

78. Tapert v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 50 Mich. 267, 15 N. W. 450.

79. McDonald v. Southern California R. Co., (Cal. 1895) 41 Pac. 812. See also Morrison v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 63 Minn. 75, 65 N. W. 141, 30 L. R. A. 546.

Filing a plat of the land showing streets and the right of way as not amounting to a conveyance of the right of way to the railroad company see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Council Bluffs, 109 Iowa 425, 80 N. W. 564.

80. Conabeer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 474, 51 N. E. 402 [affirming 84 Hun 34, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 6].

Filling in street.—A deed from the owner of lots abutting on a street to a railroad company, granting a right of way along the street for the operation of the road, but not permitting the "unlawful operation" of the road, does not cover the filling in of the street above the established grade so as to interfere with ingress and egress to the grantor's lots. Conners v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 356, 38 So. 320.

81. Hileman v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 113 Iowa 591, 85 N. W. 800; Conabeer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 474, 51 N. E. 402 [affirming 84 Hun 34, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 6]; Varwing v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 439, 3 Ohio Cir. Dec. 528, holding that where a municipality gives defendant company authority to use as much of a street as may be necessary for its tracks and plaintiff's grantor, an abutting owner, releases defendant from all damages, for valuable consideration, for the use of said street plaintiff, a subsequent grantee, is bound by the prior deed of release of his grantor, and cannot enjoin defendant from laying other tracks, in such street when the necessities of its business require it.

82. McDonald v. Southern California R. Co., (Cal. 1895) 41 Pac. 812.

83. Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Oswego, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 551, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1027 (holding that statutory provisions, requiring the consent of the city to the use of its streets for railroad purposes, empower the city to impose upon the railroad company in consideration of such consent any and all reasonable conditions); Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Hood, 94 Fed. 618, 36 C. C. A. 423.

Breach of condition.—Where a municipality consents to the occupation of the streets by a railroad company upon condition, and the condition is broken, the railroad company is without authority to occupy or use the streets. Edwards v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 597, 64 Atl. 798.

84. Salem, etc., R. Co. v. Essex County, 9 Allen (Mass.) 563, construing St. (1863) c. 97, and St. (1859) c. 122, § 2, as to the county commissioners' power of fixing the compensation to be paid.

85. Indianola v. Indianola R. Co., 2 Tex. Unrep. Cas. 337.

A bond given by a railroad company to a city, conditioned for the construction of a road to a certain terminus in consideration of a grant by the city of the right to use place,[86] or construct a station at a certain point,[87] or that, if the company changes a public highway, it shall cause the same to be reconstructed,[88] or upon condition that the railroad company shall pave and grade the street and keep it in good order and condition.[89] The determination of such conditions or terms may be conferred upon courts, commissioners, or public boards.[90] Where the right is granted by the state, requiring the municipality to consent thereto, the municipality has authority, in granting such consent, to annex thereto such terms and conditions only as require the performance by the railroad company of those things which are within the power of the municipal corporation to regulate and enforce against a corporation or individual occupying such streets, such as the preservation of streets and crossings,[91] and it has no authority to attach a condition subsequent, a failure to comply with which will defeat the right granted by the state.[92] Under some statutes a railroad company is authorized to appropriate to its use only a public street or road which has been legally established.[93]

f. Conflicting or Exclusive Grants and Priority of Rights.[94] As between two railroad companies, having the right to extend their tracks in and through a certain street, the company which first actually takes possession of the street, by locating and constructing its tracks thereon, acquires the better right to the use of the street, to the exclusion of the right of the other company to interfere in any way with the construction and operation of its tracks.[95] But the occupancy by one company does not prevent an occupancy by another company under a subsequent grant where it does not interfere with or obstruct the first railroad in its right of passage under its prior grant and location,[96] as by a street railroad.[97] certain streets, is not ultra vires as to the railroad company, and may be enforced against it. Indianola v. Indianola R. Co., 2 Tex. Unrep. Cas. 337.

86. New Orleans v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 171 U. S. 312, 18 S. Ct. 875, 43 L. ed. 178.

87. Bickford v. Chatham, 16 Can. Sup. Ct. 235.

88. Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 73 Pa. St. 29, construing a railroad charter, requiring the company, upon changing a public road, to "cause the same to be reconstructed . . . in the most favorable location and in as perfect a manner as the original road," as not importing that the making of the new road shall precede the occupying of the old one. And see infra, VI, B, 3, b.

89. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Oswego, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 551, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1027. And see infra, VI, B, 2.

90. See Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973.

91. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, 91 Tex. 17, 39 S. W. 920, 36 L. R. A. 44, 90 Tex. 398, 39 S. W. 96 [reversing (Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 27].

92. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, 91 Tex. 17, 39 S. W. 920, 36 L. R. A. 44, 90 Tex. 398, 39 S. W. 96 [reversing (Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 27].

93. Burns v. Multnomah R. Co., 15 Fed. 177, 8 Sawy. 543, construing Oreg. Law 530.

94. Conflicting grants or licenses by municipal corporations generally see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 886.

95. Waterbury v. Dry Dock, etc., R. Co., 54 Barb. (N. Y.) 388, 32 How. Pr. 193 [reversing 30 How. Pr. 39].

96. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Coast-Line R. Co., 49 Ga. 202; Montreal Park, etc., R. Co. v. Chateauguay, etc., R. Co., 35 Can. Sup. Ct. 48. See also Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Berks County R. Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 361.

The occupancy of a street by a single track of a railroad company, continued for many years, under a grant of the right to occupy so much "as may be necessary" for its road, with no facts pointing to the necessity for more than one track at the time it made the appropriation, exhausts the power conferred by the grant; and hence another railroad company, under a subsequent grant from the city, has the right to also occupy the street with its track, where it does not interfere with or obstruct the first railroad in its right of passage under its prior grant and location. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 42, 27 Atl. 683.

The existence of several sidings and turnouts which the latter road must cross, and the inevitable inconveniences arising therefrom, forms no obstacle to the grant or exercise of the franchise to or by such company. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Berks County R. Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 361.

97. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. General Electric R. Co., 112 Fed. 689, 50 C. C. A. 424.

Under the rules of decision in Illinois, authority given a steam railroad by a city to cross a street with its tracks confers no exclusive rights in such street; but the right granted is subordinate to the use of the street for ordinary street purposes, which include the operating of a street railroad thereon; and the railroad company is not entitled to damages because of the construction of a street railway along such street, on the ground of delay to its trains, and increased danger at the crossing, nor can it maintain a suit in equity for an injunction against

A grant to a railroad company to use certain streets does not give it the right to interfere with the tracks of a street railway company unless the necessity therefor is so absolute that without it the grant itself would be defeated;[98] and the necessity must also be a necessity that arises from the very nature of things over which the railroad company has no control, and not a necessity created by the company itself for its own convenience or for the sake of economy.[99] Although the proper county authorities may grant a railroad company the right to cross and use the road-bed of another railroad company along a public highway,[1] it cannot do so without compensation to the original company;[2] nor can it grant such right without the consent of the first company, where such company's road-bed is not on an established and opened public road.[3]

g. Occupation of Highway as a Nuisance. It is not a nuisance per se for a railroad company to construct and operate its road upon a public street or highway if it does so by authority of law, and in a skilful and careful manner.[4] But it is a public nuisance for a railroad company to construct and operate its road on a public street or highway without legislative authority, granted either directly or indirectly;[5] or it may constitute a nuisance for a railroad company to use the street or way in an unauthorized manner.[6]

h. Duration of Right.[7] Where the grant of a right to a railroad company to lay its tracks in public streets or highways is expressly limited to a definite such use. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. General Electric R. Co., 112 Fed. 689, 50 C. C. A. 424. And the railroad company has no standing in equity to attack the validity of an ordinance granting a franchise for a street railroad along such street, either on the ground of fraud or for want of power in the city council to pass it. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. General Electric R. Co., supra.

98. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 93 Pa. St. 150.

99. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 93 Pa. St. 150.

1. See Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Chattanooga Electric St. R. Co., 44 Fed. 470.

2. Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Chattanooga Electric St. R. Co., 44 Fed. 470.

3. Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Chattanooga Electric St. R. Co., 44 Fed. 470, holding also that the laying of the second road may be enjoined at the suit of the first company.

4. Florida.— Geiger v. Filor, 8 Fla. 325.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Loeb, 118 Ill. 203, 8 N. E. 460, 59 Am. Rep. 341.

Iowa.— Hughes v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 12 Iowa 261; Milburn v. Cedar Rapids, 12 Iowa 246.

Missouri.— Randle v. Pacific R. Co., 65 Mo. 325.

New York.— Baxter v. Spuyten Duyvil, etc., R. Co., 61 Barb. 428, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. 178; Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. 508; Hodgkinson v. Long Island R. Co., 4 Edw. 411, tunnel under street.

Pennsylvania.— Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 73 Pa. St. 29; Peterson v. Navy Yard, etc., R. Co., 5 Phila. 199; Faust v. Passenger R. Co., 3 Phila. 164.

United States.— Miller v. Long Island R. Co., 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,580*a*, 10 Reporter 197.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 193.

5. Alabama.— Birmingham R. Light, etc., Co. v. Moran, 151 Ala. 187, 44 So. 152; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 124 Ala. 162, 26 So. 895.

Missouri.— Sherlock v. Kansas City Belt R. Co., 142 Mo. 172, 43 S. W. 629, 64 Am. St. Rep. 551.

New Jersey.— Stickle v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 386 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 530].

New York.— People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. 73, 26 How. Pr. 44.

Pennsylvania.—Edwards v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 597, 64 Atl. 798; Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579.

United States.— Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Hood, 94 Fed. 618, 36 C. C. A. 423.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 193.

When a railroad, authorized by its charter to be made at one place, is made at another, it is a mere nuisance on every highway it touches in its illegal course. Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

A railroad constructed in the streets of the city of New York under and by virtue of a resolution adopted by the board of assistants, in one year, and concurred in by the board of aldermen in another year, having no warrant for its commencement, and none for its continuance, is not only a public nuisance, but a public nuisance of which taxpayers and owners of property on the streets through which the rails are laid have a legal right to complain, as specially injurious to them in their ingress and egress to and from their places of business. Wetmore v. Story, 22 Barb. (N. Y.) 414, 3 Abb. Pr. 262.

A railroad constructed under an invalid act is a public nuisance. Astor v. New York Arcade R. Co., 3 N. Y. St. 188.

6. See infra, V, I, 2, f.

7. Revocation or forfeiture of grant of rights in highways or public places see infra, V, L, 4.

time, such right is terminated at the expiration of such time,[8] unless it again obtains the consent of the proper authorities; [9] and the mere fact that additional rights or enlarged powers are subsequently granted to the railroad company does not operate to extend the time specified, as in the absence of a clear intention in the later grant to supersede the prescribed time limit, the additional rights granted are presumed to be for the original time specified.[10]

i. Romedies By or Against Companies. An injunction will lie to restrain a railroad company from constructing and operating its road on a public street or highway without authority of law,[11] or to require its removal,[12] unless the party entitled to object has, by delay or other conduct, become estopped to enforce such remedy.[13] Such injunction may be maintained by the proper state, county, or municipal authorities,[14] or by an abutting owner, or other citizen who is or will be specially injured thereby,[15] even though he is not irreparably injured.[16] Or an abutting owner may in such a case maintain an action for damages, if he has

8. Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta, 100 Ga. 701, 28 S. E. 126; Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 99; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 136 Ill. 563, 27 N. E. 192, 29 Am. St. Rep. 334. And see, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 875 et seq.

A perpetual easement in a street is not acquired by a railway company, with general railroad powers, laying tracks in a street under municipal authority granting it the right to operate a suburban passenger railway, but expressly limiting the privileges for a designated period. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 99.

9. Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta, 100 Ga. 701, 28 S. E. 126.

10. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 99.

11. State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 288; Baxter v. Spuyten Duyvil, etc., R. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 428, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. 178. See also Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Stickle, 20 N. J. Eq. 530 [reversing 19 N. J. Eq. 386]; and, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 899 et seq.

Operation of injunction.—An injunction restraining a railroad company from unlawfully laying its tracks in a street will not continue to operate after the company has acquired the right to do so. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Middleton, 139 Ala. 610, 36 So. 782.

12. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Canton Co., 104 Md. 682, 65 Atl. 337, holding that where a railroad company lays tracks without authority on plaintiff's land in a street, a mandatory injunction requiring their removal may be issued.

13. State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 288; Wolfard v. Fisher, 48 Oreg. 479, 84 Pac. 850, 87 Pac. 530, 7 L. R. A. N. S. 991.

Where plaintiff stands by and allows a railroad company to construct a cut under a highway without taking any action to prevent it, further than notifying defendant of his objection, he is not entitled to an injunction to restrain the operation of the road through such cut. Planet Property, etc., Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 115 Mo. 613, 22 S. W. 616.

Limitation.— While the limitation of five years in respect to an action for damages does not protect the company from liability for injury done to abutting property on a street in which it has built its road, yet by reason of the acquiescence of the city authorities and of the persons interested they cannot after such time enjoin the operation of the road, or require its removal. Klosterman v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 56 S. W. 820, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 192.

14. See State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 288.

15. Birmingham R. Light, etc., Co. v. Moran, 151 Ala. 327, 44 So. 152; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 124 Ala. 162, 26 So. 895; Edwards v. Pittsburg Junction R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 597, 64 Atl. 798; Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 514, 5 Atl. 872; Black v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 249 (holding that where a railroad track is on a public street, owners of property in the vicinity, to sustain a complaint for constructing and maintaining it, must establish that it is a public nuisance and that they have sustained special damage); Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579; Cereghino v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 26 Utah 467, 73 Pac. 634, 99 Am. St. Rep. 843. See also Williams v. New York Cent. R. Co., 16 N. Y. 97, 69 Am. Dec. 651 [reversing 18 Barb. 222].

The general rule is that a railroad company occupying a public street without authority by legislative grant in clear words or by unavoidable implication, constitutes a public nuisance, and may be enjoined at the suit of a private citizen specially injured. Sherlock v. Kansas City Belt R. Co., 142 Mo. 172, 43 S. W. 629, 64 Am. St. Rep. 551.

On proof by a railway company that it is the owner of lots abutting on a certain street, and that such property will be injured by the unauthorized construction of a railroad on such street, it is entitled to an injunction; and it is no defense that such company itself operates a railway on such street without authority. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 124 Ala. 162, 26 So. 895.

16. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 115 Pa. St. 514, 5 Atl. 872.

been specially injured.[17] But where the railroad company is rightfully occupying the street or highway, an abutting owner's proper remedy for special damages sustained by him is an action at law,[18] and an injunction will not lie, at his instance, to restrain the railroad company from using the street,[19] unless he receives or is threatened with such injury that an action at law would be an inadequate remedy,[20] as where the use of the railroad in the street becomes a nuisance, or the aggression proves to be permanent and without an adequate remedy at law;[21] but a strong case must be presented and the impending danger must be imminent and impressive, to justify the issuing of an injunction as a precautionary and preventive remedy.[22] Under some statutes an action may be maintained by certain officers, to sustain the rights of the public in and to any highway, and to enforce the performance of any duty enjoined upon a railroad company in relation to such highway,[23] and to recover damages or expenses sustained or which may be sustained by the town or city in consequence of any act or omission of a railroad company in violation of any law or condition in relation to such highway.[24] Whether a railroad company rightfully occupies a street or highway must be determined in a direct proceeding, and unless so raised the presumption is that it is in rightful occupancy thereof;[25] but the town or municipality in which the highway is situated may proceed in equity against the railroad company to ascertain whether the road's laying out and construction is or is not within the power granted to the company.[26] Where a company has lawfully laid its tracks through a street or highway, it may maintain an injunction to prevent the municipal authorities or others from tearing up or removing such tracks;[27] but an injunction is not the proper remedy to prevent a municipality from repealing orders granting assent to the occupation of the streets by the railroad company.[28] Mandamus

17. Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 28 Vt. 142. And see, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 904 et seq.

18. Whittaker v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 143 Fed. 583.

19. Georgia.— Burrus v. Columbus, 105 Ga. 42, 31 S. E. 124.

Illinois.— Walther v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 215 Ill. 456, 74 N. E. 461 [affirming 117 Ill. App. 364]; Stetson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 75 Ill. 74.

Iowa.— Hughes v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 12 Iowa 261; Milburn v. Cedar Rapids, 12 Iowa 246.

Missouri.— Planet Property, etc., Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 115 Mo. 613, 22 S. W. 616, holding that plaintiff had a complete and adequate remedy at law for the injury sustained and therefore could not maintain an injunction.

New York.— Drake v. Hudson R. Co., 7 Barb. 508; Hodgkinson v. Long Island R. Co., 4 Edw. 411.

Pennsylvania.— Peterson v. Navy Yard, etc., R. Co., 5 Phila. 199.

United States.— Whittaker v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 143 Fed. 583.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 192.

20. Peterson v. Navy Yard, etc., R. Co., 5 Phila. (Pa.) 199.

21. Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. (N. Y.) 508.

22. Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. (N. Y.) 508.

23. Palatine v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 22 N. Y. App. Div. 181, 47 N. Y. Suppl. 1024 (construing Laws (1890), c. 568, § 15); Barse v. Herkimer, etc., R. Co., 13 N. Y. St. 215 (construing Laws (1855), c. 255, and Laws (1850), c. 140, § 28, as amended by Laws (1880), c. 133, § 2).

24. Barse v. Herkimer, etc., R. Co., 13 N. Y. St. 215.

25. Glass v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 94 Ala. 581, 10 So. 215, holding also that such question cannot be raised for the first time in an action for damages against the company for killing plaintiff's intestate.

In Illinois an abutting lot owner cannot enjoin the construction, pursuant to an ordinance, of a private switch to connect with a railroad. The validity of the ordinance can only be attacked by an officer acting in the name of the state. Coffeen v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 84 Fed. 46, 28 C. C. A. 274.

26. Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 63, holding also that it is immaterial, in this respect, whether the way in question be a highway, properly so called, or a town way.

27. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Ferris, 93 Cal. 263, 28 Pac. 828, 18 L. R. A. 510 (holding that where a railroad company has built its road, in accordance with Civ. Code, § 465, subd. 5, on a strip of land dedicated as a highway by the owner, it is entitled to an injunction to restrain the destruction of its track over such strip by a grantee of the land, who asserts ownership thereto because it was never actually used as a highway); Belington, etc., R. Co. v. Alston, 54 W. Va. 597, 46 S. E. 612.

28. Belington, etc., R. Co. v. Alston, 54 W. Va. 597, 46 S. E. 612.

will lie to compel the proper board or officers of the city to act upon the merits of the application of a steam railroad to extend its track through the streets of the city.[29]

2. NATURE AND EXTENT OF RIGHT OR USE — a. In General. The nature and extent of a railroad company's right to or use of a public street or highway, under a legislative or municipal grant, cannot be extended by construction beyond the reasonable meaning of the terms in which the grant is expressed;[30] and hence a railroad company has no right of way in streets or highways or other public places outside the terms of the grant by virtue of which it enters.[31] If the grant is in general terms, the company may lawfully occupy the street or highway to the extent of a reasonable necessity.[32] In the absence of express words granting

29. People v. Craycroft, 111 Cal. 544, 44 Pac. 463; Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973.

Mandamus against railroad companies generally see MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 365 et seq.

Mandamus to municipal and other public corporations and officers generally see MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 249 et seq.

30. See Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, 127 Ind. 156, 26 N. E. 759; Long v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 89 Ky. 544, 13 S. W. 3, 14 S. W. 78, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 955; Story v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co., 16 N. J. Eq. 13, 84 Am. Dec. 134.

Illustrations.— Where an ordinance grants a railroad company the right to build its road in a street provided that the company shall grade the street, and that "the line of the railroad shall be located so as not to approach the sidewalk-curbstone nearer than fifteen feet," the words, "line of the railroad," do not mean the extreme limit, including ties and grade, or the center or thread of the track, but refer to the rails, they being the only part of the road raised above the grade of the street. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, 127 Ind. 156, 26 N. E. 759. Where a city ordinance grants a railroad company the right to construct its road "on, over, and along" certain alleys, and "along" the alley in question, "along" is synonymous with "on" and "over," and does not mean "by the side of." Heath v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 11, 15 N. W. 573. An ordinance granting a railroad company permission to construct a track on H street does not limit the construction of the track to the "street," as distinguished from the "sidewalk." Knapp, etc., Co. v. St. Louis Transfer R. Co., 126 Mo. 26, 28 S. W. 627. Where a property-owner consents, in consideration of the location of the line of railroad in a street adjoining his premises, to its construction and operation, and agrees to execute a release, the extent of the right conferred on the railroad company to use the street depends on the circumstances existing at the time of the execution of the agreement. Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119.

Acceptance of grant.— Where a city ordinance granted a railroad the right to occupy a street for right-of-way purposes, and the company built on a portion of the street, and its successor in title assumed possession of the track, and extended the same, although not so far as the ordinance authorized, the city's grant of the whole street was accepted, including the portion on which no road was constructed. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 96 Tex. 233, 72 S. W. 161 [reversing 30 Tex. Civ. App. 474, 72 S. W. 201].

Distance from curb.— Where an ordinance grants a railway company the right to lay a track along a river front, providing the inner rail of the track shall not be nearer the curb line of the sidewalk than forty feet, and thereafter the state constructs a levee in the street, and grants permission to the railway to put its tracks on the top of the levee, it cannot locate such track, without the consent of the city, so as to bring its inner rail less than forty feet from the curb line. Alexandria v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 109 La. 50, 33 So. 65.

31. Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916.

The acceptance by municipal authorities of a plat made for the purpose of widening a street does not confer greater powers on a railroad than it already possessed over a strip marked on the plat as the company's right of way, where such strip is wholly in the street as originally laid out and there is no vacation of any portion of the street by the municipal authorities. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. Co. v. Chicago, 203 Ill. 576, 68 N. E. 99.

32. Waysata v. Great Northern R. Co., 67 Minn. 385, 69 N. W. 1073; Long Branch Com'rs v. West End R. Co., 29 N. J. Eq. 566; Jones v. Erie, etc,. R. Co., 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916, holding that in all cases where the grant to a railroad company is not in express words, a grant of an exclusive use in a street will be construed as a grant of so much only as is reasonably necessary for the purpose of passage.

The right in such case is limited to an occupation reasonably demanded by the transaction of the business contemplated; and where, by years of actual use in the business, it has been demonstrated what extent of occupancy is sufficient to accomplish the purpose of the grant, the extent of the use determines the extent of the grant. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 42, 27 Atl. 683.

Necessity.— Under a law which authorizes a permanent easement, a grant only of a right to lay and use tracks in a street is not a grant of the street in fee or otherwise, but simply of the right to thus use the street, leaving in the grantor the title to the street, and the right of every other use which may be enjoyed consistently with the right granted,[33] and the rights of the public in such street will be paramount to those of the railroad company for all purposes other than transit.[34] A charter right of way along or upon "any street, highway, or turnpike in the state," etc., need not mention and designate the particular street in a city or town upon which the road is to be constructed.[35] But where the ordinance or other grant specifically names the streets that may be used by a railroad company, the company has no right to use other streets.[36] Any part of the street which the company has not occupied remains a part of the public highway until the company actually occupies it for the uses intended.[37]

b. Width of Right of Way.[38] A grant to a railroad company of the right to use a street or public highway gives it merely a right of way of such width as it appropriates and uses for the railroad, and not what it claims and contem-a railroad company to construct its road along and over any public or private way, if it shall "be necessary," a practical, and not an absolute, necessity is intended; and the burden of proof would be upon the company to show this practical necessity, if questioned, when originally locating the line. Wayzata v. Great Northern R. Co., 67 Minn. 385, 69 N. W. 1073. But the necessity upon which the company acted when first establishing the line and when building the road is presumed to be continuous, and to exist, in proceedings instituted to compel a change of the track and its appurtenances. And in such proceedings, the burden is on the party demanding a change of the line to show not only that the original necessity no longer exists, but that there are substantial reasons for holding that the public interests demand the change. Wayzata v. Great Northern R. Co., supra.

N. Y. Laws (1890), c. 565, § 4, permitting a railroad company to construct its road "across, along, or upon" any highway, contemplates only a casual or incidental occupation and use of the highways, and does not authorize a company to build its entire railway along a highway between two villages. Burt v. Lima, etc., R. Co., 21 N. Y. Suppl. 482.

33. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 139 Ill. 355, 28 N. E. 1069; State v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 141 N. C. 736, 53 S. E. 290; Tonkawa Milling Co. v. Tonkawa, 15 Okla. 672, 83 Pac. 915, holding that a town ordinance granting to a company the right to use its streets and alleys under St. (1893) § 1035, does not vacate such streets or alleys so as to allow the land to revert to the abutting landowner.

Perpetual easement.— Where an agreement for the improvement of a street confirmed by N. Y. Laws (1855), c. 475, provided that a railroad company should have the exclusive right to a strip therein forever, for railroad tracks and turnouts and the running of locomotives and cars thereon without interruption, but did not provide in terms what title the railroad company should take in the strip, it only acquired a perpetual right of way, which was all that was necessary to satisfy its use under the rule that only such powers and privileges are permitted to be granted to a railroad company as are expressly authorized or are necessary to accomplish the general purposes intended. In re Long Island R. Co., 189 N. Y. 428, 82 N. E. 443 [affirming 116 N. Y. App. Div. 928, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 1141].

34. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 139 Ill. 355, 28 N. E. 1069.

35. Hepting v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 36 La. Ann. 898.

36. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 121 Ill. 176, 11 N. E. 907.

A city ordinance, after a careful mention and specification of what streets might be used by a railroad company in which to lay down its tracks and side-tracks, contained a general clause giving authority also to lay down all such tracks "as may be necessary to the convenient use of any depot grounds said company may now own or hereafter acquire in the vicinity of or adjoining said line of road," without the specific mention of any streets. It was held that the general clause gave no authority in respect to the use of the streets, additional to those which had been specifically named in the preceding part of the ordinance. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 121 Ill. 176, 11 N. E. 907. But a grant to a railroad company of a right to construct its road on a certain street is not violated by construction of the road over the crossing of that street with another street, since by a fair interpretation of the grant the tracks are not laid outside of the street. Knight v. Carrollton R. Co., 9 La. Ann. 284.

37. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, 15 N. Y. St. 167.

The company is not entitled to an injunction restraining a person from carrying on a business on that part of the street not yet taken, if he conducts himself in the usual and ordinary manner and under proper authorization from the city. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, 15 N. Y. St. 167.

38. Width of right of way generally see supra, V, E, 2.

plates;[39] and in the absence of express words to the contrary, it cannot occupy the whole width of the street to the exclusion of the public,[40] unless the whole width of the street or highway is reasonably necessary for its business,[41] and unless it provides for another highway to be used by the public in its place.[42] Where the company is authorized to occupy a strip of land in the street, not exceeding a certain width, it may elect to take less than that width, and by some plain and decisive act define the limits of the right of way so as to exclude whatever is unnecessary to the construction and operation of its line.[43]

c. Interference With Use by Public in General. In the absence of a clearly expressed intention to the contrary, the right given to a railway company to lay down and use tracks in a street or highway is not exclusive, but is subject to the right of the general public to also use such street or highway,[44] and the rights of 39. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 232, 28 Atl. 771; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Berks County R. Co., 2 Woodw. (Pa.) 361.

40. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 232, 28 Atl. 771 (holding that the act of March 20, 1860, authorizing a railroad company to build across and along such streets as should be deemed best, granted the company only so much of the streets to be occupied by it with the city's consent as it should actually appropriate and use, and not the whole width of them, to the exclusion of other railroads); Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 42, 27 Atl. 683; Stroudsburg v. Wilkes-Barre, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 507, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 395.

41. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 42, 27 Atl. 683.

42. Stroudsburg v. Wilkes-Barre, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 507, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 395.

43. Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 144 Pa. St. 629, 23 Atl. 251, 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916.

Presumptions.— The presumption arising under the general railroad laws that a railroad company takes, when it enters by virtue of the right of eminent domain, the full breadth of sixty feet for its right of way, applies only where the entry is adverse, and on property subject to seizure or appropriation under the general laws, and not to an entry on a public street, whether made under the authority of the act of assembly incorporating the company, or by municipal consent. Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 144 Pa. St. 629, 23 Atl. 251, 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916. The presumption that a railroad company has taken the general width of its right of way as specified in the charter has no application to the surface of public streets, where the words of the charter express, with reference to such streets, nothing more than a right of way. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 42, 27 Atl. 683.

44. Arkansas.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neely, 63 Ark. 636, 40 S. W. 130, 37 L. R. A. 616.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 136 Ill. 563, 27 N. E. 192, 29 Am. St. Rep. 334.

New York.— Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 53 N. E. 44 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510], 158 N. Y. 478, 53 N. E. 533.

Ohio.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Elyria, 14 Ohio Cir. Ct. 48, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 312.

Oregon.— Turney v. Southern Pac. Co., 44 Oreg. 280, 75 Pac. 144, 76 Pac. 1080.

Pennsylvania.— Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916.

Rhode Island.— Taber v. New York, etc., R. Co., 28 R. I. 269, 67 Atl. 9.

United States.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. General Electric R. Co., 112 Fed. 689, 50 C. C. A. 424.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 197. And see, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 885 et seq.

Abandonment of street.— It is usually not the intention of the legislature, by a statute which authorizes public authorities controlling streets and highways to contract with railroad companies for the use of such streets and highways to a certain extent, that streets and highways should be abandoned and surrendered to railroads, and to deprive the public of the use of the same farther than is necessary. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 136 Ill. 563, 27 N. E. 192, 29 Am. St. Rep. 334.

An order of the county court granting a railroad permission to use any part of the county road between designated points for its track, imposing on it the duty of repairing any damage caused by the construction of its road, requiring it to leave the highway in as good condition as before it began work, to construct and grade a twelve-foot roadway whenever it should occupy the then traveled road, and forbidding it to obstruct the road in any manner, does not give the company a right to the exclusive use of such road, or deprive the public of the right to use any part thereof, subject to the paramount right of the railroad to use its track for the operation of its road (Turney v. Southern Pac. Co., 44 Oreg. 280, 75 Pac. 144, 76 Pac. 1080); and a subsequent order, reciting the particulars in which the company has failed to comply with the first, adopting the first as the basis of the additional order, then proceeding to define more specifically the company's duties in the construction of the road, and each therein must be exercised with due regard to the rights of the other,[45] unless an exclusive right is granted to the railroad company by the legislature, in clear and explicit terms or by necessary implication;[46] and the municipal authorities cannot grant or consent to an unreasonable or oppressive use of a street or highway.[47] Thus the right of a railroad company to cross or pass along a highway does not include the right to build permanent structures upon it, other than its tracks at the grade of the street, or to use it for a freight yard or any exclusive purpose; but it is limited to a reasonable use by crossing, passing, and repassing consistent with the earlier public right,[48] which must be exercised in such manner as not to unnecessarily or materially obstruct or interfere with those for whose benefit the way was originally laid out,[49] and so as not to unnecessarily obstruct the condition in which it shall keep the traveled way during the progress or suspension of the work, does not enlarge the rights of the company, but imposes on it further restrictions and conditions (Turney v. Southern Pac. Co., supra).

The grant of the use of a street "as such railroad should deem it necessary and expedient" means such use as is reasonably necessary and expedient for the railroad, with due regard for the convenience of the public. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Elyria, 14 Ohio Cir. Ct. 48, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 312.

The provision of the charter of the city of Buffalo permitting the common council by a two-thirds vote to consent to the construction of a railroad across a street is not independent of the provisions of the General Railroad Act authorizing the construction of railroads, but the two statutes may be read together, and when so read they simply authorize a railroad to cross a street, but not necessarily in such a way as to obstruct its use or exclude the public right. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 53 N. E. 44 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510], 158 N. Y. 478, 53 N. E. 533.

45. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neely, 63 Ark. 636, 40 S. W. 130, 37 L. R. A. 616.

46. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark, 10 N. J. Eq. 352 (holding that nothing but express legislative authority or necessary implication can authorize a corporate body having the control and supervision of the public highways to impair or interfere with the public enjoyment of them); Yost v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 29 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 85; Cleveland v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 93 Fed. 113 [reversed on other grounds in 147 Fed. 171, 77 C. C. A. 467].

Power to close up street see Casgrain v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., [1895] A. C. 282, 64 L. J. P. C. 88, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 369, 11 Reports 449; Atty.-Gen. v. Great Eastern R. Co., L. R. 6 H. L. 367, 22 Wkly. Rep. 281; Temple v. Flower, 41 L. J. Ch. 604, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 657, 20 Wkly. Rep. 587.

47. General Electric R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 184 Ill. 588, 56 N. E. 963 [reversing 84 Ill. App. 640]; Laviosa v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., McGloin (La.) 299; Cereghino v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 26 Utah 467, 73 Pac. 634, 99 Am. St. Rep. 843. And see, generally, MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 873 et seq.

The courts, although they will exercise it with extreme caution and reluctance, have the power to annul municipal legislation, when it is in its nature unreasonable or oppressive. Laviosa v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., McGloin (La.) 299.

A municipal corporation has no power to grant the use of an alley or street to a railroad company to lay its tracks therein, if the ordinary and reasonable effect of such a grant will be to prevent or unreasonably impede the passage of other vehicles belonging to abutting owners or other members of the public desiring to use such alley. Sherlock v. Kansas City Belt R. Co., 142 Mo. 172, 43 S. W. 629, 64 Am. St. Rep. 551; Brown v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 137 Mo. 529, 38 S. W. 1099.

Presumption.— Where a city grants a license to construct a railroad in a public alley, the presumption is that it has due regard to the rights of the public and the abutting property-owners. Brown v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 137 Mo. 529, 38 S. W. 1099.

48. Taber v. New York, etc., R. Co., 28 R. I. 269, 67 Atl. 9.

49. Georgia.—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Montezuma, 122 Ga. 1, 49 S. E. 738.

Indiana.— Kelly v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 28 Ind. App. 457, 63 N. E. 233.

Louisiana.— Hepting v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 36 La. Ann. 898, holding that the company cannot construct its road through a street so as unnecessarily to impair the right of the public to the free use of such street, and inflict serious and unequal damage upon private property contiguous to the street.

Pennsylvania.— Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916.

Tennessee.— Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864.

Wisconsin.— Evans v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Wis. 597, 57 N. W. 354, 39 Am. St. Rep. 908; Bussian v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 56 Wis. 325, 14 N. W. 452, holding that if a railroad company has the right to extend a switch track into the highway, it is bound to use such track in such a manner as not unnecessarily to interfere with public travel over such highway.

England.— London, etc., R. Co. v. Cooper, 2 R. & Can. Cas. 229.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 197.

or interfere with abutting property-owners in the enjoyment of their property rights, including the right of ingress and egress from their property to the street or highway;[50] and provision for the protection of the public generally or abutting owners in these rights is often made in railroad charters or by statute or ordinance.[51] The city may still improve and control such street, and adopt all needful rules and regulations for its management and use,[52] and may have the tracks moved from one part of the street to another.[53] A railroad company has no right, even under an ordinance purporting to authorize it to do so, to lay its track in a street which is so narrow that, if occupied by a railroad track, there would not be room for vehicles to pass.[54]

d. Mode and Extent of Use. Subject to the rule that the use of the street or highway to the public be not unnecessarily or materially impaired,[55] a grant of a right to lay and operate a railroad over streets or highways carries with it the right to make such use of the street or highway in constructing or operating the road, as is necessarily incident to the enjoyment of the original grant;[56] but it

Tunnel.— Where a railroad company is authorized by statute to build a tunnel under what had previously been a city street, which for twenty years had not been used for travel except by a trolley line, the railroad company has a right as against the city to put temporary supports in the street necessary for the furtherance of its project of building the tunnel without any interference or obstruction to public travel, regardless of the city's right to the street. Hoboken, etc., R. Co. v. Hoboken, (N. J. Ch. 1906) 64 Atl. 641.

Material impediment.— Where a railroad company proposes to occupy a public street in such a way as to force the public in passing along the street to use the track of the railroad for a distance of two hundred feet, there is such a material impediment to the "passage or transportation of persons or property along the same" within the meaning of the Pennsylvania act of Feb. 19, 1849, as will justify the court in continuing an injunction until the railroad company makes proper provision for the convenience of the public. Stroudsburg v. Wilkes-Barre, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 507, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 395.

The permission granted to the authorities of the city of Buffalo by its charter, to give the requisite consent for railroads to cross the public streets, does not necessarily justify the maintenance of an elevated structure across a public street, when constructed in such a manner that a considerable portion of the highway is occupied by the abutments and other supports of the bridge, thereby obstructing the roadway below to such an extent as to impair its use by the traveling public. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 53 N. E. 44 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510], 158 N. Y. 478, 53 N. E. 533.

50. Tate v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 479; Evans v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Wis. 597, 57 N. W. 354, 39 Am. St. Rep. 908; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Leavenworth First M. E. Episcopal Church, 102 Fed. 85, 42 C. C. A. 178, 50 L. R. A. 488, holding that the erection by a railroad company of a water hydrant in a street immediately opposite the center of a church, and only thirty-five feet distant; and of a station on property on the opposite side of the street, so that the noises, odors, dust, and smoke incident to the stopping and starting of trains at both station and hydrant interfere with services in the church, and render the building unfit for the uses for which it was built, constitutes a private nuisance, which amounts in legal effect to a taking of the church property to the extent of the injury done thereto, for which the company may be required to make compensation; and it is no defense to an action for the recovery of such compensation that the structures built by the company are necessary for the operation of its road, or that its trains are operated in a careful and proper manner.

51. See Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342; Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

Application.—A provision in a charter of a railroad company that the railroad shall be so constructed as not to impede the use of roads applies not merely to laying the rails, but to the ordinary and proper use of the road. If such use causes an impediment, the charter is violated (Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471), and it is no justification for a violation of this proviso that the public have been more benefited than injured by the railroad (Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., supra).

52. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 136 Ill. 563, 27 N. E. 192, 29 Am. St. Rep. 334.

53. Snyder v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 55 Pa. St. 340, holding that since a street belongs to the public for purposes of travel, the public has a right for its own convenience to remove to another part of the street railroad tracks which have been lawfully laid thereon; and a railroad company, acting by public authority, has the same right to make such removal without incurring liability for damages to an abutting owner.

54. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Middleton, 139 Ala. 610, 36 So. 782.

55. See supra, V, I, 2, c.

56. Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. (N. Y.) 508.

Viaduct.— Where a city deeds a railroad company a strip of land in a street for the cannot subject the street or highway to a new and independent servitude without further authority.[57] Where the right is to use the street for a single track to transport a particular commodity, the company cannot lay tracks for a general railroad business;[58] or where the right is intended for the passage of cars and engines, the street or highway cannot be used for depot purposes,[59] car houses,[60] or for a water tank;[61] nor can it cross a street at a grade different from that prescribed by statute.[62] The right to lay tracks through a city street necessarily implies the right to use such tracks in the mode ordinarily adopted by railroad companies, subject to reasonable regulations under the police power of the proper authorities.[63] The right to lay side-tracks and turnouts implies the right to use them for the transportation of goods to and from adjoining stores and warehouses;[64] and the grant of a right to cross highways in municipal corporations includes the right to lay along the right of way pipes to conduct water needed for locomotives, and the other needs attendant upon the operation of the road.[65] But it has been held that a railroad company has no right to use its main tracks or sidings in a city street for the storage of cars to be loaded or unloaded,[66] or as a depot for cars,[67] or for the general purpose of shifting cars and making up trains;[68] but in making or breaking up a train in a city station, the temporary purpose of railroad tracks and turnouts, to be used and traveled over by cars and locomotives and otherwise, in the same manner as the tracks on land ceded by the company to the city, the company may construct a viaduct on such land to connect with an elevated railroad (Gallagher v. Keating, 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 131, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 366 [affirmed in 40 N. Y. App. Div. 81, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 632, 1123]. Compare Welde v. New York, etc., R. Co., 28 N. Y. App. Div. 379, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 290); and may also, by another viaduct, connect such viaduct with its freight yards, situated near such land (Gallagher v. Keating, supra).

57. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Inge, (Miss. 1897) 22 So. 294, holding that where a railway company claims the right to use a street by virtue of its having occupied it for forty years, it is confined to the character of its use during such period, and to the land actually occupied; and if it takes the street for a totally new and independent servitude, without lawful authority, and plaintiff is thereby damaged in his property rights, he can recover.

58. Riedinger v. Marquette, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 29, 28 N. W. 775.

59. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Inge, (Miss. 1897) 22 So. 294; Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579; Bussian v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 56 Wis. 325, 14 N. W. 452. See also Oregon R. Co. v. Portland, 9 Oreg. 231.

Under Ohio Act Feb. 24, 1848, § 11, adopted by Pennsylvania by the act of April 11, 1849 (Pamphl. Laws 754), entitled, "An act to incorporate the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad Company," authorizing a railroad company, when necessary, to occupy a road or street on agreement with the public authorities as to manner, terms, and conditions, the Pennsylvania Company, the successor in title to the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has the right to occupy a street in a borough or township with the municipal consent, to the extent only of a width sufficient for its rails and ties, but not for passenger depots or freight houses. Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579.

60. Allegheny v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 26 Pa. St. 355.

61. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Leavenworth First M. E. Church, 102 Fed. 85, 42 C. C. A. 178, 50 L. R. A. 488, holding that a grant to a railroad company of the right to "operate and maintain a railroad" on a public street does not carry by implication the right to erect and maintain a water tank in the street.

62. In re Bronson, 1 Ont. 415.

63. Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342.

64. Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Wiley, 193 Pa. St. 496, 44 Atl. 583.

65. Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561.

66. Glick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 19 D. C. 412, 21 D. C. 363; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Montezuma, 122 Ga. 1, 49 S. E. 738; Owensborough, etc., R. Co. v. Sutton, 13 S. W. 1086, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 247; Gahagan v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 1 Allen (Mass.) 187, 79 Am. Dec. 724. Compare Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342.

67. Owensborough, etc., R. Co. v. Sutton, 13 S. W. 1086, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 247; Allegheny v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 26 Pa. St. 355. See also Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Montezuma, 122 Ga. 1, 49 S. E. 738.

68. Fitzgerald v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 19 D. C. 513; Glick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 19 D. C. 412, 21 D. C. 363; Hopkins v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Mackey (D. C.) 311; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Montezuma, 122 Ga. 1, 49 S. E. 738; Owensborough, etc., R. Co. v. Sutton, 13 S. W. 1086, 12 Ky. L. Rep. 247.

Violation of ordinance.— The shifting of railroad cars in a city street for the making up of a train constitutes a violation of an ordinance providing that no engine or train use by the railroad company occupying the station of an adjacent street may be necessary, and to that extent the authority to use the street grows out of the necessities of the case and is a necessary incident to the right to use the road and station;[69] and it also has a right to pass and repass over a highway in making up its trains and shifting its cars, provided this is done only to a reasonable extent and in a reasonable manner, without encroaching upon the rights of others who have an equal right to use it.[70]

e. Tracks, Side-Tracks, Switches, and Turnouts. Subject to the rules as to interference with public use,[71] a railroad company may, as a necessary incident to its right to construct and maintain its road, make a turnout in a street or highway to communicate with a depot, warehouse, or freight yard,[72] and when the necessities of the road require, it may construct and use in the street or highway additional tracks,[73] side-tracks, or switch-tracks,[74] and, if damages were assessed to the adjacent owners under the original grant, as under general proceedings of appropriation, it may construct such additional tracks, without paying additional damages.[75] The municipal authorities may under some statutes grant the right to con-shall be stopped in any street, except at the foot of the same for the reception and delivery of freight. State v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 141 N. C. 736, 53 S. E. 290.

69. Glick v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 19 D. C. 412, 21 D. C. 363; Hopkins v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 Mackey (D. C.) 311.

70. Gahagan v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 1 Allen (Mass.) 187, 79 Am. Dec. 724.

71. See supra, V, I, 2, c.

72. Knight v. Carrollton R. Co., 9 La. Ann. 284; New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. New Orleans Second Municipality, 1 La. Ann. 128 (holding that where the charter of a company authorizes it to establish a railway along a public street to a particular point, and to run a locomotive on the road, the company will be entitled to make a turnout from the main track to communicate with a depot erected by it near the terminus of the road, containing the machinery necessary for reversing the engine, etc., where no objection exists to the construction of a turnout at that particular point, subject, however, to the police power of the municipality, where it is so constructed and used as to interfere as little as possible with the free use of the public way); Gallagher v. Keating, 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 131, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 366 [affirmed in 40 N. Y. App. Div. 81, 57 N. Y. Suppl. 632, 1123]; Philadelphia v. River Front R. Co., 133 Pa. St. 134, 19 Atl. 356 (holding that a decree entered by consent which directed that the railroad company should lay "a single track only, without sidings for standing or passing trains," and should "at no time construct any such switches or turn-outs" on said streets, does not forbid the railroad company from construcing a turnout connecting its track with a warehouse).

73. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, 127 Ind. 156, 26 N. E. 759 (holding that a railroad company, which has located a single track along a city street under an ordinance granting it the right to construct its railroad along the street within certain limits, and under general proceedings of appropriation in which damages were assessed to adjacent landowners, is not restricted to one track, but has the right to construct additional tracks if required by its business, if there is sufficient room to do so within the prescribed limits); Newark v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1907) 67 Atl. 1009; Varwig v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 439, 3 Ohio Cir. Dec. 528; Yost v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 29 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 85.

Mich. Comp. Laws (1897), § 6234, authorizing a railroad company to construct its "road" upon or across a highway, relates to its main line tracks and necessary side-tracks in transporting passengers and freight, and does not authorize the construction of additional tracks, occupying about two hundred feet of the highway, for yard purposes, without the consent of the highway commissioners. Highway Com'rs v. Wabash R. Co., 148 Mich. 436, 111 N. W. 1090.

74. Hileman v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 113 Iowa 591, 85 N. W. 800 (holding that a grant to a railway company of the right to construct and forever maintain and operate its road in a street in front of grantor's property, without any limitation as to the number of tracks, includes the right to any legitimate increase in the use of the street by the company for the operation of its road, including the right to maintain necessary side-tracks); Beaver Borough v. Beaver Valley R. Co., 217 Pa. St. 280, 66 Atl. 520 (holding that, where a railroad company has a right to maintain tracks in a street one hundred feet wide, it may construct a siding thereon if such siding does not unreasonably obstruct public travel); Houston v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 35 S. W. 74 (holding that under an ordinance granting a railroad company the right to construct and maintain its railway upon a certain street, said company has the right to construct its road on said street, and such additional switch tracks as may be convenient or necessary for the operation thereof, and such right is not restricted by a further provision authorizing it to construct on its right of way such tracks and buildings on its grounds as it may deem convenient or necessary).

75. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, 127 Ind. 156, 26 N. E. 759.

struct and operate such additional tracks and switches,[76] provided they are not to be used for private purposes only.[77] But municipal authority to construct a single track in a street confers no authority to construct a double track.[78] If the location or route of a proposed railroad is indefinitely described upon the map filed by the company and in the instrument executed by a property-owner conferring a right of way upon it, the track as established at the time of the grant of the right of way and with reference to the location of which the consent was given should be held unchangeable, and additional tracks, switches, or sidings cannot be constructed without the property-owner's permission or the acquisition of the right through statutory condemnation proceedings.[79] A railroad company entitled to maintain and operate a single track in the highway becomes a trespasser if, without permission of the wner or acquisition of the right to do so, it adds to its tracks by the construction of switches and sidings, and it is liable to be restrained in its operations and for the damages sustained.[80]

f. Mode and Extent of Use as Constituting a Nuisance. Where a railroad company is authorized to construct and operate a railroad on a public street or highway, it may constitute a public nuisance for it to do so in an unauthorized manner or for an unauthorized purpose,[81] as where it constructs and operates its road longitudinally on a street or highway without legislative authority,[82] or where it has authority to construct for passenger cars only, and it afterward without the proper authority uses the tracks for freight cars;[83] or it may constitute a nuisance for it to exercise the right to use the street or highway in such a manner as to improperly or unreasonably obstruct the public use thereof,[84] as by erecting a freight depot in the center of a town, causing the obstruction of streets by cars and rendering the streets dangerous,[85] or by using the street as a yard for switching and making up trains, thereby causing irreparable damage

76. Colorado Springs v. Colorado, etc., R. Co., 38 Colo. 107, 89 Pac. 820; Brown v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 137 Mo. 529, 38 S. W. 1099, holding that since Const. art. 12, § 14, declares that all railways are "public highways, and all railroad companies common carriers," a city may authorize a switch track to be constructed in a public alley, on an established grade, for the purpose of connecting the adjoining property-owners with the main line.

Spur tracks.— Where, under Georgia Laws (1888), p. 146, incorporating a railroad company, it is granted the right by municipal authorities in 1905 to lay a spur track in the streets of a city, the right so granted may be exercised independently of the question whether the original charter right to lay spur tracks was exhausted with the first use. Bonner v. Milledgeville R. Co., 123 Ga. 115, 50 S. E. 973.

77. Brown v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 137 Mo. 529, 38 S. W. 1099, holding that the mere fact that a railroad company limits the use of a switch track to the carriage of property does not make the use of the track private.

A city council cannot authorize a permanent switch track, for a private business only, along a street and across a sidewalk, from a steam railroad in the street, to the detriment of people residing on the street, and to the damage of their abutting property, the streets being dedicated to public use. Cereghino v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 26 Utah 467, 73 Pac. 634, 99 Am. St. Rep. 843.

78. Klosterman v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 56 S. W. 820, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 192, 114 Ky. 426, 71 S. W. 6, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 1183, 1233.

79. Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119.

80. Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119 [reversing 61 N. Y. App. Div. 612, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 1149].

81. McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611; State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 86 Ind. 114; Dulaney v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 100 Ky. 628, 38 S. W. 1050, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 1088.

A railroad company using for a terminal yard a portion of a street over which it has only a right of way is responsible for any nuisance, public or private, thereby created. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Thompson, 45 N. J. Eq. 870, 14 Atl. 897, 19 Atl. 622; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Angel, 41 N. J. Eq. 316, 7 Atl. 432, 56 Am. Rep. 1.

82. Burlington v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 56 N. J. Eq. 259, 38 Atl. 849 [affirmed in 58 N. J. Eq. 547, 43 Atl. 700]; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Hood, 94 Fed. 618, 36 C. C. A. 423.

83. McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.

84. State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 86 Ind. 114; Randle v. Pacific R. Co., 65 Mo. 325. And see infra, VI, B, 3, c.

Operation as nuisance see infra, X, A, 3, b.

Piling ties on the highway as a nuisance see Forsythe v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 10 Ont. L. Rep. 73, 6 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 242.

85. Hickory v. Southern R. Co., 141 N. C. 716, 53 S. E. 955.

to the owners of adjoining property.[88] But a railroad company cannot be charged with maintaining a public nuisance where the obstruction caused by its tracks, switches, cars, etc., is no greater than is required by a reasonable use.[87] A switch-track which is part of a general railway system, and which is open to all persons for shipping purposes is a public utility, and does not constitute, when laid in a public street, a public nuisance per se,[88] although from its location and surroundings only a limited number of persons will have occasion to use it.[89]

g. Remedies By or Against Companies. Although a citizen cannot prevent the application of streets by a lawful authority to the use of a railroad company for a right of way,[90] he may insist that such streets be used in a manner not calculated to inflict unnecessary injury;[91] and if he is specially injured by an obstruction or other interference, caused without authority or by the negligence or carelessness of the railroad company, he may maintain an action for damages,[92] or if the injury is such that he has no adequate remedy at law, he may maintain an injunction to restrain the railroad company from doing the unauthorized or negligent acts which threaten the injury.[93] But equity will not enjoin a railroad company

86. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 93 S. W. 177.

87. State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 86 Ind. 114; Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. (N. Y.) 508.

Laying second track.— For a railroad company which has acquired the right to run through a city street to lay a second track is not necessarily a nuisance; but the circumstances of the case and actual hindrance to travel must be considered. Davis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 46 Iowa 389; Dulaney v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 100 Ky. 628, 38 S. W. 1050, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 1088, holding that the maintenance of double railroad tracks or an unimproved street sixty feet wide will not support a suit for injunction or action for damages by the owners of unimproved abutting property, where twenty-one feet, inclusive of space to be occupied by sidewalks, is left on either side of the tracks. The mere imposition of more railway tracks, or the increased use of the tracks beyond what may originally have been thought probable, resulting from the location of defendant's depot on land acquired by it does not constitute a nuisance. Oklahoma City, etc., R. Co. v. Dunham, 39 Tex. Civ. App. 575, 88 S. W. 849.

The ordinary use of a railroad yard for the purpose of parking cars cannot be interfered with by assuming that it is a nuisance per se. State v. Marshall, 50 La. Ann. 1176, 24 So. 186.

88. Davis v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 102 Md. 371, 62 Atl. 572; Wolfard v. Fisher, 48 Oreg. 479, 84 Pac. 850, 87 Pac. 530, 7 L. R. A. N. S. 991; Stockdale v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 28 Utah 201, 77 Pac. 849.

89. Stockdale v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 28 Utah 201, 77 Pac. 849.

90. Laviosa v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., McGloin (La.) 299.

91. Laviosa v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., McGloin (La.) 299.

92. Cadle v. Muscatine Western R. Co., 44 Iowa 11 (holding that where a railroad company, acting under the authority of a statute or a municipal ordinance, negligently and carelessly appropriates a street, thereby unnecessarily increasing the injury to an adjoining property-owner, he may recover damages, not for the fact of the appropriation, but for the negligent and improper selection of the line on the street); Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Inge, (Miss. 1897) 22 So. 294; Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471. See Day v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 5 U. C. C. P. 420.

A property-owner who has consented to the construction and operation of a single-track railroad in front of his premises may recover damages resulting from the operation by the railroad company of additional tracks without right, so far as such damages are separable from the injury consequent upon the operation of the single track. Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119 [reversing 61 N. Y. App. Div. 612, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 1149].

93. Bond v. Pennsylvania Co., 171 Ill. 508, 49 N. E. 545 [reversing 69 Ill. App. 507]; Roman v. Strauss, 10 Md. 89 (holding that a bill for injunction, alleging that an alley over which complainants are entitled to a right of way is the only reasonably convenient mode of reaching their property and place of business, the streets bounding thereon being already rendered nearly impassable by railroad tracks, and that defendants are about to obstruct this alley by laying a railroad track across it, by which complainants will be subject to irremediable damages, is sufficient to warrant the granting of an injunction to prevent such obstruction); Kemble v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 140 Pa. St. 14, 21 Atl. 225.

Station.— Where an encroachment is about to be attempted, a citizen owning property on the opposite side of the street, whose light and view are interfered with, and whose right to use the street may be interfered with by increased travel in the future, and who has bought his property according to a plan of lots on which the street was indicated, has a standing in equity to enjoin the railroad company from encroaching on the street for station purposes. Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579.

Pleading.— An injunction will not be from using a public street, at the instance of a private citizen, where he has an adequate remedy at law,[94] or where the injury is due merely to a proper use and operation of the road.[95] An injunction will lie at the instance of a railroad company to enjoin the enforcement of an ordinance which has for its purpose the destruction of the company's legally vested right to use a street for railroad purposes,[96] and to prevent the city authorities from tearing up its tracks.[97] Where a railroad company is unlawfully obstructing a street or highway, a writ of mandamus to compel it to remove its structures may be maintained by the city,[98] or by a private relator, suing as a citizen and taxpayer,[99] unless the city has, by its acts and conduct, estopped itself to assert its right to an unobstructed use of the street.[1] If an obstruction is caused by the negligence of the railroad company an indictment may lie.[2]

J. Rights in and Use of Road or Land of Another Railroad[3] —

1. Nature and Extent of Right or Use in General. As a general rule one railroad granted restraining a railroad company from constructing its road in a public street, where there is no allegation that it is about to, or threatens to, obstruct the street. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 73, 26 How. Pr. 44. The mere allegation of irreparable mischief from the acts complained of is not sufficient, but the facts must be stated to show that the apprehension of injury is well founded. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

Parties.— In an action against a railroad company to restrain it from extending its road in the city of New York, and to annul an ordinance of the common council granting permission to the company to extend its road, the city is a necessary and proper party, where the common council, on granting such permission, has reserved to the city ten per cent of the gross receipts from travel on the portion of the road to be extended. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 73, 26 How. Pr. 44.

An abutting owner who must use a street as a means of access to his property has a special interest therein, which gives him a standing to invoke the aid of equity to prevent an unlawful obstruction of the street which other members of the general public have not. Riley v. Pennsylvania Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 579; Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864.

94. Mills v. Parlin, 106 Ill. 60.

95. Conabeer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 474, 51 N. E. 402 [affirming 84 Hun 34, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 6]. See Magee v. London, etc., R. Co., 6 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 170.

Where an abutting owner is bound by the consent of his grantor to the use by a railroad of a right of way over land which afterward becomes a public street, he cannot enjoin the construction of additional tracks, on the ground that they would constitute an additional burden, if it does not appear that the amount of traffic would be increased. Conabeer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 474, 51 N. E. 402 [affirming 84 Hun 34, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 6].

96. Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342, holding that where a company is legally vested with the right to load and unload its freight cars on a city street, and the city attempts, by ordinance, to stop the exercise of the right, thus paralyzing the freight business of the company in the city, equity will interfere to protect the franchise.

A court of equity will not refuse to interfere by injunction in such a case for the reason that the attempted destruction of the franchise is accompanied by acts constituting personal trespasses, or for the reason that the ordinance is quasi-criminal in character. Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342.

97. Belington, etc., R. Co. v. Alston, 54 W. Va. 597, 46 S. E. 612.

98. People v. Rock Island, 215 Ill. 488, 74 N. E. 437, 106 Am. St. Rep. 179.

Mandamus to railroad companies generally see MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 365 et seq.

Discretion of court.— The fact that a railroad occupying a street with its tracks and buildings has left an unobstructed street sufficiently wide to fully accommodate public travel does not affect the legal rights of the public to the portion of the street occupied by the railroad, but is a circumstance to be considered by the court in exercising its discretion in granting or denying a writ of mandamus to compel the company to remove its structures from the street. People v. Rock Island, 215 Ill. 488, 74 N. E. 437, 106 Am. St. Rep. 179.

99. People v. Rock Island, 215 Ill. 488, 74 N. E. 437, 106 Am. St. Rep. 179.

An abutter, who, for a consideration, has granted to a company the right to use the street for railroad purposes, cannot, in his individual capacity, successfully maintain mandamus proceedings to compel the company to remove its structures from the street, but may, as a citizen, enforce by mandamus any right which the public has in the street, in which case his success in the proceeding is dependent on the continued existence of the public right. People v. Rock Island, 215 Ill. 488, 74 N. E. 437, 106 Am. St. Rep. 179.

1. People v. Rock Island, 215 Ill. 488, 74 N. E. 437, 106 Am. St. Rep. 179.

2. Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471. And see infra, VI, K.

3. Conflicting locations see supra, IV, F.

company cannot enter upon or use the tracks, depots, right of way, or other property of another railroad company without the latter's consent,[4] even though the act of the first company in building the track in question was ultra vires.[5] Such right, however, may be acquired by virtue of an agreement between the companies,[6] by virtue of a constitutional, statutory, or municipal regulation,[7] by virtue of a covenant in the original grant,[8] or by the exercise of the power of eminent domain.[9] The mere fact that a junior company locates its right of way over the land of an existing company and files an act or instrument of appropriation gives it no interest or right in the right of way or other real estate of the senior company.[10] In respect to lands, however, which the senior company has not devoted to public use, if the senior company permits the junior company to use such land, it cannot afterward restrain it from laying a side-track thereon within the limits of its right of way.[11] Where such right is acquired, the second company can only make such reasonable use of the road and other property as is necessary to effectuate the common object,[12] and has no right to so use it as to deprive the first company of its use.[13] A decree that a railroad company shall enjoy the joint and equal use of the right of way, tracks, side-tracks, switches, turn-tables, and other terminal facilities of another railroad between certain limits, entitles the former company to the joint use of the entire strip between the limits named, which the latter company had acquired to use for railroad purposes at the date of the decree;[14] and in the absence of proof of such a change of conditions since its entry as would render its enforcement unjust, the former company is entitled to the use of the entire strip and facilities;[15] but such a decree does not give the former company the right to the use of tracks, lines, or the facilities of the latter company outside of the limits of the strip owned by it at the date of the decree.[16]

2. Statutory or Municipal Regulations. Where the right to use another company's right of way, etc., is acquired by a municipal ordinance or constitutional or statutory provision, the rights of the railroad company thereunder are governed by a proper construction of the language used in the particular ordinance,[17] charter,

Right to cross other railroads see infra, VI, C.

4. See Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 28 Tex. Civ. App. 551, 67 S. W. 525.

Where a lumber company and a railroad company construct a spur track from the former's premises to the latter's line the former has no right to authorize a use of the spur by another railroad. Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 28 Tex. Civ. App. 551, 67 S. W. 525.

5. Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 28 Tex. Civ. App. 551, 67 S. W. 525.

That a switch was built by a railroad company without legislative authority does not give a mining company owning the land adjacent to such switch the right to use the same without permission of the railroad company. Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 28 N. J. Eq. 100 [affirmed in 28 N. J. Eq. 593].

6. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204. And see infra, V, J, 3; VII, D.

7. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204. And see infra, V, J, 2.

8. See supra, V, G, 2 text and note 92.

9. See Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 617 et seq.

10. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204. See also Grand Junction R. Co. v. Midland R. Co., 7 Ont. App. 681.

11. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204.

12. Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., 14 Phila. (Pa.) 438.

13. Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., 14 Phila. (Pa.) 438.

The right to use the "right of way" of another company includes the right to use the tracks, switches, turnouts, turn-tables, and other terminal facilities constructed on the right of way. Joy v. St. Louis, 138 U. S. 1, 11 S. Ct. 243, 34 L. ed. 843 [affirming 29 Fed. 546].

14. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 152 Fed. 849, 81 C. C. A. 643 [reversing 144 Fed. 476].

15. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 152 Fed. 849, 81 C. C. A. 643 [reversing 144 Fed. 476].

16. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 152 Fed. 849, 81 C. C. A. 643 [reversing 144 Fed. 476].

17. Capdevielle v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 110 La. 904, 34 So. 868, holding that the municipality of New Orleans has authority through the action of the city council to adopt an ordinance granting the right of use to a railroad company of designated or other statutory provision,[18] or act of congress,[19] granting or permitting such right, and such provisions usually require that the second company shall pay a fixed or reasonable compensation for the use of the first company's road.[20] The right of one railroad company to locate on or use the road of another company within city limits may be acquired by virtue of an ordinance granting a right of way to such other company, as where the ordinance provides that the grantee's road within the city limits shall be open to all other railroad companies obtaining permission of the city;[21] and the right to use the tracks under such an ordinance is not affected by a further provision therein in regard to the method by which compensation shall be made by the second company.[22] Where a contract by a tracks and to provide for permitting other railroads along these tracks on the same terms as those granted to the original company.

A covenant on the part of a railroad company in a grant of a right of way through a park to permit other railroads to use the right of way is binding on another company which, by the same instrument, acquires the right of way in common with the grantee "under the same terms and conditions as those imposed on such grantee." Joy v. St. Louis, 138 U. S. 1, 11 S. Ct. 243, 34 L. ed. 843 [affirming 29 Fed. 546].

18. Googins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 155 Mass. 505, 30 N. E. 71 (holding that St. (1866) c. 278, § 3, which authorizes the Boston and Worcester Railroad Company to take the railroad property hereafter known as the Union Railroad and Grand Junction Railroad and to locate, construct, and maintain a railroad thereupon and thence upon and over any intervening land to whomsoever belonging, grants the right to take the land on which the railroad was built and not merely the prior company's title thereto); Providence, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 138 Mass. 277 (construing St. (1871) c. 343); Lowell, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 7 Gray (Mass.) 27 (construing St. (1846) c. 157; St. (1855) c. 191); Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Salem, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 1 (construing St. (1852) c. 118); Greenville, etc., R. Co. v. Grey, 62 N. J. Eq. 768, 48 Atl. 568 [reversing 60 N. J. Eq. 153, 46 Atl. 636] (construing Gen. St. p. 2660, par. 83, and p. 2654, par. 61, as authorizing the construction and operation of more than one railroad upon the same surveyed route or location); Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Canal Com'rs, 21 Pa. St. 9 (construing the act of 1834 and the act of March, 1847, as not authorizing the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to use the tracks of the Columbia and Philadelphia railroad, which was a state railroad).

After-acquired road.—A reservation in the charter of a railroad company of a right to authorize other railroad corporations to enter upon and use the railroad extends to a branch railroad purchased from another corporation whose charter contained no such reservation, although the legislature, since the purchase, has enacted that the purchasing corporation "shall have all the powers and privileges, and be subject to all the duties, restrictions and liabilities" set forth in the charter of the purchased road. Lexington, etc., R. Co. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 14 Gray (Mass.) 266.

Mo. Rev. St. (1889) § 2742, which provides that where lands are condemned for depot purposes "any other railroad company shall have the right to use said depot grounds for depot purposes, with the necessary buildings, turnouts, sidings, switches and other conveniences in furtherance of said purpose" authorizes not only the construction of a union depot but also separate depots together with the sidings, switches, and other conveniences in furtherance of such purpose. Stevens v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 152 Mo. 212, 53 S. W. 1066.

Combination.— Under a statute (Mass. St. (1852) c. 118) authorizing such a right, railroad companies cannot combine their railroads so as to form one continuous line contrary to the rights conferred on them by their charters. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Salem, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 1.

19. See Mason City, etc., R. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 124 Fed. 409 [affirmed in 128 Fed. 230, 64 C. C. A. 348], construing Act Feb. 24, 1871, c. 67, and Act July 25, 1866, c. 246, as imposing upon the Union Pacific Railroad Company the duty of permitting other companies whose roads terminated at Council Bluffs or Omaha to use a bridge constructed over the Mississippi river at Quincy.

Act of congress of March 3, 1875, relating to the use of cañons, passes, and defiles by railroad companies, which provides that no company which locates its line through such place shall prevent any other company from the use and occupancy of the same cañon, pass, or defile for the purposes of its road in common with the road first located, means that where there is a cañon, pass, or defile so narrow as not to admit of the passage of two roads conveniently, it may be used by two or more railroads; but only in cases of necessity can one company go upon the right of way of another company for the purpose of building its road. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 17 Fed. 867, 5 McCrary 443. See Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Alling, 99 U. S. 463, 25 L. ed. 438.

20. See Lowell, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 7 Gray (Mass.) 27; and cases cited supra, notes 17–19.

21. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 38 Fed. 58.

22. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 38 Fed. 58.

city with a railroad company permits it to construct its tracks through its streets on the condition that the company permit any other railroad company to use the tracks on paying a pro rata share of the cost of construction, all railroads which have a terminus in such city are entitled upon complying with the terms of the contract to use the tracks of the first company,[23] without regard to whether they are operating under foreign or domestic charters;[24] and if the contract places no limit on the time when other railroads may come in or on the number, a delay in making application during which other roads have come in is no ground for excluding an applicant,[25] unless it is shown that the road will be overburdened;[26] nor is it a ground for excluding an applicant that a portion of the tracks were built on private property,[27] or that the applicant by the terms of its charter can use only animal power when such applicant has for years used steam power with the sanction of the city.[28]

3. CONTRACTS AND AGREEMENTS BETWEEN RAILROAD COMPANIES. Where the right is acquired by agreement between the companies, the rights and liabilities of each thereunder is governed by the terms of such agreement.[29] A railroad company having a license from another company to use its right of way may do thereon any act which is necessary to the full enjoyment of the license, although the terms of the license must be strictly followed and cannot be extended or varied.[30] Although the contract between the companies may have been irregular, if the second company takes possession thereunder and expends large sums of money on the road to which the directors and stock-holders of the first company do not object, they are estopped from afterward denying the validity of the

23. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 92 Tenn. 681, 22 S. W. 920.

24. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 92 Tenn. 681, 22 S. W. 920.

25. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 92 Tenn. 681, 22 S. W. 920.

26. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 92 Tenn. 681, 22 S. W. 920.

27. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 92 Tenn. 681, 22 S. W. 920.

28. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 92 Tenn. 681, 22 S. W. 920.

29. Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,110, 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 277.

The word "free" in a contract by which one railroad company, for a sufficient consideration, gives to another the "perpetual and free use of the right of way" and where no compensation is claimed until some years afterward, means free from compensation and not merely uninterrupted use. Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 570, 3 So. 286, 5 Am. St. Rep. 401.

Joint interest.—An agreement to permit one railroad company to construct and maintain, at its own expense, a track through another's yard to connect with a side-track of such other, grants a joint interest in that part of the yard to be used by both in the interchange of business and each company has the right to use the connecting track for the purpose of interchanging freight and passengers and transfer of cars from one main track to the other; but neither company has the right to use it for any other purpose without the consent of the other. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky Midland R. Co., 95 Ky. 550, 26 S. W. 532, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 74.

Power to contract.— The provision of N. Y. Const. art. 3, § 18, prohibiting legislation authorizing the "construction or operation of a street railroad," except in the cases specified, is prospective in its operation, and had no reference to or effect upon previously existing laws. Accordingly it was held that said provision did not affect the provision of the Railroad Act of 1839 (Laws (1839), § 1, c. 218), authorizing railroad corporations to contract with other like corporations "for the use of their respective roads;" and that a contract between a railroad company which had acquired the right and had constructed and was operating a road over Atlantic avenue in the city of Brooklyn, and the defendant, by which the latter was authorized to run its trains over the road of the former on said street, was not forbidden by said constitutional provision. People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 75.

30. Augusta, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 96 Ga. 562, 23 S. E. 501 (holding that a license to a company operating a narrow gauge railroad to use a right of way does not authorize the licensee to operate a standard gauge track over the road); Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204.

Side-tracks, etc.—An agreement by which one railroad company acquires the right to run its track over the right of way and track of another company on the grounds of the latter does not authorize the junior company in the absence of express stipulation to lay side-tracks, turnouts, or switches on the right of way or other grounds which the senior company had acquired for use in the discharge of its public duties, as such right in the junior company can be acquired only by mutual agreement between the two com-agreement on the ground of irregularity.[31] Where a railroad company permits its charter to be used for purposes of condemnation of lands for another company's railroad and the latter locates its road, pays and takes title in its own name, the road is the property of the latter company; and if in such case any of the land condemned was paid for by the former company with its own funds which have not been repaid to it, the latter company is bound to refund such amount.[32]

4. Powers and Proceedings of Railroad Commissioners and Other Officers. Under some ordinances or statutes the power of regulating the details of the location and use of the track of one company by another is vested in certain officers or commissioners,[33] such as the power of fixing the rate of compensation to be paid by the second company.[34] Thus under some statutes, if the companies fail to agree upon the location and use of tracks for a right of way of one of the companies by the other, the power to determine such matter is placed in the railroad commissioners,[35] who may also establish reasonable regulations upon which the second company may use the tracks and right of way of the first company.[36]

5. Rights and Remedies of Parties. In a proper case an injunction may be issued to restrain one railroad company from unlawfully interfering with the right of way of another company.[37] Thus where a second company has a right panies. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204.

31. Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437.

32. Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 105.

33. See Atty.-Gen. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 142 Mass. 40, 6 N. E. 854 (construing St. (1881) c. 230; St. (1880) c. 261); Gallagher v. Keating, 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 131, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 366 (construing Charter, §§ 524, 525).

Such regulations must be consistent with the contracts already in existence as to the management of the road, so far as the parties entitled to the benefit of such contracts are concerned. Atty.-Gen. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 142 Mass. 40, 6 N. E. 854.

An ordinance providing for the appointment of arbitrators to determine a controversy arising between any company to which the city may grant the use of the tracks and the railroad company to which the original grant was made gives the arbitrators authority to settle disagreements in matters of detail in which the municipality could have no great concern, except to the extent that the grantees may undertake to act in contravention of the city's interests; and under such an ordinance the city has a right, which cannot be denied, in organizing the board, and the right to be heard before the courts in regard to any management affording ground for complaint. Capdevielle v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 110 La. 904, 34 So. 868.

34. Concord, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 68 N. H. 519, 39 Atl. 1073, construing Laws (1855), c. 1666, § 3; Laws (1858), c. 2125, § 2.

Where referees appointed on notice under N. H. Pub. St. c. 157, § 12, to determine all the unsettled claims relative to the use of the tracks of one railroad company by another and to determine the rates and terms for such use thereafter, report that the second company shall pay a certain rate, but fail to state whether that rate shall take effect from the date of the service of the notice or from the filing of the report, such report is sufficiently uncertain to require its recommitment to the referees for a specific finding on that point, since the determination of the rate to be paid from the time of the service of notice is a matter within the authority of the referees. Concord, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 68 N. H. 519, 39 Atl. 1073.

Where, after the expiration of a judgment on an award fixing the rates of compensation, the parties continue to pay and receive rates as fixed, they will be bound by such rate so long as it is paid and received without objection, but on notice of an objection being served the implied contract existing between the parties is terminated, and the amount to be paid thereafter becomes a matter for legal adjudication under N. H. Pub. St. c. 157, § 12. Concord, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 68 N. H. 519, 39 Atl. 1073.

35. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204 (construing Rev. St. (1881) § 3903, subs. 6); Providence, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 138 Mass. 277.

36. Providence, etc., R. Co. v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 138 Mass. 277.

37. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 67 Iowa 324, 25 N. W. 264 (demurrer to answer overruled); Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Salem, etc., R. Co., 2 Gray (Mass.) 1; Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 232, 28 Atl. 771; Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 28 Tex. Civ. App. 551, 67 S. W. 525.

Laches.— The doctrine that an injunction will not be granted where the complainant has been guilty of laches applies with special force in a case where the construction of a railroad by one railroad company over the land of another railroad company is sought to be restrained by the latter. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 3 Walk. (Pa.) 454.

Defense.— In proceedings by a railroad company which operates a railroad on a cer-

in case of necessity to intrude upon the right of way of another company, the company having a prior right may enjoin intrusion thereon by the company until facts are shown making it necessary for such company to come on the right of way;[38] and in a suit for such injunction the second company may show such necessity and enforce its right to enter upon and use the right of way by a cross bill.[39] But the exercise of a later granted franchise will not be restrained unless its exercise will interfere with or obstruct the actual operation and exercise of the prior franchise;[40] and one railroad company will not be enjoined from constructing its road upon another railroad company's land which is not in actual use.[41] So where a railroad company has lost its right to occupy a certain route by consenting to its use by another road, it will be enjoined from interfering with such use;[42] nor can it afterward enjoin the latter company from using the land within the limits of its right of way.[43] Where several railroad companies agree to connect their termini in a city by a short connecting road and for that purpose organize a new corporation, a preliminary injunction may be granted to restrain such new corporation from declining or refusing to furnish motive power over its whole road to cars arriving over one of such connecting roads,[44] and to restrain one of the connecting companies from hindering or interfering with such performance.[45] But where the facts are in dispute a temporary injunction will not be granted to restrain a company in possession from doing acts which do not work such an injury as cannot be compensated or redressed by final judgment;[46] nor will a temporary injunction be granted in such case on the ground that the company in possession does not possess the franchise claimed.[47] So where the right of one railroad company under a municipal ordinance to use the road of another company within the city limits is doubtful, a court of equity will not grant a preliminary mandatory injunction to compel permission of such use.[48] Ejectment may be maintained by one railroad company to recover possession of a portion of its right of way from another railroad company, which is wrongfully withholding the same,[49] unless it is estopped to enforce such remedy, in which case its remedy is limited to an action to recover compensation therefor.[50] So in a proper case the second company may maintain a bill for specific performance of the deed or grant, under which it claims the right to use the first company's right of way.[51] tain street to enjoin defendant from constructing a railroad on the same street, it is no defense that plaintiff obtained consent to construct its track on the said street by agreeing that it would permit its tracks to be crossed by those of defendant without requiring compensation. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 124 Ala. 162, 26 So. 895.

38. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 17 Fed. 867, 5 McCrary 443. See Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Alling, 99 U. S. 463, 25 L. ed. 438.

39. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 17 Fed. 867, 5 McCrary 443.

40. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 3 Walk. (Pa.) 454.

41. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 3 Walk. (Pa.) 454.

42. Grey v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 60 N. J. Eq. 153, 46 Atl. 636 [reversed in 62 N. J. Eq. 768, 48 Atl. 568, on the ground that the evidence did not establish a loss, by consent, by defendant of the right claimed and that the injunction therefore should be dissolved].

43. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 126 Ind. 513, 26 N. E. 204, holding that where one railroad company has allowed another company to cross its land which was neither acquired nor used by it for any public use, it cannot afterward enjoin the latter company from laying a side-track thereon.

44. Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,110, 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 277.

45. Lathrop v. Junction R. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,110, 9 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 277.

46. Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 13 Hun (N. Y.) 60.

47. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 3 Walk. (Pa.) 454.

48. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas, etc., R. Co., 38 Fed. 58.

49. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. East Alabama R. Co., 75 Ala. 516, 51 Am. Rep. 475; Fresno St. R. Co. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 135 Cal. 202, 67 Pac. 773. And see EJECTMENT, 15 Cyc. 25.

50. Fresno St. R. Co. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 135 Cal. 202, 67 Pac. 773.

51. South Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Highland, Ave., etc., R. Co., 117 Ala. 395, 23 So. 973.

K. Conveyances or Releases by Railroad Company [52] — 1. Power to Make and Validity of Conveyance or Release. A railroad company may be authorized by its charter or governing statute to sell and convey its right of way or other interest in land or a portion thereof; [53] and may be authorized to make such a sale on credit,[54] subject to the power of the courts to control any attempted abuse of the power.[55] But a general authority to convey such real estate as may be necessary and expedient to carry into effect the objects of an incorporation does not authorize a transfer of real estate acquired and held for the exercise of the corporate franchise, without further legislative authority.[56] A railroad company may also be authorized to assign its interest in the right of way,[57] or to dedicate a portion of its land as a public highway.[58] A railroad company may also, within a reasonable time, withdraw from and release to the owner all or such part of its located right of way as is not necessary to the construction, maintenance, and operation of its road; and when this is done the owner has no claim Pleading.—A bill to enforce a provision in deed of a right of way that "any other railroad running into or through the city of B. shall have the right to run a parallel track upon and along the same right of way" need not locate the place on the right of way where complainant seeks to lay its tracks. South Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Highland Ave., etc., R. Co., 117 Ala. 395, 23 So. 973.

52. Conveyance to other railroads of right to use road see supra, V, J, 3.

Sale or transfer of railroad or franchise see infra, VII, A, B.

Effect of consolidation see infra, VII, E, 6, g.

Mortgages by railroad company see infra, VIII, A, 7.

53. People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 62 Ill. 510; Thomson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 626, holding that where a railroad company is authorized to build a bridge, it also has power to sell the bridge. Compare Pratt v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 8 Ont. 499.

Under Ala. Code (1869), § 1170, providing that a railroad company may lease or purchase any part of any railroad constructed by any other company if its line be contiguous or connecting, a railroad company is authorized to convey to a connecting railroad company land acquired by the former for a right of way. Coyne v. Warrior Southern R. Co., 137 Ala. 553, 34 So. 1004.

A railroad company organized in Ohio may acquire title to land within the state for railroad purposes either by grant or proceedings in appropriation, and when the right of way is thus acquired and the company has constructed its road thereon, the same becomes such an interest in lands that without intent to abandon the same the company may sell to another company for like railroad purpose all or a part of the premises so acquired. Garlick v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 67 Ohio St. 223, 65 N. E. 896.

A right of way in an alley granted to a railroad company may be transferred by the company, although it has never used such alley for railroad purposes. Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 113 Iowa 561, 85 N. W. 902.

A statutory power to directors of a railroad company to transact all the business of the company and sell and convey real property with the right to complete a portion of the road and elect between different routes and termini authorizes them to sell a portion of the right of way in satisfaction of a mortgage debt. Donner v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 1 Cinc. Super. Ct. (Ohio) 130.

Specific performance of a contract to convey railroad property subject to mortgage and distribution of proceeds see Long Dock Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1887) 9 Atl. 194.

54. People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 62 Ill. 510, holding that under Sess. Laws (1854), c. 192, authorizing the Illinois Central Railroad Company to dispose of its land for such credit as it might deem expedient, a reasonable discretion was granted the company, and the credit could not be so extended as to postpone to an indefinite time the date of payment, nor should the price be so regulated as to prevent or unreasonably retard sales.

Under an authority to sell on credit the company should not permit purchasers to retain the purchase-money after maturity to evade the law or with a view of relief from taxation, but should use all usual and reasonable efforts to enforce collections without unnecessary harassment or rigorous oppression of the debtor (People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 62 Ill. 510); but an ordinary delay, not intended to further any bad or unlawful purpose, will not afford sufficient ground for awarding a writ of mandamus (People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra).

55. People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 62 Ill. 510.

56. Kean v. Johnson, 9 N. J. Eq. 401; Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

57. Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 9 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 394, 48 Am. Dec. 719.

58. People v. Eel River, etc., R. Co., 98 Cal. 665, 33 Pac. 728. And see, generally, Dedication, 13 Cyc. 449.

Where there is nothing in their charters to forbid it, railroad companies have power in connection with the owners in fee to dedicate for a public highway lands taken by them under their charters. Green v. Canaan, 29 Conn. 157.

against the company for the land so released.[59] Where a railroad charter provides that certain lands granted to it shall be sold at public auction, such sale may be enforced by mandamus.[60]

2. Title and Rights of Purchasers. A purchaser of railroad land under a valid conveyance acquires such title or interest as the company is capable of transferring, and which the conveyance was intended to transfer.[61] A grant and demise by one railroad corporation of all its property, real and personal, with all its privileges and franchises, to another, in perpetuity, is equivalent to an absolute conveyance.[62] In the absence of a statutory provision making a conveyance of real estate to a railroad company in excess of the amount allowed by law void, the company may convey an indefeasible title thereto to another.[63]

3. Reservation of Right of Way in Conveyance of Land. Where a conveyance of lands by a railroad company contains a reservation of a right of way, the construction and operation of the same must be determined from the entire instrument and other contemporaneous contracts which are a part of the same transaction, and viewed in the light of the surrounding facts and circumstances existing at the time the conveyance was made;[64] and this rule applies to a reservation for a branch railroad,[65] or of the use of certain track and depot facilities.[66] Such a reservation may operate in favor of companies or persons who have existing rights in the property at the time the conveyance is made;[67] but not in favor of a company or person who has no present right, legal or equitable, to the part

59. Flaten v. Moorhead City, 58 Minn. 324, 59 N. W. 1044; Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916.

A deed without reservation, to the owner of the land, operates as such a release. Flaten v. Moorhead City, 58 Minn. 324, 59 N. W. 1044.

60. People v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 62 Ill. 510, holding that where a provision in the charter of a railroad company directing that all lands remaining unsold at the expiration of a certain period from the completion of the road and its branches shall be offered at public sales annually until the whole is disposed of imposes a duty in such vague and general terms that the court will not enforce it by mandamus without further legislation; but if the legislature should prescribe the terms of sale, and the mode in which it should be conducted, not inconsistent with the rights of the company, and make the direction plain and definite, the court would then act upon its requirements and enforce them.

61. See Chamberlain v. Northeastern R. Co., 41 S. C. 399, 19 S. E. 743, 996, 44 Am. St. Rep. 717, 25 L. R. A. 139.

A deed by a railroad company of land purchased by it in fee for a right of way is not void until so declared in a proceeding by the state, although the company has abandoned its purpose of using the land for a railroad. Chamberlain v. Northeastern R. Co., 41 S. C. 399, 19 S. E. 743, 996, 44 Am. St. Rep. 717, 25 L. R. A. 139.

The lack of congressional authority in a successive grantee of a railroad right of way lying in the District of Columbia to extend its lines into that district does not affect its title if the original grantor had such authority. Chesapeake Beach R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 199 U. S. 247, 26 S. Ct. 25, 50 L. ed. 175 [affirming 23 App. Cas. (D. C.) 587].

62. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Boyd, 118 Ill. 73, 7 N. E. 487.

63. Fayette Land Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 93 Va. 274, 24 S. E. 1016, holding that Code (1887), § 1073, limiting the quantity of land to be held by railroads does not render void a conveyance in excess of such quantity, and that the company may, before proceedings are instituted by the state to revoke its privileges, convey an indefeasible title to another.

64. See Grennan v. McGregor, 78 Cal. 258, 20 Pac. 559; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 85 Ill. 211; St. Paul Union Depot Co. v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 320, 29 N. W. 140; Dunstan v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 2 N. D. 46, 49 N. W. 426 (holding that a reservation reserving and excepting a strip extending through the land conveyed, of a certain width on each side of the center line of the road or any of its branches, to be used for a right of way, covers one such strip only, and under such reservation the railroad company cannot claim a right of way both for its main line and branch line over the tract so conveyed); Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211.

65. Grennan v. McGregor, 78 Cal. 258, 20 Pac. 559; Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211, holding that where a charter of a railroad company empowers it to construct only one specified branch road, another road incorporated under the laws of a different state, although constructed and operated by the first road, is not a branch of such road within the meaning of such a reservation.

66. St. Paul Union Depot Co. v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 320, 29 N. W. 140.

67. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 85 Ill. 211.

reserved.[68] Where the reservation is merely of a right of way or easement in the land, the title to all the land conveyed vests in the grantee by virtue of the deed.[69]

L. Loss, Abandonment, or Forfeiture of Land or Rights[70] — 1. In General. A railroad company's easement in its right of way or other land may be lost by abandonment or surrendered;[71] but where the land is conveyed to the railroad company in fee its title thereto is not lost by non-user or abandonment,[72] and damages for the right of way over the same cannot be recovered by one claiming title thereto by reversion on the ground of non-user.[73] That a railroad company has not completed its road within the time limited by its charter does not as to third persons affect its title to land acquired for a right of way, since only the state can take advantage of the default.[74] In the absence of statute otherwise, land acquired by a railroad company for a right of way or station purposes may also be lost by adverse possession.[75]

2. What Constitutes Abandonment. As a general rule, in order to constitute an abandonment of an easement in a right of way by a railroad company there must be a non-user accompanied by unequivocal and decisive acts on the part of the company, clearly showing an intention to abandon;[76] as where the non-

68. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 85 Ill. 211; Carlson v. Duluth Short-Line R. Co., 38 Minn. 305, 37 N. W. 341; Dunstan v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 2 N. D. 46, 49 N. W. 426.

69. Biles v. Tacoma, etc., R. Co., 5 Wash. 509, 32 Pac. 211.

70. Forfeiture of charter or franchise in general see supra, II, J, 2.

Breach of conditions and liability for damages therefor see supra, V, G.

Abandonment of rights acquired by the exercise of the power of eminent domain see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 1026 et seq.

71. McLemore v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 111 Tenn. 639, 69 S. W. 338.

72. Watkins v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 123 Iowa 390, 98 N. W. 910; Enfield Mfg. Co. v. Ward, 190 Mass. 314, 76 N. E. 1053.

73. Watkins v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 123 Iowa 390, 98 N. W. 910.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 153 Ill. 307, 38 N. E. 1062; Grand Junction R. Co. v. Midland R. Co., 7 Ont. App. 681.

75. See Maney v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 283, 37 N. E. 164. And see, generally, Adverse Possession, 1 Cyc. 1120, 1121.

Twenty years' uninterrupted, open, adverse, and exclusive possession of a portion of a railroad company's right of way by a party claiming to own the same bars the right of the company therein. Donahue v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 165 Ill. 640, 46 N. E. 714.

Possession not adverse.— The building on a railroad company's right of way of structures, which as used do not interfere with the use of the portion needed for the right of way, does not amount to such adverse possession as will defeat the company's rights under a contract by the original owner to convey it, or stop the running of limitations based on possession thereunder in its favor. Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 185 Ill. 154, 56 N. E. 1050. So where a railroad company fails to enter on and occupy the premises and the grantor fences up the property and remains in undisturbed possession thereof for over seven years, the grantor's possession is not adverse to the company so as to terminate its title. Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. Crow, 108 Tenn. 17, 64 S. W. 485. Where a deed to a company of a right of way reserves to the grantor a license to cultivate the outside twenty feet of the part conveyed, a subsequent occupation of such twenty feet by the owner of the adjoining property, in the absence of any showing to the contrary, will be presumed to be under the deed, and cannot therefore ripen into title by adverse possession. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wood, 30 Ind. App. 650, 66 N. E. 923.

Under N. C. Revisal (1905), § 388 (Rev. Code, c. 65, § 23), providing that no railroad company shall be barred of or presumed to have conveyed any right of way which may have been condemned or otherwise obtained by any statute of limitation, or by any occupation of the same by any person, the possession by individuals of land covered by a railroad right of way cannot operate as a bar to or be the basis for any presumption of abandonment by the railroad company of its right of way. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Oliver, 142 N. C. 257, 55 S. E. 263.

76. Illinois.— Stannard v. Aurora, etc., R. Co., 220 Ill. 469, 77 N. E. 254; Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 190 Ill. 320, 60 N. E. 515, 52 L. R. A. 645; Durfee v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 140 Ill. 435, 30 N. E. 686.

Massachusetts.— Enfield Mfg. Co. v. Ward, 190 Mass. 314, 76 N. E. 1053.

Michigan.— Jones v. Van Bochove, 103 Mich. 98, 61 N. W. 342.

Missouri.— Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 129 Mo. 62, 31 S. W. 451; Roanoke Inv. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 50, 17 S. W. 1000; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bradbury, 106 Mo. App. 450, 79 S. W. 966.

New York.—Roby v. New York Cent., etc., user is accompanied by acts which destroy the object for which the easement was created or the means of its enjoyment;[77] where the non-user is accompanied by adverse possession by the owner of the fee or others claiming under him;[78] or where the non-user is continued for a long time with no evidence of any intention to resume in the future.[79] But mere non-user or failure to occupy a right of way without other circumstances to show an abandonment or failure of the purpose for which the way was granted does not operate to divest the right of the railroad company to the easement;[80] and in the absence of statute, mere

R. Co., 142 N. Y. 176, 36 N. E. 1053 [reversing 65 Hun 532, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 551]; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Oswego, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 551, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1027.

North Carolina.— Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913.

United States.— Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 101 Fed. 757, 42 C. C. A. 570.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 214.

That the trustees of a railroad pay no taxes on certain land belonging to the company, and do not know of its existence, and pay no attention to it, does not tend to prove an abandonment of such land by them or by the railroad company. Enfield Mfg. Co. v. Ward, 190 Mass. 314, 76 N. E. 1053.

77. Jones v. Van Bochove, 103 Mich. 98, 61 N. W. 342 (holding that evidence that a railroad was taken up, the rails and ties removed, fences taken away and a bridge which crossed an intersecting river torn down, all with a view of abandonment, is sufficient to show abandonment); Spring Brook R. Co. v. Spring Brook Water-Supply Co., 3 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 90.

That a railroad company "ceased permanently" to use a right of way within the meaning of a grant may be shown by evidence that the right of way for a spur track to a coal mine was obtained for the railroad by the mine owners and that the mining was abandoned and that the right of way had not since been used for railroad purposes. McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 646, 57 N. W. 594.

78. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Benedict, 169 Mass. 262, 47 N. E. 1027; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Frowein, 163 Mo. 1, 63 S. W. 500; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 129 Mo. 62, 31 S. W. 451; Roanoke Inv. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 50, 17 S. W. 1000; Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913.

79. Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 142 N. Y. 176, 36 N. E. 1053 [reversing 65 Hun 532, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 551]; Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 101 Fed. 757, 42 C. C. A. 570.

Withdrawal from the use of the premises persisted in for many years, with no evidence of an intention to resume in the future, or a motive to do so, is sufficient to prove an abandonment notwithstanding the company had obtained possession of a portion of the premises and had not intended to give up its possession thereof. Guss v. West Chester R. Co., 1 Chest. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 363.

80. Arkansas.— Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Humphreys, 65 Ark. 631, 48 S. W. 86.

Illinois.— Durfee v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 140 Ill. 435, 30 N. E. 686.

Iowa.— McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 646, 57 N. W. 594; Barlow v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 29 Iowa 276.

Michigan.— Jones v. Van Bochove, 103 Mich. 98, 61 N. W. 342.

Minnesota.— Gurney v. Minneapolis Union Elevator Co., 63 Minn. 70, 65 N. W. 336, 30 L. R. A. 534.

Missouri.— Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 129 Mo. 62, 31 S. W. 451; Roanoke Inv. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 50, 17 S. W. 1000.

New York.— Conabeer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 474, 51 N. E. 402 [affirming 84 Hun 34, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 6] (holding that a railroad company's mere failure to immediately use a grant for a right of way to its full extent is not a waiver or abandonment thereof); Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 142 N. Y. 176, 36 N. E. 1053 [reversing 65 Hun 532, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 551].

North Carolina.— Beattie v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 108 N. C. 425, 12 S. E. 913; Purifoy v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 100, 12 S. E. 741; Carolina Cent. R. Co. v. McCaskill, 94 N. C. 746.

Pennsylvania.— Hummel v. Cumberland Valley R. Co., 175 Pa. St. 537, 34 Atl. 848, holding that no abandonment of land appropriated by a railroad company for a right of way will be presumed from a non-user at the time of taking.

Vermont.— Rutland R. Co. v. Chaffee, 71 Vt. 84, 42 Atl. 984, 48 Atl. 699.

United States.— Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 101 Fed. 757, 42 C. C. A. 570.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 214.

Illustrations.— Thus a railroad company has been held not to abandon its right of way by reason of non-user because of the construction of its track over another route, where it appears that such construction was necessitated by its inability to obtain possession of the right of way in dispute and was temporary only and without any intention to abandon its rights which were in litigation. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 153 Fed. 122, 82 C. C. A. 256. So where a conveyance to the company provided that the grantor should have the right to use any portion of the land not required by the grantee for railroad purposes, the grantor to yield possession when the land might be non-user for any length of time will not work an abandonment.[81] Nor is an abandonment created by the use of the right of way for an unauthorized purpose,[82] or by excessive use or misuse.[83] If the non-user is permanent, that is, without an intention to resume the use, it will constitute an abandonment without regard to the length of time the right of way has not been used.[84] Under some statutes a non-user for a specified period constitutes an abandonment regardless of the intention of the railroad company.[85]

3. Loss or Forfeiture For Breach of Conditions in Private Grant. A railroad company's easement in a certain piece or strip of land may also be lost or forfeited, and the land revert to the owner, by reason of the company's failure to comply with certain conditions subsequent contained in the grant or donation of the land,[86] as by abandoning the use of the land for the purposes for which it needed by the company, a failure by the company for forty years thereafter to inclose, improve, or occupy a part of such land does not affect its rights in the land. King v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 90 Va. 210, 17 S. E. 868. So where a deed reserves to the grantor a license to cultivate the outside twenty feet of the land conveyed, the fact that the railroad company erected a fence excluding such twenty feet does not constitute an abandonment of such strip. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wood, 30 Ind. App. 650, 66 N. E. 923.

Mere non-user for a period of five years of a portion of a strip of land over which a railroad company has laid its tracks by reason of obstructions caused by a landslide, the remaining part being used by it for storing cars, is not an abandonment of its easement in the strip. Scarritt v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 148 Mo. 676, 50 S. W. 905.

Where a grant of a right to build on a certain street is unconditional as to time, and for fourteen years such right of way for a distance of a block and a half is entirely unused, such delay will not necessarily and as a matter of law constitute an abandonment. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 96 Tex. 233, 72 S. W. 161 [affirming 30 Tex. Civ. App. 474, 72 S. W. 201].

Ceasing to operate trains.—A railroad company does not abandon the land on which it has constructed its track so as to entitle the owner to revoke its license by ceasing to operate freight or passenger trains over it, where it continues to use it for purposes incident to and connected with its business in operating the road. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Sweatt, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 543, 50 S. W. 162.

The mere non-user of the entire width of the right of way does not cause the unused part to revert to the public, even though the public are allowed by the company to use it as a thoroughfare. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Freeport, 138 Pa. St. 91, 20 Atl. 940.

A slight deflection from the route as specified and a failure to occupy a few feet of the specified land granted is not an abandonment. Dickson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 168 Mo. 90, 67 S. W. 642.

81. McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 646, 57 N. W. 594; Conabeer v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 474, 51 N. E. 402 [affirming 84 Hun 34, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 6].

82. Gurney v. Minneapolis Union Elevator Co., 63 Minn. 70, 65 N. W. 336, 30 L. R. A. 534; Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 142 N. Y. 176, 36 N. E. 1053 [reversing 65 Hun 532, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 551].

83. Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 142 N. Y. 176, 36 N. E. 1053 [reversing 65 Hun 532, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 551].

84. McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 646, 57 N. W. 594.

85. See New York, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 196; Gill v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 117 Iowa 278, 90 N. W. 606; McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 646, 57 N. Y. 594; and the statutes of the several states.

Under Iowa Code (1873), § 1260, if the right of way shall not be used or operated for a period of eight years the land shall revert (Fernow v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 75 Iowa 526, 39 N. W. 869); but nothing less than non-user for eight years will entitle the owner to take possession, and at any time within the eight years the railroad company may reënter upon the right of way for the purpose of rebuilding its road (Fernow v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra). And so where a railroad company acquires the right to lay its tracks in an alley and also purchases a right of way adjoining thereto on which it lays its tracks but does not use the alley for tracks for over eight years, such non-user does not constitute an abandonment of the right of way in the alley within the meaning of such statute. Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 113 Iowa 561, 85 N. W. 902.

86. Roanoke Inv. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 50, 17 S. W. 1000; Munkers v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 334; Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 729, 57 S. E. 523; McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 721, 57 S. E. 520, holding that where land is conveyed as a right of way upon the condition that it shall revert if the company shall fail for five years to construct a line of railroad over the ground, the grant is forfeited by such failure.

A conveyance for railroad purposes will not was granted,[87] or by failing to comply with a condition providing for a reversion in the case railroad company fails to erect and maintain a depot on the premises,[88] or to use the property for other terminal purposes.[89] But where the property has been dedicated as a right of way by the owner, he cannot declare it forfeited for failure to comply with a condition subsequent,[90] although such breach of condition will give him a right of action for damages.[91] So an agree-be set aside for non-performance where it appears that the land has continually been used for such purposes. Noyes v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., (Ill. 1889) 21 N. E. 487.

Construction.—Conditions subsequent, especially when relied on to work a forfeiture, must be created by express terms or clear implication, and are to be construed strictly against a forfeiture which is not favored in law. Conditions providing for a forfeiture are to be construed liberally in favor of the holder of the estate, and strictly against an enforcement of the forfeiture. Behlow v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 130 Cal. 16, 62 Pac. 295.

Where a lease of land to a railroad company "so long as the same shall be used for railroad purposes" recites that the company "is now engaged in altering and improving the railroad depot" "for the purpose of more conveniently transacting the business of said company, and for the better accommodation of the public," the lease continues so long only as the land is used for "public" railroad purposes, and upon a conveyance of the land by the company to an individual and the use of it for private railroad purposes the lessor's successor in title may recover it. Kugel v. Painter, 166 Pa. St. 592, 31 Atl. 338.

The proviso in section 4 of the act of March 3, 1875 (18 U. S. St. at L. 482 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 1569]), granting right of way over the public lands to railroad companies, that, "if any section of said road shall not be completed within five years after the location of said section, the rights herein granted shall be forfeited as to any such uncompleted section of said road," is a condition subsequent, and the failure to complete the road within the time limited does not operate ipso facto as a revocation of the grant, but merely authorizes the government to forfeit it by judicial proceedings or by an act of congress resuming title to the lands. Utah, etc., R. Co. v. Utah, etc., R. Co., 110 Fed. 879.

87. McClain v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Iowa 646, 57 N. W. 594 (holding that Code, § 1260, providing that eight years' non-user of a railroad right of way shall work a reversion does not effect forfeiture for abandonment of use in accordance with the conditions of the deed); Harrison v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 470 (holding, however, that where land is conveyed to a railroad company on the condition that the land shall revert to the grantor on the abandonment of the road and the road is sold under mortgages to the state, and by the state and by new companies chartered for the purpose it is carried forward to completion, the grantor is not entitled to a reconveyance of his land as for an abandonment); Roanoke Inv. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 50, 17 S. W. 1000.

A suspension of the use of the land for a railroad purpose does not ipso facto work a forfeiture under a conveyance which provides that the land is to be held for the uses and purposes of a railroad and no other purpose, since the deed merely defines the use. Buttery v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 14 N. Y. St. 131.

88. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Birnie, 59 Ark. 66, 26 S. W. 528; Jeffersonville, etc., R. Co. v. Barbour, 89 Ind. 375; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Hood, 66 Ind. 580; Owensboro, etc., R. Co. v. Griffith, 92 Ky. 137, 17 S. W. 277; Horner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Wis. 165.

Illustrations.—Thus on the removal of a depot from a lot, conveyed to a railroad company "in consideration of the permanent location and construction of the depot," the lot reverts to the grantor. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Hood, 66 Ind. 580. So where a conveyance contains the proviso that a depot shall be permanently located within a certain distance of a certain place, the failure of the company to locate the depot within such distance has the effect of defeating the estate vested by the deed. Taylor v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 25 Iowa 371. So where a conveyance contains an express condition that the land granted shall be used as a passenger station and shall revert when it shall cease to be so used, a lease, after maintaining the station for a while, to another railroad company which has a station some distance away on other land, which uses that station and abandons that on the land conveyed, constitutes a breach of the condition, and causes the land to revert to the grantor. Howell v. Long Island R. Co., 37 Hun (N. Y.) 381. But where a deed conveys one parcel of land "only for depot and other railroad purposes" and another parcel adjoining the former "for a railroad" the first condition named in the deed has no application to the second parcel of land described, and the railroad company having constructed and maintained a railroad on such second parcel, its failure to use the first parcel for railroad purposes does not work a forfeiture of the second parcel. Horner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Wis. 165.

89. Chute v. Washburn, 44 Minn. 312, 46 N. W. 555.

90. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Sutor, 56 Tex. 496.

91. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Sutor, 56 Tex. 496.

ment under which a railroad company acquires a grant of a right of way and whereby it agrees to pay without litigation for all stock of the grantor killed by it does not forfeit the grant for a failure to comply with such an agreement, where there is no condition therein that the right of way shall revert to the grantor in case of such non-compliance.[92] Ordinarily a breach of a condition subsequent in a deed to a railroad company can be taken advantage of to enforce a forfeiture only by the grantor, his heirs or devisees,[93] and not by a subsequent grantee of other lands from the original owner.[94]

4. Revocation or Forfeiture of Grant of Rights in Highways or Public Places. As a general rule a legislative or municipal grant to a railroad company of the right to use a public street or highway for railroad purposes is a franchise and as such cannot be revoked by the municipality,[95] after the grant is accepted,[96] at least not without reasonable notice to the company;[97] unless there is a constitutional or statutory provision prohibiting irrevocable grants of such privileges,[98] or unless authority to make such revocation is reserved by ordinance or statute.[99] In the absence of such authority, the fact that the manner in which the road is operated constitutes a public nuisance does not authorize a municipality to terminate the rights of the railroad company and compel the removal of its tracks as a means of abating the nuisance.[1] But the failure of the railroad company to comply with certain conditions in the grant may operate as a forfeiture of the franchise or privilege,[2] as where the estate granted is limited to exist so long

92. Beaumont Pasture Co. v. Sabine, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 543.

93. Waggoner v. Wabash R. Co., 185 Ill. 154, 56 N. E. 1050; Boone v. Clark, 129 Ill. 466, 21 N. E. 850, 5 L. R. A. 276.

94. Boone v. Clark, 129 Ill. 466, 21 N. E. 850, 5 L. R. A. 276. But see Reichenbach v. Washington Short Line R. Co., 10 Wash. 357, 38 Pac. 1126.

95. Alabama.— Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342.

California.— Workman v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 129 Cal. 536, 62 Pac. 185, 316 (holding that an ordinance granting a right of way over a street to a railroad company which contains no limitation of time for the completion of a double track is not to be construed as a revocable license for such completion, on the ground that a single track was first completed and used under the ordinance); Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 92 Cal. 639, 28 Pac. 676.

Louisiana.— Alexandria v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 109 La. 50, 33 So. 65, holding that a city which has granted a right of way over its streets to a railroad company has no power to adjudge a breach of the grant and deprive a railroad company of its vested rights by forfeiture, such power being judicial.

New York.— Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 65 Hun 464, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 448.

Wisconsin.— Sinnott v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 81 Wis. 95, 50 N. W. 1097.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minnesota Cent. R. Co., 14 Fed. 525, 4 McCrary 606.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 216. And see, generally, Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 889 et seq.

96. Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 92 Cal. 639, 28 Pac. 676; East St. Louis Union R. Co. v. East St. Louis, 39 Ill. App. 398; Rio Grande R. Co. v. Brownsville, 45 Tex. 88.

97. Alexandria v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 109 La. 50, 33 So. 65; Sinnott v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 81 Wis. 95, 50 N. W. 1097, holding that where a company has laid its tracks in a city street as authorized by Laws (1872), c. 119, § 11, subd. 5, and has continuously used them for eighteen years, an order of the board of public works requiring their removal on twenty-five days' notice is beyond the authority of the board, although Laws (1874), c. 184, passed after the construction of the tracks, empowers the city council to "direct and control railroad tracks" within the city.

98. See Mobile v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 115, 4 So. 106, 5 Am. St. Rep. 342.

99. Medford, etc., R. Co. v. Somerville, 111 Mass. 232 (under St. (1864) c. 229, § 15); Troy v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 49 N. Y. 657; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Oswego, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 551, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1027, holding that where a city grants a railroad company permission to lay its tracks in a certain street, and the resolution contains a condition that the consent may be revoked at the pleasure of the city, and the company lays its tracks by virtue of such permission, the city has a right at any time thereafter to revoke such permission.

1. Chicago v. Union Stock Yards Co., 164 Ill. 224, 45 N. E. 430, 35 L. R. A. 281.

2. Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 92 Cal. 639, 28 Pac. 676; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Galveston, 90 Tex. 398, 39 S. W. 96, 36 L. R. A. 33 [reversing (Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. 27], 91 Tex. 17, 39 S. W. 920 (construing a municipal grant under St. (1895) arts. 4426, 4438); Pacific R. Co. v. Leaven-only as such property shall be used for railroad purposes and the property is not appropriated to such purposes within a reasonable time;[3] and upon such failure or breach the municipality may reënter and take possession of the street and remove the railroad tracks.[4] But such a breach does not ipso facto terminate the company's right of way so as to entitle an abutting owner to maintain an action for damages, as for an unlawful occupation of the street.[5] Where the railroad company acquires its right to use the street directly from the legislature, the fact that it obtains a license from the city to build a track upon a street and that it subsequently tears up the track and surrenders possession to the city does not estop it from asserting its power to build on that street under the legislative grant.[6] The state or municipality only is entitled to enforce such a forfeiture.[7]

5. Rights of Parties or Privies on Abandonment.[8] Where a railroad company having an easement in land for a right of way or other railroad purposes abandons or forfeits the right to the same or a portion thereof, the title and right to the land abandoned or forfeited reverts and entitles a recovery thereof by the grantor,[9] or the then owner of the servient estate;[10] and even where the servient estate has been transferred to another, the abandoned or forfeited land reverts to the original grantor if the deed or grant expressly so provides, or the reversionary interest has not otherwise passed out of such grantor.[11] Under some statutes this reversion takes place without a reconveyance or order of court,[12] upon the owner's retaking possession of the property.[13] If the grantor who is in possession and control of the property in the bona fide belief that the company has abandoned the same conveys it to a bona fide purchaser, the railroad company is estopped worth, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,649, 1 Dill. 393. And see, generally, Municipal Corporations, 28 Cyc. 892.

3. Macon v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 82 Ga. 501, 9 S. E. 1127.

4. Pacific R. Co. v. Leavenworth, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,649, 1 Dill. 393.

5. Knight v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 70 Mo. 231.

6. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315].

7. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 96 Tex. 233, 72 S. W. 161 [affirming 30 Tex. Civ. App. 474, 72 S. W. 201].

8. Enforcement of forfeiture generally see Deeds, 13 Cyc. 709 et seq.

9. Hamel v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 97 Minn. 334, 107 N. W. 139; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Kamper, 88 Miss. 817, 41 So. 513 (holding that where land is conveyed to a railroad company for railroad purposes only and thereafter the company abandons some of the land, the grantor is entitled to recover that part of the land which the company has abandoned); Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 142 N. Y. 176, 36 N. E. 1053 [reversing 65 Hun 532, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 551]; Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 12 N. D. 435, 97 N. W. 538, 102 Am. St. Rep. 572.

10. Roanoke Inv. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 108 Mo. 50, 15 S. W. 1000; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bradbury, 106 Mo. App. 450, 79 S. W. 966; McLemore v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 111 Tenn. 639, 69 S. W. 338.

Such abandonment can only be taken advantage of by the owner of the fee and cannot avail a city which claims the land for public purposes through a dedication made by a lessee of the railroad company. Durham v. Southern R. Co., 121 Fed. 894.

Under Iowa Code (1873), § 2660, providing for the reversion of a railroad right of way to the owner of the tract from which it was taken, an abandoned right of way reverts to him who owns such tract at the time of the reversion, and not to him who owned it when the right of way was taken. Gill v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 117 Iowa 278, 90 N. W. 606 (holding that the right of way reverts to the landowner under a deed to the company providing that the right of way shall revert to the grantor if the railroad company or its assignees cease permanently to use the road or abandon the same); Smith v. Hall, 103 Iowa 95, 72 N. W. 427.

11. Spencer v. Wabash R. Co., 132 Iowa 129, 109 N. W. 453 (holding that where a deed of a railroad right of way expressly provides that if the premises are not used for railroad purposes they shall revert and vest in the grantor of such deed, the fee in such right of way reverts to the grantor on the abandonment of the use by the railroad company, notwithstanding code section 2015, providing that if a railroad shall not be used or operated for eight years, the right of way, including the road-bed, shall revert to the "owner of the land from which said right of way was taken"); McLemore v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 111 Tenn. 639, 69 S. W. 338.

12. Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Rich, 91 Mich. 293, 51 N. W. 1001, construing Laws (1887), No. 275.

13. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Frowein, 163 Mo. 1, 63 S. W. 500; Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 152 U. S. 444, 14 S. Ct. 647, 38 L. ed. 507.

to assert any easement under its deed against such purchaser.[14] A reversion for an abandonment, however, does not take effect until there is an actual abandonment.[15] Where the company's occupation of the land is not illegal, its rails and other structures thereon do not become a part of the realty, and it should have a reasonable time in which to remove them, upon abandonment;[16] and the fact that the landowner has been allowed to take possession of the land embraced in the right of way and hold it for a term of years less than is required to extinguish the company's easement does not imply relinquishment by the company of its right to enter and remove its structures.[17] Under a Texas statute, although the railroad company forfeits its charter by non-construction of the road, its right of way does not revert to the grantors or vest in the state, but constitutes an asset of the company to be administered for the benefit of its creditors and shareholders on dissolution;[18] and another railroad company not connected with the old one has no right to take possession of the unfinished road and hold it as its own property.[19] Where under a contract to convey a strip of land containing a certain number of acres on each side of the right of way, the company so constructs its road as to leave a tract less than that number of acres on one side, it cannot claim an equivalent on the other side for what it has thus voluntarily abandoned.[20]

6. Rights of Successors of Railroad Company. Where a railroad company is not judicially dissolved, although it ceases to do business and its charter rights and privileges are exercised by another company, the latter succeeds to the rights of the former in the right of way.[21]

7. Rights and Remedies of Parties or Persons Interested. Except where there is a statutory provision expressly declaring a forfeiture for a failure to perform certain conditions in a grant,[22] or where the grantor is in possession,[23] no revestiture in the grantor or his heirs takes place until there has been a judicial declaration of the forfeiture in a suit instituted for that purpose,[24] and to cancel the deed

14. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Ziebarth, 6 Ind. App. 228, 33 N. E. 256.

15. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Parke, 42 Pa. St. 31.

Notice of an intention to abandon is not such an abandonment. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Parke, 42 Pa. St. 31.

16. McNair v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 14 N. Y. Suppl. 39. See also Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Parke, 42 Pa. St. 31. But see Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bradbury, 106 Mo. App. 450, 79 S. W. 966.

Stone piers built by a railroad company as part of its road on land over which it has acquired a right of way do not, although firmly imbedded in the earth, become the property of the owner of the land, but may be removed by the company on its abandoning its purpose of completing the road. Wagner v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 22 Ohio St. 563, 10 Am. Rep. 770.

17. Wagner v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 22 Ohio St. 563, 10 Am. Rep. 770.

18. Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 2 Tex. Civ. App. 650, 22 S. W. 107, 23 S. W. 1012, construing Rev. St. arts. 4206, 4278.

19. Sulphur Springs, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 2 Tex. Civ. App. 650, 22 S. W. 107, 23 S. W. 1012.

20. Chidester v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Ill. 87.

21. Davis v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 87 Ala. 633, 6 So. 140.

22. See Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 92 Cal. 639, 28 Pac. 676.

23. Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Frowein, 163 Mo. 1, 63 S. W. 500.

24. Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 92 Cal. 639, 28 Pac. 676; Close v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 64 Iowa 149, 19 N. W. 886; Taylor v Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 25 Iowa 371; Harrison v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., 9 B. Mon. (Ky.) 470.

Parties.— Where a grant by the legislature of a right to use a street for railroad purposes conditioned upon the consent of the city becomes subject to be terminated by reason of non-user, the proper party to reënter or bring suit for the premises is the city whether the limitation to the uses expressed be regarded as a special limitation strictly, or only as a condition subsequent. Macon v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 82 Ga. 501, 9 S. E. 1127.

Pleading.—A complainant in an action to quiet title to land conveyed to a railroad company for railroad purposes for breach of condition cannot invoke a statute providing that lands occupied by a railroad company shall be forfeited to the original owners on failure to operate the road for six months where the complainant has not referred to the act in his complaint or shown any facts under which he can avail himself of such act. Behlow v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 130 Cal. 16, 62 Pac. 295. A complaint for forfeiture of a right of way granted on con-as a cloud on the owner's title.[25] It is not necessary that the grantor should demand compliance with such condition before bringing suit;[26] but in some jurisdictions no action for the recovery of the land can be brought by the grantor until he has made entry upon the land after condition broken, or made claim, if entry is impossible,[27] except where he is already in possession.[28] Ordinarily equity will not interfere to set aside or forfeit a conveyance of a right of way to a railroad company for a breach of a condition subsequent;[29] but in such case the owner of the fee should resort to a court of law to recover the damages to which he is entitled by reason of the breach.[30] But, on the other hand, equity will not relieve against a proper forfeiture where there is no sufficient excuse for the breach or default,[31] and where there is nothing harsh or inequitable in its terms or enforcement.[32] Where there has been an abandonment or breach of conditions subsequent, the landowner may maintain ejectment for the recovery of his land.[33] The owner, dition that the construction of the road be on a line designated, continuous operation of the road when constructed, establishment of stations at certain points and maintenance of the road in good condition, which alleges that the stations were not established, that the road on its completion was not operated continuously or at all, and that it has long since ceased to be operated and has not been kept in good condition but has been allowed to become wholly out of repair, and that there has been a total failure to comply with the conditions, sufficiently states, as against a general demurrer, the completion of the road and breaches of the conditions. Jones v. Los Angeles, etc., R. Co., (Cal. 1894) 37 Pac. 656.

Evidence is admissible in an action by a landowner to recover a right of way for nonuser that the road was originally built to reach certain coal mines which have been abandoned and that the coal company obtained the right of way. Gill v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 117 Iowa 278, 90 N. W. 606.

25. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200, holding also that on such a bill the question whether there has been an abandonment or forfeiture of the grant will be determined.

Pleading.— In an action to quiet title to land deeded to a railroad company on condition that it should revert to the grantors, their heirs and assigns, in case it should cease to be used for railroad purposes, where the complaint shows that the company entered and constructed its track but does not allege that the track had been removed, a general allegation that for four years or more it had ceased to use or occupy it for railroad purposes is insufficient to show a breach of conditions. Mouat v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 16 Wash. 84, 47 Pac. 233.

26. Lyman v. Suburban R. Co., 190 Ill. 320, 60 N. E. 515, 52 L. R. A. 645.

27. Nicoll v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 121 [affirming 12 Barb. 460]; Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 15 S. C. 10; Horner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Wis. 165. See Boone v. Clark, 129 Ill. 466, 21 N. E. 850, 5 L. R. A. 276.

28. Taylor v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 25 Iowa 371; Hannibal, etc., R. Co. v. Frowein, 163 Mo. 1, 63 S. W. 500.

Notice.— Where a railroad right of way is granted under condition that unless the company shall construct a line of railroad within five years the land shall revert without any obligation on the grantor's part to reënter before condition broken and the grantor remains in possession, if on forfeiture the grantors are required to do anything to revest the estate, it is sufficiently done by their notifying the company's contractor not to enter upon the land. Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 729, 57 S. E. 523; McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 721, 57 S. E. 520.

29. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Atkinson, 94 Ga. 780, 21 S. E. 1010 (holding, however, that where a conveyance contains a promise by the company to construct the road and states that the consideration is the benefits expected to accrue to the grantor, such grantor, on the company's failure to build the road and abandonment of the work, is entitled to cancellation of the deed and damages for the injury to his land); Stringer v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 59 Iowa 277, 13 N. W. 308 (holding that a conveyance of a right of way will not be set aside in equity simply because the grantor fails to perform an agreement in the deed to build a fence "before grading is done" where such grantee cannot be placed in statu quo.

Fraud.— The fact that a railroad company represented, when land for a right of way was deeded to it, that it had theretofore located its line of road over the land conveyed and would do certain things in the future, and subsequently abandoned the proposed route, is not ground for the cancellation of the deed in the absence of anything to show that such representations were falsely made. Stannard v. Aurora, etc., R. Co., 220 Ill. 469, 77 N. E. 254.

30. Stannard v. Aurora, etc., R. Co., 220 Ill. 469, 77 N. E. 254. And see supra, V, G, 10, a.

31. Thomas v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 729, 57 S. E. 523; McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 721, 57 S. E. 520.

32. McDowell v. Blue Ridge, etc., R. Co., 144 N. C. 721, 57 S. E. 520; Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 12 N. D. 435, 97 N. W. 538, 102 Am. St. Rep. 572.

33. Alabama.— Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 102 Ala. 224, 14 So. 379.

however, may, by his acts or conduct, waive or estop himself from enforcing a forfeiture,[34] as where he fails to reënter or assert some claim within a reasonable time after the breach of condition,[35] particularly where the railroad company is permitted to use and make valuable improvements on the land after the condition is broken.[36] In an action to enforce an abandonment or forfeiture for a breach of conditions, the question whether there has been such an abandonment or breach is generally for the jury to determine, from the facts of the particular case.[37]

VI. CONSTRUCTION, MAINTENANCE, AND EQUIPMENT.*

A. Authority and Duty of Railroad Company — 1. DUTY TO CONSTRUCT.[38]

A statute or charter which does not expressly require but merely authorizes the construction of a railroad does not impose any positive obligation upon the company to do so,[39] or to complete the entire line authorized after building a part of it,[40] and consequently the railroad company cannot be compelled to do

Mississippi.— Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200.

Missouri.— Ruddick v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. 25, 22 S. W. 499, 38 Am. St. Rep. 570; Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265.

New York.— Ludlow v. New York, etc., R. Co., 12 Barb. 440.

Pennsylvania.— Daubert v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 155 Pa. St. 178, 26 Atl. 108; Guss v. West Chester R. Co., 1 Chest. Co. Rep. 363.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 219.

Compare Hornback v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 20 Ohio St. 81.

Equitable ejectment see Hall v. Clearfield, etc., R. Co., 168 Pa. St. 64, 31 Atl. 940.

Where the execution of a judgment of ejectment against a railroad company will operate harshly and seriously affect public interests, equity may suspend its execution for a period of time sufficient to enable it to prosecute condemnation proceedings. Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 12 N. D. 435, 97 N. W. 538, 102 Am. St. Rep. 572.

34. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ragsdale, 54 Miss. 200; Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265; Griswold v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 12 N. D. 435, 97 N. W. 538, 102 Am. St. Rep. 572 (plaintiff held not to be estopped from asserting his right of possession by an action in the nature of ejectment); Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 15 S. C. 10 (holding that whether the grantor has waived his right to enforce a forfeiture is a question of intention depending upon the facts, and is properly submitted to the jury).

A deed of a right of way to a railroad company given to correct a prior deed therefor and expressly reserving to the grantor all rights under the former deed is not a waiver of an abandonment of the right of way by the company. Gill v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 117 Iowa 278, 90 N. W. 606.

35. Bain v. Parker, 77 Ark. 168, 90 S. W. 1000; Kenner v. American Contract Co., 9 Bush (Ky.) 202.

36. Kenner v. American Contract Co., 9 Bush (Ky.) 202.

37. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 102 Ala. 224, 14 So. 379; Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Birnie, 59 Ark. 66, 26 S. W. 528; Hickox v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 94 Mich. 237, 53 N. W. 1105; Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Sweatt, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 543, 50 S. W. 162.

38. Failure to construct as ground for forfeiture of franchise see supra, II, J, 4.

Duty to operate after construction see infra, X, A.

Accommodations and facilities at stations see infra, X, A, 1, d.

Train service and accommodations see infra, X, A, 1, e.

39. Minnesota.— State v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 40.

New York.— People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295 [affirming 37 Barb. 216].

Virginia.— Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 94 Va. 291, 26 S. E. 943.

United States.— State v. Southern Kansas R. Co., 24 Fed. 179; Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Henning, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,666.

England.— York, etc., R. Co. v. Reg., 1 C. L. R. 119, 1 E. & B. 858, 17 Jur. 630, 22 L. J. Q. B. 225, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 459, 1 Wkly. Rep. 358, 72 E. C. L. 858 [reversing 1 E. & B. 178, 72 E. C. L. 178]; Great Western R. Co. v. Reg., 1 E. & B. 874, 1 Wkly. Rep. 358 note, 72 E. C. L. 874 [reversing 1 E. & B. 253, 72 E. C. L. 253]; Scottish North Eastern R. Co. v. Stewart, 5 Jur. N. S. 607, 3 Macq. H. L. 382, 7 Wkly. Rep. 458; Reg. v. Great Western R. Co., 62 L. J. Q. B. 572, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 572, 9 Reports 127.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 220.

Authority to construct a branch line imposes no obligation upon the railroad company to do so. Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 94 Va. 291, 26 S. E. 943.

40. State v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 40; People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295 [affirming 37 Barb. 216]; York, etc., R. Co. v. Reg., 1 C. L. R. 119, 1 E. & B. 858, 17 Jur. 630, 22 L. J. Q. B. 225, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 459, 1 Wkly. Rep. 358, 72 E. C. L. 858 [reversing 1 E. & B. 178, 72 E. C. L. 178].

In West Virginia under Code (1887), c. 54, § 66, a railroad company chartered under the general law of the state may complete and so,[41] the only result of its failure to do so being a liability to a forfeiture of the rights and franchises conferred.[42] So also a statute authorizing a connection between different railroads for through transportation is permissive and not mandatory.[43] If the railroad company receives a grant of land from the state in consideration of the construction of a particular line of road, its acceptance constitutes a contract on the part of the railroad company which the state is entitled to enforce;[44] but the rule is otherwise where the land was never received and the right to receive it has been forfeited by a failure to construct or complete the road within the time limited,[45] and where the company was merely to receive land in instalments of a certain amount after the completion of any section of the road of a certain length, the completion of a part of the road and the receipt of the land to which it was thereby entitled imposes no obligation upon the company to complete the road, but the failure to do so merely forfeits the right to any further benefits under the grant.[46] The duty of constructing switches or sidings for the benefit of private persons may be imposed by contract.[47]

* By James A. Gwyn.

2. Authority to Construct — a. In General.[48] The right to condemn property for and to construct and operate a railroad is a franchise which can be exercised only by legislative authority.[49] Any conditions precedent to the commencement of the construction prescribed by statute or the charter of the company must be complied with,[50] and it is in some cases required as a prerequisite to the commencement of the work that the full capital stock shall be subscribed and a certain amount paid in or other arrangements made to insure the completion of the road,[51] or that the company shall deposit with the state treasurer a certain sum for each mile of the proposed road, the amount to be refunded in instalments as the work of construction progresses,[52] or that before beginning the operate a part of its road and as to the part so completed and operated retain its corporate existence, franchises, and powers. Wheeling Bridge, etc., R. Co. v. Camden Consol. Oil Co., 35 W. Va. 205, 13 S. E. 369.

41. State v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 40; Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 94 Va. 291, 26 S. E. 943; York, etc., R. Co. v. Reg., 1 C. L. R. 119, 1 E. & B. 858, 17 Jur. 630, 22 L. J. Q. B. 225, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 459, 1 Wkly. Rep. 358, 72 E. C. L. 858 [reversing 1 E. & B. 178, 72 E. C. L. 178]; Great Western R. Co. v. Reg., 1 E. & B. 874, 1 Wkly. Rep. 358 note, 72 E. C. L. 874 [reversing 1 E. & B. 253, 72 E. C. L. 253].

42. People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 24 N. Y. 261, 82 Am. Dec. 295 [affirming 37 Barb. 216]; Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Henning, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,666.

Forfeiture of franchise for failure to construct or complete road see supra, II, J, 4.

43. Richmond v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 33 Iowa 422.

44. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Henning, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,666.

45. Kansas v. Southern Kansas R. Co., 24 Fed. 179.

46. State v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 40; Kansas v. Southern Kansas R. Co., 24 Fed. 179.

47. Greene v. West Cheshire R. Co., L. R. 13 Eq. 44, 41 L. J. Ch. 17, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 409, 20 Wkly. Rep. 54.

Extent of duty.—An agreement to construct and maintain a siding does not bind the company to construct sheds or to keep one of its servants in attendance at the siding. Lytton v. Great Northern R. Co., 2 Jur. N. S. 436, 2 Kay & J. 394, 4 Wkly. Rep. 441, 69 Eng. Reprint 836.

Specific performance of contract see infra, VI, A, 4.

48. Right to construct lateral branch roads see supra, IV, B, 2, a.

49. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 95 Ill. 571; Blake v. Winona, etc., R. Co., 19 Minn. 418, 18 Am. Rep. 345. See also, generally, Franchises, 19 Cyc. 1459.

50. Astor v. New York Arcade R. Co., 48 Hun (N. Y.) 562, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 174 [affirmed in 113 N. Y. 93, 20 N. E. 594, 2 L. R. A. 789]; Bailey v. New York Arcade R. Co., 1 N. Y. Suppl. 304.

51. Astor v. New York Arcade R. Co., 48 Hun (N. Y.) 562, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 174 [affirmed in 113 N. Y. 93, 20 N. E. 594, 2 L. R. A. 789]; Bailey v. New York Arcade R. Co., 1 N. Y. Suppl. 304.

Condition dependent upon mode of construction.— Where a company has been authorized to construct a railroad and is afterward authorized by statute to construct it in sections of five miles each, provided it shall not commence the construction of any portion within a certain distance of one of its termini until all the stock is subscribed for and a certain proportion paid in, it is not obliged to have the stock subscribed for and such amount paid in as a condition precedent to constructing the whole road not in sections as authorized by the latter statute. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Midland R. Co., 1 Gray (Mass.) 340.

52. Wilson v. Swain, 60 N. J. L. 115, 36

work of construction it shall be determined by some tribunal designated for that purpose whether the public convenience and necessity require the construction of the proposed road.[53]

b. Switches and Sidings.[54] A railroad company may construct switches or side-tracks for the purpose of facilitating its operation upon any land which it may own or acquire the legal consent of the owner to use for such purpose if no public interest or private right is affected thereby,[55] and legislative authority to construct a railroad includes the right to construct such turnouts, sidings, and switches as are incident to the convenient and proper operation of the road.[56]

3. Time For Commencement or Completion of Construction — a. In General. In some cases there are statutory or charter provisions limiting the time within which the railroad company must begin or complete the construction of its road,[57] or requiring that it shall complete a certain number of miles each year;[58] and where the time for completion is so limited the company has no absolute right to extend its road beyond the point completed at the expiration of such time,[59] while under some of the statutes a failure to begin or complete the road within the time limited works a forfeiture of the corporate powers and franchises of the

Atl. 778, holding that a failure of the state treasurer to repay money so deposited in compliance with the New Jersey statute of 1879, upon proof that an equal sum has been expended in the construction of the road, is not excused by the fact that other persons claim a right to or interest in the deposit and that the duty being purely ministerial may be enforced by mandamus.

53. Milford, etc., R. Co.'s Petition, 68 N. H. 570, 36 Atl. 545; People v. Railroad Com'rs, 160 N. Y. 202, 54 N. E. 697 [affirming 40 N. Y. App. Div. 559, 58 N. Y. Suppl. 94]; Matter of Amsterdam, etc., R. Co., 86 Hun (N. Y.) 578, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 1009.

Determination as to necessity for road see supra, I, B, 2.

54. Lateral or branch roads as distinguished from switches and sidings see supra, IV, B, 2, a.

55. Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.

56. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 149 Ill. 272, 37 N. E. 91; Black v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 249; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 54 Pa. St. 103.

Time for construction see infra, VI, A, 3, b.

What constitutes side-track.—A track connecting the road of one railroad company with that of another for the purpose of exercising a right of passage over the latter road as secured by a lease is not a branch line, but merely a side-track, the construction of which is included in the general power to build a road. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 149 Ill. 272, 37 N. E. 91.

Necessity for landowner's consent or condemnation.— Where the location of the proposed railroad is not definitely described upon the map filed or in the instrument executed by the property-owner conveying a right of way, the track as established at the time the grant is made is unchangeable and the company has no power to build additional tracks, switches, or sidings without the property-owner's consent or condemnation proceedings. Stephens v. New York, etc., R. Co., 175 N. Y. 72, 67 N. E. 119.

57. See the statutes of the several states; and the following cases:

California.— Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 92 Cal. 639, 28 Pac. 676.

Connecticut.—Danbury, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 22 Conn. 435.

Maine.— Peavey v. Calais R. Co., 30 Me. 498.

New Jersey.— State v. Bergen Neck R. Co., 53 N. J. L. 108, 20 Atl. 762.

New York.— Farnham v. Benedict, 107 N. Y. 159, 13 N. E. 784 [reversing 39 Hun 22].

Canada.— Ontario, etc., R. Co. v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 14 Ont. 432.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 223.

Statute construed.—A statutory provision that if the company shall not expend a certain amount of money upon the road within two years or if it shall not complete the road within four years, the rights, privileges, and powers of the company shall be null and void, is not an alternative requirement but requires that the company shall both expend the sum stated and complete the road within the periods respectively provided therefor. Danbury, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 22 Conn. 435.

If there is a bona fide beginning of the work of construction it is sufficient, although the company, owing to financial reasons but without any intention of abandoning the road, subsequently suspends work on its construction. Ontario, etc., R. Co. v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 14 Ont. 432.

58. Madera R. Co. v. Raymond Granite Co., 3 Cal. App. 668, 87 Pac. 27, holding, however, that the California statute requiring that every railroad company after commencing construction shall complete five miles of road each year or forfeit the right to extend the road beyond the point then completed does not limit the right to construct a road to one not less than five miles in length.

59. Peavey v. Calais R. Co., 30 Me. 498.

company.[60] The time specified by a statute or charter for the commencement or completion of a railroad is not, however, irrevocable, but the legislature and the railroad company may by mutual consent change it at any time,[61] or the legislature may grant an extension of time;[62] but a statute granting an extension of time for the completion of any railroad not finished within the time originally limited does not extend the time originally limited for the commencement of its construction,[63] or have the effect of reviving a company whose corporate powers have already been forfeited at the time of the enactment of the statute,[64] nor does a general statute extending the time for the construction of railroads already in default apply so as to extend the time for constructing a railroad not then in default.[65] A contract between a railroad company and a landowner, by which the railroad company agrees to construct a bridge over its road at a certain point within a certain time after the completion of the road, imposes no obligation upon the company to complete the road within any particular time or within a reasonable time.[66]

b. Switches, Sidings, Branches, and Extensions. Statutory or charter provisions limiting the time for the construction of a railroad do not apply to the construction of sidings and switches;[67] but if the company has constructed its

60. Farnham v. Benedict, 107 N. Y. 159, 13 N. E. 784 [reversing 39 Hun 22].

Forfeiture of rights and franchises see supra, II, J, 4.

61. Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

62. Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127. See also Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Van Ness, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 830, 4 Cranch C. C. 595.

A statute is not unconstitutional as being a private or special law which extends the period for the completion of railroads for a certain number of years, because it only applies to railroad companies formed under the general railroad law, and of these only to those whose time for completion as originally limited would expire during a certain year. State v. Bergen Neck R. Co., 53 N. J. L. 108, 20 Atl. 762.

Under the New Jersey statute of 1887, granting a two years' extension of time for the completion of railroads whose original limit expired during that year, and the statute of 1889, granting a similar extension to roads whose time limit expired during the year of 1889, a railroad company is within the application of the latter statute and entitled to a second extension whose original time limit expired during the period prescribed by the first statute and was extended by that statute. State v. Bergen Neck R. Co., 53 N. J. L. 108, 20 Atl. 762.

Construction of statutes.— Where a railroad charter providing that the road "shall be completed within five years from the sanction of this Act" was subsequently amended by a provision that the former limitation is "replaced" by the following: "The railway shall be completed within seven years of the passing of this act," it was held that the new limitation did not run from the date of the amendment but from the date of the original statute, making an actual extension of only two years. Montreal, etc., R. Co. v. Chateauguay, etc., R. Co., 13 Quebec K. B. 256.

63. Farnham v. Benedict, 107 N. Y. 159, 13 N. E. 784 [reversing 39 Hun 22].

64. Farnham v. Benedict, 107 N. Y. 159, 13 N. E. 784 [reversing 39 Hun 22], holding that the New York statute of 1875, extending the time for the completion of unfinished railroads, does not revive a company whose corporate powers have been forfeited for failure to commence the construction of the road within the time originally limited.

The New York statute of 1879 extending the time for completing any unfinished railroad for the further period of two years expressly provided that it should not have the effect of reviving any corporation whose corporate powers had been forfeited for any cause. Sodus Bay, etc., R. Co. v. Lapham, 43 Hun 314, holding that the statute did not operate to extend the time of construction of a railroad where the company authorized to construct it had executed a mortgage on its rights and franchises which had been foreclosed and its rights and franchises sold, since such foreclosure terminated the corporate existence of the company and worked a forfeiture of its rights.

65. In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245.

66. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lurton, 72 Ill. 118.

67. Arcata v. Arcata, etc., R. Co., 92 Cal. 639, 28 Pac. 676; Pottsville Borough v. People's R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 175, 23 Atl. 900.

A charter provision requiring a railroad company "as soon as they conveniently can" to locate and construct the road and its appendages does not compel the company to exercise its whole authority in the very beginning or prevent the subsequent construction of such switches and sidings as may become necessary for the proper operation of the road. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 54 Pa. St. 103.

road within the time limited it may subsequently construct from time to time, such switches and sidings as may be necessary for the handling of its business or proper operation of the road.[68] So also the time limited for the construction of a railroad applies to the road as authorized by its charter and not to an extension authorized by a subsequent statute;[69] and where a railroad company authorized to build a particular line of road and limited as to the time of construction is also authorized to construct branch lines, the time limitation does not apply to the branch lines.[70] Where a company is authorized to construct two branches from different places converging at a certain point, it is immaterial which of such branches is constructed first.[71]

4. Remedies. Where a railroad company is legally bound to construct or complete a road it may be required by mandamus to do so,[72] and mandamus and not a suit in equity is the proper remedy;[73] but mandamus will not be granted unless a clear legal duty on the part of the railroad company to do so is shown.[74] If the railroad company has not complied with a statutory requirement which is a condition precedent to the commencement of the construction of its road, a person whose property will be injuriously affected thereby may enjoin the company from commencing the work of construction.[75] If a railroad company fails to commence or complete the construction of its road within the time limited by statute or its charter, the state alone can ordinarily take advantage of the failure and object to a continuation of the work of construction,[76] and such failure may be waived by the state and an extension of time granted.[77] In the absence of such an extension or after it has expired if the railroad company has not commenced the construction of its road a landowner may resist a subsequent condemnation of his land therefor,[78] or if partly completed he may resist any new condemnation of his property for extending the road beyond the point then completed;[79] but if the company before the expiration of such period has acquired the right of way he cannot prevent the company from continuing the construction of its road thereon after the time limited for its completion has expired.[80] So also if a landowner has agreed to convey a right of way before the expiration of the time limited, an extension of time for the construction of the road does not release him from his agreement.[81] A railroad company which has failed to complete its road

68. Pottsville Borough v. People's R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 175, 23 Atl. 900.

69. Hamilton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 9 Paige (N. Y.) 171.

70. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis R. Co., 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315]; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155; Blanton v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 86 Va. 618, 10 S. E. 925; Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. James Bay R. Co., 36 Can. Sup. Ct. 42. Compare Newhall v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 14 Ill. 273, construing a particular limitation as including the branches as well as the main line, but holding that a subsequent extension of time for the construction of the road also applied to and extended the time for the construction of the branch.

Where the time is extended by statute for a certain period for the construction of a railroad "with one or more tracks, sidings, depots, and appurtenances," the word "appurtenances" does not include branches and the time limitation does not apply to their construction. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 159 Pa. St. 331, 28 Atl. 155.

71. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Petty, 63 Ark. 94, 37 S. W. 300.

72. Reg. v. York, etc., R. Co., 16 Q. B. 886, 20 L. J. Q. B. 503, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 648, 71 E. C. L. 886; Great Western R. Co. v. Reg., 2 Wkly. Rep. 54. See also, generally, MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 365.

73. Atty.-Gen. v. Birmingham, etc., Junction R. Co., 7 Eng. L. & Eq. 283.

74. State v. Southern Minnesota R. Co., 18 Minn. 40; Sherwood v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 94 Va. 291, 26 S. E. 943.

Duty to construct see supra, VI, A, 1.

75. Astor v. New York, etc., R. Co., 48 Hun (N. Y.) 562, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 174 [affirmed in 113 N. Y. 93, 20 N. E. 594, 2 L. R. A. 789].

76. Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315].

77. Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

78. In re Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 72 N. Y. 245.

79. Peavey v. Calais R. Co., 30 Me. 498.

80. Atlantic R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228 [reversing 3 Mo. App. 315].

81. Ross v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 127.

within the time limited by statute will not ordinarily be enjoined at the suit of a stock-holder from completing it.[82] Where during the process of construction a controversy arises between a landowner and the company as to the true location of the road, which is a disputable question of fact depending upon parol testimony, the court will not grant a preliminary injunction restraining the construction of the road, but will require the company to give security for the damages which the landowner may sustain in case the decision upon final hearing is adverse to the railroad company.[83] Where a railroad company has by contract bound itself to construct and maintain a siding for the benefit of a landowner, a court of equity may compel specific performance of the contract; [84] or if the siding is constructed and subsequently removed by the company, the court may require it to be restored.[85]

B. Plan and Mode of Construction — 1. In General. In the absence of any statutory restriction or agreement a railroad company is not obliged to construct its track in the center of its right of way,[86] but may construct it upon any part of the right of way it may deem proper,[87] and after construction may subsequently change its location to any point within the limits of the right of way.[88] So also in the absence of any restriction as to how the track shall be constructed with reference to the surface of the ground, the company is not obliged to construct it upon the surface; [89] but may elevate its tracks whenever the character of the country makes it either convenient or necessary,[90] or it may construct the same under ground.[91] It is also discretionary with the railroad company, where it is authorized to construct a road between different points, as to where it will begin the work of construction;[92] and where a railroad company is authorized to cross a river by means of a bridge or ferry "as may be most convenient," the decision as to which is most convenient rests with the railroad company.[93]

2. Statutory and Municipal Regulations. Although a railroad company is authorized to lay its tracks upon public streets, its right to do so within corporate limits is subject to reasonable regulations imposed by the municipality,[94] but such regulations must be reasonable, [95] and cannot abridge or impair the rights

82. Ffookes v. London, etc., R. Co., 17 Jur. 365, 1 Smale & G. 142, 1 Wkly. Rep. 175, 65 Eng. Reprint 62.

83. Rainey v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. 767.

84. Greene v. West Cheshire R. Co., L. R. 13 Eq. 944, 41 L. J. Ch. 17, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 409, 20 Wkly. Rep. 54. See also Lytton v. Great Northern R. Co., 2 Jur. N. S. 436, 2 Kay & J. 394, 4 Wkly. Rep. 441, 69 Eng. Reprint 836.

85. Todd v. Midland Great Western R. Co., L. R. 9 Ir. 85.

86. Stark v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., 43 Iowa 501; Ohio River, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 50 W. Va. 499, 40 S. E. 407.

But the location of the right of way cannot be shifted so as to make the track the center of the right of way by constructing the tracks to one side of the center line of the right of way as originally laid out. Ohio River, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 50 W. Va. 499, 40 S. E. 407.

87. Stark v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., 43 Iowa 501; Munkers v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 334; Dougherty v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 19 Mo. App. 419; Ohio River, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 50 W. Va. 499, 40 S. E. 407.

A relinquishment of a right of way one hundred feet wide, providing that the railroad was to be located "on the section line" dividing two named sections of land, does not require that the track should be located precisely upon the section line, but if the right of way is located so as to embrace this section line, the track may be located anywhere within the limits of the right of way. Munkers v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 334.

88. Dougherty v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 19 Mo. App. 419.

89. Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 212 Pa. St. 105, 61 Atl. 881.

90. Fulton v. Short Route R. Transfer Co., 85 Ky. 640, 4 S. W. 332, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 291, 7 Am. St. Rep. 619.

91. Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 212 Pa. St. 105, 61 Atl. 881, holding further that this rule is not affected by the fact that, at the time of the enactment of the statute under which the road was constructed, underground construction was unknown and probably was not contemplated as a possibility.

92. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Speer, 56 Pa. St. 325, 94 Am. Dec. 84.

93. Easton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 49.

94. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 159 Ill. 369, 42 N. E. 781.

95. Allen v. Jersey City, 53 N. J. L. 522, 22 Atl. 257.

and franchises of the railroad company as granted by the legislature,[96] and whenever a statute and an ordinance conflict the former must control.[97] So also where municipal consent for the construction of the railroad is necessary, the municipality may in granting it do so subject to reasonable conditions,[98] such as pertain to the mode of construction,[99] or the performance of certain acts on the part of the railroad company, such as grading, paving, and the like,[1] and a railroad company assenting to or constructing its road under an ordinance prescribing such conditions will be bound thereby;[2] but the municipality will also be bound by its part of the agreement in regard to the rights and privileges conferred if it had authority to make such agreement.[3]

3. Construction In or Along Streets and Highways — a. In General.[4] The right to construct a railroad on or along a street or highway gives the railroad company no right, in the absence of express provision, to destroy the same,[5] nor does municipal consent to the construction of a railroad in a street confer any right to obstruct the street;[6] but it is the duty of the railroad company to so construct its road as not unnecessarily to injure the street or highway or impair the rights of the public in its use,[7] and in some cases there are statutory or charter provisions to this effect,[8] or requiring that the street or highway shall be restored to its former state or such as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness.[9] Where a railroad is constructed along a street it should ordinarily conform to the grade of the surface of the street;[10] but owing to the variations in the grade of many

If the municipality should act unreasonably and its authorities refuse any proper application of the railroad company without just and legal excuse, the proper remedy on the part of the railroad company would be mandamus and not a suit in equity to enjoin the municipal authorities. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 159 Ill. 369, 42 N. E. 781.

96. Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 40 S. W. 916, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 449; Allen v. Jersey City, 53 N. J. L. 522, 22 Atl. 257.

97. Oshkosh First Cong. Church v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 77 Wis. 158, 45 N. W. 1086.

98. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

99. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

1. State v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 42 La. Ann. 11, 7 So. 84; Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

Particular requirement construed.—An obligation on the part of a railroad company to keep in good condition the streets through which its tracks pass does not oblige it to keep in repair the streets on each side of a neutral strip of land not used for street purposes on which the track is located. State v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 42 La. Ann. 550, 7 So. 606.

2. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

Enforcement of obligations see infra, VI, B, 5.

3. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Quincy, 136 Ill. 489, 27 N. E. 232 [reversing 32 Ill. App. 377].

4. Right to construct and power of legislature to authorize such construction see supra, V, I; and, generally, Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 626.

5. Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864; Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

6. Tate v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 479; Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864.

7. State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13; Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

8. Hepting v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 36 La. Ann. 898; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13; Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471; Com. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 336; Stroudsburg Borough v. Wilkesharre, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 507, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 395; Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864.

Particular provisions construed.—A charter provision that a railroad must be so constructed "as not to impede or obstruct the free use of any public road, street," etc., does not prohibit the construction of a railroad in a street, but does prohibit any material or unnecessary obstruction thereof (Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471); and where a railroad company proposes to occupy a public highway in such manner as practically to require the public in passing along it to use the track of the railroad for a distance of two or three hundred feet, it materially impairs the passage thereon within the application of a statute requiring the road to be so constructed "as not to impede the passage or transportation of persons or property" along the highway (Stroudsburg Borough v. Wilkesharre, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 507, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 395).

9. See infra, VI, B, 3, b.

10. Tate v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 479, holding that a railroad company has no streets and the necessity of maintaining a uniform grade for the railroad, this is often impracticable, and in such case the railroad company may construct cuts and fills provided the use of the street is not unnecessarily interfered with.[11] Such necessary elevations and depressions of the track may be authorized by a municipality,[12] which, on the other hand, cannot impose such restrictions as to the grade of the railroad as will practically deprive the company of a statutory right to construct its road in the street;[13] and where a railroad is constructed to conform to the existing surface of a street which has not been graded to the established line, the railroad company should not be required to raise or lower its tracks to such line until the city has graded the street conformably thereto.[14] Where municipal consent is essential to the occupancy of a street by a railroad, such consent is also necessary for any subsequent material change in the mode of construction, such as a change in the grade of its tracks.[15] Where a railroad company is authorized to construct its road along a street it need not necessarily construct it in the middle of the street.[16]

b. Restoring and Maintaining Highway. Where a railroad company constructs its road upon a street or highway it is the duty of the company to restore the same to its former state or such as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness.[17] This is a common-law duty;[18] but it is in some cases expressly imposed by statutory or charter provisions,[19] and a county, township, or municipality in which the highway is situated cannot release the company from this duty.[20] The requirement as to restoring streets and highways imports some physical impairment of the way itself and does not impose upon the railroad company the duty of removing all danger incident to the use of the railroad lawfully constructed parallel with and in close proximity to a highway,[21] or require the railroad company to construct fences or barriers in such cases between the highway and the railroad track,[22] nor is there any common-law duty to do so;[23] but a statute pro-right, in the absence of express authority, to construct its road along a street upon an embankment four and a half feet high.

The grade line of a railroad is the surface of the earth-work upon which the ties are laid and not the top of the rails. Given v. Des Moines, 70 Iowa 637, 27 N. W. 803.

Where a right is granted by ordinance to a railroad company to construct its road over certain streets "on the grade of the city or such grade as may be agreed upon," the company is limited to the grade established by the city, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary. Slatten v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 29 Iowa 148, 4 Am. Rep. 205.

11. Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 40 S. W. 916, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 449; Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 1, 10 S. E. 14, 5 L. R. A. 371.

Authority to construct a railroad "along or upon" a street does not limit the right to a construction upon the surface at a common level with the rest of the street. Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 1, 10 S. E. 14, 5 L. R. A. 371.

12. Slatten v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 29 Iowa 148, 4 Am. Rep. 205; Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 1, 10 S. E. 14, 5 L. R. A. 371.

13. Owensboro v. Owensboro, etc., R. Co., 40 S. W. 916, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 449.

14. Given v. Des Moines, 70 Iowa 637, 27 N. W. 803.

15. Chester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 217 Pa. St. 402, 66 Atl. 654.

16. Oshkosh First Cong. Church, etc. v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 77 Wis. 158, 45 N. W. 1086.

17. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13; Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

18. State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13.

19. Connecticut.— State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 45 Conn. 331.

Louisiana.— Hepting v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 36 La. Ann. 898.

New York.— People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152.

West Virginia.— Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

Wisconsin.— Jamestown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Wis. 648, 34 N. W. 728.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 231.

20. Snow v. Deerfield Tp., 78 Pa. St. 181.

21. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 45 Conn. 331, holding further that this rule applies, although the right of way of the railroad slightly overlaps the right of way of the highway, if there is no disturbance of or interference with the traveled part of the highway, and the railroad is an obstruction only in the sense that it is calculated to frighten horses.

22. Coy v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 23 Barb. (N. Y.) 643 [disapproving Moshier v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 427].

23. Coy v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 23 Barb.

viding that if the company shall use or interfere with any road it shall make good the damage done thereto is not limited to cases where the railroad is actually constructed upon or across the highway.[24] So also the requirement does not contemplate that the highway shall be restored to its exact former state or its use in no degree impaired,[25] but only that there shall be no material and unnecessary impairment of its use;[26] but it does require that the highway shall be restored in such manner as not unnecessarily to impair its usefulness for ordinary travel,[27] and if the railroad is constructed upon and so as to destroy the use of the highway, the highway must be reconstructed upon a new location.[28] Where it is necessary to construct a new highway this must be done before the original highway is appropriated,[29] and any work of restoration must be done within a reasonable time.[30] The duty is also a continuing one and devolves upon a company succeeding to the rights and franchises of the company which constructed the road.[31]

c. Mode of Construction as Constituting Nuisance. The mere construction of a railroad, although in a street or highway, if done by lawful authority, is not a nuisance,[32] nor is a partial and temporary obstruction necessarily caused by and during the process of construction a nuisance which will be enjoined;[33] but the company may be guilty of maintaining a nuisance by reason of the negligent or improper manner of constructing or maintaining its road,[34] or failing to restore a street or highway to its former state as required by statute,[35] or to construct a new highway in the place of one destroyed by the construction of the railroad.[36]

4. Road-Bed and Tracks. It is the duty of a railroad company to construct its road-bed and tracks in a skilful manner and with suitable materials so as to make the road safe for travel,[37] and subsequently to keep the same in proper condition and repair;[38] but the company is not required, in order to make travel

(N. Y.) 643 [disapproving Moshier v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 427].

24. West Riding, etc., R. Co. v. Wakefield Local Bd. of Health, 5 B. & S. 478, 10 Jur. N. S. 1046, 33 L. J. M. C. 174, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1076, 117 E. C. L. 478, holding that a statute providing that if in constructing a railroad the company "shall use or interfere with any road" it shall from time to time "make good all damage done" to such road is not limited to cases where there is an actual occupation of the road by the railroad, but that it requires the company to repair any injury done to the highway by the extra traffic upon it caused by hauling materials over it for the construction of the railroad, and that such traffic need not be carried on by the servants of the company if it is for the purposes of the company.

25. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161; Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 1, 10 S. E. 14, 5 L. R. A. 371.

26. Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 1, 10 S. E. 14, 5 L. R. A. 371.

27. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

28. People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152; Com. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 336.

Location of new highway.— Where a railroad company pursuant to legislative authority has located its road upon a portion of a public highway, so as to destroy the same, and the commissioners having jurisdiction of the matter and acting without fraud have designated the location for the new way, and the railroad company has constructed the same, the court cannot, on an application for mandamus to compel the railroad company to restore the highway to its former usefulness, review the determination of the commissioners and prescribe a different route. Waterbury v. Hartford, etc., R. Co., 27 Conn. 146.

29. Atty.-Gen. v. Widnes R. Co., 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 449, 22 Wkly. Rep. 607.

30. Jamestown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Wis. 648, 34 N. W. 728.

31. Com. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 336.

32. See supra, V, I, 1, g.

33. Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561.

34. Kelly v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 28 Ind. App. 457, 63 N. E. 233, 91 Am. St. Rep. 134; Haney v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 278; Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

A slight variation in the surface of the street, caused by the laying of the railroad tracks thereon, and which leaves the passage free and unobstructed, does not constitute a nuisance. Drake v. Hudson River R. Co., 7 Barb. (N. Y.) 508.

35. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

36. Com. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 336.

37. Florida R., etc., Co. v. Webster, 25 Fla. 394, 5 So. 714; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 56 Ill. 138.

38. Florida R., etc., Co. v. Webster, 25 Fla. 394, 5 So. 714; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v.

upon the road entirely free from peril, to incur a degree of expense which would render the operation of the road impracticable.[39] Where a railroad is constructed under a statute expressly regulating the gauge the company must conform thereto and cannot subsequently alter the gauge of the road;[40] but if there is no statutory or charter provision or restriction as to the gauge the company may adopt such gauge as it may deem proper,[41] and may after the construction of the road change from the gauge originally adopted,[42] which change may be made without the consent of the municipality through the streets of which the road is constructed.[43] If authorized to construct a mixed gauge road consisting of a broad gauge throughout and also a narrow gauge for a part of the distance, the company may continue the narrow gauge throughout.[44] Where one of several connecting roads is required by statute to change its gauge to conform to that of the others, the latter may be required to contribute to the expense of the alteration.[45] What is a reasonable time for effecting and completing an authorized change of gauge depends upon the circumstances of the particular case.[46] The railroad company may also change the kind of rails upon its road.[47] A statutory or charter authority to use steam as a motive power and to carry freight and passengers authorizes the company to construct its track and road-bed in a manner suitable for the use of heavy cars and locomotive engines,[48] and to use the heavy "T" rails commonly used on steam railroads.[49]

5. Remedies. Where a railroad company fails to restore a street or highway to its former condition as required by statute, it may be compelled to do so by mandamus,[50] or by a suit in equity for a mandatory injunction,[51] and a town or Conroy, 68 Ill. 560; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson 56 Ill. 138; Rutherford v. Shreveport, etc., R. Co., 41 La. Ann. 793, 6 So. 644; Libby v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 85 Me. 34, 26 Atl. 943, 20 L. R. A. 812.

39. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 56 Ill. 138.

40. Western New York, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 193 Pa. St. 127, 44 Atl. 242; Walker v. Denver, 76 Fed. 670, 22 C. C. A. 470.

The Pennsylvania statute of 1875 divides railroads into two classes, subject to different conditions and with different powers, according to whether the gauge exceeds three feet in width, and a company constructing its road under this statute as a narrow gauge road cannot subsequently widen the gauge notwithstanding no injury to the public will result. Western New York, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 193 Pa. St. 127, 44 Atl. 242.

41. State v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 72 N. C. 634; Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369.

42. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Domke, 11 Colo. 247, 17 Pac. 777; State v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 72 N. C. 634; Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369.

An abutting lot owner in a city cannot enjoin a railroad company from changing the gauge of its road from a narrow to a standard gauge, where there is nothing in the ordinance authorizing the construction of the road as to the width of the gauge and no imputation of any fraud in regard to the procuring or enactment of the ordinance. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Domke, 11 Colo. 247, 17 Pac. 777.

43. Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369.

But if the gauge is limited by the charter of the railroad company, the municipality may object to any change from that so prescribed, although the city ordinance granting the use of the street did not specify any gauge, since the charter and ordinance must be construed together. Walker v. Denver, 76 Fed. 670, 22 C. C. A. 470.

44. Great Western R. Co. v. Oxford, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. M. & G. 341, 52 Eng. Ch. 341, 43 Eng. Reprint 133 [affirming 5 De G. & Sm. 437, 16 Jur. 443, 64 Eng. Reprint 1188]; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 40 Eng. Ch. 550, 61 Eng. Reprint 212.

45. Newry, etc., R. Co. v. Ulster R. Co., 8 De G. M. & G. 487, 2 Jur. N. S. 936, 4 Wkly. Rep. 211, 761, 57 Eng. Ch. 487, 44 Eng. Reprint 478, holding that where the statute provides for an apportionment of such expense by the railroad commissioners, if the commissioners in making their award have not exceeded their jurisdiction and no fraud or mistake is shown, a court of equity cannot review or set aside their award.

46. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 80 Mo. 117.

47. Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369.

48. Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369.

49. Millvale v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369.

50. State v. Hannihal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13; People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152. See also, generally, MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 369.

51. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37

municipality which is responsible for the condition of its streets and highways may maintain such suit.[52] So also a municipality may sue to enjoin a railroad company from obstructing a highway by making fences across it and to compel the removal of fences already constructed.[53] If the road is so constructed as to constitute a nuisance the company is liable to indictment,[54] or a suit in equity may be maintained to abate the nuisance,[55] or an individual who sustains a special injury therefrom may maintain a private action to recover his special damages or protect his rights.[56] Where in consideration of a grant by a municipality of the right to construct a railroad on a street, the railroad company assumes obligations in regard to the mode of construction or work to be done by it upon the streets so used, the performance of such duties may be enforced by a suit in equity,[57] or, pursuant to a statute so providing, by mandamus,[58] or the municipality may sue for damages for breach of the agreement.[59] A court of equity has no power at the instance of highway commissioners to enjoin the construction of a railroad on or along highways where such construction is authorized by statute.[60] With regard to the rights and remedies of abutting property-owners the general rule applies that equitable relief will not be granted where there is an adequate remedy at law.[61] An abutting lot owner cannot enjoin the mere construction of a railroad in a street on account of the incidental injury to his property where the company is proceeding under lawful authority,[62] nor can he enjoin the railroad company from constructing its road in a particular manner if the mode of construction is authorized by competent authority,[63] or the character and extent of the injury which may result is merely speculative.[64] So also if a railroad company has by lawful authority constructed its road in a street and is not restricted as to the

W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161; Jamestown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Wis. 648, 34 N. W. 728.

52. Moundsville v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161; Jamestown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Wis. 648, 34 N. W. 728; Fenelon Falls v. Victoria R. Co., 29 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 4.

53. Gloucester Tp. v. Canada Atlantic R. Co., 3 Ont. L. R. 85, 1 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 18 [affirmed in 1 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 485].

54. Com. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 336. See also infra, VI, K, 2.

55. Moundsville, etc., R. Co. v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161, holding further that the suit to abate the nuisance may be maintained by a municipality which is liable for the condition of its streets.

56. Kelly v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 28 Ind. App. 457, 63 N. E. 233; Haney v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 278.

57. Moundsville, etc., R. Co. v. Ohio River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 92, 16 S. E. 514, 20 L. R. A. 161.

58. State v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 42 La. Ann. 550, 7 So. 606; State v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 42 La. Ann. 11, 7 So. 84. See also MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 165.

59. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Carthage, 36 Ohio St. 631, holding that where the railroad company binds itself to grade and gravel the streets used, the municipality may, on a failure of the company to do so within a reasonable time, maintain an action for damages, without any previous demand upon the company to perform its agreement, and recover the reasonable cost of doing or completing the work.

60. Baxter v. Spuyten Duyvil, etc., R. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 428, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. 178.

61. Stetson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 75 Ill. 74; Fulton v. Short Route, etc., R. Co., 85 Ky. 640, 4 S. W. 332, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 291, 7 Am. St. Rep. 619; Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 1, 10 S. E. 14, 5 L. R. A. 371.

The construction of an additional track in a street will not be enjoined on the ground that its construction will constitute a nuisance unless a very clear case for equitable relief is shown, since if a nuisance results the public has an adequate remedy by indictment and adjacent property-owners a remedy by action for damages for any special injury sustained. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Prudden, 20 N. J. Eq. 530.

Enjoining contract.—An injunction will not be granted at the suit of abutting owners to prevent a railroad company from entering into a contract with the county commissioners whereby it is permitted to maintain its tracks in a street at a grade alleged to be illegal, the remedy if the contract be illegal being by mandamus to require the county commissioners to perform their duty as required by law. Dyer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio Cir. Ct. 255, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 584.

62. See supra, V, I, 1, i.

Right to enjoin where compensation is not paid in advance see EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 987 et seq.

63. Arbenz v. Wheeling, etc., R. Co., 33 W. Va. 1, 10 S. E. 14, 5 L. R. A. 371.

64. Fulton v. Short Route, etc., R. Co., 85 Ky. 640, 4 S. W. 332, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 291, 7 Am. St. Rep. 619.

gauge, an abutting lot owner cannot enjoin the company from subsequently widening the gauge.[65] If, however, the railroad company is proceeding in an unauthorized manner which will occasion a special injury for which there is no adequate remedy at law, the abutting landowner is entitled to an injunction,[66] unless he has lost his right to such relief by his laches or acquiescence,[67] or if the road has already been located upon the street so as to occasion an injury of this character, he may by a suit in equity compel the company to relocate its tracks.[68]

C. Crossing Other Railroads — 1. Right to Cross — a. In General. Railroad companies accept their charters and use their tracks subject to the power of the state to authorize the construction of other railroads across their tracks whenever the public welfare so requires,[69] and this right of crossing is not affected by the priority of charters or the location or construction of the roads thereunder,[70] by the comparative length or amount of traffic upon the respective roads,[71] or by the fact that the road crossed is in the hands of a receiver,[72] or that such company owns the title in fee to the property crossed;[73] nor is the right confined to the main tracks, but applies to the lateral and spur tracks and switches constituting a part of the system and necessary to enable the company properly to carry on its business.[74] The right of one railroad company to cross the tracks of another 65. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Toohey, 15 Colo. 297, 25 Pac. 166; Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Barsaloux, 15 Colo. 290, 25 Pac. 165, 10 L. R. A. 89; Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Domke, 11 Colo. 247, 17 Pac. 777.

If the change imposes an additional servitude for which the abutting owner is entitled to compensation, his remedy is by an action for damages. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Barsaloux, 15 Colo. 290, 25 Pac. 165, 10 L. R. A. 89.

66. Alabama.— Birmingham R. Light, etc., Co. v. Moran, 151 Ala. 187, 44 So. 152.

Indiana.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eisert, 127 Ind. 156, 26 N. E. 759.

Maryland.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Strauss, 37 Md. 237.

Michigan.— Riedinger v. Marquette, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 29, 28 N. W. 775.

Tennessee.— Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864.

Utah.— Stockdale v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 28 Utah 201, 77 Pac. 849.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 233.

67. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Strauss, 37 Md. 237; Kakeldy v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 37 Wash. 675, 80 Pac. 205.

68. Hepting v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 36 La. Ann. 898.

69. Illinois.— East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. East St. Louis Union R. Co., 108 Ill. 265.

Missouri.— Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 118 Mo. 599, 24 S. W. 478.

Montana.— Butte, etc., R. Co. v. Montana Union R. Co., 16 Mont. 550, 41 Pac. 248.

New Jersey.— National Docks, etc., R. Co. v. State, 53 N. J. L. 217, 21 Atl. 570, 26 Am. St. Rep. 421.

New York.— Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun 587, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 155.

Ohio.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 30 Ohio St. 604.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 277, 28 Atl. 784; Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155.

South Carolina.— South Carolina R. Co. v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 13 Rich. Eq. 339.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,665, 6 Biss. 219.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 234.

The right of one railroad company to cross the track of another is as clear and undoubted as the right of the road first located to cross the land of the original owner. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 30 Ohio St. 604.

A lateral railway may be constructed over an intervening railroad to reach a canal or river landing. Hays v. Briggs, 74 Pa. St. 373 [reversing 3 Pittsb. 504].

A railroad company cannot set up alleged rights of the state to defeat the prima facie right of another company to occupy a portion of a river shore for its road and thereby cross under the roadway of the first company. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 39 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 314.

70. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 118 Mo. 599, 24 S. W. 478; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 30 Ohio St. 604.

The right of way of one company prior to the construction of the road thereon may be crossed by another railroad upon making or securing proper compensation. Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155.

71. Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

72. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [reversed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755].

73. Hornellsville El. R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 83 Hun (N. Y.) 407, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 745; Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., R. Co., 192 Pa. St. 552, 44 Atl. 46; Western Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 99 Pa. St. 155.

74. East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v.

is in many cases expressly provided for by constitutional, statutory, or charter provisions,[75] in which case the provisions must be followed,[76] and any conditions precedent complied with;[77] but the right to cross need not be conferred in express terms, as it will be implied from the right to construct a road between certain termini, where such crossing is necessary;[78] but where it is practicable to locate the second road without crossing the first it should not be permitted to cross and recross the first merely as a matter of convenience or economy in construction;[79] and even where the right to cross is conferred by statute it should not in the absence of unequivocal language be construed as conferring an absolute right to a crossing at the option of the company desiring to make it without regard to its necessity and the interests of the public.[80] One railroad company has no right to so cross the track of another as to deprive the latter of the use of the track or materially impair the exercise of its franchises;[81] but the inconvenience in East St. Louis Union R. Co., 108 Ill. 265; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 116 La. 178, 40 So. 627, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 512.

75. Alabama.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 570, 3 So. 286, 5 Am. St. Rep. 401.

Kentucky.— Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Ashland, etc., St. R. Co., 96 Ky. 347, 26 S. W. 181, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 42.

Louisiana.— Shreveport Traction Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 119 La. 759, 44 So. 457.

Maryland.— Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Consolidation Coal Co., 55 Md. 158.

Missouri.— St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal R. Co., 111 Mo. 666, 20 S. W. 319.

Montana.— Butte, etc., R. Co. v. Montana Union R. Co., 16 Mont. 504, 41 Pac. 232, 50 Am. St. Rep. 508, 31 L. R. A. 298.

New York.— Hornellsville El. R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 83 Hun 407, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 745; Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun 587, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 155.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 277, 28 Atl. 784.

Virginia.— Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tidewater R. Co., 105 Va. 129, 52 S. E. 852.

Washington.— Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

West Virginia.— Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co., 56 W. Va. 18, 48 S. E. 746.

Wisconsin.— In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496.

United States.— Arkansas, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 103 Fed. 747.

Canada.— In re Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 397.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 234.

Effect on mortgage lien.— Under the Alabama statute which provides that railroad companies may construct their roads so as to cross each other, the right of two railroad companies to make a crossing and to appropriate therefor a reasonably convenient portion of each other's right of way is paramount to a mortgage executed by one of the companies to secure its bonds, and the portion of right of way necessary for such crossing is excepted from the lien of the mortgage. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 570, 3 So. 286, 5 Am. St. Rep. 401.

A mere constitutional provision, such as that of the Texas constitution, which provides that "every railroad company shall have the right with its road to intersect, connect with, or cross any other railroad," is not self-acting but requires appropriate supplementing legislation prescribing the regulation of its exercise. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 10 Fed. 497, 4 Woods 360.

76. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440.

77. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440.

Consent of company whose line is crossed. — Under a statute providing that a railroad company should not enter the lands of any person without the previous consent of the owner, and that in every case where the railroad should cross any other railroad the communication between the two roads in case of disagreement should be made in the manner directed by two engineers, one to be chosen by each party, and an umpire, the consent in writing of the owner of a railroad intended to be crossed by another railroad is necessary. Clarence R. Co. v. Great North of England R. Co., 4 Q. B. 46, 3 G. & D. 389, 7 Jur. 65, 12 L. J. Q. B. 145, 13 M. & W. 706, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 426, 45 E. C. L. 46.

78. Shreveport Traction Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 119 La. 759, 44 So. 457; National Docks, etc., R. Co. v. State, 53 N. J. L. 217, 21 Atl. 570, 26 Am. St. Rep. 421; Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 193, 24 Atl. 709, 30 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 362; In re Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 397.

79. Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 193, 24 Atl. 709; Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

80. In re St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 37 Minn. 164, 33 N. W. 701; Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

81. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 118 Mo. 599, 24 S. W. 478; Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, operation and the increased danger necessarily incident to the existence of the crossing is not such an impairment of the franchise,[82] nor is a crossing a use inconsistent with that for which the property is already appropriated,[83] and a crossing may be made, although it imposes some other special damage or inconvenience upon the company whose tracks are crossed,[84] provided it is not of such a character as to deprive such company of the ability fully and fairly to exercise its franchises and perform its duties, or that it cannot be adequately compensated in damages.[85] The right to cross the tracks of another railroad is also subject to the constitutional provisions against the taking of property for public use without making compensation therefor,[86] although the legislature may, in granting a charter to a railroad company without violating such provisions, impose as a condition that it shall allow other railroad companies to cross its tracks without compensation,[87] in which case if compensation is allowed by a subsequent statute the right is dependent upon the statute and not upon the constitutional provision.[88]

b. Street Railroads and Other Railroads Occupying Highways. The general rules and statutory provisions as to crossings previously stated[89] apply so as to authorize one railroad to cross another railroad located in or along a street or highway,[90] or to authorize a street railroad to cross a steam railroad so 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

A temporary deprivation of the use of certain tracks of the company crossed during the process of constructing the crossing may be permitted when necessary, and such a necessity need not be absolute and exclusive of any possible method of constructing the crossing which would not cause such obstruction, regardless of the time, cost, and danger of the method which would have to be employed. National Docks, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 54 N. J. Eq. 142, 33 Atl. 860 [affirmed in 55 N. J. Eq. 820, 41 Atl. 1116].

82. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport Traction Co., 65 Conn. 410, 32 Atl. 953, 29 L. R. A. 367; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 118 Mo. 599, 24 S. W. 478; Butte, etc., R. Co. v. Montana Union R. Co., 16 Mont. 504, 41 Pac. 232, 50 Am. St. Rep. 508, 31 L. R. A. 298.

83. Hornellsville El. R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 83 Hun (N. Y.) 407, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 745.

84. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 118 Mo. 599, 24 S. W. 478 (where the crossing reduced the storage capacity of certain side-tracks about three fourths of a mile long by some sixty or seventy feet); Butte, etc., R. Co. v. Montana Union R. Co., 16 Mont. 550, 41 Pac. 248 (where the crossing necessitated a slight change of grade and curtailment of the storage tracks of the railroad crossed); National Docks, etc., R. Co. v. State, 53 N. J. L. 217, 21 Atl. 570, 26 Am. St. Rep. 421 (where the crossing necessitated a change in the car yard of the company whose tracks were crossed involving considerable expense in making the alteration and additional cost and danger in the future operation of the yard, but there was no other practicable place for crossing).

85. National Docks, etc., Co. v. State, 53 N. J. L. 217, 21 Atl. 570, 26 Am. St. Rep. 421.

86. Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus Southern R. Co., 89 Ga. 205, 15 S. E. 305; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Englewood Connecting R. Co., 115 Ill. 375, 4 N. E. 246, 56 Am. St. Rep. 173; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 96 Ill. 274; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 15 Ill. App. 587; Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co., 56 W. Va. 18, 48 S. E. 746; Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 101 Fed. 757, 42 C. C. A. 570. See also, generally, EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 669, 670.

The consent of the crossing board created by the Michigan statute, to the crossing by one railroad company of a right of way previously acquired by deed and owned by another company, confers no right upon the crossing company to make such crossing without either an agreement with the other company or acquiring a right of way over its property by condemnation proceedings. Townsend v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 101 Fed. 757, 42 C. C. A. 570.

No damages can be recovered for crossing the projected line of a railroad company which at the time of the suit has not procured its right of way from the owner of the land or taken any steps to condemn it, or done any work at or over the point of intersection. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Peach Orchard, etc., Co., 42 Ark. 249.

87. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun (N. Y.) 587, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 155.

88. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun (N. Y.) 587, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 155.

89. See supra, VI, C, 1, a.

90. St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal R. Co., 111 Mo. 666, 20 S. W. 319; Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 277, 28 Atl. 784.

The right of one railroad company to occupy a street cannot be raised by the other railroad company where the only issues relate to the right of one to cross the tracks of the located,[91] or a steam railroad to cross a street railroad.[92] A railroad, although located in a street, has an easement which is subject only to the proper and ordinary use of the street by the public as a highway and which cannot be impaired by the crossing of another railroad without compensation;[93] but the rule is otherwise as to the crossing of a steam railroad by a street railroad, the latter being a proper use of the street which does not impose any additional servitude upon the rights of the steam railroad company for which compensation must be made,[94] whether the street railroad be operated by horse power, cable, or electricity.[95]

c. Agreement or Acquiescence. The right to cross the tracks of another railroad may be acquired by agreement between the companies as well as by legal proceedings pursuant to statutory authority;[96] but a contract giving one other. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 277, 28 Atl. 784.

91. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. West Chicago St. R. Co., 156 Ill. 255, 40 N. E. 1008, 29 L. R. A. 485 [affirming 54 Ill. App. 273].

Indiana.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Whiting, etc., St. R. Co., 139 Ind. 297, 38 N. E. 604, 47 Am. St. Rep. 264, 26 L. R. A. 337.

Kentucky.— Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Ashland, etc., St. R. Co., 96 Ky. 347, 26 S. W. 181, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 42.

Louisiana.— Shreveport Traction Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 119 La. 759, 44 So. 457.

Maryland.— Central Pass. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 95 Md. 428, 52 Atl. 752.

New Jersey.— Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Newark Pass. R. Co., 51 N. J. Eq. 379, 29 Atl. 184 [affirmed in 52 N. J. Eq. 340, 31 Atl. 383].

New York.— Hornellsville El. R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 83 Hun 407, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 745; Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun 583, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 265.

Pennsylvania.— Du Bois Traction Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 149 Pa. St. 1, 24 Atl. 179 [affirming 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 401]; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 1 Pa. Dist. 626.

Texas.— Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rosedale St. R. Co., 64 Tex. 80, 53 Am. Rep. 739.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 235.

Where a railroad is in the hands of a receiver the court will not refuse a street railroad company permission to cross the same except upon grave and controlling considerations. Stewart v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 89 Fed. 617.

Place of crossing.—A street railroad has no right to construct its road across a steam railroad at a point other than the crossing of the street or highway, and this is equally true as to land held by the railroad company in fee. Trenton Cut-off R. Co. v. Newtown Electric St. R. Co., 8 Pa. Dist. 549.

92. Lynn, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 114 Mass. 88.

93. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 15 Ill. App. 587. See also Georgia Midland, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus Southern R. Co., 89 Ga. 205, 15 S. E. 305.

94. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. West Chicago St. R. Co., 156 Ill. 255, 40 N. E. 1088, 29 L. R. A. 485 [affirming 54 Ill. App. 273].

Indiana.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Whiting, etc., St. R. Co., 139 Ind. 297, 38 N. E. 604, 47 Am. St. Rep. 264, 26 L. R. A. 337.

Kentucky.— Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Ashland, etc., St. R. Co., 96 Ky. 347, 26 S. W. 181, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 42.

Maryland.— Central Pass. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 95 Md. 428, 52 Atl. 752.

Ohio.— Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Urbana, etc., R. Co., 26 Ohio Cir. Ct. 180.

Pennsylvania.— Du Bois Traction Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 149 Pa. St. 1, 24 Atl. 179 [affirming 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 401].

Texas.— Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rosedale St. R. Co., 64 Tex. 80, 53 Am. Rep. 739.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 235. See also, generally, EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 669, 670.

Under the New York statute relating to railroad crossings, and which is applicable to the crossing of a steam railroad by a street railroad, if a street railroad company desires to cross the tracks of a steam railroad company and the companies cannot agree as to the compensation, commissioners must be applied for to determine these questions as provided for by the statute. Port Richmond, etc., Electric R. Co. v. Staten Island Rapid Transit R. Co., 71 Hun (N. Y.) 179, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 566 [affirmed in 144 N. Y. 445, 39 N. E. 392]; People's R. Co. v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 51 Hun (N. Y.) 643, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 326, 22 Abb. N. Cas. 427.

95. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. West Chicago St. R. Co., 156 Ill. 255, 40 N. E. 1088, 29 L. R. A. 485 [affirming 54 Ill. App. 273]; Du Bois Traction Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 149 Pa. St. 1, 24 Atl. 179 [affirming 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 401].

96. In re Boston Hoosac Tunnel, etc., R. Co., 79 N. Y. 69; Hydell v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 74 Ohio St. 138, 77 N. E. 1066.

Particular contract construed.— Where plaintiff railroad company contracted with defendant railroad company for a change of location of defendant's tracks in a street, giving plaintiff a right to construct its tracks therein and across defendant's tracks, the contract will not be construed, in the absence of any stipulation to the contrary, as preventing defendant company from maintaining spur tracks as they existed at the time of railroad company the right to cross the tracks of another does not include the right to cross yards used for terminal purposes,[97] and a contract for a crossing will not be specifically enforced where plaintiff claims the right to cross at a place not contemplated by the parties and where it would greatly damage the other company.[98] Where the officers of one railroad company assent, although not in the form of a binding contract, to a grade crossing of their road by another company and permit the latter to expend large sums of money in constructing their road with reference to such crossing, they cannot afterward enjoin the latter from constructing such crossing and insist upon a crossing of a different character involving large additional expense;[99] but the fact that one railroad company is permitted to construct its road with the manifest intention of crossing another without objection by the latter constitutes no estoppel by acquiescence to a claim for damages;[1] nor does the fact that a railroad company permitted a street railroad company to cross its tracks for several months pending negotiations between the companies as to such crossing, which were subsequently broken off by the latter company, give such company any legal right to the use of the crossing.[2]

d. Injunction. A court of equity will enjoin one railroad company from crossing the tracks of another without any legal authority to do so,[3] or from crossing without first making compensation where there is a right to such compensation;[4] and conversely, where one railroad company has a right to cross and is proceeding in a lawful and proper manner, the court will enjoin the company whose tracks are crossed from interfering with the work of construction,[5] or from interfering with the crossing or its use after it is constructed.[6] If a crossing has been already the contract and which would cross the main tracks of plaintiff's road. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 129 Ga. 44, 58 S. E. 465.

97. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Collector, 4 N. J. L. J. 247.

98. Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 105.

99. Catawissa R. Co.'s Appeal, 2 Walk. (Pa.) 175.

1. Coe v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 105.

2. Port Richmond, etc., Electric R. Co. v. Staten Island Rapid Transit R. Co., 144 N. Y. 445, 39 N. E. 392 [affirming 71 Hun 179, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 566].

3. Chattanooga Terminal R. Co. v. Felton, 69 Fed. 273; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 10 Fed. 497.

Crossing incidental to unauthorized use of streets.— Where the only crossing sought to be made by a railroad company over the tracks of another in a street is incidental to laying its tracks along the street under a void ordinance, so that the construction of the road is a nuisance, an injunction restraining the nuisance at the instance of the other railroad company is not objectionable as a deprivation of the constitutional right to condemn a crossing. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 142 Ala. 152, 37 So. 849.

4. Georgia Midland, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus Southern R. Co., 89 Ga. 205, 15 S. E. 305; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 15 Ill. App. 587. But see New York, etc., R. Co. v. Forty-second St., etc., R. Co., 50 Barb. (N. Y.) 309, 32 How. Pr. 481, holding that, although there is a right to compensation, if the statute does not make the fixing and payment of such compensation a condition precedent to the crossing, an injunction will not lie to prevent the crossing, unless the company making it is insolvent or some special cause is shown.

5. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Whiting, etc., St. R. Co., 139 Ind. 297, 38 N. E. 604, 47 Am. St. Rep. 264, 26 L. R. A. 337; Du Bois Traction Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 149 Pa. St. 1, 24 Atl. 179 [affirming 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 401].

A mandatory injunction will be granted compelling a railroad company to pull down walls which it has built in order to prevent another railroad company from crossing its line. Great North of England, etc., R. Co. v. Clarence R. Co., 1 Coll. 507, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 605, 28 Eng. Ch. 507, 63 Eng. Reprint 520.

6. Du Bois Traction Pass. R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 149 Pa. St. 1, 24 Atl. 179 [affirming 10 Pa. Co. Ct. 401].

A preliminary injunction will be granted, restraining defendant from interfering with plaintiff company's crossing over defendant's road at grade until final hearing, determining whether it is reasonably practicable for plaintiff to cross otherwise than at grade. Moosic Mountain, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 10 Pa. Cas. 237, 13 Atl. 915 [reversing 4 C. Pl. 189].

Irrevocable license.— Where a manufacturing company constructed a tramway across railroad tracks in a street by permission of the railroad company and had expended money in reliance on such permission, so that the license had become irrevocable, it was held that the manufacturing company was entitled to an injunction restraining the railroad company from interfering with or effected without authority and the company making it could not by legal proceedings acquire a right to the crossing in question, the court may not only enjoin its use but may compel its removal and the restoration of the road crossed to its original condition;[7] but if the company which has made the crossing might by proper proceedings acquire the right and has merely proceeded in an unauthorized manner, the court may, instead of enjoining its use unconditionally, require the company to conform to the legal requirements and make proper compensation, giving bond to comply with the order of the court.[8] Where a railroad company is proceeding in good faith with the construction of its road with apparent ability properly to perform the work of crossing another railroad, it will not be enjoined from so crossing merely because it has not yet secured a right of way over its entire route;[9] and where one railroad company is authorized to cross another below grade, provided the structures for crossing are approved by the railroad commissioners, the company whose location is crossed cannot after such approval has been granted alter the existing conditions and enjoin the other company from constructing the crossing as authorized.[10]

2. Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossing — a. In General. Where one railroad company crosses another, the crossing should be so located and constructed as not to inflict any unnecessary injury upon the road crossed;[11] and in some cases the statutes expressly provide that the place and manner of crossing shall be such as to inflict the least practicable injury upon the rights of the company whose road is crossed;[12] but while such provisions clearly recognize that the rights removing the tramway, especially in view of the fact that the railroad company had refused to allow the tramway to be constructed in such a manner as would have prevented the delay of which it complained. Park Steel Co. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 322, 62 Atl. 920.

7. Chattanooga Terminal R. Co. v. Felton, 69 Fed. 273.

8. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 63 Mich. 645, 30 N. W. 595.

9. National Docks, etc., Junction Connecting R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1895) 30 Atl. 1102.

10. Fitchburg R. Co. v. New Haven, etc., Co., 134 Mass. 547, holding that a railroad company cannot, after the plans for the crossing are approved, extend a siding so as to make a second track at the point of crossing and enjoin the other company from removing the second track and embankment on which it is constructed, proceeding in accordance with the approved plans, but that in such case it would be the duty of the company whose tracks are crossed to apply to the commissioners for a modification of their order of approval so as to conform to the new conditions.

11. State v. Dearing, 173 Mo. 492, 73 S. W. 485; West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc., R. Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 613, 56 Atl. 890; Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

12. Indiana.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 31 Ind. App. 201, 67 N. E. 544.

Minnesota.— Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 50 Minn. 300, 52 N. W. 657; In re Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 162, 39 N. W. 65.

New Jersey.— In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., R. Co., (Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387.

Ohio.— Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 72 Ohio St. 368, 74 N. E. 209, 106 Am. St. Rep. 622.

Pennsylvania.— Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 176, 52 Atl. 88; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Scranton, etc., Traction Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 287, 7 Kulp 509; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., 13 Pa. Co. Ct. 291; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, etc., R. Co., 11 Pa. Co. Ct. 165.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 240.

When statute not applicable.— The Pennsylvania statute of 1871, providing for the regulation of railroad crossings by the courts and authorizing them to define the mode of crossing which will inflict the least injury upon the rights of the company owning the road crossed, does not apply where the parties have already established a crossing and are using it. Park Steel Co. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 322, 62 Atl. 920; Western New York, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 193 Pa. St. 127, 44 Atl. 242.

The Illinois statute of 1889 provides that crossings shall be constructed "at such place and in such manner as will not unnecessarily impede or endanger the travel or transportation upon the railway so crossed." Malott v. Collinsville, etc., R. Co., 108 Fed. 313, 47 C. C. A. 345.

In Iowa the statute expressly provides that the crossing company "shall so construct its crossings as not unnecessarily to impede" the travel or transportation upon the road crossed. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Iowa 16, 58 N. W. 918; Humeston, of the first occupant are superior to those of the second,[13] they do not require that there shall be no injury whatever to the rights of the road crossed,[14] or require the selection of the place and mode which will least injure the company crossed, without regard to the interests and necessities of the other company, which must also be considered and the question determined according to the circumstances of the particular case.[15] The provisions also apply only to direct interference with rights and not to consequential injury to interests, such as a diminution of traffic by competition.[16] It has been held, under a statute giving one railroad company the right to cross another at any point, that the crossing company may select the place and manner of crossing, subject only to the condition of paying the damages inflicted;[17] but on the contrary it has been held that the right of crossing cannot be exercised arbitrarily, without regard to the necessities of the case and the interests of the other company,[18] even though the statute confers the right to cross at any point,[19] and courts of equity have jurisdiction to regulate and restrain the manner of crossing so as to protect the rights of the parties and prevent the infliction of unnecessary injury upon the road crossed.[20] In determining the place and mode of crossing, consideration should be given to the future necessities of the company whose road is crossed,[21] and also to the rights and necessities of the public in the use of streets and highways upon which the roads may be located.[22] A statute giving the right to cross another railroad does not necessarily require that the crossing shall be at right angles,[23] and in the absence of statutory specification no rule can be stated to determine the exact size of the angle which should be permitted, each case depending upon what is reasonable and proper under its own circumstances;[24] but one company should not, in crossing, be permitted unnecessarily to obstruct the track of the other in a longitudinal etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Iowa 554, 38 N. W. 413.

In Virginia Code (1904) provides that the crossings "shall be so located, constructed and operated as not to impair, impede or obstruct in any material degree the works and operations" of the road crossed. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tidewater R. Co., 105 Va. 129, 52 S. E. 852.

13. Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 176, 52 Atl. 88; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173.

14. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 2 Walk. (Pa.) 243, 1 Montg. Co. Rep. 141.

In case of an overhead crossing the crossing company may be permitted to place supporting iron pillars upon the right of way of the other company, where they would cause little injury or inconvenience and the cost of a single span bridge would be great. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 2 Walk. (Pa.) 243, 1 Montg. Co. Rep. 141; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 17 Phila. (Pa.) 396.

15. In re Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 162, 39 N. W. 65; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 2 Walk. (Pa.) 243, 1 Montg. Co. Rep. 141.

16. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Greensburg, etc., R. Co., 176 Pa. St. 559, 35 Atl. 122, 36 L. R. A. 839.

17. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 97 Ill. 506, where the court said that it was a sufficient safeguard against any oppressive exercise of such right that the crossing company was required to pay the full damages sustained by the other company by reason of the crossing, so that it would always be to the interest of the crossing company to cross at such place and in such manner as to inflict as little damages as possible.

18. Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

19. Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

20. West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc., R. Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 613, 56 Atl. 890; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,665, 6 Biss. 219.

Jurisdiction and powers of courts see infra, VI, C, 3, b.

21. Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 176, 52 Atl. 88, holding that a crossing should not be allowed which will deprive the road crossed of three fourths of its sixty-foot right of way, it appearing that the future needs of such road will require two tracks and a large siding, although it has constructed but one track.

22. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 12, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 454; Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

23. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 570, 3 So. 286, 5 Am. St. Rep. 401.

24. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. South Alabama, etc., R. Co., 84 Ala. 570, 3 So. 286, 5 Am. St. Rep. 401, holding that a crossing direction so as to impair the use of such road.[25] In some states the statutes provide that the crossing company may be required to interlock the crossing,[26] or to interlock the crossing to the satisfaction of the railroad commissioner.[27]

b. Agreement Between Companies. The companies may agree upon the place and manner of crossing,[28] and also as to how the crossing shall be used by them;[29] and where one company has assented to a crossing at a particular place and the other has constructed its road with reference thereto, the former should be held to be estopped to deny the necessity for the crossing or the propriety of the place agreed upon.[30]

c. Crossing At, Above, or Below Grade. It has been held that a railroad company having a right to cross the track of another has also the right to decide for itself whether it will cross the road of the other above or beneath its track or at grade;[31] but on the contrary it has been held that unless the manner of crossing is specifically designated by statute, it is subject to the control of a court of equity,[32] which may enjoin one company from crossing the other at grade,[33] and that even a statutory right to cross at grade does not give the crossing company any perverse and arbitrary right to do so, regardless of the rights of the other company and the safety of the public.[34] The state may, in the exercise of its police power, either authorize grade crossings,[35] or prohibit them,[36] whether the road is a steam covering about four thousand feet of the track crossed was not, under the circumstances of the particular case, improper.

25. Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

26. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Gowrie, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa 543, 99 N. W. 181; Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 114 Iowa 502, 87 N. W. 410.

27. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 558, 5 Ohio N. P. 83, holding that the requirement of the Ohio statute of 1896 that the company shall "interlock such crossing to the satisfaction of said commissioner" does not require an interlocking system, interlocking signals, or other safety devices, but merely contemplates such a connection as shall meet with the approval of the commissioner.

28. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 31 Ind. App. 201, 67 N. E. 544; Arkansas, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 103 Fed. 747.

Agreement construed.— Where the companies agree to submit to certain commissioners whether the crossing shall be overhead or at grade, the commissioners may properly exclude any consideration of an under crossing as not being within the agreement, although such crossing is practicable. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 31 Ind. App. 201, 67 N. E. 544.

29. Cornwall, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 125 Pa. St. 232, 17 Atl. 427, 11 Am. St. Rep. 889, holding that a contract providing that "all engines and trains of the party of the first part shall have priority of passage over "all engines and trains of the party of the second part," applies to all trains, regardless of their class.

Consideration for agreement.—A contract between a steam railroad company and a street railroad company providing for a crossing by the latter of the tracks of the former, and providing that the trains of the steam railroad company shall have precedence at the crossing, and that the street railroad company shall be liable for all damages resulting from its failure to stop its cars before crossing, is not without consideration, although the street railroad company has a constitutional right to cross the tracks of the other, since it could not have exercised such right without making compensation. Owensboro City R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 94 S. W. 22, 29 Ky. L. Rep. 596.

30. Arkansas, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 103 Fed. 747.

31. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. v. Central R. Co., 48 N. J. Eq. 379, 22 Atl. 728.

32. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Iowa 16, 58 N. W. 918; Humeston, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Iowa 554, 38 N. W. 413; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,665, 6 Biss. 219.

Under the Iowa statute requiring that the crossing company "shall so construct its crossings as not unnecessarily to impede" the travel or transportation on the road crossed, if, under the circumstances of the case, such is the condition of the track and the grades at or near the point of intersection, that a grade crossing would unnecessarily obstruct the business of the road crossed, the court may properly enjoin the construction of a grade crossing. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Iowa 16, 58 N. W. 918; Humeston, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Iowa 554, 38 N. W. 413.

33. See infra, VI, C, 2, e.

34. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., 13 Pa. Co. Ct. 291.

35. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport Traction Co., 65 Conn. 410, 32 Atl. 953, 29 L. R. A. 367.

36. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport railroad or street railroad,[37] and a constitutional provision authorizing a crossing but not specifying its character does not secure any right to a crossing at grade.[38] Owing to the danger of collisions and necessary interference with the operation of the roads, grade crossings ought to be avoided when possible,[39] and in some jurisdictions the statutes, while not expressly prohibiting grade crossings,[40] provide that they shall not be permitted whenever it is reasonably practicable to construct a crossing of a different character;[41] but if, under the circumstances

Traction Co., 65 Conn. 410, 32 Atl. 953, 29 L. R. A. 367; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Scranton, etc., Traction Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 287, 7 Kulp 509; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., 13 Pa. Co. Ct. 291.

37. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport Traction Co., 65 Conn. 410, 32 Atl. 953, 29 L. R. A. 367, holding, however, that where a general statute was enacted that no street railroad should thereafter be constructed across a steam railroad at grade, except upon application to and approval by the railroad commissioners, the act to take effect at a certain subsequent date, and after its enactment and before it took effect, a special statute was passed authorizing a street railroad company to cross a steam railroad company at grade, the special act was not affected by the general act, and that a grade crossing might be constructed without application to the railroad commissioners.

38. Kushequa R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 200 Pa. St. 526, 50 Atl. 169; Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 193, 24 Atl. 709; Northern Cent. R. Co.'s Appeal, 103 Pa. St. 621; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173.

39. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Iowa 16, 58 N. W. 918; Altoona, etc., R. Co. v. Tyrone, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 623, 28 Atl. 997; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780; Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 193, 24 Atl. 709; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Lackawanna St. R. Co., 3 Lack. Jur. (Pa.) 413.

The reason for discouraging grade crossings is not an exceptional regard for railroad property but is based upon considerations of public safety. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 277, 28 Atl. 784.

40. Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 116 Pa. St. 55, 8 Atl. 914.

41. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 31 Ind. App. 201, 67 N. E. 544; In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., Electric R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387; Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Toledo R., etc., Co., 72 Ohio St. 368, 74 N. E. 209; Altoona, etc., R. Co. v. Tyrone, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 623, 28 Atl. 997; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780.

In Virginia Code (1904) declares it to be the policy of the state that railroads shall not cross at grade, and that all roads subsequently constructed shall in crossing another railroad pass above or beneath the existing road "wherever it is reasonably practicable and does not involve an unreasonable expense, all the circumstances of the case considered." Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tidewater R. Co., 105 Va. 129, 52 S. E. 852.

The Michigan statute of 1883 provides that "in determining the manner of crossing the board shall always provide that one road shall pass over the other where the same can be done without injustice to either company." Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 564, 29 N. W. 500, 4 Am. St. Rep. 875.

The practicability of avoiding grade crossings depends almost entirely upon the circumstances of each particular case, among the factors to be considered being the location and surroundings of the proposed crossing, the character of the roads and uses made and intended to be made of them, the increased cost of construction and expense of operation, the public safety and convenience, and the interest and convenience of the road intended to be crossed (Altoona, etc., R. Co. v. Tyrone, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 623, 28 Atl. 997; Northern Cent. R. Co.'s Appeal, 103 Pa. St. 621; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Lackawanna Valley Traction Co., 2 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 295); the question being whether a crossing other than at grade is reasonably practicable (Scranton, etc., Traction Co. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 180 Pa. St. 636, 37 Atl. 122); which should be determined mainly by whether it is physically practicable and not by what it would cost the crossing company (Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., St. R. Co., 192 Pa. St. 552, 44 Atl. 46); and the court, in determining this question, will not consider the unsightliness of an overhead structure as of any consequence nor give weight to the fact that damages may have to be paid to the owners of private property by reason of the erection of such a structure (Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Warren St. R. Co., 188 Pa. St. 74, 41 Atl. 331); or that local sentiment is in favor of a grade crossing at the place in question (Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Butler Pass. R. Co., 207 Pa. St. 406, 56 Atl. 959); and in accordance with these principles it has been held in some cases that under the circumstances it was reasonably practicable to avoid a grade crossing (Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Butler Pass. Co., supra; Pittsburg Junction R. Co. v. Ft. Pitt St. Pass. R. Co., 192 Pa. St. 45, 43 Atl. 352; Scranton, etc., Traction Co. v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., supra; Altoona, etc., R. Co. v. Tyrone, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 623, 28 Atl. 997; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780 [reversing 1 Pa. Dist. 111, 126]; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R.

of the particular case, a different mode of crossing is not possible or reasonably practicable, a grade crossing should be permitted;[42] and in some jurisdictions there is no statutory prohibition or discrimination against grade crossings.[43] A statute prohibiting grade crossings when practicable has been held applicable to the crossings of steam railroads by electric and street railroads,[44] and to apply to roads chartered before the passage of the act,[45] and under statutes authorizing them to cross at grade,[46] and it is further held that a statute subsequently enacted, authorizing street railroads to cross steam railroads at grade, is not intended to divest courts of equity of the power conferred by the prior statute to prevent grade crossings when practicable to do so.[47] In determining which is the crossing

Co., 77 Pa. St. 173; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Scranton, etc., Traction Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 287, 7 Kulp 509); and in others that it was not reasonably practicable under the circumstances to avoid a grade crossing (In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., Electric R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387; Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 116 Pa. St. 55, 8 Atl. 914; Northern Cent. R. Co.'s Appeal, 103 Pa. St. 621; Perkiomen R. Co. v. Collegeville Electric St. R. Co., 14 Montg. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 13).

Whether one company is authorized to maintain a road which it has already constructed and put in operation is not material as affecting the right of another company to cross it at grade, under the Pennsylvania statute of 1871. The road could only be removed at the suit of the state, and whether there rightfully or without warrant of law, it would be contrary to the policy of the statute to permit another road to cross it at grade. Carlisle, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 199 Pa. St. 532, 49 Atl. 305.

Changing crossing after construction.— The Indiana statute of 1903 provides that if any street railroad, interurban, or suburban railroad and a railroad company shall fail to agree to a change of any existing grade crossing to a crossing above or below grade, either company may by petition carry the subject to a circuit or superior court, "and if the court shall find that it is practicable" to change the grade crossing to one above or below grade it shall order that the change be made. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., Traction Co., 169 Ind. 634, 81 N. E. 487, holding, however, that the term "practicable" is not synonymous with possible, but implies a legal discretion and the exercise of judgment based upon the whole evidence of all the facts affecting the question of practicability within the usual and ordinary sense of the word.

42. New Castle, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware R. Co., 8 Del. Ch. 419, 68 Atl. 386; In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., Electric R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387; Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 116 Pa. St. 55, 8 Atl. 914; Northern Cent. R. Co.'s Appeal, 103 Pa. St. 621; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tidewater R. Co., 105 Va. 129, 52 S. E. 852.

Imposing conditions as to use.— Where the court is authorized to regulate the character of crossings it may, when not practicable to avoid a grade crossing, authorize such a crossing and make whatever regulations may be necessary as to the use of the crossing and precautions against accidents. Trenton, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1899) 44 Atl. 853; In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., Electric R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387.

43. Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co., 56 W. Va. 18, 48 S. E. 746, holding, further, that in such cases a statutory provision that the work shall be so constructed as "not to impede the passage or transportation of persons or property along" the road crossed does not contemplate or prohibit the impediments merely incidental to a properly constructed grade crossing, and that the court having jurisdiction to determine the place and manner of crossing, may order such a crossing as under the circumstances is just and reasonable in view of the interests of the parties and the public welfare.

A federal court will not refuse permission to an electric road to cross at grade the tracks of a steam railroad in the hands of its receivers, where grade crossings by steam railroads are permitted by the authorities of of the state. Stewart v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 89 Fed. 617.

44. Pittsburg Junction R. Co. v. Ft. Pitt St. Pass. R. Co., 192 Pa. St. 45, 43 Atl. 352; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 12, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 454; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., St. R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 774; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., St. R. Co., 13 Pa. Co. Ct. 291.

45. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173.

46. Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 193, 24 Atl. 709; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwest Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173; Catawissa R. Co.'s Appeal, 2 Walk. (Pa.) 175.

The Pennsylvania statute of 1871, authorizing the court to prevent grade crossings when practicable, modifies the prior statute of 1868, authorizing grade crossings. Kushequa R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 200 Pa. St. 526, 50 Atl. 169; Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 193, 24 Atl. 709.

47. Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., St. R. Co., 192 Pa. St. 552, 44 Atl. 46; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780 [reversing 1 Pa. Dist. 111, 126]; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Scranton, etc., Traction Co., 4 Pa. Dist.

company, the company which first surveys and stakes out its line and fixes and adopts its grade is entitled to construct its road on that grade, and the other company, although constructing its road first, must so construct it as to avoid a grade crossing if practicable to do so.[48] Where one railroad company crosses another by an overhead bridge it is not required to maintain tell-tales to warn trainmen of the latter road of the danger;[49] but where one railroad crosses another by a bridge not originally intended for railroad purposes, the latter company is entitled to demand that it shall be strengthened and made safe for such use.[50]

d. Expense of Crossing. Where one railroad crosses the track of another, it is ordinarily the duty of the crossing company at whose instance and for whose benefit the crossing is made to defray the entire expense of its construction in the first instance,[51] and subsequently to keep the crossing in repair,[52] unless the crossing is above or below grade,[53] and also to defray the expense of installing and maintaining whatever system of signals, safety devices, or precautions may be necessary for the public safety in the use of the crossing.[54] Where one railroad company has the right to cross the track of another, the latter has no right to dictate the terms upon which the crossing shall be made;[55] but it is competent 287, 7 Kulp 509; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Lackawanna St. R. Co., 3 Lack. Jur. (Pa.) 413.

48. Kushequa R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 200 Pa. St. 526, 50 Atl. 169.

49. Neff v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 80 Hun (N. Y.) 394, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 323.

50. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Greensburg, etc., Electric St. R. Co., 176 Pa. St. 559, 35 Atl. 122, 36 L. R. A. 839.

51. Central Pass. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 95 Md. 428, 52 Atl. 752; West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc., Traction Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 613, 56 Atl. 890; Guelph, etc., R. Co. v. Guelph Radial R. Co., 5 Can. R. Cas. 180. See also Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 12, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 454.

An exception to this rule may arise where a third interest intervenes, requiring a crossing of a particular character, to the necessity for which each of the roads contributes, in which case each should be required to contribute to the cost of constructing such crossing. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Conshohocken R. Co., 4 Pa. Dist. 12, 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 454, holding that where a steam railroad constructed its road across a highway at grade, and a street railroad was subsequently constructed upon the highway and across the steam railroad, and an overhead crossing being practicable was required by statute, and a bridge crossing for the use of the street railway alone would obstruct the highway, so that it was necessary to construct a bridge which would accommodate both the street railway and the public travel on the highway, each company should contribute to the cost of constructing such a bridge.

A statute is unconstitutional which compels the company whose road is crossed to pay any part of the expense of making or constructing the crossing. Such company must be regarded as having accepted its charter upon condition that its road might be crossed upon being paid a reasonable compensation therefor but there can be no presumption that it ever consented to pay for the privilege of being thus injured. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 564, 29 N. W. 500, 4 Am. St. Rep. 875.

52. Central Pass. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 95 Md. 428, 52 Atl. 752.

A statute requiring the company whose road is crossed to contribute to the cost of keeping the crossing in repair after it is constructed can only be justified by the necessities of the case, growing out of the fact that no repairs can be made at the point of crossing which will not extend to both tracks, and the extent of the expense to be borne by the company whose tracks are crossed should always be limited as near as may be to what would be necessary to keep its track in repair at the crossing had the same not been made. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 564, 29 N. W. 500, 4 Am. St. Rep. 875. But see Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'r, 127 Mich. 219, 86 N. W. 842, 62 L. R. A. 149, holding that while the crossing company should be required to pay the original cost of construction, the legislature may properly provide for the apportionment between the companies of the cost of any appliances which may subsequently become necessary for the safety of the public by reason of the increased use of the crossing.

53. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Springfield, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 142, holding that if one road passes under the other the company owning it is not obliged to keep in repair the road above its own at the point of crossing, but that the expense of repairs imposed upon the company owning the overhead track by reason of such crossing should be considered in the estimate of damages.

54. West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc., Traction Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 613, 56 Atl. 890.

55. Arkansas, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 103 Fed. 747, holding that the company whose road is crossed has no right to demand that the other company shall put in an interlocking plant, where such plant is not required by law.

for the companies to agree between themselves, both as to the payment of the cost of original construction,[56] and of subsequent maintenance and repairs,[57] and such contracts are valid and binding as between the parties.[58] Each company, however, owes a duty to the public as a common carrier to see that a grade crossing is kept in good repair and either may and should make such repairs as are necessary;[59] but the company making them may recover from the other company if as between the companies it was the duty of the latter to do so, either by reason of its being the company for whose benefit the crossing was made,[60] or its agreement to do so,[61] or it may recover the proportion due from the other company where such expense is imposed by statute upon the companies jointly.[62] In some cases the question of the expense incident to the construction or maintenance of crossings and crossing appliances or its apportionment between the companies is regulated by statute.[63] Where it is necessary to apportion any expense incident

56. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 388, 44 Am. Rep. 799; Hydell v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 74 Ohio St. 138, 77 N. E. 1066; Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 30 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

57. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 388, 44 Am. Rep. 799; Hydell v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 74 Ohio St. 138, 77 N. E. 1066.

58. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 388, 44 Am. Rep. 799; Hydell v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 74 Ohio St. 138, 77 N. E. 1066.

59. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 388, 44 Am. Rep. 799.

60. Central Pass. R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 95 Md. 428, 52 Atl. 752.

61. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Joliet, etc., R. Co., 105 Ill. 388, 44 Am. Rep. 799.

62. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 45 Ohio St. 577, 16 N. E. 475.

The Ohio statute (Rev. St. § 2593) requiring steam and street railroad companies whose tracks cross at grade to use crossing frogs of the most approved pattern and materials, and to keep the crossings in repair at the joint expense of the companies, applies to companies whose roads were built prior to the statute, and a steam railroad having put in such crossing frogs may recover from a street railroad company its proportion of the cost thereof. Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 542, 32 Cinc. L. Bul. 4.

63. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Gowrie, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa 543, 99 N. W. 181; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 45 Ohio St. 577, 16 N. E. 475; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 30 Ohio St. 604.

Under the Iowa statute, providing that the crossing company may be compelled to interlock the crossing, the cost of installing the interlocking system must be paid by the crossing company (Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 114 Iowa 502, 87 N. W. 410); but the cost of maintaining and operating it may be apportioned between the companies (Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Gowrie, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa 543, 99 N. W. 181).

The Maine statute of 1895 authorizing the railroad commissioners to determine how railroad crossings shall be constructed and maintained authorizes them to apportion the expense between the companies, but does not require that they shall do so, and where the road crossed has been finished and the crossing is for the benefit of the crossing company, they may properly require it to pay the entire expense of its construction and maintenance. Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Waterville, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 328, 36 Atl. 453.

Under Massachusetts special statute of 1892, providing for the abolition of certain grade crossings by the Old Colony Railroad Company at the expense of such company, and providing for its reimbursement by the commonwealth for a certain percentage of "the actual cost" of the alterations, the interest paid on money borrowed by the company to make the alterations is not a part of the "actual cost," for which it is entitled to reimbursement. In re Old Colony R. Co., 185 Mass. 160, 70 N. E. 62.

In Michigan, Howell Annot. St. § 3301, authorizing the railroad commissioner to compel the maintenance of flagmen, gates, or bridges at a crossing whenever the public safety requires it, provided that "the expense thereof shall be borne jointly, in equal proportions by the companies" (Fort-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973); but the statute of 1893, authorizing the railroad commissioners to require any changes and safeguards in existing crossings which they may deem necessary, provides for such an apportionment of the expense incident thereto as the commissioners may deem just and reasonable (Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 127 Mich. 219, 86 N. W. 842, 62 L. R. A. 149).

In Ohio it is provided by statute that grade crossings shall be made, maintained, and kept in repair at the joint expense of the companies whose tracks cross (Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 45 Ohio St. 577, 16 N. E. 475; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 30 Ohio St. 604); and the statute applies without regard to priority of location or construction (Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., supra); and a company operating a road as lessee is an owner within the application of the statute (Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, supra).

to the construction and maintenance of a crossing, the court or commissioners should consider and give effect to any existing contracts between the companies relative thereto.[64]

e. Injunction. A court of equity may enjoin one railroad company from exercising its right of crossing in an arbitrary and oppressive manner unnecessarily prejudicial to the rights of the other company,[65] and may enjoin the construction of a crossing at grade, where the statute provides that such crossings shall be prevented wherever it is practicable to do so,[66] or provides that the crossing shall be so constructed as not unnecessarily to impede the travel and transportation upon the road crossed, and a grade crossing would, under the circumstances, constitute an unnecessary interference therewith,[67] or in the absence of express statutory provision, where under the circumstances of the case a grade crossing is not necessary and would materially interfere with the operation of the road crossed.[68] A bill by one railroad company to enjoin another from crossing its track on a highway at grade will be dismissed upon the requisite authority for such a crossing being obtained from the county commissioners after the filing of the bill,[69] and the court will not require a trestle, constructed and used by the crossing company as a temporary substitute for a bridge, to be removed from property of the other company, which is not in actual use.[70]

3. Determination as to Necessity, Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossing — a. In General. The necessity for the crossing of one railroad by another is in some cases decided by the legislature itself,[71] and in others delegated to certain courts,[72] or boards or commissioners.[73] The statutes conferring the right to cross frequently provide that if the companies are unable to agree as to the compensation, place, and manner of crossing, these questions shall be determined in a certain manner,[74] which varies materially in the different jurisdictions but is

64. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Hunt, 40 Ind. App. 168, 81 N. E. 524.

65. West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc., Traction Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 613, 56 Atl. 890; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,665, 6 Biss. 219.

But a street railway company occupying a street where the street crosses a steam railroad at grade will not be enjoined from constructing its road across the steam railroad at grade. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Urbana, etc., R. Co., 26 Ohio Cir. Ct. 180.

66. Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., R. Co., 192 Pa. St. 552, 44 Atl. 46; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Warren St. R. Co., 188 Pa. St. 74, 41 Atl. 331; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780.

Where a railroad company has located but not constructed a branch across a public road, it may sue to enjoin a street railway company from constructing its road across such branch at grade until the rights of the parties at the crossing are adjusted. Ohio River Junction R. Co. v. Freedom, etc., R. Co., 204 Pa. St. 127, 53 Atl. 773.

67. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Iowa 16, 58 N. W. 918; Humeston, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Iowa 554, 38 N. W. 413.

68. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,665, 6 Biss. 219.

69. Lynn, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 114 Mass. 88.

70. Philadelphia R. Co.'s Appeal, 2 Walk. (Pa.) 243.

71. In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496.

72. State v. Hennepin County Dist. Ct., 35 Minn. 461, 29 N. W. 60.

73. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 73 Kan. 168, 84 Pac. 755; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. East Saginaw, etc., R. Co., 72 Mich. 206, 40 N. W. 436; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tidewater R. Co., 105 Va. 129, 52 S. E. 852.

74. Indiana.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440.

Missouri.— State v. Dearing, 173 Mo. 492, 73 S. W. 485; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 118 Mo. 599, 24 S. W. 478.

Vermont.— Central Vermont R. Co. v. Woodstock R. Co., 50 Vt. 452.

Washington.— Seattle, etc., R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 34 Pac. 551, 38 Am. St. Rep. 866, 22 L. R. A. 217.

Wisconsin.— In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496.

United States.— Arkansas, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 103 Fed. 747.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 249, 250.

In New York the statute of 1897 authorizes railroad commissioners to determine the mode of crossing, but the statute does not repeal the act of 1890 in so far as it provides for the compensation and place of crossing to be determined by commissioners appointed by the court, or the act of 1893, which provides that the court may, pending such proceeding, authorize a temporary crossing (Oneonta, etc., R. Co. v. Cooperstown, etc., R. Co., 85 N. Y. App. Div. 284, 83 N. Y. Suppl. 307; Olean St. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania usually by commissioners appointed by the court,[75] and under some it is held that an attempt and failure to agree is a necessary condition precedent to the right to invoke the legal proceeding provided for.[76] Under other statutes these questions are to be determined by railroad commissioners,[77] or

R. Co., 75 N. Y. App. Div. 412, 78 N. Y. Suppl. 113 [affirmed in 175 N. Y. 468, 67 N. E. 1086]); and the proper procedure under these different statutes would be to apply in the first instance for the appointment of commissioners by the court to determine the compensation and place of crossing and then to the railroad commissioners to determine the manner of crossing, and pending the decision of either or both the court may, under the act of 1893, authorize a temporary crossing (Olean St. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., supra).

75. Indiana.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440.

Missouri.— State v. Dearing, 173 Mo. 492, 73 S. W. 485.

New York.— In re New York, etc., R. Co., 110 N. Y. 374, 18 N. E. 120 [affirming 44 Hun 215]; Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun 583, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 265; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 58 How. Pr. 167.

Vermont.— Central Vermont R. Co. v. Woodstock R. Co., 50 Vt. 452.

Wisconsin.— In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 249, 250.

Involving change of location.— Under the New York statute of 1850, providing in section 22 for the appointment of commissioners at the instance of any person aggrieved by the proposed location to consider a change of route, and in section 28, for the appointment of commissioners where one road desires to cross another, to determine the compensation, place, and manner of crossing, both questions may, in a controversy between two railroads as to a crossing, be decided under the latter provision and the proceeding should be so instituted. In re New York, etc., R. Co., 110 N. Y. 374, 18 N. E. 120 [affirming 44 Hun 215]; In re New York, etc., R. Co., 99 N. Y. 388, 2 N. E. 35; In re Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 442. Compare Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 58 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 167.

Under the Canadian statute of 14 & 15 Vict. c. 51, the place and mode of crossing and compensation to be paid were in case of disagreement determined by arbitrators appointed by the court, and the order of the court appointing arbitrators was not subject to review on appeal. In re Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 397.

76. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 564, 29 N. W. 500, 4 Am. St. Rep. 875; In re Boston Hoosac Tunnel, etc., R. Co., 79 N. Y. 69.

Three things must be embraced in the attempt to agree; namely, the compensation, the place, and the manner of crossing. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440.

No particular act is required as an attempt to agree, and a written proposition by one company and the lapse of a month without any answer is sufficient to justify a finding that the companies were unable to agree. In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496.

77. Kansas.— Union Terminal R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 54 Kan. 352, 38 Pac. 290.

Kentucky.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 58 S. W. 799, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 658.

Maine.— Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Saco Valley Electric R. Co., 98 Me. 78, 56 Atl. 202; Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Waterville, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 328, 36 Atl. 453.

United States.— Malott v. Collinsville, etc., R. Co., 108 Fed. 313, 47 C. C. A. 345.

Canada.— James Bay R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 37 Can. Sup. Ct. 372; Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 12 Ont. L. R. 320, 7 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 814.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 249, 250.

The Kansas statute authorizing railroad commissioners to determine the necessity, place, and mode of crossing applies only to steam railroads and does not include an electric road, although it is authorized by its charter to use steam as a motive power (Kansas City R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 73 Kan. 168, 84 Pac. 755); nor does the statute give the railroad commissioners jurisdiction to determine the rights of the companies, where one does not seek an ordinary crossing but seeks to appropriate to its exclusive use a portion of the right of way of the other (Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 67 Kan. 569, 70 Pac. 939, 73 Pac. 899); and the railroad commissioners cannot grant a rehearing of a crossing application and alter the award and decision previously rendered by them (Union Terminal R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 54 Kan. 352, 38 Pac. 290).

In New York the act of 1897 authorizes the railroad commissioners to determine the mode of crossing, but the compensation and place are still to be determined by commissioners appointed by the court, as provided for by the act of 1890. Oneonta, etc., R. Co. v. Cooperstown, etc., R. Co., 85 N. Y. App. Div. 284, 83 N. Y. Suppl. 307; Olean St. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 75 N. Y. App. Div. 412, 78 N. Y. Suppl. 113 [affirmed in 175 N. Y. 468, 67 N. E. 1086].

Modifying or making temporary decree.— The board of railroad commissioners have no authority to modify or change a decree once rendered by them for the construction and maintenance of a railroad crossing, except on corporation commissioners,[78] or a board consisting of certain officers,[79] and under others the place and manner of crossing are to be determined by courts of equity or other designated courts,[80] and where the determination is by a court of equity the proper proceeding is by bill or petition in equity.[81] Where a special procedure relative to crossings is provided by statute, it must be followed,[82] and the general provisions as to acquiring property for railroad purposes or determining the rights of other property-owners are not applicable.[83]

b. Jurisdiction and Power of Courts. In some jurisdictions certain courts are authorized by statute to regulate the place and manner of crossing,[84] it being a new application, notice, and hearing, nor can they, before appeal, make a temporary decree not purporting to represent their judgment in the premises, as for a temporary crossing at grade, until they shall definitely decide the permanent character of the crossing. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Saco Valley Electric R. Co., 98 Me. 78, 56 Atl. 202.

In Indiana the railroad commission is invested by the act of 1905 with the authority previously exercised by the auditor-general in regard to the requiring of interlocking devices and the supervision of crossings. Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Hunt, 40 Ind. App. 168, 81 N. E. 524.

Imposing conditions.— The railroad commissioners in authorizing one railroad company to make a crossing under the tracks of another railroad may require that the masonry work of the under crossing shall be sufficient to allow the construction of an additional track on the line of the company whose track is crossed. James Bay R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 37 Can. Sup. Ct. 372.

In Canada questions relating to the crossing of one railroad by another were formerly regulated by the railway committee of the privy council (Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Hamilton Radial Electric R. Co., 29 Ont. 143; Ottawa, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 1 Can. R. Cas. 101); and in case of the crossing of a dominion railroad by a provincial railroad of Ontario, it was held necessary for the company desiring to effect the crossing to procure the approval of the commissioner of public works for Ontario as well as the approval of the railway committee of the privy council of the dominion (Credit Valley R. Co. v. Great Western R. Co., 25 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 507); but under the Railway Act of 1903 such questions are regulated by the railroad commissioners (Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 12 Ont. L. Rep. 320, 7 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 814).

78. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tidewater R. Co., 105 Va. 129, 52 S. E. 852, citing Va. Code (1904), which authorizes the corporation commission to determine the necessity for and the place and mode of crossing, but leaves the compensation to be determined by the laws regulating the exercise of the right of eminent domain.

79. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 564, 29 N. W. 500, 4 Am. St. Rep. 875, citing the Michigan statute of 1883, which provides that if the companies cannot agree as to the manner of crossing the same shall be determined by a board consisting of the attorney-general, secretary of state, and commissioner of railroads.

80. See infra, VI, C, 3, b.

81. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co., 7 Pa. Co. Ct. 381.

82. In re New York, etc., R. Co., 110 N. Y. 374, 18 N. E. 120 [affirming 44 Hun 215]; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co., 7 Pa. Co. Ct. 381; Central Vermont R. Co. v. Woodstock R. Co., 50 Vt. 452; Malott v. Collinsville, etc., R. Co., 108 Fed. 313, 47 C. C. A. 345.

83. Central Vermont R. Co. v. Woodstock R. Co., 50 Vt. 452.

84. Delaware.— New Castle, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware R. Co., 8 Del. Ch. 419, 68 Atl. 386.

Indiana.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 31 Ind. App. 201, 67 N. E. 544.

Minnesota.— Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 50 Minn. 300, 52 N. W. 657; State v. Hennepin County Dist. Ct., 35 Minn. 461, 29 N. W. 60.

New Jersey.— In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., R. Co., (Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387.

Ohio.— Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Toledo R., etc., Co., 72 Ohio St. 368, 74 N. E. 209, 106 Am. St. Rep. 622.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780.

West Virginia.— Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle Traction Co., 56 W. Va. 18, 48 S. E. 746.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 251.

The New Jersey statute of 1895, authorizing the chancellor to determine the place and manner of crossings, does not apply to crossings within city limits, but the chancellor has jurisdiction upon the ground that where two carriers have a right of common easement in a place, the mode of its use may be regulated by a court of equity, and in such cases the court, in determining the question, should be governed by the same considerations as if the application was made under the statute. Jersey City, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 62 N. J. Eq. 390, 53 Atl. 709.

The Ohio statute of 1902, authorizing the court of common pleas of the county where the crossing is located to determine the mode of crossing (see Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Toledo R., etc., Co., 72 Ohio St. 368, 74 N. E. 209, 106 Am. St. Rep. 622), applies only to in some cases further provided that they shall do so in such manner as to cause as little injury as practicable to the company whose road is crossed,[85] and prevent grade crossings whenever it is practicable to do so;[86] but if a different mode of crossing is not practicable the court may permit a grade crossing.[87] So also unless the legislature has specifically designated the mode of crossing, a court of equity may, without express statutory authority, regulate and control the same so as to protect the rights of the companies and the public,[88] and may in a a crossing of one steam railroad by another and not to crossings of a steam railroad by an electric road (Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Dayton, etc., Traction Co., 26 Ohio Cir. Ct. 1).

85. Indiana.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 31 Ind. App. 201, 67 N. E. 544.

Minnesota.— Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 50 Minn. 300, 52 N. W. 657; In re Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 162, 39 N. W. 65.

New Jersey.— In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., R. Co., (Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387.

Ohio.— Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Toledo R., etc., Co., 72 Ohio St. 368, 74 N. E. 209, 106 Am. St. Rep. 622.

Pennsylvania.— Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwestern Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, etc., R. Co., 11 Pa. Co. Ct. 165.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 251.

Construction and application of statutes see supra, VI, C, 2, a.

A threefold duty is imposed upon the court by the Pennsylvania statute of 1871: (1) To ascertain the mode of crossing which will do the least practicable injury to the road crossed; (2) to compel by its decree the adoption of that mode; and (3) to prevent by its process a crossing at grade if a different kind of crossing is reasonably practicable. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., St. R. Co., 13 Pa. Co. Ct. 291.

Safety devices at crossing.— Under the Minnesota statute of 1879, authorizing the court to "prescribe the location and the manner in which such crossing or connection shall be made so as to effect the purpose of the petitioning corporation, and at the same time do the least injury to the corporation whose property is taken," it may not only prescribe the place and character of the crossing but also require the petitioning company to do what seems reasonably practicable to make and keep the crossing safe for the trains of the other company and the public, and for that purpose may require it to construct and maintain an interlocking device to prevent collisions. Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 50 Minn. 300, 52 N. W. 657.

86. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 31 Ind. App. 201, 67 N. E. 544; In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387; Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. Toledo R., etc., Co., 72 Ohio St. 368, 74 N. E. 209, 106 Am. St. Rep. 622; Altoona, etc., R. Co. v. Tyrone, etc., R. Co., 160 Pa. St. 623, 28 Atl. 997; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780.

Construction and application of statutes see supra, VI, C, 2, c.

The power of the court to prevent grade crossings when practicable to do so, under the Pennsylvania statute of 1871, is not affected by the constitutional provision authorizing any railroad to cross any other railroad (Perry County R. Extension Co. v. Newport, etc., R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 193, 24 Atl. 709; Northern Cent. R. Co.'s Appeal, 103 Pa. St. 621); or by the subsequent statute of 1889, authorizing street railroads to cross steam railroads at grade (Williams Valley R. Co. v. Lykens, etc., St. R. Co., 192 Pa. St. 552, 44 Atl. 46; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Braddock Electric R. Co., 152 Pa. St. 116, 25 Atl. 780 [reversing 1 Pa. Dist. 111, 126]).

Where the crossing company had already completed its road the court decreed that the company might be permitted to continue the use of the crossing already put in upon its agreeing to maintain watchmen at the crossings, stop trains before crossing, and pass over the crossings at a speed not exceeding four miles per hour. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 1 Walk. (Pa.) 81.

87. In re Atlantic Highlands, etc., R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1896) 35 Atl. 387; Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 116 Pa. St. 55, 8 Atl. 914.

In Delaware, where, under the General Corporation Law (22 Del. Laws, p. 815, c. 394), a railroad company is permitted by the court to construct its line across another railroad at grade, the decree will prescribe the specific method of construction and the appliances essential therefor, which with the attendance required for their operation will be at the expense of the company making the application. New Castle, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware R. Co., 8 Del. Ch. 419, 68 Atl. 386.

88. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Iowa 16, 58 N. W. 918; Humeston, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Iowa 554, 38 N. W. 413; West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Atlantic City, etc., Traction Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 613, 56 Atl. 890; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,665, 6 Biss. 219.

Where the board of public works has merely authorized defendant to cross plaintiff's tracks, and defendant threatens to change the grade of one rail, which would render travel on plaintiff's road less safe and impede the speed of its through trains, the court may properly enjoin defendant from so interfering with plaintiff's grade and remand the parties to the board of public works to have the question at issue between proper case enjoin one railroad company from crossing another at grade.[89] A court of equity also has jurisdiction specifically to enforce a contract between the companies as to how a crossing shall be used,[90] and where two railroad companies have a community of interest in the land on which they cross each other and disagree as to their respective rights, a court of equity will control and direct its use.[91] A court of equity having jurisdiction to prevent grade crossings may, on ordering a crossing of a different character, authorize the temporary use of a grade crossing for construction purposes,[92] but the time it may be used should be limited by the court.[93] A statute giving a court of equity power to determine the place and manner of crossing does not authorize it to condemn the property of the road crossed and fix the compensation, but the right to cross, unless the parties can agree, must be secured by proper proceedings at law.[94]

c. Powers and Proceedings of Commissioners. Under statutes providing for the appointment of commissioners to determine the compensation, place, and manner of crossing where the companies are unable to agree, the court will not on an application for the appointment of commissioners, pass upon any questions with regard to the crossing which it is the province of the commissioners to determine.[95] These statutes are held to confer upon the commissioners the power to determine all matters with respect to the crossing which would ordinarily be provided for by a contract or agreement between the companies in case they had been able to agree,[96] and not only to determine such matters as relate to the interests of the companies, but also those relating to the safety of the public.[97] The commissioners may provide as to the materials to be used,[98] and the right to determine the manner of crossing does not relate merely to the mechanical means and appliances to be used, but includes the manner of using the crossing and precautions against accidents.[99] The commissioners should go upon and view the premises where the crossing is located, but this fact need not be stated in their report.[1]

d. Notice, Pleading, and Evidence. In a proceeding by one railroad company to establish a crossing upon the road of another notice of the proceeding must be given to the latter company.[2] The petition must show a compliance with any statutory requirements and allege such facts as are necessary to show plaintiff's right to the crossing and to institute the proceedings therefor;[3] and so where them determined. Southern R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 102 Va. 483, 46 S. E. 784.

89. See supra, VI, C, 2, e.

90. Cornwall, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 125 Pa. St. 232, 17 Atl. 427, 11 Am. St. Rep. 889.

91. National Docks, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1895) 30 Atl. 1102.

92. Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 176, 52 Atl. 88.

93. Smethport R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 176, 52 Atl. 88.

94. Wellsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Panhandle, etc., Traction Co., 56 W. Va. 18, 48 S. E. 746.

95. Buffalo, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun (N. Y.) 583, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 265.

96. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 110 Mo. 510, 19 S. W. 826; In re Lockport, etc., R. Co., 19 Hun (N. Y.) 38.

97. In re Lockport, etc., R. Co., 19 Hun (N. Y.) 38.

98. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 110 Mo. 510, 19 S. W. 826.

99. In re Lockport, etc., R. Co., 19 Hun (N. Y.) 38, holding that the commissioners may determine such matters as whether trains shall come to a full stop before crossing and whether a flagman shall be employed, etc. But see Matter of Long Island Cent. R. Co., 1 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 419, holding that the commissioners cannot regulate the speed at which trains shall pass the crossing.

1. St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. 419, 13 S. W. 710.

2. Hornellsville Electric R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 83 Hun (N. Y.) 407, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 745, holding that a notice annexed to the petition, stating that the petition will be presented to the court at a certain time, is sufficient.

3. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440.

Allegations held sufficient.—A petition under the Michigan statute for the appointment of commissioners, which states that it is necessary for the public use to cross the road of another company, and that the board of directors has determined that the taking is necessary to accommodate petitioner's tracks and develop the business along the line of its an attempt and failure on the part of the companies to agree as to the compensation, place, and manner of crossing is a necessary condition precedent to the right to institute legal proceedings to determine the same, this fact must be alleged.[4] On an application to the court to define the place and manner of crossing, the petitioning company must show that it has a legal right to construct its road,[5] and where the statute provides that the crossing shall be so located as to inflict the least practicable injury upon the road crossed, the petitioning company must show such to be the case with reference to the proposed crossing,[6] and where the statute provides that grade crossings shall be prohibited whenever it is reasonably practicable to do so, it will be presumed that such a crossing may be avoided, and the burden is upon the petitioning company to show the contrary.[7]

e. Review. Where the compensation, place, and manner of crossing are determined by commissioners appointed by the court their decision is reviewable by the court,[8] not only as to the compensation awarded but also as to the place and manner of crossing,[9] and the decision of the trial court thereon is reviewable on appeal to the supreme court;[10] but it has been held that the order appointing the commissioners is not appealable.[11] An appeal may also be taken from the decision of railroad commissioners,[12] but their decision will not be altered or road, is sufficient (Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. East Saginaw, etc., R. Co., 72 Mich. 206, 40 N. W. 436); and a petition under the New York statute for the appointment of commissioners to determine the compensation, place, and manner of crossing, which alleges that petitioner is a corporation, that the route of its road as laid out crosses the other road, that it desires to cross such road, specifying the place, that the two companies cannot agree upon the compensation for or place or manner of crossing, and that the requisite consent of property-owners and municipal authorities has been obtained, is sufficient (Oneonta, etc., R. Co. v. Cooperstown, etc., R. Co., 85 N. Y. App. Div. 284, 83 N. Y. Suppl. 307).

4. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 116 Ind. 578, 19 N. E. 440; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 564, 29 N. W. 500, 4 Am. St. Rep. 875; In re Boston Hoosac Tunnel, etc., R. Co., 79 N. Y. 69.

5. Mercer County Traction Co. v. United New Jersey R., etc., Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 715, 61 Atl. 461 [reversing 65 N. J. Eq. 574, 56 Atl. 897].

6. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Southwestern Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 Pa. St. 173; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 774.

7. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Hanover, etc., St. R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 774; Moosic Mountain Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 4 C. Pl. (Pa.) 189.

8. State v. Dearing, 173 Mo. 492, 73 S. W. 485; St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. 419, 13 S. W. 710; In re Boston Hoosac Tunnel, etc., Co., 79 N. Y. 64. See also In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496. But see In re New York, etc., R. Co., 99 N. Y. 388, 2 N. E. 35, holding that an appeal does not lie from a decision of the commissioners relating to the manner of crossing, upon a mere question of fact decided after hearing the testimony and inspecting the locus in quo.

9. State v. Dearing, 173 Mo. 492, 73 S. W. 485; St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. 419, 13 S. W. 710.

10. St. Louis Transfer R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. 419, 13 S. W. 710, holding, however, that the supreme court cannot review the determination of the trial court on exceptions to the commissioners' report as to the question of damages, where no evidence on this question is preserved in the record.

11. Stillwater, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 67 N. Y. App. Div. 367, 73 N. Y. Suppl. 744, holding that an order appointing commissioners under the New York statute, to determine the compensation, place, and manner of crossing is not a final order from which an appeal is authorized. But see In re Boston Hoosac Tunnel, etc., Co., 79 N. Y. 64; In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496.

12. Union Terminal R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 54 Kan. 352, 38 Pac. 290, holding, however, that the decision of the commissioners is final and conclusive unless appealed from within the time limited.

Under the Indiana statute of 1897, authorizing railroad commissioners to require an interlocking device to be constructed and maintained at a crossing, it is held that no appeal from their decision will lie directly to the appellate court (Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 167 Ind. 214, 78 N. E. 981); but an appeal may be taken from their decision to the circuit or superior court (Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 38 Ind. App. 657, 78 N. E. 358); and from the decision of that court an appeal may be taken to the appellate court (Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 40 Ind. App. 168, 81 N. E. 524; Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com-reversed unless manifestly illegal or unjust.[13] Where the decision as to the place and manner of crossing is made by the court, the supreme court in reviewing the decision will only inquire as to legal errors or an abuse of discretion on the part of the trial court.[14] Where a railroad company is enjoined from constructing a grade crossing and subsequently constructs an overhead crossing at the place in question, it waives any right to a grade crossing and the question of its right to such crossing will not be considered on appeal.[15] An objection to a proceeding to fix a crossing on the ground that the route of the road had not been finally determined is not tenable where the proceedings fixing the route had terminated before the order was made from which the appeal is taken.[16] On appeal from an order appointing commissioners the court cannot pass upon the questions as to the place and manner of crossing which are to be determined in the first instance by the commissioners.[17]

D. Crossing Highways — 1. Right to Cross — a. In General. The legislature may authorize a railroad company to construct its road across public highways,[18] turnpikes,[19] or streets.[20] The right to cross is sometimes expressly conferred by statutory or charter provisions;[21] but need not be conferred in express terms as it will be implied from a grant of authority to construct a railroad upon a certain route or between certain termini,[22] or to connect with another railroad;[23] and in cases where the right is expressly granted, it is not necessary mission, supra); but not to the supreme court (Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 167 Ind. 261, 78 N. E. 975).

13. Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Waterville, etc., R., etc., Co., 89 Me. 328, 36 Atl. 453.

14. In re Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 36 Minn. 481, 32 N. W. 556.

15. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Iowa 16, 58 N. W. 918.

16. In re New York, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. 279.

17. In re Boston Hoosac Tunnel, etc., Co., 79 N. Y. 64; In re Eastern Wisconsin R., etc., Co., 127 Wis. 641, 107 N. W. 496.

18. Madera R. Co. v. Raymond Granite Co., 3 Cal. App. 668, 87 Pac. 27; Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596.

19. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Spring Grove Ave. Co., 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 625, 15 Cinc. L. Bul. 384; White River Turnpike Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 21 Vt. 590.

20. Northern Coal, etc., Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, 218 Pa. St. 269, 67 Atl. 352; South Waverly's Appeal, 7 Pa. Cas. 386, 11 Atl. 245; Pepper v. Union R. Co., 113 Tenn. 53, 85 S. W. 864; Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596.

Authority to cross any "public road or way" includes city streets as well as country highways. Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561. But see Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596, holding that a right to cross "any public road" does not include city streets.

21. Madera R. Co. v. Raymond Granite Co., 3 Cal. App. 668, 87 Pac. 27; State v. Davenport, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 507; Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561; South Waverly's Appeal, 7 Pa. Cas. 386, 11 Atl. 245.

The right to construct a railroad "over or under" a highway includes the right to construct it "upon" a street or highway. State v. Davenport, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 507.

Branch lines.— The right granted to the Lake Superior, etc., R. Co. by the Minnesota statute of 1861, to construct its railroad across any public road or highway, does not extend to branch roads which are neither a part of nor appurtenant to its main line. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Duluth, 73 Minn. 270, 76 N. W. 35, 43 L. R. A. 433.

22. Allen v. Jersey City, 53 N. J. L. 522, 22 Atl. 257; Atty.-Gen. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. L. 386; Raritan Tp. v. Port Reading R. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 11, 23 Atl. 127; Northern Coal, etc., Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, 218 Pa. St. 269, 67 Atl. 352; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Speer, 56 Pa. St. 325, 94 Am. Dec. 841; Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head (Tenn.) 596; Ottawa v. Canada Atlantic R. Co., 33 Can. Sup. Ct. 376 [affirming 4 Ont. L. Rep. 56, 1 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 349 (affirming 2 Ont. L. Rep. 336)].

A railroad company authorized to construct lateral branches not exceeding three miles in length from either terminus or from any point on the line of its main road may cross roads of the township in which it is located in constructing the branches or the streets of a city formed out of a portion of the township, without the consent of the city. Northern Coal, etc., Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, 218 Pa. St. 269, 67 Atl. 352.

A mining company authorized by law to construct and operate a railroad from its works to another railroad has the same right to cross a public highway as an ordinary railroad company. Ex p. Bacot, 36 S. C. 125, 15 S. E. 204, 16 L. R. A. 586.

23. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 9 Baxt. (Tenn.) 522, holding that a statute authorizing railroad companies to connect their tracks and requiring them to interchange to specify the particular streets or highways which may be crossed.[24] The legislature may authorize a railroad company to cross streets without the consent of the municipality,[25] and under some of the statutes it is held that such consent is not necessary;[26] but it is also competent for the legislature to require that the consent of the municipality shall be first obtained,[27] and under some of the statutes a railroad company has no right to cross city streets without the consent of the municipality,[28] and such permission when granted may be restricted by such reasonable conditions as the municipality may see fit to impose.[29] In New York it is provided by statute that a railroad company shall not construct its road across a highway in any town or street in any incorporated village without an order of the supreme court,[30] or across the streets of New York city except in accordance with such authority as the legislature may subsequently provide.[31] freight impliedly authorizes a railroad company to cross a highway in connecting its tracks with another road.

24. Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561.

25. Clinton v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 24 Iowa 455; Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 105 Am. St. Rep. 428, 65 L. R. A. 561.

26. Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 113 Iowa 561, 85 N. W. 902; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Newton, 36 Iowa 299; Northern Coal, etc., Co. v. Wilkes-Barre, 218 Pa. St. 269, 67 Atl. 352; South Waverly's Appeal, 7 Pa. Cas. 386, 11 Atl. 245; Ottawa v. Canada Atlantic R. Co., 33 Can. Sup. Ct. 376 [affirming 4 Ont. L. Rep. 56, 1 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 336 (affirming 2 Ont. L. Rep. 336)].

Extent of use.— Where a railroad company is granted by a city ordinance a certain number of feet in width in which to cross a street, such grant is not exclusive, but the company may use a greater width since it has a right independently of the grant to cross streets without the consent of the municipality. Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 113 Iowa 561, 85 N. W. 902.

Longitudinal use of highway.— Under the Iowa code it is held that while a municipality cannot prevent a crossing of a street it may prevent a longitudinal use of the street, and that this includes a crossing at such an angle that the track or embankment upon which the rails are laid occupies any part of the street in front of property abutting thereon. Gates v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82 Iowa 518, 48 N. W. 1040.

27. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 159 Ill. 369, 42 N. W. 781; Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 554, 8 Cinc. L. Bul. 334.

28. Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Chicago, 220 Ill. 310, 77 N. E. 204 [affirming 121 Ill. App. 197]; Veazie v. Mayo, 45 Me. 560; Philadelphia v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 7 Pa. Co. Ct. 390; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Kensington, etc., R. Co., 33 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 182; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Syracuse, 157 Fed. 700.

In Ohio a railroad company cannot construct and maintain its road across a city street without the consent of the city authorities or without acquiring the right to do so by appropriate proceedings. Youngstown v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Cir. Ct. 214, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 121; Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 554, 8 Cinc. L. Bul. 334.

In Washington City, D. C., the right to construct a railroad across streets of the city must be obtained from congress. Edmonds v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 114 U. S. 453, 5 S. Ct. 1098, 29 L. ed. 216.

A requirement for the recording in the county commissioner's office of the written assent of the mayor and aldermen of a town or city to the construction of a railroad to cross a street is merely directory and does not constitute a condition precedent to the right to construct the road. Veazie v. Mayo, 45 Me. 560.

29. Chicago Terminal Transfer Co. v. Chicago, 220 Ill. 310, 77 N. E. 204 [affirming 121 Ill. App. 197], holding that where a municipality authorized a railroad company to construct "one or more" tracks across certain streets, the ordinance to be null and void unless such tracks should be constructed within three years, if the company within the time limited constructed only one track across the streets, its authority was exhausted and it could not, after the expiration of such time, construct additional tracks across the streets crossed by the track previously constructed.

The remedy of the railroad company in case the municipality should arbitrarily and wrongfully refuse permission to cross a street or impose unreasonable burdens or restrictions upon the railroad company is by mandamus, and not by injunction to prevent the municipality from interfering with the construction of the road. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 159 Ill. 369, 42 N. E. 781.

30. People v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 164 N. Y. 289, 58 N. E. 138 [modifying 35 N. Y. App. Div. 624, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 1112].

31. People's Rapid Transit Co. v. Dash, 125 N. Y. 93, 26 N. E. 25, 10 L. R. A. 728 [affirming 10 N. Y. Suppl. 849], holding that the act of 1860, prohibiting the building of any railroad "in, upon or along any or either of the streets or avenues of the city of New York," applies to and prohibits the building of a railroad across the streets of that city, and further, that the General Railroad Act, as amended by acts of 1880, 1887, authorizing railroad companies organized under it to cross streets and highways, does not grant

Statutes requiring the consent or petition of abuting property-owners to use the streets for railroad purposes apply only where it is proposed to locate the road along the street and not to a mere crossing of the street.[32]

b. Nature and Extent of Rights Acquired. Where a railroad crosses a highway the company does not take the land of the highway as real estate of individuals is taken,[33] and the railroad company acquires no exclusive rights in the crossing, but only the right to use it in common with the public traveling upon the highway.[34] It may use the highway only for the purpose of crossing,[35] and the right to cross does not confer a right to use the full width of its authorized right of way but only such space as is reasonably necessary for the purpose of passage,[36] and if the company acquires any rights within the limits of the highway beyond that actually occupied by the rails and road-bed, it is only such as is necessary to the full enjoyment of its right to lay the track across the highway and use it beneficially.[37] Where a railroad company constructs a bridge over its tracks at a street crossing, which is to constitute a part of the highway and to be maintained as such by the municipality, the title to the bridge is in the municipality and not the railroad company.[38]

c. Rights and Remedies of Public. Where the consent of the municipal or other public authorities is essential to the right to construct a railroad across a street or highway, a court of equity will enjoin the railroad company from proceeding without such consent to construct such crossing,[39] or from operating its trains thereon if already constructed,[40] or grant such other equitable relief as may be appropriate and necessary;[41] but unless a highway is materially obstructed or irreparable injury threatened, a mandatory injunction requiring the removal of the tracks will not be granted before final hearing.[42]

2. Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossing — a. In General. Where a railroad crosses a street or highway the legislature may regulate the manner and character of crossing,[43] or may delegate such power of regulation to a municipal corporation as to crossings within its limits;[44] and where the mode and manner of crossing is the authority made requisite by the act of 1860.

32. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dunbar, 100 Ill. 110 (holding that a statute requiring the petition of property-owners to "the use of" a street for railroad purposes or the right to lay railroad tracks "in any street" does not apply to a crossing of a street); Beekman v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 Hun (N. Y.) 14, 35 N. Y. Suppl. 84 (holding that a charter provision requiring the consent or petition of property-owners on the street "along" which a railroad is to be operated, even if having application to any but street railroads, does not apply where the construction is "across" a street).

33. Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.

34. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Elyria, 14 Ohio Cir. Ct. 48, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 312.

35. Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34; State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103.

Unauthorized uses.—A railroad acquires no right by crossing a highway to construct station-houses or other buildings thereon (State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103); or to construct a lateral branch from the main track within the limits of the highway at the crossing extending along and parallel with the highway (Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34); nor has the company any right to appropriate a portion of the highway by the construction of abutments or embankments thereon so as to exclude the public from a large portion of its width (Little Miami R. Co. v. Greene County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338).

36. Jones v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 169 Pa. St. 333, 32 Atl. 535, 47 Am. St. Rep. 916; State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103.

37. Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.

38. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Greensburg, etc., St. R. Co., 176 Pa. St. 559, 35 Atl. 122, 36 L. R. A. 839.

39. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Kensington, etc., R. Co., 33 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 182.

40. Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 554, 8 Cinc. L. Bul. 334.

41. State v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 288.

42. Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 554, 8 Cinc. L. Bul. 334.

43. People v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 70 N. Y. 569, holding that a statute requiring a railroad company to construct a bridge at the point where the road intersects a turnpike, so as to carry the turnpike over the railroad in the manner specified in such act, is constitutional.

44. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Nebr. 549, 66 N. W. 624, 53 Am. St. Rep. 557, 41 prescribed by statute the requirements must be complied with.[45] The mere right to cross a highway confers no right upon a railroad company to destroy the highway or render it useless as such,[46] and while ordinarily some impairment of the use or safety of the highway must necessarily result from the existence of the crossing,[47] it should be so located and constructed as not unnecessarily to injure the highway or impair the rights of the public in its use;[48] and frequently there are statutory or charter provisions to this effect,[49] or requiring that the highway shall be restored to its former state or such as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness.[50] The railroad company must construct and maintain a safe and suitable crossing for the passage of persons and vehicles along the highway at the crossing,[51] which duty is frequently imposed in express terms by statutory or charter provisions,[52] and the company must also construct and maintain safe and suitable

L. R. A. 481, holding that the provision of the charter of the city of Omaha, authorizing such city by ordinance to require railroad companies to construct and keep in repair viaducts over streets crossed by their tracks, is a valid exercise of the police power of the state.

In Arkansas municipal corporations may, under the general powers conferred upon them in regard to streets, prescribe the grade of approaches at railroad crossings. Hughes v. Arkansas, etc., R. Co., 74 Ark. 194, 85 S. W. 773.

45. Bangor, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 47 Me. 34.

46. Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395.

The right to use a section line highway is not taken away at the point of intersection by the construction of a railroad across it. Great Northern R. Co. v. Viborg, 17 S. D. 374, 97 N. W. 6.

Number of tracks.— Where a railroad company having the right to cross a street and, having constructed five parallel tracks, subsequently constructed four more, and the nine parallel tracks made the use of the street for ordinary travel so dangerous as practically to destroy it as a public highway, it was held that the use of such additional tracks would be enjoined. Newark v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 196, 7 Atl. 123.

47. Kyne v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 8 Houst. (Del.) 185, 14 Atl. 922; Little Miami R. Co. v. Greene County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

48. Florida.— Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395.

Maine.— Veazie v. Penobscot R. Co., 49 Me. 119.

Massachusetts.— Gillett v. Western R. Corp., 8 Allen 560.

New Jersey.— Raritan Tp. v. Port Reading R. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 11, 23 Atl. 127.

Tennessee.— Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 3 Head 596.

Vermont.— State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 266.

Crossing at right angles.—A railroad company having authority to cross city streets at grade is not in any way restricted as to the angle at which it may cross so long as the tracks are not laid in front of property belonging to others. Morgan v. Des Moines Union R. Co., 113 Iowa 561, 85 N. W. 902.

49. Dickinson v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 155 Mass. 16, 34 N. E. 334; State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13; Newark v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 196, 7 Atl. 123; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; North Manheim Tp. v. Reading, etc., R. Co., 10 Pa. Cas. 261, 14 Atl. 137.

Statutes construed.—A requirement that the crossing shall be so constructed as not to "obstruct" the highway does not mean that travel thereon shall not be rendered in any degree more inconvenient, but only that it shall not be stopped or interfered with more than is necessary. Newburyport Turnpike Corp. v. Eastern R. Co., 23 Pick. (Mass.) 326. Ground occupied by the owner in passing from one part of his farm to another is not an "established road or way" which the Pennsylvania statute of 1849 provides must not be impeded or obstructed by a railroad. Ambler's Appeal, 2 Pa. Cas. 375, 4 Atl. 187.

50. See infra, VI, D, 3, a.

51. Indiana.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. McIntosh, 140 Ind. 261, 38 N. E. 476.

Massachusetts.— Gillett v. Western R. Corp., 8 Allen 560.

Michigan.— Tobias v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 103 Mich. 330, 61 N. W. 514; Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 108, 17 N. W. 717.

Nebraska.— Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Brady, 39 Nebr. 27, 57 N. W. 767.

New York.— Gale v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 76 N. Y. 594; Hoyt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 6 N. Y. St. 7.

Vermont.— Mann v. Central Vermont R. Co., 55 Vt. 484, 45 Am. Rep. 628.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 266, 959.

Liability for injuries due to defective character of crossing see infra, X, F, 3.

The fact that there is a steep hill at one end of a street which renders it impracticable for loaded teams will not excuse the railroad company from building a crossing before the hill is graded, where there are citizens living on the street between the hill and the railroad who desire to pass over it. Ft. Dodge v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 389, 54 N. W. 243.

52. Illinois.— Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Johns, 106 Ill. App. 427.

approaches to the crossing.[53] What is a suitable and sufficient approach depends upon the circumstances of the particular case,[54] and may require the erection of guard rails at cuts or embankments,[55] or the bridging over of ditches.[56] The width of the crossing and approaches thereto depends upon the circumstances of the case and the character and use of the highway,[57] as they do not necessarily imply the full width of the highway or right of way of the railroad.[58] In the case

Indiana.— Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 149 Ind. 276, 49 N. E. 2.

Iowa.— Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 234.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 39 Kan. 419, 18 Pac. 486.

Michigan.— Tobias v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 103 Mich. 330, 61 N. W. 514; Thayer v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 93 Mich. 150, 53 N. W. 216.

Missouri.— Lincoln v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. 27.

Nebraska.— Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Koonce, 34 Nebr. 479, 51 N. W. 1033.

New Jersey.— Raritan Tp. v. Port Reading R. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 11, 23 Atl. 127.

New York.— Gale v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 76 N. Y. 594; Hoyt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 6 N. Y. St. 7.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 266, 959.

A statute is not unconstitutional as imposing a burden which did not exist when a railroad company was incorporated, which requires railroad companies to construct and keep in repair good and sufficient crossings where their roads cross a public highway. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 29 Nebr. 412, 45 N. W. 469.

Lighting overhead bridge.— Under a statute making it the duty of railroad companies to provide "suitable crossings" for the accommodation of the public, a railroad company must furnish lights for an overhead bridge which the public safety requires to be lighted. Concord v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 69 N. H. 37, 38 Atl. 378.

The failure of an incorporated town to enact an ordinance for the improvement of its streets and to fix the grade thereof does not relieve a railroad company of the duty imposed by law to properly construct street crossings over its tracks. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 149 Ind. 276, 49 N. E. 2.

53. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Paradise Highway Com'rs, 61 Ill. App. 203; Moberly v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 17 Mo. App. 518.

An approach is "an embankment, grade, bridge, or structure which the construction of the road has made necessary to be erected or constructed within the right of way to enable persons passing along the highway with teams and vehicles to reach the crossing of the railroad." Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Paradise Highway Com'rs, 61 Ill. App. 203, 208.

The term "crossing" includes the necessary embankments and approaches to the railroad. Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 234; Moberly v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 17 Mo. App. 518.

The grade of the approach must not, under the Delaware statute, be greater than five degrees (Kyne v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 8 Houst. (Del.) 185, 14 Atl. 922); and a municipal corporation under a general power to establish, improve, and keep streets in repair may regulate the grade of approaches to street crossings) (Hughes v. Arkansas, etc., R. Co., 74 Ark. 194, 85 S. W. 773); but in the absence of statute they need not be extended back so that there is practically no incline, but may be constructed at whatever grade will furnish a safe and suitable crossing for the ordinary purposes of travel (Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Brazzill, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 622, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 363).

54. Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 154 Ill. 539, 39 N. E. 478 [affirming 49 Ill. App. 129].

55. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 34 Ind. App. 636, 73 N. E. 630; Seybold v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. App. 367, 46 N. E. 1054; Veazie v. Penobscot R. Co., 49 Me. 119.

Under the English statute, section 62 of the Railways Clauses Act of 1845, providing for hand rails at certain crossings, the justices have no power to order a railroad company to erect fences and hand rails at a level crossing on a public carriage road. Reg. v. Schofield, 58 J. P. 132, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 313, 5 Reports 575.

56. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Paradise, 61 Ill. App. 203, holding that an approach includes a bridge made necessary in order to reach the crossing by reason of the diversion of a natural watercourse within the right of way in the construction of the road.

A railroad company is not required to bridge ditches, although within the limits of the right of way, if so far from the track that what is a safe and proper approach for going on and over the crossing does not extend back so as to include such ditches. O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572.

57. Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 154 Ill. 539, 39 N. E. 478 [affirming 49 Ill. App. 129]; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 57 Kan. 154, 45 Pac. 576.

58. Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 154 Ill. 539, 39 N. E. 478 [affirming 49 Ill. App. 129]; O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572.

Crossing defined.— The words "railroad crossings" mean "that portion composing the track or road-bed" and "do not mean that the crossing includes the entire width of the right of way." O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572.

The term "approaches" with regard to railroad crossings "means the embankments, or bridges, or grades, or structures of any sort, on each side of the railroad at the crossing, which serve as the passage or way for ap-of a street in a city they should ordinarily cover the entire width of the street;[59] but in the case of ordinary highways it is not necessary that they should cover the entire width of the highway, but only what is reasonably necessary for the accommodation of the public travel thereon,[60] and the same is true to a considerable extent with regard to streets in villages and some cities or particular localities therein.[61] So also the length of the approaches depends upon the circumstances of the case,[62] and they need not necessarily extend back for the full width on the railroad right of way,[63] although the circumstances may require that they shall do so.[64]

b. Crossing At, Above, or Below Grade. In the absence of any statutory provision to the contrary a railroad company having a right to construct a railroad which will cross a street or highway may cross the same at grade,[65] provided the crossing is so constructed as not unreasonably to impede or obstruct the safe and convenient use of the highway,[66] and subject to the duty of restoring the highway to its former usefulness;[67] or it may carry its road above the street or highway by means of a bridge or viaduct;[68] and if authorized to change the grade of highways may lower the grade of a highway so as to make it pass under the railroad.[69] A statutory provision that a street or highway in a town or city may be crossed by a bridge is not mandatory but permissive, leaving it optional with the railroad company to grade or bridge the crossing,[70] and a requirement that the company shall in crossing so construct its road as not to impede or obstruct the safe and convenient use of the highway does not require that the crossing shall be at grade;[71] while on the other hand a statute providing how grade crossings shall be constructed does not authorize all crossings to be at grade, but applies only where such crossings are proper.[72] The legislature may prohibit or require the abolition of grade crossings,[73] or require the construction of bridges proaching the crossing. . . . They do not and should not, in all cases, include all that part of the right of way that is covered by the street or highway and is not immediately at the crossing." Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 154 Ill. 539, 544, 547, 39 N. E. 478 [affirming 49 Ill. App. 129].

59. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Johns, 106 Ill. App. 427; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489.

60. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Johns, 106 Ill. App. 427; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 57 Kan. 154, 45 Pac. 576; Ellis v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 17 Mo. App. 126.

61. Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 154 Ill. 539, 39 N. E. 478 [affirming 49 Ill. App. 129].

62. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Truesdall, 68 Ill. App. 324.

63. O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572.

64. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Truesdall, 68 Ill. App. 324.

65. Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 500, 59 Atl. 303 [affirmed in 70 N. J. Eq. 806, 65 Atl. 1117]; In re West Jersey Traction Co., 59 N. J. Eq. 63, 45 Atl. 282; Baxter v. Spuyten Duyvil, etc., R. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 428, 11 Abb. Pr. N. S. 178; Johnston v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 10 R. I. 365; Morris v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 26 Fed. 22.

66. See Johnston v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 10 R. I. 365.

A railroad company will be enjoined from constructing a "Y" at grade across the public streets of a borough when the only reason for so doing is to save the expense of improving a turn-table, and such construction would make three grade crossings within a distance of five hundred and fifty feet. Norristown v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 17 Montg. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 72.

67. See infra, VI, D, 3.

68. Bubenzer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., (Del. Ch. 1905) 61 Atl. 270.

69. Reg. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 2 Q. B. 569, 2 G. & D. 1, 6 Jur. 820, 11 L. J. Q. B. 178, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 22, 42 E. C. L. 811; Breynton v. London, etc., R. Co., 10 Beav. 238, 50 Eng. Reprint 574, 2 Coop. t. Cott. 108, 11 Jur. 28, 4 R. & Can. Cas. 553, 47 Eng. Reprint 1076.

70. De Lucca v. North Little Rock, 142 Fed. 597.

71. Johnston v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 10 R. I. 365.

72. State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153.

73. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Connersville, (Ind. 1908) 83 N. E. 503; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

A statute relative to railroads "hereafter constructed" crossing at grade does not apply to a railroad company which, prior to the passage of such statute, had located its line of road and had incurred expenses upon the or viaducts at crossings,[74] or authorize a municipal corporation to require such a crossing;[75] while on the other hand the legislature may expressly authorize grade crossings,[76] or it may authorize municipal corporations to permit railroad companies to construct grade crossings within their limits.[77] In New Jersey the statute prohibits the construction of grade crossings in cities unless permitted by the common council or other governing body in charge of its streets, which authorities, may, however, permit a grade crossing,[78] and in New York the statute provides that steam railroads subsequently built shall be so constructed as to avoid grade crossings whenever practicable to do so.[79] Where the statute provides that the crossing may be so constructed that the highway shall pass over or under the railroad, as may be found most expedient, the choice rests within the discretion of the railroad company,[80] which, if exercised in good faith will not be interfered with by the courts,[81] and it seems that the term "under or over" authorizes a crossing at grade.[82] Where the crossing is effected by carrying the railroad over the highway by means of a bridge, the bridge must be constructed at a sufficient height above the highway properly to accommodate the amount and character of travel upon the highway;[83] and if practicable to do so the bridge must be constructed so as to span the entire width of the way and not merely the traveled portion and without any pillars or abutments which will restrict the width or obstruct the use of the highway,[84] particularly in the case of road-bed, bridges, etc., although the road was not completed at the crossing. Atty.-Gen. v. Ware River R. Co., 115 Mass. 400.

Abolition of grade crossings see infra, VI, D, 5, b.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Nebr. 549, 66 N. W. 624, 53 Am. St. Rep. 557, 41 L. R. A. 481; People v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 70 N. Y. 569.

75. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Nebr. 549, 66 N. W. 624, 53 Am. St. Rep. 557, 41 L. R. A. 481.

In Kansas a city of the first class has the power in proper cases and in a proper manner to order a railroad company to construct a viaduct over its tracks, where the same crosses a public street. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 33 Kan. 176, 5 Pac. 772.

76. Cambridge v. Railroad Com'rs, 153 Mass. 161, 26 N. E. 241.

77. Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 500, 59 Atl. 303 [affirmed in 70 N. J. Eq. 806, 65 Atl. 1117].

78. Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 500, 59 Atl. 303 [affirmed in 70 N. J. Eq. 806, 65 Atl. 1117], holding, further, that a boulevard is a "street" within the application of the statute.

In Jersey City the board of street and water commissioners is the governing body with regard to streets and has power to authorize grade crossings by railroads over the streets. Oliver v. Jersey City, 63 N. J. L. 96, 42 Atl. 782 [reversed on other grounds in 63 N. J. L. 634, 44 Atl. 709, 76 Am. St. Rep. 228, 48 L. R. A. 412].

A private individual cannot object to a crossing at grade on the ground that the statute prevents railroads from crossing any street or highway in any city except above or below grade, especially where he will not be particularly injured by a crossing at grade. Packard v. Bergen Neck R. Co., 48 N. J. Eq. 281, 22 Atl. 227.

79. Bolivar v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. App. Div. 387, 84 N. Y. Suppl. 678 [affirmed in 179 N. Y. 523, 71 N. E. 1141].

80. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bentley, 64 Ill. 438; Conklin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 107, 6 N. E. 663; People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [affirming on this point 12 Hun 195].

Highways laid out after the construction of the railroad as well as previously existing highways are within the application of the rule giving the railroad company the election as to the mode of crossing, under a statute providing that the railroad company may carry the highway under or over its track, as may be found most expedient. Jamaica v. Long Island R. Co., 21 N. Y. Suppl. 327.

81. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302; Jamaica v. Long Island R. Co., 21 N. Y. Suppl. 327.

82. In re West Jersey Traction Co., 59 N. J. Eq. 63, 45 Atl. 282, where the court said that a railroad passed "over" a public road when it crossed the same at grade. See also Conklin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 107, 6 N. E. 663.

83. Gray v. Danbury, 54 Conn. 574, 10 Atl. 198; Cook v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 133 Mass. 185.

Where it is sought to restrain a railroad company from building a low bridge over a turnpike and it appears that much work has been done in building such bridge before the turnpike company objected, and that the expense of raising the bridge would be heavy, and that the difficulty could be remedied at much less expense by lowering the surface of the turnpike at the crossing, the court will order the latter to be done at the expense of the railroad company. Wooster Turnpike Co. v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 15 Ohio Cir. Ct 268, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 269.

84. Raritan Tp. v. Port Reading R. Co.,

streets,[85] and a municipal corporation has no right to authorize the construction of a bridge with pillars or abutments which constitute an obstruction to public travel.[86] The railroad company must comply with any express statutory requirements as to the width of the span of the bridge,[87] or its height above the level of the highway,[88] and the level of the highway beneath the bridge must not be so depressed as to form a basin which will become flooded and obstruct travel.[89] Where the highway is carried over the railroad upon a bridge, the character of the bridge depends upon the circumstances of the particular case,[90] and in the case of an ordinary highway it is not necessary to bridge the entire width of the highway, but only to construct a bridge reasonably sufficient to accommodate the public travel,[91] and even in the case of streets the bridge need not necessarily be the full width of the street; [92] but a statute prescribing the minimum width for the bridge does not authorize the company to reduce that portion of the highway on each side forming the approaches to the bridge to the same minimum width.[93] So also the bridge need only be of sufficient strength for the ordinary highway travel, and the railroad company is not required to make it sufficient to meet the additional use of a street railway.[94] Any statutory requirements as to the grade of the approaches to the bridge must be complied with.[95]

c. Character of Highway. A statute requiring the construction of crossings where a railroad crosses a public road or street applies only to streets and highways legally established; [96] and a statute requiring an under crossing where a railroad 49 N. J. Eq. 11, 23 Atl. 127; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 478, 53 N. E. 44, 533 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510]; Radnor Tp. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 214 Pa. St. 299, 63 Atl. 694; Schwenk v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley Co., 2 Chest. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 177.

As a mere saving of expense a railroad company has no right to construct a bridge which does not span the entire width of the highway or to construct pillars or abutments within its limits. Raritan Tp. v. Port Reading R. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 11, 23 Atl. 127.

If the statute prescribes the width to be left under the bridge the railroad company may erect piers for the bridge upon the highway provided a clear unobstructed space is left of the width required by the statute. Atty.-Gen. v. London, etc., R. Co., 7 L. J. Ch. 15, 1 R. & Can. Cas. 283, 9 Sim. 78, 16 Eng. Ch. 78, 59 Eng. Reprint 287.

85. Schwenk v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill R. Co., 2 Chest. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 177.

86. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 478, 53 N. E. 44, 533 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510]; Elyria v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 23 Ohio Cir. Ct. 482.

87. Atty.-Gen. v. Tewkesbury, etc., R. Co., 1 De G. J. & S. 423, 9 Jur. N. S. 951, 32 L. J. Ch. 482, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 682, 66 Eng. Ch. 423, 46 Eng. Reprint 168.

Under the English statute of 1845 providing that in the case of railroad bridges constructed over turnpikes there shall be left a clear space of thirty-five feet unless the average available width for the passage of carriages is less, in which case the width of the bridge need not exceed such average available width, provided it shall not be less than twenty feet, footways are not to be included in determining the average available width of the turnpike. Reg. v. Rigby, 14 Q. B. 687, 14 Jur. 329, 19 L. J. Q. B. 153, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 479, 68 E. C. L. 687.

88. Atty.-Gen. v. Furness R. Co., 47 L. J. Ch. 776, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 555, 26 Wkly. Rep. 650.

89. Atty.-Gen. v. Furness R. Co., 47 L. J. Ch. 776, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 555, 26 Wkly. Rep. 650.

90. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 266; Reg. v. Great Western R. Co., 12 U. C. Q. B. 250.

91. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 266; Radnor Tp. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 214 Pa. St. 299, 63 Atl. 694.

92. Reg. v. Great Western R. Co., 12 U. C. Q. B. 250.

93. Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 2 Q. B. 47, 1 G. & D. 324, 4 Jur. 966, 10 L. J. Q. B. 322, 2 R. & Can. Cas. 694, 42 E. C. L. 565.

94. People v. Adams, 88 Hun (N. Y.) 122, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 579 [affirmed in 147 N. Y. 722, 42 N. E. 725]; Conshohocken R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 445; Briden v. New York, etc., R. Co., 27 R. I. 569, 65 Atl. 315.

95. Atty.-Gen. v. Mid-Kent R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 100, 16 Wkly. Rep. 258.

Substituted road.— Where a road is diverted and a substitute constructed which crosses the railroad by a bridge, the general requirements of the statute as to the grade of approaches apply to the substituted road. Atty.-Gen. v. London, etc., R. Co., 7 L. J. Ch. 15, 1 R. & Can. Cas. 283, 9 Sim. 78, 16 Eng. Ch. 78, 59 Eng. Reprint 287.

96. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Gordon, 157 Mo. 71, 57 S. W. 742, holding that if there are no condemnation proceedings or compensation made to a railroad company for the laying out of a street across its right of way, the street is not legally established, and a statute requiring a railroad company crosses "any public highway" at a certain grade above the original level of the highway applies only to a highway laid out pursuant to law or used for such length of time as to constitute it a public highway;[97] but a statute authorizing a town to require a bridge at the crossing of any highway therein applies to a highway established by law, although not constructed;[98] and a statute requiring that a railroad company when it crosses "any established road or way" shall be so constructed as not to impede the travel thereon applies to a street duly laid out, although not actually opened for public use.[99] A statute prohibiting the crossing at grade of "the streets or highways in any city" does not apply to the crossing of a canal;[1] and a statute prohibiting a grade crossing of a street or highway leading to a public cemetery of a city does not apply to a street leading to a cemetery belonging to a private association.[2] So also a statute prohibiting grade crossings where a railroad crosses a turnpike or public highway does not include a public footpath.[3]

d. Changing Location or Grade of Highway. In the absence of statute a railroad company, in crossing a highway, has no right to change the location or route of the highway,[4] and to authorize such change the right must be conferred in express terms or by necessary implication.[5] The right is, however, frequently expressly conferred by statutory or charter provisions to make such changes in the location of a highway in certain cases,[6] and to acquire by purchase or con-to construct crossings "where its railroad crosses 'public roads or town streets now or hereafter to be opened for public use,'" does not apply.

97. Northumberland v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 35 N. H. 574.

98. Worcester, etc., R. Co. v. Nashua, 63 N. H. 593, 4 Atl. 298.

99. Chester v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 140 Pa. St. 275, 21 Atl. 320.

1. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dover, etc., R. Co., 43 N. J. L. 528, holding that, although the canal is declared to be a public highway, it is not within the application of the statute and may be crossed by a railroad by a lift bridge constructed at the grade of the canal banks.

2. Youngstown v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Cir. Ct. 214, 2 Ohio Cir. Dec. 121.

3. Dartford Rural Dist. Council v. Bexley Heath R. Co., [1898] A. C. 210, 62 J. P. 227, 67 L. J. Q. B. 231, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 601, 46 Wkly. Rep. 235 [affirming [1896] 2 Q. B. 74, 60 J. P. 454, 65 L. J. Q. B. 469, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 540, 44 Wkly. Rep. 501].

4. State v. Warren R. Co., 29 N. J. L. 353; Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 148 N. Y. 640, 43 N. E. 76 [reversing 66 Hun 377, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 503]; Hughes v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 2 R. I. 493.

5. State v. Warren R. Co., 29 N. J. L. 353; Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 148 N. Y. 640, 43 N. E. 76 [reversing 66 Hun 377, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 503].

Provisions not authorizing change.—A railroad company has no right to change the route or location of a highway under a charter provision authorizing it to "alter and grade" highways crossed by its road (State v. Warren R. Co., 29 N. J. L. 353); or authorizing it to raise or lower the highway so that the road may pass under, over, or across the same (Hughes v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 2 R. I. 493); or under a statute authorizing a railroad company to construct its road "across, along or upon" a street or highway, provided it shall restore the same to "its former state, or to such state as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness;" and providing that the highway "may be carried under or over the track, as may be found most expedient" (Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 148 N. Y. 640, 43 N. E. 76 [reversing 66 Hun 377, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 503]).

6. Florida.— Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bentley, 64 Ill. 438.

Indiana.— Clawson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 95 Ind. 152.

New York.— Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 148 N. Y. 640, 43 N. E. 76 [reversing 66 Hun 377, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 503].

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 128 Pa. St. 509, 18 Atl. 522; North Manheim Tp.'s Appeal, 10 Pa. Cas. 261, 14 Atl. 137.

England.— Reg. v. Wycombe R. Co., L. R. 2 Q. B. 310, 8 B. & S. 259, 36 L. J. Q. B. 121, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 610, 15 Wkly. Rep. 489.

Canada.— Fredericksburgh v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 555.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 270.

The necessity need not be absolute or such as cannot be overcome by engineering skill or money, in order to authorize a change of location, but the question depends upon what is reasonably practicable under the circumstances of the case, and is to be determined in the first instance by the railroad company, and unless its discretion is abused or used without due regard to the public interest, it will not be interfered with by the courts (Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 128 Pa. St. 509, 18 Atl. 522); and the fact that a dangerous grade crossing may be avoided by a change in the location of the highway is a sufficient necessity to authorize demnation such additional land as may be necessary for effecting the change,[7] the company being required in making such change to reconstruct the road at its own expense upon a suitable location and in a proper manner so as to provide an adequate substitute for the original road,[8] which when duly established becomes a part of the public highway, to be maintained as such and not a private road of the railroad company;[9] and after the new location has been duly completed and adopted and used by the public the old way cannot be reopened and the railroad company compelled to restore it.[10] It is often necessary in crossing a highway to alter the grade of the highway, since it is important and often necessary that the railroad should be kept upon a given level and not altered to meet the varying levels of intersecting roads,[11] and it seems that this right exists independently of statute as an incident of the right to cross, provided the highway is not unnecessarily obstructed or impaired.[12] The right to change the grade of a highway for the purpose of crossing is in some cases expressly conferred by statutory or charter the company to make the change (Abington Tp. v. Northern Pennsylvania R. Co., 2 Pa. Dist. 68, 12 Pa. Co. Ct. 118).

Application to streets.— Ohio Rev. St. § 3284, providing that when necessary to cross a "road" or "stream" a railroad company may divert the same from its location or bed, but shall without unnecessary delay place such road or stream in such condition as not to impair its former usefulness, does not apply to streets. Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Cincinnati, 8 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 554, 8 Cinc. L. Bul. 334.

Where the right to change is qualified, as by a charter provision authorizing a change in the location of a highway, which is so situated that the railroad "can not be judiciously laid out and made without interfering therewith," the company has no right to change the location of a highway merely to avoid the expense of constructing a bridge or embankment (Norwich, etc., R. Co. v. Killingly, 25 Conn. 402); and a statute authorizing a change in the line of a highway "where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such highway . . . desirable, with a view to a more easy ascent or descent," does not authorize such change at a grade crossing where there is no cutting or embankment at the crossing (Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 148 N. Y. 640, 43 N. E. 76 [reversing 66 Hun 377, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 503]).

Under the English statutes authorizing a diversion of a highway, such diversion is permissible only when necessary for the purpose of constructing the railroad, and the company cannot change the location of a highway merely to avoid the expense of constructing a crossing over or under it (Reg. v. Wycombe R. Co., L. R. 2 Q. B. 310, 8 B. & S. 259, 36 L. J. Q. B. 121, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 610, 15 Wkly. Rep. 489); or merely in order to carry the highway across the railroad at right angles (Atty.-Gen. v. Dorst Cent. R. Co., 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 608, 9 Wkly. Rep. 189); but where if the railroad crossed a highway without diverting it a bridge would have to be made for the highway over the railroad, the highway may be diverted to a place where there is a level crossing if the road so diverted will be more convenient to the public than the vertical diversion by a bridge (Atty.-Gen. v. Ely, etc., R. Co., L. R. 4 Ch. 194, 38 L. J. Ch. 258, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 1, 17 Wkly. Rep. 356); and the authority conferred by the statute to divert a public highway applies to a permanent diversion and not merely to a temporary diversion for the purpose of constructing the railroad (Phillipps v. London, etc., R. Co., 4 Giffard 46, 9 Jur. N. S. 348, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 663, 66 Eng. Reprint 614).

7. Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bentley, 64 Ill. 438; Clawson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 95 Ind. 152.

8. Bean v. Howe, 85 Pa. St. 260; Ridley Tp. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 2 Lanc. L. Rev. (Pa.) 375; Atty.-Gen. v. Barry Docks, etc., Co., 35 Ch. D. 573, 51 J. P. 644, 56 L. J. Ch. 1018, 56 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 35 Wkly. Rep. 830; Spencer v. London, etc., R. Co., 7 L. J. Ch. 281, 1 R. & Can. Cas. 159, 8 Sim. 193, 8 Eng. Ch. 193, 59 Eng. Reprint 77.

9. Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395.

Property in old road.— Where a railway company having made a substitute road inclosed and took possession of the portion of the old road which had ceased by the diversion to form a part of the turnpike road, it was held that there was nothing in the English Turnpike Act (3 Geo. III, c. 126) or in 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, § 16, to place the company in the position of trustees of the substituted road so as to transfer to them the soil of the old road. Salisbury v. Great Northern R. Co., 5 C. B. N. S. 174, 5 Jur. N. S. 70, 28 L. J. C. P. 40, 7 Wkly. Rep. 75, 94 E. C. L. 174.

10. Schermerhorn v. Mt. McGregor R. Co., 69 Hun (N. Y.) 512, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 417; Pennsylvania R. Co.'s Appeal, 128 Pa. St 509, 18 Atl. 522.

11. Newburyport Turnpike Corp. v. Eastern R. Co., 23 Pick. (Mass.) 326.

12. Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395; Veazie v. Penobscot R. Co., 49 Me. 119; Conklin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 107, 6 N. E. 663; Atty.-Gen. v. Great Western R. Co., 14 Wkly. Rep. 726. Compare State v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 32 N. J. L. 220.

provisions,[13] and a provision authorizing a change in the grade of a highway for the purpose of passing "over or under" the same has been held to authorize such change for the purpose of crossing at the same level [14]

e. Character of Crossing as Constituting Nuisance.[15] The mere construction of a railroad across a highway, pursuant to legislative authority, is not a public nuisance,[16] although the crossing is at grade;[17] nor, where a railroad in crossing has changed the location of the highway pursuant to legislative authority, is the new crossing a private nuisance to persons residing near it, unless the company has been guilty of a want of proper care and skill in exercising the power conferred.[18] A railroad company may, however, be guilty of creating a nuisance by constructing a crossing in such a manner as improperly to obstruct or impair the use of the highway,[19] or to render the crossing of the tracks unsafe for travel,[20] or by locating the crossing at an unauthorized place,[21] or changing the location of the railroad without authority so as to cross the highway at a different place,[22] or by erecting buildings within the limits of the highway.[23]

f. Remedies. A railroad company, when legally bound to construct a crossing or a crossing of a particular character, may be compelled to do so by mandamus,[24]

13. Gates v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82 Iowa 518, 48 N. W. 1040; Newburyport Turnpike Corp. v. Eastern R. Co., 23 Pick. (Mass.) 326; Hughes v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 2 R. I. 493; Beardmer v. London, etc., R. Co., 1 Hall & T. 161, 47 Eng. Reprint 1367, 13 Jur. 327, 18 L. J. Ch. 432, 1 Macn. G. 112, 47 Eng. Ch. 112, 41 Eng. Reprint 1205, 5 R. & Can. Cas. 728.

14. Newburyport Turnpike Corp. v. Eastern R. Co., 23 Pick. (Mass.) 326, holding that a statute authorizing a change in the grade of a highway, for the purpose of passing "over or under" the same, authorizes a change in the grade of a turnpike road for the purpose of constructing the road across it upon the same level. But see Gates v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82 Iowa 518, 48 N. W. 1040, holding that a similar provision does not authorize a change in the grade of a city street for the purpose of crossing the same at grade.

15. Remedies in case of nuisance see infra, VI, D, 2, f.

16. Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 73 Pa. St. 29; Johnston v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 10 R. I. 365.

The Maine statute of 1853, regulating the mode in which railroads shall cross highways, is not applicable to railroads already constructed, and therefore the provision therein making a railroad which has not conformed to the statute a nuisance and holding the directors personally liable does not apply to such roads. Veazie v. Mayo, 49 Me. 156.

17. Hudson County v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 500, 59 Atl. 303 [affirmed in 70 N. J. Eq. 806, 65 Atl. 1117]; Johnston v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 10 R. I. 365.

18. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bentley, 64 Ill. 438.

19. People v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 164 N. Y. 289, 58 N. E. 138 [modifying 36 N. Y. App. Div. 629 54 N. Y. Suppl. 1112]; Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 478, 53 N. E. 44, 533 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510]; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

Bridges at crossings.— The erection by a railroad company of a bridge on a street under a decree of court permitting it is legal and such structure is not a nuisance (Cass v. Pennsylvania Co., 159 Pa. St. 273, 28 Atl. 161); unless the bridge is too low or too narrow for the proper passage of teams and vehicles under it (Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471); nor is the construction by a railroad company whose road crosses the highway below grade of a bridge of less width than the highway a nuisance per se (People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 266).

20. Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147, holding that the keeping of the iron rails of a railroad six or eight inches above the level of the highway at a public crossing constitutes a public nuisance.

21. Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

22. People v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 164 N. Y. 289, 58 N. E. 138 [modifying 36 N. Y. App. Div. 629, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 1112].

23. State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103.

24. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 33 Kan. 176, 5 Pac. 772; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Nebr. 549, 66 N. W. 624, 53 Am. St. Rep. 557, 41 L. R. A. 481. See also, generally, MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 367.

But mandamus will not be granted to compel the construction of a viaduct at a crossing required by a city ordinance passed pursuant to legislative authority, where the ordinance is vague and indefinite as to the dimensions and materials of the viaduct and its construction as required by the ordinance would necessitate a change in certain streets which would constitute a violation of a statute. State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 33 Kan. 176, 5 Pac. 772.

Form of writ.— Under the English statute of 1845 a railway company has the option or, pursuant to a statute so providing, by a bill in equity to enforce the specific performance of such duty,[25] or the county or municipal authorities may, upon a failure or refusal of the railroad company to do so, do the work and recover from the railroad company;[26] but the existence of this right does not preclude the right to maintain a suit or proceeding to compel the railroad company to perform such duty.[27] Where the mode of crossing is discretionary with the railroad company a court of equity will not interfere, in the absence of a gross abuse of such discretion after the road is built and in operation;[28] but a railroad company may be enjoined from constructing a railroad bridge over a highway with abutments which encroach upon the width of the highway,[29] from constructing a crossing at grade where the statute provides that grade crossings shall be avoided whenever practicable to do so, and the proper authorities have not passed upon and determined the character of crossing,[30] from making an unauthorized change in the grade of a street at a crossing which will deprive the public of its convenient use,[31] or from taking or destroying a portion of an existing highway until it has provided a proper substitute as required by statute.[32] A railroad company may also be compelled by mandatory injunction to comply with statutory requirements as to the height of a railroad bridge above the level of the highway,[33] or the grade of the approaches to a highway bridge over the railroad.[34] Where the crossing as constructed constitutes a public nuisance the railroad company may be indicted,[35] or a municipality, pursuant to legislative authority to abate nuisances and remove obstructions from highways, may summarily abate the nuisance,[36] or a private individual who sustains a special injury thereby may maintain a private action for damages or to enjoin its continuance.[37] where its line crosses a turnpike road or public highway, unless otherwise provided by the special act either to carry the road over the railway or railway over the road, and a mandamus commanding a company to do one of these two things is therefore defective unless it shows on the face of it circumstances which establish the impossibility of the company exercising this option. Reg. v. South-Eastern R. Co., 4 H. L. Cas. 471, 17 Jur. 901, 10 Eng. Reprint 545 [affirming 17 Q. B. 485, 20 L. J. Q. B. 428, 79 E. C. L. 485].

25. Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 6 Cush. (Mass.) 424; Montclair Tp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 N. J. Eq. 436, 18 Atl. 242.

26. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Baudat, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 595, 45 S. W. 939.

27. Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 6 Cush. (Mass.) 424; Montclair Tp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 45 N. J. Eq. 436, 18 Atl. 242.

28. South Waverly v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 Pa. Cas. 386, 11 Atl. 245.

29. Schwenk v. Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley R. Co., 2 Chest. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 177. But see Raritan Tp. v. Port Reading R. Co., 49 N. J. Eq. 11, 23 Atl. 127, holding that an injunction will not be granted, although the abutments encroach upon the limits of the highway, where the space left is sufficient for the present needs of the highway, and the remedy by indictment is adequate to compel a restoration thereof for its entire width.

30. Bolivar v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. App. Div. 387, 84 N. Y. Suppl. 678 [affirmed in 179 N. Y. 523, 71 N. E. 1141].

31. Jersey City v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 40 N. J. Eq. 417, 2 Atl. 262, holding further that a mnnicipality which has by law the supervision of the public highways within its limits may maintain the suit.

32. Atty.-Gen. v. Barry Docks, etc., Co., 35 Ch. D. 573, 51 J. P. 644, 56 L. J. Ch. 1018, 56 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 35 Wkly. Rep. 830; Atty.-Gen. v. Widnes R. Co., 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 449, 22 Wkly. Rep. 607.

Form of injunction.— In granting an injunction to restrain a railroad company from interfering with a road until it shall have provided another as convenient as the former or as near thercto as the circumstances permit, as required by statute, the court cannot direct what the company ought to do except by stating the reasons which induce the court to come to this conclusion or the manner in which it appears to the court that that which seems an evil can be remedied. Atty.-Gen. v. London, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. & Sm. 439, 13 Jur. 467, 64 Eng. Reprint 552.

33. Atty.-Gen. v. Furness R. Co., 47 L. J. Ch. 776, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 555, 26 Wkly. Rep. 650.

34. Atty.-Gen. v. Mid-Kent R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 100, 16 Wkly. Rep. 258.

35. Com. v. Vermont, etc., R. Corp., 4 Gray (Mass.) 22; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; State v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 103.

36. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 478, 53 N. E. 44, 533 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510].

37. Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 148 N. Y. 640, 43 N. E. 76 [reversing 66 Hun 377, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 503], holding

3. Restoring and Maintaining Highway — a. Duty to Restore Highway. Where a railroad crosses a highway it is the duty of the railroad company to restore the highway to its former condition or such condition as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness.[38] This is a common-law duty,[39] but is very generally imposed upon railroad companies by statutory or charter provisions.[40] The duty of restoring the highway applies to any and all cases where the railroad crosses a highway, whether at grade or otherwise,[41] and is a condition inseparable from the right to cross,[42] or the right to alter the grade of a highway,[43] or to change the location of the highway where such change is authorized;[44] but is not a condition precedent to the right to cross the same with the railroad,[45] and where in crossing it is necessary to reconstruct the highway, the company that such action may be maintained where the unlawful change in or obstruction of a highway by a railroad company diverts travel from the abutting premises of a hotel-keeper, and seriously interferes with his business.

38. Kyne v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 8 Houst. (Del.) 185, 14 Atl. 922; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 34 Ind. App. 636, 73 N. E. 630; Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147; Louisville Southern R. Co. v. Harrodsburg, 32 S. W. 604, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 780; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Johnson, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 322, 85 S. W. 476.

39. Florida.— Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395.

Illinois.— People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 118.

Kentucky.— Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147.

Minnesota.— State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656.

Missouri.— State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 274, 275.

Nothing but express statute will relieve a railroad company from restoring a public highway which it crosses to its former usefulness. State v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 13.

40. Connecticut.— Hamden v. New Haven, etc., Co., 27 Conn. 158.

Indiana.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Noblesville, 159 Ind. 237, 64 N. E. 860; Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. McIntosh, 140 Ind. 261, 38 N. E. 476.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Townsend, 71 Kan. 524, 81 Pac. 205; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 39 Kan. 419, 18 Pac. 486.

Kentucky.— Greenup County v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 88 Ky. 659, 11 S. W. 774, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 169.

Michigan.— Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 108, 17 N. W. 717.

Minnesota.— State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153.

Missouri.— State v. Wabash R. Co., 206 Mo. 251, 103 S. W. 1137.

New York.— Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845; People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302.

North Carolina.—State v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719.

Ohio.— Little Miami R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

Tennessee.— Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea 300, 2 S. W. 208].

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Haddox, 36 Tex. Civ. App. 385, 81 S. W. 1036; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Byas, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 657, 35 S. W. 22.

Wisconsin.—Oshkosh v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 74 Wis. 534, 43 N. W. 489, 17 Am. St. Rep. 175; Oconto v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Wis. 231; Roberts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 35 Wis. 679.

England.— Atty.-Gen. v. London, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. & Sm. 439, 13 Jur. 467, 64 Eng. Reprint 552.

Canada.— Streetsville Plank Road Co. v. Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 13 U. C. Q. B. 600.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 274, 275.

The term "restore" imports a physical impairment of the road-bed itself, and when a railroad is lawfully located parallel with, but not crossing, a highway, so that the rights of way overlap, but the railroad does not disturb the traveled portion of the highway or constitute an obstruction in any sense, except that it is calculated to frighten horses, there is no duty on the part of the railroad company to remove such danger under a requirement that it shall restore a highway which it intersects so as not to impair its usefulness. State v. New Haven, etc., Co., 45 Conn. 331.

41. People v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 37 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 427, 2 Alb. L. J. 354; Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284; Van Allen v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 29 U. C. Q. B. 436.

42. State v. Wabash R. Co., 206 Mo. 251, 103 S. W. 1137; Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845; Little Miami R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338; Oshkosh v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 74 Wis. 534, 43 N. W. 489, 17 Am. St. Rep. 175.

43. Hamden v. New Haven, etc., Co., 27 Conn. 158.

44. Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845; State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434.

45. Richardson v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 465, 60 Am. Dec. 283.

will not be required to complete the reconstructed way before it occupies the bed of the original way;[46] but until the company has proceeded in accordance with the statutory or charter provisions, to substitute the new way constructed by it for the old, the latter will be regarded as still existing.[47] The duty to restore the highway subsists and remains until such condition is fully performed,[48] and is binding upon the successors of the company which effected the crossing,[49] and it does not mean a temporary but a permanent restoration, which continues as long as the highway exists and the company enjoys the right of crossing.[50] So also if changes are made by the railroad company, or occur in consequence of its operation, which affect the safety of the highway, the duty to preserve its usefulness attaches and remains until performed,[51] as where the railroad company subsequently changes the grade of its road at an existing crossing.[52] The obligation is also a continuing one in the sense of imposing upon the railroad company the duty of making whatever changes the public necessities may require in view of subsequent conditions.[53]

b. Mode and Sufficiency of Restoration. Statutes requiring the restoration of streets and highways to their former state or such as not to have impaired their usefulness are to be given a reasonable construction,[54] and it is not necessary that the highway should be restored to its actual former condition, which would be practically impossible,[55] or that its use should not in any degree be impaired, since some increased danger or inconvenience to travel is necessarily incident to all crossings;[56] but the highway must be restored so that its use is not materially or unnecessarily impaired or interfered with.[57] So also, where in constructing a crossing, it is necessary to change the location of a highway,[58] the new way must be so located and constructed as to furnish as safe and convenient a substitute for the original way as the circumstances will permit.[59] The duty of 46. Ridley Tp. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 2 Lanc. L. Rev. (Pa.) 375.

47. Barber v. Essex, 27 Vt. 62.

48. Hamden v. New Haven, etc., Co., 27 Conn. 158; Little Miami R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

49. See infra, VI, D, 3, h.

50. Roe v. Elmendorf, 52 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 232; People v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 37 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 427, 2 Alb. L. J. 354; Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 300, 2 S. W. 208].

51. Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845.

52. People v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 177 N. Y. 337, 69 N. E. 651 [affirming 81 N. Y. App. Div. 335, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 478].

53. See infra, VI, D, 5, a.

54. Charlottesville v. Southern R. Co., 97 Va. 428, 34 S. E. 98.

55. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Townsend, 71 Kan. 524, 81 Pac. 205; McKinney v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 207, 73 N. Y. Suppl. 48 [affirmed in 174 N. Y. 516, 66 N. E. 1112]; Little Miami R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

56. Kyne v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 8 Houst. (Del.) 185, 14 Atl. 922; People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302; McKinney v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 207, 73 N. Y. Suppl. 48 [affirmed in 174 N. Y. 516, 66 N. E. 1112]; Charlottesville v. Southern R. Co., 97 Va. 428, 34 S. E. 98.

57. Florida.— Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395.

Indiana.— Seybold v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. App. 367, 46 N. E. 1054.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Townsend, 71 Kan. 524, 81 Pac. 205.

Ohio.— Little Miami R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

Wisconsin.— Roberts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 35 Wis. 679.

England.— Atty.-Gen. v. London, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. & Sm. 439, 13 Jur. 467, 64 Eng. Reprint 552.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 278.

58. See supra, VI, D, 2, d.

59. Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845; State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434; Baldwin Tp. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 210 Pa. St. 86, 59 Atl. 478; Bean v. Howe, 85 Pa. St. 260; Atty.-Gen. v. Barry Docks, etc., Co., 35 Ch. D. 573, 51 J. P. 644, 56 L. J. Ch. 1018, 56 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 35 Wkly. Rep. 830; Atty.-Gen. v. London, etc., R. Co., 3 De G. & Sm. 439, 13 Jur. 467, 64 Eng. Reprint 552.

Proximity to railroad.— Where a railroad company in constructing a crossing changes the route of the highway it must not locate the new way along the railroad in such close proximity thereto as to render it dangerous for public travel. State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434.

Width of substituted way.— The railroad company in changing the location of a highway and substituting another must provide a highway of the same legal width as that restoring a highway to a proper condition is imperative and is not discharged merely by the exercise of ordinary care,[60] and the duty includes the doing of whatever is necessary to be done in order to restore the highway to such condition.[61] Whether the railroad company has fully and properly performed its duty in this regard must necessarily depend largely upon the circumstances of the particular case,[62] and in actions based upon an alleged breach of such duty is ordinarily a question of fact for the jury.[63] Where a railroad crosses a city street it must be restored and made passable for the full width of the street,[64] and the same has been held in regard to an ordinary highway.[65] The duty of restoring the highway carries with it the right to exercise any powers conferred upon the railroad company by statute which are necessary therefor;[66] and it has been held that for the purpose of restoration the railroad company may change the grade of a highway,[67] or change the location of the highway,[68] and acquire by purchase or condemnation the lands necessary for such change.[69] The mode of restoration should ordinarily be left in the first instance to the discretion of the railroad company,[70] and in a proceeding to compel a restoration the writ should ordinarily be general and not specific as to what the railroad company shall do;[71] but the railroad company has no discretion as to whether it will restore taken and not merely substitute a way of the width of the traveled portion of the original way. Com. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 149, 64 Atl. 417.

60. International, etc., R. Co. v. Butcher, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. 819.

61. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Connersville, 170 Ind. 316, 83 N. E. 503; State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313.

Statement of rule.—The rule as to restoring highways has been stated as follows: "What was meant was merely that the company should put the street in such condition as to furnish the public a thoroughfare reasonably safe and convenient, and substantially as capable of free and proper use as it was before. Whatever accomplishes this end is a performance of the duty; what does not is an infraction of it." State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 134, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313.

Crossing above or below grade.—If the conditions of the particular case require it in order to render the crossing suitable and reasonably safe, the company must carry its railroad over or under the highway as the case may be. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Connersville, 170 Ind. 316, 83 N. E. 503.

62. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 57 Kan. 154, 45 Pac. 576; McKinney v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 207, 73 N. Y. Suppl. 48 [affirmed in 174 N. Y. 516, 66 N. E. 1112].

The failure of a railroad company to remove a bank of earth on its right of way, consisting almost entirely of a natural hill through the base of which the track is laid in a cut and which obstructs the view of an approaching train from travelers on the highway, is not a failure to restore the highway to its former usefulness as required by the statute. Leitch v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 Wis. 79, 67 N. W. 21.

63. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 57 Kan. 154, 45 Pac. 576; Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Byas, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 657, 35 S. W. 22; Roberts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 35 Wis. 679.

64. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489.

65. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. McIntosh, 140 Ind. 261, 38 N. E. 476. But see supra, VI, D, 2, a.

66. People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152.

67. Rauenstein v. New York, etc., R. Co., 136 N. Y. 528, 32 N. E. 1047, 18 L. R. A. 768; Uline v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 101 N. Y. 98, 4 N. E. 536, 54 Am. Rep. 661.

68. Post v. West Shore R. Co., 123 N. Y. 580, 26 N. E. 7 [modifying 50 Hun 301, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 172]. But see Buchholz v. New York, etc., R. Co., 148 N. Y. 640, 43 N. E. 76 [reversing 66 Hun 377, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 503, and distinguishing People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152].

69. Post v. West Shore R. Co., 123 N. Y. 580, 26 N. E. 7 [modifying 50 Hun 301, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 172].

70. People v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 177 N. Y. 337, 69 N. E. 651 [affirming 81 N. Y. App. Div. 335, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 478]; Post v. West Shore R. Co., 123 N. Y. 580, 26 N. E. 7.

71. People v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 177 N. Y. 337, 69 N. E. 651 [affirming 81 N. Y. App. Div. 335, 81 N. Y. Suppl. 478], holding that in a proceeding to compel restoration the court may properly refuse a request for an under crossing, where it does not appear that such crossing is the only means by which the highway can be restored so as not to impair its usefulness.

Order of justices.—An order of justices directing a railroad company to repair damage done by it to a road in constructing the railroad need not specify the particulars of the damage nor what repairs are to be made; it is sufficient if it states the length of the damaged part of the road and orders the company generally to make good all damage the highway,[72] and in any case where the nature of the thing to be done is uncertain and can only be determined by the judgment of the court, the writ may properly be made specific;[73] and where the railroad company in the exercise of its discretion has adopted a method of restoration which it claims to be sufficient, and which the court adjudges to be insufficient, it may properly direct specifically what the railroad company shall do so as not to fail again.[74]

c. Maintenance and Repairs.[75] It is not sufficient for a railroad company properly to construct a crossing and to restore the highway crossed to a proper condition;[76] but it is the duty of the company subsequently to keep and maintain the crossing in a safe and suitable state of repair,[77] including not only the crossing of the tracks but also the approaches thereto.[78] This is a common-law duty,[79] but is frequently expressly imposed by statutory or charter provisions.[80] So done, and the order may include several highways in the same parish. London, etc., R. Co. v. Wetherall, 15 Jur. 247.

72. People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152.

73. State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153.

74. People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152.

75. Repair of bridges and approaches thereto see infra, VI, D, 3, d.

76. Southern R. Co. v. Morris, 143 Ala. 628, 42 So. 17; Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 108, 17 N. W. 717; Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 300, 2 S. W. 208]. But see Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684.

77. Alabama.— Southern R. Co. v. Morris, 143 Ala. 628, 42 So. 17.

Indiana.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. McIntosh, 140 Ind. 261, 38 N. E. 476.

Iowa.— See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa 443, 99 N. W. 106; Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 234.

Kentucky.— Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147.

Michigan.— Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 108, 17 N. W. 717.

Tennessee.— Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea 300, 2 S. W. 208].

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 274, 278.

78. Alabama.— Southern R. Co. v. Morris, 143 Ala. 628, 42 So. 17.

Illinois.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 26 Ill. App. 491.

Iowa.— Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 234.

Kentucky.— Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147.

Michigan.— Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 108, 17 N. W. 717.

New York.— People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 274, 278.

The approaches constitute a part of the crossing and must be maintained and kept in repair by the railroad company. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa 443, 99 N. W. 106; Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 234.

79. Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 234; Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147; Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 108, 17 N. W. 717; Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 300, 2 S. W. 208].

Although the statute only requires a restoration of the highway to its former state by the railroad company, the common law still requires that it shall maintain it in a reasonably safe condition. Maltby v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 108, 17 N. W. 717; Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 300, 2 S. W. 208].

80. Iowa.— See v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa 443, 99 N. W. 106.

Minnesota.— Goodhue County v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 67 Minn. 213, 69 N. W. 898.

Mississippi.— Hamline v. Southern R. Co., 76 Miss. 410, 25 So. 295.

North Carolina.— Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 57 N. E. 209.

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Haddox, 36 Tex. Civ. App. 385, 81 S. W. 1036.

Vermont.— Clarendon v. Rutland R. Co., 75 Vt. 6, 52 Atl. 1057.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 274, 278.

In Connecticut the act of 1849 provided that railroad companies should "keep up and maintain" such bridges, excavations, embankments, approaches, etc., at the crossing as the convenience and safety of the public travel upon the street or highway should require, and the act of 1899 provided that railroad companies should maintain and keep in repair "all structures erected over their tracks at any highway crossing," but that it should be the duty of the municipality in which the structure is situated "to keep in repair the surface of the highway, including planking or other surface material of the highway upon the structure." The latter statute is construed as not intended to repeal the former or affect the duty of railroad companies to keep in repair all such structures previously constructed, but to apply only to bridges and structures necessitated by the elimination of grade crossings under the

also a continuing obligation to keep the crossing in repair is imposed by a statutory or charter provision that it shall be so constructed as not to obstruct the safe and convenient use of the highway;[81] that the highway shall be put in such condition and state of repair as not to impair its proper use;[82] or that the highway shall be restored to its former condition or such as not to have impaired its usefulness.[83] The structure of the crossing, whether of earth, wood, or other material which the existence of the railroad renders necessary, must be maintained and kept in repair by the railroad company;[84] but the duty to repair applies only to what is properly the crossing and approaches thereto, which do not necessarily include the entire width of the street or highway or right of way of the railroad.[85] It is not the duty of the railroad company to keep in repair as a part of the crossing a part of the highway which is not within the limits of the crossing;[86] but where a railroad company constructs two parallel tracks close together across a highway, it must keep in repair the space between the two lines of tracks.[87]

d. Bridges and Approaches. If the proper restoration of a street or highway so as not to impair its usefulness demands a crossing by means of a bridge or viaduct, it is the duty of the railroad company to provide such a crossing,[88] with the necessary excavations, embankments, and approaches thereto;[89] but a railroad company is not required to bridge a stream where the necessity for the latter act. Middletown v. New York, etc., R. Co., 62 Conn. 492, 27 Atl. 119.

To keep a crossing "in proper condition for the use of the traveling public," within the application of a statute so providing, means simply a condition reasonably suitable for the ordinary public travel, and whether the crossing has been kept in such condition is properly submitted as a question of fact for the jury. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Byas, 12 Tex. Civ. App. 657, 35 S. W. 22.

The term "highway" in the Mississippi statute requiring a railroad company to make easy grades over a "highway" which its road crosses, and to keep such crossing in good order, applies to city streets as well as roads in the country. Hamline v. Southern R. Co., 76 Miss. 410, 25 So. 295.

The exercise of ordinary care on the part of the railroad company is not a sufficient compliance with a statutory requirement that a crossing shall be kept in repair by the railroad company. International, etc., R. Co. v. Haddox, 36 Tex. Civ. App. 385, 81 S. W. 1036.

81. Wellcome v. Leeds, 51 Me. 313; Clarendon v. Rutland R. Co., 75 Vt. 6, 52 Atl. 1057.

82. Wayzata v. Great Northern R. Co., 50 Minn. 438, 52 N. W. 913.

83. Roe v. Elmendorf, 52 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 232; People v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 37 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 427, 2 Alb. L. J. 354; Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 300, 2 S. W. 208]. But see Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684.

84. Farley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 42 Iowa 234.

A box culvert about nine feet from and parallel with the railroad track at the foot of an embankment supporting the track, and placed across the highway mainly for the purpose of draining and protecting the embankment and forming a part of the approach to the crossing, is a part of the railroad structure, and it is the duty of the railroad company to maintain it in a safe condition for persons traveling upon the highway. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Aderhold, 58 Kan. 293, 49 Pac. 83.

85. Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 154 Ill. 539, 39 N. E. 478 [affirming 49 Ill. App. 129]; Rutland v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. App. 442.

A railroad company is not required to repair sidewalks within the limits of its right of way, unless they are properly a part of the crossing or of the approaches thereto. Bloomington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 154 Ill. 539, 39 N. E. 478 [affirming 49 Ill. App. 129].

86. Brookins v. Central R., etc., Co., 48 Ga. 523; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Sneed, 84 Miss. 252, 36 So. 261; West Lancashire Rural Dist. Council v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., [1903] 2 K. B. 394, 67 J. P. 410, 72 L. J. K. B. 675, 1 Loc. Gov. 788, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 139, 19 T. L. R. 625, 51 Wkly. Rep. 694.

87. Scanlan v. Boston, 140 Mass. 84, 2 N. E. 787.

88. Burritt v. New Haven, 42 Conn. 174; State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656; Parker v. Truesdale, 54 Minn. 241, 55 N. W. 901; State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313; Streetsville Plank Road Co. v. Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 13 U. C. Q. B. 600.

A bridge is a "safety device" within the meaning of that expression in the rule requiring that railroad companies must maintain at crossings all such safety devices as are reasonably necessary. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 98 Minn. 380, 108 N. W. 261.

89. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313.

bridge as a part of the highway is not caused or affected by the existence of the railroad,[90] although it is within the limits of the railroad right of way.[91] Where a crossing is effected by means of a bridge for carrying a street or highway over the railroad tracks, it is the duty of the railroad company subsequently to keep such bridge in repair,[92] and also to keep in repair the approaches thereto.[93] This is a common-law duty,[94] but it is in some cases imposed by statutory or charter provisions relating expressly to the maintenance of such bridges,[95] and is included under the duty of restoring the highway to its former usefulness, which is a continuing duty.[96] The duty of making repairs applies to the whole structure built by the railroad company for the purpose of crossing,[97] although extending beyond the limits of the right of way,[98] and applies not only to the substructure or support but also to the surface or roadway upon the bridge or approaches,[99] unless it is 90. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport, 63 Ill. App. 224; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 62 Minn. 450, 64 N. W. 1140.

91. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport, 63 Ill. App. 224.

92. Iowa.— Newton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 422, 23 N. W. 905.

Maine.— State v. Gorham, 37 Me. 451.

Minnesota.— State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656.

New York.— Hayes v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 9 Hun 63; People v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 37 How. Pr. 427, 2 Alb. L. J. 354.

Pennsylvania.— Hays v. Gallagher, 72 Pa. St. 136; Conshohocken R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 445.

Tennessee.— Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea 300, 2 S. W. 208].

Vermont.— Clarendon v. Rutland R. Co., 75 Vt. 6, 52 Atl. 1057.

Canada.— Van Allen v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 29 U. C. Q. B. 436.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 279.

93. Newton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 422, 23 N. W. 905; Titcomb v. Fitchburg R. Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 254; People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302; Hayes v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 9 Hun (N. Y.) 63; North Staffordshire R. Co. v. Dale, 8 E. & B. 836, 4 Jur. N. S. 631, 27 L. J. M. C. 147, 92 E. C. L. 836; North of England R. Co. v. Langbaurgh, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 544. But see Taff Vale R. Co. v. Davies, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 278, holding that in the absence of statute a railroad company is not required to keep in repair the approaches to a bridge and that the provisions of the Railways Clauses Act relating to the repair of approaches to bridges are not retroactive.

Width of approaches.— The railroad company must keep in repair whatever constitutes at any time the approaches to the bridge, and if the public authorities subsequently increase the width of the highway and approaches, they must be kept in repair for the increased width by the railroad company. Carter v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 139 Mass. 525, 2 N. E. 101.

94. Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea 300, 2 S. W. 208].

95. State v. Gorham, 37 Me. 451; White v. Quincy, 97 Mass. 430; Titcomb v. Fitchburg R. Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 254; Clarendon v. Rutland R. Co., 75 Vt. 6, 52 Atl. 1057; London, etc., R. Co. v. Wandsworth Dist. Bd. of Works, L. R. 8 C. P. 185, 42 L. J. M. C. 70; Bristol, etc., R. Co. v. Tucker, 13 C. B. N. S. 207, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 464, 106 E. C. L. 207; North Staffordshire R. Co. v. Dale, 8 E. & B. 836, 4 Jur. N. S. 631, 27 L. J. M. C. 147, 92 E. C. L. 836; Reg. v. South-Eastern R. Co., 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 858.

Character of bridge.— In England the statute of 1845, section 46, requiring that where a highway is carried over a railroad the company shall keep the bridge in repair, does not apply to a bridge voluntarily constructed by a railroad company at a point where no highway existed at the time of its construction and where it was not constructed as an exercise of the power of the company to make necessary changes in the location of existing highways in constructing its road. London, etc., R. Co. v. Ogwen Dist. Council, 63 J. P. 295, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 401, 15 T. L. R. 291 [affirming 62 J. P. 691, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 208].

96. Roe v. Elmendorf, 52 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 232; People v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 37 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 427, 2 Alb. L. J. 354; Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 300, 2 S. W. 208].

The disuse or removal of the track at the crossing is not sufficient to relieve the railroad company of the duty of keeping in repair a bridge constructed over it, since the company may reassert its right to the possession and use of the crossing, and so long as the company possesses such right, it must perform the condition incident thereto. People v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 37 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 427, 2 Alb. L. J. 354.

97. White v. Quincy, 97 Mass. 430.

98. White v. Quincy, 97 Mass. 430.

99. McFarlane v. Chicago, 185 Ill. 242, 57 N. E. 12; Hayes v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 9 Hun (N. Y.) 63; Lancashire, etc., R. Co. v. Bury, 14 App. Cas. 417, 54 J. P. 197, 59 L. J. Q. B. 85, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 417 [affirming 36 Wkly. Rep. 491]; North Staffordshire R. Co. v. Dale, 8 E. & B. 836, 4

otherwise provided by statute;[1] and where the railroad crosses below the grade of the highway in a cut, the duty extends to the entire width of the excavation made for the railroad.[2] The duty of a railroad company with regard to the maintenance and repair of bridges at crossings is not, however, any greater than that of the public authorities charged with the same duty as to other bridges along the highway.[3] It is not the duty of a railroad company to keep in repair a highway bridge across a stream outside of the limits of its right of way,[4] and where a railroad company in crossing changes the location of a highway, it is not required to keep in repair a bridge which it constructs across a stream in building a new way, and which is outside of the right of way and not at the crossing;[5] nor is the company required to keep in repair bridges over streams or ditches, although within the limits of the right of way, if so far removed from the crossing as not to be included within the approaches thereto,[6] or the necessity for which is in no way caused or affected by the construction of the railroad,[7] or to keep in repair any portion of the street or highway beyond the limits of the approaches proper;[8] but a bridge which is a necessary part of the crossing or approach must be kept in repair by the railroad company.[9] Where a railroad is carried over the highway by means of a bridge, it is not the duty of the railroad company to keep in repair

Jur. N. S. 631, 27 L. J. M. C. 147, 92 E. C. L. 836; Leech v. North Staffordshire R. Co., 29 L. J. M. C. 150, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 332, 8 Wkly. Rep. 216; Reg. v. South-Eastern R. Co., 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 858; North of England R. Co. v. Langbaurgh, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 544. Compare New Haven v. New York, etc., R. Co., 39 Conn. 128.

Paving approaches.— Where a railroad company is required to maintain and keep in repair a viaduct and its approaches in a street, it must pay the expense of paving the approaches. McFarlane v. Chicago, 185 Ill. 242, 57 N. E. 12.

1. Yonkers v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 165 N. Y. 142, 58 N. E. 877 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 474, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 1074].

The New York statute of 1897 providing that where a highway crosses a railroad by an overhead bridge, the frame-work and abutments of the bridge shall be maintained and kept in repair by the railroad company and the roadway and approaches by the municipality in which the bridge is situated, includes such bridges existing at the time of the passage of the act (Bush v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 166 N. Y. 210, 59 N. E. 838 [affirming 54 N. Y. App. Div. 616, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 1128]; Yonkers v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 165 N. Y. 142, 58 N. E. 877 [affirming 32 N. Y. App. Div. 474, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 1074]); and the stringers of a bridge are held to constitute a part of the frame-work which must be kept in repair by the railroad company (Bush v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., supra).

2. Titcomb v. Fitchburg R. Co., 12 Allen (Mass.) 254.

3. Conshohocken R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 445, holding that a railroad company in constructing a bridge for a highway at a crossing is not required to provide for the future additional use of the bridge by an electric railway, and where the right to make such use of the bridge has been acquired, the railroad company cannot be compelled to alter or strengthen the bridge to make it suitable for such use.

4. Brookins v. Central R., etc., Co., 48 Ga. 523; Peterborough v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 32 Ont. 154.

5. Brookins v. Central R., etc., Co., 48 Ga. 523, holding further that the fact that the railroad company has at different times repaired such a bridge imposes no obligation upon the company to continue to do so. But see Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Irwin, 85 Pa. St. 336.

So also if the railroad company diverts a stream which a highway crosses by means of a bridge so that the stream crosses the highway at a different point outside of the railroad right of way, and it constructs a suitable new bridge at such place, it is not required to keep the bridge in repair. Peterborough v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 32 Ont. 154. See also Rutland v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. App. 442.

6. Rutland v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. App. 442; O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport, 43 Ill. App. 89.

7. Rutland v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. App. 442; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport, 63 Ill. App. 224; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Bridgeport, 43 Ill. App. 89; Felder v. Southern R. Co., 76 S. C. 554, 57 S. E. 524.

8. State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 99 Minn. 280, 109 N. W. 238, 110 N. W. 975.

9. Goodhue County v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 67 Minn. 213, 69 N. W. 898, holding that where, in the construction of a railroad, a stream has been diverted from its natural channel into an artificial one, wholly upon the right of way, making it necessary to build a bridge over the stream constituting a part of the approach or crossing, it must be kept in repair by the railroad company.

A bridge which runs up to the cross ties of a railroad at a public road crossing is such an approach as the railroad company is required to keep in repair. Southern R. Co. v. Morris, (Ala. 1906) 42 So. 19.

that portion of the highway beneath the bridge;[10] and if the bridge was originally constructed at a proper height above the level of the highway the company is not required to keep the space the same by preventing any raise in the level of the highway or by raising the bridge in case the level of the highway is raised by natural causes or the action of the public authorities in repairing it;[11] but where the height of the bridge as originally constructed and without any change in the level of the highway becomes insufficient by reason of increased travel or the character of vehicles used upon the highway, it is the duty of the railroad company to make such alterations as are necessary to meet such conditions and render the use of the highway safe.[12] Where a highway bridge over a railroad has become out of repair and dangerous, the railroad company has a right to close it to prevent persons going thereon, although it is a part of the public highway;[13] but where a railroad company in making necessary repairs upon a bridge over its tracks closes the bridge and opens a temporary roadway across its tracks at a different point, it must make the temporary roadway reasonably safe.[14]

e. Agreements as to Restoration and Maintenance. A railroad company cannot exempt itself from liability for failure properly to restore or maintain a highway which it has obstructed by any stipulation with the contractors for construction;[15] but it has been held that a town or municipality invested with the regulation, control and duty of maintaining and repairing the streets or highways within its limits may by contract assume and thereby relieve the railroad company from the duty of keeping a bridge or crossing in repair,[16] and that such contract will relieve the railroad company from further liability to the public in this regard.[17] A distinction should, however, be made with regard to such contracts, according to whether any legal obligation already rested upon the railroad company to perform the duties therein provided for.[18] So in cases where a railroad company constructs a bridge or viaduct pursuant to a contract with a municipality, by which the latter agrees to keep the same or its approaches in repair, if the railroad company was already legally bound to do the entire work of construction and maintenance, the contract is not only without consideration,[19] but is one which the municipality has no power to make,[20] and the existence of such contract will not prevent the municipality from instituting proceedings to compel the railroad company to make any necessary repairs,[21] or impose upon the munici-

10. Gray v. Danbury, 54 Conn. 574, 10 Atl. 198; Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 N. J. Eq. 404, 64 Atl. 484.

Although the highway is lowered in order to bring it to a proper depth below the bridge, the company is not bound to keep the slope of the road in repair as being part of the approaches on each side of the bridge. London, etc., R. Co. v. Skerton Tp., 5 B. & S. 559, 33 L. J. M. C. 158, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 648, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1102, 117 E. C. L. 559.

11. Gray v. Danbury, 54 Conn. 574, 10 Atl. 198.

12. Cooke v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 133 Mass. 185.

13. Toledo St. R. Co. v. Mammet, 13 Ohio Cir. Ct. 591, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 244.

14. Marshall v. Valley R. Co., 97 Va. 653, 34 S. E. 455.

15. Veazie v. Penobscot R. Co., 49 Me. 119.

16. Burlington v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 26 Conn. 51; Hicks v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 102 Va. 197, 45 S. E. 888.

The selectmen of a town who are the general supervisors of the highways therein and who are charged with the duty of constructing and repairing the same have authority to bind the town by contract with a railroad company to keep the crossings in repair. Burlington v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 26 Conn. 51.

17. Hicks v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 102 Va. 197, 45 S. E. 888.

18. Wetherbee v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 122 Mich. 1, 80 N. W. 787; State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656.

19. Newton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 422, 23 N. W. 905; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 98 Minn. 429, 108 N. W. 269; State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656.

20. Rouse v. Somerville, 130 Mass. 361; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 98 Minn. 429, 108 N. W. 269; State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656.

The municipality is not estopped by having made certain repairs pursuant to its agreement. Rouse v. Somerville, 130 Mass. 361.

21. Newton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 Iowa 422, 23 N. W. 905; State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 98 Minn. 429, 108 N. W. 269; State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656.

pality any liability for injuries sustained by reason of the want of such repairs,[22] or relieve the railroad company from liability to third persons for injuries so caused.[23] If, however, the railroad company was under no legal obligation to construct the bridge, it cannot be compelled to waive the contract of the municipality and repair it,[24] or held liable in damages for an injury due to a failure of the municipality to repair the same according to its agreement.[25] An agreement on the part of a railroad company to construct suitable street crossings, in consideration of a right of way through a city, is enforceable against the railroad company;[26] but an agreement made in consideration of the right to lay a switch track across certain streets that the railroad company will construct and maintain "all the crossings of streets" over its tracks, will be construed as applying only to the streets crossed by the switch-track in question.[27] Where a railroad company changes the location of a highway in crossing and purchases additional land for a new location, it may legally agree with the grantor as to the character and location of the new way to be constructed thereon, which contract will be valid and binding between the parties, although not conclusive upon the public as to whether the company has properly restored the use of the original highway.[28]

f. Recovery of Expense of Restoring or Maintaining Highway. Where a railroad company has failed to restore a highway at a crossing to its former usefulness or to keep the crossing, bridge, or approaches in a proper state of repair, the municipal or other public authorities charged with the duty of maintaining the highway at such place may do so and recover from the railroad company the expenses necessarily incurred,[29] and in some cases it is so provided by statutory or charter provisions;[30] but the right to do such work and recover therefor is not

22. Rouse v. Somerville, 130 Mass. 361.

23. Butin v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 100 N. Y. App. Div. 42, 90 N. Y. Suppl. 909.

24. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 85 Minn. 416, 89 N. W. 1.

25. Wetherbee v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 122 Mich. 1, 80 N. W. 787.

26. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Harrodsburg, 32 S. W. 604, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 780.

27. State v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 111 La. 120, 35 So. 482.

28. Post v. West Shore R. Co., 123 N. Y. 580, 26 N. E. 7.

29. State v. Gorham, 37 Me. 451; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Irwin, 85 Pa. St. 336; Bean v. Howe, 85 Pa. St. 260; Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943 [overruling Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. State, 16 Lea (Tenn.) 300, 2 S. W. 208]; Oconto v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Wis. 231.

Form of action.— In an action against a railroad company for taking possession of a public road, a count for reimbursement for expenses incurred in constructing a temporary way, being in the form of an implied assumpsit, cannot be joined with a count in case. Aston Tp. v. Chester Creek R. Co., 2 Del. Co. (Pa.) 9.

Enforcing obligation by assessment of railroad property.— Where a railroad company is required by statute to provide suitable bridges over the tracks at street crossings a city has no power, in order to enforce such liability, to determine that an existing bridge is insufficient and to construct a new one as a public improvement, and assess the entire cost upon the property of the railroad company although other property is benefited by the bridge, the charter requiring that the expense of such public improvements shall be paid by assessment on all the property benefited thereby. People v. Adams, 88 Hun (N. Y.) 122, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 579 [affirmed in 147 N. Y. 722, 42 N. E. 725].

The damages recoverable by a county should be confined to the reasonable cost of putting the county road in as good condition as it was before the railroad was built, without reference to the danger of travel on the road from the proximity of the railroad. Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Estill County, 105 Ky. 808, 49 S. W. 805, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1634.

30. See Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109; Clarendon v. Rutland R. Co., 75 Vt. 6, 52 Atl. 1057; Weymouth v. Port Townsend Southern R. Co., 6 Wash. 575, 34 Pac. 154.

Under the Illinois statute of 1874, the railroad company is not only liable for the expenses incurred by the public authorities but also subject to a fine. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109.

Form of action.— Under a city charter providing that in case a railroad company shall fail to comply with an order of the city council for the building or repairing of bridges at crossings, the city council may require the work to be done at the expense of the city, and that the treasurer of the city may collect the amount of such expense, in an action of trespass on the case in his own name, such expense cannot be recovered in an action of assumpsit in the name of the city. New Haven v. New York, etc., R. Co., 39 Conn. 128.

Sufficiency of complaint.— Under a statute an exclusive remedy and does not prevent the public authorities from instituting appropriate proceedings to compel the railroad company to perform its duty in this regard.[31]

g. Character of Highway. The duty of restoring highways at crossings and of maintaining and keeping the crossings in repair ordinarily applies only to regular public highways,[32] that is, such as are regularly laid out and established pursuant to law or regularly dedicated to the public, or used for such time as is essential to constitute a public highway.[33] The term "highway" contemplates a regular public highway,[34] and a provision as to "any regularly laid out public highway" in a statute imposing a penalty for non-compliance therewith, will not be construed as including a public highway established by user only;[35] but a city street is a "highway" within the application of the statutes,[36] and the duty of restoring the same applies to a street regularly designated and dedicated to the public, although not opened and fitted for use.[37] Wherever a way existed as a public highway, however established, at the time the railroad company was constructed across it, it is the duty of the railroad company to keep the cross-providing that a railroad company shall be responsible to the county "for all expenses incurred" in relocating and opening the portion of a road appropriated by a railroad company, the relocating or reopening is a condition precedent to the right to recover such damages, and a complaint alleging that such expense "is and will be" a certain sum, without averring that any such expense has been incurred, does not state a cause of action. Weymouth v. Port Townsend Southern R. Co., 6 Wash. 575, 34 Pac. 154.

31. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489, where it was held that notwithstanding such right mandamus would lie to compel the railroad company to restore a highway to its former condition.

32. Georgia.— Berry v. Northeastern R. Co., 72 Ga. 137.

Kansas.— Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684.

Michigan.— Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Willey, 47 Mich. 88, 10 N. W. 120.

Nebraska.— Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Martin, 14 Nebr. 295, 15 N. W. 696.

South Carolina.— Moragne v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 77 S. C. 437, 58 S. E. 150.

Texas.— Taylor, etc., R. Co. v. Warner, 88 Tex. 642, 32 S. W. 868; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, 85 Tex. 64, 14 S. W. 1015.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 276.

"Public roads or private ways established pursuant to law."— The Georgia statute requiring railroad companies to keep in repair "the public roads or private ways established pursuant to law" which the railroad crosses does not apply to a path or unfrequented way not established by law (Berry v. Northeastern R. Co., 72 Ga. 137), or to a farm crossing which was not established pursuant to law (Cox v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 68 Ga. 446).

The Illinois statute providing that the landowner may after notice to the railroad company repair a farm crossing and recover double the cost from the railroad company impliedly imposes on the company the duty of maintaining such crossings in repair. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Keck, 89 Ill. App. 72.

The English statute requiring railroad companies to construct and maintain other roads in lieu of those interfered with or rendered impassable by the construction of a railroad applies to private as well as public roads (Llewellyn v. Vale of Glamorgan R. Co., [1897] 2 Q. B. 239, 66 L. J. Q. B. 670, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 778 [affirmed in [1898] 1 Q. B. 473, 67 L. J. Q. B. 305, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 70, 14 T. L. R. 205, 46 Wkly. Rep. 290]); but does not apply to a road which was originally a public road but which has been abandoned by the public and some individual merely desires to continue to use for his own purposes (Freeman v. Tottenham, etc., Junction R. Co., 11 Jur. N. S. 107, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 702, 13 Wkly. Rep. 335).

33. Taylor, etc., R. Co. v. Warner, 88 Tex. 642, 32 S. W. 868; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, 85 Tex. 64, 19 S. W. 1015.

A public highway may be established by user, but the use must be under such circumstances and for such length of time as to constitute it a public highway, in order to impose any duty upon the railroad company to keep a crossing in repair. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684.

34. Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Willey, 47 Mich. 88, 10 N. W. 120; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, 85 Tex. 64, 19 S. W. 1015. But see Goforth v. Southern R. Co., 144 N. C. 569, 57 S. E. 209, holding that the terms "highway" and "established roads or ways" are not limited to "public highways," but include a neighborhood road used by the people of a particular locality as a mill and church road.

35. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684.

36. Hamline v. Southern R. Co., 76 Miss. 410, 25 So. 295 [distinguishing Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. State, 51 Miss. 137]; Racine v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 92 Wis. 118, 65 N. W. 857.

37. Racine v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 92 Wis. 118, 65 N. W. 857.

ing in repair;[38] and if, although the highway crossed is not legally a public highway, the railroad company recognizes and invites the public to use it as such by assuming to construct or maintain a bridge or crossing, it is its duty to keep the same in proper repair;[39] but the duty in such a case is a common-law and not a statutory duty,[40] and the rule does not apply where the railroad company has at no time recognized the way crossed as a public highway.[41]

h. Companies and Persons Liable. The duty of restoring, maintaining, and repairing highways crossed by a railroad is a condition inseparable from the right to cross and attaches to whatever person or company exercises the franchise,[42] and is therefore binding upon the successors of the company by which the crossing was originally effected,[43] including purchasers at judicial sales.[44] This duty is not affected by the fact that the railroad company may be insolvent and in the hands of a receiver,[45] or the fact that a street railroad company whose tracks run along the highway is also under obligation to keep the highway between the rails of its tracks in repair;[46] nor does the fact that the charter of the railroad company imposes certain requirements as to crossings prevent the application of general statutory provisions not inconsistent therewith,[47] or in the absence of a contrary intention, express or implied, affect any common-law duties of the railroad company in this regard.[48]

i. Failure to Restore or Maintain as Constituting Nuisance. A failure on the part of a railroad company to restore or maintain a highway which it has crossed,

38. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Laceyville Bridge Co., 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 225, holding further that the railroad company being bound to keep the crossing in repair cannot enjoin a bridge company from constructing a bridge across a stream the use of which will divert public travel to such highway and increase the amount of travel across the railroad, or compel the bridge company to construct an overhead crossing at such place which was crossed by the railroad company at grade.

39. Retan v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 94 Mich. 146, 53 N. W. 1094; Stewart v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 80 Mich. 166, 44 N. W. 1116; Lillstrom v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 53 Minn. 464, 55 N. W. 624, 20 L. R. A. 587; Kelly v. South Minnesota R. Co., 28 Minn. 98, 9 N. W. 588 [overruled on other grounds in Morse v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 30 Minn. 465, 16 N. W. 358]; Toledo v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 17 Ohio Cir. Ct. 265, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 135; Dublin v. Taylor, etc., R. Co., 92 Tex. 535, 50 S. W. 120 [modifying (Civ. App. 1898) 49 S. W. 667]; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bridges, 74 Tex. 520, 12 S. W. 210, 15 Am. St. Rep. 856; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Hall, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 45, 43 S. W. 25; Hall v. Texas, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 35 S. W. 321; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Neill, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 30 S. W. 369.

Compliance with an order of public authorities to construct a crossing, where the railroad crosses a way, is a recognition and adoption of it as a public highway, and the railroad company will be estopped as against one injured by defects therein, to deny that it is a public crossing. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 26 Ill. App. 491.

40. Taylor, etc., R. Co. v. Warner, 88 Tex. 642, 32 S. W. 868.

41. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 27 Kan. 684; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, 85 Tex. 64, 19 S. W. 1015.

42. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 118; Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845.

A railroad company which acquired a right of way for a switch track some twenty-five or thirty years since and has maintained and always claimed ownership of the track and used the same almost daily for many years, and which cannot show that any one else owned the track, will be deemed to own the track in such sense as to require it to maintain in repair a sidewalk across it. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 165 Ind. 381, 74 N. E. 509.

43. Illinois.— People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 118.

Indiana.— Seybold v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. App. 367, 46 N. E. 1054.

Missouri.— State v. Wabash R. Co., 208 Mo. 251, 103 S. W. 1137.

New Jersey.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168].

New York.— Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845.

Ohio.— Little Miami R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

Tennessee.— Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 277.

44. New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168].

45. Ft. Dodge v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 389, 54 N. W. 243.

46. Masterson v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 84 N. Y. 247, 38 Am. Rep. 510.

47. Henry v. Wabash Western R. Co., 44 Mo. App. 100.

48. Dyer County v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 87 Tenn. 712, 11 S. W. 943.

whereby the highway is improperly obstructed or travel thereon interfered with, or made dangerous, constitutes a public nuisance,[49] and renders the railroad company subject to indictment,[50] or an action for the abatement of the nuisance,[51] or liable in damages for special injuries sustained thereby.[52]

j. Rights and Remedies of Public. Where a railroad company fails in its duty as to restoring and maintaining a street or highway which it has crossed, it may be proceeded against by indictment for a public nuisance in obstructing the highway,[53] or by mandamus to compel a performance of such duty,[54] or the public authorities may resort to the equity powers of the court,[55] and sue to enjoin the further obstruction of the highway,[56] or for a mandatory injunction to compel the railroad company properly to restore or maintain the same,[57] and for damages

49. Connecticut.— Hamden v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 27 Conn. 158.

Florida.— Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395.

Indiana.— Seybold v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. App. 707, 46 N. E. 1054.

Kentucky.— Com. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 109 Ky. 59, 58 S. W. 478, 702, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 572; Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147.

New Jersey.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168].

New York.— People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302.

Ohio.— Little Miami R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

Vermont.— Mann v. Central Vermont R. Co., 55 Vt. 484, 45 Am. Rep. 628.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 283.

50. Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147; New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168]; People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195]. See also infra, VI, K, 2.

51. Little Miami, etc., R. Co. v. Green County Com'rs, 31 Ohio St. 338.

52. Mann v. Central Vermont R. Co., 55 Vt. 484, 45 Am. Rep. 628.

53. See supra, VI, D, 3, i.

54. Illinois.— People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 118.

Indiana.— Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489.

Minnesota.— State v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 80 Minn. 108, 83 N. W. 32, 50 L. R. A. 656.

New York.— People v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 164 N. Y. 289, 58 N. E. 138; People v. Dutchess, etc., R. Co., 58 N. Y. 152.

United States.— Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 281. See also, generally, MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 367–369.

Where duty is merely contractual.— Where a railroad company pulled down a county bridge and erected another, at the same time entering into an agreement with the trustees of the road to repair such portions of the approaches to the bridge as had previously been repaired by the county, it was held that the company had not interfered with the road so as to bring the case within 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, § 58, and consequently that a mandamus commanding it to repair the road could not be granted. Ex p. Exeter Road, 16 Jur. 669.

55. Greenup County v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 88 Ky. 659, 11 S. W. 774, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 169; State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434; Fenelon Falls v. Victoria R. Co., 29 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 4.

Who may sue.— A suit in equity to compel the restoration or maintenance of a highway may be brought by a town which is responsible for the construction and repair of highways within its limits (Jamestown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Wis. 648, 34 N. W. 728; Fenelon Falls v. Victoria R. Co., 29 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 4); or by a county (Greenup County v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 88 Ky. 659, 11 S. W. 774, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 169); or the attorney-general may sue in the name of the state, with or without a relator (State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434); and in New York, under the statute of 1890, the commissioners of highways may sue in the name of the town in which the highway is situated (Windsor v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 127, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 863 [affirmed in 155 N. Y. 645, 49 N. E. 1105]).

56. State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434 (holding further that it is proper for the court in its decree to prescribe what changes shall be made by the railroad company which shall operate to supersede the injunction); Atty.-Gen. v. Great Northern R. Co., 4 De G. & Sm. 75, 14 Jur. 684, 15 Jur. 387, 64 Eng. Reprint 741.

57. Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 N. J. Eq. 404, 64 Atl. 484; Oshkosh v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 74 Wis. 534, 43 N. W. 489, 17 Am. St. Rep. 175; Jamestown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 Wis. 648, 34 N. W. 728.

A city need not establish a permanent grade for its streets before requiring a railroad company to restore the same at a crossing, since the company need only repair the injury which it has done (Oshkosh v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 74 Wis. 534, 43 N. W. 489, 17 Am. St. Rep. 175); but where a railroad company by lawful authority constructs its road across a street before a grade has been established and offers to put the tracks in proper condition, conforming to the grade of the street when established, a city cannot compel the railroad company for the obstruction prior to the suit;[58] but they have no right to place obstructions across the railroad so as to prevent the passage of trains across the highway.[59] The duty to restore a highway being a continuous duty is not affected by the statute of limitations.[60] So also where a railroad company acquires a right of way through a town on condition that it will construct proper street crossings, the town may sue in equity for a specific performance of the agreement.[61] The public authorities may also do the necessary work of restoration or repair and recover therefor from the railroad company,[62] or if an injury results for which the municipality is held liable in damages, it may recover indemnity from the railroad company;[63] but a town has no such possession of a national road, the fee of which is in the state, as will enable it to maintain an action of trespass quare clausum fregit against a railroad company for failing to restore it at a crossing.[64] In some cases an action by certain public officers or municipal authorities to compel a railroad company to perform its duties in regard to the restoration of highways and maintenance of crossings is expressly authorized by statute;[65] but statutory remedies in such cases are ordinarily held to be cumulative and not to prevent a resort to the other remedies existing at common law or in equity.[66] The existence of a remedy by mandamus is no bar to an indictment,[67] nor is it any bar to the maintenance of a suit or a proceeding by mandamus to compel the railroad company to perform its duty that the public authorities might do the work and recover from the railroad company,[68] or proceed by indictment,[69] or recover a statutory penalty,[70] or sue the railroad company for indemnity in case of a resulting injury for which they should be held liable.[71] Where by statute to grade the entire width of the street in advance of any action of its own in regard to establishing such grade (Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Franklin, 193 Pa. St. 496, 44 Atl. 583).

58. Greenup County v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 88 Ky. 659, 11 S. W. 774, 11 Ky. L. Rep. 169.

Mitigation of damages.— Where suit is brought by a county to recover damages for failure to restore the highway, evidence that the company caused a new road to be built, intending it to be used in lieu of the old road, and that such new road was accepted by the county, should be submitted to the jury, who may consider the building of such new road in mitigation of damages. Greenup County v. Maysville, etc., R. Co., 21 S. W. 351, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 699.

59. London, etc., R. Co. v. Blake, 2 R. & Can. Cas. 322, holding that where a railroad company was required by its charter to restore and repair highways crossed or diverted to the satisfaction of the board of surveyors of a parish, and the company diverted a highway and constructed a substitute, which was not accepted as satisfactory, the surveyors had no right to put up fences across the railroad but that they must apply to the court either for an injunction or mandamus.

60. Windsor v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 127, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 863 [affirmed in 155 N. Y. 645, 49 N. E. 1105]; Hatch v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 50 Hun (N. Y.) 64, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 509.

61. Louisville Southern R. Co. v. Harrodsburg, 32 S. W. 604, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 780, holding, however, that the court should not direct the particular kind of crossing to be maintained but merely the maintenance of a proper crossing, leaving the company to comply with the requirement at its peril.

62. See supra, VI, D, 3, f.

63. Hamden v. New Haven, etc., Co., 27 Conn. 158, holding that such action may be maintained, although the town had never proceeded against the railroad company by mandamus or otherwise to compel it to restore the highway.

64. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Summit, 3 Ill. App. 155.

65. Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 N. J. Eq. 404, 64 Atl. 484; Windsor v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 92 Hun (N. Y.) 127, 36 N. Y. Suppl. 863 [affirmed in 155 N. Y. 645, 49 N. E. 1105].

66. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302; State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434.

67. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 185]; Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 9 C. & P. 469, 38 E. C. L. 278.

68. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489; Oshkosh v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 74 Wis. 534, 43 N. W. 489, 17 Am. St. Rep. 175; Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284. But see Concord Tp.'s Appeal, 1 Walk. (Pa.) 195, holding that where a railroad company refuses to repair a road which it has raised in crossing, the township should repair the road and sue the railroad company for damages, and that therefore equity would not take jurisdiction of a suit to compel the company to repair the road.

69. Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284.

70. Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284.

71. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489.

the control of highways at railroad crossings is vested in railroad commissioners, if a railroad company neglects to construct or maintain crossings the remedy of the public authorities is by application to the railroad commissioners.[72] If the owner of a private way makes no objection to the construction of a railroad across it by which the use of the way is obstructed, a mandatory injunction to compel the restoration of the way involving a large expense to the railroad company will not be granted, but plaintiff will be left to an action for damages where such remedy is adequate.[73]

4. Highway Laid Out After Construction of Railroad — a. Power to Establish Highway Across Railroad. The legislature may authorize the construction of a street or highway across a railroad,[74] since the right of way is held subject to the right of the public to have streets and highways extended across the same whenever the public necessities require;[75] and while in some cases such authority is conferred in express terms,[76] it may be conferred either expressly or by necessary implication.[77] A general authority to condemn property for or to lay out streets and highways is sufficient to authorize the crossing of a railroad,[78] provided the use of the road for railroad purposes is not destroyed or materially impaired.[79] A statute authorizing the laying out of a street or highway across the "track" of any railroad without compensation applies to the entire road-bed and not

72. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New Haven, 70 Conn. 390, 39 Atl. 597, holding that in such case municipal authorities can neither compel the railroad company to construct and repair crossings nor perform such work by the agents of the municipality.

73. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 117 Ky. 364, 78 S. W. 160, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1459.

74. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109; People v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 11 N. Y. App. Div. 280, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 1011 [affirmed in 159 N. Y. 545, 54 N. E. 1093].

75. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 159 Ill. 369, 42 N. E. 781; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Chicago, 141 Ill. 586, 30 N. E. 1044, 17 L. R. A. 530; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 510, 65 N. E. 508; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 563.

Under the New York statute of 1853, providing that any railroad company across whose tracks a street or highway shall be laid out shall cause such street or highway to be taken across its track as shall be most convenient for public travel, a railroad company cannot be required to take a street across its tracks where no public benefit would result but only private interests be subserved, or where such tracks are in constant use by the railroad company. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 69 Hun (N. Y.) 166, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 456.

Right of railroad to compensation see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 669.

Reopening highway.— Where a railroad company recognized and adopted the dedication of streets which crossed its right of way, as shown by a plat, and planked the crossing and maintained it for a number of years, mere non-user by the public will not defeat the right of a city to open and replank the crossing after the railroad company has wrongfully destroyed it. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Council Bluffs, 109 Iowa 425, 80 N. W. 564.

76. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Chicago, 141 Ill. 586, 30 N. E. 1044, 17 L. R. A. 530; Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Whitehall, 90 N. Y. 21; Albany Northern R. Co. v. Brownell, 24 N. Y. 345; People v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 11 N. Y. App. Div. 280, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 1011 [affirmed in 159 N. Y. 545, 54 N. E. 1093].

77. Central Vermont R. Co. v. Royalton, 58 Vt. 234, 4 Atl. 586.

78. Illinois.— Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 159 Ill. 369, 42 N. E. 781.

Iowa.— Albia v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Iowa 624, 71 N. W. 541.

Missouri.— Hannibal v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 49 Mo. 480.

Ohio.— Little Miami, etc., R. Co. v. Dayton, 23 Ohio St. 510.

Vermont.— Central Vermont R. Co. v. Royalton, 58 Vt. 234, 4 Atl. 868.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 286.

79. Hannibal v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 49 Mo. 480; Little Miami, etc., R. Co. v. Dayton, 23 Ohio St. 510.

Although the opening of a street will be an inconvenience to the railroad company whose track will be crossed thereby, it cannot prevent the crossing, where it will not destroy any franchises of the company. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 563.

If there is not a mere crossing, permitting of a concurrent use for highway and railroad purposes, but the laying out of the street or highway also involves the taking of property of the railroad company the occupation of which must necessarily be exclusive, such as grounds used for a station-house, engine-house, turn-tables, and the like, express legislative authority is necessary. New Jersey Southern R. Co. v. Long Branch Com'rs, 39 N. J. L. 28; Albany Northern R. Co. v. Brownell, 24 N. Y. 345.

merely to the iron or railway,[80] and the track may embrace one or more single tracks,[81] including turnouts and switches,[82] or in other words whatever may fairly be regarded as the roadway;[83] but it should be limited to the tracks used for public traffic,[84] and does not include tracks constituting a yard or place devoted to the switching and storing of cars and making up of trains,[85] or grounds used for depots, freight-houses, engine-houses, turn-tables, and other terminal structures,[86] or in other words property not properly admitting of a concurrent use for highway and railroad purposes.[87] In Maine the statute expressly prohibits the laying out of a way across property of a railroad company used for station purposes.[88] Any statutory regulations or restrictions in regard to the construction of streets or highways across railroads must be complied with,[89] such as that a street or highway shall not be constructed across a railroad within a given distance of another highway crossing,[90] that before the street or highway is constructed municipal authorities must obtain authority therefor from the county commissioners,[91] or give notice to the railroad company and afford it an opportunity to be heard upon the question of necessity,[92] and that if it be decided by the municipal authorities that the crossing is necessary the railroad commissioners shall, before other proceedings are taken, determine the character of the crossing;[93] and under the New York statute the railroad company has a right of appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court from the decision of the municipal authorities as to the necessity for the crossing.[94]

b. Character of Crossing. Where a street or highway is laid out across a railroad it should be so located and constructed as not unnecessarily to injure the railroad;[95] but in the absence of statute it seems that it may be constructed 80. Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Whitehall, 90 N. Y. 21.

81. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Greenbush, 52 N. Y. 510; Albany Northern R. Co. v. Brownell, 24 N. Y. 345.

82. Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Whitehall, 90 N. Y. 21; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Greenbush, 52 N. Y. 510.

83. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Greenbush, 52 N. Y. 510.

84. Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. Rochester, 17 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 687.

85. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 570, 51 N. E. 312 [reversing 25 N. Y. App. Div. 632, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 1132]; Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. Rochester, 17 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 687.

The mere fact that the tracks are used for switching or making up trains, if also used for the passing of trains, does not relieve them from the operation of the statute. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Greenbush, 52 N. Y. 510.

86. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 570, 51 N. E. 312 [reversing 25 N. Y. App. Div. 632, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 1132]; Albany Northern R. Co. v. Brownell, 24 N. Y. 345; Rochester, etc., R. Co. v. Rochester, 17 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 687. See also Prospect Park, etc., R. Co. v. Williamson, 91 N. Y. 552.

87. Albany Northern R. Co. v. Brownell, 24 N. Y. 345.

88. Atlantic, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 100 Me. 430, 62 Atl. 141, holding that "station purposes" include such grounds at the station as are convenient, necessary, and actually used by the railroad company for approaches and exits for the public, for the location of depots and other necessary buildings for railroad purposes, sidings for passing trains, and storing cars and switches and places where passengers may get on and off trains and goods may be loaded and unloaded.

89. Com. v. Haverhill, 7 Allen (Mass.) 523; In re Ludlow St., 172 N. Y. 542, 65 N. E. 494 [affirming 59 N. Y. App. Div. 180, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 1046].

90. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Capner, 49 N. J. L. 555, 9 Atl. 781; New Egypt, etc., R. Co. v. Drummond, 45 N. J. L. 511.

The distance between the crossings must be determined by considering the width of the crossings and not the width of the highways elsewhere. New Egypt, etc., R. Co. v. Drummond, 45 N. J. L. 511.

91. Com. v. Haverhill, 7 Allen (Mass.) 523.

92. In re Ludlow St., 172 N. Y. 542, 65 N. E. 494 [affirming 59 N. Y. App. Div. 180, 68 N. Y. Suppl. 1046], holding that the requirement as to notice and opportunity to be heard applies to proceedings commenced before the passage of the act, under a city charter which did not require such notice, where the petition was not acted upon until after the act took effect.

93. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 31 N. Y. App. Div. 334, 52 N. Y. Suppl. 234 [affirmed in 158 N. Y. 410, 53 N. E. 166].

94. Matter of North Third Ave., 32 N. Y. App. Div. 394, 53 N. Y. Suppl. 46. See also Matter of North Third Ave., 30 N. Y. App. Div. 256, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 353. Compare People v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 11 N. Y. App. Div. 280, 42 N. Y. Suppl. 1011 [affirmed in 159 N. Y. 545, 54 N. E. 1093].

95. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Baltimore, 46 Md. 425.

in whatever manner will not unnecessarily injure the railroad,[96] and may be constructed across the railroad at grade.[97] A statute providing that the street or highway may be constructed "over or across" the railroad authorizes the public authorities at their election to construct the same across the railroad at grade,[98] and the right to cross at grade is not affected by a requirement that they shall restore the railroad crossing to its former state or so as not to have impaired its usefulness.[99] Grade crossings are, however, dangerous and may be prohibited by the legislature,[1] and while this is in some cases done in express terms,[2] a statute requiring the crossing to be "under or over" the railroad contemplates a crossing at a different level and prohibits a grade crossing.[3] Statutes prohibiting the construction of streets or highways across railroads at grade apply to highways located and even partly constructed prior to the statute, if not fully completed for use by the public at the place of crossing,[4] and to crossings incidental to the relocation of an existing highway,[5] and apply notwithstanding the railroad company may consent to a crossing of its tracks at grade,[6] or a grade crossing would be more convenient to the public.[7]

c. Construction and Maintenance of Crossing. In the absence of statute a railroad company cannot be required to construct and maintain crossings where a street or highway is made across its right of way after the construction of the railroad,[8] there being no common-law duty on the part of the railroad company in such cases to construct crossings or bridges or approaches thereto;[9] but such

96. See Central Vermont R. Co. v. Royalton, 58 Vt. 234, 4 Atl. 868.

97. Ligonier Valley R. Co. v. Latrobe, 216 Pa. St. 221, 65 Atl. 548; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Upper Darby Tp., 202 Pa. St. 429, 51 Atl. 1030; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Morgan County, 143 Fed. 798, 75 C. C. A. 56.

98. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Chicago, 141 Ill. 586, 30 N. E. 1044, 17 L. R. A. 530, holding further that in such a case a court of equity has no authority to interfere with the exercise of such discretion and order a crossing by means of a viaduct.

99. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Chicago, 141 Ill. 586, 30 N. E. 1044, 17 L. R. A. 530.

1. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 55 Conn. 19, 10 Atl. 162.

2. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New Haven, 70 Conn. 390, 30 Atl. 597; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 55 Conn. 19, 10 Atl. 162.

The Massachusetts statute provides that the crossing may be at grade if the county commissioners shall determine that the public necessity requires such a crossing but not otherwise (Old Colony R. Co. v. Fall River, 147 Mass. 455, 18 N. E. 425); and the statute applies to a petition for the laying out of a highway pending at the time of its passage (Old Colony, etc., R. Co. v. Plymouth County Com'rs, 11 Gray 512).

In Pennsylvania the act of 1901 prohibits the construction thereafter of highways across a railroad at grade except by permission of the court of common pleas (Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Bogert, 209 Pa. St. 589, 59 Atl. 800; In re Mifflinville Bridge, 206 Pa. St. 420, 55 Atl. 1122); and such permission should not be granted unless it is shown that under the circumstances a grade crossing is necessary (Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Bogert, supra).

3. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence, 2 Allen (Mass.) 107; Central Vermont R. Co. v. Royalton, 58 Vt. 234, 4 Atl. 868.

A provision that the highway "may" be constructed so as to pass "under or over" the railroad will be construed as "must" and prohibits a crossing at grade. Central Vermont R. Co. v. Royalton, 58 Vt. 234, 4 Atl. 868.

4. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New Haven, 70 Conn. 390, 30 Atl. 597; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 55 Conn. 19, 10 Atl. 162.

But if a street is established and regularly laid out several years prior to the taking effect of an act prohibiting grade crossings except when allowed by the court, the statute does not apply, although up to that time the crossing was not planked or what it should have been to meet the public requirements as to convenience. Ligonier Valley R. Co. v. Latrobe, 216 Pa. St. 221, 65 Atl. 548.

5. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Bogert, 209 Pa. St. 589, 59 Atl. 100; In re Mifflinville Bridge, 206 Pa. St. 420, 55 Atl. 1122.

6. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 55 Conn. 19, 10 Atl. 162.

7. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Bogert, 209 Pa. St. 589, 59 Atl. 100.

8. Albia v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Iowa 624, 71 N. W. 541.

9. O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Baltimore, 46 Md. 425; State v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 74 N. C. 143. But see State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., (Minn. 1906) 108 N. W. 261.

On change of location of crossing.— Where an existing crossing which it is the duty of the railroad company to repair is, after construction of the railroad, changed to a different place by common consent of the company and the public, so that the new crossing is merely a substitute for the old one, it is the duty of the railroad company to keep such crossing in repair. People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 118.

duty being upon the public authorities by whom the street is established and constructed,[10] and there are a few decisions to the effect that the railroad company cannot constitutionally be required by statute to do so without compensation.[11] The great weight of authority, however, is that the legislature may under the police power of the state,[12] or a right reserved to alter or amend the railroad charter,[13] require railroad companies at their own expense to construct and maintain crossings where streets or highways are established across a railroad already constructed,[14] or to pay a portion of such expense,[15] and that the rule applies to crossings by means of a bridge or viaduct as well as to crossings at grade,[16] and that the right to enforce such a requirement as a police regulation cannot be divested by any contract between a municipality and a railroad company.[17] It has even been held that the railroad company may be required to construct and maintain that portion of the highway within the limits of its right of way;[18] but on the contrary it has been held that the public authorities should construct and maintain that portion of the highway within the limits of the right of way which they would have been required to build if the railroad had not been constructed,[19] or that the expense thereof should be included in the estimate of damages to the railroad company,[20] notwithstanding the statute in terms imposes this duty upon the rail-

10. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 159 Mass. 283, 34 N. E. 382; Chester v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 3 Walk. (Pa.) 368.

Discontinuance and reëstablishment of highway.— Where a railroad company required by law to construct a bridge at the crossing of an existing highway constructed its road across a turnpike after the turnpike had been discontinued by the legislature and before it was reëstablished as a public highway, during which time it existed as an open way de facto, it was held that a continuous existence as a public highway was not essential and that it was the duty of the railroad company and not the public authorities to construct the bridge at the crossing. Cambridge v. Charlestown Branch R. Co., 7 Metc. (Mass.) 70.

11. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bloomington, 76 Ill. 447; State v. Shardlow, 43 Minn. 524, 46 N. W. 74; State v. Hennepin County Dist. Ct., 42 Minn. 247, 44 N. W. 7, 7 L. R. A. 121.

12. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., (Minn. 1906) 108 N. W. 261; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Copiah County, 81 Miss. 685, 33 So. 502; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 166 U. S. 226, 17 S. Ct. 581, 41 L. ed. 979.

13. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 60 Conn. 1, 22 Atl. 439.

14. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109; O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572.

Indiana.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Shelley, 163 Ind. 36, 71 N. E. 151.

Maine.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. York County Com'rs, 79 Me. 386, 10 Atl. 113; Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Deering, 78 Me. 61, 2 Atl. 670, 57 Am. Rep. 784.

Minnesota.— State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 98 Minn. 429, 108 N. W. 269; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., (1906) 108 N. W. 261 [disapproving on this point State v. Hennepin County Dist. Ct., 42 Minn. 247, 44 N. W. 7, 7 L. R. A. 121].

Mississippi.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Copiah County, 81 Miss. 685, 33 So. 502.

Nebraska.— Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Cass County, 76 Nebr. 396, 107 N. W. 773; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 29 Nebr. 412, 45 N. W. 469.

Tennessee.— Harriman v. Southern R. Co., 111 Tenn. 538, 82 S. W. 213.

Texas.— Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Milam County, 90 Tex. 355, 38 S. W. 747.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 166 U. S. 226, 17 S. Ct. 581, 41 L. ed. 979.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 287, 288.

15. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 60 Conn. 1, 22 Atl. 439.

16. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., (Minn. 1906) 108 N. W. 261; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Copiah County, 81 Miss. 685, 33 So. 502; Harriman v. Southern R. Co., 111 Tenn. 538, 82 S. W. 213. But see Albia v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Iowa 624, 71 N. W. 541, holding that a statutory requirement that the railroad company shall construct "good, sufficient, and safe crossings" is applicable as regards streets and highways established after the construction of the railroad only to grade crossings, and that it does not impose such duty in the case of crossings over the road requiring the construction of a bridge or viaduct.

17. State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 98 Minn. 429, 108 N. W. 269; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., (Minn. 1906) 108 N. W. 261.

18. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. York County Com'rs, 79 Me. 386, 10 Atl. 115; Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Deering, 78 Me. 61, 2 Atl. 670, 57 Am. Rep. 784.

19. People v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 277, 17 N. W. 841; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Cass County, 76 Nebr. 386, 107 N. W. 773; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 29 Nebr. 412, 45 N. W. 469.

20. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Cass County, 76 Nebr. 396, 107 N. W. 773.

road company,[21] and that the legislature cannot constitutionally require the railroad company to construct at its own expense all that portion of the highway within the limits of the railroad right of way.[22] In some cases it has been held without expressly or necessarily deciding as to the power of the legislature, that particular statutes relating to the construction and maintenance of crossings were not intended to apply to streets and highways laid out across a railroad already constructed;[23] but a majority of the statutes have been construed as applying to such cases,[24] although since the duty imposed thereby exists solely by reason of the statute, it should not be extended beyond the fair import of the language used.[25] Where the statutes are held applicable and their validity sustained, the expense of constructing and maintaining a crossing is not to be considered or included in estimating the railroad company's damages for the condemnation of a right of way across its tracks.[26] Where the action of the public authorities in laying out the highway across the railroad is unauthorized, the railroad company cannot be required to construct and maintain a crossing.[27]

21. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Cass County, 76 Nebr. 396, 107 N. W. 773.

22. People v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 52 Mich. 277, 17 N. W. 841.

23. Arkansas.— Prairie County v. Fink, 65 Ark. 492, 47 S. W. 301.

Kansas.— Rock Creek Tp. v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 43 Kan. 543, 23 Pac. 585.

Louisiana.— State v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R., etc., Co., 111 La. 120, 35 So. 482.

North Carolina.—State v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 74 N. C. 143.

Wisconsin.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Milwaukee, 97 Wis. 418, 72 N. W. 1118.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 287, 288.

Where the statutory provisions are conflicting, as where a railroad charter requires it to construct bridges or passages "where any road now in use" shall cross the same, and further provides that the company shall be subject to the provisions of the charter of another company, which charter requires the construction of bridges or passages at the crossing of any road "now or hereafter laid out," a court of equity will not require the railroad company to construct a bridge or passage, the legal right not being clear and it further appearing that the street was not in use, and that such requirement would impose a large expense upon the railroad company. Hackensack Imp. Commission v. New Jersey Midland R. Co., 22 N. J. Eq. 94.

24. Georgia.— Cleveland v. Augusta, 102 Ga. 233, 29 S. E. 584, 43 L. R. A. 638.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Paradise Highway Com'rs, 61 Ill. App. 203.

Indiana.— Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Connersville, 170 Ind. 316, 83 N. E. 503; Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Shelley, 163 Ind. 36, 71 N. E. 151; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. State, 159 Ind. 510, 65 N. E. 508; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 149 Ind. 276, 49 N. E. 2; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 91 Ind. 119.

Kentucky.— Com. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 109 Ky. 59, 58 S. W. 478, 702, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 572.

Maine.— Boston, etc., R. Co. v. York County Com'rs, 79 Me. 386, 10 Atl. 113; Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Deering, 78 Me. 61, 2 Atl. 670, 57 Am. Rep. 784.

Minnesota.— State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 98 Minn. 380, 108 N. W. 261.

Mississippi.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Swalm, 83 Miss. 631, 36 So. 147; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Copiah County, 81 Miss. 685, 33 So. 502.

Nebraska.— Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Cass County, 76 Nebr. 396, 107 N. W. 773; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 29 Nebr. 412, 45 N. W. 469.

Tennessee.— Harriman v. Southern R. Co., 111 Tenn. 538, 82 S. W. 213.

Texas.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Milam County, 90 Tex. 355, 38 S. W. 747. But see San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Belt, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 281, 59 S. W. 607.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 287, 288.

A highway acquired by prescription is within the application of the statutes requiring railroad companies to make and maintain crossings. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Kaufman County, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 251, 42 S. W. 586.

25. O'Fallon v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 45 Ill. App. 572.

26. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 140 Ill. 309, 29 N. E. 1109.

Indiana.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Shelley, 163 Ind. 36, 71 N. E. 151.

Maine.— Boston, etc., R. Co. v. York County Com'rs, 79 Me. 386, 10 Atl. 113.

Texas.— Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Milam County, 90 Tex. 355, 38 S. W. 747.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 166 U. S. 226, 17 S. Ct. 581, 41 L. ed. 979.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 287, 288.

Where the railroad company is required to pay a portion of the expense of a crossing, such portion is not to be included in its estimate of damages. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Waterbury, 60 Conn. 1, 22 Atl. 439.

27. Chapin v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 97 Me. 151, 53 Atl. 1105, holding that where the statute authorizing a municipality to lay out

In Massachusetts it is provided by statute that all the expenses incident to the construction and maintenance of a way across a railroad shall be borne by the county, city, town, or other owner thereof, but that if the crossing be at grade the railroad company shall at its own expense guard and protect the rails so as to secure a safe and easy passage across its road,[28] and the statute is given practical effect by including the expense for which the railroad company is not liable in its estimate of damages;[29] but if the railroad company refuses to do the necessary work, it cannot prevent the public authorities from going upon its right of way and performing the work in any suitable manner.[30]

5. Change After Construction of Railroad — a. In General. The legislature may compel a railroad company after the construction of its road to make whatever changes in regard to the crossing of streets and highways the public safety and convenience may reasonably require,[31] or may delegate to municipal corporations the power of requiring such changes,[32] or act through the instrumentality of a commission;[33] and any such changes falling properly within the police power of the state may be required to be made at the sole expense of the railroad company,[34] or a municipality in which the crossing is located may be required to pay a portion of the expense.[35] So also the duty of maintaining and keeping in repair suitable crossings and of restoring highways crossed so as not to impair their usefulness, is a continuing duty,[36] and it frequently happens that a crossing or mode of restoration originally sufficient may become insufficient by reason of subsequent conditions, increased travel, character of vehicles used, and the like,[37] in which case it is the duty of the railroad company to do whatever the public convenience and necessity may require in order to meet such conditions,[38]

a street expressly provides that it shall not be laid across the tracks of a certain railroad company, without the consent of such company, and such consent is not obtained, the railroad company cannot be required to construct and maintain a crossing.

28. Old Colony R. Co. v. New Bedford, 188 Mass. 234, 74 N. E. 468; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 159 Mass. 283, 34 N. E. 382; Old Colony R. Co. v. Fall River, 147 Mass. 455, 18 N. E. 425; Scanlan v. Boston, 140 Mass. 84, 2 N. E. 787.

Construction and application of statute.— The intention of the statute is to impose upon the city or other corporation authorized to maintain the way the expense of constructing and maintaining it up to the outer line of the railroad tracks, or so near their foundation as not to interfere with them, and upon the railroad company the expense of the crossing between these lines (Old Colony R. Co. v. Fall River, 147 Mass. 455, 18 N. E. 425); and it is held that where the railroad company has two parallel tracks near together, it must keep in repair the space between the two lines of tracks (Scanlan v. Boston, 140 Mass. 84, 2 N. E. 787); and that the provision imposing the expense of constructing and maintaining the highway at the crossing upon the public authorities applies only to the laying out of a new highway and not to the mere widening of an existing way (Carter v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 139 Mass. 525, 2 N. E. 101).

29. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 159 Mass. 283, 34 N. E. 382.

30. Old Colony R. Co. v. Fall River, 147 Mass. 455, 18 N. E. 425.

31. People v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Colo. 186, 37 Pac. 610; New England R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 171 Mass. 135, 50 N. E. 549; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Hampden County Com'rs, 164 Mass. 551, 42 N. E. 100; Fitchburg R. Co. v. Grand Junction R., etc., Co., 4 Allen (Mass.) 198; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

32. People v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Colo. 186, 37 Pac. 610.

33. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269; Toronto v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 37 Can. Sup. Ct. 232.

34. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

35. Toronto v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 37 Can. Sup. Ct. 232.

36. People v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Colo. 186, 37 Pac. 610; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313; Hatch v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 50 Hun (N. Y.) 64, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 509; Charlottesville v. Southern R. Co., 97 Va. 428, 34 S. E. 98.

37. Burritt v. New Haven, 42 Conn. 174; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 57 Kan. 154, 45 Pac. 576; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313; Newark v. Erie R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1907) 68 Atl. 413.

38. Connecticut.— Burritt v. New Haven, 42 Conn. 174.

Georgia.— Cleveland v. Augusta, 102 Ga. 233, 29 S. E. 584, 43 L. R. A. 638.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 57 Kan. 154, 45 Pac. 576.

and it may be compelled by appropriate proceedings to do so,[39] or held liable in damages for resulting injuries.[40] Changes within the application of the foregoing rules have been held to include the construction of a bridge or viaduct at a crossing formerly constructed at grade,[41] with the necessary excavations, embankments, and approaches therefor,[42] the widening of a crossing or its approaches to make it sufficient to accommodate the increased amount of travel or character of vehicles used,[43] the widening of a bridge and its approaches,[44] the widening of the space where the street or highway passes under a railroad,[45] and the removal therefrom of pillars or abutments which reduce the width or obstruct the use of the highway,[46] the alteration of a railroad bridge so as to prevent the discharge of water upon a street below,[47] lowering the grade of a railroad constructed upon an embankment to the level of a street,[48] or the changing of the grade of the railroad in order to conform to a change in the grade of a street;[49] but it is not the duty of a railroad company to strengthen or reconstruct a bridge

Massachusetts.— Cooke v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 133 Mass. 185.

Minnesota.— State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313.

New Jersey.— Newark v. Erie R. Co., (Ch. 1907) 68 Atl. 413; Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 N. J. Eq. 404, 64 Atl. 484.

New York.— Hatch v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 50 Hun 64, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 509.

Virginia.— Charlottesville v. Southern R. Co., 97 Va. 428, 34 S. E. 98.

United States.— Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 291, 292.

39. State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153; Newark v. Erie R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1907) 68 Atl. 413; Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 N. J. Eq. 404, 64 Atl. 484; Hatch v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 50 Hun (N. Y.) 64, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 509; Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284.

A court of chancery may compel railroad companies whose roads cross streets at grade and whose charters contain appropriate provisions to elevate or depress their tracks or the highways crossing them (Newark v. Erie R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1907) 68 Atl. 413; Newark v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1907) 67 Atl. 1009); but such requirements should not be made where it will involve a large expense to the railroad company unless the crossing is peculiarly dangerous (Newark v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., supra).

40. Cooke v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 133 Mass. 185.

41. People v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Colo. 186, 37 Pac. 610; Burritt v. New Haven, 42 Conn. 174; State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313; Newark v. Erie R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1907) 68 Atl. 413.

Abolition of grade crossings generally see infra, VI, D, 5, b.

42. Burritt v. New Haven, 42 Conn. 174; State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 131, 28 N. W. 3, 59 Am. Rep. 313.

43. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 57 Kan. 154, 45 Pac. 576; Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284.

44. Charlottesville v. Southern R. Co., 97 Va. 428, 34 S. E. 98.

45. New England R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 171 Mass. 135, 50 N. E. 549; Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1906) 64 Atl. 484; Hatch v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 50 Hun (N. Y.) 64, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 509.

46. Metuchen v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (N. J. Ch. 1906) 64 Atl. 484; Hatch v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 50 Hun (N. Y.) 64, 4 N. Y. Suppl. 509; Elyria v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 23 Ohio Cir. Ct. 482.

Although the municipality authorizes the erection of abutments which lessen the width of the street, the railroad company may be compelled to remove them, since the municipality has no right to authorize such an obstruction to the public travel. Elyria v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 23 Ohio Cir. Ct. 482. See also Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Buffalo, 158 N. Y. 266, 478, 53 N. E. 44, 533 [affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 562, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 510].

47. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Hampden County, 164 Mass. 551, 42 N. E. 100.

48. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Noblesville, 159 Ind. 237, 64 N. E. 860; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Dallas, 98 Tex. 396, 84 S. W. 648, 70 L. R. A. 850 [reversing (Civ. App. 1904) 78 S. W. 525].

Reasonableness and practicability of change. — While it is within the police power of a municipality to require a railroad company to lower the level of its tracks at crossings to conform to the grade of streets, an ordinance so requiring cannot be sustained if it is manifestly unreasonable in imposing burdens upon the railroad company which are entirely disproportionate to the benefits to the public or if a compliance with the ordinance would be impracticable. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Dallas, 98 Tex. 396, 84 S. W. 648, 70 L. R. A 850 [reversing (Civ. App. 1904) 78 S. W. 525].

49. Cleveland v. Augusta, 102 Ga. 233, 29 S. E. 584, 43 L. R. A. 638, holding that it is the duty of a railroad company at its own expense to alter the grade of its track and crossing to conform to a change in the grade of a street, although it involves the raising of the grade of its track several feet which is sufficiently strong and suitable for the ordinary highway traffic, so as to make it suitable for the additional use of a street railway;[50] nor, in the absence of express legislative requirement, can a railroad company be required to change the location of its road in order to avoid frightening horses on a parallel highway, where the road was lawfully located and the only change of condition is that a greater number of persons are exposed to the danger and that the danger is increased by reason of the greater speed and number of trains.[51]

b. Abolition and Removal of Grade Crossings. The legislature may as a police regulation for the public safety,[52] or under a power reserved to alter or amend a railroad charter,[53] require the abolition of existing crossings at grade between streets or highways and railroads, so that the one shall pass over or under the other by means of a bridge, viaduct, or undercrossing,[54] or may authorize a municipality to require such change,[55] or it may act through the instrumentality of a commission,[56] which may be either general or special,[57] and may require that the expense of such change may be paid either by the railroad company or the county, township, or municipality where the crossing is situated or in part by for a distance of several hundred yards on either side of the approaches to the street.

50. People v. Adams, 88 Hun (N. Y.) 122, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 579 [affirmed in 147 N. Y. 722, 42 N. E. 725]; Conshohocken R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 15 Pa. Co. Ct. 445; Briden v. New York, etc., R. Co., 27 R. I. 569, 65 Atl. 315. See also Carolina Cent. R. Co. v. Wilmington St. R. Co., 120 N. C. 520, 26 S. E. 913.

The only duty to strengthen the bridge would be where, by reason of increase in the amount of travel, or by greater weight of vehicles in use, or for any other reason, the bridge becomes insufficient for ordinary highway traffic. Briden v. New York, etc., R. Co., 27 R. I. 569, 65 Atl. 315.

51. State v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 45 Conn. 331.

52. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17; Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

53. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

54. Colorado.— People v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Colo. 186, 37 Pac. 610.

Connecticut.— New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17; Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Woodruff v. Catlin, 54 Conn. 277, 6 Atl. 849.

Massachusetts.— Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199.

New York.— Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

United States.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 150 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 293, 294.

55. People v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Colo. 186, 37 Pac. 610.

Validity of ordinance.—An ordinance requiring a railroad company to construct viaducts at street crossings is not void for uncertainty because it is in general terms, and does not specify the details of the work, since the plans and specifications for the work, prepared by the authority of the city council, will supplement the ordinance. Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. People, 20 Colo. App. 181, 77 Pac. 1026.

Entire vacation of grade crossing unnecessary.— Where a municipality, pursuant to legislative authority, requires a railroad company to construct a bridge or viaduct for a street at a former grade crossing, it is not necessary that the street below shall be given over entirely to the use of the railroad company or vacated, but if this would inconvenience a large number of people it may require a bridge or viaduct for a part of the width of the street and leave the balance so as to be used at grade. People v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Colo. 186, 37 Pac. 610.

56. Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17; Woodruff v. Catlin, 54 Conn. 277, 6 Atl. 849; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115]; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

57. Mooney v. Clark, 69 Conn. 241, 37 Atl. 506, 1080; New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122.

The legislature may authorize an agreement between a railroad company and certain municipal officers and citizens appointed by the legislature to represent the municipality with regard to abolishing grade crossings and apportioning the expense, which, when approved by the railroad commissioners, shall be binding upon all the parties. Mooney v. Clark, 69 Conn. 241, 37 Atl. 506, 1080.

both.[58] Municipalities are, however, in the exercise of such delegated powers, confined to those expressly granted or reasonably implied,[59] and the same rule applies to powers and proceedings of county commissioners.[60] Owing to their danger, which increases with increasing population and amount of traffic, there is a growing tendency to abolish grade crossings;[61] and in a number of jurisdictions statutes have been enacted for this purpose. The statutes are in some cases general laws and in others relate to particular roads, municipalities or localities, and are so varying in their terms that it is impracticable to attempt to set out their provisions.[62] In some cases the statutes authorize agreements between railroad companies and municipalities with reference to the abolition of grade crossings,[63] and under some of the statutes the railroad company may 58. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17; Woodruff v. Catlin, 54 Conn. 277, 6 Atl. 849.

59. State v. Indianapolis Union R. Co., 160 Ind. 45, 66 N. E. 163, 60 L. R. A. 831, holding that under a power to declare what shall constitute and to abate nuisances, and in order to afford protection to persons using the streets, to require railroad companies to change the grade and crossings of their roads and raise or lower their tracks and construct bridges and viaducts, a municipality has not the broad power of abolishing all grade crossings in a city and compelling railroad companies to construct a system of elevated tracks, without regard to the circumstances or conditions of any particular crossing.

60. Grinnell v. Portage County, 27 Ohio Cir. Ct. 118, holding that since the application of the Ohio statute is limited to existing crossings of existing railroads, the county commissioners have no authority to change the location of a highway in order to avoid a grade crossing with a proposed railroad not yet constructed.

61. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

62. See the statutes of the several states; and the following cases:

Connecticut.— New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17; Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Woodruff v. Catlin, 54 Conn. 277, 6 Atl. 869.

Massachusetts.— Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199.

New Jersey.— Swift v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 66 N. J. Eq. 34, 57 Atl. 456.

New York.—Melenbacker v. Salamanca, 188 N. Y. 370, 80 N. E. 1090 [affirming 116 N. Y. App. Div. 691, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 1073]; In re Terminal R. Co., 122 N. Y. App. Div. 59, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 655; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

Ohio.—Grinnell v. Portage County, 27 Ohio Cir. Ct. 118.

United States.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 293, 294.

The Connecticut statute of 1889 enlarges the provisions of the previons statutes and requires that every railroad company operating a road in that state shall remove or apply for the removal of at least one grade crossing each year for every sixty miles of road operated by it in that state, the crossings to be removed being those which in the opinion of the directors are most dangerous, and in case of failure to do so the railroad commissioners, if in their opinion the financial condition of the company will warrant it, shall order such removal. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122.

The Ohio statute relates only to existing crossings of existing and operated railroads, and does not authorize a change in the location of a highway to avoid a grade crossing with a proposed railroad not yet constructed. Grinnell v. Portage County, 27 Ohio Cir. Ct. 118.

63. Mooney v. Clark, 69 Conn. 241, 37 Atl. 506, 1080; Swift v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 66 N. J. Eq. 34, 57 Atl. 156; Erie R. Co. v. Buffalo, 180 N. Y. 192, 73 N. E. 26 [reversing 96 N. Y. App. Div. 640, 89 N. Y. Suppl. 1104, 96 N. Y. App. Div. 458, 89 N. Y. Suppl. 122].

The New Jersey statute of 1874 authorizing cities to make contracts with companies "whose roads enter their corporate limits" for the purpose of relocating and elevating the railroad tracks or changing the grade of streets does not authorize such a contract with a railroad company whose road is constructed wholly within the limits of the city, and the application of the amendatory act of 1893 is similarly restricted, although in terms applying to any railroad which may "enter or lie within" such cities. Morris, etc., Dredging Co. v. Jersey City, 64 N. J. L. 142, 45 Atl. 917.

Effect on contract with private parties.— A contract between a railroad company and a private individual for the maintenance of a switch track across a street at grade must, so far at least as the right to specific performance is concerned, be deemed subject to the public duty of the railroad company, under a statute authorizing contracts betwen railroad companies and municipalities for the removal of grade crossings, and the removal of such a crossing will not be itself institute the proceedings,[64] and obtain an order for the abolition of a grade crossing against the opposition of the municipality in which it is situated.[65] There is no constitutional objection to requiring the county, town, or municipality where the crossing is located to pay a portion of the expense of the change,[66] and the statutes in some cases provide for or authorize an apportionment of the expense between them and the railroad company,[67] which may be in proportions fixed without reference to the value of the property or the benefits severally received;[68] but it is also competent to impose upon the railroad company the entire expense of making the change,[69] or any part thereof,[70] although the railroad company cannot be required to pay all or any part of the expense of general enjoined. Swift v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 66 N. J. Eq. 452, 54 Atl. 939 [affirming 66 N. J. Eq. 34, 57 Atl. 456].

64. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Matter of Terminal R. Co., 122 N. Y. App. Div. 59, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 655; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

A company operating a road under a perpetual lease may institute proceedings for the abolition of grade crossings. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368.

Discontinuance of proceedings.— A petition by a railroad company to abolish a grade crossing, under the Massachusetts statute of 1890, may not be discontinued by the company as a matter of right after it has proceeded to the appointment of commissioners, and an appearance by the town in which the crossing is situated, and the town objects to such discontinuance. In re New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mass. 439, 65 N. E. 815.

65. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

66. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; Woodruff v. Catlin, 54 Conn. 277, 6 Atl. 849; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

67. Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17; Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; In re Newton, 172 Mass. 5, 51 N. E. 183; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199; Melenbacker v. Salamanca, 188 N. Y. 370, 80 N. E. 1090 [affirming 116 N. Y. App. Div. 691, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 1073]; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

A street railway company occupying a street at the crossing of a steam railroad may be required to pay a portion of the expense of abolishing the grade crossing. In re Taunton, 185 Mass. 199, 70 N. E. 48.

The Massachusetts statute of 1890 provides that the railroad company shall pay sixty-five per cent of "the total actual cost of the alterations, including in such cost the cost of the hearing and the compensation of the commissioners and auditors for their services, and all damages, including those mentioned in section five of this act," the remaining thirty-five per cent to be apportioned between the commonwealth and the city, town, etc. (In re Providence, etc., R. Co., 172 Mass. 117, 51 N. E. 459; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Charlton, 161 Mass. 32, 36 N. E. 688); and the statute contemplates that in the cost to be apportioned may be included not only expenditures made directly upon the alterations themselves, but such as are rendered necessary to adapt existing structures and arrangements to such alterations (In re Newton, 172 Mass. 5, 51 N. E. 183); and expenses fairly incurred in carrying out the decree, such as legal expenses incurred by the town in defending and settling claims for damages for land taken for the purpose of abolishing the crossing (Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Charlton, supra); but it does not include expenses incurred by one of the parties not in carrying out the decree but before the decree was made and in opposition thereto (In re Providence, etc., R. Co., 172 Mass. 117, 51 N. E. 459), or authorize either party to make whatever improvements it chooses in connection with the alterations and have them included as a part of the cost of the alterations to be apportioned (In re Newton, supra); the statute also contemplates that the total cost shall be arrived at by a proper system of credits as well as debits, the account being credited with what is or ought to be actually received or realized from the alterations, not including incidental benefits or betterments (In re Westborough, 184 Mass. 107, 68 N. E. 30). For application of these principles to particular items allowable or not allowable see the following cases: In re Westborough, supra; In re Norwood, 183 Mass. 147, 66 N. E. 637; In re Newton, supra.

68. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 58 Conn. 532, 20 Atl. 670; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199.

69. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Bristol, 151 U. S. 556, 14 S. Ct. 437, 38 L. ed. 269.

The authority of railroad commissioners to determine "at whose expense" the change shall be made, while authorizing an apportionment, does not require it, and the commissioners may impose the entire expense upon the railroad company. Fairfield's Appeal, 57 Conn. 167, 17 Atl. 764.

70. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 58 Conn. 532, 20 Atl. 670; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199.

improvements in a system of highways not fairly incidental to changes in the crossing at the railroad.[71] Where the railroad company is required to make the change, it must not only do the work of construction but subsequently, at its own expense, keep the same in repair.[72] Where railroad tracks are owned by different companies jointly, the obligation to build a bridge or viaduct over the same is a joint obligation;[73] but where several companies severally own parallel tracks to be crossed by a single bridge, the duty of each is several and each company should be required to build that part of the bridge above its own tracks, including the width of its right of way,[74] and if there be an intervening space between the rights of way, each company whose tracks are adjacent thereto should build over one-half of such space,[75] and the companies owning the outside tracks should each build the approach to the bridge adjacent to its tracks.[76] The duty of abolishing grade crossings may arise from the general duty of making such changes as subsequent conditions have rendered necessary for the public safety,[77] and a railroad company when required by law to construct and maintain bridges and passages at crossings and authorized to alter and grade highways so that public travel thereon shall not be impeded may of its own motion abolish existing grade crossings on its road.[78] In the absence of statute an abutting landowner is not entitled to damages for a change in the grade of a highway made in order to abolish a grade crossing,[79] and when any right to such damages is given by statute the requirements of the statute must be strictly complied with.[80]

c. Changing Crossings From Different Level to Grade. The exigencies of a particular locality may demand a grade crossing instead of a crossing at a differ-

71. Norwoood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199.

But a contract may be made between a railroad company and a municipality having authority to make such contract for a plan of street alterations and improvements more extensive than the abolition of the grade crossing renders necessary, whereby the railroad company is relieved of any expense beyond that for which it would be legally responsible in making the changes actually necessary. Old Colony R. Co. v. Boston, 189 Mass. 116, 75 N. E. 134.

72. Atty.-Gen. v. Ft. St. Union Depot Co., 117 Mich. 609, 76 N. W. 85.

But if the railroad company is under no legal obligation to change a crossing from grade to one by which a street is carried over the tracks by a bridge, but makes such change under a contract with the municipality, by which the railroad company agrees to maintain the masonry and foundations, and the municipality the superstructure, the railroad company is not liable for an injury due to a failure to keep the surface of the bridge in proper repair. Wetherbee v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 122 Mich. 1, 80 N. W. 787.

73. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 75 Minn. 473, 78 N. W. 87.

74. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 75 Minn. 473, 78 N. W. 87; State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153.

75. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 75 Minn. 473, 78 N. W. 87.

76. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 75 Minn. 473, 78 N. W. 87; State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153.

77. See supra, VI, D, 5, a.

78. West Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Waterford Tp., 64 N. J. Eq. 663, 55 Atl. 157, holding further that the authorities of a township in which the railroad crossing is located have no power to prevent a railroad company authorized by its charter to erect overhead bridges from erecting the same and making incidental changes in the grade of highways. See also State v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 32 N. J. L. 220.

79. Melenbacker v. Salamanca, 188 N. Y. 370, 80 N. E. 1090 [affirming 116 N. Y. App. Div. 691, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 1073]; Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 181 N. Y. 132, 73 N. E. 679 [affirming 99 N. Y. App. Div. 94, 91 N. Y. Suppl. 412]; Talbot v. New York, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 155, 45 N. E. 382 [affirming 78 Hun 473, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 187]. See also Clark v. Elizabeth, 61 N. J. L. 565, 40 Atl. 616, 737.

If the change in the grade was not authorized by ordinance it is illegal and an abutting landowner may sue for and recover the damages sustained thereby. United New Jersey R., etc., Co. v. Lewis, 68 N. J. Eq. 437, 59 Atl. 227.

The New Jersey statute of 1889 providing that "it shall be lawful" for municipal authorities to award damages to abutting landowners where the grade of the street is changed is construed as not conferring a merely discretionary power but as imposing an imperative duty. Clark v. Elizabeth, 61 N. J. L. 565, 40 Atl. 616, 737.

80. Melenbacker v. Salamanca, 188 N. Y. 370, 80 N. E. 1090 [affirming 116 N. Y. App. Div. 691, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 1073], holding that under a statute requiring any claim for damages to be filed with the railroad commissioners within sixty days after the completion of the work, a landowner is not entitled to recover, where the only claim filed within such time was with the municipal authorities.

ent level,[81] and a municipality invested with authority to regulate, control, and improve its streets may, when it deems that the public necessities so require, change the grade of a street so as to reduce an overhead crossing to the grade of the railroad,[82] and it cannot, in the absence of express legislative authority, divest itself of the power to make such a change,[83] although the legislature may authorize such a contract.[84]

6. Determination as to Necessity, Place, Mode, and Expense of Crossing — a. In General. The determination of the various questions relating to the crossings of railroads and highways is vested in commissioners, boards, courts, public officers, or municipal authorities, according to the provision of the different statutes, which vary greatly in the different jurisdictions and under different statutes in the same jurisdiction.[85] Under the New York statutes where a railroad is laid out across a highway the right to cross is obtained by application to the supreme court,[86] and where it is proposed to lay out a street across a railroad the necessity therefor is to be determined by the common council of the municipality.[87] The character of the crossing, whether at grade or otherwise, is ordinarily determined by the railroad commissioners,[88] crossing commissioners,[89] or county commissioners.[90] In Maine the statutes place practically all questions relative to crossings under the control of the railroad commissioners.[91] In

81. Wabash R. Co. v. Defiance, 167 U. S. 88, 17 S. Ct. 748, 42 L. ed. 87.

82. Wabash R. Co. v. Defiance, 167 U. S. 88, 17 S. Ct. 748, 42 L. ed. 87 [affirming 52 Ohio St. 262, 40 N. E. 89 (affirming 10 Ohio Cir. Ct. 27, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 703)].

83. Wabash R. Co. v. Defiance, 167 U. S. 88, 17 S. Ct. 748, 42 L. ed. 87 [affirming 52 Ohio St. 262, 40 N. E. 89 (affirming 10 Ohio Cir. Ct. 27, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 703)], holding that the statute relied on did not authorize such a contract.

84. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 121 Pa. St. 44, 15 Atl. 476, holding that the statute relied on authorized a contract which would prevent the municipality from changing the grade of a street so as to change the overhead crossing to the level of the railroad.

85. See the statutes of the several states; and cases cited infra, notes 86–95.

In Nebraska the board of transportation has jurisdiction to hear complaints and make orders in regard to the construction and repair of crossings, where railroads intersect public highways. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 29 Nebr. 412, 45 N. W. 469.

86. Bolivar v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. App. Div. 387, 84 N. Y. Suppl. 678 [affirmed in 179 N. Y. 523, 71 N. E. 1141].

87. Matter of Nineteenth St., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 618, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 845 [affirmed in 169 N. Y. 602, 62 N. E. 1099].

88. Smith v. New Haven, 59 Conn. 203, 22 Atl. 146; Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050; Bolivar v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 88 N. Y. App. Div. 387, 84 N. Y. Suppl. 678 [affirmed in 179 N. Y. 523, 71 N. E. 1141]; Matter of Nineteenth St., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 618, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 845 [affirmed in 169 N. Y. 602, 62 N. E. 1099].

The Maine statute of 1889, authorizing railroad commissioners to determine whether the crossing shall be at grade or otherwise, applies to all crossings wherever situated. In re Railroad Com'rs, 87 Me. 247, 32 Atl. 863.

The laying out of the highway need not be fully completed before the railroad commissioners may determine whether it shall pass under or over the railroad. Smith v. New Haven, 59 Conn. 203, 22 Atl. 146.

Where the legislature expressly authorizes grade crossings.— Where a statute authorizing a municipality to construct an avenue provides that it may construct the same across any railroad at grade, and that the railroad commissioners shall "prescribe the details of the crossing," this authority to prescribe the details does not authorize them to order an overhead crossing. Cambridge v. Railroad Com'rs, 153 Mass. 161, 26 N. E. 241.

89. Ft.-Street Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973, holding that under the Michigan statute the crossing board may not only determine the character of crossings, whether at grade or otherwise, but if the crossing is at grade may determine what safeguards shall be provided by the railroad company to protect against accidents.

90. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Middlesex County, 1 Allen (Mass.) 324, holding that under Rev. St. c. 24, § 13, county commissioners have final jurisdiction of the question whether a highway which crosses a railroad shall be laid out over, under, or on a level with it.

The county commissioners must decide under the Massachusetts statute whether a proposed highway to be constructed across a railroad shall cross over, under, or at grade, and if not, their adjudication laying out the highway may be quashed on certiorari. Old Colony, etc., R. Co. v. Plymouth County Com'rs, 11 Gray (Mass.) 512.

91. Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050; In re Railroad Com'rs, 87 Me. 247, 32 Atl. 863.

Crossing private track.— The control of the railroad commissioners over crossings of railroads and highways applies only where both

Massachusetts county commissioners are given jurisdiction of questions relating to the obstruction of highways by the construction or operation of railroads,[92] the alteration of crossings,[93] and raising or lowering highways at crossings,[94] whose orders are enforceable by proceedings in equity in the supreme judicial court.[95]

b. Jurisdiction and Proceedings of Courts. The jurisdiction and proceedings of different courts have been considered in the preceding sections with reference to the rights and remedies of the public in regard to the crossings of railroads and highways.[96] Clear legal duties on the part of the railroad company in this regard may be enforced by mandamus,[97] and unauthorized or improper acts restrained by injunction.[98] Where a railroad is in the hands of a receiver, the duty of constructing a crossing may be enforced by application to the court appointing the receiver.[99] Under the Massachusetts statutes the superior court or any justice thereof sitting in equity may enforce the orders and decrees made under the grade crossing statute of 1890,[1] and the supreme judicial court is given jurisdiction in equity to enforce the orders of county commissioners relating to crossings.[2] The court will not enforce an order of the county commissioners are public ways, and where a highway is laid out over a spur track constructed without legislative authority and only by permission of the landowners where located, the railroad commissioners have no jurisdiction to determine the rights of the parties, since such track is merely private property of the railroad company. In re Railroad Com'rs, 83 Me. 273, 22 Atl. 168.

92. Dickinson v. New Haven, etc., Co., 155 Mass. 16, 34 N. E. 334.

93. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Hampden County Com'rs, 164 Mass. 551, 42 N. E. 100; Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 460.

Changing grade of railroad.— County commissioners have no authority to change the grade of a railroad where it crosses or is crossed by a highway under their authority to alter "the approaches to or method of such crossing." Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Hampden County Com'rs, 116 Mass. 73.

The Massachusetts statute of 1890 and amendatory acts apply only to the abolition of grade crossings (Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Middlesex County Com'rs, 177 Mass. 511, 59 N. E. 115; Northampton v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 175 Mass. 430, 56 N. E. 598); and if an alteration in a crossing is necessary not involving such a change it must be done by application to the county commissioners (Northampton v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., supra).

94. Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 460; Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 6 Cush. (Mass.) 424.

95. See infra, VI, D, 6, b.

96. See supra, VI, D, 1, c; VI, D, 2, f; VI, D, 3, j.

97. Illinois.— People v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 118.

Indiana.— Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 37 Ind. 489.

Minnesota.— Parker v. Truesdale, 54 Minn. 241, 55 N. W. 901.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 47 Nebr. 549, 66 N. W. 624, 53 Am. St. Rep. 557, 41 L. R. A. 481.

New York.— People v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 164 N. Y. 289, 58 N. E. 138.

United States.— Indiana v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 83 Fed. 284.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 299. See also, generally, MANDAMUS, 26 Cyc. 365 et seq.

Making writ specific as to details of work to be done in restoring highway to its former condition see supra, VI, D, 3, b.

Changing plan of alteration.— On mandamus to compel a railroad company to bridge its tracks at a street crossing, the court on hearing of the return to an alternative writ may determine from the evidence the best plan to accomplish the desired objects and disregard the plans made a part of the alternative writ, and order the bridge to be constructed in accordance with new plans. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 75 Minn. 473, 78 N. W. 87.

Mandamus will not be granted to compel a railroad company to construct a bridge in lieu of a level crossing pursuant to an order of the board of trade, where it appears that the company is wholly without funds and has not the means of providing the money required for that purpose. In re Bristol, etc., R. Co., 3 Q. B. D. 10, 47 L. J. Q. B. 48, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 527, 26 Wkly. Rep. 236.

98. Springfield v. Connecticut River R. Co., 4 Cush. (Mass.) 63; State v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 36 Ohio St. 434; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Kensington, etc., R. Co., 33 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 182.

99. Ft. Dodge v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 87 Iowa 389, 54 N. W. 243, holding further that the court may in its order direct the character of the crossing to be constructed.

1. Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 162 Mass. 564, 39 N. E. 186.

2. Nichols v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 174 Mass. 379, 54 N. E. 881; Dickinson v. New Haven, etc., Co., 155 Mass. 16, 34 N. E. 334; Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Franklin County Com'rs, 10 Cush. (Mass.) 12; Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 6 Cush. (Mass.) 424.

Who may maintain bill.— The bill in equity unless it is sufficiently definite and certain as to what is required to be done,[3] and the court has no authority to change the order but only to enforce it as made;[4] but the court may, where its jurisdiction is invoked under the statute, inquire whether the county commissioners have acted in excess of their jurisdiction.[5]

c. Abolition and Removal of Grade Crossings.[6] Jurisdiction of matters relating to the abolition of grade crossings is ordinarily vested in railroad commissioners,[7] crossing commissioners,[8] county commissioners,[9] or special commissioners appointed by the legislature,[10] or by the court.[11] These commissioners are ordinarily vested with very broad powers in regard to the carrying out of such changes;[12] and where their powers conflict with those which would other-provided for by the Massachusetts statute for enforcing orders of county commissioners respecting the manner of constructing a crossing can be maintained only by the mayor and aldermen of the city or the selectmen of the town within which the way is situated, and not by any individual inhabitant of such city or town, although he is owner in fee simple of the land over which the way is located. Brainard v. Connecticut River R. Co., 7 Cush. (Mass.) 506.

3. Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 460.

4. Stanley v. Old Colony R. Co., 176 Mass. 145, 57 N. E. 344.

5. Nichols v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 174 Mass. 379, 54 N. E. 881.

6. Abolition of grade crossings generally see supra, VI, D, 5, b.

7. Cullen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 66 Conn. 211, 33 Atl. 910; Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050; Leighton v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 224, 55 Atl. 938; Matter of Buffalo Terminal R. Co., 122 N. Y. App. Div. 59, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 655 [affirmed in 192 N. Y. 534, 84 N. E. 1121]; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

8. See Ft.-St. Union Depot Co. v. State R. Crossing Bd., 81 Mich. 248, 45 N. W. 973.

9. Davis v. Hampshire County Com'rs, 153 Mass. 218, 26 N. E. 848, 11 L. R. A. 750; Roxbury v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 460.

Enforcement of order of commissioners by proceedings in equity under the Massachusetts statute see supra, VI, D, 6, b.

10. Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17, holding that where the legislature determines the necessity for abolishing certain grade crossings and appoints a special commission for carrying out the work, their duties include not only a decision as to the plan but seeing to the performance of the work, and that the commission is not functus officio so long as anything within the scope of their duties remains to be performed.

11. In re Old Colony R. Co., 163 Mass. 356, 40 N. E. 198; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199.

Enforcement of orders of commissioners.— Under the Massachusetts statute of 1890, relating to the abolition of grade crossings, providing that the superior court or any justice thereof sitting in equity may compel compliance with the act, and with the decrees, agreements, and decisions made thereunder, an order for doing the work may be made at the time of confirming the decree of the commissioners as well as afterward, and on the order confirming the decree of the commissioners the court may appoint an auditor for the accounts of expenses incurred in doing the work. Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 162 Mass. 564, 39 N. E. 186.

Determining the cost of abolishing grade crossings.— The commissioners, although required to apportion the cost, are not required to ascertain and estimate in their report what the actual cost of abolishing the grade crossing will be. In re Westborough, 169 Mass. 495, 48 N. E. 763.

12. Cullen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 66 Conn. 211, 33 Atl. 910; Woodruff v. New York, etc., R. Co., 59 Conn. 63, 20 Atl. 17.

Authorizing encroachment on highway.— Railroad commissioners in abolishing a grade crossing may authorize a railroad company to construct a supporting abutment for the overhead crossing within the limts of the highway, and if a municipality deems such encroachment to be unnecessary its only remedy is by appeal from the order of the commissioners. Bristol v. New England R. Co., 70 Conn. 305, 39 Atl. 235, 40 L. R. A. 479.

Elevating spur tracks.— Railroad commissioners in abolishing a grade crossing may require the railroad company to elevate a spur track used for delivering freight and operated as a part of its system by means of an additional bridge. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 75 Conn. 264, 53 Atl. 314.

The location of a railroad track and station may be changed by the commissioners for the purpose of abolishing a grade crossing. In re Westborough, 169 Mass. 495, 48 N. E. 763.

Under the Buffalo Grade Crossing Act, N. Y. Laws (1888, 1890, 1892), the commissioners were authorized to amend the plan adopted only in matters of detail and could not order any substantial extension thereof. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Adam, 176 N. Y. 420, 68 N. E. 665 [reversing 70 N. Y. App. Div. 427, 75 N. Y. Suppl. 515].

The New York Railroad Law of 1897 providing that all steam surface railroads "except additional switches and sidings" must be so constructed as to avoid grade crossings where practicable confers on the board of wise fall within the jurisdiction of municipal authorities with regard to the control of streets or highways, the latter must give way.[13] The commissioners are in some cases authorized to apportion the expense of the proposed change between the railroad company and the county or municipality where the crossing is located.[14] The commissioners have no authority as an independent matter to discontinue existing highways or lay out new ones,[15] and cannot abolish a grade crossing merely by discontinuing the highway crossed;[16] but when necessary in order to effect the abolition of a grade crossing they may change the location of the crossing,[17] and as incidental to such change a portion of a highway may be discontinued and another substituted,[18] such changes being deemed to be merely alterations in the existing way and not an independent discontinuance or construction railroad commissioners authority to eliminate grade crossings and also to determine how sidings or switches shall be taken over a highway, where a railroad company concedes that the board may deal with them; the quoted words being an exception available to a railroad company seeking the benefit of the statute. Matter of Buffalo Terminal R. Co., 122 N. Y. App. Div. 59, 896, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 655, 659.

13. Cullen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 66 Conn. 211, 33 Atl. 910, holding that the railroad commissioners for the purpose of abolishing a grade crossing may discontinue a portion of a highway within a municipality, although the charter of the municipality gives it the exclusive control over its highways and their establishment and discontinuance.

14. Doolittle v. Branford, 59 Conn. 402, 22 Atl. 336; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Newton, 148 Mass. 474, 20 N. E. 106; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, 69 N. H. 91, 44 Atl. 808; Ottawa Electric R. Co. v. Ottawa, etc., R. Co., 37 Can. Sup. Ct. 354.

Ordering payment of gross sum.—The commissioners authorized to apportion the expense of abolishing grade crossings between a railroad company and a municipality may, if they have the means of ascertaining what the entire cost will be, do so in advance and order the municipality to pay a gross sum representing its proportion. Doolittle v. Branford, 59 Conn. 402, 22 Atl. 336.

Apportionment of expense of abolishing grade crossings see supra, VI, D, 5, b.

15. Doolittle v. Branford, 59 Conn. 402, 22 Atl. 336; Blake v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 73 N. H. 597, 64 Atl. 202.

16. Blake v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 73 N. H. 597, 64 Atl. 202.

But a portion of a way may be discontinued and a new portion constructed connecting two other existing ways so as to avoid crossing the railroad entirely at such place, and the length of the new way which may be constructed for such purpose depends upon the circumstances of the particular case. Meriden v. Bennett, 76 Conn. 58, 55 Atl. 564.

17. Doolittle v. Branford, 59 Conn. 402, 22 Atl. 336; Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199; Davis v. Hampshire County Com'rs, 153 Mass. 218, 26 N. E. 848, 11 L. R. A. 750; Leighton v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 224, 55 Atl. 938.

In Massachusetts it was held, under the statute of 1872, that the location of the crossing could not be changed (Lancaster v. Worcester County Com'rs, 113 Mass. 100); but as subsequently amended the statute authorizes a change of location for the purpose of abolishing a grade crossing (Davis v. Hampshire County Com'rs, 153 Mass. 218, 26 N. E. 848, 11 L. R. A. 750).

The extent of the change of location which may be made depends upon the circumstances of the particular case. Davis v. Hampshire County Com'rs, 153 Mass. 218, 26 N. E. 848, 11 L. R. A. 750.

Restoration after change of location.—Where the location of a highway has been changed in order to abolish a grade crossing, it cannot be reëstablished at the same place, although at a different grade, except by new proceedings under the same statute. New Haven, etc., Co. v. Hampshire County Com'rs, 173 Mass. 12, 52 N. E. 1076.

Where parallel streets extend across railroad tracks and the crossing is dangerous the board of railroad commissioners may decide how many viaducts shall be constructed and determine that the traffic on certain streets may be diverted into such viaducts, especially where the railroad company will pay the expenses of the construction of the viaducts and the damages resulting to property-owners. Matter of Buffalo Terminal R. Co., 122 N. Y. App. Div. 59, 896, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 655, 659.

18. Meriden v. Bennett, 76 Conn. 58, 55 Atl. 564; Cullen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 66 Conn. 211, 33 Atl. 910; Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050; In re Newton, 172 Mass. 5, 51 N. E. 183; In re Westborough, 169 Mass. 495, 48 N. E. 763; Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199; Leighton v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 224, 55 Atl. 938.

The New York statute of 1897 gives the board of railroad commissioners jurisdiction to determine in what manner crossings shall be made, to close a highway and divert the travel thereof to another highway, and to change the grade thereof subject only to a review by the appellate court and the court of appeals. Matter of Buffalo Terminal R. Co., 122 N. Y. App. Div. 59, 896, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 655, 659.

of a new way,[19] and such additional land may be taken as is necessary for effecting the change.[20] The commissioners can, however, make only such a discontinuance or new construction as is properly incidental to the necessary change in location of the crossing,[21] and the new way must be no more than a fair equivalent for that which is given up,[22] and must serve practically the same public needs so as to be in fact a substitute for the original way and not a new highway.[23] The commissioners cannot change the location of a way where it is practicable to separate the grades at the existing location,[24] and no greater change in the location of a highway should be made than is reasonably necessary in order to avoid the grade crossing.[25]

d. Petition, Notice, and Evidence. Under some of the statutes a petition for the abolition of a grade crossing may be brought either by the public or municipal authorities where the crossing is located,[26] or by the railroad company itself,[27] and a company operating the road under a perpetual lease is the owner of the road within the application of the statute and may institute such proceedings.[28] A petition for the abolition of a grade crossing need not set out the precise manner in which the separation of grades is to be accomplished, nor need any plan or specification thereof accompany the petition,[29] and a petition to county commissioners for the alteration of a railroad bridge at a crossing, which alleges the necessity for and purpose of the alteration, is sufficient without setting out any definite specification of the alteration.[30] An objection to a petition to railroad commissioners for the abolition of a grade crossing, on the ground that it was not properly brought, is in the nature of a plea in abatement, and should be made at the hearing before the railroad commissioners;[31] and where county commissioners are required to determine the necessity for alterations in a crossing, upon an expression of an opinion by the municipal authorities or directors of the railroad company that it is necessary, an objection to the sufficiency of such expression of opinion should be made before the county commissioners, and cannot be made in a collateral proceeding after they have ordered the alteration.[32] Where a statute imperatively requires a railroad company to construct and maintain crossings where the railroad crosses a highway, the performance of such duty is not dependent upon any notice from the public authorities in charge of high-

19. Doolittle v. Branford, 59 Conn. 402, 22 Atl. 336.

20. Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050; Lancy v. Boston, 186 Mass. 128, 71 N. E. 302.

Assessing damages.— Under the Maine statute where new land is taken in changing the location of a crossing to abolish a crossing at grade, the railroad commissioners are to assess the damages. Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050.

21. Blake v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 73 N. H. 597, 64 Atl. 202.

22. Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199, holding that while a case might arise where it would be proper to order the substitution of two new ways and crossings for a discontinued way, such substitution is improper where both of the new ways are a considerable distance from the old one and of considerable length, and apparently intended as an improvement in the general means of communication in the neighborhood, rather than a provision for the better accommodation of persons using the existing crossing.

23. Blake v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 73 N. H. 597, 64 Atl. 202.

24. Fairfield's Appeal, 57 Conn. 167, 17 Atl. 764.

25. Davis v. Hampshire County Com'rs, 153 Mass. 218, 26 N. E. 848, 11 L. R. A. 750.

26. See Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368.

27. See Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368; In re New York, etc., R. Co., 182 Mass. 439, 65 N. E. 815; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

Form of petition by railroad company.—A petition in form "The petition of the directors" of a certain railroad company, signed "The directors of" such company by H. "their attorney," is a sufficient compliance with the statute. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368.

28. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368.

29. Norwood v. New York, etc., R. Co., 161 Mass. 259, 37 N. E. 199.

30. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Hampden County Com'rs, 164 Mass. 551, 42 N. E. 100.

31. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368.

32. Parsons v. Northampton, 154 Mass. 410, 28 N. E. 350.

ways;[33] but a notice to the railroad company is necessary in order to authorize the public authorities to do the work on a failure of the railroad company to do so and to recover therefor from the railroad company.[34] On a petition to county commissioners for laying out a highway across a railroad, a notice must be given to the railroad company;[35] and when a petition for the abolition of a grade crossing is brought by the railroad company, the municipality where the crossing is situated should be given notice of the proceedings although the statute does not expressly require it;[36] but a statutory requirement that the railroad commissioners shall communicate their decision as to the abolition of a grade crossing to the parties within a certain time has been held to be merely directory and not to affect the validity of the order,[37] and the same has been held with reference to a requirement that the railroad commissioners shall file in their office and send copies of their decision to the railroad company.[38] In proceedings to compel the construction of a bridge at a crossing over the tracks of two or more railroad companies the court should receive evidence as to their respective interests so as to determine what part of the structure is to be built by each company,[39] and may call expert witnesses for the purpose of determining the kind of bridge to be built,[40] and in proceedings against one railroad company to require it to bridge its tracks at a crossing, evidence as to the extent of the use of the crossing by another company is admissible as bearing upon the question of the necessity for a bridge at such place;[41] but in a proceeding to compel the construction of an under-grade crossing, evidence of proposals by the railroad company to build such crossing made prior to the institution of the action is not admissible to show the necessity for such a crossing.[42]

e. Review. In proceedings relating to the crossings of railroads and highways and the abolition of grade crossings, an appeal from the decision of the commissioners is in some cases provided for,[43] or the commissioner's report must be presented to the superior court for confirmation or rejection,[44] or a jury may be applied for to revise their decision;[45] while under other statutes or with respect

33. Lincoln v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. 27.

34. Henry v. Wabash Western R. Co., 44 Mo. App. 100, holding that it is immaterial by whom the notice is served if actually delivered to the proper representatives of the railroad company, and that any unnecessary details in the notice are mere surplusage and do not affect its validity.

35. Old Colony, etc., R. Co. v. Plymouth County Com'rs, 11 Gray (Mass.) 512, decided under the Massachusetts statute of 1857, requiring such notice.

36. Westbrook's Appeal, 57 Conn. 95, 17 Atl. 368.

37. Spencer's Appeal, 78 Conn. 301, 61 Atl. 1010.

38. Maine Cent. R. Co. v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 89 Me. 555, 36 Atl. 1050.

39. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 75 Minn. 473, 78 N. W. 87.

40. State v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 75 Minn. 473, 78 N. W. 87.

41. State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 39 Minn. 219, 39 N. W. 153.

42. State v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 90 Minn. 88, 95 N. W. 581.

43. See Spencer's Appeal, 78 Conn. 301, 61 Atl. 1010; New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122; Matter of Nineteenth St., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 618, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 845 [affirmed in 169 N. Y. 602, 62 N. E. 1099]; Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

Parties.— On appeal by the railroad company the railroad commissioners are proper parties. New York, etc., R. Co.'s Appeal, 62 Conn. 527, 26 Atl. 122.

Construction of street across railroad.— Under the New York statutes of 1890, 1897, providing for the laying out of a street over a railroad as the railroad commissioners shall direct, but that the municipal corporation shall first determine whether such new street is necessary, an appeal may he taken from the determination of the common council of the municipality as to such necessity. Matter of Nineteenth St., 66 N. Y. App. Div. 618, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 845 [affirmed in 169 N. Y. 602, 62 N. E. 1099].

Effect of reversal as to one crossing.— Where a general order abolishing all the grade crossings in the town is held erroneous as to one particular crossing, and there is nothing in the record to suggest that such crossing was not considered on its own facts, the order will stand undisturbed as to the other crossings. Fairfield's Appeal, 57 Conn. 167, 17 Atl. 764.

44. In re Old Colony R. Co., 163 Mass. 356, 40 N. E. 198, holding that a landowner whose land is taken in proceedings to abolish a grade crossing may appear and contest the confirmation of the commissioner's report.

45. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Newton, 148 to certain matters no appeal is provided for,[46] or it is expressly provided that the decisions of the commissioners shall be final and conclusive, in which case no appeal can be taken.[47] If no appeal is taken the decision of the commissioners is final and conclusive and cannot be reviewed in a collateral proceeding,[48] and where a direct appeal is taken their decision should not be reversed by the court unless it clearly appears that it is founded on erroneous legal principles or contrary to the clear weight of evidence.[49] In one jurisdiction where the statute authorizes the commissioners to apportion the costs of the alteration according to their discretion, their decision as to such apportionment is not reviewable;[50] but in another their decision is reviewable by the superior court which on such review may exercise the same discretion as the commissioners as to the apportionment after which no other appeal can be taken;[51] and under another statute authorizing a review by a jury of the questions of fact found by the commissioners, the jury may review the question of apportionment of costs.[52] The commissioners are ordinarily the tribunal to decide the questions of fact in regard to the proposed change or abolition of a grade crossing,[53] and the court on appeal or the presentation of their report for confirmation or rejection cannot reject it merely because it differs with the commissioners as to questions of fact;[54] nor can it consider the entire matter as one before it for original action and substitute its own opinion for that of the commissioners and order the change to be made according to a different method from that determined upon by them.[55]

E. Crossing Private Lands — 1. In General. A railroad company in constructing its road across private lands must do so in such manner as not to cause unnecessary injury thereto;[56] and during the process of construction the railroad company must use all prudent and reasonable means to enable the landowner to enjoy his property in the ordinary mode and to prevent injury thereto.[57] The English statutes require railroad companies to provide various "accommo-

Mass. 474, 20 N. E. 106. See also Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. Winchester, 156 Mass. 217, 30 N. E. 1139.

46. Waterbury's Appeal, 57 Conn. 84, 17 Atl. 355.

47. Wheeler v. New York, etc., R. Co., 71 Conn. 270, 41 Atl. 808.

48. Doolittle v. Branford, 59 Conn. 402, 22 Atl. 336, holding that on mandamus to enforce an order of the railroad commissioners for the abolition of a grade crossing, the court cannot review the decision of the commissioners as to whether the public convenience and necessity demand the change.

49. Matter of Boston, etc., R. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 257, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 32 [affirmed in 170 N. Y. 619, 63 N. E. 1115].

Order held erroneous.— An order of the board of railroad commissioners for a change of a highway crossing from grade to an under crossing which will render the highway impassable for considerable portions of the year on account of overflow, and the only relief afforded will be a crossing at grade, dependent upon the permission of the railroad company, is erroneous and will be reversed on appeal. Matter of Delaware, etc., R. Co., 116 N. Y. App. Div. 62, 101 N. Y. Suppl. 9.

50. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, 69 N. H. 91, 44 Atl. 808, holding further that the statute is not unconstitutional for failing to provide for an appeal.

51. Fairfield's Appeal, 57 Conn. 167, 17 Atl. 764.

52. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Newton, 148 Mass. 474, 20 N. E. 106.

53. In re Hadley, 178 Mass. 319, 59 N. E. 805; In re Old Colony R. Co., 163 Mass. 356, 40 N. E. 198.

54. In re Hadley, 178 Mass. 319, 59 N. E. 805.

55. Spencer's Appeal, 78 Conn. 301, 61 Atl. 1010; In re Old Colony R. Co., 163 Mass. 356, 40 N. E. 198.

56. Heath v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 37 La. Ann. 728; Bourdier v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 35 La. Ann. 947.

Retaining walls.— Where a right of way is granted to a railroad company and the company is obliged to make a deep cut in order to enjoy the right, it is not bound to build walls to prevent the falling in of the banks for the protection of the adjoining property. Hortsman v. Covington, etc., R. Co., 18 B. Mon. (Ky.) 218.

In constructing a tunnel under legislative authority to construct it close to houses or buildings the company must not only make compensation for any damage which its construction may occasion to adjacent buildings, but if there are two modes of constructing the work it must adopt that course which will do the least injury to the adjacent property. Freehold Gen. Land Inv. Co. v. Metropolitan Dist. R. Co., 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96.

57. Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297; Clark v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 103.

dation works" for the benefit of adjacent landowners,[58] except where such owners have accepted and received compensation in lieu thereof.[59] The works are to be such as are required at the time the lands are taken with regard to their use at the time, and not as may be required by a subsequent use or change of circumstances,[60] and the company cannot be compelled to make any further or additional accommodation works after five years from the completion of the works and the opening of the railway.[61] If the landowner considers the accommodation works provided to be insufficient he may at his own expense make such further works as shall be agreed to by the company or in case of disagreement shall be authorized by two justices.[62] As the duty of providing and maintaining accommodation works is not one owing to the public but to the particular landowner, it may be released by him.[63] The railroad company and landowner may agree as to accommodation works to be provided by the former, and such a contract may be specifically enforced by a suit in equity.[64]

2. Private or Farm Crossings — a. Right to Cross Railroad or Construct Crossings. The right to a private farm crossing across a railroad track may be

58. Dixon v. Great Western R. Co., [1897] 1 Q. B. 300, 66 L. J. Q. B. 132, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 539, 45 Wkly. Rep. 226; Great Western R. Co. v. Talbot, [1902] 2 Ch. 759, 71 L. J. Ch. 835, 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 405, 18 T. L. R. 775, 51 Wkly. Rep. 312; Wilkinson v. Hull, etc., R., etc., Co., 20 Ch. D. 323, 51 L. J. Ch. 788, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 455, 30 Wkly. Rep. 617; Wiseman v. Booker, 3 C. P. D. 184, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 292, 26 Wkly. Rep. 634; Reg. v. Fisher, 3 B. & S. 191, 9 Jur. N. S. 571, 32 L. J. M. C. 12, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 325, 11 Wkly. Rep. 69, 113 E. C. L. 191.

The accommodation works include all necessary crossings, bridges, passages, fences, gates, stiles, culverts, drains, and watering places for cattle. See Dixon v. Great Western R. Co., [1897] 1 Q. B. 300, 66 L. J. Q. B. 132, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 539, 45 Wkly. Rep. 226.

The object of accommodation works is to make good any interruptions to the use of the lands caused by the construction of a railroad, and where a particular accommodation is no longer required the obligation to afford it also ceases. Midland R. Co. v. Gribble, [1895] 2 Ch. 827, 64 L. J. Ch. 826, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 270, 12 Reports 513, 44 Wkly. Rep. 133 [affirming 60 J. P. 55].

Complaints and disagreements as to the character or sufficiency of accommodation works are to be settled by application to two justices, who may make such orders as may be necessary, and a court of chancery will not assume jurisdiction of such controversy. Hood v. North Eastern R. Co., L. R. 11 Eq. 116, 40 L. J. Ch. 17, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 433, 19 Wkly. Rep. 266.

Action for damages for insufficiency.— Where a railroad company constructed a culvert to carry off water from land adjacent to the railroad, and no complaint was made by the landowner of the insufficiency of the culvert, and no application was made to justices for additional accommodation works within the five years limited by the statute, and an injury subsequently arose from the insufficiency of the culvert, it was held that the statutory remedy was exclusive and that no action for damages could be maintained. Colley v. London, etc., R. Co., 5 Ex. D. 277, 44 J. P. 427, 49 L. J. Exch. 575, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 807, 29 Wkly. Rep. 16.

59. Rhondda, etc., R. Co. v. Talbot, [1897] 2 Ch. 131, 66 L. J. Ch. 570, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 694.

60. Reg. v. Brown, L. R. 2 Q. B. 630; Rhondda, etc., R. Co. v. Talbot, [1897] 2 Ch. 131, 66 L. J. Ch. 570, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 694.

Subsequent use by landowner.— The use of the accommodation works by the landowner is not restricted to the exact conditions existing at the time of their construction, but includes their use for any purpose which may be taken to have been fairly within the contemplation of the parties at that time, but not uses which could not have then been anticipated and which substantially increase the burden of the servitude. Great Western R. Co. v. Talbot, [1902] 2 Ch. 759, 71 L. J. Ch. 835, 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 405, 18 T. L. R. 775, 51 Wkly. Rep. 312.

61. Dixon v. Great Western R. Co., [1897] 1 Q. B. 300, 66 L. J. Q. B. 132, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 539, 45 Wkly. Rep. 226, holding, however, that the provision that the company shall not be compelled after five years to make "any further or additional" accommodation works does not apply where it has not within such time made any accommodation works at all, and if it builds a fence after this period it must subsequently keep it in repair.

62. Rhondda, etc., R. Co. v. Talbot, [1897] 2 Ch. 131, 66 L. J. Ch. 570, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 694, holding, however, that the landowner has no right to make any works which he may think proper and that he can act only under the conditions expressed in the statute.

63. Midland R. Co. v. Gribble, [1895] 2 Ch. 827, 64 L. J. Ch. 826, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 270, 12 Reports 513, 44 Wkly. Rep. 133 [affirming 60 J. P. 55].

64. Raphael v. Thames Valley R. Co., L. R. 2 Ch. 147, 36 L. J. Ch. 209, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 1, 15 Wkly. Rep. 322.

acquired by prescription,[65] by contract or covenant in the deed of conveyance of the right of way,[66] or by virtue of a statutory or charter provision expressly conferring the right to cross,[67] or imposing upon the railroad company the duty of constructing crossings.[68] The circumstances may also be such as to entitle a landowner to a right of way of necessity,[69] and while this necessity must be actual and not a mere matter of convenience,[70] it need not be absolute, and a landowner whose property is divided by a railroad is entitled to use or make such a crossing or crossings as may be necessary for the reasonably convenient use of his land, provided he exercises his right with due regard to the paramount rights of the railroad company,[71] although the mere right to cross does not impose upon the railroad company the duty of constructing a crossing.[72] In the absence of such provisions or conditions the right of the railroad company in its right of way is exclusive, and adjacent landowners have no right to cross it,[73] or to construct crossings,[74] or if regular crossings are established to cross it at other places;[75]

65. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, 77 S. W. 693, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1307; Hardy v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 73 Miss. 719, 19 So. 661; Well v. Northern R. Co., 14 Ont. 594.

But to secure a prescriptive right the use must be adverse and under a claim of right, and not merely permissive. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Munsell, 192 Ill. 430, 61 N. E. 374; Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Guthrie, 31 Can. Sup. Ct. 155 [reversing 27 Ont. App. 64].

In New Hampshire, under a statute providing that no title by adverse possession can be acquired by or against a railroad company, a landowner cannot acquire a prescriptive right to a private crossing over the railroad. Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 70 N. H. 403, 47 Atl. 265.

66. Kraeer v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 218 Pa. St. 569, 67 Atl. 871; Hall v. Clearfield, etc., R. Co., 168 Pa. St. 64, 31 Atl. 940. See also supra, V, G, 6.

Limitation of right.— The reservation in a right of way deed of a right to cross the railroad does not entitle the landowner to cross over any and every part of the right of way, but only to such a crossing as is reasonably necessary, and where the place of crossing has been selected the landowner has no right to cross at other places. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, 98 S. W. 1042, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 426.

67. See Kyle v. Auburn, etc., R. Co., 2 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 489.

Limitation of right.— A charter provision giving landowners a right to cross the track of a railroad does not give them the right to do so in such a manner as to interfere with the reasonable use of the road by the railroad company. Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

68. See infra, VI, E, 2, b.

69. Housatonic R. Co. v. Waterbury, 23 Conn. 101; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 162 Mass. 81, 38 N. E. 27.

70. Jones Fertilizing Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 2 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 511, 7 Ohio N. P. 245.

If there is a public highway by which the landowner can have convenient access from one part of his property to another, he cannot claim a way of necessity. Carroll v. Great Western R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 614.

71. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Gough, 29 Kan. 94; Gratz v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 76 Ohio St. 230, 81 N. E. 239; Mitchell, etc., Lumber Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 6 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 135, 3 Ohio N. P. 231.

If the railroad has fenced its right of way the landowner may make openings in the fence for farm crossings at such places as the necessities of his farm demand and which will not interfere with the paramount use of the right of way by the railroad company, and the company must maintain the necessary gates in the right-of-way fence at such crossings. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Conlon, 9 Kan. App. 338, 61 Pac. 321.

Limitation of right.—A landowner has no right to make any and all crossings which he may desire, but to entitle him to make a farm crossing two things must concur: (1) The necessities of his farm must demand a crossing at the place in question; and (2) its use must not interfere with the paramount use of the railroad company. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Cosper, 42 Kan. 561, 22 Pac. 634.

72. See infra, VI, E, 2, b.

73. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Comstock, 60 Conn. 200, 22 Atl. 511.

74. Speese v. Schuylkill River East Side R. Co., 8 Pa. Dist. 584, 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 17, 44 Wkly. Notes Cas. 493; Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

A distinction as to the extent of the rights of a railroad company exists according to whether the right of way was acquired by deed or condemnation, and a deed of a right of way, although not expressly providing for crossings, may, by its provisions, as construed by the acts of the parties, entitle the landowner to construct a crossing which is necessary for the complete enjoyment of his property, and which will not endanger or interfere with the operation of the railroad. Mt. Pleasant Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 200 Pa. St. 434, 50 Atl. 251.

75. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, 98 S. W. 1042, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 426; Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

and in one jurisdiction the construction of crossings without the consent of the railroad company is expressly prohibited by statute.[76]

b. Duty of Railroad Company to Construct Crossings. In the absence of statute or agreement a railroad company is not obliged to construct private or farm crossings for the benefit of adjacent landowners,[77] or to continue to maintain an existing crossing;[78] nor is the railroad company obliged to construct a crossing where the landowner has merely a statutory right to cross the track,[79] or a right of way of necessity.[80] The duty of constructing private or farm crossings may, however, be imposed upon railroad companies by contract or covenant in the conveyance of the right of way,[81] or provision in the charter of the company,[82] or if such crossing is a part of the plan of construction filed or agreed upon by the railroad company and is considered in the award of damages to the landowner, the railroad company is bound to construct and maintain the crossing,[83] which must be of the character provided for.[84] There are also in a number of jurisdictions statutory provisions expressly requiring railroad companies to construct such crossings or to do so in certain cases or under certain conditions.[85] These 76. Speese v. Schuylkill River East Side R. Co., 8 Pa. Dist. 584, 23 Pa. Co. Ct. 17, 44 Wkly. Notes Cas. 493.

This statute does not apply so as to affect any rights secured under a deed of conveyance of the right of way. Mt. Pleasant Coal Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 200 Pa. St. 434, 50 Atl. 251.

77. Kyle v. Auburn, etc., R. Co., 2 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 489; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 21. See also March v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 19 N. H. 372. But see Kirk v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 664, 25 So. 463.

78. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Comstock, 60 Conn. 200, 22 Atl. 511.

79. Kyle v. Auburn, etc., R. Co., 2 Barb. Ch. (N. Y.) 489, holding that a railroad company constructing its road under the New York statute of 1838, giving adjacent landowners the right to cross the road but not requiring the company to construct crossings, is not bound to construct any crossings except such as it has designated upon the profile and map of the road filed by it.

80. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 21.

81. Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119; Eatman v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 35 La. Ann. 1018; Hall v. Clearfield, etc., R. Co., 168 Pa. St. 64, 31 Atl. 940; Hugo v. Great Western R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 506. See also supra, V, G, 6.

A railroad company may contract jointly with individuals in the settlement of litigation to which it is a party and bind itself jointly with them to construct, keep up, and perpetually maintain stock gaps and crossings across its track on the premises involved in the litigation. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 89 Ga. 708, 15 S. E. 626.

The parol agreement of the president of a railroad company made at the time of, and as a part of the consideration for, the execution of a deed of a right of way, to build a crossing over the railroad connecting the two portions of the grantor's land, is binding upon the railroad company and must be complied with in order to give the company a right of possession. Perkiomen R. Co. v. Bromer, 217 Pa. St. 263, 66 Atl. 359.

Cow gaps.—A covenant in a deed binding a railroad company "to construct all crossings reasonably necessary" does not bind it to construct cow gaps. Kentucky Union R. Co. v. Forkner, 40 S. W. 462, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 378.

82. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Emerson, 125 Ky. 104, 100 S. W. 863, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 1149; Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

A charter provision that the railroad shall be so constructed as not to obstruct the safe and convenient use of any private way which it crosses imposes upon the company the duty of maintaining a safe and convenient crossing for such private way. Keefe v. Sullivan County R. Co., 63 N. H. 271.

83. Stone v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 75 Kan. 600, 90 Pac. 251; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wynkoop, 73 Kan. 590, 85 Pac. 595; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Kregelo, 32 Kan. 608, 5 Pac. 15; Rathbun v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 R. I. 60, 37 Atl. 300.

84. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wynkoop, 73 Kan. 590, 85 Pac. 595.

85. Illinois.— Chalcraft v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 113 Ill. 86 [affirming 14 Ill. App. 516].

Iowa.— Mattice v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 130 Iowa 749, 107 N. W. 949; Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa 507, 105 N. W. 436.

Massachusetts.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Railroad Com'rs, 162 Mass. 81, 38 N. E. 27.

Mississippi.— Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 73 Miss. 34, 19 So. 202.

Missouri.— Quantock v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 197 Mo. 93, 94 S. W. 978 [affirming 117 Mo. App. 469, 74 S. W. 1034].

New Hampshire.— Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 70 N. H. 403, 47 Atl. 265; Keefe v. Sullivan County R. Co., 63 N. H. 271.

New York.— Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121 [affirming 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604]; Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co., 63 N. Y. 58; Peck-statutory requirements apply whether the railroad company acquires its right ham v. Dutchess County R. Co., 20 N. Y. Suppl. 39.

Ohio.— Jones Fertilizing Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 2 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 504, 7 Ohio N. P. 245.

Pennsylvania.— Dubbs v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 66, 23 Atl. 883.

Texas.— Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Ford, (Civ. App. 1897) 42 S. W. 589.

Virginia.— Adams v. Tidewater R. Co., 107 Va. 798, 60 S. E. 129.

West Virginia.— Clarke v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 39 W. Va. 732, 20 S. E. 696.

Canada.— In re Cockerline, etc., R. Co., 5 Can. R. Cas. 313.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 306.

Constitutionality of statute see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, 8 Cyc. 983.

Construction and application of statutes.— Under a statute requiring railroad companies to construct crossings "when and where the same may become necessary," for adjoining landowners, the term "necessary" is used in the sense of reasonably convenient, and the rights of the railroad company and the public as well as of the landowner must be considered. Chalcraft v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 113 Ill. 86 [affirming 14 Ill. App. 516]. Where the statute provides that where a person owns land on both sides of a railroad the railroad company shall construct crossings, if requested to do so, a landowner is entitled to a crossing, although he can have access from one part of his property to another by means of a public highway (Mattice v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 130 Iowa 749, 107 N. W. 949; Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa 507, 105 N. W. 436); but the Pennsylvania statute of 1849 expressly excepts from the duty of constructing crossings cases where a public highway passes through the property (Traut v. New York, etc., R. Co., (Pa. 1888) 15 Atl. 678). Where the statute provides that where a person owns land on both sides of the railroad the company shall "when required to do so" make a crossing, the obligation exists only where such landowner has requested a crossing. Anderson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 48 Iowa 346. Under a statute requiring railroad companies to construct "convenient and suitable" crossings over its track for "necessary plantation roads," the term "necessary" does not mean "indispensable" but "reasonably convenient," and the term "plantation" includes a stock farm as well as one used for agricultural purposes (Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 73 Miss. 34, 19 S. W. 202); and a road connecting a dwelling-house and pasture lands of a farm through which a railroad runs is a necessary plantation road, within the meaning of the statute if its disuse would involve any considerable inconvenience or expense to the tenant in possession (Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Ligon, 74 Miss. 176, 20 So. 988). A statute requiring railroad companies to make "a good and sufficient causeway or causeways, whenever the same may be necessary, to enable the occupant or occupants of said lands to cross or pass over the same," contemplates a crossing whenever reasonably necessary to afford the landowner a convenient mode of access, and he is entitled to a crossing, although he might pass from one part of his property to another over roads adjoining his property by a circuitous route of about one-half mile (Dubbs v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 66, 23 Atl. 883); and such a requirement applies to what is necessary for the future as well as the present use of the land, and a railroad company having left a causeway will not be allowed to fill it up, although not in use where the probable future use of the land would make it necessary (Hespenheide v. King, 31 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 242). In Texas the statute provides that railroad companies which have fenced their right of way may be required to make openings through their fence and over their road-bed every one and one-half miles, and if such fence divides any inclosure at least one opening shall be made within such inclosure. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Grier, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 138, 49 S. W. 148; Burgess v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 703. The Texas statute requiring railroad companies to construct farm crossings does not apply to cases where the right of way was acquired before the enactment of the statute. Owazarzak v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 229, 71 S. W. 793; San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Grier, (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 42 S. W. 1022. The New York statute of 1850 expressly requiring railroad companies to construct farm crossings was not repealed by the act of 1854, which omits the express requirement but provides that openings shall be placed at "farm crossings," or the statute of 1890, compiling the existing laws on the same subject and containing substantially the same provision. Peckham v. Dutchess County, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 39.

In Canada the statute of 14 & 15 Vict. c. 51, § 13, required railroad companies to construct fences with openings, gates, or bars "and farm crossings" for the use of proprietors of lands adjoining the railroad (Burke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 484; Reist v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 421); but in a subsequent consolidation of the statutes the word "and" was changed to "at" so as to provide that the company should construct fences with openings, gates, or bars "at farm crossings" (Brown v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 26 U. C. C. P. 206); and it was therefore held that a railroad company was not under any statutory obligation to construct farm crossings (Guay v. Reg., 17 Can. Sup. Ct. 30; Vezina v. Reg., 17 Can. Sup. Ct. 1 [in effect overruling Canada Southern R. Co. v. Clouse, 13 Can. Sup. Ct. 139 (reversing 11 Ont. App. 287)]; Ontario Lands, etc. v. Canada Southern R. Co., 1 Ont. L. Rep. 215; Brown v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., supra). In 1888, however, a statute was enacted which again expressly required a railroad company to "make crossof way by purchase or condemnation,[86] and the duty is not affected by the assessment and payment of damages in condemnation proceedings.[87] They also apply to railroads in process of construction as well as to completed roads.[88] Where the railroad company contests the right of the landowner to a crossing, it is entitled to a reasonable time after the determination of the right in favor of the landowner to construct the crossing;[89] and where the duty of constructing the crossing is imposed by covenant in a deed of right of way but no time is specified, the company is entitled to a reasonable time after the road is built.[90] The statutory duty of constructing crossings includes the duty of maintaining and keeping them in repair as long as needed;[91] but a railroad company is not required to keep in repair a private crossing which a landowner uses merely by permission of the railroad company,[92] or to maintain a statutory crossing after it is no longer necessary;[93] and where the crossing is constructed and maintained under a contract between the railroad company and the landowner, the question of maintenance and repair depends upon the terms of the contract.[94]

c. Character of Lands and Persons Entitled to Crossings. A statute merely requiring the construction of crossings "for necessary plantation roads" applies whether the lands are inclosed or not,[95] but does not entitle a person owning land on only one side of the railroad to a crossing to reach the land of another person.[96] ings for persons across whose land the railway is carried" (Ontario Lands, etc., Co. v. Canada Southern R. Co., supra), which, however, was held not to be retrospective in its operation (Carew v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 2 Can. R. Cas. 241, 5 Ont. L. Rep. 653, 2 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 313; Ontario Lands, etc., Co. v. Canada Southern R. Co., supra); and the subsequent railway act of 1903 also requires that "every company shall make crossings for persons across whose lands the railway is carried, convenient and proper for the crossing of the railway for farm purposes" (In re Cockerline, etc., R. Co., 5 Can. R. Cas. 313); and orders directing the establishment of farm crossings over railways subject to the act of 1903 are exclusively within the jurisdiction of the board of railway commissioners (Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Perrault, 36 Can. Sup. Ct. 671).

86. Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co., 63 N. Y. 58; Clarke v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 350.

87. Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 142 N. Y. 173, 36 N. E. 877 [affirming 65 Hun 502, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 458]; Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230]; Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121].

If the damages were assessed prior to the statute requiring railroad companies to construct crossings and the damages included the cost to the landowner of constructing the crossings necessary, the statute does not apply and the railroad company cannot be required to construct them. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Chenault, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 481, 60 S. W. 55.

88. Adams v. Tidewater R. Co., 107 Va. 798, 60 S. E. 129.

89. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 74 Miss. 824, 21 So. 52.

90. Livingston v. Iowa Midland R. Co., 35 Iowa 555.

91. Madison v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 60 Mo. App. 599; Keefe v. Sullivan County R. Co., 63 N. H. 271.

Limitation as to duty.— The farm crossing required by statute is intended for the benefit of the owner of the farm through which a railroad passes, and the company is under no legal obligation to maintain the crossing in good condition for general public use. Johnson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Minn. 316, 104 N. W. 961.

Repair of approaches.— Where a railroad crosses a farm and the company has constructed a farm crossing, it is not bound to keep in repair the approaches to the crossing within the farm. Palmer v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 7 Ont. L. Rep. 87, 3 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 89 [affirming 2 Can. R. Cas. 239, 6 Ont. L. Rep. 90, 2 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 477].

Where a railroad company agrees to maintain and does maintain two farm crossings on a single farm, its obligation to keep them in a reasonably safe condition is the same as it would be in the case of a single crossing required by the statute. Grasse v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 36 Wis. 582.

92. Moragne v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 77 S. C. 437, 58 S. E. 150.

93. Midland R. Co. v. Gribble, [1895] 2 Ch. 827, 64 L. J. Ch. 826, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 270, 12 Reports 513, 44 Wkly. Rep. 133 [affirming 60 J. P. 55], where the landowner sold all of his land on one side of the railroad without reserving any right of way across the land sold.

94. Walters v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 76 Minn. 506, 79 N. W. 516, holding that the practical construction given to the contract by the parties is controlling, and that where the company customarily removed the planks at the crossing during the winter months, such removal did not constitute negligence on the part of the railroad company.

95. Hardy v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 73 Miss. 719, 19 So. 661.

96. Seelbinder v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 73 Miss. 84, 19 So. 300.

Where the statute requires the construction of crossings for the use of the proprietors of the lands "adjoining" the railroad, its application is not limited to cases where the railroad divides a farm or tract of land or to conditions existing at the time of the original construction;[97] and under such a statute the landowner is entitled to a crossing where he owns land on one side only in order to reach a highway on the other,[98] where at the time of the construction of the railroad he owned land on one side and subsequently purchases land on the other side,[99] or where he owns land on both sides of the railroad but there is a strip of land belonging to another intervening between the railroad and his land on one side;[1] and such a statute does not require that any particular quantity of land shall be benefited;[2] but where a landowner owns land on only one side of the railroad and a crossing would serve no useful purpose, the company will not be required to construct it;[3] and, where he owns land on both sides of the railroad at the time the crossing is constructed and subsequently sells all the land on one side without reserving any right of way across the land sold, he abandons his right to the crossing.[4] Where the statute requires crossings when a person owns laud "on both sides of any railway," the term "railway" does not mean merely the right of way.[5] A railroad company is not required to construct crossings for the benefit of a landowner whose property is situated entirely on one side of the railroad under a statute requiring crossings where the road passes through the lands of any person,[6] or for persons "across" whose lands the road passes;[7] and a statute requiring that when a person owns a certain amount of land in one body through which the railroad passes the railroad shall construct crossings applies only where the lands on each side are in one ownership at the time of the original construction,[8] and does not require the construction of additional crossings if the land is subsequently divided up into several tracts of over the amount specified.[9] The actual bona fide owner of lands through which a railroad passes is entitled to the crossings required by statute, although his title is not registered.[10] A statute requiring "farm crossings" does not apply to lots within city limits,[11] although the business conducted upon such lots may necessitate crossing the railroad tracks in order to reach a street or alley.[12] A charter provision requiring a railroad company to provide proper crossings for persons through whose land the road passes imposes a continuing duty, and if at the time the road was constructed no crossing was necessary, but a crossing subsequently becomes necessary, it is the duty of the railroad company to construct it.[13]

97. Quantock v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 117 Mo. App. 469, 74 So. 1034 [affirmed in 197 Mo. 93, 94 S. W. 978].

98. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121 [affirming 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604].

99. Quantock v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 197 Mo. 93, 94 S. W. 978 [affirming 117 Mo. App. 469, 74 So. 1034, and disapproving Stumpe v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 61 Mo. App. 357].

1. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121 [affirming 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604].

2. Clarke v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 350.

3. Kerr v. West Shore R. Co., 2 N. Y. Suppl. 686.

4. Midland R. Co. v. Gribble, [1895] 2 Ch. 827, 64 L. J. Ch. 826, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 270, 12 Reports 513, 44 Wkly. Rep. 133 [affirming 60 J. P. 55].

5. Mattice v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 130 Iowa 749, 107 N. W. 949, holding that a landowner is entitled to a crossing, although on one side of the track there is a strip of land belonging to the railroad company acquired by purchase for railroad purposes intervening between his land and the right of way as originally condemned as the term "railway" includes land so used.

6. Thompson v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 76 S. W. 44, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 529.

7. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Therrien, 30 Can. Sup. Ct. 485.

8. Gratz v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 76 Ohio St. 230, 81 N. E. 239.

9. Jones Fertilizing Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 2 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 511, 7 Ohio N. P. 245.

10. Boldue v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 23 Quebec Super. Ct. 238.

11. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 228 Ill. 593, 81 N. E. 1133 [affirming 132 Ill. App. 274]; Smith v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 94 Mo. App. 398, 68 S. W. 238.

12. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 228 Ill. 593, 81 N. C. 1133 [affirming 132 Ill. App. 274].

13. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Pittman, 53 S. W. 1040, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1037.

d. Number, Location, and Purposes of Crossings. Where the number of crossings is governed by contract or covenant in the deed of right of way, the railroad company must comply with its agreement,[14] and where the statute only requires one crossing the landowner is not entitled to more than one if a suitable crossing is provided.[15] Where the statute does not specify any number but merely requires crossings or suitable, sufficient, or necessary crossings, the railroad company must construct whatever number is reasonably necessary for the proper accommodation of the landowner,[16] which is ordinarily a question of fact depending upon the circumstances of the particular case,[17] and if it be shown that the number originally constructed is not sufficient the company may be compelled to construct additional crossings;[18] but the company is not required to construct any more than are reasonably necessary,[19] nor has the landowner any right to construct additional crossings at other places at his own expense.[20] In the location of the crossing the rights of both parties must be considered,[21] and whether suitably and properly located is ordinarily a question of fact depending upon the circumstances of the particular case.[22] In the absence of statute or agreement to the contrary, the railroad company may designate the location of the crossing,[23] but the landowner is entitled to be reasonably and fairly accommodated,[24] and the railroad company must consider his rights and cannot so locate the crossing as to subject him to needless and unreasonable injury or inconvenience.[25] Where the statute authorizes the landowner to designate the place of crossing, the railroad company must construct it at the place designated if such

14. Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119, holding that if the covenant in the deed provides for the construction of two crossings, the railroad company must construct two, although the statute requiring railroad companies to construct crossings only provides for one.

15. State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819.

16. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 73 Miss. 34, 19 So. 202; Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230].

17. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 73 Miss. 34, 19 So. 202; Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230].

The expense to the railroad company is a question which should be considered in determining what number of crossings should be put in. Van Kleeck v. Dutchess County R. Co., 78 Hun (N. Y.) 263, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 902.

18. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Emerson, 100 S. W. 863, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 1149; Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230].

Where a farm is divided after a railroad company has constructed its road and provided one crossing, it must construct another crossing for that portion which by the division is left without one. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Emerson, 100 S. W. 863, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 1149. But see Clarke v. Ohio River R. Co., 39 W. Va. 732, 20 S. E. 696, holding that when once the railroad company has put in suitable crossings it cannot afterward be required to put in additional crossings.

19. Van Kleeck v. Dutchess County R. Co., 78 Hun (N. Y.) 263, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 902.

20. Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

21. Chalcraft v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 113 Ill. 86 [affirming 14 Ill. App. 516]; Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 70 N. H. 403, 47 Atl. 265; Wademan v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 51 N. Y. 568; Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121]; Burke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 484.

22. Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230]; Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121]; Burke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 484.

23. Wademan v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 51 N. Y. 568 [overruling Wheeler v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 227]; Holmes v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 2 Pa. L. J. 387.

The landowner cannot prescribe the place for the crossing, while on the other hand the railroad company, although entitled to select the place of crossing, must consider its convenience and usefulness to the landowner, and if the latter is not satisfied he may sue for damages, and it is a question for the jury whether the company has properly performed its duty. Burke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 484.

Mandamus will not be granted to compel a railroad company to make crossings at a particular place where the company desires one location and the landowner another. Reist v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 12 U. C. Q. B. 675.

24. Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230].

25. Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 65 Hun (N. Y.) 502, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 458 [affirmed in 142 N. Y. 173, 36 N. E. 877]; Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121]; Burke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 484.

location is a reasonable one;[26] but if the landowner refuses to designate the place of crossing the railroad company may do so provided it furnishes an adequate crossing.[27] Where the landowner is authorized to construct a crossing, upon failure of the railroad to do so, and recover the cost from the railroad company, he must in locating the crossing do so with due regard to the interest of the railroad company and the safety of the public.[28] In some jurisdictions the statutes provide that if the parties cannot agree as to the number and location of the crossings, these questions shall be determined by commissioners or some other tribunal designated for that purpose.[29] Statutes requiring farm crossings are not limited to crossings solely for agricultural purposes;[30] but the landowner is only entitled to use the crossing for purposes which may be taken to have been fairly within the contemplation of the parties at the time of its construction,[31] and cannot use it in such a manner as to endanger the operation of trains upon the railroad.[32] Where a railroad company is required to make crossings over its road where it passes through government lands, the government may subsequently sell such lands for any purpose and the purchasers may use the crossings for any purpose that may be convenient for the enjoyment of the land which will not interfere with the operation of the railroad.[33]

e. Character and Sufficiency of Crossings. Where a railroad company is required to construct crossings the crossing must be such as reasonably to meet the necessities and convenience of the landowner,[34] and the duty of constructing a crossing includes the duty of constructing the necessary approaches thereto.[35] It is competent for the railroad company and landowner to agree as to the character of the crossing,[36] if it is not such as to endanger the safety of the public,[37] and to provide whether it shall be at grade or otherwise,[38] or whether it shall be open or provided with gates or bars.[39] If as is usually the case the statutes do

26. Van Vranklin v. Wisconsin, etc., R. Co., 68 Iowa 576, 27 N. W. 761; Boggs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 54 Iowa 435, 6 N. W. 744.

27. Schrimper v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Iowa 35, 82 N. W. 916, 87 N. W. 731.

28. Chalcraft v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 113 Ill. 86 [affirming 14 Ill. App. 516], holding that the landowner has no right to locate the crossing at a place where it will greatly increase the danger of collisions and that he may be enjoined from so doing.

29. Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 70 N. H. 403, 47 Atl. 265; Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

30. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121 [affirming 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604], holding that they also include crossings for removing natural products of the land, such as stone and minerals. But see Hewett v. Knox County Com'rs, 85 Me. 308, 27 Atl. 179, holding that under a statute providing that the county commissioners may order a railroad company to make and maintain "cattle guards, cattle passes and farm crossings," an award of damages providing that the railroad company shall keep open a road to a limekiln of the landowner is beyond the power of the commissioners.

31. Great Western R. Co. v. Talbot, [1902] 2 Ch. 759, 71 L. J. Ch. 835, 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 405, 18 T. L. R. 775, 51 Wkly. Rep. 312, holding that while the landowner may make any use of the crossing which may be taken to have been fairly within the contemplation of the parties at the time of its construction, it cannot be used for purposes which could not have been so contemplated and which materially increase the burden of the easement, as for conveying goods from places not upon his property and not served by the road crossed at the time the easement was created.

32. Great Northern R. Co. v. McAlister, [1897] 1 Ir. 537, holding that the landowner has no right to use a traction engine on the crossing in hauling stone from a quarry where such use would be a source of danger to passing trains.

33. United Land Co. v. Great Eastern R. Co., L. R. 10 Ch. 586, 44 L. J. Ch. 685, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 292, 23 Wkly. Rep. 896.

34. Kendall v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 95 S. W. 757; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115.

35. Birlew v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 104 Mo. App. 561, 79 S. W. 490.

36. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wynkoop, 73 Kan. 590, 85 Pac. 595; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Schawe, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 599, 55 S. W. 357.

37. See Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Chenault, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 481, 60 S. W. 55.

38. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wynkoop, 73 Kan. 590, 85 Pac. 595.

39. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115.

A contract for an open crossing is not void as being contrary to public policy (Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 not specify the character of crossing, its character is not to be determined solely with reference to the convenience of the landowner,[40] or the convenience of or expense to the railroad company,[41] but upon a proper consideration of all the interests involved.[42] In such cases the railroad company may decide the character of crossing, subject only to the limitation that it shall be suitable, sufficient, or adequate, within the meaning of the statutes,[43] which is ordinarily a question of fact to be determined with reference to the circumstances of the particular case,[44] and the landowner cannot demand as a matter of right either a grade crossing,[45] or a crossing above or below grade.[46] Grade crossings are the kind usually constructed and are ordinarily adequate;[47] but if owing to the location and conditions such a crossing is not adequate the railroad company must provide an over or under crossing,[48] although it involves considerable additional expense.[49] Whether the crossing shall be an open one or may be constructed with gates or bars depends somewhat upon the character of its use.[50] A closed crossing provided with suitable gates is not necessarily improper or inadequate,[51] and it has been

S. W. 1115; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Schawe, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 599, 55 S. W. 357); and a railroad company agreeing to give the owner of a farm an open crossing must comply therewith unless compliance will unnecessarily interfere with the safe operation of the railroad or with the public necessities of rapid transportation (Hartsborn v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 137 Iowa 324, 113 N. W. 840).

40. State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819.

41. Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa 507, 105 N. W. 436.

42. State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819; Truesdale v. Jensen, 91 Iowa 312, 59 N. W. 47; Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 65 Hun (N. Y.) 502, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 458 [affirmed in 142 N. Y. 173, 36 N. E. 877]; State v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 123 Wis. 551, 102 N. W. 16.

Matters to be considered as affecting the character of crossing are the character of its use by the landowner, the cost of construction, the effect upon the operation of the railroad, and upon the safety of life and property. Truesdale v. Jensen, 91 Iowa 312, 59 N. W. 47.

43. Guinn v. Iowa, etc., R. Co., 125 Iowa 301, 101 N. W. 94.

44. State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819; Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119; Ellsworth v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 34 N. J. L. 93; Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 65 Hun (N. Y.) 502, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 458 [affirmed in 142 N. Y. 173, 36 N. E. 877].

45. Guinn v. Iowa, etc., R. Co., 125 Iowa 301, 101 N. W. 94.

46. Schrimper v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Iowa 35, 82 N. W. 916, 87 N. W. 731; State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 304, 53 N. W. 253; Reist v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 15 U. C. Q. B. 355.

Under a charter requirement that a railroad company shall construct "bridges or passages over or under" its road, where "any public or other road" shall cross the same, and that if the railroad shall intersect any farm or land of any individual, the company shall provide "suitable wagon ways," the provision as to the construction of bridges does not apply to farm crossings. Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

47. Schrimper v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Iowa 35, 82 N. W. 916, 87 N. W. 731; State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819; State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Iowa 304, 53 N. W. 253.

48. Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa 507, 105 N. W. 436; Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230]; Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 65 Hun (N. Y.) 502, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 458 [affirmed in 142 N. Y. 173, 36 N. E. 877]; State v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 123 Wis. 551, 102 N. W. 16; In re Cockerline, etc., R. Co., 5 Can. R. Cas. 313.

Railroad commissioners may require a railroad company to construct a farm crossing under its railroad if a crossing of a different character would not under the circumstances be a suitable crossing. In re Cockerline, etc., R. Co., 5 Can. R. Cas. 313.

49. Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa 507, 105 N. W. 436.

50. State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819.

51. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 76 Miss. 582, 25 So. 295; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Chenault, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 481, 60 S. W. 55.

Where the railroad company has fenced its track, although not required to do so, it has sufficiently complied with the statute requiring it to construct a crossing for a plantation road by making the crossing with gates in its fence, and is not required to provide an open crossing protected by cattle-guards. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 76 Miss. 582, 25 So. 295.

It is competent for the landowner to show, where a railroad company has agreed to construct "all necessary" crossings, that an open crossing is necessary for the proper use of his premises. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115.

Under the Texas statute requiring railroad companies to make "openings or crossings through their fence and over their road-bed," held that such a crossing is sufficient as a means of affording access between adjacent fields or parts of a pasture;[52] but that where the crossing is to afford access to a highway and is much used the landowner is entitled to an open crossing unobstructed by gates.[53]

f. Removal, Change, or Obstruction of Crossing. Where a landowner is entitled to the crossing and one has been constructed, the railroad company has no right arbitrarily to change, remove, stop up, or obstruct it,[54] and if it does so it may be required to restore the same or compensate the landowner in damages.[55] The landowner is, however, bound to anticipate such changes and alterations in the railroad as public necessity may require,[56] and the railroad company may, for the purpose of making such necessary alterations in its road, change the location of a crossing,[57] or change its character as from an under or overhead crossing to a grade crossing,[58] or place gates at an open crossing where its use as an open the term "openings" does not contemplate an open crossing, and a railroad company is not required to provide such a crossing unless a crossing of that character is necessary in the particular case. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Chenault, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 481, 60 S. W. 55; Burgess v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 703.

52. State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819; Curtis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 62 Iowa 418, 17 N. W. 591; Beau v. Jasper, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 101 S. W. 874.

53. Boggs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 54 Iowa 435, 6 N. W. 744; Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119.

The landowner is not necessarily entitled to an open crossing, although the crossing is used for reaching a highway, and he is not so entitled when such a crossing by reason of the grade and curvature the railroad track would render collisions with stock probable and be a source of much danger to persons and property transported by the railroad, and the location is such as to make an open crossing under or above the track impracticable. Truesdale v. Jensen, 91 Iowa 312, 59 N. W. 47.

54. Illinois.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523.

Kansas.— Stone v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 75 Kan. 600, 90 Pac. 251.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, 77 S. W. 693, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1307.

Massachusetts.— Humphreys v. Old Colony R. Co., 160 Mass. 323, 35 N. E. 859.

New Hampshire.— Farwell v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 335, 56 Atl. 751.

Pennsylvania.— Marsh v. Lehigh, etc., R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 141, 64 Atl. 366; Dubbs v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 66, 23 Atl. 883.

Wisconsin.— State v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 123 Wis. 551, 102 N. W. 16.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 312, 313.

Gates or bars.— Although the contract of the railroad company to construct crossings did not expressly provide for an open crossing, but merely that it should be such as was convenient or necessary, if the railroad company constructs and for many years maintains an open crossing it cannot subsequently obstruct it with gates or bars. Williams v. Clark, 140 Mass. 238, 5 N. E. 802; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Schawe, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 609, 55 S. W. 357. See also Hamlin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 176 Mass. 514, 57 N. E. 1006.

If a railroad company, although not required to construct crossings, does construct them, it cannot afterward remove them unless such removal be necessary for the improvement of the road, where their construction was considered in the award of damages to the landowner. March v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 19 N. H. 372.

Where a railroad company covenanted with the landowner to provide suitable farm crossings and the successors in title of the original covenantee have for many years used one of such crossings to reach a village, post-office, and station, which use has been acquiesced in by the railroad company, the company cannot abolish the crossing on the ground that it has ceased to be used as a farm crossing. Kraeer v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 218 Pa. St. 569, 67 Atl. 871.

Application to railroad commissioners.— On application to railroad commissioners, under the Canada statute of 1903, for leave to fill up an under crossing which the company had contracted to construct and maintain, and to substitute therefor a grade crossing, it was held that since the contract was valid and binding and the proposed substitute not as advantageous as the under crossing, and the application was not made in the interest of the public but merely to save expense to the railroad company, the application should be refused. Anderson v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 3 Can. R. Cas. 444.

55. See infra, VI, E, 4, a, (I).

56. Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539].

57. Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 70 N. H. 403, 47 Atl. 265, holding further that the location of the new crossing is to be determined in the same manner and upon the same considerations as the original location.

58. Schrimper v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Iowa 35, 82 N. W. 916, 87 N. W. 731, holding further that where the crossing is constructed as a statutory duty a landowner cannot acquire a prescriptive right to a crossing of the character originally constructed.

crossing has become dangerous to the operation of trains.[59] A railroad company may also change the location of a crossing where its existence at the original location interferes with the safe operation of the railroad.[60] But the railroad company cannot, even where the changes are so made, deprive the landowner without compensation of the accommodation to which he is entitled,[61] and must provide such a crossing as he is entitled to or make compensation in damages,[62] although the changes are not made voluntarily by the railroad company but under the compulsion of a decree of court.[63] Where the contract of the railroad company to construct a crossing is so limited as not to include the approaches, if the grade of the crossing is subsequently changed the necessary alterations in the approaches must be made by the landowner.[64]

g. Agreement With or Waiver by Landowner.[65] The landowner may agree to the substitution of a new crossing at a different place for an old crossing to which he is entitled;[66] and where a landowner expressly agrees to abandon an existing grade crossing in consideration of being allowed an overhead crossing, he cannot afterward use both.[67] So also where a railroad company is required by statute to construct crossings, this duty may be waived entirely by the landowner for whose benefit they are to be constructed;[68] but the right to a crossing or crossings of the number, location, and character to which he is entitled is not waived by the assessment and receipt of the damages in condemnation proceedings,[69] or by a conveyance of a right of way which makes no express provision as to crossings;[70] nor is an agreement by a landowner to the construction of a public crossing on his land a waiver of his right to a private crossing to which he is entitled by statute.[71]

3. Fences and Cattle-Guards — a. Duty to Construct. In the absence of statute or agreement a railroad company is not obliged to fence along its right

59. Aistrope v. Tabor, etc., R. Co., (Iowa 1898) 75 N. W. 334.

60. Hartshorn v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 137 Iowa 324, 113 N. W. 840.

61. Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539].

Injunction until new crossing provided.— Where a railroad company pursuant to a contract constructs an open crossing at a point mutually agreed on, but which interferes with the safe operation of the railroad, and it is practicable to establish a crossing at another point, the company must take the initiative and demand that the owner select a reasonable place for the new crossing, and until it does so it should be enjoined from closing the existing crossing. Hartshorn v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 137 Iowa 324, 113 N. W. 840.

62. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, 98 S. W. 1042, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 426; Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539].

63. Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539].

64. Williams v. Clark, 140 Mass. 238, 5 N. E. 802.

65. Agreements between railroad company and landowner as to: The right to cross or have a crossing see supra, VI, E, 2, a. Duty to construct crossing see supra, VI, E, 2, b. Number and location of crossings see supra, VI, E, 2, d. Character of the crossings see supra, VI, E, 2, e.

66. Hamlin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 166 Mass. 462, 44 N. E. 444.

67. Speese v. Schuylkill River East Side R. Co., 201 Pa. St. 568, 51 Atl. 316.

68. Madison v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 60 Mo. App. 599.

69. Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 142 N. Y. 173, 36 N. E. 877 [affirming 65 Hun 502, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 458]; Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230]; Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121].

In the assessment of damages it must be assumed that both parties stood upon their rights with regard to the construction of crossings and that if the railroad company was required to construct crossings the award was made upon the assumption that it would do so. Beardsley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 142 N. Y. 173, 36 N. E. 877 [affirming 65 Hun 502, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 458].

Where the railroad company is required by a covenant in a deed of a right of way of a certain width to construct crossings and subsequently condemns an additional strip of land, the acceptance of the amount awarded for such strip and not including that conveyed does not affect the right of the landowner to insist upon the crossing provided for in the deed. Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119.

70. Smith v. New York, etc., R. Co., 63 N. Y. 58.

71. Herrstrom v. Newton, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa 507, 105 N. W. 436.

of way for the protection of lands through or along which it passes,[72] or to construct cattle-guards where it enters or leaves such lands or inclosures,[73] and if it does so voluntarily it is not obliged subsequently to maintain and keep them in repair.[74] So also the landowner is not, in the absence of statute or agreement, obliged to fence his lands for the protection of the railroad,[75] nor has he any right to go upon the railroad right of way and construct cattle-guards for his own benefit where the road passes through his land.[76] There have been a great number and variety of statutes enacted in different jurisdictions relating to the construction of fences and cattle-guards. Some of these statutes are not designed for, and have no application to, the protection of the lands or property of the adjoining landowner, but are designed solely for the public safety, the protection of the railroad company and its freight and passengers, or to prevent animals from coming upon the track and being injured,[77] and these statutes together with all statutory provisions in so far as they relate to duties and liabilities of this character are treated in other parts of this article.[78] There are, however, in a number of jurisdictions statutory provisions which are designed for, or the application of which includes, the protection of the lands, stock, and crops of adjacent landowners, and which require the railroad company to construct fences,[79] or cattle-

72. Arkansas.— Caststeel v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 81 Ark. 364, 99 S. W. 540; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 47 Ark. 330, 1 S. W. 545.

Illinois.— Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Baugh, 14 Ill. 211.

Iowa.— Henry v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 2 Iowa 288.

Missouri.— Mangold v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 606, 92 S. W. 753.

New York.— Matter of Long Island R. Co., 3 Edw. 487.

United States.— Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 315.

73. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 47 Ark. 330, 1 S. W. 545; Rossignoll v. Northeastern R. Co., 75 Ga. 354; Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Baugh, 14 Ill. 190; Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862. But see State v. Colorado Southern, etc., R. Co., 120 La. 9, 44 So. 905; Matter of Long Island R. Co., 3 Edw. (N. Y.) 487.

74. Rossignoll v. Northeastern R. Co., 75 Ga. 354; Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

75. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Briggs, 132 Mass. 24.

76. Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Baugh, 14 Ill. 211, holding further that the rule applies whether the railroad company owns its right of way in fee or not.

77. Cannon v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 Ill. App. 640; Clark v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. 202.

78. Existence and validity of statutory provisions see infra, X, B, 6.

Construction and application of statutory provisions with reference to: Injuries from collisions with animals on track see infra, X, D, 2, b, (II). Injuries to persons on or near the track see infra, X, E, 2, a, (V), (B). Injuries to animals see infra, X, H, 4.

79. Illinois.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 121 Ill. 483, 13 N. E. 236 [affirming 21 Ill. App. 23].

Maine.— Cotton v. Wiscasset, etc., R. Co., 98 Me. 511, 57 Atl. 758.

Michigan.— Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 74 Am. Dec. 722.

Minnesota.— Gould v. Great Northern R. Co., 63 Minn. 37, 65 N. W. 125, 56 Am. Rep. 453, 30 L. R. A. 590.

Missouri.— Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118; Trice v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 49 Mo. 438; Gordon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Mo. App. 201.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 50 Nebr. 640, 70 N. W. 261.

England.— Wiseman v. Booker, 3 C. P. D. 184, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 292, 26 Wkly. Rep. 634.

Canada.— Nichol v. Canada Southern R. Co., 40 U. C. Q. B. 583; Brown v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 U. C. Q. B. 350.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 315.

The various provisions of the Kentucky statutes relating to the construction of fences by railroad companies are quoted in a recent case where their constitutionality is sustained (Steadd v. Southern R. Co., 109 Ky. 214, 58 S. W. 581, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 713); and they put railroad companies upon the same footing as other adjoining landowners and require them to construct one half of the fence between the right of way and adjoining lands (Owensboro, etc., R. Co. v. Courts, 109 Ky. 154, 58 S. W. 521, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 672); but neither a railroad company nor an abutting landowner can require the other to erect a division fence on its proportion of the dividing line or recover from the other the cost of its construction, unless written notice is given to build half of the fence, and the railroad company is not required to fence or contribute to the cost of a division fence unless the abutting land is improved or inclosed or if unimproved and uninclosed it has been previously inclosed on three sides with sufficient fences or fences and natural barriers which will prevent the egress of stock guards;[80] and it is the duty of the company subsequently to keep them in a proper state of repair.[81] These statutes apply whether the railroad company acquires its right of way by purchase or condemnation,[82] and whether it has merely an easement or an absolute title;[83] but the requirement does not apply if, in the assessment of damages in condemnation proceedings, the landowner received compensation for such fences as the statute requires.[84] So also as the requirement is for the benefit of the landowner it may be waived by him.[85] If the statute requires (Pitman v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 104 S. W. 693, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 988). It is provided that the requirement shall not apply to any lands where the owner or his vendor has received compensation for fencing (Owensboro, etc., R. Co. v. Courts, supra); but this must be affirmatively shown and will not be presumed from a grant of a right of way where the deed makes no reference to fencing (Owensboro, etc., R. Co. v. Courts, supra; Owensboro, etc., R. Co. v. Townsend, 107 Ky. 291, 53 S. W. 662, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 997). It is further provided that if the railroad company has been given a right of way through the lands in question free of charge, the entire fencing between the right of way and the adjoining lands shall be done by and at the cost of the railroad company (Steadd v. Southern R. Co., supra); but this provision is held not to apply to cases where the right of way was acquired prior to the enactment of the statute (Ringo v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 111 Ky. 679, 64 S. W. 522, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 941; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 64 S. W. 515, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 936).

In New Hampshire the express requirement of the statute of 1840 that the railroad company should erect and maintain "a proper and sufficient fence on each side of the track" was omitted in the revision of the statutes and a provision inserted that if the railroad company should neglect to fence, the landowner might do so and recover double the value, but it is held that the change in the statute was not intended to affect the duty of the railroad company to construct a fence as required under the previous statute. Dean v. Sullivan R. Co., 22 N. H. 316.

80. Georgia.— Fenn v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 116 Ga. 942, 43 S. E. 378.

Iowa.— Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 467, 16 N. W. 525; Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518.

Kansas.— Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Manson, 31 Kan. 337, 2 Pac. 800.

Mississippi.— Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 72 Miss. 491, 17 So. 168.

North Carolina.— Shepard v. Suffolk, etc., R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

South Carolina.— Burnett v. Southern R. Co., 62 S. C. 281, 40 S. E. 679.

Tennessee.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116.

Texas.— Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wetz, 97 Tex. 581, 80 S. W. 988; Southwestern Telegraph, etc., Co. v. Krause, (Civ. App. 1906) 92 S. W. 431.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 315.

Under the Alabama statute requiring a railroad company to construct cattle-guards whenever "the owner of the land" through which the road passes shall demand them and show that they are necessary to prevent depredations of stock, the company is not required to construct them upon a demand made by a tenant of such lands. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Murphree, 129 Ala. 432, 29 So. 592.

Under the Kentucky statute providing that railroad companies shall erect and maintain cattle-guards at terminal points of fences constructed along their lines, but where there is a private passway across the railroad the landowner shall pay half the expense of the cattle-guards and gates, the owner to erect the gates and the railroad company the cattle-guards, the railroad company is not required to erect cattle-guards where its road enters and leaves a farm, there being no terminal point there of the right-of-way fence, or at a place where the owner has a passway and has not offered to pay half the expense. Payton v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 115 Ky. 53, 72 S. W. 346, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 1896.

81. Fortune v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 58 S. W. 711, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 749.

Notice to repair.—Under the Arkansas statute requiring a railroad company to construct cattle-guards and keep them in repair upon receiving ten days' notice in writing from the owner of the lands through which the road runs, notice to repair is as essential as notice to construct, and it must be given by the landowner and not by a tenant, unless the tenant is authorized by the landowner to give notice in the latter's name. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 84 Ark. 14, 106 S. W. 200.

82. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Manson, 31 Kan. 337, 2 Pac. 800; Shepard v. Suffolk, etc., R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wetz, 97 Tex. 581, 80 S. W. 988.

In West Virginia it is held that a railroad company is not bound to fence its line from adjoining improved lands except where it has condemned land for its use. Grafton, etc., R. Co. v. Davisson, 45 W. Va. 12, 29 S. E. 1028, 72 Am. St. Rep. 799.

83. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fitzhugh, 82 Ark. 179, 100 S. W. 1149; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Manson, 31 Kan. 337, 2 Pac. 800.

84. Welles v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 620, 25 Atl. 51.

85. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116, holding that during the interval that negotiations are pending between a railroad company and the landowner for the fencing of his land on a division of expenses in lieu of putting in cattle-guards, the landowner is deemed to have waived the absence of cattle-guards and cannot lawfully the railroad company to fence its right of way through certain lands, it is not sufficient merely to construct cattle-guards where the road enters and leaves such lands,[86] or to keep a watchman on guard at such places;[87] and conversely if the statute requires the construction of cattle-guards where the road passes through a field or inclosure, it is not sufficient to fence the right of way through such land.[88] The duty of constructing fences or cattle-guards may be imposed upon the railroad company by a charter provision,[89] or contract or covenant in a deed of the right of way.[90]

b. Application and Effect of Fence or Stock Laws. The statutes relating to the construction and maintenance of partition fences are ordinarily held not to apply as between railroad companies and the owners of lands adjacent to the railroad right of way,[91] although a distinction has been made between cases where the railroad company has a mere easement and where it owns its right of way absolutely.[92] So also the existence of a stock law in a particular locality prohibiting stock from running at large does not affect the statutory duty of a railroad company to construct cattle-guards where its road enters and leaves inclosed lands.[93]

c. Time For Construction.[94] The Illinois statute requiring fences and cattle-guards allows the railroad company six months after the road or some part thereof is open for use within which to construct them.[95] Where the statutes require complain of injuries suffered during the existence of such waiver.

86. Shotwell v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 37 Mo. App. 654.

87. Shotwell v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 37 Mo. App. 654.

88. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wetz, 97 Tex. 581, 80 S. W. 988.

89. Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297; Clark v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 103.

90. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. McEwen, 35 Ind. App. 251, 71 N. E. 926; Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Griffin, 25 Ind. App. 138, 53 N. E. 1042, 57 N. E. 722; Hugo v. Great Western R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 506.

Covenants in deed of right of way see supra, V, G, 6.

A statute requiring fencing does not affect or impair any contract obligations in this regard made prior to the enactment of the statute (Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Griffin, 25 Ind. App. 138, 53 N. E. 1042, 57 N. E. 722); and a contract made after the statute is not without consideration as being for the performance of a duty already imposed by law, where it provides for fences and cattle-guards particularly described and is broader than the statutory requirement (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. McEwen, 35 Ind. App. 251, 71 N. E. 926).

The purchaser of the property of a railroad company is not bound by a contract made by the railroad company for the construction of fences of which such purchaser had no notice, nor does a constitutional prohibition against the alienation of any "franchise" so as to relieve the franchise or property from liabilities of the grantor apply to such a case. Bailey v. Southern R. Co., 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1397, 60 S. W. 631, 61 S. W. 31.

91. Illinois.— Cannon v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 Ill. App. 640.

Iowa.— Henry v. Dubuque, etc., R. Co., 2 Iowa 288.

Massachusetts.— Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Briggs, 132 Mass. 24.

New York.— In re Long Island R. Co., 3 Edw. 487.

United States.— Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 316.

The Kentucky statute expressly puts railroad companies upon the same footing as other adjacent landowners and requires them to construct one half of the fence between the right of way and adjacent lands (Owensboro, etc., R. Co. v. Courts, 109 Ky. 154, 58 S. W. 521, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 672); but a landowner cannot recover damages for a failure of the railroad company to do so unless he has constructed or offered to construct his half of the fence (Parrish v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 104 S. W. 690, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 1020; Hall v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 17 S. W. 207, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 436).

In New Jersey where a suit in equity was brought to compel a railroad company to construct fences the court, without expressly deciding as to the application of the partition fence law to railroad companies, dismissed the bill upon the ground that the statute provided a different remedy for its enforcement. See Vandorn v. New Jersey Southern R. Co., 42 N. J. Eq. 463, 8 Atl. 99.

92. Dean v. Sullivan R. Co., 22 N. H. 316, holding that while the statute would not apply if the railroad company had a mere easement, it does apply if the railroad company owns its right of way absolutely.

93. Shepard v. Suffolk, etc., R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

94. As affecting liability for injury to animals see infra, X, H, 4, a, (VII).

95. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 216 Ill. 339, 74 N. E. 1063; Cannon v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 Ill. App. 640.

fencing but do not specify the time for their construction, the obligation is concurrent with the existence of the necessity for the protection which the requirement is designed to afford,[96] which necessity arises as soon as the railroad company has opened up its right of way through the fences and inclosures of the lands through which it passes.[97] The fences required should be constructed at least by the time the railroad is put in operation,[98] and while it cannot be said as a matter of law that the railroad company must construct them before this time,[99] it is not as a matter of law entitled to wait until such time,[1] or until the road is completed,[2] or so far completed as to enable it to transport materials thereon from a distance;[3] and where during the process of construction the railroad company makes openings through the fences of a landowner, if it does not then construct its fences it must adopt other measures to protect the landowner and prevent the escape of his stock and prevent other stock from trespassing upon his lands.[4] Where the duty of fencing is imposed by a contract which does not specify the time for their construction, they must be constructed within a reasonable time.[5]

d. At What Places Required.[6] Statutes requiring railroad companies to fence their tracks for the benefit of adjoining landowners apply although the road is constructed upon a bridge or trestle if there are openings through which stock could pass under the track from one side of the road to the other;[7] and a statute requiring the railroad company to fence where its road passes through inclosed lands applies although the fence inclosing such lands is not strictly a lawful fence,[8] unless the statute expressly requires that it shall be a lawful fence.[9] Under the Canadian statute the railroad company must fence if the lands through which the road passes are either improved or settled and inclosed.[10] Where the

96. Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118; Gordon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Mo. App. 201; Shotwell v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 37 Mo. App. 654.

97. Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 74 Am. Dec. 722; Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118; Shotwell v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 37 Mo. App. 654; Bradly v. Great Western R. Co., 11 U. C. Q. B. 220.

The company is entitled to reasonable time, which period begins to run from the time of entry upon the lands for constructing the railroad. Rutledge v. Woodstock, etc., R. Co., 12 U. C. Q. B. 663.

98. Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118; Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512; Clark v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 103.

99. Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297; Clark v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 103.

1. Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 47 Am. Dec. 722; Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118; Bradly v. Great Western R. Co., 11 U. C. Q. B. 220.

The liability for failure to fence will attach with regard to any portion of the road as soon as a reasonable time for constructing the fence has elapsed after the necessity therefor has arisen (Wilkerson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 336, 80 S. W. 308); and not until the lapse of such reasonable time (Rutledge v. Woodstock, etc., R. Co., 12 U. C. Q. B. 663); what is a reasonable time being not a matter of law but of fact, depending upon the circumstances of the particular case including the accessibility and difficulty of procuring and transporting materials (Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118).

In Canada it is held that under the statute of 14 & 15 Vict. c. 51, which has two distinct provisions as to fences, with different objects, the first to keep animals from the track and the second to protect adjacent lands, the duty to fence under the latter provision might arise before the road was put in operation but not until after six months from the time the company had taken the land and after a request by the landowner to fence and a reasonable time to comply with such request. Elliott v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 289; Ferguson v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 296.

2. Bradly v. Great Western R. Co., 11 U. C. Q. B. 220.

3. Gordon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Mo. App. 201.

4. Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 74 Am. Dec. 722; Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297; Clark v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 103.

5. Lawton v. Fitchburg R. Co., 8 Cush. (Mass.) 230, 54 Am. Dec. 753.

6. As affecting liability for injury to animals see infra, X, H, 4, b.

7. Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 41 Mo. App. 260.

8. Biggerstaff v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 567.

9. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Youngstrom, 47 Kan. 349, 27 Pac. 982.

10. Dreger v. Canadian Northern R. Co., 15 Manitoba 386, holding that under the Railway Act of 1903, requiring a company to statute requires a railroad company to fence on both sides of its road, it has reference to the sides of the right of way and not merely the track,[11] and the fence must be constructed upon the outer edge of the right of way along the line where it meets the lands of the adjoining owner.[12] Where the statute expressly designates the points at which cattle-guards shall be constructed it must be complied with,[13] and if they cannot be located at the exact point required they must be located as near thereto as practicable.[14] Where the statute requires cattle-guards where a road passes through inclosed lands, it does not apply unless the lands are inclosed,[15] and if inclosed the inclosure must be a substantial one with a fence which will turn stock so as to make the cattle-guards of some practical benefit;[16] but if the fence is reasonably sufficient for this purpose it need not be a strictly lawful fence.[17] A statute requiring cattle-guards where the road enters or leaves inclosed lands applies to a town lot as well as lands in the country;[18] and a statute requiring cattle-guards where the road enters or leaves any improved or fenced land applies to lands fenced or improved after the construction of the railroad as well as before,[19] and is not limited to division fences between different owners but applies to fences dividing the lands of the same owner;[20] but if cattle-guards are constructed where the road enters or leaves a large inclosure, it is not necessary to construct others between the different parcels of land into which it is divided if there are no fences between such parcels,[21] or to construct other cattle-guards at a private crossing within such inclosure.[22] A statute requiring cattle-guards where the road enters the inclosure of a private owner does not apply where it runs between the lands of different owners without severing the lands of either;[23] and where the statute requires the construction of suitable cattle-guards they need not be constructed at a private crossing where there is no dividing fence and the railroad company has fenced its track and provided gates;[24] and where the statute requires cattle-guards on the dividing line between adjoining fence, the words "not improved or settled, and inclosed," describing lands in respect to which the company is not required to fence, should either be construed to mean "not improved and not inclosed, or not settled and not inclosed," or should be read with the comma put after the word "improved" instead of after the word "settled," so that either way the obligation to fence exists as to land that is either: (1) Improved; or (2) settled and inclosed.

11. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 121 Ill. 483, 13 N. E. 236 [affirming 21 Ill. App. 23].

12. Illinois.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 121 Ill. 483, 13 N. E. 236 [affirming 21 Ill. App. 23]; Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Zeigler, 108 Ill. 304.

Indiana.— Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 32 Ind. App. 425, 70 N. E. 173.

Minnesota.— Gould v. Great Northern R. Co., 63 Minn. 37, 65 N. W. 125, 56 Am. St. Rep. 453, 30 L. R. A. 590.

Missouri.— McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14. But see Marshall v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 51 Mo. 138.

New York.— Ferris v. Van Buskirk, 18 Barb. 397.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 318.

Crooked or Virginia fence.— Where a railroad company is required to construct fences on the sides of its road the statute is complied with if the company erects a crooked or Virginia fence, three feet of the rails being upon the land of the adjacent owner and three feet upon the land of the railroad company alternately. Ferris v. Van Buskirk, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 397.

13. Southwestern Tel., etc., Co. v. Krause, (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 92 S. W. 431.

14. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Manson, 31 Kan. 337, 2 Pac. 800, holding that where, on account of depot grounds, cattle-guards cannot be located at the point where the railroad enters the lands to be protected, the company must construct them at the first point which will not interfere with the necessities and conveniences of the public and the company.

15. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116.

16. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Sallis, 89 Miss. 636, 42 So. 202; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116.

17. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hale, 82 Ark. 175, 100 S. W. 1148.

18. Shepard v. Suffolk, etc., R. Co., 140 N. C. 391, 53 S. E. 137.

19. Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 467, 16 N. W. 525.

20. Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518.

21. Gibbons v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., (Miss. 1902) 33 So. 5.

22. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ellis, 85 Miss. 586, 38 So. 210.

23. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. London, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 426.

24. Clarke v. Ohio River R. Co., 39 W. Va. 732, 20 S. E. 696.

owners "when necessary to protect such lands," it is not necessary to construct them if the lands are not inclosed.[25] A statute requiring cattle-guards where a railroad crosses the line of any fence is not limited to fences existing at the time the road was built, but applies to those constructed at any time thereafter.[26]

e. Nature and Sufficiency. Where the statute does not specifically describe the character of fence to be constructed, it must be reasonably sufficient to turn all kinds of domestic animals.[27] The cattle-guards must also be such as are reasonably sufficient to prevent ingress or egress of stock,[28] but the railroad company is not obliged to make them absolutely impassable for stock,[29] and they are sufficient if as well adapted for this purpose as it is practicable to make them with due regard to the safety of the road-bed and the operation of trains thereon.[30] The type of cattle-guard should be that which is best calculated to keep out stock and at the same time be reasonably preservative of the safety of public travel.[31] The term "cattle-guard" has no precise signification,[32] but the requirement contemplates a protection of the entire right of way against the passage of stock to and from adjoining lands;[33] so that the mere construction of a pit under the track is not sufficient,[34] but the cattle-guards must by means of wing fences or otherwise be extended across the right of way to the adjoining lands,[35] the adjoining landowner not being required to extend his fences across the right of way to the track,[36] and in fact having no right to do so.[37]

4. Actions and Proceedings to Enforce Rights — a. Nature and Form of Remedy — (I) Relative to Crossings. Where the statute imposing the duty upon railroad companies with regard to the construction of private or farm crossings expressly provides the method of its enforcement, the statutory method must be followed;[38] but a remedy given by statute will not be held to be exclusive

25. Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Fowler, 104 Ga. 148, 30 S. E. 243.

26. Burnett v. Southern R. Co., 62 S. C. 281, 40 S. E. 679.

27. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill. App. 144; Cotton v. Wiscasset, etc., R. Co., 98 Me. 511, 57 Atl. 785, holding that where the statute requires a "legal and sufficient" fence, it is not sufficient, although of legal height unless it will turn sheep as well as larger domestic animals.

28. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Manson, 31 Kan. 337, 2 Pac. 800; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington, 85 Miss. 366, 37 So. 1016.

29. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburg, 71 Ark. 232, 72 S. W. 574.

The fact that stock have gone over a cattle-guard is not conclusive as to its insufficiency. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Goset, 70 Ark. 427, 68 S. W. 879.

30. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburg, 71 Ark. 232, 72 S. W. 574; Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Goset, 70 Ark. 427, 68 S. W. 879.

31. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington, 85 Miss. 366, 37 So. 1016, holding that a Ross surface cattle-guard, although better than a pit as regards the safety of travel, is not a compliance with the statute unless it is reasonably efficient to keep out stock.

32. Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 467, 16 N. W. 525.

33. Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 467, 16 N. W. 525; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Morrow, 32 Kan. 217, 4 Pac. 87; Grace v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., (Miss. 1899) 25 So. 875; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 72 Miss. 491, 17 So. 168.

34. Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 467, 16 N. W. 525; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Manson, 31 Kan. 337, 2 Pac. 800; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 72 Miss. 491, 17 So. 168.

35. Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 467, 16 N. W. 525; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Manson, 31 Kan. 337, 2 Pac. 800; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116.

If the railroad company has only an easement for a right of way of one hundred feet on each side of its track and can only occupy the land necessary for its purposes, it is only required to construct the wing fences connecting with its cattle-guards to where the right of way is being used and occupied by the adjoining landowner. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bigbee, 100 Tenn. 204, 45 S. W. 671.

36. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Morrow, 32 Kan. 217, 4 Pac. 87.

37. Heskett v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Iowa 467, 16 N. W. 525.

38. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 109 Ill. App. 25; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eichman, 47 Ill. App. 156.

Under the Illinois statute providing that on failure or refusal of a railroad company to construct crossings the landowner entitled thereto may after notice to the company construct it and recover from the company double the value thereof, if a railroad company removes a farm crossing without providing another the landowner cannot recover the cost of constructing the crossing where he has not given any notice to the company or constructed crossings himself, since the unless the language of the statute so requires.[39] If a railroad company fails to construct crossings where it is its duty to do so, the landowner may sue for and recover damages,[40] or the railroad company may be compelled by mandamus to construct crossings,[41] or to construct crossings of such a character as the landowner is entitled to,[42] or such duty may be enforced by a suit in equity,[43] or the railroad commissioners may take cognizance of the matter and make an order which may be enforced by the court.[44] Where the landowner is entitled to a crossing and one has been constructed he may sue to enjoin the railroad company from removing, closing, or obstructing it,[45] or if the company has already done so it may be compelled to restore the same by mandamus,[46] or by a suit in equity,[47] or the landowner may sue for damages.[48] While the court may compel a railroad remedy must be enforced as the statute prescribes. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 109 Ill. App. 25.

But a remedy provided in case of statutory crossings does not affect the right of a landowner to sue for specific performance of an agreement as to the construction of crossings which is broader in its provisions than the requirements of the statute. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523.

In Massachusetts the statute authorizes a recovery of double the damages sustained by reason of the neglect of a railroad company to comply with an order of the county commissioners requiring the construction of crossings, etc., for the benefit of the owner of the land through which the road passes, but such action cannot be maintained unless the time within which the structures are to be made is prescribed in the order. Keith v. Cheshire R. Co., 1 Gray (Mass.) 614.

39. Swinney v. Chicago, 123 Iowa 219, 98 N. W. 635, holding that a statutory right to apply to the railroad commissioners for an order relative to the construction of a crossing does not preclude a remedy by mandamus without first making such application.

A statute authorizing the landowner to construct the crossing upon a failure of the railroad company to do so and recover therefor from the railroad company is a merely cumulative remedy. Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

40. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Pittman, 53 S. W. 1040, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1037; Reist v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 15 U. C. Q. B. 355. See also infra, VI, J, 1, h.

Plaintiff's conveyance of the fee in the land, retaining a life-estate after instituting the suit and without reserving any right to prosecute the same, does not affect his right to sue for damages for breach of a contract to construct crossings. Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043.

Character of crossing.— Where a railroad company fails to maintain a crossing of the character which it has contracted to maintain the landowner may sue for and recover damages. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Pittman, 64 S. W. 460, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 877.

41. Swinney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 123 Iowa 219, 98 N. W. 635.

42. Boggs v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 54 Iowa 435, 6 N. W. 744.

43. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523.

44. State v. Mason, etc., R. Co., 85 Iowa 516, 52 N. W. 490.

The order of the railroad commissioners must be reasonable or it will not be enforced by the court. State v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 99 Iowa 565, 68 N. W. 819.

45. Stone v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 75 Kan. 600, 90 Pac. 251; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wynkoop, 73 Kan. 590, 85 Pac. 595; Hamlin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 176 Mass. 514, 57 N. E. 1006; Lakenan v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. App. 363; Kraeer v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 218 Pa. St. 569, 67 Atl. 871; Hespenheide v. King, 30 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 171. See also Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Munsell, 192 Ill. 430, 61 N. E. 374.

A railroad company will not be enjoined from disturbing a passageway under the trestle work of its road where there is no evidence that at the time plaintiff's land was taken there was any agreement by defendant that it would give him a crossing at the point in question. Plaintiff must be left to his statutory remedy to compel defendant to construct a causeway. Griswold v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 3 Del. Co. (Pa.) 549.

46. State v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co., 123 Wis. 551, 102 N. W. 16.

47. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, 77 S. W. 693, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1307; Hamlin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 176 Mass. 514, 57 N. E. 1006; Marsh v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 215 Pa. St. 141, 64 Atl. 366.

48. Farwell v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 335, 56 Atl. 751; Dubbs v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 66, 23 Atl. 883. See also infra, VI, J, 1, h.

The temporary closing of a crossing by a tenant of the landowner is not sufficient to show an intent on the part of the landowner to abandon his right or to authorize the railroad company to close up the crossing. Farwell v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 335, 56 Atl. 751.

It is a practical destruction of a crossing, entitling the landowner to sue for damages, where the railroad company changes the grade of its road-bed so that the crossing cannot be used without the construction of approaches which will extend back upon plaintiff's land. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, 98 S. W. 1042, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 426.

company specifically to perform its duty with regard to the construction and maintenance of crossings,[49] and will do so where the conditions authorizing such a decree are present and other remedies are inadequate,[50] such a decree is ordinarily discretionary with the court and in many cases may properly be denied and plaintiff left to his action for damages,[51] whether the duty is imposed by statute,[52] or by agreement.[53] If a landowner is using a crossing which he has no right to use, the railroad company may sue to enjoin him from so doing,[54] or maintain an action of trespass for the wrongful entry upon its property.[55]

(II) Relative to Fences and Cattle-Guards. Where a railroad company fails to construct or maintain fences or cattle-guards as required by statute, the landowner may sue for damages;[56] but he is not limited to such remedy and may sue to compel the railroad company specifically to perform its duty,[57] and a performance of such duty may be enforced by mandamus,[58] or mandatory

Notice to railroad company of construction. — Under a statute giving a landowner a right of action for damages for the obstruction of a private way, and requiring the landowner to give notice of the obstruction to the railroad company, the notice need not, in the absence of any express requirement, point out the particulars and extent of the obstruction. Greenwood v. Wilton, etc., R. Co., 23 N. H. 261.

49. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, 77 S. W. 693, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1307.

Compelling performance by injunction. — Where a railroad company agrees with a landowner to construct a crossing upon the same level as an existing private way which will be crossed by the railroad, and is proceeding to construct it upon a different level, the company may be enjoined from constructing it at a different level or from interfering with the existing way except upon constructing a crossing of the character provided by the contract. Foster v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 2 Wkly. Rep. 378.

50. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Brubaker, 217 Ill. 462, 75 N. E. 523; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, 77 S. W. 693, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1307.

51. Goding v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 94 Me. 542, 48 Atl. 114; Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539]; Murdfeldt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 703, 7 N. E. 404; Clarke v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 350.

Specific performance will be denied where the crossing would be of little benefit to the landowner and its construction would impose a disproportionate burden upon the railroad company (Goding v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 94 Me. 542, 48 Atl. 114; Murdfeldt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 703, 7 N. E. 404; Clarke v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 350; Martin v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 19 Quebec Super. Ct. 561); or where a crossing constructed and located as agreed upon would, owing to the existing conditions, greatly endanger the safety of public travel on the railroad (Goding v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., supra); or when the landowner has never designated the place for the crossing which by the terms of the contract was a condition precedent (Johnson v. Ohio River R. Co., 61 W. Va. 141, 56 S. E. 200). So also if a railroad company has located the crossing at an improper place and it appears that the cost of constructing another crossing at a different place would exceed plaintiff's damages, due to the existing location, it will not be required to do so (Wademan v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 51 N. Y. 568); and where the railroad company changes the grade of its road under compulsion of an order of court, so that a grade crossing of the character agreed on cannot be provided, and the landowner refuses to accept a grade crossing at a different level with approaches, and insists upon an under crossing which would be much more expensive to construct, the court will not compel the construction of such a crossing but leave the landowner to his action for damages (Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539]).

52. Clarke v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 350.

53. Speer v. Erie R. Co., 68 N. J. Eq. 615, 60 Atl. 197 [reversing 64 N. J. Eq. 601, 54 Atl. 539]; Johnson v. Ohio River R. Co., 61 W. Va. 141, 56 S. E. 200.

A contract to construct crossings will not be enforced where the contract provided that the company should make such crossings as the landowner should within one month notify the company in writing to make, and the landowner did not give such notice within the time limited. Darnley v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 2 H. L. 43, 36 L. J. Ch. 404, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 217, 15 Wkly. Rep. 817.

54. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Comstock, 60 Conn. 200, 22 Atl. 511.

55. Connecticut, etc., R. Co. v. Holton, 32 Vt. 43.

56. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Billings, 77 Kan. 119, 93 Pac. 590; Gould v. Great Northern R. Co., 63 Minn. 37, 65 N. W. 125, 56 Am. St. Rep. 453, 30 L. R. A. 590.

57. Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230].

58. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 121 Ill. 483, 13 N. E. 236 [affirming 21 Ill. App. 23], holding that where the railroad company has constructed a fence, but not at the proper place, it may be compelled by mandamus to locate it properly.

injunction.[59] In some jurisdictions a failure to fence or construct cattle-guards is made the subject of a penalty,[60] or the landowner is authorized to construct them himself and recover from the railroad company.[61] Where the duty is imposed by contract the landowner may sue for damages for breach of the contract,[62] or in equity for specific performance thereof;[63] but ejectment is not a proper remedy where the landowner permits the railroad company to enter upon his land and construct its road without objection, and the agreement to fence is a condition subsequent and not precedent.[64] On breach of a contract to construct fences the landowner may recover as damages the reasonable cost of their construction without first constructing them;[65] and where there has been a breach of the contract and an action instituted, the railroad company cannot defeat plaintiff's right to recover by subsequently constructing the fences unless it is done with plaintiff's consent,[66] or he accepts what is done as a partial or complete discharge of the agreement.[67]

b. Parties, Pleading, and Trial. An action to compel a railroad company to construct crossings can only be maintained by a person who is entitled to the benefit of the statute,[68] and only those interested in the subject-matter of the litigation are necessary parties.[69] In an action for damages for failure to construct crossings the complaint must show such an estate or interest in plaintiff as imposes a duty to him on the part of defendant to construct them.[70] In an action to compel the construction of a fence required by statute it is not necessary for the complaint to negative any exceptions in the statute imposing such duty.[71] It is ordinarily a question of fact for the jury or the court trying the case without a jury whether under the circumstances of the particular case crossings which the railroad company has provided are suitable and sufficient,[72] properly located,[73] and of sufficient number,[74] or where the statute requires crossings for "necessary plantation roads," whether a particular road is necessary.[75] It is also a question

Where right is disputed.— Where on mandamus to compel a railroad company to install cattle-guards it is admitted that some of the cattle-guards in question are necessary, but it is contended that the others are not necessary, the writ will be made peremptory as to those admitted to be necessary and the suit dismissed as to the others, with leave to bring an ordinary suit. State v. Colorado Southern, etc., R. Co., 120 La. 9, 44 So. 905.

59. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Billings, 77 Kan. 119, 93 Pac. 590.

60. See infra, X, B, 7, a.

61. See infra, VI, E, 5.

62. Taylor v. Northern Pac. Coast R. Co., 56 Cal. 317; Longansport, etc., R. Co. v. Wray, 52 Ind. 578; Lawton v. Fitchburg R. Co., 8 Cush. (Mass.) 230, 54 Am. Dec. 753; Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265.

Measure of damages see infra, VI, E, 4, c.

63. Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265.

But specific performance will not be decreed where it would impose a hardship upon the railroad company without any corresponding benefit to the landowner. Johnson v. Ohio River R. Co., 61 W. Va. 141, 56 S. E. 200.

64. Baker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 265.

65. Taylor v. Northern Pac. Coast R. Co., 56 Cal. 317; Logansport, etc., R. Co. v. Wray, 52 Ind. 578.

66. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 112 Ind. 302, 14 N. E. 80; Lawton v. Fitchburg R. Co., 8 Cush. (Mass.) 230, 54 Am. Dec. 753.

67. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 112 Ind. 302, 14 N. E. 80.

68. Jones Fertilizing Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 2 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 511, 7 Ohio N. P. 245, holding that, under a statute providing that "a person owning" a certain amount of land in one tract through which a railroad passes may require crossings, a lessee cannot maintain the action.

69. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hobbie, 61 Ill. App. 396, holding that in a suit to compel performance of an agreement to construct a crossing, persons having an interest in the land at the time of the agreement, but who have quitclaimed all their interest to plaintiff, are not necessary parties.

70. Marsh v. Rutland R. Co., 80 Vt. 397, 67 Atl. 1098.

71. Steadd v. Southern R. Co., 109 Ky. 214, 58 S. W. 581, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 713.

72. Gray v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 37 Iowa 119; Ellworth v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 34 N. J. L. 93; Kendall v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 95 S. W. 757.

73. Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230]; Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121].

74. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 73 Miss. 34, 19 So. 202; Jones v. Seligman, 81 N. Y. 190 [affirming 16 Hun 230].

75. Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Odeneal, 73 Miss. 34, 19 So. 202.

of fact for the jury whether a cattle-guard constructed is reasonably sufficient to turn stock;[76] and, in an action for failure to maintain a fence which the railroad company has removed, if it is contended that the action is barred by the statute of limitations, but the evidence as to the time of removal is conflicting, this question should be submitted to the jury.[77]

c. Damages.[78] The measure of damages for breach of a contract on the part of a railroad company to construct fences, cattle-guards, or crossings is not the difference in the value of the land with or without such improvements,[79] but is what it would reasonably cost to construct the same.[80] Plaintiff is not, however, limited in his recovery to the cost of construction;[81] but he may also recover damages for the inconvenience which he has already sustained,[82] and special damages occasioned by the failure of the railroad company to construct or maintain the fences, etc., such as for injuries to stock, crops, or pastures.[83] The measure of damages for the necessary destruction of a crossing in changing the grade of the railroad tracks depends upon the character and use of the crossing.[84]

5. Construction by Landowner and Recovery From Railroad Company — a. In General. In some jurisdictions the statutes provide that if the railroad company fails or refuses to construct the fences required, the landowner may do so and recover therefor from the railroad company,[85] and there are similar provisions in regard to cattle-guards,[86] and farm crossings.[87] The statutes also authorize

76. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Goset, 70 Ark. 427, 68 S. W. 879.

77. Hunter v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 76 Iowa 490, 91 N. W. 305.

78. Damages for injuries generally see infra, VI, J, 2, g.

79. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lurton, 72 Ill. 118; Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043; Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 101 Pa. St. 555. But see Brown v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 131, holding that where a railroad company agrees, in consideration of a grant of a right of way, to construct a farm crossing, but fails to do so for the reason that it has constructed a public crossing which the landowner could use, the measure of damages for the breach of the agreement is the difference between the market value of the farm with a suitable farm crossing and its market value without any other farm crossing than that at the public crossing.

80. California.— Taylor v. Northern Pac. Coast R. Co., 56 Cal. 317.

Illinois.— St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lurton, 72 Ill. 118.

Indiana.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 119 Ind. 269, 21 N. E. 751; Logansport, etc., R. Co. v. Wray, 52 Ind. 578.

Kentucky.— Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043.

Massachusetts.— Lawton v. Fitchburg, etc., R. Co., 8 Cush. 230, 54 Am. Dec. 753.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 325.

Contract to build and maintain fence.— Where a railroad company agrees to build and maintain a fence through a farm and only builds the fence, the measure of damages in an action for breach of the agreement is the annual cost of keeping the fence in repair. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 101 Pa. St. 555.

81. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719.

82. Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Hudson, 88 Ky. 480, 11 S. W. 509, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 1043.

83. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ward, 16 Ill. 522; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Power, 119 Ind. 269, 21 N. E. 751; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes, 116 Ind. 126, 18 N. E. 459; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sumner, 106 Ind. 55, 5 N. E. 404, 55 Am. Rep. 719.

84. Speer v. Erie R. Co., (N. J. 1907) 65 Atl. 1024 [reversing 70 N. J. Eq. 318, 62 Atl. 943].

85. Illinois.— Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Sieberns, 63 Ill. 217.

Indiana.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Irons, 38 Ind. App. 196, 78 N. E. 207; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Croy, 33 Ind. App. 461, 71 N. E. 671; Midland R. Co. v. Gascho, 7 Ind. App. 407, 34 N. E. 643.

Kansas.— Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Youngstrom, 47 Kan. 349, 27 Pac. 982.

Missouri.— Fletcher v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 142.

Ohio.— Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Bosworth, 46 Ohio St. 81, 18 N. E. 533, 2 L. R. A. 199 [affirming 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 69, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 42]; Millhouse v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio Cir. Ct. 466, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 682.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 328.

Either the owner or occupant of the lands may, under the Illinois statute, construct fences upon a failure of the railroad company after notice to do so and recover therefor. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill. App. 513.

86. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201.

87. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 109 Ill. App. 25; Birlew v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 104 Mo. App. 561, 79 S. W. 490; Morris, etc. R. Co. v. Green, 15 N. J. Eq. 469.

Approaches to crossings.— Since it is the

the making of necessary repairs by the landowner,[88] and if the railroad company constructs a fence and it is not such as the law requires, the landowner may make it sufficient,[89] or if the railroad company undertakes to repair the fence and does not repair it properly, the landowner may make such further repairs as are necessary,[90] or if the fence is permitted to become so defective that it cannot be repaired the landowner may build a new fence and recover therefor.[91] The statutes in some cases authorize a recovery of double the value,[92] or the recovery of attorney's fees.[93] The landowner cannot recover compensation for any fencing which it was not the duty of the railroad company to provide,[94] as where his lands were not inclosed by a lawful fence and the statute only requires the company to fence its track in such cases; [95] and if the statute allows a certain period after the road is completed before any liability for failure to fence will attach, the landowner cannot fence and recover therefor before the expiration of this period.[96] So there can be no recovery under the statute for a fence constructed by the landowner where the cost of such fencing as the statute requires was included in his assessment of damages in the condemnation proceedings,[97] or the landowner agreed to construct them and received compensation therefor; [98] but a personal contract on the part of the landowner to construct fences will not prevent his grantee who takes without notice of the contract from fencing and recovering therefor from the railroad company.[99] The statutes authorizing the landowner to construct or repair fences or cattle-guards are ordinarily held to be merely permissive, affording a cumulative remedy, and not to affect his right to recover damages sustained by reason of the failure of the railroad company to construct or repair them,[1] and the same rule applies to similar statutes relating to farm crossings; [2] but in an action for damages sustained plaintiff cannot also recover the cost of future construction which at the time of the action he has not performed.[3]

b. Notice to Railroad Company. The statutes ordinarily require the land-duty of the railroad company to construct approaches to crossings the landowner, if he constructs them, may recover therefor as well as for the construction of the crossing. Birlew v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 104 Mo. App. 561, 79 S. W. 490.

88. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill. App. 144; Vandalia R. Co. v. Fetters, 40 Ind. App. 615, 82 N. E. 978; Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Salmon, 34 Ind. App. 564, 73 N. E. 268; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201.

The fact that the landowner's other fences are out of repair does not affect the duty of the railroad company to keep its fence along the right of way in repair or the right of the landowner to repair it and recover therefor upon failure of the railroad company after notice to do so. Vandalia R. Co. v. Fetters, 40 Ind. App. 615, 82 N. E. 978.

89. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill. App. 144; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Croy, 33 Ind. App. 461, 71 N. E. 671.

90. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Irons, 38 Ind. App. 196, 78 N. E. 207.

91. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Erdel, 163 Ind. 348, 71 N. E. 960; Vandalia R. Co. v. Seltenright, 40 Ind. App. 659, 82 N. E. 980; Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Salmon, 34 Ind. App. 564, 73 N. E. 268.

92. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill. App. 144.

93. Vandalia R. Co. v. Stephens, 39 Ind. App. 11, 78 N. E. 1055; Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Salisbury, 38 Ind. App. 100, 77 N. E. 1097.

Proof that plaintiff employed an attorney is not essential to authorize the allowance of an attorney's fee. If his complaint was signed by an attorney, who represented him in the subsequent proceedings, it is sufficient. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Salisbury, 38 Ind. App. 100, 77 N. E. 1097.

94. Welles v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 620, 25 Atl. 51.

95. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Youngstrom, 47 Kan. 349, 27 Pac. 982.

96. McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14.

97. Welles v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 150 Pa. St. 620, 25 Atl. 51.

98. Warner v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 31 Ohio St. 265.

99. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Bosworth, 46 Ohio St. 81, 18 N. E. 533, 2 L. R. A. 199 [affirming 1 Ohio Cir. Ct. 69, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 42].

1. Buttles v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 43 Mo. App. 280; San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Knoepfli, 82 Tex. 270, 17 S. W. 1052; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201. But see Millhouse v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio Cir. Ct. 466, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 682.

2. Sheridan v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 56 Mo. App. 68; Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

3. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 109 Ill. App. 125.

owner before proceeding to construct or repair fences or cattle-guards to give a certain notice to the railroad company,[4] and a compliance with this requirement is essential to a recovery;[5] but if the landowner has given notice of an intention to repair fences and it is found that they are too defective to be repaired, he may proceed to construct new ones.[6] If the statute does not provide within what time after notice the landowner shall construct or repair the fence, a delay, if not prejudicial to the rights of the railroad company, will not affect his right to recover.[7] In Indiana the statute further requires that after the construction or repairs the landowner shall furnish the railroad company an itemized statement of the expense a certain number of days before suit.[8]

c. Character and Location of Work Done by Landowner. Where a landowner constructs a fence upon failure of the railroad company to do so he must, in order to recover therefor, construct such a fence as the railroad company is required to construct;[9] but he is not obliged to construct the cheapest kind of fence which will satisfy the requirement.[10] So also he need not fence both sides of the track, although the railroad company is required to do so,[11] or build the

4. Malott v. Mapes, 111 Ill. App. 340; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abbott, 10 Ind. App. 99, 37 N. E. 557; Pitman v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 104 S. W. 693, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 988.

Under the Missouri statute it is not necessary to give notice of the landowner's intention to build a fence where the railroad company has failed to do so, but only in the case of repairs. McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14.

Form, contents, and sufficiency of notice.— The notice should show on its face the right of the person giving it to have the railroad company build the fences, but where the evidence shows that it was given by the owner of the land it will be held sufficient. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill. App. 513. If the statute requires the notice to "describe the lands" on which the fence is to be built, but does not prescribe any particular form of description, it is sufficient if it clearly indicates to the railroad company the land intended. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill. App. 144. The Indiana statute requires that a notice for repairs must state the probable cost but contains no such requirement in regard to the construction of a fence, and where a fence is so defective that a new one must be built the notice need not state the probable cost. Vandalia R. Co. v. Kanarr, 38 Ind. App. 146, 77 N. E. 1135. Where the statute provides that the company shall construct the fence within a certain time after notice, the notice need not demand that it be constructed within this time. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill. App. 513. A notice addressed to the railroad company by its initials instead of hy its full name is sufficient (Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, supra); and a mistake in the name of the railroad company in the notice is immaterial if it is of such a character that the company would not be misled and the notice is served upon the proper agent of the company (Vandalia R. Co. v. Kanarr, 38 Ind. App. 146, 77 N. E. 1135). A notice in regard to the construction of farm crossings should specify with reasonable certainty what crossings are required. Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

Service of notice.— One is a station agent within the statute providing for service of notice to build fences who sells tickets for the railroad company on commission, regardless of whether trains stop regularly at such station or the amount of business transacted there, where the company has advertised to the public that it would receive passengers at such station and that tickets should be purchased of such person. Malott v. Mapes, 111 Ill. App. 340.

5. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abbott, 10 Ind. App. 99, 37 N. E. 557; Pitman v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 104 S. W. 693, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 988.

6. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Erdel, 163 Ind. 348, 71 N. E. 960; Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Salmon, 34 Ind. App. 564, 73 N. E. 268.

7. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Earhart, 35 Ind. App. 56, 73 N. E. 711, holding that a delay of two years when in no way detrimental to the rights of the railroad company will not affect the right to recover.

8. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Croy, 33 Ind. App. 461, 71 N. E. 671.

9. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill. App. 513; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 50 Nebr. 640, 70 N. W. 261.

The fact that the railroad company has built similar fences at other places to the one built by the landowner will not entitle him to recover if such a fence is not of the character that the railroad company is required to build. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 50 Nebr. 640, 70 N. W. 261.

10. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Salisbury, 38 Ind. App. 100, 77 N. E. 1097, holding that while the landowner could not construct and recover for a fence that was unreasonably expensive he may recover the cost of a woven wire fence, although a barbed wire fence would have satisfied the requirement of the statute and been somewhat less expensive.

11. Fletcher v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 142, holding that while the landowner could not recover for constructing an incomplete portion of a fence on either one or both sides of the railroad, he may recover if he fences the entire length of the track through entire fence which he has notified the company to build, before he can recover for the part completed.[12] The landowner in order to recover must also locate the fence where the railroad company is required to locate it,[13] which, if the statute requires the company to fence on the sides of the road, means along the dividing line between the right of way and adjacent lands,[14] and independently of such a requirement it seems that the landowner would have no right to set the fence back upon the right of way so as to deprive the railroad company of any part thereof.[15] If, however, the railroad company itself voluntarily locates the fence away from this line upon its right of way and fails to keep it in repair, the landowner may repair it where located and recover therefor.[16]

d. Actions For Recovery. The statutes authorizing a construction by the landowner and a recovery from the railroad company are ordinarily of a penal character, and plaintiff must bring himself clearly within their provisions.[17] The complaint must allege every fact essential to a recovery,[18] and so must allege that the road was not properly fenced at the time the notice was given,[19] that it had been constructed for such length of time as to make it the duty of the railroad company to fence,[20] that a proper notice to the railroad company was given,[21] and that the landowner constructed a fence of such character and at such place his lands on one side so as to protect the same without fencing on the other side of the track.

12. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Sieberns, 63 Ill. 217, holding that the landowner may sue for and recover the value of any considerable portion of the fence completed by him before building the entire fence which he has notified the company to build.

13. Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Zeigler, 108 Ill. 304; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 32 Ind. App. 425, 70 N. E. 173.

A slight mislocation of only six or eight inches within the limits of the right of way, on reconstructing a fence which has been allowed to go to decay, while not concluding the railroad company as a boundary line, will not defeat the landowner's right to recover the cost of constructing the fence. Vandalia R. Co. v. Seltenright, 40 Ind. App. 659, 82 N. E. 980.

14. Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Zeigler, 108 Ill. 304; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 32 Ind. App. 425, 70 N. E. 173; McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14.

Explanation of rule.— The rule that the fence must be constructed along the dividing line between the right of way and adjacent lands does not mean that it cannot be set entirely upon the right of way, but it does require that it shall be substantially along the dividing line. Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Zeigler, 108 Ill. 304; McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14. But see Marshall v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 51 Mo. 138.

15. See Vandalia R. Co. v. Stephens, 39 Ind. App. 11, 78 N. E. 1055.

16. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill. App. 144.

17. Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Zeigler, 108 Ill. 304; Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill. App. 513; McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14. But see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodard, 13 Ind. App. 296, 41 N. E. 544.

18. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 32 Ind. App. 425, 70 N. E. 173; Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Lannert, 1 Ind. App. 102, 27 N. E. 324.

Under the Kentucky statute the complaint must allege that the notice required by statute was given to the railroad company and that the abutting land was improved or inclosed, or if unimproved and uninclosed that it had been previously inclosed on three sides with sufficient fences, or with fences and natural barriers which will prevent the egress of stock. Pitman v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 104 S. W. 693, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 988.

19. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Lannert, 1 Ind. App. 102, 27 N. E. 324.

Allegation sufficient.— An allegation that the road was not fenced when the act requiring railroad companies to fence their tracks was passed, and that after the act was passed defendant failed to fence its track, sufficiently shows that the road was not fenced at the time notice was served upon the company. Midland R. Co. v. Gascho, 7 Ind. App. 407, 34 N. E. 643.

20. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Lannert, 1 Ind. App. 102, 27 N. E. 324.

Allegation sufficient.— Where the complaint alleges that defendant has owned and operated its line of railroad through the county in which the land is situated for several years past, it sufficiently shows the completion of the road more than twelve months prior to the service of the notice as required by the statute. Midland R. Co. v. Gascho, 7 Ind. App. 407, 34 N. E. 643.

21. Midland R. Co. v. Gascho, 7 Ind. App. 407, 34 N. E. 643 (holding, however, that a complaint which alleges that plaintiffs gave written notice to defendant of their intention to fence is sufficient on demurrer, under a statute providing that such notice shall be served on "the nearest freight receiving and shipping agent employed by the company or person controlling and operating said railroad"); Pitman v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 104 S. W. 693, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 988.

as the law requires,[22] stating its cost,[23] and where such fact is material the date of its completion.[24] It is not necessary, however, where the statute excepts certain places from the duty of fencing to negative such exceptions in the complaint,[25] nor is it necessary to file with or embody in the complaint the notice to the railroad company,[26] or the itemized statement of the landowner's expenses which the statute requires to be furnished to the railroad company.[27] Plaintiff must also upon the trial establish by proof every fact essential to a recovery,[28] and must therefore show that the road had been completed for such time as to make it the duty of the railroad company to fence at the time the notice was given,[29] that his lands were inclosed by a lawful fence where the statute only requires the company to fence its tracks in such cases,[30] that a proper notice to the railroad company was given,[31] and that plaintiff constructed such a fence at such place as the law required.[32] Plaintiff's ownership of the land is sufficiently shown by proof that he and his grantees had been in possession for many years claiming to own it, without producing the title papers, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary.[33] Where the statute allows a recovery of the value or double the value of the fence or repairs, the reasonable value and not the actual cost is the basis of calculation for the amount recoverable.[34]

F. Waters and Watercourses — 1. Right to Construct Railroad Over or Near Waters and Watercourses.[35] While legislative authority is necessary,[36] the legislature may, subject to the paramount authority of the federal government,[37] authorize a railroad company to construct its road and build bridges across navigable waters,[38] or along navigable waters below high-water mark,[39] or upon lands under water,[40] or across a canal,[41] and such authority need not be express,[42] but may be implied, where such location is reasonably necessary from 22. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill. App. 513; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 32 Ind. App. 425, 70 N. E. 173.

23. Indiana, etc., R. Co. v. Sampson, 31 Ill. App. 513.

24. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Huffman, 32 Ind. App. 425, 70 N. E. 173.

25. Midland R. Co. v. Gascho, 7 Ind. App. 407, 34 N. E. 643. Compare Vandalia R. Co. v. Shadle, 40 Ind. App. 682, 82 N. E. 990, holding, however, that if the action is not to recover the cost of original fencing but merely to recover the cost of repairing a fence already constructed by the railroad company, the complaint need not negative the exceptions contained in the statute.

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 8 Ind. App. 188, 35 N. E. 290.

27. Vandalia R. Co. v. Fetters, 40 Ind. App. 615, 82 N. E. 978; Vandalia R. Co. v. Kanarr, 38 Ind. App. 146, 77 N. E. 1135.

28. McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14.

29. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abbott, 10 Ind. App. 99, 37 N. E. 557; McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14.

30. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Youngstrom, 47 Kan. 349, 27 Pac. 982.

31. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Abbott, 10 Ind. App. 99, 37 N. E. 557, holding that the fact that a copy of the notice is made a part of the complaint is not sufficient evidence that it was given to the railroad company.

Evidence sufficient.— In the absence of any evidence to the contrary, plaintiff's testimony that he served the notice in writing of his intention to construct a fence, on one of defendant's agents, whose name he did not remember, but who claimed to be defendant's agent, at the place of service, is sufficient to support a finding that a proper notice was given. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Woodard, 13 Ind. App. 296, 41 N. E. 544.

32. McNear v. Wabash R. Co., 42 Mo. App. 14.

33. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 65 Ill. App. 101.

34. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 65 Ill. App. 101; Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Deutsch, 60 Ill. App. 144.

The cost is evidence of the value but not conclusive. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 65 Ill. App. 101.

35. Use of water by railroad company see Waters.

36. Dundalk, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 97 Md. 177, 54 Atl. 628. See also, generally, Navigable Waters, 29 Cyc. 312.

37. See Hamilton v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 34 La. Ann. 970, 44 Am. Rep. 451.

38. Hamilton v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 34 La. Ann. 970, 44 Am. Rep. 451; Pedrick v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 485, 55 S. E. 877, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 554.

Location of crossing.— A railroad company authorized by its charter to cross a river "above or near" a certain town is not required to cross above the town. Pedrick v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 485, 55 S. E. 877, 10 L. R. A. 554.

39. See Navigable Waters, 29 Cyc. 363.

40. Kerr v. West Shore R. Co., 127 N. Y. 269, 27 N. E. 833.

41. Tuckahoe Canal Co. v. Tuckahoe, etc., R. Co., 11 Leigh (Va.) 42, 36 Am. Dec. 374.

42. Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221.

authority to construct a road between certain termini.[43] A railroad bridge which obstructs navigation is a public nuisance, particularly if constructed without legislative authority;[44] but the construction of a permanent railroad bridge without draws across non-navigable waters is not a public nuisance.[45]

2. Construction and Maintenance.[46] A railroad or railroad bridge across navigable waters must be so constructed as not to interfere with navigation.[47] In crossing streams and watercourses the railroad company must construct its road so as not to obstruct the flow of water,[48] and must construct its bridges and culverts with sufficient openings and in such manner as properly to permit the passage of the water and prevent injury to riparian owners,[49] taking into consideration the nature of the country,[50] and making provision for the amount of water at all seasons,[51] and under conditions of storm and flood which are likely to occur,[52] and for the passage of floating ice which may reasonably be expected,[53] and must subsequently maintain the same in proper condition and repair.[54] The railroad company has no right to divert a stream so as to discharge the water upon the lands of another at a different place,[55] or so as wrongfully to deprive one entitled

43. Louisiana.— Hamilton v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 34 La. Ann. 970, 44 Am. Rep. 451.

Massachusetts.— Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen 221.

North Carolina.— Pedrick v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 485, 55 S. E. 877, 10 L. R. A. N. S. 554.

Virginia.— Tuckahoe Canal Co. v. Tuckahoe, etc., R. Co., 11 Leigh 42, 36 Am. Dec. 374.

Wisconsin.— Miller v. Prairie du Chien, etc., R. Co., 34 Wis. 533.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 333.

44. See Navigable Waters, 29 Cyc. 312.

45. Joliet, etc., R. Co. v. Healy, 94 Ill. 416, holding that the Healy slough which empties into the south branch of the Chicago river is not a navigable stream, and the erection of a permanent railroad bridge across it is not a public nuisance.

46. Liability for injuries from construction or maintenance over or near waters and watercourses see infra, VI, J, 1, f.

Flooding lands as ground for compensation in condemnation proceedings see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 707.

47. See Navigable Waters, 29 Cyc. 312 et seq.

48. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269; Kirk v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 667, 25 So. 457; International, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 97 S. W. 1081.

49. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carpenter, 125 Ill. App. 306.

Massachusetts.— Bryant v. Bigelow Carpet Co., 131 Mass. 491.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Nebr. 456, 87 N. W. 167.

Vermont.— Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49.

West Virginia.— Neal v. Ohio River R. Co., 47 W. Va. 316, 34 S. E. 914.

England.—Manser v. Northern, etc., R. Co., 5 Jur. 983, 2 R. & Can. Cas. 380; Coates v. Clarence R. Co., 8 L. J. Ch. O. S. 72, 1 Russ. & M. 181, 5 Eng. Ch. 181, 39 Eng. Reprint 70.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 334. See also, generally, Bridges, 5 Cyc. 1091, 1092.

Construction of piers for bridge.—The right of a railroad company to build a bridge across a stream includes the right to place necessary piers on its banks and in the bed, and there is no liability for the proper exercise of this right, although there may be where a special injury results from its negligent exercise (Braine v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 218 Pa. St. 43, 66 Atl. 985); and so a railroad company having power by its charter to cross a river, the property of a waterworks company, by the erection of a viaduct, the viaduct may be constructed of more than one arch built on piles driven into the bed of the river and need not cross the stream by a single span or arch (Birmingham Waterworks v. London, etc., R. Co., 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 398).

50. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269.

51. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269.

52. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269; Neal v. Ohio River Co., 49 W. Va. 316, 34 S. E. 914.

53. McGlenneghan v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 25 Nebr. 523, 41 N. W. 350, 13 Am. St. Rep. 508.

54. West v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 8 Bush (Ky.) 404; Kirk v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 667, 25 So. 457; Bryant v. Bigelow Carpet Co., 131 Mass. 491.

A prescriptive right to maintain a culvert at the place and of the size as originally constructed does not include the right to maintain it as it was after it sank into the watercourse over which it was constructed so as to obstruct the flow of water. Corwin v. Erie R. Co., 84 N. Y. App. Div. 555, 82 N. Y. Suppl. 753 [affirmed in 178 N. Y. 590, 70 N. E. 1097].

55. George v. Wabash Western R. Co., 40 Mo. App. 433; Wright v. Syracuse, etc., R.

thereto of the use of the water of the stream,[56] and if any diversion is necessary on account of cuts or fills a suitable new channel must be constructed and maintained,[57] and if a temporary diversion is necessary during the process of construction the company must afterward restore the stream to its old channel.[58] The matter of diverting a stream may, however, be regulated by contract between the railroad company and the landowner.[59] In some cases the statutes expressly prohibit the construction of a solid embankment across a watercourse,[60] or provide that where a railroad company constructs its road along or across a stream it must do so in such manner as not to interfere with the free use thereof, and so as to afford security for life and property,[61] or that it shall restore the stream to its former state or such as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness;[62] and these provisions impose a continuing obligation,[63] and apply to non-navigable as well as navigable streams,[64] but not to drainage ditches.[65] With regard to surface waters railroad companies are, in the absence of statute, governed by the Co., 49 Hun (N. Y.) 445, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 480 [affirmed in 124 N. Y. 668, 27 N. E. 854].

56. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 46 Kan. 701, 27 Pac. 182, 26 Am. St. Rep. 165; Garwood v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 83 N. Y. 400, 38 Am. Rep. 452 [affirming 17 Hun 356]; Cott v. Lewiston R. Co., 36 N. Y. 214, 1 Transcr. App. 26, 34 How. Pr. 222; Clark v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 145 Pa. St. 438, 22 Atl. 989, 27 Am. St. Rep. 710.

Diversion of water for use of engines see WATERS.

57. Cott v. Lewiston R. Co., 36 N. Y. 214, 1 Transcr. App. 26, 34 How. Pr. 222.

58. Lefurgy v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. Suppl. 302.

59. Harrelson v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 151 Mo. 482, 52 S. W. 368, holding that where the landowner agreed with a railroad company for the diversion of a stream and the location of a trestle under which it would pass at a certain point, neither he nor those claiming under him could afterward compel the railroad company to change its location, although the natural elements had wrought such changes as to make a change in the location of the trestle desirable.

Supply of water — duration of duty. A clause in an agreement by a railroad company binding the company to procure a supply of water as good as that cut off by the construction of the road from the lands of the vendor only binds the company to do once for all that which may reasonably be expected to insure a sufficient supply of water, and does not bind it to do whatever may be necessary from time to time to secure that result. Re Gray, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 567.

60. Kenney v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo. App. 301, holding that where the evidence upon the question is conflicting, it is error for the court to assume that a slough across which defendant has constructed an embankment is a watercourse, since if not a watercourse the company will not be liable under the statute.

61. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269; Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Ind. App. 294, 77 N. E. 57, 1055.

The "life and property," the security for which is to be provided for under the Indiana statute, are not those of the railroad company, but those connected with the stream crossed. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269.

62. Illinois.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524.

Indiana.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269; Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Ind. App. 294, 77 N. E. 57, 1055.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 46 Kan. 701, 27 Pac. 182, 26 Am. St. Rep. 165.

Missouri.— Abbott v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 83 Mo. 271, 53 Am. Rep. 581.

New York.— Cott v. Lewiston R. Co., 36 N. Y. 214, 1 Transcr. App. 26, 34 How. Pr. 222.

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, (Civ. App. 1906) 97 S. W. 1081.

Vermont.— Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 334.

In constructing a bridge it is the duty of the railroad company under such a statute to do so in such manner as not to obstruct the flow of water and cause it to overflow adjacent lands and subsequently to keep the bridge in such condition. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524.

As applied to navigable streams, the requirement is designed to protect the rights of the public in navigation. Kerr v. West Shore R. Co., 127 N. Y. 269, 27 N. E. 833.

63. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524; Cott v. Lewiston R. Co., 36 N. Y. 214, 1 Transcr. App. (N. Y.) 26, 34 How. Pr. 222.

64. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524; Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Ind. App. 294, 77 N. E. 57, 1055.

65. New Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Tutt, 168 Ind. 205, 80 N. E. 420, holding that a drainage ditch not fed by any spring or watercourse and used and constructed solely for surface drainage is not a "stream of water" same principles as are applicable to private owners;[66] but the rule as to surface waters varies under the civil and common law, and the decisions in the different states are not uniform.[67] In some cases railroad companies are expressly required by statute to construct culverts or sluices for drainage purposes,[68] or to construct drainage ditches along the sides of the road-bed,[69] and the duty of constructing or "watercourse" which the railroad company is obliged to restore to its former state.

66. Chorham v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 3 Pennew. (Del.) 407, 54 Atl. 687; New Jersey, etc., R. Co. v. Tutt, 168 Ind. 205, 80 N. E. 420; Egener v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. App. Div. 157, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 319; Jenkins v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 110 N. C. 438, 15 S. E. 193.

The duty of a railroad company as a common carrier, with respect to the safety and protection of passengers and freight, does not affect or vary the duty which it owes to others in common with private persons in regard to surface waters. Chorham v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 3 Pennew. (Del.) 407, 54 Atl. 687.

67. Egener v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. App. Div. 157, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 319; Joliffe v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., (Va. 1894) 20 S. E. 781.

Obstruction, diversion, or flowage generally see WATERS.

A watercourse is not within the application of the common-law rule as to surface waters and cannot be obstructed by a railroad company. Neal v. Ohio River R. Co., 47 W. Va. 316, 34 S. E. 914.

68. Kankakee, etc., R. Co. v. Horan, 23 Ill. App. 259; Austin, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 79 Tex. 427, 15 S. W. 484, 23 Am. St. Rep. 350; International, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 97 S. W. 1081; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Selman, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 89 S. W. 1101.

In Texas the statute requires that a railroad company in constructing its road-bed must first construct "the necessary culverts or sluices as the natural lay of the land requires for the necessary drainage thereof" (Austin, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 79 Tex. 427, 15 S. W. 484, 23 Am. St. Rep. 350; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Helsley, 62 Tex. 593); and under this statute the company must construct its culverts so as not to divert the natural flow of surface waters from its usual course to the injury of adjoining landowners (Austin, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, supra); and must subsequently maintain such culverts and sluices in proper condition (International, etc., R. Co. v. Glover, (Civ. App. 1904) 84 S. W. 604). The railroad company should take into consideration not only the conditions existing when the road is constructed but such changes and conditions as it could have foreseen, such as that adjoining land would be changed from timber land into cultivated fields (St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Robbins, (Civ. App. 1905) 89 S. W. 1099); and where the culverts become insufficient after construction of the railroad through change of condition by the land being cleared and cultivated, the company must make them sufficient, but the rule is otherwise where the conditions are changed by ditches, embankments, or other obstructions made by third persons (St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Jenkins, (Civ. App. 1905) 89 S. W. 1106); and the duty of the railroad company under this statute cannot be delegated to another so as to absolve it from liability (Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Barry, (Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. 634). The statute applies to the construction of switch tracks (Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Barr, 44 Tex. Civ. App. 571, 99 S. W. 437); and has reference to water overflowing from a stream as well as ordinary surface waters (Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce, 43 Tex. Civ. App. 387, 95 S. W. 1133); but was not intended to compel companies to keep excavations along the right of way free from accumulation of water, but only to prevent the road from interfering with the natural drainage of the land (Dobbins v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 91 Tex. 60, 41 S. W. 62, 66 Am. St. Rep. 856, 38 L. R. A. 573).

69. Cox v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 174 Mo. 588, 74 S. W. 854.

In Missouri the statute provides that railroad companies shall construct and maintain "suitable ditches and drains" along each side of the road-bed of such railroad to connect with ditches, drains, or watercourses so as to afford sufficient outlet to drain and carry off the water along such railroad whenever the draining of such water has been obstructed or rendered necessary by the construction of such railroad (Cox v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 174 Mo. 588, 74 S. W. 854); and the statute has reference to surface waters caused by overflow as well as those caused by rains and snow (Cox v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., supra); but the statute does not require the construction in any case of ditches or drains in or through the road-bed (Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 21 Mo. App. 600); and does not require the construction of such lateral ditches and drains unless there are other ditches, drains, or watercourses with which they can connect (Graves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo. App. 574; Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra); or apply to a railroad constructed along a city street (Jackson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 41 Fed. 656).

The Ohio statute (Rev. St. § 3342), requiring railroad companies to construct and keep open ditches sufficient to conduct to some proper outlet the water which accumulates along the sides of the road-bed from the construction or operation of the road, is valid in so far as the accumulation of water is injurious to the contiguous lands or detrimental to the public, but invalid where such water is not injurious to such culverts in embankments may be imposed by contract between the railroad company and the landowner.[70] A railroad company has no right to divert and collect surface waters and discharge the same in large quantities upon the lands of another;[71] and on the other hand it is not obliged to keep open ditches outside of its right of way upon the land of another,[72] or to construct ditches for the purpose of draining adjacent lands.[73] A railroad company may after the construction of its road-bed make changes therein which may be found to be proper, but must do so with due regard to the rights of others.[74]

3. Wharves, Docks, and Access to Waters. Where a railroad company has in good faith located its road within the limits authorized by its charter, the fact that it may be constructed upon or so as to injure a wharf does not entitle the owner to equitable relief against such construction.[75] A statutory requirement that a railroad company shall restore a stream to its former state or so as not to impair its usefulness does not require it to construct a draw in its road, where constructed across a non-navigable bay of a river, so as to afford access to a private wharf,[76] and a charter requirement that a railroad company shall construct drawbridges for the passage of vessels and boats, where it crosses bays, applies only to those which are generally navigable.[77] In some cases, however, railroad companies are required by statutory or charter provisions to extend docks which are cut off by the construction of a railroad,[78] or to construct new docks in the place of those injured,[79] or to construct roads or passes over or under the road to afford adjacent landowners access to the water.[80]

4. Companies Affected by Statutory Regulations. A statutory provision requiring railroad companies to restore streams to their former state or so as not lands or the public. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Keith, 67 Ohio St. 279, 65 N. E. 1020, 60 L. R. A. 525.

70. Hill v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 10 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 506, holding, however, that specific performance of a contract to construct culverts will not be decreed against a purchasing company where it purchases without knowledge of the contract and no notice thereof was given by the landowner, and the cost of constructing them after the completion of the railroad would impose a great hardship upon such company.

71. Chorman v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 3 Pennew. (Del.) 407, 54 Atl. 687; Curtis v. Eastern R. Co., 98 Mass. 428.

72. Joliffe v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., (Va. 1894) 20 S. E. 781.

73. Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614.

But if a landowner gives a railroad company permission to construct a ditch upon his land and the company does not complete the ditch but leaves it so that its only effect is to carry off water from the railroad to plaintiff's land and leave it without any outlet, he may recover damages for the resulting injury. Utter v. Great Western R. Co., 17 U. C. Q. B. 392.

74. George v. Wabash Western R. Co., 40 Mo. App. 433, holding that in making such changes the railroad company has no right to divert a stream so as to flood the lands of another.

75. Fall River Iron Works Co. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 221.

76. Kerr v. West Shore R. Co., 127 N. Y. 269, 27 N. E. 833.

77. Getty v. Hudson River R. Co., 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 617, holding that a private landowner on a bay which is not generally navigable cannot compel a railroad company to construct a draw opposite his property.

78. Tillotson v. Hudson River R. Co., 9 N. Y. 575 [affirming 15 Barb. 406], holding that a charter provision requiring a railroad company to build draws in all bridges across the mouths of bays and inlets, and to extend all wharves the road may cut off, does not oblige the company to extend wharves within bays and creeks whose communication is provided for by draws, but applies only to those whose communication is cut off without a draw.

79. Bell v. Hull, etc., R. Co., 9 L. J. Exch. 213, 6 M. & W. 699, 2 R. & Can. Cas. 279, holding that under a statute requiring a railroad company to construct a new wharf in lieu of one "so much injured as to be impassable or inconvenient" for landing or shipping, the statute is not limited to cases of actual injury to the wharf itself but applies where the railroad is so constructed that access to the wharf is rendered inconvenient and dangerous.

80. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 168 N. Y. 187, 61 N. E. 172 [reversing 61 N. Y. App. Div. 494, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 684], holding that under a charter provision requiring a railroad company to construct roads or passes over or under its road to afford access to a river, the duty depends upon the present conditions, and not those existing at the time of the construction of the road, and that if by reason of changed conditions the number of openings originally constructed is no longer necessary, the company may close up such as are not needed.

unnecessarily to have impaired their usefulness imposes a continuing obligation which is binding upon a purchasing company,[81] or consolidated company of which the company constructing the road is a constituent;[82] and a statute requiring every railroad company "operating" any railroad to construct ditches applies to a company taking charge of a road under a license from the owner.[83] The Illinois statute requiring railroad companies to keep in repair culverts sufficient for the free passage of water in watercourses crossed by the road applies only to roads constructed after the act went into effect.[84]

G. Maintenance and Repair.[85] Since it is the duty of a railroad company which has constructed a railroad to operate the same,[86] it is also its duty to maintain the road in such condition and repair as properly to perform its duties to the public,[87] and in some cases railroad commissioners are invested with authority to determine the necessity for and character of such repairs.[88] A railroad company may be compelled by mandamus to repair its road,[89] or to replace a portion of its track which it has wrongfully taken up;[90] but where it appears that the railroad company has not the necessary funds or credit to enable it to make the repairs needed, and that the road cannot be operated except at a loss, mandamus to compel the making of such repairs will not be granted,[91] for while the financial condition of the company does not exonerate it from the performance of its public duties, yet if it is wholly unable to perform such duties a proceeding in the nature of quo warranto and not mandamus is the proper remedy.[92] A railroad company for the purpose of making necessary repairs may dig up and temporarily disturb the surface of a street within the limits of its location.[93] It is also the duty of a railroad company to exercise ordinary care in guarding against probable obstructions of its track from causes not located upon its own right of way,[94] and it may

81. Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Ind. App. 294, 77 N. E. 57, 1055; Lefurgy v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. Suppl. 302.

82. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524.

83. Graves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo. App. 574.

84. Wabash R. Co. v. Sanders, 47 Ill. App. 436.

85. As affecting liability for injuries: To persons on or near track see infra, X, E, 2, a, (v). At crossings see infra, X, F, 3. To animals see infra, X, H, 3, c. By fire see infra, X, I, 2, 3.

Repair of highway crossings see supra, VI, D, 3, c.

86. See infra, X, A.

87. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. 200, 11 N. E. 347; People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 11 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 136, 19 How. Pr. 523 [affirmed in 37 Barb. 216 (affirmed in 24 N. Y. 261)].

88. State v. Kansas Cent. R. Co., 47 Kan. 497, 28 Pac. 208, holding, however, that under the Kansas statute providing that whenever in the judgment of the railroad commissioners any repairs on a railroad are demanded for the security, etc., of the public, they shall inform the railroad company of the improvements and changes which they adjudge to be necessary, the findings and recommendations of the commissioners are advisory and not conclusive in mandamus proceedings to compel the company to make such repairs.

Necessity for notice or order of railroad commissioners.— The notice required by the Kentucky statute of 1893, to be given by the railroad commissioners to rebuild or repair depots when in their opinion it becomes necessary, is specially applicable to cases where a depot has been burned or has become unfit for the accommodation of the public, and a notice or order from the commissioners is not essential, before the company can be required to comply with the statute as to furnishing certain conveniences at depots and keeping the same in proper condition and repair. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 91 Ky. 207, 30 S. W. 616, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 116.

89. People v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 11 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 136, 19 How. Pr. 523 [affirmed in 37 Barb. 216 (affirmed in 24 N. Y. 261)].

90. Rex v. Severn, etc., R. Co., 2 B. & Ald. 646, 21 Rev. Rep. 433.

91. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. 200, 11 N. E. 347; State v. Dodge City, etc., R. Co., 53 Kan. 329, 36 Pac. 755, 24 L. R. A. 564.

92. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. People, 120 Ill. 200, 11 N. E. 347.

93. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Cambridge, 186 Mass. 249, 71 N. E. 557, holding further that a city ordinance forbidding the digging up of any street or otherwise obstructing it without first obtaining a written license from the superintendent of streets will not be construed as applying to a railroad company in making necessary repairs within the limits of its location at a street crossing.

94. Filbin v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 91 Ky. 444, 16 S. W. 92, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 14, holding, however, that the railroad company is only required to exercise ordinary care in this respect, and is not liable for an injury due to a tree being blown upon the track by maintain a suit in equity for their removal from adjacent lands if of such a character as to constitute a source of danger.[95]

H. Contracts For Construction or Repair — 1. In General. A railroad company having authority to construct a railroad and having acquired its right of way [96] may contract with another person for the construction of the road or a portion thereof,[97] or for the making of subsequent repairs,[98] and may do so without retaining any right of supervision or control over the contractor as to the manner of doing the work;[99] and persons dealing with independent contractors are bound at their peril to know the capacity in which the latter are acting and their relations with the railroad company.[1] A railroad company has no right to enter into a contract to aid in the construction of the road of another company in another state.[2] A construction contract, although made with one assuming to represent the railroad company, but without proper authority for making such contract, may become binding upon the railroad company by subsequent ratification,[3] and the railroad company may be liable upon a contract which is ultra vires where it has been fully performed in good faith by the other party and the railroad company has had the full benefit of the performance of the contract.[4] So also where a construction contract is set aside in equity as ultra vires the company may be required to account for the benefits which it has received from a part performance.[5]

2. Construction and Operation of Contract. The construction and operation of railroad construction contracts, in the absence of any special statutory provision relating thereto, is governed by the rules relating to contracts generally,[6] a storm, where it was at such a distance from the track that it was not reasonable to suppose that it would fall across it.

95. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 100 Ky. 153, 37 S. W. 844, 18 Ky. L. Rep. 624, holding that a suit in equity will lie at the instance of a railroad company for the removal of dead timber standing in such proximity to its right of way as to endanger the safety of passengers.

96. Hughes v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 39 Ohio St. 461; Cunningham v. International R. Co., 51 Tex. 503, 32 Am. Rep. 632.

97. Alabama.—Arrington v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 434, 11 So. 7.

Kansas.—Kansas Cent. R. Co. v. Fitzsimmons, 18 Kan. 34.

Nebraska.—Hitte v. Republican Valley R. Co., 19 Nebr. 620, 28 N. W. 284.

Ohio.—Hughes v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 39 Ohio St. 461.

South Carolina.—Rogers v. Florence R. Co., 31 S. C. 378, 9 S. E. 1059.

Texas.—Cunningham v. International R. Co., 51 Tex. 503, 32 Am. Rep. 632.

98. Bibb v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 87 Va. 711, 14 S. E. 163.

99. Nebraska.—Hitte v. Republican Valley R. Co., 19 Nebr. 620, 28 N. W. 284.

Ohio.—Hughes v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 39 Ohio St. 461.

South Carolina.—Rogers v. Florence R. Co., 31 S. C. 378, 9 S. E. 1059.

Texas.—Cunningham v. International R. Co., 51 Tex. 503, 32 Am. Rep. 632.

Virginia.—Bibb v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 87 Va. 711, 14 S. E. 163.

Liability for injuries see infra, X, C, 2.

1. Blanding v. Davenport, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 225, 55 N. W. 81, holding that one performing work of construction under a contract with a contractor for construction is a subcontractor, and cannot claim a lien as a principal contractor because he supposed that the principal contractor was an agent of the railroad company.

2. Bostwick v. Chapman, 60 Conn. 553, 24 Atl. 32.

3. Cunningham v. Massena Springs, etc., R. Co., 63 Hun (N. Y.) 439, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 600 [affirmed in 138 N. Y. 614, 33 N. E. 1082], holding that where a contractor performs work of construction on a contract made with the president and general manager of the railroad company, without any resolution passed at a directors' meeting, but the work was done with the knowledge of its officers and without any dissent on the part of the company, it will be held to have ratified the contract and be liable thereunder.

4. Cunningham v. Massena Springs, etc., R. Co., 63 Hun (N. Y.) 439, 18 N. Y. Suppl. 600 [affirmed in 138 N. Y. 614, 33 N. E. 1082], holding that where in an action against a railroad company on a construction contract defendant contended that so much of the contract as provided for the building of a pile bridge and a small piece of road adjoining, but beyond the end of its line was ultra vires and void, but it appeared that the work was done in good faith, and defendant had taken possession and accepted the benefits of the contract, it could not avail itself of that objection.

5. New Castle Northern R. Co. v. Simpson, 23 Fed. 214.

6. See, generally, Contracts, 9 Cyc. 577.

Particular contracts construed see Fish v. Wolfe, 50 Iowa 636; Hatch v. Minnesota R. Constr. Co., 26 Minn. 451, 5 N. W. 97.

and particularly to other building and construction contracts.[7] As in other cases the intention of the parties must govern,[8] and this must be gathered from the instrument as a whole,[9] and in cases of doubt by reference to the subject-matter and surrounding circumstances and conditions.[10] If the language of the contract is plain and explicit, its terms must control,[11] and parol evidence is not admissible to vary it.[12] The construction put upon the contract by the parties is also an important consideration,[13] and where the parties by their subsequent conduct have given the contract a particular construction not inconsistent with its terms, they will ordinarily be held to be bound thereby.[14] Such contracts frequently require a construction of terms and expressions more or less peculiar to this particular class of work,[15] and while particular words are to be taken in their ordinary and popular sense, in the absence of anything to show that they were used in a different sense,[16] terms which are peculiar to railroad construction should be applied according to their meaning and usage in this connection,[17] and the testimony of experts or persons familiar with the usage of such terms is admissible to explain their meaning.[18] Whether covenants in the contract are to be Particular provisions construed.— Where a written contract to fill in a trestle on a railroad track provides for the compensation by the cubic yard of dirt, the contractor cannot recover for the space occupied by a brick culvert constructed by the railroad company under the trestle. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Matthews, 85 Ga. 457, 11 S. E. 841. A right reserved to change the location or grade of the road upon paying the contract price for any extra work occasioned thereby does not authorize a fundamental change in the character and nature of the work, as from embankment to trestle work, and if such change is made by the company to the prejudice of the contractor it must make good his loss. Wolff v. McGavock, 29 Wis. 290. Where a contract for grading provided that the contractors should receive in payment the actual cost for wages and teams at prices to be approved by the chief engineer, and ten per cent on such cost as their compensation, and the contractor sublet the work with the approval of the engineer, they are entitled to recover the ten per cent on the amount paid the subcontractor; the same being the cost of the work intended by the contract. Ford v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 54 Iowa 723, 7 N. W. 126.

7. See, generally, BUILDERS AND ARCHITECTS, 6 Cyc. 18.

8. Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Veeder, 17 Ohio 385; Dunham v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 329.

9. Mansfield v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386; Wyandotte, etc., R. Co. v. King Bridge Co., 100 Fed. 197, 40 C. C. A. 325; Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197.

10. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Mo. 487, 54 S. W. 689.

11. Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Northcott, 15 Ill. 49; Olson v. Snake River Valley R. Co., 22 Wash. 139, 60 Pac. 156.

12. Merritt v. Peninsular Constr. Co., 91 Md. 453, 46 Atl. 1013; Clark v. Diffenderfer, 31 Mo. App. 232; Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766.

13. Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496; Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Mo. 487, 54 S. W. 689.

14. Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburgh, 45 Ill. 311; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 74 Tex. 256, 11 S. W. 1113; Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766.

If the contractor accepts payment based upon a particular construction of the contract, he will be bound by that construction (Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766), unless it was accepted under protest (Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 74 Tex. 256, 11 S. W. 1113).

Time of payment.— If the contract merely provides the amount and mode of compensation without any provision as to the time of payment, the contractor could not, looking to the contract alone, call for payment until a complete performance of the contract on his part, but where it was the custom of the company to pay its contractors on monthly estimates, and this practice was adopted and followed in regard to the contract in question, it may well be considered as the rule of payment under the contract and binding upon the parties. Boody v. Rutland R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,635, 3 Blatchf. 25, 24 Vt. 660.

15. See the following cases construing and applying the terms "surfaced" (Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496); "earthwork," "grading," "surfacing," and "filling in" (Snell v. Cottingham, 72 Ill. 161); "cuttings on the line of the road" and "excavation" (Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Van Dusen, 29 Mich. 431); "hardpan" (Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Mo. 487, 54 S. W. 689; Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Veeder, 17 Ohio 385); and "solid rock" (Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557).

16. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557, holding that the words "solid rock" will be construed in the ordinary sense as applying to all solid rock, including flint rock, in the absence of any showing that they were used in a different sense.

17. Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496, holding that the term "surfaced" must be applied according to the sense in which it is used by persons engaged in the construction of railroads.

18. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

considered as dependent or independent depends upon the intention of the parties as shown by the whole contract.[19] A contract to construct the road-bed of a railroad between two designated places will include all the grading between the termini as indicated by the depot grounds, and will not be satisfied by completing the work to the corporate limits of the places named,[20] and a contract to construct a railroad includes not only the grading and placing of ties but the laying of rails so that cars can pass over it;[21] and a contract for the complete construction of a railroad includes cattle-guards, water-tanks, stock-gaps, side-tracks, and Y's,[22] but does not impose upon the contractor any obligation to equip it with rolling stock;[23] although an agreement to build a railroad "and to have the said road in operation" by a certain time has been held to include not only construction but equipment with rolling stock.[24] A contract for the construction of a road-bed does not include clearing and grubbing the right of way beyond the space necessary for the road-bed and its support;[25] and a contract to do certain grading upon a railroad which the railroad company is constructing necessarily presupposes that the railroad company will furnish the right of way.[26]

3. Supervision, Approval, and Estimates of Engineer. Railroad construction contracts frequently provide that the work shall be done under the supervision or subject to the approval of the railroad company's engineer,[27] who is in some cases authorized, if in his opinion the work is not progressing rapidly enough to be completed within the time specified, to declare the contract abandoned or employ others to execute any part of the work and charge the same to the contractor,[28] and where such power is conferred upon the engineer by the contract, its exercise by him in good faith will be binding upon the parties;[29] but such contracts imply that the railroad company shall furnish a competent and reliable engineer,[30] and that he shall do all that the contract requires to be done by him in due season,[31] and shall act honestly and in good faith toward the contractor.[32] It is also frequently provided that the estimates and decisions of the engineer as to various matters such as the measurement, classification, amount, and quality of the work shall be final and conclusive,[33] and such a provision is held to be valid

19. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

20. Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496.

21. Ford v. Ingles Coal Co., 102 S. W. 332, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 382.

22. Central Trust Co. v. Condon, 67 Fed. 84, 14 C. C. A. 314.

23. Central Trust Co. v. Condon, 67 Fed. 84, 14 C. C. A. 314.

24. Flanagan Bank v. Graham, 42 Oreg. 403, 71 Pac. 137, 790.

25. Alexander v. Robertson, 86 Tex. 511, 26 S. W. 41 [reversing (Civ. App. 1893) 24 S. W. 680].

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Yawger, 24 Ind. App. 460, 56 N. E. 50.

27. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1; Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458; McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463; Jones v. Gilchrist, 88 Tex. 88, 30 S. W. 442 [reversing (Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 890].

Form of certificate.— Under a contract providing for payment upon the certificate of the engineer that the work contemplated under the contract "has been fully completed and finished, agreeably to the various stipulations and specifications of this agreement," a certificate reading: "This is to certify that I have accepted" the work done, specifying the work accepted and signed by the engineer, is sufficient. Eastham v. Western Constr. Co., 36 Wash. 7, 77 Pac. 1051.

28. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153; Geiger v. Western Maryland R. Co., 41 Md. 4; Langdon v. Northfield, 42 Minn. 464, 44 N. W. 984.

29. Geiger v. Western Maryland R. Co., 41 Md. 4.

30. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153; Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458; Herrick v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 673.

31. Smith v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 458; Herrick v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 673.

32. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153; Wortman v. Montana Cent. R. Co., 22 Mont. 266, 56 Pac. 316.

An agreement to do the work to the "full satisfaction" of the chief engineer and directors of the company does not of itself give the company power arbitrarily to rescind the contract, but means that the work must be done to its satisfaction not unreasonably withheld. Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197.

33. St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1; McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463; Mundy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 67 Fed. 633, 14 C. C. A. 583.

and binding;[34] and where the contract so provides the estimates and decisions of the engineer will be final and conclusive upon the parties, in the absence of fraud or such gross mistake as to imply bad faith or a failure to exercise an honest judgment,[35] and will be equally conclusive upon both parties.[36] Where the engineer has made a decision upon a matter as to which by the contract his decision is to be final and conclusive, and this decision has been accepted and acted upon, he cannot subsequently change it;[37] nor can the contractor, if he has with knowl-

34. Colorado.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Riley, 7 Colo. 494, 4 Pac. 785.

Iowa.— Ross v. McArthur, 85 Iowa 203, 52 N. W. 125.

Kentucky.— Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Cummings, 6 Ky. L. Rep. 441.

Minnesota.— St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1.

Missouri.— Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Mo. 487, 54 S. W. 689; Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. St. Rep. 403.

New York.— Sweet v. Morrison, 116 N. Y. 19, 22 N. E. 276, 15 Am. St. Rep. 376; McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463.

Pennsylvania.— Howard v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 69 Pa. St. 489.

Vermont.— Herrick v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 673.

Virginia.— Condon v. South Side R. Co., 14 Gratt. 302; Kidwell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 11 Gratt. 676.

United States.— Mundy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 67 Fed. 633, 14 C. C. A. 583; Lewis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 708; Wood v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Fed. 52.

Canada.— Sherwood v. Balch, 30 Ont. 1.

But see Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153; Kistler v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 88 Ind. 460.

The fact that the engineer is a stockholder in the railroad company does not affect the validity of the stipulation, since whether a stock-holder or not he does not purport to be an indifferent third party but a representative of the railroad company. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. St. Rep. 403.

35. Arkansas.— Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522, 3 S. W. 639.

Colorado.— Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Riley, 7 Colo. 494, 4 Pac. 785.

Delaware.— Crumlish v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 5 Del. Ch. 270.

Florida.— Finegan v. L'Engle, 8 Fla. 413.

Georgia.— Grant v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 51 Ga. 348.

Illinois.— Snell v. Brown, 71 Ill. 133; Central Military Tract R. Co. v. Spurck, 24 Ill. 587.

Iowa.— Ross v. McArthur, 85 Iowa 203, 52 N. W. 125.

Louisiana.— O'Donnell v. Henry, 44 La. Ann. 845, 11 So. 245.

Maine.— Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

Minnesota.— Langdon v. Northfield, 42 Minn. 464, 44 N. W. 984; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1.

Missouri.— Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Mo. 487, 54 S. W. 689; Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. St. Rep. 403; Mackler v. Mississippi River, etc., R. Co., 62 Mo. App. 677; Clark v. Diffenderfer, 31 Mo. App. 232.

New York.— Sweet v. Morrison, 116 N. Y. 19, 22 N. E. 276, 15 Am. St. Rep. 376.

Pennsylvania.— Howard v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 69 Pa. St. 489; Yutzy v. Buffalo Valley R. Co., 1 Walk. 463.

Vermont.— Barker v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 700; Vanderwerker v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 130.

Virginia.— Condon v. South Side R. Co., 14 Gratt. 302; Kidwell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 11 Gratt. 676.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Price, 138 U. S. 185, 11 S. Ct. 290, 34 L. ed. 917 [affirming 38 Fed. 304]; Martinsburg, etc., R. Co. v. March, 114 U. S. 549, 5 S. Ct. 1035, 29 L. ed. 255; Mundy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 67 Fed. 633, 14 C. C. A. 583; Ogden v. U. S., 60 Fed. 725, 9 C. C. A. 251; Summers v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 714; Lewis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 708.

Right of contractor to notice and opportunity to be present.— Where the contract provides that the estimates and measurements made by the engineer shall be final and conclusive, it has been held that the contractor is entitled to notice and opportunity to be present when they are made, and that if the engineer proceeds ex parte it will not constitute such a final estimate as will bind the contractor. McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463. But see Wilson v. York, etc., R. Co., 11 Gill & J. (Md.) 58, holding that in the making of measurements of the work done the contractor is not entitled to notice and opportunity to be present, but that in making estimates of certain expenses to be allowed him he is so entitled and without such notice will not be bound thereby.

Time for making classification.— In the absence of any provision to the contrary in the contract, the classification of the material to be excavated may be made by the engineer before the work is done, and where he has classified the material as of a certain kind, to which a certain rate applies, and the contractor is permitted to proceed with the work upon that basis, the company cannot be permitted subsequently to make a different classification more onerous to the contractor. Ricker v. Collins, 81 Tex. 662, 17 S. W. 378.

36. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moran, 187 Ill. 316, 58 N. E. 335 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 543].

37. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moran, 187 Ill.

edge of the facts expressed his satisfaction therewith, subsequently impeach it as erroneous or improper.[38] An engineer's estimates are not, however, conclusive unless the contract so provides,[39] nor where it does so provide except as to the matters specified therein.[40] So also provisions that his estimates shall be conclusive do not entirely oust the courts of jurisdiction,[41] and such estimates may be impeached and relieved against on the ground of fraud or gross error or mistake,[42] by proceedings in a court of equity,[43] or it has been held in a court of law;[44] but the mistake must be so gross as to imply bad faith or a failure to exercise an honest judgment,[45] or so gross and palpable as to leave no doubt in the mind of 316, 58 N. E. 335 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 543].

38. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Mo. 487, 54 S. W. 689.

39. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Manion, 113 Ky. 7, 67 S. W. 40, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2267, 101 Am. St. Rep. 345; Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Wilcox, 48 Pa. St. 161; Central Trust Co. v. Louisville St. R. Co., 70 Fed. 282.

A stipulation that the engineer shall make estimates does not make such estimates conclusive, and in all cases where the contract does not expressly provide that they are to be conclusive they are to be tested by their actual correctness, and the contractor may show that they are not correct. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Wilcox, 48 Pa. St. 161.

Where there is an essential parol alteration of a written contract which provided that the engineer's decision should be final, and there is no stipulation that his decision shall be final as to matters arising under the contract as changed, a decision of the engineer under such contract is not binding, and where such decision covers indiscriminately the whole work it cannot stand as to part. Malone v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 430, 27 Atl. 756.

40. Colorado.— Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Riley, 7 Colo. 494, 4 Pac. 785.

Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moran, 187 Ill. 316, 58 N. E. 335 [affirming 85 Ill. App. 543].

Maryland.—Annapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 68 Md. 310, 11 Atl. 820.

Missouri.— Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. St. Rep. 403.

Pennsylvania.— Dohbling v. York Springs R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 628, 53 Atl. 493; Lauman v. Young, 31 Pa. St. 306.

Matters "relative to or touching" the agreement.—A provision that the decision of the engineer shall be conclusive in any dispute arising between the parties to the agreement "relative to or touching the same," does not cover questions outside of the contract and clearly could not cover a claim for damages for the abrogation of the contract by the railroad company. Dohbling v. York Springs R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 628, 53 Atl. 493.

41. Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Manghan, 49 Ga. 266; Wortman v. Montana Cent. R. Co., 22 Mont. 266, 56 Pac. 316.

42. Missouri.— Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. St. Rep. 403.

Ohio.— Mansfield, etc., R. Co. v. Veeder, 17 Ohio 385.

Vermont.— Herrick v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 573.

Virginia.— Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Mills, 91 Va. 613, 22 S. E. 556; Mills v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 90 Va. 523, 19 S. E. 171.

United States.— Fruin-Bambrick Constr. Co. v. Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co., 140 Fed. 465; Lewis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 708; Wood v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Fed. 52; Fletcher v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. 731.

The meaning of the word "mistake" as used in this connection has been explained as follows: (1) That the court will relieve against mistakes in measurements and calculations apparent on the face of the estimate or which are clearly proven. (2) If it is satisfactorily shown that the engineer has failed through oversight to measure or estimate any particular part of the work the court will grant relief as to such mistake. (3) If it appears that the engineer has put a wrong construction upon the contract the court will correct any substantial errors resulting from such mistake. (4) But that the court will not undertake to revise the decision of the engineer as to matters intrusted to his special skill or judgment. (5) Slight discrepancies in measurements must also be disregarded. Lewis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 708.

The fact that the engineer is an employee of the railroad company does not commit it to the consequences of his misconduct while acting as an arbiter for both parties, and an estimate or award which is the result of collusion between the engineer and the contractor will not be binding upon the railroad company. Gonder v. Berlin Branch R. Co., 171 Pa. St. 492, 33 Atl. 61.

No demand for a different estimate or effort to procure one is necessary in order to entitle the contractor to recover, where the estimate made by the engineer was fraudulent. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Laffertys, 14 Gratt. (Va.) 478.

43. Herrick v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 673; O'Brien v. Champlain Constr. Co., 107 Fed. 338; Wood v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Fed. 52.

44. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. St. Rep. 403. But see Wood v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Fed. 52.

45. Hot Springs R. Co. v. Maher, 48 Ark. 522, 3 S. W. 639; Martinsburg, etc., R. Co. v. March, 114 U. S. 549, 5 S. Ct. 1035, 29 L. ed. 255.

the court that grave injustice has been done thereby;[46] and errors of judgment as distinguished from mistakes of fact cannot be relieved against in the absence of fraud or bad faith.[47] The engineer in making estimates and measurements must proceed according to the provisions of the contract,[48] and it is competent to show that he has disregarded or violated the contract provisions,[49] or has misconstrued the contract and made his estimates upon a different basis from that contemplated.[50] Ordinarily the making of the estimates provided for is a condition precedent to the right to sue upon the contract;[51] but if through the neglect or fault of the engineer or the railroad company the estimate is not made, or the engineer refuses to make it, the contractor may sue and show the amount and value of the work done by other evidence.[52] Where the contract provides that the measurements are to be made by the chief engineer, it has been held that measurements made by an assistant engineer, although approved by the chief engineer, will not be final and conclusive,[53] although admissible in evidence in an action on the contract;[54] but where the contract merely provides for estimates by "the engineer," it has been held that they need not, in order to be conclusive, be made by the chief engineer.[55] So also the engineer contemplated by such contracts is the incumbent of the office at the time the estimate or award is to be made, and not the person who may have held that office at the time the contract was entered into.[56] Railroad construction contracts frequently provide for partial payments to be made as the work progresses, based upon monthly or other periodical estimates made by the engineer as to the amount and value of the work done,[57] with, in some cases, a separate final estimate to be made after the work is completed as a basis for settlement of the balance due;[58] and where the contract so provides the estimates of the engineer are, in the absence of fraud or gross mistake, conclusive both as to the periodical estimates[59] and the final estimates.[60] Where 46. Mundy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 67 Fed. 633, 14 C. C. A. 583.

47. Lewis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 708. See also Wood v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Fed. 52.

48. Alton, etc., R. Co. v. Northcott, 15 Ill. 49; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 65 Tex. 685; Mills v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 90 Va. 523, 19 S. E. 171.

49. Mills v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 90 Va. 523, 19 S. E. 171.

50. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. Rep. 403; Mansfield v. Veeder, 17 Ohio 385; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 65 Tex. 685; Lewis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 708.

51. Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. Rep. 403; Martinsburg, etc., R. Co. v. March, 114 U. S. 549, 5 S. Ct. 1035, 29 L. ed. 255.

52. Kistler v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 88 Ind. 460; Starkey v. De Graff, 22 Minn. 431; Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 463, 20 S. W. 631, 34 Am. Rep. 403; McMahon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. 463.

53. Wilson v. York, etc., R. Co., 11 Gill & J. (Md.) 58. Contra, Sweet v. Morrison, 116 N. Y. 19, 22 N. E. 276, 15 Am. St. Rep. 376, holding that the chief engineer need not make the measurements himself.

54. Miller v. Sullivan R. Co., 14 Tex. Civ App. 112, 33 S. W. 695, 35 S. W. 1084, 37 S. W. 778.

55. Herrick v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 673. See also Central Military Track R. Co. v. Spurck, 24 Ill. 587.

56. North Lebanon R. Co. v. McGrann, 33 Pa. St. 530, 75 Am. Dec. 624.

Although the contract stipulates that the term "engineer" as used therein shall be considered as referring to a particular person named, yet if such person is discharged or leaves the company's employment and the company appoints a successor and notifies the contractor and the latter acquiesces in the substitution, it will constitute a waiver of the provisions of the contract and be binding upon both parties. Serretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

57. Kentucky.— Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Cummings, 6 Ky. L. Rep. 442.

Missouri.— Mackler v. Mississippi River, etc., Co., 62 Mo. App. 677.

Pennsylvania.— Gonder v. Berlin Branch R. Co., 171 Pa. St. 492, 33 Atl. 61.

Vermont.— Barker v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 700.

Virginia.— Kidwell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 11 Gratt. 676.

58. Rutherford v. Brachman, 40 Ohio St. 604; Gonder v. Berlin Branch R. Co., 171 Pa. St. 492, 33 Atl. 61; Kidwell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 11 Gratt. (Va.) 676.

The final estimate is not confined to the work of the last month or period, but is designed rather as a revision of the entire work after its completion. Rutherford v. Brachman, 40 Ohio St. 604.

59. Mackler v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 62 Mo. App. 677; Barker v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 700.

60. Grant v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 51 Ga. 348; Kidwell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 11 Gratt. (Va.) 676.

the contract calls for payment according to periodical estimates, it has been held to import accurate and final estimates,[61] and that when made and acquiesced in they will be binding and not subject to change by future measurements unless it was understood by both parties that they were to be considered as mere approximations to be subsequently corrected;[62] but it has been held that in making the final estimate the previous periodical estimates are to be regarded merely as approximate estimates of the relative value of the work completed and not conclusive,[63] and that the contractor cannot, before the final estimate is made, sue for the balance due upon the basis of the last periodical estimate,[64] and that on the final estimate the railroad company is entitled to show that the engineer, for the accommodation of the contractor, has increased the periodical estimates beyond the amount actually due, with the understanding that the proper reduction should be made upon the final estimate.[65]

4. Provisions to Secure Performance. Railroad construction contracts frequently provide that if the work is not being done in a satisfactory manner or rapidly enough to be completed within the time limited the railroad company may terminate the contract,[66] or employ others to do any part of the work and charge the same to the contractor;[67] or they may prescribe a sum to be paid as liquidated damages for each day or other period of delay beyond the time limited for completion;[68] or, where the contractor is to be paid in instalments upon periodical estimates, provide that the company shall retain a certain per cent of the amounts found to be due until the completion of the contract.[69] Where the contract provides for a retention by the company of a percentage of the amounts due according to the monthly estimates until the completion of the work, a contractor cannot recover these amounts without showing a performance of the contract or a valid excuse for non-performance.[70] If the contractor is forced to abandon the work or prevented from completing it by the wrongful act or default of the railroad company, he does not forfeit the percentage retained by it,[71] and if the company suspends or delays the work for an indefinite or unreasonable time, it cannot withhold the percentage retained on the ground that it is payable only upon the completion of the work;[72] but such retained amounts are forfeited if the contractor voluntarily abandons the work without just cause or any default on the part of the railroad company,[73] or where the company rightfully terminates the contract under a power reserved to do so where the work is not progressing

But for fraud or gross mistake on the part of the engineer the final estimate may be avoided by the contractor. Fruin-Bambrick Constr. Co. v. Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co., 140 Fed. 465.

61. Barker v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 700; Herrick v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 673.

62. Barker v. Belknap, 27 Vt. 700.

63. Cincinnati Southern R. Co. v. Cummings, 6 Ky. L. Rep. 441.

If the contractor is prevented from completing the work by the fault of the railroad company and no final estimate is made and the periodical estimates were merely approximate estimates, the contractor is entitled to recover for all work actually done whether estimated or not. Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384.

64. Gonder v. Berlin Branch R. Co., 171 Pa. St. 492, 33 Atl. 61.

65. Gonder v. Berlin Branch R. Co., 171 Pa. St. 492, 33 Atl. 61.

66. Geiger v. Western Maryland R. Co., 41 Md. 4; Waco Tap R. Co. v. Shirley, 45 Tex. 355.

67. Langdon v. Northfield, 42 Minn. 464, 44 N. W. 984; Jackson v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 19 Wis. 400.

68. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557; Mansfield v. New York Cent., etc., Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

69. Geiger v. Western Maryland R. Co., 41 Md. 4; Langdon v. Northfield, 42 Minn. 464, 44 N. W. 984; Jackson v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 19 Wis. 400.

70. Jackson v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 19 Wis. 400.

71. Alabama.— Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60.

Kentucky.— Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Pottinger, 10 Bush 185.

Maine.— Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

Maryland.— Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill 288.

New York.— Curnan v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 138 N. Y. 480, 34 N. E. 201.

72. Curnan v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 138 N. Y. 480, 34 N. E. 201.

73. Finegan v. L'Engle, 8 Fla. 413; Merritt v. Peninsular Constr. Co., 91 Md. 453, 46 Atl. 1013; Strauss v. R. Co., 7 W. Va. 368; satisfactorily.[74] The contractor, however, forfeits only the amount of the percentages retained pursuant to the contract, and not unpaid balances of the amounts which should previously have been paid.[75] Where the contract prescribes a sum as liquidated damages for delay, the contractor will be liable therefor unless performance was prevented by the act of God, the law, or the railroad company,[76] and he cannot escape liability on the ground that the delay was due to unexpected casualties,[77] or to the fact that the work proved to be more difficult or expensive than anticipated;[78] but if the contractor has acted in good faith and the delay results from causes not under his control, he will not be liable for any damages in excess of the stipulated amount,[79] and if the delay was caused by the conduct of the railroad company it cannot recover the amounts stipulated.[80] A right reserved by the railroad company to terminate the contract or employ others upon the work where it is not progressing satisfactorily is not an exclusive remedy and does not affect the right of the railroad company to also recover any damages caused by a breach of the contract by the contractor;[81] and where the contract authorizes the company to employ others at the contractor's expense, and also contains a provision for the retention of a certain percentage of the monthly estimates, the contractor's liability to reimburse the company under the former provision is not limited to the amount retained by it under the latter.[82] On the other hand, where such rights are reserved to the railroad company it must act in good faith and cannot exercise them arbitrarily without just cause,[83] as merely to avail itself of an opportunity to get the work done more cheaply;[84] and where a bond with sureties is required of the contractor, a subsequent failure of the sureties is not sufficient ground for the company to terminate the contract without allowing an opportunity of furnishing new sureties.[85] The action of the company in terminating the contract, although rightful and in accordance with its provisions, does not deprive the contractor of the right to recover instalments for work done which were due and payable prior to such termination.[86]

5. EXTRA WORK. A contractor for railroad construction is entitled to compensation for any extra work not covered by the original contract which is done by him at the request of the railroad company or in consequence of changes in the plans and specifications made by it,[87] or rendered necessary by errors of the Jackson v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 19 Wis. 400.

74. Hennessey v. Farrell, 4 Cush. (Mass.) 267.

75. Ricker v. Fairbanks, 40 Me. 43 (holding that under a contract authorizing the company to declare the contract abandoned if the work is not progressing with sufficient rapidity, and providing that in such event "any balance of money due shall be forfeited" such balance refers only to the percentages of the amounts due on the monthly instalments which the company is authorized by the contract to retain and not to any unpaid balances of the amounts which should have been paid to the contractor); Geiger v. Western Maryland R. Co., 41 Md. 4 (holding that where the contract provides that the contractor shall forfeit as liquidated damages "the unpaid part of the balance of the work," this includes only the percentages rightfully retained and not unpaid balances which were previously due and payable). See also Lord v. Belknap, 1 Cush. (Mass.) 279.

76. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

77. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

78. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

79. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

80. Dunavant v. Caldwell, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 999, 29 S. E. 837. See also Mansfield v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386.

81. Jackson v. Cleveland, 19 Wis. 400; American Bonding, etc., Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 124 Fed. 866, 60 C. C. A. 52. But see MacDonald v. Saginaw Valley, etc., R. Co., 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,766.

82. Langdon v. Northfield, 42 Minn. 464, 44 N. W. 984.

83. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153; Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill (Md.) 288; Wortman v. Montana Cent. R. Co., 22 Mont. 266, 56 Pac. 316; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

84. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

85. Waco Tap R. Co. v. Shirley, 45 Tex. 355.

86. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

87. Illinois.— Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496.

Indiana.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Crumbo, 4 Ind. App. 456, 30 N. E. 434.

Maryland.— Annapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, company's engineer under whose direction the work is to be done;[88] but he can only recover for such work as is not covered by the terms of the original contract.[89] A contractor cannot recover for extra work which is made necessary by the negligent or unskilful manner in which he has done the work undertaken,[90] or due to natural causes,[91] or which is done at the instance of a person having no authority to bind the company and whose act the company has not ratified,[92] or done at the instance of the company's engineer where he was acting beyond his authority,[93] or due to the rejection of materials by the company's engineer where he was authorized by the contract to determine the kind and quality of material to be used;[94] and if the contract provides that no claim for extra work shall be allowed unless it is done pursuant to a written order of the engineer or other designated person, there can be no recovery for work done upon the parol authority of such person,[95] although the contract also provides that the engineer may direct alterations and additions to the work.[96] A contractor is not entitled to extra compensation merely because the work turns out to be more difficult or expensive than anticipated or unexpected obstacles are encountered,[97] unless he was induced 68 Md. 310, 11 Atl. 820; Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Placide, 35 Md. 315.

Missouri.— Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

Texas.— Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Trentem, 63 Tex. 442.

United States.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. 307, 14 L. ed. 157; Fruin-Bambrick Constr. Co. v. Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co., 140 Fed. 465; Central Trust Co. v. Condon, 67 Fed. 84, 14 C. C. A. 314.

88. Wyandotte, etc., R. Co. v. King Bridge Co., 100 Fed. 197, 40 C. C. A. 325, holding that, where the railroad company's engineer was to determine the location of a bridge to be constructed, a contractor is entitled to recover for extra work made necessary by an error on the part of the engineer in the original location of the bridge.

89. Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496; Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Mo. 487, 54 S. W. 689; Central Trust Co. v. Condon, 67 Fed. 84, 14 C. C. A. 314.

Under a contract for the complete construction of a railroad the contractor is not entitled to extra compensation for the construction of cattle-guards, water tanks, stock gaps, side-tracks, and Ys, which should be construed as being included under the contract for complete construction. Central Trust Co. v. Condon, 67 Fed. 84, 14 C. C. A. 314.

Although the work is done in a different manner from that provided for by the contract, if there is no agreement for extra compensation and the contractor accepts without objection periodical payments based upon the original contract provisions and rates of compensation, he cannot after the work is completed claim any extra compensation. Kidwell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 11 Gratt. (Va.) 676.

90. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

91. Central Trust Co. v. Condon, 67 Fed. 84, 14 C. C. A. 314, holding that a contractor for the complete construction of a railroad is not entitled to compensation for extra work occasioned by the occurrence of a slide during the process of construction.

92. Woodruff v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 108 N. Y. 39, 14 N. E. 832; Thayer v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 24 Vt. 440.

93. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Jolly, 71 Ohio St. 92, 72 N. E. 888; Alexander v. Robertson, 86 Tex. 511, 26 S. W. 41 [reversing (Civ. App. 1893) 24 S. W. 680].

94. Jones v. Gilchrist, 88 Tex. 88, 30 S. W. 442 [reversing (Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 890].

95. California.— White v. San Rafael, etc., R. Co., 50 Cal. 417.

Maryland.— Merritt v. Peninsular Constr. Co., 91 Md. 453, 46 Atl. 1013.

New York.— Woodruff v. Rochester, etc., R. Co., 108 N. Y. 39, 14 N. E. 832.

Ohio.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Jolly, 71 Ohio St. 92, 72 N. E. 888.

Vermont.— Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766; Vanderwerker v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 130.

United States.— Fruin-Bambrick Constr. Co. v. Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co., 140 Fed. 465. But see Wyandotte, etc., R. Co. v. King Bridge Co., 100 Fed. 197, 40 C. C. A. 325.

But see Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Manion, 113 Ky. 7, 67 S. W. 40, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2267, 101 Am. St. Rep. 345; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Trentem, 63 Tex. 442.

There is nothing inequitable or unreasonable in a stipulation that no claim for extra work shall be allowed unless done upon the written order of the engineer, it being a proper provision for the protection of the company against doubtful claims. White v. San Rafael R. Co., 50 Cal. 417.

The rule does not apply to a separate contract made by the engineer for a different kind of work not included in the original contract and in which there is no similar provision with regard to extra work. Vanderwerker v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 27 Vt. 130.

96. White v. San Rafael R. Co., 50 Cal. 417, holding that such authority is entirely consistent with the requirement that his action shall be evidenced by writing.

97. Cannon v. Wildman, 28 Conn. 472; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1; Groton Bridge, etc., Co. v. Ala-to enter into the contract through fraud or misrepresentation on the part of the company;[98] and in the absence of such fraud or misrepresentation it is not material that he chose to rely upon mere estimates or expressions of opinion made by the company as to the amount or character of the work,[99] particularly where he was instructed not to rely thereon or that the company would not be responsible for their accuracy.[1] A provision in the contract that the contractor shall not make any charge for extra labor will prevent a recovery for any unnecessary extra work or work which is better or more expensive than the contract requires,[2] but will not prevent a recovery for extra work made necessary by the conduct of the railroad company.[3] Extra work, in the absence of express agreement, should be paid for at the contract price if it is of a character covered by the terms of the contract as to price;[4] but if of a different character, then according to what it is reasonably worth.[5]

6. Payment in Stock or Bonds of Railroad Company. Railroad construction contracts frequently provide for a part payment in stock or bonds of the railroad company,[6] and such a contract is not, in the absence of fraud or over-valuation of the work or under-valuation of the stock and bonds, invalid.[7] If no time for payment is fixed by the contract the contractor cannot sue to recover the stock without a demand and refusal to deliver it,[8] nor where the time of payment is fixed can the contractor refuse to receive the stock and demand payment in money because the railroad company did not seek him out and tender the stock on the day named.[9] So also the contractor cannot refuse to receive stock and demand payment in money because the company has mortgaged its road,[10] or because it has procured an alteration of its charter increasing the amount of its stock where a right to alter the charter was reserved by the legislature in the original act.[11] The fact that the company has paid several of the monthly instalments in full in cash does not waive its right subsequently to make payment in stock to the agreed amount.[12] Where the contract provides that the contractor shall take a certain proportion in stock at par, but there is no right of election expressly or impliedly reserved to the company to pay either in stock or cash, if the stock is not delivered the contractor cannot recover the amount represented by its par value but only its market value;[13] but where the company pays more than the agreed proportion in cash it will constitute a waiver of the right to pay such bama, etc., R. Co., 80 Miss. 162, 31 So. 739; Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

98. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

99. Cannon v. Wildman, 28 Conn. 472; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1; Groton Bridge, etc., Co. v. Alabama, etc., R. Co., 80 Miss. 162, 31 So. 739; Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

1. Cannon v. Wildman, 28 Conn. 472; St. Paul, etc., R. Co. v. Bradbury, 42 Minn. 222, 44 N. W. 1.

2. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburgh, 45 Ill. 311.

3. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburgh, 45 Ill. 311, holding that where the earth for the construction of an embankment was to be furnished by the railroad company and to be taken by the contractor from a particular place, and he was subsequently required to go to a more distant and inconvenient place requiring additional expense, he might recover therefor notwithstanding a provision in the contract that he would not charge for extra labor.

4. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburgh, 45 Ill. 311; Annapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Ross, 68 Md. 310, 11 Atl. 820; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Trentem, 63 Tex. 442.

5. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Vosburgh, 45 Ill. 311; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Trentem, 63 Tex. 442.

6. See Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Placide, 35 Md. 315; Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Kelley, 5 Ohio St. 180; Jones v. Chamberlain, 30 Vt. 196.

7. Coe v. East Alabama, etc., R. Co., 52 Fed. 531 [affirmed in 54 Fed. 569, 4 C. C. A. 511].

8. Boody v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,635, 3 Blatchf. 25, 24 Vt. 660.

9. Moore v. Hudson River R. Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 156.

10. Boody v. Rutland R. Co., 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,635, 3 Blatchf. 25, 24 Vt. 660.

11. Moore v. Hudson River R. Co., 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 156.

12. Harris v. Somerset, etc., R. Co., 47 Me. 298.

13. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Kelley, 5 Ohio St. 180.

amount in stock, and in paying the balance in stock it cannot claim a deduction therefor according to the difference in the par and market values of the stock.[14]

7. Subcontracts. Where a contractor sublets the work or a portion thereof there is ordinarily no contractual relation between the railroad company and the subcontractor,[15] and the subcontractor cannot pass by the contractor, who is his immediate employer, and sue the railroad company for an amount due him from the contractor,[16] unless the railroad company for a sufficient consideration has assumed such liability.[17] So the railroad company will not be liable to the subcontractor for extra work done by him under his contract with the contractor,[18] nor can a subcontractor recover against the railroad company for extra work done at the instance of the company's engineer if the latter had no authority to bind the company by a contract for such work.[19] The contracts with subcontractors frequently contain provisions similar to those previously referred to in the contracts between the railroad company and the principal contractor with regard to the supervision, approval, estimates, and decisions of the company's engineer,[20] and the provisions to insure performance, authorizing the contractor, if the work is not progressing satisfactorily, to terminate the contract or employ others upon the work,[21] or providing for a retention by the contractor of a percentage of the amounts due according to the periodical estimates until the completion of the work;[22] and the same rules apply as to the conclusiveness of the engineer's estimates and decisions,[23] which may be impeached for fraud or gross mistake,[24] and the right of the contractor to take advantage of the provisions to secure performance,[25] which must be exercised fairly and in good faith.[26] Where the railroad company is to retain a percentage of the amounts due as security for the completion of the work and the contractor to retain a per-

14. Jones v. Chamberlain, 30 Vt. 196.

15. Richmond R., etc., Co. v. Harris, (Va. 1899) 32 S. E. 458.

16. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Eckler, 13 Ind. 67 Richmond R., etc., Co. v. Harris, (Va. 1899) 32 S. E. 458.

17. Chapman v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 18 W. Va. 184, holding that where, during performance of the work by the subcontractor, the contractor fails and the railroad company, to induce the subcontractor to go on with the work, agrees to pay him the debt of the contractor, there is a sufficient consideration and the railroad company will be liable.

18. Richmond R., etc., Co. v. Harris, (Va. 1899) 32 S. E. 458.

19. Thayer v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 24 Vt. 440.

20. Rogers v. Hogan, 58 Me. 305; Sweet v. Morrison, 116 N. Y. 19, 22 N. E. 276, 15 Am. St. Rep. 376; Faunce v. Burke, 16 Pa. St. 469, 55 Am. Dec. 519; Van Hook v. Burns, 10 Wash. 22, 38 Pac. 763.

21. Hendrie v. Canadian Bank, 49 Mich. 401, 13 N. W. 792; Maloney v. Malcomb, 31 Mo. 45; Faunce v. Burke, 16 Pa. St. 469, 55 Am. Dec. 519.

22. Blair v. Corby, 29 Mo. 480; Faunce v. Burke, 16 Pa. St. 469, 55 Am. Dec. 519.

23. Sweet v. Morrison, 116 N. Y. 19, 22 N. E. 276, 15 Am. St. Rep. 376; Faunce v. Burke, 16 Pa. St. 469, 55 Am. Dec. 519.

When finding not conclusive.— Although the contract provides that in case of a dispute the decisions of the chief engineer of the railroad company shall be conclusive, a finding by him on a disputed point is not conclusive if it appears that he paid no personal attention to the matter but acted solely upon statements of his subordinates. Van Hook v. Burns, 10 Wash. 22, 38 Pac. 763.

24. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ricker, (Tex. 1891) 17 S. W. 382, holding further that where the contract provides for a classification of material by the company's engineer, whose decision is to be final, and the contract is sublet upon the same terms, and an action is brought by the subcontractor against the contractor and the railroad company to recover the balance upon the ground that the classification was fraudulent or grossly erroneous or not according to the terms of the contract, and this allegation is established, the subcontractor may recover against the contractor, and the contractor may, under proper allegations, recover over against the railroad company.

25. Maloney v. Malcomb, 31 Mo. 45; Faunce v. Burke, 16 Pa. St. 469, 55 Am. Dec. 519.

Who may give notice.— Where the contract provides that the contractor after written notice to the subcontractor from the company's engineer may declare the contract forfeited on the ground that the work is not progressing rapidly enough, the notice to the subcontractor need not be given by the engineer but may be given by the contractor himself after notice to him from the engineer. Hendrie v. Canadian Bank, 49 Mich. 401, 13 N. W. 792.

26. McAndrews v. Tippett, 39 N. J. L. 105.

centage as security for the completion of the subcontract and the subcontractor completes his portion, he is entitled to full payment, including the percentage retained by the contractor, although the latter is not entitled to his percentage as against the railroad company;[27] and if the subcontractor performs his contract in full accordance with its terms he is entitled to payment, although the work does not conform to the requirements of the contract between the railroad company and the principal contractor.[28] If the subcontractor is prevented from completing his contract by the wrongful act or failure of the contractor to comply with his part of the agreement, the subcontractor may recover the damages sustained;[29] but whether a subcontractor may hold the contractor liable for damages for breach of contract where the default of the contractor is due to the delay of the railroad company in doing certain preliminary work depends upon whether the contract was intended to be dependent upon the company doing such work in time.[30] If the subcontractor is prevented from completing his contract by a failure of the railroad company to procure a part of the right of way, his failure to complete is excused and he may recover of the contractor for the work done;[31] and if the contractor fails to make payments of the instalments due as the work progresses, the subcontractor may abandon the work and recover for what has been done.[32] Where the contractor in terms "sublets" a part of his contract, the work to be done under and according to the provisions of the original contract except at a lower rate, the original contract becomes a part of the subcontract, and the subcontractor is bound by its requirements and is equally entitled to the benefit of any provisions that are to his advantage.[33] A provision in the original contract that the contractor shall not sublet the work without the written consent of the railroad company is for the benefit of the latter and may be waived by it,[34] either expressly or impliedly;[35] but if the contractor without such consent makes a subcontract and the subcontractor has knowledge of the provisions in the original contract, the subcontract will be deemed to have been made subject to the contingency of the work being stopped by the railroad company.[36] Contracts with subcontractors are subject to the same rules of construction as contracts between railroad companies and the principal contractor.[37]

27. Blair v. Corby, 29 Mo. 480.

28. Johnson v. Des Moines, etc., R. Co., 129 Iowa 281, 105 N. W. 509.

29. McAndrews v. Tippett, 39 N. J. L. 105.

30. Hammond v. Beeson, 112 Mo. 190, 20 S. W. 474.

31. Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384.

32. Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384.

33. Price v. Garland, 3 N. M. 285, 6 Pac. 472.

34. Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60; Lauman v. Young, 31 Pa. St. 306.

35. Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60.

Effect of acquiescence.— Where a construction contract provides that no subcontract shall be made without the written consent of the engineer under penalty of forfeiture of the work sublet, the subletting of a portion of the work by the contractor previous to the execution of the contract and which has been acquiesced in by all the parties will not work a forfeiture. Lauman v. Young, 31 Pa. St. 306.

36. Dolan v. Rodgers, 149 N. Y. 489, 44 N. E. 167, holding that in such case it will be implied as a part of the subcontract that if the work is stopped by the railroad company both parties are to be released as to the future but bound as to the past, and if the subcontractor before being stopped has completed a part of the work and the contractor is paid for such work by the railroad company, he must also pay the subcontractor therefor.

37. Sweet v. Morrison, 116 N. Y. 19, 22 N. E. 276, 15 Am. St. Rep. 376; Faunce v. Burke, 16 Pa. St. 469, 55 Am. Dec. 519.

Construction and operation of contracts between railroad companies and contractors see supra, VI, H, 2.

Particular contracts construed.— Under a subcontract which provides that in case of default in making payments by the railroad company to the contractor the latter shall have a right to cancel the contract, and that in the event of cancellation the subcontractor shall be paid for "labor done and materials furnished up to the date of the cancellation," he may recover for materials procured or prepared to be furnished, although not delivered if they are so cut that they are not useful for any other purpose and are not marketable. Dickinson v. Gray, 8 S. W. 876, 9 S. W. 281, 10 Ky. L. Rep. 292. Where a railroad company contracts with a contractor to furnish and place "about one hundred thousand cubic yards" of stone at a certain place, and provides for supplemen-

8. PERFORMANCE OR BREACH OF CONTRACT — a. In General. To entitle the contractor to recover, he must show a performance of the contract on his part or an excuse for its non-performance.[38] If he has expressly agreed to complete the work by a certain time he must make good his agreement and cannot be excused unless performance was prevented by the act of God, the law, or the railroad company,[39] and it is not sufficient that the delay was due to unexpected casualties, obstacles, or difficulties;[40] but a provision that the work shall be completed by a certain time may be waived by the railroad company,[41] either expressly or impliedly,[42] in which case the company cannot recover damages for the delay,[43] or insist upon a stipulation for liquidated damages;[44] and if after the contract is entered into the railroad company directs changes or extra work not covered by the original contract, which will necessitate a longer time for completion, the time originally limited must be extended according to what is reasonably necessary for such work.[45] If the failure of the contractor to complete the work according to the terms of the contract is due to the wrongful act or default of the railroad company, he is excused for a failure to complete the entire work,[46] or to complete it within tal contracts for any additional material which may be required, and the contractor sublets the contract to C, who agrees to perform the conditions of the original contract and that the amount of stone may be increased up to the amount of three hundred thousand cubic yards, this provision applies only in case the additional amount is necessary to complete the contract, and where the work is completed he cannot be required to furnish this additional amount to be used by the contractor upon a different contract subsequently made. Shanklin v. Brown, 102 N. Y. App. Div. 473, 92 N. Y. Suppl. 860 [affirmed in 189 N. Y. 526, 82 N. E. 1133].

38. Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

39. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557.

The contractor cannot excuse his failure to complete the work in time, on the ground that the company, when he had purchased material and contracted debts for labor on its credit, failed to meet its obligations, and thereby so impaired its credit that he could not dispose of its stock and bonds at a price that would afford him means to carry on the work. Wood v. Boney, (N. J. Ch. 1891) 21 Atl. 574.

40. Fruin v. Crystal R. Co., 89 Mo. 397, 14 S. W. 557; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

41. Grant v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 51 Ga. 348; Wortman v. Montana Cent. R. Co., 22 Mont. 266, 56 Pac. 316; Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware Constr. Co., 98 Va. 503, 37 S. E. 13; Fruin-Bambrick Constr. Co. v. Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co., 140 Fed. 465.

42. Grant v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 51 Ga. 348.

If the contractor is allowed to proceed after the time limit has expired it will be presumed that the breach was waived and that the company intended that he should have a reasonable time to complete it. Wortman v. Montana Cent. R. Co., 22 Mont. 266, 56 Pac. 316.

43. Grant v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 51 Ga. 348. But see Snell v. Cottingham, 72 Ill. 161, holding that a railroad company, by permitting a contractor to go on and finish the work, waives only the performance on the day fixed, and that while the contractor may recover on a quantum meruit for the work done, the company will have a right to recoup the damages sustained by reason of the failure to complete the road within the time stipulated if the delay was not due to its own default.

If the company abandons the construction of a part of the line which remains to be graded under the contract, and directs the contractor to cease work, the company cannot counter-claim for damages for failure to complete the contract although this was done after the time limited for the completion of the work had expired, if the company made no complaint of the failure to complete the work within the time limited. Hutchinson v. New Sharon, etc., R. Co., 63 Iowa 727, 18 N. W. 915.

44. Fruin-Bambrick Constr. Co. v. Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co., 140 Fed. 405, holding that a provision for the payment of one hundred dollars for each day's delay as liquidated damages is waived by the company accepting the road and starting to operate it in the condition it was in at the expiration of the time limit, and permitting the contractor to go on and perfect the work of construction after the road is in operation.

45. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, 19 Fed. 239.

46. Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 284 (holding that where the railroad company has not secured a right of way the refusal of the owners of the land through which the road is laid out to permit the contractor to enter thereon to construct the road is sufficient excuse for his failure to construct the road at such places); Olson v. Snake River Valley R. Co., 22 Wash. 139, 60 Pac. 156 (holding that a failure to excavate certain ditches included under the contract is excused if due to the refusal of the company's engineer to furnish the contractor with the necessary levels without which the work could not be done).

the time limited by the contract.[47] In the case of an entire contract the general rule is that the whole work must be completed and delivered in a state of completion before payment can be demanded, and if any part has been destroyed before that time the loss must fall upon the contractor;[48] but if the railroad company has accepted the part completed the loss must fall upon it.[49] Where the contractor is to be paid in instalments as the work progresses the contract is not entire,[50] and the covenant to pay is independent of the covenant of the contractor to finish the work within a given time,[51] so that a failure to complete the work or to do so within the time limited will not affect the right of the contractor to recover any unpaid instalments which were due and payable prior to his default;[52] and if he abandons the contract without cause and has at the time received advances in excess of the amounts due, the railroad company may recover such excess.[53]

b. Performance Prevented or Delayed by Railroad Company. If the contractor is prevented from completing the contract by the wrongful conduct or default of the railroad company, he may recover the damages sustained,[54] and the value of the work done;[55] and if during the process of construction the company fails to comply with its part of the agreement or otherwise wrongfully interrupts or suspends the progress of the work, the contractor may abandon it,[56]

47. Indiana.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Donnegan, 111 Ind. 179, 12 N. E. 153, failure of company to procure right of way and furnish stakes for location of bridges and trestles.

New York.— Mansfield v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386.

North Carolina.— Dunavant v. Caldwell, etc., R. Co., 122 N. C. 999, 29 S. E. 837.

Texas.— Perkins v. Locke, (Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 783, failure of company to pay instalments as different sections of the work were completed.

Virginia.— Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware Constr. Co., 98 Va. 503, 37 S. E. 13.

48. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware Constr. Co., 98 Va. 503, 37 S. E. 13.

49. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Delaware Constr. Co., 98 Va. 503, 37 S. E. 13, holding further that a formal acceptance is not necessary, it being sufficient that the company has taken possession and is using the part completed.

50. Wright v. Petrie, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 282; Perkins v. Locke, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 783.

51. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

52. Perkins v. Locke, (Tex. App. 1894) 27 S. W. 783; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

53. Wright v. Petrie, Sm. & M. Ch. (Miss.) 282.

54. Alabama.— Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Danforth, 112 Ala. 80, 20 So. 502; Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60.

Illinois.— Dobbins v. Higgins, 78 Ill. 440.

Indiana.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jawger, 24 Ind. App. 460, 56 N. E. 50.

Kentucky.— Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Pottinger, 10 Bush 185.

Pennsylvania.— Dobbling v. York Springs R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 628, 53 Atl. 493.

Texas.— Waco Tap R. Co. v. Shirley, 45 Tex. 355.

United States.— Hambly v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 21 Fed. 541.

Canada.— Tate v. Port Hope, etc., R. Co., 17 U. C. Q. B. 354.

55. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Danforth, 112 Ala. 80, 20 So. 502; Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60; Cox v. Western Pac. R. Co., 47 Cal. 87; Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill (Md.) 288.

56. California.— Cox v. Western Pac. R. Co., 47 Cal. 87.

Illinois.— Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496.

Maine.— Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

Michigan.— Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Van Dusen, 29 Mich. 431.

Missouri.— Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384.

United States.— Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197.

If the contractor is expressly notified to proceed no further he is fully justified in quitting the work and suing for damages for breach of the contract. Chapman v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 146 Mo. 481, 48 S. W. 646.

If the railroad company fails to make periodical payments as the work progresses, according to the provisions of the contract, the contractor may abandon the work (Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651; Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Van Dusen, 29 Mich. 431; Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384; Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197); although the money is withheld for the purpose of making payments to laborers and subcontractors, if there is no provision in the contract authorizing the company to do so (Dobbins v. Higgins, 78 Ill. 440); and the contractor may sue for the value of the work done (Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., supra; Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., supra); but it has been held that a failure to pay instalments, while authorizing the contractor to suspend work and recover for the work done, is not such a breach of the entire contract as to entitle him to and recover the value of the work completed,[57] and the damages sustained by reason of the wrongful conduct or default of the company;[58] but although a delay or suspension of the work is made necessary by the conduct of the railroad company, the contractor is not obliged to abandon the contract but may subsequently complete the work and recover in addition to the contract price the damages caused by the interruption.[59] If the contractor, through the fault of the railroad company, or its failure to comply with its part of the contract, is delayed in beginning or completing the work, he is entitled to recover the damages sustained by such delay,[60] as in case of a delay on the part of the company in doing certain preliminary work which it was its duty to do,[61] or in procuring the right of way,[62] or in making surveys,[63] or assigning the work to be done each month according to the provisions of the contract,[64] or in making periodical payments as the work progresses as provided by the contract.[65]

9. Actions.[66] Railroad construction contracts are of such a character that specific performance will not be enforced in equity;[67] but in case of a breach of recover damages for the profits which he would have earned had the contract been fully performed (Wharton v. Winch, 140 N. Y. 287, 35 N. E. 589 [reversing 19 N. Y. Suppl. 477]).

Where the work is to be paid for in sections as each ten miles is completed, a refusal of the company to pay when one section is completed authorizes the contractor to treat the contract as rescinded for the remainder and sue for the work done at the contract price. Miller v. Sullivan, 14 Tex. Civ. App. 112, 33 S. W. 695, 35 S. W. 1084, 37 S. W. 778.

57. California.— Cox v. Western Pac. R. Co., 47 Cal. 87.

Illinois.— Dobbins v. Higgins, 78 Ill. 440.

Maine.— Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

Missouri.— Bean v. Miller, 69 Mo. 384.

Texas.— Miller v. Sullivan, 14 Tex. Civ. App. 112, 33 S. W. 695, 35 S. W. 1084, 37 S. W. 778.

United States.— Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197.

58. Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Pottinger, 10 Bush (Ky.) 185; Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

59. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hollerbach, 105 Ind. 137, 5 N. E. 28; Mansfield v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386. Compare Western Union R. Co. v. Smith, 75 Ill. 496; Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Van Dusen, 29 Mich. 431.

60. Indiana.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hollerbach, 105 Ind. 137, 5 N. E. 28.

Maine.— Seretto v. Rockland, etc., R. Co., 101 Me. 140, 63 Atl. 651.

Maryland.— Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Placide, 35 Md. 315.

New York.— Mansfield v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386.

Texas.— O'Connor v. Smith, 84 Tex. 232, 19 S. W. 168.

United States.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

A provison in the contract that should the work be suspended or delayed no damages shall be claimed therefor will be binding if the delay was not caused by the railroad company for any fraudulent purpose or to injure the contractor but was due to an unexpected calamity (Snell v. Brown, 71 Ill. 133); but a provision that in case the company is delayed in acquiring title to lands or for other reasons the contractor shall not be entitled to damages therefor, but shall have an extension of time, applies only to delays which the company may suffer and not to a delay caused by the company in failing to have a survey made for the work (O'Connor v. Smith, 84 Tex. 232, 19 S. W. 168); and although the contract stipulates against damages due to delays caused by the company if the company suspends work but requests the contractor to keep his men and teams upon the work in readiness to resume when required, a contract on the part of the company to compensate him for the loss and expense thus incurred will be implied (Curnan v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 138 N. Y. 480, 34 N. E. 201].

If the contractor is delayed by reason of an injunction he cannot recover damages for the delay unless the railroad company fails to use reasonable diligence to obtain a dissolution of the injunction. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 13 How. (U. S.) 307, 14 L. ed. 157.

61. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hollerback, 105 Ind. 137, 5 N. E. 28; Mansfield v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 205, 6 N. E. 386.

62. Lauman v. Young, 31 Pa. St. 306.

63. O'Connor v. Smith, 84 Tex. 232, 19 S. W. 168.

64. Dunham v. Dayton, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 329.

65. Orange, etc., R. Co. v. Placide, 35 Md. 315, holding further that the liability of the company for damages due to a delay caused by a failure to make payments according to the terms of the contract is not affected by the fact that one of the contractors had private means of his own which he might have employed in fulfilling the contract.

66. See, generally, Contracts, 9 Cyc. 685.

67. New Jersey.—Danforth v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 30 N. J. Eq. 12.

Virginia.— Ewing v. Litchfield, 91 Va. 575, 22 S. E. 362.

United States.— Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rust, the contract by the other party an action for damages may be maintained by either the railroad company [68] or the contractor.[69] If the contractor is prevented from completing his contract by the wrongful act of the railroad company he may in the same action sue for the amount due for the work completed and for damages for the breach of the contract in preventing him from completing it.[70] To entitle the contractor to maintain an action upon the contract there must have been a performance on his part according to the terms of the contract,[71] and so he cannot sue upon the contract where he has wrongfully abandoned the work before completion,[72] or, if time was of the essence of the contract, where he has not completed the work within the time limited; [73] but if he has been permitted to continue after the time limited and the company has accepted the work he may sue in assumpsit,[74] and recover on a quantum meruit.[75] The contractor may also sue in assumpsit where by consent of the railroad company he has been released from completing the work,[76] or the time of performance has been extended; [77] and if prevented from completing it by the railroad company he need not resort to a special action but may sue in assumpsit on the implied liability of the company for the work done.[78]

I. Liabilities For Labor, Materials, or Supplies[79] — 1. In General. In the absence of statute or agreement, a railroad company is not liable for work done for and under the employment of a contractor,[80] or for materials furnished to a contractor.[81] In some jurisdictions, however, there are statutes imposing a liability on the part of railroad companies to laborers who are employed by contractors in the construction of the railroad,[82] or to those furnishing labor or 17 Fed. 275, 5 McCrary 348; Fallon v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,629, 1 Dill. 121; Ross v. Union Pac. R. Co., 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,080, Woolw. 26.

England.— South Wales R. Co. v. Wythes, 3 Eq. Rep. 70, 1 Kay & J. 186, 24 L. J. Ch. 1, 3 Wkly. Rep. 3, 69 Eng. Reprint 422 [affirmed in 3 Eq. Rep. 153, 24 L. J. Ch. 87, 3 Wkly. Rep. 133].

Canada.— Johnson v. Montreal, etc., R. Co., 22 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 290.

See also, generally, Specific Performance.

68. American Bonding, etc., Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 124 Fed. 866, 60 C. C. A. 52.

69. Arrington v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 95 Ala. 434, 11 So. 7; Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hollerbach, 105 Ind. 137, 5 N. E. 28; Waco Tap. R. Co. v. Shirley, 45 Tex. 355.

70. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Danforth, 112 Ala. 80, 20 So. 502; Danforth v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 93 Ala. 614, 11 So. 60.

Amendment.— If the original complaint seeks only a recovery for the work done it may be amended by adding counts for damages, without introducing a new cause of action. Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Danforth, 112 Ala. 80, 20 So. 502.

71. Finegan v. L'Engle, 8 Fla. 413; Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766.

72. Finegan v. L'Engle, 8 Fla. 413.

73. Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766; Emerson v. Slater, 22 How. (U. S.) 28, 16 L. ed. 360; Slater v. Emerson, 19 How. (U. S.) 224, 15 L. ed. 626.

74. Lee v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,197.

75. Snell v. Cottingham, 72 Ill. 161; Emerson v. Slater, 22 How. (U. S.) 28, 16 L. ed. 360; Slater v. Emerson, 19 How. (U. S.) 224, 15 L. ed. 626.

But the company may recoup the damages sustained by reason of the failure of the contractor to complete the contract within the time limited. Snell v. Cottingham, 72 Ill. 161.

76. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Resley, 7 Md. 297.

77. Barker v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 27 Vt. 766.

78. Rodemer v. Gonder, 9 Gill (Md.) 288, holding that in such an action if the work was to be paid for on the basis of monthly estimates, and those estimates have been made and payments made, they are conclusive as to the value of the work covered thereby, but that as to work not estimated or adjusted plaintiff is at large upon his quantum meruit and may show the actual value of such work.

79. Liens for labor or supplies see infra, VIII, A, 6, i; VIII, A, 9, g.

80. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. O'Reily, 38 Ind. 140.

81. Cameron v. Orleans, etc., R. Co., 108 La. 83, 32 So. 208.

An agreement on the part of a railroad company to "protect all claims for materials, labor and board" does not include a claim for hay and feed furnished to a contractor for teams employed by the latter. Pennsylvania Co. v. Mehaffey, 75 Ohio St. 432, 80 N. E. 177, 116 Am. St. Rep. 746.

82. Maine.— George v. Washington County R. Co., 93 Me. 134, 44 Atl. 377.

Missouri.— Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 23 Mo. 107.

New York.— Kent v. New York Cent. R. Co., 12 N. Y. 628.

materials,[83] or labor, materials, or supplies to a contractor.[84] These statutes apply to companies incorporated prior to the enactment of the statutes,[85] and are not unconstitutional,[86] at least in so far as they apply to future contracts; [87] but while they are remedial as to the laborers and others provided for,[88] they impose upon the railroad companies liabilities which would not otherwise exist and should not be extended beyond the fair import of the terms used.[89] In Kansas the statute requires the railroad company to take a bond from the contractors, conditioned for the payment of laborers, materialmen, and those furnishing goods and provisions to a contractor, and provides that in case of failure to do so the railroad company shall be liable therefor,[90] but if such bond is taken the railroad company is relieved from liability.[91] In Louisiana the statutes prohibit payments or advances to contractors until the amounts due to laborers at the time of such payments are paid or secured; [92] and in Pennsylvania the statute prohibits any transfer by a railroad company of its property while the claims of contractors and laborers employed in the construction or repair of its road are unpaid, and makes any transfer void as against such claims;[93] while in Indiana the statute makes the stock-holders of the railroad company individually liable after the assets of the company are exhausted for unpaid claims for labor performed in the construction of the road.[94] In some cases the statutes limit the liability of the railroad company to claims for labor for a certain period,[95] or limit its liability according to Vermont.— Branin v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 31 Vt. 214.

Wisconsin.— Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 342.

Services performed on a quantum meruit as well as for a stipulated price are within the application and protection of the statutes. Chapman v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 96.

A lumber company organized under Me. Rev. St. c. 48, § 116, as a manufacturing corporation, having constructed a railroad on its own land to facilitate its lumbering operations, is not a railroad company within the application of a statute making such companies liable to laborers employed by contractors in the construction of the road. Palangio v. Wild River Lumber Co., 86 Me. 815, 29 Atl. 1087.

83. Hart v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 121 Mass. 510; Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

84. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 67 Kan. 791, 74 Pac. 232; Parkinson v. Alexander, 37 Kan. 110, 14 Pac. 466.

85. Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 23 Mo. 107.

86. Hart v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 121 Mass. 510; Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 23 Mo. 107; Branin v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 31 Vt. 214.

87. Hart v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 121 Mass. 510.

88. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 44 Mich. 538, 7 N. W. 213.

89. Wells v. Mehl, 25 Kan. 205; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 14 Kan. 563; Blanchard v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 87 Me. 241, 32 Atl. 890; Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 44 Mich. 538, 7 N. W. 213.

90. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 67 Kan. 791, 74 Pac. 232; Parkinson v. Alexander, 37 Kan. 110, 14 Pac. 466.

91. Mann v. Burt, 35 Kan. 10, 10 Pac. 95 (holding further that the requirement that the bond shall be filed is merely directory, and not a necessary condition to exempt the railroad company from liability); Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Cuthbert, 14 Kan. 212.

Form and conditions of bond.— In a bond given under the Kansas statute to protect laborers, mechanics, and others in the construction of railroads, the railroad company is the proper obligee, and if such bond contains all the conditions required by the statute it is not vitiated by the addition of other conditions. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Cuthbert, 14 Kan. 212.

92. Meyer v. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co., 35 La. Ann. 897, holding that under the Louisiana statute of 1880, a railroad company cannot be held liable on an order for money drawn by one of its contractors who has not provided for the payment of wages due to his laborers.

93. Hart's Appeal, 96 Pa. St. 355, holding, however, that the statute applies only to those having a direct contractual relation with the company, and that the subsequent statute of 1862 does not enlarge the class of persons protected, but merely aids in the remedy.

A legislative authority to mortgage a railroad does not repeal the protection given by the Pennsylvania statute of 1843, to contractors, laborers, etc., as to construction debts, and such claims are superior to a mortgage lien and may be enforced against the property. Tyron, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 79 Pa. St. 60.

94. See Marks v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 38 Ind. 440; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. O'Reily, 38 Ind. 140.

95. Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586; Kent v. New York Cent. R. Co., 12 N. Y. 628.

But the labor need not be on consecutive days in order to recover for the full number the amount due from the railroad company to the contractor at the time of the presentation of the claim,[96] or authorize the railroad company to withhold money due to the contractor until claims for which it would be liable are paid.[97]

2. Nature and Purpose of Labor, Materials, or Supplies. The statutes imposing a liability upon railroad companies for labor and materials furnished to contractors apply only to labor and materials performed and used in the construction or repair of the road;[98] but are not limited to the original construction and apply to the construction of additional side-tracks,[99] or the construction of a new bridge in place of an old one.[1] The labor applies only to the manual labor of the persons employed,[2] and does not apply to the furnishing of the labor of others,[3] or teams or wagons.[4] The materials include only those which enter into the construction or repair of the road,[5] and do not include board or feed furnished for teams,[6] or for employees of the contractor,[7] or goods, provisions, and other such supplies.[8] In Kansas the statute expressly includes goods and provisions furnished to a contractor,[9] but applies only where they are furnished to the contractor himself.[10]

3. Persons Entitled to Payment — a. In General. The benefit of statutes imposing a liability upon railroad companies to laborers, materialmen, or persons furnishing supplies to contractors should not be extended to include persons not fairly within the terms of the statute,[11] and statutes for the protection of laborers and materialmen do not include the contractors or subcontractors themselves.[12]

b. Laborers.[13] Under statutes imposing a liability upon railroad companies to laborers employed by contractors, the term "laborer" is ordinarily held to include only ordinary manual laborers,[14] who have personally performed the labor for which the claim is made.[15] So it is held that the term "laborer" does not of days allowed by the statute. Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586.

96. Dudley v. Toledo, 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884; Bottomley v. Port Huron, etc., R. Co., 44 Mich. 542, 7 N. W. 214.

97. Dawson v. Iron Range, etc., Co., 97 Mich. 33, 56 N. W. 106; Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

98. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

99. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 14 Kan. 557.

1. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. McConnell, 25 Kan. 370.

2. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

3. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 44 Mich. 538, 7 N. W. 213; Cummings v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 68.

Persons not laborers who merely furnish the labor of others see infra, VI, I, 3, b.

4. Mann v. Burt, 35 Kan. 10, 10 Pac. 95; Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884; Groves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 304; Balch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 521. But see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 44 Mich. 538, 7 N. W. 213.

Where a laborer uses his own team see infra, VI, I, 3, b.

5. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

6. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

7. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

8. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

9. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 67 Kan. 791, 74 Pac. 232, holding that the term "provisions or goods" includes corn, oats, and bran.

10. Parkinson v. Alexander, 37 Kan. 110, 14 Pac. 466.

If not furnished to the contractor there is no liability on the part of either the obligors on the bond, where a bond is taken (Parkinson v. Alexander, 37 Kan. 110, 14 Pac. 466); or on the part of the railroad company where it fails to take a bond as required by statute (St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ritz, 30 Kan. 30, 1 Pac. 27).

Goods and provisions furnished to subcontractors see infra, VI, I, 3, c.

11. Wells v. Mehl, 25 Kan. 205; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 14 Kan. 563; Blanchard v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 87 Me. 241, 32 Atl. 890.

12. Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 458, 29 N. W. 40.

13. Laborers of subcontractor see infra, VI, I, 3, c.

14. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 14 Kan. 563; Blanchard v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 87 Me. 241, 32 Atl. 890; Groves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 304; Balch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 521. But see Warner v. Hudson River R. Co., 5 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 454.

Laborer defined see 24 Cyc. 810.

15. Balch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 521; Cummings v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 68. But see Warner v. Hudson River R. Co., 5 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 454.

include persons employed as superintendents and timekeepers,[16] clerks,[17] or persons merely furnishing the labor of others,[18] or furnishing teams and wagons.[19] Where a laborer furnishes and works with his own team, it has been held that he cannot recover under the statute, where the services were performed at an agreed price for the joint labor of himself and team,[20] although it is stated that if there were separate agreements as to each the laborer might recover for his personal services;[21] but in other cases it has been held, without special reference to the question of separate agreements, that a laborer may recover not only for his personal labor but for the use of his team with which he worked.[22] So also a statute giving laborers on railroads a preferred lien does not include civil engineers,[23] and a statute revoking a grant to an insolvent railroad company and conferring it upon another on condition that it shall pay the claims of laborers against the other company does not include civil engineers or an assistant general manager of such company.[24]

c. Subcontractors and Persons Dealing With Them. In the absence of statute or agreement a railroad company is not liable for work done for and under the employment of a subcontractor,[25] nor is the principal contractor liable for labor so performed for a subcontractor,[26] or supplies furnished to or upon his order.[27] The statutes for the protection of laborers and materialmen do not include subcontractors,[28] and a subcontractor is not entitled to recover as a laborer, although he personally labors along with those employed by him.[29] The statutes imposing a liability on the part of railroad companies to laborers of contractors are, however, held to apply to laborers employed by subcontractors as well as those employed by the original contractor;[30] but a statute making a transfer or assignment of its property by a railroad company void as against the unpaid

16. Mann v. Burt, 35 Kan. 10, 10 Pac. 95; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 14 Kan. 563; Blanchard v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 87 Me. 241, 32 Atl. 890. But see Warner v. Hudson River R. Co., 5 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 454.

17. Mann v. Burt, 35 Kan. 10, 10 Pac. 95.

18. Groves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 304; Atcherson v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 1 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 13, 6 Abb. Pr. N. S. 329; Cummings v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 68. But see Warner v. Hudson River R. Co., 5 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 454.

19. Groves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 304; Balch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 521; Atcherson, etc., R. Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 1 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 13, 6 Abb. Pr. N. S. 329; Cummings v. New York, etc., R. Co., 1 Lans. (N. Y.) 68. But see Warner v. Hudson River R. Co., 5 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 454.

20. Mann v. Burt, 35 Kan. 10, 10 Pac. 95; Balch v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 N. Y. 521; Atcherson, etc., R. Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 1 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 13, 6 Abb. Pr. N. S. 329.

21. See Mann v. Burt, 35 Kan. 10, 10 Pac. 95; Atcherson, etc., R. Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 1 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 13, 6 Abb. Pr. N. S. 329.

22. Branin v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 31 Vt. 214. See also Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 44 Mich. 538, 7 N. W. 213.

23. Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Leuffer, 84 Pa. St. 168, 24 Am. Rep. 189 [reversing 11 Phila. 548].

Liens for labor or supplies see infra, VIII, A, 6, i.

24. State v. Rusk, 55 Wis. 465, 13 N. W. 452.

25. Marks v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 38 Ind. 440; Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. O'Reily, 38 Ind. 140.

26. Ferguson v. Despo, 8 Ind. App. 523, 34 N. E. 575; Streeter v. Dowell, 43 Kan. 545, 23 Pac. 599.

27. Ferguson v. Despo, 8 Ind. App. 523, 34 N. E. 575; Streeter v. Dowell, 43 Kan. 545, 23 Pac. 599.

28. Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 458, 29 N. W. 40.

29. Rogers v. Dexter, etc., R. Co., 85 Me. 372, 27 Atl. 257, 21 L. R. A. 528.

30. Kansas.— Mann v. Corrigan, 28 Kan. 194.

Maine.— George v. Washington County R. Co., 93 Me. 134, 44 Atl. 377.

Missouri.— Grannahan v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 30 Mo. 546; Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586.

New York.— Kent v. New York Cent. R. Co., 12 N. Y. 628 [overruling Millered v. Lake Ontario, etc., R. Co., 9 How. Pr. 238].

Vermont.— Branin v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 31 Vt. 214.

Wisconsin.— Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426; Mundt v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 31 Wis. 451.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 347.

Laborers of subcontractors in the second degree are within the application and protection of the statute. Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.

The violation of an agreement not to sublet a construction contract does not affect the statutory liability of the railroad company to laborers of the subcontractor. Grannahan v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 30 Mo. 546.

claims of contractors and laborers employed in the construction of the road has been held to be limited to those having a direct contractual relation with the company and not to include subcontractors or their employees.[31] The Kansas statute, although applying to goods and provisions furnished to a contractor, does not apply to those furnished to or upon the order of a subcontractor.[32]

d. Assignees or Purchasers of Claims. Claims against railroad companies under their statutory liability for labor, materials, or supplies furnished to contractors are assignable and may be enforced against the railroad company in an action by the assignee.[33]

4. Notice and Proceedings.[34] The statutes imposing a liability on railroad companies for labor and materials furnished to contractors require a notice of the claim to be presented to or served upon the railroad company within a certain time, and ordinarily prescribe the form and contents of such notice,[35] and it is

31. Hart's Appeal, 96 Pa. St. 355, holding that the Pennsylvania statute of 1862 does not enlarge the class of persons protected by the resolution of 1843.

32. Parkinson v. Alexander, 37 Kan. 110, 14 Pac. 466; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ritz, 30 Kan. 30, 1 Pac. 27.

If furnished to a subcontractor or upon his order there is no liability either on the part of the obligors on the bond where a bond is taken (Parkinson v. Alexander, 37 Kan. 110, 14 Pac. 466; Wells v. Mehl, 25 Kan. 205), or on the part of the railroad company, where it fails to take such bond as required by statute (St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ritz, 30 Kan. 30, 1 Pac. 27).

33. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 14 Kan. 557; Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 665, 32 N. W. 884; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sturgis, 44 Mich. 538, 7 N. W. 213; Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586.

The assignee may sue in his own name to enforce a claim for labor performed for a contractor. Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586.

What constitutes assignment.— Where laborers of a contractor or subcontractor are paid by a third person on orders drawn by the contractor or subcontractor, such payment does not constitute an assignment to such person of the laborer's claims, and gives such person no right of action against the railroad company. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884; Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 458, 29 N. W. 40. Compare Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 14 Kan. 557.

34. Enforcement of liabilities generally see infra, VIII, A, 13, 14.

Foreclosure of liens see infra, VIII, B.

35. Massachusetts.—Hart v. Boston Revere Beach, etc., R. Co., 121 Mass. 510.

Michigan.— Quackenbush v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 308, 51 N. W. 883; Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 458, 29 N. W. 40.

Missouri.— Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586; Rapauno Chemical Co. v. Greenfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. App. 6.

New York.— Kent v. New York Cent. R. Co., 12 N. Y. 628; Chapman v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 4 Lans. 96.

Wisconsin.— Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426; Mundt v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 31 Wis. 451.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 350.

Form and sufficiency of notice.— In the notice to the railroad company, certainty beyond that of a common intent is not required, and a notice is not invalid for omitting the full name of the railroad company if it is clearly designated by the name given (Peters v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 24 Mo. 586); and where the statute does not expressly require that the notice shall state the name of the contractor, but merely the "particular nature and amount" of the claim, a notice to a railroad company that plaintiff has a claim against it of a specified amount for labor in the construction of the road between specified dates, is sufficient, although it does not name the contractor by whom plaintiff was employed (Mundt v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 31 Wis. 451); but a notice which is merely a claim for a balance due for work done, without stating that it was for plaintiff's personal labor or the character of the labor, or when performed, or the rate per day, or how much had been paid thereon, is not sufficient (Quackenbush v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 308, 51 N. W. 883).

Service of notice.— Under a statute requiring the notice to be served upon an engineer or other agent or person employed by the railroad company having charge of the section of the road on which the labor was performed or materials furnished, service upon the general manager of the company is not sufficient in the absence of proof that he had supervision over such section of the road (Rapauno Chemical Co. v. Greenfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. App. 6); but the notice may be served upon the chief engineer of the road, although the section of the road upon which the work is performed is under the immediate charge of an assistant engineer (Chapman v. Utica, etc., R. Co., 4 Lans. (N. Y.) 96).

Time for giving notice.— Where the statute requires the notice to be given "within twenty days after the completion of such labor," it is not necessary to give notice at monthly intervals during a continuous term of employment, but a notice within twenty days after the completion of the whole time worked is sufficient (George v. Washington usually required that the action to enforce the claim shall be instituted within a certain time thereafter.[36] The claimant, in order to enforce this statutory liability against the railroad company, must comply with all the requirements of the statute,[37] and upon the trial must allege and prove every fact essential to bring the claim within the application of the statute and to show his right to recover thereon.[38] Where the statute makes the liability of the railroad company conditional upon the existence of an indebtedness on its part to the contractor, the existence of such indebtedness must be established;[39] but where the statute imposes a direct liability upon the railroad company and requires the action to be brought within a specified time after the labor is performed, it is immaterial whether at the time of the action there is anything due from the railroad company to the contractor or not.[40] Such actions may be brought before justices of the peace for amounts within their jurisdiction.[41] Where a contractor executes a bond with sureties for the payment of all just claims for labor and materials used by him in the construction of the road, persons holding such claims may maintain an action on the bond.[42]

J. Injuries From Construction or Maintenance — 1. Nature and Extent of Liability — a. In General. The constitutional right of a person whose property is taken or injured without his consent for public purposes to compensation therefor[43] is not affected by the legislative authority of a railroad company to construct the road,[44] or municipal consent to its construction within the corporate limits,[45] and if there has been no condemnation or compensation made he may recover the damages sustained by action or other appropriate proceeding;[46] but it will be presumed that compensation for all injuries necessarily incidental to the construction of the road in a lawful and proper manner were included in the assessment of damages in condemnation proceedings,[47] or in the consideration for the grant of the right of way.[48] It follows that where the railroad company in constructing its road has proceeded under legislative authority and in a lawful and proper manner, with due care, there can be no recovery as for a tort for any incidental or consequential damages,[49] or any right to enjoin County R. Co., 93 Me. 134, 44 Atl. 377); and where the statute requires notice "within thirty days after such claim or demand shall have accrued," and it appears that it was the custom not to pay the laborers for each month's work until the fifteenth of the following month, the claim does not accrue until the usual time of payment, and a notice within thirty days thereafter is sufficient (Mundt v. Sheboygan, etc., R. Co., 31 Wis. 451).

36. George v. Washington County R. Co., 93 Me. 134, 44 Atl. 377; Rapauno Chemical Co. v. Greenfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. App. 6; Kent v. New York Cent. R. Co., 12 N. Y. 628; Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.

37. Martin v. Michigan, etc., R. Co., 62 Mich. 458, 29 N. W. 40; Rapauno Chemical Co. v. Greenfield, etc., R. Co., 59 Mo. App. 6.

38. Dudley v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 65 Mich. 655, 32 N. W. 884.

39. Bottomly v. Port Huron, etc., R. Co., 44 Mich. 542, 7 N. W. 214.

40. Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.

41. Grannahan v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 30 Mo. 546; Redmond v. Galena, etc., R. Co., 39 Wis. 426.

42. Wells v. Kavanagh, 70 Iowa 519, 30 N. W. 871, holding, however, that where the condition of the bond covers only claims justly due, plaintiff must show by evidence that the work was performed or materials furnished, and that his claim therefor is just, and further that orders given by the contractor to laborers and charged to their accounts do not constitute an admission which will bind the sureties on the bond that the amount of such orders is justly due.

43. See Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 639 et seq.

Measure and elements of damages see Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 704, 995.

44. Costigan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 54 N. J. L. 233, 23 Atl. 810; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Fuller, 63 Tex. 467.

45. Martin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Mo. App. 452; Rosenthal v. Taylor, etc., R. Co., 79 Tex. 325, 15 S. E. 268.

46. See Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 979 et seq.

47. See infra, VI, J, 1, c.

48. See supra, V, D, 3, a.

49. Massachusetts.— Bryant v. Bigelow Carpet Co., 131 Mass. 491.

New Hampshire.— Towle v. Eastern R. Co., 17 N. H. 519.

New York.— Chapman v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 10 Barb. 360.

Ohio.— Lewis v. Mt. Adams, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 566, 3 Cinc. L. Bul. 1007.

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Pape, 62 Tex. 313.

the work of construction;[50] but the legislative authority which protects the company against liability for merely incidental damages does not authorize any direct invasion of private rights,[51] and the company will be liable for damages caused by unauthorized acts,[52] or failure to comply with statutory requirements,[53] or by any encroachment upon lands outside of the limits of its right of way,[54] or trespass committed upon such adjacent lands.[55] The company will also be liable for any injuries due to the negligent or improper manner of constructing its road,[56] for the general rule applies that it must so use its property as not unnecessarily to injure another;[57] but this rule does not require that where the company has acquired a right of way it must construct its road thereon in such manner as to

Vermont.— Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49.

England.— Emsley v. North Eastern R. Co., [1896] 1 Ch. 418, 60 J. P. 182, 65 L. J. Ch. 385, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 113.

Canada.— Ross v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 1 Can. R. Cas. 461; Wallace v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 551; McDonell v. Ontario, etc., R. Co., 11 U. C. Q. B. 271.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit.. "Railroads," §§ 351, 353.

A railroad company which erects a fence on its own land to prevent snow from being blown upon its road is not liable for damages occasioned by the accumulation of snow upon another's land on the other side of the fence, since it is a proper and reasonable use of its property. Carson v. Western R. Co., 8 Gray (Mass.) 423.

50. Emsley v. North Eastern R. Co., [1896] 1 Ch. 418, 60 J. P. 182, 65 L. J. Ch. 385, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 113. See also Warburton v. London, etc., R. Co., 1 R. & Can. Cas. 558.

51. Costigan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 54 N. J. L. 233, 23 Atl. 810; Biscoe v. Great Eastern R. Co., L. R. 16 Eq. 636, 21 Wkly. Rep. 902.

52. Hotard v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 36 La. Ann. 450; Rogers v. Kennebec, etc., R. Co., 35 Me. 319; Caledonian R. Co. v. Colt, 7 Jur. N. S. 475, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 252, 3 Macq. H. L. 833; Wilkes v. Gzowski, 3 U. C. Q. B. 308.

Failure to file map of road.— Under a statute providing that a railroad company before constructing a part of its road shall make and file in the office of the county clerk a map and profile, it has no authority to clear the right of way before such filing and will be liable for damages to the line of a telephone company in clearing the way, although it surveyed its line of road before the telephone line was constructed. White River R. Co. v. Batesville, etc., Tel. Co., 81 Ark. 195, 98 S. W. 721.

Injunctive relief.— Where a railroad company constructed its line so as to leave for the passage for a private road two intervals of nine feet three inches each, when the interval required by statute for such a way was twelve feet, and plaintiff's right of way was not disputed but he had lain by and allowed the work to proceed and the damage accruing in consequence was small, it was held that the court would not grant an injunction to restrain the infringement of his legal right. Wintle v. Bristol, etc., R. Co., 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 20, 10 Wkly. Rep. 210.

53. Caledonian R. Co. v. Colt, 7 Jur. N. S. 475, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 252, 3 Macq. H. L. 833, holding that an action for damages will lie against a railroad company for not restoring a private railroad within the period prescribed by statute.

54. Roushlange v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 106, 17 N. E. 198; Ryan v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 62 Miss. 162.

Where an embankment is negligently constructed so that the earth of the embankment spreads beyond the right of way upon plaintiff's land, he may recover for the damages sustained. Sims v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 56 S. C. 30, 33 S. E. 746.

55. Booth v. McIntyre, 31 U. C. C. P. 183.

56. Illinois.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Dooley, 32 Ill. App. 228.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bonhago, 94 Ky. 67, 21 S. W. 526, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 737; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Moore, 82 S. W. 624, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 859.

Maine.— Rogers v. Kennebec, etc., R. Co., 35 Me. 319.

Massachusetts.— Bryant v. Bigelow Carpet Co., 131 Mass. 491.

New York.— Egener v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. App. Div. 157, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 319.

South Carolina.— Sims v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 56 S. C. 30, 33 S. E. 746.

Texas.— Rosenthal v. Taylor, etc., R. Co., 79 Tex. 325, 15 S. W. 268; Nading v. Denison, etc., R. Co., (Civ. App. 1901) 62 S. W. 97.

West Virginia.— Richards v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 56 W. Va. 592, 49 S. E. 385.

England.— Biscoe v. Great Eastern R. Co., L. R. 16 Eq. 636, 21 Wkly. Rep. 902.

Canada.— Vanhorn v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 18 U. C. Q. B. 356.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 351, 353.

In the case of impairment of lateral support the actionable wrong is not the excavation but permitting another's land to fall, and the landowner cannot recover damages until the earth is so much disturbed that it slides or falls. Kansas City Northwestern R. Co. v. Schwake, 70 Kan. 141, 78 Pac. 431, 68 L. R. A. 673.

57. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Dick, 9 Ind. 433; Kirk v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 667, 25 So. 457; Biscoe v. Great Eastern R. Co., L. R. 16 Eq. 636, 21 Wkly. Rep. 902.

occasion the least possible injury to the owners of adjacent lands, regardless of its own interests and the requirements of a properly constructed road-bed.[58]

b. Effect of Ownership of Right of Way. The fact that the railroad company owns its right of way absolutely does not affect its liability for damages to the property of others caused by the negligent or improper manner of constructing its road,[59] or by improper encroachments upon the land outside the limits of its right of way.[60]

c. Effect of Assessment in Condemnation Proceedings.[61] Where land is condemned for the construction of a railroad the damages assessed include whatever injuries will result from its construction and are incidental to its use,[62] so that the landowner cannot thereafter recover damages for injuries merely incidental to the construction of the road if done in a lawful and proper manner;[63] but the damages are assessed upon the theory that the road will be constructed in a skilful and proper manner,[64] and since so limited the landowner may subsequently recover damages for any injury due to a negligent or improper construction of the road,[65] or improper encroachment upon his lands outside of the right of way,[66] or failure to comply with a statutory requirement, such as the construction of fences or cattle-guards,[67] or restoring a private way interfered with by the

58. International, etc., R. Co. v. Pape, 62 Tex. 313, holding that a railroad company will not be liable because it constructed its road through plaintiff's land upon an embankment, whereby access between different parts of his property was rendered less convenient.

A railroad company is not bound to construct a trestle instead of an embankment because the former would occasion less inconvenience to the landowner. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Richards, 11 Tex. Civ. App. 95, 32 S. W. 96.

59. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Dooley, 32 Ill. App. 228; Roushlange v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 106, 17 N. E. 198; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Dyche, 31 Kan. 120, 1 Pac. 243 [reversed without opinion on stipulation of counsel in 32 L. ed. 325].

60. Roushlange v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 106, 17 N. E. 198.

Where a railroad company by adverse possession acquires a right of way over private property its title is limited to the extent of its possession and it will be liable to the owner of adjacent land for damages resulting from a widening of the right of way beyond such limits. Ryan v. Mississippi Valley, etc., R. Co., 62 Miss. 162.

61. Effect of conveyance of right of way see supra, V, D, 3, a.

62. See EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 705.

63. Missouri.— Clark v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. 202.

New Hampshire.— Clark v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 24 N. H. 114; Aldrich v. Cheshire R. Co., 21 N. H. 359, 53 Am. Dec. 212.

North Carolina.— Fleming v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 676, 20 S. E. 714.

Texas.— International, etc., R. Co. v. Pape, 62 Tex. 313.

Canada.— Knapp v. Great Western R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 187.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 362.

Where a company is not required to fence or construct cattle-guards the cost of constructing such as will be rendered necessary by the construction of the railroad is included in the assessment of damages, and the landowner cannot subsequently recover for injuries due to their absence. Clark v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. 202; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. London, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 426.

64. McCormick v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 433; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Nebr. 456, 87 N. W. 167; Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49. See also, generally, EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 728.

65. Illinois.— Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Pattison, 67 Ill. App. 351; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Willi, 53 Ill. App. 603.

Indiana.— Roushlange v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 106, 17 N. E. 198.

Missouri.— McCormick v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 433.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Nebr. 456, 87 N. W. 167; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. O'Neill, 58 Nebr. 239, 78 N. W. 521.

New Hampshire.— Perley v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 57 N. H. 212.

Tennessee.— Carriger v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 7 Lea 388.

Vermont.— Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 362. See also, generally, EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 995.

Removal of stock gaps.— Where land in the possession of tenants is condemned as the property of the landlord and all damages for the condemning of the right of way paid to him, the railroad company will be liable to tenants for injuries to crops by trespassing stock due to a removal by the company after the condemnation of cattle-guards previously maintained by it. Rome, etc., Constr. Co. v. Jennings, 85 Ga. 444, 11 S. E. 839.

66. Roushlange v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 115 Ind. 106, 17 N. E. 198.

67. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Meador, 50 Tex. 77.

construction of the railroad;[68] and this rule applies although the injury results from some new use made by plaintiff of his property after the construction of the road, provided such use is a reasonable and customary one,[69] and is not affected by the fact that plaintiff was not the owner of the land at the time the railroad was built.[70]

d. Release, Waiver, or Estoppel.[71] Where a landowner verbally agrees to convey a right of way without charge, and the railroad company relying on his promise and without objection on his part constructs its road, he is estopped to thereafter recover damages for the taking of his property,[72] or if he permits a railroad company to excavate a tunnel on his land without objection until the tunnel is completed and the railroad constructed through it, he is estopped to maintain an action for damages;[73] but the consent of a landowner to the construction of a railroad through his premises is not a waiver of the statutory duty of the company to construct fences or cattle-guards.[74] Where a landowner executes a contract releasing the railroad company from all damages which will result from the construction of its road, a subsequent purchaser of the property with knowledge of the contract will be bound thereby;[75] but a release of all damages caused by the construction of the railroad does not contemplate or prevent a recovery for injuries due to a negligent or improper construction;[76] and a mere parol license given to a railroad company by a landowner to divert water upon his lands may be revoked by a subsequent grantee and damages recovered for injuries accruing subsequent to such revocation.[77] A lot owner in a city is not estopped to recover damages to his property caused by the negligent or improper manner of constructing a railroad in a street by having signed a petition to the city authorities to grant the company a right of way through the street,[78] or by having been a member of the city council and voted in favor of granting the right of way,[79] or by having consented to the construction of a new sidewalk to take the place of one removed to make room for the alterations in the street made necessary by the railroad.[80]

e. Occupation or Obstruction of Streets and Highways.[81] As to whether the use of a street or highway for railroad purposes when duly authorized is such a use as entitles an abutting property-owner to compensation or damages the authorities are not entirely agreed, and the subject has been elsewhere fully considered.[82] Where such use is held to entitle the abutting owner to compensation or the particular use or acts done by the railroad company constitute an injury to his property for which he is entitled to be compensated and there has been no condemnation or compensation made, he may sue for and recover the damages sustained[83] without proof of negligence in the manner of doing the 68. Caledonian R. Co. v. Colt, 7 Jur. N. S. 475, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 252, 3 Macq. H. L. 833.

69. Perley v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 57 N. H. 212.

70. Carriger v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 7 Lea (Tenn.) 388.

71. Conveyance of right of way as a waiver of damages see supra, V, D, 3, a.

72. Evans v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 9 Tex. Civ. App. 124, 28 S. W. 903.

73. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Perdue, 40 W. Va. 442, 21 S. E. 755.

74. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Meador, 50 Tex. 77.

75. Root v. Pennsylvania Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 315, 7 Ohio N. P. 337.

76. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hurst, 25 Ill. App. 98; Jungblum v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 70 Minn. 153, 72 N. W. 971; Fremont, etc., R. Co. v. Harlin, 50 Nebr. 698, 70 N. W. 263, 61 Am. St. Rep. 578, 36 L. R. A. 417; Brown v. Pine Creek R. Co., 183 Pa. St. 38, 38 Atl. 401.

77. Foot v. New Haven, etc., Co., 23 Conn. 214.

78. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hall, 13 Ky. L. Rep. 174.

79. Lamm v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 45 Minn. 71, 47 N. W. 455, 10 L. R. A. 268.

80. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Pratt, 53 Ill. App. 263.

81. Rights in and use of streets and highways see supra, V, I.

82. See EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 672.

83. California.— Coates v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 1 Cal. App. 441, 82 Pac. 640.

Illinois.— Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Davis, 71 Ill. App. 99.

Kentucky.— Henderson Belt R. Co. v. Dechamp, 95 Ky. 219, 24 S. W. 605, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 82.

Maryland.— Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reaney, 42 Md. 117.

work;[84] but where the construction of the road does not of itself entitle such owner to compensation the right to recover damages depends upon the manner of its construction,[85] and if the work done was duly authorized and the company has proceeded in a legal and proper manner, there can be no recovery for merely incidental or consequential damages.[86] The railroad company will, however, be liable for all damages sustained where it has constructed its road in a street or highway without authority,[87] or has constructed it in an unauthorized manner,[88] and generally for injuries resulting from the negligent or improper mode of construction,[89] or failure to comply with statutory requirements;[90] but for damages resulting from works of construction, although incidental to the construction of a railroad, which were done by municipal or other public authorities, and over

Missouri.— Martin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Mo. App. 452.

Ohio.— Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 16 Ohio Cir. Ct. 269, 9 Ohio Cir. Dec. 37.

Pennsylvania.— Hare v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 10 Pa. Super. Ct. 647.

Texas.— Schier v. Cane Belt R. Co., (Civ. App. 1907) 100 S. W. 360; Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Bulgier, (Civ. App. 1898) 47 S. W. 1047.

Wisconsin.— Buchner v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 60 Wis. 264, 19 N. W. 56.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 354.

Municipal consent cannot affect the right of a property-owner to recover damages where he is deprived of a property right for which he has a constitutional right to compensation. Martin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Mo. App. 452.

Smoke, sparks, cinders, and vibrations.—An adjoining lot owner is entitled to recover damages for a direct injury to his property from smoke, sparks, cinders, and vibrations caused by the operation of a railroad in a street. Willis v. Kentucky, etc., Bridge Co., 104 Ky. 186, 46 S. W. 488, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 475; Louisville Southern R. Co. v. Hooe, 47 S. W. 621, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 849; Louisville Southern R. Co. v. Hooe, (Ky. 1896) 38 S. W. 131. See also generally, EMINENT DOMAIN, 15 Cyc. 754.

84. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reaney, 42 Md. 117; Schier v. Cane Belt R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 100 S. W. 360.

Lateral support.— Where property is injured by reason of the impairment of lateral support in constructing a railroad tunnel under a street, the owner is entitled to recover for the damages sustained without regard to negligence in the manner of doing the work. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Reaney, 42 Md. 117.

85. Fulton v. Short Route R. Transfer Co., 85 Ky. 640, 4 S. W. 332, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 291, 7 Am. St. Rep. 619.

86. Illinois.— Kotz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 70 Ill. App. 284.

Indiana.— Dwenger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 98 Ind. 153.

Iowa.— Slatten v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 29 Iowa 148, 4 Am. Rep. 205.

Kansas.— Ottawa, etc., R. Co. v. Larson, 40 Kan. 301, 19 Pac. 661, 2 L. R. A. 59.

Minnesota.— Robinson v. Great Northern R. Co., 48 Minn. 445, 51 N. W. 384.

New York.— Bennett v. Long Island R. Co., 181 N. Y. 431, 74 N. E. 418 [affirming 89 N. Y. App. Div. 379, 85 N. Y. Suppl. 938]; Fobes v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 121 N. Y. 505, 24 N. E. 919, 8 L. R. A. 453; Chapman v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 10 Barb. 360.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 354.

Changing grade of street.—An authorized change in the grade of a street, made in order to restore it to its former condition of usefulness where it is crossed by a railroad, does not entitle an abutting owner to recover damages. Conklin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 102 N. Y. 107, 6 N. E. 663; Connors v. Great Western R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 108.

87. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 6 App. Cas. (D. C.) 259.

88. Indiana.— Tate v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 479.

Iowa.— Gates v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82 Iowa 518, 48 N. W. 1040.

Missouri.— Restetsky v. Delmar Ave., etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 382, 85 S. W. 665.

New Jersey.— United New Jersey R., etc., Co. v. Lewis, 68 N. J. Eq. 437, 59 Atl. 227.

Rhode Island.— Hughes v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 2 R. I. 493.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 354.

An unauthorized change in the grade of a street by a railroad company entitles an abutting lot owner to recover the damages resulting therefrom. Gates v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 82 Iowa 518, 48 N. W. 1040.

89. Tate v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 479; Parrot v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 624; Quillinan v. Canada Southern R. Co., 6 Ont. 567.

Effect of acquiescence.— Where there is no evidence that a demand was ever made upon a railroad company occupying a street to level the bed of its road and the top of the rails it will be presumed from long acquiescence that the track was laid as was intended, and an abutting lot owner cannot recover damages for such alleged defect. Merchants' Union Barb-Wire Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 79 Iowa 613, 44 N. W. 900.

90. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Speed, 3 Tex. Civ. App. 454, 22 S. W. 527, holding that a railroad company will be liable to an abutting owner for damages due to lessened facilities for ingress and egress to and from his property, caused by a failure to restore the which the railroad company had no control, the company will not be liable.[91] A person cannot maintain a private action for a mere obstruction of a street or highway by which he is injured only as a member of the public generally,[92] as where a person, although an abutting landowner, is not affected as to his right of ingress and egress to and from his property, but only as to his use of the street or highway in common with the rest of the public;[93] but if he sustains a special injury different from that of the public generally he may recover therefor,[94] as where the railroad is so constructed in front of abutting property as improperly to obstruct the owner's right of ingress and egress,[95] or is so constructed or maintained as to constitute a public nuisance from which a special injury is sustained.[96] The railroad company will also be liable for injuries sustained by persons in the use of a street or highway due to a dangerous condition negligently created or left unguarded by the company in constructing its road,[97] or its failure to restore the street or highway to its former condition,[98] or to construct and maintain street or highway to its former condition as required by statute after a reasonable time has elapsed for it to do so.

91. Foster v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 118 N. Y. App. Div. 143, 103 N. Y. Suppl. 531; Welde v. New York, etc., R. Co., 28 N. Y. App. Div. 379, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 290; Taylor v. New York, etc., R. Co., 27 N. Y. App. Div. 190, 50 N. Y. Suppl. 697.

Where a city constructs a temporary track for the use of a railroad during the changes and improvements in its streets, the railroad company is not liable to a property-owner for an injury caused by the resulting interference with access to his property, where no negligence in the operation of the road is shown. McGrane v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 20 Pa. Super. Ct. 200.

92. Connecticut.— Newton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Conn. 420, 44 Atl. 813.

Missouri.— Stephenson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 642.

Ohio.— Wheeling, etc., R. Co. v. McLaughlin, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 1, 7 Ohio Cir. Dec. 647.

Vermont.— Buck v. Connecticut, etc., R. Co., 42 Vt. 370.

Canada.— Hamilton v. Covert, 16 U. C. C. P. 205; Hamilton, etc., Road Co. v. Great Western R. Co., 17 U. C. Q. B. 567; Ward v. Great Western R. Co., 13 U. C. Q. B. 315.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 354.

93. Stephenson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 642.

If the obstruction is not in front of plaintiff's property and does not interfere with the easement of access immediately in front thereof, the owner cannot maintain a private action for damages, although access to it is rendered more inconvenient, the injury sustained being one in common with the public. Newton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Conn. 420, 44 Atl. 813.

94. Brewer v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 113 Mass. 52; Haney v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 278; Patton v. Olympia Door, etc., Co., 15 Wash. 210, 46 Pac. 237.

A plank road company has a special interest in its road different from that of the public using it and may recover damages for a failure on the part of a railroad company which has constructed a railroad across the plank road to restore the latter to its former condition within a reasonable time. Streetsville Plank Road Co. v. Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 13 U. C. Q. B. 600.

95. California.— Coats v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 1 Cal. App. 441, 82 Pac. 640.

Indiana.— Tate v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 7 Ind. 479.

Kansas.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Armstrong, 71 Kan. 366, 80 Pac. 978, 114 Am. St. Rep. 474, 1 L. R. A. N. S. 113.

Kentucky.— Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Lordier, 50 S. W. 15, 20 Ky. L. Rep. 1759.

Missouri.— Martin v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Mo. App. 452.

Canada.— Quillinan v. Canada Southern R. Co., 6 Ont. 567; Brown v. Toronto, etc., R. Co., 26 U. C. C. P. 206.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 354.

Where the property abuts on two streets the fact that the access thereto from one street is unimpaired will not affect the right to recover damages for obstructing the access from the other street. Hulett v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 80 Mo. App. 87 [disapproving in part Stephenson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 68 Mo. App. 642].

96. Cane Belt R. Co. v. Ridgeway, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 108, 85 S. W. 496; Haney v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 278.

97. Deming v. Terminal R. Co., 169 N. Y. 1, 61 N. E. 983, 88 Am. St. Rep. 521 [affirming 49 N. Y. App. Div. 493, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 615]; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Pollard, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 172, 66 S. W. 851.

98. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Leachman, 161 Ind. 512, 69 N. E. 253; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 34 Ind. App. 636, 73 N. E. 630; Texas Midland R. Co. v. Johnson, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 572, 50 S. W. 1044; Thompson v. Great Western R. Co., 24 U. C. C. P. 429; Fairbanks v. Great Western R. Co., 35 U. C. Q. B. 523.

Where a railroad company builds a temporary way for the public around the track while constructing a crossing, which after completion of the road and restoration of the crossing is left in a dangerous condition, without any notice thereof to the public, the company will be liable to a person injured thereby. Texas Midland R. Co. v. Johnson, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 572, 50 S. W. 1044.

crossings in a safe and proper condition,[99] and if a municipality has been held liable for an injury caused by a defective condition of a crossing which it was primarily the duty of a railroad company to keep in repair, it may recover over against the company;[1] but the railroad company can only be held liable where the defect or condition causing the injury was one for which it was responsible.[2] Where a municipality grants a railroad company a right of way through its streets upon the express condition that the company shall pay all damages to property-owners which shall result from the construction of the road, the company will be liable therefor,[3] and the property-owner may recover for damages done during the process of construction as well as for that caused by the construction of the road when completed.[4] So also where a charter provision requires a railroad company to pay "all damages that may arise to any person," from the construction of the road, the company will be liable for damages so caused, although there is not a taking of plaintiff's property within the application of the constitutional provision relating to the making of compensation in such cases.[5]

f. Obstruction, Diversion, or Interference With Waters and Watercourses.[6] An adjacent landowner may recover damages for injuries resulting from the construction of a railroad over or near a watercourse, where such injuries are due to the negligent or improper construction of the road,[7] or breach of duty on the part of the railroad company in regard to its maintenance and repair.[8] A suit in equity may also be maintained to restrain a railroad company from wrongfully diverting the waters of a stream,[9] or to compel it to restore a stream wrongfully diverted to its former channel,[10] or to remedy an improper mode of con-

99. Southern Indiana R. Co. v. McCarrell, 163 Ind. 469, 71 N. E. 156; Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 34 Ind. App. 636, 73 N. E. 630; Camp v. Wabash R. Co., 94 Mo. App. 272, 68 S. W. 96; Sonn v. Erie R. Co., 66 N. J. L. 428, 49 Atl. 458; Oliver v. North Eastern R. Co., L. R. 9 Q. B. 409, 43 L. J. Q. B. 198.

Only reasonable care is required on the part of a railroad company in maintaining a highway crossing. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 322, 85 S. W. 476.

1. Independence v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 86 Mo. App. 585.

2. Ross v. Metropolitan, etc., R. Co., 104 N. Y. App. Div. 378, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 679.

Bridge over highway.—A railroad company which builds a bridge over a highway of more than the height required by law is not liable to one injured while driving under the same, where the highway authorities have subsequently raised the original surface of the highway so as to make the bridge less than the required height. Carson v. Weston, 1 Ont. L. Rep. 15.

3. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Haller, 82 Ill. 208; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Capps, 72 Ill. 188.

The right of action in such cases is based upon and governed by the ordinance without reference to the constitutional provision in regard to compensation for property taken or damaged for corporate purposes. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Haller, 82 Ill. 208.

4. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Capps, 72 Ill. 188.

5. Bradley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 21 Conn. 294, holding that under such a provision the damages include not only those which are direct but also those which are incidental or consequential, provided they are actual and substantial and not merely speculative.

But if there is neither an injury nor a taking of plaintiff's property and the acts of defendant were duly authorized, there can be no recovery. Nicholson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 74, 56 Am. Dec. 390.

6. See, generally, WATERS.

7. McCormick v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 433; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Nebr. 456, 87 N. W. 167; Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49; McGillivray v. Great Western R. Co., 25 U. C. Q. B. 69; Vanhorn v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 9 U. C. C. P. 264, 18 U. C. Q. B. 356.

8. West v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 8 Bush (Ky.) 404.

Maintenance of protecting wall.—A railroad company which bridges low land near a river having on it a wall constituting part of a system adopted by adjoining proprietors to prevent flooding is liable to one of such proprietors whose lands are flooded by reason of its neglect to keep its part of the wall in repair. Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Lawton, 75 Ga. 192.

9. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 46 Kan. 701, 27 Pac. 182, 26 Am. St. Rep. 165; Garwood v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 83 N. Y. 400, 38 Am. Rep. 452 [affirming 17 Hun 356]; Pugh v. Golden Valley R. Co., 15 Ch. D. 330, 49 L. J. Ch. 721, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 863, 28 Wkly. Rep. 863.

Acquiescence on the part of plaintiff during a long period during which the railroad company has expended a large sum of money in constructing its road will bar a right to equitable relief. Illingworth v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 2 R. & Can. Cas. 187.

10. Wright v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 49

struction which will occasion constantly recurring injuries by overflowing plaintiff's land.[11] The adjoining landowner may recover damages for injuries to his lands, property, or crops due to the negligent or improper obstruction,[12] or diversion of a stream,[13] insufficient or improperly constructed bridges or culverts,[14] or failure to keep the same in proper condition or repair,[15] a failure to comply with a statutory requirement as to the mode of constructing the road along or across watercourses,[16] or statutes requiring the company to restore a stream to its former state,[17] or to construct culverts and sluices for drainage purposes,[18]

Hun (N. Y.) 445, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 480 [affirmed in 124 N. Y. 668, 27 N. E. 854].

11. Keates v. Holywell R. Co., 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 183.

12. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Henneberry, 153 Ill. 354, 38 N. E. 1043 [affirming 42 Ill. App. 126]; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 52 Ill. App. 670.

Indiana.— Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. McKinley, 33 Ind. 274.

Maine.— Penley v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 92 Me. 59, 42 Atl. 233.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Nebr. 456, 87 N. W. 167.

Texas.— Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts, (Civ. App. 1905) 86 S. W. 1052; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Steele, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 328, 69 S. W. 171.

Canada.— Vanhorn v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 9 U. C. C. P. 264, 18 U. C. Q. B. 356; Anderson v. Great Western R. Co., 11 U. C. Q. B. 126.

See 41 Cent Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 357.

Although the obstruction is of a temporary character during the process of construction the railroad company will be liable if the obstruction is unnecessary or if it is maintained for an unnecessary length of time. Anderson v. Great Western R. Co., 11 U. C. Q. B. 126.

It is no defense in an action against a railroad company for damages to plaintiff's land by the negligent construction and maintenance of an embankment across a river, that plaintiff acquired his land after defendant had constructed the embankment. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. 569.

Erecting trestles in stream under bridge.— Where a railroad company for the purpose of strengthening and supporting a previously constructed bridge erects trestles under the bridge in the bed of the stream in such a way as to accumulate ice in large quantities, which on breaking away destroys a dam, the owner of the dam is entitled to recover for the damages sustained. Dutton v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 630.

Building pier in stream.— In an action for injuries to land caused by a railroad company building a bridge pier in a stream, it is error to charge that, although the company had a right to bridge the stream it would be liable for any injury caused by any change, modification, or interference with the natural flow of the water, as such instruction would permit a recovery for injuries incidentally ensuing from a careful and proper exercise of a legal right. Braine v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 218 Pa. St. 43, 66 Atl. 985.

13. East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Eisentraut, 134 Ill. 96, 24 N. E. 760 [affirming 34 Ill. App. 563]; George v. Wabash Western R. Co., 40 Mo. App. 433; Garwood v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 83 N. Y. 400, 38 Am. Rep. 452 [affirming 17 Hun 356]; Cott v. Lewiston R. Co., 36 N. Y. 214, 1 Transcr. App. 26, 34 How. Pr. 222.

14. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carpenter, 125 Ill. App. 306.

Maine.— Penley v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 92 Me. 59, 42 Atl. 233.

Massachusetts.— Bryant v. Bigelow Carpet Co., 131 Mass. 491.

Nebraska.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Nebr. 456, 87 N. W. 167; McCleneghan v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 25 Nebr. 523, 41 N. W. 350, 13 Am. St. Rep. 508.

Vermont.— Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49.

West Virginia.— Neal v. Ohio River R. Co., 47 W. Va. 316, 34 S. E. 914.

Canada.— Vanhorn v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 9 U. C. C. P. 264, 18 U. C. Q. B. 356; McGillivray v. Great Western R. Co., 25 U. C. Q. B. 69; Carron v. Great Western R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 192; Robitaille v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 15 Quebec Super. Ct. 246.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 357.

15. West v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 8 Bush (Ky.) 404; Bryant v. Bigelow Carpet Co., 131 Mass. 491; Payne v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 112 Mo. 6, 20 S. W. 322, 17 L. R. A. 628.

16. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Hamlet Hay Co., 149 Ind. 344, 47 N. E. 1060, 49 N. E. 269; Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Ind. App. 294, 77 N. E. 57, 1055.

17. Illinois.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Moffitt, 75 Ill. 524.

Indiana.— Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Ind. App. 294, 77 N. E. 57, 1055.

New York.— Cott v. Lewiston R. Co., 36 N. Y. 214, 1 Transcr. App. 26, 34 How. Pr. 222.

Vermont.— Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 49.

Canada.— Moison v. Great Western R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 102.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 357.

18. Kankakee, etc., R. Co. v. Horan, 23 Ill. App. 259; Austin, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 79 Tex. 427, 15 S. W. 484, 23 Am. St. Rep. 350; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Helsley, 62 Tex. 593; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Selman, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 89 S. W. 1101; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Rollins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 89 S. W. 1099.

Under a statutory requirement that a railroad company shall construct "the necessary or lateral ditches along the road-bed.[19] Damages may also be recovered for wrongfully obstructing a landowner's right of access to a navigable river.[20] A railroad company will also be liable for damages resulting from a wrongful obstruction or diversion of surface waters,[21] its liability in this regard being the same as that of private owners;[22] but the rule of liability is different under the civil and common law, and there is a corresponding lack of uniformity in the decisions of the different states.[23] Under the civil law rule a railroad company is liable for damages due to an obstruction of surface waters by the construction of its road;[24] but under the common-law rule it may without liability construct its road-bed without providing openings for surface drainage,[25] and is not liable for a diversion or obstruction of surface water due to a properly constructed road-bed.[26] The railroad company has a right to provide for the drainage of its road-bed so as to culverts or sluices as the natural lay of the land requires for the necessary drainage thereof," the requirement is imperative and the exercise of reasonable care will not relieve the company's liability if they prove insufficient and the land is thereby flooded. Kankakee, etc., R. Co. v. Horan, 23 Ill. App. 259.

It is no defense in an action against a railroad company for damages to land, owing to defendant's failure to construct necessary culverts, that what would have protected plaintiff's property would have injured another (St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Rollins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 89 S. W. 1099); that defendant's embankment was constructed before plaintiff became the owner of the property (Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Maddox, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 297, 63 S. W. 134); or that the point where a break in the embankment occurred causing plaintiff's lands to be flooded was not adjacent to his lands (Missouri, etc., R. Co., v. McGregor, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 711).

19. Cox v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 174 Mo. 588, 74 S. W. 854; Byrne v. Keokuk, etc., R. Co., 47 Mo. App. 383.

20. North Shore R. Co. v. Pion, 14 App. Cas. 612, 59 L. J. P. C. 25, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 525 [affirming 14 Can. Sup. Ct. 677 (reversing 12 Quebec 205)]; Bigaouette v. North Shore R. Co., 17 Can. Sup. Ct. 363.

21. Chorman v. Queen Anne R. Co., 3 Pennew. (Del.) 407, 54 Atl. 687; Curtis v. Eastern R. Co., 98 Mass. 428; Alton v. Hamilton, etc., R. Co., 13 U. C. Q. B. 595.

Stagnant water constituting nuisance.— Where a railroad company in constructing its road-bed obstructs a natural drain, thereby causing water to accumulate and form a stagnant pond near the residence of an adjoining landowner, amounting to a nuisance dangerous to health, the company will be liable for damages resulting therefrom, whether the nuisance be of a temporary or permanent character. Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Jernigan, 128 Ga. 501, 57 S. E. 791.

A municipality which owns a road may sue for and recover damages for an injury to such road caused by the negligent and improper construction of drains by a railroad company. Sarnia v. Great Western R. Co., 17 U. C. Q. B. 65.

Flood waters from river.— Where a railroad company constructed a solid embankment across low lands which caused plaintiff's lands to be damaged by the flood waters of a river from which such land was formerly protected, it was held that, although the company was not required by statute to make flood openings in its embankments and could not be compelled by mandamus to do so, yet since it might by proper care have prevented the injury sustained by the landowner, an action was maintainable for the recovery of damages therefor. Lawrence v. Great Northern R. Co., 16 Q. B. 643, 15 Jur. 652, 20 L. J. Q. B. 293, 6 R. & Can. Cas. 656, 71 E. C. L. 643.

22. Egener v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. App. Div. 157, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 319; Jenkins v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 110 N. C. 438, 15 S. E. 293.

23. Abbott v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 83 Mo. 271, 53 Am. Rep. 581; Egener v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. App. Div. 157, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 319; Jolliffe v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., (Va. 1894) 20 S. E. 781. See also, generally, WATERS.

24. Gillam v. Madison County R. Co., 49 Ill. 484, 95 Am. Dec. 627; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 68 Md. 281, 11 Atl. 822, 6 Am. St. Rep. 440. See also, generally, WATERS.

25. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Keyes, 55 Kan. 205, 40 Pac. 275, 49 Am. St. Rep. 249; Abbott v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 83 Mo. 271, 53 Am. Rep. 581; Egener v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 N. Y. App. Div. 157, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 319; Nichol v. Canada Southern R. Co., 40 U. C. Q. B. 583.

The principles applicable to streams of running water do not apply to the flow of mere surface waters. Crewson v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 27 U. C. Q. B. 68.

26. Abbott v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 83 Mo. 271, 53 Am. Rep. 581 [overruling Shane v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 71 Mo. 237, 36 Am. Rep. 480; McCormick v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 70 Mo. 359, 35 Am. Rep. 431]; Benson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 504; Munkers v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 334; Hosher v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 329; Fleming v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 676, 20 S. E. 714; Hornby v. New Westminster Southern R. Co., 6 Brit. Col. 588; Nichol v. Canada Southern R. Co., 40 U. C. Q. B. 583. See also, generally, WATERS.

protect and preserve the same,[27] but it must do so in a reasonable manner and with due regard to the rights of others,[28] and in no case has a railroad company the right to divert and collect surface waters and discharge the same in large quantities to the injury of lands where they would not otherwise flow.[29] The right of action for damages for constructing an insufficient culvert across a stream does not accrue at the time of construction but when a resulting injury from an overflow occurs,[30] but each overflow caused by such negligent construction creates a new cause of action.[31]

g. Fences and Cattle-Guards. Where a railroad company is not required to fence its track or construct cattle-guards, it will not be liable to an adjoining landowner for injuries occasioned by their absence,[32] such as injuries to crops or pastures by trespassing animals,[33] and if it has voluntarily constructed them will not be liable for failure to maintain or keep them in repair.[34] The railroad company has a right for its own protection to construct a fence upon its right of way,[35] but it may be liable for constructing a fence in such a negligent or improper manner as to constitute a nuisance or source of danger.[36] Where railroad companies are expressly required to construct fences or cattle-guards, the right to recover for damages occasioned by their failure to do so depends upon the purpose of the requirement;[37] and if the design of the statute is not to protect the adjacent landowner, but merely to protect the railroad and insure the safety of passengers

27. Benson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 504; McCormick v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 433; Jenkins v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 110 N. C. 438, 15 S. E. 193; Hornby v. New Westminster Southern R. Co., 6 Brit. Col. 588.

28. McCormick v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 57 Mo. 433; Staton v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 278, 16 S. E. 181, 17 L. R. A. 838.

Discharging accumulated water.—A railroad company will be liable for injury to adjacent lands caused by cutting openings in an embankment to allow the escape of water accumulated against one side of the embankment by reason of an unprecedented rain fall. Whalley v. Lancashire, etc., R. Co., 13 Q. B. D. 131, 48 J. P. 500, 53 L. J. Q. B. 285, 50 L. T. Rep. N. S. 472, 32 Wkly. Rep. 711.

29. Chorman v. Queen Anne's R. Co., 3 Pennew. (Del.) 407, 54 Atl. 687; Curtis v. Eastern R. Co., 98 Mass. 428; Staton v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 278, 16 S. E. 181, 17 L. R. A. 838; Minor v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 9 U. C. C. P. 280.

Permitting other landowners to use railroad ditch.— Where a railroad company constructs a drainage ditch along its road-bed through the lands of one adjacent owner, and afterward permits other landowners to divert the drainage of their lands into such ditch, causing it to overflow and injure plaintiff's lands, the company will be liable. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Heisner, 192 Ill. 571, 61 N. E 656 [affirming 93 Ill. App. 469].

30. Kelly v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 28 Ind. App. 457, 63 N. E. 233, 91 Am. St. Rep. 134; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Andreesen, 62 Nebr. 456, 87 N. W. 167; Vanhorn v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 9 U. C. C. P. 264, 18 U. C. Q. B. 356.

31. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Willi, 53 Ill. App. 603.

32. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walbrink, 47 Ark. 330, 1 S. W. 545; Fairchild v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 62 Miss. 177; Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

A railroad company is entitled to an open right of way and may make openings in fences of a landowner in constructing its road, and if not required to fence its track or construct cattle-guards will not be liable for injuries caused by animals entering through such openings. Caststeel v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 81 Ark. 364, 99 S. W. 540.

Animal falling into unfenced cut.— Where a railroad company is not required to fence its track, it will not be liable for injury to an animal which falls into an unfenced cut where the road passes through a pasture. Jones v. Western North Carolina R. Co., 95 N. C. 328.

33. Caststeel v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 81 Ark. 364, 99 S. W. 540; Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

34. Rossignoll v. Northeastern R. Co., 75 Ga. 354; Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. Dixon, 61 Miss. 119; Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

35. Carson v. Western R. Co., 8 Gray (Mass.) 423, holding that a railroad company which erects a fence on its own land to prevent snow from being blown upon its road is not liable for damages occasioned by the accumulation of snow upon the land of another on the other side of the fence.

36. Winkler v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 370, 35 S. E. 621, 78 Am. St. Rep. 663, holding that a railroad company will be liable for injury to stock caused by the construction of a barbed wire fence through a pasture, where it is constructed in a negligent and improper manner.

37. Cannon v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 Ill. App. 640; Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Schiller, 12 Ill. App. 443; Clark v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. 202.

and trains thereon, and to prevent animals from coming upon the track and being injured, the company will not be liable for injuries to crops or pastures by trespassing animals.[38] So also where the statute imposing the duty expressly provides the liability for its non-performance, the right of recovery is limited accordingly.[39] Where, however, the statute is for the benefit of adjoining landowners and its application not restricted to particular injuries, the landowner may recover for any injury which is a natural and proximate result of the omission of such duty,[40] or failure subsequently to keep the fences or cattle-guards in repair,[41] such as the destruction of or injury to his crops,[42] or pastures,[43] or for animals which escape from his inclosures and are lost or injured.[44] The landowner is also entitled to recover damages for the diminution of the value of the use of his land owing to the absence of fences or cattle-guards,[45] or the deprivation of the use

38. Cannon v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 Ill. App. 640; Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Schiller, 12 Ill. App. 443; Clark v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. 202.

39. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Schiller, 12 Ill. App. 443 (holding that where the statute expressly provides that for failure to fence or construct cattle-guards the company shall be liable for injuries to animals by its engines or cars, the company will not be liable for an injury to crops by trespassing animals); Mangold v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 606, 92 S. W. 573 (holding that under the Missouri statute, which provides that the railroad company for failure to fence shall be liable for injuries to animals and for injuries done by animals coming upon the adjacent lands, there can be no recovery upon the ground that the landowner was deprived of the use of his lands for agricultural purposes). But see Leggett v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 41 Hun (N. Y.) 80, holding that the provision of the New York statute that until the fences and cattle-guards required are built the railroad company shall be liable for all injuries to animals was not intended to limit the liability of the railroad company to the injury specified.

40. Leggett v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 41 Hun (N. Y.) 80.

Cost of herding cattle.—A landowner may recover damages for being compelled on account of the failure of the railroad company to construct cattle-guards to incur the expense of herding his cattle to prevent them from escaping from his inclosures. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Behney, 48 Kan. 47, 28 Pac. 980.

41. Fortune v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 58 S. W. 711, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 749.

42. Iowa.— Donald v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 44 Iowa 157.

Mississippi.— Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 72 Miss. 491, 17 So. 168.

Missouri.— Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118; Biggerstaff v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 567; Trice v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 49 Mo. 438; Rosentingle v. Illinois Southern R. Co., 122 Mo. App. 492, 99 S. W. 788; Gordon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Mo. App. 201.

New Hampshire.— Dean v. Sullivan R. Co., 22 N. H. 316.

Texas.— Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 63 Tex. 200; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Dudley, 1 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 540.

Canada.— Nichol v. Canada Southern R. Co., 40 U. C. Q. B. 583; Brown v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 U. C. Q. B. 350.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 356.

Injury by plaintiff's own animals.— If the railroad company fails to fence its tracks a landowner may recover for a resulting injury to crops done by his own animals which escape from his pasture land to his cultivated land. Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518; Kirkpatrick v. Illinois Southern R. Co., 120 Mo. App. 416, 96 S. W. 1036.

Animals wrongfully at large.— In some jurisdictions where it is unlawful for stock to run at large it is held that a failure to fence or construct cattle-guards will not render the railroad company liable for injury to crops of an adjoining landowner, where the animals causing such injury were wrongfully at large and trespassing upon the railroad. Gowan v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 25 Minn. 328; Chapin v. Sullivan, 39 N. H. 53, 75 Am. Dec. 207.

Change in location of owner's fence.—Where a railroad company after making insufficient cattle-guards where the road enters inclosed lands agrees that if the landowner will remove his fence to another line it will erect new cattle-guards at the new location, it will be liable for damage to his crops by reason of its failure to construct them within a reasonable time. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Lynch, 31 Kan. 531, 3 Pac. 372.

Limitations.— The fact of cattle from time to time getting upon plaintiff's land and destroying crops does not constitute a "continuation of damage" so as to entitle plaintiff to recover for more than six months' injury, the statute referring not to a continuation of the omission but the damage resulting therefrom, and several unconnected acts of damage, each complete in itself, will not constitute continuation within the meaning of the statute. Brown v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 U. C. Q. B. 350.

43. Buttles v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 43 Mo. App. 280; Shotwell v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 37 Mo. App. 654.

44. Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 74 Am. Dec. 722; Southwestern Tel., etc., Co. v. Krause, (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 92 S. W. 431; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297.

45. Gould v. Great Northern R. Co., 63 of a pasture.[46] A railroad company has a right to make openings in existing fences which intersect its right of way for the purpose of constructing its road;[47] but where a railroad company is required to fence or construct cattle-guards, if it does not do so at the time it opens up its right of way through the inclosures of the landowner it must provide other adequate means of protection,[48] and if it does not it will be liable for a resulting injury to crops,[49] or for animals which escape from such inclosures and are lost.[50] Where a railroad company has acquired the right to construct its road through certain lands, it is not liable for the acts of a contractor for construction or his servants in tearing down fences,[51] or leaving open gates or bars;[52] but the rule is otherwise where such acts are done before the railroad company has acquired the right to enter and construct its road upon such lands;[53] and the company cannot delegate to a contractor its statutory duty of fencing so as to escape liability for the non-performance of such duty.[54] The failure of a landowner to avail himself of a statutory authority to construct fences or cattle-guards upon failure of the railroad company to do so will not preclude his right to recover for damages sustained by reason of the failure of the railroad company to construct them.[55] If the landowner constructs his fences upon the railroad right of way the company may, when necessary, remove them, provided it does no unnecessary damage in so doing.[56]

h. Private or Farm Crossings. Where a railroad company is required to construct private or farm crossings, the landowner may recover damages for the loss or inconvenience sustained by reason of its failure to do so,[57] or failure to provide a suitable crossing,[58] or for unreasonable delay in making it,[59] or result-

Minn. 37, 65 N. W. 125, 56 Am. St. Rep. 453, 30 L. R. A. 590; Nelson v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 41 Minn. 131, 42 N. W. 788; Emmons v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 215, 36 N. W. 340; Emmons v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 503, 29 N. W. 202; Leggett v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 41 Hun (N. Y.) 80; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116.

46. Leggett v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 41 Hun (N. Y.) 80; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116.

47. Rutledge v. Woodstock, etc., R. Co., 12 U. C. Q. B. 663.

48. Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 74 Am. Dec. 722; Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297.

49. Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512; Clark v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 103.

50. Gardner v. Smith, 7 Mich. 410, 74 Am. Dec. 722; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297.

51. Clark v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. 202.

52. Clark v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 28 Vt. 103.

53. Ullman v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 67 Mo. 118 [distinguishing Clark v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 36 Mo. 202].

54. Silver v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 528, 47 Am. Rep. 118.

55. See infra, VI, J, 1, m.

56. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Wills, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 848.

57. Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Pittman, 53 S. W. 1040, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1037.

Louisiana.— Heath v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 37 La. Ann. 728.

Missouri.— Sheridan v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 56 Mo. App. 68.

New Jersey.— Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

Canada.— Reist v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 15 U. C. Q. B. 355.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 355.

Under the New Hampshire statute damages for failure to construct crossings cannot be recovered unless the place, number, and manner of their construction have been determined by agreement between the parties or in the manner provided for by the statute in case they are unable to agree. Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 70 N. H. 403, 47 Atl. 265; Horne v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 36 N. H. 440.

A landowner may recover for stock drowned in a pasture during an overflow, owing to the failure of a railroad company to provide openings for crossings in its right-of-way fences, as required by statute; and where it appears that the stock would have been drowned in an ordinary overflow the fact that the flood was unprecedented will not affect the question of defendant's liability. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115.

Where it is necessary to change the location of a crossing on account of alterations and improvements in the road-bed, if there is an unreasonable delay in constructing the new crossing the landowner may recover for the damages sustained during such delay, but if it was not unreasonable he can recover only nominal damages. Costello v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 70 N. H. 403, 47 Atl. 265.

58. Burke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 484.

59. Burke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 6 U. C. C. P. 484.

ing from its obstruction or removal of an existing crossing to which he is entitled;[60] and a statutory right of the landowner to construct the crossing himself and recover therefor from the railroad company does not preclude his right to recover damages sustained by reason of the failure of the railroad company to do so.[61] Damages may also be recovered for injuries sustained in the use of the crossing due to its negligent or improper construction or condition,[62] but the liability of the railroad company only extends to those who are entitled to the benefit or use of the crossing.[63]

1. Injuries From Blasting.[64] A railroad company in constructing its road has a lawful right to excavate by means of blasting whenever necessary to do so,[65] and the damage incident to a proper exercise of this right is considered as an element of damage in condemnation proceedings.[66] The railroad company will, however, be liable for injuries to the lands, buildings, person, or property of an adjacent landowner due to negligence in the manner of blasting,[67] and in some cases it has been held that the company will be liable for all injuries caused by its blasting regardless of the degree of care employed in doing the work.[68] In other cases, however, it is held that the railroad company will not be liable in the absence of negligence;[69] but the degree of care must be proportionate to the danger of injury,[70] and whether due care under the circumstances has been exercised is ordinarily a question of fact for the jury.[71] Where the blasting is in a dangerous locality, such as near a dwelling, the company should, if practi-

60. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. McGehee, 47 Ill. App. 348; Farwell v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 N. H. 335, 56 Atl. 751; Dubbs v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 148 Pa. St. 66, 23 Atl. 833; Wells v. Northern R. Co., 14 Ont. 594.

If a railroad company constructs bars at an open crossing the landowner may recover damages unless the bars were necessary for the purposes of the railroad in its own operations. Willey v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 96 N. C. 408, 1 S. E. 446.

61. See infra, VI, J, 1, m.

62. Cotton v. New York, etc., R. Co., 20 N. Y. Suppl. 347; Prince v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 14 N. Y. Suppl. 817.

63. See infra, VI, J, 1, j.

64. Injuries from blasting generally see EXPLOSIVES, 19 Cyc. 7.

65. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hanks, 80 Ark. 417, 97 S. W. 666; Whitehouse v. Androscoggin R. Co., 52 Me 208; Sabin v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 363; Watts v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 39 W. Va. 196, 18 S. E. 521, 45 Am. St. Rep. 894, 23 L. R. A. 674.

It is not a private nuisance for a railroad company to use explosives in excavating in the construction of its road. Booth v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 140 N. Y. 267, 35 N. E. 592, 37 Am. St. Rep. 552, 24 L. R. A. 105 [reversing 17 N. Y. Suppl. 336].

66. Whitehouse v. Androscoggin R. Co., 52 Me. 208; Brown v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 5 Gray (Mass.) 35; Blackwell v. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 151, 16 S. E. 12, 32 Am. St. Rep. 786, 17 L. R. A. 729; Sabin v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 363.

67. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Bernstein, 113 Ga. 175, 38 S. E. 394; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bonhayo, 94 Ky. 67, 21 S. W. 526, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 737; Wheeler v. Norton, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 368, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1095 [affirming 84 N. Y. Suppl. 524]; Blackwell v. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 151, 16 S. E. 12, 32 Am. St. Rep. 786, 17 L. R. A. 729.

A full compliance with municipal regulations in regard to blasting will not relieve the company from liability if it was in fact negligent. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Bernstein, 113 Ga. 175, 38 S. E. 394.

68. G. B. & L. R. Co. v. Eagles, 9 Colo. 544, 13 Pac. 696; Wheeler v. Norton, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 368, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1095 [affirming 84 N. Y. Suppl. 524]; Carman v. Steubenville, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio St. 399; Gossett v. Southern R. Co., 115 Tenn. 376, 89 S. W. 737, 112 Am. St. Rep. 846, 1 L. R. A. N. S. 97.

Damages recoverable.— There can be no recovery on the ground that plaintiff was disquieted and kept in a state of alarm if there was no physical injury or impairment of health, but plaintiff may recover for a diminution in the usable value of his property and the loss and inconvenience due to being compelled temporarily to vacate his house and premises. Gossett v. Southern R. Co., 115 Tenn. 376, 89 S. W. 737, 112 Am. St. Rep. 846, 1 L. R. A. N. S. 97.

69. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hanks, 80 Ark. 417, 97 S. W. 666; Booth v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 140 N. Y. 267, 35 N. E. 592, 37 Am. St. Rep. 552, 24 L. R. A. 105 [reversing 17 N. Y. Suppl. 336]; Sabin v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 363; Watts v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 39 W. Va. 196, 19 S. E. 521, 45 Am. St. Rep. 894, 23 L. R. A. 674.

70. Booth v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 140 N. Y. 267, 35 N. E. 592, 37 Am. St. Rep. 552, 24 L. R. A. 105 [reversing 17 N. Y. Suppl. 336].

71. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Bernstein, 113 Ga. 175, 38 S. E. 394; Blackwell v. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 151, 16 S. E. 12, 32 Am. St. Rep. 786, 17 L. R. A. 729.

cable to do so at a reasonable expense, cover and protect the blast,[72] and should give timely warning to those residing or employed in the vicinity.[73] While the company will not be liable in the absence of negligence for the mere throwing of rock by blasting upon adjacent lands,[74] it will be liable for the resulting damage if it is not removed within a reasonable time.[75] The railroad company may also be liable for using a blast where injury is liable to result and it is practicable to remove the rock without blasting,[76] or for using blasts of unnecessary power,[77] and may be enjoined from conducting its blasting operations in such manner as to cause unnecessary danger or injury to adjacent property.[78]

j. Persons Entitled to Sue. Although a railroad company may have been guilty of negligence or the breach of some duty in regard to the construction or maintenance of its road, only those to whom the company owes a duty in respect to the matter complained of are entitled to sue or recover damages therefor.[79] So if a statute imposing a duty or liability limits it to a particular class of persons, only such persons can sue as are within the application of the statute;[80] and since the statutory duty of providing private or farm crossings is for the benefit of the landowner,[81] the railroad company will not be liable by reason of their condition to persons who are not entitled to use them.[82] The right of action for damages to property where the damage accrues directly from and immediately upon the 72. Blackwell v. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 151, 16 S. E. 12, 32 Am. St. Rep. 786, 17 L. R. A. 729.

73. Blackwell v. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co., 111 N. C. 151, 16 S. E. 12, 32 Am. St. Rep. 786, 17 L. R. A. 729, holding further, that if the company has been accustomed to give warning before blasting it will be liable for injury to one who places himself in a dangerous position because misled by its failure to do so in the particular case.

74. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hanks, 80 Ark. 417, 97 S. W. 666; Sabin v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 363.

75. Whitehouse v. Androscoggin R. Co., 52 Me. 208; Sabin v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 363; Watts v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 39 W. Va. 196, 19 S. E. 521, 45 Am. St. Rep. 894, 23 L. R. A. 674.

76. Wheeler v. Norton, 92 N. Y. App. Div. 368, 86 N. Y. Suppl. 1095 [affirming 84 N. Y. Suppl. 524].

77. See Booth v. Rome, etc., R. Co., 140 N. Y. 267, 35 N. E. 592, 37 Am. St. Rep. 552, 24 L. R. A. 105 [reversing 17 N. Y. Suppl. 336].

78. Arnold v. Furness R. Co., 22 Wkly. Rep. 613.

79. Johnson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Minn. 316, 104 N. W. 961; Opdycke v. Easton, etc., R. Co., 68 N. J. L. 12, 52 Atl. 243.

Conditon of railroad bridge.— Negligence on the part of a railroad company in permitting a railroad bridge to get out of repair will not render it liable to a mere licensee who was injured while using it. Opdycke v. Easton, etc., R. Co., 68 N. J. L. 12, 52 Atl. 243.

80. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Murphree, 129 Ala. 432, 29 So. 592; Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Judge, 100 Ga. 600, 28 S. E. 379.

Application of rule.— Under a statute requiring railroad companies to construct cattle-guards "whenever the owner of the land" through which the road runs shall demand them and show that they are necessary to prevent depredations of stock "upon his land," no one except the actual owner of the land can sue for damages caused by a failure to construct them (Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Sturgis, 149 Ala. 573, 43 So. 96; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Murphree, 129 Ala. 432, 29 So. 592); and where a statute requiring the construction of cattle-guards provides that the company shall be liable "to the owner of the land" for all damages caused by a failure to construct them, the liability extends only to the owner of the land and not to one who is merely cultivating it (Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Judge, 100 Ga. 600, 28 S. E. 379); but under a statute requiring a railroad company to fence its tracks where the road passes through inclosed lands, and providing that if it fails to do so it shall be liable to any owner or occupier of the land for resulting damages, a person is an occupier within the application of the statute who is a tenant of a part of the field which is within one inclosure and rented to different persons, although the point where the stock entered which injured his crop was not adjacent to the part of the field rented by him (Brannock v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 379, 80 S. W. 699); and a person is also within the application of the statute who is a tenant of the land adjoining the railroad at the point where the stock entered, and from which they passed to other lands owned by him and within a common inclosure and injured crops thereon (Langkop v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 55 Mo. App. 611). The word "proprietors" also includes tenants of lands adjoining a railroad, who may recover for injury to crops due to the failure of the railroad company to fence. Brown v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 U. C. Q. B. 350.

81. Johnson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Minn. 316, 104 N. W. 961.

82. Johnson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Minn. 316, 104 N. W. 961; Mann v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Mo. 347; Cornell v. Skaneateles, etc., R. Co., 15 N. Y. Suppl. 581.

construction of the road does not pass to a grantee of the land;[83] but where the damage accrues after the construction as a consequence of the negligent or improper mode of construction, as in the case of overflows due to the want of proper culverts, a person owning the property at the time of the injury may recover, although he did not own it when the road was constructed,[84] and bought the property with knowledge of the existing conditions.[85]

k. Companies and Persons Liable.[86] Where a railroad constructed by one company subsequently passes into the hands of another company, the original company is alone liable for injuries due to the construction or maintenance of the road which accrued prior to the transfer,[87] and the succeeding company is alone liable for the injuries resulting from any new work of construction or repair done by it thereafter.[88] The succeeding company will also be liable for injuries resulting after its acquisition of the road due to the manner in which it was constructed by its predecessor, if it continues to use the road in its defective or improper condition,[89] with knowledge of such condition.[90] Ordinarily to hold the succeeding company liable it must have notice of the condition causing the injury;[91] but if it has actual knowledge thereof an express notice and demand to remedy the defect is not necessary,[92] and no notice is necessary where the defect or condition constitutes a public nuisance and results from a violation of a statutory duty.[93] Statutory duties of a continuing nature, such as the duty to restore a highway to its former condition or to maintain crossings, devolve upon the succeeding company, which will be liable therefor in the same manner as the original company would have been.[94] Where the injury results from concurrent acts of two or more railroad companies, each will be liable therefor.[95]

l. Proximate Cause of Injury. Although a railroad company in the construction or maintenance of its road may have been guilty of negligence or the omission of some statutory duty, there can be no recovery therefor unless such negligence or omission was the proximate cause of the injury complained of.[96]

83. Evans v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 90 Ala. 54, 7 So. 758.

84. Carriger v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 7 Lea (Tenn.) 388; Richards v. Ohio River R. Co., 56 W. Va. 592, 49 S. E. 385.

85. Richards v. Ohio River R. Co., 56 W. Va. 592, 49 S. E. 385.

86. As between vendor and purchaser see infra, VII, B, 4, c.

As between lessor and lessee see infra, VII, C, 6, c.

Companies affected by statutory regulations see infra, X, B, 2.

Injuries from operation of road see infra, X, C.

Liability for acts of independent contractor see MASTER AND SERVANT, 26 Cyc. 1546 et seq.

87. Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 15 S. C. 10.

88. Day v. New Orleans Pac. R. Co., 37 La. Ann. 131.

89. Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608; Penley v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 92 Me. 59, 42 Atl. 223; Culver v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Mo. App. 130; Vaughn v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun (N. Y.) 471, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 246.

90. Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608.

91. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Barton, 38 Ill. App. 469, holding that without previous notice of the defective character of a railroad bridge or request to make changes therein, a railroad company purchasing the road after its construction will not be liable to a landowner whose property is overflowed and injured on account of the manner in which the bridge was originally constructed.

92. Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608.

93. Vaughn v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun (N. Y.) 471, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 246.

94. Seybold v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 18 Ind. App. 367, 46 N. E. 1054; Allen v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 151 N. Y. 434, 45 N. E. 845; Vaughn v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 72 Hun (N. Y.) 471, 25 N. Y. Suppl. 246.

Continuing duty to restore highway see supra, VI, D, 3, h.

95. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Maddox, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 297, 63 S. W. 134.

96. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Sneed, 84 Miss. 252, 36 So. 261; Biggerstaff v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 567; Grau v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 54 Mo. 240; Chapin v. Sullivan R. Co., 39 N. H. 53, 75 Am. Dec. 207; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Johnson, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 322, 85 S. W. 476.

Application of rule.— The failure of a railroad company to fence its tracks or construct cattle-guards as required by statute is not the proximate cause of an injury to crops done by trespassing animals, if the animals came upon the land at some other point than that at which the company had failed to fence or construct cattle-guards (Giggerstaff v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 60 Mo. 567; Chapin v.

So also the injury must be one which might reasonably have been anticipated as the natural and probable result of such negligent act or omission,[97] and the determination of this question is ordinarily one of fact for the jury;[98] but if the injury was one which might reasonably have been anticipated as the natural and probable result the railroad company will be liable,[99] and it is not necessary that the negligence of the railroad company should be the sole cause of the injury,[1] or that the precise injury which in fact did occur should have been foreseen.[2] It must also of course appear that the act or omission causing the injury was one for which the railroad company and not some third person was responsible.[3]

m. Contributory Negligence of Person Injured or Damaged. In actions based upon the negligence or omission of a statutory duty by a railroad company in regard to the construction or maintenance of its road, a recovery may, as in other cases, be precluded by the contributory negligence of the person injured or damaged,[4] and it is the duty of a person to exercise ordinary care in protecting his property against injury from such causes if he can do so with slight trouble or expense;[5] but he is not required to incur any large amount of trouble Sullivan R. Co., 39 N. H. 53, 75 Am. Dec. 207; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Simonton, 2 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 22 S. W. 285); or if they were turned into plaintiff's field by defendant's servants on being extricated from a wrecked train which had rolled down an embankment (Gray v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 54 Mo. App. 240).

97. Charlebois v. Gogebic, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 59, 51 N. W. 812; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297.

Application of rule.— Where a railroad company constructs a fill against which after a heavy rain a pool of water is formed upon its right of way on the opposite side of the fill from plaintiff's house and where he has no right to cross, the company will not be liable for the death of plaintiff's child who climbs over the fill and falls into such pool and is drowned, as the injury is one which could not have been foreseen when the fill was made (Charlebois v. Gogebic, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 59, 51 N. W. 812); and where a railroad company fails to fence its track as required by statute and animals escape from an adjoining inclosure and are lost or injured, the liability of the railroad company will depend upon whether under the circumstances the loss or the injury which occurred was a natural and proper result of such omission (Gordon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 44 Mo. App. 201; Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297).

98. Holden v. Rutland, etc., R. Co., 30 Vt. 297.

99. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hoag, 90 Ill. 339 (holding that where one sustains damage to his property resulting from the freezing upon his premises of water which flows thereon from a railroad tank, the damage being sustained in consequence of the freezing of the water, but for which it would have flowed away from the premises without injury, the company will be liable as the injury is one which might reasonably and naturally have been expected to result); St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McKinsey, 78 Tex. 298, 14 S. W. 645, 22 Am. St. Rep. 54 (holding that a railroad company which has negligently destroyed a pasture fence is not relieved from liability for the loss of horses which escape in consequence thereof by the fact that they had recently been brought from a remote part of the state, and the company had no notice of their character, as it could reasonably have anticipated that the owner of the pasture would put therein stock that would be liable to stray off in the absence of a fence).

1. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 34 Ind. App. 636, 73 N. E. 630.

2. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 34 Ind. App. 636, 73 N. E. 630.

3. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Tucker, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 224, 85 S. W. 461, holding that where a railroad company in constructing its road through plaintiff's inclosure closed up the openings made in his fences with wire and bars, whereupon plaintiff placed a gate at said point which was used by the public generally, and through which stock entered his inclosure and destroyed his crops, he cannot recover against the railroad company in the absence of evidence showing by whom or through whose fault the gate was left open.

Private switch.—A railroad company is not responsible for a public nuisance caused by an embankment built in order to make a connection between a private switch and its tracks where it did not construct the switch or have any interest therein, and could not under an existing constitutional provision prevent its construction or the connection with its tracks. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 S. W. 382, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 65.

4. Reynolds v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 70 Kan. 340, 78 Pac. 801; Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

5. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 110 Ill. App. 626; Millhouse v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio Cir. Ct. 466, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 682; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Simonton, 2 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 22 S. W. 285; Ward v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. 862.

This rule does not apply so as to compel a landowner to construct fences or cattle-guards upon failure of the railroad company to construct them, although he is authorized by statute to do so and recover therefor or expense for such purpose,[6] or to abandon or forego the ordinary and proper uses of his property on account of the negligent acts or omissions of the railroad company,[7] or to anticipate in planning a particular use of his property that the railroad company will not at the proper time perform its duty.[8] So it is not contributory negligence, where the railroad company has failed to construct fences or cattle-guards, for a landowner to turn his stock into a pasture from which they might escape by reason of the absence of such fences or cattle-guards to his cultivated lands and injure his crops,[9] or to plant a crop which on account of their absence would be exposed to depredations of stock,[10] particularly where he has reason to believe that the railroad company will perform such duty by the time the protection to be afforded thereby will be needed.[11] So also the failure of a landowner to avail himself of a statutory authority to construct fences or cattle-guards, upon failure of the railroad company to do so, and recover their cost, is not contributory negligence which will bar his right to recover for injuries occasioned by the failure of the railroad company to do so,[12] and the same rule applies under similar statutes relating to the construction of private or farm crossings.[13]

2. Actions — a. Nature and Form of Remedy.[14] Where property has been injured by the negligent or improper construction of a railroad, the proper remedy is by an action at law for damages and not by proceedings for an assessment of damages under the statutes relating to condemnation;[15] and where property has not been entered upon but has been injured by the construction of a railroad, and no remedy is provided by statute, an action at law will lie to recover the damages sustained.[16] Where stones have been thrown upon adjacent lands by blasting and not removed within a reasonable time, the proper form of action is case and not trespass;[17] and to recover damages occasioned by a failure of a from the railroad company. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Knoepfli, 82 Tex. 270, 17 S. W. 1052; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 63 Tex. 200; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201. But see Millhouse v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio Cir. Ct. 466, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 682.

6. Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518.

Precautions against flooding lands.—Where a railroad company raises the grade of its road-bed so as to cause a flooding of adjacent lands, the landowner is not obliged to grade up his lot so as to prevent overflow, and his failure to do so is not negligence which will bar a recovery. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Maddox, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 297, 63 S. W. 134.

7. Kirkpatrick v. Illinois Southern R. Co., 120 Mo. App. 416, 96 S. W. 1036; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115.

Where a railroad company neglects to provide open crossings as required by statute where it passes through an inclosed pasture, it is not contributory negligence on the part of the owner to use the pasture knowing that it is subject to overflow and that without such means of escape his stock are liable to be drowned. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115.

8. Raridan v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 69 Iowa 527, 29 N. W. 599.

A tenant of property is not precluded from recovering for injuries due to the negligent construction of a railroad, because he rented the property knowing the road was to be built or did not subsequently terminate his lease, as he had a right to assume that the road would be constructed in a lawful and proper manner. International, etc., R. Co. v. Capers, 33 Tex. Civ. App. 283, 77 S. W. 39.

9. Kirkpatrick v. Illinois Southern R. Co., 120 Mo. App. 416, 96 S. W. 1036.

10. Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518.

11. Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518.

12. Buttles v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 43 Mo. App. 280; Dean v. Sullivan R. Co., 22 N. H. 316; San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Knoepfli, 82 Tex. 270, 17 S. W. 1052; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 63 Tex. 200; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Dugger, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 77 S. W. 1046. But see Millhouse v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Ohio Cir. Ct. 466, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 682.

13. Sheridan v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 56 Mo. App. 68; Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

14. Remedies of owner of property see, generally, Eminent Domain, 15 Cyc. 979 et seq.

15. Estabrooks v. Peterborough, etc., R. Co., 12 Cush. (Mass.) 224; Sims v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 56 S. C. 30, 33 S. E. 746. See also Cole v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 74 N. C. 587.

16. Ritchie v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 14 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 424.

17. Sabin v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 25 Vt. 363.

railroad company to construct farm crossings as required by statute, an action on the case for tort is the proper remedy.[18] Where the lawful construction of a railroad causes an injury to property of a permanent character, the entire damage, past, present, and future, resulting therefrom, should be sued for and recovered in one action,[19] and a judgment in one action will bar any subsequent action for the same cause;[20] but if the injury results from a negligent or improper construction, plaintiff is not required to treat the injury as of a permanent character, but may sue for the damages already sustained and may maintain successive actions as often as a new injury occurs,[21] as for each overflow and damage to lands or crops caused by a defective or improperly constructed bridge or culvert.[22] If, however, plaintiff treats the negligent or defective structure as a permanent source of injury, and recovers the full amount of damages both present and prospective, he cannot afterward maintain a second action for damages.[23] So also where successive injuries have resulted from the same breach of duty, as from a failure of the railroad company to fence its tracks, they constitute a single cause of action which may be sued for in one complaint, and plaintiff cannot be compelled to elect as to which he will proceed upon;[24] but on the contrary if he splits up such single cause of action and sues for one item of the damages, the judgment will be a bar to any subsequent action for a different item which might have been included in the first complaint.[25] An action by a landowner for consequential damages to his property from the construction of a railroad may be brought at any time after its construction if within the period of limitations.[26]

b. Jurisdiction and Venue. Where land situated in one county is damaged by reason of the construction of a railroad embankment in another county, the action may be brought in either county;[27] and under the statutes in some jurisdictions actions for damages to land by the construction of a railroad are not local but transitory, and need not be brought in the county where the land lies,[28] but may be brought in any county through which the road runs,[29] or where service may be had upon defendant as provided by statute.[30] The provision of the Missouri statute that actions against railroad companies for killing or injuring stock shall be brought before a justice in the township in which the injury occurred or in an adjoining township does not apply to actions for injuries to crops.[31] Where the suit is for damages and no ground of equity jurisdiction is disclosed by the pleadings, it is error to transfer the case to the equity docket.[32]

c. Pleading. In actions for injuries due to the construction or maintenance of a railroad, as in other civil actions, the complaint must allege facts sufficient

18. Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486, holding, however, that a count in tort for the damages sustained cannot be joined with a count to recover the value of the crossing constructed by plaintiff, as the latter count is founded upon contract.

19. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Loeb, 118 Ill. 203, 8 N. E. 460, 59 Am. Rep. 341; Elizabethtown, etc., R. Co. v. Combs, 10 Bush (Ky.) 382, 19 Am. Rep. 67.

20. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Loeb, 118 Ill. 203, 8 N. E. 460, 59 Am. Rep. 341; Fowle v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 107 Mass. 352.

21. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schaffer, 124 Ill. 112, 16 N. E. 239 [affirming 26 Ill. App. 280].

22. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schaffer, 124 Ill. 112, 16 N. E. 239 [affirming 26 Ill. App. 280]; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Willi, 53 Ill. App. 603.

23. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schaffer, 124 Ill. 112, 16 N. E. 239 [affirming 26 Ill. App. 280].

24. Ray v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 25 Mo. App. 104.

25. Steiglider v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 38 Mo. App. 511.

26. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. O'Neill, 58 Nebr. 239, 78 N. W. 521.

27. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Combs, 43 Ill. App. 119 [affirmed in 142 Ill. 187, 31 N. E. 598].

28. Archibald v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 66 Miss. 424, 6 So. 238; Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 29 Nebr. 492, 46 N. W. 39.

29. Archibald v. Mississippi, etc., R. Co., 66 Miss. 424, 6 So. 238.

30. Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 29 Nebr. 492, 46 N. W. 39.

31. Rosentingle v. Illinois Southern R. Co., 122 Mo. App. 492, 99 S. W. 788, holding that such actions may be brought in the same manner as if the action was against an individual.

32. Hughes v. Arkansas, etc., R. Co., 74 Ark. 194, 85 S. W. 773.

to constitute a cause of action,[33] and with sufficient particularity to inform defendant of the acts or omissions relied on.[34] The complaint must show plaintiff's right to maintain the action,[35] and a breach of duty on the part of the railroad 33. Henry v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 142 Ala. 386, 38 So. 361; Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614; Fuller v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 392, 80 S. W. 914; Privett v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 54 S. C. 98, 32 S. E. 75.

Complaint held insufficient.— Where the action is based on the ground that the mode of constructing or maintaining the road is a nuisance, the complaint must allege either that it was constructed by defendant or maintained by it after notice to abate the nuisance. Wabash R. Co. v. Sanders, 47 Ill. App. 436. A complaint alleging that defendant had by collusion with another company allowed the latter to use its road and grade a branch, whereby defendant aided such company "to reach plaintiff's possession," which was taken by the latter company by force from plaintiff and his crops destroyed, does not constitute a cause of action. Henry v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 142 Ala. 386, 38 So. 361. A petition in a suit to enjoin a railroad company from acting under an ordinance permitting it to construct an arch over a street, which alleges that the arch would be a public and private nuisance, and that an obstruction of the street would damage plaintiff, but does not allege that the arch would obstruct the street, or any facts showing that it would in itself be a nuisance, is insufficient. Gilcrest Co. v. Des Moines, 128 Iowa 49, 102 N. W. 831. A complaint which charges negligence in the maintenance of a roadway under a railroad bridge, but alleges an injury from falling on a pathway outside of such road, as to which no negligence is alleged, does not state a cause of action. Fuller v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 106 Mo. App. 392, 80 S. W. 914. In an action against the successor of the company which constructed a railroad for damages due to the obstruction of water by an embankment, the complaint is insufficient if it does not allege that defendant constructed the embankment or has increased it since becoming the owner of the road. Privett v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 54 S. C. 98, 32 S. E. 75.

Complaint held sufficient.— If the complaint contains all the allegations necessary to state a cause of action it will be held sufficient, although they are stated in a disconnected manner and the complaint is not artificially drawn. Rosentingle v. Illinois Southern R. Co., 122 Mo. App. 492, 99 S. W. 788. In an action for flooding plaintiff's land where the complaint alleges that it was due to the raising of defendant's track, it is not objectionable for failing to allege that drains existed before the raising of the track, and that the natural drainage from plaintiff's property was toward the track so that the raising of the track caused it to change its course. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Maddox, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 297, 63 S. W. 134. A complaint alleging that defendant's road passes through the inclosed premises of plaintiff at a point about two miles north of a certain station, and that at points where defendant's road entered such premises it had refused to maintain cattle-guards, sufficiently alleges plaintiff's ownership of the premises and sufficiently describes the same as against a general demurrer. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wetz, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 563, 87 S. W. 373, 375. A complaint is sufficient in an action to recover damages for closing a passageway under defendant's road which alleges ownership of the lands to which the way is appurtenant, and a continuous adverse use under a claim of right with notice to defendant of the passageway for more than twenty-one years. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Hoff, 25 Ind. App. 239, 56 N. E. 925. Complaint held sufficient in an action for an injury to lands due to failure to restore a stream to its former condition or such as not to impair its usefulness as required by statute see Moison v. Great Western R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 102. Complaint held sufficient in an action for injury to lands due to a failure to construct proper culverts or leave sufficient openings for the escape of water see Cameron v. Ontario, etc., R. Co., 14 U. C. Q. B. 612.

34. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 275.

In an action for failure to construct farm crossings the complaint should specify with reasonable certainty what and how many crossings defendant has failed to construct. Green v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 24 N. J. L. 486.

It is not necessary to allege the exact date of the injury if the complaint alleges that plaintiff is unable to do so and the time is stated as within a period which shows that the action is not barred by the statute of limitations. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Maddox, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 297, 63 S. W. 134.

35. Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Sturgis, 149 Ala. 573, 43 So. 96, holding that under the Alabama statute requiring the construction of cattle-guards "whenever the owner of the land through which the road passes" shall demand and show the necessity for them, a complaint alleging damages by reason of defendant's failure to construct them is demurrable unless it alleges that plaintiff is owner of the land.

In an action for the obstruction of a way the complaint must allege that the way is a private way or show that plaintiff has sustained a special injury different from the public generally. Lamphier v. Worcester, etc., R. Co., 33 N. H. 495.

It is a sufficient allegation of plaintiffs' ownership of the land, in an action for wrongfully destroying a crossing, where plaintiffs allege that the crossing was on "their farm." Zook v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 80 S. W. 211, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 2194.

company;[36] or in other words that the railroad company was guilty of negligence in doing the act alleged,[37] or under a legal obligation to perform the act alleged to have been omitted;[38] and the facts out of which such duty arises should be pleaded.[39] So also where the duty imposed is dependent upon the existence of certain conditions, the complaint must allege the existence of such conditions,[40] and if the statute allows a certain time for the performance of the duty, the lapse of such time must be alleged,[41] and if the performance of the duty is contingent upon a request by the landowner, such request must be alleged.[42] A direct and express allegation of negligence is not essential if it is a necessary deduction from the facts alleged,[43] or the complaint alleges a failure to perform a statutory duty and damages resulting therefrom;[44] while on the other hand a general allegation of negligence in the construction of the road is not sufficient without allegations showing wherein it was negligently or defectively constructed.[45] If the complaint states a good cause of action at common law it is not demurrable because it contains a prayer for double damages and does not allege sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action under the statute allowing such damages.[46] Ordinarily the allegation of damage should not be general but should point out the specific injury sustained;[47] but general allegations of the continuous operation of the road and a continuous neglect to fence it and that damages resulted therefrom are sufficient to authorize a recovery for such damages as invariably follow the exposure of lands by the absence of fences and which cannot easily be itemized.[48] The complaint should also allege the amount of damage sustained;[49] but in an action for injury to plaintiff's lands if the complaint alleges the amount of the damage sustained, it need not state the value of the lands before and after the injury complained of.[50] A complaint is sufficient, although it does not specifically 36. Cannon v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 Ill. App. 640; Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614.

37. Randle v. Pacific R. Co., 65 Mo. 325; Wallace v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 34 S. C. 62, 12 S. E. 815, holding that a complaint which alleges that defendant wrongfully erected an obstruction across the streams on plaintiff's land, whereby it was flooded to his damage, does not state a cause of action since it does not show that the obstruction was wanton or negligent, or that defendant could have constructed its road so as to avoid the injury, and that the allegation that it was done "wrongfully" states merely a conclusion of law.

A complaint sufficiently alleges negligence in the construction of a railroad where it alleges that a railroad embankment was so negligently constructed that it spread beyond the right of way over plaintiff's land, although it avers that it was the natural slope of the clay used in making the embankment which caused it to project beyond such right of way. Sims v. Ohio River, etc., R. Co., 56 S. C. 30, 33 S. E. 746.

38. Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614.

39. Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614.

40. Graves v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 69 Mo. App. 574, holding that where a statute requires the construction of lateral ditches and drains along the road-bed where there are other ditches, drains, or watercourses with which they may connect and form an outlet, a complaint for damages caused by a failure to construct them is fatally defective if it fails to allege the existence of such conditions.

41. Cannon v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 Ill. App. 640 (holding that under the Illinois statute it must be alleged, in an action based upon a failure of the railroad company to fence its tracks, that the road had been open for use for six months prior to the injury); Ferguson v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 296 (holding that under the Canadian statute, in an action for injury to crops due to a failure to fence, it must be alleged that six months had elapsed since the taking of the land by the railroad company); Elliott v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 289.

42. Elliott v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 289; Ferguson v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 296.

43. Clark v. Dyer, 81 Tex. 339, 16 S. W. 1061; Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Hadnot, 67 Tex. 503, 4 S. W. 138.

44. Clark v. Dyer, 81 Tex. 339, 16 S. W. 1061.

45. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 275.

46. Comings v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 48 Mo. 512.

47. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Southwick, 30 Mich. 444.

48. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Southwick, 30 Mich. 444.

49. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Johnson, 3 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 275, holding that in an action for the destruction of crops the complaint should allege their market value.

50. International, etc., R. Co. v. Glover, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 84 S. W. 604.

allege that the railroad is located on or runs through the county where the action is brought, if it alleges an injury located territorially within such county,[51] at least unless objected to specifically upon this ground.[52] The complaint need not anticipate and negative matters of affirmative defense,[53] and in an action for injuries to crops by stock due to a failure to fence where the road passes through inclosed lands, it is not necessary to negative the possibility that they entered upon plaintiff's lands at the crossing of a public highway.[54] A plea by defendant that the structure causing the injury was constructed under authority of a city ordinance for the city and not for defendant, and denying that it was negligently constructed, states a defense to the action and should not be stricken out;[55] but a plea by defendant which neither traverses nor confesses and avoids the averments of the complaint is bad upon demurrer.[56]

d. Evidence — (I) PRESUMPTIONS AND BURDEN OF PROOF. In an action for injury to property by the construction of a railroad, it will be presumed that all incidental and consequential damages were properly included in the assessment of damages in the condemnation proceedings.[57] As in other civil actions the burden is upon plaintiff to prove negligence or a breach of duty on the part of the railroad company,[58] and upon defendant to prove contributory negligence on the part of plaintiff when relied on as a defense.[59]

(II) ADMISSIBILITY. As in other civil actions evidence is not admissible unless it has some direct and legitimate bearing upon the facts in issue.[60] So in an action for injuries to property by the construction of a railroad, evidence is not admissible as to what plaintiff originally paid for the property,[61] or the principle upon which damages were assessed in the condemnation proceedings,[62] or of injuries to property other than that alleged to have been injured;[63] and evidence of repairs made subsequent to the injury is not admissible upon the question of the condition at the time of the injury.[64] Where a railroad company is not required to construct cattle-guards, in an action for injury to crops evidence that the railroad company had promised to construct them is not admissible in the absence of evidence that the award of damages in the condemnation proceedings was affected thereby.[65] In an action for injuries due to the negligent manner of constructing the road, evidence as to the value of plaintiff's land before and after its construction is not admissible as it does not present a proper measure of damages.[66] In an action for failure to construct cattle-guards as required by

51. East Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. King, 91 Ga. 519, 17 S. E. 939; Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Southwick, 30 Mich. 444.

52. East Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. King, 91 Ga. 519, 17 S. E. 939.

53. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Rollins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 89 S. W. 1099.

54. Clare v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 79 Mo. 39.

55. De Baker v. Southern California R. Co., 106 Cal. 257, 39 Pac. 610, 46 Am. St. Rep. 237.

56. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Wright, 148 Ala. 27, 41 So. 461, holding that where, in an action for injury to crops due to a failure to maintain proper cattle-guards, the complaint alleges that they had been at all times wholly insufficient to prevent stock from entering plaintiff's field, a plea alleging that defendant maintained cattle-guards at such place of a specified make which were in general use for like purposes by all or most of the railroad companies in the United States is fatally defective in failing to allege that they were reasonably sufficient to turn stock.

57. Fairchild v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 62 Miss. 177.

58. Randle v. Pacific R. Co., 65 Mo. 325.

59. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa 443, 99 N. W. 106.

60. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Cummins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 42 S. W. 588; Hatch v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 28 Vt. 142.

61. Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Cummins, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 42 S. W. 588.

62. Fleming v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 115 N. C. 676, 20 S. E. 714.

63. Jeffersonville, etc., R. Co. v. Esterle, 13 Bush (Ky.) 667.

64. See v. Wabash R. Co., 123 Iowa 443, 99 N. W. 106; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Haskell, 4 Tex. Civ. App. 550, 23 S. W. 536.

65. Fairchild v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 62 Miss. 177.

66. Cadle v. Muscatine Western R. Co., 44 Iowa 11; Reed v. Canastota Northern R. Co., 20 N. Y. Suppl. 241; Carson v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 128 N. C. 95, 38 S. E. 287.

Measure of damages see infra, VI, J, 2, g.

statute, evidence that on account of their absence plaintiff was compelled to employ additional help in driving his stock across the right of way is admissible as tending to show the damages sustained; [67] and in an action for damages to crops by flooding lands, evidence of the cultivation of crops prior to the time for which a recovery is sought, and the effect of water thereon, is admissible as tending to show the effect of similar conditions during the period for which a recovery is sought if properly limited for such purpose.[68] Evidence of a person who testifies from actual observation as to the insufficiency of a bridge to properly admit the passage of the water of a stream is admissible, although he is not an expert.[69] In an action for flooding lands due to the breaking of a railroad embankment alleged to have been negligently constructed, where defendant alleges that it was properly constructed and the injury due to an unprecedented flood, evidence that certain city and county bridges were washed away is not admissible on the part of defendant in the absence of evidence that they were properly constructed;[70] but evidence that the defect or condition occasioning the injury complained of has been remedied is admissible upon the part of defendant in mitigation of damages.[71]

(III) Weight and Sufficiency. In actions for injuries due to the construction or maintenance of a railroad, the rules relating to the weight and sufficiency of evidence are the same as in other civil actions.[72] In an action for injuries due to defects in a highway bridge across a railroad which it was defendant's duty to keep in repair, a failure to prove that defendant constructed the bridge is not fatal to a recovery; [73] but where the action is for a nuisance in constructing a railroad in a street and the road was constructed by lawful authority, there can be no recovery in the absence of evidence that the road was constructed in a negligent or improper manner.[74]

e. Issues, Proof, and Variance. Only such matters can be considered as are put in issue by the pleadings,[75] and supported by evidence upon the trial,[76] and there can be no recovery upon a cause of action not alleged,[77] nor can a failure to state a cause of action be remedied by evidence upon the trial.[78] Plaintiff must upon the trial support by proof the material allegations of the complaint or a nonsuit may properly be granted,[79] and the case must be proved as alleged, any material variance being fatal to a recovery.[80] In an action for injury to crops by trespassing animals, due to alleged defects in fences or cattle-guards, where 67. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Wetz, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 563, 87 S. W. 373, 375.

68. Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608.

69. Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608.

70. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. McGregor, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 68 S. W. 711.

71. Alabama Midland R. Co. v. Coskry, 92 Ala. 254, 9 So. 202, holding that in an action against a railroad company for damage to property by excavations in highways in constructing its road, evidence that the defects were afterward repaired by the city is admissible in mitigation of damages.

72. See, generally, Evidence, 17 Cyc. 753 et seq.

Evidence held sufficient, although entirely circumstantial, to show that the railroad was constructed by defendant company, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary (Kankakee, etc., R. Co. v. Horan, 23 Ill. App. 259); or to warrant the jury in returning a verdict for seven hundred and fifty dollars for damages to crops due to a failure to construct cattle-guards (Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard, 75 Miss. 480, 37 So. 1011).

73. Southern R. Co. v. Taylor, 148 Ala. 52, 42 So. 625.

74. Randle v. Pacific R. Co., 65 Mo. 325.

75. O'Connor v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 56 Iowa 735, 10 N. W. 263; Loewenstein v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 686, 85 S. W. 625; Kendall v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 95 S. W. 757.

76. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Harper, (Ill. 1888) 19 N. E. 31.

77. Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614; Loewenstein v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 686, 85 S. W. 625; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Lersch, 58 Ohio St. 639, 51 N. E. 543.

78. Field v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 Mo. 614.

79. Lee v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 115 Ga. 64, 41 S. E. 246.

Proof of plaintiff's ownership of lands.— In an action for flooding lands alleged to be the property of plaintiff, it is sufficient for him in the first instance to make a prima facie case by showing possession at the time of the injury. Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Rice, 7 Indian Terr. 514, 104 S. W. 819.

80. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Wieczorek, defendant answers that plaintiff's fence was down in various places and that the animals entered through such fence, it is not necessary for defendant to prove that such fence was down in more than one place.[81]

f. Trial. In actions for injuries from the construction or maintenance of a railroad the conduct of the trial is governed by the principles relating to civil actions generally.[82] Disputed questions of fact are for the determination of the jury,[83] and the court must correctly instruct them as to the law of the case,[84] and should not submit issues or grounds of liability not raised by the pleadings,[85] or not supported by the evidence.[86]

g. Damages.[87] Where property is injured by the construction or maintenance of a railroad, the measure of damages should always be that of just compensation for the actionable injury sustained.[88] If the injury is of a permanent character the measure of damages is the diminution in the value of the property;[89] but if the injury is due to a structure or condition of a temporary character or which can and should be remedied, and for the continuance of which successive actions for resulting injuries may be maintained, plaintiff is not entitled to recover

151 Ill. 579, 38 N. E. 678 [reversing 51 Ill. App. 498].

It is a material variance in an action for injury to plaintiff's property by the construction of a railroad, where the complaint alleges that the tracks are laid upon a certain street within ten feet of plaintiff's property, and the proof shows that they are laid beyond the street and fifty feet from his property (Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. v. Wieczorek, 151 Ill. 579, 38 N. E. 678 [reversing 51 Ill. App. 498]); or in an action for obstructing a private way where the complaint alleges the location of the way and the obstruction, and the proof is of a different way crossing defendant's tracks at a different place (Bolton v. Manistee, etc., R. Co., 95 Mich. 202, 54 N. W. 875); or where the complaint alleges that the way is entirely obstructed so that plaintiff is unable to pass and the proof shows that it is only partially obstructed, leaving ample room for ingress and egress (Ross v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 33 S. C. 477, 12 S. E. 101).

It is not a fatal variance where plaintiff fails to prove the date of the injury as of the exact day of the month alleged in the complaint. Southern R. Co. v. Taylor, 148 Ala. 52, 42 So. 625.

81. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Mayfield, (Tex. Civ. App. 1908) 107 S. W. 940.

82. See, generally, TRIAL.

83. Olver v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 111 Iowa 221, 82 N. W. 609; Restetsky v. Delmar Ave., etc., Co., 106 Mo. App. 382, 85 S. W. 665; Cantelou v. Trinity, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 101 S. W. 1017.

It is a question for the jury where the evidence is conflicting, or different conclusions might reasonably be drawn therefrom, whether in an action for an injury resulting from a crossing alleged to be negligently constructed or maintained the railroad company was guilty of negligence in regard thereto (Southern R. Co. v. Clarke, 106 Va. 496, 56 S. E. 274); or in an action for damages for placing bars across a private way, whether such bars were necessary or unnecessary for the purposes of the railroad company in the operation of its road (Willey v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 96 N. C. 408, 1 S. E. 446).

84. Dallas, etc., R. Co. v. Able, 72 Tex. 150, 9 S. W. 871.

85. O'Connor v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 56 Iowa 735, 10 N. W. 263; Lowenstein v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 110 Mo. App. 686, 85 S. W. 625.

86. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Harper, (Ill. 1888) 19 N. E. 31.

An instruction is properly refused if it is not supported by the evidence and would be confusing and misleading to the jury. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wynne, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 91 S. W. 823.

87. See, generally, DAMAGES, 13 Cyc. 150 et seq.

88. Railroad Co. v. Cook, 57 Ark. 387, 21 S. W. 1066.

In an equitable action against a railroad company for an injunction and damages for illegally using plaintiff's land for a switch, loss of the use of the premises up to the time of the trial may be included in the damages. Burditt v. New York Cent. R. Co., 71 Hun (N. Y.) 361, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 1137.

89. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 73 Ill. 316; Thompson v. Citizens' Traction Co., 181 Pa. St. 131, 37 Atl. 205; Shenango, etc., R. Co. v. Braham, 79 Pa. St. 447; Hare v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 10 Pa. Super. Ct. 647; Louisville, etc., R. Co. Lellylett, 114 Tenn. 368, 85 S. W. 881, 1 L. R. A. N. S. 49; Dallas, etc., R. Co. v. Langston, (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 98 S. W. 425; Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Barry, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. 634 [affirmed in 98 Tex. 248, 83 S. W. 5].

In determining the amount of depreciation in the market value of the property the jury should consider the uses to which the property is put or for which it is suitable, and any special benefits to the particular property from the construction of the road, but no allowance is to be made on account of the benefits common to property generally in the vicinity due to the location and operation of the road. Dallas, etc., R. Co. v. Langston, (Tex. Civ. App. 1906) 98 S. W. 425.

as for a permanent injury to his property,[90] but only for the injury sustained prior to the action;[91] and the measure of damages to the property is the depreciation in the rental value during the continuance of such condition,[92] and not the difference in the market value of the property.[93] Where the injury is due merely to the negligent or improper manner of constructing the railroad, the measure of damages is not the difference in the value of the property before and after the construction of the railroad,[94] but the difference in the value of the property with the road constructed as it is and what its value would be with the road properly constructed,[95] or, it has been held, the difference in the rental value of the property with the road constructed as it is and if properly constructed.[96] If a railroad is constructed in a street so as to obstruct access to plaintiff's place of business, the measure of damages is the loss of profits in the business and not the depreciation in the rental value of the property.[97] Where lands are flooded by reason of the negligent or improper construction of a railroad, the measure of damages is the value of property destroyed together with the injury to the land,[98] provided there is an injury to the land itself,[99] the damage for such injury being measured by the difference in the value of the land before and after the flooding,[1] taking into consideration its condition with respect to crops.[2] If there is no physical injury to the land itself but it is merely rendered subject to overflow, the measure of damages is the injury resulting from each overflow,[3] and if the cause is one which may be remedied the damage to the land is not the difference in its value but the depreciation in the rental value during the continuance of such condition.[4] Plaintiff may recover for the permanent injury to his land and the past damages

90. Railroad Co. v. Cook, 57 Ark. 387, 21 S. W. 1066; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Lellylett, 114 Tenn. 368, 85 S. W. 881, 1 L. R. A. N. S. 49.

91. Railroad Co. v. Cook, 57 Ark. 387, 21 S. W. 1066.

92. Railroad Co. v. Cook, 57 Ark. 387, 21 S. W. 1066; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Lellylett, 114 Tenn. 368, 85 S. W. 881, 1 L. R. A. N. S. 49; Cane Belt R. Co. v. Ridgeway, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 108, 85 S. W. 496.

93. Railroad Co. v. Cook, 57 Ark. 387, 21 S. W. 1066.

94. Cadle v. Muscatine Western R. Co., 44 Iowa 11; Carson v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 128 N. C. 95, 38 S. E. 287; Cane Belt R. Co. v. Ridgeway, 38 Tex. Civ. App. 108, 85 S. W. 496.

95. Cadle v. Muscatine Western R. Co., 44 Iowa 11; Carson v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 128 N. C. 95, 38 S. E. 287; Ridley v. Seaboard, etc., R. Co., 118 N. C. 996, 24 S. E. 730, 32 L. R. A. 708.

96. O'Connor v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 56 Iowa 735, 10 N. W. 263.

97. International, etc., R. Co. v. Capers, 33 Tex. Civ. App. 283, 77 S. W. 39.

98. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pool, 70 Tex. 713, 8 S. W. 535. See also, generally, DAMAGES, 13 Cyc. 152.

99. Green v. Taylor, etc., R. Co., 79 Tex. 604, 15 S. W. 685; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Haskell, 4 Tex. Civ. App. 550, 23 S. W. 546.

1. Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608; Sullens v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Iowa 659, 38 N. W. 545, 7 Am. St. Rep. 501; Higgins v. New York, etc., R. Co., 78 Hun (N. Y.) 567, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 563; Chase v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 24 Barb. (N. Y.) 273; Gentry v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 38 S. C. 284, 16 S. E. 893; Owens v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 67 Tex. 679, 4 S. W. 593. Compare Adams v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 110 N. C. 325, 14 S. E. 857, holding that where the injury is due to a cause which may be removed, the measure of damages is not the difference in the market value of the land before and after the injury, but should be estimated by comparing its productiveness before and after the flooding.

Where land has been rented for cultivation and is rendered unfit for such purpose by flooding, the tenant's measure of damages is not merely the rental value of land, but its value for cultivation, which is the difference between the rental value and the production less the cost of production. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Berry, 78 Ga. 744, 4 S. E. 10.

2. Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608; Drake v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Iowa 302, 19 N. W. 215, 50 Am. Rep. 746.

Growing crops are a part of the realty and in determining the difference in the value of the land before and after the injury the value of the crops should be considered but the estimate should be made with reference to the value at the time of the injury (Drake v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Iowa 302, 19 N. W. 215, 50 Am. Rep. 746); and where there is no allegation that any crops were destroyed but only that the land itself was injured, crops which might have been made are too remote and speculative to be considered (Gentry v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 38 S. C. 284, 16 S. E. 893).

3. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Helsley, 62 Tex. 593; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Haskell, 4 Tex. Civ. App. 550, 23 S. W. 546.

4. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Cook, 57 Ark. 387, 21 S. W. 1066.

to his crops in one action,[5] but cannot recover the value of land rendered unfit for cultivation and also damages to crops not planted.[6] Where crops have been destroyed the measure of damages is not the value of the crop at the date of maturity,[7] or the rental value of the land;[8] but the proper measure of damages has been held to be the value of the crop at the time of maturity less the cost of cultivation and marketing,[9] or the value of the crop at the time of the injury,[10] which, however, is not to be estimated according to the intrinsic value of an immature crop,[11] but according to the probable yield and value at maturity and the cost of cultivation and marketing.[12] Where a railroad company fails to construct fences or cattle-guards, the measure of the landowner's damages is the amount of the loss or injury directly resulting.[13] The measure of damages for the general injury to his property is the diminution in its rental value, due to the absence of the fences or cattle-guards,[14] and not merely what it would cost to

5. Ridley v. Seaboard, etc., R. Co., 124 N. C. 34, 32 S. E. 325.

The jury should assess separately the damage to the land and the damage to the crops and the sum of the amounts will be the measure of plaintiff's recovery. International, etc., R. Co. v. Pape, 73 Tex. 501, 11 S. W. 526.

6. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Darden, (Miss. 1903) 34 So. 386.

7. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201.

8. Donald v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 44 Iowa 157, holding that since a landowner has a right to plant a crop, although the railroad company has failed to construct fences and cattle-guards to protect the same, the measure of damages for a destruction of the crop is the value of the crop and not the rental value of the land.

9. Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518.

10. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lyman, 57 Ark. 512, 22 S. W. 170; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schaffer, 26 Ill. App. 280 [affirmed in 124 Ill. 112, 16 N. E. 239]; Byrne v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 212, 36 N. W. 339, 8 Am. St. Rep. 668; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Bayliss, 62 Tex. 570; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1023. See also, generally, DAMAGES, 13 Cyc. 153.

Pasture.— The measure of damage for the destruction of grass used for pasturage caused by the failure of the company to construct fences is the value of the pasture from the time it could be so used until the fences were constructed. Buttles v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 43 Mo. App. 280.

Partial destruction.— Where a crop is only partially destroyed by trespassing animals, it has been held that if the crop was a matured one the measure of damages should be the value of the part destroyed and not the entire crop, and if a growing crop the measure of damages should be the difference in value of the entire crop as it stood on the land immediately before the injury and the value of the part not destroyed as it stood immediately after the injury. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Mayfield, (Tex. Civ. App. 1908) 107 S. W. 940.

11. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schaffer, 26 Ill. App. 280 [affirmed in 124 Ill. 112, 16 N. E. 239].

12. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Lyman, 57 Ark. 512, 22 S. W. 170; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schaffer, 26 Ill. App. 280 [affirmed in 124 Ill. 112, 16 N. E. 239]; International, etc., R. Co. v. Pape, 73 Tex. 501, 11 S. W. 526; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 60 Tex. 201.

These elements do not constitute the measure of damages but are matters of evidence proper to be considered in determining the value at the time of the injury. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 25 S. W. 1023.

13. Nelson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 49 Kan. 165, 30 Pac. 178; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sharp, 27 Kan. 134; Nelson v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 41 Minn. 131, 42 N. W. 788.

Items and elements of damages.—The damages for failure to construct fences or cattle-guards may include expenses incurred by the landowner in guarding his stock to prevent their escaping from his inclosures (Nelson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 49 Kan. 165, 30 Pac. 178), or in order to prevent the loss of the use of a pasture (Raridan v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 69 Iowa 527, 29 N. W. 599); and in cases of injury to crops he may, in addition to the value of the crop, recover for expenses incurred in an effort to protect them from injury (Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Iowa 518; Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Ricketts, 45 Kan. 617, 26 Pac. 50; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ritz, 33 Kan. 404, 6 Pac. 533; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sharp, 27 Kan. 134); and the fact that the landowner has a right to join his fences with the fence of the railroad company, so as to have the benefit of it as a line fence, may be considered in determining the damages (Gould v. Great Northern R. Co., 63 Minn. 37, 65 N. W. 125, 56 Am. St. Rep. 453, 30 L. R. A. 590).

14. Finch v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 46 Minn. 250, 48 N. W. 915; Nelson v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 41 Minn. 131, 42 N. W. 788; Emmons v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 215, 36 N. W. 340.

The term "rental value" in this connection has been held to mean simply "the value of the use of the land for any purpose for which it is adapted in the hands of a prudent and discreet occupant upon a judicious system of husbandry," and the damages construct them.[15] For failure to construct private or farm crossings as required by statute, the measure of damages is the actual loss and inconvenience suffered by plaintiff in the use of his premises by reason of their absence.[16] Where a railroad is required by statute to leave openings in its right-of-way fences, where the road passes through an inclosure, and the company, although constructing them for others, refuses to do so for plaintiff, after a demand therefor, exemplary damages may be awarded.[17] For the obstruction of a private crossing the measure of damages is such amount as will fairly compensate plaintiff for the deprivation of its use during the period of obstruction,[18] but punitive damages cannot be recovered if the railroad company did not act wantonly or maliciously but under a mistake as to its legal rights.[19] The damages must in all cases be limited to those resulting from the particular acts or injuries alleged in the complaint,[20] and shown by the evidence,[21] and plaintiff cannot recover a larger amount than what he alleges he has sustained.[22]

h. Review. Questions of review are governed by the rules relating to civil actions generally.[23] The verdict or findings of the jury will not ordinarily be disturbed when based upon conflicting evidence and there is evidence legally sufficient to support them,[24] and a verdict will not be set aside on the ground that the damages are excessive where the amount was variously estimated by different witnesses and the verdict is fairly within the estimates given,[25] or is not so great as clearly to indicate that the jury acted corruptly or disregarded the instructions of the court.[26] Judgment will not be reversed for an error which was not prejudicial to appellant in the admission of evidence,[27] or instructions to the jury,[28] or for refusal to give a special charge requested which, although correct, is covered by the general charge given.[29] should be what will compensate the owner for the diminution in the value of such use. Nelson v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 41 Minn. 131, 42 N. W. 788.

The particular use made of the property must be considered, and where it is prepared and usable for pasture and the owner is wholly deprived of its use for such purpose, by reason of the absence of cattle-guards, he is entitled to recover its rental value for that purpose during the time he is so deprived or to the extent he is deprived thereof. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Timmons, 116 Tenn. 29, 91 S. W. 1116.

15. Emmons v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 38 Minn. 215, 36 N. W. 340.

16. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. McGehee, 47 Ill. App. 348; Port v. Huntingdon, etc., R. Co., 168 Pa. St. 19, 31 Atl. 950.

The damages may include the additional expense of gathering a crop caused by being compelled to use a more inconvenient means of access thereto. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. McGehee, 47 Ill. App. 348.

17. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Grier, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 138, 49 S. W. 148, holding further that a judgment for one hundred dollars exemplary damages is not excessive.

18. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, 66 S. W. 617, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2104.

19. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, 66 S. W. 617, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2104.

20. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Lersch, 58 Ohio St. 639, 51 N. E. 543.

21. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Wills, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. 848.

22. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Simonton, 2 Tex. Civ. App. 558, 22 S. W. 285.

23. See, generally, APPEAL AND ERROR, 2 Cyc. 474.

24. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Combs, 142 Ill. 187, 31 N. E. 598 [affirming 43 Ill. App. 119]; Kankakee, etc., R. Co. v. Horan, 23 Ill. App. 259; Olver v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 111 Iowa 221, 82 N. W. 609; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wynne, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 91 S. W. 823; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clay, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 176, 66 S. W. 1115; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Maddox, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 297, 63 S. W. 134; Marshall v. Valley R. Co., 97 Va. 653, 34 S. E. 455.

25. Nicholson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 74, 56 Am. Dec. 390; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Capps, 72 Ill. 188.

26. Nicholson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 74, 56 Am. Dec. 390; Southern R. Co. v. Clarke, 106 Va. 496, 56 N. E. 274.

A verdict for permanent damages against a railroad company for injuries to land caused by an overflow, resulting from the digging of a ditch, will not be disturbed, although it is not shown that the injury will recur, when defendant asked that all permanent damages therefrom if any should be assessed in the action. Hocutt v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 124 N. C. 214, 32 S. E. 681.

27. Olver v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 111 Iowa 221, 82 N. W. 609; Willitts v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 88 Iowa 281, 55 N. W. 313, 21 L. R. A. 608.

28. Nicholson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 22 Conn. 74, 56 Am. Dec. 390; Dallas, etc., R. Co. v. Able, 72 Tex. 150, 9 S. W. 871.

29. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wynne, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 91 S. W. 823.

K. Offenses Incident to Construction and Maintenance[30]— 1. In General. A railroad company as well as a natural person is liable to indictment for unlawfully obstructing a public highway,[31] and such indictment may be maintained either upon common-law principles,[32] or under statutes making it an indictable offense for any person to obstruct a public highway.[33] So also a railroad company is liable to indictment for a breach of duty imposed upon it by law for the benefit of the public in regard to highways, such as the mode of constructing its road across or upon highways, restoring or reconstructing highways crossed or encroached upon, or maintaining and repairing crossings and approaches thereto,[34] whether such breach of duty assumes the shape of an act of misfeasance or nonfeasance.[35] The remedy by indictment is not affected by the existence of a remedy by mandamus,[36] or by the fact that the public authorities in charge of highways might do what the railroad company omitted and recover therefor from the company,[37] or the existence of a statutory remedy,[38] such as a penalty to be recovered by a civil action,[39] nor does the fact that a person injured has a private remedy affect the right of the state to indict for the public wrong.[40]

2. As Constituting Nuisance. A railroad company is liable to indictment for so constructing or maintaining its road as to constitute a public nuisance.[41] Any construction of a railroad upon a public street or highway if without legal authority is a nuisance;[42] but if duly authorized it is not, although upon a street or highway,

30. Offenses incident to operation of road see infra, X, B, 8.

31. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195]; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 Head (Tenn.) 523, 75 Am. Dec. 778.

32. New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168].

33. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 52 Ark. 51, 11 S. W. 1035; State v. Ohio River R. Co., 38 W. Va. 242, 18 S. E. 582; State v. Monongahela R. Co., 37 W. Va. 108, 16 S. E. 519.

Nature of obstruction.— Under the Mississippi statute making it an indictable offense for any person to obstruct a highway, it is held that the statute contemplates obstructions caused by physical means or positive action, and does not embrace or apply to a mere omission to repair a highway bridge over the railroad track, a specific remedy for failure to keep bridges in repair being provided by a different section of the code. Vicksburg, etc., R. Co. v. State, 64 Miss. 5, 8 So. 128.

34. New Jersey.— New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirming 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168].

New York.— People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195].

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 117 Pa. St. 637, 12 Atl. 38 [reversing 2 Pa. Co. Ct. 391]; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192; Ridley Tp. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 2 Lanc. L. Rev. 375.

Tennessee.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. State, 3 Head 523, 75 Am. Dec. 778.

England.— Reg. v. Birmingham, etc., R. Co., 9 C. & P. 469, 38 E. C. L. 278.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 21.

The lessee of a railroad is liable to indictment for failing to construct a new highway in lieu of one taken by the lessor company in the construction of the road without performing such duty as required by statute. Com. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 117 Pa. St. 637, 12 Atl. 38 [reversing 2 Pa. Co. Ct. 391].

35. New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168]; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192.

36. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195]; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192.

37. New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168]; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192.

38. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 52 Ark. 51, 11 S. W. 1035; People v. New York Cent. R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195].

39. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 52 Ark. 51, 11 S. W. 1035.

40. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300.

41. Com. v. Vermont, etc., R. Corp., 4 Gray (Mass.) 22; Com. v. Nashua, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 54; People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195]; Northern Cent R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 108, 16 S. E. 519.

42. Com. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 14 Gray (Mass.) 93; Com. v. Vermont, etc., R. Corp., 4 Gray (Mass.) 22.

Unauthorized location.— Where a railroad authorized to be constructed upon a particular location is constructed upon a different location, it is a nuisance upon every highway which it touches in its illegal course. Com. v. Erie R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

Changing location or route of highway.— A statute authorizing a railroad company to necessarily a nuisance,[43] although it may become such from the negligent or improper manner of its construction or maintenance.[44] So a railroad company is indictable for a nuisance for so constructing its road as improperly to obstruct a street or highway,[45] for failure to restore a highway to its former condition,[46] or to construct a new highway in the place of one appropriated,[47] or to make such substituted highway suitable and sufficient,[48] or a failure to construct suitable crossings and approaches,[49] or to keep such crossings and approaches in a safe and proper state of repair,[50] or to keep in repair a highway bridge across its track.[51]

3. INDICTMENT.[52] An indictment for obstructing a highway must allege every fact essential to show the commission of the offense charged,[53] and the material facts must be charged with such fulness as to show the complete offense,[54] and if the acts alleged as constituting the offense might under certain circumstances be

"alter and grade" public highways at railroad crossings so that travel thereon will not be impeded merely authorizes a change of grade, and a change in the location or route of the highway without any other statutory authority is indictable as a nuisance. State v. Warren R. Co., 29 N. J. L. 353.

Non-compliance with conditions.— Where selectmen, pursuant to statutory authority, require a draw to be made in a railroad for the accommodation of public travel on a highway at a crossing, the construction of the railroad without such a draw and so as to obstruct the public travel is indictable as a nuisance (Com. v. Nashua, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 54); and where a railroad company occupies a part of a county road with the consent of the county court, given upon the condition that the company shall restore the road to its former state or such as not unnecessarily to have impaired its usefulness, if the company fails to comply with such condition it may be indicted for maintaining a nuisance (State v. Ohio River R. Co., 38 W. Va. 242, 18 S. E. 582; State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 108, 16 S. E. 519).

43. State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 86 Ind. 114; Danville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 73 Pa. St. 29.

44. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300; Com. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 27 Pa. St. 339, 67 Am. Dec. 471.

45. Com. v. Nashua, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 54; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300.

A turnpike constructed by a corporation is a public highway the obstruction of which by the construction of a railroad is indictable as a public nuisance. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Com., 90 Pa. St. 300.

Effect of jurisdiction of county commissioners.— The construction of a railroad over a highway in such manner as to obstruct public travel is indictable as a nuisance notwithstanding a statute conferring upon county commissioners "the original jurisdiction of all questions touching obstructions to turnpikes, highways or town-ways caused by the construction or operation of railroads." Com. v. Nashua, etc., R. Corp., 2 Gray (Mass.) 54.

46. People v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195]; State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 108, 16 S. E. 519; Reg. v. Scott, 3 Q. B. 543, 2 G. & B. 729, 6 Jur. 1084, 11 L. J. Q. B. 254, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 187, 43 E. C. L. 858.

Failure to restore highway as constituting nuisance see supra, VI, D, 3, i.

47. State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 108, 16 S. E. 519; Reg. v. Morris, 1 B. & Ad. 441, 20 E. C. L. 551.

48. Reg. v. Scott, 3 Q. B. 543, 2 G. & D. 729, 6 Jur. 1084, 11 L. J. Q. B. 254, 3 R. & Can. Cas. 187, 43 E. C. L. 858.

49. People v. New York, etc., R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195].

50. Com. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 109 Ky. 58, 58 S. W. 478, 702, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 572; Paducah, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 80 Ky. 147, 3 Ky. L. Rep. 650; People v. New York Cent. R. Co., 74 N. Y. 302 [reversing 12 Hun 195].

51. New York, etc., R. Co. v. State, 50 N. J. L. 303, 13 Atl. 1 [affirmed in 53 N. J. L. 244, 23 Atl. 168].

52. See, generally, INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS, 22 Cyc. 157.

53. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Iowa 508, 19 N. W. 299; State v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 58 Me. 46.

54. State v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719, holding that, since plank may lawfully be used by a railroad company in constructing a crossing, an indictment charging the company with obstructing a public highway "by placing in and across it certain plank" but not showing in what way the plank was misused or misapplied at the crossing, or that defendant allowed the plank to become out of repair or in such improper condition as to obstruct the highway, is insufficient.

Indictment held sufficient.— An indictment against a railroad company, charging that it "unlawfully suffered and permitted a public nuisance where its road crossed a certain highway, by suffering and permitting the approaches of said road, on either side of the railroad track within said railroad's right of way, to become and remain very steep and narrow, so as to be inconvenient and dangerous of ascent and descent for wagons and other vehicles" is sufficiently certain as to the offense and in particularizing the circumstances. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 11 Ky. L. Rep. 442.

lawful these circumstances must be negatived by proper averments;[55] but it is not necessary to use the exact language of the statute if words of equivalent import are used,[56] nor on an indictment under a statute for obstructing a public highway is it necessary to allege that the act was "knowingly and wilfully" done where the statute does not use this expression as an element of the offense.[57] Where a railroad company is authorized to construct its road across a highway, an indictment for maintaining a public nuisance in so doing must allege or show that the obstruction was permitted or maintained for an unreasonable length of time;[58] and where a railroad company is authorized to construct a bridge across navigable waters, provided it is not so constructed as "to prevent" the navigation of such waters, an indictment which merely alleges that navigation is "obstructed and impeded" is not sufficient.[59]

4. Trial, Judgment, and Relief.[60] On a prosecution under a statute making it an offense to obstruct a public highway, it is necessary for the state to prove that at the time of the alleged obstruction the way was a public highway, that it was obstructed within the period prescribed by the statute of limitations prior to the finding of the indictment, and that it was so obstructed by defendant;[61] and defendant is entitled to introduce any competent evidence to show that any of these facts are not true.[62] Any material variance between the allegations of the indictment and the proof is fatal to a conviction.[63] On an indictment

55. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 Iowa 508, 19 N. W. 299, holding that a statute which allows a railroad company to raise or lower any highway to allow its track to cross over or under it, and requires the highway to be put in good repair as soon as may be, authorizes excavations or embankments in the construction of its road, and that an indictment for making an excavation in a highway does not charge an offense in the absence of averments that the acts were not done in the construction of a railroad or that the highway was not repaired, even though it be charged that they were done "wilfully and unlawfully."

Under a statutory provision that railroads may cross highways, but that the condition and manner of crossing are to be first determined in writing by the county commissioners, and providing that a crossing not made according to the provision of the statute shall be regarded as a nuisance, an indictment for maintaining such nuisance is fatally defective as charging a statutory offense, without an allegation that the railroad crosses the highway in a manner not determined in writing by the county commissioners. State v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 58 Me. 46.

56. Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395, holding that under a statute making it an indictable offense to "obstruct any public road or established highway," an indictment alleging that the way obstructed was a "common highway" made and laid out for the people of the state to use at their pleasure on foot, on horseback, and in vehicles, is sufficient.

57. State v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 24 W. Va. 809, holding that under a statute making it a misdemeanor to "obstruct or injure any road," an allegation that it was done "unlawfully" or "without legal authority," is sufficient, and that an additional allegation that it was done "knowingly and wilfully" may be disregarded as surplusage and will not affect the validity of the indictment.

58. Com. v. Morganfield, etc., R. Co., 101 S. W. 304, 30 Ky. L. Rep. 1274.

59. State v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 57 Me. 402.

60. On indictment for nuisances generally see Nuisances, 29 Cyc. 1287, 1288.

61. State v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 24 W. Va. 809.

Statute of limitations.— Where the offense is a continuing one, such as a failure to restore a highway to its former condition or construct a new highway in lieu of one taken as required by the statutes, the statute of limitation does not apply (Com. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 336; State v. Ohio River R. Co., 38 W. Va. 242, 18 S. E. 582); but an indictment charging a railroad company with erecting a nuisance by building its road on a turnpike and failing to furnish a sufficient substitute therefor, and not averring any act of continuous wrong-doing, will not support a conviction where the evidence shows that the company more than a year before the indictment was found constructed a substitute, and that it was thereafter permitted to operate its road without hindrance or protest or any notice that its substituted road was claimed to be insufficient (Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 26 S. W. 536, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 68).

62. State v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 24 W. Va. 809, holding that on a trial for obstructing a public road by raising the track of the railroad at the point where it was crossed by such road, defendant is entitled to show that at the time of the alleged obstruction the railroad at that place was in possession and control of another company.

63. State v. Roanoke R., etc., Co., 109 N. C. 860, 13 S. E. 719, holding that where against a railroad company for obstructing a highway, where defendant claims to have constructed a new highway in the place of the one appropriated, the question of the sufficiency of the new highway is for the jury;[64] and where a statute requires a railroad company to construct crossings so as not to impede travel on the highway, and on an indictment for maintaining an illegal crossing it is shown that the width of the highway was somewhat narrowed, but it is not free from doubt as to whether it was such as to impede travel, the question is for the jury.[65] On an indictment against a railroad company for obstructing a highway the question of the validity of the company's charter cannot be raised or determined.[66] On an indictment for obstructing a highway a judgment can be rendered requiring the removal of the obstruction;[67] but on an indictment for breach of a statutory duty to reconstruct a highway in lieu of one taken, the sentence cannot require the company to remove the obstruction from the old road or to construct a new one, but can go no further than to punish for the offense committed.[68] The confirmation by statute of the illegal location of a railroad in a highway is no ground for arresting judgment on an indictment for a nuisance by such obstruction on which the railroad company has been convicted before the passage of the statute.[69]

L. Motive Power and Rolling Stock.[70] Any restrictions in the charter of a railroad company or statute under which the company was incorporated or the road constructed as to the motive power to be used are binding upon the company;[71] and where the charter permits the company to select the motive power but prohibits it from constructing its road through a municipality without the consent of the municipal authorities, such a consent may be granted upon condition that the municipality shall retain the right to regulate the motive power to be used,[72] and in such case another railroad company authorized by statute to operate trains over the tracks of the road so located is subject to the same control of the municipality.[73] So also it seems that a right conferred upon a municipality to regulate the "manner of using" a railroad is broad enough to cover the kind of motive power to be used.[74] A railroad company expressly an indictment charges a railroad company with obstructing a public highway "by placing in and across it certain plank," and the evidence shows that the defecet consisted of a hole in the crossing, the variance is fatal.

64. State v. Monongahela River R. Co., 37 W. Va. 108, 16 S. E. 519.

65. Com. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 235.

66. Com. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 23 Pa. Super. Ct. 235.

67. Palatka, etc., R. Co. v. State, 23 Fla. 546, 3 So. 158, 11 Am. St. Rep. 395, holding, however, that where the illegality of the obstruction is due merely to the manner in which the railroad was constructed across or upon the highway, the judgment should permit the railroad company to abate the nuisance in some proper way, as by additional grading or the making of such changes as would prevent the railroad from constituting an obstruction to travel and not require the absolute removal of the elements of the roadbed from the highway.

On a rule to show cause why the sheriff should not abate the nuisance where the railroad company has been indicted for obstructing a public road by an embankment and has pleaded guilty and been sentenced to abate the nuisance, the company is bound to show affirmatively that the nuisance was in fact abated, and this is true, although no replication was filed to the answer to the rule. Com. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 33 Pa. Super. Ct. 452.

68. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 101 Pa. St. 192; Com. v. Allegheny Valley R. Co., 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 336.

69. Com. v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 14 Gray (Mass.) 93.

70. Statutory, municipal, and official regulations see infra, X, B, 3.

On street railroads see STREET RAILROADS.

71. State v. Tupper, Dudley (S. C.) 135, holding that where a railroad company authorized by its charter to select the character of motive power is by a subsequent statute authorized to extend its road beyond its original terminus in a city, on the express condition that steam locomotives shall not be used on such extension, the latter statute is binding upon the railroad company as to the portion of road constructed thereunder.

72. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,199, 4 Blatchf. 193, holding that in such case a municipality may prohibit the use of steam as a motive power within its limits.

73. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,199, 4 Blatchf. 193.

74. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,199, 4 Blatchf. 193.

authorized to select its motive power may adopt whatever it chooses,[75] and may lawfully operate its trains by steam;[76] and it has the same right with regard to the motive power to be used by another company which it may lawfully permit to use its tracks in the absence of any statutory restriction relating to the latter company.[77] Where a railroad company is authorized to use either one or the other of two specified motive powers, its adoption of one is not final and it may subsequently change to the other;[78] and where it is permitted by a municipality to construct its tracks therein on condition of using a certain motive power, the municipality may subsequently authorize it to change to another which it is authorized by its charter to use.[79] In the absence of any statutory or charter provision relating thereto, the railroad company may select the kind of motive power which it will use,[80] and may operate its trains by electricity,[81] the right to use electricity not being affected by the fact that, at the date of the statute under which the company was incorporated, electricity as a motive power was not known,[82] or by the fact that the courts had been accustomed to designate railroads incorporated thereunder as steam railroads.[83] Where the right to select the kind of motive power is subsequently restricted by statute so as to exclude steam, the legislature may by a subsequent act remove the restriction.[84] The right to use steam as a motive power and to carry freight and passengers carries with it the right to construct and use the appliances ordinarily employed for such purposes, such as locomotive engines, heavy freight and passenger cars, and heavy T-rails, commonly used on steam railroads;[85] and the fact that at the date of the statute under which the railroad company was incorporated certain motive powers were unknown and particular kinds of rails and rolling stock were not in use, does not, in the absence of express restriction, affect the right of the railroad company to adopt improved methods and appliances which will facilitate the conduct of its business and are consistent with the public safety.[86]

VII. SALES, LEASES, TRAFFIC CONTRACTS, AND CONSOLIDATION.*

A. Right to Alienate or Transfer Franchises or Property. The power of a railroad company to alienate or transfer its property and franchises is governed by the general principle that a corporation may exercise only such powers as are expressly conferred or necessarily implied as fairly incidental thereto;[87] and further, that a charter to operate a railroad is granted primarily in the interest of the public, and its acceptance imposes upon the company certain 75. People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 75.

76. People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 75; State v. Tupper, Dudley (S. C.) 135.

77. People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 75.

78. McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.

79. McCartney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Ill. 611.

80. Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 36, 62 Atl. 109, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 138.

81. Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 36, 62 Atl. 109, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 138; Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 212 Pa. St. 105, 61 Atl. 881.

82. Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 36, 62 Atl. 109, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 138; Sparks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 212 Pa. St. 105, 61 Atl. 881.

83. Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 36, 62 Atl. 109, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 138, holding that such designation was not intended as a limitation upon the character of motive power, but merely as a means of distinguishing ordinary railroads from street railroads.

84. People v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. 75, where the constitutionality of the statute was considered only with reference to the rights of the state as representative of the general public and the railroad company, the question of its constitutionality as impairing the rights of individuals or adjacent landowners not being involved or decided.

85. Millvale Borough v. Evergreen R. Co., 131 Pa. St. 1, 18 Atl. 993, 7 L. R. A. 369.

86. Howley v. Central Valley R. Co., 213 Pa. St. 36, 62 Atl. 109, 2 L. R. A. N. S. 138.

87. State v. Consolidation Coal Co., 46 Md. 1; Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55. See also CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1096.

* By James A. Gwyn.

obligations to the public from which it cannot voluntarily absolve itself,[88] so that a railroad company cannot, without legislative authority, alienate its franchises or property necessary for the exercise of the same, or by contract, conveyance, lease, or otherwise, absolve or incapacitate itself from the proper performance of its public duties, or delegate them to another;[89] nor can a railroad company which has been granted a franchise to construct a public road farm out a part of its franchise so as to enable a private individual to construct a part of such road on its right of way and operate the same for his own benefit as a private road.[90]

B. Sales — 1. Right to Sell or Purchase — a. In General.[91] A railroad company cannot, without legislative authority, sell its franchise to be a corporation,[92] or its road and franchises for maintaining and operating the same,[93] or any real estate acquired and held solely for the purpose of exercising such franchises.[94] The same rule applies to the right to purchase the road, property, and franchises of another company.[95] To constitute a valid sale there must be both a power to sell in the vendor and a power to purchase in the vendee,[96] and a charter provision authorizing a particular company to purchase any other railroad confers no authority upon any other railroad company to sell it;[97] but a provision authorizing it to purchase the property and franchises of a particular company impliedly authorizes the latter to sell.[98] Authority to sell a railroad or to purchase the 88. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Coal Valley Min. Co., 68 Ill. 489; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950; York, etc., R. Co. v. Winans, 17 How. (U. S.) 30, 15 L. ed. 27.

89. Illinois.— Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Coal Valley Min. Co., 68 Ill. 489.

Maryland.— State v. Consolidation Coal Co., 46 Md. 1.

New Jersey.— Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97.

Pennsylvania.— Rafferty v. Central Traction Co., 22 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. 15.

Texas.— Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156.

United States.— Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950; York, etc., R. Co. v. Winans, 17 How. 30, 15 L. ed. 27.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 375.

But the legislature may authorize an alienation of the franchise of a railroad company either in whole or in part. East Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Eastern R. Co., 13 Allen (Mass.) 422.

90. Stewart's Appeal, 56 Pa. St. 413.

91. Vendibility of corporate franchises in general see Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1090 et seq.

92. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Delamore, 34 La. Ann. 1225; Welch v. Old Dominion Min., etc., Co., 10 N. Y. Suppl. 174; Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518; Ragan v. Aiken, 9 Lea (Tenn.) 609, 42 Am. Rep. 684.

93. Maryland.—State v. Consolidation Coal Co., 46 Md. 1.

Nebraska.— Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Nebr. 458, 5 Nebr. 314.

New Jersey.— Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5.

Ohio.— Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

Texas.— East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156.

United States.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849; Branch v. Jesup, 106 U. S. 468, 1 S. Ct. 495, 27 L. ed. 279; Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 34 Fed. 582; Blair v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 22 Fed. 36.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 394.

Purchase of unauthorized private road.— Where a person having constructed without lawful authority a private railroad to coal mines owned by him, the operation of which was enjoined as a nuisance, then organized a corporation of which he owned all the stock, known as a railroad coal and oil company, with power to construct or purchase any railroad, and such company purchased the mines and private road which constituted its only assets, it was held that the purchase of such road was not such as was contemplated by the act of incorporation and that it was still a private road the operation of which would be enjoined. McCandless' Appeal, 70 Pa. St. 210.

94. Coe v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 10 Ohio St. 372, 75 Am. Dec. 518.

95. Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849.

96. East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834.

97. State v. Consolidation Coal Co., 46 Md. 1.

98. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 52 Conn. 274.

road of another company is in some cases conferred in express terms;[99] but authority to sell or purchase cannot be implied from authority to lease,[1] or mortgage,[2] or to consolidate,[3] or connect or unite with other roads;[4] nor can a prohibition against a sale to a parallel or competing line be construed as authority to sell to a company whose road is not parallel or competing.[5] Even in the case of express authority to sell or purchase the right cannot be extended beyond the provisions of the statute,[6] as where the statute refers only to connecting lines,[7] or companies of the same state.[8] So a statute authorizing a company which is unable to complete its road to sell to another company does not authorize the sale of a completed road;[9] and a statute authorizing a railroad company to purchase any railroad "constructed" by any other company, if the roads of such companies are connected or continuous, does not authorize one company to purchase the property and franchises of another prior to the construction of its road.[10] It has also been held that a grant of power to a railroad company to locate and construct branch roads does not confer any authority to purchase and operate a road already constructed under a different charter,[11] but that a company authorized to construct a line of railroad upon a particular route and to purchase property of all kinds may purchase as a part of its line a road already constructed upon a part of the route authorized.[12] The legislature may, subject to any constitutional limitations and restrictions, authorize one railroad company to purchase from another even its franchise to be a corporation,[13] and the sale of a railroad, although made 99. Bentonville, etc., R. Co. v. Arkansas, etc., R. Co., (Ark. 1907) 105 S. W. 84.

Statutes authorizing sale or purchase.—The Maine statute of 1857 authorized the sale of the Buckfield Branch railroad to the Cumberland and Oxford Central Railroad Company, with all the rights of the former road, including that of connecting with the Atlantic and St. Lawrence railroad. Portland, etc., R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 46 Me. 69. The Illinois statute of 1899 authorizes a foreign railroad company to purchase the road of a domestic company, if such road is not a parallel or competing line. Illinois State Trust Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 217 Ill. 504, 75 N. E. 562. The Tennessee statute of 1871 authorizes any railroad company of that state to acquire by purchase or other lawful contract the road and franchises of any other railroad company. Wehrhane v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 4 N. Y. St. 541. In Michigan and Ohio the statutes authorize a railroad company which is unable to complete the construction of its road to sell all or a part thereof to another company which is not a competing line. Dewey v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 351, 51 N. W. 1063; Young v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 76 Mich. 485, 43 N. W. 632; Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 Ohio St. 556, 15 N. E. 665. A statute authorizing a company to sell and convey its property, real and personal, and to incorporate its capital stock with that of any other company, will authorize a sale of its road. Branch v. Jesup, 106 U. S. 468, 1 S. Ct. 495, 27 L. ed. 279.

1. Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5.

2. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156.

3. Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85; Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690; Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 34 Fed. 582. Compare Branch v. Jesup, 106 U. S. 468, 1 S. Ct. 495, 27 L. ed. 279.

4. Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849.

5. East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690.

6. Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Nebr. 458, 5 Nebr. 314; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690.

Authority to a consolidated company to sell real or personal property previously belonging to a constituent company will be construed as applying only to such property as is not needed for operating the road, surplus lands and probably personal effects not in use or required for use on the road. Spence v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 79 Ala. 576.

7. East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834.

8. Upson County R. Co. v. Sharman, 37 Ga. 644.

9. Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 34 Fed. 582.

10. Clarke v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 4 Nebr. 458, 5 Nebr. 314.

11. Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5; Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 23 Ohio St. 168; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 67 Tex. 692, 4 S. W. 156. But see Thompson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Sandf. Ch. (N. Y.) 625; Branch v. Jesup, 106 U. S. 468, 1 S. Ct. 495, 27 L. ed. 279; New York Cent. Trust Co. v. Washington County R. Co., 124 Fed. 813.

12. Branch v. Jesup, 106 U. S. 468, 1 S. Ct. 495, 27 L. ed. 279; Branch v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,807, 3 Woods 481.

13. State v. Sherman, 22 Ohio St. 411, hold-without legislative authority, may be ratified and rendered valid by a subsequent legislative enactment.[14] A railroad company, although authorized to sell its road, has no power to sell its conditional stock subscriptions, where the condition has not been performed so as to entitle the purchaser to perform it and enforce the subscription;[15] and there can be no sale of the right of way of a railroad apart from the franchise to operate the road to one having no right to exercise such franchise.[16]

b. Parallel or Competing Lines. In some jurisdictions there are constitutional or statutory provisions expressly prohibiting one railroad company from purchasing or acquiring control of a parallel or competing line,[17] the object being to promote competition and prevent monopolies,[18] and such a prohibition cannot be evaded by letting the transfer take the form of a judicial sale,[19] or purchase of a controlling interest in the stock of such company,[20] or interposing a nominal trustee as purchaser;[21] and stock-holders have no such right to sell their stock ing, however, that under the Ohio constitution the legislature cannot grant to one railroad company the power to purchase from another its franchise to be a corporation, unless the grant is made in such form as to impose a personal liability upon stockholders of the purchasing company for the debts of the corporation.

14. Hatcher v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 62 Ill. 477; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R. I. 260.

15. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Hinsdale, 45 Ohio St. 556, 15 N. E. 665.

16. East Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Doe, 114 U. S. 340, 5 S. Ct. 869, 28 L. ed. 136. See also Upson County R. Co. v. Sharman, 37 Ga. 644.

17. Illinois.— Illinois State Trust Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 208 Ill. 419, 70 N. E. 357.

Kentucky.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 97 Ky. 675, 31 S. W. 476, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 427.

Mississippi.— Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 83 Miss. 746, 36 So. 74.

Pennsylvania.— Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214].

Texas.— East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834.

United States.— Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849; Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., 161 U. S. 646, 16 S. Ct. 705, 40 L. ed. 838; Kimball v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 46 Fed. 888.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 382.

The state may prohibit the sale of a railroad to a company owning a parallel or competing line (East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834); or restrict a general power to sell previously given so as to exclude sales to such companies where the right has not been acted upon (Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849; Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., 161 U. S. 646, 16 S. Ct. 705, 40 L. ed. 838).

The Georgia constitution provides that the legislature shall not authorize any corporation to purchase stock in or make any contract with another corporation, the effect of which may be or is intended to be to defeat or lessen competition or encourage monopolies, and that all such contracts and agreements shall be illegal and void. Clarke v. Georgia Cent. R., etc., Co., 50 Fed. 338, 15 L. R. A. 683; Hamilton v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 49 Fed. 412; Langdon v. Branch, 37 Fed. 449, 2 L. R. A. 120.

Under the Mississippi constitution the general statute prohibiting any railroad company from purchasing a competing road cannot be suspended by a private act for the benefit of a particular railroad company. Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 83 Miss. 746, 36 So. 74.

The building of an additional road by one company for the purpose of facilitating and enlarging its business, which is parallel with another road leased by it for nine hundred and ninety-nine years, and which will not compete with any road of any other company, is not within a constitutional prohibition against the acquisition of a parallel or competing road. Catawissa R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 3 Pa. Dist. 111, 14 Pa. Co. Ct. 280, 34 Wkly. Notes Cas. 11.

Condemning an additional strip of land for the purpose of laying an additional track, to be operated in conjunction with the existing track as a double track railroad, does not violate a constitutional provision forbidding a railroad company from acquiring a parallel or competing line. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 211 Ill. 352, 71 N. E. 1017.

18. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 97 Ky. 675, 31 S. W. 476, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 427; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214].

19. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849.

20. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214]; Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., 161 U. S. 646, 16 S. Ct. 705, 40 L. ed. 838.

21. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214]; Com. v. Beech Creek, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 223 [affirmed in 3 Pa. Cas. 83, 7 Atl. 374].

as will prevent the granting of an injunction to prevent one railroad company from obtaining control of a competing line.[22] Independently of express prohibition such purchases are contrary to public policy.[23] To be within the prohibition referred to the roads need not be parallel in a strictly mathematical sense,[24] and may be competing, although not parallel,[25] or may be competing by reason of their relations with, control, or management of other lines than their own,[26] and in determining whether they are parallel or competing, the lines which the companies are authorized by their charters to construct as well as those which have been actually constructed must be considered.[27] The provisions should, however, be reasonably construed according to the purposes of their enactment and their application limited accordingly.[28]

c. Subscription to or Purchase of Stock.[29] While a railroad company may take stock of another railroad company by way of security for a debt,[30] it has no right to invest its corporate funds in the purchase of such stock,[31] or become an incorporator or subscriber to the stock of another railroad company,[32] particularly where the object is to secure an interest in the management of such road,[33] except where it is authorized to do so by its charter or statute;[34] and independently of the right to hold stock in another corporation the rule against the sale or purchase of a railroad without legislative authority prevents one railroad company from acquiring the virtual ownership or control of another by the acquisition of a controlling interest in its stock.[35] If, however, a statute authorizes a railroad company to acquire by purchase or other lawful contract the road and franchises of any other company, it may purchase a majority of the stock of another company for the purpose of gaining the control and practical ownership thereof,[36] and where a statute authorizes one railroad company which is unable to complete the construction of its road to sell the same to another company, such other company may purchase a controlling interest in its stock.[37] The legislature may, under a power reserved to alter or amend a charter, authorize

22. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214].

23. Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582; Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849.

24. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 97 Ky. 675, 31 S. W. 476, 17 Ky. L. Rep. 427.

25. East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 69 Tex. 306, 6 S. W. 834.

26. Pennsylvana R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. St. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214]; Com. v. Beech Creek, etc., R. Co., 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 223 [affirmed in 3 Pa. Cas. 83, 7 Atl. 374]; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690.

27. Illinois State Trust Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 217 Ill. 504, 75 N. E. 562; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. St. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214].

28. Illinois State Trust Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 217 Ill. 504, 75 N. E. 562; Kimball v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 46 Fed. 888.

29. Power to hold stock in another corporation see, generally, CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1107.

30. See Milbank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 64 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 20.

31. Hazelhurst v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 43 Ga. 13; Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582; Milbank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 64 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 20. But see Smith v. Newark, etc., R. Co., 8 Ohio Cir. Ct. 583, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 356, holding that a railroad company may, although not expressly authorized by its charter to do so, invest in dividend-paying stock in another company and will be liable for assessments thereon.

32. New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 31 N. J. Eq. 475 [reversed on other grounds in 32 N. J. Eq. 755]; Valley R. Co. v. Lake Erie Iron Co., 46 Ohio St. 44, 18 N. E. 486, 1 L. R. A. 412.

33. Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582.

34. Oelbermann v. New York, etc., R. Co., 77 Hun (N. Y.) 332, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 545, holding that the New York statute of 1892 providing that any stock corporation, except moneyed corporations (banking and insurance companies), may purchase stock of other corporations, applies to railroad companies, and is not restricted by the statute of 1890, authorizing a railroad company to purchase the stock of another railroad company of which it is a lessee.

35. Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582; Elkins v. Camden, 36 N. J. Eq. 5.

In passing upon such transactions the courts will have regard to their objects and purposes rather than the means by which they are effected. Elkins v. Collins, 36 N. J. Eq. 5.

36. Wehrhane v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 42 Hun (N. Y.) 660, 4 N. Y. St. 541.

37. Dewey v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 91 Mich. 351, 51 N. W. 1063.

one railroad company to subscribe to or purchase stock of another company,[38] but the right to do so will not be implied but must be clearly conferred;[39] and a statute authorizing a railroad company, for the purpose of forming a connection, to aid another company in the construction of its road by means of a subscription to its capital stock does not authorize a purchase of the stock of such company from its stock-holders.[40] A statute authorizing a railroad company to purchase stock in any railroad company whose line connects with its own applies to the purchase of stock of a foreign as well as a domestic company.[41]

d. Consent and Rights of Stock-Holders. Stock-holders of one of the contracting railroads may sue to enjoin an ultra vires sale or purchase of the road or a controlling interest in the stock of the company;[42] and even where the sale or purchase is authorized by statute, it cannot be made without the consent of the stock-holders,[43] who may sue to enjoin its execution,[44] although it is held that where the sale or purchase is authorized and there is no provision to the contrary, the consent of a majority of the stock is sufficient.[45] Where the sale is authorized, stock-holders who with knowledge of the fact and terms of the sale make no objection but acquiesce and delay until after rights of third parties have intervened, will be estopped to question its validity or have it declared invalid.[46]

2. Requisites and Validity of Conveyance. The validity of a conveyance of a railroad as affected by its formal requisites and mode of execution is governed by the general principles relating to deeds and the formal execution of corporate contracts,[47] and where the sale is authorized a conveyance executed by the proper

38. White v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 559.

39. Hazelhurst v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 43 Ga. 13.

40. Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Burke, 10 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 136, 19 Cinc. L. Bul. 27, holding further that such a statute does not authorize a railroad company to purchase the stock of a coal company which has by its charter the right to construct a railroad, which right it has never exercised.

41. Venner v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 28 Fed. 581.

42. Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582; Upson County R. Co. v. Sharman, 37 Ga. 644; Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5; Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., 161 U. S. 646, 16 S. Ct. 705, 40 L. ed. 838.

A single stock-holder may sue to enjoin the ultra vires purchase of a controlling interest in a competing line, notwithstanding he purchased his stock after the negotiations were begun and for the express purpose of defeating the transaction. Elkins v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 36 N. J. Eq. 5.

43. Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R. I. 260; Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 34 Fed. 582.

A contract between two railroad companies for the management of the business of both by one of them upon an agreed division of receipts and expenses does not warrant the managing company in purchasing at the common expense a controlling interest in a rival line, without the consent of the stock-holders of the other company. Nashua, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 136 U. S. 356, 10 S. Ct. 1004, 34 L. ed. 363 [reversing 8 Fed. 458].

44. Mackintosh v. Flint, etc., R. Co., 34 Fed. 582.

45. Waldoborough v. Knox, etc., R. Co., 84 Me. 469, 24 Atl. 942; Venner v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 28 Fed. 581.

Where the charter authorized a sale of the road if approved by a majority of the stock-holders and was subsequently amended by a provision that no contract made by the directors should be valid unless ratified "by the stock-holders," it was held that the latter provision was not a repeal of the former and that unanimous consent was not necessary, but that a sale might be made as formerly by the approval of a majority. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Jarvis, 87 S. W. 759, 27 Ky. L. Rep. 986.

Under the Michigan statute a sale of a railroad may be made by consent of two thirds of the stock-holders, and such a sale by a company organized after the enactment of the statute is valid and concludes a dissenting stock-holder. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 54 Fed. 759, 4 C. C. A. 561.

46. Emerson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 14 R. I. 555; Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R. I. 260.

And although a stock-holder was not notified or present or represented at the meeting at which the directors were authorized to sell, while he will not be bound by the terms of the purchase, yet if he bought his stock the day before the meeting from one who had agreed to sell it to the selling company to enable it to make the sale of the road, and had himself been in the confidential employment of both companies, he cannot attack the sale in equity and will be required to transfer his stock to the purchasing company on payment of its value, or at his election to abide by the sale. Young v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 76 Mich. 485, 43 N. W. 632.

47. See Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1000 et seq.; Deeds, 13 Cyc. 526 et seq.

officers and under the corporate seal of the corporation is prima facie valid.[48] Non-compliance with the requirements of the statute authorizing the sale that all the debts of the vendor shall first be paid will not invalidate the sale, where the amount of such debts is inconsiderable and the purchasing company agrees to pay the same.[49] Where the sale is authorized the vendor company will be estopped to deny its validity, although there were irregularities in the proceeding, if the purchasing company has been permitted without objection to take possession of the road and make improvements thereon,[50] and an estoppel to question the validity of the sale may also exist against non-consenting stock-holders[51] or creditors of the company.[52]

3. PROPERTY AND RIGHTS INCLUDED. The property and rights included under a sale of a railroad or railroad property depends upon the intention of the parties as shown by the terms and proper construction of the conveyance,[53] construed in connection with and subject to the provisions of the statute authorizing the same.[54] Generally speaking, the purchaser takes only what is described in the deed of conveyance,[55] and in the conveyance of a railroad and its "appurtenances" a separate road or interest therein cannot pass as an appurtenance to the road conveyed,[56] nor will land pass as appurtenant to other land, or property of the same class or kind as appurtenant to that conveyed.[57] The sale of a railroad does not pass the franchise of being a corporation or work a dissolution of the company.[58] In a conveyance of railroad property it is not always practicable to require a specific description by metes and bounds of all grounds used for depots, side-tracks, and the like,[59] and the description will be held sufficient to Proceedings held valid.— Where the statute authorizes a sale by consent of two thirds of the stock-holders and this number accepts a proposition for the sale of the road, and passes a resolution authorizing the directors to consummate the same, a sale made by the president and secretary pursuant to a resolution of the directors is valid. Young v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 76 Mich. 485, 43 N. W. 632.

Recording.— Where a statute authorizing one railroad company to purchase the franchises and property of another provides that title shall vest on the filing of a certificate in the office of the secretary of state, a recording in the records of the towns is not necessary. New York, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 52 Conn. 274.

48. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228, holding further that in such case the burden is upon any person claiming the sale to be invalid upon the ground that it was not assented to by the stock-holders to establish this fact.

49. Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437.

50. Mahaska County R. Co. v. Des Moines Valley R. Co., 28 Iowa 437. See also Hervey v. Illinois Midland R. Co., 28 Fed. 169.

Where a railroad company abandons the construction of its road before completion and sells it to another company, which constructs a part of the road and operates the same for a number of years without objection, the vendor will be estopped to deny the right of the purchasing company to complete the construction of the road. Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 36 Ark. 663.

51. See supra, VII, B, 1, d.

52. Fogg v. Blair, 133 U. S. 534, 10 S. Ct. 338, 33 L. ed. 721, holding that where one railroad company has sold its road and franchises to another, which has assumed the debts and liabilities of the vendor company, a creditor of the latter, who has proceeded against the purchasing company and obtained a judgment against it, based upon the assumed validity of such transfer, cannot afterward object that it was ultra vires.

53. Philadelphia v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 253 [disapproving 47 Pa. St. 325]; Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 58 Fed. 639; Philadelphia Inv. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 41 Fed. 278.

Particular instruments construed.— On a conveyance by a railroad company of its road and all its property except that "not necessary for or used or acquired for the purpose of operation of said railway," land on which the company has constructed a depot and side-track is not within the exception but passes by the conveyance. Fordyce v. Rapp, 131 Mo. 354, 33 S. W. 57. Where it was agreed that the road should be delivered free from indebtedness and the purchase of its stock and bonds was merely a means to that end, the conveyance will be held to include overdue coupons of the bonds included in the sale. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., 58 Fed. 639.

54. Philadelphia v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 253.

55. Philadelphia Inv. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 41 Fed. 378.

56. Philadelphia v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 58 Pa. St. 253.

57. Philadelphia Inv. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 41 Fed. 378.

58. Arthur v. Commercial, etc., Bank, 9 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 394, 48 Am. Dec. 719.

59. Fordyce v. Rapp, 131 Mo. 354, 33 S. W. 57.

convey title if it is such that the property intended to be conveyed can be identified and distinguished from all other property.[60]

4. Rights and Liabilities of Purchasers[61] — a. In General. A railroad company which purchases the road of another must carry out and perform the charter obligations and public duties of its vendor,[62] and takes the road subject to any limitations and conditions imposed upon the rights exercised by the grantor,[63] including any limitation or restriction as to the rates chargeable upon the road for transportation by the vendor.[64] Special statutory exemptions or privileges of the vendor do not, in the absence of express statutory provision, pass to the purchasing company,[65] such as an immunity from taxation,[66] or right to fix and determine the rates for transportation,[67] particularly where the charter of the purchasing company provides that it shall be subject to all the laws applying to railroad companies generally.[68] Where the purchase of a railroad is authorized and is made in good faith for a valuable consideration,[69] the purchaser is not, in the absence of any statutory provision or agreement to the contrary, liable for the debts, contracts, or personal obligations of the vendor,[70] but takes the road

60. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 71 Ill. 38; Fordyce v. Rapp, 131 Mo. 354, 33 S. W. 57.

61. Purchasers at foreclosure sale see infra, VIII, B, 14.

Purchasing bondholders or other creditors see infra, VIII, B, 15.

Priorities of liens and mortgages see infra, VIII, A, 9.

Injuries from operation of road see infra, X, C, 3.

62. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 183 Ill. 341, 55 N. E. 648 [affirming 83 Ill. App. 233]; Graham v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 39 Ind. App. 294, 77 N. E. 57, 1055; State v. Dodge, etc., R. Co., 53 Kan. 377, 36 Pac. 747, 42 Am. St. Rep. 295.

63. Mobile v. Steiner, 61 Ala. 559; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, 183 Ill. 341, 58 N. E. 648 [affirming 83 Ill. App. 233].

64. Mobile v. Steiner, 61 Ala. 559; Campbell v. Marietta, etc., R. Co., 23 Ohio St. 168.

65. Sublette v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 96 Mo. App. 113, 69 S. W. 745; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Gill, 156 U. S. 649, 15 S. Ct. 484, 39 L. ed. 567.

66. State v. Morgan, 28 La. Ann. 482; Pickard v. East Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 130 U. S. 637, 9 S. Ct. 640, 32 L. ed. 1051; Morgan v. Louisiana, 93 U. S. 217, 23 L. ed. 860. See also, generally, Taxation.

67. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pendleton, 156 U. S. 667, 15 S. Ct. 413, 39 L. ed. 574; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Stevenson, 156 U. S. 667, 15 S. Ct. 484, 491, 39 L. ed. 573; Matthews v. Corporation Com'rs, 97 Fed. 400.

68. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pendleton, 156 U. S. 667, 15 St. Ct. 413, 39 L. ed. 574 [affirming 88 Va. 350, 13 S. E. 709, 86 Va. 1004, 11 S. E. 1062].

69. Hawkins v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 119 Ga. 159, 46 S. E. 82; Powell v. North Missouri R. Co., 42 Mo. 63.

70. Arkansas.— Sappington v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 37 Ark. 23.

Georgia.— Hawkins v. Georgia Cent. R. Co., 119 Ga. 159, 46 S. E. 82.

Kansas.— Hukle v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. 71 Kan. 251, 80 Pac. 603.

Missouri.— Dickey v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 122 Mo. 223, 26 S. W. 685; Powell v. North Missouri R. Co., 42 Mo. 63.

New York.— Martindale v. Western New York, etc., R. Co., 45 N. Y. App. Div. 328, 60 N. Y. Suppl. 1026, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 634, 62 N. Y. Suppl. 1142.

Texas.— Williams v. Texas Midland R. Co., 22 Tex. Civ. App. 278, 55 S. W. 130.

Wisconsin.— Menasha v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 52 Wis. 414, 9 N. W. 396; Wright v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 46.

United States.— Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 135 U. S. 576, 10 S. Ct. 753, 34 L. ed. 243; Hoard v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 123 U. S. 222, 8 S. Ct. 74, 31 L. ed. 130; Rice v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 153 Fed. 497, 82 C. C. A. 447.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 399, 400.

Implied contract to maintain station.— Where a railroad company sells land for building lots platted with reference to a station to be established in their vicinity, any implied contract between the purchaser of such lots and the railroad company that the latter will maintain the station is not, in the absence of statute or agreement to the contrary, binding upon the company which purchases the road, so as to prevent it from removing such station or render it liable in damages for the removal. Williams v. Texas Midland R. Co., 22 Tex. Civ. App. 278, 55 S. W. 130.

Adoption of contract.— Where a railroad company purchases from a coal company a road leading to a coal mine and contracts to transport coal of the latter company over the road at a certain rate, and subsequently sells the road to another company, if the last company for three years operates the road in accordance with the terms of the contract of its vendor, charging only the special rates therein provided, it will be held to have adopted the same, and will be bound thereby, although it did not at the time of the purchase covenant to carry out the terms of the contract (Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., Coal Co., 79 Ill. 121); and where one free from all contracts and claims against the vendor which do not constitute valid liens,[71] or do not run with the land or otherwise bind the property or franchises purchased.[72] Such liability is in some cases imposed by the statute authorizing the sale or purchase,[73] or incorporating the purchasers,[74] or is expressly assumed by the purchaser in the contract of conveyance;[75] but where the purchaser expressly assumes the debts of its predecessor, the creditors of such company do not acquire a lien upon the property but merely the right to look to the purchasing company for payment.[76] Where a railroad company is authorized to purchase stock of another company it is entitled to vote upon such stock,[77] and will be liable for assessments thereon.[78]

b. Covenants or Conditions in Grant of Right of Way. The purchaser of a railroad is bound by any covenants in the original grant of the right of way which run with the land,[79] but not by covenants which do not run with the land;[80] although if a railroad company purchases a road with knowledge of an oral agreement on the part of its vendor, made in consideration of a grant of the right of way to maintain a private crossing, it takes the road subject thereto and cannot abolish the railroad company contracts for a joint use of a portion of the track of another company upon certain terms and subsequently sells its road, if the purchasing company continues to use the portion of the track contracted for it will be bound by the terms and conditions of the contract (South Carolina R. Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 7 S. C. 410).

Where any trust is imposed upon the property conveyed and the purchaser takes with knowledge thereof, it takes subject to the performance of the trust. Thornton v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 45 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 416, holding that where a railroad company agreed to deliver mortgage bonds as security for a debt, a subsequent purchaser of the road with knowledge of the agreement takes it subject to the trust.

Contract between railroad company and express company.—Where a railroad company entered into a contract by which it undertook to grant to an express company for a term of five years exclusive express privileges and facilities upon the entire railroad system of which its line formed a part and the other roads of the system approved the contract and made an agreement among themselves, to which the express company was not a party, for a division of the payments, and the contracting railroad company was sold and the purchaser refused to assume responsibility for further performance of the contract by other roads, and made a new contract, it was held that the original contract was entire and was terminated by such action as to all the roads concerned. Smith v. Wells, 96 Fed. 375.

71. Sappington v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 37 Ark. 23; Menasha v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 52 Wis. 414, 9 N. W. 396; Wright v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 25 Wis. 46.

72. Des Moines, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 135 U. S. 576, 10 S. Ct. 753, 34 L. ed. 243, holding that, although the contract in terms provides that it or any damages from a breach thereof shall be a continuing lien upon the road, it is not binding upon the purchaser where there is nothing in the nature of the contract to make it one running with the land or chargeable upon the road after passing into other hands.

73. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lundstrom, 16 Nebr. 254, 20 N. W. 198, 49 Am. Rep. 718; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Warner, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 280, 70 S. W. 365; Winona, etc., R. Co. v. Plainview, 143 U. S. 371, 12 S. Ct. 530, 36 L. ed. 191 [affirming 36 Minn. 505, 517, 32 N. W. 745, 749].

To render a company liable on promissory notes made by another company, the fact that defendant was authorized to purchase the road of the company making the notes on condition that it should pay the debts of the latter is not sufficient, but it must further be shown that defendant actually purchased the road. Desmond v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 77 Ill. 631.

Under the Ohio statute of 1902 authorizing the purchase of a connecting or continuous line, and providing that the purchasing company shall be subject to all the "duties, obligations, and restrictions" of the former company, it is held that the duties and obligations referred to are those imposed upon railroad companies by the general laws of the state, and do not include a claim for breach of contract. Rice v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 153 Fed. 497, 82 C. C. A. 447.

74. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 43 Ill. 199.

75. Lenz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 111 Wis. 198, 86 N. W. 607; Hervey v. Illinois Midland R. Co., 28 Fed. 169.

76. Hervey v. Illinois Midland R. Co., 28 Fed. 169.

77. Oelbermann v. New York, etc., R. Co., 77 Hun (N. Y.) 332, 29 N. Y. Suppl. 545.

78. Smith v. Newark, etc., R. Co., 8 Ohio Cir. Ct. 583, 4 Ohio Cir. Dec. 356.

79. Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Cosand, 6 Ind. App. 222, 33 N. E. 251, holding that a covenant to erect and maintain fences, cattle-guards, and farm crossings runs with the land and is binding upon the purchaser.

80. Dickey v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 122 Mo. 223, 26 S. W. 685, holding that a covenant to furnish a landowner with a perpetual crossing.[81] Any conditions subsequent in grants of rights of way which will defeat the estate granted should be strictly construed,[82] and a sale and conveyance to another railroad company is not of itself a breach of a condition that the road constructed upon the right of way shall be kept up and operated,[83] or that the land granted shall be used for depot purposes only.[84] Where a railroad company is granted a mere easement for the operation of its own road, an attempted sale of a portion of the right of way to another company for the construction of a road thereon operates as an abandonment of that portion of the right of way.[85]

c. Injuries From Construction and Maintenance. The purchaser of a railroad is not liable for injuries to property caused by the construction or maintenance of the road which were sustained prior to the purchase,[86] or even those sustained after the purchase if it had no notice of the existence of the defect or condition causing the same;[87] but it will be liable for such damages where it continued to use the road with knowledge of its defective condition,[88] or for damages due to a continuance of a nuisance created by the vendor,[89] unless the nuisance was on other property not belonging to or under the control of the railroad company,[90] and also for damages due to any acts on its own part with regard to the construction, alteration, or repair of the road.[91]

5. Remedies By or Against Companies. Where the statute under which the purchase is made imposes a liability upon the purchasing company for the debts and liabilities of the vendor, it need not provide any specific remedies in favor of the creditors, but they may sue the purchasing company at common law in debt or assumpsit as the case may be;[92] and where the purchasing company agrees to assume or pay the debts and liabilities of the vendor, such agreement constitutes a direct liability to creditors of the latter upon which they may sue;[93] and one creditor may sue for and recover the full amount of his claim without making the other creditors parties or suing in their behalf;[94] but although such liability is imposed by statute, a judgment cannot be rendered against the purchasing company in an action brought against the vendor alone.[95] A contract between the purchasing company and a third party who guarantees that the vendor shall deliver the road free from all liens and encumbrances is personal to the purchasing company, and is not enforceable in equity for the benefit of bondholders of the vendor.[96] Where the sale is authorized a deed from one railroad company to another, signed by the proper officer and under the corporate seal of the grantor, is prima facie valid, and the burden is upon any one denying its validity on the ground that the stock-holders had not consented to its execution to establish such invalidity;[97] but where the charter of a railroad company requires that the incorporators shall purchase the property and franchises of an existing company as a condition precedent to their organization as a corporate body, such pass on a railroad passing over his land does not run with the land or bind a purchaser of the road.

81. Swan v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 72 Iowa 650, 34 N. W. 457.

82. Southard v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 13.

83. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covington, 2 Bush (Ky.) 526.

84. Southard v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 26 N. J. L. 13.

85. Blakely v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 46 Nebr. 272, 64 N. W. 972.

86. Hammond v. Port Royal, etc., R. Co., 15 S. C. 10.

87. Peoria, etc., R. Co. v. Barton, 38 Ill. App. 469; Central Trust Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 57 Fed. 441.

88. Culver v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Mo. App. 130.

89. Culver v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 38 Mo. App. 130; Brown v. Cayuga, etc., R. Co., 12 N. Y. 486.

90. Wayland v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. 548.

91. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, 121 Ga. 322, 48 S. E. 968.

92. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 43 Ill. 199, holding that where the action is upon a judgment an action of debt is proper.

93. Lenz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 111 Wis. 198, 86 N. W. 607.

94. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Butler, 56 Tex. 506.

95. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Fulmore, (Tex. Civ. App. 1894) 26 S. W. 238.

96. Randall v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 134 Mich. 493, 96 N. W. 567.

97. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 66 Mo. 228.

company must, under a plea of nul tiel corporation, show that the purchase was made before it can recover property of the previously existing company.[98] Where the purchaser of a railroad company agrees to deliver as a part of the purchase-price certain of its own stock and bonds to a certain value, and such delivery is not made, the vendor in suing to recover the balance of the debt is entitled to recover the full amount, although the market value of such stock and bonds is below par.[99] Where railroad properties are sold subject to certain conditions subsequent upon the breach of which the property is to revert to the grantor, if such conditions are not performed and the grantor does any act showing an intention to take advantage of the breach, the property is not thereafter subject to attachment for any debt incurred by the purchaser during his possession.[1]

C. Leases — 1. Right to Make or Take Lease — a. In General. A railroad company cannot without legislative authority lease its road to another company,[2] even with the consent of all its stock-holders,[3] and to constitute a valid lease the lessee must have authority to take as well as the lessor to execute the lease,[4] and such authority will not be implied but must be clearly conferred.[5] It will not be implied from the usual grant of powers in railroad charters,[6] or the use of such

98. Wheadon v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 42 Ill. 494.

99. Texas Western R. Co. v. Gentry, 69 Tex. 625, 8 S. W. 98.

1. Schlesinger v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 152 U. S. 444, 14 S. Ct. 647, 38 L. ed. 507 [affirming 39 Fed. 741].

2. Alabama.—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Greyson, 88 Ala. 572, 7 So. 122, 16 Am. St. Rep. 69.

District of Columbia.—Howard v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 11 App. Cas. 300.

Indiana.—Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85.

New Jersey.—Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97.

New York.—Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Kerr, 17 Barb. 581.

Pennsylvania.—Van Steuben v. Central R. Co., 178 Pa. St. 367, 35 Atl. 992, 34 L. R. A. 577; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bedford, 81* Pa. St. 104.

Texas.—Central R. Co. v. Morris, 68 Tex. 49, 3 S. W. 457.

United States.—Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 145 U. S. 52, 12 S. Ct. 814, 36 L. ed. 620; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 464]; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 630, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 83, 284; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

England.—Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 64 Eng. Reprint 1243; Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 21 L. J. Ch. 837, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 643, 41 Eng. Ch. 306, 68 Eng. Reprint 520.

Canada.—Hinckley v. Gildersleeve, 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 212.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 404.

Effect of curative statutes.—An ultra vires lease made without statutory authority may be validated by a subsequent curative statute (Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 102 Fed. 825, 42 C. C. A. 654); but the fact that the legislature, after a railroad company has made an ultra vires lease, passes a statute forbidding the directors of the company, "its lessees or agents," from collecting more than a fixed sum of compensation for carrying passengers and freight, is not a ratification of the lease or an acknowledgment of its validity (Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950).

3. East Anglian R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 11 C. B. 775, 16 Jur. 249, 21 L. J. C. P. 23, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 150, 73 E. C. L. 775.

4. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440]; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 630, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 83, 284; East Anglian R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 11 C. B. 775, 16 Jur. 249, 21 L. J. C. P. 23, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 150, 73 E. C. L. 775.

A statute authorizing railroad companies to make contracts "for leasing" their roads confers power to either make or take leases. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440].

5. Black v. Delaware Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 81* Pa. St. 104; Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. (Pa.) 94; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 464]; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 630, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 83, 284.

A prohibition against consolidation cannot be construed as authority to lease. Central, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 68 Tex. 49, 3 S. W. 457.

6. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 630, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 83, 284.

terms as "assigns" or "successors," [7] or from statutes authorizing the execution of mortgages,[8] or authorizing railroad companies to consolidate,[9] or connect with other roads,[10] or to enter into traffic or other operating contracts; [11] and in the case of express authority to lease the right must be limited according to the express provisions of the statute, as in cases where the statute refers only to connecting or continuous lines,[12] or companies of the same state; [13] and a statute authorizing a lease to another railroad company does not authorize a lease to an individual,[14] nor does a charter provision authorizing a particular railroad company to lease and operate other roads authorize it to lease its own road to another company.[15] Certain statutes and charter provisions have, however, been held impliedly to authorize a lease, although not expressly so providing; [16] and it has been held that an authority granted to one company to take leases of other roads impliedly authorizes other companies to make such leases.[17] The right to lease is frequently conferred in express terms either generally [18] or as between companies of the same state,[19] or as between those whose roads form connecting or continuous

7. Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837 [reversing 23 Fed. 232, 10 Sawy. 464]; Briscoe v. Southern Kansas R. Co., 40 Fed. 273.

8. Muntz v. Algiers, etc., R. Co., 111 La. 423, 35 So. 624, 100 Am. St. Rep. 495, 64 L. R. A. 222.

9. Archer v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 102 Ill. 493; Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85; Mills v. Central R. Co., 41 N. J. Eq. 1, 2 Atl. 453.

10. Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440].

11. Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, 50 Ind. 85; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440]; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 630, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 83, 284; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950. But see Woodruff v. Erie R. Co., 93 N. Y. 609; Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,197, 8 Biss. 456.

12. Eel River R. Co. v. State, 155 Ind. 433, 57 N. E. 388; Van Steuben v. Central R. Co., 178 Pa. St. 367, 35 Atl. 992, 34 L. R. A. 577 [reversing 4 Pa. Dist. 153]; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 81* Pa. St. 104; Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. (Pa.) 94.

13. See infra, VII, C, 1, d.

14. Abbott v. Johnstown, etc., R. Co., 80 N. Y. 27, 36 Am. Rep. 572. See also Woodruff v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 93 N. Y. 609 [reversing 25 Hun 246]; Fisher v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 34 Hun (N. Y.) 433.

15. Mills v. Central R. Co., 41 N. J. Eq. 1, 2 Atl. 453.

16. Woodruff v. Erie R. Co., 93 N. Y. 609; Wormser v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 98 N. Y. App. Div. 29, 90 N. Y. Suppl. 714 [affirmed in 184 N. Y. 83, 76 N. E. 1036, 112 Am. St. Rep. 596]; Fisher v. Metropolitan El. R. Co., 34 Hun (N. Y.) 433; Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193; Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 217 Pa. St. 599, 66 Atl. 1108.

In New York the statute of 1839 authorizing railroad companies to contract with other railroad companies for the use of their respective roads was held to authorize leases (Woodruff v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 93 N. Y. 609; Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. 193); and by the act of 1892 such authority is expressly given, the statute providing, however, that a lease for over one year shall not be valid unless affirmed by the holders of two thirds of the stock (Flynn v. Brooklyn St. R. Co., 9 N. Y. App. Div. 269, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 566 [affirmed in 158 N. Y. 493, 53 N. E. 520].

The power to purchase outright any other railroad includes the lesser power of leasing and operating another road for a definite term. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 217 Pa. St. 599, 66 Atl. 1108.

Charter provisions.—A lease of a railroad may be made under a charter provision authorizing the railroad company to "farm out" its rights of transportation (Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854, 9 L. R. A. N. S. 606; State v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 72 N. C. 634; Southern R. Co. v. North Carolina R. Co., 81 Fed. 595), or authorizing the company to "rent or farm out" its exclusive right of transportation on the road and the "privileges thereof" (Central R., etc., Co. v. Macon, 43 Ga. 605).

17. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 217 Pa. St. 599, 66 Atl. 1108; Pinkerton v. Pennsylvania Traction Co., 193 Pa. St. 229, 44 Atl. 284.

18. Ackerman v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 143 Mich. 58, 106 N. W. 558, 114 Am. St. Rep. 640; State v. Montana R. Co., 21 Mont. 221, 53 Pac. 623, 45 L. R. A. 271; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529.

19. Pence v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 28 Minn. 488, 11 N. W. 80; Freeman v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 28 Minn. 443, 10 N. W. 594; Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97; Cincin-lines;[20] and such authority may be given either by a charter provision or a subsequent statute, the provisions of which are accepted by the stock-holders;[21] but a statute of one state authorizing a railroad company to lease its road has no extraterritorial effect and does not authorize it to lease a road owned by it in another state.[22] A railroad company may lease a portion of its right of way or other property for purposes which will increase or facilitate the business of the company and not interfere with the proper performance of its public duties.[23]

b. Continuous or Connecting Lines. In some cases the statutes expressly authorize leases in the case of roads which form connecting or continuous lines.[24] Under these statutes it is not necessary that the roads should connect at their termini so as to make one an extension of the other,[25] or that the roads should be of the same gauge;[26] and the connection may be by means of an intervening road which one of the contracting companies has the right to operate or use,[27] but there must be an actual connection.[28]

c. Parallel or Competing Lines. In some cases the statutes expressly prohibit nati, etc., R. Co. v. Sleeper, 5 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 196, 3 Am. L. Rec. 464.

Lease to consolidated company.— A statute providing that "any railroad corporation created by this state may lease its road to any other railroad corporation so created" authorizes a lease by a domestic railroad company to a railroad company formed by the consolidation of a domestic railroad company and another company of a different state. Peters v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 114 Mass. 127.

20. See infra, VII, C, 1, b.

21. Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1.

22. Briscoe v. Southern Kansas R. Co., 40 Fed. 273. See also Van Steuben v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 178 Pa. St. 367, 35 Atl. 992, 34 L. R. A. 577 [reversing 4 Pa. Dist. 153].

23. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Bullard, 120 Mich. 416, 79 N. W. 635 (holding that a railroad company may lease a portion of its right of way to a manufacturing company with the view of facilitating the securing of freight therefrom); Gilliland v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Mo. App. 411 (holding that a railroad company may lease a portion of its land for the erection of a grain elevator); Roby v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 142 N. Y. 176, 36 N. E. 1053 (holding that a railroad company may lease a portion of its right of way for a coal yard and trestle for the purpose of handling and receiving coal transported over the railroad).

Permitting use of land by third persons generally see supra, V, H, 4.

24. Georgia.— Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315; Central R., etc., Co. v. Macon, 43 Ga. 605.

Kansas.— Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Fletcher, 35 Kan. 236, 10 Pac. 596.

Nebraska.— State v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 38 Nebr. 437, 57 N. W. 20, 24 Nebr. 143, 38 N. W. 43, 8 Am. St. Rep. 164.

New Jersey.— Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455.

Ohio.— Chapman v. Mad River, etc., R. Co., 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 567, 10 West. L. J. 399.

Pennsylvania.— Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 20; Gratz v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 41 Pa. St. 447; Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. 94.

United States.— Hancock v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 409, 12 S. Ct. 969, 36 L. ed. 755; Eakin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,236.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 378.

25. Hancock v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 409, 12 S. Ct. 969, 36 L. ed. 755, holding that under the Kentucky statute authorizing leases where the roads form a "continuous line" it is not essential that the leased road shall be an extension from either terminus of the main line but that it may be simply a collateral branch forming a continuous road via the junction to either terminus of such main line.

26. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 20, holding that under a statute authorizing the lease of connecting roads a connection means either such a union of the tracks as to admit of the passage of cars from one road to the other or such an intersection as to admit of the convenient interchange of freight and passengers at the point of intersection. But see Hampe v. Mt. Oliver, etc., R. Co., 24 Pittsb. L. J. N. S. (Pa.) 330.

27. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Fletcher, 35 Kan. 236, 10 Pac. 596.

28. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 81* Pa. St. 104.

Unfinished roads.— Where the statute authorizing a lease provides that the roads must be either directly or by means of intersecting roads "connected with each other," there can be no lease of an unfinished road where no actual connection has been effected. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 81* Pa. St. 104; Wood v. Bedford, etc., R. Co., 8 Phila. (Pa.) 94.

Roads incorporated under special act.— The Pennsylvania General Railroad Acts of 1861 and 1870, requiring the railroads of a lessor and lessee to be connected, do not apply to the special act of 1871 conferring on certain companies the power to merge, consolidate, or unite with any other company. Kaufman v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 217 Pa. St. 599, 66 Atl. 1108.

leases in the case of parallel or competing lines,[29] and where the statute authorizing a lease applies in terms only to connecting and continuous lines, it does not authorize a lease to a parallel and competing line,[30] and in the absence of any express prohibition it seems that such leases would be contrary to public policy.[31] It has been held, however, that where there is an express statutory authority to lease without any qualifications or restrictions the lease may be made to a parallel and competing line,[32] and this notwithstanding there is an express prohibition against the consolidation of such roads.[33] What roads are parallel or competing is to be determined principally by the question of competition, and to be within the constitutional or statutory prohibitions the roads need not necessarily be parallel in a mathematical sense or connect the same principal termini, and may be competing by reason of their relations or connections with other roads or means of transportation;[34] nor is it necessary that the roads should be actually engaged in cutting rates, but it is sufficient if they are in a position to do so.[35]

d. Foreign Companies. Without legislative authority a railroad company of one state cannot lease its road to a company of another state,[36] and a statute 29. State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 112 Am. St. Rep. 277; Hafer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 487, 29 Cinc. L. Bul. 68; East Line, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Tex. 434, 12 S. W. 690.

30. Eel River R. Co. v. State, 155 Ind. 433, 57 N. E. 388.

31. Eel River R. Co. v. State, 155 Ind. 433, 57 N. E. 388. But see Gere v. New York Cent. R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193, holding that if the legislature has authorized in general terms the leasing of railroads the courts cannot declare the lease of a competing line invalid on the ground of public policy.

32. State v. Montana R. Co., 21 Mont. 221, 53 Pac. 623, 45 L. R. A. 271; Gere v. New York Cent. R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193.

The New York statute of 1839 has been held to authorize a railroad company to lease its road even to a parallel and competing line to be operated by it (Gere v. New York, etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193), but not to hold the same vacant and unused (Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 86 N. Y. 107).

33. State v. Montana, etc., R. Co., 21 Mont. 221, 53 Pac. 623, 45 L. R. A. 271; Gere v. New York Cent. R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193. But see East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. Jarvis, 92 Fed. 735, 34 C. C. A. 639, holding that a lease of a parallel and competing railroad for ten years is a "consolidation" within the constitutional prohibition.

Application of provisions prohibiting consolidation of parallel and competing lines see infra, VII, E, 2, c.

34. State v. Montana R. Co., 21 Mont. 221, 53 Pac. 623, 45 L. R. A. 271; Hafer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 487, 29 Cinc. L. Bul. 68; East St. Louis Connecting R. Co. v. Jarvis, 92 Fed. 735, 34 C. C. A. 639.

35. Hafer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 4 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 487, 29 Cinc. L. Bul. 68.

36. District of Columbia.— Howard v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 11 App. Cas. 300.

Illinois.— Archer v. Terre-Haute, etc., R. Co., 102 Ill. 493.

New Jersey.— Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455.

Ohio.— Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 733.

United States.— Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 387.

In Ohio by statute a railroad company incorporated in that state may lease its road to other companies of that state but not to a railroad company created by the laws of another state. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Sleeper, 5 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 196, 3 Am. L. Rec. 464.

In New Jersey the statute of 1880 authorized leases to either domestic or foreign railroad companies, but the provision as to foreign companies was repealed by the act of 1885, which expressly prohibits any lease to a foreign company until the assent of the legislature thereto has been obtained, which latter statute is not unconstitutional. Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97.

Under the Minnesota statute of 1878, providing that any Iowa railroad company may extend its road into the state of Minnesota and shall have and possess all the powers, franchises, and privileges of railroad companies incorporated under the general laws of that state, provided such non-resident company shall first file a true copy of its articles of incorporation with the secretary of that state, a Minnesota company cannot lease its road to an Iowa company until the latter has complied with the provisions of the statute. Freeman v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 28 Minn. 443, 10 N. W. 594.

In New Hampshire the statute of 1883 provides that "railroad corporations created by the laws of other states, operating roads within this state, shall have the same rights for the purposes of . . leasing . . . roads as if created by the laws of this state." Bos-authorizing leases to other companies of the same state confers no authority for a lease to a foreign company.[37] Such authority must also be conferred upon each of the contracting companies by their charters or the laws of the states creating them.[38] It has been held, however, that a lease to a company of another state may be made under a general authority to lease to another railroad company,[39] and in some cases the statutes authorizing the lease apply in express terms to companies of other states,[40] or to such companies in cases where their roads form a connecting and continuous line.[41] Where a statute authorizes leases to domestic companies but expressly prohibits leases to foreign companies, the prohibition cannot be evaded by interposing as a nominal lessee a domestic company which is in fact owned and controlled by a foreign company.[42]

e. Consent of Stock-Holders. A railroad company has no right to make a lease of its road without the consent of its stock-holders,[43] and frequently the statutes so provide,[44] and also prescribe the number of stock-holders who must consent.[45] The consent of the stock-holders must be obtained by a vote at a regular meeting and not by an informal consultation of them separately;[46] but in the absence of evidence to the contrary it will be presumed that the meeting was properly held and that the proceedings were regular and valid.[47] In the absence of any provision as to the number it has been held that a lease may be authorized by a majority,[48] but elsewhere it has been held that all of the stock-holders must concur,[49] and that the legislature cannot authorize the execution of a lease by a majority against the will of a dissenting minority,[50] even where ton, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529.

37. Freeman v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 28 Minn. 443, 10 N. W. 594; Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455.

38. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440]; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284.

39. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529; Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 107 N. Y. 129, 13 N. E. 765. But see Freeman v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 28 Minn. 443, 10 N. W. 594.

40. Ackerman v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 143 Mich. 58, 106 N. W. 558, 114 Am. St. Rep. 640; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440].

41. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Fletcher, 35 Kan. 236, 10 Pac. 596; Sturges v. Knapp, 31 Vt. 1; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,197, 8 Biss. 456.

42. Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97.

43. Mills v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 41 N. J. Eq. 1, 2 Atl. 453; In re Opinion of Judges, 120 N. C. 623, 28 S. E. 18; Boston, etc., R. Corp. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R. I. 260; Stevens v. Davison, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 819, 98 Am. Dec. 292. But see Beveridge v. New York, etc., R. Co., 112 N. Y. 1, 19 N. E. 489, 2 L. R. A. 648, holding that where a railroad company is authorized by statute to lease its road, and the statute does not prescribe the manner of making it, it may be made by the directors without the consent or ratification of the stock-holders.

44. Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440]; Rogers v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 91 Fed. 299, 33 C. C. A. 517; Peters v. Lincoln, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. 319, 4 McCrary 269.

An agreement to lease made before construction of the road cannot be enforced unless subsequently ratified by the stock-holders. Peters v. Lincoln, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. 319, 4 McCrary 269.

The fact that the directors agreed upon the terms of the lease before submitting the question to the stock-holders, where no such preliminary agreement was necessary under the statute, does not affect the validity of the lease if duly authorized by the stock-holders. Jones v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 67 N. H. 234, 30 Atl. 614, 68 Am. St. Rep. 650.

45. Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455; Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 187 N. Y. 225, 79 N. E. 1026 [affirming 103 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 27]; Rogers v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 91 Fed. 299, 33 C. C. A. 517; Peters v. Lincoln, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. 319, 4 McCrary 269.

46. Stevens v. Davison, 18 Gratt. (Va.) 819, 98 Am. Dec. 692; Peters v. Lincoln, etc., R. Co., 12 Fed. 513, 2 McCrary 275.

47. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854, 9 L. R. A. N. S. 606.

48. Waldoborough v. Knox, etc., R. Co., 84 Me. 469, 24 Atl. 942; O'Neill v. Hestonville, etc., R. Co., 9 Pa. Dist. 2.

49. Mills v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 41 N. J. Eq. 1, 2 Atl. 453.

50. Dow v. Northern R. Co., 67 N. H. 1, 36 Atl. 510. But see Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455, holding that the state may, under the right of eminent dothe right is reserved to alter or amend the charter.[51] Non-consenting stock-holders may sue in equity to enjoin the execution of the lease,[52] or any operation thereunder, and to have it declared invalid,[53] provided such objection is seasonably made;[54] but the consent of the stock-holders, although required by law, is for their personal benefit and may be waived by them,[55] or the right to object that the lease was made without their consent barred by laches,[56] and this notwithstanding the statute provides that without such consent the lease shall not be perfected,[57] or shall be null and void.[58] A stock-holder who voted for the lease cannot afterward dissent.[59]

f. Modification, Rescission, or Termination. The power to enter into a lease will impliedly authorize the companies by mutual consent subsequently to modify its terms or cancel it;[60] but the same consent of the stock-holders as is necessary for the authorization of a lease in the first instance is essential to authorize a subsequent modification of its terms,[61] or its rescission.[62] Where a railroad company has made a lease which is ultra vires and void, it may rescind or abandon it at any time,[63] and ought to do so at the earliest opportunity.[64] In the absence of fraud one of the companies is not entitled to a decree for the cancellation of a lease merely because its directors have been guilty of an error of judgment in regard to its terms,[65] and where the lease is not void but merely voidable, the main, authorize a lease by less than the whole number of stock-holders, provision being made for compensating the dissenting stock-holders for the value of their stock.

51. Dow v. Northern R. Co., 67 N. H. 1, 36 Atl. 510. But see Durfee v. Old Colony, etc., R. Co., 5 Allen (Mass.) 230.

52. Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 24 N. J. Eq. 455.

53. Dow v. Northern R. Co., 67 N. H. 1, 36 Atl. 510; Mills v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 41 N. J. Eq. 1, 2 Atl. 453.

54. Mills v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 41 N. J. Eq. 1, 2 Atl. 453, holding that a delay of fifty-four days is not such laches as to bar an action to annul the lease.

55. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 410]; Eakin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,236.

56. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529; Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854, 9 L. R. A. N. S. 606; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 R. I. 260; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 410]; Eakin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,236.

If the lease is unauthorized and therefore ultra vires and void, stock-holders who did not consent thereto are not estopped by lapse of time or the receipt of benefits under the lease to sue to have it declared invalid and annulled. Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85.

57. Eakin v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,236.

58. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 410].

59. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 179 Mass. 62, 60 N. E. 405, holding that even under a statute authorizing a lease by a vote of the majority of stock-holders and providing that any stock-holder may dissent within a specified time, and that in such case the lessee shall acquire such stock at its valuation, stock-holders who voted for the lease cannot file a dissent under the statute and require the lessee to purchase their stock.

60. Harkness v. Manhattan R. Co., 54 N. Y. Super. Ct. 174; Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118.

61. March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515; Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 187 N. Y. 225, 79 N. E. 1026 [affirming 103 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 27]; Metropolitan El. R. Co. v. Manhattan El. R. Co., 11 Daly (N. Y.) 373; Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118.

Number of stock-holders.— It has been held that a modification of the terms of a lease may be authorized by a majority of the stock-holders (Harkness v. Manhattan R. Co., 54 N. Y. Super. Ct. 174. But see March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 415), or by a two-thirds vote of all the stock (Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 187 N. Y. 225, 79 N. E. 1026 [affirming 103 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 27]).

Where the directors may authorize the lease in the first instance without the consent of the stock-holders, as is held under a particular New York statute, they may also, without such consent, modify the terms of the lease and reduce the amount of the rent contracted for. Beveridge v. New York, etc., R. Co., 112 N. Y. 1, 19 N. E. 489, 2 L. R. A. 648.

62. Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118.

63. Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

64. Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

65. Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 43 Fed. 483.

right to a rescission may be lost by laches or acquiescence.[66] So also a lessee desiring to rescind the lease for fraud or breach of warranty must act promptly upon discovering the fraud or breach.[67] Where the lease provides in case of a breach of any of its covenants for a right of reëntry by the lessor, and a termination of the rights and interests of the lessee, any breach of such covenants entitles the lessor to maintain an action for its forfeiture;[68] but a forfeiture will not be declared where the lessor did not elect to so declare it at the time of the breach, and the covenant was afterward performed by the lessee prior to the institution of suit.[69] The lessor must also perform any covenants on its part, but the court will not, upon its failure to do so, decree a rescission of the lease if such a decree would be inequitable, but will require the lessor specifically to perform its agreement within a reasonable time.[70] A decree for the sale of a portion of the leased road to satisfy a mortgage made prior to the lease is not while unexecuted such an eviction of the lessee by paramount title as to entitle the lessee to a rescission,[71] nor will the appointment of a receiver, who is merely a receiver of the rents and profits due from the lessee and is under instruction not to interfere with the lessee's possession, have such effect.[72] It is competent for a state to provide that a foreign railroad company shall not enjoy a lease of a railroad in such state until it acquires it in conformity to the statutes, and that a failure to conform to the statutes shall be a ground for forfeiture of the lease.[73]

2. Requisites and Validity — a. In General. The validity of a railroad lease with respect to its formal requisites and mode of execution is governed by the principles relating to leases and the formal execution of corporate contracts generally,[74] and any statutory requirements must be complied with;[75] but it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that all the proceedings of the directors and stock-holders were regular and valid,[76] and although irregular,

66. Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 263, 26 N. E. 145 [reversing 52 Hun 555, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 623]; Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 43 Fed. 483.

67. Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. O'Rourke Engineering Constr. Co., 124 N. Y. App. Div. 210, 108 N. Y. Suppl. 707, holding further that the lessee of railroad cars waives any right to disaffirm the lease for breach of warranty, where without attempting to rescind or suggesting any ground justifying a rescission, it makes an arrangement for subleasing cars not needed by it.

68. South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 111 Ga. 420, 36 S. E. 593.

69. South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 111 Ga. 420, 36 S. E. 593.

70. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,197, 8 Biss. 456.

71. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,197, 8 Biss. 456.

72. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,197, 8 Biss. 456.

73. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State, 75 Ark. 435, 88 S. W. 559, holding, however, that the Arkansas statute of 1901, providing for the forfeiture of such a lease if not made in conformity with the statute, is not retroactive.

74. See Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1000 et seq.; Landlord and Tenant, 24 Cyc. 894 et seq.

Consent of stock-holders see supra, VII, C, 1, e.

Power of subcommittee.— Where the executive committee of a railroad company appoint from their number a subcommittee to confer with a similar committee from another company and agree upon the terms of a lease, and report the same to the executive committee, the subcommittee has no right to make a contract binding upon the company, and the casual presence at such meeting and assent of other members of the executive committee, who with the subcommittee would constitute a majority thereof, will not make the agreement signed by the subcommittee a contract binding upon the company. Dows v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,048.

Although a lease is not signed if it was reduced to writing and acted upon and partially performed by both parties it must be considered as binding as if signed. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 2 Fed. 117, 1 McCrary 247.

75. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. 733; Rue v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 74 Tex. 474, 8 S. W. 533, 15 Am. St. Rep. 852; Kent Coast R. Co. v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 3 Ch. 656, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 174, 16 Wkly. Rep. 1027.

Acknowledgment.— A lease by one railroad company to another for a term of more than three years must be legally acknowledged. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. 733.

An unrecorded lease of cars is valid as between the parties. Meyer v. Western Car Co., 102 U. S. 1, 26 L. ed. 59.

76. Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C.

the acts done, if within the powers of the company, may be subsequently ratified.[77] The right to operate a railroad and take tolls therefrom is not necessarily of a corporate character, so as to render a lease to an individual invalid;[78] and where a statute permits railroad companies to lease their roads to other railroad companies, a lease to a private individual while not expressly authorized is not void upon grounds of public policy.[79] A lease procured through fraud or collusion or by directors who are pecuniarily interested in both companies is voidable,[80] but is not absolutely void,[81] and may be ratified,[82] which may be by acquiescence or conduct inconsistent with any right or intention to avoid it.[83] If the lease is strictly ultra vires as being beyond the corporate powers of the company it is void.[84] A lease of a railroad is not invalid because executed pursuant to a scheme that another corporation shall own the stock of the lessee,[85] but a provision in the lease that the lessor renounces all its duties to the public vitiates the lease.[86] Any conditions in the lease imposed by the lessor which would prevent the lessee from properly performing its public duties as a common carrier are contrary to public policy and void,[87] but if the conditions are conditions subsequent the lessee takes the road free from the illegal condition.[88] Where a railroad company by a single instrument, the provisions of which are, however, separate and distinct, contracts to sell its road and until it can make a good title thereto free from encumbrances, to lease it to the purchaser, the lease if authorized is valid, although the contract of sale may be ultra vires.[89]

b. Rent and Term of Lease. A railroad company may lease its road for a term longer than the period of its corporate existence where the charter is subject to renewal.[90] Power to lease includes the power to fix the rent and the manner in which it shall be paid,[91] and the lessee may agree as rent to pay or guarantee 539, 55 S. E. 854, 9 L. R. A. N. S. 606; Oregon R. Co. v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 28 Fed. 505.

77. Oregon R. Co. v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 28 Fed. 505.

78. Middlebury Bank v. Edgerton, 30 Vt. 182.

79. Woodruff v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 93 N. Y. 609 [reversing 25 Hun 246].

80. Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 263, 26 N. E. 145 [reversing 52 Hun 555, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 623].

The right to avoid a lease made by common directors is in the corporation and not the minority stock-holders. Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 187 N. Y. 225, 79 N. E. 1026 [affirming 103 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 27].

81. Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 187 N. Y. 225, 79 N. E. 1026 [affirming 103 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 27]; Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 263, 26 N. E. 145 [reversing 52 Hun 555, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 623]; Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 43 Fed. 483.

82. Continental Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 187 N. Y. 225, 79 N. E. 1026 [affirming 103 N. Y. App. Div. 282, 93 N. Y. Suppl. 27].

83. Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 263, 26 N. E. 145 [reversing 52 Hun 555, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 623].

84. Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

Lease of stock-yards.—A lease by a railroad company of its stock-yards to one of its own agents, the company agreeing to pay him for loading and unloading stock, for which he was to furnish forage to be charged against shippers and collected by him, is void under the Missouri statute prohibiting officers or employees of railroad companies to be interested in furnishing supplies to such companies or in the business of transportation of freight or passengers over the roads owned or operated by them. Rue v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 74 Tex. 474, 8 S. W. 533, 15 Am. St. Rep. 852.

85. Flynn v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 9 N. Y. App. Div. 269, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 566 [affirmed in 158 N. Y. 493, 53 N. E. 520].

86. Anderson v. Union Terminal R. Co., 161 Mo. 411, 61 S. W. 874.

87. Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 95 Fed. 18.

88. Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 95 Fed. 18.

89. U. S. Trust Co. v. Mercantile Trust Co., 88 Fed. 140, 31 C. C. A. 427 [affirming 80 Fed. 18].

90. Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

91. Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 107 N. Y. 129, 13 N. E. 765; Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193; Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118; Sidell v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 78 Fed. 724, 24 C. C. A. 216; Hazard v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 17 Fed. 753.

the payment of the interest on the bonds of the lessor during the term of the lease,[92] or a part of the principal of such bonds annually,[93] or the entire amount thereof at the expiration of the lease;[94] and where the rent is to be paid in the form of dividends or interest on bonds, it may be made payable directly to the stock-holders or bondholders instead of to the lessor company to be distributed by it.[95] An agreement to pay rent to a third company does not make the lease void for want of consideration, where such company owns substantially all of the stock and bonds of the lessor.[96]

c. Subletting or Assignment. The legislative authority of a railroad company to lease its road passes to the lessee as a part of the franchise, in the absence of any provision to the contrary in the lease;[97] and the lessee may, in the absence of statute, sublet or assign the lease,[98] except where it contains a covenant to the contrary;[99] but the relation between the lessor and lessee being one of privity, both of contract and estate, the lessee cannot avoid its liability by an assignment of the lease.[1] A contract right acquired by one railroad company to use a portion of the track of another passes to the lessee of its road as an appurtenance thereto, in the absence of any provision in the contract against its assignment.[2] An assignment of a lease of a railroad must be in writing,[3] but the validity of the assignment is not affected by the insolvency of the assignee.[4] Where the road of a company which has leased certain trackage and terminal facilities is sold under foreclosure, if its successor and the lessor continue to act under the lease and recognize it as valid and binding between them, the former will be bound thereby without any formal assignment.[5]

d. Who May Question Validity. If a lease, although ultra vires, is not in violation of any statute or contrary to public policy, it seems that only the immediate parties thereto, the companies or the stock-holders who are parties by representation, may question its validity upon the ground of a want of authority to make it.[6] Its validity may be attacked by stock-holders against whom no principle of estoppel exists,[7] but not by mortgage bondholders who stand upon a security taken in express subjection to the lease.[8] A third person not a party to the lease who has entered into a valid contract with the lessee for services to be rendered by the latter, and received the benefit thereof, cannot, in an action upon such contract, plead as a defense that the lessee was operating under a void lease;[9] and in an action by the lessor and lessee to enjoin a third company from constructing a competing line without legislative authority, the fact that the lease was not acknowledged and recorded as required by statute cannot be set up by defendant.[10] Where the lease is unauthorized and contrary to public 92. Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 107 N. Y. 129, 13 N. E. 765; Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193; Eastern Townships' Bank v. St. Johnsbury, etc., R. Co., 40 Fed. 423.

93. Day v. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co., 107 N. Y. 129, 13 N. E. 765.

94. Gere v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 19 Abb. N. Cas. (N. Y.) 193.

95. Ætna Ins. Co. v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 156 Fed. 132.

96. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

97. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315.

98. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 20.

99. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 61 Ill. App. 405; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529.

1. Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

2. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 20.

3. Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

4. Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

5. Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 150 Ill. 480, 37 N. E. 924 [affirming 47 Ill. App. 414].

6. Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1.

7. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Grayson, 88 Ala. 572, 7 So. 122, 16 Am. St. Rep. 69; Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85.

8. Vermont R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1.

9. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 28 Ct. Cl. 77.

10. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. National R. Co., 23 N. J. Eq. 441.

policy the state by its attorney-general may sue in equity for preventive relief and is not confined to an action at law to forfeit the charter.[11]

e. Estoppel to Deny Validity. While there is some conflict of authority as to the application of the doctrine of estoppel in the case of corporate contracts generally, where the contract is ultra vires,[12] the weight of authority as to railroad leases is that if the lease is strictly ultra vires it is void and cannot be made good by ratification or estoppel,[13] and that, although the contract has been partly executed and one company has enjoyed benefits thereunder, it is not estopped to set up its invalidity in an action to enforce a covenant in the lease,[14] or to recover rents due according to the terms of the lease;[15] but the rule is otherwise where the lease is authorized and the alleged invalidity consists only in some irregularity or informality in its execution or ratification by the stock-holders,[16] or where it is merely voidable as on account of the conflicting pecuniary interests of common directors in both companies.[17] A stock-holder who voted for the lease will be estopped to attack its validity as long as the company remains committed thereto, but not after it has been formally repudiated as invalid by a subsequent meeting of the stock-holders.[18]

3. Construction and Operation — a. In General. In construing railroad leases the general rules in regard to the construction of leases and contracts generally apply.[19] The contract must be so construed as to carry out the intention

11. Stockton v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 Atl. 964, 17 L. R. A. 97.

12. See Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1146 et seq.

13. See infra, VII, C, 6, e.

14. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

15. Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 145 U. S. 52, 12 S. Ct. 814, 36 L. ed. 620; Oregon R., etc., Co. v. Oregonian R. Co., 130 U. S. 1, 9 S. Ct. 409, 32 L. ed. 837; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55. But see Camden, etc., R. Co. v. May's Landing, etc., R. Co., 48 N. J. L. 530, 7 Atl. 523; Woodruff v. Erie R. Co., 93 N. Y. 609 [reversing 25 Hun 246].

Recovery independent of contract see infra, VII, C, 6, e.

16. Humphreys v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 37 Fed. 307.

17. Barr v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 263, 26 N. E. 145 [reversing 52 Hun 555, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 623]; Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 43 Fed. 483.

18. Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Grayson, 88 Ala. 572, 7 So. 122, 16 Am. St. Rep. 69.

19. See Contracts, 9 Cyc. 577; Landlord and Tenant, 24 Cyc. 914.

Particular contracts construed.— Where one railroad company leased its road to another, which agreed to equip it with engines, cars, etc., and to give as favorable accommodation to its business as if they owned it, and to run regular trains and also extra trains when required, for which last they should be allowed "the actual cost of running the same," it being further agreed that the lessees should collect the revenues of the leased road, and before paying them to the lessors take out a certain sum semiannually for running the trains over their road, and a certain proportion of the balance for the use of their road by such trains, it was held that the "actual cost" of the extra trains included only money actually paid out and not a proportion of the expense of the lessee's road or the wear and tear on its tracks. Lexington, etc., R. Co. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 9 Gray (Mass.) 226. A lease does not vest the lessee with authority of its own motion to put in force unexecuted franchises of construction and appropriation vested in the lessor, where it does not expressly so provide, but on the contrary impliedly reserves such right to the lessor, the lease providing that the lessor might, at the request of the lessee, execute every corporate power, which the lessor might then or thereafter put in force to enable the lessee to enjoy all the rights, privileges, etc., of the premises demised. Lewis v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 39 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 13. Where a railroad company which guaranteed the bonds of another company with a right of subrogation to the mortgage lien further agreed "either to furnish equipment for the operation of said road, or to lease and operate the same on terms to be agreed upon between them," this stipulation cannot be construed as a contract to lease for a rental sufficient to pay the interest on the guaranteed bonds. Dows v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,048. Where a lease stipulated that if the lessor should become dissatisfied with the reserved rent and his claim was not adjusted he might apply to "the chancellor of the state of New York, for the time being," to appoint appraisers, it was held that the parties must have intended the court of chancery and not the mere personal incumbent of the chancellorship and that the supreme court having subsequently succeeded to the powers and duties of the court of chancery, the application must be to this tribunal. New York Cent. R. Co. v. Saratoga, etc., R. Co., 39 Barb. (N. Y.) 289.

of the parties,[20] which must be gathered from the instrument as a whole,[21] and in case of doubt by reference to the subject-matter, situation of the parties, and circumstances and conditions existing at the time of its execution.[22] The practical construction given to the contract by the parties as shown by their subsequent acts is also a material factor in determining their intention.[23] Where there is no uncertainty or ambiguity the terms of the contract as expressed therein must govern,[24] and in the absence of anything to show a contrary intention, the words used will be construed according to their ordinary and popular sense.[25] The lease must also be construed with reference to the objects proposed by the existing charters of the companies at the time it was made.[26] An agreement in the lease to submit differences to arbitration does not permit one of the parties which has invoked the jurisdiction of a court of equity to limit such jurisdiction and to prevent the court from determining all the equities between the parties relative to the subject-matter,[27] or affect the right of stock-holders to sue where the dispute is not between the companies but between the stock-holders and the companies.[28] A lease made without legislative authority does not ipso facto dissolve the corporation,[29] or release a subscriber to its stock from his subscription,[30] or affect the liability of the company to be sued upon a liability incurred prior to the lease.[31]

b. Nature of Contract. It is frequently important to determine both as affecting the right to execute and the rights and liabilities resulting therefrom, whether a particular contract is in fact a lease,[32] and this must be determined

20. In re New York Cent. R. Co., 49 N. Y. 414 [reversing 49 Barb. 501]; Southern R. Co. v. Franklin, etc., R. Co., 96 Va. 693, 32 S. E. 485, 44 L. R. A. 297; Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 43 Fed. 483.

21. March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515; Mt. Morris v. King, 77 Hun (N. Y.) 18, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 281; Southern R. Co. v. Franklin, etc., R. Co., 96 Va. 693, 32 S. E. 485, 44 L. R. A. 297; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 143 U. S. 596, 12 S. Ct. 479, 36 L. ed. 277 [modifying and affirming 45 Fed. 304].

22. Massachusetts.— Eastern R. Co. v. Rogers, 124 Mass. 527.

Michigan.— Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 141 Mich. 215, 104 N. W. 650.

New Hampshire.—March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515.

New York.— In re New York Cent. R. Co., 49 N. Y. 414 [reversing 49 Barb. 501].

Ohio.— Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118.

Virginia.— Southern R. Co. v. Franklin, etc., R. Co., 96 Va. 693, 32 S. E. 485, 44 L. R. A. 297.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 143 U. S. 596, 12 S. Ct. 479, 36 L. ed. 277 [modifying and affirming 45 Fed. 304]; Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 43 Fed. 483.

England.— West London R. Co. v. London, etc., R. Co., 11 C. B. 327, 17 Jur. 301, 22 L. J. C. P. 117, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 477, 73 E. C. L. 327.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 417.

Covenant for repairs.— Where the lease of a railroad with all its appurtenances and equipment provides that the lessee shall return the road at the expiration of the lease in as good repair as when leased, natural wear only excepted, it must be construed as requiring the lessee to keep and return the road in good running condition and to renew any structures which might become unsafe for use through accident or decay. Sturges v. Knapp, 31 Vt. 1.

23. Lewiston, etc., R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 97 Me. 261, 54 Atl. 750; Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1; Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 141 Fed. 785, 73 C. C. A. 43.

24. Pennsylvania Co. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 108 Pa. St. 621.

25. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 128 Mich. 333, 87 N. W. 271.

26. March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515.

27. Chamberlain v. Connecticut Cent. R. Co., 54 Conn. 472, 9 Atl. 244.

28. March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515.

29. Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Kerr, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 581.

30. Ottawa, etc., R. Co. v. Black, 79 Ill. 262; Hays v. Ottawa, etc., R. Co., 61 Ill. 422; Troy, etc., R. Co. v. Kerr, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 581.

31. U. S. v. Little Miami, etc., R. Co., 1 Fed. 700.

32. South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta Southern R. Co., 107 Ga. 164, 33 S. E. 36; U. S. Rolling Stock Co. v. Potter, 48 Iowa 56; Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 733; Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 21 L. J. Ch. 837, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 643, 41 Eng. Ch. 306, 68 Eng. Reprint 520.

Particular contracts construed and held to constitute a lease see the following cases: Rome R. Co. v. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co., 94 Ga. 422, 21 S. E. 69; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 174 Ill. 448, 51 N. E. 824; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Pere Marquette not by the name given to it by the parties or the terms used but by its essential character.[33] So where railroad companies have power to enter into certain contracts but not to lease, an instrument, although termed a lease, may be valid as a traffic or other operating contract;[34] while on the other hand, in the absence of statute, any contract is unauthorized which is in substance and effect a lease, although it is not so called,[35] or it is expressly stipulated that it shall not be regarded as such.[36]

c. Subletting or Assignment. In accordance with the rules relating to leases generally,[37] if the conveyance is of the entire interest of the lessee it is an assignment of the lease, but if of only a part of the unexpired term, it is a sublease,[38] whatever may be the form or language of the instrument,[39] and if the transfer affects only a part of the leased property but passes the entire interest of the lessee in such portion, it is an assignment pro tanto.[40] A company in possession other than the lessee will be presumed to be in possession as the assignee of the term,[41] but is not estopped from showing that it is not an assignee.[42] An assignment of the lease creates a privity of estate between the original lessor and the assignee,[43] and the assignee is bound by covenants in the original lease which run with the land,[44] including the covenants to pay rent;[45] but there is no privity of contract between the original lessor and the assignee,[46] and between the original lessor and a sublessee there is no privity either of contract or estate,[47]

R. Co., 128 Mich. 333, 87 N. W. 271; March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515; Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950. Contracts held not to be a lease see the following cases: Turner v. Potter, 56 Iowa 251, 9 N. W. 208; U. S. Rolling Stock Co. v. Potter, 48 Iowa 56; South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 93 Fed. 543, 35 C. C. A. 423.

33. U. S. Rolling Stock Co. v. Potter, 48 Iowa 56; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

34. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

35. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 733; London, etc., R. Co. v. London, etc., R. Co., 4 De G. & J. 362, 5 Jur. N. S. 801, 28 L. J. Ch. 521, 7 Wkly. Rep. 591, 61 Eng. Ch. 284, 45 Eng. Reprint 140; Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 64 Eng. Reprint 1243; Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 21 L. J. Ch. 837, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 643, 41 Eng. Ch. 306, 68 Eng. Reprint 520.

36. Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 21 L. J. Ch. 837, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 643, 41 Eng. Ch. 306, 68 Eng. Reprint 520.

37. See LANDLORD AND TENANT, 24 Cyc. 962 et seq.

38. Indiana.— Indianapolis, etc., Union v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 45 Ind. 281.

Missouri.— St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607.

New Hampshire.— Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529.

New York.— Stewart v. Long Island R. Co., 102 N. Y. 601, 8 N. E. 200, 55 Am. Rep. 844; Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

Texas.— Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Settegast, 79 Tex. 256, 15 S. W. 228.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," §§ 419, 431.

39. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607; Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529.

The fact that a different rent is reserved in the second lease will not prevent its operating as an assignment, where it transfers the entire interest of the original lessee. Stewart v. Long Island R. Co., 102 N. Y. 601, 8 N. E. 200, 55 Am. Rep. 844.

40. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529.

41. Ecker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 8 Mo. App. 223; Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

42. Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

43. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607; Stewart v. Long Island R. Co., 102 N. Y. 601, 8 N. E. 200, 55 Am. Rep. 844; West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. McIntire, 44 W. Va. 210, 28 S. E. 696.

44. Stewart v. Long Island R. Co., 102 N. Y. 601, 8 N. E. 200, 55 Am. Rep. 844; West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. McIntire, 44 W. Va. 210, 28 S. E. 696.

45. Stewart v. Long Island R. Co., 102 N. Y. 601, 8 N. E. 200, 55 Am. Rep. 844; Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

46. Frank v. New York, etc., R. Co., 7 N. Y. St. 814.

47. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, and the sublessee is not bound by covenants in the original lease unless it has contracted to be so.[48] A covenant against subletting or assignment cannot be evaded by any indirect proceeding, such as the assignment by the lessee of the entire gross earnings, with an agreement to continue to operate the road under the direction of the assignee;[49] but a covenant against subletting or assignment is not broken by giving another a mere license to use the leased property,[50] and where one railroad company leases to another a portion of its right of way on which to construct the road of the latter, the lease being to the lessee and to "its successors and assigns forever," and another clause provides that the lessee shall not assign or sublet any of the rights granted, the latter clause will be construed as only preventing an assignment of such rights, separate from the road of the lessee and not to prevent their passing to an assignee of the lessee's road as a part thereof.[51] Although a lease provides that it shall not be assignable, if the assignee takes and operates the road under and by virtue of the lease it must be held to have assumed the duty imposed thereby upon the lessee to operate the road.[52] Where one railroad company leases the road of another and agrees to assume a lease taken by the latter of a third road, whether such assumption applies to the whole term of the assumed lease or only to the part thereof covered by the term of the second will depend upon the intention of the parties as shown by a proper construction of the contract.[53]

d. Property Rights and Franchises Included. The property rights and franchises included in the lease must be determined by the terms and proper construction of the contract,[54] which, however, will be presumed to include whatever rights and property of the lessor are necessary for the operation of the road and the proper exercise of the rights granted.[55] A lease of a railroad with all its appurtenances includes a contract right acquired by the lessor to use a portion of the track of a third company.[56]

e. Rents and Advances.[57] Where there are express provisions in the lease as to the amount or method of computing the rent and the time and manner of payment, the rights and liabilities of the companies must be determined by a proper construction of the contract,[58] and if no particular amount is stipulated etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607.

48. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Keahey, 37 Tex. Civ. App. 330, 83 S. W. 1102.

49. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 529.

50. Pence v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 28 Minn. 488, 11 N. W. 80.

51. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 265, 28 N. W. 705.

52. Schmidt v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 101 Ky. 441, 41 S. W. 1015, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 666, 38 L. R. A. 809.

53. Jesup v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 43 Fed. 483, holding that where the A company leased the road of the B company for forty years and then leased its own road to the C company for twenty years, the C company agreeing to assume the lease of the B road, the agreement will be construed as applying only during the continuance of the second lease, where the road of the A company is a connecting link between the C road and the B road, without which the latter would be of no use to the C company.

54. Gray v. Massachusetts Cent. R. Co., 171 Mass. 116, 50 N. E. 549; Norwich, etc., R. Co. v. Worcester, 147 Mass. 518, 18 N. E. 409; In re New York Cent. R. Co., 49 N. Y. 414 [reversing 49 Barb. 501]; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 143 U. S. 596, 12 S. Ct. 479, 36 L. ed. 277 [modifying and affirming 45 Fed. 304].

Lands included.— Where the lease in terms includes all the lands "upon and across which its said railroad, or any part thereof, or its machine shop, warehouses, freight or passenger depots or buildings, are constructed," it includes all lands acquired for use in operating the road, and without which the use of the road or any part thereof would be less convenient and valuable, although not absolutely necessary. In re New York Cent. R. Co., 49 N. Y. 414 [reversing 49 Barb. 501].

55. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 143 U. S. 596, 12 S. Ct. 479, 36 L. ed. 277 [modifying and affirming 45 Fed. 304].

56. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Catawissa R. Co., 53 Pa. St. 20.

57. Validity of lease as affected by provisions in regard to rents see supra, VII, C, 2, b.

58. Eastern R. Co. v. Rogers, 124 Mass. 527; Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 44 Ohio St. 287, 7 N. E. 139; Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118; Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 34 Vt. 1; Ætna Ins. Co. v. Albany, etc., R. Co., 156 Fed. 132.

a promise to pay whatever is a reasonable amount will be implied.[59] A failure on the part of the lessor to perform an independent covenant does not affect the liability of the lessee for the agreed rent.[60]

4. Rights of Stock-Holders.[61] Stock-holders may sue to enjoin the execution of an unauthorized lease,[62] or to have it declared invalid and canceled,[63] or to enforce any right growing out of the lease and affecting their interests where the company refuses to do so,[64] but not otherwise.[65] Where by statute a certain proportion of the stock-holders may authorize a lease, the minority cannot defeat the right on the ground that the lease would impair the market value of the stock or prevent the payment of dividends on the common stock during the term of the lease;[66] but the stock-holders have a right to insist that the terms of the lease as agreed upon in so far as they affect their interests shall be carried out.[67] If the lease was authorized and not contrary to public policy and is objected to only upon the ground of being prejudicial to the rights of stock-holders, it cannot be attacked by stock-holders who voted to approve it, but only by the dissenting minority,[68] and stock-holders having a right to object must not be guilty of laches in asserting their objection.[69] An agreement by the lessee to pay a rental which will produce a certain dividend on the stock of the lessor does not constitute a contract to which the holders of such stock are parties or privies, so as to entitle them to maintain an action therefor against the lessee.[70]

5. Rights of Creditors and Bondholders. It seems that a railroad company in debt cannot transfer its entire property by lease so as to prevent the application of the property at its full valte to the satisfaction of its debts,[71] or lease its road to a particular creditor to be operated by him indefinitely, according to his own discretion and for his own benefit.[72] A lease may be made upon such terms as to constitute an assignment for the benefit of creditors,[73] in which case any provisions for preference if forbidden by law are void;[74] but where a lease is Division of earnings.—A provision of a lease that the lessee "shall, in each and every year of the term demised, pay or cause to be paid to said [lessor], in the manner and at times hereinafter specified, thirty per-centum of the gross earnings of the demised property," is not one for the payment of rental but for the division of the earnings of the property, as earnings; and under it thirty per cent of such earnings become in equity the property of the lessor at once upon their receipt, being held by the lessee in trust for the purpose specified in the lease. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 102 Fed. 825, 42 C. C. A. 654.

59. Rome R. Co. v. Chattanooga, etc., R. Co., 94 Ga. 422, 21 S. E. 69.

60. Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118.

61. Necessity for consent of stock-holders and rights of the dissenting minority see supra, VII, C, 1, e.

62. Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 64 Eng. Reprint 1243.

63. Tippecanoe County v. Lafayette, etc., R. Co., 50 Ind. 85.

64. Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118.

65. Flynn v. Brooklyn City R. Co., 9 N. Y. App. Div. 269, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 566 [affirmed in 158 N. Y. 493, 53 N. E. 520].

66. Middletown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 53 Conn. 351, 5 Atl. 706, where the charter provided that no dividend should be declared on the common stock until after a seven per cent annual dividend on the preferred stock, and the rent stipulated for in the lease was only sufficient to produce a four per cent dividend on the preferred stock.

67. March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515, holding further that to entitle stock-holders to equitable relief it is not necessary to charge any fraud or collusion on the part of the directors, but that it is sufficient that the directors have misinterpreted the rights growing out of the lease.

68. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 527.

69. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 N. H. 393, 23 Atl. 527; Hill v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 143 N. C. 539, 55 S. E. 854. 9 L. R. A. N. S. 606.

70. Beveredge v. New York El. R. Co., 112 N. Y. 1, 19 N. E. 489, 2 L. R. A. 648.

71. See Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Third Nat. Bank, 134 U. S. 276, 10 S. Ct. 550, 33 L. ed. 900.

72. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. La Crosse, etc., R. Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,887, holding that such lease will be declared invalid at the suit of other creditors.

73. Bittenbender v. Sunbury, etc., R. Co., 40 Pa. St. 269; Lucas v. Sunbury, etc., R. Co., 32 Pa. St. 458.

Lease held not to be an assignment in trust for benefit of creditors with preferences see Gratz v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 41 Pa. St. 447.

74. Bittenbender v. Sunbury, etc., R. Co., 40 Pa. St. 269.

authorized an objection that it would impair the rights of bondholders or creditors can be made only by them and not by a stock-holder.[75] A judgment after a lease does not of its own right defeat the lease or deprive the lessee company of its interest or possession, but operates against the lessor and the interest retained in the leased road.[76] Where a railroad company has authority to lease its road a statute authorizing it to mortgage the road will not be construed as impliedly prohibiting a lease, but the lease will be enjoined at the instance of the mortgage trustee, where its terms are prejudicial to the rights of creditors as secured by the statute authorizing the mortgage.[77] If the lessee covenants to discharge all valid liens, creditors having such liens may sue in equity to enforce their payment,[78] and rents due under a lease are subject to garnishment by creditors of the lessor.[79] Where simultaneously with the execution of a lease, and as part of the same transaction, certain mortgages and agreements are made for the benefit of bondholders, a trustee for such bondholders may sue to compel the lessee specifically to perform its agreement to operate the road,[80] or to recover damages for the breach of conditions of the lease;[81] but where the trustee in such an action for the benefit of bondholders recovers judgment against the lessee, the fact that the lessee denied the breach and resisted a recovery will not prevent it from asserting as owner of a portion of such bonds its right to a pro rata share of the recovery.[82]

6. Rights and Liabilities of Lessor and Lessee — a. In General. The rights, duties, and liabilities of the lessor and lessee as between themselves, in so far as they are provided for in the lease, must be governed by the terms and proper construction of that contract;[83] and where the lease specifies the duties and liabilities of each, neither company is restricted in any manner not provided in the contract, but may obtain new legislative grants and avail itself of any new powers which will not interfere with the due operation of its contract with the other company.[84] The lessee ordinarily, with respect to the leased property, succeeds to all the rights and franchises of the lessor,[85] and in its operation of the leased

75. Middletown v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 53 Conn. 351, 5 Atl. 706.

76. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Third Nat. Bank, 134 U. S. 276, 10 S. Ct. 550, 33 L. ed. 900.

77. Phillips v. Eastern R. Co., 138 Mass. 122.

78. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Third Nat. Bank, 134 U. S. 276, 10 S. Ct. 550, 33 L. ed. 900 [affirming 26 Fed. 820], holding further that where a railroad company in debt leases its road and property to another company, which agrees to pay all judgment liens against the lessor and to complete the road, and the two companies execute a deed of trust to secure bonds of the lessor, the proceeds of which are received by the lessee and partly used for its own benefit, the lessee is in equity liable for debts which existed against the lessor before the lease, although they were not reduced to judgment.

79. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks Locomotive Works, 121 U. S. 430, 7 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 995, holding that where the leased road is operated by a mortgage trustee of the lessee, without assuming or taking any assignment of the lease, the obligation to pay for such use is to the lessor and the amount due subject to garnishment.

80. Schmidtz v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 101 Ky. 441, 41 S. W. 1015, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 666, 38 L. R. A. 809.

81. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Schmidt, 112 Ky. 717, 66 S. W. 629, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 2097.

82. Louisville First Nat. Bank v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 79 S. W. 280, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 2051.

83. Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Southern R. Equipment Co., 107 Ga. 186, 33 S. E. 184; Lexington, etc., R. Co. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 9 Gray (Mass.) 226; Catawissa R. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 168 Pa. St. 544, 32 Atl. 62, 3 Pa. Dist. 111, 14 Pa. Co. Ct. 280, 34 Wkly. Notes Cas. 11; Southern R. Co. v. Franklin, etc., R. Co., 96 Va. 693, 32 S. E. 485, 44 L. R. A. 297.

Construction and operation of lease see supra, VII, C, 3.

Set-off in action on covenants.— Where a railroad lease provides that the lessee shall pay annually from the gross earnings a certain sum to keep up the organization of the lessor, the lessee being compelled to operate the road until the termination of the lease, and furnish the means necessary therefor, it cannot set off against the amount set apart to keep up the lessor's organization the amount of a judgment which it holds against the lessor. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Cumberland, etc., R. Co., 54 S. W. 5, 55 S. W. 884, 21 Ky. L. Rep. 1126, 1409.

84. March v. Eastern R. Co., 43 N. H. 515.

85. Canton v. Canton Cotton Warehouse Co., 84 Miss. 268, 36 So. 266, 65 L. R. A.

road is not bound by any limitations in its own charter with respect to the rates which it is permitted to charge upon its own road;[86] but it succeeds to no greater rights than those of the lessor,[87] and must in operating the leased road be governed by the charter of the lessor.[88] So also where a company of one state leases a road in another state it is subject to local legislation in that state in the same manner as the lessor would have been if no lease had been made.[89] The lessee also succeeds to the charter obligations of the lessor and the necessity of performing its public duties.[90] It must operate the leased road,[91] and keep it in repair,[92] and cannot abandon or cease to operate any part thereof,[93] or change its location.[94] It must also furnish all necessary rolling stock and equipment for its proper operation and for the transportation of both freight and passengers,[95] and may be compelled by mandamus to so,[96] or enjoined from abandoning any of its public duties.[97] So also where the lease expressly or by clear implication provides that the lessee shall operate the road, it may be compelled specifically to perform its agreement,[98] and if an action at law would not afford adequate redress the court will compel it to operate the road for the term of the lease, although it cannot be operated except at a loss;[99] but where the lease or contract for the use of trackage and 561; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Sly, 65 Pa. St. 205; London, etc., R. Co. v. South Eastern R. Co., 8 Exch. 584, 22 L. J. Exch. 193.

86. Palm v. New York, etc., R. Co., 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 162, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 471; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Sly, 65 Pa. St. 205.

87. State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

88. Chicago v. Evans, 24 Ill. 52; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Sly, 65 Pa. St. 205; McCandless v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 38 S. C. 103, 16 S. E. 429, 18 L. R. A. 440.

89. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121 [affirming 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604]; McCandless v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 38 S. C. 103, 16 S. E. 429, 18 L. R. A. 440; Stone v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 116 U. S. 347, 6 S. Ct. 348, 388, 1191, 29 L. ed. 650.

90. Illinois.— People v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 176 Ill. 512, 52 N. E. 292, 35 L. R. A. 656.

Massachusetts.— Nichols v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 174 Mass. 379, 54 N. E. 881.

Mississippi.— State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

New York.— Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121 [affirming 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604].

Pennsylvania.— Com. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 117 Pa. St. 637, 12 Atl. 38 [reversing 2 Pa. Co. Ct. 391]; Mullen v. Philadelphia Traction Co., 4 Pa. Co. Ct. 164, 20 Wkly. Notes Cas. 203.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 423.

The lessee is liable to indictment for failing to restore a highway to its former condition as required by the charter of the lessor. Com. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 117 Pa. St. 637, 12 Atl. 38 [reversing 2 Pa. Co. Ct. 391].

The duty to pave and repair streets on which the road is located, imposed upon the lessor by its charter, is also by the acceptance of a lease of the road imposed upon the lessee so as to render it liable to the public for an injury due to the omission of such duty. Mullen v. Philadelphia Traction Co., 4 Pa. Co. Ct. 164, 20 Wkly. Notes Cas. 203.

Accommodations at stations.—A railroad company using a station under a rental contract with another company is liable for failing to provide certain conveniences and accommodations at the station under a statute requiring "each railroad and railway corporation operating a line of railway in the state of Texas for the transportation of passengers" to provide and maintain the same. State v. Southern Kansas R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1907) 99 S. W. 167.

91. People v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 176 Ill. 512, 52 N. E. 292, 35 L. R. A. 656.

92. Miller v. New York Cent. R. Co., 125 N. Y. 118, 26 N. E. 35 [reversing 3 N. Y. Suppl. 245].

93. State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

94. State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

Change of location of track on right of way. — Where one railroad company leases to another the right to build and maintain a railroad upon land of the former, the parties may, after the track has been located and built, by oral agreement change its location within the limits specified in the lease. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 35 Minn. 265, 28 N. W. 705.

95. People v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 176 Ill. 512, 52 N. E. 292, 35 L. R. A. 656, holding that the lessee may be required to run separate trains for freight and passengers instead of mixed trains.

96. People v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 176 Ill. 512, 52 N. E. 292, 35 L. R. A. 656.

97. State v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 86 Miss. 172, 38 So. 732, 122 Am. St. Rep. 277.

98. Schmidtz v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 101 Ky. 441, 41 S. W. 1015, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 666, 38 L. R. A. 809; Southern R. Co. v. Franklin, etc., R. Co., 96 Va. 693, 32 S. E. 485, 44 L. R. A. 297.

99. Schmidtz v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 101 Ky. 441, 41 S. W. 1015, 19 Ky. L. Rep. 666, 38 L. R. A. 809; Southern R. Co. v. Franklin, terminal facilities is merely for the right to such use, to be paid for on a wheelage basis, and contains no express covenant to use the same, the lessee will not be compelled to do so or enjoined from using similar facilities of a different company.[1] If the lease is unauthorized the lessor company remains liable for the proper performance of all its charter obligations and public duties,[2] and is liable for any injuries growing out of the negligence of the lessee company or its servants in the operation of the leased road,[3] and the lessee will not be compelled to operate the road under a void lease.[4] It is also held that the lessor company remains liable for the performance of any of its corporate obligations antecedent to the lease, although the lease is authorized and the lessee company is also liable.[5] Under a statute imposing a penalty upon any company "operating" a railroad for violation of certain statutory regulations the lessor company is not liable for a penalty incurred by the lessee in the operation of the leased road.[6] Where one railroad company has leased its road to another it cannot bring an action against the latter merely to obtain an opinion of the court as to whether the lease is ultra vires, where neither company claims that it is invalid or asks to be relieved therefrom.[7]

b. Liability on Contracts.[8] In the absence of any statutory provision or agreement to the contrary the lessee takes the property without any liability for debts of the lessor not constituting a lien upon the leased property,[9] and is not bound by any contracts made by the lessor,[10] or liable for any breach of contract committed by the lessor prior to the lease;[11] and conversely the lessor company is not bound by any contracts entered into between the lessee and third persons to which it is not a party.[12] Where there is a provision in the lease as to debts and contracts the rights and liabilities of the parties depend upon the terms and proper consideration of the agreement.[13] A free pass given by the etc., R. Co., 96 Va. 693, 32 S. E. 485, 44 L. R. A. 297. Compare Port Clinton R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 13 Ohio St. 544; Henry v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 41, 2 Ohio N. P. 118.

Where the lessee agrees to perform all the public obligations of the lessor with respect to the operation of the road, it cannot refuse to do so on the ground that the lessor by reason of its financial condition could not do so or that to do so would be onerous or unprofitable to the lessee. Winchester, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 106 Va. 264, 55 S. E. 692.

1. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 141 Fed. 785, 73 C. C. A. 43, holding further that if the contract be construed as imposing a duty to use such facilities, it cannot be enforced at the suit of other lessees of such facilities.

2. Central, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 68 Tex. 49, 3 S. W. 457.

3. See infra, X, C, 4, a, (I).

4. People v. Colorado, etc., R. Co., 42 Fed. 638.

5. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Crane, 113 U. S. 424, 5 S. Ct. 578, 28 L. ed. 1064.

6. State v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 135 Ind. 578, 35 N. E. 700.

7. Ogdensburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 4 Hun (N. Y.) 712.

8. Contracts as common carrier with passengers and shippers of goods see infra, X, C, 4, g.

9. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Owens, 1 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 384.

10. Pennsylvania Co. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 108 Pa. St. 621, holding that a contract by the lessor to give an annual pass in consideration of a release of the right of way is not binding upon the lessee.

A covenant to build a station at a particular place entered into by a railroad company in a conveyance of the right of way is not binding upon, and cannot be specifically enforced against, a lessee of the road. Churchill v. Salisbury, etc., R. Co., 23 Wkly. Rep. 894 [modifying 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 216].

11. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Owens, 1 Tex. App. Civ. Cas. § 384.

12. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Scheidemantel, (Tex. Civ. App. 1893) 24 S. W. 328. See also Mahoney v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 63 Me. 68; Arrowsmith v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 57 Fed. 165.

13. Pennsylvania Co. v. Erie, etc., R. Co., 108 Pa. St. 621.

Particular provisions construed.— Where a lessee covenanted to pay all obligations of the lessor incurred "as common carriers, warehousemen, or otherwise," and thereafter to pay the interest on certain mortgage bonds of the lessor, it was held that "or otherwise" referred only to obligations of the same class as those enumerated and that earnings in the hands of receivers of the lessee were applicable to interest on the bonds rather than to judgments on the claims not falling within the class. Welden Nat. Bank v. Smith, 86 Fed. 398, 30 C. C. A. 133. Where a railroad company contracts for certain rails which are not to be delivered until called for by the company, and afterward leases its road and transfers to the lessee all contracts and agreements previously entered into in relation to the business of the road, the lessor is not liable for rails subsequently lessor, being a mere license without any consideration, is revoked by the lease and need not be honored by the lessee.[14]

c. Liabilities Arising From Construction and Maintenance of Road.[15] For any injuries to property due to the original construction of the road or its appurtenances the lessor remains liable,[16] and the lessee is not liable,[17] but the lessee will be liable for the continuance of a nuisance created by the lessor,[18] and for damages resulting from its own acts in making repairs or alterations upon the leased road the lessee is liable,[19] and the lessor is not,[20] notwithstanding the lessor is bound under the terms of the lease to compensate the lessee for the cost of such work.[21] Where the lease provides that during the term the lessee will do and perform all acts which in the absence of such lease the law would impose upon the lessor, it must construct farm crossings which are required by statute.[22] On the expiration of the lease of a railroad the road reverts to the lessor, charged with the duty of maintaining stations established by the lessee during the term of the lease.[23]

d. Taxes and Assessments. In accordance with the general rules relating to landlord and tenant,[24] in the case of leases of railroads or other property by or to railroad companies, the duty of paying taxes and assessments chargeable against the leased property rests, in the absence of any special covenant or agreement, upon the lessor.[25] Under some statutes, however, for the purposes of taxation, the lessee is to be regarded as the owner,[26] or the lessee is required to pay the taxes in the first instance with a right to recover the amount from the lessor or to deduct the same from the rent,[27] and such a provision is not unconstitutional delivered to the lessee without any authority from the lessor. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Harbaugh, 4 Brewst. (Pa.) 115.

14. Turner v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 70 N. C. 1.

15. Injuries from operation of road due to defects in road-bed or other property see infra, X, C, 4, f.

16. Anderson v. Cincinnati Southern R. Co., 86 Ky. 44, 5 S. W. 49, 9 Ky. L. Rep. 303, 9 Am. St. Rep. 263.

17. Kearney v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 167 Pa. St. 362, 31 Atl. 637; Guinn v. Ohio River R. Co., 46 W. Va. 151, 33 S. W. 87, 76 Am. St. Rep. 806.

18. Western, etc., R. Co. v. Cox, 93 Ga. 561, 20 S. E. 68; Dickson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Mo. 575; Tate v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 64 Mo. 149.

19. Fifield v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 704, 26 N. E. 752; Miller v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 118, 26 N. E. 35 [reversing 3 N. Y. Suppl. 245]; Shores v. Southern R. Co., 72 S. C. 244, 51 S. E. 699; State v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 57 Vt. 144.

20. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Eichman, 47 Ill. App. 156; Ackerman v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 143 Mich. 58, 106 N. W. 558, 114 Am. St. Rep. 640.

21. Miller v. New York, etc., R. Co., 125 N. Y. 118 [reversing 3 N. Y. Suppl. 245].

22. Buffalo Stone, etc., Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Y. 152, 29 N. E. 121 [affirming 7 N. Y. Suppl. 604].

23. State v. New Haven, etc., R. Co., 37 Conn. 153, decided under a statute providing that no railroad company shall abandon any depot or station on its road after the same has been established for twelve months, except by the approval of the railroad commissioners.

24. See LANDLORD AND TENANT, 24 Cyc. 1074–1075.

Taxation of leased property in general see TAXATION.

25. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore City Appeal Tax Court, 50 Md. 397; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Pausch, 8 Ohio S. & C. Pl. Dec. 677, 7 Ohio N. P. 624; East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Morristown, (Tenn. Ch. App. 1895) 35 S. W. 771; Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 63 Vt. 1, 21 Atl. 262, 731, 10 L. R. A. 562.

The word "owner" in a tax statute relating to property owned by railroad companies does not apply to cars leased by it from another company. State v. St. Louis County, 84 Mo. 234 [affirming 13 Mo. App. 53].

26. Huck v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 86 Ill. 352; Kennedy v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 62 Ill. 395; People v. Reid, 64 Hun (N. Y.) 553, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 528.

Under the New Hampshire statute a railroad may be taxed either to the lessor or to the lessee where the latter agrees thereto. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. State, 60 N. H. 133.

27. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore City Appeal Tax Ct., 50 Md. 397; Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 63 Vt. 1, 21 Atl. 262, 731, 10 L. R. A. 562.

Taxes paid by lessee under unconstitutional statute.— Where a statute imposes a tax upon the entire gross earnings of railroads and provides that the tax shall be paid by the lessee, and deducted by it from the rent, and such taxes are paid by the lessee while such legislation is upheld by the decision of the supreme court, the lessor will not be permitted to recover such amount from the lessee because of a subsequent decision by that court declaring the statute unconstituas an impairment of the contract between the lessor and lessee.[28] The question of taxes and assessments is frequently provided for by covenants in the lease, and in such case the rights and liabilities of the parties as between themselves depend upon the terms and construction of their agreement,[29] and such covenants run with the land.[30]

e. Effect of Invalidity. If a lease is strictly ultra vires it is void,[31] and cannot be made good by ratification or estoppel,[32] or the basis of any right of action by or against either party.[33] Where the companies are in pari delicto the court will aid neither,[34] either to enforce the provisions of the lease or to cancel and set it aside.[35] Neither company can maintain a suit for specific performance of the tional as imposing a tax upon interstate business. Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 63 Vt. 1, 21 Atl. 262, 731, 10 L. R. A. 562.

Taxation on gross receipts.—The amount to be deducted by the lessee for the payment of taxes on gross receipts should not be computed upon the basis of the mileage of the roads operated but according to the actual receipts of the leased road. Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 65 Vt. 366, 26 Atl. 638.

28. Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Vermont Cent. R. Co., 63 Vt. 1, 21 Atl. 262, 731, 10 L. R. A. 562, holding, however, that the statute in question was unconstitutional in respect to a provision imposing a tax upon the gross earnings of the road, in so far as it related to interstate business.

29. Lewiston, etc., R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 97 Me. 261, 54 Atl. 750; West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. McIntire, 44 W. Va. 210, 28 S. E. 696.

Particular covenants construed.—A covenant by the lessee of a railroad that it "will pay, as operating expenses, all taxes and assessments . . . which may be lawfully levied or assessed" upon the property is not an assumption of liability for taxes already assessed and levied and constituting a lien from the beginning of the year during which the lease was made. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Spencer, 73 Fed. 559, 19 C. C. A. 559. Where the lessee covenants "to pay all taxes now or hereafter imposed by law upon the property hereby demised and the earnings from or business thereof," the covenant will not be construed to cover the shares of capital stock of the lessor or the property or franchise upon which the value of such shares was made after the lease for purposes of taxation, especially where the parties have for thirty years acted upon a contrary construction. Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. St. 506, 57 Atl. 980. Where a lease provided that the lessee should pay all taxes, assessments, etc., imposed during the term upon the premises leased or on any business, earnings, or income of the same, or "by reason of the ownership thereof," and that the intent of such clause was that all governmental charges on the property or income therefrom capable of enforcement against the property of the company owning or the party leasing the same should be paid by the lessee, whatever the form of such charge, it was held that the interpreting clause did not limit the preceding one so as to require payment by the lessees of charges on "the property or income thereof" only, but that it was bound to pay a tax imposed on the franchise of the lessor, it being a tax imposed "by reason of the ownership" of the road. Thomas v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 93 Fed. 587. A covenant by the lessee to "pay all taxes or duties levied or to be levied" on the premises during the term does not include assessments for paving a sidewalk. Twycross v. Fitchburg R. Co., 10 Gray (Mass.) 293.

Personal judgment against lessee.—Although the lessee of a railroad has covenanted to pay all lawful taxes and assessments, a city cannot recover a personal judgment against the lessee for the amount of an assessment, the covenant being solely for the benefit of the lessor. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ottumwa, 112 Iowa 300, 83 N. W. 1074.

30. West Virginia, etc., R. Co. v. McIntire, 44 W. Va. 210, 28 S. E. 696.

31. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Jarvis, 92 Fed. 735, 34 C. C. A. 639.

32. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 733; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

33. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440]; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Cox v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 133 Fed. 371, 66 C. C. A. 433 [affirming 123 Fed. 439]; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Jarvis, 92 Fed. 735, 34 C. C. A. 639.

34. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indanapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 733; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc. R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440]; Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 21 L. J. Ch. 837, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 643, 41 Eng. Ch. 306, 68 Eng. Reprint 520.

35. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 145 U. S. 393, 12 S. Ct. 953, 36 L. ed. 748 [affirming 33 Fed. 440], holding that where the lease has been party executed conditions of the lease,[36] or to enjoin the other company from interfering with the rights secured thereby,[37] or to recover rents due under the lease,[38] or to enforce a covenant by the lessor that in case it should elect to terminate the lease before the end of the term it would pay the lessee the value of the unexpired term.[39] If the contract of lease is ultra vires a contract by a third company to guarantee the performance of its conditions is also void and cannot be enforced.[40] If the lease, although ultra vires, is not tainted with any immorality and has been partly executed, a court of equity will, independently of the contract, as far as possible do justice between the companies, by compelling one to return or account for what it has received under the lease,[41] or make such compensation as may be just for the use actually enjoyed of the leased property;[42] but in such case the action is not maintained upon the contract or according to its terms but upon the implied contract of defendant to return or make compensation for property or money which it has no right to retain.[43]

D. Contracts For Control, Operation, or Use of Railroads or Incidental Facilities — 1. Right to Make Contracts — a. In General.[44] Railroad companies can make only such contracts with regard to the control, operation, or use of their roads or incidental facilities as are within the powers expressly granted by their charters or other statutes, or may be implied as being fairly incidental thereto,[45] and they cannot, without legislative authority, make any contract which incapacitates them from performing their public duties or delegate such duties to another.[46] So a railroad company cannot, without legislative the lessor cannot maintain a bill in equity to set aside and cancel it. But see Union Bridge Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 7 Lans. (N. Y.) 240, holding that where the lease is not only ultra vires but is contrary to public policy, an action may be maintained by one of the parties to set it aside, and that the fact that the party is in pari delicto is immaterial, since the public interest requires that such relief should be given, and it is given to the public through the party, but that the court will not proceed any further in behalf of the party suing than to declare the lease invalid.

36. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 733.

37. Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 21 L. J. Ch. 837, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 643, 41 Eng. Ch. 306, 68 Eng. Reprint 520.

38. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Cox v. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co., 133 Fed. 371, 66 C. C. A. 433 [affirming 123 Fed. 439]; East St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Jarvis, 92 Fed. 735, 34 C. C. A. 639.

39. Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

40. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284.

41. Pullman's Palace-Car Co. v. Central Transp. Co., 171 U. S. 138, 18 S. Ct. 808, 43 L. ed. 108; Pullman's Palace-Car Co. v. Central Transp. Co., 72 Fed. 211; Pullman's Palace-Car Co. v. Central Transp. Co., 65 Fed. 158.

42. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 125 U. S. 658, 8 S. Ct. 1011, 31 L. ed. 832; Farmers' Loan, etc., Co. v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 2 Fed. 117, 1 McCrary 247.

43. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

44. Powers and duties of receiver as to traffic contracts see infra, IX, E.

45. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284; East Anglian R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 11 C. B. 775, 16 Jur. 249, 21 L. J. C. P. 23, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 150, 73 E. C. L. 775; Shrewsbury, etc., R. Co. v. North Western R. Co., 6 H. L. Cas. 113, 3 Jur. N. S. 775, 26 L. J. Ch. 482, 10 Eng. Reprint 1237 [affirming 4 De G. M. & G. 115, 17 Jur. 845, 22 L. J. Ch. 682, 1 Wkly. Rep. 172, 53 Eng. Ch. 90, 43 Eng. Reprint 451]. See also Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458, 5 Am. L. Reg. N. S. 733.

The purchase of a steamboat to run in connection with a railroad is an unauthorized departure from the business of the company. Pearce v. Madison, etc., R. Co., 21 How. (U. S.) 441, 16 L. ed. 184.

46. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 40 Eng. Ch. 550, 61 Eng. Reprint 212.

Disabling effect in view of increased business.— The fact that a contract by one railroad company granting to another a joint use of its terminal and trackage facilities may, by reason of increased business in the future, interfere with the proper performance by the former of its duties, will not affect the validity of the contract where there is no present interference or ground to apprehend that such will be the case within any reasonable time.

authority, by any form of contract turn over its road and franchises to another company,[47] nor can any other railroad company without similar authority make any contract to receive and operate the road and franchises of the first,[48] nor can one railroad company guarantee the performance by another of a contract which the latter had no authority to make.[49] A railroad company cannot except by legislative authority enter into a partnership with another railroad company.[50] While contracts are contrary to public policy which tend to disable a railroad company from performing its public duties,[51] or which tend to stifle competition,[52] the rule is otherwise where the contract tends to increase facilities for connections, through transportation, or otherwise to promote the interest and convenience of the public,[53] and the statutes will be liberally construed to sustain contracts of this character,[54] and if the subject-matter of the contract is not foreign to the purposes for which the company was created, and it may fairly be regarded as incidental to or consequential upon those things which the legislature has authorized, it ought not unless expressly prohibited be held ultra vires.[55] The validity of

Should the contingency occur the courts are competent to relieve from the consequences of the changed conditions. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

Telegraph franchise of railroad company.— Where a statute imposes upon a railroad company the duty of constructing and maintaining on its right of way a telegraph line for governmental, commercial, and other purposes, the company cannot, without legislative authority, alienate the franchise or avoid the obligation thus imposed after the construction of such line of telegraph, by any lease or contract for its maintenance and operation by a telegraph company (U. S. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 50 Fed. 28; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 3 Fed. 423, 721, 1 McCrary 418, 558, 581; Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 1 Fed. 745); but where a telegraph company is authorized by law to construct a line upon the right of way, the railroad company, if maintaining its separate wires, offices, and operators for the purposes required of it, may lawfully contract with the telegraph company for the joint use and maintenance of a single line of poles for both sets of wires (Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., 59 Fed. 813, 8 C. C. A. 282 [reversing on this point 50 Fed. 28]).

47. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284; Earle v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 56 Fed. 909; Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 64 Eng. Reprint 1243; Great Northern R. Co. v. Eastern Counties R. Co., 9 Hare 306, 21 L. J. Ch. 837, 7 R. & Can. Cas. 643, 41 Eng. Ch. 306, 68 Eng. Reprint 520; Beman v. Rufford, 15 Jur. 914, 20 L. J. Ch. 537, 1 Sim. N. S. 550, 40 Eng. Ch. 550, 61 Eng. Reprint 212.

Power to lease road see supra, VII, C, 1.

48. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284; Winch v. Birkenhead, etc., R. Co., 5 De G. & Sm. 562, 16 Jur. 1035, 64 Eng. Reprint 1243.

49. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284.

50. South Carolina, etc., R. Co. v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., 107 Ga. 164, 33 S. E. 36.

51. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 128 Mo. 224, 27 S. W. 568, 30 S. W. 430.

52. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 41 La. Ann. 970, 6 So. 888, 17 Am. St. Rep. 445.

53. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)]; Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. ed. 515.

54. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

55. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Shippers' Compress Co., 83 Va. 272, 2 S. E. 139; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)]; Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. ed. 515; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157; Green Bay, etc., R. Co. v. Union Steamboat Co., 107 U. S. 98, 2 S. Ct. 221, 27 L. ed. 413.

The rule is not limited to what is absolutely necessary for the exercise of the powers expressly granted, but in the absence of express restriction so long as the acts done fall within the scope and purpose of the creation of the company and the reasonable contemplation of its charter, the company is no more restricted in the exercise of its implied contractual powers than a natural person. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607. See also Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 21 Md. 50.

Grant of exclusive right to telegraph company to use right of way see supra, V, H, 4, text and note 34.

the contract must be determined not by the form of expression or name given to it by the parties, but by what rights and privileges are in fact granted and what burdens and obligations assumed.[56] So as being within the implied powers of such companies or the proper construction and application of governing statutes, contracts have been held valid between railroad companies for the joint or interchangeable use of their tracks,[57] bridges,[58] or terminal facilities;[59] between railroad companies and bridge companies;[60] between a railroad company and a shipping company for a certain amount of space on the vessels of the latter to be filled with goods transported by the railroad company;[61] between two railroad companies for the operation by one of the road of the other for a limited period;[62] and a contract by a railroad company for the lease of a hotel at the terminus of its road located at a distance from any town.[63] A railroad company cannot be compelled to enter into traffic contracts or contracts for trackage or terminal facilities with other companies,[64] and a constitutional right to establish a physicial connec-

56. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607 (where an instrument termed a "lease" was held to be not a lease but a valid "operating contract"); Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)] (where a contract, although termed a lease, was held to be a valid contract for trackage and terminal facilities); Earle v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 56 Fed. 909 (where an alleged traffic contract was held to be an invalid transfer by one company of the control of its road to another).

57. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 128 Mich. 333, 87 N. W. 271; Jourdan v. Long Island R. Co., 6 N. Y. St. 89; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

Right to make regulations.—When one railroad company acquires a right to operate its trains over a part of the line of another company, such right is subject to the rules and regulations which the latter company is empowered to make in regard to the operation of trains upon its line. Such rules if reasonable must be complied with and the burden is upon the company complaining to show that they are not reasonable. Rhymney R. Co. v. Taff Vale R. Co., 29 Beav. 153, 7 Jur. N. S. 202, 30 L. J. Ch. 482, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 227, 9 Wkly. Rep. 222, 54 Eng. Reprint 585 [affirmed in 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 534, 9 Wkly. Rep. 362].

Conditions precedent.— Where a special act provides that one railroad company shall have running powers over the road of another and that any differences which may from time to time arise between the companies shall be settled by arbitration, it is not a condition precedent to the exercise of such powers that existing differences shall first be so settled. Taff Vale R. Co. v. Barry Dock, etc., Co., 7 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 52.

58. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

59. Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Maddox, 116 Ga. 64, 42 S. E. 315; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 128 Mich. 333, 87 N. W. 271; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

60. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157, holding a particular contract to be valid between a railroad company and a bridge company which provided for the use by the former of the bridge together with other railroad companies, each company to pay tolls and any deficiency in the gross amount so realized to be contributed by the companies proportionally.

Extending road beyond authorized terminus.—A contract between a railroad company and a bridge company for the use by the railroad company of the bridge for operating its trains across the same, made for the purpose of operating the road beyond the terminus authorized by law, is ultra vires and void. Union Bridge Co. v. Troy, etc., R. Co., 7 Lans. (N. Y.) 240.

61. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Shippers' Compress Co., 83 Va. 272, 2 S. E. 139.

62. Illinois Midland R. Co. v. People, 84 Ill. 426 (decided under St. (1885), authorizing railroad companies to make contracts and arrangements with each other for leasing and running their respective roads or any part thereof); St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 Mo. 173, 36 S. W. 602, 33 L. R. A. 607 (where a contract was held valid by which one railroad company which was in financial difficulties contracted with another company to operate its road for a term of years, the road to be operated under the supervision of the company owning it, and the earnings to be accounted for and applied to its use and benefit); Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Wealleans, 24 Can. Sup. Ct. 309 [reversing 21 Ont. App. 297] (decided under the Dominion Railway Act of 1879).

63. Jacksonville, etc., R. Co. v. Hooper, 160 U. S. 514, 16 S. Ct. 379, 40 L. ed. 375.

64. Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Peoria, etc., R. Co., 61 Ill. App. 405; Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 110 U. S. 667, 4 tion of the tracks of one railroad company with those of another confers no right to a business connection.[65]

b. Continuous or Connecting Lines. Traffic contracts between connecting roads for through transportation are not contrary to public policy but are beneficial to the public,[66] particularly where they are intended not to defeat but to meet competition,[67] and are in some cases expressly authorized by constitutional or statutory provisions;[68] and there are also statutes authorizing one railroad company for the purpose of effecting connections to assist in the construction or extension of another road.[69] The provisions of these contracts and the charter and statutory provisions applicable thereto are so varying that few general rules can be laid down. It has been held in different jurisdictions, either as being within the implied powers or the application of governing statutes, that connecting railroads may make traffic contracts for through transportation over their lines,[70] or with connecting boat lines,[71] or ferries,[72] and that the companies may act together in fixing rates and agreeing upon a uniform rate for through traffic over the entire line,[73] and may agree upon the basis of division of the joint profits of the through

S. Ct. 185, 28 L. ed. 291 [reversing 15 Fed. 650].

65. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 110 U. S. 667, 4 S. Ct. 185, 28 L. ed. 291 [reversing 15 Fed. 650].

66. Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 411; Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 705 [affirmed in 67 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1100]; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Gettysburg, etc., R. Co., 177 Pa. St. 519, 35 Atl. 952.

67. Graham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 120 Ga. 757, 49 S. E. 75.

68. Illinois.—Archer v. Terre-Haute, etc., R. Co., 102 Ill. 493.

New Jersey.—Black v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 22 N. J. Eq. 130.

New York.—Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 41 Barb. 9, 26 How. Pr. 225 [affirmed in 4 Thomps. & C. 251].

Ohio.—Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 705 [affirmed in 67 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1100].

Canada.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Wealleans, 24 Can. Sup. Ct. 309 [reversing 21 Ont. App. 297].

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 379.

69. Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 21 Md. 50 (holding that one company may aid the construction of a connecting road by a loan of money, taking a mortgage or other security therefor); Connecticut Mut L. Ins. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 41 Barb. (N. Y.) 9, 26 How. Pr. 225 [affirmed in 4 Thomps. & C. 251] (holding that one company may assist the other by guaranteeing the payment of the interest coupons of its bonds); Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Sidell, 67 Fed. 464, 35 U. S. App. 152, 14 C. C. A. 477 (holding that under the Kansas statute one railroad company may pay for the extension of another company's line, which will connect with its own by means of an intervening road controlled by the latter).

Establishing uniform gauge.—Where by statute one railroad company is permitted to aid another in the construction of its road, for the purpose of forming a connection therewith, it may render such aid for the purpose of establishing a uniform gauge upon the connecting road. Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 41 Barb. (N. Y.) 9, 26 How. Pr. 225.

Application of earnings to purchase of bonds.—A contract by which a railroad company is to send all its traffic over a connecting railroad, the company operating the latter to reserve one fourth of the gross earnings of the traffic and to apply it to the purchase of a portion of the construction bonds issued for completing the connection, is not ultra vires. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Short, 6 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 703, 7 Am. L. Rec. 474.

70. Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 13 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 542]; Tonawanda Valley, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 42 Hun (N. Y.) 496; Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 411; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Gettysburg, etc., R. Co., 177 Pa. St. 519, 35 Atl. 952; Midland R. Co. v. Great Western R. Co., L. R. 8 Ch. 841, 42 L. J. Ch. 438, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 718, 21 Wkly. Rep. 657.

71. Graham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 120 Ga. 757, 49 S. E. 75; Stewart v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 17 Minn. 372; Green Bay, etc., R. Co. v. Union Steamboat Co., 107 U. S. 98, 2 S. Ct. 221, 27 L. ed. 413; Owen Sound Steamship Co. v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 17 Ont. 691.

Guaranteeing amount of earnings.—A contract between a railroad company and a connecting steamboat company by which the latter agrees to run certain boats in connection with the trains of the former, the railroad company agreeing and guaranteeing that the gross earnings of the boats shall be at least a certain amount, is not invalid. Green Bay, etc., R. Co. v. Union Steamboat Co., 107 U. S. 98, 2 S. Ct. 221, 27 L. ed. 413.

72. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 389, 39 Am. Rep. 519.

73. Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,047, 5 McLean 450, holding that by such joint action traffic,[74] which may be by an arbitrary schedule agreed upon and not necessarily by giving to each company the share earned upon its own line and on that only.[75] The connecting companies may agree that in so far as they may lawfully do so each will deliver to the other all of the traffic controlled by it destined to points reached by way of the other,[76] and use its influence to promote the business of the other so far as it can do so with due regard to its own interests;[77] but while a railroad company may give a particular ferry the handling of all its business at a certain point to the exclusion of rival ferries,[78] it cannot bind itself not to use a different mode of transportation, such as a bridge, which will furnish a quicker and more convenient mode of crossing the stream.[79] A traffic contract for through transportation may include incompleted extensions or branches which have been authorized but not such as have not been authorized at the time of the contract.[80] An agreement for through traffic does not in the absence of express stipulation, prevent one of the companies from subsequently altering the gauge of its road.[81] It has been held that while railroad companies may lawfully make a business connection for through traffic where each company separately operates its own road, the companies cannot form a partnership arrangement for the joint operation by both of the entire line and a division of the profits,[82] or although separately operated agree to share jointly the accidental losses in the through traffic occurring on both roads;[83] but elsewhere it has been held that two railroad companies whose roads form a continuous line may enter into a joint arrangement for operating their roads as one line and become jointly liable for money borrowed in the furtherance of the business of such line,[84] or contract for the joint purchase and ownership of locomotives to be run over both roads,[85] or that one railroad company may transfer the practical control and management of its road and property to a connecting line to be operated as a part of the system of such connecting line.[86] In order to be a connecting road within the application of the statutes the connection need not be direct but may be by means of an intervening road,[87] or ferry line.[88]

c. Parallel or Competing Lines.[89] There are in some jurisdictions constitutional or statutory provisions prohibiting in the case of parallel or competing neither company parts with or transfers to the other company any part of its corporate powers.

74. Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 13 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 542]; Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 411; Midland R. Co. v. Great Western R. Co., L. R. 8 Ch. 841, 42 L. J. Ch. 438, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 718, 21 Wkly. Rep. 657; Owen Sound Steamship Co. v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 17 Ont. 691.

75. Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 13 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 542]; Owen Sound Steamship Co. v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 17 Ont. 691.

76. Graham v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 120 Ga. 757, 49 S. E. 75; Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 389, 39 Am. Rep. 519; Tonawanda Valley, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 42 Hun (N. Y.) 496; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Gettysburg, etc., R. Co., 177 Pa. St. 519, 35 Atl. 952.

77. Tonawanda Valley, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 42 Hun (N. Y.) 496; Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Gettysburg, etc., R. Co., 177 Pa. St. 519, 35 Atl. 952.

78. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 73 Mo. 389, 39 Am. Rep. 519.

79. Wiggins Ferry Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 128 Mo. 224, 27 S. W. 568, 30 S. W. 430.

80. Morris, etc., R. Co. v. Sussex R. Co., 20 N. J. Eq. 542 [reversing 19 N. J. Eq. 13].

81. Sussex R. Co. v. Morris, etc., R. Co., 19 N. J. Eq. 13 [reversed on other grounds in 20 N. J. Eq. 542].

82. Burke v. Concord R. Co., 61 N. H. 160. See also Nashua, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 164 Mass. 222, 41 N. E. 268, 49 Am. St. Rep. 454.

83. State v. Concord R. Corp., 62 N. H. 375.

84. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ayres, 140 Ill. 644, 30 N. E. 687 [affirming 39 Ill. App. 607].

85. Olcott v. Tioga R. Co., 27 N. Y. 546, 84 Am. Dec. 298.

86. State v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 6 Ohio Cir. Ct. 415, 3 Ohio Cir. Dec. 518; Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Wealleans, 24 Can. Sup. Ct. 309 [reversing 21 Ont. App. 297].

87. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sidell, 67 Fed. 464, 14 C. C. A. 477.

88. Baltimore v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 21 Md. 50.

89. See, generally, MONOPOLIES, 27 Cyc. 888.

roads any contracts or combinations, the intention or effect of which is to give one the control of the other or otherwise stifle competition,[90] besides the federal statutes: "An act to regulate commerce," commonly called the "Interstate Commerce Act," [91] and "An act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies" commonly called the "Anti-Trust Act," [92] and independently of such provisions, contracts and combinations which tend to create monopolies or destroy proper competition are contrary to public policy.[93] So "pooling contracts" between competing roads are held to be invalid as against public policy,[94] and in violation of the statutes relating to contracts and combinations between parallel and competing roads,[95] and the same rule applies to an agreement not to construct a competing line,[96] or to a contract by which one company agrees not to extend its line beyond a certain point beyond which it would compete with another road.[97] All contracts which restrict competition are not, however, illegal or contrary to public policy,[98] and a contract which merely 90. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689; Morrill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 55 N. H. 531; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214]; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 83, 7 Atl. 374 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 223]; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Kentucky, 161 U. S. 677, 16 S. Ct. 714, 40 L. ed. 849; Pearsall v. Great Northern R. Co., 161 U. S. 646, 16 S. Ct. 705, 40 L. ed. 838 [reversing 73 Fed. 933].

What are parallel or competing lines.—A road may be a competing road with reference to another by reason of traffic contracts with different roads, and a road may come within the prohibition as to a "parallel or competing line," although not completed and in operation. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Com., 3 Pa. Cas. 100, 7 Atl. 368 [affirming 1 Pa. Co. Ct. 214].

Application of provisions: To sales see supra, VII, B, 1, b. To leases see supra, VII, C, 1, c. To consolidations see infra, VII, E, 2, c.

91. See U. S. v. Trans-Missouri Freight Assoc., 58 Fed. 58, 7 C. C. A. 15, 24 L. R. A. 73 [affirming 53 Fed. 440].

92. U. S. v. Joint Traffic Assoc., 171 U. S. 505, 19 S. Ct. 25, 43 L. ed. 259; U. S. v. Trans-Missouri Freight Assoc., 166 U. S. 290, 17 S. Ct. 540, 41 L. ed. 1007 [reversing 58 Fed. 58, 7 C. C. A. 15, 24 L. R. A. 73 (affirming 53 Fed. 440)]. See also, generally, MONOPOLIES, 27 Cyc. 888.

93. Georgia.— Central R. Co. v. Collins, 40 Ga. 582.

Indiana.— Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Closser, 126 Ind. 348, 26 N. E. 159, 22 Am. St. Rep. 593, 9 L. R. A. 754.

Louisiana.— Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 41 La. Ann. 970, 6 So. 888, 17 Am. St. Rep. 445.

New York.— Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Rob. 411.

United States.— Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Fed. 993, 9 C. C. A. 659.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 384.

Furnishing facilities to rival telegraph companies.—A railroad company cannot make a valid contract with one telegraph company not to furnish transportation facilities for the construction of a competing line and refuse to carry and distribute material for the construction of such line. Mercantile Trust Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 63 Fed. 910.

94. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Closser, 126 Ind. 348, 26 N. E. 159, 22 Am. St. Rep. 593, 9 L. R. A. 754; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 41 La. Ann. 970, 6 So. 888, 17 Am. St. Rep. 445; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 61 Fed. 993, 9 C. C. A. 659; Charlton v. Newcastle, etc., R. Co., 5 Jur. N. S. 1096, 7 Wkly. Rep. 731. But see Midland R. Co. v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 2 Eq. 524, 35 L. J. Ch. 831, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 264, 15 Wkly. Rep. 34.

95. Morrill v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 55 N. H. 531.

96. Midland R. Co. v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 2 Eq. 524, 35 L. J. Ch. 831, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 64, 15 Wkly. Rep. 34.

97. Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 411.

98. New Hampshire.— Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689.

New York.— Ives v. Smith, 3 N. Y. Suppl. 645 [affirmed in 8 N. Y. Suppl. 46].

United States.— U. S. v. Trans-Missouri Freight Assoc., 58 Fed. 58, 7 C. C. A. 15, 24 L. R. A. 73 [affirming 53 Fed. 440].

England.— Midland R. Co. v. London, etc., R. Co., L. R. 2 Eq. 524, 35 L. J. Ch. 831, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 264, 15 Wkly. Rep. 34; Hare v. London, etc., R. Co., 2 Johns. & H. 80, 7 Jur. N. S. 1145, 30 L. J. Ch. 817, 70 Eng. Reprint 978.

Canada.— Campbell v. Northern R. Co., 26 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 522; Great Western R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 25 U. C. Q. B. 37.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 384.

Such contracts may be distinctly beneficial to the public by preventing the fluctuations of rates and unjust discriminations between shippers which invariably attend unrestricted competition between rival companies (Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689 [quoting Morawetz Corp. (2d ed.) § 1131]); or by preventing the ruin prevents an unlimited and ruinous competition, without raising rates to an unjust standard or causing the other company to violate its duties to the public, should be sustained,[99] unless it falls within an express constitutional or statutory prohibition.[1]

2. REQUISITES AND VALIDITY. In the absence of any statutory provision relating specifically to railroads or to the particular railroad in question, contracts of the kind under consideration are governed by the rules relating to contracts of corporations generally with respect to their formal requisites, and mode of execution, and the authority of the officers executing the same,[2] and are entitled to the same presumptions.[3] To render the contract valid each of the contracting companies must have power to enter into it,[4] and any legislative requirements as to how the contract shall be made must be complied with,[5] and if the rights contracted for constitute an interest in land the contract must be in writing.[6] The fact that a contract is invalid as to some of its provisions does not necessarily make it invalid as a whole,[7] and if the contract is divisible that part which is valid will be enforced;[8] and a contract between two railroad companies is not invalid because the charter of one will expire during the term of the contract, where the charter is capable of renewal and the contract is expressly made binding upon the assigns and successors of the parties.[9] While a distinction exists between contracts which are strictly ultra vires, as beyond the powers of the company or contrary to public policy, and contracts where the invalidity consists in some improper exercise or lack of authority on the part of its officers or informality in the execution of the of one company by the other which would ultimately result in raising rates to the highest possible standard (Hare v. London, etc., R. Co., 2 Johns. & H. 80, 7 Jur. N. S. 1145, 30 L. J. Ch. 817, 70 Eng. Reprint 978).

Agreement not to reduce rates.—An agreement between a railroad company and a competing traction company that for a limited period the railroad company would not "lower its present rates of fare unless required by law" is not contrary to public policy, where such rates are within the limits expressly prescribed by statute. Raritan River R. Co. v. Middlesex, etc., Traction Co., 70 N. J. L. 732, 58 Atl. 332.

99. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689. Compare U. S. v. Trans-Missouri Freight Assoc., 58 Fed. 58, 7 C. C. A. 15, 24 L. R. A. 73 [affirming 53 Fed. 440, and reversed in 166 U. S. 290, 17 S. Ct. 540, 41 L. ed. 1007].

1. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689; U. S. v. Trans-Missouri Freight Assoc., 166 U. S. 290, 17 S. Ct. 540, 41 L. ed. 1007 [reversing 58 Fed. 58, 7 C. C. A. 15, 24 L. R. A. 73 (affirming 53 Fed. 440)].

2. See CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1000.

3. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)]; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Keokuk, etc., Bridge Co., 131 U. S. 371, 9 S. Ct. 770, 33 L. ed. 157. See also CORPORATIONS, 10 Cyc. 1003.

4. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55.

5. Great Western R. Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 U. C. Q. B. 107, holding that under the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, the consent of two thirds of the stock-holders is essential to the validity of any traffic or operating contract coming within the provisions of that act.

6. Port Jervis, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 132 N. Y. 439, 30 N. E. 855.

7. Hartford, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 3 Rob. (N. Y.) 411; Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 705 [affirmed in 67 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1100]; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

A contract between a railroad company and a telegraph company is valid as to a provision that the railroad company shall give the telegraph company the exclusive use of its right of way for telegraphic purposes, and the telegraph company gives to the railroad company the right to use the telegraph line for its business, but a provision that the railroad company will deliver for the telegraph company whatever it may need for construction, operation, and repairs at any point on the line, and that it will not perform such services for any competing telegraph company except at regular rates and at regular stations, is contrary to public policy and void. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co., 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 163, 1 Cinc. L. Bul. 201.

8. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Atlantic, etc., Tel. Co., 7 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 163, 1 Cinc. L. Bul. 201.

9. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265 [affirming 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 (affirming 47 Fed. 15)].

contract,[10] those of the former class which are strictly ultra vires are void and cannot be rendered valid by ratification or estoppel,[11] and may be disaffirmed, although partly executed;[12] but where the contract has been partly executed and one company has received its benefits, it will not be permitted to retain such benefits and at the same time set up the invalidity of the contract,[13] and may be required in equity to account for and return what it has received under the contract, at least where the other party is not in pari delicto or the contract is merely malum prohibitum.[14]

3. Construction and Operation. In construing contracts between railroad companies the rules applicable to the construction of contracts generally apply.[15]

10. South Side Pass. R. Co. v. Second Ave. R. Co., 191 Pa. St. 492, 43 Atl. 346; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 51 Fed. 309, 2 C. C. A. 174 [affirmed in 163 U. S. 564, 16 S. Ct. 1173, 41 L. ed. 265].

Although a contract between two railroad companies is voidable in equity at the election of one of them within a reasonable time, for want of a quorum of directors at the meeting who are not directors of the other company, a delay in exercising the election to avoid it will operate as a waiver of the right to do so. U. S. Rolling Stock Co. v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 34 Ohio St. 450, 32 Am. Rep. 380.

Where a railroad company acquiesces in the use of its tracks by another company for the period of one year, it is chargeable with knowledge of the existence of a contract on its part made by a receiver of the road permitting such use. Jourdan v. Long Island R. Co., 6 N. Y. St. 89.

11. Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Indianapolis, etc., R. Co., 3 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 458; Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284. Compare Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 705 [affirmed in 67 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1100].

The doctrine of ultra vires and of estoppel as applicable to ultra vires acts and contracts is fully treated in another title. See Corporations, 10 Cyc. 1146 et seq.

12. Central Transp. Co. v. Pullman's Palace-Car Co., 139 U. S. 24, 11 S. Ct. 478, 35 L. ed. 55; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 118 U. S. 290, 6 S. Ct. 1094, 30 L. ed. 83, 118 U. S. 630, 7 S. Ct. 24, 30 L. ed. 284; Thomas v. West Jersey R. Co., 101 U. S. 71, 25 L. ed. 950.

13. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689; Tonawanda, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 42 Hun (N. Y.) 496; Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 705 [affirmed in 67 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1100].

Where two railroads are under a joint manager who applies the joint funds belonging to both roads to the improvement of one of them, it may be required to account to the other therefor, although the traffic contract for such joint management was ultra vires (Nashua, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 164 Mass. 222, 41 N. E. 268, 49 Am. St. Rep. 454); but it can recover only its proportionate share of the funds so expended and not the entire amount (Nashua, etc., R. Corp. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 157 Mass. 268, 31 N. E. 1060).

14. Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Concord, etc., R. Co., 66 N. H. 100, 20 Atl. 383, 49 Am. St. Rep. 582, 9 L. R. A. 689.

15. See Contracts, 9 Cyc. 577; and the following cases:

Kansas.— Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 75 Kan. 167, 88 Pac. 1085, holding that in a contract for the joint use of a railroad, providing that "taxes on property jointly used shall be included in the cost of maintenance," the word "taxes" should be construed as including special assessments for local improvements.

Minnesota.— Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 68 Minn. 220, 71 N. W. 23, construing a contract between a railroad company and a depot company, and holding that the latter is required to furnish reasonable depot facilities and service for mixed trains, but is not compelled to admit them to the use of the same tracks as used by trains composed of passenger cars only.

Missouri.— Union Depot Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 113 Mo. 213, 30 S. W. 792, construing a contract between a union depot company and a railroad company, and holding that the latter company had a right to use the depot for the trains of a purchased line as well as its original line on payment only of the rental imposed by the terms of the contract. See also St. Joseph Union Depot Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 131 Mo. 291, 31 S. W. 908 [distinguishing Union Depot Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra], holding that the rule is otherwise where each of the roads in question previously had similar contracts with the depot company and were paying separate rentals.

New Jersey.— Elmira Rolling Mill Co. v. Erie R. Co., 28 N. J. Eq. 400, construing a grant by one railroad company of the use of its "terminal facilities" to another, and holding that the latter is not required to pay any part of the salaries of persons employed at the depot for the purpose of providing such facilities.

New York.— Port Jervis, etc., R. Co. v. New York, etc., R. Co., 132 N. Y. 439, 30 N. E. 855 (construing a parol agreement for the use by one company of the tracks,

The contract must be given the meaning understood and intended by the parties at the time of its execution,[16] and in construing any part of the contract the court will examine the entire contract and may also consider the relations of the parties, their connection with the subject-matter of the contract, and the circumstances yards, station, and turn-table of another as being merely temporary and permissive); Blossburg, etc., R. Co. v. Tioga, etc., R. Co., 1 Abb. Dec. 149, 1 Keyes 486 (construing a contract for the operation by one railroad company of a road owned by another for the mutual benefit of both in regard to its provisions relating to the rates to be charged and division of receipts).

Ohio.— Dayton, etc., R. Co. v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 705 [affirmed in 67 Ohio St. 523, 67 N. E. 1100], construing a contract between two railroad companies for the use by one of the road of the other as to the application of the term "road" as used in the contract.

Tennessee.— East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., (Ch. App. 1897) 51 S. W. 202, construing an agreement between several railroad companies as to the joint use of a depot.

United States.— Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 143 Fed. 757, 74 C. C. A. 647 (construing a contract between two railroad companies for the joint use of certain tracks, stations, and other terminal facilities as to the apportionment of the cost of maintenance of the property for the joint use); Park v. New York, etc., R. Co., 72 Fed. 594 (construing a contract between a railroad company and an express company).

England.— Lancashire, etc., R. Co. v. East Lancashire R. Co., 5 H. L. Cas. 792, 2 Jur. N. S. 767, 25 L. J. Exch. 278, 4 Wkly. Rep. 780, 10 Eng. Reprint 1114 (construing a contract for trackage and terminal facilities); Midland R. Co. v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 601 (construing a contract for trackage rights with regard to the application of the term "local traffic"); North Eastern R. Co. v. Scarhorough, etc., R. Co., 8 R. & Can. Tr. Cas. 157 (construing a working agreement between railroad companies in regard to the liability for the cost of repairs upon the roadbed).

Canada.—Brantford v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 29 U. C. Q. B. 607, construing a traffic contract in regard to provisions imposing a liability upon one company upon bonds issued by the other.

See 41 Cent. Dig. tit. "Railroads," § 436.

