CYCLOPEDIA

OF

LAW AND PROCEDURE

WILLIAM MACK, LL.D.
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

VOLUME XXXVI

NEW YORK
THE AMERICAN LAW BOOK COMPANY
LONDON: BUTTERWORTH & CO., 12 BELL YARD
1910

J. B. LYON COMPANY
PRINTERS AND BINDERS
ALBANY, N. Y.

To

CHARLES WALTER DUMONT

more than to any other man is due the existence of the Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure. His was the idea; his was the plan; and his has been the business ability and energetic management, as organizer and president of The American Law Book Company, which have made possible the successful publication of these volumes, which are therefore respectfully dedicated to him.

William Mack.

TABLE OF TITLES, EDITORS, AND CONTRIBUTORS

CITE THIS VOLUME

36 Cyc.

FOLLOWED BY PAGE.

SHIPPING

Edited by Admiralty Specialists of the American Bar *

* The names of the several editors appear at the beginning of the respective chapters edited by them.

CROSS-REFERENCES

For Matters Relating to:
Admiralty:
In General, see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 797.
Courts, see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 807.
Jurisdiction, see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 809.
Practice and Procedure, see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 846.

For Matters Relating to — (continued)
Arson of Ship or Vessel, see ARSON, 3 Cyc. 990.
Attachment of Water Craft, see ATTACHMENT, 4 Cyc. 557.
Barratry, see BARRATRY, 5 Cyc. 617.
Capture and Trial, see WAR.
Charging Offense Committed on Vessel, see INDICTMENTS AND INFORMATIONS, 22 Cyc. 312.
Collision, see COLLISION, 7 Cyc. 299.
Concurrent or Conflicting Jurisdiction as to Maritime Matters, see COURTS, 11 Cyc. 996.
Duty to Persons On or About Vessel, see MASTER AND SERVANT, 26 Cyc. 1120; SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1176.
Enjoining Use of Ship in Breach of Charter-Party, see INJUNCTIONS, 22 Cyc. 847 note 34.
Exemption of Vessel From Customs Duties, see CUSTOMS DUTIES, 12 Cyc. 1132.
Fellow Servants:
Longshoremen, see MASTER AND SERVANT, 26 Cyc. 1359.
Members of Crew, see MASTER AND SERVANT, 26 Cyc. 1358.
Ferry, see FERRIES, 19 Cyc. 491.
International Law in General, see INTERNATIONAL LAW, 22 Cyc. 1697.
Joinder of Suit in Admiralty With One at Law or in Equity, see JOINDER AND SPLITTING OF ACTIONS, 23 Cyc. 424.
Jurisdiction of Offenses Committed on the High Seas, see CRIMINAL LAW, 12 Cyc. 214.
Libel In Rem or In Personam, see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 853.
Marine Insurance, see MARINE INSURANCE, 26 Cyc. 538.
Maritime Lien, see MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 742.
Navigable Waters, see NAVIGABLE WATERS, 29 Cyc. 285.
Neutrality Laws, see NEUTRALITY LAWS, 29 Cyc. 674.
Pilot, see PILOTS, 30 Cyc. 1607.
Piracy, see PIRACY, 30 Cyc. 1626.
Privity Between Master and Owner of Vessel, see JUDGMENTS, 23 Cyc. 1265 note 26.
Salvage, see SALVAGE, 35 Cyc. 716.
Seaman, see SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1176.
Shipping Association, see ASSOCIATIONS, 4 Cyc. 311 note 61.
Sunday Navigation, see CANALS, 6 Cyc. 277 note 54; SUNDAY.
Towage, see TOWAGE.
Wharf or Wharfage, see WHARVES.
Wrecked Boat or Vessel:
Abandonment of by Owner, see ABANDONMENT, 1 Cyc. 4 note 3.
Causing Injury to Tow, see TOWAGE.
Effect on Wages of Seamen, see SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1207.
Obstructing Navigation, see NAVIGABLE WATERS, 29 Cyc. 310.
Salvage Services Upon, see SALVAGE, 35 Cyc. 716.

I. REGULATION.[1]

[EDITED BY EDWARD G. BENEDICT, ESQ., OF THE NEW YORK BAR]

A. National Character of Vessels. The ownership of a vessel determines its national character,[2] and this may be proved in the same manner as that

1. As to carriage of passengers see infra, VIII, B.
Regulation by state or municipality as interference with commerce see COMMERCE, 7 Cyc. 422.
Health laws as interference with commerce see COMMERCE, 7 Cyc. 467 et seq.
Power to regulate navigation as within power to regulate commerce see COMMERCE, 7 Cyc. 459.
State port regulations as interference with commerce see COMMERCE, 7 Cyc. 462.

2. Jenks v. Hallet, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 60; U. S. v. Jenkins, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,473.

of any other chattel.[3] The term "vessel of the United States" is made by the legislation of congress a legal technical term, and the requisites are expressly laid down, which entitle a vessel to that national designation.[4]

B. Registry, Enrolment, and License[5] — 1. In General. The statutes of the United States require that every ship or vessel of the United States shall be registered or enrolled in the office of, or licensed by, the collector of customs of the district in which is the home port of the vessel, which is defined to be the port at or nearest to which the owner, or, if more than one, the husband or acting and managing owner, resides.[6] To entitle a vessel to such registry, enrolment,

A passport granted by any particular government to protect against its own cruisers is not a sailing under the protection of the flag of that government, so as to stamp a national character on the vessel. Jenks v. Hallet, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 60.

3. U. S. v. Jenkins, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,473.

The certificate of registry of a vessel under the laws of the United States, and proof that she carries the American flag, are competent, and prima facie sufficient to establish her nationality, without direct proof of the citizenship of her owners. St. Clair v. U. S., 154 U. S. 134, 14 S. Ct. 1002, 38 L. ed. 936; The Princess Charlotte, Brown & L. 75. But such evidence may, in a civil case, be outweighed by circumstantial evidence to the contrary. The Princess Charlotte, supra. To prove that a ship is a British ship, it is not necessary to produce the registry or a copy thereof; it is sufficient to show orally that she belongs to British owners, and carries the British flag. Reg. v. Seberg, L. R. 1 C. C. 264, 11 Cox C. C. 520, 39 L. J. M. C. 133, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 523, 18 Wkly. Rep. 935; Reg. v. Allen, 10 Cox C. C. 405; Le Cheminant v. Pearson, 4 Taunt. 367, 13 Rev. Rep. 636.

In prize cases the flag and ship's documents are conclusive as to the nationality of the ship, but not of the cargo. The Vreede Scholtys, 5 C. Rob. 5 note; The Vrow Elizabeth, 5 C. Rob. 2. The registry, flag, and pass of a ship carry with them the presumption that they are true and correct, and the owner is estopped to aver against them. The Laura, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 685, 3 Moore P. C. N. S. 181, 13 Wkly. Rep. 369, 16 Eng. Reprint 68.

4. See cases cited infra, this note.

By the Registry Act of 1792, the pertinent part of which is now embodied in U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4131 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2803], vessels registered pursuant to law and no others, except such as shall be duly qualified according to law for carrying on the coasting trade or fisheries (see infra, I, B, 3) shall be deemed vessels of the United States. See Davidson v. Gorham, 6 Cal. 343; Kirkpatrick v. Augusta Bank, 30 Ga. 465; Best v. Staple, 61 N. Y. 71; Lawrence v. Hodges, 92 N. C. 672, 53 Am. Rep. 436; The Merritt, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 582, 21 L. ed. 682 [affirming 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,222, 2 Biss. 381]; White's Bank v. Smith, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 646, 19 L. ed. 211.

Use made of vessel immaterial.—A steamer, enrolled and licensed in the office of collector of customs under the statutes of the United States, is a vessel of the United States, regardless of what use may be made of her. Fleming v. Philadelphia Fire Assoc., 147 Mich. 404, 110 N. W. 933; Lawrence v. Hodges, 92 N. C. 672, 53 Am. Rep. 436. The fact that the owner may be using a vessel, registered as a vessel of the United States, in violation of a state law, and is liable to a penalty therefor, does not affect the status of the vessel. Fleming v. Philadelphia Fire Assoc., supra. A vessel of the United States, duly registered, does not lose her status as such while in the Detroit river. Fleming v. Philadelphia Fire Assoc., supra.

In order to show the loss of nationality in an American vessel, it is not enough to show that she was taken abroad and sold; it must also appear that she was sold to a foreigner. U. S. v. Gordon, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,231, 5 Blatchf. 18.

5. As evidence of nationality see supra, I, A.

As evidence of title see infra, II, B, 2.

Penalties and forfeitures for violation of registry laws see infra, I, E, 1.

Registration of vessels as constituting regulation of commerce see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 466.

The only classes of vessels which are entitled to be registered or enrolled as vessels of the United States are: (1) Vessels built in the United States and owned by a citizen; (2) vessels captured in war and condemned as prize, and owned by a citizen; (3) vessels forfeited and sold for breach of the laws of the United States and purchased and owned by a citizen; (4) vessels wrecked in the United States, and purchased and repaired by a citizen, if the repairs are equal to three fourths of the cost of the vessel when so repaired; (5) vessels of the government sold to a citizen of the United States; (6) steamboats employed only in a river or bay of the United States and owned wholly or in part by an alien resident within the United States. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4131, 4132, 4165, 4180–4184, 4312, 4316 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) pp. 2803, 2805, 2825, 2832–2834, 2959, 2960].

6. The two statutes providing generally for registry and enrolment and license of vessels are the act of Dec. 31, 1792 (U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4131 et seq. [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2803]) applicable exclusively to registry of vessels engaged in foreign commerce, and the act of Feb. 18, 1793 (U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4311 et seq [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2959]) applicable exclusively to vessels engaged in domestic commerce.

or license, application must be made under oath, setting forth certain particulars as to her age, measurement, tonnage, etc.[7] Upon receiving such registry or enrolment she becomes a vessel of the United States, and entitled to all the privileges and protection which the laws confer upon that character.[8]

2. Registry — a. In General. The registration of vessels is not compulsory on their owners, it being a privilege and advantage of which they may or may not avail themselves as they choose.[9] None but citizens of the United States are entitled to have their vessels registered.[10] Nor can a vessel be registered until proof of the citizenship of all her owners is placed on record.[11] Registers Vessels engaged in the foreign trade are registered, and those engaged in the coasting and home trade are enrolled and licensed; and the words "register" and "enrolment" are used to distinguish the certificates granted to those two classes of vessels. Vessels under twenty tons may be licensed without being enrolled (U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4311 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2959]); The Mohawk, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 566, 18 L. ed. 67; Bigley v. New York, etc., R. Steamship Co., 105 Fed. 74. In the case of vessels used on our northern frontiers which are necessarily engaged in both the foreign and home traffic at the same time the certificate of enrolment is made equivalent to both registry and enrolment. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4318 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2961]. The intention of this act on the subject of enrolled and licensed vessels was to enable such vessels in certain cases to engage in foreign and domestic commerce at one and the same time, without the formality of a registry, not exacting the restrictions or enforcing the penalties imposed on registered vessels. U. S. v. The Forrester, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,132, 1 Newb. Adm. 81.

7. Sprague v. Thurber, 17 R. I. 454, 22 Atl. 1057. See U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4142 et seq., 4312, 4320 et seq. [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) pp. 2809, 2959, 2962].

8. Sprague v. Thurber, 17 R. I. 454, 22 Atl. 1057.

9. Davidson v. Gorham, 6 Cal. 343.

The policy of the registry law is to give certain advantages to American built and American owned vessels. Smith v. Hammond, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,053.

Nature of registry.— The registry of a vessel is in the nature of a continuing license. It secures to the owners certain privileges so long as the registry continues in force and no longer; and the registry will continue in force so long only as the legal status of the vessel remains unchanged. Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9.

The purpose of a register is to declare the nationality of a vessel engaged in trade with foreign nations, and to enable her to assert that nationality wherever found. St. Clair v. U. S., 154 U. S. 134, 14 S. Ct. 1002, 38 L. ed. 936; The Mohawk, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 566, 18 L. ed. 67.

10. Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9. See U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4131 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2803].

American vessels captured and condemned by a foreign power are not entitled to registry even if they again became American property (Smith v. Hammond, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,053); but if sold to a foreigner and afterward repurchased by an American citizen, they may be registered anew (Smith v. Hammond, supra).

A vessel wrecked at sea, and then brought into the United States is not a vessel "wrecked in the United States" (U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4136 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2807]), and is not entitled to an American register as such, where her repairs amounted to three fourths of her value when repaired. U. S. v. The Victoria Perez, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,620, 8 Ben. 109.

Transfer to American citizen in trust.— The directors of a foreign corporation owning vessels have no power to transfer such vessels in trust for the corporation to such of their members as are American citizens for the purpose of giving such vessels an American registry. Ogden v. Murray, 39 N. Y. 202.

The word "vessel" includes every description of water-craft or other artificial contrivance used, or capable of being used, as a means of transportation on water. Arnold v. Eastin, 116 Ky. 686, 76 S. W. 855, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 895. See U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 3 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 4]. Barges used for the transportation of coal on an inland river are "vessels," within the statute. Arnold v. Eastin, supra.

Rebuilt vessel.— As public policy is against changing the names of vessels, courts of admiralty will go far in ruling that rebuilt vessels are in law identical with those from the material of which they are built, and requiring them to be registered in the same name. Where any substantial portion of the frame or skeleton of an old vessel is built upon and preserved intact in constructing the new, the courts lean toward holding the vessel to be the same in law; but where no such part of the frame or skeleton is left intact, but each timber of the old vessel is first dislocated before being used in the new, in such case the vessel is a new one, and may bear a new name, although having the model of the old vessel. U. S. v. The Grace Meade, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,243, 2 Hughes 83.

11. Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9.

Necessity of disclosure of equitable title.— The registry acts of the United States do not require a disclosure of the equitable title of the vessel registered unless that title is in the subject of a foreign state. Scudder v. Calais Steamboat Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,566; U. S. v. The Fideliter, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,088; are either permanent or temporary,[12] but a vessel cannot have more than one register at the same time; the "temporary," being superseded by the "permanent," register.[13]

b. Effect of Sale of Vessel.[14] The sale of a vessel to a foreigner not only deprives her of her registry, but also denationalizes her, so as to render her incapable of being registered.[15] A sale to an American citizen does not denationalize the vessel, but only causes her to lose her registry, and she may be registered anew upon proof that the new owner is a citizen of the United States.[16] To entitle ships to be registered anew after sale, and to be deemed ships of the United States, with the privileges and exemptions of such ships, it is necessary that the transfer should be made according to the form prescribed in the registry acts; that is to say, that it should be by some instrument in writing, which shall recite at length the certificate of registry;[17] but the acts do not declare transfer by any other method void and illegal; but simply deny to ships transferred in any other manner the privileges of ships of the United States, and deem them alien or foreign ships.[18]

c. Deposit of Register With Consul. On arrival at a foreign port masters of vessels are required by statute[19] to deposit their registers with the consul or commercial agent, if any, at that port.[20]

Weston v. Penniman, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,455, 1 Mason 306.

12. See cases cited infra, this note.

Permanent registers are defined in the treasury regulations as being those granted by collectors to ships and vessels belonging to ports within their respective districts. Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463.

Temporary registers are defined to be those granted by collectors to ships and vessels belonging to ports in other districts. Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463.

13. Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9, holding the "permanent" and "temporary," when applied to the registers of a vessel, do not imply that they are coexistent, but successive.

14. Forfeiture for sale or failure to register see infra, I, E, 1.

15. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4172 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2828]. And see Davidson v. Gorham, 6 Cal. 343; The Maria, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,075, Deady 89; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226.

A corporation organized and existing under the laws of a foreign country is "a subject or citizen of a foreign prince or state," as the case may be, within the meaning of the registry act without reference to the nationality or citizenship of the shareholders therein. The Maria, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,075, Deady 89.

A sale upon credit, and upon the condition that the purchaser shall not use the vessel until the purchase-money is all paid, and that if default is made therein the seller may retake the vessel into his possession, is a sale, within the meaning of the registry act. The Maria, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,075, Deady 89.

16. Davidson v. Gorham, 6 Cal. 343; Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9; Sprague v. Thurber, 17 R. I. 454, 22 Atl. 1057.

Nature of sale.— Such sale as creates a new owner, or part-owner, renders a vessel's former registry void. Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9.

Liability of collector for refusal to re-register.—A collector, who wrongfully refuses to re-register a vessel which, being originally American, was sold to a foreigner, and then again purchased by an American, is not personally liable in damages, when his refusal is based on an honest mistake in the construction of the law. Smith v. Hammond, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,053.

17. Alabama.— Fontaine v. Beers, 19 Ala. 722.

Louisiana.— Begley v. Morgan, 15 La. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 188.

Maine.— Mitchell v. Taylor, 32 Me. 434.

Massachusetts.— Hatch v. Smith, 5 Mass. 42.

Rhode Island.— Sprague v. Thurber, 17 R. I. 454, 22 Atl. 1057.

United States.— Fitz v. The Galiot Amelie, 6 Wall. 18, 18 L. ed. 806; Ohl v. Eagle Ins. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,472, 4 Mason 172; Weston v. Penniman, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,455, 1 Mason 306.

18. Mitchell v. Taylor, 32 Me. 434; Hatch v. Smith, 5 Mass. 42; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226; Weston v. Penniman, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,455, 1 Mason 306.

19. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4309 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2956].

20. See cases cited infra, this note.

The arrival spoken of means an arrival for purposes of business, requiring an entry and clearance and stay at the port so long as to require some of the acts connected with business; and not merely touching at a port for advices, or to ascertain the state of the market, or being driven in by an adverse wind and sailing again as soon as it changes. Harrison v. Vose, 9 How. (U. S.) 372, 13 L. ed. 179; Toler v. White, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,079, 1 Ware 280; U. S. v. Shackford, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,262, 5 Mason 445. But see Parsons v. Hunter, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,778, 2 Sumn. 419, holding that any voluntary arrival in a foreign port in the course of a

3. Enrolment and License — a. In General. "Enrolment" is the term used in describing the registry of a vessel engaged in coastwise or inland navigation or commerce, as distinguished from a vessel engaged in foreign commerce and navigation,[21] and to entitle a vessel to enrolment "the same requirements in all respects shall be complied with as are required before registering a vessel;" [22] but a violation of these provisions is not followed by the same penalties and forfeitures.[23] License means the same as enrolment, but is applied to vessels of less than twenty tons burden.[24] The acts of congress providing for the enrolment and license of vessels do not apply to vessels employed upon the interior waters of the country unless such waters are public navigable waters of the United States.[25]

b. Effect of Sale of Vessel. The sale of a licensed vessel to one who is a foreigner renders such vessel liable to forfeiture,[26] unless the owner shall have voyage, although for advices only, and not the port of final destination, seems to be within the provisions of the act.

An arrival at a foreign port from another foreign port is within the purview of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4309 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2956], requiring the master of an American vessel, on his arrival at a foreign port, to deposit his register with the consul or commercial agent, if any, at that port. Gould v. Staples, 9 Fed. 159.

21. Moore v. Lincoln Park, etc., Consol. Co., 196 Pa. St. 519, 46 Atl. 857; The Mohawk, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 566, 18 L. ed. 67; U. S. v. The Planter, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,054, Newb. Adm. 262. See U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4311 et seq. [U. C. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2959].

22. Moore v. Lincoln Park, etc., Consol. Co., 196 Pa. St. 519, 46 Atl. 857; The Mohawk, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 566, 18 L. ed. 67; Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1.513, 1 Cliff. 463; The Two Friends, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,289, 1 Gall. 118; U. S. v. Forrester, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,132, Newb. Adm. 81; U. S. v. Hipkin, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,371.

Necessity of oath.—Previous to registry an oath is required, showing the place where the vessel was built, her owner or owners' names and place of abode, with some other details, and the penalty for false swearing is the forfeiture of the vessel. Moore v. Lincoln Park, etc., Consol. Co., 196 Pa. St. 519, 46 Atl. 857; U. S. v. Bartlett, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,532, 2 Ware 17. But Act Cong. April 25, 1866 (14 U. S. St. at L. 40), directing the secretary of the treasury to issue enrolment and license to certain vessels therein named, is mandatory in its terms; and an oath in accordance with the provisions of Act Dec. 31, 1792, § 4 (U. S. St. at L. 287), to obtain enrolment and license under the former act is unnecessary. The Acorn, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 29, 2 Abb. 434.

23. The Mohawk, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 566, 18 L. ed. 67; The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,373, 1 Hask. 100; The Two Friends, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,289, 1 Gall. 118; U. S. v. Forrester, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,132, Newb. Adm. 81.

24. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4311 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2959].

25. The Montello, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 411, 20 L. ed. 191.

When river deemsd navigable water of United States.—A river can be deemed a navigable water of the United States, only when it forms, by itself or by its connection with other waters, a continuous highway over which commerce is or may be carried on with other states or foreign countries. The Montello, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 411, 20 L. ed. 191.

What constitutes coasting trade.—A license to prosecute the coasting trade is a warrant to traverse the waters washing or bounding the coasts of the United States. Veazie v. Moor, 14 How. (U. S.) 568, 14 L. ed. 545. Such a license conveys no privilege to use, free of tolls, or of any condition whatsoever, the canals constructed by a state, or the watercourses partaking of the character of canals exclusively within the interior of a state, and made practicable for navigation by the funds of the state, or by privileges she may have conferred for the accomplishment of the same end. North River Steam Boat Co. v. Hoffman, 5 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 300; Veazie v. Moor, 14 How. (U. S.) 568, 14 L. ed. 545. Coasting trade includes trade between Porto Rico and the United States. Bigley v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 105 Fed. 74. It does not apply to ferrying across a river. U. S. v. The James Morrison, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,465, Newb. Adm. 241. But although a vessel navigates only from port to port in the same state, if its employment constitutes a link in a chain of commerce among the states, it will be considered as in the coasting trade, within the meaning of the license act. U. S. v. The James Morrison, supra.

A canal-boat is not a ship or vessel within the meaning of the statute. U. S. v. The Ohio, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,915, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 448; U. S. v. The Pennsylvania Canal Boats Nos. 68 and 69, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,027.

Extension to western lakes.—Act March 2, 1831 (4 U. S. St. at L. 487), regulating the foreign and coasting trade on the northern, northeastern, and northwestern frontiers, in effect extended Act Feb. 18, 1793 (1 U. S. St. at L. 305), to the western lakes. U. S. v. Sweeney, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,426, 1 Biss. 309.

26. Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226, U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4377 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2986].

previously surrendered and delivered up his license;[27] but the sale itself of a licensed vessel to a foreigner is not void.[28]

4. Port of Registry or Enrolment. Under the registry and enrolment acts[29] vessels are required to be registered or enrolled in the collection district that comprehends the port to which they belong; "which port shall be deemed to be that at or nearest to which the owner, if there be but one, or, if more than one, the husband or acting and managing owner of such vessel, usually resides."[30] Vessels may be registered by the collector of the port where at the time the registry is effected such vessels may be.[31] But if a vessel is registered at a port other than that to which she belongs, and she afterward arrives at her home port, she is to be there registered anew, and her former certificate given up.[32]

5. Reciprocal Exchanges. Collectors of the several districts are authorized to enroll and license any ship or vessel that may be registered, upon such registry being given up, or to register any ship or vessel that may be enrolled, upon such enrolment and license being given up as therein required.[33] Whenever such exchanges are made, it becomes the duty of the collector making the same to transmit the register or enrolment given up to him to the register of the treasury; and the one granted in lieu of the one given up shall within ten days after the arrival of the ship or vessel within the district to which she belongs be delivered to the collector of said district, and be by him canceled.[34] In no event has the collector the right to keep both the register and enrolment, and if he does so he is liable for the resulting damage.[35]

C. Duties and Taxes[36] — 1. In General. The subject of tonnage tax is regulated by statute.[37] A tonnage tax is a tax on entry, and applies only to 27. U. S. v. The Hawke, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,331, Bee 34; U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4337 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2969].

28. Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226.

29. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4311 et seq. [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2959]; U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4131 et seq. [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2803].

30. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4141 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2808]. And see Moore v. Lincoln Park, etc., Consol. Co., 196 Pa. St. 519, 46 Atl. 857; Stephenson v. The Francis, 21 Fed. 715; The Mary Chilton, 4 Fed. 847; The E. A. Barnard, 2 Fed. 712; Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463; The St. Lawrence, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,234, 3 Ware 211.

The place at which the ship's husband spends two thirds of his time and transacts his business is the proper place for enrolling and licensing the vessel, although he has a legal domicile in another district. The St. Lawrence, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,234, 3 Ware 211.

A master sailing a vessel on shares, he to supply and man her, and pay a certain part of the net earnings to the owners, is not the "acting and managing owner," but the charterer; and his sailing on foreign voyages from New York more or less often would not make New York his "usual residence," if his family lived in Massachusetts. The Jennie B. Gilkey, 19 Fed. 127.

When owner is corporation.—A corporation of one state, which owns a vessel with which it does business in another state, where it has an office, may there enroll it. Moore v. Lincoln Park, etc., Consol. Co., 196 Pa. St. 519, 46 Atl. 857.

The port of registry is prima facie the home port of a vessel (The Jennie B. Gilkey, 19 Fed. 127), and this presumption must be overcome by clear proof, before any other port is taken as the home port (The Jennie B. Gilkey, supra).

31. Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9.

32. Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9.

33. Badger v. Gutierez, 111 U. S. 734, 4 S. Ct. 563, 28 L. ed. 581; Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463.

Whose application necessary.— These reciprocal changes may be made upon the application of the master or commander, when the ship or vessel is in a district other than the one to which she belongs. Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463. But in every such case the master or commander is required to make oath that, according to his best knowledge and belief, the property of the vessel remains as expressed in the register or enrolment proposed to be given up. Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463.

34. Sprague v. Thurber, 17 R. I. 454, 22 Atl. 1057; Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463.

35. Badger v. Gutierez, 111 U. S. 734, 4 S. Ct. 563, 28 L. ed. 581.

36. Customs duties on vessels and equipment see Customs Duties, 12 Cyc. 1132.

License-tax on vessels by state as interference with commerce see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 466.

Place of taxation see Taxation.

37. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4219 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2848].

Amount of duty.— This section imposes vessels coming in to trade.[38] Moreover it is only to be levied on foreign vessels, or vessels coming from some foreign port or place.[39] A duty of fifty cents per ton, denominated "light money," is levied and collected on all vessels not of the United States, which may enter the ports of the United States.[40] Such light money is levied and collected in the same manner and under the same regulations as tonnage duties.[41]

2. Remedies — a. In General. The collector may refuse to enter as well as to clear a vessel which has not paid her tonnage duties;[42] but if he neglects or forgets to do so, the United States has an action for the duties against the owner,[43] and perhaps against the master,[44] and also against the ship;[45] but not against a mere consignee of the vessel, for he has no interest or special property in the vessel.[46] duties on vessels built within the United States, but belonging wholly or in part to subjects of foreign powers, at the rate of thirty cents per ton; on other vessels not of the United States at the rate of fifty cents per ton. See The Alta, 148 Fed. 663, 78 C. C. A. 415.

Pilotage as constituting impost or tonnage tax see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 460 notes 56, 57.

Power to levy see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 476.

Quarantine charges as tonnage tax see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 475 note 81.

State harbor fees as impost or tonnage tax see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 463 notes 80, 81.

Wharfage fees as tonnage tax see Commerce, 7 Cyc. 475 note 81.

38. Ripley v. Gelston, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 201, 6 Am. Dec. 271.

Vessels forced in by distress are not liable to tonnage duty. Ripley v. Gelston, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 201, 6 Am. Dec. 271.

39. The Alta, 136 Fed. 513, 69 C. C. A. 289.

Terms "foreign vessel" and "foreign port or place" construed.—A foreign-built vessel, owned entirely by a citizen of the United States, and entering a port of the United States from Manila, P. I., does not enter from a "foreign port or place," and is therefore not subject to tonnage duty under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4219 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2848], nor is she subject to such duty under 32 U. S. St. at L. 54, c. 140 [U. S. Comp. St. Suppl. (1903) p. 349], extending such duties to "foreign vessels entering from the Philippine archipelago, since, while not "a vessel of the United States," because not entitled to registry, she is an American, and not a foreign vessel, by virtue of the citizenship of her owner. The Alta, 136 Fed. 513, 69 C. C. A. 289. But a vessel not registered in the United States is a vessel "not of the United States," within the meaning of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4219 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2848], although owned by a citizen of the United States, and on her entry from a foreign port is subject to tonnage duty at the rate of fifty cents per ton thereunder. The Alta, 148 Fed. 663, 78 C. C. A. 415.

Effect of British treaty of 1815.—The tonnage duties, etc., payable on foreign vessels were not changed by the British treaty of July 3, 1815, or the acts of congress and the president's proclamation pursuant thereto, so far as respects vessels coming from British colonies. U. S. v. Hathaway, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,326, 3 Mason 324. The treaty of 1815, putting British vessels coming into our ports, as to duties and charges, on the same footing as American vessels, extends to vessels coming from European ports, and not to vessels coming from the West Indies, or the British possessions in North America. U. S. v. Hathaway, supra.

Exception.—A vessel belonging in whole or in part to an alien may, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4347, pass from one district of the United States to another, with cargo brought from a foreign port, and not "unladen," without thereby becoming liable to a tonnage tax under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4219 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2848], and merchandise is not "unladen," or "taken," within the meaning of these terms, as used in these sections, unless there is an actual removal of the same from or to the vessel. Laidlaw v. Abraham, 43 Fed. 297; In re Laidlaw, 42 Fed. 401.

40. The Alta, 136 Fed. 513, 69 C. C. A. 289; The Miranda, 51 Fed. 523, 2 C. C. A. 362.

Exemption.— The statute does not operate upon unregistered vessels owned by citizens of the United States, and carrying a sea letter or other regular document issued from a custom-house of the United States proving the vessel to be American property. U. S. v. The Miranda, 51 Fed. 523, 2 C. C. A. 362 [affirming 47 Fed. 815].

Proof to entitle vessel to exemption.— The fact that the vessel is American property exempts her from liability to pay light money; and the law is complied with if this fact be shown to the collector by any competent evidence. The Alta, 148 Fed. 663, 78 C. C. A. 415; The Alta, 136 Fed. 513, 69 C. C. A. 289.

41. The Alta, 136 Fed. 513, 69 C. C. A. 289.

42. The George T. Kemp, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,341, 2 Lowell 477.

43. The George T. Kemp, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,341, 2 Lowell 477; U. S. v. Hathaway, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,326, 3 Mason 324.

44. The George T. Kemp, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,341, 2 Lowell 477.

45. The George T. Kemp, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,341, 2 Lowell 477.

46. U. S. v. Hathaway, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,326, 3 Mason 324 [cited in Knox v. Devens, 14 Fed. Cas. 7,905, 5 Mason 380].

b. To Recover Back Tax. In case of an erroneous imposition of a tonnage tax, the statute gives the party a remedy by an appeal to the treasury department, on which the decision of the commissioner of navigation is final.[47] But such decision is "final" in the department only, and the person who paid the tax still has a right of action to recover the same.[48]

D. Inspection[49] — 1. In General. Various acts of congress have been passed for the purpose of requiring vessels, propelled in whole or in part by steam, to undergo periodical inspection.[50] The various kinds of small steam craft which were intended to be embraced within the law are enumerated;[51] and by a later

47. In re Laidlaw, 42 Fed. 401.

48. Ripley v. Gelston, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 201, 6 Am. Dec. 271; Laidlaw v. Abraham, 43 Fed. 297.

Pleading.— In a complaint in an action against a collector to recover a sum alleged to have been wrongfully exacted as tonnage tax, an allegation that a collector "exacted" certain tonnage duties is equivalent to saying that they were "ascertained and liquidated" by him, as provided in U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 2931; and an allegation that the grounds of the objection to the collector's decision exacting such duties were specified in the notice to him "clearly and distinctly" is equivalent to saying they were "distinctly and specifically" set forth therein, as required in said section. Laidlaw v. Abraham, 43 Fed. 297.

49. Lack of inspection as affecting owner's right to limit liability see infra, VII, D, 14, a, (II).

50. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4399–4462 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) pp. 3015–3044].

By U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4400 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3015], it is declared that all steam vessels, with certain exceptions, navigating any waters of the United States which are common highways of commerce, or open to general and competitive navigation, shall be subject to inspection. All vessels which navigate those waters, whether engaged in commerce, local or interstate, or for purposes of pleasure simply, may be alike subjected to the regulations which congress prescribed. The Oyster Police Steamers, 31 Fed. 763 [affirmed in 35 Fed. 926]. The earlier inspection acts were construed to apply only to vessels engaged in interstate or foreign commerce. The Daniel Ball, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 557, 19 L. ed. 999; The Bright Star, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,880, Woolw. 266; The Farragut, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,677, 6 Blatchf. 207; The Oconto, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,421, 5 Biss. 460 [affirmed in 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,330, 6 Biss. 243]; The Thomas Swan, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,931, 6 Ben. 42; U. S. v. The Seneca, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,251, 1 Biss. 371. Under these acts also inspection was required only of vessels carrying passengers. The Jacob G. Neafie, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,156, 8 Ben. 251; The Sun, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,612, 1 Biss. 373.

Purpose of law.— The provisions of the legislation of congress with regard to inspection of the hulls and boilers of steam vessels are intended, not alone for the protection of those on board the vessel itself, but for the protection of all other persons and property engaged in navigation, which might in any way be subject to damage from any accident which might happen for want of that attention to safety which the inspection enforces. The Oyster Police Steamers, 31 Fed. 763 [affirmed in 35 Fed. 927].

Inspection after repairs.— It is as much the duty of an owner of a steamship, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4418 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3024], to cause an inspection of a boiler which has been repaired in a substantial part as to cause an inspection of a new boiler before using the same. The Annie Faxon, 75 Fed. 312, 21 C. C. A. 366; Posey v. Scoville, 10 Fed. 140.

An unfinished vessel need not be inspected before being moved from one place to another in the course of her construction; and a voyage from the place where the vessel is constructed to another place, by direction of the inspectors, to enable her to be inspected, is not a violation of the navigation laws. The Joshua Leviness, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,549, 9 Ben. 339.

Foreign vessels.— By the act of Aug. 7, 1882, it was provided that all foreign private vessels should be subject to like inspection. See Deslions v. La Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 210 U. S. 95, 28 S. Ct. 664, 52 L. ed. 973 [affirming 144 Fed. 781, 75 C. C. A. 647].

Frequency of inspection.— Act July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 304), requiring steamboats to be inspected "once in every six months," means that not more than six months shall elapse between the successive inspections, and is not satisfied by dividing time into periods of six months, and making one inspection early in one period and another late in the other. Virginia, etc., Steam Nav. Co. v. U. S., 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,973, Taney 418.

51. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4426, declares that the hull and boilers of every ferry-boat, canal-boat, yacht, or other small craft of like character, propelled by steam, shall be inspected under the provisions of this title. It is difficult to draw the line between vessels propelled by steam which are so small and insignificant that they do not come within the inspection laws, and larger boats which do. Thus a small steam pleasure yacht, run occasionally by its owners for amusement, has been held not to be a vessel navigating the public waters of the United States, within the meaning of the steam inspection law. U. S. v. The Mollie, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,795, 2 Woods 318. On the other hand it has been held that a craft thirty-seven feet long, of eight feet beam, and three feet nine inches statute [52] vessels propelled by gas, fluid, or electricity are included.[53] It is the duty of the master or owner of a steam vessel to make a written application for her inspection; [54] and if the government inspectors fail to discharge properly their duty of inspection of a vessel, privity or knowledge of defects which would have been revealed by a proper inspection is not to be imputed to a corporation owning the vessel, which has delegated the matter of inspection of the vessel to a competent employee.[55]

2. Authority and Compensation of Inspectors. The supervising inspectors [56] are authorized to establish rules necessary to carry out the statutory provisions as to steam vessels,[57] but they have no authority to establish regulations except such as relate to carrying out such provisions.[58] The compensation of inspectors is fixed by statute.[59]

E. Penalties and Forfeitures For Violations of Regulations [60] — 1. In General. For the violation of shipping regulations congress has imposed penalties and in some cases forfeiture of the vessel. Thus penalties are provided for permitting a steam vessel to be navigated without being inspected; [61] for commencing a voyage without a licensed engineer on board; [62] for failure to exhibit depth of hold, and having a small engine and boiler, must be inspected, such vessel differing but slightly from a ferry-boat or a yacht, and falling under "other small craft of like character." Hartranft v. Du Pont, 118 U. S. 223, 6 S. Ct. 1188, 30 L. ed. 205.

The act of June 8, 1864 (13 U. S. St. at L. 120), subjects to inspection under that act ferry-boats engaged in foreign and interstate commerce. The Bright Star, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,880, Woolw. 266.

52. 29 U. S. St. at L. 489 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3029].

53. See U. S. v. Nash, 111 Fed. 525.

54. The Jacob G. Neafie, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,156, 8 Ben. 251.

55. The Annie Faxon, 75 Fed. 312, 21 C. C. A. 366 [modifying 66 Fed. 575].

56. Appointment and qualification see U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4402, 4404 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3017].

57. Flint, etc., R. Co. v. Marine Ins. Co., 71 Fed. 210, rule that all passenger and freight steamers shall have one of the crew on watch in or near the pilot-house.

58. U. S. v. Miller, 26 Fed. 95.

The subject of lights to be carried by barges or other vessels is not included in any of the provisions of title 52, but is regulated by title 48; therefore the amendment made February, 1885, to section 20 of general rule 3 of the supervising inspectors, requiring barges in tow to carry a red and a green light, is unauthorized and void. U. S. v. Miller, 26 Fed. 95.

59. See cases cited infra, this note.

Special inspectors.— The appointment of a local inspector of the hulls of steam vessels by the secretary of the treasury as a special inspector of foreign vessels, under the act of congress of Aug. 7, 1882, which fixes the compensation of such special inspectors at two thousand dollars per year, entitles the appointee to such compensation for his services, although the appointment is made with the distinct condition that he is not to receive any additional compensation. Glavey v. U. S., 182 U. S. 595, 21 S. Ct. 891, 45 L. ed. 1247 [reversing 35 Ct. Cl. 242]. The failure of a special inspector to give a bond will not preclude him from recovering compensation for his services as such officer when he has been duly appointed and taken the oath of office. Glavey v. U. S., supra.

60. For violations of particular shipping regulations as to carriage of passengers see infra, VIII, B, 2.

For violation of customs laws see Customs Duties, 12 Cyc. 1173, 1174.

Under embargo act see War.

61. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4499 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3060].

Vessel in government service.— The owner of a river steamboat is not liable to the penalty for non-inspection, where the last year's inspection expires while the vessel is in the service of the government under military impressment. U. S. v. Moore, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,801, 2 Bond 34.

While vessels propelled by gas, fluid, naphtha, or electric motors are subject to the same provisions as steam vessels in respect to inspection, they are not subject to forfeiture for failure to comply with such provisions. The Ben R., 134 Fed. 784, 67 C. C. A. 290.

62. See cases cited infra, this note.

A vessel without passengers or freight is not subject to the penalty. Board of Steamboat Engineers v. Miller, 9 Ala. 511.

The penalty is incurred by the captain or owner of the boat, and whoever is in command of the boat when the law is violated is liable as captain. Leonard v. Board of Engineers, 10 Ala. 52. The captain is subject to the penalty, although the services of the engineer may have been engaged by a different person as owner of the boat. Walker v. Board of Steamboat Engineers, 14 Ala. 228.

Completion of voyage unnecessary.— It is not necessary, to incur a forfeiture under this act, that the meditated voyage should be actually performed. It is sufficient if it be commenced, and the boat be actually run without a licensed engineer on board em-enrolment or license to revenue officers; [63] for failure to deposit the ship's register with the consul on arrival in a foreign port; [64] for failure to deliver up a temporary register after arrival of the vessel at the port to which she belongs.[65] For the violation of more important regulations absolute forfeiture of the vessel or its value is exacted. Thus provision is made for the forfeiture of a vessel or its value for fraudulently obtaining a register, enrolment, or license; [66] for fraudulent ployed to manage the engine. Leonard v. Board of Engineers, 10 Ala. 52.

63. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4336 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2969.

Where a vessel is not enrolled or licensed a failure to exhibit the enrolment and license when required by such an officer does not render the master liable. The John J. Wiltsie, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,353, 3 Ben. 251.

64. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4309 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2956].

Time for bringing suit.—The penalty of five hundred dollars for not depositing the ship's register with the consul on arrival in a foreign port must be sued for within two years. Parsons v. Hunter, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,778, 2 Sumn. 355.

Evidence.—A consul's certificate of the arrival and departure of the vessel is not evidence. Levy v. Burley, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,300, 2 Sumn. 355.

65. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4160 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2824].

What constitutes arrival.— To affect the master of a vessel with the penalty provided for his non-delivery of a temporary register granted under the coasting act of 1793, there must not only be an arrival at the port to which the vessel belongs, but it must be an arrival there, not by accident, or from necessity, but intentionally, as one of the termini of the voyage. U. S. v. Shackford, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,262, 5 Mason 445 [affirming 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,263, 1 Ware 169].

66. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4189 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2836]; U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4172 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2828]; U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4143 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2809]. And see The Fideliter, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,756, Deady 620; U. S. v. Fideliter, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,088; U. S. v. The Sciota, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,240.

A foreign vessel wrecked, rebuilt, and enrolled as a new domestic vessel is liable to forfeiture, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4189 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2836], as fraudulently enrolled, although she might have been enrolled under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4136 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2807], as a foreign vessel wrecked in the United States and purchased and repaired by a citizen. The Hud and Frank, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,824, 1 Hask. 192.

Falsity of extrajudicial oath no cause of forfeiture.— The oath made in accordance with U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4142 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2809] to procure enrolment, is extrajudicial, and of no effect after the passage of the act of April 25, 1866, which directs the enrolment and license of certain vessels and is mandatory in its terms; and no forfeiture can be decreed because of the falsity of such oath. The Acorn, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 29, 2 Abb. 434.

Nature of penalty.— The sum secured by a bond given under the act of Dec. 31, 1792, relative to registry of vessels, is not a liquidated amount of damages due under a contract, but a fixed and certain punishment for an offense; and it is none the less so because security is taken in advance by the United States, before the offense is committed, for the payment of the fine, if the law be violated, and the proceeds are to be distributed in the mode provided in section 29 of that act. U. S. v. Montell, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,798, Taney 47.

Amount of penalty.— The penalty given by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4143 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2809], in relation to false swearing by the owner of a vessel in an oath taken by him to obtain the registry of the vessel, is equal in amount to the value of the vessel at the time of the commission of the illegal act which causes the forfeiture; and the amount of such penalty is not affected by any subsequent change in the value of said vessel, or by its loss or destruction. U. S. v. Hamilton, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,289.

Defenses.— In an action by the United States to recover the penalty imposed for making a false oath to secure the registry of a vessel, averments in an answer setting up that defendant was ignorant of the law, and, regarding the proceedings for the registry as purely formal, did not read the papers he signed, constitute no defense, and are properly stricken out on motion as immaterial and impertinent. Peacock v. U. S., 125 Fed. 583, 60 C. C. A. 389.

Evidence.—Where, in a libel for forfeiture for alleged violation of the registry laws, grounded upon the allegation that claimant was not the owner, the government's evidence as a whole makes out a case for claimant, he need not offer any evidence. The Acorn, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 29, 2 Abb. 434. The letters of the agent of the vessel to the owners are not admissible to prove the violation; aliter of the agent's acts within the scope of his authority. U. S. v. The Burdett, 9 Pet. (U. S.) 682, 9 L. ed. 273. Where the documents by means of which the registry of a vessel has been obtained are identified and come from the possession of the government, it is not necessary to prove the signature of each paper. The Mary Celeste, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,202, 2 Lowell 354. The production of a forged protest and other papers from the files of the New York custom-house, with proof that they were the only documents on file there in connection with the issuing of the register to a wrecked foreign vessel which was rebuilt, and the fact that the owner, when examined as a witness in the cause and shown the papers in use of register; [67] for failure to report the sale of a registered vessel to a foreigner; [68] for the transfer of a licensed vessel to a foreigner; [69] for engaging in a trade other than that for which she was licensed; [70] for proceeding on a foreign voyage without question, did not intimate that they were not the papers used in obtaining the register, is sufficient evidence that they were the papers presented to the secretary of the treasury, and on which the register was obtained, in proceedings to forfeit her for fraudulent registration. U. S. v. The Victoria Perez, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,620, 8 Ben. 109.

67. 1 U. S. St. at L. 298, c. 1, § 27. And see The Mohawk, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 566, 18 L. ed. 67 (holding that the forfeiture prescribed by Act (1792), § 27, for fraudulently using a register for a vessel not entitled to it, applies to a vessel enrolled under the act of 1852, and employed on the northern frontier, although no penalty is contained in that act; act March 2, 1831, making the certificate of enrolment of vessels so employed equivalent to both registry and enrolment); The Margaret, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 421, 6 L. ed. 125; The Neptune, 3 Wheat. (U. S.) 601, 4 L. ed. 469, holding that the statute applies as well to vessels which have not been previously registered as to those to which registers have been previously granted.

68. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4172 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2828]. And see The Margaret, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 421, 6 L. ed. 125.

The statute does not require a beneficial or bona fide sale; but a transmutation of ownership, "by way of trust, confidence, or otherwise," is sufficient. The Margaret, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 421, 6 L. ed. 125.

Forfeiture takes place at the moment of sale or transfer to an alien, and any subsequent judgment of forfeiture relates back to that time, and a levy on the forfeited property under an execution against the alien previous to the prosecution of the forfeiture will not prevent the forfeiture. The Florenzo, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,886, Blatchf. & H. 52.

Exception.— The proviso that where the ship shall be owned, in part only, by a person ignorant of the transfer, such part shall not be subject to forfeiture, applies only to the case of a part-owner, and not to a sole owner. The Margaret, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 421, 6 L. ed. 125; The Florenzo, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,886, Blatchf. & H. 52.

Statute not applicable to enrolled and licensed vessels.— U. S. v. Sciota, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,240.

69. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4377 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2986].

Formal delivery is unnecessary to constitute a "transfer."— U. S. v. The Vermont, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,618*a*.

A vessel enrolled but not licensed is not forfeited by a sale to an alien. Wilkes v. People's F. Ins. Co., 19 N. Y. 184.

A vessel whose license has become void by reason of a subsequent sale is no longer a licensed and enrolled vessel, so as to be subject to forfeiture by her sale in whole or in part to a foreigner. U. S. v. The Sciota, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,240. But a licensed vessel, transferred in whole or in part to a foreigner, is forfeited, although upon such transfer the license is no longer in force. The Two Friends, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,289. 1 Gall. 118.

70. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4377 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2986]. And see The Active v. U. S., 7 Cranch (U. S.) 100, 3 L. ed. 282; The Eliza, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,346, 2 Gall. 4; The Ocean Bride, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,404, 1 Hask. 331.

The object of the law is manifest.— It is to prevent vessels engaged in the coasting trade and fisheries from becoming the medium of the introduction of smuggled goods, under the security and cover of their license. The Friendship, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,124, 1 Gall. 45; The Ocean Spray, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,412, 4 Sawy. 105.

A coasting vessel engaged in an illegal traffic is employed in a trade other than that for which she is licensed, and consequently liable to condemnation. The Eliza, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,346, 2 Gall. 4; The Julia, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,574, 1 Gall. 233; The Resolution, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,709, 2 Gall. 47; U. S. v. The Mars, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,723, 1 Gall. 237. Property seized on board of a vessel condemned for engaging in illegal traffic will not be restored to the claimant unless he shows a good title to it, although it is not condemned as forfeited; but it will be retained in the registry until the real owner proves his title. The Eliza, supra.

Meaning of "trade."— "Trade" in the act is used as equivalent to occupation, employment, or business for gain or profit. The Nymph, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,388, 1 Sumn. 516. Therefore carrying goods, not for hire, but as a neighborly or friendly act, is not engaging in "trade" within the statute. The Swallow, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,666, 1 Ware 13; The Willie G., 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,762, 1 Hask. 253.

A single act of unlawful trading will work her forfeiture, although the vessel continues her licensed business. The Ocean Bride, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,404, 1 Hask. 331; The Swallow, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,666, 1 Ware 13.

The mackerel fishery and cod fishery are "trades," within the meaning of the statute. The Nymph, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,388, 1 Sumn. 516 [affirming 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,389, 1 Ware 259]. Therefore a vessel licensed for the cod fishery is not authorized by her license to engage in the mackerel fishery. The Nymph, supra. But vessels under a license to catch cod will not be forfeited by catching mackerel, so long as the catching of the mackerel is incidental merely, and not the main object of pursuit. U. S. v. The Paryntha Davis, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,004, 3 Ware 159 [affirmed in 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,003, 1 Cliff. 532]; U. S. v. The Reindeer, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,145.

The cargo is not liable to forfeiture, unless it belongs to the master, owner, or a mariner giving up her enrolment and license, and without being registered;[71] for trading without enrolment or license;[72] for landing cargo before due entry thereof;[73] and for violation of the revenue laws.[74]

2. Lien For Penalty. A statute imposing a penalty against vessels or their owners for the violation of shipping regulations does not give the United States a lien therefor.[75] Where absolute forfeiture is the statutory penalty for an act, the title accrues when the penal act is committed,[76] and the forfeiture is not defeated by a subsequent sale to a bona fide purchaser.[77] If the forfeiture is alternative, property or its value, the title does not vest until the election is made.[78] Meanwhile an innocent purchaser may acquire a title not subject to forfeiture by subsequent seizure.[79]

of the vessel. The Active v. U. S., 7 Cranch (U. S.) 100, 3 L. ed. 282.

A certificate of probable cause will be given to preserve the officer making an improper seizure from the payment of costs, if such officer acts in good faith and has reasonable grounds to suppose that the law has been violated. U. S. v. The Reindeer, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,145. Such certificate may also be given in such case to protect the officer making the seizure from liability therefor. U. S. v. The Reindeer, supra.

The libel.—Where a vessel is seized for engaging in a trade other than that for which she is licensed, the libel need not specify the particular trade in which she was engaged at the time of the seizure. The U. S. v. The Paryntha Davis, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 16,003, 1 Cliff. 532.

Evidence.— Upon a proceeding for the forfeiture of a vessel licensed for the fisheries for carrying merchandise from a foreign port, when the importation is admitted or proved, the burden rests with the claimants to establish their innocence. The Ocean Bride, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,404, 1 Hask. 331. The illegal employment may be shown from circumstances, even against the direct testimony of the master and crew. The Ocean Bride, supra.

71. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4337 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2969].

What constitutes "foreign voyage."—A "foreign voyage," within the meaning of the Coasting and Fishing Act, is where a vessel departs from the United States for a foreign port with an intent there to engage in trade, and not merely a voyage to a foreign port within the usual voyage of vessels licensed for the fisheries. Taber v. U. S., 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,722, 1 Story 1; The Three Brothers, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,009, 1 Gall. 142. And see The Lark, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,090, 1 Gall. 55. Therefore a vessel sailing under a fishing license may touch at a foreign port and procure supplies without incurring forfeiture under this act. The Ocean Spray, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,412, 4 Sawy. 105; The Willie G., 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,762, 1 Hask. 253. A whaling voyage is not a foreign voyage. Taber v. U. S., supra.

When forfeiture attaches.— The forfeiture does not attach until the vessel has actually left port with an intent to proceed on such foreign voyage. The Friendship, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,124, 1 Gall. 45; The Julia, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,573, 1 Gall. 43.

72. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4371 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2984].

What vessels within scope of statute.— This provision is applicable only to vessels engaged in domestic trade. U. S. v. The Margaret Yates, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,720, 22 Vt. 663. It inflicts a forfeiture of the ship and cargo only in cases of unregistered vessels found with foreign goods on board in the coasting trade, and not of vessels licensed for the fisheries. The Eliza, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,346, 2 Gall. 4.

73. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 2867 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 1908]. And see Phile v. The Anna, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 197, 1 L. ed. 98, holding that everything put on board of a vessel is, generally speaking, comprehended in the description of her cargo, within the meaning of that term as used in an information against a ship for landing part of her cargo without having it entered at the collector's office.

74. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 2497. And see The Merritt, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 582, 21 L. ed. 682 [affirming 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,222, 2 Biss. 381]; U. S. v. Forrester, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,132, Newb. Adm. 81.

Necessity of statutory authority.— A municipal seizure of a vessel and cargo for violation of the revenue law can neither be justified nor excused on the ground of probable cause, unless under the special provisions of some statute. The Apollon, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 362, 6 L. ed. 111.

75. The Ranier, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,565, Deady 438; The Laurel, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,569, Newb. Adm. 269.

76. The Mary Celeste, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,202, 2 Lowell 354.

77. The Mars, 8 Cranch (U. S.) 417, 3 L. ed. 609; The Monte Christo, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,719, 6 Ben. 148.

78. U. S. v. Grundy, 3 Cranch (U. S.) 337, 2 L. ed. 459; The Mary Celeste, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,202, 2 Lowell 354; U. S. v. Hamilton, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,289.

The phrase, "shall be liable to forfeiture," does not effect a present absolute forfeiture, but only gives a right to have the vessel declared forfeited upon due process of law. The Kate Heron, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,619, 6 Sawy. 106.

79. Ingersoll v. Jackson, 14 Mass. 109;

3. Remission. The power of remitting penalties and forfeitures belongs exclusively to the secretary of the treasury,[80] and the fact that a libel or information has been filed to enforce the penalty or forfeiture is immaterial.[81] The secretary has the power, after a remission has been granted and communicated to the claimant, to revoke the warrant.[82]

F. Offenses Against Navigation Laws[83] — 1. Boarding Vessel Without Consent of Master. It is made an indictable offense by statute[84] for any person not being in the United States service, and not being duly authorized by law, to go on board a vessel about to arrive at her place of destination before her actual arrival, without the permission of the master.[85] The offense becomes complete upon his boarding the vessel without having obtained the leave which the statute required, no matter what his motive was, and without regard to the fact that permission was afterward given him by the captain to remain on board.[86] The section is intended to protect foreign vessels as well as vessels of the United States.[87]

The Kate Heron, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,619, 6 Sawy. 106; The Mary Celeste, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,202, 2 Lowell 354; U. S. v. The Anthony Mangin, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,461, 2 Pet. Adm. 452.

80. The Palo Alto, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,700, 2 Ware 344.

Conditions precedent.— If the remission is on the payment of costs, this is a condition precedent, and the remission is inoperative until the costs are paid. The Palo Alto, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,700, 2 Ware 344. A tender of the costs, after a reasonable time allowed for taxing them, is equivalent to actual payment to revest the right of property and possession. A neglect of the collector seasonably to furnish the attorney with the costs of seizure and custody will not defeat or suspend the right of the claimant to the possession of the property. The Palo Alto, supra.

81. Peacock v. U. S., 125 Fed. 583, 60 C. C. A. 389, holding that the right to prefer a petition through the judge of the district for a remission of such penalty or forfeiture by the secretary of the treasury does not require the court to postpone the trial of an action brought to recover the penalty on the presenting of such a petition, the secretary having the same power to remit the penalty after as before judgment thereon.

The court has no authority to revise his decision or inquire into the grounds on which it is made. The Palo Alto, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,700, 2 Ware 344. If a remission is granted before a libel or information has been filed, it operates directly to revest the right of property and possession in the petitioner, and the collector, on his presenting the warrant of remission, is bound to restore it. The Palo Alto, supra. But, after the filing of a libel or information, the property is in the custody of the law, and the collector cannot restore the possession without an order of the court. The Palo Alto, supra.

82. The Palo Alto, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,700, 2 Ware 344.

If the remission is free and unconditional, the power of revocation continues after the remittitur is filed and an order of restoration passed, and until the precept is finally executed by a delivery of the property into the possession of the claimant. The Palo Alto, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,700, 2 Ware 344.

If the remission is conditional, the secretary has no power to revoke it after the condition has been performed, whether the possession of the goods has been delivered to the claimant or not. The Palo Alto, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,700, 2 Ware 344.

83. Incident to carriage of passengers see infra, VIII, B, 3.

On and incident to wreck see infra, XII.

Of seaman see Seamen, 35 Cyc. 1255.

84. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4606 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3118].

85. U. S. v. Anderson, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,447, 10 Blatchf. 226, although at the time of the boarding the vessel was temporarily at anchor in the bay.

A runner for a sailors' boarding-house is not exempt from the prohibition. U. S. v. Anderson, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,447, 10 Blatchf. 226.

Climbing on the rail of the vessel from a boat in the act of entering the vessel without permission is within the prohibition. U. S. v. Anderson, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,447, 10 Blatchf. 226.

Punishment.— The offense is punishable, on conviction, by the imposition of a penalty not exceeding two hundred dollars, and imprisonment until the payment thereof, not exceeding six months. U. S. v. Anderson, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,447, 10 Blatchf. 226.

Evidence.— It is not necessary for the United States, in such a prosecution, to prove that the prisoner was not in the United States service, or was not duly authorized by law to go on board of the vessel. U. S. v. Anderson, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,447, 10 Blatchf. 226. Proof that the master was not on board, and that the mate in command gave no permission, and caused defendant to be arrested on the spot, is sufficient to support a conviction, in the absence of evidence showing that permission had been given by the master. U. S. v. Anderson, supra.

86. Com. v. Kennedy, 160 Mass. 312, 35 N. E. 1131.

87. U. S. v. Sullivan, 43 Fed. 602; U. S. v. Anderson, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,447, 10 Blatchf. 226.

2. Destroying or Casting Away Vessel. By statute [88] it is made a crime punishable by death for a person not being an owner to wilfully and corruptly cast away or otherwise destroy on the high seas any vessel to which he belongs.[89] The act must be done wilfully and feloniously,[90] by a person not an owner,[91] and on the high seas.[92] The destruction of vessels on waters not within the maritime jurisdiction of the United States is sometimes provided against by state statutes.[93]

3. Navigating Steam Vessel Without Licensed Engineer. By statute the navigation of a vessel propelled by steam without a licensed engineer is made a crime.[94] Knowledge on the part of the owner that the engineer was not licensed is unnecessary.[95] The commission of this offense on waters not within the maritime jurisdiction of the United States is usually punished by state statutes.[96]

II. Title and Ownership.[97]

[Edited by Edward G. Benedict, Esq., of the New York Bar]

A. Modes of Acquiring Title. Title may be acquired by purchase [98] or by building. Under a contract for building an entire vessel, the general rule of

88. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 5366 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3642].

89. See cases cited infra, this note.

The legal meaning of the term "destroy," as used in the act of congress, is to unfit the vessel for service, beyond the hopes of recovery, by ordinary means. This, as to the extent of the injury, is synonymous with "cast away." Both mean such an act as causes the vessel to perish, to be lost, to be irrecoverable by ordinary means. U. S. v. Johns, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,481, 1 Wash. 363, 4 Dall. (Pa.) 412, 1 L. ed. 888.

Evidence.— In a prosecution for casting away and destroying a vessel with intent to prejudice the underwriters, evidence as to insurance on the cargo is inadmissible, as the underwriters meant in the law making such act an offense are those upon the vessel, and not those upon the cargo. U. S. v. Johns, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,481, 1 Wash. 363, 4 Dall. (Pa.) 412, 1 L. ed. 888. On an indictment for setting fire to a vessel on the high seas, the mere possibility that the fire might have been occasioned by spontaneous combustion or by accident is no answer to strong probable evidence against a prisoner. U. S. v. Lockman, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,620, Brunn. Col. Cas. 554.

90. U. S. v. Wilson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,731, 3 Blatchf. 435.

An indictment for wilfully setting fire to a ship at sea with intent to burn her, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 5367 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3642], is sufficient where it follows the words of the statute without alleging that the offense was feloniously committed. U. S. v. McAvoy, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,654, 4 Blatchf. 418, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 380.

91. U. S. v. Wilson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,731, 3 Blatchf. 435.

The fact that the owner is on board and authorizes or commands the destruction of the vessel is no defense to an indictment against the master for wilfully destroying her with intent to defraud the underwriters. U. S. v. Jacobson, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,461, Brunn. Col. Cas. 410; U. S. v. Vanranst, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,608, 3 Wash. 146.

A minor who ships on board a vessel without the knowledge of his parents may be convicted under this act. U. S. v. Lockman, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,620, Brunn. Col. Cas. 554.

92. U. S. v. Wilson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,731, 3 Blatchf. 435.

The place where the offense is committed is an essential element in the description of the crime. The mere fact that the accused wilfully destroyed the vessel, being upon waters within the jurisdiction of the United States, does not subject him to prosecution and punishment under this act, unless the vessel was at the time on the high seas. U. S. v. Wilson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,731, 3 Blatchf. 435. The Great Lakes are not "high seas," within the meaning of the act. Miller's Case, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,558, Brown Adm. 156.

93. Mass. Acts (1804), c. 131.

The crime of maliciously burning a "vessel lying in the body of any county," under Mass. Acts (1804), c. 121, is committed when the vessel burned lies in water which flows within the body of the county, in distinction from one upon the high seas and out of the body of the county. The language used does not mean a boat in an unfinished state, and still in the hands of the builder. Com. v. Francis, Thach. Cr. Cas. (Mass.) 240.

94. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4426 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3029].

By 29 U. S. St. at L. 489 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3029], one who navigates a gasoline launch in the carrying of passengers or freight for hire, without a licensed engineer, is guilty of a crime. U. S. v. Nash, 111 Fed. 525.

95. U. S. v. Sims, 9 Fed. 443.

96. Mass. Pub. St. c. 102, §§ 120–122.

An indictment for a violation of this statute, following the language of the statute, need not allege that the passenger was carried for hire, as the term "passenger" is used in the ordinary sense. Com. v. King, 150 Mass. 221, 22 N. E. 905, 5 L. R. A. 536.

97. Insurable interests of ship's owners, husband, vendor, or purchaser see Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 554 et seq.

98. See infra, II, E.

law is, that no property vests in the party for whom she is built until she is ready for delivery, and has been accepted or approved by such party,[99] at least as against third persons.[1] Nevertheless there is no arbitrary rule of construction controlling such agreements, but the question is one of intent, open in every case to be determined upon the terms of the contract, and the circumstances attending the transaction.[2] Accordingly the fact that the purchase-price of the vessel was to be paid in instalments as the work progressed,[3] and the further fact that the construction was to take place under the superintendence of an agent who was authorized to reject or approve any materials used in the construction or equipment of such vessel,[4] are not deemed in this country sufficient evidence of an intent that the property in the vessel should vest in the purchaser prior to final delivery. On the other hand, in England the inference from such facts is directly the reverse of that drawn here.[5] Of course parties may agree for the transfer of title in advance of delivery, and such agreement may be inferred in the absence 99. Low v. Austin, 20 N. Y. 181; Andrews v. Durant, 11 N. Y. 35, 62 Am. Dec. 55; Merritt v. Johnson, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 473, 5 Am. Dec. 289; Scull v. Shakespear, 75 Pa. St. 297; In re Reany Engineers, etc., Works, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 620; De Wolf v. Tupper, 24 Fed. 289; Clarke v. Spence, 4 A. & E. 448, 1 Harr. & W. 760, 5 L. J. K. B. 161, 6 N. & M. 399, 31 E. C. L. 206; Stringer v. Murray, 2 B. & Ald. 248; Laidler v. Burlinson, 6 L. J. Exch. 160, 2 M. & W. 602; Mucklow v. Mangles, 1 Taunt. 318, 9 Rev. Rep. 784.

1. The Sam Slick, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,283, 1 Sprague 289.

2. Andrews v. Durant, 11 N. Y. 35, 62 Am. Dec. 55; In re Reany Engineers, etc., Works, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 620; Clarkson v. Stevens, 106 U. S. 505, 1 S. Ct. 200, 27 L. ed. 139; The Poconoket, 67 Fed. 262 [affirmed in 70 Fed. 640, 17 C. C. A. 309 (affirmed in 168 U. S. 707, 18 S. Ct. 939, 42 L. ed. 1214)]; Anglo-Egyptian Nav. Co. v. Rennie, L. R. 10 C. P. 271, 44 L. J. C. P. 130, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 467, 23 Wkly. Rep. 626; Reid v. Fairbanks, 13 C. B. 692, 1 C. L. R. 787, 17 Jur. 918, 22 L. J. C. P. 206, 76 E. C. L. 692; Wood v. Bell, 5 E. & B. 772, 2 Jur. N. S. 349, 25 L. J. Q. B. 148, 4 Wkly. Rep. 202, 85 E. C. L. 772 [affirmed in 6 E. & B. 355, 2 Jur. N. S. 664, 25 L. J. Q. B. 321, 4 Wkly. Rep. 553, 88 E. C. L. 355].

Right to prove parol agreement.— Where a written contract for the construction of a vessel does not embody the entire agreement of the parties, and is absolutely silent on the subject of when the title should pass to the purchasers, it is proper to receive oral evidence of a parol agreement by and between the parties in regard thereto, made before the execution of the written contract. The Poconoket, 70 Fed. 640, 17 C. C. A. 309 [affirmed in 168 U. S. 707, 18 S. Ct. 939, 42 L. ed. 1214, and affirming 67 Fed. 262].

3. Massachusetts.—Williams v. Jackman, 16 Gray 514.

New Jersey.— Edwards v. Elliott, 36 N. J. L. 449, 13 Am. Rep. 463 [affirming 35 N. J. L. 265 (affirmed in 21 Wall. (U. S.) 532, 22 L. ed. 487)]; Stevens v. Shippen, 29 N. J. Eq. 602.

New York.— Andrews v. Durant, 11 N. Y. 35, 62 Am. Dec. 55.

Wisconsin.— Haney v. The Rosebelle, 20 Wis. 247.

United States.— Clarkson v. Stevens, 106 U. S. 505, 1 S. Ct. 200, 27 L. ed. 139; The Poconoket, 67 Fed. 262 [affirmed in 70 Fed. 640, 17 C. C. A. 309 (affirmed in 168 U. S. 707, 18 S. Ct. 939, 42 L. ed. 1214)]; The Revenue Cutter No. 2, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,714, 4 Sawy. 143. Contra, Sandford v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 27 Ind. 522; In re Derbyshire, 11 Phila. (Pa.) 627.

The stipulation for payments at particular stages of the work is a usual and almost necessary one in contracts involving a large expenditure. It is a mere arrangement for distributing the burden of expenditures incident to such a contract between the parties, and "only shows that the party advancing is willing thus to assist the artisan, provided he can see that the work is going on in good faith, so as to afford a reasonable prospect that he will realize the avails of his expenditure in a reasonable period." The Revenue Cutter No. 2, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,714, 4 Sawy. 143.

4. Andrews v. Durant, 11 N. Y. 35, 62 Am. Dec. 55; Clarkson v. Stevens, 106 U. S. 505, 1 S. Ct. 200, 27 L. ed. 139; The Revenue Cutter No. 2, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,714, 4 Sawy. 143, holding that the appointment and inspection of the agent were merely a prudent and convenient means to secure the faithful performance of the contract.

5. Seath v. Moore, 11 App. Cas. 350, 5 Aspin. 586, 55 L. J. P. C. 54, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 690; Clarke v. Spence, 4 A. & E. 448, 1 Harr. & W. 760, 5 L. J. K. B. 161, 6 N. & M. 399, 31 E. C. L. 206; Woods v. Russell, 5 B. & Ald. 942, 24 Rev. Rep. 621, 7 E. C. L. 512; Wood v. Bell, 5 E. & B. 772, 2 Jur. N. S. 349, 25 L. J. Q. B. 148, 4 Wkly. Rep. 202, 85 E. C. L. 772 [affirmed in 6 E. & B. 355, 2 Jur. N. S. 664, 25 L. J. Q. B. 321, 4 Wkly. Rep. 553, 88 E. C. L. 355]. And see Ex p. Lambton, L. R. 10 Ch. 405, 2 Aspin. 525, 44 L. J. Bankr. 81, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 380, 23 Wkly. Rep. 662; Clarke v. Millwall Dock Co., 17 Q. B. D. 494, 51 J. P. 5, 55 L. J. Q. B. 378, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 814, 34 Wkly. Rep. 698. Compare Anglo-Egyptian Nav. Co. v. Rennie, L. R. 10 C. P. 271, 44 L. J. C. P. 130, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 467, 23 of positive expression, where the contract and attendant circumstances justify it,[8] but the burden is on the purchaser to show the fact.[7]

B. Evidence of Title[8] — 1. In General. Since the title of a vessel may pass by delivery under a parol contract,[9] it is not necessary to prove ownership by the register, or by bill of sale or other instrument in writing; but parol evidence may be received for this purpose,[10] notwithstanding the legal title is shown by the register to be in other persons.[11] Actual possession by the party in whom the interest is alleged to be, and acts of ownership by him, are in cases of vessels, as with other personal property, presumptive evidence of title.[12] Where a prima facie case of ownership of a vessel is established, it at least shifts the burden of proof to show that such vessel was not under the control of the persons so established prima facie as owners.[13]

2. Registry and Enrolment — a. In General. The registry acts are considered as institutions purely local and municipal for purposes of public policy.[14]

Wkly. Rep. 626, where it was held that the provisions as to payment were not intended to have the effect of passing the property in each portion of work certified by the inspector as properly done to plaintiffs as and when his certificate was given.

6. See Glover v. Austin, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 209; The Poconoket, 67 Fed. 262 [affirmed in 70 Fed. 640, 17 C. C. A. 309 (affirmed in 168 U. S. 707, 18 S. Ct. 939, 42 L. ed. 1214)]; Seath v. Moore, 11 App. Cas. 350, 5 Aspin. 586, 55 L. J. P. C. 54, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 690.

7. Edwards v. Elliott, 36 N. J. L. 449, 13 Am. Rep. 463 [affirming 35 N. J. L. 265 (affirmed in 21 Wall. (U. S.) 532, 22 L. ed. 487)].

8. Evidence of sale see infra, II, E, 3.

Evidence that transaction constitutes mortgage see infra, II, F, 1.

9. See infra, II, E, 1.

10. Florida.— Leon v. Kerrion, 47 Fla. 178, 36 So. 173.

Louisiana.— Shields v. Perry, 16 La. 463.

Maine.— Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.

Massachusetts.— Vinal v. Burrill, 16 Pick. 401.

Minnesota.— McMahon v. Davidson, 12 Minn. 357.

Missouri.— Ward v. Bodeman, 1 Mo. App. 272.

New York.— Stacy v. Graham, 3 Duer 444 [affirmed in 14 N. Y. 492].

North Carolina.— Truett v. Chaplin, 11 N. C. 178.

Pennsylvania.—Richardson v. Montgomery, 49 Pa. St. 203.

United States.— Scudder v. Calais Steamboat Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,565, 1 Cliff. 370.

England.— Robertson v. French, 4 East 130, 4 Esp. 246, 7 Rev. Rep. 535, 102 Eng. Reprint 779.

Canada.— O'Neill v. Baker, 18 U. C. Q. B. 127.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 55.

If a plaintiff seeks to prove title by the register and fails, he cannot afterward prove a possessory title by parol evidence. Sherriff v. Cadell, 2 Esp. 616.

Evidence held insufficient to show ownership.— The Robert R. Kirkland, 153 Fed. 863, 83 C. C. A. 45 [affirming 143 Fed. 610].

Evidence held to establish prima facie case of ownership.— Carlson v. White Star Steamship Co., 39 Wash. 394, 81 Pac. 838.

Declaration of ownership.— A declaration of ownership is held to be prima facie evidence of ownership without the register. Tibbald v. Wood, 1 F. & F. 287.

Appearance in action.—In an action against the owners of a ship it is prima facie evidence of ownership to produce an undertaking to appear for them, given before the commencement of the action, by the person who subsequently acted as their attorney in defending it, in which he describes them as owners without further proof of agency. Marshall v. Cliff, 4 Campb. 133.

Documentary evidence is not necessary, unless the asserted ownership is denied, and the party has been called on to produce such documents. Bas v. Steele, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,088, 3 Wash. 381.

11. Vinal v. Burrill, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 140; Whiton v. Spring, 74 N. Y. 169; Stacy v. Graham, 3 Duer (N. Y.) 444 [affirmed in 14 N. Y. 492]; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 298; Wendover v. Hogeboom, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 308; Robertson v. French, 4 East 130, 4 Esp. 246, 7 Rev. Rep. 535, 102 Eng. Reprint 779.

12. Alabama.— Fontaine v. Beers, 19 Ala. 722.

California.— Bailey v. The New World, 2 Cal. 370.

Maine.— McLellan v. Osborne, 51 Me. 85; Badger v. Cumberland Bank, 26 Me. 428 (possession and receipt of earnings); Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.

Massachusetts.— Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray 482, 74 Am. Dec. 608.

New York.— Hesketh v. Stevens, 7 Barb. 488; Stacy v. Graham, 3 Duer 444 [affirmed in 14 N. Y. 492].

United States.— Bas v. Steel, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,088, 3 Wash. 381.

England.— Robertson v. French, 4 East 130, 4 Esp. 246, 7 Rev. Rep. 535, 102 Eng. Reprint 779.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," §§ 55, 56.

13. Vincent v. Soper Lumber Co., 113 Ill. App. 463.

14. Bradbury v. Johnson, 41 Me. 582, 66

The register therefore is not of itself evidence of property, except so far as it is confirmed by some auxiliary circumstance, showing that it was made by the authority or assent of the person named in it, and who is sought to be charged as owner.[15] Without such connecting proof the register has been held not to be even prima facie evidence to charge a person as owner;[16] and even with such proof it is not conclusive evidence of ownership; for an equitable title in one person may well consist with the documentary title, at the custom-house, in another.[17] Where, however, the question of ownership is merely incidental, the registry alone is deemed sufficient prima facie evidence.[18] But in favor of the person claiming as owner, it is no evidence at all, being nothing more than his declaration.[19] Nor is the enrolment of a vessel evidence of a higher nature than the registry.[20] There is no principle upon which it is admissible, as evidence of prop-

Am. Dec. 264; Miller v. Hill, 10 Humphr. (Tenn.) 470.

A certificate of registry is not a document of title, and does not necessarily contain notice of all changes of ownership. Card v. Hines, 35 Fed. 598.

15. California.— Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481 [overruled on other grounds in Curtiss v. Bachman, 84 Cal. 218, 24 Pac. 379].

Indiana.— Moore v. Anderson, 8 Ind. 18.

Louisiana.— Begley v. Morgan, 15 La. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 188; Ligon v. Orleans Nav. Co., 7 Mart N. S. 682.

Maine.— Dyer v. Snow, 47 Me. 254; Bradbury v. Johnson, 41 Me. 582, 66 Am. Dec. 264; Holmes v. Sprowl, 31 Me. 73.

Missouri.—Ward v. Bodeman, 1 Mo. App. 272.

New York.— Bryan v. Bowles, 1 Daly 171; Thorn v. Hicks, 7 Cow. 697; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. 298; Sharp v. United Ins. Co., 14 Johns. 201.

Pennsylvania.— Woods v. Courter, 1 Dall. 141, 1 L. ed. 73.

United States.— Bas v. Steele, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,088, 3 Wash. 381; Scudder v. Calais Steamboat Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,565, 1 Cliff. 370 [reversed on other grounds in 2 Black, 372, 17 L. ed. 282].

England.— Smith v. Fuge, 3 Campb. 456; Pirie v. Anderson, 3 Campb. 242 note, 4 Taunt. 652; Stokes v. Carne, 2 Campb. 339; Tinkler v. Walpole, 14 East 226, 104 Eng. Reprint 587; Ditchburn v. Spracklin, 5 Esp. 31; Cooper v. South, 4 Taunt. 802; Fraser v. Hopkins, 2 Taunt. 5.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 57.

Where the owner of a vessel actually procures its registry at the custom-house, making affidavit that he is the owner, it is evidence to charge him, although it may be rebutted. Bryan v. Bowles, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 171. In an action against a person, as owner, the register, if the oath of ownership is made by himself, is treated as an admission, which may be given in evidence to charge him. Bradbury v. Johnson, 41 Me. 582, 66 Am. Dec. 264.

A sworn copy of a steamboat register from the records of the custom-house is not prima facie evidence of ownership, even against the party making it, on affidavit, without the proof connecting the party charged with the register by his direct or accepted act. Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

16. California.— Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481 [overruled on other grounds in Curtiss v. Bachman, 84 Cal. 218, 24 Pac. 379].

Maine.— Bradbury v. Johnson, 41 Me. 582, 66 Am. Dec. 264.

New York.— Bryan v. Bowles, 1 Daly 171; Sharp v. United Ins. Co., 14 Johns. 201.

United States.— Scudder v. Calais Steamboat Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,565, 1 Cliff. 370.

England.— Pirie v. Anderson, 3 Campb. 242 note, 4 Taunt. 652; Fraser v. Hopkins, 2 Taunt. 5.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 57.

17. California.— Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481 [overruled on other grounds in Curtiss v. Bachman, 84 Cal. 218, 24 Pac. 379].

Connecticut.— Starr v. Knox, 2 Conn. 215.

Maine.— Bradbury v. Johnson, 41 Me. 582, 66 Am. Dec. 264; Colson v. Bonzey, 6 Me. 474.

Missouri.— Ward v. Bodeman, 1 Mo. App. 272.

New York.— Ring v. Franklin, 2 Hall 1; Baxter v. Wallace, 1 Daly 303; Bryan v. Bowles, 1 Daly 171.

United States.— Chickering v. Hatch, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,671, 1 Story 516.

England.— Hackwood v. Lyall, 17 C. B. 124, 2 Jur. N. S. 44 note, 25 L. J. C. P. 44 note, 84 E. C. L. 124; Brodie v. Howard, 17 C. B. 109, 1 Jur. N. S. 1209, 25 L. J. C. P. 57, 84 E. C. L. 109; Myers v. Willis, 17 C. B. 77, 2 Jur. N. S. 41, 25 L. J. C. P. 39, 4 Wkly. Rep. 42, 84 E. C. L. 77 [affirmed in 18 C. B. 886, 2 Jur. N. S. 788, 25 L. J. C. P. 255, 4 Wkly. Rep. 637, 86 E. C. L. 886]. Contra, under former law. Ex p. Houghton, 1 Rose 177, 17 Ves. Jr. 251, 11 Rev. Rep. 73, 34 Eng. Reprint 97; Ex p. Yallop, 15 Ves. Jr. 60, 10 Rev. Rep. 24, 33 Eng. Reprint 677.

Canada.— Schofield v. Anderson, 31 N. Brunsw. 518; Smith v. Fulton, 11 Nova Scotia 225.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 57.

18. Moore v. Anderson, 8 Ind. 18; Bradbury v. Johnson, 41 Me. 582, 66 Am. Dec. 264.

19. Moore v. Anderson, 8 Ind. 18; Bradbury v. Johnson, 41 Me. 582, 66 Am. Dec. 264; Flower v. Young, 3 Campb. 240. But see Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481 [overruled on other grounds in Curtiss v. Bachman, 84 Cal. 218, 24 Pac. 379].

20. Dyer v. Snow, 47 Me. 254.

erty, either in favor of or against persons named therein as part-owners, who were not instrumental in procuring it to be made, and who have neither authorized nor assented to it.[21] Without such connecting proof, the enrolment has not been held to be even prima facie proof, to charge a person as owner,[22] and even with such proof it is not conclusive evidence of ownership.[23] But, upon an incidental question, not affecting the title of the parties, it is competent evidence; and, unless contradicted by clear evidence, will be held conclusive as to the port or place to which the vessel belongs.[24]

b. In Criminal Cases. In a criminal prosecution the registry of a vessel is no evidence of ownership by a citizen of the United States.[25] The fact of ownership must be proved as any other fact by witnesses whom defendant may cross-examine.[26] It is, however, prima facie evidence of the national character of the vessel.[27]

3. Bill of Sale. A bill of sale of a vessel is competent evidence of title in the purchaser,[28] but it is not conclusive evidence.[29]

C. Part-Owners[30] — 1. Nature of Interest. As a general rule the several owners of a merchant vessel or steamboat hold their respective interests therein as tenants in common and not as copartners, and consequently are to be governed by the rules of law applicable to that species of tenure.[31] But to this rule there 21. Alexander's Succession, 18 La. Ann. 337; Miller v. Hill, 10 Humphr. (Tenn.) 470; The Nancy Dell, 14 Fed. 744; Dudley v. The Superior, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,115, Newb. Adm. 176.

An enrolment by one who has the custody and control of the vessel is not merely an enrolment; it is a solemn and formal declaration that he holds for those who are set forth as owners on the face of the enrolment, which makes his possession theirs, and raises that presumption in favor of their right, which the law always attaches to possession until rebutted by countervailing proof. Hall v. Insurance Co., 3 Phila. (Pa.) 331.

22. Dyer v. Snow, 47 Me. 254; Dudley v. The Superior, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,115, Newb. Adm. 176.

23. Dyer v. Snow, 47 Me. 254; Jordan v. Young, 37 Me. 276; Colson v. Bonzey, 6 Me. 474; Bixby v. Franklin Ins. Co., 8 Pick. (Mass.) 86.

24. Dudley v. The Superior, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,115, Newb. Adm. 176.

25. U. S. v. Brune, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,677, 2 Wall. Jr. 264.

26. U. S. v. Brune, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,677, 2 Wall. Jr. 264.

27. Reg. v. Bjornsen, 10 Cox C. C. 74, 11 Jur. N. S. 589, L. & C. 545, 34 L. J. M. C. 180, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 473, 13 Wkly. Rep. 664.

Entry in the book of registry of the bill of sale of part of a ship has been held sufficient evidence of ownership in a criminal case. Rex v. Philp, 1 Moody C. C. 263.

28. Johnson v. Martin, 68 Miss. 330, 8 So. 847; Lord v. Ferguson, 9 N. H. 380.

29. Colson v. Bonzey, 6 Me. 474; Bixby v. Franklin Ins. Co., 8 Pick. (Mass.) 86; Hozey v. Buchanan, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 215, 10 L. ed. 941.

30. Maritime lien of part-owner see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 757.

Contribution between part-owners see Tenancy in Common.

31. Alabama.— Jones v. Sims, 6 Port. 138.

Florida.— Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332; Allen v. Hawley, 6 Fla. 142, 63 Am. Dec. 198.

Kentucky.— Patterson v. Chalmers, 7 B. Mon. 595; Lyon v. Johnson, 3 Dana 544.

Louisiana.— Woods v. Pickett, 30 La. Ann. 1095; Owens v. Davis, 15 La. Ann. 22; Whipple v. Hill, 14 La. Ann. 437; Byrne v. Hooper, 2 Rob. 229. And see Baldwin v. Gray, 4 Mart. N. S. 192, 16 Am. Dec. 169; Carroll v. Waters, 9 Mart. 500, 13 Am. Dec. 316.

Maryland.— Milburn v. Guyther, 8 Gill 92, 50 Am. Dec. 681.

Massachusetts.—Atkins v. Lewis, 168 Mass. 534, 47 N. E. 507; Thorndike v. De Wolf, 6 Pick. 120.

Minnesota.— Russell v. Minnesota Outfit, 1 Minn. 162.

Missouri.— Saltmarsh v. Rowe, 10 Mo. 38; Ward v. Bodeman, 1 Mo. App. 272.

New York.— Donnell v. Walsh, 33 N. Y. 43, 88 Am. Dec. 361; Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N. Y. 685; Wright v. Marshall, 3 Daly 331; Bishop v. Edmiston, 16 Abb. Pr. 466; Nicoll v. Mumford, 4 Johns. Ch. 522 [reversed on other grounds in 20 Johns. 611].

Pennsylvania.—Croasdale v. Von Boyneburgk, 195 Pa. St. 377, 46 Atl. 6; Adams v. Carroll, 85 Pa. St. 209; Hopkins v. Forsyth, 14 Pa. St. 34, 53 Am. Dec. 513; Endsor v. Simpson, 12 Phila. 392.

Virginia.— Briggs v. Barnett, 108 Va. 404, 61 S. E. 797.

United States.— The Ole Oleson, 20 Fed. 384; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Bradshaw v. The Sylph, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,791; De Wolf v. Howland, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,852, 2 Paine 356; The Larch, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,085, 2 Curt. 427; Magruder v. Bowie, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,964, 2 Cranch C. C. 577; Montell v. The William H. Rutan, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,724; Revens v. Lewis, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,711, 2 Paine 202; The Brig Sally, 41 Ct. Cl. 431.

England.—Frazer v. Cuthbertson, 6 Q. B. D. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396; may be exceptions, either growing out of the express agreement of the parties, or to be implied from the nature and character of the business or adventure in which they may be engaged.[32] Thus owners of a vessel may enter into a special agreement constituting them partners.[33] Likewise they may become partners in a trade or business in which the vessel is employed.[34] But, when it is claimed that such relation exists, it must be averred and proved by competent testimony. It cannot be inferred from the joint ownership alone.[35]

2. Rights and Liabilities[36] — a. In General. The powers and rights of coöwners of ships are in general essentially the same as in the case of other tenants in common in any other chattels.[37] The power of one part-owner to bind another depends upon the question of authority, which is always a mere question of fact.[38]

Holderness v. Shackels, 8 B. & C. 612, 7 L. J. K. B. O. S. 80, 3 M. & R. 25, 15 E. C. L. 303; Helme v. Smith, 7 Bing. 709, 9 L. J. C. P. O. S. 206, 5 M. & P. 744, 20 E. C. L. 316; Brodie v. Howard, 17 C. B. 109, 1 Jur. N. S. 1209, 25 L. J. C. P. 57, 84 E. C. L. 109; Green v. Briggs, 6 Hare 395, 12 Jur. 326, 17 L. J. Ch. 323, 31 Eng. Ch. 395, 67 Eng. Reprint 1219; The Spirit of the Ocean, 34 L. J. Adm. 74, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 239; Ex p. Young, 2 Rose 78 note, 2 Ves. & B. 242, 13 Rev. Rep. 73, 35 Eng. Reprint 311 [overruling Doddington v. Hallet, 1 Ves. 496, 27 Eng. Reprint 1165]; Buxton v. Snee, 1 Ves. 155, 27 Eng. Reprint 952.

Canada.— Bentley v. Murphy, 1 Ont. Wkly. Rep. 726; Baker v. Casey, 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 537.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 72.

Running a steamboat on shares does not make the owners partners in respect to the vessel. The Daniel Kaine, 35 Fed. 785.

32. Allen v. Hawley, 6 Fla. 142, 63 Am. Dec. 198.

33. Alabama.— Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

Kentucky.— Patterson v. Chalmers, 7 B. Mon. 595.

Maine.— Phillips v. Purington, 15 Me. 425; Harding v. Foxcroft, 6 Me. 76.

New York.— Dunham v. Jarvis, 8 Barb. 88, 2 Edm. Sel. Cas. 145; Mumford v. Nicoll, 20 Johns. 611.

Pennsylvania.— Hopkins v. Forsyth, 14 Pa. St. 34, 53 Am. Dec. 513.

United States.— Revens v. Lewis, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,711, 2 Paine 202; The Swallow, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,665, Olcott 334.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 72.

Where partnership funds are invested in the purchase of a steamboat, in the absence of any positive stipulations between the part-owners to the contrary, they will hold their respective interests in strict partnership and the property will be subject to the law of partnership. Allen v. Hawley, 6 Fla. 142, 63 Am. Dec. 198; Ward v. Bodeman, 1 Mo. App. 272.

34. Alabama.— Jones v. Sims, 6 Port. 138; Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

Louisiana.— Woods v. Pickett, 30 La. Ann. 1095; Owens v. Davis, 15 La. Ann. 22; Whipple v. Hill, 14 La. Ann. 437; Violett v. Fairchild, 6 La. Ann. 193; Lacoste v. Sellick, 1 La. Ann. 336; Byrne v. Hooper, 2 Rob. 229; Banchor v. Bell, 2 Rob. 182; Black v. Savory, 17 La. 85; Burke v. Clarke, 11 La. 206; David v. Eloi, 4 La. 106; Kimbal v. Blanc, 8 Mart. N. S. 386.

Minnesota.— Russell v. Minnesota Outfit, 1 Minn. 162.

New York.— Donnell v. Walsh, 33 N. Y. 43, 88 Am. Dec. 361; Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N. Y. 685.

Pennsylvania.— Croasdale v. Von Boyneburgk, 195 Pa. St. 377, 46 Atl. 6; Adams v. Carroll, 85 Pa. St. 209.

England.— Holderness v. Shackels, 8 B. & C. 612, 7 L. J. K. B. O. S. 80, 3 M. & R. 25, 15 E. C. L. 303; Green v. Briggs, 6 Hare 395, 12 Jur. 326, 17 L. J. Ch. 323, 31 Eng. Ch. 395, 67 Eng. Reprint 1219.

Canada.— Baker v. Casey, 19 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 537.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 72.

Effect of change of ownership.— Every change in the owners of a boat while she is engaged in carrying passengers and merchandise for hire creates and constitutes a new partnership. Violet v. Fairchild, 6 La. Ann. 193.

35. Harding v. Foxcroft, 6 Me. 76; Croasdale v. Von Boyneburgk, 195 Pa. St. 377, 46 Atl. 6.

Admissibility of declarations of alleged partners.— On the question whether a partnership did or did not exist, the declarations of the alleged partners, unaccompanied by acts, and unconnected with any of their declarations proved by the other party, are inadmissible in their own favor. Phillips v. Purington, 15 Me. 425.

36. Right to purchase at sale by master see infra, IV, A, 2.

Liability for torts see infra, V, C, 1, d.

Liability for destruction of vessel while in possession as charterer see infra, III, N.

Effect of limited liability act see infra, XI, A–E.

37. Briggs v. Barnett, 108 Va. 404, 61 S. E. 797.

38. Stedman v. Feidler, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 605 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 437]. And see infra, II, C, 2, e.

Part-owner as master.— The master of a vessel, who is also part-owner, must be considered as agent for the owners, where they do not interfere, and a contract made by him in his own name inures to their use and is

An individual part-owner has no power, by virtue of his relation to his coöwners, to bind them in relation to any matters beyond the necessary and regular use of the vessel.[39] He cannot sell [40] or mortgage [41] the interests of his coöwners, draw drafts or notes in their name,[42] apply the freight earned in payment of his individual debt,[43] or procure insurance for the other owners [44] unless a partnership relation exists between them; [45] nor can it be inferred from the general authority of the ship's husband.[46] It is necessary to show an authority to procure the insurance for the other owners,[47] or a subsequent ratification.[48]

b. As to Use and Control of Vessel — (I) In General. As between part-owners, those owning a majority in interest have the right to control the use of the ship,[49] upon giving security by stipulation to the minority, if required, to bring back and restore the ship to them, or in case of her loss to pay them the value of their shares,[50] in which case the minority owners will not be entitled to binding on them. Baker v. Corey, 19 Pick. (Mass.) 496.

39. Montell v. The William H. Rutan, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,724.

40. See infra, II, E, 1.

41. Donald v. Hewitt, 33 Ala. 534, 73 Am. Dec. 431.

42. Brooks v. Harris, 12 Ala. 555; Woods v. Pickett, 30 La. Ann. 1095; Oglesby v. The D. S. Stacy, 10 La. Ann. 117; Whiton v. Spring, 74 N. Y. 169.

43. Jones v. Sims, 9 Port. (Ala.) 236, 33 Am. Dec. 313; Donovan v. Dymond, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,993, 3 Woods 141. And see Green v. Briggs, 6 Hare 395, 12 Jur. 326, 17 L. J. Ch. 323, 31 Eng. Ch. 395, 67 Eng. Reprint 1219.

44. Indiana.— Holcroft v. Wilkes, 16 Ind. 373.

Louisiana.—Woods v. Pickett, 30 La. Ann. 1095.

Maine.— Sawyer v. Freeman, 35 Me. 542; Blanchard v. Waite, 28 Me. 51, 48 Am. Dec. 474.

Massachusetts.— Finney v. Fairhaven Ins. Co., 5 Metc. 192, 38 Am. Dec. 397; Foster v. U. S. Ins. Co., 11 Pick. 85.

New York.— McCready v. Woodhull, 34 Barb. 80.

England.— Hooper v. Lusby, 4 Campb. 66; Bell v. Humphries, 2 Stark. 345, 3 E. C. L. 438; Ogle v. Wrangham, Abbott Shipp. (13th ed.) 96.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 61.

45. Hooper v. Lusby, 4 Campb. 66.

46. See infra, II, D.

47. Woods v. Pickett, 30 La. Ann. 1095; Blanchard v. Waite, 28 Me. 51, 48 Am. Dec. 474; Lindsay v. Gibbs, 3 De G. & J. 690, 5 Jur. N. S. 376, 28 L. J. Ch. 692, 7 Wkly. Rep. 320, 60 Eng. Ch. 533, 44 Eng. Reprint 1435; Ogle v. Wrangham, Abbott Shipp. (13th ed.) 96.

48. Woods v. Pickett, 30 La. Ann. 1095; Blanchard v. Waite, 28 Me. 51, 48 Am. Dec. 474; Ogle v. Wrangham, Abbott Shipp. (13th ed.) 96.

The bringing of an action on the policy in their names is a sufficient ratification. Finney v. Fairhaven Ins. Co., 5 Metc. (Mass.) 192, 38 Am. Dec. 397.

49. Connecticut.— Southworth v. Smith, 27 Conn. 355, 71 Am. Dec. 72; Gould v. Stanton, 16 Conn. 12; Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn. 218 note.

Florida.— Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332.

Georgia.—Swift v. Tatner, 89 Ga. 660, 15 S. E. 842, 32 Am. St. Rep. 101.

Louisiana.— Jouanneau v. Shannon, 4 La. Ann. 330.

Maine.— Hall v. Thing, 23 Me. 461.

Minnesota.— Swain v. Knapp, 34 Minn. 232, 25 N. W. 397.

New York.— Stedman v. Feidler, 25 Barb. 605 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 437].

Pennsylvania.— Paynter v. Paynter, 7 Phila. 336.

United States.— The Orleans, 11 Pet. 175, 9 L. ed. 677; Clayton v. The Eliza B. Emory, 4 Fed. 342; Diedman v. The Joseph Hume, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,901; Revens v. Lewis, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,711, 2 Paine 202; Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236; Willings v. Blight, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,765, 2 Pet. Adm. 288.

England.— Falkland v. Cheney, 5 Bro. P. C. 476, 2 Eng. Reprint 807; Japp v. Campbell, 57 L. J. Q. B. 79.

Canada.— Merchants' Bank v. Graham, 27 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 524.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 63.

Removal of master see infra, IV, A, 4.

Reason of rule.— It is considered to be for the interest of the country as well as of the ship-owners that ships should be employed; and it is more reasonable that they should be employed at the will of the majority, than that the minority should elect, or that they should remain unemployed. Gould v. Stanton, 16 Conn. 12. There must necessarily be a discretion intrusted for the benefit of all to the owners of a major part, to enable them to take advantage of the changing aspects of business, and to secure the benefit of adventures holding out the prospect of favorable results, to change the employment of the vessel from the performance of foreign voyages, to the coasting trade, and the fishing business, if the vessel be of a suitable character for such employment. Hall v. Thing, 23 Me. 461.

Minority should be informed of voyage intended.— Willings v. Blight, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,765, 2 Pet. Adm. 288.

50. Connecticut.— Southworth v. Smith, 27 Conn. 355, 71 Am. Dec. 72; Gould v. Stan-share in the profits or be liable for the expenses of running the ship.[51] And the minority owners may employ the ship, in the like manner, if the majority decline to employ her at all.[52] In these cases a court of admiralty will if necessary compel the dissenting part-owners, if they are in possession of the ship, to yield the property to those who have thus the right to employ it for that purpose.[53] ton, 16 Conn. 12; Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn. 218 note.

Florida.— Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332.

Minnesota.— Swain v. Knapp, 34 Minn. 232, 25 N. W. 397.

New York.— Stedman v. Feidler, 25 Barb. 605 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 437].

Pennsylvania.— Paynter v. Paynter, 7 Phila. 336.

United States.— The Orleans, 11 Pet. 175, 9 L. ed. 677; Coyne v. Caples, 8 Fed. 638, 7 Sawy. 360; Fox v. Paine, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,014, Crabbe 271; Sturges v. The Mary Staples, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,566*a*; Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236.

England.— The England, 12 P. D. 32, 6 Aspin. 140, 56 L. J. Adm. 115, 56 L. T. Rep. N. S. 896, 35 Wkly. Rep. 367; The Robert Dickinson, 10 P. D. 15, 5 Aspin. 341, 54 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 5, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 55, 33 Wkly. Rep. 400; Japp v. Campbell, 57 L. J. Q. B. 79.

Canada.— Merchants' Bank v. Graham, 27 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 524.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 65.

Subject only to this right of the minority owner, the majority owners have unlimited control over his interest. They may at all times employ the ship as they please without consulting him, and in case of his dissent, for their own exclusive use and profit. Stedman v. Feidler, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 605 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 437].

The object of the bond is not to exempt from personal liability, but to save the dissentient part-owner from the loss of his interest in the vessed or of injury to it through the contemplated voyage, which mere dissent would not secure to him. Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547.

Intemperance of the master is a sufficient ground for a decree in admiralty requiring the majority owners of a vessel to give the dissenting owners a stipulation for her safe return from a proposed foreign voyage. Bragdon v. The Kitty Simpson, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,798.

Unregistered owner.— Where a part-owner of a vessel, known to be such by the other owners, omits to comply with the requisitions of the registry act, etc., without any fraudulent intent, and one of the other owners obtains an enrolment of the vessel, and swears that he and other persons own her, and totally omits the name of such part-owner, the latter, upon application to the court, is entitled to an order that the other owners shall give security for the safety of the vessel on a voyage not approved by him. Fox v. Paine, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,014, Crabbe 271.

Necessity of demand for security.— A dissenting owner is not bound to demand a bond, and failure to do so will not prevent his recovering costs on a libel to secure such bond. Sturges v. The Mary Staples, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,566*a*.

Amount of bond.— In England the dissenting owner is entitled to a bond conditioned at the agreed or appraised value of his share. The England, 12 P. D. 32, 6 Aspin. 140, 56 L. J. Adm. 115, 56 L. T. Rep. N. S. 896, 35 Wkly. Rep. 367; The Robert Dickinson, 10 P. D. 15, 5 Aspin. 341, 54 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 5, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 55, 33 Wkly Rep. 400. In this country the practice is usually to require a bond in double the value of such share. Fox v. Paine, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,014, Crabbe 271; The Marengo, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,066, 1 Sprague 506. If the parties cannot agree on the value of the shares they must be appraised in the usual way. The Robert Dickinson, 10 P. D. 15, 5 Aspin. 341, 54 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 5, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 55, 33 Wkly. Rep. 400.

The stipulation is in its nature provisional. — It is not treated or allowed as a continuing, permanent arrangement, by which the rights of an owner are protected and preserved; but simply as a present measure of relief, afforded in a particular case, for a particular voyage. Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236. And see Rodick v. Hinckley, 8 Me. 274. But the stipulation may be so worded as to cover more than one voyage. See The Vivienne, 12 P. D. 185, 6 Aspin. 178, 56 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 107, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 316, 36 Wkly. Rep. 110.

Compliance with condition.— The condition of the bond must be fairly complied with. Rodick v. Hinckley, 8 Me. 274. Thus a stipulation for the safe return of a vessel to a named port is not satisfied by her return to another port. The Susan E. Voorhis, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,633, 10 Ben. 380; The Regalia, 5 Aspin. 338, 51 L. T. Rep. N. S. 904. Compare The Margaret, 2 Hagg. Adm. 275.

51. See infra, II, C, 2, c.

52. Southworth v. Smith, 27 Conn. 355, 71 Am. Dec. 72; Gould v. Stanton, 16 Conn. 12; The Orleans, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 175, 9 L. ed. 677; Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236. See also Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332.

53. Southworth v. Smith, 27 Conn. 355, 71 Am. Dec. 72; Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332.

Purpose of interference.— These rules have been adopted only for the purpose of providing that the ship should not be kept idle, but employed where it is desired by any of the owners, notwithstanding the others may object, and it is only for the purpose of carrying that object into effect that the courts will interfere in the manner which has been stated. Southworth v. Smith, 27 Conn. 355, 71 Am. Dec. 72. But where it does not appear that it is the object of a portion of the

(11) Sale in Case of Disagreement. In England it was formerly held that a court of admiralty had no power to order the sale of a vessel in case of disagreement among joint owners,[54] but the law is now otherwise.[55] In this country it seems to be well established that where the equal part-owners of a vessel cannot agree concerning her use and employment, a court of admiralty has jurisdiction, upon the application of either party, to compel a sale of the same and divide the proceeds between the owners;[56] but, where the disagreement arises between unequal owners, the jurisdiction is doubted and denied.[57] The disagreement which will justify a sale must be a disagreement as to the manner in which the vessel shall be employed, and not upon the question of employment or not.[58]

c. As to Profits and Expenses. By the common law one tenant in common having possession of a chattel may use it for his own exclusive benefit, and while doing so he alone is liable for all charges affecting it.[59] This rule, applied to ships, has been so far modified as to entitle each part-owner to share in the profits, and to render him liable for the expenses, of the vessel, unless he has dissented from the voyage.[60] But part-owners who dissent from the voyage and take owners of a ship, in applying for the possession of it, to employ it themselves, or no purpose appears excepting merely to procure a transfer of the possession of the vessel to themselves, such interposition, as it would be wholly useless, would be refused. Southworth v. Smith, supra.

54. The Apollo, 1 Hagg. Adm. 306; Ouston v. Hebden, 1 Wils. C. P. 101, 95 Eng. Reprint 515.

55. Since the passing of the 8th section of the Admiralty Court Act of 1861, the court has a discretionary power to order the sale of a vessel proceeded against in an action of coöwnership, notwithstanding the sale is opposed by the majority of the coöwners. The Nelly Schneider, 3 P. D. 152, 4 Aspin. 54, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 360, 27 Wkly. Rep. 308.

56. Coyne v. Caples, 8 Fed. 638, 7 Sawy. 360; Burr v. The St. Thomas, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,194*a* (holding further that a motion founded on affidavits made by the half owners in possession for leave to retain and employ the vessel, upon giving security for one half her value, will not be considered, on the application for sale, where no answer has been filed); Lewis v. Kinney, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,325, 5 Dill. 159; The Ocean Belle, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,402, 6 Ben. 253; The Seneca, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,670, 3 Wall. Jr. 395, 6 Pa. L. J. 213 [reversing 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,650, Gilp. 10]; Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236; The Vincennes, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,944. In Tunno v. The Betsina, supra, the court mentions three cases in which a sale may be ordered. The first case is illustrated by a disagreement between owners equal in interest, and both desiring to employ the vessel. The second case is where the minority do not wish to employ the vessel, but the majority who wish to employ the vessel cannot give a sufficient stipulation. The third case is where a majority in value showing it to be for the general good ask for a sale.

Sale to terminate receivership.— Where, on account of litigation between part-owners of a vessel, it has been sailed under the direction of a receiver for two years, and must be fitted out for another season or lie useless, the sale of the property will be ordered to terminate the receivership, it being inconvenient that the court should conduct operations for so long a time. Crane v. Ford, Hopk. (N. Y.) 114.

57. The Orleans, 11 Pet. (U. S.) 175, 183, 9 L. ed. 677 (where it is said: "The jurisdiction of courts of admiralty in cases of part-owners, having unequal interests and shares, is not, and never has been, applied to direct a sale, upon any dispute between them as to the trade and navigation of a ship engaged in maritime voyages, properly so called"); Coyne v. Caples, 8 Fed. 638, 7 Sawy. 360; Bradshaw v. The Sylph, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,791; Lewis v. Kinney, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,325, 5 Dill. 159; The Ocean Belle, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,402, 6 Ben. 253; Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236.

58. The Annie H. Smith, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 420, 10 Ben. 110; Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236.

The sale of a vessel is not encouraged because the interference of the court in aiding a discontented part-owner to force a sale would in many cases serve only to gratify caprice or passion, tend to the injury of other part-owners, and invite frequent and injurious interruptions of commercial operations. Tunno v. The Betsina, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,236.

59. See Tenancy in Common.

60. Connecticut.— Gould v. Stanton, 16 Conn. 12; Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn. 218 note.

Georgia.— Swift v. Tatner, 89 Ga. 660, 15 S. E. 842, 32 Am. St. Rep. 101.

Maine.— Hall v. Thing, 23 Me. 461.

United States.— Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547.

England.— The Vindobala, 13 P. D. 42, 57 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 37, 58 L. T. Rep. N. S. 353 [reversed, it seems, on other grounds in 14 P. D. 50, 6 Aspin. 376, 58 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 51, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 657, 37 Wkly. Rep. 409]; Anonymous, Skin. 230, 90 Eng.

security for the safe return of the vessel are no longer entitled to share in the profits, or liable for the expenses.[61] Some cases appear to hold that the taking of a bond is necessary to render the dissent effective;[62] but the better rule is that, while the taking of a bond is the best evidence that the dissenting owner abandoned all control and interest in the voyage, it is not the only evidence, and proof of actual dissent is sufficient.[63] So a part-owner who dissents from the authority of the managing coöwner to bind him for supplies is no longer entitled to share the profits, or liable for the expenses; and this, whether the creditors have notice or not of his dissent.[64]

d. As to Loss or Injury of Vessel or Cargo — (i) Between Themselves.[65] One joint owner of a vessel cannot maintain an action against his coöwner for a conversion thereof,[66] except in case of a total destruction, or something equivalent thereto, through the fault of such coöwner.[67] Injury to or loss of the vessel by negligence is not sufficient.[68]

Reprint 106; Strelly v. Winson, 1 Vern. Ch. 297, 23 Eng. Reprint 480.

Canada.— Merchants' Bank v. Graham, 27 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 524.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 66.

Ownership prima facie evidence of right to share of earnings.— Call v. Houdlette, 70 Me. 308.

Money paid to part-owners for their votes in the appointment of a captain is no profit of the ship. Moffatt v. Farquharson, 2 Bro. Ch. 338, 29 Eng. Ch. 189.

61. Florida.— Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332.

Minnesota.— Swain v. Knapp, 34 Minn. 232, 25 N. W. 397.

New York.— Stedman v. Feidler, 25 Barb. 605 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 437].

United States.— Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; The Marengo, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,065, 1 Lowell 52.

England.— The England, 12 P. D. 32, 6 Aspin. 140, 56 L. J. Adm. 115, 56 L. T. Rep. N. S. 896, 35 Wkly. Rep. 367.

Canada.— Merchants' Bank v. Graham, 27 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 524.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 66.

Liability for expenses incurred previous to taking bond.— A part-owner who takes security is not entitled to share in the profits of the voyage, but he may be liable for expenses incurred in fitting out the vessel for the voyage, previous to the taking of the security. Davis v. Johnston, 4 Sim. 539, 6 Eng. Ch. 539, 58 Eng. Reprint 202.

62. Gould v. Stanton, 17 Conn. 377; Gould v. Stanton, 16 Conn. 12; Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn. 218 note; Jouanneau v. Shannon, 4 La. Ann. 330.

63. Massachusetts.— Taylor v. Richards, 3 Gray 326.

Minnesota.— Swain v. Knapp, 34 Minn. 232, 25 N. W. 397.

New York.— Stedman v. Feidler, 20 N. Y. 437 [affirming 25 Barb. 605].

United States.— Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547.

England.— Frazer v. Cuthbertson, 6 Q. B. D. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396; Horn v. Gilpin, Ambl. 255, 27 Eng. Reprint 170; Anonymous, Skin. 230, 90 Eng. Reprint 106; Strelly v. Winson, 1 Vern. Ch. 297, 23 Eng. Reprint 480.

Express dissent necessary to relieve from liability.— Holmes v. Bigelow, 3 Desauss. Eq. (S. C.) 497.

Where a part-owner of a vessel employs her on his own account and risk, the other part-owners are not entitled to a share of the profits arising from such employment. Coyne v. Caples, 8 Fed. 638, 7 Sawy. 360.

64. Stedman v. Feidler, 20 N. Y. 437 [affirming 25 Barb. 605].

65. Sale by part-owner as conversion see Tenancy in Common.

66. Lowthorp v. Smith, 2 N. C. 255; Alderson v. Schulze, 64 Wis. 460, 24 N. W. 492; Knight v. Coates, L. R. 1 Ir. 53; Barnardiston v. Chapman [cited in Heath v. Hubbard, 4 East 110, 121, 102 Eng. Reprint 771]; Graves v. Saucer, 1 Keb. 38, 83 Eng. Reprint 798, 1 Lev. 29, 83 Eng. Reprint 281, T. Raym. 15, 83 Eng. Reprint 8; Rourke v. Union Ins. Co., 23 Can. Sup. Ct. 344; McNabb v. Howland, 11 U. C. C. P. 434.

67. Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332; Alderson v. Schulze, 64 Wis. 460, 24 N. W. 492; Rourke v. Union Ins. Co., 23 Can. Sup. Ct. 344.

What constitutes "destruction."— Actual destruction is unnecessary; it is sufficient if plaintiff's right of recaption is put an end to by the act of defendant. Knight v. Coates, L. R. 1 Ir. 53. In Lowthorp v. Smith, 2 N. C. 255, it is held that if a joint owner of a vessel, after getting sole possession, shall, without consent or against the will of the other owner, send the vessel to sea, and she is lost, the jury may consider such loss as a destruction of the vessel. And see Barnardiston v. Chapman [cited in Heath v. Hubbard, 4 East 110, 121, 102 Eng. Reprint 771]. In Kellum v. Knechdt, 17 Hun (N. Y.) 583, it was held that an action can be maintained against tenants in common as wrongdoers, when it appears that, by their unjust acts, any destruction of the joint property or profits is accomplished, as by interruption of a voyage for which the vessel was under charter.

68. Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332; Moody v. Buck, 1 Sandf. (N. Y.) 304 (even though one assumed the management, etc., without the license or consent of the other); Alderson v. Schulze, 64 Wis. 460, 24 N. W. 492. But see Berthond v. Gordon, 6 La. 579; Ralston

(II) As to Third Persons. If the owners of a vessel are not concerned in its navigation, they are not, upon the ground of ownership, liable for the loss of goods shipped on board of it;[69] but if they are entitled to its earnings, and jointly liable for losses, they may be regarded as partners, so far as it relates to all liabilities incurred by the injury or destruction of the vessel.[70]

e. As to Repairs and Supplies. As a general rule one part-owner may bind the others for necessary supplies and repairs for a ship, procured on credit, and render his coöwners liable to be sued for the price of them.[71] This authority arises where there is an implied agency on the part of one part-owner to act for the rest;[72] but it is subject to be modified, controlled, or negatived by other facts

v. Barclay, 6 Mart. (La.) 649, 12 Am. Dec. 483, both of which cases hold that one part-owner of a steamboat, acting as agent for another at a distance to insure the latter's interest, and discontinuing such insurance without instructions from or notice to him, will be liable for any resulting loss.

The reason is that each cotenant may protect himself and need not leave the property in the uncontrolled possession of the other unless he choose to do so; and if he does so choose he must take the consequences. Hyer v. Caro, 17 Fla. 332.

69. Jones v. Sims, 6 Port. (Ala.) 138.

70. Jones v. Scott, 2 Ala. 58; Jones v. Sims, 6 Port. (Ala.) 138; Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716; Hadfield v. Jameson, 2 Munf. (Va.) 53.

After death of coöwner.— Where one of the part-owners of a steamer, in the exercise of his legal rights, continues the steamer in her usual trade, after the death of his co-proprietor, without objection on the part of the heirs or representatives of the deceased, any loss resulting from an explosion of her boilers must be borne by the co-proprietors in proportion to their respective interests, unless it be shown to have resulted from the negligence or misconduct of the surviving part-owner. Jouanneau v. Shannon, 4 La. Ann. 330.

71. Kentucky.— Patterson v. Chalmers, 7 B. Mon. 595.

Louisiana.— Woods v. Pickett, 30 La. 1095.

Maine.— Bowen v. Peters, 71 Me. 463; Elder v. Larrabee, 45 Me. 590, 71 Am. Dec. 567; Hall v. Thing, 23 Me. 461; Harding v. Foxcroft, 6 Me. 76.

Michigan.—Sheehan v. Dalrymple, 19 Mich. 239.

Missouri.— Saltmarsh v. Rowe, 10 Mo. 38.

New York.— McCready v. Thorn, 51 N. Y. 454; Stedman v. Feidler, 20 N. Y. 437 [affirming 25 Barb. 605]; King v. Lowry, 20 Barb. 532.

Pennsylvania.— Scottin v. Stanley, 1 Dall. 129, 1 L. ed. 67, holding that part-owners of a vessel are liable for articles furnished and work done to the ship after they became owners, if such articles or work are charged to the ship, although the contract was made before they became owners.

United States.— Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745.

Canada.— Cobb v. Turner, 2 Nova Scotia 332.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 67.

Compare The William Thomas v. Ellis, 4 Harr. (Del.) 309, holding that a part-owner of a vessel who is not the master or ship's husband cannot order repairs and sue his partner at law for his share of the expense.

Authority in home port.— A part-owner of a vessel who has not the general legal authority of a master, or the special authority of a ship's husband or agent, cannot furnish repairs and supplies at the port where his coöwners reside, and bind them without their consent and orders. The William Thomas v. Ellis, 4 Harr. (Del.) 309; Elder v. Larrabee, 45 Me. 590, 71 Am. Dec. 527; Hardy v. Sproule, 31 Me. 71; Benson v. Thompson, 27 Me. 470, 46 Am. Dec. 617; Pentz v. Clarke, 41 Md. 327. Compare Bowen v. Peters, 71 Me. 463, holding that as to one who furnishes materials to make the vessel seaworthy upon the order of a part-owner in possession, the presumption of the authority of such part-owner to bind all the owners for such goods remains, even if it be in the home port, unless there is something more than the single fact of the place of registry or enrolment, or of the owner's residence, to remove it.

72. Elder v. Larrabee, 45 Me. 590, 71 Am. Dec. 567; McCready v. Thorn, 51 N. Y. 454; Stedman v. Feidler, 20 N. Y. 437; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Frazer v. Cuthbertson, 6 Q. B. D. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396.

A part-owner has no general authority to bind his coöwners. It is a question of agency. Pentz v. Clarke, 41 Md. 327; Atkins v. Lewis, 168 Mass. 534, 47 N. E. 507; Hackwood v. Lyall, 17 C. B. 124, 2 Jur. N. S. 44 note, 25 L. J. C. P. 44 note, 84 E. C. L. 124; Brodie v. Howard, 17 C. B. 109, 1 Jur. N. S. 1209, 25 L. J. C. P. 57, 84 E. C. L. 109.

The question in each case is one of fact, whether he has had such authority committed to him (Frazer v. Cuthbertson, 6 Q. B. D. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396), or if this is not in fact the case, whether he has been allowed to hold himself out as armed with such apparent authority (Frazer v. Cuthbertson, supra).

The executors of a deceased part-owner of a vessel are not chargeable for necessaries supplied or money advanced the vessel after their testator's death, where they have done nothing to take the benefit of the employment of the vessel nor given any authority to the master or ship's husband to act for them. Stedman v. Feidler, 20 N. Y. 437; Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745.

and circumstances.[73] Thus it may be shown that he has actually parted with his interest, although still a registered owner;[74] or that he has committed the vessel to the exclusive care and control of the other owners, and thereby disentitled himself to share in her earnings;[75] or has given them notice to incur no further expense on the vessel;[76] or has expressly dissented from the employment of the vessel, and communicated such dissent to the master or ship's husband;[77] and in every such case it seems that he will not be liable, unless, by some previous act, he has misled the party furnishing the necessaries into the belief that he was liable.[78] Nor does the exemption of the owner or part-owner depend upon notice to the person supplying the necessaries or making the advances of the facts exempting him from liability.[79]

f. Remedies — (I) BETWEEN THEMSELVES — (A) In General. The ordinary remedy of part-owners to obtain an adjustment of the ship's account among themselves is a suit in equity.[80] But this rule that equity must be resorted to is 73. Bowen v. Peters, 71 Me. 463; Elder v. Larrabee, 45 Me. 590, 71 Am. Dec. 567; Sheehan v. Dalrymple, 19 Mich. 239; Stedman v. Feidler, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 605 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 437].

Acceptance of note of one owner.— The mere acceptance, by those who furnish supplies to a ship belonging to several joint owners, of a note from one of them, does not show that the credit was given exclusively to him, or that the others were released (Bentley v. Clark, 3 Dana (Ky.) 564; Wilkins v. Reed, 6 Me. 220, 19 Am. Dec. 211; King v. Lowry, 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 532; Higgins v. Packard, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 586; Muldon v. Whitlock, 1 Cow. (N. Y.) 290, 13 Am. Dec. 533; Schemerhorn v. Loines, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 311; Keay v. Fenwick, 1 C. P. D. 745; The Huntsman, [1894] P. 214, 7 Aspin. 431, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 386, 5 Reports 698; Robinson v. Read, 9 B. & C. 449, 7 L. J. K. B. O. S. 236, 4 M. & R. 349, 17 E. C. L. 205; Whitwell v. Perrin, 4 C. B. N. S. 412, 93 E. C. L. 412. Contra, Chapman v. Durant, 10 Mass. 47), in the absence of proof that the note was taken as payment, and with the intent to discharge the other owners (King v. Lowry, 20 Barb. (N. Y.) 532; Snelling v. Howard, 7 Rob. (N. Y.) 400 [affirmed in 51 N. Y. 373]; Reed v. White, 5 Esp. 122).

74. Alabama.— Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

Massachusetts.— Dame v. Hadlock, 4 Pick. 458; Hussey v. Allen, 6 Mass. 163.

New York.— Thorn v. Hicks, 7 Cow. 697; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. 298; Wendover v. Hogeboom, 7 Johns. 308.

United States.— Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745.

England.— Rex v. Teal, 11 East 307, 10 Rev. Rep. 516, 103 Eng. Reprint 1022; Curling v. Robertson, 13 L. J. C. P. 137, 7 M. & G. 336, 8 Scott N. R. 12, 49 E. C. L. 336; Rands v. Thomas, 5 M. & S. 244.

Canada.— Fowler v. Borden, 4 Nova Scotia 79.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 67.

Legal ownership is prima facie evidence of liability, which may be rebutted by proof of the beneficial interest having been parted with, and the legal owners having ceased to interfere with the management of the ship. Frazer v. Cuthbertson, 6 Q. B. D. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396; Jennings v. Griffiths, R. & M. 42, 27 Rev. Rep. 730, 21 E. C. L. 700.

75. Stedman v. Feidler, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 605 [affirmed in 20 N. Y. 437]; Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745; Briggs v. Wilkinson, 7 B. & C. 30, 9 D. & R. 871, 5 L. J. K. B. O. S. 349, 14 E. C. L. 24.

The personal liability of a part-owner does not necessarily attach as an incident to his naked legal ownership, but depends upon the possession, use, and control of the ship. Tuckerman v. Brown, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 191; Thorn v. Hicks, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 697; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547. Thus a mortgagee, although holding the legal title of the ship, if he has not the possession and use of her, is by the well-settled American law not personally liable for her supplies (see infra, II, F, 6, a); and so in cases of a nominal owner holding the title in trust only for others who have the use and control of the ship (Macy v. Wheeler, 30 N. Y. 231; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547). Upon the same principle, if the ship is chartered upon terms which give the charterer the entire control of the ship, he is regarded as owner pro hac vice, and the general owner is not liable. Tuckerman v. Brown, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 191; Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745; Reeve v. Davis, 1 A. & E. 312, 3 N. & M. 873, 28 E. C. L. 159.

76. Atkins v. Lewis, 168 Mass. 534, 47 N. E. 507.

77. Stedman v. Feidler, 20 N. Y. 437; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745; Brodie v. Howard, 17 C. B. 109, 1 Jur. N. S. 1209, 25 L. J. C. P. 57, 84 E. C. L. 109.

78. Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745.

For instance he may so conduct himself as to have held himself out to the party contracted with as one upon whose credit the work was to be done. Brodie v. Howard, 17 C. B. 109, 1 Jur. N. S. 1209, 25 L. J. C. P. 57, 84 E. C. L. 109.

79. Atkins v. Lewis, 168 Mass. 534, 47 N. E. 507; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745; Frazer v. Cuthbertson, 6 Q. B. D. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396; Brodie v. Howard, 17 C. B. 109, 1 Jur. N. S. 1209, 25 L. J. C. P. 57, 84 E. C. L. 109.

80. Knowlton v. Reed, 38 Me. 246; Milburn not absolute and unqualified.[81] It applies to cases relating to earnings and disbursements, when no settlement has been made or account stated between them;[82] but if no question of partnership is involved, an action is maintainable at law.[83]

(B) Enjoining Use or Sale of Ship. An owner of an unequal moiety of a vessel will be restrained by injunction from employing the vessel contrary to the wish of the other owner;[84] but an injunction will not issue to restrain the majority from running the ship, where they have given bond to account for the share of the minority owners;[85] and an injunction will be refused, when the ship is on the point of sailing, unless the delay in making the application is accounted for.[86] So one part-owner of a vessel may maintain a bill in equity to enjoin the other from selling his share;[87] to restrain the purchaser of a vessel from interfering with her sailing in pursuance of a charter-party previously entered into;[88] and to restrain the removing of a vessel out of the jurisdiction of the court pending litigation.[89]

v. Guyther, 8 Gill (Md.) 92, 50 Am. Dec. 681; Whiton v. Spring, 74 N. Y. 169. And see ACCOUNTS AND ACCOUNTING, 1 Cyc. 351.

Jurisdiction of admiralty in matters of account see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 824 note 21.

81. Ripley v. Crooker, 47 Me. 370, 74 Am. Dec. 491; Sturges v. Judson, 1 N. Y. City Ct. 256.

82. Ripley v. Crooker, 47 Me. 370, 74 Am. Dec. 491; Curtis v. Blanchard, 45 Me. 228; Knowlton v. Reed, 38 Me. 246; Maguire v. Pingree, 30 Me. 508.

83. Sheehan v. Dalrymple, 19 Mich. 239; Gilman v. Leavitt, Smith (N. H.) 304; Sturges v. Judson, 1 N. Y. City Ct. 256; Helme v. Smith, 7 Bing. 709, 9 L. J. C. P. O. S. 206, 5 M. & P. 744, 20 E. C. L. 316. And see Brown v. Tapscott, 9 L. J. Exch. 139, 6 M. & W. 119.

Action against ship's husband for freight.— Part-owners of a vessel are not partners, and each may maintain a separate action against the ship's husband for his proportion of the freight; and this, although he be one of the part-owners. Magruder v. Bowie, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,964, 2 Cranch C. C. 577.

If the joint interest is determined, or the partnership is dissolved, all accounts and liabilities being settled and discharged, and a balance remains due from one cotenant or copartner to another, it may be recovered in an action of assumpsit. Chadbourne v. Duncan, 36 Me. 89; Blood v. White, 3 Cush. (Mass.) 416; Law v. Thorndike, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 317; Fanning v. Chadwick, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 420, 15 Am. Dec. 233; Turner v. McMann, 22 N. Brunsw. 391. But see Milburn v. Guyther, 8 Gill (Md.) 92, 50 Am. Dec. 681. The relation of quasi-partnership between ship-owners is generally only for the adventure, and, where accounts are settled and a balance struck at the end of each voyage, an action at law may be maintained by one part-owner against the managing part-owner for his share of the earnings of the vessel. McLauthlin v. Smith, 166 Mass. 131, 44 N. E. 125.

In cases of contract growing out of the original construction of the vessel, an action at law is the appropriate remedy, notwithstanding the builder is a part-owner. Ripley v. Crooker, 47 Me. 370, 74 Am. Dec. 491.

Action for not accounting.—Where the duty to account is cast upon the ship's husband by agreement, an action lies against him upon the agreement by each of the part-owners for failure to do so. Owston v. Ogle, 13 East 538, 12 Rev. Rep. 426, 104 Eng. Reprint 479.

Notice of suit.— A part-owner of a boat cannot sue the other part-owners for services without giving the statutory notice; and the proof of such notice devolves upon him. The Raritan v. McCloy, 10 Mo. 534.

84. Paynter v. Paynter, 7 Phila. (Pa.) 336.

85. Dunham v. Jarvis, 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 88, 2 Edm. Sel. Cas. 145.

In England the court of admiralty is open to applications by part-owners to restrain the sailing of ships without their consent, until security is given to the amount of the respective shares. Haly v. Goodson, 2 Meriv. 77, 16 Rev. Rep. 145, 35 Eng. Reprint 870. And a court of equity will not interfere by injunction unless the admiralty court has been previously applied to, and refused to interfere, or can only afford a dilatory and inadequate relief. Brennan v. Preston, 10 Hare 331, 1 Wkly. Rep. 112, 115, 44 Eng. Ch. 321, 68 Eng. Reprint 953 [affirming 2 De G. M. & G. 813, 1 Wkly. Rep. 69, 86, 51 Eng. Ch. 637, 42 Eng. Reprint 1090]. But where the shares are not ascertained, that court has no jurisdiction; and in such case the court of chancery will exercise a concurrent jurisdiction, by injunction, to restrain the sailing of a ship until the share of the party complaining shall be ascertained, and security given to the amount of it. Castelli v. Cook, 7 Hare 89, 13 Jur. 675, 18 L. J. Ch. 148, 27 Eng. Ch. 89, 68 Eng. Reprint 36; Hallaran v. Donal, 9 Ir. Eq. 217; Haly v. Goodson, supra. And see Darby v. Baines, 9 Hare 369, 21 L. J. Ch. 801, 41 Eng. Ch. 369, 68 Eng. Reprint 550.

86. Hallaran v. Donal, 9 Ir. Eq. 217; Christie v. Craig, 2 Meriv. 137, 35 Eng. Reprint 892.

87. Thoms v. Southard, 2 Dana (Ky.) 475, 26 Am. Dec. 467.

88. Messageries Imperiales Co. v. Baines, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 763, 11 Wkly. Rep. 322.

89. Hart v. Herwig, L. R. 8 Ch. 860, 2 Aspin. 63, 42 L. J. Ch. 457, 29 L. T. Rep.

(II) By or Against Third Persons[90]—(A) Parties. If part-owners of a vessel make a contract with a third person, which is joint in its nature, their action on the contract must be joint.[91] So if part-owners give a joint authority to an agent to sell the entire ship, they cannot maintain separate actions against him for their respective shares of the money, although each may do so if they separately authorized the agent to sell their respective shares of the ship.[92] But where the language of the contract is several, and the interests of the parties are several, the action must be several.[93] And it has been held that a part-owner may sustain a petitory suit against a merely fraudulent possessor without joining the other part-owners.[94]

(B) Evidence. Joint owners of a vessel are presumed to be owners of equal parts;[95] but the presumption is liable to be rebutted by evidence of insurance by each in different proportions,[96] or by the production of the books and papers of the vessel;[97] and parol evidence of their contents, unless specially objected to as secondary, must receive the same consideration as the books and papers themselves.[98]

D. Managing Owner or Ship's Husband[99] — 1. Powers and Duties. The ship's husband or managing owner has authority to do whatever is necessary

N. S. 47, 21 Wkly. Rep. 663; Clavering v. Aguire, L. R. 5 Ir. 97.

90. Attachment of vessel or interest see ATTACHMENT, 4 Cyc. 557 note 41.

91. Arkansas.— Phillips v. Pennywit, 1 Ark. 59.

Maine.—White v. Curtis, 35 Me. 534.

New Hampshire.—Gilman v. Leavitt, Smith 304.

New York.— Coster v. New York, etc., R. Co., 6 Duer 43; Wright v. Marshall, 3 Daly 331; Buckman v. Brett, 13 Abb. Pr. 119.

United States.— Richmond v. New Bedford Copper Co., 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,800, 2 Lowell 315.

All the part-owners should join as plaintiffs for the recovery of freight, because all of them are partners with respect to the concerns of the ship. Robinson v. Cushing, 11 Me. 480; Milburn v. Guyther, 8 Gill (Md.) 92, 50 Am. Dec. 681; Donnell v. Walsh, 33 N. Y. 43, 88 Am. Dec. 361; Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N. Y. 685. But under a statute providing that "any boat or vessel may institute suit in the name of such boat or vessel, through the owner, master, agent or consignee thereof, for all freights due to such boat," one part-owner of a steamboat may sue in the name of the boat. The Beardstown v. Goodrich, 16 Mo. 153.

If any of the owners refuse to become plaintiffs, they should be made defendants. Coster v. New York, etc., R. Co., 6 Duer (N. Y.) 43. The libel will not be dismissed because some of the part-owners refuse to proceed. Richmond v. New Bedford Copper Co., 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,800, 2 Lowell 315.

Effect of death.— If joined as plaintiffs and one dies the right of action survives to the surviving part-owners, who may afterward be compelled to pay to the personal representatives of the deceased the value of his share. Wright v. Marshall, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 331; Bucknam v. Brett, 13 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 119. If joined as defendants and the death of one of them occurs, the executor or personal representatives of the one so dying cannot be sued or joined with the summons as the liability differs in the case of each. The executor is charged de bonis testatoris, the survivors de bonis propriis, and the judgment could not be thus rendered. Wright v. Marshall, supra; Bucknam v. Brett, supra.

Dormant partners, although legally interested in the event of the suit, need not join. Phillips v. Pennywit, 1 Ark. 59.

Exception to rule.— One of two joint owners of a vessel may sue for his share of a demand due such owners, without joining his cotenant, whose share has already been paid. Gilman v. Leavitt, Smith (N. H.) 304; Bishop v. Edmiston, 16 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 466; Sedgworth v. Overend, 7 T. R. 279, 101 Eng. Reprint 974; Addison v. Overend, 6 T. R. 766, 101 Eng. Reprint 816.

92. Milburn v. Guyther, 8 Gill (Md.) 92, 50 Am. Dec. 681; Hatsall v. Griffith, 2 Cromp. & M. 679, 3 L. J. Exch. 191, 4 Tyrw. 487.

93. Servante v. James, 10 B. & C. 410, 8 L. J. K. B. O. S. 64, 5 M. & Rob. 299, 21 E. C. L. 177.

Illustrations.— A part-owner of a vessel obtaining an insurance on his separate interest may maintain an action for such insurance, without the joinder of his coöwners, their interests not being joint. Gray v. Buck, 78 Me. 477, 7 Atl. 16. One joint owner of a vessel may sue alone for his share of the surplus proceeds of a sale on execution against him and other owners. Hopkins v. Forsyth, 14 Pa. St. 34, 53 Am. Dec. 513.

94. The Friendship, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,123, 2 Curt. 426.

95. Jouanneau v. Shannon, 4 La. Ann. 330; The Schooner Nantasket, 39 Ct. Cl. 119; The Ship Betsey, 23 Ct. Cl. 277.

96. The Schooner Nantasket, 39 Ct. Cl. 119; The Ship Betsey, 23 Ct. Cl. 277.

97 Jouanneau v. Shannon, 4 La. Ann. 330.

98. Jouanneau v. Shannon, 4 La. Ann. 330.

99. Managing owner defined see 25 Cyc. 124.

to enable the ship to prosecute her voyage and earn freight. And for all such purposes he is the agent of the owners and can bind them by his contracts.[2] But as this is only an implied authority it must cease when it is revoked,[3] or

1. Coulthurst v. Sweet, L. R. 1 C. P. 649; Barker v. Highley, 15 C. B. N. S. 27, 10 Jur. N. S. 391, 32 L. J. C. P. 270, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 228, 11 Wkly. Rep. 968, 109 E. C. L. 27.

Mode of appointment.— A ship's husband may be appointed by a written instrument or orally, or his appointment may be inferred from his exercising the duties of his office with the knowledge and consent of the owners. McCready v. Thorn, 51 N. Y. 454.

Scope and purpose of agency.— The implied agency of the ship's husband has only to do with the present or future use of the ship. Chase v. McLean, 130 N. Y. 529, 29 N. E. 986. It is based on present and pressing necessity, occasioned by the dangers of navigation with a vessel out of repair, improperly rigged, and inadequately provisioned. Chase v. McLean, supra.

The powers of a ship's husband are determined mainly by usage, and are defined as follows: "To provide for the complete seaworthiness of the ship; to see that she has on board all necessary and proper papers; to make contracts for freight, to collect the freight and to enter into proper charter-parties; to direct the repairs, appoint the officers and mariners; to see that the vessel is furnished with provisions and stores, and generally to conduct all the affairs and arrangements for the due employment of the ship in commerce and navigation. Chase v. McLean, 130 N. Y. 529, 534, 29 N. E. 986; McCready v. Thorn, 51 N. Y. 454.

Acts outside authority of managing owner or ship's husband.— A managing owner or ship's husband cannot, without special authority, purchase a cargo for the owners (Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am. Dec. 243; The Ole Oleson, 20 Fed. 384), or insure (Hamilton v. Phœnix Ins. Co., 106 Mass. 395; Finney v. Warren Ins. Co., 1 Metc. (Mass.) 16, 35 Am. Dec. 343; McCready v. Woodhull, 34 Barb. (N. Y.) 80; The Ole Oleson, supra; French v. Backhouse, 5 Burr. 2727, 98 Eng. Reprint 431; Bell v. Humphries, 2 Stark. 345, 3 E. C. L. 438), or give up the lien for freight (The Ole Oleson, supra), or pledge his owner's credit for the expenses of a lawsuit (Campbell v. Stein, 6 Dow. 116, 3 Eng. Reprint 1417), or cancel a charter-party (Thomas v. Lewis, 4 Ex. D. 18, 4 Aspin. 51, 48 L. J. Exch. 7, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 669, 27 Wkly. Rep. 111), or, it is said, borrow money (Arey v. Hall, 81 Me. 17, 16 Atl. 302, 10 Am. St. Rep. 232; The Ole Oleson, supra), although in this latter respect the limitations on his powers formerly existing seem to have been modified (see Chase v. McLean, 130 N. Y. 529, 29 N. E. 986 [reversing 4 Silv. Sup. 16, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 903]; McCready v. Thorn, 51 N. Y. 454).

2. Delaware.— The William Thomas v. Ellis, 4 Harr. 309.

Maine.— Hall v. Thing, 23 Me. 461; Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am. Dec. 243.

Massachusetts.— Atkins v. Lewis, 168 Mass. 534, 47 N. E. 507.

New York.— Chase v. McLean, 130 N. Y. 529, 29 N. E. 986.

United States.— The Ole Oleson, 20 Fed. 384; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745; Lyles v. Styles, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,625, 2 Wash. 224; Revens v. Lewis, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,711, 2 Paine 202.

England.— The Huntsman, [1894] P. 214, 7 Aspin. 431, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 386, 6 Reports 698; Tolson v. Hallett, Ambl. 270, 27 Eng. Reprint 180; Barker v. Highley, 5 C. B. N. S. 27, 10 Jur. N. S. 391, 32 L. J. C. P. 270, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 228, 11 Wkly. Rep. 968, 109 E. C. L. 27 (where it was held that he may release the ship according to the rules of the court by procuring bail for damages and costs); Darby v. Baines, 9 Hare 369, 21 L. J. Ch. 801, 41 Eng. Ch. 369, 68 Eng. Reprint 550.

Canada.— Smith v. Fulton, 11 Nova Scotia 225; Harrison v. Harris, 1 U. C. C. P. 235.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 53.

Extent of liability.— Where the ship's husband is not a part-owner of the ship, all the owners are responsible in solido for his just expenditures and charges (Briggs v. Barnett, 108 Va. 404, 61 S. E. 797); but, where he is part-owner, each is liable only for his own share of such expenditures and charges (Briggs v. Barnett, supra).

In the home port, where all the owners reside, the managing owner, although registered as such at the custom-house, cannot, merely by virtue of that relation, order supplies, and bind his coöwners to a personal liability therefor; nor do they become liable merely because the creditor, on his books charges the supplies against the vessel and owners. Briggs v. Barnett, 108 Va. 404, 61 S. E. 797; Woodall v. Dempsey, 100 Fed. 653; Spedden v. Koenig, 78 Fed. 504, 24 C. C. A. 189; Steele v. Dixon, 3 Ct. of Sess. Cas. (4th ser.) 1003. And see Burton v. Burton, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 552. But in some states it has been held that a ship's husband has power to contract for repairs, even in a home port, if they were absolutely necessary. Chase v. McLean, 130 N. Y. 529, 29 N. E. 986; Provost v. Patchin, 9 N. Y. 235. And see Atkins v. Lewis, 168 Mass. 534, 47 N. E. 507.

3. Revens v. Lewis, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,711, 2 Paine 202.

Each coöwner may retract his authority to the managing owner without consulting the other coöwners. The Vindobala, 13 P. D. 42, 57 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 37, 58 L. T. Rep. N. S. 353 [reversed on other grounds in 14 P. D. 50, 6 Aspin. 376, 58 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 51, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 657, 37 Wkly. Rep. 409].

Death of part-owner.— The authority of ship's husband to bind the part-owner for supplies is revoked by the death of the latter, and his estate cannot be charged for such when anything is done which has the effect of rebutting the presumption which ordinarily arises as to such implied authority.[4]

2. Compensation. A managing owner or ship's husband is entitled to reasonable remuneration for his services,[5] which is usually fixed by an agreement among the part-owners.[6] But there is no fixed rate applicable.[7]

E. Sales[8] — 1. In General. Where the part-owners of a vessel are not partners, any one of them may sell his own interest at his pleasure;[9] but he cannot sell the interest of a coöwner without his consent.[10] All the owners may, however, combine and sell or authorize the sale of the whole vessel.[11]

2. What Law Governs. The validity of a contract of sale of a vessel is governed by the laws of the state where it was made and performed.[12] supplies. Stedman v. Feidler, 20 N. Y. 437. It would be a breach of trust for executors to authorize the master or ship's husband, in the absence of an express power under the will, to act for them in the purchase of supplies, and no presumption can therefore arise that they have done so. Gum v. Frost, 4 Fed. 745.

4. Hall v. Thing, 23 Me. 461; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Revens v. Lewis, 20 Fed. Cas No. 11,711, 2 Paine 202; Thompson v. Finden, 4 C. & P. 158, 19 E. C. L. 455 (where the understanding was that the person who directed the work to be done should be looked to exclusively); Harrison v. Harris, 1 U. C. C. P. 235 (holding that where the joint ownership is not disputed, and there is nothing to exempt from liability by the terms of the contract or the situation of the parties, the mere circumstance of plaintiff's having made out his account against the managing owner as captain, instead of against the owners generally or against the vessel, does not repel the implied agency, or show a credit exclusively given to such captain or manager).

There is no magic in the term "managing owner" which creates him a plenipotentiary for those owners whose agent he is not in fact. Frazer v. Cuthbertson, 6 Q. B. D. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396. Thus when it affirmatively appears that any one part-owner was neither intended to be represented by the managing owner or ship's husband in the navigation of the ship or in ordering repairs or supplies, and that he was never authorized to represent or bind the owner who never ratified or adopted the voyage, but dissented from it, there is no reason or legal principle upon which he can be held for the supplies ordered. Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547. So it has been held that the fact that defendant had allowed the entry on the register describing one as managing owner to remain unaltered did not per se amount to a holding out of such person as his agent, so as to render defendant liable for the necessaries supplied by plaintiffs, and that inasmuch as he had not in fact authority to bind defendant, plaintiff could not recover against defendant for such necessaries. Frazer v. Cuthbertson, supra. And see Davidson v. Baldwin, 79 Fed. 95, 24 C. C. A. 453.

5. The Meredith, 10 P. D. 69, 5 Aspin. 400, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 520; Salter v. Adey, 1 Jur. N. S. 930, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 229. And see Besse v. Hecht, 85 Fed. 677.

Right to extra commissions.— A managing owner who receives a fixed remuneration for his services as such is not entitled to charge a commission for doing anything within the terms of his agency. Williamson v. Hine, [1891] Ch. 390, 6 Aspin. 559, 60 L. J. Ch. 123, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 682, 39 Wkly. Rep. 239.

Persons entitled to remuneration.— A director of a company owning vessels cannot act as husband of one of the vessels and receive the usual remuneration of a ship's husband. The two positions are incompatible. Benson v. Heathorn, 1 Y. & Coll. 326, 20 Eng. Ch. 326, 62 Eng. Reprint 909. But the managing owner of a ship is competent to appoint himself to act as broker to the ship in collecting and distributing the freight, there being no incompatibility between those services and his fiduciary character as managing owner. Smith v. Lay, 3 Kay & J. 105, 69 Eng. Reprint 1041.

6. The Meredith, 10 P. D. 69, 5 Aspin. 400, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 520.

In the absence of an agreement, it seems a part-owner acting as ship's husband is not entitled to a large commission. Miller v. Mackay, 34 Beav. 295, 55 Eng. Reprint 649, 31 Beav. 77, 54 Eng. Reprint 1066.

7. The Meredith, 10 P. D. 69, 5 Aspin. 400, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 520.

8. By master see infra, IV, B, 4.

On disagreement of part-owners see supra, II, C, 2, b, (II).

Commission on sale see infra, IV, D, 2.

Effect of sale as to registry see supra, I, B, 2, b.

9. Alabama.— Jones v. Scott, 2 Ala. 58; Jones v. Sims, 6 Port. 138.

Louisiana.— Byrne v. Hooper, 2 Rob. 229.

Pennsylvania.— Croasdale v. Von Boyneburgk, 195 Pa. St. 377, 46 Atl. 6.

United States.— Bradshaw v. The Sylph, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,791.

England.—Keay v. Fenwick, 1 C. P. D. 745. See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 81.

10. Byrne v. Hooper, 2 Rob. (La.) 229; Saltmarsh v. Rowe, 10 Mo. 38; Whiton v. Spring, 74 N. Y. 169; Bradshaw v. The Sylph, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,791.

A part-owner as ship's husband has no authority to sell the interests of his coöwners. Whiton v. Spring, 74 N. Y. 169.

11. Keay v. Fenwick, 1 C. P. D. 745.

12. Bulkley v. Honold, 19 How. (U. S.) 390, 15 L. ed. 663.

3. Evidence of Sale.[13] No distinction is made in the evidence applicable between the sale and delivery of a vessel and any other property. What is competent in one case is admissible in the other.[14] It is not required that the contract of sale should be proved to have been made in express terms, but it may be inferred from conversations and acts of the parties like other contracts.[15]

4. Bill of Sale[16] — a. Necessity. A written instrument is required to pass the title to a ship so as to preserve her national character;[17] but as between the parties the sale and delivery of a vessel suffices, at common law, to pass the title, without a bill of sale or other instrument in writing,[18] unless the contract provides otherwise.[19] But by statute in England,[20] Canada,[21] and in some of the United States[22] a bill of sale is made necessary.

Vessel at sea.— The validity of the assignment of a vessel at sea must be determined by the laws of the state where it was made. Southern Bank v. Wood, 14 La. Ann. 554, 74 Am. Dec. 446; Thuret v. Jenkins, 7 Mart. (La.) 318, 12 Am. Dec. 508.

The validity of the sale of a British ship in a foreign port is determined by the law usually enforced in the court of admiralty, unless the foreign law be specially pleaded. The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, Lush. 252, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141.

13. Evidence that transaction constitutes mortgage see infra, II, F, 1.

14. Badger v. Cumberland Bank, 26 Me. 428.

The bill of sale and the enrolment of a steamboat are prima facie evidence of a bona fide sale. Seaman v. Enterprise F., etc., Ins. Co., 21 Fed. 778.

15. Badger v. Cumberland Bank, 26 Me. 428.

Parol evidence.— The sale of a vessel, like that of any other personal chattel, may be proved by parol. Chadbourne v. Duncan, 36 Me. 89. Accounts kept of the proceeds of the vessel, and of the repairs, prove a use and possession, which is at least equivalent to a formal delivery at the time of the transfer. Badger v. Cumberland Bank, 26 Me. 428.

Evidence held to show simulated sale see Hastings v. Drew, 76 N. Y. 9.

16. As evidence of title see supra, II, B, 3.

Reformation of bill of sale see Reformation of Instruments, 34 Cyc. 899.

17. See supra, I, B, 2, b.

18. Alabama.— Fontaine v. Beers, 19 Ala. 722.

Connecticut.—Scranton v. Coe, 40 Conn. 159.

Louisiana.— Shields v. Perry, 16 La. 463.

Maine.— Rice v. McLarren, 42 Me. 157; Chadbourne v. Duncan, 36 Me. 89; Metcalf v. Taylor, 36 Me. 28; Mitchell v. Taylor, 32 Me. 434; Barnes v. Taylor, 31 Me. 329; Richardson v. Kimball, 28 Me. 463; Badger v. Cumberland Bank, 26 Me. 428.

Massachusetts.—Wilson v. Almy, 105 Mass. 436; Vinal v. Burrill, 16 Pick. 401; Bixby v. Franklin Ins. Co., 8 Pick. 86; Taggard v. Loring, 16 Mass. 336, 8 Am. Dec. 140.

Minnesota.— McMahon v. Davidson, 12 Minn. 357.

New York.— Thorn v. Hicks, 7 Cow. 697; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. 298; Wendover v. Hogeboom, 7 Johns. 308.

Rhode Island.— Sprague v. Thurber, 17 R. I. 454, 22 Atl. 1057.

United States.— The Amelie, 6 Wall. 18, 18 L. ed. 806; Hozey v. Buchanan, 16 Pet. 215, 10 L. ed. 941; U. S. v. Willings, 4 Cranch 48, 2 L. ed. 546; The Marion S. Harris, 85 Fed. 798, 29 C. C. A. 428; The Active, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 34, Olcott 286; Scudder v. Calais Steamboat Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,565, 1 Cliff. 370 [reversed on other grounds in 2 Black 372, 17 L. ed. 282].

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," §§ 85, 86.

An unfinished vessel can be transferred by verbal agreement and the full performance thereof the same as any other chattel or tangible article of personal property. Misner v. Strong, 181 N. Y. 163, 73 N. E. 965; In re Derbyshire, 81 Pa. St. 18.

Under the general maritime law, it is stated by Judge Story, citing The Sisters, 5 C. Rob. 155, a written instrument to transfer is necessary to pass the title to a ship. Ohl v. Eagle Ins. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,472, 4 Mason 172; Weston v. Penniman, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,455, 1 Mason 306. And see Taggard v. Loring, 16 Mass. 336, 8 Am. Dec. 140.

19. Rice v. McLarren, 42 Me. 157; Higgins v. Chessman, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 7.

20. See Chasteauneuf v. Capeyron, 7 App. Cas. 127, 4 Aspin. 489, 51 L. J. P. C. 37, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 65; Union Bank v. Lenanton, 3 C. P. D. 243, 3 Aspin. 600, 47 L. J. C. P. 409, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 698 (holding that a ship built in order to be sold to a foreigner and to be delivered to him at a foreign port was not a British ship within the meaning of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, and that an assignment of her need not be by bill of sale); The Sisters, 5 C. Rob. 155.

A transfer of a ship, which has not been registered as a British ship under section 19 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, is good, although not made by bill of sale under section 55. Union Bank v. Lenanton, 3 C. P. D. 243, 3 Aspin. 600, 47 L. J. C. P. 409, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 698.

21. Cutten v. McFarlane, 7 Nova Scotia 468.

The property in an unregistered ship may be transferred by parol like any other personal chattel. McLean v. Grant, 3 N. Brunsw. 50; Chisholm v. Potter, 11 U. C. C. P. 165.

22. Yarnberg v. Watson, 13 Oreg. 11, 4 Pac. 296, holding, however, that a boat in an

b. Requisites and Validity. In the United States a bill of sale of a ship is good, although it does not recite the certificate prescribed by the registry act.[23] The only penalty of a non-recital of the register, and a corresponding change of papers, is, that the vessel ceases to enjoy the privileges obtained by registration;[24] and this seems now to be the law of England.[25] Nor is it required, to make a bill of sale of a vessel valid, that it shall be enrolled in the custom-house;[26] the enrolment is only necessary to entitle the vessel to the character and privileges of an American vessel.[27]

c. Construction. A bill of sale of a vessel should be construed according to its terms and the intention of the parties.[28] Preferably a bill of sale should actually express the matter to be transferred; but general terms, such as appurtenances and necessaries, which have a fixed and technical meaning, may be, and often are, employed.[29] Only those things will be considered appurtenances and necessaries to a ship which are really necessary to it in carrying on its unfinished state, unfit for carriage of passengers or goods, or for any purpose for which a vessel is intended, is not a vessel, within the meaning of Code, § 773, providing that a sale or transfer of a vessel is not valid, unless it be in writing and signed by the party making the transfer.

23. Mitchell v. Taylor, 32 Me. 434; De Wolf v. Harris, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,221, 4 Mason 515; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226.

The filling up of a blank left in the bill of sale for the certificate of registry does not render the bill of sale void. Wooley v. Constant, 4 Johns. (N. Y.) 54, 4 Am. Dec. 246.

24. Mitchell v. Taylor, 32 Me. 434; Wendover v. Hogeboom, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 308; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; D'Wolf v. Harris, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,221, 4 Mason 515; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226. And see supra, I, B, 2, b.

25. Under the British registry acts previous to the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, however formal the contract for the sale of a ship might be, it was a nullity in a court of law or equity, unless it recited the certificate of registry. Biddell v. Leeder, 1 B. & C. 327, 8 E. C. L. 141; Duncan v. Tindall, 13 C. B. 258, 17 Jur. 347, 22 L. J. C. P. 137, 76 E. C. L. 258; McCalmont v. Rankin, 2 De G. M. & G. 403, 22 L. J. Ch. 554, 51 Eng. Ch. 316, 42 Eng. Reprint 928; Hughes v. Morris, 2 De G. M. & G. 349, 16 Jur. 603, 21 L. J. Ch. 761, 51 Eng. Ch. 273, 42 Eng. Reprint 907. But a mere clerical mistake would not vitiate it. Rolleston v. Smith, 4 T. R. 161, 100 Eng. Reprint 950. In the case of a transfer not made by the party but by a public officer acting under legal authority, the same necessity did not exist. Thus a sheriff's assignment did not require a recital of the certificate of ownership, of which he might be ignorant, or which he might not be able to discover; and the sale being not by the owner, but by authority of law, the property passed without observance of the formalities required in sales by the owners themselves. Bloxam v. Hubbard, 5 East 407, 1 Smith K. B. 487, 102 Eng. Reprint 1126; The Tremont, 1 W. Rob. 163. And see Smith v. Jones, 5 U. C. C. P. 425; Smith v. Brown, 14 U. C. Q. B. 1. A bond given by third parties for the assignment of a vessel, but which is not intended to operate as an assignment, need not contain a recital of the certificate of ownership. Corby v. Cotton, 3 Can. L. J. 50. The Merchant Shipping Act of 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104), now in force, came into operation on the first of May, 1855, and has introduced a variety of important alterations of the law relating to the ownership, measurement, and registry of British ships. By this new act the recital of the certificate of registry in a bill of sale, or executory contract for the sale of a ship, is not required. Wilson v. Cameron, 22 U. C. C. P. 198. Again, in 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 63, still further relaxes the stringency of the former law. The case of Stapleton v. Haymen, 2 H. & C. 918, 10 Jur. N. S. 497, 33 L. J. Exch. 170, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 655, 12 Wkly. Rep. 317, fully explains the changes thus created.

26. Hozey v. Buchanan, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 215, 10 L. ed. 941. And see infra, II, G, 1.

27. Hozey v. Buchanan, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 215, 10 L. ed. 941.

28. Richardson v. Clark, 15 Me. 421.

The bill of sale controls the question as to the intention of the parties. Newberry v. The Fashion, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,143, 1 Newb. Adm. 67.

29. Richardson v. Clark, 15 Me. 421.

When a fixed and technical meaning is not appropriate to the language used, the intention of the parties should be submitted to a jury. Richardson v. Clark, 15 Me. 421. In using general terms the parties will be supposed to intend to embrace whatever is essential in the subject of conveyance and its beneficial enjoyment, according to its nature and design. Richardson v. Clark, supra.

A ship is included in the general term "effects," and will pass, in a conveyance, under the words, "goods, merchandise, and effects." Welsh v. Parish, 1 Hill (S. C.) 155.

Transfer of insurance.— Where a contract for the sale of a vessel required the sellers to deliver the ship, together with her unexpired insurance fully paid up, but no policies were mentioned in the contract, and the purchaser did not know how many policies accepted business,[30] and there is no implied warranty that duplicates shall be furnished.[31]

5. Delivery — a. Necessity. The general rule of law is that the payment of the price is sufficient to complete the sale of a vessel between the seller and purchaser;[32] but as respects a second purchaser or creditor having no notice a delivery is necessary.[33] The question, what constitutes a delivery, is often of difficult solution. If the vessel is in port at the time of sale, actual delivery is usually held necessary to perfect the title against creditors.[34] But if the vessel is at sea a delivery of such evidence of title as the seller possesses is sufficient to pass title to the vendee,[35] without a delivery of the vessel itself,[36] provided the vendee takes possession as soon as the property is within his reach;[37] and the same rule applies in all cases where the vessel is so situated that a delivery cannot be made at the time of sale.[38] But if at the time of the contract it is understood there were, nor by whom issued, the seller was not required to vest the purchaser with the title to the particular policies then covering the ship, but only title to equivalent policies. Livermore v. Brauer, 128 Fed. 265, 62 C. C. A. 647.

30. Gazzam v. Moe, 40 Wash. 593, 82 Pac. 912, 8 L. R. A. N. S. 793. And see Gullman v. Sharp, 81 Hun (N. Y.) 462, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 1036.

What passes under term "appurtenances." — The term "appurtenances" has been held to include a new ashpan which had not been put on board, but lay on the dock (Newberry v. The Fashion, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,143, Newb. Adm. 67) and a chronometer (Armstrong v. McGregor, 2 Ct. of Sess. Cas. (4th ser.) 339. But see Richardson v. Clark, 15 Me. 421). It has also been held not to include the ship's boat (Starr v. Goodwin, 2 Root (Conn.) 71), a launch too large to be carried on board (Forrest v. Vanderbilt, 107 Fed. 734, 46 C. C. A. 611, 52 L. R. A. 473), a pump placed on the boat by a third person with the owner's permission (Gullman v. Sharp, 81 Hun (N. Y.) 462, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 1036), an old crank shaft and rudder removed from the vessel, and replaced by new ones (Gazzam v. Moe, 40 Wash. 593, 82 Pac. 912, 8 L. R. A. N. S. 793), ballast (Burchard v. Tapscott, 3 Duer (N. Y.) 363; Lano v. Neale, 2 Stark. 105, 3 E. C. L. 336), the ship's stores (Robertson v. Dennistoun, 3 Macph. 829), or the cargo (Langton v. Horton, 5 Beav. 9, 6 Jur. 357, 594, 11 L. J. Ch. 233, 49 Eng. Reprint 479).

31. Gazzam v. Moe, 40 Wash. 593, 82 Pac. 912, 8 L. R. A. N. S. 793.

32. Ludwig v. Fuller, 17 Me. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 245; Winsor v. McLellan, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,887, 2 Story 492; Robinson v. McDonnell, 2 B. & Ald. 134, 5 M. & S. 228.

33. Ludwig v. Fuller, 17 Me. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 245; Winsor v. McLellan, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,887, 2 Story 492; Robinson v. McDonnell, 2 B. & Ald. 134, 5 M. & S. 228.

If a third party claiming title had notice of such sale before his rights accrued, he cannot allege any defect in the sale for want of a delivery, because he was not injured by it. Ludwig v. Fuller, 17 Me. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 245.

34. Richardson v. Kimball, 28 Me. 463.

35. Louisiana.— Southern Bank v. Wood, 14 La. Ann. 554, 74 Am. Dec. 446; Thuret v. Jenkins, 7 Mart. 318, 12 Am. Dec. 508.

Maine.— Ludwig v. Fuller, 17 Me. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 245; Brinley v. Spring, 7 Me. 241.

Massachusetts.— Badlam v. Tucker, 1 Pick. 388, 11 Am. Dec. 202; Portland Bank v. Stacey, 4 Mass. 661, 3 Am. Dec. 253.

New Hampshire.— Lord v. Ferguson, 9 N. H. 380.

Pennsylvania.—Morgan v. Biddle, 1 Yeates 3.

England.—Brown v. Heathcote, 1 Atk. 160, 26 Eng. Reprint 103.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 87.

The transmission by mail of a bill of sale of a steamboat to the purchaser, and its receipt, are a delivery to him of the boat at the moment of transmission. Begley v. Morgan, 15 La. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 188.

36. Thuret v. Jenkins, 7 Mart. (La.) 318, 12 Am. Dec. 508; Gardner v. Howland, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 599; Putnam v. Dutch, 8 Mass. 287; Portland Bank v. Stacey, 4 Mass. 661, 3 Am. Dec. 253.

37. Southern Bank v. Wood, 14 La. Ann. 554, 74 Am. Dec. 446; Gardner v. Howland, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 599; Badlam v. Tucker, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 389, 11 Am. Dec. 202; Portland Bank v. Stacey, 4 Mass. 661, 3 Am. Dec. 253; Morgan v. Biddle, 1 Yeates (Pa.) 3; Mair v. Glennie, 4 M. & S. 240, 16 Rev. Rep. 445; Ex p. Matthews, 2 Ves. 272, 28 Eng. Reprint 176.

Presumption of fraud.— The negligence in not taking possession must be such as to afford ground for the presumption of fraud. Brinley v. Spring, 7 Me. 241; Gardner v. Howland, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 599. The neglect of delivery may be a circumstance from which a jury may, with other circumstances, presume fraud; but the sale is not thereby void. Portland Bank v. Stacey, 4 Mass. 661, 3 Am. Dec. 253. Should such a vessel arrive at another port, notice of the sale, forwarded by the purchaser to the captain, would seem to be equivalent to taking possession. Brinley v. Spring, supra; Mair v. Glennie, 4 M. & S. 240, 16 Rev. Rep. 445.

38. Ludwig v. Fuller, 17 Me. 162, 35 Am. Dec. 245 (vessel on the stocks); Putnam v. Dutch, 8 Mass. 287 (vessel at home, but in a port distant from the place where the contract is made).

and intended that a formal delivery shall be made to complete the sale, the transfer is not complete until such delivery is made.[39]

b. Place. Where the place of delivery is not designated in the contract of sale, and there is nothing in the condition or situation of the parties to determine the same, it is the privilege of the purchaser to name the place, provided it is a reasonable and suitable one.[40] But if the purchaser refuse or fail to provide such place, a delivery may be tendered at safe and usual anchorage in the harbor.[41] In offering delivery, the seller is under obligation to afford an opportunity to the purchaser to make examination;[42] but he is under no obligation to incur any such unusual expense as would be involved in hauling the vessel into dry-dock, and making a delivery there.[43]

6. Rights and Liabilities of Vendor[44] — a. In General. Where a contract for the sale of a vessel is made, and the vessel delivered to the purchaser, the responsibility of the vendor ceases as owner, although by the express terms of the contract he retains the legal title in himself, for the purpose of securing the consideration money, until it is paid.[45] Nor are the original owners liable to pay for supplies furnished a vessel at sea, after they have sold all their interest in the vessel, although neither the master nor the merchant furnishing the supplies has any knowledge of the sale.[46]

b. Lien. The vendor of a vessel has, in common with the vendors of other property, a lien on the thing sold.[47] But such lien is lost by delivery of the vessel to the purchaser.[48] A vendor cannot assert a lien against a vessel for services performed on her before sale.[49]

7. Rights and Liabilities of Purchasers[50] — a. In General. The bill of sale entirely divests the title of the vendor; immediately on the execution of the bill of sale the vendee becomes entitled to all the benefits of ownership, and he takes with them all the concurrent liabilities.[51] Where the bill of sale is unconditional,

A sale of a share in a ship is good without actual delivery. Addis v. Baker, Anstr. 222.

39. Rice v. McLarren, 42 Me. 157; Higgins v. Chessman, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 7.

40. Lincoln v. Gallagher, 79 Me. 189, 8 Atl. 883.

41. Lincoln v. Gallagher, 79 Me. 189, 8 Atl. 883.

42. Lincoln v. Gallagher, 79 Me. 189, 8 Atl. 883.

43. Lincoln v. Gallagher, 79 Me. 189, 8 Atl. 883.

44. Liability of part-owner after contracting to sell see supra, II, C, 2, e.

45. Tyler v. Holmes, 38 Me. 258; Cutler v. Thurlo, 20 Me. 213; Brooks v. Bondsey, 17 Pick. (Mass.) 441, 28 Am. Dec. 313; Thorn v. Hicks, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 697; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 298; Hemm v. Williamson, 47 Ohio St. 493, 25 N. E. 1; Heppard v. The General Cadwalader, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,390, 6 Pa. L. J. 473. And see Young v. Brander, 8 East 10, 103 Eng. Reprint 248.

The true question for the jury in cases of this description is: "On whose credit were the supplies furnished or the repairs done?" Jennings v. Griffiths, R. & M. 42, 27 Rev. Rep. 730, 21 E. C. L. 700.

46. Hussey v. Allen, 6 Mass. 163.

47. Bell v. Western M. & F. Ins. Co., 5 Rob. (La.) 423, 39 Am. Dec. 542; The St. Mary, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,242, 2 Blatchf. 329.

Time for enforcement.— Under La. Rev. Civ. Code, art. 3237, a vendor's lien or privilege on a steamboat must be enforced within six months from the date of the sale, although a note payable at a distant day has been given for the credit portion of the purchase-price. In re Red River Line, 115 La. 867, 40 So. 250. The prescription is not of the debt, but of the privilege, and the delay commences to run from the date of the contract, and not from the maturity of the debt. In re Red River Line, supra; Violett v. Fairchild, 6 La. Ann. 193. The acceptance of a note payable at a distant date as a part of the purchase-price novates the debt and waives the vendor's lien. In re Red River Line, supra; Violett v. Fairchild, supra.

48. Baker v. Dewey, 15 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 668.

49. Ullery v. The Mayflower, 75 Fed. 842. See also Richardson v. Kimball, 28 Me. 463.

50. Lien for charter money see infra, III, K, 5.

Right of purchaser of master's share to command vessel see infra, IV, A, 2.

Right to collect freight see infra, VII, E, 3, b.

51. Trewhella v. Rowe, 11 East 435, 103 Eng. Reprint 1072; The Spirit of the Ocean, 34 L. J. Adm. 74, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 239.

The purchaser from a part-owner becomes vested with his entire right and title (Bradshaw v. The Sylph, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,791), and if the sum for which a part-owner of a vessel is liable for outfits has been balanced upon the ship's books, with the consent of the purchaser is liable for supplies, although he may never have taken possession of the vessel,[52] and although neither the master nor the merchant furnishing the supplies had any knowledge of the sale.[53] After a contract of purchase, and before the title is actually transferred, the purchaser is liable for supplies, if he is in possession of the vessel at the time,[54] and the person in whom the legal title is is not liable.[55] The purchaser is not liable for repairs made and supplies furnished before the sale,[56] in the absence of a special agreement to that effect,[57] unless the vessel was at sea at the time of the sale, in which case the purchaser takes her subject to all encumbrances upon her, and to all lawful contracts made by the master, before notice of the purchase;[58] but he is not liable for the expense of any antecedent adventure from which he derives no profit.[59]

b. Bona Fide Purchasers.[60] The purchaser of a vessel from the owner of record is entitled to protection as against the real owner,[61] or a prior unrecorded sale,[62] unless it appears that the sale to such purchaser is colorable and without all the parties, by charging the same to a firm of which he was a member, a purchaser of his interest in the vessel will take it discharged of the lien upon his share of the proceeds of the voyage (Mendell v. Bonney, 5 Allen (Mass.) 205).

52. Lord v. Ferguson, 9 N. H. 380; Flanders v. Merritt, 3 Barb. (N. Y.) 201, where there is no evidence that credit was given to another person, or that the owner has divested himself of his right, as owner, to the control and possession and earnings of the vessel.

53. Lord v. Ferguson, 9 N. H. 380.

54. Macy v. Wheeler, 30 N. Y. 231; Manning v. Dunn, 14 Barb. (N. Y.) 583; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 298.

Possession of a vessel under an agreement for sale does not confer upon the vendee an apparent authority to create liens for supplies; and a person furnishing supplies upon the order of such a person is put upon inquiry as to his actual authority. The H. C. Grady, 87 Fed. 232.

Effect of refusal to fulfil contract.— Where possession of a vessel has been delivered under a contract of sale, the refusal of the intended purchaser to carry out the contract does not make his possession tortious, or vitiate the contracts of the vessel while it continued. Ostensible ownership and present possession are sufficient to bind the vessel in favor of shippers. The Julia Smith, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,136, 6 McLean 484, Newb. Adm. 61.

55. See supra, II, E, 6, a.

56. Rennell v. Kimball, 5 Allen (Mass.) 356; Higgins v. Packard, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 226; Chapman v. Callis, 9 C. B. N. S. 769, 7 Jur. N. S. 995, 30 L. J. C. P. 241, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 890, 9 Wkly. Rep. 375, 99 E. C. L. 769; Carswell v. Finlay, 14 Ct. of Sess. Cas. (4th ser.) 903; Trewhella v. Rowe, 11 East 435, 103 Eng. Reprint 1072.

57. Myers v. Perry, 1 La. Ann. 372; Rennell v. Kimball, 5 Allen (Mass.) 356.

Agreement to pay liens.— A person who buys a vessel, upon which creditors have a lien by express agreement with the vendor, in ignorance of such agreement, but, after the purchase, assents to it, is bound by his assent; and although he has paid the purchase-money to the vendor, he cannot maintain trover for the vessel against a creditor, who detains it for his lien. Norris v. Williams, 1 Cromp. & M. 842, 2 L. J. Exch. 257.

58. Badlam v. Tucker, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 389, 11 Am. Dec. 202; Portland Bank v. Stubbs, 6 Mass. 422, 4 Am. Dec. 151; The Vindobala, 14 P. D. 50, 6 Aspin. 376, 58 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 51, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 657, 37 Wkly. Rep. 409; The Vindobala, 13 P. D. 42, 57 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 37, 58 L. T. Rep. N. S. 353 [reversed on other grounds in 14 P. D. 50, 6 Aspin. 376, 58 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 51, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 657, 37 Wkly. Rep. 409].

59. The Meredith, 10 P. D. 69, 5 Aspin. 400, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 520, holding that the purchaser of a vessel is not liable for losses arising out of a time charter, where such time charter was at an end before he became owner.

60. Record of prior conveyance as affecting bona fide purchaser see infra, II, G, 1.

Sale of vessel to bona fide purchaser as affecting forfeiture for violation of regulations see supra, I, E, 1.

Enforcement of maritime liens against bona fide purchasers see MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 794.

Lien for damages for collision with vessel subsequently transferred to bona fide purchaser see COLLISION, 7 Cyc. 375 note 84.

61. The Horlock, 2 P. D. 243, 3 Aspin. 421, 47 L. J. Adm. 5, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 622.

Section 43 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104) is express and gives a good title to a purchaser from a registered owner who has power "absolutely to dispose" of any ship, or share of a ship, of which he is a registered owner. The Horlock, 2 P. D. 243, 3 Aspin. 421, 47 L. J. Adm. 5, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 622. Prima facie the register gives a good legal title, and a bona fide purchaser is not bound to make further inquiries when he sees that the vendor is registered owner. Fraud on the part of a person so registered does not make the transaction of registration void, but only voidable against him, and does not affect the position of a bona fide purchaser from him. The Horlock, supra.

62. The Superior, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,626, 5 Sawy. 83.

consideration.[63] An authorized but long-continued possession does not estop the owner of a boat from claiming title against a bona fide purchaser under an unauthorized sale.[64]

F. Mortgages and Hypothecations[65] — 1. Evidence as to Character of Transaction. A bill of sale of a vessel, absolute in its terms, may be shown by parol evidence to be only a mortgage.[66] The effect of the instrument is not confined to the immediate parties; at all events, if third persons are not prejudiced thereby.[67]

2. What Law Governs. Previous to the passage of the federal statute[68] the subject of the validity of mortgages upon vessels, and their registration, was a matter to be regulated by the laws of the states;[69] and the rights arising under such instrument were to be determined by the laws of the states in which the transaction might have taken place;[70] and it was competent for those courts to decide what were the laws and usages of commerce which would justify the execution of such a mortgage.[71] But the rules held by such courts were superseded when congress acted upon the subject, and established different regulations from those recognized by the state courts;[72] and a mortgage of a vessel according to this act is good, although not according to state law.[73]

63. The Superior, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,626, 5 Sawy. 83.

64. Dieholt v. The Chester Hair, 4 Fed. 571, 572, where it is said: "Possession, and that apparent ownership which may be inferred from possession, is not such an indicium of ownership that a bona fide purchaser from the party in possession gets a good title as against the real owner, though the possession has been by consent of the owner."

65. Jurisdiction of admiralty see Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 824 note 21.

Bottomry and respondentia see infra, VI.

Recording mortgages see infra, II, G.

66. Blanchard v. Fearing, 4 Allen (Mass.) 118; Howard v. Odell, 1 Allen (Mass.) 85; Weston v. Wright, 1 Rob. (N. Y.) 312; Birkbeck v. Tucker, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 139; Ring v. Franklin, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 9; Bryan v. Bowles, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 171; Champlin v. Butler, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 169; McLellan v. Shinn, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 105, 21 L. ed. 87; The Innisfallen, L. R. 1 A. & E. 72, 12 Jur. N. S. 653, 32 L. J. Adm. 110, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 71; Langton v. Horton, 5 Beav. 9, 6 Jur. 357, 594, 11 L. J. Ch. 233, 49 Eng. Reprint 479; Cox v. Reid, 1 C. & P. 602, 12 E. C. L. 342, R. & M. 199, 21 E. C. L. 733; Gardner v. Cazenove, 1 H. & N. 423, 26 L. J. Exch. 17, 5 Wkly. Rep. 195; The Jane, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 791. Contra, Henderson v. Mayhew, 2 Gill (Md.) 393, 41 Am. Dec. 434. And see infra, II, F, 6, b.

It is a question of intention entirely, and if the parties intended that the apparently absolute deed should in truth be but conditional, then that fact may be shown in any form of proof which can establish it. Birkbeck v. Tucker, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 139; The Innisfallen, L. R. 1 A. & E. 72, 12 Jur. N. S. 653, 32 L. J. Adm. 110, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 71.

The provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, § 66) do not prevent the owners from showing that the transfer, although absolute in its terms, was intended as a security only. Ward v. Beck, 13 C. B. N. S. 668, 9 Jur. N. S. 912, 32 L. J. C. P. 113, 106 E. C. L. 668.

Evidence held to show bill of sale to be mortgage.— The Clifton, 143 Fed. 460, 74 C. C. A. 594; The Blohm, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,556, 1 Ben. 228; The Panama, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,703, Olcott 343.

67. Birkbeck v. Tucker, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 139.

When third parties misled.— If trust and confidence have been reposed in it by third parties, with the honest belief that it was indefeasible, and such parties have been misled by its form, they have a right to insist that, as to them, it shall be what upon its face it purports to be. McLellan v. Shinn, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 105, 21 L. ed. 87.

68. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4192 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2837].

In England the law applicable to the mortgage and hypothecation of vessels is now the Imperial Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, as modified by 36 Vict. c. 128, and this is also the law of the province of Quebec. Ross v. Smith, 23 L. C. Jur. 309.

69. Shaw v. McCandless, 36 Miss. 296.

70. Shaw v. McCandless, 36 Miss. 296.

In Louisiana vessels could only be mortgaged in accordance with the laws and usages of commerce. Hill v. De Lizardi, 2 Rob. 89; Hill v. Phœnix Tow Boat Co., 2 Rob. 35; Loze v. Dimitry, 7 La. 485. Therefore a conventional mortgage on a schooner, executed by the owner in favor of a creditor to secure the payment of a debt duly recorded in the mortgage office, was invalid. Wickham v. Levistones, 11 La. Ann. 702; Malcolm v. The Henrietta, 7 La. 488. So taking of a mortgage on a vessel by notarial act confers no right or privilege whatever, as ships cannot be mortgaged in that manner. Grant v. Fiol, 17 La. 158.

71. Shaw v. McCandless, 36 Miss. 296.

72. Mitchell v. Steelman, 8 Cal. 363; Shaw v. McCandless, 36 Miss. 296.

73. Shaw v. McCandless, 36 Miss. 296. And see infra, II, G, 2.

3. Requisites and Validity. A mortgage upon a vessel is precisely like other chattel mortgages,[74] except that, to be valid as against others than the mortgagor, his heirs and devisees, and persons having actual notice thereof, it must be recorded,[75] and, in England and Canada, should contain a recital of the certificate of ownership.[76]

4. Necessity of Delivery — a. In General. In the absence of a statute to the contrary,[77] a mortgage of a vessel, although unaccompanied by an immediate delivery and not followed by an actual change of possession, is not void if it be made to appear on the part of the mortgagee that the same was made in good faith and without any intent to defraud purchasers or creditors.[78] The want of change of possession subjects the instrument prima facie to the imputation of fraud, but such imputation may be rebutted by proof of good faith.[79] If the vessel is at sea or ready to go to sea, a mortgage thereof will be good as against creditors or assignees in bankruptcy, if the muniments of title are transferred,[80] and possession is taken by the mortgagee as soon as possible.[81] So any other sufficient reason for not changing possession in case of a mortgage suffices.[82]

b. Vessel in Process of Construction. Where a ship-builder, before he commences building the vessel, enters into a contract by which he hypothecates the

74. See, generally, Chattel Mortgages, 6 Cyc. 980. And see Kimball v. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank, 138 N. Y. 500, 34 N. E. 337, 20 L. R. A. 457; Thompson v. Smith, 1 Madd. 395, 56 Eng. Reprint 145.

Execution — witnesses.— Under the Merchant Shipping Act, a mortgage executed before one witness is valid. Ross v. Smith, 23 L. C. Jur. 309.

Effect of misdescription of vessel.— That a mortgage misdescribed the vessel is immaterial, if the identity is clear, and defendant, a purchaser of the boat, was not misled by the misdescription. Mattingly v. Darwin, 23 Ill. 618. And see Bell v. London Bank, 3 H. & N. 730, 28 L. J. Exch. 116.

75. See infra, II, G, 1.

76. Coleman v. Sherwood, 2 Grant Ch (U. C.) 652; Sherwood v. Coleman, 6 U. C. Q. B. 614; Watkins v. Corbett, 6 U. C. Q. B. 587.

Where this is omitted the mortgage will be wholly void. Watkins v. Corbett, 6 U. C. Q. B. 587.

77. Under N. Y. Laws (1864), c. 412, §§ 1, 2, the want of an immediate delivery and change of possession in the case of mortgaged property does not, as in the case of absolute sales, merely raise a presumption of fraud, which can be rebutted by proof of good faith, and due diligence in taking possession, but it makes the alleged lien absolutely void. Keller v. Paine, 107 N. Y. 83, 13 N. E. 635.

78. Cole v. White, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 511; Leland v. The Medora, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,237, 2 Woodb. & M. 92. Compare Kirkley v. Hodgson, 1 B. & C. 588, 2 D. & R. 848, 1 L. J. K. B. O. S. 185, 8 E. C. L. 248. And see Hay v. Monkhouse, Holt N. P. 603, 3 E. C. L. 236.

Constructive possession.—A mortgagee may recover upon a ship mortgage, although never in possession of the ship, if the mortgagor has given all the possession he can give. Belchier v. Parsons, 1 Ld. Ken. 38, 96 Eng. Reprint 908.

79. Cole v. White, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 511; Leland v. Medora, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,237, 2 Woodb. & M. 92.

If the assignment is in all other respects bona fide; if the parties act honestly and fairly, and held out no false colors to deceive creditors, then there is nothing in this circumstance which destroys the legal validity of the assignment. De Wolf v. Harris, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,221, 4 Mason 515.

The testimony to be received will be governed by the general rules of evidence applicable to questions in which it is the province of a jury to pass upon the intent of parties, and all proof tending to satisfy the understanding or the conscience of the jury as to the bona fides of the transaction not inconsistent with the general law of evidence is admissible. Cole v. White, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 511.

80. Badlam v. Tucker, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 389, 11 Am. Dec. 202; Morgan v. Biddle, 1 Yeates (Pa.) 3; Ex p. Batson, 3 Bro. Ch. 362, 29 Eng. Reprint 584; Atkinson v. Maling, 2 T. R. 462, 1 Rev. Rep. 524, 100 Eng. Reprint 249; Ex p. Matthews, 2 Ves. 272, 28 Eng. Reprint 176.

81. Massachusetts.— Badlam v. Tucker, 1 Pick. 389, 11 Am. Dec. 202.

New York.— Cole v. White, 26 Wend. 511.

Pennsylvania.— Morgan v. Biddle, 1 Yeates 3.

United States.— Leland v. The Medora, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,237, 2 Woodb. & M. 92.

England.— Ex p. Batson, 3 Bro. Ch. 362, 29 Eng. Reprint 584; Atkinson v. Maling, 2 T. R. 462, 1 Rev. Rep. 524, 100 Eng. Reprint 249; Ex p. Matthews, 2 Ves. 272, 28 Eng. Reprint 176.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 99.

82. Leland v. The Medora, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,237, 2 Woodb. & M. 92.

Where an undivided share of a vessel is mortgaged, delivery of possession is unnecessary. Winsor v. McLellan, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,887, 2 Story 492; Gillespy v. Coutts, Ambl. 652, 27 Eng. Reprint 423.

vessel to be built for advances, it is a valid hypothecation of the builder's interest, and gives a lien which will attach as the vessel comes into existence.[83] But such a mortgage or hypothecation, without actual possession or delivery, is not available against a subsequent bona fide purchaser,[84] or attaching creditors.[85]

5. Priorities[86] — a. In General. A mortgage on a boat is not a maritime contract,[87] and must be postponed to maritime liens, although subsequently created,[88] such as claims for seamen's wages,[89] and supplies and repairs furnished in a foreign port;[90] claims for supplies, repairs, and insurance furnished in the home port of the boat, for which the state law gives a lien, whether the same be furnished before or after the recording of the mortgage;[91] and construction claims for which, by the state law, a lien existed prior to the recording of the mortgage.[92] The federal recording statute[93] does not affect this result.[94] After the satisfaction of the maritime liens, a debt secured by a mortgage on the vessel will be

83. Hull of a New Ship, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,859, 2 Ware 203; Bell v. London Bank, 3 H. & N. 730, 28 L. J. Exch. 116.

By deposit of builder's certificate.— The deposit of the builder's certificate is a good equitable mortgage of all his property and interest in the ship, and although unfinished, it does not require registration under the Bills of Sale Act of 1854. Ex p. Hodgkin, L. R. 20 Eq. 746, 44 L. J. Bankr. 107; 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 62, 24 Wkly. Rep. 68.

84. Bonsey v. Amee, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 236; Ex p. Hodgkin, L. R. 20 Eq. 746, 44 L. J. Bankr. 107, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 62, 24 Wkly. Rep. 68; Daniel v. Russell, 14 Ves. Jr. 393, 33 Eng. Reprint 572.

85. Goodenow v. Dunn, 21 Me. 86.

86. Priority of bottomry lien see infra, VI, I, 2.

87. The Madrid, 40 Fed. 677; The Guiding Star, 18 Fed. 263 [affirming 9 Fed. 521]; Adams v. The Wyoming, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 71.

88. Freights of The Kate, 63 Fed. 706; Adams v. The Wyoming, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 71; The Hendrik Hudson, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,358; Schuchardt v. The Angelique, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,483*c* [affirmed in 19 How. 239, 15 L. ed. 625]; Schuchardt v. The Angelique, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,483*d*; The Dowthorpe, 2 Notes of Cas. 264, 3 Notes of Cas. 623, 2 W. Rob. 73, 365. And see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 802 note 16.

A mortgagee who permits a mortgagor to retain possession subjects a vessel to such liens as may accrue under the latter's management. The Live Oak, 30 Fed. 78.

Liens for advances of funds for the necessities of vessels in a foreign port have priority over existing mortgages to creditors at home. The Emily B. Souder, 17 Wall. (U. S.) 666, 21 L. ed. 683.

The successful suitor in a cause of damage has a lien upon the property condemned which is paramount to the claim of a mortgagee or bondholder prior to the period when the damage is done. The Aline, 1 W. Rob. 112.

89. The Guiding Star, 9 Fed. 521 [affirmed in 18 Fed. 263]; The Wexford, 7 Fed. 674; The Prince George, 3 Hagg. Adm. 376. And see The Penokee, 90 Fed. 825, 33 C. C. A. 298.

90. The Guiding Star, 9 Fed. 521 [affirmed in 18 Fed. 263]; The Granite State, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,687, 1 Sprague 277; Reeder v. The George's Creek, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,654. Contra, Schuchardt v. The Angelique, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,483*b*; Thomas v. The Kosciusko, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,901.

English rule.—Materialmen supplying necessaries in England to a British or British colonial vessel do not, under the Admiralty Court Act of 1861 (24 Vict. c. 10), § 5, acquire a maritime lien upon the ship. The ship does not become chargeable with the necessaries supplied until actually arrested by the court of admiralty. A mortgagee therefore is entitled to priority over materialmen. The Rio Tinto, 9 App. Cas. 356, 5 Aspin. 224, 50 L. T. Rep. N. S. 461; The Two Ellens, L. R. 4 P. C. 161, 1 Aspin. 208, 41 L. J. Adm. 33, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 1, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 398, 20 Wkly. Rep. 592, 17 Eng. Reprint 361; The Scio, L. R. 1 A. & E. 353, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 642; The Pacific, Brown & L. 243, 10 Jur. N. S. 1110, 33 L. J. Adm. 120, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 541 [overruling The Skipworth, 10 Jur. N. S. 445, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 43]; The Harriet, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 804. And see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 803 notes 20, 21.

91. Jones v. Keen, 115 Mass. 170; The J. E. Rumbell, 148 U. S. 1, 13 S. Ct. 498, 37 L. ed. 345; The Madrid, 40 Fed. 677; The Guiding Star, 18 Fed. 263 [affirming 9 Fed. 521]; Schuchardt v. The Angelique, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,483*d*. Contra, The De Smet, 10 Fed. 483; Baldwin v. The Bradish Johnson, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 798, 3 Woods 582; The Grace Greenwood, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,652, 2 Biss. 131; The John T. Moore, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,430, 3 Woods 61; The Kate Hinchman, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,621, 7 Biss. 238. And see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 804 note 27.

92. Provost v. Wilcox, 17 Ohio 359; Kellogg v. Brennan, 14 Ohio 72; The Guiding Star, 9 Fed. 521 [affirmed in 18 Fed. 263].

93. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4192 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2837].

94. See cases cited infra, this note.

That provision merely requires recording of mortgages or other conveyances of vessels as essential to their validity, except as against the grantors or other persons having actual notice thereof, and leaves all questions as to the priority of the encumbrances as they were before. The J. E. Rumbell, 148 U. S. 1, 13 S. Ct. 498, 37 L. ed. 345; The paid before the debts of the general creditors.[95] If the contract of the parties expressly excludes any lien,[96] or is too indefinite to constitute any lien,[97] or the lien has been lost,[98] or become stale,[99] no claim to priority over mortgagees can be admitted.

b. As Between Mortgages. In the absence of special equities, mortgages are entitled to priority according to their respective dates of record.[1] Under some circumstances priority between mortgages may depend upon a state of facts wholly independent of the dates of the instruments.[2]

6. Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor and Mortgagee — a. In General. So long as the mortgagee of the ship does not take possession, the mortgagor, as the registered owner of the ship, retains all the rights and privileges of ownership,[3] and all contracts made by him are valid so long as they do not impair the Madrid, 40 Fed. 677; The Guiding Star, 18 Fed. 263; The Favorite, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,699, 3 Sawy. 405. And see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 803 note 18.

95. Brown v. The Seguranca, 70 Fed. 258; The Illinois, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 7,005, 2 Flipp. 383.

96. The Allianca, 70 Fed. 258.

97. The Seguranca, 63 Fed. 726 [affirmed in 73 Fed. 503, 19 C. C. A. 541].

98. The Vigilancia, 70 Fed. 248.

Where a vessel is libeled for salvage, and released on bond, the salvors cease to have any lien on the vessel, and are not entitled to priority over a valid mortgage which antedates the salvage service. Roberts v. The Huntsville, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,904, 3 Woods 386.

99. Adams v. The Wyoming, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 71; The Columbia, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,036, 13 Blatchf. 521.

The wages of seamen, if sued upon during the season after they have accrued, are not stale, as against the claims of mortgagees whose mortgages were executed before the wages were earned. The Live Oak, 30 Fed. 78.

1. Baumgartner v. The W. B. Cole, 49 Fed. 587 [affirmed in 59 Fed. 182, 8 C. C. A. 78], holding further that one who takes a mortgage of a vessel by assignment after the recording of a mortgage of earlier date cannot protect himself from the priority of its lien, except by clearly showing that some one of the owners of the vessel through whom he acquired his lien was a bona fide purchaser without notice.

By section 69 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, mortgagees are entitled to priority according to their date of entry in the register books. The Royal Arch, Swab. 269.

2. See cases cited infra, this note.

Mortgages to secure future advances.— When a vessel has been mortgaged successively to two persons, to secure future advances and credits, advances in excess of the mortgage security, made by the first mortgagee after learning of the second mortgage, are subordinate to the equity of the second mortgagee. The Kate O'Neil, 65 Fed. 111. And this is so notwithstanding section 69 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854. The Benwell Tower, 8 Aspin. 13, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 664.

3. Kimball v. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank, 138 N. Y. 500, 34 N. E. 337, 20 L. R. A. 497; Keith v. Burrows, 2 App. Cas. 636, 3 Aspin. 481, 46 L. J. C. P. 801, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291, 25 Wkly. Rep. 831; Law Guarantee, etc., Soc. v. Russian Bank, [1905] 1 K. B. 815, 10 Aspin. 41, 10 Com. Cas. 159, 74 L. J. K. B. 577, 92 L. T. Rep. N. S. 435, 21 T. L. R. 383; The Innisfallen, L. R. 1 A. & E. 72, 12 Jur. N. S. 653, 32 L. J. Adm. 110, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 71; Collins v. Lamport, 11 Jur. N. S. 1, 34 L. J. Ch. 196, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 497; The Jane, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 791; D'Aoust v. McDonald, 22 L. C. Jur. 79.

The effect of the English Merchant Shipping Act upon the status of the mortgagee of a ship is as follows: It first declares that the mortgagee is not the owner; then that the mortgagor has not ceased to be the owner; then that the mortgagor shall be the owner, save so far as may be necessary for making the ship an available security for the mortgage debt. Brown v. Tanner, L. R. 3 Ch. 597, 37 L. J. Ch. 923, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 624, 16 Wkly. Rep. 882; Collins v. Lamport, 11 Jur. N. S. 1, 34 L. J. Ch. 196, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 497, 13 Wkly. Rep. 283; Kemp v. Smith, 23 L. C. Jur. 289.

Formerly, by reason of the earlier statutes, the mortgagee, the moment a mortgage was made and registered, became, in the eye of the law, the owner of the property; and the result was that the law was in the habit of regarding the mortgagor as standing in the capacity of a quasi-agent to the mortgagee, and the mortgagee frequently found himself bound, either by the contracts of the mortgagor, or at all events by the necessary expenditure and outgoings of the vessel. That was a very serious injury and inconvenience to the mortgagees, and it interposed considerable difficulty in the way of mortgagors getting money upon this species of security. See Collins v. Lamport, 11 Jur. N. S. 1, 34 L. J. Ch. 196, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 497, 13 Wkly. Rep. 283.

Every mortgage implies a debt, for which the mortgagor's personal estate is liable, although there be no bond or covenant for the payment of the mortgage money. King v. King, 3 P. Wms. 358, 24 Eng. Reprint 1100.

Right to sue for injury to vessel.— The owner as per registry of a vessel can maintain an action for an injury to her, notwithstanding she is mortgaged and in possession security of the mortgagee.[4] The mortgagee is not, by reason of his mortgage, deemed owner of the vessel, nor does he obtain thereby a right to the earnings;[5] but on taking possession, or doing something equivalent to it, the mortgagee takes the right to all earnings then accruing,[6] but not to earnings which have of the mortgagee, who receives her earnings, if the owner's right of redemption is still good. Wilson v. Knapp, 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 25 [affirmed in 70 N. Y. 596].

4. Eureka Min., etc., Co. v. Lewiston Nav. Co., 12 Ida. 472, 86 Pac. 49; Merchants' Banking Co. v. The Afton, 134 Fed. 727, 67 C. C. A. 618; The Innisfallen, L. R. 1 A. & E. 72, 12 Jur. N. S. 653, 32 L. J. Adm. 110, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 71; The Heather Bell, [1901] P. 272, 9 Aspin. 192, 206, 70 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 57, 84 L. T. Rep. N. S. 794, 17 T. L. R. 541, 49 Wkly. Rep. 577; Collins v. Lamport, 11 Jur. N. S. 1, 34 L. J. Ch. 196, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 497, 13 Wkly. Rep. 283; The Jane, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 791.

Prevention of interference with contracts. — Where the owner of a ship which is mortgaged charters her before the mortgagee takes possession, the mortgagee will be restrained by injunction from interfering with the due execution of the charter-party, unless it will materially impair the value of his security (The Innisfallen, L. R. 1 A. & E. 72, 12 Jur. N. S. 653, 32 L. J. Adm. 110, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 71; De Mattos v. Gibson, 4 De G. & J. 276, 5 Jur. N. S. 347, 555, 28 L. J. Ch. 165, 498, 7 Wkly. Rep. 100, 152, 403, 514, 61 Eng. Ch. 218, 45 Eng. Reprint 108; Collins v. Lamport, 11 Jur. N. S. 1, 34 L. J. Ch. 196, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 497, 13 Wkly. Rep. 283), and if the vessel be arrested in an action by the mortgagee, the court will release her on the application of the charterer, unless such injury is shown by the mortgagee (The Fanchon, 5 P. D. 173, 4 Aspin. 272, 50 L. J. Adm. 4, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 483, 29 Wkly. Rep. 339; The Blanche, 6 Aspin. 272, 58 L. T. Rep. N. S. 592; The Maxima, 4 Aspin. 21, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 112).

Where a mortgagor of a ship does some act which prejudices or injures the security of the mortgagee, the declaration in 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, §§ 70, 71, that the mortgagor is to be deemed the owner, ceases to have any binding effect against the mortgagee, and he may exercise the powers given to him by the mortgage. Law Guarantee, etc., Soc. v. Russian Bank, [1905] 1 K. B. 815, 10 Aspin. 41, 10 Com. Cas. 159, 74 L. J. K. B. 577, 92 L. T. Rep. N. S. 435, 21 T. L. R. 383; The Celtic King, [1894] P. 175, 7 Aspin. 440, 63 L. J. Adm. 37, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 562, 6 Reports 754; Collins v. Lamport, 11 Jur. N. S. 1, 34 L. J. Ch. 196, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 497, 13 Wkly. Rep. 283.

Right to make changes, additions, and repairs. — A mortgagor of a ship in possession with the consent of the mortgagee is thereby authorized to make any change, addition, or repairs thereon necessary and convenient for her preservation and use as a ship, so that it does not wilfully depreciate her value as a security to the mortgagee; and in such case the old material displaced by the new may be disposed of by the mortgagor as his property, unaffected by the mortgage. The Canada, 7 Fed. 248, 7 Sawy. 180. In case old material is not disposed of, and is left on board and passes into the possession of the mortgagee with the vessel, and is capable of being used in some form in its ordinary navigation, it would still be within the operation of the mortgage and belong to the mortgagee. The Canada, supra.

5. Massachusetts. — Milton v. Mosher, 7 Metc. 244.

New York. — Kimball v. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank, 138 N. Y. 500, 34 N. E. 337, 20 L. R. A. 497.

Wisconsin. — Tenney v. State Bank, 20 Wis. 152.

United States. — The Wexford, 7 Fed. 674; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226.

England. — Keith v. Burrows, 2 App. Cas. 636, 3 Aspin. 481, 46 L. J. C. P. 801, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291, 25 Wkly. Rep. 831; The Benwell Tower, 8 Aspin. 13, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 664; Willis v. Palmer, 7 C. B. N. S. 340, 6 Jur. N. S. 732, 29 L. J. C. P. 194, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 626, 8 Wkly. Rep. 295, 97 E. C. L. 340; Gardner v. Cazenove, 1 H. & N. 423, 26 L. J. Exch. 17, 5 Wkly. Rep. 195; Belfast Harbour Com'rs v. Lawther, 17 Ir. Ch. 54.

Canada. — Merchants' Bank v. Graham, 27 Grant Ch. (U. C.) 524.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 105.

6. Kimball v. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank, 138 N. Y. 500, 34 N. E. 337, 20 L. R. A. 497; Merchants' Banking Co. v. The Afton, 134 Fed. 727, 67 C. C. A. 618; Keith v. Burrows, 2 App. Cas. 636, 3 Aspin. 481, 46 L. J. C. P. 801, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291, 25 Wkly. Rep. 831 [affirming 2 C. P. D. 163, 46 L. J. C. P. 452, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 567, 25 Wkly. Rep. 446 (reversing 1 C. P. D. 722, 45 L. J. C. P. 876, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 508, 25 Wkly. Rep. 43)]; Brown v. Tanner, L. R. 3 Ch. 597, 37 L. J. Ch. 923, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 624, 16 Wkly. Rep. 882; Banner v. Berridge, 18 Ch. D. 254, 4 Aspin. 420, 50 L. J. Ch. 630, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 680, 29 Wkly. Rep. 844; Wilson v. Wilson, L. R. 14 Eq. 32, 1 Aspin. 265, 41 L. J. Ch. 423, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 346, 20 Wkly. Rep. 436; The Benwell Tower, 8 Aspin. 13, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 664; Tanner v. Phillips, 1 Aspin. 448, 42 L. J. Ch. 125, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 480, 717, 21 Wkly. Rep. 68; Cato v. Irving, 5 De G. & Sm. 210, 16 Jur. 161, 21 L. J. Ch. 675, 64 Eng. Reprint 1084; Gibson v. Ingo, 6 Hare 112, 31 Eng. Ch. 112, 67 Eng. Reprint 1103.

The mortgagee on taking possession becomes the owner, and it is by virtue of that ownership, and not by virtue of any antecedent contract or right, that he is entitled to receive the freight, which, by contract or otherwise, is lawfully payable. Keith v. Burrows, 2 App. Cas. 636, 3 Aspin. 481, 46 L. J been received by the mortgagor, although for the voyage then current.[7] Although the execution of a mortgage on a ship does not render the mortgagee the owner of the ship, he may dispose of it absolutely,[8] and may intervene and contest claims affecting his lien upon the vessel.[9] The claims of a mortgagee are extinguished

C. P. 801, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291, 25 Wkly Rep. 831.

Nature of possession to be taken.— There are cases which seem to establish that a first mortgagee who cannot take actual possession of a ship may, by taking constructive possession, entitle himself to exercise all the rights of an owner in possession. But in order to constitute constructive possession acts must be done on his behalf which clearly indicate an intention on his part to assume the rights of ownership. Rusden v. Pope, L. R. 3 Exch. 269, 37 L. J. Exch. 137, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 651, 16 Wkly. Rep. 1122; The Benwell Tower, 8 Aspin. 13, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 664. In Beynon v. Godden, 3 Ex. D. 263, 4 Aspin. 10, 48 L. J. Exch. 80, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 82, 26 Wkly. Rep. 672, the mortgagee of certain shares in a ship joined with the other owners in appointing a new ship's husband, and so effectually interfered by asserting his rights as owner. When the mortgage is of the entirety, the mortgagee may take exclusive possession. Cato v. Irving, 5 De G. & Sm. 210, 16 Jur. 161, 21 L. J. Ch. 675, 64 Eng. Reprint 1084. When it is of shares only, he cannot take possession so as to entitle him to prevent the owner taking possession of part. Cato v. Irving, supra. In such cases if the mortgagee, without formally taking possession, gives notice, and requires payment to himself of his shares, that entitles him to receive his share of the freight then accruing and not actually due. Cato v. Irving, supra. A second mortgagee has no right to take actual possession, and therefore cannot by his own act give himself that which is equivalent to possession. Liverpool Mar. Credit Co. v. Wilson, L. R. 7 Ch. 507, 41 L. J. Ch. 798, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 717, 20 Wkly. Rep. 665. But, as between him and the mortgagor, the equitable right of the second mortgagee is the same as the legal right of the first mortgagee. Liverpool Mar. Credit Co. v. Wilson, supra.

Mortgagees of a ship who take possession before the conclusion of a voyage are entitled to the freight then accruing. Beynon v. Godden, 3 Ex. D. 263, 4 Aspin. 10, 48 L. J. Exch. 80, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 82, 26 Wkly. Rep. 672. A mortgagee who takes possession before the cargo is delivered comes within the rule. Cato v. Irving, 5 De G. & Sm. 210, 16 Jur. 161, 21 L. J. Ch. 675, 64 Eng. Reprint 1084.

Effect of assignment of freight by mortgagor.— There is authority for the proposition that the mortgagee's right to the freight on taking possession cannot be defeated or curtailed by an assignment by the ship-owner. Merchants' Banking Co. v. The Afton, 134 Fed. 727, 67 C. C. A. 618; Liverpool Mar. Credit Co. v. Wilson, L. R. 7 Ch. 507, 41 L. J. Ch. 798, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 717, 20 Wkly. Rep. 665; Brown v. Tanner, L. R. 3 Ch. 597, 37 L. J. Ch. 923, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 624, 16 Wkly. Rep. 882; Wilson v. Wilson, L. R. 14 Eq. 32, 1 Aspin. 265, 41 L. J. Ch. 423, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 346, 20 Wkly. Rep. 436; Tanner v. Phillips, 10 Aspin. 448, 42 L. J. Ch. 125, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 480, 717, 21 Wkly. Rep. 68; Japp v. Campbell, 57 L. J. Q. B. 79. The owner can transfer no better title than he has at the time, and, if the mortgagee takes possession before the freight is paid, the owner has no title to it, his defeasible title having been divested. Merchants' Banking Co. v. The Afton, supra; Dobbyn v. Comerford, 10 Ir. Ch. 327. And if this be so, it follows a fortiori that persons who are not even assignees, but have a mere personal claim against the captain and ship's husband, cannot claim a right to freight as against the mortgagee of ship. Japp v. Campbell, 57 L. J. Q. B. 79.

7. Merchants' Banking Co. v. The Afton, 134 Fed. 727, 67 C. C. A. 618; Wilson v. Wilson, L. R. 14 Eq. 32, 1 Aspin. 265, 41 L. J. Ch. 423, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 346, 20 Wkly. Rep. 436; Cato v. Irving, 5 De G. & Sm. 210, 16 Jur. 161, 21 L. J. Ch. 675, 64 Eng. Reprint 1084.

8. Samuel v. Jones, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 760; In re Robert, 18 Quebec Super. Ct. 101.

By the 71st clause of the English Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, every recorded mortgagee shall have power absolutely to dispose of the ship, in respect of which he is registered as such, and to give effectual receipts for the purchase-money; but, if there are more persons than one recorded as mortgagees of the same ship, no second or subsequent mortgagee shall, except under the order of some court capable of taking cognizance of such matters, sell such ship, without the concurrence of every prior mortgagee. See Kemp v. Smith, 23 L. C. Jur. 289.

Sale by first mortgagee with assent of second mortgagee.— Where the first mortgagee of a ship, with the sanction and authority of the second mortgagee, sells her and receives the proceeds, which exceed the amount due to him, he is accountable to the second mortgagee in the character of trustee for the surplus. Tanner v. Heard, 23 Beav. 555, 3 Jur. N. S. 427, 5 Wkly. Rep. 420, 53 Eng. Reprint 219.

Sale after tender of sum due on mortgage.— A mortgagee who sells the ship when the amount due on the mortgage has been tendered to him is liable to pay the mortgagor the value of the ship beyond that sum. McLarty v. Middleton, 9 Wkly. Rep. 861 [affirmed in 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 852, 10 Wkly. Rep. 219].

Manner of sale.— Where a mortgagee has authority to sell only by public auction, a sale by private contract is unlawful. Brouard v. Dumaresque, 3 Moore P. C. 457, 13 Eng. Reprint 186.

9. The Hendrik Hudson, 11 Fed. Cas. No.

by a decree and sale in a suit brought to enforce a maritime lien,[10] although the mortgagee fails to appear or refuses to submit his claims and interests to the decision of the court or to be bound by its decree;[11] and his rights after such sale exist only against the proceeds of the sale.[12] A mortgagee has a beneficial interest in the vessel which may be attached by his creditors.[13] The assignee of a mortgage of a vessel takes it with all the rights and powers which were possessed by the mortgagee;[14] and no equities existing between several mortgagors will deprive the assignee of any of the usual remedies for the enforcement of the security.[15]

b. Liability For Supplies and Repairs.[16] Whatever doubts may formerly have been entertained as to the liability of a mortgagee of a vessel, not having her in his possession or control, for supplies and repairs furnished on the order or at the request of the master or mortgagor, it is now well settled, both in this country and in England, that no such liability exists.[17] Nor is the case altered because the mortgagee holds the legal title under a bill of sale absolute on its face, and stands upon the registry as the owner.[18] In order to render a mortgagee

6,358; Thomas v. Jamesson, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,900, 1 Cranch C. C. 91.

Intervention to secure proceeds of sale see infra, next note.

10. The Hendrik Hudson, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,358.

11. The Hendrik Hudson, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,358. Contra, Schuchardt v. The Angelique, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,483*a*.

Under the English Merchant Shipping Act, a vessel which has been mortgaged and the mortgage registered cannot be seized or brought to sale by any subsequent creditor of the mortgagor, without the consent of the mortgagee, or the order of a court of competent jurisdiction (Dickinson v. Kitchen, 8 E. & B. 789, 92 E. C. L. 789; Daigneault v. Brule, 22 Quebec Super. Ct. 20; In re Robert, 18 Quebec Super. Ct. 101; Ross v. Smith, 23 L. C. Jur. 309; Kelly v. Hamilton, 16 L. C. Jur. 320. And see The Eastern Belle, 3 Aspin. 19, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 214. But see D'Aoust v. McDonald, 22 L. C. Jur. 79); although the vessel, at the time of the seizure, be in the actual possession of the mortgagor, and the term for the repayment of the mortgage debt have not yet elapsed (Ross v. Smith, supra).

12. The Hendrik Hudson, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,358. See also Garritson v. His Creditors, 7 La. 551; Loew v. Austin, 140 Pa. St. 41, 21 Atl. 240; The Acme, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 28, 7 Blatchf. 366 [reversing 1 Fed. Cas. No. 27, 2 Ben. 386].

That a mortgagee purchased a vessel sold at a marshal's sale in a proceeding in rem against her does not extinguish the mortgagee's claim to the proceeds of sale. The Syracuse, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,716, 9 Ben. 348.

A mere agreement for a mortgage on a vessel does not give such an interest in the res as will entitle the party to claim proceeds of a sale of the vessel from the registry of a court of admiralty. The Favorite, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,699, 3 Sawy. 405.

13. Lyon v. Johnson, 3 Dana (Ky.) 544.

14. Dalrymple v. Sheehan, 20 Mich. 224.

15. Dalrymple v. Sheehan, 20 Mich. 224.

16. Liability for wages of seamen see SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1230.

17. Maine.—Wood v. Stockwell, 55 Me. 76; Cutler v. Thurlo, 20 Me. 213; Winslow v. Tarbox, 18 Me. 132.

Massachusetts.— Blanchard v. Fearing, 4 Allen 118; Howard v. Odell, 1 Allen 85; Brooks v. Bondsey, 17 Pick. 441, 28 Am. Dec. 313.

New Hampshire.— Lord v. Ferguson, 9 N. H. 380.

New York.— Hesketh v. Stevens, 7 Barb. 488; Birkbeck v. Tucker, 2 Hall 139; Ring v. Franklin, 2 Hall 9; Thorn v. Hicks, 7 Cow. 697; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. 298; McIntyre v. Scott, 8 Johns. 159.

Pennsylvania.— Duff v. Bayard, 4 Watts & S. 240, 39 Am. Dec. 73.

South Carolina.— Cordray v. Mordecai, 2 Rich. 518.

United States.—McLellan v. Shinn, 15 Wall. 105, 21 L. ed. 87; Davidson v. Baldwin, 79 Fed. 95, 24 C. C. A. 453; Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547; Dodge v. Leary, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,952*b*; Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278; Macy v. De Wolf, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,933, 3 Woodb. & M. 193; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226.

England.— Jackson v. Vernon, 1 H. Bl. 114; Baker v. Buckle, 7 Moore C. P. 349, 24 Rev. Rep. 685, 17 E. C. L. 515; Twentyman v. Hart, 1 Stark. 366, 2 E. C. L. 142.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 106.

One who purchases a vessel at marshal's sale, takes the legal title, and is registered as owner at the custom-house, but who in fact purchases for another and holds the title merely as collateral security for a debt, is a mere mortgagee. Davidson v. Baldwin, 79 Fed. 95, 24 C. C. A. 453.

18. Maine.— Cutler v. Thurlo, 20 Me. 213.

Massachusetts.— Howard v. Odell, 1 Allen 85; Brooks v. Bondsey, 17 Pick. 441, 28 Am. Dec. 313.

New Hampshire.— Lord v. Ferguson, 9 N. H. 380.

New York.— Weber v. Sampson, 6 Duer 358; Baxter v. Wallace, 1 Daly 303, 24 How. Pr. 484.

United States.—McLellan v. Shinn, 15 Wall 105, 21 L. ed. 87; Davidson v. Baldwin, 79 Fed. 95, 24 C. C. A. 453.

England.— Myers v. Willis, 17 C. B. 77, 2 Jur. N. S. 41, 25 L. J. C. P. 39, 4 Wkly. Rep.

liable it must be shown either that he was in possession of the vessel;[19] that the supplies were furnished, or the repairs made, at his request,[20] or by the direction of someone authorized to contract on his behalf;[21] or that he adopted the risks and expenses of the voyage,[22] or held himself out as the real owner of the vessel in such way as to lead persons to believe that the master or mortgagor was his agent authorized to make contracts concerning the vessel.[23]

7. Foreclosure and Discharge. The discharge[24] and foreclosure[25] of mortgages on vessels are governed by the rules applicable in the case of chattel mortgages generally.

42, 84 E. C. L. 77 [affirmed in 18 C. B. 886, 2 Jur. N. S. 788, 25 L. J. C. P. 255, 4 Wkly. Rep. 637, 86 E. C. L. 886].

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 106.

But see Starr v. Knox, 2 Conn. 215, holding that if the mortgagee of a vessel appears from the register and papers to be the absolute, unconditional owner of a vessel, he is bound by such evidence, and will be liable for the necessary disbursements in repairs and supplies procured by the master during the voyage, if the individuals so making the advances make them on the credit of such evidence.

True relation may be shown.— Parol evidence is admissible to show that the bill of sale, whereby the vessel is conveyed, although absolute upon its face, was nevertheless intended as a mortgage. Ring v. Franklin, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 1; Champlin v. Butler, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 169; Cordray v. Mordecai, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 518; Jones v. Blum, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 475; Davidson v. Baldwin, 79 Fed. 95, 24 C. C. A. 453; Cox v. Reid, 1 C. & P. 602, 12 E. C. L. 342, R. & M. 199, 21 E. C. L. 733. And see supra, II, F, 1.

The mortgagor of a vessel is a competent witness for the mortgagee, who is sued as owner, to show the nature of the transfer, and to prove that a conveyance, apparently absolute, was in fact conditional. Ring v. Franklin, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 1.

19. Tucker v. Buffington, 15 Mass. 477; Baxter v. Wallace, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 303; Miln v. Spinola, 6 Hill (N. Y.) 218 [affirming 4 Hill 177] (although his relation to the ship was unknown to the creditor when the demand arose); Champlin v. Butler, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 169; Havilland v. Thomson, 3 Macph. 313; Ex p. Howden, 11 L. J. Bankr. 19, 2 Mont. D. & De G. 574.

What constitutes possession.— The policy of the law being to regard the legal title to a vessel as the controlling one, for the purpose of protecting all who give credit to her owners or have remedies against them, very slight acts of possession by the mortgagee will be considered as placing him in that position, and subjecting him to those liabilities; but to charge him personally there must be some unequivocal act of possession. Stalker v. The Henry Kneeland, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,282. He does not, merely by delivery of the documents, acquire such possession as to incur any liability for expenses. Fisher v. Willing, 8 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 118.

20. Weber v. Sampson, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 358; Ring v. Franklin, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 1; Baxter v. Wallace, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 303.

If a person who is mortgagee as well as broker of a ship gives directions for repairs to be done, the question for the jury will be, in an action by the tradesman against him, whether he gave the directions only in his character of broker, or as a person having an interest in the vessel. Castle v. Duke, 5 C. & P. 359, 24 E. C. L. 605.

21. Howard v. Odell, 1 Allen (Mass.) 85; Ring v. Franklin, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 1; Baxter v. Wallace, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 303; Davidson v. Baldwin, 79 Fed. 95, 24 C. C. A. 453.

Neither the master nor the mortgagor have authority to act as agent of the mortgagee, if he is not in possession of the vessel, and does not receive the benefit of her earnings, or exercise any control over her, but only holds his title as collateral security for his debt. Howard v. Odell, 1 Allen (Mass.) 85; Morgan v. Shinn, 15 Wall. (U. S.) 105, 21 L. ed. 87. But see Williams v. Allsup, 10 C. B. N. S. 417, 8 Jur. N. S. 57, 30 L. J. C. P. 353, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 550, 100 E. C. L. 417, holding that where the mortgagee leaves the mortgagor in possession of the vessel, and allows him to use her, the mortgagor has implied authority to order repairs to be made, and the shipwright is entitled to hold the vessel as against the mortgagee until his debt is paid.

22. Weston v. Wright, 1 Rob. (N. Y.) 312; Delano v. Wright, 1 Rob. (N. Y.) 298.

23. Howard v. Odell, 1 Allen (Mass.) 85; Tucker v. Buffington, 15 Mass. 477.

24. See Chattel Mortgages, 7 Cyc. 66, 67.

Duty of registrar to enter discharge.— Upon production of a mortgage with a receipt for the mortgage money indorsed, the registrar's duty is to enter the discharge of the mortgage on the register. Holderness v. Lamport, 29 Beav. 129, 7 Jur. N. S. 564, 30 L. J. Ch. 489, 9 Wkly. Rep. 327, 54 Eng. Reprint 576. But there is no provision in the merchant shipping acts which authorizes the registrar to erase entries of mortgages. Chasteauneuf v. Capeyron, 7 App. Cas. 127, 4 Aspin. 489, 51 L. J. P. C. 37, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 65.

25. See Chattel Mortgages, 7 Cyc. 92–121.

Recording notice of foreclosure see Taber v. Hamlin, 97 Mass. 489, 93 Am. Dec. 113. And see Chattel Mortgages, 7 Cyc. 96 note 59.

Presence of vessel as condition precedent to valid sale see Means v. Worthington, 22 Ohio St. 622. And see Chattel Mortgages, 7 Cyc. 96 note 61.

G. Recording Conveyances — 1. Necessity of Recording. Mortgages on vessels, although not recorded, are good as between the parties,[26] and against their assigns under bankrupt and insolvent systems, although not recorded till after their appointment.[27] But as against creditors of the mortgagor,[28] or bona fide purchasers from the mortgagor in possession,[29] an unrecorded mortgage is invalid. By act of congress[30] it is provided that a conveyance or a mortgage of a vessel, to be valid against a subsequent purchaser or creditor of the mortgagor without actual notice, must be recorded.[31] But as against persons having actual Power to enter deficiency judgment see Toby v. Oregon Pac. R. Co., 98 Cal. 490, 33 Pac. 550.

26. Leland v. Medora, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,237, 2 Woodb. & M. 92; Winsor v. McLellan, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,887, 2 Story 492. See, generally, Chattel Mortgages, 6 Cyc. 1065.

27. Leland v. Medora, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,237, 2 Woodb. & M. 92. And see Chattel Mortgages, 6 Cyc. 1066.

28. Zacharie v. O'Beirne, 6 La. 398. And see Chattel Mortgages, 6 Cyc. 1068.

29. The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,187, 1 Paine 671; The Romp, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,030, Olcott 196. And see Chattel Mortgages, 6 Cyc. 1072.

One who purchases with notice of a prior mortgage is not a bona fide purchaser (The Independence, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,013, 9 Ben. 395, 55 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 205), unless his vendor who purchased before the mortgage was recorded was a bona fide purchaser without notice, and the burden is on him to show that fact (Baumgartner v. The W. B. Cole, 49 Fed. 587).

A person who has notice enough to put him on inquiry is bound to make inquiry, and will be held to have had notice of everything to which such inquiry would have reasonably led. The Independence, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,013, 9 Ben. 395, 55 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 205.

Where fraudulent concealment.— The legal title of a mortgagee of a ship who for the purpose of facilitating a sale by the mortgagor conceals his mortgage cannot prevail in equity against a purchaser for valuable consideration without notice. Hooper v. Gumm, L. R. 2 Ch. 282, 36 L. J. Ch. 605, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 107, 15 Wkly. Rep. 464.

30. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4192 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2837].

31. Foster v. Chamberlain, 41 Ala. 158; The Superior, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,626, 5 Sawy. 83.

Act constitutional.— Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463.

Subsequent recording ineffectual as to antecedent creditors.— Arnold v. Eastin, 116 Ky. 686, 76 S. W. 855, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 895.

An oral gift of a vessel is not sufficient to pass title thereto as against the creditors of the giver. Palmer v. Smith, 126 Mich. 352, 85 N. W. 870.

An assignment for benefit of creditors is a conveyance within U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4192 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2837]. Haug v. Detroit Third Nat. Bank, 77 Mich. 474, 43 N. W. 939.

A charter-party is not a conveyance, within the provisions of the act of July 29, 1850, and is not required to be recorded in the collector's office. Mott v. Ruckman, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,881, 3 Blatchf. 71.

Necessity of indexing.— A mortgage recorded under this statute is constructive notice, although not indexed. The W. B. Cole, 59 Fed. 182, 8 C. C. A. 78 [affirming 49 Fed. 587].

Possession under unrecorded conveyance.— One deriving title to a vessel through a deed not recorded at the port of enrolment takes his title subject to the superior rights of one having a prior unrecorded deed accompanied by possession. The Mary F. Bofinger v. The United States, 18 Ct. Cl. 148.

Vessels to which statutory provisions apply.— The act of July 29, 1850, providing for the recording of mortgages, etc., of vessels, applies only to vessels which have been registered or enrolled at the time when the instrument is made. Before such registry or enrolment, they are subject to the laws of the state. Foster v. Perkins, 42 Me. 168; Johnson v. Merrill, 122 Mass. 153; Veazie v. Somerby, 5 Allen (Mass.) 280; Brammell v. Hart, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 366; Thurber v. The Fannie, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,014, 8 Ben. 429. In order, however, to give validity to a mortgage upon a vessel alleged to be a vessel of the United States employed in the coasting trade, as against the state statute, it must be made to appear that she was registered and also that she was enrolled and licensed as required by the act of 1793 (1 U. S. St. at L. 305). Best v. Staple, 61 N. Y. 71. A vessel not properly enrolled (Brammell v. Hart, supra), or which has lost her national character (Davidson v. Gorham, 6 Cal. 343; Johnson v. Merrill, 122 Mass. 153), is not a vessel of the United States within this statute. A vessel which is not required to be enrolled becomes, if enrolled, a national vessel. Lawrence v. Hodges, 92 N. C. 672, 53 Am. Rep. 436. Canal-boats do not come within the description of vessels of the United States. Witherbee v. Taft, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 87, 64 N. Y. Suppl. 347; Hicks v. Williams, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 523. The filing of mortgages on canal-boats in New York depends wholly upon N. Y. Act, April 28, 1864 (N. Y. Laws (1864), p. 993), as such act entirely superseded N. Y. Act, April 29, 1833 (N. Y. Laws (1833), p. 402), and N. Y. Act, April 15, 1858 (N. Y. Laws (1858), p. 396) so far as they related to canal-boats. The Independence, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,013, 9 Ben. 395.

Place of record.— Mortgages of vessels should, under the act of July 29, 1850, be notice thereof, a mortgage or conveyance is valid, although not recorded as required by this statute.[32] In England and Canada the recording of conveyances and mortgages of vessels is also regulated by statute.[33]

2. What Law Governs. Before a vessel is registered or enrolled, a mortgage of it will be valid if recorded agreeably to the laws of the state.[34] After it is registered or enrolled, a mortgage of it will not be valid against any person other than recorded at the home port, and not at the port of last registry and enrolment. Johnson v. Merrill, 122 Mass. 153; White's Bank v. Smith, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 646, 19 L. ed. 211; Blanchard v. The Martha Washington, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,513, 1 Cliff. 463; The John T. Moore, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,430, 3 Woods 61. Contra, Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me. 9; Potter v. Irish, 10 Gray (Mass.) 416. The recording of the mortgage elsewhere is as ineffectual as if it had not been recorded at all, so far as constituting it constructive notice to creditors or purchasers was concerned. Foster v. Chamberlain, 41 Ala. 158; Arnold v. Eastin, 116 Ky. 686, 76 S. W. 855, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 895. Previous to this act, providing for the recording of bills of sale, mortgages, etc., of vessels, they were required to be filed, by the laws of many of the states, in the clerk's office, or some place of public deposit in the town or city where the vendor or mortgagor resided, in order to protect the interests of the vendee or mortgagee against subsequent bona fide purchasers or mortgagees. White's Bank v. Smith, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 646, 19 L. ed. 211. And see Cape Fear Steamboat Co. v. Conner, 3 Rich. (S. C.) 335; Beaumont v. Yeatman, 8 Humphr. (Tenn.) 542. And this practice continued in many places after the passage of the act of 1850, for abundant caution, on account of a doubt as to the effect that would or might be given to it as a recording act, from the very imperfect provisions of the law. White's Bank v. Smith, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 646, 19 L. ed. 211.

32. Parker Mills v. Jacot, 8 Bosw. (N. Y.) 161; Moore v. Simonds, 100 U. S. 145, 25 L. ed. 590; The W. B. Cole, 59 Fed. 182, 8 C. C. A. 78 [affirming 49 Fed. 587]; The John T. Moore, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,430, 3 Woods 61.

Possession of the vessel by the vendee is sufficient notice. Hobbs v. The Interchange, 1 W. Va. 57.

Constructive notice is not enough. Secrist v. German Ins. Co., 19 Ohio St. 476.

33. See cases cited infra, this note.

Under 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, sales of ships can only be made in the manner prescribed by the statute. Chasteauneuf v. Capeyron, 7 App. Cas. 127, 4 Aspin. 489, 51 L. J. P. C. 37, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 65; Liverpool Borough Bank v. Turner, 1 Johns. & H. 159, 6 Jur. N. S. 935, 29 L. J. Ch. 827, 8 Wkly. Rep. 730, 70 Eng. Reprint 703 [affirmed in 2 De G. F. & J. 502, 7 Jur. N. S. 150, 30 L. J. Ch. 379, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 494, 9 Wkly. Rep. 292, 63 Eng. Ch. 391, 45 Eng. Reprint 715]. One of the requisites for completing the transfer of any British ship is an entry of the bill of sale at the proper custom-house, in the book of registry, and the indorsement thereof on the certificate. De Wolf v. Carvill, 11 N. Brunsw. 299; Cutten v. McFarlane, 7 Nova Scotia 468; Orser v. Mounteny, 9 U. C. Q. B. 382; Smith v. Brown, 14 U. C. Q. B. 1. The property in a ship passes, as between the vendor and his assignees and the vendee, by a bill of sale, although the transfer is not registered pursuant to the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, § 55 (Stapleton v. Haymen, 2 H. & C. 918, 10 Jur. N. S. 497, 33 L. J. Exch. 170, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 655, 12 Wkly. Rep. 317), but, until registration of the transfer under section 57, the transferee cannot transfer the vessel to a purchaser from himself (Stapleton v. Haymen, supra). An unregistered ship is a thing the transfer of which is not dealt with either by the Merchant Shipping Act or the Bills of Sale Act, and goes according to the common law, and the transfer is good, although there has been no registration at all. Union Bank v. Lenanton, 3 C. P. D. 243, 3 Aspin. 600, 47 L. J. C. P. 409, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 698. The duty to register a transfer of ownership rests with the vendee. The Spirit of the Ocean, 34 L. J. Adm. 74, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 239. A legal mortgage of a ship in statutory form and registered has priority over an equitable charge previously given, even where the legal mortgagee takes with notice of the charge. Black v. Williams, [1895] 1 Ch. 408, 64 L. J. Ch. 137, 2 Manson 86, 13 Reports 224, 43 Wkly. Rep. 346; Coombes v. Mansfield, 3 Drew. 193, 3 Eq. Rep. 566, 1 Jur. N. S. 270, 24 L. J. Ch. 513, 3 Wkly. Rep. 345, 61 Eng. Reprint 877; De Wolf v. Carvill, 11 N. Brunsw. 299; Luffman v. Luffman, 25 Ont. App. 48. Contra, under earlier registry act. McCalmont v. Rankin, 2 De G. M. & G. 403, 22 L. J. Ch. 554, 51 Eng. Ch. 316, 42 Eng. Reprint 928 [affirming 8 Hare 1, 14 Jur. 475, 19 L. J. Ch. 215, 32 Eng. Ch. 1, 68 Eng. Reprint 249].

The Bills of Sale Act of 1878, § 4, excepts from registration as a bill of sale transfers or assignments of a ship and vessel or any share thereof. Gapp v. Bond, 19 Q. B. D. 200, 56 L. J. Q. B. 438, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 437, 35 Wkly Rep. 683; Union Bank v. Lenanton, 3 C. P. D. 243, 3 Aspin. 600, 47 L. J. C. P. 409, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 698. A barge is a vessel within this exception. Gapp v. Bond, supra.

In Canada, under Civ. Code, §§ 2360, 2361, the transfer of inland vessels must be registered at the custom-house; otherwise no title or interest in the vessel intended to be sold will pass to the purchaser. Calvin v. Tranchemontagne, 14 L. C. Jur. 210.

34. Stinson v. Minor, 34 Ind. 89; Perkins v. Emerson, 59 Me. 319; Foster v. Perkins, 42 Me. 168; Brammell v. Hart, 12 Heisk. (Tenn.) 366.

the mortgagor, his heirs and devisees, and persons having actual notice thereof, unless recorded as required by the laws of the United States.[35]

3. EFFECT OF RECORDING. The statute relating to the recording of conveyances and mortgages on vessels gives no lien or other priority to mortgages and conveyances than they had before the act was passed, except to recorded conveyances and mortgages, over mortgages and conveyances not recorded, in certain cases.[36] Neither does it affect the personal liability of the owner,[37] nor give a force or validity to a conveyance or mortgage which it has not by the state law.[38] The proper construction of the recording acts charges every person taking title with all conveyances or mortgages made by any one in the chain of title while he holds title, whether the recording of such conveyances occurs then or not.[39] The statute is no less effective in favor of an attaching creditor without notice than it is in favor of a purchaser.[40]

4. RENEWAL AND REFILING.[41] In some states there are statutory provisions requiring that mortgages on canal-boats must be refiled within a specified time after the original filing, in order to be valid against third persons.[42]

III. CHARTERS.

[EDITED BY CHARLES R. HICKOX, ESQ., OF THE NEW YORK BAR]

A. Form, Requisites, and Validity. A charter is merely a contract concerning a ship and does not require any particular form for its validity.[43] Usually it is a contract by which the ship-owner agrees to carry goods or passengers on a specified voyage, or it is an agreement for the use of the entire vessel

35. Maine.— Perkins v. Emerson, 59 Me. 319; Wood v. Stockwell, 55 Me. 76.

Michigan.— Fleming v. Philadelphia F. Assoc., 147 Mich. 404, 110 N. W. 933; Haug v. Detroit Third Nat. Bank, 77 Mich. 474, 43 N. W. 939; Robinson v. Rice, 3 Mich. 235.

New York.— Best v. Staple, 61 N. Y. 71; Folger v. Weber, 16 Hun 512.

North Carolina.— Lawrence v. Hodges, 92 N. C. 672, 53 Am. Rep. 436.

United States.—Aldrich v. Ætna Ins. Co., 8 Wall. 491, 19 L. ed. 473; White's Bank v. Smith, 7 Wall. 646, 19 L. ed. 211; The Gordon Campbell, 131 Fed. 963; The Vigilancia, 73 Fed. 452, 19 C. C. A. 528; Thomas v. The Kosciusko, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,901.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 112.

Contra.— Karr v. Schade, 7 Lea (Tenn.) 294.

36. White's Bank v. Smith, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 646, 19 L. ed. 211; The Madrid, 40 Fed. 677; The Guiding Star, 18 Fed. 263; The De Smet, 10 Fed. 483; The Favorite, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,699, 3 Sawy. 405.

37. Hurd v. Reeve, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,917; Mott v. Ruckman, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,881, 3 Blatchf. 71.

38. Boderick's Succession, 12 La. Ann. 521; Srodes v. The Collier, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,272*a*; Orr v. Dickinson, Johns. 1, 5 Jur. N. S. 672, 28 L. J. Ch. 516, 70 Eng. Reprint 315.

Registration is but the record of a fact done — a record of the sale, not the sale itself. The Spirit of the Ocean, 34 L. J. Adm. 74, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 239.

39. The W. B. Cole, 59 Fed. 182, 8 C. C. A. 78.

40. Potter v. Irish, 10 Gray (Mass.) 416; The Parker Mills v. Jacot, 8 Bosw. (N. Y.) 161; Secrist v. German Ins. Co., 19 Ohio St. 476. But see Fort Pitt Nat. Bank v. Williams, 43 La. Ann. 418, 9 So. 117.

41. See, generally, CHATTEL MORTGAGES, 6 Cyc. 1092 et seq.

42. See the statutes of the several states. And see cases cited infra, this note.

By a statute of New York (N. Y. Laws (1864), p. 993), every mortgage on canal-boats, or a copy thereof, is required to be filed in the office of the auditor of the canal department, and within thirty days next preceding a year from the filing thereof a copy is required to be again filed, or the mortgage shall be void as against the creditors of the mortgagor, or subsequent purchasers, or mortgagees in good faith. Marsden v. Cornell, 62 N. Y. 215. But under this act no filing is necessary after the original filing of the mortgage and the first filing of the copy with the proper statement. The Independence, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,013, 9 Ben. 395, 55 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 205. The refiling of a copy of such mortgage, after the expiration of the time in which such filing is required, revives the mortgage, and makes it good against all subsequent creditors, purchasers, and mortgagees, but it is subject to the claims of purchasers and mortgagees whose rights accrued during the default, and to the rights of all creditors whose debts were contracted before the refiling, as well those contracted before the default as after; and it is not necessary, to entitle creditors to the protection of this act, that their debts should have become liens by judgment or attachment before the refiling, if they have been made liens before the question arises. Herrick v. King, 19 N. J. Eq. 80.

43. Coe v. Cook, 3 Whart. (Pa.) 569; Quillan v. Brunswick, etc., R. Co., 130 Fed. 216; James v. Brophy, 71 Fed. 310, 18 C. C. A. 49.

for a period of time in such localities as may be designated. The term "charter" commonly is not applied to a shipment of an individual package.[44] Charter-parties are usually in writing, but may be by parol,[45] and terminable at will.[46] As in other contracts, the minds of the parties must meet without variance between the offer and acceptance.[47]

B. Execution — 1. Authority to Execute. A charter-party is usually made through a broker, but, as in the case of any other contract, may be closed directly by the principals.[48] The broker is merely an agent. His authority is dependent on the specific instructions he may have received, or it may be implied from a course of dealing with the principal.[49] Although the charter contract is not signed in behalf of the ship or her owners, it is binding upon both parties, if it has been delivered to and accepted by them, and the ship has entered on its performance;[50] but an unauthorized agent cannot bind the vessel[51] unless his contract be ratified,[52] with full knowledge of all the facts.[53] A charter-party executed by one known to both parties to have no authority binds not the alleged charterer but the signer himself.[54] The master has power to make a charter-party in a 44. Stalker v. The Henry Kneeland, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,282. See Swift v. Tatner, 89 Ga. 660, 15 S. E. 842, 32 Am. St. Rep. 101.

45. Fish v. Sullivan, 40 La. Ann. 193, 3 So. 730; Muggridge v. Eveleth, 9 Metc. (Mass.) 233; Taggard v. Loring, 16 Mass. 336, 8 Am. Dec. 140; Huron Barge Co. v. Turney, 71 Fed. 972; James v. Brophy, 71 Fed. 310, 18 C. C. A. 49; Burrill v. Crossman, 65 Fed. 104; Quirk v. Clinton, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,518; Lidgett v. Williams, 4 Hare 456, 14 L. J. Ch. 459, 30 Eng. Ch. 456, 67 Eng. Reprint 727.

46. Fish v. Sullivan, 40 La. Ann. 193, 3 So. 730.

47. Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Boutell Transp., etc., Co., 185 Mass. 391, 70 N. E. 421; Nipigon Transit Co. v. Smythe, 137 Mich. 103, 100 N. W. 275; La Compania, etc., v. Spanish-American Light, etc., Co., 146 U. S. 483, 13 S. Ct. 142, 36 L. ed. 1054.

An agreement for a charter-party which contains the substantial provisions of a charter-party, a definite voyage to be performed on one side and a definite compensation to be paid therefor by the other side, may be held to amount to a present charter-party, although a more formal instrument was contemplated. The Tribune, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,171, 3 Sumn. 144. But not so of an agreement to assign to one of the parties all the freight earned by a vessel up to certain specified sums, and one half of all above them. Stalker v. The Henry Kneeland, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,282.

A charter conditioned upon the responsibility of a guarantor of the charterer is of no effect if the guarantor turns out to be not responsible. Erlen v. The Brewer, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,519 [reversing 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,519*a*]. And see The H. W. Edye, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,964, 10 Ben. 238.

48. Bangs v. Lowber, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 840, 2 Cliff. 157; Quirk v. Clinton, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,518.

An agreement made by all the owners jointly with one of their own number cannot be enforced at law. Terry v. Brightman, 132 Mass. 318.

49. Saveland v. Green, 40 Wis. 431; The S. L. Watson, 118 Fed. 945, 55 C. C. A. 439.

Broker insufficiently authorized.—A shipbroker at the home port of a vessel, where her managing owner resides, cannot bind the owners by a charter-party executed upon the mere authority of a telegram from the master, and without consulting the managing owner; nor will the silence of the managing owner, after notice, operate as a ratification, if such notice contained an incorrect statement of the facts. Craig v. Magee, 11 Fed. 175.

50. James v. Brophy, 71 Fed. 310, 18 C. C. A. 49.

A charter procured through the broker's fraud will not be sustained. Hendricksson v. Wright, 14 Phila. (Pa.) 590.

Undisclosed principal.—A managing owner, who makes a charter-party, as such, without disclosing the other part-owners, is personally liable thereon. Kerry v. Pacific Mar. Co., 121 Cal. 564, 54 Pac. 89, 66 Am. St. Rep. 65.

A charter-party made by agents who are part-owners to enable an individual creditor to repay himself out of earnings is void as against the vessel and other owners. The A. M. Bliss, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 274, 2 Lowell 103.

51. Nipigon Transit Co. v. Smythe, 137 Mich. 103, 100 N. W. 275.

52. Metropolitan Coal Co. v. Boutell Transp., etc., Co., 196 Mass. 72, 81 N. E. 645; Morris v. The Alvah, 59 Fed. 630 [affirmed in 77 Fed. 315, 23 C. C. A. 181], holding that a contract binds the ship when it is confirmed by those who have authority, and the ship has actually entered upon the performance of it, although it may have been a contract preliminary to a maritime contract, or made by brokers acting without sufficient authority.

The owner cannot ratify in part and reject in part. La Compania, etc. v. Spanish-American Light, etc., Co., 146 U. S. 483, 13 S. Ct. 142, 36 L. ed. 1054 [affirming 31 Fed. 492].

53. Starr v. Galgate Ship Co., 68 Fed. 234, 15 C. C. A. 366 [reversing 58 Fed. 894].

54. New York, etc., Steamship Co. v. Harbison, 16 Fed. 688, 21 Blatchf. 332.

foreign port, where the vessel-owners have no agent;[55] but it is essential to the validity of a charter-party, made with the master of a vessel at her home port, that the managing owner should ratify;[56] and the master cannot, by mere virtue of his office, bind his owners by a charter-party under seal, so as to subject them to an action of covenant thereon.[57]

2. Execution by Ship-Broker; Commissions. If a charter is executed by a ship-broker his commissions for procuring the charter are payable as soon as the charter is effected, and do not depend on freight being taken or earned or on the voyage being completed;[58] and if the broker finds a person ready to contract on the terms offered by the principal, and the contract is not completed through the refusal or inability of the principal to perform his part, the broker is still entitled to his commission,[59] unless the expressed intention of the parties was that the broker should not be entitled to his commission if the earning of hire was prevented by causes such as in fact put an end to the charter-party.[60] But a broker is not entitled to a commission on a new charter, incorporating new provisions and made directly between ship-owner and charterer, as an extension or renewal of a former charter effected through him.[61] If the contract is in fact consummated through the broker's efforts he is entitled to his commission, although the prin-

55. Hurry v. Hurry, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,922, 2 Wash. 145, holding, however, that the master has no power to enter into a charter in a foreign port for the purpose of giving a creditor of the vessel-owner a security for his debt.

56. Craig v. Magee, 14 Phila. (Pa.) 502.

A master, sailing a vessel on shares by agreement with the owners, has not thereby authority to enter into a charter-party in the home port, binding the owners. Swan v. Ruckman, 25 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 468.

57. Pickering v. Holt, 6 Me. 160.

58. Brown v. Post, 6 Rob. (N. Y.) 111; Hill v. Kitching, 3 C. B. 299, 15 L. J. C. P. N. S. 251, 54 E. C. L. 299, holding that apart from express stipulation a ship-broker's commission is due, although no freight is earned in consequence of the loss of the chartered vessel, and a ship returns from her voyage with only a small portion of the cargo on board, or with light articles. See Winter v. Mair, 3 Taunt. 531.

Loss of the vessel during the voyage, although it may bar an action by the owner for his freight, is no defense to an action by the broker for his commission, even though such action was in form for breach of contract of affreightment. Hagar v. Donaldson, 154 Pa. St. 242, 25 Atl. 824.

If several brokers are employed by a ship-owner, but unknown to each other negotiate with the same freighter or purchaser, the broker who first introduces the party is entitled to the commission, and even where the parties are known to each other, the broker who first brings them into communication in the particular transaction earns his commission if business results. Burnett v. Bouch, 9 C. & P. 620, 38 E. C. L. 362; Cunard v. Van Oppen, 1 F. & F. 716.

Charter sufficiently definite to entitle broker to commission.—A charter-party, whereby steamers are hired by a steamboat company owning them to the United States government for one month, "and as much longer as said vessels may be required by the United States war department," is not void for uncertainty, so as to deprive a broker through whose services the charter was effected of the right to recover a commission agreed to be paid of five per cent on the earnings of the steamers in case of his effecting the charter. Sturgis v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 62 N. Y. 625.

59. Cook v. Fiske, 12 Gray (Mass.) 491 (holding that a broker who, being employed by the owner of a vessel to obtain a charter, brings to him a person with whom he makes an agreement for a charter, is entitled to the usual commissions, although the owner afterward without legal excuse refuses to sign the charter-party and the voyage is never completed); Jewett v. Emson, 2 Rob. (N. Y.) 165; Inchbald v. Neilgherry Coffee, etc., Plantation Co., 17 C. B. N. S. 733, 10 Jur. N. S. 1129, 34 L. J. C. P. 15, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 345, 13 Wkly. Rep. 95, 112 E. C. L. 733; Prickett v. Badger, 1 C. B. N. S. 296, 3 Jur. N. S. 66, 26 L. J. C. P. 33, 5 Wkly. Rep. 117, 87 E. C. L. 296; Thompson v. Clark, 1 Mar. L. Cas. 256. But see Broad v. Thomas, 7 Bing. 99, 20 E. C. L. 53, 4 C. & P. 338, 19 E. C. L. 543, 9 L. J. C. P. O. S. 32, 4 M. & P. 732.

Where a person employed by the ship-owner has introduced a second broker who has introduced another, and this has continued until some person in the chain has introduced a charterer, if the charter is the result of such an introduction the brokers who have so brought the parties together are entitled to the commission. Smith v. Boutcher, 1 C. & K. 573, 47 E. C. L. 573; Kynaston v. Nicholson, 1 Mar. L. Cas. 350. But see Notman v. Galveston Steamship Co., 137 N. Y. App. Div. 851; Gibson v. Crick, 1 H. & C. 142, 31 L. J. Exch. 304, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 392, 10 Wkly. Rep. 525.

60. White v. Turnbull, 8 Aspin. 406, 3 Com. Cas. 183, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 726, 14 T. L. R. 401.

61. A shipping broker has no lien on a vessel for services in procuring a charter-

cipals complete the contract without his help.[62] Nothing is payable to the broker for his trouble and expense unless they result in a binding charter;[63] and a broker cannot act as agent for both parties to the transaction so as to be entitled to pay for his services from each one unless both parties understand his position and expressly agree to such payments.[64] In some ports by usage when negotiation is closed the ship-owners are liable to the broker for a fixed commission for bringing the parties together.[65] Generally where the amount has not been agreed upon, it must be ascertained by reference to the customary rate, if there be one, and if not, upon the basis of a reasonable remuneration under the circumstances,[66] estimated, not by the ultimate profits actually derived from the adventure, but by what they would be if successful.[67] If the charterer's agent is to have a commission on freight at the port of discharge, this is to be reckoned on the freight received, and not on the gross freight list, some of which could not be collected.[68] Although making entry was by charter-party the duty of the charterer's broker, yet, if he be informed that entry has been made, he will not be allowed to recover for making entry a second time, or for the services of a tug in making the entry;[69] and where a charter-party confines the duties of a ship's agent to "custom-house business" he is not the general representative of the ship, and is not entitled to an "attendance fee."[70] An undertaking by a broker to procure a ship is a promise founded upon sufficient consideration so that the broker may be sued for non-performance.[71]

3. Subcharter or Assignment of Charter. In the absence of prohibitions in the original charter-party a charterer may execute a subcharter,[72] which may give to a subcharterer greater rights than the original charterer possessed,[73] and party. The Thames, 10 Fed. 848; The Joseph Cunard, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,535, Olcott 129.

62. Green v. Bartlett, 14 C. B. N. S. 681, 32 L. J. C. P. 261, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 503, 11 Wkly. Rep. 834, 108 E. C. L. 681; Burnett v. Bouch, 9 C. & P. 620, 38 E. C. L. 362; Wilkinson v. Martin, 8 C. & P. 1, 34 E. C. L. 575.

63. Read v. Rann, 10 B. & C. 438, 8 L. J. K. B. O. S. 144, 21 E. C. L. 189; Dalton v. Irvin, 4 C. & P. 289, 19 E. C. L. 519.

64. Robbins v. Sears, 23 Fed. 874.

Omission to insert in the charter-party anything respecting the broker's compensation for the consignment of the vessel to him on the return voyage is at the most only evidence to be submitted to the jury that the owners were not to pay additional sums besides the commission mentioned. Weber v. Kingsland, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 415.

The broker may recover the whole commission in his own name, although he may be bound to pay over a portion to others who have aided in procuring such charter. Bruce v. Parsons, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 591. See Cook v. Fiske, 78 Mass. 491, holding the evidence insufficient to prove a custom such as will prevent a broker from recovering his commissions.

65. Jewett v. Emson, 2 Rob. (N. Y.) 165.

66. Holl v. Pinsent, 6 Moore C. P. 228, 17 E. C. L. 480.

Charter-party held not to embody the whole agreement between the owners and brokers, or presumptively to define all the duties which the brokers should perform, or all the compensation which they should receive see Weber v. Kingsland, 8 Bosw. (N. Y.) 415.

67. Brown v. Post, 6 Rob. (N. Y.) 111.

Liability under preliminary memorandum. — Ship-brokers are not entitled to commission for negotiating a charter, where they bring a ship-owner and the proposed charterer together, who draw up a memorandum of the conditions of the charter, with the understanding that it is not to be a binding agreement until subsequent papers should be drawn up; but commission will be due if it was understood that the memorandum incorporated the entire agreement, and the subsequent papers were to be drawn merely so that each should have a duplicate copy. Jewett v. Emson, 2 Rob. (N. Y.) 165.

When the contract is to be performed in a foreign country the commission to which the brokers are entitled should be reckoned on the amount to which the charterers would have been entitled in foreign currency upon performing the voyage. Brown v. Post, 6 Rob. (N. Y.) 111.

68. Mauran v. Warren, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,310, 2 Lowell 53.

69. Muller v. Spreckels, 48 Fed. 574.

70. Muller v. Spreckels, 48 Fed. 574.

71. Gliddon v. Brodersen, Cab. & E. 197.

72. Moss v. Husted, 66 N. Y. 539; The Ely, 110 Fed. 563 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 447, 58 C. C. A. 429]; Schmidt v. Smith, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,466, 7 Ben. 361, holding that under a subcharter for "a full and complete cargo," made subject to the conditions of the charter, which describes the vessel as "of the net measurement of 537 tons, or thereabouts," the subcharterers are entitled to the specified cargo space and not to the full capacity of the vessel.

73. Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinkney, 170 Fed. 266, 95 C. C. A. 462.

which is not merely an equitable assignment of the first charter, but an independent contract.[74] A charterer may also assign the original charter.[75]

C. Modification, Cancellation, and Breach. The charter-party may be modified or canceled by a subsequent agreement.[76] Thus owners may contract with the shippers, varying or annulling the charter-party in relation to their respective parts of the cargo,[77] or as to the voyages to be made; [78] but a ship's husband cannot bind the owners by an agreement to cancel a charter-party and pay a sum of money upon such cancellation; [79] and neither the master nor the agent of the vessel can vary the terms of the charter to the detriment of the owners.[80] Where a ship has been chartered by the owners, the master cannot effectually agree to change her destination [81] or alter the amount of freight to be paid or the manner of payment; [82] but where the charter-party expressly authorizes the charterer's agent at the loading port to make alterations in the charter this includes authority to allow the ship to make an intermediate voyage before loading the homeward cargo.[83] In like manner a charter-party may be canceled

Where a charter-party authorizes the charterer to relet the vessel in whole or in part, the charterer is authorized to make subcontracts of affreightment and to sign bills of lading to shippers of goods from other ports which he may procure to be forwarded by other vessels to be transhipped upon the chartered vessel pursuant to the charter; and the ship will be bound thereby from the time they are received on board with knowledge of the facts. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

Subcharter by agent of charterer.—Where a vessel is chartered for a voyage and return, and at the port of destination the agent of the charterer, not being able to furnish her with freight, subcharters her to other persons there, who load her with goods consigned to parties at the home port under special bills of lading, which do not refer to the original charter-party, the owner may be entitled to freight under such special bills of lading, whether the consignee knew of the terms of the charter-party or not. Sears v. Wills, 1 Black (U. S.) 108, 17 L. ed. 35.

Subcontracts of affreightment of the charterer bind the vessel.— The Euripides, 52 Fed. 161 [reversed on other grounds in 71 Fed. 728, 18 C. C. A. 226], so holding whether a bill of lading was executed or not.

74. Swift v. Tross, 55 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 255.

75. Baetjer v. Bors, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 724, 7 Ben. 280, holding, however, that on a libel, by a charterer of a vessel against a person to whom the charter has been assigned, for breach of the contract to accept the vessel, the charterer can only recover the damages sustained by him, and not the damages sustained by the master or owners of the vessel, unless their interest under the charter was directly assigned to him, or unless he has paid a judgment recovered against him for the damages sustained by the owners or master.

Under a guaranty on an assignment of a charter that the vessel is first class, it is necessary that she be actually classified; but a delay to classify such vessel, where no damage is set up, when she is tendered as ready, for want of a classification, will not excuse performance by the transferee. Baetjer v. Bors, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 724, 7 Ben. 280.

76. Wheeler v. Curtis, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 653; Boyd v. Moses, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 316, 19 L. ed. 192; The Donald, 115 Fed. 744; Croockewit v. Fletcher, 1 H. & N. 893, 26 L. J. Exch. 153, 5 Wkly. Rep. 348.

Assumpsit lies where a sealed charter-party was afterward altered by a parol contract distinct from and not inconsistent with the contract by deed, being anterior to it in point of time and execution. White v. Parkin, 12 East 578, 11 Rev. Rep. 488, 104 Eng. Reprint 225. But where a charter-party was executed under seal, for the transportation of goods, and the parties on the same day made an agreement on a separate piece of paper, not under seal, referring to the charter-party, which agreement was illegal and void, it did not affect the charter-party, which remained valid and binding. Ogden v. Barker, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 87.

77. Mactier v. Wirgman, 4 Harr. & J. (Md.) 568.

78. Cutler v. Lennox, 137 Mass. 506.

79. Homas v. Lewis, 4 Ex. D. 18, 4 Aspin. 51, 48 L. J. Exch. 7, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 669, 27 Wkly. Rep. 111.

80. Blue Star Steamship Co. v. Keyser, 81 Fed. 507; Ye Seng Co. v. Corbitt, 9 Fed. 423, 7 Sawy. 368 (holding that a person authorized to act for the charterers of a vessel, as agent to procure a cargo in a foreign port, is not thereby authorized to modify or cancel the charter-party of his principal); Pew v. Langhlin, 3 Fed. 39; Sickens v. Irving, 7 C. B. N. S. 165, 6 Jur. N. S. 200, 29 L. J. C. P. 25, 97 E. C. L. 165. See Hendrickson v. Wright, 28 Fed. 242.

81. Capper v. Wallace, 5 Q. B. D. 163, 4 Aspin. 223, 49 L. J. Q. B. 350, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 130, 28 Wkly. Rep. 424; Burgon v. Sharpe, 2 Campb. 529.

82. Reynolds v. Jex, 7 B. & S. 86, 34 L. J. Q. B. 251, 13 Wkly. Rep. 968; Pearson v. Göschen, 17 C. B. N. S. 352, 10 Jur. N. S. 903, 33 L. J. C. P. 265, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 758, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1116, 112 E. C. L. 352; The Canada, 13 T. L. R. 238.

83. Wiggins v. Johnston, 15 L. J. Exch. 202, 14 M. & W. 609.

for justifiable cause,[84] as by breach of a condition precedent,[85] or under an option contained in the contract itself; [86] and the failure of the hirer to fulfil his part of the agreement will justify the owner in disregarding the agreement and seeking other employment.[87] A chartering of a vessel, by the owners, for the default of the charterer in not furnishing the cargo, is for the benefit of all concerned and is not a rescission of the contract discharging the freighter from liability.[88] A refusal of the master to complete the voyage within the time specified excuses the charterer from furnishing the cargo.[89] A provision in a charter that either side may cancel on thirty days' notice may be waived if each party sues the other claiming damages as for entire breach of charter.[90]

D. Construction, Operation, and Effect — 1. General Rules. The construction of a charter-party is governed by the rules that control the construction

84. The B. L. Harriman, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 161, 19 L. ed. 629; Starr v. Galgate Ship Co., 68 Fed. 234, 15 C. C. A. 366 [reversing 58 Fed. 894]; Simonetti v. Foster, 2 Fed. 415, holding that where a charter-party guaranteed the vessel to be able to stow and carry, on the draught of water allowed by the surveyors of the board of underwriters, at least one thousand tons dead weight, and a survey indicated that the capacity so to stow and carry on such draught was but nine hundred and twenty-five tons, the charterers were not bound to accept and load such vessel.

Refusal by a foreign nation to permit loading the cargo does not relieve the charterer from liability for failure to load, there being no provision in the charter-party for this contingency. Benson v. Atwood, 13 Md. 20, 71 Am. Dec. 611.

Place of cancellation.— On charters for loading the ship in remote places across the seas, options providing for the acceptance or rejection of the charter are to be exercised at the place where the ship is to load, and the ship has no right to call upon the charterer to exercise his option elsewhere. The Samuel W. Hall, 49 Fed. 281.

A constructive cancellation is not proved by the notification by the charterers to the owners that they would hold the owners in damages for non-compliance, and the refusal of the charterers to give orders after the time for fulfilling the contract had expired. Maury v. Culliford, 10 Fed. 388, 4 Woods 118.

Evidence held insufficient to show cancellation see Porteous v. Williams, 115 N. Y. 116, 21 N. E. 711.

Facts held insufficient to justify rescission of contract see The Ask, 156 Fed. 678; Cornwall v. Moore, 125 Fed. 646 (holding that neither the age of a vessel, nor the length of time she had been upon her copper, nor the fact that owing to her age insurance could not be obtained on the cargo intended to be shipped by the charterers, establishes that she was in fact unseaworthy for the voyage, so as to authorize the charterer's surveyor so to certify and to entitle the charterers to cancel the charter, where it provided for a certificate to be made on an actual survey); Ansgar Steamship Co. v. William W. Brauer Steamship Co., 121 Fed. 426; Leblond v. McNear, 104 Fed. 826 [affirmed in 123 Fed. 384, 61 C. C. A. 564]; Steel v. Grand Canary Coaling Co., 9 Aspin. 584, 9 Com. Cas. 275, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 729, 20 L. T. R. 542.

85. Rosasco v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 121 Fed. 437 [affirmed in 138 Fed. 25, 70 C. C. A. 455].

86. Cornwall v. Moore, 125 Fed. 646; The Ceres, 72 Fed. 936, 19 C. C. A. 243, holding that a provision in a charter-party giving the charterers an option to terminate it at any time on giving thirty days' notice does not entitle the owners to thirty days' notice of a cancellation for breach of a guaranty on their part contained in the instrument.

Time of exercising option.—A charterer, given the right by the charter-party to cancel in case the vessel does not arrive at the loading port by a specified date, is not required to exercise his option until her arrival, and his right to cancel is not lost by his refusal to state his election on request of the owners, after such date had passed, and when the vessel was in a distant port, and the time when she would arrive was unknown. Karran v. Peabody, 145 Fed. 166, 76 C. C. A. 136.

Refusal to exercise prematurely an option to cancel the charter does not justify the other party in canceling it. The Progreso, 50 Fed. 835, 2 C. C. A. 45 [affirming 42 Fed. 229].

87. Ferris v. The Alida, 14 Phila. (Pa.) 602; Kleine v. Catara, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,869, 2 Gall. 61. But see Chamberlain v. Pettit, 49 Fed. 109, holding that a charter of a vessel to carry a certain named cargo, drawn in formal terms and without conditions, will not be construed as a mere memorandum, not binding on the parties, merely because the charterer failed to get the cargo, where there is nothing to show that the ship's representative understood that he was to be affected by such failure.

Voluntary surrender of the vessel by the charterer is surrender of the charter-party and prevents him from subsequently reclaiming possession of her. Bergen v. The Taminend, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,339.

88. Benson v. Atwood, 13 Md. 20, 71 Am. Dec. 611.

89. Poland v. Maryland Coal Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,244, 8 Ben. 347 [affirmed in 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,245, 14 Blatchf. 519]. And see infra, III, L, 1, a.

90. J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co. v. Coastwise Transportation Co., — Fed. —.

of contracts generally. The intent of the parties is to be sought, and when found is to be made effectual if possible.[91] A charter should have the liberal construction that mercantile contracts should receive, in furtherance of the real intention of the parties; and all the provisions must be taken into consideration in determining the scope and effect of the charter as a whole.[92] A clause in a charter that any dispute is to be submitted to arbitration is not enforceable, and a breach of the agreement gives rise to nominal damages only. As admiralty does not recognize claims for nominal damages exceptions will be sustained to a libel claim-

91. Grimberg v. Columbia Packers' Assoc., 47 Oreg. 257, 83 Pac. 194, 114 Am. St. Rep. 927; The Progreso, 50 Fed. 835, 2 C. C. A. 45.

Construction of charter-party or bill of lading as to demurrage see infra, IX, A, 1.

Nature, construction, and effect of contract of affreightment in general see infra, VII, B, 1, a.

Matter expunged from a printed form used in drawing up a charter-party may be considered in determining the intention of the parties. One Thousand Bags of Sugar v. Harrison, 53 Fed. 828, 4 C. C. A. 34 [affirming 50 Fed. 116].

Written words override the printed form. Seagar v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 55 Fed. 324.

If a charter-party contains a technical phrase, subjecting the master to unusual duties, that phrase must be made clear by evidence; and if there are two constructions the master may adopt either without being guilty of a deviation. The John H. Pearson, 14 Fed. 749 [reversed on other grounds in 121 U. S. 469, 7 S. Ct. 1008, 30 L. ed. 979].

The term "voyage" includes the loading of the cargo (The Canon Park, 15 P. D. 203, 6 Aspin. 543, 59 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 74, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 356, 39 Wkly. Rep. 191), and also the discharge of the cargo (The Mary Adelaide Randall, 93 Fed. 222; The Glenochil, [1896] P. 10, 8 Aspin. 219, 65 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 1, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 416).

The word "about," used in a time charter in designating the length of the term, is applicable to an underlap and to an overlap on the exact term stated. If the voyage terminates so near the end of the fixed time as to make another voyage unreasonable, the charterer may deliver or the owner may withdraw the vessel, or, if another voyage is reasonable, the charterer may require it at the charter rate of freight. The Rygja, 161 Fed. 106, 88 C. C. A. 270 [reversing 149 Fed. 896]. But see The Tweedie Trading Co. v. Actiesselskabet Sangstad, — Fed. —.

The fixing of the value of the vessel in a charter is to be construed as having the meaning that the value agreed on was to be paid in case of default in returning. Sun Printing, etc., Assoc. v. Moore, 183 U. S. 642, 22 S. Ct. 240, 46 L. ed. 366.

A clause in a charter-party for cesser of the liability of the charterers, coupled with a clause creating a lien in favor of the shipowner, is to be construed, if possible, as inapplicable to a liability with which the lien is not commensurate. Burrill v. Crossman, 91 Fed. 543, 33 C. C. A. 663 [reversed on other grounds in 179 U. S. 100, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106].

The construction of a charter-party is for the court and not for the jury. Flagler v. Hearst, 62 N. Y. App. Div. 18, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 956.

92. Leonard v. Bosch, 72 N. J. Eq. 131, 64 Atl. 1001 [affirmed in (1908) 71 Atl. 1134]; Roberts v. Opdyke, 40 N. Y. 259 (holding that a charter-party stipulating that the vessel should carry "seven hundred tons measurement of assorted cargo, or more, if that does not make her draw over fourteen feet of water," ought to be construed as meaning that the vessel shall not in any case be loaded so as to draw more than fourteen feet, and not as guaranteeing that she will carry seven huudred tons at least, and that then the charterer may put on additional cargo in case the aggregate does not make her draw more than fourteen feet); Crossman v. Burrill, 179 U. S. 100, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106; Raymond v. Tyson, 17 How. (U. S.) 53, 15 L. ed. 47; Bowers Hydraulic Dredging Co. v. Federal Contracting Co., 148 Fed. 290 [affirmed in 153 Fed. 879, 83 C. C. A. 52]; Falls of Keltie Steamship Co. v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 108 Fed. 416; The Helios, 108 Fed. 279 [modified in 115 Fed. 705, 53 C. C. A. 598]; American Steel-Barge Co. v. Cargo of Coal ex The City of Everett, 107 Fed. 964; Menantic Steamship Co. v. Peirce, 88 Fed. 308; Eddy v. Northern Steamship Co., 79 Fed. 361; The Progreso, 50 Fed. 835, 2 C. C. A. 45; The B. F. Bruce, 50 Fed. 118; The Hound, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,731 (holding that a provision in a charter-party that the vessel shall carry "all such lawful passengers" as charterers' agent shall think proper to ship must be construed to mean a reasonable number only, having regard to comfort and safety); Hulthen v. Stewart, [1903] A. C. 389, 9 Aspin. 403, 8 Com. Cas. 297, 72 L. J. K. B. 917, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 702, 19 T. L. R. 513 [affirming [1902] 2 K. B. 199, 7 Com. Cas. 139, 71 L. J. K. B. 624, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 397, 18 T. L. R. 429, 50 Wkly. Rep. 538]; Carlton Steamship Co. v. Castle Mail Packets Co., [1898] A. C. 486, 8 Aspin. 402, 67 L. J. Q. B. 795, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 661, 14 T. L. R. 469, 47 Wkly. Rep. 65; The Hollinside, [1898] P. 131, 3 Com. Cas. 100, 67 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 45, 14 T. L. R. 258, 46 Wkly. Rep. 639; Dimech v. Corlett, 12 Moore P. C. 199, 14 Eng. Reprint 887.

A charter which embodies and adopts another instrument by reference thereto is to be construed with reference to it. James v. Brophy, 71 Fed. 310, 18 C. C. A. 49.

ing damages for breach of agreement to arbitrate and the libel will be dismissed.[93] A custom or usage may be shown in evidence in a suit to determine the rights of the parties under the charter, where it is silent on the subject to which the custom relates, in order to place the court in the position of the parties when the charter was made;[94] but to entitle such custom to be read into the charter there must be General provisions are governed by specific provisions.— Karran v. Peabody, 145 Fed. 166, 76 C. C. A. 136.

93. Munson v. Straits of Dover Steamship Co., 99 Fed. 787 [affirmed in 102 Fed. 926, 43 C. C. A. 57]; Ross v. Compagnie Commerciale de Transportation de Vapeur, 45 Fed. 207.

Particular phrases construed.— The term, "weather working day," when used in a charter-party, means a day, otherwise a working day, when the weather will reasonably permit the carrying on of the work contemplated. The India v. Donald, 49 Fed. 76, 1 C. C. A. 174. Quarantine regulations which interfere with the charter engagements of a vessel are within the clause excepting liability for results caused by restraints of princes, rulers, and people. Clyde Commercial Steamship Co. v. West India Steamship Co., 169 Fed. 275, 94 C. C. A. 551; The Santona, 152 Fed. 516; The Progreso, 50 Fed. 835, 2 C. C. A. 45. A clause of a charter-party providing that the vessel is to be "reported at the custom-house" by the charterers' agents or their appointees is not equivalent to a consignment to them, and does not give them the right to do the inward business of the ship. Mignano v. MacAndrews, 53 Fed. 958, 4 C. C. A. 6 [affirming 49 Fed. 376]. A guaranty of eight feet of water "at the place of loading," in a charter-party will be construed to mean eight feet, or at least a sufficient depth to enable the vessel to perform her voyage at the place of loading and thence to the open sea. Hart v. Shaw, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,155, 1 Cliff. 358. A provision in a charter of a steamship for the fruit trade that she "is to lay up for overhauling, two weeks each year, in winter, at time charterers designate," gives the charterers a right to have the vessel laid up annually, without paying hire, for two weeks, in the winter time, for the usual overhauling, but they cannot require her to lay up when all the circumstances show that the pretended layup is a subterfuge to evade payment of hire in the meantime. Wessels v. The Ceres, 72 Fed. 936, 19 C. C. A. 243 [reversing 61 Fed. 701]. A yacht is "laid up for repairs," within the provision of a charter-party, in such case allowing a rebate from the charter-money, where it is at rest, having some damage made good that in a material degree impaired its ability to pursue the voyage as a yacht, although the charterer may continue to eat and sleep and entertain friends on board. Dahlgren v. Whitaker, 124 Fed. 695. The use of the words "lawful passengers," in the charter of a ship for the purpose of carrying passengers between foreign countries, must be understood to refer to such description and number of persons as by law could be carried between the countries where the voyage was to begin and end. The Hound, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,731. A clause requiring the vessel to "sail 48 hours after orders are given." Rosasco v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 138 Fed. 25, 70 C. C. A. 455 [affirming 121 Fed. 437]. A stipulation in a charter-party that the cargo was to be discharged "with customary steamship despatch as fast as the steamer can receive and deliver during the ordinary working hours . . . according to the custom of the respective ports." Hulthen v. Stewart, [1903] A. C. 389, 9 Aspin. 403, 8 Com. Cas. 297, 72 L. J. K. B. 917, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 702, 19 T. L. R. 513 [affirming [1902] 2 K. B. 199, 7 Com. Cas. 139, 71 L. J. Q. B. 624, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 397, 18 T. L. R. 429, 50 Wkly. Rep. 538]. A sailing ship to proceed to a specified port and "in the usual and customary manner load in regular turn" coal from a certain named colliery or any other colliery the charterers might name. Barque Quilpue v. Brown, [1904] 2 K. B. 264, 9 Aspin. 596, 9 Com. Cas. 13, 73 L. J. K. B. 596, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 765. A clause in a charter-party that the vessel was to guarantee insurance at lowest regular rates. Leonard v. Bosch, 72 N. J. Eq. 131, 64 Atl. 1001 [affirmed in (1908) 71 Atl. 1134]. "Payment of hire shall cease until she be again in an efficient state to resume her service." The Queen Olga, 162 Fed. 490. The owner "shall provide and pay for all . . . consular charges, except those pertaining to the captain, officers, or crew." Owners liable for failure of master to secure bill of health. The Queen Olga, supra.

94. Perkins v. Jordan, 35 Me. 23; Barker v. Borzone, 48 Md. 474; Dahlgren v. Whitaker, 124 Fed. 695; The Helios, 115 Fed. 705, 53 C. C. A. 598 [modifying 108 Fed. 279]; Continental Coal Co. v. Birdsall, 108 Fed. 882, 48 C. C. A. 124; Straits of Dover Steamship Co. v. Munson, 95 Fed. 690 (holding that a charter of a steamer for a term of three months at a monthly hire, which gave the charterer the right to send her to any ports within certain named limits, from which it was customary for vessels to bring return cargoes, must be construed in the light of such usage, and as authorizing the charterer to make at least one complete voyage with return cargo, and he would not be compelled to return her unladen for the purpose of making delivery of her by the expiration of the term, where she was not delayed through his fault or negligence); Eddy v. Northern Steamship Co., 79 Fed. 361 (holding that parol evidence of a usage whereby lake navigation is considered as closing November 30 each year is admissible to show the termination on the date of a charter which requires the vessel to carry as many cargoes as she can between the date of the charter and the close of navigation for the season); The no room to doubt its existence,[95] and it must be so general and long established that the parties are conclusively presumed to have contracted with reference to it;[96] and it must be reasonable, certain, and consistent with the contract, and is not allowed to vary its express terms;[97] nor is it permissible to incorporate a custom into an express charter in writing the terms of which are neither technical nor ambiguous;[98] and in the absence of fraud or misrepresentation in the inception of a charter-party, the owner and charterers must be governed by its express terms.[99] Where the provisions of the charter are inharmonious, the general intent, as evidenced by its written portions and its evident leading purpose, should control the minor provisions,[1] and parol evidence is admissible to explain the written contract by applying it to the subject of it,[2] the common-law doctrine of bailment and common carriers being applicable.[3] Representations as to measurement, capacity, and tonnage are to be taken as merely descriptive, when the contract taken as a whole shows that the real consideration was the actual carrying capacity of the vessel;[4] and representations by an owner prior to a charter as to the speed of his vessel, which are not embodied in the charter, are superseded by that instrument, in the absence of fraud or mutual mistake;[5] but the rule is otherwise when the representations amount to a warranty or guarantee, or where the misdescription is so gross as to amount to fraud.[6] Exceptions in a Principia, 34 Fed. 667 (holding that the phrase "working hours," in a clause of a charter-party, means those hours during which work is ordinarily done about the business to which the clause relates, and is to be construed according to the custom of the port as to the working and hauling of vessels in loading and discharging); Turnbull v. Citizens' Bank, 16 Fed. 145, 4 Woods 193; Aktieselkab Helios v. Ekman, [1897] 2 Q. B. 83, 8 Aspin. 244, 2 Com. Cas. 163, 66 L. J. Q. B. 538, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 537. See Hart v. Leach, 21 Fed. 77, holding that under a charter-party which provides for "ballast outward, and a cargo of fruit back," owners of the vessel cannot be held liable for the loss of gold coin intrusted to the master, unless the charter is controlled by usage. Compare Hall v. Hurlbut, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,936, Taney 589, holding that the fact that it is a usage of a special line of trade to ship certain goods at a particular season of the year cannot be permitted to affect the construction of a charter-party not naming the date of shipment, although made with reference to that season, but which, from unforeseen and unavoidable mishaps, it has been impracticable to carry out at the time intended.

95. Continental Coal Co. v. Birdsall, 108 Fed. 882, 48 C. C. A. 124.

96. Continental Coal Co. v. Birdsall, 108 Fed. 882, 48 C. C. A. 124, holding that a charter, which by its terms required the charterer to "provide and furnish the vessel a full and complete cargo of coal," cannot be held to exempt him from such requirement on account of a strike among coal miners, merely upon the testimony of coal operators that such was the custom of the port where no provision to the contrary was made in the charter, when no one of the witnesses ever knew of a case in which a charterer had been so relieved, and as against the testimony of other witnesses of longer experience that no such custom existed.

97. Holloway v. McNear, 81 Cal. 154, 22 Pac. 514; Barker v. Borzone, 48 Md. 474; The Clintonia, 104 Fed. 92; Turnbull v. Citizens' Bank, 16 Fed. 145, 4 Woods 193; Lindsay v. Cusimano, 10 Fed. 302 [affirmed in 12 Fed. 503], holding that where a charter-party provides that the cargo will be discharged with "customary despatch," a custom of the port authorizing certain delays does not operate to permit the consignee voluntarily to delay the discharge in violation of the express terms of the contract.

A custom requiring the vessel to overload has no effect on the construction of a charter-party. Macy v. Perry, 99 Fed. 1004, 40 C. C. A. 217 [affirming 91 Fed. 671]; The Hound, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,731.

98. Sorensen v. Keyser, 51 Fed. 30, 2 C. C. A. 92.

99. The South America, 27 Fed. 386.

Waiver of precedent agreements.— By the execution of a charter-party all antecedent verbal agreements inconsistent with its terms are waived, and the charter-party becomes the only competent evidence of the contract between the parties. Barclay v. Holme, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 974. But see Webster v. Vogel, 62 Ill. 184.

1. The Chadwicke, 29 Fed. 521.

2. Almgren v. Dutilh, 5 N. Y. 28.

3. Gracie v. Palmer, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 605, 5 L. ed. 696.

A charterer is not authorized as such to make insurance for the owners. Sawyer v. Freeman, 35 Me. 542.

4. Lovell v. Davis, 101 U. S. 541, 25 L. ed. 944; Rawson v. Lyon, 23 Fed. 107; Watts v. Camors, 10 Fed. 145 [affirmed in 115 U. S. 353, 6 S. Ct. 91, 29 L. ed. 406]. See Ashburner v. Balchen, 7 N. Y. 262.

5. Matthias v. Beeche, 111 Fed. 940.

6. Behn v. Burness, 3 B. & S. 751, 9 Jur. N. S. 620, 32 L. J. Q. B. 204, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 207, 11 Wkly. Rep. 496, 113 E. C. L. 751.

bill of lading or charter-party, inserted by the ship-owner for his own benefit, are to be construed most strongly against him.[7]

2. As Affected by Bill of Lading. As between the charterer and the owner, the charter-party, and not the bill of lading, is the controlling document.[8] Bills of lading which do not refer to the charter-party do not, as between the ship-owner and the charterer, operate as new contracts, and their stipulations do not supersede the provisions of the charter-party on the same subject.[9] Unless there is sufficient evidence of a waiver of the provisions of the charter, or of some new contract, mere loose and inharmonious expressions in the bill of lading which refer to the charter will not supersede the latter, as respects matters which the charter was clearly designed to cover.[10] Where terms of the charter-party are specifically incorporated by reference in the bill of lading, the charter-party terms are to be looked to for the contract of the parties.[11] The bona fide indorsee of a bill of lading is not affected by the provisions of a charter-party, of which he has no knowledge or notice to put him on inquiry. He is liable for freight only according to the provisions of the bill of lading.[12] Where the charter-party requires the master to sign shippers' bills of lading as presented, without prejudice to the charter-party, he is bound to sign any usual bill presented, describing goods actually delivered to the vessel, and a refusal to do so is a breach of the charter-party which entitles the shipper to such damages as may be shown.[13] But the master is not required to sign erroneous bills;[14] nor does the provision require the

7. Compania de Navigacion la Flecha v. Brauer, 168 U. S. 104, 18 S. Ct. 12, 42 L. ed. 398. See Speeding v. Hard, 80 Fed. 933, 26 C. C. A. 261.

8. Huron Barge Co. v. Turney, 71 Fed. 972; The Energia, 66 Fed. 604, 13 C. C. A. 653 (holding that a stipulation in the printed form of a bill of lading that the carrier's liability is to be determined by the laws of England, even if valid, is ineffective, where the instrument was given under a charter which contained no such clause, and the evidence shows that there was no such intention of making a different contract by the bills of lading from that in the charter-party); Ardan Steamship Co. v. Theband, 35 Fed. 620; The Chadwicke, 29 Fed. 521; Higgins v. Watson, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,470; Two Hundred and Sixty Hogsheads of Molasses, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,296, 1 Hask. 24 (holding that the bill of lading between such parties is but evidence of the shipping of the merchandise pursuant to the contract, and any of the terms in conflict with the charter-party will not supersede or control that contract); Willett v. Phillips, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,683, 8 Ben. 459 (holding that stipulations in bills of lading as to perils of the seas cannot affect the rights of the charterer under the charter-party, which does not contain such exceptions). And see Cobb v. Blanchard, 11 Allen (Mass.) 409.

But bills of lading issued by the master under charterer's instructions to third parties bind the ship and owners to third parties and the latter may not be affected by charter provisions. Robinson v. Holst, 96 Ga. 19, 23 S. E. 76.

A provision in a charter-party that bills of lading are to be binding upon master and owners as proof of quantity delivered to the ship makes the bills conclusive, evidence on that point. Rhodes v. Newhall, 126 N. Y. 574, 27 N. E. 947, 22 Am. St. Rep. 859; The Sikh, 175 Fed. 869; Sawyer v. Cleveland Iron Min. Co., 69 Fed. 211, 16 C. C. A. 191; Lightburne v. The Tongoy, 55 Fed. 329.

9. The Iona, 80 Fed. 933, 26 C. C. A. 261 (holding that a provision in the charter-party that charterer's responsibility is to cease as soon as the cargo is all on board and bills of lading signed does not operate to release the ship from responsibility at that time; and a provision in the charter-party that cargoes are to be delivered according to the custom of the port still binds the ship); Ardan Steamship Co. v. Theband, 35 Fed. 620; The Chadwicke, 29 Fed. 521; Lamb v. Parkman, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,020, 1 Sprague 343; Wagstaff v. Anderson, 5 C. P. D. 171, 49 L. J. C. P. 485, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 720, 28 Wkly. Rep. 856; Faith v. East India Co., 4 B. & Ald. 630, 23 Rev. Rep. 423, 6 E. C. L. 630, 106 Eng. Reprint 1067; Gledstanes v. Allen, 12 C. B. 202, 74 E. C. L. 202.

10. The Chadwicke, 29 Fed. 521.

11. The Ethel, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,540, 5 Ben. 154.

12. The Querini Stamphalia, 19 Fed. 123.

13. Lightburne v. The Tongoy, 55 Fed. 329.

A charter-party, stipulating that demurrage shall be paid day by day and that the master shall sign bills of lading, requires the master to sign bills, although demurrage may be at the time due and unpaid. The Mispah, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,648, 5 Reporter 519.

14. Lightburne v. The Tongoy, 55 Fed. 329; The Peer of the Realm, 19 Fed. 216.

Notice to a shipper of a charter-party has not the effect of incorporating into the bill of lading terms inconsistent therewith which the captain was not bound by the charter-party to embody in the bill of lading. Turner v. Haji Goolam Mahomed Azam, [1904] A. C. 826, 9 Aspin. 588, 74 L. J. P. C. 17, 91 L. T. Rep. N. S. 216, 20 T. L. R. 599.

master to sign them in any form the charterers may choose. He is only required to sign bills lawfully and rightfully presented under the charter provisions.[15]

3. Conflict of Laws. The intention of the parties controls as to the law governing the interpretation of charter-parties,[16] and complying with a presumed intention, the law of the flag has been applied in some cases.[17] In other cases the lex loci contractus [18] has been applied, and it will be considered to be the same as that of the forum, when it does not otherwise appear.[19]

E. Charterer as Owner Pro Hac Vice — 1. In General. If by the terms of a charter, or necessary intendment of the parties, the entire vessel is left to the charterer, with a transfer to him of its command and possession, and consequently of control over its navigation, he will generally be considered as owner pro hac vice, that is, as owner for the voyage or service stipulated, as to parties dealing with him in such capacity,[20] whether the letting is in writing or by 15. McPherson v. Cox, 86 N. Y. 472 [reversing 21 Hun 493]; Wyman v. The Sprott, 70 Fed. 327.

16. The Wilhelm Schmidt, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 34, 1 Aspin. 82.

17. The Express, L. R. 3 A. & E. 597, 1 Aspin. 355, 41 L. J. Adm. 79, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 956.

Prima facie, the law of the place where a contract is made is that on which the parties are presumed to have dealt; but a contract of affreightment made between persons of different nationalities, in a place where both of them were foreigners, to be performed partly there by the ship breaking ground in order to start for the port of lading, a place where both parties would also have been foreigners; partly at the latter port, by taking the cargo on board; and partly on board the ship at sea, subject there to the laws of the country of the ship; and partly by final delivery at the port of discharge, is to be construed by the law of the nation of the ship. Lloyd v. Guibert, L. R. 1 Q. B. 115, 6 B. & S. 100, 35 L. J. Q. B. 74, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 602, 118 E. C. L. 100 [followed in In re Missouri Steamship Co., 42 Ch. D. 321, 6 Aspin. 423, 58 L. J. Ch. 721, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 316, 37 Wkly. Rep. 696].

18. China Mut. Ins. Co. v. Force, 142 N. Y. 90, 36 N. E. 874, 40 Am. St. Rep. 576 [affirming 20 N. Y. Suppl. 796]; Adler v. Galbraith, etc., Co., 156 Fed. 259; The San Roman, L. R. 5 P. C. 301, 1 Aspin. 603, 42 L. J. Adm. 46, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 381, 21 Wkly. Rep. 393]; Lloyd v. Guibert, L. R. 1 Q. B. 115, 6 B. & S. 100, 35 L. J. Q. B. 74, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 602, 118 E. C. L. 100; The Industrie, [1894] P. 58, 7 Aspin. 457, 63 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 84, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 791, 6 Reports 681, 42 Wkly. Rep. 280.

19. Chase v. Alliance Ins. Co., 9 Allen (Mass.) 311.

20. Louisiana.— Fish v. Sullivan, 40 La. Ann. 193, 3 So. 730 (as where under a charter-party there is an entire surrender by the owner of the vessel to the charterer, who hires the vessel as one hires a house, takes her empty, and provides officers, crew, provisions, etc.); Wilkinson v. Dalferes, 27 La. Ann. 379.

Maine.— McLellan v. Reed, 35 Me. 172.

Michigan.— Marquette First Nat. Bank v. Stewart, 26 Mich. 83.

New York.— Rosenstein v. Vogemann, 102 N. Y. App. Div. 39, 92 N. Y. Suppl. 86 [affirmed in 184 N. Y. 325, 77 N. E. 625] (holding that where a time charter-party provided that the captain, although appointed by the owners, should be under the orders of the charterers as regarded employment, agency, or other arrangements, and the charterers agreed to indemnify the owners from all liabilities arising from the captain's signing bills of lading, the charterers were to be regarded as owners as between themselves and shippers); Hagar v. Clark, 12 Hun 524.

Oregon.— Grimberg v. Columbia Packers' Assoc., 47 Oreg. 257, 83 Pac. 194.

United States.— Leary v. U. S., 14 Wall. 607, 20 L. ed. 756; Hills v. Leeds, 149 Fed. 878 [affirmed in 158 Fed. 1020, 85 C. C. A. 489]; The Del Norte, 111 Fed. 542 [affirmed in 119 Fed. 118, 55 C. C. A. 220] (holding also that a provision in a charter, giving the master authority to control the operations of the vessel in towing barges, and expressly exempting the owner from liability for the abandonment of any tow where, in the judgment of the master, the safety of the vessel required such abandonment, did not confer on the master any powers he would not otherwise have had, or change the relation of the charterer to the ship as owner pro hac vice, and it gave him no claim on the vessel on account of the wrongful act of the master in abandoning a barge without necessity); American Steel Barge Co. v. Cargo of Coal, 107 Fed. 964 [reversed on other grounds in 115 Fed. 670]; Donahoe v. Kettell, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,980, 1 Cliff. 135; Drinkwater v. Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145 (holding that a stipulation to victual and man a vessel, pay all port charges, and deliver her to her owner at the end of the voyage makes the charterer owner for the voyage, although one of the owners was named as master); Hill v. The Golden Gate, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,491 [affirming 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,492, Newb. Adm. 308]; Winter v. Simonton, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,894, 3 Cranch C. C. 104 (holding that an agreement for the hire of a vessel for a given term at a certain rate per month, the vessel being manned and victualed by the owners, the hirer paying port charges and pilotage, makes the hirer owner pro hac vice). But see Clyde Commercial Steamship Co. v. West India Steamship Co., 169 Fed.

parol.[21] The general owner is not a common carrier, but a bailee to transport for hire,[22] and the charter is a contract for the lease of the vessel.[23] The officers and crew are servants of the charterer, and the charterer becomes the carrier of the goods shipped, and in procuring freight the master is then the agent of the charterer,[24] and the general owner is not responsible for the contracts of the master or charterer if the creditor has notice of such charter-party,[25] particularly where the charter expressly makes the master the agent of the charterer.[26] If the charter-party lets only the use of the vessel, the owner at the time retaining the command and possession and control over its navigation, the charterer is regarded as a contractor for a designated service, the charter-party being a mere contract of affreightment and the duties and responsibilities of the owner are not changed, and the charterer is not clothed with the character or responsibility of ownership.[27] A special ownership does not pass, although the terms of the instrument are "let and hired,"

275, 94 C. C. A. 551; Golcar Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 146 Fed. 563.

England.— Meiklereid v. West, 45 L. J. M. C. 91, 1 Q. B. D. 428, 3 Aspin. 129, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 353, 24 Wkly. Rep. 703; Reeve v. Davis, 1 A. & E. 312, 3 N. & M. 873, 28 E. C. L. 159.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 149.

But he is not such in a contest with the actual owners for the value of the vessel and on the terms of the charter-party. Wilkinson v. Dalferes, 27 La. Ann. 379.

21. Swanton v. Reed, 35 Me. 176; McLellan v. Reed, 35 Me. 172.

22. Gracie v. Palmer, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 605, 5 L. ed. 696; Lamb v. Parkman, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,020, 1 Sprague 343.

23. Leary v. U. S., 14 Wall. (U. S.) 607, 20 L. ed. 786.

24. Donahoe v. Kettell, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,980, 1 Cliff. 135; Richardson v. Winsor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795, 3 Cliff. 395.

25. Reynolds v. Toppan, 15 Mass. 370, 8 Am. Dec. 110; Urann v. Fletcher, 1 Gray (Mass.) 125; Marquette First Nat. Bank v. Stewart, 26 Mich. 83; Devoe v. The Fashion, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,844; Hill v. Golden Gate, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,491 [affirming 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,492, Newb. Adm. 308].

26. The Shadwan, 49 Fed. 379 [affirmed in 55 Fed. 1002, 5 C. C. A. 381].

27. Georgia.— Swift v. Tatner, 89 Ga. 660, 15 S. E. 842, 32 Am. St. Rep. 101.

Maine.— Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am. Dec. 268.

Missouri.— Adams v. Homeyer, 45 Mo. 545, 100 Am. Dec. 391, holding that where a charter-party provides that the owner of a vessel shall appoint the captain to command and run the vessel, such provision clearly indicates the intention on the part of the owner to retain control and possession of the vessel.

New York.— Hagar v. Clark, 78 N. Y. 45 [reversing 12 Hun 524]; Brown v. Gray, 70 Hun 261, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 61; Holmes v. Pavenstedt, 5 Sandf. 97; McIntyre v. Bowne, 1 Johns. 229.

Oregon.— Multnomah County v. Willamette Towing Co., 49 Oreg. 204, 89 Pac. 389; Grimberg v. Columbia Packers' Assoc., 47 Oreg. 257, 83 Pac. 194, 114 Am. St. Rep. 927, holding that a charter-party binding the owner to keep the vessel during the voyage well fitted, tackled, etc., giving the charterer the sole use of the vessel, except the private apartments of the master in the cabin, and providing that no goods shall be laden on board, except for the charterers, gives the owner an oversight over the vessel during the voyage, and binds him to engage in freighting her, and is inconsistent with a demise of her to the charterer.

United States.— Leary v. U. S., 14 Wall. 607, 20 L. ed. 756 (holding that stipulations in a charter-party that the general owners shall keep the vessel in good condition during the existence of the charter, and receive on board certain goods at the request of the government, the charterer, and refuse to receive other goods without its assent, is conclusive evidence that the possession and control of the vessel had not passed to the charterer, but had been retained by the general owner); Marcardier v. Chesapeake Ins. Co., 8 Cranch 39, 3 L. ed. 481; The Del Norte, 111 Fed. 542 [affirmed in 119 Fed. 118, 55 C. C. A. 220]; American Steel-Barge Co. v. Cargo of Coal, 107 Fed. 964 [reversed on other grounds in 115 Fed. 669]; In re Certain Logs of Mahogany, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,559, 2 Sumn. 589; Donahoe v. Kettell, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,980, 1 Cliff. 135; Eames v. Cavaroc, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,238, Newb. Adm. 528; Kleine v. Catara, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,869, 2 Gall. 61; Richardson v. Winsor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795, 3 Cliff. 395 (holding that the charter-party is a mere contract of affreightment, where the owners agree to keep the vessel tight, staunch, fitted, and provisioned, and to receive on board such lawful goods as the charterers or their agents may think proper to ship); The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551 (holding that the general owner is owner for the voyage, if the vessel is navigated at his expense and by his master and crew, and especially where he retains a part of the vessel for his own use); Weston v. Minot, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,453, 3 Woodb. & M. 475 (holding that where it was agreed that the charterers should not pay for steam to tow the vessel to sea, unless they ordered it, and steam was used to tow the vessel without their order, but after they had loaded her to a depth beyond seventeen feet, and the port regulations did not require the pilots to take vessels to sea without steam when loaded beyond that and the hirer agrees to pay a gross sum.[28] Under these circumstances the master is the owner's agent and the latter is charged with his acts and contracts.[29] So, although the charterer agrees to provide and pay all port charges, it has been held that the owner is liable for delay to the vessel or a fine imposed for failure of the master to secure a bill of health.[30] Where the officers of the vessel are agents of the owners as to certain matters, and of the charterers as to others, they will be regarded as agents of one party or the other according to the work on which they are engaged.[31] The inclination of courts is to construe a charter-party as a contract of affreightment, charging the ship-owners as carriers, and not as a demise of the vessel, unless its tenor clearly calls for the latter construction;[32] and the general owner of a ship will be deemed owner for the voyage where the intention of the parties in that respect is indefinite on the face of the charter-party;[33] and a charter-party will not be construed as a demise of the ship, unless the possession is transferred to the charterer, even where the whole capacity of the vessel is let.[34] But where the entire capacity of the vessel is chartered to one party, the owner becomes a special and not a common carrier, and may contract against consequences of his servants' negligence.[35]

2. Liability of Charterer — a. For Repairs and Supplies. As a general rule the owner is liable for all supplies furnished his ship, the presumption being that she is navigated for his benefit;[36] but if the charterer is owner pro hac vice,[37] he is depth, the charterers were not to be liable to pay for the steam).

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 149 et seq.

The test generally is whose servants are to be in charge, if the ship-owner's, he is a carrier of the charterer's goods, if the charterer's, then the ship-owner is not a carrier but a letter of personal property and the contract one of hiring. Weir v. Union Steamship Co., [1900] A. C. 525, 9 Aspin. 111, 5 Com. Cas. 363, 69 L. J. Q. B. 809, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 91; Schreibler Baumwoll Mfg. Co. v. Furness, [1893] A. C. 8, 7 Aspin. 263, 62 L. J. Q. B. 201, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 1, 1 Reports 59; Manchester Trust v. Furness, [1895] 2 Q. B. 539, 8 Aspin. 57, 64 L. J. Q. B. 766, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 110, 14 Reports 739, 44 Wkly. Rep. 178. But this test is not conclusive. See cases cited supra, note 20 et seq.

28. The Argyle v. Worthington, 17 Ohio 460; Grimberg v. Columbia Packers' Assoc., 47 Oreg. 257, 83 Pac. 194, 114 Am. St. Rep. 927 (holding that a provision in a charter-party, whereby the charterer covenants to charter and hire a vessel and to pay for the charter, including the captain's salary, during the voyage, a specified sum on the acceptance of the vessel and a specified sum per month until the vessel is discharged of her cargo, is not inconsistent with a contract of affreightment only, where the provision is contained in a covenant on the part of the charterer, and the owner has not on his part employed any words operative as a demise); Palmer v. Gracie, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,692, 4 Wash. 110 [reversed on other grounds in 8 Wheat. 605, 5 L. ed. 696].

29. Hooe v. Groverman, 1 Cranch (U. S.) 214, 2 L. ed. 86; The Nicaragua, 72 Fed. 207, 18 C. C. A. 511 [affirming 71 Fed. 723, holding that the master is the owner's agent, charged with the duty of getting proper entrance permits to the ports within the charter limits; and, for his default therein, the ship and her owner are liable.

30. Dunlop Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 178 Fed. 673.

31. Bull v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 167 Fed. 792, 93 C. C. A. 182; The Endsleigh, 124 Fed. 858; The Turgot, 11 P. D. 21, 5 Aspin. 548, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 276, 34 Wkly. Rep. 552.

32. Hagar v. Clark, 78 N. Y. 45 (holding that in the absence of any clear and determinate transfer of the rights and authority of the general owners of a vessel chartered for a voyage, the same will be deemed continued, the presumption being against such a transfer, and the charterer cannot be held as special owner for the voyage until the entire command and possession of the vessel, and consequent control over its navigation, have been surrendered); Grimberg v. Columbia Packers' Assoc., 47 Oreg. 257, 83 Pac. 194, 114 Am. St. Rep. 927 (holding that the word "freighting" in a charter-party, whereby the owner of a vessel agrees on the "freighting" and chartering thereof to the charterer for one voyage, means a loading with goods for transportation, and does not indicate a demise of the vessel to the charterer); Reed v. U. S., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 591, 20 L. ed. 220; Richardson v. Winsor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795, 3 Cliff. 395. See Husten v. Richards, 44 Me. 182.

33. The Aberfoyle, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 16, Abb. Adm. 242; In re Certain Logs of Mahogany, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,559, 2 Sumn. 589.

34. The Erie, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,512, 2 Ware 225.

35. The Fri, 154 Fed. 333, 83 C. C. A. 205.

36. Jones v. Blum, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 475, holding that the question in each case is to whom was the credit given. See Woolsey v. Funke, 121 N. Y. 87, 24 N. E. 191. And see supra, III, E, 1.

37. See supra, III, E, 1.

liable for repairs, materials, and supplies for the vessel,[38] and the owner is absolved from liability therefor,[39] although he has reserved the right to terminate the charter-party at any time.[40]

b. For Torts. The general rules above stated [41] apply to liability of owner or charterer for tort.[42] The charterers when owners for the voyage are liable for negligence in the running of the vessel.[43] On the other hand, if there is a time charter which does not amount to a demise, and the owner undertakes to supply winches and men to work them, and an accident is caused through the winchman's negligence to a stevedore employed by the charterer in loading or unloading cargo, the charterer, and not the owner, would be liable. For the work with respect to the cargo is that of the charterer and he is responsible for the instrumentality used to carry on the work, no matter by whom supplied.[44] The duty of the owner is satisfied if he supplies a competent man to drive the winch;[45] and in such case the owner is not liable to the charterer for the cost of a winchman supplied from shore because the ship's man, because of objection by labor unions or for any other reason, is persona non grata to the stevedores or the charterers.[46] If the contract is one of affreightment merely, the owners and not the charterers are the ones to be charged.[47] As in other cases [48] the presumption is against the charterer being owner pro hac vice.[49] But the owner of a vessel who secretly charters her to another, concealing the fact from the officers and hands of the boat, will be

38. Alabama.— Finnegan v. Frank, 67 Ala. 21.

Louisiana.— Fish v. Sullivan, 40 La. Ann. 193, 3 So. 730.

Maine.— Swanton v. Reed, 35 Me. 176.

Massachusetts.— Goodridge v. Lord, 10 Mass. 483.

South Carolina.— Jones v. Blum, 2 Rich. 475.

United States.—McCarthy v. Eggers, 1 Fed. 478 [reversing 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,681, 8 Ben. 688].

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 151.

The master of a vessel, who is also the charterer and has stipulated to furnish her with all the requisite stores and material, is exclusively responsible for supplies purchased by him from one who is chargeable with notice of the facts. Mott v. Ruckman, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,881, 3 Blatchf. 71.

39. Perry v. Osborne, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 422; Jones v. Blum, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 475; McCarthy v. Eggers, 1 Fed. 578 [reversing 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,681, 10 Ben. 688]. See The Kate, 164 U. S. 458, 17 S. Ct. 135, 41 L. ed. 512; The Secret, 15 Fed. 480 (holding that where charterers of a vessel had no authority to bind her owners or the vessel for a supply of coal in a foreign port, as could have been easily learned if diligence had been used, a vendor may not hold the vessel for such supplies, although the charterer represented that the coal was intended for the ship); Campbell v. The Alknomac, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,350, Bee 124.

40. Rich v. Jordan, 164 Mass. 127, 41 N. E. 56.

41. See supra, III, E, 1, a.

42. See cases cited infra, this section.

The owner of a vessel is not liable for barratry of the captain and crew beyond the sum mentioned in the charter-party. Campbell v. Alknomac, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,350, Bee 124.

43. Sherman v. Fream, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 478; The Barnstable, 181 U. S. 464, 21 S. Ct. 684, 45 L. ed. 954; Posey v. Scoville, 10 Fed. 140, explosion of the boilers. And see Ferguson v. The Terrier, 73 Fed. 265, holding that where the owners of a chartered vessel appoint the officers and crew and retain control, the vessel will remain liable for the injury to a stevedore, working in the hold beneath an open hatch, by the dropping down of a board upon him by a member of the crew of the ship.

Under Ky. Rev. St. p. 202, providing that a boat "and owner" shall be liable for any damage unlawfully done by her to any other boat or property through the wilful or negligent conduct of her officers or crew, the boat and owners are equally liable for damages in case of a collision, whether the officers and crew were acting for the owners of the boat or for charterers of the boat at the time of the injury. Sparks v. The Kate French, 3 Metc. 533.

44. See The Volund, —— Fed. ——, Aug. 1910.

45. The Elton, 142 Fed. 367, 73 C. C. A. 467.

46. Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 159 Fed. 706, 86 C. C. A. 574.

47. Bissell v. Torrey, 60 N. Y. 635 [affirming 65 Barb. 188] (holding that while one engaged in the business of towing boats by a steamer chartered by him for that purpose may be liable for breach of contract, he is not liable, in an action for negligence, for injuries to a boat resulting from the negligence of those navigating the steamer; the owner retaining possession and general control, and the direction of its master and crew); Sherman v. Fream, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 478.

48. See supra, III, E, 1.

49. Ross v. Charleston, etc., Transp. Co., 42 S. C. 447, 20 S. E. 285.

liable to third persons for injuries caused by the negligence of the officers and hands in the management of the boat, if a sufficient legal excuse for the secrecy is not given, so as to remove the presumption of fraud, rendering the charter-party void as against third persons.[50]

c. For Injury to or Non-Delivery of Goods. The shipper under an ordinary bill of lading has his remedy against the ship, whether the charter is one where the owner retains possession and command, or whether the control and navigation pass to the charterer; but whether the owner or the charterer is ultimately liable depends on the terms of the charter-party.[51] It is immaterial, however, to the question of liability whether the owner receives for the use of the vessel a stipulated sum or a share of its earnings. In either case the party who by the contract with the owner is entitled to the possession and command of the vessel is liable for not delivering goods.[52] If the charterer is owner pro hac vice, he alone is personally liable for injury to or non-delivery of the cargo,[53] unless the owner has by his conduct induced a reasonable belief in the shipper that the vessel was to sail on his account, and under his direction and control.[54] Under the ordinary form of time charter which does not operate as a demise where the owner controls the actual navigation of the vessel in going on the voyages ordered by the charterer, the latter, as between the ship-owner and charterer, is responsible for claims for damage to or shortage of cargo.[55] Where the charterer agrees to supply and pay for the coal the officers are his agents as to the coal and the ship-owner would not be liable to the charterer for loss or misappropriation of the coal,[56] and is in addition liable to the charterer for any damage to cargo by his servants;[57] and the owners of a chartered vessel, retaining control of her navigation, are liable for injuries to a part of the cargo occasioned by unaccustomed and dangerous goods subsequently taken aboard.[58] But neither the charterer nor owner is liable for injury to the cargo by employees of the shipper.[59]

F. Seaworthiness and Fitness of Vessel — 1. Rule Stated. Every one, either as owner or chartered owner, who offers a vessel for freight or charter is bound to furnish one that is stanch, tight, and seaworthy,[60] and to keep her in

50. New Haven Steamboat, etc., Co. v. Vanderbilt, 16 Conn. 420.

51. Richardson v. Winsor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795, 3 Cliff. 395. And see The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174, holding that the master is chargeable with knowledge of the shipper's rights, and the vessel is liable in rem for damages to cargo through dangerous goods, although such dangerous goods were taken on at the request of the charterer.

52. Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am. Dec. 268; Tuckerman v. Brown, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 191; Richardson v. Winsor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795, 3 Cliff. 395.

53. Pitkin v. Brainerd, 5 Conn. 451, 13 Am. Dec. 79; Cutler v. Winsor, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 335, 17 Am. Dec. 385 (where the master chartered the vessel under circumstances making him owner pro hac vice); Reynolds v. Toppan, 15 Mass. 370, 8 Am. Dec. 110; Richardson v. Winsor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795, 3 Cliff. 395.

54. Pitkin v. Brainerd, 5 Conn. 451, 13 Am. Dec. 79.

55. Clyde Commercial Steamships v. U. S. Shipping Co., 152 Fed. 516.

56. The Endsleigh, 124 Fed. 858.

In the case of a time charter in the ordinary form, not operating as a demise of the ship, the contracts contained in bills of lading signed by the captain are made with the ship-owner and not with the charterer, notwithstanding that, by the terms of the time charter, the captain is to be under the orders and direction of the charterer as regards agency, employment, and other arrangements. Wehner v. Dene Steam Shipping Co., [1905] 2 K. B. 92, 10 Com. Cas. 139, 74 L. J. K. B. 550, 21 T. L. R. 339.

57. The Craigallion, 20 Fed. 747.

58. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

59. The Miletus, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,545, 5 Blatchf. 335 [affirming 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,461], holding that where, under a special clause in a charter-party, stevedores, selected as agents of the shippers of a cargo, discharge it, the loss or damage done to the cargo by such stevedores in discharging it falls upon the shipper.

60. Mississippi Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1; Lyon v. Tiffany, 76 Mich. 158, 42 N. W. 1098; Work v. Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012 [affirming 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,415, 1 Woods 271]; The New York, 93 Fed. 495; McCann v. Conery, 11 Fed. 747; Ye Seng Co. v. Corbitt, 9 Fed. 423, 7 Sawy. 368; Wilson v. Griswold, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,806, 9 Blatchf. 267, holding that there is an implied covenant of seaworthiness where a vessel is let by a charter-party under seal for the transportation of goods, although the charterer is to man, proper repair, unless prevented by perils of the sea or unavoidable accident.[61] In such case, although the charterer may have undertaken to provide and pay for the coal, the ship-owner is liable for failure of the master to notify the charterer of victual, and navigate the vessel. But see Cook v. Gowan, 15 Gray (Mass.) 237 (holding that a covenant in a charter-party that the vessel "shall be kept tight, stanch, well fitted and tackled" for a voyage contains no implied warranty of seaworthiness; and if the vessel is made seaworthy as soon as her unseaworthiness is discovered there is no breach of covenant); Swift v. Tross, 55 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 255 (holding that the charterer of a vessel, executing a sub-charter containing an agreement that the vessel was seaworthy, was liable for damages resulting from a breach of the agreement); Bowie v. Wheelright, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,733, 2 Cranch C. C 167 (holding that in a charter-party, the words "charter and to freight let" do not imply a covenant in law that the vessel is or shall be seaworthy).

Nature of the warranty.— The warranty of seaworthiness is a warranty that the vessel is in such a fit condition for all the ordinary hazards of the contemplated voyage as to be approved seaworthy in the judgment of impartial and experienced men versed in the business, and the test is not whether the vessel may possibly make one or several voyages without foundering, but whether she is so stanch in her character as to prove herself fit for navigation in the eyes of all competent nautical men. Premuda v. Goepel, 23 Fed. 410, holding that in this case in view of an almost unanimous refusal to insure on the part of an insurance company and of the direct evidence of serious defects in her hull, the vessel was not seaworthy.

When the owner is kept in ignorance of her destination, of the service in which she is to be engaged, and the use to which she is to be put, there can be no implied warranty of a vessel's seagoing qualities. Richardson v. U. S., 2 Ct. Cl. 483. And the same rule applies where the charterer misrepresents to the owner the depth of water in which the vessel is to navigate. Donovan v. Sheridan, 4 Misc. (N. Y.) 433, 24 N. Y. Suppl. 116, holding that where a boat drawing seven feet of water is chartered by plaintiff to defendants to run to a certain point on a river, and defendants state to plaintiff that the channel of the river is more than ten feet deep, when in fact it was not more than six feet deep, the doctrine of implied warranty of fitness does not apply.

The proper ballasting of the ship, and the amount and arrangement of the cargo so as to make her sufficiently steady, are included in seaworthiness. Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249; Weir v. Union Steamship Co., [1900] 1 Q. B. 28, 9 Aspin. 13, 5 Com. Cas. 24, 69 L. J. Q. B. 193, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 553 [affirmed in [1900] A. C. 526, 9 Aspin. 111, 5 Com. Cas. 363, 69 L. J. Q. B. 809, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 91]. But see The Hiram, 101 Fed. 138.

The obligation extends to the vessel on which reshipment of the goods may become necessary at an intermediate point in the voyage. Mississippi Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1. And the owner of a chartered vessel, which becomes unseaworthy on the voyage to the port of loading, who fails to report her disability on her arrival, in consequence of which according to the usual procedure a cargo is procured or prepared for shipment, is liable for the damage resulting to the charterer from inability of the vessel to proceed with the cargo, which deteriorated through the delay. The Ask, 156 Fed. 678; The Director, 34 Fed. 57, 13 Sawy. 172 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 335, 13 Sawy. 479]. And where a vessel, by accident or otherwise, proves leaky and unfit for sea, while taking in her cargo and before she breaks ground on her voyage, it will justify a freighter in taking out the goods and shipping them on board another vessel. Purvis v. Tunno, 2 Bay (S. C.) 492. Similarly where four impartial, competent, and experienced persons having, after examination of a vessel, expressed the belief that she was not seaworthy, and the owner having refused to dock the vessel and settle the question, notwithstanding the subsequent good performance of the ship, the charterers are justified in rejecting her. Svendsen v. Stursberg, 31 Fed. 86.

The Harter Act, Act Feb. 13, 1893, c. 105, 27 U. S. St. at L. 445 [U. S. Comp. St (1901) p. 2946], does not interfere with the liberty of contract between the owner and charterers in regard to a proper fitting of the vessel for the voyage, or with any contract the parties may make as respects the responsibility for the sufficiency of special fittings. Hine v. New York, etc., Co., 68 Fed. 920 [affirmed in 73 Fed. 852, 20 C. C. A. 63], holding that a charter of a ship to carry asphalt, the ship to be "fitted with shifting boards and bulkheads, suitable for carrying asphalt cargo safely, to be done by the owner's agents, but at charterers' expense," imposes upon the owner the duty of providing suitable bulkheads and fittings; and where they are insufficient, and break under the weight of the cargo, causing delay and expense for unloading, refitting and reloading, he cannot recover charter hire, or a general average expense, for such delay and costs.

A clause which reads, "Charterers to approve the ventilation," does not leave the subject to the unreasonable and arbitrary decision of the charterer, but becomes a question for the jury to determine from the evidence, whether the ship is properly ventilated for the purposes for which it was chartered. Russell v. Allerton, 108 N. Y. 288, 15 N. E. 391.

61. Putnam v. Wood, 3 Mass. 481, 3 Am. Dec. 179; Work v. The Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012; Wood v. The Wilmington, 48 Fed. 566 (holding that notwithstanding the charterer had control of the boat for the period of the contract, the boat was liable in rem to him for an injury to the cargo caused by the master's failure to keep her in the quantity of coal necessary for that stage of the voyage.[62] Although the hirer must not abandon the vessel while he can keep her afloat and suitably provide for the employment and destination for which she was hired, the owner must be ready to pay all expenses and damages necessarily incurred for the purpose of keeping her in fit condition.[63] The vessel must be cleansed of cargo from one voyage so that she will be seaworthy to carry cargo on subsequent voyage;[64] and must be fit and competent for the kind of cargo and particular service for which she is chartered.[65] A subcharter of a vessel for a mentioned cargo carries a warranty that she is fit to carry that cargo, and the chartered owner will be liable for damage to the cargo due to the nature of the previous cargo carried on the vessel, although the original charter put the risk of such damage on the charterer, as both under the implied terms of the charter and under an express covenant in the charter that the ship shall be tight, stanch, strong, and fitted for the voyage,[66] and must be properly manned and officered.[67] This obligation of an owner to see that a chartered vessel is seaworthy and suitable for service extends both to thorough repair); Whipple v. Mississippi, etc., Packet Co., 34 Fed. 54; The Francis Wright, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,044, 7 Ben. 88.

Where a vessel becomes disabled while taking in cargo, the freighter will not be bound by the charter-party, unless she is repaired and rendered fit for the voyage within a reasonable time, of which the jury are the proper judges. Purvis v. Tunno, 1 Brev. (S. C.) 260, 2 Am. Dec. 664.

Speed of vessel.— Where a charter-party of a steamship for the fruit trade guarantees that she shall make a certain average speed in moderate weather, "fruit or light laden," it is a continuing guaranty that the average speed shall be accomplished during the term of the charter under the conditions stated; "light laden" means a cargo, the equivalent of a fruit cargo, or one not more cumbersome or more unfavorable to speed. Wessels v. The Ceres, 72 Fed. 936, 19 C. C. A. 243 [affirming 61 Fed. 701], holding that the charterers under such a charter-party are not to be charged with heedlessness in continuing to run the vessel in the fruit trade after she had failed on several voyages to maintain the guaranteed speed, where the owner by promises that the speed should be improved prevailed upon them not to throw up the contract.

Where the journey is in stages the implied warranty of seaworthiness for the voyage at the commencement thereof attaches at the commencement of each stage. If she is unseaworthy for lack of coal at the beginning of the second stage the cargo-owner is entitled to recover for the damage he sustains in consequence, the negligence of the servants of the ship-owner being no answer to the breach of warranty. The Vortigern, [1899] P. 140, 8 Aspin. 523, 4 Com. Cas. 152, 68 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 49, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 382, 15 T. L. R. 259, 47 Wkly. Rep. 437.

62. Similarly under a charter of a vessel fully equipped for a voyage, with an option to the hirer of continuing the charter, if, through lack of equipment and unseaworthiness at the beginning of the original voyage, the vessel breaks down during the extended period, to the charterer's injury, he may recover therefor. Leiter v. Ronalds, 84 Fed. 894; McIver v. Tate Steamers, [1903] 1 K. B. 362, 9 Aspin. 362, 8 Com. Cas. 124, 72 L. J. K. B. 253, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 182, 19 T. L. R. 217, 51 Wkly. Rep. 393.

63. Kimball v. Tucker, 10 Mass. 192, holding, however, that there is no implied promise in a charter-party for the owner to reimburse the hirer for casual profits lost by his advancing money to pay for necessary repairs on the vessel.

64. Dene Steam Shipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 133 Fed. 589 [affirmed in 143 Fed. 854, 74 C. C. A. 606] (where the vessel was considered to have been rendered unseaworthy because asphalt became wedged behind the vessel's permanent battens and could not be removed without renewing the battens. The trouble could have been avoided by lining the holds with boards. This was held to be the owner's duty); The Lizzie W. Virden, 11 Fed. 903.

65. Dene Steam Shipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 133 Fed. 589 [affirmed in 143 Fed. 854, 74 C. C. A. 606] (holding that asphalt is "lawful cargo," under a charter which includes the West Indies; and it is the duty of the owner, in order to render the vessel seaworthy, to fit her for the proper carriage of such cargo by lining the holds with boards, where her construction is such as to require it, and in this respect there is no difference between a time charter and a voyage charter); The Regulus, 18 Fed. 380.

66. Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinkney, 170 Fed. 266, 95 C. C. A. 462 [reversing 163 Fed. 653]. Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249; The Lizzie W. Virden, 8 Fed. 624, 19 Bradf. 340; The Vesta, 6 Fed. 532. But see The Hiram, 101 Fed. 138.

If the charter is to carry passengers the law will imply that the vessel is fit for that purpose. Ye Seng Co. v. Corbitt, 9 Fed. 423, 7 Sawy. 368.

67. Tebo v. Jordan, 67 Hun (N. Y.) 392, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 156; The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463; The Vincennes, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,945, 3 Ware 171. But see Mahoney v. Martin, 35 La. Ann. 29, holding that where the duty of discharging devolves on the charterer's consignees, it is no breach of the war-known and unknown defects,[68] and the owners may be held liable, although there was a thorough repair at the port of discharge;[69] but this warranty does not require that the vessel shall be such that insurance companies shall be willing to insure her;[70] and a chartered vessel required by the charter to be seaworthy is required to be so with respect to the stowage of cargo as well as in hull and equipment, and, in the absence of special contract, must be supplied with proper fittings for the stowage of any lawful cargo.[71] A charterer who accepts a vessel which is in a defective condition cannot complain of injury to the cargo caused by such defects where the vessel was examined and accepted with knowledge of her condition.[72] The principle is applicable, however, only where the charterer had full knowledge, otherwise he has a right to rely on the implied warranty.[73] Where the charter declares that the vessel was in good order and condition, the presumption is in favor of seaworthiness.[74] The charterer therefore assumes the obligation that the vessel will continue to be capable to proceed on her voyage, so far as relates to all defects which can be ascertained by inspection, and the owner assumes the obligation that the vessel will continue to be able to proceed, so far as relates to latent defects; and if an accident which interrupts the progress of the boat is the result of a defect which is ascertainable by inspection, then the owner can recover; but if of a defect which was latent, then the verdict must be for the charterers.[75]

2. Time of Seaworthiness. The warranty of seaworthiness attaches as a general rule at the date of the charter and delivery of the cargo to the vessel,[76] and extends to the time when the vessel actually breaks ground for the voyage, and not merely to the time when she begins to take in cargo.[77] This implied warranty is not varied by an express warranty in the charter that the vessel shall be stanch, strong, and true.[78] The implied warranty or condition precedent that the vessel is seaworthy at the date of the charter does not attach to a charter to commence when the vessel is ready to receive cargo at place of lading, a port ranty of seaworthiness that the master was drunk at the port of delivery while the cargo was being discharged.

68. Work v. Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012; Hubert v. Recknagel, 13 Fed. 912, holding that under the usual covenants of a charter-party that the vessel is "tight, stanch, and strong," the owners are answerable for latent, as well as visible, defects whereby the cargo is damaged.

69. Hubert v. Recknagel, 13 Fed. 912.

70. Harloff v. Barber, 150 Fed. 185.

71. Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22, 75 C. C. A. 180]; The Vincennes, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,945, 3 Ware 171. But see The Vesta, 6 Fed. 532, holding that where a vessel was chartered for the transportation of wheat in bulk across the Atlantic in winter, under a warranty that she should be tight, stanch, and strong, and in every way fitted for the voyage, it was essential that the vessel should be a good sea risk for the merchandise specified as cargo, and that this requirement of the charter was not satisfied by an old vessel built of soft wood, when underwriters declined to insure cargo for that reason.

72. The Presque Isle, 140 Fed. 202; Glasgow Shipowners Co. v. Bacon, 132 Fed. 881 [affirmed in 139 Fed. 541, 71 C. C. A. 329] (holding that in the absence of any speed warranty in a charter or provisions for docking and cleaning, the charterer may not deduct charter hire because the vessel's speed is retarded by her dirty bottom and which the charterer knew of when the contract was made, or should have expected from the circumstances attending the hiring); Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22, 75 C. C. A. 180]; Frank Waterhouse v. Rock Island Alaska Min. Co., 97 Fed. 466, 38 C. C. A. 281.

73. The Presque Isle, 140 Fed. 202.

74. McCann v. Conery, 11 Fed. 747.

75. McCann v. Conery, 11 Fed. 747.

76. The Director, 34 Fed. 57, 13 Sawy. 172 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 335, 13 Sawy. 479].

Charter-party held to have been complied with by owner within reasonable time under the circumstances see Culliford v. Vinet, 128 U. S. 135, 9 S. Ct. 50, 32 L. ed. 381 [reversing 20 Fed. 734].

77. Bowring v. Thebaud, 56 Fed. 520, 5 C. C. A. 640 [affirming 42 Fed. 794]; Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249. But see The Carron Park, 15 P. D. 203, 6 Aspin. 543, 59 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 74, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 356, 39 Wkly. Rep. 191.

78. Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinkney, 170 Fed. 266, 95 C. C. A. 462; Bowring v. Thebaud, 56 Fed. 520, 5 C. C. A. 640 [affirming 42 Fed. 794]; Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249. But see Ahrenberg v. Wright, 30 Hun (N. Y.) 75, holding that if a charter-party guarantees that a ship is A 1, this means as a general rule that she is so when the charter-party is made, not that she shall be so at a future time.

other than the port in which the charter is executed and to which the vessel must proceed in order to load.[79]

3. EVIDENCE. It is an ordinary presumption that a vessel is seaworthy and in good order when she undertakes a voyage;[80] but this presumption is rebutted by proof that she is old and approaching the end of her life as a ship, and that she suddenly failed in a vital part without any apparent cause.[81] Generally where a defect in a vessel develops without any apparent cause, it is presumed to have existed when the service began.[82] It has been held that in a libel by the owners on a charter-party for refusing to furnish a cargo on the pretense that the ship was unseaworthy, the burden of proving the seaworthiness is on the owners.[83] Fraud cannot be imputed where the owner of a vessel makes no representations of her seaworthiness, and affords the agents of the charterers ample facilities for inspection, and where the vessel is chartered upon the faith of their examination and report.[84]

4. DAMAGES. Where a chartered vessel, when delivered to the charterers, is unfit for the service for which she was engaged, and the charterers do not succeed in an attempt to remedy the defects, they are entitled to return the vessel and recover actual legal damages;[85] and if the vessel has not already sailed the charterer may recover his cargo and obtain damages for failure of the warranty.[86] If after the vessel sails the cargo is damaged or lost in consequence of unseaworthiness, the charterer can recover the value of the property so injured.[87] If the speed of the vessel is not up to the charter requirements, and in consequence the cargo is

79. The Star of Hope, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,312, 1 Hask. 36 [affirmed in 85 Fed. Cas. No. 4,710, 3 Cliff. 91].

80. Work v. Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012 [affirming 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,415, 1 Woods 271]; McCann v. Conery, 11 Fed. 747 (holding that under a charter-party declaring that the vessel was in good order and condition the presumption is in favor of seaworthiness); Pyman v. Von Singen, 3 Fed. 802, 5 Hughes 196 (holding that the presumption is not rebutted where it is shown, in a suit against charterers for damages for breach of a charter-party, that a ship not two years old, and carrying ballast only, was disabled, within thirty-six hours after leaving port, by the loosening of the bolts of the propeller's shaft, from the racing of the propeller during a gale, although there was no testimony that the bolts were specially examined just previous to starting); Bowley v. U. S., 8 Ct. Cl. 187. And see Bursley v. The Marlborough, 47 Fed. 667; The Rover, 33 Fed. 515.

The breaking of a junk ring on a steamship engine cylinder must be held an "accident of the sea and of the machinery," within the meaning of a charter-party exempting the ship from liability for losses to cargo caused by such dangers, when such ring performed its functions without jar or fault prior to the breakdown, and no flaw was disclosed by an examination of the broken pieces. The Curlew, 55 Fed. 1003, 5 C. C. A. 386 [affirming 51 Fed. 246].

Circumstances held to show unseaworthiness see The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463; McAdams v. Leverich, 35 Fed. 305; Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249.

Circumstances held not to show unseaworthiness see The Piskataqua, 35 Fed. 622; Pyman v. Von Singen, 3 Fed. 802, 5 Hughes 196 (holding that the fact that a chartered ship was not provided with rimers for boring out the bolt holes after they had worked out of shape, and extra bolts to fit them, so that the difficulty might have been remedied at sea without putting into port, did not constitute negligence, so as to excuse the charterers for refusing to load because of delay in arriving at port of lading caused by putting into port for repairs); Von Lingen v. Davidson, 1 Fed. 178 [reversed on other grounds in 4 Fed. 346, 5 Hughes 221, and in 113 U. S. 40, 5 S. Ct. 346, 28 L. ed. 885], holding that the stoppage of a steamer for five hours at a port in the course of her voyage for the purpose of taking in a small quantity of additional coal is not a breach of a provision in the charter-party that such steamer was "in every way fitted for the voyage."

81. Werk v. Leathers, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,415, 1 Woods 271 [affirmed in 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012].

82. Work v. Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012.

83. The Vincennes, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,945, 3 Ware 171, holding also that when the question of seaworthiness is in issue, evidence of the performance of voyages immediately before or after that contemplated is inadmissible, except so far as they may offer just inferences as to her actual condition at the time.

84. Richardson v. U. S., 2 Ct. Cl. 483.

85. McAdams v. Leverich, 35 Fed. 305.

86. The Director, 36 Fed. 335, 13 Sawy. 479, 34 Fed. 57, 13 Sawy. 172.

87. Meyer v. Barker, 6 Binn. (Pa.) 228, holding that charterers may recover of the owners the whole amount of a loss occasioned by unseaworthiness, although the underwriters have already paid part of the loss.

injured, the charterer may recover damages measured by the deterioration of the cargo due to delay;[88] but damages are not recoverable for delay due to accidents excepted under a charter-party.[89] There is no implied promise in a charter-party for the owner to reimburse the hirer for casual profits lost by his advancing money to pay for necessary repairs on the vessel.[90]

G. Readiness and Despatch of Vessel — 1. In General. The vessel must be ready for loading at the time contracted for,[91] and if she is, refusal of the charterer to ship is a breach of his contract.[92] If necessary, the vessel must wait for cargo at the port of lading during all the agreed lay days.[93] Provisions in a charter-party as to the commencement of the lay days for loading and discharging are of the essence of the contract, and on failure of the owners to tender the vessel within the required time the charterer may rescind the contract;[94] and until the lay days have expired there is no breach of the charterer's contract to load.[95] But where the charterer refuses to accept the vessel or provide a cargo, the owner need not keep her in readiness for delivery during all the lay days;[96] and if after the lay days have expired or the charterer has refused to load the ship-owner keeps the ship idle he is not entitled to recover for the subsequent detention.[97]

2. Delay in Sailing For or Arriving At Port of Lading. Where the contract so provides, the vessel must sail without delay to enter upon the charter at the port of loading at the time specified,[98] the stipulation being construed as a condition precedent or warranty which if not fulfilled entitles the charterer to reject

The remedy of such underwriters is against the owners on a payment by mistake.

The owner is liable for the cost of lining a vessel, and of removing the same, where, owing to her construction, it was necessary to render her seaworthy for the carriage of a cargo, which was in contemplation when the charter was made. Tweedie Trading Co. v. Dene Steam Shipping Co., 140 Fed. 779.

88. Wessels v. The Ceres, 72 Fed. 936, 19 C. C. A. 243 [affirming 61 Fed. 701]. And see The Ask, 156 Fed. 678.

89. The Curlew, 51 Fed. 246 [affirmed in 55 Fed. 1003, 5 C. C. A. 286].

90. Kimball v. Tucker, 10 Mass. 192.

91. Weisser v. Maitland, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 318; Crow v. Myers, 41 Fed. 806. See Murrell v. Whiting, 32 Ala. 54; Love v. Ross, 4 Call (Va.) 590, holding that where a charter-party provides that the vessel shall be loaded by a certain time, and the owner agrees that she shall sail at a certain time for certain ports and return, but by his fault she is not ready to sail until long after the time specified, he cannot come into equity to enforce the terms of the charter-party against the shipper.

Although it is Sunday and the work of loading cannot begin until the following day, the condition of a charter-party that the ship shall be "ready for cargo" at the port of lading on or before the last day of the month is satisfied by her arrival on that day in actual readiness to receive cargo. Gill v. Browne, 53 Fed. 394, 3 C. C. A. 573 [affirming 50 Fed. 941], holding that there is no custom of the port of Philadelphia requiring that, when the last day that a ship could be in readiness falls on Sunday, she should present herself on the previous Saturday, and that the rule of the Philadelphia Maritime Exchange providing that, when vessels chartered to load grain at that port are ready for cargo, the notice of readiness must be accompanied by a certificate of readiness from the surveyors of the board of marine underwriters, cannot be regarded as incorporated into a charter-party made in the city of New York for the employment of a British vessel, when the contract itself makes no reference to such rule, and the owner is ignorant of its existence.

Unlawful seizure and detention of the vessel by a stranger does not terminate a parol contract for the charter of the vessel. Muggridge v. Eveleth, 9 Metc. (Mass.) 233.

92. Bennett v. Lingham, 31 Fed. 85, where the "middle of September" was construed to mean as late as the twenty-seventh, the charterer having acquiesced.

93. Harries v. Edmonds, 1 C. & K. 686, 47 E. C. L. 686.

94. Barker v. Borzone, 48 Md. 474.

95. Avery v. Bowden, 5 E. & B. 714, 729, 1 Jur. N. S. 1167, 25 L. J. Q. B. 49, 55, 4 Wkly. Rep. 93, 95, 85 E. C. L. 714, 729 [affirmed in 6 E. & B. 953, 3 Jur. N. S. 238, 26 L. J. Q. B. 3, 5, 5 Wkly. Rep. 45, 88 E. C. L. 953].

96. Bactjer v. Bors, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 724, 7 Ben. 280; Hall v. Hurlbut, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,936, Taney 589; Harries v. Edmonds, 1 C. & K. 686, 47 E. C. L. 686. And see Wilkie v. Schultz, 35 La. Ann. 491, holding that where the charterer refuses to comply with his contract, except on a verbal alteration of its terms, alleged to have been assented to by the master, the latter may, without holding the vessel till the last day for demurrage, seek cargo elsewhere.

97. Bright v. Page, 3 B. & P. 295 note, 6 Rev. Rep. 795; Dimech v. Corlett, 12 Moore P. C. 199, 14 Eng. Reprint 887.

98. Olsen v. Hunter-Benn, 54 Fed. 530; Gill v. Browne, 53 Fed. 394, 3 C. C. A. 573 [affirming 50 Fed. 941]; The Religione E.

the vessel,[99] unless the delay was caused by the shipper's fault [1] or he has waived his right to cancel by loading the cargo.[2] In the absence of an express stipulation one is implied.[3] But a forcible detention will excuse from the performance of Liberta, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,694, 5 Reporter 646, 5 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 211.

The word "direct," as used in a statement in a charter-party that the chartered vessel was to "proceed thence direct, to load on this charter," means that the vessel is to take a direct course from one of the ports named to the other, without deviation or unnecessary delay, and not that she must leave the port first named immediately. The Onrust, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,540, 6 Blatchf. 533 [affirming 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,539, 1 Ben. 431].

99. Porteous v. Williams, 115 N. Y. 116, 21 N. E. 711; The Whickham, 113 U. S. 40, 5 S. Ct. 346, 28 L. ed. 885 [affirming 4 Fed. 346, 5 Hughes 221, and reversing 1 Fed. 178]; Lowber v. Bangs, 2 Wall. (U. S.) 728, 17 L. ed. 768 [reversing 2 Fed. Cas. No. 840, 2 Cliff. 157]; Giuseppe v. Manufacturers' Export Co., 124 Fed. 663; Olsen v. Hunter-Benn, 54 Fed. 530 (holding that the provision in a charter-party that the vessel to be chartered is "at Santos, or sailed," is a contract that she will soon sail, or has sailed, therefrom); Pedersen v. Pagenstecher, 32 Fed. 841 (holding that the vessel under such a stipulation takes upon herself the risks of all causes that may prevent a compliance with the condition); The Orsino, 24 Fed. 918; Antola v. Gill, 7 Fed. 487, 5 Hughes 284 [affirming 5 Fed. 128]; Deshon v. Fosdick, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,819, 1 Woods 286; Croockewit v. Fletcher, 1 H. & N. 893, 26 L. J. Exch. 153, 5 Wkly. Rep. 348; Glaholm v. Hays, 10 L. J. C. P. 98, 2 M. & G. 257, 2 Scott N. R. 471, 40 E. C. L. 589. And see Funch v. Abenheim, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 1, holding that a charterer may rescind a charter-party for mutual mistake, where it was executed in New York while both parties supposed the vessel would leave London June 5, whereas it did not lease until June 23, where the charterer stated before executing the charter-party that the time of departure from London was material to him. Compare Rosasco v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 121 Fed. 437 [affirmed in 138 Fed. 25, 70 C. C. A. 455] (holding that a provision of a charter-party requiring the vessel to sail in ballast for the port of loading within forty-eight hours after notice from the charterer is not a condition precedent, a breach of which entitles the charterer to cancel the contract, where there is a subsquent provision for a canceling date if the vessel shall not have arrived at the port of loading, and she arrives within the time so fixed. In such case the breach of the first condition merely gives a right of action for damages); Fearing v. Cheeseman, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,710, 3 Cliff. 91 [affirming 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,312, 1 Hask. 36] (holding that the implied covenant that a vessel shall sail for the port of lading within a reasonable time, and with reasonable despatch, is not a condition precedent, and the charterer cannot cancel the contract unless the delay is so great as to frustrate the voyage intended).

The rule applies to a stipulation that the vessel is ready to sail and has sailed.— The March, 25 Fed. 106.

Under a charter giving the charterer the option to cancel if the vessel should be detained for more than ten days for repairs, "such option to be declared at the expiry of said ten days," if he fails to make such declaration ten days after the repairs are commenced, but permits them to proceed without objection, he is estopped to make it when the vessel is subsequently tendered after their completion. McNear v. Lehlond, 123 Fed. 384, 61 C. C. A. 564 [affirming 104 Fed. 826].

Indefinite expressions being read as negativing an intention to make time of the essence of the contract do not constitute conditions precedent. This rule has been applied to a stipulation that the ship should sail with the first favorable wind (Bornmann v. Tooke, 1 Campb. 377, 10 Rev. Rep. 747), or "proceed immediately" to the port of lading (Nelson v. Dundee East Coast Shipping Co., [1907] A. C. 927), or that the vessel was expected to be ready to load at a date specified (Forest Oak Steam Shipping Co. v. Richard, 5 Com. Cas. 100).

1. Woolsey v. Finke, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 112.

An injunction will not be granted to restrain the ship-owner from using the vessel for any purposes other than those of the charter-party where the vessel having been delayed, the charterer refused to extend the time for cancellation, or to promise to load the vessel if she proceeded to the agreed port, and said that, if he did load, the rate of freight must be reduced, and insisted on the vessel proceeding to the agreed port, whereupon the ship-owner refused to send his vessel there. Bucknall v. Tatem, 9 Aspin. 127, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 121.

2. Schooner Mahukona Co. v. Charles Nelson Co., 142 Fed. 615. See The Ekliptika, 95 Fed. 836.

3. Heller v. Pendleton, 148 Fed. 1014; The Alert, 61 Fed. 504 [affirmed in 74 Fed. 649, 20 C. C. A. 581]; Olsen v. Hunter-Benn, 54 Fed. 530; The Star of Hope, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,312, 1 Hask. 36 [affirmed in 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,710, 3 Cliff. 91]. See Renard v. Sampson, 2 Duer (N. Y.) 285 [affirmed in 12 N. Y. 561].

Where no stipulation is made as to the day the vessel should sail, or the time she was to be allowed for the trip, she must sail within a reasonable time, and proceed with reasonable despatch and without unnecessary deviation to the place of loading, unless delayed by the public enemy or perils of the seas. Fearing v. Cheeseman, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,710, 3 Cliff. 91 [affirming 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,312, 1 Hask. 36].

the obligation created by law.[4] Thus where the charter does not fix a definite time for the vessel to be at the port of lading the charterers are bound if the master uses reasonable diligence in bringing her to the port.[5] Inevitable accident or perils of the sea, that delay the vessel in reaching the port of lading beyond the usual term of passage, do not relieve the charterers from their contract, if the vessel be tendered in a reasonable time.[6] Under an express stipulation that a vessel will sail on a stated day to load, if she has broken ground for the voyage the stipulation is complied with, although she has been subsequently delayed by storms.[7]

3. Despatch Money. It is usually provided in charter-parties for a particular voyage or cargo that if the cargo shall be laden or discharged at an earlier date than is specified the charterer shall be entitled to a credit described as despatch money,[8] the method of computation of the despatch being usually stipulated in the charter-party at a rate per diem.[9] Where the charter specifies the number of days allowed for loading, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, and provides that despatch is to be allowed the charterer for each running day or part of a day saved in loading, the despatch is to be computed on the difference between the time when the loading was actually completed and the vessel turned over to the master for the purpose of the voyage, and the time when the lay days for loading would have expired under the charter, including Sundays or holidays occurring during such time; but the charterer cannot have despatch for any time elapsing after the vessel was loaded but unable to sail because the charterer withheld the clearance papers unjustifiably.[10]

H. Character of Cargo to Be Furnished. The cargo offered by the hirer must be adapted to the nature and capacity of the vessel,[11] although the con-

4. Street v. The Progresso, 42 Fed. 229 [affirmed in 50 Fed. 835, 2 C. C. A. 45] (quarantine embargo); The Onrust, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,539, 1 Ben. 431 [affirmed in 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,540, 6 Blatchf. 533] (delay in the service of the United States).

5. Lovell v. Davis, 101 U. S. 541, 25 L. ed. 944; The Onrust, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,539, 1 Ben. 431 [affirmed in 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,540, 6 Blatchf. 533].

6. Schooner Mahukona Co. v. Charles Nelson Co., 142 Fed. 615; Huron Barge Co. v. Turney, 71 Fed. 972; Hall v. Hurlbut, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,936, Taney 589 (holding that where a charter-party does not contain a stipulation that the vessel shall arrive at the port of shipment by a particular day, the shipper takes the risk of delay or detention by any superior force, which the vessel could not resist, and the refusal of a charterer therefore, under such circumstances, to furnish a cargo, because of her arrival at the port after the time of shipping the proposed cargo had gone by, is a breach of contract, for which he is liable in damages); The Star of Hope, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,312, 1 Hask. 36 [affirmed in 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,710, 3 Cliff. 91]; Potter v. Burrell, [1897] 1 Q. B. 97, 8 Aspin. 200, 66 L. J. Q. B. 63, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 491, 45 Wkly. Rep. 145.

But when the cause of the delay is removed, the master must thereafter use all due diligence to fulfill the contract. Street v. The Progresso, 42 Fed. 229 [affirmed in 50 Fed. 835, 2 C. C. A. 45].

7. The Francesca Curro, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,029, 4 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 415. But see Pedersen v. Pagenstecher, 32 Fed. 841, holding that moving from a dock out to the roadstead and sailing several days later is not sufficient.

8. Earnshaw v. McHose, 56 Fed. 606, 6 C. C. A. 51 [affirming 48 Fed. 589] (where, under the circumstances of that case and in the absence of any unusual expenditure by plaintiff to secure despatch, the despatch money was held to be merely a deduction from the freight, which must be allowed on the invoice price); The Glendevon, [1893] P. 269, 7 Aspin. 439, 62 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 123, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 416, 1 Reports 662.

Provision for despatch money in charter-party construed see Myers v. The Unionist, 48 Fed. 315.

The term "bad weather," in a charter-party providing for a credit to the charterer of per diem despatch money, is construed to include weather not fit or reasonably safe for loading by reason of the state of the sea as well as of the atmosphere, and the days during which there was such weather must be deducted from the time taken in loading and discharging in computing the amount of despatch money. The Ocean Prince, 50 Fed. 115.

9. Laing v. Hollway, 3 Q. B. D. 437, 47 L. J. Q. B. 512, 26 Wkly. Rep. 769; The Glendevon, [1893] P. 269, 7 Aspin. 439, 62 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 123, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 416, 1 Reports 662.

10. Red "R." Steamship Co. v. North American Transport Co., 91 Fed. 168, 33 C. C. A. 432.

11. Husten v. Richards, 44 Me. 182. But see Stanton v. Richardson, 3 Aspin. 23, 45 tract to hire covers the whole vessel under and above decks, and provides for the payment of a fixed sum for the use of the vessel.[12] If the charterer has taken the whole capacity of the vessel, he is bound to furnish a full cargo,[13] unless relieved by a clause in the contract,[14] and has no right, in the absence of express stipulation

L. J. C. P. 78, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 193, 24 Wkly. Rep. 324.

Thus a master who has given the use of his vessel for a load of timber is not bound to take sticks of timber too large for the vessel. Thorndike v. Rokes, 76 Me. 396.

Where a vessel is chartered and rechartered to carry lumber it is for the original charterer to see that she is provided with such length and sizes as will give a full cargo; and if her master receives and stows in good faith what is furnished by the merchant under the subcharter, and it is of such sizes that there is not as much loaded as could have been with different kinds of lumber, no action lies against the vessel. The Lloyd, 21 Fed. 420.

12. Husten v. Richards, 44 Me. 182.

13. McQuade v. McNaughton, 49 Fed. 284 (holding that the failure of a charterer to load a full cargo on a vessel before she was obliged to leave to reach another port, where she had contracted to be ready to deliver by a certain date, will not be excused on account of the incapacity of the master when the receipt of cargo and management of the vessel were in the hands of a competent person, and the failure to load resulted from the charterer's lack of expedition); Isis Steamship Co. v. Bahr, [1900] A. C. 340, 9 Aspin. 109, 5 Com. Cas. 277, 69 L. J. Q. B. 660, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 571, 16 T. L. R. 381; Morris v. Levison, 1 C. P. D. 155, 3 Aspin. 171, 45 L. J. C. P. 409, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 576, 24 Wkly. Rep. 517; Jones v. Holm, L. R. 2 Exch. 335, 36 L. J. Exch. 192, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 794, 16 Wkly. Rep. 62; Hunter v. Fry, 2 B. & Ald. 421, 21 Rev. Rep. 340, 106 Eng. Reprint 420; Hills v. Sughrue, 15 M. & W. 253. And see Clarke v. Crabtree, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,847, 2 Curt. 87 [affirming 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,314, 1 Sprague 217], holding that under a charter-party to furnish a cargo of salt at a certain port, to be purchased by the master with the vessel's funds, the charterer takes the risk of there being salt at such port to make up a cargo, and the master is not bound to wait for a cargo the stipulated number of lay days, when there is no hope of obtaining any. Compare Nordaas v. Hubbard, 48 Fed. 921, holding that a charter-party providing that the vessel shall load at Mobile a cargo not exceeding what she can reasonably carry does not compel the shipper, after he has loaded her to the draught of the river at the city, to furnish her more at the deeper anchorage in the bay of Mobile, thirty miles from the city.

Refusal of a charterer to fill the vessel up after furnishing a partial cargo does not relieve the master of the obligation to carry forward the cargo he has, if the same is sufficient security for the full freight; but if it is in bad condition, and depreciating so rapidly as in all probability to become insufficient as security, he is not bound to go forward with it, but may discharge it, and then enforce against it his lien for the freight and demurrage due under the charter-party. Stepanovit v. Gillibrand, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,360.

Merchandise for ballast.— A ship-owner is entitled to take merchandise on board as ballast, provided it occupies no more space than the ballast would have done and leaves to the charterer the full space of the vessel for his cargo. Towse v. Henderson, 4 Exch. 890, 19 L. J. Exch. 163. A charterer must fill the cargo space and cannot load goods which leave broken stowage, without paying for dead freight. Cole v. Meek, 15 C. B. N. S. 795, 33 L. J. C. P. 183, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 653, 12 Wkly. Rep. 349, 109 E. C. L. 795. But see Cuthbert v. Cumming, 11 Exch. 405, 1 Jur. N. S. 686, 24 L. J. Exch. 310, 3 Wkly. Rep. 553, holding that a full and complete cargo of sugar and molasses meant a full cargo of sugar and molasses packed in hogsheads and puncheons, although when so packed the ship could not be completely filled.

Cargo held "a full and complete cargo" within the terms of the charter-party see Isis Steamship Co. v. Bahr, [1900] A. C. 340, 9 Aspin. 109, 5 Com. Cas. 277, 69 L. J. Q. B. 660, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 571, 16 T. L. R. 381.

"Say about."— Where a charter-party provides for shipment of a complete cargo of cast iron pipe, "say about 3400 gross tons," it should be construed as contemplating a margin beyond three thousand four hundred tons, and is not fulfilled by the shipment of three thousand two hundred and fifty-eight tons. Wood v. Sewall, 128 Fed. 141 [affirmed in 135 Fed. 12, 67 C. C. A. 580]. But where a charter-party provides that the ship shall load a cargo of ore, say about two thousand eight hundred tons, not exceeding what she can reasonably stow and carry, two thousand eight hundred and eighty tons being the amount she can reasonably carry, the charterer fulfils the obligation imposed upon him by providing a cargo of two thousand eight hundred and forty tons. Miller v. Borner, [1900] 1 Q. B. 691, 9 Aspin. 31, 5 Com. Cas. 107, 69 L. J. Q. B. 429, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 258, 48 Wkly. Rep. 588.

A charterer under a charter to carry passengers cannot refuse to accept the vessel and furnish passengers without a valid legal excuse. Post v. Koch, 30 Fed. 208.

14. Morse v. Lehigh, etc., Coal Co., 36 Fed. 831; Furness v. Forwood, 8 Aspin. 298, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 95.

The master cannot refuse to sign bills of lading in the ordinary form until a claim for demurrage has been settled, where the charter-party provides that bills of lading are to be signed as presented without prejudice or established usage, to refuse to furnish the cargo because of the employment by the master of a stevedore who, although competent and experienced, is personally objectionable to him.[15] Where a charter-party provides that the vessel is to carry a full load, but places the loading under the master's direction, and provides that the charterer shall not be responsible for stowage, the latter is not liable for failure to take a full cargo resulting from defective stowage.[16] Nor is the charterer liable for damage to cargo by stevedores appointed by charterer but paid by the ship, who separated bundles of cargo to make broken stowage, and thus put more cargo in the ship.[17] The cargo must be of the character specified in the charter.[18] Notwithstanding a provision of a charter-party requiring the ship to receive all such lawful cargo as the charterers may think proper to ship, some discretion is left in the master, whose duty it is to exercise his judgment for the benefit of all concerned; and where the owners are responsible for proper stowage and safe carriage he is justified in refusing to load goods where there is danger that they will be injured by other cargo previously loaded;[19] and although a charter provides that the whole of a vessel shall be at the charterer's disposal, with the right to put on board a full cargo, it is still the master's duty to determine when the limit of safe loading is reached.[20] The owner is not compelled to alter his vessel to receive a cargo of articles of a different size than contracted for,[21] and is not liable for property of a nature entirely different from the cargo specified, intrusted to the master and stolen by him.[22] On the other hand, an owner who has let the entire capacity of the vessel must so stow the cargo that the vessel carries a cargo utilizing the full carrying capacity of the vessel.[23]

I. Voyage — 1. Route; Delay and Deviation. Under a charter for a voyage the voyage begins when the vessel is delivered to the charterer.[24] A vessel must to the charter-party, and that the vessel is to have an absolute lien on the cargo for all freight and demurrage. Cushing v. McLeod, 2 N. Brunsw. Eq. 63.

15. Thompson v. Geo. W. Bush, etc., Co., 60 Fed. 631 [affirmed in 65 Fed. 812, 13 C. C. A. 148].

16. Manchisa v. Card, 39 Fed. 492.

17. Bethel v. Mellor, etc., Co., 131 Fed. 129.

Under a charter-party providing that cargo is to be furnished as "required" by the master, it is sufficient on the ship's part if the master gives notice that he is in want of more cargo. Tyson v. Belmont, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,316 [affirmed in 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,281, 3 Blatchf. 530].

18. Rich v. Parrott, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,760, 1 Cliff. 55, holding that under a charter providing that the charterers shall furnish a full cargo, "sufficient saltpetre or its equivalent for ballast," the charterer is bound to furnish ballast paying freight, which must be heavy goods usually purchased for exportation and suitable for ballast.

19. Birt v. Hardie, 132 Fed. 61.

20. The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463.

21. Beecher v. Bechtel, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,221, 3 Blatchf. 40 [reversing 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,220*a*].

22. Hart v. Leach, 21 Fed. 77.

23. The John A. Briggs, 113 Fed. 948.

24. The Buckingham, 129 Fed. 975.

Despatch money.—Where charterers, by the master's consent, and without prejudice to the continuance of the lay days, commence loading, with the ship's appliances, before the hour fixed by the charter for the commencement of the lay days, the time thus gained is not time "saved in loading," in the meaning of a provision in the charter-party allowing despatch money for time so saved. But under a charter-party providing for despatch money "if steamer be dispatched in less time than is specified," despatch money will be payable from the day the ship is actually despatched by the charterers, although by permission of the master they began loading before the lay days commenced. But if they delay her by refusing clearance papers while attempting to induce the master to insert in the bills of lading a provision different from that authorized by the charter, no despatch money will be payable during such delay. Red. R Steamship Co. v. North American Transport Co., 84 Fed. 467 [modified in 91 Fed. 168, 33 C. C. A. 432].

Where a vessel is chartered without any limitation of time, it is an indefeasible hiring for every voyage which she shall have undertaken before notice from the owner of his intention to put an end to the contract. Cutler v. Winsor, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 335, 17 Am. Dec. 385. Where a charter-party for the period of six months contained the clause: "Vessel, if kept over the charter time, the same rate as the charter, with the privilege of six months over the charter if wanted," the charterers had the right to keep the vessel for such time as they wished, not exceeding six months additional in all, at the charter-price. Hunt v. Metcalf, 47 Fed. 73. And see The Rygja, 161 Fed. 106, 88 C. C. A. 270.

Special provisions as to duration of contract and number of voyages construed see sail without unnecessary delay, and proceed with all reasonable despatch to her destination,[25] by the route specified in the charter,[26] or, in the absence of charter provision, by the usual and customary course.[27] The conditions of the contract, nature of the cargo, and objects of the voyage may all be considered in determining what is reasonable despatch.[28] When an owner charters a ship and covenants to keep her well and sufficiently manned, he assumes the risk of being able to retain on board the seamen necessary to sail her, and failure to have a sufficient crew on the voyage will not excuse a deviation to ship more seamen.[29] A deviation renders the carrier liable for loss even though the loss is caused by a peril excepted in the charter.[30] The carrier is not liable for consequences of a deviation made necessary by peril of the sea,[31] or for the purpose of saving life,[32] or to make repairs; [33] nor Canada Shipping Co. v. Acer, 26 Fed. 874; The Calabria, 24 Fed. 607.

[III, I, 1]

25. Nine Thousand Bunches of Bananas, 55 Fed. 1003, 5 C. C. A. 386; The Success, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,586, 7 Blatchf. 551.

Effect of quarantine.— Under a time charter-party not amounting to a demise, the ship is liable to the charterers for damage to perishable cargo, resulting from detention at quarantine because of the master's act in taking on board, without the charterer's consent, a passenger who was without the health certificate which the master knew would be required at the port of destination. The Nicaragua, 72 Fed. 207, 18 C. C. A. 511 [affirming 71 Fed. 723].

The vessel is not bound to enter upon a voyage which it is reasonably certain cannot be completed and the cargo discharged before the expiration of the charter limit. Walsh v. Tweedie Trading Co., 152 Fed. 276 [affirmed in 170 Fed. 60, 95 C. C. A. 336]; The Saugstad, —— Fed. ——; The Mary Adelaide Randall, 98 Fed. 895, 39 C. C. A. 335 [affirming 93 Fed. 222]. But where a time charter contains the provisions "hire to continue from the time specified for terminating the charter until her delivery to owner," and the vessel was at the port of redelivery thirteen days before the time specified for terminating the charter, it was held in view of the local usage that the charterer was entitled to send the vessel for a new voyage of from three to six weeks, but was not entitled to send her on a voyage of eight or nine weeks. Anderson v. Munson, 104 Fed. 913; Straits of Dover Steamship Co. v. Munson, 95 Fed. 690.

An apprehension of capture founded on circumstances calculated to affect the mind of a master of ordinary courage, judgment, and experience will justify delay in the prosecution of a voyage (The San Roman, L. R. 5 P. C. 301, 1 Aspin. 603, 42 L. J. Adm. 46, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 381, 21 Wkly. Rep. 393), or the discharge at loading port of cargo which master reasonably supposed was contraband (The Styria, 186 U. S. 1, 22 S. Ct. 731, 46 L. ed. 1027).

26. The John H. Pearson, 121 U. S. 469, 7 S. Ct. 1008, 30 L. ed. 979 [reversing 14 Fed. 749].

The term "northern passage," in the Mediterranean fruit trade, and incorporated in a charter-party to ship fruit from Sicily to Boston, has a distinct meaning. Its course is from Gibraltar north of the Azores, if possible; if not, just south of the islands, thence to the southern point or tail of the Great Banks, and then direct to port. The John H. Pearson, 33 Fed. 845, holding that where a charter-party to ship fruit provided that the vessel should take the "northern passage," in the absence of any known passage to which that description had been given, the ship was bound to keep the coolest passage those in the trade were accustomed to keep.

27. Davis v. Garrett, 6 Bing. 716, 8 L. J. C. P. O. S. 253, 4 M. & P. 540, 31 Rev. Rep. 524, 19 E. C. L. 321.

Whether Halifax is en route to South America from New York may be determined by evidence of commercial practice. Glasgow Steamshipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 154 Fed. 84.

28. The Success, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,586, 7 Blatchf. 551.

29. The Ethel, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,540, 5 Ben. 154.

30. The Dunbeth, [1897] P. 133, 8 Aspin. 284, 66 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 66, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 658.

Facts held not to constitute deviation see Caffin v. Aldridge, [1895] 2 Q. B. 648, 8 Aspin. 233, 65 L. J. Q. B. 85, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 426, 44 Wkly. Rep. 129. Putting a vessel with cargo on board upon a dry dock without any maritime necessity was held to constitute a deviation making owner liable as insurer and responsible for damage to cargo from fire, notwithstanding the fire statute. The Indrapura, 171 Fed. 929.

Light dues, made payable by a deviation, are port charges, within the meaning of such term in a charter-party permitting a deviation for the purpose of discharging part of the cargo upon payment of port charges. Newman v. Lamport, [1896] 1 Q. B. 20, 8 Aspin. 76, 65 L. J. Q. B. 102, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 475.

Authority of master to deviate from route in general see infra, IV, B, 3, c.

31. Wood v. Hubbard, 62 Fed. 753, 10 C. C. A. 623; The Maria Luigia, 28 Fed. 244 [reversing 18 Fed. 556].

32. Scaramanga v. Stamp, 5 C. P. D. 295, 4 Aspin. 295, 49 L. J. C. P. 674, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 840, 28 Wkly. Rep. 691.

33. Phelps v. Hill, [1891] 1 Q. B. 605, 7 Aspin. 42, 60 L. J. Q. B. 382, 64 L. T. Rep. N. S. 610, holding, however, that in selecting a port of refuge for repairs the master must not make any greater departure from the

is there any penalty on the owner if the deviation is without damage.[34] So a deviation to assist vessels under permission contained in the charter does not subject the owner to any claim.[35] The clause must be construed, however, as limited to deviations which do not frustrate the object of the contract.[36] It is held that in the absence of charter provision a deviation merely to save property is not justifiable.[37]

2. Destination and Port of Discharge; Delivery of Vessel to Owner. In determining the place of discharge the word "port" is taken to mean commercial area as it would be understood by business men in view of the nature of the charter-party.[38] Where there are several places in the port at which the cargo may be properly discharged, the ship-owner must follow the direction of the charterer as to which place to go.[39] The charterer must, however, name a physically safe port of destination,[40] and furthermore the port so designated must be politically proper course of the voyage than is reasonably necessary having regard to the interests of all parties and taking into account the question of expense.

Right to retain cargo.— The owners of a chartered vessel, compelled to put in at an intermediate point, have a right to retain the cargo until the ship should be repaired and placed in a condition to proceed on her voyage and earn full freight, if the necessary repairs could be completed in a reasonable time; and, if that could not be effected, he has the right to cause the cargo to be transported in another vessel. Vance v. Clark, 1 La. 324.

34. Clipsham v. Vertue, 5 Q. B. 265, Dav. & M. 343, 8 Jur. 32, 13 L. J. Q. B. 2, 48 E. C. L. 265.

35. Velasco Terminal R. Co. v. The Brixham, 54 Fed. 539.

36. Potter v. Burrell, [1897] 1 Q. B. 97, 8 Aspin. 200, 66 L. J. Q. B. 63, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 491, 45 Wkly. Rep. 145.

Limitation of authority to deviate.— Liberty given a vessel to call "at any port or ports," or to tow and assist vessels "in all situations," refers to ports along the course of the voyage specified, or vessels met with in the ordinary conrse of such voyage, and where a vessel after loading proceeds forty miles directly out of her course to take in tow a disabled vessel, and is detained about seven days, it is an unjustifiable deviation. Ardan Steamship Co. v. Theband, 35 Fed. 620.

37. Scaramanga v. Stamp, 5 C. P. D. 295, 4 Aspin. 295, 49 L. J. C. P. 674, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 840, 28 Wkly. Rep. 691. But see Sturtevant v. The George Nicholans, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,578, Newb. Adm. 449.

38. Leonis Steamship Co. v. Rank, [1908] 1 K. B. 499, 13 Com. Cas. 136, 77 L. J. K. B. 224, 52 Sol. J. 621, 24 T. L. R. 128.

Delivery of vessel to owner.—Where a charterer is to deliver a vessel to the owner at the home port or another at the latter's option, and it is not exercised, a tender of her at either port is sufficient to relieve the charterer of further liability. Hunt v. Metcalf, 47 Fed. 73. If the place of delivery is not mentioned, a notice of readiness to redeliver, given to plaintiff, must be treated under the contract as an actual delivery. Albertson v. Hooker, 5 Cal. 176. Under a charter-party by which the vessel is to be delivered to the owner at a specified port at the expiration of the charter in as good condition as when chartered, providing that she be kept in condition by the owner, the charterer, on neglect of the owner to keep her in good order, may deliver her without sending her to the port named. Strong v. U. S., 154 U. S. 632, 14 S. Ct. 1182, 24 L. ed. 664 [affirming 13 Ct. Cl. 544].

39. Leonis Steamship Co. v. Rank, [1908] 1 K. B. 499, 13 Com. Cas. 136, 77 L. J. K. B. 224, 52 Sol. J. 621, 24 Wkly. Rep. 128; The Felix, L. R. 2 A. & E. 273, 37 L. J. Adm. 48, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 587, 17 Wkly. Rep. 102; East Yorkshire Steamship Co. v. Hancock, 5 Com. Cas. 266.

Where a ship is chartered to discharge at the port of New York, she cannot be compelled to discharge at New Rochelle, on Long Island sound; that place being neither within the port of New York geographically, nor as defined by Greater New York Charter (1901), § 864, etc. Mitchell v. Cargo of Lumber, 117 Fed. 189.

40. The Gazelle, 11 Fed. 429, 5 Hughes 391 [affirmed in 128 U. S. 474, 9 S. Ct. 139, 32 L. ed. 496]; Smith v. Dart, 14 Q. B. D. 105, 5 Aspin. 360, 54 L. J. Q. B. 121, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 218, 33 Wkly. Rep. 455; The Alhambra, 6 P. D. 68, 4 Aspin. 410, 50 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 36, 43 L. T. Rep. N. S. 636, 29 Wkly. Rep. 655; Re Goodbody, 8 Aspin. 503, 5 Com. Cas. 59, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 188 [affirmed in 9 Aspin. 69, 5 Com. Cas. 59, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 484]. But see Capper v. Wallace, 5 Q. B. D. 163, 4 Aspin. 223, 49 L. J. Q. B. 350, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 130, 28 Wkly. Rep. 424.

A temporary obstacle does not make a port unsafe.— Ogden v. Graham, 1 B. & S. 773, 8 Jur. N. S. 613, 31 L. J. Q. B. 26, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 396, 10 Wkly. Rep. 77, 101 E. C. L. 773; Parker v. Winlow, 7 E. & B. 942, 4 Jur. N. S. 84, 27 L. J. Q. B. 49, 90 E. C. L. 942.

The words "or so near thereto as the vessel can safely come and always lay and discharge afloat" relate to obstacles which permanently prevent the ship from reaching her destination within a reasonable time, not to temporary obstacles which may be regarded as having been in the mind of the parties, such as safe.[41] If the consignee insists upon delivery at an unsafe port the master may return with the cargo, if there is no place to store it at the adjacent port.[42] Where bills of lading are given by the master for delivery of the goods at the port named, the ship-owner cannot afterward object that it is not a safe port. He must go where he has contracted to go.[43] If the charterer has named a port of discharge he cannot afterward change the destination without the consent of the carrier,[44] unless under an option in the charter-party.[45]

J. Receiving and Discharging Cargo — 1. Loading and Stowage. A charter-party for the transportation of a cargo of merchandise, and not prescribing the mode of stowing, tacitly refers to the established and known usage of the trade for the manner of stowing the cargo.[46] There is an implied obligation that loading inability to go to a wharf in a tidal harbor, where upon arrival the tides are neap (Carlton Steamship Co. v. Castle Mail Packets Co., [1897] 2 Q. B. 485, 8 Aspin. 325, 66 L. J. K. B. 819, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 332, 46 Wkly. Rep. 68 [affirmed in [1898] A. C. 486, 8 Aspin. 402, 67 L. J. Q. B. 795, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 661, 14 T. L. R. 469, 47 Wkly. Rep. 65]; Parker v. Winlow, 7 E. & B. 942, 4 Jur. N. S. 84, 27 L. J. Q. B. 49, 90 E. C. L. 942; Bastifell v. Lloyd, 1 H. & C. 388, 31 L. J. Exch. 413, 10 Wkly. Rep. 721); or where the water is closed by ice (Tillmanns v. Knutsford, [1908] 2 K. B. 385, 13 Com. Cas. 244, 77 L. J. K. B. 778, 24 T. L. R. 454 [affirmed in [1908] A. C. 406, 11 Aspin. 105, 13 Com. Cas. 334, 77 L. J. K. B. 977, 99 L. T. Rep. N. S. 399, 24 T. L. R. 786]; Metcalfe v. Britannia Ironworks Co., 2 Q. B. D. 423, 3 Aspin. 407, 46 L. J. Q. B. 443, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 451, 25 Wkly. Rep. 720). The obstacle need not be a physical one, as where it arises from a refusal of those controlling the port of destination to allow landing. Dahl v. Nelson, 6 App. Cas. 38, 4 Aspin. 392, 50 L. J. Ch. 411, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 381, 29 Wkly. Rep. 543.

If it would be necessary to discharge part of the cargo in order to proceed to the port named by the charterer's agents, the captain is entitled, unless it is otherwise provided by the charter-party, to refuse to proceed to the port so named, and in such a case evidence of a custom to lighten vessels to enable them to proceed to the port named is not admissible. Reynolds v. Tomlinson, [1896] 1 Q. B. 586, 8 Aspin. 150, 65 L. J. Q. B. 496, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 591.

A ship cannot be required to submit to being dismantled or mutilated in order to discharge her cargo under a charter, and where she cannot approach the place of discharge designated by the charterer without such mutilation that place is not a safe one for her within the meaning of the charter. Mencke v. A Cargo of Sugar, 99 Fed. 298 [reversed in 108 Fed. 89, 47 C. C. A. 222, and affirmed in 187 U. S. 248, 23 S. Ct. 86, 47 L. ed. 163].

41. The Teutonia, L. R. 3 A. & E. 394, 20 Wkly. Rep. 261 [affirmed in L. R. 4 P. C. 171, 1 Aspin. 214, 41 L. J. Adm. 57, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 48, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 411, 20 Wkly. Rep. 421, 17 Eng. Reprint 366].

42. Mecke v. The Antonio Zambrana, 70 Fed. 320.

43. The Maggie Moore, 8 Fed. 620, 5 Hughes 287; Capper v. Wallace, 5 Q. B. D. 163, 4 Aspin. 223, 49 L. J. Q. B. 350, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 130, 28 Wkly. Rep. 424. And see The Gazelle, 11 Fed. 429, 5 Hughes 391 [affirmed in 128 U. S. 474, 9 S. Ct. 139, 32 L. ed. 496], holding that where the vessel could not get into the port, and there was no anchorage near and customarily used in connection with it, where she could safely lay and discharge, it was the duty of the master to refuse to sign bills of lading to deliver the cargo there, even with the clause inserted, "as near thereunto as the vessel can safely get, and always lay and discharge afloat."

44. Davidson v. Gwynne, 12 East 381, 11 Rev. Rep. 420, 104 Eng. Reprint 149. And see Johnson v. D. H. Bibb Lumber Co., 140 Cal. 95, 73 Pac. 730, holding that where defendant chartered a vessel for three trips between certain ports, and the charterer directed the vessel on one of the trips to discharge at an intermediate port without the owner's consent, the owner was entitled to recover the freight the vessel would have earned under the charter-party if she had sailed to the port designated therein.

45. The Chadwicke, 29 Fed. 521.

A stipulation giving a shipper the privilege of a change of destination because of blockade does not authorize the carrier to make such change on the advice of the consignee because of a poor market. Eneas v. Schiffer, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,484.

46. Lamb v. Parkman, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,020, 1 Sprague 343. And see Tyson v. Belmont, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,316 [affirmed in 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,281, 3 Blatchf. 530], holding that where a charter-party was executed at New York to take a load of lumber from the port of Apalachicola to a foreign country, it is to be presumed that the parties contracted with reference to the character of that port, and the incidents and difficulties attendant on entering the harbor and loading the vessel at that place.

The master cannot be charged with negligence where he is compelled by the charterer to accept apparently lawful cargo which because of inherent latent defect injures other cargo. The Keystone, 31 Fed. 412.

Care of cargo after delivery alongside of vessel.— Where a vessel is chartered for a cargo, a provision that the cargo is "to be delivered alongside, and held at charterer's risk and expense," is not unreasonable in and unloading shall be so done by the vessel-owner as not to cause unnecessary injury to the goods.[47] It is for the master of the ship, and not the charterer, to determine where the different articles of merchandise offered shall be placed and how proportioned; and if the charterer offers to furnish goods in sufficient quantities, of the various kinds required by charter-party, it is the duty of the master to make known to him what quantity of the several articles will be necessary to load the ship, as required by the charter-party.[48] The master in stowing cargo may make departures from the stipulations of the charter-party, necessary for the safety of the voyage, such as the carrying of more ballast than that stipulated, and loading below decks instead of above decks.[49] It is the duty of the master when fully cognizant of the facts to determine when the vessel has taken on as much cargo as is prudent, although the cargo is being loaded by the shippers.[50] The ship is liable for all damage to cargo of which the overloading is the proximate cause.[51] Where, however, the cargo is negligently and unskilfully loaded and stowed by the charterer, the owner is not liable for the resultant loss.[52]

2. DISCHARGE. The charterer must discharge promptly and is liable for delay in doing so;[53] but not if he has endeavored to discharge with reasonable diligence itself, or invalid as exempting the master from liability for his own negligence. The Ira B. Ellems, 50 Fed. 934, 2 C. C. A. 85 [affirming 48 Fed. 591], holding that where a raft of logs was brought alongside in the evening, and moored, by the charterer's agent and employees, the master was bound only to exercise ordinary care to see that it was not carried away during the night. And thus where under a charter the charterer reserved "the option of appointing stevedore for loading at the ship's expense," but there was no provision that the stevedore was to act under the master's orders and part of the cargo was towed to the ship in lighters, and made fast, and one of the lighters, after being fastened, capsized, losing her load, an action in rem for the lost cargo could not be maintained against the vessel. Guerard v. Lovspring, 42 Fed. 853. And see Shaw v. Hart, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,720, 1 Sprague 567.

47. Kerry v. Pacific Marine Co., 121 Cal. 564, 54 Pac. 89, 66 Am. St. Rep. 65.

48. Rich v. Parrott, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,761, 1 Sprague 358.

49. Reynolds v. The Joseph, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,730, 2 Hughes 58, holding, however, that the admiralty court will decree in favor of the charterer a proper allowance for any space he may have lost by such changes.

But refusal of the master to stow all the cargo in the hold, resulting in the inability of the vessel to carry the limit of passengers stipulated in the charter, renders the vessel-owners liable in damages. Parsons v. Ogden, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,781, 4 Blatchf. 99.

Failure to provide proper dunnage is a breach of a charter to stow cargo properly. Robinson v. Franklin Sugar Refining Co., 70 Fed. 792.

50. The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463; Burdge v. Two Hundred and Twenty Tons of Fish Scrap, 2 Fed. 783, 5 Hughes 141.

51. The Regulus, 18 Fed. 380, damage to fruit by reason of overloading so that the hatches had to be kept closed and the cargo was damaged by want of ventilation.

52. The South America, 27 Fed. 386.

Where the owners of the vessel contract to furnish the use of tackle in loading, and to afford charterers the same accommodation as if the ship were loaded by the pound, they are bound to the charterers, and the charterers' agents, the stevedore and his employees, to furnish proper machinery and tackle, and to use proper care to keep it in order. Anderson v. The Ashebrooke, 44 Fed. 124.

53. Hine v. Perkins, 55 Fed. 996, 5 C. C. A. 377 [reversing 50 Fed. 434] (holding that where the vessel has four hatches, the charterers must discharge at a herth where all four can be used); Bertellote v. Part of Cargo of Brimstone, 3 Fed. 661, 5 Hughes 201; The Deerhound, 9 Aspin. 189, 6 Com. Cas. 104, 84 L. T. Rep. N. S. 360, 17 T. L. R. 328, 49 Wkly. Rep. 511; Hulthen v. Stewart, 6 Com. Cas. 65, 17 T. L. R. 283.

"Customary dispatch in discharging" means discharging with speed, haste, expedition, and due diligence, according to the lawful, reasonable, well-known customs of the port of discharge. It is the same as "usual custom," but not the same as "quick despatch," which latter has been held to exclude certain usages and customs. Lindsay v. Cusimano, 12 Fed. 503 [following 10 Fed. 302]. In such case the fact that there is a custom of the port authorizing certain delays does not operate to permit the consignee voluntarily to delay the discharge in violation of the express terms of the contract. Lindsay v. Cusimano, 10 Fed. 302. Under a charter-party providing that a cargo should be discharged at a specified dock with all despatch as fast as steamer can deliver, as customary, although the more usual method at that dock is to discharge such a cargo into railroad trucks, but it is practicable to discharge into lighters, it was the duty of the receivers of the cargo, if railway trucks could not be obtained, to discharge into lighters. Rodenacker v. May, 6 Com. Cas. 37.

If by the quarantine regulations, after the voyage has begun, the ship cannot discharge at the port itself, but may at a short disunder existing circumstances.[54] Where the bill of lading provides for delivery from the ship's deck, when the ship's responsibility shall cease, the obligation to protect the cargo on the wharf is upon the charterers, if reasonable opportunity to take delivery from the ship's deck has been furnished.[55] Although a ship, as a common carrier, where she selects her own wharf, is answerable for its sufficiency until the lapse of a reasonable time for removal of the goods by the consignee, including the necessary custom-house weighing and gauging, she is not responsible for the breaking down of a wharf apparently sound and in good condition, selected by the consignee in accordance with the provisions of the charter, when the breaking down occurs through secret defects of which the ship has no notice, and the evidence does not establish any unusual or excessive deposit of cargo for a sound wharf.[56] Where a consignee refuses to receive cargo in accordance with the provisions of the charter-party, the shipmaster is authorized to land and store it at the nearest proper and convenient port, having reference to his own convenience and the apparent best interests of its owner, and acting prudently and in good faith.[57]

3. Employment of Stevedore. In the absence of any provision to the contrary in the charter-party, or any different custom of the port, a vessel is entitled to select and employ a competent stevedore to load the cargo furnished by the charterer.[58] If the charterer does the stevedoring he is not entitled to more than the service would have cost the ship.[59] Under a charter providing that the vessel should employ a stevedore satisfactory to the charterers, if the one selected by the master is unsatisfactory the charterers may themselves select another.[60] The mere fact that a charter-party makes the charterers liable for the expenses of loading and unloading is not sufficient to exempt the vessel from liability to one who renders services as a stevedore in loading at the request of one whom he supposes to be the owner's or charterer's agent;[61] nor does a stipulation that the ship is to employ the charterer's stevedore and clerk amount to a special agreement that the charterer shall perform the duty of lading and stowing, or make them tance, where it is usual for vessels under quarantine to do so, the charterers must accept the cargo there. They cannot compel the ship to sail with it to the quarantine ground, retain it on board the whole time, and return and discharge it. Shepherd v. Lanfear, 5 La. 336, 25 Am. Dec. 181.

54. Marshall v. McNear, 121 Fed. 428.

55. Lindsay v. Cusimano, 10 Fed. 302 [affirmed in 12 Fed. 503].

56. Young v. Lehmann, 27 Fed. 383, holding also that where a charter-party provided that the consignee should choose a wharf for unloading, and he, finding it difficult to select a suitable one, requested the ship's agents to select one, and they did so, they acted in the matter as consignee's agents, and the ship was not liable for any defect in the wharf.

57. Compagnie du Boleo v. The Scandinavia, 49 Fed. 658.

58. George W. Bush, etc., Co. v. Thompson, 65 Fed. 812, 13 C. C. A. 148 [affirming 60 Fed. 631].

59. Muller v. Spreckels, 48 Fed. 574.

Under a charter-party requiring the vessel to discharge by night, as well as by day, if required by the charterer or consignee, and also giving the charterer the option to provide the stevedore for discharging, for which the vessel agreed to pay at not exceeding a specified rate, where he exercised such option, he does the stevedoring and is not entitled to charge for discharging a sum exceeding the stipulated rate because of night work, especially where by means of it he earned despatch money under the charter. The Bencliff, 155 Fed. 242.

60. The Alexander Gibson v. Portland Shipping Co., 56 Fed. 603, 6 C. C. A. 47.

"Stevedore employed by vessel to be approved by charterers," in a charter, does not bind the charterer to approve a stevedore employed by the owners, but requires the one selected by the owners to be subjected to the charterers' approval and refusal of the latter to approve the stevedore, without giving any reason therefor, does not give the stevedore so disapproved any right of action for damages against him, whatever may be the rights of the other party to the contract. John B. Honor Co. v. Middle Division El. Co., 105 Fed. 387, 44 C. C. A. 539.

Under a charter requiring owners "to provide men to run winches," the ship's duty is satisfied by furnishing competent men, although they may not be personæ gratæ to the charterer's stevedores. Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 159 Fed. 706, 86 C. C. A. 574; British Maritime Trust v. Munson Steamship Line, 149 Fed. 533.

61. Norwegian Steamship Co. v. Washington, 57 Fed. 224, 6 C. C. A. 313, holding that responsible for the character of the stowage.[62] Thus the ship is liable for damage to cargo caused by the bad stowage of charterer's stevedore, where her officers retain control over the disposition of the cargo.[63] A charter providing for payment of stevedore by the charterer is not affected by a usage, unknown to the master, for the master to pay the stevedore for unloading.[64]

4. EXPENSES. Where the charter provides upon whom the cost of lighterage,[65] wharfage,[66] or stevedoring [67] shall fall the terms of the contract of course prevail.[68] Under a charter-party stipulating that the charterer shall deliver a cargo on board at his expense of lighterage, it is necessarily implied that the charterer will both lighter the cargo and pay for the lighterage and his obligation is not fulfilled by depositing the cargo on a wharf; [69] but if a vessel, in order to earn greater freight, the burden is on the vessel to show that the stevedores had knowledge of the terms of the charter-party.

62. Richardson v. Winsor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795, 3 Cliff. 395.

63. Bethel v. Mellor, etc., Co., 131 Fed. 129; Robinson v. Franklin Sugar Refining Co., 70 Fed. 792; The Keystone, 31 Fed. 412; The Boskenna Bay, 22 Fed. 662 [reversed on other grounds in 40 Fed. 91, 6 L. R. A. 172]; The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

64. Isaksson v. Williams, 26 Fed. 642.

65. Mencke v. A Cargo of Java Sugar, 187 U. S. 248, 23 S. Ct. 86, 47 L. ed. 163 [reversing 108 Fed. 89, 47 C. C. A. 222, and affirming 99 Fed. 298]; Carr v. Austin, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. 419, 4 Woods 327, holding that where a charter-party provides that "the cargo is to be brought to and taken from along-side at merchant's risk and expense, and free of lighterage to the ship, etc., and being so loaded shall therewith proceed," etc., the cost of lighterage at the ports of both departure and destination for lading and discharge of the cargo is at the expense of the merchant. But see Dow v. Hare, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,037*a*.

66. Lowry v. U. S. Shipping Co., 84 Fed. 685; Johnson v. Baugh, etc., Co., 58 Fed. 424 (holding that a stipulation in a charter-party that cargoes are "to be brought to and taken from alongside, at charterer's risk and expense, and, should there be any lighterage or wharfage, this to be also for charterer's account," makes the charterer, or the consignee, who stands in his place, responsible for wharfage in unloading as well as in loading); and where, under the proper construction of a charter-party, the consignee is liable for wharfage, the fact that the master, immediately after unloading, affixes his name to the wharfage bill, is not an admission of liability as between himself and the consignee, when he denies liability at the time, and it appears that such signature is necessary to a settlement between the consignee and charterer, as a certification that the wharfage charge is correct in amount. See Hammett v. Chase, 158 Fed. 203, holding a charterer who is bound by the contract to furnish the vessel with a berth for discharging liable for extra wharfage which the master was obliged to pay at a designated berth, and also for overtime paid to a government inspector due to delay in discharging, for which he was responsible.

67. Golcar Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 146 Fed. 563; Macy v. Perry, 91 Fed. 671.

A provision for customary rates means reasonable compensation in the absence of evidence of established customary rates. Macy v. Perry, 91 Fed. 671.

68. The owner of a vessel is bound by the customs of a port to which he contracts to carry a cargo, where the charter provides that "the cargo is to be brought alongside the vessel and taken away at the expense and risk of the charterers, according to the use and customs of the place of loading and discharging." Nordaas v. Hubbard, 48 Fed. 921 (holding that a custom of the port of Mobile by which vessels taking on additional cargo at a deeper anchorage bear the cost of lightering, although not so notorious or so acquiesced in as to have the force of law, is binding on a vessel whose charter-party provides that the custom of the port is to be observed in all cases not especially provided for); Bertellote v. Part of Cargo of Brimstone, 3 Fed. 661, 5 Hughes 201. But where the charter-party provides that the cargo is to be brought to and taken from alongside the steamer at charterer's risk and expense, any custom of the port to the contrary notwithstanding, the provision excludes the custom of a port by which the duty of a ship-owner under an obligation to deliver alongside is to deliver into barges or on to a quay, and the duty of the ship-owner is completely performed by delivery over the ship's rail. Brenda Steamship Co. v. Green, [1900] 1 Q. B. 518, 9 Aspin. 55, 5 Com. Cas. 195, 69 L. J. Q. B. 445, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 66, 16 T. L. R. 226, 48 Wkly. Rep. 321. The custom of a port requiring a vessel discharging to pile bales on the dock for one half its width and the length of the vessel is not inconsistent with a clause of a charter-party providing that "cargo shall be received and delivered alongside of the vessel . . . within reach of her tackles," and the charterer is not liable to the vessel for the expense of such piling. Seagar v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 55 Fed. 880, 5 C. C. A. 290 [affirming 55 Fed. 324].

69. Nelson v. Odiorne, 45 N. Y. 489, holding also that the fact that the "customary" way of loading at that place was at the wharf did not relieve the charterer from his obligation to provide lighterage.

Charter construed as not binding the chargets the shipper to furnish at a deeper anchorage cargo in addition to what he had furnished at the agreed place of loading, the cost of lightering must be borne by the vessel, and delivery to the lighter is delivery to the vessel.[70] Similarly if extra expense is incurred in loading simply to enable the charterer to carry a greater load the extra expense must be borne by the charterer.[71] But the owner of a vessel chartered to one who becomes owner pro hac vice [72] is not responsible for wharfage incurred after he has chartered the vessel.[73] Where a vessel, to make the delivery required by the terms of the charter, is compelled to enter a dock, and for this purpose enters the dock of the charterer, she is liable to him for the ordinary charges for wharfage in like manner as at any other wharf.[74]

K. Charter-Money and Other Compensation — 1. When Earned. In order to be entitled to charter-money the owner must fully perform his contract.[75] Transportation of part of the cargo is not sufficient.[76] Where a vessel is chartered to perform a stipulated voyage and deliver to a person named, failure so to deliver will prevent recovery of charter-money, even if the failure is not attributable to the fault of the carrier.[77] Thus if a vessel is captured, the whole voyage is broken up, and no freight can be recovered.[78] Under a charter-party which provides for payment of freight on delivery of cargo at port of discharge, no freight is earned if the vessel is wrecked, and is unable to deliver the cargo; [79] but if a vessel, hired by a charter-party in which no provision is made for an eventual misfortune, is terer to furnish or provide the lighterage, but only to pay for it see Barrett v. Oregon, etc., Nav. Co., 22 Fed. 452, 10 Sawy. 523.

Where goods were landed at the wrong port under the direction of an agent of the charterers, they were held to be liable for the expense attending unlading and relading the goods. Weston v. Minot, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,453, 3 Woodh. & M. 437.

70. Nordaas v. Hubbard, 48 Fed. 921.

71. Macy v. Perry, 99 Fed. 1004, 40 C. C. A. 217 [affirming 91 Fed. 671].

72. When charterer becomes owner pro hac vice see supra, III, E.

73. Philadelphia v. Naglee, 1 Ashm. (Pa.) 37.

74. Muller v. Spreckels, 48 Fed. 574.

75. Burn Line v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 162 Fed. 298, 89 C. C. A. 278 (holding that where the charter-party provides for payment of the hire or freight in instalments at specified times, the owners cannot collect an instalment falling due after the ship has stranded and become a total loss); Davidson v. Four Hundred Tons Iron Ore, 18 Fed. 94.

Blockade or embargo.— Where a chartered vessel, on arriving near her port of destination, was turned away by reason of its being blockaded, and returned to her port of lading, freight is not due on the charter-party nor pro rata itineris for the agreed voyage has not been performed. Burrill v. Cleeman, 17 Johns. (N. Y.) 72; Scott v. Libby, 2 Johns. (N. Y.) 336, 3 Am. Dec. 431. The same rule applies to an embargo. Brown v. Delano, 12 Mass. 370. And see Sturgis v. Gardner, 2 Brev. (S. C.) 233.

Advanced freight can be recovered back by the charterer, in case of the loss of the ship or non-performance of the voyage, whether by the fault of the master or not. Lawsom v. Worms, 6 Cal. 365. The English law is contra. See Oriental Steamship Co. v. Tylor, [1893] 2 Q. B. 518, 7 Aspin. 377, 63 L. J. Q. B. 128, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 577, 4 Reports 554, 42 Wkly. Rep. 89.

The risk and danger of losing a cargo in performing or attempting to perform a stipulated voyage will not entitle the carrier to any compensation where there has not been performance. The Harriman, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,104, 5 Sawy. 611 [affirmed in 9 Wall. 161, 19 L. ed. 629].

An error in judgment on the part of the master not shown to be incompetent in respect to the navigation of the vessel does not relieve the charterers from paying the stipulated hire of the vessel. Haggett v. Bowman, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,900, 1 Sawy. 4.

Where the vessel is sold charter-money subsequently earned passes to the purchaser. Williams v. Johnson, 11 Barb. (N. Y.) 501. But the interest of a purchaser from one member of a partnership owning a part interest in the vessel is subject to an account to be taken between the partners as to former voyages. William v. Lawrence, 53 Barb. (N. Y.) 320 [affirmed in 47 N. Y. 462].

76. Davidson v. Four Hundred Tons Iron Ore, 18 Fed. 94.

77. The Harriman, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 161, 19 L. ed. 629, holding that where a vessel was chartered under a contract to convey a cargo to a distant port, and there deliver it to the commandant of a fleet, and during the voyage there was a change in the military operations of the fleet, and the vessel returned without delivering, the owner was not entitled to charter-money even pro rata. But see Work v. Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012, holding that if a charterer uses a vessel which proves to be defective, he must pay for the use to the extent to which he used the vessel.

78. Tittermary v. Gardiner, 4 Yeates (Pa.) 157.

79. China Mut. Ins. Co. v. Force, 142 N. Y. 90, 36 N. E. 874, 40 Am. St. Rep. 576; Burn wrecked, and the cargo is delivered to the owner with his assent, the charterer must pay freight for it pro rata itineris.[80] If the delivery of the cargo is prevented by the neglect or default of the hirer, the owner is as well entitled to the hire as upon proving an actual discharge and delivery of the cargo.[81] The owners are entitled to full charter-money, if the charterer refuses to go on with the voyage, where, on an accident happening, the vessel returns to the port of departure, is repaired within a reasonable time, and ready to sail.[82] The same rule applies where a vessel, abandoned by her officers and crew, is brought by salvors into a port distant from the port of discharge and repaired.[83] If in consequence of the consignee's wrongful neglect to unload, the vessel is lost with the cargo after arrival, the owner is entitled to freight.[84] But where a vessel is chartered at the port of shipment, the freight to be paid on the arrival and discharge of the cargo at the port of destination, and the vessel springs a leak and puts back to the port of shipment, and the cargo is there discharged, and, being damaged, is sold by the master as unfit for the ship and dangerous to the crew, the owners of the vessel are not entitled to recover freight.[85] Similarly if the charter contains no exceptions as to perils of the seas, and the vessel, meeting heavy weather, puts back, and a part of the cargo damaged by sea perils is taken out and sold, and the balance is carried forward and delivered to the consignees under bills of lading excepting perils of the seas, no part of the charter-money is recoverable, as the contract was not performed.[86] A charter which provides for a payment of charter-money at stated periods, as per month or parts of month, is a charter for a specified time, and, although the vessel is lost before the voyage is completed, the stipulated compensation is recoverable to the time of loss.[87] Although freight is payable monthly, if required, yet, where the voyage is never completed, and the vessel condemned by a foreign tribunal through the fraud of one of the owners, who is in charge of the vessel, freight is not recoverable, although the other owners are innocent of the fraud.[88] Charterers of a vessel for an entire voyage who by themselves or their authorized agent waive the terms of the charter-party and consent to and order a deviation from the voyage agreed on, are liable to pay the stipulated price in like manner as if the voyage originally contemplated had been performed.[89] Although a deviation be made under a charter providing that charter-money is to be paid a specified number of days after return to the port

Line v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 162 Fed. 298, 89 C. C. A. 278. And see Parker v. Gilliam, 23 N. C. 545.

80. Coffin v. Storer, 5 Mass. 252, 4 Am. Dec. 54.

81. Gage v. Maryland Coal Co., 124 Mass. 442; Bradstreet v. Baldwin, 11 Mass. 229; Wood v. Hubbard, 62 Fed. 753, 10 C. C. A. 623, holding that where a vessel under charter had loaded her cargo and left the port of loading with manifest intent to proceed to her port of destination, she had commenced her voyage so as to earn freight, although, in consequence of her becoming icebound, the voyage was broken up by the charterers, and notwithstanding her crew was temporarily incomplete.

Evidence held to support findings by the trial court that libellants had not established their claim for dead freight under a charter based on the ground that the water on a bar was not of sufficient depth to enable the vessel to load a full cargo, and that there was not a failure to exercise customary despatch in discharging which entitled them to demurrage. See Pendleton v. U. S., etc., Co., 145 Fed. 508, 76 C. C. A. 186.

82. Tio v. Vance, 11 La. 199, 30 Am. Dec. 715.

The tender and refusal of a new cargo, after repairs to a vessel so injured as to necessitate unloading the first cargo, entitles the charterer to treat the voyage as broken up, and to demand the damaged cargo without payment of freight. The Luteken, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,609, 6 Ben. 565.

83. The Eliza Lines, 61 Fed. 308.

84. Brown v. Ralston, 9 Leigh (Va.) 532.

85. Miston v. Lord, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,655, 1 Blatchf. 354.

86. Willett v. Phillips, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,683, 8 Ben. 459.

87. Brewer v. Churchill, 45 Me. 64; Cook v. Gowan, 15 Gray (Mass.) 237; McGilvery v. Capen, 7 Gray (Mass.) 525; Brown v. Hunt, 11 Mass. 45; Brett v. Zachrissen, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,845, where on the loss of the vessel the cargo saved was abandoned to the underwriters.

88. Hadfield v. Jameson, 2 Munf. (Va.) 53.

89. Baker v. Pratt, 4 Allen (Mass.) 158, holding also that the fact that a memorandum of such consent and order is afterward written upon the charter-party and signed by of departure, the owner is not thereby entitled to seize the vessel at the port of deviation and retain the cargo for freight.[90] Acquiescence by a shipper in an unauthorized change of destination renders him liable for the price agreed on for the voyage, but not for the special premium agreed to be paid on delivery of cargo at the port designated in the contract.[91]

2. Amount and Rate — a. General Rules. Where the amount or rate of freight is stipulated the contract price controls,[92] and if a specified load is contracted for the owner is entitled to the full freight therefor, although through the default of the charterer a smaller amount is carried,[93] allowing a fair margin under such agent with his own name alone is immaterial.

90. Pickman v. Woods, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 248.

91. Eneas v. Schiffer, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,484.

92. Love v. Ross, 4 Call (Va.) 590; Donaldson v. Severn River Glass Sand Co., 138 Fed. 691; Otis Mfg. Co. v. The Ira B. Ellems, 50 Fed. 934, 2 C. C. A. 85 [affirming 48 Fed. 591]. See The Drottning Sophia, 153 Fed. 1017, holding that where a provision is made in a charter-party that it shall be superseded by the bills of lading, and an adjustment is made between the charterers and the master before the sailing of the vessel and bills of lading are signed showing that no dead freight is due, it cannot be recovered afterward by the owner from the charterers.

Where a charter-party provides for freight at the "going rate" at the time the vessel presents itself for lading, such rate is to be ascertained by the last actual contract made on that day, or, where the rate varies, it is to be ascertained by the average for the day. Barrett v. The Wacousta, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,050, 1 Flipp. 517.

Particular stipulations as to amount and rate construed see Stewart v. Reed, 46 Me. 321; Schwartze v. Tyson, 4 Harr. & J. (Md.) 288; Nelson v. Recknagel, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 459; Ward v. Whitney, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 599 [affirmed in 8 N. Y. 442]; Kinnear v. Powell, 3 Misc. (N. Y.) 449, 23 N. Y. Suppl. 182 [affirmed in 142 N. Y. 684, 37 N. E. 828]; Lombard Steamship Co. v. Lanasa, etc., Steamship, etc., Co., 163 Fed. 433; Bollman v. Tweedie Trading Co., 150 Fed. 434; Capuccio v. Barber, 148 Fed. 473; Arenburg v. Grupe, 135 Fed. 238 (holding that a provision in a charter-party for the carriage of a cargo of timber from a Cuban port to New York fixing the freight per thousand feet, "Cuban invoice," means the same as "Cuban invoice measure," the term having a known meaning in the trade, as relating to a peculiar system of measurement; and the vessel-owners are bound by such provision, although the agents who negotiated the charter had no actual knowledge of such meaning); Portland Flouring-Mills Co. v. Weir, 95 Fed. 997; Christie v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., 95 Fed. 837; Blue Star Steamship Co. v. Keyser, 81 Fed. 507 (holding that address commissions are not included in the expression, "in charter party cash advanced for ship's disbursements," and therefore are to be excluded from the amount on which the commission is charged); O'Brien v. 1,614 Bags of Guano, 48 Fed. 726; Eisenhauer v. De Belaunzaran, 26 Fed. 784; Boult v. The Naval Reserve, 5 Fed. 209, 5 Hughes 233; One Hundred and Eighteen Sticks of Timber, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,519, 10 Ben. 86; London Transport Co. v. Trechmann, [1904] 1 K. B. 635, 9 Aspin. 518, 9 Com. Cas. 133, 73 L. J. K. B. 253, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 132; Weir v. Girvin, [1900] 1 Q. B. 45, 9 Aspin. 7, 5 Com. Cas. 40, 69 L. J. Q. B. 168, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 687, 16 T. L. R. 31, 48 Wkly. Rep. 179; Tonnelier v. Smith, 8 Aspin. 327, 2 Com. Cas. 258, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 277, 13 T. L. R. 560 (holding that where by a charter-party it was provided that the charterer should pay freight at a certain rate per month, the charterer was bound to pay the full freight in advance at the beginning of each month, although it might be probable that the hire would not continue for the whole month); The Dowlais, 18 T. L. R. 198, 51 Wkly. Rep. 88 [affirmed in 18 T. L. R. 683].

An indorsement on a charter increasing the rate, made without consideration, is as to the increase void and only the original rate is payable. Allen v. Bareda, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 204.

Where a vessel was let to perform several consecutive voyages, in the course of which she performed an intermediate voyage at the request of the supercargo, the agent of the freighter, for which the owner was paid by the supercargo while abroad, the fact of the additional voyage did not show the substitution of a new contract, and the owner was entitled to recover on the covenant in the charter-party; he not claiming anything for the additional voyage in the action brought by him. Solomon v. Higgins, 6 Wend. (N. Y.) 425.

Charterers are bound in solido as commercial partners.— Mahoney v. Martin, 35 La. Ann. 29.

93. Duffie v. Hayes, 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 327 (holding that where the whole of a vessel is chartered to take a cargo at certain specified rates per ton, square foot, and the like, the owner of the vessel is entitled to freight for a full cargo, and not for what the vessel actually carried); The Frogner, 49 Fed. 876; The B. J. Willard, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,454, 8 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 47; Shaw v. Hart, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,720, 1 Sprague 567. But see Eikrem v. New England Briquette Coal Co., 125 Fed. 987, holding that under a charter-party providing that the charterer shall provide a full and complete cargo of a specified kind of cargo, he to pay one dollar an approximation clause in the charter-party.[94] The measure of the dead freight to be recovered is the difference between the net freight for a full cargo of the goods contracted for, and what would have been netted by any other reasonable cargo which by due diligence could have been obtained.[95] If because the vessel is not in condition to receive a full cargo of the kind specified it is not carried, the vessel being in fault must bear the loss and not the charterers.[96] Where a charterer contracts with the owner to load the vessel with not to exceed a specified amount, and by error of both the master and the charterer the vessel takes on board in excess of that amount, by reason of which additional weight the vessel is detained, the ship-owner cannot, in addition to his claim for damages, recover pro rata freight for the transportation of the additional weight.[97]

b. Voyage Out and Return. Where a vessel is chartered for a voyage out and home, for a gross sum, the outward and homeward voyages are considered one and entire, and her return is a condition precedent to entitle the owner to freight.[98] The owner cannot recover on the charter-party or on an implied assumpsit for the freight of the outward voyage; nor in such case if the freighter accepts the outward cargo can the owner recover pro rata freight.[99] But if two voyages, one outward and one homeward, are contemplated, and the vessel is lost on the and seventy-five cents per ton for freight, there can be recovery only for the amount shipped; there being no evidence that the vessel could have prudently taken more such cargo, or that the master erred in his judgment that she could not prudently carry more.

If rate is per package of a certain size for a full cargo, and a cargo is loaded of packages of larger size, the owner can recover as for a full cargo of the size specified. Atkins v. Fiber Disintegrating Co., 18 Wall. (U. S.) 272, 21 L. ed. 841 [affirming 2 Fed. Cas. No. 602, 7 Blatchf. 555 (reversing 2 Fed. Cas. No. 601, 2 Ben. 381)].

A stipulation in a charter-party giving charterers a right to appoint the stevedore, the steamer paying the expense thereof at usual rates for first-class work, requires the charterers to acount to the ship for a secret rebate received from the stevedore whom they appointed. Lowry v. U. S. Shipping Co., 84 Fed. 685.

94. Parker v. Tiers, 29 Fed. 800.

95. Stepanovit v. Gillibrand, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,360.

96. Holyoke v. Depew, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,652, 2 Ben. 334.

Authority of master as to change of rate or settlement of advances.—Where a charter-party provides a certain freight rate, the master of the vessel cannot change such rate in the bill of lading by inserting an increased rate for the purpose of collecting such higher rate from the consignee for the benefit of the consignor, and the owner is not liable to the consignee for failure of the master, who executes such a bill of lading, to collect the increased rate from the consignee. Randall v. Brodhead, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 567, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 43. And see Merchants' Banking Co. v. Cargo of the Afton, 134 Fed. 727, 67 C. C. A. 618 [reversing 125 Fed. 258]. But where, by a provision of a charter-party for a foreign vessel to be loaded at a port in this country, the charterer was required to advance expense money to the master at the port of loading, for which the master should give drafts on the owners, and the contract further provided that any dispute thereunder should be settled at the port where it arose, the master was thereby authorized to make settlement with the charterer for advances; and such settlement with the charterer, in the absence of fraud or mistake, was binding on the owners. Keyser v. Blue Star Steamship Co., 91 Fed. 267, 33 C. C. A. 496 [reversing 81 Fed. 507]. And see The Drottning Sophia, 153 Fed. 1017.

97. Shaw v. Folsom, 38 Fed. 356 [affirmed in 40 Fed. 511].

98. Towle v. Kettell, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 18; Penoyer v. Hallett, 15 Johns, (N. Y.) 332, 8 Am. Dec. 239; Barker v. Cheriot, 2 Johns. (N. Y.) 352 (where the vessel was captured on the return voyage); The Erie, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,512, 3 Ware 225; Weston v. Minot, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,453, 3 Woodb. & M. 437 (holding that freight contracted for in gross for a voyage out and in cannot be apportioned and recovered for a part of the cargo or a part of the voyage unless, from some expression in the contract, or nature of the voyage, or act of the hirer of the vessel, or measure of the government, an apportionment becomes feasible and just). But see Sandry v. Lynch, 1 Mart. (La.) 57, holding that where a ship is chartered for a voyage out and back for an entire sum, and the voyage is broken up by an attachment of the shipper's goods before sailing, the ship will be entitled to one-fourth the entire freight.

By the maritime law, when a ship is chartered to one or more ports out and home, freight will be due to each port where cargo is delivered, although the ship is lost on her return home, and freight is due as far as the charterer has had the beneficial use of the vessel. The Erie, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,512, 3 Ware 225.

99. Penoyer v. Hallett, 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 332, 8 Am. Dec. 239.

latter, freight may be recovered for the outward voyage.[1] Under those circumstances if the vessel is captured on her homeward voyage, the charterer is liable for hire only for the outward voyage, including half the time of delay at the port for which he started for home.[2] But while the owner and charterer as between themselves may make the whole freight in such a voyage depend on the safe arrival of the ship at her home port or on any other contingency,[3] if the only other contingency specified is the delivery of a cargo, and the language of the contract leaves it doubtful whether the voyage is single or divisible, the presumption of law is that the voyage is divisible, and this presumption holds, although the freight is made payable after the ship returns to her home port.[4] The contract may be an indivisible one and return of the vessel a condition precedent to payment of freight, even if freight is to be paid at a monthly rate.[5]

3. Time For Which Compensation May Be Collected. Unless the charter provides for cessation of hire in specified contingencies hire runs continuously.[6] Under a charter-party in which the owner agrees that the vessel shall be kept tight, stanch, well-fitted, and tackled for a voyage, the charterer takes on himself the risk of such delay as is necessary to enable the owner to perform his contract of keeping the vessel seaworthy during the voyage, and cannot subject the owner to any loss or damage resulting from the retardation occasioned by putting into port for repairs.[7] The rule is otherwise and charter-money is not payable where the charter provides that it is not to be paid for time lost by reason of the vessel being out of order,[8] nor is hire payable for the time she is being put into condition to carry the cargo for which she is chartered.[9] Where the charter specifies certain contingencies in which hire is to cease, those contingencies cannot

1. Coffin v. Storer, 5 Mass. 252, 4 Am. Dec. 54.

2. Locke v. Swan, 13 Mass. 76.

3. The Erie, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,512, 3 Ware 225 [cited in The L. L. Lamb, 31 Fed. 29].

4. The Erie, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,512, 3 Ware 225 [cited in The L. L. Lamb, 31 Fed. 29]. But see Cutts v. Frost, Smith (N. H.) 309, holding that under these circumstances where the vessel was lost, with all the cargo, on the homeward voyage, the charterer was not liable, even for the outward freight.

5. Hamilton v. Warfield, 2 Gill & J. (Md.) 482, 20 Am. Dec. 448.

6. Spafford v. Dodge, 14 Mass. 66 (holding that where a vessel was hired by a charter-party at a certain rate per month, so long as she should continue in the service of the hirer, and was seized as prize, and detained for several months, but afterward completed her voyage, the hirer was bound to pay the stipulated hire for the time of such detention); Minot v. Durant, 7 Mass. 436 (holding that where a charterer contracts to pay a certain sum per month for the hire of the vessel during a voyage, the hire was payable while the vessel was detained in port by an embargo made by the government); U. S. v. Shea, 152 U. S. 178, 14 S. Ct. 519, 38 L. ed. 403 (holding that hire runs while the vessel is laid up undergoing repairs for an accident); Hine v. New York, etc., Co., 68 Fed. 920 [affirmed in 73 Fed. 852, 20 C. C. A. 63]. But see The South America, 27 Fed. 386 (holding that where one chartered a barge for six months at a certain rate per month, with the privilege of renewal for six months additional, and the barge, before the expiration of the first six months, sprung a leak, and was taken possession of by the insurance companies, the owner, knowing this, could not treat the failure to deliver the barge to him as a renewal of the lease, and recover rent for the additional six months); White's Case, 11 Ct. Cl. 578 [affirmed in 154 U. S. 661, 14 S. Ct. 1192, 26 L. ed. 178] (holding that where a vessel is let to the government, and, by the terms of the charter-party, the owners are to keep her "tight, staunch," etc., "fit for merchants' service," the owners cannot recover for her services when laid up for repairs).

Where a charter-party definitely fixes a time for discharge, the charterer is liable for delay beyond such time, although caused by the act of the public enemy. Burrill v. Crossman, 69 Fed. 747, 16 C. C. A. 381 [modifying 65 Fed. 104].

The money is not payable until the return of the vessel, or the expiration of a reasonable time therefor under the circumstances, under a charter providing for a rate per diem payable upon delivery back to the owner of the vessel in good order. Stein v. The Prairie Rose, 17 Ohio St. 471, 93 Am. Dec. 631.

7. Cook v. Gowan, 15 Gray (Mass.) 237.

8. Strong v. U. S., 154 U. S. 632, 14 S. Ct. 1182, 24 L. ed. 664 [affirming 13 Ct. Cl. 544].

Where the pretended lay-up is a subterfuge to evade payment of hire in the meantime, charter-money must be paid as if the vessel were actually in commission. Wessels v. The Ceres, 72 Fed. 936, 19 C. C. A. 243 [reversing 61 Fed. 701].

9. La Compania Bilbaina de Navegacion de Bilbao v. Spanish-American Light, etc., Co.,

be enlarged by implication for causes not assigned.[10] Under a charter-party for a voyage to a certain port, or, in case it be blockaded, to a market and return, the vessel is not liable for the time necessarily consumed in the deviation to ascertain whether the port of destination was blockaded.[11]

4. Deductions and Offsets. A charterer is entitled as a general rule to deduction from freight money as an offset to any breach of duty on the part of the owner, such as results in damage to cargo,[12] or loss thereof.[13] Thus deduction may be claimed for loss consequent upon refusal to load a full cargo,[14] or delay in departure,[15]

146 U. S. 483, 13 S. Ct. 142, 36 L. ed. 1054 [affirming 31 Fed. 492].

10. Clyde Commercial Steamship Co. v. West India Steamship Co., 169 Fed. 275, 94 C. C. A. 551; Clyde Commercial Steamships v. U. S. Shipping Co., 152 Fed. 516.

11. Stokely v. Smith, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,473, 2 Ben. 407.

12. Dickie v. Wilson, 49 Fed. 390. And see The Tangier, 32 Fed. 230, holding that where a vessel under charter delivers a consignment of fruit, a portion of which is damaged, it is incumbent upon her to ascertain the amount of damage before retaining a part of the consignment for balance of freight, in order that she may not, by retaining an unreasonable amount, become liable for the storage and selling charges, and that when a ship is, by her charter-party, entitled to her whole freight, "upon a true delivery" of the cargo, and she delivers a portion in a damaged condition, she is entitled only to the specified freight, less the damage for the loss on the cargo.

Where the words "on intake weight" are inserted in a charter, the charterer is bound to pay freight on the whole cargo taken aboard, although part of it was damaged without the ship's fault by an excepted peril, and sold on the voyage (One Thousand Bags of Sugar v. Harrison, 53 Fed. 828, 4 C. C. A. 34 [affirming 50 Fed. 116]), and this is also true where cargo is jettisoned (Christie v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., 110 Fed. 1006, 49 C. C. A. 170 [affirming 95 Fed. 837]).

A stipulation in a charter "only half freight to be paid for all barrels delivered in a broken state" covers all barrels broken when delivered, although some were broken when shipped (Durkee v. Workman, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,194 [affirming 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,195, 1 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 204]), and where a charter-party provides that "if vessel should be lost after discharge of outward cargo, one half of this charter shall be considered due and payable," as after the completion of the outward voyage only one half of the freight is still unearned, and so liable to be lost by reason of a maritime risk, only that portion of the total freight can then be hypothecated under a bottomry bond (Brett v. Van Praag, 157 Mass. 132, 31 N. E. 761, holding that when such charter-party also provides for a payment on account of freight at the outward port, such payment is to be charged against that part of the freight which is already earned).

Deductions disallowed see The Santona, 152 Fed. 516 (holding that under a provision of a time charter requiring the owners to provide men to work the winches both day and night as required, the ship's duty is fulfilled by providing sober and competent winchmen from among the crew, and, where the charterers for their own convenience employ shore winchmen, the wages of such winchmen cannot be deducted from the charter hire); Glasgow Shipowners' Co. v. Bacon, 139 Fed. 541, 71 C. C. A. 329 [affirming 132 Fed. 771] (holding that the charterer of a vessel by a time charter is not entitled to a deduction from the charter hire because the vessel, owing to the foulness of her hull, failed to make the time he expected or that was made on a previous voyage, where he accepted her with knowledge that she had not been in dry dock for several months, during which time she had been employed in tropical waters, without any warranty as to speed, and where the clause in the printed charter for docking and cleaning was stricken out). See also The Asphodel, 111 Fed. 940; The Hurstdale, 169 Fed. 912 [affirmed —— Fed. ——]; The Burma,— — Fed. ——.

13. Elwell v. Skiddy, 77 N. Y. 282, holding that in a suit for freight and demurrage against the assignees of the bill of lading of a cargo of sugar, who were in fact the agents of the owner and consignor of the cargo, defendants were entitled to recoup damages accruing from the master's violation of revenue laws, whereby the cargo was seized by the authorities, and during the detention there was a loss by drainage and waste. But see Mayo v. Preston, 131 Mass. 304; Roberts v. Societa Anonima, 53 N. Y. Super. Ct. 424, holding that the obligation of the charterer to pay a lump sum agreed upon is not lessened by the loss, not shown to be the fault of any one, except possibly thieves, of an insignificant portion of the cargo, one hundred boxes of lemons for instance.

14. See Vaccarezzo v. 567,000 Gallons of Molasses, 161 Fed. 543, 88 C. C. A. 485 [affirming 149 Fed. 792], where, however, the evidence was held not to sustain the defense of a charterer to a suit for charter hire, admittedly due under a time charter based on the claim that the master refused to load full cargoes.

15. The Disa, 153 Fed. 322; Hoadley v. The Lizzie, 39 Fed. 44 (holding that, although the charter-party provided that the freight should be paid in advance on the vessel's being loaded, libellants could properly refuse to pay the freight because of delay in loading and departure); The Giulio, 34 Fed. 909.

or delivery,[16] or discharge of the cargo,[17] or failure to transport all the goods contracted for,[18] or any other just claim which he may have against the owner with respect to the carriage of the goods.[19] But the claim must not be too remote to be offset.[20] Stipulated commissions on advances made for the disbursements of the vessel on entering on the charter may be offset against the hire;[21] and although where a party contracts to load a ship at a stipulated price per ton and fails to ship the whole number of tons he is liable for the deficiency,[22] where goods are offered by a third person to make up the deficiency at reduced prices, which are current prices, the master of the vessel must receive them and credit the original charterer with their earnings.[23] While the charterer is entitled to recoup any damages set up in the answer which arose out of any breach of the charter-party by the owners of the vessel, to the amount of such freight, for any claim beyond that he must resort to his own proper action.[24] Furthermore the parties may specifically agree that charter hire shall be suspended in certain instances,[25] or in case the vessel becomes unfit for use because of defect in her outfit,[26] or because of detention by accidents to the vessel.[27] But there cannot be any deduction for delay or abandonment of the voyage resulting from ordinary perils of navigation, of which the charterer assumed the risk,[28] or from his own voluntary action.[29] Where the charterers of a foreign ship, being responsible to the owners for the charter hire, and having received freight upon goods delivered to the consignees, are liable to the latter for damage claims

16. Hagar v. Clark, 78 N. Y. 45 [reversing 12 Hun 524]; Tweedie Trading Co. v. George D. Emery Co., 154 Fed. 472, 84 C. C. A. 253 [affirming 146 Fed. 618]; Haggett v. Bowman, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,900, 1 Sawy. 4 (holding that a deduction from the monthly hire of a vessel will be made, where the voyage has been protracted by reason of the insufficiency of the sails).

17. Munson Steamship Line v. Miramar Steamship Co., 150 Fed. 437 [affirmed in 166 Fed. 722, 92 C. C. A. 412], holding that where a time charter of a steamer required her to be in every way fitted for the service, the charterer is entitled to an allowance for delay in discharging due to the defective condition of the winches or deficiency in steam power for operating them.

18. Myers v. The Unionist, 48 Fed. 315. But see Ruger v. Reck, 5 Fed. 131.

19. See Wall v. Ninety-Five Thousand Feet of Lumber, 26 Fed. 716; Booker v. Pocklington Steamship Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 690, 9 Aspin. 22, 5 Com. Cas. 15, 69 L. J. Q. B. 10, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 524, 16 T. L. R. 19.

Deductions disallowed under particular circumstances see Mignano v. MacAndrews, 49 Fed. 376 [affirmed in 53 Fed. 958, 4 C. C. A. 6]. (a deduction for failure to report vessel at custom-house); The Dan, 40 Fed. 691 (a deduction for alleged negligent stowage).

The cesser of liability clause in a charter, "all claims on charterers to cease" after settlement between the master and the charterer, will not prevent the correction of errors in the settlement itself. The Serapis, 37 Fed. 436.

20. McKay v. Ennis, 37 Fed. 229. See The Buckingham, 129 Fed. 975.

21. Gow v. William W. Brauer Steamship Co., 113 Fed. 672.

22. Heckscher v. McCrea, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 304.

23. Heckscher v. McCrea, 24 Wend. (N. Y.) 304. But see Stone v. Woodruff, 28 Hun (N. Y.) 534, holding that where a chartered vessel arrived at the port of lading, and there was no cargo to be had, nor was there anything else to load with, but the captain was told that by going to a neighboring port he might, within a week or more, be able to procure a cargo, he was justified in returning without a freight, and the charterer was liable for the amount stipulated for by the charter-party.

24. Holyoke v. Depew, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,652, 2 Ben. 334.

25. Glasgow Steam Shipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 154 Fed. 84; The Santona, 152 Fed. 516, holding, however, that where it is specifically agreed by charter-party that hire shall be suspended in certain instances, it cannot be suspended by implication for reasons not assigned in the contract.

26. Hills v. Leeds, 149 Fed. 878 [affirmed in 158 Fed. 1020], where, however, in an action to recover the balance due on a charter-party, the evidence was held insufficient, within a provision in the charter-party that, in case she should become unfit for use for a period of more than forty-eight hours because of any defect in her outfit, there should be a pro rata return of the charter-money to the hirer.

27. Vogeman v. Zanzibar Steamship Co., 6 Com. Cas. 253 [affirmed in 7 Com. Cas. 254].

28. Nicolini v. Lutcher, etc., Lumber Co., 108 Fed. 550, 47 C. C. A. 482.

29. Actiesselskabet Albis v. Munson, 130 Fed. 32 [affirmed in 139 Fed. 234] (where a delay in having a vessel dry-docked and painted as ordered by the charterer was due to the charterer's fault); Gow v. William W. Brauer Steamship Co., 113 Fed. 672 (where the charterers wrongfully arrested the arising through negligence of the ship, and the owners are foreign, and have no assets in this country, the charterers will not be required by a court of admiralty to pay over to the owners the whole amount of the charter hire, except upon security indemnifying them against such reasonable and probable demands as may have arisen against the charterers through the fault of the owners in the transportation of the cargo.[30] A vessel chartered to carry forward part of the cargo of another vessel from a port into which the latter had put in distress is entitled to her freight without deductions for advances made by the charterers of such other vessel secured by a bottomry note, which also assigned the freight to pay such advances.[31]

5. Lien — a. Existence and Extent. The ship-owners have a lien on goods for the freight due for transportation, which may be enforced in admiralty by a libel in rem; it is immaterial whether the contract is by bill of lading or charter-party.[32] The lien attaches at the time when the goods are laden on board,[33] and vessel); Nicolini v. Lutcher, etc., Lumber Co., 108 Fed. 550, 47 C. C. A. 482.

30. Milburn v. Nord-Deutscher Lloyd, 58 Fed. 603.

31. Berry v. Grace, 62 Fed. 607.

32. Gracie v. Palmer, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 605, 5 L. ed. 696 [reversing 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,692, 4 Wash. 110]; Hard v. The Enchantress, 58 Fed. 910 [affirmed in 63 Fed. 272, 11 C. C. A. 180]; Eisenbauer v. De Belaunzaran, 26 Fed. 784; Drinkwater v. The Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145; Kimball v. The Anna Kimball, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,772, 2 Cliff. 4 [reversing 1 Fed. Cas. No. 404, 2 Sprague 33, and affirmed in 3 Wall. 37, 18 L. ed. 50]; The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551; Anonymous, 12 Mod. 447, 88 Eng. Reprint 1442.

Goods shipped in fraud of their owner are not subjected to a lien in favor of the owner of the vessel, although he may be guiltless. Robinson v. Baker, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 137, 51 Am. Dec. 54. Compare The Karo, 29 Fed. 652.

Circus horses are to be regarded as cargo to which a maritime lien will attach for freight under a charter for a voyage out and return to carry a circus outfit. Fourteen Horses, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,990, 10 Ben. 358.

The refusal of a master to deliver a cargo until security is furnished for the freight gives no right of action to the charterer, as the cargo is subject to a lien for freight. Otis Mfg. Co. v. The Ira B. Ellems, 48 Fed. 591 [affirmed in 50 Fed. 934]. And the master, as agent of the owners of a chartered vessel, may retain for the freight the proceeds of the outward and inward cargo. Leefe v. Walker, 18 La. 1.

Cesser of liability.—Where a charter-party provides for a lien for freight, and for a stipulated rate of demurrage after a fixed time, and also provides that the charterer's liability shall cease on signing bills of lading, the cesser clause applies only so far as the lien is commensurate with the charterer's liability; and, if bills are signed which give a more limited lien, the charterer's liability continues. Burrill v. Crossman, 69 Fed. 747, 16 C. C. A. 381.

The purchaser of a vessel has a lien on goods for freight earned after his purchase. Williams v. Johnson, 11 Barb. (N. Y.) 501.

A clause in the charter-party that the parties bind the ship and goods, respectively, for the performance of the covenants, payments, and agreements thereof, is a valid clause, creating a lien on the goods for such performance, and may be enforced against the goods by a detention by the ship-owner for the freight and by a suit in admiralty (The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551); and it is competent for a time charterer, by a provision in the charter, whether it is or is not a demise of the vessel, to pledge the freight to be earned by her during the term to secure the payment of the charter hire; and such a provision gives the owner an equitable lien in admiralty, as of the date of the charter, on any freight subsequently stipulated to be paid under a bill of lading, and subrogates him to the lien of the charterer for the freight, and to the remedies of the charterer to enforce its payment (American Steel Barge Co. v. Chesapeake, etc., Coal Agency Co., 115 Fed. 669, 53 C. C. A. 301 [reversing 107 Fed. 964], holding that a provision of a charter-party that "the owners shall have a lien on all . . . sub-freight for charter money due under this charter" cannot be applied, as against a cargo-owner other than the charterer, beyond the amount of freight stipulated in the bill of lading; but to such extent it is valid and enforceable, as creating an admiralty lien on the freight, even where the charter is a demise of the ship). Furthermore a lien may be created on charter-money to repay a loan, and the pledge, although oral, will be valid. Bank of British North America v. The Ansgar, 127 Fed. 859 [affirmed in 137 Fed. 534, 70 C. C. A. 118].

33. Blowers v. One Wire Rope Cable, 19 Fed. 444.

Goods shipped by a commission merchant are subject to a lien for freight when put on board, although the owner of the vessel has notice of the real ownership of the goods, and although when the goods are partly loaded the commission merchant becomes insolvent. Hayes v. Campbell, 55 Cal. 421, 36 Am. Rep. 43.

the voyage commenced;[34] and if the cargo is actually loaded on board the lien attaches, although the goods are not entirely detached from the land.[35] The lien is confined to freight for the particular shipment and the owner has no general lien for debts due from the consignee so as to defeat the vendor's right of stoppage in transitu;[36] nor can the owner claim a lien for more freight than is reserved by the bill of lading against a shipper or purchaser who is a stranger to the charter-party and who has taken the bill without notice;[37] and a bona fide indorsee of the bill of lading without notice of the charter-party or any freight except that expressed in the bill of lading may on payment of the freight stipulated in the bill of lading take his goods.[38] But the owner is not bound by bills of lading in the hands of a shipper or his agent to the prejudice of the charter-party liens when it appears that the bill of lading was given without authority and under circumstances which have put the shipper upon inquiry.[39] If the bill of lading incorporates the terms of the charter-party, the lien of the owner on the goods for the charter freight is preserved.[40] Although the owner in the absence of express stipulation has no lien for demurrage or dead freight,[41] or for pilotage or port

34. Burgess v. Gun, 3 Harr. & J. (Md.) 225.

35. Blowers v. One Wire Rope Cable, 19 Fed. 444, holding that where the owner of a canal-boat agreed with a shipper to take a cable on his boat for transportation and the boat was ordered by the shipper to the dock of the manufacturer of the cable, who loaded the cable on the boat with knowledge of the agreement, the lien on the cable during the time the vessel was detained by reason of the shipper not fulfilling his contract with the manufacturer to pay for the cable existed against the manufacturer, even though he never fully released the cable, but kept it fastened to his property.

36. Oppenheim v. Russell, 3 B. & P. 42, 6 Rev. Rep. 604.

37. Gardner v. Trechmann, 15 Q. B. D. 154, 5 Aspin. 558, 54 L. J. Q. B. 515, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 518; Fry v. Chartered Mercantile Bank, L. R. 1 C. P. 689, 35 L. J. C. P. 306, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 709, 14 Wkly. Rep. 920; Gilkison v. Middleton, 2 C. B. N. S. 134, 26 L. J. C. P. 209, 89 E. C. L. 134; Shand v. Sanderson, 4 H. & N. 381, 28 L. J. Exch. 278, 7 Wkly. Rep. 416; Foster v. Colby, 3 H. & N. 705, 28 L. J. Exch. 81. But see The Karo, 29 Fed. 652, holding that where the charterer of a ship, under a charter-party giving the owners a lien on any part of the cargo for all freight and charges named therein, issues fraudulently a bill of lading for the goods of a third party, who had no knowledge of the charter-party, the goods so shipped are subject to the lien given by the charter-party, where the master acted in good faith.

Apportionment of subfreight between charterer and owner.—Agents appointed by the charterer or his subcharterers to collect freight due under bills of lading collect the same on behalf of all parties concerned, including the ship-owner having a lien on cargoes and subfreights for hire due and unpaid under the time charter. A ship-owner having such a lien, who claims the freight from the agent before the latter has paid it to or allowed it in account with the charterers, has a right to have paid to him an amount equal to the amount of hire presently due to him and unpaid for which he has the lien. Any further sum received by him as freight from the agents he holds to the use of the charterers. Wehner v. Dene Steam Shipping Co., [1905] 2 K. B. 92, 10 Com. Cas. 139, 74 L. J. K. B. 550, 21 T. L. R. 339.

38. Foster v. Colby, 3 H. & N. 705, 28 L. J. Exch. 81.

39. Faith v. East India Co., 4 B. & Ald. 630, 23 Rev. Rep. 423, 6 E. C. L. 630, 106 Eng. Reprint 1067; Small v. Moates, 9 Bing. 574, 2 Moore & S. 674, 23 E. C. L. 711. Compare Campion v. Colvin, 3 Bing. N. Cas. 17, 2 Hodges 116, 5 L. J. C. P. 317, 3 Scott 338, 32 E. C. L. 18; Reynolds v. Jex, 7 R. & S. 86, 34 L. J. Q. B. 251, 13 Wkly. Rep. 968.

40. Porteus v. Watney, 3 Q. B. D. 534, 4 Aspin. 34, 47 L. J. Q. B. 643, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 195, 27 Wkly. Rep. 30; Gray v. Carr, L. R. 6 Q. B. 522, 40 L. J. Q. B. 257, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 215, 19 Wkly. Rep. 1173; Lamb v. Kaselack, 19 Sc. L. Rep. 336. But see Turner v. Haji Goolam Mahomed Azam, [1904] A. C. 826, 9 Aspin. 599, 74 L. J. P. C. 17, 91 L. T. Rep. N. S. 216, 20 T. L. R. 599; Serraino v. Campbell, [1891] 1 Q. B. 283, 7 Aspin. 48, 60 L. J. Q. B. 303, 64 L. T. Rep. N. S. 615, 39 Wkly. Rep. 356.

But where the clause is "paying for the goods as per charter-party," or "payable as per charter-party," it is construed to mean paying for the goods at the rate mentioned in the charter-party, and further liens imposed by the charter do not exist against those goods in the hands of third persons. Frey v. Chartered Mercantile Bank, L. R. 1 C. P. 689, 35 L. J. C. P. 306, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 709, 14 Wkly. Rep. 920; Smith v. Steveking, 4 E. & B. 945, 24 L. J. Q. B. 257, 3 Wkly. Rep. 411, 82 E. C. L. 945 [affirmed in 5 E. & B. 589, 1 Jur. N. S. 1135, 4 Wkly. Rep. 25, 85 E. C. L. 589].

41. Phillips v. Rodie, 15 East 547, 13 Rev. Rep. 528, 104 Eng. Reprint 950; Gladstone v. Birley, 2 Meriv. 401, 35 Eng. Reprint 993, 3 M. & S. 205, 105 Eng. Reprint 587, 15 Rev. Rep. 465.

charges,[42] such a lien may be reserved; and a lien for freight, dead freight, and demurrage, so expressly reserved by the charter-party, attaches the moment cargo is put on board under a bill of lading made subject to the charter-party.[43] Under such a charter the owner has a right to insist that cargo offered as the property of third persons shall not be carried, unless their consent to said condition be indorsed upon the bill of lading;[44] and where the bill of lading provides that the consignee is to pay freight and all other conditions as per charter-party, the conditions of paying dead freight and demurrage are incorporated and liens therefor preserved.[45] The owner is not bound to wait until the cargo is discharged to enforce his lien for charter freight, where there is a breach of the agreement to pay the charter hire in monthly instalments,[46] but may enforce the lien by retaining all the goods on which freight is payable,[47] or he may deliver in instalments, retaining the balance of the goods for the whole freight.[48] Where by the charter-party the charterers are owners for the voyage, the general owners have no lien on the cargo for the hire of the ship;[49] and the same rule applies where it appears from the charter-party that the intention of the parties was that the owner should rely on the personal responsibility of the charterer for the payment of the vessel's hire.[50]

b. Amount. Where the owners have a lien on the cargo for the charter-money the lien covers the whole amount due and unpaid under the charter-party,[51] and applies to the whole cargo,[52] but only to the extent that the freight on such merchandise is still to be paid by the shipper or consignee,[53] and the amount is not 42. Faith v. East India Co., 4 B. & Ald. 630, 23 Rev. Rep. 423, 6 E. C. L. 630, 106 Eng. Reprint 1067.

43. The Eliza, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,347, 1 Lowell 83; Stepanovit v. Gillibrand, etc., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,360. But see Leisy v. Buyers, 36 La. Ann. 705, holding that, although mere knowledge on the part of a third shipper that the charter-party contains the provision, "Vessel to have lien on cargo for freight, dead freight, and demurrage," might suffice to bind the third shipper to its conditions; when the course of dealing of the vessel has been such as to lead such shipper to suppose that the conditions would not be insisted on, and under such belief he has sent goods to the vessel, and the vessel's agents knew when they received the goods that the third shipper would not assent to the conditions, such shipper must be given a clean bill of lading, or his goods returned to him.

Under a clause in a time charter giving owners a lien "on all cargoes and subfreights for any amount due under this charter," the ship-owner is entitled to a lien on the freights of the vessel for the charter hire earned, for necessary advances for the voyage, and for indemnity against claims for supplies to the ship or damages to cargo which the charterer was bound to pay, but not for damages for the less profitable employment of the vessels during the remainder of the charter period, after withdrawal by the owners from the charterers' service in consequence of their insolvency. Freights of The Kate, 63 Fed. 707.

44. Gomila v. Adams, 36 La. Ann. 221.

45. Porteus v. Watney, 3 Q. B. D. 534, 4 Aspin. 34, 47 L. J. Q. B. 643, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 195, 27 Wkly. Rep. 30; Gray v. Carr, L. R. 6 Q. B. 522, 40 L. J. Q. B. 257, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 215, 19 Wkly. Rep. 1173; Wegener v. Smith, 15 C. B. 285, 3 C. L. R. 47, 24 L. J. C. P. 25, 80 E. C. L. 285. Compare Serraino v. Campbell, [1891] 1 Q. B. 283, 7 Aspin. 48, 60 L. J. Q. B. 303, 64 L. T. Rep. N. S. 615, 39 Wkly. Rep. 356.

If the bill of lading provides merely that freight shall be paid as per charter-party the lien given by the charter-party does not attach for demurrage against holders of the bill of lading who are strangers to the charter-party. McLean v. Fleming, L. R. 2 H. L. Sc. 128, 1 Aspin. 160, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 317; Chappel v. Comfort, 10 C. B. N. S. 802, 8 Jur. N. S. 177, 31 L. J. C. P. 58, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 448, 9 Wkly. Rep. 694, 100 E. C. L. 802; Smith v. Sieveking, 4 E. & B. 945, 24 L. J. Q. B. 257, 3 Wkly. Rep. 411, 82 E. C. L. 945 [affirmed in 5 E. & B. 589, 1 Jur. N. S. 1135, 4 Wkly. Rep. 25, 85 E. C. L. 589].

46. Fourteen Horses, etc., 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,990, 10 Ben. 358.

47. Perez v. Alsop, 3 F. & F. 188.

48. Black v. Rose, 10 Jur. N. S. 1009, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 31, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 277, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1123, 15 Eng. Reprint 906.

49. Pickman v. Woods, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 248; Lander v. Clark, 1 Hall (N. Y.) 394; Clarkson v. Edes, 4 Cow. (N. Y.) 470; Drinkwater v. The Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145.

50. Brown v. Howard, 1 Cal. 423.

51. Gracie v. Palmer, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 605, 5 L. ed. 696 [reversing 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,692, 4 Wash. 110]; De Wolf v. Two Hundred and Sixty-Six Hogsheads and Thirty-One Tierces Molasses, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,853.

52. The Antonia Johanna, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 159, 4 L. ed. 60; Nine Hundred and Forty-Eight Pieces of Lumber, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,270, 7 Ben. 389.

53. Holmes v. Pavenstedt, 5 Sandf. (N. Y.) 97.

limited by the penal sum in the charter-party;[54] but as, on general principles of law, merchandise is bound for its own transportation only, the liability cannot be extended further, except by stipulation in the charter-party under which the voyage was performed.[55]

c. Waiver, Loss, or Discharge. The owner's lien may be waived or displaced by any special agreement inconsistent with its existence,[56] but is presumed to exist until such inconsistency appears;[57] and a clause in a charter-party by which the owner binds the vessel and the charterers bind the cargo for the performance of their respective covenants is sufficient to dispel doubt arising on the construction of other stipulations as to whether the lien for freight was intended to be waived by the parties;[58] and if the contract gives the lien expressly, yet contains terms inconsistent with it, the conflict must be settled so as best to give effect to the apparent intention of the parties, having regard to the ordinary rules of construction.[59] If the owner stipulates to receive the freight at a time and place other than the time and place for the delivery of the cargo, and without reference to such time and place, he is to be considered as having waived his lien.[60] Thus if the freight is not payable until after the goods have been delivered, the shipowner has no lien, for a lien for freight implies possession of the goods;[61] but a clause in a charter-party providing that the freight shall be paid a specified number of days after the ship's return and discharge does not waive the lien for 54. The Salem's Cargo, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,248, 1 Sprague 389.

55. Webb v. Anderson, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,318, Taney 504, holding that where the freight on a cargo out and a cargo back is to be paid at a certain sum on the cargo out, the charterer has no lien for freight on the cargo back purchased with the proceeds by one who took an assignment of the bills of lading to secure advances, except to the extent of the surplus. But see Certain Logs of Mahogany, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,559, 2 Sumn. 589, holding that where by a charter-party the freight was to be paid in gross on the successful close of the whole voyage, and the bill of lading declared that the return cargo should be delivered to the shipper or his assigns, they paying freight as per charter-party, a lien attached to the homeward cargo for the freight due for the whole voyage.

56. The Bird of Paradise, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 545, 18 L. ed. 662 (where there was a partial waiver); The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551. And see Welch v. McClintock, 10 Gray (Mass.) 215; The Moringen, 98 Fed. 996, holding that where a charter provides for the payment of a fixed sum in advance, and at a particular place, payment thereof cannot be demanded elsewhere and at other times.

If the charter-party is inconsistent with a lien for freight, the right to a lien does not arise. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) 873.

The master has no authority by signing bills of lading to waive the lien of the shipowner on the goods of the charterer; and such bills of lading will not give a right to persons who take them with knowledge of the charter-party to have the goods free from the lien. The Salem's Cargo, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,248, 1 Sprague 389.

A charter-party by which the owner gives up the possession and control of the ship to the charterer is inconsistent with a lien for freight on goods carried in the ship, and the owner not having possession of the goods cannot detain them for unpaid freight (Belcher v. Capper, 11 L. J. C. P. 274, 4 M. & G. 502, 5 Scott N. R. 257, 43 E. C. L. 262. Compare Christie v. Lewis, 2 B. & B. 410, 5 Moore C. P. 211, 23 Rev. Rep. 483, 6 E. C. L. 206); but it seems that if the charter-party expressly gives a lien for the freight, this difficulty will be overcome (Small v. Moates, 9 Bing. 574, 2 Moore & S. 674, 23 E. C. L. 711. And see The Stornoway, 4 Aspin. 529, 51 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 27, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 773).

57. The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551.

58. The Kimball, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 37, 18 L. ed. 50, holding that it is not to be presumed that the owner of a ship, having a lien on a cargo for the payment of the freight, intended to waive his lien by taking the notes of the charterers drawn so as to be payable at the time of the expected arrival of the ship at the port of delivery, and the notes being unpaid, he may return them and enforce his lien.

59. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) 873 [citing Foster v. Colby, 3 H. & N. 705, 28 L. J. Exch. 81].

60. Raymond v. Tyson, 17 How. (U. S.) 53, 15 L. ed. 47.

61. Foster v. Colby, 3 H. & N. 705, 28 L. J. Exch. 181; Alsager v. St. Katherine's Dock Co., 15 L. J. Exch. 34, 14 M. & W. 794; Lucas v. Nockells, 4 Bing. 729, 13 E. C. L. 713, 1 Cl. & F. 438, 6 Eng. Reprint 980, 1 M. & P. 783, 2 Y. & J. 304, 29 Rev. Rep. 721.

The fact that the freighter or consignee has become insolvent does not alter the obligation to deliver the goods. Alsager v. St. Katherine's Dock Co., 15 L. J. Exch. 34, 14 M. & W. 794.

freight; the word "discharge" merely referring to the unlading, and not to the delivery of the cargo;[62] and the lien is not lost by an agreement providing for the mode of its payment, not inconsistent with the lien.[63] In order to maintain his lien the ship-owner must retain possession of the goods by himself or his agents, and even if he parts with the goods to another, who acts on his instructions but in such a way as to give the right of possession to that other as against himself, the lien will be terminated.[64] But stipulations in the charter requiring the delivery of the cargo within reach of the ship's tackle, and providing that the balance of the charter-money remaining unpaid on the termination of the homeward voyage shall be payable a specified number of days after discharge of the cargo, are not inconsistent with the right of the owner to retain the cargo for the preservation of his lien.[65] It is competent for the master to land goods and still preserve the lien by placing them in warehouses over which he or the agent of the ship has exclusive control;[66] and similarly where the ship-owner is required by law to land and warehouse the goods in a particular place, the lien will continue while they are so deposited, for as they are taken out of his hands by operation of law the law preserves the charge for him;[67] and if the goods have been merely placed in a warehouse pending a delivery to the consignee, even though the lien may be for the time lost, it seems that it will revive and reattach on the ship-owner's retaking possession of the goods.[68] The master waives his lien on the goods for freight where he directs the consignee to pay the freight moneys to the charterer;[69] but a payment of freight to the charterer by the consignee will not discharge the lien on the goods for the charter-money, where the charterer is not owner for the voyage, and the consignee has notice of that fact.[70] The effect of a provision of a time charter giving the owner of the vessel a lien on all cargoes and subfreights for the charter hire, as against a shipper other than the charterer, is merely to subrogate the vessel-owner to the rights of the charterer, and where the shipper has paid the freight to the charterer in good faith, he is protected in such payment, and a lien on the cargo cannot be asserted by the vessel-owner any more than by the charterer;[71] but the payment of the freight by the consignee to the general owner on account of unpaid charter hire will be a defense to any claim for the freight by the charterer, although he gave notice before the payment to the consignee not to pay to the general owner.[72] Under some circumstances the

62. Certain Logs of Mahogany, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,559, 2 Sumn. 589.

63. Blowers v. One Wire Rope Cable, 19 Fed. 444 (holding that an agreement to pay freight at a per diem rate on the happening of a future event is not incompatible with a lien for freight and with proceedings to enforce it at once in default of payment as agreed); Fourteen Horses, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,990, 10 Ben. 358 (holding that where the charter expressly pledges both vessel and cargo for its performance, the lien for freight is not waived by making it payable in monthly instalments); Crawshay v. Homfray, 4 B. & Ald. 50, 22 Rev. Rep. 618, 6 E. C. L. 385, 106 Eng. Reprint 856; Chase v. Westmore, 5 M. & S. 180, 105 Eng. Reprint 1016. See Howard v. Macondray, 7 Gray (Mass.) 516.

A stipulation merely for payment of freight by commercial paper due after delivery does not affect the lien. Tate v. Meek, 2 Moore C. P. 278, 8 Taunt. 280, 19 Rev. Rep. 518, 4 E. C. L. 146. But see Hewison v. Guthrie, 2 Bing. N. Cas. 755, 2 Hodges 51, 5 L. J. C. P. 283, 3 Scott 298, 29 E. C. L. 748.

Where objection is taken by the ship-owner to one of the bills given for freight, the lien is lost if the bills are negotiated. Horncastle v. Farran, 3 B. & Ald. 497, 2 Stark. 590, 22 Rev. Rep. 461, 5 E. C. L. 288, 106 Eng. Reprint 743. See Brinney v. Poyntz, 4 B. & Ad. 568, 2 L. J. K. B. 55, 1 N. & M. 229, 24 E. C. L. 250. But if the bill is dishonored at maturity before the goods have been delivered, the lien will revive. Gunn v. Bolckow, L. R. 10 Ch. 491, 44 L. J. Ch. 732, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 781, 23 Wkly. Rep. 739.

64. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) 894.

65. The Kimball, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 37, 18 L. ed. 50.

66. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) 894.

67. Wilson v. Kymer, 1 M. & S. 157, 105 Eng. Reprint 59.

68. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) 894.

69. Shaw v. Thompson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,726, Olcott 144.

70. Clarkson v. Edes, 4 Cow. (N. Y.) 470; Shaw v. Thompson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,726, Olcott 144.

71. Larsen v. 150 Bales of Sisal Grass, 147 Fed. 783.

72. Mactaggert v. Henry, 3 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 390.

ship-owner's lien for freight will be terminated if the contract becomes impossible of performance,[73] as where the ship has been wrecked and the ship-owner has no means or intention of carrying the cargo to its destination.[74]

L. Breach of Charter — 1. By Owner or Master — a. What Constitutes Breach, and Effect Thereof; Waiver. A breach of the charter by the owner or his agents gives a cause of action for damage against him,[75] and may justify the charterer in repudiating the contract.[76] As a general rule a charterer is not bound to accept a substituted performance, and an owner having made an unqualified contract must, unless prevented by the act of God, peril of the sea, or unavoidable disaster, perform it according to its terms; [77] but where the ship is wrecked before

73. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) 896.

Impossibility of delivering cargo owing to war does not deprive the ship-owner of his charter freight or his lien for it. The Teutonia, L. R. 4 P. C. 171, 1 Aspin. 214, 41 L. J. Adm. 57, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 48, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 411, 20 Wkly. Rep. 421 [affirming L. R. 3 A. & E. 394, 20 Wkly. Rep. 261].

74. Nelson v. Association for Protection of Commercial Interests, 43 L. J. C. P. 218.

75. Smith v. Heinlein, 132 Fed. 1001; The Donald, 115 Fed. 744; Dene Steamship Co. v. Munson, 103 Fed. 983; Lightburne v. The Tongoy, 55 Fed. 329; The Starlight, 42 Fed. 167; Hoadley v. The Lizzie, 39 Fed. 44; Gomila v. Culliford, 20 Fed. 734 [reversed on other grounds in 128 U. S. 135, 9 S. Ct. 50, 32 L. ed. 381].

Injuria absque damno.—Damages cannot be recovered by the charterer by reason of the vessel having been removed from the loading port previous to the signing of the bills of lading, and without sailing orders from him, where the master acted prudently, and for the interest of all concerned, and the charterer suffered no loss or injury thereby (Portland Shipping Co. v. The Alex Gibson, 44 Fed. 371); and in general where no actual damage is sustained by the charterer, a libel for breach of the charter will not lie, and the ground on which the master's refusal to fulfil the contract is based becomes immaterial (Munson v. Straits of Dover Steamship Co., 102 Fed. 926, 43 C. C. A. 57; The Habil, 100 Fed. 120, where the libel was dismissed because charterer was entitled only to nominal damages for breach by owner of agreement to submit dispute to arbitration; The Willowdene, 96 Fed. 569).

Facts held to constitute breach by owner or master see Smith v. Heinlein, 132 Fed. 1001; Wood v. Sewall, 128 Fed. 141 [affirmed in 135 Fed. 12, 67 C. C. A. 580]; The Helios, 115 Fed. 705, 55 C. C. A. 598 [modifying 108 Fed. 279]; The Oregon v. Pittsburgh, etc., Iron Co., 55 Fed. 666, 5 C. C. A. 229; Hoadley v. The Lizzie, 39 Fed. 44.

Facts held not to constitute breach by master or owner see Manha v. Union Fertilizer Co., 151 Cal. 581, 91 Pac. 393; Lombard Steamship Co. v. Lanasa, etc., Steamship, etc., Co., 163 Fed. 433; Wood v. Sewall, 128 Fed. 141 [affirmed in 135 Fed. 12, 67 C. C. A. 580]; Culliford v. Gomila, 128 U. S. 135, 9 S. Ct. 50, 32 L. ed. 381; Manchester Steamship Co. v. Parr, 130 Fed. 999; Lake Steam Shipping Co. v. Bacon, 129 Fed. 819; Hreglich v. One Thousand Tons of Coal, 128 Fed. 464; Gow v. William W. Brauer Steamship Co., 113 Fed. 672; Matthias v. Beeche, 111 Fed. 940; Donkin v. Herbst, 55 Fed. 1002, 5 C. C. A. 381 [affirming 49 Fed. 379] (holding that where the final refusal to permit the ship to enter a port was not due to the lack of the visé, but because she came from an infected port outside the charter limits and without a clean bill of health, for which the owners were not responsible, the charterers' claim of damages must be dismissed, and the owner could recover her charter-money); Dow v. Hare, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,037*a*; Forest Oak Steam Shipping Co. v. Richard, 5 Com. Cas. 100.

In Louisiana it is held that a vessel cannot be put in default under its charter-party, except by commencement of a suit, a demand in writing, a protest by a notary public, or a verbal requisition made in the presence of two witnesses. Eden v. Lemandre, 27 La. Ann. 176.

Freight on cargo carried in violation of charter.—A charterer of the whole cargo capacity of a vessel, and the services of her officers and crew, for a specified voyage, may recover, by libel against the vessel, freight earned by carrying cargo for others during part of the voyage, without his permission, less the expenses incurred in earning it. The Port Adelaide, 62 Fed. 486, 10 C. C. A. 505 [affirming 59 Fed. 174].

In an action against the managing owner of a vessel on a charter-party on which he is personally liable, a finding that he is a part-owner of the vessel is immaterial. Kerry v. Pacific Mar. Co., 121 Cal. 564, 54 Pac. 89, 66 Am. St. Rep. 65.

Charterers can recover for breach of a collateral verbal warranty.— Hassan v. Runciman, 10 Aspin. 31, 10 Com. Cas. 19, 91 L. T. Rep. N. S. 808.

76. Hoadley v. The Lizzie, 39 Fed. 44.

Facts held not to subject the charter to cancellation by charterer see Bonanno v. Tweedie Trading Co., 117 Fed. 991 [affirmed in 130 Fed. 448, 64 C. C. A. 650] (holding also that the evidence was insufficient to establish a custom of a port requiring vessels to be entered at the custom-house before they can be tendered for loading, to save a cancellation date); McKeen v. Davis Coke, etc., Co., 110 Fed. 576; Forest Oak Steam Shipping Co. v. Richard, 5 Com. Cas. 100.

77. Higginson v. Weld, 14 Gray (Mass.)

the time for the performance of the contract, the owner, in order to escape liability for the repayment of money paid on the contract, must furnish other ships, equally safe, and with equal accommodations.[78] Breach of the charter by the owner may, however, be waived,[79] and strict performance may be excused by the act of the charterer,[80] or by various circumstances which may or may not have been within the contemplation of the parties on the execution of the charter.[81] The Harter Act[82] does not affect the rights of parties under a time charter-party.[83]

b. Damages. In an action for breach of a charter-party whereby the charterer was compelled to pay for the transportation of cargo by other vessels, the measure

165; Lumbermen's Min. Co. v. Gilchrist, 50 Fed. 118 [affirmed in 55 Fed. 677, 5 C. C. A. 239]; The B. F. Bruce, 50 Fed. 118.

78. Turner v. Barneson, 22 Wash. 78, 60 Pac. 54.

79. Gilchrist v. Lumberman's Min. Co., 65 Fed. 1005, 13 C. C. A. 272 (holding that where an owner of a vessel fails to return for a cargo as required by the charter, and afterward the charterer sent for the vessel, representing that there would be no difficulty in loading her before the end of the season, and she was then sent, and could not be loaded before the season ended, the charterer, by his request and representations, waives any right to hold her for her previous delay); The Oregon v. Pittsburgh, etc., Iron Co., 55 Fed. 666, 5 C. C. A. 229. But see The Giulio, 34 Fed. 909, holding that charterers who load a vessel with return cargo after a period of negligent delay on the part of the vessel do not thereby necessarily waive the right of action already accrued.

An agent to load cargoes has not, in general, power to waive forfeiture of charter-party, so as to bind his non-resident principal and the advancement by an agent of a small sum, without commissions, to a delayed vessel, is not a waiver or forfeiture of charter-party by delayed arrival, when accompanied by a declaration that he did not know what his principal, the charterer, would do about the delay. Olsen v. Hunter-Benn, 54 Fed. 530.

80. The John A. Briggs, 120 Fed. 6 [modifying 113 Fed. 948]; Lumberman's Min. Co. v. Gilchrist, 55 Fed. 681, 5 C. C. A. 244 [reversing 50 Fed. 124]; Otis Mfg. Co. v. The Ira B. Ellems, 50 Fed. 934, 2 C. C. A. 85 [affirming 48 Fed. 591] (holding that a vessel being an American vessel, and the charter-party having been signed upon the high seas, the customs officer of a foreign port did not constitute the proper forum in which to claim redress for alleged neglect of master in not preventing loss of logs moored alongside ship for loading; and the threat to institute legal proceedings before such officer was of itself sufficient to justify the master in leaving without completing load); Myers v. The Unionist, 48 Fed. 315; The Alida, 8 Fed. 47 (holding that where a verbal agreement was made, at the same time as the written charter, that the charterer should furnish the provisions and pay the current expenses in part payment of the stipulated charter price of the vessel, a failure so to provide for the current expenses would justify the master in leaving the work); Wright v. The Francesca Curro, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,088, 5 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 104. But see Matthias v. Beech, 111 Fed. 940.

81. The Minnie E. Kelton, 109 Fed. 164, 48 C. C. A. 271; Card v. Hine, 39 Fed. 818.

Facts held not to constitute excuse for breach see Higginson v. Weld, 14 Gray (Mass.) 165 (insanity of master); The B. L. Harriman, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 161, 19 L. ed. 629 (holding that performance of a charter to proceed to a distant port specified, made during a war, for the purpose of furnishing coal for one of the parties to it, is not dispensed with by the fact, learned in the course of the voyage, that the whole purpose of the voyage was defeated by the changed condition of military operations, where the language of the charter-party was absolute in its terms, and without provision for any contingency); The Oregon v. Pittsburg, etc., Iron Co., 55 Fed. 666, 5 C. C. A. 229; Lumberman's Min. Co. v. Gilchrist, 55 Fed. 677, 5 C. C. A. 239 [affirming 50 Fed. 118]; The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463.

Where the meaning of the charter-party is clear, a mistake cannot be alleged in defense to a suit in rem for breach. The Hermitage, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,410, 4 Blatchf. 474.

Desertion of seamen, causing a delay, is not a peril of the sea, within the meaning of a charter-party, and does not afford an excuse to the carrier for a failure to perform his contract. The Ethel, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,540, 5 Ben. 154.

Acts of the master acting as agent of the charterer do not constitute breach by the owners. Donkin v. Herbst, 55 Fed. 1002, 5 C. C. A. 381, 14 U. S. App. 358 [affirming 49 Fed. 379].

A charterer who by obstructive tactics prevents the owner from entering the vessel at the custom-house before the time she was required by the charter to be tendered for loading will not be permitted to avail himself of the fact that she was not so entered as a ground for canceling the charter. Bonanno v. Tweedie Trading Co., 117 Fed. 991 [affirmed in 130 Fed. 448, 64 C. C. A. 650].

82. 26 U. S. St. at L. 445, c. 105 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2946].

83. Lake Steam Shipping Co. v. Bacon, 129 Fed. 819.

of damages is the difference between the freight as fixed in the charter-party and the freight and other charges actually paid for the transportation of the cargoes,[84] with an allowance for depreciation and the difference in the market value if any during the delay, together with the expense, in the case of live stock, of keeping the stock for a reasonable time until other transportation could be procured,[85] and such other damage as is the natural and probable consequence of breach of the contract;[86] and a vessel is liable for the fall in market prices during a period of negligent delay on her part, although such delay arose before the cargo was shipped, when the delay was voluntary, and was in the course of the voyage contracted for by the charter, and after it had been begun.[87] If no other transportation is obtainable, the charterer's measure of damages is the difference in the value of the cargo at the shipping point and the place of destination, less the cost of transportation,[88] and in the absence of evidence by the charterer from which such amount can be determined, only nominal damages are recoverable.[89] In an action for a breach of charter by reason of the refusal of the master to commence the voyage, where the charter binds the parties to a penalty for its breach, the sum mentioned in the penal clause of the instrument will be regarded as a penalty, and not as liquidated damages;[90] and nominal damages only are recoverable

84. Parker v. McCaldin, 3 Misc. (N. Y.) 14, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 358; Sanders v. Munson, 74 Fed. 649, 20 C. C. A. 581 [affirming 61 Fed. 504] (holding that where the charterer has learned that the steamer cannot be repaired in time for delivery in season he may notify the owner that he will not accept a later delivery, and it thereupon becomes the owner's duty to find a fit substitute, and, if he fails, the charterer himself is entitled to procure the most suitable substitute practicable under the circumstances, and recover of the owner any additional hire that he necessarily pays); Lumberman's Min. Co. v. Gilchrist, 55 Fed. 677, 5 C. C. A. 239 [affirming 50 Fed. 118]; The Oregon v. Pittsburg, etc., Iron Co., 55 Fed. 666, 5 C. C. A. 229; The Augustine Kobb, 37 Fed. 696; The Rossend Castle, 30 Fed. 462; Oakes v. Richardson, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,390, 2 Lowell 173.

If there is a market price of transportation the difference between that and the charter price will govern; if there is no market price, the actual cost of subsequent transportation by another vessel is the basis of computation. The S. L. Watson, 118 Fed. 945, 55 C. C. A. 439; The Rossend Castle, 30 Fed. 462.

85. Wheelwright v. Walsh, 44 Fed. 380 (holding also that if there was no fall in price, then the only damage was the interest on the amount paid for the cargo so purchased during the time that elapsed before the charter cargo arrived); The Rossend Castle, 30 Fed. 462 (making such an allowance in the case of live stock).

86. Lightburne v. The Tongoy, 55 Fed. 329; The Augustine Kobbe, 37 Fed. 696 (holding that loss of commissions provided for in the instrument, which apply to advances made under it, are elements of damage); Mauran v. Warren, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,310, 2 Lowell 53; The Mispah, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,648, 5 Reporter 519.

Losses too remote and uncertain to furnish a measure of damages or to have been within the contemplation of the parties cannot be recovered. The A. Denicke, 138 Fed. 645, 7 C. C. A. 95; Wood v. Sewall, 128 Fed. 141 [affirmed in 135 Fed. 12, 67 C. C. A. 580]; Richard v. Holman, 123 Fed. 734 (holding that the fact of a re-charter by the original charterer of a vessel to carry a cargo of grain at a specified rate, which it does not appear was contemplated by the owners at the time of making the contract, and of which they had no notice or knowledge, cannot affect the measure of damages recoverable for their failure to deliver the vessel, so as to entitle the charterer to recover the profit he would have made on ths re-charter, where freights had declined prior to the time when the vessel was required to be tendered, and the market rate was then definitely less than the charter rate, so that under the established rule no substantial damages were recoverable); The Georg Dumois, 115 Fed. 65, 52 C. C. A. 659; The Habil, 100 Fed. 120 (such as loss of commission which might have been made on sale of the cargo).

An unjustifiable deviation renders the vessel liable to the charterer for the increased premiums of insurance, and interest on his goods during the delay. Ardan Steamship Co. v. Theband, 35 Fed. 620.

87. The Giulio, 34 Fed. 909.

88. Parker v. McCaldin, 3 Misc. (N. Y.) 14, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 358; The A. Denicke, 138 Fed. 645, 71 C. C. A. 95.

89. The A. Denicke, 138 Fed. 645, 71 C. C. A. 95.

90. Watts v. Camors, 115 U. S. 353, 6 S. Ct. 91, 29 L. ed. 406 [affirming 10 Fed. 145] (holding that the clause in a charter-party by which the parties mutually bind themselves, the ship and freight, and the merchandise to be laden on board, "in the penal sum of estimated amount of freight," to be performed of all and every of their agreements, is not a stipulation for liquidated damages, but a penalty to secure the payment of the amount of damage that either party may actually suffer from any breach where the libellant fails to prove some actual damage suffered, notwithstanding the agreement binds the parties to a penalty for its breach,[91] cases in which loss of profits on the goods have been allowed as damages[92] being exceptional.[93] Where performance of the charter is entered into and the voyage is broken up by the ship-owners, and the charterer sues for breach of the contract, the measure of damages is compensation for the actual loss and expenses incurred in and about the voyage, the labor and services in procuring another vessel, and reasonable disbursements in the action beyond the taxed costs.[94] In an action for the breach of a charter because of the failure of the vessel to proceed with reasonable despatch, the rule of damages is the difference between the fair market value of the cargo at the port of destination on a day when the cargo ought to have been delivered, and its value at the time when the vessel arrived and was in readiness to make delivery.[95] Where the vessel was delayed by the defective condition of her machinery and the negligence of the engineer, the charterer was entitled to recover extra expenses and probable profits lost by the delay, and the owner may set off against this sum an unpaid balance due for the use of the vessel.[96]

c. Lien. Charterers have a lien on the vessel for damages caused by breach of the charter.[97] Thus where the owners of a vessel, the whole of which is chartered for a specific voyage, retain possession and control by appointment of her officers and men, and the master during the voyage takes on freight for an intermediate voyage not authorized by the charter-party, the charterer has a maritime lien on the vessel for the amount received by the owners for carrying such freight;[98] and if a vessel is chartered, and the master is agent of the owners, it is his duty to collect freight for the charterer, and the ship will be liable for a refusal to pay over on his part unless the master is made the charterer's agent by virtue of some express authority conferred on him by the charterer to act as his agent.[99] But a wholly executory charter for the transportation of merchandise does not create a maritime lien on the vessel,[1] as where no goods are put on board;[2] and a breach of contract for the hire of a vessel which never entered on the performance, although part of the consideration was paid, does not create a lien on the vessel of the contract, and is to be so treated in a court of admiralty of the United States, whatever may be the rule in the courts of the particular state in which the contract is made and the court of admiralty sits); Chadwick v. The Adelaide, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,571. But see Nielson v. Read, 12 Fed. 441.

91. Chadwick v. The Adelaide, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,571.

92. Ye Seng Co. v. Corbitt, 9 Fed. 423, 7 Sawy. 368 (holding that where charterers procured passengers at rates that would have netted a gain, and these gains they were prevented from making by failure of owner to perform the contract, the loss was a damage to plaintiff, which he is entitled to recover); Oakes v. Richardson, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,390, 2 Lowell 173.

93. Chadwick v. The Adelaide, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,571 [following The Tribune, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 14,171, 3 Sumn. 144], holding that in an action on a charter-party for a breach thereof by reason of the refusal of the master to commence the voyage, the due performance of the voyage being subject to many future contingencies, estimated profits cannot be computed as an element of damage.

94. The Tribune, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 14,171, 3 Sumn. 144.

95. The Success, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,586, 7 Blatchf. 551.

96. Seaman v. Slater, 49 Fed. 37.

97. The Augustine Kobbe, 37 Fed. 696; The Panama, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,703, Olcott 343 (holding that damages sustained by a charterer of a ship, in the loss or delay of his voyage through the negligence or fault of the owner, are a lien on the vessel; and if a mortgagee satisfies the demand, and takes an assignment of the claim, he is entitled to come on remnants in court for repayment); The Oregon v. Pittsburg, etc., Iron Co., 55 Fed. 666, 5 C. C. A. 229.

One chartering a vessel with knowledge of existing liens must, when the voyage is broken up by seizure by creditors, have his damage by breach of charter subordinated to the earlier claims; but he will be allowed moneys advanced for the necessities of the vessel, and will be paid pari passu with these liens. The Augustine Kobbe, 39 Fed. 559.

98. The Port Adelaide, 62 Fed. 486, 10 C. C. A. 505.

99. The Maiden City, 33 Fed. 715.

1. Hannah v. The Carrington, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,029 (holding that there is no lien on the vessel for the performance of a charter until a lawful contract is made); The Pauline, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,848, 1 Biss. 390.

2. The Asa Eldridge, 8 Fed. 720; Hannah v. The Carrington, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,029.

enforceable in admiralty.[3] There is no lien on a vessel for breach of a charter which has been partly performed by the carriage and delivery of one or more of, but not all, the cargoes to be carried.[4]

2. By Charterer — a. What Constitutes and Effect Thereof; Waiver. In like manner as a breach of the charter by the owner gives a cause of action against him and may justify him in repudiating the contract,[5] so its breach by the charterer gives similar rights against him to the owner; such as an action for damages;[6] and the owner may be justified in refusing on his part to comply with the terms of the contract;[7] and if the charterer puts a cargo on board, and then takes it out and refuses to fulfil the charter-party, and the charter-party gives to the owner a lien on the cargo for a breach by the charterer, the lien attaches as soon as the cargo is put on board, and the owner can libel the cargo in rem in admiralty for the breach.[8] The breach may, however, be waived by the owner;[9] and where the charterer offers a substantial compliance the owner cannot recover damages as for a breach of the charter;[10] and notwithstanding a charter is invalid, the charterer may by subsequent negotiation be liable as on a new contract to reimburse the ship-owner for time and expenses incurred in attempting performance.[11] But an effort on the part of owners of a vessel, which the lessees refuse to accept when

3. The William Fletcher, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,692, 8 Ben. 537.

4. The Thomas P. Sheldon, 113 Fed. 779 [modified in 118 Fed. 945].

5. See supra, III, L, 1, a.

6. Wilhelmsen v. Tweedie Trading Co., 149 Fed. 928; Kennedy v. Weston, 136 Fed. 166, 69 C. C. A. 78; Bonanno v. Tweedie Trading Co., 130 Fed. 448, 64 C. C. A. 650 [affirming 117 Fed. 991]; Thompson v. Bush, 60 Fed. 631 [affirmed in 65 Fed. 812, 13 C. C. A. 148] (holding that under a charter-party requiring the charterer to furnish a full cargo of lumber to be loaded by the vessel, the shipper has no right, in the absence of express stipulation or established usage, to refuse to furnish the cargo because of the employment by the master of a stevedore who, although competent and experienced, is personally objectionable to the shipper); Bramhall v. Shaler, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,805*a* (holding that where by a charter one half the charter-money is to be paid by the consignees at the place of destination, and the consignees refuse to accept the consignment, the charter is violated and a right of action accrues to the owner of the vessel). Compare Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 159 Fed. 706, 86 C. C. A. 574.

An action by the managing owners of a vessel described in a charter, for breach of charter, cannot be defeated by showing that the vessel was only owned in part by plaintiffs. Torras v. Raeburn, 108 Ga. 345, 33 S. E. 989.

Defense that charterer was induced to contract by fraud held not sustained by evidence see Dunbar v. Weston, 93 Fed. 472.

Facts held not to constitute a breach of the charter by the charterer see Dene Steam Shipping Co. v. Bucknall, 5 Com. Cas. 372.

7. Re Tyrer, 9 Aspin. 186, 6 Com. Cas. 143, 84 L. T. Rep. N. S. 653 [reversed on other grounds in 7 Com. Cas. 166, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 697, 18 T. L. R. 589], holding that the right of the owners to withdraw the steamer on the ground of non-payment of hire must be exercised within a reasonable time after the failure to pay. See The Donald, 115 Fed. 744, holding, however, that a charterer, who takes a vessel for a voyage on an agreement simply to assume a payment of charter hire, for which a former time charterer was then in default, is not bound by the terms of the time charter, and, in the absence of any demand by the owner for payment of hire in advance, is not in default for non-payment before arrival of the vessel, so as to justify the owner in refusing to comply with the terms of his agreement.

Where a charterer without justification refuses to accept the vessel when tendered for loading, the owner is not bound to accept such renunciation of the contract, but may at his option treat it as still in force; and in such case he is not required to accept other employment for the vessel until the lay days for loading allowed by the charter have expired, and there has been an actual breach of the contract by the charterer. Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22].

8. The Hermitage, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,410, 4 Blatchf. 474.

9. Chamberlain v. Pettit, 49 Fed. 109 (where, however, the facts were held not to constitute waiver); Nova Scotia Steel Co. v. Sutherland Steam Shipping Co., 5 Com. Cas. 106.

10. Isis Steamship Co. v. Bahr, [1899] 2 Q. B. 364, 4 Com. Cas. 307, 68 L. J. Q. B. 930, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 241, 15 T. L. R. 465 [affirmed in [1900] A. C. 340, 9 Aspin. 109, 5 Com. Cas. 277, 69 L. J. Q. B. 660, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 571, 16 T. L. R. 381]; Dobell v. Green, 8 Aspin. 473, 4 Com. Cas. 85, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 19, 15 T. L. R. 158 [affirmed in [1900] 1 Q. B. 526, 9 Aspin. 53, 5 Com. Cas. 161, 69 L. J. Q. B. 454, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S. 314, 16 T. L. R. 204].

11. Wilson v. Leroy, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,817, 1 Brock. 447.

tendered in accordance with the charter, so to use the vessel after the charterer's default as to reduce their damages is not an acquiescence in the default, defeating their right to a recovery for breach of the charter.[12]

b. Damages. The damages to be awarded for the violation of a charter must be estimated by the rules of the commercial and admiralty law, and be the actual damage suffered, unless the law of the place of contract governs the measure of damages,[13] the charterer being liable for all damage flowing as a natural and probable consequence from the breach.[14] Thus the measure of damages for a total breach of a charter by the charterer by refusing to accept the vessel is the net amount that would have been earned by the vessel under the charter, less the net amount earned, or which might with reasonable diligence have been earned, during the time required for the making of the voyage under the charter.[15] The char-

12. Orr v. Wilson, 48 La. Ann. 1313, 20 So. 724; Woolsey v. Finke, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 112.

13. Watts v. Camors, 115 U. S. 353, 6 S. Ct. 91, 29 L. ed. 406 [affirming 10 Fed. 145], holding that the clause in a charter-party by which the parties mutually bind themselves, the ship and freight and the merchandise to be laden on board, "in the penal sum of estimated amount of freight," to the performance of all and every of their agreements, is not a stipulation for liquidated damages, but a penalty to secure the payment of the amount of damage that either party may actually suffer from any breach of the contract, and is to be so treated in a court of admiralty of the United States, whatever may be the rule in the courts of the particular state in which the contract is made and the court of admiralty sits.

Where by the terms of the charter-party the charterer agreed to insure the advanced freight at the ship's expense, it being deducted from the freight money paid, but failed to do so until long after the risk had commenced, by reason whereof the owner was compelled to insure for his own protection, the owner can recover of the charterer the amount paid by him for insurance. Lawson v. Worms, 6 Cal. 365.

If the charter does not stipulate as to time of arrival of the vessel at the port of lading, and the vessel arrives at such port after the season of shipping has gone by, the unusual delay having been caused by a violent storm, the court, in computing the damages in an action against the charterer for failure to furnish a cargo, will take into consideration the failure of the master to inform the charterers of the delay caused by the storm, where the vessel was put into an intermediate port for repairs. Hall v. Hurlbut, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,936, Taney 589.

14. Bacon v. Ennis, 110 Fed. 404 [reversed on other grounds in 114 Fed. 260, 52 C. C. A. 146], holding that under a charter which required the ship to go to the port of loading, "or as near as she can safely go," and required the charterer to load a full cargo of ore, where the ship could not load a full cargo at the berth assigned her by the charterer, because of a bar in the harbor which she could not cross, it was the duty of the charterer to complete her load outside the bar, no custom to the contrary being shown, and his failure to do so renders him liable for dead freight, and the owner is entitled to recover from a charterer the amount necessarily expended by the master in trimming a cargo after loading, made necessary by the fact that the cargo was not in proper condition, or that the ship was loaded at a place where she could not "always lie afloat," as required by the charter.

Wharfage.— In an action by the owner of a vessel against the charterer, on an agreement to pay wharfage, where the cause of action is laid on the breach of the express agreement, and not on any implied contract of indemnity, the measure of plaintiff's damages is the amount of wharfage, with interest, exclusive of the amount plaintiff was compelled to pay to release the boat from attachment. Compton v. Heissenbuttel, 2 Misc. (N. Y.) 340, 21 N. Y. Suppl. 965 [reversing 1 Misc. 81, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 402].

15. Barker v. Borzone, 48 Md. 474; Cornwall v. Moore, 125 Fed. 646; Leblond v. McNear, 104 Fed. 826 [affirmed in 123 Fed. 384, 61 C. C. A. 564]; Dalbeattie Steamship Co. v. Card, 59 Fed. 159; Greenwell v. Ross, 34 Fed. 656 (holding that in an action for refusal to furnish cargo according to the terms of a charter-party, libellant may recover for difference of freight between a cargo obtained and that contracted for, less freight refused because of space occupied by extra fuel required to make a longer voyage, but not for expenses incurred to fix defendant's liability, the ship being unconditionally refused, nor for demurrage, when the ship was loaded in less time after the contract was repudiated than was allowed by the charter-party); Jordan v. Eaton, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,520, 2 Hask. 236.

Vessel rechartered to original charterer.— Where, on the refusal of a charterer, without legal cause, to accept the vessel, she was at once advertised for charter and rechartered to the same person, for the same voyage, at a lower rate, and made the voyage, the measure of damages for breach of the first charter is the difference between the freight she would have received under such charter and the amount actually earned under the second up to the time when the voyage under the first would have been completed, the expenses of the two voyages being presumably terer of a vessel for a particular voyage, who agrees to furnish a full cargo at a specified rate, is answerable if he fails to do so, to the owner of the vessel for what it could have taken safely, had a full cargo been furnished at the stipulated rates, allowing the net earnings of the vessel during the time it would have been occupied in performing the stipulated voyage.[16] But where, in violation of a charter-party, a full cargo is not furnished, the master, who does not show on what terms he has engaged with other parties, can recover only his primage and the excess of the freight in the charter-party over the current rates when the contract is broken.[17] It is the duty of the master of a chartered vessel, on failure of the charterer to furnish a cargo as agreed, to use all ordinary means and diligence to secure another cargo, and his neglect to do this will not be allowed to enhance the damages in an action by the owner against the charterer for the breach of contract.[18]

M. Loss of or Injury to Cargo; Lien. The owners of a chartered vessel, retaining control of her navigation, are liable for injuries or loss of cargo attributable to their fault or a non-excepted peril.[19] Thus they are liable for injury to or loss of cargo occasioned by unaccustomed and dangerous goods subsequently taken on board, the charterer not consenting,[20] by unseaworthiness,[21] improper the same; and where the one actually made was under ordinary conditions it furnishes competent evidence of the time which would have been required under the first charter. Leblond v. McNear, 104 Fed. 826 [affirmed in 123 Fed. 384, 61 C. C. A. 564].

16. Ashburner v. Balchen, 7 N. Y. 262.

17. Wilson v. Cammack, 7 La. Ann. 155.

18. Murrell v. Whiting, 32 Ala. 54. But see Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22, 75 C. C. A. 180], holding that while the owner of a vessel which the charterer has refused to accept is bound to use diligence in rechartering, he is not required to accept an offer made during the lay days contracted for in the charter, because of a letter of refusal from the charterer based on an erroneous assumption of fact and an erroneous construction of the charter, where the owner had reason to suppose the grounds assigned would be removed or not insisted on when properly understood, and specially when the charter offered would require the vessel to proceed to another port for loading.

Burden of proof.—The law imposes on a charterer who has without justification refused to accept the vessel the burden of proving in mitigation of damages that the owner could with reasonable diligence have reduced or prevented the loss or damage occasioned by his breach of the contract. Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22, 75 C. C. A. 180].

Where the owner before the expiration of the term sold the vessel, he could not recover the contract rental after the date of such sale, which placed it out of his power either to perform the contract thereafter, or to reduce the damages for its breach, as he was bound to do, by otherwise using or leasing the vessel, if that could be done in the exercise of reasonable diligence. William H. Beard Dredging Co. v. Hughes, 121 Fed. 808, 58 C. C. A. 192.

19. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

Under a charter exempting the owner from liability due to accident to machinery, his failure to promptly notify the charterer of a break-down at sea which delayed arrival at the port of loading for several days, did not render him liable for a loss of bananas which had been cut in anticipation of her earlier arrival, there being no provision of the charter requiring such notice. The Disa, 153 Fed. 322. But see The Ask, 156 Fed. 678.

The owner may exempt himself in England from liability for accident to the hull, and for negligence of pilot, mariners, or other person employed by the ship-owner or for whose acts he is responsible, and that the owners will be protected by the words "at charterers' risk." Wade v. Cockerline, 10 Com. Cas. 115, 21 T. L. R. 296, 53 Wkly. Rep. 420.

The fact of damage to a cargo by rats is evidence that sufficient care and skill were not exercised to rid the vessel of rats. The Carlotta, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,413, 9 Ben. 1. But see Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinckney, 170 Fed. 266, 95 C. C. A. 462, commenting on this case.

Libellant's claim must be limited strictly to the cargo proved damaged, where, after request, he failed to make full examination in his power as to the extent of the damage. The Marinin S., 28 Fed. 664.

Where a charterer agreed to pay any damages that the vessel may be subjected to, arising from cargo in casks being stowed between-decks and running on other cargo, the vessel is, notwithstanding this agreement, liable for damage caused to cargo in the lower hold by the leakage of lard from the casks and through the deck, if the deck is not well and sufficiently calked. Moses v. Boyd, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,871, 5 Blatchf. 357 [affirmed in 7 Wall. 316, 19 L. ed. 192].

20. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

21. Tygert-Allen Fertilizer Co. v. Hagan, 103 Fed. 663. And see The City of Lincoln v. Smith, [1904] A. C. 250, 9 Aspin. 586, 73 L. J. P. C. 45, 91 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, holding that the owner of a chartered ship, in herself seaworthy, but rendered unseaworthy by the improper loading of cargo and ballast which is carried out under his orders, is stowage,[22] or towage.[23] But where the charterer becomes owner pro hac vice, he cannot recover from the owner for a shortage in delivery of or damage to cargo;[24] and where a ship is chartered to carry the goods of a single freighter only on a particular voyage, she is not a common carrier, but is subject only to the express and implied obligations of the charter-party and bill of lading;[25] and the owner may stipulate against negligence of his servants.[26] But notwithstanding the charterer has control of the boat for the period of the contract, the boat is liable in rem to him for an injury to the cargo caused by the master's failure to keep her in thorough repair under an agreement by him so to do.[27] If a vessel is let on a contract of affreightment by charter-party, the owners will not be held responsible for a loss occasioned by the violence of the elements, although the dangers of the seas are not expressly excepted by the charter-party;[28] and where the circumstances liable for damage occasioned by his personal negligence.

22. Corsar v. Spreckels, 141 Fed. 260, 72 C. C. A. 378 (holding that a ship is responsible for the proper stowage of her cargo, although the charter-party gives the charterer the option of appointing the stevedores, to be paid by the owners, where it also provides that they shall be under the direction of the master and the owners responsible for all risks of loading and stowage); Bethel v. Mellor, 131 Fed. 129 (holding also that a provision of a charter-party that the master shall employ the charterers' stevedores at ports of loading, and discharge and pay them stated compensation, "the stevedores to be wholly under the direction and control of the master," does not affect the liability of the ship or owners for improper stowage); The Sloga, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,955, 10 Ben. 315.

Stowage held not improper see The Keystone, 31 Fed. 412.

The charterer of a vessel who ships an article new in commerce whose dangerous character is unknown, either to him or the owner, is liable for injury to other cargo coming in contact therewith, and the increased expenditure in discharging caused by its peculiar character; for where damage is sustained in a case not falling within the category of an inevitable accident, and neither party is in actual fault, the loss must fall on him who, from the relation he bears to the transaction, is supposed to have been possessed of the necessary knowledge to avoid the difficulty. Pierce v. Winsor, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,150, 2 Cliff. 18 [affirming 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,151, 2 Sprague 35].

23. Rodgers v. Bouker Contracting Co., 134 Fed 702.

24. Golcar Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 146 Fed. 563; The Caroline Miller, 53 Fed. 136; Starin's City, etc., Transp. Co. v. The Daniel Burns, 52 Fed. 159 [affirmed in 56 Fed. 605, 6 C. C. A. 49].

25. The Dan, 40 Fed. 691 (holding that a vessel chartered to transport a specific cargo only is not a common carrier, and hence is not an insurer of the safe delivery of the cargo, and can be held for damage to cargo only on proof of negligence); Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249. And see Hart v. Leach, 21 Fed. 77.

26. The Fri, 154 Fed. 333, 82 C. C. A. 205.

27. Wood v. The Wilmington, 48 Fed. 566.

28. The Casco, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,486, 2 Ware 188.

What constitutes a peril of the sea absolving the owner.— In the absence of a clause in the charter-party providing for the cleansing of the vessel in a specified manner, or for taking only specified cargo, or for freeing the vessel from petroleum damage to specified cargo, damage from petroleum occasioned by leakage, diffusion, or impregnation is not a peril of the sea. The Lizzie W. Virden, 11 Fed. 903. And see Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinkney, 170 Fed. 266, 95 C. C. A. 462. But damage to cargo by sea water entering ventilator holes, after the ventilators had been carried away by a heavy sea which came aboard in a gale, was the result of a peril of the seas, for which the ship was not liable, where it appeared that the firmness of the ventilators had been thoroughly tested by shaking, and by examination of the flanges and the screws and bolts securing them to the deck, although the screws and bolts were not taken out for inspection. Darragh v. The Dunbritton, 73 Fed. 352, 19 C. C. A. 449 [affirming 61 Fed. 764, and distinguishing The Edwin I. Morrison, 153 U. S. 199, 14 S. Ct. 823, 38 L. ed. 688]. And loss by jettison if justified also comes within the meaning of the term. Bursley v. The Marlborough, 47 Fed. 667. As does also damage by oil, which, although properly stowed, escaped by natural and usual leakage into the hold, and was afterward carried up into contact with the cargo by water that entered the ship in consequence of a sea peril. Darragh v. The Dunbritton, supra. Where a vessel arrived with her cargo damaged both above and below by water in the hold, she was not held liable for the damage above caused by water taken in through deck openings in heavy weather, but was liable for the damage below caused by a bad condition of the ship's pump and valve, that condition existing at the commencement of the voyage, and it appearing that reasonable care had not been taken to remove the water when it was found that the pumps were choked. American Sugar Refining Co. v. The Euripides, 52 Fed. 161.

Evidence held not to sustain the defense that damage was occasioned by peril of the attending the loss would amply account for damage to the cargo, in the absence of satisfactory proof that the damage therefrom arose from other causes, it will be attributed to peril of the seas;[29] but if the owners are chargeable with any neglect or fault without which the loss would not have happened they will be liable.[30] In every contract of affreightment, whether by charter-party or bill of lading, the ship is by the marine law hypothecated to the shipper for any damage his goods may sustain from the insufficiency of the vessel or the fault of the master or crew.[31]

N. Loss of or Injury to Vessel — 1. Nature and Extent of Liability. When a charter-party is a demise the charterer is liable for loss of or injury to the vessel, when the vessel is laid up equally as when on voyage.[32] In other cases the general rule that a bailee for hire is not liable for the loss of the property without his fault is applicable in the absence of any express provision therein affecting the question, other than the usual covenant for return of the property at the end of the term, which is a condition of all bailments, implied if not expressed,[33] and there cannot be a recovery from a charterer for injuries to the vessel as a general rule, without proof of negligence,[34] nor for inevitable accident.[35] sea see The Edwin I. Morrison, 153 U. S. 199, 14 S. Ct. 823, 38 L. ed. 688 [reversing 40 Fed. 501]; Bregaro v. The Centurion, 68 Fed. 382, 15 C. C. A. 480 [reversing 57 Fed. 412], where sugar in the hold received damage caused by a severe squall, which heaved the ship at an angle of forty-five degrees, whereby some of the casks of molasses were broken and their contents ran down the scupper pipes into the bilges of the hold beneath, so that the bilges and sluiceways became clogged with molasses, causing it to flow over the bottom of the hold and dissolve the sugar.

The owners may expressly except perils of the sea (The Chasca, 23 Fed. 156), or damage from breaking of machinery (Chadwick v. Denniston, 41 Fed. 58).

29. Evans v. Spreckels, 45 Fed. 265.

30. The Casco, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,486, 2 Ware 188.

31. The New York, 93 Fed. 495; The Casco, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,486, 2 Ware 188.

Where, under a charter amounting to a demise or lease of the vessel, the charterer pays for damages to cargo, resulting from the fault of the ship, as from her unseaworthiness, he is subrogated to the lien of the cargo-owner therefor, his relation to the ship as to such damages being that of surety. The New York, 93 Fed. 495.

32. Ames v. New Orleans, etc., Transp. Co., 36 La. Ann. 479.

33. Worrall v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., 113 Fed. 549 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 436, 58 C. C. A. 418] (a case of subcharter); Lake Michigan Car Ferry Co. v. Crosby, 107 Fed. 723.

Where a vessel was chartered for waters where the owner knew she would be in danger from the action of ship-worms, but he was willing to have her remain in service as long as he was paid the agreed compensation, it was held that he took all the risks of destruction from the worms, and could not recover for the hull, which was destroyed by worms. Pratt's Case, 3 Ct. Cl. 105.

A charterer of a vessel under a verbal charter being bound as a bailee for hire to use reasonable care and diligence to protect the property from injury is liable for its loss by being crushed by floating ice, where it was left on the north side of a pier generally regarded as dangerous on an ebb tide when there was ice moving in the river. Bleakley v. New York, 139 Fed. 807.

The fact that a time charterer of a vessel subchartered her, to be used as a newspaper despatch boat in time of war, such employment being lawful, does not render him liable for a loss or injury arising from sea perils, merely because in such service she was subjected to different perils from those she would have encountered if she had been employed in the carrying of cargoes. The Ely, 122 Fed. 447, 58 C. C. A. 429 [affirming 110 Fed. 563], where the evidence was held to support a decree holding that the time charterer of a steamer was not liable for injury to the vessel by stranding, claimed on the ground that she was subchartered without authority, for an unlawful purpose, and that at the time of the stranding she was employed by the subcharterer in service, in violation of the neutrality laws in time of war.

34. W. H. Beard Dredging Co. v. Hughes, 113 Fed. 680 [affirmed in 121 Fed. 808, 58 C. C. A. 192] (holding, however, that a charterer is liable for an injury to the chartered vessel through the negligence of a company which he hired to tow the same); Jackson v. Easton, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,134, 7 Ben. 191 (holding that where the charterers of a canal-boat agree to pay a specified sum per day for the use of the boat, and there is no express contract by the charterers to tow the boat safely or to return her in good condition, the charterers are not liable to the owner where she is sunk by the explosion of the boiler of a tug which they had employed to tow her, where it appears that the charterers were free from negligence).

35. Booth v. New York, 127 Fed. 459.

An injury to a vessel which could have been foreseen, and might reasonably have been expected in the ordinary course of events, cannot be considered as happening through inevitable accident within the meaning of this rule. Bleakley v. New York, 139 Fed. 807.

The charterer is, however, liable for an injury to the vessel sustained in a voyage not authorized by the charter-party [36] or where the vessel used in a manner other than for the use for which it was chartered,[37] independently of any question of negligence; [38] and the fact that a charterer puts the chartered vessel to a different use from that specified in the charter renders him liable to the owner as an insurer for an injury to the vessel.[39] The charterer is of course liable for loss resulting from negligence on his part or through his servants or employees,[40] but not for 36. Latson v. Sturm, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,115, 2 Ben. 327.

37. Beach v. Raritan, etc., R. Co., 37 N. Y. 457, holding the charterer liable where the vessel hired as a receiving barge was used for transporting, and in such use was lost.

38. Beach v. Raritan, etc., R. Co., 37 N. Y. 457.

39. Sutcliff v. Seligman, 121 Fed. 803, 58 C. C. A. 251 [reversing 110 Fed. 560]. But see The Ely, 110 Fed. 563 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 447, 58 C. C. A. 429], holding that, as between owner and charterer, the charterer's violation of the terms of the charter does not make him responsible for damages by marine perils in no way brought about by such violation.

40. Swenson v. Ward, 48 Misc. (N. Y.) 534, 96 N. Y. Suppl. 175; The Three Brothers, 145 Fed. 177, 76 C. C. A. 147 [affirming 134 Fed. 1001] (holding a city liable for injury to a hired scow from floating ice while being moved by its direction to a safer place in a river by a tug also in its employ, which performed its work in a proper manner, on the ground that the city failed to exercise ordinary care as bailee in permitting the scow to remain until such time in a place which was dangerous in winter time when ice was running); International Contracting Co. v. Walsh, 115 Fed. 851 (holding, however, that while a hirer of scows which went adrift by reason of the insufficiency of the lines with which they were equipped by the owner, if negligent in failing to make an effort to recover the vessels, or promptly to notify the owner of their loss is liable for damages approximately resulting from such negligence or delay, the contract cannot be considered as remaining in force thereafter, so as to render him liable for further fire); Phœnix Towing, etc., Co. v. New York, 60 Fed. 1019.

Where the charterers at the termination of the lease undertake to deliver the vessel to the owner at a port other than that named in the lease and where the boat then was, although at the owner's request and without charge, they remain liable until the delivery of the vessel for any injury through their negligence or failure to exercise such maritime skill and care in towing from one port to the other as was reasonable under the conditions and circumstances existing at the time. Cotton v. Almy, 141 Fed. 358, 72 C. C. A. 506.

A charterer who, without the consent of the owner or master, in loading, subjects her masts to strains far above their computed working strength, takes the risk and responsibility. Bollman v. Tweedie Trading Co., 150 Fed. 434; British Maritime Trust v. Munson Steamship Line, 149 Fed. 533. See also Bull v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 167 Fed. 792, 93 C. C. A. 182.

The burden is on the charterer as a bailee to show that the loss was caused without any negligence on his part. Swenson v. Snare, etc., Co., 160 Fed. 459, 87 C. C. A. 443 [affirming 145 Fed. 727]. But see International Contracting Co. v. Walsh, 115 Fed. 851, holding that an injury to scows, resulting from their going adrift by reason of the parting of their lines while being towed in from the dumping grounds, in the absence of proof of negligent handling of the tow, or that the sea was in such condition as to render it negligence in the hirer to attempt their navigation, was presumably due to their not being equipped by the owner with suitable lines; and to charge the hirer with liability therefor the burden rests upon the owner to show clearly that the risk of injury from such cause was assumed by the hirer.

Illustrations.—Within this rule the charterer has been held liable for damage from landing at an unusual place, with which the master was unacquainted, and striking upon rocks near the shore without the fault of the master (Fox v. Damm, 105 Fed. 254), improper loading (Interstate Transp. Co. v. New Orleans, 52 La. Ann. 1859, 28 So. 310; Lake Michigan Car Ferry Transp. Co. v. Crosby, 107 Fed. 723), stranding (Dailey v. New York, 128 Fed. 796; Bouker v. Smith, 40 Fed. 839 [affirmed in 49 Fed. 954, 1 C. C. A. 481]; negligent towage by a company employed by the charterer (The Naos, 144 Fed. 292 (holding that a charterer who contracts to furnish certain towage to the chartered vessel cannot relieve himself from responsibility for the manner in which the service is performed by employing a tug to perform it, but is liable for any damage or injury caused to the vessel through the negligence or fault of such tug); Thompson v. Winslow, 128 Fed. 73), or by the charterer himself (Swenson v. Snare, etc., Co., 145 Fed. 727 [affirmed in 160 Fed. 459, 87 C. C. A. 443], where the capsizing of a pile-driver while being towed by respondent company to which it had been chartered was held, under the evidence, not due to unseaworthiness, but to improper towing in turning the pile-driver too suddenly, which rendered respondent liable for the damages), unskilful handling (King v. Connabeer, 148 Fed. 136, where an injury to the owner's coal barge was due to the fault of the charterer in moving her while discharging in a river at a time when the tide was too strong, in consequence of which she broke the lines and drifted against a bridge pier), or berthing (Carroll v. Holway, 158 Fed. 328, holding loss due to negligence of the owner's servants;[41] and the owner of a vessel has no recourse against the charterer to recover damages adjudged against her because of her unseaworthiness for the use to which she was put, where he knew of such use when the charter was made, and the charterer is not otherwise shown to have been negligent.[42] The mere fact that the charterer of a vessel, in pursuance of the charter, has insured it for the benefit of the owner, does not constitute a defense to an action against the former for failure to return the vessel according to his contract, where it has been destroyed by act of God before the time for its return, unless it is also shown that the owner has received the insurance money;[43] nor does the fact that the owner of a wrecked vessel had undertaken formally to abandon the wreck to the underwriters affect the rights or liabilities of the charterer under a charter which provided that he should have the insurance extended if it should expire before the voyage should be completed, and should deliver up the vessel in as good condition as when it was hired, natural wear and tear excepted.[44] The parties may themselves regulate the liability for loss of or injury to the vessel the charterers of a vessel who were charged by the charter-party with the duty of discharging her and with furnishing her with a suitable berth liable for her injury while lying in a dock to which they assigned her, and which was not used by vessels of her size, by reason of the dangerous condition of the bottom where they failed to exercise reasonable care, or, in fact, any care, to ascertain its condition), failure to keep a tug in readiness whereby the vessel sunk (H. M. Loud, etc., Lumber Co. v. Peter, 20 Ohio Cir. Ct. 73, 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 155), and loss by fire because of the negligence of the charterers' servants in handling a gasoline stove provided for culinary purposes (Foret v. Mathes, 159 Fed. 128, 86 C. C. A. 333)

Where one of the coöwners of a vessel charters it, he is liable to the others for the destruction of the vessel, caused by his negligence while acting as master. Williams v. Hays, 143 N. Y. 442, 38 N. E. 449, 42 Am. St. Rep. 743, 26 L. R. A. 153.

41. Auten v. Bennett, 88 N. Y. App. Div. 15, 84 N. Y. Suppl. 689 (holding that where, under the terms of a charter-party, the owner of the vessel furnishes the crew, which controls the navigation, the charterer is not liable for depreciation resulting from the crew's negligence, although the owner agrees "to deliver" the vessel to the charterer, who agrees to return her in as good condition as when received, and even though a charterer agreed to return the vessel in as good condition as when received, his liability does not extend to depreciation resulting from unseaworthiness, since every charter-party contains an implied warranty of seaworthiness); Dene Steamship Co. v. Munson, 103 Fed. 983. And see Bleakley v. Sheridan, 120 N. Y. App. Div. 471, 104 N. Y. Suppl. 1060, holding that where plaintiff chartered a scow to defendant and furnished a captain to care for her, it was the captain's duty to take proper care of the scow during a storm, notwithstanding defendant had broken her contract not to send the scow to a specified place. Compare Hastorf v. Moore, 92 Fed. 398, holding that where the charterer's employees who, under the charter, had control of the movements of a scow hired from the owner, for convenience in unloading awung the stern inshore, where she grounded on some spiles and was injured, the presence of a boatman or scowman employed by the owner did not relieve the charterer from liability, where such man exercised no authority as to the movement of the scow, and had no knowledge of the presence of the spiles.

Illustrations.—Within this rule the charterer has been held not to be liable where the loss was caused by improper loading by the owner's master (Dunwoody v. Saunders, 50 Fla. 202, 39 So. 965; Dene Steam Shipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 133 Fed. 589 [affirmed in 143 Fed. 854, 74 C. C. A. 606]; Dene Steamship Co. v. Munson, 103 Fed. 983), by stranding (Glover v. Thomas, 63 N. Y. 642), by negligent pilotage by owner's pilot (Martin v. Farnsworth, 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 246, 41 How. Pr. 59 [affirmed in 49 N. Y. 555]; Pendleton v. The Martin Kalbfleisch, 55 Fed. 336, 5 C. C. A. 120; Fraser v. Bee, 17 T. L. R. 101, 49 Wkly. Rep. 336, where the pilot, although paid by the charterers, was held not to be their servant, and therefore the charterers were not bound to pay hire during the period that the ship was in dock undergoing repairs), by negligence of the owner's master in leaving her tied up at a dock by a line which was too short, by reason of which when the tide fell she careened, filled, and sank (Zabriskie v. New York, 160 Fed. 235), or by lack of care by the owner's master in failing to use proper means to protect the vessel during loading (Worrall v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., 122 Fed. 436, 58 C. C. A. 418 [affirming 113 Fed. 549].

42. The Willie, 134 Fed. 759.

Where the owner's master waives the objection that a port is unsafe, the owners of the vessel cannot recover damages for the injury received by the vessel in coming out of such port. Atkins v. Fibre Disintegrating Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 601, 2 Ben. 381 [affirmed in 18 Wall. 272, 21 L. ed. 841].

43. Steele v. Buck, 61 Ill. 343, 14 Am. Rep. 60.

44. Marquette First Nat. Bank v. Stewart, 26 Mich. 83.

in which case the contract will control;[45] and a stipulation, in a charter demising a vessel, by which the risk of loss or damage to the vessel through the negligence of the master, which the law would otherwise cast upon the charterer, is assumed by the owner, is not invalid as against public policy.[46] An agreement in a charter-party to deliver the vessel to its owner in good condition, on the termination of the charter, is not an absolute promise by the charterer to deliver; he is absolved if the vessel is destroyed without his fault before the expiration of the contract;[47] and a stipulation in a contract for the hiring of a vessel for a specified time, binding the hirer to return her in as good condition as when taken, reasonable use, wear, and tear excepted, does not entitle the owner to refuse to accept the vessel when tendered back, and to recover her value, because of a breach of such stipulation, but only to recover the damages arising from the breach.[48]

45. Goddin v. Welton, 34 Mo. 448 (holding that where a charter-party contained the words, "In case of a loss of the said boat she will be at the risk of the owners," and the boat sank without the fault of those having control of her, who ineffectually made such attempts to raise her as they could, this was a loss within the meaning of the charter-party, as defeating the object of the contract, which was the use of her during the season); Leeds v. Hills, 158 Fed. 1020, 85 C. C. A. 489 [affirming 149 Fed. 878] (holding that where a charter-party required the hirer to redeliver the yacht to her owner in the same condition in which he received her, and when she was delivered the blades of both her propellers were bent, her owner was entitled to recover the expense incident to the repair thereof); Detroit v. Grummond, 121 Fed. 963, 58 C. C. A. 301 (holding that under a provision of a contract for the hiring of a vessel to be moored and used for a hospital, binding the city, which was the hirer, to pay a stipulated sum as the value of the vessel in case she should be "lost or destroyed" by the fault of the hirer, the city did not become bound to pay for the vessel because of a damage by fire through the negligence of its servants, not amounting to a total loss or destruction of the vessel).

An absolute obligation to return a vessel at the expiration of the term of hiring is imposed upon the charterer, failure to comply with which is not excused because the vessel is lost without fault on his part, by a charter-party which, after providing for the surrender of the vessel at the expiration of the term "in as good condition as at the start, fair wear and tear from reasonable and proper use only excepted," and requiring the hirer to make all repairs and to assume liability for all loss and damages, fixes in express terms the value of the vessel, and makes provision for security to protect against any loss or damage sustained by a failure of the hirer to fulfil any of the obligations which the contract imposes. Moore v. Sun Printing, etc., Assoc., 101 Fed. 591, 41 C. C. A. 506 [affirmed in 183 U. S. 642, 22 S. Ct. 240, 46 L. ed. 366].

Under a covenant to restore the vessel "dangers of the seas excepted," the charterer is liable for the value of the vessel in case of its destruction by an accidental fire originating on board; such fire not being one of the dangers of the seas within the exception. Airey v. Merrill, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 115, 2 Curt. 8.

Duty to insure.— Under a charter-party providing that the charterer should return a boat at a specified time in as good condition as it now is, with the exception of the ordinary use and wear, the charterer was not bound to insure against the perils of the sea, and if the boat was lost in a storm, in the life of the charter, without his fault, he was not liable for its value. Ames v. Belden, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 513.

46. McCormick v. Shippy, 119 Fed. 226 [affirmed in 124 Fed. 48, 59 C. C. A. 568], holding also that a provision in a time charter-party for a yacht that the charterer shall "maintain the yacht in a thoroughly efficient state, in hull and machinery, for and during the service" binds him only to make the wear and tear repairs which would otherwise be imposed by law upon the owner, and is not in conflict with a clause exempting him from responsibility for loss or damage to the vessel.

47. Young v. Leary, 135 N. Y. 569, 32 N. E. 607, holding that if the delivery of the vessel by the charterer at the time specified was waived by the owner on account of negotiations for its sale to the charterer, and its loss occurred without his fault during the time thus impliedly extended, the charterer would not be liable, and consequently his surety could not be held; and the fact that the surety participated in the negotiations for sale, and thus was a party to the delay, is immaterial.

Striking trees and snags, and sinking, are maritime risks, assumed by the owner of a vessel in a charter-party; and liability therefor is not affected by the fact that at the time of the accidents a pilot furnished by the charterer is in charge, he not having been objected to by the owner or shown to have been unskilful or negligent. Strong v. U. S., 154 U. S. 632, 14 S. Ct. 1182, 24 L. ed. 664.

The charterer of a steamer to be used for wrecking purposes is bound only to ordinary diligence as a bailee for hire, and is not responsible for accidents caused by vis major. Browning v. Baker, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,041, 2 Hughes 30.

48. Detroit v. Grummond, 121 Fed. 963, 58 C. C. A. 301.

2. Damages. It is competent for the parties to a charter to fix the value of the vessel therein as a basis of damages in the event of her loss, and such valuation is conclusive upon them in the absence of fraud or mutual mistake, especially where the vessel has no determinable market value.[49] In a suit on a charter-party for breach of a covenant to return a vessel, she having been burned, the charter-money for the time preceding the destruction of the vessel may be allowed as damages, and the damages will not be reduced because the vessel, when burned, was lying on a shoal on which she had stranded, unless it affirmatively appear that her value was thereby materially diminished,[50] and the rule applied in marine insurance,[51] that the injury of a vessel constitutes a total loss, where the cost of repair would exceed half her value, is not applicable to the case of injury to a vessel under lease, so as to entitle the owner to recover her full value as stipulated in the lease in the event of total loss, at least where there was no abandonment to the lessees.[52]

O. Charter by Government — 1. In General. The general rules of operation and construction governing charters between private persons[53] apply to charters by the government;[54] and where the use of a vessel chartered by the government in time of war for transportation of passengers and stores is not limited to any particular waters, she may be sent up a river in aid of military forces.[55]

2. Charter-Money. The government is not liable for compensation during retention of the vessel by a marshal incident to a marine risk, which the owner expressly assumed;[56] nor after the voyage is broken up where the government is not owner pro hac vice and the compensation is for employment under pain of impressment with compensation per diem until the voyage is broken up.[57] If the charter amounts to a contract for hiring, and not for service, the government is bound to pay rent for a vessel furnished and accepted thereunder until final return to the contractor, although the vessel has been injured and laid up for repairs during

49. Moore v. Sun Printing, etc., Assoc., 101 Fed. 591, 41 C. C. A. 506 [affirmed in 183 U. S. 642, 22 S. Ct. 240, 46 L. ed. 366].

50. Merrill v. Arey, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,468, 3 Ware 215 [affirmed in 1 Fed. Cas. No. 115, 2 Curt. 8].

51. See Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 689.

52. Cotton v. Almy, 141 Fed. 358, 72 C. C. A. 506.

The finding of an assessor of the cost of repairs to a vessel made necessary by grounding through the fault of the charterer, based upon an itemized account for such repairs, with uncontradicted testimony that the account was paid, and that the repairs were all necessitated by the grounding, will not be disturbed. Thompson v. Winslow, 130 Fed. 1001 [affirmed in 134 Fed. 546, 67 C. C. A. 470].

53. See supra, III, D.

54. Fogg v. U. S., 5 Ct. Cl. 264, holding that where a charter-party between the government and an individual provided that the time of the vessel's service was "to cease from the time of notice to the master on board," and a quartermaster, being the consignee, neglected to give any notice and kept the vessel waiting a month in port, he had no legal authority to antedate her discharge, the loss was due to his neglect of duty, and the owners were entitled to recover hire to the time of actual discharge.

Munitions of war are "stores," and soldiers "passengers," within the charter of a vessel by the government in time of war. Strong v. U. S., 154 U. S. 632, 14 S. Ct. 1182, 24 L. ed. 664.

55. Strong v. U. S., 154 U. S. 632, 14 S. Ct. 1182, 24 L. ed. 664.

Where a vessel is equipped and chartered for the purpose of supplying troops with water, and agrees to deliver the water at such places as ordered, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the parties mutually intended the water to be supplied to soldiers on transports, wherever they might be at sea, if necessity required, although delivery be attended with risks. Donald v. U. S., 39 Ct. Cl. 357.

56. Goodwin v. U. S., 17 Wall. (U. S.) 515, 21 L. ed. 669, where the marshal held the vessel under a libel brought for failure to pay a bottomry bond for repairs to stop a leak.

57. Reed v. U. S., 11 Wall. (U. S.) 591, 20 L. ed. 220, holding that an order by the government to the owners of a vessel, during war, to get her ready, under pain of impressment, to transport a cargo, under which order she sails under protest with her owners, officers, and crew, does not make the government owners for the voyage, but leaves the possession with the general owners under a contract for per diem compensation from the commencement of the voyage until it was broken up, including also as many days in addition as would have been spent, if no disaster had occurred, in completing the trip.

part of the time it was in the service of the government.[58] Where the government agrees that the stipulated hire of a barge impressed into service shall be at a specified rate per diem until the barge be returned or accounted for, it is charged with the duty of notifying the owners of the loss of the barge, and, if notice is not given until long after the loss, the government is subject to the payment of the hire until the notice was received.[59] Allowing a vessel chartered by the government to remain in its service after the master has been notified that her wages must be reduced below the charter rate or the vessel be discharged, coupled with acceptance of the reduced rate, accompanied by the giving of a receipt in full, will conclude the owner from recovering the rate stipulated in the charter.[60] The owners of a vessel, let to the United States as a transport in time of war, have no lien for their charter-money on goods the United States may put on board.[61]

3. Loss of or Injury to Vessel; Lien. The government may, in like manner as a private person,[62] regulate, by contract, its liability for loss or injury to the vessel while in its employ.[63] Where the government charters a private vessel for military purposes it is very generally agreed that the owner shall be compensated for losses due to war risks and the agreement is valid and will be enforced.[64] Such a provision does not cover a marine risk expressly assumed by the owner;[65] nor damage caused by the disobedience of the owner's master to the orders of the military officer commanding;[66] nor will a stipulation that the government shall indemnify the owner for any extraordinary marine risk cover an ordinary marine risk, such as striking the fluke of a submerged anchor and sinking,[67] the risk meant being a risk extraordinary in kind and not in degree.[68] But under a charter which provided that only the war risk should be borne by the government, where the vessel was towed into a certain channel while in service, under orders of the naval commander and against the remonstrances of the master, and was injured by being run aground, the government was held liable for the injuries to the ves-

58. U. S. v. Shea, 152 U. S. 178, 14 S. Ct. 519, 38 L. ed. 403; Dozier v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 342.

59. Smith v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 237.

60. Field v. U. S., 12 Ct. Cl. 355 (holding also that where the government, as charterer of a vessel, reserved the right to discharge her at any time, and subsequently gave notice to the master that the charter rate was reduced, with a request that the charter be sent to the charterer, so that the reduction might be indorsed thereon, it was not sufficient for the master to protest to the messenger, and withhold the charter-party); Clark v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 377.

61. The Undaunted, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,336, 2 Sprague 194.

62. See supra, III, N.

63. New Bedford, etc., Propeller Co. v. U. S., 14 Wall. (U. S.) 670, 20 L. ed. 760; Clark v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 377, holding that where a charter-party with the government provides that the owner shall navigate the vessel and keep her staunch, but that the charterers will assume the "war and all other risks," the government is liable to the owner for injuries received by the vessel running on stumps in river navigation without fault of the master or crew, the risk being a marine risk.

64. Clyde v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 184, holding that where the government insures in a charter-party against "war risk," and the vessel is driven ashore by a gale and captured by the enemy, the government is liable. See Morgan v. U. S., 14 Wall. (U. S.) 531, 20 L. ed. 738.

65. Morgan v. U. S., 14 Wall. (U. S.) 531, 20 L. ed. 738; Donald v. U. S., 39 Ct. Cl. 357; Reybold v. U. S., 5 Ct. Cl. 277 [affirmed in 15 Wall. 202, 21 L. ed. 57], holding that where a charter-party of a steamer chartered for military services in time of war provided that the marine risk should be borne by the owners, it meant the risks incident to the service in which it might be employed, and, on being ordered to proceed down a river at the time when ordinary navigation was suspended by reason of ice, the master complied without objection, and the vessel was lost on account of injuries from the ice, the loss must be borne by the owners.

Sufficiency of evidence to support recovery. —Where the charter of a vessel by the government provided that the war risks should be borne by the charterers and the marine risks by the owners, and while on a military expedition a hole was knocked in the bottom of the vessel, it was not sufficient for the owners, in order to recover, to show that the enemy had planted obstructions in the river and that the injury might have been caused by such obstructions. Field v. U. S., 12 Ct. Cl. 355.

66. White v. U. S., 154 U. S. 661, 14 S. Ct. 1192, 26 L. ed. 178.

67. Leary v. U. S., 14 Wall. (U. S.) 607, 20 L. ed. 756 [affirming 5 Ct. Cl. 234].

68. Leary v. U. S., 5 Ct. Cl. 234 [affirmed in 14 Wall. 607, 20 L. ed. 756].

sel.[69] Where the owner retains possession of command and navigation of the vessel, the government is not, as a general rule, liable for loss of or injury to the vessel, during the term of employment.[70] Thus where a vessel which has been chartered by the government is in the possession of the captain and crew provided by the owners, and the charterer only directs her destination, the control and responsibility are in the owners, even though the pilot, selected and employed by the captain, and placed in charge of the vessel on pilot ground, is commissioned by the government and employed by the month for the pilotage of government transports; and the government is not liable for repairs necessitated by sinking the vessel, nor for the hire of the vessel while being repaired.[71] Where injuries to an impressed vessel were made good to the owners by the insurers, the owners have no right of action against the government for the same damages.[72]

P. Rights and Liabilities of Third Persons — 1. Shippers. The general owner of a vessel, who has given to another a charter for a voyage, but who retains control, equips, mans, victuals, and sails her at his own expense, is owner for the voyage, and is liable for the safe carriage and proper delivery of goods received on board by the master, although so received under the contract by the owner with the charterer, and although the master has not given a bill of lading;[73] but a freighter who contracts with the charterer for repairing the vessel has not any privity with the owner, and cannot claim the benefit of the owner's warranty to the charterer that the vessel was seaworthy;[74] and the owner of a vessel under a charter, the hirer having the whole control of the vessel for the time, to victual and man her, and pay over a portion of the net proceeds to the owner for the use of the vessel, is not liable to the shippers of goods on board the vessel which had been embezzled or otherwise not accounted for by the master.[75] But the fact that a vessel has been let by a charter-party so that the charterer is to be deemed the special owner and have control of her does not deprive the shipper of his lien on the vessel for the execution of the contract of affreightment,[76] for the 69. Talbot v. U. S., 7 Ct. Cl. 417. But see Mott v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 257, holding that where the owner of a vessel chartered to the government assumed the "marine risks," and the vessel was wrecked by collision in a fog, the owner could not recover, although she was compelled in a military exigency to undertake the voyage amid extrahazardous circumstances, in the absence of her master and engineer, and against the remonstrances of her other officers.

70. Shaw v. U. S., 93 U. S. 235, 23 L. ed. 880 [affirming 9 Ct. Cl. 388], holding that where a steamer was used in the service of the United States by a quartermaster of the United States for a trip to different points, the compensation proposed being stated at the time to the captain, and no objection being made, and the possession, command, and management of the steamer being retained by its owner, the United States were not liable to the owner for the value of the steamer destroyed by fire while returning from the trip, without his fault.

If the owner of a vessel voluntarily continues her navigation after her impressment by the government, and a loss is occasioned without fault or negligence on the part of their owners or representatives, the owner cannot recover under the act of March 3, 1849 (9 U. S. St. at L. 414), providing that the owner of the impressed vessel, who has suffered the loss of the property, shall be paid the value thereof, as the act changes the character of the transaction from impressment to contract. Shaw v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 388.

Where a vessel is chartered by the government for freighting, the government is not justified in putting a cannon aboard and using the vessel as a gunboat, and for injuries thus caused the owners may recover, notwithstanding their agreement to keep her staunch. Clark v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 377.

71. Flushing, etc., Steam Ferry Co. v. U. S., 6 Ct. Cl. 1.

72. Dozier v. U. S., 9 Ct. Cl. 342.

73. Robinson v. Chittenden, 69 N. Y. 525.

74. Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1.

75. Reynolds v. Toppan, 15 Mass. 370, 8 Am. Dec. 110.

A vessel being chartered by a minor does not render the general owner liable to shippers, the contract being only voidable by the minor. Thompson v. Hamilton, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 425, 23 Am. Dec. 619.

76. The Coventina, 52 Fed. 156; The Blenheim, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,539, 5 Sawy. 192; The Phebe, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,064, 1 Ware 265. And see Wyman v. The Sprott, 70 Fed. 327.

When a vessel is attached by the charterer after cargo has been put aboard, and could not be released until the end of an uncertain litigation, the shipper's goods must be transferred to another vessel, or notice given the shipper of the liability to delay, with the maritime law gives a lien on a vessel for the safe conveyance and delivery of goods; and the fact that a charter-party existed, of which the shipper had no knowledge, cannot change the liability or relieve the vessel from the lien which the contract establishes; [77] and the master is chargeable with knowledge of the shipper's rights, and the vessel is liable in rem for damage to cargo from dangerous goods, although they were taken on at the request of the charterer.[78] A decree for loss by negligence may be made directly against the ship, and need not provide that collection shall first be made from the charterer, and only the deficiency, if any, from the ship.[79] Where the owner of a vessel, notwithstanding the charter-party, makes special contracts through the master in respect to freight, the bills of lading govern the rights of the parties; [80] and the master cannot keep the goods delivered to him for shipment, and refuse to sign a bill of lading to the order of the shipper, irrespective of his orders from the charterers, or the contract between the shipper and his vendee; [81] nor is a shipper who delivers goods to a railroad company under a through bill of lading to a foreign seaport bound to accept from the forwarding vessel a bill of lading with the additional qualification, "Other conditions as per charter-party." [82] Where a vessel is chartered for a voyage out and return at a monthly rate, payable after her return, a shipper of a portion of the outward cargo, who takes a bill of lading providing for payment of freight "as per charter-party," is not liable to the vessel for freight, especially where by a memorandum at the foot of the charter-party the hirer stipulates that the master may collect return freights toward payment of the charter-money.[83]

2. Consignees of Cargo. The consignee of a charterer, who deals with him in that character, must be presumed to know the contents of the charter-party; [84] and where the consignee has notice that freight must be paid to the master, and not to the charterer, it imposes the like obligation upon him as if so reserved in the bill of lading; [85] and a consignee has no right to appropriate moneys due for freight to satisfy advances made by him to the charterer, although the bill of lading directs the freight to be paid to the consignee; but a direction to the consignee by the master to pay a sum out of the freights to the charterer will be equivalent to payment to the master. The master, notwithstanding any interference or direction of the charterer, has a right to retain the goods until his lien shall be satisfied,[86] and he may sue the consignees after delivery to them of the goods and recover the freight, at least to the amount due on the charter-party.[87] privilege of reshipping, and in default of this the ship takes on herself the risk of loss by delay, with right of recourse for indemnity over to the person causing it. Musica v. The Coventina, 52 Fed. 156.

A ship is liable in rem on the master's contract of affreightment, although it is let to him by charter-party, of which the shipper is ignorant. McCullough v. The Echo, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,740*a*.

77. Sanders v. The Ellen Hardy, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,293.

78. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

79. The Freeman v. Buckingham, 18 How. (U. S.) 182, 15 L. ed. 341; The Alert, 61 Fed. 113, 9 C. C. A. 390 [affirming 40 Fed. 836]. But see Bregaro v. The Centurion, 57 Fed. 412 [reversed on other grounds in 68 Fed. 382, 15 C. C. A. 480], where under the peculiar circumstances it was held that the cargo-owner was entitled to a decree for his damage against both ship and charterer, the damage to be collected in the first instance from the charterer, who was bound to indemnify the ship, and any deficit to be paid by the ship.

80. The Carlotta, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,413, 9 Ben. 1. And see Sears v. 4,885 Bags of Linseed, 1 Black (U. S.) 108, 17 L. ed. 35.

81. The M. K. Rawley, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,679, 2 Lowell 447.

82. Chamberlain v. The Torgorm, 48 Fed. 584.

83. Perkins v. Hill, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,987, 2 Woodb. & M. 158 [reversing 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,986, 1 Sprague 123].

84. Shaw v. Thompson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,726, Olcott 144 [cited with approval in Hatch v. Tucker, 12 R. I. 501, 34 Am. Rep. 707].

85. Shaw v. Thompson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,726, Olcott 144, holding that if the consignee of a charterer credits the freight on the consignment to him on debts owing him by the charterer, he will not thereby acquit himself of liability to the master therefor, where by the charter-party the entire possession and control of the vessel remain with the master and owner.

86. The Tangier, 32 Fed. 230.

87. Shaw v. Thompson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,726, Olcott 144.

This right is strengthened where the consignee, on receipt of the goods, promises the master to pay the freight,[88] and receipt of the goods alone by the consignee may constitute an implied assumpsit.[89] If a charter-party does not give the entire control of the vessel to the charterer, or postpone the payment of the charter-money beyond the delivery of the cargo, the lien of the general owner for freight will not be divested, nor his right to collect it; and the payment of the freight by the consignee to the general owner will be a defense to any claim for it by the charterer, although he gave notice, before the payment to the consignee, not to pay to the general owner;[90] but where the charter stipulates that the master shall sign a draft on the consignees, in favor of the charterers, for the freight, he cannot refuse his signature on the ground that demurrage is due him, especially where the charterers have claims against the vessel in excess of the demurrage claimed;[91] and the consignee is entitled to abandon the goods to the vessel and to recover from the vessel the value of the goods, less the lawful charges, where delay was caused by the wrongful acts of the master in making an extortionate demand for demurrage, and in not storing the goods in a warehouse instead of keeping them on board.[92] A consignee, authorized by the charterer to furnish a cargo under a charter-party, is not thereby authorized to change or waive any of its stipulations, or to make any agreement as to the manner in which the ship shall be loaded or ballasted.[93] Where the charter-party is not proved, or where it makes no provision in regard to the consignee or mode of delivery, the bills of lading become the proper and controlling evidence, in whole or in part, of the contract.[94] When by bills of lading cargo is consigned to order, it is the right of the ship to be informed, by an inspection of the indorsements on the bills of lading that have been signed and delivered by the master, as to who is entitled to receive the cargo; and if he does not do so, and the cargo is placed in store after a survey, the consignee cannot object that there was no delivery.[95] The vessel is liable to the consignee of a bill of lading for a shortage in delivery occasioned by the negligence of the captain.[96]

Q. Letting Vessel on Shares — 1. General Rules. Where a vessel is let to the master on shares, he victualing and manning her, employing her at his will, and exercising full control, and yielding to the owners, for her hire, a certain share of the net earnings, the liability of the general owners ceases, and the master is placed in their stead during the time the vessel continues thus under his control, and is considered owner pro hac vice as to all persons but the actual owner;[97] and

88. Ruggles v. Bucknor, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,115, 1 Paine 358.

89. Certain Logs of Mahogany, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,559, 2 Sumn. 589, holding that where by the charter-party the freight is a gross sum payable on the successful close of the whole voyage, and the bill of lading declares that the return cargo should be delivered to the shipper or his assigns, they paying freight, as per charter-party, a lien attaching to the homeward cargo for the freight due from the whole voyage, the consignee by his receipt of the goods became personally liable upon his implied assumpsit for the whole freight.

90. Mactaggert v. Henry, 3 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 390.

91. Reynolds v. The Joseph, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,730, 2 Hughes 58.

92. Hoxsie v. The Reuben Doud, 46 Fed. 800.

93. Rich v. Parrott, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,761, 1 Sprague 358.

94. Strong v. Certain Quantity of Wheat, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,541.

95. The Adella S. Hills, 47 Fed. 76.

96. The Nora, 14 Fed. 429. But see Isham v. A Cargo of Pine Piles, 46 Fed. 403.

97. Bridges v. Sprague, 57 Me. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 788; Williams v. Williams, 23 Me. 17; Thompson v. Snow, 4 Me. 264, 16 Am. Dec. 263; Pearce v. Phillips, 4 Mass. 672; Howard v. Ross, 3 N. C. 333, holding that where the owner of a vessel parts with her management and control to the captain under a contract to receive part of the earnings, the owner is discharged from liability on contracts made by the captain for taking in cargo on freight. But see Vose v. Cockroft, 45 Barb. (N. Y.) 58 [affirmed in 44 N. Y. 415]; Kenzel v. Kirk, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 113, 21 How. Pr. 184 [affirmed in 2 Abb. Dec. 500, 32 How. Pr. 269].

Such an agreement is valid, although made by parol.— Taggard v. Loring, 16 Mass. 336, 8 Am. Dec. 140.

Assignment of contract to mate; usage.— Where a contract between ship-owners and the master, whereby the latter was to run the ship on shares, has been assigned by the

the contract between the owner and master does not create a partnership;[98] and where the master of a vessel agrees to sail her on halves, man and victual her, and give the owner one-half of the earnings, the owner, having by his contract substituted the master in his place, cannot claim as owner freight earned under the contract;[99] and if, on account of the loss of a part of the goods, there is no profit on the whole adventure, the owner of the vessel is not entitled to any part of the particular profits from the goods not lost.[1] In such case the master and the real owner share equally in the earnings when collected, and the master becomes a trustee of the owner's share, when received, and holds it for the latter's use.[2] The taking of the vessel by the master, his victualing and manning her, paying a portion of the port charges, and having a share of the profits, do not of themselves constitute him the owner pro hac vice, but it is the entire control and direction of the vessel which he has the power to assert and the surrender by the owners of all power over her for the time being which will exonerate them from their liability for the contracts of the master relating to the usual employment of the vessel in the carriage of goods.[3] Where a cargo is shipped on half profits, they are to be estimated on a sale at the destination of the vessel; and if the voyage is broken up by an overwhelming calamity, freight is not recoverable; and the claim to half profits, being for mere possibilities and contingencies, is incapable of being estimated.[4]

2. Liabilities — a. Supplies and Repairs. Where a master hires a vessel on shares under an agreement making him owner pro hac vice, he, and not the general owner, is responsible for necessary repairs or supplies, the relation of agency not existing between the master and owner,[5] except perhaps for implements for neces-master, to the mate, evidence of the custom of the port as regards contracts for running ships on shares is admissible to establish the terms of the contract between the owners and the mate. Thompson v. Hamilton, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 425, 23 Am. Dec. 619.

Agreement letting vessel to master on shares construed see Brown v. Hicks, 24 Fed. 811.

98. Bridges v. Sprague, 57 Me. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 788.

Barratry by master.— One hiring a vessel for six months, rendering to the owners a moiety of the earnings and sailing as master, is so far the owner that he cannot be charged with barratry (Taggard v. Loring, 16 Mass. 336, 8 Am. Dec. 140); similarly where the master is owner for the voyage, although his conduct in regard to miscarriage and disposition of goods would otherwise be barratrous, it does not amount to barratry, and the insurers are therefore not liable (Hallet v. Columbian Ins. Co., 8 Johns. (N. Y.) 272).

99. Bridges v. Sprague, 57 Me. 543, 99 Am. Dec. 788. But see Brown v. Putnam, 2 Metc. (Mass.) 275.

1. Pearce v. Phillips, 4 Mass. 672.

2. Williams v. Williams, 23 Me. 17.

Where a third person, knowing all the facts, is authorized by the master to receive the freight already earned on a promise to pay the owner his share, and afterward receives the money, he holds it for the use of the owner, who may maintain a suit therefor. Williams v. Williams, 23 Me. 17.

3. Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.

4. The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542.

5. Houston v. Darling, 16 Me. 413; Winsor v. Cutts, 7 Me. 261 (where a fishing vessel was let on shares to the master, who was to victual and man her, the owner having nothing to do with the purchase of supplies, or with the employment of the vessel, it was held that the owner was not liable for supplies furnished to the master); Stirling v. Loud, 33 Md. 436 (holding the master, and not the owner, responsible for the supplies furnished, notwithstanding the fact that the account thereof was kept and the bill made out against the vessel and her owner); Tucker v. Stimson, 12 Gray (Mass.) 487; Baker v. Huckins, 5 Gray (Mass.) 596 (holding the general owners of a vessel not liable for stores furnished to the master to victual her while in his possession under a charter-party for a definite period, by which he has the entire management, and they are to pay for keeping her in repair and to receive a proportion of her earnings); Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558; The H. B. Foster, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,291, 3 Ware 165 (holding the general owners not responsible for supplies or repairs furnished in a foreign port); Webb v. Peirce, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,320, 1 Curt. 104 [reversing 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,321, 1 Sprague 192]. But see McCready v. Thorne, 49 Barb. (N. Y.) 438; Kenzel v. Kirk, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 113, 21 How. Pr. 184 [affirmed in 2 Abb. Dec. 500, 32 How. Pr. 269], holding that where the vessel is let to the master on shares, although the master agrees with the owner to buy the supplies at his own cost, still, unless the sellers of the supplies have notice of this agreement, or an opportunity by reasonable care and caution to learn it, the owners are subject to the usual liability.

sary and permanent use on board the vessel; [6] and the hirer, and not the general owners, will be liable for goods shipped on freight and used for the benefit of the vessel; [7] but, although the master is owner for the voyage, the general owners may nevertheless be liable for supplies, on the ground of an agency for the owners to procure them arising out of the particular terms on which the master hires the vessel; [8] and in order to make the master of a vessel the owner pro hac vice, under a contract for sailing her on shares, he must have the exclusive control of her for the time being; otherwise the owners will be liable for supplies furnished her on their credit.[9] A master appointed by the owner, and sailing the vessel on shares with him, has no power to bind one who holds the title merely as security for supplies furnished in her home port, by representing such person as owner.[10]

b. Losses and Injuries. The owner of a vessel who lets her on an agreement making the charterer owner pro hac vice is not liable to a shipper whose goods have been lost; [11] and it is not material to the question of liability whether the owner of the vessel receive for its use a stipulated sum or a share of its earnings; in either case the party who by the contract with the owner is entitled to the possession, command, and navigation of the vessel, and not the owner, is liable for not delivering goods.[12] Thus where the master has control of a vessel, which he sails on shares, making him pro hac vice owner, he is alone responsible for loss of merchandise shipped on board,[13] although in the ultimate analysis the loss is really borne by both, being deducted from the common profits in which both share according to the agreement.[14] If a vessel is chartered to the master under terms not making him owner pro hac vice, the general owners are directly liable as owners for the voyage; and the claim of the shippers for damages is not restricted to the master personally, although their agreement is made solely with him.[15]

R. Actions on Charter-Parties — 1. General Rules; Jurisdiction. The general rules applying to actions on maritime contracts [16] apply to actions for breach of charter-parties,[17] such actions coming within the jurisdiction of admi-

Where a fishing vessel is run under an agreement by which the cost of repairs is deducted from the proceeds of the entire catch before division, a seaman's cruising is to be counted as a single voyage, and the earnings for the whole season's fishing are, equally with the vessel, liable for the cost of repairs contracted on the vessel's account; and, when such vessel is wrecked, her owners, in a suit by a materialman, are liable to the extent of the season's earnings, added to the value of the wreck. Whitcomb v. Emerson, 50 Fed. 128.

Agreements held not to render the captain owner pro hac vice, so as to relieve the general owners of their liability for supplies see Saxton v. Read, Lalor (N. Y.) 323.

6. Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

7. Sproat v. Donnell, 26 Me. 185, 45 Am. Dec. 103.

8. Mayo v. Snow, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,356, 2 Curt. 102.

9. Noyes v. Staples, 61 Me. 422.

10. Harriman v. Dodge, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,104*a*.

11. Cutler v. Winsor, 6 Pick. (Mass.) 335, 17 Am. Dec. 385.

12. Tuckerman v. Brown, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 191.

13. Bonzey v. Hodgkins, 55 Me. 98.

Where the captain and joint owner of a vessel, making a voyage in which the freighters and the owners of the vessel by contract agree to share the net profits of the voyage, with orders to dispose of the interest of the freighters when ascertained in a certain way, disposes of it in a different way, and a loss thereby accrues to the freighters, for which he is liable, the other joint owners will not be liable to him for contribution. Gilchrist v. Ward, 4 Mass. 692.

14. Putnam v. Wood, 3 Mass. 381, 3 Am. Dec. 179.

15. Arthur v. The Cassius, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 564, 2 Story 81.

16. See Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 846 et seq.

17. The Dan, 40 Fed. 691; Cannon v. Vose, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,386*a*.

Where a vessel, while under charter, violated a law of another state, and was subsequently seized on her return to that state, and the owner paid the statute penalty to release her, he could not maintain an action of tort against the charterer to recover the money paid; the vessel not having been condemned. Lewis v. Holbrook, 9 Allen (Mass.) 347.

Time of bringing action.— Action held prematurely brought see Cargo of Salt, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,406, 4 Blatchf. 224. Actions held not prematurely brought see Ward v. Whitney, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 399 [affirmed in 8 N. Y. 442]; Simpson v. One Hundred and Ten Sticks of Hewn Timber, 7 Fed. 243, holding that in an action against cargo to recover ralty.[18] In cases of breach of charter, a libel will lie in rem against the vessel and in personam against the owner.[19] An action for freight under the charter may also be brought in a state court in like manner as any other action for debt.[20] But it has been held that admiralty has not jurisdiction of a libel for breach of an executory contract whereby a vessel was chartered to libellants for the transportation of merchandise.[21] The refusal of a master to deliver a cargo until security is furnished for the freight does not give a right of action to the charterer, as the cargo is subject to a lien for freight.[22]

2. Parties. A suit for damages, founded on a charter executed in the name of the managing owners and ship's husband, may be brought in the names of the owners expressed in the instrument.[23] A suit on a charter signed by the master, to whom the charter-money is to be paid, is properly brought in his name alone.[24] Where a charter-party, which is made with the owners only, the master not being a party to it, stipulates that the master is to sign the bills of lading, an action in personam will not lie against the master for failing to sign a clear bill, but the remedy is against the owners, or in rem against the vessel.[25] A memorandum indorsed on a charter-party, and signed by the master at a port in the course of the voyage, whereby he agrees to consign the vessel, on arrival at destination, to a certain firm, if a contract at all, is one between the master and the charterers, and the firm, not being privy to it, cannot maintain an action against the master for loss of commissions occasioned by his refusal to make the consignment;[26] nor can the master in charge at the time of seizure be made liable in personam for breach of the charter made by his predecessor, even though he has, without consideration, promised to execute it.[27] An agreement by parol to sell an interest in a ship, without conveyance of the title, does not make the vendee a necessary party to an action commenced for freight carried on a charter-party.[28]

3. Pleading. The general rules of pleading[29] apply to actions brought on freight, where the libel was filed before all the cargo had been landed, and the evidence showed that there was no ability to pay the freight and demurrage, and in fact no intention to pay the same on the part of the charterer, the action was not prematurely brought, and the ship was entitled to a decree for the freight.

18. The Oregon v. Pittsburgh, etc., Iron Co., 55 Fed. 666, 5 C. C. A. 229; Atlantic, etc., Guano Co. v. The Robert Center, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 630. But see Alherti v. The Virginia, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 141, 2 Paine 115, holding that where the owner of a vessel under charter for the West Indies agreed by letter that, if a certain price could not be obtained at a designated port, the vessel should proceed to another, and he violated the agreement, admiralty has not jurisdiction of the case, as the latter agreement was merely of a personal nature. See, generally, Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 829 et seq.

The customs officers of a foreign port do not constitute the proper forum in which to claim redress for breach of a charter-party for an American vessel signed on the high seas. The Ira B. Ellems, 50 Fed. 934, 2 C. C. A. 85.

19. The J. F. Warner, 22 Fed. 342. And see, generally, Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 829 et seq.

20. Ward v. Whitney, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 399 [affirmed in 8 N. Y. 442]; Wheeler v. Curtis, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 653, indebitatus assumpsit.

Circumstances held to justify an injunction and the appointment of a receiver to collect freight, notwithstanding the allegations of the answer and affidavits showed that defendants had chartered the vessel from the owner for such voyage see Sorley v. Brewer, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 79 [affirming 18 How. Pr. 276, 509].

21. The Pauline, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,848, 1 Biss. 390. And see, generally, Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 527.

22. Otis Mfg. Co. v. The Ira B. Ellems, 48 Fed. 591 [affirmed in 50 Fed. 934, 2 C. C. A. 85].

23. Bangs v. Lowber, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 840, 2 Cliff. 157.

24. Baker v. Ward, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 785, 3 Ben. 499.

Where a master takes a vessel on shares, under a contract not making him owner pro hac vice, an action for freight may be maintained in the name of the owners (Sims v. Howard, 40 Me. 276); but where the owners of a vessel have let her on shares, under a contract making the master owner pro hac vice, they cannot maintain an action for freight earned by the vessel during that time, as such action could only be maintained by the master (Manter v. Holmes, 10 Metc. (Mass.) 402).

25. Paterson v. Dakin, 31 Fed. 682.

26. La Scala v. Boughton, 37 Fed. 62.

27. Chiesa v. Conover, 40 Fed. 496.

28. Ward v. Whitney, 8 N. Y. 442.

29. See Pleading, 31 Cyc. 1.

charter-parties in state courts.[30] The complaint or declaration must set forth substantially all the necessary facts,[31] must comport with the writing declared on, and it must appear that the money demanded had become due.[32] In an action for the breach of a contract to charter a vessel, the declaration need not allege the rate of freight agreed to be paid, the suit being, not for freight earned, but for a breach of the contract in failing to load and unload the boat.[33]

4. Evidence — a. Presumptions and Burden of Proof. The burden of proof is on the party having the affirmative of the issue;[34] and plaintiffs or libellants suing for breach of a charter are bound to show that they fulfilled the contract on their part.[35] On a suit for freight under the charter of a vessel to carry a cargo at a stipulated price per ton, the burden rests on the carrier to prove the quantity carried;[36] but where on arrival at a port at which a ship has agreed to take in a cargo none is to be obtained, and she returns safely in ballast, plaintiff suing on the charter-party need not show affirmatively that she was seaworthy and provided with all the requisites of the voyage.[37]

b. Admissibility. Parol evidence is not admissible to vary the terms of a written charter for a vessel;[38] but an agreement purporting to be a charter-party, but not containing all the essential elements, may be aided by parol evidence;[39]

30. Patrick v. Metcalf, 9 Bosw. (N. Y.) 483 [affirmed in 37 N. Y. 332, 4 Transcr. App. 235]; Coster v. New York, etc., R. Co., 5 Duer (N. Y.) 677. And see Dolz v. Morris, 10 Hun (N. Y.) 201, holding that a charterer, suing for a breach of a charter-party of a certain named brig, "of the burden of one hundred and fifty-eight tons or thereabonts," may show that the brig was of two hundred and fifty tons' burden, as enhancing the damages.

Replication held responsive to plea see Wheeler v. Curtis, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 653.

31. Lorent v. Potts, 4 N. C. 86 (holding that a recovery of freight on a charter-party cannot be had unless plaintiff avers that he carried the goods according to contract); Stone v. Patterson, 6 Call (Va.) 71 (holding that where a charterer stipulated to pay the agreed value of a ship, in case of her being captured and condemned, in a suit on the charter-party the declaration should show where and by whom the ship was captured, and when and where she was condemned).

32. Stodard v. Gates, 2 Root (Conn.) 157.

33. Borden Min. Co. v. Barry, 17 Md. 419.

34. Murrell v. Whiting, 32 Ala. 54 (holding that the burden of proof is on defendant, sued for failure to provide a cargo, to show in mitigation of damages that a second cargo might have been obtained by the use of ordinary means and proper opportunities on the part of plaintiffs); Wickersham v. Southard, 67 Me. 595 (holding that, although the owners of a vessel let on shares to the master are not liable for disbursements on its account, when the master by the terms of the letting has the entire control and management of the same, yet, to exonerate the owners, it must affirmatively appear that the master has such entire control); Wheelwright v. Walsh, 42 Fed. 862; The Principia, 34 Fed. 667; Bowley v. U. S., 8 Ct. Cl. 187 (holding that where a charter-party is not for a period of time, but for voyages specified, the owners being bound only to due diligence in the circumstances in which the voyages are made, although the compensation is an allowance per diem, if the charterer alleges a want of this diligence, the burden is on him to prove it).

35. Funcheon v. Harvey, 119 Mass. 469 (holding that where plaintiff's declaration alleges that he has performed all things on his part to be performed, in a charter-party requiring him to take a perishable cargo "with all convenient speed, and proceed direct to the port of delivery," and the cargo is there delivered in a damaged condition, the burden of proof on the issue of unnecessary delay is on plaintiff); Funch v. Ahenheim, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 1; Beecher v. Bechtel, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,220*a*.

Presumption.— Where a steamer in the military service under a charter-party not naming a fixed period passes to another military department and is paid at a different rate of compensation, and the accounts between the parties do not refer to the original charter-party, while the claimant does not explain by what authority the steamer passed from one department to the other, the presumption is that she is in service to the second department under a new contract. Sweeney v. U. S., 5 Ct. Cl. 285 [affirmed in 17 Wall. 75, 21 L. ed. 575].

Where a party seeks to recover for lighterage service on a contract therefor, and the defense is that the lighterage was not performed with proper despatch, the burden of proof is on plaintiff to excuse himself for the want of that despatch and diligence which he was ordinarily bound to exercise. The Nadia, 18 Fed. 729.

36. The Alonzo, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 257, 1 Hask. 184.

37. Stackpole v. Wickham, 7 La. Ann. 678.

38. Pitkin v. Brainerd, 5 Conn. 451, 13 Am. Dec. 79; Matthias v. Beecher, 111 Fed. 940; Sorensen v. Keyser, 51 Fed. 30, 2 C. C. A. 92.

39. Stalker v. The Henry Kneeland, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,282.

and parol evidence of mutual mistake,[40] and of circumstances leading up to the contract, is properly admitted to explain its terms.[41] Where a charter is made subject to the custom of the port, evidence of the custom is admissible.[42] If the agent of the owner charters a ship in his own name without mentioning the name of the principal, the owner may show by extrinsic evidence that he is the principal in the contract in an action to recover the freight;[43] and in an action on a charter-party to recover the price agreed on for the use of the vessel, defendant may give evidence of fraudulent representations by plaintiff as to the tons burden of the vessel, in mitigation or satisfaction of plaintiff's claim.[44] Hearsay evidence is inadmissible.[45] On a libel against a vessel for failure to complete a voyage according to a charter-party, whereby the cargo suffered injury, an unusual procrastination of the voyage is not in itself evidence of incompetency in the crew to navigate the vessel; but it is admissible in corroboration of the opinion and judgment of witnesses that the crew was insufficient for the service.[46]

c. Weight and Sufficiency. The general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence[47] apply to actions for breach of charters.[48] Although the honest opinion of a competent master that he has taken on board all the cargo his vessel will safely carry is not absolutely binding on the charterer, it is entitled to very great weight, and can be controlled only by decisive evidence of a mistake on his part.[49] The admissions of the master at the end of the voyage as to the meaning of a technical phrase in the charter-party are not conclusive on him or his coöwners on the merits of the case.[50] The assent of the captain or owners to an alteration by the charterer's agent in a charter-party is not sufficiently proved by the testimony of the ship's brokers that, under the circumstances, they must have obtained such consent, although they have no distinct recollection of so doing.[51]

5. Trial; Judgment and Decree. The general rules governing trials of civil actions,[52] and in so far as applicable the rules governing cases in admiralty,[53] apply to actions for breach of charter-parties.[54] As in other cases, the general rule that

40. Funch v. Abenheim, 20 Hun (N. Y.) 1.
41. Almgren v. Dutilh, 5 N. Y. 28.
42. Smith v. Lawrence, 26 Conn. 468. But see The Oregon v. Pittsburgh, etc., Iron Co., 55 Fed. 666, 5 C. C. A. 229, holding that in an action against a vessel for breach of contract for failing to make as many trips as possible, because she towed more than two vessels, the construction of the contract cannot be varied by evidence of a custom for propellers of her class to tow at times as many as five vessels, where it is not shown that they always tow more than one or two.
43. Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481.
44. Johnson v. Miln, 14 Wend. (N. Y.) 195.
45. Boland v. Northwestern Fuel Co., 34 Fed. 523, holding that in an action for damages for breach of a contract of affreightment, evidence is not admissible to show, in mitigation of damages, what plaintiff's boat "was said to have earned."
46. The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196].
47. See Evidence, 17 Cyc. 753 et seq.
48. Aktieselskabet Banan v. Hoadley, 60 Fed. 447, 9 C. C. A. 61; The Regulus, 18 Fed. 380; The Nora, 14 Fed. 429; The Carlotta, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,413, 9 Ben. 1; The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110, holding that in an action in rem to recover damages for breach of a charter-party, the testimony of a crew to their own good health and bodily ability when they left port is adequately rebutted by proof that they had been in the hospital with a maligant fever, and, shortly after rejoining the ship, had a relapse at sea, and became totally disabled to sail the vessel.
49. Weston v. Foster, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,452, 2 Curt. 119; Weston v. Minot, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,453, 3 Woodb. & M. 437.
50. The John H. Pearson, 14 Fed. 749 [reversed on other grounds in 121 U. S. 469, 7 S. Ct. 1008, 30 L. ed. 979].
51. Pew v. Laughlin, 3 Fed. 39.
52. See Trial.
53. See Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 946 et seq.
54. See cases cited infra, this note and note 55.

Findings.— A positive finding, in an action for breach of a charter-party, that the port to which a vessel was ordered was not a safe port is not controlled by recitals of evidence that large English steamers habitually, and several American vessels had in fact, discharged their cargoes at anchorage without disaster. The Gazelle, 123 U. S. 474, 9 S. Ct. 139, 32 L. ed. 496 [affirming 11 Fed. 429, 5 Hughes 391]. Nor can it be assigned for error that the circuit court failed to make a distinct finding on the issue that, by the custom of trade between the Atlantic ports and Denmark, the port to which the vessel was ordered was recognized as being within the questions of fact are to be submitted to the jury for their determination under proper instructions from the court is applicable.[55]

IV. MASTER.[1]

[Edited by William S. Montgomery, Esq., of the New York Bar]

A. Appointment and Removal — 1. In General. The appointment and employment of a master of a vessel is wholly within the discretion of the owners of the vessel,[2] and if they act in good faith the appointment may be made by a majority in interest of the owners.[3] It has also been held that, in a case of necessity, such as the death or removal of the master in a foreign port, a master may be appointed by the consul resident there, of the country to which the vessel belongs,[4] by an agent of the owners to whom the original master has applied for assistance,[5] by the consignees of the cargo, who have advanced money for the necessary repairs of the vessel,[6] or by the commanding officer of a war vessel which has recaptured the vessel.[7] While in some maritime countries the mode of a shipmaster's appointment is prescribed by law,[8] in England and in this country, except in so far as a master is required by statute to undergo an examination before the local inspectors, as to his character, experience, and habits, charter-party, the record not showing any proof of such custom, and the custom of recognizing as safe a port which is not in fact reasonably safe being incompetent to contradict directly the charter-party. The Gazelle, supra.

Judgment or decree.— A ship chartered so that the charterer is deemed to be the special owner is nevertheless not freed from liability on his contracts of affreightment; and a decree for loss by negligence may be made directly against the ship, and need not provide that the collection shall first be made from the charterer, and only the deficiency, if any, from the ship. The Alert, 61 Fed. 113, 9 C. C. A. 390 [followed in The Freeman v. Buckingham, 18 How. 182, 15 L. ed. 341]. Where the charterer gives possession and control to the charterers for a time certain, without condition of forfeiture for a breach, the court cannot decree possession to the general owners on a libel alleging a breach of the contract. The Prometheus, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,442, 1 Lowell 491.

55. Barreda v. Silsbee, 21 How. (U. S.) 146, 16 L. ed. 86.

Particular questions held properly submitted to the jury see Murrell v. Whiting, 32 Ala. 54 (what constitutes a reasonable time within which the owners of the vessel were bound to offer to make the second voyage, in order to bind the charterer under the contract, in an action by the ship-owners, for damages for failure to furnish a cargo); Lyon v. Tiffany, 76 Mich. 158, 42 N. W. 1098 (whether the injury was caused by leakage, through unseaworthiness, for which plaintiff would be liable, or by water washed in from above, which was defendants' risk); Almgren v. Dutilh, 5 N. Y. 28 (what space was necessary for accommodation of officers and crew, provision, water, and fuel); Bulow v. Goddard, 1 Nott & M. (S. C.) 45, 9 Am. Dec. 663 (holding that under a charter-party providing that, "if the said ship . . . enters into the port of Lisbon . . . the voyage ends," it is for a jury to determine whether, by going to the outer port of Lisbon, about five miles from the town, the ship "entered" the port of Lisbon); Tyson v. Belmont, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,316 [affirmed in 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,281, 3 Blatchf. 530] (whether the master had acted judiciously and properly in determining that it would be unsafe to cross the bar if the ship were more deeply laden, and that, if his action was proper, it was the charterer's duty to deliver the remainder of the cargo outside).

Evidence held sufficient to go to jury see Lewis v. Holbrook, 9 Allen (Mass.) 347; Russell v. Allerton, 108 N. Y. 288, 15 N. E. 391.

1. Admissions by master or captain as evidence see Evidence, 16 Cyc. 1015.

Definition of master see Master of a Ship, 26 Cyc. 1587.

Master as member of crew see Seamen, 35 Cyc. 1181 note 32.

Status of master after abandonment of insured vessel see Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 707.

2. Jones v. Davis, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,466, Abb. Adm. 446.

Masters for different purposes.— One person may be employed as master to superintend the loading and repairing of a vessel for sea, and another person employed to take command of her upon the voyage. Jones v. Davis, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,466, Abb. Adm. 446.

3. Card v. Hope, 2 B. & C. 661, 4 D. & R. 164, 2 L. J. K. B. O. S. 96, 26 Rev. Rep. 503, 9 E. C. L. 288.

4. The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463 (upon the request of the dying master); Pickersgill v. Williams, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,123; The Zodiac, 1 Hagg. Adm. 320; The Cynthia, 16 Jur. 748.

5. The Kennersley Castle, 3 Hagg. Adm. 1; The Tartar, 1 Hagg. Adm. 1.

6. The Alexander, 1 Dods. 278.

7. The Eliza Cornish, 17 Jur. 738, 1 Spinks 36.

8. The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309.

and to receive a license,[9] and make oath before an inspector to faithfully, honestly, and skilfully perform his duties,[10] the law does not interfere in relation to the qualifications or mode of appointment of a master further than as regards his national character,[11] and no formalities are necessary to his employment, but any mode of authorization competent to give power to one man to act for and bind another is sufficient to constitute him master of the vessel;[12] but while the employment of a master may be inferred from circumstances, the inference should be such as leaves no fair reason to doubt that fact.[13] The requirements of the registry acts of the United States in respect to inserting the name of the master in a ship's register are for the protection of the revenue, and a failure to comply therewith does not affect the validity of a master's authority;[14] and while the person in whose name as master a vessel is registered must ordinarily be deemed her master for every legal intent and purpose,[15] yet it has been held that one to whom the navigation, discipline, and control of a vessel is intrusted must be considered her master, although another is registered as such.[16] The master's contract of employment may contain any stipulation that may be agreed upon between the parties,[17] even though the particular stipulation would be unreasonable if set up as a usage,[18] or oppressive if imposed upon a member of the crew.[19]

2. Right of Purchaser of Master's Share. As a general rule the right of a master to command his vessel is personal to him, and a sale by a master who is a part-owner of the vessel of his interest therein transfers no right to the command which the other owners are bound to respect,[20] although a majority in interest of them consent to the transfer.[21]

3. Succession of Command. Upon a master becoming separated from his vessel by death or other casualty, or upon his becoming incapable of having command as by reason of sickness, insanity, or otherwise, the command of the vessel, with duties which go with it, devolves upon the first mate as a matter of course, at least until another master is appointed;[22] and when the master and

9. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4438, 4439, as amended in U. S. Rev. St. Suppl. (1892–1899) pp. 908, 909.

10. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4445 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3038].

11. The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309.

12. Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54 (holding that it is sufficient to charge the owner if the master be such in fact with the owner's privity, although there be no special appointment); The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309. See also Donovan v. Salem, etc., Nav. Co., 142 Fed. 985.

13. Jones v. Davis, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,460, Abb. Adm. 446.

14. Davidson v. Baldwin, 79 Fed. 95, 24 C. C. A. 453; The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309.

15. Adams v. Wyoming, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 71; The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309; The Dubuque, 7 Fed. Cas. No 4,110, 2 Abb. 20; Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

An alien cannot, under the United States registry laws, be deemed the master of a vessel. The Dubuque, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,110, 2 Abb. 20.

16. Pond v. The Hattie Thomas, 59 Fed. 297 [criticizing The Dubuque, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,110, 2 Abb. 20].

17. Bourne v. Smith, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,701, 1 Lowell 547, holding that the general rule that the owners of a vessel have no power to incorporate unusual and onerous stipulations into their shipping articles does not apply to a contract with the master.

18. Bourne v. Smith, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,701, 1 Lowell 547.

19. Bourne v. Smith, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,701, 1 Lowell 547.

20. Ward v. Ruckman, 36 N. Y. 26, 93 Am. Dec. 479, 1 Transcr. App. 172 [affirming 34 Barb. 419]; Williams v. Ireland, 11 Phila. (Pa.) 273, 2 Wkly. Notes Cas. 442; The Lizzie Merry, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,423, 10 Ben. 140.

Such a purchaser acquires only an expectancy that the owners will permit him to retain the command. Williams v. Ireland, 11 Phila. (Pa.) 273, 2 Wkly. Notes Cas. 442.

A purchaser at an execution sale of a master's interest in a vessel is not entitled to supersede the master in the command of the vessel, or to deprive him of the possession thereof. Loring v. Illsley, 1 Cal. 24.

21. Williams v. Ireland, 11 Phila. (Pa.) 273, 2 Wkly. Notes Cas. 442.

A contract to sell the command even by the owners of a majority in interest is incapable of enforcement. Williams v. Ireland, 11 Phila. (Pa.) 273, 2 Wkly. Notes Cas. 442; Card v. Hope, 2 B. & C. 661, 4 D. & R. 164, 2 L. J. K. B. O. S. 96, 26 Rev. Rep. 503, 9 E. C. L. 288.

22. Copeland v. New England Mar. Ins. Co., 2 Metc. (Mass.) 432; The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309; Sheridan mate are both absent, such command and duties devolve upon the next highest officer on board.[23]

4. Term of Employment and Removal.[24] The term or duration of a master's employment ordinarily depends upon the terms of the contract employing him,[25] and, in the absence of an express limitation, is presumed to continue until the owners by some declaration or overt act remove him.[26] Where a master is employed under an express agreement, as for a particular voyage or for a particular time, the owners cannot dismiss him before the end of his term, without becoming liable in damages,[27] except for sufficient cause[28] and upon reasonable notice.[29] But where the master is employed under a general agreement, the owners or a majority in interest of them have the right to remove him at any time without assigning any cause and without being liable for damages,[30] although he is a part-

v. Furbur, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,761, 1 Blatchf. & H. 423; Hanson v. Royden, L. R. 3 C. P. 47, 37 L. J. C. P. 66, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 214, 16 Wkly. Rep. 205; The Favourite, 2 C. Rob. 232; The Tecumseh, 6 Notes of Cas. 658, 3 W. Rob. 144. See also The George, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,329, 1 Sumn. 151; The Providence, 1 Hagg. Adm. 391.

The possibility of the command being devolved on him is a contingency contemplated by the mate by his engagement, and he engages for a competent degree of skill in seamanship and navigation for the management of the vessel on the happening of this event, and is also entitled to the ordinary presumption in his favor that he acted with fidelity and ordinary skill until the contrary is proved. Carrington v. The Anne C. Pratt, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,445.

23. See U. S. v. Taylor, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,442, 2 Sumn. 584.

24. Term for which wages can be collected see infra, IV, D, 1.

25. Slocum v. Swift, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,954, 2 Lowell 212, holding that a contract for a whaling voyage not exceeding five years' duration does not mean several voyages extending through five years, but ends when the object of the voyage is fulfilled, that is, when a full cargo is obtained.

26. Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558; The Gananoque, Lush. 448.

A mere vote of the owners conditionally dismissing a master does not affect third parties. Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

27. Moore v. Curry, 106 Mass. 409; Montgomery v. Henry, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 49, 1 L. ed. 32, 1 Am. Dec. 223 [affirming 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,737, Bee 388, 2 Pet. Adm. 397]; Lombard Steamship Co. v. Anderson, 134 Fed. 568, 67 C. C. A. 432; The Lizzie Merry, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,423, 10 Ben. 140; Guilford v. Anglo-French Steamship Co., 9 Can. Sup. Ct. 303, 2 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 250 [reversing 1 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 554, 14 Nova Scotia 54]; Roberts v. Tartar, 13 Brit. Col. 474. See also De Land v. Hall, 134 Mich. 381, 96 N. W. 449.

Where a part-owner of a ship is master in possession under a written agreement, he cannot be removed by his coöwners (Rea v. Steamboat Eclipse, 4 Dak. 218, 30 N. W. 159), but only a written agreement entitling such owner to possession can defeat the right of his coöwners to resume possession of the vessell at their pleasure (Clayton v. The Eliza B. Emory, 4 Fed. 342).

Jurisdiction.—A court having original admiralty jurisdiction has cognizance of a claim for wrongful dismissal. The Blessing, 3 P. D. 35, 3 Aspin. 561, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 259, 26 Wkly. Rep. 404.

28. Tuells v. Torras, 113 Ga. 691, 39 S. E. 455; Barker v. York, 3 La. Ann. 90; Budge v. Mott, 47 Wis. 611, 3 N. W. 381; The Marina, 50 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 33, 29 Wkly. Rep. 508.

Immorality or intemperance alone of a master is not sufficient grounds for dismissal. The Bella Mudge, Young Adm. (Nova Scotia) 222.

Under the Merchants' Shipping Act (1854) § 240, the court of admiralty has power on an application of the owners or part-owners to remove the master of a ship, if it is satisfied that the removal is necessary, as where he attempts to defraud. The Royalist, Brown. & L. 46, 9 Jur. N. S. 852, 32 L. J. Adm. 105.

29. Creen v. Wright, 1 C. P. D. 591, 3 Aspin. 254, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 339.

30. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302; Ward v. Ruckman, 36 N. Y. 26, 93 Am. Dec. 479, 1 Transcr. App. 172 [affirming 34 Barb. 419]; Montgomery v. Henry, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 49, 1 Am. Dec. 223, 1 L. ed. 32 [affirming 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,737, Bee 388, 2 Pet. Adm. 397]; Clayton v. The Eliza B. Emory, 4 Fed. 342; Childs v. Gladding, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,678; Higgins v. Jenks, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,468, 3 Ware 17; The Lizzie Merry, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,423, 10 Ben. 140. See also Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558; The See Reuter, 1 Dods. 22.

The master of a tramp steamship who is not employed for any particular voyage or for any stated time may be discharged by the owners at any time without assigning any cause and without incurring liability for damages. Lombard Steamship Co. v. Anderson, 134 Fed. 568, 67 C. C. A. 432.

There is no forcible dispossession where a master appointed by the majority owners goes aboard the vessel during the temporary absence of the previous master and takes possession. The Lizzie Merry, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,423, 10 Ben. 140.

owner of the vessel.[31] The sequestration of a vessel by the government terminates the relationship existing between a master and the owners of the vessel.[32] The death of a part-owner does not ipso facto revoke the authority of the master of a vessel as to such part-owner's share.[33]

B. Authority and Duties[34] — 1. In General — a. Scope and Extent in General. As a general rule it is the right and duty of a master of a vessel, in the exercise of a sound discretion and in good faith, to do all things in respect to the equipment and conduct of the voyage that are reasonably necessary to the protection and preservation of the interests under his charge, whether that of owners, charterers, cargo owners, or underwriters,[35] and in case of necessity or calamity during the voyage, the master, in the absence of the parties concerned, is by law created their agent, and his acts done under such circumstances in the exercise of a sound discretion and in good faith are binding on such parties.[36] He may act as agent of the owners or consignees of the cargo in their absence, to the extent that it may be reasonably necessary for him to act to protect or preserve the cargo in the course of the voyage;[37] but he cannot, without special authority, represent or act for any part of the cargo after it is delivered to the consignees.[38]

b. Accounting to Owners. It is the duty of the master of a vessel to render a full and satisfactory account to the owners of the vessel, of moneys received, or which should have been received, and of the disbursements and expenditures of the vessel during the voyage,[39] before he is entitled to any wages.[40]

c. As to Passengers and Crew.[41] The master of a vessel at sea is the supreme officer, and he has the sole and exclusive authority on board of his vessel, and it

31. Ward v. Ruckman, 36 N. Y. 26, 93 Am. Dec. 479, 1 Transcr. App. 172 [affirming 34 Barb. 419]; Clayton v. The Eliza B. Emory, 4 Fed. 342; Childs v. Gladding, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,678; The New Draper, 4 C. Rob. 287; The Johan and Siegmund, Edw. Adm. 242; The Kent, Lush. 495. See also Higgins v. Jenks, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,468, 3 Ware 17.

32. Hill v. Stetson, 39 N. J. L. 84.

33. Grant v. Carver, 75 Me. 524.

34. Authority to order general average act see infra, X, C, 1.

Right to retain goods liable to contribution in general average see infra, X, F, 7.

35. Healey v. Martin, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,295, holding that it is within the sound discretion of the master to judge as to when additional supplies of wood and water are necessary and as to what risks are to be incurred in procuring them.

36. Douglas v. Moody, 9 Mass. 548; Bryant v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 6 Pick. (Mass.) 131; Harrison v. Fortlage, 161 U. S. 57, 16 S. Ct. 488, 40 L. ed. 616 (holding that the master in a case of necessity may act as agent for persons having insurable interests in the cargo); Gernon v. Cochran, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,368, Bee 209 (holding that the master in a foreign port represents both owners and shippers, they not having any other agents on the spot); Jordan v. Warren Ins. Co., 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,524, 1 Story 342; Miston v. Lord, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,655, 1 Blatchf. 354. But see The Mercurius, 1 C. Rob. 80.

37. Spear v. Place, 11 How. (U. S.) 522, 13 L. ed. 796.

38. Spear v. Place, 11 How. (U. S.) 522, 13 L. ed. 796.

39. Babcock v. Terry, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 702, 1 Lowell 66; Robinson v. Hinckley, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,954, 2 Paine 457. See also Mauran v. Warren, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,310, 2 Lowell 53.

Trade profits.—Where a master having authority to employ his vessel for freight to the best advantage, but not to purchase a cargo on the owner's account, loads the ship with a cargo of his own upon his being unable to procure remunerative freight, he is liable to account to the owners for all profits made by the sale of the cargo and not merely for a proper freight. Shallcross v. Oldham, 2 Johns. & H. 609, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 824, 10 Wkly. Rep. 291, 70 Eng. Reprint 1202.

Effect of death of part-owner.—Where, upon the death of a part-owner, the master pays over to the ship's husband the net earnings of such owner's share with the rest of the earnings that came to his hands, he relieves himself of liability to the estate of the deceased, unless the representatives have given notice that they have revoked the authority of the ship's husband to receive their part of the earnings. Grant v. Carver, 75 Me. 524.

Where the owner of a ship and cargo gives a creditor a bill of sale of the ship and cargo as security, which bill is absolute on its face, and the master accounts with the creditor, supposing his title absolute, he will be protected against the claims of the real owner. Tripler v. Olcott, 3 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 473.

40. Robison v. Hinckley, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,954, 2 Paine 457. See also The Fleur-de-Lis, L. R. 1 A. & E. 49, 12 Jur. N. S. 379.

41. As to passengers' effects see infra, VIII, E.

Rights, duties, and liabilities of master as to discipline and punishment of seamen see SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1247.

is his right and duty to control the inferior officers as well as the crew,[42] to do justice to all persons under his command,[43] and to protect passengers and seamen from maltreatment while on board the vessel.[44] In respect to passengers, the master owes a higher and more delicate duty than he owes to his crew;[45] but at the same time he has the necessary control over his passengers and may make proper regulations for their government, such as may insure their safety, promote the general comfort, and preserve decent order; and he may enforce these regulations by a temperate and needful exercise of power.[46] He may even use force to passengers when necessary to the safety of the ship and those on board,[47] or to preserve order;[48] but before using force toward a passenger, there must be a breach of some regulation on his part and a clear necessity for the exercise of the degree of force used.[49]

42. Butler v. McClellan, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,242, 1 Ware 220; Kraskopp v. Ames, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,131; Smith v. Wilson, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,128, 31 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 272.

43. White v. McDonough, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,552, 3 Sawy. 311.

Hear grievances.— It is the duty of the master to hear complaints of inferiors against superiors made in a reasonable manner, and to redress grievances found to exist, and he is not necessarily to sustain the superior because of his station. Hathaway v. Jones, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,212, 2 Sprague 56.

44. The Lizzie Burril, 115 Fed. 1015; Dorrel v. Schwerman, 111 Fed. 209; White v. McDonough, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,552, 3 Sawy. 311.

45. Chamberlain v. Chandler, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,575, 3 Mason 242; White v. McDonough, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,552, 3 Sawy. 311.

In loco parentis.— Toward women and minors, the master of a ship is bound at all times to exercise the care and tenderness of a pater familias, and this is especially his duty when they are unaccompanied by a natural guardian. The fact is that, in the eye of the law, he stands to all his passengers in loco parentis. They are entitled, as a matter of right, to his attention and protection. Smith v. Wilson, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,128, 31 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 272.

46. Krauskopp v. Ames, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,931; Smith v. Wilson, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,128, 31 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 272; Aldworth v. Stewart, 4 F. & F. 957, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 862.

Rights of master.— Courteous request, patience, and renewed remonstrance or reprimand, and, at least just so much restraint, and if that be unavailing, just so much active force, and no more, as the exigency may call for are the legitimate rights of the master of a vessel over his passengers, and such rights should be exercised deliberately and with moderation, without any haste or rudeness and after a patient examination of the facts; and no punishment higher than a reprimand should ever be inflicted on a passenger without a conference with the other officers of the ship and an entry of the facts on the log-book, the only exception to this rule being that of necessity present or imminent. Krauskopp v. Ames, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,931.

In case of the appearance of a contagious and infectious disease, it is his duty to protect from infection, as far as possible, the other passengers and the crew; and in order to do this he may isolate the sick person from all others on board, having reasonable regard to the sick person's comfort and welfare. The Hammonia, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,006, 10 Ben. 512.

Exclusion from table.— Conduct unbecoming a gentleman, in the strict sense of the word, will justify a captain of a ship in excluding a passenger from the table whom he has engaged by contract to provide for there, and while it is difficult to say in what degree want of polish will, in point of law, warrant such exclusion, it is clear that if a passenger uses threats of personal violence toward the captain, the latter may exclude him from the table, and require him to take his meals in his own private apartment. Prendergast v. Compton, 8 C. & P. 454, 34 E. C. L. 832.

47. Boyce v. Douglas, 1 Campb. 60.

Invading state-room.— If the master is of the opinion that the good order or safety of the ship requires it, he may invade the privacy of a state-room, and exclude a passenger from the cabin. Smith v. Wilson, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,128, 31 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 272.

On the approach of an enemy, he may assign passengers to various stations which it is their duty to accept, and if they refuse, may confine them if the discipline of the crew and the security of the vessel require it. Boyce v. Bayliffe, 1 Campb. 58.

Arrest of passenger.— The authority of a master to arrest passengers cannot be delegated to a minor official or others on board, but, as far as is reasonably possible, must be exercised personally, at least to the extent of giving directions therefor, and even if such authority may be delegated, it must be to a person of experience and known character, intelligence, judgment, and tact, and must not be exercised without the master being called on to determine the necessity therefor, unless the ship or other passengers are in danger. Ragland v. Norfolk, etc., Steambost Co., 163 Fed. 376 [modified on other grounds in 169 Fed. 286].

48. Noden v. Johnson, 16 Q. B. 218, 15 Jur. 424, 20 L. J. Q. B. 95, 71 E. C. L. 218.

49. Krauskopp v. Ames, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,031.

2. As Agent For Owners or Charterers[50] — a. In General. The master of a vessel is prima facie the agent of the owners of the vessel;[51] but where possession and control of the vessel is transferred by the owners to charterers, and the master is appointed by the latter, he is the latter's agent.[52] A master's power to bind his owners personally is but a branch of the general law of agency,[53] and is such as is conferred upon him by the laws of the country to which his vessel belongs,[54] and by his expressed or implied instructions.[55] In many respects, however, the authority of a master is from the necessities of the case more extensive than that of an ordinary agent;[56] but in order that he may exercise extraordinary powers, exigencies must arise in which it is impossible for the owners or their general agent to be consulted and the necessities of the business require that he should act promptly.[57] As a general rule the master of a vessel is the general agent of the owners or charterers for all purposes connected with the ordinary employment of the vessel during a voyage;[58] and consequently they are bound by all acts done or contracts entered into by him within the scope of his authority relative to the regular business of the vessel,[59] and his authority cannot be limited by

50. Agreements of consortship by master see infra, V, A, 3.

Power of master: To arbitrate salvage claims see Salvage, 35 Cyc. 761. To hypothecate see infra, VI, D, 2. To make charter see supra, III, B, 1. To make contracts of salvage see Salvage, 35 Cyc. 729. To make contracts of towage see Towage.

Liability as between owner and charterer see supra, III, E, 1.

51. The St. Cloud, Brown. & L. 4, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 54; The David Wallace v. Bain, 8 Can. Exch. 205.

52. The David Wallace v. Bain, 8 Can. Exch. 205.

Third persons dealing with him with notice of the charter-party cannot hold the original owner liable for his acts as such agent. The St. Cloud, Brown. & L. 4, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 54; The David Wallace v. Bain, 8 Can. Exch. 205. See also supra, III, E, 1.

53. Lloyd v. Guibert, L. R. 1 Q. B. 115, 6 B. & S. 100, 35 L. J. Q. B. 74, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 602, 118 E. C. L. 100 [affirming 10 Jur. N. S. 949, 33 L. J. Q. B. 241, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 570, 12 Wkly. Rep. 953].

54. Hanschell v. Swan, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 304, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 42; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 365; Lloyd v. Guibert, L. R. 1 Q. B. 115, 6 B. & S. 100, 35 L. J. Q. B. 74, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 602 [affirming 10 Jur. N. S. 949, 33 L. J. Q. B. 241, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 570, 12 Wkly. Rep. 953].

The liability of the owners of a vessel for the contracts of the master is governed by the law of the place of their domicile, and not by that of the place where the contracts are made or to be discharged. Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 365.

55. Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 365.

Special instructions to a master directing him in case of emergency to apply to certain firms abroad "who would give him any assistance required" do not authorize him to do anything not included in his general powers. Lyall v. Hicks, 27 Beav. 616, 54 Eng. Reprint 244.

56. Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N. Y. 685.

57. Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N. Y. 685.

58. Merwin v. Shailer, 16 Conn. 489; Bergerat v. Farish, 9 Rob. (La.) 346; The Brig Maria, 39 Ct. Cl. 39; Hedley v. Pinkney, etc., Steamship Co., [1894] A. C. 222, 7 Aspin. 483, 63 L. J. Q. B. 419, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 630, 6 Reports 106, 42 Wkly. Rep. 497; Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665.

59. Delaware.— Davis v. Marshall, 4 Harr. 64.

Illinois.— Vessel Owners' Towing Co. v. Taylor, 126 Ill. 250, 18 N. E. 663.

Indiana.— Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256.

Louisiana.— Mackey v. De Blanc, 12 La. Ann. 377; Lambeth v. Vawter, 6 Rob. 127.

Maine.— Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am. Dec. 243; Hathorn v. Curtis, 8 Me. 356.

Massachusetts.— Reynolds v. Toppan, 15 Mass. 370, 8 Am. Dec. 110, holding that it must appear, besides the fact of ownership, that the vessel is in the owners' employment, and that the master was appointed by them and acted within the scope of his authority.

North Carolina.— Howard v. Ross, 3 N. C. 333.

Pennsylvania.— Glading v. George, 3 Grant 290.

South Carolina.— McDaniel v. Emanuel, 2 Rich. 455.

United States.— The Edward H. Blake, 92 Fed. 202, 34 C. C. A. 297 (construction of charter-party); The Gulnare, 24 Fed. 487; The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309; The Zenobia, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,208, Abb. Adm. 48.

England.— Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665; Yates v. Hall, 1 T. R. 73, 99 Eng. Reprint 979.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 257.

On navigable rivers.— Powers of masters of boats engaged in commerce on interstate navigable rivers are determined by maritime law. Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256.

Holding out.—Where the owners of a vessel permit the master to do certain acts or make certain contracts not within the usual scope of his employment, or have ratified such any private orders not known to the party in any way dealing with him.[60] But they are not bound by the acts or contracts of the master beyond the scope of his authority,[61] unless they assent to or ratify the same;[62] and a master's general powers as agent are so much a matter of law that persons dealing with him are bound to take notice of them at their peril.[63] The master of a vessel may not delegate all his authority as agent;[64] but in case of an emergency he may employ experienced agents to assist him,[65] and may request the ship's brokers to contract as his agent for outfitting the vessel.[66] Like other agents, the master must also act with entire good faith and loyalty to his employers' interests, so as to protect and preserve the vessel and cargo.[67]

b. Repairs, Supplies, and Other Necessaries — (i) In General. As a general rule the master of a vessel as such has authority to bind the owners, in their absence, by contracts or expenditures for whatever necessaries are reasonably fit and proper for the safety of the vessel and the due performance of the voyage,[68] and unless credit therefor is given exclusively to the master or to third parties,[69] or unless some other person has such authority in the particular instance and this is known to the creditor,[70] the master may bind them for such repairs,[71] equip-acts when known to them, they will be bound by such acts. Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am. Dec. 243.

60. Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665.

61. Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256; Warren v. Skolfield, 104 Mass. 503; The Guiding Star, 62 Fed. 407, 10 C. C. A. 454 [affirming 53 Fed. 936]; The Erinagh, 7 Fed. 231; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465.

A subscription to a person who keeps lights in a dangerous place of navigation does not come within the general powers of a master. Strong v. Saunders, 15 Mich. 339.

62. Davis v. Marshall, 4 Harr. (Del.) 64.

63. Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256.

The flag of a vessel is notice to all the world that the master's implied authority is limited by the law of the country of that flag. Lloyd v. Guibert, L. R. 1 Q. B. 115, 6 B. & S. 100, 35 L. J. Q. B. 74, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 602, 118 E. C. L. 100 [affirming 10 Jur. N. S. 949, 33 L. J. Q. B. 241, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 570, 12 Wkly. Rep. 953].

64. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 874, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 508 [modifying 53 Misc. 97, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 931].

65. The Ripon City, 102 Fed. 176, 42 C. C. A. 247.

66. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 874, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 508 [modifying 53 Misc. 97, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 931].

67. The master must employ his whole time and attention in the service of his employer (Gardner v. McCutcheon, 4 Beav. 534, 49 Eng. Reprint 446; Thompson v. Havelock, 1 Camph. 527), and a custom allowing him to trade on his own private account during the voyage cannot be maintained (Gardner v. McCutcheon, supra).

The master cannot become a purchaser at a sale of his employer's property which is sold by his authority as agent (Barker v. Marine Ins. Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 992, 2 Mason 369), and if he purchases his ship in a foreign port at an authorized sale, the purchase is generally considered as made for the benefit of the owners if they elect so to regard it (Chamberlain v. Harrod, 5 Me. 420).

68. Merwin v. Shailer, 16 Conn. 489; Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256; Clark v. Humphreys, 25 Mo. 99; Frost v. Oliver, 1 C. L. R. 1003, 2 E. & B. 301, 18 Jur. 166, 22 L. J. Q. B. 353, 75 E. C. L. 301. But compare Mackenzie v. Pooley, 11 Exch. 638, 25 L. J. Exch. 124, 4 Wkly. Rep. 262.

69. California.— Crawford v. Roberts, 50 Cal. 235.

Maryland.—Abbott v. Baltimore, etc., Steam Packet Co., 1 Md. Ch. 542.

New York.—Witherbee v. Paris, 67 Hun 620, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 447.

North Carolina.—Williams v. Windley, 86 N. C. 107, holding that a contract made by the master of a vessel for fitting out, victualing, and repairing, and which binds him personally, binds the owner also unless it is clearly shown that the credit is given to the one exclusive of the other.

Pennsylvania.— Gading v. George, 3 Grant 290.

England.— Gordon v. Hare, 1 L. J. K. B. O. S. 70.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 258.

70. The Joseph Cunard, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,535, Olcott 120; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226.

71. Connecticut.—Woodruff, etc., Iron Works v. Stetson, 31 Conn. 51.

Kentucky.— Patterson v. Chalmers, 7 B. Mon. 595.

New York.—Witherbee v. Paris, 67 Hun 620, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 447.

North Carolina.—Williams v. Windley, 86 N. C. 107.

United States.— The Aurora, 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45; Black Diamond Coal-Min. Co. v. The H. C. Grady, 87 Fed. 232; The Gulnare, 24 Fed. 487; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; Philips v. Ledley, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,096, 1 Wash. 226.

England.—Webster v. Seekamp, 4 B. & Ald. 352, 23 Rev. Rep. 307, 6 E. C. L. 515; Frost

ment,[72] and other supplies,[73] services of seamen,[74] and necessary port charges,[75] as the interests of the owners render reasonably necessary, and interested parties may assume that he has such authority, unless something appears to suggest the contrary and put them on inquiry.[76] But he cannot bind the owners for items which are not necessaries unless he is specially authorized to do so,[77] nor can he

v. Oliver, 1 C. L. R. 1003, 2 E. & B. 301, 18 Jur. 166, 22 L. J. Q. B. 353, 75 E. C. L. 301.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 258.

Cannot contract beyond value of ship and freight.— The master of a ship is the agent of the owners with the power to bind them for repairs to the extent of the value of the ship and freight but no further, unless expressly clothed with larger authority. Stirling v. Nevassa Phosphate Co., 35 Md. 128, 6 Am. Rep. 372; Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55.

72. Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am. Dec. 243; Bond v. McKinnon, 9 Allen (Mass.) 344 (chronometer); Bliss v. Ropes, 9 Allen (Mass.) 339 (chronometer); Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 874, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 508 [modifying 53 Misc. 97, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 931]; Schultz v. Bosman, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,488, 5 Hughes 97 (a pair of side-lights and a fog-bell).

73. Connecticut.—Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn. 218 note.

Kentucky.— Patterson v. Chalmers, 7 B. Mon. 595.

Louisiana.— Barker v. York, 3 La. Ann. 90; Calef v. The Bonaparte, 1 Rob. 463, 38 Am. Dec. 190.

Maryland.—Abbott v. Baltimore, etc., Steam Packet Co., 1 Md. Ch. 542.

North Carolina.—Williams v. Windley, 86 N. C. 107.

Pennsylvania.— Phillips v. Tapper, 2 Pa St. 323, provisions and necessaries furnished and charged to the captain of the boat.

South Carolina.— Pratt v. Tunno, 2 Brev. 449.

United States.— The Aurora, 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45; Black Diamond Coal-Min. Co. v. The H. C. Grady, 87 Fed. 232; The Gulnare, 24 Fed. 487; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

England.— Cary v. White, 5 Bro. P. C. 325, 2 Eng. Reprint 708, 2 Eq. Cas. Abr. 722, 22 Eng. Reprint 608; Mitcheson v. Oliver, 5 E. & B. 419, 1 Jur. N. S. 900, 25 L. J. Q. B. 39, 85 E. C. L. 419; Speerman v. Degrave, 2 Vern. Ch. 643, 23 Eng. Reprint 1020.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 258.

It is essential that the supplies furnished were necessary in order to bind the owners to pay therefor (Whitten v. Tisdale, 43 Me. 451); but it is not essential that they were absolutely necessary or actually placed on board (Merritt v. Brewer, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,483).

Newspaper notices cautioning all persons against trusting any of the crew or other persons on account of the vessel, published without signature, or anything to show by whose authority they were inserted, are too vague to affect the liability of the owners for supplies furnished the master. Saxton v. Read, Lalor (N. Y.) 323.

Who liable.— The master of a boat in ordering supplies is agent, not of the owner of the boat as such, but of those who have control of the vessel and the right to receive her freight, and mere ownership without any right to the profit or use of the property will not of itself make a person liable for supplies furnished to the vessel. Ward v. Bodeman, 1 Mo. App. 272. Compare Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn. 218 note. The possession, control, and management of the vessel with the right to direct her destination and receive her earnings will fix the responsibility for such supplies whether the person has the legal title or not. Lincoln v. Wright, 23 Pa. St. 76, 62 Am. Dec. 316.

Estoppel.— The owners of a vessel are estopped to assert that one acting as master had no right as such to order stores for the voyage, if they permitted him to order the articles and retained them. Stringham v. Schloener, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,536, 4 Ben. 16.

That the master purchased the supplies in a neighboring port instead of the one where his vessel lay does not affect the liability of the owner of the vessel therefor. Kenzel v. Kirk, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 113, 21 How. Pr. 184 [affirmed in 2 Abb. Dec. 500, 32 How. Pr. 269].

A written contract for supplies for a vessel by the master is binding on the owners, if it shows on its face that such was the intention, although it is signed by him in his own name only. Negus v. Simpson, 99 Mass. 388.

74. Carr v. Burke, 32 Mo. 233; Kohler v. Wright, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 318. See also Hanson v. Royden, L. R. 3 C. P. 47, 37 L. J. C. P. 66, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 214, 16 Wkly. Rep. 205; Yates v. Hall, 1 T. R. 73, 99 Eng. Reprint 979.

Steward.—A master of a vessel may hire a steward (Luttrell v. China Nav. Co., 1 New Rep. 329), and may engage a seaman to serve as steward at higher wages (Hicks v. Walker, 4 Wkly. Rep. 511).

Extra pilotage services.—A master may bind his vessel to pay for extra pilotage services rendered at his request. The Cervantes, 135 Fed. 573.

75. Chicago Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 874, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 508 [modifying 53 Misc. 97, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 931].

76. Black Diamond Coal-Min. Co. v. The H. C. Grady, 87 Fed. 232.

77. Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256; Pratt v. Tunno, 2 Brev. (S. C.) 449; The Erinagh, 7 Fed. 231; Drain v. Scott, 3 Macph. 114. See also Curran v. Wood, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 592.

purchase supplies or merchandise for third persons on the credit of the owner of the vessel.[78]

(II) Consulting Owners or Agent. Whilst the above rule seems to be well settled as to the powers of the master in purchasing supplies and necessaries when in a foreign port from which communication cannot be readily had with the owners or their agent, there is some conflict in the authorities as to his power in a home port or where the owner or agent may be communicated with. In some jurisdictions it is held that the master may bind the owner for necessaries, such as supplies or repairs either in a foreign port or even in the home port,[79] unless he in fact has no such authority and the parties dealing with him have knowledge of that fact,[80] or unless the supplies or repairs are furnished on the exclusive credit of the master.[81] In other jurisdictions, however, this authority is limited to a foreign port or to a home port where the owner does not reside and is not within easy access of the master,[82] and where the owners or their agent are at the port of the vessel's anchorage or so near it that they can be readily consulted or can be reasonably expected to interfere personally, the master cannot, without consulting them, pledge the owners' credit for the ship's necessaries, and hence the owners will not be liable on such a contract,[83] unless the master has special authority for that purpose,[84] or the owners have held him out as having such authority,[85] or have ratified the contract after it was made,[86] or there is some custom of trade warranting it.[87]

c. Contracts of Affreightment. Where a vessel is loaded wholly by the owners and is not employed in carrying freight for hire, the master thereof has no authority to enter into contracts of affreightment,[88] except where it is necessary in a foreign port to diminish the loss to the owners or charterers, by reason of the failure to obtain an expected cargo.[89] But the master of a vessel engaged Medical attendance.—Where seamen are injured by an accident, and put on shore while the ship proceeds on her voyage, the captain has no implied authority to make the shipowner liable for expenses incurred for their maintenance and care. Organ v. Brodie, 3 C. L. R. 51, 10 Exch. 449, 24 L. J. Exch. 70, 3 Wkly. Rep. 13.

78. Calef v. The Bonaparte, 1 Rob. (La.) 463, 38 Am. Dec. 190.

79. Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256; Carr v. Burke, 32 Mo. 233; Provost v. Patchin, 9 N. Y. 235; McCready v. Thorne, 49 Barb. (N. Y.) 438; Winsor v. Maddock, 64 Pa. St. 231; Glading v. George, 3 Grant (Pa.) 290; Wainwright v. Crawford, 3 Yeates (Pa.) 131. See also Daly v. Monroe, 2 N. Y. City Ct. 160.

Presumption.— Even at a home port, the master of a vessel is presumed to have authority to contract for such articles for the use of the vessel as come within the general appellation of "ship's stores," and the owner of the vessel is liable for the value of the same, unless he shows that the master had no such authority. Crawford v. Roberts, 50 Cal. 235.

That the master is furnished with money for the purpose of procuring supplies does not affect the liability of the owner if the tradesmen had no knowledge of that fact. Glading v. George, 3 Grant (Pa.) 290.

80. Provost v. Patchin, 9 N. Y. 235; Glading v. George, 3 Grant (Pa.) 290.

81. Winsor v. Maddock, 64 Pa. St. 231.

82. Woodruff, etc., Iron Works v. Stetson, 31 Conn. 51; Schultz v. Bosman, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,488, 5 Hughes 97.

What are foreign ports.— Ports of the several states of the United States are foreign ports as regards the authority of masters lying therein to pledge the credit of the owners for supplies necessary for their vessels. Negus v. Simpson, 99 Mass. 388; Black Diamond Coal Min. Co. v. The H. C. Grady, 87 Fed. 232.

Home port defined see 21 Cyc. 447.

83. Connecticut.—Woodruff, etc., Iron Wks. v. Stetson, 31 Conn. 51.

Louisiana.—Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1.

Maine.— Jordan v. Young, 37 Me. 276.

Maryland.— Pentz v. Clarke, 41 Md. 327.

England.— Gunn v. Roberts, L. R. 9 C. P. 331, 2 Aspin. 250, 43 L. J. C. P. 233, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 424, 22 Wkly. Rep. 652; Beldon v. Campbell, 6 Exch. 886, 20 L. J. Exch. 342; Curran v. Wood, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 592.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 259.

84. Dyer v. Snow, 47 Me. 254; Pentz v. Clarke, 41 Md. 327; The Jeanie Landles, 17 Fed. 91, 9 Sawy. 102; Arthur v. Barton, 9 L. J. Exch. 187, 6 M. & W. 138; Pettipas v. Crosby, 9 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 197, 20 Nova Scotia 446.

85. Pentz v. Clarke, 41 Md. 327.

86. Pentz v. Clarke, 41 Md. 327.

87. Arthur v. Barton, 9 L. J. Exch. 187, 6 M. & W. 138.

88. Walter v. Brewer, 11 Mass. 99 (unless the owners assent); King v. Lenox, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 235.

89. Crabtree v. Clark, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,314, Sprague 217.

in carrying freight may enter into contracts of affreightment binding on the owners upon such terms as are authorized by the usual course of trade of his vessel,[90] particularly at a foreign port,[91] unless the owner is on board attending exclusively to the shipment of the cargo,[92] or unless such authority is given to another.[93] The master, however, can only procure freight for the vessel on the ordinary terms,[94] and he cannot make the freight payable to other than the owner,[95] or contract to carry goods free,[96] or at a lower rate than the owner has contracted for, for the same goods.[97]

d. Authority and Duties as to Cargo in General.[98] It is the duty of the master as such of a general ship to see to the safe loading, stowage, and transportation of the cargo,[99] and other than this he has no authority to exercise or duty to perform in respect to the cargo, as the supercargo, if there is one, represents the owners of the cargo.[1] The master, however, may be authorized to act as supercargo during the voyage,[2] as where he is also the consignee of the cargo for sale;[3] and when he also acts as supercargo, what he does relative to the safe-keeping and transportation of the cargo he does as master, and his acts bind the owners of the vessel;[4] but what he does relative to its sale and disposition after reaching the port of destination he does as supercargo, and neither the owners of the vessel nor the vessel itself are responsible therefor.[5]

90. Bergerot v. Farish, 9 Rob. (La.) 346; Porter v. Curry, 7 La. 233; The Argyle v. Worthington, 17 Ohio 460; The Flash, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,857, Abb. Adm. 67; Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665; Rienquist v. Ditchell, 3 Esp. 64, 2 Campb. 556 note. See also The Hendrik Hudson, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,358; Pearson v. Göschen, 17 C. B. N. S. 352, 10 Jur. N. S. 903, 34 L. J. C. P. 265, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 758, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1116, 112 E. C. L. 352.

Application.—Where the registered owner of a vessel appoints her master with an agreement that the master shall have the entire control of the vessel and make contracts of affreightment and divide the gross earnings with the owner, the owner is liable on contracts made by the master with shippers who have no notice of the arrangement between the master and the owner. Tomlinson v. Holt, 49 Cal. 310; Oakland Cotton Mfg. Co. v. Jennings, 46 Cal. 175, 13 Am. Rep. 209.

A master may make contracts to take effect in futuro to carry freight according to the usual course of trade of his vessel. Porter v. Curry, 7 La. 233.

To render the owner liable it must appear: That he owned the vessel; that the vessel was in his employment; that the master was appointed by him; and acted within the scope of his authority. Reynolds v. Toppan, 15 Mass. 370, 8 Am. Dec. 110. See also Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55.

By the custom existing upon the Great Lakes, the master of a vessel has, by virtue of his office, power to bind his vessel by receiving for transportation goods subject to prior charges, which he is to collect from the consignee and to return to the shippers. The Hendrik Hudson, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,358.

91. Ward v. Green, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 173, 16 Am. Dec. 437; Murfree v. Redding, 2 N. C. 276.

92. Ward v. Green, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 173, 16 Am. Dec. 437.

93. Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55.

94. The Sir Henry Webb, 13 Jur. 639.

95. Reynolds v. Jex, 7 B. & S. 86, 34 L. J. Q. B. 251, 13 Wkly. Rep. 968; Walshe v. Provan, 1 C. L. R. 823, 8 Exch. 843, 22 L. J. Exch. 355.

96. Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665; Dewell v. Moxon, 1 Taunt. 391.

97. Pickernell v. Jauberry, 3 F. & F. 217.

98. Duty of master as to receiving and discharging cargo of chartered vessel see supra, III, J.

99. Burdge v. Two Hundred and Twenty Tons of Fish Scrap, 2 Fed. 783, 5 Hughes 141 (holding that it is the duty of the master when fully cognizant of the facts to determine when the vessel has taken as much cargo at the wharf as is prudent, in view of the depth of water, although the cargo is being loaded by the shippers); Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226. And see infra, VII, C, D.

1. Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226.

Rights, powers, and compensation of supercargo generally see infra, VII, F.

2. Smedley v. Yeaton, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,965, 3 Cranch C. C. 181.

The master cannot wholly abandon his duty as master to discharge that of supercargo, but must act in both capacities so far as possible with reference to the respective principals. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

3. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316; Williams v. Nichols, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 58; Smedley v. Yeaton, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,965, 3 Cranch C. C. 181.

4. Williams v. Nichols, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 58; The Maiden City, 33 Fed. 715; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165.

5. Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am. Dec. 621; Williams v. Nichols, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 58; The Maiden City, 33 Fed. 715; The New

e. Authority as to Purchase of Cargo. As a general rule, it is not within the general powers of a master to purchase a cargo on behalf of the owners,[6] and the owners are not liable for such purchases by the master unless previously authorized [7] or subsequently ratified.[8] Upon the failure of the charterers of a vessel to furnish a certain cargo at a certain port, the master, although he is required to use reasonable efforts to diminish the charterers' loss, is not bound in order to do so to purchase a cargo at his own risk,[9] or to go to other ports to obtain it.[10]

f. Collection of Freight. As a general rule a master has authority and it is his duty to collect the freight due on the goods carried in his vessel,[11] unless authority to make such collections is given to another;[12] and he has no authority to release a charterer from paying the freight reserved in the charter-party,[13] or to vary the terms of the contract made by the owner in respect thereto.[14] If he acts as agent of the owners of a chartered vessel, it is his duty to collect the freight for the benefit of the charterer,[15] and if he neglects or refuses to pay over such freight, the owners will be liable therefor,[16] unless he is made the agent of the charterers for that purpose.[17]

g. Borrowing Money. The master of a vessel when without funds or the means of raising them, in a foreign port, may as a rule bind the owners of the vessel for money borrowed in good faith to pay for repairs, supplies, and other necessaries reasonably fit and proper to enable the vessel to continue on her voyage,[18]

Hampshire, 21 Fed. 924; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165. See also infra, IV, B, 5, c.

6. Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289; Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am. Dec. 243; Newhall v. Dunlap, 14 Me. 180, 31 Am. Dec. 45; Hathorn v. Curtis, 8 Me. 356; The Ole Oleson, 20 Fed. 384.

The usage of a particular place that the master of a vessel as such has power to purchase a cargo on account of the owners without authority from them is not valid and cannot bind the owners. Hewett v. Buck, 17 Me. 147, 35 Am. Dec. 243.

7. Morton v. Day, 6 La. Ann. 762; Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289; Hathorn v. Curtis, 8 Me. 356; Bidenlac v. Smith, 31 N. Y. 259.

8. Lyman v. Redman, 23 Me. 289.

9. Crabtree v. Clark, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,314, 1 Sprague 217.

10. Crabtree v. Clark, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,314, 1 Sprague 217.

11. Swift v. Tatner, 89 Ga. 660, 15 S. E. 842, 32 Am. St. Rep. 101 (holding that if he neglects to collect freights in which he has an interest he cannot make the owners respond for his interest, unless they were instrumental in preventing payment); Ingersoll v. Van Bokkelin, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 670 [reversed on other grounds in 5 Wend. 315]; Damora v. Craig, 48 Fed. 736.

The master should collect the freight in the medium of payment which he is instructed to receive. The Dunmore, 2 Aspin. 599, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 340.

12. The Edmund, 29 L. J. Adm. 76, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 192, Lush. 58.

13. Balcarres Brook Steamship Co. v. Grace, 75 Fed. 1017, 22 C. C. A. 7 [reversing 66 Fed. 358].

14. Balcarres Brook Steamship Co. v. Grace, 75 Fed. 1017, 22 C. C. A. 7 [reversing 66 Fed. 358]. Compare Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665; Pearson v. Göschen, 17 C. B. N. S. 352, 10 Jur. N. S. 903, 33 L. J. C. P. 265, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 758, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1116, 112 E. C. L. 352.

15. The Maiden City, 33 Fed. 715.

16. The Maiden City, 33 Fed. 715.

17. The Maiden City, 33 Fed. 715.

18. Connecticut.—Williams v. Kelly, 2 Conn. 218 note.

Louisiana.— Mississippi Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1; McGregor v. Brittingham, 12 La. 182.

Maine.— Descadillas v. Harris, 8 Me. 298.

Maryland.— Miller v. Palmer, 58 Md. 451.

Massachusetts.— Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray 482, 74 Am. Dec. 608, holding that the master may pledge the credit of the owner for money needed to pay the officers and crew if the money is necessary for the purpose, is loaned in good faith, and due diligence is used to ascertain the necessity.

New York.— Lobach v. Hotchkiss, 17 Abb. Pr. 88, holding that the owners are liable irrespective of the fact that the master is interested in the voyage to such an extent that the owner might not be liable for ordinary advances.

Ohio.— See The Arkansas Mail v. Fox, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 219.

Pennsylvania.—Wainwright v. Crawford, 4 Dall. 225, 1 L. ed. 810. See also Cupisino v. Perez, 2 Dall. 194, 1 L. ed. 345.

United States.— Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226.

England.— Edwards v. Havill, 14 C. B. 107, 2 C. L. R. 1343, 17 Jur. 1103, 23 L. J. C. P. 8, 2 Wkly. Rep. 12, 78 E. C. L. 107; Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665; Beldon v. Campbell, 6 Exch. 886, 20 L. J. Exch. 342; Arthur v. Barton, 9 L. J. Exch. 187, 6 M. & W. 138; The Sophie, 1 Notes of Cas. 393, 1 W. Rob. 368; Robinson v. Lyall, 7 Price 592; Rocher

although the necessity therefor arose from the master's own misconduct;[19] and this rule applies even in a home port where the power of communication with the owners is not correspondent with the existing necessity;[20] but where the vessel is in a port where the owners may be readily communicated with, the master ordinarily has no authority to pledge the owners' credit for money borrowed without consulting with them.[21] The money borrowed, however, must be necessary, that is, it must be required for purposes which are reasonably fit and proper under the circumstances under which the vessel is placed, otherwise the owners are not liable therefor,[22] and it is the duty of the loaner to see that the money is needed for such purposes;[23] nor are the owners liable for advances which are collusively made.[24]

h. Execution of Bonds, Notes, and Bills of Exchange.[25] The master of a vessel has no power to execute, indorse, or accept bills of exchange or notes binding on the owners of his vessel,[26] except in a foreign port for necessary repairs or supplies,[27] or except where he is specially authorized to do so.[28] In a foreign port the master may bind the owners by the execution of a bond to procure the release of his vessel,[29] but he has no such authority in the home port;[30] nor can

v. Busher, 1 Stark. 27, 18 Rev. Rep. 742, 2 E. C. L. 21.

Canada.— Reide v. The Queen of the Isles, 3 Can. Exch. 258.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 265.

Existing indebtedness.—A master has no authority to borrow money to pay a debt for supplies and services for which the owners of the vessel are already personally responsible by the contract under which the supplies were furnished or the services rendered (Beldon v. Campbell, 6 Exch. 886, 20 L. J. Exch. 342); but no such restriction on the authority of the master exists where the debt constitutes a lien on the vessel or cargo capable of immediate enforcement in a foreign port, and in such a case the master may borrow money on the credit of the owner to pay for such debt (Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray (Mass.) 482, 74 Am. Dec. 608).

Where the owner takes the benefit of money borrowed by the master without authority he is liable for its repayment. Ashmall v. Wood, 3 Jur. N. S. 232, 5 Wkly. Rep. 397.

19. Descadillas v. Harris, 8 Me. 298.

20. Stonehouse v. Gent, 2 Q. B. 431 note, 42 E. C. L. 746; Johns v. Simons, 2 Q. B. 425, 42 E. C. L. 743; Detroit Third Nat. Bank v. Symes, 4 Can. Exch. 400.

21. Mississippi Agricultural Bank v. The Jane, 19 La. 1; George W. Bush, etc., Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 73 Fed. 501; Johns v. Simons, 2 Q. B. 425, 42 E. C. L. 743; Williamson v. Page, 1 C. & K. 581, 47 E. C. L. 581.

22. Merwin v. Shailer, 16 Conn. 489; Miller v. Palmer, 58 Md. 451; Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray (Mass.) 482, 74 Am. Dec. 608; George W. Bush, etc., Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 73 Fed. 501.

At common law the master cannot make the owners liable for money not actually necessary, although he may pretend that it is. Hanschell v. Swan, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 304, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 42.

23. Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray (Mass.) 482, 74 Am. Dec. 608; George W. Bush, etc., Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 73 Fed. 501; Mackintosh v. Mitcheson, 4 Exch. 175, 18 L. J. Exch. 385; Bogle v. Atty, Gow. 50, 5 E. C. L. 865; Palmer v. Gooch, 2 Stark. 428, 3 E. C. L. 475.

The money must be advanced expressly for the purpose of purchasing necessaries. Thacker v. Moates, 1 M. & Rob. 79.

24. Miller v. Palmer, 58 Md. 451.

25. Authority of clerk see infra, V, A, 1.

Authority of master to execute bottomry and respondentia bonds see infra, VI, D, 2.

26. Alabama.— May v. Kelly, 27 Ala. 497.

Indiana.— Holcroft v. Wilkes, 16 Ind. 373; Holcroft v. Halbert, 16 Ind. 256.

Louisiana.— Lambert v. Vawter, 6 Rob. 127.

Massachusetts.— Bowen v. Stoddard, 10 Metc. 375.

Missouri.— Gregg v. Robbins, 28 Mo. 347; Clark v. Humphreys, 25 Mo. 99.

United States.— See George W. Bush, etc., Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 73 Fed. 501.

England.— Strickland v. Neilson, 7 Macph. 400; Drain v. Scott, 3 Macph. 114.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 266.

An objection that the master was without authority to draw a bill on account of the owners is too late after the owners have answered, in an action on the bill, showing that the bill was drawn to release the vessel from seizure. Anderson v. Folger, 11 La. Ann. 269.

A usage among the owners of vessels at particular ports to pay bills drawn by masters for supplies furnished to their vessels in foreign ports cannot bind them as accepters of such bills. Bowen v. Stoddard, 10 Metc. (Mass.) 375; Clark v. Humphreys, 25 Mo. 99.

27. Clark v. Humphreys, 25 Mo. 99; Hanschell v. Swan, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 304, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 42; Milward v. Hallett, 2 Cai. (N. Y.) 77. But see Bowen v. Stoddard, 10 Metc. (Mass.) 375.

28. Pickersgill v. Williams, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,123; Wallace v. Agry, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,096, 4 Mason 336; Huntley v. Sanderson, 1 Cromp. & M. 467.

29. Stedman v. Patchin, 34 Barb. (N. Y.) 218.

30. Carr v. Burke, 32 Mo. 233.

he give an appeal-bond in the home port of the vessel without consulting the owners.[31]

1. Allowance or Settlement of Claims. The master of a vessel has no power to allow or settle claims against the vessel or against the owners,[32] except such as accrue during the time he is the master,[33] and he particularly has no such power where the claim is not a valid one against the owners.[34]

3. Management and Navigation of Vessel — a. Repair of Vessel. It is the duty of the master to use reasonable care, diligence, and skill to keep his vessel in such repair as to make its condition seaworthy.[35]

b. Navigation of Vessel in General. The captain or master of a vessel has control of every department of service on board, and it is his duty personally to see to the course of his vessel,[36] and to see that the officers and crew under him properly perform their assigned duties in respect to the navigation of the vessel,[37] even in local waters where the vessel for the time being is in charge of a local pilot,[38] and if there is any misconduct or neglect he is responsible civilly,[39] and under some statutes criminally,[40] for the consequences.

c. Delay In or Deviation From Voyage.[41] It is also the duty of the master 31. Gager v. Babcock, 48 N. Y. 154, 8 Am. Rep. 532, holding that where a vessel while in her home port near which her owner resides is seized under process, but is released and restored to the master, he has no authority as master, without consulting the owner, to prosecute an appeal or give an appeal-bond.

32. Kelley v. Merrill, 14 Me. 228.

33. Kelley v. Merrill, 14 Me. 228. See also Randall v. Brodhead, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 567, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 43; Alexander v. Dowie, 1 H. & N. 152, 25 L. J. Exch. 281.

34. Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N. Y. 685, holding that the master has no power in a domestic port to bind the owners by the allowance of a claim which is not a valid one against them.

Barred claims.—Where a shipmaster is discharged from his liability for supplies furnished at a distant port, by the neglect of the creditor to retain the debt out of funds of the owner paid over after the supplies were furnished, he cannot, upon paying the debt after the claim against the owner is barred by the statute of limitations, claim reimbursement from the owner; and the retention by the creditor of the funds of the master, without the latter's consent, cannot be treated as a payment by him for the purpose of such reimbursement. Bissell v. Bozman, 17 N. C. 229.

35. The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463 (holding that if a full cargo will submerge the copper on a vessel so as to subject the hull to worms, it is the duty of the master to put on additional copper if it can be procured); Benson v. Chapman, 8 C. B. 950, 65 E. C. L. 950, 2 H. L. Cas. 696, 9 Eng. Reprint 1256, 13 Jur. 969.

Degree of care and diligence.—If a vessel on a voyage becomes damaged, the master, in considering what steps he shall take in regard to carrying on the cargo or first repairing the vessel, is bound to consider the interests of all concerned, whether it be to return to his port of loading and repair, or repair at the nearest possible place before proceeding, or going on without repair, and if it is within his power to effect the repairs without any great delay or expense, it is his duty to repair before proceeding. The Rona, 5 Aspin. 259, 51 L. T. Rep. N. S. 28.

36. Union Ins. Co. v. Dexter, 52 Fed. 152.

37. U. S. v. Farnham, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,071, 2 Blatchf. 528, 11 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 161.

Distinction.—The duties and responsibilities of the captain of a steamboat are the same as those of the captain of any other vessel; and there is no distinction in law or maritime usage between the relative duties and responsibilities of different officers who serve on vessels propelled by steam, whether they navigate inland waters exclusively or are sea-going vessels. U. S. v. Farnham, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,071, 2 Blatchf. 528, 11 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 161.

38. The Oregon, 158 U. S. 186, 15 S. Ct. 804, 39 L. ed. 943 [reversing 45 Fed. 62].

While a licensed harbor or river pilot supersedes the master for the time being in the command and navigation of his vessel, yet the master is not justified in leaving the pilot in sole charge of the vessel. He is still in command except so far as her navigation is concerned, and is bound to see that there is a sufficient watch on deck, and that the men are attentive to their duties; and he may advise with the pilot and even displace him in case of intoxication or manifest incompetence. The Oregon, 158 Fed. 186, 15 S. Ct. 804, 39 L. ed. 943 [reversing 45 Fed. 62]. See also Homer Ramsdell Transp. Co. v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 63 Fed. 845, 182 U. S. 406, 21 S. Ct. 831, 45 L. ed. 1155; The Batavien, 1 Spinks 378.

39. Union Ins. Co. v. Dexter, 52 Fed. 152; U. S. v. Farnham, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,071, 2 Blatchf. 528.

40. See U. S. v. Farnham, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,071, 2 Blatchf. 528.

41. Liability of vessel for injuries to cargo by reason of delay or deviation see infra, VII, D, 8.

to follow his instructions as to the course of his voyage,[42] and if he deviates therefrom he will be responsible for the consequences to his owners,[43] unless such deviation is authorized by the owners' agent at an intermediate port,[44] or is caused by necessity, as by stress of weather or for the safety of the vessel or crew,[45] or unless the owners ratify his acts.[46] The master may deviate from his course for the purpose of saving human life;[47] and while there is no obligation upon him to lie by or delay the progress of his voyage for the purpose of preserving property,[48] the maritime law and commercial usage do not prohibit him from deviating in the exercise of a sound discretion to save property that is in peril.[49]

4. Sale or Other Disposition of Vessel[50] — a. In General. Except in a case of necessity,[51] the master of a vessel as such has no power to sell or otherwise dispose of the vessel or any part thereof without special authority therefor from the owners,[52] and hence the owners are ordinarily not bound by a fraudulent sale made by the master without such authority,[53] or in excess of his special authority.[54]

b. Necessity For Sale — (i) In General. The rule is well settled that in a case of an urgent necessity, as where it becomes impossible to continue the voyage by reason of the vessel becoming wrecked, stranded, or otherwise disabled, and it is impossible or impracticable to communicate with the owners,[55] the master not only has implied authority, but it also becomes his duty, to sell the vessel for the benefit of the owners and all other interests concerned, in order to save them from a greater loss,[56] provided he acts in good faith and with due discre-

42. Robinson v. Hinckley, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,954, 2 Paine 457; Burgon v. Sharpe, 2 Campb. 529, 11 Rev. Rep. 788.

43. Robinson v. Hinckley, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,954, 2 Paine 457.

44. Robinson v. Hinckley, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,954, 2 Paine 457.

45. Sylvain v. Canadian Forwarding, etc., Co., 10 Quebec Super. Ct. 195 [reversing 7 Quebec Super. Ct. 256].

46. Codwise v. Hacker, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 526.

47. Scaramanga v. Stamp, 5 C. P. D. 295, 4 Aspin. 295, 49 L. J. C. P. 674, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 840, 28 Wkly. Rep. 691.

A stoppage or interruption for the purpose of saving human lives is not such a deviation as will render the master civilly or criminally responsible for any subsequent disaster to his vessel. Sturtevant v. The George Nicholaus, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,578, Newb. Adm. 449.

48. Sturtevant v. The George Nicholaus, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,578, Newb. Adm. 449.

49. Sturtevant v. The George Nicholaus, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,578, Newb. Adm. 449. But see Scaramanga v. Stamp, 5 C. P. D. 295, 4 Aspin. 295, 49 L. J. C. P. 674, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 840, 28 Wkly. Rep. 691.

50. Effect of sale on liens see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 799.

Presumption as to validity of sale see infra, IV, F, 3.

Recovery as for a total loss on a sale from necessity see Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 687, 694.

51. See infra, IV, B, 4, b.

52. Indiana.— Ingersoll v. Emmerson, 1 Ind. 76.

Louisiana.— Peck v. Gale, 3 La. 320.

Maine.— Gates v. Thompson, 57 Me. 442, 99 Am. Dec. 782; Johnson v. Wingate, 29 Me. 404.

United States.— The Yarkland, 117 Fed. 335 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73]; The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465; Skrine v. The Hope, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,927, Bee 2; The Tilton, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,054, 5 Mason 465.

England.— Reid v. Darby, 10 East 143, 103 Eng. Reprint 730; Hayman v. Molton, 5 Esp. 65, 8 Rev. Rep. 837; The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252; Johnson v. Shippen, 2 Ld. Raym. 982, 92 Eng. Reprint 154.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 272.

The bar of the vessel cannot be sold by the master so as to give the purchaser an interest in the vessel, although he may grant the privilege of keeping a bar so long as he is concerned with the vessel, but in such a case the barkeeper is on the same footing as others engaged on the vessel, and must be under the supervision intrusted to the master. Kelly v. Dickinson, 15 Mo. 193.

53. Ingersoll v. Emmerson, 1 Ind. 76; East India Co. v. Ekines, 2 Bro. P. C. 382, 1 Eng. Reprint 1011 [affirming 1 P. Wms. 350, 24 Eng. Reprint 441]; The Empress, 3 Jur. N. S. 119, Swab. 160, 5 Wkly. Rep. 165.

54. Johnson v. Wingate, 29 Me. 404; Gibson v. Colt, 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 390, holding that the power to sell does not give the power to warrant the title.

55. See infra, IV, B, 4, b, (III).

56. Louisiana.— Peck v. Gale, 3 La. 320.

Maine.— Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am. Dec. 635.

Massachusetts.— Woods v. Clark, 24 Pick. 35.

New York.— Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355.

United States.— The Amelie, 6 Wall. 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Yarkland, 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73 [affirming 117 Fed. 336]; Joy v. Allen, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,552, 2 Woodb. & M.

tion.[57] The necessity which will justify the master in making such a sale is a question of fact depending upon the particular circumstances existing at the time of the sale;[58] and the mere fact that the vessel is subsequently rescued and repaired by the purchaser does not invalidate the sale.[59] It must be an apparent moral necessity,[60] and must be extreme or urgent.[61]

(II) APPLICATIONS. Thus if the master acts in good faith and with due discretion, he is justified in selling the vessel where the circumstances are such that a person of prudent and sound mind, after carefully observing all the facts and weighing all the probabilities, could have no doubt as to the advisability of the sale,[62] as where the vessel is exposed to an actual and impending peril, or to a peril likely to ensue, and from which it is probable in the opinion of persons competent to judge that it cannot be rescued;[63] or where the vessel has become 303; The Tilton, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,054, 5 Mason 465.

England.— Ireland v. Thomson, 4 C. B. 149, 17 L. J. C. P. 241, 56 E. C. L. 149; The Fannie, Edw. Adm. 117; Hayman v. Molton, 5 Esp. 65, 8 Rev. Rep. 837; Hunter v. Parker, 10 L. J. Exch. 231, 7 M. & W. 322; Idle v. Royal Exch. Assur. Co., 3 Moore C. P. 115, 8 Taunt. 755, 21 Rev. Rep. 538, 4 E. C. L. 368. But see In re Tremenhere, 1 Sid. 452, 82 Eng. Reprint 1213.

Canada.— Orange v. McKay, 5 Nova Scotia 444.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 273.

The rigging and sails as well as the vessel may be sold by the master. The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213.

The master's duties do not cease until the proceeds of the sale are placed at the disposal of the owners. Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am. Dec. 635. See also Ireland v. Thomson, 4 C. B. 149, 17 L. J. C. P. 241, 56 E. C. L. 149.

The mere presence of an agent of the owners of the vessel at the sale of her by her master does not constitute a sale any the less a sale by the master. The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,372, 1 Blatchf. & H. 465.

57. See infra, IV, B, 4, h, (IV).

58. Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am. Dec. 676; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213; The Yarkland, 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73 [affirming 117 Fed. 336]; The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305; The Glasgow, 2 Jur. N. S. 1147, 12 Moore P. C. 355 note, Swab. 145, 5 Wkly. Rep. 10, 14 Eng. Reprint 946; The Victor, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 21.

59. The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213; The Yarkland, 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73 [affirming 117 Fed. 336]; The Glasgow, 2 Jur. N. S. 1147, 12 Moore P. C. 355 note, Swab. 145, 5 Wkly. Rep. 10, 14 Eng. Reprint 946; Idle v. Royal Exch. Assur. Co., 3 Moore C. P. 115, 8 Taunt. 755, 21 Rev. Rep. 538, 4 E. C. L. 368.

60. Maine.— Dunning v. Merchants' Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., 57 Me. 108; Stephenson v. Piscataqua F. & M. Ins. Co., 54 Me. 55; Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am. Dec. 676.

Massachusetts.— Gordon v. Massachusetts F. & M. Ins. Co., 2 Pick. 249.

United States.— Hartman v. The Will, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,163, 4 Pa. L. J. 350; The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305.

England.— Somes v. Sugrue, 4 C. & P. 276, 19 E. C. L. 513.

Canada.— Orange v. McKay, 5 Nova Scotia 444.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 273.

61. Louisiana.— Peck v. Nashville Mar., etc., Ins. Co., 6 La. Ann. 148.

Maine.— Pike v. Balch, 38 Me. 302, 61 Am. Dec. 248.

Massachusetts.— Gordon v. Massachusetts, etc., F. Ins. Co., 2 Pick. 249.

United States.— The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. 387, 10 L. ed. 213; The Tilton, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,054, 5 Mason 465.

England.— Cobequid Mar. Ins. Co. v. Barteaux, L. R. 6 P. C. 319, 2 Aspin. 536, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 510, 23 Wkly. Rep. 892; The Margaret Mitchell, 4 Jur. N. S. 1193, Swab. 382; The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, Lush. 252, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 273.

An extreme or urgent necessity within the meaning of this rule is such a necessity as leaves the master no alternative as a prudent and skilful man, acting bona fide for the best interests of all concerned, and with the best and soundest judgment that can be formed under the circumstances, except to sell the vessel as she lies. Hall v. Franklin Ins. Co., 9 Pick. (Mass.) 466; Chambers v. Grantzon, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 414; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Herald, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,393, 8 Ben. 109; Cobequid Mar. Ins. Co. v. Barteaux, L. R. 6 P. C. 319, 2 Aspin. 536, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 510, 23 Wkly. Rep. 892.

An absolute necessity is not essential. Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am. Dec. 676.

62. Chambers v. Grantzon, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 414; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Yarkland, 117 Fed. 336 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73]; The Australia, 13 Moore P. C. 132, Swab. 480, 7 Wkly. Rep. 718, 15 Eng. Reprint 50.

63. Dunning v. Merchants' Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., 57 Me. 108; The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213; The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305.

so disabled that it cannot proceed upon its voyage without repairs and there are no means of getting repairs made in the place where the vessel is,[64] or the master has no funds or way of raising the necessary means for procuring repairs;[65] or where the injuries are so great that the cost of repairing would be greater than[66] or disproportionate to the value of the vessel.[67]

(III) Ability to Communicate With Owners. A master's power of selling the vessel from necessity without consulting the owners arises, however, only where by reason of the distance from the owners or the pressing imminence of the peril to which the vessel is exposed it is not reasonable and practicable to communicate with them.[68] Where practicable, the owners should have an opportunity to decide whether in their judgment the sale is necessary, and if by the ordinary means of conveying intelligence of the situation of the vessel the master can obtain directions from them as to what he should do, he should resort to those means,[69] and if he sells without such communication where it is practicable, the sale is invalid.[70]

(IV) Good Faith in Making Sale. It is essential to the validity of such a sale that the necessity therefor and the good faith of the master in making the sale must concur.[71] In determining the necessity for, and in effecting, the sale the master must act with entire good faith,[72] and exercise his best discretion in pursuing the course which will best promote the interests of all concerned.[73] If

Rule of action.— The master must collect the best information his situation and the urgency of the case may admit, in respect to the actual condition and injury of his vessel, the character of her exposure in that situation, and the known and probable means he may command for her relief, and then, if his honest opinion concurs with that of competent persons, whom he may have opportunity to consult, his power to sell is not only complete, but the necessity then becomes an urgent duty upon him to sell for the preservation of the interests of all concerned. The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213; The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305.

64. The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440].

65. The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Glasgow, 2 Jur. N. S. 1147, 12 Moore P. C. 355 note, Swab. 145, 5 Wkly. Rep. 10, 14 Eng. Reprint 946.

66. The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440].

67. Chambers v. Grantzon, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 414; The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213; Somes v. Sugrue, 4 C. & P. 276, 19 E. C. L. 513; The Uniao Vencedora, 33 L. J. Adm. 195, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 351; The Australia, 13 Moore P. C. 132, Swab. 480, 7 Wkly. Rep. 718, 15 Eng. Reprint 50; Robertson v. Caruthers, 2 Stark. 571, 20 Rev. Rep. 738, 3 E. C. L. 534.

Where it will cost more than one half the value of the vessel to repair her, the master is justified in making a sale from necessity. Dunning v. Merchants' Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., 57 Me. 108; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 1,838, 2 Cliff. 440].

68. Peck v. Nashville Mar., etc., Ins. Co., 6 La. Ann. 148; Hall v. Franklin Ins. Co., 9 Pick. (Mass.) 466; The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213 [affirming 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,342, 2 Sumn. 206]; The Herald, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,393, 8 Ben. 409; The Uniao Vencedora, 33 L. J. Adm. 195, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 351; The Australia, 13 Moore P. C. 132, Swab. 480, 7 Wkly. Rep. 718, 15 Eng. Reprint 50. But compare Scull v. Briddle, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,569, 2 Wash. 150.

69. The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213 [affirming 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,342, 2 Sumn. 206]; The Yarkland, 117 Fed. 336 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73]; The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252.

70. Miller v. Thompson, 60 Me. 322; Gates v. Thompson, 57 Me. 442, 99 Am. Dec. 782; The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252.

71. Dunning v. Merchants' Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., 57 Me. 108; Chambers v. Grantzon, 7 Bosw. (N. Y.) 414; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213; The Tilton, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,054, 5 Mason 465; The William Carey, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,689, 3 Ware 313.

72. Peck v. Gale, 3 La. 320; Hartman v. The Will, 9 Pa. L. J. 111; The Yarkland, 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73 [affirming 117 Fed. 336]; The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305; The Fannie, Edw. Adm. 117.

A purchase by the master of the vessel at a sale of necessity by him is invalid. Glover v. Ames, 8 Fed. 351.

73. Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am. Dec. 676; The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213; The Herald, 11

the master sells in bad faith or without necessity, he is guilty of an unlawful conversion,[74] and the owners are not thereby divested of their title,[75] but may assert their rights of property against the purchasers.[76] The purchasers, however, should be allowed for their expenditures in rescuing and repairing the vessel.[77]

c. Ratification of Sale. An unauthorized sale of the vessel by the master may be subsequently ratified by the owners,[78] as where with an actual or constructive knowledge of the master's acts they accept the proceeds of the sale,[79] unless they are received without the intention of appropriating them,[80] or where with such knowledge they otherwise acquiesce in the master's act.[81]

5. Sale or Other Disposition of Cargo[82] — a. In General. As a general rule the master of a vessel as such has no authority to sell or otherwise dispose of the cargo or any portion thereof,[83] except to the extent that he is specially authorized to do so,[84] and except in a case of necessity;[85] and if he sells without such special authority or such necessity he is personally liable to the shippers,[86] and must account therefor to them,[87] or the owners of the vessel may be held

Fed. Cas. No. 6,393, 8 Ben. 409; The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305; Read v. Bonham, 3 B. & B. 147, 6 Moore C. P. 397, 23 Rev. Rep. 587, 7 E. C. L. 653; Hayman v. Molton, 5 Esp. 65, 8 Rev. Rep. 837.

Consulting consul.— Before selling in a foreign port the master should consult the consul of his country resident there. The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252.

Consulting surveyors.— While it is not absolutely necessary in such a case that there should be a survey of the vessel before the sale, the master should not sell when in port with a disabled ship without first calling to his aid disinterested persons of skill and experience who are competent to advise after a full survey of the vessel and her injuries, whether she had better be repaired or sold, and although his authority does not depend upon their recommendation, yet if he acts on their advice it is strong evidence in justification of his conduct. Gordon v. Massachusetts F., etc., Ins. Co., 2 Pick. (Mass.) 249; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806 [affirming 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,838, 2 Cliff. 440]; The Yarkland, 117 Fed. 336 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 887, 58 C. C. A. 73]; The Herald, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,393, 8 Ben. 409; Orange v. McKay, 5 Nova Scotia 444.

A sale by auction is a prudent and proper step to pursue, but not absolutely necessary. Orange v. McKay, 5 Nova Scotia 444.

74. Brightman v. Eddy, 97 Mass. 478.

75. Harrison v. The Susan Ludwig, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,145*a*; Ridgway v. Roberts, 4 Hare 106, 30 Eng. Ch. 106, 67 Eng. Reprint 580; The Eliza Cornish, 17 Jur. 738, 1 Spinks 36.

76. The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213 [affirming 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,342, 2 Sumn. 206, and criticizing Scull v. Briddle, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,569, 2 Wash. 150]; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186; The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.

77. The Sarah Ann, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 387, 10 L. ed. 213 [affirming 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,342, 2 Sumn. 206]; The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.

78. Glover v. Ames, 8 Fed. 351; The Sarah Harris, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,345, 7 Ben. 28.

79. Harris v. Burdett, 76 N. Y. 582 [affirming 43 N. Y. Super. Ct. 57]; The Sarah Harris, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,345, 7 Ben. 28; The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252; Hunter v. Parker, 10 L. J. Exch. 281, 7 M. & W. 322.

80. The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252.

81. Johnson v. Wingate, 29 Me. 404; The Australia, 13 Moore P. C. 132, Swab. 480, 7 Wkly. Rep. 718, 15 Eng. Reprint 50.

Vague expressions of approval do not amount to a confirmation of the sale if the owners at the time were not aware of the true state of the facts relating thereto. The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252.

82. Authority as to cargo in general see supra, IV, B, 2, d.

Authority as to purchase of cargo see supra, IV, B, 2, e.

83. Peters v. Ballistier, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 495; Saltus v. Everett, 20 Wend. (N. Y.) 267, 32 Am. Dec. 541; Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465.

84. Peters v. Ballistier, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 495; Forrester v. Dodge, 12 Mass. 565; Bidenlac v. Smith, 31 N. Y. 259; Rapp v. Palmer, 3 Watts (Pa.) 178. And see infra, IV, B, 5, c.

Authority to dispose of the cargo as he thinks best for the interest of the owner gives the master no authority to sell the cargo to pay the owner's general debts. Peters v. Ballistier, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 495.

A general practice of the master in former voyages of selling the cargo on approval by the owners does not give rise to implied authority in him to sell the cargo. Henshaw v. Clark, 2 Root (Conn.) 103.

85. See infra, IV, B, 5, b.

86. Harper v. Corson, 20 N. J. L. 674; Smith v. Martin, 6 Binn. (Pa.) 262; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No 11,274, 3 Story 465.

87. Redfield v. Davis, 6 Conn. 439.

Where the master remits the proceeds to one whom he believes to be the owner, which liable,[88] or both the master and owners,[89] or the vessel may be held liable for the value of the goods so sold.[90] Furthermore the sale is invalid and confers no title upon the purchaser,[91] unless ratified by the owner.[92]

b. In Case of Necessity — (i) In General. It is a well settled rule that the master of a vessel not only has authority, but it is also his duty, to sell the cargo or any part thereof when it becomes necessary for him to do so for the best interests of all concerned.[93] But he must act in good faith in making the sale,[94] and must be unable to communicate with the owners before the necessity for action becomes imperative,[95] and to effect such communication he is bound to use belief has been encouraged by the acts of the real owner, the master is not liable to the latter for doing so. Low v. De Wolf, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 101.

88. Myers v. Baymore, 10 Pa. St. 114, 49 Am. Dec. 586.

89. Ewbank v. Nutting, 7 C. B. 797, 62 E. C. L. 797.

90. Englehart v. The Pedro, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,489; Myers v. The Harriet, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,992.

The shipper's damages are to be measured by the value of the cargo at the place of shipment, together with all expenses and interest from the time of shipment, and if the libellant claims more than this or respondent asks to be discharged for less, they must clearly show the value of the goods at their destination. Myers v. The Harriet, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,992.

91. Graham v. Underwood, 15 La. Ann. 402; Peters v. Ballistier, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 495; Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109; Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co. v. Huth, 16 Ch. D. 474, 4 Aspin. 369, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 67, 29 Wkly. Rep. 387; Freeman v. East India Co., 5 B. & Ald. 617, 1 D. & R. 234, 24 Rev. Rep. 497, 7 E. C. L. 337.

Estoppel.— The purchaser of the cargo of a stranded vessel on a sale by the master will not be heard to say that a sale was necessary by reason of the purchaser's refusal to permit his vessel to be used for a transhipment. The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,864.

92. Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109.

The commencement of a suit by the owners of the cargo against the master for its value, which he has sold without authority, which suit is abandoned without judgment, is not a ratification of the sale, and does not affect the right to recover against the purchaser. Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109.

93. Louisiana.— Graham v. Underwood, 15 La. Ann. 402; Caldwell v. Western M. & F. Ins. Co., 19 La. 42, 36 Am. Dec. 667.

Maine.— Pike v. Balch, 38 Me. 302, 61 Am. Dec. 248.

Maryland.— Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

New Jersey.— Harper v. Corson, 20 N. J. L. 674.

New York.— Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355; Saltus v. Everett, 20 Wend. 267, 32 Am. Dec. 541.

Texas.— Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109.

United States.— Post v. Jones, 19 How. 150, 15 L. ed. 618; The Brewster, 95 Fed. 1000; The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,864; Myers v. The Harriet, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,992; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465.

England.— Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep. 728, 17 Eng. Reprint 393; Atlantic Mut. Mar. Ins. Co. v. Huth, 16 Ch. D. 474, 4 Aspin. 369, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 67, 29 Wkly. Rep. 387; Freeman v. East India Co., 5 B. & Ald. 617, 1 D. & R. 234, 24 Rev. Rep. 497, 7 E. C. L. 337; Morris v. Robinson, 3 B. & C. 196, 5 D. & R. 35, 27 Rev. Rep. 322, 10 E. C. L. 97; The Gratitudine, 3 C. Rob. 240.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," §§ 280, 281.

There is a "necessity" for the sale if, under the circumstances of the case, a sale is the best and most prudent thing to be done for the interest of the owners. Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep. 728, 17 Eng. Reprint 393.

If other means of saving the cargo be within the master's reach he must use all proper diligence, taking his situation and the cargo's condition into consideration, to procure such means. Caldwell v. Western M. & F. Ins. Co., 19 La. 42, 36 Am. Dec. 667. See also Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co. v. Huth, 16 Ch. D. 474, 4 Aspin. 369, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 67, 29 Wkly. Rep. 387.

Upon the Great Lakes where voyages are short, harbors of refuge many, and telegraph communications with the owners comparatively easy, a master has no power to sell any portion of the cargo except where an immediate sale is the only alternative to a total loss by a jettison. The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,864

94. Caldwell v. Western M. & F. Ins. Co., 19 La. 42, 36 Am. Dec. 667; Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355; The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,864.

Good faith alone is not sufficient if no necessity for the sale exists. Myers v. Baymore, 10 Pa. St. 114, 49 Am. Dec. 586.

The master cannot become a purchaser at a sale of the cargo which is sold by his authority as the agent of the owners. Barker v. Marine Ins. Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 992, 2 Mason 369.

95. The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,864; Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep.

every available means within his power.[96] The master may also in case of urgent necessity throw overboard or otherwise sacrifice his cargo to obtain the release of his distressed vessel,[97] but he has no right to give it away for such a purpose.[98]

(II) In Case of Wrecked or Disabled Vessel.[99] In accordance with the above rules, where a vessel becomes disabled, wrecked, or stranded, it is the duty of the master to use all reasonable efforts to have the cargo stored or transshipped and conveyed to its destination;[1] and as a general rule the master has no authority under such circumstances, except in a case of necessity, to sell any part of the cargo at an intermediate port to which his vessel is driven;[2] and if the master breaks up the voyage at an intermediate port he has no authority to sell any part of the cargo to pay for advances made to him in order to repair for a new voyage,[3] or to pay seamen's wages.[4] But where a vessel has become unable 728, 17 Eng. Reprint 393; The Gratitudine, 3 C. Rob. 240.

The master must, if practicable, consult with the cargo owners, otherwise the sale is invalid. Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355; Astsrup v. Lewy, 19 Fed. 536; Wagstaff v. Anderson, 5 C. P. D. 171, 49 L. J. C. P. 485, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 720, 28 Wkly. Rep. 856.

The possibility of communicating with the cargo owner depends on the circumstances of each case, involving a consideration of the facts which create the urgency for an early sale, the distance of the port from the owners, the means of communication which exists, and the general position of the master in the particular emergency. Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep. 728.

Communication only needs to be made where an answer can be obtained, or there is a reasonable expectation that it can be obtained, before sale. Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep. 728.

The fact that the master cannot communicate with all the owners of a general cargo does not of itself justify him in selling without communicating with any of the owners, but this fact is to be considered when an estimate of his conduct has to be formed. Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep. 728.

96. Pike v. Balch, 38 Me. 302, 61 Am. Dec. 248.

The master is bound to employ the telegraph as a means of communication, where it can usefully be done; but the state of the particular telegraph, the way in which it is managed, and the possibility of transmitting explanatory messages are proper subjects to be considered in determining the question of the practicability of communication. Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep. 728, 17 Eng. Reprint 393. See also Pike v. Balch, 38 Me. 302, 61 Am. Dec. 248.

97. The Albany, 44 Fed. 431.

Jettison of cargo in general see infra, VII, D, 3.

98. The Albany, 44 Fed. 431.

The donee takes no title to the property under such circumstances, but is liable therefor as bailee, and is bound to surrender it on demand to the owner. The Albany, 44 Fed. 431.

99. Right to sell damaged cargo see infra, VII, D, 11, b.

1. See infra, VII, C, 1.

2. Smith v. Martin, 6 Binn. (Pa.) 262; Halwerson v. Cole, 1 Speers (S. C.) 321, 40 Am. Dec. 603; The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,864 (holding that a sale of the cargo of a stranded vessel by the master is unnecessary, and therefore void, if he can tranship or store the cargo, or if he has any other alternative which a prudent owner on the spot would adopt); Englehart v. The Pedro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,489; Watt v. Potter, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,291, 2 Mason 77; Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co. v. Huth, 16 Ch. D. 474, 4 Aspin. 369, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 67, 29 Wkly. Rep. 387; Freeman v. East India Co., 5 B. & Ald. 617, 1 D. & R. 234, 24 Rev. Rep. 497, 7 E. C. L. 337; Cannan v. Meaburn, 1 Bing. 243, 1 L. J. C. P. O. S. 84, 8 Moore C. P. 127, 8 E. C. L. 491; Van Omeron v. Dowick, 2 Campb. 42, 11 Rev. Rep. 656. See also Cammell v. Sewell, 5 H. & N. 728, 6 Jur. N. S. 918, 29 L. J. Exch. 350, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 799, 8 Wkly. Rep. 639.

In case of shipwreck the master will be justified in selling the cargo only by a legal necessity, and not by the fact that a prudent owner would sell or that a sale would be best for all concerned. Bryant v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 6 Pick. (Mass.) 131, 13 Pick. 543.

A usage at the place where the disaster occurred for the master of a stranded vessel to sell the cargo without necessity is void. Bryant v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 6 Pick. (Mass.) 131, 13 Pick. 543.

Communication with owners.— Where the cargo of a stranded vessel is landed without damage, and it is not of a perishable nature and might be kept until the owners can be heard from, the master has no authority to sell it without consulting the owners and insurers. Bryant v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 6 Pick. (Mass.) 131, 13 Pick. 543.

3. Watt v. Potter, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,291, 2 Mason 77.

4. Watt v. Potter, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,291, 2 Mason 77.

to proceed upon her voyage without repairs or supplies, and the master is otherwise unable to raise funds to procure the same, he may, if he acts in good faith, sell so much of the cargo as may be necessary to put him in funds to make repairs or obtain the necessary supplies;[5] but before selling any of the cargo, the master should avail himself of all reasonable means to raise funds otherwise for such purposes, and the sale is not justified if it is made without his attempting to raise funds by hypothecation of the vessel or by maritime contract.[6] The master may also be justified, where his vessel is in a port of distress, in selling so much of the cargo as is of a perishable nature and damaged;[7] or where the vessel is in need of repairs, and the delay for repairs will be longer than is consistent with the preservation of that part of the cargo which is perishable,[8] and it cannot be reshipped to its port of destination except at a ruinous expense,[9] or ruinous loss in value.[10] The above rules have no application to a wreck in a distant ocean where the property is derelict or about to become so.[11]

c. Sale at Port of Destination. Where a cargo has reached its port of destination, the master ordinarily has no authority to sell any part of it,[12] unless he is specially authorized to do so,[13] as where it is consigned to him for sale,[14] or unless it is of a perishable nature, and the consignees refuse to receive it, and it cannot be readily stored in a place suitable to preserve it.[15] Where a master

5. Joy v. Allen, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,552, 2 Woodb. & M. 203; Myers v. The Harriet, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,992; Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465; Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226; Watt v. Potter, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,291, 2 Mason 77; The Gratitudine, 3 C. Rob. 240.

Right of cargo owner to restrain master from selling see Rayne v. Benedict, 5 Jur. 598, 10 L. J. Ch. 297.

Shipper's lien.— Shippers whose goods are disposed of to raise money for necessary repairs have a lien upon the vessel for the value of the goods at the port of destination. The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, Blatchf. & H. 309; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465. See also Hill v. The Oregon, 1 La. 543; Atkinson v. Stephens, 7 Exch. 567, 21 L. J. Exch. 329.

The master of a whale ship has a right to ship to a foreign port oil enough to raise money for his necessary disbursements, but if he sells in large excess thereof he may be compelled to account as though he had received it on a final division at a settlement of the voyage. Babcock v. Terry, 97 Mass. 482.

6. Myers v. The Harriet, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,992; Atkinson v. Stephens, 7 Exch. 567, 21 L. J. Exch. 329.

Except where he is clearly unable to procure funds on the credit of the ship or to hypothecate the cargo, the master has no authority to sell the cargo in order to make repairs. The Harriet, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,094.

7. Smith v. Martin, 6 Binn. (Pa.) 262; Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109; Maas v. The Pedee, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,652; The Veronica Madre, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 16,923, 10 Ben. 24. And see infra, VII, D, 11, b.

Where the cargo is materially damaged, the master need not wait a great length of time at a heavy expense to overhaul, repack, and reship it, where little or nothing can be saved thereby, but he may exercise a sound discretion and sell it for the benefit of all concerned. Robertson v. Western Mar., etc., Ins. Co., 19 La. 227, 36 Am. Dec. 673.

Where a cargo is so much injured that it will endanger the safety of the ship and cargo, or it will become utterly worthless, it is the duty of the master to land and sell the cargo at the place where the necessity arises, although it might have been carried to the port of destination, and there landed. Jordan v. Warren Ins. Co., 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,524, 1 Story 342.

8. The Velona, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,912, 3 Ware 139.

9. Hooper v. Rathbone, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,676, Taney 519.

10. Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355.

If the cargo can be conveyed to its place of destination without a loss exceeding fifty per cent, the master should convey it there and not sell it. Bryant v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 6 Pick. (Mass.) 131, 13 Pick. 543.

11. Post v. Jones, 19 How. (U. S.) 150, 15 L. ed. 618 (holding that a sale by the master of the derelict cargo of a whaling vessel, wrecked in Behring strait, to the masters of other vessels who have rescued him and his crew, is not a valid contract and gives no title to the purchasers, who must be treated as salvors of the cargo); Jones v. The Richmond, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,492. But see Jones v. The Richmond, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,491.

12. Everett v. Saltus, 15 Wend. (N. Y.) 474 [affirmed in 20 Wend. 267, 32 Am. Dec. 541]; United Ins. Co. v. Scott, 1 Johns. (N. Y.) 106; Moore v. Hill, 38 Fed. 330.

13. Jones v. Hoyt, 23 Conn. 157 (fraudulent purchase by master); Smith v. Davenport, 34 Me. 520; Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am. Dec. 621.

14. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

15. The Maria White, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,083, 1 Hask. 204.

with authority to sell the goods on arrival at the port of destination has unsuccessfully used all reasonable efforts to effect a sale, and is under the necessity of leaving the port with his vessel, he is justified in committing the goods to a responsible merchant there for sale.[16]

C. Individual Rights and Privileges[17] — 1. In General. The individual rights and privileges of the master of a vessel in the voyage or its results ordinarily depend upon the terms of his agreement with the owners.[18] He may be given a right or privilege to traffic on his own account;[19] but unless expressly given, the master cannot exercise a right or privilege which is inconsistent with his agency.[20] A master has no right to take any member of his family on the voyage free of charge, without a distinct understanding to that effect with the owners.[21]

2. Rights as to Freight. The freight, money, or its equivalent, on a cargo generally belongs to the owners of the vessel and not to the master;[22] but the owners cannot enforce the payment of freight against the shippers until the demands of the master thereon are satisfied.[23] Where by the shipping papers the master is made directly responsible to the seamen for their wages, he may retain freight to indemnify himself.[24]

D. Wages and Other Remuneration[25] — 1. In General. A master's right to compensation, whether in the form of wages[26] or commissions,[27] the term

The master need not await the expiration of lay days, in which the cargo is to be discharged, before sale (The Maria White, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,083, 1 Hask. 204), nor is he bound to sell the cargo until after the expiration of such days, but may in the meantime keep the cargo in the ship (Robbins v. Codman, 4 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 315).

16. Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am. Dec. 621; Day v. Noble, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 615, 13 Am. Dec. 463; Lawler v. Keaquick, 1 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 174.

Where consignees are selected by a ship's master or supercargo in a foreign port, according to usage and in good faith, they are so far the agents of the owners that, upon the death of such master or supercargo, his representatives are not responsible for the consequences of such consignees' misconduct or neglect in the execution of their agency after his death, not imputable to instructions previously given by such master or supercargo while living. Pawson v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 1, 19 Am. Dec. 213.

17. Insurable interest of master see Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 556.

Rights and liabilities of master who sails vessel on shares see supra, III, Q.

18. See Manter v. Holmes, 10 Metc. (Mass.) 402; Bray v. Bates, 9 Metc. (Mass.) 237.

Where it is agreed that the master may be interested to a certain extent in the profit and loss of the shipment, he has merely a right to participate in the profits, but no special or general property in the goods. Fleming v. Bevan, 2 Pa. St. 408.

19. Mathewson v. Clarke, 6 How. (U. S.) 122, 12 L. ed. 370.

Where the master is given the privilege of loading a certain amount of goods at a certain port for his own profit as a part of his compensation, and the owner changes the voyage so as to omit to touch at that port, he must make a reasonable indemnity to the master for his loss. Pawson v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 1, 19 Am. Dec. 213.

Loss of vessel.— Where a master who is also supercargo sails under a special agreement as to his compensation, and after the loss of his vessel at a foreign port charters another and proceeds to traffic as before, informing his partners of his willingness to continue under the same agreement, to which they do not object, the business of the new vessel must be regulated by the same rules which governed the transaction of the old vessel. Mathewson v. Clarke, 6 How. (U. S.) 122, 12 L. ed. 370.

20. Roorbach v. North River Steamboat Co., 6 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 469 (holding that the captain of a steamboat has no right to make a contract for carriage on board the boat on his own account, and that the owners are entitled to call for an assignment of such contract); Mathewson v. Clarke, 6 How. (U. S.) 122, 12 L. ed. 370.

21. Marshall v. Crawford, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,126, 4 Sawy. 37; Winsor v. The Sampson, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,888, 1 Sprague 548.

22. Fitzpatrick v. Smith, 1 Desauss. Eq. (S. C.) 340.

Where a master loans a part of the money received for freight and takes a note therefor payable to himself, and dies before the note is paid, his administrator will not be entitled to reclaim it, as such note is the property of the owner of the vessel held by the master in trust, and clearly distinguishable from other assets belonging to his estate. Thompson v. White, 45 Me. 445.

23. Lane v. Penniman, 4 Mass. 91.

24. Goodridge v. Lord, 10 Mass. 483.

25. Accounting for moneys received as condition precedent to claiming wages see supra, IV, B, 1, b.

Compensation of master who takes a share of the proceeds or profits see supra, III, Q.

26. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302.

Estoppel to claim wages as against a purchaser of the vessel see The Richmond, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795*a*.

27. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302 (hold-for which he is entitled to compensation,[28] and the amount and manner of payment[29] depend upon the terms of his contract as construed with the custom or usage existing at the place of employment,[30] and upon his proper performance of his services thereunder.[31] Unless his contract stipulates to the contrary, a master is entitled to his wages during the time the vessel is detained without his fault;[32] but he is not entitled to wages as such for time subsequent to his actually ceasing to serve as master,[33] as where he is discharged in a foreign port, unless there is a stipulation therefor, he is not entitled to wages for the period occupied in returning to the port of his employment.[34] The fact that the master is also a part-owner of the vessel does not affect his right to wages due him.[35]

2. Extra Compensation. As a general rule a master is entitled to extra compensation for services rendered out of the line of his duties;[36] as where his vessel is lost he is entitled on a quantum meruit for services rendered in saving and trans-

ing that a master engaged under a contract for monthly wages and commissions is entitled to commissions on sums received for demurrage); Babcock v. Terry, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 702, 1 Lowell 66; Stavers v. Curling, 3 Bing. N. Cas. 355, 2 Hodges 237, 6 L. J. C. P. 41, 3 Scott 740, 32 E. C. L. 169.

A right to commission on sales and investments does not entitle the master to a commission on freight. Miller v. Livingston, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 349.

The master of a whaling vessel may be allowed a commission for selling the oil after the voyage is ended (Slocum v. Swift, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,954, 2 Lowell 212), but in the absence of an express stipulation in his contract he has no right to charge a commission on money paid out to the crew in the course of the voyage (Babcock v. Terry, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 702, 1 Lowell 66).

A master who is the real shipper is not entitled to commissions, especially where he is free from risk. Parker v. McIver, 1 Desauss. Eq. (S. C.) 274, 1 Am. Dec. 656.

28. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302; Kells v. Boyd, 31 Fed. 621, holding that the wages should be computed from the time of the employment.

A receipt in full by a master, wrongfully discharged, for his wages to the time of his discharge, is no bar to a libel for wages for the residue of his term, where the receipt is not intended as a settlement for the wrongful discharge. Fee v. Orient Guano Mfg. Co., 44 Fed. 430 [affirming 36 Fed. 509].

29. Stanwood v. Flagg, 98 Mass. 124, holding that, where there is no express stipulation for payment in gold, a master may pay himself out of the freight money due to him in a British port, in sterling.

30. The Swallow, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,665, Olcott 334, holding that where it is the custom of steamboat owners to hire masters for the season at a yearly salary payable in ten equal parts, the season being understood to begin with March and end with December, a master who continues with the vessel after such an employment without any further special contract will be implied to continue the hiring according to such usage.

Partial payment.— Where it is the custom to hire masters for the season, which season is understood to begin and end with certain dates, the master is entitled to recover a proportionate part of his salary when his services do not commence or terminate with the season. The Swallow, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,665, Olcott 334.

31. The Chieftain, Brown. & L. 104, 9 Jur. N. S. 388, 32 L. J. Adm. 106, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 120, 11 Wkly. Rep. 537, holding that the master is entitled to his wages if he performs his duties as master, although during his service he does not sleep on board the vessel, and many of his duties are performed on shore. See also The Rajah v. Cochin, Swab. 473.

Part performance.— Where a part only of a master's service is performed, such proportion of his remuneration should be allowed as appears just on comparing the services rendered under the voyage as originally contemplated, with those remaining unperformed. Pawson v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 1, 19 Am. Dec. 213.

32. Swift v. Tatner, 89 Ga. 660, 15 S. E. 842, 32 Am. St. Rep. 101. See also Gillingham v. Charleston Tow-boat, etc., Co., 40 Fed. 649.

33. Moore v. Jones, 15 Mass. 424. But see The Camilla, Swab. 312, 6 Wkly. Rep. 840.

Where a master abandons his vessel to the insurers he cannot recover wages for the time subsequent to his ceasing to actually serve as master. Jenkins v. Wheeler, 2 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 442, 3 Keyes 645, 4 Transcr. App. 250, 37 How. Pr. 458 [affirming 4 Rob. 575].

34. Pawson v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 1, 19 Am. Dec. 213; Peters v. Speights, 4 Md. Ch. 375; Lombard Steamship Co. v. Anderson, 134 Fed. 568, 67 C. C. A. 432.

35. The Joseph Dexter, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 820; The D. Jex, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 22; Guildford v. Anglo-France Steamship Co., 9 Can. Sup. Ct. 303, 2 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 250 [affirming 1 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 554, 14 Nova Scotia 54]; The Aura, Young Adm. (Nova Scotia) 54.

36. Slocum v. Swift, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,954, 2 Lowell 212; String v. Hill, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,535, 1 Crabbe 454, painting the ship.

Rate.— Extra services performed by a master immediately after his employment has ceased should be paid for at the rate pre-mitting the funds or proceeds of the vessel to the owners;[37] but he is not entitled to extra compensation for services which are within the line of his duties as master.[38] Under some statutes it has been held that a master is entitled to extra wages if there is a delay in the payment of his wages without sufficient cause.[39]

3. Forfeiture and Deductions. A master forfeits his right to wages where he is guilty of negligence or misconduct which results in a serious damage or loss to the owners,[40] as where the vessel is lost by his negligence or misconduct,[41] or where he changes the voyage contrary to his instructions.[42] But where the negligence or misconduct does not cause serious injury or inconvenience to the owners, it does not effect a forfeiture of his wages,[43] although in such a case the owners may be entitled to deduct or offset the damages actually sustained against the wages due to the master.[44] Nor will a master incur the penalty of a forfeiture of his wages by a mere error of judgment, although it results in a loss.[45] Habitual intoxication of the master will effect a forfeiture of his wages,[46] but occasional viously paid him. The Cimbria, 156 Fed. 378.

37. Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am. Dec. 635; McGilvery v. Stackpole, 38 Me. 283, 61 Am. Dec. 245, holding further that such services must be in the implied employment of the owners and not merely for himself.

38. Bartlette v. The Viola, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,083 (holding that the master is not entitled to additional pay for standing on watch as pilot); Slocum v. Swift, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,954, 2 Lowell 212 (holding that the master is not entitled to extra pay for services rendered as cooper while the cooper is ill).

39. Under the British Merchant Shipping Act (17 & 18 Vict. 104) the master is entitled to double pay for a delay in the payment of wages due him unless he himself causes the delay. The Wexford, 7 Fed. 674; Covert v. The Wexford, 3 Fed. 577. These cases relied upon The Princess Helena, 30 L. J. Adm. 137, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 869, Lush. 190, which put such a construction upon this statute. But The Princess Helena, supra, was expressly overruled in The Arina, 12 P. D. 118, 6 Aspin. 141, 56 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 57, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 121, 35 Wkly. Rep. 654, which held that the master was not entitled to double pay in such a case under this statute. See also The Turgot, 11 P. D. 21, 5 Aspin. 548, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 276, 34 Wkly. Rep. 552; The Rainbow, 5 Aspin. 479, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 91.

40. The Fairport, 10 P. D. 13, 5 Aspin. 348, 54 L. J. Adm. 3, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 62, 33 Wkly. Rep. 448; The Marina, 50 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 33, 29 Wkly. Rep. 508.

Where a vessel is driven ashore by reason of the master's wilful disobedience of his direct and positive orders, he forfeits all right to wages. The Huron, 6 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 127.

41. Latham v. West, 5 Mart. (La.) 573.

42. Codwise v. Hacker, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 526 (holding that in such a case he forfeits all wages); Robinson v. Hinckley, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,954, 2 Paine 457; The Roebuck, 2 Aspin. 387, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 274.

43. Pawson v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 1, 19 Am. Dec. 213; The Carlotta, 30 Fed. 378; The Joseph Dexter, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 820.

Smuggling by the master, where it is not gross and attended with serious damage or loss to the owner, is not visited with a penalty of forfeiture of wages. Freeman v. Walker, 6 Me. 68; Willard v. Dorr, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,680, 3 Mason 161.

Bringing distilled spirits on board.—A clause of the shipping articles prohibiting the bringing on board of distilled spirits is not broken by the master by carrying Madeira wine on board, and he does not thereby incur a forfeiture of his wages. Parsons v. Terry, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,782, 1 Lowell 60.

44. Freeman v. Walker, 6 Me. 68; Jenkins v. Wheeler, 4 Rob. (N. Y.) 575 [affirmed in 2 Abb. Dec. 442, 3 Keyes 645, 4 Transcr. App. 450, 37 How. Pr. 458]; Brennan v. Hagen, 147 Fed. 290. See also Lombard Steamship Co. v. Anderson, 134 Fed. 568, 67 C. C. A. 432; Willard v. Dorr, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,680, 3 Mason 161; The Repulse, 4 Notes of Cas. 169; Sylvain v. Canadian Forwarding, etc., Co., 10 Quebec Super. Ct. 195 [reversing 7 Quebec Super. Ct. 256].

Where the master's misconduct is not the proximate cause of the owner's damages, such damages cannot be set up in recoupment against the master's claim for wages. Smith v. Osborn, 143 Mass. 185, 9 N. E. 558.

45. Marshall v. Crawford, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,126, 4 Sawy. 37; The Dunmore, 2 Aspin. 599, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 340; The Atlantic, 9 Jur. N. S. 183, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 647, 11 Wkly. Rep. 188; The Camilla, Swab. 312, 6 Wkly. Rep. 840. See also The Alexander Williams, Young Adm. (Nova Scotia) 217.

Mere error of judgment on the part of the master, in the management of the concerns of a vessel in a foreign port, unaccompanied by corrupt intention or wilful disobedience of orders, will not per se entail a forfeiture of his wages. The Thomas Worthington, 6 Notes of Cas. 570, 3 W. Rob. 128.

46. The Macleod, 5 P. D. 254, 50 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 6, 29 Wkly. Rep. 34; The Roebuck, 2 Aspin. 387, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 274 (holding that constant drunkenness on the part of the master, whether there is proof of acts of this kind if unaccompanied with neglect of duty will not have this effect.[47] A master's wages may also be forfeited by desertion.[48]

4. Wreck or Capture of Vessel. As a general rule a master's wages as such cease from the time the vessel and cargo pass out of his hands upon the vessel's becoming wrecked,[49] or captured;[50] but he may recover for wages which were earned before the loss.[51] Moreover after such wreck or capture a new duty devolves upon the master, who is bound to remain by the vessel and use all reasonable endeavors to rescue or recover the property and transmit the proceeds to the owner, and for such services he is entitled to recover a reasonable compensation.[52]

5. Persons Liable.[53] Ordinarily the person liable for a master's wages and disbursements is the person who employs him.[54] If he is employed by the owners of a chartered vessel he cannot recover for his services from the charterer, although the latter is required by the charter-party to pay a certain sum per month as the master's wages.[55] The master of a stranded vessel who remains with her does so as agent of whoever may be ultimately determined to be her owner in consequence of that event, and is entitled to recover wages for such services from such person.[56]

6. Primage. Primage, which is an allowance by the shippers to the master for his care and trouble relative to the cargo,[57] formerly belonged, by custom or usage, to the master for his own use,[58] unless he otherwise agreed with the own-neglect of duty or not, will work a forfeiture of either the whole or a part of his wages according to circumstances); The Atlantic, 9 Jur. N. S. 183, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 647, 11 Wkly. Rep. 188.

47. The Roebuck, 2 Aspin. 387, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 274; The Atlantic, 9 Jur. N. S. 183, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 647, 11 Wkly. Rep. 188.

48. The Roebuck, 2 Aspin. 387, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 274, holding, however, that there is not an absolute desertion working a forfeiture of the whole of his wages, if there is an intention of returning upon the part of the master.

49. McGilvery v. Stackpole, 38 Me. 283, 61 Am. Dec. 245.

50. Smith v. Gilbert, 4 Day (Conn.) 105; Moore v. Jones, 15 Mass. 424; Arfridson v. Ladd, 12 Mass. 173.

Qualification of rule.— Where a person contracts to act as flag captain, that is, to act as captain toward belligerents, and to look after the interests of owners in case of capture or condemnation, another person in fact being master of the vessel, his compensation for such services is not to be regarded as wages of a master mariner, and does not cease on the capture of the vessel. Arfridson v. Ladd, 12 Mass. 173.

51. Moore v. Jones, 15 Mass. 424; Ferguson v. Fitt, 1 N. C. 239; Hawkins v. Twizell, 5 E. & B. 883, 2 Jur. N. S. 302, 25 L. J. Q. B. 160, 4 Wkly. Rep. 242, 85 E. C. L. 883.

52. Smith v. Gilbert, 4 Day (Conn.) 105; Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am. Dec. 635.

The master of a neutral ship which is captured is bound to remain by the ship until condemnation, or a recovery is hopeless, and his wages after the capture and until condemnation, etc., are a charge to be paid by the owners. Willard v. Dorr, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,680, 3 Mason 161.

53. Liability of mortgagee in possession see supra, II, F, 6.

54. Hynes v. Kirkman, 4 La. 47, holding that where the master of a vessel owned by a firm is employed by one of the partners, but is compelled by the latter's fault to leave before the expiration of his term, he may recover wages for the whole term from the firm or either partner.

Trustees holding the title of a vessel and controlling and managing her for the benefit of others are liable for the wages of a master appointed by them. Winsor v. Sampson, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,888, 1 Sprague 148.

A part-owner who has agreed with the other owners to run the vessel on shares, and pay her disbursements, is personally liable to a master whom he has employed for all his wages and disbursements. Douse v. Sargent, 48 Fed. 695.

55. McGilvrey v. Capen, 7 Gray (Mass.) 523.

56. Hume v. Frenz, 150 Fed. 502, 80 C. C. A. 320 [reversing 141 Fed. 481], holding that where an abandonment of a vessel in such a case is subsequently accepted by the insurers, although it may be months afterward, it relates back to the date of the stranding and the master is from that time their agent for whose wages they are liable.

57. See Primage, 31 Cyc. 1172.

58. Peters v. Speights, 4 Md. Ch. 375; Best v. Saunders, 7 L. J. K. B. O. S. 50, M. & M. 208, 3 M. & R. 4, 22 E. C. L. 511.

Where there was no custom at the port of shipment making primage payable, the master was not entitled thereto, although the bill of lading provided for the payment of freight at a certain rate "with primage and average accustomed." Vose v. Morton, 5 Gray (Mass.) 594.

Where the owners received payment in respect to primage from the freighters, the master was entitled to recover it from them, where there was nothing in the agreement between them mentioning primage. Charleers.[59] The later rule, however, seems to be that primage belongs to the owners or freighters and is but an increase of the freight rate,[60] and is no longer a gratuity to the master unless so expressly stipulated.[61]

7. Reimbursement For Personal Expenses. A master is entitled to reimbursement or indemnity for all expenses or liabilities incurred by him in the line of his duties as agent of the owners,[62] such as expenses of board and medical attendance rendered to the master in a sickness incurred in the vessel's service;[63] but he is not entitled to reimbursement for expenses and liabilities incurred by him not in the line of his duties as master,[64] or contrary to the owner's instructions,[65] or which are caused by his own wrong.[66] The master is also entitled to expenses incurred by him in going from the place at which he is employed to the place where he is to take charge of his vessel;[67] but in case of a discharge or other termination of his relation in a foreign port he is not entitled to the expenses of a return trip,[68] unless his contract of employment so stipulates.[69] ton v. Coatesworth, R. & M. 175, 21 E. C. L. 725.

59. Peters v. Speights, 4 Md. Ch. 375; Caughey v. Gordon, 3 C. P. D. 419, 27 Wkly. Rep. 50; Scott v. Miller, 3 Bing. N. Cas. 811, 5 Scott 11, 32 E. C. L. 373.

Nothing but an express agreement could deprive a master of his right to recover primage from the freighter. Best v. Saunders, 7 L. J. K. B. O. S. 50, M. & M. 208, 3 M. & R. 4, 22 E. C. L. 511, holding further that an agreement by the master to receive from the owner a fixed sum in full of all primage and other allowances did not divest the master of this right.

60. Carr v. Austin, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. 419, 4 Woods 327.

61. Carr v. Austin, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. 419, 4 Woods 327, holding that where the charter-party makes no mention of primage none can be allowed, although it has been stipulated for in the bill of lading. See also The Ismaele, 14 Fed. 491 [affirmed in 22 Fed. 559].

Where the owners promise the master five per cent on freight as collected, and they make insurance on the freight, and the vessel is lost and no freight earned, the master cannot maintain an action for primage, although the owners collect their insurance. Pedrick v. Fisher, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,900, 1 Sprague 565.

The right of a master to primage is an insurable interest, but the owners are not bound to insure such right of the master. Pedrick v. Fisher, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,900, 1 Sprague 565.

62. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302; Henderson v. Sevey, 2 Me. 139; The Limerick, 1 P. D. 411, 3 Aspin. 206, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 708; The Albion, 1 Aspin. 481, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 723; The Chieftain, Brown & L. 104, 9 Jur. N. S. 388, 32 L. J. Adm. 106, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 120, 11 Wkly. Rep. 537. See also The Dora Tully, 5 Aspin. 550, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 467. But compare The Governor Carey, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,645*a*, 2 Hask. 487, holding that a master cannot recover for expenses in saving the cargo from wreck where his contract requires its delivery at the port of destination as a prerequisite to the earning of freight.

The expense of regulating the master's chronometer, where he uses it for the benefit of the vessel solely, should be borne by the ship. Winsor v. Sampson, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,888, 1 Sprague 548.

Defense on criminal charge.—Where a master, while at a foreign port, incurs expenses in defending himself against a criminal charge maliciously brought by the members of the crew whom he has censured for misconduct, he is entitled to the expenses of his defense, on the ground that the charge originated directly from the performance by him of his duty to his owners in chastising the men. The James Seddon, L. R. 1 A. & E. 62, 12 Jur. N. S. 609, 35 L. J. Adm. 117, 14 Wkly. Rep. 973.

63. Duncan v. Reed, 39 Me. 415, 63 Am. Dec. 635; Van Lier v. Dord, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,862.

Where the expenses of the last sickness and funeral of the master of a vessel are paid by the consignee according to the custom of the port where he lives, he is entitled to reimbursement. Winthrop v. Carleton, 12 Mass. 4.

64. Barker v. York, 3 La. Ann. 90, holding that the owners are not liable for fees of counsel employed by the master in resisting his removal, where their interests conflict with the course pursued by the master.

65. Rennell v. Kimball, 5 Allen (Mass.) 356.

66. The Limerick, 1 P. D. 411, 3 Aspin. 206, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 708 [reversing 1 P. D. 292, 45 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 97].

67. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302.

68. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302; Peters v. Speights, 4 Md. Ch. 375.

A statute allowing extra pay to seamen discharged from service in a foreign port does not apply to the master of a vessel. Woodbury v. Brazier, 48 Me. 302.

69. Lombard Steamship Co. v. Anderson, 134 Fed. 568, 67 C. C. A. 432, holding that where, by his contract of employment, the master is to be returned to the port of shipment at the termination of his employment, and he is discharged at a foreign port, he is entitled to the expense of his passage to the port of his employment. See also Slocum v. Swift, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,954, 2 Lowell 212.

8. Liens For Wages and Disbursements[70] — a. Lien For Wages. As a general rule the presumption is that the master of a vessel trusts to the personal credit of the owners for his wages,[71] and is not entitled to a lien therefor on the vessel,[72] or on goods consigned to his owners,[73] unless he contracts to render the services on the credit of the vessel,[74] or unless such a lien is given by statute.[75]

70. Lien for wages of seamen see Seamen, 35 Cyc. 1230.

Maritime liens in general see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 743.

71. McDowell v. The Lena Mowbray, 71 Fed. 720.

72. Illinois.— Chauncey v. Jackson, 9 Ill. 435.

Missouri.— Lancaster v. The Hardin, 28 Mo. 351.

New York.— Tisdale v. Grant, 12 Barb. 411; Jenkins v. Wheeler, 4 Rob. 575 [affirmed in 2 Abb. Dec. 442, 3 Keyes 645, 4 Transcr. App. 450, 37 How. Pr. 458].

Pennsylvania.— Fisher v. Willing, 8 Serg. & R. 118.

United States.— The Orleans v. Phoebus, 11 Pet. 175, 9 L. ed. 677; The Louis Olsen, 57 Fed. 845, 6 C. C. A. 608 [reversing 52 Fed. 652] (construing California statutes); Howard v. The Georgia, 46 Fed. 669; The Wyoming, 36 Fed. 493; The M. Vandercook, 24 Fed. 472; The Short Cut, 6 Fed. 630; Adams v. The Wyoming, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 71, 2 N. J. L. J. 275; Bartlette v. The Viola, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,083; Drinkwater v. The Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145; The Dubuque, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,110, 2 Abb. 20; Dudley v. The Superior, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,115, Newb. Adm. 176; Gardner v. The New Jersey, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,233, 1 Pet. Adm. 223; The Gate City, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,267, 5 Biss. 200; The Grace Darling, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,651, 2 Hask. 278; The Grand Turk, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,683, 1 Paine 73; The Havana, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,226, 1 Sprague 402; The Monongahela, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,712, 5 Biss. 131; Phillips v. The Thomas Scattergood, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,106, Gilp. 1; Revens v. Lewis, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,711, 2 Paine 202; Zollinger v. The Emma, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,218. See also The D. C. Salisbury, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,694, Olcott 71; The Island City, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,109, 1 Lowell 375.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 305.

Upon the Great Lakes, as upon the high seas, the master is not entitled to any lien on the vessel for his wages, and this rule is not affected by the fact that the owners have appointed a purser who is the financial officer of the vessel, and has the custody of the freight money. The Nebraska, 75 Fed. 598, 21 C. C. A. 448.

Additional services.— The master cannot enforce a lien for additional services as clerk or manager without showing a special contract designating the extra compensation. The Gate City, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,267, 5 Biss. 200.

A sailing master has a lien for his wages. The Carlotta, 30 Fed. 378.

Who is master.— One to whom the navigation, discipline, and control of the vessel are intrusted must be considered as master, within the meaning of the above rule, although another is registered as such. Pond v. The Hattie Thomas, 59 Fed. 297. But an engineer of a steam dredge, who is the highest officer on the dredge and who directs the firemen and any other hands aboard, but has no authority to engage or dismiss hands or purchase supplies, is not such a master. McNamara v. The Atlantic, 53 Fed. 607.

73. Vowell v. Bacon, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,018, 4 Cranch C. C. 97.

74. Radowitch v. Siewerd, 25 La. Ann. 315; Pond v. The Hattie Thomas, 59 Fed. 297. See also McDowell v. The Lena Mowbray, 71 Fed. 720.

75. Chauncey v. Jackson, 9 Ill. 435; Eymar v. Lawrence, 8 La. 38; The William M. Hoag, 69 Fed. 742 [affirmed in 168 U. S. 437, 443, 18 S. Ct. 114, 42 L. ed. 537], holding that, where a state statute gives a lien for wages without excepting masters from its benefits, the federal courts will uphold the lien of a master on a vessel plying between points on a river at which are stationed agents having authority to conduct the vessel's business.

Master as part-owner.—A statute giving a lien for master's wages will not be enforced by a federal court in favor of a master who is also a part-owner. McDowell v. The Lena Mowbray, 71 Fed. 720. See also The Raritan v. McCloy, 10 Mo. 534.

Intervention.—A master cannot, by an intervening libel, avail himself of an original libel in order to obtain the benefit of a statutory lien for wages which has expired by limitation. The Short Cut, 6 Fed. 630.

Pennsylvania act of April 20, 1858, gives the master a lien for his wages on domestic vessels navigating the Allegheny, Monongahela, and Ohio rivers. Parker v. The Little Acme, 43 Fed. 925, holding, however, that where a sheriff seizes and takes possession of a steamboat, and runs the same without the consent or knowledge of the owners, one who acts as master and pilot during that time must look to the sheriff for his compensation and has no lien against the boat.

In England a master has a lien for his wages on the vessel under the Merchants' Shipping Act of 1894, and prior similar statutes. The Panthea, 1 Aspin. 133, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 389; The Rajah of Cochin, Swab. 473. See also The Havana, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,226, 1 Sprague 402; The Ringdove, Swab. 310. Such a lien of the master extends to his claim for extra services for a delay in payment of which he is not the cause (The Wexford, 7 Fed. 674), but the lien attaches only to the vessel in which the wages were earned (The Julindur, 1 Spinks 71). Under the Admiralty Court Act of 1861 the master was held to have such a lien. See The Edwin,

But it has been held that the master has a lien for his wages on the freight,[76] or on the cargo to the extent of the freight earned thereof.[77]

b. Lien For Disbursements and Damages. As a general rule the master of a vessel who has made necessary advances or disbursements from his own funds for expenses and liabilities incurred during the voyage has, at common law, and in some jurisdictions by statute, a lien therefor on the vessel,[78] and freight,[79] and Brown. & L. 281, 33 L. J. Adm. 197, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 658, 12 Wkly. Rep. 992. For cases holding a contrary doctrine prior to the enactment of such statutes see Smith v. Plummer, 1 B. & Ald. 575, 19 Rev. Rep. 391; Wilkins v. Carmichael, Dougl. (3d ed.) 101, 99 Eng. Reprint 70; Bristow v. Whitmore, 9 H. L. Cas. 391, 8 Jur. N. S. 291, 31 L. J. Ch. 467, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 622, 9 Wkly. Rep. 621, 11 Eng. Reprint 781 [reversing 4 De G. & J. 325, 6 Jur. N. S. 29, 28 L. J. Ch. 807, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 173, 61 Eng. Ch. 255, 45 Eng. Reprint 126, and affirming Johns. 96, 70 Eng. Reprint 354, 4 Kay & J. 743, 70 Eng. Reprint 308, 28 L. J. Ch. 801, 7 Wkly. Rep. 150].

In Canada a master is entitled by statute to a lien on the vessel for his wages. Symes v. The City of Windsor, 4 Can. Exch. 362 [affirmed in 4 Can. Exch. 400]; Reide v. The Queen of the Isles, 3 Can. Exch. 258. But compare Bergman v. The Aurora, 3 Can. Exch. 228.

76. Adams v. The Wyoming, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 71, 2 N. J. L. J. 275; Drinkwater v. The Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145. But see Shaw v. Gookin, 7 N. H. 16; Jenkins v. Wheeler, 4 Rob. (N. Y.) 575 [affirmed in 2 Abb. Dec. 442, 3 Keyes 645, 4 Transcr. App. 450, 37 How. Pr. 458]; Van Bokkelin v. Ingersoll, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 315 [reversing 7 Cow. 670]; Smith v. Plummer, 1 B. & Ald. 575, 19 Rev. Rep. 391; Atkinson v. Cotesworth, 3 B. & C. 647, 10 E. C. L. 294, 1 C. & P. 339, 12 E. C. L. 203, 5 D. & R. 552, 3 L. J. K. B. O. S. 104, 27 Rev. Rep. 450, holding that the master has no lien on the freight for wages, unless it is a matter of stipulation between himself and the owners.

Where the master does not unload the cargo he is only entitled to a lien upon such of the freight as the vessel has actually earned, that being the freight less what it costs to unload. The Arcturus, 17 Fed. 95.

77. The Arcturus, 17 Fed. 95. But see Jenkins v. Wheeler, 4 Rob. (N. Y.) 575 [affirmed in 2 Abb. Dec. 442, 3 Keyes 645, 4 Transcr. App. 450, 37 How. Pr. 458].

78. Sturtevant v. Brewer, 4 Bosw. (N. Y.) 628; The Louis Olsen, 57 Fed. 845, 6 C. C. A. 608 [reversing 52 Fed. 652]; Gardner v. The New Jersey, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,233, 1 Pet. Adm. 223.

In England, under the Merchants' Shipping Act of 1894 and prior similar statutes, the master has a lien on his vessel for all disbursements and liabilities properly incurred by him on account of the vessel. Morgan v. Castlegate Steamship Co., [1893] A. C. 38, 7 Aspin. 284, 62 L. J. P. C. 17, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 99, 1 Reports 97, 41 Wkly. Rep. 349; The Ripon City, [1897] P. 226, 8 Aspin. 304, 66 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 110, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 98; The Orienta, [1895] P. 49, 7 Aspin. 529, 64 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 32, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 711, 11 Reports 687. It was formerly held that the Admiralty Court Act of 1861 gave the master a maritime lien on his vessel for disbursements (The Feronia, L. R. 2 A. & E. 65, 37 L. J. Adm. 60, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 619, 16 Wkly. Rep. 585; The Mary Ann, L. R. 1 A. & E. 8, 12 Jur. N. S. 31, 35 L. J. Adm. 6, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 384, 14 Wkly. Rep. 136; The Fairport, 8 P. D. 48, 5 Aspin. 62, 52 L. J. Adm. 21, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 536, 31 Wkly. Rep. 616; The Panthea, 1 Aspin. 133, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 389; The Edwin, Brown. & L. 281, 33 L. J. Adm. 197, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 658, 12 Wkly. Rep. 992; The Glentanner, Swab. 415), but the doctrine of these cases was later overruled and it was held that such act did not give the master such a lien (The Sara, 14 App. Cas. 209, 6 Aspin. 413, 58 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 57, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 26, 38 Wkly. Rep. 129). For cases, prior to such statutes, holding that the master had no such lien see Wilkins v. Carmichael, Dougl. (3d ed.) 101, 99 Eng. Reprint 70; Hussey v. Christie, 9 East 426, 103 Eng. Reprint 636, 13 Ves. Jr. 594, 33 Eng. Reprint 636; Bristow v. Whitemore, 9 H. L. Cas. 391, 31 L. J. Ch. 467, 8 Jur. N. S. 291, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 622, 9 Wkly. Rep. 621, 11 Eng. Reprint 781 [reversing 4 De G. & J. 425, 6 Jur. N. S. 29, 28 L. J. Ch. 807, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 173, 61 Eng. Ch. 255, 45 Eng. Reprint 126, and affirming Johns. 96, 70 Eng. Reprint 354, 4 Kay & J. 743, 70 Eng. Reprint 308, 28 L. J. Ch. 801, 7 Wkly. Rep. 150].

In Canada by statute, the master of a vessel is given a lien for disbursements made and liabilities incurred by him on account of the vessel. Detroit Third Nat. Bank v. Symes, 4 Can. Exch. 400; Reide v. The Queen of the Isles, 3 Can. Exch. 258. But see prior to statute Land v. Malden, 5 U. C. Q. B. 309.

Insurance received for the vessel's loss is not covered by such a lien. Eymar v. Lawrence, 8 La. 38.

79. Call v. Richards, 1 Gray (Mass.) 179; Lewis v. Hancock, 11 Mass. 72; Sturtevant v. Brewer, 4 Bosw. (N. Y.) 628; Van Bokkelin v. Ingersoll, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 315 [reversing 7 Cow. 670] (holding that a master has a lien upon freight for port fees, repairs, supplies, and all necessary expenses in a foreign port, and that payment thereof to the ship-owner does not discharge such lien after notice to the consignee); Drinkwater v. The Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255; Morgan v. Castlegate Steamship cargo,[80] which may be enforced after the return of the vessel to her home port.[81] A master has no lien on the vessel for unliquidated damages for a breach of his contract of employment.[82]

c. What Law Governs. As a general rule a master's rights relative to his lien for wages and disbursements are governed by the law of the flag, or in other words, by the law of the country to which his vessel belongs,[83] and the admiralty courts of the United States will enforce a lien given by the law of such country, although in the particular case the master is not entitled to a lien under the laws of the United States;[84] but where the contract is made in a foreign port, in the absence of evidence as to the law there, the general maritime law of the forum will be presumed to control.[85]

d. Priorities.[86] A master's lien for wages, where it exists,[87] and also his lien for disbursements ordinarily takes priority over all other claims against the vessel[88] except claims for salvage,[89] and for damages by collision,[90] and except claims for which the master is personally responsible.[91] Thus it has been held that a master's lien for wages or disbursements outranks claims of holders of bottomry bonds on which the master is not personally liable,[92] and claims for necessaries.[93]

Co., [1893] A. C. 38, 7 Aspin. 284, 62 L. J. P. C. 17, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 99, 1 Reports 97, 41 Wkly. Rep. 349 (holding, however, that the Merchant Shipping Act of 1889 under which such lien exists, gives a lien only in cases in which the master has authority to pledge the credit of the owner); White v. Baring, 4 Esp. 22, 6 Rev. Rep. 836. But see Smith v. Plummer, 1 B. & Ald. 575, 19 Rev. Rep. 391; Atkinson v. Cotesworth, 3 B. & C. 647, 10 E. C. L. 294, 1 C. & P. 339, 12 E. C. L. 203, 5 D. & R. 552, 3 L. J. K. B. O. S. 104, 27 Rev. Rep. 450.

80. Newhall v. Dunlap, 14 Me. 180, 31 Am. Dec. 45, holding that where a master has authority to purchase a cargo, and he draws a bill making himself personally liable, and with the proceeds purchases a cargo, he has a lien thereon for his indemnity which is not destroyed by the death of the owner.

81. Sturtevant v. Brewer, 4 Bosw. (N. Y.) 628.

82. The Laurel, 113 Fed. 373.

The master has no lien upon the certificate of registry or ship's papers in case of a wrongful dismissal. The St. Olaf, 2 P. D. 113, 3 Aspin. 268, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 423. See also Gibson v. Ingo, 6 Hare 112, 31 Eng. Ch. 112, 67 Eng. Reprint 1103.

83. The Velox, 21 Fed. 479; Covert v. The Wexford, 3 Fed. 577; The Countess of Dufferin, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,280, 10 Ben. 155.

Nationality of vessel.—Where a citizen of the United States contracts with another also a citizen, to act as master of a vessel which carries the British flag and is registered in the name of a British subject, but of which fact the master is ignorant until after the contract is made, as between them the vessel is a United States vessel and the master's right to a lien is governed by the law of the United States and not by the law of England. Chisholm v. The J. L. Pendergast, 32 Fed. 415 [reversing 29 Fed. 127].

84. The Felice B., 40 Fed. 653 (Italian vessel); The Angela Maria, 35 Fed. 430 (Italian vessel); Covert v. The Wexford, 3 Fed. 577.

85. Howard v. The Georgia, 46 Fed. 669. See also The Countess of Dufferin, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,280, 10 Ben. 155.

86. Priority of maritime liens in general see MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 802.

87. See supra, IV, D, 8, a.

88. The Panthea, 1 Aspin. 133, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 389.

A master's lien on freight is prior to the liens of general creditors. Drinkwater v. The Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145. See also Call v. Richards, 1 Gray (Mass.) 179.

89. The Panthea, 1 Aspin. 133, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 389.

90. The Pride of the Ocean, 7 Fed. 247; The Panthea, 1 Aspin. 133, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 389. Compare The Adolph, 7 Fed. 501.

91. The Monadnock, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,704, 5 Ben. 357. See also MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 806 text and note 46.

92. The Felice B., 40 Fed. 353; The Irma, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,064, 6 Ben. 1; The Daring, L. R. 2 A. & E. 260, 37 L. J. Adm. 29; The Hope, 1 Aspin. 563, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 287; The Salacia, 9 Jur. N. S. 27, 32 L. J. Adm. 41, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 440, 11 Wkly. Rep. 189.

Where the master binds himself by such bond, he cannot compete with the bondholder for his wages. The Salacia, 9 Jur. N. S. 27, 32 L. J. Adm. 41, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 440, 11 Wkly. Rep. 189; The Jonathan Goodhue, Swab. 524; The William, Swab. 346, 6 Wkly. Rep. 871.

93. The Queen, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 706.

A shipwright's lien is postponed to a master's claim for wages earned prior to the repairs. The Gustaf, 31 L. J. Adm. 207, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 660, Lush. 506.

But where a master who as part-owner orders necessaries for the ship and the necessaries are supplied and the master becomes liable for payment, the materialmen are entitled to be paid for the necessaries out of the proceeds of the ship and freight, in priority to a claim of the master for wages and disbursements. The Jennie Lind, L. R. 3 A. & E. 529, 1 Aspin. 294, 41 L. J. Adm.

It has also been held that a master's lien against the vessel for wages or disbursements is to be preferred to claims of mortgagees of the vessel.[94]

e. Loss of Lien. A master's lien may be lost or waived by his acts inconsistent therewith,[95] as by his unreasonably delaying to enforce it,[96] or by his failing to pay for his stock in the company owning the vessel.[97]

E. Liabilities of Master[98] — 1. In General. As a general rule the master of a vessel is personally liable on all contracts made by him relative to the ordinary employment of the vessel,[99] as for necessary supplies or repairs,[1] unless he contracts on the owner's credit,[2] or stipulates against his own liability,[3] or unless the person furnishing the supplies has funds of the owner in his hands sufficient to pay therefor.[4] Where a master acts as bailee of certain articles he is not liable for their loss if he uses ordinary care in keeping them.[5]

2. For Negligence or Misconduct — a. In General. It is the duty of a master to use reasonable skill, care, and diligence in the performance of his duties, and if he does so he is not liable to his owners for losses arising from unavoidable accidents, mere errors of judgment, or failure of success;[6] but he is personally liable for damages caused by his negligence or misconduct[7] to passen-

63, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 591, 20 Wkly. Rep. 895.

94. The Mary Ann, L. R. 1 A. & E. 8, 12 Jur. N. S. 31, 35 L. J. Adm. 6, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 384, 14 Wkly. Rep. 136; The Limerick, 1 P. D. 411, 3 Aspin. 206, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 708; The Hope, 1 Aspin. 563, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 287; The Chieftain, Brown. & L. 212; Bristow v. Whitmore, 9 H. L. Cas. 391, 8 Jur. N. S. 291, 31 L. J. Ch. 467, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 622, 9 Wkly. Rep. 621, 11 Eng. Reprint 781; Symes v. The City of Windsor, 4 Can. Exch. 462 [affirmed in 4 Can. Exch. 400]. Compare Lister v. Payn, 11 Sim. 348, 34 Eng. Ch. 348, 59 Eng. Reprint 908.

The master's lien is prior to ordinary claims by mortgagees, but not to any portion of the mortgage debt, the payment of which the master has personally guaranteed to the mortgagees. The Bangor Castle, 8 Aspin. 156, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768.

95. See Covert v. The Wexford, 3 Fed. 577; The Rainbow, 5 Aspin. 479, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 91.

The release of a personal claim against the owners by the master does not release the vessel from his lien. The Chieftain, Brown. & L. 212.

The acceptance of a promissory note by the master from part of the coöwners for the amount of his claim, which note has never been paid, does not take away his lien upon the ship, although sold to and paid for by a third party in ignorance of the debt. The Aura, Young Adm. (Nova Scotia) 54.

Taking a mortgage on the ship does not cause the master to lose his lien. The Albion, 1 Aspin. 481, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 723.

96. The Chieftain, Brown. & L. 212.

97. The Short Cut, 6 Fed. 630, holding that such failure of a master will defeat his claim for wages under a statute giving him a lien, in advance of the payment of the debts of the vessel.

98. Liability of master for wages of seamen see Seamen, 35 Cyc. 1227.

Liability of master of tug on promise to pay for injury to tow see Towage.

99. Stocker v. Corlett, 3 Brev. (S. C.) 236; Sydnor v. Hurd, 8 Tex. 98; Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558, holding that a master is personally liable on a contract for the transportation of goods in discharge of a debt due from him, part of which does not rest on a maritime contract.

Surgical attention.—Where the master of a vessel on which a hoy has been injured by the negligence of the crew takes him to the office of a physician and requests that surgical attention be given him, and the attention is given, the physician can recover from the master for the services rendered. Berry v. Pusey, 80 Ky. 166.

1. Henshaw v. Rollins, 5 La. 335, 25 Am. Dec. 180; Mead v. Buckner, 2 La. 282; Sydnor v. Hurd, 8 Tex. 98; The Elmville, [1904] P. 319, 9 Aspin. 606, 73 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 104, 91 L. T. Rep. N. S. 151; Essery v. Cobb, 5 C. & P. 358, 24 E. C. L. 604.

Where supplies are ordered for a ship by the owner before the appointment of the master, although some are not delivered until afterward, yet as no personal credit is given to the master, he is not answerable for any of them. Farmer v. Davies, 1 T. R. 108, 1 Rev. Rep. 159.

2. Stocker v. Corlett, 3 Brev. (S. C.) 236; Sydnor v. Hurd, 8 Tex. 98; Essery v. Cobb, 5 C. & P. 358, 24 E. C. L. 604. See also The Serapis, 37 Fed. 436.

3. Sydnor v. Hurd, 8 Tex. 98.

4. Bissell v. Boznam, 17 N. C. 229, holding that a person furnishing supplies to a master in a foreign port for the use of his vessel cannot charge the master therefor if such person subsequently has funds of the owner in his hands sufficient to reimburse himself, although he pays them over without deduction.

5. Pender v. Robbins, 51 N. C. 207.

6. Dean v. Angus, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,703, Bee 378.

7. Goldenbow v. Wright, 13 La. 371; Hennen v. Munroe, 11 Mart. (La.) 579; White v. McDonough, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,552, 3 Sawy. 311.

gers,[8] third persons on or about his vessel,[9] or to his owners,[10] as for barratry.[11] A master is also liable for damages caused by his negligence or misconduct to shippers,[12] as where he fails or refuses to deliver any part of the cargo in accordance with the bill of lading pertaining thereto;[13] but he is not so liable if he exercises proper care and diligence in receiving and caring for the cargo.[14]

Injunction against master for infringement of patent see Adair v. Young, 12 Ch. D. 13, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 598.

Indorsement of bill of lading.—Where there is no legal and just claim for demurrage or otherwise, it is the master's duty to give a clear bill of lading, and if he indorses an unfounded claim upon it he is liable for nominal damages, although he honestly believes such claim to be valid, but he is not liable in such a case for vindictive or punitive damages. Paterson v. Dakin, 31 Fed. 682.

Where a master issues a fraudulent bill of lading, he is liable in damages to an assignee thereof in good faith who makes advances thereon, and where he is part-owner of the vessel such damages may be recovered against the vessel to the extent of his interest therein. Montell v. The William H. Rutan, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,724.

8. Keene v. Lizardi, 5 La. 431, 25 Am. Dec. 197.

Gambling.—A master is liable to make good the loss, where a common gambler cheats a minor passenger out of a sum of money, and he fails after notice to compel restitution. Smith v. Wilson, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,128, 31 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 272.

9. Rhodes v. Roberts, 1 Stew. (Ala.) 145; Eyre v. Norsworthy, 4 C. & P. 502, 19 E. C. L. 622; Tarleton v. McGawley, 1 Peake N. P. 205, 3 Rev. Rep. 689.

Licensee.—A master is liable to a person invited to go aboard his vessel, for personal injuries caused by the master's negligence in piling goods along the passageway to the vessel. Leathers v. Blessing, 105 U. S. 626, 26 L. ed. 1192.

10. Brannan v. Hoel, 15 La. Ann. 308; Brown v. Smith, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 366 (holding that the master of a whaling vessel is liable to the owners for essentially violating any of the material orders or instructions under which he sails); Reeves v. Burrows, 1 Nott & M. (S. C.) 427; Union Ins. Co. v. Dexter, 52 Fed. 152; Atkyns v. Burrows, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 618, 1 Pet. Adm. 244.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 309.

Where the owners are compelled to pay a fine or damages by reason of the master's misconduct, the master is liable over to the owners for the amount so paid. Brannan v. Hoel, 15 La. Ann. 308; Purveyance v. Angus, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 180, 1 L. ed. 90 (holding further that the court may, under favorable circumstances, reduce the quantum of damages below what the owners have paid); Bucklin v. Miller, 12 Wash. 152, 40 Pac. 732.

Where a master improperly discharges the mate he is liable to the owners for damages occurring to them thereby. Atkyns v. Burrows, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 618, 1 Pet. Adm. 244.

Damages.—Where the master of a whaling vessel abandons the voyage and wrongfully sells the property of the owners on board, reasonable damages for breaking up the voyage may be recovered in an action against him, but conjectural or possible profits cannot be taken into consideration; and the subsequent collection from him of a part of the proceeds of such sale is no bar to an action against him for breaking up the voyage and disposing of the property, but merely reduces the damages. Brown v. Smith, 12 Cush. (Mass.) 366.

Waiver.—Where the owners of a vessel take the cargo of their master and state that they find no fault with him, they thereby waive his disobedience of orders in sailing on a different voyage from the one he was instructed to follow. Codwise v. Hacker, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 526.

Temporary insanity of the master resulting from exhaustion caused by his efforts to save the vessel from destruction is a good defense to an action against him for the negligent destruction of his vessel. Williams v. Hays, 157 N. Y. 541, 52 N. E. 589, 68 Am. St. Rep. 797, 43 L. R. A. 253.

11. Anonymous, 2 Ch. Cas. 238, 22 Eng. Reprint 925.

Definition and essentials of barratry see Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 657 et seq.

12. Union Ins. Co. v. Dexter, 52 Fed. 152; Kennedy v. Dodge, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,701, 1 Ben. 311; Knox v. The Ninetta, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,912, Crabbe 534, 5 Pa. L. J. 33, holding that where the master violates a contract not to take additional cargo he becomes an insurer and is liable for any loss which may afterward occur.

Liability of master for lost or stolen goods see Watkinson v. Laughton, 8 Johns. (N. Y.) 213; Morse v. Slue, 1 Vent. 190, 238, 86 Eng. Reprint 129, 159.

The fact that the master subjects the cargo to a risk of possible damage or destruction does not render him personally liable, if no damage actually occurs. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

13. Stille v. Traverse, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,444, 3 Wash. 43.

Conversion.—An unjustifiable refusal by a master to proceed on the voyage or deliver the cargo will be a conversion of it. Portland Bank v. Stubbs, 6 Mass. 422, 4 Am. Dec. 151. But where a master has issued bills of lading in good faith to a person returning shipping receipts, issued to the true owner on his putting the goods on board for transportation, he is not liable in trover to the shipper on a demand of the goods, unless the shipper upon making such demand surrenders the bills of lading, or indemnifies him against them and against all damages arising from the delay necessary to unload the goods. Keyser v. Harbeck, 3 Duer (N. Y.) 373.

14. Cheviot v. Brooks, 1 Johns. (N. Y.)

b. Acts of Subordinates. The master of a vessel is ordinarily liable for the acts of all persons under, or supposed to be under, his command while engaged about their ordinary duties as subordinate officers of the vessel or as seamen.[15] Where part of the cargo is lost by the negligence and misconduct of the crew, the master must contribute, with the crew, his proportionate part of the loss.[16] Where a pilot is hired to accompany a vessel on a voyage he is under the command of the master of the vessel, and the master is liable for his acts of negligence or misconduct while in the performance of his duties;[17] but where the pilot is a compulsory one, that is, one whom the master of a vessel is required by statute to take on board for the pilotage of his vessel in or out of certain ports, the master ordinarily is not liable for his acts.[18]

3. Liability of Either Master or Owner, or Both. Whilst in maritime law, the master as well as the owners of a vessel is liable as a common carrier,[19] yet they are liable severally and not jointly,[20] and the master is liable only for reasonable care and diligence and the exercise of such skill as his position is supposed to require.[21] The rule seems to be well settled that parties contracting with a master in a foreign port for repairs or supplies for his vessel have a double remedy against the master or the owners on the contract,[22] unless such liability be excluded, as to the one or the other of them, by the express terms of the contract,[23] and they may sue either the master or the owners of the vessel or both simultaneously,[24] and in enforcing this double remedy they may proceed by separate actions against the owners or master in personam, or the vessel in rem, either simultaneously or at different periods.[25]

364; Mepham v. Biesel, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 370, 19 L. ed. 677 [affirming 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,450, 1 Woolw. 225].

15. Daret v. Gray, 12 La. Ann. 394; Keene v. Lizardi, 5 La. 431, 25 Am. Dec. 197; Kennedy v. Ryall, 67 N. Y. 379 [affirming 40 N. Y. Super. Ct. 347] (holding that the master is liable to the same extent as though he were the owner, for the negligent acts of those under his authority, whether such persons are employed by the owner or master); Denison v. Seymour, 9 Wend. (N. Y.) 9.

The visit of the health officer to the vessel does not divest the master of his general power and control, or relieve him from liability for the negligence of his subordinates. Ryall v. Kennedy, 40 N. Y. Super. Ct. 347 [affirmed in 67 N. Y. 379].

16. Crammer v. The Fair American, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,347, 1 Pet. Adm. 242 (holding that the master must contribute according to his wages for goods lost by an embezzlement by a part of the crew); Wilson v. The Belvidere, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,790, 1 Pet. Adm. 258.

17. Martin v. Farnsworth, 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 246, 41 How. Pr. 59 [affirmed in 49 N. Y. 555]; Denison v. Seymour, 9 Wend. (N. Y.) 9. But compare Davis v. Houren, 6 Rob. (La.) 255 (holding that the captain of a towboat is not liable to the owners for a collision, caused by the pilot, where he was asleep during the pilot's watch, as it is physically impossible for the master to be always on deck and he is not liable for every act or omission of the other officers); Aldrich v. Simmons, 1 Stark. 214, 2 E. C. L. 87.

18. The Octavia Stella, 6 Aspin. 182, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 632; Oakley v. Speedy, 4 Aspin. 134, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 881, holding that the master is not liable to penalties for infringement of rules of navigation where the ship is in charge of a compulsory pilot. See also Snell v. Rich, 1 Johns. (N. Y.) 305.

19. Rochereau v. The Hausa, 14 La. Ann. 431 (holding that the master and owners of a vessel are liable for the acts of stevedores employed by them to load their vessel); Patton v. Magrath, 1 Rice (S. C.) 162, 33 Am. Dec. 98; Bissell v. Mepham, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,450, 1 Woolw. 225 [affirmed in 9 Wall. 370, 19 L. ed. 677]; White v. McDonough, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,552, 3 Sawy. 311.

20. Le Blanc v. Sweet, 107 La. 355, 31 So. 766, 90 Am. St. Rep. 303 (holding that where an action is brought against the owner and the master of a vessel for injuries to a passenger and the master acted only in his representative capacity, the owner alone is liable); Walston v. Meyers, 50 N. C. 174; Patton v. Magrath, 1 Rice (S. C.) 162, 33 Am. Dec. 98.

21. Bissell v. Mepham, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,450, Woolw. 225 [affirmed in 9 Wall. 370, 19 L. ed. 677]. See also supra, IV, E, 2, a.

22. Mead v. Buckner, 2 La. 282; Marquand v. Webb, 16 Johns. (N. Y.) 89; Stocker v. Corlett, 3 Brev. (S. C.) 236; Ex p. Bland, 2 Rose 91.

23. Ex p. Bland, 2 Rose 91.

24. Zacharie v. Kirk, 14 La. Ann. 433.

25. Henshaw v. Rollins, 5 La. 335, 25 Am. Dec. 180; Bissell v. Bozman, 17 N. C. 229; Brookman v. The Rebecca Fogg, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,941; Rich v. Coe, Cowp. 636, 98 Eng. Reprint 1281; Frechette v. Martin, 21 Quebec Super. Ct. 417. See also The Felice B., 40 Fed. 653.

Joinder of proceeding in rem and in personam for same cause in admiralty see Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 848.

F. Actions[26] — 1. Nature and Form of Remedy. A master's proper remedy for his wages and disbursements is ordinarily by an action in personam against the owners,[27] and he has no right to proceed in rem against the vessel therefor,[28] except where a lien on the vessel therefor is created by statute,[29] or by the law of the flag of the vessel.[30] A master who is improperly discharged cannot maintain a libel in admiralty to compel the owners to fulfil his contract with him,[31] but his proper remedy is an action at law for damages for the breach of the contract.[32] The owners of a vessel may sue her master in admiralty for damages caused by his wrongful acts,[33] as may also a passenger who is injured thereby.[34] Trover lies against the owners of a vessel for a wrongful sale by the master of cargo under circumstances not inconsistent with the general scope of his authority.[35] A master who has a lien on goods for his disbursements may maintain trover against one who converts the goods;[36] but trover will not lie against the master for cargo unless the freight is paid or tendered or the payment thereof is waived,[37] or for goods which were lost so that they did not come to the use of the master.[38] Where a master who is also part-owner sells the cargo and receives the proceeds, another

26. Actions on charter-party against master see supra, III, R, 2.

Prosecutions against master under immigration laws see ALIENS, 2 Cyc. 124.

27. Chauncey v. Jackson, 9 Ill. 435; Loring v. Loring, 64 Me. 556 (holding that he may maintain an action at law to recover his wages and disbursements); Bartlette v. The Viola, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,083; Hammond v. Essex F., etc., Ins. Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,001, 4 Mason 196 (holding that a master may sue in admiralty in personam for his wages); The Larch, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,085, 2 Curt. 427; The Leonidas, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,262, Olcott 12. See also The Grand Trunk, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,683, 1 Paine 73.

Jurisdiction of the city court of New York over marine causes under Code Civ. Proc. § 317 see Warn v. Easton, etc., Transit Co., 2 N. Y. Suppl. 620, holding, however, that a master's action for wages is not a marine cause within the meaning of such statute.

28. Borden v. The Eagle, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 473, 10 West. L. J. 137; The Grand Trunk, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,683, 1 Paine 73; The Leonidas, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,26°, Olcott 12. Compare L'Arina v. The Exchange, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,088, Bee 198.

29. The William M. Hoag, 168 U. S. 443, 18 S. Ct. 114, 42 L. ed. 537 [affirming 69 Fed. 742]; Whitney v. The Mary Gratwick, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,591, 2 Sawy. 342. See also The W. B. Hall, 8 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 169.

Under the British Merchants' Shipping Acts a master has a right in rem for his wages and such disbursements as were necessary for the navigation of his vessel. The Beeswing, 5 Aspin. 484, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 554; The Marco Polo, 1 Aspin. 54, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 804; The Feronia, L. R. 2 A. & E. 65, 37 L. J. Adm. 60, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 619, 16 Wkly. Rep. 585. See also The Caledonia, 2 Jur. N. S. 48, Swab. 17, 4 Wkly. Rep. 183. Such statutes extend to the masters of foreign ships and give them a remedy against the ship and freight for wages (The Milford, 4 Jur. N. S. 417, Swab. 362, 6 Wkly. Rep. 554), but it has been held that the jurisdiction of the court of admiralty over causes of wages of foreign masters is discretionary only (The Herzogin Marie, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 88, Lush. 292). As to notice to and protest by consul see The Leon XIII, 8 P. D. 121, 5 Aspin. 73, 52 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 58, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 770; The Octavie, Brown. & L. 215, 33 L. J. Adm. 115, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 695; The Herzogin Marie, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 88, Lush. 292.

30. The Havana, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,226, 1 Sprague 402; The Pawashick, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,851, 2 Lowell 142.

Right to possession.— The fact that the master of a British vessel claims a lien on her under the English law is not ground for his refusal to deliver the vessel to her owners. Muir v. The Brisk, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,901, 4 Ben. 252.

31. Montgomery v. Henry, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 49, 1 Am. Dec. 223, 1 L. ed. 32 [affirming 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,737, Bee 388, 2 Pet. Adm. 397].

32. Montgomery v. Henry, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 49, 1 Am. Dec. 223, 1 L. ed. 32 [affirming 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,737, Bee 388, 2 Pet. Adm. 397]; Clayton v. The Eliza B. Emery, 4 Fed. 342.

33. Dean v. Angus, 7 Fed. Cas. Nos. 3,702, 3,703, Bee 369, 378.

34. Chamberlain v. Chandler, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,575, 3 Mason 242, holding that the admiralty court has jurisdiction for personal wrongs committed to a passenger on the high seas by the master of a vessel, whether the wrongs be by direct force or consequential injuries.

35. Ewbank v. Nutting, 7 C. B. 797, 62 E. C. L. 797.

36. Ingersoll v. Van Bokkelin, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 670 [reversed on other grounds in 5 Wend. 315], holding that in such a case he may recover the amount of his lien as damages.

37. Hodgson v. Woodhouse, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,571, 1 Cranch C. C. 549; Keyser v. Harbeck, 3 Duer (N. Y.) 373.

38. Hodgson v. Woodhouse, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,571, 1 Cranch C. C. 549.

part-owner of such cargo may maintain an action on the case against him for his share of the proceeds.[39]

2. Parties and Pleading. The parties and pleading in an action relative to a master of a vessel are ordinarily governed by the rules relating to parties,[40] and pleading,[41] in civil actions generally, and in admiralty suits. As a general rule a master has such a special interest in the vessel and cargo that he may sue in his own name for freight,[42] or to recover damages for the breach of a contract of affreightment,[43] or he may bring an action in his own name either at law or in equity against one who wrongfully interferes with the vessel or cargo.[44] A master may also file a claim in admiralty on behalf of the owners, where the latter are absent.[45]

3. Presumptions and Burden of Proof. As a general rule questions relative to presumptions[46] and burden of proof,[47] in actions growing out of the acts of a master of a vessel, are governed by the rules applying in civil cases generally. Thus where the question of the validity of a sale by a master in a foreign port arises in an action with the purchaser at such sale, the burden of showing good faith in making the sale and the necessity therefor is upon the purchaser of the vessel,[46]

39. True v. McGilvery, 43 Me. 485.

40. See, generally, Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 850 et seq.; Parties, 30 Cyc. 1. See also Alexander v. Simms, 20 Beav. 123, 24 L. J. Ch. 618, 52 Eng. Reprint 549.

41. See, generally, Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 853 et seq.; Pleading, 31 Cyc. 1.

Joinder and splitting of action.—An action on the case for damages for a master's false representations and warranty of authority cannot be joined with an action against the vessel on a draft drawn by such master. The Serapis, 37 Fed. 436.

Variance in an action by a master for his wages see De Land v. Hall, 134 Mich. 381, 96 N. W. 449.

42. Houghton v. Lynch, 13 Minn. 85; Kennedy v. Eilau, 17 Abb. Pr. (N. Y.) 73, 26 How. Pr. 197; Hus v. Kampf, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,943, 10 Ben. 231.

Where the master is owner pro hac vice, as where the owners of the vessel have let her on shares to him for a certain time, he is the proper party to sue for freight earned by the vessel during that time. Manter v. Holmes, 10 Metc. (Mass.) 462; Clendaniel v. Tuckerman, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 184.

43. Clendaniel v. Tuckerman, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 184; Disney v. Furness, 79 Fed. 810.

44. Tuells v. Torras, 113 Ga. 691, 39 S. E. 455; Houghton v. Lynch, 13 Minn. 85; Pitts v. Gainee, 1 Ld. Raym. 558, 91 Eng. Reprint 1272.

Measure of damages in libel by a master for the illegal seizure of his vessel see The Apollon, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 362, 6 L. ed. 111.

45. The Sally, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,258, 1 Gall. 401; The Hoop, 1 C. Rob. 129. See also, generally, Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 862.

46. See, generally, Evidence, 16 Cyc. 1050 et seq.

Presumption of fraud.—A sale of a vessel by her master in a foreign port for necessary charges, under the authority of the United States consul, is conclusively presumed to be fraudulent where the purchase-money is secured by the consul's note, upon an agreement that the vessel be transferred to trustees for the benefit of the consul's wife. Riley v. The Obell Mitchell, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,839.

Presumption of wages paid.—In an action by a master after a sale of the vessel to recover for services rendered during several years preceding the sale, the presumption is that the wages were paid from freight earned during that time. The Richmond, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,795a.

Presumption as to credit.—In the absence of proof that supplies or repairs were furnished to a vessel on the credit of the master, the presumption in law in a home port is that they were furnished on the credit of the owner (Glading v. George, 3 Grant (Pa.) 290); but this presumption may be rebutted by circumstances, as where the master promises to pay cash and no mention is made of the owners (Gordon v. Hare, 1 L. J. K. B. O. S. 70).

A survey taken to enable a master to decide whether or not to sell an injured vessel is presumed to be correct, but is not conclusive. Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am. Dec. 676.

47. See, generally, Evidence, 16 Cyc. 926 et seq.

In an action by a master to recover wages, it is sufficient for him to show that he has performed his services, and the owners must then adduce evidence to prove that he is not entitled to remuneration. Brown v. Milner, 1 Moore C. P. 65, 7 Taunt. 319, 18 Rev. Rep. 493, 2 E. C. L. 381.

48. The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806; The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465; The Glasgow, 2 Jur. N. S. 1147, 12 Moore P. C. 355 note, Swab. 145, 5 Wkly. Rep. 10, 14 Eng. Reprint 946; The Bonita, 30 L. J. Adm. 145, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, Lush. 252.

The first purchaser is bound to prove such necessity, but whether such burden attaches to a second purchaser depends upon the circumstances of the case. The Australia, 13 or cargo,[49] as the case may be; but where the necessity for the sale is relied upon by the master as a justification of his acts, the burden of proof is upon him.[50] So in an action for supplies and repairs furnished to a vessel in a foreign port by order of the master, the burden of proof is on plaintiff to show that the articles furnished were necessaries to the extent at least of showing that they were what a reasonable and prudent owner would have bought.[51] It is incumbent upon a lender of money to a master of a vessel, in an action against the owner, to show the necessity for the loan.[52]

4. Admissibility of Evidence.[53] The admissibility of evidence in actions arising out of the acts of the master of a vessel is ordinarily regulated by the rules applying to the admissibility of evidence in civil actions generally, and by the rules in admiralty.[54] In case of a sale of a stranded or disabled vessel or cargo by the master, evidence is admissible, upon the question of his good faith in making the sale and the necessity therefor, of the facility with which the vessel was afterward rescued by the purchaser,[55] as is also a survey of the vessel,[56] and the fact of his taking advice from other competent persons.[57] The circumstance that the master believed at the time that he could get the stranded vessel off is admissible to show bad faith on his part,[58] but proof that the purchaser believed himself able to rescue the vessel can have no such effect.[59] The advice of surveyors is also competent evidence upon the question of necessity for a sale of the cargo.[60]

5. Weight and Sufficiency of Evidence. The general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence in civil cases generally also apply in actions arising out of the acts of the master of a vessel.[61] A survey taken to enable the

Moore P. C. 132, Swab. 480, 7 Wkly. Rep. 718, 15 Eng. Reprint 50.

A purchaser is not bound to furnish direct and positive proof of the honesty of the master's conduct and of the necessity for the sale, but presumptive proof of these facts is sufficient. The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305.

49. Saltus v. Everett, 20 Wend. (N. Y.) 267, 32 Am. Dec. 541; Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co. v. Huth, 16 Ch. D. 474, 4 Aspin. 369, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 67, 29 Wkly. Rep. 387.

50. Australasian Steam Nav. Co. v. Morse, L. R. 4 P. C. 222, 1 Aspin. 407, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 357, 8 Moore P. C. 482, 20 Wkly. Rep. 728, 17 Eng. Reprint 393.

51. Clark v. Humphreys, 25 Mo. 99; Ford v. Crocker, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 142; Mackintosh v. Mitcheson, 4 Exch. 175, 18 L. J. Exch. 385.

Express proof need not be given that the supplies were necessary, but such necessity may be inferred from the circumstances of the case; and the absence of proof that any part thereof was for the master's private use is prima facie sufficient to charge the owners with the whole bill. Ford v. Crocker, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 142.

52. Merwin v. Shailer, 16 Conn. 489; Baring v. Souder, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 20 (holding that it is incumbent on the creditor to show that there was a reasonable ground for believing that the money was needed for the use of the vessel and would be so applied); Bogle v. Atty, Gow. 50, 5 E. C. L. 865; The Sophie, 1 Notes of Cas. 393, 1 W. Rob. 368; Palmer v. Gooch, 2 Stark. 428, 3 E. C. L. 475; Rocher v. Busher, 1 Stark. 27, 18 Rev. Rep. 742, 2 E. C. L. 21; The Alexander, 1 W. Rob. 346.

53. Admissibility of protest of master as evidence in actions for insurance see Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 732.

Admissions by master as evidence see Evidence, 16 Cyc. 1015 text and note 6.

Admissibility of log-book as evidence see Evidence, 17 Cyc. 405.

54. See, generally, Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 883 et seq.; Evidence, 16 Cyc. 1110 et seq., 17 Cyc. 1 et seq.

Evidence of a custom authorizing masters of coasting vessels to sell their cargoes without express authority is inadmissible where the manifest repels the existence of any possible authority in the master. Stillman v. Hurd, 10 Tex. 109.

A protest on account of the vessel and cargo, given on the oath of the master and sailors before a notary, is not admissible in the master's favor in an action against himself. Cunningham v. Butler, 3 N. C. 392; Miller v. Ireland, 1 N. C. 134.

55. The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465.

56. The Henry, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,372, Blatchf. & H. 465, holding, however, that a paper purporting to be a survey, but not drawn up, subscribed, or sworn to prior to the sale, will not be received as evidence of a survey.

57. Hartshorne v. Campbell, 1 Yeates (Pa.) 143.

58. The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305.

59. The Lucinda Snow, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,591, Abb. Adm. 305.

60. Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355.

61. See, generally, Evidence, 17 Cyc. 753 et seq.

master to decide whether or not to sell an injured vessel does not per se render the sale valid, but it affords strong evidence in justification of it;[62] and the fact that the surveyor's advice afterward turns out to be erroneous does not disprove the necessity for the sale.[63] On the question of the integrity of the sale of a vessel by the master his evidence is vital to one claiming title under such sale.[64]

6. Questions For Jury. The general rule applicable in civil actions generally that questions of fact upon which the evidence is conflicting or doubtful are to be determined by the jury applies in actions relative to the masters of vessels.[65] Thus ordinarily it is a question of fact for the jury as to whether or not, under the circumstances of the particular case, a necessity existed for the master to sell the vessel [66] or cargo.[67] In an action by one who has loaned money to a master in a foreign port, the questions of the necessity for the money, the good faith in making the loan, and the diligence of the loaner in ascertaining the necessity are for the jury.[68]

V. Rights and Liabilities of Vessels and Owners in General.

[Edited by William S. Montgomery, Esq., of the New York Bar]

A. Rights and Liabilities in General [69] — 1. Representation of Vessel or Owners in General. The power to represent or act as agent for a vessel or her owners and the rights and liabilities growing out of such representation are ordinarily governed by the general law of principal and agent.[70] Thus as a general rule the owners are bound by all acts done by their agents within the scope of their authority; [71] but a special agent of the charterer of a vessel has no power as Evidence held insufficient, in an action by a master for his wages, to sustain the defense of misconduct see Nisson v. Wessels, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,278, 5 Ben. 483.

62. Prince v. Ocean Ins. Co., 40 Me. 481, 63 Am. Dec. 676; Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355; The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806.

63. The Amelie, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 18, 18 L. ed. 806.

64. Hartman v. The Will, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,163.

65. See, generally, Trial. See also Wilcox v. Philips, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,639, 1 Wall. Jr. 47, holding that in a suit by the owners of a vessel against her master to recover certain profits as a part of the earnings of the vessel, it should be left to the jury to say whether by the usage of trade such profits belong to the master.

Whether a master's condition of incompetency at a certain time is so apparent as to charge the mate with negligence in not forcibly taking charge of the vessel is a question for the jury. Williams v. Hays, 157 N. Y. 541, 52 N. E. 589, 68 Am. St. Rep. 797, 43 L. R. A. 253 [reversing 2 N. Y. App. Div. 183, 37 N. Y. Suppl. 708].

The extent of the general usage of a vessel, and consequent implied authority of the master, is ordinarily for the jury to decide, and it is therefore erroneous for the court to assume it as established, or to state it to exist as a legal presumption. The General Worth v. Hopkins, 30 Miss. 703.

66. Orange v. McKay, 5 Nova Scotia 444.

67. Caldwell v. Western M. & F. Ins. Co., 19 La. 42, 36 Am. Dec. 667; Butler v. Murray, 30 N. Y. 88, 86 Am. Dec. 355.

68. Stearns v. Doe, 12 Gray (Mass.) 482, 74 Am. Dec. 608.

69. Debts and contracts subject to limitation under limited liability statutes see infra, XI, B.

Liability of either master or owner or both see supra, IV, E, 3.

Liability on contracts of master see supra, IV, B, 2.

Liabilities of owners as to seaworthiness and fitness under charter see supra, III, F.

Rights and liabilities of part-owners see supra, II, C, 2.

Maritime liens in general see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 743.

70. See, generally, Principal and Agent, 31 Cyc. 1175.

Acknowledgment of debt.—The acknowledgment of a master of the correctness of bills presented for supplies furnished the vessel is binding on the owners (Black v. Savory, 17 La. 85. See also Pell v. Dickens, 3 B. Mon. (Ky.) 57), unless the power to make such an acknowledgment or admission is denied by statute (Phelps v. The Eureka, 14 Mo. 532, holding that under Rev. Code (1845), neither the captain, clerk, nor other officer of any vessel has power to bind her by making any admission of the indebtedness of the vessel).

Estoppel to deny responsibility as owners see The Jane Gray, 99 Fed. 582.

Revocability.— A custom that an agency to act for a ship in distress is irrevocable is invalid as being unreasonable. Minis v. Nelson, 43 Fed. 777.

71. Hyde v. Henry, 3 Mart. N. S. (La.) 179.

A ship's agent as such has no authority to sell and transfer all claims due the ship and her owners. Ely v. U. S., 19 Ct. Cl. 658.

such to represent and bind the vessel or her owners;[72] nor has the underwriter of a vessel any authority to contract for the vessel until there has been an abandonment and an acceptance thereof by him.[73] Where the owners of several vessels form an association to run their vessels and to collect and receive the earnings thereof in a common fund out of which all the expenses of the vessels are to be paid, it is in fact a private copartnership, and each member is responsible individually for his acts or contracts in the business of the common concern,[74] and the members of the association are jointly liable upon contracts made by an agent of the association on its behalf.[75] A pledgee of a vessel must use ordinary care in protecting and preserving it.[76]

2. Contracts in General. The rights and liabilities of the owners of a vessel under contracts relating thereto, whether entered into by them or their authorized agents, depend upon the terms of the particular contract, and the proper performance thereof.[77] A reasonable custom at the port at which a contract is made and of which the owners' agent has knowledge at the time constitutes a part of the contract and is binding on the owners.[78] A contractor who undertakes to make and finish or fit up a vessel impliedly undertakes that she shall be reasonably fit for the purpose for which he knows she is intended to be used;[79] and if she is not so finished or fitted up the contractor will not be exonerated, although her unfitness is occasioned by secret defects in the materials used.[80]

3. Consortship. An agreement of consortship[81] between the masters of two or more vessels is not merely personal between the masters but extends to the Contracts of a managing agent within the sphere of his authority are the actual contracts of the owners and not of the vessels to which they relate, as in the case of contracts made by a master on a voyage or in foreign ports. Great Lakes Towing Co. v. Mill Transp. Co., 155 Fed. 11, 83 C. C. A. 607.

72. The Joseph Cunard, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,535, Olcott 120.

73. The Senator, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,665, Brown Adm. 544. See also Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 706.

74. The Swallow, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,665, Olcott 334.

Partnership generally see Partnership, 30 Cyc. 334.

75. Slocum v. Fairchild, 7 Hill (N. Y.) 292 [affirming 19 Wend. 329].

Where, however, the owners are not in fact partners and do not own or use any property in common or share any of the profits, the fact that they allow their boats to be advertised as forming a line under a common name, and have a common agent who solicits custom and transacts business for all, does not make them jointly liable for the torts and contracts of each other. Citizens' Ins. Co. v. Kountz Line, 48 Fed. 838 [affirming 10 Fed. 768].

76. Fagin v. Thompson, 38 Fed. 467.

77. See Gilchrist v. Partridge, 73 Me. 214.

Construction of particular contracts.— Where a ship-owner contracts to send all ships of his line to a certain pier, a ship which belongs to him but which is under a contract of affreightment to a foreign firm, the captain, crew, and ship being, however, under his control and direction, properly belongs to his line within the meaning of the agreement. Elwell v. Fabre, 13 N. Y. Suppl. 829. Where a contractor undertakes to pull a schooner lodged in the launching, to the owner's satisfaction, the contract requires that the pulling shall be of such a character as will satisfy a reasonably prudent man in the light of the circumstances surrounding the transaction, and where after such pulling the schooner is not floated and the contractor's services are further required in subsequent endeavors which are finally successful, he is entitled to recover for such subsequent services on a quantum meruit. Merritt, etc., Derrick, etc., Co. v. Greene, 147 Fed. 317.

78. Horan v. Strachan, 86 Ga. 408, 12 S. E. 678, 22 Am. St. Rep. 471, holding that where, upon taking charge of a vessel which is on fire in a port, the shipping firm informs the master that, by the custom of the port, custody, commission, and attendance fees are charged in such cases and the master makes no protest, it cannot be said that the master was ignorant of the custom.

79. Furniss v. Brown, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 191 (holding that an agreement to fit up a steamboat in a suitable manner for her to proceed from New York to the Pacific by way of the Straits of Magellan and to trade along the west coast of America, or in the rivers of the same, is an agreement to fit her as far as such a boat can be fitted for a single sea voyage and not for ocean service); Cunningham v. Hall, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,482, 1 Sprague 404; Shepherd v. Pybus, 11 L. J. C. P. 101, 3 M. & G. 868, 4 Scott N. R. 434, 42 E. C. L. 452.

80. Cunningham v. Hall, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,582, 1 Sprague 404.

81. An agreement of consortship is a maritime contract for services to be rendered on the sea, and an apportionment of the salvage earned therein. Andrews v. Wall, 3 How. (U. S.) 568, 11 L. ed. 729.

owners and crews,[82] and to persons joining or becoming interested in a vessel during the continuance of the agreement,[83] and is for and on account of the vessels.[84] Such an agreement, unless limited by special understandings when made, is considered to be general and to extend to all earnings by either vessel,[85] and in the absence of a stipulation as to its termination, it can only be terminated by voluntary dissolution and notice.[86] No mutual liens arise from a contract of consortship, and no suit in rem can be maintained for its enforcement.[87]

4. Liability For Supplies, Repairs, and Services[88] — a. In General. As a general rule the owners of a vessel[89] and the vessel itself[90] are liable for necessary supplies,[91] services,[92] repairs,[93] and advances[94] furnished and received to the use

82. Andrews v. Wall, 3 How. (U. S.) 568, 11 L. ed. 729.

83. Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,498.

84. Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,498.

85. Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,498, holding that the special intention or understanding of either party will not control its operation, unless expressed when the agreement is made.

86. Andrews v. Wall, 3 How. (U. S.) 568, 11 L. ed. 729 (holding that if the agreement is made for an indefinite period it does not expire with the mere removal of one of the masters from his vessel but continues until dissolved on notice to the other parties); Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,498 (holding further that a change of owners, master, or crew of one vessel without notice to the other parties cannot affect the consortship).

87. Vandewater v. The Yankee Blade, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,847, McAllister 9.

88. Authority of master to contract for supplies, repairs, and services see supra, IV, B, 2, b.

Duty of master to repair see supra, IV, B, 3, a.

Liability as between owner and charterer see supra, III, E.

Liability of mortgagee see supra, II, F, 6, b.

Liability of seller after sale see supra, II, E, 6.

Liability where vessel is let on shares see supra, III, Q, 2, a.

Repairs subjects of compensation in general average see infra, X, D, 5, l.

89. Bent v. Lauve, 3 La. Ann. 88; Stewart v. Rogers, 19 Md. 98; Burquin v. Flinn, 1 McCord (S. C.) 316; Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912.

Fraudulently breaking up voyage.— Where a cargo is laden on a vessel whose owners know that she is not seaworthy and who intend to fraudulently break up the voyage at an intermediate port, which intention is afterward carried out, all the expenses of taking the vessel into the intermediate port and her expenses there and the cost of discharging, storing, and reshipping the cargo must be borne by the vessel and her owners and are not a legitimate charge against the cargo. Gardner v. One Thousand Four Hundred and Sixty-Seven Bales of Cotton, 20 Fed. 529.

Where it does not affirmatively appear that the seller of supplies relied exclusively on the agent's credit for payment, the seller may resort to the owner of the vessel when payment is refused by the agent. Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912 [reversed on other grounds in 28 Fed. 110].

Estoppel.— An advance made by the owners to their agent, to reimburse him for an alleged payment for supplies, does not estop the materialman from prosecuting his claim against the owners, unless his connection with the misrepresentation can be shown; and a receipted bill in the hands of the agent, not shown to the owners, and by which they were not misled, does not work an equitable estoppel. Berwind v. Schultz, 28 Fed. 110 [reversing 25 Fed. 912]. See also Borland v. Zittlosen, 27 Fed. 131.

90. Gardner v. One Thousand Four Hundred and Sixty-Seven Bales of Cotton, 20 Fed. 529; Frechette v. Martin, 21 Quebec Super. Ct. 417. See also The David Wallace v. Bain, 8 Can. Exch. 205. And see, generally, Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 759 et seq.

91. Bent v. Lauve, 3 La. Ann. 88; Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 874, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 508 [modifying 53 Misc. 97, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 931]; Burquin v. Flinn, 1 McCord (S. C.) 316; Rudolph v. Bryan, 161 Fed. 233; Cloy v. Jacques, 27 U. C. Q. B. 88. See also The Mecca, [1897] A. C. 286, 8 Aspin. 266, 66 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 86, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 579, 13 T. L. R. 339, 45 Wkly. Rep. 667.

Insurance premiums are not necessaries within the meaning of the above rule. The André Theodore, 10 Aspin. 94, 93 L. T. Rep. N. S. 184, 21 T. L. R. 158.

92. James v. Bixby, 11 Mass. 34.

A custom that the agent of a ship in distress shall receive in all cases a certain commission on the value of the cargo discharged, and an attendance fee in the discretion of the agent, is void as to the attendance fee for want of uniformity, but valid as to the commission. Minis v. Nelson, 43 Fed. 777.

Services not within the contract cannot be recovered for against the owners. The Erinagh, 7 Fed. 231.

93. Nash v. Parker, 38 Me. 489; Harrison v. Harris, 1 U. C. C. P. 235. See also infra, V, A, 4, b.

94. Hanschell v. Swan, 23 Misc. (N. Y.)

of a vessel in a foreign port,[95] upon the order of the master or other duly authorized agent within the scope of his authority,[96] unless credit therefor is given exclusively to the master or agent or others,[97] or unless by the usage and understanding of the business the agent only is held,[98] or unless the special circumstances of the case show that only the agent was intended to be bound and the person furnishing the necessaries or supplies knew or was chargeable with knowledge of it.[99]

b. Liability For Repairs. The nature and extent of the owners' liability for repairs furnished their vessel upon a contract therefor depend upon the terms of the particular contract,[1] and the due performance thereof by the contractors.[2] It is the duty of one who contracts to repair a vessel to do the work as rapidly as is reasonably possible,[3] and to release the vessel from the dry dock as soon as the repairs are so far along that they can be completed with her afloat.[4]

c. Grounds of Liability. The liability of the owners of a vessel to pay for repairs and supplies ordered by the master or agent does not rest upon the ground of ownership of the vessel,[5] but upon the ground of a contract made by one who is the owners' agent for the purpose of ordering such supplies or repairs,[6] although 304, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 42; The Irthington, 27 Fed. 143. See also The Wyandotte, 136 Fed. 470 [affirmed in 145 Fed. 321, 75 C. C. A. 117].

Money fraudulently advanced to the master of a vessel cannot be recovered from the owner. The Alvega, 30 Fed. 694.

Where a vessel goes into an enemy's port pretending to be a neutral, and obtains a credit for repairs and other purposes there, but her cargo is discovered, and she is condemned, an action may be maintained after the return of peace to recover the sum so advanced. Musson v. Fales, 16 Mass. 332.

95. Foreign port defined see 19 Cyc. 1352.

96. The Suliote, 23 Fed. 919. See also Frazer v. Cuthbertson, L. R. 6 Q. B. 93, 50 L. J. Q. B. 277, 29 Wkly. Rep. 396.

Ship-broker.— Where a foreign vessel is consigned to a ship's brokers at a certain port for cargo, the brokers have implied authority to purchase necessary supplies to prepare the vessel for sailing. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Sloman, 121 N. Y. App. Div. 874, 106 N. Y. Suppl. 508 [modifying 53 Misc. 97, 102 N. Y. Suppl. 931].

One of two or more joint agents has no power as agent to contract for the making of repairs on the vessel without the concurrence of his co-agents. The Robert R. Kirkland, 153 Fed. 863, 83 C. C. A. 45 [affirming 143 Fed. 610].

An unauthorized agent has no power to bind the owners of a vessel for repairs and supplies. Tinker v. Marquette, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 52, 1 West. L. Month. 215.

97. James v. Bixby, 11 Mass. 34; The Iris, 88 Fed. 902 [reversed on other grounds in 100 Fed. 104, 40 C. C. A. 301]; Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912; Cox v. Reid, 1 C. & P. 602, 12 E. C. L. 342, R. & M. 199, 21 E. C. L. 733; The Wellgunde, 18 T. L. R. 719.

The acceptance of a note given by the master for a balance due for repairs, without any explanation, is sufficient to show that credit was given to him and not to the owners. Warner v. Miller, 13 Hun (N. Y.) 654.

98. Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912.

99. Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912.

1. See The Czarina, 152 Fed. 297 [affirmed in 158 Fed. 1019, 86 C. C. A. 671].

An agreement to prepare a steam yacht for a dock trial does not require that the repairer shall furnish a new boiler if the dock trial develops leaks, especially where it is subsequently shown that the boiler was so faulty in construction that it was necessary to replace it for one of a different type. The Czarina, 152 Fed. 297 [affirmed in 158 Fed. 1019, 86 C. C. A. 671].

2. Lawrence v. Morrisania Steam-Boat Co., 9 Fed. 208.

Inspection and approval.— Where an agreement is for alterations "under the inspection and subject to the approval" of a certain person of experience in such matters, acting for the owners, the acceptance by that person is, in the absence of fraud and mistake, binding upon such owners. Flint v. Gibson, 106 Mass. 391.

3. The Mary N. Bourke, 145 Fed. 909, 76 C. C. A. 441 [modifying and affirming 135 Fed. 895], holding that the owners of the vessel are entitled to a set-off for demurrage against the cost of repairs, where there is unnecessary delay in the completion of the work during the busy season of navigation.

4. The Mary N. Bourke, 145 Fed. 909, 76 C. C. A. 441 [modifying and affirming 135 Fed. 895], holding further that the repairer will not be allowed a charge for lay days for the use of the dock after the time she should have been so released by the use of reasonable despatch in the work.

5. The Great Eastern, L. R. 2 A. & E. 88, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 667.

6. Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912; Heppard v. The General Cadwalader, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,390; The Great Eastern, L. R. 2 A. & E. 88, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 667.

In a home port where all the owners reside, the managing owner, although registered as such at the custom-house, cannot merely by virtue of that relation order supplies and bind his coöwners to a personal liability therefor. Woodall v. Dempsey, 100 Fed. 653; Spedden v. Koenig, 78 Fed. 504, 24 C. C. A. 189.

if such necessaries are furnished with the knowledge of the owners and they receive the benefit of the same, it will be presumed that they were furnished at their instance and request.[7] In the absence of express authority to pledge the owners' credit, the owners are liable for supplies and repairs furnished to their vessel in a foreign port only in the case of a necessity or apparent necessity for the credit of the vessel to obtain them,[8] and hence where the master or agent has funds of the owners in his hands at the time sufficient to pay for such necessaries, and the contractor has actual or constructive notice of this fact, no credit therefor is presumed to be given to the owners of the vessel.[9]

d. Who Liable as Owners. Although the registered or legal owners of the vessel are prima facie liable for necessaries furnished to her,[10] the mere fact alone that one is the registered owner or holder of the legal title of a vessel does not make him liable for supplies, repairs, and other necessaries furnished to her,[11] as he may hold her merely in trust, and be neither an actual nor apparent owner;[12] but this liability rests upon the persons who have the actual interest, control, and management of the vessel at the time and who benefit by the supplies or repairs furnished.[13]

5. Negotiable Instruments.[14] A clerk of a vessel may bind the owners thereof by a draft, note, or other negotiable instrument so far as its consideration inures to their benefit.[15]

6. Actions and Other Proceedings.[16] Except in so far as they are regulated by special statutory provisions,[17] the rules applicable in civil actions generally,

7. James v. Bixby, 11 Mass. 34.

8. Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912; The Suliote, 23 Fed. 919.

9. Hazlehurst v. The Lulu, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 192, 19 L. ed. 906; Berwind v. Schultz, 25 Fed. 912; The Suliote, 23 Fed. 919.

10. Cox v. Reid, 1 C. & P. 602, 12 E. C. L. 342, R. & M. 199, 21 E. C. L. 733; Jennings v. Griffiths, R. & M. 42, 27 Rev. Rep. 730, 21 E. C. L. 700.

11. Kentucky.— Strader v. Lambeth, 7 B. Mon. 589.

Maine.— Nash v. Parker, 38 Me. 489.

New York.— Macy v. Wheeler, 30 N. Y. 231, 18 Abb. Pr. 73.

United States.— Borland v. Zittlosen, 27 Fed. 131.

England.— Reeve v. Davis, 1 A. & E. 312, 3 N. & M. 873, 28 E. C. L. 159; Myers v. Willis, 18 C. B. 886, 25 L. J. C. P. 255, 4 Wkly. Rep. 637, 86 E. C. L. 886; Tibbald v. Wood, 1 F. & F. 287. See also Brodie v. Howard, 17 C. B. 109, 1 Jur. N. S. 1209, 25 L. J. C. P. 57, 84 E. C. L. 109.

Canada.— Nelson v. Wigle, 8 Ont. 82; Hawn v. Roche, 27 U. C. C. P. 142.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 323.

12. Strader v. Lambeth, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 589; Macy v. Wheeler, 30 N. Y. 231, 18 Abb. Pr. 73.

13. Nash v. Parker, 38 Me. 489; Macy v. Wheeler, 30 N. Y. 231, 18 Abb. Pr. 73 (holding that the law adjudges the credit to have been given to the person in the actual possession of the vessel who controls her operations, receives her freight and earnings, and directs her designation); Decker v. Furniss, 3 Duer (N. Y.) 291 [reversed on the facts in 14 N. Y. 611]; Leonard v. Huntington, 15 Johns. (N. Y.) 298; Harrington v. Fry, 2 Bing. 179, 9 E. C. L. 535, 1 C. & P. 289, 12 E. C. L. 173, 3 L. J. C. P. O. S. 244, 9 Moore C. P. 344, R. & M. 90; Jennings v Griffith, R. & M. 42, 27 Rev. Rep. 730, 21 E. C. L. 700; Rochester, etc., Coal, etc., Co. v. The Garden City, 7 Can. Exch. 34 [affirmed in 7 Can. Exch. 94]; Russell v. Marshall, 2 Nova Scotia 330. See also Briggs v. Wilkinson, 7 B. & C. 30, 9 D. & R. 871, 5 L. J. K. B. O. S. 349, 14 E. C. L. 24; Fraser v. Flint, 4 U. C. Q. B. O. S. 12.

A beneficial interest in a steamboat, without the holding of a legal title thereto, will render the owner of such interest liable for services done or supplies furnished for the boat. Strader v. Lambeth, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 589.

14. Authority of master to give negotiable instrument see supra, IV, B, 2, h.

15. Oglesby v. The D. S. Stacy, 10 La. Ann. 117; Moss v. Smoker, 2 La. Ann. 989, holding that where the business of a steamer is to carry freight for hire, notes executed by the clerk on behalf of the owners in pursuance of an agreement made by the master or the clerk in order to obtain the carriage of merchandise and earn freight are binding on the owners. But compare Anderson v. Irwin, 7 La. Ann. 494, holding that the owners are not bound by a note executed by the clerk for stores furnished, and that, if such note is relied on as a receipt which the clerk is authorized to give, it should be shown that the maker was clerk when the stores were delivered.

16. Actions involving authority of master see supra, IV, F.

Actions involving rights and liabilities under charter-party see supra, III, R.

Enforcement of stevedores' claims in admiralty see Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 833.

Vessels as property subject to attachment see Attachment, 4 Cyc. 557.

17. See the statutes of the several states.

and, where applicable, the rules in admiralty cases apply in actions or proceedings to enforce the rights and liabilities of vessels and their owners, in regard to questions of process,[18] notice,[19] parties,[20] pleading,[21] presumptions and burden of proof,[22] and the admissibility,[23] and in regard to the weight and sufficiency of the

See also De Witt v. Burnett, 3 Barb. (N. Y.) 89.

The provisions of the Ohio Water Craft Act do not give a right of action against a water craft in the state on an indebtedness contracted in another state, and it is immaterial whether there is or is not a liability to such an action in the state where the indebtedness accrued. Goodsell v. The Brig St. Louis, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 4 West. L. J. 123 [affirmed in 16 Ohio 178]. Nor can an action be maintained under such statute to recover a sum agreed by the master of the vessel to be paid to one for acting as a local agent of the vessel, for services performed on land. Howe v. The Steamboat Empire, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 477, 10 West. L. J. 142.

Under Canada Admiralty Courts Acts (1861), § 5, and the Colonial Courts Admiralty Act (1890), § 2, (3), (a), where the owner of a ship is the debtor, the action cannot be maintained against her if the necessaries are supplied at the port to which the ship belongs, or if at the time of the institution of the action any owner or part-owner of the ship is domiciled in Canada. The David Wallace v. Bain, 8 Can. Exch. 205; Rochester, etc., Coal, etc., Co. v. The Garden City, 7 Can. Exch. 34 [affirmed in 7 Can. Exch. 94].

18. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 866 et seq.; MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 813; PROCESS, 32 Cyc. 412.

Process must be served on the owners, where they are known and reside in the state, and cannot be served on the master. Gazzam v. Wright, 3 La. 449. Under an Arkansas statute (Mansfield Dig. § 4986) a constructive service upon the owners of a vessel is not sufficient to support a personal judgment against them. Ford v. Adams, 54 Ark. 137, 15 S. W. 186.

A return to a writ against a vessel which omits to state that the officer seized the vessel is defective, although it is not necessary that he should state in his return that he retains the vessel in his custody. Blaisdell v. The William Pope, 19 Mo. 157.

Amendment of return see Blaisdell v. The William Pope, 19 Mo. 157 (holding that the court may permit an amendment of an officer's return to a writ of seizure, although such officer is no longer an officer of the court); International Grain Ceiling Co. v. Dill, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,053, 10 Ben. 92 (holding that any person interested in the suit may move for an amendment of the officer's return).

Execution against a vessel under the Ohio Water Craft Law, §§ 4, 5, 6, see Levi v. The Steamboat Baltimore, 12 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 387, 2 Handy 172.

19. Howell v. Gaddis, 31 N. J. L. 313, holding that in a suit brought under the act (Nixon Dig. 529) for the collection of demands against ships, steamboats, and other vessels, the failure of the commissioner issuing the warrant for the seizure of the vessel to give immediate notice of the issuing of the warrant, and that claims must be presented within a certain time, does not vitiate the proceedings.

20. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 850; PARTIES, 30 Cyc. 1.

Partnership.— The master and seamen of a vessel who ship on shares, instead of wages, do not thereby become partners with the owners and need not join or be joined in actions by or against them relating to the voyage. Grozier v. Atwood, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 234; Baxter v. Rodman, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 435.

21. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 853 et seq.; PLEADING, 31 Cyc. 1. See also Luce v. Hadley, 119 Mass. 229 (holding that in a declaration for supplies furnished a mortgagee in possession to whom the supplies were furnished under circumstances rendering him liable for them he may properly be described as owner); Smithers v. The War Eagle, 29 Mo. 312 (holding that in an action against a steamboat as a common carrier it is not necessary that the petition should expressly state that the steamboat is a common carrier, but it is sufficient if it clearly appears from the whole petition that the contract was entered into with her in that capacity).

The declaration in a suit under a statute for materials, supplies, etc., furnished a vessel should show that the cause of action falls within the provisions of the statute. Borden v. The Schooner Eagle, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 473, 10 West. L. J. 137. See also Hamilton v. The R. B. Hamilton, 16 Ohio St. 428.

Plea in abatement.— In an action for supplies furnished a vessel, a non-joinder of any part-owner of the vessel may be taken advantage of by plea in abatement. Sager v. Nichols, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 1.

22. See, generally, EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 926, 1050. See also Bass v. O'Brien, 12 Gray (Mass.) 477; Blackstock v. Leidy, 19 Pa. St. 335 (holding that, where plaintiff proves the furnishing of supplies to a vessel and then shows that defendants were the owners, the presumption is that the vessel was navigated for their benefit and at their charge); Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,498 (holding that the burden of proving the restricted character of an agreement of consortship rests upon the party alleging it).

Presumptions and burden of proof in actions involving authority of master see supra, IV, F, 3.

23. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 883 et seq.; EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 1110 et seq.

evidence.[24] Such rules also apply in regard to questions of claim and intervention,[25] and in regard to questions for the jury,[26] and costs.[27]

B. Dry-Dock Companies.[28] Although all the obligations imposed by law on a carrier of goods do not attach, the employment of a dry-dock owner is in a substantial sense a public one and public policy requires a high degree of responsibility.[29] Hence the dry-dock owner is liable for injuries to a vessel caused by his negligence while the vessel is in his care,[30] and ignorance of the weak and unsea-

Admissibility of evidence in actions involving the authority of a master see supra, IV, F, 4.

Under the general issue in an action for services, materials, and supplies furnished to a vessel, the owners may prove that at the time they were rendered or furnished the vessel was chartered to a third person. Fish v. Sullivan, 40 La. Ann. 193, 3 So. 730; Pontchartrain Co. v. Heirne, 2 La. Ann. 129.

A note given on behalf of the owners of a vessel by their authorized agent for the amount of certain demands is evidence both as to the justice and the amount of the demand (Byrne v. The Elk, 6 Mo. 555), and it is competent for defendant to show that the note was accepted on the individual credit of the maker, a former owner (The Resort v. Brooke, 10 Mo. 531).

The oath of ownership made in taking out the register of a vessel is admissible in evidence, although not conclusive, against defendant, in an action for supplies furnished for the vessel. Lincoln v. Wright, 23 Pa. St. 76, 62 Am. Dec. 316.

24. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 885; EVIDENCE, 17 Cyc. 753 et seq. See also Oakes v. Cushing, 24 Me. 313 (evidence held sufficient to authorize jury to find a verdict for plaintiff in an action for labor performed); Casey v. Leary, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,497, 2 Ben. 530 (holding that on a libel in personam for supplies furnished a vessel, if the recorded owner, who has sworn that he is her owner, may be allowed to take the position that he has no interest in her, such position must be sustained by some other proof than the declaration of the party himself).

Weight and sufficiency of evidence in actions involving authority of master see supra, IV, F, 5.

An admission in an answer in an action for supplies furnished a vessel that the vessel was in a foreign port is an admission of an apparent necessity for the credit of the vessel for the alleged supplies furnished, although the answer also avers that the owner was in good credit in such port. The Washington Irving, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,245, 2 Ben. 323.

In Ohio, where a note given for money borrowed for the use of a boat is sued on, there must be other proof accompanying it that it was given for money borrowed and expended for some of the particular items, such as materials, supplies, or labor, for which an action is given under the Water Craft Law. McGuire v. The Canal Boat Kentucky, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 263, 6 West. L. J. 179.

25. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 862 et seq.

Election.— A shipwright in possession under a common-law lien, from whom the vessel is taken upon arrest by a marshal, has an election to appear as a technical "claimant" for the redelivery of the vessel, or as an "intervener" only for the recognition and payment of his claim, but if he appears as "claimant" and gives a bond for the libellant's demand, he has no right as a matter of course afterward to change his position to that of intervener merely. The Two Marys, 12 Fed. 152.

26. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 887 et seq.; TRIAL. See also Henderson v. Mayhew, 2 Gill (Md.) 393, 41 Am. Dec. 434.

Questions for jury in questions involving authority of master see supra, IV, F, 6.

What are necessaries is a question for the jury to decide. Burquin v. Flinn, 1 McCord (S. C.) 316.

27. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 908; COSTS, 11 Cyc. 1.

On a libel to enforce an agreement of consortship by the masters of vessels, where the question is one of considerable interest and the court is unable to say that respondent's refusal to pay, thus compelling a resort to the court, was wrong under the circumstances, he should not be charged with the costs but the same should be ordered paid from the fund in controversy. Cash v. One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy-Seven Dollars and Five Cents, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,498.

28. Salvage in dry-dock see SALVAGE, 35 Cyc. 723.

29. Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. New York Balance Dock Co., 22 Fed. 672.

Liability to third person.— The owner of a dry dock is liable to the employee of a third person engaged by the ship-owner to repair the vessel after she had been placed in dock, for an injury caused by defects in the dock. Cook v. New York Floating Dry Dock Co., 1 Hilt. (N. Y.) 436.

30. Brooklyn Water Front Warehouse, etc., Co. v. The Sappho, 44 Fed. 359; Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. New York Balance Dock Co., 22 Fed. 672.

There is no liability for delay in completing a contract to raise the vessel caused by the bursting of a bulkhead of the dock, in the absence of any stipulation as to time in the contract, and in the absence of negligence, as the temporary destruction of the bulkhead is attributable to the occurrence of an unforeseen event. New York Balance Dry-Dock Co. v. Howes, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,202, 9 Ben. 232.

Contributory negligence of the ship-owner, while the vessel is being repaired under his superintendence, bars a recovery against worthy condition of the vessel is no defense as, in the absence of representation or special agreement, his contract is to dock the vessel as she is.[31] The charges of the dock owner are usually limited by the contract,[32] and in the absence of contract the customary rates prevailing in that particular harbor control.[33]

C. Torts[34] — 1. In General — a. Rights and Liabilities in General. An owner of a vessel is entitled to recover for injuries caused to him or his vessel by the negligence or other torts of others;[35] and except in so far as their liability is limited or exempted by statute,[36] it is a general rule of the maritime law that a vessel or her owners are liable for all damages caused by the negligence and other wrongs of the owners,[37] or of those in charge of the offending vessel,[38] as for malicious or wilful torts,[39] and this liability extends to a municipal corporation as the dock-owner for loss sustained by fire. Burckle v. New York Dry Dock Co., 2 Hall (N. Y.) 170.

31. Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. New York Balance Dock Co., 22 Fed. 672.

32. New York Balance Dry Dock Co. v. Howes, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,202, 9 Ben. 232.

The lessor of land to which a dock is permanently attached is entitled to a lessor's privilege on the dock itself. Cochran v. Ocean Dry-Dock Co., 30 La. Ann. 1365.

33. Burlee Dry Dock Co. v. Morris, etc., Dredging Co., 145 Fed. 740 [affirmed in 151 Fed. 1020, 81 C. C. A. 681].

Customs of other docks in other places will not be allowed to control, nor will the owner of the dock be allowed to charge the ship with greater sums as the wages of the workmen and the price of materials than are actually so paid, where he also makes a separate charge for his own superintendence. Ives v. The Buckeye State, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,117, 1 Newb. 69.

34. Liability for personal injuries to seamen see SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1244.

Liability of owner or charterer see supra, III, E, 1, b.

Liability of owner of wharf boat see WHARVES.

Liability of towboat or owner see TOWAGE.

Liability of vessel or owner for injuries to seamen or other employees for defects in vessels or dangerous methods of work see MASTER AND SERVANT, 26 Cyc. 1120, 1188, 1358.

Personal injuries to passengers see infra, VIII.

35. Dennison v. Hyde, 6 Conn. 508, unlawful seizure.

36. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Berkshire, 59 Fed. 1007, holding that Act Feb. 13, 1893, § 3 (27 U. S. St. at L. 445 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2946]), exempting vessels in the coasting trade and their owners from liability in certain cases, applies only to the rights and liabilities of owners and shippers, and does not abolish liability to third persons for marine torts. See also infra, VII, D, 13, b.

37. Strawbridge v. Turner, 9 La. 213; The Mary, 123 Fed. 609; The Lord Derby, 17 Fed. 265, bite of dog.

Deportation.— Where a steamship company wrongfully deports a family of immigrants, for which it has agreed to become responsible on being furnished sufficient security, without giving the family a reasonable time to furnish the security, proof of such facts establishes a prima facie cause of action against the steamship company for the damages sustained, and it cannot defend an action for such damages on the ground that the deportation is an act of the law. Kahaner v. International Nav. Co., 117 Fed. 979.

A vessel cannot be held liable in admiralty any more than at common law as an instrumentality of harm unless the owner thereof is accountable for the injury either personally or upon the principle of agency. Workman v. New York, 179 U. S. 552, 21 S. Ct. 212, 45 L. ed. 314 [reversing 67 Fed. 347, 14 C. C. A. 530, and affirming 63 Fed. 298].

38. Workman v. New York, 179 U. S. 552, 21 S. Ct. 212, 45 L. ed. 314 [reversing 67 Fed. 347, 14 C. C. A. 530, and affirming 63 Fed. 298]; Romney Marsh v. Trinity House Corp., L. R. 7 Exch. 247, 41 L. J. Exch. 106, 20 Wkly. Rep. 952.

Law governing.— A state statute which creates a liability or authorizes a recovery for the consequences of a tortious act operates as efficiently upon a vessel of the state when on the high seas as when physically within the state, the vessel being deemed a part of the territory to which it belongs. International Nav. Co. v. Lindstrom, 123 Fed. 475, 60 C. C. A. 649 [reversing 117 Fed. 170].

39. Weyant v. The Petersburg, 68 Fed. 387, holding that a vessel employed and used with malicious intent to arrest another vessel without process and bring her forcibly into port, whether aware of the malice or not, is liable to the owner of the vessel so arrested for the damages and expenses. Compare The G. H. Starbuck, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,378, 5 Ben. 53, holding that a tug in charge of a pilot during the absence of the master is not liable for the taking off of sailors and their baggage from another vessel against the remonstrance of such vessel, unless the persons in charge have knowledge that they are committing an unlawful act, and the bonding of the vessel when sued for the tort is not a ratification of such acts.

A state statute authorizing the collection of claims against vessels by proceeding against them by name only does not make such a vessel liable for wilful trespasses of its officers or crew committed beyond the limits of the state without the knowledge and consent of the owners. The Ohio v. Stunt, 10 Ohio St. 582; The Champion v. Jantzen, 16 Ohio 91.

Under Admiralty Rule 16, only the owner of a vessel is liable in personam for injuries so wilfully or negligently inflicted as to con-owner,[40] since the public nature of the service upon which a vessel is engaged at the time of the commission of a maritime tort affords no immunity from liability in a court of admiralty.[41] But there is no liability upon the owners or the vessel for injuries which are the result of perils of the sea or inevitable accident,[42] or without negligence or other wrong on the part of the owners or of those in charge of the vessel.[43]

b. Dangerous and Defective Condition of Vessel or Appliances.[44] It is the duty of the owners of a vessel, which they owe to persons who may be rightly upon or near their vessel and to all who may be affected by her use, to use reasonable care and skill to keep the vessel and her appliances in a reasonably safe condition, and if they fail to do so, they and their vessel are liable for damages caused to persons or property by the dangerous or defective condition of the vessel,[45] or of her appliances,[46] such as for fires caused to adjoining property by reason of insufficient or defective appliances;[47] but they are not liable for damages caused stitute an assault and battery. The Lord Derby, 17 Fed. 265.

40. Workman v. New York, 179 U. S. 552, 21 S. Ct. 212, 45 L. ed. 314 [reversing 67 Fed. 347, 14 C. C. A. 530, and affirming 63 Fed. 298]. And see MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, 28 Cyc. 1312.

41. New York v. Workman, 179 U. S. 552, 21 S. Ct. 212, 45 L. ed. 314 [reversing 67 Fed. 347, 14 C. C. A. 530, and affirming 63 Fed. 298].

42. Haulenbeek v. Hunt, 49 N. Y. App. Div. 47, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 405; McCauley v. Logan, 152 Pa. St. 202, 25 Atl. 499; The Carl Frederick, 33 Fed. 589, 13 Sawy. 97; The Harry Buschman, 33 Fed. 558; The Austria, 9 Fed. 916, 7 Sawy. 434; River Wear Com'rs v. Adamson, 2 App. Cas. 743, 47 L. J. Q. B. 193, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 543, 26 Wkly. Rep. 217.

Peril of sea.— Where a vessel which has been lying at anchor in one spot for a number of days suddenly begins dragging, by reason of a kedge which had been lost becoming so fouled in her anchor as to wrap around the chain and cause the anchor to lose its hold, the accident must be ascribed to the peril of the sea. The Carl Frederick, 33 Fed. 589, 13 Sawy. 97.

An inevitable accident which will exonerate a vessel from liability does not mean an accident which is unavoidable under any circumstances, but one which cannot be prevented by the exercise of ordinary care, caution, and maritime skill. The Blackheath, 154 Fed. 758; Bailey v. Cates, 35 Can. Sup. Ct. 293 [affirming 11 Brit. Col. 62].

43. The B. F. Hart, 35 Fed. 535; Romney Marsh v. Trinity House Corp., L. R. 7 Exch. 247, 41 L. J. Exch. 106, 20 Wkly. Rep. 952; The Albert Edward, 44 L. J. Adm. 49, 24 Wkly. Rep. 179.

44. Injuries to stevedores or other independent contractors and their employees through dangerous or defective condition of vessel or appliances see infra, V, C, 3, b, (II); V, C, 3, b, (III).

45. Haulenbeek v. Hunt, 49 N. Y. App. Div. 47, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 405; The Martha E. Wallace, 151 Fed. 353 [affirmed in 158 Fed. 1021, 86 C. C. A. 673]; The Yoxford, 33 Fed. 521, holding that, where a hatch cover gives way by reason of its own defect and so precipitates a person who steps on it into the hold of the vessel without fault on his part, the vessel is liable.

46. Butterfield v. Arnold, 131 Mich. 583, 92 N. W. 97.

Degree of care.— Owners furnishing modern appliances for the convenience of their vessel are held to the strictest rule of diligence and care as to the sufficiency of such appliances. The Edith Godden, 23 Fed. 43.

A failure to provide appliances required by statute renders the owners of a vessel liable for injuries caused thereby, to one who is rightly on the vessel. England v. Gripon, 15 La. Ann. 304.

The breaking of a chain furnished and used in unloading a heavy article if unexplained is prima facie evidence of negligence, which authorizes a judgment against the owners for damages, in the absence of proof of contributory negligence. The Robert Lewers Co. v. Kekauoha, 114 Fed. 849, 52 C. C. A. 483.

47. Gerke v. California Steam Navigation Co., 9 Cal. 251, 70 Am. Dec. 650 (holding that a steamboat owner is liable for damage to growing crops occasioned by a fire thrown from the boat's defective chimneys); Anderson v. Cape Fear Steamboat Co., 64 N. C. 399 (holding that where a steamboat as originally constructed is provided with an effective spark extinguisher, but it is removed because it diminished her speed, her owners are liable for injuries caused by fire afterward communicated by sparks from her chimney).

The owner of a steamboat is not required to use the most effective means known to prevent the escape of sparks from its smokestack, and if he uses an appliance or device which experience has shown to be reasonably effective in accomplishing that result, he is not required to use additional appliances or devices, although the danger might thereby be greatly lessened. Cheboygan Lumber Co. v. Delta Transp. Co., 100 Mich. 16, 58 N. W. 630.

A failure to use fire screens as required by statute is negligence. Burrows v. Transp. Co., 106 Mich. 582, 64 N. W. 501, 29 L. R. A. 468.

Proximate cause.— Where a building is set by dangerous or defective conditions which are not due to any negligence on their part,[48] as where the defect or dangerous condition is caused by perils of the sea or unavoidable accident.[49]

c. Misconduct of Master [50] — (i) In General. It is a well-established principle of maritime law that, in the absence of a statute limiting liability, the owners of a vessel, and the vessel, are liable for all damages caused to third persons or strangers, by the torts of the master within the scope of his employment,[51] but not for torts committed by the master outside the course and scope of his employment,[52] unless they ratify the same.[53] Thus the owners and vessel are liable for the wilful and malicious acts of the master, if they are done in the course and scope of his employment,[54] but not for wilful or malicious acts committed by the master, for a personal motive, outside of the scope of his employment, and without his owner's knowledge or approval.[55] By the civil law and common law the owners of a vessel are liable to the full amount for damages caused by the misconduct of the master;[56] but by the general maritime law of Europe and this country the responsibility of the owners for the torts of the master is limited to the value of the vessel and freight, and by abandoning these they are discharged from all personal responsibility.[57] The owners, however, are not liable for the torts of the master, to their cestuis que trustent, or copartners, or joint shareholders, if they use due care in selecting him.[58]

(ii) Embezzlement. Where the master of a vessel undertakes, for the shipper, to sell cargo and remit the proceeds, he ordinarily does so as supercargo or factor of the shipper, and if he embezzles or fails to account to the shipper for such proceeds, the vessel or her owners are not liable therefor,[59] unless they on fire by sparks from a steamer which escape because of negligence of the owner of the vessel or those in charge of her, and such fire extends to another building, and the burning of the latter building is a result naturally and reasonably to be expected from the burning of the former building under the circumstances, and is the result of the continued effect of sparks from the steamer without the aid of other causes not reasonably to be expected, the negligence of defendant will be considered as the proximate cause of the burning of the latter building. Crandall v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 16 Fed. 75, 11 Biss. 516.

48. Caniff v. Blanchard Nav. Co., 66 Mich. 638, 33 N. W. 744, 11 Am. St. Rep. 541 (holding that it is not negligence for the owner of a boat laid up in winter quarters to leave her hatches off without protection against persons falling into them); The Northtown, 124 Fed. 740 (secret defect in iron); The Hadje, 50 Fed. 225 [affirming 1 Fed. 89].

49. Haulenbeek v. Hunt, 49 N. Y. App. Div. 47, 63 N. Y. Suppl. 405.

50. Liability of master see supra, IV, E, 2.

51. Arayo v. Currel, 1 La. 528, 20 Am. Dec. 286; Malpica v. McKown, 1 La. 248, 20 Am. Dec. 279; Tillmore v. Moore, 4 Fed. 231, 5 Hughes 217 (abducting an infant); The Aberfoyle, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 16, Abb. Adm. 242; The John L. Dimmick, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,355, 3 Ware 196; Joy v. Allen, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,552, 2 Woodb. & M. 303; McGuire v. The Golden Gate, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,815, 1 McAll. 104; Sherwood v. Hall, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,777, 3 Sumn. 127; Boak v. Baden, 8 Can. Exch. 343.

The law of the country where the tort is committed governs such liability. Arayo v. Currel, 1 La. 528, 20 Am. Dec. 286.

Extent of liability.— Where the masters of two vessels take goods from another vessel without the consent of those in charge, which are divided between the vessels, the owners of one of the vessels can only be held liable for the value of such of the goods taken as are applied to the use and benefit of their vessel, and which it would have been within the scope of the master's employment to procure. Guttner v. Pacific Steam Whaling Co., 96 Fed. 617.

52. Haack v. Fearing, 5 Rob. (N. Y.) 528; The Dauntless, 7 Fed. 366.

53. The Dauntless, 7 Fed. 366.

54. Ralston v. The State Rights, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,540, Crabbe 22.

55. Price v. Thornton, 10 Mo. 135; Richmond Turnpike Co. v. Vanderbilt, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 480 (holding that where the master commits a wilful trespass, quoad hoc, he ceases to be master); North American Dredging, etc., Co. v. The River Mersey, 48 Fed. 686; The Aberfoyle, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 16, Abb. Adm. 242; Ralston v. The State Rights, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,540, Crabbe 22; Sunday v. Gordon, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,616, Blatchf. & H. 569.

56. The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187; Stinson v. Wyman, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,460, 2 Ware 176.

57. The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187; Stinson v. Wyman, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,460, 2 Ware 176.

58. Joy v. Allen, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,552, 2 Woodb. & M. 303.

59. Williams v. Nichols, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 58; Crawford v. Erie, 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) expressly authorize the master to act as such a factor,[60] or unless he has implied authority to do so by the usage of trade.[61]

d. Persons Liable.[62] As a general rule those persons are liable for torts committed in the operation of a vessel who at the time sustain the relation of master or principal to the person in immediate control of the vessel.[63] Where the owners of several vessels form a partnership or hold themselves out as engaged in a joint enterprise, they are jointly liable for the default or negligence of those placed in charge of any of the vessels,[64] or each partner is liable for damages caused by the negligence of the servants and agents of the partnership while conducting its business.[65]

e. Liens.[66] A maritime lien for damages to person or property caused by torts in the use of a vessel usually attaches in favor of the injured person against the vessel,[67] and in some jurisdictions such a lien is expressly provided for by statute.[68] Laches or delay in the enforcement of such lien may operate to divest it.[69]

11, Clev. L. Rec. 7; Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts (Pa.) 65; The New Hampshire, 21 Fed. 924.

60. Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts (Pa.) 65.

61. Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am. Dec. 268; Schooner Jane Louisa v. Williams, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 228 (holding that where the usage of trade, in consigning goods by a vessel, is for the consignor to direct the master, by memorandum on the bill of lading, to collect freight and charges of the consignee, and the master does so, the vessel is liable for the master's failure to pay over to the consignor the part belonging to him); Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts (Pa.) 65.

62. Liability as between owner and charterer see supra, III, E, 1, b.

63. Pope v. Seckworth, 47 Fed. 830 (although not the actual owner); Scull v. Raymond, 18 Fed. 547.

The liability of the owners of a vessel will be presumed to continue until they affirmatively establish the existence of some contract which relieves them therefrom; and the mere fact that they have chartered the vessel to another does not relieve them from liability unless the entire possession, authority, and control over the vessel have been transferred to the charterer. Anderson v. Boyer, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 258, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 87 [reversed on the facts in 156 N. Y. 93, 50 N. E. 976].

The registered "managing owner" of a vessel is liable for the negligent management of the vessel by the master, to whom she has been let on shares, although such negligence occurs during her employment under a charter-party of which the owner knew nothing. Steel v. Lester, 3 C. P. D. 121, 3 Aspin. 537, 47 L. J. C. P. 43, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 642, 26 Wkly. Rep. 212.

64. Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Kountz Line, 122 U. S. 583, 7 S. Ct. 1278, 30 L. ed. 1137 [reversing 10 Fed. 768, 48 Fed. 838], holding also that the fact that such persons own no property in common, and that each is entitled to receive the net earnings of his own boat, is immaterial.

65. Bowas v. Pioneer Tow Line, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,713, 2 Sawy. 21.

66. Maritime liens generally see MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 743.

67. The China, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 53, 19 L. ed. 67; Cavalier v. The Christobal Colon, 44 Fed. 803; The Carolina, 30 Fed. 199 [affirmed in 32 Fed. 112] (holding that a lien arises against a vessel for damages from personal injuries occasioned by a failure to provide safe machinery for the discharge of her cargo); The Germania, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,360, 9 Ben. 356. See also COLLISIONS, 7 Cyc. 374.

It is the settled rule in the United States that there is a maritime lien for the injury inflicted by a maritime tort, with but few exceptions, such as that made by admiralty rule 16 in the case of suits for assault and beating. The Anaces, 93 Fed. 240, 34 C. C. A. 558 [reversing 87 Fed. 565].

68. Chicago v. The Queen City, 17 Ill. App. 203 (holding that Rev. St. c. 12, providing that all water craft above five tons "used" in navigating the waters of the state shall be subject to liens for all damages done by such water craft, applies to a vessel navigating such waters, although owned out of the state); Pousarques v. Natchez, 15 La. Ann. 80; West v. Martin, 51 Wash. 85, 97 Pac. 1102, 47 Wash. 417, 92 Pac. 334 (holding that Ballinger Annot. Codes & St. 5953 (Pierce Code, § 6077), providing for a lien on a vessel for injuries committed by it to persons or property within the state, or while transporting such persons or property to or from the state, is not limited to transportable property, but includes damage to a permanent structure, and applies to foreign as well as domestic vessels); McRoberts v. The Henry Clay, 17 Wis. 101 (holding that Gen. Laws (1859), c. 151, may be resorted to for enforcing claims of the kind therein specified, which accrue out of the state, in all cases where the person who is liable remains owner of the vessel at the time it is proceeded against in the state, although it does not operate to create a specific lien out of the state, from transactions occurring entirely outside of it); Johnson v. Chicago, etc., Elevator Co., 119 U. S. 388, 7 S. Ct. 254, 30 L. ed. 447.

69. The Martino Cilento, 22 Fed. 859, holding, however, that where no claims of sub-

f. Contributory Negligence [70] — (I) IN GENERAL. Where a person injured through the tort of a vessel is himself guilty of contributory negligence,[71] it is the general rule at common law that he can recover nothing for his injuries,[72] except where his negligence is not concurrent, and the proximate cause of the injury is the negligent act of the offending vessel.[73] In admiralty, however, contributory negligence on the part of the person damaged is no bar to a recovery; [74] but where the negligence of respondent concurs with the negligence of libellant in causing the injury, the damages should be apportioned,[75] provided the libellant's fault, although evident, is neither wilful, gross, nor inexcusable, and the other circumstances present a strong case for his relief,[76] and the case is not within the limitation of liability statutes, by reason of which the owners of the offending vessel are exempt; [77] but this rule does not apply where the proximate cause of libellant's injury is not his negligence but the subsequent negligence of respondent.[78]

(II) OF STEVEDORES AND OTHER INDEPENDENT CONTRACTORS AND THEIR EMPLOYEES. Stevedores and other independent contractors and their

sequent purchasers, lienors, or encumbrancers are involved, a maritime lien for damages will not be deemed stale or barred by lapse of time, through a delay of two years in filing the libel, merely on the ground that some witnesses have in the meantime been lost by the respondents.

70. Contributory negligence of passengers see infra, VIII, D, 4, b.

71. Anderson v. The E. B. Ward, Jr., 33 Fed. 44 (contributory negligence in falling into a hatchway); King v. American Transp. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,787, 1 Flipp. 1 (holding that contributory negligence in respect to the burning of a building by sparks from a steamer is not imputable to the owner for constructing the building of wood, although it is within five feet of a dock on a public navigable river).

Reliance on precaution.— A vessel has the right to act on the assumption that another vessel will take proper steps to avert a disaster, and the fact that the former vessel might have averted a disaster which it has no reason to foresee does not constitute contributory negligence. The Ellen Heron, 55 Fed. 766 [affirmed in 61 Fed. 220, 9 C. C. A. 455] (injury by swell); Nelson v. The Majestic, 48 Fed. 730, 1 C. C. A. 78 [affirming 44 Fed. 813] (injury by swell).

Emergency.— The fact that a person in the presence of an imminent and unexpected danger does not act with deliberation does not make him chargeable with contributory negligence. The Schooner Robert Lewers Co. v. Kekauoha, 114 Fed. 849, 52 C. C. A. 483.

72. Louisiana.— Love v. The Montgomery, 10 La. Ann. 113.

Missouri.— Walsh v. Mississippi Valley Transp. Co., 52 Mo. 434.

New York.— Leroy v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 16 Misc. 162, 38 N. Y. Suppl. 835.

Pennsylvania.— Brown v. French, 104 Pa. St. 604.

United States.— King v. American Transp. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,787, 1 Flipp. 1.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 341.

73. Wright v. Brown, 4 Ind. 95, 58 Am. Dec. 622; Walsh v. Mississippi Valley Transp. Co., 52 Mo. 434; McGregor v. Rogers, Wright (Ohio) 582, holding that, where a boat is sunk by defendant running against it negligently, it is no excuse that plaintiff might safely have moored his boat elsewhere.

74. The Max Morris v. Curry, 137 U. S. 1, 11 S. Ct. 29, 34 L. ed. 586 [affirming 28 Fed. 881 (affirming 24 Fed. 860)]; Anderson v. Ashebrooke, 44 Fed. 124; The Daylesford, 30 Fed. 633.

75. The Max Morris v. Curry, 137 U. S. 1, 11 S. Ct. 29, 34 L. ed. 586 [affirming 28 Fed. 881 (affirming 24 Fed. 860)]; The Eugene F. Moran, 143 Fed. 187; The Steam Dredge No. 1, 134 Fed. 161, 67 C. C. A. 67, 69 L. R. A. 293; The No. 6H, 108 Fed. 429; The New Hampshire, 88 Fed. 306; Finch v. The Lighter Mystic, 44 Fed. 398; Anderson v. The Ashebrooke, 44 Fed. 124; De Lelle v. The Atalanta, 34 Fed. 918; The Eddystone, 33 Fed. 925; The Truro, 31 Fed. 158; The Drew, 22 Fed. 852. See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 341. But see The Explorer, 20 Fed. 135.

Division of loss generally see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 878; COLLISION, 7 Cyc. 311 et seq., 377 et seq.

All cases of maritime torts occasioned by concurring negligence are within the admiralty rule apportioning damages when both parties are at fault. The Max Morris v. Curry, 137 U. S. 1, 11 S. Ct. 29, 34 L. ed. 586 [affirming 28 Fed. 881 (affirming 24 Fed. 860)].

76. The Max Morris v. Curry, 137 U. S. 1, 11 S. Ct. 29, 34 L. ed. 586 [affirming 28 Fed. 881 (affirming 24 Fed. 860)]; The Truro, 31 Fed. 158.

77. Quinlan v. Pew, 56 Fed. 111, 5 C. C. A. 438, holding that, under Rev. St. § 4283, a member of a fishing crew, who is a co-charterer with the master of the fishing vessel, stands in no better position than the master in respect to a defect in the vessel which is known to the master, and hence cannot recover against the owner for a personal injury resulting from such defect. See also infra, XI.

78. The Steam Dredge No. 1, 134 Fed. 160 [affirming 122 Fed. 679].

employees engaged in work on or about a vessel assume usually all the ordinary and usual risks and perils incident to their employment, and all risks of which they have knowledge or should have knowledge, and hence cannot recover for injuries received by reason of such risks,[79] such as the incompetency and carelessness of their fellow servants,[80] particularly where they do not use proper care in the face of such risks;[81] but they do not assume the risks of unusual or extraordinary dangers of which they have no knowledge, and of which knowledge cannot be imputed to them,[82] and which are caused by the negligence of the owners or the master.[83] But they have a right to presume that the owners will exercise due care and diligence in performing their duty to use reasonable care to protect them from injury, and hence are not guilty of contributory negligence if, in the absence of knowledge to the contrary, they in good faith and with due care rely upon a condition of things which they have a right to presume exists.[84]

g. Damages.[85] The measure of damages for which the owners and vessel are liable in case of a maritime tort is usually the actual loss sustained by the person damaged, as a proximate result of the vessel's negligence.[86] In estimating apportioned damages, in admiralty, the estimate of personal damages to a stevedore or other independent contractor or employee should include only expenses and loss of time or wages,[87] and he should not be allowed anything for pain and suffering.[88]

2. Torts Caused by Negligence[89] — a. Negligent Management or Navigation in General. It is the duty of those conducting a vessel in navigable waters

79. Wholey v. British, etc., Steamship Co., 158 Fed. 379 [affirmed in 171 Fed. 399]; The Scandinavia, 156 Fed. 403; The Saratoga, 94 Fed. 221, 36 C. C. A. 208 [reversing 87 Fed. 349]; The Hadje, 50 Fed. 225.

Assumption of risk generally see Master and Servant, 26 Cyc. 1177 et seq., 1188.

80. The Persian Monarch, 55 Fed. 333, 5 C. C. A. 117 [reversing 49 Fed. 669]; The Islands, 28 Fed. 478. See also Master and Servant, 26 Cyc. 1358 et seq.

81. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. v. Cook, 138 Ill. App. 405; McCarthy v. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co., 48 Minn. 533, 51 N. W. 480; Kraeft v. Mayer, 92 Wis. 252, 65 N. W. 1032; The Scandinavia, 156 Fed. 403; The Santiago, 137 Fed. 323, 69 C. C. A. 653; The Patria, 135 Fed. 255; Regina v. Dunlop Steamship Co., 128 Fed. 784; Maryland v. Westoll, 106 Fed. 233; The Nikolai II, 102 Fed. 174; The Louisiana, 74 Fed. 748, 21 C. C. A. 60; Deming v. The Argonaut, 61 Fed. 517; The Serapis, 51 Fed. 91, 2 C. C. A. 102 [reversing 49 Fed. 393]; Ennis v. The Maharajah, 49 Fed. 111, 1 C. C. A. 181 [affirming 40 Fed. 784]; Doyle v. The Jersey City, 46 Fed. 134; Anderson v. The Ashebrooke, 44 Fed. 124; The Truro, 31 Fed. 158; The Gladiolus, 22 Fed. 454 [affirming 21 Fed. 417]; The Carl, 18 Fed. 655; The Privateer, 14 Fed. 872. See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 342. See also The Tresco, 134 Fed. 819, 67 C. C. A. 465 [reversing 128 Fed. 780].

Using improper appliances.— Where proper appliances are furnished to such a person and he voluntarily and unnecessarily elects to use an improper, defective, or dangerous appliance and is injured, his negligence will preclude a recovery. The Leocadia, 35 Fed. 534.

82. McGill v. Michigan Steamship Co., 144 Fed. 788, 75 C. C. A. 578 [reversing 133 Fed. 577]; The Elton, 83 Fed. 519, 31 C. C. A. 496.

83. Carlson v. White Star Steamship Co., 39 Wash. 394, 81 Pac. 838; McGill v. Michigan Steamship Co., 144 Fed. 788, 75 C. C. A. 518 [reversing 133 Fed. 577].

84. Perkins v. Furness, 167 Mass. 403, 45 N. E. 759 (not bound to examine a hatch to ascertain whether all the hatch covers are in place); Morel v. Lehman, 159 Fed. 124, 86 C. C. A. 512; The Harry Hudson Smith, 142 Fed. 724, 74 C. C. A. 56 [affirming 136 Fed. 271]; The Red Jacket, 110 Fed. 224; Cannon v. The Protos, 48 Fed. 919 (justified in believing feeding hole closed).

85. Division of damages see supra, V, C, 1, f, (I); Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 878; Collision, 7 Cyc. 377 et seq.

Measure of damages: For injuries to seamen see Seamen, 35 Cyc. 1246. For injuries to tow see Towage. In collision cases generally see Collision, 7 Cyc. 390 et seq.

86. Cornwall v. The New York, 38 Fed. 710; The Guillermo, 26 Fed. 921; Hollyday v. The David Reeves, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,625, 5 Hughes 89; Sherwood v. Hall, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,777, 3 Sumn. 127, holding that the measure of damages for the tort of a master of a vessel who has shipped a minor known to him to have run away from another vessel is the amount of wages he was earning on the other vessel, with expenses and losses.

Remote damages cannot be recovered. Letts v. Hackett, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,283, Brown Adm. 480.

87. The Eddystone, 33 Fed. 925; The Truro, 31 Fed. 158.

88. The Truro, 31 Fed. 158.

89. Contributory negligence see supra, V, C, 1, f.

to use all reasonable care and prudence to avoid causing injuries to others, and as a general rule the owners of a vessel and the vessel are liable for all natural and proximate damages caused to persons or property by reason of her negligent management,[90] or navigation,[91] as by reason of the negligence or tortious acts of the master or crew,[92] although committed without authority or knowledge of the owners,[93] particularly where the negligent acts are in violation of a stat-

Dangerous or defective condition of vessel or appliances see supra, V, C, 1, b.

Injuries to licensees or trespassers by acts of negligence see infra, V, C, 3.

Loss or injury of vessel through negligence of charterer see supra, III, N.

90. The Steam Dredge No. 1, 122 Fed. 679; Jarvis v. The Iniziativa, 57 Fed. 311, 6 C. C. A. 346 [affirming 50 Fed. 229], holding that a vessel is negligent in leaving a loaded lighter without an attentive watchman.

Negligence of stevedore.— The owners of a vessel are liable for the negligent acts of stevedores employed by them to load their vessel (Rochereau v. Hausa, 14 La. Ann. 431; Serviss v. The Chattahoochee, 37 Fed. 153 [affirmed in 39 Fed. 368]), but they are not liable for the negligence of stevedores employed for a gross sum by the consignees of the charterers in unloading the cargo (Linton v. Smith, 8 Gray (Mass.) 147).

91. Watson v. McGuire, 17 B. Mon. (Ky.) 31; Stoker v. Hodge Fence, etc., Co., 116 La. 926, 41 So. 211; The Mary, 123 Fed. 609; The Addie B., 43 Fed. 163 (negligence of tug in rendering salvage to a yacht and thereby injuring another yacht); Ladd v. Foster, 31 Fed. 827, 12 Sawy. 547. See also Cooper v. Eastern Transp. Co., 75 N. Y. 116.

The natural and probable consequence of a vessel's negligence may be recovered for, although the injury in the precise form in which it resulted was not foreseen. Hill v. Winsor, 118 Mass. 251.

Injury to pipe line by negligent dragging of anchor see Maine Water Co. v. Knickerbocker Steam Towage Co., 99 Me. 473, 59 Atl. 953.

Tying up river craft to each other.— The custom of tying up one craft to another on the shores of the Allegheny river is merely a privilege, and imposes no duty on the inner craft to make it secure enough to hold both, and where the owner of one craft in attempting to land by fastening to another breaks the lashings of the latter, and draws it into the current, he is liable for the resulting damages. Pope v. Seckworth, 47 Fed. 830.

Negligence of tow.— Where damages are caused by the negligence of a vessel which is in tow, the fact that the tugboat, which is doing the towing, was also negligent is no defense. Maine Water Co. v. Knickerbocker Steam Towage Co., 99 Me. 473, 59 Atl. 953.

92. Cook v. Parham, 24 Ala. 21 (holding that a vessel may be held liable for neglect to provide competent officers, although the party injured has the means of knowing the officer's character for care and skill); Dooley v. Booth, 96 N. Y. Suppl. 253 (negligence of master in charge of unloading and unmooring a scow); Carlson v. White Star Steamship Co., 39 Wash. 394, 81 Pac. 838 (negligence in unloading lumber from a vessel to a lighter); Workman v. New York, 179 U. S. 552, 21 S. Ct. 212, 45 L. ed. 314 [reversing 67 Fed. 347, 14 C. C. A. 530, and affirming 63 Fed. 298] (holding that a vessel by whomsoever owned or navigated is liable for an actionable injury resulting from the negligence of the master and crew of the vessel, except that a government vessel cannot be held so liable since the government cannot be sued in its own courts); The Bulley, 138 Fed. 170; The On-The-Level, 128 Fed. 511 Memphis, etc., Packet Co. v. Overman Carriage Co, 93 Fed. 246 (negligence in passing under bridge and running into pier). See also Anderson v. Boyer, 156 N. Y. 93, 50 N. E. 976 [reversing 13 N. Y. App. Div. 258, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 87].

In admiralty the owner of a vessel is liable in personam and the vessel in rem for injuries done to person and property by the negligence of the master and crew of the vessel only where the owner would under the same circumstances be liable in a suit at common law. The Germania, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,360, 9 Ben. 356.

Injury to telegraph cable.—A vessel is liable for the negligence of her master and crew in fouling a telegraph cable by her anchor, or in injuring the cable in attempting to release the anchor. The Clara Killam, L. R. 3 A. & E. 161, 39 L. J. Adm. 50, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 27, 19 Wkly. Rep. 25; Submarine Tel. Co. v. Dickson, 15 C. B. N. S. 759, 33 L. J. C. P. 139, 109 E. C. L. 759. See also The Anita Berwind, 107 Fed. 721. Compare Bell Tel. Co. v. The Brigantine Rapid, 5 Can. Exch. 413. Under 25 U. S. St. at L. c. 17, § 3, which provides that a cable shall be cut only when necessary to save life or limb or a vessel, and art. 7 of the treaty of 1884, which requires cable companies to reimburse shipowners for anchors sacrificed to avoid injury to a cable, if the officers of the vessel cut a cable in order to release their anchor, when they have another anchor on board, they are guilty either of wilful injury to the cable, or of culpable negligence, for which the vessel is liable. The William H. Bailey, 100 Fed. 115, 103 Fed. 799 [affirmed in 111 Fed. 1006].

Injury to government breakwater.— A master navigating the waters of Lake Superior cannot as a matter of law be said to be free from negligence in colliding with an incompleted extension of a government breakwater in an important harbor in that lake, where he has the means of ascertaining the conditions which, if known, would prevent the collision. Davidson Steamship Co. v. U. S., 205 U. S. 187, 27 S. Ct. 480, 51 L. ed. 764 [affirming 142 Fed. 315, 73 C. C. A. 425].

93. The Bulley, 138 Fed. 170.

ute;[94] and in some jurisdictions this liability is expressly provided for by statute.[95] But the owners or vessel cannot be held liable for damages which cannot be attributed to negligence on her part or on the part of the master and crew,[96] as where the injuries are caused by the negligence of an independent contractor or his servants having no connection with the vessel.[97] Although the right of navigation in navigable waters is ordinarily paramount to the right of fishing therein where the rights conflict,[98] yet where both can be freely and fairly enjoyed, the right of navigation has no right to trespass upon and injure the right of fishing, and in such case the owners of a vessel will be liable for damages caused to fishermen by the negligent navigation of their vessel,[99] although they do not act maliciously or wantonly.[1]

b. Injury From Suction or Swell. It is a well-established rule that where a vessel propelled by paddle wheels or propellers is being navigated in a river or 94. The Craigearn, 106 Fed. 978, crowding another vessel while passing in a narrow channel.

Fire hose.— A vessel is liable for damages caused by a failure to use reasonable care and prudence to keep its fire hose in readiness for immediate service as required by statute. The Garden City, 26 Fed. 766.

95. Howes v. The Red Chief, 15 La. Ann. 321 (holding that the act of March 15, 1855, section 9, providing that where any loss, etc., has been caused by any carelessness, etc., in the management of any steamboat, etc., the party injured shall have a privilege, etc., upon such steamboat, etc., embraces all cases of loss or damage arising from negligence in the management of such boats and cannot be restricted to cases of collision); The Osceola, 189 U. S. 158, 23 S. Ct. 483, 47 L. ed. 760 (holding that Wis. Rev. St. (1898) § 3348, imposing a liability on every vessel for damages arising from injuries to persons or property by such vessel covers only cases of damage done by the vessel herself as the offending thing, to persons and property outside the vessel).

96. Memphis, etc., Packet Co. v. Forgarty, 9 Ohio Cir. Ct. 418, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 375; The Euxinia, 150 Fed. 541, 80 C. C. A. 254 [reversing 136 Fed. 502, 144 Fed. 524]; The Anita Berwind, 107 Fed. 721 (breaking of submarine cable held not negligent); In re Demarest, 86 Fed. 803; In re Saville, 86 Fed. 800; Homer Ramsdell Transp. Co. v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 63 Fed. 845, 182 U. S. 406, 21 S. Ct. 831, 45 L. ed. 1155 (holding that an ocean steamship is not negligent in backing out from her dock to go out on the ebb tide with only one tug to assist her in turning in the river, where the tug is a powerful one, and its use is continued as long as practicable, and it can be done safely, with proper care, and it is customary to employ but one tug for the purpose); The Chicasaw, 41 Fed. 627 [reversing 38 Fed. 358] (holding that it is not the duty of a steamboat to protect a coal flat which is moored to her for the purpose of supplying coal from floating adrift).

The test as to whether the course taken by a vessel's officer was negligent or unauthorized and reckless is that of good seamanship under the impending peril. The Chicasaw, 41 Fed. 627 [reversing 38 Fed. 358].

Right of vessel to cut loose coal flat moored to her to protect herself see The Chicasaw, 41 Fed. 627 [reversing 38 Fed. 358].

97. International Mercantile Mar. Co. v. Gaffney, 143 Fed. 305, 74 C. C. A. 443.

98. See FISH AND GAME, 19 Cyc. 993.

99. Michigan.— Bishop v. Baldwin, 147 Mich. 22, 110 N. W. 139.

New Jersey.— Post v. Munn, 4 N. J. L. 61, 7 Am. Dec. 570.

Pennsylvania.— Cobb v. Bennett, 75 Pa. St. 326, 15 Am. Rep. 752.

Wisconsin.—Wright v. Mulvaney, 78 Wis. 89, 46 N. W. 1045, 23 Am. St. Rep. 393, 9 L. R. A. 807, holding that the owner of a vessel which on a clear, calm day negligently runs through a fisherman's net that is easily perceptible and which can be avoided without prejudice to the prosecution of the voyage, is liable for the damage.

Canada.— Hubbard v. Dickie, 39 Nova Scotia 506.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 344. See also FISH AND GAME, 19 Cyc. 1001 text and note 71.

A navigator may not, by his own negligence, unnecessarily force the two rights into conflict, and then claim the benefit of the paramount right. Thus he may run his vessel over a net in the night-time when he cannot see it, or in the daytime if he cannot avoid it without interfering with the reasonable prosecution of his voyage, or is driven upon it by stress of weather; but if he runs over the net in daylight, in a calm sea, when, if he looks, he cannot fail to see it, and seeing, might easily, and without prejudice to his voyage, avoid it, he is answerable. Wright v. Mulvaney, 78 Wis. 89, 46 N. W. 1045, 23 Am. St. Rep. 393, 9 L. R. A. 807.

Whether or not the owner of fish nets had a statutory right to set them where they were, or whether as between himself and the owner of the shore he was a trespasser, is immaterial in an action for injuries negligently caused to such nets by a vessel. Bishop v. Baldwin, 147 Mich. 22, 110 N. W. 139.

1. Wright v. Mulvaney, 78 Wis. 89, 46 N. W. 1045, 23 Am. St. Rep. 393, 9 L. R. A. 807.

harbor in the vicinity of other smaller or weaker craft or vessels, which are properly in such waters, and which may be affected by her displacement, it is the duty of those in charge of her to exercise reasonable care and prudence in view of the circumstances existing at the time, to avoid injuring such other craft or vessels which she is approaching or passing, or which are anchored or moored near by, by reason of the suction or swell caused by the movement of her paddle wheels or propeller,[2] and if they fail to exercise such care and prudence, the owners of the offending vessel are liable for damages caused thereby to such other craft or vessel,[3] particularly where the act of the offending vessel is in violation of some statutory regulation.[4] The degree of care and prudence that must be exercised in this regard depends upon the circumstances of each particular case, and the vessel causing the injury must be held responsible for any failure to appreciate the reasonable effect of her speed and motion through the water at the particular place and under the particular circumstances,[5] such as the size of the wave she is known to displace,[6] the fact that she is leav-

2. Watson v. McGuire, 17 B. Mon. (Ky.) 31 (holding that while the owner of a steamer, while passing coal boats, is required to exercise such care and precaution as an ordinarily prudent and skilful man under like circumstances would observe, he is not held to the same degree of care and precaution that he would be as bailee having the control and possession of another's property); The Asbury Park, 138 Fed. 925 (holding that where a vessel, either from her construction or the speed with which she is customarily navigated, is known to be peculiarly liable to cause swells dangerous to other shipping, she must exercise unusual care in her navigation); The Rotherfield, 123 Fed. 460; The New York, 34 Fed. 757. But compare Fawcett v. The Natchez, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,703, 3 Woods 16, holding that steamers and other water craft navigating the Mississippi river have the right to follow the usual channel, and that it is incumbent upon those who have rafts, barges, and other craft moored to the banks to foresee and provide against accidents liable to be caused by the swell of passing steamers.

There is no distinction between harbor and river navigation in respect to the liability of a larger vessel for causing dangerous swells by which other lawful and properly handled vessels are injured. The Hendrick Hudson, 159 Fed. 581.

As to floating dry docks.— The duty of a passing steamer with respect to causing dangerous swells is the same toward a floating dry dock permanently located along the side of a pier as toward vessels in the same situation, and she is bound to exercise reasonable care to avoid causing injury to such dock, having regard to the character of the structure and its greater liability to injury from its size and therefore longer subjection to the action of the swells. Shewan v. New England Nav. Co., 155 Fed. 860 [reversed on the facts in 169 Fed. 285].

3. Watson v. McGuire, 17 B. Mon. (Ky.) 31; O'Reilly v. New Brunswick, etc., Steamboat Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 195, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 1133 [reversed on other grounds in 28 Misc. 112, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 261]; The Hendrick Hudson, 163 Fed. 862 [affirmed in 168 Fed. 1021]; The Asbury Park, 147 Fed. 194, 78 C. C. A. 1 [affirming 136 Fed. 269]; The Rotherfield, 123 Fed. 460. See also Smith v. Dobson, 3 M. & G. 59, 3 Scott N. R. 336, 42 E. C. L. 40.

Presumption.— Where a vessel, while passing a wharf on a river, both in going out and on coming in, produces so large a wave as to cause a vessel which was properly moored to the wharf to range so violently as to break her lines, although no such effects follow the passing of other vessels at greater speed, such facts raise a presumption of negligent navigation on the part of such vessel which renders her liable for an injury. The Havana, 100 Fed. 857.

That other vessels were not injured by the swell, or that the one injured might have prevented the injury by taking unusual precautions, is no defense to a suit for injuries caused by the swell of a passing steamer. The Asbury Park, 138 Fed. 925.

4. Kelley Island Lime, etc., Co. v. Cleveland, 144 Fed. 207, passing in a narrow channel in violation of statute.

5. The Chester W. Chapin, 155 Fed. 854; The Daniel Drew, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,565, 15 Blatchf. 523.

The presence of vessels in the neighborhood which may be reasonably expected to be affected by the swells of the steamer causing the injury are to be taken into consideration, and the officers of the steamer must use reasonable judgment and care, not only to see whether such an accident is likely to happen, but whether they have taken all reasonable precautions to avoid such an accident, even when the result of former experience has shown that in the ordinary and usual course of events the boat passed is likely to escape injury. The Chester W. Chapin, 155 Fed. 854.

6. The Chester W. Chapin, 155 Fed. 854 (holding that the master of a steamer is held to be presumed to be acquainted with the amount of disturbance caused by her and its probable effect); The Drew, 22 Fed. 852 (holding that a steamboat passing in the vicinity of other craft in shallow water is ing,[7] or passing a slip or dock where she knows or has reason to know vessels are moored;[8] and where such a vessel in passing near a smaller or weaker vessel has reason to apprehend danger thereto from her swells, it is her duty to slacken her speed,[9] or to stop her paddle wheels or propeller,[10] or to keep at a greater distance,[11] although she is proceeding at her ordinary rate of speed.[12] Thus the owners of a vessel or the vessel itself may, under the circumstances of the particular case, be liable for damages caused to other vessels by the suction or swell resulting from her proceeding too near the damaged vessel at a high rate of speed,[13] or by proceeding at too great a speed under the circumstances.[14] Those in charge of a smaller or weaker vessel, if it is in a proper place and properly navigated and managed, have a right to assume that the larger vessel will observe reasonable precautions to avoid injuring her by reason of her swell or suction,[15] and they are under no obligation to warn the larger vessel of the danger;[16] but at the same time it is their duty to use all reasonable care and prudence to avoid the effect of such known dangers,[17] bound to use all reasonable precautions from doing them injury from the known suction and swells she causes).

The size of each steamer's waves when they reach the slips depends upon her model, the speed of her propeller, and her distance from the docks; and every steamer must take the risk of regulating her speed and distance accordingly. The New Hampshire, 88 Fed. 306.

7. The Leo, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,250, 3 Ben. 569, holding that a large propeller has no right to set in motion a great current of water in a crowded slip, without in some way notifying the vessels likely to be affected by it, so as to give them an opportunity to protect themselves from it by getting out extra fasts.

8. Bell v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 54 N. Y. App. Div. 526, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 1031, holding that a steamboat in passing docks should proceed at such rate that no danger would be liable to result, provided she has timely notice of vessels at the docks.

In passing slips a steamer is bound to go at such moderate speed and at such a distance away that her waves will not do damage to ships properly moored in the slips that she passes. The New Hampshire, 88 Fed. 306.

9. Negligence in not reducing speed while passing near a dock or slip (see Shewan v. New England Nav. Co., 169 Fed. 285 [reversing on other grounds 155 Fed. 860]; The New Hampshire, 88 Fed. 306), or while passing near a tow of scows (see The Chester W. Chapin, 155 Fed. 854; Ross v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 146 Fed. 608 [affirmed in 157 Fed. 1004, 85 C. C. A. 678]; The Asbury Park, 138 Fed. 617 [affirmed in 142 Fed. 1037, 71 C. C. A. 684]; The Columbia, 61 Fed. 220, 9 C. C. A. 455 [affirming 55 Fed. 766 (holding that where a steamer ascending a narrow channel against the ebb tide causes so violent a motion at the time of passing a tow as to produce a collision between a canal bridge and a lighter in the tow, it is sufficient to show either that she did not slow up at all or as soon as she should have done so, and in the absence of any excuse renders her responsible for the damage); Smith v. The Monmouth, 44 Fed. 809).

10. Daniels v. Carney, 148 Ala. 81, 42 So. 452, 121 Am. St. Rep. 34, 7 L. R. A. N. S 920.

Negligence in failing to stop paddle wheels or propeller while passing near a tow (see The St. Paul, 124 Fed. 103), or landing or dock (see The New York, 34 Fed. 757).

11. The Chester W. Chapin, 155 Fed. 854.

12. The Hendrick Hudson, 163 Fed. 862 [affirmed in 168 Fed. 1021] (holding that vessels using a dock cannot be expected to so manage their work as to receive extraordinary swells without harm and that a vessel making such swells, although navigated in the usual manner, is responsible for their effects upon innocent vessels); Nelson v. The Majestic, 48 Fed. 730, 1 C. C. A. 78 [affirming 44 Fed. 813]. But compare The Daniel Drew, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,565, 13 Blatchf. 523.

13. Wright v. Brown, 4 Ind. 95, 58 Am. Dec. 622; Boyer v. The Connecticut, 45 Fed. 374; Smith v. The Monmouth, 44 Fed. 809; The Morrisania, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,838, 13 Blatchf. 512.

14. The Asbury Park, 144 Fed. 553; The Rhode Island, 24 Fed. 295; The Southfield, 19 Fed. 841; The Tiger Lily, 11 Fed. 744; The C. H. Northam, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,689, 7 Ben. 249 [affirmed in 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,690, 13 Blatchf. 31] (holding that a steamboat passing a tow is bound to know the depth of water and whether her swell will endanger the tow, and that she is liable for the injury where she passes in a narrow place or at such speed that her suction and swell break the fastenings or drive the boats in the tow forcibly together so as to cause injury); Mason v. Sargent, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,253; The Batavier, 9 Moore P. C. 286, 1 Spinks 378, 14 Eng. Reprint 305.

15. Daniels v. Carney, 148 Ala. 81, 42 So. 452, 121 Am. St. Rep. 34, 7 L. R. A. N. S. 920; The Chester W. Chapin, 155 Fed. 854.

16. The Chester W. Chapin, 155 Fed. 854.

17. O'Reilly v. New Brunswick, etc., Steamboat Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 195, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 1133 [reversed on other grounds in 28 Misc. 112, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 261] (holding, however, that it is not contributory negligence for the owner of a canal-boat to leave her tied to a dock in charge of a man); Shewan v. New England Nav. Co., 155 Fed.

and the vessel causing the suction or swell is liable only for such damages as are the proximate result of her negligence.[18]

c. Negligence of Pilot. Where the pilot of a vessel is not a compulsory one in the sense that the owners or master of the vessel are bound to accept him, but is employed voluntarily, the owners of the vessel are liable for his negligent acts.[19] But where he is a compulsory pilot in the sense that he has compulsory charge of the vessel, he is in no sense an agent or servant of the owners of the vessel, and at common law they are not liable for his negligent acts,[20] and this doctrine prevails in England both at common law and in admiralty,[21] except where by statute he is compulsory only in the sense that his fee must be paid, and he is not in compulsory charge of the vessel.[22] In this country the question of the liability of the owner of a ship for the act of a compulsory pilot has received considerable discussion, and while the owners of a vessel are not personally liable for the negligent acts of such a pilot,[23] yet by the admiralty law the fault or negligence of a compulsory pilot is imputable to the vessel and it may be held liable therefor in rem.[24]

860 [reversed on the facts in 169 Fed. 285]; The Drew, 22 Fed. 852; Fawcett v. The Natchez, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,703, 3 Woods 16.

18. The St. Paul, 171 Fed. 606 (holding that, although a vessel is negligent in making a dangerous swell, she is not liable where the injury sustained by a scow in a tow is the result of the improper make-up of the tow in that the boats are fastened within four or five feet of each other); The Hendrick Hudson, 159 Fed. 581; The La Savoie, 157 Fed. 312; The Newcastle, 147 Fed. 534; The Asbury Park, 147 Fed. 194, 78 C. C. A. 1 [reversing 136 Fed. 269]; The Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, 145 Fed. 623, 76 C. C. A. 374 [reversing 134 Fed. 1012]; Garfield, etc., Coal Co. v. The Mt. Hope, 79 Fed. 119; Manhattan Lighterage Co. v. The Pilgrim, 57 Fed. 670; Cornwall v. The New York, 38 Fed. 710.

19. Yates v. Brown, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 23 (although appointed by public authority); Shaw v. Reed, 9 Watts & S. (Pa.) 72; Homer Ramsdell Transp. Co. v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 63 Fed. 845, 182 U. S. 406, 21 S. Ct. 831, 45 L. ed. 1155; The Cayo Bonito, [1903] P. 203, 9 Aspin. 445, 72 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 70, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 260, 19 T. L. R. 609, 52 Wkly. Rep. 133 [affirming [1902] P. 216, 71 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 38, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 867, 18 T. L. R. 680]; The Clymene, [1897] P. 295, 8 Aspin. 287, 66 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 152, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 811, 46 Wkly. Rep. 109. See also Bussy v. Donaldson, 4 Dall. (Pa.) 206, 1 L. ed. 802; Atty.-Gen. v. Case, 3 Price 302, 17 Rev. Rep. 566.

20. Griswold v. Sharpe, 2 Cal. 17; Harrison v. Hughes, 125 Fed. 860, 60 C. C. A. 442 [affirming 110 Fed. 545]; Homer Ramsdell Transp. Co. v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 63 Fed. 845, 182 U. S. 406, 21 S. Ct. 831, 45 L. ed. 1155.

Obligation to take pilot see PILOTS, 30 Cyc. 1614.

21. Smith v. Condry, 1 How. (U. S.) 28, 11 L. ed. 35; The Ole Bull, [1905] P. 52, 10 Aspin. 84, 74 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 75, 92 L. T. Rep. N. S. 807, 21 T. L. R. 133, 53 Wkly. Rep. 590; The Sussex, (1904] P. 236, 9 Aspin. 578, 73 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 73, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 549; The Warsaw, [1898] P. 127, 8 Aspin. 399, 67 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 50, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 327, 14 L. T. R. 275, 46 Wkly. Rep. 638; The Burma, 8 Aspin. 547, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 808; The Girolamo, 3 Hagg. Adm. 169; The Annapolis, 30 L. J. Adm. 201, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 417, Lush. 295; Carruthers v. Sydebotham, 4 M. & S. 77; The Suffolk, 21 T. L. R. 267; The Agricola, 2 W. Rob. 11; The Maria, 1 W. Rob. 95.

The fault must be that of the pilot alone in order to exempt the owners, and if the master and crew coöperate in any way in the negligent act of the pilot, or the damage is caused by disobedience of his orders, the owners are liable. The Protector, 1 W. Rob. 45; The Queen, L. R. 2 A. & E. 354, 38 L. J. Adm. 39, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 855; The Tactician, [1907] P. 244, 76 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 80, 23 T. L. R. 369; The Neptune The Second, 1 Dods. 467; The Benmohr, 52 Wkly. Rep. 686.

22. The Halley, L. R. 2 A. & E. 3, 17 L. T. Rep. N. S. 329, 16 Wkly. Rep. 284 [reversed on other grounds in L. R. 2 P. C. 193, 37 L. J. Adm. 33, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 879, 5 Moore P. C. N. S. 263, 16 Wkly. Rep. 998, 16 Eng. Reprint 514; The Dallington, [1903] P. 77, 9 Aspin. 377, 72 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 17, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 19 T. L. R. 250, 51 Wkly. Rep. 607; The Prins Hendrik, [1899] P. 177, 68 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 86, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 838, 8 Aspin. 548; The Guy Mannering, 7 P. D. 132, 4 Aspin. 553, 51 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 57, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 905, 30 Wkly. Rep. 835; The Augusta, 6 Aspin. 161, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 326.

23. Crisp v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 124 Fed. 748 (holding that the fault of a compulsory pilot is not imputable to the shipowner, or to the charterer where the pilot is his agent); Homer Ramsdell Transp. Co. v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 63 Fed. 845, 182 U. S. 406, 21 S. Ct. 831, 45 L. ed. 1155.

24. Ralli v. Troup, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742; The China v. Walsh, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 53, 19 L. ed. 67; The Blackheath, 154 Fed. 758; Harrison v. Hughes,

3. Injuries to Licensees and Trespassers — a. In General. As a general rule those in charge of a vessel are bound to exercise ordinary care to avoid injuring persons who are rightfully on or about the vessel by express or implied invitation,[25] and hence the vessel and her owners are liable for injuries caused to persons, who are on the vessel by express or implied invitation, by reason of their negligence or of that of the master or crew,[26] as by dangerous or defective conditions or appliances;[27] but they do not owe such duty to trespassers or mere licensees, as such persons enter upon the vessel at their own risk, and the vessel is bound to refrain only from wilfully and wantonly injuring them.[28]

125 Fed. 860, 60 C. C. A. 442 [affirming 110 Fed. 545]. See also The E. M. Norton, 15 Fed. 636.

The theory of the admiralty law in this country in such cases is that a collision impresses upon the wrong-doing vessel a maritime lien, which the vessel carries with it into whosesoever hands it may come. The vessel is treated, according to this theory, as the guilty thing. It is the res, to which fault is imputable, and which is held to respond to damages. The responsibility of the owners, as owners, and the law of agency, as applicable to the employment of a pilot, do not come into consideration. Harrison v. Hughes, 125 Fed. 860, 60 C. C. A. 442 [affirming 110 Fed. 545].

25. California.— Grundel v. Union Iron Works, 141 Cal. 564, 75 Pac. 184.

Illinois.—Atkins v. Lackawanna Transp. Co., 182 Ill. 237, 54 N. E. 1004 [affirming 79 Ill. App. 19], holding that a transportation company is required to exercise reasonable care, but not the highest degree of care, for the safety of one employed by its men, engaged in unloading its vessel, to supply them with drinking water.

Massachusetts.— Severy v. Nickerson, 120 Mass. 306, 21 Am. Rep. 514.

New York.— Casey v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 128 N. Y. App. Div. 86, 112 N. Y. Suppl. 522.

United States.— The Euxinia, 150 Fed. 541, 80 C. C. A. 254 [reversing 136 Fed. 502, 144 Fed. 524].

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," §§ 349–352.

Safe place to work.— A servant employed by a vessel to work in the hold, in a place where there is danger of injury from objects falling through openings in the deck above, where others are at work, from which danger he cannot protect himself, is not furnished a safe place to work, and the master is liable for injuries inflicted upon him through the negligence of co-servants or of an independent contractor, engaged in other work upon the decks in permitting an object to fall on him. The Magdaline, 91 Fed. 798.

Visitor.— It is the duty of the owners of a vessel by whose permission or at whose implied invitation a visitor has come on board at a port to exercise reasonable care to avoid injury to such visitor, and to give him a reasonable opportunity to go on shore before the vessel departs. The City of Seattle, 150 Fed. 537, 80 C. C. A. 279, 10 L. R. A. 969. See also Atkins v. Lackawanna Transp. Co., 182 Ill. 237, 54 N. E. 1004 [affirming 79 Ill. App. 19].

Crossing other vessels.— Vessels necessarily mooring in the slips of a harbor, outside of other vessels next the wharf, have an implied license for their officers and men to cross the intervening vessel for necessary purposes on shore; but such a license does not impose any duty upon the owner, as respects the licensee, to keep all possible modes of crossing safe, but at most only such passageways as are designed or known to be customarily used as such. Anderson v. Scully, 31 Fed. 161.

26. Duhme v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 107 N. Y. App. Div. 237, 94 N. Y. Suppl. 1102 [reversed on the facts in 184 N. Y. 404, 77 N. E. 386, 112 Am. St. Rep. 615]; Leathers v. Blessing, 105 U. S. 626, 26 L. ed. 1192; The Steam Dredge No. 1, 122 Fed. 679 (holding that a dredge is liable for injuries received by a government inspector while on board in the performance of his duties and in the exercise of due care, through the negligent handling of her machinery by those in charge); The City of Naples, 69 Fed. 794, 16 C. C. A. 421 [affirming 61 Fed. 1012] (negligent injury to grain inspector); The Calista Hawes, 14 Fed. 493 (negligent injury to assistant United States weigher).

27. The Daylesford, 30 Fed. 633 (holding that where a custom-house officer has the right to use a ladder as a means of descent from a vessel to the wharf, the vessel owes him a duty to see that it is properly secured); The Guillermo, 26 Fed. 921 (holding that the leaving of a hatchway open in a dark and narrow place is negligence on the part of the vessel as to a roundsman whose duty it is to go on board the vessel to see that the night inspectors are at their post).

28. California.— Grundel v. Union Iron Works, 141 Cal. 564, 75 Pac. 184, holding that the owner of a vessel tied to his private wharf owes no duty to licensees to keep the premises or the passageway from the wharf to the vessel in a safe condition.

Louisiana.— Dowty v. Templeton, 9 La. Ann. 549; Rice v. Cade, 10 La. 288.

Massachusetts.— Metcalfe v. Cunard Steamship Co., 147 Mass. 66, 16 N. E. 701; Severy v. Nickerson, 120 Mass. 306, 21 Am. Rep. 514.

New York.— Belford v. Canada Shipping Co., 35 Hun 347.

United States.— Zanone v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 177 Fed. 912 (former tally clerk); The Marie, 137 Fed. 448; The Thomas Turnbull, 99 Fed. 781; The Germania, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,360, 9 Ben. 356.

b. Injuries to Stevedores and Other Independent Contractors and Their Employees[29] — (I) In General. As a general rule a vessel which is in charge of stevedores or independent contractors is not liable in admiralty for injuries to them or their employees,[30] unless a contractual relation exists between the vessel or owner and the person injured,[31] or unless the injuries are sustained by reason of a failure on the part of the owners or of those in charge of the management or navigation of the vessel to perform their maritime duties or obligations.[32] However, the owners of a vessel owe to stevedores and other independent contractors and their employees while engaged in work about or upon the vessel the duty of exercising reasonable care to protect them from injuries by the operations and management of the vessel,[33] and hence the owners and vessel are liable to such persons for injuries caused by the negligence of the master or crew while in the performance of their duties;[34] but they are not liable for injuries to employees

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," §§ 349-352.

Open hatches.— The owners of a vessel are not bound to close the hatches at night, so as to protect from injury a trespasser or one who has no right or license to be upon the vessel. Baker v. Byrne, 58 Barb. (N. Y.) 438.

29. Contributory negligence see supra, V, C, 1, f.

30. The Clan Graham, 163 Fed. 961; The Patria, 135 Fed. 255; The Thyra, 114 Fed. 978.

31. The Clan Graham, 163 Fed. 961; The Thyra, 114 Fed. 978. See also West v. Brakelow Steamship Co., 124 Ga. 658, 52 S. E. 888; The Mary Stewart, 10 Fed. 137, 5 Hughes 312. But see The Wyneric, 156 Fed. 276, holding that the liability of a vessel for an injury to an employee of a stevedore while working on the vessel does not depend upon any contractual relation between the vessel or owner and the employee, but upon the breach of some implied duty to exercise due care as to the condition of the vessel and appliances, which might affect the safety of persons necessarily employed to work therein.

An employee of a stevedore who is injured by the use of a defective winch cannot recover against the owner in the absence of proof of a contract between the owner of the vessel and the stevedore, or that the latter was acting as the servant of the owner or that the owner undertook to furnish a suitable winch in unloading the vessel. Pingree v. Leyland, 135 Mass. 398.

32. The Clan Graham, 163 Fed. 961; The Thyra, 114 Fed. 978.

33. Casey v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 128 N. Y. App. Div. 86, 112 N. Y. Suppl. 522; The Brookby, 165 Fed. 93, holding that the retention of an incompetent winchman is negligence which will render the vessel liable for injuries resulting therefrom.

The test of an owner's liability in admiralty for damages for personal injuries sustained by a stevedore or contractor or employee is whether the owner would be liable under the same circumstances at common law. Jeffries v. De Hart, 102 Fed. 765, 42 C. C. A. 615; The Rheola, 7 Fed. 781 [reversed on other grounds in 19 Fed. 926].

Stevedore living on vessel.— A stevedore whose duties require him to live on the vessel, his employment being continuous while the boat is en route, is not entitled to the care required of the owner of the vessel with reference to passengers, but only to that required as to servants. Lambert v. La Conner Trading, etc., Co., 37 Wash. 113, 79 Pac. 608.

34. Perkins v. Furness, 167 Mass. 403, 45 N. E. 759 (negligence as to hatch); Johnson v. Netherlands American Steam Nav. Co., 10 N. Y. Suppl. 927; The Evelyn, 152 Fed. 847; McGill v. Michigan Steamship Co., 144 Fed. 788, 75 C. C. A. 518 [reversing 133 Fed. 577]; Netherlands-American Steam Nav. Co. v. Diamond, 128 Fed. 570, 63 C. C. A. 212; McGough v. Ropner, 87 Fed. 534 (negligence of crew in operating winch); The State of Missouri, 76 Fed. 376, 22 C. C. A. 239; Ferguson v. The Terrier, 73 Fed. 265; Boden v. Demwolf, 56 Fed. 846 (holding that the owner is liable for negligently injuring the stevedore's employee who, after the work of loading is either finished or suspended, goes into the hold to get his coat); Keiley v. The Allianca, 44 Fed. 97 (negligent injury to contractor's employee while cleaning the inside of a vessel's boiler, by the escape of steam and hot water into the boiler); The Barraconta, 39 Fed. 428; The Polaria, 25 Fed. 735; Todd v. The Tulchen, 2 Fed. 600; Gerrity v. The Kate Cann, 2 Fed. 241 [affirmed in 8 Fed. 719]. But compare Baccus v. The Manhanset, 69 Fed. 471.

Damages.— Where a stevedore brings suit in tort for injuries sustained by the negligence of a vessel, he is not entitled to recover, under the maritime law, expenses and wages for time lost by reason of his injuries, regardless of the question of contributory negligence, as such rights are based on contract. Lambert v. La Conner Trading, etc., Co., 37 Wash. 113, 79 Pac. 608.

Indemnity.— A clause in a contract with stevedores stating that they are insured against all accidents which may occur to their men while employed by them does not give the vessel a right of action against the stevedores for indemnity, because of a recovery against her by one of the stevedore's employees for an injury caused solely by the vessel's negligence. The Slingsby, 116 Fed.

of a stevedore through the negligence of the stevedore or co-employees.[35] Stevedores and their employees are fellow servants with the members of the crew of the vessel where all are engaged in the common work of loading or unloading;[36] and hence a winchman furnished by a vessel to assist the stevedores, and under the latter's control and orders, is a fellow servant with them and their employees, and if ordinary care is exercised by the master of the vessel to furnish a competent winchman, the vessel is not liable to the stevedores or their employees for injuries resulting from a negligent act of such winchman.[37]

(II) Dangerous or Defective Condition of Vessel.[38] The owners of a vessel owe to stevedores or other independent contractors and their employees engaged upon or about the vessel the duty of furnishing a reasonably safe place in which the workmen are to perform their services, in so far as the construction of the vessel and its various parts are concerned, and are liable for the resulting injuries to such workmen by reason of their failure to exercise ordinary care to provide reasonably safe places to work in,[39] and a reasonably safe passageway to and from such place,[40] and by reason of their failure to exercise ordinary care to keep the premises reasonably secure against danger.[41] Thus the owners are 227 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 748, 57 C. C. A. 52].

A release given to a stevedore by one injured by the negligence of a seaman is no defense in an action against the vessel, where no negligence of the stevedore is shown. The Polaria, 25 Fed. 735.

35. West v. Brakelow Steamship Co., 124 Ga. 658, 52 S. E. 888; Rankin v. Merchants', etc., Transp. Co., 73 Ga. 229, 54 Am. Rep. 874; The Beechdene, 121 Fed. 593; The Kensington, 91 Fed. 681.

Concurrent negligence.— Where the accident is due to the combined carelessness of the vessel's employees, and of other employees of the stevedore, together with some negligence on the part of the injured person himself, the vessel is not liable. The Joseph John, 86 Fed. 471, 30 C. C. A. 199.

The duty of guarding or warning the men engaged in the discharge of a vessel against danger caused by improper stowage, in matters of detail, is that of the contracting stevedores rather than of the officers of the vessel. The Beechdene, 121 Fed. 593.

36. See Master and Servant, 26 Cyc. 1360.

37. The Brookby, 165 Fed. 93; The Elton, 142 Fed. 367, 73 C. C. A. 467 [reversing 131 Fed. 562, and overruling The Slingsby, 120 Fed. 748, 57 C. C. A. 52 (affirming 116 Fed. 227)]; The Turquoise, 114 Fed. 402; The Anaces, 106 Fed. 742, 45 C. C. A. 596 [affirming 96 Fed. 856]; The Harold, 21 Fed. 428. See also Mercurio v. Lunn, 93 Fed. 592, 35 C. C. A. 467; The Anaces, 93 Fed. 240, 34 C. C. A. 558 [reversing 87 Fed. 565]. But compare The City of San Antonio, 143 Fed. 955, 75 C. C. A. 27 [affirming 135 Fed. 879]; The Gladestry, 124 Fed. 112; Grasso v. The Lisnacrieve, 87 Fed. 570; McGough v. Ropner, 87 Fed. 534.

38. Injuries in general from dangerous or defective condition of vessel or appliances see supra, V, C, 1, b.

39. The Clan Graham, 163 Fed. 961; Wholey v. British, etc., Steamship Co., 158 Fed. 379 [affirmed in 171 Fed. 399]; The Chicago, 156 Fed. 374; Leyland v. Holmes, 153 Fed. 557, 82 C. C. A. 511; The Martha E. Wallace, 151 Fed. 353 [affirmed in 158 Fed. 1021, 86 C. C. A. 673]; The Harry Hudson Smith, 142 Fed. 724, 74 C. C. A. 56 [affirming 136 Fed. 271]; The Saranac, 132 Fed. 936 (holding that a vessel is liable, where it is shown that the employee when injured was in the proper discharge of his duties, and that the proximate cause of the injury was a structural defect or weakness of material in some part of the vessel); The Joseph B. Thomas, 86 Fed. 658, 30 C. C. A. 333, 46 L. R. A. 58; Cannon v. The Protos, 48 Fed. 919; The Max Morris, 24 Fed. 860; The Rheola, 7 Fed. 781. See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 350.

Facts sufficient to constitute negligence on the part of the owners in regard to the safe condition of the vessel and to render them liable therefor see The Chicago, 156 Fed. 374; The Wyneric, 156 Fed. 276; Cliffe v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 81 Fed. 809; Cannon v. The Protos, 48 Fed. 919; Crawford v. The Wells City, 38 Fed. 47; The Truro, 31 Fed. 158 (unsafe ladder); The Helios, 12 Fed. 732.

Joint and several liability.— A ship-owner who contracts with a ship-liner to put up cattle stalls between decks is jointly and severally liable with him for an injury sustained by one of the workmen employed in the work, caused by a fall through an unprotected open hatchway, although the ship-liner's foreman knew of the danger and warned his men against it; and such warning to the men, given in a general way, does not relieve the contractor from his liability, in the absence of proof that plaintiff heard it. Proulx v. Lee, 27 Quebec Super. Ct. 304.

40. The Clan Graham, 163 Fed. 961; The Saranac, 132 Fed. 936.

41. Casey v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 128 N. Y. App. Div. 86, 112 N. Y. Suppl. 522; Kraeft v. Mayer, 92 Wis. 252, 65 N. W. 1032; The Joseph B. Thomas, 86 Fed. 658, 30 C. C. A. 333, 46 L. R. A. 58 [affirming 81 Fed. 578]; The Illinois, 63 Fed. 161.

liable if due care is not used to inspect the vessel so as to discover latent defects which should be known to the officers of the vessel,[42] and to warn them of any latent danger known to the vessel.[43] But where the owners turn the vessel over to the stevedores or independent contractors in a safe condition they are not liable for injuries to stevedores or contractors or their employees, arising from dangers created by the manner in which the injured employee and his fellow workmen do their work,[44] or by defects of which the owners or their agents had no notice, and time and opportunity to repair,[45] or by reason of the injured employee's own negligence.[46]

(III) Dangerous or Defective Appliances. Where appliances for oading or unloading are furnished to stevedores, by the owners of the vessel, and the latter exercise due and proper care to furnish appliances which are reasonably safe for the work in hand, they are not liable for injuries caused to the stevedores or their employees by the use of such appliances,[47] as by reason of defects which they could not discover by ordinary care,[48] or by reason of the negligent

An open hatchway on a vessel provided with the usual combings is not ordinarily negligence on the part of the ship-owner as regards one employed in loading the vessel. Horne v. George H. Hammond Co., 71 Fed. 314, 18 C. C. A. 54; Dwyer v. National Steamship Co., 4 Fed. 493, 17 Blatchf. 472. Thus the leaving open of the hatches of a vessel during intervals in unloading is not negligence as to stevedores, where the passageway and the hatches are reasonably lighted. Deming v. The Argonaut, 61 Fed. 517. But an open hatchway in a dark and unusual place, without notification or warning to those who are working near it, is negligence for which the owner is liable. West India, etc., Steamship Co. v. Weibel, 113 Fed. 169, 51 C. C. A. 116.

42. Wholey v. British, etc., Steamship Co., 158 Fed. 379 [affirmed in 171 Fed. 399]; The Harry Hudson Smith, 142 Fed. 724, 74 C. C. A. 56 [affirming 136 Fed. 271]; The Red Jacket, 110 Fed. 224; The William Branfoot v. Hamilton, 52 Fed. 390, 3 C. C. A. 155 [affirming 48 Fed. 914] (holding that a vessel is liable to a stevedore who is injured by the falling of a stanchion because of defects in its fastenings, not observed by him and not apparent to the eye, but which a proper inspection by the ship's officers would have disclosed); The Rheola, 7 Fed. 781.

43. The Chicago, 156 Fed. 374; Leyland v. Holmes, 153 Fed. 557, 82 C. C. A. 511; McGill v. Michigan Steamship Co., 144 Fed. 788, 75 C. C. A. 518 [reversing 133 Fed. 577]; The Earl of Dunmore, 120 Fed. 858; Burrell v. Fleming, 109 Fed. 489, 47 C. C. A. 598; Keliher v. The Nebo, 40 Fed. 31.

44. The Clan Graham, 163 Fed. 961; The Ranza, 156 Fed. 373; Bettis v. Leyland, 153 Fed. 571, 82 C. C. A. 525; The Charles Tiberghien, 143 Fed. 676; The Elleric, 134 Fed. 146; The Saranac, 132 Fed. 936; The Allison White, 131 Fed. 991; Regina v. Dunlop Steamship Co., 128 Fed. 784 (negligence in replacing hatch cover); The Noranmore, 113 Fed. 367; The Aldborough, 106 Fed. 90; Roymann v. Brown, 105 Fed. 250, 44 C. C. A. 464; The Manitoba, 99 Fed. 780; The Picqua, 97 Fed. 649; Lunney v. The Concord, 58 Fed. 913; Hughes v. The Pieter de Conick, 46 Fed. 795; The William F. Babcock, 31 Fed. 418, 12 Sawy. 412; The Theresina, 31 Fed. 90. See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 350.

Where hatch covers are repaired by fresh wood so that the number indicating their proper places is obliterated, it is the duty of stevedores engaged in covering the hatches to ascertain, by trying the different covers, where they belong. The Elleric, 134 Fed. 146.

Warning.— Where a vessel is turned over for loading to a contractor who is fully informed of the location of a hatchway and that it is uncovered, the vessel owes no further duty to warn the individual stevedores employed by such contractor of the danger from such hatchway or to protect them therefrom, but such duty devolves upon their master. The Auchenarden, 100 Fed. 895.

45. Roymann v. Brown, 105 Fed. 250, 44 C. C. A. 464.

46. The Prins Willem II, 128 Fed. 655; The Indrani, 101 Fed. 596, 41 C. C. A. 511; The Hadje, 50 Fed. 225. See also supra, V, C, 1, f, (II).

47. The Hillarius, 163 Fed. 421; The Noranmore, 113 Fed. 367; The Menominee, 101 Fed. 136; Mercurio v. Lunn, 93 Fed. 592, 35 C. C. A. 467; Crawley v. The Edwin, 87 Fed. 540 (holding that where the appliance furnished is such as is usually in use on old ships, and is not unsuitable, it is not the duty of the ship-owners to furnish a later appliance, although it is a superior one); The Aalesund, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 1, 9 Ben. 203. See also West v. Barkelow Steamship Co., 124 Ga. 658, 52 S. E. 888.

48. Johnston v. Turnbull, 124 Fed. 476 [affirmed in 130 Fed. 769, 65 C. C. A. 157]; The Drummond, 114 Fed. 976; The Benbrack, 33 Fed. 687; The Dago, 31 Fed. 574 (holding that the owners of a vessel are not liable to the employee of a stevedore, who has full charge of the unloading of the vessel, for injury to the employee caused by defective tackle furnished by the vessel, where it has no apparent defect, and the stevedore is an experienced and competent one, who has the exclusive appointment of the laborers and use or operation of the appliances by the stevedores or their employees;[49] nor are they liable for a failure to furnish appliances which they are under no duty to furnish.[50] But where it is the owner's duty, as where they undertake to furnish appliances, they are liable if they fail to use proper and due care to furnish appliances which are reasonably safe,[51] as where they fail to properly inspect the appliances before turning them over to the stevedores,[52] except where the appliances are selected by the stevedores, although furnished by the owners;[53] and, although they are under no duty to furnish appliances, they are liable if they negligently permit defective appliances owned by them to be used.[54]

4. Actions and Other Proceedings — a. In General. Trespass on the case does not lie against the owner of a vessel for the wilful misconduct of the master.[55] In some jurisdictions special statutory provisions give a remedy against a vessel or her owners for damages caused by her torts,[56] as by a proceeding in rem,[57] or by attachment and summary seizure of the vessel,[58] in which case the statutory provisions authorizing such a procedure must be fully complied with.[59] Under some statutes control of the work); Bedard v. Perry, 9 Quebec Pr. 81.

49. The Hillarius, 163 Fed. 421; The Tripoli, 156 Fed. 223; The St. Gothard, 153 Fed. 855, 83 C. C. A. 37 [reversing 149 Fed. 790]; Carlson v. Comeric Co., 140 Fed. 109.

50. The Santiago, 137 Fed. 323, 69 C. C. A. 653.

Lights.— Where it is the custom for stevedores, employed in loading a ship, to furnish their own lights, the master and crew are not negligent in not keeping the between-decks lighted, to enable the stevedore's gang to reach their sleeping hammocks in safety. The Nikolai II, 102 Fed. 174. Nor is a vessel under an obligation to light a certain section of the hold until its representatives are notified that the men are ready to work there. The Santiago, 137 Fed. 323, 69 C. C. A. 653. But it is negligence of the vessel not to have proper lights at a dark place where the men are working. Nelson v. The Manhanset, 53 Fed. 843 [affirmed in 69 Fed. 843, 13 C. C. A. 677].

51. West v. Brakelow Steamship Co., 124 Ga. 658, 52 S. E. 888; Connors v. King Line, 98 N. Y. App. Div. 261, 90 N. Y. Suppl. 652; Morel v. Lehman, 159 Fed. 124, 86 C. C. A. 512; Neptune Steam Nav. Co. v. Borkmann, 118 Fed. 420, 55 C. C. A. 548; The Elton, 83 Fed. 519, 31 C. C. A. 496; Steel v. McNeil, 60 Fed. 105, 8 C. C. A. 512 [affirming 56 Fed. 241]; The Carolina, 32 Fed. 112 [affirming 30 Fed. 199]; The Rheola, 19 Fed. 926. See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 350.

52. Connors v. King Line, 98 N. Y. App. Div. 261, 90 N. Y. Suppl. 652; The Tresco, 134 Fed. 819, 67 C. C. A. 465 [reversing 128 Fed. 780]; Neptune Steam Nav. Co. v. Borkmann, 118 Fed. 420, 55 C. C. A. 548; Marney v. Scott, [1899] 1 Q. B. 986, 68 L. J. Q. B. 736, 15 T. L. R. 320, 47 Wkly. Rep. 666.

53. Jeffries v. De Hart, 102 Fed. 765, 42 C. C. A. 615, holding that where a ship contracts with master stevedores, for the loading of the vessel, agreeing to furnish "all necessary steam, slings, and rope for falls," and the tackle used is selected by the stevedores themselves, with the consent of the officers of the ship, from a large quantity on board owned by the ship, and suitable for the purpose, the ship-owner owes no duty to a stevedore employed by the contractor to supervise or control such selection, and is not liable for the death of the stevedore, caused by the giving way of such tackle.

54. Connors v. King Line, 98 N. Y. App Div. 261, 90 N. Y. Suppl. 652.

55. Richmond Turnpike Co. v. Vanderbilt, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 480.

56. See the statutes of the several states. See also The City of Erie v. Canfield, 27 Mich. 479, holding that the act of Feb. 5, 1854 (Comp. Laws (1871), p. 1861), providing for the collection of demands against water craft, was intended to give a remedy in all cases coming within its provisions, where the vessel at the time was navigating the waters of the state.

57. Howes v. The Red Chief, 15 La. Ann. 321.

58. The Avon, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 680, 1 Brown Adm. 170; The G. H. Montague, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,377, 4 Blatchf. 461.

Affidavit.—Where an affidavit for an attachment against a vessel for damages resulting from a tort alleges that defendant is the master and part-owner of the vessel, and the declaration alleges that the other owners are unknown, they are sufficient to sustain the attachment. Walter v. Kierstead, 74 Ga. 18.

Repeal of statute see Robinson v. The Red Jacket, 1 Mich. 171.

Regularity of attachment.— Where in an action to enforce a lien on a vessel, given by a state statute, a temporary receiver is appointed, and the vessel is taken in charge by him at the beginning of the action, it is in effect an equitable attachment; and where after such proceedings defendants appear and execute a bond that they will pay plaintiff any sum or claim established on the cause of action alleged in the complaint, the bond becomes substituted for the property, and no question as to the regularity of the attachment can afterward be raised. West v. Martin, 51 Wash. 85, 97 Pac. 1102, 47 Wash. 417, 92 Pac. 334.

59. The G. H. Montague, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,377, 4 Blatchf. 461, holding that where the

there may be a restitution of the vessel to the owners upon the filing of a proper bond;[60] and where a vessel is so restored or discharged from seizure, and an action is brought on the bond, it is substantially an action of trespass, and defendant may tender compensation or satisfaction for the injury and loss only on the ground that it was casual or involuntary.[61]

b. Jurisdiction.[62] A lien on a vessel for a maritime tort is usually enforceable only in the federal courts,[63] and the state courts cannot enforce such a lien,[64] unless jurisdiction thereof is given to the state court by statute.[65] A lien accorded by the maritime law for a maritime tort is a proprietary interest which travels with the vessel and may be enforced notwithstanding she has sailed into another jurisdiction from that in which the tort was committed.[66]

c. Parties.[67] An action against a vessel for damages caused by a tort should be brought in the name of the person damaged;[68] and after the issuance of an attachment against a vessel the proceeding in a state court should so far conform to the nature of the admiralty practice as that the declaration should be filed against the vessel itself and not against the owners,[69] and that the owners be allowed to intervene and make themselves parties to the suit if they desire to do so.[70] In a libel in rem for a marine tort all persons have a right to intervene for their interests.[71]

d. Pleading and Evidence. The rules applicable in civil actions generally, and where applicable the rules in admiralty, ordinarily govern actions against a vessel or her owners for damages caused by torts of the vessel, such as by negligence in the management or navigation of the vessel, in regard to matters of pleading,[72] statutory provisions are not complied with, no jurisdiction is acquired to issue process to seize the vessel.

Under La. Act, March 15, 1895, § 9, it is not necessary to swear to the names of the owners in order to proceed by provisional seizure. Howes v. The Red Chief, 15 La. Ann. 321.

60. People v. Wayne Cir. Judge, 39 Mich. 115, holding also that under Comp. Laws, § 210, the county clerk's approval of the bonds offered upon obtaining restitution of a steamer, seized to enforce a lien for damages caused by the misconduct of the master, is not reviewable by the circuit judge upon affidavits contradicting the evidence on which the bonds were approved.

61. Slack v. Brown, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 390.

62. Admiralty jurisdiction see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 841 et seq.

63. Young v. The Princess Royal, 22 La. Ann. 388, 2 Am. Rep. 731; The Markee, 14 Fed. 112 [affirming 3 Fed. 45] (holding that the refusal of a master to issue a bill of lading to vendors in whose name the goods are shipped, even though he had previously issued a bill of lading to the vendee who absconded, is a maritime tort for which an action may be brought in the district court); The Ferreri, 9 Fed. 468.

64. Stevenson v. Edwards, 24 La. Ann. 266; Young v. The Princess Royal, 22 La. Ann. 388, 2 Am. St. Rep. 731.

65. See Holloway v. The Western Belle, 11 Mo. 147.

In Washington the lien on a vessel created by Ballinger Annot. Codes & St. § 5953 (Pierce Code, § 6077), for injuries committed by it, is enforceable in the state courts, where the claim for injury is not within the jurisdiction of admiralty. West v. Martin, 51 Wash. 85, 97 Pac. 1102, 47 Wash. 417, 92 Pac. 334.

66. The Avon, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 680, Brown Adm. 170, holding also that such lien may be enforced by seizure, although no such remedy is allowed in the jurisdiction into which the vessel has sailed, and although the vessel has been there sold by a private transfer to a purchaser in good faith and without notice.

67. Parties generally see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 850; PARTIES, 30 Cyc. 1.

68. The Blue Ridge v. The Time, 9 Mo. 650.

A statute authorizing suits in the names of steamboats in certain cases does not authorize a complaint in the name of a boat for an injury done her, against another boat. The Blue Ridge v. The Time, 9 Mo. 650.

69. The Farmer v. McCraw, 26 Ala. 189, 62 Am. Dec. 718 (holding that, where an attachment is sued out against a steamboat to recover damages, the declaration must be against the boat itself and not against the owners, although the attachment bond is made payable to the owners and their names are also stated in the affidavit on which the attachment was issued); Otis v. Thorn, 18 Ala. 395.

70. Otis v. Thorn, 18 Ala. 395.

71. The America, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 288, holding further that the suit is in substance against such persons, as much as if they were specially named defendants, and that they are bound by the proceedings and decree, and that a sale of the res under such proceedings extinguishes their rights.

72. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 853; NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 565; PLEADING, 31 Cyc. 1. See also The Rheola, 7 Fed. 781, answer.

Declaration or complaint held sufficient: In an action against the owners of a vessel and in regard to the presumptions,[73] and burden of proof,[74] and the admissibility,[75] for personal injuries resulting from negligence in loading a vessel. Phillips v. Portage Transit Co., 137 Wis. 189, 118 N. W. 539. To show a duty on the part of defendant toward plaintiff an employee of a stevedore and to set forth a cause of action. Coughlin v. Boston Tow-Boat Co., 151 Mass. 92, 23 N. E. 721.

A verified complaint as a condition to the seizure of a vessel by a summary process must strictly conform to the statute authorizing it. The G. H. Montague, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,377, 4 Blatchf. 461.

A complaint in an attachment against a steamboat for an injury done to a sail-boat, which alleges that the injury happened by the carelessness and negligence on the part of the officers in charge of the steamboat, and without fault or negligence on the part of plaintiff or his agents, is sufficient. Lusk v. Davis, 27 Ind. 334.

The improper use of proper appliances to prevent the escape of sparks from the smoke-stack of a steamboat must be distinctly averred in order to be available as a ground of recovery in a suit for the loss of property set on fire as claimed by sparks thus emitted. Cheboygan Lumber Co. v. Delta Transp. Co., 100 Mich. 16, 58 N. W. 630.

Amendment.— Where a libel alleges generally as a ground of a vessel's liability for an injury to a stevedore that a hatch cover was improperly constructed, libellant may properly be given leave to amend during trial by setting out the particulars in which the construction is claimed to have been defective. The Saranac, 132 Fed. 936.

73. See, generally, EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 1050; NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 589.

Illustrations.— Where a stevedore engaged in his ordinary occupation falls through an ordinary coal bunker hatch that is used for storing cargo, the presumption is of his negligence rather than that of the officers of the vessel. The Gladiolus, 21 Fed. 417. So where in removing a cargo from a vessel by means of a swinging crane and a bucket, the bucket dips over and empties its contents on one who is lawfully standing on the deck of the vessel, the action raises a presumption of negligence either in the character of the machinery used or in the care with which it was handled. Cummings v. National Furnace Co., 60 Wis. 603, 18 N. W. 742, 20 N. W. 665.

The rule that a moving vessel is presumably in fault for a collision with one at anchor and without fault (See COLLISION, 7 Cyc. 397 text and note 92), and can only exonerate herself by showing that the collision was the result of inevitable accident, applies with greater force to a collision with a stationary object fixed in the land, such as a beacon or pier (The Blackheath, 154 Fed. 758; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Ropner, 105 Fed. 397). The burden rests upon the vessel under way in such a case, in order to exonerate herself from liability, to show that it was not in her power to prevent the injury by adopting any practicable precautions. The Rotherfield, 123 Fed. 460. Compare The Chickasaw, 41 Fed. 627.

74. See, generally, EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 926; NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 597. See also Young v. Owen Sound Dredge Co., 27 Ont. App. 649.

Illustrations.— In an action by a stevedore to recover for personal injuries received while assisting to discharge a vessel, and caused by the breaking of an iron hook furnished by the vessel, on the ground that such hook was of poor material and had previously been partly broken, the burden rests upon the libellant to prove that the respondent was negligent in the selection of the hook or in failing to keep it in good condition, and such burden must be sustained by evidence sufficiently clear, distinct, and preponderating as to enable the court to find such a fact without resort to conjecture or surmises as to the cause of the breakage. The Baron Innerdale, 93 Fed. 492. The burden of proof is on the owners of a lighter to show that their authority over it, and liability for the acts of the crew, have been superseded by a contract relieving them therefrom, where they rely upon such fact as a matter of defense. Anderson v. Boyer, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 258, 43 N. Y. Suppl. 87 [reversed on other grounds in 156 N. Y. 93, 56 N. E. 976].

75. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 883; EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 1110; NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 606.

Evidence held admissible: In an action for injuries received while working for a stevedore see Kilroy v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 138, 1 N. Y. Suppl. 779 [affirmed in 121 N. Y. 22, 24 N. E. 192]. In an action against a vessel to recover for damages for negligently sinking an anchored boat by passing her with such speed as to push ice floes against her, evidence that the person in charge of the vessel had been warned that it was dangerous to speed fast in the place in question is admissible. O'Reilly v. New Brunswick, etc., Steamboat Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 195, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 1133 [reversed on other grounds in 28 Misc. 112, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 261].

Evidence held inadmissible: In an action for the death of plaintiff's husband who was employed by a town as bridge-tender and who was killed by reason of a collision of defendant's boat with the bridge see Castello v. Landwehr, 28 Wis. 522. As to negligence or want of negligence on the part of defendant in an action for negligently setting fire to plaintiff's property see Atkinson v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 69 Wis. 5, 31 N. W. 164. Evidence that the steamboat had navigated other rivers and among lumber yards of other cities and had set no fires is inadmissible in an action for negligently burning plaintiff's property by the emission of sparks from the boat (Atkinson v. Goodrich Transp. Co., supra); nor is evidence that on other occasions, and weight and sufficiency of the evidence,[76] relative to the negligence on the part of the vessel or the person injured.

e. Questions For Jury. The general rule applicable in civil actions,[77] that where there is sufficient evidence to be submitted to the jury,[78] but it is conflicting or doubtful, questions of fact are ordinarily for the jury to determine, applies in actions against a vessel or her owners for damages caused by a tort of the vessel.[79] Thus the fact of the owner's or vessel's negligence,[80] the injured at different times and places, screens were open and cinders had escaped, admissible in an action for negligence for injuries by sparks (Edwards v. Ottawa River Nav. Co., 39 U. C. Q. B. 264).

76. See, generally, ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 885; EVIDENCE, 17 Cyc. 753; NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 621. See also Ross v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 146 Fed. 608 [affirmed in 157 Fed. 1004, 85 C. C. A. 678]; The Phœnix, 34 Fed. 760.

Evidence held sufficient: To establish a prima facie case of negligence on the part of a vessel in running violently against a wharf and injuring plaintiff who was standing thereon (Inland, etc., Coasting Co. v. Tolson, 139 U. S. 551, 11 S. Ct. 653, 35 L. ed. 270 [affirming 6 Mackey (D. C.) 39]); in a suit by a stevedore's employee to recover for personal injury caused by the falling of a hatch cover (Leyland v. Holmes, 153 Fed. 557, 82 C. C. A. 511), or by the drawing apart of a splice in a wire rope provided by defendant (Mason v. Tower Hill Co., 83 Hun (N. Y.) 479, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 36). In an action against the captain and owners of a steamboat for injuries resulting from the bursting of a boiler. Poree v. Cannon, 14 La. Ann. 501. To establish negligence of the crew in an action for injuries to a stevedore. McGivern v. Wilson, 160 Mass. 370, 35 N. E. 864. To warrant a finding in an action by an employee of a coal dealer for injury due to defective tackle, used for loading coal from a barge employed by defendant, that there was an implied agreement between the parties, that defendant would furnish the tackle, which was on the barge, for use in unloading the coal. Hays v. Philadelphia, etc., Iron Co., 150 Mass. 457, 23 N. E. 225.

Evidence held insufficient: To establish negligence of defendant in an action for injuries to an employee of a stevedore. In re Berwind-White Coal Min. Co., 116 Fed. 51; The Nikolai II, 102 Fed. 174. To show, in an action for injuries to a crib by a steamer, that the steamer was so negligently and improperly navigated and managed as to render the owner liable. Graham, etc., Transp. Co. v. Chicago, 126 Ill. App. 113. To show that defendants were negligent in failing to cover a scuttle hole through which plaintiff fell. Kraeft v. Mayer, 92 Wis. 252, 65 N. W. 1032. To sustain the allegations of a libel that an injury to libellant resulted from a defect in the fittings of a vessel, in view of the rule that a libellant in such case must establish his claim with reasonable certainty (Johnson v. Leyland, 153 Fed. 572, 82 C. C. A. 526. See also The Ranza, 164 Fed. 699); or that his injuries resulted from the disobedience of his orders by the winchman, who was employed by the vessel (Calise v. Cairnstrath, 124 Fed. 109). To establish the identification of the offending vessel. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Maine Steamship Co., 156 Fed. 984.

Evidence of ownership held sufficient as established by the insignia on its smokestack see Casey v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 128 N. Y. App. Div. 86, 112 N. Y. Suppl. 522.

Contributory negligence.— Evidence that plaintiff, who was injured by falling through a hatchway, had previously worked on the vessel and had opportunity to learn the position of the hatchway and that it was open on certain occasions is not conclusive that he had such knowledge. Smith v. Occidental, etc., Steamship Co., 99 Cal. 462, 34 Pac. 84.

77. See, generally, NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 627; TRIAL.

78. See Passano v. The New Brunswick, 43 Fed. 174, libel dismissed, as to damage caused by swell.

Evidence held sufficient: To take the case to the jury in an action for damages caused by running defendant's tugboats and rafts over plaintiff's fish nets. Bishop v. Baldwin, 147 Mich. 22, 110 N. W. 139. To take the issue of defendant's negligence to the jury in an action for injuries by the breaking of a fender rope. Butterfield v. Arnold, 131 Mich. 583, 92 N. W. 97. To go to the jury to establish negligence in the management of the vessel. Hilliard v. Thurston, 9 Ont. App. 514. To authorize the submission of the question of defendant's negligence and plaintiff's contributory negligence to the jury. Netherlands-American Steam Nav. Co. v. Diamond, 128 Fed. 570, 63 C. C. A. 212. To warrant the submission of the question of negligence to the jury, in an action for the death of a husband resulting from the alleged negligent management of defendant's boat, in attempting to pass a drawbridge in charge of deceased. Castello v. Landwehr, 28 Wis. 522.

Evidence held to warrant the direction of a verdict for defendant, in an action for a loss of property by reason of a defective spark arrester on defendant's vessel. Montgomery v. Muskegon Booming Co., 88 Mich. 633, 50 N. W. 729, 26 Am. St. Rep. 308.

79. Rooney v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 10 Daly (N. Y.) 241, holding that the question of whether the owners of the vessel undertook to supply the ropes used and whether if they did they fulfilled their duty in this instance is for the jury.

80. Casey v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 128 N. Y. App. Div. 86, 112 N. Y. Suppl. 522; O'Reilly v. New Brunswick, etc., Steamboat person's contributory negligence,[81] and the question of proximate and remote cause [82] are ordinarily questions of fact for the jury.

f. Instructions. In accordance with the rules governing in civil actions generally,[83] an instruction in an action for damages caused by the tort of a vessel should submit the case to the jury upon the theory of each party and the evidence in support thereof,[84] and should clearly and accurately state the law applicable to all the facts in issue,[85] and must not be upon a question of fact,[86] or lay stress upon particular facts,[87] or ignore material facts in evidence,[88] and must not be inconsistent [89] or misleading.[90]

g. Costs.[91] A failure to properly notify the owners of a vessel of the damages caused by her swell will justify the court in decreeing that the costs of the suit be deducted from libellant's damages.[92] Where two vessels are libeled for injuries caused by the swell produced by the two vessels, and the libel is dismissed as to one of the vessels and the other is held liable, the costs of trial of the vessel against which the libel is dismissed should be assessed against the other vessel where the latter opposed libellant's offer to discontinue as to such vessel.[93]

VI. BOTTOMRY AND RESPONDENTIA.

[EDITED BY LAWRENCE KNEELAND, ESQ., OF THE NEW YORK BAR]

A. Definitions — 1. BOTTOMRY. A bottomry [93a] bond is a contract for a loan of money on the bottom of a ship, at an extraordinary interest, upon maritime risks, to be borne by the lender, for a voyage or a definite period.[94] It is a peculiar contract differing essentially from a loan with security, and is inconsistent with the existence of the lien implied by the marine law to secure advances to a master

Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 195, 55 N. Y. Suppl. 1133 [reversed on other grounds in 28 Misc. 112, 59 N. Y. Suppl. 261]; Scott v. Hunter, 46 Pa. St. 192, 84 Am. Dec. 542; Kellogg v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,764, 5 Dill. 537 [affirmed in 94 U. S. 469, 24 L. ed. 256]. See, generally, NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 634.

81. McGivern v. Wilson, 160 Mass. 370, 35 N. E. 864; Butterfield v. Arnold, 131 Mich. 583, 92 N. W. 97; Rexter v. Starin, 73 N. Y. 601. See, generally, NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 640.

82. Kellogg v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,664, 5 Dill. 537 [affirmed in 94 U. S. 469, 24 L. ed. 256]. See, generally, NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 639.

83. See, generally, NEGLIGENCE, 29 Cyc. 643; TRIAL.

84. Cheboygan Lumber Co. v. Delta Transp. Co., 100 Mich. 16, 58 N. W. 630.

85. Walsh v. Mississippi Valley Transp. Co., 52 Mo. 434; Atkinson v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 69 Wis. 5, 31 N. W. 164 (nonprejudicial instruction in an action for damages caused for negligently setting fire); Netherlands-American Steam Nav. Co. v. Diamond, 128 Fed. 570, 63 C. C. A. 212.

86. New Jersey Steamboat Co. v. New York, 109 N. Y. 621, 15 N. E. 877; Netherlands-American Steam Nav. Co. v. Diamond, 128 Fed. 570, 63 C. C. A. 212.

87. Netherlands-American Steam Nav. Co. v. Diamond, 128 Fed. 570, 63 C. C. A. 212.

88. Atkinson v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 69 Wis. 5, 31 N. W. 164.

89. Cheboygan Lumber Co. v. Delta Transp. Co., 100 Mich. 16, 58 N. W. 630.

90. Carpenter v. Eastern Transp. Co., 71 N. Y. 574.

91. Costs generally see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 908; COSTS, 11 Cyc. 1.

92. The Rhode Island, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,742, 8 Ben. 50.

93. The New York, 34 Fed. 757.

93a. So called because the bottom or keel of the vessel is figuratively used to express the whole vessel. Maitland v. The Atlantic, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514, 516.

94. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157, 186.

Other definitions are: "An obligation, executed, generally, in a foreign port, by the master of a vessel for repayment of advances to supply the necessities of the ship, together with such interest as may be agreed on; which bond creates a lien on the ship, which may be enforced in admiralty in case of her safe arrival at the port of destination; but becomes absolutely void and of no effect in case of her loss before such arrival." The Grapeshot v. Wallerstein, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 129, 135, 19 L. ed. 651.

"A contract in the nature of a mortgage pledging the ship (or bottom); or the ship and freight; or the ship, freight and cargo; as a security for the repayment of money loaned." Davies v. Soelberg, 24 Wash. 308, 314, 64 Pac. 540 [quoting Conklin Adm.].

Code definition.—"Bottomry is a contract by which a ship or its freightage is hypothecated as security for a loan, which is to be repaid only in case the ship survives a particular risk, voyage, or period. Cal. Civ. Code (1906), § 3017; N. D. Codes (1899), § 4770; S. D. Rev. Codes (1903), § 2130.

in a foreign port to make necessary repairs,[95] and as the lender sustains the hazard of the voyage he receives upon its happy termination a greater price or premium for his money than the rate of interest allowed by law in ordinary cases.[96] It does not create a personal obligation on the owner till the vessel reaches port;[97] but if the ship arrives at the port of her destination, the borrower, personally, as well as the ship, is liable for the repayment of the loan, together with such premium thereon as may have been agreed on.[98]

2. RESPONDENTIA. A respondentia bond is a loan of money upon merchandise laden on board a ship, the repayment whereof is made to depend upon the safe arrival of the merchandise at the destined port.[99] There is a tendency in modern law to use "bottomry" for either contract for a loan of money subject to marine risk and at maritime interest, whether upon hull or cargo, and to discontinue the use of the term "respondentia,"[1] and in this article "bottomry" will be used to convey both meanings.

B. Requisites and Validity of Bond — 1. FORM AND CONSTRUCTION. The object of the bond is to procure necessary supplies for vessels in distress in foreign ports, where the master and owners are without credit, and, if assistance could not be so procured, the vessel and cargo might perish.[2] No particular form of contract is necessary;[3] and the fact that when a contract is made for a bottomry bond for money advanced no exact amount of money is agreed on does not affect the validity of the bond for the amount actually required for repairs and supplies obtained,[4] and although the earlier bottomry contracts were executed under seal, the later usage has dispensed with the seal.[5] These bonds are of high and privi-

95. The Ann C. Pratt, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 409, 1 Curt. 340 [reversing 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,445, 10 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 193, and affirmed in 18 How. 63, 15 L. ed. 267].

96. Maitland v. The Atlantic, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514. And see infra, VI, B, 2.

97. Davies v. Soelberg, 24 Wash. 308, 314, 64 Pac. 540.

98. The Dora, 34 Fed. 343.

99. Maitland v. The Atlantic, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,890, Newb. Adm. 514, 516.

It is a mercantile contract consisting of a loan of money upon hypothecation of cargo, as bottomry is upon security of the hull, to be repaid with maritime interest if the cargo arrives safe, or sustains injury only through its own defects or the fault of master and mariners. Abbott L. Dict.

1. Abbott L. Dict. "Respondentia."

2. Hill v. Phœnix Tow Boat Co., 2 Rob. (La.) 35.

3. See Force v. The Pride of the Ocean, 3 Fed. 162 (holding that an agreement for maritime interests is a necessary element of such a contract); Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,483.

Form of bond in modern use see O'Brien v. Miller, 168 U. S. 287, 298, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469.

A draft payable a specified number of days after the vessel's arrival is a good contract of bottomry. Hanschell v. Swan, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 304, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 42; Monsen v. Amsinck, 166 Fed. 817; The Wyandotte, 145 Fed. 321, 75 C. C. A. 117.

A bill of sale will not be construed as a bottomry bond when not intended so to operate. Ridgway v. Roberts, 4 Hare 106, 30 Eng. Ch. 106, 67 Eng. Reprint 580.

Recording and registration.—A bottomry bond need not be recorded under Mass. Act (1832), c. 57, which provides for the registration of mortgages of personal property. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157. But see Greeley v. Waterhouse, 19 Me. 9, 36 Am. Dec. 730, holding that a bottomry bond, when unaccompanied by delivery, cannot be regarded as a mortgage, unless recorded as required by St. (1839) c. 390.

Waiver of statutory provisions as to form. — Provisions of the law of the flag, prescribing the form of bottomry bonds, even if they could affect transactions in a foreign port, are waived by the execution in such a port of a bottomry bond in a different form by the master and part-owner without objection by the other owners. The Eliza Lines, 61 Fed. 308.

Bond held valid see Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 183.

Instrument held not to be a bottomry bond see The Heinrich Bjorn, 10 P. D. 44, 5 Aspin. 391, 54 L. J. Adm. 33, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 560, 33 Wkly. Rep. 719 [affirmed in 11 App. Cas. 270, 6 Aspin. 1, 55 L. J. Adm. 80, 55 L. T. Rep. N. S. 66].

4. Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

5. The Dora, 34 Fed. 343.

Negotiability.—A master's bottomry obligation, payable to order on arrival at port of destination, is not such a negotiable instrument as to give the indorsee any better rights than those of the payee. The Lykus, 36 Fed. 919. But the bond is assignable and the assignee may sue in his own or the assignor's name. Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308. But like all assignees he takes subject to the equities leged character and held in great sanctity in maritime courts,[6] and are liberally construed so as to carry into effect the intention of the parties,[7] and to give effect to the contract according to the manifest intent of all its provisions,[8] and where there is no suspicion of fraud every fair presumption is to be made to support them,[9] the law of the ship's home governing[10] in the absence of express stipulation,[11] and the respondentia bond, memorandum indorsed on it, and the outward bill of lading and assignment thereon, are all to be construed as one instrument for the purpose of discovering the intention of the parties.[12] But contracts of bottomry and respondentia are so different in different countries, although resembling each other in some prominent features, that, when disputes arise, they are to be decided by the words of the particular contract in question rather than by any principles of general commercial law.[13]

2. Contents; Marine Risk; Maritime Interest. It is essential to a bottomry transaction that the money lent should run the hazard of the voyage, and be upon maritime or marine risk; an instrument for the repayment of money absolutely is not a bottomry contract;[14] and to constitute a valid contract of bottomry, against his assignor. The Onward, L. R. 4 A. & E. 38, 1 Aspin. 40, 42 L. J. Adm. 61, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 204, 21 Wkly. Rep. 601.

6. O'Brien v. Miller, 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469; Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; The Prince George, 4 Moore P. C. 21, 13 Eng. Reprint 208.

7. Niagara Ins. Co. v. Searle, 2 Hall (N. Y.) 32; Delaware Ins. Co. v. Archer, 3 Rawle (Pa.) 216; Miller v. O'Brien, 35 Fed. 779; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465; The Zephyr, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,210, 3 Mason 341; Simonds v. Hodgson, 3 B. & Ad. 50, 1 L. J. K. B. 51, 23 E. C. L. 32; The Kennersley Castle, 3 Hagg. Adm. 1.

Bond covering cargo in two vessels.—A bottomry bond, covering a vessel and the cargo on board as well as part of the cargo transhipped to another vessel, conditioned to be void if "said vessel" should be utterly lost, should be construed as becoming void only in case of the loss of both vessels, but not on the total loss of the vessel from which the transhipment was made and her remaining cargo. O'Brien v. Miller, 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469 [reversing 67 Fed. 605, 14 C. C. A. 566, and affirming 59 Fed. 621].

8. Oliver v. The Sirius, 54 Fed. 188, 4 C. C. A. 273.

The rule that the whole contract must be brought into view, and must be interpreted with reference to the nature of the obligations between the parties, and the intention which they have manifested in forming them, is especially applicable to the interpretation of contracts of bottomry and respondentia. O'Brien v. Miller, 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469.

9. The Prince George, 4 Moore P. C. 21, 13 Eng. Reprint 208 [quoted in O'Brien v. Miller, 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469].

10. Force v. Providence Washington Ins Co., 35 Fed. 767; The Karnak, L. R. 2 P. C. 505, 38 L. J. Adm. 57, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 159, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 136, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1028, 16 Eng. Reprint 677; Lloyd v. Guibert, L. R. 1 Q. B. 115, 6 B. & S. 100, 35 L. J. Q. B. 74, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 602; The Gaetano, 7 P. D. 137, 4 Aspin. 470, 51 L. J. Adm. 67, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 835, 30 Wkly. Rep. 766. But see Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55; The Hamburg, 4 Brown & L. 253, 10 Jur. N. S. 600, 36 L. J. Adm. 116, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 289, 12 Wkly. Rep. 628, 15 Eng. Reprint 911.

11. The Gaetano, 7 P. D. 137, 4 Aspin. 470, 51 L. J. Adm. 67, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 835, 30 Wkly. Rep. 766. And see The Wyandotte, 145 Fed. 321, 75 C. C. A. 117 [affirming 136 Fed. 470], holding that where the charter of an English vessel executed in New York provided that it should be governed by the American law, and the vessel shipped her cargo and contracted debts for which a bottomry bond was executed at New Orleans, the liability of the vessel was governed by the law of the United States, and not by the law of the flag.

12. Atlantic Ins. Co. v. Conard, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 627, 4 Wash. 662 [affirmed in 1 Pet. 386, 7 L. ed. 189].

13. O'Brien v. Miller, 67 Fed. 605, 14 C. C. A. 566 [reversed on other grounds in 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469].

14. Greeley v. Waterhouse, 19 Me. 9, 36 Am. Dec. 730; Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 183; Northwestern Ins. Co. v. Ferward, 36 N. Y. 139; The Sophie Wilhelmine, 58 Fed. 890, 7 C. C. A. 569; The E. A. Barnard, 2 Fed. 712; The Clotilda, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,903, 1 Hask. 412; Greely v. Smith, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,750, 3 Woodb. & M. 236 (holding that a bottomry bond is not valid as such unless the debt is risked on the loss of the vessel, and that, although maritime interest secured is one evidence of this risk, it is not alone sufficient to show the bond to be in bottomry, and if the person be still liable in the event the vessel is not lost, the obligation may be good in bottomry, but not so if the person is liable, although the vessel is lost); Maitland v. The Atlantic, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514 (holding that where a bond contained the stipula-where more than statutable interest is reserved, both the principal and interest must be put at risk;[15] but a hypothecation will be held to be a bottomry bond, although it contains a provision that, in case the bills of exchange given by the master for the money advanced are not accepted and paid, the bond shall become due, where it also contains a condition that the party taking it shall assume the risk of the voyage, as the conditions must be taken together.[16] A stipulation in a bottomry bond providing that, in the event of the ship in the course of the voyage putting into any port of refuge to repair, the money shall forthwith become due and payable, does not invalidate the bond provided that a maritime risk is in the contemplation of the parties;[17] and a bottomry bond may be valid which states that it is to be paid a stated number of days after arrival, renunciation in case of loss of the vessel being implied;[18] and where the insurer of a vessel, having the right to loan upon bottomry, being applied to by the owners for a bottomry bond, and unwilling to increase the amount of risk on the vessel, suspends a part of the policy equal to the amount of the loan, during its continuance, this is valid as a bottomry loan.[19] An agreement for maritime interest is a usual but not a necessary element in a contract of bottomry;[20] and sometimes bonds are made bearing tion that the lenders did not take upon themselves the marine risks usual in cases of bottomry and hypothecation, the instrument wanted the essential characteristic of bottomry, and created no lien which could be enforced in rem in admiralty, and that the simultaneous drawing of a bill of exchange could not help the matter, since it was merely as collateral to the bond); The William & Emmeline, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,687, Blatchf. & H. 66; Stainbank v. Shepard, 13 C. B. 418, 1 C. L. R. 609, 17 Jur. 1032, 22 L. J. Exch. 341, 1 Wkly. Rep. 505, 76 E. C. L. 418; The Indomitable, 5 Jur. N. S. 632, Swab. 446; Hill v. Snow, 1 Keb. 358, 83 Eng. Reprint 993; The Grecia, 7 Notes of Cas. 410.

Freight to be earned after the maritime risk is ended cannot be pledged. The Staffordshire, L. R. 4 P. C. 194, 1 Aspin. 365, 41 L. J. Adm. 49, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 46, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 443, 20 Wkly. Rep. 557, 17 Eng. Reprint 378.

A bond covering in part property not exposed to maritime risk is bad as to that part, but may be good as to the residue. In re Cargo ex Sulton, 5 Jur. N. S. 1060, Swab. 504.

But the words "lost or not lost," omitted in the respondentia bond, may be supplied by other equivalent expressions, so as to place the money loaned at the risk of the lender. Atlantic Ins. Co. v. Conard, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 627, 4 Wash. 662 [affirmed in 1 Pet. 386, 7 L. ed. 189].

A clause of sale in a bottomry bond does not destroy its character or operation. Robertson v. United Ins. Co., 2 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 250, 1 Am. Dec. 166. But when, by the terms of a contract, the borrower assigns to the lender, as collateral security for a loan, two policies of insurance on a vessel, and one upon the freight, and besides gives him a bill of sale of the vessel, it is not bottomry. Braynard v. Hoppock, 32 N. Y. 571, 88 Am. Dec. 349 [affirming 7 Bosw. 157].

A hypothecation in the form of a mortgage is not a bottomry bond, where the creditor neither assumes the risk of a voyage nor reserves marine interest. The Hilarity, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,480, Blatchf. & H. 90.

Sea risk need not be expressly mentioned if the lender clearly undertakes it. Simonds v. Hodgson, 3 B. & Ad. 50, 1 L. J. K. B. 51, 23 E. C. L. 32.

The essential difference between a bottomry bond and a simple loan is that on the latter the money is at the risk of the borrower, and must be paid at all events, and in the former it is at the risk of the lender during the voyage, and the right to demand payment depends on the safe arrival of the vessel. Maitland v. The Atlantic, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514; The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,187, 1 Paine 671.

15. Ohio Ins. Co. v. Edmondson, 5 La. 295; Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 183; Jennings v. Commonwealth Ins. Co., 4 Binn. (Pa.) 244, 5 Am. Dec. 404.

16. The Edward Albro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668.

17. The Haabet, [1899] P. 295, 8 Aspin. 605, 68 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 121, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 463, 16 T. L. R. 548, 48 Wkly. Rep. 223.

18. The Eliza Lines, 61 Fed. 308; The Dora, 34 Fed. 343; Bolten v. The James L. Pendergast, 30 Fed. 717. And see Lloyd v. McMasters, 7 Mart. (La.) 249.

Contract sufficiently subject to risk.—A bottomry bond which does not purport to create any personal liability, and which is payable five days after the arrival of the ship at her port of destination, expresses a contract by which the debt is subject to the maritime risk essential to support such a bond. The Northern Light, 106 Fed. 748.

19. Northwestern Ins. Co. v. Ferward, 36 N. Y. 139.

20. Cole v. White, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 511; Force v. The Pride of the Ocean, 3 Fed. 162; The Reliance, 3 Hag. Adm. 66; The Change, Swab. 240, 5 Wkly. Rep. 547. The Emancipation, 1 W. Rob. 124. Compare Leland v. The Medora, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,237, 2 Woodb. & M. 92 (holding that when a bond provides for no maritime interest, or marine risk, and only the ordinary rate of interest,[21] and a bond is valid, although no interest is stipulated for;[22] but a loan on low or legal interest will create a suspicion that the marine risk was not contracted for, and that the parties did not intend a bottomry contract.[23] A loan secured by a bottomry bond is not affected by the usury laws, since the lender is the insurer of the vessel for the voyage to the extent of his loan;[24] but the reservation of marine interest in a contract for the loan of money on a vessel to be paid at all events is usurious.[25] A bottomry bond, made for a larger sum than is due, for the purpose of being used to defraud underwriters, is void, and no remedy can be had upon it, although no fraud was intended against the owners of the vessel.[26]

3. Effect of Partial Invalidity; Ratification. A bottomry bond may be good in part, and bad in part, and will be sustained as far as it is good;[27] and the objection that a bottomry bond given in good faith for necessary supplies was executed without due authority operates only to reduce the premium so far as its condition is a mere pledge of a vessel to secure a debt and simple interest, it is not a bottomry bond); The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,187, 1 Paine 671 (holding that marine interest is requisite to a bottomry loan; but if not expressed in the bond it will be presumed to have been included in the principal).

If the premium is inflamed by extortion and manifestly exorbitant, a court of admiralty may moderate it (The Hunter, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,904, 1 Ware 249; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255; The Pontida, 9 P. D. 177, 5 Aspin. 330, 53 L. J. Adm. 78, 51 L. T. Rep. N. S. 849, 33 Wkly. Rep. 38; The Cognac, 2 Hagg. Adm. 377; The Zodiac, 1 Hagg. Adm. 320; The Huntley, Lush. 24; The Heart of Oak, 1 W. Rob. 204. See The Gauntlet, 13 Jur. 413); but it must act in the exercise of such power with great caution and take into consideration all the circumstances of each particular transaction (The Cognac, supra; The Zodiac, supra). The exaction of a premium of ten per cent besides interest, on the amount loaned on a bottomry bond on a bark having several hundred miles to sail before completing her voyage, is not so extortionate as to invalidate the bond (The Northern Light, 106 Fed. 748), and excessive premium alone has been held no reason for pronouncing the bond invalid (The Laurel, Brown & L. 317, 11 Jur. N. S. 46, 13 Wkly. Rep. 352; The Lord Cochrane, 3 Notes of Cas. 172, 2 W. Rob. 320); but a court of equity may refuse to assist a bottomry bond carrying unwarrantable interest (Dandy v. Turner, 1 Eq. Cas. Abr. 372, 21 Eng. Reprint 1111).

Where the validity of the bond is open to doubt, libellant may be regarded as an equitable transferee of the master's liens on the cargo, and entitled to the benefit of them as a means of reimbursement; but he will be confined to the ordinary rate of six per cent, although the bond stipulated for a maritime premium of thirteen and one-half per cent. Bradley v. Cargo of Lumber, 29 Fed. 648.

Date from which interest allowed.—Where the bottomry bondholder is resident abroad, and has no agent in this country, interest will not be payable prior to the arrival of a power of attorney to receive the principal. The New Brunswick, 1 W. Rob. 28.

21. The Grapeshot v. Wallerstein, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 129, 19 L. ed. 651.

22. The Cecilie, 4 P. D. 210, 4 Aspin. 78, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 200.

23. Force v. The Pride of the Ocean, 3 Fed. 162 (holding, however, that the presumption is not conclusive); The Royal Arch, Swab. 269, 6 Wkly. Rep. 191 (holding that no particular rate of interest is essential, although when the ordinary or a low rate of interest is taken it raises a suspicion that sea risk was not intended, and sea risk is essential to the jurisdiction of the court).

24. Cole v. White, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 511; Davies v. Soelberg, 24 Wash. 308, 64 Pac. 540; The Dora, 34 Fed. 343; Sharpley v. Hurrel [cited in Roberts v. Tremoile, 2 Cro. Jac. 208, 79 Eng. Reprint 182, 2 Rolle 47, 48, 81 Eng. Reprint 650]; Joy v. Kent, Hardres 418; Mason v. Abdy, Holt K. B 738, 90 Eng. Reprint 1306; Appleton v. Brian, 1 Keb. 711, 83 Eng. Reprint 1200; Roberts v. Tremoile, 2 Rolle 47, 81 Eng. Reprint 650; Sharpley v. Hurrel, Cro. Jac. 208, 79 Eng. Reprint 182; Soome v. Gleen, 1 Sid. 27, 82 Eng. Reprint 949; Chesterfield v. Jansen, 2 Ves. Sr. 27, 124.

25. Braynard v. Hoppock, 32 N. Y. 571, 88 Am. Dec. 349 [affirming 7 Bosw. 157]; Hill v. Snow, 1 Keb. 358, 83 Eng. Reprint 993. And see The D. H. Bills, 4 Aspin. 20, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 786.

26. Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,445, 10 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 193 [affirmed in 18 How. 63, 15 L. ed. 267].

27. Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, 18 How. (U. S.) 63, 15 L. ed. 267; The Virgin v. Vyfhius, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 538, 8 L. ed. 1036; The Dora, 34 Fed. 343; The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,865, Olcott 35; The Hunter, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,904, 1 Ware 249; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255; The Augusta, 1 Dods. 283; The Tartar, 1 Hagg. Adm. 1; The Hebe, 10 Jur. 227, 2 W. Rob. 412; In re Cargo ex Sultan, 5 Jur. N. S. 1060, Swab. 504; The Prince George, 4 Moore P. C. 21, 13 Eng. Reprint 208; The Osmanli, 7 Notes of Cas. 322, 3 W. Rob.

the ship is concerned, but does not necessarily relieve the vessel from liability for the advances made, if that liability can be sustained on the principles of hypothecation.[28] But the fraudulent taking of a bottomry bond for a larger amount than the actual advance vitiates the bond, and entirely avoids the bottomry lien; and the party taking it under such circumstances has no lien upon the vessel for his actual advances under the general maritime law;[29] and where a bottomry bond covering the whole vessel is void in toto against a part-owner of the vessel for fraud, it cannot be good in part against a purchaser from him, with knowledge that part of the debt secured by the bond was originally good.[30] However, a bottomry bond is not rendered invalid merely because it covers items of advance not entitled to a bottomry lien. It will be good for the sums which are clearly claimed as a maritime hypothecation, and will be reformed by the court, rejecting the surplus in its final decree;[31] and a bond, bad as a bottomry bond, may be good as a mortgage of the vessel, but if the laws of the state where it is made require a mortgage to be put on record, and the mortgaged property to be passed to the mortgagee if these provisions are not complied with, such a bond is bad even as a mortgage.[32] A bottomry bond which might otherwise be held invalid may be ratified by the owner.[33]

C. Operation and Effect — 1. In General. A bottomry bond executed by the master does not vest an absolute interest in the ship, but gives a claim on her which admiralty may enforce;[34] nor does a respondentia bond pass the 198; The Heart of Oak, 1 W. Rob. 204. See The Empire of Peace, 39 L. J. Adm. 12, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 763.

Power of admiralty to reduce excessive interest see supra, note 20.

28. The Eureka, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,547, 2 Lowell 417.

29. Carrington v. The Ann C. Pratt, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,445, 10 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 193 [affirmed in 18 How. 63, 15 L. ed. 267], holding that the rule of the admiralty which holds that a bond may be good for a part and bad for a part does not apply to the one made for the purpose of defrauding the insurers; but a fraudulent bond will not necessarily vitiate the consideration so far as it is meritorious, and for so much the creditor may recover by process in rem, on the hypothecation implied by law.

When the express contract of bottomry is void for fraud, no recovery can be had upon the footing of an implied contract and lien. The Ann C. Pratt, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 409, 1 Curt. 340 [reversing 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,445, 10 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 193, and affirmed in 18 How. 63, 15 L. ed. 267].

A bottomry bond, given for a larger sum than was advanced, for the purpose of deceiving the underwriter on the vessel, is void in toto. The Ann C. Pratt, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 409, 1 Curt. 340 [reversing 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,445, 10 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 193, and affirmed in 18 How. 63, 15 L. ed. 267].

A bond may be given, although money has not actually been advanced, to a person who has pledged his own credit for the expenses incurred. The Royal Arch, Swab. 269, 6 Wkly. Rep. 191.

30. The William, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,684.

31. Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

32. Greely v. Smith, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,750, 3 Woodb. & M. 236.

33. The Eliza Lines, 61 Fed. 308.

Illustrations.—Where the owners, with all the facts before them under which a bottomry bond was given by the master in a foreign port, claim and receive their share of the general average from the underwriters, it amounts to a ratification of the making of the bond (Gardner v. The White Squall, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,239); and if the owner of the cargo stands by and suffers the cargo to be sold under the bottomry bond, without requiring evidence of the necessity for the repairs, it will not avail him, in an action against the ship-owners, to show that the necessity did not exist (Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55).

Acquiescence by part-owners in a bottomry loan, the circumstances whereof are suspicious, is evidence that it was bona fide. Roberts v. The Yuba, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,920.

34. Blaine v. The Charles Carter, 4 Cranch (U. S.) 328, 2 L. ed. 636.

The lender acquires no interest in the vessel, his interest is jus in rem not jus in re until so declared by the court. The Tobago, 5 C. Rob. 218.

Effect of recitals.—A recital that the master was necessitated to take the sum loaned upon the vessel, her cargo, and freight, will not control the actual hypothecation clause confined in terms to the vessel and the freight. The Zephyr, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,210, 3 Mason 341. And while recitals of the amount of advances secured are evidence of the true amount, they do not estop the obligor from showing that the amount was in fact less. Oliver v. The Sirius, 54 Fed. 188, 4 C. C. A. 273. And where bottomry bonds are given as collateral security for debts due, that fact may be shown if the interests of third persons are thereby to be affected, notwithstanding the recital in the bond that they are given for money lent and advanced.

right of property in the goods, being a mere personal contract;[35] and where a bottomry bond is given to secure debts for which simple contract securities have been previously given, the bond cannot be regarded as merely collateral security, but the simple contracts are merged in the bond, and the previous securities cannot afterward be enforced;[36] but the lender may recover in assumpsit upon bills where subsequent to the bills a bottomry bond was executed;[37] and bills of exchange may be given in connection with a bottomry bond as representing the debt so secured, but such bills will not mature until the vessel returns to port. The bill is collateral to the bond and subject to the same contingencies.[38]

2. Personal Liability. To support a bottomry bond the money must have been advanced on the faith of the vessel;[39] and there is no element of personal liability connected with a bottomry bond proper, and, if one be otherwise good, it will be void if made by a master where the personal liability of the owner had first been relied on.[40] The liability of the owner is limited to the value of the ship and freight, if the value of the ship fall short of the debt, and the lender on bottomry loses the balance; the master having no right to pledge the ship and also the owner's personal responsibility,[41] whether maritime interest be stipulated for or not;[42] and even though the master execute a bottomry bond hypothecating as well the cargo as the ship and freight, and the cargo is afterward sold on such bond, the owner's personal liability will be no greater;[43] and sums advanced for disbursements partly upon personal security and partly upon security of freight cannot be made the subject of bottomry.[44] But a bottomry bond is good which includes the personal liability of the master.[45]

Greeley v. Waterhouse, 19 Me. 9, 36 Am. Dec. 730.

Insurable interest of owner.—Where a vessel is under bottomry at the time of the insurance the owners have to that extent no insurable interest in the vessel. Read v. Mutual Safety Ins. Co., 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 54.

35. U. S. v. Delaware Ins. Co., 25 Fed. Cas. No. 14,942, 4 Wash. 418.

36. Bray v. Bates, 9 Metc. (Mass.) 237.

37. Weston v. Foster, 2 Bing. N. Cas. 693, 5 L. J. C. P. 242, 3 Scott 155, 29 E. C. L. 720.

38. Davies v. Soelberg, 24 Wash. 308, 64 Pac. 540; The Hunter, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,904, 1 Ware 251; Maitland v. The Atlantic, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,980, Newb. Adm. 514; The Onward, L. R. 4 A. & E. 38, 1 Aspin. 40, 42 L. J. Adm. 61, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 204, 21 Wkly. Rep. 601; Stainbank v. Shepard, 13 C. B. 418, 1 C. L. R. 609, 17 Jur. 1032, 22 L. J. Exch. 341, 1 Wkly. Rep. 505, 76 E. C. L. 418; The Ariadne, 1 W. Rob. 411; The Emancipation, 1 W. Rob. 124.

39. Rucher v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm. 295; Selden v. Hendrickson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,639, 1 Brock. 396.

40. The Sophie Wilhelmine, 58 Fed. 890, 7 C. C. A. 569; Greely v. Smith, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,750, 3 Woodb. & M. 236.

A bottomry bond cannot be given in connection with personal security by the owner of the vessel to pay the debt regardless of the vessel to port. Davies v. Soelberg, 24 Wash. 308, 64 Pac. 540.

41. The Virgin, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 538, 8 L. ed. 1036; Stainbank v. Shepard, 13 C. B. 418, 1 C. L. R. 609, 17 Jur. 1032, 22 L. J. Exch. 341, 1 Wkly. Rep. 505, 76 E. C. L. 418; Anonymous, 2 Ch. Cas. 238, 22 Eng. Reprint 925; Johnson v. Shippin, 1 Salk. 35, 91 Eng. Reprint 37. And see Brook v. Williams, 2 Root (Conn.) 27. Compare Samsun v. Braggington, 1 Ves. 442, 27 Eng. Reprint 1132.

But where a vessel is captured and afterward compensation awarded the owner, the lender on bottomry may recover from the owner in an action of assumpsit for money had and received the amount awarded for the capture. Appleton v. Crowninshield, 8 Mass. 340.

Foreign law as to lien material.—The fact that by the law of the country in which the bond is given there is a lien upon the ship furnishes a presumption in favor of bottomry as against personal credit. The Vibilia, 1 W. Rob. 1.

Effect of condition in bond.—Where there is a clause that the vessel is to have on board the amount lent in goods, and the vessel is lost having goods on board of less value, the omission is insufficient to justify a recovery in toto; but the lenders are entitled to recover the difference in amount between the sum lent and the sum on board at the time of the loss. Franklin Ins. Co. v. Lord, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5.057, 4 Mason 248.

42. Stainbank v. Shepard, 13 C. B. 418, 1 C. L. R. 609, 17 Jur. 1032, 22 L. J. Exch. 341, 1 Wkly. Rep. 505, 76 E. C. L. 418.

43. Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55.

44. The Empire of Peace, 39 L. J. Adm. 12, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 763.

45. Kelly v. Cushing, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 269, holding, however, that in such case the master is not liable for the debt secured unless the vessel arrives.

D. Capacity to Execute — 1. Owner. The owner of the vessel may execute a bottomry bond but, unlike the master,[46] is not limited in his power to pledge the vessel to a case of necessity, but has an absolute control over her;[47] nor is it necessary that a respondentia loan by the owner of the cargo should be expended in fitting out the ship, or invested in the goods on which the risk is run.[48] It is not necessary to the validity of a bottomry bond, made by the owner of a vessel, that the money borrowed should be advanced for the necessities of the ship, or cargo, or voyage;[49] but he may employ the money at his discretion; the lender retaining his lien so long as the ship bears the risk,[50] and a valid bottomry bond may be made by the owners of a vessel in a foreign or home port,[51] without the master joining in the bond;[52] and the owner of a ship may bottomry her abroad to secure a loan of money or his personal liabilities for the ship or voyage, provided the debt be put at maritime risk, without regard to his inability to obtain credit or supplies by other means, or the receipt of the consideration before the ship went to sea, and it is not necessary that the loan or supplies shall have been already received when the bond is executed, if the credit was upon the faith that a bottomry security should be given.[53]

2. Master — a. General Rules. In cases of necessity,[54] where he has no other means at his command,[55] a master may, in a foreign port,[56] obtain money for repairs, supplies, or other needs of the ship on bottomry on the ship;[57] and he may bottomry the cargo to pay for repairs or supplies to the ship, provided the cargo owner is thereby benefited,[58] and the ship and freight are insuffi-

46. See infra, VI, D, 2.

47. The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,187, 1 Paine 671, holding that he may pledge her for money to purchase a cargo.

48. Conard v. Atlantic Ins. Co., 1 Pet. (U. S.) 386, 7 L. ed. 189.

49. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157 (holding, however, that the rule is otherwise where the money was borrowed by the master virtute officii); Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,483; The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,187, 1 Paine 671; The Panama, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,703, Olcott 343.

Fraudulent bond given by owner of part interest.—Where the owner of less than a half interest in a vessel, having title to the whole in his name, gave a bottomry bond covering the whole value of the vessel, although only one third of the sum was actually due, and this bond was set up as a defense to a suit by the other part-owner of the vessel for a conveyance of his share, the bond was fraudulent and could not be sustained as a defense to a suit by the other part-owner for a conveyance of his share. The William, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,684.

A bottomry bond given by the owner to the master to secure certain advances and wages due to him is valid. Miller v. The Rebecca, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,587, Bee 151.

50. Greeley v. Waterhouse, 19 Me. 9, 36 Am. Dec. 730; Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,483.

51. Greeley v. Waterhouse, 19 Me. 9, 36 Am. Dec. 730; The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157; Forbes v. The Hannah, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,925, Bee 348; The Duke of Bedford, 2 Hagg. Adm. 294.

52. The Duke of Bedford, 2 Hagg. Adm. 294.

53. The Panama, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,703, Olcott 343, holding that a bottomry of a ship in a foreign port by her owner is valid, although a part of the loan for which it is given consists of a bill of exchange drawn by the bottomry lender on the home port of the ship, and that the credit of the bottomry lender, given in aid of the ship or owner in a foreign port, is a sufficient consideration to support the security, but that a court of admiralty may call for proof that such credit or liabilities had been actually satisfied by the lender before decreeing an enforcement of the bottomry.

Bottomry for preëxisting debt generally see infra, VI, E, 2.

54. See infra, VI, D, 2, b.

55. See infra, VI, D, 2, b.

56. See infra, VI, D, 2, b.

57. The Gustavia, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,876, Blatchf. & H. 189; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255.

A bond may be given by a substituted master to the merchant who appointed him. The Rubicon, 3 Hagg. Adm. 9.

In the absence of the master the mate may in a case of capture and recapture bottomry the ship for payment of salvage. Parmenter v. Todhunter, 1 Campb. 541.

A master under arrest may execute a valid bond. The Heart of Oak, 1 W. Rob. 204.

The master acts as the agent alone of the owner of the ship in ordering repairs and borrowing money on bottomry. Benson v. Duncan, 3 Exch. 644, 14 Jur. 218, 18 L. J. Exch. 169.

58. Schmidt v. The George Nicholaus, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,463 (holding that when necessary repairs can be made within a reasonable time, the master may hypothecate freight and cargo for that purpose, instead cient,[59] although a note or other obligation is given for the demand,[60] and although the ship be hired upon charter, and the master has been appointed by the charterers;[61] and a master appointed in a foreign port by the American consul on the recovery of a vessel from a master who had barratrously run away with her has the same powers as one appointed directly by the owner;[62] but where advances were made, and a bond given, after the master had resigned his command, and another master, appointed by the charterers, had succeeded to it, the bond is not valid.[63] Authority to raise money on the vessel itself in the absence of other means is implied where the owner refuses to pay a bill given for supplies furnished, and sends the creditor to demand payment from the master in a foreign port.[64]

b. Extent and Limitation of Authority. A bottomry bond can be given by the master of the vessel in and only in case of necessity[65] and great dis-of transhipping); The Gratitudine, 3 C. Rob. 240, 261; The Elephanta, 15 Jur. 1185.

A master has power to bottomry the cargo for a reasonable purpose only, for the benefit of the ship and cargo. Hussey v. Christie, 9 East 426, 103 Eng. Reprint 636, 13 Ves. Jr. 599, 33 Eng. Reprint 417, 9 Rev. Rep. 585.

Bond given to meet expenses caused by cargo owners' delay.—Where the master was obliged to sell part of the cargo abroad to defray the ship's expenses and gave a bond on cargo for further advances, the owners of the cargo, if they caused the delay which occasioned the expenses, cannot refuse payment of any part of the freight or deduct it from the sum due on the bond. The Angerona, 1 Dods. 382.

59. The Dowthorpe, 2 Notes of Cas. 264, 2 W. Rob. 73.

60. The Hilarity, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,480, 1 Blatchf. & H. 90.

61. Breed v. The Venus, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,827.

62. The Jacmel Packet, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,154, 2 Ben. 107, holding that he has power to execute a bottomry bond in the foreign port to secure the payment of advances made the vessel, and the compensation to the one who detected the fraud and recovered the property, it appearing that the former master intended to sell the ship and cargo at such port.

63. Walden v. Chamberlain, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,055, 3 Wash. 290 [affirmed in 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45].

64. Thomas v. Gittings, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,897, Taney 472.

65. Marziou v. Pioche, 8 Cal. 522; Fontaine v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 29; Reade v. Commercial Ins. Co., 3 Johns. (N. Y.) 352, 3 Am. Dec. 495; The Aurora, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 96, 4 L. ed. 45; Grace v. The Mauna Loa, 76 Fed. 829; The Archer, 23 Fed. 350, 23 Blatchf. 186; The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, 1 Blatchf. & H. 309; Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; The Santissima Trinidad, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,383; Forbes v. The Hannah, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,925, Bee 348; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55 (that is to say, where it is necessary for the interest of the owner, or there is reasonable ground to believe it will be for his interest); O'Hara v. The Mary, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,467, Bee 100; Patton v. The Randolph, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,837, Gilp. 457; Putnam v. The Polly, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,482, Bee 157; Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226; Schmidt v. The George Nicholaus, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,463; Lyall v. Hicks, 27 Beav. 616, 54 Eng. Reprint 244; The Reliance, 3 Hagg. Adm. 66; Bridgeman's Case, Hob. 11, 80 Eng. Reprint 162; Anonymous, Holt K. B. 650, 90 Eng. Reprint 1260, 3 Salk. 23, 91 Eng. Reprint 668; Dobson v. Lyall, 8 Jur. 969, 11 Jur. 179 note, 6 L. J. Ch. 115, 3 Myl. & C. 453 note, 40 Eng. Reprint 1003 note, 2 Phil. 323 note, 22 Eng. Ch. 323 note, 41 Eng. Reprint 967 note. But see Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,483, which does not, however, conflict with the rule stated in the text as the master who signed the bottomry bond was also owner.

An anticipated necessity for funds will not justify giving the bond. Gibbs v. The Texas, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,385, Crabbe 236. See The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163.

Facts held to constitute necessity see The Northern Light, 106 Fed. 748; The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, where the master of a vessel testified that she had been greatly injured by rubbing on rocks, and that surveyors required that she be overhauled and repaired; that he was absolutely in want of money for supplies, and could not leave port unless he could have the money; and that he applied to various persons without success, and could not get the money unless he could secure the loan by bottomry, and this was held sufficient proof of the necessity of the loan.

Although a master's obligation be in the form of bottomry, if the ship is under no such necessity as would authorize bottomry, and the charter does not authorize it, no lien is thereby created on the vessel. The Lykus, 36 Fed. 919.

There must be a twofold necessity for raising money to justify a master in raising it on bottomry: There must be a necessity of obtaining repairs or supplies in order to prosecute the voyage; and there must be a necessity of resorting to this method to obtain the money from inability to procure the required funds in any other way. Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; The Lavinia v. Barclay, 14 Fed.

tress,[66] in a foreign port,[67] where the owner is not present [68] and has no representative [69] with funds,[70] and is not easily communicated with,[71] and when he has no other means at his command,[72] nor any funds or credit of his owner [73] or of his own,[74] nor any other means of getting money,[75] such as advances on the freight or passage money,[76] and there are no goods of his own or of his owner on board; [77] but if he has money on board belonging to shippers, he is not bound to apply it to the ship's necessities before borrowing on bottomry, at least if not equal to the amount of repairs. The law invests him with a large discretion on the subject.[78] The necessity must be such as would induce a prudent owner to provide funds for the cost of them on the security of the ship,[79] and that if the master did not take up the money the

Cas. No. 8,125, 1 Wash. 49; Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226.

Consent of a managing part-owner to a bottomry bond binds the coöwners and is strong evidence of the necessity of the bond. The Royal Arch, Swab. 269, 6 Wkly. Rep. 191.

66. Tunno v. The Mary, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,237, Bee 120.

The necessity which will validate bottomry of a cargo is a high degree of need arising when choice is to be made of one of several alternatives, under the peril of severe loss, if a wrong choice should be made. The Karnak, L. R. 2 P. C. 505, 38 L. J. Adm. 57, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 159, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 136, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1028, 16 Eng. Reprint 677.

67. The Grapeshot v. Wallerstein, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 129, 19 L. ed. 651; The Archer, 23 Fed. 350, 23 Blatchf. 186; Burke v. M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; Forbes v. The Hannah, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,925, Bee 348; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; The Gustavia, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,876, 1 Blatchf. & H. 189; O'Hara v. The Mary, 18 Fed. Cas. No 10,467, Bee 100; Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226; Rucher v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm. 295.

What ports are foreign.—All ports other than those of the state where the vessels belong are foreign, in the jurisprudence of the United States. Burke v. M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; Selden v. Hendrickson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,639, 1 Brock. 396 (holding that a ship belonging to a port in Virginia may be hypothecated by the master for money lent to make repairs, in New York, that are necessary to enable her to pursue the voyage). And the master may hypothecate ship and cargo, although lying in a part of the country in which the owners reside, provided he has no means of communicating with the owners. La Ysabel, 1 Dods. 273; The Rhodamanthe, 1 Dods. 201; The Oriental, 7 Moore P. C. 398, 13 Eng. Reprint 934; The Trident, 1 W. Rob. 29. See The Barbara, 4 C. Rob. 1.

68. Patton v. The Randolph, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,837, Gilp. 457; Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226.

69. Boreal v. The Golden Rose, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,658, Bee 131; The Faithful, 31 L. J. Adm. 81. See Selden v. Hendrickson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,639, 1 Brock. 396.

70. Lyall v. Hicks, 27 Beav. 616, 54 Eng. Reprint 244.

71. See infra, VI, D, 2, c.

72. Boreal v. The Golden Rose, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,658, Bee 131; Tunno v. The Mary, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,237, Bee 120.

73. Thomas v. Osborn, 19 How. (U. S.) 22, 15 L. ed. 534; The Aurora, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 96, 4 L. ed. 45; Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; The Gustavia, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,876, 1 Blatchf. & H. 189; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255; Patton v. Randolph, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,837, Gilp. 457; Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226; The Hersey, 3 Hagg. Adm. 404.

A total want of sufficient credit is essential to the validity of the bond. The Santissima Trinidad, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,383; Forbes v. The Hannah, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,925, Bee 348; O'Hara v. The Mary, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,467, Bee 100. And the master is bound to ascertain whether supplies can be procured on the personal credit of the owner before he resorts to a bottomry bond as security for their amount. The Ship Eliza, 1 Moore P. C. 5, 12 Eng. Reprint 712.

74. Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255.

75. Harned v. Churchman, 4 La. Ann. 310, 50 Am. Dec. 573 (holding that it must appear that the advances were for repairs or supplies necessary for the voyage or the vessel's safety, and which could not be procured on reasonable terms, or with funds in his control, or on the owner's credit, independent of the hypothecation); Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308; Gibbs v. The Texas, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,385, Crabbe 236; Rucher v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm. 295.

It is proper to advertise before taking money on bottomry, but the neglect of the master to do so does not affect the validity of the bond. The Reliance, 3 Hagg. Adm. 66.

76. Burke v. The P. M. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.

77. Cupisino v. Perez, 2 Dall. (Pa.) 194, 1 L. ed. 345; Rucher v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm. 295.

78. The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255.

79. St. Thomas Bank v. The Julia Blake, 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595; The Grapeshot v. Wallerstein, 9 Wall.

voyage would be defeated or at least retarded;[80] but the necessity for supplies to support a bottomry bond need not have been so urgent that the vessel must have been lost to the owner without them.[81] The contract cannot be entered into by the master before the voyage is begun,[82] or contrary to instruction,[83] or in those places where the owners reside,[84] or have credit,[85] even for those necessities without which the vessel cannot proceed to sea.[86] But it is no objection to a bottomry by the master for necessary repairs in a foreign port that the loan was effected after the same were made,[87] and in a case of necessity, the master of a ship may hypothecate her as well at the port of destination as at any other foreign port.[88]

c. Necessity of Communication With Owner. While all maritime ports other than those of the state where the vessel belongs are foreign to the vessel, within the rule permitting hypothecation by the master only in a foreign port,[89] the validity of a hypothecation bond does not rest on the locality of the port alone at which it is effected, but on the difficulty of communication between the master and owner,[90] and a master has no authority to bottomry the ship, where he does not communicate with the owner of the vessel,[91] or her charterer,[92] or to hypothecate the cargo without communicating with the owner of the cargo,[93] or the con-

(U. S.) 129, 19 L. ed. 651; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228 [citing Abbott Shipping]; Webster v. Seekamp, 4 B. & Ald. 352, 23 Rev. Rep. 307, 6 E. C. L. 515.

Supplies are necessary when they are fit and proper for the service in which the vessel is engaged, and such as a prudent owner would order. The Medora, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,391, 1 Sprague 138.

80. Cupisini v. Perez, 2 Dall. (Pa.) 194, 1 L. ed. 345.

81. Thomas v. Gittings, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,897, Taney 472.

82. Turnbull v. The Enterprise, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,242, Bee 345; Lister v. Baxter, Str. 695, 93 Eng. Reprint 789. See The Jenny, 2 W. Rob. 5.

A bottomry bond upon ship, freight, and cargo for necessary repairs to the ship executed after the repairs done and the contract of affreightment but before actual shipment of the cargo is bad as to the cargo. The Jonathan Goodhue, Swab. 355.

83. Grace v. The Mauna Loa, 76 Fed. 829; The Reliance, 3 Hagg. Adm. 66.

84. Forbes v. The Hannah, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,925, Bee 348; The Lavinia v. Barclay, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,125, 1 Wash. 49; Rucher v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm. 295; Turnbull v. The Enterprise, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,242, Bee 345.

85. The Sydney Cove, 2 Dods. 1; The Nelson, 1 Hagg. Adm. 169; Soares v. Rahn, 3 Moore P. C. 1, 13 Eng. Reprint 1; The Ship Eliza, 1 Moore P. C. 5, 12 Eng. Reprint 712.

86. Turnbull v. The Enterprise, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,242, Bee 345.

87. The Kathleen, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,624, 2 Ben. 458.

88. Reade v. Commercial Ins. Co., 3 Johns. (N. Y.) 352, 3 Am. Dec. 495.

89. See supra, note 65.

90. The William & Emmeline, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,687, Blatchf. & H. 66 (holding that the port of Charleston, S. C., is to be considered as a foreign port to New York as to the master's right to hypothecate); The Oriental, 7 Moore P. C. 398, 13 Eng. Reprint 934.

91. Grace v. The Mauna Loa, 76 Fed. 829; The Giulio, 27 Fed. 318; The Archer, 23 Fed. 350, 23 Blatchf. 186; The C. M. Titus, 7 Fed. 826; The Circassian, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,724, 3 Ben. 398; The Panama, L. R. 3 P. C. 199, 39 L. J. Adm. 37, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 12, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 484, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1011, 16 Eng. Reprint 808. But see The Eureka, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,547, 2 Lowell 417; Glasscott v. Lang, 11 Jur. 642, 16 L. J. Ch. 429, 2 Phil. 310, 22 Eng. Ch. 310, 41 Eng. Reprint 962.

The rule applies to a contract for pumping out a canal-boat and repairing leaks; and the lender who could have learned on inquiry who and where the shipper or owner was, having failed to make such inquiry, is bound by the facts as they were. The C. M. Titus, 7 Fed. 826.

Communication held sufficient see The Karnak, L. R. 2 C. P. 505, 38 L. J. Adm. 57, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 159, 6 Moore P. C. 136, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1028, 16 Eng. Reprint 677.

The defense of failure to communicate must be specifically pleaded. In re Cargo ex The Olivier, 31 L. J. Adm. 137, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 259, Lush. 484.

92. See The Northern Light, 106 Fed. 748.

93. The Julia Blake, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,578, 16 Blatchf. 472 [affirmed in 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595]; The Onward, L. R. 4 A. & E. 38, 1 Aspin. 40, 42 L. J. Adm. 61, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 204, 21 Wkly. Rep. 601; The Lizzie, L. R. 2 A. & E. 254, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 71; The Hamburg, Brown & L. 253, 10 Jur. N. S. 600, 33 L. J. Adm. 116, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 289, 12 Wkly. Rep. 628, 15 Eng. Reprint 911; The Nuova Loanese, 17 Jur. 263; In re Cargo ex The Olivier, 31 L. J. Adm. 137, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 259, Lush. 484; The Bonaparte, 8 Moore P. C. 459, 14 Eng. Reprint 175.

signee,[94] if communication be practicable,[95] within a reasonable time,[96] stating the necessity for the expenditure and for the hypothecation.[97] But where no sufficiently speedy means of communication exist between the place where the vessel is in distress and the place of residence of the owner, the master may raise money on bottomry without first notifying the owner;[98] and the possibility of communication must be construed by estimating the cost and risk incidental to delay from the attempt and the probability of failure after every exertion made.[99] It is a question which must be decided by the circumstances of each particular case.[1] The mortgagee of a ship cannot, for the purposes of such previous communication as is necessary between the party hypothecating the ship and the owner, be deemed an owner, although it may be otherwise if the mortgagee is also the ship's agent and agent for the owner.[2]

d. Interest in Vessel or Cargo. A bottomry bond, executed by the master of a ship, as master, if he is at the time owner also, will impart to the holder the same rights and privileges as if given in the character of owner;[3] and a master can, in a foreign port, hypothecate his vessel for the payment, without maritime interest, of money advanced by a stranger for necessary repairs, and to secure the payment of a bill of exchange drawn by him on the owner of the vessel for those advances, although he is himself owner of cargo more than sufficient to pay

The rule applies to the master of a chartered government transport, and he has no right to hypothecate the cargo without first communicating with the proper officers of the government. Goodwin v. The United States, 6 Ct. Cl. 146 [affirmed in 17 Wall. 515, 21 L. ed. 669].

94. In re Cargo ex The Olivier, 31 L. J. Adm. 137, 6 L. T. Rep. N. S. 259, Lush. 484.

95. The Julia Blake, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,578, 16 Blatchf. 472 [affirmed in 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595]; The Panama, L. R. 3 P. C. 199, 39 L. J. Adm. 37, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 12, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 484, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1011, 16 Eng. Reprint 808.

An allegation that the owner was insolvent is no excuse for not communicating unless he has been judicially declared insolvent and the ownership of the vessel vested in his assignees to whom such notice must be given. The Panama, L. R. 3 P. C. 199, 39 L. J. Adm. 37, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 12, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 484, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1011, 16 Eng. Reprint 808.

96. The Northern Light, 106 Fed. 748.

97. The Julia Blake, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,578, 16 Blatchf. 472 [affirmed in 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595]; Kleinwort v. The Cassa Marittima, 2 App. Cas. 156, 3 Aspin. 358, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 118, 25 Wkly. Rep. 608.

A mere statement of injuries sustained by the ship and of the consequent necessity for repairs entailing considerable expense without stating that a bottomry bond is proposed is not sufficient communication. Kleinwort v. The Cassa Marittima, 2 App. Cas. 156, 3 Aspin. 358, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 118, 25 Wkly. Rep. 608; The Onward, L. R. 4 A. & E. 38, 1 Aspin. 40, 42 L. J. Adm. 61, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 204, 21 Wkly. Rep. 601.

Notice held sufficient see The Bonaparte, 8 Moore P. C. 459, 14 Eng. Reprint 175.

98. Elwell v. The Georgia, 32 Fed. 843 (where a sum of money was paid to a bottomry lender, who was master of another vessel, for allowing his mate to take charge of the vessel borrowing and on suit brought on the bond, it was held, while allowing the bond, that it should be reduced by the amount so paid); The Staffordshire, L. R. 4 P. C. 194, 1 Aspin. 365, 41 L. J. Adm. 49, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 46, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 443, 20 Wkly. Rep. 557, 17 Eng. Reprint 378.

99. The Karnak, L. R. 2 P. C. 505, 38 L. J. Adm. 57, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 159, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 136, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1028, 16 Eng. Reprint 677.

1. The Hamburg, Brown & L 253, 10 Jur. N. S. 600, 33 L. J. Adm. 116, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 289, 12 Wkly. Rep. 628, 15 Eng. Reprint 911.

2. The Staffordshire, L. R. 4 P. C. 194, 1 Aspin. 365, 41 L. J. Adm. 49, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 46, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 443, 20 Wkly. Rep. 557, 17 Eng. Reprint 378.

3. Hurry v. The John & Alice, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,923, 1 Wash. 293 (holding, however, that if this is not given by virtue of his authority as master, it will not be a maritime hypothecation); The Panama, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,703, Olcott 343. But see The Archer, 23 Fed. 350, 23 Blatchf. 186 [reversing 15 Fed. 276], holding that where the master of a vessel was also the registered owner, but another was the equitable owner, and, the vessel having met with disaster, the master executed a bottomry bond to secure advances for repairs and supplies, and he was in communication by mail and telegraph with the equitable owner, and the latter was ready to provide funds, the holder of the bottomry bond, with knowledge of all the facts at the time he took it, could not recover; that the equitable owner should be regarded as the legal owner of the vessel; and that the master had no authority to execute the bond; but that, to the extent the bond represented supplies and repairs which the master could properly order, the holder should be subrogated to the liens therefor.

for the repairs, and is solely concerned in interest in the voyage;[4] and the master who is also part-owner may create a bottomry on his own interest without the existence of any necessity for a bottomry.[5]

E. Purpose For Which Bond May Be Given — 1. Rule Stated. In general the purpose for which the bond may be given by the master is to effectuate the objects of the voyage or the safety of the ship;[6] but with this limitation all expenses incurred in the port where the bond is given relating to the ship or crew being expenses for which the master or owner of the ship is liable and necessary to enable the ship to proceed on her voyage may be allowed.[7] They may be for repairs;[8] supplies;[9] to enable her to leave a port where she is detained;[10] to free the ship from arrest;[11] to enable the voyage to be prosecuted;[12] for pumping out the

4. The William & Emmeline, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,687, Blatchf. & H. 66.

5. The Kathleen, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,624, 2 Ben. 458.

6. Harned v. Churchman, 4 La. Ann. 310, 50 Am. Dec. 573; The Aurora, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 96, 4 L. ed. 45 (holding that a bona fide creditor, who advances money to relieve a ship from actual arrest on account of debts that are a lien on her, may stipulate for maritime interest, and the necessity will justify the master in giving it; aliter in case of a mere threat to arrest a ship for a preëxisting debt); Rucher v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm. 295; Selden v. Hendrickson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,639, 1 Brock. 396; Cal. Civ. Code (1906), § 3020; N. D. Rev. Codes (1899), § 4772; S. D. Rev. Codes (1903), § 2132.

A bill for the services of a stevedore in a port of distress, in the necessary unloading of a vessel to ascertain the extent of the damages, may be included in the amount of the bottomry bond (The Yuba, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,193, 4 Blatchf. 352); also a stevedore's bill for taking cargo on board (The Edward Albro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668).

Propriety of particular items in a bottomry bond.— The following items are properly included in a bottomry bond: Commissions for procuring freight; stevedore's bill for taking cargo on board; funeral expenses of former master who died while the ship was in port; advertising for a master, for bottomry and for bills against the ship; for drawing the bottomry bond and stamps on it; for a butcher's bill, the items of which were not given, but which were shown to be correct; and expenses of survey and cost of repairs. The following items are improperly included in a bottomry bond: The amount paid for old iron to be taken as freight; and the cost of a suit against the master of the vessel to recover the price of the old iron; money furnished to the master, but not proved to have been used for the ship, or loaned for the ship's use; items for personal expenses of the master for cab hire and liquors; commissions on the obligee's own bill for supplies; cash for a set of scales, weights, and measures, not shown to be necessary for the ship; and items of luxuries in the bill for supplies furnished by the obligee. The Edward Albro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668.

"Necessaries" includes whatever is fit and proper for the service on which the vessel is engaged, or whatever would have been ordered by a prudent owner if present (The Riga, L. R. 3 A. & E. 516, 1 Aspin. 246, 41 L. J. Adm. 39, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 202, 20 Wkly. Rep. 927; Webster v. Seekamp, 4 B. & Ald. 352, 23 Rev. Rep. 307, 6 E. C. L. 515), the term as relating to hypothecation by the master being analogous to its meaning in other parts of the law (The Karnak, L. R. 2 P. C. 505, 38 L. J. Adm. 57, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 159, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 136, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1028, 16 Eng. Reprint 677).

7. The Edmond, 30 L. J. Adm. 128, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 394, Lush. 211, holding that where the agent of the ship abroad applied a balance of freight in discharge of law expenses relating to the ship's business and took a bottomry bond for other payment for which there was a lien on the ship, the law expenses could not be deducted from the bond.

8. Harned v. Churchman, 4 La. Ann. 310, 50 Am. Dec. 573; Fontaine v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 29; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; Gibbs v. The Texas, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,385, Crabbe 236; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255; Patton v. The Randolph, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,837, Gilp. 457; Schmidt v. The George Nicholaus, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,463; Selden v. Hendrickson, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,639, 1 Brock. 396; The William & Emmeline, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,687, Blatchf. & H. 66.

9. Harned v. Churchman, 4 La. Ann. 310, 50 Am. Dec. 573; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; Gibbs v. The Texas, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,385, Crabbe 236.

10. Gibbs v. The Texas, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,385, Crabbe 236.

11. The Hersey, 3 Hagg. Adm. 404; In re Cargo ex The Sultan, 5 Jur. N. S. 1060, Swab. 504 (vessel arrested for salvage); The Osmanli, 7 Notes of Cas. 322, 3 W. Rob. 198. But see The Augusta, 1 Dods. 283, holding that the mere fact that by the law of the port in which the bond is given the ship may be detained does not validate a bond otherwise invalid.

12. Marziou v. Pioche, 8 Cal. 522; Davies v. Soelberg, 24 Wash. 308, 64 Pac. 540; The C. M. Titus, 7 Fed. 826; Hurry v. The John & Alice, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,923, 1 Wash. 293; Knight v. The Attila, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,881, boat and repairing leaks;[13] unloading of the outward cargo;[14] to meet consul's charges;[15] or to relieve the vessel and cargo from the liens of salvors and prevent delay and expense in their enforcement;[16] and on the necessary abandonment of the voyage in a foreign port after repairs made, the master may hypothecate the vessel for the purpose of getting her back to the owners, or for a voyage to a place where she can be sold without sacrifice.[17] A charge for commissions in procuring a loan on bottomry is incidental to the loan itself, and a proper charge as incidental to the repairs;[18] and a bottomry bond is not vitiated by the stipulation that the cost of insurance shall be included in the sum to be paid by the ship in case of her safe arrival;[19] but commissions paid the master by the bondholder are not to be included in a bottomry bond, although if the master has paid them to the owner, he is to repay them without interest.[20] Items for wages of the master and expenses of board while in a port of distress, and advances to meet the liabilities or necessities it was anticipated the vessel might be under in her after employment, are not particulars for which the vessel can be subjected by the master by a bottomry bond,[21] and a master cannot mortgage or hypothecate the ship for the benefit of the cargo,[22] or for a debt of his own,[23] although its non-payment might prevent his returning with the ship.[24] Disbursements must be for charges for which the owner or master of the ship is liable; those for which the consignee of the cargo is liable are not the subject of bottomry.[25]

2. Security For Preëxisting Debt. While the general rule is that the master of a vessel cannot hypothecate for a preëxisting debt, but only for advances made at the time the necessity existed,[26] it is no objection that the advances were made from time to time before it was executed, if the original understanding was that

Crabbe 326; Walden v. Chamberlain, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,055, 3 Wash. 290 [affirmed in 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45]; The Edmond, 30 L. J. Adm. 128, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 394, Lush. 211.

13. The C. M. Titus, 7 Fed. 826.

14. The Edmond, 30 L. J. Adm. 128, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 394, Lush. 211.

15. The Zodiac, 1 Hagg. Adm. 320; The Gauntlet, 6 Notes of Cas. 370, 3 W. Rob. 82, for suppressing mutiny.

16. The Clotilda, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,903, 1 Hask. 412.

17. The Robert L. Lane, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,892, 1 Lowell 388.

Where a voyage is broken up by a capture and compulsory sale of the cargo, the master may hypothecate the ship for money advanced to enable him to return home with her. Crawford v. The William Penn, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,373, 3 Wash. 484.

18. The Yuba, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,193, 4 Blatchf. 352. But see The Roderick Dhu, Swab. 177, 5 Wkly. Rep. 168, holding that where on taking the accounts in a bottomry suit it was found that, after reducing the commission charged by the ship's agent, which was excessive, nothing was due upon the bond, the bond was invalid.

19. The Robert L. Lane, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,892, 1 Lowell 388. But see The Serafina, Brown & L. 277.

But a charge for insuring part of the money lent on bottomry at a bottomry premium will be disallowed. The lender must insure by a separate contract on his own account. The Boddington, 2 Hagg. Adm. 422.

20. The Eureka, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,547, 2 Lowell 417.

21. The Edward Albro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668; Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

22. Fontaine v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 29.

23. King v. Perry, 3 Salk. 23, 91 Eng. Reprint 669. But see The Karnak, L. R. 2 P. C. 505, 38 L. J. Adm. 57, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 159, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 136, 17 Wkly. Rep. 1028, 16 Eng. Reprint 677.

Advance of money to the master for alleged services in taking care of the cargo and for personal expenses is not allowed as charges on cargo. The Glenmanna, Lush. 115.

24. Dobson v. Lyall, 8 Jur. 969, 11 Jur. 179 note, 6 L. J. Ch. 115, 3 Myl. & C. 453 note, 14 Eng. Ch. 453 note, 40 Eng. Reprint 1003 note, 2 Phil. 323 note, 22 Eng. Ch. 323 note, 41 Eng. Reprint 967 note.

25. The Edmond, 30 L. J. Adm. 128, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 394, Lush. 211.

26. Greely v. Smith, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,750, 3 Woodb. & M. 236 (holding that a bottomry bond is not valid for a preëxisting debt, but only for advances to aid in repairs or outfits and cargo for the voyage); Hurry v. The John & Alice, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,923, 1 Wash. 293; The Heisey, 3 Moore P. C. 79, 13 Eng. Reprint 37 (holding that a bottomry bond given by a master upon a threat of arrest for supplies previously furnished on his personal credit is void); The Lochiel, 2 W. Rob. 34. But see Atlantic Ins. Co. v. Conard, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 627, 4 Wash. 662 [affirmed in 1 Pet. 386, 7 L. ed. 189]; The Vibilia, 1 W. Rob. 1, holding that small adthe whole sum should be ultimately thus secured;[27] and it has been held that it matters not at what time the loan is made if the risk of the voyage be subsequently taken and if the transaction be not a cloak to cover usury, gaming, or fraud, and if the advance be in good faith for a maritime premium;[28] and bottomry bonds given by successive masters for repairs done by order of their predecessors who had died are valid;[29] but a bottomry bond executed by the master is invalid as to items for advances made without an agreement or reasonable expectation that they were to be secured by bottomry;[30] and where moneys for necessary repairs have been advanced on the credit of the vessel owners, a bottomry bond subsequently given therefor by the master is void;[31] and the same rule applies where the advances were on the credit of the consignees;[32] and generally goods supplied in the first instance on personal security alone cannot afterward be made the subject of bottomry;[33] but the fact that the moneys loaned on a bottomry bond were on the personal credit of the master has been held to make no difference if the advance was made on a contract for a bottomry bond.[34] A bottomry bond given to pay a former one must stand or fall with the first hypothecation, and the subsequent lender can claim only on the same ground with the former,[35] and thus the payment of a hypothecation is not a valid consideration for a new hypothecation, unless it appears that the former one was valid.[36]

F. Capacity or Authority to Take Bond — 1. General Rules. Where a consignee is bound to advance freight due on the cargo, he cannot, before payment vances made without express reference to bottomry may be included in a subsequent bond.

The master, who is also a part-owner, has no power to hypothecate the vessel after she has arrived in her home port, for advances made abroad for necessary repairs for which a draft was made on some of the owners, where the same was subsequently protested. Sloan v. The A. E. I., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,946, Bee 250.

Debts incurred on previous voyage.— Money lent for the payment of debts incurred in a previous voyage is not a matter for bottomry (The Lochiel, 2 W. Rob. 34); but the amount of a previous bond given in the same voyage having been paid off may be included in a new bond given on the same but not on a subsequent voyage (The Toivo, 1 Spinks 185), and payment of one bottomry bond is a good consideration for a new bottomry bond (Dobson v. Lyall, 8 Jur. 969, 11 Jur. 179 note, 6 L. J. Ch. 115, 3 Myl. & C. 453 note, 14 Eng. Ch. 453 note, 40 Eng. Reprint 1003 note, 2 Phil. 323 note, 22 Eng. Ch. 323 note, 41 Eng. Reprint 967 note).

27. The Virgin, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 538, 8 L. ed. 1036; The Edward Albro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668; Hurry v. The John and Alice, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,923, 1 Wash. 293; The Yuba, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,193, 4 Blatchf. 352.

Waiver of right to bond.—Where money is advanced on an agreement for a bottomry bond, and the ship is permitted to go on sea without any attempt to enforce the agreement, it is a waiver of the right, and the party cannot, on a subsequent voyage, insist on such bond for such advances. The Aurora, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 96, 4 L. ed. 45.

28. Conrad v. Atlantic Ins. Co., 1 Pet. (U. S.) 386, 7 L. ed. 189 [affirming 2 Fed. Cas. No. 627, 4 Wash. 662], holding that it is no objection that a respondentia bond was made after the voyage was commenced.

29. The Wakefield [cited in The Kennersley Castle, 3 Hagg. Adm. 1, 8].

30. The Circassian, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,724, 3 Ben. 398; Gardner v. The White Squall, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,239, holding that the master cannot make a loan on bottomry to pay purchasers of claims for repairs in a foreign port, contracted five months prior thereto under no expectation of bottomry security.

31. The Edward Albro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668; The Hunter, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,904, 1 Ware 251 (holding that where a merchant advances money toward repairing a vessel on the personal credit of the owner, he cannot, after it is expended, demand the security of a bottomry bond with maritime interest); Pickersgill v. Williams, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,123; Rucker v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106, 2 Pet. Adm. 295. And see supra, VI, C, 2.

32. Liebart v. The Emperor, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,340, Bee 339, holding that where a ship was forced into an intermediate port by sea damage, and was there repaired on credit furnished by her consignees at the port of destination, where she afterward arrived, a bottomry bond executed by the master to third persons to enable him to repay the consignees was not valid.

33. The Augusta, 1 Dods. 283.

Debts owing upon personal credit bought up from ship's creditors by the lender cannot be the subject of bottomry. The Ocean, 2 W. Rob. 429.

34. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

35. The Aurora, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 96, 4 L. ed. 45.

36. Walden v. Chamberlain, 28 Fed. Cas.

thereof, advance money to the owner on maritime interest;[37] nor can a consignee who has funds in his hand to secure advances made by him for the vessel;[38] and generally, if a consignee or agent has funds in his hands, or if the money can be raised in any other way, he cannot, by a bottomry bond, burden his principal with marine interest,[39] and although there may be a state of facts under which consignees may advance on bottomry;[40] and the consignee of a vessel may apply the proceeds of a cargo and the freight to pay sums due on account of its purchase, without affecting his right to take a bottomry bond from the master for supplies subsequently furnished,[41] such loans are not regarded favorably by the courts.[42] But the objection to a bottomry bond that the holders were consignees of the ship is obviated by proof that they were not so by the appointment of the owner; that the owner and consignees did not know each other, and had no commercial relations; and that the owner had no funds in their hands.[43] If the owner of the cargo is on board of a vessel at the time of a disaster requiring that money shall be obtained by the master to enable the vessel to prosecute the voyage, he is not bound to advance funds; and if he does so, he is entitled to satisfactory security, and an extra and adequate compensation for the advance;[44] but one part-owner cannot take from the master a bottomry bond, on the share of another part-owner, for repairs done to the vessel.[45] A bottomry bond taken in a foreign country, by an agent of the charterers of the ship, in the name of the charterers, is good,[46] and the agent of the owner may take a bond,[47] but not without inquiry as to the necessity or application.[48] A debtor to the ship cannot lend to the ship on bottomry,[49] but the bond is bad pro tanto only.[50] Money may be borrowed by one on board ship at sea from another on board the same ship for the necessary use of the ship.[51]

No. 17,055, 3 Wash. 290 [affirmed in 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45].

37. The Lavinia v. Barclay, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,125, 1 Wash. 49, holding that if a consignee is directed by the owner of ship and cargo to apply the whole proceeds of the cargo to discharge engagements made on the owner's account, he is not bound to apply those proceeds to discharge expenses of the ship, and may lend his own money to the owner on marine interest.

38. Hurry v. The John & Alice, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,923, 1 Wash. 293.

39. Descadillas v. Harris, 8 Me. 298.

40. See Clark v. The Leopard, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,828; The Lavinia v. Barclay, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,125, 1 Wash. 49; The St. Catherine, 3 Hagg. Adm. 250; The Nelson, 1 Hagg. Adm. 169, upholding a bond given to a consignee of cargo, there being a consignee of ship in the place, it not being shown that the lender was aware that bottomry was not necessary.

41. Thomas v. Gittings, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,897, Taney 472.

42. Rucher v. Conyngham, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,106.

Where the consignee of a vessel employs her as he sees fit, without accounting for her earnings, he cannot enforce bonds on the vessel taken by him for wages, port charges, insurance, and the like. Clark v. The Leopard, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,828.

43. Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

44. Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226, holding, however, that the transaction will be closely scanned to preclude the possibility of fraud.

45. Patton v. The Randolph, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,837, Gilp. 457.

Agreement that third party should pay the loan.—A bottomry bond may be valid notwithstanding an alleged agreement with the owner that the charterer, a partner of the bondholder, should pay the bond. The Huntcliff, 2 Hagg. Adm. 281.

46. Breed v. The Venus, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,827.

47. The Staffordshire, L. R. 4 P. C. 194, 1 Aspin. 365, 41 L. J. Adm. 49, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 46, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 443, 20 Wkly. Rep. 557, 17 Eng. Reprint 378 (holding that the bond is not invalid under these circumstances, provided the agents could not be expected to advance on the personal credit of the owners and give the master an opportunity of obtaining an advance elsewhere by refusing such an advance); The Hersey, 3 Hagg. Adm. 404; The Tartar, 1 Hagg. Adm. 1; The Lord Cochrane, 3 Notes of Cas. 172, 2 W. Rob. 320; The Vibilia, 1 W. Rob. 1. But see The Wave, 15 Jur. 518; The Empire of Peace, 39 L. J. Adm. 12, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 763.

48. The Royal Stuart, 2 Spinks 258.

The agent must see to the application of the money. The Roderick Dhu, Swab. 177, 5 Wkly. Rep. 168.

49. The Hebe, 7 Jur. 564, 4 Notes of Cas. 361, 2 W. Rob. 146.

50. The Hebe, 10 Jur. 227, 2 W. Rob. 412

51. Scarreborrow v. Lyrius, Noy. 95, 74 Eng. Reprint 1061.

2. Duty of Lender to Ascertain and Show Authority. The lender on bottomry must inform himself whether the alleged necessity exists;[52] and he is bound to ascertain that the money is necessary for the particular voyage as well as that the master has no other resources on hand;[53] and if the fact of such necessity be left unproved, evidence is necessary to show due inquiry and reasonable grounds of belief that the necessity was real,[54] and the necessity of raising the funds advanced upon it by such means,[55] the lender being chargeable with notice of the necessities which develop and limit the master's power to act;[56] and he must judge for himself whether if the owner were present he would do what the master is undertaking to do for him.[57] But while the lender is bound to exercise reasonable diligence in order to ascertain whether the supplies and alleged necessaries for which he has advanced money are necessary and proper, he is not bound to show that there was a positive necessity, it being sufficient if there is an apparent necessity, so far as the lender is able, upon due inquiry and due diligence, to ascertain the facts;[58] and when there is an apparent necessity for repairs the lender on bottomry is under no obligation to inquire as to the best mode of making repairs, or whether they are made in the most judicious manner,[59] and the lender upon bottomry in good faith, and under circumstances which justified the loan, cannot be held

52. Merwin v. Shailer, 16 Conn. 489; The Grapeshot, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 129, 19 L. ed. 651; Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55; Putnam v. The Polly, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,482, Bee 157; Walden v. Chamberlain, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,055, 3 Wash. 290 [affirmed in 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45]; The William & Emmeline, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,687, Blatchf. & H. 66; The Orelia, 3 Hagg. Adm. 75.

The burden of proof is on the lender to show that the necessity for the repairs or supplies existed (Merwin v. Shailer, 16 Conn. 489; The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,865, Olcott 35; Crawford v. The William Penn, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,373, 3 Wash. 484; Walden v. Chamberlain, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,055, 3 Wash. 290 [affirmed in 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45); but where the necessity for the repairs is shown, claimant has the burden of showing that the money could have been obtained otherwise than by bottomry (The Wyandotte, 145 Fed. 321, 75 C. C. A. 117 [affirming 136 Fed. 470]; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; The Kathleen, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,624, 2 Ben. 458); and where, a bottomry bond having been given to a party in consideration of his assuming the debts due by a vessel, she left the port without opposition, and payment of the bond was afterward contested on the ground of the debts not being satisfied, this defense was required to be clearly made out, in order to contradict the prima facie proof afforded by the bond; the mere presentation of the bills without receipts was held not sufficient. Cohen v. The Amanda Frances Myrick, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 2,962, Crabbe 277. A regular survey by competent and skilful persons, and repairs made pursuant to their recommendations, is prima facie evidence of the propriety of making the repairs, to justify the master and lender on bottomry. The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228.

Such facts are never presumed. Walden v. Chamberlain, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,055, 3 Wash. 290 [affirmed in 1 Wheat. 96, 4 L. ed. 45]. But see The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228, holding that the lender is prima facie presumed to have made inquiries as to the apparent necessity of repairs, and to have acted upon the facts and circumstances as made known by the survey to the master.

Libellant must exhibit an account of particulars. The William & Emmeline, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,687, Blatchf. & H. 66.

53. The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,669, Blatchf. & H. 309.

But transactions between the owner and mortgagee of the vessel which might render the voyage illegal cannot invalidate a bottomry bond given by the master to a bona fide lender, who has only to look to the facts, that is, distress, absence of credit, and necessity. The Mary Ann, L. R. 1 A. & E. 13.

54. St. Thomas Bank v. The Julia Blake, 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595 (holding that having made no inquiries of the shipper through a period of two months, pending the repairs, during which time the shipper was in reach by mail and telegraph, the lender was not entitled to recover); The Grapeshot v. Wallerstein, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 129, 19 L. ed. 651 (holding, however, that the ordering of supplies and repairs by the master on the credit of the ship is sufficient proof of necessity to support an implied hypothecation in favor of the materialman, as showing that in lending the money he acts in good faith).

55. The Lavinia v. Barclay, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,125, 1 Wash. 49. See Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55.

56. St. Thomas Bank v. The Julia Blake, 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595.

57. St. Thomas Bank v. The Julia Blake, 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595.

58. The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228.

59. The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; The Vibilia, 1 W. Rob. 1. See The Orelia, 3 Hagg. Adm. 75.

responsible for the reasonableness of the charges in the repair of the vessel;[60] and where the necessities of the vessel for want of repairs and supplies, and the fact that the master had no means of his own and had in vain resorted to others for raising money were facts of notoriety, a person was justified in loaning money to the master on a bottomry bond without requiring positive proof that the necessity was absolute, and remediless but by a bottomry bond.[61] The lenders of money on a bottomry bond are presumed to have acted in good faith,[62] and are not in the absence of proof to be charged with knowledge that the master had disregarded instructions from the owners;[63] and the validity of a hypothecation is not affected by the master's previous or subsequent irregular conduct toward his owner, if the lender be not privy thereto.[64]

G. Duration and Termination. A bottomry bond may be upon time as well as upon a specific voyage;[65] and a bond which hypothecates the vessel for a particular voyage, and a specific period beyond its termination, is good as a bottomry bond, the money loaned having been put at risk under the contract;[66] and the bond may be valid whatever the number of voyages the adventure includes, provided such voyages are intended or consented to by the owner.[67] If, after the risk on a bottomry bond has commenced, a sale or transfer of the vessel takes place,[68] or the voyage is in any manner broken up by the borrower,[69] or by the negligence and omission of the master,[70] the maritime risk terminates as in the case of a policy of insurance and the bond becomes immediately payable; and the fact that the obligee of a bottomry bond had attached the ship on another debt of the obligor before the expiration of the term for which the bond was to run, whereby the obligor was prevented from employing her, did not excuse him from performing the condition of the bond, since it was his own fault that the other debt was not paid.[71]

H. Payment and Satisfaction. The obligee in a bottomry bond, who is also the ship's agent, has a right to use money received for freight after the date of the bond in payment of wages and other expenses incident to a projected voyage, and to meet other debts contracted for by him for the benefit of the

60. The Archer, 15 Fed. 276 (holding that the bills for repairs having been paid by the lenders in bottomry in good faith, upon the master's certificate, it was too late to consider whether the prices charged were excessive); The Yuba, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,193, 4 Blatchf. 352.

61. Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

62. The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

63. Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55, holding that, although the master of a vessel had deviated from instructions, if there was no connivance on the part of one loaning money on a bottomry bond, he will not be affected by the fact.

64. The Virgin v. Vyfhius, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 538, 8 L. ed. 1036; Canizares v. The Santissima Trinidad, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,383, Bee 353.

65. Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 183; Cole v. White, 26 Wend. (N. Y.) 511; The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.

66. Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,483.

67. The Mary Ann, 10 Jur. 253, holding a bond given in payment of repairs rendered necessary by an accident which occurred before the commencement of the voyage and dated after the termination of the voyage valid.

68. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.

But an agreement by the bondholder for the purchase of the ship does not affect a bottomry bond originally valid. The Helgoland, 5 Jur. N. S. 1179, Swab. 491.

69. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465.

The bond is payable where the ship is lost through deviation. Anonymous, 2 Ch. Cas. 130, 22 Eng. Reprint 880; Williams v. Steadman, Holt K. B. 126, 90 Eng. Reprint 968, Skin. 345, 90 Eng. Reprint 153; Western v. Wildy, Skin. 152, 90 Eng. Reprint 71.

The borrowers' fault must be pleaded. Boddington v. Wootton, 2 Keb. 768, 84 Eng. Reprint 486.

Abandonment of voyage.—A bond becomes payable upon the abandonment of the voyage agreed upon in the bond. The Helgoland, 5 Jur. N. S. 1179, Swab. 491.

70. Force v. The Pride of the Ocean, 3 Fed. 162; Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465; The Dante, 4 Notes of Cas. 408, 2 W. Rob. 427.

71. Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 183.

vessel, and not secured by the bond;[72] and where the agents of ship-owners pay a bottomry bond with their own money, and the bond is a valid lien in their hands, freight moneys may be applied first to the payment of unsecured disbursements of such agents, leaving the surplus only to be credited on the bond.[73] A ship-owner who recovers damages for the tortious destruction of his vessel is liable to the cargo owner for his pro rata share of the amount of a bottomry bond covering both vessel and cargo, which the cargo owner has paid in full, in order to recover possession of part of the cargo, which was saved;[74] but where the loss of vessel and cargo is total, and both belong to the same owner, the doctrine of contribution in payment of the bottomry bond does not apply, as in case of separate owners;[75] and where the bond is upon the ship and cargo only, the freight must be applied in discharge of the bond before the cargo is resorted to.[76] Where according to the form of bond used, payment of the debt and marine interest depends on the safe return of the goods, and not on that of the ship, the borrower is obliged to pay, if he receives his goods safely, although by another ship;[77] and a loss not strictly total cannot be turned into a technical total loss by abandonment, so as to excuse the borrower from payment, even though the expense of repairing the ship exceeds her value;[78] and a bond conditioned to be void in case of "utter loss" of the vessel during a certain voyage is not discharged by the stranding of the vessel during the voyage, and abandonment to insurers as a total loss, and sale by them at the place of stranding, as not worth repairing, if the vessel exists in specie at the time of the sale,[79] for the words "an utter loss of the ship" in a bottomry bond means an actual total loss, and not a constructive one.[80] A bottomry bond will be void, if the voyage on which payment depends be lost in consequence of any of the accidents within the condition, although the borrower eventually lose nothing.[81] Suit against one who has fraudulently substituted himself as borrower on a bottomry bond is not an acquittance of the bond as against the real debtor.[82]

I. Lien — 1. Existence and Extent; Lien on Proceeds. A hypothecation of a vessel, on maritime risks, draws after it a maritime lien;[83] and where a bond is

72. Oliver v. The Sirius, 54 Fed. 188, 4 C. C. A. 273.

73. Johnson v. The Belle. of the Sea, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,372 [affirmed in 20 Wall. 421, 22 L. ed. 362].

74. Miller v. O'Brien, 59 Fed. 621 [reversed in 67 Fed. 605, 14 C. C. A. 566 (reversed in 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469)].

75. Delaware Ins. Co. v. Winter, 38 Pa. St. 176.

76. The Dowthorpe, 2 Notes of Cas. 264, 2 W. Rob. 73.

77. Commonwealth Ins. Co. v. Duval, 8 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 138.

78. Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465; The Great Pacific, L. R. 2 P. C. 516, 38 L. J. Adm. 45, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 151, 17 Wkly. Rep. 933, 16 Eng. Reprint 683. See Delaware Mut. Safety Ins. Co. v. Gossler, 96 U. S. 645, 24 L. ed. 863; Morrison v. The Unicorn, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,849, 5 Hughes 79.

Ship arriving, but of no value.—Where a bottomried ship was captured, recaptured, repaired, salved, and then arrived at her destination, but was not worth the amount of the bond, repairs, and salvage, the holder could recover upon the bond. Joyce v. Williamson, 3 Dougl. 164, 26 E. C. L. 116, 99 Eng. Reprint 593.

79. Delaware Mut. Safety Ins. Co. v. Gossler, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,766, Holmes 475 [affirmed in 96 U. S. 645, 24 L. ed. 863], holding also that the holder of such a bond, in case of shipwreck of the vessel not amounting to an utter loss within the meaning of the bond, is entitled to the proceeds of the cargo saved, as against insurers of the cargo, who have accepted abandonment, and paid the owners as for a total loss.

80. Commonwealth Ins. Co. v. Duval, 8 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 138; The Great Pacific, L. R. 2 P. C. 516, 38 L. J. Adm. 45, 21 L. T. Rep. N. S. 38, 6 Moore P. C. N. S. 151, 17 Wkly. Rep. 933, 16 Eng. Reprint 683; Broomfield v. Southern Ins. Co., L. R. 5 Exch. 192, 39 L. J. Exch. 186, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 371, 18 Wkly. Rep. 810; The Armadillo, 1 Notes of Cas. 75, 1 W. Rob. 251.

81. Appleton v. Crowninshield, 3 Mass. 443.

82. Herwig v. Oakley, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,435, Taney 389.

83. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157. And see Bolten v. The James L. Pendergast, 30 Fed. 717, where this lien was held to cover expenses, the vessel being released upon agreement.

But to impound a fund in admiralty until a decision can be had upon the validity of a contested claim, the creditor must have sued out attachment or pleaded his lien to an ante-given in the nature of a bottomry, but the circumstances under which it was executed were not such as to warrant the captain in executing a maritime hypothecation, yet the captain having had a power of attorney from the owner of the vessel to borrow money upon the vessel, such a contract, if made by the captain, may create a lien on the vessel, in a court of common law;[84] but in the absence of a stipulation to that effect in the bottomry bond no lien is created on the freight thereby.[85] A mortgage on the vessel taken solely to secure money loaned by an assignee of a bottomry bond will not affect its lien,[86] and the lien is not discharged by a payment of the debt by the agents of the ship-owners with their own money, where they take an assignment thereof.[87] It is a rule of the general maritime law that, if there be any salvage or proceeds of the effects covered by a bottomry bond, the bondholder's lien attaches thereto, although the ship be lost,[88] and the lien is held to extend to the fund recoverable for the ship's tortious destruction.[89]

2. PRIORITIES. A bottomry bond lien is inferior to a lien for seamen's wages,[90]

cedent action. The presentation of a bottomry bond and petition under it is not sufficient. French v. The Superb, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,103*a*.

Agreement held too indefinite to constitute lien.— Where a steamship company, to obtain letters of credit to disburse their ships, hypothecated all freights, and agreed to give "further security when required," the agreement for further security was too indefinite to constitute any lien on the vessels themselves or their proceeds. Brown v. The Allianca, 63 Fed. 726 [affirmed in 73 Fed. 503, 19 C. C. A. 541].

The lien of the bottomry bond attaches from date, although by default of the parties procuring the loan the ship does not perform the voyage described in the bond, but undertakes a different voyage. Wilmer v. The Smilax, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,777, 2 Pet. Adm. 295.

In Louisiana a steamboat is not an object susceptible of hypothecation. Broderick's Succession, 12 La. Ann. 521.

84. Hurry v. Hurry, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,922, 2 Wash. 145.

85. Kelly v. Cushing, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 269. But see The Jacob, 4 C. Rob. 245, commented on in The Staffordshire, L. R. 4 P. C. 194, 1 Aspin. 365, 41 L. J. Adm. 49, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 46, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 443, 20 Wkly. Rep. 557, 17 Eng. Reprint 378, where freight earned on a subsequent voyage was held liable to satisfy a bottomry bond given on a previous voyage.

Freight prepaid is not liable to the bottomry holder. The Eureka, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,547, 2 Lowell 417.

Voyage held continuous with respect to liability of freight money.—A voyage to a foreign port, there to discharge cargo; thence to another foreign port, there to take cargo; thence to a domestic port, is continuous with respect to liability of freight moneys to satisfy a bottomry bond given for repairs in the first part of the voyage. Fish v. The George Thomas, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,813*b*.

Freight unearned when the bond is payable is not bound. The Staffordshire, L. R. 4 P. C. 194, 1 Aspin. 365, 41 L. J. Adm. 49, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 46, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 443, 20 Wkly. Rep. 557, 17 Eng. Reprint 378.

Liability of freight earned from subshippers.— Freight earned from subshippers of goods by permission of charterers of the whole ship is liable, as against the charterers, in payment of a bottomry bond given at the charterer's port for advances subsequent to the charter-party. The Eliza, 3 Hagg. Adm. 87.

86. Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.

87. The Belle of the Sea v. Johnson, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 421, 22 L. ed. 362.

88. Miller v. O'Brien, 59 Fed. 621 [affirmed in 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469] (holding that it is virtually a part of the bond by implication and not necessary to be expressly reserved in the bond); Force v. Providence Washington Ins. Co., 35 Fed. 767. And see Appleton v. Crowninshield, 3 Mass. 443, 8 Mass. 340; Delaware Mut. Safety Ins. Co. v. Gossler, 96 U. S. 645, 24 L. ed. 863; The Eliza Lines, 61 Fed. 308 (holding that where, after bottomry of a ship and freight, she became derelict, and was taken by salvors into a port distant from her destination, and the cargo was unloaded and sold, by order of court, on application of its owners; and the vessel was repaired by her owners, and proceeded on another voyage, the bottomry became a lien on the net salvage of vessel and freight, but was not entitled to the benefit of the repairs). Compare Thorndike v. Stone, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 183; Giro v. The Alexander Wise, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,463 (holding that the borrower on a bottomry and respondentia bond of moneys advanced on the risk of the voyage, payable by its terms on the arrival of the vessel at her port of discharge, and conditioned to be void if the vessel is utterly lost, is discharged, and the bond rendered void, by the total loss of the vessel on her voyage, although part of her tackle and cargo is saved).

89. Miller v. O'Brien, 59 Fed. 621 [affirmed in 168 U. S. 287, 18 S. Ct. 140, 42 L. ed. 469].

90. The Virgin v. Vyfhius, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 538, 8 L. ed. 1036; Furniss v. The Magoun, for materialmen's liens, advances, or a claim for general average;[91] and for freight[92] and salvage claims;[93] and a claim for damages caused by a collision occurring during the voyage is entitled to preference over a bottomry loan made upon the same voyage, prior to the happening of such collision.[94] But a bottomry bond outranks a prior mortgage,[95] or a mortgage given during the voyage for 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55; Pitman v. Hooper, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,185, 3 Sumn. 50; The Union, 30 L. J. Adm. 17, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 280, Lush. 128. But see Hanschall v. Swan, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 304, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 42, holding that where a draft on the owners for money advanced for wages and supplies is but an abbreviated form of bottomry, it is inferior to a subsequent bottomry given during the same voyage upon the vessel becoming disabled.

One who has paid wages at the master's request is preferred to the bond (The William F Safford, 29 L. J. Am. 109, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 301, Lush. 69. And see The Mary Ann, 9 Jur. 94); but a bottomry bondholder paying wages of the crew in order to save expenses of their detention by order of court is given priority in respect of such payment over all other claims (The Kammerhevie Rosenkrantz, 1 Hagg. Adm. 62. But see The Cornelia Henrietta, L. R. 1 A. & E. 51, 12 Jur. N. S. 396, 14 Wkly. Rep. 502, holding that the court will not, unless upon application being made to it, sanction the repayment of wages to bondholders out of the proceeds of the sale of the ship).

Where a ship-owner paid wages for a ship without leave of court, upon which a bottomry bond had been given, the ship-owner was not entitled to priority over the bottomry bond. The Janet Wilson, 6 Wkly. Rep. 329.

Master's wages.—The claim of a master for his wages earned and disbursements made subsequently to a voyage, during which a bottomry bond had been given on his ship, takes priority over the claim of a bondholder (The Hope, 1 Aspin. 563, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 287); but a bottomry bondholder is entitled to priority over the claim of a master for wages earned on previous voyages (The Eugenie, L. R. 4 A. & E. 123, 2 Aspin. 104, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 314, 21 Wkly. Rep. 957; The Hope, supra); and the master of a foreign ship having by the bottomry bond bound himself as well as the ship and freight cannot enforce his lien for wages as against the bondholder (The Jonathan Goodhue, Swab. 524); but the general rule that a master who has bound himself as well as ship and freight for the payment of a bottomry bond is not entitled to payment of his own claims in priority will not be acted upon where the bottomry bondholder will not be prejudiced by the master being paid before him (The Edward Oliver, L. R. 1 A. & E. 379, 36 L. J. Adm. 13, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 575); and so it has been held that, although the master bound himself by the bond, and was also a part-owner of the vessel, the owners of part of the cargo cannot expose his right to be paid his wages and disbursements in priority to the bondholder (The Daring, L. R. 2 A. & E. 260, 37 L. J. Adm. 29). A covenant by the master that he had authority to charge the vessel, and that the vessel and cargo, with the freight, should at all times after the voyage be liable for the payment of the amount due under the bond, does not affect his right to be paid his wages in priority to the bondholder. The Salacia, 9 Jur. N. S. 27, 32 L. J. Adm. 41, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 440, 11 Wkly. Rep. 189.

The viaticum of master and seamen of a foreign ship arrested in this country by bottomry bondholder is paid before the bond. The Constancia, 15 Wkly. Rep. 183.

91. See MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 807.

Advances under charter-party.—A bottomry bond cannot affect a previous contract in a charter-party so as to take precedence of money advances made subsequently to the bond under the authority of the charter-party. The Salacia, 32 L. J. Adm. 43, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 91, Lush. 578; The Standard, 6 Weekly. Rep. 222.

A person who has advanced money for dock dues stands in the same position as the dock company, and his claim ranks with pilotage and towage and has priority over a bottomry bond of previous date. The St. Lawrence, 5 P. D. 250, 49 L. J. Adm. 82.

92. In re Cargo ex Galam, Brown & L. 167, 10 Jur. N. S. 477, 33 L. J. Adm. 97, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 550, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 216, 3 New Rep. 254, 12 Wkly. Rep. 495, 15 Eng. Reprint 883.

93. The Launberga, 154 Fed. 959; Giro v. The Alexander Wise, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,463.

94. Force v. The Pride of the Ocean, 3 Fed. 162.

95. Bolton v. The James L. Pendergast, 30 Fed. 717; The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,187, 1 Paine 671 (holding that where the owner of a vessel gave a bill of sale of her in the nature of a mortgage, but was suffered to remain in possession and act as absolute owner, and her register and all her papers remained unaltered, and subsequently he gave a bottomry bond abroad for money advanced to purchase a cargo for the vessel without notice to the lender of the mortgage, upon common-law principles the claim of the lender was to be preferred to that of the mortgagee); The Duke of Bedford, 2 Hagg. Adm. 294 (bottomry by owner). But see Dobson v. Lyall, 8 Jur. 969, 11 Jur. 179 note, 6 L. J. Ch. 115, 3 Myl. & C. 453 note, 40 Eng. Reprint 1003 note, 2 Phil. 323 note, 22 Eng. Ch. 323 note, 41 Eng. Reprint 967 note; The Dunvegan Castle, 3 Hagg. Adm. 331.

Estoppel of mortgagee to set up title to ship.—Whatever mode of procedure is pursued, a party, proved to be a mortgagee, after which the bond was executed,[96] or a draft for advances for wages and supplies, payable after arrival and discharge,[97] and the claim of a wharfinger who makes an express contract with the owner after the giving of the bond.[98] Similarly a bottomry bond is preferred to a claim of necessaries previously pronounced for, the necessaries having been supplied before the bond,[99] and takes precedence over a purchaser without notice,[1] and will be upheld where there are no laches on the part of the lender, even against a bona fide purchaser, without notice,[2] although the rule is otherwise where there is laches;[3] and although the lien of a bottomry bond will not be affected by the mere departure of the vessel from the return port, with or without the knowledge of the holder of the bond,[4] if the obligee of a bottomry bond permit the ship to make several voyages without asserting his lien, and executions are levied on her, his lien is lost.[5] But a delay of a few weeks after the right to enforce a bottomry bond has accrued does not impair the remedy, or enable a junior creditor to take precedence by reason of a prior attachment.[6] Bottomry bonds take priority in the inverse order of their execution,[7] but bonds of different dates granted to creditors upon one advertisement for tenders are paid pro rata.[8] admitting in his answer to the original action that the bottomry security is valid, and consenting to a decree of sale of the ship under it, cannot set up a title to the ship in himself as absolute owner and not mortgagee, in bar of the claim of the bottomry borrower to a share in the remnants remaining in court. The Panama, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,703, Olcott 343.

Communication of bond to mortgagees.— A bottomry bondholder is under no obligation to communicate the existence of the bond to the mortgagees of the ship, and is not affected by the owner concealing it from the mortgagees. The Helgoland, 5 Jur. N. S. 1179, Swab. 491, holding that a mortgagee cannot set up as a defense to the bond laches of the bondholder unless his position has been thereby prejudiced.

Priority of maritime liens generally as against mortgages see MARITIME LIENS, 25 Cyc. 802.

96. The Royal Arch, Swab. 269, 6 Wkly. Rep. 191, holding, however, that when due the bond should be enforced within reasonable time, and a voluntary agreement on the part of the holder to postpone payment under it alters its character totally, and substitutes a contract over which the admiralty court at least has no jurisdiction.

97. Hanschell v. Swan, 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 304, 51 N. Y. Suppl. 42, holding that where the master of a ship pledged his vessel, freight, and owners for the payment of money advanced for wages, supplies, etc., giving a draft payable after arrival and discharge; and before reaching its destination the ship became disabled, and was repaired by money raised upon bottomry, and was sold to satisfy same and suit was instituted on the draft, by the creation of the prior liens the holder of the draft lost his lien upon the vessel and freight.

98. Ex p. Lewis, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 8,310, 2 Gall. 483.

99. The William F. Safford, 29 L. J. Adm. 109, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 301, Lush. 69.

A broker procuring necessaries to be supplied to a ship and paying for them gives credit to the master and owners, and stands in a different position from a tradesman supplying, and his claim does not take precedence as a claim under a bottomry bond. The Flor de Funchal, 35 L. J. Adm. 119, 13 Wkly. Rep. 1000.

1. Herwig v. Oakley, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,435, Taney 389; Wilmer v. The Smilax, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,777, 2 Pet. Adm. 295. But see Webb v. Walker, 7 Cush. (Mass.) 46.

2. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157. See The Belle of the Sea v. Johnson, 20 Wall. (U. S.) 421, 22 L. ed. 362; The Catherine, 15 Jur. 231.

A fraudulent sale of a ship by the master in a foreign port for necessary charges does not affect the lien arising upon a prior bottomry bond. Riley v. The Obell Mitchell, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,839.

The lien exists as much against the government, becoming proprietors, as against private persons. U. S. v. Wilder, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,694, 3 Sumn. 308.

Trover would lie, at common law, in favor of the lender on bottomry, against the vendee of the vessel, who, after the commencement of the maritime risk, and before the satisfaction of the bond, had taken possession of the vessel. The Draco, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,057, 2 Sumn. 157.

3. Persee v. The Clarence, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,016.

4. Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.

5. Blaine v. The Charles Carter, 4 Cranch (U. S.) 328, 2 L. ed. 636.

6. Eneas v. The Charlotte Minerva, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,483.

7. Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55; The Sydney Cove, 2 Dods. 201; The Betsey, 1 Dods. 289; The Rhadamanthe, 1 Dods. 201; The Eliza, 3 Hagg. Adm. 87; The Constancia, 10 Jur. 845, 4 Notes of Cas. 285, 2 W. Rob. 404.

8. The Exeter, 1 C. Rob. 173, 176. And see The Dora, 34 Fed. 343, holding that where, in a question as to the rank of two

J. Enforcement of Bond — 1. Nature and Form of Remedy; Procedure. Bottomry bonds are enforceable in admiralty,[9] whether the bond is given on land or sea, and although under seal;[10] and if they become void by reason of the voyage being lost in consequence of an accident within the condition of the bond, and the borrower eventually loses nothing, the lender may recover in an action for money had and received;[11] and if a vessel on which money is loaned does not undertake the voyage described in the bottomry bond by default of the persons obtaining the loan, but undertakes a different voyage, the principal of the loan may be recovered in an action in rem after such voyage, against a claimant who purchased the ship with knowledge;[12] but questions as to the validity of bottomry claims will not be entertained on motion and notice,[13] and the holder of a bottomry bond has no interest that he can assert in a prize court.[14] The premium paid on bottomry will be included in the amount of the decree,[15] and the sum lent and the premium are considered as the principal, common interest on that sum for the delay of payment after it is due being allowed,[16] although the bond contained no stipulation for ordinary interest.[17] Where various demands are mixed up in bottomry bond, part only of which will sustain a hypothecation, the obligee must exhibit them to the court in such manner that they may be separately considered,[18] and should exhibit an account of the items of expense covered, that the court may judge whether they were necessary for effectuating the objects of the voyage.[19] If the vessel is sought to be sequestered, and it has been since sold, there must be a personal service of citation on the new owner if a resident, as the proceeding is not strictly in rem; and service on the master of the vessel, as agent of the owner, is not sufficient.[20]

2. Marshaling Assets. Assets will be marshaled by courts of admiralty, in bottomry bonds on the same ship, the obligations, although dated, one, one day, and the other, the next day, were for moneys expended during the same period and to relieve the same necessity, the priority must be determined according to the necessity at the time of the advances; as these advances were contemporaneous, and furnished relief from the same wants, the obligations must rank as of the same date.

9. See Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 827.

A suit in the name of an assignor of a bottomry bond may be maintained, where the assignee appeared and filed a supplemental libel, which was duly answered. Burke v. The M. P. Rich, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,161, 1 Cliff. 308.

Admiralty will order a referee to ascertain and report the actual constituents of a bottomry lien, the validity of which is contested. Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55.

A mortgagee of a vessel can intervene in a suit by a bottomry holder against the vessel, and contest the validity of the bottomry or its priority of lien as against his mortgage (Furniss v. The Magoun, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,163, Olcott 55); and creditors, having obtained decrees against the proceeds of a vessel, where bottomry creditors come in and arrest the fund, may make themselves parties and contest the bottomry claims (French v. The Superb, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,103*a*).

Proof of good faith.— In disputed cases of bottomry bonds the court expects that, where it is practicable, the master will, by his affidavit, show affirmatively the good faith of his own transaction, and the circumstances relating to it. The Faithful, 31 L. J. Adm. 81.

Parties who have abandoned proceedings upon an alleged bottomry bond will not be allowed, except upon strong grounds shown, to institute fresh proceedings upon the same bond. The Fortitudo, 2 Dods. 58.

10. Meneton v. Gibbons, 3 T. R. 267, 100 Eng. Reprint 568. But see Anonymous, 1 Keb. 520, 83 Eng. Reprint 1088.

11. Appleton v. Crowninshield, 3 Mass. 443.

12. Wilmer v. The Smilax, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,777, 2 Pet. Adm. 295.

13. French v. The Superb, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,103*a*.

14. The Mary, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 126, 3 L. ed. 678.

15. The Grapeshot, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,703, 2 Woods 42.

16. The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255; The Edmond, 30 L. J. Adm. 128, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 394, Lush. 211.

17. The Grapeshot, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,703, 2 Woods 42.

18. The Aurora, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 96, 4 L. ed. 45. And see The Edward Albro, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,290, 10 Ben. 668, holding that where, in a suit on a bottomry bond, libellant included unauthorized charges and insisted on its payment in full, and filed his libel without affording the owner of the vessel a reasonable time to examine into the question of the amount really due, the court would not award him costs.

19. The Bridgewater, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,865, Olcott 35.

20. Gazzam v. Wright, 3 La. 449.

case of bottomry, so as to give the proper priorities in favor of shippers against the property of the master and owner,[21] and so also as to the freight and proceeds of the ship.[22] If a bottomry bond covers both ship and cargo, and these are owned by different persons, the cargo is liable only secondarily;[23] but if both belong to the same owner, and are both hypothecated, there is no equity which prevents the owner of the bond from resorting to either; so also where the ship and freight have the same owner, and are included in the same hypothecation;[24] and where there are two bottomry bonds, the first in date on ship and freight only, and the other or last bond on ship, freight, and cargo, and ship and freight are insufficient to discharge both bonds, the last bond, which is entitled to priority, must be paid out of ship and freight.[25] Where a ship and freight are bottomried, the owners being different, the ordinary rule is that they pay ratably;[26] and similarly where there is a bottomry bond upon the ship alone, and another upon the cargo alone, claims for pilotage, towage, and wages are satisfied out of proceeds of the ship and freight pro rata, and not out of the freight only;[27] but the court, acting upon equitable principles, will not direct assets to be marshaled except in cases where the two funds to which one of the creditors can resort belong to the same person.[28] Where a part only of goods hypothecated by a respondentia bond reaches its destination, such part is only liable to pay a proportionate part of the money secured by the bond, according to the proportion that the value of the goods brought to their destination bears to the total value of the property on which the bond was given.[29]

VII. CARRIAGE OF GOODS.

[EDITED BY ROBERT M. HUGHES, ESQ., OF THE NORFOLK BAR]

A. Nature of Liability — 1. GENERAL RULES. The owner of a general ship carrying goods or merchandise for hire,[1] in the usual course of business,[2] whether for an ocean voyage,[3] or for a voyage on inland waters,[4] and whether in sail-

21. The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255.

22. Welsh v. Cabot, 39 Pa. St. 342.

23. Welsh v. Cabot, 39 Pa. St. 342; The Packet, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,654, 3 Mason 255.

24. Welsh v. Cabot, 39 Pa. St. 342.

25. The Mary Ann, 9 Jur. 94; The Priscilla, 5 Jur. N. S. 1421, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 272, Lush. 1; The Trident, 1 W. Rob. 29.

Where the master gave bonds on ship, cargo, and freight, his claim for wages and disbursements have priority over those of the bondholders, and the assets should be marshaled accordingly. The Salacia, 9 Jur. N. S. 27, 32 L. J. Adm. 41, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 440, 11 Wkly. Rep. 189.

26. The Dowthorpe, 2 Notes of Cas. 264, 2 W. Rob. 73.

27. La Constancia, 10 Jur. 845, 4 Notes of Cas. 285, 2 W. Rob. 404, where there were three bonds of bottomry granted upon the same vessel, and two of the bonds granted upon the ship alone, the third bond being the cargo only, and in marshaling the assets the court directed the two bonds upon the ship to be paid out of the proceeds of the ship exclusively, the hond upon the cargo to be paid out of the proceeds of the freight in the first instance, and the cargo only held liable if the proceeds of the freight should be insufficient.

In bottomry, ship and freight are to be exhausted before the cargo. La Constancia, 10 Jur. 845, 4 Notes of Cas. 285, 2 W. Rob. 404; The Dowthorpe, 2 Notes of Cas. 264, 2 W. Rob. 73.

28. The Chioggia, [1898] P. 1, 8 Aspin. 352, 66 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 174, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 472, 14 T. L. R. 27, 46 Wkly. Rep. 253 [distinguishing The Edward Oliver, L. R. 1 A. & E. 379, 36 L. J. Adm. 13, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 575].

29. In re Cargo ex Sultan, 5 Jur. N. S. 1060, Swab. 504.

1. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788; Story Bailm. § 495.

2. Mosely v. Lord, 2 Conn. 389; Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am. Dec. 268.

3. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788; Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422.

4. Bennett v. Filyaw, 1 Fla. 403; Faulkner v. Wright, Rice (S. C.) 107; Porterfield v. Humphreys, 8 Humphr. (Tenn.) 497.

Rule determining liability on inland waters. — Where a general ship employed by the owners in transporting goods under contracts for freight, upon navigable waters between ports and places in different states, receives goods under a contract of shipment corresponding in terms to the usual bill of lading for the transportation of goods on inland navigable waters, her liability must be determined by the rules of law applicable to carriers of goods on such inland waters. The Niagara v. Cordes, 21 How. (U. S.) 7, boats,[5] steamboats,[6] or canal-boats,[7] is a common carrier and subject to a common carrier's liability to shippers,[8] when that responsibility is not qualified by an express contract or reservation,[9] or by a custom or usage of established notoriety,[10] although there is no specific agreement of carriage entered into,[11] and independently of any bill of lading.[12] Except as his liability is modified by the Harter act of Feb. 13, 1893,[13] the owner is bound absolutely to deliver the cargo as required unless prevented by the act of God or public enemies;[14] and the liability of a carrier under a bill of lading continues until the merchandise is safely delivered to the consignee at the port of discharge, or placed in such a situation there as to be equivalent to a safe delivery, and the carrier is not discharged of the custody of the goods until this is done;[15] but where the owner of a vessel agrees, for a single price, to transport a cargo from one port to another, and allow storage thereof in the vessel following the voyage, his liability as carrier ceases on arrival at the port of destination, and he is thereafter liable as a warehouseman only;[16] and similarly, where a vessel is detained, after the expiration of the time for unloading, by the act of the consignee, her strict liability as a carrier ceases, and she is liable as a warehouseman only for reasonable care in keeping the cargo.[17] On the other hand, a ship chartered for a special cargo or to a special person is not a common carrier, but only an ordinary bailee for hire.[18] Although the master and owner of a vessel are both liable to the merchant as carrier, they are liable severally, not jointly.[19]

2. Conflict of Laws. The carrier's liability and construction of the shipping

16 L. ed. 41. But see Eveleigh v. Sylvester, 2 Brev. (S. C.) 178.

Ferry as common carrier see Ferries, 19 Cyc. 508.

5. Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422.

6. Bennett v. Filyaw, 1 Fla. 403; Faulkner v. Wright, Rice (S. C.) 107; Patton v. Magrath, Dudley (S. C.) 159, 31 Am. Dec. 552; Porterfield v. Humphreys, 8 Humphr. (Tenn.) 497; The Huntress, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,914, 2 Ware 89.

7. Arnold v. Habenhake, 5 Wend. (N. Y.) 33; Spencer v. Daggett, 2 Vt. 92.

8. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788. But see Haynie v. Waring, 29 Ala. 263, holding that the United States statutes (4 U. S. St. at L. 104, c. 64, § 6; 5 U. S. St. at L. 736, c. 43, § 13), concerning the duties and liabilities of steamboats engaged in carrying the mail, do not impose upon the owners of steamboats the responsibilities of common carriers, in favor of a third person who has contracted for no more than the diligence of a mandatary in the carrying of bank-bills.

Consignment to master.—Where goods in the usual course of business are shipped on freight, consigned to the master for sale and returns, and the master gives a bill of lading with the assent of the owner of the vessel, such owner is liable to account for the goods to the shipper (Mosely v. Lord, 2 Conn. 389. Compare Morton v. Day, 6 La. Ann. 762), as well for the payment of the proceeds as for the safe carriage of the goods (Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am. Dec. 268).

Joint liability of two shippers.—Two steamboat companies so conducting themselves with reference to the general public as to induce a shipper acting with reasonable caution to believe that they had formed a combination in the nature of a partnership are jointly liable for loss of cargo. Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Kountz Line, 122 U. S. 583, 7 S. Ct. 1278, 30 L. ed. 1137 [reversing 10 Fed. 768].

Who are common carriers generally see Carriers, 6 Cyc. 365.

9. Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422.

10. Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422.

11. Brower v. The Water Witch, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,971, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 241 [affirmed in 1 Black 494, 17 L. ed. 155].

12. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

13. See infra, VII, B, 13, b.

14. Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422. And see infra, VII, C.

15. Vose v. Allen, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,005 [affirmed in 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,006].

16. Norton v. The Richard Winslow, 67 Fed. 259 [affirmed in 71 Fed. 426, 18 C. C. A. 344].

17. The M. C. Currie, 132 Fed. 125.

18. The Dan, 40 Fed. 691; Lamb v. Parkman, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 8,020, 1 Sprague 343; Nugent v. Smith, 1 C. P. D. 423, 3 Aspin. 198, 45 L. J. C. P. 697, 34 L. T Rep. N. S. 827, 24 Wkly. Rep. 237.

A lighter hired exclusively to convey the goods of one person to a particular place for an agreed compensation is not a "common carrier" with respect to such goods, but a "private carrier," and liable only as a bailee for hire. The Wildenfels, 161 Fed. 864.

For form of bill of lading to be partly performed on land and partly on water see Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788.

19. Patton v. Magrath, Rice (S. C.) 162, 33 Am. Dec. 98.

contract is as a general rule governed by the law of the flag,[20] unless the parties expressly stipulate that the contract of shipment or bill of lading shall be governed by some other law;[21] and a contract of affreightment made in one country between citizens or residents thereof and the performance of which begins there is governed by the law of that country unless the parties when entering into the contract clearly manifest a mutual intention that it shall be governed by the law of some other country;[22] and a contract in one state for the carriage of goods from there to a point in another state is governed by the laws of the former unless a different intention clearly appears.[23] But the law of the flag so far as it differs from the general maritime law is but a mere municipal law of the ship's home and has no authority abroad except by comity and will not be adopted in a foreign forum when against the policy or prejudicial to the citizens of the country of the forum,[24] even though the parties have so stipulated in the shipping contract,[25] this rule being especially applicable to contracts exempting the carrier from liability for negligence and also providing that the stipulation shall be governed by the law of a country where such a stipulation is sustained;[26] but where a bill of lading, besides the ordinary exception of the perils of the sea, contains an exception against liability for loss occasioned by leakage or stowage, or by negligence of any person in the service of the ship, and this latter exception is valid both by the law of the flag and the law of the place of shipment, the foreign law governs as to any negligence within the foreign jurisdiction, and whether the damage was occasioned by perils of the sea, or by negligent stowage at the place of shipment, the shipper cannot recover, there being no negligence shown or presumed, in this country, or from acts committed on the high seas.[27]

20. Wupperman v. The Carib Prince, 63 Fed. 266 [reversed on other grounds in 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181]; The Titania, 19 Fed. 101, holding that on a shipment of goods in England, upon an English vessel, on an ordinary bill of lading, the liability of the vessel is to be determined according to the law of the place of shipment, as the law of the flag. But see The State of Virginia, 60 Fed. 1018, holding that where the British owner of a British ship is proceeded against in an American court by both British and American cargo-owners in respect to a loss of cargo occurring in British waters, the extent of his liability is determined by the statutes of the United States, and not those of Great Britain.

Foreign vessels being entitled to the benefit of the Harter Act (2 U. S. Rev. St. Suppl. (1892–1899) 81), they will be held subject to its limitations by courts of the United States in suits for damages to cargo arising on the high seas on voyages to this country. The Frey, 92 Fed. 667. And see The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181. See, generally, infra, VII, D, 13, b, (II).

21. The Oranmore, 92 Fed. 396 [affirming 24 Fed. 922], holding that where a bill of lading of an English ship provided that all questions arising thereunder against the ship or her owners should be determined by English law, such provision was valid, and that the English law governed a libel in admiralty for the loss of property under such bill of lading by the shipper, who was a resident of the United States.

22. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788 [affirming 22 Fed. 715, 22 Blatchf. 372]; The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373. And see Hampton v. The Thaddeus, 4 Mart. (La.) 582.

23. Montague v. The Henry B. Hyde, 82 Fed. 681.

24. The Kensington, 183 U. S. 263, 269, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190; The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373.

25. Lewisohn v. National Steamship Co., 56 Fed. 602; Monroe v. The Iowa, 50 Fed. 561. See Doherr v. The Etona, 64 Fed. 880 [affirmed in 71 Fed. 895, 18 C. C. A. 380].

26. Botany Worsted Mills v. Knott, 82 Fed. 471, 27 C. C. A. 326 [affirming 76 Fed. 582, and following Lewisohn v. National Steamship Co., 56 Fed. 602] (holding that a provision in a bill of lading, containing an exception of damage from negligent stowage, that the contract should be governed by the law of the flag, is not enforceable in our courts, being against the public policy of this country); Spreckels Sugar-Refining Co. v. The Glenmavis, 69 Fed. 472 (holding that where a bill of lading made in Germany in behalf of a British ship, prior to the Harter Act, relating to the liability of ship-owners, contained a clause exempting the ship and carrier from liability for negligence in the navigation of the vessel, and a further provision that the law of the flag should govern, the courts of the United States would refuse to enforce the stipulation respecting negligence, although it was valid under the laws of both England and Germany); The Victory, 63 Fed. 631 [affirmed on other grounds in 168 U. S. 410, 18 S. Ct. 149, 42 L. ed. 519]; The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796, 64 Fed. 867, 12 C. C. A. 445; The Hugo, 57 Fed. 403.

27. The Trinacria, 42 Fed. 863. And see

B. Contracts of Affreightment[28] — 1. In General — a. Nature, Construction, and Effect. The rules governing the operation and effect of bills of lading[29] apply to contracts of affreightment in general.[30] Thus a contract of affreightment in order to bind the ship must be executed by a person authorized by the owner,[31] and neither party is at liberty to abandon the contract but for legal cause or with the consent of the other.[32] The contract is broken by a change

Baetjer v. La Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 59 Fed. 789, holding that where a bill of lading stamped at an interior town of France, for transportation of goods from there to New York, via Havre, exempted the carrier from liability for negligence of its servants and agents, which is valid by the French law, the carrier could not be held liable for breakage occurring before the goods reach Havre; for, if the land carriage was by contract outside the bill of lading, admiralty has no jurisdiction, and if under the bill of lading, being wholly in French territory, it was governed by French law, and the exemption applies.

28. Power of master to execute see supra, IV, B, 2, c.

29. See infra, VII, B, 2.

30. See cases cited infra, this note, and the following notes.

The contract is not one of affreightment where the owner of a steamboat, which is disabled so that she cannot make her trip, hires another boat in her place to take her tows, freight, and passengers to a designated point, the officers and crew of the latter boat remaining in the exclusive control of her during that trip, and being paid therefor by her general owner. Sherman v. Fream, 30 Barb. (N. Y.) 478.

Particular contracts of shipment construed see Rhodes v. Newhall, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 669 [affirmed in 126 N. Y. 574, 27 N. E. 947, 22 Am. St. Rep. 859] (holding that a provision in a shipping contract that "all the deficiency in cargo to be paid by the carrier, and deducted from the freight," is conclusive against the carrier in an action against the consignee for the freight, where the carrier was represented at the lading by its own weighmaster, and the amount of goods laden was agreed to; and it is immaterial that the goods delivered to the consignee were worth more than the amount advanced by him thereon); Scott v. U. S., 12 Wall. (U. S.) 443, 20 L. ed. 438 [affirming 4 Ct. Cl. 241]; Canada Shipping Co. v. Acer, 26 Fed. 874.

Transfer of contract.—A contract of carriage, signed by the agent of a steamship line, and reciting that two hundred bales of cotton had been received "on dock" to be transported by the C, "or by any other steamship of the line," is only an executory contract to ship, and a transferee of such contract is affected with notice that the ship C was liable for only so much cotton as might be actually laden on board. Forwood v. The Caroline Miller, 53 Fed. 136.

31. The Madison v. Wells, 14 Mo. 360, holding that if one takes possession of a boat without the consent of the owner, makes a contract of affreightment, and violates it, the boat is not liable. See Crenshawe v. Pearce, 37 Fed. 432. Compare 26 Cyc. 750 note 10, 784 note 81. Nor can the master himself bind the ship by receipting for goods not actually received. Bulkley v. Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co., 24 How. (U. S.) 386, 16 L. ed. 599; American Sugar Refining Co. v. Maddock, 93 Fed. 980, 36 C. C. A. 42; McLean v. Fleming, L. R. 2 H. L. Sc. App. 128, 1 Aspin. 160, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 317; Brown v. Powell Coal Co., L. R. 10 C. P. 562, 2 Aspin. 578, 44 L. J. C. P. 289, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 621, 23 Wkly. Rep. 549.

The second clerk of a steamer cannot, by virtue of his position, make a special contract, so as to bind the boat for articles not delivered, but his authority must be shown. Kirkman v. Bowman, 8 Rob. (La.) 246.

An unauthorized contract may be ratified. Morris v. Alvah, 59 Fed. 630, holding that a contract for transportation of goods binds the ship when it is confirmed by those who have authority, and the ship has actually entered upon the performance of it, although it may have been a contract preliminary to a maritime contract, or made by brokers acting without sufficient authority.

Estoppel of owner to deny authority.— If the owner leaves another in such control over the vessel as to enable him to start her on a voyage, thus placing it in such person's power to deceive the public, the vessel may be held liable for the loss of goods shipped. Dunn v. Branner, 13 La. Ann. 452.

32. Clark v. Massachusetts F. & M. Ins. Co., 2 Pick. (Mass.) 104, 13 Am. Dec. 400, holding that where a ship was so damaged that it would require two months to repair her, her master may retain the cargo and earn his freight.

Where a vessel, before she breaks ground for a voyage, is injured by fire, so that the cost of her repairs would exceed her value when repaired, and she is rendered unseaworthy and incapable of earning freight, a contract of affreightment for carrying cotton to a foreign port, and providing for the payment of the freight money on the delivery of the cotton at that port, is dissolved. The Tornado, 108 U. S. 542, 2 S. Ct. 746, 27 L. ed. 747.

Writing held to be mere offer of owner to receive goods on board and not to amount to contract of affreightment as lacking mutuality see White v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 61 Misc. (N. Y.) 268, 113 N. Y. Suppl. 805.

Contract of affreightment with connecting carrier.—An engagement of cargo space from a steamship line for a shipment of cotton at an agreed rate of freight, made by a company operating a connecting line, constitutes of destination made without the assent of the other party,[33] or by a voluntary abandonment of the voyage;[34] but the involuntary abandonment of a vessel under stress of weather, without any actual intention to renounce the contract of affreightment between the ship and cargo-owners, does not terminate such contract, but on the bringing of the ship into port by salvors in a condition to resume her voyage without unreasonable delay the master is entitled within a reasonable time to reclaim the vessel and cargo, and on indemnity to the salvors to take the cargo to the stipulated port of destination.[35] A contract of affreightment takes effect from the loading of the vessel, from which time each party is bound to the other for the full performance of the contract;[36] and when the time of the arrival of the vessel at port of shipment is specified in the contract and both parties contract with regard to it, it is in the nature of a condition precedent to the enforcement of the contract by the owner.[37]

b. Delivery of Cargo to Vessel. What is a sufficient delivery to the vessel depends in general on the facts in each case.[38] Delivery of cargo to a lighter in charge of a vessel for shipment on the vessel, where it is the custom to deliver in that way, is a good delivery and binds the vessel receiving the freight, the liability of the vessel commencing at the time of delivery to the lighter,[39] and the same rule applies to delivery at a wharf;[40] but such delivery on the dock must be accompanied with notice to the master in order to render him liable for failure to deliver the goods at their destination.[41] Where goods are delivered at the a contract, which binds the latter to furnish the cargo, or respond in damages, although it was in fact made in behalf of a third party intending to make a through shipment over both lines, where such fact was not disclosed. Baltimore Steam-Packet Co. v. Patterson, 106 Fed. 736, 45 C. C. A. 575, 66 L. R. A. 193.

33. Boyle v. Dickenson, 6 Mart. N. S. (La.) 100.

But not when it is made with the shipper's consent.— Thatcher v. McCulloh, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,862, Olcott 365.

34. The Eliza Lines, 114 Fed. 307, 52 C. C. A. 195.

35. The Eliza Lines, 114 Fed. 307, 52 C. C. A. 195.

36. Leonard v. Bosch, 72 N. J. Eq. 131, 64 Atl. 1001 [affirmed in (1908) 71 Atl. 1134].

37. Gray v. Moore, 37 Fed. 266.

38. See Fearn v. Richardson, 12 La. Ann. 752. And see cases cited infra, this section.

Giving goods to the mate of a vessel for transportation and taking his signed receipt therefor is a good delivery to, and binds, the vessel. Burdoin v. The Harriet Smith, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,147*a*.

Delivery from grain elevator.—Where wheat was weighed by the warehousemen in the elevator into cars drawn by horses to the edge of the dock, and discharged through a spout into the ship, the upper end tended by the warehousemen and the lower by the crew, although each car was tallied by an officer of the ship in the elevator, it was held that there was no delivery to the ship-master of any wheat which failed to pass over the rail of the ship. Glass v. Goldsmith, 22 Wis. 488.

39. Bulkley v. Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co., 24 How. (U. S.) 386, 16 L. ed. 599 [affirming 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,300, 1 Sprague 477] (holding that at a port where it was necessary for a vessel to lie outside the bar and have her cargo brought to her in lighters by lightermen employed by the master, delivery of cotton to the lighterman was a delivery to the master, and the transportation by the lighter to the vessel the commencement of the voyage, in execution of the contract by which the master had engaged to carry the cotton to Boston); Campbell v. The Sunlight, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,368, 2 Hughes 9; The Oregon, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,553, Deady 179 (holding that when an ocean steamer is making regular voyages to a port, and for any reason is unable to reach such port, and the agent of her owner charters a steamboat to take the passengers and freight down a river to such steamer and bring back her cargo, a delivery of goods under such circumstances to the steamboat for the purpose of being conveyed by such steamer is a delivery to the latter, and she is thenceforth bound for their safe carriage and timely delivery).

Where the lighter is employed by the shipper, and cargo is transferred from the lighter to the ship by slings and horses belonging to the ship, or the stevedores in the employ of the ship, the responsibility of the lightermen ceases, as a general rule, when the cargo is properly placed on the slings and hooked to the tackle; and the duty of the ship begins with the hoisting of it to the deck of the ship. The Cordillera, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,229*a*, 5 Blatchf. 518.

40. The Oregon, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,553, Deady 179, holding that where a vessel is discharging and taking on cargo at a wharf, a delivery of goods thereon by the direction of the master, for the purpose of carriage upon the same, is a delivery to such vessel, and her responsibility for their carriage and delivery commences from that time.

41. Packard v. Getman, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 757, 16 Am. Dec. 475.

vessel's dock for shipment, and it is thereafter found necessary to transport the goods to the steamer on a lighter, and they are damaged by the sinking of the lighter before reaching the steamer, the steamer is liable for the loss;[42] and similarly where there is a contract to carry goods from one port to another, and they cannot be loaded directly on the vessel, and lighters are sent by it to bring the goods to it, the lighters are for the time its substitutes, so that the bill of lading is applicable to the goods as soon as they are placed on the lighters.[43] Authority to accept delivery for, and to bind, the vessel, may be conferred by express grant; or the conduct and relations of the parties may establish such an apparent authority that the carrier will be estopped from denying its existence to a shipper who has been misled thereby;[44] but such apparent authority to accept delivery must be actually shown; delivery to an unauthorized person will not bind the boat.[45] Upon the issue whether the goods claimed to have been shipped in a foreign port, but which were not delivered by the carrier, were in fact received on board, the act of the ship's officers, whose customary duty it is to check off merchandise received aboard, is received as evidence of great importance.[46]

c. Performance and Breach — (i) GENERAL RULES. An owner is held strictly to his contract of affreightment.[47] An unusual difficulty in obtaining a master and crew to navigate a vessel will not excuse him from performing a contract of affreightment for the conveyance of goods;[48] nor is the owner excused by the freezing in of the vessel and the death of the master, but is entitled to a reasonable time to procure a new master and to await the relief of the vessel.[49] Similarly a strict performance is demanded of the shipper;[50] but where a person contracts to ship goods on a vessel on or before a certain day, and, before the day arrives, sees that the vessel cannot be ready in time, and gives notice that he will not make the shipment, he is not liable for breach of the contract, if it is shown that the vessel could not have been, and was not in fact ready to receive the goods on the day specified,[51] and, similarly, if a part of a ship's load is to be delivered on or about a given day, and the ship's arrival at port is delayed by an accident so that the shipper had to employ another vessel, he will be released from his obligation to comply with the contract of affreightment, unless he has voluntarily continued it, and has waived his right to a release by demanding compliance

42. The Pokanoket, 161 Fed. 383 [affirmed in 172 Fed. 321].

43. Ins. Co. of North America v. North German Lloyd Co., 106 Fed. 973 [affirmed in 110 Fed. 420, 49 C. C. A. 1].

44. The City of Alexandria, 28 Fed. 202.

45. Trowbridge v. Chapin, 23 Conn. 595; Suarez v. The George Washington, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,585, 1 Woods 96.

In contracts of affreightment which do not stipulate a time for delivery, the merchant or shipper is entitled to a reasonable time after the ship or other vessel is ready to receive on board the goods to make a delivery of the same. Williams v. Dolsen, 15 La. Ann. 94.

46. Kelley v. Cunard Steamship Co., 120 Fed. 536 [reversed on other grounds in 126 Fed. 610, 61 C. C. A. 532, and following Smith v. Bedouin Steam Nav. Co., [1896] A. C. 70, 65 L. J. P. C. 8].

47. The Eliza, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,348, 2 Ware 318.

A contract for shipment of cattle implies that there shall be sufficient ventilation, and where the vessel is bound to provide insurance, but fails to do so on cattle to be placed in one part of her, for want of additional ventilation, which she refuses to provide, the shipper is justified in refusing to fill that part, and the ship is liable for failure to transport the cattle thus shut out. Morris v. The Alvah, 59 Fed. 630.

48. The Eliza, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,348, 2 Ware 318.

49. The Flash, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,858, Abb. Adm. 119. And see West v. The Berlin, 3 Iowa 532.

50. Hassett v. McArdle, 7 Misc. (N. Y.) 710, 28 N. Y. Suppl. 48, holding that where defendant agrees to furnish cargo for plaintiff's boat, and to load it three days after it is in the dock, he is not excused from performance because plaintiff did not keep the boat at the dock for three days, in consequence of the dock-master ordering the boat to give place to other boats that were ready to load, as it would be presumed the contract was made with reference to the rock regulations.

Notices of a steamer's departure by advertisements, and the posting of hand-bills, is not sufficient to charge the shipper in damages for failing to deliver a cargo as agreed. Jones v. Smalley, 5 La. 28.

51. Russell v. Allerton, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 688.

therewith by the ship.[52] If a shipper contracts to furnish a certain number of cargoes of freight at a distant port, and the vessel pursues its voyage, but the shipper has no freight at the port designated, the master cannot recover for failure to furnish the freight merely by showing that no other freight was offered to him; it must appear that none was to be had at that port; but the master is not bound to go to another port in search of freight.[53]

(II) REMEDIES FOR BREACH AND DAMAGES. An action in rem will lie against the vessel for breach of the contract of affreightment;[54] but a libel in rem against a vessel will not lie to recover damages caused by the refusal to receive on board the vessel goods which its agents had agreed should be received and carried as freight; for, in order to subject a vessel through a process in rem, the goods must have been actually delivered and received on board.[55] Where ship-owners without legal justification refuse to perform the voyage, the damage to the owners of the goods is the difference in value between the goods at the port of shipment and the price they would have commanded at the port of destination, if the contract had been performed;[56] but where a vessel is to arrive at a port and receive

52. La Compagnie Commerciale de Transports a Vapeur Francais v. Gomila, 36 La. Ann. 280.

53. Bradley v. Denton, 3 Wis. 557.

54. Irvine v. The Hamburg, 3 Minn. 192 (holding that under Rev. St. c. 86, providing for the collection of demands against boats and vessels, an action may be maintained against a vessel for a failure to perform an agreement made without the state for the delivery of goods in the state); Bulkley v. Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co., 24 How. (U. S.) 386, 16 L. ed. 599; The Flash, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,857, Abb. Adm. 119; The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187.

In an action under Wis. Rev. St. c. 116, for non-performance of a contract to transport freight, the complaint must aver that the boat is used in navigating the waters of the state. It is not sufficient to allege merely that it is a boat "navigating the Mississippi river." The Galena v. Beals, 5 Wis. 91.

Unseaworthiness of vessel.—A shipper, after discovering that the vessel upon which the cargo was laden is unseaworthy, may maintain a libel in rem for the non-performance of the contract. The Director, 26 Fed. 708.

Interest of consignee to support suit.—Where, by a contract for the sale of goods to be delivered at a distant port, a part of the price is to be paid on delivery, and on shipment of the goods a bill of lading is issued, by the terms of which delivery is to be made to the consignor or order, and such bill is forwarded, with a draft for the price attached, which is not paid by the purchaser, and the goods therefore not delivered to him, he never becomes the owner of the consignment, so as to sustain any contract relation with the carrier which would support a suit in rem against the vessel for a breach of the contract of affreightment contained in the bill of lading. The Prussia, 100 Fed. 484.

55. Dewitt v. The St. Lawrence, 3 Ohio St. 325; The Montgomery v. Kent, 20 Ohio 54; Herbert v. The James Leakman, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,397*a* (holding that the contract of the master, duly authorized by the vessel owners to sell the cargo and transmit the proceeds to the shipper, as a part of the contract of shipment, for which service he is compensated in the freight received, is not a maritime contract, and not binding on the vessel, where the proceeds are not actually placed on board the vessel); Rynaud v. The Richard Cobden, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,191. And see 26 Cyc. 752 note 30. Compare The Flash, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,857, Abb. Adm. 67. See, generally, infra, VII, D, 12, e, (III).

Refusal to receive cargo from broker.—A ship is not liable for refusing to receive lumber on a contract of affreightment made by brokers in their own names, although in fact for a principal, when they refuse to ship it in their own names and to be responsible for the freight. The A. Cheesebrough, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 25, 3 Blackf. 305.

Under the Missouri statute relating to vessels (Rev. Code, 1845) a party might proceed against a boat in rem for the non-performance of a future contract for the transportation of freight, entered into by the captain of the boat. Taylor v. The Robert Campbell, 20 Mo. 254. But this is subject to the doctrine that a state statute cannot give a procedure in rem in a state court against a vessel for a maritime cause of action. See MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 769.

56. Harrison v. Stewart, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,145, Taney 485, holding, however, that profits that the shippers might have made by ulterior speculations, or by shipping them from the port of destination to other places and better markets, are too remote to be considered.

Measure of damages for refusal to take on board part of cargo or deliver cargo already loaded.—Where the master of a vessel had a contract for the transportation of a cargo, and performance was interrupted while the loading was going on by the death of the master and by the freezing up of the vessel, and the owner repudiated the contract, refusing to take on board the residue or deliver up that already loaded, the shipper could recover damages for value of the goods taken on board and withheld, and for the a cargo by a certain day specified, and she does not arrive until after the appointed time, the only damages that can be recovered on account of the delay, when the vessel is accepted and the cargo shipped, is such expense as may have been incurred for keeping the cargo during the period of delay and the additional insurance the shipper may have had to pay by reason of the increased risk caused thereby.[57] On the other hand, where an owner had a contract to transport a cargo at an agreed price to a designated point, and the shipper fails to deliver the cargo, the owner's measure of damages is the difference between the cost of transportation and the contract price;[58] and where goods are wrongfully taken from a vessel by the shipper before she has broken ground on the voyage, if the vessel is a general ship, and the goods removed form only part of her cargo, and the ship-owner, being bound by contracts with other shippers to perform the proposed voyage, does perform it, the measure of damages is the stipulated freight, less the substituted freight actually made, or which might have been made by reasonable diligence.[59] The measure in all cases where the shipper breaks the contract to furnish freight is the actual loss, and not the contract price, and the shipper may reduce the damages by showing that the owner received freight from others in lieu of that which the shipper failed to furnish, or by proving in any other way that the injury was less than the contract price;[60] and when the ship, after receiving goods for a particular port, changes her destination and refuses to deliver them up, she is liable at least for their full value.[61]

(III) LIEN OF SHIPPER. The shipper has a lien on the vessel for the execution of the contract which may be enforced by process in rem in admiralty,[62] and which attaches at the time of the delivery of such goods to her agents and owners;[63] but the owner of a cargo has no lien upon the vessel until the cargo or some portion has been laden on board or delivered to the master,[64] for it is a broad cost of transporting the residue from the storehouse to the dock, and for injuries received by them while they lay there awaiting the owner's acceptance, and for the difference between the contract price of transportation and any greater expense incurred in obtaining another mode of conveyance, but could not recover for injuries received by the property after notice of the owner's refusal to complete the contract. The Flash, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,858, Abb. Adm. 119.

57. The J. C. Stevenson, 17 Fed. 540, cargo of cattle.

58. Boland v. Northwestern Fuel Co., 34 Fed. 523, holding also that in an action for damages against a shipper for breach of a contract of affreightment in failing to furnish a cargo, evidence to show, in mitigation of damages, what plaintiff's boat "was said to have earned," but not showing freight actually earned, was not admissible.

Effect of embargo.—Where, after a vessel has taken on board a cargo to be carried, the embargo law prevents her from sailing, and the cargo remains on board upward of a year, when it is sold at the place of shipment, the owner of the vessel can recover nothing in the way of damages, on the theory that had it not been for her possession of this cargo she might have been employed in the coast trade. Kelly v. Johnson, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,672, 3 Wash. 45.

Burden of proving seaworthiness of vessel.—Every freight contract of a carrier by river implies that his boat is riverworthy at the time for its performance, and it is incumbent on him, in bringing an action for breaking such contract, to prove that at such time his boat was capable of performing it. McClintock v. Lary, 23 Ark. 215.

59. Bailey v. Damon, 3 Gray (Mass.) 92.

60. Shannon v. Comstock, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 457, 34 Am. Dec. 262.

61. Boyle v. Dickenson, 6 Mart. N. S. (La.) 100.

62. Turner v. Lewis, 2 Mich. 350 (holding, however, that in order that a lien may attach under the provisions of Mich. Rev. St. c. 122, in reference to proceedings for the collection of demands against ships, boats, and vessels, for the breach of a contract of affreightment, the contract must arise in the state and that the lien does not attach, where there is a breach of contract, which, although to be performed within the state, was made in another state); The Flash, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,857, Abb. Adm. 67; The Phebe, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,064, 1 Ware 265.

Lien of ship-owner for freight see infra, VII, E, 6.

Lien of shipper for loss of or injury to goods see infra, VII, D, 12, e, (III).

Maritime liens generally see MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 743.

Where there is no agreement or contract of affreightment between the parties, a vessel is not subject to a maritime lien as security for the performance of a contract to transport a cargo. The Keokuk, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 517, 19 L. ed. 744.

63. Pearce v. The Thomas Newton, 41 Fed. 106.

64. The City of Baton Rouge, 19 Fed. 461.

general rule that an unexecuted contract of affreightment gives no lien in admiralty on the vessel.[65]

2. Bills of Lading[66] — a. General Nature; Duty of Carrier to Execute. The bill of lading is in substance a written acknowledgment by the master or owner that he has received such goods as it describes for the voyage stated, to be carried on the terms stated, and delivered to the persons specified in the bill,[67] and is a document to which a shipper of goods on a vessel is entitled as a matter of right;[68] and the master is bound to give a bill of lading when goods are laden on board, even if the freight is not agreed on, or there is a dispute about it;[69] and the master has been held liable for conversion where after refusal to give a bill of lading he sails away with the cargo;[70] but where the quantity of a cargo is uncertain, the master is not bound to sign bills of lading stipulating freight on a fixed amount, but may tender the usual bill of lading, specifying the quantity of the cargo as "more or less";[71] and although when true bills of lading are presented the master cannot make any indorsement impairing their negotiability, he may, before signing, indorse a correction of any errors in bills of lading presented to him.[72] The bill of lading must be given to the person entitled to it, who is ordinarily the owner of the cargo;[73] and it does not represent goods or merchandise, when

65. Scott v. The Ira Chaffee, 2 Fed. 401, 2 Flipp. 650. And see Maritime Liens, 26 Cyc. 752 note 30.

66. "Bill of lading" defined see 5 Cyc. 707. General principles applicable to all bills of lading see Carriers, 6 Cyc. 316.

67. Wayland v. Mosely, 5 Ala. 430, 39 Am. Dec. 335; O'Brien v. Gilchrist, 34 Me. 554, 56 Am. Dec. 676; Dickerson v. Seelye, 12 Barb. (N. Y.) 99; Ward v. Whitney, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 399 [affirmed in 8 N. Y. 442]; Wolfe v. Myers, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 7; Babcock v. May, 4 Ohio 334; Knox v. The Ninetta, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,912, Crabbe 534.

Consideration for change in bill.— Receiving freight in advance is a sufficient consideration to render a change in the original bill of lading binding on the parties. Baker v. The Milwaukee, 14 Iowa 214.

Bills of lading are often drawn in sets of three, one retained by the master, the others delivered to the shipper. See Glyn v. East India, etc., Dock Co., 7 App. Cas. 591, 4 Aspin. 580, 52 L. J. Q. B. 146, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 309, 31 Wkly. Rep. 206 (commenting adversely upon the practice); Sanders v. Maclean, 11 Q. B. D. 327, 5 Aspin. 160, 52 L. J. Q. B. 481, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 462, 31 Wkly. Rep. 698.

Documents held not bills of lading see Babcock v. Orbison, 25 Ind. 75; Forwood v. The Caroline Miller, 53 Fed. 136 holding that a contract of carriage, signed by the agent of a steamship line and reciting that two hundred bales of cotton had been received "on dock," to be transported by the C, "or by any other steamship of the line," is not a bill of lading, but a contract to ship in future, either on the C or any other steamer of the line, and that on this option no lien on the ship could arise on such contract alone, and that fact being patent on the face of the document a transferee for value was chargeable with notice that the ship could be held only for such bales as were actually laden on board.

When the charterer of a vessel is the shipper of the cargo, a bill of lading given by the master operates merely as a receipt for the goods and a document of title, and never, as between the ship-owner and charterer, affects the terms of the charter-party. The Fri, 154 Fed. 333, 83 C. C. A. 205 [reversing 140 Fed. 123].

68. Watt v. Cargo of Lumber, 161 Fed. 104, 88 C. C. A. 268, holding, however, that where the master claims demurrage he has the right to give notice of the claim in, or by indorsement upon, such bill, so as to charge a transferee with such notice.

69. The May Flower, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,346, 3 Ware 300.

The fourth section of the Harter Act, Feb. 13, 1893, requires the issue of a bill of lading to shippers. See infra, VII, D, 13, b.

70. Falk v. Fletcher, 18 C. B. N. S. 403, 11 Jur. N. S. 176, 34 L. J. C. P. 146, 13 Wkly. Rep. 346, 114 E. C. L. 403. But see Jones v. Hough, 5 Ex. D. 115, 4 Aspin. 248, 49 L. J. Exch. 211, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 108, where wrongful refusal to give a bill of lading under circumstances which showed no intention to deprive the shipper of his property was held not to constitute conversion, but to give a right to damages if any shown. Compare Rayner v. Rederiaktiebolaget Condor, [1895] 2 Q. B. 289, 8 Aspin. 43, 64 L. J. Q. B. 540, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 15 Reports 542.

71. The Alonzo, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 257, 1 Hask. 184; The May Flower, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,346, 3 Ware 300. And see McKay v. Ennis, 37 Fed. 229, holding that a master who is in doubt as to the weight of cargo received, and who consequently inserts in the bill of lading, "vessel not responsible for difference in weight," is not chargeable with misconduct in signing such bill of lading, although it eventually appears that it calls for more cargo than was actually on board.

72. Lightburne v. The Tongoy, 55 Fed. 329, holding that shippers do not prejudice their right to redress by accepting under protest bills of lading wrongfuly indorsed by the master.

73. Hathesing v. Laing, L. R. 17 Eq. 92, 2

shipped on board a vessel, unless it has been delivered to the true owner of the merchandise.[74] A printed paper, pasted on the back of a bill of lading, prescribing the number of lay days and the rate of demurrage to be paid by the "cargo, consignee, or assignee," after their expiration, of which the consignee received a duplicate, with a similar printed paper pasted on it, thereafter receiving the cargo without objection, is part of the bill of lading.[75]

b. Who May Execute. A bill of lading may in general be executed by the owner,[76] or by any one duly authorized by the owner.[77] Thus, although it has been held that the captain of a vessel cannot bind the owner, by signing bills of lading, unless he is clothed with express authority for that purpose, or authority implied by the usual course of employment or a subsequent assent,[78] masters are commonly held to be authorized to execute bills of lading, binding on the owner and the vessel;[79] and a bill of lading, signed by the master of a vessel in Aspin. 170, 43 L. J. Ch. 233, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 734.

Possession of the mate's receipt is evidence that the possessor claiming the bill of lading is either the shipper or acting under the shipper's authority, and non-possession is evidence to the contrary. See Ruck v. Hatfield, 5 B. & Ald. 632, 24 Rev. Rep. 507, 7 E. C. L. 345; Schuster v. McKellar, 7 E. & B. 704, 3 Jur. N. S. 1320, 26 L. J. Q. B. 281, 5 Wkly. Rep. 656, 90 E. C. L. 704; Craven v. Ryder, Holt N. P. 100, 3 E. C. L. 48, 2 Marsh. 127, 6 Taunt. 433, 1 E. C. L. 690, 16 Rev. Rep. 644. But the mere possession alone of the mate's receipt does not give the holder the right to claim the bill, and if the bill is given to the one in fact entitled to control of the goods, the owner is discharged, although the mate's receipt be in the possession of another. Hathesing v. Laing, L. R. 17 Eq. 92, 2 Aspin. 170, 43 L. J. Ch. 233, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 734; Cowas-jee v. Thompson, 3 Moore Indian App. 422, 18 Eng. Reprint 560, 5 Moore P. C. 165, 13 Eng. Reprint 454.

74. Blossom v. Champion, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 554.

75. Falkenburg v. Clark, 11 R. I. 278.

Introduction of novel clause.— If the owner wishes to introduce in his bill of lading so novel a clause as one exempting him from general average contribution, he must not only make it clear in words but also conspicuous by inserting it in such type and in such part of the document that a person of ordinary capacity and care could not fail to see it. Crocks v. Allan, 5 Q. B. D. 38, 4 Aspin. 216, 49 L. J. Q. B. 201, 41 L. T. Rep. N. S. 800.

76. Dows v. Greene, 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 490, 16 Barb. 72 [affirmed in 24 N. Y. 638].

When the owner signs, the signature of the master is unnecessary. Dows v. Greene, 32 Barb. (N. Y.) 490, 16 Barb. 72 [affirmed in 24 N. Y. 638]. But see The Princess, 7 Aspin. 432, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 388, 6 Reports 723, holding that where a charter-party requires that the master shall sign, it is not sufficient for the owner to sign or to be willing to sign.

77. Kirkman v. Bowman, 8 Rob. (La.) 246, holding that the second clerk of a steamer may execute a bill of lading in the ordinary way.

Conversely a bill of lading issued by an unauthorized person is invalid. Crenshawe v. Pearce, 37 Fed. 432.

78. Nichols v. De Wolf, 1 R. I. 277, holding also that proof of a practice of the captain of a vessel to sign bills of lading for articles delivered at one port is no proof of authority to sign bills for a different port.

79. Moseley v. Lord, 2 Conn. 389; Babcock v. Orbison, 25 Ind. 75; Slark v. Broom, 7 La. Ann. 337 (holding that in ordinary cases a captain, signing a bill of lading in the usual form, signs as agent of the owners; and the contract, being within scope of his authority, binds them); Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558 (holding that where a vessel had been employed in carrying from one state to a port outside of that state, and had been accustomed to take return cargoes, for which the master executed contracts of affreightment, and this practice was known to the owner, the vessel, as to these return cargoes, was a general freighting vessel, and the master might bind the owners for the carriage of goods by signing a bill of lading).

The fact that the master does not place the word "master" after his signature does not affect the validity of the bill. Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

Limitations of master's authority.— The master cannot be required to state in his bill of lading the precise chemical character of the cargo, having no authority to do so (The Kate V. Aitkin, 39 Fed. 328), nor has he authority to estimate and determine and state in the bill of lading the particular mercantile quality of the goods before they are put aboard (The Kate V. Aitkin, supra [citing Cox v. Bruce, 18 Q. B. D. 147, 6 Aspin. 152, 56 L. J. Q. B. 121, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 6 Wkly. Rep. 207, and in turn quoted and followed in St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Knight, 122 U. S. 79, 7 S. Ct. 1132, 30 L. ed. 1077]); but the shipper may require the master to state on the bill the condition of the cargo ascertainable by the senses (The Kate V. Aitkin, supra, as whether it was wet or dry, or wet or damp, or wet to the eye or touch. And see Cox v. Bruce, 18 Q. B. D. 147, 6 Aspin. 152, 56 L. J. Q. B. 121, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 6 Wkly. Rep. 207).

his own name in the usual course of employment, will bind the owner,[80] although the vessel at the time is under a charter under which there is no provision for the signing of such bills by him.[81] But he has no implied authority to sign a blank bill of lading, and one so signed is not binding on the owner;[82] and under no circumstances can a master of a vessel charge the vessel or her owner by signing a bill of lading for goods which are not on board,[83] and the owner is not estopped by the signature of the master to the bill to show that the goods were never actually on board;[84] but bills of lading signed by the master before the goods are on board operate on the goods as received, as against the shipper and master, by way of relation and estoppel;[85] and thus if in anticipation of the delivery of goods to the vessel the master signs a bill of lading and goods are subsequently delivered as and for the goods intended to be embraced in it, if there be no intervening title to the goods between the issuing of the bill of lading and the delivery on board, the bill of lading will cover the goods.[86] A bill signed by the agent of the consignor is not ordinarily a good bill of lading;[87] and a bill of lading signed only by the brokers who procured the cargo is of no effect as against a prior regular bill of lading signed by the master and owner of the boat.[88]

c. Construction, Operation, and Effect — (i) General Rules. The contract between a ship and the shipper is that which is contained in the bills of lading delivered to the shipper;[89] and a bill of lading, when signed by the carrier,

Rate of freight.— A master has no authority to sign bills of lading for a lower rate of freight than that for which the owner has contracted. Pickernell v. Jauberry, 3 F. & F. 217.

Where a captain signs bills for a cargo his power is exhausted and he cannot charge the owner by giving a second set of bills of lading for the same goods. Hubbersty v. Ward, 8 Exch. 330, 22 L. J. Exch. 113.

80. McTyer v. Steele, 26 Ala. 487.

81. The Mary Bradford, 18 Fed. 189, 23 Fed. 733.

82. The Joseph Grant, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,538, 1 Biss. 193.

83. Fellows v. Powell, 16 La. Ann. 316, 79 Am. Dec. 581; American Sugar Refining Co. v. Maddock, 93 Fed. 980, 36 C. C. A. 42 (holding that the rule that the master of a vessel has no authority by virtue of his position, either actual or apparent, to sign a bill of lading for cargo not actually received on board, applies when there is only a deficiency in part through mistake, and the owner cannot be held liable, either by the original consignee or an indorsee of the bill of lading, for such a shortage, where the quantity actually received is delivered); The Loon, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,499, 7 Blatchf. 244; Montell v. The Wm. H. Rutan, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,724; Smith v. Bedouin, [1896] A. C. 70, 65 L. J. P. C. 8; McLean v. Fleming, L. R. 2 H. L. Sc. 128, 1 Aspin. 160, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 317; Brown v. Powell Coal Co., L. R. 10 C. P. 562, 44 L. J. C. P. 289, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 621, 23 Wkly. Rep. 549; Grant v. Mowry, 10 C. B. 665, 15 Jur. 296, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 70 E. C. L. 665 [followed in Cox v. Bruce, 18 Q. B. D. 147, 6 Aspin. 152, 56 L. J. Q. B. 121, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 6 Wkly. Rep. 207]; Hubbersty v. Ward, 8 Exch. 330, 22 L. J. Exch. 113. And see The Freeman v. Buckingham, 18 How. (U. S.) 182, 15 L. ed. 341, holding that where the general owner of a vessel allowed another to have the control and management thereof for a certain time, and the latter induced the master whom he has appointed to sign bills of lading for property which was not actually put on board, no lien was created by such bills.

A master has no power to bind the owners or the ship by a false bill of lading, whether the falsity is in relation to the amount of goods shipped or the date of the shipment, and this rule is not changed by the provisions of the Harter Act, 27 U. S. St. at L. 445, c. 105 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2946], which subjects a person guilty of a violation of its provisions respecting bills of lading to a fine, which is made a lien on the vessel, but does not make the vessel liable for the damages occasioned thereby. The Isola di Procida, 124 Fed. 942.

84. Brown v. Powell Coal Co., L. R. 10 C. P. 562, 2 Aspin. 578, 44 L. J. C. P. 289, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 621, 23 Wkly. Rep. 549.

85. The L. J. Farwell, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,426, 8 Biss. 61.

86. The Idaho, 93 U. S. 575, 23 L. ed. 978; The J. K. Shaw, 32 Fed. 491.

87. Covill v. Hill, 4 Den. (N. Y.) 323 [reversed on other grounds in 1 N. Y. 522]. And see Wolfe v. Myers, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 7.

88. Vandover v. Wilmot, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,848, 10 Ben. 223.

89. The Thames v. Seaman, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 98, 20 L. ed. 804 (holding that the bill retained by the ship or "ship's bill," as it is sometimes called, is designed only for its own information and convenience, not for evidence as between the parties of what their agreement was, and if it differs from a bill of lading the latter controls); The Eva D. Rose, 151 Fed. 704, 153 Fed. 912 (holding that in the absence of a charter-party, the bills of lading delivered to the shipper are taken as the best evidence of the contract of carriage); The Sidonian, 35 Fed. 534, 34 Fed. 805 (hold-and delivered to and accepted by the shipper without objection, in the absence of fraud, constitutes the contract of carriage, and binds the shipper, although not signed by him.[90] Bills of lading, like other commercial instruments, when indefinite in their terms, are to be construed reasonably according to the presumed intention, to be gathered from the situation of the parties and their relations to the ship and to each other;[91] and in construing and giving effect to the provisions, ing that where the shipper of a cargo took a bill of lading containing a permission to the vessel to call at any port or ports, and one port, at which the ship was accustomed to call, was known to all parties to be quarantined, although evidence was given that the agent of the ship let the shipper understand that the vessel would not call at the quarantined port, the shipper having thereafter accepted the bill of lading without objection, the bill of lading governed and the shipper could not recover for damages to the cargo occasioned by the vessel being delayed at the quarantined port).

Where two bills of lading are executed, one of which is delivered to the master and the voyage performed thereunder, and the second not seen by him till the end of the voyage, the former is the contract binding on the parties. Costello v. 734,700 Laths, 44 Fed. 105.

Bills of lading construed with charter-party.— Acceptance of a bill of lading containing the words "freights and all other conditions as per charter party," brings into the contract, not only all conditions of the charter-party which relate to the payment of freight strictly so called, but all that are referable to the subject-matter of the receipt, the carriage, and the discharge of the cargo. O'Connell v. One Thousand and Two Bales of Sisal Hemp, 75 Fed. 408, holding, however, that the shipper, who, supposing the vessel to be under charter, but being ignorant of the terms of the charter-party, refused to accept the bills in this form, and in the presence of the master, and with his acquiescence, struck out the words, notwithstanding a subsequent protest by the master, the contract of carriage was controlled by the bills of lading alone, independently of the terms of the charter-party.

90. Montague v. The Henry B. Hyde, 82 Fed. 681.

Stipulations stamped on the face of a bill of lading before its delivery to the shipper, and by express terms included therein, become a part of the contract (Montague v. The Henry B. Hyde, 82 Fed. 681); and where a regular shipper delivers goods to a vessel before sailing and receives a shipping receipt, stating that the goods are subject to the conditions expressed in the company's form of bill of lading, but does not receive the bill of lading until after the vessel sails, he must be deemed to have full knowledge of the conditions indorsed on the back of the bill of lading and referred to in the body of it, and to have acquiesced in and agreed to those conditions so far as they were lawfully inserted and legally valid (Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 64 Fed. 874 [affirmed in 69 Fed. 574, 16 C. C. A. 332 (reversed on other grounds in 170 U. S. 272, 18 S. Ct. 588, 42 L. ed. 1033)].

Change of contract by delivery of subsequent bill of lading.— Where goods were delivered to and laden upon a vessel for shipment, and a receipt given therefor, under a written contract for their carriage between the shipper and carrier, the terms of such contract cannot be changed, and new conditions and limitations favorable to the carrier added, by a bill of lading subsequently delivered by it to the shipper, and accepted by him without reading, unless it is shown that his attention was called to such changes, so that he may be presumed to have assented thereto (The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167); and where a bill of lading does not conform to the original contract of shipment, it must yield, in the absence of proof that the parties intended thereby to create a new agreement (The Citta di Palermo, 153 Fed. 378 [affirmed in 165 Fed. 437, 91 C. C. A. 592], holding that where a bill of lading presented by the carrier to the shipper for signature, after the shipment has been made, does not conform to the original contract, but includes cargo not taken by the vessel as agreed, it is a proper course for the shipper to sign the same under protest, and such protest will preserve its rights).

A shipping bill, executed by an owner of merchandise and of the canal-boat on which the same was placed for carriage, stating that it was to be delivered according to the marginal address, has the legal force and effect of a regular bill of lading. Dows v. Greene, 24 N. Y. 638.

91. Gronstadt v. Witthoff, 15 Fed. 265, holding that they should not be construed unnecessarily so as to make different consignees responsible for each other's faults, nor for delays of the vessel if they have no control of her movements or in selecting a dock.

Particular clauses in bills of lading construed.— A clause giving the ship liberty "to tow and assist vessels in all situations," authorizes her to go to the assistance of a vessel in distress and tow her to such place of safety, as, under the circumstances, is most reasonably accessible. Morris Beef Co. v. The Wells City, 61 Fed. 857, 10 C. C. A. 123 [affirming 57 Fed. 317]; Stuart v. British, etc., Nav. Co., 2 Aspin. 497, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 257. A provision in a bill of lading for a cargo of coal to be delivered at Portland, Me., which required the consignee "to tow vessel in and out of Back Bay free," is not a contract to pay for the towage merely, but to provide the same. Thompson v. Winslow, 130 Fed. 1001 [affirmed in 134 Fed. 546, 67 C. C. A. 470]. The clause, "the freight pay-the conditions and circumstances which the evidence proves were known to the parties and contemplated by them in making it are to be taken into consideration.[92] It is the intention of the parties as expressed in the contract which must be regarded, and no exception of a private nature not contained in the contract itself or arising therefrom by implication of law can be engrafted upon it,[93] nor can parol evidence be admitted to vary the bill in so far as it is a contract;[94] but it may explain any ambiguity in them,[95] and furthermore as a receipt a bill of lading is subject to explanation.[96] If nothing is expressed to the contrary in the bill of lading, established usages relating to a voyage are impliedly made part of the contract,[97] and may be shown by parol evidence,[98] but not usages or customs inconsistent with the written contract.[99] Where a loss has occurred to a cargo able after receipt of the whole in good order," contained in a bill of lading, has reference to the place of delivery and receipt, while the words "in good order" relate to the external appearance of the things received. Gauche v. Storer, 14 La. Ann. 411.

92. Pacific Coast Co. v. Yukon Independent Transp. Co., 155 Fed. 29, 33 C. C. A. 625.

93. Byrne v. Weeks, 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 657 (holding that in an action for freight money by the owner of a vessel against the assignee of a bill of lading, which the owner had signed, he is estopped from setting up a state of facts different from that set forth in the bill of lading, and in reliance on which the assignee has paid for the property described therein); Spence v. Chodwick, 10 Q. B. 517, 11 Jur. 872, 16 L. J. Q. B. 313, 59 E. C. L. 517; Atkinson v. Ritchie, 10 East 533, 10 Rev. Rep. 372, 103 Eng. Reprint 877.

94. The Wellington, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,384, 1 Biss. 279 (holding that inasmuch as a "clear" bill of lading, that is to say, a bill of lading which is silent as to the place of stowage, imports a contract that the goods are to be stored under deck, parol evidence of an agreement that they were to be stored on deck is inadmissible); Leduc v. Ward, 20 Q. B. D. 475, 6 Aspin. 290, 57 L. J. Q. B. 379, 58 L. T. Rep. N. S. 908, 36 Wkly. Rep. 537. But see Two Hundred and Sixty Hogsheads of Molasses, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,296, 1 Hask. 24 [following Vernard v. Hudson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,921, 3 Sumn. 405], holding that, although a bill of lading silent as to the place of stowage of cargo carries with it a presumption that the cargo is to be stowed under deck, such silence is not an express contract upon that point, but the owner may prove an agreement to carry on deck.

Thus parol evidence is not admissible to prove representations made by the consignor of goods as to the depth of water at the place of landing named in the bill of lading (Shaw v. Gardner, 12 Gray (Mass.) 488); nor to show a different destination and consignee (Wolfe v. Myers, 3 Sandf. (N. Y.) 7); nor an agreement that the vessel might deviate (May v. Babcock, 4 Ohio 334); nor an agreement to go by a special route (White v. Van Kirk, 25 Barb. (N. Y.) 16).

95. Butler v. The Arrow, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,237, 6 McLean 470, 1 Newb. Adm. 59; Bradley v. Dunipace, 1 H. & C. 521, 32 L. J. Exch. 22.

Construction of bill of lading as affected by prior parol contract.—A parol contract for the shipment of goods pursuant to which they were laden on board may be shown to affect the construction of bills of lading signed and delivered after the goods were loaded and when the vessel was about to sail, and, in order that provisions of such bills shall override the prior agreement, the burden rests on the carrier to show that they were called to the attention of the shipper and assented to by him. Pacific Coast Co. v. Yukon Independent Transp. Co., 155 Fed. 29, 83 C. C. A. 625.

96. The Wellington, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,384, 1 Biss. 279.

Twofold nature of bill of lading as contract or receipt see CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 420.

97. Hostetter v. Gray, 11 Fed. 179 [affirmed in 137 U. S. 30, 11 S. Ct. 1, 34 L. ed. 568].

Particular clauses of a bill of lading should be construed with references to its general purposes, as indicated by its various clauses, taken together, as well as the surrounding circumstances, and the usages and customs of business. Marx v. Nat. Steamship Co., 22 Fed. 680.

98. McClure v. Cox, 32 Ala. 617, 70 Am. Dec. 552 (holding that the words "on the steamer," in the bill of lading, may be explained by parol proof of a general usage by which steamboats have barges in tow, at certain stages of water, and lade their goods on the barges); Lowry v. Russell, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 360 (holding that where a bill of lading shows goods are to be carried from one port to another, the presumption that a direct voyage was intended may be controlled by evidence of a usage to stop at intermediate ports, or by evidence of personal knowledge on the part of the shipper that course is to be pursued); Falkner v. Earle, 3 B. & S. 360, 9 Jur. N. S. 847, 32 L. J. Q. B. 124, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 672, 11 Wkly. Rep. 307, 113 E. C. L. 360; Russian Steam-Nav. Trading Co. v. Silva, 13 C. B. N. S. 610, 106 E. C. L. 610; Brown v. Byrne, 2 C. L. R. 1599, 3 E. & B. 703, 18 Jur. 700, 23 L. J. Q. B. 313, 2 Wkly. Rep. 471, 77 E. C. L. 703. See Aste v. Stumore, Cab. & E. 319; Hall v. Janson, 3 C. L. R. 737, 4 E. & B. 500, 1 Jur. N. S. 571, 24 L. J. Q. B. 97, 3 Wkly. Rep. 213, 82 E. C. L. 500.

99. Cox v. Peterson, 30 Ala. 608, 68 Am. Dec. 145; Simmons v. Law, 8 Bosw. (N. Y.) 213 [affirmed in 4 Abb. Dec. 241, 3 Keyes before the signing of the bill of lading by the master, it is inoperative as to the liability of the vessel, the rights of the parties having been previously fixed at the time the damage occurred;[1] but where a bill of lading is signed by the master after the damage to the cargo, and the owner repudiates its validity for that reason, the latter cannot deny the liability of the vessel upon the ground that the contract under which the goods were received by the vessel was merged in such bill of lading, the validity of which he denies.[2] A recital in the bill of lading that goods are received in good condition puts upon the carrier the burden of proving loss by excepted perils in case the goods when delivered are in a damaged condition;[3] but the legal presumption which, as between the shipper and master, arises from the bill of lading that the goods were in good condition, cannot affect third persons.[4] Where through bills of lading for railroad and steamship transportation are signed by an agent of the connecting lines as agent severally, but not jointly, a provision in the land-transportation clause giving the carrier full benefit of any insurance effected on the goods does not apply to the ocean carriage.[5]

(11) Effect of Recitals as to Quantity and Weight. Bills of lading signed by the master are prima facie evidence that the quantities named therein were received on board by him, and the onus of rebutting this presumption and showing that a less quantity than that specified was received lies on the owner;[6] but upon the ground that, as to matters relating to the quantity of goods shipped, a bill of lading operates merely as a receipt,[7] and upon the further ground that a bill of lading cannot be given by an agent of the owner for goods not actually received,[8] it is held that an ordinary bill of lading is not conclusive as between the original parties as to the quantity of goods shipped, and is open to explanation like other receipts,[9] and there can be no recovery for goods indicated in the bill

217]; The Reeside, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,657, 2 Sumn. 567.

1. The Edwin, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,300, 1 Sprague 477.

2. The Edwin, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,300, 1 Sprague 477.

3. Nelson v. Woodruff, 1 Black (U. S.) 156, 17 L. ed. 97; Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. (U. S.) 527, 16 L. ed. 177; The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)]; The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174 (holding that the scent of camphor in teas so strong as to be readily perceived in handling the packages is an external mark of their condition; and the recital in the bill of lading that such teas were "received in good order" is therefore prima facie evidence that they were not so scented when shipped aboard). And see infra, VII, D, 12, d, (1).

4. Brousseau v. The Hudson, 11 La. Ann. 427; Compania v. Naviera Vascowzada Churchill, [1906] 1 K. B. 237, 10 Aspin. 177, 11 Com. Cas. 49, 75 L. J. K. B. 94, 94 L. T. Rep. N. S. 59, 22 T. L. R. 85, 54 Wkly. Rep. 406.

5. The Montana, 22 Fed. 715, 22 Blatchf. 372 [affirmed in 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788].

6. Smith v. Bedouin Steam Nav. Co., [1896] A. C. 70, 65 L. J. P. C. 8 (holding that when the master signs a bill acknowledging the receipt of a specific quantity of goods, the ship-owner is bound to deliver the full amount specified, unless he can show that the whole, or some part of it, was in fact not shipped); McLean v. Fleming, L. R. 2 H. L. Sc. 128, 1 Aspin. 160, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 317. And see infra, VII, D, 12, d, (1).

7. Myer v. Peck, 28 N. Y. 590; Sawyer v. Cleveland Iron Min. Co., 69 Fed. 211, 16 C. C. A. 191; Bates v. Todd, 1 M. & Rob. 106.

8. Kirkman v. Bowman, 8 Rob. (La.) 246. And see supra, VII, B, 2, b.

The master of a vessel has no power to bind it by an agreement in a bill of lading that the same shall be conclusive as between the shippers and carrier as to the quantity of cargo to be delivered to the consignees. Law v. Botsford, 26 Fed. 651.

9. Kirkman v. Bowman, 8 Rob. (La.) 246; Meyer v. Peck, 28 N. Y. 590; The J. W. Brown, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,590, 1 Biss. 76 (holding that the fact that shippers gave an order to the warehouseman for a cargo, and then settled with him on the faith of the bill of lading, which for some cause was erroneous, does not take the case out of the general rule); Manchester v. Milne, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,006, Abb. Adm. 115 (holding that a variance between the amount of a cargo as stated in the bill of lading and the amount of such cargo as ascertained at the port of consignment may be explained by showing that the mode of ascertaining the quantity is such that similar variations are necessarily of frequent occurrence); Brown v. Powell Coal Co., L. R. 10 C. P. 562, 2 Aspin. 578, 44 L. J. C. P. 289, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 621, 23 Wkly. Rep. 549; Bates v. Todd, 1 M. & Rob. 106.

The receipt of a lighterman, given upon the count or weighing of the officers of the vessel, is not conclusive as to the delivery of all of lading but not actually laden on board;[10] and where the cargo as received is all delivered by the carrier at the port of destination, the weight officially ascertained at that place is the conclusive measure of the carrier's accountability, and the fact that the bill of lading calls for a greater tonnage is immaterial.[11] A fortiori a bill of lading which states that the vessel is not responsible for the number of pieces, or the weight, removes the ship's presumptive liability for the weight stated therein, and leaves her liable only for what is actually put on board;[12] and she cannot be held liable for shortage, without further proof than the statements of the bill as to the actual amount delivered by the shipper;[13] and similarly when the bill of lading states "weights unknown," in the absence of proof of the weight shipped on a vessel, other than the recitals of the bill of lading, the vessel cannot be held for shortage;[14] and a bill of lading stating that goods were shipped in good order and condition, but also containing an indorsement by the master, "quantity and quality unknown," does not admit as against the owners that the goods were shipped in good order and condition.[15] But a carrier may agree that he will be bound by the quantity specified or that the bill shall furnish the only evidence of the quantity, and in that case will be liable.[16]

the cargo shipped. Perry v. Barney, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,013.

10. Clark v. Clyde Steamship Co., 148 Fed. 243 (holding that a steamship carrier cannot be held liable for non-delivery of goods not actually received for shipment, although it issued bills of lading therefor upon receipts purporting to have been signed by its shipping clerks at the wharf, but which were in fact forged); The Asphodel, 53 Fed. 835 (holding that a ship does not guaranty that the amount of cargo recited in her bills of lading as received on board, and based on her tally, has been actually so shipped and received, and is not absolutely liable if the delivery is short of the amount in the bills of lading; nor can the vendor and vendee of such goods, by any private arrangement, make the ship an insurer of the correctness of her tally, as against fraud or mistake, for their benefit, and as a fulfilment of the vendor' contract, when not fulfilled in fact; and where there is proof of fraud or mistake the ship and owners cannot be held accountable to the consignee beyond the number actually received on board); Hopkins v. Wood, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,693 (holding that the shippers of a cargo are to be considered as agents of the consignees for the purpose of guaranteeing the amount and quantity of such cargo to the master of a vessel at the point of departure); Thorman v. Burt, Cab. & E. 596, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 349, 5 Aspin. 563. But see Creighton v. The George's Creek, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,382, holding that a vessel giving a clean bill of lading for a specified number of bushels of corn is liable for any deficiency, although she proves that she delivered all she received.

The rule applies notwithstanding a custom to deduct from the freight earned the value of any deficiency between the quantity delivered and that stated in the bill of lading Law v. Botsford, 26 Fed. 651.

The owner's liability is not increased by the Bill of Lading Act, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 111, making bills of lading conclusive evidence of the shipment, unless he has himself signed the bill. The owners of a ship are not estopped from showing that a statement of freight contained in a bill signed by the ship's agent is incorrect (Jessel v. Bath, L. R. 2 Exch. 267, 36 L. J. Exch. 149, 15 Wkly. Rep. 1041), and notwithstanding the act the master can show that the cargo actually received by him differs from that signed for in the bill of lading, when the weight mentioned in the bill is mere matter of measurement (Blanchet v. Powell, L. R. 9 Exch. 74, 2 Aspin. 224, 43 L. J. Exch. 50, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 28, 22 Wkly. Rep. 490). But the statute operates where a bill of lading is signed by the master who is part-owner and who sues on behalf of himself and his coöwner. Meyer v. Dresser, 16 C. B. N. S. 646, 33 L. J. C. P. 289, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 612, 12 Wkly. Rep. 983, 111 E. C. L. 646.

But where a master, who is also owner of a vessel, gives a shipper a bill of lading, reciting receipt of a certain amount of cargo, and agreeing to deliver it to the consignees, he is liable for damages to the consignees, who, relying on the correctness of the recital, pay the shipper for more cargo than was actually on board. Relyea v. New Haven Rolling-Mill Co., 75 Fed. 420, 42 Conn. 579.

11. Cafiero v. Welsh, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,286, 8 Phila. (Pa.) 130.

12. Eaton v. Neumark, 33 Fed. 891.

13. Abbott v. National Steamship Co., 33 Fed. 895, holding that where the evidence shows that respondent's steamship delivered all the bars of iron loaded upon her, and on which a shortage is claimed by reason of the statement in the bill of lading of the number shipped, respondent is not liable.

14. The Timor, 61 Fed. 631; The Pietro, 38 Fed. 148. But see Lebeau v. General Steam Nav. Co., L. R. 8 C. P. 88, 1 Aspin. 435, 42 L. J. C. P. 1, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 447, 21 Wkly. Rep. 146.

15. The Prosperpino Palasso, 2 Aspin. 158, 29 L. T. Rep. P. S. 622; The Ida, 2 Aspin. 551, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 541.

16. Sawyer v. Cleveland Iron Min. Co., 69 Fed. 211, 16 C. C. A. 191.

d. Negotiability and Transfer. Bills of lading are assignable and quasi-negotiable, passing title to the property.[17] The assignment and delivery of a bill of lading and invoice of goods in transitu for a valuable consideration conveys the legal title, and the goods cannot be attached,[18] or replevied,[19] as the property of the assignor, and the indorsee of a bill of lading may libel the vessel on which the goods are shipped for failure to deliver them, although he may be but an agent or trustee of the goods for others.[20] But a bill of lading is negotiable only in a qualified sense, transferring title but not shutting out any defenses as between the carrier and the original holder,[21] and as the master cannot bind the vessel's owner in receipting for goods not actually in his custody,[22] this defense can be set up against a bona fide holder of the bill of lading,[23] and against one who in reliance on the bill of lading had loaned money on the cargo;[24] but the title of a person who makes a bona fide advance on a bill of lading of goods subsequently delivered alongside the vessel is not affected by the removal of the goods by the owner from the custody of the vessel, and shipping it in another vessel under a new bill of lading.[25] The general owner of a vessel is not estopped to deny the validity of bills of lading fraudulently signed by the master of a vessel, 17. Conard v. Atlantic Ins. Co., 1 Pet. (U. S.) 386, 7 L. ed. 189 (holding that a consignee is the authorized agent of the owner to receive the goods, and his indorsement of the bill of lading to a bona fide purchaser for a valuable consideration passes the property); Munroe v. Philadelphia Warehouse Co., 75 Fed. 545; The Mary Ann Guest, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,196, 1 Blatchf. 358 [affirming 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,197, Olcott 498]. See Dawes v. Cope, 4 Binn. (Pa.) 258 (holding that the delivery of the bill of lading and policy of insurance is a sufficient assignment of goods shipped to a foreign port, provided the assignee follows up his claim with due diligence); The Mary Bradford, 18 Fed. 189, 23 Fed. 733. But see The J. K. Shaw, 32 Fed. 491, holding the rule to be otherwise where the bill was signed in blank by the master, filled by the intended shipper, and money loaned on it.

An indorsement by the master on a bill of lading, "Signed under protest," prevents assignees of the bill from claiming as bona fide holders, as such words put the holders on inquiry, and they are chargeable with notice that the bill of lading does not contain the contract under which the goods were shipped. Nine Hundred and Seventy-Nine Boxes of Sugar, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,271, 7 Ben. 242.

Bills of lading issued at different times for goods not then delivered become concurrently operative as the goods are placed on board, and, in the absence of appropriation by the shipper, where only a part is shipped, bona fide holders are entitled to the pro rata quantity called for by their bills. The L. J. Farwell, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,426, 8 Biss. 61.

Assignment made after sailing of vessel.—Where it was agreed, before the sailing of a vessel, that the bill of lading of the cargo should be assigned as security for a debt; but the assignment was not made till after she sailed, although, by being antedated, it appeared to have been made before, and no possession of the property was taken, the assignment was good between the parties and others having notice. Peters v. Ballister, 3 Pick. (Mass.) 495.

It is not necessary that a bill of lading should have been actually indorsed or delivered to the buyer to make him assignee of the same. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Barnard, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,086, 3 Ben. 391.

18. Balderston v. Manro, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 793, 2 Cranch C. C. 623.

19. The Mary Ann Guest, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,196, 1 Blatchf. 358 [affirming 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,197, Olcott 498].

20. The Thames, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 98, 20 L. ed. 804.

21. The Treasurer, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,159, 1 Sprague 473.

22. See supra, VII, B, 2, b.

23. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. McFadden, 154 U. S. 155, 14 S. Ct. 990, 38 L. ed. 944; Bulkley v. Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co., 24 How. (U. S.) 386, 16 L. ed. 599; American Sugar Refining Co. v. Maddock, 93 Fed. 980, 36 C. C. A. 42; Brown v. Powell Coal Co., L. R. 10 C. P. 562, 2 Aspin. 578, 44 L. J. C. P. 289, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 621, 23 Wkly. Rep. 549; Jessel v. Bath, L. R. 2 Exch. 267, 36 L. J. Exch. 149, 15 Wkly. Rep. 1041; Grant v. Norway, 10 C. B. 665, 20 L. J. C. P. 93, 15 Jur. 296, 70 E. C. L. 665 [followed in Cox v. Bruce, 18 Q. B. D. 147, 6 Aspin. 152, 56 L. J. Q. B. 121, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 128, 6 Wkly. Rep. 207]; Grieve v. König, 7 Ct. of Sess. Cas. 521.

Mississippi act of March 10, 1880, making "every bill of lading acknowledging the receipt" of goods conclusive evidence, in the hands of bona fide holders, that the goods were actually received for transportation, does not apply to bills of lading issued for a steamboat line, but not naming or designating any particular boat. The Guiding Star, 62 Fed. 407, 10 C. C. A. 454 [affirming 53 Fed. 936].

24. The Loon, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,499, 7 Blatchf. 244.

25. The Idaho, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,997, 5 Ben. 280 [affirmed in 93 U. S. 575, 23 L. ed. 978].

appointed by a special owner, in a suit against the vessel by a bona fide holder of the bills, who has made advances on the faith of them.[26]

C. Transportation and Delivery — 1. Transhipping and Forwarding. Where a vessel is disabled in the course of the voyage and cannot be seasonably repaired, the master is bound to tranship the goods and send them forward in another vessel if one can be had in the same or any reasonably contiguous port;[27] and his duty as carrier is not ended until they are delivered at its place of destination, or are returned to the possession of the owner, or kept safely until the owner can resume them, or otherwise lawfully disposed of;[28] and where a bill of lading shows that a voyage to a particular place named on it is but part of a longer transit, which it is understood is to be made by the cargo shipped, and that the cargo is to be carried forward in a continuous way on its further voyage, the master

26. The Freeman v. Buckingham, 18 How. (U. S.) 182, 15 L. ed. 341.

27. Hugg v. Baltimore, etc., Smelting, etc., Co., 35 Md. 414, 6 Am. Rep. 425; Rogers v. Murray, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 357; Saltus v. Ocean Ins. Co., 12 Johns. (N. Y.) 107, 7 Am. Dec. 290; Schieffelin v. New York Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 21; Searle v. Scovell, 4 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 218; McLoon v. Cummings, 73 Pa. St. 98 (holding that in so doing, if he can save a part to the owner, he will be considered his agent as well as the shipper's, otherwise, the shipper's alone; for an authority arising from implication only will not be presumed where the act of the master is clearly injurious to the owner); Adams v. Haught, 14 Tex. 243; The Maggie Hammond, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 435, 19 L. ed. 772; Hugg v. Augusta Ins., etc., Co., 7 How. (U. S.) 595, 12 L. ed. 834; Phelan v. Alvarado, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,067 (where the vessel was compelled to lie in a foreign port for five months waiting for means to procure repairs, and it was held that the voyage was in effect broken up, and the vessel owner should have transhipped the cargo). But see Silver v. Hale, 2 Mo. App. 557 (holding that where goods are to be transported by water, and, owing to the state of the river, cannot be taken by water to their destination, the carrier is not bound to forward them overland, and, if there has been no want of diligence, is not answerable for delay, if the goods finally arrived safely); The Bahia, Brown. & L. 292, 11 Jur. N. S. 90, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 145; De Cuadra v. Swann, 16 C. B. N. S. 772, 111 E. C. L. 772.

Additional freight for transhipment or forwarding see infra, VII, C, 1.

A moral necessity is sufficient to justify transhipment, and such a moral necessity exists where the circumstances are such that a master of reasonable prudence and discretion, acting upon the pressure of the occasion, would have made the transhipment from a firm opinion that the vessel could not be delivered from the peril at all or not without the hazard of an expense utterly disproportionate to her real value (Cox v. Foscue, 37 Ala. 505, 79 Am. Dec. 69; Gordon v. Massachusetts F. & M. Ins. Co., 2 Pick. (Mass.) 249; The Fortitude, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,953, 3 Sumn. 228; The Sarah Ann. 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,342, 2 Sumn. 206), and where goods are properly transhipped from one boat to another under circumstances which justify such transhipment, the owners of the first boat are not liable for the subsequent loss of the goods on the other boat, although they could have received them again on their own boat after the danger which caused the transhipment was passed (Cox v. Foscue, 33 Ala. 713). The acts of a master in such a case will be upheld by law, if he act as a prudent owner would have done. Rogers v. Murray, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 357.

Law by which duty is ascertained.— The duty of a master to carry on, tranship, or deliver the cargo at an intermediate port of refuge, implied in a bill of lading given by the master of a foreign vessel, will be ascertained by reference to the law of the flag which the vessel carries, not by reference to the lex loci contractus or the lex fori, or the law of the place where the alleged breach of contract by the master is committed. The Bahia, Brown. & L. 292, 11 Jur. N. S. 90, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 145.

Vessel liable to capture.— By German law, if a vessel is liable to risk of capture, either party may withdraw from the contract of affreightment, but the master is not obliged to part with the cargo or to tranship it, unless distance freight, as well as all other claims of the ship-owner and the contributions due from the cargo for general average, have been paid or secured, and a demand upon the master to tranship at his own risk and expense is not such a compliance with the German law as obliges him to tranship. The Express, L. R. 3 A. & E. 597, 1 Aspin. 355, 41 L. J. Adm. 79, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 956.

Repairing instead of transhipment.— If in the course of a voyage a ship carrying cargo is damaged by perils of the sea, the ship-owner intending to carry the cargo to its destination is entitled to a reasonable time for repairing his ship or for transhipping, and for this purpose to retain the cargo. Cargo ex Galam, Brown, & L. 167, 10 Jur. N. S. 477, 33 L. J. Adm. 97, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 550, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 216, 3 New Rep. 254, 12 Wkly. Rep. 495, 15 Eng. Reprint 883.

On a temporary detention a vessel is not bound to transhipp cargo, unless damage is to be expected from the probable delay. The Bohemia, 38 Fed. 756.

28. King v. Shepherd, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,804, 3 Story 349.

must be presumed to have contracted in reference to the course of trade connected with getting the cargo forward;[29] and the general course of business in forwarding when the ship of the signer of a through bill of lading does not go all the way to the port of ultimate destination, of which fact the shipper has knowledge, or is given notice by the through bill of lading, and the manifest necessity of transhipment by the through undertaker under such contract as it can reasonably make, justifies the presumption of its authority to make such contract, and to bind the shipper thereby, although the terms of the new contract may not be in all respects the same as its own; but, in any event, the undertaking and liability of the second carrier are measured by its own contract, provided its terms are reasonable, and not in contravention of the maritime law.[30] But when a question is raised as to the duty of the master in a port of distress to have transhipped the cargo, it must be considered that his first duty is to carry his cargo to its port of destination in the same bottom;[31] and if the vessel is laid up by stress of weather, it is her duty to complete the voyage when the weather permits, and carry the cargo to its destination;[32] and where a master has a reasonable opportunity, according to the circumstances of the case, of communicating from the port of distress with the owners of the cargo and receiving directions from them, it is his first duty to endeavor to obtain such directions;[33] and he has no right, without necessity, to tranship goods shipped for the voyage on freight;[34] and a transhipment without legal excuse, however competent and safe the vessel into which the transfer is made, is a violation of the contract and subjects the carrier to liability if the freight be lost.[35] Privilege to reship may, however, be reserved in the contract of carriage, and while it has been held that the words "privilege of reshipping," in a bill of lading, are for the benefit of the carrier, and place no obligations upon him to reship,[36] other cases hold that the phrase is to be con-

29. The Convoy, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 225, 18 L. ed. 194; Woodward v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,006, 1 Biss. 403, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,007, 1 Biss. 447, holding that a steamboat bill of lading for the delivery of goods at a certain point, specifying the rate of freight to a more distant point, is a through contract, and binds the carrier to deliver at the latter point.

30. The St. Hubert, 102 Fed. 362, holding that where, in such case, the goods are shipped on through bills of lading which authorize the initial carrier to tranship and forward by steamer, "subject to the terms and conditions of local bills of lading issued by the agents of such steamer," or contain other equivalent provisions, the owners of the goods are bound by the provisions of bills of lading issued by the connecting carrier to the first carrier therefor on their transhipment, so far as such provisions are lawful and enforceable.

31. The Hamburg, Brown & L. 253, 10 Jur. N. S. 600, 33 L. J. Adm. 116, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 289, 12 Wkly. Rep. 628, 15 Eng. Reprint 911. And see Harrison v. Stewart, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,145, Taney 485, holding that where goods are shipped on board a vessel advertised to sail for a particular port, and a bill of lading is signed for their delivery at that port, the ship-owners are bound to carry the goods by that ship to the port of destination, and it is no defense, in an action for breach of the contract, that the ship-owners offered to carry the goods on another ship at no additional risk or cost.

32. Murray v. Ætna Ins. Co., 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,955, 4 Biss. 417.

33. The Hamburg, Brown. & L. 253, 10 Jur. N. S. 600, 33 L. J. Adm. 116, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 289, 12 Wkly. Rep. 628, 15 Eng. Reprint 911, holding that the master only becomes agent for the owners of the cargo ex necessitate rei.

34. Cox v. Foscue, 37 Ala. 505, 79 Am. Dec. 69 (holding that a charge that the transhipment was improper, unless there was no other reasonable way of lightening the boat, is not objectionable; and that the grounding of a steamboat on a river, whence she could have been removed by temporarily landing a part of her cargo, and afterward taking it on board again and finishing her voyage, is not such a case of necessity as will justify a transhipment); Marx v. National Steamship Co., 22 Fed. 680 (holding that a ship's contract is to be strictly construed in favor of the shipper, in respect to the vessel designated to carry the goods, and transhipment in a vessel not permitted by the bill of lading will be at the risk of the carriers).

Transhipment held justifiable see Marx v. National Steamship Co., 22 Fed. 680.

35. Cox v. Foscue, 37 Ala. 505, 79 Am. Dec. 69; Stinson v. The Pennsylvania, 12 La. 332; Trodd v. Wood, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,190, 1 Gall. 443 (holding that if the owner of a vessel who receives goods for transportation tranship them without necessity, he is answerable for a loss of them by capture by public enemies).

36. Sturgess v. The Columbus, 23 Mo. 230 (holding that the power of reshipping, construed as granting to the vessel the privilege of reshipping during the voyage, according as its interest or convenience may advise, and is at the same time imposing upon it the duty to do so when practicable and necessary;[37] but he is not bound to tranship on any other vessels than his own, although he must avoid unreasonable delay, and is liable for damages caused thereby.[38] A carrier or forwarder of goods is not the general agent of the owner, and after delivery, pursuant to contract, to another carrier, he has no authority subsequently to dispense with any of the conditions for safe transportation, and the shipper will not be bound thereby;[39] nor does the privilege of reshipping reserved in a bill of lading discharge the boat from any liability not excepted in the contract; and although the right is secured of transhipping on another boat, the liability continues until the goods are safely delivered at the port of destination, if under like circumstances the carrier would be liable had the loss occurred on his own boat;[40] and the master by reshipping under such a clause does not lessen his liability to transport to the port named in the bill, and must show that the goods were put in a good boat.[41] Where goods were to be shipped by water, the mere transhipment by rail and deposit in a warehouse subject to charges, and without notice to the consignee, is not a conversion by the carrier, entitling the consignee to recover the full value of the goods.[42]

2. Goods Sent C. O. D. Bills of lading C. O. D. are not a lien on the vessel to secure payment of the money collected from the consignee on delivery of the goods, in the absence of statute;[43] but statutes regulating the matter in some states otherwise provide.[44]

3. Delivery — a. Mode; Notice to Shipper or Consignee. It is the duty of a vessel and its owners to make delivery of its cargo[45] at the port of delivtained in a bill of lading, is a privilege reserved to the boat, and not an additional undertaking of the carrier, and that it is not therefore a breach of his contract, if, by reason of low water, his boat is obstructed, and he fail to deliver the goods, which by reshipping he might have delivered); Broadwell v. Butler, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,910, 6 McLean 296, Newb. Adm. 171 (holding that where goods were shipped under bills of lading in the usual form, containing the words "privilege of reshipping," and the boat is detained by the want of sufficient water to carry her over, it is competent to show by usage, in an action for the recovery of freight, that it was not the carrier's duty to reship, instead of waiting for a rise). And see McGregor v. Kilgore, 6 Ohio 358, 27 Am. Dec. 260, holding that since a stipulation in a bill of lading that the carrier, in case of low water, may reship in another boat, was for the carrier's benefit, it did not release the carrier from liability for goods damaged by falling in the river while being transferred from a boat which could not proceed further because of low water.

Such privilege cannot be exercised before the voyage has been undertaken or commenced by the original vessel. Dorris v. Copelin, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,011.

37. Hatchett v. The Compromise, 12 La. Ann. 783, 68 Am. Dec. 782 (holding that the clause implies an obligation on the part of the boat to reship if the low water necessitates it and the reshipment is possible); Dorris v. Copelin, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,011.

38. Mina v. I. & V. Florio Steamship Co., 23 Fed. 915.

39. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

40. Carr v. The Michigan, 27 Mo. 196, 72 Am. Dec. 257 (holding also that where the right of reshipping is reserved in a bill of lading, it confers only the simple right to transfer from one boat to another); Whitesides v. Russell, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 44.

41. Dunseth v. Wade, 3 Ill. 285.

42. Howe v. Lexington, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,767*a*, holding also that where, under a bill of lading, goods are to be shipped by water, and the carrier, without notice to the shipper, tranships them by rail, a custom of the vessel to land and store goods without notice to the consignee is not applicable. And see The Thomas McManus, 24 Fed. 509, holding that there must be clear and satisfactory evidence of a special contract to extend the liability of a steamboat to the transportation and delivery of goods by a railroad beyond the place of the boat's destination, in order to charge the boat with a lien for damages caused by the wrong delivery by the railroad.

43. The Illinois, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 7,005, 2 Flipp. 383 [disapproving after careful discussion The Emma, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,218, which held contra].

44. See the statutes of the several states. And see The Reveille v. Landreth, 2 Minn. 175; The John Owen v. Johnson, 2 Ohio St. 142.

45. Irzo v. Perkins, 10 Fed. 779.

A mere unlivery of the cargo during the voyage, occasioned by an overruling calamity, does not absolve the carrier ship from the obligation to carry the goods to the port of destination. The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542.

ery;[46] and where the bill of lading is silent as to the delivery, it must be according to the usages and regulations of the port,[47] or according to the custom of trade between the parties,[48] within a reasonable time,[49] and in proper landing

46. The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542.

Reclamation or delivery at intermediate port.— Where a cargo-owner finds a vessel, with his cargo on board, at a port of refuge, needing repairs which cannot be effected without a cost to him of more than he would lose by taking his property at that place and paying the vessel all her lawful charges against him, he may pay the charges and reclaim the property (The Julia Blake, 107 U. S. 418, 2 S. Ct. 692, 27 L. ed. 595); but the master, although agent for the ship and cargo to the extent of being empowered, in a case of extreme urgency, to sell either or both, is not authorized to accept the cargo on behalf of its owner short of the port of delivery (The Ann D. Richardson, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Ahb. Adm. 499, holding also that laying claim to the proceeds of a sale of a cargo made by the master at an intermediate port, or the bringing suit for such proceeds, does not amount, in law, to a voluntary acceptance of the cargo, or to a ratification of the act of the master in breaking up the voyage); and even a shipper, after the goods are once shipped, and the bill of lading delivered, can remove them only on payment of the unavoidable and necessary expenses of unloading, and also indemnifying the party for the difference, if any, between the value of the goods where they were loaded, and what the master or ship-owner is obliged to pay at the port of destination, to an assignee of the bill of lading (Bartlett v. Carnley, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 194). As to necessity of paying full freight upon reclaiming goods at intermediate port see infra, VII, E, 2, b.

Although provisions in a bill of lading permit the discharge of cargo at other ports than that to which it is consigned in case of circumstances of war, which, in the opinion of the master, render it unsafe to enter or discharge there, the master, as agent of all concerned, is bound to exercise prudence to protect the interests of the cargo as well as the vessel, and the discharge of cargo by him at another port, as being contraband of war, is not justified unless the facts show that there was reasonable necessity therefor. The Styria, 93 Fed. 474 [reversed in 101 Fed. 728, 41 C. C. A. 639 (modified in 186 U. S. 1, 22 S. Ct. 731, 46 L. ed. 1027) on the ground that such necessity did exist under the circumstances]. But an exception that, in case of blockade or interdict of the port of discharge, or if the entering of or discharging in the port be considered by the master unsafe by reason of war disturbances, he may land the goods at the nearest safe and convenient port, at the expense of the owners, operates as soon as the master, having a reasonable and well-grounded fear of seizure, considers the limit of safety has been reached, and justifies him in landing goods contraband of war at a port neither near nor convenient to the port of destination. Nobel's Explosives Co. v. Jenkins, [1896] 2 Q. B. 326, 8 Aspin. 181, 65 L. J. Q. B. 638, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 163, holding also that the exception — restraint of princes — in a bill of lading under which the owner of a general ship contracts to carry goods contraband of war, entitles him, upon war being declared, to break his contract, although executed and not merely executory, and to discharge the goods before reaching the port of destination, without any direct or specific act of interference by sovereign authority.

47. Croucher v. Wilder, 98 Mass. 322 (holding that where the custom of a certain port authorized a particular mode of discharging cargoes, a ship-owner who lands at that port is entitled to assume, in the absence of notice to the contrary, that his ship will be discharged according to that custom); Jameson v. Sweeney, 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 645, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 494; The Mill Boy, 13 Fed. 181, 4 McCrary 383; Irzo v. Perkins, 10 Fed. 779; Field v. The Lovett Peacock, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,768.

A discharge by night under a permit from the collector, in accordance with long-established usage, is as lawful and valid as a discharge by day, and is not ipso facto negligence, any more than a discharge by day. The Egypt, 25 Fed. 320.

A consignee cannot force upon a vessel a substituted mode of discharge, involving delay or increased cost. The Dictator, 30 Fed. 637.

Evidence held to show a custom at the port of New Orleans that, in delivering coffee, the ship is to unload it on the wharf, pile it on skids in separate lots according to the bills of lading, and there make delivery to the several consignees; but held further that there was no sufficient proof of any custom as to the length of time that the coffee shall be allowed to remain upon the wharves after unloading. See The Iona, 80 Fed. 933, 26 C. C. A. 261.

48. Jameson v. Sweeney, 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 645, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 494.

49. Fowler v. Knoop, 4 Q. B. D. 299, 4 Aspin. 68, 48 L. J. Q. B. 333, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 27 Wkly. Rep. 299.

Delay caused by vis major.— When a charter-party is silent as to the time within which the cargo is to be unloaded at the port of destination, the contract implied by law is that the ship-owner and the charterer shall each perform his part, and neither is answerable for delay caused by vis major. Ford v. Cotesworth, L. R. 5 Q. B. 544, 10 B. & S. 991, 39 L. J. Q. B. 188, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 165, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1169. See Cunningham v. Dunn, 3 C. P. D. 443, 3 Aspin. 359, 48 L. J. C. P. 62, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 631.

Risk of capture.— An apprehension of capture founded on circumstances calculated to affect the mind of a master of ordinary cour-order;[50] and where a consignee refuses to pay the freight the carrier must land the goods and store them with a competent third party, subject to the consignee's order on payment of the freight.[51] In the absence of a special contract goods will be regarded as properly delivered when deposited upon the proper wharf at their place of destination, at a proper time, and notice given to the consignee, after which he has had a reasonable time and opportunity to remove them.[52] The different consignments must be properly separated, so as to be open to inspection by their respective owners, and a fair opportunity afforded the consignee to remove his goods,[53] and notice, or a valid excuse for not giving it, followed by a age, judgment, and experience will justify delay in the prosecution of a voyage; and a ship is not answerable in a suit under the Admiralty Court Act (1861), § 6, for damage to cargo caused by such delay. The San Roman, L. R. 5 P. C. 301, 1 Aspin. 603, 42 L. J. Adm. 46, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 381, 21 Wkly. Rep. 393.

50. The Harold Haarfager, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,083, 8 Ben. 216, holding that the ship must put casks containing cement in proper landing order before discharging them, and recooper them in the hold, if necessary to save their contents, although their insufficiency was caused by shrinkage in the hold because made of green staves.

A stipulation in the bill that cotton should be received as unloaded, package by package, and thereafter should not be at the expense or risk of the vessel, is not unreasonable, and will be enforced. The Santee, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,328, 2 Ben. 519 [affirmed in 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,330, 7 Blatchf. 186].

51. The Adella S. Hills, 47 Fed. 76; Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

If there is no such competent party at the port of discharge, the master should land the goods at the nearest port where such a competent party can be found. Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

52. Stone v. Clyde Steamship Co., 139 N. C. 193, 51 S. E. 894 (holding a carrier not guilty of actionable negligence in permitting goods to be injured by the elements after arrival and pending removal by the consignees, where the latter had been notified of the arrival of the goods, had paid the freight, and had permitted a portion of the goods to remain on the carrier's uninclosed platform or shed, according to custom); Scott v. Province, 1 Pittsb. (Pa.) 189 (holding that where the carrier places the goods upon the wharf, and gives such a description as will enable the consignee, with ordinary diligence, to find them, and the consignee agrees to accept them, this is a good delivery); Farmers' etc., Bank v. Champlain Transp. Co., 23 Vt. 186, 56 Am. Dec. 68; The Grafton, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,656, Olcott 43; Kennedy v. Dodge, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,701, 1 Ben. 311; Leaning v. Standish, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,161; The Middlesex, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,533, Brunn. Col. Cas. 605; Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v. The Tangier, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,266, 1 Cliff. 396; Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v. The Tangier, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,267, 3 Ware 110; The Santee, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,328, 2 Ben. 519; The Tybee, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,304, 1 Woods 358; Warner v. The Illinois, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,184*a*.

Placing goods in a public storehouse without notice to the consignee, when he is known, does not release the liability of the ship for their safe-keeping and ultimate safe delivery. Snow v. The Inca, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,145*a*, holding also that publication of notice in a newspaper, requiring consignees to present their permit within five days, or the goods will be sent to the public store, is not sufficient to charge a consignee with notice, in the absence of positive provision of law to that effect, or proof that the notice actually reached him.

Delivery held sufficient see Mayell v. Potter, 2 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 371 (holding that where a master signed a bill of lading for goods to be delivered to a transient person who had no place of business at the port of destination, and the master, on arriving, inquired for such person, and, being unable to find him, delivered to merchants there for him, the master was not liable to the consignor on the bill of lading; he having acted bona fide according to the usage of trade); Willis v. The City of Austin, 2 Fed. 412; Ellsworth v. The Wild Hunter, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,411, 2 Woods 315.

Delivery held insufficient see The St. Laurent, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,231, 7 Ben. 7; The Ville de Paris, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,942, 3 Ben. 276, where a case of goods put over the vessel's side upon a truck and wheeled to the place where it was inspected and marked for the public store, and then wheeled further up the wharf according to the usual course of business, and disappeared within a half hour within the inclosure.

53. The Titania, 131 Fed. 229, 65 C. C. A. 215 [affirming 124 Fed. 957]; The Boskenna Bay, 22 Fed. 662; Dibble v. Morgan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,881, 1 Woods 406 (holding that where the goods of several consignees were piled together in one bulk upon the wharf during a rainy and stormy day and covered with tarpaulins, so as not to be fairly open to the inspection of consignees and a fair chance afforded to remove them, this was no delivery); The Santee, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,330, 7 Blatchf. 186 [affirming 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,328, 2 Ben. 519] (holding that when a bill of lading provides that goods should be received as unloaded, and the full number of packages are discharged on the wharf, the ship is not liable, although they were not reasonable time for removal, is indispensable;[54] and a mere deposit of goods, all received by the consignee, where he had previous notice of the unloading, and the ship did not deliver to another, and the fact that the consignee was obliged to receive the cargo as landed on the wharf, package by package, does not dispense with the necessity of due notice to the consignee, and a reasonable opportunity to identify the goods and receive them into his custody).

54. Illinois.— Crawford v. Clark, 15 Ill. 561 (applying the rule to coasting vessels); Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Carter, 62 Ill. App. 618.

Louisiana.— Kennedy v. Roman, 19 La. Ann. 519; Barstow v. Murison, 14 La. Ann. 335.

Massachusetts.— Hill Mfg. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 104 Mass. 122, 6 Am. Rep. 202.

New York.— Rosenstein v. Vogemann, 184 N. Y. 325, 77 N. E. 625 [affirming 102 N. Y. App. Div. 39, 92 N. Y. Suppl. 86] (where in an action against a carrier for damage to goods which were unloaded upon a pier, which collapsed, the evidence was held to justify a finding that sufficient notice of the arrival of the ship and a reasonable time to appear and take charge of the freight was not given to the consignee); Barclay v. Clyde, 2 E. D. Smith 95; Rowland v. Miln, 2 Hilt. 150. But see Ely v. New Haven Steamboat Co., 53 Barb. 207, 6 Abb. Pr. N. S. 72, holding that where goods were landed on a wharf on the fourth of July, and it appeared that the store of the consignee was closed the whole of the day on which the goods arrived, it was held that the carrier was excused from giving notice of the arrival of the goods.

Tennessee.— Dean v. Vaccaro, 2 Head 488, 75 Am. Dec. 744, holding that the usage or custom of a port cannot dispense with delivery, or notice of the landing, of the goods; nor will the fact that the consignee and others had submitted to a delivery of goods to a drayman before, when no loss occurred, bind him to yield his legal right to notice when it is for his interest to assert it.

United States.— The Titania, 131 Fed. 229, 65 C. C. A. 215 [affirming 124 Fed. 957] (holding that to establish a constructive delivery by a ship of goods deposited on the wharf, it is necessary for the carrier to show that he separated the goods from the general bulk of the cargo, designated them, and gave due notice to the consignees of the time and place of their deposit, and a reasonable time for their removal); The Nail City, 22 Fed. 537; Germania Ins. Co. v. La Crosse, etc., Packet Co., 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,361, 3 Biss. 501 (holding that it is not a sufficient delivery of a cargo of wheat in bulk to moor the vessel at the dock of the consignee's elevator during bad weather, without notice to him); The Peytona, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,058, 2 Curt. 21 [affirming 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,059, 1 Ware 541] (holding also that, although ordinarily the master is not bound to seek out the consignor for the purpose of signing bills of lading, if, when they are presented to him by an agent of the consignor, he objects to one of their stipulations, and says he will call on the consignor, and sails without doing so, he is in fault, and cannot have any advantage from the non-existence of bills of lading, and claim such non-existence as an excuse for not giving notice to the consignee of the landing of the cargo); Vose v. Allen, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,005.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 426.

Where the unloading is temporarily interrupted by the crowded state of the wharf, on account of other consignees not removing their goods, no new notice need be given on resumption of the work. Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v. The Tangier, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,267, 3 Ware 110, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,266, 1 Cliff. 396.

Advertising the arrival of a ship, which advertisement is not seen by the consignee, is not legal notice to him. Kohn v. Packard, 3 La. 224, 23 Am. Dec. 453; Atlantic Nav. Co. v. Johnson, 4 Rob. (N. Y.) 474; Caruana v. British, etc., Royal Mail Steam-Packet Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,484, 6 Ben. 517. But see Medley v. Hughes, 11 La. Ann. 211; The Boskenna Bay, 40 Fed. 91, 6 L. R. A. 172 [reversing 22 Fed. 662].

Posting on bulletin board.— Notice to consignees of the time and place of discharge of cargo, when required, may be given by posting on a bulletin board at the custom-house at a port where it is usual to post such notices, and not to publish them in the newspapers. Constable v. National Steamship Co., 154 U. S. 51, 14 S. Ct. 1062, 38 L. ed. 903.

Casual knowledge of the vessel's arrival and purpose to discharge it at a certain wharf does not dispense with notice (The Middlesex, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,533, Brunn. Col. Cas. 605); and does not impose upon the consignee the duty of waiting at the vessel till his merchandise is discharged (Robinson v. Chittenden, 7 Hun (N. Y.) 133 [reversed on other grounds in 69 N. Y. 525]; nor does the mere fact that the libellant's agent knew of the arrival of the ship (Unnevehr v. The Hindoo, 1 Fed. 627; The Mary Washington, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,229, 1 Abb. 1, Chase 125). But on the other hand it is held that if a consignee has actual notice of the arrival of the vessel containing the consignment, the master is not bound to give him further notice thereof. Thebaud v. The Ravensdale, 75 Fed. 413.

Under a bill of lading requiring the goods to be taken from alongside by the consignee immediately the vessel is ready to discharge, otherwise they will be deposited, at the risk of the consignee, in the warehouse provided for that purpose, personal notice to the consignee of the time and place of discharge is not necessary. Constable v. National Steamship Co., 154 U. S. 51, 14 S. Ct. 1062, 38 L. ed. 903 [affirming 29 Fed. 184].

Where discharge at a wharf other than the vessel's usual wharf is allowable and proper under the usages of trade or the necessities of the case, the obligation of the carrier to

upon the carrier's own wharf, the goods not being separated and set apart from the rest of the cargo, and there being no acceptance by the consignee, and no reasonable time or opportunity for their removal, is not a delivery to the consignee.[55] The notice to take the place of actual delivery must be a reasonable one,[56] properly directed to the consignee's business address,[57] unless the bill of lading provides that the consignee is bound to be ready to receive his goods on the ship's readiness to discharge, otherwise that they may be landed without notice, and at his risk, after they leave the deck of the ship, in which case, if the consignee is not ready to receive on the ship's readiness to discharge, the ship may land the goods without notice; and if landed in suitable weather, with opportunity to remove them without injury, the vessel is absolved from all further liability;[58] but even under such a clause if they are discharged at an improper time, or exposed to known and imminent peril of loss, without due notice, the ship will be held liable for breach of duty,[59] and any right of the carrier under the contract to compel consignees to take goods shipped "from alongside" is waived by the carrier unloading the goods on to the dock.[60] Although the liability of a ship as common carrier ends after reasonable notice to the consignee to remove the goods, and failure to do so, a liability as bailee follows until the consignee accepts the goods, and if the goods have been discharged upon a wharf, the latter liability relates back to and includes any negligence in the selection of the wharf;[61] and thus where freight is landed from the vessel at its destination on its platform or wharf, and the consignees are notified of its arrival, pay the freight, and remove part of the goods, although the carrier's responsibility is terminated, an obligation remains with reference to goods not removed of a warehouseman or wharfinger.[62]

b. Place. The place of delivery of a cargo depends much on the usage of the port.[63] Although it has been held that prima facie there can be no delivery give notice to the consignees of the time and place of discharge is not increased or modified thereby if the consignees are not prejudiced by the change. Constable v. National Steamship Co., 154 U. S. 51, 14 S. Ct. 1062, 38 L. ed. 903 [affirming 29 Fed. 184].

A master who has wrongfully omitted to sign bills of lading, and sailed without learning the names of the consignees, cannot avail himself of this ignorance as an excuse for not giving notice of the landing of the goods. The Peytona, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,058, 2 Curt. 21.

55. Redmond v. Liverpool, etc., Steamboat Co., 46 N. Y. 578, 7 Am. Rep. 390; Price v. Powell, 3 N. Y. 322; Warner v. The Illinois, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,184*a*, 18 Reporter 11.

56. Crawford v. Clark, 15 Ill. 561; Rosenstein v. Vogemann, 102 N. Y. App. Div. 39, 92 N. Y. Suppl. 86 [affirmed in 184 N. Y. 325, 77 N. E. 625]; Atlantic Nav. Co. v. Johnson, 4 Rob. (N. Y.) 474; Addicks v. Three Hundred and Fifty-Four Tons Crude Kainit, 23 Fed. 727; The Middlesex, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,533, Brunn. Col. Cas. 605.

Notice held sufficient see The Kate, 12 Fed. 881; The Iddo Kimball, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 7,000, 8 Ben. 297.

In the case of vessels arriving from foreign voyages or long coasting voyages, the master, on mooring his vessel, must give early notice to the consignees of his arrival and readiness to deliver the goods, after which he may proceed to unload, and the consignee should be promptly on hand to receive delivery. Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v. The Tangier, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,267, 3 Ware 110.

57. Union Steamboat Co. v. Knapp, 73 Ill. 506.

58. The Boskenna Bay, 40 Fed. 91, 6 L. R. A. 172 (holding that under such provision, the consignee is bound to watch for the ship's arrival, and be ready to receive the goods at the time and place they are deliverable; and, in default, the ship may land the cargo without previous notice); The Surrey, 40 Fed. 90 [reversing 26 Fed. 791].

"Ready to discharge."—A vessel is not ready to discharge, within the meaning of a provision in the bill of lading that all goods are to be taken from alongside immediately the vessel is ready to discharge, when it is impossible for her to discharge without destroying the cargo. The Aline, 19 Fed. 875.

59. The Surrey, 26 Fed. 791 [reversed in 40 Fed. 90, on the ground that the weather was not unsuitable for discharging].

60. The Titania, 131 Fed. 229, 65 C. C. A. 215 [affirming 124 Fed. 975], holding also that the question of the duty of the carrier to deliver goods carried is to be determined by the bill of lading, without regard to the charter-party, of which the shipper had no notice till after the terms of his contract with the ship had been unalterably fixed.

61. The City of Lincoln, 25 Fed. 835, holding that for the selection of a wharf which is known to be weak for the discharge of the cargo the vessel is liable. And see infra, VII, C, 3, b.

62. Stone v. Clyde Steamship Co., 139 N. C. 193, 51 S. E. 894.

63. Dalzell v. The Saxon, 10 La. Ann. 280 (holding that where defendant received on except a personal delivery to the agreed consignee or his agents,[64] the general rule is that in the absence of a clearly defined usage or provision in the bill of lading the goods need not be tendered personally to the consignee,[65] or delivered at his warehouse [66] or residence;[67] nor is the ship obliged to deliver freight at a pier nearest to the address of the consignee as given in the bill of lading.[68] Under a bill of lading requiring goods to be landed at a certain place, the goods must be landed there from the ship, if it can be done with safety to her;[69] and a vessel must deliver her cargo within such parts of the port as have become fixed by established usage, if a customary berth can be obtained there within a reasonable time, and if she goes elsewhere must make good the additional expense thereby caused to the consignee;[70] and in the absence of any different usage of the port, or other indication in the bill of lading, a vessel is bound to land her cargo at some suitable wharf,[71] which must if possible be the customary board a cargo, to be delivered at the port of Louisville and reshipped thence to Pittsburg, a delivery thereof on the wharf at Portland within the corporate limits of, but about two miles below, Louisville, was a satisfaction of the bill of lading under the usage existing); Shepherd v. Lanfear, 5 La. 336, 25 Am. Dec. 181 (holding that if the general laws of the country change the place of delivery in case of quarantine the freighter is bound to receive it there); Riddick v. Dunn, 145 N. C. 34, 58 S. E. 439 (holding that where a consignee of goods did not inform a transportation company of his intention not to be bound by the established custom at a certain port to make wharfage charges against consignees and not against the carrier, the carrier was entitled to unload the goods at the wharf, which was the usual place of deposit, instead of delivering them out of the ship or at its side). But see Wayne v. The Albatross, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 219, 4 West. L. J. 528, holding that, however general the custom at a port for steamboats to deliver goods to the wharf boat, such delivery, unless authorized by the owner, does not discharge the carrier.

Effect of quarantine.— A usage of consignees at a particular port to receive shipments during the quarantine season at the quarantine grounds, as being a compliance with the engagement of the bill of lading to deliver at such port, is valid; and the bill of lading should be construed with reference to it (Bradstreet v. Heran, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,792, 1 Abb. Adm. 209 [affirmed in 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,792*a*, 2 Blatchf. 116]); and if the general laws of the country change the place of delivery in case of quarantine, the freighter is bound to receive it there (Shepherd v. Lanfear, 5 La. 336, 25 Am. Dec. 181); and the shipper or consignee is bound to pay the expenses of unloading (Rice v. Clendining, 3 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 183); but where the bill of lading specifies that the cargo is to be delivered at a certain wharf, and the quarantine officials require the ship to undergo quarantine, permitting at the same time the cargo to be removed from the ship, the owners of the ship are not relieved from the obligation to deliver the cargo as specified in the bill of lading (Leland v. Agnew, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,236).

Expense of delivery.— Ship-owners can recover from the consignees the expense incurred by them in unloading the vessel, where the bill of lading provides that the cargo should be delivered from the ship's deck, when the ship's responsibility should cease. Turnbull v. Eighty-Seven Blocks of Marble, 9 Fed. 320.

64. The Emilien Marie, 2 Aspin. 514, 44 L. J. Adm. 9, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 435; Gatliffe v. Bourne, 4 Bing. N. Cas. 314, 7 L. J. C. P. 172, 5 Scott 667, 33 E. C. L. 729; Howard v. Shepherd, 9 C. B. 297, 19 L. J. C. P. 249, 67 E. C. L. 297.

65. Chickering v. Fowler, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 371; McAndrew v. Whitlock, 52 N. Y. 40, 11 Am. Rep. 657 [affirming 2 Sweeny 623]; Cope v. Cordova, 1 Rawle (Pa.) 203; The Grafton, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,656, Olcott 43, holding that a delivery of a cargo on the wharf in New York, with notice to the owners of the time and place of unlading, places the goods at their risk, and discharges the ship from liability. But see Hemphill v. Chenie, 6 Watts & S. (Pa.) 62.

66. Dibble v. Morgan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,881, 1 Woods 406.

67. Kohn v. Packard, 3 La. 224, 23 Am. Dec. 453.

68. Western Transp. Co. v. Hawley, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 327.

69. Shaw v. Gardner, 12 Gray (Mass.) 488.

70. The Port Adelaide, 38 Fed. 753.

71. Devato v. Eight Hundred and Twenty-Three Barrels of Plumbago, 20 Fed. 510 (holding that where cargo is, by the bill of lading, to be delivered at a designated port of wide extent, without naming the particular place within the port, delivery must be made according to the established custom and usage of the port, and in that part of it customarily used in the discharge of similar goods, and to ascertain this, proof of usage, either general or in particular lines of trade, is competent); Gronstadt v. Witthoff, 15 Fed. 265; Higgins v. U. S. Mail Steamship Co., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,569, 3 Blatchf. 282 (as at the shipper's wharf).

The legal limits of a port are such as are fixed or recognized by the statutes of the state or of the United States. Devato v. Eight Hundred and Twenty-Three Barrels of Plumbago, 20 Fed. 510, holding that various wharf,[72] and the master is bound not only to select a customary wharf for the delivery of the cargo, but the place selected must be fit and safe for its deposit; [73] but where the carrier agreed to transport a cargo of goods and deliver them at a certain wharf, and on arrival at the designated place no wharf exists, the refusal of the carrier to build one constitutes no defense to an action for the freight.[74] While the master may, in the absence of instructions, lawfully proceed to any usual and convenient wharf at the port of discharge, without consulting the shippers,[75] the sole consignee, or all the consignees, if unanimous, may direct the master to unlade at any usual and convenient wharf at the port of discharge,[76] but not at a wharf which is unreasonably inconvenient, inaccessible, or extrahazardous to the vessel; [77] nor can the consignor name an unsafe port of delivery under a charter-party permitting him to designate a good safe port.[78] Where a cargo is sent to a foreign country, and the consignor does not designate any particular port of delivery, the presumption is that the general port of delivery of such cargoes was intended.[79] state statutes recognize a part of the western shore of Long Island, including Brooklyn, as a part of the port of New York.

The customary discharge of goods by a carrier at its own wharf raises no liability for loss occasioned solely by the discharge of goods at another wharf, unless the custom is clearly long established, and without exception; and, in the absence of contract stipulations, a vessel is not responsible for goods discharged at a certain wharf by her, when the evidence to sustain the custom of discharging at another wharf consisted of proving six such discharges, and there was evidence showing that, for convenience, the carrier sometimes discharges its goods at other wharves. Arnold v. National Steamship Co., 29 Fed. 184 [affirmed in 154 U. S. 51, 14 S. Ct. 1062, 38 L. ed. 903].

72. The Port Adelaide, 38 Fed. 753. But see Carter v. The Mascotte, 51 Fed. 606, 2 C. C. A. 400 [reversing 48 Fed. 119], holding that the custom of the port of New York requiring cargoes of tea to be discharged in the "tea district," on the New York side of the East river, does not apply to a general ship, a minor portion of whose cargo consists of tea; and where such a ship endeavored, without success, to obtain a berth in such district, and afterward secured a berth elsewhere, acceptable to consignees of the rest of the cargo, she was not liable for the increased cost caused by discharging the tea there.

73. Stone v. Rice, 58 Ala. 95 (holding that a steamboat carrier, having goods consigned to a consignee at a landing where there had been a warehouse keeper who usually received and took care of goods landed there, cannot avoid liability by proving a delivery of goods at the usual place on the river bank, without any protection or guard, when the landing had in the meantime been broken up by inundation, and the washing away of the buildings and the removal of the persons which constituted it a landing); Sleade v. Payne, 14 La. Ann. 453; Wodruff v. Havemeyer, 106 N. Y. 129, 12 N. E. 628; The Majestic, 12 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 100 (holding that a sea carrier is bound to select a safe wharf for the discharge of cargo, and is not discharged from its duty to the consignee of the cargo by a direction of the consignee of the ship to use a wharf which was insufficient).

The words, "to be taken free from on board," in a bill of lading, do not import any obligation to discharge the cargo on lighters, rather than on a wharf. Gronstadt v. Witthoff, 15 Fed. 265.

Where the contract declares that the consignees are to take the cargo "from alongside," that means that it is to be taken from where the ordinary appliances of the ship would leave it in discharging, "at the end of the ship's tackle," on a wharf, if the ship was discharging at a wharf; on a lighter, if the ship could not reach a wharf and was discharging in the stream. Turnbull v. Citizens' Bank, 16 Fed. 145, 4 Woods 193; Vose v. Allen, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,006, 3 Blatchf. 289.

74. McCaughn v. Milliot, 78 Miss. 976, 29 So. 818.

75. The E. H. Fittler, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,311, 1 Lowell 114.

76. Richmond v. Union Steamboat Co., 87 N. Y. 240; Devato v. Eight Hundred and Twenty-Three Barrels of Plumbago, 30 Fed. 510 (holding that a usage is valid for a majority of the consignees of the cargo of a general ship to name the place of discharge, provided it be a suitable place and within the limits ordinarily used for the discharge of similar goods); The Cervin, 17 Fed. 462 (holding that a steamship having accepted a pier on the East river, New York, as a suitable pier designated by the owners of the majority of the cargo for discharging, is in fault in leaving the pier with part of the cargo on board, and going to a pier in Brooklyn and there discharging the balance); The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,671, 1 Lowell 464; The E. H. Fittler, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,311, 1 Lowell 114; The Felix, L. R. 2 A. & E. 273, 37 L. J. Adm. 48, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 587, 17 Wkly. Rep. 102.

77. O'Rourke v. Two Hundred and Twenty One Tons of Coal, 1 Fed. 619 (holding also that a private wharf is a proper place to discharge a cargo, where it can be used by strangers upon the payment of compensation); Robbins v. Welsh, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,887, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 409.

78. Evans v. Bullock, 3 Aspin. 552, 38 L. T. Rep. N. S. 34.

79. Smith v. Davenport, 34 Me. 520.

c. To Whom; Misdelivery. His proper share of the cargo [80] must be delivered to the consignee or to one duly authorized by him to receive it,[81] the primary duty of the carrier being to deliver the goods to the right person.[82] Delivery to the master of the wharf at the port of delivery does not constitute a delivery to the consignee unless the master was specially authorized by the consignee to receive the goods, or unless his receipt for the property was ratified; [83] and a wharfinger to whom a ship delivers goods with instructions not to deliver them to the consignee except on payment of freight is agent of the ship until the freight is paid, and delivery to him is not delivery to the consignee, binding as an acceptance of the goods; [84] and similarly if a vessel delivers goods on the wharf, and gives notice to the consignee of its arrival, its liability to the latter is not discharged by employing a clerk to deliver the cargo to the proper parties, but it is liable to the consignee for a misdelivery by the clerk.[85] There being conflicting claims, the carrier must at his peril deliver to the person rightfully entitled.[86] Thus when different parts of bills of lading drawn in different sets are presented by different holders, although it was formerly held that the captain is not concerned to examine who has the best right but might deliver the goods upon any one of them,[87] this is not now the rule, but the duty is upon the master to ascertain the rightful owner and deliver to him or to interplead; [88] but if only one part of the bill of lading be presented, and if the master has no knowledge that any other part has been indorsed, he may properly and safely deliver in accordance with the indorsement and holding of the part presented, without inquiry as to the other; [89] and it is not necessary to the effectiveness of a conclusive delivery of the goods that more than one part of the set should be indorsed or delivered, and where one part has passed the indorsed title to the goods under the assignment

80. The Pietro G., 38 Fed. 148.

81. Brower v. Peabody, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 599 [reversed on other grounds in 13 N. Y. 121].

An officer of the custom-house, on board a ship in the discharge of his official duty to care for the lawful unloading of the cargo, is not, as such, authorized to receive the goods; and a discharge, with his knowledge and assent, is not such a delivery as relieves the carrier from liability. McAndrew v. Whitlock, 52 N. Y. 40, 11 Am. Rep. 657. But when the duties on dutiable goods are not paid upon their arriving at the port of New York, under the laws of congress and the treasury regulations of that port, the custom-house officers are the only persons authorized to receive such goods on the wharf; and when they do so receive them, day or night, the liability of the carrier terminates (Redmond v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., 56 Barb. (N. Y.) 320 [reversed on other grounds in 46 N. Y. 578, 7 Am. Rep. 390]; and generally where, by the local law and usage, dutiable goods imported are required to be delivered to the customs authorities, who assume the responsibility of thereafter making delivery to the proper person on payment of the duty, a delivery by the ship to such authorities is a good delivery as between carrier and shipper (The Asiatic Prince, 97 Fed. 343 [affirmed in 108 Fed. 287, 47 C. C. A. 325]).

Usage requiring receipt from consignee.— A usage of a port that in order to constitute a delivery of goods it is necessary for a receipt to be given by the consignee or his agent, and that until then the liability of the carrier continues, is unreasonable and illegal. Reed v. Richardson, 98 Mass. 216, 93 Am. Dec. 155.

Delay in presenting manifest.— A delay of the master to present to the custom-house officers at the port of consignment a proper manifest, by which delay the owner of goods shipped on board is unable to pass them through the custom-house, is a neglect of his duty as master, for which the vessel is responsible. The Zenobia, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,209, Abb. Adm. 80.

82. McKeon v. McIver, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 410 [affirmed in L. R. 6 Exch. 36, 40 L. J. Exch. 30, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559].

83. Harkness v. Church, 10 La. Ann. 64, holding, however, that the authority of a wharf master to receive goods for the consignee may be inferred from the fact that the consignee paid to the wharf master money advanced by him for freight.

84. Williams v. The Columbia, 1 Wash. Terr. 95.

85. The Ben Adams, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,289, 2 Ben. 445.

86. Batut v. Hartley, L. R. 7 Q. B. 594, 1 Aspin. 337, 41 L. J. Q. B. 273, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 968, 20 Wkly. Rep. 899; Hiort v. Bott, L. R. 9 Exch. 86, 43 L. J. Exch. 81, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 25, 22 Wkly. Rep. 414; Wilson v. Anderton, 1 B. & Ad. 450, 9 L. J. K. B. O. S. 48, 20 E. C. L. 555.

87. Fearon v. Bowers, 1 H. Bl. 364 note.

88. Glyn v. East India, etc., Dock Co., 7 App. Cas. 591, 4 Aspin. 580, 52 L. J. Q. B. 146, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 309, 31 Wkly. Rep. 206. And see Webb v. Winter, 1 Cal. 417.

89. Glyn v. East India, etc., Dock Co., 7 App. Cas. 591, 4 Aspin. 580, 52 L. J. Q. B.

to him, it is perfected so far as consecutive delivery can make it so as against a subsequent indorsee of another part or parts of the set, although the latter may obtain actual possession of the goods.[90] Where a vessel goes aground not far from a port of delivery, consignees who received cargo where she lay thereby waived a delivery in strict compliance with the contract;[91] but if the vessel strands on a voyage near her port of delivery, and on being released starts back with the intention of delivering the cargo back to the consignors, in violation of the contract of carriage, the consignees are entitled to sue the vessel in admiralty to recover the cargo and damages for its non-delivery.[92]

d. Failure or Refusal to Deliver. The carrier's primary duty is to carry and deliver, and failure or refusal to deliver will render him liable,[93] unless justified by some legal excuse;[94] and even a carrier who contracted to carry under an agreement that it should not be liable for loss or damage to the goods is liable for failure to deliver, unless it shows that such failure was caused by the goods being lost.[95] But the carrier is not liable for failure to deliver where upon notice no one appears to accept delivery,[96] or where the consignee's agent refuses to receive;[97] and where shippers abandon to their insurers a cargo damaged by the fault of the carrier before its arrival at the place of destination, and the insurers take possession and sell the goods at the port of disaster, such action terminates the responsibility of the carrier, and he cannot be held liable for non-delivery.[98]

e. Failure or Refusal to Receive; Storage of Goods. Consignees cannot decline to receive cargo in apprehension of bad weather, so as to compel a ship to lie idle if the weather is reasonably fit for unloading;[99] and a refusal to receive cargo after due notice, and after the lapse of a reasonable time given the consignee to accept, dispenses with the necessity of a formal tender;[1] but the vessel must unlade the cargo where she can, and store it suitably for the shipper's

146, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 309, 31 Wkly. Rep. 206.

90. Barber v. Meyerstein, L. R. 4 H. L. 317, 39 L. J. C. P. 187, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 808, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1041 [affirming L. R. 2 C. P. 661, 36 L. J. C. P. 289, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 569, 15 Wkly. Rep. 998 (affirming L. R. 2 C. P. 38, 36 L. J. C. P. 48, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 355, 15 Wkly. Rep. 173)]; Gilbert v. Guignon, L. R. 8 Ch. 16, 1 Aspin. 498, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 733, 21 Wkly. Rep. 281. See Caldwell v. Ball, 1 T. R. 205, 1 Rev. Rep. 87, 99 Eng. Reprint 1053.

91. The Eva D. Rose, 151 Fed. 704, 153 Fed. 912, holding also that the going aground of the vessel is not ipso facto negligence which gives a lien in admiralty on the vessel for non-delivery of cargo in accordance with the contract.

92. The Eva D. Rose, 153 Fed. 912, 151 Fed. 704.

93. The Robert Morris v. Williamson, 6 Ala. 50 (decided under the act of 1836 (Clay Dig. p. 139), giving a lien on steamboats or other water craft for failure to deliver goods); Wright v. Baldwin, 18 N. Y. 428; Boschert v The Wyoming, 36 Fed. 493 (holding also that a claim for merchandise, for which a steamer issued its bill of lading, but which it failed to deliver, may be classified and paid as an affreightment claim).

A privilege on a steamboat for damages, caused by non-delivery of freight, is lost at the expiration of sixty days from the date of the default and consequent liability. Van Wickle v. The Belle Gates, 12 La. Ann. 270.

94. See infra, VII, D, 2.

95. Newstadt v. Adams, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 43. And see infra, VII, D, 14.

96. The Hattie Palmer, 68 Fed. 380, 15 C. C. A. 479 [affirming 63 Fed. 1015].

97. Blossom v. Smith, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,565, 3 Blatchf. 316 [reversing 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,566], holding that the vessel is not liable for failure to deliver according to the bill of lading, where the regular warehouseman, because of personal difficulties with the consignee, would not receive the goods, and the master caused them to be stored with another.

98. The Mohawk, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 153, 19 L. ed. 406.

99. The Grafton, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,656, Olcott 43. And see Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Suitter, 17 Fed. 695, holding that a contention that the consignee was not bound to receive a shipment of fruits on a given day, because the weather on that day was too cold, is untenable where other fruit was discharged on such day without being injured by frost.

1. O'Rourke v. Two Hundred and Twenty One Tons of Coal, 1 Fed. 619.

Refusal by the consignee to receive made before the arrival of the ship is not in itself a breach of the contract, but a refusal at any time, unretracted up to the time of the arrival of the vessel, was evidence of a continuing refusal down to and inclusive of the time when he was bound to receive the cargo, and a continuing refusal was a breach of the contract. Ripley v. McClure, 4 Exch. 345, 18 L. J. Exch. 419.

account,[2] or deliver the goods to the owner,[3] and having done this it has fulfilled its full duty as carrier,[4] and if the consignee is bound to receive them the goods are thereafter at his risk.[5] Similarly where consignees do not appear to claim goods at the port of discharge, the master may still land the cargo without losing his possession and control over it, placing the goods in a warehouse belonging to or hired for the owners, and so preserve his lien,[6] and the consignee will be liable for wharfage and other expenses properly incurred in doing so,[7] the carrier's only duty with regard to the goods being to use reasonable care and prudence; [8] and if in consequence of the consignee's failure to appear the goods are lost without the fault of the carrier, the latter is not liable,[9] the obligation of the carrier being then that of an ordinary bailee.[10] If the goods are damaged or deteriorated the consignee cannot refuse to receive them and then sue for conversion, but must accept the tender and claim for the difference in quality or quantity; [11] and similarly where the consignees refuse to receive except upon conditions which they are not entitled to make, they cannot sue for conversion for non-delivery.[12]

f. Short Delivery. The carrier is liable for a short delivery,[13] in the absence of a valid exception in the bill of lading,[14] unless shrinkage of cargo is owing to its own inherent nature and the quality of the article itself, and not to any negligence of the owners of the ship,[15] and cannot avoid liability by a provision in the

2. Crawford v. Clark, 15 Ill. 561; Collins v. Burns, 36 N. Y. Super. Ct. 518 [affirmed in 63 N. Y. 1]; Hirsch v. Steamboat Quaker City, 2 Disn. (Ohio) 144; The Captain John, 33 Fed. 927; Irzo v. Perkins, 10 Fed. 779; Arthur v. Cassius, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 564, 2 Story 81. But see Strong v. Certain Quantity of Wheat, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,541.

3. Wilson v. Royal Exch. Shipping Co., 24 Fed. 815.

4. Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. (U. S.) 527, 16 L. ed. 177 (holding that the ship is not bound to land an entire shipment in a day; and if landed on different days, and the shipper, being notified thereof, does not receive the goods, and has made no arrangement to secure payment of the freight, they may be stored for safe-keeping) Knott v. One Hundred Bales of Rags, 60 Fed. 634; The Kathleen Mary, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,625, 8 Ben. 165.

5. Chickering v. Fowler, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 371; Knott v. One Hundred Bales of Rags, 60 Fed. 634.

6. Gaudet v. Brown, L. R. 5 P. C. 134, 2 Aspin. 6, 42 L. J. Adm. 1, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 77, 21 Wkly. Rep. 420 [affirmed in L. R. 5 P. C. 155, 42 L. J. Adm. 49, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 745, 21 Wkly. Rep. 707] (holding that where no application for delivery is made the captain may land and warehouse the cargo at the expense of the merchant; and where that is forbidden by the authorities of the port, he is not justified in destroying the cargo; but in the absence of advices he may take it to such a place as in his judgment is most convenient, and may charge to the merchant all expenses properly incurred). Mors-le-Blanch v. Wilson, L. R. 8 C. P. 227, 1 Aspin. 605, 42 L. J. C. P. 70, 28 L. T. Rep N. S. 415. And see infra, VII, E, 6, h.

Late delivery.— Under the Merchant Shipping Act, Amendm. Act (1862) (25 & 26 Vict. c. 63), § 67, a ship-owner may land goods whenever the delivery of them to the owner within the proper time has been prevented by the force of circumstances, whether the owner is or is not to blame. The Energie, L. R. 6 P. C. 306, 2 Aspin. 555, 44 L. J. Adm. 25, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 579, 23 Wkly. Rep. 932.

7. Mors-le-Blanch v. Wilson, L. R. 8 C. P. 227, 1 Aspin. 605, 42 L. J. C. P. 70, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 415; Meyerstern v. Barber, L. R. 2 C. P. 38, 36 L. J. C. P. 48, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 355, 15 Wkly. Rep. 173 [affirmed in L. R. 2 C. P. 661, 36 L. J. C. P. 289, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 569, 15 Wkly. Rep. 998 (affirmed in L. R. 4 H. L. 317, 39 L. J. C. P. 187, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 808, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1041]; Houlder v. General Steam Nav. Co., 3 F. & F. 170. But see Stewart v. Rogerson, L. R. 6 C. P. 424.

8. Hudson v. Baxendale, 2 H. & N. 575, 27 L. J. Exch. 93, 6 Wkly. Rep. 83; Great Western R. Co. v. Crouch, 3 H. & N. 183, 4 Jur. 457, 27 L. J. Exch. 345, 6 Wkly. Rep. 391.

9. Shirwell v. Shaplock, 2 Chit. 396, 18 E. C. L. 702.

10. Chapman v. Great Western R. Co., 5 Q. B. D. 278, 44 J. P. 363, 49 L. J. Q. B. 420, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 252, 28 Wkly. Rep. 566. See Smith v. Britain Steamship Co., 123 Fed. 176. And see supra, VII, C, 3, e.

11. The Timor, 61 Fed. 633.

12. Jones v. Hough, 5 Ex. D. 115, 4 Aspin. 248, 49 L. J. Exch. 211, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 108.

13. The Seneca, 163 Fed. 591; The Nora, 14 Fed. 429. But see Starin's City, etc., Transp. Co. v. The Daniel Burns, 52 Fed. 159.

14. The Seneca, 163 Fed. 591.

15. Janney v. Tudor Co., 3 Fed. 814. And see Glasgow Steam Shipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 154 Fed. 84, holding that the owners of a vessel are not liable to a time charterer for a shortage in delivery of cargo which was received, tallied in, and stowed, and also taken out by the charterer's agents, and none of which was lost, jettisoned, or bill of lading that weight, contents, and material are unknown;[16] but a vessel is not liable for a shortage in the number of packages set out in the bill of lading signed by the master, although such bill and the cargo represented by it have passed to a bona fide purchaser, where no fraud is charged, and it is conceded that all the cargo actually received on board, or which came into the hands of the master, was delivered;[17] and bills of lading which, although containing formal recitals of the weight of a commodity received, also contain a clause, weight, measure, and contents unknown, are not conclusive against the vessel as to the exact weight; and the uncontradicted testimony of the master and mate that the commodity was not weighed when taken on board, and that all that was actually received was delivered, is sufficient to exonerate the ship from liability for a prima facie shortage.[18] In determining whether there is a shortage of cargo, both the consignee's output count and the intake counts as shown by the bill of lading are controlled by proof that the hatches were sealed after the cargo was in, and opened only by the port wardens on the vessel's arrival, and that there was no opportunity for loss or abstraction;[19] and in determining a question of shortage of weight of cargo the custom-house weight is entitled to superior credit as against a subsequent unofficial weight, taken after the cargo had been stored for months.[20]

4. Deviation and Delay. The general rule, in the absence of a clear agreement, as to when a vessel for hire shall proceed from her port of loading is that she is to deliver the goods carried or fulfil her engagement within a reasonable time;[21] and although it has been held that delay in discharging through default of the vessel does not entitle the charterer or consignee to damages, in the absence of a contract for delivery by a particular day, but simply extends the time within which the discharge may be made without liability of the charterer or consignee for demurrage,[22] the general rule is that the carrier is liable for loss caused by unjustifiable delay in transportation and delivery of the goods,[23] and shippers have used during the voyage, although at the charterer's request the master gave a general receipt for the cargo.

16. The Nora, 14 Fed. 429.

17. Maddock v. American Sugar Refining Co., 91 Fed. 166. Compare Dowgate Steamship Co. v. Arbuckle, 158 Fed. 179, holding that the prima facie case made by a bill of lading signed by the master of a vessel as to the number of bags of coffee received on board at a loading port, corroborated by the testimony of the charterer's agent and others having occasion to keep track of such number, is not overcome by testimony from the ship as to a mistake in the bill of lading, or that she delivered all taken on board so as to exonerate her from liability for an apparent shortage in delivery.

18. The Seefahrer, 133 Fed. 793.

19. The Ethel, 59 Fed. 473.

20. Linklater v. Howell, 88 Fed. 526.

21. Hostetter v. Park, 137 U. S. 30, 11 S. Ct. 1, 34 L. ed. 568; The Gordon Campbell, 141 Fed. 435; The Prussia, 100 Fed. 484.

22. Milburn v. Federal Sugar Refining Co., 161 Fed. 717, 88 C. C. A. 577 [reversing 155 Fed. 368].

23. The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 (holding that a carrier is liable for losses incurred on a shipment of cattle through a fall in their market value, where the delay is occasioned by breach of the warranty of seaworthiness, although such breach was due to a hidden defect in the propeller shaft, not attributable to the carrier's negligence); La Conner Trading, etc., Co. v. Widmer, 136 Fed. 177, 69 C. C. A. 193; Smith v. Lee, 66 Fed. 344, 13 C. C. A. 506; Crenshaw v. Pearce, 43 Fed. 803 [reversing 37 Fed. 432].

When from the low stage of water a steamer cannot take a whole shipment of cotton, and the shipper is so informed, but taking all she can carry she returns for the rest, which nothing shows could by other means have been transported any sooner, the steamer is not liable (Pearl River Nav. Co. v. Douglass, 7 La. Ann. 631); and where the officers of a steamboat navigating a river have done everything required by reasonable care and skill in such navigation, neither the vessel nor her owners are liable for damage resulting to freighters from delay caused by the grounding of the boat (Levy v. The Great Republic, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,302, 2 Woods 33. But see Broadwell v. Butler, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,910, 6 McLean 296, Newb. Adm. 171, holding that the subsidence of the water in a river, preventing a boat from passing up the falls with its cargo, is not, in the absence of a usage to the contrary, within any of the reasons which excuse a carrier for the failure to deliver goods within a reasonable time). But where the river, in the meantime, was navigable by smaller boats, the master was not excused for delaying to transport the merchandise until the river was navigable by a lien on the vessel for the loss occasioned thereby;[24] but while it may be the duty of a common carrier receiving freight for transportation by rail and beyond the seas ordinarily to provide for the clearance of the vessel in which the goods are to be shipped, the shipper cannot complain of failure to obtain such clearance when it is prevented by the nature of the shipment.[25] Similarly, a bill of lading for the transportation of goods from one port to another prima facie imports a direct voyage,[26] unless there is a known usage of trade to touch at intermediate ports,[27] or deviation is permitted in the contract of affreightment,[28] and an unjustifiable deviation renders the carrier liable for the delay.[29] But the master may deviate where stress of weather makes it apparently necessary for a reasonable mariner to lay in,[30] or to make necessary repairs,[31] or in putting into port and delaying where he has reasonable fear of damages from capture by enemies,[32] and the same rule applies to delay caused by actual capture.[33] his own boat. Collier v. Swinney, 16 Mo. 484.

The freezing of canals or rivers excuses the delay of a common carrier by water, but he is bound to exercise ordinary forecast in anticipating the obstruction, and must use the proper means to overcome it, and to send the goods forward as soon as the obstruction is removed, and, in the meantime, must take due care of the property. Bowman v. Teall, 23 Wend. (N. Y.) 306, 35 Am. Dec. 562. And see Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Peale, 135 Fed. 606. Compare Hills Bros. Co. v. The Britannia, 87 Fed. 495.

24. The J. C. Stevenson, 17 Fed. 540; Hatton v. The Melita, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,218, 3 Hughes 494, so holding, although the delay was owing to the act that she was attached and sold in admiralty proceedings after the cargo was loaded, and holding also that the shippers were not obliged to remove the cargo at once on the attachment where they had reason to believe from the representations of the master that the vessel would be released and proceed on her voyage, nor were they obliged to remove their goods after the sale and ship them by another vessel, where it appeared that no time could be gained thereby.

25. Farmers' L. & T. Co. v. Northern Pac. Co., 112 Fed. 829 [reversed in 120 Fed. 873, 57 C. C. A. 533 (affirmed in 195 U. S. 439, 25 S. Ct. 84, 49 L. ed. 269) on the ground that the carrier had not been sufficiently diligent see that the vessel cleared and was therefore liable for resulting damage].

26. Lowry v. Russell, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 360.

27. Thatcher v. McCulloh, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,862, Olcott 365.

28. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316, holding that a bill of lading, describing flour as shipped for "Valparaiso and a market," authorized the ship to visit such other ports beyond the one named as the consignee might judge expedient. But see Hurlbut v. Turnure, 76 Fed. 587 (holding that a clause in a bill of lading, authorizing the vessel "to call at any port or ports for whatever purpose," does not release the vessel from taking the customary supply of coal, nor from loss by the resulting necessity for calling at a port for coal); McIver v. Tate Steamers, [1903] 1 K. B. 362, 9 Aspin. 362, 8 Com. Cas. 124, 72 L. J. Q. B. 253, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 182, 19 T. L. R. 217, 51 Wkly. Rep. 393.

A provision of bills of lading giving the vessel the right to deviate does not authorize her, after arriving at the port of delivery, to return to the port of shipment with the goods on board, and thence make a second voyage to the port of delivery, which is not a deviation, but an abandonment of the voyage so far as relates to such shipment. Pacific Coast Co. v. Yukon Independent Transp. Co., 155 Fed. 29, 83 C. C. A. 625.

29. Robinson v. Holst, 96 Ga. 19, 23 S. E. 76; Schwarzchild v. National Steamship Co., 74 Fed. 257; Thorley v. Orchis Steamship Co., [1907] 1 K. B. 660, 12 Com. Cas. 251, 76 L. J. K. B. 595, 96 L. T. Rep. N. S. 488, 23 T. L. R. 338; Davis v. Garrett, 6 Bing. 716, 8 L. J. C. P. O. S. 253, 4 M. & P. 540, 31 Rev. Rep. 524, 19 E. C. L. 321; Ellis v. Turner, 8 T. R. 531, 5 Rev. Rep. 441, 101 Eng. Reprint 1529. See Balian v. Joly, 6 T. L. R. 345.

30. Wilcox v. Five Hundred Tons of Coal, 14 Fed. 49, holding that the fact that other vessels made the passage did not ipso facto render the vessel liable for the delay, but the question was whether the master was in point of fact guilty of negligence in wintering the vessel there in view of the tempestuous weather and other surrounding circumstances.

31. Rathbone v. Neal, 4 La. Ann. 563, 50 Am. Dec. 579, holding, however, that a ship, forced into an intermediate port for repairs, must make them without unnecessary delay to proceed to the port of destination, and if she wait for orders from the owners they will be liable for any damages from the delay.

32. The Teutonia, L. R. 4 P. C. 171, 41 L. J. Adm. 57, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 48, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 411, 20 Wkly. Rep. 421, 17 Eng. Reprint 366; The San Roman, L. R. 5 P. C. 301, 1 Aspin. 603, 42 L. J. Adm. 46, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 381, 21 Wkly. Rep. 393. But see Nohel's Explosive Co. v. Jenkins, [1896] 2 Q. B. 326, 8 Aspin. 181, 65 L. J. Q. B. 638, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 163; Russell v. Niemann, 17 C. B. N. S. 163, 34 L. J. C. P. 10, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 786, 13 Wkly. Rep. 93, 112 E. C. L. 163.

33. Dunn v. Bucknall, [1901] 2 K. B. 614, 9 Aspin. 336, 8 Com. Cas. 33, 71 L. J. K. B. 963, 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 497, 18 T. L. R. 807, 51 Wkly Rep. 100.

5. Remedies of Shipper — a. General Rules; Procedure. The holder of a bill of lading has a remedy in admiralty against the master on his undertaking, or personally against the owners of the vessel, or against the vessel in rem, where the goods shipped on board are not delivered;[34] and the acceptance of the cargo by a consignee, with knowledge that there has been a deviation of the vessel during the voyage, does not deprive him of a right of action for any special damages which he may have sustained because of the deviation on account of depreciation of market prices.[35] The general rules governing actions for loss or injury to the goods carried[36] apply to actions by shippers against carriers by water for breach of the contract to transport and deliver, as to parties,[37] pleading,[38] burden of proof,[39]

34. The Leonidas, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,262, Olcott 12.

The water craft law of Indiana, providing for the enforcement of liens on vessels, does not extend to contracts made and broken out of the state; and hence, where plaintiff shipped certain articles at Cincinnati to be delivered in the state of Arkansas, and the articles were not so delivered, but were taken and left at New Orleans, an attachment suit would not lie in Indiana therefor (Coplinger v. The David Gibson, 14 Ind. 480); but where a steamboat contracted in Wheeling, Va., to carry merchandise to Cincinnati, part of which only was delivered in Cincinnati, and in an action against the boat by name for non-delivery, the boat was seized under the water craft law in Ohio, although she belonged to another state, it was held that the proceeding was to enforce a contract, and hence the remedy was applicable to any boat within the Ohio jurisdiction, regardless of the question of non-resident ownership (The Steamboat Baltimore v. Levi, 12 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 314, 2 Handy 30).

Under the provisions of the Iowa statute in relation to steamboats, in a proceeding against a boat for failure to deliver goods under a contract of affreightment, it does not matter where the contract was made. If violated within the waters of the state the party injured can have his remedy if he can have the boat seized under a warrant properly issued. Baker v. The Milwaukee, 14 Iowa 214.

La. Civ. Code, art. 312, fixing the time at which a ship is considered to have made a voyage, refers alone to the privileges given, by the articles which precede it, to creditors upon a ship, and does not govern the time when a shipper may bring an ordinary action, asking no privilege, for the failure to deliver goods. Pitkin v. Rousseau, 14 La. Ann. 511.

35. Thatcher v. McCulloh, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,862, Olcott 365.

36. See infra, VII, D, 12.

37. See infra, this note.

It is not necessary to make all of the joint owners of a boat parties to an action to recover of the owners of a boat for neglect to deliver bank-notes received by the boat for carriage, for the action is based on a breach of the customary duties of carriers, and is an action in tort. Orange County Bank v. Brown, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 158.

38. Under the general issue defendants may show, in an action for non-delivery of freight, that the goods delivered by plaintiff were shipped by another person, who took a bill of lading therefor. Evart v. Lowndes, 5 La. Ann. 426.

A plea of "not guilty" in a suit on a contract against a steamboat for non-delivery of goods shipped is bad, since the plea must correspond to the nature of the complaint. Erskine v. The Thames, 6 Mo. 371.

A complaint under Mo. Dig. (1835) p. 102, concerning boats and vessels, for non-delivery of goods shipped under a contract of affreightment, must allege that suit was commenced within six months after the cause of action accrued (Perpetual Ins. Co. v. The Detroit, 6 Mo. 374); but a complaint against a steamboat, filed under the statute, for non-delivery of goods shipped under a contract of affreightment, need not describe the property with any greater degree of particularity than is set out in the bill of lading (Camden v. The Georgia, 6 Mo. 381).

Where a paragraph of a bill avers delivery of the whole cargo taken on board, and the answer acknowledges that the paragraph containing this averment is true, a claim for shortage of cargo cannot be allowed. Muller v. Spreckels, 48 Fed. 574.

39. The Galena v. Beals, 5 Wis. 91 (holding that under a complaint for failure to deliver merchandise by a boat, it should be proved that it was delivered into the hands of the master, agent, or consignee of the boat, and that they failed to deliver it where it was consigned); Cunard Steamship Co. v. Kelley, 115 Fed. 678, 53 C. C. A. 310 (holding that the questions of the agent's authority to issue the bills, and whether there was an actual delivery of the goods to defendant, were under the evidence both questions for the jury, upon which plaintiff had the burden of proof).

Where the defense to an action for freight is short delivery the burden of proof is on respondent to prove shortage. Kerruish v. Havemeyers, etc., Sugar Refining Co., 49 Fed. 280, 1 C. C. A. 243 [affirming 42 Fed. 511].

The burden is on the vessel where all of the cargo taken on board is not delivered to account for it (Tygert Co. v. The Charles P. Sinnickson, 24 Fed. 304; The Saragossa, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,336, 2 Ben. 544, holding that where a libel alleged that three hundred and three bales of cotton were shipped on board a steamer to be carried to New York, and that a bill of lading therefor was signed by the agents of the vessel, and that seven of the bales were not delivered, the burden of proof was on the vessel to show that the bill of presumptions,[40] and as to the weight and sufficiency[41] of the evidence introduced.

b. Damages. A maritime lien arises in favor of the shipper for damages upon the refusal of the vessel to fulfil its contract of affreightment, and the measure of damages for the refusal of the vessel to meet its contract is the difference necessarily paid by the shipper to procure an equal service in advance of the contract price, and such other damage as unavoidably flows from the breach of the carrier's contract.[42] The general rules governing the measure of damage for loss or injury to cargo[43] apply to actions for failure on the part of the carrier lading was signed for bales of cotton that were never received on board); and in an action against the owners of a ship to recover for the non-delivery of a part of the cargo placed on board, it is incumbent on such owners to show that the missing cargo was placed with the other part of the cargo upon the wharf which had been selected for the deposit of libellant's goods (Carey v. Atkins, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,399, 6 Ben. 562); and in an action against it for alleged failure to deliver goods, which the ship had in fact discharged, but which the consignee had not received, to show that notice was given to the consignee of the place where the ship was to discharge, and failing to prove the giving of such notice, the consignee is entitled to recover the value of the goods (The Prince Albert, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,426, 5 Ben. 386); and where a carrier takes goods, giving a receipt excluding liability "for the dangers of navigation, fire, collision, or delivery, except to land goods on dock or pier," and fails to deliver them to the consignee, the burden is upon it to show that the goods were landed on the dock or pier (Browning v. Goodrich Transp. Co., 78 Wis. 391, 47 N. W. 428, 23 Am. St. Rep. 414, 10 L. R. A. 415).

In an action by a shipper for non-delivery of goods, the burden rests upon plaintiff to prove delivery of the goods to defendant for carriage; and bills of lading, signed for the master, and acknowledging the receipt of goods on the ship, even though shown to have been executed by a duly authorized agent of defendant, are insufficient for that purpose, where plaintiff's evidence further shows that when they were executed the goods had not been received on board ship, or consigned to the care of a master, but were in a public warehouse, registered in the name of a third party, and that there was no vessel in port. Cunard Steamship Co. v. Kelley, 115 Fed. 678, 53 C. C. A. 310.

40. The prima facie presumption as to the weight shipped which otherwise arises from the statement of the weight in the margin of the bill of lading is repelled by the stamping of the bill of lading by the master with the words "weight unknown," and, in case of alleged short delivery in weight, other proof of the weight shipped must be made (Matthiessen, etc., Sugar Refining Co. v. Gusi, 29 Fed. 794); and there can be no recovery for short delivery where the bill of lading says "weight and contents unknown," and no testimony is offered to show how much cargo was shipped, while the testimony from the ship is that all taken on board was delivered (The Venner, 27 Fed. 523; The Ismaele, 14 Fed. 491 [affirmed in 22 Fed. 559]; Campart v. The Prior, 2 Fed. 819. And see Eaton v. Neumark, 37 Fed. 375), and where two lots were delivered to a ship under different bills of lading, each containing the clause, "I do not know the weight," and no evidence was given to show how much was originally delivered under each bill of lading to the ship, the consignee of one lot cannot recover on a libel for a shortage without showing that less was delivered to him than was delivered to the ship under his bill of lading, although he shows that the consignee of the other lot received the whole quantity mentioned in his bill of lading (Schultz v. The Pietro, 40 Fed. 497).

41. The Ione v. Davis, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,058; Struver v. The Roderick, Dhu, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,552, holding that the wharf being the place of delivery, evidence that thirty-eight hogsheads of sugar, the full number called for by the bill of lading, were placed thereon, will exonerate the ship, as against evidence that only thirty-seven hogsheads were received at the consignee's storehouse, whither his own cartmen conveyed them.

Where different weights are put in evidence on a claim for short delivery, the greater cannot be adopted without preponderating proof. Eaton v. Neumark, 33 Fed. 891.

The mere statement of the purser that the number of bales was received, but part of them left behind, is not sufficient to sustain the burden of showing that the vessel did not receive the number of bales receipted for. The Saragossa, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,336, 2 Ben. 544.

Evidence held insufficient: To prove quantity put on board see The Daniel Burns, 56 Fed. 605, 6 C. C. A. 49 [affirming 52 Fed. 159]. To show that the carrier had received the goods claimed in the libel to have been received and lost by him see Stuart v. Boyer, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,553. To sustain a libel charging that the master of a vessel had converted the cargo, refusing to deliver it, the evidence being that the master had refused to deliver at a particular wharf, where he would be bound by the certificate of a particular weigher, selected by the libellant, as to the quantity of the cargo see The Treasurer, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,159, 1 Sprague 473. To prove a shortage of one thousand and thirty-two cases out of five thousand cases of oil shipped see The Seguranca, 68 Fed. 1014.

42. Miners' Co-Operative Assoc. v. The Monarch, 2 Alaska 383. But compare ante, VII, B, 1, c, (II).

43. See infra, VII, D, 12, e.

to deliver according to the contract of affreightment.[44] Thus in an action against a carrier for the non-delivery of a cargo, the measure of damages is the value of the articles at the port of delivery,[45] with interest from the time the delivery ought to have been made,[46] and failure of the master to deliver cargo in accordance with the terms of the bill of lading renders the vessel liable for the agreed value less freight and charges.[47] Where the master by his agreement with the shipper is to deliver the cargo at a certain port, but upon his arrival there the consignee refuses to receive it, and the master, instead of landing the cargo and storing it for the shipper's benefit at such port, carries it to another port, and sells it, the measure of damage, in an action by the shipper to recover damages for the non-delivery by the master, is the actual value of the cargo at the port where the master agreed to deliver it at the time when it might have been landed, deducting all duties and charges and freight for the voyage;[48] and similarly on a libel for not delivering according to the bill of lading, the goods being landed at a wrong wharf, the measure of damages is the value of the cargo less the freight charges;[49] and if, on reaching port, the master refuses to deliver the goods until he has been paid excessive charges and the consignee, after tendering what was due, notifies the master that he abandons the goods to the vessel, the consignee is entitled to recover from the vessel the value of the goods less the lawful charges.[50] In the ordinary case of delay by a common carrier in delivering goods, the measure of damages is the difference in their market value at the time when actually delivered and when they should have been delivered;[51] and this measure of damages is not changed by a stipulation in the bill of lading that the ship-owner is not to be liable in any case for more than the invoiced or declared value of the goods, the purpose of which is only to fix the outside limit of liability;[52] but where no time is fixed for the delivery of cargo, a claim for compensation because of the depressed state of the market when the goods were delivered, compared with its

44. The Tangier, 44 Fed. 692 (holding that upon a shortage in the delivery of a cargo of fruit, consisting of boxes of many grades, of different values, the libellant is entitled to the value of the particular grade to which his fruit belonged, if the grade of the missing fruit is identified; but where its grade is not established by any marks or numbers, through the failure of the bills of lading to specify the marks and numbers, the custom of merchants should be adopted of giving the average value per box of the whole cargo); Holland v. Seven Hundred and Twenty-Five Tons of Coal, 36 Fed. 784.

45. The Nith, 36 Fed. 86, 13 Sawy. 368 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 383, 13 Sawy. 481]; Greenway v. The Griffin, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,789.

46. The Nith, 36 Fed. 86, 13 Sawy. 368 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 383, 13 Sawy. 481].

47. Atlantic, etc., Guano Co. v. The Robert Center, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 630.

48. Arthur v. The Cassius, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 564, 2 Story 81.

49. The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,671, 1 Lowell 464.

The counsel fees of a replevin suit by the shipper to recover the cargo are not to be included in the damages assessed in the action for non-delivery. The Boston, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,671, 1 Lowell 464, holding, however, that where a master has failed to deliver a cargo according to the terms of his contract, and the vessel is libeled in admiralty, and it appears that since the libel was brought the shipper has replevied the cargo, the assessment of damages will be postponed until the replevin suit shall be determined.

50. Hoxsie v. The Reuben Doud, 46 Fed. 800. And see The Suffolk, 31 Fed. 835.

51. The Styria, 101 Fed. 728, 41 C. C. A. 639 [modified in 186 U. S. 1, 22 S. Ct. 731, 46 L. ed. 1027]; The Golden Rule, 9 Fed. 334. But see The George Dumois, 115 Fed. 65, 52 C. C. A. 659 [reversing 88 Fed. 537].

Stoppage in transitu.— Where the master of a vessel refuses to deliver goods shipped under a bill deliverable to the order of the shipper, in consequence of directions received from the shipper to stop the goods, which stoppage is subsequently withdrawn by the shipper, the vessel is liable in rem to the holder for the value of the bill of lading indorsed by the shipper, for the damages sustained by a fall in value of the goods between the time of demand and the time of actual delivery (Schmidt v. The Pennsylvania, 4 Fed. 548); and if, in consequence of the refusal to deliver, the holder of the bill of lading loses the benefit of a sale which he had made of the goods to arrive, and of which he had notified the master of the vessel at the time of demand, the measure of damages is the difference between the price at which such sale was made and the market price at the time of the actual delivery by the master (Schmidt v. The Pennsylvania, supra).

52. The Styria, 101 Fed. 728, 41 C. C. A. 639 [modified in 186 U. S. 1, 22 S. Ct. 731, 46 L. ed. 1027].

condition when it was alleged they ought to have arrived, is too speculative and vague to be made a ground for adjudging damages;[53] and the value of goods damaged through the neglect of the ship is best determined by a public sale within a reasonable time after arrival, and intermediate market fluctuations are not to be regarded.[54] Where but a portion of the cargo stated on a false bill of lading was actually shipped, and the owner of the vessel is not shown to have been a party to the fraud, the only damages to be found in an action in rem against the vessel are for the non-delivery of the cargo shown to have been put on board.[55] If the owner of a cargo of a sunken vessel raises it, after notice to the owner of the vessel, the expense of such raising, with interest, may be allowed as damages in a suit for non-delivery.[56]

D. Loss of or Injury to Cargo — 1. Grounds of Liability in General. The rule that a carrier is responsible for all losses except such as are inevitable or arise from the act of God or the public enemy applies to carriers by water,[57]

53. The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196].

54. The Earnwood, 83 Fed. 315.

55. The Alice, 12 Fed. 496.

56. The Sunswick, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,625, 5 Blatchf. 280.

57. Alabama.— Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

Connecticut.— Hale v. New Jersey Steam Nav. Co., 15 Conn. 539, 39 Am. Dec. 398; Richards v. Gilbert, 5 Day 415.

Missouri.— Daggett v. Shaw, 3 Mo. 264, 25 Am. Dec. 439.

South Carolina.— Harrington v. Lyles, 2 Nott & M. 88; McClures v. Hammond, 1 Bay 99, 1 Am. Dec. 598.

United States.— The Maggie Hammond v. Morland, 9 Wall. 435, 19 L. ed. 772; La Tourette v. Burton, 1 Wall. 43, 17 L. ed. 609; Clifton v. Sheldon, 1 Black 494, 17 L. ed. 155; The Niagara v. Cordes, 21 How. 7, 16 L. ed. 41; Ames Mercantile Co. v. Kimball Steamship Co., 125 Fed. 332; The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)]; Tygert Co. v. The Charles P. Sinnickson, 24 Fed. 304; The Colina, 19 Fed. 131 (where the owners of the steamship contracted to supply ample condensed water for a cargo of cattle, and the water furnished was unfit and caused the death of some and deterioration in the value of all the remainder); The Centennial, 7 Fed. 601 (damage to a cargo of sugar which may have occurred through a neglect to pump out the ship, or through a clogging of the limbers by coal dust, or by sugar, or by both coal dust and sugar); May v. The Powhatan, 5 Fed. 375 (injury to cattle on hot day by failure to use wind sails); Hoboken Land, etc., Co. v. The Sunswick, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,552 (loss caused by the capsizing of the vessel due solely to improper stowage); The Shand, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,702, 10 Ben. 294 (damage caused by failure to properly work pump after springing leak); Tompkins v. The Dutchess of Ulster, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,087*a*. But see Thoron v. The Mississippi, 76 Fed. 375; British, etc., Marine Ins. Co. v. The Annie Harjes, 45 Fed. 900; The Flash, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,858, Abb. Adm. 119.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 440.

Liability for loss of money carried.— The fact that boats customarily carried money for hire, but did not charge their regular customers, does not make a case of liability against a boat, as carrier, for loss of money taken by its captain to be carried as an act of courtesy (Chouteau v. The St. Anthony, 16 Mo. 216; Citizens' Bank v. Nantucket Steamboat Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,730, 2 Story 16. But see Carey v. Meagher, 33 Ala. 630, holding that the owners of a steamboat are responsible as common carriers for the loss of a cash letter delivered to the clerk, if the jury find that it is the general custom of steamboats to carry such letters, although they are delivered to the clerk and carried without charge), nor is money "goods" within the meaning of a statute imposing liability for loss of goods (Pumphry v. Steamboat Perkersburgh, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 356, 2 West. L. Month. 492 (Swan St. p. 185, § 1), nor "merchandise" within the meaning of a charter granting the right to carry merchandise (Citizens' Bank v. Nantucket Steamboat Co., supra).

Some early American cases did not hold the carrier by water to such strict accountability. See Aymar v. Astor, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 266; King v. Lenox, 19 Johns. (N. Y.) 235; Ogden v. Barker, 18 Johns. (N. Y.) 87; Palmer v. Lorillard, 16 Johns. (N. Y.) 348 [reversing 15 Johns. 14]; Barnwell v. Hussy, 1 Mill (S. C.) 114.

Under the English statutes relating to pilotage the owners of the vessel cannot escape liability for injury to her cargo by reason of the presence of a licensed pilot on board, if at the time when the injury occurred it was not obligatory on the owners of the vessel to put her in charge of such pilot, and the pilot was in charge by the voluntary act of the owners. Guiterman v. Liverpool, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 9 Daly (N. Y.) 119 [reversed on other grounds in 83 N. Y. 358], holding also that a steamship company is not relieved from liability to shippers, for loss of goods, by the compulsory presence of a pilot on board, where the negligence resulting in the accident was not exclusively that of the pilot.

When a carrier employs a towboat to tow and as well to inland as to other waters,[58] and whether on coasting or ocean voyages.[59] A carrier by water is not, however, liable for the destruction of or injury to goods due solely to their inherent nature and qualities or defects,[60] or from his vessel, and by the negligence of those in charge of the towboat damage is done to the cargo, and the carrier has not in his contract excepted such risks, he is liable to the owners of the property. Merrick v. Brainard, 38 Barb. (N. Y.) 574 [affirmed in 34 N. Y. 208]. The rule is of course of greater force where the owner of the tug is the owner of the tow. Bradley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 153 Fed. 350, 82 C. C. A. 426 [affirming 145 Fed. 569]. But the board rule laid down in Merrick v. Brainard, supra, would seem to be of rather doubtful application, the view being taken in America that the tug is an independent contractor and not an agent of the tow, and that the latter is not liable for the tug's acts. In England the rule is otherwise. See Hughes Adm. 119 et seq. [citing The Virginia Ehrman, 97 U. S. 309–315, 24 L. ed. 890; The Clarita, 23 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 23 L. ed. 146; Sturgis v. Boyer, 24 How. (U. S.) 110, 16 L. ed. 591; The America, 102 Fed. 767, 42 C. C. A. 617; The Isaac H. Tillyer, 101 Fed. 478; Pederson v. Spreckles, 87 Fed. 938, 31 C. C. A. 308; The Imperial, 38 Fed. 614, 3 L. R. A. 234; Dutton v. The Express, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,209, 3 Cliff. 462; The America, L. R. 6 P. C. 127, 2 Aspin. 350, 43 L. J. Adm. 30, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 42, 22 Wkly. Rep. 927; Smith v. St. Lawrence Towboat Co., L. R. 5 P. C. 308, 2 Aspin. 41, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 885, 21 Wkly. Rep. 569; The Quickstep, 15 P. D. 196, 6 Aspin. 603, 59 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 65, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 713; The Niobe, 13 P. D. 55, 6 Aspin. 300, 57 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 33, 59 L. T. Rep. N. S. 257, 36 Wkly. Rep. 812; The Isca, 12 P. D. 34, 6 Aspin. 63, 56 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 47, 55 L. T. Rep. N. S. 779, 35 Wkly. Rep. 382; Quarman v. Burnett, 4 Jur. 969, 9 L. J. Exch. 308, 6 M. & W. 499].

Whenever delivery to a lighter boat engaged in carrying goods from the harbor out to the steamship is equivalent to delivery to a steamship, the latter is liable in rem for the loss of goods on the lighter boat before delivery on board the steamship. Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54; Richards v. Gilbert, 5 Day (Conn.) 415; Schulze-Berge v. The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796 (holding that it is negligence in a ship-owner to appoint as captain a man known to be intemperate, or whose intemperate habits might have been ascertained on reasonable inquiry, and, if loss of goods shipped is attributable to the master's inefficiency, the owners are liable); The City of Alexandria, 28 Fed. 202.

The rule applies to damage before actually shipping but after delivery to the carrier. Chubb v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 116 Fed. 902. Thus where cotton sent by plaintiffs to be shipped on board a vessel was suffered to remain on the levee during the night following its delivery, and was burned, the vessel was liable therefor (Fisher v. The Norval, 8 Mart. N. S. (La.) 120); and where goods left on the levee to be shipped were exposed to rain, and the shipper subsequently proposed to the master to ascertain the damage from the exposure before the voyage, and the latter declined to do so, the vessel was responsible for any increase in damage resulting from the voyage and the delay to which the goods were necessarily exposed in the foreign port before they could be examined (Barrett v. Salter, 10 Rob. (La.) 434); but not before actual delivery to the carrier (see Barrett v. Salter, supra).

Goods taken on board clandestinely.— Where a ship-owner is present, and has the conducting of the voyage, or has an agent for that business, he is not liable for loss of goods taken on board clandestinely by the master; aliter if he assents to and adopts the master's act, or knows, before the ship sails, that the goods have been received on board. Walter v. Brewer, 11 Mass. 99.

Conversely where a person undertakes to load a boat, and by his negligence he injures the boat, he is liable in damages to the owner. Pate v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 35 N. C. 325, holding, however, that where the person did not act as agent of the owner of the goods, but for another person who had undertaken the loading, the owners of the goods were not liable for injuries to the boat caused by such person permitting the goods to fall.

58. The Belfast v. Boon, 41 Ala. 50; Stephens, etc., Transp. Co. v. Tuckerman, 33 N. J. L. 543 (holding that in an action to recover for goods lost by the sinking of defendant's vessel, on which they were being carried, under special contract, to a point above that to which defendants usually carried goods, the fact that the vessel sunk above the point usually navigated by defendant did not relieve defendant of its liability as a common carrier); McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190 (navigation on Lake Erie); Southcote's Case, 4 Coke 83*b*, 76 Eng. Reprint 1061.

59. Gage v. Tirrell, 9 Allen (Mass.) 299; Elliott v. Rossell, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 1, 6 Am. Dec. 306; Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788; Hill v. Scott, [1895] 2 Q. B. 371, 64 L. J. Q. B. 635, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 210 [affirmed in [1895] 2 Q. B. 713, 8 Aspin. 109, 65 L. J. Q. B. 87, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 458]; Nugent v. Smith, 1 C. P. D. 423, 3 Aspin. 198, 45 L. J. C. P. 697, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 827, 24 Wkly. Rep. 237; Benett v. Peninsular, etc., Steamboat Co., 6 C. B. 775, 18 L. J. C. P. 85, 60 E. C. L. 775; Barclay v. Cuculla, 3 Dougl. 389, 26 E. C. L. 256, 99 Eng. Reprint 711; Laveroni v. Drury, 8 Exch. 166, 16 Jur. 1024, 22 L. J. Exch. 2, 1 Wkly. Rep. 55; Dale v. Hall, 1 Wils. C. P. 282, 95 Eng. Reprint 619. And see cases cited infra, the following notes.

60. Clark v. Barnwell, 12 How. (U. S.)

their having been shipped in an unfit condition;[61] but, although the carrier is exempt from liability for damage or deterioration arising from the nature of the goods or of the voyage, yet, if there has been a want of proper care or skill on his part in guarding against such damages, the injury will be ascribed to his negligence.[62] The burden is upon the carrier to show loss or damage by such a cause as excuses him from liability,[63] and he will not be excused by showing that the navigation was difficult or dangerous, or that skilful and competent persons were employed to conduct the boat; but, to avoid liability, must show that the loss occurred in a manner and from a cause that will acquit him.[64]

2. Act of God; Perils of the Sea. It is a general rule that carriers by water, like other carriers,[65] are not liable for loss or damage arising from acts of God, or such perils of the sea or of navigation as come within the meaning of that term.[66]

272, 13 L. ed. 985; Choate v. Crowninshield, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,691, 3 Cliff. 184 (damage resulting to a cargo of cotton in bales, from moisture of the contents of the bales received previous to the time of lading, which could not have been discovered by the master. The vessel was in all respects seaworthy, and there appeared to be no want of ordinary care, skill, and energy on the part of the master, to protect the goods against such injury, while on board the vessel); Ordt v. Ocean Steam Nav. Co., 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,551 (ribbons packed damp whereby they became discolored); Nugent v. Smith, 45 L. J. C. P. 697, 1 C. P. D. 423, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 827, 24 Wkly. Rep. 237 [reversing 1 C. P. D. 19, 45 L. J. C. P. 19, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 731]. But see The Freedom, L. R. 3 P. C. 594, 1 Aspin. 136, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 452 [affirming L. R. 2 A. & E. 346, 38 L. J. Adm. 25, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 229, 1018, 18 Wkly. Rep. 48], holding that where the ordinary consequence of the inherent defect has been aggravated by the manner of stowing them, the owner is liable, although guilty of no negligence in their storage.

61. The Barcore, [1896] P. 294, 8 Aspin. 189, 65 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 97, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 168; The Ida, 2 Aspin. 551, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 541.

62. The Invincible, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,056, 3 Sawy. 176.

63. Whitney v. Gauche, 11 La. Ann. 432; Barrett v. Salter, 10 Rob. (La.) 434 (holding that the ship, receipting for goods as in good order, is liable for any damage subsequently discovered, unless clearly proved to have occurred before the delivery); The D. Harvey, 139 Fed. 755 (holding that a vessel is liable for damage to a cargo of cement which was received in good condition, but was lumpy and set when delivered, due to its having been wet, in the absence of explanation of the manner in which it became wet); Insurance Co. of North America v. Easton, etc., Transp. Co., 97 Fed. 653 (holding that where a common carrier assumes to deliver a cargo in good order, "the dangers of the seas only excepted," the failure to do so casts upon him the burden of proving that the loss was caused by the excepted risk; and, in the absence of satisfactory proof thereof, the court is justified in finding for the libellant, even if the cause of the disaster does not clearly appear); Tygert Co. v. The Charles P. Sinnickson, 24 Fed. 304.

64. Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323.

65. See Carriers, 6 Cyc. 377 et seq.

66. Colt v. McMechen, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 160, 5 Am. Dec. 200 (where the officer navigating the vessel became unable to control her by reason of a sudden cessation of the wind and she was wrecked on the shore); American Sugar Refining Co. v. The Euripides, 71 Fed. 728, 18 C. C. A. 226; Pearce v. The Thomas Newton, 41 Fed. 106 (damages directly resulting from a tidal wave and flood, such as had occurred but twice before in forty years); Higgins v. Watson, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,470 (holding that the vessel owner is not liable for the loss by sea perils of goods laden on deck with the shipper's consent, in the absence of culpable neglect or misconduct in their destruction); Tompkins v. The Dutchess of Ulster, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,087*a*; Nugent v. Smith, 1 C. P. D. 19, 45 L. J. C. P. 19, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 731 [reversed on other grounds in 1 C. P. D. 423, 3 Aspin. 198, 45 L. J. C. P. 697, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 827, 24 Wkly. Rep. 237].

Such as a violent and unusual storm or gale. Clyde Steamship Co. v. Burrows, 36 Fla. 121, 18 So. 349 (fish received for transportation by a vessel, which spoiled on account of the vessel's encountering a heavy gale and dangerous seas, which displaced the rudder post, and required the vessel to put in at a port where no ice could be obtained in which to repack the fish); Medina v. Hanson, 17 La. Ann. 290; Cochran v. The Cleopatra, 17 La. Ann. 270; Letchford v. The Golden Eagle, 17 La. Ann. 9; The Tennessee v. Tardos, 7 La. Ann. 28 (holding that where a boat on her outward voyage carried a cargo of lard, was scraped and limed on discharging her cargo, and was loaded for the return voyage with casks of wine, and on the return she encountered a rough sea, causing her to leak, so that the casks were discolored and soiled by grease and sea water, the vessel was not liable for the damage done by the sea water, that being a peril of the sea, but the injury from the grease was not ascribable to the same cause, and for such injury the vessel was liable); Leamaitre v. Merle, 2 Rob. (La.) 402; The Langfond, 143 Fed. 150; Munson Steamship Line v. Steiger, 132 Fed. 160 [affirmed in 136 Fed. 772, 69 C. C. A. 492]

Nor is the carrier, in the absence of contract to the contrary, liable for loss

(holding that the loss of logs which broke loose from a raft by reason of a high wind, after they had been towed out to a steamer for loading in the open sea, was due to a peril of the sea, and the steamer is not liable therefor); Graves v. The Calvin S. Edwards, 50 Fed. 477, 1 C. C. A. 533 [affirming 46 Fed. 815] (a severe storm, which caused the abandonment of the vessel after sixteen hours); The Zealandia, 48 Fed. 697 (holding that where a cask of oil, which is lashed securely as against all ordinary weather, breaks loose during an extremely violent gale, and causes injury to other goods, the damage must be attributed to a peril of the sea, especially when it appears that such accidents are not infrequent); The J. C. Stevenson, 17 Fed. 540 (holding that where a vessel on which a load of cattle was shipped encountered a storm of unusual severity, in which many of the cattle were injured, she is not liable, where the contrivances on board the vessel were such as were then customarily used in vessels of that character, and it appeared that other steamships, carrying cattle, which encountered the same hurricane, also sustained heavy losses); Nugent v. Smith, 1 C. P. D. 19, 45 L. J. C. P. 19, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 731 [reversed in 1 C. P. D. 423, 3 Aspin. 198, 45 L. J. C. P. 697, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 827, 24 Wkly. Rep. 237]; The Thrunscoe, [1897] P. 301, 8 Aspin. 313, 66 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 173, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 407, 13 T. L. R. 566, 46 Wkly. Rep. 175; Anmies v. Stevens, Str. 127, 93 Eng. Reprint 428 (a sudden gust of wind). But storms encountered during a voyage, although they may have been an adequate cause for an injury to the vessel resulting in leakage and damage to the cargo, are not sufficient to relieve the carrier from liability for such damage, nor from the burden of proving seaworthiness, where they were not of such an unusual character but that they should have been anticipated, and it is not shown that the injury could not have been provided against by proper inspection and care with respect to the part injured before sailing, and such inspection was not made, nor care exercised. The Aggi, 93 Fed. 484.

Damage or loss held not to be caused by such a peril of the sea as absolves the carrier. See Bason v. Charleston, etc., Steamboat Co., Harp. (S. C.) 262 (where defendant's steamboat in going through an inland passage in which grounding from reflux of the tide was unavoidable, grounded on an uneven surface so that she heeled to starboard, and the bilge water settled aft and injured a box of books stowed in the cabin); American Sugar Refining Co. v. The Euripides, 71 Fed. 728, 18 C. C. A. 226 [reversing 52 Fed. 161] (the water which did the damage appeared to have escaped during flushings through a hole gnawed by rats); The Mangalore, 23 Fed. 462 (for injury to the cargo caused by a faulty hatch being stove in by a sea); The Costa Rica, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,261, 3 Sawy. 538 (where the master of a steamer attempted to come up the bay of San Francisco in a dense fog, the vessel being in comparative safety, and the master not being compelled by any exigency to make the attempt, and the vessel was stranded and the cargo damaged); Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422 (damages from blowing of the vessel).

Blowing of a vessel is not like sweating, an incident to navigation which cannot be prevented or avoided by human means. Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422.

Running against rocks on the shore renders the owner liable in the absence of contract restrictions. Fergusson v. Brent, 12 Md. 9, 71 Am. Dec. 582; McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190; Craig v. Childress, Peck (Tenn.) 270, 14 Am. Dec. 751.

Running against a hidden obstacle in the water has been held not to come within the exceptions absolving the owner of the vessel. Steele v. McTyer, 31 Ala. 667, 70 Am. Dec. 516; Merritt v. Earle, 29 N. Y. 115, 86 Am. Dec. 292 (a submerged mast visible at low water); Friend v. Woods, 6 Gratt. (Va.) 189, 52 Am. Dec. 119 (holding that where the boat of a common carrier upon a river is stranded upon a recently formed bar, of which he was ignorant, he will be liable for damage thereby caused to the goods; such accident not being referable to the act of God); Trent Nav. Co. v. Wood, 4 Dougl. 287, 3 Esp. 127, 26 E. C. L. 479, 99 Eng. Reprint 884 (a hidden anchor). Thus the owner has been held for steering on a shoal in a fog (Liver Alkali Co. v. Johnson, L. R. 9 Exch. 338, 2 Aspin. 332, 43 L. J. Exch. 216, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 95), or because of changes in the channel of the river (Trent Nav. Co. v. Wood, 4 Dougl. 287, 3 Esp. 127, 26 E. C. L. 479, 99 Eng. Reprint 884). But there are cases to the contrary holding that if the vessel struck a snag or rock not hitherto known and not actually known to the master, the owner is not liable (Williams v. Grant, 1 Conn. 487, 7 Am. Dec. 235; Pennewill v. Cullen, 5 Harr. (Del.) 238; Boyce v. Welch, 5 La. Ann. 623; Deaver v. Bedford, 5 Rob. (La.) 245, 39 Am. Dec. 535; Smyrl v. Niolon, 2 Bailey (S. C.) 421, 23 Am. Dec. 146; Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 340); but the rule is otherwise if the obstacle is known or laid down on any chart (Pennewill v. Cullen, supra; Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. (Ky.) 643, 63 Am. Dec. 561; Fergusson v. Brent, 12 Md. 9, 71 Am. Dec. 582, rock marked by buoy and generally known).

Damage by rats is held not to come within the exception to the carrier's liability (American Sugar-Refining Co. v. The Euripides, 71 Fed. 728, 18 C. C. A. 226; Dale v. Hall, 1 Wils. C. P. 281, 95 Eng. Reprint 619 (a famous case); particularly where they have done similar damage to the vessel before (The Italia, 59 Fed. 617); and in a voyage from a port known by the master to be infested with rats, the keeping of cats on board caused by the public enemy,[67] or inevitable accident caused without fault of the carrier or his agents or servants;[68] but where an accident on a boat, causing injury to goods being transported thereon, could have been avoided by using such precautions as are actually used on many boats, the injury was not caused by

is not a sufficient exercise of diligence to excuse the carrier from liability from damage from that cause (Kirkland v. The Fame, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,845).

Sweating of vessel or cargo.— Although a dampness or sweating of the hold of a vessel is not a "peril of the sea," the vessel is not liable for injury to the cargo thereby if the sweating is not augmented by improper stowage (Baxter v. Leland, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,124, Abb. Adm. 348 [affirmed in 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,125, 1 Blatchf. 526]; McCullough v. The Echo, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,740*a*. See The Martha, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,145, Olcott 140), and in an action against a vessel for damages to the cargo caused by "sweat," where it appears that the goods were stowed in the usual and proper manner, it will not be held negligence in the carrier to have failed to adopt a certain system of ventilation, the utility and efficacy of which as a preventive of a "sweat" is a matter of doubt and dispute (Adrain v. The Live Yankee, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 88).

Custom of trade will control where it is doubtful whether injury is caused by excusable perils of the seas, or by dangers for which carriers are responsible (Baxter v. Leland, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,124, Abb. Adm. 348); but a carrier cannot show that a usage exists that the dangers of navigation and unavoidable accident are excepted from the risks of common carriers (Coxe v. Heisley, 19 Pa. St. 243).

Damage or loss held not to result from act of God see Tompkins v. The Dutchess of Ulster, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,087*a*, where it appeared that the boiler leaked so badly as to prevent maintaining a fire to propel the boat against a strong head wind, and she was obliged to come to anchor during the storm, and sank after two days and a half.

Human agency must not have in any way intervened to produce the loss. Forward v. Pittard, 1 T. R. 27, 1 Rev. Rep. 142, 99 Eng. Reprint 953. Thus where the vessel was being towed and the towboat stopped to make way for another vessel, in consequence of which the vessel towed was driven against the tug, the damage was not attributable to an act of God (Oakley v. Portsmouth, etc., Steam Packet Co., 11 Exch. 618, 25 L. J. Exch. 99, 4 Wkly. Rep. 236); nor is a mistake caused by mistaking a light on a stranded vessel to be a beacon light (McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190).

Act of God defined see CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 377.

67. Hedricks v. The Morning Star, 18 La. Ann. 353; The Teutonia, L. R. 4 P. C. 171, 41 L. J. Adm. 57, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 48, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 411, 20 Wkly. Rep. 421, 17 Eng. Reprint 366; The San Roman, L. R. 5 P. C. 301, 1 Aspin. 603, 42 L. J. Adm. 46, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 381, 21 Wkly. Rep. 393. But see Russell v. Nieman, 17 C. B. N. S. 163, 34 L. J. C. P. 10, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 786, 13 Wkly. Rep. 93, 112 E. C. L. 163.

68. Hennen v. Munroe, 11 Mart. (La.) 579; Morrison v. McFadden, 5 Pa. L. J. Rep. 23, holding that accidents arising from the breaking of dams in canals are such inevitable accidents as furnish an excuse to common carriers for the loss of goods.

Fire.— In the absence of contract stipulations (Singleton v. Hilliard, 1 Strobh. (S. C.) 203), or well-defined usage exempting the carrier (Singleton v. Hilliard, supra; Patton v. Magrath, Dudley (S. C.) 159, 31 Am. Dec. 552), the liability of common carriers by water extends to the loss by fire of goods shipped on board them (Louisville, etc., Packet Co. v. Rogers, 20 Ind. App. 594, 49 N. E. 970; Hunt v. Morris, 6 Mart. (La.) 676, 12 Am. Dec. 489, holding that where a steamboat was destroyed by fire at night, while returning from a trip to procure wood, and while it was aground, the carrier was not liable, in the absence of proof of negligence); Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N. Y. 431; Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month. 75; Harrington v. McShane, 2 Watts (Pa.) 443, 27 Am. Dec. 321; Singleton v. Hilliard, supra; Patton v. Magrath, supra). And see, generally, CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 378 text and note 14, 376 text and note 91.

Theft of goods while in the carrier's hands renders him liable for the loss (The Belfast v. Boon, 41 Ala. 50, 40 Ala. 184, 88 Am. Dec. 761, holding that robbery is no defense to a common carrier by water on an inland river for the loss of goods; and that this principle was not changed by the act of congress which declared robbery on any river where the tide ebbs and flows to be piracy, which would be a good defense for the lost goods; The Saratoga, 20 Fed. 869); although there be no fault or negligence imputed to him (Schieffelin v. Harvey, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 170, 5 Am. Dec. 206). Thus plundering by a customs-house officer having charge of a vessel is within the risks assumed by the owner under a bill of lading. Schieffelin v. Harvey, Anth. N. P. (N. Y.) 76.

A carrier by boat losing goods by a collision with another boat is liable therefor, in the absence of stipulations, although the collision occurred without fault on his part (Plaisted v. Boston, etc., Steam Nav. Co., 27 Me. 132, 46 Am. Dec. 587; Daggett v. Shaw, 3 Mo. 264, 25 Am. Dec. 439; Mershon v. Hobensack, 22 N. J. L. 372; Hays v. Kennedy, 41 Pa. St. 378, 80 Am. Dec. 627. But see The New Jersey, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,162, Olcott 444); and the owners of a vessel, the negligence or want of skill of whose officers causes it to collide with another vessel, are liable for the injuries sustained by the cargo of the other vessel (Blythe v. Marsh, 1 McCord (S. C.) 360. And see COLLISION, 7 Cyc. 372), a danger of navigation, and the carrier is liable.[69] And if the carrier relies upon one of these accepted causes he must show that it was the proximate cause of the injury; and if his own act intervenes as the proximate cause of the damage, he cannot escape liability;[70] and in seeking to be relieved from liability for damage to cargo in transit, under the exceptions of perils of the sea, the ship-owner, as carrier, is bound to prove that the injuries were the result of such untoward circumstances as could not have been anticipated and guarded against by the exercise of ordinary care and prudence.[71]

3. JETTISON.[72] In cases of extreme necessity and danger the master may jettison cargo.[73] He may select what articles he pleases, and whatever proporand if goods are injured by the wanton or careless collision of boats, the carrier is liable to the shipper, and must seek his remedy from the aggressor (Lawrence v. McGregor, Wright (Ohio) 193). A custom among navigators of steamboats on a river to observe particular situations in ascending and descending will bind such navigators to its observance, and a failure to do so will be at the peril of the owners, in respect to goods lost in a collision caused by failure to follow the custom. Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716.

69. Haughton v. The Memphis, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 403, 1 West. L. J. 562.

70. Corsar v. J. D. Spreckles, etc., Co., 141 Fed. 260, 72 C. C. A. 378 (holding that if the jettison of cargo or damage thereto is rendered necessary by or due to any fault or breach of contract on the part of the owner or master of the vessel, the loss must be attributed to that cause, rather than to the sea peril, although that may enter into the case); The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)] (holding that where a steamer was run upon the beach solely because a leak had been discovered which endangered the vessel and which could not be controlled, and water immediately came in over her deck, so that merchandise was injured, the proximate cause of the injury was the leak, and not the stranding of the vessel).

Doctrine of proximate cause see infra, VII, D, 10.

71. The Westminster, 127 Fed. 680, 62 C. C. A. 406 [affirming 116 Fed. 123].

72. "Jettison" defined see 23 Cyc. 373.

Jettison of cargo for claim for contribution in general average see infra, X, D, 5, i.

73. Price v. Hartshorn, 44 N. Y. 94, 4 Am. Rep. 645 [affirming 44 Barb. 655] (holding that bill of lading requiring a vessel to deliver goods at the place of destination without delay, damage, or deficiency in quantity specified, if any, to be deducted from charges by consignee, did not change the liability of the owner of the vessel, and make him liable as an insurer for loss of goods by jettison rendered necessary by a violent storm); Burton v. English, 12 Q. B. D. 218, 5 Aspin. 187, 53 L. J. Q. B. 133, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768, 32 Wkly. Rep. 655; Mouse's Case, 12 Coke 63, 77 Eng. Reprint 1341 (cited in Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) 17); The Gratitudine, 3 C. Rob. 240.

The rules applicable to an alleged excuse for a jettison at sea, where the perils of the sea are excepted, govern in case of a jettison on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, where the dangers of the river are excepted. Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. (Ky.) 643, 63 Am. Dec. 561.

It is not necessary to throw overboard to constitute jettison, any means for getting rid of a cargo as by knocking in the heads of casks of wine and letting the liquor flow away, is permissible. Vansyckle v. The Thomas Ewing, 5 Pa. L. J. 231.

A jettison made in a smooth sea when the ship was in no immediate danger was lawful, where it appeared that the articles jettisoned could not be thrown overboard in any considerable sea without the greatest risk, that they were of great weight and had severely strained the vessel in a previous storm, and that the master in making his decision for the jettison acted in an emergency, with due deliberation, with no unreasonable timidity, with an honest intention to do his duty, and in the fair exercise of his skill and discretion. Lawrence v. Minturn, 17 How. (U. S.) 100, 15 L. ed. 58.

Circumstances justifying jettison see Van Syckel v. The Thomas Ewing, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,877, Crabbe 405, 5 Pa. L. J. 231, holding that where a vessel arrived at the mouth of a bay when the weather was threatening, and the captain, being unable to obtain a pilot, determined to follow a pilot boat up the bay, the persons on board such boat having told him, on learning his draught of water, that he might do so in safety, his act was not negligence rendering the owners liable for goods which it became necessary to throw overboard to save the ship and cargo on the vessel becoming grounded.

When goods carried on deck by the shipper's consent, and not by reason of any usage, are jettisoned for the common safety, the vessel being seaworthy to carry a cargo under deck, but so injured by a storm that she cannot carry freight on deck, the owner has no remedy against the vessel, master, or owners for the loss by jettison (Dodge v. Bartol, 5 Me. 296, 17 Am. Dec. 233; Smith v. Wright, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 43, 2 Am. Dec. 162; Lawrence v. Minturn, 17 How. (U. S.) 100, 15 L. ed. 58; The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 188), but the rule is otherwise where the goods are so stowed without consent of the shipper (Dodge v. Bartol, supra; The Delaware, 14 Wall. (U. S.) 579, 20

tion he deems proper, and thus if necessary he may jettison the whole cargo.[74] While hazard of life is not absolutely essential to justification of the jettison,[75] the carrier is responsible if the jettison is made without good cause;[76] and where a jettison of cargo becomes necessary for the safety of the vessel, the owner and vessel are liable for the loss, if the peril of the ship is directly attributable to the want of diligence or skill upon the part of the master or crew,[77] and the vessel is liable for a jettison of a cargo which the master might have saved by lighters.[78] Jettison is not justifiable if made only to prevent harm to the boat, or to expedite the voyage.[79]

4. Seizure of Goods Under Legal Authority.[80] Where the goods are taken from the carrier by valid legal process against the owner, if the carrier acts in good faith he is not liable;[81] but he must immediately notify the owner,[82] and

L. ed. 779; The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware (U. S.) 188), unless when whether stowed above or below hatches the jettison is necessary to the safety of the ship (Gillett v. Ellis, 11 Ill. 579); and thus it has been held that under an ordinary bill of lading the carrier is liable for goods stowed on deck and necessarily jettisoned (The Wellington, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,384, 1 Biss. 279. And see also The Gran Canaria, 16 Fed. 868)). As to carriage of cargo on deck see infra, VII, D, 6, b.

Consumption of cargo in emergency if justifiable acts similarly upon the owner's liability as jettison does. Bursley v. The Marlborough, 47 Fed. 667.

74. The Gratitudine, 3 C. Rob. 240.

75. Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. (Ky.) 643, 63 Am. Dec. 561.

76. Notara v. Henderson, L. R. 7 Q. B. 225, 1 Aspin. 278, 41 L. J. Q. B. 158, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 442, 20 Wkly. Rep. 443; Whitecross Wire, etc., Co. v. Savill, 8 Q. B. D. 653, 4 Aspin. 531, 51 L. J. Q. B. 426, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 643, 30 Wkly. Rep. 588; The Norway, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 57, 13 Wkly. Rep. 296.

77. Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. (Ky.) 643, 63 Am. Dec. 561 (holding that in order to make an act so obviously injurious to the shipper, and apparently so contrary to the undertaking and duty of the carrier, as a jettison, operative in itself as an excuse for the non-delivery, and a defense to the shipper's action for the apparent breach of contract, the act itself must be shown to have been caused by one of the dangers which could not have been avoided, and to have been rendered necessary by circumstances over which defendants, and their agents and servants employed in the navigation of the boat, had no control, which they could not have foreseen and guarded against, by the exercise of that vigilance which was appropriate to their respective stations, and called for by the character of the navigation in which they were engaged, and which, when they actually occurred, left no reasonable means of escaping a total loss but by sacrificing a part of the property at risk for the safety of the residue, and that if an obstruction in the river be known, and a vessel runs upon it, or on shore, without being driven by force of wind or stream, which might have been prevented by reasonable care and skill, a jettison is not justifiable, known obstructions being such as were known to navigators of the particular boat, or discoverable by them by the exercise of reasonable vigilance); The Jenny Jones, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,286, Deady 82; The Portsmouth, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,295, 2 Biss. 56 (holding that where the master of a vessel, by reason of a fog, is not certain of his location, and he attempts to enter a harbor at ordinary speed when not compelled by necessity, he is guilty of negligence, and the vessel is liable to the owners of the cargo which is jettisoned on stranding of the vessel in such attempt).

Consultation with the officers on board may be shown by the carrier and their opinions then expressed, to be proved by them, if accessible, with respect to the condition of the boat and probable means of relief, but only to show that the jettison was deliberately made, and in reference to the actual circumstances of the case, as understood by those best acquainted with them. But these opinions are not conclusive as to the necessity of the jettison. Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. (Ky.) 643, 63 Am. Dec. 561.

78. The Portsmouth, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,295, 2 Biss. 56.

79. Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. (Ky.) 643, 63 Am. Dec. 561.

80. Effect of legal process on liability of carriers generally see Carriers, 6 Cyc. 462, 463.

81. Wells v. Maine Steamship Co., 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,401, 4 Cliff. 228. And see The Vidette, 34 Fed. 396.

Ratification.— The acceptance, by the ship-owner, of the letters and invoices sent him by the consignees is not such a ratification of their acts as to throw a loss, arising from the seizure of merchandise exported against the laws of the place of shipment for his account, upon such ship-owner. Pawson v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 1, 19 Am. Dec. 213.

82. Spiegel v. Pacific Mail Steamship Co., 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 414, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 171.

Where a cargo is attached, the carrier is bound to interpose in the suit, and protect the interest of a foreign cargo owner, by all appropriate means under the local law, until the consignee is properly informed, and has reasonable opportunity to take on himself the burden of litigation, and to give prompt notice of the attachment, and any other legal process will not furnish an excuse unless the goods are actually taken from the carrier,[83] and an illegal seizure will not absolve the carrier.[84]

5. UNSEAWORTHINESS OR FITNESS OF VESSEL — a. In General. Unless otherwise expressly stipulated, there is an implied absolute warranty of seaworthiness of the vessel at the commencement of the voyage on the part of the carrier,[85] and necessary information. The M. M. Chase, 37 Fed. 708.

83. The Mary Ann Guest, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,197, Olcott 498. But see The Lord, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,504, Chase 527.

84. The Matilda A. Lewis, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,281, 5 Blatchf. 520.

85. Connecticut.— Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54; Scovel v. Chapman, 2 Root 315, applying the rule to owners of coasting vessels.

Louisiana.— Mississippi Agricultural Bank v. Jones, 19 La. 1.

Michigan.— Lyon v. Tiffany, 76 Mich. 158, 42 N. W. 1098.

Pennsylvania.— Bell v. Reed, 4 Binn. 127, 5 Am. Dec. 398.

South Carolina.— Purvis v. Tunno, 2 Bay 492.

Vermont.— Day v. Ridley, 16 Vt. 48, 42 Am. Dec. 489.

United States.— The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181; The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567]; The Northern Belle v. Robson, 154 U. S. 571, 14 S. Ct. 1166, 19 L. ed. 748 (holding that the owners of a barge are liable for damages to the cargo caused by the barge striking a sand bar and leaking, where her inability to withstand the ordinary pressure of such accidents is due to their negligent failure to properly repair the barge); Work v. Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012; Corsar v. J. D. Spreckles, etc., Co., 141 Fed. 260, 72 C. C. A. 378; The Willie, 134 Fed. 759; The G. B. Boren, 132 Fed. 887; Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22, 75 C. C. A. 180]; Bush Co. v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 130 Fed. 222; The Nellie Floyd, 116 Fed. 80 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 617, 60 C. C. A. 175]; Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v. Insurance Co. of North America, 110 Fed. 420, 49 C. C. A. 1; The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167; The Palmas, 108 Fed. 87, 47 C. C. A. 220; The Hiram, 101 Fed. 138; The New York, 93 Fed. 495; The British King, 92 Fed. 1018, 35 C. C. A. 159 [affirming 89 Fed. 872]; Leiter v. Ronalds, 84 Fed. 894; The Colima, 82 Fed. 665; The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 40, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)]; Spreckels Sugar-Refining Co. v. The Glenmavis, 69 Fed. 472 (holding that where, at the end of a voyage, the water pipe leading to one of the water ballast tanks was broken, so that in an attempt to fill the tank the water ran into the hold, and damaged the cargo, there was a breach of the implied warranty of seaworthiness, in that, at the beginning of the voyage, the casing inclosing the pipe consisted only of a long board box, without corner posts or other means of preventing it from working loose, and was fastened at the bottom, and probably at the top, merely by cleats); Howell v. The Mary L. Peters, 68 Fed. 919 [affirmed in 79 Fed. 998, 25 C. C. A. 681]; Bowring v. Thebaud, 56 Fed. 520, 5 C. C. A. 640 [affirming 42 Fed. 794]; Monroe v. The Iowa, 50 Fed. 561; The Bergenseren, 36 Fed. 700; The Director, 34 Fed. 57, 13 Sawy. 172; The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373; The Edwin I. Morrison, 27 Fed. 136; Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249; The Lillie Hamilton, 18 Fed. 327; The William Murtagh, 17 Fed. 259; The Hadji, 16 Fed. 861; Hubert v. Recknagel, 13 Fed. 912; The Lizzie W. Virden, 11 Fed. 903; Ye Seng Co. v. Corbitt, 9 Fed. 423, 7 Sawy. 368; Standard Sugar Refinery v. The Centennial, 2 Fed. 409; Bowie v. Wheelright, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,733, 2 Cranch C. C. 167; Bucknor v. The Gilbert Green, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,099; Kellogg v. La Crosse, etc., Packet Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,663, 3 Biss. 496; Thomas Jefferson, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,923, 3 Ben. 302; Tudor v. The Eagle, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,230; The Vivid, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,978, 4 Ben. 319; Wilson v. Griswold, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,806, 9 Blatchf. 267.

England.—Weir v. Steamship Co., [1900] A. C. 525, 9 Aspin. 111, 5 Com. Cas. 363, 69 L. J. Q. B. 809, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 91; Steel v. State Line Steamship Co., 3 App. Cas. 72, 3 Aspin. 516, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 333; McFadden v. Blue Star Line, [1905] 1 K. B. 697, 10 Aspin. 55, 10 Com. Cas. 123, 74 L. J. K. B. 423, 93 L. T. Rep. N. S. 52, 21 T. L. R. 345, 53 Wkly. Rep. 576; Kopitoff v. Wilson, 1 Q. B. D. 377, 3 Aspin. 163, 45 L. J. Q. B. 436, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 677, 24 Wkly. Rep. 706; The Vortigern, [1899] P. 140, 8 Aspin. 523, 4 Com. Cas. 152, 68 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 49, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 382, 15 T. L. R. 259, 47 Wkly. Rep. 437; The Glenfruin, 10 P. D. 103, 5 Aspin. 413, 54 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 49, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 769, 33 Wkly. Rep. 826; Lyon v. Mells, 5 East 428, 102 Eng. Reprint 1134. See Readhead v. Midland R. Co., L. R. 2 Q. B. 412, 36 L. J. Q. B. 181, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 485, 15 Wkly. Rep. 831.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 449 et seq.

The presence of a leak in a vessel's hold, and injury to the cargo in consequence, is sufficient to charge the carrier with negligence, unless it can be shown that the direct cause of the damage was a peril of the sea. The ship is bound to provide the means necessary to enable her hold to be kept free from water, and will be liable for the failure in this regard, from whatever other cause it may occur. The Samuel E. Spring, 29 Fed. 397; Kellogg v. La Crosse, etc., Packet Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,663, 3 Biss. 496.

Where a voyage has several stages as to which standards of seaworthiness will differ, the ship must be fit for each subsequent stage the warranty is a continuing one,[86] and he can avoid liability only by showing that the loss would have happened without such unseaworthiness;[87] but the

as entered upon. Quebec Mar. Ins. Co. v. Commercial Bank, L. R. 3 P. C. 234, 39 L. J. P. C. 53, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 18 Wkly. Rep. 769; Worms v. Storey, 11 Exch. 427, 25 L. J. Exch 1; Dixon v. Saddler, 9 L. J. Exch. 48, 5 M. & W. 405 [affirmed in 11 L. J. Exch. 435, 8 M. & W. 895]; Commercial Mar. Co. v. Namagna Min. Co., 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 504, 14 Moore P. C. 471, 10 Wkly. Rep. 136, 15 Eng. Reprint 383. Thus the vessel must have at the commencement of each stage sufficient fuel for that stage. Thin v. Richards, [1892] 2 Q. B. 141, 7 Aspin. 165, 62 L. J. Q. B. 39, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 584, 40 Wkly. Rep. 617; The Vortigern, [1899] P. 140, 8 Aspin. 523, 4 Com. Cas. 152, 68 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 49, 80 L. T. Rep. N. S. 382, 15 T. L. R. 259, 47 Wkly. Rep. 437. The rule does not apply to each of the several voyages which a vessel may take under a time charter, and there is no new implied warranty of seaworthiness at the beginning of each voyage, it being sufficient if the vessel is seaworthy at the commencement of the hiring for the whole period. Giertsen v. Turnbull, [1908] Ct. Sess. 1101.

Criterion of seaworthiness.—Absolute perfection is not required in the vessel, it being sufficient that she have that degree of fitness which an ordinarily careful and prudent owner would require his vessel to have at the commencement of her voyage, having regard to all the probable circumstances of it (Readhead v. Midland R. Co., L. R. 2 Q. B. 412, 36 L. J. Q. B. 181, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 485, 15 Wkly. Rep. 831; Burges v. Wickham, 3 B. & S. 669, 33 L. J. Q. B. 17, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 47, 11 Wkly. Rep. 992, 113 E. C. L. 669; Gibson v. Small, 1 C. L. R. 363, 4 H. L. Cas. 353, 17 Jur. 1131, 10 Eng. Reprint 499), and although the ship could not safely perform her voyage in the exact condition in which she sailed she may still be seaworthy, as where hatches are off or port holes are open, which will, however, in the ordinary course of business be closed (Farr, etc., Mfg. Co. v. International Nav. Co., 94 Fed. 675 [affirmed in 98 Fed. 636, 39 C. C. A. 197, 181 U. S. 218, 21 S. Ct. 591, 45 L. ed. 830]; The Silvia, 68 Fed. 230, 15 C. C. A. 362 [affirming 64 Fed 607, and affirmed in 171 U. S. 462, 19 S Ct. 7, 43 L. ed. 241], holding that the fact that ports eight inches in diameter, situated eight or nine feet above the water, were closed at the commencement of the voyage, only by heavy glass covers, set in brass frames, without closing additional iron covers with which they were provided, did not constitute unseaworthiness); Gilroy v. Price, [1893] A. C. 56, 7 Aspin. 314, 68 L. T. Rep N. S. 302, 1 Reports 76; Steel v. State Line Steamship Co., 3 App. Cas. 72, 3 Aspin. 516, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 333; Hedley v. Pinkney, etc., Steamship Co., [1892] 1 Q. B. 58, 7 Aspin. 135, 56 J. P. 308, 61 L. J. Q. B. 179, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 71, 40 Wkly. Rep. 113 [affirmed in [1894] A. C. 222, 7 Aspin. 483, 63 L. J. Q. B. 419, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 630, 6 Reports 106, 42 Wkly. Rep. 497]. But see Putnam v. The Manitoba, 104 Fed. 145 [affirmed in 171 U. S. 462, 19 S. Ct. 7, 43 L. ed. 241] (holding that an open port at the beginning of the voyage, the condition of which was unknown to the officers of the ship, made the ship unseaworthy as to cargo stowed in that compartment, since knowledge that such a port is open is one of the indispensable requisites and conditions for closing it when necessary during the voyage); The Phœnicia, 99 Fed. 1005, 40 C. C. A. 221 [affirming 90 Fed. 116]; and under the act of Feb. 13, 1893, a ship-owner who equips his vessel with proper iron covers for her ports is not liable for damages to cargo, resulting from the omission of the officers of the vessel to close such iron covers, in consequence of which water breaks through the glass (The Silvia, 64 Fed. 607 [affirmed in 68 Fed. 230, 15 C. C. A. 362]; nor does a warranty of seaworthiness require that the vessel shall be such that insurance companies shall be willing to insure her (Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22, 75 C. C. A. 180]; The Vincennes, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,945, 3 Ware 171. But see The Vesta, 6 Fed. 532).

The fact that a vessel is not a common carrier does not relieve her from the warranty implied in a contract of affreightment that she is sound, stanch, and seaworthy. The Planter, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,207*a*, 2 Woods 490.

The owner of a ship carrying goods or freight on a circuitous voyage is bound to put her into a state of repair at any port where she may be, and must answer for damage to goods arising for want of such repairs, whether or not the defect was known. Putnam v. Woods, 3 Mass. 48, 3 Am. Dec. 179.

Mere inequality in the strength of the rivets used in a ship does not amount to unseaworthiness or a violation of a charter provision that the ship shall be "tight, staunch and strong." The Ontario, 106 Fed. 324; American Sugar Refining Co. v. The Sandfield, 79 Fed. 371.

86. Kimball v. Tucker, 10 Mass. 192; Putnam v. Wood, 3 Mass. 481, 3 Am. Dec. 179; Purvis v. Tunno, 1 Brev. (S. C.) 260, 2 Am. Dec. 664; Wood v. The Wilmington, 48 Fed. 566; Whipple v. Mississippi, etc., Packet Co., 34 Fed. 54; The Francis Wright, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,044, 7 Ben. 88.

87. Smith v. Whitman, 13 Mo. 352; The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567].

The owner of a chartered ship, in herself seaworthy, but rendered unseaworthy by the improper loading of cargo and ballast which is carried out under his orders, is liable for damage occasioned by his personal negligence. The City of Lincoln v. Smith, [1904] A. C. 250, 9 Aspin. 586, 73 L. J. P. C. 45, 91 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206.

Where it satisfactorily appears that sea perils have been encountered adequate to warranty that the vessel is fit at the beginning of a voyage, which is implied if the bill of lading is silent, cannot be implied if the parties have contracted otherwise.[88] The implied warranty is an absolute undertaking, not dependent on the owner's knowledge or ignorance, his care or negligence, that the ship is in fact fit to undergo the perils of the sea and other incidental risks;[89] and it covers latent defects not ordinarily susceptible of detection as well as those which are known or discoverable by inspection,[90] although just prior to the voyage the vessel was put in what seemed to be perfect repair,[91] for it is the duty of the carrier to know, at his own peril, the condition of the vessel in which he proposes to carry goods; while the owner of the cargo is under no obligation to look into the matter,[92] and his rights are not affected by failure to do so, unless her unfitness was actually known to him, or was a matter of such general notoriety that his knowledge or negligence is presumed;[93] but although ship-owners are liable for latent defects, this principle does not affect the seaworthiness of the vessel where, if all the facts were known at the time she sails, she would still be regarded by competent persons as reasonably fit for the voyage, according to the existing knowledge and usages.[94] cause damage to a seaworthy ship, and there is general proof of seaworthiness, the damage is presumptively due to such perils. American Sugar Refining Co. v. The Sandfield, 79 Fed. 371, holding that damage to cargo by sea water entering the hold around a loose rivet, which has been fractured by perils of the sea, is a loss by perils of the sea within the exceptions of a charter-party and bill of lading.

88. The Tjomo, 115 Fed. 919.

89. Whitall v. William Henry, 4 La. 223, 23 Am. Dec. 483; The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567]. And see cases cited supra, note 85.

But under a provision of a bill of lading for goods to be carried by water, limiting the warranty of seaworthiness of the vessel to the exercise of reasonable efforts by the carrier to make them seaworthy, such carrier is not liable for the loss of the goods, through the unseaworthiness of a barge which it had built, where it exercised reasonable care in the selection of the materials, and the designer and workmen by whom it was built (The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167. But see The Friesland, 104 Fed. 99, where the evidence did not show reasonably careful inspection, such as was incumbent upon the owners under a provision of the bill of lading requiring them to exercise due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy, in order to exempt them from liability), but clauses in a bill of lading exempting the owner from the general obligation of furnishing a seaworthy vessel must, however, be confined within strict limits, and are not to be extended by latitudinarian construction or forced implication, so as to comprehend a state of unseaworthiness, whether patent or latent, existing at the commencement of the voyage (Wuppermann v. The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181).

90. Backhouse v. Sneed, 5 N. C. 173; The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567] (holding a carrier liable for losses incurred on a shipment of cattle through shrinkage in weight and fall in market value, by delay occasioned by breach of the warranty of seaworthiness, and holding that this warranty extended to the case of a propeller shaft, which broke, in ordinary weather, from weakness existing at the commencement of the voyage; not by reason of any flaw or other defect discoverable by any usual or reasonable means, even if the shaft were taken out, but rather from a weakening due to encountering extraordinary storms on previous voyages); Work v. Leathers, 97 U. S. 379, 24 L. ed. 1012; The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)]; The Bergenseren, 36 Fed. 700; The Hadji, 16 Fed. 861; Hubert v. Recknagel, 13 Fed. 912.

An open bolt hole in the water ballast tank (Williams v. The Exe, 52 Fed. 155 [reversed on other grounds in 57 Fed. 399, 6 C. C. A. 410]), or in a bulkhead (The Bergenseren, 36 Fed. 700), through which water flows and injures goods renders the carrier liable.

91. Backhouse v. Sneed, 5 N. C. 173; Hubert v. Recknagel, 13 Fed. 912.

92. The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567]; The Northern Belle, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 526, 19 L. ed. 746, 748 [affirming 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,319, 1 Biss. 529]; Kellogg v. La Crosse, etc., Packet Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,663, 3 Biss. 496.

93. The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567]; The Presque Isle, 140 Fed. 202; Glasgow Shipowners Co. v. Bacon, 132 Fed. 881; Cornwall v. Moore, 132 Fed. 868 [affirmed in 144 Fed. 22, 75 C. C. A. 180]; Waterhouse v. Rock Island Alaska Min. Co., 97 Fed. 466, 38 C. C. A. 281; The Wm. Murtagh, 17 Fed. 259. But see Lengsfield v. Jones, 11 La. Ann. 624, holding that the fact that a shipper inspected defendant's steamboat and knew of its condition before allowing defendant to ship his goods does not preclude him from recovering for damages to the goods occasioned by the unseaworthiness of the boat.

94. The Titania, 19 Fed. 101; The J. C. Stevenson, 17 Fed. 540.

This liability for failure to provide a seaworthy vessel is not lessened by the Harter Act.[95]

b. What Constitutes Unseaworthiness. It is the duty of the ship-owner to provide a ship fit and competent for the kind of cargo and particular service for which she is engaged; [96] and to constitute seaworthiness the hull must be so tight, 95. Flint v. Christall, 171 U. S. 187, 18 S. Ct. 831, 43 L. ed. 130 [affirming 82 Fed. 472] (holding that section 3 of the Harter Act, which provides that if the ship-owner exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy, etc., neither the vessel nor her owner shall be responsible for faults or errors in her navigation or management, does not give an owner who has exercised such diligence a right to contribution in general average for sacrifices made to save vessel and cargo, when stranded through negligence of the ship's officers); Wupperman v. The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181 (holding that the provisions of the Harter Act making it unlawful to insert in the contract a provision exempting from liability for damage from unseaworthiness where due diligence has not been used (section 2), and also exempting from loss from faults or errors in the navigation or management of the vessel, if due diligence has been used to furnish a seaworthy ship properly managed, equipped, and supplied (section 3), do not so change the general maritime law as to relieve the owner from his obligation to provide a seaworthy ship, and substitute therefor an obligation merely to use due diligence to see that she is seaworthy).

For a full discussion of the Harter Act see infra, VII, D, 13, b.

96. The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567]; Dene Steam Shipping Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 133 Fed. 589 [affirmed in 143 Fed. 854, 74 C. C. A. 606]; The C. W. Elphicke, 117 Fed. 279 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 439, 58 C. C. A. 421]; The Nellie Floyd, 116 Fed. 80 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 617, 60 C. C. A. 175]; The New York, 93 Fed. 495; The Thames, 61 Fed. 1014, 10 C. C. A. 232; Premuda v. Goepel, 23 Fed. 410; Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249; The Regulus, 18 Fed. 380; The Lizzie W. Virden, 8 Fed. 624, 18 Blatchf. 340; The Vesta, 6 Fed. 532; Kellogg v. La Crosse, etc., Packet Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,663, 3 Biss. 496; In re Nine Hundred and Twenty-Eight Barrels of Salt, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,272, 2 Biss. 319; The Northern Belle, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,319, 1 Biss. 529 [affirmed in 9 Wall. (U. S.) 526, 19 L. ed. 746, 748]. But see McFadden v. Blue Star Line, [1905] 1 K. B. 697, 10 Aspin. 55, 10 Com. Cas. 123, 74 L. J. K. B. 423, 93 L. T. Rep. N. S. 52, 21 T. L. R. 345, 53 Wkly. Rep. 576, holding that, although at the time of loading there is an absolute warranty by the ship-owner, who has agreed to take a particular cargo, that his ship is fit to receive a cargo, but this warranty is not a continuing warranty, and defaults occurring after the period of loading are not breaches of this warranty.

Fitness for special cargo.— The implied warranty of seaworthiness extends not only to fitness to encounter perils of the sea, but to fitness for the service of carrying the particular goods accepted. The Thames, 61 Fed. 1014, 10 C. C. A. 232; Borthwick v. Ederslie Steamship Co., [1904] 1 K. B. 319, 9 Aspin. 513, 9 Com. Cas. 126, 73 L. J. K. B. 240, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 187, 20 T. L. R. 184, 52 Wkly. Rep. 439 [affirmed in [1905] A. C. 93, 10 Aspin. 25, 10 Com. Cas. 109, 74 L. J. Q. B. 338, 92 L. T. Rep. N. S. 274, 21 T. L. R. 277, 53 Wkly. Rep. 401]; Rathbone v. MacIver, [1903] 2 K. B. 378, 9 Aspin. 467, 8 Com. Cas. 303, 72 L. J. K. B. 703, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 378, 19 T. L. R. 590, 52 Wkly. Rep. 68; Stanton v. Richardson, 3 Aspin. 23, 45 L. J. C. P. 78, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 193, 24 Wkly. Rep. 324. Thus where cattle are shipped on board a vessel, and the cattle fittings prove to be insufficient in material and strength, the insufficiency of the fittings is a breach of the implied warranty that the ship should be fit for the voyage and for the cargo (Monroe v. The Iowa, 53 Fed. 561; The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373), and in a contract to transport cattle it is implied that there shall be sufficient ventilation; and if there is not, so that insurance cannot be procured upon the cattle, the shipper may refuse to ship, and recover for breach of the contract (Morris v. The Alvah, 77 Fed. 315, 23 C. C. A. 181, holding, however, that the fact that a single underwriter refused to insure cattle for the voyage because of alleged insufficiency of ventilation does not of itself prove a breach of contract on the vessel's part, warranting refusal to ship the cattle); and a contract by a steamship company for the carriage of cattle on certain specified vessels, "all sailing" during certain months, imports a warranty that all the vessels named will sail during such months (Morris v. Chesapeake, etc., Steamship Co., 125 Fed. 62 [affirmed in 148 Fed. 11]). Upon a contract to carry frozen meat in a refrigerating ship there is an implied agreement that the ship and refrigerating machinery are fit to carry the meat (The Southwark, 191 U. S. 1, 24 S. Ct. 1, 48 L. ed. 65; Nelson v. Nelson Line, [1907] 1 K. B. 788 note; Rowson v. Atlantic Transp. Co., [1903] 1 K. B. 114, 9 Aspin. 347, 8 Com. Cas. 74, 72 L. J. K. B. 87, 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 717, 19 T. L. R. 67, 52 Wkly. Rep. 85 [affirmed in [1903] 2 K. B. 666, 9 Aspin. 458, 9 Com. Cas. 33, 72 L. J. K. B. 811, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 204, 19 T. L. R. 668]; Maori King v. Hughes, 64 L. J. Q. B. 744 [affirmed in [1895] 2 Q. B. 550, 8 Aspin. 65, 65 L. J. Q. B. 168, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, 14 Reports 646, 44 Wkly. Rep. 2], and where specie is to be carried in a ship with a strong room there is an implied warranty that the room is strong enough to resist thieves (Queensland stanch, and strong as to be competent to resist all ordinary action of the sea, Nat. Bank v. Peninsular, etc., Steam Nav. Co., [1898] 1 Q. B. 567, 8 Aspin. 338, 3 Com. Cas. 51, 67 L. J. Q. B. 402, 78 L. T. Rep. N. S. 67, 14 T. L. R. 166, 46 Wkly. Rep. 324). The vessel must, moreover, be cleansed to receive the cargo. Lizzie W. Virden, 11 Fed. 903.

Vessels held seaworthy see The America, 174 Fed. 724; Davidson Steamship Co. v. 119,254 Bushels of Flaxseed, 117 Fed. 283 (the vessel, which was new, had been recently overhauled, and was in every respect in the best condition and properly equipped, having the highest rating, it being further shown that on the voyage she encountered unusually severe gales and heavy seas, which caused her seams to start from the strain); The Marechal Suchet, 112 Fed. 440; The Samuel F. Houseman, 108 Fed. 875, 48 C. C. A. 120; The Homeric, 106 Fed. 960 (holding that, where the vessel was new and of the highest class, it could not be inferred from the facts shown that the propeller key had sustained any injury prior to the voyage, but that such injury should, rather, be referred to the nearer and adequate cause of sea perils); The Ontario, 106 Fed. 324 [affirmed in 115 Fed. 769, 53 C. C. A. 199]; Memphis, etc., Packet Co. v. Overman Carriage Co., 93 Fed. 246 (holding that a court cannot find that the sinking of a steamer by collision with the pier of a bridge was due to unseaworthiness, merely from doubtful inferences, where there is direct and positive evidence of other facts which would alone account for the disaster); The Guadeloupe, 92 Fed. 670; The British King, 89 Fed. 872 [affirmed in 92 Fed. 1018, 35 C. C. A. 159] (holding that evidence that damage to chemicals and rags in a cargo from sea water resulted from leaks in the steamer's ballast tank, which was found after heavy weather to be sprung, and the rivets started and broken, is not sufficient to establish unseaworthiness where first-class construction, careful inspection, and good stowage are shown); Steinwender v. The Mexican Prince, 82 Fed. 484 [affirmed in 91 Fed. 1003, 34 C. C. A. 168] (holding that an obstruction in a water pipe passing through a cargo compartment by a piece of wood, at the outset of a voyage, so that water gets into the compartment, does not amount to unseaworthiness, because incidental and temporary in character); Bursley v. The Marlborough, 47 Fed. 667 (holding that a vessel built in 1877, kept in good repair, and rated, when she started on her voyage, in highest class English iron steamers in Lloyd's register, is reasonably safe for a voyage with a cargo of sugar from Iloilo to the Delaware breakwater by way of Colombo, Aden, and Gibraltar, and is seaworthy); The Northumbria, [1906] P. 292, 10 Aspin. 328, 75 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 101, 95 L. T. Rep. N. S. 618 (crack in plate).

Vessels held unseaworthy see Sanbern v. Wright, etc., Lighterage Co., 171 Fed. 449 (injury to cargo with no storm or other vis major to account for it); The Willie, 134 Fed. 759 (a barge held liable in damages for dumping a large part of her cargo of copper ore which she was discharging from a steamship, and for injury to the ship, on the ground of unseaworthiness, due to weakness from long use in the same business, which caused her to careen after she had taken on her load, although the weather was calm and the water smooth); The G. B. Boren, 132 Fed. 887 (a barge which sank at a dock, after loading a cargo of brick, held liable for the damage to the cargo on the ground of unseaworthiness due to overloading); Bush Co. v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 130 Fed. 222 (unseaworthy condition of a float); The Germanic, 124 Fed. 1, 59 C. C. A. 521 [affirmed in 196 U. S. 589, 25 S. Ct. 317, 49 L. ed. 610] (vessel while discharging careened from accumulation of ice); The Nellie Floyd, 116 Fed. 80 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 617, 60 C. C. A. 175] (where cement stowed between decks was found to have been rendered worthless by water, either sea water or rain water, which entered through the upper deck, the seams in which had not been calked for some eight or nine years, and which were in such condition as to permit any water falling on the deck to leak through); Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v. Insurance Co. of North America, 110 Fed. 420, 49 C. C. A. 1 (a lighter, so constructed that the presence of any water in the hold rendered it unstable when loaded, which overturned shortly after being loaded, when the weather was clear, the wind light, and the water smooth except from a slight swell caused by a passing steamer, by reason of water entering her hold through seams which were insufficiently calked); The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167 (holding that the sinking of a barge, with her cargo, six hours after starting on a voyage, having been towed in smooth water during that time, cannot be attributed to a "peril of the sea," which has reference to such extraordinary perils as cannot be guarded against by the ordinary exertions of human skill and prudence, but must be presumed to have resulted from unseaworthiness at the beginning of the voyage); The Palmas, 108 Fed. 87, 47 C. C. A. 220 (the ends of pipes on the forecastle deck had been stopped or covered at the beginning of the voyage, but not sufficiently to withstand the action of the seas which broke over such deck, although the weather was no worse than should reasonably have been anticipated at that season of the year); The Colima, 82 Fed. 665 (a steamship of a very tender model, being unusually narrow in proportion of her depth, with a "tumble-home," materially increasing her disadvantage, so loaded as to have an excessive roll, from which she recovered slowly, and in a storm of no extraordinary severity, it was found that she was neither able to keep out of the trough of the sea, nor to ride safely in it; and she was finally thrown on her beams and sunk by three successive heavy seas); The Edwin I. Morrison, 27 Fed. 136 (a schooner having a bilge pump hole on each side of her deck, intended to be used in pumping out water, but which were and to prosecute and complete the voyage without damage to the cargo;[97] and the ship must be fit in design, structure, condition, and equipment to encounter the ordinary perils of the voyage,[98] properly ballasted,[99] well manned and officered,[1] dangerous unless their covers were kept tight, which negligently sailed with a heavy cargo without seeing that these covers were secure against ordinary accidents; and heavy seas washing one of them away, and letting water in through the hole on to the cargo, the schooner was liable for the resulting injury to the cargo); Hubert v. Recknagel, 13 Fed. 912; Standard Sugar Refinery v. The Centennial, 2 Fed. 409 (a vessel sent upon a voyage with her limbers in such defective condition as to prevent the water, coming in at a leak opened during the voyage, from passing to the pumps, until a large quantity of water had collected in the hold); Bucknor v. The Gilbert Green, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,099 (a vessel on her first voyage, which encountered no unusual gales or stress of weather, but took to leaking spontaneously, and whose bottom, on examination, disclosed an open knot hole and a loose tree nail); Tudor v. The Eagle, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,230; McFadden v. Blue Star Line, [1905] 1 K. B. 697, 10 Aspin. 55, 10 Com. Cas. 123, 74 L. J. K. B. 423, 93 L. T. Rep. N. S. 52, 21 T. L. R. 345 53 Wkly. Rep. 576 (insufficient packing of the joint in the tube communicating with the ballast-tank was a breach of the warranty of seaworthiness, as that defect existed before the loading was commenced; but that the failure to close the sluice door in the bulkhead was not a breach of this warranty, as the door had not been opened until after the cargo had been loaded).

Grain cargo.—A provision giving the shippers the right to cancel the contract for shipment of a cargo of grain if the ship be not ready on a certain date requires a practical and substantial readiness to receive the cargo such as would insure the underwriters' inspector's approval, and obtain his pass, and would gratify the usual and reasonable requirements for avoiding injury to the commercial value of the grain (Disney v. Furness, 79 Fed. 810); but failure of the ship to have up the top board of the shifting boards, where the board and the slots for receiving it are fitted and prepared, is not a want of readiness to receive grain cargo, such as would authorize the cancellation of the contract of affreightment. Nor is cancellation authorized by failure to have up the shifting boards in the hatch combings, as these, if used at all, are better put in when the cargo is partly loaded (Disney v. Furness, supra, holding also that a practice peculiar to the port of lading, which requires battening of the seams even when not needed, and merely out of abundant caution, cannot, without previous notice, authorize the shipper to cancel the contract for want of such necessary battening).

97. Corsar v. J. D. Spreckels, etc., Co., 141 Fed. 260, 72 C. C. A. 378 (holding that this includes seaworthiness as to stowage); The Lillie Hamilton, 18 Fed. 327.

The failure of so essential a portion of the mechanism as the rudder, in a gale of no extraordinary violence, is sufficient evidence that the vessel was unseaworthy in this regard. Nine Hundred and Twenty-Eight Barrels of Salt, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,272, 2 Biss. 319.

98. Pickup v. Thames Mar. Ins. Co., 3 Q. B. D. 594, 4 Aspin. 43, 47 L. J. Q. B. 749, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 341, 26 Wkly. Rep. 689; Stanton v. Richardson, 3 Aspin. 23, 45 L. J. C. P. 78, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 193, 24 Wkly. Rep. 324.

99. Sumner v. Caswell, 20 Fed. 249; The City of Lincoln v. Smith, [1904] A. C. 250, 9 Aspin. 586, 73 L. J. P. C. 45, 91 L. T. Rep. N. S. 206; Weir v. Union Steamship Co., [1900] A. C. 525, 9 Aspin. 111, 5 Com. Cas. 363, 69 L. J. Q. B. 809, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 91. But see The Hiram, 101 Fed. 138.

1. Connecticut.— Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54.

Louisiana.— Mahoney v. Martin, 35 La. Ann. 29.

New York.— Tebo v. Jordan, 67 Hun 392, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 156.

Pennsylvania.— Bell v. Reed, 4 Binn. 127, 5 Am. Dec. 398.

United States.— Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, 162 Fed. 250, 89 C. C. A. 230 (holding that not only must the vessel have a full complement of licensed officers and adequate crew with reference to all the exigencies of the intended route under such section, but the officers and crew must be competent for any exigency that is likely to happen); The Giles Loring, 48 Fed. 463; The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196] (holding that it is a breach of the warranty of seaworthiness for a vessel to leave her port of lading abroad, or any intermediate return port, with a crew inadequate to man or sail her, although it be exceedingly difficult or even impossible to procure competent hands to man her, the obligation to supply a sufficient crew being absolute on the owner and master, and continuing during the voyage); The Vincennes, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,945, 3 Ware 171.

England.— Forshaw v. Chabert, 3 B. & B. 258, 6 Moore C. P. 369, 23 Rev. Rep. 596, 7 E. C. L. 659; Clifford v. Hunter, 3 C. & P. 16, M. & M. 103, 14 E. C. L. 427.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 450.

The fact that a vessel runs in a fog and in calm weather on a well-known cape, resulting in loss of cargo, is strong proof of her unseaworthiness, and is not rebutted by the admitted fact that she was perfectly new, well built, well rigged, well manned, and in charge of a captain of reputed skill and experience. The conclusion remains that her compass had not been sufficiently tested, or that she was not well commanded, and for either of these deficiencies she would be unfurnished with proper supplies[2] and sails,[3] and fuel sufficient for the voyage contemplated;[4] and the requirement of seaworthiness at the beginning of a voyage includes, not only seaworthiness in hull and equipment, but also in the stowage of the cargo;[5] and if the nature of the navigation requires a pilot, and the vessel sails from a port where a pilot may be procured, she is not seaworthy without a pilot.[6] The seaworthiness of a vessel is to be determined with reference to the customs and usages of the port or country from which the vessel sails, the existing state of knowledge and experience, and the judgment of prudent and competent persons versed in such matters. If, judged by this standard, the ship is found in all respects to have been reasonably fit for the contemplated voyage, the warranty of seaworthiness is complied with, and no negligence is really attributable to the ship or her owners.[7]

6. Improper Stowage — a. General Rules. The carrier must exercise due care and diligence in the stowing of cargo, and if damage results from negligent stowage he is liable,[8] particularly where he has been notified of the fragility of seaworthy. Bazin v. Steamship Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,152, 3 Wall. Jr. 229. But see Manegold v. The E. A. Shores, Jr., 73 Fed. 342, holding that where a vessel deviated from her course in the night, and ran upon a well known reef, the existence of a deflection of her compass of about one eighth of a point was not sufficient ground for finding her unseaworthy, especially in the absence of any showing of its continuance for sufficient time to require notice.

An unusual procrastination in a voyage is not in itself evidence of incompetency in the crew to navigate the vessel but is admissible in corroboration of the opinion and judgment of witnesses that the crew was insufficient. The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196].

The absence of a crew at night with the consent of the master, who remained on board alone while the ship was anchored in a harbor, renders the vessel unseaworthy; and she is liable for damages to cargo where she is driven ashore by a gale arising after the crew left. The Sarah, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,338, 2 Sprague 31.

2. Clark v. Richards, 1 Conn. 54; Bell v. Reed, 4 Binn. (Pa.) 127, 5 Am. Dec. 398.

3. The Thomas Jefferson, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,923, 3 Ben. 302.

4. Bursley v. The Marlborough, 47 Fed. 667 (holding, however, that where the supply of fuel for a steamer, although not sufficing to carry a vessel through an unusual gale or to a port not contemplated, for which she was forced to make, was equal, both in quantity and quality, to that usually taken, and more than sufficient for the voyage contemplated in usual weather, it must be deemed sufficient on a libel for damages to cargo caused by alleged unseaworthiness); McIver v. Tate Steamers, [1903] 1 K. B. 362, 9 Aspin. 362, 8 Com. Cas. 124, 72 L. J. K. B. 253, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 182, 19 T. L. R. 217, 51 Wkly. Rep. 393; The Vortigern, [1899] P. 140, 8 Aspin. 523, 4 Com. Cas. 152, 68 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 49, 60 L. T. Rep. N. S. 382, 15 T. L. R. 259, 47 Wkly. Rep 437. And see The Abbazia, 127 Fed. 495.

5. Harloff v. Barber, 150 Fed. 185; Corsar v. J. D. Spreckles, etc., Co., 141 Fed. 260, 72 C. C. A. 378; The Titania, 19 Fed. 101. But see Steinwender v. The Mexican Prince, 82 Fed. 484, holding that a vessel is not unseaworthy in respect of her cargo by reason of the stowage of coffee in a compartment adjoining that in which water ballast is carried, although the water pipe connected with the tank passes through the compartment containing the coffee.

Liability for improper loading or stowage generally, see infra, VII, D, 6.

An overloaded vessel is unseaworthy under the warranty. The Willie, 134 Fed. 759; The G. B. Boren, 132 Fed. 887; The Colima, 82 Fed. 665. See Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v. North America Ins. Co., 110 Fed. 420, 49 C. C. A. 1; Barker v. The Swallow, 44 Fed. 771; Astrup v. Lewy, 19 Fed. 536.

6. Phillips v. Headlam, 9 L. J. K. B. O. S. 238, 2 B. & Ad. 380, 22 E. C. L. 163; Dixon v. Sadler, 9 L. J. Exch. 48, 5 M. & W. 405 [affirmed in 11 L. J. Exch. 435, 8 M. & W. 895].

7. The Titania, 19 Fed. 101.

For a similar warranty of seaworthiness in marine insurance see Marine Insurance, 26 Cyc. 644 et seq. And see Hughes Adm. 56.

8. Rochereau v. Hausa, 14 La. Ann. 431; Dowgate Steamship Co. v. Arbuckle, 158 Fed. 179; The Persiana, 156 Fed. 1019; Harloff v. Barber, 150 Fed. 185; Lazarus v. Barber, 124 Fed. 1007 [affirmed in 136 Fed. 534, 69 C. C. A. 310]; Doherr v. Houston, 123 Fed. 334 [affirmed in 128 Fed. 594, 64 C. C. A. 102]; The Orcadian, 116 Fed. 930; The Victoria, 114 Fed. 962; The Mississippi, 113 Fed. 985 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 1020, 56 C. C. A. 525]; Franklin Sugar Refining Co. v. The Earnwood, 83 Fed. 315; The Glide, 78 Fed. 152, 24 C. C. A. 46; Botany Worsted Mills v. Knott, 76 Fed. 582, 82 Fed. 471, 27 C. C. A. 326, 179 U. S. 69, 21 S. Ct. 36, 45 L. ed. 90 (damage held due to negligence in the general loading and stowage of cargo, within section 1 of the Harter Act, and not "in the management of the vessel," within the third section of that act); The Burgundia, 29 Fed. 607; The Geiser, 19 Fed. 877 (where cabbages were stowed in the between decks of a steamship, and were injured by the cargo;[9] and as the master designates the place within the ship where each kind of cargo is to go, when such place is improper the ship is liable for consequent damages to the cargo, although it was stowed by another's stevedore,[10] but not heat from steam pipes placed around the room where the cabbages were, for the purpose of warming the room when used, as it was intended, for steerage passengers, the vessel was liable); The Tommy, 16 Fed. 601; Brower v. The Water Witch, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,971, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 241 [affirmed in 1 Black 494, 17 L. ed. 155] (where a cargo of cotton was badly stowed, and insufficient attention paid to the sea water in the vessel by using the pumps, thus damaging the cotton); Fleishman v. The John P. Best, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,861, 14 Phila. (Pa.) 527, 8 Wkly. Notes Cas. 30 (holding that where live stock was carried on the deck of a vessel, and the under deck cargo consisted of grain, and in the lower hold there were no shifting boards, and as a result the cargo shifted and contributed to produce the "list" of the ship whereby a number of cattle were lost by being thrown overboard, the stowage was improper, and that the vessel was liable for the loss of such cattle); The Star of Hope, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,313, 2 Sawy. 15 [affirmed in 17 Wall. 651, 21 L. ed. 719] (holding that where goods were received on board a vessel marked "in cabin stateroom," and an extra freight paid in consideration of their being so carried, and the goods were not stowed in the cabin, and sustained damage in consequence, the shipper was entitled to recover); Hutchinson v. Guion, 5 C. B. N. S. 149, 4 Jur. N. S. 1149, 28 L. J. C. P. 63, 6 Wkly. Rep. 757, 94 E. C. L. 149; Gillespie v. Thompson, 6 E. & B. 477 note, 2 Jur. N. S. 712, 88 E. C. L. 477; Swainston v. Garrick, 2 L. J. Exch. 255.

Extra care must be taken where the vessel by reason of age and construction is apt to leak. Lorentzen v. The Johanne, 48 Fed. 733.

Where a usage exists as to the stowage of a general ship, a shipper who is chargeable with notice thereof, and gives no special instructions, and whose goods are stowed in accordance with the usage, is deemed to have assented to the mode of stowage, and cannot, in case his goods are injured on the voyage in consequence of the mode of stowage, set it up as a ground of complaint. The Titania, 19 Fed. 101 (holding that stowage according to custom and usage and the best judgment of experienced persons is sufficient to protect the ship from the charge of negligence as against insurers); Baxter v. Leland, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,125, 1 Blatchf. 526 [affirming 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,124, Abb. Adm. 348]; The Colonel Ledyard, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,027, 1 Sprague 530; Williams v. Mora, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,730 (holding that stowage of hogsheads of sugar upon their heads is sanctioned by usage). But see The G. R. Booth, 171 U. S. 450, 19 S. Ct. 9, 43 L. ed. 234, 91 Fed. 164, 33 C. C. A. 430 [reversing 64 Fed. 878], holding that where the stowage of detonators as ordinary merchandise was in accordance with the custom of the country, and although defendant ship's officers had no knowledge of their dangerous character, the ship was liable for loss to cargo for an explosion. But there is no such general custom of stowing macaroni and green fruit together as to constitute a usage exempting the ship from the consequences of damage arising therefrom in the existing state of knowledge. Paturzo v. Compagnie Francaise, 31 Fed. 611.

Stowage held proper see The Niceto, 134 Fed. 655; The Frey, 106 Fed. 319, 45 C. C. A. 309; Darragh v. The Dunbritton, 73 Fed. 352, 19 C. C. A. 449 (cocoanut between decks, over dry cargo in the hold, provided the decks are permanently laid, in thorough order, well calked and tight, and provided with sufficient scuppers for the escape of leaking oil); The Etona, 71 Fed. 895, 18 C. C. A. 380 [affirming 64 Fed. 880] (the stowage of hides beneath sugar stowed on a perfectly tight iron between decks); The Burswell, 13 Fed. 904 (caustic soda in iron drums, with iron cotton ties); The Viscount, 11 Fed. 168 (holding that under the stringer of an iron ship, in the between decks, is a proper place for the stowage of skins when so dunnaged as to be fully protected from the moisture on the sides of the ship); The Neptune, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,118, 6 Blatchf. 193 (holding that the main deck of a steam propeller, bulwarked entirely around and covered by the upper deck, and constructed specially for the purpose of carrying cargo, so that the cargo placed there is as completely protected from the weather and from storms as if it were in the hold, is a proper place in which to stow oil in casks).

A jettison of cargo, made necessary by top heavy loading of a new ship on her first voyage, combined with insufficient ballasting, is a loss which must fall on the owner, and not on the charterer or shipper, who are guaranteed seaworthiness in all respects at the time of sailing. The Whitlieburn, 89 Fed. 526.

Section 3 of the Harter Act (2 U. S. Rev. St. Suppl. (1892–1899) 81), which does not cover negligence in loading, stowing, or ballasting the ship. The Frey, 92 Fed. 667. And see, generally, infra, VII, D, 13, b.

Stowage under circumstances of difficulty held not to render the carrier liable see Zipsy v. Hill, 1 F. & F. 570.

9. Doherr v. Houston, 123 Fed. 334 [affirmed in 128 Fed. 594, 64 C. C. A. 102] (holding that it is incumbent upon a carrier who accepts goods knowing them to be of a character requiring special care in stowing to exercise such care, and he is liable for damage resulting from a failure to stow them in such place and in such manner that they will not be injured by the ordinary contingencies of the voyage); The Victoria, 114 Fed. 962.

10. The Thames, 61 Fed. 1014, 10 C. C. A. 232.

where the goods were stored by stevedores employed, directed, and paid by the shipper;[11] and it has been held that even if paid by the carrier if the stevedore is appointed by the shipper the carrier is absolved;[12] but although the stevedore is appointed by the shipper, if the contract of affreightment provides that the master shall direct the stevedore and the carrier be liable for the stowage the carrier will be responsible for improper stowage;[13] and where goods are stowed in the customary way, and according to the best judgment of experienced stevedores, the fact that if they had been stowed differently the injury sustained might have been avoided does not make the carrier liable, as he is not required to take such extraordinary precautions.[14] Different parts of the cargo must be so stowed as not unnecessarily to injure one another;[15] and a vessel is liable for damages caused to goods of one shipper by those of another, although the goods are stowed in the usual way, if the injury is caused by the goods of the third party being in bad condition when put on board,[16] or of such a nature as naturally to cause damage;[17] and where the vessel carries different kinds of cargo, which are liable to damage each other, special care must be taken that they be so stowed that damage shall not result,[18] and with as much skill as a competent stevedore could

11. The Diadem, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,875, 4 Ben. 247. And see Munson Steamship Line v. Steiger, 136 Fed. 772, 69 C. C. A. 492 [affirming 132 Fed. 160].

12. Blaikie v. Stembridge, 6. C. B. N. S. 894, 5 Jur. N. S. 1128, 28 L. J. C. P. 329, 8 Wkly. Rep. 24, 95 E. C. L. 894 [affirmed in 6 C. B. N. S. 911, 6 Jur. N. S. 825, 29 L. J. C. P. 212, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 570, 8 Wkly. Rep. 239, 95 E. C. L. 911]; The Catherine Chalmers, 2 Aspin. 598, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 847.

13. Ohrloff v. Briscall, L. R. 1 P. C. 231, 12 Jur. N. S. 675, 35 L. J. P. C. 63, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 873, 4 Moore P. C. N. S. 70, 15 Wkly. Rep. 202, 16 Eng. Reprint 90; Sack v. Ford, 13 C. B. N. S. 90, 9 Jur. N. S. 750, 32 L. J. C. P. 12, 106 E. C. L. 90. But see The Catherine Chalmers, 2 Aspin. 598, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 847.

14. Montague v. The Isaac Reed, 82 Fed. 566.

Degree of care required.—A ship is bound to the exercise of reasonable care and skill only in the stowage of cargo, and to render her liable for damage to cargo on the ground that she was unseaworthy by reason of improper stowage it must be shown that the manner of stowage was such as would not have been approved at the time by a stevedore or master of ordinary skill and judgment, knowing the voyage to be made and the weather and sea conditions which the vessel might reasonably be expected to encounter. The Musselcrag, 125 Fed 786.

15. The Excellent, 16 Fed. 148, 4 Woods 246 (holding that where the great bulk of the cargo of a vessel consisted of iron rails, steel, and tin in boxes, and that was stowed in the bottom of the vessel, the iron rails being stowed first and in block, fore and aft, and locked together, such stowage was bad, and increased the labor and strain of the vessel in heavy weather, and the vessel is liable for damages resulting therefrom to other cargo); The Cimbria, 13 Fed. 89 (holding that in the stowage of drums of glycerine care must be taken to prevent working of the tiers in case of springing of the ship, and the vessel will be liable for loss or damage where the exercise of proper care would have prevented any injury arising from any springing of the ship); The Pharos, 9 Fed. 912; The St. Patrick, 7 Fed. 125.

16. The Cheshire, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,658, 2 Sprague 28.

17. Wiggin v. The Glamorganshire, 50 Fed. 840, holding that where tea and camphor were carried on the same vessel, there being no general usage to carry the two together, but this vessel being especially fitted with an air-tight compartment for the camphor, in spite of which the tea was delivered impregnated with the fumes of camphor, the inference of want of care was irresistible, and the ship was liable. See also Church Cooperage Co. v. Pinkney, 170 Fed. 266.

18. Cranwell v. The Fanny Fosdick, 15 La. Ann. 436, 77 Am. Dec. 190 (where flour was stowed on a vessel, either improperly, or in such proximity to an offensive and injurious oil as to suffer damage); Browning v. The Ship St. Patrick, 14 Phila. (Pa.) 596; The Persiana, 156 Fed. 1019; Lazarus v. Barber, 124 Fed. 1007 [affirmed in 136 Fed. 534, 69 C. C. A. 310]; The Mississippi, 120 Fed. 1020, 56 C. C. A. 525 [affirming 113 Fed. 985]; The Orcadian, 116 Fed. 930; Darragh v. The Dunbritton, 73 Fed. 352, 19 C. C. A. 449 (holding that when packages susceptible to damage from oil are taken as "broken stowage," the ship is not entitled to use them as dunnage for casks of oil which are known to be liable to leak, or to stow them in immediate physical contact with such casks, where it is almost inevitable that they will be soaked with oil before the end of the voyage); The Thames, 61 Fed. 1014, 10 C. C. A. 232; The Bitterne, 35 Fed. 927 (holding that it is negligence to stow bags of rape seed over chalk in the hold of a vessel, in view of the certainty of damage to the chalk if the bags of seed should be broken); Paturzo v. Compagnie Francaise, 31 Fed. 611 (holding that where the vessel delivered macaroni damaged by the fumes of heated and decaying green show;[19] and where the different parts of the cargo are such as are very probable to injure each other, the carrier is liable, although they be well stowed, if injury result,[20] without proof of any wilful or negligent default on his part;[21] and for goods saved from a cargo partly destroyed by inherent defect.[22] But the carrier is not responsible for injury necessarily resulting to the goods of one shipper, from their being carried in the same vessel with the goods of other shippers, which, by usage, are a proper part of the same general cargo, unless such injury could have been avoided by the exercise of reasonable skill and attention on the part of the persons employed in the conveyance of the goods;[23] and although badly stowed if the carrier can show that damage to the goods must have happened anyhow, so that the bad stowing is not the proximate cause of the loss he is not liable.[24] It is not sufficient, however, to exonerate the carrier that the loss might have otherwise occurred.[25] The handling and loading of goods shipped is part fruit, stowed in the same compartment, although the bills of lading excepted "damage from other goods by sweating or otherwise," the vessel was liable for negligence in stowing the two articles in the same compartment); The Marinin S., 28 Fed. 664 (holding that where licorice in bundles stowed with other cargo, consisting of fine iron ore, was found more or less damaged from the dust of the iron ore, which was scattered among the bundles, and adhered to the sticks, and the ore was insufficiently covered to prevent dust arising, as it is common for licorice to become damp during a voyage, and thus attract dust, the vessel was liable for the damage); The Pharos, 9 Fed. 912 (holding the vessel liable for damages to wool caused by contact with wet redwood lumber, a part of the cargo, from steaming); The St. Patrick, 7 Fed. 125 (lima wood, a delicate wood, peculiarly liable to injury from chemicals and soda ash and bleaching powder); Hamilton v. The Kate Irving, 5 Fed. 630, 5 Hughes 253 (iron cotton ties and bleaching powders); Mainwaring v. The Carrie Delap, 1 Fed. 874 (bales of empty bags and bleaching powder); Bearse v. Ropes, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,192, 1 Sprague 331 (hemp and oil); The Colonel Ledyard, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,027, 1 Sprague 530 (holding that a general ship is liable for the injury to flour from the effluvium from turpentine carried in the cargo, in the absence of an established usage to carry such articles in the same cargo); The Sabioncello, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,198, 7 Ben. 357 (holding that a vessel which carries paper stock and petroleum in the same cargo is bound to use especial care in stowing them with reference to each other). But see The Fern Holme, 24 Fed. 502 (holding that the fact that during an unusually rough and stormy voyage two or three barrels of Venetian red powder broke open, scattering the powder over other merchandise stowed near it, does not of itself show improper stowage); The Fanny Fosdick, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,641, 4 Blatchf. 374, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 328 (where a libel for injury to wheat from odors of kerosene oil, near which it was stowed in a general ship, was dismissed, it not appearing that the odors would not disappear on proper ventilation).

Salt should never be stowed near iron, where there is any chance that water may come through from above on to the salt.

Marsh v. The Switzerland, 5 La. Ann. 111; The Nith, 36 Fed. 383, 13 Sawy. 481 [affirming 36 Fed. 86, 13 Sawy. 368]; Gillespie v. Thompson, 6 E. & B. 477 note, 2 Jur. N. S. 712, 88 E. C. L. 477.

19. Anglo-African Co. v. Lamzed, L. R. 1 C. P. 226, Harr. & R. 216, 12 Jur. N. S. 294, 35 L. J. C. P. 145, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 796, 14 Wkly. Rep. 477.

20. Braker v. The H. G. Johnson, 48 Fed. 696.

21. Gillespie v. Thompson, 6 E. & B. 477 note, 2 Jur. N. S. 712, 88 E. C. L. 477.

22. The Gomez de Castro, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,525, 10 Ben. 540, holding that while a shipper is not entitled to recover for loss and injury to green sugar by the breaking of the bags in which it was shipped, where it appears that the drainage from the sugar was excessive during the voyage, he may still be entitled to recover for the portion swept up and sold by the crew with the knowledge of the master. But see Hewat v. Havemyer, 1 Fed. 47, holding that a shipper of a cargo of sugar was not entitled to damages on the sweepings where it appeared that whatever consisted of sweepings might be fairly attributed to the condition of the bags and the discription of sugar they contained, and it was no part of the carrier's contract that sugar which necessarily runs out because the bags are not strong enough to withstand ordinary handling must be swept up and delivered clean.

23. Mainwaring v. The Carrie Delap, 1 Fed. 874.

24. Hastings v. Pepper, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 41; Rich v. Lambert, 12 How. (U. S.) 347, 13 L. ed. 1017; Clark v. Barnwell, 12 How. (U. S.) 272, 13 L. ed. 985; The Casco, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,486, 2 Ware 188; The Newark, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,141, 1 Blatchf. 203; The Reeside, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,657, 2 Sumn. 567.

Where a loss traced to an inherent defect has been aggravated by improper stowage, the carrier is responsible for the consequent loss. The Freedom, L. R. 3 P. C. 594, 1 Aspin. 136, 24 L. T. Rep. N. S. 452 [affirming L. R. 2 A. & E. 346, 38 L. J. Adm. 25, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 229, 1018, 18 Wkly. Rep. 48]. But see Clark v. Barnwell, 12 How. (U. S.) 272, 13 L. ed. 985.

25. Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N. C. 349.

of the stowage for negligence in which the vessel is liable;[26] but as a contract of affreightment becomes effective, so as to render the carrier liable for its breach, only from the time the goods are delivered for shipment the owner of a cargo has no lien upon a vessel for injury to such cargo resulting from delay in preparing the vessel for loading which occurred before the cargo was received by the owners or their agents.[27] Where weather encountered on a voyage is not more severe than is to be expected from the season of the year and in the locality traversed, peril of the sea is no defense to an action for injuries to goods from improper stowage.[28]

b. Stowage on Deck. Where goods are shipped under a clean bill of lading the presumption is that the goods are to be put under deck, there being no positive agreement to the contrary, or circumstances from which it might be inferred;[29] and stowage on deck without consent of the shipper renders the carrier liable for loss resulting therefrom,[30] even as against damages of the sea,[31] unless they would have been equally fatal if the goods had been under deck;[32] but as silence

See The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165. And see infra, VII, D, 10.

26. The D. Harvey, 139 Fed. 755; The Black Hawk, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,469, 9 Ben. 207; The R. G. Winslow, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,736, 4 Biss. 13. But see Wilson v. The Belvidere, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,790, 1 Pet. Adm. 258, holding that it is not the duty of a mate in loading casks from a lighter, either to work at the fall, or bear off with his own hands the casks from the side as it is about to come aboard, although both duties are sometimes performed by mates from commendable motives, and hence a vessel will not be liable for injury or loss of goods in loading caused by his failure to perform these duties.

The failure of the owner to maintain a watch on the ports during loading, and the negligence by which the port was suffered to remain open when the ship sailed, was a failure "in proper stowage, care and custody" within the first section of the Harter Act. Putnam v. The Manitoba, 104 Fed. 145.

27. The Hiram, 101 Fed. 138.

28. The Orcadian, 116 Fed. 930.

29. Sproat v. Donnell, 26 Me. 185, 45 Am. Dec. 103; The Water Witch, 1 Black (U. S.) 494, 17 L. ed. 155; The Kirkhill, 99 Fed. 575, 39 C. C. A. 658 (holding the master of the ship justified in refusing to give a clean bill of lading for cotton stored in alley ways, under the general rule that a clean bill of lading negatives any carriage except under deck); The New Orleans, 26 Fed. 44; The Gran Canaria, 16 Fed. 868; Chubb v. Seven Thousand Eight Hundred Bushels of Oats, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,709; Clifton v. Quantity of Cotton, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,895; Two Hundred and Sixty Hogsheads of Molasses, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,296, 1 Hask. 24; Vernard v. Hudson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,921, 3 Sumn. 405.

30. Alabama.— Hihler v. McCartney, 31 Ala. 501; Waring v. Morse, 7 Ala. 343.

Connecticut.— Barber v. Brace, 3 Conn. 9, 8 Am. Dec. 149.

Louisiana.— Shackleford v. Wilcox, 9 La. 33; Dorsey v. Smith, 4 La. 211.

Maine.— Sproat v. Donnell, 26 Me. 185, 45 Am. Dec. 103.

Massachusetts.— Sayward v. Stevens, 3 Gray 97. See Taunton Copper Co. v. Merchants' Ins. Co., 22 Pick. 108.

North Carolina.— Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N. C. 349.

United States.— The Delaware, 161 U. S. 459, 16 S. Ct. 516, 40 L. ed. 771; The Waterwitch, 1 Black 494, 17 L. ed. 155; Crooks v. The Fanny Skolfield, 65 Fed. 814; The New Orleans, 26 Fed. 44; The Gran Canaria, 16 Fed. 868; Clifton v. Quantity of Cotton, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,895; The Peytona, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,059, 1 Ware 541 [affirmed in 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,058, 2 Curt. 21]; Stinson v. Wyman, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,460, 2 Ware 176; Talbot v. Wakeman, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,731, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 36; Vernard v. Hudson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,921, 2 Sumn. 405; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 452 et seq.

Stowage held not to be on deck see Merryman v. The William Crane, 50 Fed. 444, where cotton was stowed on the main deck of a large coasting steamship, under the upper deck, in a space between the main deck and the upper deck, inclosed by iron bulwarks and by strong shutters and bulkheads, although not under the hatches of the main deck, the stowage being in a protected place.

Cargo stowed on deck in violation of contract is at the vessel's risk, unless clearly shown that it would have been destroyed if it had been loaded below deck. The Governor Carey, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,645*a*, 2 Hask. 487.

31. Chubb v. Seven Thousand Eight Hundred Bushels of Oats, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,709; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165.

32. The Governor Carey, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,645*a*, 2 Hask. 487; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165.

Whether stowage of goods within a poop deck is a stowage under deck, within the meaning of a bill of lading, is not dependent upon whether or not the poop deck was built when the ship was originally constructed, but upon whether it afforded sufficient protection to the goods. Williams v. Mora, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,730.

in a bill of lading as to stowage is not an express contract upon that point, the ship-owner may prove an agreement to carry on deck, where a claim for loss is made,[33] or usage to that effect;[34] and a shipper who agrees that his goods shall be carried on deck, and assents to the manner of stowing and protecting them, cannot recover for an injury through natural causes where all reasonable care was taken of them during the voyage.[35] A vessel is not liable for loss or damage to a cargo by reason of its having been stowed on deck, if it must have been contemplated from the nature of the cargo that it should be so stowed;[36] but even though a cargo was of such character as to be properly stowed on the deck, the vessel is liable for damages caused by its being insufficiently secured,[37] or covered,[38] or for an unnecessary jettison.[39] Taking a full price for stowing on deck will subject the owner of the vessel to damages, if the freight placed on deck is thereby lost or damaged;[40] but any inference that the cargo may be carried on deck, implied by a reference in the contract to the capacity of the vessel, is repelled by the fact that the shipper refused to insert leave to carry on deck in the bills of lading proposed to be signed, and paid under deck freight;[41] and a shipper who sees goods deck-stowed without objection cannot claim damages for injury to them occurring without fault of the carrier.[42]

c. Dunnage. Lack of sufficient dunnage to protect cargo is bad stowage, for which the vessel is liable,[43] and a ship must be dunnaged so as to protect the 33. The Delaware v. Oregon Iron Co., 14 Wall. (U. S.) 579, 20 L. ed. 779; Clifton v. Quantity of Cotton, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,895; Two Hundred and Sixty Hogsheads of Molasses, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,296, 1 Hask. 24; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165. But see The New Orleans, 26 Fed. 44, holding that the shipper cannot prove by parol a consent of the shipper to stow on deck the bill of lading being silent.

34. Barber v. Brace, 3 Conn. 9, 8 Am. Dec. 149 (holding that a commercial usage to stow gin on deck having existed for a sufficient length of time to have become generally known rebuts a presumption of negligence arising from the loss of gin so stowed); Sproat v. Donnell, 26 Me. 185, 45 Am. Dec. 103; Clifton v. Quantity of Cotton, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,895; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165. But see The Colima, 82 Fed. 665 (holding that no custom allowing the loading of lumber on deck can validate navigation by an unstable ship, or excuse the neglect to load sufficiently heavy weights below, especially where the ship is naturally of a tender model); The Gran Canaria, 16 Fed. 868 (holding that it being claimed that by custom the owners of the vessel had a right to carry goods on deck by submitting to a charge for the extra insurance, and giving a rebate for difference of freight, the custom, if proved, would be invalid and illegal, as unreasonable and in conflict with the terms of the contract).

Liability under usage.—With reference to cargo stowed on deck in pursuance of a custom of similar vessels to so carry like goods, the ship is liable as a common carrier, but its liability in this case is limited to ordinary care, that is, such degree of care as a prudent owner would exercise. If the loss was the result of the negligence, want of skill and care, of the master, the liability of the vessel is established. The Hettie Ellis, 20 Fed. 507 [affirmed in 20 Fed. 393 (following Lawrence v. Minturn, 17 How. (U. S.) 100, 15 L. ed. 58)].

35. The Thomas P. Thorn, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,927, 8 Ben. 3.

36. Talbot v. Wakeman, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,731, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 36.

37. Talbot v. Wakeman, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,731, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 36.

38. Schwinger v. Raymond, 83 N. Y. 192, 38 Am. Rep. 415.

39. Compania de Navigacion La Flecha v. Brauer, 168 U. S. 104, 18 S. Ct. 12, 42 L. ed. 398.

40. Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N. C. 349.

41. The Water Witch, 1 Black (U. S.) 494, 17 L. ed. 155.

42. Van Horn v. Taylor, 2 La. Ann. 587, 46 Am. Dec. 558; Sproat v. Donnell, 26 Me. 185, 45 Am. Dec. 103. But see Schwinger v. Raymond, 83 N. Y. 192, 38 Am. Rep. 415, holding that a shipper, by consenting that his goods may be carried on deck, does not thereby assume the risk of their loss or injury, and if the carrier has contracted to cover and protect them, he is liable for damage from rain, occasioned by the want of such protection; and the fact that the shipper knew that the goods were not covered when the boat departed is immaterial.

43. The Victoria, 114 Fed. 962; Franklin Sugar-Refining Co. v. The Earnwood, 83 Fed. 315; Crooks v. The Fanny Skofield, 65 Fed. 814; Marx v. The Britannia, 34 Fed. 906; The Tommy, 16 Fed. 601; Crocket v. Brower, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,401 (holding it bad stowage to place hogsheads of sugar on barrels of whisky, without dunnage and beds at the bottom); The Sloga, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,955, 10 Ben. 315 (where the stowage was insufficient to protect cargo from water in the hilges when the vessel rolled).

Cargo stowed around the mast ought to be dunnaged away from the mast, so that if any water comes through the mast coat it will not come in contact therewith. Steinwender cargo even in rough weather, if the vessel springs no serious leak;[44] but if the vessel has met with extraordinary sea peril upon proof of usual good dunnage the carrier will not be liable.[45]

7. Negligent Management or Navigation. The owner of a vessel is answerable for injury to cargo resulting from the carelessness or unskilfulness of his master or crew.[46] Thus in a contract by a common carrier by water, he impliedly undertakes that his captain and sailors have a competent knowledge of the navigation, and he will be liable for a loss occasioned by the want of such knowledge,[47] or by negligent management of the ship,[48] as by carelessly running the vessel in a

v. The Aspasia, 79 Fed. 91; The Nith, 36 Fed. 383, 13 Sawy. 481, holding the rule particularly applicable to a cargo of salt.

44. Endicott v. Renauld, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,482, 10 Ben. 582; The Howden, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,765, 5 Sawy. 389.

45. Steinwender v. The Aspasia, 79 Fed. 91.

46. Guiterman v. Liverpool, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 9 Daly (N. Y.) 119 [reversed on other grounds in 83 N. Y. 358] (holding that, under the statutory regulations applicable to the port of Liverpool, an ocean steamship need not take on a licensed pilot while she is in the river, at anchor, coaling preparatory to a voyage; and hence, if the pilot is on board, it is by the voluntary act of the owner, and as his servant, so as to make the owner answerable for any loss to the cargo arising from the pilot's negligence); Scruggs v. Davis, 5 Sneed (Tenn.) 261; Houston, etc., Nav. Co. v. Dwyer, 29 Tex. 376; Dusar v. Murgatroyd, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,199, 1 Wash. 13; The Griffin, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,814, 4 Blatchf. 203 [affirming 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,789, and affirmed in 22 How. (U. S.) 491, 16 L. ed. 391] (holding the vessel liable for the loss of goods seized by customs officers and forfeited for the neglect of the master to enter them on the manifest). See Johnson v. The Arabia, 24 Mo. 86.

Where the vessel is laid up for the winter with cargo on board, the master must take precautions to prevent injury from damages or mold, and to protect the deck load from the effects of snow and ice; and the vessel is liable where, by the negligence of the master, the cargo is exposed to injury by an excepted peril. The Tan Bark Case, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,742, Brown Adm. 151.

The vessel is liable where barratrously run ashore by the master, for the loss of cargo, and for injury to the portion saved. The William Taher, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,757, 2 Ben. 329.

La. Civ. Code, art. 2299, releasing an employer from liability for torts of servants which he could not have prevented, does not release the owners of a steamboat from liability for injury to horses carried on the boat, caused by an explosion of the boiler through the negligence of the captain, although the owners were not present on board to prevent the accident. Kelly v. Benedict, 5 Rob. 138, 39 Am. Dec. 530.

47. Morel v. Roe, R. M. Charlt. (Ga.) 19; The Montana, 17 Fed. 377 [affirmed in 22 Fed. 715 (affirmed in 129 U. S. 397, 464, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788)]; The Jenny Jones, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,286, Deady 82; The Northern Belle, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,319, 1 Biss. 529 (holding that where a vessel is well acquainted with the danger of a channel and bar at low water, and she is sunk and her cargo injured while towing two barges around a point where such channel is narrow and the water shallow, she is liable for the injury to cargo); The Thomas Jefferson, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,923, 3 Ben. 302.

48. Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323; The Gladys, 159 Fed. 698, 86 C. C. A. 566 (the careening of a lighter proceeding up a river in tow, by which she dumped overboard her cargo of wine in barrels, held not due to her unseaworthiness, but to a swell caused by a meeting steamer, for which her owners were liable because of her negligent navigation); Bradley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 145 Fed. 569 [affirmed in 153 Fed. 350, 82 C. C. A. 426]; Northwestern Transp. Co. v. Leiter, 107 Fed. 953, 47 C. C. A. 97; The Hiram, 101 Fed. 138; Memphis, etc., Packet Co. v. Overman Carriage Co., 93 Fed. 246; The Fred H. Rice, 40 Fed. 690; The Costa Rica, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,261, 3 Sawy. 538; The Jenny Jones, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,286, Deady 82; The Rocket, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,975, 1 Biss. 354.

Snags, rocks, or shoals in western rivers.— The rule which imputes carelessness to a captain whose boat strikes a known rock or shoal, unless driven by a tempest, is held to be only applicable to the navigation of the ocean, where the rocks and shoals are marked upon maps and may be avoided, and does not apply to the navigation of the western rivers. There each case must be governed by its own circumstances, and be tested by the course usually pursued by skilful pilots in such cases. Collier v. Valentine, 11 Mo. 299, 49 Am. Dec. 81. But although a snag in a western river may be a peril of navigation within that exception in a receipt by a carrier for goods, the carrier is not absolved from liability for their loss where the vessel is wrecked on a snag through the negligence of the carrier or of those whom he employs. Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am. Rep. 122. And see Ready v. The Highland Mary, 17 Mo. 461, holding that where plaintiff's horse, which was placed on the guard of a boat, was lost by being thrown from the boat by the tearing away of the guard by a snag, the fact that at the time of the accident the boat was at night attempting to pass a point difficult for boats to navigate did not of itself establish the fog,[49] or selecting an improper mooring,[50] or failing to take soundings;[51] and as an owner of cargo has a right to assume that necessary care and caution will be exercised in not going out in extrahazardous weather, if the carrier does so, and the owner is not privy or consenting thereto, he may recover his whole damage.[52] But the carrier may absolve himself by showing that he navigated in the way customary in the waters he was navigating.[53] The third section of the Harter Act[54] changes the law radically and, in cases to which it applies, exempts the vessel from liability to cargo for negligent navigation.[55]

8. Delay or Deviation — a. Effect of in General. A common carrier of goods by water is liable for loss caused to goods by unnecessary delay,[56] particularly negligence of the carrier. See, generally, supra, VII, D, 1.

Negligence must be presumed where a steamboat proceeding quietly up the Ohio river was run into the bank by the pilot so hard as to knock a hole into the bottom of the boat big enough to sink it, and there was light enough to see, and no reason shown for the accident. Louisville, etc., Packet Co. v. Smith, 60 S. W. 524, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 1323.

Where a master and crew abandoned their vessel, claiming that she was sinking, but she was afterward found riding safely and not leaking seriously, and the circumstances were such as to raise a grave suspicion that she had been purposely dismasted, and an attempt made to scuttle her, because of bad seamanship and negligence the ship was liable for the amounts paid for salvage of, and as damages to, the cargo, by the insurers. The James Martin, 88 Fed. 649.

49. The Montana, 17 Fed. 377 [affirmed in 22 Fed. 715 (affirmed in 129 U. S. 397, 464, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788)] (where in an action to recover the value of goods lost by the stranding of a vessel, it appeared that the vessel was running near a dangerous coast, and that there was a fog on land); The Costa Rica, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,261, 3 Sawy. 538 (where the master attempted to come up the bay of San Francisco in a dense fog, the vessel being in comparative safety, and the master not being compelled by any exigency to make the attempt); The Rocket, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,975, 1 Biss. 354 (holding that the necessity to keep schedule time will not justify a vessel in running at full speed in a fog alongshore, and the ship is liable for injury to goods caused by running aground).

50. The John Cottrell, 34 Fed. 907.

51. In re The City of Para, 44 Fed. 689; The Alpin, 23 Fed. 815, where the master was negligent in failing to sound. But see Bursley v. The Marlborough, 47 Fed. 667, holding that where a vessel ran at night on a coral reef and the evidence showed that stranding at that point was not uncommon, through suddenly arising unusual currents, that carry a vessel imperceptibly off her course; and that the nearness of the reef could not be discovered by sounding, it was not negligence not to sound.

52. The Wm. Murtagh, 17 Fed. 259, holding also that the shipper can recover his damages from the owner of a tug who towed the boat out in dangerous weather.

53. Johnson v. Lightsey, 34 Ala. 169, 73 Am. Dec. 450.

54. See infra, VII, D, 13, b.

55. See infra, the following notes.

56. Louisiana.— The Olive Branch, 20 La. Ann. 258.

Missouri.— Smith v. Whitman, 13 Mo. 352.

New York.— Sherman v. Inman Steamship Co., 26 Hun 107.

United States.— The Prussia, 100 Fed. 484 (holding that promptness in the transportation of merchandise is a substantial condition of a contract of affreightment, and where ship-owners fail to deliver cargo within the time reasonably necessary to make the voyage, and the delay is not due to stress of weather or any of the causes for which they do not assume liability, they are liable to the shipper for losses resulting to him from such delay, although no time for delivery was fixed by the bill of lading); The James Platt, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,199, 9 Ben. 491.

England.— Thirley v. Orchis Steamship Co., [1907] 1 K. B. 660, 12 Com. Cas. 251, 76 L. J. K. B. 595, 96 L. T. Rep. N. S. 488, 23 T. L. R. 338.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 459.

Where a vessel delays to aid another boat in distress, it is not such a deviation as to render the owners liable for a loss of goods, even though there was not danger of loss of life on the boat in distress (Walsh v. Homer, 10 Mo. 6, 45 Am. Dec. 342); and the rule applies with greater force where the bill of lading permits the vessel to tow and assist vessels in distress (Morris Beef Co. v. The Wells City, 61 Fed. 857, 10 C. C. A. 123 [affirming 57 Fed. 317]); but the clause does not justify an unnecessary deviation in rendering a salvage service by going to a distant port instead of to the one most reasonably accessible in the particular circumstances of the case (Schwarzchild v. National Steamship Co., 74 Fed. 257); and where, although the weather was good and the crew might have been taken off a disabled vessel, she was towed a great distance, and both vessels wrecked, the deviation was not justifiable (Scaramanga v. Stamp, 5 C. P. D. 295, 4 Aspin. 295, 49 L. J. C. P. 674, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 840, 28 Wkly. Rep. 691 [affirming 4 C. P. D. 316, 48 L. J. C. P. 478, 41 L. T. Rep. N. S. 191].

Under 4 Curwen St. Ohio, p. 3399, which makes all steamboats liable "for damages arising out of any contract for the transportation of any goods or persons," an action where the delay is occasioned by breach of the warranty of seaworthiness,[57] and can only avoid this liability by showing that the loss would have happened without such delay,[58] or was due to the condition of the weather, and not to any negligence in her navigation.[59] A ship is liable if from her failure to sail on the day advertised a perishable cargo on board be spoiled; [60] but a ship is not answerable for damages to a perishable cargo, occasioned by an unusually protracted voyage, unless the delay is owing to the fault of the master or owner; [61] and where a ship trading between two ports is loaded with reference to the ordinary condition of the entrance of the port of destination, this is all that can be demanded; and her owners cannot be held liable for injury to cargo from her detention on account of exceptional and unusual circumstances which render her draft of water too great for her to cross the bar.[62] Carriers by water are bound to pursue the usual course of navigation, and if they deviate, and a loss ensue while they are out of the course, they are responsible, even though it be caused by inevitable accident; [63] and a deviation so far displaces the special contract of carriage that the carrier cannot claim the benefit of stipulations in his favor contained in the bill of lading,[64] even as to losses before the deviation.[65] But it is not a deviation where the course pursued was in conformity with the usage of the trade.[66]

b. Detention For Repairs. Where a seaworthy vessel is so disabled in a severe gale as to require her to put into the nearest port for repairs, her owners are not liable for damage to perishable goods caused by the necessary delay for repairs,[67] if the master was justified in putting into the port for repairs, used proper diligence in getting repairs made, exerted himself to preserve the cargo, under the best advice he could get, and was unable to send the cargo forward by another vessel; [68] and the owners are not liable even if the means used by the lies against a steamboat upon a special contract signed by the owner for the transportation of goods upon the boat to the end of its route and beyond, although the delay complained of as injuring the goods occurred beyond. The Jonas Powell v. Thompson, 16 Ohio St. 98.

57. The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567], holding the rule to apply, although the breach was due to a hidden defect in the propeller shaft not attributable to the carrier's negligence.

58. Smith v. Whitman, 13 Mo. 352.

59. The Hiram, 101 Fed. 138.

60. Reardon v. Zacharie, 6 Mart. N. S. (La.) 644.

61. The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196].

62. Lewis v. The Success, 18 La. Ann. 1.

63. Connecticut.—Williams v. Grant, 1 Conn. 487, 7 Am. Dec. 235, holding that where the shipper's goods were lost by the vessel striking a rock the situation of which was not generally known and not actually known to the master, the carrier is liable if the vessel was unnecessarily exposed to the peril by a deviation from the regular course and an attempt to navigate an unknown channel without a pilot, and where a pilot was generally employed.

Ohio.— Lawrence v. M'Gregor, Wright 193.

Pennsylvania.— Hand v. Baynes, 4 Whart. 204, 33 Am. Dec. 54.

United States.— Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 64 Fed. 874 [reversed on other grounds in 170 U. S. 272, 18 S. Ct. 588, 42 L. ed. 1033].

England.— Davis v. Garrett, 6 Bing. 716, 8 L. J. C. P. O. S. 253, 4 M. & P. 540, 31 Rev. Rep. 524, 19 E. C. L. 321; Ellis v. Turner, 8 T. R. 531, 5 Rev. Rep. 441, 101 Eng. Reprint 1529.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 459.

The words "with liberty . . . to make deviation," in a bill of lading, give the carrier the right to make only such departures from the voyage as are necessary and reasonable. Swift v. Furness, 87 Fed. 345.

64. Thorley v. Orchis Steamship Co., [1907] 1 K. B. 660, 12 Com. Cas. 251, 76 L. J. K. B. 595, 96 L. T. Rep. N. S. 488, 23 Wkly. Rep. 338.

65. International Guano, etc. v. Macandrew, [1909] 2 K. B. 360, 14 Com. Cas. 194, 78 L. J. K. B. 691, 100 L. T. Rep. N. S. 850, 25 T. L. R. 529.

66. Hostetter v. Gray, 11 Fed. 179 [affirmed in 137 U. S. 30, 11 S. Ct. 1, 34 L. ed. 568]. And see Robertson v. National Steamship Co., 139 N. Y. 416, 34 N. E. 1053 [reversing 60 N. Y. Super. Ct. 132, 17 N. Y. Suppl. 459]. Compare the analogous doctrine of deviation in marine insurance. MARINE INSURANCE, 26 Cyc. 625; Maritime Ins. Co. v. Stearns, [1901] 2 K. B. 912, 6 Com. Cas. 182, 71 L. J. K. B. 86, 17 T. L. R. 613, 50 Wkly. Rep. 238; Hughes Adm. 60.

67. Cochran v. The Cleopatra, 17 La. Ann. 270; The Jason, 28 Fed. 323.

68. The Collenberg, 1 Black (U. S.) 170, 17 L. ed. 89; The Jason, 28 Fed. 323, where the expense of forwarding would have been unreasonable.

master to preserve it, under the advice of experienced and competent persons, were not the most suitable and well judged;[69] but where a vessel is compelled to lie in a foreign port for a long time waiting for means to procure repairs, the voyage is in effect broken up, and the disabling of the master and mate by sickness from attending to the duties of the ship will not exonerate the owner from responsibility for the loss of the cargo by lack of proper attention,[70] and the carrier is liable also for delaying longer than was necessary to make proper temporary repairs,[71] or for refusing to deliver the cargo to the consignee at the port of delay upon tender of full freight and a general average bond.[72]

9. Discharging and Caring For Cargo — a. Negligent Discharge in General. The carrier is liable for loss of goods through negligent discharging,[73] and is liable for the loss of goods delivered to him as such where a portion of them were transferred to a float belonging to such carrier preparatory to their delivery, and were there destroyed by fire;[74] but where consignees, although having given notice to the ship that they will not receive the cargo because of the unfavorable state of the weather, do accept and remove it in part as delivered from the ship, they

69. Lawrence v. The Lieutenant Admiral Callomberg, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,139 [affirming 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,716, 18 How. Pr. 141, and affirmed in 1 Black 170, 17 L. ed. 89].

70. Phelan v. The Alvarado, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,067.

71. The Queen, 28 Fed. 755.

72. The Martha, 35 Fed. 313.

73. Knowles v. Dabney, 105 Mass. 437 (holding the carrier liable for loss of a portion of the cargo by the breaking up of the tackle of a crane used for transferring the goods upon lighters, and standing on the pier); McAllister v. Southern Pac. Co., 111 Fed. 938; The Germanic, 107 Fed. 294 [affirmed in 124 Fed. 1, 59 C. C. A. 521 (affirmed in 196 U. S. 589, 25 S. Ct. 317, 49 L. ed. 610)]; Hills v. The Florida, 69 Fed. 159 (holding that where bags of filberts, in the course of discharging, were placed so near the coal bunkers that dust from the coal blew on and through them, the ship was liable for the damage); The Aline, 19 Fed. 875 (holding that a vessel is not "ready to discharge," within the meaning of a provision in the bill of lading that all goods are "to be taken from along-side immediately the vessel is ready to discharge," when it is impossible for her to discharge without destroying the cargo, and therefore the vessel is liable to the owner of goods for loss occasioned by improperly unloading at such time). But see Brand v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 10 Misc. (N. Y.) 128, 30 N. Y. Suppl. 903.

Where the part-owner of a ship, who is also master and consignee, sells the ship before he has sold or satisfactorily delivered the cargo, and, in consequence of taking out the cargo in order to deliver the ship, it was damaged, he will be liable, although the shipper knew that the ship might be sold at some time during the voyage. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

Liability of lighterman.—A ship acts at her own risk in loading the lighter in the absence of the lighter's crew, without their knowledge or authority, and the cargo so put aboard without authority is not in law received by the lighterman, nor is he accountable for it as a bailee to its owner. Jarvis v. The Iniziativa, 50 Fed. 229.

A discharge by night under a permit from the collector, in accordance with long established usage, is as lawful and valid as a discharge by day, and is not ipso facto negligence, rendering the vessel liable for a loss of goods by fire during the unloading, any more than a discharge by day. The Egypt, 25 Fed. 320.

Insufficiency of wharf.—The carrier by water is liable for loss of goods from the breaking down of a wharf, upon which the master had been ordered not to unload by the carrier (Vose v. Allen, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,006, 3 Blatchf. 289 [affirming 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,005, 12 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 100]); and the act of the master in overloading a pier renders the ship liable for resulting injury to cargo which she had already deposited thereon, even if such deposit was under circumstances rendering it equivalent to delivery to the consignee (Kennedy v. Dodge, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,701, 1 Ben. 311), particularly after warning by the dock master that the dock could not carry the weight of the cargo (Vose v. Allen, supra); and where a carrier did not give proper notice to the consignee to appear and take charge of the freight, and allow reasonable time thereafter for him to do so, but unloaded the freight upon a pier, which collapsed, so as to injure the goods, the carrier was liable, irrespective of the question whether it was guilty of negligence in failing to exercise reasonable care in selecting a safe place to unload (Rosenstein v. Vogemann, 184 N. Y. 325, 77 N. E. 625 [affirming 102 N. Y. App. Div. 39, 92 N. Y. Suppl. 86]).

A consignee who has made advances on account of a shipment of iron may hold the owner of the vessel liable in admiralty for a loss of the iron, caused by the act of the master in unloading on an insufficient wharf. Vose v. Allen, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,006, 3 Blatchf. 289.

74. Goold v. Chapin, 20 N. Y. 259, 75 Am. Dec. 398; Miller v. Steam Nav. Co., 10 N. Y. 431 [affirming 13 Barb. 361].

cannot claim indemnity from the ship for injury to the cargo by a storm to which it was exposed while on conveyance to its place of storage.[75]

b. Loss or Injury After Discharge or Tender. The liability as carrier of a carrier by water continues until delivery of the goods actual or constructive, even after the goods have been taken from the vessel,[76] and the liability continues until notice of the arrival of the goods and a reasonable opportunity to remove them;[77] and thus a carrier who, without notice to the consignee of the arrival of the goods, turns them out on the wharf,[78] or places them in a public store,[79] is liable for their subsequent loss, and where a consignee presents himself in reasonable time, and at a proper place, to receive the goods, or until he has had opportunity to do so, there is no ground for reducing the liability of the carrier to that of a warehouseman, and relieving the carrier from liability for loss by fire on the dock.[80] Failure to give actual notice to consignees of the time and place of discharge of cargo unloaded at a wharf, other than the vessel's usual wharf, at which the goods, before delivery to the consignees, are destroyed by fire, does not render the carrier liable for the loss, where the consignees, had they received notice, could not have removed their goods before the fire, and where they took no steps on the faith of the cargo being discharged at the usual place;[81] but if the consignee

75. The Grafton, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,656, Olcott 43 [affirming 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,655, 1 Blatchf. 173].

76. Tarbell v. Royal Exch. Shipping Co., 110 N. Y. 170, 17 N. E. 721, 6 Am. St. Rep. 350 [reversing 53 N. Y. Super. Ct. 190]; Gleadell v. Thomson, 56 N. Y. 194 [affirming 35 N. Y. Super. Ct. 232]; Morgan v. Dibble, 29 Tex. 107, 94 Am. Dec. 264; Higgins v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 145 Fed. 24, 76 C. C. A. 24; Jarvis v. Iniziativa, 50 Fed. 229; The Aline, 25 Fed. 562, 23 Blatchf. 335; Warner v. The Illinois, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,184*a*, 18 Reporter 11, holding that where a carrier suffers goods of a consignee on being discharged from the vessel to become mingled with the rest of the cargo, and to be carried off by persons claiming to be entitled to similar goods, he is liable to the owner of the goods carried off, whether by fraud or mistake.

Where the bill of lading provides that the lighterage shall be at shipper's risk, and the consignees, although duly notified, delay to pay the duties and take the cargo, the ship is liable for loss by breakage and leakage while on board, and for a reasonable time, after discharge into the lighters, in which to pay duties. Guimaraes v. The Seguranca, 68 Fed. 1014.

77. Solomon v. Philadelphia, etc., Express Steamboat Co., 2 Daly (N. Y.) 104. And see supra, VII, C, 3, a.

Where it has been the long continued practice of a company to ship its goods daily by a regular line of steamboats, consigned to its agent for sale, and it has been part of the regular routine of the agent, without notice, to call for and receive the goods on their arrival each day, at the place of destination, and remove them, the duty of the carrier is performed when the goods are landed at the accustomed place, and the consignee has had a reasonable time to remove them, and the carrier is not liable for their subsequent destruction. J. Russell Mfg. Co. v. New Haven Steamboat Co., 50 N. Y. 121, 52 N. Y. 657.

Rule modified as to river carriage.— But the rules regulating the liability of a carrier of goods by water to landings where there are wharves and warehouses, and where the consignee resides or may be found, are not applicable to neighborhood or way landings on river banks, where there is no wharf and no warehouse, and where the consignee does not reside, and is not to be found; and a boat is not liable for the loss of goods put ashore at such landing, where the master, as is the usual custom, notified a citizen of the place, leaving the freight bill with him and requesting him to notify the consignee. The Mill Boy, 13 Fed. 181, 4 McCrary 383. And see Turner v. Huff, 46 Ark. 222, 55 Am. Rep. 580 (holding that a carrier by water cannot be held for loss of goods delivered at the proper landing place, although there is no warehouse there, and he gives no notice to the consignee, if such is the uniform usage, although neither shipper nor consignee knows the usage); Dalzell v. The Saxton, 10 La. Ann. 280.

78. Dean v. Vaccaro, 2 Head (Tenn.) 488, 75 Am. Dec. 744 (where the carrier also placed the goods in possession of a drayman not authorized to receive them); Dibble v. Morgan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,881, 1 Woods 406.

A vessel which having accepted a suitable pier designated by the owners of a majority of the cargo for discharge leaves that pier with part of her cargo on board and goes to another pier and there discharges the balance, which is injured by exposure to the sun on an unsheltered pier, will be liable. The Cervin, 17 Fed. 462.

In case of goods landed on the steamship's own inclosed wharf, the liability of the steamship as carrier continues until the expiration of a reasonable time. The St. Laurent, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,231, 7 Ben. 7.

79. The George Skolfield, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,155.

80. Graves v. Hartford, etc., Steamboat Co., 38 Conn. 143, 9 Am. Rep. 369.

81. Constable v. National Steamship Co., is notified, and is present while the goods are being discharged upon an uncovered wharf, and makes no objection to the time, manner, or place of delivery, there is an actual delivery and acceptance when they are so placed on the wharf, and the ship cannot be held liable for their subsequent damage by rain before their removal from the wharf by the consignee.[82] The carrier is not liable for a loss of part of the cargo on the pier, after actual receipt by the consignees of all the cargo shipped;[83] and liability as a common carrier ceases when the cargo is unladen on a wharf by direction of the consignee, and he is not liable for injuries subsequently sustained thereby;[84] and where the consignee is not present to receive the goods as they are unloaded, pursuant to a notice, the carrier is thereafter liable only as an ordinary bailee for hire or warehouseman;[85] charged with the duty to take ordinary care of the property for a reasonable length of time, and not to abandon it, or negligently expose it to injury,[86] and as such liable for goods

154 U. S. 51, 14 S. Ct. 1062, 38 L. ed. 903, holding also that where the wharf of a steamship company, at which its vessels usually discharge, is so blocked that one of them cannot obtain access to it, the discharge of her cargo, for the mutual advantage of ship and consignees, at a neighboring wharf, which is a fit and proper place therefor, is not a deviation such as to render the company an insurer or cargo there discharged without notice to the consignee, until its actual delivery to him and liable for its loss by fire; the bill of lading providing that the goods shall be at the consignee's risk of fire after discharge.

82. The St. Georg, 104 Fed. 898, 44 C. C. A. 246.

83. Goodwin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 50 N. Y. 154, 10 Am. Rep. 457 [reversing 58 Barb. 195]; Dike v. Von Lefferl Lahsen, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,909; Ellsworth v. The Wild Hunter, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,411, 2 Woods 315 (holding the ship not liable for damage by rain to cargo delivered on the wharf, at request of consignee, whose clerk assumed charge thereof, but failed to employ sufficient drays to remove them before night); Field v. The Lovett Peacock, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,768 (holding that the vessel is not responsible in rem for cargo lost from the pier through negligence of her officers, but after delivery to the consignee, the remedy being against the officers personally); The Iddo Kimhall, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 7,000, 8 Ben. 297 (destruction by fire).

84. Howland v. The Henry Hood, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,795.

85. Tarbell v. Royal Exch. Shipping Co., 110 N. Y. 170, 17 N. E. 721, 6 Am. St. Rep. 350 [reversing 53 N. Y. Super. Ct. 190]; Hathorn v. Ely, 28 N. Y. 78; The Titania, 124 Fed. 975 [affirmed in 131 Fed. 229, 65 C. C. A. 215]; The City of Lincoln, 25 Fed. 835; De Grau v. Wilson, 17 Fed. 698; Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Suitter, 17 Fed. 695; The Bobolink, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,588, 6 Sawy. 146; Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v. The Tangier, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,267, 3 Ware 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,494, Brunn. Col. Cas. 602 (reversed in 23 How. 28, 16 L. ed. 412)]. And see The Tybee, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,304, 1 Woods 358. Compare Segura v. Reed, 3 La. Ann. 695, holding that while, in general, placing goods on a wharf, with notice to the consignee, constitutes delivery and discharges the carrier, it is nevertheless liable where the consignee made repeated calls during the day, and the goods were not placed on the wharf until an advanced hour of the day, and lost through inattention or negligence of the carrier's servants.

Where there is no such general custom to abstain from labor on an annual fast day as forbids the master, in a case where he has previously commenced to discharge his vessel, from completing the unlading and delivering the consignment on such day, the vessel is not liable, where the unlading being completed on such day, and the consignee being notified that delivery would be made on such day, the cargo is destroyed by fire without fault on the part of the vessel. Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v. The Tangier, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,267, 3 Ware 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,494, Brunn. Col. Cas. 602 (reversed in 23 How. 28, 16 L. ed. 412)].

But where a bill of lading stipulated that the consignee should take the goods from the ship immediately she was ready to discharge, and notice was sent the consignee that she would discharge, the carrier was not liable for damage caused by the consignee's failure to remove or to protect the goods (The Boskenna Bay, 40 Fed. 91, 6 L. R. A. 172 [reversing 22 Fed. 662]; The Kate, 12 Fed. 881); but such a provision requiring the consignee to be ready to receive the cargo, in default of which she was authorized to land, warehouse, or lighter the same at the consignee's risk, does not relieve her from liability for damages arising from her failure to reasonably protect perishable goods landed on a dock upon a claim of delivery, where she refused to permit the consignee's agents to remove them, although having no claim thereon for freight (The Alnwick, 135 Fed. 88. And see The Surrey, 26 Fed. 791, holding a vessel liable for the value of the cargo, notwithstanding a stipulation that the goods might be delivered without notice to the consignee, having been brought by a different boat than shipped on).

86. Smith v. Britain Steamship Co., 123 Fed. 176.

stolen through negligence, while still in the custody of the owners of the ship, after being discharged on a pier, and waiting to be conveyed to the public warehouse by the public carman,[87] or after being actually placed in the warehouse.[88]

10. Doctrine of Proximate Cause; Contributory Negligence. In order that a carrier may be absolved from liability for loss upon the ground of one of the excepted perils, it must have been the proximate cause. If human agency or fault or some other not excepted cause has intervened he is not as a general rule excused;[89] and where, although a peril of the sea has arisen, the damage might have been avoided by the use of ordinary care and diligence on the part of the ship, the negligence, and not the peril of the seas, is then considered the proximate cause of the loss;[90] on the other hand, although the carrier may not have fulfilled all his duty, if loss is not proximately due to his delinquency as a carrier, it cannot be made a ground of recovery;[91] and, although the master may have been derelict in his duty, if the proximate cause of the loss is attributable to the shipper, the carrier is not liable,[92] nor can a consignee whose own fault was the proximate

87. Unnevehr v. The Hindoo, 1 Fed. 627.

88. Evans v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 163 Fed. 405.

89. Packard v. Taylor, 35 Ark. 402, 37 Am. Rep. 37 (holding that a carrier by water is not excused from liability for loss by the act of God operating upon an unseaworthy vessel, when such act would have proved harmless to a seaworthy vessel); New Brunswick Steamboat, etc., Transp. Co. v. Tiers, 24 N. J. L. 697, 64 Am. Dec. 394; Ewart v. Street, 2 Bailey (S. C.) 157, 23 Am. Dec. 131; Astsrup v. Lewy, 19 Fed. 536 (where improper stowage was held proximate cause and not perils of the sea owing to gale); Richards v. Hensen, 1 Fed. 54 (holding that a bill of lading against perils of the sea does not relieve a carrier from liability where a cargo of iron was injured by salt water, owing to improper stowage and the defective construction of the vessel); The City of Norwich, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,760, 3 Ben. 575 (holding that where a vessel takes fire in consequence of a collision caused by the negligence of those having her in charge, and the cargo is lost, the owners of the cargo may recover, even though the bills of lading expressly except the vessel and her owners from liability for loss in case of fire; the fire in such case being a mere incident of the collision); King v. Shepherd, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,804, 3 Story 349 (holding that where a vessel on which gold coin was shipped was wrecked, and the captain then removed the box containing the coin from the stateroom, where it could be locked up, and placing it where the crew had access, and it was lost while wreckers were on board, the dangers of the sea were not the proximate cause of the loss, but it was occasioned solely by embezzlement or theft. And see supra, VII, D, 1, 2.

If goods are gnawed by rats (Kay v. Wheeler, L. R. 2 C. P. 302, 36 L. J. C. P. 180, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 66, 15 Wkly. Rep. 495; Laveroni v. Drury, 8 Exch. 166, 16 Jur. 1024, 22 L. J. Exch. 2, 1 Wkly. Rep. 55. And see Hamilton v. Pandorf, 12 App. Cas. 518, 6 Aspin. 212, 52 J. P. 196, 57 L. J. Q. B. 624, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 726, 36 Wkly. Rep. 369), or cockroaches (The Miletus, cited 1 Parson Shipping 258 note 4), the carrier is liable, neither being perils of the sea. But if rats cause a leak in a vessel and goods are damaged by water the carrier is not liable, the water being the proximate cause (Hamilton v. Pandorf, supra), although a contrary stand was taken in an earlier case (Aymar v. Astor, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 266). And see infra, VII, D, 14, b, (II).

90. Ewart v. Street, 2 Bailey (S. C.) 157, 23 Am. Dec. 131; Braker v. The Gloaming, 46 Fed. 671; The Titania, 19 Fed. 101; The Rocket, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,975, 1 Biss. 354, holding that, although a dense fog is a danger of navigation, within an exception in a bill of lading, yet the carrier is not excused from liability for injury to the goods if the loss was occasioned by a peril which might have been avoided by the exercise of reasonable skill and diligence.

91. Hastings v. Pepper, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 41; Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N. C. 349 (holding that the owners of a vessel are not liable for the loss of goods which had been stowed on deck and the full price charged therefor, if such stowage was not the cause of the loss); Souter v. Baymore, 7 Pa. St. 415, 47 Am. Dec. 518 (holding that an unnecessary deviation, and a breach of agreement not to carry any other goods except those of defendant, on the part of the carrier, and a subsequent injury to defendant's goods, does not render the carrier liable unless the injury was occasioned by such deviation or breach of agreement); Clark v. Barnwell, 12 How. (U. S.) 272, 13 L. ed. 985; Scott v. Baltimore, etc., Steam-Boat Co., 19 Fed. 56; The Morning Mail, 17 Fed. 545; The Blue Jacket, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,569, 10 Ben. 248; The Casco, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,486, 2 Ware 188; The Newark, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,141, 1 Blatchf. 203; The Planter, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,207*a*, 2 Woods 490 (holding that, although a vessel not manned by the necessary officers and crew is unseaworthy, yet no recovery can be had against her on that account for a loss that was not attributable to such deficiency); The Reeside, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,657, 2 Sumn. 567. See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," §§ 466–468.

92. The M. C. Currie, 132 Fed. 125; The cause recover.[93] But while it is competent for the carrier to show that the loss was in fact occasioned by the excepted perils, and not by the unseaworthiness of the boat, and must have happened if that defect had not existed, a delinquency which might have contributed to the disaster occasioning the loss, or negligence or carelessness at the time of its occurrence which might have had an agency in producing it, will render him liable.[94] If the loss might have happened without the carrier's fault, this does not excuse him;[95] but if it must have happened without his fault, he is absolved.[96]

11. Duties of Carrier After Disaster or Injury to Cargo — a. General Rules. After a vessel is wrecked, stranded, disabled, or injured, the master is still under obligation to take all possible care of the goods, and he is bound to show that human diligence, skill, or care could not save the property from being lost by the disaster;[97] but as the master of a vessel is quasi-agent for both parties, owner or consignee of the cargo and the owner of the vessel, in respect to the cargo found in a perishable condition on board the ship, his acts, honestly put forth in an emergency, even if not the most suitable and well judged, with the intent to the best interests of all concerned are to be indulgently considered;[98] and thus a master is not negligent so as to render the vessel liable for damages to the cargo, if in preserving the cargo after damage by storm he pursues the course deemed most expedient in the exercise of a sound discretion.[99]

Oranmore, 92 Fed. 396 [affirming 24 Fed. 922]; The Powhattan, 12 Fed. 876, 21 Blatchf. 18; The Viscount, 11 Fed. 168.

Where there is mutual fault the shipper may recover half his loss. Stillwell v. The J. D. Hall, 34 Fed. 904.

93. Northern v. Williams, 6 La. Ann. 578.

94. Collier v. Valentine, 11 Mo. 299, 49 Am. Dec. 81.

Where sea damage may arise from different causes, either with or without negligence in the ship, the nature and extent of the damage may be material in determining to which cause it should be assigned. F. O. Matthiessen, etc., Sugar Refining Co. v. Gusi, 29 Fed. 794.

95. Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323; Collier v. Valentine, 11 Mo. 299, 49 Am. Dec. 81.

96. Gardner v. Smallwood, 3 N. C. 349.

97. Bason v. Charleston, etc., Steamboat Co., Harp. (S. C.) 262; The Niagara v. Cordes, 21 How. (U. S.) 7, 16 L. ed. 41; Schulze-Berge v. The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796 [affirmed in 64 Fed. 867]; Bixby v. Deemar, 54 Fed. 718, 4 C. C. A. 559 (holding that where it appears that a part of the cargo of a wrecked vessel was so stored that it might have easily been saved, and that several opportunities to reship what was saved were neglected, the carrier is responsible to the shipper for his loss, although the shipment was at the owner's risk, and "dangers of the river" were excepted); The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196]; King v. Shepherd, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,804, 3 Story 349; The Ocean Wave, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,416, 3 Biss. 317, 6 Alb. L. J. (N. Y.) 407. And see Pearce v. The Thomas Newton, 41 Fed. 106, holding that ship-owners are liable for the damage that results from their failure to dry goods safely stowed but wet by an extraordinary tide wave, even where they could not do so, if they have refused to deliver the goods to the owner at his request. Compare Payne v. Ralli, 74 Fed. 563.

Where the master of a wrecked vessel abandons her to the underwriters without exercising due diligence to save the cargo, the fact that the underwriters take possession, and sell a part of the cargo which is not insured, does not exempt the carrier from liability to the shipper (Bixby v. Deemar, 54 Fed. 718, 4 C. C. A. 559), and a carrier who without necessity abandons plaintiff's goods to a wrecking vessel is liable for their value (Isenberg v. St. Louis, etc., Anchor Line, 13 Mo. App. 415).

Owners, who supervise the repair of a vessel after a collision, are personally negligent in failing to make an examination of the cargo for damage caused by the shock, and are liable for damage arising from causes which an examination would have revealed, notwithstanding a clause in the bill of lading exempting them from liability for damage from collision. The Guildhall, 64 Fed. 867, 12 C. C. A. 445 [affirming 58 Fed. 796].

Consignees are not bound to overhaul and repair damaged goods for the ship's benefit, rather than sell them at auction as damaged goods, where the ship's agents have opportunity to do the same work. Hills v. Mackill, 36 Fed. 702.

98. De Bruns v. Lawrence, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,716, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 141 [affirming 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,139, and affirmed in 1 Black 170, 17 L. ed. 89].

99. Soule v. Rodocanachi, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,178, Newb. Adm. 504. And see Pennewill v. Cullen, 5 Harr. (Del.) 238, holding that if water is taken in by running on a hidden post, not known to persons navigating there, the carrier is not liable for injury to cargo if ordinary care is used to prevent the effects of the accident.

b. Sale of Cargo.[1] Where a cargo of goods is in part damaged, the master may sell it for the good of the cargo and the ship, upon the shipper's refusal to receive it,[2] and the same rule applies where the master attempts to communicate with the owner of the damaged cargo and receives no reply;[3] but the master has no authority to sell damaged cargo, without notice to the owner or shipper, when there is abundant time and means for communicating with him,[4] and such a sale is a conversion of the goods.[5] Where a cargo of goods is in part damaged, it is the duty of the master and not of the consignee to separate the goods for auction sale.[6]

12. Actions For Damages — a. General Rules; Right of Action; Jurisdiction; Parties. Loss or damage accruing from negligent handling of goods by the ship gives the shipper a right, if he does so elect, to sue on the contract of affreightment, and he is not restricted to an action of tort,[7] and a libel for damages done to the cargo may be filed even after the vessel has made one or two voyages subsequent to the injury being received;[8] and the libel against the vessel may be brought either in the name of the shipper or of an insurance company which has paid the loss or accepted an abandonment;[9] and as a carrier of merchandise by water is a bailee, he has a special property therein which entitles him to maintain a suit for its loss or injury in behalf of all the parties in interest, and such right is not defeated by the fact that the loss has been paid by an insurer;[10] but a charterer of a vessel to carry a cargo of which he is not the owner, but merely the agent for its sale on commission, has no legal interest therein which will support an action against the vessel for its loss or damage; nor can he maintain such action as trustee for the owner, who was not a party to the charter.[11] The shipper is not bound to send the damaged goods to auction to be sold, as a prerequisite to his right of action;[12] and the fact that owners of a vessel may compel the crew to make good from their wages a deficiency in the cargo probably caused by embezzlement by them does not render it necessary that the freighter in bringing an action on the case against the owner for the loss should give notice of such damages previous to the discharge of the crew.[13] Where a disaster happens to a cargo in consequence of a peril or accident not within the exceptions in the bill of lading, a mere acceptance of the goods by the owner, at the place of the disaster or an intermediate port, will not preclude him from his remedy. It must appear that the acceptance was intended as a discharge of the vessel and her owner from

If merchandise on board a boat gets wet by accident, and no exertion is made to dry it, the carrier is liable for the damage, although his engagement was to deliver safely, "the dangers of the river excepted." Blocker v. Wittenburg, 12 La. Ann. 410; Bird v. Cromwell, 1 Mo. 81, 13 Am. Dec. 470; Chouteaux v. Leech, 18 Pa. St. 224, 57 Am. Dec. 602; The Niagara v. Cordes, 21 How. (U. S.) 7, 16 L. ed. 41. But in the absence of contract he is not bound to delay the voyage to the injury of the shipper for the purpose of preserving damaged goods from still further damage. The Lynx v. King, 12 Mo. 272, 49 Am. Dec. 135; Notara v. Henderson, L. R. 5 Q. B. 346, 39 L. J. Q. B. 167, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 577 [affirmed in L. R. 7 Q. B. 225, 1 Aspin. 278, 41 L. J. Q. B. 158, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 442, 20 Wkly. Rep. 443]. And see Soule v. Rodocanachi, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,178, Newb. Adm. 504.

1. Right of master to dispose of cargo in general see supra, IV, B, 5.
2. The Brewster, 95 Fed. 1000.
3. Astsrup v. Lewy, 19 Fed. 536.
4. Astsrup v. Lewy, 19 Fed. 536.
5. The Joshua Barker, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,547, Abb. Adm. 215.
6. The Columbus, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,041, Abb. Adm. 37.
7. The Queen of the Pacific, 61 Fed. 213.
8. Knox v. The Ninetta, 5 Pa. L. J. 33.
9. The Keokuk, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,721, 1 Biss. 522.

A lighterman, who has given a full receipt for cargo where only part was delivered, and elects to pay the loss to his employer, may maintain an action against the carrier in his own name. Perry v. Bangs, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,013.

10. The Nonpariel, 149 Fed. 521, holding that the fact that the owner of a vessel is doing business under a fictitious or trade-name, and that contracts of affreightment are made in such name, will not defeat his right to maintain an action in his own name to recover for damage to a cargo.
11. The Ask, 156 Fed. 678.
12. Elkin v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 14 La. Ann. 647.
13. Schieffelin v. Harvey, Anth. N. P. (N. Y.) 76.

any further responsibility;[14] but where a ship is detained and her cargo damaged before she proceeds, although she subsequently delivers it to the consignees, a shipper cannot, without rescinding the contract, sustain a libel in rem for a breach of the bill of lading, until the term for the performance of the contract has expired.[15] Consignees can maintain a suit against the vessel for damages to the goods, although there were no bills of lading executed;[16] and may maintain an action against the owners of a vessel which collided with the vessel on which their goods were shipped, for the loss sustained by reason of the collision;[17] and where a general bill of lading is given, but separate bills are delivered to the owners of the cargo for their respective portions, the several holders thereof may libel the vessel for damages to the cargo, although the consignment is to one party in bulk.[18]

b. Persons or Vessels Liable. A carrier by water is liable to the owner for the safe transportation of goods received on board, independent of any bill of lading; and the owner may proceed directly against the vessel or her owners, through whom the loss or injury occurs, although the latter have a contract with an intermediate party;[19] and a vessel receiving goods from a connecting carrier under a through bill of lading, and delivering a part of the goods, and demanding freight, may be sued primarily for goods lost by her;[20] and the general rule is, whenever the owners of a ship are liable for injury to her cargo, the ship is also liable;[21] but the owner of a vessel is never liable as a carrier merely by virtue of his ownership. The vessel must also have been in his employment, so as to make him a party to the contract for carriage. The party having the control of the vessel, and in whose business it is engaged, is regarded as the owner pro hac vice,

Liability of crew for embezzlement generally see SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1217.

14. Home Ins. Co. v. Western Transp. Co., 51 N. Y. 93.

15. Jones v. The Floating Zephyr, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,462.

The payment of the loss by the underwriters after a libel has been filed by the owners of the cargo, under an agreement that the libellants should repay to the underwriters any sum or sums which they might recover by decree or settlement, in virtue of the unseaworthiness of the vessel or the negligence of her officers or crew, does not afford a defense to the action for the loss. The Centennial, 7 Fed. 601.

16. Brower v. The Water Witch, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,971, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 241 [affirmed in 1 Black 494, 17 L. ed. 155]; Clifton v. Quantity of Cotton, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,895.

Laches.—Where consignees, on discovering that goods received by them from a vessel were damaged, instead of resorting to the usual practice of calling for a board of survey for the assessment of damages, and offering the goods for sale on account of whom it might concern, had the damages assessed by one of their own clerks, they must exercise the greatest diligence as to the time in bringing suit against the vessel, and if they were guilty of laches, they, and not the vessel, must suffer. Williams v. The Columbia, 1 Wash. Terr. 95.

Jurisdiction under state statutes.—Mo. Rev. Code (1845), p. 180, authorizing persons having claims against vessels to commence proceedings against the vessels themselves instead of against the owners, gives the court jurisdiction of an action against a vessel for the loss by another boat of a cargo, through the negligent management of the former, although the boat causing the injury was owned by persons residing outside of the state. Yore v. The C. Bealer, 26 Mo. 426. Under the Wisconsin statute providing for a proceeding in rem against "boats and vessels used in navigating the waters of this state," an action can be maintained against a vessel for goods lost by negligence of its sailors, although the boat was going to and from other states, but crossed the waters of this state. The Sultana v. Chapman, 5 Wis. 454. But in this connection it must be borne in mind that a state statute cannot confer on a state court jurisdiction in rem for a maritime cause of action. See MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 269.

17. Dollner v. Garcia, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,970, holding that it is no bar to such action that there is an action in rem pending in another district prosecuted by such consignees against the vessel.

18. Bucknor v. The Gilbert Green, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,099.

19. The T. A. Goddard, 12 Fed. 174.

20. Maxwell v. The Powell, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,324, 1 Woods 99.

21. The Huron v. Simmons, 11 Ohio 458. And see Bennitt v. The Guiding Star, 53 Fed. 936 [affirmed in 62 Fed. 407, 10 C. C. A. 454].

Where a tug wilfully abandoned a barge, which sank in consequence, damaging its cargo, the barge, as coinsurer with the insurance company, was liable for damages done to the cargo by the fault of the tug. The Snap, 28 Fed. 527. And similarly where an ocean carrier undertook to tranship goods, and employed a lighterage company for the service, they are jointly liable for a loss of the goods through the negligence of the lighterage company. Smith v. Booth, 122 and as such is answerable to the freighter.[22] For a wrongful conversion of the goods carried all the owners may be sued jointly in trover;[23] but a shipper cannot recover of all the owners of a boat carrying goods for hire, where he makes a special contract with some of the joint owners, without the knowledge of the others, by which the freight is to go in extinguishment of a demand of a shipper against the owners with whom the contract was made.[24] If any part of the cargo be missing, all the seamen must contribute to make it good, unless the guilt can be proved upon particular persons.[25]

c. Pleading; Issues, Proof, and Variance. The general rules of pleading,[26] and in so far as applicable rules of pleading in admiralty,[27] apply to actions against carriers by water for loss or injury to goods,[28] and the complaint for losses of or injury to goods shipped is governed by rules which apply to declarations at common law or similar causes of action, in respect to the character of the averments,[29] and the joinder and misjoinder of counts,[30] and may be amended,[31] and the general rules as to issues, proof, and variance [32] apply.[33] Where a bill of lading provides Fed. 626, 58 C. C. A. 479 [affirming 110 Fed. 680].

Stipulations in bills of lading that the carrier shall not be liable for any damage to goods which is capable of being covered by insurance will not relieve the vessel from liability for loss due to the carrier's negligence. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375.

22. Tuckerman v. Brown, 17 Barb. (N. Y.) 191.

23. Taylor v. Brigham, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,781, 3 Woods 377.

24. Jones v. Sims, 9 Port. (Ala.) 236, 33 Am. Dec. 313.

25. Frederick v. The Fanny, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,077, Bee 262. And see, generally, SEAMEN, 35 Cyc. 1217.

26. See PLEADING, 31 Cyc. 1.

27. See ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 853 et seq.

28. Guiterman v. Liverpool, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 9 Daly (N. Y.) 119 [reversed on other grounds in 83 N. Y. 358], holding that where in an action by a shipper for injuries to his goods while on board defendant steamship for transportation, the defense that at the time of the accident the vessel was, in consequence of a public regulation of the port, exclusively in charge of a licensed pilot, over whom defendant had no control, and whose orders defendant's officers and servants were bound to obey, and that the accident was due to his negligence, must be specially pleaded.

29. The Milwaukie v. Hale, 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 306; Perpetual Ins. Co. v. The Detroit, 6 Mo. 374 (holding that a complaint under Dig. (1835) p. 102, providing for the collection of demands against boats and vessels for nonperformance of a contract of affreightment, should set out the terms of the contract of affreightment under which the goods alleged to have been lost were shipped); Kirkpatrick v. The American Steamship Co., 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,846 (holding that where a stipulation in a bill of lading provided for shipment on the succeeding vessel on the same line, if prevented "by any cause" from going in the ship specified, and the goods were not shipped until a week after the vessel specified, and were lost in transit, in an action therefor the vessel owner must aver in his answer that he was prevented from carrying the goods on the vessel specified, by some particular cause, of which the shippers were notified); Montell v. The William H. Rutan, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,724 (holding that on a libel against a vessel and her master, who was a part-owner, by the assignee of a fraudulent bill of lading issued by him, where there is no allegation of joint ownership in the vessel and her business by the intervening part-owners, there can be no recovery against them and their interest in the vessel).

30. The Milwaukie v. Hale, 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 306.

In a suit in rem to recover for injury to goods shipped, it is not necessary to charge defendant as a common carrier, but the rule is otherwise where the suit is in personam. Seller v. The Pacific, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,644, Deady 17, 1 Oreg. 409.

31. Camden v. The Georgia, 6 Mo. 381; McCullough v. The Echo, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,740*a*, as where, in an action on a bill of lading, the answer fails to allege that the damages to the goods carried accrued from the sweating of the vessel, and that she was not answerable for such accident of navigation.

32. See PLEADING, 31 Cyc. 670 et seq.

33. Walsh v. Homer, 10 Mo. 6, 45 Am. Dec. 342 (holding that in an action against the owners of a steamboat for a loss by a sinking of the boat after a deviation, it is not necessary to prove that the deviation caused the loss, but only a deviation and subsequent loss); Guiterman v. Liverpool, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 9 Daly (N. Y.) 119; Reed v. Dick, 8 Watts (Pa.) 479 (holding that in an action for damage to goods, the fact that the sails were insufficient cannot be given in evidence, where the loss is charged upon a bad cable); The Egypt, 25 Fed. 320 (holding that where a bill of lading contained an exemption from loss capable of being covered by insurance, proof that insurance is procurable is necessary to make the exemption available in an action against the ship for damages to cargo).

Negligence.—Where a vessel is properly protected from fire, it is necessary, in an action to recover damages for injury to a that notice of any claim for loss or damage to the property must be given to the carrier within a stated time after delivery, the failure to give such notice is a matter of defense in a suit to recover for such loss or damage, and performance of the requirement need not be alleged in the libel.[34]

d. Evidence — (i) Presumptions and Burden of Proof — (A) General Rules. As in other actions,[35] the burden is on the party who has the affirmative of the issue,[36] and the general rules as to presumptions[37] apply.[38] Thus the burden is upon libellant to show that the goods were in good condition when delivered to the vessel and were delivered damaged,[39] and this being sustained the burden of accounting for such damage is on the claimants.[40] A ship defend-cargo by fire while on board, to prove negligence (The Buckeye, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,084, 7 Biss. 23); but a shipper will not be required to prove negligence on the part of a master until evidence is given tending to show that the injury complained of came within an excepted clause in the bill of lading (The Ocean Wave, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,416, 3 Biss. 317). Where a bill of lading for a cask of wine receipted for it "in good order and condition," and excepted "the dangers of the seas," and on arrival in port, and before being moved from its place in the vessel, it was found to be leaking, with one of its heads crushed in, and a large proportion of the wine had leaked out, in a suit in rem, against the vessel, to recover for the value of the lost wine, libellant must show negligence in the handling or stowage of the casks. The Black Hawk, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,469, 9 Ben. 207.

34. The Tampico, 151 Fed. 689.

35. See, generally, Evidence, 16 Cyc. 926 et seq.

36. Western Transp. Co. v. Newhall, 24 Ill. 466, 76 Am. Dec. 760 (holding that the onus of showing a special contract restricting the carrier's liability is upon the carrier); American Transp. Co. v. Moore, 5 Mich. 368 (holding that in an action to recover for loss of goods shipped with defendant, he must show affirmatively the terms of the contract which he claims lessens his common-law liability); The Nith, 36 Fed. 86, 13 Sawy. 368.

Where bills of lading specify the quantity, but contain the further statements, "Weight and quantity unknown," or "Weight unknown," the burden rests upon the ship-owners to account for any discrepancy between the quantity delivered and that specified; but this is met by proof that the full quantity loaded was delivered, and this may be shown as against a consignee who has paid drafts drawn by the shippers for the full quantity specified, where the bills of lading were attached to the drafts. Planters' Fertilizer Mfg. Co. v. Elder, 101 Fed. 1001, 42 C. C. A. 130.

37. See Evidence, 16 Cyc. 1050 et seq.

38. Lowry v. Russell, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 360, holding that, in an action by the owner of goods, against the owner of a vessel, for loss of cargo sustained by a deviation of the master, a bill of lading, showing that the goods are to be carried from one port to another, raises the presumption that a direct voyage was intended.

Failure to produce witnesses on the boat to explain stranding warrants a presumption that the stranding was the result of negligence in navigating the ship (The Alpin, 23 Fed. 815), and where the master and crew have abandoned their vessel under circumstances raising a grave suspicion that they dismasted and scuttled her, but, on a libel by the cargo-owners and their insurers, the master and claimants assert that the injury was caused by collision, the failure of the latter to examine several members of their crew, who were disinterested, or to libel the vessel with which they pretend to have collided, the collision being denied, or examine any members of her crew in regard to the alleged collision, is prejudicial to the case of the carrier (The James Martin, 88 Fed. 649; The Alpin, supra).

Where the goods are receipted for by the consignee as in good order, in an action for damages to the goods, the jury cannot presume that the damage was caused by defendant. Ocean Steamship Co. v. McAlpin, 69 Ga. 437.

39. The Vincenzo T., 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,948, 10 Ben. 228.

40. Shackleford v. Wilcox, 9 La. 33 (holding that after the damage is proved the ship must show that it did not happen on board); Price v. Powell, 3 N. Y. 322 (holding that where the master of a vessel signs the usual bills of lading, stating that the property was "shipped in good order and well conditioned," in an action brought against the owners of the vessel for injury to the goods, the burden of proof is on them to show that the injury happened before the goods came to their hands); The Zone, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,220, 2 Sprague 19.

Where the bill of lading stipulates against liability for "average leakage or breakage," the burden is on the claimants to prove a greater than average leakage or breakage. In re Six Hundred and Thirty Casks of Sherry, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,918, 14 Blatchf. 517.

But where it is claimed by owners that their goods were damaged in a particular manner, and such goods have been exclusively under their control, or that of their vendees after their discharge from the ship, the burden of proof is upon such owners to show by satisfactory evidence that the goods were actually damaged on the voyage as claimed, as well as the amount of loss or injury. The Carlotta, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,413*a*.

ing against a claim for damage to cargo in shipment, under a clause in the bill of lading exempting it from liability "for any claim, notice of which is not given before the removal of the goods," has the burden of proving that the notice was not given, to bring itself within the exception; but, when it has produced sufficient testimony to justify the inference that no claim was made, it is incumbent on the libellant to rebut such inference by evidence, since, if the claim was made, it is within libellant's power to prove the fact.[41]

(B) As to Particular Questions — (1) LOADING, STOWAGE, AND DISCHARGE. Where goods shipped under an ordinary bill of lading are damaged by ordinary occurrences upon a sea voyage, the burden of proof is upon the owners of the vessel to show that proper precautions in the matter of stowage were taken to avoid the danger,[42] and to prove that the shipper agreed that his property might be carried on deck.[43] If sufficiently heavy weather is experienced by a vessel to account for damage to cargo by motion of the ship, the presumption is that the damage was so caused, and not by bad stowage;[44] and the fact that part of a cargo endures the voyage without damage raises no presumption that damage to other parts was caused by bad stowage;[45] and where, in an action to recover for the loss of cargo, occasioned by leakage caused by excessive heat, the carrier shows that the cargo was stored in the proper and coolest part of the ship, the burden of proof is on the shipper to show either that the place of storage was not suitable, or not the most suitable place on the ship.[46]

(2) CAUSE OF LOSS OR INJURY. Carriers by water being quasi-insurers of goods intrusted to them,[47] the burden is on them to show that they fully performed their contract.[48] Cargo is presumed to have been shipped in good condition,[49] and when goods are damaged while in possession of the carrier, there is a prima facie presumption that the injury is occasioned by the carrier's fault rather than by perils of the sea,[50] unless the facts are such as to manifestly point to a different con-

41. The Westminster, 116 Fed. 123 [affirmed in 127 Fed. 680, 62 C. C. A. 406].

42. The Wilhelmina, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,658, 3 Ben. 110.

Where a ship receives a cargo under a bill of lading "not accountable for breakage," and on delivery of the goods some are found to be broken, in an action against the carrier to recover their value, it is incumbent upon plaintiff to prove negligence in stowing or landing the cargo (Carey v. Atkins, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,399, 6 Ben. 562), but if the bill reads not accountable for breakers, if properly stowed, the burden of proof is upon the carrier to show proper stowage (Edwards v. The Cahawba, 14 La. Ann. 224; Montague v. The Isaac Reed, 82 Fed. 566).

43. The Peytona, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,058, 2 Curt. 21 [affirming 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,059, 1 Ware 541].

44. The Connaught, 32 Fed. 640; The Polynesia, 30 Fed. 210. But see The Maggie M., 30 Fed. 692.

45. The Polynesia, 30 Fed. 210.

46. Lambert v. Benner, 1 Sweeny (N. Y.) 665.

47. Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323. And see, generally, supra, VII, D, 1, 2.

48. Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323.

49. The Alice, 12 Fed. 496.

50. Montgomery v. The Abby Pratt, 6 La. Ann. 410, 54 Am. Dec. 562; Ewart v. Street, 2 Bailey (S. C.) 157, 23 Am. Dec. 131; The Asiatic Prince, 103 Fed. 676 (holding that the breaking of a greatly unusual number of the bags in which a cargo of sugar was shipped in discharging raises a presumption of negligence on the part of the ship in handling, and, if unexplained, renders the carrier liable to the shipper for the loss and expense resulting); Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486; The Timor, 46 Fed. 859 [reversed on other grounds in 67 Fed. 356, 46 C. C. A. 412]; Christie v. The Craigton, 41 Fed. 62; The Giglio v. The Britannia, 31 Fed. 432; The E. M. Norton, 15 Fed. 686; The Alice, 12 Fed. 496; Bazin v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,152, 3 Wall. Jr. 229; The Black Hawk, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,469, 9 Ben. 207; The Live Yankee, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,409, Deady 420; The Mollie Mohler, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,701, 2 Biss. 505; Muller v. The Iginia, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,917.

The admission of the owner of the vessel that the loss was occasioned by the boiler exploding raises a presumption of negligence. The Sydney, 27 Fed. 119.

But a clause "not responsible for leakage or breakage," in a bill of lading, changes the general rule that the acknowledgment of goods being received in good order casts the burden on the carrier of showing want of negligence, and the burden of proof is on the shipper, in order to recover therefor, to show that the carrier's negligence contributed to or coöperated in the loss (Crowell v. Union Oil Co., 107 Fed. 302, 46 C. C. A. 296, holding that where a charter-party and a bill of lading contain exceptions in behalf of the vessel of breakage and leakage and of dangers of the sea, and the cargo owner maintains that clusion;[51] and when the damage or loss is established, the burden lies upon the carrier to show that it was proximately occasioned by one of the perils from which they are exempted in the contract of shipment or bill of lading,[52] or from the true cause of injury to the cargo was improper stowage, the burden of maintaining this proposition rests on the cargo owner; Puget Sound Mach. Depot v. The Guy C. Goss, 53 Fed. 826; The Jefferson, 31 Fed. 489; The Invincible, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,055, 1 Lowell 225; The Pereire, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 10,979, 8 Ben. 301; Vaughan v. Six Hundred and Thirty Casks of Sherry Wine, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,900, 7 Ben. 506); and negligence will not be presumed from the mere fact that breakage or leakage occurred (Roth v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 59 N. Y. Super. Ct. 49, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 460). But in Alabama it is held that the doctrine that a carrier may restrict his liability by a special contract does not extend to changing the rules as to the burden of proof of negligence. Grey v. Mobile Trade Co., 55 Ala. 387, 28 Am. Rep. 729; Steele v. Townsend, 37 Ala. 247, 79 Am. Dec. 49. Where a bill of lading exempts the vessel from losses from inherent deterioration, and upon delivery of a cargo of fruit it is found to be decayed, it is not incumbent on the libellants, in an action against the vessel to recover for the loss of the fruit, to prove that there was no inherent deterioration in it. The America, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 283, 8 Ben. 491.

51. Western Transp. Co. v. Downer, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 129, 20 L. ed. 160 (holding that where, in an action to recover damages for the loss of goods shipped by defendant's vessel, it appeared that the steamer was seaworthy and well equipped and was under the command of a competent and experienced master, but on entering the harbor of Chicago in the evening she grounded, there was no presumption that there was any negligence on the part of defendant); Williams v. The Exe, 57 Fed. 399, 6 C. C. A. 410 [reversing 52 Fed. 155]. And see De Grau v. Wilson, 22 Fed. 560 [affirming 17 Fed. 698].

52. Illinois.—Western Transp. Co. v. Newhall, 24 Ill. 466, 76 Am. Dec. 760.

Louisiana.— Price v. The Uriel, 10 La. Ann. 413; Montgomery v. The Abby Pratt, 6 La. Ann. 410, 54 Am. Dec. 562; Hunt v. Morris, 6 Mart. 676, 12 Am. Dec. 489, holding that if the loss happen in a case not readily occurring without negligence, as by fire, robbery, etc., the carrier must prove due diligence.

Massachusetts.— Shaw v. Gardner 12 Gray 488; Alden v. Pearson, 3 Gray 342.

Missouri.— Hill v. Sturgeon, 28 Mo. 323.

New York.— Arend v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., 6 Lans. 457, 64 Barb. 118.

Ohio.— Graham v. Davis, 4 Ohio St. 362, 62 Am. Dec. 285 (holding that the burden of proof is on the carrier to show, not only a loss within the terms of the exception, but also that proper care and skill were exercised to prevent it); Davidson v. Graham, 2 Ohio St. 131.

South Carolina.— Baker v. Brinson, 9 Rich. 201, 67 Am. Dec. 548 (holding that where a common carrier expressly limits his liability by special contract, the burden of proving, not only due care, but also that the cause of the loss fell within the express stipulations, is on him); Ross v. English, 2 Speers 393; Ewart v. Street, 2 Bailey 157, 23 Am. Dec. 131.

Tennessee.— Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. 340, 27 Am. Dec. 515.

United States.— The Niagara v. Cordes, 21 How. 7, 16 L. ed. 41; The La Kroma, 138 Fed. 936; Pacific Coast Steamship Co. v. Bancroft-Whitney Co., 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 [affirming 78 Fed. 155 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)]; Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486; Schulze-Berge v. The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796 [affirmed in 64 Fed. 867, 12 C. C. A. 445] (holding that in an action to recover the value of goods lost by reason of a collision of the vessel, the burden of proof is on the owner to prove due diligence in employing a master who was competent and trustworthy); Serio v. The Giava, 56 Fed. 243; The Beeche Done, 55 Fed. 525, 5 C. C. A. 207; Carter v. The Maseotte, 48 Fed. 119 [affirmed in 51 Fed. 605, 2 C. C. A. 399]; Christie v. The Craigton, 41 Fed. 62; Cumming v. The Barracouta, 40 Fed. 498; The Charles J. Willard, 38 Fed. 759; The Thomas Melville, 31 Fed. 486; The Polynesia, 16 Fed. 702; The E. M. Norton, 15 Fed. 686; The Pharos, 9 Fed. 912; Bazin v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,152, 3 Wall. Jr. 229; Bearse v. Ropes, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,192, 1 Sprague 331; The Black Hawk, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,469, 9 Ben. 207; The Compta, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,069, 4 Sawy. 375; The Emma Johnson, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,465, 1 Sprague 527; Hooper v. Rathbone, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,676, Taney 519; Hunt v. The Cleveland, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,885, 6 McLean 76, Newb. Adm. 221; The Juniata Paton, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,584, 1 Biss. 15; The Keokuk, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,721, 1 Biss. 522; King v. Shepherd, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,804, 3 Story 349; The Live Yankee, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,409, Deady 420; The Martha, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,145, Olcott 140; The Mollie Mohler, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,701, 2 Biss. 505; The Moravian, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,789, 2 Hask. 157; Muller v. Iginia, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,917; The Ocean Wave, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,416, 3 Biss. 317, 6 Alb. L. J. (N. Y.) 407; The Sabioncello, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,198, 7 Ben. 357; Soule v. Rodoeanaehi, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,178, Newb. Adm. 504; Vaughan v. Six Hundred and Thirty Casks of Sherry Wine, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,900, 7 Ben. 506; The William Taber, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,757, 2 Ben. 329. But see The Patria, 125 Fed. 425 [affirmed in 132 Fed. 971, 68 C. C. A. 397] (holding, however, that, although where the evidence shows that a ship received goods on board in good condition, and delivered them damaged, it has the burden of proving that inherent defect;[53] but where it appears that the damage in question was caused by an excepted peril, the shipper must affirmatively show that it was proximately caused by the carrier's negligence, or could have been avoided by the exercise of reasonable care and skill,[54] and the same rule applies where the carrier shows inherent defect.[55] Where damage is caused by sea water, the burden rests on the vessel to show sufficient stress of weather to warrant the inference that such water found access to the cargo through a peril of the sea, and the carrier must show not merely that the damage could have been caused by a sea peril, but that it could not have been caused otherwise.[56] But where the ship has shown a sea peril which might reasonably be expected to cause the damage found to exist, it will be presumed to have produced it, if there is satisfactory proof that any or all other suggested causes did not produce it;[57] and thus where it appears that the vessel encountered an unusually violent storm, which fully accounted for the damage within an exception in the bill of lading, the burden is on the shipper to show carelessness or negligence on the part of the vessel leading to the loss.[58] the damage was due to a risk excepted in the bill of lading, although if it is manifestly so, as from breakage or decay which are excepted generally, the ship need not show the cause of the breakage or decay, but the cargo owner can only recover by proof of negligence); The Strathdon, 101 Fed. 600, 41 C. C. A. 515 [affirming 94 Fed. 206].

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 481.

When the carrier's default in delivering only part of the goods has been proved, he must show that the rest were lost by one of the excepted perils. Grieff v. Switzer, 11 La. Ann. 324.

53. Doherr v. Houston, 128 Fed. 594, 64 C. C. A. 102 [affirming 123 Fed. 334].

Sustaining burden by circumstantial evidence.—A ship may sustain the burden of proof resting on her to show that cargo damage was due to a cause for which she is not liable by circumstantial evidence as to the manner in which the water causing the damage entered the hold, and in the absence of direct evidence the court is justified in adopting her theory in that respect, where the facts and circumstances shown are consistent with such theory and not consistent with any other. The Wildcroft, 130 Fed. 521, 65 C. C. A. 145 [affirmed in 201 U. S. 378, 26 S. Ct. 467, 50 L. ed. 794].

54. Kirk v. Folsom, 23 La. Ann. 584; Price v. The Uriel, 10 La. Ann. 413; Patterson v. Clyde, 67 Pa. St. 500; Western Transp. Co. v. Downer, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 129, 20 L. ed. 160; New Jersey Steam Nav. Co. v. Merchants Bank, 6 How. (U. S.) 344, 12 L. ed. 465; Lazarus v. Barber, 136 Fed. 534, 69 C. C. A. 310 [affirming 124 Fed. 1007]; Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486; The Flintshire, 69 Fed. 471; The Hindoustan, 67 Fed. 794, 14 C. C. A. 650; American Sugar Refining Co. v. The G. R. Booth, 64 Fed. 878 [reversed on other grounds in 91 Fed. 164, 33 C. C. A. 430, thereafter the question was certified to the United States supreme court whether the loss was in fact due to an excepted peril, which was answered in the negative in 171 U. S. 450, 19 S. Ct. 9, 43 L. ed. 234]; The Barracouta, 39 Fed. 288; The Portuense, 35 Fed. 670; The Thomas Melville, 31 Fed. 486; The Montana, 17 Fed. 377; The Powhattan, 12 Fed. 876, 21 Blatchf. 18 (holding that on a shipment of cattle in an iron ship in hot weather in July, the burden of proof of negligence on the part of the carrier by not providing sufficient ventilation is on the shipper); Hunt v. The Cleveland, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,885, 6 McLean 76, Newb. Adm. 221; The Live Yankee, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,409, Deady 420; The Rocket, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,975, 1 Biss. 354.

Where the bill of lading or receipt admits that the goods were shipped in good condition, and they are not so delivered, the carrier is bound to prove that the damage resulted from one of the causes excepted against, the presumption being against the carrier. Bernadon v. Nolte, 7 Mart. (La.) 278; The Presque Isle, 140 Fed. 202; The Patria, 125 Fed. 425 [affirmed in 132 Fed. 971, 68 C. C. A. 397]; The Titania, 124 Fed. 975 [affirmed in 131 Fed. 229, 65 C. C. A. 215]; Argo Steamship Co. v. Seago, 101 Fed. 999, 42 C. C. A. 128; The Mascotte, 51 Fed. 605, 2 C. C. A. 399; The Historian, 28 Fed. 336; The Lydian Monarch, 23 Fed. 298; The Invincible, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,055, 1 Lowell 225; The Live Yankee, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,409, Deady 420; Llado v. Tritone, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,427, 8 Reporter 165; Nordlinger v. The Catherina, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,295; Turner v. The Black Warrior, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,253, McAllister 181.

55. Atkins v. Horrman, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 602*a*.

56. Darragh v. The Dunbritton, 73 Fed. 352, 19 C. C. A. 449. See The Mollie Mohler, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,701, 2 Biss. 505. And see supra, VII, D, 10.

57. Darragh v. The Dunbritton, 73 Fed. 352, 19 C. C. A. 449.

58. Kelham v. The Kensington, 24 La. Ann. 100; Hunt v. Morris, 6 Mart. (La.) 676, 12 Am. Dec. 489; The Neptune, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,118 6 Blatchf. 193. But see Arend v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., 6 Lans. (N. Y.) 457, 64 Barb. 118 (holding that proving that the ship had a tempestuous voyage, that the cargo was well stowed, and that the hatches were properly secured, etc., did not tend to shift the burden of proof); The Sloga, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,955, 10 Ben. 315 (holding that

(3) SEAWORTHINESS. Where the proof shows damage to the cargo, the burden is cast upon the ship to establish the fact of seaworthiness, and to show due diligence in ascertaining whether or not she was in fact seaworthy, and in making her so at the beginning of the voyage,[59] particularly where the vessel was very old,[60] and the burden of proving that a vessel was seaworthy at the time of beginning the voyage, or that due diligence had been used to make her so, rests upon the ship-owner claiming the benefit of the exemption provided in Harter Act, against errors of management or navigation, whether or not there is any evidence to the contrary.[61] Where a vessel, soon after leaving port, becomes leaky, without stress of weather, or other adequate cause of injury, the presumption is that she was unseaworthy before setting sail;[62] and upon proof of injury to cargo by seawater leaking through the burden of proof is upon the ship to show a sea peril adequate to cause such leaks to a seaworthy ship;[63] and that burden is not discharged by simply showing that the ship was in a seaworthy condition at the commencement of the voyage, and presenting evidence which merely leaves the question as to how the leak arose.[64] But when she encounters severe marine perils calculated to disable a seaworthy vessel, the presumption is overthrown,[65] where a cargo is found on arrival to have suffered from water, and it appears that, although the vessel met with heavy weather, she was kept free from water by her pumps, the burden is on the vessel to show that the loss was caused by a peril of the sea, the consequences of which could not have been guarded against with the means available to the officers and crew).

59. The Ninfa, 156 Fed. 512; The Oneida, 128 Fed. 687, 63 C. C. A. 239.

60. Forbes v. Merchants' Express, etc., Co., 111 Fed. 796 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 1019, 56 C. C. A. 681].

61. The Wildcroft, 130 Fed. 521, 65 C. C. A. 145 [affirmed in 201 U. S. 378, 26 S. Ct. 467, 50 L. ed. 794], holding, however, that the casting of the burden of proof on one party or the other in a given case does not destroy the presumptions in favor of a party which exist under the general law of evidence, and that so while a ship-owner, claiming exemption from liability for cargo damage under the act, has the burden of proving the seaworthiness of the vessel, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, such burden is not prima facie by the presumption that he performed his duty in making her seaworthy at the commencement of the voyage.

62. Cameron v. Rich, 4 Strobh. (S. C.) 168, 53 Am. Dec. 670; The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)]; The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486; The Planter, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,207*a*, 2 Woods 490.

Defective port.—Where a cargo is injured by a leak caused by the defective fitting of a port, the burden is on the ship to show that the port was tight at the time of sailing. The Phœnicia, 90 Fed. 116 [affirmed in 99 Fed. 1005, 40 C. C. A. 221). Defective port as bearing on the question of seaworthiness generally see infra, VII, D, 13, b, (III), (C), note 71.

Where the vessel sinks at a dock from being subjected only to the swells from passing vessels the presumption is that she was unseaworthy. Forbes v. Merchants' Express, etc., Co., 111 Fed. 796 [affirmed in 120 Fed. 1019, 56 C. C. A. 681].

63. The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)]; The Thomas Melville, 31 Fed. 486, holding that this is done prima facie by general proof of seaworthiness and that there was no leak until after stress of very severe weather, and the burden of proof then returns to libellant to rebut this presumption or to show some fault in the ship that made the sea peril efficient.

64. The Queen, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)], holding that, although it may be presumed that a vessel is seaworthy when she sails, if soon thereafter a leak is found, without the ship having encountered a peril sufficient to account for it, the presumption is that she was not seaworthy when she sailed.

65. The Musselcrag, 125 Fed. 786 (holding that where a ship during the voyage encountered storms of such violence as to reasonably account for the opening of her deck seams and the consequent damage to her cargo from water, the burden of proof rests upon the cargo owner to establish a claim made by him that improper stowage of the cargo caused or contributed to the strain on the vessel's deck and the resulting injury thereto); The Sandfield, 79 Fed. 371 [affirmed in 92 Fed. 663, 34 C. C. A. 612] (holding that a vessel is not required to be impregnable to the assaults of the elements to be seaworthy, but the test is whether or not she is reasonably fit for the contemplated voyage, and the fact that a single rivet, among many thousands used in the construction of her hull, was not as strong as the average, and parted under the stress of extraordinary stormy weather, does not raise a presumption of unseaworthiness, rendering the owner liable for a resulting damage to particularly where for a considerable time she successfully combats them;[66] and the burden is put upon libellant of proving that the losses sued for were occasioned by the want of due care in providing a proper ship, and suitable fittings, for carrying the cargo.[67] A provision of a bill of lading exempting the carrier from liability for loss or damage occasioned by unseaworthiness, provided the owners had exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy, leaves upon the owners the burden of proving such due diligence, which includes thorough and careful inspection;[68] but the warranty that the ship is fit at the beginning of a voyage to safely carry the cargo received by her, which is implied where the bill of lading is silent, cannot be implied if the parties have contracted otherwise; and in such case the burden of proof is not upon the carrier, but upon the shipper, who must show the carrier's negligence to entitle him to recover for loss or damage to cargo.[69]

(II) ADMISSIBILITY. The rules governing the admissibility of evidence in actions generally,[70] and particularly in actions against other carriers,[71] apply to actions for loss or injury to goods by carriers by water.[72] Thus parol evidence of an agreement that goods shipped under a clean bill of lading should be carried on deck is inadmissible in a libel for injury to cargo,[73] but may be received to show a supplemental agreement for a particular mode of storage under deck;[74] and parol evidence is admissible to show that, by a custom existing on a particular river, flat-boat men were not responsible for a loss caused by dangers of the river, although the bill of lading contained no such exception;[75] and evidence that it was usual and customary for one boat on a voyage to stop and aid another boat in distress is competent to show that such act is not a deviation, where the loss occurred by the sinking of the boat after such aid was rendered.[76] In an action against the owners of a vessel for loss of goods, an allegation that the vessel the cargo); Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486; Bursley v. The Marlborough, 47 Fed. 667; The Rover, 33 Fed. 515.

66. Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486.

67. The J. C. Stevenson, 17 Fed. 540.

68. The Friesland, 104 Fed. 99.

69. The Tjomo, 115 Fed. 919.

70. See EVIDENCE, 12 Cyc. 821.

71. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 517 et seq.

72. McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190; Reed v. Dick, 8 Watts (Pa.) 479 (holding that in an action for damage to goods occasioned by a storm, evidence that other vessels driven into a port by the same storm were staunch and strong as any employed in the trade was competent to show the violence of the storm; and that where a loss of goods has been occasioned by the breaking of a cable and the loss of the vessel, the declarations of the crew, when they were paying out the cable, may be given in evidence as to its soundness); Farmers', etc., Bank v. Champlain Transp. Co., 16 Vt. 52, 42 Am. Dec. 491; Donaldson v. J. W. Perry Co., 138 Fed. 643, 71 C. C. A. 93 (holding that, in an action to recover for damage to cargo from leakage of the vessel, evidence that directions as to the manner of loading were given the agents by libellant, which directions were not followed, was competent); The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110; Merriman v. The May Queen, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,481, Newb. Adm. 464 (holding that in an action against a vessel by a shipper for the loss of goods, the protest of the master of a vessel, being a mere narration of the bad weather he has met with, cannot be received as evidence for himself or his owners).

The evidence must be relevant.—Agnew v. The Contra Costa, 27 Cal. 425, 87 Am. Dec. 87 (holding that in an action against a common carrier for a loss occasioned by the bursting of the boiler of a steamboat during a race, evidence of the good condition of the boiler and of the exercise of all possible care is irrelevant, both on the question of liability and damages); A. J. Tower Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 195 Mass. 157, 80 N. E. 809; Costigan v. Michael Transp. Co., 33 Mo. App. 269 (holding that in an action against a steamboat for the loss of goods in transportation, evidence that the license of the pilot in charge has been revoked since the happening of the accident is inadmissible, when it does not appear that such revocation bore any relation to the accident); Richardson v. Young, 38 Pa. St. 169; Nimick v. Holmes, 25 Pa. St. 366, 64 Am. Dec. 710; Dean v. Swoop, 2 Binn. (Pa.) 72.

73. The Star of Hope, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,313, 2 Sawy. 15 [affirmed in 17 Wall. 651, 21 L. ed. 719]. But see supra, VII, D, 6, b.

74. The Star of Hope, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,313, 2 Sawy. 15 [affirmed in 17 Wall. 651, 21 L. ed. 719].

75. Steele v. McTyer, 31 Ala. 667, 70 Am. Dec. 516.

76. Walsh v. Homer, 10 Mo. 6, 45 Am. Dec. 342.

was wrecked and the merchandise lost on account of defendant's negligence, and without fault on plaintiff's part, raises the issue of defendant's negligence, and authorizes the admission of evidence that the vessel was being operated without the full complement of officers [77] required by statute.[78]

(III) WEIGHT AND SUFFICIENCY. The general rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence [79] are applicable to actions against carriers by water for loss of or injury to goods.[80] Thus where cargo shipped in a tight, stanch, and

77. Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, 162 Fed. 250, 89 C. C. A. 230.

78. See U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4463 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3045].

79. See EVIDENCE, 17 Cyc. 753.

80. Howland v. Greenway, 22 How. (U. S.) 491, 16 L. ed. 391 (holding that in proceedings against the owners of a vessel to recover for goods confiscated by the authorities at a foreign port by failure of the captain to enter the goods on his manifest, where one witness testified to the market value of the goods at the port of delivery, and another approximated their cost at the point from which they were shipped, this was sufficient to support a decree in respect to the amount of damages assessed); The Rose Innes, 122 Fed. 750 (holding that where a ship is liable for loss in a cargo of coffee by reason of rats having eaten holes in the mats in which it was packed during the voyage, the weight of the coffee when placed in the mats at interior plantations is sufficient prima facie to establish the amount of the shortage); The Minnie E. Kelton, 109 Fed. 164, 48 C. C. A. 271 (holding that where the testimony of the officers and crew of a steamer concurred that all the lumber loaded by a charterer was delivered at the end of the voyage, a shortage cannot be established by testimony on behalf of the charterer as to the quantity loaded, based entirely on an estimate of the total quantity on the dock, from which the witnesses deducted the quantity carried by two other vessels); The Longfellow, 104 Fed. 360, 45 C. C. A. 379 (holding that where all the direct evidence was to the effect that a steamer was seaworthy when she entered on her voyage, it cannot be inferred from the fact that a short time before she had met with two accidents, in one of which she was slightly injured, that her seaworthiness was thereby impaired, in the absence of affirmative evidence that she was in fact injured thereby in her hull or machinery); Putnam v. The Manitoba, 104 Fed. 145; Beach v. The America, 59 Fed. 787 (holding that inferences arising from failure to produce to consignees remains of casks broken in transit are overcome by explicit testimony that the casks were received and well stored, and were broken by heavy weather); Morris Beef Co. v. The Wells City, 57 Fed. 317; The Mondego, 56 Fed. 268 (holding that the mere fact that a very unusual number of cattle died while in transit from no apparent cause is not of itself sufficient proof of defective ventilation, as against the fact that the ship was provided with so many air spaces as to lead all the inspectors and experts to pronounce the ventilation sufficient, and the further fact that both before and after the voyage she had carried a greater number of cattle with scarcely any mortality); The City of Lincoln, 25 Fed. 835; The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196 [reversing 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110] (holding that in an action against a vessel for damages to a cargo caused by delay of the vessel by reason of its having a sick and incompetent crew, the evidence of the crew as to their own health must control, in opposition to the testimony of persons experienced in the particular trade, as to the effect of the given sickness upon the crew).

Evidence held insufficient to prove: Damage from bad stowage and leakage. See McKinlay v. Morrish, 21 How. (U. S.) 355, 16 L. ed. 100. In an action against a ship for injuries to a cargo of firecrackers, alleged to have been caused by defective stowage, that the damage was the result of insufficient or defective coverings on the packages. Doherr v. Houston, 128 Fed. 594, 64 C. C. A. 102 [affirming 123 Fed. 334]. Negligence in calking and unseaworthiness in that respect when the ship sailed. The Thomas Melville, 31 Fed. 486. That damage was caused by bad stowage and negligence of the master and crew. The Amsterdam, 156 Fed. 850; Puget Sound Mach. Depot v. The Guy C. Goss, 53 Fed. 826; The Delhi, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,770, 4 Ben. 345. That the full quantity received on board was not delivered. The Charles Tiberghien, 147 Fed. 307; The Patria, 118 Fed. 109. That the goods were damaged while on board of the steamer. The George Heaton, 20 Fed. 323; The Adriatic, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 90, 16 Blatchf. 424. Damage to cargo. The Venner, 27 Fed. 523. Damage by peril of the sea. The Charles J. Willard, 38 Fed. 759. Negligence on the part of the ship. The Barracouta, 39 Fed. 288. Damage to the goods by unseaworthiness of the ship, bad stowage, want of proper dunnage, negligence, and improper conduct of the master and crew. The Tjomo, 115 Fed. 919; E. Lobe Co. v. The Guy C. Goss, 53 Fed. 839. That the sinking of a lighter at her pier was due to unseaworthiness. National Bd. of Marine Underwriters v. Bowring, 148 Fed. 1010.

Evidence held sufficient to prove: The implied warranty of seaworthiness. The Patria, 118 Fed. 109; Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486. That the injury was to be attributed to defective material and calking of the decks, and not to perils of the seas. The Compta, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,069, 4 Sawy. 375. That the vessel was not seaworthy. The Lillie Hamilton, 18 Fed. 327. That the propeller was stowed and secured in a manner judged safe by comwell manned vessel arrives in a damaged condition, the burden of showing that the damage was within the exception of dangers of navigation is sustained by proof that the vessel encountered a storm, shipped water, and leaked; [81] but the burden is not sustained by showing that the damage was occasioned by a leak, and suggesting that it arose from some inexplicable action of the elements, without negativing other causes for the leak, which would leave the carrier liable,[82] nor by evidence that heavy seas were encountered, and much water taken over all, and perhaps through the seams, but none down the hatches.[83] The defense that the loss of cargo arose partly from a necessary jettison on account of perils of the sea and partly from a sale for necessaries must be established by clear and conclusive proof; [84] and similarly, where goods are carried under a bill of lading exempting the carrier from liability for unavoidable dangers, it is not sufficient for the carrier to show merely that the vessel was stranded, but it must be shown that she was stranded by an unavoidable danger; [85] but in an action against a common carrier for a loss, by the perils of navigation within the exceptions of the bill of lading, it is sufficient for defendant to prove that fact generally, and he is not obliged to show affirmatively the particular and identical cause of petent persons, and that the loss was fairly attributable to perils of the sea. The Titania, 19 Fed. 101. Proper communication with the shipper. Astsrup v. Lewy, 19 Fed. 536. Negligent stowage. Corsar v. J. D. Spreckels, etc., Co., 141 Fed. 260, 72 C. C. A. 378; Lazarus v. Barber, 124 Fed. 1007 [affirmed in 136 Fed. 534, 69 C. C. A. 310]. Injury to cargo to have been due to her having been unseaworthy and not in good condition for the carriage of such cargo when the voyage was begun, owing to her defective decks and the careless handling of the pump during her detention, by reason of which water leaked through into the hold. The Gordon Campbell, 141 Fed. 435. Loss to have been due to leakage, owing to the inability of the vessel to carry the cargo for which she was chartered without straining, which rendered her unseaworthy. The William Power, 131 Fed. 136. That damage to a cargo resulted from the defective condition of the hatch coverings, which rendered the vessel unseaworthy at the commencement of the voyage, having in view the nature of the cargo, the time of the year, and the weather to be fairly anticipated. The C. W. Elphicke, 117 Fed. 279 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 439, 58 C. C. A. 421]. That damage by water to a cargo of cement carried between decks on a voyage was due to the defective condition of the calking at the commencement of the voyage, and rendered the vessel unseaworthy with reference to the particular cargo. The Nellie Floyd, 116 Fed. 80 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 617, 60 C. C. A. 377]. That loss of cargo from a lighter, which was being loaded from a ship, due to the rolling of the lighter, was not caused by its negligent handling or defective condition, but by some external cause for which it was not liable. The Wildenfels, 161 Fed. 864. On conflicting evidence, that damage to a cargo was caused by a peril of the sea, and not by neglect on the part of the ship. Fowler v. Bertram L. Townsend, 35 Fed. 797. That damage was largely due to the negligent use or condition of a valve by which ice had become "steam struck," through steam escaping into the hold. Smith v. Saugerties, 44 Fed. 625. That the vessel was in a condition, when she sailed, to encounter the ordinary perils of her voyage, which was sufficient to make her seaworthy, and her loss was due to the mistake or carelessness of the captain, without the fault, knowledge, or privity of the owners, in attempting to cross the bar on an ebb tide. In re Meyer, 74 Fed. 881. That the fire was caused by the negligence of the carrier. Hill Mfg. Co. v. Providence, etc., Steamship Co., 125 Mass. 292. Negligence on the carrier's part. Costigan v. Michael Transp. Co., 33 Mo. App. 269. An apparent shortage, as shown by the tally made at the time of discharge, arose from the fact that in many cases two bales were trussed together in one package and such packages were erroneously counted as one bale. The Charles Tiberghien, 147 Fed. 307. That the sinking of a lighter was caused by a blow received from some unknown vessel in collision with her, or from swells causing her to collide with a vessel or wharf alongside. National Bd. of Marine Underwriters v. Bowring, 148 Fed. 1010.

81. Hunt v. The Cleveland, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,885, 6 McLean 76, Newb. Adm. 221.

82. Bancroft-Whitney Co. v. The Queen of the Pacific, 78 Fed. 155 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135 (reversed on other grounds in 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419)] (holding that a ship-owner against whom a prima facie case of negligence has been made out does not discharge the burden of bringing himself within the exceptions of perils of the sea by simply showing that the ship was in a seaworthy condition at the commencement of the voyage, and presenting evidence which merely leaves in doubt the question as to how the leak arose which caused the damage); The Emma Johnson, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,465, 1 Sprague 527.

83. Serio v. The Giava, 56 Fed. 243.

84. Talbot v. Wakeman, 23 Fed. Cas. No 13,731*a*.

85. The Keokuk, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,721, 1 Biss. 522.

loss.[86] In an action to recover damages for injury to goods by reason of bad stowage, the mere fact of the sale of the injured goods at auction, without proof of the price they brought, is no ground for disregarding the evidence of experts as to their value.[87]

e. Damages — (I) MEASURE. In a libel on a contract of affreightment, to recover for damages to the cargo, the object of the law is to make the parties as nearly whole as possible for the damages sustained by reason of the breach of contract.[88] Thus the damages recoverable against a vessel which has been negligently stranded, and hence damaged her cargo, include the loss of perishable cargo rendered worthless by delay, the partial damage to such cargo as has been brought into port, the costs and charges attending the salvage of the cargo, and damage by reason of differences in market prices from the delay in arrival;[89] and where goods arrive in a damaged condition, and it is apparent that the damage was in great part caused by the carrier's fault, although to some extent it would probably have been caused by the perils of the sea encountered by the vessel, but to what extent the carrier is unable to show, he will be held liable for the whole;[90] and where goods damaged in shipment, for which damage the ship is liable, the invoice value being made the basis of settlement by the bill of lading, are sold on their arrival, the freight paid thereon or due should be deducted from the proceeds, and the remainder only credited to the carrier against the invoice value, to determine the amount of his liability.[91] When the loss of or injury to cargo occurs at the place where it is laden, and before the voyage begins, the carrier is liable for its value at such port,[92] in the absence of special circumstances making him liable for the value at the port of delivery;[93] and although it is held that the ordinary measure of damages for the breach of a contract of affreightment, where the goods have been unlawfully disposed of at an intermediate port, 86. Hill v. Sturgeon, 35 Mo. 212, 86 Am. Dec. 149.

87. The Sabioncello, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,199, 8 Ben. 90.

88. The Lillie Hamilton, 18 Fed. 327; Jackson v. The Julia Smith, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,136, 6 McLean 484, Newb. Adm. 61.

Measure where owner of vessel acted as supercargo.— It was agreed, in a bill of lading, that the net proceeds, at the port of destination abroad, of goods shipped, should be paid to the shippers in ninety days after the return of the vessel to her home port. The ship arrived out and the goods were sold, invested by the owners of the ship, on their own account, in return cargo. The ship met with disaster on her return, and the cargo was damaged fifty per cent. She, however, arrived at her home port. It was held that the shippers were entitled to recover the whole net amount for which their adventure was sold in the foreign port. Winchester v. Patterson, 17 Mass. 62; Wallis v. Cook, 10 Mass. 510.

The consignee of a cargo may maintain an action in admiralty against the vessel for an injury to his interest therein, and, when he is vested with the legal ownership by an assignment of the bill of lading, he may recover for any breach of the contract made by such bill of lading; but where there was no bill of lading, and he has no interest in the cargo, if he is, in any event, authorized to recover against the vessel, on behalf of the consignor, it can only be such damages as result from a breach of the contract between the shipper and carrier, and arising after the cargo has been received on board. The Habil, 100 Fed. 120.

89. The City of Para, 44 Fed. 689.

90. Speyer v. The Mary Belle Roberts, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,240, 2 Sawy. 1.

91. The Styria, 95 Fed. 698.

92. Rogers v. West, 9 Ind. 400; Krohn v. Oechs, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 127; Lakeman v. Grinnell, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 625; Dusar v. Murgatroyd, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,199, 1 Wash. 13, holding that when goods are destroyed or materially injured on board a vessel in the port where they are shipped, the damages must be ascertained by the difference between the prime cost and charges and the sales at the port of shipment, and not by the probable profits if the goods had gone safe to the port of destination.

93. The Joshua Barker, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,547, Abb. Adm. 215, holding that where a vessel having on board a cargo of flour for transportation capsized at her wharf before sailing, and the cargo was much damaged, and the carriers might easily have communicated with the owners of the cargo, but without seeking instructions from the owners of the cargo they sold it upon their own authority at auction, and completed the voyage, the owners of the cargo were entitled to recover from the vessel its value at the port of delivery, such value to be ascertained by the market price at the port of delivery at the time of the arrival of the vessel, deducting freight charges and adding interest to the balance.

is their prime cost, with interest, and charges of shipment and transportation,[94] the general rule is, in the absence of special circumstances, such as misconduct on the part of the carrier,[95] or the impossibility of showing the value of the cargo at the port of delivery,[96] that where the loss occurred after leaving the place of shipment the damages are to be estimated as of the port of delivery,[97] and the measure is the market value,[98] at the port of destination, at the time they should have been delivered,[99] with interest from the time delivery should have been

94. The Harriet, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,094. And see King v. Shepherd, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,804, 3 Story 349. Compare O'Connell v. The Tally Ho, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,418, where a vessel laden with corn put in at an intermediate port in distress, and a part of the cargo, which was unfit for further transportation, was taken charge of by the American consul who, being advised by the governor of the island that because of the scarcity of provisions at that port an attempt to reload the corn would be resisted by force, sold the corn, the shippers were not bound by such sale, and might recover, at their election, the value of the cargo at the point of destination, deducting freight, or the proceeds of the sale, with interest, free of freight.

Where a vessel, bound by a contract of affreightment, was, during the voyage, taken in replevin by the owner, brought into another port, where the goods, being landed, were seized by the revenue officers, sold and bought in by the owner subject to the order of the shipper, the measure of damages, as against the vessel, was the value of the goods at the time of the contract, without deducting the expenses incurred by the owner, and without allowing those of the libellant in search of his property and defending the same in court. The Julia Smith, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,136, 6 McLean 484, Newb. Adm. 61.

95. Edminson v. Baxter, 4 Hayw. (Tenn.) 112, 9 Am. Dec. 751. See The Olympia, 156 Fed. 252; The Joseph Oteri, Jr., 66 Fed. 581, 13 C. C. A. 645.

96. Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, 162 Fed. 250, 89 C. C. A. 230 (holding that in an action against a vessel for loss of miners' outfits destined to a place on the coast of Alaska, where there was no market in which such goods could be bought, the goods being intended for consumption and not for sale, the measure of damages was the market value of the goods lost at the place of destination at the time when they should have been delivered, which the jury was authorized to ascertain by taking the price at the place of shipment and adding thereto the cost of carriage and interest at the legal rate); The Protection, 102 Fed. 516, 42 C. C. A. 489 (where, because of the impossibility of showing the value of a machine at the port of destination, libellant was allowed as damages its cost at the port of shipment, together with his expenses in going to receive it and the freight paid).

97. The Emily v. Carney, 5 Kan. 645.

98. The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167.

Mode of determining market value.— The market value of damaged goods is to be determined by the price they actually produced when sold, and not by the testimony of experts. In re The Boskenna Bay, 31 Fed. 612 (holding that in ascertaining the amount of damage sustained by a cargo of fruit, the best method, in the absence of direct evidence, is by a comparison of the price brought by the damaged fruit at a fair sale, with the market value of sound fruit of the same brands, sold at the same time; or if that is not obtainable, then by a comparison of the price brought by the damaged goods with the prices brought within a week before or after by other brands of the same invoice at the place of export as the damaged fruit; or next, proof of the value abroad would be competent, with additions for differences in market, the average values of all the fruit arriving about the time of the arrival of the damaged fruit, from the same port as the latter, is only a reasonable test as a last resort); Hamilton v. The Bark Kate Irving, 5 Fed. 630, 5 Hughes 253. But a sale of a damaged cargo by consignees is not binding on the vessel so as to fix its liability as to the amount of damage, and such sale should be made with notice to the ship-owner, or there should be an appraisement with notice. Crosby v. Grinnell, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,422.

A rebate of duty for damage to goods obtained by the consignee is not to be considered in computing the damage recoverable by the consignee against the ship, and as an element of market value it has no place. The Eroe, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,521, 9 Ben. 191 [affirmed in 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,522, 17 Blatchf. 16]. And similarly where the amount of rebate of duties allowed to the libellant at the custom-house, on a cargo of fruit which respondent had negligently failed to deliver in time, was the customary one allowed on all fruit cargoes, and had no reference to the damages caused by respondent's negligence, respondent was not entitled to the benefit of it. Morrison v. I. & V. Florio Steamship Co., 36 Fed. 569.

99. Kansas.— The Emily v. Carney, 5 Kan. 645.

Louisiana.— Burke v. Clarke, 11 La. 206 (holding that a steamer undertaking, but failing to bring a slave to New Orleans, and retaining him for the next trip, when he was lost, was liable for his value at the time and place of delivery, but not for wages subsequent thereto, or damages); St. Marc v. La. Chapella, 1 Mart. 36.

New York.— Krohn v. Oechs, 48 Barb. 127; Watkinson v. Laughton, 8 Johns. 213.

North Carolina.— Howard v. Ross, 3 N. C. 333.

Tennessee.— Edminson v. Baxter, 4 Hayw. 112, 9 Am. Dec. 751, holding that in an ac-made;[1] and, in the absence of proof of such value, it will be presumed to have been their value at the place of shipment, with the freight added;[2] and if the goods are merely injured on shipboard the measure of damages is the difference between their value in their damaged state and their value at the port of destination if they had been delivered in good order,[3] with interest from the time of delivery and other items of expenditure made necessary by reason of the damage;[4] but it has been held that where the cargo of a vessel has been sold by order of the court in a port to which it was brought by salvors, in proceedings regularly instituted by the owners to recover possession, the proceeds of the sale may properly be taken as its value for the purpose of making adjustment between the several parties in interest, although the proceeding by the cargo owners was unwarranted, and the cargo was sold for less than its actual value.[5] But the shipper or owner cannot recover for loss of a profit he would have made by delivery of the steel on a prior contract of sale, which delivery was refused by the purchaser on account of its damaged condition, the vessel having no relation to such contract;[6] and where goods are delivered in a damaged condition it is immaterial, on the question of damages, what disposition the shipper has made of them since the breach of contract occurred. If he has chosen to hold them for a better market, it is at his own risk and for his own account. The liability of the carrier is in no way affected by the result of the speculation. A rise in the price of the goods will not diminish his liability, nor a fall increase it.[7] In any event the liability of an owner of a vessel engaged in carrying goods for freight for cargo lost without his fault is limited to the value of the ship and freight; and even though the master execute a bottomry bond, hypothecating as well the cargo as the ship and freight, and the cargo is afterward sold on such bond, the owner's personal liability will be no greater.[8] It is the duty of a carrier of cargo which meets with disaster through the fault of the vessel to do what he can to minimize the damage, by which he profits as well as the cargo owner, and he is not entitled to a deduction of expenses so incurred from the damages recoverable by the cargo owner by reason of his loss.[9]

(II) APPORTIONMENT OF DAMAGES, AND DEDUCTIONS. Where damage to goods is attributable partly to the fault of the carrier and partly to the fault of the shipper, and it is impossible to ascertain for what proportion each is responsible, the loss will be equally divided between them;[10] but where a cargo has

tion against a carrier by water, the value of the goods at the port of reception is the proper measure of damages, unless some fault or misconduct on the part of the carrier should require the application of a different rule.

United States.— The Oneida, 128 Fed. 687, 63 C. C. A. 239; The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167; The Nith, 36 Fed. 86, 13 Sawy. 368; Dusar v. Murgatroyd, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,199, 1 Wash 13.

And see 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 485.

1. The Emily v. Carney, 5 Kan. 645; The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167.

2. The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167.

3. Henderson v. The Maid of Orleans, 12 La. Ann. 352; The Bérengére, 155 Fed. 439; The Niagara, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,221, 16 Blatchf. 516. See The Augusto, 29 Fed. 334. But see Foster v. The British Oak, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,966, holding that the measure of damages for negligence causing injury to cargo is the difference between the cost of the damaged goods and the proceeds received from the sale thereof.

4. The Bérengére, 155 Fed. 439.

But expenses incident to the auction sale of a damaged cargo, and for the services of experts employed by the libellant, are not elements of damage against the vessel. The Marinin, 32 Fed. 918.

5. The Eliza Lines, 114 Fed. 307, 52 C. C. A. 195.

6. The Bérengére, 155 Fed. 439; The Compta, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,070, 5 Sawy. 137.

7. The Compta, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,070, 5 Sawy. 137. But see Morrison v. I. & V. Florio Steamship Co., 36 Fed. 569.

8. Naylor v. Baltzell, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,061, Taney 55. And see, generally, as to statutory limitations, infra, XI.

9. Ralli v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 154 Fed. 286, 83 C. C. A. 290.

10. Stillwell v. The J. D. Hall, 34 Fed. 904; Snow v. Carruth, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,144, 1 Sprague 324.

If the owner of goods employ a boat obviously unfit for the trip, and loss happens thereby, as against third persons also chargeable with negligence, he can recover but half his damages. The Wm. Murtagh, 17 Fed. 259.

been damaged by independent causes, for only a part of which the ship is liable, the loss will not be equally divided, nor cast wholly upon the ship, except as a last resort and when all means fail of making an approximate apportionment of the loss to the several causes of damage.[11] Where it appears that the greater part of the damage to a cargo resulted from sea perils for which the ship is not liable, but further damage occurred through the negligence of the master in failing to put into port to make repairs, it would be inequitable to hold the ship liable for the entire damage, although it cannot be separated, and the loss should be divided;[12] and on the same principle the owner of a boat liable for wrongful jettison is entitled to a deduction for loss occurring without his fault, before the jettison;[13] and where animals injured by perils of the sea are thrown overboard with others not injured, the failure of respondent to prove the precise number injured does not render him responsible for all that were lost.[14] On a libel against a ship for injury to goods by improper stowage, libellant's damages cannot be reduced because the consignees sold the goods at auction as damaged goods, instead of overhauling and repairing the damage, where the ship's agents had the same opportunity to perform the work of overhauling as had the consignees.[15]

(III) LIEN;[16] PRIORITIES. A maritime contract for the transportation of goods on board a vessel operates reciprocally as a tacit pledge or mortgage to the shipper for the conveyance and delivery of the goods according to the contract;[17] and a maritime lien arises in favor of the shipper upon the refusal or failure of the vessel to fulfil its contract of affreightment;[18] and thus a merchant who ships goods in a vessel on freight has a lien on the vessel for the loss of his goods, or any damage they may sustain, from the fault or neglect of the master or the insufficiency of the vessel,[19] which may be enforced by process in rem against the vessel in admiralty,[20] and which is preferred to the right of the general creditors of the owners;[21] and to a mortgage on the vessel for labor and material furnished

11. The Shand, 16 Fed. 570.

12. The Musselcrag, 125 Fed. 786.

13. Bentley v. Bustard, 16 B. Mon. (Ky.) 643, 63 Am. Dec. 561.

14. Brauer v. Campania Navigacion La Flecha, 66 Fed. 776, 14 C. C. A. 88 [affirming 61 Fed. 860, and affirmed in 168 U. S. 104, 18 S. Ct. 12, 42 L. ed. 398].

15. Hills v. Mackill, 36 Fed. 702.

16. Maritime liens in general see MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 743.

Disability of states to pass statutes giving pure proceeding in rem see MARITIME LIENS, 26 Cyc. 770 et seq.

17. Miners' Co-operative Assoc. v. The Monarch, 2 Alaska 383.

18. Miners' Co-operative Assoc. v. The Monarch, 2 Alaska 383; The J. C. Stevenson, 17 Fed. 540 (holding that where cattle were actually laden on board a vessel under a contract of shipment, and the ship obtained the benefit of the contract, the shipper has a lien on the vessel for damages suffered by the cattle for failure of the vessel to arrive and receive the cattle at the date provided in the contract).

19. The Belfast v. Boon, 41 Ala. 50 (holding that a shipper has a lien on the vessel for any damage to his goods for which by the common law he could maintain an action); The Casco, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,486, 2 Ware 188; The Gold Hunter, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,513, 1 Blatchf. & H. 300 (holding that the owner of a cargo, part of which is sold by the master to raise money for the necessary repairs of the vessel, and part of which is consumed by the crew and passengers on the voyage, has a lien on the vessel for the value of what is so sold and consumed); The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165.

The French code de commerce does not differ from the general maritime law in respect to liens on the ship for damage to the cargo. The Zone, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,220, 2 Sprague 19.

A lien created by the delivery of damaged goods is not waived by their acceptance by the consignee, nor by a receipt specifying that they had been received in good order; but, to constitute a waiver, there must be a knowledge of the injury, coupled with an intention to abandon the remedy, or some contract inconsistent with the lien. The Robert Morris v. Williamson, 6 Ala. 50, holding that Act (1836), § 2 (Clay Dig. p. 139), giving a lien on a boat for its failure to deliver goods as specified by the bill of lading, applies to injury to goods, and was not intended to provide only for a lien in case of total loss of the cargo.

Where goods on board of a ship are sold by the master in a foreign port for the repairs of the ship, a person to whom those goods were hypothecated has a lien upon the ship for the goods sold, if the residue proves insufficient to discharge his claim. American Ins. Co. v. Coster, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 323.

20. The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187.

21. The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187.

in her home port in fitting her for a voyage, notice whereof is entered on the register;[22] and the lien operates alike whether the contract of affreightment be by charter-party, bill of lading, or parol;[23] and the fact that a vessel is being operated under a charter, even if known to shippers, does not relieve her from a lien arising from default in her obligation to the cargo.[24] But a lien created by the shipment and loss of goods vests no absolute, indefeasible interest in the ship or vessel,[25] and may be lost by unreasonable delay;[26] but it is not defeated by a bona fide sale before the shipper has had an opportunity for enforcing it,[27] particularly where the purchaser has knowledge of the claim;[28] and thus a purchaser of a vessel cannot invoke the defense of laches to defeat a suit by an insurer to enforce a lien for the negligent loss of cargo, occurring before the purchase, where the suit was commenced within a year after the loss, and it does not appear that he bought without knowledge of the lien.[29] Where a lien is under the general admiralty law, and not under the state law, for materials or repairs furnished, it is not subject to a requirement of a state law that the libel should be filed before the vessel make another voyage.[30] There is no lien upon a vessel in respect to goods for which her agents have issued a bill of lading, but which are destroyed while in custody of the keeper of the landing before being received on board or coming under the control of the master.[31]

f. Trial and Review. The general rules of procedure,[32] and in as far as applicable the rules governing procedure in admiralty,[33] apply to actions against carriers by water for loss or injury to goods.[34] Questions of law are for the court; and questions of fact for the jury,[35] under proper instructions.[36] Thus the question whether the goods were lost or injured through negligence of the carriers is for the jury;[37] and where, although the answer denies negligence, it yet admits facts which raise a presumption of negligence, and the apostles indicate that the 22. Justi Pon v. Arbustci, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,589.

23. Miners' Co-operative Assoc. v. The Monarch, 2 Alaska 383.

24. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375.

25. The Favorite, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,696, 1 Biss. 525.

26. The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187.

27. The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187.

28. The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187.

29. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375.

30. Knox v. Ninetta, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,912, Crabbe 534, 5 Pa. L. J. 33.

31. The Guiding Star, 53 Fed. 936 [affirmed in 62 Fed. 407, 10 C. C. A. 454], holding also that where several steamboats, associated under one name, ran regularly between the same points under an agreement as to rates and sailing days, but each kept its own earnings, and paid its own expenses, and the masters of all the boats executed a writing authorizing a person named to sign bills of lading, and to represent their boats, as agents, on a libel to enforce a claim of goods alleged to have been destroyed while in the possession of the steamers' agents, that bills of lading signed by such agent could not bind all the boats jointly, and thus create a maritime lien against them all for each shipment, without regard to whether one or the other carried the goods, for the masters had no power to grant such authority.

32. See TRIAL.

33. See ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 846 et seq.

34. Clyde Steamship Co. v. Burrows, 36 Fla. 121, 18 So. 349.

35. Knox v. Rives, 14 Ala. 249, 48 Am. Dec. 97; Bassett v. Aberdeen Coal, etc., Co., 120 Ky. 728, 88 S. W. 318, 27 Ky. L. Rep. 1122 (whether defendant held itself as a common carrier); Northern Commercial Co. v. Lindblom, 162 Fed. 250, 89 C. C. A. 230.

36. Bassett v. Aberdeen Coal, etc., Co., 120 Ky. 728, 88 S. W. 318, 27 Ky. L. Rep. 1122; Ross v. English, 2 Speers (S. C.) 393.

37. Goodwin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 58 Barb. (N. Y.) 195 [reversed on other grounds in 50 N. Y. 154]; Colt v. McMechen, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 160, 5 Am. Dec. 200 (holding that where defendant's vessel was beating up the river against a light and variable wind, and while near the shore and changing her tack the wind suddenly fell, causing her to run aground and sink, in an action to recover for damage to plaintiff's goods, the question whether the master was negligent was for the jury); Humphreys v. Reed, 6 Whart. (Pa.) 435 (whether a cargo of nails was damaged by negligence, or whether the damage resulted from a danger of navigation, within the meaning of an exception in a contract of affreightment); Ross v. English, 2 Speers (S. C.) 393; Blyth v. Marsh, 1 Nott & M. (S. C.) 170 (question whether in an action against the carriers of a cargo which was lost at sea, owing to the vessel having been run down by another, the loss happened by the perils of the sea or negligence of the carriers); Johnson v. Friar, 4 Yerg. (Tenn.) 48, 26 Am. Dec. 215.

question of negligence has not been fully entered into, and the claimant has relied upon the theory that the facts found did not make out a prima facie case against him, he may be permitted to apply for leave to introduce further evidence in this regard.[38] In a case in admiralty, where the shipper has been prejudiced by the jettison of his goods, the court may look into the facts of the case and determine whether the owners have appointed a competent master, and whether that master had used reasonable skill and judgment in encountering the peril of the sea that has made the jettison necessary; and where a jettison has been necessary through the conduct of the master, concurring with the peril of the sea, whether that conduct was reasonably skilful, judicious, and prudent.[39] The appellate court will not as a general rule revise on appeal the findings of fact based on the conflicting testimony of witnesses.[40]

13. Statutory Exemption From Liability — a. In General. There have from time to time been passed in the United States statutes limiting in greater or less degree the absolute quasi-insurance liability of the carrier by water.[41] One of the earliest of the important statutes of this kind was the act of congress of March 3, 1851, entitled "An Act to limit the Liability of Ship-Owners, and for other Purposes," which by section 1 exempts the owners of vessels, in cases of loss by fire, from liability for the negligence of their officers or agents in which the owners have not directly participated;[42] and by section 2 discharges the

38. The Sydney, 27 Fed. 119 [appeal dismissed for want of jurisdiction in 139 U. S. 331, 11 S. Ct. 620, 35 L. ed. 177].

39. The Hettie Ellis, 22 Fed. 350 [affirming 20 Fed. 393].

40. The Marinin, 32 Fed. 918.

41. See the statutes. And see cases cited infra, this and the following notes.

Where a statute of the state where the owners of a vessel reside provides that such owners shall not be liable for the wrongful acts of the master beyond the value of their interests in the vessel and freight, and the master, after the execution of a bottomry bond greater than the value of the owners' interests above mentioned, sells a portion of the cargo which is sound and might have been transhipped, the owners are not liable to the shippers for the cargo sold by such wrongful act of the master. Pope v. Nickerson, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,274, 3 Story 465.

La. Civ. Code, art. 2725, exempting a common carrier from liability for a loss or damage to goods occasioned by accident or uncontrollable events applies where the collision of a steamboat with another boat, which injured plaintiff's goods shipped on the steamboat, was without the fault or negligence of the owners of the steamboat or their agents, and the disaster was an "unavoidable accident," within the meaning of the code. Van Hern v. Taylor, 7 Rob. 201, 41 Am. Dec. 279. Similarly a loss of goods is occasioned by "accidental and uncontrollable events," within Civ. Code, art. 2754, if they were in a carrier's steamboat, which sank, after striking an unknown object, without any negligence on the part of the carrier. Kirk v. Folsom, 23 La. Ann. 584. And under Civ. Code, art. 2723, providing that the lessee can only be liable for destruction occasioned by fire when it was proved that the same happend by his neglect, the burden was on the lessor to show such neglect. D'Echaux v. Gibson Cypress Lumber Co., 114 La. 626, 38 So. 476, holding that under a contract of lease of a pull boat to return the same at the end of the lease in good order, ordinary wear and tear excepted, and the property was destroyed by fire, the lessee is not liable where he used the usual care, and the manner in which the property was cared for received the express sanction of the owner. The limited liability legislation does not, however, exempt carriers by water from loss occurring through the contact of a vessel with pile structures negligently placed by the owner of the vessel in navigable waters. Darrall v. Southern Pac. Co., 47 La. Ann. 1455, 17 So. 884.

Under the English statutes in relation to compulsory pilotage, in the port of Liverpool, an owner of a vessel is not relieved from liability for damage to freight, unless a pilot was in charge under the act, and was actually and necessarily engaged in the discharge of his duty. Where therefore a vessel had left its dock in charge of a pilot, and anchored in the river to finish loading and to receive coal for a voyage, and while at anchor an accident occurred, causing the loss, the owner was not excused from liability by said statutes. Guiterman v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., 83 N. Y. 358.

42. Headrick v. Virginia, etc., Air Line R. Co., 48 Ga. 545 (holding that under the act the owners of a steamer, engaged in the carrying trade between Baltimore, Norfolk, and Portsmouth, are not liable for the loss of goods by the destruction of the vessel and cargo by fire, unless caused by the design or neglect of the owners; nor does the fact that such owners have formed an association with other companies as carriers, extending their business as carriers into the interior, affect the question of liability for such loss); Rice v. Ontario Steamboat Co., 56 Barb. (N. Y.) 384 (holding that a steamboat company, receiving goods at A to be transported to B, ship-owner from liability for certain enumerated classes of valuables, such as precious metals, jewelry, and the like, unless the shipper at the time of lading gives a note in writing stating their character and value;[43] and by section 3 limits and carrying them part of the distance to C, where they were delivered to a boat owned by other parties to be carried the remainder of the distance to B, is not the owner or charterer of the latter boat, in the spirit or letter of the act so as to be entitled to claim the exemption provided therein for losses occasioned by actual fire); Walker v. Western Transp. Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 150, 18 L. ed. 172.

Cargo delivered on a wharf into the charge of the officers of a vessel is "shipped," so as to free the ship-owners, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4282 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2943], from liability for loss by a fire occurring without their design or neglect, although the loss was caused by the negligence of the ship's officers in not promptly putting the goods on board. Dill v. The Bertram, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,910.

Where a fire was caused by the negligence of the master who is a part-owner, the other innocent part-owners are not liable, nor is the vessel liable in rem, but the master is liable personally. Keene v. The Whistler, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,645, 2 Sawy. 348. The English statute is construed the same way. Wilson v. Dickson, 2 B. & Ald. 13, 20 Rev. Rep. 331; The Volant, 1 W. Rob. 383.

This exemption does not extend to a carrier by a vessel which ne neither owns nor charters. Hill Mfg. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Corp., 104 Mass. 122, 6 Am. Rep. 202.

The object of the section was to exempt ship-owners from common liability as carriers for acts of agents and servants, and not to diminish their responsibility for their own wilful or negligent acts. If the fire was caused by the design or neglect of the owners themselves, the section does not apply. Hill Mfg. Co. v. Providence, etc., Steamship Co., 113 Mass. 495, 18 Am. Rep. 527, holding that in the case of the loss by fire of a vessel owned by a corporation, the president and directors are regarded not merely as agents of the corporation, but as immediately representing the corporation; and their act or neglect, causing the fire, is the act or neglect of the ship-owner, taking the case out of the operation of the section.

Vessels navigating Long Island sound, and constructed for ocean or coastwise navigation, are within the provisions of the act and the owners thereof are not liable to answer for loss or damage by fire to any merchandise shipped in the same, unless such fire was caused by the design or neglect of such owner or owners. The fact that such a vessel, in her voyage, entered and passed through or into any bays or rivers, does not bring the same within the exception, in the act, of vessels "used in rivers, or inland navigation." Knowlton v. Providence, etc., Steamship Co., 33 N. Y. Super. Ct. 370.

This provision is incorporated in U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4282 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2943], which relieves the owner, who is not himself guilty, of liability for loss by reason of a fire happening on the ship. Deming v. The Rapid Transit, 52 Fed. 320, holding that where a steamer with a cargo, chiefly of lime, took fire, and was scuttled by the city fire department, whereby the lime was destroyed, a purchaser of the vessel had a complete defense under the statute against an action in rem against the vessel. A fire occurring from a heated flue in the ship built by reputable builders was not from the "design or neglect of the ship owners." The Strathdon, 89 Fed. 374. The statute has no application to a case where goods were destroyed by fire after they had been unloaded from the vessel on to a wharf boat (The City of Clarksville, 94 Fed. 201; The Egypt, 25 Fed. 320), and does not relieve the owner from any consequence of his own neglect, but only from the negligence of his servants (Woodhouse v. Cain, 95 N. C. 113). Horses and trucks which are taken aboard a ferry-boat by their drivers who are passengers and remain in their charge upon the trip are not "merchandise" within the meaning of the statute. The Garden City, 26 Fed. 766. And an action arising from independent acts of negligence on the part of the ship and from the breach of a maritime duty in failing to enforce a general average contribution is not within the provisions of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4282 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2943]. Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60, 2 L. R. A. 287.

A provision in the charter of a carrier by water, created by and operating entirely within a state, that it shall be liable to all common-law liabilities, does not conflict with the section. Houston Direct Nav. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, (Tex. Civ. App. 1895) 31 S. W. 560 [reversed on other grounds in 89 Tex. 1, 32 S. W. 889, 59 Am. St. Rep. 17, 30 L. R. A. 713].

43. The Island Queen, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,110, Brown Adm. 279 (where libellant's agent, who was intending to take passage on a steamboat from Detroit to a Canadian port, intrusted a quantity of gold coin to the master before the vessel started without taking a bill of lading or delivering a note in writing, and on returning on board the coin was missing, and it was held that the vessel was not liable under the act); Wattson v. Marks, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,296 (holding that this section does not make the absence of such "note in writing" a discharge of the ship-owner's liability on a contract of affreightment, where the true character and value of the enumerated articles have been fairly and clearly set down in the bill of lading, whether before or after the actual shipment).

This section now constitutes U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4281 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2942].

the liability of ship-owners to the amount or interest in the vessel and the freight then pending.[44]

b. The Harter Act — (1) General Nature and Purpose of the Act. By far the most important statute in the United States affecting the liability of a carrier of goods by water is the act of February 13, 1893,[45] commonly referred to and referred to hereinafter in this section as the Harter Act, and entitled, "An Act relating to navigation of vessels, bills of lading, and to certain obligations, duties, and rights in connection with the carriage of property."[46] The general

44. Wattson v. Marks, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,296, holding that under this section the personal liability of ship-owners on a contract of affreightment ceases upon a total destruction of the vessel and loss of freight before the completion of her voyage, although the actual damage to or loss of the goods to be carried, as in the case of theft, has taken place prior to the time of the destruction of the vessel.

For discussion of this act as limiting the liability of the owner to the value of the vessel and freight pending see infra, XI.

45. 27 U. S. St. at L. 445, c. 105, § 3 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2946].

46. The act is as follows: "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall not be lawful for the manager, agent, master, or owner of any vessel transporting merchandise or property from or between ports of the United States and foreign ports to insert in any bill of lading or shipping document any clause, covenant, or agreement whereby it, he, or they shall be relieved from liability for loss or damage arising from negligence, fault, or failure in proper loading, stowage, custody, care, or proper delivery of any and all lawful merchandise or property committed to its or their charge. Any and all words or clauses of such import inserted in bills of lading or shipping receipts shall be null and void and of no effect.

"Sec. 2. That it shall not be lawful for any vessel transporting merchandise or property from or between ports of the United States of America and foreign ports, her owner, master, agent, or manager, to insert in any bill of lading or shipping document any covenant or agreement whereby the obligations of the owner or owners of said vessel to exercise due diligence, properly equip, man, provision, and outfit said vessel, and to make said vessel seaworthy and capable of performing her intended voyage, or whereby the obligations of the master, officers, agents, or servants to carefully handle and stow her cargo and to care for and properly deliver the same, shall in any wise be lessened, weakened, or avoided.

"Sec. 3. That if the owner of any vessel transporting merchandise or property to or from any port in the United States of America shall exercise due diligence to make the said vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied, neither the vessel, her owner or owners, agent, or charterers shall become or be held responsible for damage or loss resulting from faults or errors in navigation or in the management of said vessel nor shall the vessel, her owner or owners, charterers, agent, or master be held liable for losses arising from dangers of the sea or other navigable waters, acts of God, or public enemies, or the inherent defect, quality, or vice of the thing carried, or from insufficiency of package, or seizure under legal process, or for loss resulting from any act or omission of the shipper or owner of the goods, his agent or representative, or from saving or attempting to save life or property at sea, or from any deviation in rendering such service.

"Sec. 4. That it shall be the duty of the owner or owners, masters, or agent of any vessel transporting merchandise or property from or between ports of the United States and foreign ports to issue to shippers of any lawful merchandise a bill of lading, or shipping document, stating, among other things, the marks necessary for identification, number of packages, or quantity, stating whether it be carrier's or shipper's weight, and apparent order or condition of such merchandise or property delivered to and received by the owner, master, or agent of the vessel for transportation, and such document shall be prima facie evidence of the receipt of the merchandise therein described.

"Sec. 5. That for a violation of any of the provisions of this act the agent, owner, or master of the vessel guilty of such violation, and who refuses to issue on demand the bill of lading herein provided for, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars. The amount of the fine and costs for such violation shall be a lien upon the vessel, whose agent, owner, or master is guilty of such violation, and such vessel may be libeled therefor in any district court of the United States, within whose jurisdiction the vessel may be found. One half of such penalty shall go to the party injured by such violation and the remainder to the Government of the United States.

"Sec. 6. That this act shall not be held to modify or repeal sections forty-two hundred and eighty-one, forty-two hundred and eighty-two, and forty-two hundred and eighty-three of the Revised Statutes of the United States, or any other statute defining the liability of vessels, their owners, or representatives.

"Sec. 7. Sections one and four of this act shall not apply to the transportation of live animals.

"Sec. 8. That this act shall take effect policy of the law is that the vessel owner must take the care required of experts in that business in all matters relating to the loading, stowage, custody, care, and proper delivery of the goods intrusted to it, and must exercise due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy in all the particulars which have been held to constitute seaworthiness; and that, if these requirements are met entirely, neither the vessel nor her owners shall be responsible even for faults or errors in navigation, nor for such accidents as have been held by the American decisions to be validly stipulated against in bills of lading.[47] The trend of judicial decision in the United States has been to construe the Harter Act strictly, and not to extend the carrier's exemption from liability to doubtful and uncertain cases, but to leave such liability as it was defined and enforced by the law maritime and by the common law, unless the act plainly and unequivocally asserts a different liability.[48] The act has no retroactive effect, so as to apply to damages occasioned before its passage,[49] and does not affect the relations of either the shipper or carrier to third persons.[50]

(II) Vessels to Which Act Applies. The act is applicable to foreign as well as American vessels,[51] the test as to vessels which come under the act being based not upon their nationality but upon their voyages;[52] and the act applies not only to voyages between American and foreign ports, but to all voyages from American ports, even though to other American ports;[53] and it seems that where a cargo is shipped on a vessel, properly manned and equipped, for transportation to another port and storage there, on board, even if the contract is maritime, the act would protect the owner from liability for damage caused by negligent management of the vessel while used for storage.[54]

(III) Section 3 — (A) Effect in General. The greatest amount of litigation under the act has centered around the third section.[55] This section does not relieve the owner from the duty of furnishing a seaworthy vessel at the beginning of the voyage, or affect his liability for damages to the cargo arising from unseaworthiness, but only exempts him from liability for damage arising from the risks therein designated when due diligence has been used to make the vessel seaworthy;[56] and the section cannot be invoked to relieve a vessel from liability for loss of cargo resulting from the gross fault or negligence of the master, sufficient to raise a presumption of his incompetency, merely upon a showing that the owners had no knowledge or reason to believe that he was incompetent, that being insufficient to establish the "due diligence" required by the statute, the burden of proving which, under such state of facts, rests on the vessel,[57] there being no expressed intention in the statute to replace the carrier's obligation under the general maritime law to furnish a seaworthy vessel by the less extensive obligation to exercise due diligence to that end and it cannot be extended by from and after the first day of July, eighteen hundred and ninety-three. Approved, February 13, 1893."

47. Hughes Adm. § 91. And see The Irrawady, 171 U. S. 187, 18 S. Ct. 831, 43 L. ed. 130; The Delaware, 161 U. S. 459, 16 S. Ct. 516, 40 L. ed. 771.

48. The Germanic, 124 Fed. 1, 59 C. C. A. 521 [affirming 107 Fed. 294, and affirmed in 196 U. S. 589, 25 S. Ct. 317, 49 L. ed. 610].

49. Humboldt Lumber Manufacturers' Assoc. v. Christopherson, 73 Fed. 239, 19 C. C. A. 48, 46 L. R. A. 264.

50. The Irrawaddy, 171 U. S. 187, 18 S. Ct. 831, 43 L. ed. 130; The Delaware, 161 U. S. 459, 16 S. Ct. 516, 40 L. ed. 771, holding that the act did not exempt a vessel from liability for collision with another vessel.

51. The Chattahoochee, 173 U. S. 540, 19 S. Ct. 491, 43 L. ed. 801 [affirming 74 Fed. 899, 21 C. C. A. 162] (holding that the third section of the act includes a foreign vessel carrying cargo from a foreign to an American port); Doherr v. The Etona, 64 Fed. 880.

52. Hughes Adm. § 93.

53. In re Piper Aden Goodall Co., 86 Fed. 670 (holding that the act applies to vessels engaged in commerce on the bay of San Francisco, and between different ports on the bay); The E. A. Shores, Jr., 73 Fed. 342.

54. Norton v. The Richard Winslow, 67 Fed. 259 [affirmed in 71 Fed. 426, 18 C. C. A. 344].

55. See supra, note 46.

56. Farr, etc., Mfg. Co. v. International Nav. Co., 94 Fed. 675 [affirmed in 98 Fed. 636, 39 C. C. A. 197 (affirmed in 181 U. S. 218, 21 S. Ct. 591, 45 L. ed. 830)]; The Sandfield, 92 Fed. 663, 34 C. C. A. 612 [affirming 79 Fed. 371].

57. The Cygnet, 126 Fed. 742, 61 C. C. A. 348.

construction beyond its terms;[58] and stipulations in a bill of lading cannot relieve a carrier from the discharge of his initial duty under the act, to use due diligence to furnish a seaworthy vessel.[59] But while the act does not by the force of its own terms reduce the warranty of seaworthiness to the duty to exercise due diligence,[60] the owner may by proper stipulation so reduce the warranty.[61]

(B) "Due Diligence" — (1) CONSTRUCTION OF TERM. To constitute due diligence on the part of a ship-owner to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy at the beginning of a voyage so as to entitle him to the benefit of the exemption contained in section 3, it is not sufficient to provide her with proper structures and equipment, but due diligence must also be exercised by the owner's servants in the use of such equipment before and up to the time of the beginning of the voyage;[62] and the statute does not require merely due diligence in respect to construction only, but also to inspection, maintenance, and repair;[63] and due diligence Burden of proving due diligence see infra, VII, D, 13, b, (III), (B), (2).

58. The Ninfa, 156 Fed. 512 (holding that the section does not exempt the vessel or owner from liability for the consequences of unseaworthiness, even though due diligence was exercised to make her seaworthy); The C. W. Elphicke, 117 Fed. 279 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 439] (holding that a ship-owner is not exempted by the Harter Act from liability for damages to cargo resulting from her unseaworthy condition at the commencement of the voyage, although it is shown that he exercised due diligence to make her in all respects seaworthy); The Catania, 107 Fed. 152; Insurance Co. of North America v. North German Lloyd Co., 106 Fed. 973; Farr, etc., Mfg. Co. v. International Nav. Co., 94 Fed. 675 [affirmed in 98 Fed. 636, 39 C. C. A. 197 (affirmed in 181 U. S. 218, 21 S. Ct. 591, 45 L. ed. 830)].

59. Martin v. The Southwark, 191 U. S. 1, 24 S. Ct. 1, 48 L. ed. 65 [reversing 108 Fed. 880, 48 C. C. A. 123].

60. The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181. And see cases cited supra, note 58.

61. See The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181. And see Hughes Adm. § 95.

62. The Ninfa, 156 Fed. 512; The Manitou, 127 Fed. 554, 63 C. C. A. 109 [affirming 116 Fed. 60] (where in a suit against a steamship to recover for damage to cargo during a voyage from London to New York, caused by the escape of steam through partially open valves, the finding of the trial court that the evidence on behalf of the claimant was insufficient to show that the valves were closed when the steamer sailed affirmed); The C. W. Elphicke, 117 Fed. 279 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 279] (holding that a ship-owner does not comply with the requirement of section 3 of the Harter Act, so as to be entitled to the exemptions therein provided, by merely furnishing proper equipment of the vessel prior to the commencement of the voyage, but he is bound to see that his servants exercise due diligence in its use to make the vessel seaworthy at the time the voyage commences).

The furnishing of a refrigerating apparatus in good order and repair, competent for the safe transportation of a cargo of dressed beef which a vessel has undertaken to carry, is within the obligation to use due diligence to provide a seaworthy vessel. Martin v. The Southwark, 191 U. S. 1, 24 S. Ct. 1, 48 L. ed. 65 [reversing 108 Fed. 880, 48 C. C. A. 123]; Nelson v. Nelson Line, [1907] 1 K. B. 788 note. But where butter was shipped upon defendant's vessel for carriage under bills of lading incorporating section 3 of the act, and was damaged on the voyage through negligent user of the refrigerating apparatus by some of the crew, the refrigerating apparatus was part of the vessel, and negligence in its management was a "fault or error in the management of the vessel," and therefore defendants were relieved from liability by the act. Rowson v. Atlantic Transport Co., [1903] 2 K. B. 666, 9 Aspin. 458, 9 Com. Cas. 33, 72 L. J. K. B. 811, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 204, 19 T. L. R. 668. It is competent for the parties, by express contract, to stipulate for the exemption of the carrier from liability for loss or damage to the cargo in consequence of latent defects in such apparatus which are not due to any fault or negligence on his part, or on the part of those for whom he is responsible. The Prussia, 93 Fed. 837, 35 C. C. A. 625.

Acts held not to constitute due diligence see The Brilliant, 159 Fed. 1022, 86 C. C. A. 671 [affirming 138 Fed. 743] (holding that failure to place a rose or screen on the lower end of the pipe to the water ballast tank to prevent the entrance of foreign substances which might foul the valve was a failure to exercise due diligence in equipment to make the ship seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, and rendered her liable for the damage); The Ninfa, 156 Fed. 512; The Valentine, 131 Fed. 352 (holding that where the owner of a vessel, while in her home port, permitted all of her crew to leave for the night, except the fireman, cook, and a deck hand, and permitted them to sleep without maintaining a proper watch, and the fires to be banked so that no steam was available to work the pumps in case of an emergency, he was guilty of negligence, rendering the vessel liable for loss of cargo by the sinking of the vessel from injuries caused by an ice jam, notwithstanding the act); The Catania, 107 Fed. 152.

63. The Ninfa, 156 Fed. 512; The Tenedos, to make a vessel seaworthy at the commencement of her voyage which will entitle the carrier to the exemption given by the section must be exercised in the work itself, and not merely in the selection of agents to do the work, and must be adequate to accomplish the result intended, except as to latent defects not discoverable by the utmost diligence.[64] Although the owners of a vessel have been adjudged exempt from liability for damage to the cargo resulting from a fire due to the negligence of one of the crew, under section 3 of the act, on the ground that they exercised due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy and in fit condition for the voyage, and were without personal negligence or fault, they cannot maintain an affirmative action against the owners of the cargo for contribution in general average to the ship's loss. But where they are invited to such an adjustment by an action brought by the sole owner of the cargo, the ship's loss must be taken into consideration, as the effect of excluding it would be to make the same act for which they are acquitted of responsibility by the statute the basis of an indirect recovery of a part of the damage which was in issue in the direct action.[65]

(2) Burden of Proof. The burden is on the ship-owner setting up exemption from liability, under the act, to prove that he exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied at the commencement of the voyage,[66] and such affirmative proof cannot be supplied by inference or presumptions;[67] and in order to absolve themselves from liability on the ground that they exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and "properly manned," to show that the master was not only competent, but that he was habitually diligent in attending to his duties, or that they had the right to so believe after the exercise of due diligence to ascertain his qualifications. There is no presumption that they exercised the required diligence, and, in the absence of any evidence on the subject, the vessel is liable for the consequences of the master's negligence or incompetency.[68]

(c) "Fault or Error in Navigation or Management of Vessel." The main question which has been litigated under the section is what acts constitute a fault in navigation or management of the ship and what acts do not, for the former relieve the owner from liability under the section,[69] and the latter do

151 Fed. 1022, 82 C. C. A. 671 [affirming 137 Fed. 443] (holding it failure to exercise due diligence where no inspection was made of a submerged port hole before leaving); Welsh v. The Alvena, 79 Fed. 973, 25 C. C. A. 261 [affirming 74 Fed. 252] (holding that, in the inspection prior to the voyage, a failure to take up one of four ceiling boards in a passageway over the limber spaces, underneath which a leak occurred, in order to examine the cement, was a lack of "due diligence" and "reasonable means" to make the ship seaworthy, and the carrier was not exempted either under the statute or bill of lading).

64. Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v. Insurance Co. of North America, 110 Fed. 420, 49 C. C. A. 1, holding that due diligence was not exercised to make a lighter seaworthy and fit for the business in which it was employed, where the seams were so improperly calked that they opened and admitted water into the hold when the boat was rocked by a slight swell from a passing steamer, the defect being one which could have been discovered by examination.

65. The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206. See also The Irrawaddy, 171 U. S. 187, 18 S. Ct. 831, 43 L. ed. 130. Compare The Chattahoochee, 173 U. S. 540, 19 S. Ct. 491, 43 L. ed. 801.

66. Levy v. Gibson Steamer Line, 130 Ga. 581, 61 S. E. 484; The Folmina, 212 U. S. 354, 29 S. Ct. 363, 53 L. ed. 546; The Wildcroft, 201 U. S. 378, 26 S. Ct. 467, 50 L. ed. 794; Martin v. The Southwark, 191 U. S. 1, 24 S. Ct. 1, 48 L. ed. 65 [reversing 108 Fed. 880, 48 C. C. A. 123]; The C. W. Elphicke, 117 Fed. 279 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 439, 58 C. C. A. 421].

67. Bradley v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 153 Fed. 350, 82 C. C. A. 426 [affirming 145 Fed. 569].

68. The Fri, 140 Fed. 123 [reversed on other grounds in 154 Fed. 333, 83 C. C. A. 205].

69. See cases cited infra, this note.

Injury to cargo has been held due to fault or error in navigation or in the management of the vessel in the case of damage to a cargo of molasses, through its dilution by sea water while being pumped out at the port of destination, it being affirmatively shown that the valve was in good condition and that it was properly closed when the cargo was loaded and at the commencement of the voyage (Sun Co. v. Healy, 163 Fed. 48, 89 C. C. A. 300); damage to a sugar cargo from fresh water which escaped into the hold where the sugar was stowed while the cargo was not.[70] The navigation and management of a vessel within the meaning of section 3 includes the determination of the time and manner of leaving port, which is the prerogative of the master; and where a vessel is seaworthy and in all respects properly manned, equipped, and supplied, the owners are not liable for a loss or damage to cargo due to a peril of the seas, even though the exposure to such peril was through being discharged, by reason of a valve having been improperly left open while water from the river was being pumped into the engine tank (The Wildcroft, 130 Fed. 521, 65 C. C. A. 145 [affirmed in 201 U. S. 378, 26 S. Ct. 467, 50 L. ed. 794]; injury to goods by reason of the barge on which they were loaded striking an obstruction in the river, the loss in such case resulting either from a danger of the river or from a fault or error in navigation or in the management of the vessel (The Nettie Quill, 124 Fed. 667); leakage caused by leaving the sea valve open (American Sugar Refining Co. v. Rickinson, 124 Fed. 188, 59 C. C. A. 604 [reversing 120 Fed. 591]); failure to use the pumps (The Merida, 107 Fed. 146, 46 C. C. A. 208); lack of proper attention to a vessel's pumps, which might have disclosed a leak, and prevented damage which resulted therefrom to the cargo (The British King, 92 Fed. 1018, 35 C. C. A. 159 [affirming 89 Fed. 872]; failure of those in charge of a vessel, before removing water ballast through a pipe passing through cargo compartments, to test the valves by the means provided to ascertain whether they were closed (The Mexican Prince, 91 Fed. 1003, 34 C. C. A. 168 [affirming 82 Fed. 484]); or an error of judgment of the master in a port of distress as to the extent of repairs necessary, where he exercised diligence and care, and acts in good faith (The Guadeloupe, 92 Fed. 670). The loss has also been held attributable to this cause, where during the discharge of a cargo water was admitted into one of the water-ballast tanks of the vessel in order to stiffen her, but, owing to straining during exceptionally heavy weather on the voyage, a sounding pipe communicating with the tank had been broken, and the water, forcing its way up the sounding pipe, escaped into the hold, and damaged the cargo through omission of the engineer (The Glenochil, [1896] p. 10, 8 Aspin. 219, 65 L. J. Adm. 1, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 1); where opening of a sluice gate designed to empty the bilges was neglected for days during heavy weather, and the accumulating water overflowed the bilges, and damaged the cargo properly stowed in the hold (The Sandfield, 92 Fed. 663, 34 C. C. A. 612 [affirming 79 Fed. 371]); where the ballast tank of an ocean steamer sprang a leak during a voyage, and the water accumulated in the hold above in sufficient quantity to damage the cargo stowed therein, and the leak was known to the engineer and carpenter, who failed to report it to the chief officer, to give it a proper examination, or to use the pumps with sufficient frequency to prevent the accumulation of water in the hold, and the pump was sufficient, and the proper use of it would have prevented injury to the cargo (The Ontario, 106 Fed. 324). A change of course and the determination of the master to proceed without putting in for repairs are matters pertaining to the "navigation and management of the vessel," and assuming the vessel to have been in all respects seaworthy, and properly manned, equipped, and supplied at the beginning of the voyage, she was exempted by the act from liability for the damage caused or contributed to by the failure to repair. Corsar v. J. D. Spreckels, etc., Co., 141 Fed. 260, 72 C. C. A. 378.

70. See cases cited infra, this note.

Injury to cargo has been held not due to fault or error in navigation or management of the vessel in the case of damage from the sinking of a ship after arriving in port, due to hurried and imprudent unloading, which brought the center of gravity of the ship too high for safety (The Germanic, 124 Fed. 1, 59 C. C. A. 521 [affirmed in 196 U. S. 589, 25 S. Ct. 317, 49 L. ed. 610]) where, during the unloading of a barge in the usual manner, which caused an uneven keel for a few hours, she sprang a leak, and the remaining cargo was damaged by water (Donaldson v. J. W. Perry Co., 138 Fed. 643, 71 C. C. A. 93). Failure to have a mechanical fog horn in good condition for use at the commencement of a voyage shows want of due diligence in equipping the vessel, and is not a fault in her management. Stahl v. The Niagara, 84 Fed. 902, 28 C. C. A. 528 [affirming 77 Fed. 329].

Where a ship starts on a voyage with a port negligently left open, causing damage to cargo, her owners are liable for failing to provide a ship seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, and are not protected on the ground that the fault was one in navigation or the management of the vessel, although proper appliances for closing the ports were furnished (The Tenedos, 151 Fed. 1022, 82 C. C. A. 671 [affirming 137 Fed. 443]; The Manitoba, 104 Fed. 145; Farr, etc., Mfg. Co. v. International Nav. Co., 98 Fed. 636, 39 C. C. A. 197 [affirmed in 181 U. S. 218, 21 S. Ct. 591, 45 L. ed. 830]), and this rule is especially applicable where the ports were so located as to be submerged when the vessel was fully loaded (The Tenedos, supra), or where the port hole is left open and goods so packed against it as to make its closing impossible without moving cargo (Dobell v. The Rossmore, [1895] 2 Q. B. 408, 8 Aspin. 83, 64 L. J. Q. B. 777, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 74, 14 Reports 558, 44 Wkly. Rep. 37); but where a port hole itself without defect is designedly left open while the vessel is loading and care taken not to block it with cargo, so that it can if necessary be closed at sea and the crew forget to close it in consequence of which the cargo is injured, the fault is one of navigation and does not render the vessel unseaworthy or the owner liable (The Silvia, 171 U. S. 462, 19 S. Ct. 7, 43 L. ed. 241). An the fault of the master in failing to ascertain or heed the warnings of the weather bureau before starting on the voyage;[71] but this provision of the act does not concern the proper stowage of cargo at the port of lading,[72] or failure to properly cover a hatch to prevent leakage,[73] or to use proper care for the protection of the cargo,[74] or improper loading,[75] or unloading and delivery,[76] nor to the manner of construction,[77] or the careening and sinking of a vessel at the pier before she was fully loaded, due to the negligence of a watchman in failing to adjust her lines to permit her to drop with the tide;[78] and robbery or theft of cargo by those on board cannot be made a ground of exemption from liability of a vessel under the act;[79] but thefts by persons not connected with the vessel may be stipulated against if no negligence in watching appears.[80] The section relieves the owner from liability for injury arising from an inherent defect of the thing carried,[81] and applies in a case where the question of liability arises in a proceeding by the owner for limitation of liability as well as in a direct action against him;[82] but to entitle the ship-owner to exemption from liability under the third section of the act the damage must have resulted from the causes therein specified; and if the causes of the loss are several, one of which is negligence of the carrier not within that section, and that negligence, and not the sea peril, would, under the settled rules of construction as between ship and shipper, be deemed the efficient cause of the loss, then the exemption of the statute does not apply.[83]

open port is a latent defect within the meaning of a bill of lading. See infra, VII, D, 14, a, (I), and cases there cited.

71. Hanson v. Haywood Bros., etc., Co., 152 Fed. 401, 81 C. C. A. 527.

72. The Palmas, 108 Fed. 87, 47 C. C. A. 220; The Catania, 107 Fed. 152.

A stipulation in a bill of lading that, if any goods cannot be found during the steamer's stay at the port of delivery, they should be forwarded at the earliest opportunity, without liability of the ship for delay or otherwise, is invalid, under the act, as applied to a case where goods were negligently stowed and no effort was made to find them, and they were subsequently lost at sea. Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 170 U. S. 272, 18 S. Ct. 588, 42 L. ed. 1033 [reversing 69 Fed. 574, 16 C. C. A. 332]; The Mississippi, 120 Fed. 1020, 56 C. C. A. 525 [affirming 113 Fed. 985].

73. The Mississippi, 120 Fed. 1020, 56 C. C. A. 525 [affirming 113 Fed. 985].

74. The Musselcrag, 125 Fed. 786.

75. The Oneida, 128 Fed. 687, 63 C. C. A. 239 [reversing 108 Fed. 886] (holding that where a ship started on her voyage with a list of eight or nine degrees, which increased to such an extent, in consequence of her improper loading, that it was imprudent to proceed, and she put in at an intermediate port, and having opened a port to readjust the cargo while lying at a pier, the ship gave a sudden lurch, which brought the port under water, and she sank, damaging her cargo, the damage was attributable to her initial instability, which rendered her unseaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, and for the consequences of which the owners were not exempted from liability by the act).

76. Donaldson v. J. W. Perry Co., 138 Fed. 643, 71 C. C. A. 93; The Germanic, 124 Fed. 1, 59 C. C. A. 521 [affirming 107 Fed. 294, and affirmed in 196 U. S. 589, 25 S. Ct. 317, 49 L. ed. 610].

It is the duty of a ship to pay attention to any extraordinary circumstances that evidently affect her stability while discharging, and to regulate her mode of discharge accordingly, so as not to endanger the cargo, and negligence in such regard, which results in damage to cargo, is not a fault in the "management of the ship," within the exemption of the third section of the act, but rather in the care or proper delivery of the cargo, within the meaning of the first section, from which she is not exempt from liability. The Germanic, 107 Fed. 294 [affirmed in 124 Fed. 1, 59 C. C. A. 521 (affirmed in 196 U. S. 589, 25 S. Ct. 317, 49 L. ed. 610)].

77. Parsons v. Empire Transp. Co., 111 Fed. 202, 49 C. C. A. 302, where a barge was held unseaworthy, from the manner of her construction, for a voyage between St. Michael and Nome, Alaska, in October, and her owner for that reason not entitled to exemption under section 3 of the Harter Act, from liability for the loss of cargo taken on board for such a voyage.

78. Ralli v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 154 Fed. 286, 83 C. C. A. 290.

79. The Seneca, 163 Fed. 591.

80. Spinetti v. Atlas Steamship Co., 80 N. Y. 71, 36 Am. Rep. 579; Cunard Steamship Co. v. Kelly, 115 Fed. 678, 53 C. C. A. 310; The Saratoga, 20 Fed. 869; Taylor v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., L. R. 9 Q. B. 546, 2 Aspin. 275, 43 L. J. Q. B. 205, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 714, 22 Wkly. Rep. 752.

81. The M. C. Currie, 132 Fed. 125.

82. In re California Nav., etc., Co., 110 Fed. 678.

83. Putnam v. The Manitoba, 104 Fed. 145, holding that where a bill of lading adopted the exemptions from liability for loss contained in the act, a provision that the exemptions therein "shall apply not only during

14. Limitation of Liability by Contract or Bill of Lading — a. Power to Limit and Matters to Which Limitation May Extend — (i) General Rules. The general rules governing the limiting of a carrier's liability [84] apply to water carriage of goods, and thus the rule is that by special agreement with the shipper or his agent,[85] or by notice to the shipper acquiesced in by him,[86] the common carrier may limit his liability to a reasonable extent,[87] as against fire happening after unloading,[88] jettison,[89] collisions,[90] leakage and break-the loading and voyage, but during the discharge and until the goods are actually delivered to the consignee," did not extend the ship-owner's exemptions so as to exclude liability for losses resulting from the unseaworthy condition of the ship, this not being an exemption under the statute.

84. See Carriers, 6 Cyc. 385.

85. Hus v. Kempf, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,943, 10 Ben. 231, holding that where the owner of goods instructs a broker to ship the goods by the first steamer going to a particular port, but gives no instructions as to the contract of shipment, such broker may bind the owner to the usual stipulation in the bill of lading limiting the carrier's liability.

86. Merriman v. The May Queen, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,481, Newb. Adm. 464 (holding that where glass cases were safely placed on board by the maker, not the shipper, to whom one of the ship's officers remarked that the ship would not be liable for breakage, and on the bill of lading was stamped these words: "Goods to be receipted for on the levee — not responsible for rust, breakage, leakage, cooperage — weight and contents unknown," there was not such a special agreement between the carrier and shipper as would limit the former's responsibility); Borthwick v. Elderslie Steamship Co., [1904] 1 K. B. 319, 9 Aspin. 513, 9 Com. Cas. 126, 73 L. J. K. B. 240, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 187, 20 T. L. R. 184, 52 Wkly. Rep. 439 [affirmed in [1905] A. C. 93, 10 Aspin. 25, 10 Com. Cas. 109, 74 L. J. K. B. 338, 92 L. T. Rep. N. S. 274, 21 T. L. R. 277, 53 Wkly. Rep. 401]. See, generally, Carriers, 6 Cyc. 403 et seq.

87. Adams Express Co. v. Fendrick, 38 Ind. 150; Gordon v. Littel, 8 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 533, 11 Am. Dec. 632; Montague v. The Henry B. Hyde, 82 Fed. 681 [affirmed in 90 Fed. 114, 32 C. C. A. 534] (holding that, in the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary, a carrier of goods may, by special contract, contained in the bill of lading, stipulate for a more limited liability than that which the law would otherwise impose upon him).

Act Cong. March 3, 1851, entitled "An act to limit the liability of ship-owners and for other purposes," permitting parties to make their own contracts in regard to liabilities of the owners, refers to express contracts, and not to those implied by usage or custom. Walker v. Western Transp. Co., 3 Wall. (U. S.) 150, 18 L. ed. 172. The proviso in the act that nothing contained in the act should prevent parties contracting as they pleased as to extending or limiting ship-owners' liability as carriers, is not reënacted in the Revised Statutes; and, as a portion of the section is embraced in a section of the Revision, the said proviso is repealed by force of the general repealing section (section 5596). The Montana, 22 Fed. 715, 22 Blatchf. 372 [affirmed in 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788].

A ship is relieved from liability for a shortage in weight of a shipment in bales under a bill of lading containing the clause, "Not responsible for weight, nor quality, nor for loose bales," where it shows that all the bales were delivered. The La Kroma, 138 Fed. 936.

The dressed meat clause in a bill of lading for dressed meats to be transported across the Atlantic, which provides that the carrier shall not be responsible for any loss or damage arising from break-down or injury to the ship's refrigerator or machinery, even though arising from defect existing at or previous to the commencement of the voyage, is in violation of the Harter Act and does not relieve the carrier from liability arising from such causes unless the latter proves that he has exerted all due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy and the refrigerating apparatus fit for the purpose for which intended. The burden of proving such seaworthiness and fitness at the commencement of the voyage rests upon the owner, and if the apparatus suddenly breaks down within three hours after the boat sails this raises a presumption that it was not fit at the time the ship sailed. The Southwark, 191 U. S. 1, 24 S. Ct. 1, 48 L. ed. 65.

A stipulation that the carrier may convey goods in lighters to and from the ship at the risk of the owner of the goods does not apply to risks arising out of the unfitness of a lighter. Insurance Co. of North America v. North German Lloyd Co., 106 Fed. 973.

88. Constable v. National Steamship Co., 154 U. S. 51, 14 S. Ct. 1062, 38 L. ed. 903 [affirming 29 Fed. 184], holding that where a steamship company provides a wharf with a covered warehouse into which cargo is discharged, and the time and place of discharge are easily ascertainable by consignees, an exemption in its bills of lading from liability for fire happening after unloading is reasonable and valid.

89. Antola v. Gill, 7 Fed. 487, 5 Hughes 284, holding that with regard to a deck load of live cattle this limitation of the ship-owner's liability was not unreasonable or against public policy.

90. Burroughs v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 100 Mass. 26, 1 Am. Rep. 78; The Victory, 168 U. S. 410, 18 S. Ct. 149, 42 L. ed. 519, holding also that the burden was on the shipper age,[91] rust or corrosion,[92] heating,[93] improper stowage, unless negligent,[94] thieves or robbers,[95] latent defects,[96] perils of navigation,[97] or any loss capable of being covered by insurance;[98] and a provision in a contract of affreightment relieving the carrier from all liability unless notice of the loss is presented[99] or suit to defeat the operation of the exception in the bills of lading by proof of such negligence on her part as would justify a decree against her.

91. The Claverburn, 147 Fed. 850 (holding that a provision of a bill of lading that the ship-owner shall not be liable for loss by leakage protects him as to all leakage, however great, unless caused by negligence); The Lennox, 90 Fed. 308; The Henry B. Hyde, 90 Fed. 114, 32 C. C. A. 534 [affirming 82 Fed. 681]; The Jefferson, 31 Fed. 489.

The burden of proof under a libel alleging injury to goods in shipment from breakage, where the bill of lading exempted the carrier from liability from breakage, is on the libellant to show that the breakage occurred through negligence. The Lennox, 90 Fed. 308; The Henry B. Hyde, 90 Fed. 114, 32 C. C. A. 534 [affirming 82 Fed. 681].

92. Wolff v. The Vanderland, 18 Fed. 733.

93. The New Orleans, 26 Fed. 44.

94. Bond v. Federal Steam Nav. Co., 21 T. L. R. 438 [affirmed in 22 T. L. R. 685]; Glengoil Steamship Co. v. Pilkington, 28 Can. Sup. Ct. 146; Trainor v. Black Diamond Steamship Co., 16 Can. Sup. Ct. 156. See Rubens v. Ludgate Hill Steamship Co., 20 N. Y. Suppl. 481. But see The Orcadian, 116 Fed. 930, holding that a ship-owner is not relieved from liability for injury to goods caused by improper stowage by a limitation of liability in the bill of lading declaring that the vessel shall not be answerable for damage caused by any act or omission, negligence, malfeasance, default, or error of judgment of the stevedores or other persons in the service of the ship-owners; improper stowage, whether due to carelessness or a mistake in judgment on the part of the stevedores, being a fault in improperly loading the cargo for which the vessel is liable.

95. The Saratoga, 20 Fed. 869.

96. The Prussia, 93 Fed. 837, 35 C. C. A. 625.

Patent defects are not excepted under a bill of lading excepting latent defects. The Waikato v. New Zealand Shipping Co., [1899] 1 Q. B. 56, 8 Aspin. 442, 4 Com. Cas. 10, 68 L. J. Q. B. 1, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 326, 15 T. L. R. 33.

97. The Montana, 22 Fed. 715, 22 Blatchf. 372.

98. The Egypt, 25 Fed. 320; The Titania, 19 Fed. 101, holding that a clause in a bill of lading that the ship-owner shall "not be liable for any damage to goods capable of being covered by insurance" refers only to insurance obtainable of the ordinary insurance companies, in the usual course of business, or on special application, and not to insurance which might possibly be obtained in special or peculiar insurance associations, and is a valid exception. But see Price v. Union Lighterage Co., [1903] 1 K. B. 750, 9 Aspin. 398, 8 Com. Cas. 155, 72 L. J. K. B. 374, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 428, 19 T. L. R. 328, 51 Wkly. Rep. 477 [affirmed in [1904] 1 K. B. 412, 9 Com. Cas. 120, 73 L. J. K. B. 222, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 731, 20 T. L. R. 177, 52 Wkly. Rep. 325], holding that where goods belonging to plaintiffs were carried in one of defendant's barges under a contract containing a clause that defendant would not be liable "for any loss or damage to goods which can be covered by insurance," and owing to negligence on the part of defendants' lighterman, the barge sank and plaintiffs' goods were lost, the exemption, being in general terms, did not relieve defendants from the duty of exercising reasonable skill and care, and that they were therefore liable.

99. The Queen of the Pacific, 180 U. S. 49, 21 S. Ct. 278, 45 L. ed. 419 [reversing 94 Fed. 180, 36 C. C. A. 135] (holding that a stipulation, in a bill of lading for goods carried by ship, that all claims for damages against the steamship company or its stock-holders must be presented within thirty days, applies to a libel against the ship itself, as well as to claims in personam against the owners, and that the stipulation in a bill of lading for goods carried by ship from San Francisco to San Pedro is not unreasonable as applied to a loss which was known to the consignors more than three weeks before the expiration of the stipulated time, since the enforcement of the stipulation in such a case would not work a manifest injustice); The Niceto, 134 Fed. 655 (holding that a provision of a bill of lading that the carrier shall not be liable for any claim for loss or damage "unless presented within 48 hours after landing of, or failure to deliver, the goods" does not preclude a recovery for shortage of cargo, although no claim therefor was made within the specified time after discharge, where the ship placed the cargo in store, taking receipts therefor, and as soon as the shortage came to the attention of the consignee it presented a claim therefor to the agent of the line in whose name the bill of lading was issued, who admitted liability); The Arctic Bird, 109 Fed. 167 (holding that a provision of a bill of lading requiring such presentation within ten days after the shipper has notice of the loss or injury is reasonable, and will be enforced); The Naranja, 104 Fed. 160 (stipulation that notice of claim should be given twenty-four hours after discharge); Angel v. Cunard Steamship Co., 55 Fed. 1005.

Notice of damage by water held sufficient to cover damage by odor of oil see The Thames, 61 Fed. 1014, 10 C. C. A. 232.

Sufficient compliance with condition.—A provision of a bill of lading that the vessel should not be liable for damage to the cargo unless written claim for the loss should be made within thirty days is sufficiently com-brought [1] within a specified time is valid unless the time named is so short as to be against public policy,[2] as is also a provision that inflammable goods may be transported on deck at shipper's risk.[3] But like other carriers,[4] a carrier of goods by water cannot lawfully stipulate for exemption from responsibility for his own negligence or the negligence of his servants,[5] such as negligent navigaplied with by a letter sent to the carrier within thirty days by the proctor for the cargo owner, stating that he held a claim for damage to the cargo for collection, where both parties had actual knowledge of the damage at the time of discharge (The D. Harvey, 139 Fed. 755); and notice of a claim for damage to cargo given by the consignee as soon as the cargo was delivered and the damage was known, and while the vessel was still in port, is sufficient where the damage was already known to the owners of the vessel or their agents, notwithstanding a provision of the bill of lading that the owners should not be liable "for any damage to any goods . . . notice of which is not given before the removal of the goods," such provision not being binding unless under the circumstances it was reasonable (The Persiana, 156 Fed. 1019).

A provision releasing the owners from any claim, notice of which is not given before the removal of the goods, is to be construed as requiring such notice to be given before the removal of the goods from the dock, and imposes a valid condition precedent to the right to recover for damage to cargo either against the owners personally, or by a suit in rem, where, under the circumstances of the case, such condition is just and reasonable, as where the damage was known when the cargo was discharged (The Westminster, 127 Fed. 680, 62 C. C. A. 406 [affirming 116 Fed. 123]; The St. Hubert, 107 Fed. 727, 46 C. C. A. 603); and a failure to comply with such condition is not excused by the fact that the ship had knowledge of the damage, the purpose of the requirement being to advise the owners that they are charged with liability therefor (The St. Hubert, supra); and when the failure to give such notice is set up by the owner as a defense, the burden rests upon libellant to prove the notice, as a condition to the right of recovery, it being an affirmative fact peculiarly within his knowledge (The Westminster, supra). The failure of the owners to insist on the condition in other cases does not constitute a waiver in favor of libellant, where it is not shown that he knew and was misled by it. The Westminster, supra.

Where a vessel was being operated by time charterers and bills of lading were issued by the master under the terms of the charter, the charterers became agents of the owners for the purpose of receiving notice of a claim for damage to cargo required to be given by a bill of lading. The Persiana, 156 Fed. 1019.

1. Ginn v. Ogdensburg Transit Co., 85 Fed. 985, 29 C. C. A. 521, holding a stipulation in a bill of lading against liability for loss or damage unless suit shall be brought within three months valid.

Limitation of rule; waiver.— Provisions of bills of lading requiring claims for loss or damage to cargo to be presented to the carrier within a stated time, and barring any suit for such loss or damage unless commenced within a further stated time, will be enforced by the courts only so far as they are reasonable under the circumstances of the particular case, and such requirements may also be waived by the carrier by his conduct. Pacific Coast Co. v. Yukon Independent Transp. Co., 155 Fed. 29, 83 C. C. A. 625, where it was held that libellant had made reasonable compliance with the terms of the bills of lading as to notice, and that the delay in bringing suit was waived by the carrier by entertaining the claim and continuing negotiations for its settlement.

2. The Queen of the Pacific, 61 Fed. 213.

3. A. J. Tower Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 195 Mass. 157, 80 N. E. 809, holding that where the evidence showed a custom to treat oil clothing as inflammable, and when carried by water to transport it on deck, the carrier was not liable for the loss of the goods in consequence of the same being washed overboard.

4. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 387 et seq.

5. The Orcadian, 116 Fed. 930 (holding that a provision in a bill of lading relieving a ship-owner from liability for the negligence of stevedores and persons in his employ is ineffective, and will not be enforced in the federal courts of admiralty); The Manitou, 116 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 127 Fed. 554, 63 C. C. A. 109] (holding that exemptions in a bill of lading which are brought into operation by the negligence of the ship-owner or his servants are not enforceable in the courts of this country); Schulze-Berge v. The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796; The Hugo, 57 Fed. 403 [modified on other grounds in 61 Fed. 860]; The Montana, 22 Fed. 715, 22 Blatchf. 372; The Hadji, 20 Fed. 875 (holding that public policy demands that the right of the shipper to absolute security against the negligence of the carrier, and of all persons engaged in performing his duty, shall not be taken away by any arrangement or agreement between the parties to the service); The Isabella, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,099, 8 Ben. 139 (holding that therefore a stipulation for exemption from liability from damages by rats, where due diligence is not used to guard against injury, will be disregarded).

Negligence of master or mariner.—An exception in bills of lading against loss "by any act, neglect, or default of the master or mariners" is invalid. The Saratoga, 20 Fed. 869; The Hindoo, 1 Fed. 627.

Exemptions for negligence, contracted for in a foreign port on a foreign vessel, although valid where made, will not excuse torts and consequent damage occurring within our ter-

tion,[6] or negligent stowage;[7] and where the liability of the vessel is limited by a condition impossible of execution, such condition becomes nugatory, and the general liability of carriers for the non-delivery of freight attaches.[8] A stipulation in a bill of lading exempting the carrier, although valid under the law of the flag, will not be upheld by the courts of this country if against our public policy;[9] but although a stipulation for exemption from liability be in part in contravention of law, yet such portion as is otherwise valid may be enforced.[10]

(II) Under Harter Act Sections 1 and 2. Under the first two sections of the Harter Act[11] it is unlawful to insert in bills of lading provisions releasing from liability for negligence or lack of due care.[12] This includes negligent loading,[13] or stowage of the cargo;[14] and if taking a cargo to a vessel in lighters be part of the loading of a vessel, a stipulation in the bill of lading relieving the carrier from failure to provide a fit lighter is prohibited;[15] and the parties cannot insert stipulations determining what shall constitute a proper delivery any further than shall appear reasonable under the circumstances, and no such stipulation could cover negligence in receiving and stowing the goods, or in making a search for them at the port of delivery, whereby the goods are carried past the port and not delivered.[16] The act is broad enough to render void a clause of a bill of lading by which the shipper waives any lien upon the vessel for any breach thereof, where it is attempted to set up such clause as a defense to a libel in rem to recover for loss or damage to cargo arising from negligence of the carrier;[17] and a stipulation that the law of the ship's flag shall govern, in a bill of lading for goods in a foreign vessel on a voyage from a foreign port to the United States, is nullified and overridden by the section of the act which prohibits contracts against liability for negligence in loading and stowing the cargo.[18] The act does not prevent an owner from stipulating against liability for loss by latent defects, provided he ritorial jurisdiction. The Kensington, 88 Fed. 331 [reversed on other grounds in 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190].

Burden of proof.—Where injury to cargo resulted from a clause excepted in the bill of lading, the carrier cannot be held responsible, unless his negligence is affirmatively shown (The St. Quentin, 162 Fed. 883, 89 C. C. A. 573, holding that where a shipment of shellac made under a bill of lading, excepting liability for loss or damage from heat, was injured by being subjected to an unusually high degree of heat, which caused it to fuse together, such fact alone is not sufficient to establish the negligence of the vessel, it being shown that it might occur without negligence, especially during the particular passage, and that the shellac was stowed in a particularly well-ventilated part of the vessel; The Claverburn, 147 Fed. 850. But see The Southwark, 191 U. S. 1, 24 S. Ct. 1, 48 L. ed. 65 [reversing 108 Fed. 880, 48 C. C. A. 123]); but the burden rests upon the carrier to prove that damage to cargo, occurring after its receipt and before its delivery, was due to a peril of the sea, within the exemption contained in its bills of lading (The Frey, 106 Fed. 319, 45 C. C. A. 309).

6. The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373.

7. The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373.

8. Turnbull v. Citizens' Bank, 16 Fed. 145, 4 Woods 193.

9. The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373. And see, generally, supra, VII, A, 2.

10. The Prussia, 88 Fed. 531.

11. See supra, VII, D, 13, b, (I) note 46.

12. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375.

A bill of lading held to contain no provisions violative of sections 1 and 2 of the act see U. S. v. Cobb, 163 Fed. 791.

13. Bethel v. Mellor, etc., Co., 131 Fed. 129.

14. The Hudson, 122 Fed. 96; The Mississippi, 120 Fed. 1020, 56 C. C. A. 525 [affirming 113 Fed. 985] (holding a ship liable for damages to cargo, resulting from negligence in stowage, or in failing to properly cover a hatch to prevent leakage, notwithstanding any stipulations to the contrary in the bills of lading); Botany Worsted Mills v. Knott, 82 Fed. 471, 27 C. C. A. 326 [affirmed in 179 U. S. 69, 21 S. Ct. 30, 45 L. ed. 90].

15. The Seaboard, 119 Fed. 375; Insurance Co. of North America v. North German Lloyd Co., 106 Fed. 973.

16. Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 64 Fed. 874 [affirmed on this point but reversed on other grounds in 170 U. S. 272, 18 S. Ct. 588, 42 L. ed. 1033].

17. The Tampico, 151 Fed. 689, holding also that such a provision of a bill of lading is void, independently of statute, as against public policy, in that it would deprive the shipper in advance of one of the remedies given him by the law for a breach of the contract.

18. The Kensington, 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190; Botany Worsted Mills v. Knott, 82 Fed. 471, 27 C. C. A. 326 [affirmed in 179 U. S. 69, 21 S. Ct. 30, 45 L. ed. 90]. And see, generally, supra, VII, D, 6.

uses due diligence at the commencement of the voyage to make the vessel seaworthy;[19] and a general clause in a bill of lading, exempting a ship-owner from liability for loss of goods while on the quay, or loss by thieves, is not to be construed as applying to cases where such loss arises through the carrier's negligence or failure in proper custody or care, so as to render it invalid under the act, nor is it rendered void, under such provision, by a subsequent clause extending all exemption provisions to cases of negligence, the two clauses being separable; but the carrier is entitled to the benefit of the exemption, unless it is found that its negligence or fault contributed to the loss.[20] When a charter-party gives to the charterer the full capacity of the ship, the owner is not a common carrier, but a bailee to transport as a private carrier for hire, and a condition in such a contract, to which the Harter Act has no application, exempting the ship-owner from liability on account of the carelessness of its employees, is not contrary to public policy.[21] The Harter Act, making it unlawful to insert in bills of lading provisions relieving from liability for negligence, or to refuse to issue bills of lading containing certain statements, and subjecting violators to a fine, is a criminal statute, and such violators may be prosecuted by indictment;[22] but a suit for the penalty will only lie for the party injured.[23]

(III) Limitation of Amount of Liability.[24] A provision in a bill of lading that the ship-owner is not to be liable for any damage to the goods in any case for more than the invoice or declared value of the goods is reasonable, and will be enforced in case of damage to the goods;[25] and in accepting the bills of lading, the shipper accepts the terms of the contract they contain;[26] and a stipulation that the carrier will not be responsible for certain specified articles of value contained in any package shipped under the bill of lading, unless the value thereof be expressed and extra freight paid therefor, being expressly authorized by statute,[27] will be upheld if reasonable;[28] but a provision in a bill of lading limiting a carrier's liability to the value of the goods at the place of shipment does not

19. The Prussia, 93 Fed. 837, 35 C. C. A. 625 (holding that a stipulation in a contract for the transportation of frozen meat, exempting the carrier from liability for loss or damage to the cargo in consequence of latent defects in such apparatus, which is not due to any fault or negligence on his part, is not in violation of section 2 of the act); Wuppermann v. The Carib Prince, 68 Fed. 254, 15 C. C. A. 385 [reversed in 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181, but upon the ground no such contract was in fact proved].

The act has no retroactive effect, so as to affect bills of lading executed at a time when the law declared stipulations against liability for negligent navigation to be void as against public policy. The Energia, 66 Fed. 604, 13 C. C. A. 653.

20. Cunard Steamship Co. v. Kelley, 115 Fed. 678, 53 C. C. A. 310.

21. The Maine, 161 Fed. 401 [reversed on other grounds in 170 Fed. 915]; The Fri, 154 Fed. 333, 83 C. C. A. 205 [reversing 140 Fed. 123]. See also McCormick v. Shippy, 124 Fed. 48, 59 C. C. A. 568; Golcar Steamship Co. v. Tweedie Trading Co., 146 Fed. 563.

22. U. S. v. Cobb, 163 Fed. 791, holding that an indictment under such act averring that such bill was issued by defendant, and setting out a copy of such bill, from which it appears that defendant's name was signed thereto "per" another, it is unnecessary to allege that it was so signed, by defendant's authority; that being matter of proof.

23. The Minnehaha, 114 Fed. 672.

24. See, generally, Carriers, 6 Cyc. 398 et seq.

25. U. S. Lace Curtain Mills v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 145 Fed. 701; Pearse v. Quebec Steamship Co., 24 Fed. 285 (holding that the clause should be construed, not as a condition of any liability at all, but as a limitation of the extent of the carrier's liability, and as applying distributively upon each article damaged, and he is to be held liable in the sense of being accountable, for no more than the invoice value of the goods damaged); The Lydian Monarch, 23 Fed. 298 [following The Hadji, 18 Fed. 459]; Hart v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 7 Fed. 630, 2 McCrary 333 [affirmed in 112 U. S. 331, 5 S. Ct. 151, 28 L. ed. 717]. See also The Styria, 101 Fed. 728, 41 C. C. A. 639 [modified on other grounds in 186 U. S. 1].

26. The Aline, 25 Fed. 562, 23 Blatchf. 335.

27. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4281 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2942].

28. Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 69 Fed. 574, 16 C. C. A. 332 [affirming 64 Fed. 874, but reversed in 170 U. S. 272, 18 S. Ct. 588, 42 L. ed. 1033, because the clause was construed as attempting to exempt entirely from loss of packages over one hundred dollars and not merely as limiting recovery to one hundred dollars]; The Bermuda, 29 Fed. 399, 23 Blatchf. 554; The Denmark, 27 Fed. 141.

relieve it from a greater liability for a loss occurring through the negligence of the shipper in using an unseaworthy vessel;[29] and a stipulation exempting the carrier from liability for loss of goods which are above a specified value per package, unless their value is expressed in the bill of lading, is intended to release the carrier from any liability for packages worth more than the specified value, and not merely for the excess over the specified value, and is therefore void under the Harter Act as well as the general maritime law.[30]

b. Construction, Operation, and Effect — (i) General Rules. The rules governing the construction of contracts generally[31] apply to contracts limiting liability of ship-owners.[32] Stipulation will not be construed to protect 29. Lowenstein v. Lombard, 164 N. Y. 324, 58 N. E. 44 [reversing 17 N. Y. App. Div. 408, 45 N. Y. Suppl. 286].

30. Calderon v. Atlas Steamship Co., 170 U. S. 272, 18 S. Ct. 588, 42 L. ed. 1033 [reversing 69 Fed. 574, 16 C. C. A. 332]; U. S. Lace Curtain Mills v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 145 Fed. 701.

31. See Contracts, 9 Cyc. 577 et seq.

32. See cases cited infra, this and the following notes.

Particular stipulations construed see Spinetti v. Atlas Steamship Co., 80 N. Y. 71, 36 Am. Rep. 579 [reversing 14 Hun 100] (holding that under a steamship bill of lading for a quantity of gold coin, which exempted the carrier from liability for any loss from "barratry of master or mariners," the purser was a "mariner," so that the exemption clause as to "barratry" applied to him); Compania de Navigacion La Flecha v. Brauer, 168 U. S. 104, 18 S. Ct. 12, 42 L. ed. 398 (where an exception, in a bill of lading of cattle, "On deck at owner's risk; steamer not to be held accountable for accident to, or mortality of the animals, from whatever cause arising," was construed not to cover a jettison of uninjured cattle, in rough weather, by order of the master, from unfounded apprehension, in the absence of any pressing perils of the ship, and without any attempt to separate them from cattle previously injured); The Exmoor, 163 Fed. 642 (a stipulation providing that, "should it be necessary to complete the loading in the lower bay at Mobile, same to be at steamer's risk and expense"); Swift v. Furness, 87 Fed. 345 (holding that a provision in a bill of lading that meat "is to be shipped wholly at the risk of the shipper, and that the owners assume no responsibility therefor during the voyage," refers only to the voyage contemplated by the parties, and not to an additional voyage arbitrarily made by order of the owner of the ship); Hard v. The Enchantress, 58 Fed. 910 [affirmed in 63 Fed. 272, 11 C. C. A. 180] (holding that under a bill of lading excepting liability for obliteration or inaccuracy of marks the ship is not concluded by the marks stated in the bill of lading without further proof of the actual marks shipped, and is prima facie acquitted by the delivery of all the goods taken aboard); The Britannic, 39 Fed. 395 (holding that exceptions in the bills of lading of damage "by collision . . . even when occasioned by negligence of the master or other servants of the shipowners" apply only to negligence of the master or ship-owners' servants connected with the vessel on which the goods were shipped, or with the performance of the contract of transportation, and do not exempt the owners from liability for the negligence of another ship belonging to the same owners by which the goods were damaged); The Hadji, 16 Fed. 861 (where a clause in the bill of lading excepting "risk of craft or hulk or transhipment," etc., was held not to refer to any risk of the hull of the vessel, but to small craft used in transhipment of the goods from the ship to shore); The Colon, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,023, 9 Ben. 354 (holding that the exception in a bill of lading of "any act, neglect, or default whatsoever" of the master or mariners, and of liability of leakage or breakage, "when properly stowed," does not exempt the vessel from responsibility for leakage and breakage from bad stowage by the master or mariners); Mendelsohn v. The Louisiana, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,421, 3 Woods 46 (holding that damage, from humidity of the hold, to soda shipped by an iron steamer from Liverpool to New Orleans, and transported through the gulf in the warm weather of early spring is within the exceptions in the bill of lading of heat and sweating).

Fruit shipped being inherently subject to decay, and the bill of lading being qualified with that condition, the vessel is not responsible for its sound delivery, without evidence of some misfeasance of the master which set in action or aggravated such tendency. The Collenberg, 1 Black (U. S.) 170, 17 L. ed. 89; De Bruns v. Lawrence, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,716, 18 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 141 [affirming 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,139 (affirmed in 1 Black 170, 17 L. ed. 89)]. Thus a vessel, detained fourteen days at quarantine, and afterward delivering her cargo damaged by rot, whose bill of lading excepted liability for "decay," for damage caused by "restraint of princes, rulers, or people," and "loss or damage caused by the prolongation of the voyage, or by causes beyond the carrier's control," is not liable for such damage to her cargo, unless caused by negligence. The Bohemia, 38 Fed. 756. But the vessel is liable for unexplained loss of fruit from boxes notwithstanding exceptions in bill of lading of loss by breakage of boxes (The Bellona, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,277, 4 Ben. 503), and a vessel is liable for rotting of fruit unduly hastened by stowage which did not permit proper ventilation, although bill of lading excepts losses by inherent deteriora-

the carrier against negligence unless the language necessitates such a construction;[33] and exceptions in bills of lading are not to be construed as affecting the implied warranty of seaworthiness at the commencement of the voyage unless that intention clearly appears;[34] but rather as applying only to matters arising after commencement of the voyage.[35] Thus exceptions in a bill of lading of tion (The America, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 283, 8 Ben. 491).

"Effect of climate," used in a bill of lading, does not apply to the effect of a temporary frost, but means the effect of climate in the passage of the vessel from a tropical climate northward or vice versa during the voyage, in its action on cargo in the vessel, and not such exposure as occurred when the cargo was landed in freezing weather, against the protest of the owner, whereby the fruit which composed the cargo was destroyed. The Aline, 25 Fed. 562, 23 Blatchf. 335.

A bill of lading exempting from "damage done by vermin" does not exonerate the owners from responsibility for injuries by rats, resulting from their negligence in omitting to fumigate the ship before loading, and the burden of proving that the injuries were not the result of such negligence is on the owners. Stevens v. Navigazione Generale Italiana, 39 Fed. 562. And where, on discharge of a cargo of beans after a voyage of thirty-four days, an extraordinary and almost unheard-of amount of damage from rats appeared, the ship would be held liable, although an exception of liability by reason of "vermin" in the bill of lading included rats, since the exception, even if valid, could not excuse the lack of preliminary precautions against rats through a proper previous examination of the ship, thorough washing out or fumigating, or a sufficient supply of cats. Kanter v. The Italia, 59 Fed. 617; The Timor, 46 Fed. 859 [reversed in 67 Fed. 356, 46 C. C. A. 412, on the ground that the supply of cats was sufficient]; but where it is shown that precautions were taken which ordinarily prove sufficient to prevent damage by rats, the vessel owners are not liable for damages thus occasioned. The Timor, 67 Fed. 356, 46 C. C. A. 412 [reversing 46 Fed. 859].

A bill of lading exempting the carrier from responsibility for leakage relieves him from responsibility for ordinary leakage merely, and does not authorize him to deliver empty casks. Brauer v. The Almoner, 18 La. Ann. 266. Nor does it relieve the carrier where it appears that the leaks were caused by some persons tampering with the cases while in the carrier's custody. The Giglio v. The Britannia, 31 Fed. 432.

Rust.— Ship-owners are not liable for damage to iron shipped under a bill of lading exempting the ship from accountability for rust, unless the rust was received on board and through want of proper stowage and care. The Bristol, 6 Fed. 638; Zerega v. Gee, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,211.

Fire.—A bill of lading exempting the shipowner from liability for loss from "damage by fire" includes loss by fire while the goods were on the wharf awaiting transportation as well as when on board the vessel. Scott v. Baltimore, etc., Steam-Boat Co., 19 Fed. 56. And "dangers of fire" and "unavoidable accidents of fire" meant the same thing, and the term "fire" means any fire, and is not restricted to fire originating from the furnace of the boat. Swindler v. Hilliard, 2 Rich. (S. C.) 286, 45 Am. Dec. 732. The failure of a steamboat carrying passengers and freight on an inland river to have the cotton on its decks covered to prevent its taking fire from sparks, as required by the Passenger Act (14 U. S. St. at L. 227), is negligence, and renders the carrier liable for a loss by fire, even though the bill of lading excepts "dangers of fire." Grey v. Mobile Trade Co., 55 Ala. 387, 28 Am. Rep. 729.

33. Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. (U. S.) 527, 16 L. ed. 177 (holding that a bill of lading containing an exemption from any loss capable of being covered by insurance does not cover a loss by carrier's negligence); The Egypt, 25 Fed. 320 (holding that a provision in a bill of lading exempting the vessel from any loss capable of being covered by insurance would not include loss by the carrier's negligence); The Delhi, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,770, 4 Ben. 345 (holding that, although a bill of lading provides that the vessel shall not be accountable for leakage, breakage, or rust, the vessel is liable for negligence or want of skill or care in the stowage or delivery of the cargo). And see Zung v. Howland, 5 Daly (N. Y.) 136, holding that a clause in a bill of lading exempting the owners from negligence or default of the pilot, master, and mariners does not exempt them from liability for negligence of stevedores employed by them to unload the vessel.

34. The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567] (holding that exception in a bill of lading of loss or damage "from delays . . . steam boilers and machinery or defects therein" are not to be construed as affecting the implied warranty of seaworthiness, especially when they form part of a long list of excepted causes, all the rest of which relate to matters arising after the commencement of the voyage); The Aggi, 107 Fed. 300, 46 C. C. A. 276 [following The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181, and The Caledonia, supra] (holding that a provision of a bill of lading that the ship is not to be answerable for loss through any "latent defect in the machinery or hull not resulting from want of due diligence by the owners" does not cover a condition of unseaworthiness existing at the commencement of the voyage, but applies only to a state of unseaworthiness arising during the voyage).

35. The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644 [affirming 43 Fed. 681, 50 Fed. 567].

damage from "latent defects in hull" do not include unseaworthiness existing at the inception of the voyage, and at the time the bill of lading was signed, and resulting from a latent defect in a rivet in a water tank;[36] nor is an open port-hole, although unknown to the master of a vessel before sailing, a "latent defect," within a bill of lading exempting the carrier from loss occasioned by "latent defects, even existing before shipment or sailing on the voyage;"[37] and exceptions in a bill of lading that a steamer shall not be accountable for a breakdown of machinery, nor for accidents to or defects in machinery, nor for neglect of engineers, do not abrogate the implied warranty that the vessel is fit to carry the particular cargo in accordance with the contract contained in the bill of lading.[38] A stipulation in a bill of lading that "the ship is warranted seaworthy only to the extent that the owners shall exercise due diligence to make it so," being ambiguous and uncertain in its meaning, can have no effect.[39]

(II) "PERILS OF THE SEA AND OF NAVIGATION." By dangers or perils of the sea or of navigation, as these terms are used in bills of lading, are meant those accidents incident to navigation which are unavoidable by the use of ordinary care;[40] accidents peculiar to navigation that are of an extraordinary nature, or arise from irresistible force or overwhelming power, which cannot be guarded against by the ordinary exertions of human skill and prudence;[41] and the term includes all

36. Wuppermann v. The Carib Prince, 170 U. S. 655, 18 S. Ct. 753, 42 L. ed. 1181 [applying the principles laid down in The Caledonia, 157 U. S. 124, 15 S. Ct. 537, 39 L. ed. 644].

37. Putnam v. The Manitoba, 104 Fed. 145.

38. Maori King v. Hughes, [1895] 2 Q. B. 550, 8 Aspin. 65, 65 L. J. Q. B. 168, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 141, 14 Reports 646, 44 Wkly. Rep. 2.

39. Insurance Co. of North America v. North German Lloyd Co., 106 Fed. 973.

40. Hughes Adm. 154.

41. Tuckerman v. Stephens, etc., Transp. Co., 32 N. J. L. 320; The Northern Belle, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,319, 1 Biss. 529.

"Dangers of navigation" defined see 13 Cyc. 257.

"Dangers of lake navigation" defined see 13 Cyc. 257.

"Dangers of river navigation" defined see 13 Cyc. 257.

"Dangers of the river" defined see 13 Cyc. 257.

"Dangers of the road" defined see 13 Cyc. Cyc. 258.

"Dangers of the seas" defined see 13 Cyc. 258.

Injury held due to peril or danger of sea: Damage to cargo caused by sea water which entered through a hatch during a voyage across the Atlantic by a new steamer, it being shown that the tarpaulin hatch covers were new and sufficient and properly secured, but that the one above libellant's goods was injured by a cut through the breaking loose of a derrick at night during a very severe storm. Gough v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt Aktiengesellschaft, 158 Fed. 174. Injury to goods shipped in the hold of a vessel, resulting from an intrinsic principle of decay inherent in the goods themselves, or from the natural closeness and dampness of the hold, on a voyage delayed by boisterous weather and adverse winds. Rich v. Lambert, 12 How. (U. S.) 347, 13 L. ed. 1017; Clark v. Barnwell, 12 How. (U. S.) 272, 13 L. ed. 985. The leaking of a vessel through stress of weather. Faber v. The Newark, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,602. An extraordinarily rough passage, the vessel being thrown more than once on her beam ends, so that her cargo shifted. Barstow v. Wilmot, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,066. A stranding caused by mistaking a shore light for a pier light on entering on a dark night, with a heavy sea and high wind, a harbor to which access was not usually dangerous or difficult. The Juniata Paton, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,584, 1 Biss. 15. Breakage caused by dangers of the sea, and shown not to be attributable to negligence in storing or unloading. In re Twelve Hundred and Sixty-five Vitrified Stoneware Sewer Pipes, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,280, 5 Ben. 402. Where, being driven ashore by a peril of the sea, and the master being unable to raise money to pay salvage claims, a portion of the cargo was sold for that purpose. The Wiley Smith, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,657, 6 Ben. 195. The goods lost by the boat striking a bridge pier, and the court finding that the boat was properly navigated. The Morning Mail, 17 Fed. 545. Capture by a pirate. Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716; Gage v. Tirrell, 9 Allen (Mass.) 299. Where a vessel, on arriving at the entrance of Mobile bay in the evening, endeavored to get a pilot, and, failing, followed the advice of those on board a pilot boat which was conducting another vessel, and attempted to follow such boat, but was grounded and compelled to sacrifice a part of her cargo. Vansycle v. The Schooner Thomas Ewing, 5 Pa. L. J. 231. Provisions stowed in a water ballast tank damaged in several feet of water, which got into the tank either by some opening of the water pipe which led to the tank or through an empty rivet hole in the bulkhead carrier boat. Hayes v. Kennedy, 2 Pittsb. (Pa.) 262. And see Blackburn v. Liverpool, etc., Steam Nav. Co., [1902] 1 K. B. 290, 9 Aspin. 263, 7 Com. Cas. 10, 71 L. J. K. B. 177, 85 marine casualties resulting from the violent action of the elements, as distin-

L. T. Rep. N. S. 783, 18 T. L. R. 121, 50 Wkly. Rep. 272. Sinking by unavoidable accident. Hostetter v. Park, 137 U. S. 30, 11 S. Ct. 1, 34 L. ed. 568 [affirming 11 Fed. 179]. Damage to a cargo of maize and oats shipped, by heat proceeding from the bulkheads inclosing the engine and boiler space, which was unable to escape owing to the necessary closing of the ventilators for a period of seven days during a storm of exceptional severity and duration. The Thrunscoe, [1897] p. 301, 66 L. J. Adm. 172, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 407.

Injuries held not due to peril or danger of sea: A loss by fire, although it occur without the negligence or fault of the carrier. Garrison v. Memphis Ins. Co., 19 How. (U. S.) 312, 15 L. ed. 656. The explosion of a boiler on a steam vessel. The Mohawk, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 153, 19 L. ed. 406. The explosion of a box of detonators stowed in the hold of a vessel, as a part of the cargo, tearing a hole in the side of the vessel, through which the sea water immediately entered, and penetrating into the next compartment, damaging a consignment of sugar, the explosion, and not the inflow of water being held to be the proximate and responsible cause of the damage was therefore not occasioned by a peril of the sea. The G. R. Booth, 171 U. S. 450, 19 S. Ct. 9, 43 L. ed. 234 (a much discussed case). Damage caused by sea water which entered through the deck by reason of its defective condition, which rendered the vessel unseaworthy for the particular voyage and cargo. The Nellie Floyd, 116 Fed. 80 [affirmed in 122 Fed. 617, 60 C. C. A. 175]. Fire occurring on the wharf. Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v. The Tangier, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,265. Loss of cargo by collision with a pier by a vessel which during a high wind approached part of the river obstructed by the piers of a bridge, which she could not pass in such weather without danger, and she neglected to lie by until the wind went down. The Mobler, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 230, 22 L. ed. 485. Loss of goods which have been stowed on deck without consent of the owner. The Paragon, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,708, 1 Ware 326; The Rebecca, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,619, 1 Ware 187. Depredations on a ship's cargo, committed by her passengers or crew, in consequence of a short allowance made necessary by the length of a voyage. The Gold Hunter, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 5,513, Blatchf. & H. 300. The mere rolling of a vessel by a cross sea is not such a danger. The Reeside, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,657, 2 Sumn. 567. Embezzlement or theft, except where it amounts to piracy, which is not the case when committed by persons coming on the ship when she is not on the high seas. King v. Shepherd, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,804, 3 Story 349. Pressure of one part of a cargo upon another. Muller v. The Iginia, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,917. Damages occasioned by cockroaches on board of a ship, to a cargo, in the course of a voyage. The Miletus, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,545, 5 Blatchf. 335 [affirming 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,461]. Water which coming into the hold of a vessel from the deck and waterways rotted casks which contained bleaching powder and were stowed without dunnage against the skin of the vessel, and the casks were thereby stove in and the bleaching powder spilled and mixed with the water, which reached bundles of bags and injured them. The Antoinetta C., 1 Fed. Cas. No. 491, 5 Ben. 564. Where cattle were shipped on board the vessel, and the cattle fittings prove to be insufficient in material and strength. Hills v. Mackill, 36 Fed. 702; The Brantford City, 29 Fed. 373. Unskilfulness of the pilot. Harvey v. Pike, 4 N. C. 519, 7 Am. Dec. 693. Loss resulting from the plug coming out of the cold-water pipe and letting water into the hold, it appearing that no precaution was taken to keep the plug tight. Haughton v. The Steamboat Memphis, 1 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 403, 8 West. L. J. 562. Damages to a cargo in a towboat, occasioned by bilging in a lock which was entered in contravention of the rules of the canal. Atwood v. Reliance Transp. Co., 9 Watts (Pa.) 87, 34 Am. Dec. 503. A loss of goods by a vessel caused by the shifting of a buoy which had been placed in a particular position to indicate a particular channel. Reaves v. Waterman, 2 Speers (S. C.) 197, 42 Am. Dec. 364. Where lard was pumped from the vessel and tobacco was damaged by the lard running into it. The Newark, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,141, 1 Blatchf. 203.

Damage by rats is not a "peril of seas and navigation," within the clause of a bill of lading exempting the carrier from liability for such perils. The Carlotta, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,413, 9 Ben. 1; The Isabella, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,099, 8 Ben. 139; Kirkland v. The Fame, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,845. But see McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190. But a distinction was made in a famous English case, and it was there held that damage to cargo by sea water entering a leak made by rats in the ship is a sea peril within the exception. Hamilton v. Pandorf, 12 App. Cas. 518, 6 Aspin. 212, 52 J. P. 196, 57 L. J. Q. B. 24, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 726, 36 Wkly. Rep. 369.

Collision.— The words in an exception in a bill of lading, "perils of the sea," although generally referable to accidents peculiar to that element, are sometimes extended to collision of vessels when no blame attaches to either, but more especially to the one injured. Jones v. Pitcher, 3 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 135, 24 Am. Dec. 716; General Mut. Ins. Co. v. Sherwood, 14 How. (U. S.) 351, 14 L. ed. 452. But where cargo is damaged by reason of the shock of a collision caused by the negligence of the ship-owner, such owner cannot rely on the exceptions of the bill of lading, exempting the ship from liability for damage caused by collisions and perils of the seas. Schulze-Berge v. The Guildhall, 58 Fed. 796. And see Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Mississippi Valley Transp. Co., 14 Fed. 699, 4 McCrary 636.

The exception in a bill of lading of "dangers of the river," or "danger of river navigation," releases the carrier from losses guished from their natural, silent influence upon the fabric of the vessel; casualties which may, and not consequences which must, occur;[42] and the phrases, caused by hidden obstructions newly placed in the river, such as human foresight could not discover and avoid (Redpath v. Vaughan, 52 Barb. (N. Y.) 489, a hidden stump; Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 340; Gordon v. Buchanan, 5 Yerg. (Tenn.) 71; Hostetter v. Gray, 11 Fed. 179 [affirmed in 137 U. S. 30, 11 S. Ct. 1, 34 L. ed. 568], an unknown and concealed obstruction); and covers loss caused, without negligence on the part of the carrier's agents or servants, by striking, under water, a tree which had, unknown to them, shortly before fallen into the river (Hibernia Ins. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., 120 U. S. 166, 7 S. Ct. 550, 30 L. ed. 621 [affirming 17 Fed. 478, 5 McCrary 397]); and loss of cargo by reason of a sand reef which had recently formed in the channel of a river, and which the pilot of a towboat had no reason to suppose was there (Hibernia Ins. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., Transp. Co., supra); and relieves the carrier from liability for loss of the contents of a barge broken into by a sunken log or stump, concealed from view, and not even marked by a ripple in the water, the steamboat and barge in tow pursuing the usual and proper course, no obstruction at that point being known to river pilots, and there being no proof of negligence or unskilfulness on the part of the master or crew, or of any unseaworthiness of the steamboat or barge (The Favorite, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,697, 2 Biss. 502); but if the master knows of a new obstruction before an injury is caused by it he must use increased caution and if he could by any means have removed it he will be chargeable (Turney v. Wilson, 7 Yerg. (Tenn.) 340; Gordon v. Buchanan, 5 Yerg. (Tenn.) 71); and where a steamboat on a river ran upon a stone and knocked a hole in her bottom, the carrier was not discharged from liability by virtue of the clause in the bill of lading, but in order to relieve himself from responsibility it was incumbent on him to prove that due diligence and proper skill were used to avoid the accident, and that it was unavoidable (Whitesides v. Russell, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 44). But a loss of goods caused by the skipper's attempting to pass a dangerous bend in a river is not within the exception, as such exception signifies the natural accidents incident to the navigation of the river, and not such as might have been avoided by the exercise of proper discretion and foresight (Williams v. Branson, 5 N. C. 417, 4 Am. Dec. 562); and a snag which is well known to persons whose business it is to navigate a river is not such a danger of navigation, within the exception in a bill of lading, as will exempt a common carrier on such river from liability for the loss of goods occasioned thereby (Costigan v. Michael Transp. Co., 38 Mo. App. 219). But the exception covers a loss occasioned by a collision with another boat, and the carrier will not be liable, in case of such exception, unless the loss occurred by his negligence or that of the hands employed on the boat, or might have been prevented by reasonable skill and diligence. Van Horn v. Taylor, 2 La. Ann. 587, 46 Am. Dec. 558; Whitesides v. Turlkill, 12 Sm. & M. (Miss.) 599, 51 Am. Dec. 128. In an action for a breach of a contract to transport "unavoidable dangers of the river and fire only excepted," the fact that a river on the route became, until after such day, unnavigable by reason of low water, constitutes no defense, such contingency not having been expressly excepted therein (Mahon v. The Olive Branch, 18 La. Ann. 107; Hatchett v. The Compromise, 12 La. Ann. 783, 68 Am. Dec. 782; Cowley v. Davidson, 13 Minn. 92), danger of navigation not being equivalent to want of navigation (Cowley v. Davidson, supra).

Evidence of usage, fixing a construction of the words "inevitable dangers of the river," in a bill of lading for transportation of goods by inland navigation is admissible. Gordon v. Little, 8 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 533, 11 Am. Dec. 632. Thus parol evidence is admissible to show that the words "dangers of the river," as used in a bill of lading, by usage and custom include dangers by accidental fire occurring without negligence or fault of the carrier. Hibler v. McCartney, 31 Ala. 501; Ezell v. English, 6 Port. (Ala.) 311; Sampson v. Gazzam, 6 Port. (Ala.) 123, 30 Am. Dec. 578. But see Garrison v. Memphis Ins. Co., 19 How. (U. S.) 312, 15 L. ed. 656, holding that the testimony of a witness claiming to be familiar with the usages of the Mississippi is not admissible to show that the exception in a bill of lading of a steamboat on that river of "perils of the river" is generally understood to include fire.

Dangers of lake navigation.—Where a steamer which might have safely remained outside until daylight on a foggy night mistook a harbor and, entering it, found out the mistake too late, and grounded, this was not one of the "dangers of lake navigation," within the exception in the bills of lading, such as would exempt the steamer from liability for damage to the cargo. The Portsmouth, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 682, 19 L. ed. 754.

42. Ceballos v. The Warren Adams, 74 Fed. 413, 20 C. C. A. 486.

Jettison.—A wrongful jettison of sound cattle by order of the master, from unfounded apprehensions during rough weather, is not a peril of the sea. Compania de Navigacion la Flecha v. Brauer, 168 U. S. 104, 18 S. Ct. 12, 42 L. ed. 398 [affirming 66 Fed. 776, 14 C. C. A. 88]. But where to lighten a vessel aground, the deck load of brandy was jettisoned by knocking in the heads of the casks, it being impossible to throw them overboard whole, it was held to be a loss by a peril of the sea, within the exception in the bill of lading. Van Syckel v. The Thomas Ewing, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,877, Crabbe 405, 5 Pa. L. J. 231.

Generally speaking, the words have the same meaning in a bill of lading as in a

"the dangers of the seas," "the dangers of navigation," and "the perils of the seas," employed in bills of lading, are convertible terms,[43] equivalent to inevitable accident.[44] The expressions all cover heavy and unusually severe storms and gales,[45] or sudden and unexpected gust of wind or squall;[46] and "perils of the sea," as used in exceptions in bills of lading, cover, in addition to those injuries contemplated by the term "act of God," injuries partly due to the intervention of human agency, such as loss by robbery,[47] pirates,[48] and unavoidable collision;[49] and a loss by collision without fault on the part of the carrier boat is covered by the exception in the bill of lading of "unavoidable dangers of the river navigation;" and the carrier is not liable, even though the collision was caused by the negligence of those navigating the other vessel.[50] But a collision at sea, in order to be a "danger of the sea," within a bill of lading exempting the owners from liability as carriers, must be such as could not be avoided by either ship by human prudence and skill.[51] If the claimant shows that the ship encountered such bad weather as warrants the conclusion that the loss was due to the motion caused by the sea, this is a peril of the sea, within the meaning of the exception in the bill of lading, and exempts the carrier from liability, unless libellant shows that the loss would have been prevented by proper stowage.[52] By the law of both England and America the ordinary contract of a common carrier by sea involves an obligation to use due care and skill in navigating the vessel and carrying the goods; and an exception, in the bill of lading, of perils of the sea, or other specified peril, does not excuse him from that obligation, or exempt him from liability for loss or damage from one of those perils to which the negligence of himself or his servants has contributed,[53] and does not include such as may be avoided by the policy of insurance, although the effect of negligence of the master or crew contributing to the loss by a peril of the sea may be different on the two contracts. The G. R. Booth, 171 U. S. 450, 19 S. Ct. 9, 43 L. ed. 234. Construction of the phrases in marine policies see MARINE INSURANCE, 26 Cyc. 652 et seq.

43. Baxter v. Leland, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,124, Abb. Adm. 348 [affirmed in 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,125, 1 Blatchf. 526].

44. Blythe v. Marsh, 1 McCord (S. C.) 360.

45. Cook v. Southeastern Lime, etc., Co., 146 Fed. 101; Southerland-Innes Co. v. Thynas, 128 Fed. 42, 64 C. C. A. 116; Mosle v. The Sintram, 64 Fed. 884 (where a ship generally stanch and of high rating was carefully inspected before the voyage commenced, both by the owners and by the insurers of cargo, and in passing around Cape Horn she had for twenty days rough seas, aft gales, and much rolling and shipping of water, during which the seams of her waterways began working, and took in some water, causing a comparatively small amount of damage to her cargo of tea stowed in the between-decks); The Titania, 19 Fed. 101 (where goods in one of the compartments of the steamer were injured by a spare propeller, which was stowed and fastened in the same compartment, and on the vessel's sixth voyage broke loose during a severe gale, and, in being tossed about, broke through the sides of the ship, whereby water was taken aboard); The Pharos, 9 Fed. 912; Barstow v. Wilmot, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,066; The Blue Jacket, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,569, 10 Ben. 248; Hooper v. Rathbone, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,676, Taney 519; The Juniata Paton, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,584, 1 Biss. 15. But see Bazin v. Liverpool, etc., Steamship Co., 2 Fed. Cas. No. 1,152, 3 Wall. Jr. 229, holding that a carrier, shipping goods by a different vessel and at an earlier date than that specified in the bill of lading, is liable for loss or damage occasioned by shipwreck, notwithstanding the exception of "accidents of the seas," etc., in such bill of lading.

Where the excessive violence of the sea is the efficient cause of the shifting of cargo, causing breakage and leakage, by which other portions of the cargo are damaged, without which the damage would not have occurred, it is the proximate cause of such damage; and whether it constitutes a peril of the sea, within the exception in the bills of lading, is a question of fact, to be determined upon the circumstances of each case, depending upon whether a seaworthy vessel, properly trimmed, and with the cargo properly stowed, would ordinarily go through such seas without material injury to its cargo. The Frey, 106 Fed. 319, 45 C. C. A. 309.

46. Bregaro v. The Centurion, 68 Fed. 382, 15 C. C. A. 480; The City of Alexandria, 23 Fed. 826; The Lady Pike, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,985, 2 Biss. 141 [reversed on other grounds in 21 Wall. 1, 22 L. ed. 499].

47. McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190.

48. McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190.

49. McArthur v. Sears, 21 Wend. (N. Y.) 190.

50. Hays v. Kennedy, 41 Pa. St. 378, 80 Am. Dec. 627, 3 Grant 351.

51. Blythe v. Marsh, 1 McCord (S. C.) 360.

52. Christie v. The Craigton, 41 Fed. 62.

53. Compania de Navigacion La Flecha v.

exercise of skill, judgment, and foresight demanded of the carrier.[54] If the unseaworthiness of the vessel at the time of sailing on the voyage caused or contributed to produce the necessity for a jettison, the loss is not within the exception in the bill of lading of perils of the seas, and the carrier is liable for non-delivery of the goods.[55]

E. Freight[56] — 1. Right to Freight — a. General Rules; When Earned; Necessity and Sufficiency of Delivery. The general rule is that a carrier of goods by water is entitled to freight when,[57] and only when,[58] he has properly fulfilled his contract of carriage. A vessel, in delivering cargo, is not bound to look beyond the owner and holder of the bill of lading, and as he has the control of the delivery and acceptance of the goods, he is responsible, on accepting the goods under the bill of lading, for freight according to its terms;[59] and an owner of goods sent by a general ship is liable for the freight, independent of the bill of lading, and it is immaterial whether the ownership appears on the bill of lading or not.[60] In the absence of a contract making freight payable upon shipment,[61] delivery of the cargo at the port of destination is a condition precedent to the right to freight,[62] and without such delivery the acceptance of the cargo at an intermediate place

Brauer, 168 U. S. 104, 18 S. Ct. 12, 42 L. ed. 398; Liverpool, etc., Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., 129 U. S. 397, 9 S. Ct. 469, 32 L. ed. 788 [affirming 22 Fed. 715, 22 Blatchf. 372]; The Bergenseren, 36 Fed. 700; Dibble v. Morgan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,881, 1 Woods 406.

An exception of "the dangers on the lake," in a contract to convey goods from New York to Ogdensburg, does not exempt the carrier from liability for loss happening through want of ordinary care. Fairchild v. Slocum, 19 Wend. (N. Y.) 329 [affirmed in 7 Hill 292].

54. Costigan v. Michael Transp. Co., 33 Mo. App. 269.

55. Dupont de Nemours v. Vance, 19 How. (U. S.) 162, 15 L. ed. 584.

56. Freight defined see 20 Cyc. 844.

57. Hughes v. Sun Mut. Ins. Co., 100 N. Y. 58, 2 N. E. 901, 3 N. E. 71 [affirming 12 Daly 45]; Blowers v. One Wire Rope Cable, etc., Co., 21 Fed. 352; Hopkins v. Wood, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,693; Sutton v. Hennell, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,646.

His right to freight is not affected by the outcome of a prior suit, instituted by a third person against the consignee, after the termination of the voyage, to determine the ownership of the cargo. Crapo v. The Arctic, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,361.

58. Nelson v. Stephenson, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 538 (holding that where bill of lading of a cargo of casks of molasses is unqualified, if the casks are delivered empty or nearly so, and the actual cause of leakage be unknown or conjectural, the owners of the vessel lose their freight, not having performed their engagement); Lacombe v. Waln, 4 Binn. (Pa.) 299; The Excelsior, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,592, 2 Ben. 434.

A vessel contracting to carry merchandise in violation of statute earns no freight by executing the contract. Petrel Guano Co. v. Jarnette, 25 Fed. 675.

59. Neilsen v. Jesup, 30 Fed. 138.

60. Grant v. Wood, 21 N. J. L. 292, 47 Am. Dec. 162.

61. See infra, this note.

Although freight is made payable by the shipper on the shipment of the goods, it is not merely on that account earned without a performance of the voyage. Mashiter v. Buller, 1 Campb. 84; Clark v. Druisina, 1 Marsh. 123.

62. Pennsylvania.— Richardson v. Young, 38 Pa. St. 169.

South Carolina.— Halwerson v. Cole, 1 Speers 321, 40 Am. Dec. 603.

Texas.— Adams v. Haught, 14 Tex. 243.

United States.— The Mary Riley v. Three Thousand Railroad Ties, 38 Fed. 254; The Ann D. Richardson, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Abb. Adm. 499 [affirmed in 1 Fed. Cas. No. 411, 1 Blatchf. 358]; Hart v. Shaw, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,155, 1 Cliff. 358; Hurtin v. Union Ins. Co., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,942, 1 Wash. 530.

England.— Brown v. Tanner, L. R. 3 Ch. 597, 37 L. J. Ch. 923, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 624, 16 Wkly. Rep. 882; Metcalf v. Britannia Ironworks Co., 2 Q. B. D. 423, 3 Aspin. 407, 46 L. J. Q. B. 443, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 451, 25 Wkly. Rep. 720; Osgood v. Groning, 2 Campb. 466, 11 Rev. Rep. 765; Penrose v. Wilkes [cited in Shepard v. De Bernales, 13 East 565, 570, 12 Rev. Rep. 442, 104 Eng. Reprint 490]; Blank v. Solly, Holt N. P. 554, 1 Moore C. P. 531, 19 Rev. Rep. 469, 3 E. C. L. 218; Anonymous, 1 Sid. 236, 82 Eng. Reprint 1079.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 502.

A stamp put by the ship-owner upon the back of a bill of lading, stating that the entire freight was payable "prior to delivery, if required," but not signed by the parties, there being no proof that it was ever recognized by the shipper as a part of his contract, did not vary the obligations of the contract, so as to authorize a demand for freight before the goods were ready for delivery. Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. (U. S.) 527, 16 L. ed. 177.

Delivery held sufficient to entitle the carrier to freight see The Adella S. Hills, 47 Fed. 76; Carao v. Guimaraes, 10 Fed. 783; Donovan v. Cargo of Two Hundred and Forty Tons of Coal, 8 Fed. 368.

by the owner of the cargo is necessary to enable the ship-owner to recover either full or pro rata freight;[63] but if the owner of the cargo is the cause of its not being transported to the port of destination full freight may be recovered;[64] and after the cargo is on board, the shippers cannot demand it short of the port of destination without payment of full freight for the whole voyage;[65] and thus where a ship grounds a short distance down a river from the port of departure, and the shipper, alleging the consignee's failure, withdraws the cargo under legal process, he will be liable for the whole freight, the ship soon after the disaster being ready to continue her voyage;[66] but the rule is otherwise where the vessel sinks in the port of departure and the goods are rescued by the insurers and turned over to

Where perishable cargo is sold at a port of distress, at which a vessel lays up for repairs on account of injuries due to perils of the seas, no freight is recoverable. The Velona, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,912, 3 Ware 139. But where perishable cargo is sold by the master on the consignee's refusal to receive it, the vessel owners may recover from the shippers the stipulated freight, less net proceeds from the sale of the cargo. The Maria White, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,083, 1 Hask. 204.

63. Richardson v. Young, 38 Pa. St. 169; Adams v. Haught, 14 Tex. 243; The Ann D. Richardson, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Abb. Adm. 499 [affirmed in 1 Fed. Cas. No. 411, 1 Blatchf. 358]; The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542; Osgood v. Groning, 2 Campb. 466, 11 Rev. Rep. 765.

If a cargo is received at a port other than the place of destination by compulsion, and the supercargo or captain, acting for the benefit of all, receives the proceeds thereof, no freight is earned or due (Hurtin v. Union Ins. Co., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,942, 1 Wash. 530); and the master having failed to deliver the cargo according to the bill of lading, and there having been no waiver of performance, either express or implied, by the shipper or his agent at the port of distress, the owner of the vessel is not entitled to freight, notwithstanding the damaged state of the cargo justified its sale by the master at the port of distress (The Ann D. Richardson, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 411, 1 Blatchf. 358 note [affirming 1 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Abb. Adm. 499]. But see Murray v. Ætna Ins. Co., 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,955, 4 Biss. 417, holding that where a vessel on the Lakes, late in the season, is laid up by stress of weather, and the cargo is necessarily unloaded, and the master sells it, although the vessel might have completed the transportation in the spring, she is entitled to full freight).

Where a vessel has been captured on her voyage, and condemned at an intermediate port, and a part of the cargo has been restored and sold at the same port, no freight is due for the part so restored. The Harriet, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,094; Sampayo v. Salter, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,277, 1 Mason 43.

64. Adams v. Haught, 14 Tex. 243; Hart v. Shaw, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,155, 1 Cliff. 358; Cargo ex Galam, Brown. & L. 167, 10 Jur. N. S. 477, 33 L. J. Adm. 97, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 550, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 216, 3 New Rep. 254, 12 Wkly. Rep. 495, 15 Eng. Reprint 883. But see Bailey v. Damon, 3 Gray (Mass.) 92, holding that where goods are wrongfully taken from a vessel by the shipper before she has broken ground on the voyage, the ship-owner is not entitled to the stipulated freight as such.

Where goods are sold and shipped on board a vessel of the vendee, and are stopped in transitu by the vendor, the vendee is entitled to receive payment of the freight and charges on the goods reclaimed. Newhall v. Vargas, 15 Me. 314, 33 Am. Dec. 617.

If the owner prevents the master from forwarding the goods from an intermediate port to their destination. The Soblomsten, L. R. 1 A. & E. 293, 36 L. J. Adm. 51, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 393, 15 Wkly. Rep. 591; Christy v. Row, 1 Taunt. 300, 9 Rev. Rep. 776.

Where a vessel is abandoned at sea under circumstances which rendered such abandonment excusable, so that it did not operate to terminate the contract of affreightment, and is brought into port by salvors, but by the action of the cargo-owners the resumption of the voyage is prevented, the ship-owner is entitled to be compensated for his loss of freight on principles of equity; but under such principles his damages cannot go beyond compensation, and he is not entitled to recover the gross freight he would have earned under the contract, but only the estimated net freight, and from that should be deducted the net amount the ship earned, or should reasonably have earned, during the time it would have taken her to complete the voyage. The Eliza Lines, 114 Fed. 307, 52 C. C. A. 195.

65. Bartlett v. Carnley, 6 Duer (N. Y.) 194; Braithwaite v. Power, 1 N. D. 455, 48 N. W. 354 (holding that where the master of a vessel agreed to carry goods for a stipulated price, no time for delivery being specified, and the closing of navigation interrupted the voyage, and while the master was unloading and preparing to complete the transportation by land the consignee took the goods by force, the master could recover full freight from the consignor, and that he could rightfully have held the goods until the opening of navigation, and then earned full freight by completing the navigation by water); Jordan v. Warren Ins. Co., 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,524, 1 Story 342; Seaman v. The Crescent City, 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,581, 1 Bond 105.

66. Blake v. Morgan, 3 Mart. (La.) 375; Merchants' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Butler, 20 Md. 41.

the owner,[67] or where a vessel, before she breaks ground for a voyage, is so injured that the cost of her repairs would exceed her value when repaired, and is thus rendered unseaworthy and incapable of earning freight;[68] and where, after a vessel has taken on board a cargo to be carried, an embargo prevents her from sailing, and the cargo is sold at the port of shipment, the owner of the vessel can recover nothing in the way of freight from the shipper;[69] and the same rule applies if a ship is obliged by perils of the sea to put back to her port of departure, and her cargo is there sold by the master;[70] and when a vessel and cargo are abandoned at sea by the master and crew, without intention to retake them.[71] Violation of a shipping contract, by deviation from the course and taking additional cargo, does not of itself forfeit freight, but merely authorizes a distinct action for damages against the vessel;[72] and a temporary retardation and subsequent sale of the cargo by the owner does not constitute an abandonment, nor deprive the carrier of his right to the freight money;[73] and even where there is a deviation during a voyage which avoids the contract of affreightment, the acceptance of the cargo by the freighter, with full knowledge of the deviation, restores to the ship-owner his right to freight.[74] A provision in a bill of lading that the freight shall be considered as earned, steamer or goods lost or not lost at any stage of the entire transit, is valid and enforceable.[75]

b. Effect of Loss of or Injury to Goods. The parties may so contract that freight is payable whether or not the cargo is lost or injured,[76] or otherwise regulate the matter by contract, in which case the contract governs.[77] In the absence of such a contract, however, where goods are lost otherwise than by a peril of the sea or a cause excepted in the contract of affreightment the carrier is not entitled to freight;[78] and if goods are improperly stowed on deck, and a part lost in consequence of greater value than the freight of the remainder, the carrier

67. Rogers v. West, 9 Ind. 400, holding that even if the owners did take the property from the possession of the carrier against its consent, it was not equal to a delivery of the cargo at the place of delivery in the same condition as when the owners so took it, entitling him to the price of the carriage.

68. The Tornado, 108 U. S. 342, 2 S. Ct. 746, 27 L. ed. 747.

69. Kelly v. Johnson, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,672, 3 Wash. 45.

70. Lord v. Neptune Ins. Co., 10 Gray (Mass.) 109.

71. The James Martin, 88 Fed. 649.

72. Knox v. The Ninetta, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,912, Crabbe 534, 5 Pa. L. J. 33.

73. Murray v. Ætna Ins. Co., 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,955, 4 Biss. 417.

74. Thatcher v. McCulloh, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,862, Olcott 365, holding also that an intention of the master of a ship to depart from her direct voyage and stop at an intermediate port for the purpose of taking in additional cargo, if assented to or made known to a shipper when bills of lading are executed to him, is not a deviation which affects the right to recover freight.

75. Portland Flouring Mills v. British, etc., Mar. Ins. Co., 130 Fed. 860, 65 C. C. A. 344 [affirming 124 Fed. 855].

76. Myers v. The Queensmore, 53 Fed. 1022, 4 C. C. A. 157 [affirming 51 Fed. 250].

77. Libby v. Gage, 14 Allen (Mass.) 261; Taylor v. Insurance Co. of North America, 6 Fed. 410; The Muriel, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,944, 7 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 147.

Freight payable on gross gauge.— Under a special contract, by which the amount of freight was made to depend on the gross gauge of the casks of molasses delivered, it is immaterial how the loss was occasioned, whether by ordinary leakage or the dangers of the seas (The Cuba, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,458, 3 Ware 260); and such a contract of freightage of molasses which provided that the freight should be estimated "gross custom-house gauge of cask," where upon arrival of cargo it was found that some of the casks were empty, and some broken, in view of the fact that casks of molasses are often carried at sea with their bungs out to allow fermentation, freight was allowed on all the casks (The Juliet C. Clark v. Welsh, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,580, 9 Phila. (Pa.) 469).

78. Indiana.— Holliday v. Coe, 3 Ind. 26.

Louisiana.— Northern v. Williams, 6 La. Ann. 578; Glover v. Dufour, 6 La. Ann. 490, where casks of wine were so badly stowed that in a gale of no great violence they were turned so as to cause leakage through the vents left for fermentation.

Massachusetts.— Sayward v. Stevens, 3 Gray 97.

New York.— Palmer v. Lorillard, 16 Johns. 348 [reversing 15 Johns. 14].

United States.— British, etc., Mar. Ins. Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 55 Fed. 82.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 535.

The consignee's receipt of goods without objection as to apparent damage makes him liable for freight. Shackleford v. Wilcox, 9 La. 33.

cannot recover for the freight of those delivered; [79] but full freight may be recovered for the transportation of goods mentioned in a bill of lading, notwithstanding a loss in quantity on the voyage due to an intrinsic vice of the goods; [80] and the same rule applies where the inherent condition of the cargo prevents delivery without the carrier's fault,[81] and where the loss of a portion of a cargo is caused by a "danger of navigation or peril of the sea," the carrier is entitled to freight upon the portion of the cargo actually delivered; [82] and freight is payable, in the case of wreck, on each package landed, if equal in value to the freight,[83] but no freight is due for the goods which perish by perils of the sea during the course of the voyage; [84] and thus where a voyage is broken up by an overwhelming calamity and the vessel is taken to an intermediate port by salvors, and a portion of her cargo is sold to pay salvage, the portion sold is to be treated as lost, and no freight is recoverable for its carriage; [85] and the same rule applies upon a proper jettison of part of the cargo.[86] Where a vessel puts in at an intermediate port in distress, and it is there found that a portion of the cargo has been rendered worthless by perils of the sea, while the residue is not of sufficient value to warrant continuing the voyage, and such portion is therefore sold by the master and the voyage broken up, no claim for freight can be maintained by the ship-owner; [87] and similarly, where cargo is destroyed in specie by a peril of the sea, which causes the vessel to put into a port of distress, so that such cargo loses its original character at the port of distress, or where the damage to it is such that, if reshipped, a total destruction of it in specie will be inevitable before it can arrive at its port of destination, the shipper is not liable for the freight.[88]

c. Right to Tranship and Forward to Earn Freight. Where a vessel is disabled on the voyage, the master is allowed a reasonable time to reship and tranship so as to earn his full freight; [89] and if the master transhipps the cargo, he may charge the excess of the cost of transhipment over his freight to the owner of the goods; [90] but the owner of the goods cannot be held both for the whole freight originally contracted for and the freight paid on the transhipped goods; [91] and if the master declines or is unable to either repair or tranship, he may be

79. Waring v. Morse, 7 Ala. 343.

80. Griswold v. New York Ins. Co., 3 Johns. (N. Y.) 321, 3 Am. Dec. 490; Steelman v. Taylor, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,349, 3 Ware 52.

The consignee of merchandise, who is also owner, is liable for the freight thereon, although without fault of the ship's crew it has, by exposure to severe weather before shipment, become worthless at the time of delivery. Hugg v. Augusta Ins., etc., Co., 7 How. (U. S.) 595, 12 L. ed. 834; Seaman v. Adler, 37 Fed. 268.

81. The Fortuna, Edw. Adm. 56.

82. Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Chamberlain, 118 Fed. 716, 55 C. C. A. 236; Chubb v. Seven Thousand Eight Hundred Bushels of Oats, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,709.

83. Smith v. Welsh, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,126.

84. Frith v. Barker, 2 Johns. (N. Y.) 327.

85. The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542.

86. The Cuba, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,458, 3 Ware 260.

87. The Ann D. Richardson, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Abb. Adm. 499 [affirmed in 1 Fed. Cas. No. 411, 1 Blatchf. 358 note].

88. Ridyard v. Phillips, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,820, 4 Blatchf. 443.

89. Bradhurst v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 17; The Soblomsten, L. R. 1 A. & E. 293, 36 L. J. Adm. 5, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 393, 15 Wkly. Rep. 591. But see Lemont v. Lord, 52 Me. 365.

By German law, if a vessel is liable to risk of capture, either party may withdraw from the contract of affreightment; but the master is not obliged to part with the cargo or to tranship it, unless distance freight, as well as all other claims of the ship-owner and the contributions due from the cargo for general average, have been paid or secured. It was held that a demand upon the master to tranship at his own risk and expense was not such a compliance with the German law as obliged him to tranship. The Express, L. R. 3 A. & E. 597, 1 Aspin. 355, 41 L. J. Adm. 79, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 956.

The master, who is also consignee of the cargo, cannot charge for freight and charges of landing and reshipment, incurred to forward the cargo to market on another vessel, unless necessity excuses the performance of the contract. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

90. Hugg v. Baltimore, etc., Smelting, etc., Co., 35 Md. 414, 6 Am. Rep. 425; Searle v. Scovell, 4 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 218.

91. Hugg v. Baltimore, etc., Smelting, etc., Co., 35 Md. 414, 6 Am. Rep. 425. And see Crawford v. Williams, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 205, 60 Am. Dec. 146.

called upon to deliver without payment of freight;[92] but before a reasonable time has elapsed he cannot be required to deliver except on payment of full freight and waiver of delivery.[93] The freighter of goods on which freight was to be paid on delivery at the port of destination is bound to pay the whole freight originally contracted for, where transhipment has been found necessary, and the goods have been delivered at the port of destination, although the master consigned the goods under fresh bills of lading in the second vessel to his own agent, and the freight was at a much lower rate than that originally contracted for.[94]

2. Amount and Rate — a. General Rules. The amount and rate of freight is almost universally provided for in the contract of carriage, in which case the contract governs.[95] In the absence of an express contract, the owner of a vessel is entitled to reasonable freight only;[96] and where no provision for freight is made,

92. Bradhurst v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 17; The Bahia, Brown. & L. 292, 11 Jur. N. S. 90, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 145.

93. The Bahia, Brown. & L. 292, 11 Jur. N. S. 90, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 145.

94. Shipton v. Thornton, 9 A. & E. 314, 8 L. J. Q. B. 73, 1 P. & D. 216, 36 E. C. L. 179.

95. Lamar v. New York, etc., Steamship Nav. Co., 16 Ga. 558; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Peale, 135 Fed. 606; Blackshere v. Patterson, 72 Fed. 204, 18 C. C. A. 508; Gibson v. Brown, 44 Fed. 98; Holland v. Seven Hundred and Twenty-Five Tons of Coal, 36 Fed. 784; The Querini Stamphalia, 19 Fed. 123; The Defiance, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,740, 6 Ben. 162; Keith v. Burrows, 2 App. Cas. 636, 3 Aspin. 481, 46 L. J. C. P. 801, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291, 25 Wkly. Rep. 831]; Weguelin v. Collier, L. R. 6 H. L. 286, 42 L. J. Ch. 758, 22 Wkly. Rep. 26; Weir v. Girvin, [1899] 1 Q. B. 193, 8 Aspin. 470, 4 Com. Cas. 56, 63 L. J. Q. B. 170, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 596, 15 T. L. R. 69, 47 Wkly. Rep. 365 [affirmed in [1900] 1 Q. B. 45, 9 Aspin. 7, 5 Com. Cas. 40, 69 L. J. Q. B. 168, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 687, 16 T. L. R. 31, 48 Wkly. Rep. 179]; Brown v. North, 8 Exch. 1, 22 L. J. Exch. 49; Southampton Steam Collier Co. v. Clarke, L. R. 6 Exch. 53, 40 L. J. Exch. 8, 19 Wkly. Rep. 214; Mercantile, etc., Bank v. Gladstone, L. R. 3 Exch. 233, 37 L. J. Exch. 130, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 641, 17 Wkly. Rep. 11; Gibbens v. Buisson, 1 Bing. N. Cas. 283, 4 L. J. C. P. 11, 1 Scott 133, 27 E. C. L. 641; Cockburn v. Alexander, 6 C. B. 791, 18 L. J. C. B. 74, 60 E. C. L. 791.

The bill of lading is not conclusive evidence of such a contract. Simmes v. Marine Ins. Co., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,862, 2 Cranch C. C. 618.

A contract to carry, although in writing, does not preclude the showing of the existence of a custom on the river to charge lighterage, in addition to freight, whenever the water is so low throughout the season as to make the use of lighters necessary. Andrews v. Roach, 3 Ala. 590, 37 Am. Dec. 718.

Authority of agent of carrier to fix rate. If the shipper of goods on freight contracts for the amount of freight to be charged with the general agent of the owner of the vessel, having reason to know that, although his agency might be general, yet his authority was restricted in that particular instance, the shipper cannot claim to have the terms of the contract fulfilled, as against the principal of such agent. Barnard v. Wheeler, 24 Me. 412. But where an advertisement in a newspaper names persons as agents to contract for carriage, a person contracting with one of them is bound to pay freight only to the amount stipulated in such contract, and not to the amount stated in a bill of lading. Trask v. Jones, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 62.

Where a carrier breaks an entire contract of affreightment by refusing to transport all of an amount of goods contracted to be carried, he is nevertheless entitled to recover for the goods carried, less the damages sustained by the owner of the lumber by reason of the breach of contract. Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Chamberlain, 118 Fed. 716, 55 C. C. A. 236.

96. Simmes v. Marine Ins. Co., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,862, 2 Cranch C. C. 618.

Mortgagee or purchaser. A mortgagee of the vessel taking possession after shipment is limited to the freight contracted for by the parties (Keith v. Burrows, 2 App. Cas. 636, 3 Aspin. 481, 46 L. J. C. P. 801, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291, 25 Wkly. Rep. 831; Brown v. North, 8 Exch. 1, 22 L. J. Exch. 49), and the same rule applies to the purchaser of the vessel (Mercantile, etc., Bank v. Gladstone, L. R. 3 Exch. 233, 37 L. J. Exch. 130, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 641, 17 Wkly. Rep. 11).

Where goods are shipped at an under-deck freight, but are carried on deck and finally delivered without damage, the ship-owner is entitled only to a deck freight. The Water Witch, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,971 [affirmed in 1 Black 494, 17 L. ed. 155]; Vernard v. Hudson, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,921, 3 Sumn. 405.

If the consignee agrees to pay the owner of a canal-boat wharfage as part of the freight, he is only liable for the actual wharfage charges incurred. Compton v. Heissenbuttel, 16 N. Y. Suppl. 524.

Compensation for carting to the consignee's yard, for which there is no lien in admiralty, may be charged against advances made by consignee. Gaughran v. One Hundred and Fifty-One Tons of Coal, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,273 [affirmed in 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,520].

Receiving part of the cargo by the assignee of a bill of lading is not an acceptance of the goods not enumerated in the bill of lading, and does not render him liable for freight but it was evidently the intention of the parties that freight should be paid, it is payable at the general rate prevailing at the time of shipment.[97] Statements in the bill of lading in regard to the weight or quantity of the goods are not conclusive on a question of freight unless expressly made so by the parties,[98] nor are statements in the invoice and entry.[99] As a general principle freight is payable only on so much of a cargo as is delivered, and there is an equitable presumption that such is the contract of the parties, to overcome which a contrary intent must be expressed with reasonable clearness and certainty;[1] and the ship being entitled to freight only on the weight delivered, whenever weighing is necessary in order to compute freight charges, the ship is bound to weigh the cargo;[2] and the evidence showing that the cargo as received was all delivered at the port of destination, the official weight at that place is conclusive of the extent of the carrier's right to freight;[3] but in the absence of contract stipulation or custom to the contrary, if the weight or measurement at the port of departure and the port of delivery differ, the lower rate is to be taken,[4] this rule not being applicable, however, if the parties contract otherwise.[5] The ship-owner in addition to his claim for damages for delay caused by loading the ship in excess of the amount called for by the contract may not recover freight for the transportation of the additional weight;[6] and similarly the owners of a vessel cannot recover dead freight from a shipper on account of his failure to load the full quantity contracted to be carried where there were no facilities for weighing the cargo, and the shipper accepted the estimate of the master that the full quantity had been loaded.[7] Where the cargo on the whole cargo, but only for freight on the portion actually received by him under the bill of lading. Byrne v. Weeks, 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 657.

97. Guinn v. Tyrie, 4 B. & S. 681, 33 L. J. Q. B. 97, 116 E. C. L. 681.

It is not a deviation, increasing the amount of compensation, for receiving and carrying a box of bullion that had been taken from an abandoned vessel, for a vessel to go out of her course to speak another at sea, on seeing a signal for that purpose nor to delay three hours, to take from a foreign ship, bound to a foreign port, shipwrecked mariners of the United States, for the purpose of bringing them direct to the United States. Williams v. Box of Bullion, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,717, 1 Sprague 57.

98. Cafiero v. Welsh, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,286, 8 Phila. (Pa.) 130; Brown v. Powell Coal Co., L. R. 10 C. P. 562, 2 Aspin. 578, 44 L. J. C. P. 289, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 621, 23 Wkly. Rep. 549 (holding that a ship-owner is not estopped by the signature of the bill of lading by the master from showing that the goods or some of them were never actually put on board); Blanchet v. Powell's Llantivit Collieries Co., L. R. 9 Exch. 74, 2 Aspin. 224, 43 L. J. Exch. 50, 30 L. T. Rep. N. S. 28, 22 Wkly. Rep. 490 (holding that in an action for freight the master is at liberty, notwithstanding the terms of 18 & 19 Vict. c. 111, § 3 (the Bills of Lading Act), to show that the cargo actually received by him differs in weight from that signed in the bill of lading; at all events where the weight mentioned in the bill of lading is a mere matter of measurement); Hedley v. Lapage, Holt 392, 17 Rev. Rep. 649, 3 E. C. L. 158; Geraldes v. Donison, Holt N. P. 346, 17 Rev. Rep. 645, 3 E. C. L. 141.

Burden of showing less quantity.— Bills of lading signed by the master are prima facie evidence that the quantities named therein were received by him; the onus of rebutting this presumption and of showing that a less quantity than that specified was received lies on the ship-owner. McLean v. Fleming, L. R. 2 H. L. Sc. 128, 1 Aspin. 160, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 317.

Where it is stipulated in the bill of lading that additional freight is to be paid on the goods should their actual value prove to be greater than that stated in the bill, the consignee who pays the stated freight, but knows that the value of the goods is greatly in excess of that stipulated in the bill, is liable for the additional freight, although he is only employed by the consignor to sell the goods on commission. North German Lloyd v. Heule, 44 Fed. 100, 10 L. R. A. 814.

99. Nine Thousand Six Hundred and Eighty-One Dry Ox Hides, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,273, 6 Ben. 199.

1. Clancy v. Dutton, 129 N. Y. App. Div. 23, 113 N. Y. Suppl. 124; Christie v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., 95 Fed. 837 [affirmed in 110 Fed. 1006, 49 C. C. A. 170].

2. Nine Thousand Six Hundred and Eighty-One Dry Ox Hides, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,273, 6 Ben. 199.

3. Cafiero v. Welsh, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,286, 8 Phila. (Pa.) 130.

4. Gibson v. Sturge, L. R. 10 Exch. 622, 1 Jur. N. S. 259, 24 L. J. Exch. 121, 3 Wkly. Rep. 165 [followed and approved in Buckle v. Knopp, L. R. 2 Exch. 333, 36 L. J. Exch. 223, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 571, 15 Wkly. Rep. 999].

5. Coulthurst v. Sweet, L. R. 1 C. P. 649.

6. Shaw v. Folsom, 38 Fed. 356.

7. Barber v. Vlasto, 104 Fed. 101.

owner takes the cargo from a vessel before the completion of her voyage, under circumstances which do not entitle her to exemplary damages, she can recover only such damages as will compensate her for the net injury suffered, and from the estimated net freight she would have earned is to be deducted the net amount she earned, or should reasonably have earned, during the time it would have taken her to complete the voyage.[8]

b. Freight Pro Rata. If a cargo is voluntarily accepted by the owner or his agent at any port other than the place of destination, freight pro rata is due in proportion to the voyage actually performed.[9] Conversely, freight pro rata itineris is not due, unless the owner of the cargo voluntarily agrees to receive it at a place short of its ultimate destination.[10] What amounts to voluntary accept-

8. The Eliza Lines, 102 Fed. 184.

9. Connecticut.— Escopiniche v. Stewart, 2 Conn. 391.

Louisiana.—Vance v. Clark, 1 La. 324.

Michigan.— Rossiter v. Chester, 1 Dougl. 154.

New York.— Welch v. Hicks, 6 Cow. 504, 16 Am. Dec. 443; Robinson v. Marine Ins. Co., 2 Johns. 323; Post v. Robertson, 1 Johns. 24.

Texas.—Adams v. Haught, 14 Tex. 243.

United States.— The Mohawk, 8 Wall. 153, 19 L. ed. 406; British, etc., Ins. Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 72 Fed. 285, 18 C. C. A. 561 [affirming 55 Fed. 82]; Bork v. Norton, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,659, 2 McLean 422; Hurtin v. Union Ins. Co., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,942, 1 Wash. 530; The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542; Two Hundred and Thirteen Tons of Coal, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,298, 7 Ben. 15.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 508.

Where there has been a voluntary acceptance by the insurers of a damaged cargo at an intermediate place, before its arrival at the place of destination, the master is entitled to freight pro rata itineris. McKibbin v. Peck, 39 N. Y. 262; Smyth v. Wright, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 51; Van Norden v. Littlejohn, 4 N. C. 457; The Mohawk, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 153, 19 L. ed. 406; British, etc., Mar. Ins. Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 72 Fed. 285, 18 C. C. A. 561 [affirming 55 Fed. 82]. But see Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co. v. Bird, 2 Bosw. (N. Y.) 195.

Where a vessel is taken to an intermediate port by salvors, she having encountered an overwhelming calamity, her owners may recover pro rata freight as to the portion of the cargo not sold for salvage or for other purposes, where there has been a mutual dispensation by both parties of any further prosecution of the voyage. The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542. And see Smyth v. Wright, 15 Barb. (N. Y.) 51; The Leptir, 5 Aspin. 411, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768.

Where property is transported on freight which is captured on the voyage and afterward recaptured, and restored upon payment of salvage, freight is to be paid in proportion to the voyage performed and the property saved, after deducting the salvage (Pinto v. Atwater, 1 Day (Conn.) 193); and where the vessel is captured and the cargo condemned as enemy's property, freight pro rata itineris was allowed on the outward voyage, as on a quantum meruit (Hooe v. Mason, 1 Wash. (Va.) 207; The Societe, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 209, 3 L. ed. 707. But see New York Mar. Ins. Co. v. United Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 186).

10. Louisiana.— Vance v. Clark, 1 La. 324.

Michigan.— Rossiter v. Chester, 1 Dougl. 154.

New York.— New York Mar. Ins. Co. v. United Ins. Co., 9 Johns. 186; Scott v. Libby, 2 Johns. 336, 3 Am. Dec. 431.

Ohio.—Whitney v. Rogers, 2 Disn. 421.

United States.— Caze v. Baltimore Ins. Co., 7 Cranch 358, 3 L. ed. 370; The Ann D. Richardson, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Abb. Adm. 499 [affirmed in 1 Fed. Cas. No. 411, 1 Blatchf 358 note]; The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542.

England.— Metcalfe v. Britannia Ironworks Co., 2 Q. B. D. 423, 3 Aspin. 407, 46 L. J. Q. B. 443, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 451, 25 Wkly. Rep. 720; The Soblomsten, L. R. 1 A. & E. 293, 36 L. J. Adm. 5, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 393, 15 Wkly. Rep. 591; Castel v. Trechman, Cab. & E. 276; The Newport, Swab. 335, 6 Wkly. Rep. 310. And see Osgood v. Groning, 2 Campb. 466, 11 Rev. Rep. 765.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 508.

Where a cargo is sold at an intermediate port on account of its perishable nature, the voyage having been defeated by an overwhelming calamity, pro rata freight is not recoverable (The Nathaniel Hooper, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,032, 3 Sumn. 542); and the same rule applies where goods are sold to pay for repairs to the vessel (Hopper v. Burness, 1 C. P. D. 137, 3 Aspin. 149, 45 L. J. C. P. 377, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 528, 24 Wkly. Rep. 612); and where goods damaged on the voyage are landed at an intermediate port, and sold without the assent of their owner, the shipowners are not entitled to freight pro rata itineris (Acatos v. Burns, 3 Ex. D. 282, 47 L. J. Exch. 566, 26 Wkly. Rep. 624; Hunter v. Prinsep, 10 East 378, 10 Rev. Rep. 328, 103 Eng. Reprint 818; Vlierboorn v. Chapman, 8 Jur. 811, 13 L. J. Exch. 384, 13 M. & W. 230. And see Morris v. Robinson, 3 B. & C. 196, 5 D. & R. 35, 27 Rev. Rep. 322, 10 E. C. L. 97); and to entitle a ship-owner, in the absence of a special contract, to demand pro rata freight, where the goods have been sold at an intermediate port, being so much damaged as not to be worth forwarding, it must be shown that the owner of the goods had an option of having them sent on or of ance depends largely upon the facts and circumstances of each particular case,[11] and may be inferred from the shipper's or consignee's actions,[12] it being essential to sustain a claim for pro rata freight that there be such a voluntary acceptance of the goods by their owner at an intermediate port as to raise a fair inference that further carriage of the goods was dispensed with.[13] In the case of a general ship, the contract is divisible in its nature, and freight is only due for what is delivered.[14]

c. Deductions and Offsets. Any damage in regard to the carriage of the goods may be deducted by way of recoupment,[15] which may embrace whatever accepting them at such intermediate port (Hill v. Wilson, 4 C. P. D. 329, 4 Aspin. 198, 48 L. J. C. P. 764, 41 L. T. Rep. N. S. 412).

The master, although agent for the ship and cargo to the extent of being empowered, in a case of extreme urgency, to sell either or both, is not authorized to accept the cargo on behalf of its owner short of the port of delivery, and cannot thereby bind him for pro rata freight (The Ann D. Richardson, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Abb. Adm. 499 [affirmed in 1 Fed. Cas. No. 411, 1 Blatchf. 358 note]); and laying claim to the proceeds of a sale of a cargo made by the master at an intermediate port, or bringing suit for such proceeds, does not amount, in law, to a voluntary acceptance of the cargo, or to a ratification of the act of the master in breaking up the voyage, binding the shipper to pay pro rata freight (The Ann D. Richardson, supra).

The act of congress exempting owners of vessels as common carriers from responsibility for the accidental destruction of goods by fire does not entitle the carrier to pro rata freight for goods so destroyed. Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month. 75.

11. See cases cited infra, this note.

Facts held to constitute voluntary acceptance see Rossiter v. Chester, 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 154, holding that where the owner of goods, knowing that the voyage had been abandoned, its further prosecution having become impossible or extremely hazardous, demanded his goods at an intermediate port from the agent of the forwarders with whom they were stored, tendered payment of their charges for storage, and brought replevin to recover possession, on the refusal of such agent to deliver them, he was deemed to have voluntarily accepted them at such port, and the carrier was entitled to freight pro rata itineris.

Facts held not to constitute voluntary acceptance see Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month. 75; Adams v. Haught, 14 Tex. 243, holding that where the master refuses to repair his ship and send on the goods, or to procure other means for the purpose, and the owner of the goods then receives them, this is not such an acceptance of the goods as will entitle the ship-owner to a pro rata freight.

12. Gray v. Waln, 2 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 229, 7 Am. Dec. 642.

13. The Soblomsten, L. R. 1 A. & E. 293, 36 L. J. Adm. 5, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 393, 15 Wkly. Rep. 591.

Acceptance of the proceeds of goods sold at an intermediate port does not amount to voluntary acceptance within the meaning of the rule. Escopiniche v. Stewart, 2 Conn. 391 (holding that where goods shipped on freight to a certain port were carried to a different port, where they were taken and sold by a stranger, who remitted the proceeds to the shipper, the acceptance of such proceeds was not equivalent to a voluntary acceptance of the goods, so as to render him liable for proportional freight); The Ann D. Richardson, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 410, Abb. Adm. 499 [affirmed in 1 Fed. Cas. No. 411, 1 Blatchf. 358 note].

14. Vance v. Clark, 1 La. 324. And see Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. (U. S.) 527, 16 L. ed. 177.

15. Aldrich v. Cargo of 246-5/20 Tons of Egg Coal, 117 Fed. 757 (holding that where a canal-boat laden with coal filled and sank, after reaching her dock, through leakage, and the negligence of her captain, and the consignee, whose duty it was to discharge the cargo, did so after waiting two days, being put to additional expense because the boat was under water, he was justified in such action to save the cargo from further damage and possible loss, and was entitled to offset the increased cost of discharging against the carrier's claim for freight); Relyea v. New Haven Rolling-Mill Co., 75 Fed. 420, 42 Conn. 579 (holding that where a master who is also owner of a vessel gives a shipper a bill of lading, reciting the receipt of a certain amount of iron, and an agreement to deliver it to the consignees who, relying on the correctness of the recital, pay the shipper for more iron than is actually on board, their loss may be recouped against a claim for the freight, which was to be paid by the consignees, subject, however, to limitation to the amount claimed for freight); The Gwalia's Cargo, 26 Fed. 919; Dedekam v. Vose, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,732 [affirmed in 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,729, 3 Blatchf. 44]; The Governor Carey, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,645*a*, 2 Hask. 487 (in case of wreck from the fault of the master in carrying cargo on deck, amounts paid by the owners of the cargo in recovering their property); Leland v. Agnew, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,236 (holding that where, upon the refusal of a ship's owners to deliver tobacco at the wharf specified in the bill of lading, the owners of the tobacco sent lighters, and had the tobacco removed to the wharf at their own expense, they might properly offset the freight charges); Thatcher v.

could be recovered in a cross action for breach of the contract of affreightment;[16] and where the injury done by the carrier to the cargo exceeded the freight, to that extent the carrier's right to freight will be defeated.[17] But to sustain the offset the damage must be clearly shown,[18] and the demands must be mutual,[19] and to be recouped must be a part of the transaction sued on.[20] The owners of the cargo cannot split up their demand for loss and damage and apply part of it as an offset to the freight;[21] and thus a libellant who insists upon recovering damages to a cargo in an independent suit cannot apply any portion of same by way of abatement in a suit for the recovery of freight, although he has set up, in his answer to the latter suit, such damages by way of abatement.[22] When a bill of lading recites a shipment in bulk as so many tons, at so much freight per ton, it will be construed as a contract for carriage in bulk, and the freight is not subject to reduction because the cargo when delivered does not weigh out the quantity stated.[23]

McCulloh, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,862, Olcott 365 (holding that where a consignee receives a cargo with knowledge of a deviation of the vessel during the voyage, and the ship-owners bring an action to recover freight, the court will not require the consignee to bring a cross action, but may adjust and recompense, by way of recoupment, any special damage which has been sustained by the consignee because of the deviation). And see Humphreys v. Reed, 6 Whart. (Pa.) 435.

Claim for goods never actually put on board.—In an action by the owners of a vessel, of whom the master is one, to recover freight for goods actually carried, delivered, and accepted by the consignee, the latter cannot recoup in damages a loss sustained by him by reason of a failure to deliver cargo never actually put on board the vessel, but which the master, without other authority than that which belonged to him in that capacity, improperly receipted for in the bill of lading, for the owners cannot be bound by such actions of the master (Sears v. Wingate, 3 Allen (Mass.) 103); and a custom to deduct from the freight earned by a vessel in carrying goods the value of any deficiency between the quantity delivered and that stated in the bill of lading, and that the carrier shall not be permitted to show that he delivered all he received, is unreasonable and invalid (Law v. Botsford, 26 Fed. 651).

Deductions disallowed see Costello v. 734,700 Laths, etc., 44 Fed. 105 (holding that where the bill of lading contains no provision requiring the vessel to pile her cargo of laths in the yard of the consignee, the expense of piling them cannot be allowed the consignee in reduction in an action for freight); Martin v. 182,259 Feet of Hemlock Lumber, 37 Fed. 415; Eaton v. Neumark, 33 Fed. 891.

But in England where the question arose in a law court it was held that the person liable for the freight cannot set off unliquidated damages to which he claims to be entitled as against the carrier, although arising from breaches of the contract of affreightment as for goods lost or injured. Seeger v. Duthie, 8 C. B. 45, 6 Jur. N. S. 1095, 29 L. J. C. P. 253, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 483, 98 E. C. L. 45; Meyer v. Dresser, 16 C. B. N. S. 646, 33 L. J. C. P. 289, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 612, 12 Wkly. Rep. 983, 111 E. C. L. 646, holding that a consignee of goods, or an indorser of a bill of lading, has no right to set off the value of missing goods against the freight payable in respect to the goods delivered.

Under code practice the damages may be counter-claimed (Byrne v. Weeks, 4 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 657), particularly where the contract so provides (The Garston v. Hickie, 18 Q. B. D. 17, 6 Aspin. 71, 56 L. J. Q. B. 38, 55 L. T. Rep. N. S. 879, 35 Wkly. Rep. 33).

16. Thatcher v. McCulloh, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,862, Olcott 365.

17. Ewart v. Kerr, 2 McMull. (S. C.) 141; Bradstreet v. Heran, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,792*a*, 2 Blatchf. 116 [affirming 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,792, 1 Abb. Adm. 209], holding that upon a libel in personam by the master against the consignee to recover freight, where the damages to the cargo exceed the freight, the libel will be dismissed.

18. Nye v. Ayres, 1 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 532; Brouty v. Five Thousand Two Hundred and Fifty-Six Bundles of Elm Staves, 21 Fed. 590 [affirmed in 23 Fed. 106].

19. Hatch v. Tucker, 12 R. I. 501, 34 Am. Rep. 707; Sumner v. Walker, 30 Fed. 261, holding that a through bill of lading, providing for a transhipment to another vessel at an intermediate port, and for payment of the whole freight at the port of discharge, does not import the joint liability of each, or that the latter carrier is the agent of the former, but independent rights of the latter ship, and does not impose upon the latter vessel any liability for damages occasioned by prior negligence, and she is therefore entitled to collect her just freight upon delivery of the goods, without offset or deduction for prior damages without her fault.

20. Ryder v. Hall, 7 Allen (Mass.) 456; Sears v. Wingate, 3 Allen (Mass.) 103.

21. The Ethel, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,540, 5 Ben. 154.

22. Brower v. The Water Witch, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,971, 19 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 241 [affirmed in 1 Black (U. S.) 494, 17 L. ed. 155].

23. Planters' Fertilizer Mfg. Co. v. Elder, 101 Fed. 1001, 42 C. C. A. 130.

3. Payment and Tender — a. General Rules; When Payable; Medium of Payment. Payment of freight cannot be demanded before the consignee has had opportunity to examine the goods;[24] and although the holder of the bill of lading cannot require delivery of the cargo without paying freight, he may require it to be discharged so that it can be inspected by him.[25] In the absence of agreement to the contrary freight is payable in cash; but the parties may regulate the matter between themselves and arrange for another medium of payment, such as commercial paper,[28] in which case, however, if the paper is dishonored upon maturity the payer is not discharged from his original liability.[27] Where the bill of lading is silent as to the time for payment of the freight, the law implies that it is to be paid on delivery of the goods at the port of discharge;[28] and a tender of the freight at the port of discharge will relieve the shipper or consignee from liability for costs or expenses subsequent thereto,[29] to which a refusal to pay would subject him;[30] but the master, on a tender of freight at the ship, may take a reasonable time to ascertain the correct amount from the consignees of the ship, but cannot in the meantime order the goods to be stored at the expense of the owner.[31]

b. To Whom Payable. The freight is payable primarily to the person with whom the contract was made,[32] usually the owner or any one duly authorized by him to receive it.[33] The master as a general rule represents the owner so that

24. Lanata v. The Henry Grinnell, 13 La. Ann. 24; Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. (U. S.) 527, 10 L. ed. 177.

25. The Treasurer, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,159, 1 Sprague 473.

26. The Bird of Paradise, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 545, 18 L. ed. 662.

The insolvency of a shipper, occurring while the goods are in transit or before they are delivered, will not absolve the carrier from an agreement to take an acceptance on time instead of cash for the freight, or authorize him when he has made such agreement to retain the goods until the freight is paid. The Bird of Paradise, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 545, 18 L. ed. 662.

27. Grant v. Wood, 21 N. J. L. 292, 47 Am. Dec. 162. And see Bacon v. Westervelt, 29 Conn. 591.

28. British, etc., Mar. Ins. Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 72 Fed. 285 [affirming 55 Fed. 82].

A general but not universal practice in a particular port of ship-owners to allow goods brought on their vessels to be transported to the warehouse of the consignee and inspected before freight is paid is not such a custom as will displace the ordinary maritime right to demand freight on the delivery of the goods on the wharf. The Eddy, 5 Wall. (U. S.) 481, 18 L. ed. 486.

29. Dedekam v. Vose, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,732 [affirmed in 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,729, 3 Blatchf. 44], where an offer by a shipper to pay a balance of freight, deducting damages to the goods, to be ascertained by arbitration or sale at auction, was held a sufficient tender to relieve him from payment of costs.

The refusal of the ship's agents to deliver cargo partly damaged, except on the payment of a precise sum by consignee, which is in excess of the amount due, dispenses with the necessity of a tender by the consignee. The Tangier, 32 Fed. 230. Similarly where a larger sum was demanded for freight by the master than was due, and the demand was so made as to amount to an announcement by the master that it was useless to tender a smaller sum, as it would be refused, these facts amounted to a dispensation of a tender. The Norway, Brown. & L. 404, 11 Jur. N. S. 892, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 50, 3 Moore P. C. N. S. 245, 13 Wkly. Rep. 1085, 16 Eng. Reprint 92.

Tender held sufficient see Luard v. Butcher, 2 C. & K. 29, 61 E. C. L. 29.

30. Brittan v. The Alboni, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 1,902 [reversed on other grounds in 21 How. 527, 16 L. ed. 177].

31. The Diadem, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,875, 4 Ben. 247.

32. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 588.

33. Bixby v. Adams, 2 Brev. (S. C.) 352 (holding that where, by a covenant, a ship is to be given up to defendant, as owner, upon a certain event, he paying the sailing expenses, the freight earned by the voyage in question belongs to defendant); Boyd v. Mangles, 3 Exch. 387, 18 L. J. Exch. 273; Fox v. Nott, 6 H. & N. 630, 7 Jur. N. S. 663, 30 L. J. Exch. 259. See Walshe v. Provan, 1 C. L. R. 823, 8 Exch. 843, 22 L. J. Exch. 355; Mangles v. Dixon, 3 H. L. Cas. 702, 10 Eng. Reprint 278. But see Johnson v. Strader, 3 Mo. 359, holding that the law concerning ships and seagoing vessels is not applicable to flat-boats and fresh-water craft. The person making the contract for freight in flat-boats, and not the owner of the boats is entitled to it.

Obligee of bottomry bond.— The receipt of freight by the obligee of a bottomry bond is in law a receipt of it by the ship-owner, whose master has given that bond in discharge of expenses incurred in the necessary repairs of the ship. Benson v. Chapman, 8 C. B. 950, 2 H. L. Cas. 696, 13 Jur. 969, 65 E. C. L. 950, 9 Eng. Reprint 1256.

payment of freight to him is equivalent to payment to the owner in the absence of notice from the owner not to pay him;[34] and the master, having a special property

A ship's husband is entitled to receive freight, and to deduct his disbursements therefrom. Harris v. Reynolds, 4 Wkly. Rep. 278.

Part-owner.—An action for freight may be brought by a part-owner on behalf of himself and the other part-owners. De Hart v. Stevenson, 1 Q. B. D. 313, 45 L. J. Q. B. 575, 24 Wkly. Rep. 367. And where one coöwner assigns his interest in the ship and voyage to another coöwner, the assignee can maintain an action in admiralty to recover freight on property transported on such voyage. Swett v. Black, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,690, 1 Sprague 574. But it is held that a part-owner is not entitled to any part of the freight earned upon a voyage from the setting out of which he dissents. Boson v. Sandford, Carth. 58, 90 Eng. Reprint 638, 3 Lev. 258, 83 Eng. Reprint 678.

Assignee of freight.—The right to freight is incidental to the ownership of the vessel which earns it, and therefore a transfer of a share in a ship passes the corresponding share in the freight, without the mention of the word "freight." Lindsay v. Gibbs, 22 Beav. 522, 2 Jur. N. S. 1039, 4 Wkly. Rep. 788, 52 Eng. Reprint 1209. But an asssignment of the freight and profits of a ship does not extend to profits not in existence, actual or potential, at the time of the assignment. Robinson v. McDonnell, 2 B. & Ald. 134, 5 M. & S. 228. Although an express assignment by the owners of a ship of freight to be earned is good (Douglas v. Russell, 4 Sim. 524, 6 Eng. Ch. 524, 58 Eng. Reprint 196 [affirmed in 1 Myl. & K. 488, 7 Eng. Ch. 488, 39 Eng. Reprint 766]), an assignment to a third party of freight, or a fixed sum out of freight, passes, as between part-owners, only net freight, but a mortgagee, not in possession when the freight was received, has no locus standi afterward to insist on such a construction (The Edmund, 29 L. J. Adm. 76, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 192, Lush. 57). The holders of a bill of lading cannot, as against the assignees of the freight, set off a debt due to them from the original owner of the goods who was also the assignor of the freight. Weguelin v. Collier, L. R. 6 H. L. 286, 42 L. J. Ch. 758, 22 Wkly. Rep. 26.

Assignee of ship.—The transfer of a ship before delivery of the cargo passes the right to sue for the freight; and the law implies a promise to pay by the consignee receiving the goods (Pelayo v. Fox, 9 Pa. St. 489; Lindsay v. Gibbs, 2 De G. & J. 690, 5 Jur. N. S. 376, 28 L. J. Ch. 692, 7 Wkly. Rep. 320, 60 Eng. Ch. 533, 44 Eng. Reprint 1435; Case v. Davidson, 5 M. & S. 79); and if the owner of a ship, having chartered her for a voyage, assigns her before its completion, and afterward assigns the charter-party to another, if she earns freight, the assignee of the ship is entitled to the freight as incident to the ship (Morrison v. Parsons, 2 Taunt. 407, 11 Rev. Rep. 622); but he cannot sue on the charter-party otherwise than in the name of the assignor (Morrison v. Parsons, supra). A covenant in a charter-party to pay freight to the owner for the hire of the vessel is not transferred to the vendee by a bill of sale of the ship made during the voyage; and such owner afterward becoming bankrupt, his assignees, and not the vendee of the ship, have the legal right to receive the freight and demurrage due from the freighter upon the charter-party. Splidt v. Bowles, 10 East 279, 10 Rev. Rep. 296, 103 Eng. Reprint 781.

A mortgagee of a ship does not ordinarily speaking obtain by the mortgage alone a transfer, by way of contract or assignment, of the right to freight. The mortgagor remains dominus of the ship, with regard to everything relating to its employment or non-employment, or to any rate of freight to be earned by its employment, until the mortgagee takes possession (Keith v. Burrows, 2 App. Cas. 636, 3 Aspin. 481, 46 L. J. C. P. 801, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 291, 25 Wkly. Rep. 831); and a mere mortgage of a ship does not give a mortgagee a right to the earnings of a ship received by the mortgagor after the execution of the mortgage, but before the mortgagee takes possession (Willis v. Palmer, 7 C. B. N. S. 340, 6 Jur. N. S. 732, 29 L. J. C. P. 194, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 626, 8 Wkly. Rep. 295, 97 E. C. L. 340); the mortgagee on taking possession, however, becomes the owner and by virtue of that ownership is entitled to receive the freight which, by contract or otherwise, is lawfully payable (Keith v. Burrows, supra; Rusden v. Pope, L. R. 3 Exch. 269, 37 L. J. Exch. 137, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 651, 16 Wkly. Rep. 1122; Dean v. McGhie, 4 Bing. 45, 13 E. C. L. 392, 2 C. & P. 387, 12 E. C. L. 632, 5 L. J. C. P. O. S. 44, 12 Moore C. P. 185; Kerswell v. Bishop, 2 Cromp. & J. 529, 1 L. J. Exch. 227, 2 Tyrw. 602); and although the mortgagee cannot recover back from the mortgagor freight which he has allowed the mortgagor to receive, yet he may at any time intercept the freight by giving notice to the mortgagor, consignee, or charterer that he intends to exercise his right of property, and to require the freight to be paid to him (Wilson v. Wilson, L. R. 14 Eq. 32, 1 Aspin. 265, 41 L. J. Ch. 423, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 346, 20 Wkly. Rep. 436). When the entire ship is mortgaged, in order to defeat the right of the mortgagor to receive the freight, the mortgagee must take possession of her before the completion of the voyage; but where the mortgagor of certain shares is ship's husband, if the mortgagees join with the owners of the other shares in the appointment of a new ship's husband before the completion of the voyage, the mortgagor loses all right as ship's husband to receive the freight. Beynon v. Godden, 3 Ex. D. 263, 4 Aspin. 10, 48 L. J. Exch. 80, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 82, 26 Wkly. Rep. 672. A claimant for necessaries has no equity to precede the mortgagee. The Two Ellens, L. R. 4 P. C. 161, 1 Aspin. 208, 41 L. J. Adm. 33, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 1, 8 Moore P. C. N. S. 398, 20 Wkly. Rep. 592, 17 Eng. Reprint 361.

34. Atkinson v. Cotesworth, 3 B. & C. 647, in the vessel, may declare for the freight of goods as carried in his vessel, although he is not owner;[35] and a master with whom a contract is made in his own name may sue for freight under it;[36] but a payment to the owner absolves the shipper,[37] for the master has no right to freight as against the owner, although the latter may be in debt;[38] and where the bill of lading provides that freight shall be payable to a third party, and not to the ship-owner, payment for freight to the master or ship-owner affords no answer to an action by the third party in the name of the ship-owner for the non-payment of freight.[39]

c. Persons Liable. Primarily the liability for freight is on the person who makes the contract;[40] that is to say, where there is no charter-party the shipper of the goods or the person on whose behalf they were shipped;[41] and the shipper, being the owner of the goods sent by a general ship, is liable for the freight, at all events, independently of the bill of lading; and it is immaterial whether the ownership appears on the bill of lading or not;[42] and the actual shipper is liable, although acting in fact only as agent for another, unless he made it clear in contracting that he did not intend to be bound;[43] and although the master signs a bill of lading, expressing that upon the delivery of the cargo freight is to be paid by the consignees, he does not thereby renounce his claim for freight against the consignor, but may hold the latter liable as upon an ordinary bill of lading.[44] The consignee of cargo and holder of the bill of lading is also liable for freight,[45]

10 E. C. L. 294, 1 C. & P. 339, 12 E. C. L. 203, 5 D. & R. 552, 3 L. J. K. B. O. S. 104, 27 Rev. Rep. 450; Guion v. Trask, 1 De G. F. & J. 373, 6 Jur. N. S. 185, 29 L. J. Ch. 337, 1 L. T. Rep. N. S. 469, 8 Wkly. Rep. 266, 62 Eng. Ch. 286, 45 Eng. Reprint 403. And see Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 589.

If the owner appoints an agent to collect the freight the master's authority is superseded. The Edmond, 29 L. J. Adm. 76, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 192, Lush. 57.

35. Shields v. Davis, 4 Campb. 119, 6 Taunt. 65, 1 E. C. L. 510.

36. Seeger v. Duthie, 8 C. B. N. S. 72, 7 Jur. N. S. 239, 30 L. J. C. P. 65, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 478, 9 Wkly. Rep. 166, 98 E. C. L. 72.

37. Atkinson v. Cotesworth, 3 B. & C. 647, 10 E. C. L. 294, 1 C. & P. 339, 12 E. C. L. 203, 5 D. & R. 552, 3 L. J. K. B. O. S. 104, 27 Rev. Rep. 450.

38. Smith v. Plummer, 1 B. & Ald. 575, 19 Rev. Rep. 391; Atkinson v. Cotesworth, 3 B. & C. 647, 10 E. C. L. 294, 1 C. & P. 339, 12 E. C. L. 203, 5 D. & R. 552, 3 L. J. K. B. O. S. 104, 27 Rev. Rep. 450; Gibson v. Ingo, 6 Hare 112, 31 Eng. Ch. 112, 67 Eng. Reprint 1103. And see Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 589.

39. Kirchner v. Venus, 5 Jur. N. S. 395, 12 Moore P. C. 361, 7 Wkly. Rep. 455, 14 Eng. Reprint 948.

40. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 602.

41. Cawthron v. Trickett, 15 C. B. N. S. 754, 33 L. J. C. P. 182, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 609, 71 Wkly. Rep. 311, 109 E. C. L. 754; Dickenson v. Lano, 2 F. & F. 188; Fox v. Nott, 6 H. & N. 630, 7 Jur. N. S. 663, 30 L. J. Exch. 259.

Equity jurisdiction.— A court of equity will not entertain a bill by a ship-owner against a freighter for an account of what is due in respect of freight, although the charter-party expressed that the freight was to be paid according to the quantity of the cargo, and it was charged that in the bill of lading that quantity was stated untruly. Long v. Young, 2 L. J. Ch. O. S. 139. But the court will entertain a suit for an account of the freight of a ship grounded on a contract which also contains stipulations affecting to give an ultimate right of property in the ship, and which may not be capable of being recognized or enforced as a whole, for want of being registered, provided the title to the freight is distinct from, and does not necessarily depend upon, a title to the ship claimed under such contract. Davenport v. Whitmore, 6 L. J. Ch. 58, 2 Myl. & C. 177, 14 Eng. Ch. 177, 40 Eng. Reprint 608.

42. Grant v. Wood, 21 N. J. L. 292, 47 Am. Dec. 162.

43. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.) § 602. And see Kennedy v. Gouveia, 3 D. & R. 503, 26 Rev. Rep. 616, 16 E. C. L. 174.

44. Christy v. Row, 1 Taunt. 300, 9 Rev. Rep. 776.

45. Hairy v. Dennistoun, 5 Rob. (La.) 130; Smith v. Flowers, 6 Mart. (La.) 12; Gates v. Ryan, 37 Fed. 154.

Effect of clause "He or they paying freight."— The usual clause in a bill of lading, engaging the master of the ship to deliver the goods to the consignee or his assigns, "he or they paying freight for the said goods," is introduced for the benefit of the master only, and not for the benefit of the consignor; and therefore the master is not bound to the consignor to withhold the delivery of the goods, unless the consignee or his assigns pay the freight (Shepard v. De Bernales, 13 East 565, 12 Rev. Rep. 442, 104 Eng. Reprint 490 [followed in Domett v. Beckford, 5 B. & Ad. 521, 2 N. & M. 374, 3 L. J. K. B. 10, 27 E. C. L. 223], holding that although but an agent to sell,[46] as is also the assignee of the bill of lading, who received the goods,[47] unless the assignor is bound by charter-party to pay it,[48] or unless the assignee had bound himself by an express agreement to pay it as surety for the assignor;[49] and the indorsee of a bill of lading which directs the goods to be delivered to order or to assigns, paying freight, is liable for the freight, although he is only acting as broker for the consignee; and although a long period has elapsed since the landing of the goods without any demand of freight, he is bound not to deliver the goods till he knows that freight has been paid,[50] such liability resulting not from the original contract of affreightment, but from a new contract, the consideration for which is the delivery of the goods;[51] and, further, an implied undertaking by one who receives the goods to pay the freight may be inferred from the mere receipt, although he has not presented any bill of lading or asked for delivery, if the course of business between the parties on previous occasions has been for him to receive goods consigned to him and pay the freight on them;[52] and it is held generally that whoever it does not vary the rule that the consignor was also the charterer of the ship); and if goods shipped by a general ship by a bill of lading to be delivered to a certain consignee "on paying the freight" are delivered to the consignee without freight being paid, the owner is not thereby discharged from his liability for the freight (Grant v. Wood, 21 N. J. L. 292, 47 Am. Dec. 162; Jobbitt v. Goundry, 29 Barb. (N. Y.) 509; Barker v. Havens, 17 Johns. (N. Y.) 234, 8 Am. Dec. 393). The rule had been previously held to be otherwise. Drew v. Bird, M. & M. 156, 22 E. C. L. 492.

The consignee of goods, where there is no bill of lading, is not in general liable for the freight; but prior dealings with him, and payments by him of the freight on former occasions of the same kind, are evidence to show that in the particular case he contracted on the receipt of the goods to pay the freight. Coleman v. Lambert, 9 L. J. Exch. 43, 5 M. & W. 502.

46. Gates v. Ryan, 37 Fed. 154.

Ship-brokers who have no connection with a cargo, except as brokers to sell same, collect the amounts due, and pay the freight, are not as a general rule liable for the freight. Damora v. Craig, 48 Fed. 736.

In England where a ship-owner has, under section 67 of the Merchant Shipping Act, Amendm. Act (1862) (25 & 26 Vict. c. 63), deposited goods with a warehouseman, and the consignee for sale has deposited the amount of freight under section 70 of the same act, the ship-owner's lien is discharged, and the consignee may obtain delivery of the goods ex warehouse without a contract being implied on his part to undertake any personal liability for the amount of the freight. White v. Furness, [1895] A. C. 40, 7 Aspin. 574, 64 L. J. Q. B. 161, 72 L. T. Rep. N. S. 157, 11 Reports 53.

47. Trask v. Duvall, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,144, 4 Wash. 181; Stindt v. Roberts, 5 D. & L. 460, 12 Jur. 518, 17 L. J. Q. B. 166, 2 Saund. & C. 212 (holding that an assignee of a bill of lading who claims and receives goods under it is bound by the terms of the bill of lading not only as to the amount of freight, but also for demurrage, if he does not unload the ship within the time limited by the bill of lading, according to its terms, and there is a sufficient consideration arising on the claim of the goods by the consignee, from which the law will infer a promise by the consignee to pay such demurrage as well as the freight); Renteria v. Ruding, Mont. & M. 511, 22 E. C. L. 575.

48. Trask v. Duvall, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,144, 4 Wash. 181.

49. Dayton v. Parke, 67 Hun (N. Y.) 137, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 613 [reversed on other grounds in 142 N. Y. 391, 37 N. E. 642]; Trask v. Duvall, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,144, 4 Wash. 181.

50. Bell v. Kymer, 3 Campb. 545, 1 Marsh. 146, 5 Taunt. 477, 1 E. C. L. 247.

But an indorsee of a bill of lading who has indorsed the same over before the arrival of the vessel and delivery of the cargo does not, under 18 & 19 Vict. c. 111, § 1, remain liable for the freight. Smurthwaite v. Wilkins, 11 C. B. N. S. 842, 31 L. J. C. P. 214, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 842, 7 L. T. Rep. N. S. 65, 10 Wkly. Rep. 386, 103 E. C. L. 842.

51. Kemp v. Clark, 12 Q. B. 647, 12 Jur. 676, 17 L. J. Q. B. 305, 64 E. C. L. 647.

52. Pinder v. Wilks, 1 Marsh. 248, 5 Taunt. 612, 1 E. C. L. 314 (holding that an implied assumpsit for freight, upon the delivery of goods without first receiving the freight, will not lie against three persons for whose use the cargo was purchased, but who are not the consignees or holders of the bills of lading, and who have assigned all their effects to a trustee for the benefit of their creditors and themselves, receiving the goods as agents for that trustee); Wilson v. Kymer, 1 M. & S. 157. Compare Moorsom v. Kymer, 3 Campb. 549 note, 2 M. & S. 303, 15 Rev. Rep. 261.

Receiving goods as evidence of promise to pay.— The master having contracted by the bill of lading with the shippers to deliver goods to certain persons or their assigns, he or they paying freight for the same, the demanding and taking of such goods from the master by a purchaser and assignee of the bill of lading, without the freight having been paid, is evidence of a new contract and promise on the part of such purchaser, as receives cargo from a vessel under a bill of lading, in the absence of a different understanding, is liable for the freight;[53] and although freight may not be payable in respect of a man's own goods conveyed in his own ship, it becomes so if he makes third persons, who have advanced him money, the consignees of those goods, and the goods are by the bill of lading deliverable to their order;[54] but where goods are delivered to persons who are neither assignees of the bills of lading nor owners of the cargo until after delivery, they are not liable for the freight;[55] and no contract to accept the cargo, or any part of it, within a reasonable time, and to pay the freight, can be inferred from the mere fact of the assignee of the bill of lading presenting it to the captain and demanding the delivery of the cargo.[56] Captors substitute themselves in the place of the original owners, and take the property cum onere. They are therefore responsible for the freight which then attached upon the property.[57]

d. Advance Freight and the Recovery Back Thereof. Where freight is paid in advance and the voyage is not performed or the contract of affreightment not fulfilled, the ship-owner cannot without an express agreement to this effect retain it;[58] and such agreement must be clear and unambiguous in its terms;[59] and this rule cannot be overcome by proof of a local custom that freight prepaid is not to be returned in case the vessel is lost on the voyage.[60] Thus if goods are lost through improper storage, advance freight paid is recoverable;[61] and generally where goods are lost at sea through the negligence of the ship, the shipper may recover the freight paid in advance;[62] and the shipper is entitled to recover back freight which he had advanced on goods shipped even though the voyage was broken up and the delivery of the goods prevented by the dangers of the sea, there being no evidence of a special contract varying that contained in the bill the ultimate appointee of the shippers for the purpose of delivery, to pay the freight. Cock v. Taylor, 2 Camph. 587, 13 East 399, 12 Rev. Rep. 378, 104 Eng. Reprint 424.

53. Dayton v. Parke, 67 Hun (N. Y.) 137, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 613 [reversed on other grounds in 142 N. Y. 391, 37 N. E. 642] (holding that where a cargo is consigned to defendants and they are notified of its arrival and make no objection, and they accept the inspector's certificate that the cargo has been discharged, they are prima facie the owners, and are liable for the freight); Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Barnard, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,086, 3 Ben. 39.

54. Weguelin v. Cellier, L. R. 6 H. L. 286, 42 L. J. Ch. 758, 22 Wkly. Rep. 26.

55. The Syskonen v. Logan, 28 Fed. 335.

56. Young v. Meller, 5 E. & B. 755, 3 Jur. N. S. 393, 25 L. J. Q. B. 94, 4 Wkly. Rep. 149, 85 E. C. L. 755.

57. The Antonia Johanna, 1 Wheat. (U. S.) 159, 4 L. ed. 60.

58. The Schooner Arthur B., 1 Alaska 403 (holding that on the total failure of the voyage the shippers are entitled to have the return of their freight money); Wirgman v. Mactier, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 150; Chase v. Alliance Ins. Co., 9 Allen (Mass.) 311; Burn Line v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 162 Fed. 298, 89 C. C. A. 278 [reversing on other grounds 150 Fed. 423]; Pitman v. Hooper, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,185, 3 Sumn. 50.

Where the consideration is the receiving of the goods on board and not transportation of them advanced payment therefor cannot be recovered, the vessel being wrecked soon after commencement of the voyage. Watson v. Duykinck, 3 Johns. (N. Y.) 335.

59. Chase v. Alliance Ins. Co., 9 Allen (Mass.) 311.

An agreement making the shipment at shipper's risk will relieve the carrier from refunding advance freight upon loss by peril of the sea (Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Liverpool, etc., Steam Co., 18 Fed. 192 [affirming 12 Fed. 77]; and the general rule that freight prepaid, but which is not earned by delivery of the goods, must be refunded, does not apply as between owner and charterer, where by reference in the charter-party the bills of lading are incorporated therein, and they contain a provision that freight prepaid shall be considered as earned, ship lost or not lost (Burn Line v. U. S., etc., Steamship Co., 150 Fed. 423 [reversed on other grounds in 162 Fed. 298, 89 C. C. A. 278]. And see British, etc., Mar. Ins. Co. v. Portland Flouring Mills Co., 124 Fed. 855 [affirmed in 130 Fed. 860, 65 C. C. A. 344]).

60. De Sola v. Pomares, 119 Fed. 373, holding that bills of lading in the ordinary form, which show prepayment of the freight, in connection with the established rules of law, constitute a completed contract, binding the carrier to refund the freight, if not earned; and, in the absence of fraud or mistake, parol evidence is not admissible to change the conditions of such contract.

61. Fleishman v. The John P. Best, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,861, 14 Phila. (Pa.) 527, 8 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 30.

62. Brauer v. Compagnia De Navigacion La Flechs, 61 Fed. 860 [affirmed in 66 Fed. 776, 14 C. C. A. 88].

of lading, which was in the usual form.[63] Where a steamer is paid in advance for the transportation of certain goods, and compels the consignee to pay a further amount on delivery of the goods to him, a claim for the amount so paid is allowable against the vessel.[64]

4. Assignment or Hypothecation.[65] The master may bind the freight as well as the vessel on a bottomry bond;[66] but he has no more authority to pledge unearned freight for money borrowed in a foreign port than to pledge the vessel herself, and in either case he has such power only when the necessities of the vessel require it.[67] Where freight is hypothecated, it means the freight of the whole voyage, and not merely for that part of the voyage unperformed at the execution of the bond;[68] and where the contract for the carriage of the goods made by an unauthorized person differs from that specified in the bill of lading signed by the master, and the freight due by the bill of lading is assigned by indorsement on the bill, made with the assent of the owners, to parties who have furnished supplies to the vessel, they will be entitled to recover in an action on the assignment whatever may be due under the actual contract.[69]

5. Actions; Nature; Procedure. An action for the recovery of freight lies in admiralty in favor of the carrier by ship against the consignee of cargo, equally in personam and in rem;[70] but a claim for dead freight is not recoverable in an action in rem against the cargo;[71] and a claim by a vessel owner for the extra cost of handling timber of larger dimensions than that specified in the contract can only be recovered in rem against the cargo in so far as it is a claim for the services of stevedores who would be entitled to a lien, and is not so recoverable where the stevedores were furnished by the shipper.[72] Actions for freight are governed by the general rules relating to the time of bringing suit,[73] the

63. Phelps v. Williamson, 5 Sandf. (N. Y.) 578; Emery v. Dunbar, 1 Daly (N. Y.) 408, holding that, in the absence of a special agreement to the contrary, freight paid in advance may be recovered back, where by reason of the capture or shipwreck of the vessel, or for any other cause, the goods are not carried to their destination; and this rule of law cannot be controlled by proof of any other usage to the contrary.

64. The Wyoming, 36 Fed. 493.

65. Bottomry of vessel and freight see, generally, supra, VI.

66. Kelly v. Cushing, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 269. And see infra, VI, D, 2, b.

A draft given for advances for repairs in a foreign port, expressed to be "for value received in disbursements, and repairs" of a certain brig, with directions to charge the same to her account, is neither a hypothecation of the freight nor an assignment thereof. Murray v. Lazarus, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,962, 1 Paine 572.

Contract held bottomry of freight only and not vessel see Banca di Genova v. The Sophie Wilhelmine, 58 Fed. 890, 7 C. C. A. 569.

Contract by hypothecating freight construed see Gray v. Freights of The Kate, 63 Fed. 707.

67. George W. Bush, etc., Co. v. Fitzpatrick, 73 Fed. 501.

68. The Zephyr, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,210, 3 Mason 341.

69. Trask v. Jones, 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 62.

70. Thatcher v. McCulloh, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,862, Olcott 365.

The part-owners of a vessel may jointly maintain a suit to recover the freight, notwithstanding the contract of one of the part-owners to apply the freight earned in carrying goods to the payment of an individual debt due the shipper from such part-owner without the consent of the other. Donovan v. Dymond, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,993, 3 Woods 141. But one of two or more joint owners of a vessel cannot maintain an action in his name alone for freight, although he be also master. Robinson v. Cushing, 11 Me. 480. The several owners of a vessel owned in shares, although tenants in common as to the ownership, are partners as to its earnings, and must join in an action for the recovery of freight. Merritt v. Walsh, 32 N. Y. 685.

A libel against a cargo for freight may be joined with a suit against the consignees therefor. Six Hundred and Thirty Casks of Sherry, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,918, 14 Blatchf. 517 [affirming 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,900, 7 Ben. 506].

71. Hagan v. Cargo of Lumber, 163 Fed. 657.

72. Hagan v. Cargo of Lumber, 163 Fed. 657.

73. Henderson v. Three Hundred Tons of Iron Ore, 38 Fed. 36; One Thousand Two Hundred and Sixty-Five Pipes, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,536, 14 Blatchf 274, 5 N. Y. Wkly. Dig. 194 [reversing 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,280, 5 Ben. 402], holding that a suit for freight is prematurely brought where no notice of unloading and of readiness to deliver is given the consignee, who refused the master's demand of freight before the goods were discharged, the action being properly maintained only upon delivery.

admissibility,[74] and weight and sufficiency,[75] of evidence,[76] burden of proof,[77] trial,[78] and costs.[79]

74. Krohn v. Oechs, 48 Barb. (N. Y.) 127 (holding that in an action by a common carrier for freight on a cargo of wine, where defendants sets up a counter-claim for loss by leakage of the casks, and there is no evidence that the loss occurred before the commencement of the voyage, it is error in the court to reject evidence of the value of the wine at the port of destination); Zimmerman v. Rainey, 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 795, 56 N. Y. Suppl. 199 (holding that where the defense to an action for the freight of a cargo is that it was carried under special charter by the day, and a bill of lading of the cargo has been introduced, evidence that it is not customary to give a bill of lading where the boat is chartered by the day is admissible); Eaton v. Neumark, 33 Fed. 891 (holding that, where a clause in a bill of lading stated that the vessel was not to be responsible for the weight, and in an action for freight the shipper set up shortage in the quantity delivered as an offset to the demand, where different weights were put in evidence, the greater could not be adopted without preponderating proof in its support).

75. Murray v. George W. Jump Co., 148 Fed. 123 (holding that an estimate of the quantity of lumber in a cargo, based on the carrying capacity of the vessel, should not be accepted in an action for the freight as against what appears to have been a reasonably accurate tally, made when the lumber was loaded; but such tally may be corrected by evidence that the shipper received a greater quantity from the vessel at the place of delivery); McLaren v. Standard Oil Co., 124 Fed. 958 (evidence held, in the absence of other evidence, to establish a prima facie case of delivery of the entire cargo); The L. F. Munson, 124 Fed. 478; Astsrup v. Lewy, 19 Fed. 536 (where evidence was held to show that the cargo must have been in bad condition when shipped); Hewat v. Havemyer, 1 Fed. 47; The Isaac Newton, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,089, Abb. Adm. 11.

76. Where a supplemental cross libel set up a proper tender made after the weight was ascertained, and the vessel's refusal to deliver, such refusal was not evidence of any conversion of the ore, and would not sustain an action of trover, or any cross libel, as the ore was at the time in the custody of the law, in a court of competent jurisdiction, and in a bona fide suit brought without malice in the prosecution of the ordinary right of suit; and that the consignee's remedy was in the original suit only. Henderson v. Three Hundred Tons of Iron Ore, 38 Fed. 36.

For matters relating to evidence generally see EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 821.

For matters relating to evidence in proceedings in admiralty see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 882 et seq.

77. Nelson v. Stephenson, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 538 (holding that where the bill of lading is so qualified as to avoid any acknowledgment of the good order of casks shipped, or the quality or quantity of the contents, the burden of proof in an action for freight is thrown upon the shipper to establish the truth of his statements); Petrie v. Heller, 35 Fed. 310; Six Hundred and Thirty Casks of Sherry, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,918, 14 Blatchf. 517 [affirming 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,900, 7 Ben. 506] (holding that upon a libel against casks of wine by the master of a vessel for the freight money, where a defense is interposed by the claimants that injury to the casks was caused by the negligence of the vessel, proof of the inferior quality of the casks casts the burden of proof on the claimants to show that the injury was caused by the negligence of the vessel.

Burden of proof in actions generally see EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 926.

78. Welch v. Hicks, 6 Cow. (N. Y.) 504, 16 Am. Dec. 443, holding that where a vessel was disabled from prosecuting her voyage by the perils of the sea, and put into an intermediate port, and the master made an offer to proceed, under circumstances calculated to excite doubts of his sincerity; in assumpsit for freight, it should have been left to the jury to say whether the proposition to repair and proceed was made bona fide, and whether the acceptance of the goods by the shipper was voluntary, so as to entitle the ship-owner to pro rata freight.

Immaterial error.— In an action for freight, the weight of the cargo having been established by plaintiff's undisputed testimony, the introduction in evidence of a weigh-master's certificate is not reversible error, although that mode of proving the weight is incompetent. Doty v. Thomson, 116 N. Y. 515, 22 N. E. 1089.

For matters relating to trials generally see TRIAL.

For matters relating to trials in admiralty see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 887 et seq.

Counter-claim.— In an action for freight on a cargo, a claim for advancements paid by the shipper for plaintiff's benefit on a similar cargo, never delivered, without the fault of the carrier, which, according to custom, the carrier, after paying, would have collected with his freight charges, cannot be set up as a counter-claim, the money paid by the shipper being paid for his own benefit. Neville v. Pennsylvania, etc., Co., 113 N. Y. App. Div. 768, 99 N. Y. Suppl. 270.

79. Dedekam v. Vose, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,732, holding that where during the voyage a part of the cargo is damaged by reason of improper stowage, and an offer is made by the owner of the cargo to pay the freight, deducting the amount of such damage to the cargo, the cargo-owners are entitled to costs in an action to recover freight on a recovery by the ship-owners of the amount actually tendered and paid into court by the owners of the cargo.

6. Lien — a. Existence, Nature, and Priorities. A common carrier by sea has, in like manner as carriers generally,[80] a lien on goods carried by him for the payment of their freight irrespective of any express contract,[81] which arises when and only when the vessel has earned or commenced to earn freight,[82] and which attaches to property shipped by one authorized by the owner of the cargo as well

Costs in action generally see Costs, 11 Cyc. 1.

Costs in admiralty see Admiralty, 1 Cyc. 908 et seq.

80. See Carriers, 6 Cyc. 501 et seq.

81. Alaska.— Miners' Co-operative Assoc. v. The Monarch, 2 Alaska 383, holding that a maritime contract for the transportation of goods operates as a pledge or mortgage of the goods to the shipper to secure payment of the freight earned.

Louisiana.— Deaver v. Bedford, 5 Rob. 245, 39 Am. Dec. 535.

Maine.— Hunt v. Haskell, 24 Me. 339, 41 Am. Dec. 387.

Massachusetts.— Cowing v. Snow, 11 Mass. 415; Lewis v. Hancock, 11 Mass. 72; Portland Bank v. Stubbs, 6 Mass. 422, 4 Am. Dec. 151; Lane v. Penniman, 4 Mass. 91.

North Carolina.—Spencer v. White, 23 N. C. 236.

Pennsylvania.—Fuller v. Bradley, 25 Pa. St. 120, holding that in case of a carrier, by boat, of freight to a specified place and back, taking in and putting out freight at different places, as the shipper might direct, for a stipulated sum per day, the carrier has a lien on the freight remaining on board on the return of the boat for the whole unpaid freight.

United States.— The Eddy, 5 Wall. 481, 18 L. ed. 486; Blowers v. One Wire Rope Cable, 19 Fed. 444; Drinkwater v. The Spartan, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,085, 1 Ware 145; Six Hundred and Four Tons of Coal, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,917, 7 Ben. 525; The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551. But see Smith v. The Mansanito, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,075.

England.— The Blenheim, 10 P. D. 167, 5 Aspin. 522, 54 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 81, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 916, 34 Wkly. Rep. 154; Campion v. Colvin, 3 Bing. N. Cas. 17, 2 Hodges 116, 5 L. J. C. P. 317, 3 Scott 338, 32 E. C. L. 18; Swan v. Barber, 5 Ex. D. 130, 4 Aspin. 264, 49 L. J. Exch. 253, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 490, 28 Wkly. Rep. 563.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 516.

But for transporting goods landwise after voyage completed, not expressly contracted for in the shipping contract, there is no lien in admiralty (Gaughran v. One Hundred and Fifty-One Tons of Coal, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,273); and thus a common carrier by water whose duty of transportation is fulfilled upon landing goods at a wharf in a city, and who, without express authority, causes them to be carried from the wharf to the place of business of the consignee in the city, has no lien on them for such additional transportation, whether performed by the carrier's own servants or not. The consignor's mere marking on the goods the place of business of the consignee does not import such authority so to transport them (Richardson v. Rich, 104 Mass. 156, 6 Am. Rep. 210).

Where goods sold and shipped on board a vessel of the vendee are stopped in transitu by the vendor, the vendee has a lien on them for freight. Newhall v. Vargas, 15 Me. 314, 33 Am. Dec. 617.

Tender — estoppel.— In an action of replevin to recover from the owner of a vessel a cargo detained by him under a claim of a lien thereon for freight, the issue is whether he has such lien; and plaintiff, by offering him a sum less than is claimed by him for freight, and by depositing such sum in court, is not estopped from denying such lien. The offer is not technically a tender, but an effort to compromise a matter not involved in the suit; and, the offer not being accepted by defendant, the trial court may properly allow the money to be withdrawn by plaintiff. McCullough v. Hellwig, 66 Md. 269, 7 Atl. 455.

As affected by custom.— Where, by the contract between the owner of a vessel and a shipper, as shown by the bill of lading, the former is to deliver cargo shipped in his vessel at the shipper's wharf, in a port where it appears that there is an established custom requiring cargo to be unloaded on the wharf of the owner in suitable form for measurement and inspection, before freight can be demanded, the vessel owner has no lien on the wood for freight, until it is so delivered. McCullough v. Hellwig, 66 Md. 269, 7 Atl. 455. And see The Andover, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 366, 3 Blatchf. 303.

Where goods are detained in port by a blockade, the master of the vessel cannot withhold them from the shipper till indemnity or compensation for freight is made. He must resort to his action if he is entitled to anything. Stoughton v. Rappallo, 3 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 559.

Priority.— In ordinary cases of the hypothecation of a cargo, the lien for freight takes precedence. Gracie v. Palmer, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 605, 5 L. ed. 696.

The master has no right to detain goods for wharfage, if the consignee tenders the freight, and requires them to be delivered over the ship's side. Bishop v. Ware, 3 Campb. 360, 14 Rev. Rep. 755.

Lien for general average.— The master has at common law a possessory lien on the cargo, not only for freight, but also for general average. Cargo ex Galam, Brown. & L. 167, 10 Jur. N. S. 477, 33 L. J. Adm. 97, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 550, 2 Moore P. C. N. S. 216, 3 New Rep. 254, 12 Wkly. Rep. 495, 15 Eng. Reprint 883.

82. Ex p. Nyholm, 2 Aspin. 165, 43 L. J. Bankr. 21, 29 L. T. Rep. N. S. 634, 22 Wkly. Rep. 174.

as by the owner himself,[83] and is not affected by any indebtedness incurred by the captain to the consignees on his personal account;[84] and the carrier may retain all the goods until all the freight be paid, every part of them being liable for the whole debt, to which any portion retained as security may be applied.[85] Where the consignee and owner of a cargo fails to pay or tender the freight due on the discharge of the cargo, the carrier, to preserve its lien, is authorized to retain and store sufficient of the cargo to pay such freight, and the expense of storage and loss of use of the commodity must be borne by the owner;[86] but where a vessel delivers a consignment, a portion of which is damaged, it is incumbent upon her to ascertain the amount of damage before retaining a part of the consignment for balance of freight, in order that she may not, by retaining an unreasonable amount, become liable for the storage and selling charges.[87] Where parties, instead of trusting to the general rule of law with respect to freight, made a special contract for a payment which is not freight, it must depend upon the terms of that contract whether a lien does or does not exist,[88] and when the contract made gives no lien a court of law will not supply one by implication.[89] A sea carrier under a common bill of lading cannot enforce a lien for freight by a sale of the goods on his own motion without a decree.[90]

b. Waiver, Loss, or Discharge. The carrier may waive or lose his lien on the goods.[91] Thus the lien may be waived or displaced by any special agreement

83. Green v. Campbell, 52 Cal. 586.

84. Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558.

85. Wilson v. Bannen, 1 Rob. (La.) 556; The Norway, Brown. & L. 404, 11 Jur. N. S. 892, 13 L. T. Rep. N. S. 50, 3 Moore P. C. N. S. 245, 13 Wkly. Rep. 1085, 16 Eng. Reprint 92; Sodergren v. Flight [cited in Hanson v. Meyer, 6 East 614, 622 note, 8 Rev. Rep. 578, 102 Eng. Reprint 1425, holding that a master may detain any part of the merchandise for the freight of all that is consigned to the same person, although some part has been removed into a lighter alongside of the ship which was sent by the consignee]. And see Lamb v. Kaselack, 9 Ct. of Sess. Cas. 482; Ward v. Felton, 1 East 507, 102 Eng. Reprint 195.

In Louisiana, under Civ. Code, art. 3213, the captain has a privilege for freight during fifteen days after delivery of the merchandise, if it has not passed into the hands of third persons. Hairy v. Dennistoun, 5 Rob. 130; Wilson v. Bannen, 1 Rob. 556. And may keep the goods unless the shipper or consignee shall give him security for the paymcnt of the freight. Lanata v. The Henry Grennell, 13 La. Ann. 24.

Where the bill of lading does not incorporate the stipulation in a charter-party as to the payment of freight, no right of lien exists for the freight mentioned in the charter-party, and the shipper is entitled to delivery of the goods upon payment of the freight specified in the bill of lading. Gardner v. Trechmann, 15 Q. B. D. 154, 5 Aspin. 553, 54 L. J. Q. B. 515, 53 L. T. Rep. N. S. 518.

If a shipment is large, or from the master's storage of it it cannot be landed in a day, if he lands a part of it his lien on the whole gives him a right to ask satisfactory security for the entire freight. Brittan v. Barnaby, 21 How. (U. S.) 527, 16 L. ed. 177.

86. The Asiatic Prince, 103 Fed. 676.

87. The Tangier, 32 Fed. 230.

88. Kirchner v. Venus, 5 Jur. N. S. 395, 12 Moore P. C. 361, 7 Wkly. Rep. 455, 14 Eng. Reprint 948.

Contracts construed as not giving lien see Gray v. Carr, L. R. 6 Q. B. 522, 40 L. J. Q. B. 257, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 215, 19 Wkly. Rep. 1173; Phillips v. Rodie, 15 East 547, 13 Rev. Rep. 528, 104 Eng. Reprint 950.

No consideration of inconvenience can prevent a right of lien where a contract has expressly created that right. McLean v. Fleming, L. R. 2 H. L. Sc. 128, 1 Aspin. 160, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 317.

89. Kirschner v. Venus, 5 Jur. N. S. 395, 12 Moore P. C. 361, 7 Wkly. Rep. 455, 14 Eng. Reprint 948.

90. Sullivan v. Park, 33 Me. 438; Hunt v. Haskell, 24 Me. 339, 41 Am. Dec. 387.

91. Shatzell v. Hart, 2 A. K. Marsh. (Ky.) 191; Western Transp. Co. v. Barber, 56 N. Y. 544; Allen v. Three Thousand One Hundred and Eighty-Three Bushels of Potatoes, 8 Fed. 763.

Lien discharged by negotiation of bill.— Where the ship-owner, having a lien on the cargo for freight until the delivery of good and approved bills in payment, takes a bill which he objected to, but afterward negotiated, by negotiating the bill he approved of it, and his lien is thereupon gone. Horncastle v. Farran, 3 B. & Ald. 497, 5 E. C. L. 288, 2 Stark. 590, 3 E. C. L. 542, 22 Rev. Rep. 461.

The master being turned out of possession upon the vessel's being captured does not deprive him of his lien for the freight in case of her recapture. Ex p. Cheesman, 2 Eden 181, 28 Eng. Reprint 866.

When ship is lost.— When money for the carriage of goods by sea is payable at the port of destination, "ship lost or not lost," and the ship is wrecked upon the voyage, the ship-owner has no lien upon the goods, although the money to be paid for the car-inconsistent therewith,[92] as where freight is made payable after delivery of the cargo;[93] but the lien is not waived by any provisions of the contract of hire not absolutely incompatible with the enforcement of the lien at the time of delivery;[94] and thus a stipulation for the payment of the freight after the return of the vessel is held not necessarily inconsistent with a lien,[95] nor is the lien divested by assignment.[96] Delivery without condition or qualification is a waiver of the lien, the latter being incident to the possession;[97] and the lien for freight is discharged by delivery to the consignee without demanding freight or notifying him of a lien therefor, in the absence of a special agreement or local usage to the contrary, irrespective of the intentions of the master;[98] but part delivery does not waive the lien on the remainder of the goods,[99] although if the carrier waives his right to lien as to part of the cargo which is landed, he cannot afterward claim possession of it to enforce its lien;[1] and manual delivery of the cargo by the ship-owners to the consignees does not of itself operate necessarily to discharge their lien for freight, where the intent of the ship-owners in making such delivery is to merely discharge the cargo, and not to deliver it,[2] for there is a well defined difference riage is described as freight in the bills of lading. Nelson v. Association for Protection of Commercial Interests, 43 L. J. C. P. 218.

92. The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551; How v. Kirchner, 11 Moore P. C. 21, 6 Wkly. Rep. 198, 14 Eng. Reprint 602.

93. Lucas v. Nockells, 4 Bing. 729, 13 E. C. L. 713, 1 Cl. & F. 438, 6 Eng. Reprint 980, 1 M. & P. 783, 2 Y. & J. 304, 29 Rev. Rep. 721; How v. Kirchner, 11 Moore P. C. 21, 6 Wkly. Rep. 198, 14 Eng. Reprint 602.

94. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. Portland, etc., Steamship Co., 145 Fed. 687 (holding that a provision of a bill of lading issued by a steamship company that "the carrier shall have a lien on the goods for all freights, primages, and charges" does not affect or change the nature of the lien, which is simply the maritime lien as understood in the jurisprudence of the United States, to preserve which the retaining possession is essential, although such provision may in some cases preserve the lien where it would otherwise be deemed waived by other provisions relating to the time and manner of paying the freight); Blowers v. One Wire Rope Cable, 19 Fed. 444.

An offer to give security does not affect the lien. Frothingham v. Jenkins, 1 Cal. 42, 52 Am. Dec. 286.

95. The Volunteer, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,991, 1 Sumn. 551.

96. Everett v. Coffin, 6 Wend. (N. Y.) 603, 22 Am. Dec. 551, holding that, where the master of a vessel has assigned his lien on the cargo for freight and charges, trover cannot be maintained against the assignee, unless the lien be first discharged or a tender in satisfaction made.

97. Portland Flouring Mills Co. v. Portland, etc., Steamship Co., 145 Fed. 687; Egan v. A Cargo of Spruce Lath, 43 Fed. 480 [affirming 41 Fed. 830]; Gring v. A Cargo of Lumber, 38 Fed. 528 (holding that where a vessel discharged a cargo and during the delivery some portions were carted away by persons to whom it had been sold, without objection from the vessel, and no notice was given to the consignee or his vendee of any intention to hold the cargo for freight, and no steps were taken to enforce a lien for freight until a month later, the lien had been waived); The Giulio, 34 Fed. 909; Cranston v. A Cargo of Two Hundred and Fifty Tons of Coal, 22 Fed. 614 (holding that a ship-owner or master's lien for his freight depends upon his detention of the goods until the payment is made, and if he deliver them to the consignee voluntarily, and without notice that he looks to them for the freight and charges against them, he loses all right to enforce a lien upon them by a proceeding in rem); Wilcox v. Five Hundred Tons of Coal, 14 Fed. 49; In re Cargo of Brimstone, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,405, 8 Ben. 45; Kimball v. The Anna Kimball, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,772, 2 Cliff. 4 [reversing 1 Fed. Cas. No. 404]; Bernal v. Pim, 1 Gale 17; Black v. Rose, 10 Jur. N. S. 1009, 11 L. T. Rep. N. S. 31, 2 Moore P C. N. S. 277, 12 Wkly. Rep. 1132, 15 Eng. Reprint 906.

98. The Tan Bark Case, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,742, Brown Adm. 151.

99. Frothingham v. Jenkins, 1 Cal. 42, 52 Am. Dec. 286; Fox v. Holt, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,012, 4 Ben. 278, 36 Conn. 558 (holding that, where the owner detained a sufficient amount of a cargo to cover the amount of the freight, they may satisfy their whole freight out of the amount detained, as they do not surrender or extinguish their lien by the delivery of a part).

Freight is not a charge upon the salvage of cargo in the hands of the insurer, whether the insurer is owner of the ship or not. Columbian Ins. Co. v. Catlett, 12 Wheat. (U. S.) 383, 6 L. ed. 664.

Part taken on part payment.— The lien of ship-holder for freight being entire is not lost or waived by allowing part of the goods to be taken away on payment of a portion only of the freight without some express contract with the expressed or implied authority of the ship-owner. Perez v. Alsop, 3 F. & F. 188.

1. Hammond v. McCrie, 3 C. L. R. 1198.

2. Six Hundred Tons of Iron Ore, 9 Fed. 595.

in law between the discharge of a cargo and its delivery. It may be discharged, but cannot be delivered, unconditionally, without divesting the vessel's lien thereon for freight;[3] and while the lien for freight depends upon possession, the court of admiralty not being bound by the technical rules of the common law, will not regard a transfer of possession as necessarily amounting to a delivery; but if it is clear from the agreement of the parties, either express or implied by the local usage of the port, that the transfer was only for certain purposes, presumably for the benefit of both parties, as for examination or storing for a brief period, it will deem the possessor as a depositary for both parties, and the master as still constructively in possession, so far as to preserve his lien and his remedy in rem.[4] Thus a delivery of cargo subject to a lien for freight, made to a person liable to pay the freight, will not be held to be a waiver of the lien for freight unless facts appear from which it can be found that the act of delivering the cargo was accompanied with an intention to waive the lien for freight;[5] and where delivery is made upon an understanding between the parties that the transfer of the goods shall not be regarded as a waiver, no such consequence follows;[6] and a delivery made under the expectation that the freight will be paid at the time is not such a delivery as parts with the lien, and the carrier may afterward libel the article in rem, in admiralty, for the freight;[7] nor is cargo divested of a lien for freight by merely being discharged into a warehouse and placed with the consignee, without other evidence of the carrier's intention to waive the lien;[8] and a delivery to a wharfinger or warehouseman on the consignee's account, accompanied by a notice of lien, is no waiver, even if the notice is served an hour or two after the last of the cargo is delivered, so slight a delay not necessarily indicating an intent to unconditionally deliver;[9] nor is the lien divested by delivery where it is the notorious usage of the port where the cargo is detained that the lien shall remain.[10]

3. Cranston v. A Cargo of Two Hundred and Fifty Tons of Coal, 22 Fed. 614.

4. Sears v. Wills, 1 Black (U. S.) 108, 17 L. ed. 35.

The burden of proof is on the carrier seeking to enforce a lien on the cargo to show that the delivery was not absolute, but qualified by some condition. Cranston v. A Cargo of Two Hundred and Fifty Tons of Coal, 22 Fed. 614.

5. McBrier v. A Cargo of Hard Coal, 69 Fed. 469, holding that an allegation that, before discharge of cargo, libellants notified the consignee that they would look to the cargo for freight, shows that their lien therefor was not waived by such discharge.

6. Wilcox v. Five Hundred Tons of Coal, 14 Fed. 49; Kimball v. The Anna Kimball, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,772, 2 Cliff. 4 [reversing 1 Fed. Cas. No. 404, 2 Sprague 33].

7. Costello v. 734,700 Laths, 44 Fed. 105 (holding that where a ship-master discharged a cargo, according to the direction of the consignee named in the bill of lading, which was received and piled in the yard of the purchaser, about three hundred feet from the vessel, and after the completion of the discharge demand was made for the freight, but, owing to disputes as to the amount, the purchaser refused to pay the freight called for by the bill of lading, and the master immediately served notice that his lien for freight had never been abandoned, and afterward seized the cargo under process, the lien had not been abandoned); Wilcox v. Five Hundred Tons of Coal, 14 Fed. 49; One Hundred and Fifty-One Tons of Coal, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,520, 4 Blatchf. 368 [affirming 10 Fed Cas. No. 5,273]. And see Cuff v. Ninety-Five Tons of Coal, 46 Fed. 670, holding that when a master began to deliver cargo, but demanded his freight before the unloading of the cargo was completed, and when the freight was not paid stopped the delivery, and then, continuing, made special delivery of the remainder subject to the lien for freight, it was not sufficient to show an intent to abandon the lien on the cargo for freight.

8. Davidson Steamship Co. v. 119,254 Bushels of Flaxseed, 117 Fed. 283 (holding that a vessel, by delivering her cargo of flaxseed in a warehouse at the end of the voyage, and taking a receipt therefor, which was retained until a libel was filed, did not thereby lose her lien on the cargo for freight); Crapo v. The Arctic, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,361.

Where consignees do not appear to claim goods at the port of discharge and there is no suitable warehouse, semble that the master may still land the cargo without losing his possession and control over it, placing the goods in a warehouse belonging to, or hired for, his owners, and so preserve his lien. Mors le-Blanch v. Wilson, L. R. 8 C. P. 227, 1 Aspin. 605, 42 L. J. C. P. 70, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 415.

9. The Giulio, 34 Fed. 909.

10. Wilcox v. Five Hundred Tons of Coal, 14 Fed. 49; Donovan v. Cargo of Two Hundred and Forty Tons of Coal, 8 Fed. 368; The Tan Bark Case, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,742, Brown Adm. 151.

F. Supercargo — 1. Definition; Nature of Duties. A supercargo is a person specially employed by the owner of a cargo to take charge of and sell to the best advantage merchandise which has been shipped, and to purchase returning cargoes and to receive freight, as he may be authorized.[11] He has complete control over the cargo and everything which immediately concerns it, unless his authority is either expressly or impliedly restrained;[12] and goes out and returns home with the ship, thus differing from a factor, who has a residence in the country of exportation, and who only receives and deals with the goods after their arrival out;[13] and he may sell or pledge the cargo if necessary before it has arrived at its destination.[14] The principles which regulate the conduct of factors abroad[15] apply to supercargoes;[16] and they are liable for injuries to the employer occasioned by the want of reasonable skill or ordinary diligence and are bound to use good faith and must exercise their judgment after proper precautions and inquiries;[17] but a supercargo is not bound to observe the exact terms of his instructions, if thereby the interests of the owner would be sacrificed or his objects frustrated. In cases of necessity or urgency, it is only necessary that he act bona fide and with reasonable discretion, in order to bind the owner.[18] But where he makes a shipment of merchandise on his principal's account, the exportation of which is prohibited, it is at his own risk; and, if seized and condemned at the place of exportation, he must bear the loss,[19] unless the shipper has ratified the sale by retaining 11. Bouvier L. Dict. [quoted in Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316, 325 note].

Another definition is: "Persons employed by commercial companies or by private merchants to take charge of the cargoes they export to foreign countries, and to sell them there to the best advantage, and to purchase proper commodities to relade the ships on their return home. They usually go out with the ships on board of which the goods are embarked, and return home with them, and in this differ from factors, who reside abroad." Beawes' Lex. Merc. 47 [quoted in Gaither v. Myrick, 66 Am. Dec. 316, 325 note]. To the same effect see Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am. Dec. 621; Williams v. Nichols, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 58; Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts (Pa.) 65; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165; Davidson v. Gwynne, 12 East 381, 11 Rev. Rep. 420, 104 Eng. Reprint 149.

12. Davidson v. Gwynne, 12 East 381, 11 Rev. Rep. 420, 104 Eng. Rep. 149.

13. 2 Abbott L. Dict. 522.

14. Forrestier v. Bordman, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,945, 1 Story 43.

If the supercargo represents several shippers he cannot pledge their goods as an entirety but must pledge each part separate. Newbold v. Wright, 4 Rawle (Pa.) 195.

The validity of a sale on credit by a supercargo depends upon the usage of trade in the place where the sale is made, such usage being a question of fact for the jury. Forrestier v. Bordman, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,945, 1 Story 43, holding that, in the absence of a special contract, a credit sale by a supercargo is at the risk of the shipper, where the usage of trade allows discretionary sales on cash or credit and that all sales by a supercargo, except those by del credere commission, are at the risk of the shipper. And see Elliott v. Walker, 1 Rawle (Pa.) 126.

15. See Factors and Brokers, 19 Cyc. 109.

16. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

Liability of supercargo under special contract.—A supercargo who for a valuable consideration, in the nature of a commission, undertakes to be responsible for all risks except danger of the seas, is liable to the owner for the value of goods which are stolen after being landed at the port of discharge, and before any sale. Bridge v. Austin, 4 Mass. 115.

17. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316, holding that when they have a venture in the same ship they are bound to exercise at least as much diligence and care as to their factorage transactions as they do as to their own private concerns.

18. Forrestier v. Bordman, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,945, 1 Story 43. But see Maxwell v. Evans, 2 Bibb (Ky.) 399, holding that a supercargo, promising to sell the goods at the same price he sold his own, retaining freight, etc., and to pay over the balance to his employer, was not justified in storing the goods with a commission merchant to sell, unless the supercargo was unable to make a sale himself.

If the supercargo violates the laws of a foreign country by making short entries of the homeward bound cargo pursuant to the instructions of the owners, and thereby subjects the vessel and cargo to seizure and condemnation, and pays a sum of money to obtain the release of the property, such violation of the laws of the foreign country will not prevent the supercargo from recovering from the owners the sum of money thus paid for the release of the property, unless it was paid in violation also of the laws of that country. Peyton v. Veitch, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,057, 2 Cranch C. C. 123.

19. Pawsons v. Donnell, 1 Gill & J. (Md.) 1, 19 Am. Dec. 213.

the proceeds after knowledge of the facts.[20] As a general rule they cannot delegate their authority any more than other agents, but exception may arise where the power of delegation is conferred by the necessity of the case, the usages of trade, or the law and customs of the country where the agency is to be executed.[21]

2. Master as Supercargo. While a master has, as such, no implied powers of a supercargo,[22] he may have them conferred upon him by express authority of the shipper;[23] and sometimes the circumstances are such that the necessity devolves upon him to act as supercargo to protect the property and interests intrusted to him.[24] Where the master is supercargo his duties and liabilities are as distinct as if confined to different persons;[25] and in dealing under his powers of supercargo he acts as agent of the shipper, not the owner of the vessel, and the former, not the latter, is liable for his acts.[26] But where, in pursuance of a general usage, goods shipped on a vessel are consigned to the master to sell and make returns, the owner of the vessel is liable for the safe transportation of the goods.[27]

3. Compensation; Lien. Upon a valid sale the supercargo has a right to retain proceeds of a cargo for a general balance due to him by the owners;[28] and, if he receives his instructions from the ostensible owners of the whole cargo, he has a right to retain, out of the whole proceeds of the cargo, the amount of a general balance due to him from such ostensible owners, although there may be another part-owner, whose interest was not disclosed to him until he had settled his account

20. Forrestier v. Bordman, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,945, 1 Story 43.

21. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316. See Warner v. Martin, 11 How. (U. S.) 209, 13 L. ed. 667.

Where the supercargo is unable to dispose of the cargo at the place of sale, he may delegate his authority by confiding the goods to the care of a responsible person who thereafter becomes liable. Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am. Dec. 621; Merrick v. Bernard, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,464, 1 Wash. 479; Day v. Noble, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 615, 13 Am. Dec. 463; Lawler v. Keaquick, 1 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 174.

22. Rapp v. Palmer, 3 Watts (Pa.) 178; Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts (Pa.) 65.

23. Connecticut.— Moseley v. Lord, 2 Conn. 389.

Maine.— Smith v. Davenport, 34 Me. 520; Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am. Dec. 621; Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am. Dec. 268.

Maryland.— Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

Massachusetts.— Day v. Noble, 2 Pick. 615, 13 Am. Dec. 463.

New York.— Kemp v. Coughtry, 11 Johns. 107; Lawler v. Keaquick, 1 Johns. Cas. 174; Williams v. Nichols, 13 Wend. 58.

Pennsylvania.— Harrington v. McShane, 2 Watts 443, 27 Am. Dec. 321.

United States.— Smedley v. Yeaton, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,965, 3 Cranch C. C. 181.

24. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316; Douglas v. Moody, 9 Mass. 548; The Collenberg, 1 Black (U. S.) 170, 17 L. ed. 89; The Gentleman, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,324, Olcott 110 [reversed on other grounds in 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,323, 1 Blatchf. 196]; The Velona, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,912, 3 Ware 139; Vleierboorn v. Chapman, 8 Jur. 811, 13 L. J. Exch. 384, 13 M. & W. 230; The Gratitudine, 3 C. Rob. 240. See Gillett v. Ellis, 11 Ill. 579.

25. Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

26. Maine.— Stone v. Waitt, 31 Me. 409, 52 Am. Dec. 621.

Maryland.— Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316.

New York.— Williams v. Nichols, 13 Wend. 58.

Pennsylvania.— Taylor v. Wells, 3 Watts 65; Dusar v. Perit, 4 Binn. 361.

United States.— The St. Nicholas, 1 Wheat. 417, 4 L. ed. 125; The Maiden City, 33 Fed. 715; The Waldo, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,056, 2 Ware 165.

England.— Earle v. Rowcroft, 8 East 126, 9 Rev. Rep. 385, 103 Eng. Reprint 292.

27. Emery v. Hersey, 4 Me. 407, 16 Am. Dec. 268; Gaither v. Myrick, 9 Md. 118, 66 Am. Dec. 316, holding that goods consigned to the master under a bill of lading, describing goods as shipped for "Valparaiso and a market," must be carried by the ship until a market is found, or the goods left for sale on deposit under circumstances authorizing such a departure from the original contract.

28. Luckett v. West, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,593, 4 Cranch C. C. 101; Vowell v. West, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 17,024, 4 Cranch C. C. 100, holding this to be true notwithstanding assignment of the cargo and bill of lading to a trustee for the benefit of creditors.

Delivery of cargo as evidence of payment of commissions.— Delivery of the cargo to the owners by the supercargo is evidence of his receipt of his commissions in an action against him by a third person who is entitled to a share of those commissions. Manning v. Lowdermilk, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,046, 1 Cranch C. C. 282.

Particular contracts with supercargoes construed see Franklin v. Robinson, 1 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 157; Welsh v. Dusar, 3 Binn. (Pa.) 329.

with the ostensible owners;[29] and he has a lien on a return cargo to reimburse himself for advances made by him and to satisfy any balance due him on the final adjustment of the transaction between him and the consignor,[30] and has also a lien on the indemnity fund provided for by treaty with a foreign nation for sequestration of a cargo.[31] Upon his death during the voyage, after he appoints substitutes, his representatives are entitled to full compensation stipulated for the whole voyage.[32]

VIII. CARRIAGE OF PASSENGERS.

[EDITED BY JOHN M. WOOLSEY, ESQ., OF THE NEW YORK BAR]

A. Nature of Liability of Vessel or Owner; What Law Governs. The general rules governing the rights, duties, and liabilities of carriers of passengers by land[33] apply to carriers of passengers by water, and ships carrying passengers for hire stand upon the same footing in respect to their responsibility in rem for the performance of the passenger contract with those carrying merchandise on freight.[34] A contract for the conveyance of passengers by water is as a general rule governed by the law of the place where it is made,[35] and not that of the ship-owner's domicile.[36] Where both carrier and passengers are citizens of the United States, and the place of completion of the contract of carriage is within this country, a stipulation for exemption from liability in the contract authorized by the law of a foreign country by which the contract is by its terms to be governed, but which is contrary to the public policy of this country, is not enforceable in our courts,[37] and an action in the admiralty court of the United States to recover for injuries sustained by an American passenger on a foreign ship on the high seas is governed by the general maritime law as administered in this country, which gives a remedy against the ship's owners where the injury was due to the negligence of those in charge of her navigation.[38]

B. Statutory Regulation — 1. NATURE AND DEVELOPMENT OF LEGISLATION. The carriage of passengers on vessels in the United States has been regulated largely by federal statutes having as an object protection of the lives of the pas-

29. Luckett v. West, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,593, 4 Cranch C. C. 101.

30. Karthaus v. Owings, 4 Harr. & J. (Md.) 263.

31. Stewart v. Callaghan, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,423, 4 Cranch C. C. 594.

32. Gray v. Murray, 3 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 167.

33. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 533.

34. The Aberfoyle, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 16, Abb. Adm. 242; The Pacific, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,643, 1 Blatchf. 569, holding that a maritime contract depends upon its subject-matter, and, when entered into for the conveyance of persons in a particular ship, her obligation results directly from the contract and not from the performance, and the liability of the owner and that of the ship attach at the same time.

When a vessel carries passengers under tickets issued by another vessel, pursuant to an agreement fixing a tariff therefor, a lien arises under Ohio Rev. St. § 5880, against the latter vessel for the tariff price. Eley v. The Shrewsbury, 69 Fed. 1017.

Liability of vessel carrying goods on freight see supra, VII, A.

35. Arayo v. Currel, 1 La. 528, 20 Am. Dec. 286; Potter v. The Majestic, 60 Fed. 624, 9 C. C. A. 161, 23 L. R. A. 746, holding that a written agreement, executed in England, whereby an English corporation agrees to transport a citizen of the United States from England to this country, is to be construed according to the English law. And see The European, 120 Fed. 776, 57 C. C. A. 140.

36. Arayo v. Currel, 1 La. 528, 20 Am. Dec. 286.

37. The Kensington, 94 Fed. 885, 36 C. C. A. 533 [affirming 88 Fed. 331].

38. Pouppirt v. Elder Dempster Shipping Co., 122 Fed. 983 [reversed on other grounds in 125 Fed. 732, 60 C. C. A. 500].

The locus of a tort committed in the carriage of passengers is determined by the place where the injury and damage arose, rather than where the negligent act which produced such injury was committed; and a libel to recover damages for the death by drowning of libellant's intestate, as the result of a collision and the sinking upon the high seas of a vessel sailing under the French flag, and on which the deceased was a passenger, alleged to have been due to negligent navigation, which does not allege that the drowning occurred upon the vessel, fails to show that the cause of action arose upon French territory, so as to render the law of France applicable thereto, conceding that the carrying of the French flag extended the jurisdiction of such law to the ship. Rundell v. La Campagnie Generale Transatlantique, 100 Fed. 655, 40 C. C. A. 625, 49 L. R. A. 92.

sengers and insurance of suitable accommodations and proper transportation, and passed under the power of congress to regulate commerce.[39] These statutes provide in general for an inspection and supervision of steam vessels carrying passengers,[40] prohibit the carriage on passenger vessels of dangerous articles, such as camphene, nitroglycerine, benzine, benzole, coal oil, crude or refined petroleum, or other like explosive burning fluids or like dangerous articles,[41]

39. See the statutes. And see the cases cited infra, this and the following notes.

The Harter Act of Feb. 13, 1893 (27 U. S. St. at L. 445 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2946]), does not apply to passengers or their baggage (La Bourgogne, 144 Fed. 781, 75 C. C. A. 647 [affirmed in 210 U. S. 95, 28 S. Ct. 664, 52 L. ed. 973]; In re California Nav., etc., Co., 110 Fed. 678; The Kensington, 94 Fed. 885, 36 C. C. A. 533 [reversed on other grounds in 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190]; Moses v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 88 Fed. 329; The Rosedale, 88 Fed. 324); and thus injuries to passengers and claims for loss or damage to their personal baggage, not shipped as merchandise and not paying freight, are not within the exemptions of the act (The Oregon, 92 Fed. 1021, 35 C. C. A. 167 [affirming 88 Fed. 324]).

40. Act July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 304) was the first statute to regulate the matter, and provided for inspection of machinery and boilers in all vessels driven in whole or in part by steam, and provided that licenses could be had only on a certificate by an inspector. The act was obligatory in all its provisions, except as it was altered by the act of March 3, 1843 (5 U. S. St. at L. 626), upon all owners and masters of steamers navigating the waters of the United States, whether navigating on waters within a state, or between states, or waters running from one state into another state, or on the coast of the United States between the ports of the same state or different states (Waring v. Clarke, 5 How. (U. S.) 441, 12 L. ed. 226), and was not limited to vessels at sea or on the Great Lakes (U. S. v. Jackson, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,458, 4 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 450); but was not intended by congress to apply to all steamboats, but only to such as before the passage of that act were required to be enrolled and licensed for the coasting trade (U. S. v. The William Pope, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 16,703, Newb. Adm. 256). Subsequent legislation enlarged the policy of the act and extended its benefits, the more important amendment being the act of Aug. 30, 1852 (10 U. S. St. at L. 62, c. 106, §§ 3–5), providing that vessels propelled by steam and carrying passengers shall be provided with certain pumps, life-preservers, etc. It was held to apply to a vessel so propelled which actually carried passengers, although not usually and regularly engaged in that business (U. S. v. The Thomas Swan, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,480); but a steam boat built for a ferry-boat, used in her daily employment as such and occasionally as a tugboat, was held to be within the exception of the act, as a boat used as a ferry-boat or tugboat, although she was employed one day in carrying passengers three miles distant to a state fair; and was not liable to the penalties of the act for not being provided with the safety appliances therein provided as a steamboat carrying passengers (U. S. v. The Ottawa, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 15,976, Newb. Adm. 536), and a vessel engaged in carrying freight between ports in different states, which on one occasion carried a load of passengers between ports in the same state, was not engaged in interstate commerce in respect to the carrying of such passengers, and was not subject to a penalty for failure to comply with the provision of the act requiring steam vessels carrying passengers to be inspected and provided with life-preservers (The Thomas Swan, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,931, 6 Ben. 42). A still later amendment was passed in 1864 (13 U. S. St. at L. 390) by which the owners of steamboats must, at their peril, procure copies of the synopsis of laws required by the act to be posted on board (The Lewellen, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,307, 4 Biss. 156), and the whole matter was regulated with great particularity in the act of Feb. 28, 1871 (16 U. S. St. at L. 440).

Inspection of repaired boiler.— It is as much the duty of an owner of a steamship, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4418, to cause an inspection of a boiler which has been repaired in a substantial part, as to cause an inspection of a new boiler, before using the same; and a failure to cause such inspection will render the owner of the vessel liable, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4493 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3058], to a passenger injured in consequence of the explosion of the boiler. The Annie Faxon, 75 Fed. 312, 21 C. C. A. 366.

A canal-boat laden with coal for transportation, having on board the master, with his family, is not a "barge carrying passengers," within the meaning of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4492 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3058], which requires that such a barge, while in tow of a steamer, shall be provided with "fire-buckets, axes, life-preservers, and yawls." Eastern Transp. Line v. Cooper, 99 U. S. 78, 25 L. ed. 382.

41. The James D. Parker, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,193, holding that the Revised Statutes not being enacted until June 22, 1874, the carrying of petroleum upon passenger steamers in April, 1874, could not be punished thereunder; but that the act of Feb. 28, 1871 (16 U. S. St. at L. 440), was applicable to such a case.

U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4472 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3050], prohibits the carrying of pe-regulate the accommodations to be accorded passengers on vessels carrying passengers from foreign ports to the United States,[42] limit the number of passengers to be carried on passenger vessels[43] on navigable waters of the United troleum and other dangerous articles upon passenger vessels, but excepts petroleum which will not ignite at a temperature less than one hundred and ten degrees Fahrenheit, upon routes where there is no other practicable mode of transportation. Under this act if there is an all-rail route over which the oil may be carried with any profit, it is a practicable mode of transportation; but if the rate of freight by rail is so high as to prevent any profit upon the sale of the oil, or to destroy the trade between the points in question, it is not a practicable mode of transportation between those points. U. S. v. Thornburg, 6 Fed. 41 [affirmed in 7 Fed. 190]. But petroleum of the required test cannot be carried on a passenger steamer to a point of transhipment, when it is practicable to transport such petroleum by rail for about the same rate, although there was no rail route from the point of transhipment to the point of consignment. The Benton, 51 Fed. 302. The word "practicable" as used in the act means commercially practicable, as distinguished from physically or mechanically practicable. The Benton, supra.

Illuminating gas, compressed into steel cylinders of insufficient strength to hold it, although liable to explode by its tendency to expand when heated, is not within U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4472, as the danger lies not in the gas itself, but in the weakness of the vessel containing it. Egan v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 86 Hun (N. Y.) 542, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 791 [affirmed in 154 N. Y. 777, 49 N. E. 1096]; Russell v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 10 Misc. (N. Y.) 593, 32 N. Y. Suppl. 824.

Exception as to automobile.— U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4472 was amended by Act Feb. 20, 1901 (31 U. S. St. at L. 799, c. 386 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3050]), to allow the transportation by steam vessels of gasoline or any of the products of petroleum when carried by motor vehicles (commonly known as automobiles), using the same as a source of motive power; provided, however, that all fire, if any, in such vehicles or automobiles be extinguished before entering the said vessel and the same be not relighted until after said vehicle shall have left the same. It was held that gasoline contained in the tank of an automobile being transported on a steam vessel is carried as freight, within the meaning of the statute; that an automobile in which the motive power is generated by passing an electric spark through a compressed mixture of gasoline and air in the cylinder, causing intermittent explosions, carries a fire while the vehicle was under motion from its own motive power; and that the carrying by a steam ferry-boat of such a vehicle, which was run on and off the boat under its own power, is a violation of the statute. The Texas, 134 Fed. 909.

42. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4255, which provided the mode and manner of construction of berths in passenger vessels and for a penalty for its violation, did not apply to steam vessels. The Devonshire, 13 Fed. 39, 8 Sawy. 209; U. S. v. The Manhattan, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,715 [affirming 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,020, 2 Ben. 88].

The word "territory," as used in the act of Aug. 2, 1882 (22 U. S. St. at L. 186, c. 374, § 1 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2931]), prohibiting the carrying of emigrant passengers from a foreign country, except places in foreign territory contiguous to the United States, unless certain accommodations be provided, is not limited to the line of high-water mark along the shores of navigable rivers or bays or straits separating different countries, but the territory of a country extends to its boundaries. U. S. v. The Danube, 35 Fed. 993, holding that Vancouver's Island, B. C., is territory contiguous to the United States, and the transportation of passengers therefrom to Astoria, Oreg., is within the exception.

Head money duty.— The act of Aug. 2, 1882 (22 U. S. St. at L. 186, c. 6, § 1 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2932]), providing that, in calculating the number of cubic feet to be allowed for each passenger, children under one year of age are not included, does not affect the act of Aug. 3, 1882, imposing upon the owners of vessels bringing passengers from foreign ports a duty of fifty cents for every such passenger not a citizen of this country and each child under one year of age is to be counted as a passenger in fixing the amount of such duty. Edye v. Robertson, 112 U. S. 580, 5 S. Ct. 247, 28 L. ed. 798 [affirming 18 Fed. 135, 21 Blatchf. 460].

An indictment against the master of a vessel, transporting immigrants to a port of discharge within the United States, charging that there were no sufficient tables and seats provided for the use of such passengers, in violation of the act of congress of Aug. 2, 1882 (22 U. S. St. at L. 186, c. 374 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2931]), although objectionable for failure to allege in what respects the insufficiency consisted, was not fatally defective. It was held that the charge should be made more definite and certain by a bill of particulars or by a new indictment. U. S. v. Lavarrello, 149 Fed. 297.

43. The Idaho, 29 Fed. 187 (holding that the penalty provided by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4499 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3060], if any steam vessel "be navigated" without complying with the terms of the title concerning the regulations of steam vessels of which this section is a part, is not confined to matters of technical "navigation," such as equipment and furnishing of vessels, but includes all the topics embraced in the title, among them the provision forbidding the carrying of more than a certain number of passengers); The Geneva, 26 Fed. 647 (holding that in a

States,[44] require a license and impose the condition upon which one may be obtained,[45] require a certificate of seaworthiness to be displayed in a conspicuous suit against a steamboat to enforce the penalties prescribed by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], for carrying an unlawful number of passengers, inasmuch as it appeared that the persons in excess of the allowed number aboard the boat were intruders against the will of her officers, and that the boat moved from her landing to another convenient place to avoid a crowd of people who it was feared might force their way upon her and endanger her, the penalties were not incurred); The Laura M. Starin, 11 Fed. 177; Pollock v. The Sea Bird, 3 Fed. 573 (both holding that U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], providing for a penalty for taking on board a steamer a greater number of passengers than stated in the certificate of inspection, gives a separate penalty for each violation of the act); Passenger Act, March 3, 1855, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,791 (holding that under the Passenger Act of March 3, 1855 (10 U. S. St. at L. 715), the number of steerage passengers which a steamer is entitled to transport is to be estimated exclusively by the proportion of space, and not by the proportion of one passenger to two tons of the vessel); U. S. v. The Anna, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,457 (holding that the limitation of two passengers for every five tons of a vessel's measurement, by Passenger Act (1819), §§ 1, 2 (3 U. S. St. at L. 488), has been repealed by the tenth section of the act of 1848 (9 U. S. St. at L. 220); U. S. v. The Anna, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,458, Taney 549 [affirming 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,457]; U. S. v. The Louisa Barbara, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,632, Gilp. 332 (holding that to subject a vessel to forfeiture according to the provisions of the act of March 2, 1819, regulating passenger ships and vessels, there must be an excess of twenty passengers beyond the proportion of two to every five tons of the vessel).

In estimating the number of passengers in a vessel against which an information is filed, no deduction is to be made for children or persons not paying; but those employed in navigating the vessel are not to be included. U. S. v. The Louisa Barbara, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,632, Gilp. 332.

In estimating the tonnage, the measurement of the custom-house in the port of the United States at which the vessel arrives is to be taken. U. S. v. The Louisa Barbara, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,632, Gilp. 332.

Where the wife and neighbors of a tug owner go upon the tug during a trial trip, merely to witness the test of her machinery, they are not passengers, within the meaning of the statute requiring passenger boats to be inspected and licensed; and the owner is not liable to the penalty imposed by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4499 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3060], for navigating any vessel contrary to the shipping regulations. U. S. v. Guess, 48 Fed. 587.

44. The City of Salem, 38 Fed. 762, 13 Sawy. 607, 4 L. R. A. 125 [affirming 37 Fed. 846, 13 Sawy. 607, holding that the regulation contained in U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], forbidding a steamboat to carry more passengers than are authorized by the local inspectors, is applicable to a steamboat engaged in carrying passengers on a navigable water of the United States between ports of the same state only.

The waters of Jamaica bay, N. Y., are public navigable waters of the United States, within the meaning of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4400 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3015], and are under the direct control of congress in the exercise of the power to regulate interstate and foreign commerce; and the statute forbidding the transportation in a steamboat of passengers in excess of her capacity is a regulation calculated to promote convenient and safe navigation on such waters, and is applicable to all vessels navigating such waters, although it is not shown that they were engaged in transporting passengers or freight between places outside the state of New York and places within that state. The Hazel Kirke, 25 Fed. 601, 23 Blatchf. 292.

45. Elizabethport, etc., Ferry Co. v. U. S., 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,362, 5 Blatchf. 198 (holding that the penalties imposed by the act of July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 304, c. 191, § 2), referred to and adopted by the act of Aug. 30, 1852 (10 U. S. St. at L. 61), do not apply to steam vessels used on the ferry between New York city and Elizabethport, N. J., which was established more than eighty years ago, inasmuch as it was declared by section 42 of the act of 1852 that the act shall not apply to steamers used as ferry-boats); U. S. v. The Echo, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,021, 4 Blatchf. 446, 20 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 517 (holding that a steam vessel usually employed as a towboat which transported passengers from Buffalo to Canada and back, a distance of twelve or fifteen miles each way, for pay, was liable to the penalty imposed for a violation of the act of July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 304, c. 191, § 2), in transporting passengers without a license, and that she was not entitle to the benefit of the exemption created by the act of Aug. 30, 1852 (10 U. S. St. at L. 75, c. 107, § 2), in favor of a steamer used as a tugboat or a towboat, such exemption applying only to a steamer while engaged in towing, or in the business of towing, and not to a steamer usually engaged in towing).

"Space appropriated to use."—A space upon a vessel bringing passengers into the United States, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4252, is not "appropriated" to their use, within the meaning of the term, or the object and policy of the statute, unless it is given up to their exclusive use. U. S. v. Nicholson, 12 Fed. 522, 8 Sawy. 162, holding that the dining saloon of a steamship carrying Chinese passengers from Hong Kong to place,[46] and also a synopsis of the laws concerning carriage of passengers.[47] These various statutes do not lessen the responsibility of the carrier, but are additional protection to passengers, and mere compliance with the statute does not relieve the carrier from liability,[48] nor can the responsibilities and duties devolving upon vessels and their masters under the passenger statutes regulating the carriage of passengers by sea be evaded by a contract of charter.[49] The secretary of the treasury may in certain cases remit fines and penalties incurred for violation of the acts,[50] and a court of admiralty may, in the exercise of a judicial discretion, refuse to impose on the owner of a steamboat the penalty prescribed by the statute [51] for carrying more passengers than the number allowed by the vessel's inspection certificate, where, because of extraordinary conditions existing, such imposition would be inequitable.[52]

Portland, Oregon, in which such passengers were allowed to go and come during the day, but to which no number of them were allotted or assigned, and in which they neither ate nor slept, was not a space appropriated to their use.

A steamboat employed by a railroad company to transport passengers on Jamaica bay, L. I., which is an inlet of the Atlantic ocean entirely within the state of New York, in connection with a railroad forming a part of the railroad system of the whole country, is engaged in interstate commerce to an extent sufficient to bring her within U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4465, 4469 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) pp. 3046, 3048], prescribing penalties for steamers carrying more passengers than allowed by their certificates of inspection. The Hazel Kirke, 25 Fed. 601, holding also that a steamboat, having obtained a certificate as a general passenger boat, cannot be held to be a ferry-boat, within the exception in U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4464 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3045], although running upon a ferry route, but is subject to the statutory limitation as to the number of passengers.

The application for a use of the certificate of inspection, required by the statute, is sufficient to require the conclusion that the steamboat is subject to the provisions of the federal statutes, and is therefore liable for a violation of them. The Hazel Kirke, 25 Fed. 601.

Excursion permits are allowed under ordinary conditions and are authorized by statute. But under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4466 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], where a passenger steamer does not carry or purpose to carry a number of passengers additional to the number authorized by its certificate, and does not go or purpose to go out of the waters where it is authorized by its certificate to ply, it is not an "excursion," in the meaning of the statute, and no special permit in writing is necessary (The Pope Catlin, 31 Fed. 408); and the statute has no application to a ferry-boat, although temporarily employed as an excursion boat (Schwerin v. North Pac. R. Co., 36 Fed. 710, 13 Sawy. 507). An excursion permit, given by the proper inspectors, for an additional number of passengers for a period of twenty days, is not so clearly void on its face as to exclude the additional number from the lawful count. The Harlem, 27 Fed. 236.

46. U. S. v. The Manhattan, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,714, 3 Blatchf. 270, holding, however, that the only penalty for taking passengers on a steam vessel which has not in a conspicuous place the certificate of seaworthiness required by the act of Aug. 30, 1852 (10 U. S. St. at L. c. 106, § 25), is the penalty of one hundred dollars given by that section; and neither the vessel nor her owner is liable to the penalty of five hundred dollars given by the first section.

47. The Lewellen, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,307, 4 Biss. 156, holding that it is no defense, to a prosecution under the act of July 4, 1864 (13 U. S. St. at L. 391, § 8), requiring the posting of two copies of a synopsis of the laws concerning carriage of passengers, that one copy was posted.

48. Simmons v. New Bedford Steamboat Co., 97 Mass. 361, 93 Am. Dec. 99; Caldwell v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 47 N. Y. 282.

49. The Prinz Georg, 23 Fed. 906.

50. The Laura, 8 Fed. 612, 19 Blatchf. 562 [affirmed in 114 U. S. 411, 5 S. Ct. 881, 29 L. ed. 147], holding that U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 5294 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3607], providing that the secretary of the treasury may, in certain cases, remit fines and penalties, etc., is not unconstitutional and does not infringe the pardoning power of the president, and that a remission by the secretary of the treasury of penalties incurred by a steam vessel for taking on board an unlawful number of passengers, granted before trial of a suit in rem brought for the penalties against the vessel by an informer, discharges all liability in the suit.

51. U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046].

52. The Charles Nelson, 149 Fed. 846, where a steamship which left San Francisco for Seattle a few days after the destruction of the former city by earthquake and fire was held not subject to the penalty or liable to such passengers in damages for the inconvenience and privation resulting to them from the overcrowding and from a shortage of water, where the excess of passengers was due to the confusion caused by the destruction of the city and the steamship company's office and occurred notwithstanding the efforts of the company to prevent it, and where

2. Penalties and Forfeitures For Violations — a. Manner of Collection; Procedure. The manner in which penalties for violation of the various passenger statutes may be collected depends upon the construction of the particular clauses in the statutes.[53] Under some it is held that the penalty is recoverable only in an action of debt,[54] while in others a proceeding in rem is held the proper mode of presenting the claim,[55] in which case any court, within whose territorial jurisdiction the vessel may be at the time of the commencement of the suit, has juristhe shortage was due to the company's inability to procure water or sufficient coal for its condenser in San Francisco, and to bad weather which prolonged the voyage.

53. See cases cited infra, this section.

The United States is not a necessary party to a suit instituted under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], which imposes certain penalties for taking on board of any steamer a greater number of passengers than is stated in the certificate of inspection (The Laura M. Starin, 11 Fed. 177; The Sea Bird, 3 Fed. 573), nor need a suit in admiralty to enforce the lien given by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4469 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3048], for the penalty imposed by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], be prosecuted in the name of the United States (Hatch v. The Boston, 3 Fed. 807).

54. The Nashville, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 10,023, 4 Biss. 188 (holding that a prosecution for a penalty under the act of July 4, 1864 (13 U. S. St. at L. 390, c. 249, § 83), regulating the carriage of passengers on steamships, etc., must be by action of debt, and not a libel in rem, and that the phrase "revenue laws," as used in the act of congress of July 18, 1866, authorizing proceedings in rem for a violation of the revenue laws, means laws relating to the income of the government, arising from duties, taxes, and the like, and does not extend to a law, the general purpose of which is unconnected with revenue, such as the laws regulating the carriage of passengers in steamboats, merely because they contain requirements, such as imposing license-fees, penalties, and the like, which may incidentally produce money payable into the United States treasury); U. S. v. The C. B. Church, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 14,762, 1 Woods 275 (holding that the penalty for a violation of the act of Feb. 28, 1871 (16 U. S. St. at L. 441, c. 100, § 4), which forbids a steamer engaged in carrying passengers from carrying as freight any burning and explosive fluid, cannot be recovered by a proceeding in rem, but that an action of debt against the offending parties is the proper action); U. S. v. The Neptune, 27 Fed. Cas. No. 15,865 (holding that the penalties provided for by the Passenger Act of 1848 can only be recovered by an action of debt on the common-law side of the court). See M'Afee v. The Barque Creole, 8 Leg. Int. (Pa.) 82, holding that the sum given by the act of congress of May, 1848, to passengers who have been placed on short allowance, where the vessel has sailed with less than the amount of provisions prescribed by the act, must be sued for at common law.

A ferry-boat plying between two ports in the same state upon a navigable river is within the admiralty jurisdiction of the United States, and her owners may therefore be proceeded against in personam, under the provisions of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4500 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3060], for carrying passengers on an excursion in excess of the number allowed to be carried by her permit. U. S. v. Burlington, etc., Ferry Co., 21 Fed. 331.

Passenger Act, Aug. 2, 1882 (22 U. S. St. at L. 186, c. 374, § 1 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2931]), which provides that if the master of a vessel shall carry more than the number of passengers prescribed by the act, "he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined fifty dollars for each passenger in excess, and may also be imprisoned," cannot be enforced against the master of a vessel by a civil proceeding in admiralty. The Scotia, 39 Fed. 429.

55. The Prinz Georg, 23 Fed. 906 (where it is held that the penalty of three dollars per diem for each passenger put upon short allowance for food and water, given by Passenger Act of Aug. 2, 1889, c. 374, § 4 (22 U. S. St. at L. 188, c. 374, § 4 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2935]), constitutes a claim against the vessel, and may be enforced by proceedings in rem); The Arctic, 11 Fed. 177 (holding that a libel in rem may be maintained in the district court in admiralty for the penalty imposed by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4469 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3048], for overcrowding a passenger vessel); Pollock v. The Sea Bird, 3 Fed. 573 (holding that U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4469 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3048], providing that the penalty imposed by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], "shall be a lien upon the vessel in each case, but a bond may, as provided in other cases, be given to secure the satisfaction of the judgment," furnishes a direct remedy against the vessel in admiralty for the recovery of the penalty); The Lewellen, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,307, 4 Biss. 156 (holding a proceeding in rem to be the proper mode of prosecution for the violation of the act of July 4, 1864 (13 U. S. St. at L. 391, c. 249, § 8), in neglecting to post up in a conspicuous place in a steamer synopses of the laws relating to the carriage of passengers); The Lewellen, 15 Fed. Cas. No. 8,308, 4 Biss. 167 (holding that a proceeding in rem is a proper remedy for a violation of the act of May 5, 1864 [13 U. S. St. at L. 390], requiring steamers to have their names painted conspicuously on their wheel-houses and pilot-houses).

diction of the cause, and the vessel may be seized by the marshal of that court.[56] But even if fines imposed by the statute for acts which are therein described to be misdemeanors are made a lien upon the vessel, it is held that an action against her to recover them cannot be maintained before the amount thereof, and the master's liability, has been fixed by his trial, conviction, and sentence.[57] The libel need not allege that the libellant was a passenger, or that he was an informer, or that he sued as such, nor need it set out the names of the passengers taken on board,[58] and the general rules of evidence [59] as to weight and sufficiency,[60] presumptions,[61] and burden of proof [62] apply, as do also the general rules governing

56. Pollock v. The Sea Bird, 3 Fed. 573.

57. U. S. v. The Nellie May, 50 Fed. 605 (holding that a libel against a ship to recover the penalties for violation of the act of Aug. 2, 1882 (22 U. S. at L. 186, c. 374 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 293]), making it an offense to carry passengers without the accommodations required by the act, can only be maintained after the shipmaster's trial and conviction of the same offense, and for the purpose of enforcing payment of the fine imposed upon him); The Sidonian, 38 Fed. 440; U. S. v. The Ethan Allen, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,059. But see The Scotia, 39 Fed. 429, holding that in a proceeding against a vessel, under Passenger Act, Aug. 2, 1882 (22 U. S. St. at L. 186, c. 374 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2931]), to recover a penalty for carrying an excess of passengers, it is not necessary, in order to create a liability on the part of the vessel, to allege and prove that in a criminal proceeding instituted under the statutes the master has been convicted, and a fine imposed upon him equal to the sum claimed against the vessel.

58. Pollock v. The Laura, 5 Fed. 133; Pollock v. The Sea Bird, 3 Fed. 573.

Admiralty rule 31, providing that defendant may object by his answer to answer any allegation or interrogatory contained in the libel, which will expose him to any prosecution or punishment for a crime or for any penalty or any forfeiture of his property for any equal offense, applies to a libel to impose a penalty. Pollock v. The Laura, 5 Fed. 133, holding that where claimant pleaded, in his answer to a libel filed under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], an oral permission to carry additional passengers on excursions, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4466, which requires that the permission should be in writing, this defense could not avail the claimant, and that part of the answer must be stricken out upon exception as immaterial.

59. See EVIDENCE, 16 Cyc. 821.

60. U. S. v. The Columbia, 50 Fed. 441, 1 C. C. A. 526 [reversing 39 Fed. 617] (holding that evidence of the officers of an excursion steamer that the steamer carried less than the number called for by her certificate, based on the number of tickets and coupons collected on her trip, is not overborne by the testimony of two persons on the wharf who counted the passengers as they hastily entered the boat over a narrow gang plank; and that where, on the evidence, the court found that the steamboat Columbia, libeled by the government for carrying passengers in excess of the number stated in her certificate of inspection, and held in default by the district court, did not, on the trip in question, carry more passengers than her certificate allowed, the decree of the district court should be reversed, and the libel dismissed); O'Carroll v. The Havre, 45 Fed. 764 (holding that on libel by passengers against the master of a steamship for failure to furnish wholesome and proper food, equal in value to one and a half navy rations of the United States, as required by the Passenger Act, Aug. 2, 1882 (22 U. S. St. at L. 188, c. 374, § 4 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2935]), libellants cannot recover if the evidence does not show the money or nutritive value of the provisions furnished, or that they were not equal in value to one and a half navy rations, although they may have been poor in quality); The Harlem, 27 Fed. 236 (holding that while the penalties imposed by law for overcrowding steamboats must be adjudged without hesitation, where the provisions designed for the security of life are violated, the court ought to be satisfied that the violation is clearly made out before finding defendants liable, and that on the evidence in this case, showing but a single count made at dusk, amid a rush of the passengers, unverified by any other evidence, and other circumstances making the excess improbable, the libellant had not satisfactorily proved that the vessel had more passengers than were allowed under her excursion permit, and the libel should therefore be dismissed); U. S. v. The Anna, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,458, Taney 549 [affirming 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,457] (holding that a measurement of the vessel, and a statement placed on the files of the custom-house, specifying the number of passengers she is entitled to transport, is not conclusive upon the government, as evidence of the capacity of the vessel, in a proceeding under the act of Feb. 22, 1847).

61. U. S. v. Thomson, 12 Fed. 245, 8 Sawy. 122, holding that passengers who go on board a vessel openly and in the usual manner are presumed to have been taken on board by the master within the purview of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4252, 4253, prescribing a penalty for carrying passengers in excess of the number allowed by law.

62. Lawrence v. Small, 48 Me. 468 (holding that to recover, under Rev. St. (1841) c. 32, § 56, of a master of a vessel for his neglect to give bonds "before passengers shall trials,[63] and thus the amount of the judgment is measured by the allegations of the libel,[64] and questions not presented in the inferior court cannot be urged on appeal.[65] An information for forfeiture of a vessel for a violation of the passenger act of 1847 was sufficient if it described the offense in the words of the statute with certainty of time and place.[66]

b. Lien. The penalties imposed by the various passenger statutes are generally made liens on the vessels guilty,[67] but not always.[68] Such a lien is not released come on shore" who have no residence in the state, it must be shown that there has been an actual landing of such passengers); U. S. v. The Anna, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,458, Taney 549 [affirming 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,457] (holding that where the space occupied by certain boxes on the berth deck of a passenger vessel was lawfully so occupied if the boxes contained luggage belonging to the passengers, and it was unlawfully so occupied if they did not, it is incumbent on the United States, in a proceeding for the forfeiture of the vessel, to show what was the contents of such boxes, in order that it may be known whether the offense operating the forfeiture has been committed).

63. See TRIALS.

Trials in admiralty see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 887.

64. The Columbia, 39 Fed. 617 [reversed on other grounds in 50 Fed. 441, 1 C. C. A. 526], holding that where it is found that a steamboat carried seven hundred and seventy-seven passengers more than the number allowed by law, but the libel, in an action to enforce the penalty therefor, only charges an excess of six hundred and seventy-seven, and no application is made to amend the libel, the steamboat will be liable to a penalty only for each of six hundred and seventy-seven passengers referred to in the libel.

65. U. S. v. The Anna, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,458, Taney 549 [affirming 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,457], holding that in a proceeding for the forfeiture of a vessel under the passenger acts, a cause of forfeiture, which was not made a charge against the master and ship-owners, which is not one of the grounds upon which the forfeiture is claimed, and which was not noticed in the district court, is not properly before the circuit court on appeal.

Conclusiveness of judgment.—A verdict and judgment against the owners of a vessel in a suit to charge them personally with the penalties incurred under U. S Rev. St. (1878) § 4465 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3046], for carrying a greater number of passengers than was stated in the certificate of inspection, is not conclusive against their vendees in a subsequent suit in rem in admiralty to enforce against the vessel the lien of the penalties, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4469 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3048]. The Boston, 8 Fed. 628, holding also that the title to the vessel not being involved in the former suit, nor any questions of lien, the new owners were not privies to the suit against their vendors, and they might show in the suit in rem that the number of passengers illegally carried was less than the jury found in the first suit.

66. U. S. v. The Neurea, 19 How. (U. S.) 92, 15 L. ed. 531. But see Milne v. New York, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,618, 2 Paine 429.

67. The Strathairly, 124 U. S. 558, 8 S. Ct 609, 31 L. ed. 580 (holding that U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4270, which provides that the penalties imposed by the foregoing provisions, regulating the carriage of passengers in merchant vessels, shall be liens on such vessels, applies to those sections which declare a "fine" for the violation of its provisions, as well as those which declare a penalty eo nomine; and that a fine incurred by a violation of U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4252, which prohibits carrying any greater number of passengers than is allowed by U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4252, is therefore a lien on the vessel, but that the lien cannot exceed the fine imposed on the master in a criminal prosecution for the offense); The Arctic, 11 Fed. 177 (holding that U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4469 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3048], imposing a penalty for overcrowding a vessel provides that the penalty shall be a lien on the vessel, and authorizes a bond to be given to secure the judgment). See The Candace, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,379, 1 Lowell 126 (holding that Passenger Act, March 3, 1855 (10 U. S. St. at L. 720, c. 273, § 15), which enacts "that the amount of the several penalties imposed by the foregoing provisions . . . shall be liens on the vessel or vessels violating those provisions," does not apply to the fine, imposed on the master by section 1 of that act, upon his conviction of a misdemeanor, but only to the civil penalties imposed on owners, as well as masters, by sections 2 and 8 of the act, for a violation of sections 2–5, 7); U. S. v. The Ethan Allen, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,059 (holding that under the act of March 3, 1855, known as the "Passenger Act," the fines imposed upon the master by sections 1 and 6 for acts which are therein declared to be misdemeanors are not made a lien upon the vessel. The provisions in the fifteenth section, that the "amount of the several penalties" imposed by the foregoing provisions shall constitute a lien, refers only to the penalties imposed by sections 2, 5, 7, and 14, upon both the master and owners, and which are expressly made recoverable by suit).

68. U. S. v. The Laurel, 26 Fed. Cas. No. 15,569, Newb. Adm. 269, holding that no forfeiture of the boat is declared, and no express lien given for the penalty, for a violation of the act of July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 304, c. 191, § 2), providing for a license by the bringing of an action of debt against the master and owners of the boat, and prosecuting the same to judgment nor divested by a sale to a bona fide purchaser, and a mere clerical error in docketing such case will not oust the jurisdiction of the court.[69]

3. Crimes and Offenses Incident to the Carriage of Passengers. The various passenger statutes provide that the violation thereof by the officers of the boat shall constitute a crime on their part,[70] and a violation resulting in loss of life is made manslaughter.[71] Intent or malice is not an element of such an offense, and proof that accused was the captain of the vessel; that he was guilty of misconduct, negligence, or inattention to his duties thereon; and that by reason thereof human life was destroyed is sufficient to sustain a conviction,[72] destruction of life being for passenger steamboats. The expression "for which sum or sums the steamboat or vessel so engaged shall be liable," merely gives a remedy against the boat by libel.

69. Hatch v. The Boston, 3 Fed. 807, holding that it is not necessary that the vessel should have been attached, before the filing of the libel, to enforce the statutory lien, and that the fact that the libellant does not proceed against the vessel until the recovery of the judgment, in the personal action against the master and owners, does not constitute laches.

70. See the several statutes. And see Van Schaick v. U. S., 159 Fed. 847, 87 C. C. A. 27, holding that under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4471 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3049], which provides for the maintenance of a steam fire pump and two hand pumps with pipes, one on each side of the vessel, to convey water to the upper decks to which suitable hose shall be attached and kept in good order at all times and ready for immediate use, and U. S. inspectors' rule 5, section 15, which provides for a fire drill at least once a week, and U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4482 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3054], which requires good life-preservers in sufficient numbers, kept in accessible places for immediate use, it is the statutory duty of the captain to maintain an efficient fire drill, to see that the proper apparatus for extinguishing fire is provided and maintained in proper order, and to exercise ordinary care to see that the life-preservers are in fit condition for use.

Where a station bill posted on a vessel assigning the crew to quarters in case of fire referred to the crew by number instead of names, but the members of the crew were not numbered, the posting of the bill did not constitute a compliance with the law requiring the posting of a station bill assigning the crew to quarters in case of fire. Van Schaick v. U. S., 159 Fed. 847, 87 C. C. A. 27.

71. Van Schaick v. U. S., 159 Fed. 847, 87 C. C. A. 27, which was decided under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 5344 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3629], providing that every captain on any steamboat or vessel by whose misconduct, negligence, or inattention to his duties on such vessel, the life of any person is destroyed, shall be guilty of manslaughter, and in which in a prosecution of the captain of a vessel for misconduct and inattention to duty, resulting in loss of life from a fire started in the forward hold of the vessel, the evidence was held to justify a finding that the captain was negligent in failing to provide, preserve, and inspect necessary fire appliances and life-preservers.

72. Van Schaick v. U. S., 159 Fed. 847, 87 C. C. A. 27 (holding also that where an excursion steamer in New York harbor had been inspected early in May, 1904, and was ready for navigation about May 15, she having been out but nine times prior to June 15, when she was lost by fire, it was no excuse for the captain's failure to maintain fire drills as required by inspectors' rule 5, section 15, that he had had no time or opportunity therefor, or that his crew was composed of raw material, and was constantly changing); U. S. v. Kellar, 19 Fed. 633.

The act of July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 306, c. 192, § 12), which declared that every captain, engineer, pilot, or other person employed on board of any steam vessel, by whose misconduct, negligence, or inattention to duty the lives of any persons on board may be destroyed, should be deemed guilty of manslaughter, made the negligence, etc., a crime, when followed by the consequences named, without regard to the question of motive or intent on the part of the persons charged. U. S. v. Farnham, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 15,071, 2 Blatchf. 528; In re Charge to Grand Jury, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,253, Newb. Adm. 323. The essence of the crime of manslaughter under the act consisted in the fact of there being "misconduct, negligence, or inattention" in such degree and of such a character as to have produced the result set forth in the indictment, irrespective of the intention of the person charged (U. S. v. Collyer, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 14,838; U. S. v. Warner, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,643, 4 McLean 463, holding the captain of a steamboat responsible where he failed at once, after a collision, to ascertain the extent of the injuries, and to run his vessel ashore if he found she would probably go down); and thus every person who assumed to perform the duties of an important officer on board a steamboat was guilty of manslaughter if loss of life occurred through his ignorance or negligence in respect of his duties (The Henry Clay, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,375; U. S. v. Taylor, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,441, 5 McLean 242). Under section 3 of the act which made it the duty of the the essence of the offense.[73] It is no defense that the government inspectors had failed in their duty properly to inspect the vessel and its safety appliances, and had wrongfully issued a certificate of inspection.[74]

C. Fares and Tickets; Limitations and Conditions. The general rules relating to fares, tickets, and special contracts for carrying passengers[75] apply to carriers of passengers by water.[76] Thus passage-money is not due before the passenger arrives at the port of destination, unless compensation pro rata itineris master to see that the safety valve was raised when the boat stopped it was not sufficient to raise the safety valve only when the boiler had acquired, during the stoppage, a higher pressure of steam than before, or higher than that named in the certificate of the inspectors as the pressure the boiler may be subject to; nor could other means be employed for effecting the same end, as opening the furnace doors, instead of raising the safety valve (U. S. v. Farnham, supra), and the master was guilty of misconduct if he left it to the discretion of the engineer to raise the safety valve during a stoppage or not, the captain being responsible for the proper performance by the engineer, the pilot, and all the other officers of their duties on board, unless their authority was expressly made independent of him (U. S. v. Farnham, supra). The omission of the captain to give the proper orders for the safety valve to be raised when the boat was stopped was legal evidence of misconduct, negligence, and inattention, and tended to support an indictment for manslaughter, under the act, if such omission was the proximate cause of the explosion, and of the death of the persons destroyed. U. S. v. Farnham, supra. It was not sufficient, however, to sustain a conviction, under the statute, to show misconduct, negligence, or inattention on the part of the accused, and that there was a burning of the vessel, which caused loss of life; but it must further be shown that such burning and loss of life were the direct consequences of the negligence or misconduct shown. U. S. v. Collyer, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 14,838, 4 Blatchf. 142. By "misconduct, negligence, or inattention" in the management of a steam vessel the statute was held to mean the omission or commission of any act which may naturally lead to the consequences made criminal; and it is immaterial what may be the degree of misconduct, whether slight or serious, if the proofs show that the destruction of the lives of persons on board was the necessary or most probable consequence of it. U. S. v. Collyer, supra.

To be a person "employed on board" within the meaning of the act of July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 306, c. 192, § 12), it is not necessary that one should be employed under pay to perform any particular duty; but the statute applies to any one actually engaged in performing the duties of an officer or employee, as where, the captain being sick, another takes his place, and acts as captain, exercising the authority and control, and discharging the duties of that officer. U. S. v. Collyer, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 14,838.

In an indictment for manslaughter, under the act of July 7, 1838 (5 U. S. St. at L. 306, c. 192, § 12), providing that any act of "misconduct, negligence, or inattention" on the part of persons employed in steamboat navigation, producing death as a result, should be deemed manslaughter, it was unnecessary to aver or prove malicious intent in the persons charged. U. S. v. Warner, 28 Fed. Cas. No. 16,643, 4 McLean 463. The indictment was sufficient if it charged them substantially in the language of the statute, with misconduct, negligence, or inattention to their respective duties, whereby the lives of passengers were destroyed, and it was not necessary that the particular acts of misconduct, negligence, etc., should be specifically set forth, or that the acts should be charged to have been committed feloniously. U. S. v. Collyer, 25 Fed. Cas. No. 14,838. In such an indictment, several defendants occupying different stations of employment, such as captain, engineer, pilot, etc., might be joined, without showing that their acts were jointly destructive of the lives of those on board or were joint in their commission. U. S. v. Collyer, supra.

In a prosecution under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 5344 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3629], an indictment is held to be sufficient if it charges that the accused took on board the vessel more passengers than were allowed by law, by reason of which it became unmanageable, and that decedent's death by drowning was caused thereby. U. S. v. Holtzhauer, 40 Fed. 76.

73. In re Doig, 4 Fed. 193.

74. Van Schaick v. U. S., 159 Fed. 847, 87 C. C. A. 27, holding also that where an excursion steamboat was burned while plying on quiet inland waters on a pleasant day with no vis major or unusual disturbance of the elements, and within half an hour after the fire broke out ninety per cent of the passengers had been drowned or burned to death, such catastrophe was not the result of inevitable accident, but was itself evidence of negligence and inattention to duty on the part of the master and crew.

75. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 570 et seq.

76. See cases cited infra, this and the following notes.

Special contracts of transportation construed see O'Regan v. Cunard Steamship Co., 160 Mass. 356, 35 N. E. 1070, 39 Am. St. Rep. 484; Barrow Steamship Co. v. Mexican Cent. R. Co., 134 N. Y. 15, 31 N. E. 261, 17 L. R. A. 359 [reversing 10 N. Y. Suppl. 804]; Dennison v. The Wataga, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,799, 1 Phila. (Pa.) 468.

is agreed to be paid,[77] and where a vessel takes passengers for a specified port, but wholly fails to make the voyage, and discharges the passengers at the sailing point, and they are not afterward forwarded, on the failure of the voyage, the passengers are entitled to have the return of their passage-money,[78] and passengers who have paid their passage on a vessel cannot be held to their contract, but are entitled to rescind and recover their passage-money, where, before sailing, the vessel is reported in the press as rotten and unsafe, and they are justified by their information and her appearance in believing her so, although she may in fact have been staunch and seaworthy.[79] A provision in a passenger ticket relating to a limitation of the carrier's liability for loss of baggage, plainly printed in the face of the ticket above the signature of the ship's agent and the passenger, is a part of the contract;[80] but a notice or memorandum printed on the back of a steamship ticket purporting to limit the liability of the carrier for loss of baggage, not referred to in the body of the ticket nor called to the attention of the purchaser, is simply a notice, and forms no part of the contract;[81] nor does a condition in a steamship ticket limiting the liability of the carrier for loss of baggage to a stated sum apply to extra baggage taken and paid for as such under a subsequent agreement, nor will such a condition be enforced where the sum named bears such relation to the quantity of the baggage and the sum paid for its carriage as to render the limitation manifestly unreasonable,[82] and conditions printed inconspicuously upon a steamship ticket, providing that the ship-owner shall not be liable for any loss of the passenger's baggage through theft, or any act, neglect, or default of the ship-owner's servants or others, which were not known to the passenger or called to his attention, are invalid and constitute no defense to an action by the passenger to recover for the loss of valuables stolen by one of the ship's employees.[83] Nor does a condition on a ticket limiting loss to a named sum relieve the carrier from full liability where it was not read by or made known to the passenger.[84] It is the primary duty of the carrier to transport goods or passengers,[85] but a ticket to be binding on the carrier as a contract of carriage must be sold by an agent of the owner.[86] The holder of a steamship ticket cannot 77. Howland v. The Lavinia, 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,797, Pet. Adm. 123.

Detention of passenger on board.—An agreement between the master of a vessel and a passenger that the latter shall remain on board until he has paid his passage in money is lawful, and it is not sufficient cause to discharge a passenger from restraint that the master did not furnish the provisions which he stipulated to furnish. Com. v. Schultz, 6 Am. L. J. (Pa.) 123.

78. The Schooner Arthur B., 1 Alaska 403.

79. The Guardian, 89 Fed. 998.

80. The Kensington, 88 Fed. 331 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 885, 36 C. C. A. 533].

The provisions of section 2 of the Harter Act, the act of Feb. 13, 1893 (27 U. S. St. at L. 445, c. 105 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2946]), do not apply to passenger tickets. La Bourgogne, 144 Fed. 781, 75 C. C. A. 647 [affirmed in 210 U. S. 95, 28 S. Ct. 664, 52 L. ed. 973]. And see supra, VII, D, 13, b.

81. La Bourgogne, 144 Fed. 781, 75 C. C. A. 647 [affirmed in 210 U. S. 95, 28 S. Ct. 664, 52 L. ed. 973]; Potter v. The Majestic, 60 Fed. 624, 9 C. C. A. 161, 23 L. R. A. 746 [affirmed in 166 U. S. 375, 17 S. Ct. 597, 41 L. ed. 1039], holding that a condition on the back of a steamship passenger ticket, relieving the carrier from its common-law liability for perils at sea, referred to merely by notice on the face of the ticket to "see back," is not binding on the passenger.

A clause of a steamship ticket headed "notice," limiting the liability of the vessel or owners to one hundred dollars for the loss of the passenger's personal effects, is not a part of the contract, and does not relieve the owner from full liability, where it was not read by or made known to the passenger. Smith v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 142 Fed. 1032 [affirmed in 151 Fed. 222, 80 C. C. A. 574].

82. La Bourgogne, 144 Fed. 781, 75 C. C. A. 647 [affirmed in 210 U. S. 95, 28 S. Ct. 664, 52 L. ed. 973].

83. The Minnetonka, 132 Fed. 52 [affirmed in 146 Fed. 509, 77 C. C. A. 217].

84. Smith v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 151 Fed. 222, 80 C. C. A. 574 [affirming 142 Fed. 1032].

85. See, generally, CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 581 et seq.

86. Mills v. Shult, 2 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 139.

Whether a shipping agent has authority to take a note as payment for a ticket is for the jury. Holmes v. Doane, 9 Cush. (Mass.) 135.

Where a part-owner of a steamboat invites a person to take a passage therein, the part-owner, and not the person invited, will recover in tort from the steamship company by reason of the vessel leaving before the agreed time, by which the ticket-holder is prevented from taking passage thereon, when such act is the result of the act of the government inspector.[87] There can be no maritime lien against a vessel for breach of a contract of carriage where she never in fact entered on the performance thereof, and neither the libellants nor their baggage were ever received on board, or placed in the care or control of the master.[88]

D. Performance and Breach of Contract of Carriage — 1. General Rules; Deviation, and Delay. Passage-money is on a like basis with freight, in that to entitle the ship-owner to it he must fulfil his contract by carrying the passenger to the destination,[89] for it is the primary duty of the carrier to carry safely,[90] to his passenger's destination,[91] and if he cannot do so within a reasonable time he must bring the passenger home;[92] and a vessel which contracts to carry passengers to a port, where they are to procure boats to land themselves and their stores, is bound, on reaching such port, to remain a reasonable length of time to enable the passengers to procure boats and to make their landing, and is only excused from so remaining by the act of God or the public enemies.[93] But although a contract to convey a passenger between certain ports on a certain vessel is not satisfied by an offer to furnish passage in a different vessel,[94] or in a different month,[95] if the voyage be interrupted by shipwreck or other disaster the owner may hire another vessel or repair his own and so fulfil his contract, and if he determine to repair, the passenger is bound to wait a reasonable time for such repairs to be made.[96] If, however, the voyage be interrupted in consequence of an original defect or unseaworthiness of the vessel, the passenger is not bound to wait for be liable for the passage to the other owners. Frazer v. Yeatman, 10 Mo. 501.

87. Hughson v. Winthrop Steamboat Co., 181 Mass. 325, 64 N. E. 74, 58 L. R. A. 432.

88. The Eugene, 87 Fed. 1001, 31 C. C. A. 345 [affirming 83 Fed. 222].

89. Stone v. Relampago, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,486.

90. The Valencia, 110 Fed. 221 [affirmed in 117 Fed. 68, 54 C. C. A. 454], holding that where a steamship company having accommodation for and authorized to carry only three hundred and seventy-five steerage passengers sells tickets to and receives four hundred and seventy-five such passengers, and by reason of such overcrowding the passengers are delayed and injured, the company is responsible for such damage, since such crowding beyond the point at which the passengers could be safely carried is a breach of the contract safely to carry them, and an indorsement on an inspector's certificate that a steamship had been provided with accommodations for additional passengers should be rejected as evidence of the fact that such accommodations had been provided, when all the testimony shows conclusively that there were no such accommodations on the ship; for the permission of the inspector to crowd a vessel beyond the limit of accommodations provided for passengers is not a defense to an action for damages to passengers sustained by reason of such overcrowding.

91. Smith v. North American Transp., etc., Co., 20 Wash. 580, 56 Pac. 372, 44 L. R. A. 557, holding that low water in a river is no defense to a failure of a carrier to carry a passenger to his destination, where the carrier could have informed itself and anticipated such condition, and that where the undisputed testimony was that a river steamer abandoned its voyage on account of low water, and the controversy was whether this was caused by the act of God, a requested charge was not appropriate which stated that, if the carrier carried its passenger till it was forced to stop by low water, this constituted the "act of God," and excused it from carrying him further until the stage of water should be sufficient.

92. Smith v. North American Transp., etc., Co., 20 Wash. 580, 56 Pac. 372, 44 L. R. A 557, holding that where a carrier agreed to take a passenger to Dawson, Alaska, via the Yukon river, but his steamer proceeded no further than Ft. Yukon, because of low water, and the carrier did not contend that it could have got him through before the following summer, it was bound to bring him home.

93. The President, 92 Fed. 673, holding that in an action against a vessel for damages by reason of a failure to afford passengers an opportunity to land on reaching their port of destination, the measure of recovery is the actual damage sustained, which includes the fare paid, and, where the passenger returns to the port at which he took passage, the cost of such return, together with a reasonable sum as compensation for the loss of time necessarily resulting from the breach of the contract.

94. Cobb v. Howard, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,925

95. Cobb v. Howard, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,925, 10 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 353 [affirmed in 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,924, 3 Blatchf. 524].

96. Stone v. Relampago, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,486.

repairs to be made, but may treat the contract as bad ab initio, and demand a return of passage-money paid in advance,[97] and where a carrier of passengers undertook to carry a passenger in a vessel which is wrecked before he took passage, it is the duty of the carrier to provide another vessel as a substitute as soon as it can be done by reasonable diligence, so that the passenger may be forwarded within a reasonable time, if he desires.[98] A contract of passage is broken, if any member of the crew be allowed to molest a cabin passenger and if he do not enjoy that ease and comfort for which the passage-money is the consideration; and for such breach of contract the captain and owners are liable.[99] A deviation is a breach of the contract,[1] for which the passenger may recover his passage-money,[2] and passengers, conveyed without their consent to a port different from that agreed on, are not liable for the passage-money;[3] but a carrier agreeing to transport a passenger to a certain port, and then to convey him by steamboat to the place of destination, is not liable for delay occasioned by the failure of the steamboat to reach the point at the stipulated time, caused by an unusual storm,[4] and the contract is also broken by unnecessary delay in transportation,[5] although it is no excuse for breach of a contract to have a vessel at a certain place at a certain time to carry passengers from thence to another place that the vessel did not arrive on time, because she was disabled by mere stress of weather.[6] The taking of steerage passengers from an infected port, on a regular passenger steamship accustomed to carry steerage, is no breach of the ship's contract of carriage with a cabin passenger, or a breach of any duty that the ship owes to him.[7]

2. Accommodations and Provisions.[8] The carrier must furnish proper accommodations, and a passenger on a steamship, whether in first cabin, second cabin, or steerage, is entitled to such accommodations and conveniences as the exercise of reasonable care and the adoption of reasonable means of securing them can afford,[9] and the ship-owner is bound to furnish all reasonable and proper accommodations usually afforded to passengers of similar class on similar voyages in similar vessels, and such as are necessary to a reasonable degree of comfort and to physical health and safety,[10] and for failure to furnish proper accommodations a passenger

97. Stone v. Relampago, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,486.

98. Williams v. Vanderbilt, 29 Barb. (N. Y.) 491 [affirmed in 28 N. Y. 217, 84 Am. Dec. 333].

99. Keene v. Lizardi, 5 La. 431, 25 Am. Dec. 197, 6 La. 315, 26 Am. Dec. 478.

1. De Colange v. The Chateau Margaux, 37 Fed. 157.

2. De Colange v. The Chateau Margaux, 37 Fed. 157.

3. McGloin v. Henderson, 6 La. 715.

The carrier's failure, under a penal contract, to deliver passengers at the port of destination without their fault, forfeits the penalty, but not his right to retain the passage-money advanced. McGloin v. Henderson, 6 La. 715.

4. Van Horn v. Templeton, 11 La. Ann. 52

5. See Van Horn v. Templeton, 11 La. Ann. 52.

6. Cobb v. Howard, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,925, 10 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 353 [affirming 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,924, 3 Blatchf. 524].

7. The Normannia, 62 Fed. 469, holding, however, that where a passenger who had purchased passage on defendant's ship, but had determined to forfeit it on the subsequent outbreak of cholera, was induced to take the passage on the false representation of defendant's agent that no steerage passengers would be carried, he may recover from defendant actual damages resulting from the ship being quarantined at the port of destination because of existence of cholera on board among steerage passengers carried.

8. Who are passengers see Carriers, 6 Cyc. 536 et seq.

9. Bailey v. The Sonora, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 746, where the discomfort suffered by the women because of the insufficiency of the accommodations being greater than that experienced by the men, a discrimination was made in the amount of damages; and the female passengers recovered the full amount paid for their passage, and the male passengers one half of that sum.

10. North Coast Lighterage Co. v. Greenwood, 162 Fed. 25, 89 C. C. A. 65; Sparks v. The Sonora, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,212, holding that a stateroom constantly filled with heated and somewhat offensive air, issuing directly from the boiler, to such an extent as to raise the temperature of the room from twenty-five to forty degrees, with air and light somewhat obstructed by guards on which the portholes opened, and with the berth and bedding constantly wet, though defect in the arrangement of a pump, from which a pipe ran through the stateroom, did not afford reasonable accommodations to a first-class passenger.

may sue the vessel in rem in admiralty for damages.[11] But when it cannot be determined that the unhealthiness or discomfort of the accommodations was the cause of the illness for which the passenger is claiming damages, the expenses of his illness, and delays caused thereby, cannot be considered as part of the damages arising from the breach of the contract of carriage.[12] The ship's agents, when the comfortable staterooms are disposed of, must inform the passenger of the nature of the accommodations to be afforded him, and allow him to determine for himself whether he will take the risk of such accommodations as are left available;[13] and a steamship company is liable to a passenger for failure to furnish the latter with a berth on a steamer running at night, where it fails to notify the passenger of its inability to supply such berth on his application therefor at the time of purchasing his ticket;[14] and is moreover liable to passengers who, although they were sold second-class tickets, were given only the accommodation of steerage passengers.[15] An undertaking to carry a passenger on a long journey includes the furnishing of such passenger with a berth, unless there is an understanding to the contrary;[16] but a passenger who purchases a ticket entitling him to a berth is not entitled to the exclusive use of a stateroom containing two berths, although there are some vacant staterooms,[17] and passengers who board a vessel mainly engaged in the carriage of freight, after the cabin room is all taken, and while loading is going on, and make no claim to cabin accommodations or for bedding, are to be considered as impliedly agreeing that their ship-room and quarters are to be on deck, and that such accommodations are to be deemed reasonable;[18] and where a passenger finding the berths too small demands a stateroom in exchange for the berth, and upon refusal demands and receives his money back, he cannot recover for refusal to furnish accommodations.[19] In the absence of special contract to the contrary, a vessel is bound to furnish a sufficient quantity of suitable food for passengers, and is liable in damages for the master's failure to do so when it is within his power.[20] It is the duty of the owners to supply the vessel with sufficient food and provisions to meet the contingencies of accident to the vessel and the resulting delay in the voyage, from whatever cause such accident and delay may arise.[21] Inasmuch as the furnishing bad or improper

11. The Vueltabajo, 163 Fed. 594; North Coast Lighterage Co. v. Greenwood, 162 Fed. 25, 89 C. C. A. 65.

The owners are responsible for the master's excluding a cabin passenger from the use of the cabin (St. Amand v. Lizardi, 4 La. 243), and the fact that a passenger on a vessel enjoyed first-class accommodation for a part of the voyage before objection was made to his doing so, or that he failed to accept such accommodation when tendered him on condition of paying full fare, did not affect his right to recover for the tort of the vessel's officers in wrongfully excluding him from such accommodation during the latter part of the voyage (Gleason v. The Willamette Valley, 71 Fed. 712).

12. Sparks v. The Sonora, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,212.

13. Sparks v. The Sonora, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,212.

14. Patterson v. Old Dominion Steamship Co., 140 N. C. 412, 53 S. E. 224, 111 Am. St. Rep. 848, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 1012, holding also that where there was evidence that subsequent to plaintiff's purchase of his ticket and application for a berth on defendant's steamer, and defendant's refusal to furnish the berth, other parties were given berths, and that by reason of defendant's refusal plaintiff was compelled to sit up all night, the granting of a nonsuit was error.

15. The Valencia, 110 Fed. 221 [affirmed in 117 Fed. 68, 54 C. C. A. 454], holding that while the obtaining of an inspector's certificate permitting the vessel to take more passengers than she actually carried may relieve her from prosecution for the statutory penalty for carrying an excessive number, it does not relieve her from liability to passengers for a violation of her implied agreement to furnish them with reasonable accommodations.

16. The Oriflamme, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,572, 3 Sawy. 397.

17. Basnight v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 147 N. C. 169, 60 S. E. 899.

18. Defrier v. The Nicaragua, 81 Fed. 745, holding that a vessel is not bound, in the absence of special contract, to furnish bedding for steerage or deck passengers.

19. Miller v. New Jersey Steam-Boat Co., 58 Hun (N. Y.) 424, 12 N. Y. Suppl. 301 [affirmed in 135 N. Y. 612, 32 N. E. 645].

20. North Coast Lighterage Co. v. Greenwood, 162 Fed. 25, 89 C. C. A. 65; Defrier v. The Nicaragua, 81 Fed. 745.

21. The Oregon, 133 Fed. 609, 68 C. C. A. 603, holding that it is the duty of a passenger steamer making a voyage between Nome, food to passengers, or food unfit to eat, is equivalent to putting them on short allowance within the statute [22] providing a penalty for the latter offense, the carrier is subjected to the penalty if he furnishes such food; [23] but where the fare furnished passengers on a long sea voyage is such as is usually provided, and is sufficient in quantity, and properly cooked, and the passengers do not really suffer, they have no ground for the recovery of damages because it is not so good as might have been furnished or as is provided on vessels making short voyages.[24] The duties which the law imposes on common carriers of passengers by water in relation to the treatment and accommodation of passengers during the voyage necessarily cease on the termination of the voyage.[25]

3. Care Required of Carrier — a. General Rules; Gratuitous Passengers; Children; Visiting Friends. A very high degree of care for the safety of a passenger is required of a ship; [26] even a person carried gratuitously, if lawfully on board,

Alaska, and Seattle, by the outside course, which is in the open sea, without a stopping place for seventeen hundred miles of the way, to carry provisions sufficient for her passengers for at least twenty or thirty days in addition to the usual time required for the voyage, to provide against the contingency of accident and the resulting delays.

A stipulation in a contract for transportation across the ocean, that "during the whole journey . . . passengers will be supplied with good and sufficient food as well as with suitable lodging, and this arrangement stands equally good in the event of any unavoidable delay or accident interrupting the journey," covers delay required by quarantine regulations; and the carrier is liable for injuries to the health of a passenger, resulting from its failure to provide sufficient and suitable food and lodging during the quarantine. Larsen v. Allan Line Steamship Co., 37 Wash. 555, 80 Pac. 181, holding also that the provision in the contract for ocean transportation that the carrier will not be liable for delay from "restraints of princes, rulers, and peoples" does not exempt the carrier from liability for negligence in failing to furnish sufficient and suitable food and lodging, which it undertook to furnish, during a quarantine required by the government.

22. 22 U. S. St. at L. 186 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2931], to regulate the carriage of passengers by sea from a foreign port to a port of the United States, which provides in section 4, that if any such passengers shall at any time during the voyage be put on short allowance for food and water, except in cases of necessity, the master shall pay each passenger three dollars for each and every day of such short allowance.

23. The European, 120 Fed. 776, 57 C. C. A. 140.

24. The President, 92 Fed. 673.

Food held unsuitable see The D. C. Murray, 89 Fed. 508, where evidence was that the beef and pork was bad and the other stores inferior, and the rice sometimes had weevils in it.

Food held suitable see The Centennial, 131 Fed. 816, where allegations of a libel by steerage passengers on a voyage from Seattle to San Francisco to recover damages for breach of contract on the ground that the ship failed to furnish them with proper food, quarters, and bedding was held not sustained by the evidence.

25. New Orleans v. The Windermere, 12 La. Ann. 84, holding that if, during the voyage, a contagious disease breaks out in the vessel, and on her arrival at port city authorities find it necessary, in order to prevent the spreading of the infection, to have her sick passengers sent to the hospital to be treated, the owners of the vessel cannot be made liable for the expenses incurred thereby.

Hospital money.— When the consignees of the ship have paid the contribution imposed by the statute as hospital money, and the act of introducing the passengers is not in violation of any prohibitory law, an action for damages arising from a quasi offense will not lie. New Orleans v. The Windermere, 12 La. Ann. 84.

26. Pouppirt v. Elder Dempster Shipping, 125 Fed. 732, 60 C. C. A. 500 [reversing 122 Fed. 983]. And see infra, this, and the following notes.

A carrier of slaves, who were drowned by an accident to the carrier's steamboat, was not liable as a common carrier of freight, but as a carrier of passengers (Williams v. Taylor, 4 Port. (Ala.) 234; McDonald v. Clark, 4 McCord (S. C.) 223; Boyce v. Anderson, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 150, 7 L. ed. 379. But see Lobdell v. Bullitt, 13 La. 348, 33 Am. Dec. 567); and since a carrier of slaves was not an insurer but only liable for injuries as in the case of passengers, defendant, whose servant, acting outside of the scope of his duties, shot plaintiff's slave while he was being transported on defendant's boat, was not liable for the injury (McClenaghan v. Brocks, 5 Rich. (S. C.) 17).

Duty where passenger falls overboard.— The carrier is liable for the death of a passenger due to failure to stop the boat to rescue him after he fell overboard. Melhado v. Poughkeepsie Transp. Co., 27 Hun (N. Y.) 99.

Children.— Injury to a child, resulting proximately from the fault of his nurse, is not ground for an action against the vessel. The Burgundia, 29 Fed. 464. Similarly where plaintiff's child was on board defendant's tugboat with their consent, it was held that they could not recover for his death by drowning.

may recover for want of due care;[27] and it is also the duty of the ship's officers to take reasonable precautions to avoid risk of injury on board to visiting friends of passengers.[28]

b. Appliances, Equipment, Loading, and Management. A carrier of passengers by water is liable for failure to observe a very high degree of care for a passenger's safety.[29] His duty to protect the passenger requires him to take great pre-

Cook v. Houston Direct Nav. Co., 76 Tex. 353, 13 S. W. 475, 18 Am. St. Rep. 52. But if the crew permitted the child to come on board without the consent of plaintiffs, the fact that it was against the orders of defendant, and without the knowledge of the officer in charge of the boat, was not sufficient to relieve defendant from liability. Cook v. Houston Direct Nav. Co., supra, holding also that where the petition alleged that defendant company was guilty of negligence in receiving plaintiff's child on board of defendant's tugboat without their consent, and the answer averred that the boat was not a passenger boat, and that defendant's employees were forbidden to carry passengers, it was error to charge that plaintiffs could not recover unless the child was a passenger on defendant's boat.

27. Cleveland v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 68 N. Y. 306 (holding that one who enters upon a passenger steamboat in good faith, to take passage thereon, is there in the relation and character of a passenger, and the owner of the boat owes to him the duty of a carrier of passengers, although no fare has been paid); The New World v. King, 16 How. (U. S.) 469, 14 L. ed. 1019 (where the injured passenger was on board under a custom to permit persons usually employed on steamboats to go free of charge from place to place, and it was held that negligence in the care or management of the boilers of the steamboat was culpable negligence, rendering the owners and the boat liable for damages, even in the case of gratuitous carriage passengers).

28. Unitus v. The Dresden, 62 Fed. 438, holding also that stevedores bringing passengers' baggage on board of a steamship and placing it where requested by passengers for their convenience are not exercising an independent employment, but are performing a duty which rests on the ship, and it is the duty of the ship's officers to see that injury by them to visiting friends is avoided.

Sailing with person visiting passenger on board.— There is no presumption that a person who comes on board a steamboat to see a friend at a landing comes as a passenger, and intends to sail in her, so as to relieve the owners of the boat from the duty of providing reasonable means and opportunity of leaving the boat before she starts, in case such person wishes to do so (Keokuk Packet Co. v. Henry, 50 Ill. 264); but where plaintiff went on board a steamboat at one of her intermediate landings, and, while transacting business with the boat, was taken off to a landing below against his remonstrance, it was held that he was entitled to a reasonable time within which to transact the business upon which he went on board (in this case to take charge of a lady passenger), and was entitled to damages amounting to the reasonable value of the time lost and expense incurred in being taken to and returning from the place at which he was landed (Stoneseifer v. Sheble, 31 Mo. 243).

29. Hill v. Starin, 173 N. Y. 632, 66 N. E. 1110 [affirming 65 N. Y. App. Div. 361, 73 N. Y. Suppl. 91]; White v. Seattle, etc., Nav Co., 36 Wash. 281, 78 Pac. 909, 104 Am. St. Rep. 948 (holding a carrier by boat negligent toward its passengers in leaving unguarded a hole in the floor of its deck two feet long and four inches wide); The Erastus Corning, 158 Fed. 452 (holding that where a steamer ran upon a rock in the night, it was negligence for those in charge to permit passengers to leave in a small boat without a competent seaman in charge, which rendered the vessel liable to one of such passengers for the loss of his effects, and for physical injuries resulting from his exposure for several hours in the open boat, with only his underclothing to protect him from the cold); The Prinzess Irene, 139 Fed. 810 [affirmed in 151 Fed. 17, 80 C. C. A. 483]; Northern Commercial Co. v. Nestor, 138 Fed. 383, 70 C. C. A. 523 (holding that a passenger on a vessel, injured while on a voyage, without his fault, through the negligence of the officers, is entitled to no less care from the ship than a seaman, and its duty is not fulfilled by giving him such care as an ordinary unskilled person could afford him, and further that the carrier was liable for failure to exercise the utmost vigilance and care in maintaining order on its vessel and to protect its passengers against injury by the careless use of firearms); In re Kimball Steamship Co., 123 Fed. 838 [reversed on other grounds in 128 Fed. 397, 63 C. C. A. 139, 65 L. R. A. 84] (holding also that the liability of a steamship for the safe carriage of persons whom she undertakes to convey on board from the shore in her boats as passengers is the same whether such persons had previously engaged passage or were going on board for that purpose); The Nederland, 7 Fed. 926, 14 Phila. (Pa.) 601. But see Ganguzza v. Anchor Line, 97 N. Y. App. Div. 352, 89 N. Y. Suppl. 1049 [affirmed in 184 N. Y. 545, 76 N. E. 1095], holding that where a steerage passenger on an ocean steamship was injured by the parting of a wire rope used in hoisting ashes from the hold, while he was leaning against the jamb of a door leading to what was known as the "stokehole fidley," watching the hoisting of the ashes, and it was not usual for passengers to be in such position, plaintiff was not entitled to the exercise of caution to furnish safe appliances,[30] and to provide the ship with safe machinery,[31]

the utmost human care, vigilance, and foresight to protect him, but was only entitled to the exercise of ordinary care to guard him from injury.

Liability of carrier of passengers compared with liability of carrier of goods.— While a carrier of passengers by sea is bound to exercise a very high degree of care, prudence, and foresight, it is not an insurer of their safety, and there is no implied warranty, as in case of the carriage of goods, that the ship was seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, and whether she was technically so or not is immaterial in a suit by passengers to recover for injuries received. The Oregon, 133 Fed. 609, 68 C. C. A. 603, Ross, circuit judge, dissenting. But while a ship is not bound to the same strict responsibility for the safety of passengers as in the case of goods, it is bound to exercise a high degree of care, while the passenger is also required to exercise reasonable care for his own safety. Elder Dempster Shipping Co. v. Pouppirt, 125 Fed. 732, 60 C. C. A. 500 [reversing 122 Fed. 983]. And see Mulvana v. The Anchoria, 83 Fed. 847, 27 C. C. A. 650 [affirming 77 Fed. 994], holding that the existence of a wet place on the floor about the water cooler in the steerage, caused by carelessness of passengers in using the cooler, is not proof of such negligence as will render the ship liable for personal injuries caused by the slipping of the steward thereon so as to spill hot gruel upon a passenger. The probability of such an accident is too remote to make the failure to keep the floor constantly dry negligence in the protection of passengers.

Evidence held not to show negligence on the ship-owner's part see Dougan v. Champlain Transp. Co., 56 N. Y. 1 [affirming 6 Lans. 430]; The Caracas, 163 Fed. 662; The City of Boston, 159 Fed. 261; Elder Dempster Shipping Co. v. Pouppirt, 125 Fed. 732, 60 C. C. A. 500 [reversing 122 Fed. 983]; Van Anda v. Ontario Northern Nav. Co., 111 Fed. 765, 49 C. C. A. 506, 55 L. R. A. 544; Mulvana v. The Anchoria, 77 Fed. 994 [affirmed in 83 Fed. 847, 27 C. C. A. 650]; Cleveland v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 68 N. Y. 306 [reversing 5 Hun 523]; Crocheron v. North Shore Staten Island Ferry Co., 56 N. Y. 656 [reversing 1 Thomps. & C. 446].

The owners of excursion boats used for night excursions are bound to use proper precautions to guard against the natural mistakes of passengers while on board. The Pilot Boy, 23 Fed. 103.

Parties jointly owning and navigating a boat, the boiler of which explodes through the negligent act of the engineer, are jointly and severally liable, in an action of tort by a passenger, for injuries resulting from such explosion. Fay v. Davidson, 13 Minn. 523.

Where a vessel was sunk as the result of a collision those in charge were bound to use the utmost exertions in their power to avert injury to the passengers from the impending peril, which duty continued until the passengers were safely landed, but the vessel is not liable for injuries resulting from errors of judgment in the emergency on the part of those in charge, provided they were competent seamen. The City of Boston, 159 Fed. 261.

A provision of a steamship ticket exempting the carrier from responsibility for its own or its agent's negligence, provided it has used due diligence to make the vessel seaworthy, is void, as against public policy. The Oregon, 133 Fed. 609, 68 C. C. A. 603. And a provision that neither the ship, the ship-owner, nor the agent is responsible, beyond the amount of one hundred dollars, for loss of or injury to passengers arising from latent defects in the steamer, or default or negligence of the ship-owner's servants, is unreasonable and invalid. Moses v. Hamburg-American Packet Co., 88 Fed. 329.

30. Peverly v. Boston, 136 Mass. 366, 49 Am. Rep. 37 (holding that where a ferry company has a gate in the front of its boat so insecurely fastened that any person can open it, it is no defense to an action by a passenger, for injuries caused by the opening of the gate, that it was not opened by an employee); Cleveland v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 5 Hun (N. Y.) 523 [reversed on other grounds in 68 N. Y. 306]; The Nederland, 7 Fed. 926 [affirmed in 14 Fed. 63].

31. Carroll v. Staten Island R. Co., 58 N. Y. 126, 17 Am. Rep. 221; The Nederland, 7 Fed. 926 [affirmed in 14 Fed. 63].

Inspection of boilers, etc.— Under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4426, requiring the hull and boilers of every ferry-boat to be inspected, and U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4470 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3049], requiring certain provisions to be made for protection against fire, on every steamer carrying freight or passengers, the steamboat inspectors may require ferry-boats to be provided with the same precautions against fire, so far as applicable, as are expressly provided in reference to any other steam vessels carrying passengers; and when the boat passes inspection on the basis of having a steam pump provided in accordance with U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4471 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3049], the boat is bound to maintain it in the condition required by that section. The Garden City, 26 Fed. 766. And it is as much the duty of an owner of a steamship under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4418, to cause an inspection of a boiler which has been repaired in a substantial part, as to cause an inspection of a new boiler, before using the same; and a failure to cause such inspection will render the owner of the vessel liable, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4493 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 3058], to a passenger injured in consequence of the explosion of the boiler. The Annie Faxon, 75 Fed. 312, 21 C. C. A. 366. Nor does a compliance with the provisions of the act exempt a party from liability which the law otherwise imposes. Caldwell v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 47 N. Y. 282; Swarthout v. New Jersey equipment,[32] loading,[33] stowage,[34] mooring,[35] and management [36] of the vessel, and its seaworthiness,[37] provided it contributes to the injury suffered, and passenger vessels must be furnished with whatever is requisite or usual for the safety of those on board,[38] including a safe means of passage from the boat to the pier;[39] and the carrier is

Steamboat Co., 46 Barb. (N. Y.) 222 [affirmed in 48 N. Y. 209, 8 Am. Rep. 541], holding that where a passenger was injured by an explosion of a boiler on a steamboat, the steamboat's owners were liable for damages, although the inspector, exercising his office in pursuance of the above act, had certified that the conditions of the act were complied with.

32. Mellquist v. The Wasco, 53 Fed. 546, holding the carrier liable for injury to a passenger on a steamer, while on the stairway from the main deck to the cabin deck, by the fall of a heavy lantern, caused by the breaking of a halyard by which it was being hoisted to its place, although the cause of such breaking did not appear.

33. Unitus v. The Dresden, 62 Fed. 438, holding that the use, for lowering baggage into a steamship, of the same companionway used by passengers and their friends in passing up and down, where the ship has more than one companionway that could be used for baggage, is want of care for which the ship is liable to a passenger injured by the fall of a trunk, caused by its handle breaking while being so lowered.

34. The Oriflamme, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,572, 3 Sawy. 397, holding that a steerage passenger is entitled to the use of the steerage room to walk about or sit down in during the voyage, without the risk or inconvenience of freight therein; and if freight is stowed therein it is at the risk of the carrier, and he must so stow it and secure it that no harm will be caused to the passengers by it; nor can the carrier impose any arbitrary regulation upon the passengers with a view of diminishing such risk — such that they must remain in their berths during the whole voyage, or any unusual portion of it.

35. The City of Portsmouth, 125 Fed. 264, holding a steam ferry-boat which, while discharging passengers on a dock or float, by reason of being insufficiently secured, swung away from the float, leaving a space of several inches, liable for an injury to a passenger, who in attempting to pass from the vessel, and in the exercise of due care, stepped into such space, or was thrown by the lurching of the vessel, and fell between the vessel and dock.

36. Carroll v. Staten Island R. Co., 58 N. Y. 126, 17 Am. Rep. 221 (holding the owners of a boat liable for injuries to a passenger resulting from the explosion of a boiler which at the time carried steam in excess of the pressure allowed by the inspector's certificate); The Annie L. Vansciver, 161 Fed. 640 (holding those operating the vessel chargeable with negligence which rendered it liable for injuries suffered owing to their permitting the passengers to crowd without warning, within coils of the lines, or in not so coiling or handling the lines as to remove the danger); The Prinzess Irene, 151 Fed. 17, 80 C. C. A. 483 [affirming 139 Fed. 17] (holding a steamship negligent in requiring steerage passengers to come on to the upper deck to receive their food while crossing the ocean in weather so stormy as to render it dangerous, and liable for the injury of a passenger while so on deck caused by being thrown down by a wave, or by reason of the wet and slippery condition of the deck); Jones v. The St. Nicholas, 49 Fed. 671 (holding that it is negligence for a river passenger steamer to approach the locality of a railroad drawbridge at night at such a rate of speed as to prevent her complete control by the master, especially where there is no uniformity in the method of placing lights to indicate whether the draw is open or closed); Ladd v. Foster, 31 Fed. 827, 12 Sawy. 547.

37. In re Myers Excursion, etc., Co., 57 Fed. 240 [affirmed in 61 Fed. 109, 9 C. C. A. 386], holding that a barge used to carry excursion parties on New York harbor and neighboring waters is unseaworthy when not in a condition to withstand without serious injury to her passengers the violent thunder storms which are of frequent occurrence in that locality.

38. Lobdell v. Bullitt, 13 La. 348, 33 Am. Dec. 567; The Pilot Boy, 23 Fed. 103, holding the carrier liable for failure to have a light at a steep stairs resulting in injury.

39. Croft v. Northwestern Steamship Co., 20 Wash. 175, 55 Pac. 42 (holding that a steamboat company is liable for an injury to a passenger caused by a loose gang-plank, although it had securely fastened the plank, and there was a reasonable opportunity for persons other than its employees to loosen it); The Ocracoke, 159 Fed. 552; Burrows v. Lownsdale, 133 Fed. 250, 66 C. C. A. 650 (holding that a gang-plank consisting of a plank ten feet long, sixteen inches wide, and one inch thick, with cleats nailed on one side, but having no railing, rope, or other guard, and which, when extended from the deck of a steamer to a wharf, sloped downward at an angle of about thirty degrees, does not furnish a reasonably safe means for discharging passengers, nor can its use be justified by custom; and the vessel is liable in damages for the injury of a passenger by falling from it into the water); Hrebrik v. Carr, 29 Fed. 298 (holding that a passenger on board a vessel, before her departure from the wharf, has the right to go ashore for his own purposes, and the vessel is liable for failure to provide a safe means of passage from the steamer to the pier). But see Plant Inv. Co. v. Cook, 85 Fed. 611, 29 C. C. A. 377, holding that where in descending a slippery incline at a boat landing, instead of walking on a rough gang-plank or a row of cleats liable for injuries due to its negligently leaving a hatch open into which a passenger falls.[40] But the carrier is not responsible for accidents resulting from latent defects in machinery or equipment not avoidable by a very high degree of care;[41] and, although the breaking of the machinery of a steamboat, whereby a passenger was injured, sometimes raises a presumption of negligence on the part of the carrier,[42] to overcome such presumption it is not necessary to show that the machinery was constructed of the most perfect material and in the most perfect manner care and diligence can suggest.[43] But in an action to recover for injuries to a passenger resulting from the explosion of a boiler on defendant's ship, the fact that skilful manufacturers of machinery used in such ships did not use certain safety appliances, which science had made known and demonstrated to be useful, is not conclusive on the question of the carrier's freedom from negligence.[44] A ship-owner is liable to a passenger on his vessel for injuries sustained in a collision caused by the concurrent negligence of the colliding ships.[45]

c. Acts or Omissions of Officers or Crew; Assault; Medical Treatment. It is the duty of a vessel to protect a passenger from harm or injury through the acts of officers, employees, or other passengers, and a failure to do so renders it liable for the resulting damages,[46] whether the injury be due to negliwith which the incline was provided, plaintiff walked between them and was injured by a fall, it was the result of her own negligence.

A steamboat is affected with notice of the insecure condition of a gangway by complaint made to longshoremen engaged in carrying freight and baggage aboard her, whom the captain did not deny were servants of the boat, for they are regarded for this purpose as agents of the boat. Parker v. Boston, etc., Steamboat Co., 109 Mass. 449.

40. Behrens v. The Furnessia, 35 Fed. 798.

41. Simmons v. New Bedford, etc., Steamboat Co., 100 Mass. 34 (holding that on the trial of an action by a passenger against a steamboat company for injury by the fall of a small boat which was hung over the deck, an instruction which allowed the jury to hold defendant responsible if the fastenings were not strong enough, although defendant might not have had any notice of their weakness, and might not with the utmost care have ascertained it, was erroneous); The Nederland, 7 Fed. 926 [affirmed in 14 Fed. 63] (holding that where a passenger on a steamship was injured by the fall of a boom caused by the drawing out of the shoulder of a swivel hook from the band surrounding the block to which it was attached, and where it appeared that the accident must have resulted from a defect in the shoulder not discoverable by inspection of the block, the steamship was not liable).

42. Yerkes v. Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co., 7 Mo. App. 265, a paddle wheel.

43. Yerkes v. Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co., 7 Mo. App. 265.

44. Caldwell v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 47 N. Y. 282.

45. Jung v. Starin, 12 Misc. (N. Y.) 362, 33 N. Y. Suppl. 650.

46. Keene v. Lizardi, 5 La. 431, 23 Am. Dec. 197; New Jersey Steam-Boat Co. v. Brockett, 121 U. S. 637, 7 S. Ct. 1039, 30 L. ed. 1049; The City of Panama, 101 U. S. 453, 25 L. ed. 1061; The Western States, 151 Fed. 929 [affirmed in 159 Fed. 354, 86 C. C. A. 354]; The Yankee v. Gallagher, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,124, McAllister 467.

The act of March 30, 1852, "for the better security of the lives of passengers on steam vessels," does not exempt the owners and masters of a steam vessel, and the vessel, from liability for injuries caused by the negligence of its pilot or engineer, but makes them liable for all damages sustained by a passenger or his baggage from neglect to comply with the provisions of the law, no matter where the fault may lie; and, in addition to this remedy, any person injured by the negligence of the pilot or engineer may have his action directly against those officers. Sherlock v. Alling, 93 U. S. 99, 23 L. ed. 819.

Injury by ship's surgeon.— Under the act of Aug. 2, 1882, 22 U. S. St. at L. 188, c. 374, § 5 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2395], which provides that steamships shall carry competent surgeons, who shall be supplied with proper instruments and medicines, etc., it is the duty of the ship-owner to provide a competent surgeon, who may be employed by the passengers if they choose; but the owner is not liable for injury caused by failure of the surgeon to exercise care in performing a surgical operation. O'Brien v. Cunard Steamship Co., 154 Mass. 272, 28 N. E. 266, 13 L. R. A. 329 (vaccination); Laubheim v. De Koninglyke, etc., Steamship Co., 107 N. Y. 228, 13 N. E. 781, 1 Am. St. Rep. 815 (unskilful treatment of bruised knee-cap, evidence held insufficient to prove negligence in selection of surgeon); The Napolitan Prince, 134 Fed. 159. And under the Passengers Act of Great Britain, passed Aug. 14, 1855, which provides that every passenger ship shall carry a duly qualified medical practitioner, and that the owner shall furnish a proper and necessary supply of medicines, to be properly packed and placed under the medical practitioner's control, the ship-owner has no supervision over the medical practitioner, and its duty ceases on complying with such requirements. It is not therefore liable gence[47] or wilful misconduct, such as wanton assault and battery,[48] false arrest and imprisonment,[49] threats,[50] or the exercise of unnecessary and excessive force in enforcing a regulation,[51] but not for necessary and not excessive force in enforcing a valid regulation,[52] and the vessel is not liable for errors of judgment on the part of employees in an emergency, provided they are competent men for their positions.[53] The master of a steamship employed as a common carrier of passengers cannot lawfully remove from his vessel a passenger whose behavior is proper, and who has tendered his fare;[54] but he may exclude therefrom one who takes passage for the purpose of soliciting passengers for a connecting line running in opposition to a connecting line with which the steamboat proprietors have a contract to carry passengers through to a distant port.[55]

4. Actions For Breach — a. Nature and General Rules. A contract to transport a passenger in a vessel on the high seas is a maritime contract, and within the jurisdiction of admiralty,[56] and the maritime law gives to passengers a lien on the ship after the performance of the contract has begun, as security, and they for injuries incurred by a passenger by taking calomel furnished by the medical practitioner through negligence or mistake, in response to a request for quinine. Allan v. State Steamship Co., 132 N. Y. 91, 30 N. E. 482, 28 Am. St. Rep. 556, 15 L. R. A. 166 [reversing 5 Silv. Sup. 235, 8 N. Y Suppl. 803].

47. Doherty v. California Nav., etc., Co., 6 Cal. App. 131, 91 Pac. 419 (holding that where the captain of a steamship discovered a passenger lying in a drunken and helpless condition on the floor, and, with knowledge of his helplessness, lifted him to his feet, and left him without any support, whereupon he fell and broke his arm, the captain did not exercise the full degree of care required by rendering assistance sufficient in the case of a sober man, but was bound to exercise such care as he could to avoid an accident in the situation presented to him); Smith v. British, etc., Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., 46 N. Y. Super. Ct. 86 [affirmed in 86 N. Y. 408] (negligent injury to female passenger due to steward trying to pull her from her berth); Ryall v. Kennedy, 40 N. Y. Super. Ct. 347 [affirmed in 67 N. Y. 379] (negligence in failing to remove poison from drinking cup whereby a child of a passenger died).

48. Levidow v. Starin, 77 Conn. 600, 60 Atl. 123; Sherley v. Billings, 8 Bush (Ky.) 147, 8 Am. Rep. 451; McGuire v. The Golden Gate, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,815, McAllister 104, allowing, however, only actual not punitive damages.

Under Ill. Rev. St. c. 102, providing that steamboats navigating the rivers within and bordering on this state shall be liable for any injury done by the captain or other officer thereof to a passenger on such steamboat, an action of trespass will lie against a steamboat for an assault and battery committed by the mate of the boat on a passenger. The F. X. Aubury, 28 Ill. 412, 81 Am. Dec. 292.

49. Ragland v. Norfolk, etc., Steamboat Co., 163 Fed. 376 [modified in 169 Fed. 286], holding that where a passenger on a steamship was arrested by a watchman, without justification, dragged down the saloon stairway by the collar, pushed inside the freight room, and kept there in custody of another watchman for an hour, the ship-owners were liable.

50. Levidow v. Starin, 77 Conn. 600, 60 Atl. 123.

51. New Jersey Steamboat Co. v. Brockett, 121 U. S. 637, 7 S. Ct. 1039, 30 L. ed. 1049, holding that where a deck passenger has notice of, and has contracted to observe, a regulation restricting deck passengers to a particular part of the boat, and the steamboat hands, in removing him from a place in which he had no right to be, used unnecessary and excessive force, the company is liable for the injuries caused to the passenger thereby. See Levidow v. Starin, 77 Conn. 600, 60 Atl. 123.

Under the Ohio Water Craft Law an action for an assault and battery, committed by the clerk of a vessel upon a passenger at a point on a navigable river outside the territory of the state, cannot be maintained in Ohio, unless it appears that the assault and battery was committed within the scope of the clerk's employment. The Ocean v. Marshall, 11 Ohio St. 379.

52. Ellis v. Narragansett Steamship Co., 111 Mass. 146, holding that the officers of a steamship have a right to reserve a table in the dinner cabin for their own use, and to cause an intruder thereat to be removed by force, so far as force may be necessary.

Vaccination.—Where one on shipboard voluntarily submits to vaccination by the ship's physician in order to obtain the proper certificate to pass quarantine, she cannot maintain an action against the ship-owner for assault by the physician for performing such operation. O'Brien v. Cunard Steamship Co., 154 Mass. 272, 28 N. E. 266, 13 L. R. A. 329.

53. The City of Boston, 159 Fed. 261.

54. Pearson v. Duane, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 605, 18 L. ed. 447 (applying the rule, although the removal was for the purpose of preventing the passenger from proceeding to a place under a revolutionary government by which he has been sentenced to death in case of his return); La Gascogne, 135 Fed. 577.

55. Jencks v. Coleman, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,258, 2 Sumn. 321.

56. Stone v. The Relampago, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,486.

may maintain a suit in rem as well as in personam.[57] The owner is subject to the same responsibility for a breach of duty by the master toward the passengers as for his misconduct in regard to merchandise;[58] and as the master may sue in a foreign port in behalf of the owners, when by his act or contract a right accrues in their favor, so may he be sued in their behalf when a liability is incurred by them from his act within the scope of his employment.[59] The general rules governing actions against carriers for personal injuries to passengers [60] apply to actions of this kind against carriers by water, as to process,[61] pleading,[62] evidence,[63] and

57. Stone v. Relampago, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,486; The Zenobia, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,208, Abb. Adm. 48.

58. Fellows v. High, 7 La. Ann. 451.

Liability for injury by carrier of goods see supra, VII, D.

The act of Aug. 3, 1852, entitled, "An act for the better security of the lives of persons on vessels navigated in whole or in part by steam," may be invoked as the basis of a civil action to remedy a wrong caused by a failure of the carrier to comply with its provisions. England v. Gripon, 15 La. Ann. 304.

La. Civ. Code, art. 3237, subd. 12, does not create a lien or privilege upon a vessel for the loss of life of a passenger and was not intended to apply to actions for damages resulting in death. The Albert Dumois, 177 U. S. 240, 20 S. Ct. 595, 44 L. ed. 751 [affirming 87 Fed. 948], holding, however, that valid claims may be asserted under a limited liability act for damages on account of the loss of life of passengers in a collision, although there may be no lien or privilege upon the vessel given therefor by local law.

Analogy between carrier of goods and of merchandise.— Ships engaged in carrying passengers on the high seas for hire stand on the same footing of responsibility, according to the maritime law, as those engaged in carrying merchandise, the passage-money being the equivalent for the freight, and therefore on a breach of a passenger contract, and damage resulting, the ship as well as the owner is bound to respond. The Aberfoyle, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 17, 1 Blatchf. 360 [affirming 1 Fed. Cas. No. 16, Abb. Adm. 242]; The Pacific, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,643, 1 Blatchf. 569.

59. Fellows v. High, 7 La. Ann. 451.

60. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 626 et seq.

61. Fellows v. High, 7 La. Ann. 451, holding that in an action of damages by a passenger for ill-usage by the master of a vessel, the owners, although non-residents, cannot be made liable when citation is served only on the master and consignees.

62. Cook v. Houston Direct Nav. Co., 76 Tex. 353, 13 S. W. 475, 18 Am. St. Rep. 52 (holding that where the petition alleges that defendant company was a common carrier of passengers, and that plaintiff's child was killed while a passenger on defendant's tugboat, an answer averring that the boat was not a passenger boat, and that defendant's employees were forbidden to carry passengers, is sufficient); Freeman v. Engelmann Transp. Co., 36 Wis. 571 (holding that where in an action for negligence in the management of a steamboat, causing the death of plaintiff's intestate by drowning, the answer averred substantially that all the passengers were urged by the officers to take to the small boats, and that some, including such intestate, refused to do so, whereby he was lost, it stated a defense).

Sufficiency of complaint.—A complaint, in an action for permanent injuries to plaintiff's health, which alleges that because of defendant's failure to furnish him, as a passenger, sufficient wholesome food and clean, warm quarters, with bedding, during his journey across the ocean, he suffered great pain from cold and hunger, and became sick; that by reason of said suffering his health has been permanently injured; that he has lost the power of hearing in both ears, and has been rendered entirely deaf for the balance of his life, states a cause of action. Larsen v. Allan Line Steamship Co., 37 Wash. 555, 80 Pac. 181. And a petition for an injury to a passenger caused by the falling of a gangplank, alleging that the plank was negligently supported on defendant's boat, and was not properly fastened thereto, is sufficiently definite and certain. Croft v. Northwestern Steamship Co., 20 Wash. 175, 55 Pac. 42.

63. Connecticut.— Levidow v. Starin, 77 Conn. 600, 60 Atl. 123, holding that in an action by a passenger on a steamboat for an assault committed by the captain the burden of proving the facts set up by way of justification rests on defendant.

Indiana.— Memphis, etc., Packet Co. v. McCool, 83 Ind. 392, 43 Am. Rep. 71, holding that in an action by a passenger on a steamboat against the owners thereof to recover for injuries alleged to have been sustained by reason of the negligence of defendant's servant in allowing a bale of cotton to fall upon and injure plaintiff, evidence to show defects in the construction of the boat is irrelevant and should be rejected.

Massachusetts.— Simmons v. New Bedford, etc., Steamboat Co., 97 Mass. 361, 93 Am. Dec. 99, holding that in an action for injuries received by the fall of a small boat, suspended over the deck of a steamboat, evidence that passengers had been accustomed to sit in the boat was admissible to show that the officers must have known of the practice, but not to show that the officers had reason to suppose such occupation was dangerous.

New York.—Miller v. Ocean Steam-Ship Co., 118 N. Y. 199, 23 N. E. 462 (holding that in an action for injury evidence is admissible that immediately after the accident a capstan bar was substituted for a broken stick, trial.[64] Thus questions of fact,[65] such as negligence of defendant[66] and contributory negligence of plaintiff,[67] are for the jury, unless the evidence is so manifestly insufficient that a finding based thereon could not be sustained,[68] and the parties are upon request entitled to full instructions correctly stating the law.[69]

b. Defenses; Contributory Negligence. The general doctrine of contributory and the turning of the vessel completed by its use); Cleveland v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 5 Hun 523 [reversed on other grounds in 68 N. Y. 306] (holding that evidence of a custom on other passenger boats on the river to wait for the departure of the boat before putting up the gates at the gangway entrance was inadmissible, for a negligent custom of others is not a defense).

United States.— Jones v. The St. Nicholas, 49 Fed. 671 [distinguishing The Farragut, 10 Wall. 334, 19 L. ed. 946], holding that where a river steamboat which carries no lookout at the bow, as required by rule 10 of the board of supervisors' regulations, collides with a drawbridge at night, and thus causes injuries to her passengers, the burden is upon her to show that the want of a lookout did not in any manner contribute to the accident, and that the fact that other boats running on the same rivers did not carry any lookout except the pilot or helmsman, is immaterial, since no practice which is contrary to a rule having the force of a statute can create a valid custom.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 545 et seq.

Evidence held sufficient to show negligence on carrier's part see Miller v. Ocean Steam-Ship Co., 118 N. Y. 199, 23 N. E. 462.

By the act of July 7, 1838, for the better security of the lives of passengers on board of vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam, masters and owners, neglecting to comply with its conditions, are liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars, to be recovered by suit or indictment; and if neglect or disobedience of the law shall be proved to exist, when injury shall occur to persons or property, it throws upon the master and owner of a steamer the burden of proof to show that the injury done was not the consequence of it. Poree v. Cannon, 14 La. Ann. 501; Waring v. Clarke, 5 How. (U. S.) 441, 12 L. ed. 226.

64. Evers v. Wiggin Ferry Co., 127 Mo. App. 236, 105 S. W. 306.

65. Miller v. Ocean Steam-Ship Co., 118 N. Y. 199, 23 N. E. 462 (whether the management of a hawser was negligent); Cleveland v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 7 N. Y. St. 598 (whether gangway gate was placed in position).

66. American Steam-Ship Co. v. Landreth, 102 Pa. St. 131, 108 Pa. St. 264, 48 Am. Rep. 196 (whether the company was negligent in failing to provide railings along the side of the cabin); Coney Island Co. v. Dennan, 149 Fed. 687, 79 C. C. A. 375; International Mercantile Marine Co. v. Smith, 145 Fed. 891, 76 C. C. A. 423.

67. Peverly v. Boston, 136 Mass. 366, 49 Am. Rep. 37; Simmons v. New Bedford, etc., Steamboat Co., 97 Mass. 361, 93 Am. Dec. 99; Gannon v. Union Ferry Co., 29 Hun (N. Y.) 631; American Steam-Ship Co. v. Landreth, 108 Pa. St. 264; International Mercantile Mar. Co. v. Smith, 145 Fed. 891, 76 C. C. A. 423.

68. Hughes v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 11 Misc. (N. Y.) 65, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1012.

Evidence held sufficient to warrant submission to the jury of the question whether, notwithstanding deceased's negligence, defendant could, by the exercise of reasonable care, have prevented his death. Pate v. Tar Heel Steamboat Co., 148 N. C. 571, 62 S. E. 614.

69. Hampton v. Occidental, etc., Steam-Ship Co., 139 Cal. 706, 73 Pac. 579; Dodge v. Boston, etc., Steam-Ship Co., 148 Mass. 207, 19 N. E. 373, 12 Am. St. Rep. 541, 2 L. R. A. 83 (holding that defendant was entitled to an instruction as to the rights of a passenger acting in disobedience of reasonable orders or regulations of the carrier); Simmons v. New Bedford, etc., Steamboat Co., 97 Mass. 361, 93 Am. Dec. 99 (holding that in an action for injuries received by the fall of a small boat suspended over the deck of a steamboat, defendants were entitled to an instruction that evidence of disregard by passengers of other rules of the steamboat in no way showed an acquiescence in the use of such small boat in a manner dangerous to passengers).

The charge of a trial court as to the degree of care required from a steamship company for the safety of a passenger considered and approved in an action for the passenger's injury see International Mercantile Mar. Co. v. Smith, 145 Fed. 891, 76 C. C. A. 423.

Peremptory instruction in favor of defendant refused see Louisville, etc., Mail Co. v. Barnes, 117 Ky. 860, 79 S. W. 261, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 2036, 111 Am. St. Rep. 273, 64 L. R. A. 574.

Instruction held not objectionable as ignoring the defense of contributory negligence and telling the jury that, after going on the deck, plaintiff might shut his eyes as to its apparent physical condition see Evers v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 127 Mo. App. 236, 105 S. W. 306.

The act of Feb. 28, 1871 (16 U. S. St. at L. 440, c. 100), as to the inspection and licensing of steam vessels, was intended to provide for the better security of life, and comes in aid of the common law, and to carry more steam than allowed under that act is negligence as a matter of law. Landers v. Staten Island R. Co., 13 Abb. Pr. N. S. (N. Y.) 338 [reversed on other grounds in 53 N. Y. 450, 14 Abb. Pr. N. S. 346].

negligence in regard to carriage of passengers [70] applies to carriers of passengers by water, and thus contributory negligence of the passenger proximately causing the injury will bar a recovery,[71] unless the concurrent negligence of those in charge of the boat is the proximate cause of the accident,[72] for the contributory negligence of the passengers, if conceded, constitutes no defense to the carrier's liability,

70. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 635 et seq.

71. Illinois.— Keokuk Packet Co. v. Henry, 50 Ill. 264, holding that a passenger who wishes to leave a steamboat is guilty of contributory negligence in jumping ashore, under circumstances rendering it unsafe, and that he is not excused by the fact that those in charge of the boat have not given sufficient time or proper facilities, such as landing planks, to enable those wishing to go ashore to leave the boat otherwise.

Kentucky.— Reed v. Covington, etc., Bridge Co., 28 S. W. 149, 16 Ky. L. Rep. 379.

Massachusetts.—Simmons v. New Bedford, etc., Steamboat Co., 97 Mass. 361, 93 Am. Dec. 99.

New York.— Bartlett v. New York, etc., Transp. Co., 57 N. Y. Super. Ct. 348, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 309 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 659, 29 N. E. 1033]; Fogassi v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 13 Misc. 102, 34 N. Y. Suppl. 116; McKenna v. East River Ferry Co., 8 N. Y. St. 802 [affirmed in 113 N. Y. 636, 21 N. E. 413].

United States.— The Southside, 155 Fed. 364; Elder Dempster Shipping Co. v. Pouppirt, 125 Fed. 732, 60 C. C. A. 500 [reversing 122 Fed. 983] (holding that a passenger who voluntarily leaves a place of safety on a ship without necessity, and goes to a part of the ship where there is danger, of which he has knowledge, or which is obvious, assumes the increased risk therefrom, and he cannot recover from the ship or its owners for an injury so received, because he was not given warning, which, under such circumstances, was unnecessary); In re Kimball Steamship Co., 123 Fed. 838 [reversed on other grounds in 128 Fed. 397, 63 C. C. A. 139, 65 L. R. A. 84] (holding that where the officer in charge of a boat sent ashore by a steamship to bring off passengers stated to those who came into the boat that she was overloaded, and asked that some of them get out and wait until the boat could return, which they refused to do, and the boat capsized, the passengers were guilty of contributory negligence); Graham v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 39 Fed. 596 (where a ferryboat had two gangways by which passengers could leave, and a passenger who attempted to leave by the gangway intended for teams was injured by the guard chain for such gangway dropping on his leg while he was astride of it); The Anglo Norman, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 393, 4 Sawy. 185 (holding that, although a carrier of passengers is bound to use care in providing proper means for approaching his vessel, he is not liable for an injury sustained by a passenger, from the insufficiency of the plank due to its narrowness and absence of rails, if the passenger attempts to board the vessel while she is lying at a wharf to receive cargo only, when it was her known custom to proceed to another wharf to receive passengers).

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 551.

A passenger was held not necessarily guilty of contributory negligence because he was upon the main deck of a steamboat looking for his baggage when, by falling down a hatchway, he sustained the injury for which he sued (Bowman v. California Steam Nav. Co., 63 Cal. 181); nor is it necessarily negligent for a passenger on a ferry-boat to stand near the bow while the boat is landing (Peverly v. Boston, 136 Mass. 366, 49 Am. Rep. 37).

Facts held not to show contributory negligence see Doherty v. California Nav., etc., Co., 6 Cal. App. 131, 91 Pac. 419; Evers v. Wiggins Ferry Co., 116 Mo. App. 130, 92 S. W. 118 (holding that a passenger is not negligent in remaining on the hurricane deck after the captain of the boat has given general orders to the passengers on that deck to go below, when he does not hear such orders, and has no information that they have been given); Watson v. Camden, etc., R. Co., 55 N. J. L. 125, 26 Atl. 136, 39 Am. St. Rep. 624, 19 L. R. A. 487; Palmer v. New Jersey R. Co., 33 N. J. L. 90; Cleveland v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 68 N. Y. 306; Bartlett v. New York, etc., Transp. Co., 57 N. Y. Super. Ct. 348, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 309 [affirmed in 130 N. Y. 659, 29 N. E. 1033]; Hawks v. Winans, 42 N. Y. Super. Ct. 451 [affirmed in 74 N. Y. 609] (holding that where the bridge connecting a ferry-boat with the pier had been fastened by one chain to the boat, and a passenger stepped upon it, while it was ten inches above the deck, and just before it was lowered, she was not guilty of negligence as a matter of law); Snelling v. Brooklyn, etc., Ferry Co., 13 N. Y. Suppl. 398; Cleveland v. New Jersey Steamboat Co., 7 N. Y. St. 598; Miller v. Ocean Steamship Co., 6 N. Y. St. 664 [affirmed in 118 N. Y. 199, 23 N. E. 462]; Gillum v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 76 S. W. 232; White v. Seattle, etc., Nav. Co., 36 Wash. 281, 78 Pac. 909, 104 Am. St. Rep. 948 (holding a passenger who was injured by stepping into a hole in the floor of a dock while waiting for a boat not guilty of contributory negligence because she did not remain in the waiting room until the boat arrived, nor because she deviated some thirty feet from a straight line in going between the waiting room and the entrance to the boat); De Graf v. Seattle, etc., Nav. Co., 10 Wash. 468, 38 Pac. 1006; The Annie L. Vansciver, 161 Fed. 640; The Ocracoke, 159 Fed. 552.

72. See Keokuk Packet Co. v. Henry, 50 Ill. 264.

and will not defeat the action when it is shown that defendant might, by the exercise of proper and reasonable care, have avoided the consequences thereof.[73]

c. Recovery of Passage-Money; Damages. If the contract for the conveyance of passengers be not fulfilled, they may recover back the passage-money on the ground of failure of consideration,[74] and any additional damage resulting from the breach,[75] and as a contract to carry passengers is a contract to carry within a reasonable time, in case of failure to do so, the passage-money may be recovered;[76] and where the non-fulfilment of a contract to transport a passenger is caused by shipwreck or other casualty, the passenger may recover back passage-money paid in advance, or damages, unless he has contracted to take upon himself

73. Weisshaar v. Kimball Steamship Co., 128 Fed. 397, 63 C. C. A. 139, 65 L. R. A. 84 [reversing 123 Fed. 838], holding that where the president of a steamship company was present in a small boat sent ashore by one of the company's ships, and acquiesced in the action of the officer in charge in negligently permitting the boat to be overloaded, in consequence of which it was swamped, and a number of the passengers were drowned, such negligence of the officer was with "the privity or knowledge" of the company, which is not entitled to a limitation of its liability for claims arising out of the disaster, under U. S. Rev. St. (1878) §§ 4283–4285 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) pp. 2943–2944]. See Bartlett v. New York, etc., Transp. Co., 57 N. Y. Super. Ct. 348, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 309, holding that the fact that plaintiffs descended the stairway, without taking hold of the railing, at the time the boat was entering the slip, does not constitute contributory negligence. Compare Hart v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 92 N. Y. Suppl. 338 [affirmed in 108 N. Y. App. Div. 279, 95 N. Y. Suppl. 733].

74. Howard v. Astor Mut. Ins. Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 38; Cope v. Dodd, 13 Pa. St. 33; Sparks v. The Sonora, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,212. But see Watson v. Duykinck, 3 Johns. (N. Y.) 335, holding that where A, in consideration of a sum to be paid in advance, agreed that he would permit B to go in his vessel as a passenger and to take on board certain goods, and B paid the amount in advance, and went on board with his goods, and the vessel was shipwrecked and lost, but the goods were saved and delivered to B, B cannot recover back the money advanced for the freight and passage.

Where carriers agree to transport a passenger to a particular place in a particular vessel, which was lost at the time, although not known to either party, the carriers' only obligation is to return the money paid, with interest, because the condition on which it had been paid had wholly failed; and if plaintiff sets forth such a contract and alleges for a breach that he was not carried in that vessel, and does not aver an obligation on the carriers to provide a substitute, and does not claim damage for their neglect to provide such substitute, he is confined to the particular breach alleged and cannot recover on other grounds. Briggs v. Vanderbilt, 19 Barb. (N. Y.) 222. For the sale of a passage ticket by a certain steamer does not constitute an agreement to carry the person buying such ticket unconditionally and at all hazards, but only gives him a right to passage on that steamer; and if, at the time of such sale and unknown to both parties to the transaction, the steamer had been lost at sea, the holder of the ticket can recover only the amount he has paid for the same. Bonsteel v. Vanderbilt, 21 Barb. (N. Y.) 26.

75. The Canadian, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,376, Brown Adm. 11 (holding that where the master of a schooner, who took passage on a steamer to rejoin his vessel, was carried past the place for which he had bought his ticket and at which the steamer usually stopped, he is entitled to recover, not only for his personal expenses and loss of time, but damages in the nature of demurrage for the detention of his vessel); The Zenobia, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,209, Abb. Adm. 80 (holding that where libellant contracted with the master in a foreign port for a passage to this country in the vessel, and paid a part of his passage-money in advance, but the master failed to fulfil his contract, and libellant was obliged in consequence to take passage in another vessel, the vessel was responsible for the fulfilment of the agreement, and that the libellant was entitled to recover from her the passage-money paid in advance, the expenses incurred by him in awaiting the sailing of another ship, and the sum paid by him to such second ship for his passage in her).

Pleading special damage.— In a libel against a vessel for breach of a passenger contract, alleging detention, loss of time, and subjection to exposure and risk in a place designated as dangerous to human life, special damages need not be laid as in a common-law declaration; but, under the general allegation, proof may be given of the detention, loss of time, and other facts showing the exposure and suffering of libellant and wife. West v. The Uncle Sam, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,427, McAllister 505.

Evidence.— In an action brought by a passenger to recover back his passage-money, the vessel having been prevented by an act of God from proceeding to her destination according to agreement, evidence is inadmissible to show that the captain laid in the usual provisions for the voyage. Cope v. Dodd, 13 Pa. St. 33.

76. Howard v. Astor Mut. Ins. Co., 5 Bosw. (N. Y.) 38.

the risk of the voyage;[77] and passage-money, paid in advance, may be recovered back, on the breaking up of the voyage by a peril of the sea and the failure of the owner of the ship to send the passenger to his destination,[78] and in such cases the passenger is obliged to wait a reasonable time for repairs only where the interruption was not caused by an original defect and unseaworthiness in the vessel;[79] but where the passengers by their own act deprive the captain of an election to repair and continue the voyage, commenced but interrupted by perils of the sea, the owner may retain the passage-money advanced;[80] and where a passenger determined before the date of sailing not to take passage in the ship, he cannot complain that the ship did not sail on the day as agreed, and recover back his passage-money paid.[81] The general rules of damages in actions against carriers of passengers for personal injuries[82] apply to carriers of passengers by water.[83] Punitive damages will not ordinarily be allowed for unauthorized misconduct of an employee of the carrier;[84] but as it is the duty of a vessel to accord to a passenger respectful treatment by its officers and servants, disrespectful treatment by a master of a woman passenger on her making complaint that she had been assaulted and robbed in her stateroom may properly be considered in aggravation of the damages,[85] as may be the indignity and inconvenience imposed upon a passenger for false arrest and imprisonment by an employee of the boat,[86] or threat to arrest upon the charge of seeking to defraud the vessel in regard to payment of fare,[87] or the indignity suffered by a wrongful expulsion.[88] Passengers recover full damages for loss suffered by collision in which both the ships are at fault, one half of which is deductable by the vessel sued from the amount payable to the other vessel in respect of her damages.[89]

E. Passengers' Effects; Limitations of Liability by Contract. The general rules regulating the liability of carriers for baggage and personal effects of passengers[90] apply to carriers of passengers by water, and they are liable for loss of a passenger's baggage, attributable to their fault or the fault of the servants and employees,[91] unless the proximate cause of the loss is the passenger's own

77. Stone v. The Relampago, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,486.

78. Brown v. Harris, 2 Gray (Mass.) 359

79. Stone v. The Relampago, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,486. And see supra, VIII, D, 1.

80. Marks v. Nashville M. & F. Ins. Co., 6 La. Ann. 126; Detouches v. Peck, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 210.

81. Zellweger v. The Robert Cooper, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 18,207.

82. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 632 et seq.

83. The Joseph Stickney, 31 Fed. 156 [following The Max Morris, 28 Fed. 881], where only expenses and disbursements were allowed the injured passengers under the circumstances of the case.

Act Aug. 30, 1852, c. 106, § 30, providing "that whenever damage is sustained by any passenger or his baggage, from explosion, fire, collision, or other cause, the master and the owner . . . and the vessel, shall be liable . . . to the full amount of damage, if it happens through any neglect to comply with the provisions of law," etc., is limited to damage sustained by the "passenger or his baggage." The damage to the passenger, intended by the act, is the injury to the person. Chisholm v. Northern Transp. Co., 61 Barb. (N. Y.) 363.

84. The Normannia, 62 Fed. 469, holding that where the false representations of defendant's agent, inducing libellant to take passage on its steamship which was infected with cholera, were unauthorized, defendant is not liable for punitive damages.

85. The Western States, 151 Fed. 929 [affirmed in 159 Fed. 354, 86 C. C. A. 354].

86. Ragland v. Norfolk, etc., Steamboat Co., 163 Fed. 376 [modified in 169 Fed. 286], where a passenger being greatly humiliated, but no serious harm having been done him further than the indignity and inconvenience imposed for the time being, was allowed damages in the sum of one thousand dollars.

87. Levidow v. Starin, 77 Conn. 600, 60 Atl. 123.

88. La Gascogne, 135 Fed. 577. And see Levy v. Providence, etc., Steamship Co., 123 Fed. 347, holding that a verdict awarding a passenger the nominal sum of one dollar as damages for his expulsion from a boat cannot be sustained where to authorize any recovery the jury must have found that his removal was not justified, or that unnecessary force was used, and that he was also subsequently imprisoned for half an hour.

89. The Queen, 40 Fed. 694.

90. See CARRIERS, 6 Cyc. 661 et seq.

91. North German Lloyd Steamship Co. v. Bullen, 111 Ill. App. 426 (holding that a transatlantic steamship company is liable as a common carrier for the loss of baggage, destroyed by fire, which, pursuant to the advice of its agent, has been sent by the prospective passenger in advance of the time of expected passage, and which has been received by such company at its docks in advance of such time, and is there kept, and, for the steamship company's own convenience, is not immediately placed on the steamship on which the passage was to be taken); Hart v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 92 N. Y. Suppl. 338 [affirmed in 108 N. Y. App. Div. 279, 95 N. Y. Suppl. 733] (holding that where shirt studs were taken from the cabin of a passenger on a steamship, the carrier's liability was that of an insurer, in the absence of negligence on the part of the passenger); Reed v. Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique, 1 N. Y. City Ct. 16 (holding that where a ship, during a heavy gale, while filling with water, was abandoned by its officers, but did not sink, and was found by another vessel and towed to port, the owners are liable for property of a passenger stolen, and that nothing short of an actual sinking of the vessel would have excused them from liability); The Minnetonka, 146 Fed. 509, 77 C. C. A. 217 [affirming 132 Fed. 52] (holding a ship-owner liable to a passenger for the value of jewelry stolen during the voyage by a steward employed to perform the duties which the carrier owed to the passenger under the contract of carriage); Walsh v. The H. M. Wright, 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,115, Newb. Adm. 494 (holding the vessel liable for loss of baggage by theft from a stateroom in the ladies' cabin which was properly fastened, where time and opportunity were given for a thief to enter such room without detection). And see The Elvira Harbeck, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,424, 2 Blatchf. 336 [reversing 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,005].

contributory negligence.[92] A ship-owner is entitled to limit his liability in respect

The words "personal goods," on the margin of a receipt or bill of lading given for personal baggage which was put on board another vessel, it not arriving in time to accommodate the owner, are but a description of the character of the goods, and do not exempt the owner from freight, or the vessel from responsibility. The Elvira Harbeck, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,424, 2 Blatchf. 336 [reversing 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,005], holding also that a receipt having gone directly into the possession of the shipper's agents and remained there until the trial, the shipper could not object that the insertion of the words "personal baggage" in the receipt was improper and not binding on her, and further that the fact that the owners of the vessel and her officers treated the receipt as genuine and authentic, is sufficient evidence that the mate signed it and gave it by authority.

Effects of deceased passenger.—Whether the master and ship-owners be responsible for money in a passenger's baggage or not before his death, yet after it the master, to whom knowledge is brought home by examining the effects of the deceased, should take and deliver them to his representatives. Malpica v. McKown, 1 La. 248, 20 Am. Dec. 279, holding that by the laws of Spain the captain must take an inventory of the effects of a passenger who dies on board and deliver them at the place of destination. When the clerk of a steamer takes possession of the effects of a deceased passenger on his own responsibility, without being authorized or directed by the master, the latter is not liable. Walker v. Goslee, 11 La. Ann. 389.

A ship-owner who refuses to carry a passenger whom he has engaged to carry, and proceeds on the voyage without giving the passenger reasonable opportunity to remove his luggage, or with the intention to carry it beyond his reach, thereby terminates the contract of carriage, and is liable in trespass for the carrying away of the luggage. Holmes v. Doane, 3 Gray (Mass.) 328.

The baggage of passengers is not "merchandise," within U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4282 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2943], exempting the owners of vessels from liability for loss of merchandise in case of fire occurring without their design or neglect. Dunlap v. International Steamboat Co., 98 Mass. 371; The Marine City, 6 Fed. 413. But see Chamberlain v. Western Transp. Co., 44 N. Y. 305, 4 Am. Rep. 681 [reversing 45 Barb. 218].

Facts held to show negligence on the carrier's part see The Western States, 159 Fed. 354, 86 C. C. A. 354 [affirming 151 Fed. 929], holding that where a passenger steamboat on the Great Lakes was equipped with three hundred and forty-three staterooms on two decks in two rows, with a passageway between them, the boat was negligent in failing to provide a sufficient watch; one man only being provided for that purpose, and that the vessel was negligent in failing to provide the door of the stateroom with bolts or inside protection other than a lock which could be operated from outside, and was not excused by the fact that such inside securities might embarrass the passengers in case of fire or sudden danger.

92. See The Minnetonka, 132 Fed. 52 [affirmed in 146 Fed. 509, 77 C. C. A. 217]; The John Brooks, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,335, 1 Hask. 439, holding that where the money of a passenger on a steamboat is stolen from his stateroom by reason of his negligence in failing to secure his stateroom by a lock and bolt, where both are provided, the owners of the vessel are not liable, where it appears that they have done all that could be reasonably demanded of them to prevent the loss, and that a carrier has a right to expect that a passenger will use, in such a case, the appliances provided for securing the stateroom door.

Facts held not to constitute contributory negligence see Hart v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 46 Misc. (N. Y.) 426, 92 N. Y. Suppl. 338 [affirmed in 108 N. Y. App. Div. 279, 95 N. Y. Suppl. 733]; The Minnetonka, 132 Fed. 52 [affirmed in 146 Fed. 509, 77 C. C. A. 217] (where a passenger had not finally retired for the night at the time her stateroom was entered and her jewelry stolen, but she was expecting the purser, so to the loss of passengers' personal effects by stipulation,[93] but such a limitation to be applied must be reasonable and not against public policy,[94] and an arbitrary limitation of value for the baggage of any steamship passenger, unaccompanied that she could place the jewels in his charge, and it was necessary that the door should be left open for ventilation, her failure to shut and bolt the same was not contributory negligence).

Deck passengers, whose baggage is not in trunks, and who keep it in their own possession, cannot hold the ship liable for its loss or damage. Defrier v. The Nicaragua, 81 Fed. 745.

93. Lindsey v. Maine Steamship Co., 88 N. Y. Suppl. 371; The Bermuda, 29 Fed. 399, 23 Blatchf. 554 [affirming 27 Fed. 476], holding valid a stipulation that the carrier would not be responsible for the loss of valuables, unless the value thereof was expressed in the bill of lading, and extra freight paid therefor.

Facts held to show substantial compliance with a condition of a ticket requiring claims to be presented within forty-eight hours after the passengers are landed see The Minnetonka, 132 Fed. 52 [affirmed in 146 Fed. 509, 77 C. C. A. 217].

Even under a provision absolving the carrier if he exercises due diligence to provide a seaworthy boat, he will be liable if he fails to fulfil the condition. Upperton v. Union-Castle Mail Steamship Co., 9 Aspin. 475, 9 Com. Cas. 50, 89 L. T. Rep. N. S. 289, 19 T. L. R. 687 (damage to baggage by overflowing lavatory); U. S. Rev. St. (1878) § 4281 [U. S. Comp. St. (1901) p. 2942], providing that shippers of jewelry, including precious stones, shall, when lading the same as freight or baggage, give to the agent of the ship a written notice of the true character and value thereof, and have the same entered on the bill of lading, otherwise the owner of the vessel shall not be liable as carrier beyond the value according to the notice, does not apply to a case where a passenger took such of her jewels as she was accustomed to wear aboard, and was robbed thereof the first night out, before she succeeded in depositing them with the purser, without any fault on her part. The Minnetonka, 132 Fed. 52 [affirmed in 146 Fed. 509, 77 C. C. A. 217]. And where Indian curios, having no market value in the usually accepted sense, taken on board a transatlantic steamship by a passenger for transportation from New York to Havre, and paid for as extra baggage, were lost on the voyage through the sinking of the vessel, their value in New York, as shown by the opinions of experts, was properly taken as the measure of damages for the loss in a suit against the owners of the vessel. La Bourgogne, 144 Fed. 781, 75 C. C. A. 649 [affirmed in 210 U. S. 95, 28 S. Ct. 664, 52 L. ed. 973]. Nor does the act exonerate a carrier from liability for jeweled dental instruments contained in a valise carried by a passenger, and through the negligence of the carrier lost from a seat where it was deposited by the passenger, as such instruments are ordinarily peraonal baggage, to which the act has no application. Brock v. Gale, 14 Fla. 523, 14 Am. Rep. 356. And the act has no application to an emigrant carrying as baggage articles of jewelry and silverware such as would ordinarily be regarded as proper baggage (Carlson v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 109 N. Y. 359, 16 N. E. 546); nor to loss of pictures shipped as baggage, without the required notice, caused by his own and his employee's negligence (Wheeler v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 125 N. Y. 155, 26 N. E. 248, 21 Am. St. Rep. 729 [reversing 52 Hun 75, 5 N. Y. Suppl. 101].

In England the carrier is permitted to relieve himself of all responsibility for the safety of the luggage, including all risks of loss from negligent or wrongful acts of the master or crew. The Stella, 8 Aspin. 605, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 235; Haigh v. Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., 5 Aspin. 189, 48 J. P. 230, 52 L. J. Q. B. 640, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 802; Taubman v. Pacific Steam Nav. Co., 1 Aspin. 336, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 704; Wilton v. Royal Atlantic Mail Steam-Nav. Co., 10 C. B. N. S. 453, 8 Jur. N. S. 232, 30 L. J. C. P. 369, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 706, 9 Wkly. Rep. 748, 100 E. C. L. 453; Peninsular, etc., Steam Nav. Co. v. Shand, 11 Jur. N. S. 771, 12 L. T. Rep. N. S. 808, 3 Moore P. C. N. S. 272, 6 New Rep. 387, 13 Wkly. Rep. 1049, 16 Eng. Reprint 103. Where, however, the contract is "for or in respect of a passage as a steerage passenger in any ship, or of a passage as a cabin passenger in any emigrant ship, proceeding from the British Islands to any port out of Europe and not within the Mediterranean sea" the ticket is to be "in a form approved by the Board of Trade and published in the London Gazette." Merchant Shipping Act (1894), § 320 [quoted in Carver Carriage by Sea, § 111]. The forms which have been approved are nearly identical with those set out in the schedule to the Passengers Act, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 119. Carver Carriage by Sea, § 111.

In the federal courts and most of the states exemptions of negligence are not sustained. The Kensington, 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190.

In New York a clear exemption from negligence is sustained. Spinetti v. Atlas Steamship Co., 80 N. Y. 71, 36 Am. Rep. 579.

94. Weinberger v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 146 Fed. 516 (holding that a provision printed in a steamship ticket for the carriage of six passengers, limiting the liability of the carrier for loss or damage to baggage of one hundred dollars, not read by or called to the attention of the passengers, is unreasonable and void); The Minnetonka, 132 Fed. 52 [affirmed in 146 Fed. 509, 77 C. C. A. 217]; The Valencia, 110 Fed. 221 (holding that a provision in a

by any right to increase the amount by adequate and reasonable proportional payment, is void as against public policy.[95] Proof that a passenger's baggage was delivered to a vessel in good condition, and was damaged by sea-water at the end of the voyage, is sufficient prima facie to establish the negligence of the carrier,[98] and similarly a prima facie case is established by non-delivery,[97] and, although extraordinary rough weather warrants a finding of damage to cargo or baggage by sea perils, provided proof of ordinary good stowage is first given by the ship, this preliminary burden is on the ship, and cannot rest in mere presumption.[98] As regards liens upon a vessel for breach of contract of affreightment, there is no distinction in principle between a contract for the transportation of a passenger with his baggage and one for the transportation of merchandise, and, by analogy with the rule in the latter case, no lien arises for loss of baggage unless at the time of such loss either the passenger had been received on board, or his baggage had been put into the custody or control of the vessel.[99]

IX. DEMURRAGE.[1]

[EDITED BY JOHN M. WOOLSEY, ESQ. OF THE NEW YORK BAR]

A. Liability — 1. Necessity and Sufficiency of Contract — a. In General. Ordinarily demurrage is expressly stipulated for by contract, and, strictly speaking, is only payable when so stipulated,[2] being in the nature of additional or extended freight payable on the undue detention of the vessel in loading or unloading goods, whether carried under a charter-party or a bill of lading, and intended as a compensation to the vessel for the freight she might have earned during the period of detention,[3] yet, in a broader sense of the term, demurrage covers dam-contract between a ship and its passengers that the landing shall not be deemed a part of the voyage is contrary to public policy and void, and does not relieve the carrier from liability for loss of baggage or delay in delivery).

95. The Kensington, 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190 [reversing 94 Fed. 885, 36 C. C. A. 533], holding that a stipulation in a steamship passenger's ticket, which compels him to value his baggage at a certain sum, far less than it is worth, or, in order to have a higher value put upon it, to subject it to the provisions of the Harter Act, by which the carrier would be exempted from all liability therefor from errors in navigation or management of the vessel or other negligence, is unreasonable and in conflict with public policy.

96. Weinberger v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, 146 Fed. 516.

97. Cosnier v. Golding, 6 Rob. (La.) 297; Holmes v. North German Lloyd Steamship Co., 184 N. Y. 280, 77 N. E. 21, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 650 [affirming 100 N. Y. App. Div. 36, 90 N. Y. Suppl. 834].

98. The Kensington, 88 Fed. 331 [affirmed in 94 Fed. 885, 36 C. C. A. 533 (reversed on other grounds in 183 U. S. 263, 22 S. Ct. 102, 46 L. ed. 190)].

Evidence held insufficient to prove that damage to baggage resulted from inevitable accident see The Majestic, 166 U. S. 375, 17 S. Ct. 597, 41 L. ed. 1039, where the defense that damage to baggage by water entering through a broken port was the result of an inevitable accident was held not sustained by evidence that, a short time before the injury was discovered, the ship, during a rough sea, passed through some floating wreckage, for there was no evidence directly tending to prove that the port was broken by the wreckage, nor any attempt to show why the ship did not steer away from it or reduce its speed while passing through it, nor any satisfactory proof that the ports were properly closed when the vessel sailed or properly inspected afterward.

99. The Priscilla, 114 Fed. 836, 52 C. C. A.

1. Demurrage defined see DEMURRAGE, 13 Cyc. 783.

2. Blake v. Morgan, 3 Mart. (La.) 375; Morse v. Pesant, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 321 [affirming 7 Bosw. 199]; Morgan v. Garfield, etc., Coal Co., 113 Fed. 520 (holding that, in ordinary cases, demurrage is not damages for breach of contract, but is the agreed additional payment for an allowed detention beyond the period specified in the contract); Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Iron Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623; Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565; Nielson v. Wait, 16 Q. B. D. 67, 5 Aspin. 553, 55 L. J. Q. B. 87, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 529, 34 Wkly. Rep. 33; Harris v. Jacobs, 15 Q. B. D. 247, 5 Aspin. 530, 54 L. J. Q. B. 492, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 61; Lockhart v. Falk, L. R. 10 Exch. 132, 3 Aspin. 8, 44 L. J. Exch. 105, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 23 Wkly. Rep. 753.

3. Hall v. Barker, 64 Me. 339; The J. E. Owen, 54 Fed. 185; Two Hundred and Seventy-Five Tons of Mineral Phosphates, 9 Fed. 209; Harris v. Jacobs, 15 Q. B. D. 247, 5 Aspin. 530, 54 L. J. Q. B. 492, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 61; Lockhart v. Falk, L. R. 10 Exch. 132, 3 Aspin. 8, 44 L. J. Exch. 105, ages for any unreasonable detention of the vessel, and, in the absence of express contract, damages in the nature of demurrage are recoverable for a breach of the implied obligation to load or unload the cargo with reasonable despatch.[4] When an express contract is relied on as defining a charterer's liability for demurrage or as exempting him from it, it is essential to its validity that it be executed by mutual assent.[5] If the contract with regard to demurrage was made through agents it must be shown that they were duly authorized, or that it has been ratified expressly or by implication by the party whom it is sought to hold bound.[6]

b. As to Charterer. Although the shipper or charterer is primarily liable for demurrage, regardless of the existence or non-existence of an express contract,[7]

33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 23 Wkly. Rep. 753; Jesson v. Solly, 4 Taunt. 52, 13 Rev. Rep. 557. And see DEMURRAGE, 13 Cyc. 783.

"Detention and demurrage mean the same thing." Bannister v. Breslauer, L. R. 2 C. P. 497, 501, 36 L. J. C. P. 195, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 418, 15 Wkly. Rep. 840; Benson v. Hippins, 4 Bing. 455, 459, 13 E. C. L. 586, 3 C. & P. 186, 14 E. C. L. 518, 6 L. J. C. P. O. S. 64, 1 M. & P. 246.

4. Connecticut.— Wordin v. Bemis, 32 Conn. 268, 85 Am. Dec. 255, holding, however, that the rule is confined to detention in unloading.

Maine.—Hayden v. Whitmore, 74 Me. 230; Hall v. Barker, 64 Me. 339.

New York.— Van Etten v. Newton, 134 N. Y. 143, 31 N. E. 334, 30 Am. St. Rep. 630 [affirming 15 Daly 538, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 531, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 663, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 478]; Morse v. Pesant, 3 Abb. Dec. 321 [affirming 7 Bosw. 199]; Clendaniel v. Tuckerman, 17 Barb. 184; Jameson v. Sweeney, 29 Misc. 584, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 498; Shaver v. Gillespie, 19 N. Y. Suppl. 237; Fisher v. Abeel, 44 How. Pr. 432.

United States.— Price v. Morse Ironworks, etc., Co., 120 Fed. 445; Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Iron Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623; Randall v. Sprague, 74 Fed. 247, 21 C. C. A. 334 [reversing 67 Fed. 604]; Melloy v. Lehigh, etc., Coal Co., 37 Fed. 377; The M. S. Bacon v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 3 Fed. 344, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,898*a*, 5 Cinc. L. Bul. 637; Fulton v. Blake, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,153, 5 Biss. 371; One Hundred and Seventy-Five Tons of Coal, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,522, 9 Ben. 400; Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565; Sprague v. West, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,255, Abb. Adm. 548.

England.— Hick v. Raymond, [1893] A. C. 29, 7 Aspin. 233, 62 L. J. Q. B. 98, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 175, 41 Wkly. Rep. 384; Ford v. Coatesworth, L. R. 4 Q. B. 137, 9 B. & S. 559, 38 L. J. Q. B. 52, 19 L. T. Rep. N. S. 634, 17 Wkly. Rep. 282 [affirmed in L. R. 5 Q. B. 544, 10 B. & S. 991, 39 L. J. Q. B. 188, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 165, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1169]; Wright v. New Zealand Shipping Co., 4 Ex. D. 165, 4 Aspin. 118, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 413; Thompson v. Ingles, 3 Camph. 428; Cawthron v. Trickett, 15 C. B. N. S. 754, 33 L. J. C. P. 182, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 609, 12 Wkly. Rep. 311, 109 E. C. L. 754; Tillett v. Cwm Avon Works, 2 T. L. R. 675.

Canada.— Canadian Locomotive Co. v. Copeland, 16 Ont. App. 322 [reversing 14 Ont. 170].

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 565. And see infra, IX, A, 2, a; IX, A, 2, b, (II), (A).

Rule in case of subcharter.—Where the original charterers charter the vessel to other parties, the latter are not strictly assignees of the original charter, but are freighters or shippers, and while they are not bound by the stipulation in the original charter as to the rate of demurrage, they are liable in damages for detention of the vessel due to their fault. Keyser v. Jurvelius, 122 Fed. 218, 58 C. C. A. 664.

5. Burns v. Burns, 131 Fed. 238 [affirming 125 Fed. 432], holding that a change made in the demurrage rate of the contract by the shipper without the authority or knowledge of the charterer is not binding on the latter as consignee of the cargo.

Likewise a statement placed on the back of a bill of lading by a shipper to the effect that all detention was for the vessel's account was held not binding on the ship-owners, although the master had signed the bill of lading because it was not proved that his attention had been called to the provision on its back. Rackett v. Stickney, 27 Fed. 878, 23 Blatchf. 566. And see Melloy v. Lehigh, etc., Coal Co., 37 Fed. 377.

The erasure, before execution, from a printed form of a charter-party, of the clauses relating to demurrage, or failure to fill blanks in the printed form, leaves the rights of the parties with respect to demurrage for damages for detention to be determined by the general rule as to reasonable despatch. Donnell v. Amoskeag Mfg. Co., 118 Fed. 10, 55 C. C. A. 178.

6. Fisher v. Abeel, 66 Barb. (N. Y.) 381, 44 How. Pr. 432; The Hamilton J. Mills, 22 Fed. 790; The Maggie Moore, 8 Fed. 620, 5 Hughes 287; Cargo of Salt, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,406, 4 Blatchf. 224. And see Forsyth v. Sutherland, 31 Nova Scotia 391.

Ratification of contract executed without authority.—An owner who has knowledge of what had been done by the master, and has proceeded in recognition of it, will not be allowed to object to the authority of the master to execute the bill of lading under which the cargo was carried. Brown v. Certain Tons of Coal, 34 Fed. 913.

7. Hall v. Barker, 64 Me. 339; Robbins v. Codman, 4 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 315; Jamehis liability cannot be based upon a mere expression of opinion in a letter written by him,[8] nor upon a charter-party which was canceled before the delay arose.[9]

c. As to Consignee or Assignee of Bill of Lading — (I) In General. Acceptance by the consignee of a cargo delivered under a bill of lading containing stipulations as to demurrage imposes on him a liability for any demurrage accruing under those stipulations,[10] and the same liability is imposed upon an assignee or indorsee of the bill.[11] However, the rule imposing liability in the absence of express contract is largely confined in its application to the freighter or shipper,[12] and does not apply to the consignee or his assignee before acceptance of the cargo,[13] and not afterward, except where the delay is clearly due to his fault;[14] but there son v. Sweeney, 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 584, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 498.

Where the master is the agent of the charterer in performing a duty devolving upon the latter, any delay arising from his act is imputable to the charterer, so as to impose liability upon him. Hammett v. Chase, 158 Fed. 203.

An exception exists where, under the agreement, the duty of loading or unloading rests upon the ship or a third person (West Hartlepool Steam Nav. Co. v. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., 164 Fed. 836, 90 C. C. A. 288 [affirming 151 Fed. 886]; The Schmidt v. Bright, 27 Fed. 671), or where the delay arises from the act of the master following the directions of the consignee (Robertson v. Bethune, 3 Johns. (N. Y.) 342; Seagar v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 55 Fed. 324 [affirmed in 55 Fed. 880, 5 C. C. A. 290].

8. Eleven Hundred Tons of Coal, 12 Fed. 185.

9. Morgan v. Garfield, etc., Coal Co., 113 Fed. 520.

10. Maryland.— Jones v. Freeman, 29 Md. 273.

New York.— Morse v. Pesant, 3 Abb. Dec. 321 [affirming 7 Bosw. 199]; Gabler v. McChesney, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 583, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 191.

Rhode Island.— Falkenburg v. Clark, 11 R. I. 278.

United States.— Sutton v. Housatonic R. Co., 45 Fed. 507; Gates v. Ryan, 37 Fed. 154; Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565.

England.— Fowler v. Knoop, 47 L. J. Q. B. 473 [affirmed in 4 Q. B. D. 299, 48 L. J. Q. B. 333, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 27 Wkly. Rep. 299]; Scitson v. Pegg, 6 H. & N. 295, 30 L. J. Exch. 225, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 753, 9 Wkly. Rep. 280; Jesson v. Solly, 4 Taunt. 52, 13 Rev. Rep. 557.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," §§ 567, 571.

11. Gronn v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 143; Allen v. Coltart, 11 Q. B. D. 782, 5 Aspin. 104, 52 L. J. Q. B. 686, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 994, 31 Wkly. Rep. 841 (holding that a person in possession of a bill of lading as security becomes liable for demurrage on his presenting the bill and demanding delivery); Palmer v. Zarifi, 3 Aspin. 540, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 790; Stindt v. Roberts, 5 D. & L. 460, 12 Jur. 518, 17 L. J. Q. B. 166, 2 Saund. & C. 212; Dobbin v. Thornton, 6 Esp. 16.

12. Tweedie Trading Co. v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 146 Fed. 612.

13. Gage v. Morse, 12 Allen (Mass.) 410, 90 Am. Dec. 155; Conkling v. Brooklyn Lumber Co., 10 N. Y. App. Div. 404, 41 N. Y. Suppl. 801; Falkenburg v. Clark, 11 R. I. 278; Barker v. Torrence, 30 U. C. Q. B. 43 [affirmed in 31 U. C. Q. B. 561].

An acceptance of part of cargo imposes per se no liability for demurrage on the consignee or the indorsee of the bill of lading. Steamship County of Lancaster v. Sharpe, 24 Q. B. D. 158, 6 Aspin. 448, 59 L. J. Q. B. 22, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 692; Young v. Moeller, 5 E. & B. 755, 2 Jur. N. S. 393, 25 L. J. Q. B. 94, 4 Wkly. Rep. 149, 85 E. C. L. 755, 30 Eng. L. & Eq. 345 [reversing 5 E. & B. 7, 85 E. C. L. 7]. In Smith v. Sieveking, 5 E. & B. 589, 1 Jur. N. S. 1135, 24 L. J. Q. B. 257, 4 Wkly. Rep. 25, 85 E. C. L. 589, a consignee receiving goods under a bill of lading making them deliverable on his "paying for them as per charter-party" was held not liable to pay demurrage for a detention at port of loading occurring before the bill of lading was signed.

14. Gage v. Morse, 12 Allen (Mass.) 410, 90 Am. Dec. 155; Dayton v. Parke, 142 N. Y. 391, 37 N. E. 642 [reversing 67 Hun 137, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 613]; Van Etten v. Newton, 134 N. Y. 143, 31 N. E. 334, 30 Am. St. Rep. 630 [affirming 15 Daly 538, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 531, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 663, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 478]; Cross v. Beard, 26 N. Y. 85; Riley v. A Cargo of Iron Pipes, 40 Fed. 605; The Pietro G., 39 Fed. 366; The Z. L. Adams, 26 Fed. 655; Fish v. One Hundred and Fifty Tons of Brown Stone, 20 Fed. 201; Coombs v. Nolan, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,189, 7 Ben. 301; The Glover, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,488, Brown Adm. 166; Sprague v. West, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,255, Abb. Adm. 548. And see Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565.

In England it was formerly held that an implied promise by the consignee or assignee to be bound by the terms of a bill of lading might be inferred from acceptance of goods under it (Evans v. Forster, 1 B. & Ad. 118, 8 L. J. K. B. O. S. 348, 20 E. C. L. 420; Wegener v. Smith, 15 C. B. 285, 3 C. L. R. 47, 24 L. J. C. P. 25, 80 E. C. L. 285; Smith v. Sieveking, 5 E. & B. 589, 1 Jur. N. S. 1135, 24 L. J. Q. B. 257, 4 Wkly. Rep. 25, 85 E. C. L. 589; Leer v. Yates, 3 Taunt. 386, 12 Rev. Rep. 671; The Woodbine, 1 L. T.

is no doubt of the applicability of the rule to the consignee or person accepting the goods, when he is the owner thereof.[15] In some instances the consignee has been made liable by estoppel;[16] and where by acceptance of the cargo or otherwise his liability has attached, he cannot relieve himself therefrom by subcontracts to others who do not act directly under the bill of lading,[17] or by claiming that the cargo was ordered for an undisclosed principal,[18] or that other cargo was shipped by the same vessel to other consignees.[19]

(II) Incorporation of Terms of Charter-Party in Bill of Lading. Provisions in the charter-party relating to demurrage are binding on the consignee or on the assignee or indorsee of the bill of lading only when referred to and adopted in the bill of lading.[20] Such adoption is effected when the bill of lading specifically refers to provisions in a charter-party in such manner that such provisions are made a part thereof;[21] but mere notice that a charter exists is not sufficient to

O. S. 200), but it is now provided by statute (Bills of Lading Act of 1855, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 111, § 1) that every consignee or assignee of the bill of lading shall be subject to the same liability in respect to the cargo as if the contract in the bill of lading had been made with him (Donaldson v. McDowell, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,985, Holmes 290 [affirming 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,987, 2 Lowell 93]; Steamship County of Lancaster v. Sharp, 24 Q. B. D. 158, 6 Aspin. 448, 59 L. J. Q. B. 22, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 692; Allen v. Coltart, 11 Q. B. D. 782, 5 Aspin. 104, 52 L. J. Q. B. 686, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 944, 31 Wkly. Rep. 841; Fowler v. Knoop, 47 L. J. Q. B. 473 [affirmed in 4 Q. B. D. 299, 48 L. J. Q. B. 333, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 27 Wkly. Rep. 299]).

A person who buys cargo on board ship after her arrival, taking no transfer of the bill of lading or charter-party, and having no knowledge of either, is bound only to the use of reasonable diligence in discharging. Houge v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 136.

A railroad company which receives a bill of lading for the purpose of transportation and as agent for another is not the consignee and is not liable for demurrage, in the absence of any stipulation to that effect in the bill of lading. Miner v. Norwich, etc., R. Co., 32 Conn. 91.

15. Scholl v. Albany, etc., Iron, etc., Co., 101 N. Y. 602, 5 N. E. 782; The Mary Riley v. Three Thousand Railroad Ties, 38 Fed. 254; Crawford v. Mellor, 1 Fed. 638; Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565; Donaldson v. McDowell, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,985, Holmes 290 [affirming 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,987, 2 Lowell 93] (in which case the consignee was also the shipper); Barker v. Torrance, 30 U. C. Q. B. 43 [affirmed in 31 U. C. Q. B. 561]. And see Robbins v. Codman, 4 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 315.

16. Taylor v. Fall River Ironworks, 124 Fed. 826; Irzo v. Perkins, 10 Fed. 779.

17. Neilsen v. Jesup, 30 Fed. 138.

Necessity of notice of transfer.— To relieve the owner of a cargo after he has transferred it, from responsibility for demurrage, he must show that notice of such transfer was given to the master of the ship. The Elida, 31 Fed. 420.

18. Falkenburg v. Clark, 11 R. I. 278.

19. Morse v. Pesant, 3 Abb. Dec. (N. Y.) 321 [affirming 7 Bosw. 199]; Porteous v. Watney, 3 Q. B. D. 534, 4 Aspin. 342, 47 L. J. Q. B. 643, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 195, 27 Wkly. Rep. 30; Dobson v. Droop, 4 C. & P. 112, M. & M. 441, 19 E. C. L. 432; Leer v. Yates, 3 Taunt. 387, 12 Rev. Rep. 671. See also Hill v. Idle, 4 Campb. 327, 16 Rev. Rep. 797; Fowler v. Knoop, 47 L. J. Q. B. 473 [affirmed in 4 Q. B. D. 299, 4 Aspin. 68, 48 L. J. Q. B. 333, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 27 Wkly. Rep. 290].

20. Dayton v. Parke, 142 N. Y. 391, 37 N. E. 642 [reversing 67 Hun 137, 22 N. Y. Suppl. 613]; Crossman v. Burrill, 179 U. S. 100, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106; Graham v. Planters' Compress Co., 129 Fed. 253; Taylor v. Fall River Ironworks, 124 Fed. 826; The Pietro G., 39 Fed. 366; Gronn v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 143; One Hundred and Twelve Sticks of Timber, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,524, 8 Ben. 214; Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565; Maclay v. U. S., 43 Ct. Cl. 90; Porteous v. Watney, 3 Q. B. D. 534, 4 Aspin. 34, 47 L. J. Q. B. 643, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 195, 27 Wkly. Rep. 30; Gray v. Carr, L. R. 6 Q. B. 538, 40 L. J. Q. B. 257, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 215, 19 Wkly. Rep. 1173; Wegener v. Smith, 15 C. B. 285, 3 C. L. R. 47, 24 L. J. C. P. 25, 80 E. C. L. 285; Chappel v. Comfort, 10 C. B. N. S. 802, 8 Jur. N. S. 177, 31 L. J. C. P. 58, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 448, 9 Wkly. Rep. 694, 100 E. C. L. 802; Young v. Moller, 5 E. & B. 755, 2 Jur. N. S. 393, 25 L. J. Q. B. 94, 85 E. C. L. 755, 30 Eng. L. & Eq. 345; Smith v. Sieveking, 5 E. & B. 589, 1 Jur. N. S. 1135, 4 Wkly. Rep. 25, 85 E. C. L. 589 [affirming 4 E. & B. 945, 82 E. C. L. 945]; Oliver v. Muggeridge, 7 Wkly. Rep. 164. The consignee of a cargo, under bills of lading which obligate him only to receive the cargo as delivered by the vessel, does not incorporate the provisions of the charter-party respecting the time for discharging or demurrage. West Hartlepool Steam Nav. Co. v. 450 Tons of Kainit, 151 Fed. 886.

21. Payne v. Ralli, 74 Fed. 563, where it was held that the ship had a lien for reconditioning the cargo under a general lien clause of the charter to which the bills of lading referred.

incorporate the terms thereof into a bill of lading subsequently executed,[22] and if it is wished to include the terms of the charter-party words ought to be introduced into the bill of lading which plainly show that intention.[23] The phrases, "paying freight as per charter-party,"[24] "paying for the said goods as per charter-party,"[25] "he or they paying freight for the said goods as per charter-party, with primage and average accustomed,"[26] have been held to impose none of the stipulations of the charter-party except such as pertain to the payment of freight, and not to render one who receives goods under the bill of lading liable for demurrage provided for in the charter.[27] Similarly, and upon the same grounds, the phrase, "paying freight for the said goods and all other conditions as per charter-party," is held not to incorporate an exception in the charter-party as to "acts of enemies" and "restraints of princes;"[28] and in like manner the words "all other conditions as per charter-party" are held not to incorporate into the bill of lading an exception contained in the charter of "strandings occasioned by the negligence of the master," it being held that the words "all other conditions" were to be connected with the words "paying freight," and include only such conditions as are ejusdem generis.[29] On the other hand, the acceptance of a cargo by the indorsee of a bill of lading, whereby the goods are deliverable to order "against payment of the agreed freight and other conditions as per charter-party," has been held 22. Turner v. Haji Goolam Mahomed Azam, [1904] A. C. 826.

23. Fry v. Mercantile Bank, L. R. 1 C. P. 689, 35 L. J. C. P. 306, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 709, 14 Wkly. Rep. 920.

24. Burrill v. Crossman, 65 Fed. 104 [reversed on other grounds in 69 Fed. 747, 16 C. C. A. 381 (reversed on other grounds in 179 U. S. 1007, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106) (holding that under this bill of lading the vendee was entitled to take the goods within a reasonable time according to the circumstances of arrival and under the ordinary rules of law as to liability for damages for detention such as apply in the absence of any specific agreement, a very different liability from a specific agreement that assumes all risks of detention from whatever cause and agrees upon a specific rate of damage); Chappel v. Comfort, 10 C. B. N. S. 802, 8 Jur. N. S. 177, 31 L. J. C. P. 58, 4 L. T. Rep. N. S. 448, 9 Wkly. Rep. 694, 100 E. C. L. 802.

25. Smith v. Sieveking, 4 E. & B. 945, 82 E. C. L. 945 [affirmed in 5 E. & B. 589, 1 Jur. N. S. 1135, 4 Wkly. Rep. 25, 85 E. C. L. 589], where defendant was holder of a bill of lading for the entire cargo of the wheat expressed to be shipped by M deliverable at L unto defendant or assigns "he or they paying for the said goods as per charty-party, with primage and average accustomed," and the charter-party mentioned the rates of freight and contained a stipulation that "for the payment of all freight and demurrage the captain shall have an absolute lien and charge of the said cargo," and it was held that the terms of the bill of lading and charter-party did not import that the person receiving the goods was to pay demurrage accrued at the outport, although the captain has a lien for it.

26. Dayton v. Parke, 142 N. Y. 391, 37 N. E. 642.

27. Burrill v. Crossman, 65 Fed. 104 [reversed on other grounds in 69 Fed. 747, 16 C. C. A. 381 (reversed on other grounds in 179 U. S. 100, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106), and distinguishing McLean v. Fleming, L. R. 2 H. L. Sc. 128, on which the charterers relied, upon the ground that the sole ground on which the indorsees of the bill of lading were held to be bound by the provisions of the charter-party in that case was that they were the persons who had originally authorized the charter of the ship]. See also Fry v. Mercantile Bank, L. R. 1 C. P. 689, 35 L. J. C. P. 306, 14 L. T, Rep. N. S. 709, 14 Wkly. Rep. 920, where a charter-party contained the following clause: "Ship to have a lien on cargo for freight 3£ 10s. a ton of 50 cubic feet measure in Shanghai, to be paid to the captain or his agents on right delivery in port of discharge, the freight to be paid on unloading and right delivery of the cargo," and the charterers shipped part of the cargo themselves under a bill of lading containing the following clause: "Freight for the said goods payable in Liverpool as per charter-party," and the charterers having indorsed the bill of lading to A for a valuable consideration, it was held that as against A the ship-owner had a lien only for the freight due for the goods included in the bill of lading at the rate of 3£ 10s. a ton and not a lien for the whole chartered freight. The court said that it would require very strong words to render defendants liable for the freight payable to the charter-party for the whole cargo.

28. Russell v. Niemann, 17 C. B. N. S. 163, 34 L. J. C. P. 10, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 786, 13 Wkly. Rep. 93, 112 E. C. L. 163.

29. Serraino v. Campbell, 25 Q. B. D. 501, 59 L. J. Q. B. 452, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 107, 39 Wkly. Rep. 112 [affirmed in [1891] 1 Q. B. 283, 7 Aspin. 48, 60 L. J. Q. B. 303, 64 L. T. Rep. N. S. 615, 39 Wkly. Rep. 356, and following Russell v. Niemann, 17 C. B. N. S. 163, 34 L. J. C. P. 10, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 786, 13 Wkly. Rep. 93, 112 E. C. L. 163].

to be a circumstance from which the jury may imply a contract on his part to pay demurrage stipulated for by the charter-party notwithstanding his refusal at the time of receiving the goods to pay the demurrage;[30] and a bill of lading providing for the payment of freight and "all other conditions as per charter-party" is construed ejusdem generis as imposing upon the consignee the payment of something more than freight, and including the obligation referred to in the charter-party in respect to the rate of delivery and the payment of the demurrage specified, although not necessarily including an independent provision of the charter-party relating to different subjects.[31]

d. Particular Contracts Considered. A contract to pay for the use of a vessel every day she is employed does not cover demurrage,[32] but provisions exempting the charterer from liability for delay not due to his fault extend only to causes beyond his control and do not relieve him from liability for detention caused by failure to perform his covenants;[33] and, conversely, provisions relating to demurrage and the time allowed for loading and unloading will not be extended by construction beyond the clear purport of their language.[34] A clause known as "the cesser clause" is sometimes inserted in the charter-party. It usually provides that the charterer's responsibility shall cease where the vessel is loaded and bills of lading are signed, and although this clause will ordinarily be given effect and exempt the charterer from responsibility for delay occurring subsequent to loading,[35]

30. Wegener v. Smith, 15 C. B. 285, 3 C. L. R. 47, 24 L. J. C. P. 25, 80 E. C. L. 285.

31. Burrill v. Crossman, 65 Fed. 104 [reversed on other grounds in 67 Fed. 747, 16 C. C. A. 381 (reversed on other grounds in 179 U. S. 100, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106)]; Serraino v. Campbell, 25 Q. B. D. 501, 59 L. J. Q. B. 452, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 107, 39 Wkly. Rep. 112 [affirmed in [1891] 1 Q. B. 283, 7 Aspin. 48, 60 L. J. Q. B. 303, 64 L. T. Rep. N. S. 615, 39 Wkly. Rep. 356]; Portens v. Watney, 3 Q. B. D. 534, 4 Aspin. 34, 47 L. J. Q. B. 643, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 195, 27 Wkly. Rep. 30 (holding the true result of the authorities to be that a bill of lading in which the words "and all other conditions as per charter-party," following the expression "on paying freight," or "paying freight for the said goods," or similar expressions, import a liability on the part of the consignee of goods under the bill of lading to pay the demurrage stipulated for by the terms of the charter-party to which it refers); Wegener v. Smith, 15 C. B. 285, 3 C. L. R. 47, 24 L. J. C. P. 25, 80 E. C. L. 285; Russell v. Niemann, 17 C. B. N. S. 163, 34 L. J. C. P. 10, 10 L. T. Rep. N. S. 786, 13 Wkly. Rep. 93, 112 E. C. L. 163. And see Young v. Moeller, 5 E. & B. 755, 2 Jur. N. S. 393, 25 L. J. Q. B. 94, 4 Wkly. Rep. 149, 85 E. C. L. 755, 30 Eng. L. & Eq. 345, which, however, is based more upon the ground that the demurrage charge was caused by the consignee's refusal to perform another part of the contract in the hill of lading as to payment of delivery.

32. Mitchell v. U. S., 96 U. S. 162, 24 L. ed. 702.

The detention of a vessel in order to take on cargo cannot be made the basis of a valid claim for demurrage, where the charter-party provides for its being taken free, and no more than a reasonable time is consumed in loading. Pearson v. Grice, 8 Fla. 214.

33. Sixteen Hundred Tons of Nitrate of Soda v. McLeod, 61 Fed. 849, 10 C. C. A. 115; Thacher v. Boston Gaslight Co., 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,850, 2 Lowell 361. And see Melloy v. Lehigh, etc., Coal Co., 37 Fed. 377, holding that an exemption from liability for delay or failure to load does not cover any delay or failure due to the party's wilful neglect or fault.

34. Durchmann v. Dunn, 106 Fed. 950, 46 C. C. A. 62; The James Baird, 90 Fed. 669.

A special provision of a charter-party that the freight on the dressed lumber shipped should be subject to a deduction of one fifth cannot extend to the construction of maritime rules relating to demurrage, so as to entitle the consignee to a deduction in measurement for dressed lumber in computing the demurrage due, except on clear evidence that it was so intended. Bowen v. Sizer, 93 Fed. 227.

Where the contract is terminated by circumstances which render performance impossible, and a new implied contract arises, the stipulations of the charter respecting demurrage and the rate of discharge will not necessarily be deemed preserved by mere implication. The Spartan, 25 Fed. 44.

Conflicting stipulations.—A provision for demurrage for delay caused by a failure to discharge the vessel in her turn controls a provision fixing the time allowed for lay days. Evans v. Blair, 114 Fed. 616, 52 C. C. A. 396.

35. The Maggie Moore, 8 Fed. 620, 5 Hughes 287; French v. Gerber, 2 C. P. D. 247, 3 Aspin. 574, 46 L. J. C. P. 320, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 350, 25 Wkly. Rep. 355; Oglesby v. Yglesias, E. B. & E. 930, 27 L. J. Q. B. 356, 6 Wkly. Rep. 690, 96 E. C. L. 930.

The fact that the charterer and the consigee are the same person does not affect the application of the rule, so far as an action but not before,[36] it is always subject to and controlled by the other provisions of the charter-party and bill of lading, and will not be construed to exonerate him from a liability created by other clauses, and it is operative only in so far as the bill of lading substitutes a lien on the goods shipped for the charterer's personal liability.[37] A bill of lading supersedes and takes precedence over a prior parol agreement as to the rate of discharge, on the principle that preliminary negotiations are merged in a written contract.[38]

2. What Delay Creates — a. In Loading. In general, demurrage is recoverable for delay in loading the vessel,[39] and this is true even in the absence of a specific agreement, as in such case the vessel owner may legally assume that the chartered ship will be loaded in accordance with the prevailing custom of the port, and with such reasonable promptitude as the situation and circumstances allow.[40] The right to recover exists where the delay is caused by the failure of the charterer to have the entire cargo ready for delivery at the port of loading;[41] on the charter-party is concerned. Sanguinetti v. Pacific Steam Nav. Co., 2 Q. B. D. 238, 3 Aspin. 300, 46 L. J. Q. B. 105, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 658, 25 Wkly. Rep. 150.

36. Schmidt v. Keyser, 88 Fed. 799, 32 C. C. A. 121; Lister v. Van Haansbergen, 1 Q. B. D. 269, 3 Aspin. 145, 45 L. J. Q. B. 495, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 446, 24 Wkly. Rep. 395; Christofferson v. Hansen, L. R. 7 Q. B. 509, 1 Aspin 305, 41 L. J. Q. B. 217, 26 L. T. Rep. N. S. 547, 20 Wkly. Rep. 626; Lockhart v. Falk, L. R. 10 Exch. 132, 3 Aspin. 8, 44 L. J. Exch. 105, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 23 Wkly. Rep. 753.

37. Crossman v. Burrill, 179 U. S. 100, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106 [reversing 91 Fed. 543, 33 C. C. A. 663]; Dunlop v. Balfour, [1892] 1 Q. B. 507, 7 Aspin. 181, 61 L. J. Q. B. 354, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 455, 40 Wkly. Rep. 371; Clink v. Radford, [1891] 1 Q. B. 625, 7 Aspin. 10, 60 L. J. Q. B. 388, 64 L. T. Rep. N. S. 491, 39 Wkly. Rep. 355; Gullichsen v. Stewart, 13 Q. B. D. 317, 5 Aspin. 200, 53 L. J. Q. B. 173, 50 L. T. Rep. N. S. 47, 32 Wkly. Rep. 763; Barwick v. Burnyeat, 3 Aspin. 376, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 250, 25 Wkly. Rep. 395; Gardiner v. Macfarlane, 16 Sc. Sess. Cas. 658. Compare Kish v. Cory, L. R. 10 Q. B. 553, 2 Aspin. 593, 44 L. J. Q. B. 205, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 670, 23 Wkly. Rep. 880; Bannister v. Breslauer, L. R. 2 C. P. 497, 36 L. J. C. P. 195, 16 L. T. Rep. N. S. 418, 15 Wkly. Rep. 840.

38. Brown v. Certain Tons of Coal, 34 Fed. 913.

39. Aalholm v. A Cargo of Iron Ore, 23 Fed. 620; Two Hundred and Thirteen Tons of Coal, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,298, 7 Ben. 15; Ardan Steamship Co. v. Weir, [1905] A. C. 501, 10 Aspin. 135, 11 Com. Cas. 26, 74 L. J. P. C. 143, 93 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 21 T. L. R. 723; Potter v. Burrell, [1897] 1 Q. B. 97, 8 Aspin. 200, 66 L. J. Q. B. 63, 75 L. T. Rep. N. S. 491, 45 Wkly. Rep. 145 (holding that the charterer takes the risk of finding labor to load the ship); Seeger v. Duthie, 8 C. B. N. S. 72, 7 Jur. N. S. 239, 30 L. J. C. P. 66, 3 L. T. Rep. N. S. 478, 9 Wkly. Rep 166, 98 E. C. L. 72; Lord v. Davidson, 13 Can. Sup. Ct. 166.

The refusal of the master to permit loading at night or on Sunday does not vary the charterer's liability for delay. Creighton v. Dilks, 49 Fed. 107.

Detention of vessel from other causes immaterial.— The fact that ice would have prevented the ship from sailing earlier than she did does not excuse an unreasonable delay in loading. Randall v. Sprague, 74 Fed. 247, 21 C. C. A. 334 [reversing 67 Fed. 604].

Assent to delay.—A freighter is liable for delay produced in part by an inability to enter the vessel at the port where the cargo was to be loaded, if the agent of the freighter assents to the delay, and directs the captain to go to another port to make such entry. Rupp v. Lobach, 4 E. D. Smith (N. Y.) 69.

The obligation of the charterer does not end on a delivery of the cargo alongside, under a charter-party providing for such delivery but also naming a certain number of days for loading the vessel. Baldwin v. Sullivan Timber Co., 142 N. Y. 279, 36 N. E. 1060 [affirming 65 Hun 625, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 496]; Hagerman v. Norton, 105 Fed. 996, 46 C. C. A. 1.

40. Williscroft v. Cargo of the Cyrenian, 123 Fed. 169; Nichols v. Tremlett, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,247, 1 Sprague 361.

Where the contract is repudiated, but the ship is loaded in less time than was allowed by the charter-party, there can be no recovery for delay. Greenwell v. Ross, 34 Fed. 656.

Under a general contract for the season, in which it is stipulated that a certain specified number of tons of cargo shall be furnished during the season and that approximately a specified number of tons shall be furnished each montb, no demurrage is recoverable for delay in waiting for a cargo at any particular time. Corrigan v. Iroquois Furnace Co., 100 Fed. 870, 41 C. C. A. 102. Compare Kelly v. Fall Brook Coal Co., 67 Barb. (N. Y.) 183, holding damages recoverable for delay in waiting for a load where the charterer did not notify the owner that he did not intend to abide by the contract.

The loading of another vessel first does not necessarily render the charterer liable for demurrage, where the contract contains no definite statement as to the time of loading. Kimball v. Tudor Co., 2 Fed. 51.

41. Pregenzer v. Burleigh, 6 Misc. (N. Y.)

by a variation in the character of cargo from that specified in the charter-party;[42] by the failure of the charterer to provide the vessel a safe berth at which she can be loaded within a reasonable time;[43] or by the failure of the charterer to promptly supply the requisite number of lighters to convey the cargo to the ship, where delivery by this means is contemplated.[44] On the other hand, the right does not exist where the delay complained of happens before the time for loading commences, under the terms of the contract;[45] where the nature of the cargo is such as to render a more rapid delivery impracticable;[46] where the delay is caused by the vessel being compelled without her fault to wait her turn in loading,[47] or by 140, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 35; Stoomvart Maatschaffy Nederlandsche Lloyd v. Lind, 170 Fed. 918, 96 C. C. A. 134; Atlantic, etc., Steamship Co. v. Guggenheim, 147 Fed. 103, 77 C. C. A. 329 [affirming 123 Fed. 330]; Schooner Mahukona Co. v. 180,000 Feet of Lumber, 142 Fed. 578; Ardan Steamship Co. v. Weir, [1905] A. C. 501, 10 Aspin. 135, 11 Com. Cas. 26, 74 L. J. P. C. 143, 93 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 21 T. L. R. 723; Elliott v. Lord, 5 Aspin. 63, 52 L. J. P. C. 23, 48 L. T. Rep. N. S. 542; Lord v. Davidson, 13 Can. Sup. Ct. 166. But see Little v. Stevenson, [1896] A. C. 108, 8 Aspin. 162, 65 L. J. P. C. 69, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 529; Jones v. Green, [1904] 2 K. B. 275, 9 Aspin. 600, 9 Com. Cas. 20, 73 L. J. K. B. 601, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768.

This rule is modified when there is a usage at the port that the cargo is not stored there but is loaded from cars (Randall v. Sprague, 74 Fed. 247, 21 C. C. A. 334 [reversing 67 Fed. 604]) or boats (Hudson v. Ede, L. R. 3 Q. B. 412, 8 B. & S. 640, 37 L. J. Q. B. 166, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 764, 16 Wkly. Rep. 940).

A delay in transportation to the port of loading does not exonerate the charterer from demurrage where it causes delay in loading (Peck v. U. S., 152 Fed. 524; Ashcroft v. Crow Orchard Colliery Co., L. R. 9 Q. B. 540, 2 Aspin. 397, 43 L. J. Q. B. 194, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 266, 22 Wkly. Rep. 825; Kearon v. Pearson, 7 H. & N. 387, 31 L. J. Exch. 1, 10 Wkly. Rep. 12; Cushing v. McLeod, 2 N. Brunsw. Eq. 63), except where delay from such cause is excepted in the charter-party (In re Richardson, 1 Q. B. 261, 66 L. J. Q. B. 868, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 479; Furness v. Forwood, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 95).

The fact that the shipper resides at a distance from the shipping port does not relieve him from the obligation to have the cargo ready at the port of shipment. Wade v. Russell, 18 N. C. 542.

42. Hagan v. Cargo of Lumber, 163 Fed. 657; McCaldin v. Cargo of Scrap Iron, 111 Fed. 411; Swan v. Five Hundred and Fifty Tons Reserve Coal, 35 Fed. 307, holding that under a general charter for a cargo of coal, the charterers were not entitled to subject the ship to the delays incident to loading a special kind of selected coal.

Wrong cargo.—A delay caused by the loading by mistake and the unloading of material which was not intended to be shipped renders the charterer liable to demurrage. Creighton v. Dilks, 49 Fed. 107.

43. Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Auchinclos, 161 Fed. 843, 88 C. C. A. 661; Belmont v. Tyson, 3 Fed. Cos. No. 1,281, 3 Blatchf. 530; Stephens v. Macleod, 19 Sc. Sess. Cas. 38.

A delay in towing the vessel out to sea, after the weather is such as to permit it, renders the charterer liable for demurrage, under a charter-party providing for such towage. Actieselskabet Barfod v. Hilton, etc., Lumber Co., 125 Fed. 137.

44. McCaldin v. Cargo of Scrap Iron, 111 Fed. 411. Compare Hagan v. Cargo of Lumber, 163 Fed. 657, holding that under a charter for the carriage of lumber to be loaded at two ports, requiring the charterer to pay the towage between the two, the time of such towage cannot be charged in the lay days for loading, nor the time lost in obtaining a tug not due to any default of the charterer.

A breakdown in one of the lighters does not exempt the charterer from liability. James v. Brophy, 71 Fed. 310, 18 C. C. A. 49.

An owner of lighters cannot recover demurrage from the agent of steamships for delay in receiving the cargo, where the cargo was received and stowed as rapidly as possible, considering its character. Merritt, etc., Derrick, etc., Co. v. Vogeman, 143 Fed. 142.

45. Shamrock Steamship Co. v. Storey, 8 Aspin. 590, 5 Com. Cas. 21, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 413, 16 T. L. R. 6.

46. Uren v. Hagar, 95 Fed. 493; Eleven Hundred Tons of Coal, 12 Fed. 185.

47. Fisher v. Abeel, 66 Barb. (N. Y.) 381, 44 How. Pr. 432; Williscroft v. Cargo of the Cyrenian, 123 Fed. 169.

Construction of term.—The phrase "in turn" must be strictly construed. It shuts out a practice of the charterer to give preference to its own vessels (Donnell v. Amoskeag Mfg. Co., 118 Fed. 10, 55 C. C. A. 178), and the vessel takes its turn with other vessels carrying the same kind of cargo, and not with a class of vessels over which it has preference (Eleven Hundred Tons of Coal, 12 Fed. 185; King v. Hinde, L. R. 12 Ir. 113), but the vessel is not entitled to take her place in turn until her entire cargo is ready (Melloy v. Lehigh, etc., Coal Co., 37 Fed. 377). The expression "regular turn" means the order of readiness and not the order in which the vessels are entered in the books of a loading company (Lawson v. Burness, 1 H. & C. 396, 2 F. & F. 793, 10 Wkly. Rep. 733), and, when used in a charter-party providing for the reception of coal from a colliery, means regular colliery turn, and not port turn (Quilpue v. Brown, [1904] 2 K. B.

the failure of the parties to the contract of affreightment to agree on the selection of a stevedore.[48]

b. In Unloading — (i) Breach of Express Obligation — (a) Despatch. The charterer is liable in damages for a breach of an express provision of the contract relating to despatch in unloading the vessel, and where the words "despatch," "prompt despatch" or "quick despatch" are employed, they mean without delay. They obligate the charterer to receive the cargo as fast as the vessel can deliver it,[49] and they are not in any way controlled by the rules, usages, or customs of the port,[50] such as a custom that the vessel shall take her turn at the wharf.[51] Although the same meaning and effect attaches to the term "customary quick despatch,"[52] the expressions "customary despatch" or "customary time" contemplate usual, rather than quick, despatch, and a contract containing such a provision is fulfilled if the vessel is afforded the customary facilities for speedy discharge.[53] These expressions include the lawful, reasonable, and well-known 264, 9 Aspin. 596, 9 Com. Cas. 264, 73 L. J. K. B. 596, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 765).

The rule is otherwise where the charter contains express provisions to the contrary (Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Auchinclos, 161 Fed. 843, 88 C. C. A. 661), or stipulations for the delivery of the cargo with all possible despatch (Moody v. Five Hundred Thousand Laths, 2 Fed. 607. And see Read v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 3 Lans. (N. Y.) 213; Ashcroft v. Crow Orchard Colliery Co., L. R. 9 Q. B. 540, 2 Aspin. 397, 43 L. J. Q. B. 194, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 266, 22 Wkly. Rep. 825), or the vessel is compelled to wait for another vessel sent out by the charterer after the making of the engagement with the first ship (Atlantic, etc., Guano Co. v. The Robert Center, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 630), or where the ship loses its turn through the default of the charterer (Jones v. Adamson, 1 Ex. D. 60, 3 Aspin. 253, 45 L. J. Exch. 64, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 287).

An interruption in loading by reason of preference being given to another vessel in accordance with certain regulations to which the parties are subject under the terms of the charter-party is not ground for demurrage. Swan v. Five Hundred and Fifty Tons Reserve Coal, 35 Fed. 307.

A delay of the vessel after awaiting its turn imposes liability for damages. Kelly v. Fall Brook Coal Co., 67 Barb. (N. Y.) 183; Nichols v. Tremlett, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,247, 1 Sprague 361.

48. Portland Shipping Co. v. The Alex Gibson, 44 Fed. 371.

49. Mitchell v. Langdon, 9 Fed. 472, 10 Biss. 527; Bjorkquist v. Certain Steel Rail Crop Ends, 3 Fed. 717, 5 Hughes 194 (holding that the charterers are liable for demurrage where the vessel is, from the crowded condition of the port, delayed in procuring a berth); Sleeper v. Puig, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,941, 17 Blatchf. 36 [affirming 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,940, 10 Ben. 181].

Equivalent words.—A provision for delivery "as soon as possible" is equivalent to a provision for quick despatch in unloading and requires the consignee to make use of all the means of discharge that are readily available. Egan v. Barclay Fibre Co., 61 Fed. 527.

Failure to furnish weighers.—Delay arising from the fact that the charterers have a number of other vessels in port, whose cargoes they are unloading, and to which they choose to furnish all the available weighers, constitutes a failure to discharge "with all despatch." Smith v. Roberts, 67 Fed. 361, 14 C. C. A. 417.

Delay in giving security for the payment of freight has been held to create a liability for demurrage under an agreement for "quick despatch." Isham v. A Cargo of Pine Piles, 46 Fed. 403.

50. Mott v. Frost, 47 Fed. 82; Sleeper v. Puig, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,941, 17 Blatchf. 36 [affirming 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,940, 10 Ben. 181]. Compare Cargo of the Joseph W. Brooks, 122 Fed. 881 (holding that the expression "despatch in discharging" is indefinite and uncertain, and should be construed with reference to the custom of the port); Mitchell v. Langdon, 9 Fed. 472, 10 Biss. 527.

51. Ten Thousand and Eighty-Two Oak Ties, 87 Fed. 935; Davis v. Wallace, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,657, 3 Cliff. 123; Keen v. Audenried, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,639, 5 Ben. 525; Thacher v. Boston Gaslight Co., 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,850, 2 Lowell 361.

52. Freeman v. Wellman, 67 Fed. 796; Harrison v. Smith, 67 Fed. 354, 14 C. C. A. 656 [affirming 50 Fed. 565], holding that the stipulation contemplates haste. Compare Terjesen v. Carter, 9 Daly (N. Y.) 193, holding that the term means as quick despatch as is customary at the port of delivery.

53. Seagar v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 55 Fed. 324 [affirmed in 55 Fed. 880, 5 C. C. A. 290]; The Spartan, 25 Fed. 44 (holding further that where the port is an extemporized one and there is no custom obtaining at that place, the obligation of the consignee is to discharge the vessel with reasonable diligence); Lindsay v. Cusimano, 12 Fed. 503, 504 [affirming in part 10 Fed. 302]; Castlegate Steamship Co. v. Dempsey, [1892] 1 Q. B. 854, 7 Aspin. 186, 61 L. J. Q. B. 620, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 742, 40 Wkly. Rep. 533; Rodgers v. Forresters, 2 Camp. 483, 11 Rev. Rep. 773; Cushing v. McLeod, 2 N. Brunsw. Eq. 63. And see Eleven Hundred Tons of Coal, 12 Fed. 185.

customs of the port of discharge,[54] but they do not do away with the obligation of the charterer to provide a berth where the vessel may be promptly discharged.[55]

(B) Other Matters. The plain and express provisions of the contract as to the time and manner of unloading are binding so as to render the charterer or consignee accepting the cargo liable in damages for delay caused by non-compliance,[56] and although they will not be construed as contemplating impossible things,[57]

The expression is not equivalent to an absolute stipulation to discharge in a limited time. Huthen v. Stewart, [1903] A. C. 389, 8 Com. Cas. 297, 72 L. J. K. B. 917, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 702, 19 T. L. R. 513.

54. Gates v. Ryan, 37 Fed. 154; Lindsay v. Cusimano, 12 Fed. 503 [affirming in part 10 Fed. 302]; Smith v. Sixty Thousand Feet of Yellow Pine Lumber, 2 Fed. 396; Lyle Shipping Co. v. Cardiff, [1900] 2 Q. B. 638, 9 Aspin. 128, 5 Com. Cas. 397, 69 L. J. Q. B. 889, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 329, 49 Wkly. Rep. 85; Good v. Isaacs, [1892] 2 Q. B. 555, 7 Aspin. 212, 61 L. J. Q. B. 649, 67 L. T. Rep. N. S. 450, 40 Wkly. Rep. 629.

Custom as to sale.— The term does not include a custom which has its origin in the sale, and not in the discharge, of cargoes. Milburn v. Thirty-Five Thousand Boxes of Oranges, etc., 57 Fed. 236, 6 C. C. A. 317.

55. Leary v. Talbot, 160 Fed. 914, 88 C. C. A. 96 [affirming 151 Fed. 355]; The Giulio, 34 Fed. 909; Lindsay v. Cusimano, 12 Fed. 503, 504 [affirming in part 10 Fed. 302]; Smith v. Sixty Thousand Feet of Yellow Pine Lumber, 2 Fed. 396.

56. Wiles v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 4 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 264; Pioneer Fuel Co. v. McBrier, 84 Fed. 495, 28 C. C. A. 466 (holding that, although when the shipment is to a particular party having no special conveniences for unloading, that fact enters into the contract and determines the question of reasonableness in the discharge of the cargo, the express provisions of the contract are not affected by matters between the shippers and the consignee); New York, etc., R. Co. v. Church, 58 Fed. 600, 7 C. C. A. 384 (holding that a breach of a stipulation in a bill of lading giving the vessel precedence in discharging, under pain of double demurrage during time lost by failure to do so, entitles the vessel if time is so lost to such demurrage, although she is not detained, altogether, beyond the lay days allowed in the preceding part of the bill); Hine v. Perkins, 55 Fed. 996, 5 C. C. A. 377 [reversing 48 Fed. 758, 1 C. C. A. 85]; Sutton v. Housatonic R. Co., 45 Fed. 507; The Dictator, 30 Fed. 637; The Arne, [1904] P. 154, 9 Aspin. 565, 73 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 34, 90 L. T. Rep. N. S. 517, 20 T. L. R. 221; Randall v. Lynch, 2 Campb. 352, 11 East 179, 11 Rev. Rep. 727; Cawthorn v. Trickett, 15 C. B. N. S. 754, 33 L. J. C. P. 182, 9 L. T. Rep. N. S. 609, 12 Wkly. Rep. 311.

Designating place of discharge.—A provision in a bill of lading that twenty-four hours after notice of arrival in port there shall be allowed a fixed rate of unloading per day, and that the consignee shall pay demurrage for any excess of time required, casts on the consignee liability for loss of time resulting from delay in pointing out the place of discharge (Smith v. Lee, 66 Fed. 344, 13 C. C. A. 506), especially when coupled with a provision that, after arrival, notice, and expiration of the stipulated time, the vessel shall have precedence over all other vessels arriving, or giving notice, after her arrival (Smith v. New York Granite Paving Block Co., 56 Fed. 525 [affirmed in 56 Fed. 527, 5 C. C. A. 672]), but the charterer is not bound to designate a place of discharge under a charter simply obligating him to receive the cargo as fast as the vessel can deliver "after ship is in a proper discharging berth" (Carsanego v. Wheeler, 16 Fed. 248). Where the contract expressly obligates the consignee to designate a wharf, he is liable for any delay arising from the crowded (Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Auchinclos, 161 Fed. 843, 847, 88 C. C. A. 661; Williams v. Theobald, 15 Fed. 465, 8 Sawy. 445; Futterer v. Abenheim, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,164, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 225; The Carisbrook, 15 P. D. 98, 6 Aspin. 507, 59 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 37, 62 L. T. Rep. N. S. 843, 38 Wkly. Rep. 543. Contra, Tharsis Sulphur Co. v. Morel, [1891] 2 Q. B. 647, 7 Aspin. 106, 61 L. J. Q. B. 11, 65 L. T. Rep. N. S. 659, 40 Wkly. Rep. 58), or dangerous condition of the wharf which he selects (Carroll v. Holway, 158 Fed. 328; Sutton v. Housatonic R. Co., 45 Fed. 507. And see The Swallow, 27 Fed. 316), or from its being difficult to reach by the use of reasonable means (The Henry Sutton, 26 Fed. 923 [affirmed in 31 Fed. 297, 24 Blatchf. 448]; Clayton v. Four Hundred and Ten Tons of Coal, 20 Fed. 799); but he is not required to make more than one tender of a berth (McLaughlin v. Albany, etc., Iron, etc., Co., 8 Fed. 447, 61 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 439), and the master of the vessel is responsible for delay in taking the berth assigned, where the delay does not arise from the unsuitableness of the berth or its approaches (Carroll v. Holway, 158 Fed. 328 [following Smith v. Lee, supra]; Hine v. Perkins, 55 Fed. 996, 5 C. C. A. 377 [affirming 50 Fed. 434]).

Obligation of vessel.— Under a bill of lading providing that iron rails should be discharged "at the same place as the other cargo, only one place," it is the duty of the ship to go to a berth where the rails can be discharged on the wharf, and the consignees cannot be charged with delay unless the ship is so berthed. Teilman v. Plock, 17 Fed. 268 [affirmed in 21 Fed. 349].

57. Tweedie Trading Co. v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 156 Fed. 88 (holding that in a provision of a bill of lading which entitled the ship to discharge "continuously," the word must be construed to mean continuously dur-their effect cannot be changed by usage and custom,[58] unless such custom is expressly made a part of the contract.[59] Clauses which are in effect merely permissive are not binding, when not in fact observed;[60] and, on the other hand, a construction of the contract which has been acted on by the parties and which is in itself reasonable will be sustained by the courts.[61]

(II) Breach of Implied Obligation — (A) Discharge Within Reasonable Time. One who charters a vessel, under a contract that is silent as to the time of unloading and discharge, contracts by implication that he will unload and discharge her within a reasonable time, and is liable in damages for a breach of this implied obligation.[62] What constitutes a reasonable time varies with the facilities of the port for discharging and the circumstances of the case,[63] and although it has been frequently stated that the obligation is to discharge in a reasonable time according to the custom of the port,[64] this has been qualified in other cases which ing working days); U. S. Shipping Co. v. U. S., 146 Fed. 914 (also holding that the word "continuous" must be given a reasonable interpretation).

A clause in the nature of a penalty will not be given effect unless the case comes clearly within the purpose intended. Continental Coal Co. v. Bowne, 115 Fed. 945, 53 C. C. A. 427.

58. The Glenfinlas, 48 Fed. 758, 1 C. C. A. 85; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Northam, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,090, 2 Ben. 1.

59. Smith v. Sizer, 134 Fed. 928; Bertellote v. Part of Cargo of Brimstone, 3 Fed. 661, 5 Hughes 201; Harrowing v. Dupre, 7 Com. Cas. 157, 18 T. L. R. 594.

Charter provisions incorporating the custom of the port as to the process of discharging have been held not to apply to the time the discharge of the vessel is to be begun (Futterer v. Abenheim, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,164, 10 Phila. (Pa.) 225), or to the question whether the vessel is justly required to wait her turn at the wharf where she is ordered to discharge by the consignees (Davis v. Wallace, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,657, 3 Cliff. 123).

60. Tweedie Trading Co. v. Strong, etc., Co., 157 Fed. 304; McLaughlin v. Albany, etc., Iron, etc., Co., 8 Fed. 447, 61 How. Pr. (N. Y.) 439; Tuttle v. Albany, etc., Iron, etc., Co., 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,276, 10 Ben. 449.

Where there is an alternative provision in the contract, which is fulfilled by the vessel owner, the charterer is liable for any delay ensuing thereafter. Dahl v. Nelson, 6 App. Cas. 38, 4 Aspin. 392, 50 L. J. Ch. 411, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 381, 20 Wkly. Rep. 543.

61. Smith v. New York Granite Paving Block Co., 56 Fed. 525 [affirmed in 56 Fed. 527, 5 C. C. A. 672].

62. U. S. Shipping Co. v. U. S., 146 Fed. 914; Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Coal, etc., Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623 [affirming 70 Fed. 268]; Fish v. One Hundred and Fifty Tons of Brown Stone, 20 Fed. 201; Fulton v. Blake, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,153, 5 Biss. 371; Henley v. Brooklyn Ice Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,364, 14 Blatchf. 522 [affirming 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,363, 8 Ben. 471]; Postlethwaite v. Freeland, 5 App. Cas. 599, 7 Aspin. 302, 49 L. J. Exch. 630, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 845, 28 Wkly. Rep. 833; Hick v. Rodocanachi, [1891] 2 Q. B. 626, 7 Aspin. 97, 56 J. P. 54, 61 L. J. Q. B. 42, 40 Wkly. Rep. 161; Fowler v. Knoop, 4 Q. B. D. 229, 4 Aspin. 68, 48 L. J. Q. B. 333, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 180, 27 Wkly Rep. 299; Ford v. Cotesworth, L. R. 5 Q. B. 544, 10 B. & S. 991, 39 L. J. Q. B. 188, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 165, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1169; Barker v. Torrance, 30 U. C. Q. B. 43 [affirmed in 31 U. C. Q. B. 561] (wherein liability was imposed on persons who were substantially the charterers); Kemp v. McDougall, 23 U. C. Q. B. 380.

Notice to discharge within reasonable time. — It has been held to be competent for the master of the boat, whenever he is dissatisfied with the rate of discharge, after being sent to a berth, to give notice, claiming demurrage unless discharge is completed within a reasonable time thereafter. Young v. One Hundred and Forty Thousand Hard Brick, 78 Fed. 149.

63. U. S. Shipping Co. v. U. S., 146 Fed. 914; The James Baird, 90 Fed. 669 (holding that where the wharves at a port are not all equally convenient for the discharge of every sort of cargo, a reasonable rate of discharge is not necessarily the same at all wharves); Brown v. Certain Tons of Coal, 34 Fed. 913 (holding that six days, including Sunday, is a reasonable time for unloading three barges carrying coal); Esseltyne v. Elmore, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,531, 7 Biss. 69 (holding that five days is a reasonable time in which to unload a vessel laden with five hundred and sixty-seven tons of coal).

64. Whitehouse v. Halstead, 90 Ill. 95; Bellatty v. Curtis, 41 Fed. 479; Gronn v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 143; Houge v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 136; Higgins v. U. S. Mail Steamship Co., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,469, 3 Blatchf. 282; Two Hundred and Thirteen Tons of Coal, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,298, 7 Ben. 15; Burmester v. Hodgson, 2 Campb. 488, 11 Rev. Rep. 776.

The custom of the trade has, in some cases, been held to fix the obligation of the consignee or his vendee. The Z. L. Adams, 26 Fed. 655.

Requisites of valid custom.—A custom of a port as to the rate of discharging a certain kind of cargo from a vessel, to govern the hold it to mean that under ordinary circumstances the customary time becomes the reasonable time;[65] but that this test will not be employed when the circumstances are extraordinary, as the court will, in all instances, consider all the facts and circumstances, ordinary and extraordinary, which have a legitimate bearing on the question of the reasonableness of the time occupied.[66]

(B) Providing Berth. In the absence of a specific agreement or usage to the contrary, it is the duty of the charterer or consignee, as the case may be, to designate and provide a suitable wharf or berth for the vessel within a reasonable time after her arrival, and he is liable for delay resulting from failure to do so;[67] but when he has fulfilled this obligation it is the duty of the master of the vessel to proceed to the place designated.[68] After designating an available discharging berth the charterer or consignee is not liable for delay caused by the crowded condition of the dock or by the vessel being compelled to wait its turn, especially when such waiting is required by the custom of the port.[69]

rights of parties under a contract otherwise indeterminate, must not only be established and reasonable, but also certain and definite. The James Baird, 90 Fed. 669; Young v. One Hundred and Forty Thousand Hard Brick, 78 Fed. 149; The Innocenta, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,050, 10 Ben. 410.

65. McArthur Bros. Co. v. 622,714 Feet of Lumber, 131 Fed. 389; Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Coal, etc., Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623 [affirming 70 Fed. 268]; Hick v. Rodocanachi, [1891] 2 Q. B. 626, 7 Aspin. 97, 56 J. P. 54, 61 L. J. Q. B. 626, 40 Wkly. Rep. 161.

66. Ionia Transp. Co. v. 2,098 Tons of Coal, 128 Fed. 514 [affirmed in 135 Fed. 317, 67 C. C. A. 671]; Williscroft v. Cargo of The Cyrenian, 123 Fed. 169; The Viola, 90 Fed. 750; Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Coal, etc., Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623 [affirming 70 Fed. 268]; Green v. Cargo of The Lewiston, 77 Fed. 321.

Rule when delay attributable to strike see infra, IX, A, 3, a, (II), (B).

67. Hodgdon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 Conn. 277, 33 Am. Rep. 21; Roney v. Chase, 161 Fed. 309, 88 C. C. A. 389 [reversing 160 Fed. 268] (holding that damages in the nature of demurrage are recoverable for delay resulting from the vessel being ordered by the cargo owner to discharge at a berth, which she could not then reach, because of dredging work being done by the government); Bowen v. Decker, 18 Fed. 751; Fulton v. Blake, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,153, 5 Biss. 371; Stewart v. Rogerson, L. R. 6 C. P. 424. Contra, Jameson v. Sweeney, 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 645, 66 N. Y. Suppl. 494.

Safe place of delivery must be designated. — Mecke v. The Antonio Zambrana, 70 Fed. 320.

An exception is said to exist in the case of a general ship carrying a mixed cargo. Teilman v. Plock, 17 Fed. 268; Gronstadt v. Witthoff, 15 Fed. 265; Irzo v. Perkins, 10 Fed. 779.

What constitutes reasonable time.—A designation of a berth for a vessel is given within a reasonable time when delivered within two or three hours after notice of arrival. The St. Bernard, 105 Fed. 994.

A stoppage in discharging to permit the passage of canal-boats past the vessel renders the charterer liable for the delay as it results from his selection of an improper place of discharge. Olivari v. Merchant, 18 Fed. 554.

68. Hodgdon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 Conn. 277, 33 Am. Rep. 21.

Change of berth.— In the absence of an established usage to the contrary, after the vessel has taken the designated berth, the owner of the cargo has no right to send her to another berth except at his own expense and is liable for any delay arising therefrom. Gronn v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 143; Houge v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 136.

69. Wordin v. Bemis, 32 Conn. 268, 85 Am. Dec. 255; Fisher v. Abeel, 66 Barb. (N. Y.) 381, 44 How. Pr. 432; The Convoy's Wheat, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 225, 18 L. ed. 194 [affirming 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,541]; Bartlett v. A Cargo of Lumber, 41 Fed. 890; Bellatty v. Curtis, 41 Fed. 479; The Mary Riley v. Three Thousand Railroad Ties, 38 Fed. 254; The Z. L. Adams, 26 Fed. 655; Crawford v. Jessup, etc., Paper Co., 24 Fed. 303; Fish v. One Hundred and Fifty Tons of Brown Stone, 20 Fed. 201; Finney v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 14 Fed. 171, 11 Biss. 370; The M. S. Bacon v. Erie, etc., Transp. Co., 3 Fed. 344, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,898*a* (holding that the effect of the rule is not changed by the vessel owner giving notice to the consignee that the cargo must be discharged within a specified period); Henley v. Brooklyn Ice Co., 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,364, 14 Blatchf. 522 [affirming 11 Fed. Cas. No. 6,363, 8 Ben. 471]; One Hundred and Seventy-Five Tons of Coal, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,522, 9 Ben. 400; Wright v. New Zealand Shipping Co., 4 Ex. D. 165, 4 Aspin. 118, 40 L. T. Rep. N. S. 413. And see Higgins v. U. S. Mail Steamship Co., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,469, 3 Blatchf. 282. Contra, Esseltyne v. Elmore, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,531, 7 Biss. 69.

The rule has its limits and will not extend to a case where the accumulation of vessels is wholly due to the fault of the consignee. However, it will be applied to a case where the wharf provided is large enough for the ordinary business of the owner, and it does not appear that he has wilfully or negligently permitted a large number of vessels

(c) Facilities For Discharge. Where there is no specific agreement on the subject, and no known custom of the port to the contrary, it is the duty of the shipper or other contracting party, for which he is liable for delay resulting from non-fulfilment, to be not only ready to receive the cargo on notice of the arrival of the vessel, but to receive it as delivered from the vessel,[70] and to furnish sufficient dockage room and means for transportation away from the dock so that the cargo will not accumulate in such a way as to impede the delivery.[71] In addition to the above-mentioned implied obligation relating to the furnishing of facilities for discharge, the customs and usages of the port, when not inconsistent with the provisions of the charter-party or bill of lading, are binding on the parties, and render the charterer or other contracting party liable for delay resulting from failure to conform to them,[72] and excuse him when the delay is attributable to a proper observance of them.[73]

c. Delay Between Loading and Unloading. It has been held that demurrage is recoverable for a detention of the vessel after loading and before unloading which is not due to the fault of the master,[74] such as a failure of the charterer to to collect for discharging at the same time. The Viola, 90 Fed. 750; Fulton v. Blake, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,153, 5 Biss. 371. It has been held that a usage by which vessels, after reporting themselves to the consignee, allow two or three days for a sale of the cargo, and, if directed to another wharf, go there at their own expense, will not deprive a vessel of the right to demurrage, where her cargo was sold before arrival, and she gave immediate notice of readiness to discharge. Forshay v. Du Fais, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,947.

Waiting for elevator.— Under a bill of lading containing no stipulation as to lay days or demurrage, but consigning the grain to an elevator having certain railroad connection, there is no liability for a necessary delay in procuring another elevator, where, on account of extraordinary conditions, it is impossible to unload at the elevator named in the bill of lading. The J. E. Owen, 54 Fed. 185.

70. Wordin v. Bemis, 32 Conn. 268, 85 Am. Dec. 255; Jameson v. Sweeney, 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 584, 61 N. Y. Suppl. 498; Bowen v. Decker, 18 Fed. 751; Olivari v. Merchant, 18 Fed. 554 (holding that where the charterer chooses to have the cargo landed directly into lighters, he is bound to provide lighters capable of receiving it); Dow v. Hare, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 4,037*a*; Sprague v. West, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,255, Abb. Adm. 548.

The shipper is liable for demurrage on account of delay in discharging caused by the refusal of the consignee to receive the cargo (Sheridan v. Penn Collieries Co., 128 Fed. 204), especially where, upon such refusal, he orders the vessel owner to unload cargo at another place (Ide v. Sadler, 18 Barb. (N. Y.) 32).

71. Williscroft v. Cargo of The Cyrenian, 123 Fed. 169; Sprague v. West, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,255, Abb. Adm. 548; Krunse v. Dryman, 18 Ct. of Sess. Cas. 1110 [distinguishing 13 Ct. of Sess. Cas. 92]. And see The Favorite, 27 Fed. 474, holding the charterer liable for delay in unloading the cargo into vessels, when it could have been unloaded more expeditiously into railroad cars which were at hand.

72. Seager v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 55 Fed. 880, 5 C. C. A. 290 [affirming 55 Fed. 324]; Addicks v. Three Hundred and Fifty-Four Tons Crude Kainit, 23 Fed. 727. See also Evans v. Blair, 114 Fed. 616, 52 C. C. A. 396.

Custom incorporated in contract see supra, IX, A, 2, b, (I), (B).

73. The Elida, 31 Fed. 420.

74. Guinan v. Weaver Coal, etc., Co., 128 Fed. 203; Shaw v. Folsom, 38 Fed. 356 [affirmed on other grounds in 40 Fed. 511] (detention caused by overloading); New Haven Steam-Boat Co. v. New York, 36 Fed. 716 (collision); Reed v. Weld, 6 Fed. 304 (voyage suspended while consignee found purchaser for cargo). Contra, Jamieson v. Laurie, 6 Bro. P. C. 474, 3 Rev. Rep. 725, 2 Eng. Reprint 1209.

Construction of charter provision.—A stipulation in the charter-party concerning detention during the voyage does not embrace detention at the port of shipment (Valente v. Gibbs, 6 C. B. N. S. 270, 5 Jur. N. S. 1213, 28 L. J. C. P. 229, 7 Wkly. Rep. 500, 95 E. C. L. 270), nor does a provision for the payment of towage by the charterer obligate him to furnish a towboat (Keen v. Audenried, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,639, 5 Ben. 535). However, under a charter-party providing for demurrage at the place of shipment and discharge, no demurrage is recoverable for delay at intervening ports. Stevenson v. York, 2 Chit. 570, 18 E. C. L. 791; Marshal v. De la Torre, 1 Esp. 367.

Where the delay is within the contemplation of both parties to the contract, at the time of the making thereof, the charterer is not liable for demurrage. Green v. Cargo of the Lewiston, 77 Fed. 321.

Loss of vessel after accrual of demurrage.— Demurrage for extra detention at an intermediate port becomes absolutely due at such port, and is recoverable, although the vessel is lost on the return voyage. The Caroline A. White, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,421, 5 Phila. (Pa.) 112.

Demurrage for enforced idleness of ship after collision see COLLISION, 7 Cyc. 394.

procure clearance papers,[75] but is not, where the delay is caused by the wrongful acts of the owner or master.[78]

d. Subsequent to Unloading. Upon completion of the unloading, the liability of the consignee for demurrage terminates, and he is not responsible for any subsequent detention of the vessel.[77]

3. Circumstances Excusing — a. Acts of Persons Other Than Charterer — (i) Master and Ship-Owner. The rule that the charterer is not liable for delay due to the wrongful, negligent, or unreasonable acts of the owner or master of the vessel, or any of their agents,[78] has been applied in cases presenting a variety of circumstances, including cases of delay caused by the failure of the vessel to arrive on scheduled time,[79] the failure of the master to have the vessel in readiness to receive or discharge the cargo,[80] refusal to berth at a suitable wharf selected by the charterer,[81] errors of judgment in navigation,[82] and negotiations entered

75. Bixby v. Bennett, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 225; Rumball v. Puig, 34 Fed. 665. Contra, Towle v. Kettell, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 18.

Papers for discharge.— Demurrage is recoverable for a delay in procuring the papers necessary for the unloading of the cargo, when such delay is at the request of the charterer. Furnell v. Thomas, 5 Bing. 188, 30 Rev. Rep. 568, 15 E. C. L. 535.

76. See infra, IX, A, 3, a, (I).

77. Gabler v. McChesney, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 590, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 195.

78. Doherty v. Peal, 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 487, 54 N. Y. Suppl. 1054; The Convoy's Wheat, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 225, 18 L. ed. 194 [affirming 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,541]; Murray v. George W. Jump Co., 148 Fed. 123; Whitman v. Vanderbilt, 75 Fed. 422, 21 C. C. A. 422 (holding that the charterer is not responsible for delay in discharging caused by the master's absence from the vessel); Seager v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 55 Fed. 880, 5 C. C. A. 290 [affirming 55 Fed. 324]; Riley v. A Cargo of Iron Pipes, 40 Fed. 605; Hall v. Eastwick, 11 Fed. Cas. No. 5,930, 1 Lowell 456; Benson v. Blunt, 1 Q. B. 870, 1 G. & D. 449, 10 L. J. Q. B. 333, 41 E. C. L. 816; Blight v. Page, 3 B. & P. 295 note, 6 Rev. Rep. 795; Moller v. Jecks, 19 C. B. N. S. 332, 115 E. C. L. 332; Seeger v. Duthie, 8 C. B. N. S. 45, 6 Jur. N. S. 1095, 29 L. J. C. P. 253, 2 L. T. Rep. N. S. 483, 98 E. C. L. 45; Frichsen v. Barkworth, 3 H. & N. 601, 27 L. J. Exch. 472.

The delay of a stevedore employed by the owner of the ship or his agent is not chargeable to the charterer. L. N. Dantzler Lumber Co. v. Churchill, 136 Fed. 560, 69 C. C. A. 270; 2,000 Tons of Coal, 135 Fed. 734, 68 C. C. A. 372; Harris v. Best-Ryley, 7 Aspin. 272, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 76, 4 Reports 222.

79. McArthur Bros. Co. v. 622,714 Feet of Lumber, 131 Fed. 389.

Indirect route.—Where, by reason of a vessel not having proceeded directly to her port of destination, she is subjected to greater detention after her arrival, the charterer is liable for no more demurrage than he would have been if she had proceeded directly. Nichols v. Tremlett, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,247, 1 Sprague 361.

Where there is no scheduled time, and the voyage was not unusually long, it is no defense that the consignee expected that the vessel would arrive two days earlier than she did. Whitehouse v. Halstead, 90 Ill. 95.

80. Donaldson v. Severn River Glass Sand Co., 138 Fed. 691; Roman v. 155,453 Feet of Lumber, 131 Fed. 345; Ewan v. Tredegar Co., 88 Fed. 703; Gould v. Grafflin, 62 Fed. 605 (where the vessel was not in condition to take a full cargo); The Scandinavia, 49 Fed. 658 (where the buckets of the ship were insufficient for the discharge of the cargo); Ray v. One Block of Marble, 19 Fed. 525; The Norman, 16 Fed. 879; The Innocenta, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,050, 10 Ben. 410.

A request to be discharged, which is declined, is sufficient to put the owner of the cargo in default in case he thereafter unreasonably delays the discharge of the cargo. Scholl v. Albany, etc., Iron, etc., Co., 101 N. Y. 602, 5 N. E. 782.

An unreasonable refusal to take in tow a launch for discharge, which is tendered by the charterer's agents, bars any claim for delay in procuring launches for discharge at the port of delivery. The Spartan, 25 Fed. 44.

81. 2,000 Tons of Coal ex The Michigan, 135 Fed. 734, 68 C. C. A. 372; Robbins v. McDonald, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,884, 2 Lowell 140.

Delay in getting in the berth, after it has been properly pointed out, imposes no liability on the consignee. Smith v. Lee, 66 Fed. 344, 13 C. C. A. 506.

Where the vessel takes the berth selected by the consignee and delay thereafter ensues, the consignee is liable (Lake v. Hurd, 38 Conn. 536; Gronstadt v. Withoff, 21 Fed. 253); and the master may properly refuse to berth at an unsuitable wharf, selected by the consignee, and the consignee is liable for the delay resulting therefrom (The Swallow, 27 Fed. 316 [affirmed in 30 Fed. 204]).

82. The Ottawa, 33 Fed. 52 (error of judgment in anticipating storm); Holloway v. Lancy, 27 Fed. 877; Wall v. Ninety-Five Thousand Feet of Lumber, 26 Fed. 716; One Hundred Tons of Coal, 14 Fed. 878; Moody v. Five Hundred Thousand Laths, 2 Fed. 607 (where the vessel became tide bound through lack of diligence on the part of the master); General Steam Nav. Co. v. Slipper, 11 C. B. N. S. 493, 8 Jur. N. S. 821, 31 L. J.

into and disputes fostered by the master or ship-owner,[83] such as an improper refusal to sign bills of lading.[84]

(II) THIRD PERSONS — (A) In General. As to other persons, it may be stated generally that the charterers are liable for delay caused by the acts or omissions of third persons within their control, such as agents,[85] but they are not liable where such third persons are not within their control.[86] A consignee of part

C. P. 185, 5 L. T. Rep. N. S. 641, 10 Wkly. Rep. 316, 103 E. C. L. 493.

Fault of consignee.— However, where the accident of navigation which prevents the vessel from reaching the designated dock is encountered on account of the master's following the direction of the consignee, the latter is liable for the delay caused thereby. The Henry Sutton, 26 Fed. 923 [affirmed in 31 Fed. 297, 24 Blatchf. 448].

A delay in towing is imputable to the master of the vessel and not the consignee. Smith v. Lee, 66 Fed. 344, 13 C. C. A. 506.

83. Blossom v. Champion, 37 Barb. (N. Y.) 554; Hagan v. Cargo of Lumber, 163 Fed. 657; Murray v. George W. Jump Co., 148 Fed. 123; Sewall v. Wood, 135 Fed. 12, 67 C. C. A. 580 [affirming 128 Fed. 141]; Wellman v. Morse, 76 Fed. 573, 22 C. C. A. 318; Teilman v. Plock, 17 Fed. 268; Sleeper v. Puig, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,941, 17 Blatchf. 36 [affirming 22 Fed. Cas. No. 12,940, 10 Ben. 181]; Moeller v. Young, 5 E. & B. 755, 3 Jur. N. S. 393, 25 L. J. Q. B. 94, 4 Wkly. Rep. 149, 85 E. C. L. 755; Thorsen v. McDowell, 19 Ct. of Sess. Cas. 743.

84. Pendleton v. Atlantic Lumber Co., 3 Ga. App. 714, 60 S. E. 377; Wood v. Sewell, 128 Fed. 141; The Assyria, 98 Fed. 316, 39 C. C. A. 97; Three Hundred and Ninety-Three Tons of Guano, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,011, 6 Ben. 533; Cushing v. McLeod, 2 N. Brunsw. Eq. 63.

The rule is otherwise where the refusal of the master was rightful (Balfour v. Wilkins, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 807, 5 Sawy. 429), such as a refusal to sign a second set after having signed a proper set (The Alonzo, 1 Fed. Cas. No. 257, 1 Hask. 184).

85. Van Etten v. Newton, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 538, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 531, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 663, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 478 [affirmed in 134 N. Y. 143, 31 N. E. 334, 30 Am. St. Rep. 630]; Pregenzer v. Burleigh, 6 Misc. (N. Y.) 140, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 35; Sutton v. Housatonic R. Co., 45 Fed. 507.

The accumulation of other vessels at the same port and consigned or under charter to the same party is not the result of causes beyond his control so as to exempt him from liability for delay. Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Auchinclos, 161 Fed. 843, 847; W. K. Niver Coal Co. v. Cheronea Steamship Co., 142 Fed. 402, 73 C. C. A. 502, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 126 [affirming 124 Fed. 937]; The William Marshall, 29 Fed. 328.

Delay in performance of duties by custom officials.— It has been held that the charterer is liable for delay due to custom-house inspectors and weighers not attending and performing their duties promptly (Hine v. Perkins, 55 Fed. 996, 5 C. C. A. 377 [reversing 50 Fed. 434]; Carsanego v. Wheeler, 16 Fed. 248), or to their making an illegal seizure of the cargo, it being afterward restored (The Apollon, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 362, 6 L. ed. 111; Bessey v. Evans, 4 Campb. 131), even though the delay is due in part to an erroneous construction of a foreign law by the customs officers (Snow v. 350 Tons of Mahogany, etc., 46 Fed. 129). However, where the owners of the cargo contract to transport it in their lighters on discharge, they are not liable for delays occurring from the loss of the custom-house permit to discharge, and from the neglect of the custom-house weighers to weigh the ore when delivered to the lighters (Davidson v. Four Hundred Tons Iron Ore, 18 Fed. 94), nor is there any liability for the delay attending upon the seizure of the vessel for a violation of revenue laws by the master (Elwell v. Skiddy, 77 N. Y. 282 [reversing 8 Hun 73].

86. Fisher v. Abeel, 66 Barb. (N. Y.) 381; Pyman Steamship Co. v. Mexican Cent. R. Co., 169 Fed. 281, 94 C. C. A. 557 [reversing 164 Fed. 441] (holding that the arbitrary action of the railroad company controlling the loading pier in postponing admission to a berth was beyond the control of the charterers); The Jaedere, [1892] P. 351, 7 Aspin. 260, 61 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 89, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 266, 1 Reports 545 (holding that there is no liability for demurrage under a charter-party providing for discharge as fast as the vessel can deliver, where the vessel puts itself in the hands of a dock company for delivery, the dock company acting for both the vessel owner and the charterer).

Where "detention by railways" is one of the excepted liabilities in the charter-party, demurrage is not recoverable for delay in unloading caused by the railway not supplying trucks to receive the cargo. Letricheux v. Dunlop, 19 Ct. Sess. Cas. 209. Likewise, where by the custom of a port cargoes are discharged into railway wagons, the consignees are not liable for demurrage under a bill of lading providing for discharge "with all despatch as customary," when without negligence on their part but owning to pressure of work on the railway it cannot supply sufficient wagons, and the discharge of the ship is thereby delayed. Lyle Shipping Co. v. Cardiff Corp., [1900] 2 Q. B. 638, 9 Aspin. 128, 5 Com. Cas. 397, 69 L. J. Q. B. 889, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 329, 16 T. L. R. 536, 49 Wkly. Rep. 85.

Legal seizure.— The shipper is not liable for delay resulting from his libeling the vessel, provided he acts in good faith (Watt v. Cargo of Lumber, 161 Fed. 104, 88 C. C. A. 268), or delay resulting from an illegal attachment sued out by a third person (Has-of the cargo is not liable for demurrage where the delay is caused by the dilatory action of the other consignees whose goods are stowed on top of his,[87] unless he has made an absolute contract to discharge within a specified number of days.[88]

(B) Strikes. A strike among the laborers usually employed to unload the ship does not excuse the delay resulting therefrom under an express contract for the unloading of the ship within a specified number of days, when the contract contains no exception for delay caused by strikes.[89] However, an exception of delay caused by strikes is frequently incorporated in the demurrage clause of the contract, and in such cases the delay is excused when entirely attributable to a strike,[90] but not when the strike is only the remote cause.[91]

b. Act of God or Vis Major. The rule is well established that where the freighter or charterer agrees absolutely to load or unload the ship within a specified number of days, the fact that subsequent events, such as natural causes or governmental restraints, render performance impossible, is immaterial;[92] but that where luck v. Salkeld, 12 Mart. (La.) 663), but demurrage is recoverable for detention by writs of attachment issued by claimants of the cargo (The Malta, 34 Fed. 144).

87. Dobson v. Droop, 4 C. & P. 112, M. & M. 441, 19 E. C. L. 432; Lamb v. Kaselack, 9 Ct. Sess. Cas. 482.

88. Porteus v. Watney, 3 Q. B. D. 534, 4 Aspin. 34, 47 L. J. Q. B. 643, 39 L. T. Rep. N. S. 195, 27 Wkly. Rep. 30; Straker v. Kidd, 3 Q. B. D. 223, 4 Aspin. 34, 47 L. J. Q. B. 365, 26 Wkly. Rep. 511; Rogers v. Hunter, 2 C. & P. 601, 12 E. C. L. 756; Harman v. Gandolph, Holt. N. P. 35, 17 Rev. Rep. 598, 3 E. C. L. 24; Leer v. Yates, 3 Taunt. 387, 12 Rev. Rep. 671.

89. Budgett v. Binnington, [1891] 1 Q. B. 35, 6 Aspin. 592, 60 L. J. Q. B. 1, 39 Wkly. Rep. 131.

90. Actieselskabet Barfod v. Hilton, etc., Lumber Co., 125 Fed. 137; Wood v. Keyser, 84 Fed. 688 [affirmed in 87 Fed. 1007, 31 C. C. A. 358]; Dobell v. Green, [1900] 1 Q. B. 526, 9 Aspin. 52, 5 Com. Cas. 161, 69 L. J. Q. B. 454, 82 L. T. Rep. N. S 314; Bulman v. Fenwick, [1894] 1 Q. B. 179, 7 Aspin. 388, 63 L. J. Q. B. 123, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 651, 9 Reports 227, 42 Wkly. Rep. 326 (holding that where the charterers have named the place of discharge, under a charter-party giving them that privilege, they are not bound to alter their orders on obtaining knowledge of a strike at the place named that will interfere with the unloading); The Alne Holme, [1893] P. 173, 7 Aspin. 344, 62 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 51, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 862, 1 Reports 607, 41 Wkly. Rep. 572; Saxon Ship Co. v. Union Steamship Co., 8 Aspin. 574, 4 Com. Cas. 298, 68 L. J. Q. B. 914, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 246, 15 T. L. R. 477 [reversing 8 Aspin. 449]; Lilly v. Stevenson, 22 Ct. Sess. Cas. 278; Peterson v. Dunn, 43 Wkly. Rep. 349.

The term "strike," when used in a charter-party, means a strike against employers in the strict sense of the word, and not a mere neglect or refusal on the part of the men to work (Hagerman v. Norton, 105 Fed. 996, 46 C. C. A. 1; Stephens v. Harris, 6 Aspin. 192, 56 L. J. Q. B. 516, 57 L. T. Rep. N. S. 618 [affirmed on other grounds in 57 L. J. Q. B. 203]), or a failure of their employers to have work for them to do (In re Richardson, 66 L. J. Q. B. 868, 77 L. T. Rep. N. S. 479 [affirming 66 L. J. Q. B. 579]). It includes the refusal of a combination of all available workingmen to work under certain reasonable rules and regulations prescribed by the charterers. Hawkhurst Steamship Co. v. Keyser, 84 Fed. 693 [affirmed in 87 Fed. 1005, 31 C. C. A. 347].

91. W. K. Niver Coal Co. v. Cheronea Steamship Co., 142 Fed. 402, 73 C. C. A. 502, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 126 [affirming 124 Fed. 937] (holding that where, in consequence of a strike of coal miners in the United States, large quantities of coal were brought to American ports from Wales and other coal mining regions by vessels, and because of the arrival of a large number of such vessels at a given port at about the same time, delay was caused to so many of the vessels in discharging, the strike cannot be held to be a proximate cause of such delay); The Lismore, Gardiner v. Macfarlane, 20 Ct. Sess. Cas. 414; Granite City Steamship Co. v. Ireland, 19 Ct. Sess. Cas. 124.

In the absence of express stipulations as to the time to be consumed in discharging, there is no liability for delay caused by a strike, because it is then one of the elements to be taken into consideration in determining the reasonableness of the time occupied, and is an excuse for delay. Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Coal, etc., Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623 [affirming 70 Fed. 268]; Hick v. Raymond, [1893] A. C. 22, 7 Aspin. 233, 62 L. J. Q. B. 98, 68 L. T. Rep. N. S. 175, 1 Reports 125, 41 Wkly. Rep. 384; Castlegate Steamship Co. v. Dempsey, [1892] 1 Q. B. 854, 7 Aspin. 186, 61 L. J. Q. B. 620, 66 L. T. Rep. N. S. 742, 40 Wkly. Rep. 533.

92. Benson v. Atwood, 13 Md. 20, 71 Am. Dec. 611; Cross v. Beard, 26 N. Y. 85; Huron Barge Co. v. Turney, 71 Fed. 972; Booye v. A Cargo of Dry Boards, 42 Fed. 335; Manson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 31 Fed. 297, 24 Blatchf. 448 [affirming 26 Fed. 923]; Davis v. Wallace, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,657, 3 Cliff. 123; Thiis v. Byers, 1 Q. B. D. 244, 3 Aspin. 147, 45 L. J. Q. B. 511, 34 L. T. Rep. N. S. 526, 24 Wkly. Rep. 611; Waugh v. Morris, L. R. 8 Q. B. 202, 1 Aspin. 573, 42 L. J.

no time is mentioned in the contract, or where the contract provides against delay due to the fault of the charterer, delay is excused when caused by political or naval disturbances,[93] bad weather,[94] fire,[95] or an epidemic or quarantine.[96] There is no liability when the cause of the delay is one of the natural causes or vis major expressly excepted by the terms of the charter-party;[97] but a charter provision that delay by reason of natural causes shall be excused does not apply to natural causes which merely prevent the cargo being brought to the port of shipment, but do not prevent its being loaded on the ship;[98] and likewise the owner of the vessel must bear the loss consequent upon a delay of the vessel caused by natural causes before she reaches the wharf or other designated place for loading or unloading, and before the obligation of the charterer begins,[99]

Q. B. 57, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 265, 21 Wkly. Rep. 438; Barrett v. Dutton, 4 Campb. 333, 16 Rev. Rep. 798 (holding further that where it is the duty of the ship-owner to obtain clearances, the charterer is not liable for a detention due to the impossibility of obtaining clearance papers on account of the burning of the custom-house); Holman v. Peruvian Nitrate Co., 5 Ct. Sess. Cas. 657; Sjoerds v. Luscombe, 16 East 201, 104 Eng. Reprint 1065; Barker v. Hodgson, 3 M. & S. 267, 15 Rev. Rep. 485. And see Duff v. Lawrence, 3 Johns. Cas. (N. Y.) 162; Gaudet v. Brown, L. R. 5 P. C. 134, 2 Aspin. 6, 42 L. J. Adm. 49, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 745, 21 Wkly. Rep. 707.

Usual despatch.—The same rule applies where the contract is to load with "usual despatch" (Kearon v. Pearson, 7 H. & N. 386, 31 L. J. Exch. 1, 10 Wkly. Rep. 12), or as fast as the vessel can receive the cargo (Atlantic, etc., Steamship Co. v. Guggenheim, 123 Fed. 330).

93. Douglas v. Moody, 9 Mass. 548 (in which case, the detention was due to capture); Crossman v. Burrill, 179 U. S. 100, 21 S. Ct. 38, 45 L. ed. 106 [reversing 91 Fed. 543, 33 C. C. A. 663 (distinguishing Sixteen Hundred Tons of Nitrate of Soda v. McLeod, 61 Fed. 849, 10 C. C. A. 115]; Burrill v. Crossman, 130 Fed. 763, 65 C. C. A. 189 [reversing 124 Fed. 838]; The Spartan, 25 Fed. 44; Paquette v. A Cargo of Lumber, 23 Fed. 301 (holding that delay due to the orders of a fire department is excusable); Ford v. Cotesworth, L. R. 4 Q. B. 127 [affirmed in L. R. 5 Q. B. 544, 10 B. & S. 991, 39 L. J. Q. B. 188, 23 L. T. Rep. N. S. 165, 18 Wkly. Rep. 1169].

94. Cross v. Beard, 26 N. Y. 85 (storm); Houge v. Woodruff, 19 Fed. 136 (ice arising from extreme and unusual cold); Sprague v. West, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,255, Abb. Adm. 548; Pringle v. Mollett, 9 L. J. Exch. 148, 6 M. & W. 80 (frost).

Where it is the fault of the consignee that the unloading was delayed by rain, when it might otherwise have been finished within the time allowed by the custom of the port, he must bear the loss, although it might be otherwise had the rain alone caused delay. Whitehouse v. Halstead, 90 Ill. 95.

95. Paquette v. A Cargo of Lumber, 23 Fed. 301.

96. Towle v. Kettell, 5 Cush. (Mass.) 18; Coombs v. Nolan, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,189, 7 Ben. 301. Compare Esseltyne v. Elmore, 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,531, 7 Biss. 69.

97. Adamson v. 4,300 Tons Pyrites Ore, 137 Fed. 998; Aalholm v. A Cargo of Iron Ore, 23 Fed. 620; Ladd v. Wilson, 14 Fed. Cas. No. 7,976, 1 Cranch C. C. 293.

A snow storm is not within the meaning of a clause exempting the charterer from liability for delay due to "accidents." Fenwick v. Schmalz, L. R. 3 C. P. 313, 37 L. J. C. P. 78, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 27, 16 Wkly. Rep. 481.

Proximate cause essential.—Hughes v. J. S. Hoskins Lumber Co., 136 Fed. 435.

98. Jonasen v. Keyser, 112 Fed. 443, 50 C. C. A. 334; Sorensen v. Keyser, 52 Fed. 163, 2 C. C. A. 650, 51 Fed. 30, 2 C. C. A. 92; The India, 49 Fed. 76, 1 C. C. A. 174; Grant v. Coverdale, 9 App. Cas. 470, 5 Aspin. 353, 53 L. J. Q. B. 462, 51 L. T. Rep. N. S. 472, 32 Wkly. Rep. 831; Kay v. Field, 10 Q. B. D. 241, 4 Aspin. 558, 52 L. J. Q. B. 17, 47 L. T. Rep. N. S. 423, 31 Wkly. Rep. 332; Stephens v. Harris, 57 L. J. Q. B. 203. And see Durchman v. Dunn, 101 Fed. 606, holding that a provision in a charter, that the cargo should be furnished "as fast as vessel can receive and properly stow same in suitable hours and weather," has reference to the hours and weather suitable for loading and stowage, and does not exclude time lost by reason of the cargo becoming wet in distant yards, and unfit for loading, before it is forwarded to the ship.

The contrary has been held in a few cases, where, by usage and necessity, the cargo had to be transported by rail or water to the place of loading. Paterson v. Dakin, 31 Fed. 682; Hudson v. Ede, L. R. 3 Q. B. 412, 8 B. & S. 640, 37 L. J. Q. B. 166, 18 L. T. Rep. N. S. 764, 16 Wkly. Rep. 940 [followed in Smith v. Rosario Phosphate Co., [1894] 1 Q. B. 174, 7 Aspin. 417, 70 L. T. Rep. N. S. 68, 9 Wkly. Rep. 776].

99. Hodgdon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 46 Conn. 277, 33 Am. Rep. 21; Kane v. Penney, 5 Fed. 830; Aylward v. Smith, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 688, 2 Lowell 192; Parker v. Winlow, 7 E. & B. 942, 4 Jur. N. S. 84, 27 L. J. Q. B. 49, 90 E. C. L. 942.

Delay in getting from one place to another, caused by the weather, does not render the charterer liable under a charter providing for demurrage for delay caused by him, if the custom of the trade requires the vessel to deliver at different places in the same port.

unless the vessel delays reaching the designated place for unloading at the request of the consignee.[1]

c. Lay Days[2] — (i) FUNCTION. The purpose of stipulating in the charter-party for a certain number of days, called lay days, for loading and discharging, is to allow the charterer that length of time during which he may detain the ship without paying for her use, and to make him liable for any detention thereafter.[3]

(ii) COMMENCEMENT — (A) General Rules. Where the contract is express as to the time the lay days are to commence, it controls,[4] even though loading or discharging is actually begun before the stipulated time.[5] In the absence of anything in the contract indicating a contrary intention, the lay days do not begin to run until the vessel is in her berth or otherwise in actual readiness to discharge,[6]

The Mary E. Taber, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,209, 1 Ben. 105.

Effect of notice.— It has been held in a case where the consignee's wharf was inaccessible on account of ice and lack of sufficient water, and where the master took his vessel to the only accessible wharf in the port, and notified the consignee, and offered to deliver the cargo, that on the consignee's refusal to accept delivery, the lay days began to run twenty-four hours after notice to him. Choate v. Meredith, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,692, Holmes 500.

1. Manson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 31 Fed. 297, 24 Blatchf. 448 [affirming 26 Fed. 923].

2. "Lay days" defined see LAY DAYS, 25 Cyc. 169.

Time allowed when no lay days stipulated see supra, IX, A, 2, a; IX, A, 2, b, (II), (A).

3. Leary v. Talbot, 160 Fed. 914, 88 C. C. A. 96; Nielsen v. Wait, 16 Q. B. D. 67, 5 Aspin. 553, 55 L. J. Q. B. 87, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 344, 34 Wkly. Rep. 33.

4. Elder Dempster Steamship Co. v. Earn Line Steamship Co., 168 Fed. 50, 93 C. C. A. 472 [reversing 163 Fed. 868]; Earn Line Steamship Co. v. Ennis, 157 Fed. 941 [affirmed in 165 Fed. 633, 91 C. C. A. 611]; The St. Bernard, 105 Fed. 994; Manchisa v. Card, 39 Fed. 492 (holding that the master cannot vary the terms of the charter-party); Monsen v. Macfarlane, [1895] 2 Q. B. 562, 8 Aspin. 93, 65 L. J. Q. B. 57, 73 L. T. Rep. N. S. 548; Davies v. McVeagh, 4 Ex. D. 265, 4 Aspin. 149, 48 L. J. Exch. 686, 41 L. T. Rep. N. S. 308, 28 Wkly. Rep. 143; Jackson v. Galloway, 5 Bing. N. Cas. 71, 8 L. J. C. P. 29, 6 Scott 786, 35 E. C. L. 48. And see Bryden v. Niebuhr, 1 Cab. & E. 241; Dickinson v. Martini, 1 Ct. Sess. Cas. 1185.

Where two bills of lading are given requiring delivery of part of a cargo at different ports, they constitute independent contracts, and should be so construed in arriving at the commencement of the lay lays. Bowen v. Sizer, 93 Fed. 227.

A provision which is negative in form but positive in effect governs the rights of the parties. Carbon Slate Co. v. Ennis, 114 Fed. 260, 52 C. C. A. 146 [reversing 110 Fed. 404].

Effect of substitution of place.—When parties stipulate that lay days shall count from a certain time, at a certain place, and another place is afterward substituted, the stipulation as to time applies to the substituted place, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary. Reed v. Weld, 6 Fed. 304.

Estoppel.— It has been held that the action of charterers in furnishing cargo and receiving bills of lading therefor on a certain day estops them from denying that the lay days for loading had then commenced. The Cyprus, 20 Fed. 144.

Provision as to one clear day.— The object of providing in a charter-party for one clear day after notice of the readiness of the vessel to receive cargo before the lay days shall commence is to allow the charterer such time for preparation, and, unless made so by the terms of the charter or custom of the port, Sunday is not to be counted as such a day. The Assyria, 98 Fed. 316, 39 C. C. A. 97.

5. Elder Dempster Steamship Co. v. Earn Line Steamship Co., 168 Fed. 50, 93 C. C. A. 472 [reversing 163 Fed. 868]; Earn Line Steamship Co. v. Ennis, 157 Fed. 941 [affirmed in 165 Fed. 633, 91 C. C. A. 611].

Where the contract does not definitely fix the commencement of the lay days, the parties by agreeing to and beginning delivery on a certain day thereby fix that day as the commencement (The Katy, [1895] P. 56, 7 Aspin. 527, 64 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 49, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 709, 11 Reports 683, 43 Wkly. Rep. 290), and it has been held that a custom of the port relating to the commencement of the days is binding when not inconsistent with the provisions of the charter-party (Barker v. Borzone, 48 Md. 474).

6. Rowe v. Smith, 10 Bosw. (N. Y.) 268 (where it is said: "Lay days, by the general rule, commence to run from the time the vessel enters the dock"); Constantine, etc., Steamship Co. v. Auchincloss, 161 Fed. 843, 88 C. C. A. 661; The St. Bernard, 105 Fed. 994; Aalholm v. A Cargo of Iron Ore, 23 Fed. 620; Gronstadt v. Witthoff, 15 Fed. 265 (holding that a custom or usage, to dispense with this legal obligation, must be so fixed and well understood as to be presumed to be part of the contract).

The English rule is that, in the absence of any stipulation to the contrary, the lay days do not commence to run until the ship arrives at the customary place of discharge in the port of delivery. Sanders v. Jenkins, [1897] 1 Q. B. 93, 66 L. J. Q. B. 40; Tapscott v. Balfour, L. R. 8 C. P. 46, 1 Aspin.

and where it is provided that the vessel shall proceed to a certain specified wharf or jetty, or one to be selected by the charterer, the arrival of the ship at that wharf or jetty is a condition precedent to the commencement of the running of the time,[7] unless she is prevented from reaching the designated place through the active fault of the charterer, in which case the days begin to count at the time she would have reached it, but for such fault.[8]

(B) Notice. Ordinarily, in addition to the ship proceeding to the place assigned, she must give formal notice of her readiness to proceed to an appropriate unloading place before her laying time begins,[9] and the notice, to be effective, 501, 42 L. J. C. P. 16, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 710, 21 Wkly. Rep. 245; Brereton v. Chapman, 7 Bing. 559, 5 M. & P. 526, 20 E. C. L. 251; Brown v. Johnson, C. & M. 440, 11 L. J. Exch. 373, 10 M. & W. 331, 41 E. C. L. 242. Compare In re Pyman and Dreyfur, 24 Q.B. D. 152, 6 Aspin. 444, 59 L. J. Q. B. 13, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 724, 38 Wkly. Rep. 447 (holding that under the charter-party in that case, the lay days were to be calculated from the arrival of the ship at the outer harbor of the designated port and her giving notice of readiness to load); Caffarini v. Walker, Ir. R. 10 C. L. 250. Where, by the usage of a port, a cargo is to be discharged within the port at two different places, both places taken together constitute the usual place of discharge, and the lay days commence to run from arrival at the first (McIntosh v. Sinclair, Ir. R. 11 C. L. 456), but are suspended while the ship is proceeding from the first to the second (Nielsen v. Wait, 16 Q. B. D. 67, 5 Aspin. 553, 55 L. J. Q. B. 87, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 344, 34 Wkly. Rep. 33).

Particular stipulations construed.—A stipulation that the vessel shall commence discharging upon arrival means arrival at a place where discharge is possible (Tweedie Trading Co. v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 156 Fed. 88. And see Kenyon v. Tucker, 17 R. I. 529, 23 Atl. 61), and is fulfilled so that the lay days then commence, when the vessel arrives in the immediate vicinity of the consignee's dock and offers to deliver the cargo (Wiles v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 4 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 264). Where it is agreed that the time shall begin to run when the vessel is ready to receive or discharge cargo, the obligation is fulfilled when the vessel is ready to go to her berth and not when she actually gets in. Swan v. Wiley, etc., Co., 161 Fed. 905, 88 C. C. A. 510. Compare Brett v. Harlan, etc., Co., 83 Hun (N. Y.) 555, 31 N. Y. Suppl. 1113, holding that under the contract in that case it was necessary for the vessel to be completely berthed. Flood v. Crowell, 92 Fed. 402, 34 C. C. A. 415, holds complete berthing unnecessary, but in that case the wharves were public and ships were compelled to wait their turn.

The unreadiness of the shippers to assign the vessel a berth does not stop the running of the days, where the vessel is in readiness to take a berth. Carbon Slate Co. v. Ennis, 114 Fed. 260, 52 C. C. A. 146 [reversing 110 Fed. 404].

7. In re 2,098 Tons of Coal, 135 Fed. 317, 67 C. C. A. 671 [affirming 128 Fed. 514]; Ewan v. Tredegar Co., 88 Fed. 703 (holding further that, after the ship gets into dock, the fact that the crowded condition of the harbor prevents her from securing a fit place for discharging the cargo does not prevent the lay days from running); Gronstadt v. Withoff, 21 Fed. 253; Cain v. Garfield, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,293, 1 Lowell 483; Little v. Stevenson, [1896] A. C. 108, 8 Aspin. 162, 65 L. J. P. C. 69, 74 L. T. Rep. N. S. 529; Murphy v. Coffin, 12 Q. B. D. 87, 32 Wkly. Rep. 616; Tapscott v. Balfour, L. R. 8 C. P. 46, 1 Aspin. 501, 42 L. J. C. P. 16, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 710, 21 Wkly. Rep. 245; Aktieseskabet Inglewood v. Millar's Karri, etc., Forests, 9 Aspin. 411, 8 Com. Cas. 196, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 19 T. L. R. 405 (holding that the fact that the ship cannot fully load at the designated place does not alter the rule); Pineiro v. Dupre, 9 Aspin. 297, 7 Com. Cas. 105, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 560, 18 T. L. R. 351; Watson v. Borner, 5 Com. Cas. 377, 16 T. L. R. 524; Bastifell v. Lloyd, 1 H. & C. 388, 31 L. J. Exch. 413, 10 Wkly. Rep. 721; Shadforth v. Cory, 32 L. J. Q. B. 379, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 736, 11 Wkly. Rep. 918. Compare Bremner v. Burrell, 4 Ct. Sess. Cas. 934; Cushing v. McLeod, 2 N. Brunsw. Eq. 63, holding that the lay days do not begin until delivery of the cargo actually begins.

Removal from dock during lay days.—Where the contract requires the boat to be brought to the dock of the consignee, and requires the payment of demurrage on the failure to unload within three days, the removal of the boat from the consignee's dock within the three days by the public authorities, caused by the temporary closing of the canal, will prevent a recovery of demurrage for the time the boat is prevented from returning to the dock. Gabler v. McChesney, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 583, 70 N. Y. Suppl. 191.

8. In re 2,098 Tons of Coal, 135 Fed. 317, 67 C. C. A. 671 [affirming 128 Fed. 514]; Aktieselskabet Inglewood v. Millar's Karri, etc., Forests, 9 Aspin. 411, 8 Com. Cas. 196, 88 L. T. Rep. N. S. 559, 19 T. L. R. 405; Dall' Orso v. Mason, 3 Ct. Sess. Cas. 419.

9. Barker v. Borzone, 48 Md. 474; Tweedie Trading Co. v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 156 Fed. 88; The Rocky City, 33 Fed. 556.

When unnecessary.—A formal notice to the consignees that the vessel is ready to receive cargo is not necessary where they know that she is ready (Two Hundred and Sixty-Eight Logs of Cedar, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,295, 2 Lowell 378); and in England and Canada it seems that notice is unnecessary (Harman v. Mant, 4 Campb. 161, 16 Rev. Rep. 768; Harman v. Clarke, 4 Campb. 159, 16 Rev.

must reach the shipper,[10] and begins only when the ship is in actual readiness,[11] but it need not be in any particular form.[12]

(III) COMPUTATION. Where the contract simply mentions "days" or "running days" and there is no custom to the contrary, all running or successive days are to be counted,[13] but where the phrase "working days" is used, all calendar days on which the law permits work to be done are intended. This excludes Sundays and legal holidays, but not stormy days,[14] unless the expression "weather working days" is used.[15] In general, whole days only, and not hours or fractions

Rep. 768; Kemp v. McDougall, 23 U. C. Q. B. 380), unless provided for by contract (Bradley v. Goddard, 3 F. & F. 638).

Effect.—A provision in a charter that the time for discharging shall commence when the vessel is ready to unload and written notice given, "whether in berth or not," must be given effect in accordance with its plainly expressed meaning, and the lay days for discharging commence when the vessel gives notice that she is ready to unload and is ready, whether at her designated berth or not. W. K. Niver Coal Co. v. Cheronea Steamship Co., 142 Fed. 402, 73 C. C. A. 502, 5 L. R. A. N. S. 126 [affirming 124 Fed. 937].

10. The India, etc. v. Donald, 49 Fed. 76, 1 C. C. A. 174.

Where there is no agent on hand at the port of discharge to receive the notice, it will not prevent the commencement of the running of the lay days. Brown v. Ralston, 9 Leigh (Va.) 532; Hatton v. De Belaunzaran, 26 Fed. 780.

Giving of notice on holidays and Sundays. — Under a charter providing that holidays shall not count as lay days, notice cannot be given on a holiday (Perry v. Spreckles' Sugar Refining Co., 110 Fed. 777), but on the other hand, it has been held that notice given on Sunday is sufficient (Lake v. Hurd, 38 Conn. 536; Carroll v. Holway, 158 Fed. 328).

11. L. N. Dantzler Lumber Co. v. Churchill, 136 Fed. 560, 69 C. C. A. 270; Pierson v. Ogden, 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,160; Cushing v. McLeod, 2 N. Brunsw. Eq. 63. And see Addicks v. Three Hundred and Fifty-Four Tons Crude Kainit, 23 Fed. 727.

12. Carroll v. Holway, 158 Fed. 328.

13. California.— Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481.

Massachusetts.— Crowell v. Barreda, 16 Gray 471.

New York.— Field v. Chase, Labor 50.

United States.— Hughes v. J. S. Hoskins Lumber Co., 136 Fed. 435; Pedersen v. Eugster, 14 Fed. 422.

England.— Nielsen v. Wait, 16 Q. B. D. 67, 5 Aspin. 553, 55 L. J. Q. B. 87, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 344, 34 Wkly. Rep. 33 (where it is said that running days "are the days, during which, if the ship were at sea, she would be running. That means every day"); Brown v. Johnson, C. & M. 440, 11 L. J. Exch. 373, 10 M. & W. 331, 41 E. C. L. 242; Niemann v. Moss, 6 Jur. N. S. 775, 29 L. J. Q. B. 266.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 590.

Usage has, in some cases, determined that the word "days" means working, and not running, days, so as to exclude Sundays and holidays. Cochran v. Retberg, 3 Esp. 121.

14. Brooks v. Minturn, 1 Cal. 481; Hughes v. J. S. Hoskins Lumber Co., 136 Fed. 435; Hagerman v. Norton, 105 Fed. 996, 46 C. C. A. 1; Sorensen v. Keyser, 52 Fed. 163, 2 C. C. A. 650; Pedersen v. Eugster, 14 Fed. 422; Nielsen v. Wait, 16 Q. B. D. 67, 5 Aspin. 553, 55 L. J. Q. B. 87, 54 L. T. Rep. N. S. 344, 34 Wkly. Rep. 33, holding further that the meaning of the term varies in different ports. See also Commercial Steam Ship Co. v. Boulton, L. R. 10 Q. B. 346, 3 Aspin. 111, 44 L. J. Q. B. 219, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 707, 23 Wkly. Rep. 854

"As "working days" cover all days, except Sundays and holidays, it includes a day lost in putting up the gear of a vessel, preparatory to taking her cargo, that work being, under the terms of the charter-party, a part of the charterer's duty. Wood v. Keyser, 84 Fed. 688 [affirmed in 87 Fed. 1007, 31 C. C. A. 358].

The express exception of Sunday in the charter-party clearly shows the intention of the parties to exclude that day (Benson v. Atwood, 13 Md. 20, 71 Am. Dec. 611), but not other days, such as holidays and rainy days (James v. Brophy, 71 Fed. 310, 18 C. C. A. 49; The Cyprus, 20 Fed. 144); and the fact that cargo is in fact discharged on Sundays does not affect their exclusion (Houlder v. Weir, [1905] 2 K. B. 267, 10 Aspin. 81, 10 Com. Cas. 228, 74 L. J. K. B. 729, 92 L. T. Rep. N. S. 861, 21 T. L. R. 503).

Half-holidays.—Where a state statute relating to half-holidays does not make them obligatory, and where it is not shown that the stevedores engaged in loading a vessel refused to work on Saturday afternoon because of the statute, such half holidays are not to be excluded. Holland Gulf Steamshipping Co. v. Hagar, 124 Fed. 460; Uren v. Hagar, 95 Fed. 493.

15. Pyman Steamship Co. v. One Hundred Tons of Kainit, 164 Fed. 364 (holding that, under the circumstances of the case, rain during the working hours of any day before noon prevented that day from counting); The India, etc. v. Donald, 49 Fed. 76, 1 C. C. A. 174 (holding that the term means a day, otherwise a working day, when the weather will reasonably permit the carrying on of the work contemplated); Pedersen v. Eugster, 14 Fed. 422.

The phrase "rainy days," when used in the exception of a charter-party, applies to the days on which the rainfall is such as to prevent the loading of the vessel with safety and convenience, the actual facilities of the of days, are considered in the computation,[16] an exception existing under the particular provisions of some charter-parties,[17] and the lay days for loading and discharging are considered separately, and not together,[18] unless the contract stipulates otherwise.[19]

4. Waiver and Indemnity.[20] A person compelled to pay demurrage may recover the same from the person primarily liable,[21] but only upon clear proof that such demurrage has been or must be paid[22] and that responsibility therefor rests upon the person from whom indemnity is sought.[23] A master can properly discontinue unloading until security for demurrage is given, only upon giving timely notice to the charterer.[24] In many cases the provisions of the contract port being considered. Balfour v. Wilkins, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 807, 5 Sawy. 429.

Where the vessel is to be unloaded at a certain rate per day, only days on which work can be done are contemplated; stormy days are to be excluded. Harper v. M'Carthy, 2 B. & P. N. R. 258.

16. Houlder v. Weir, [1905] 2 K. B. 267, 10 Aspin. 81, 10 Com. Cas. 228, 74 L. J. K. B. 729, 92 L. T. Rep. N. S. 861, 21 T. L. R. 503; The Katy, [1905] P. 56, 7 Aspin. 527, 64 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 49, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 709, 11 Reports 683, 43 Wkly. Rep. 290; Hough v. Athya, 6 Ct. Sess. Cas. 961.

Exclusion of days of readiness and despatch.—Where the contract provides for lay days, "counting from the day of readiness until the day of despatch," and where it is not one by which a present interest is vested, the "day of despatch" and "day of readiness" are to be excluded. Merritt v. Ona, 44 Fed. 369, 11 L. R. A. 724.

17. Yeoman v. Regem, [1904] 2 K. B. 429, 9 Com. Cas. 269, 73 L. J. K. B. 905, 20 L. T. Rep. N. S. 524, 52 Wkly. Rep. 627; Branckelow Steamship Co. v. Lamport, [1897] 1 Q. B. 570, 66 L. J. Q. B. 382 (holding, however, that no smaller fraction than half a day should be considered); Laing v. Holloway, 3 Q. B. D. 437, 47 L. J. Q. B. 512, 26 Wkly. Rep. 769.

Where the lay days are dependent upon the amount of cargo delivered or discharged, the contracts have been held to contemplate a day of twenty-four working hours and to permit the counting of fractional parts of days. Weir v. Northwestern Commercial Co., 134 Fed. 991; Forest Steamship Co. v. Iberian Iron-Ore Co., 9 Aspin. 1, 5 Com. Cas. 83, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 563, 16 T. L. R. 59 [affirming 8 Aspin. 438, 3 Com. Cas. 316, 79 L. T. Rep. N. S. 240, 14 T. L. R. 560]. Under such contracts, the lay days are computed on the amount of cargo actually loaded and stowed, and not that furnished to the vessel (The Assyria, 98 Fed. 316, 39 C. C. A. 97); but where the cargo is lumber, and a deduction in freight is made for that part of it which is dressed, a proportionately greater amount of it is required to be discharged during a day (Randolph v. Wiley, 118 Fed. 77).

18. Baldwin v. Stamford Mfg. Co., 56 N. Y. Super. Ct. 1, 2 N. Y. Suppl. 13; Marshall v. Bolckow, 6 Q. B. D. 231, 29 Wkly. Rep. 792; Avon Steamship Co. v. Leask, 18 Ct. Sess. Cas. 280.

Unloading at intermediate and final ports. — It has been held that a provision for a certain number of days "for loading, discharging and re-loading" applies only to the ports of loading, intermediate discharge, and reloading, and not to the ultimate discharge at the end of the voyage, and that consequently the charterer, under such a contract, is entitled to a reasonable time for unloading at the final port of discharge. Sweeting v. Darthez, 14 C. B. 538, 2 C. L. R. 1375, 18 Jur. 958, 23 L. J. C. P. 131, 2 Wkly. Rep. 414, 78 E. C. L. 538.

19. Elwell v. Skiddy, 77 N. Y. 282 (holding that, under a charter-party providing for three voyages, and giving the charterer a specified number of lay days, with liberty to use any portion thereof on either of the voyages, the fact that the third voyage was abandoned in accordance with provisions of the charter-party did not affect the right of the charterer to use the whole number of days at his option, upon the two voyages made); Duffy v. Miller, 1 Phila. (Pa.) 334.

Exercise of privilege.—Where the contract confers the privilege of averaging days for loading and discharging in order to avoid demurrage, the charterer, by settling for despatch money after loading, elects not to average and will not be permitted to again exercise the option. Oakville Steamship Co. v. Holmes, 5 Com. Cas. 48, 16 T. L. R. 54, 48 Wkly. Rep. 152.

20. Waiver of lien see infra, IX, B, 4.

21. Miner v. Blume, 64 N. Y. App. Div. 511, 72 N. Y. Suppl. 320; Snell v. The Independence, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,139, Gilp. 140; Burstall v. Cave, 14 Quebec Super. Ct. 110. And see Durchman v. Dunn, 101 Fed. 606.

22. Wilkesbarre Coal, etc., Co., 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,661, 5 Ben. 482.

23. Furness v. Leyland Shipping Co., 134 Fed. 815, 67 C. C. A. 461; Salisbury v. Seventy Thousand Feet of Lumber, 68 Fed. 916.

A delay of the discharge by the vessel's failing to give the winches a sufficient supply of steam does not make it responsible for demurrage paid by the consignee to another vessel awaiting for the same berth, as the payment of such demurrage is not the natural and proximate result of the vessel's delay. Milburn v. Federal Sugar Refining Co., 161 Fed. 717, 88 C. C. A. 577 [reversing 155 Fed. 368].

24. In re Ten Thousand and Eighty-Two Oak Ties, 87 Fed. 935.

relating to demurrage or the right to demurrage after it has accrued have been held to be waived,[25] but only upon clear evidence.[26]

B. Collection of Claim — 1. Rate and Amount[27] — a. Measure of Damages. As a general rule, courts of admiralty have allowed the demurrage stipulated in contracts of charter-party and bills of lading, except in cases where the loss of the ship-owner has been shown to be greater or less,[28] and, where no rate is stip-

25. Cargo of The Joseph W. Brooks, 122 Fed. 881; Hagan v. Tucker, 118 Fed. 731, 55 C. C. A. 521 [affirming 112 Fed. 546] (failure to include demurrage claim in monthly statements and settlements); McKeen v. Morse, 49 Fed. 253, 1 C. C. A. 237 (lack of formal protest and long delay in bringing suit); Arreco v. Pope, 36 Fed. 606 (acceptance of delivery at a point other than that specified in the charter-party); The Spartan, 25 Fed. 44 (acquiescence of captain in order which conflicts with provisions of charter-party); Fish v. One Hundred and Fifty Tons of Brown Stone, 20 Fed. 201 (knowledge by those in charge of vessel of crowded condition of pier); McGovern v. Heissenbuttel, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 8,805, 8 Ben. 46 (acceptance of reconsignment without objection).

Time spent in moving from one place of discharge to another cannot be made the basis of a claim for demurrage, where neither the vessel owner nor master made any objection at the time to unloading at more than one place. Moody v. Five Hundred Thousand Laths, 2 Fed. 607; Two Hundred and Sixty-Eight Logs of Cedar, 24 Fed. Cas. No. 14,295, 2 Lowell 378.

26. Henningsen v. Watkins, 110 Fed. 574; The Dictator, 30 Fed. 637.

What constitutes waiver as against the shipper.—Where a bill of lading expressly gives the ship-owner the right to hold the shipper for any charge under the contract, the fact that such owner does not enforce its right to collect demurrage from the consignee does not estop him from collecting such demurrage from the shipper, especially where the shipper consigned the cargo to itself, and remained the owner until actual delivery to an indorsee of the bill of lading. Tweedie Trading Co. v. Pitch Pine Lumber Co., 146 Fed. 612.

Delay not accompanied by claim of right. — Demurrage is recoverable where it does not appear that the delay was claimed as a matter of right by the consignee, but rather as a request voluntarily acceded to by the master. Davis v. Wallace, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,657, 3 Cliff. 123.

Effect of negligence of consignee.—Where a ship has two hatches from which cargo can be discharged into two lighters of proper size on one side, but the consignee does not provide lighters capable of taking cargo from both hatches at the same time, the ship did not lose her right to demurrage by not breasting out, so as to admit of discharge from both sides of the vessel. The Glenfinlas, 48 Fed. 758, 1 C. C. A. 85 [modifying 42 Fed. 232].

A receipt in full for all claims under a charter on payment of only the freight due does not release the charterers from a claim for demurrage which was made at the time by the master, and rejected, where the master was compelled to give such receipt in order to collect the freight, and did so under protest. Durchman v. Dunn, 101 Fed. 606. Likewise, it has been held that the delivery of cargo and collection of freight money is not a waiver of a claim for demurrage. Iroquois Furnace Co. v. Elphicke, 200 Ill. 411, 65 N. E. 784 [affirming 102 Ill. App. 138].

27. Amount allowable for detention resulting from collision see Collision, 7 Cyc. 395.

28. Benson v. Atwood, 13 Md. 20, 71 Am Dec. 611 (holding that the demurrage stipulated in the contract included the hire and maintenance of the crew); Baldwin v. Sullivan Timber Co., 142 N. Y. 279, 36 N. E. 1060 [affirming 65 Hun 625, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 496]; Jonasen v. Keyser, 112 Fed. 443, 50 C. C. A. 334; New York, etc., R. Co. v. Church, 58 Fed. 600, 7 C. C. A. 384; The C. P. Raymond, 28 Fed. 765 (holding that when the rate named in the charter-party is adopted, it includes wharfage and watchman's fees); Moorsom v. Bell, 2 Campb. 616, 12 Rev. Rep. 755. See Maclay v. The United States, 43 Ct. Cl. 90, 103, where the value of the vessel during the period of detention beyond the ten demurrage days named in the charter was found to be £20 per day greater than the rate named for the demurrage days.

Under a contract providing for the customary rate the amount recoverable is not governed by the rules of a maritime association of the port, in the absence of proof that the rate thereby fixed is the customary rate. Randolph v. Wiley, 118 Fed. 77.

A technical violation of the charter-party, otherwise fully executed, does not entitle the vessel owner to claim the full penalty named in the contract. The Cyprus, 20 Fed. 144.

Detention at place other than stipulated port of discharge.— It has been held that the demurrage stipulated in the charter-party is the proper measure of damage only for detention at the port of discharge; that where the freighter compels the vessel to sail for a different port and detains her there, the risk of the voyage and wear and tear of the vessel are proper subjects of consideration. Shepherd v. Lanfear, 5 La. 336, 25 Am. Dec. 181.

The expense of carting away and cording up wood, which is being landed from a vessel, cannot be charged separately to the charterer, unless notice is given to him by the master of the vessel that he intends to land the wood at his expense, where the charter-party provides for demurrage at a specified rate for all delay caused by the ulated, courts have considered all the circumstances of the case in determining the amount recoverable.[29] It has been held that where there is an agreed rate of demurrage for vessels of that class, that controls,[30] but that where there is no agreed rate, the ship-owner is prima facie entitled to recover the probable net earnings of the vessel during the period of undue detention,[31] and that inquiry into a subsequent period is not permissible.[32] Interest is recoverable when the amount of demurrage is liquidated by contract.[33]

b. Computation of Time. Demurrage commences to run after the expiration of the time allowed by the contract for detention, or in case there is no time limited after the expiration of a reasonable time,[34] and is recoverable for every day of detention thereafter, with no exception of rainy days, or Sundays,[35] although in some cases it has been held that working days only are contemplated.[36] In computing the time, twenty-four hours are to be considered as a day.[37]

2. SETTLEMENT. A clause in the charter-party providing for arbitration of demurrage claims is binding on the parties in England,[38] but not in the United States;[39] and settlements made by the master will generally be held to be conclusive as to the owners.[40] charterer. The Mary E. Taber, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,209, 1 Ben. 105.

29. Keyser v. Jurvelius, 122 Fed. 218, 58 C. C. A. 664, holding that where no employment could have been obtained no damages are sustained, but that where the vessel is detained with full cargo and crew on board, and with all expenses going on, the earnings of the vessel furnish decided assistance in ascertaining the damages.

All damages which the ship-owner naturally and necessarily sustain by the default of the shipper may be recovered (Starbird v. Barrons, 38 N. Y. 230), and where the cargo ultimately given the vessel is more profitable than that promised, the extra profit must be allowed in reduction of damages for demurrage (Pregenzer v. Burleigh, 6 Misc. (N. Y.) 140, 26 N. Y. Suppl. 35). However, no more than actual damages are recoverable for the detention of a vessel by a libel which was without foundation in law, unless malice and want of probable cause in instituting the action are shown. Carter v. Tufts, 15 La. Ann. 16.

30. Thompson v. Winslow, 130 Fed. 1001 [affirmed in 134 Fed. 546, 67 C. C. A. 470]. And see Bowen v. Sizer, 93 Fed. 227, where a construction is given to the agreed rate in that case.

31. Kelly v. Fall Brook Coal Co., 67 Barb (N. Y.) 183; Bixby v. Bennett, 3 Daly (N. Y.) 225 (holding that the loss sustained may be ascertained by showing the usual earnings of the vessel per diem); The Gazelle, 128 U. S. 474, 9 S. Ct. 139, 32 L. ed. 496 [affirming 11 Fed. 429, 5 Hughes 391]; Huron Barge Co. v. Turney, 79 Fed. 109; Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565; Sprague v. West, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,255, Abb. Adm. 548; Stewart v. Rogerson, L. R. 6 C. P. 424; The Gazelle, 2 W. Rob. 279.

Detention of yacht.—Demurrage may be recovered for the detention of a yacht, at the market rate of such craft, although the yacht was never let for hire, and no substitute was employed during the detention. The Lagonda, 44 Fed. 367.

32. Huron Barge Co. v. Turney, 79 Fed. 109.

33. Milburn v. Thirty-Five Thousand Boxes of Oranges, etc., 57 Fed. 236, 6 C. C. A. 317 [followed in The M. Kalbfleisch, 59 Fed. 198]. But see The New Orleans, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,178.

34. Creighton v. Dilks, 49 Fed. 107; Stepanovit v. Gillibrand, etc., 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,360. See also Beard v. Rhodes, 1 Aspin. 537, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 168; Connor v. Smythe, 1 Marsh. 276, 5 Taunt. 654, 1 E. C. L. 336.

35. Burton v. Butler, 2 Root (Conn.) 214; Baldwin v. Sullivan Timber Co., 142 N. Y. 279, 36 N. E. 1060 [affirming 65 Hun 625, 20 N. Y. Suppl. 496]; The Oluf, 19 Fed. 459 [following Lindsay v. Cushimano, 12 Fed. 503]; Gibbon v. Michael's Bay Lumber Co., 7 Ont. 746.

The exact time of detention may be shown, even though the ship-owner may have previously presented a bill for a shorter time. Eikrem v. New England Briquette Coal Co., 125 Fed. 987.

36. Whitehouse v. Halstead, 90 Ill. 95; Rigney v. White, 4 Daly (N. Y.) 400; The Mary E. Taber, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,209, 1 Ben. 105.

37. Wiles v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 4 Thomps. & C. (N. Y.) 264; Hull v. A Cargo of Pig Iron, etc., 37 Fed. 124.

38. Temperley Steam Shipping Co. v. Smyth, [1905] 2 K. B. 791, 10 Aspin. 123, 10 Com. Cas. 301, 74 L. J. K. B. 876, 93 L. T. Rep. N. S. 471, 21 L. T. Rep. 739, 54 Wkly. Rep. 150.

39. Straits of Dover S. S. Co. v. Munson, —— Fed. ——.

40. Burrill v. Crossman, 65 Fed. 104; Alexander v. Dowie, 1 H. & N. 152, 25 L. J. Exch. 281. Contra, where the master simply accepts demurrage under protest. Holland Gulf Steamshipping Co. v. Hagar, 124 Fed. 460.

A time charterer who has compromised and

3. ACTIONS [41] — a. Remedy and Pleadings. Claims for demurrage and for damages in the nature of demurrage are enforceable by actions in rem,[42] as well as by actions in personam,[43] and where the action is for damages in the nature of demurrage, special assumpsit or other form of action in which the implied promise is specially pleaded is proper and necessary.[44] An action on a bill of lading for demurrage is an action on a contract within the meaning of a statute regulating the trial of actions on contracts.[45] Although, when the vessel is let on shares, the master is pro hac vice owner and entitled to sue,[46] the libel is properly filed in the name of the ship-owner,[47] and should state a cause of action in contract,[48] without an improper joinder of counts,[49] or a statement of evidentiary matters.[50]

b. Evidence, Proof, and Questions For Jury. Although libellant is entitled to the presumption that the judgment of the master as to the anchorage of the vessel during the loading was properly exercised,[51] the burden is upon him to show the default of respondent in detaining the vessel beyond the time specified in the charter-party or, in case no time is specified, beyond the customary and reasonable time;[52] but when such detention is shown, it devolves upon respondent to prove circumstances which excuse the delay.[53] Parol evidence is inadmissible to vary or add to the written contract of the parties as respects delivery and demurrage,[54] settled a claim for demurrage against a consignee cannot assert a claim for the balance which was in dispute, against the vessel, on the ground that he could have recovered in full but for the master's misconduct. The Buckingham, 129 Fed. 975.

41. Jurisdiction of admiralty courts over actions for demurrage see ADMIRALTY, 1 Cyc. 830.

42. Riley v. A Cargo of Iron Pipes, 40 Fed. 605, holding, however, that no action in rem can be maintained when no notice of any claim or lien for demurrage is made at the time of delivery of the cargo, or before the commencement of suit.

A supplementary libel may be filed for detention subsequent to the original libel, where only part of the cargo was seized under the first libel. Eight Hundred and Forty-One Tons of Iron Ore, 25 Fed. 864.

43. The William Marshall, 29 Fed. 328.

44. Wordin v. Bemis, 32 Conn. 268, 85 Am. Dec. 255; Horn v. Bensusan, 9 C. & P. 709, 2 M. & Rob. 326, 38 E. C. L. 411; Harrison v. Wilson, 2 Esp. 709; Brown v. Ross, 5 U. C. Q. B. 469.

Where liability is created by an express contract, suit should be brought upon the contract, and not upon an implied promise. Atty v. Parish, 1 B. & P. N. R. 104; Cropton v. Pickernell, 16 M. & W. 829.

45. Jones v. Freeman, 29 Md. 273.

46. Wordin v. Bemis, 32 Conn. 268, 85 Am. Dec. 255; Hunt v. Barker, 64 Me. 344. And see Hill v. Stetson, 39 N. J. L. 84, where it is stated broadly that the master of a vessel is entitled to the demurrage, but it appears that the master in that case was also part-owner of the vessel.

The right does not exist when the vessel is not let on shares, and the action is upon an implied promise to pay demurrage. Brouncker v. Scott, 4 Taunt. 1.

47. Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565.

48. Merritt, etc., Derrick, etc., Co. v. Vogeman, 127 Fed. 770, holding that as a consignee is ordinarily not liable for demurrage, a libel against him must state such facts as impose a liability upon him.

49. Temperley v. Brown, 6 Jur. 150; Mathewson v. Ray, 16 L. J. Exch. 288, 16 M. & W. 329.

50. Mott v. Frost, 45 Fed. 897.

51. Three Hundred and Ninety-Three Tons of Guano, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 14,011, 6 Ben. 533.

52. Williscroft v. Cargo of the Cyrenian, 123 Fed. 169; Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Iron Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623 [affirming 70 Fed. 268]; Riley v. A Cargo of Iron Pipes, 40 Fed. 605; Levech v. A Cargo of Wooden Posts, 34 Fed. 917; Paquette v. A Cargo of Lumber, 23 Fed. 301. And see Van Etten v. Newton, 15 Daly (N. Y.) 538, 6 N. Y. Suppl. 531, 7 N. Y. Suppl. 663, 8 N. Y. Suppl. 478, holding that a rehearing will be granted, where it appears after judgment that the delay was due to third persons.

53. Harding v. 4,698 Tons of New Rivers Steam Coal, 147 Fed. 971; Hagar v. Elmslie, 107 Fed. 511, 46 C. C. A. 446; Empire Transp. Co. v. Philadelphia, etc., Coal, etc., Co., 77 Fed. 919, 23 C. C. A. 564, 35 L. R. A. 623 [affirming 70 Fed. 268]; Sheppard v. Philadelphia Butchers' Ice Co., 21 Fed. Cas. No. 12,757, 3 Wkly. Notes Cas. (Pa.) 565.

An alleged breach of the charter-party by the ship-owner, which did not cause or contribute to the delay, constitutes no defense. Atlantic, etc., Steamship Co. v. Guggenheim, 147 Fed. 103, 77 C. C. A. 329 [affirming 123 Fed. 330].

54. Sorensen v. Keyser, 51 Fed. 30, 2 C. C. A. 92; Barclay v. Holm, 2 Fed. Cas. No. 974; Higgins v. U. S. Mail Steamship Co., 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,469, 3 Blatchf. 282.

The amount of demurrage demanded by the master cannot be shown by a witness. Delafield v. De Grauw, 9 Bosw. (N. Y.) 1.

Where both parties allege that important provisions of the contract of transportation except in cases of ambiguity;[55] but the question of whether there has been an unreasonable delay in loading or discharging is a question of fact for the jury.[56] To be entitled to recover, plaintiff or libellant must prove not only undue detention of the vessel but also damage ensuing therefrom,[57] and to do this, he must present evidence of sufficient weight to establish both propositions.[58]

4. LIEN.[59] Although in England and Canada, the ship-owner has a lien for demurrage only where given by the charter-party and incorporated in the bill of lading,[60] it is well settled in the United States that the vessel owner has a maritime lien for demurrage on the cargo of a person responsible for a detention, enforceable in admiralty, regardless of the existence or non-existence of an express contract for a lien or even for demurrage.[61] This lien is lost by an unconditional were not embraced in the bills of lading, it is competent for plaintiff to testify that it was orally agreed that the cargo should be unloaded alongside, and that if plaintiff's canal-boat was sent beyond a certain place, defendant should pay the expense of towing it. Doty v. Thomson, 116 N. Y. 515, 22 N. E. 1089 [reversing 39 Hun 243].

55. The Wanderer, 29 Fed. 260.

56. Scholl v. Albany, etc., Iron, etc., Co., 101 N. Y. 602, 5 N. E. 782; Fulton v. Blake, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 5,153, 5 Biss. 371.

57. Chicago v. Hawgood, etc., Transit Co., 110 Ill. App. 34; Dayton v. Parke, 142 N. Y. 391, 37 N. E. 642.

Method of computation.— It has been held that libellants must give satisfactory proof as to a method of computation by which the court can ascertain the damages with reasonable precision. Sprague v. West, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,255, Abb. Adm. 548.

More than the amount claimed may be awarded, upon a proper showing of facts, as in admiralty the court may award any relief which the law applicable to the case warrants. The Gazelle, 128 U. S. 474, 9 S. Ct. 139, 32 L. ed. 496.

58. The Joseph W. Brooks, 122 Fed. 881.

Evidence held sufficient to show: That the delay was due to causes which entitled the libellant to recover (see Taylor v. Fall, River Ironworks, 124 Fed. 826); that the failure of the charterer to furnish cargo caused delay (see Henningsen v. Watkins, 110 Fed. 574); that the charterer refused to load suitable barges which were tendered (see Guinan v. Weaver Coal, etc., Co., 128 Fed. 203); and that the delay was due to the fact that the stevedore employed by the master to stow the cargo did not have men to do the work (see L. N. Dantzler Lumber Co. v. Churchill, 136 Fed. 560, 69 C. C. A. 270).

Evidence held insufficient to establish: The failure to furnish sufficient lighters to discharge cargo on both sides of the vessel was due to the fault of the charterer (see 2,000 Tons of Coal, 135 Fed. 734, 68 C. C. A. 372); an agreement for quick despatch (see Benedict v. Cargo of 6,086 Railroad Ties, 151 Fed. 366); a defense that the agreement upon which the action is based was in fact made with third persons (see Johnson v. Ocean Steamship Co., 43 Fed. 801). A custom to discharge certain kinds of a cargo on lighters is not shown by evidence that, in the majority of cases, they are so discharged, where it also appears that it is not unusual to discharge on the dock. Gronstadt v. Witthoff, 15 Fed. 265.

59. Lien for freight see supra, VII, E, 6.

60. Gray v. Carr, L. R. 6 Q. B. 522, 1 Aspin. 115, 40 L. J. Q. B. 257, 25 L. T. Rep. N. S. 215, 19 Wkly. Rep. 1173; Gladstone v. Birley, 2 Merw. 401, 15 Rev. Rep. 465, 35 Eng. Reprint 993; Land v. Woodward, 5 U. C. Q. B. 190; The Cargo ex Drake, 5 Can. L. T. Occ. Notes 471.

Construction of charters conferring lien.— See Sanguinetti v. Pacific Steam Nav. Co., 2 Q. B. D. 238, 3 Aspin. 300, 46 L. J. Q. B. 105, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 658, 25 Wkly. Rep. 150; Kish v. Corey, L. R. 10 Q. B. 553, 2 Aspin. 593; 44 L. J. Q. B. 205, 32 L. T. Rep. N. S. 670, 23 Wkly. Rep. 880; Lockhart v. Falk, L. R. 10 Exch. 132, 3 Aspin. 8, 44 L. J. Exch. 105, 33 L. T. Rep. N. S. 96, 23 Wkly. Rep. 753; Francesco v. Massey, L. R. 8 Exch. 101, 42 L. J. Exch. 75, 21 Wkly. Rep. 440.

61. Warehouse, etc., Supply Co. v. Galvin, 96 Wis. 523, 71 N. W. 804, 65 Am. St. Rep. 57 (holding that it is incompetent for a state court to prevent the vessel from enforcing such lien in admiralty, or to deprive the owners of the vessel of their possession of the cargo, so long as the lien continues); Hawgood v. One Thousand Three Hundred and Ten Tons of Coal, 21 Fed. 681; Two Hundred and Seventy-Five Tons of Mineral Phosphates, 9 Fed. 209; Donaldson v. McDowell, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,985, Holmes 290 [affirming 12 Fed. Cas. No. 6,987, 2 Lowell 93].

Authority to create.— The owner of the cargo may of course contract for a lien thereon, and even after parting with the title, may do so, provided he is acting as agent of the purchaser in arranging means for transportation. Plummer v. Two Hundred Tons of Rails, 149 Fed. 887; Taylor v. Fall River Ironworks, 124 Fed. 826.

A lien created by the charter-party applies only to goods shipped under it, and does not attach to other goods shipped under bills of lading (Fargo v. Milburn, 100 N. Y. 94, 2 N. E. 278), or to freight money which has been collected and which belongs to other persons (Hatton v. De Belaunzgaran, 26 Fed. 780).

Enforcement against third party.— No lien created by the charter-party can be enforced delivery of the cargo to the claimant thereof,[62] but not by a discharge, accompanied by a claim of lien.[63]

X. GENERAL AVERAGE.

[EDITED BY J. PARKER KIRLIN, ESQ., OF THE NEW YORK BAR]

A. Definition. General average is a contribution by the several interests engaged in a maritime adventure to make good the loss of one of them for voluntary sacrifices of part of the ship or cargo to save the residue of the property and the lives of those on board [64] from an impending peril, or for extraordinary expenses necessarily incurred for the common benefit and safety of all the interests in the adventure.[65]

B. Origin, Nature, and Elements — 1. IN GENERAL. The principle of against the goods of a third party, without a meritorious claim for liability against such goods or such party, unless that party is clearly shown to be privy to the contract creating the lien. West Hartlepool Steam Nav. Co. v. 450 Tons of Kainit, 151 Fed. 886 [affirmed in 164 Fed. 836, 90 C. C. A. 288].

62. Two Hundred and Sixteen Loads and Six Hundred and Seventy-Eight Barrels of Fertilizer, 88 Fed. 984, 5 Hughes 310; Egan v. A Cargo of Spruce Lath, 43 Fed. 480 [affirmed in 41 Fed. 830]; One Hundred and Eighteen Sticks of Timber, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,519, 10 Ben. 86; Winslow v. Four Hundred Barrels of Salt, 30 Fed. Cas. No. 17,881, 1 Biss. 459.

When the master sells the cargo, by virtue of authority conferred upon him by the shippers, the lien is at an end. Allen v. Three Thousand One Hundred and Eighty-Three Bushels of Potatoes, 8 Fed. 763.

After abandonment of the lien, the vessel owner cannot maintain an action for damages against shippers who are merely agents. Stafford v. Watson, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,276, 1 Biss. 437.

63. Pioneer Fuel Co. v. McBrier, 84 Fed. 495, 28 C. C. A. 466; McBrier v. A Cargo of Hard Coal, 69 Fed. 469. And see Salisbury v. Seventy Thousand Feet of Lumber, 68 Fed. 916.

64. The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 236, 19 L. ed. 638; The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206, 208; The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 163, 8 C. C. A. 67; Montgomery v. Indemnity Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., [1901] 1 Q. B. 147, 9 Aspin. 141, 6 Com. Cas. 19, 70 L. J. Q. B. 45, 84 L. T. Rep. N. S. 57, 17 T. L. R. 59, 49 Wkly. Rep. 221 [affirmed in [1902] 1 K. B. 734, 9 Aspin. 289, 7 Com. Cas. 120, 71 L. J. K. B. 467, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 462, 18 T. L. R. 479, 50 Wkly. Rep. 440].

65. California.— Wilson v. Cross, 33 Cal. 60, 69.

Connecticut.— Lyon v. Alvord, 18 Conn. 66, 74.

Kentucky.— Louisville Underwriters v. Pence, 93 Ky. 96, 102, 19 S. W. 10, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 176; Louisville M. & F. Ins. Co. v. Bland, 9 Dana 143, 147.

Louisiana.— Barelli v. Hagan, 13 La. 580, 581.

Massachusetts.— Emery v. Huntington, 109 Mass. 431, 435, 437, 12 Am. Rep. 725; Padelford v. Boardman, 4 Mass. 548, 550.

New York.— Wadsworth v. Pacific Ins. Co., 4 Wend. 33, 39; Bargett v. Orient Mut. Ins. Co., 3 Bosw. 385, 395; Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer 400, 410.

Pennsylvania.— Broadnax v. Cheraw, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 140, 148, 27 Atl. 412, 413; Cheraw, etc., R. Co. v. Broadnax, 109 Pa. St. 432, 439, 1 Atl. 228, 58 Am. Rep. 733; McLoon v. Cummings, 73 Pa. St. 98, 104; May v. Delaware Ins. Co., 19 Pa. St. 312, 315; The Bevan v. U. S. Bank, 4 Whart. 301, 308, 33 Am. Dec. 64; Sanson v. Ball, 4 Dall. 459, 462, 1 L. ed. 908.

United States.— Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 395, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742 [reversing 37 Fed. 888]; The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. 203, 228, 19 L. ed. 638; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. 331, 342, 10 L. ed. 186; McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. 347, 370, 18 L. ed. 155; Dupont de Nemours v. Vance, 19 How. 162, 176, 15 L. ed. 584; The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206, 208; The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 163, 8 C. C. A. 67; Bowring v. Thebaud, 42 Fed. 794, 797; The Joseph Farwell, 31 Fed. 844; Caze v. Reilly, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,538, 3 Wash. 298, 310; Potter v. Ocean Ins. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,335, 3 Sumn. 27, 39; Williams v. Suffolk Ins. Co., 29 Fed. Cas. Nos. 17,738, 17,739, 3 Sumn. 270, 510, 513.

England.— Steamship Carisbrook Co. v. London, etc., Mar., etc., Ins. Co., [1902] 2 K. B. 681, 687, 9 Aspin. 332, 7 Com. Cas. 235, 71 L. J. K. B. 978, 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 418, 18 T. L. R. 783, 50 Wkly. Rep. 691; Price v. Al Ships' Small Damage Ins. Assoc., 22 Q. B. D. 580, 584, 6 Aspin. 435, 58 L. J. Q. B. 269, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 278, 37 Wkly. Rep. 566; Kemp v. Halliday, L. R. 1 Q. B. 520, 527, 6 B. & S. 723, 12 Jur. N. S. 582, 35 L. J. Q. B. 156, 14 L. T. Rep. N. S. 762, 14 Wkly. Rep. 697, 118 E. C. L. 723; The Bona, [1895] P. 125, 7 Aspin. 557, 64 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 62, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 870, 11 Reports 707, 43 Wkly. Rep. 290; The Brigella, [1893] P. 189, 194, 7 Aspin. 337, 62 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 81, 69 L. T. Rep. N. S. 834, 1 Reports 616; Birkley v. Presgrave, 1 East 220, 228, 6 Rev. Rep. 256, 102 Eng. Reprint 86.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 604; and Carver Carriage by Sea, § 361 et seq.; Lowndes General Average, p. 19 et seq.

Contribution was formerly also called "gross, or extraordinary; average." The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206, 208.

contribution in general average is older than the common law.[66] It is derived from the Rhodian law, was adopted into the Roman jurisprudence, and thence entered into the general maritime law.[67] The rule appears to have been adopted into English law without the intervention of any statute.[68] It applies only to shipping.[69] Some authorities assert that it depends upon natural justice and an equity arising out of the relation of the parties, and not upon the contract of carriage,[70] while others hold that it arises out of the contract of affreightment, and that the obligation to contribute is implied by law.[71] The right to contribution rests upon the principle that whatever is sacrificed for the common safety of the associated interests shall be made good by all the interests which were exposed to the common peril, and were saved from the common danger by the sacrifice.[72] But this does not mean that the right is extended to strangers or that the law would not imply a contract for the purpose of a remedy.[73] The spirit and intendment of the law of contribution in general average is to place the persons interested, as near as may be, in the same relative position which they occupied before the peril was met, and this object necessarily involves reciprocity of obligation and right.[74]

2. Common Adventure. The principle of general average is not applied except as between those engaged in a common maritime adventure.[75] A tug towing barges from one port to another is not bound up with them into a single maritime adventure, so as to be subject to the law of general average.[76]

3. Common Peril, Voluntary Sacrifice or Expenditure, and Attainment of Purpose. The three leading elements recognized and enforced by the Roman

66. The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 8 C. C. A. 67.

67. Connecticut.— Slater v. Hayward Rubber Co., 26 Conn. 128.

Kentucky.— Louisville Underwriters v. Pence, 93 Ky. 96, 19 S. W. 10, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 176.

Massachusetts.— Marwick v. Rogers, 163 Mass. 50, 39 N. E. 780, 47 Am. St. Rep. 436; Gage v. Libby, 14 Allen 261.

United States.— McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. 347, 18 L. ed. 155; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. 331, 10 L. ed. 186; The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 8 C. C. A. 67. General average has never been extended beyond the spirit and principles of the Rhodian and Roman laws. Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742.

England.— Burton v. English, 12 Q. B. D. 218, 5 Aspin. 187, 53 L. J. Q. B. 133, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768, 32 Wkly. Rep. 655.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 598.

Part of maritime law.— General average is a part of the maritime, as distinguished from the municipal law. Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742.

68. The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 8 C. C. A. 67.

69. Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742 [reversing 37 Fed. 888]; The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 8 C. C. A. 67.

70. See infra, X, E, 3, a. And see the cases cited infra, this note.

The safety of the property, not the voyage, is the foundation of general average and the question of contribution does not depend on the amount of the damage sustained by the sacrifice of the property. Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186; The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 8 C. C. A. 67.

Effect of insurance.— The right to recover general average is not defeated by the fact that the owner had effected insurance. Price v. Noble, 4 Taunt. 123, 13 Rev. Rep. 566.

71. Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 397-401, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742; Anglo-Argentine Live Stock, etc., Agency v. Temperley Steam Shipping Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 403, 8 Aspin. 595, 4 Com. Cas. 281, 68 L. J. Q. B. 900, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 296, 15 T. L. R. 472, 48 Wkly. Rep. 64; Burton v. English, 12 Q. B. D. 218, 5 Aspin. 187, 53 L. J. Q. B. 133, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768, 32 Wkly. Rep. 655.

72. Meeker v. Klemm, 11 La. Ann. 104; Sonsmith v. The J. P. Donaldson, 21 Fed. 671 [reversed on other grounds in 167 U. S. 599, 17 S. Ct. 951, 42 L. ed. 292].

73. The John Perkins, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,360. See also infra, X, F, 10, a.

74. The Jason, 178 Fed. 414; The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206; Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60; Svensden v. Wallace, 13 Q. B. D. 69, 53 L. J. Q. B. 385, 50 L. T. Rep. N. S. 799 [affirmed in 10 App. Cas. 404, 5 Aspin. 453, 54 L. J. Q. B. 497, 52 L. T. Rep. N. S. 901, 34 Wkly. Rep. 369]; Birkley v. Presgrave, 1 East 220, 6 Rev. Rep. 256, 102 Eng. Reprint 86; Lowndes General Average (4th ed.), pp. 19-24. There are occasional exceptions to this reciprocity of right and obligation, however, as for example in the case of cargo carried on deck, and of passengers' baggage. The Strathdon, supra; Heye v. North German Lloyd, supra. See also infra, X, D, 5, i.

75. The J. P. Donaldson, 167 U. S. 599, 17 S. Ct. 954, 42 L. ed. 292. And see this case below in 21 Fed. 671; The John Perkins, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,360.

76. The J. P. Donaldson, 167 U. S. 599, law as limitations and conditions requisite to a case for average general contribution, and since steadily adhered to by maritime nations,[77] are: (1) That a condition of imminent peril, common to the ship and the cargo existed;[78] (2) that a voluntary sacrifice of property has been made, or an extraordinary expense incurred to avert the peril; a deliberate and intentional act of the master of the vessel or other representative of the joint enterprise in sacrificing a portion of the marine adventure, or in incurring an extraordinary expenditure, for the joint benefit of all interests to avert the peril;[79] (3) that by that sacrifice or expense the safety of the other property has been secured.[80] The expense or consequence of an 17 S. Ct. 951, 42 L. ed. 292 [affirming 19 Fed. 264, and reversing 21 Fed. 671].

77. Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186.

78. Connecticut.— Slater v. Hayward Rubber Co., 26 Conn. 128.

Indiana.— British-American Assur. Co. v. Wilson, 132 Ind. 278, 31 N. E. 938.

Kentucky.— Louisville Underwriters v. Pence, 93 Ky. 96, 19 S. W. 10, 14 Ky. L. Rep 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 176.

Massachusetts.— Whitteridge v. Norris, 6 Mass. 125.

New York.— Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer 400.

Ohio.— Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month. 75.

Pennsylvania.— Nimick v. Holmes, 25 Pa. St. 366, 64 Am. Dec. 710; Sims v. Gurney, 4 Binn. 513.

United States.— Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. 270, 13 L. ed. 417; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Sonsmith v. The J. P. Donaldson, 21 Fed. 671 [reversed on other grounds in 167 U. S. 599, 17 S. Ct. 951, 42 L. ed. 292]; The Congress, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,099, 1 Biss. 42; Delano v. The Gallatin, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,751, 1 Woods 642.

England.— Johnson v. Chapman, 19 C. B. N. S. 563, 35 L. J. C. P. 23, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 70, 14 Wkly. Rep. 264, 115 E. C. L. 563.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 598.

Ship and cargo owned by same person.— As against an insurer a general average act is not affected by the consideration whether there will be a contribution or not. Therefore it is no defense to a claim on the underwriter that the ship and cargo belong to the same person. Montgomery v. Indemnity Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., [1901] 1 K. B. 147, 9 Aspin. 141, 6 Com. Cas. 19, 70 L. J. Q. B. 45, 84 L. T. Rep. N. S. 57, 17 T. L. R. 59, 49 Wkly. Rep. 221 [affirmed in [1902] 1 K. B. 734, 9 Aspin. 289, 7 Com. Cas. 120, 71 L. J. K. B. 467, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 462, 18 T. L. R. 479, 50 Wkly. Rep. 440].

Vessel in ballast.— So the cutting away of the masts, with the consequent damage, are none the less general average charges against the underwriters on the vessel because the vessel was in ballast at the time, and therefore there was neither cargo nor freight to contribute. Greely v. Tremont Ins. Co., 9 Cush. (Mass.) 415.

79. Connecticut.— Slater v. Hayward Rubber Co., 26 Conn. 128.

Indiana.— British American Assur. Co. v. Wilson, 132 Ind. 278, 31 N. E. 938.

Massachusetts.— Greely v. Tremont Ins. Co., 9 Cush. 415; Nickerson v. Tyson, 8 Mass. 467; Whitteridge v. Norris, 6 Mass. 125.

New York.— Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer 400.

North Carolina.— Irving v. Glazier, 4 N. C. 406.

Ohio.— Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month 75.

Pennsylvania.— Nimick v. Holmes, 25 Pa. St. 366, 64 Am. Dec. 710; Meech v. Robinson, 4 Whart. 360, 34 Am. Dec. 514; Sims v. Gurney, 4 Binn. 513.

United States.— Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742 [reversing 37 Fed. 888]; Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. 270, 303, 13 L. ed. 417; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Minneapolis, etc., Steamship Co. v. Manistee Transit Co., 156 Fed. 424; Sonsmith v. The J. P. Donaldson, 21 Fed. 671 [reversed on other grounds in 167 U. S. 599, 17 S. Ct. 951, 42 L. ed. 292]; The Congress, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,099, 1 Biss. 42; Delano v. The Gallatin, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,751, 1 Woods 642; The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,188, 1 Sprague 17; Peters v. Warren Ins. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,034, 1 Story 463; Williams v. Suffolk Ins. Co., 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,739, 3 Sumn. 510.

England.— Iredale v. China Traders' Ins. Co., [1900] 2 Q. B. 515, 9 Aspin. 119, 5 Com. Cas. 337, 69 L. J. Q. B. 738, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 299, 49 Wkly. Rep. 107; Walthew v. Mavrojani, L. R. 5 Exch. 116, 39 L. J. Exch. 81, 22 L. T. Rep. N. S. 310; Johnson v. Chapman, 19 C. B. N. S. 563, 35 L. J. C. P. 23, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 70, 14 Wkly. Rep. 264, 115 E. C. L. 563; The Copenhagen, 1 C. Rob. 289.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 598.

80. Connecticut.— Slater v. Hayward Rubber Co., 26 Conn. 128.

Indiana.— British-American Assur. Co. v. Wilson, 132 Ind. 278, 31 N. E. 938.

New York.— Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer 400.

Ohio.— Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month. 75.

Pennsylvania.— Nimick v. Holmes, 25 Pa. St. 366, 64 Am. Dec. 710; Sims v. Gurney, 4 Binn. 513.

United States.— Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. 270, 13 L. ed. 417; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Sonsmith v. The J. P. Donaldson, 21 Fed. 671 [reversed on other grounds in 167 U. S. 599, 17 S. Ct. 951, 42 L. ed. 292]; Caze v. Reilly, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,538, 3 Wash. 298; The Congress, 6 Fed. Cas. No. 3,099, 1 Biss. 42; act or of a series of acts, or the loss occasioned by such acts, for the benefit of the ship alone, or for the benefit of the cargo alone, is not to be contributed for in general average. The acts must be done for the common good.[81]

C. Ordering General Average Act — 1. Authority to Order. A loss which gives rise to contribution in general average must have resulted from the will and act of the master of the ship, or of some other person charged with the control and protection of the common adventure,[82] and not by the act of a stranger or the interposition of municipal authority without the sanction of the master.[83] When the captain or master determines on the general average act, he is the agent for all parties interested; the emergency makes him their agent.[84]

2. Exercise of Judgment. Ordinarily the course to be pursued rests in the master's sound discretion;[85] if he is a competent master, and an emergency existed calling for a decision whether a sacrifice was required, and if he appears to have arrived at his conclusion with due deliberation, by a fair exercise of his own skill and judgment, with no unreasonable timidity, and with an honest intent

Delano v. The Gallatin, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,751, 1 Woods 642; Roberts v. The Ocean Star, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,908; Williams v. Suffolk Ins. Co., 29 Fed. Cas. No. 17,739, 3 Sumn. 510.

See 44 Cent. Dig. tit. "Shipping," § 598.

The mere fact that an apportionment is made of a loss between the parties in interest does not make it a case of general average if there was no voluntary sacrifice or expense. Peters v. Warren Ins. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,035, 3 Sumn. 389.

The success need not result directly and solely, by logical necessity, from the sacrifice, but must be reasonably contributed to by it, or must be as consistent with it as with any hypothesis that the circumstances will allow. Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 400.

Meaning of "voluntary."— But this does not take out of the case the imminent necessity which impels the resort to the act in order to escape the peril. In other words, while the agency and consent of man must intervene, such agency and consent, although in one sense voluntary, are, upon the whole, involuntary. Sansom v. Ball, 4 Dall. (Pa.) 459, 461, 1 L. ed. 908, where by way of illustration it is said: "When life is at stake the mariner willingly throws gold and diamonds into the sea. But was he willing to encounter the storm which produced this dire necessity? General average always arises from actions produced by necessity."

Intention to destroy not foundation of right.— The right to contribution does not depend on any real or presumed intention to destroy the thing cast away. Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 13 L. ed. 417.

81. Rogers v. Murray, 3 Bosw. (N. Y.) 357; Wightman v. Macadam, 2 Brev. (S. C.) 230; Pacific Mail Steamship Co. v. New York, etc., Min. Co., 74 Fed. 564, 20 C. C. A. 349; Sparks v. Kittredge, 22 Fed. Cas. No. 13,210. See, however, an apparent exception to the rule in the case of vessels in ballast, ante, p. 374 note 78.

Damage to cargo after landing.— In The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,188, 1 Sprague 17, it was held that where the cargo was landed and stored because it was damaged by sea perils, and was destroyed by fire while thus stored, it was not to be paid for in general average. The dictum in the opinion that where cargo is necessarily landed in order to repair the vessel, and while stored it is destroyed by fire, the loss should be made good in general average is not followed in practice.

82. Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742 [reversing 37 Fed. 888].

83. Wamsutta Mills v. Old Colony Steamboat Co., 137 Mass. 471, 50 Am. Rep. 325 (fire extinguished by city fire department without direction of the master, and cargo saved held not liable to contribute); Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742 [reversing 37 Fed. 888] (fire extinguished and ship run aground and scuttled by harbor authorities, and cargo saved held not bound to contribute); Minneapolis, etc., Steamship Co. v. Manistee Transit Co., 156 Fed. 424 (owner of cargo injured by water poured into a burning vessel cannot recover contribution in general average from the vessel where the act was not done by or under the direction of the master, but by the fire department of a city acting on its own authority. If, however, the master or person in charge of the vessel sanctions or participates in any way in the action of local authorities in the putting out of a fire in the vessel or cargo the case is treated, in practice, as one of general average.

84. Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742; Dupont de Nemours v. Vance, 19 How. (U. S.) 162, 15 L. ed. 584; Lawrence v. Minturn, 17 How. (U. S.) 100, 15 L. ed. 58; The John Perkins, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,360; Anglo-Argentine Live Stock, etc., Agency v. Temperley Shipping Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 403, 8 Aspin. 595, 4 Com. Cas. 281, 68 L. J. Q. B. 900, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 296, 15 T. L. R. 472, 48 Wkly. Rep. 64 (where it is said that in doing the act which causes the loss to any one of the parties it must be taken that the others then and there promise to contribute to make it good); Burton v. English, 12 Q. B. D. 218, 5 Aspin. 187, 53 L. J. Q. B. 133, 49 L. T. Rep. N. S. 768, 32 Wkly. Rep. 655.

85. Shepherd v. Kottgen, 2 C. P. D. 578, 583, 3 Aspin. 546 note [citing Corry v. Coulthard].

to do his duty, it is presumed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that his decision was wisely and properly made.[86] There may be a choice of perils when there is no possibility of perfect safety,[87] or where inevitable danger is impending but may be met with different degrees of peril to life or property.[88] Consultation is presumptive proof that the act was voluntary. If it sufficiently appears that the act occasioning the loss was the effect of reasonably sound judgment, it is enough, for in time of imminent danger immediate action may be necessary and delay may render consultation impracticable.[89]

D. Perils, Acts, and Losses Giving Rise to General Average — 1. In General. All losses which arise in consequence of sacrifices made or extraordinary expense incurred for the preservation of the ship and cargo from imminent common peril during the voyage constitute charges in general average, and must be borne proportionately by all the interests which are benefited by them.[90] Sacrifices are often made in specie, as by casting overboard a part of the ship or of her cargo, or by voluntarily stranding both ship and cargo.[91] But the payment by any party in interest of extraordinary expenses, or the appropriation of the ship's appliances to extraordinary use for the safety of the imperiled interests, are equally to be regarded and treated as sacrifices. Extraordinary expenses, in this sense, include all beyond those which the party making the expenditure has undertaken to bear under the contract of affreightment.[92] The danger encountered by the election of the master may be either of a different kind from the danger avoided, or of the same kind; but it must not be the very same danger, merely modified by acts of the master in the performance of his ordinary duty in the navigation or management of the vessel, so as to diminish its effects.[93] And the question as respects general average is not, what was the extent of the danger, supposing the sacrifice to have been made, but what would the danger have been if the sacrifice had not been made.[94]

86. The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638. But see Nine Hundred and Twenty-Eight Barrels of Salt, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,272, 2 Biss. 319.

Mistake as to nature of danger.—Where a vessel's fore peak suddenly filled with water, which was believed by the master and officers to come from a hole below the water line, endangering the safety of ship and cargo, and they thereupon opened the sluices to the next compartment, knowing that goods therein would necessarily be damaged, in order to discover and repair the leak, it was held that this was a case for general average, although the leak turned out to be in the hawse pipe, and was easily repaired, and the voyage continued. The Wordsworth, 88 Fed. 313.

87. The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638; Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 129 Fed. 1006, 64 C. C. A. 610 [affirming 118 Fed. 307]. See also infra, X, D, 5, h.

88. Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Rea v. Cutler, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,599, 1 Sprague 135.

89. Sims v. Gurney, 4 Binn. (Pa.) 513; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186.

90. Sansom v. Ball, 4 Dall. (Pa.) 459, 1 L. ed. 908; U. S. v. Cornell Steamboat Co., 202 U. S. 184, 26 S. Ct. 648, 50 L. ed. 987; Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 395, 39 L. ed. 742; McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 347, 348, 366, 18 L. ed. 155; Birkley v. Presgrave, 1 East 219, 6 Rev. Rep. 256, 102 Eng. Reprint 86.

91. The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638; Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. New Haven Security Ins. Co., 129 Fed. 1006, 64 C. C. A. 610.

92. Providence, etc., Steamship Co. v. Phœnix Ins. Co., 89 N. Y. 559; Watson v. Marine Ins. Co., 7 Johns. (N. Y.) 57; Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742; McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 347, 348, 366, 18 L. ed. 155; International Nav. Co. v. Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co., 100 Fed. 304; Hurlbut v. Turnure, 76 Fed. 587 [affirmed in 81 Fed. 208, 26 C. C. A. 335]; Robinson v. Price, 2 Q. B. D. 91, 46 L. J. Q. B. 22, 35 L. T. Rep. N. S. 806, 25 Wkly. Rep. 112 [affirmed in 2 Q. B. D. 295, 3 Aspin. 407, 46 L. J. Q. B. 551, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 354, 25 Wkly. Rep. 469]; The Bona, [1895] P. 125, 7 Aspin. 557, 64 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 62, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 870, 11 Reports 707, 43 Wkly. Rep. 290; Birkley v. Presgrave, 1 East 220, 6 Rev. Rep. 256, 102 Eng. Reprint 86.

93. Emery v. Huntington, 109 Mass. 431, 12 Am. Rep. 725; Meech v. Robinson, 4 Whart. (Pa.) 360, 34 Am. Dec. 523; The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638.

94. Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 705, 2 L. R. A. 287]; Stewart v. West India, etc., Steamship Co., L. R. 8 Q. B. 88, 42 L. J. Q. B. 84, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 820, 21 Wkly. Rep. 381 [affirmed

2. Duty to Make Vessel Seaworthy. The ship-owner cannot maintain a claim for contribution to sacrifices or expenses which result from unseaworthiness of his vessel.[95] It is his duty to have the vessel seaworthy when she breaks ground for the voyage, and expenses arising from a breach of that duty, although made necessary by some harbor peril causing damage in loading, cannot be made a general average charge against the cargo.[96]

3. Perils and Losses Arising From Fault or Negligence. No one is entitled to a contribution on general average, if the danger, to avert which the sacrifice was made, has arisen from a fault for which the claimant has made himself, or is made by law responsible to the co-contributors.[97] Under this principle the owner of the ship is not entitled to a general average contribution, apart from contract, where the loss is occasioned by the fault of the master or crew.[98] But if the fault which makes the sacrifice necessary is excepted under the contract of carriage, and the exception is valid and enforceable, a contribution can be claimed as though no fault had been committed.[99] If the ship is unseaworthy at the inception of the voyage the ship-owner is not entitled to contribution in general average on account of sacrifices made necessary by reason of such condition when she encounters the perils of the sea.[1] Unseaworthiness does not, however, relieve the cargo from the duty to contribute to sacrifices that do not arise from the

in L. R. 1 Q. B. 362, 1 Aspin. 528, 42 L. J. Q. B. 191, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 742, 21 Wkly. Rep. 953].

95. Hurlbut v. Turnure, 76 Fed. 587 [affirmed in 81 Fed. 208, 26 C. C. A. 335]; Gardner v. One Thousand Four Hundred and Sixty-Seven Bales of Cotton, 20 Fed. 529.

96. Bowring v. Thebaud, 42 Fed. 794 [affirmed in 56 Fed. 520, 5 C. C. A. 640]. See also infra, X, D, 3.

97. Wilson v. Cross, 33 Cal. 60; The Irrawaddy, 171 U. S. 187, 18 S. Ct. 831, 43 L. ed. 130; The Nicanor, 44 Fed. 504; The Governor Carey, 10 Fed. Cas. No. 5,645*a*, 2 Hask. 487; Strang v. Scott, 14 App. Cas. 601, 6 Aspin. 419, 59 L. J. P. C. 1, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 597, 38 Wkly. Rep. 452.

Port of refuge expenses in such cases are chargeable to the ship. Hurlbut v. Turnure, 81 Fed. 208, 26 C. C. A. 335 [affirming 76 Fed. 587] (failure to take sufficient supply of coal); Grace r. The Mauna Loa, 76 Fed. 829; Gardner v. One Thousand Four Hundred and Sixty-Seven Bales of Cotton, 20 Fed. 529 (taking vessel into port and charges those of discharging, storing, and reshipping cargo, the vessel being unseaworthy when she started on her voyage).

98. Berry Coal, etc., Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 214, 92 S. W. 714; The Irrawaddy, 171 U. S. 187, 18 S. Ct. 831, 43 L. ed. 130; Tarabochia v. American Sugar Refining Co., 135 Fed. 424 (error or negligence of mate in overrunning course); Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226.

Stranding.— If the stranding of a vessel is due to negligence of the owner or in navigation, the owner cannot have contribution in general average. Trindad Shipping, etc., Co. v. Frame, etc., Co., 88 Fed. 528 (holding that a steamship company which directs its steamers to skirt the Windward Islands for the entertainment of passengers, but fails to supply the vessel with proper charts, is itself in fault for a stranding from going too close inshore, and is not entitled to general average contribution from the cargo); Snow r. Perkins, 39 Fed. 334 (stranding necessitated by negligence). See also The Jason, 178 Fed. 414.

Effect of contract see infra, X, E, 3.

99. England.— Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 373*b*; Milburn v. Jamaica Fruit Importing, etc., Co., [1900] 2 Q. B. 540, 9 Aspin. 122, 5 Com. Cas. 346, 69 L. J. Q. B. 860, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 321, 16 T. L. R. 515.

France.— Le Normand v. La Compagne, etc., 1 Dalloz 479; Crowley v. Saint Frères, 10 Rev. Int. Dr. Mar. 147.

Germany.— Navire Rossija, 21 Rev. Int. Dr. Mar. 215.

Italy.— Compagne, etc. v. De Giovanni, 21 Rev. Int. Dr. Mar. 689.

Belgium.— Navire Llansannor, 22 Rev. Int. Dr. Mar. 534.

The circuit court of appeals for the second circuit held that a specific agreement to pay general average even though the sacrifices should be occasioned by negligence in the navigation of the vessel was unenforceable where the vessel was used as a general ship; but on a reargument certified the question to the supreme court of the United States for decision. The Jason, 178 Fed. 414.

1. Wilson v. Cross, 33 Cal. 60; Berry Coal, etc., Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 116 Mo. App. 214, 92 S. W. 714; Irving v. Glazier, 4 N. C. 406 (where a vessel capsized in a sudden flaw of wind because it was not provided with shifting boards necessary to its safety); Hurlbut v. Turnure, 81 Fed. 208, 26 C. C. A. 335 [affirming 76 Fed. 587]; Schloss v. Heriot, 14 C. B. N. S. 59, 10 Jur. N. S. 76, 32 L. J. C. P. 211, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 246, 11 Wkly. Rep. 596, 108 E. C. L. 59.

If she is competent to encounter ordinary perils of the sea the vessel is not unseaworthy. Fitzpatrick v. Eight Hundred Bales of Cotton, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,843, 3 Ben. 42 [affirmed in 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,319, 8 Blatchf. 221].

Question of fact.— The question of sea-unseaworthiness.[2] Under the provision of the Harter Act relieving a ship-owner, when he has exercised due diligence to make his vessel seaworthy, from responsibility for damage or loss resulting from faults or errors in navigation or in the management of the vessel, a ship-owner is not permitted, apart from contract, to claim in an action brought by himself a general average contribution to meet his own losses occasioned by faults in the navigation and management of the ship.[3] But where a cargo owner institutes an action to recover a general average contribution it has been held that since the statute prevents a recovery of damages based upon the alleged negligence of the ship-owner, the cargo owner may not derive any benefit from such alleged negligence, and that under the usual rule of reciprocity of right and obligation the adjustment should be made as if there were no negligence in the case.[4] The negligent navigation of the master cannot in any event afford a pretext for depriving those shippers whose goods have been sacrificed of their claim to a general average contribution from other shippers. They are not privy to the master's acts, and are under no duty, legal or moral, to make a gratuitous sacrifice of their goods, for the sake of others, in order to avert the consequences of his fault.[5] Under the rule that fault bars a claim worthiness is one of fact. Sherwood v. Ruggles, 2 Sandf. (N. Y.) 55; Broadnax v. Cheraw, etc., R. Co., 157 Pa. St. 140, 27 Atl. 412.

2. Hurlbut v. Turnure, 76 Fed. 587 [affirmed in 81 Fed. 208, 26 C. C. A. 335]. See also Strang v. Scott, 14 App. Cas. 601, 6 Aspin. 419, 59 L. J. P. C. 1, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 597, 38 Wkly. Rep. 452; The Europa, [1908] P. 84, 11 Aspin. 19, 77 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 26, 98 L. T. Rep. N. S. 246, 24 T. L. R. 151; Schloss v. Heriot, 14 C. B. N. S. 59, 10 Jur. N. S. 76, 32 L. J. C. P. 211, 8 L. T. Rep. N. S. 240, 11 Wkly. Rep. 596, 108 E. C. L. 59; Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 177.

3. The Irrawaddy, 171 U. S. 187, 18 S. Ct. 831, 43 L. ed. 130 (where it is held that in determining the effect of the Harter Act in this respect, the proper course is to treat the settled principles as still existing and to limit the relief from their operation to that called for by the express language of the statute); Tarabochia v. American Sugar Refining Co., 135 Fed. 424; Trinidad Shipping, etc., Co. v. Frame, etc., Co., 88 Fed. 528.

4. The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206 [affirmed in 101 Fed. 600, 41 C. C. A. 515]. Compare The Jason, 178 Fed. 414, holding that there can be no recovery in general average in such case.

In the later case of The Jason, 178 Fed. 414, the same court apparently reached the conclusion that the better and more logical rule is that where the ship-owner is relieved by the Harter Act from liability for the disaster which occasions the sacrifice, as for example a stranding, the cargo owner is debarred from recovering anything from the ship-owner indirectly through the medium of a general average contribution for sacrifices occasioned by it. On reargument, however, this question was certified to the Supreme Court for decision.

Under English limited liability laws.— In The Ettrick, 6 P. D. 127, 4 Aspin. 465, 45 L. T. Rep. N. S. 399, where the ship-owner claimed the benefit of a general average contribution rendered necessary by reason of negligence in navigation, and put his claim on the ground that, having availed himself of the limited liability laws by paying into court the £8 a ton, which is the limitation fixed by the statutes of Great Britain, he was thereby relieved from his liability on account of the negligence in the navigation, and stood in the position of an innocent party entitled to share in the contribution, his claim was not allowed, the court of appeals, Sir George Jessel, M. R., saying: "I cannot read the Act so. All that it says is that he shall not be answerable in damages for any greater amount. It does not make his acts right if they were previously wrongful. It does not give him any new rights as far as I can see. . . . It seems to me he would have no such right, for the statute does not destroy the effect of all that had been done, as it simply diminishes or limits the liability in damages."

5. Pacific Mail Steamship Co. v. New York, etc., Min. Co., 74 Fed. 564, 20 C. C. A. 349 [citing The Carron Park, 15 P. D. 203, 6 Aspin. 543, 59 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 74, 63 L. T. Rep. N. S. 356, 39 Wkly. Rep. 191, to the same effect]; Strang v. Scott, 14 App. Cas. 601, 6 Aspin. 419, 59 L. J. P. C. 1, 61 L. T. Rep. N. S. 597, 38 Wkly. Rep. 452.

The earlier view seems to have been that in such case the sacrifice was not the subject of general average in any event. See The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206; Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 373*a*.

After the Harter Act.— Since the cargo owner has his action even if the carrier is free from negligence, it follows that the owner's negligence does not protect him from an action for contribution by the cargo owner. The Strathdon, 94 Fed. 206, where it is said by Judge Thomas that if it were otherwise it would be better to be negligent than unoffending. See, however, the contrary view of the court of appeals in The Jason, 178 Fed. 414.

Effect of limited liability proceeding.— Where a general average loss was incurred through a danger caused by the negligence of for contribution it has been held that a cargo owner cannot recover contribution for sacrifices made necessary by the wrongful shipment of cargo in an improper condition.[6] This doctrine does not apply, however, to cases where sacrifices have been made to extinguish fires arising from the spontaneous condition of cargo owing to its well-known inherent quality, provided there has been no neglect in the preparation of it for shipment.[7]

4. Condition of and Particular Danger to Property Sacrificed. In order to justify an allowance in general average, it is not necessary that the particular property sacrificed should have been exposed to greater danger by encountering the loss than it would otherwise have been,[8] nor does it make any difference that the danger was greatest to the property cast away.[9] But there is some discord in the authorities as to the extent of this rule. Cases may be found which attempt to qualify the rule, and assert that where the situation of the ship was such that the whole adventure would certainly and unavoidably have been lost, if the sacrifice in question had not been made, the party making it cannot claim to be compensated by the other interests, because a thing cannot be regarded as having been sacrificed which had already ceased to have any value.[10] According to the best considered cases, however, the right to contribution is denied only in those circumstances in which the property sacrificed must inevitably,[11] or at least in all reasonable probability,[12] have been lost, not through the common peril, but owing to some situation or condition peculiar to itself, and independent of the peril, and whether the vessel and the rest of the cargo survive or not.[13] But if the special danger is only a circumstance in the common peril the master, and the proceeds of the vessel, in proceedings for limitation of liability, were distributed among the cargo owners, on a subsequent adjustment in general average, cargo owners who had filed claims in the limited liability proceedings were held entitled, with the others, to the benefit of the adjustment. Pacific Mail Steamship Co. v. New York, etc., Min. Co., 74 Fed. 564, 20 C. C. A. 349.

6. The Wm. J. Quillan, 175 Fed. 207; Pirie v. Middle Dock Co., 4 Aspin. 388, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 426; Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 366.

7. Greenshields v. Stephens, [1908] 1 K. B. 51, 10 Aspin. 597, 13 Com. Cas. 91, 77 L. J. K. B. 124, 98 L. T. Rep. N. S. 89, 52 Sol. J. 727 [affirmed in [1908] A. C. 431, 11 Aspin. 167, 14 Com. Cas. 41, 77 L. J. K. B. 985, 99 L. T. Rep. N. S. 597, 24 T. L. R. 880. And see the opinion of Adams, J., on exceptions in The Wm. J. Quillan, 168 Fed. 407. In a later case the right to contribution was denied on a trial of the merits. The Wm. J. Quillan, 175 Fed. 207.

8. Greely v. Tremont Ins. Co., 9 Cush. (Mass.) 415; Reynolds v. Ocean Ins. Co., 22 Pick. (Mass.) 191, 33 Am. Dec. 727; Sims v. Gurney, 4 Binn. (Pa.) 513.

9. The Margarethe Blanca, 12 Fed. 728 [affirmed in 14 Fed. 59].

But as to deck cargo see infra, X, D, 5, i, (II).

A forcible illustration of this principle is given in Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 305, 13 L. ed. 417: "If a cargo of cotton, about to be captured or sunk, be thrown overboard in part or in whole, and the ship thus saved, the fact that the cotton floated to the shore and was saved, and therefore was in a better condition by being cast away than if it had remained to be captured or sunk, cannot affect its right to contribution, though it may diminish its amount."

10. Crockett v. Dodge, 12 Me. 190, 28 Am. Dec. 170 (jettison); The Adele Thackera, 24 Fed. 809 (where lumber on deck was washed overboard in a gale, some of it remaining attached to the vessel by its lashings being cut loose, it was held that the part so cut loose was of no pecuniary value in its then condition and the loss was not a general average one).

11. The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638 (holding that contribution is proper unless it appears that the thing itself for which contribution is claimed was so situated that it could not possibly have been saved, and that its sacrifice did not contribute to the safety of the crew, ship, or cargo); Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 13 L. ed. 417; Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 705, 2 L. R. A. 287]; Sonsmith v. The J. P. Donaldson, 21 Fed. 671, 19 Fed. 264, 167 U. S. 599, 17 S. Ct. 951, 42 L. ed. 292 (jettison); The Margarethe Blanca, 12 Fed. 728 [affirmed in 14 Fed. 59] (jettison of part of cargo displaced by storm); Johnson v. Chapman, 19 C. B. N. S. 563, 35 L. J. C. P. 23, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S 70, 14 Wkly. Rep. 264, 115 E. C. L. 563.

12. Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 705, 2 L. R. A. 287].

13. Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 705, 2 L. R. A. 287]; Shepherd v. Kottgen, 2 C. P. D. 585, 3 Aspin. 544, 47 L. J. C. P. 67, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 618, 26 Wkly. Rep. 120, which cases hold that in the contingency mentioned in the text the destruction cannot be called a sacrifice.

The sacrifice of property on fire which is the cause of the peril to the vessel and cargo and the sacrifice had been made in saving the balance of the venture from the common peril, contribution is allowed.[14]

5. Sacrifice or Extraordinary Expense — a. In General. Losses or damages arising from ordinary perils of the voyage do not give rise to claims in general average. The general rule requires that there shall be an intentional and voluntary sacrifice to avoid a common peril,[15] and that loss without design and as a mere incident of the voyage, as where a ship is injured or disabled in a storm, without any voluntary sacrifice,[16] or founders or is shipwrecked, without design is not is not a general average loss. Slater v. Hayward Rubber Co., 26 Conn. 128 (goods on fire thrown overboard, being themselves certain to be consumed, the court holding that the goods had ceased to be of value unless the fire upon them could be extinguished by the water, and that could be done only by casting them into it, as was in fact done, and that they were thrown overboard not from choice but that they might be saved from themselves); Crockett v. Dodge, 12 Me. 190, 28 Am. Dec. 170 (where a vessel laden with lime which was on fire was scuttled so that the lime was destroyed at once but the ship was saved, the ship was held not liable to contribute to the lime as it was certain to be lost in any event); Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 400 (cutting away masts which had accidentally caught fire); Iredale v. China Traders Ins. Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 356, 4 Com. Cas. 256, 68 L. J. Q. B. 1021, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 231, 15 T. L. R. 460, 48 Wkly. Rep. 48 [affirmed in [1900] 2 Q. B. 515, 9 Aspin. 119, 5 Com. Cas. 337, 69 L. J. Q. B. 783, 83 L. T. Rep. N. S. 299, 16 T. L. R. 484, 49 Wkly. Rep. 107] (where it was held that putting into a port of refuge and unloading a cargo of coal which had become so heated that it could not be safely carried to destination, was not a sacrifice of freight, as owing to the condition of the cargo the freight would inevitably have been lost, and nothing of value therefore was sacrificed); Pirie v. Middle Dock Co., 4 Aspin. 388, 44 L. T. Rep. N. S. 426.

14. See the cases cited supra, note 11.

Where property that has been displaced by a storm, although valuable and capable of being saved if the storm abates, is, from its position, an especial source of danger to the vessel, its sacrifice in order to save the vessel is a voluntary sacrifice, and its loss the subject of general average. May v. Keystone Yellow Pine Co., 117 Fed. 287; The Margarethe Blanca, 12 Fed. 728 [affirmed in 14 Fed. 59].

Cutting away masts, etc.— In general.— In Shepherd v. Kottgen, 2 C. P. D. 585, 3 Aspin. 544, 47 L. J. C. P. 67, 37 L. T. Rep. N. S. 618, 26 Wkly. Rep. 120 [distinguishing Corry v. Coulthard (cited in Shepherd v. Kottgen, 3 Aspin. 546 note, 2 C. P. D. 578, 583), in that there it was found that the mast could have been saved] the mainmast, before the giving way of the rigging in a heavy gale, was lurching dangerously, and liable to cause the ship to founder; it would not break, and was therefore cut away. The jury found that the mainmast, in its condition immediately before it was cut away, was "hopelessly lost," that is, lost whether the vessel survived the gale or not, and it was held to be no sacrifice. So it has been held that where the master of a vessel, which was dragging her anchors toward the shore, cut away the masts, to prevent her drifting, and thereupon she brought up, but after about an hour she drifted again, and was wrecked upon the shore, the cargo which was saved was not liable, in general average, for the value of the masts. Scudder v. Bradford, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 13, 25 Am. Dec. 355. But where the master, to prevent the vessel from being lost, cuts away a mast in the belief that it is already a hopeless wreck, there is a general average sacrifice, if such belief proves to have been unfounded. Montgomery v. Indemnity Mut. Mar. Ins. Co., [1901] 1 Q. B. 147, 9 Aspin. 141, 6 Com. Cas. 19, 70 L. J. Q. B. 45, 84 L. T. Rep. N. S. 57, 17 T. L. R. 59, 49 Wkly. Rep. 221 [affirmed in [1902] 1 K. B. 734, 9 Aspin. 289, 7 Com. Cas. 120, 71 L. J. K. B. 467, 86 L. T. Rep. N. S. 462, 18 T. L. R. 479, 50 Wkly. Rep. 440, and distinguishing Shepherd v. Kottgen, supra].

Where the vessel's spars are broken, or its sails, spars, etc., are forced overboard, by the violence of a storm, and lay alongside pounding against the vessel, thus furnishing an especial source of danger, cutting them adrift is a general average act. Teetzman v. Clamageran, 2 La. 195, 22 Am. Dec. 127; The Mary Gibbs, 22 Fed. 463; The Margarethe Blanca, 14 Fed. 59 [affirming 12 Fed. 728]. So where the rudder of a ship partly torn loose in a gale is cut away to prevent its pounding a hole in the ship. May v. Keystone Yellow Pine Co., 117 Fed. 287. But on the other hand it has been considered that while all of such cumber cut loose cannot as a matter of law be said to be wreck, yet if it was virtually lost and not recoverable, if the act of cutting the rope was only hastening the moment at which it would be lost, it would properly be called wreck, and not the subject of general average; but if, instead of cutting away what is virtually lost, only a portion of what is still on board and safe, except for the common danger, is cut away, for instance, a mast or bowsprit, for the purpose of facilitating the getting rid of the wreck which is only encumbering the vessel, general average in respect of the portion so cut away is proper because that was sacrificed. Johnson v. Chapman, 19 C. B. N. S. 563, 35 L. J. C. P. 23, 15 L. T. Rep. N. S. 70, 14 Wkly. Rep. 264, 115 E. C. L. 563. See also Nickerson v. Tyson, 8 Mass. 467.

15. See supra, X, B, 3.

16. Hassam v. St. Louis Perpetual Ins. Co., 7 La. Ann. 11, 56 Am. Dec. 591; Shiff v.

the subject of general average.[17] Losses which give rise to a claim in general average are usually divided into two classes: (1) Those which arise from sacrifice of part of the ship or cargo; (2) those which arise from extraordinary expenses incurred for the common safety of ship, cargo, and freight.[18] There need be no design, however, to destroy or sacrifice any particular property. It is enough that there be a general design to pursue a particular course for the common safety, which results in loss. The design need not be to destroy specially selected property; in many cases it is to save the very property which is lost,[19] as is shown by the instances of goods exposed in barges to float a stranded ship and lost in consequence;[20] or of goods brought upon deck in order to get at others for the purpose of a jactus, and washed overboard, etc.[21]

b. Property Sacrificed — No Distinction Between Ship and Cargo. The Roman law does not proceed on any distinction as to the property sacrificed, whether it be ship or cargo, a part or the whole; but solely on the ground that the sacrifice is voluntary, to avert an imminent peril; and that it is in the event successful, by accomplishing that purpose.[22] The right to general average extends to the loss of the ship, when the cargo is saved in whole or in part, as well as to the loss of the cargo when the ship is saved.[23]

Louisiana State Ins. Co., 6 Mart. N. S. (La.) 629 (damage occasioned by carrying a press of sail); Sims v. Gurney, 4 Binn. (Pa.) 513; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Taylor v. Curtis, 4 Campb. 337, Holt N. P. 192, 3 E. C. L. 82, 2 Marsh. 309, 6 Taunt. 608, 1 E. C. L. 776, 16 Rev. Rep. 686 (damage sustained by a ship, and the cost of powder and shot used in defending an attack by a privateer); Rathbone v. Fowler, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,584, 6 Blatchf. 294 [affirmed in 12 Wall. (U. S.) 102, 20 L. ed. 281] (damage to vessel caused by swelling of linseed in cargo by being wet by water coming in through holes made in the vessel by ice in the bay); Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226; Power v. Whitmore, 4 M. & S. 141, 16 Rev. Rep. 416, 105 Eng. Reprint 787 (damage to the ship caused by the carrying of a press of sail to keep off a lee shore).

17. Minnesota Min. Co. v. Chapman, 2 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 207, 2 West. L. Month. 75 (holding that an owner of a vessel destroyed by accidental fire is not entitled to a contribution in the nature of a general average toward the expense of raising, with the hulk of such vessel, a quantity of copper which was on board as part of the cargo); Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186.

18. The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638; McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 347, 18 L. ed. 155; Anglo-Argentine Live Stock, etc., Agency v. Temperley Shipping Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 403, 8 Aspin. 595, 4 Com. Cas. 281, 68 L. J. Q. B. 900, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 296, 15 T. L. R. 472, 48 Wkly. Rep. 64.

19. Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 13 L. ed. 417; The Roanoke, 46 Fed. 297; Caze v. Reilly, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,538, 3 Wash. 298; Atwood v. Sellar, 5 Q. B. D. 286, 4 Aspin. 283, 49 L. J. Q. B. 515, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 644, 28 Wkly. Rep. 604.

20. See infra, X, D, 5, h.

21. See infra, X, D, 5, i.

22. Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186.

Loss of tackle.—An action lies by a shipowner to recover from the owner of the cargo his proportion of general average loss incurred by sacrificing the tackle belonging to the ship for an unusual purpose, or on an extraordinary occasion of danger, for the benefit of the whole concern. Birkley v. Presgrave, 1 East 220, 6 Rev. Rep. 256, 102 Eng. Reprint 86.

Extraordinary use of machinery.—The same rule applies in case of damage due to the extraordinary use of the engines and of fuel, in removing a vessel from a strand. The Bona, [1895] P. 125, 7 Aspin. 557, 64 L. J. P. D. & Adm. 62, 71 L. T. Rep. N. S. 870, 11 Reports 707, 43 Wkly. Rep. 290. See also supra, X, D, 4.

Spars used for fuel.—Where a ship met with very heavy weather and sprang a leak, and in order to keep her afloat it became necessary to use the engine for pumping, and the coals running short, the captain burnt with the coals the ship's spare spars and some of her cargo, it was held that the sacrifice of the spars and cargo was general average. Robinson v. Price, 2 Q. B. D. 295, 3 Aspin. 407, 46 L. J. Q. B. 551, 36 L. T. Rep. N. S. 354, 25 Wkly. Rep. 469.

Cargo used for fuel.—Where a ship failed to take the customary supply of coal for the voyage, and encountered a hurricane which protracted the voyage so that she was obliged to burn ship's materials and cargo, she must bear, as particular average, the loss of such materials during the time the coal she ought to have taken would have lasted, and the residue of the loss of such material is chargeable to the hurricane alone, and constitutes a general average charge. Hurlbut v. Turnure, 76 Fed. 587 [affirmed in 81 Fed. 208, 26 C. C. A. 335].

23. McLoons v. Cummings, 73 Pa. St. 98; Gray v. Waln, 2 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 229, 7 Am. Dec. 642; Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 13 L. ed. 417.

c. Baggage. Loss of or injury to passengers' baggage is the proper subject of contribution in general average,[24] although such baggage does not contribute.[25]

d. Consequential Damage Resulting From Acts of Sacrifice. General average comprises not only the damage purposely done to ship and cargo, by the sacrificial act, but also all damages or expenses which were to be foreseen as the natural consequence of the first sacrifice, since those unmistakably form part of that which was given for the common safety; and also all damage or expense which, although not to be foreseen, stands to the sacrifice in the relation of effect to cause, or, in other words, was a necessary consequence of it.[26] When a voluntary act intervenes, which in itself is a cause of loss, such act being substituted for the original danger of loss with a design of averting it, the substituted act should be regarded as the proximate cause for general average purposes;[27] but it is otherwise as to those losses or expenses which, although they would not have occurred but for the sacrifice, yet likewise would not have occurred but for some intervening act or cause.[28]

e. Collision. Damage sustained by collision is not ordinarily a subject for general average contribution.[29] A sacrifice made by one vessel to avoid collision

24. Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 705, 2 L. R. A. 287].

25. See infra, X, E, 1.

26. Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 400; Nelson v. Belmont, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 310 [affirmed in 21 N. Y. 36] (which cases are as to the damage to the ship by the swelling of the cargo on account of water let in); Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 129 Fed. 1006, 64 C. C. A. 610 [affirming 118 Fed. 307]; Anglo-Argentine Live Stock, etc., Agency v. Temperley Shipping Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 403, 8 Aspin. 595, 4 Com. Cas. 281, 68 L. J. Q. B. 900, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 296, 15 T. L. R. 472, 48 Wkly. Rep. 64 [quoting Ulrich Grosse-Haverei, p. 5]; McCall v. Houlder, 66 L. J. Q. B. 408, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 469 (damage to cargo by water which was taken in the ship to tip her into a tank in order to tip the ship so as to repair the propeller at a port of refuge, and which passed from the tank into the hold through an accidental break in a pipe that the master did not know of but feared the possibility of); Atwood v. Sellar, 5 Q. B. D. 286, 4 Aspin. 283, 49 L. J. Q. B. 515, 42 L. T. Rep. N. S. 644, 28 Wkly. Rep. 604.

Damage by cutting away masts.— Damage to the cargo caused by cutting away a mast for safety of the ship and cargo must be included in a general contribution. Maggrath v. Church, 1 Cai. (N. Y.) 196, 2 Am. Dec. 173; The Mary, 16 Fed. Cas. No. 9,188, 1 Sprague 17, where the deck was ripped up by the cutting away of the masts, and water entered and injured the cargo. So damage to the ship by the falling of spars which are cut away. Patten v. Darling, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,812, 1 Cliff. 254.

Loss on sale of live stock due to deviation to a port of refuge.—Where a cargo of live stock was shipped under a contract providing that the steamer should not call at Brazilian ports before landing, and that average, if any, should be adjusted according to the York-Antwerp rules, and on the voyage the vessel sprang a leak, and for safety the captain put into a Brazilian port for repairs, and the landing of the stock at its destination was rendered impossible under the foreign animals order, prohibiting the landing of animals if the steamer conveying them had touched at a Brazilian port, and they were sent on to Antwerp and there sold at a less price than they would have realized at the port of their destination, and plaintiffs also incurred expense in respect to extra wages for their cattlemen and the cost of feed and water while at the Brazilian port, it was held that putting into such port was a general average act, and the loss on the sale of the live stock, and the extraordinary expenses being direct consequences of such act, were admissible in general average. Anglo-Argentine Live Stock, etc., Agency v. Temperley Shipping Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 403, 8 Aspin. 595, 4 Com. Cas. 281, 68 L. J. Q. B. 900, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 296, 15 T. L. R. 472, 48 Wkly. Rep. 64.

Damage to ice cargo by delay and by opening hold of ship for the purpose of making repairs is held to be the subject of general average allowance. Libby v. Gage, 14 Allen (Mass.) 261.

Where incipient decay was increased by removal of perishable fruit for the purpose of repairing the vessel, and the fruit was entirely lost, it was held that the loss was not caused by removal, and was not general average. Bond v. The Superb, 3 Fed. Cas. No. 1,624, 1 Wall. Jr. 355.

27. Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 129 Fed. 1006, 64 C. C. A. 610 [affirming 118 Fed. 307].

28. Anglo-Argentine Live Stock, etc., Agency v. Temperley Shipping Co., [1899] 2 Q. B. 403, 8 Aspin. 595, 4 Com. Cas. 281, 68 L. J. Q. B. 900, 81 L. T. Rep. N. S. 296, 15 T. L. R. 472, 48 Wkly. Rep. 64 [quoting Ulrich Grosse-Haverei, p. 5].

29. Emery v. Huntington, 109 Mass. 431, 12 Am. Rep. 725 (where a sailing vessel, in order to lessen the danger of an inevitable collision with a steamer, ran into the steamer); Peters v. Warren Ins. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,035, 3 Sumn. 389 (although the loss has been apportioned between the parties); Peters with another does not give rise to a claim for contribution from the other, as both are not engaged in a common adventure.[30]

f. Fire and Water Damage. Damage done by water,[31] or by steam,[32] or by scuttling the ship,[33] in order to extinguish a fire, is the subject of contribution in general average.[34] Flooding a compartment to extinguish fire is to be considered as equivalent pro tanto to scuttling a ship without compartments for the same purpose. All water damage so caused is generally treated as analogous to scuttling, and is for that reason entitled to contribution.[35] But damage caused by fire[36] or smoke[37] is not allowed in general average. And likewise injury to that part

v. Warren Ins. Co., 19 Fed. Cas. No. 11,034, 1 Story 463.

30. The John Perkins, 13 Fed. Cas. No. 7,360.

31. Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 400; Nelson v. Belmont, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 310 [affirmed in 21 N. Y. 36]; Nimick v. Holmes, 25 Pa. St. 366, 64 Am. Dec. 710; Reliance Mar. Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 77 Fed. 317, 23 C. C. A. 183 [affirming 70 Fed. 262]; The Roanoke, 59 Fed. 161, 8 C. C. A. 67; Deming v. The Rapid Transit, 52 Fed. 320; Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 705, 2 L. R. A. 287] (citing Gourlie Gen. Av. 160–164; Desjardin Traite de Droit Com. Mar. §§ 994, 995; Valroger Droit Mar. § 2047); Whitecross Wire, etc., Co. v. Savill, 8 Q. B. D. 653, 4 Aspin. 531, 51 L. J. Q. B. 426, 46 L. T. Rep. N. S. 643, 30 Wkly. Rep. 588; Stewart v. West India, etc., Steamship Co., L. R. 8 Q. B. 88, 42 L. J. Q. B. 84, 27 L. T. Rep. N. S. 820, 21 Wkly. Rep. 381 [affirmed in L. R. 8 Q. B. 362, 1 Aspin. 528, 42 L. J. Q. B. 191, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 742, 21 Wkly. Rep. 953]. Contra, The Buckeye, 4 Fed. Cas. No. 2,084, 7 Biss. 23.

32. Reliance Mar. Co. v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 77 Fed. 317, 23 C. C. A. 183 [affirming 70 Fed. 262].

33. Achard v. Ring, 2 Aspin. 422, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 647.

British custom as affecting such loss.— Under a bill of lading by which average, if any, was to be adjusted according to British custom, the shipper made the practice of British average adjusters a part of the contract, and it being found that by such practice damage to cargo by admitting water to extinguish a fire was not a general average loss, the shipper was bound and was not entitled to contribution in general average, although by the general law such loss was general average. Stewart v. West India, etc., Steamship Co., L. R. 8 Q. B. 362, 1 Aspin. 528, 42 L. J. Q. B. 191, 28 L. T. Rep. N. S. 742, 21 Wkly. Rep. 953.

The rule of practice referred to was changed after the decision. Lowndes General Average (4th ed.), p. 71. The rule in England is now the same as in the United States. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 390. In Achard v. Ring, 2 Aspin. 422, 31 L. T. Rep. N. S. 647, a charter-party provided that "all questions of general average to be settled according to the custom of the London underwriters at Lloyds," and the ship having been scuttled to extinguish a fire, the question of the existence of a custom excluding from general average the loss by reason of damage to the cargo was submitted to the jury, found not to exist, and the claim allowed.

34. Lowndes General Average (4th ed.), p. 68; Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 390. And see Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742. The rule does not, however, apply to damage caused by scuttling a ship to extinguish fire in a cargo of lime, it being considered that the cargo was inevitably doomed to destruction. Crockett v. Dodge, 12 Me. 190, 28 Am. Dec. 170.

35. The Wordsworth, 88 Fed. 313; Heye v. North German Lloyd, 33 Fed. 60 [affirmed in 36 Fed. 705, 2 L. R. A. 287]; Pacific Mail Steamship Co. v. New York, etc., Min. Co., 74 Fed. 564, 20 C. C. A. 349 [reversing upon other grounds 69 Fed. 414] (flooding of stranded vessel to prevent total loss from founding before relief could be obtained); McCall v. Houlder, 66 L. J. Q. B. 408, 76 L. T. Rep. N. S. 469 (holding that a ship, laden with perishable cargo which could not be discharged, having become unnavigable through damage to her propeller, is with her cargo in peril, and damage to the cargo from salt water getting in when the ship is tipped down to be repaired in general average).

But where water gets in through the ordinary perils of the sea, as through holes made in the vessel by ice in the bay, the damage caused thereby is not allowed in general average. Rathbone v. Fowler, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,584, 6 Blatchf. 294 [affirmed in 12 Wall. (U. S.) 102, 20 L. ed. 281].

36. Reliance Mar. Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 77 Fed. 317, 23 C. C. A. 183 [affirming 70 Fed. 262].

Damage to cargo while stored at port of refuge.—There is a dictum by Sprague, J., in The Brig Mary, 1 Spr. 17, that damage to cargo while stored at a port of refuge to permit the vessel to make general average repairs should be made good in general average. Carver Carriage by Sea (5th ed.), § 413*a*, expresses the same view, but concedes that there is little authority for it. The Danish Code (1892), § 189, seems to disallow such damage as not caused proximately by the General Average Act. The American rule of practice also disallows it for the same reason. York Antwerp Rule XII is silent with regard to it.

37. Reliance Mar. Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 77 Fed. 317, 23 C. C. A. 183 [affirming 70 Fed. 262].

of the cargo which is afire, caused by water admitted to extinguish the fire, is held not to be a general average loss.[38]

g. Stranding or Running Ashore. Where a ship and cargo are exposed to a common danger and imminent peril by the involuntary stranding of the vessel, the expense of saving them is a proper subject of contribution in general average [39] by the vessel, cargo, and freight when they have been saved by a continuous series of measures taken for their safety during the continuance of the common peril which created the necessity for the sacrifices or expenditures.[40] But if the stranding is due to negligent navigation, the vessel is not entitled, apart from contract, to contribution in general average from the cargo owners on account of salvage expenses; [41] and if the object of the sacrifice is not attained and the ship is not got off no contribution is due.[42] When a ship is voluntarily run ashore to escape an enemy,[43] or is stranded or run ashore to avoid impending damage of shipwreck,[44]

Where the smoke and steam damage cannot be distinguished, increased damage by smoke caused by attempts to extinguish a fire by turning steam into the hold, is not a proper claim in general average. Reliance Mar. Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 77 Fed. 317, 23 C. C. A. 183 [affirming 70 Fed. 262].

38. Lee v. Grinnell, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 400; Nelson v. Belmont, 5 Duer (N. Y.) 310 [affirmed in 21 N. Y. 36].

39. Bedford Commercial Ins. Co. v. Parker, 2 Pick. (Mass.) 1, 13 Am. Dec. 457; Dilworth v. McKelvy, 30 Mo. 149 (expense for taking care of property, unloading and reloading); McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 347, 18 L. ed. 155; Magdala Steamship Co. v. H. Baars Co., 101 Fed. 303, 41 C. C. A. 377 (expense of tugboats and lighters, unloading and reloading); Pacific Mail Steamship Co. v. New York, etc., Min. Co., 74 Fed. 564, 20 C. C. A. 349 [affirming 69 Fed. 414]; Pacific Mail Steamship Co. v. Dupre, 74 Fed. 250; Steamship Carisbrook Co. v. London, etc., Mar., etc., Ins. Co., [1902] 2 K. B. 681, 9 Aspin. 332, 7 Com. Cas. 235, 71 L. J. K. B. 978, 87 L. T. Rep. N. S. 418, 18 T. L. R. 783, 50 Wkly. Rep. 691. But see Blake v. Morgan, 3 Mart. (La.) 375; Backus v. Coyne, 45 Mich. 584, 8 N. W. 694, holding that cargo lightered off a grounded vessel is not liable to contribute to subsequent expenses in saving vessel and balance of cargo.

40. Bevan v. U. S. Bank, 4 Whart. (Pa.) 301, 33 Am. Dec. 64; McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 347, 18 L. ed. 155; Mitchell v. Patterson, 22 Fed. 49.

Liability of goods discharged, where operations are continuous.— The American rule is that the cargo discharged must contribute to the general average expenses, provided it is constructively in the ship's possession, or remains in the master's control for the purpose of prosecuting the voyage. Nelson v. Belmont, 21 N. Y. 36; Reliance Mar. Ins. Co. v. New York, etc., Mail Steamship Co., 77 Fed. 317, 23 C. C. A. 183 [affirming 70 Fed. 262]; The L'Amerique, 35 Fed. 835.

Where the voyage is abandoned upon stranding at its commencement, and the cargo is sold, it is held that there is no such sacrifice in the face of impending danger as will make the freight a charge in general average. Earnmoor Steamship Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co., 73 Fed. 867 [affirmed in 79 Fed. 368, 24 C. C. A. 644].

Where there is no danger from the position of a vessel stranded upon the bank of a river or harbor, the expense of getting her off is not the subject of general average. The Alcona, 9 Fed. 172.

Where the cargo is removed to lighten the boat and not because of danger no question of general average arises. Louisville Underwriters v. Pence, 93 Ky. 96, 19 S. W. 10, 14 Ky. L. Rep. 21, 40 Am. St. Rep. 176.

Incidental injury to tugs in pulling off a stranded ship under a contract of hiring by the day is not allowed in general average against the various interests in the stranded ship and cargo. Earnmoor Steamship Co. v. New Zealand Ins. Co., 73 Fed. 867 [affirmed in 79 Fed. 368, 24 C. C. A. 644].

41. See supra, X, D, 3.

42. See also supra, X, B, 3; and infra, X, D, 5, h.

Where the ship is totally lost the owners cannot claim a contribution from the owners of the cargo, for the destruction of the masts and rigging, by the master, in order to save the ship and cargo, and the lives of the crew, as general average. Marshall v. Garner, 6 Barb. (N. Y.) 394.

43. See infra, X, D, 5, l.

44. Merithew v. Sampson, 4 Allen (Mass.) 192; Fowler v. Rathbone, 12 Wall. (U. S.) 102, 20 L. ed. 281; The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638; Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 13 L. ed. 417; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 118 Fed. 307 [affirmed in 129 Fed. 1006, 64 C. C. A. 610] (to avoid sinking in deep water); Northwestern Transp. Co. v. Continental Ins. Co., 24 Fed. 171 (repairs rendered necessary by stranding); O'Connor v. The Ocean Star, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,419, Holmes 248.

Where loss probable or inevitable — In general.— In accordance with the rule above stated (see supra, X, D, 4), it is no answer to say that the vessel in all probability would have sunk at her anchors, or would have parted her cables and driven ashore if the cables had not been cut, if the cable was volthe damage suffered on this account is a general average loss. While there is some disagreement as to the effect of the total loss of the ship by reason of such stranding, the better rule would seem to be that if the stranding resulted in saving the cargo, the loss is the proper subject of general average.[45] If goods are exposed in barges or on the beach in order to float a stranded ship and are lost or injured in consequence, the loss is general average.[46]

h. Jettison — (i) GENERAL RULE. If goods are thrown overboard for the purpose of lightening the ship in time of common peril, the loss is to be made good by the contribution of all, because it was incurred for the benefit of all.[47] untarily cut and the vessel run ashore as the best expedient for saving life and property (Reynolds v. Ocean Ins. Co., 22 Pick. (Mass.) 191, 33 Am. Dec. 727; Sturgis v. Cary, 23 Fed. Cas. No. 13,572, 2 Curt. 59), or to say that the loss was inevitable and that she was in a better position on the beach than in the hands of the enemy or at the bottom of the sea or wrecked upon the rocks (Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 13 L. ed. 417; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Fitzpatrick v. Eight Hundred Bales of Cotton, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,843, 3 Ben. 42 [affirmed in 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,319, 8 Blatchf. 221]).

Selection of place to run ashore or strand. — So if from the violence of the winds, a ship must go ashore somewhere, and she chooses a place, where she will be at least as safe as she could be elsewhere, still if she selects her place, and incurs a certain loss thereby for the common benefit, it is general average. Merithew v. Sampson, 4 Allen (Mass.) 192; Sims v. Gurney, 4 Binn. (Pa.) 513; The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638; Barnard v. Adams, 10 How. (U. S.) 270, 13 L. ed. 417; Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 118 Fed. 307 [affirmed in 129 Fed. 1006, 64 C. C. A. 610]; Rea v. Cutler, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,599, 1 Sprague 135 [reversed upon other grounds in 7 How. 729, 12 L. ed. 890]. But see Meech v. Robinson, 4 Whart. (Pa.) 360, 34 Am. Dec. 514, infra, this note.

Place of stranding inevitable.— But on the other hand it is held that where a vessel, being in a position where she is certain to run ashore and be wrecked, is voluntarily headed for the shore and beached by the captain, in order that the lives of the crew and the cargo may be better saved, no case of general average can arise. Meech v. Robinson, 4 Whart. (Pa.) 360, 34 Am. Dec. 514; The Major Wm. H. Tatum, 49 Fed. 252, 1 C. C. A. 236 [affirming 46 Fed. 125]. See also Emery v. Huntington, 109 Mass. 431, 12 Am. Rep. 725.

45. Merithew v. Sampson, 4 Allen (Mass.) 192; Gray v. Waln, 2 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 229, 7 Am. Dec. 642; The Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186 (where the subject is critically examined and the interpretation of the Roman law as expounded in Bradhurst v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 9, upon which a contrary conclusion was based, is disapproved; and the case is likened to the sacrifice of the entire cargo, in which event the ship must contribute); Fitzpatrick v. Eight Hundred Bales of Cotton, 9 Fed. Cas. No. 4,843, 3 Ben. 42 [affirmed in 8 Fed. Cas. No. 4,319, 8 Blatchf. 221]; Mutual Safety Ins. Co. v. The George, 17 Fed. Cas. No. 9,981, Olcott 89, 3 N. Y. Leg. Obs. 260; Patten v. Darling, 18 Fed. Cas. No. 10,812, 1 Cliff. 254. And if the exposure of the vessel be made for the common safety, and be successful in relation to a part of the cargo, it is immaterial, so far as relates to contribution, whether her total loss was produced immediately by the stranding, or consequentially, by placing her in a situation which effected her destruction. Caze v. Reilly, 5 Fed. Cas. No. 2,538, 3 Wash. 298.

Contra.— Bradhurst v. Columbian Ins. Co., 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 9; Eppes v. Tucker, 4 Call (Va.) 346, running ashore to prevent capture.

46. Hennen v. Monro, 4 Mart. N. S. (La.) 449; The Roanoke, 46 Fed. 297 (under the rule that the particular sacrifice need not have been designed if it results from the act designed for the common safety); Roberts v. The Ocean Star, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 11,908.

Damage before lighter reaches port.— Lewis v. Williams, 1 Hall (N. Y.) 430, holding that goods taken from a vessel stranded near her port of destination and placed in lighters, and damaged before the lighters reach port, are subjects of general average.

Separation of interests see infra, X, E, 2.

Unloading and reloading for repairs see infra, X, D, 5, l, (I).

47. Rossiter v. Chester, 1 Dougl. (Mich.) 154; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186; Christie v. Davis Coal, etc., Co., 95 Fed. 837; The Margarethe Blanca, 12 Fed. 728 [affirmed in 14 Fed. 59] (where it is said that the language of the text is the language of the old Rhodian ordinance, and that no subsequent statement has improved upon this concise definition of the general doctrine); Dike v. The St. Joseph, 7 Fed. Cas. No. 3,908, 6 McLean 573; Rogers v. Mechanics' Ins. Co., 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,016, 1 Story 603; Ross v. The Active, 20 Fed. Cas. No. 12,071, 2 Wash. 226 (thrown over in storm); Wright v. Marwood, 7 Q. B. D. 62, 4 Aspin. 451, 50 L. J. Q. B. 643, 45 L. T. Rep. N. S. 297, 29 Wkly. Rep. 673; Price v. Noble, 4 Taunt. 123, 13 Rev. Rep. 566.

Particular danger to part sacrificed or loss of value before sacrifice see supra, X, D, 4.

The same principle applies to the jettison

The rule of general average in the Rhodian law applied especially to such instances,[48] and controversies respecting the allowance or adjustment of general average arose more frequently in the earlier cases where the sacrifice consisted of a jettison of a portion of the cargo than in respect of any other kind of disaster in navigation.[49] Under the rule governing general average sacrifices,[50] the goods must have been thrown overboard voluntarily,[51] in the face of a peril which reasonably called for the sacrifice [52] and for the common safety of the adventure.[53] If there be no imminent danger or necessity for the sacrifice, as if the jettison is made in a tranquil sea merely to lighten a ship too heavily laden, by the fault of the master, no contribution is due; [54] and if the object of the sacrifice is not attained, as if there be a jettison to prevent shipwreck, or to get the ship off the strand, and in either case, the object is not attained, no contribution is due.[55] It is not necessary, however, that the goods shall have been thrown over with the intention of abandoning them. A case may arise requiring contribution where cargo is put off the ship but not in the sea, as where it is placed on a raft or lighter or on the beach for the general safety, and is lost by the extraordinary exposure.[56] of the ship's stores. Price v. Noble, 4 Taunt. 123, 13 Rev. Rep. 566.

48. Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186.

Not confined to jettison.—Although the Rhodian law did not in terms make provision for any case of general average except for that of jettison of goods as a means of lightening the vessel, the rule as there laid down has never been understood to be confined to that particular case, but has always been regarded as a general regulation applicable in all cases falling within the principle on which it is founded. Ralli v. Troop, 157 U. S. 386, 15 S. Ct. 657, 39 L. ed. 742; McAndrews v. Thatcher, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 347, 18 L. ed. 155; Columbian Ins. Co. v. Ashby, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 331, 10 L. ed. 186.

49. Star of Hope, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 203, 19 L. ed. 638; Birkley v. Presgrave, 1 East 220, 6 Rev. Rep. 256, 102 Eng. Reprint 86.

50. See supra, II, B,

51. See the cases cited infra, this note.

Goods washed overboard are not ordinarily a general average loss. Irving v. Glazier, 4 N. C. 406. But if goods are brought on deck in order to get at others for the purpose of a jactus and are washed overboard, the loss is general average. The Roanoke, 46 Fed. 297.

